vi) Lacerated wound 6.5 cm. x 1.00 cm. x scalp deep ..... Parallel to the scalp on top and back of the head"

11. On internal examination, clotted blood was seen beneath the scalp on the head. Fracture of right Occipital, right Parietal and right temporal bones was seen. Membrance of brain were ruptured. Clotted blood was present on both sides in the brain. There were fractures in the base of brain on posterior fossa and middle fossa on the right side. The cause of death was opined as shock, hemorrhage and coma due to head injuries.

12. As per the doctor, the proximate time of death could be same as the time indicated in the report as on 23.6.1987 at about 9:30 PM. All the injuries were sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of the business. With regard to the injury no. 1 namely the incised wound, suggestion was given to PW-8 that the said injury could have been caused if a leaf was attached to the Lathi (wooden stick) to which he replied that it could be possible. PW-6, however, opined that all injuries could be caused by 'Lathi-Danda' and proved the postmortem report being in his handwriting and signature as Exhibit Ka-7.

13. The formal witnesses, thus, proved the reports prepared by them which are relied by the prosecution to support its case of commission of the offence by the accused persons.

14. Amongst the witnesses of fact, the first informant was examined as PW-4 who stated on oath that the deceased was his real brother. The incident occurred at about 9:00 PM and on hearing the cries of his brother Soma, he went to the spot and saw that all eight accused persons were beating him. All the accused persons were carrying Lathi and a leaf was attached in the Lathi of accused Chander. The accused persons also caused injuries to all injured and in defence he (PW-4) also wielded Lathi. All the injured were taken to the District Hospital by him (PW-4) and deceased Soma died on the way to the hospital. The report was dictated by him to one Hariram in the hospital and after dictation it was read over to him and he sent the report to the police station Laksar through two persons namely Sakesh and Hariram.

In cross, it is stated by PW-4 that his house was a distance of 8-10 paces from the house of Soma and in between 2-3 houses existed which include the house of Subhash and Rati Ram. He heard the cries of people "Bachao-Bachao' and a lot of noise was there but he did not have an idea that his brother was being beaten. PW-4 denied the suggestion that when he came out of the house there was a lot of crowd collected outside the house of his brother. He further clarified that there were eight accused persons, injured and children of the house and no one else. He then stated that he went empty hands and Subhash met him on the spot but Rati Ram was not there, whose houses were in between. The incident of "Maarpeet' happened for about 1½ minute and the accused persons were having Lathis till the end and they wielded them. On a suggestion, PW-4 denied that he did not know as to whether the accused also sustained injuries as he was busy in saving all on his side. On further confrontation of PW-4, he stated that he did not notice whether there was blood on the spot. He stated that apart from her mother, no other ladies or children of the house came in between. He further stated that he reached at his house about ½ hours before the incident and as soon as he finished his food, he heard the noise. He did not know anything about the incident prior to the time when he heard the cries and only this much was known to him that a Panchayat was to be held and he was supposed to go there and for that reason he was having his food. On confrontation, PW-4 denied that it was wrong that no incident occurred in front of the house of deceased Soma and that he was making stories to save himself from the cross-case and a false case was lodged by him.

15. PW-3 Mehar Chand is an injured witness who stated on oath that on the fateful day at about 9:00 PM, a Panchayat was held in which he alongwith the injured and other villagers, was present. The place was lit up by the electricity light. One Mangu called accused Chander. Chander came. Mangu confronted him that "you were told by the Panchayat not to open the door on the Panchayati land towards the Well, why did you do so". Chander replied with anger challenging that whoever had guts could come forward to close the door. He then exhorted his brothers that they should be taught a lesson as they were being considered weak. Chander and his brothers Dharm Pal, Mohar Singh, Ram Pal, Sewa, Om Pal, Jagpal and Palla came out with Lathis. Chander wielded Lathi on Mangu, Soma caught his Lathi and then all other accused persons wielded Lathis on deceased Soma. When he, Jhandu and Pallu tried to intervene, the accused persons also beaten them. PW-3 stated that the bone of his hand got broken. Shanti, the mother of deceased Soma intervened so she was also beaten. The people sitting in the Panchayat then intervened. As Soma got injured, he was taken to his house. The eight accused persons then went to the house of the Soma and did Maarpeet there also. Omi (the first informant), i.e. the brother of the deceased came there and he also wielded Lathi in defence. The accused persons then ran away to their house. After 10-15 minutes, the first informant Omi took them to the hospital in a Buggy and Soma had died on the way. PW-3 stated that his injuries were examined by the doctor and he remained admitted for about 40 days in the hospital.

The topography of the place of the incident had been narrated by PW-3 in his cross-examination and it was stated that his house was located at a distance of 80 paces from the Panchayati Well. He further stated that injured Smt. Shanti was her Aunt and his house and that of Smt. Shanti were adjacent. He further stated that there was a hut, earlier, at the place where the accused Chander had built his house. He denied the suggestion that the opening of the hut was in front of the Well and stated that it was towards the hill. He further stated that they had complaint that Chander had constructed his house beyond the drain over the Panchayati Well and that the construction was going on for about 8 days prior to the incident. On confrontation, PW-3 stated that he did not make any complaint to the Gram Pradhan, the villagers made a complaint but the said complaint was not made in his presence. He then admitted that the dispute started as soon as the construction was started. Neither the Gram Pradhan nor any member of the Gram Samaj came on the spot at the time of the incident and confronted Chander. There were Abadi all around the Panchayati Well. PW-3 further stated that another witness PW-2, Singhara came from that Abadi which was located after the rasta, near the place of the incident. He then stated that the dispute was mainly because of the opening of the door and that no one had an idea that the door would be opened towards the Panchayati Well.

On a query made by the Court, PW-3 clarified that the dispute was about construction of the house by encroachment of the land of Panchayati Well and not only about the opening of the door and stated that the door was opened in order to encroach upon the entire public land (Panchayat land).

On confrontation by the counsel, PW-3 further stated that about 30-35 people were collected in the Panchayat. The villagers had decided in the morning that the Panchayat would be held at about 9:00 AM when they collected in the morning at the Panchayati Well and in the evening all of them came on their own at about 9:00 PM. In the morning, only 10-20 people were collected to decide the time of holding of the Panchayat and Chander was not confronted at that time. In the morning, they decided that they would talk to Chander only in the evening. When at about 9:00 PM, people were collected, it was decided to also call Chander on the spot. Chander came only after he was called and when he came out, he was confronted as to why he had opened the door on the Well and did not listen to the Panchayat. Apart from the said confrontation, no other talk with Chander was made and on the said confrontation, Chander exhorted his brothers to show their strength. His brother came with Lathis and Chander also brought Lathi from his house. All of them were empty hands as they did not have any fear that they would be beaten by the accused. Chander and his brothers did not wield Lathis upon the people sitting in the Panchayat immediately after coming out. They first wielded Lathi on Mangu and when Soma caught the Lathi, brothers of Chander started beating Soma.

In cross, PW-3 further stated that the Investigating Officer interrogated him after about one month of the incident. On further confrontation, he stated that the Lathi which was caught by Soma hit in his head. PW-3 had denied the suggestion that the accused wielded Lathis on all the people sitting in the Panchayat and stated that the people in the Panchayat were disbursed when 'Maarpeet' was going on. They were present on the spot but no one came in between. No one in the Panchayat tried to snatch Lathis from the accused persons and then stated that who would have entered in between the Lathis. When the accused persons were wielding Lathi, Shanti came and no other person came with her. It was reiterated by PW-3 that all on the complainant side were empty hands and no one did any 'Maarpeet'. When they reached at their houses, the accused persons also reached from behind, they again did 'Maarpeet' and Soma was heavily beaten in his house and no person from Panchayat came to their house; only Omi PW-4 came and he was empty hands and he took Lathi from the house of Subhash.

On confrontation PW-3 stated that PW-4 Omi did not disclose the fact of wielding Lathi by him to the Investigating Officer and that he only challenged the accused persons. The suggestion that PW-3 was making a false statement in order to save himself from the cross-case was categorically denied by him.

16. PW-1 and PW-2 are the eye-witnesses of the incident whose names have been mentioned in the first information report as the persons who intervened and defended the complainant side. PW-1 Manga son of Nandu stated on oath that the accused persons were residents of the same village and belong to his community and all the accused belong to one family. Pedigree of the accused persons has then been narrated by PW-1. He further stated that a Panchayati Well (Public Well) existed in between Harijan Abadi and an electric pole was fixed near the Well. The house of PW-2 Singhara was adjacent to the rasta which goes from the public Well towards the hill on the Southern side. The place was lit up by the electricity light and on the Southern side of the Well, house of Ramesh existed. On the Western side of the Well, there existed a drain which was covered by accused Chander to open the door of his house. Earlier there was a hut belonging to Chander, the door of which was opening towards the hill. The accused Chander had changed the direction of the door and opened it towards the Well. The villagers objected to it and instructed Chander not to change the direction of the door of his house. Prior to the incident, the accused Chander though agreed to the objections raised by the villagers and promised to keep the door at the same place but he did not accede to the same and the direction of door was changed to the side of the Well.

17. On the day of the incident, in the morning, it was decided that a Panchayat would be held in the evening to ask Chander as to why he had opened the door of his house towards the Well. At about 9:00 PM, villagers were collected at the Well for the Panchayat. An electricity bulb was lit up. In the said Panchayat, all the injured persons namely Mangu, Hariya, Mahaveer including PW-1 and other villagers were present. Amongst Panchayat people, Mangu called the accused Chander and asked him as to why he had opened the door towards the Well. Getting angered by it, the accused Chander first challenged the Panchayat people and then exhorted his brothers to teach them a lesson. Hearing that brothers of the accused Chander namely other seven accused persons herein came out with their Lathis and Chander started wielding Lathi at Mangu which was caught by Soma and then all the accused persons started beating the deceased Soma. The injured were also beaten by the accused persons when they tried to intervene. The mother of the deceased Soma namely Shanti was also beaten by the accused persons when she intervened. There was blood at the place of the incident. The injured went to their house, thereafter, and the accused persons also reached at the house of Soma and they also behind them. The accused again beaten the deceased Soma in front of his house and in the meantime, the first informant Omi, the brother of the deceased came. He challenged and then the accused persons ran away. Omi took all the injured to the District Hospital Laksar and Soma had died on the way.

18. It was admitted, in cross, by PW-1 that a cross-case was lodged against the complainant side namely the injured, first informant and other persons of 'Maarpeet' of Sewa Ram and Mohar Singh (two injured on the side of the accused). All the persons on the complainant side who are implicated in the cross-case belonged to an extended family except Singhara (PW-2), being related to each other. A suggestion was given to PW-1 that a relative of deceased Soma named as Jaipal who was posted as Munsif Magistrate in District Muzaffarnagar was instrumental in the lodging the case. In reply, PW-1 stated that he was not aware that Jaipal came in the Pairvi of the case. The suggestion that Panchayati Well was filled about 50 years back was denied by PW-1 and it was stated that it was filled only about 1 or 1-1/2 years ago. It was admitted that there was no tap near the Well and the suggestion that there was no drain near the Well for drainage of water was categorically denied.

19. It was admitted by PW-1 that he had no concern with Gram Sabha and was only a resident of the village. Other accused persons were also not members of the Gram Sabha and not even Mangu. He, however, stated that they made a complaint before the Gram Pradhan. PW-1, however, could not recollect as to whether the Gram Pradhan or the members of the Gram Sabha came at the spot of the incident on the fateful day. PW-1, on confrontation, stated that the door towards the Well was opened by accused Chander on the same day and about one year prior to the incident, he started filling the Well and drain was also closed. About one week prior to the incident, he was instructed not to change the direction of the door for the reason that he had already covered the drain. It was further stated by PW-1 that since there were taps in the village, no one had objected to the act of the accused Chander in filling the Well. He then stated that no body takes interest in the matter of Panchayat and when the accused Chander filled the Well and covered the drain, they did not have any idea that he would also encroach upon the Panchayat land. PW-1 further stated that his statement was recorded by the Investigating Officer. When confronted, he replied that he did not know as to why his correct statement was not recorded. While stating that the villagers were collected in the Panchayat and they were all sitting near the Well, PW-1 stated that all of them were empty hands as they did not have any apprehension of fight. Chander also came empty hands initially, being angered, he went to his house and brought Lathi. Before they could understand anything, he wielded Lathi on the complainant side and all other accused persons also joined him. The Panchayat people had disbursed and no one intervened. PW-1 stated that the house of injured Shanti must be about 70-80 paces from the place of the incident and the suggestion that it was about 200 paces was categorically denied. He then stated that no one stopped Shanti from intervening and the accused persons were not shouting when they went towards the house of Soma. All injured went away quietly after sustaining injuries and they were not shouting 'Bachao-Bachao'. The deceased Soma went to his house on his own and the accused persons also went behind him. A suggestion that PW-1 belonged to the extended family of deceased Soma was categorically denied by him. The suggestion was given about political rivalry of the accused Chander with other persons including PW-2 Singhara. PW-1, however, denied that accused Chander had won the elections. The suggestions that he did not witness the incident and that he belonged to the family of the deceased were categorically denied by PW-1.

20. PW-2, Singhara, another witness mentioned in the FIR, is a villager whose version is almost the same as narrated by PW-1, PW-3 and PW-4 about the manner and the reason for the occurrence. On confrontation, PW-2 denied that he had also encroached upon the Gram Sabha land and on an application given by Chander, his possession was removed. On the suggestion of political rivalry with the accused Chander, he stated that the said election was held much earlier and it was denied that the injured were on his side in the said election. It was admitted by PW-2 that he was an accused in the cross-case. The statements given by the prosecution witnesses (PW-1, PW-3 and PW-4) that the accused Chander had started filling the Well and that he had earlier agreed not to open the door towards the Well, had been reiterated by PW-2. It was stated by him that all on the complainant side were empty hands. PW-2 was confronted with his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and reiterated that the injured went to their house after sustaining injuries and the accused persons also followed them; 'Maarpeet' had occurred in front of the house of deceased Soma for about 1½ minutes. PW-4 Omi, wielded Lathi on the accused persons. PW-2 admitted the fact that Omi (PW-4) also wielded Lathi was not told to the Investigating Officer and then he stated that the Officer might not have asked him. The suggestion that the injured themselves went to the house of the accused Chander carrying Lathi at about 9:00 PM, on the fateful day, and confronted with accused Chander and Mohar Singh and then started wielded Lathi on them and Sewa Ram who came in between was also beaten by Lathis was denied by PW-2. It was denied that Sewa Ram and Mohar Singh (injured on the accused side) wielded Lathis in their defence. It was also denied that in order to get away from the cross case, a false story was concocted by the witnesses.

21. Placing the above noted oral and documentary evidence on record, learned counsel for the appellants argued that it has come in the evidence of the prosecution witnesses that both sides wielded Lathis though it is sought to be projected that the victim side acted in self-defence. Two accused persons namely Mehar Chand and Sewa Ram had sustained injuries and their injuries were examined by PW-6, the doctor, who had also examined the injured on the complainant side. It is, thus, proved that two persons on the accused side had sustained injuries in the same occurrence. In the said scenario, non-explanation of the injuries of the accused side will be fatal to the prosecution case. The prosecution witnesses who had denied the presence of the injuries on the person of the accused are proved to be liar on the most material point and their evidence is liable to be rejected as untrustworthy. The omission on the part of the prosecution to explain the injuries on the person of the accused assumes greater importance as the prosecution evidence consisted of interested, inimical and partisan witnesses. The defence version which explains the injuries on the person of the accused, therefore, is to be rendered probable throwing serious doubt on the prosecution case.

It is further contended that the prosecution has suppressed the genesis of the incident. In the first information report, PW-4, the first informant very conveniently suppressed the first place of the incident and the story narrated by him in the FIR as well as his version in the Court was only with respect to the place of the incident being in front of the house of the deceased. Whereas, all other witnesses stated that the incident had started from near the public Well and after deceased Soma got injured by the accused and went to his house, the accused persons reached there and beaten him again.

22. The act of PW-4 Omi in suppressing the first part of the incident as proved by other prosecution witnesses casts a serious doubt on the prosecution story. The defence version that the complainant side came to the house of accused Chander and wielded Lathis on him and two accused-appellants namely Mehar Chand and Sewa Ram got injured when they tried to save accused Chander is more probable and liable to be believed. At least, it is proved that the genesis of the incident has been suppressed by the complainant side. The prosecution witnesses, therefore, cannot be said to be truthful when they have given reason for the occurrence which is that the accused Chander attacked Mangu and deceased Soma was beaten while he was saving Mangu and other injured were beaten when they came to save the deceased Soma. It is proved form the statement of the prosecution witnesses itself that no Gram Sabha member or the Gram Pradhan was present. The assertion by the prosecution witnesses that a Panchayat was called is an utter lie. Six persons were injured on the complainant side whereas only one Mehar Chand had entered in the witness-box and no other witness came to depose in the Court. This shows that the prosecution version about the genesis of the incident is false. There is no recovery from the place of the second incident, i.e. in front of the house of the deceased Soma whereas three Lathis were recovered from Chander, Mohar singh, Ram Pal and Sewa Ram.

23. With the above contentions, it is vehemently submitted by the learned counsel for the appellants that in view of the cross-case lodged by the accused side giving their version of the incident, it is proved in the present case that the prosecution had suppressed the genesis of the incident. The trial court had, thus, committed grave error in convicting the accused persons for the offence of murder under Section 302 readwith Section 149 IPC. The decision of the trial court is liable to be set aside and the appeal deserves to be allowed.

24. Learned AGA, in rebuttal, argued that it is not one of those cases where non-explanation of the injuries of the accused side will create any dent in the prosecution story. It is argued that a perusal of the injury reports of two accused namely Sewa Ram and Mohar Singh, as proved by the doctor PW-6 indicates that their injuries were simple in nature and even the doctor says that such injuries could be self inflicted. The prosecution by cogent, independent and disinterested witnesses proved the entire incident since its inception till the end. Non-explanation of the injuries in view of the nature of injuries and the evidence of the prosecution witnesses will not affect the prosecution case. The consistent and creditworthy evidence of the prosecution witnesses will not in any way be affected on account of the alleged omission on the part of the prosecution to explain the injuries.

Reliance is placed on the decision of the Apex court in State of Gujarat vs. Bai Fatima1 as referred in paragraph "11' of the decision in Lakshmi Singh and others etc. vs. State of Bihar2.

25. Having considered the submissions of the learned counsels for the parties and perused the record, while analysing the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, we would first like to deal with the arguments of the learned counsel for the appellants that the prosecution had not correctly described the place of the incident and, thus, suppressed the genesis of the incident.

26. To deal with the said argument, we may record that the first information report of the incident was lodged by the brother of deceased Soma, who was examined as PW-4. In the evidence of PW-4 Omi, it has come that his house was at a distance of 8-10 paces from the house of deceased Soma. It was categorically stated by PW-4 that on the fateful day at about 9:00 PM, he was in his house having dinner and he went to the house of his brother Soma on hearing cries of Soma, he then saw that the accused persons (eight in number) were beating him. They all were carrying Lathi and his mother and others were injured. In defence, PW-4 also wielded Lathi. This version of PW-4 in his examination-in-chief is corroborated from his first version in the written report where he narrated the incident occurred in front of the house of deceased Soma. When confronted PW-4 categorically stated that at the time of the incident, he was present in his house and as he could barely finish his food when he heard the noise and before that he only knew that a Panchayat would be held. He was about to go and that is why he was having his food. From the version of PW-4 in the written report lodged by him as also in his deposition before the Court, it is evident that he had only seen one incident which occurred in front of the house of Soma wherein Soma got injured and other witnesses including mother of deceased namely Shanti Devi also suffered injuries. In view of the categorical statement of PW-4 that he was having his food as he was about to go to the Panchayat which was to be held on that day, it is established that he was not present at the first place of the incident, i.e. near the Panchayati Well. Other witnesses who had seen the occurrence near the Panchayati Well did not mention the presence of Omi at the said place. Non-mentioning of the occurrence of the incident from the beginning by PW-4 in the first information report, therefore, is of no consequence. The version of PW-4 in his deposition before the Court cannot be said to be in contradiction to the testimony of other witnesses or in suppression of the correct facts, inasmuch as, PW-4 categorically proved that he was the witness of only the second part of the incident which occurred in front of the house of deceased Soma. Moreover, FIR is not an encyclopedia. [Reference Subhash Kumar vs. State of Uttarakhand3]

The observations in para '12' of the said judgment are relevant to be noted hereunder:-.

"12. FIR as is well known is not to be treated to be as an encyclopedia. Although the effect of a statement made in the FIR at the earliest point of time should be given primacy, it would not probably be proper to accept that all the particulars in regard to commission of offence must be furnished in detail."

27. As regards the first place of the incident, the Panchayati Well in front of the house of accused Chander, from the version of the defence itself, it is admitted fact that an incident of 'Maarpeet' had occurred near the Panchayati Well which was near the house of accused Chander. The first place of the incident, thus, is not disputed by both sides. The dispute is as to who was the aggressor, i.e. whether the accused persons wielded Lathi in their defence. In this regard, a perusal of the site plan indicates that the place "A" therein has been shown as the house of Chander on account of which the dispute arose; place "C" as Panchayati Well. The place shown by "X" is the place from where the blood stained earth was collected by the Investigating Officer. The recovery memo Exhibit-15 was proved by PW-7, the Investigating Officer and the blood stained and plain earth collected by him as material Exhibits '2' and '3'. The fact that the incident had occurred at place "X" is also proved from the statement of the prosecution witnesses namely PW-1 and PW-2 and the injured witness PW-3. Though there is a suggestion of enmity of PW-2 Singhara with the accused Chander but there is no such suggestion against PW-1 Manga son of Nandu who is an independent witness. It is proved by PW-1 that the genesis of incident was the construction raised by the accused Chander. The prosecution witnesses are consistent about the fact that accused Chander had opened the door of his house towards the Well whereas initially the door was on the other side.

It has also come in the evidence of the prosecution witnesses that while opening the door, accused Chander had covered the drain of the Panchayati Well. It is admitted by the witnesses that public Well was not in use as a source of water in the village, however, the villagers had an apprehension that Chander would encroach upon the public land adjacent to the Well by opening the door of his house facing the Well. It is also proved that they confronted accused Chander in that regard and despite assurance given to the villagers, accused Chander opened the door of his house in front of the Well on the date of the incident. As the construction was going on, the villagers decided to hold a meeting to confront him together. The said meeting was convened besides the Well which was close to the house of Chander.

28. At about 9:00 PM, when villagers were collected near the Well, one of them namely Mangu called Chander from his house and confronted as to why he did not accede to the request not to change the side of the door of his house. Upon being confronted by Mangu in the presence of other villagers, accused Chander got angry and exhorted his brothers to teach a lesson to all of them. All eight accused belonging to one family came with their Lathis and accused Chander started beating Mangu who had confronted him. The deceased Soma intervened and caught hold of the Lathi of accused Chander, other accused persons then wielded Lathis on him.

29. It is also proved by the prosecution witnesses that on sustaining injuries, Soma went towards his house and the accused persons followed him. The second incident of 'Marpeet' in consequence of the first occurrence near the Well, had occurred in front of the house of Soma and at that point of time, the first informant Omi brother of the deceased came from his house. It is admitted by PW-4, the first informant at the very first instance, i.e. in the first information report that they also wielded Lathi in defence. In the examination-in-chief, PW-4 reiterated that he wielded Lathi in defence though he had denied, in cross, that he did not know as to whether the accused persons sustained injuries or not as he was busy in saving the injured. This version of the PW-4 cannot be said to be a denial of the injuries sustained by two accused persons namely Sewa Ram and Mohar Singh. Rather the version of PW-4 in narrating that he also wielded Lathi in defence while the accused persons were causing injuries to his mother and brother is a truthful explanation of the simple injuries caused on the person of the accused namely Sewa Ram and Mohar Singh. Neither there is any inconsistency in the version of prosecution witnesses nor they are at variance about the manner in which the assault had taken place.

30. The contention of the learned counsel for the appellants that since the prosecution had denied the injuries on the person of the accused, it necessarily lead to an inference that the witnesses were lying and the prosecution had suppressed the genesis and the origin of the occurrence and had not presented the true version, therefore, is liable to be rejected.

31. It is, thus, proved that the place of the incident shown as "X" in the site plan near the Well was the first place where accused Chander was confronted and deceased Soma was beaten and the place shown as "H", in front of the house of the deceased Soma is the place of the second incident in sequence where the accused persons again beaten him. Both the incidents were in continuation as is proved from the ocular version of the prosecution witnesses. With the collection of blood stained earth from place "X", it is proved that the place of the inception of the dispute was place "X". Only variance which could be pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellants in the version of three prosecution witnesses namely PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 and the first informant namely PW-4 is about the place where other injured sustained injuries. It is not clear as to whether they got injured at place "X" (near the Well) or place "H" (near the house of deceased Soma). The statements of the prosecution witnesses PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 is that other injured sustained injuries at the first place where dispute had commenced whereas the statement of PW-4 is that they were attacked in front of the house of the deceased Soma. In the opinion of the Court, that fact itself is not such which has to be given undue weightage so as to discard the consistent admissible evidence of the prosecution witnesses that all six injured including one deceased got injuries in the same occurrence, whether it was at place "X" or place "H".

32. It is proved that all six injured on the prosecution side were taken to PHC Laksar and they were examined on 23.6.1987 (on the date of the incident) between 10:15 to 11:00 PM. Their injury reports were proved by PW-6 and the injuries sustained by them were of hard and blunt object as is evident from the injury reports. Lacerated wound and swelling on forehead and cheek of injured Shanti; lacerated wound on right and left legs and thighs of injured Jhandu; lacerated wound on legs, toes, foot on the person of the injured Paalu and traumatic swelling on upper arm of injured Chand; traumatic swelling with abrasion on the cheek and right clavicle on the person of the injured Subhash, all injured on the prosecution side proved that they were attacked and beaten by Lathis, weapons assigned in the hands of eight accused persons.

33. The first information report is a prompt report of the occurrence, lodged within 1-1/2 hours of the incident. The police also reached the spot and the site plan was prepared on the very next day, i.e. 24.6.1987. All injuries on the person of the deceased were also proved to have been caused by Lathi. In the statement of PW-8, the postmortem doctor, it has come that there was traumatic swelling at the back of head of the deceased and on internal examination, right occipital, right parietal, right temporal bone and left parietal and left temporal bone were all broken. It is proved by the doctor that the death was caused due to head injuries.

34. Whereas injuries on the accused (defence) side as proved by PW-6 (doctor) from the injury reports as Exhibit Kha-1 and Kha-2 were minor in nature. Four injuries on the person of accused Mohar Singh were one superficial lacerated wound and three contusions on right hand and abdomen which as opined by the doctor were simple injuries caused by a blunt object like Lathi. Whereas on the person of accused Sewa Ram, one lacerated wound of 3.5cm x 0.5cm bone deep on the right side of head 13cm above right ear was found which was also termed as simple injury by the doctor namely PW-6 and that the said injury could have been caused by a blunt object like Lathi. In comparison to the injuries of the complainant (prosecution) side, amongst whom the injuries on the person of Shanti were on vital parts with that of the injuries of the accused (defence) side, it is difficult to accept that six persons on the complainant side had suffered injuries as the accused persons wielded Lathis in their defence. The gravity of the injuries on the person of the deceased Soma, his mother Shanti and other four injured persons on the complainant (prosecution) side makes the defence story improbable. The version of PW-4 that he wielded Lathi in defence is acceptable being more probable and trustworthy.

35. In their version under Section 313 Cr.P.C., the accused Chander, Sewa, Mohar Singh simply stated that the Panchayati Well was filled (closed) for a long time and there was no drain. The complainant side came to the house of Chander and started abusing him as to why he constructed his house at the land of Panchayat and started beating them. Mohar Singh and Sewa Ram had suffered injuries and the accused also defended them. Apart from this version in Section 313 Cr.P.C., no positive evidence has been brought by the accused persons to prove that the prosecution witnesses on the complainant side were the aggressor of the crime, i.e. 'Marpeet' was started by them and the accused persons wielded Lathi only in defence. Apart from three accused persons namely Chander, Mohar Singh and Sewa Ram, rest of the five accused namely Om Pal, Jagpal, Ram Pal, Paala and Dharm Pal pleaded alibi. But no positive evidence to prove the plea of alibi had been produced by them. It may be noted, at this juncture, that only two appellants namely appellant no. 2 Dharm Pal and appellant no. 6 Jagpal are before us and all other appellants had died. In absence of any positive evidence having been lead by appellant no. 2 Dharm Pal and appellant no. 6 Jagpal to support their plea of alibi, in light of the consistent and creditworthy evidence of the prosecution, the explanation offered by appellant nos. 2 and 6 Dharm Pal and Jagpal, respectively; in their explanation under Section 313 Cr.P.C., is liable to be thrown.

36. In light of the above discussion, it is held that the prosecution has explained the injuries of the defence with the version of PW-4 that he wielded Lathi in defence while his mother and brother were beaten by Lathis by eight accused persons in front of the house of Soma. It is also proved that the dispute started with the confrontation of the accused Chander by the villagers, who were collected near the Well, over the construction raised by Chander. It is also proved that accused Chander started beating one villager Mangu who called Chander to confront him and deceased Soma was beaten when he caught hold of Lathi of Chander.

The accused persons wielded Lathi on deceased Soma in such a manner that he suffered grievous injuries on his vital part (head). Five other persons were also injured in the same transaction when they intervened. The injuries of Shanti mother of deceased Soma and on the person of all other injured could be attributed to the weapon Lathis which were recovered from the accused persons.

37. There is nothing on record to accept the defence version that they wielded Lathi in defence rather comparison of injuries of the prosecution side with that of the defence side proved that the injuries on the person of the accused were caused when PW-4 Omi wielded Lathi in defence. One of the injured Mehar Chand had entered in the witness-box to prove the genesis of the dispute and the nature of the occurrence. It is proved by PW-3 that only the first informant Omi who came from his house in front of the house of the deceased had challenged the accused persons by wielding Lathi. All other on the complainant side were empty hands as is proved by the prosecution witnesses as they were collected near the Well to talk to Chander.

38. In view of the above discussion, the contention of the learned counsel for the appellants that the prosecution had suppressed the genesis and the origin of the occurrence and had, thus, not presented the true version is liable to be rejected. Further submission is that the prosecution had failed to explain the injuries on the person of the accused and, therefore, the defence version is to be rendered probable so as to throw away the prosecution case, is without any substance.

39. In the totality of the facts and circumstances of the present case, we do not find any error in the judgment of the trial court in conviction of the accused-appellants namely appellant no. 2 Dharm Pal and the appellant no. 6 Jagpal whose presence on the spot was proved by all eye-witnesses of the prosecution in a consistent manner. The sentence awarded to the appellant nos. 2 and 6 under Section 302 is with the aid of Section 149 IPC. It is proved by the prosecution that the appellants herein were members of the unlawful assembly and they had committed the offence of murder in prosecution of the common object of that assembly.

39. For the offence under Section 323 IPC for causing injuries to five injured persons with the aid of Section 149 IPC, we do not find any error in the judgment of the trial court, inasmuch as, the injuries on the person of the injured were proved by the doctor, who prepared the injury reports and also by the injured Witness PW-3 in his oral testimony.

40. As regards the punishment under Section 147 IPC, once the accused persons namely appellant nos. 2 and 6 have been found guilty of rioting, their conviction under Section 147 IPC cannot be said to suffer from any error of law. The sentence awarded to the appellants herein for the offences under Sections 147 and 323 is appropriate in view of the gravity of the offence. The sentence awarded under Section 302 IPC is minimum.

41. For the above discussion, no interference is required in the judgment and order dated 14.12.1989 passed by the IVth Additional District & Sessions Judge, Saharanpur in Sessions Trial No. 597 of 1987 (State vs. Chandra), under Section 147, 148, 302/149 and 323/149 IPC, Police Station Laksar, District Saharanpur which is hereby affirmed.

The appeal is dismissed, accordingly.

Both the appellants Dharm Pal and Jagpal are in jail.

The office is directed to transmit back the lower court record along with a certified copy of this judgment for information and necessary compliance.

Necessary steps shall be taken by the Court below to notify this judgment to all concerned.

The compliance report be furnished to this Court through the Registrar General, High Court, Allahabad.

Factual Matrix

3. The prosecution case as emerged from the written information given by the first informant, Kashiram on 22.11.1979 in the Police Station- Saujna, District Lalitpur, the evidence on record both documentary and oral to state briefly as follows:-

The first informant Kashiram alongwith his real brother Ramphal both S/o Motilal R/o Village Agodi, Police Station Saujna, District Lalitpur went to their agricultural field of 'jowar' to take care and protection of the crops. The first informant (Kashiram) handed over his licensed gun no.1516 of 12 bore with 25 cartridges to his brother "Ramphal' and went himself into the field to cut grass. After cutting the grass at about 5:00 p.m. in the evening, when the day light was still existing, the first informant lift the +bundle of grass and moved on the way to his house with his brother "Ramphal' ahead of him. About ten paces away from their field on the way to their home, when they reached near the agricultural field of Baldu Lodhi, the accused persons Karan Singh S/o Majboot Singh Thakur armed with axe (kulhari), Amaan Singh S/o Majboot Singh Thakur armed with sickle (hasiya), Kishora S/o Kamatua Nai armed with axe (Kulhari), Hallu S/o Kamatua Nai armed with axe, all residents of Agodi Police Station Saujana, District Lalitpur with brother-in-law of Kishora namely "Bhaiyan Nai' R/o Village Rangaon, Police Station Mandwara, District Lalitpur, came out from the crops of 'jowar' in aforesaid field of Baldu Lodhi. They caught hold the informant's brother Ramphal and tossed him on the earth. They inflicted blows of axe (Kulhari) and sickle (Hasiya) on him. Informant's brother Ramphal began to scream and the informant was also raising alarm for help, upon which Pooran, Pragi, Jagan, Sunnu, all residents of Village Agodi rushed to the spot, but after killing Ramphal, all the five assailants fled from the spot snatching the licensed gun, cartridges and the wrist watch from the hands of the deceased. When the witnesses began to gather near the spot of the incident, Kishora Nai made a fire from the licensed gun of the informant. The dead body of Ramphal (deceased), the informant's brother was lying in the agricultural field of Baldu Lodhi and some of the villagers stayed near the dead body.

This written information dated 22.11.1979 was given by the informant in the police station Saujana at about 8:00 a.m. The first information report was lodged accordingly, on the basis of written information under Section 396 I.P.C. The distance of the spot of the incident from the Police Station Saujana is shown as about 13 k.m. in the F.I.R. towards south west from the police station.

After registering the F.I.R., police reached at the spot of the incident and started the proceeding of inquest, prepared site map on the orientation of witnesses, collected the blood stained soil and plain earth soil from the spot of the incident, prepared memo thereof and sent the body for post-mortem. After getting the post mortem report, charge sheet was submitted before the court.

4. All the five accused in above two sessions trial were charged with the offence under Section 147 I.P.C. for having formed an unlawful assembly alongwith another associate namely Karan Singh on 21.11.1979 at about 5:00 p.m. near the agricultural field of one Baldu Lodhi having crops of 'jowar', situated in village Agodi, Police Station- Saujna, District Lalitpur, with a common object whereof to commit the murder of Ramphal (brother of the first informant Kashiram) and in furtherance of their common object of that unlawful assembly, the accused persons allegedly had committed the offence of rioting. They were further charged under Section 302/149 I.P.C. as they committed the murder of Ramphal intentionally causing his death on the relevant date and time of the incident on the spot of the incident in furtherance of the common object of their unlawful assembly. The accused persons were also charged under Section 307/149 I.P.C. for having attempted to commit the murder of Kashiram by firing at him in pursuance of their common object on the relevant date and time on the spot of incident. They were also charged under Section 396 I.P.C. for having committed dacoity as they allegedly snatched the licensed gun alongwith 25 cartridges and automatic wrist watch and in the course of commission of the dacoity, murder of "Ramphal' was committed by one or some of them. Further, three accused Aman Singh, Hallu and Kishora were charged under Section 148 I.P.C. also for being armed with deadly weapons namely axes and sickle at the time of committing the offence of rioting.

5. Kishora, the accused in Sessions Trial No.23 of 1980 was charged under Section 379 I.P.C. for having committed theft of the gun bearing no. 1516 alongwith 25 cartridges and automatic wrist watch by taking it out from the hands of the deceased Ramphal on the relevant date and time at the spot of incident.

7. Appellant no.1, Aman Singh is still absconding whereas the appellant no.2, Kishora, appellant no.3, Hallu and appellant no.4, Bhaiyan are in jail.

8. Learned counsel Sri Satyendra Kumar Mishra holding brief of Sri A.N. Misra Advocate appeared on behalf of the appellants. Sri Sanjay Kumar Dubey learned Advocate for the appellant no. 2 Kishora also appeared before the court. Sri Patanjali Mishra learned A.G.A. for the State respondents argued the prosecution case.

Arguments of the learned counsels-

9. Learned counsel for the appellants contended that the incident as stated by the prosecution witnesses is not as such and the deceased was killed somewhere else by some anonymous enemies earlier to the alleged date of incident i.e. 21.11.1979. He further submitted that even the presence of P.W.1 (first informant, Kashiram) is doubtful because the first information report had been lodged with extraordinary delay without any plausible explanation. He contended that as alleged in the First Information Report, the incident of killing the deceased "Ramphal' occurred at 5:00 p.m. on 21.11.1979, the spot of incident was 13 k.m. away from the Police Station but the First Information Report was lodged at 8:00 a.m. on the next day i.e. 22.11.1979.

10. The next argument of the learned counsel for the appellant is with regard to impossibility of hiding of accused-appellants allegedly in the field of "jowar', the crops whereof were more or less two feet in height. He further drew the attention towards the statement of P.W.1 who stated that the accused appeared out from the field when the deceased reached near the "med' (boundary) of that field of "jowar', and submits that the informant could see them pouncing on the deceased. According to the learned counsel for the appellant, hiding of the accused between the crops of approximately 2 feet in height was quite impossible.

11. Learned counsel for the appellant further contended that evidence on record reveals that the deceased "Ramphal' was member of a gang of dacoits and he might have been killed in a bit to commit dacoity at some other place or by some other rival gangs or by the villagers. For the reason of enmity, the first informant has taken undue advantage to make false implication against the accused-appellants. It is further argued that when the deceased was having gun with 25 cartridges, no one could muster courage to attack him in the manner as alleged in the F.I.R.

12. The motive is stated by the informant himself in the written information and the First Information report establishes the enmity between the parties to the incident. Learned counsel for the appellant emphasises that the conviction is only based on suspicion, raised by the informant against the accused-appellants that the accused were suspecting the hands of the deceased in the killing of their family members in an earlier incident. It is argued that the suspicion, however, strong it may be can not take place of the facts established on the evidence.

13. Learned counsel for the appellants lastly argued that the prosecution evidence itself raised doubt as to the killing of deceased on some earlier date from the alleged date of incident 21.11.1979, somewhere else and, thereafter, the dead body was planted on the alleged spot of the incident. The medical evidence (post-mortem report) also corroborates the oldness of the dead body of the deceased alleged to have been killed on 21.11.1979 at about 5:00 p.m. Learned counsel submitted that since the prosecution remained unsuccessful in proving its case beyond all reasonable doubts, therefore, the conviction recorded by the trial judge and the sentence awarded can not be sustained in the eye of law.

14. Learned counsel for the appellant-Kishora, Sri Sanjay Kumar Dubey added that the eye witnesses were planted in the case falsely and for this reason which they had turned hostile and did not support the case of the prosecution. As such, the evidence on record was not sufficient and material for recording the conviction of the present accused-appellants.

15. In rebuttal, it is argued by the learned A.G.A. that the contention of learned counsel for the appellants as to the doubt about the presence of P.W.1 (first informant) is not correct because his presence is admitted by all other prosecution witnesses consistently and without any contradiction. The prosecution case which finds support from the oral evidences of P.W.1 which is un-shaken. Further, he argued that the arguments of the learned counsel with regard to the false implication and concocting a case by the prosecution, is baseless. P.W.1 in his statement has explained satisfactorily about the delay in lodging the F.I.R. He further argued that the entire prosecution case is well supported with the direct evidences of eye witnesses and also the motive setforth in the written information and the prompt F.I.R. is well established.

16. Learned A.G.A. lastly drew the attention towards the statements of the prosecution witnesses who turned hostile and contended that they were not under any coercion, fear or terror while their statements under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was recorded, as such, the statements of such witnesses in the course of their examination in the Court shall not be treated as wholly unworthy. The statement of such witnesses to the extent of lagging support to the prosecution shall be read being reliable as corroboratory evidence. He further submits that the principle of "falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" does not apply in India. He referred on the case laws (2013) 82 ACC (SC) 401 Prabhash Kumar Vs. State of Haryana, (2011) 72 ACC (SC) 988 Iyappa & Ors. Vs. State of Tamil Nadu and 2006 3 SCC 374 Zahira Habibullah Sheikh & Anr. Vs. state of Gujarat.

On the basis of above arguments, learned A.G.A. submitted the impugned judgment of conviction and order of sentence is good in law and deserves to be confirmed, no interference is required in the impugned judgment under appeal, as such the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

Discussion

Motive-

17. In Sheo Shankar Singh Vs. State of Jharkhand and Anr.1 the principles for the proof and relevance of motive in establishing the guilt of the accused and its varying importance in cases based on circumstantial evidence and in those of which are based on the testimony of eye witnesses, has been discussed. Para 15 of the said judgment is being quoted hereunder:-

"15. The legal position regarding proof of motive as an essential requirement for bringing home the guilt of the accused is fairly well settled by a long line of decisions of this Court. These decisions have made a clear distinction between cases where prosecution relies upon circumstantial evidence on the one hand and those where it relies upon the testimony of eye witnesses on the other. In the former category of cases proof of motive is given the importance it deserves, for proof of a motive itself constitutes a link in the chain of circumstances upon which the prosecution may rely. Proof of motive, however, recedes into the background in cases where the prosecution relies upon an eye-witness account of the occurrence. That is because if the court upon a proper appraisal of the deposition of the eye-witnesses comes to the conclusion that the version given by them is credible, absence of evidence to prove the motive is rendered inconsequential. Conversely even if prosecution succeeds in establishing a strong motive for the commission of the offence, but the evidence of the eye-witnesses is found unreliable or unworthy of credit, existence of a motive does not by itself provide a safe basis for convicting the accused. That does not, however, mean that proof of motive even in a case which rests on an eye-witness account does not lend strength to the prosecution case or fortify the court in its ultimate conclusion. Proof of motive in such a situation certainly helps the prosecution and supports the eye-witnesses."

18. The suspicion of the accused persons over Ramphal (deceased) of having murdered their family members is, however, proved by the witness P.W.1. In his cross-examination by the defence he stated that a criminal case with regard to the incident of killing of the family members of the accused-appellants was instituted against his brother "Ramphal' (deceased) and father. Police was searching his brother (Ramphal) but he could not be traced by them. Ramphal ultimately surrendered alongwith other "baghis' (dacoits) in District-Chatarpur. He also stated that he does not know about the gang of dacoits to which the deceased "Ramphal' belonged, however, in the murder case he was acquitted by the court concerned.

Witness P.W.8, Jagan has also stated in the cross-examination that the parents of the accused appellants Aman Singh and Karan Singh were murdered and father of the accused-appellants Hallu and Kishora was also murdered. He further stated that deceased "Ramphal' was prosecuted for the above three murders, wherein he was acquitted.

P.W.9, Pooran has also stated in the cross-examination about the murder of parents of accused Karan Singh, Aman Singh and father of Kishora and Hallu in the village. He admitted that the accused persons had a strong suspicion over the deceased "Ramphal' of having committed their murder. This witness then stated that he heard that the Ramphal (deceased) had joined the gang of dacoit of "Moni Ram Sahai' and the people from the village were witnesses in the murder case against deceased Ramphal.

P.W.10, Pragi stated that when the murder of the parents of the accused-appellants had occurred, they were very young. He himself also young age. As such, all the witnesses Kashiram (P.W.1) Sunnu (P.W.3), Jagan (P.W.8), Pooran (P.W.9), Pragi (P.W.10), even those who did not support the case of the prosecution in toto had supported the fact constituting the motive behind the killing of Ramphal. The motive as setforth in the written information and the first information report is, thus, proved and is a relevant fact under Section 8 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872.

Relevant date and time of the incident

19. Though it is argued by the learned counsel for the appellant that the evidence on record shows that the deceased might have been killed somewhere else prior to the alleged date of the incident 21.11.1979 and the dead body was planted maliciously by the first informant by reason of enmity with the accused-appellants. We have gone through the evidences of P.W.1 and as discussed above, it may be recorded that there was no enmity between the first informant Kashiram (P.W.1) and the accused appellants. Kashiram (P.W.1), the first informant himself stated that being the villagers of the same village, the accused appellants and he were on normal terms of visiting each other houses and talking to each other. None of the witnesses of the prosecution stated about the "enmity', if any, of Kashiram with the accused-appellants nor any suggestion of enmity had been given to the first informant. So far as enmity of the accused appellants with deceased Ramphal is concerned, it is established by the evidence of the prosecution witnesses that the same was because of the deceased being the accused in the murder case of parents of the accused, who had been acquitted. The arguments of the learned counsel for the appellants of planting of the dead body on the spot of the incident by the informant (P.W.1) is not acceptable. Particularly when the spot of the incident is proved satisfactorily by all the witnesses of fact as well as the formal witnesses.

20. The doctor P.W.4, Dr. Suresh Sakalya had also not been confronted to impeach him about his assessment that the deceased might have died on 21.11.1979 at about 5:00 p.m. in the evening. No questions were put to him by the defence about the condition of the dead body on the date of the post-mortem examination so as to relate the same to the oldness of the dead body and to reach at the proximate time of death prior to the established date and time of the incident, i.e. on 21.11.1979 at about 5:00 p.m., It is needless to discuss on this point.

21. The written information itself reveals that the accused persons are related to each other. The accused Karan Singh and Aman Singh are real brothers, sons of "Majboot Singh Thakur', accused Kishora and Hallu are real brothers, sons of "Kamatua Nai', all residents of Village Agodi where the incident had occurred and the first informant P.W.1 resides. The accused Bhaiyan is related to Kishora and Hallu being their brother-in-law (sister's husband) who is resident of Village Rangaon, Police Station Mandwara, District Lalitpur. P.W.1, in his examination-in-chief, stated that the father of accused Kishora and Hallu was murdered and parents of Karan Singh and Aman Singh were also murdered. They all were suspecting "Ramphal' to be the perpetrator of the crime and, therefore, hatched enmity with the deceased "Ramphal'. Due to the suspicion, out of vengeance, the accused had killed the deceased Ramphal. In cross examination, this witness stated at the very inception that he is residing in village Agodi and during his lifetime the parents of the accused persons were killed. He further stated that being local resident of the same village, he had conversations eventually with the accused persons also. Accused persons also used to visit the first informant, P.W.1 if need be in connection with some work. As such, P.W.1 established that the accused-appellants had no enmity with him (P.W.1).

About witnesses

22. Kashiram, P.W.1 is the brother of the deceased, Sannu P.W.3, is the eye witness, Jagan, Pooran, and Pragi are also the eye witnesses. P.W.-8, 9 and 10 produced by the prosecution had turned hostile. The witnesses were all residents of the same village Agodi where the spot of the incident situates and the informant of the incident used to reside. They were agriculturists having their fields in the near vicinity of the spot of the incident (the field of Baldu Lodhi).

23. Before going through the statement of the aforesaid witnesses of fact we would like to refer para-5 of the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai Vs. State of Gujarat2 where Apex Court observed that:-

(1) By and large a witness cannot be expected to possess a photographic memory and to recall the details of an incident. It is not as if a video tape is replayed on the mental screen.

(2) ordinarily it so happens that a witness is overtaken by events. The witness could not have anticipated the occurrence which so often has an element of surprise. The mental faculties therefore cannot be expected to be attuned to absorb the details.

(3) The powers of observation differ from person to person. What one may notice, another may not. An object or movement might emboss its image on one person's mind whereas it might go unnoticed on the part of another.

(4) By and large people cannot accurately recall a conversation and reproduce the very words used by them or heard by them. They can only recall the main purport of the conversation. It is unrealistic to expect a witness to be a human tape recorder.

(5) In regard to exact time of an incident, or the time duration of an occurrence, usually, people make their estimates by guess work on the spur of the moment 1.1 at the time of interrogation. And one cannot expect people to make very precise or reliable estimates in such matters. Again, it depends on the time- sense of individuals which varies from person to person.

(6) Ordinarily a witness cannot be expected to recall accurately the sequence of events which take place in rapid succession or in a short time span. A witness is liable to get confused, or mixed up when interrogated later on.

(7) A witness, though wholly truthful, is liable to be overawed by the court atmosphere and the piercing cross examination made by counsel and out of nervousness mix up facts, get confused regarding sequence of events, or fill up details from imagination on the spur of the moment. The sub-conscious mind of the witness sometimes so operates on account of the fear of looking foolish or being disbelieved though the witness is giving a truthful and honest account of the occurrence witnessed by him-Perhaps it is a sort of a psychological defence mechanism activated on the spur of the moment.

24. In view of the aforesaid circumstances and the witnesses' status, melieu and their normal prudence we think it proper to observe on the basis of evidences that the prosecution witnesses of fact are rustic villagers, not highly educated, even illiterate or simply literate.

25. In the context of the aforesaid observation, we further refer to the judgment of the Apex Court in Shivaji Sahab Rao Bobade Vs. State of Maharashtra3 which deals with an incident of murder in a rural area where the witnesses to the case were rustic and so it was observed that their behavioural pattern perceptive and un-perceptive habits have to be judged as such. The relevant para from the aforesaid judgment is reproduced hereunder:-

"8. Now to the facts. The scene of murder is rural, the witnesses to the case are rustics and so their behavioural pattern and perceptive habits have to be judged as such. The too sophisticated approaches familiar in courts based on unreal assumptions about human conduct cannot obviously be applied to those given to the lethargic ways of our villages. When scanning the evidence of the various witnesses we have to inform ourselves that variances on the fringes, discrepancies in details, contradictions in narrations and embellishments in inessential parts cannot militate against the veracity of the core of the testimony provided there is the impress of truth and conformity to probability in the substantial fabric of testimony delivered. The learned Sessions Judge has at some length dissected the evidence, spun out contradictions and unnatural conduct, and tested with precision the time and sequence of the events connected with the crime, all on the touchstone of the medical evidence and the post-mortem certificate. Certainly, the court which has seen the witnesses depose, has a great advantage over the appellate Judge who reads the recorded evidence in cold print, and regard must be had to this advantage enjoyed by the trial Judge of observing the demeanour and delivery, of reading the straightforwardness and doubtful candour, rustic naivete and clever equivocation, manipulated conformity and ingenious unveracity of persons who swear to the facts before him. Nevertheless, where a Judge draws his conclusions not so much on the directness or dubiety of the witness while on oath but upon general probabilities and on expert evidence, the court of appeal is in as good a position to assess or arrive at legitimate conclusions as the Court of first instance. Nor can we make a fetish of the trial Judge's psychic insight."

Evidence as to the status, character and profession of the deceased, Ramphal.

26. In the case before us there are five witnesses of fact. They are first informant Kashiram (P.W.1), Sunnu (P.W.3), Jagan (P.W.8), Pooran (P.W.9), pragi (P.W.10).

Alongwith P.W.1 (brother of the deceased), the rest of the witnesses namely Sunnu, Jagan, Pooran and Pragi were all examined as eye witnesses of the incident whose names have been given in the written information also. It is stated in the written report by the first informant that at the time of the incident, hearing the screams of the deceased and alarm raised by the first informant P.W.1, the other witnesses came running on the spot as they were working in the nearby agricultural fields. On being challenged by them, the accused Kishora made a fire towards them and they succeeded in fleeing away from the spot. P.W.1 being the brother of the deceased is a related witness. Learned counsel for the appellant has raised objection as to his credibility and reliability for the reason of his interestedness. Except P.W.1, rest of the witnesses turned hostile as they denied having seen the accused appellants committing the offence. The question, thus, would be as to the evidentiary value of the statement of the hostile witnesses, with regard to the facts deposed by them and the effect of the portion of their statement not supporting the prosecution case.

27. It is well settled that in a criminal trial, evidence of a hostile witnesses can form the basis of conviction. In the matter of appreciation of evidence of witnesses, it is not the number of witnesses but the quality of their evidence matters.

Reliance on the hostile witnesses

28. In the case before us, we have already noticed that the prosecution witnesses Sunnu (P.W.3), Jagan (P.W.8), Pooran (P.W.9), Pragi (P.W.10) were examined as the prosecution witnesses to prove the fact in issue as to whether the accused persons at the relevant date and time committed the killing of the deceased "Ramphal' on the spot of the incident, inflicting blows of lethal weapons like axe, sickle, etc.

29. The Apex Court in the case of Mrinal Das Vs. State of Tripura4 in para 67 has held as under:-

67. It is settled law that corroborated part of evidence of hostile witness regarding commission of offence is admissible. The fact that the witness was declared hostile at the instance of the Public Prosecutor and he was allowed to cross-examine the witness furnishes no justification for rejecting en bloc the evidence of the witness. However, the court has to be very careful, as prima facie, a witness who makes different statements at different times, has no regard for the truth. His evidence has to be read and considered as a whole with a view to find out whether any weight should be attached to it. The court should be slow to act on the testimony of such a witness, normally, it should look for corroboration with other witnesses. Merely because a witness deviates from his statement made in the FIR, his evidence cannot be held to be totally unreliable. To make it clear that evidence of hostile witness can be relied upon at least up to the extent, he supported the case of the prosecution. The evidence of a person does not become effaced from the record merely because he has turned hostile and his deposition must be examined more cautiously to find out as to what extent he has supported the case of the prosecution.

30. In view of the aforesaid guidelines laid down by the Apex Court, the evidence of the prosecution witnesses (declared hostile) is required to be evaluated. In the present case, since the learned counsel have raised objection as to the credibility and reliability of P.W.1, Kashiram (first informant) also and blamed him to concoct the case for false implication of the accused appellants, we would discuss the evidence of P.W.1 later, after evaluating the evidence of hostile witnesses and finding out which part of their testimony finds corroboration from other proved facts and circumstances and as such is admissible and reliable.

31. In Siddharth Vashisth @ Manu Sharma Vs. State of N.C.T., Delhi5 it is held that if the prosecution witnesses turned hostile, the court may rely upon so much of his testimony which supports the case of prosecution and is corroborated by other evidences.

32. The Apex Court in a series of decision, (one of such is Babu @ Balasubramaniam & Arn. Vs. State of Tamil Nadu6) held that :- "The doctrine of "falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" not applicable in indian judicial system, the court has to separate grain from chaff and apprise in each case as to what extent the evidence is acceptable. If separation cannot be done, the evidence has to be rejected. The witnesses may be speaking untruth in some respect and it has to be apprised in each case as to what extent the evidence is worthy of acceptance. Merely because in some respects the court considers the same to be insufficient for placing reliance on the testimony of a witness, it does not necessarily follow as a matter of law that it must be disregarded in all respects as well."

33. In Ashok Kumar Chaudhary Vs. State of Bihar7 and Sucha Singh Vs. State of Punjab8, it was held that, if the testimony of a witness is otherwise found trustworthy and reliable, the same cannot be disbelieved and rejected merely because certain insignificant, normal and natural contradictions have appeared in his testimony. If the inconsistencies, contradictions, exaggerations, embellishments and discrepancies in the testimony are normal and not material in nature, then the testimony of an eye witness has to be accepted and acted upon. The distinction between normal discrepancies and material discrepancies are that while normal discrepancies do not corrode the credibility of a party's case, material discrepancies do so.

34. In view of the above legal position, we first of all would like to remind that the spot of the incident is alleged to be the field of "jowar' in village Agodi, belonging to Baldu Lodhi on the boundary (med) of which the deceased Ramphal was about to reach when the accused appellants alleged to have pounced on him coming out from their hiding in the crops of "jowar'. The time of the incident was about 5:00 p.m. in the evening of 21.11.1979. The field of witnesses Sunnu (P.W.3), Jagan, Pooran and Pragi were situated near the spot of the incident. Hearing the noise of screaming of the deceased and alarm raised by the first informant, the witnesses reached there. A fire from the gun was also made after killing the deceased by the accused Kishora towards the witnesses so as to ward off them.

35. In the context of the aforesaid fact stated in the written information, we would go through the statements of witnesses one by one.

36. P.W.3, Sunnu S/o Sultan resident of village Agodi who by profession is an agriculturist when appeared before the court on 16.7.1982 approximately after three years from the incident, stated that the incident occurred about 2 year 8 months ago by the time of the sunset. He went to the field for cutting grass and after that when coming back to his house he and Pooran (P.W.9) heard the alarm raised by Kashiram. In response thereto, he (P.W.3), Pooran (P.W.9), Pragi (P.W.10), and Jagan (P.W.8) reached near the first informant (P.W.1). They heard the sound of the gunshot but did not see anything. At this stage, this witness was declared hostile. He, thus, admitted that the witnesses Sunnu, Pragi and Jagan were present in their fields near the spot of the incident. He also admitted the presence of P.W.1 Kashiram whose alarm he heard and in response thereto alongwith others reached the spot of the incident. During the cross examination by the prosecutor, this witness further admitted that the fire from the gun was made in the field of Baldu Lodhi and hearing the sound of fire, he immediately fled away from the spot. P.W.3 also admitted that the height of 'jowar' crops was about two feet reaching above the head. His agricultural field was situated towards the north near the spot of the incident. Other witnesses met him at a distance of 25 to 30 paces away from the spot of the incident when the fire was made. In the cross examination, this witness further stated that Kashiram, (P.W.1-the first informant) and Ramphal (deceased) were co-sharers in the field of "jowar'. Ramphal usually visited the field and Kashiram used to stay there in the night on his own. He further stated that he heard about the incident of killing of Ramphal in the same evening. This witness, as such, in very clear and unambiguous words has established, "the spot of the incident' and "relevant date and time of the incident'. In his cross examination, he supported the contents of the written report given by Kashiram to the police to the above extent.

37. P.W.-3, Sunnu further admitted that Ramphal and Kashiram being co-sharers of their agricultural field consisting of 'jowar' crops usually in the habit of going to the field daily to take care of the corps. The probability of presence of the deceased, Ramphal with the first informant, P.W.1 (Kashiram) on the spot of the incident on the relevant date and time is also corroborated by the fact that the incident had occurred at the time of the sunset, as stated in the F.I.R.

38. So far as the statement of P.W.-3 to the police about the role of the accused appellants in committing murder of the deceased Ramphal by inflicting blows of axe, sickle in their hands, this witness retracted from his statement and turned hostile before the trial judge in the examination-in-chief. He was read over the relevant portion of his statement reduced into writing under Section 161 Cr.P.C. by the Investigating Officer with regard to the involvement of the accused appellants in commission of the offence, he denied giving any such statement to the Investigating Officer. But similar statement as to the involvement of the accused appellants in the commission of the offence of killing the deceased Ramphal and their mode and manner, the weapons used by them was recorded by the Magistrate under Section 164 Cr.P.C., When it was read over to him, he admitted that the said statement had been given by him before the Magistrate and admitted his thumb impression thereupon.

The prosecution has examined the Magistrate, Sri Bichitra Kumar Gupta

(P.W.13) who stated that the statement of witnesses Kashiram and Pooran was recorded by him under Section 164 Cr.P.C. on 15.12.1979. Whatever the witness stated was recorded and reduced into writing which was read over and then he put his thumb impression. The statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was proved by the Magistrate whereupon Ex. Ka-12 and Ex.Ka-30 was marked. P.W.-13 further stated that on 17.12.1979 and 15.12.1979, he took the statement of witnesses Pragi, Sunnu and Jagan under Section 164 Cr.P.C. which bear thumb impressions, it was proved as Ex.Ka-31 and Ex.Ka-11. As such the prosecution has successfully established that the witnesses turned hostile retracting their statement made before the investigating officer, purposely and falsely. Their statement as to the involvement of the accused persons, the mode and manner adopted in the killing of the deceased Ramphal and the weapons used by the accused, all supported the case of the prosecution.

39. P.W.8, Jagan has also admitted before the trial judge on 7.4.1982 that the incident occurred approximately three years ago at the time of sunset, however, he did not see the incident of killing OF the deceased Ramphal. He further admitted that the investigating officer came on the spot on the next day, he conducted the inquest, prepared the report whereupon the inquest witnesses put their thumb impressions. He further admitted the collection of blood stained and plain earth soil from the spot of the incident and that he put his thumb impression thereon as witness. The collection of other articles like shoes of the deceased near the dead body, pen and the articles on the person of the dead body, preparation of their memo was proved by P.W.-8. He assertatively stated that the deceased was murdered on the relevant date and time but he himself did not see the incident, as such, this witness in unambiguous words admitted the killing of the deceased "Ramphal' at the spot of the incident given in the written information, on the relevant date and time, i.e. 21.11.1979 at about 5:00 p.m. Like P.W.3, this witness also refused his statement recorded by the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. with regard to the involvement of the accused appellants in killing of the deceased Ramphal from the weapons assigned to them and the mode and manner adopted by them in killing but when confronted about his statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C., he also admitted that the same was given by him to the Magistrate and it bears his thumb impression. However, this witness in cross examination, has stated that he knew about the dead body of the deceased Ramphal lying on the spot of the incident in the morning. This witness was though examined by the defence but no question was put to him as to the statement of P.W.3 that on the date of the incident on 21.11.1979 at the relevant time about 5:00 p.m. he met with the other witnesses including P.W.8, when the sound of fire was heard by them from the field of Baldu Lodhi (spot of incident). As such, the statement of P.W.3 stood proved as to the presence of P.W.8 on the spot of the incident at the relevant date and time and his conduct in retracting from the statement given to the Investigating Officer, and promptly, thereafter, to the Magistrate under Section 164 Cr.P.C. as to the involvement of the accused appellants, in the commission of the offence of killing the deceased Ramphal, the weapons used by them and the mode and manner adopted in killing of the deceased is suggestive of him being a liar, his testimony, therefore, cannot be relied in favour of the accused appellants.

40. P.W.9 Pooran by profession was an agriculturist, resident of village Agodi, stated before the court when produced as prosecution witnesses on 4.8.1982 has denied seeing the accused appellants committing the murder of the deceased "Ramphal' and also taking away the licensed gun and cartridges and wrist watch from the hands of the deceased. In cross examination, he admitted that the investigating officer had interrogated him but denied from giving any such statement of seeing the accused persons committing the offence. P.W.-9, however, admitted that Ramphal was killed in the field of Baldu Lodhi adjacent to the field of the informant Kashiram. But when asked about his statement recorded by the Magistrate under Section164 Cr.P.C., he admitted that the same was given by him. This witness was also not confronted by the defence, in the cross examination, about his presence alongwith other witnesses on the spot of incident, particularly the statement of P.W.-3 in that regard. The presence of this witness alonwith P.W.3 on the spot, on 21.11.1979 at the relevant time of the commission of offence is proved. His conduct in retracting from his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. but admitting the statement and that recorded by the Magistrate under Section 164 Cr.P.C. will be treated as an afterthought and, therefore, a false statement made in the court. This witness has further proved the motive set up by the prosecution that the parents of accused Karan and Aman Singh (real brothers) as well as father of Kishora and Hallu (real brothers) were murdered in the village and the deceased Ramphal was a suspect for committing the said murders and a criminal case lodged against him wherein he was acquitted.

41. P.W.10, Pragi like P.W.9 has denied watching the incident. In cross examination though he denied his previous statement that under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to the above extent but admitted under Section 164 Cr.P.C. recorded by the Magistrate. This witness also in a very unambiguous and clear words admitted the spot of the incident being near the agricultural field of Baldu Lodhi adjacent to the agricultural field of Kashiram as stated in the first information report. He has further admitted that when the incident occurred in the evening, he was harvesting the crop of 'jowar' in his field and when he heard the gunshot from the field of Baldu Lodhi, he ran towards the spot but stated that he did not see the accused appellants therein. He further stated that the dead body of Ramphal was lying there, Kashiram was standing near the dead body with other witnesses Sunnu, Pooran and Jagan. In the same breath when this hostile witnesses was cross examined by the defence he stated that Kashiram came later on the spot from his field which was about 2 k.m. far away from the spot of the incident. This statement as to the arrival of Kashiram on the spot of the incident later, in the same course of examination, in view of his statement of the presence of Kashiram alongwith other witnesses near the dead body of the deceased Ramphal before his arrival on the spot of the incident, is self contradictory. Since the earlier part of the cross examination with regard to the presence of witnesses near the dead body of deceased Ramphal on the spot of the incident is consistent with the statement of other witnesses namely Sunnu, Jagan and Pooran, therefore, the contradictory statement is not being taken into consideration.

42. The witnesses, discussed above, though turned hostile but they all had proved the spot of the incident where deceased Ramphal was killed on the relevant date and time of the incident, i.e. 21.11.1979 at about 5:00 p.m. as also the presence of witnesses namely P.W.1 (Kashiram), P.W.3 (Sunnu), P.W.8 (Jagan), P.W.9 (Pooran) and P.W. 10 (Pragi) at the spot. As such, the statement of these witnesses was correctly taken into account by the trial court and read in favour of the prosecution. We are of the considered opinion that their evidence to the above extent is admissible and to be read accordingly.

43. The Investigating Officer, Sub Inspector Surjan Singh (P.W.11), posted in the Police Station Saujana on the relevant date and time of the incident as S.H.O. when confronted with the statement of the aforesaid hostile witness about denial from their previous statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., assertingly stated that the statements of witnesses Jagan, Pragi, Sunnu, Pooran etc. were recorded by him in his own hand writing and bear his signature. The original was placed before the court and proved by him whereupon Ex.Ka-23 and Ex.Ka-24, Ex.Ka-25 and Ex.Ka-26 were endorsed. This witness has further stated that since the accused persons were absconding, therefore, the witness were hesitant in giving their statement. They were, therefore, produced before the Magistrate also for recording their statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. He further stated that even on the date of recording of his statement in the court, one of the accused Karan Singh was still absconding and he was known to be an active member of the dacoit "Gabbar Singh' gang. In the cross examination, he negated the suggestion given by the learned counsel for the defence that the statements of aforesaid witnesses were recorded in the Court of Magistrate under Section 164 Cr.P.C. under threat. The prosecution has also produced the Magistrate Bichitra Kumar Gupta in the witness box. The learned Magistrate P.W.13 proved that he recorded the statement of P.W.1, Kashiram and Pooran (P.W.9) on 15.12.1979 and it was the same as stated before him. The original copy of the statements under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was proved by him before the trial court, identification of the hand writing and signature and thumb impression of Pooran whereof Ex.Ka.12 is endorsed. Likewise he proved the statement of Kashiram dated 15.12.1979 whereupon he identified the signature made by witness Kashiram and the said document is proved as Ex.Ka.13 is endorsed thereupon. Further on 17.12.1979 and 15.12.1979, the statements of Pragi, Sunnu and Jagan were also recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. by him and he identified his hand writing upon the statement and thumb impression of the witnesses thereupon. The statement of Pragi is marked as Ex.Ka.31, Sunnu as Ex. Ka-11 and Jagan as Ex.Ka. 31. P.W.13, the Magistrate stated that the statement of all the witnesses were voluntarily made to him and he recorded them on their free will without any pressure. This witness in cross examination, denied the suggestion as to the recording of the statements of the witnesses under pressure. As such, the portion of the statement of Sunnu (P.W.3), Jagan (P.W.8), Pooran (P.W.9) and Pragi (P.W.10) wherein they had retracted from their earlier statements made to the Investigating officer, just after incident in the course, is found to be absolutely false and cannot be read against the prosecution.

44. Since the presence of P.W.1, Kashiram is admitted by other witness of fact though they turned hostile and his presence is also found to be quite natural and probable in his agricultural field for the standing crop of "jowar', his evidence now has to be evaluated keeping in mind that this witness was present on the spot of the incident and had seen the entire incident as stated in the written report filed by him.

Objection as to P.W.-1 being Relative witness

45. Merely, being relative of the deceased he can not be said to be interested for any otherwise reason to get the accused persons falsely implicated.

46. In Vijendra Singh Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh with Mahendra Singh Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh9, the Apex Court has held in para 31 as under:-

"31. In this regard reference to a passage from Hari Obula Reddy v. State of A.P. [Hari Obula Reddy v. State of A.P., (1981) 3 SCC 675 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 795] would be fruitful. In the said case, a three-Judge Bench has ruled that : (SCC pp. 683-84, para 13)

"[it cannot] be laid down as an invariable rule that interested evidence can never form the basis of conviction unless corroborated to a material extent in material particulars by independent evidence. All that is necessary is that the evidence of the interested witnesses should be subjected to careful scrutiny and accepted with caution. If on such scrutiny, the interested testimony is found to be intrinsically reliable or inherently probable, it may, by itself, be sufficient, in the circumstances of the particular case, to base a conviction thereon."

It is worthy to note that there is a distinction between a witness who is related and an interested witness. A relative is a natural witness. The Court in Kartik Malhar v. State of Bihar [Kartik Malhar v. State of Bihar, (1996) 1 SCC 614 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 188] has opined that a close relative who is a natural witness cannot be regarded as an interested witness, for the term "interested" postulates that the witness must have some interest in having the accused, somehow or the other, convicted for some animus or for some other reason."

47. In Sucha Singh and Another Vs. State of Punjab10, it is held that relationship is not a factor to effect the credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal the actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible. Para 13 of the said judgment is quoted under:-

13. We shall first deal with the contention regarding interestedness of the witnesses for furthering the prosecution version. Relationship is not a factor to affect the credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal the actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible.

48. In the context of evidences on record, we are of considered opinion that the argument of the learned counsel for the appellant about the witness (P.W.-1) being a close relative is a partisan witness and his evidence should not be relied upon, has no substance. This impression in the mind of any person that relatives are not independent is not correct. In para "14' of the Sucha Singh and Another Vs. State of Punjab (Supra), the Apex Court has considered it as under:-

"14. In Dalip Singh v. State of Punjab [AIR 1953 SC 364 : 1953 Cri LJ 1465] it has been laid down as under : (AIR p. 366, para 26)

"26. A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily a close relation would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, that there is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth. However, we are not attempting any sweeping generalization. Each case must be judged on its own facts. Our observations are only made to combat what is so often put forward in cases before us as a general rule of prudence. There is no such general rule. Each case must be limited to and be governed by its own facts."

49. In this regard, para "22' from the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Shyam Babu Vs. State of U.P.11, is reproduced hereunder:-

"This Court has repeatedly held that the version of an eye-witness cannot be discarded by the Court merely on the ground that such eye-witness happened to be a relative or friend of the deceased. It is also stated that where the presence of the eye-witnesses is proved to be natural and their statements are nothing but truthful disclosure of actual facts leading to the occurrence, it will not be permissible for the Court to discard the statement of such related or friendly witnesses. To put it clear, there is no bar in law on examining family members or any other person as witnesses. In fact, in cases involving family members of both sides, it is a member of the family or a friend who comes to rescue the injured. If the statement of witnesses, who are relatives or known to the parties affected is credible, reliable, trustworthy and corroborated by other witnesses, there would hardly be any reason for the court to reject such evidence merely on the ground that the witness was a family member or an interested witness or a person known to the affected party or friend etc. These principles have been reiterated in Mano Dutt and Another vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2012) 4 SCC 79 and Dayal Singh and Others vs. State of Uttaranchal, 2012 (7) Scale 165."

Enmity

50. We have gone through the statement of P.W.-1 "Kashiram' and do not find any prior enmity of Kashiram himself with any of the accused persons. Even Kashiram stated that the accused persons were on the normal terms of visiting and conversing with him, if needed in connection with any work, as they were residing since a long time in the same village.

51. Learned counsel for the defence could not carve out any fact of complaint of any enmity of Kashiram with any of the accused persons prior to the date of the incident or any civil or criminal litigation pending between them. No question was put to the witness (P.W.-1) "Kashiram' so as to elicit his interestedness in falsely implicating the accused persons for putting them behind the bars.

Spot of the incident.

52. As, already discussed above, from the evidence of prosecution witnesses Sunnu (P.W.3), Jagan (P.W.8), Pooran (P.W.9) and Pragi (P.W.10) that they admitted the place of incident being near the agricultural field of Baldu Lodhi and that their own fields were situated nearby. They have consistently and without any contradiction proved that the dead body was lying on the spot of the incident when they reached there hearing the gunshot. The blood stained soil and plain earth soil were collected by the Investigating Officer from the spot and was proved in the court. The prosecution witnesses had also admitted the collection of aforesaid samples from the spot of the incident by the Investigating Officer. The inquest proceeding was done and proved by the witnesses which also establishes the spot of the incident being the same place. The Investigating Officer (P.W.11, Sub Inspector, Surjan Singh) in his examination-in-chief before the trial court proved that the dead body of the deceased "Ramphal' was lying on the spot of incident, where he made the inquest proceeding. He also proved preparation of the site plan on the orientation of witnesses Kashiram (P.W.1) and Jagan (P.W.8). The site plan Ex. Ka.20, shows the place whereof the dead body of the deceased was lying as "D'. There is a remark that "at its south nearby the vicinity, the crops of "jowar' was found broken and the dead body of the deceased was lying". It also shows that the blood stained soil and plain earth soil was collected from the same place. The agricultural field of informant Kashiram has been shown by letter "C' at about ten paces away from the boundary of the field of Baldu Lodhi where the incident occurred. In the nearby vicinity, the witnesses Jagan and Pooran are shown near the place "C". As such, the spot of the incident as stated by the first informant, Kashiram in the written report submitted to the police was proved to be the boundary (med) of the 'jowar' field of Baldu Lodhi.

Written information and delayed F.I.R.

53. The witness P.W.1 (first informant, Kashiram) submitted the information in writing to the police on 22.11.1979 stating the date of incident 21.11.1979, and time at about 5:00 p.m. and also his presence in connection with the agricultural work of removing grass from his field of 'jowar' situated near the spot of the incident in village Agodi. He further stated the presence of deceased "Ramphal' with him at the time of the incident, who was carrying the bundle of grass also carrying licnesed gun of the informant and that he was leading to the way to their home. The name of the accused-appellants are, respectively Aman Singh, Kishora and Hallu, all the residents of village Agodi and accused Bhaiyan, the brother-in-law of the Kishora and Hallu resident of village Rangao Police Station Mandwara, District Lalitpur. P.W.-1 has also stated that the aforesaid accused persons were hidden in the field of Baldu Lodhi in the crops of 'jowar', which were about two feet in height and they suddenly came out on the spot of the incident and pounced with their respective arms like axe and sickle. The deceased was caught hold by them and the accused persons injured him seriously by inflicting the blows of their lethal weapons and done him to death on the spot. In the course of the incident, the accused Kishora snatched the licensed gun of Kashiram from the hands of deceased "Ramphal' and made a fire on the witnesses who came towards the spot of the incident on hearing the scream of the deceased and alarm raised by the first informant Kashiram (P.W.1) so as to ward off them. The motive is also stated by the first informant that the accused persons were suspecting that the deceased "Ramphal' had killed their parents much earlier to the present incident.

54. The incident as stated in the written information occurred on 21.11.1979 at about 5:00 p.m. before the sunset, but the first information report was lodged on 22.11.1979 at about 8:00 A.M., on the next morning of the incident. The distance of the spot of the incident from the police station is shown in the F.I.R. 13 K.M.

Learned counsel for accused-appellants vehemently argued that the first information report was lodged with an unreasonable delay which is sufficient to case a doubt as to the genuineness of F.I.R. To deal with this objection, we have gone through the evidence of P.W.-1 (the first informant) and the Investigating Officer (P.W.-11). The first informant (P.W.-1) stated the time of the incident about 4:45 P.M. in the evening before sunset on 21.11.1979. He further stated in the examination in chief that on the very evening of the day of incident he did not go to the police station for lodging the F.I.R. due to the falling of the night and fear of the accused persons. He went to the police station in the morning on the next day i.e. 22.11.1979 for lodging the report, He further stated that the written report of the incident was given in the Police Station who reduced the same into writing and gave him a copy after getting his signature. The written report given by him in the police station was proved as Ex. Ka-1.

55. In the cross examination, this witness stated about the proximate period of the violent fracas committed by the accused persons from 15-20 minutes to half an hour and that after the incident he stayed along with the native villagers near the dead body of his brother throughout the night. He further stated that he left the spot of the incident to go to the police staiton when dawn fell and came back with the Investigating Officer to the village at about 11 a.m. He clarified that for the whole day just from the dawn upto the sunset, the dead body was lying on the spot. He further stated that the inquest proceeding was started at about 11:00 a.m. on the date of the information of the incident.

56. P.W.11, the Investigating Officer Surjan Singh, Sub Inspector stated that on 22.11.1979 he was present in the police station when P.W.1, Kashiram came to him. No question was put to this witness with regard to the information of the incident, if any, received by him on the same evening nor any wilful delay on his part. Even question was not put nor suggestion given to him as to his interestedness or consultation prior to the lodging of F.I.R. on the basis of the written report submitted by P.W.1 to alter the contents of the same. In cross examination, in answer to the question put by the defence, this witness (P.W.-11) assertingly stated that the first informant came to him at about 8:00 a.m. in the morning of 22.11.1979 to lodge the report. The report was lodged in his presence in the Police Station and he proceeded for the spot of the incident.

57. So far as the delay of more than 12 hours in lodging the F.I.R. is concerned, it is reasonably explained by the P.W.-1, Kashiram that he did not go in the night to lodge the report because of the fear of the accused persons. The evidence of his fear is apparent and can be gathered from the record, the facts as follows; It is reasonably explained by the P.W.1, Kashiram in his examination before the court that he did not travel in the night from his village to the police station by reason of fear of the accused persons. The evidence of his fear is apparent and gathered from the evidences on record as follows;

i) the spot of the incident in the village Agodi was within the territorial limit of District Lalitpur which was declared and notified as a dacoit affected area by the Government,

(ii) carrying a licensed gun even during the agricultural work in the evening in itself is an indication of fear of life to the brothers namely Kashiram and Ramphal (deceased),

(iii) in cross examination of the witnesses, it has come that the deceased "Ramphal' was arraigned with the charge of murders of parents of the accused persons. A criminal case was also lodged.

(iv) the deceased "Ramphal' alongwith some other "baghis' (dacoits) surrendered in District Chhatarpur. He was known to be an active member of the gang of the dacoits, identified as "Moniram Sahai Gang',

(v) One of the accused "Karan Singh' was himself suspected to be an active member of dacoits gang identified as "Gabbar Singh's Gang',

(vi) The way to the police station from the spot of the incident shown to be about 13 k.m. which was in the outskirts of the area not urbanized and populated, it was not easy to travel in the night,

(vii) the mode and manner adopted by the accused persons was not only violent but also brutal and gruesome,

(viii) The assailants after killing the deceased "Ramphal' fled away from the spot of the incident and were roaming free.

58. In view of the above, the fear of the first informant (P.W.-1) was quite natural and probable and no adverse inference can be drawn of his act of not moving instantly after the incident to the police station by travelling 13 k.m. on rough and unpopulated way. This witness P.W.1, Kashiram was also not confronted about availability of the means of transport, the nature and condition of the way causing obstruction, risks in the night, the presence of the villagers and company of the Chaukidar or anyone else to go to the police station in the night for lodging the F.I.R. The witness P.W.1 himself has stated that before sunrise, he left the village for going to the police station, he travelled about 13 k.m. on foot. The statement of P.W.11, Investigating Officer proves arrival of the P.W.1, Kashiram in the Police Station at about 8:00 a.m. As such, the reason for not lodging the F.I.R. instantly after the incident in the evening and reaching the police station on the next morning stood explained and is believable. The arguments of learned counsel for the accused appellants as to the ingenuineness of the written information and the F.I.R. have no logical footing and thus, liable to be rejected. The written information of the incident was given to the police station with reasonable promptness and there is no extraordinary delay so as to raise any doubt as to the genuineness of the F.I.R.

Mode and manner of the commission of offence

59. The fact of killing of the deceased "Ramphal' on 21.11.1979 at about 5:00 p.m. before sunset is proved by the witnesses Kashiram (P.W.1), Sunnu (P.W.3), Jagan (P.W.8), Pooran (P.W.9) and Pragi (P.W.10) consistently without any contradiction. The spot of the incident is also proved by the evidences of the witnesses consistent with testimony of P.W.-1 and the corroborative evidence of the inquest proceedings, the collection of the blood stained soil and plain earth soil, the recovery of the shoes of the deceased near the spot of the incident. It is noteworthy here that none of the witnesses amongst Sunnu (P.W.3), Jagan (P.W.8), Pooran (P.W.9) and Pragi (P.W.10) contradicted the statement of P.W.1 (the first informant) as to the involvement of the accused-appellants in the offence. The mode and manner adopted by the accused appellants, their involvement in the commission of offence and the weapons used by them though stated by the aforesaid witnesses Sunnu (P.W.3), Jagan (P.W.8), Pooran (P.W.9) and Pragi (P.W.10) to the Investigating Officer in the course of the investigation and, thereafter, before the Magistrate under Section 164 Cr.P.C. but they did not stand on their aforesaid pre-trial statements when produced before the trial court. As discussed at length the fear under which the aforesaid witnesses turned hostile, it is held they have retracted and not truthful. As such, the only witness (P.W.1) as eye witness of the incident remains before us as to the mode and manner of the commission of the offence.

60. It is well known principle of law that reliance can be based on the solitary statement of a witness if the court comes to the conclusion that his statement is true and correct version of the case of the prosecution.

61. Section 134 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 for ready reference is quoted hereunder:-

"134. Number of witnesses.--No particular number of witnesses shall in any case be required for the proof of any fact."

62. It is settled that the courts are concerned with the merit of the statement of a particular witness and they are not concerned with the number of witnesses examined by the prosecution. The time honored rule of appreciation of evidence is that it has to be weighed and not counted; the law of evidence does not require any particular number of witness to be examined to prove any fact. As a rule of caution, based on the testimony of a single witness, the court may classify the oral testimony of a single witness, into three categories namely (i) wholly reliable, (ii) wholly unreliable; (iii) neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable. In the third category of cases, the court has to be circumscribed and has to look for corroboration in material particulars by reliable testimony, direct or circumstantial, before acting upon the testimony of a single witness; Lallu Manjhi Vs. State of Jharkhand12.

63. In Veer Singh Vs. State of U.P.13 it is held that conviction can be based on the evidence of sole witness in a criminal trial as quality of evidence matters not the quantity.

64. Keeping in mind the above, we proceed with the P.W.1, Kashiram. It is stated by him that on 21.11.1979 at about 4:45 p.m. in the evening when there was enough day light, he alongwith his brother "Ramphal' was returning to home. Deceased "Ramphal' was carrying his licensed gun and 25 cartridges and he was about 20 paces behind him carrying the bundle of grass. Accused-appellants Kishora, Karan Singh, Hallu and Bhaiyan pouncing out from the fields of 'jowar' of Baldu Lodhi with the axe (Kulhari), sickle (hasiya). They embraced the deceased from behind, tossed him on the ground and began inflicting the blows of sickle and axe and, thus, the deceased died of the injuries.

65. The post-mortem report of the deceased is evidence of the aforesaid injuries which are noted as under:-

(iv) Incised wound 12 cm x 5 cm vertebral column deep under byers of 3, 4 and 5.

(v) Multiple incised wound (five in number) ranging for 2 c.m. x 0.5 cm to 2 cm x 1 cm muscle deep in the area of 15 cm x 16 cm on the front of chest.

(vi) Incised wound 2 cm x 1 cm skin deep on the middle of abdon 8 cm above the umbila

(vii) Incised wound 3 cm x 2 cm muscle deep the left infernal region.

(x) Incised wound of 6 cm x 2 cm middle deep on right anterol as per upper 1/9 of right thigh.

(xi) Incised wound 3 cm x 28 muscle on anten aipet right thigh 8 cm below of no.10.

66. P.W.4, Dr. Suresh Sakalya the doctor posted in Lalitpur District Hospital who conducted the autopsy of the body proved his report and that the deceased died of the Ante mortem injuries. He assessed the approximate time of death being 21.11.1979 at about 5:00 P.M. No question was put to him as to the timing of the death. Thus, the death was proved by the ante mortem injuries, the nature of the injuries undoubtedly show that they were caused by some sharp edged and pointed weapons, most of the injuries were incised wounds except injury no.1 i.e. lacerated over the head bone deep. The depth of the injuries upto muscle deep or bone deep confirms the weapon assigned to the accused namely axe (Kulhari) and sickle (hasiya).

67. In this way, in the absence of any contradiction in the statement of the sole witness as to the mode and manner adopted by the accused appellants and the weapons used by them which stood proved with further corroboration from the post-mortem report and the evidence of the medical witness P.W.4, Dr. Suresh Sakalya, it has to be accepted. Nothing carved out from both the witnesses against this proved state of things in the cross examination. It is further reinforced by the circumstances coupled with the motive of the accused persons to commit the crime which is indicative of conclusions that the accused persons are the real offenders who had committed the alleged crime, however, such occurrence had taken place in broad day light and Kashiram (the first informant) had witnessed the entire occurrence from a short distance of about 15-20 paces. There is no possibility of committing any mistake by him, moreover, it will be indeed perverse against the ordinary course of human nature and conduct for Kashiram to permit the real assailants of deceased "Ramphal' to go unpunished and instead of implicating the accused persons just with a view to satisfy his own ego.

68. In the present case, the evidence as to the presence on the spot of incident at the relevant time and date of the incident proved to be probable and natural, free from contradictions, exaggeration or embellishment. Some minor contradictions or inconsistency are immaterial, irrelevant details which are not in the capacity in anyway corrode the credibility of witness cannot be labelled as omission or contradictions. This settled legal principle is reiterated in various decision of Hon'ble Apex Court. It is held by Hon'ble the Apex Court in Brahm Swaroop and Another Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh14 as under :-

"It is a settled legal proposition that while appreciating the evidence of a witness, minor discrepancies on trivial matters, which do not affect the core of the prosecution case, may not prompt the court to reject the evidence in its entirety. "Irrelevant details which do not in any way corrode the credibility of a witness cannot be labelled as omissions or contradictions." Difference in some minor details, which does not otherwise affect the core of the prosecution case, even if present, would not itself prompt the court to reject the evidence on minor variations and discrepancies. After exercising care and caution and shifting through the evidence to separate truth from untruth, exaggeration and improvements, the court comes to a conclusion as to whether the residuary evidence is sufficient to convict the accused. Thus, an undue importance should not be attached to omissions, contradictions and discrepancies which do not go to the heart of the matter and shake the basis version of the prosecution witness. As the mental capabilities of a human being cannot be expected to be attuned to absorb all the details, minor discrepancies are bound to occur in the statements of witnesses."

69. On the basis of above discussion and perusal of the impugned judgement in the appeal, we do not find any error in the judgment of conviction and order of sentence passed by the trial court. No intereference is required. The appeal deserves to be dismissed.

70. Consequently, the appeal against the judgment of conviction and order of sentence in Session Trial No.15 of 1980 (State Vs. Aman Singh) and Session Trial No.23 of 1980 (State Vs. Kishora) under Section 302/149, 147 and 148 I.P.C. is hereby dismissed.

71. Appellants are in jail. Certify this judgment to the court below for further necessary action and compliance. The lower court record be sent back to the District Judgeship, Lalitpur immediately for further action.

Criminal Appeal No. 2959 of 1984

Karan Singh ...Appellant (In Jail)
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri N.K. Saxena, Sri A.N. Misra, Sri G.S. Hajela, Sri Zafar Abbas, Sri Satyendra Kumar Mishra

Counsel for the Respondent:

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 8- Motive- The motive has set forth in the written information and thus first information report, is, thus, proved and is a relevant fact under Section 8 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872.

Although in a case of direct evidence, it is not mandatory for the prosecution to prove the motive but where the prosecution succeeds in proving the motive, the same only fortifies the case further against the accused.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 5- The doctrine of "falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" is not applicable in Indian Judicial System, the court has to separate grain from chaff and apprise in each case as to what extent the evidence is acceptable. If separation cannot be done, the evidence has to be rejected. The witnesses may be speaking untruth in some respect and it has to be apprised in each case as to what extent the evidence is worthy of acceptance. Merely because in some respects the court considers the same to be insufficient for placing reliance on the testimony of a witness, it does not necessarily follow as a matter of law that it must be disregarded in all respects as well.

Settled law that some falsehoods or contradictions in the testimony of a witness will not render his entire statement false and the court may rely upon the relevant parts of the testimony, but where the truthful and relevant parts are inextricable, then the evidence has to be rejected.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 134- Merely being relative of the deceased he can not be said to be interested for any otherwise reason to get the accused persons falsely implicated-Reliance can be based on the solitary statement of a witness, if the court comes to the conclusion that his statement is the true and correct version of the case of the prosecution-In the absence of any contradiction in the statement of the sole witness as to the mode and manner adopted by the accused with the weapons used by them which stood proved with further corroboration from the post-mortem report and the evidence of the medical witness P.W.12, Dr. Suresh Sakalya it has to be accepted.

It is the quality and not the quantity of evidence which is important. Where the evidence of a solitary witness is truthful and credible, the same may be sufficient for securing the conviction and cannot be discarded only because the witness happens to be related to the deceased as a related witness cannot be said to be an interested witness. 1. The instant criminal appeal is directed against the judgment of conviction and order of sentence dated 27.09.1984 passed by the Additional District and Sessions Judge, Lalitpur in Session Trial No.47 of 1983 (State Vs. Karan Singh), convicting and sentencing the appellant under Section 302, 148, 149 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 to undergo life imprisonment and rigorous imprisonment for one year respectively (Life imprisonment under Section 302/149 I.P.C. and rigorous imprisonment under Section 148 I.P.C.). From the same Case Crime No.53 of 1979, under Section 396 I.P.C., Police Station Saujana, District Lalitpur, three sessions trial were instituted i.e. Sessions Trial No.15 of 1980 (State Vs. Aman Singh & Others), Sessions Trial No.23 of 1980 (State Vs. Kishora) and Sessions Trial No.47 of 1983 (State Vs. Karan Singh) care and protection of the crops. The first informant (Kashiram) handed over his licensed gun no.1516 of 12 bore with 25 cartridges to his brother "Ramphal' and went himself into the field to cut grass. After cutting the grass at about 5:00 p.m. in the evening, when the day light was still existing, the first informant lift the bundle of grass and moved on the way to his house with his brother "Ramphal' ahead of him. About ten paces away from their field on the way to their home, when they reached near the agricultural field of Baldu Lodhi, the accused persons Karan Singh S/o Majboot Singh Thakur armed with axe (kulhari), Aman Singh S/o Majboot Singh Thakur armed with sickle (hasiya), Kishora S/o Kamatua Nai armed with axe (Kulhari), Hallu S/o Kamatua Nai armed with axe, all residents of Agodi Police Station Saujana, District Lalitpur with brother-in-law of Kishora namely "Bhaiyan Nai' R/o Village Rangaon, Police Station Mandwara, District Lalitpur, came out from the crops of 'jowar' in aforesaid field of Baldu Lodhi. They caught hold the informant's brother Ramphal and tossed him on the earth. They inflicted blows of axe (Kulhari) and sickle (Hasiya) on him. Informant's brother Ramphal began to scream and the informant was also raising alarm for help, upon which Pooran, Pragi, Jagan, Sunnu, all residents of Village Agodi rushed to the spot, but after killing Ramphal, all the five assailants fled from the spot snatching the licensed gun, cartridges and the wrist watch from the hands of the deceased. When the witnesses began to gather near the spot of the incident, Kishora Nai made a fire from the licensed gun of the informant. It was stated that the dead body of Ramphal (deceased) i.e. the informant's brother was lying in the agricultural field of Baldu Lodhi and some of the villagers stayed near the dead body.

Factual Matrix

2. The prosecution case as emerged from the written information given by the first informant, Kashiram on 22.11.1979 in the Police Station- Saujana, District Lalitpur, the evidence on record both the documentary and oral, are stated briefly as follows:-

This written information dated 22.11.1979 was given by the informant in the police station Saujana at about 8:00 a.m. The first information report was lodged accordingly, on the basis of written information under Section 396 I.P.C. The distance of the spot of the incident from the Police Station Saujana is shown as about 13 k.m. in the F.I.R. towards South-West from the police station.

After registering the F.I.R., police reached at the spot of the incident and started the proceeding of inquest, prepared site map on the orientation of witnesses, collected the blood stained soil and plain earth soil from the spot of the incident, prepared memo thereof and sent the body for post-mortem. After getting the post mortem report, charge sheet was submitted before the court.

3. All the five accused were charged with the offence under Section 147 I.P.C. for having formed an unlawful assembly alongwith another associates on 21.11.1979 at about 5:00 p.m. near the agricultural field of one Baldu Lodhi having crops of 'jowar', situated in village Agodi, Police Station- Saujana, District Lalitpur, with a common object whereof to commit the murder of Ramphal (brother of the first informant Kashiram) and in furtherance of their common object of that unlawful assembly, the accused persons allegedly had committed the offence of rioting. They were further charged under Section 302/149 I.P.C. as they committed the murder of Ramphal intentionally causing his death on the relevant date and time of the incident on the spot of the incident in furtherance of the common object of their unlawful assembly. The accused persons were also charged under Section 307/149 I.P.C. for having attempted to commit the murder of Kashiram by firing at him in pursuance of their common object on the relevant date and time on the spot of incident. They were also charged under Section 396 I.P.C. for having committed dacoity as they allegedly snatched the licensed gun alongwith 25 cartridges and automatic wrist watch and in the course of commission of the dacoity, murder of "Ramphal' was committed by one or some of them. Further, three accused Aman Singh, Hallu and Kishora were charged under Section 148 I.P.C. also for being armed with deadly weapons namley axes and sickle at the time of committing the offence of rioting.

4. Kishora, the accused in Sessions Trial No.23 of 1980 was charged under Section 379 I.P.C. for having committed theft of the gun bearing no. 1516 alongwith 25 cartridges and automatic wrist watch by taking out from the hadns of the deceased Ramphal on the relevant date and time at the spot of incident.

6. As per the report of the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lalitpur dated 28.03.2022, the sole appellant Karan Singh is absconding.

7. Learned counsel Sri Satyendra Kumar Mishra holding brief of Sri A.N. Misra Advocate appeared on behalf of the appellant. Sri Patanjali Mishra learned A.G.A. for the State respondents argued the prosecution case.

Arguments of the learned counsels.

8. Learned counsel for the appellant contended that the incident as stated by the prosecution witnesses is not as such and the deceased was killed somewhere else by some anonymous enemies earlier to the alleged date of incident i.e. 21.11.1979. He further submitted that even the presence of P.W.-5 (first informant, Kashiram) is doubtful because the first information report had been lodged with extraordinary delay without any plausible explanation. He contended that as alleged in the First Information Report, the incident of killing the deceased ''Ramphal' occurred at 5:00 p.m. on 21.11.1979, the spot of incident was 13 k.m. far away from the Police Station but the First Information Report was lodged at 8:00 a.m. on the next day i.e. 22.11.1979.

9. The next argument of the learned counsel for the appellant is with regard to impossibility of hiding of accused-appellant allegedly in the field of "'jowar", the crops whereof were more or less two feet in height. He further drew the attention towards the statement of P.W.-5 who stated that the accused appeared out from the field when the deceased reached near the "med' (boundary) of that field of "'jowar", and submits that the informant could see them pouncing on the deceased. According to the learned counsel for the appellant, hiding of the accused between the crops of approximately 2 feet in height was quite impossible.

10. Learned counsel for the appellant further contended that evidence on record reveals that the deceased "Ramphal' was member of a gang of dacoits and he might have been killed in a bit to commit dacoity at some other place or by some other rival gangs or by the villagers. For the reason of enmity, the first informant has taken undue advantage to make false implication against the accused-appellant. It is further argued that when the deceased was having gun with 25 cartridges, no one could muster courage to attack him in the manner as alleged in the F.I.R.

11. The motive is stated by the informant himself in the written information and the First Information Report establishes the enmity between the parties to the incident. Learned counsel for the appellant emphasises that the conviction is only based on suspicion, raised by the informant against the accused-appellant that the accused were suspecting the hands of the deceased in the killing of their family members in an earlier incident. It is argued that the suspicion, however, strong it may be can not take place of the facts established on the evidences.

12. Learned counsel for the appellant lastly argued that the prosecution evidence itself raised doubt as to the killing of deceased on some earlier date from the alleged date of incident 21.11.1979, somewhere else and, thereafter, the dead body was planted on the alleged spot of the incident. The medical evidence (post-mortem report) also corroborates the oldness of the dead body of the deceased alleged to have been killed on 21.11.1979 at about 5:00 p.m. Learned counsel submitted that since the prosecution remained unsuccessful in proving its case beyond all reasonable doubts, therefore, the conviction recorded by the trial judge and the sentence awarded can not be sustained in the eye of law.

13. Learned counsel for the appellant added that the eye witnesses were planted in the case falsely and for this reason which they had turned hostile and did not support the case of the prosecution. As such, the evidence on record was not sufficient and material for recording the conviction of the the present accused-appellant.

14. In rebuttal, it is argued by the learned A.G.A. that the contention of learned counsel for the appellant as to the doubt about the presence of P.W.-5 (first informant) is not correct because his presence is admitted by all other prosecution witnesses consistently and without any contradiction. The prosecution case which finds support from the oral evidences of P.W.-5 which is un-haken. Further, he argued that the arguments of the learned counsel with regard to the false implication and concocting a case by the prosecution, is baseless. P.W.-5 in his statement has explained satisfactorily about the delay in lodging the F.I.R. He further argued that the entire prosecution case is well supported with the direct evidences of eye witnesses and also the motive set forth in the written information and the prompt F.I.R. is well established.

15. Learned A.G.A. lastly drew the attention towards the statement of the prosecution witnesses who turned hostile and contended that they were not under any coercion, fear or terror while their statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was recorded, as such, the statement of such witnesses in the course of their examination in the Court shall not be read as wholly unworthy. The statement of such witnesses to the extent of lagging support to the prosecution shall be read being reliable as corroboratory evidence. He further submits that the principle of "falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" does not apply in India. He referred on the case laws Prabhash Kumar Vs. State of Haryana1, Iyappa & Ors. Vs. State of Tamil Nadu2 and Zahira Habibullah Sheikh & Anr. Vs. state of Gujarat3.

On the basis of above arguments, learned A.GA. submitted that the impugned judgment of conviction and order of sentence is good in law and deserves to be confirmed, no interference is required in the impugned judgment under appeal, as such, the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

Discussion

Motive

16. In Sheo Shankar Singh Vs. State of Jharkhand and Anr.4, the principles for the proof and relevance of motive in establishing the guilt of the accused and its varying importance in cases based on circumstantial evidence and in those which are based on the testimony of eye witnesses has been discussed. Para "15' of the said judgment is being quoted hereunder:-

"15. The legal position regarding proof of motive as an essential requirement for bringing home the guilt of the accused is fairly well settled by a long line of decisions of this Court. These decisions have made a clear distinction between cases where prosecution relies upon circumstantial evidence on the one hand and those where it relies upon the testimony of eye witnesses on the other. In the former category of cases proof of motive is given the importance it deserves, for proof of a motive itself constitutes a link in the chain of circumstances upon which the prosecution may rely. Proof of motive, however, recedes into the background in cases where the prosecution relies upon an eye-witness account of the occurrence. That is because if the court upon a proper appraisal of the deposition of the eye-witnesses comes to the conclusion that the version given by them is credible, absence of evidence to prove the motive is rendered inconsequential. Conversely even if prosecution succeeds in establishing a strong motive for the commission of the offence, but the evidence of the eye-witnesses is found unreliable or unworthy of credit, existence of a motive does not by itself provide a safe basis for convicting the accused. That does not, however, mean that proof of motive even in a case which rests on an eye-witness account does not lend strength to the prosecution case or fortify the court in its ultimate conclusion. Proof of motive in such a situation certainly helps the prosecution and supports the eye-witnesses."

17. The suspicion of the accused persons over Ramphal (deceased) of having killed their family members is, however, proved by the witness P.W.-5. In his cross-examination by the defence, he stated that the criminal case with regard to the incident of killing of the family members of the accused appellant instituted against the brother of the informant (Ramphal), the deceased and his father. Police was searching his brother (Ramphal) but he could not be traced by them. Ramphal ultimately surrendered alongwith other "baghis' (dacoits) in District Chatarpur. He also stated that he does not know about the gang of dacoits to which the deceased Ramphal belonged, however, in the murder case, he was acquitted by the court concerned.

Witness Jagan has also stated in the cross examination that the parents of the accused appellant Karan Singh were murdered and father of the accused Hallu and Kishora was also murdered. He further stated that deceased Ramphal was prosecuted for the above three murders wherein he was acquitted. He further stated that the said criminal case was running in District Sagar.

Witness Pooran has also stated in the cross-examination about the murder of parents of accused Karan Singh, Aman Singh and father of Kishora and Hallu in village. He admitted that the accused persons had a strong suspicion over the deceased "Ramphal' of having committed their murder. This witness then stated that he heard that the Ramphal (deceased) had joined the gang of dacoit of "Moni Ram Sahai' and the people from the village were witnesses in the murder case against deceased Ramphal.

Pragi stated that when the murder of the parents of the accused appellants had occurred, they were very young. He himself also young age. As such, all witnesses Kashiram (P.W.5) Sunnu (P.W.3), Jagan, Pooran (P.W.2) and Pragi, even those who did not support the case of the prosecution in toto and had supported the fact constituting the motive behind the killing of Ramphal. The motive has set forth in the written information and thus first information report, is, thus, proved and is a relevant fact under Section 8 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872.

Relevant date and time of the incident.

18. Though it is argued by the learned counsel for the appellant that the evidence on record shows that the deceased might have been killed somewhere else prior to the alleged date of incident dated 21.11.1979 and the dead body was planted maliciously by the first informant by reason of enmity with the accused appellant. We have gone through the evidences of P.W.-5 and as discussed above, it may be recorded that there was no enmity between the first informant Kashiram (P.W.-5) and the accused appellant. Kashiram (P.W.-5), the first informant himself stated that being the villager of the same village, the accused appellant and he were on normal terms of visiting each other houses and talking to each other. None of the witnesses of the prosecution stated about the "enmity', if any, of Kashiram with the accused appellant nor any suggestion of enmity had been given to the first informant. So far as enmity of the accused appellant with deceased Ramphal is concerned, it is established by evidence of prosecution witnesses that the same was because of the deceased being the accused in the murder case of parents of the accused, who had been acquitted. The arguments of the learned counsel for the appellant of planting of the dead body on the spot of the incident by the first informant (P.W.-5) is not acceptable. Particularly, when the spot of the incident is proved satisfactorily by all the witnesses of fact as well as the formal witnesses also.

19. The doctor P.W.-12, Dr. Suresh Sakalya had also not been confronted to impeach him about his assessment that the deceased might have died on 21.11.1979 at about 5:00 p.m. in the evening. No questions were put to him by the defence about the condition of the dead body on the date of the post-mortem examination so as to relate the same to the oldness of the dead body and to reach at the proximate time of death prior to the established date and time of the incident, i.e. on 21.11.1979 at about 5:00 P.M. It is, therefore, needless to discuss on this point.

20. The accused persons, as the written information itself reveals, are related toh each other. The accused Karan Singh and Aman Singh are real brothers, sons of "Majboot Singh Thakur', accused Kishora and Hallu are real brothers, sons of "Kamatua Nai', all residents of Village Agodi where the incident had occurred and first informant P.W.-5 resides. The accused Bhaiyan Nai is related to Kishora and Hallu being their brother-in-law (sister's husband) who is resident of Village Rangaon, Police Station Mandwara, District Lalitpur. P.W.-5 in his examination-in-chief stated that the father of accused Kishora and Hallu was murdered and parents of Karan Singh and Aman Singh were also murdered. They all were suspecting "Ramphal' to be the perpetrator of the crime and, therefore, hatched enmity with the deceased

"Ramphal'. Due to the suspicion, out of vengeance, the accused had killed the deceased Ramphal. In cross examination, this witness stated at the very inception that he is residing in village Agodi and during his lifetime the parents of the accused persons were killed. He further stated that being local resident of same village, he had conversation eventually with the accused persons also. Accused persons also used to visit the first informant P.W.-5, if need be in connection with some work. As such, P.W.-5 established that the accused-appellant had no enmity with him (P.W.-5).

21. Kashiram, P.W.5 is brother of the deceased, Pooran (P.W.-2) and Sunnu (P.W.3) are the eye witnesses. The first informant "Kashiram' who reported the incident dated 21.11.1979 to the Police on 22.11.1979 at about 08:00 A.M. had been examined by the prosecution as witness of fact and eye witness of the incident. Pooran (P.W.-2) and Sunnu (P.W.-3) were also examined as eye witnesses by the prosecution. These three witnesses were examined in Sessions Trial No.15 of 1980 (State Vs. Aman Singh & Others) and Sessions Trial No.23 of 1980 (State Vs. Kishora). A new witness namely Chutti was also examined as prosecution witness P.W.-1 in the case. P.W.-5 is real brother of the deceased "Ramphal' and, as such, related witness. P.W.-2 and P.W.-3 are the native villagers, owners of the agriculture fields situated near and abutting the field of Baldu, which is the place of the incident dated 21.11.1979 occurred at about 05:00 P.M. in the evening. They were agriculturist having their field in the near vicinity of the spot of the incident (the field of Baldu).

22. We have gone through the statement of P.W.-5 "Kashiram' and do not find any prior enmity of Kashiram himself with any of the accused persons. Even Kashiram stated that the accused persons were on the normal terms of visiting and conversing with him, if needed, in connection with any work, as they were residing since a long time in the same village.

23. Learned counsel for the defence has could not carve out any fact of complaint of enmity of Kashiram with any of the accused persons prior to the date of the incident or any civil or criminal litigation pending between them. No question was put to the witness "Kashiram' so as to elicit his interestedness in falsely implicating the accused persons for putting them behind the bars.

24. Witness P.W.-1, P.W.-2, P.W.-3 and P.W.-5 undoubtedly, as evidence came out from the record, are rustic villager and living in a milieu of a remote village namely Agodi in District Lalitpur. They are not highly educated, simply literate or even illiterate.

25. So far as the delay of more than 12 hours in lodging the F.I.R. is concerned, it is reasonably explained by the P.W.-5, Kashiram that he did not go in the night to lodge the report because of the fear of the accused persons. The evidence of his fear can be gathered from the evidence on record.

26. The milieu of the village Agodi and the life of the villagers there, may be gathered from the evidences coming out from the record. We can carved out the same as below.

(i) the spot of the incident in the village Agodi was within the territorial limit of District Lalitpur which was declared and notified as a dacoit affected area by the Government,

(ii) carrying a licensed gun even during the agricultural work in the evening in itself is an indication of fear of life to the brother namely Kashiram and Ramphal (deceased),

(iii) in cross examination of the witnesses, it has come that the deceased "Ramphal' was arraigned with the charge of murders of parents of accused persons. A criminal case was also lodged.

(iv) the deceased "Ramphal' alongwith some other "baghis' (dacoits) surrendered in District Chhatarpur. He was known to be an active member of the gang of the dacoits, identified as "Moniram Sahai Gang',

(v) One of the accused "Karan Singh' was himself suspected to be an active member of dacoits gang identified as "Gabbar Singh's Gang',

(vi) The way to the police station from the spot of the incident is shown to be about 13 k.m. which was in the outskirts of area not urbanized and populated, it was not easy to travel in the night,

(vii) the mode and manner adopted by the accused persons was not only violent but also brutal and gruesome,

(viii) The assailants after killing the deceased "Ramphal', fled away from the spot of the incident and were roaming free.

27. Before going through the statements of aforesaid witnesses of fact we would like to refer para "5' of the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai Vs. State of Gujarat5 where Apex Court observed that:-

(1) By and large a witness cannot be expected to possess a photographic memory and to recall the details of an incident. It is not as if a video tape is replayed on the mental screen.

(2) ordinarily it so happens that a witness is overtaken by events. The witness could not have anticipated the occurrence which so often has an element of surprise. The mental faculties therefore cannot be expected to be attuned to absorb the details.

(3) The powers of observation differ from person to person. What one may notice, another may not. An object or movement might emboss its image on one person's mind whereas it might go unnoticed on the part of another.

(4) By and large people cannot accurately recall a conversation and reproduce the very words used by them or heard by them. They can only recall the main purport of the conversation. It is unrealistic to expect a witness to be a human tape recorder.

(5) In regard to exact time of an incident, or the time duration of an occurrence, usually, people make their estimates by guess work on the spur of the moment 1.1 at the time of interrogation. And one cannot expect people to make very precise or reliable estimates in such matters. Again, it depends on the time-sense of individuals which varies from person to person.

(6) Ordinarily a witness cannot be expected to recall accurately the sequence of events which take place in rapid succession or in a short time span. A witness is liable to get confused, or mixed up when interrogated later on.

(7) A witness, though wholly truthful, is liable to be overawed by the court atmosphere and the piercing cross examination made by counsel and out of nervousness mix up facts, get confused regarding sequence of events, or fill up details from imagination on the spur of the moment. The sub-conscious mind of the witness sometimes so operates on account of the fear of looking foolish or being disbelieved though the witness is giving a truthful and honest account of the occurrence witnessed by him-Perhaps it is a sort of a psychological defence mechanism activated on the spur of the moment.

28. In view of the aforesaid circumstances and the witnesses, status, milieu and their normal prudence, we think it proper to observe on the basis of evidences that the prosecution witnesses of fact are rustic villagers, not highly educated, even illiterate or simply literate.

29. In the context of the aforesaid observation, we further refer to the judgment of the Apex Court in Shivaji Sahab Rao Bobade Vs. State of Maharashtra6 which deals with an incident of murder in a rural area where the witnesses to the case were rustic and so it was observed that their behavioural pattern perceptive and un-perceptive habits have to be judged as such. The relevant para from the aforesaid judgment is reproduced hereunder:-

"8. Now to the facts. The scene of murder is rural, the witnesses to the case are rustics and so their behavioural pattern and perceptive habits have to be judged as such. The too sophisticated approaches familiar in courts based on unreal assumptions about human conduct cannot obviously be applied to those given to the lethargic ways of our villages. When scanning the evidence of the various witnesses we have to inform ourselves that variances on the fringes, discrepancies in details, contradictions in narrations and embellishments in inessential parts cannot militate against the veracity of the core of the testimony provided there is the impress of truth and conformity to probability in the substantial fabric of testimony delivered. The learned Sessions Judge has at some length dissected the evidence, spun out contradictions and unnatural conduct, and tested with precision the time and sequence of the events connected with the crime, all on the touchstone of the medical evidence and the post-mortem certificate. Certainly, the court which has seen the witnesses depose, has a great advantage over the appellate Judge who reads the recorded evidence in cold print, and regard must be had to this advantage enjoyed by the trial Judge of observing the demeanour and delivery, of reading the straightforwardness and doubtful candour, rustic naivete and clever equivocation, manipulated conformity and ingenious unveracity of persons who swear to the facts before him. Nevertheless, where a Judge draws his conclusions not so much on the directness or dubiety of the witness while on oath but upon general probabilities and on expert evidence, the court of appeal is in as good a position to assess or arrive at legitimate conclusions as the Court of first instance. Nor can we make a fetish of the trial Judge's psychic insight."

30. We think it pertinent to mention here that the witness P.W.-1 "Chutti' did not support the case of prosecution and declared hostile. The witness P.W.-5 remained intact on his stand and supported the case of prosecution. The prosecution has produced on record, two certified copies of the extracts of the statement of witnesses Jagan, Pooran, Pragi and Sunnu recorded by the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and that recorded by the Judicial Magistrate under Section 164 Cr.P.C. also. All these witnesses were examined by the trial judge in the Sessions Trial No.15 of 1980 (State Vs. Aman Singh & Others) and Sessions Trial No.23 of 1980 (State Vs. Kishora). The aforesaid two Sessions Trials as well as the present Sessions Trial No.47 of 1983 (State Vs. Karan Singh) have their origin from the same Case Crime No.53 of 1979, under Section 396 I.P.C.

31. In the trial of Sessions Trial No.15 of 1980 (State Vs. Aman Singh & Others) and Sessions Trial No.23 of 1980 (State Vs. Kishora), the witness did not support as to the mode and manner adopted, complicity and identification of the accused persons in commission of the incident dated 21.11.1979 but so far as the incident of killing of deceased "Ramphal' on 21.11.1979 at about 05:00 P.M. at the spot of the incident in the field of Baldu and their presence near the spot of the incident, was admitted by them.

32. They had retracted from their statement made under Section 161 Cr.P.C. before the Investigating Officer with regard to the mode and manner adopted by them and complicity and identity of the accused persons in commission of the offence dated 21.11.1979 before the Court. However, the same statement was given before the Magistrate under Section 164 Cr.P.C. which they admitted and proved before the Court. They also proved before the Court, identifying and verifying their signature on the statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. The Magistrate, Sri Bichitra Kumar Gupta was also examined before the Court in those sessions trials and he proved the statement recorded by him under Section 164 Cr.P.C. of the accused, as such, the statement of the accused to the same effect under Section 164 Cr.P.C. is proved before the Court and is a proved document. The Magistrate, Sri Bichitra Kumar Gupta is also witnessed in the present sessions trial as P.W.-4. The extracts of the witness under Section 161 Cr.P.C and 164 Cr.P.C. cumulatively will be taken as the narration of the incident by the witness coupled with their statement in the present trial.

Evidence as to the status, character and profession of the deceased, Ramphal.

33. In the case before us there are five witnesses of fact. They are first informant Kashiram (P.W.5), Sunnu (P.W.3), Jagan, Pooran (P.W.2), Pragi. Along with P.W.5 (brother of the deceased), the rest of the witnesses namely Sunnu, Jagan, Pooran and Pragi were all examined as eye witnesses of the incident whose names have been given in the written information also. It is stated in the written report by the first informant that at the time of the incident, hearing the screams of the deceased and alarm raised by the first informant P.W.5, the other witnesses came running on the spot as they were working in the nearby agricultural fields. On ebing challenged by them, the accused Kishora made a fire towards them and they succeeded in fleeing away from the spot. P.W.-5 being the brother of the deceased is a related witness. Learned counsel for the appellant has raised objection as to his credibility and reliability for the reason of his interestedness. Except P.W.5, rest of the witnesses turned hostile as they denied having seen the accused appellant committing the offence. The question, thus, would be as to the evidentiary value of the statement of the hostile witnesses, with regard to the facts deposed by them and the effect of the portion of their statement not supporting the prosecution case.

34. It is well settled that in a criminal trial, evidence of a hostile witnesses can form the basis of conviction. In the matter of appreciation of evidence of witnesses, it is not the number of witnesses but the quality of their evidence matters.

Reliance on the statement of hostile witnesses

35. In the case before us we have already noticed that prosecution witnesses Sunnu (P.W.3) and Pooran (P.W.2) were examined as the prosecution witnesses to prove the fact in issue as to whether the accused persons committed the killing of the deceased "Ramphal' on the relevant date and time on the spot of the incident alleged in the written information by inflicting blows of lethal weapons like axe, sickle, etc.

36. The Apex Court in the case of Mrinal Das Vs. State of Tripura7 in para "67' has held as under:-

67. It is settled law that corroborated part of evidence of hostile witness regarding commission of offence is admissible. The fact that the witness was declared hostile at the instance of the Public Prosecutor and he was allowed to cross-examine the witness furnishes no justification for rejecting en bloc the evidence of the witness. However, the court has to be very careful, as prima facie, a witness who makes different statements at different times, has no regard for the truth. His evidence has to be read and considered as a whole with a view to find out whether any weight should be attached to it. The court should be slow to act on the testimony of such a witness, normally, it should look for corroboration with other witnesses. Merely because a witness deviates from his statement made in the FIR, his evidence cannot be held to be totally unreliable. To make it clear that evidence of hostile witness can be relied upon at least up to the extent, he supported the case of the prosecution. The evidence of a person does not become effaced from the record merely because he has turned hostile and his deposition must be examined more cautiously to find out as to what extent he has supported the case of the prosecution.

37. In view of the aforesaid guidelines laid down by the Apex Court whereupon the evidence of the prosecution witnesses (declared hostile) is required to be evaluated. In the present case in our hand, since the learned counsel has raised objection as to the credibility and reliability of P.W.5, Kashiram (first informant) also and blamed him to concoct the case for false impliacation of the accused appellant, we would discuss the evidence of P.W.-5 later after evaluating the evidence of hostile witnesses and finding out which part of their testimony is to be taken into reliance and is corroborating the prosecution case.

38. In Siddharth Vashisth @ Manu Sharma Vs. State of N.C.T., Delhi8, it is held that if the prosecution witnesses turned hostile the court may rely upon so much of his testimony which supports the case of prosecution and is corroborated by other evidences.

39. The doctrine of "falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" is not applicable in Indian Judicial System, the court has to separate grain from chaff and apprise in each case as to what extent the evidence is acceptable. If separation cannot be done, the evidence has to be rejected. The witnesses may be speaking untruth in some respect and it has to be apprised in each case as to what extent the evidence is worthy of acceptance. Merely because in some respects the court considers the same to be insufficient for placing reliance on the testimony of a witness, it does not necessarily follow as a matter of law that it must be disregarded in all respects as well. It is held in number of cases of Apex Court, one of such judgment is Babu @ Balasubramaniam & Arn. Vs. State of Tamil Nadu9.

40. In Ashok Kumar Chaudhary Vs. State of Bihar10 and Sucha Singh Vs. State of Punjab11, it was held that, if the testimony of a witness is otherwise found trustworthy and reliable, the same cannot be disbelieved and rejected merely because certain insignificant, normal and natural contradictions have appeared in his testimony. If the inconsistencies, contradictions, exaggerations, embellishments and discrepancies in the testimony are normal and not material in nature, then the testimony of an eye witness has to be accepted and acted upon. The distinction between normal discrepancies and material discrepancies are that while normal discrepancies do not corrode the credibility of a parties case, material discrepancies do so.

41. In view of the above legal position, we first of all would like to remind that the spot of the incident alleged, is the field of "'jowar" in village Agodi, belonging to Baldu Lodhi on which boundary (med), the deceased Ramphal was about to reach when the accused appellant alleged to have pounced on him coming out from his hiding in the crops of "'jowar". The time of the incident was about 5:00 p.m. in the evening of 21.11.1979. The field of witnesses Sunnu (P.W.3), Jagan, Pooran and Pragi were situated nearby the spot of the incident, hearing the noise of screaming of the deceased and alarm raised by the first informant, the witnesses reached there. A fire from the gun was also made after killing the deceased by the accused Kishora towards the witnesses so as to ward off them.

42. In the context of the aforesaid fact stated in the written information, we would go through the statements of witnesses one by one.

Witness P.W.-5

43. Since the presence of P.W.-5, Kashiram is admitted by other witness of fact though they turned hostile and his presence is also found to be quite natural and probable in his agricultural field, his evidence now has to be evaluated keeping in mind that this witness was present on the spot of the incident and had seen the entire incident as stated in the written report filed by him.

Objection as to P.W.-5 being relative witness

44. Merely being relative of the deceased he can not be said to be interested for any otherwise reason to get the accused persons falsely implicated.

45. In Vijendra Singh Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh with Mahendra Singh Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh12, the Apex Court has held in para 31 as under:-

"31. In this regard reference to a passage from Hari Obula Reddy v. State of A.P. [Hari Obula Reddy v. State of A.P., (1981) 3 SCC 675 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 795] would be fruitful. In the said case, a three-Judge Bench has ruled that : (SCC pp. 683-84, para 13)

"[it cannot] be laid down as an invariable rule that interested evidence can never form the basis of conviction unless corroborated to a material extent in material particulars by independent evidence. All that is necessary is that the evidence of the interested witnesses should be subjected to careful scrutiny and accepted with caution. If on such scrutiny, the interested testimony is found to be intrinsically reliable or inherently probable, it may, by itself, be sufficient, in the circumstances of the particular case, to base a conviction thereon."

It is worthy to note that there is a distinction between a witness who is related and an interested witness. A relative is a natural witness. The Court in Kartik Malhar v. State of Bihar [Kartik Malhar v. State of Bihar, (1996) 1 SCC 614 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 188] has opined that a close relative who is a natural witness cannot be regarded as an interested witness, for the term "interested" postulates that the witness must have some interest in having the accused, somehow or the other, convicted for some animus or for some other reason."

46. In Sucha Singh and Another Vs. State of Punjab (Supra), it is held that relationship is not a factor to effect the credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal the actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible. Para 13 of the said judgment is quoted under:-

13. We shall first deal with the contention regarding interestedness of the witnesses for furthering the prosecution version. Relationship is not a factor to affect the credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal the actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible.

47. In the context of evidences on record, we are of considered opinion that the argument of the learned counsel for the appellant about the witness (P.W.-5) being a close relative a partisan witness and his evidence should not be relied upon, has no substance. This impression in the mind of any person that relatives are not independent is not correct. In para "14' of the Sucha Singh and Another Vs. State of Punjab (Supra), the Apex Court has considered it as under:-

1465] it has been laid down as under : (AIR p. 366, para 26)

"26. A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily a close relation would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, that there is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth. However, we are not attempting any sweeping generalization. Each case must be judged on its own facts. Our observations are only made to combat what is so often put forward in cases before us as a general rule of prudence. There is no such general rule. Each case must be limited to and be governed by its own facts."

48. In this regard, para "22' from the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Shyam Babu Vs. State of U.P.13, is reproduced hereunder:-

"This Court has repeatedly held that the version of an eye-witness cannot be discarded by the Court merely on the ground that such eye-witness happened to be a relative or friend of the deceased. It is also stated that where the presence of the eye-witnesses is proved to be natural and their statements are nothing but truthful disclosure of actual facts leading to the occurrence, it will not be permissible for the Court to discard the statement of such related or friendly witnesses. To put it clear, there is no bar in law on examining family members or any other person as witnesses. In fact, in cases involving family members of both sides, it is a member of the family or a friend who comes to rescue the injured. If the statement of witnesses, who are relatives or known to the parties affected is credible, reliable, trustworthy and corroborated by other witnesses, there would hardly be any reason for the court to reject such evidence merely on the ground that the witness was a family member or an interested witness or a person known to the affected party or friend etc. These principles have been reiterated in Mano Dutt and Another vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2012) 4 SCC 79 and Dayal Singh and Others vs. State of Uttaranchal, 2012 (7) Scale 165."

Enmity

49. We have gone through the statement of P.W.-5 "Kashiram' and do not find any prior enmity of Kashiram himself with any of the accused persons. Even Kashiram stated that the accused persons were on the normal terms of visiting and conversing with him, if needed in connection with any work, as they were residing since a long time in the same village.

50. Learned counsel for the defence could not carve out any fact of complaint of any enmity of Kashiram with any of the accused persons prior to the date of the incident or any civil or criminal litigation pending between them. No question was put to the witness (P.W.-5) "Kashiram' so as to elicit his interestedness in falsely implicating the accused persons for putting them being the bars.

Witness P.W.-3

51. P.W.-3, Sunnu -S/o Sultan resident of village Agodi, who by profession is an agriculturist, when produced before the court on 16.7.1982 [in Sessions Trial No.15 of 1980 (State Vs. Aman Singh & Others)], this witness [Sunnu (P.W.-3)] in unequivocal, explicit and assertively admitted in his examination-in-chief his presence near the spot of the incident at the relevant date and time of incident and that he went to his field for cutting grass. He also affirmed the presence of other witnesses Jagan, Pooran and Pragi who alongwith him ran towards the spot of incident in the field of Baldu hearing the screaming of Ramphal and alarm raised by the Kashiram. He had further admitted that accused Karan Singh was armed with axe (kulhadi), Hallu alongwith sickle and Kishora with kulhadi, accused Bhaiyan caught hold the deceased "Ramphal'. All the five accused named by him intended to kill the deceased "Ramphal', were inflicting blows of their arms on him, when the accused Kishora made a fire from the gun on the deceased "Ramphal', all the witnesses fled from the spot being under fear.

52. This witness has further explained in his cross-examination, the reason and the circumstance under which he turned hostile while produced before the Court in Sessions Trial No.15 of 1980 (State Vs. Aman Singh & Others). He stated that the statement given by him in the present Sessions Trial No.47 of 1983 (State Vs. Karan Singh) is correct. When he was read over the earlier statement given by him in the Sessions Trial No.15 of 1980 (State Vs. Aman Singh & Others), wherein he did not support the prosecution case about the role, mode and manner adopted by the five accused persons. On both the occasions, he stated on his own that he was scared of the Investigating Officer (Daroga Ji) and was given two suggestions by the the defence:-

(i) He was not making correct statement under the pressure of the police, which was denied by him saying it was incorrect.

(ii) P.W.-3 was given suggestion that he did not see anything on the spot of the incident. He further denied and stated that it was incorrect that he did not see anything.

53. This witness, during his cross-examination, has further confirmed the location of the spot of the incident being the field of Baldu, the occurrence of violent fracas running about 4-6 minutes before him. He also stated firmly about the injuries on the person of the deceased. He further stated that the blows of the arms (axes and sickles) were made on the neck, shoulder and abdomen of the deceased "Ramphal'. He lastly stated that when the fire from the gun was made on them, they all fled from the spot and that the gun was fired for the purpose of warding them off from the dead body of the deceased. As such, the witness P.W-3 remained versatile in his statement but it could not be said that he did not see the incident on the spot as his presence on the spot of the incident constantly remained same in both the cases un-retracted, un-contradicted and consistent, as such, the statement of this witness as to the presence of the accused persons on the spot of the incident, their role, the mode and manner adopted by them in committing the offence with the help of the arms held by them is to be taken into account in favour of the prosecution.

54. P.W.-1 Chutti - This witness was not named in the written information and the first information report. His name was not given by other witnesses namely Pooran, Jagan, Pragi, Kashiram and etc. of being present near or on the spot and that might have seen the incident. He claimed himself the witness of the inquest and, therefore, he proved his signature over the inquest report. In his cross-examination, Chutti (P.W.-1) stated about the location, dimension and position of the dead body lying on the earth of the spot of the incident near the boundary (med) in the field of Baldu. He stated about the injuries on the dead body only on the leg and near the eyes of the deceased and denied other injuries. The statement of this witness is irrelevant as to the role of the accused persons, mode and manner adopted by them in killing of the deceased and arms used by them in the course of incident because he has not claimed him being present on the spot at the time of the incident.

55. However, the witness P.W.-1 has proved the relevant date of the incident as he stated without any contradiction that the dead body was lying on the earth of the spot of the incident on the relevant date and time of the incident.

56. P.W.2 Pooran by profession is an agriculturist resident of village Agodi who was earlier been examined in the Sessions Trial No.15 of 1980 (State Vs. Aman Singh & Others) on 04.08.1982 and did not support the case of prosecution about the role of, mode and manner adopted, the arms held by the accused persons and killing of the deceased "Ramphal'. He denied seeing the accused appellant committing the murder of the deceased "Ramphal' on 21.11.1979 and also seeing the accused Kishora taking away the licensed gun and cartridges of the informant Kashiram and wrist watch of the deceased. In cross examination, he admitted that the investigating officer had interrogated him but denied from giving any such statement with regard to seeing the accused persons committing the offence. He admitted, however, that Ramphal was killed in the field of Baldu Lodhi abutting to the field of informant Kashiram but when like the other witness P.W. 3, he was asked about his statement made to the Magistrate under Section 164 Cr.P.C. and read over the statement dated 15.12.1979, he admitted the same having been given by him recorded by the Magistrate and his thumb impression thereon. This witness also has not been confronted by the defence in the cross examination about the presence of this witness alongwith other witnesses on the spot of the incident particularly the statement of the witness P.W.-3 in this regard, therefore, the presence of this witness with P.W.-3 on the spot on the relevant date at the relvant time of the commission of offence, his conduct of retracting from his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and that recorded by the Magistrate under Section 164 Cr.P.C. will be treated as an afterthought by reason of some vested interest and, therefore, a false statement before the court which cannot be read in favour of the defence. However, this witness has proved the motive set up by the prosecution by saying that the parents of accused Karan and Aman Singh (real brothers) as well as parents of Kishora and Hallu (real brothers) were murdered in the village and the deceased Ramphal was a suspect for committing murder and a criminal case was also lodged against him wherein he was acquitted.

57. In the present matter (in Sessions Trial No.47 of 1983; State Vs. Karan Singh), when he was produced before the Court for examination-in-chief on 14.06.1984, P.W.-2 in explicit and unequivocal words, supported the case of prosecution on above aspects. In his cross-examination, P.W.-2 explained about his earlier statement in Sessions Trial No.15 of 1980 (State Vs. Aman Singh & Others). He said his statement in the present matter true and denied the suggestion that he was making a false statement under the pressure of the police. He also denied the suggestion that nothing was seen by him.

Witness P.W.-4

58. P.W.-4, Bichitra Kumar Gupta- the then Munsif Magistrate was examined in earlier Sessions Trial No.15 of 1980 (State Vs. Aman Singh & Others) where the witnesses turned hostile and proved the statements of the witnesses recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. which the hostile witnesses also admitted to have been recorded. Sri Bichitra Kumar Gupta in the present case also proved recording of the statement of witnesses under Section 164 Cr.P.C. on 15.12.1979. He stated that the statements of witnesses Kashiram and Pooran were recorded by him under Section 164 Cr.P.C. on 15.12.1979. Whatever they said, was recorded and after having the same reduced into writing by him, it was read over to them and they put their thumb impression prved as Ex. Ka-12 and Ex.Ka-30. He further stated that on 17.12.1979 and 15.12.1979, he recorded the statements of witnesses Pragi, Sunnu and Jagan under Section 164 Cr.P.C., proved as Ex.Ka-31 and Ex.Ka-11. As such the prosecution has successfully established that the witnesses turned hostile retracting their statement made before the investigating officer purposely and falsely, their statement as to the involvement of the accused persons, their mode and manner adopted in killing the deceased Ramphal and weapons used by them, all were supporting the case of prosecution and they could not deny their statement made before the Magistrate under Section 164 Cr.P.C.

In view of the above discussion, the statement of the witnesses, who were declared hostile in earlier Sessions Trial No.15 of 1980 (State Vs. Aman Singh), instituted on the same case crime number relating to the same incident, are held in the present sessions trial, correctly stating about the identity of accused appellant and his complicity in the offence, killing the deceased "Ramphal' in the mode and manner and with the help of weapons assigned to them in the written information, the prosecution in this case has been successful in establishing the case against the accused appellant.

Spot of the incident

59. As already discussed above, from the evidence of prosecution witnesses Sunnu (P.W.3) and Pooran (P.W.2) that they admitted the place of the incident near the agricultural field of Baldu Lodhi and that their own fields were situated nearby. They have consistently and without any contradiction proved that the dead body was lying on the spot of the incident when they reached there hearing the gunshot. The blood stained soil and plain earth soil were collected by the Investigating Officer from the spot and was proved in the court. The prosecution witnesses had also admitted the collection of aforesaid samples from the spot of the incident by the Investigating Officer. The inquest proceeding was done and proved by the witnesses which also establishes the spot of the incident being the same place. The Investigating Officer, P.W.6, Sub Inspector, Surjan Singh in his examination-in-chief before the trial court proved that the dead body of the deceased "Ramphal' was lying on the spot of incident, where he made the inquest proceeding. He also proved preparation of site plan on the orientation of witnesses Kashiram (P.W.5) and Jagan. The site plan, Ex. Ka.20, shows the place where the dead body of the deceased was lying as "D'. There is a remark that "at its South nearby the vicinity, the crops of 'jowar' was found broken and the dead body of the deceased was lying". It also shows that the blood stained soil and plain earth soil was collected from the same place. The agriculture field of informant Kashiram has been shown by letter "C' at about ten paces away from the boundary (med) of the field of Baldu Lodhi where the incident occurred. In the vicinity, the witnesses Jagan and Pooran are shown near the place "C". As such, the spot of the incident as stated by the first informant, Kashiram in the written report submitted to the police, was proved to be the boundary (med) of the 'jowar' field of Baldu Lodhi.

Written information and delayed First Information Report

60. The witness P.W.-5 (first informant, Kashiram) submitted the information in writing to the police on 22.11.1979 stating the date of incident 21.11.1979 and time at about 5:00 P.M. and also his presence in connection with the agricultural work of removing grass from his field of 'jowar' situated near the spot of the incident in village Agodi. He further stated the presence of deceased "Ramphal' with him at the time of the incident, who was carrying the bundle of grass also carrying licnsed gun of the informant and that he was leading to the way to their home. The name of the accused-appellants are, respectively Aman Singh, Kishora and Hallu, all residents of village Agodi and accused Bhaiyan, the brother-in-law of the Kishora and Hallu resident of village Rangao Police Station Mandwara, District Lalitpur. P.W.-5 has also stated that the aforesaid accused persons were hidden in the field of Baldu Lodhi in the crops of 'jowar', which were about two feet in height and they became visible when they suddenly came out on the spot of the incident and pounced with their respective arms like axe and sickle, the deceased was caught hold by them and the accused persons injured him seriously by inflicting the blows of their lethal weapons and done him to death on the spot. In the course of the incident, the accused Kishora snatched the licensed gun of Kashiram from the hands of deceased "Ramphal' and Kishora, made a fire on the witnesses who came running towards the spot of the incident on hearing the scream of deceased and alarm raised by the first informal Kashiram (P.W.5) so as to ward off them. The motive is also stated by the first informant that the accused persons were suspecting that the deceased "Ramphal' had killed their parents much earlier to the present incident.

61. The incident as stated in the written information occurred on 21.11.1979 at about 5:00 P.M. before the sunset, but the first information report was lodged on 22.11.1979 at about 8:00 A.M., on the next morning of the incident. The distance of the spot of the incident from the police station is shown in the F.I.R. 13 Km.

62 . Learned counsel for the appellant vehemently argued that the first information report was lodged with an unreasonable delay which is sufficient to cast a doubt as to the genuineness of the F.I.R. To deal with this objection, we have gone through the evidence of P.W.5 (the first informant) and the Investigating Officer (P.W.6). The first informant (P.W.-5) stated the time of the incident about 4:45 P.M. in the evening before sunset on 21.11.1979. He further stated in the examination-in-chief that on the very evening of the day of incident he did not go to the police station for lodging the F.I.R. due to the falling of the night and fear of accused persons, he went in the morning on the next day i.e. 22.11.1979 to the police station for lodging the report. He further stated that the written report of the incident was given in the police station who reduced the same into writing and gave him a copy, getting his signature for receiving. The written report given by him in the police station was proved as Ex. Ka.1.

63. In the cross examination, this witness stated about the proximate period of the violent fracas committed by the accused persons from 15-20 minutes to half an hour and that after the incident he stayed along with the native villagers near the dead body of his brother throughout the night. He further stated that he left the spot of the incident to go to the police station when dawn fell and came back with the Investigating Officer to the village at about 11 A.M. He clarified that for the whole day just from the dawn upto the sunset, the dead body was lying on the spot. He further stated that the inquest proceeding was started at about 11:00 a.m. on the date of the information of the incident.

64. P.W.-6, the Investigating Officer Surjan Singh, Sub Inspector stated that on 22.11.1979 he was present in the police station when P.W.5, Kashiram came to him. No question was put to this witness with regard to information of incident, if any, is received by him on the same evening nor any wilful delay on his part. Even question is not put nor suggestion given to him as to his interestedness or consultation prior to the lodging of F.I.R. on the basis of the written report submitted by P.W.-5 to alter the contents of the same. In cross examination, in answer to the question put by the defence, this witness (P.W.-6) assertingly stated that the first informant came to him at about 8:00 a.m. in the morning of 22.11.1979 to lodge the report. The report was lodged in the presence of P.W.-6 (Investigating Officer) in the police station and he proceeded for the spot of the incident.

65. So far as the delay of more than 12 hours in lodging the F.I.R. is concerned, it is reasonably explained by the P.W.-5, Kashiram that he did not go in the night to lodge the report because of the fear of the accused persons. The evidence of his fear, which has already been discussed, are arrayed again on the cost of the repetition herein below;

(i) the spot of incident in the village Agodi was within the territorial limit of District Lalitpur which was declared and notified as a dacoit affected area by the government,

(ii) carrying a licensed gun even during the agricultural work in the evening in itself is indication of fear of life to the brothers namely Kashiram and Ramphal (deceased),

(iii) in cross examination of the witnesses, it has come that the deceased "Ramphal' was arraigned with the charge of murders of parents of the accused persons, a criminal case was also lodged.

(iv) the deceased "Ramphal' alongwith the some other "baghis' (dacoits) surrender in district Chhatarpur. He was known to be an active member of the gang of the dacoits, identified as "Moniram Sahai Gang',

(v) One of the accused Karan Singh was himself suspected to be an active member of dacoits gang identified as "Gabbar Singh's Gang',

(vi) The way to the police station from the spot of the incident is shown to be about 13 k.m. which in the outskirts of the area not urbanized and populated, it was not easy to travel in the night,

(vii) the brutal mode and manner adopted by the accused persons was not only violent but also brutal and gruesome, (viii)The assailants after killing the deceased fled away from the spot of the incident and were roaming free.

66. In view of the above, the fear of the first informant (P.W.-5) was quite natural and probable and not adverse influence can be drawn of his act of not moving instantly after the incident to the police station by travelling 13 km on rough and unpopulated way. This witness P.W.-5, Kashiram was also not confronted about availability of the means of transport, the nature and condition of the way causing obstruction, the risks in the night, the presence of the villagers and company of the Chaukidar or anyone else to go to the police station in the night for lodging the F.I.R. The witness P.W.5 himself has stated that before the sunrise, he left the village for going to the police station, he travelled about 13 Km. on foot, the statement of P.W.-6, Investigating Officer proves arrival of the P.W.5 in the police station at about 8:00 a.m. As such, the reason for not lodging the F.I.R. instantly in the evening and reaching the police station on the next morning stood explained and is beleivable. The arguments of the learned counsel as to the ingenuineness of the written information and the F.I.R. have no logical footing and, thus, liable to be rejected. The written information of the incident is given to the police station with reasonably promptness and there is no extraordinary delay so as to raise any doubt as to the genuineness of the F.I.R.

67. The fact of killing of the deceased "Ramphal' on 21.11.1979 at about 5:00 p.m. before sunset is proved by the witnesses Kashiram (P.W.5), Sunnu (P.W.3), Jagan, Pooran (P.W.2) and Pragi inconsistently without any contradiction. The spot of the incident is also proved on the evidences of the witnesses consistent with the testimony of P.W.-5 and the corroborative evidence of the inquest proceedings, the collection of the blood stained soil and plain earth soil, the recovery of the shoes of the deceased near the spot of the incident. It is noteworthy here that none of the witnesses amongst Sunnu (P.W.3), Jagan, Pooran (P.W.2) and Pragi contradicted the statement of P.W.-5, the first informant as to the involvement of the accused-appellant in the offence. The mode and manner adopted by the accused appellant, his involvement in the commission of offence and the weapon used by him though stated by the aforesaid witnesses Sunnu (P.W.3), Jagan, Pooran (P.W.2) and Pragi to the Investigating Officer in the course of the investigation and, thereafter, before the Magistrate under Section 164 Cr.P.C. but they did not stand on their aforesaid pre-trial statements when produced before the trial court. As discussed at length the fear under which the aforesaid witnesses turned hostile, as it is held, they have retracted and nor truthful. As such, the only witness (P.W.5) as eye witness of the incident remains before us as to the mode and manner of the commission of the offence.

68. It is well known principle of law that reliance can be based on the solitary statement of a witness, if the court comes to the conclusion that his statement is the true and correct version of the case of the prosecution.

69. Section 134 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 for ready reference is quoted hereunder:-

"134. Number of witnesses.--No particular number of witnesses shall in any case be required for the proof of any fact."

70. It is settled that the courts are concerned with the merit of the statement of a particular witness and they are not concerned with the number of witnesses examined by the prosecution. The time honored rule of appreciation of evidence is that it has to be weighed and not counted; the law of evidence does not require any particular number of witness to be examined to prove any fact. As a rule of caution, based on the testimony of a single witness, the court may classify the oral testimony of a single witness, into three categories namely (i) wholly reliable, (ii) wholly unreliable; (iii) neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable. In the third category of cases, the court has to be circumscribed and has to look for corroboration in material particulars by reliable testimony, direct or circumstantial, before acting upon the testimony of a single witness; Lallu Manjhi Vs. State of Jharkhand14.

71. In Veer Singh Vs. State of U.P.15, it is held that conviction can be based on the evidence of sole witness in a criminal trial as quality of evidence matters not the quantity.

72. Keeping in mind the above, we proceed with the P.W.-5, Kashiram, it is stated by him that on 21.11.1979 at about 4:45 P.M. in the evening when there was enough day light, he alongwith his brother "Ramphal' was returning to home. Deceased "Ramphal' was carrying his licensed gun and 25 cartridges of the informant, Kashiram and Kashiram was about 20 paces behind him carrying the bundle of grass, accused Kishora, Karan Singh, Hallu and Bhaiyan pouncing out from the fields of 'jowar' of Baldu Lodhi with axe (Kulhari), sickle (hasiya), they embraced the deceased from his behind, tossed him on the ground and began inflicting the blows of sickle and axe and, thus, the deceased died of the injuries.

Medical Evidence of the mode and manner adopted by the accused

73. The post-mortem report of the body is evidence of the aforesaid injuries which are noted as under:-

Ante mortem injuries:-

(iii) Incised wound 10 cm x 2 cm bone deep on right side of the face from the root of nose to right angle of mouth.
(iv) Incised wound 12 cm x 5 cm vertebral column deep under byers of 3, 4 and 5.

(v) Multiple incised wound (five in number) ranging for 2 c.m. x 0.5 cm to 2 cm x 1 cm muscle deep in the area of 15 cm x 16 cm on the front of chest.

(vi) Incised wound 2 cm x 1 cm skin deep on the middle of abdon 8 cm above the umbila

(vii) Incised wound 3 cm x 2 cm muscle deep the left infernal region.

(ix) Incised wound on 3 cm x 2 cm muscle deep 1.5 cm late to no.8.

(x) Incised wound of 6 cm x 2 cm middle deep on right anterol as per upper 1/9 of right thigh.

(xi) Incised wound 3 cm x 28 muscle on anten aipet right thigh 8 cm below of no.10.

74. P.W.12, Dr. Suresh Sakalya the doctor posted in Lalitpur District Hospital who conducted the autopsy of the body proved his report that the deceased died of the Ante mortem injuries. He assessed the approximate time of death being 21.11.1979 at 5:00 p.m. No question was put to thim as to the timing of the death. Thus, the death was proved by the ante mortem injuries, the nature of the injuries undoubtedly show that they are caused by some sharp edged and pointed weapons, most of the injuries are incised wounds except injury no.1 i.e. lacerated over the head bone deep. The depth of the injuries upto muscle deep or bone deep confirms the weapon assigned to the accused namely axe (Kulhari) and sickle (hasiya).

75. In this way, in the absence of any contradiction in the statement of the sole witness as to the mode and manner adopted by the accused with the weapons used by them which stood proved with further corroboration from the post-mortem report and the evidence of the medical witness P.W.12, Dr. Suresh Sakalya it has to be accepted. Nothing carved out from both the witnesses against this proved state of things in the cross examination. It is further reinforced by circumstances coupled with the motive of the accused persons to commit the crime which is indicative of conclusions that the accused persons are the real offenders who had committed the alleged crime, however, such occurrence had taken place in broad day light and Kashiram (the first informant) had witnessed the entire occurrence from a short distance of about 15-20 paces. There is no possibility of committing any mistake by him, moreover, it will be indeed perverse against the ordinary course of human nature and conduct for Kashiram to permit the real assailants of deceased "Ramphal' to go unpunished and instead of implicating the accused persons just with a view to satisfy his own ego.

76. In the present case, the evidence as to the presence on the spot of incident at the relevant time and date of the incident proved to be probable and natural, free from contradictions, exaggeration or embellishment. Some minor contradictions or inconsistency are immaterial, irrelevant details which are not in the capacity in anyway corrode the credibility of witness cannot be labelled as omission or contradictions. This settled legal principle is reiterated in various decision of the Apex Court. It is held by the Apex Court in Brahm Swaroop and Another Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh16 as under :-

"It is a settled legal proposition that while appreciating the evidence of a witness, minor discrepancies on trivial matters, which do not affect the core of the prosecution case, may not prompt the court to reject the evidence in its entirety. "Irrelevant details which do not in any way corrode the credibility of a witness cannot be labelled as omissions or contradictions." Difference in some minor details, which does not otherwise affect the core of the prosecution case, even if present, would not itself prompt the court to reject the evidence on minor variations and discrepancies. After exercising care and caution and shifting through the evidence to separate truth from untruth, exaggeration and improvements, the court comes to a conclusion as to whether the residuary evidence is sufficient to convict the accused. Thus, an undue importance should not be attached to omissions, contradictions and discrepancies which do not go to the heart of the matter and shake the basis version of the prosecution witness. As the mental capabilities of a human being cannot be expected to be attuned to absorb all the details, minor discrepancies are bound to occur in the statements of witnesses."

77. On the basis of above discussion and perusal of the impugned judgement in the appeal, we do not find any error in the judgment of conviction and order of sentence passed by the trial Court. No interference is required. The appeal deserves to be dismissed.

78. Consequently, the appeal against the judgment of conviction and order of sentence dated 27.09.1984 passed by the Additional District and Sessions Judge, Lalitpur in Session Trial No.47 of 1983 (State Vs. Karan Singh), convicting and sentencing the appellant under Section 302, 148 and 149 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 is hereby dismissed.

79. Certify this judgment to the court below for further necessary action and compliance. The lower court record be sent back to the District Judgeship, Lalitpur immediately for further action.

THE HON'BLE ASHWANI KUMAR MISHRA, J.
THE HON'BLE RAJNISH KUMAR, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 3054 of 2013

Umesh Yadav ...Appellant (In Jail)
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Sudhir Kumar, Sri Munesh Kumar Upadhyay, Sri Sunil Kumar, Sri Sanjay Sharma, Sri Narendra Deo Rai

Counsel for Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 106- The provisions of section 106 of the Evidence Act will have no applicability in the facts of the case as the dead body of the deceased has been found not from the house of the appellant, rather, it has been found from the canal of which sketch plan is at page 68 of the paper book. The canal is about 70 meter wide and is at a distance from village Nadrai. The place is otherwise a open place and, therefore, presumption under section 106 of the Evidence Act would not arise in the facts of the case.

Where the body of the deceased is recovered from an open place and not from within the house of the appellant, the burden of proof under Section 106 of the evidence act cannot be shifted upon him.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3- Circumstantial Evidence- Last Seen- for a conviction to stand on the basis of circumstantial evidence, the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of guilt of the accused and must exclude other possible hypothesis. In the facts of the case except to allege that the appellant had taken the deceased on motorcycle, there is no evidence either of last seen or to connect the missing dots so as to rule out any alternative hypothesis. An alternative hypothesis for the cause of death cannot be ruled out, particularly when there is a gap of nearly 3-4 days between the allegation of last seen and the time of death of the deceased. In such circumstances, the trial court was not justified in coming to the conclusion that the murder of deceased was done by the accused appellant.

There must be a reasonable proximity in time between the point when the deceased was last seen in the company of the accused and his death as the lapse of a considerable time cannot rule out the possibility of the deceased coming in the company of several other persons also.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Sections 228, 216 & 217- Originally the charges against the appellant were framed by sessions judge under section 498-A, 304-B, 201 IPC & ¾ D. P. Act and after the entire oral and documentary evidence was concluded by the trial court, that the alternative charge under section 302 IPC was framed . None of the witnesses were produced to prove the charge under section 302 IPC. No finding otherwise is contained in the judgment of the trial court to even suggest that no prejudice would be caused to accused on account of non holding of a new trial in the matter- Necessary ingredients to bring home a charge under section 302 IPC is clearly distinct from the evidence required to be adduced to prove a charge under section 304-B IPC read with section 498-A IPC. Statutory presumption would be available in such cases where the death is within seven years of marriage but for a charge under section 302 IPC the prosecution, by producing cogent evidence, must prove the charge and the presumptions would not be available in such case-The prosecution in support of charge framed under section 302 IPC will have to independently adduce evidence so as to establish the guilt of accused. It is thereafter that the accused gets right to cross examine the prosecution witnesses or to put forth its defence witnesses. Unless such a procedure is followed the right of the accused to prove his innocence would be compromised. Section 216 and 217 Cr.P.C. contains a wholesome procedure encompassing principles of natural justice with the intent that accused is given reasonable opportunity to prove his innocence in a fair criminal trial- In the facts of the case no such procedure consistent with the requirement of section 217 and 218 Cr.P.C. has been followed by the trial court. There is absolutely no whisper in the judgment about compliance of provisions contained in section 216 Cr.P.C. It may be reiterated that the trial court also has not independently formed an opinion that no prejudice would be caused to the appellant in the process. The trial, therefore, is clearly vitiated for non compliance of section 216 Cr.P.C.

When the trial is initially conducted to prove the offences u/s 498-A and 304B of the IPC, the charges having been framed under the said sections, but after the entire evidence is led the court frames the Charge u/s 302 of the IPC and convicts the accused under the said section then the trial will stand vitiated as the burden of proof and the evidence to be led by both sides would be entirely different from that led in a trial u/s 304B. 3. R Rachaiah Vs Home Secy, Bangalore, (2016) 12 SCC 172

1. This appeal is by the accused Umesh Yadav challenging his conviction in Sessions Trial No.198 of 2012 under Section 302 read with section 201 IPC arising out of Case Crime No.605 of 2011 under Sections 498-A, 304-B, 201 IPC & ¾ of Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Sikandrarau, District Hathras, sentencing him to rigorous imprisonment for life under section 302 IPC, together with fine of Rs.20,000/- and for failure to pay fine to undergo additional simple imprisonment for a term of one year. He has also been sentenced to seven years rigorous imprisonment under section 201 IPC alongwith fine of Rs.10,000/- and failure to pay fine would result in simple imprisonment of six months. The punishments are to run concurrently. Appellant, however, has been acquitted of the charges under section 498-A, 304-B IPC & ¾ of Dowry Prohibition Act.

2. Facts giving rise to the appellant's implication in the aforesaid is the lodgement of First Information Report in Case Crime No.605 of 2011 as per which the informant Malkhan Singh married his daughter Reena to the appellant nearly three years back after payment of adequate dowry. It is alleged that the appellant used to harass informant's daughter for demand of dowry of a plot and assaulted her too. Appellant is also alleged to be having an illicit relationship with the wife of his brother Munesh. On 12.11.2011 the informant's daughter was thrown out of the house for having not brought enough dowry and asked to get a plot at Sikandrarau. Upon receiving such information the informant and his cousin Rameshwar brought her back and she was staying at Nagla Babool since 13.11.2011. As per FIR allegation the appellant Umesh alongwith his brother Munesh came to Nagla Babool on a motorcycle at 04.00 PM on 28.11.2011 and took informant's daughter with them on a motorcycle on the pretext that she will not have any grievance in future. The informant, however, received information that his daughter Reena has been done to death by Umesh and Munesh and their family members and the dead body has been thrown in Nirdai Canal in Police Station Dholna, District Kanshi Ram Nagar. Upon receiving such information the informant alongwith his brother Jai Narayan, Yograj, Shyoraj etc. reached Nagla Gulabi i.e. in-laws place of the daughter. Upon inquiry it came to their knowledge that his daughter has been done to death and is not traceable since 28.11.2011. No satisfactory reply was received about the whereabouts of deceased. It is then alleged that the informant visited the middleman Ramdas who had arranged the marriage itself and stayed at his house in the night and upon return found that accused persons have left their home alongwith cattle etc. in the night of 2/3.12.2011. The informant with his relatives made efforts to trace out his daughter and her dead body was ultimately found floating in the canal and prompt information in that regard was given to Police Station Dholna. As per the inquest report the deceased appeared to have died due to strangulation. The body otherwise had no apparent injury marks etc. In the opinion of inquest witnesses the deceased was strangulated by tying saree around her neck by the appellant.

3. On the basis of information given, Chik of FIR in Case Crime No.605 of 2011 was lodged, which is mentioned in General Diary as paper no.38. Postmortem was performed by Dr. N.S. Tomar, who described the cause of death as asphyxia due to throttling. Inquest, site plan and postmortem etc. was duly prepared whereafter charge sheet was submitted against the appellant under sections 498-A, 304B, 201 IPC & ¾ of D.P. Act and the matter was committed to the court of sessions. The accused appellant was summoned in court and charge was read out to him. Appellant denied the charges and consequently trial proceeded in the matter. As many as 13 witnesses were examined by the prosecution.

4. The first witness produced on behalf of the prosecution is Malkhan Singh (the informant) as PW-1 on 12.09.2012, whereas the last witness PW-13 Jai Narayan was examined on 10.04.2013. It is thereafter that the accused appellant was examined under section 313 Cr.P.C. on 09.05.2013 and the judgment convicting the appellant and sentencing him to life and other punishments, noticed above, has been delivered on 29.05.2013.

5. At the outset it would be worth noticing that charge was read out to the accused appellant by the Sessions Judge, Hathras on 14.08.2012 under sections 498-A, 304-B, 201 IPC & ¾ D. P. Act and all the witnesses were examined to prove the aforesaid charge between 12.09.2012 to 10.04.2013. It is thereafter that alternative charge got framed by the concerned court under section 302 IPC. Admittedly, none of the witnesses were adduced after 24.04.2013 nor any of the witnesses previously adduced were recalled and the sessions court after examining the accused appellant under section 313 Cr.P.C. has proceeded to convict him for the alternative charge framed on 24.04.2013 under section 302 IPC, relying upon the evidence led earlier on the charges previously framed under section 498-A, 304-B, 201 IPC & ¾ D. P. Act. While examining the accused under section 313 Cr.P.C. the statements of witnesses were referred to the accused appellant and he has not been specifically confronted with the charge of murder. The principal contention advanced on behalf of the appellant, therefore, is that the entire trial stands vitiated for non compliance of the mandatory requirement contained in section 216 Cr.P.C.

6. It is worth noticing that there is no eye witness to the commissioning of alleged offence and the prosecution case rests upon circumstantial evidence.

7. In order to bring home the charge initially framed against the appellant the prosecution produced the FIR; written report; recovery memo of motorcycle; postmortem; inquest report; and charge sheet. Site plan with index has also been produced. The postmortem was conducted on 04.12.2011 at 12.55 PM in which death allegedly occurred 2-3 days back and the cause of death is asphyxia as a result of strangulation. In the inquest report prepared on 03.12.2011 at 05.20 PM also death is reported to homicidal on account of throttling and no signs of injury was seen. In the opinion of the inquest witnesses the deceased has been done to death by her husband Umesh by strangulation.

8. Malkhan Singh, father of deceased Reena, has been adduced as PW-1, who has been declared hostile in view of his statement that neither any demand of dowry was made from his daughter nor she was ever harassed. He has also retracted from the statement under section 161 Cr.P.C. and has denied suggestion that on account of a subsequent compromise he is giving false statement. It has also been stated that he was mentally stressed on account of death of his daughter and persons from opposite party were present as such he has lodged the FIR. PW-2 Shyoraj Singh, brother in law of the informant, has also turned hostile. He has stated that deceased stayed for about 15 days at his house in Sikanderpur and left for village Katka alone and it is incorrect to state that she was taken to her in-laws place by her husband and brother-in-law Munesh. He has also disowned his statement allegedly given under section 161 Cr.P.C. PW-3 Kamla is the wife of PW-2 and sister of PW-1, who too has denied the prosecution version that the appellant and his brother had taken the deceased on motorcycle from her house. She has also disowned her statement under section 161 Cr.P.C. and declared hostile. PW-4 Yogendra is the inquest witness, who has feigned ignorance about the cause of death. PW-5 Manoj Kumar has also been declared hostile. PW-6 Ramdas is a retired teacher, who had arranged marriage of accused appellant with the deceased and has stated that there was no demand of dowry and he has also retracted from the statement under section 161 Cr.P.C. and has been declared hostile. PW-7 Ramvir Singh has also been declared hostile. PW-8 Baniram similarly has been declared hostile. PW-9 Omveer is the uncle of deceased and is inquest witness, who too has been declared hostile. Similarly, PW-10 Bishamwar Singh has also been declared hostile after he stated that police obtained his signatures on blank paper which apparently was used to prepare recovery memo in respect of motorcycle seized from the accused appellant. PW-11 Deepak Kumar is also declared hostile. PW-12 Dalvir Singh is the inquest witness and has not supported the prosecution case. PW-13 is the uncle of deceased, who has stated that accused Umesh had taken the deceased from Sikanderpur and her dead body was found three days, later.

9. The accused appellant in his statement under section 313 Cr.P.C. has denied having received any dowry for marriage or that he had illicit relations with sister in law. During the course of trial a plea was setup on behalf of the accused appellant that possibly the deceased had committed suicide as she was not able to conceive any child even after 3-4 years of marriage and she used to remain unhappy.

10. The trial court has relied upon the statement of PW-13 Jai Narayan, according to whom, Umesh had taken the deceased Reena three days back from Sikanderpur and her dead body was found later. The trial court has essentially relied upon the theory of last seen, relying upon the statement of PW-13 and the fact that the deceased had ligature mark all around her neck i.e. 25cm x 1.5cm just below thyroid cartilage and dissection of ligature mark subcutaneous tissue ecchymosed and her thyroid bone was also found fractured, to come to the conclusion that it was the accused appellant who had throttled his wife. Trial court has also observed that onus was upon the husband to prove the cause of death inasmuch as he himself was involved in the crime and that is why he neither reported the death nor had given any information to the family of the deceased. Since allegation of dowry was not substantiated the trial court acquitted the appellant of offence under sections 498-A, 304-B IPC and ¾ D. P. Act. However, relying upon the theory of last seen, as also the fact that death of deceased was homicidal, the trial court convicted the appellant under section 302 read with 201 IPC. Thus aggrieved, the appellant is before this Court.

11. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that there exists no evidence in the eyes of law to connect the appellant with the commissioning of offence inasmuch as the plea of last seen is not substantiated in view of the fact that there was considerable gap between the time when the deceased was allegedly taken by appellant and her death. Possibility of another hypothesis, as being cause of death, cannot be ruled out. It is also argued that the trial itself stood vitiated inasmuch as the charge originally read out to the accused did not include section 302 IPC nor was it an alternative charge and it is only after conclusion of evidence adduced by prosecution that the charge was amended so as to include section 302 IPC and the judgment of conviction/sentence delivered without complying with requirement of section 216 Cr.P.C. is bad in law. Submission also is that even if alternative charge was to be framed, the prosecution was under an obligation to adduce evidence in support of the charge under section 302 IPC with a corresponding right with the accused to cross examine such witnesses or to produce his defence witnesses and failure to do so has vitiated the trial itself.

12. Learned AGA, on the other hand, submits that a fair trial is conducted in the matter and no prejudice is caused to the appellant on account of non following of procedure under section 216 Cr.P.C. It is further urged that the fact that prosecution witnesses turned hostile clearly indicates some sort of compromise between the parties, which cannot be encouraged, and the trial court has rightly convicted the accused appellant under section 302 IPC.

13. We have heard Sri Sunil Kumar, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Ali Murtaza, learned AGA for the State and have perused the materials brought on record.

14. So far as the facts of the case are concerned, the factum of lodging FIR on the basis of a report of informant is proved. The allegation in the FIR is with regard to demand of dowry, particularly the demand of a plot at Sikandrarau. It is then alleged that on 28.11.2011 the accused appellant came with his brother and took the deceased on a motorcycle by assuring that the wife would face no further difficulty and thereafter killed her and threw the body in the canal. The postmortem report has also been proved, according to which, the death had occurred 2-3 days prior to 04.12.2011 when the postmortem itself was conducted at 12.55 PM. The dead body had ligature mark all around her neck i.e. 25cm x 1.5cm just below thyroid cartilage and dissection of ligature mark subcutaneous tissue ecchymosed and her thyroid bone was also found fractured. As per the inquest also the death was occasioned by throttling. The evidence thus placed on record leaves no room of doubt that deceased Reena suffered homicidal death on account of throttling. There is absolutely no issue, so far, regarding cause of death of the deceased.

15. As per the FIR the death had occurred about 2-3 days back and tentative date of death as per the FIR and postmortem report appears to be 1st December, 2011.

16. According to prosecution version the deceased was taken by the accused appellant on 28.11.2011 to his village on a motorcycle from Nagla Babool and her body was found in the canal on 03.12.2011. There is a gap of about 3-4 days between the time accused appellant took the deceased and her dead body was found.

17. So far as the evidence of last seen is concerned there are apparently two witnesses i.e. PW-2 and PW3, who had supported such plea in their statement under section 161 Cr.P.C. but both of them have later turned hostile. In their deposition before the court PW-2 & PW-3 have clearly stated that the deceased left their home on her own for going to her parental village Katka, Aligarh. The prosecution version that the accused appellant had taken the deceased on motorcycle alongwith his brother Munesh on 28.11.2011 has been specifically denied. PW-2 & PW-3 are husband and wife and are closely related to the deceased. The only other statement to support the case of last seen is the statement of PW-13 Jai Narayan, who has stated that the deceased was taken by accused appellant whereafter her dead body was found three days, later. He, however, has not seen the accused appellant taking the deceased himself nor has disclosed the identity of the person from whom he gathered such information. Such person has otherwise not been adduced in evidence. The evidence of PW-13 is thus not reliable inasmuch as he has neither seen the deceased being taken by appellant himself nor has disclosed the identity of the person from whom such information was received. His statement cannot even be a hearsay evidence. No other evidence has been placed on record before the court on the basis of which it could be said that the accused appellant had taken the deceased on his motorcycle. The basis of last seen theory, in such circumstances, is clearly demolished on facts.

18. The trial court has merely referred to the statement of PW-13 to rely upon the theory of last seen. The statement of PW-13 has not been carefully examined by the trial court nor it has been seen that PW-13 was neither present at such time nor even claims to have seen the deceased going with the accused appellant. His statement cannot thus be relied upon to support the prosecution version that the deceased was lastly seen with the accused appellant.

19. The trial court has also failed to consider the fact that even if the plea of last seen was to be accepted, yet the delay of 3-4 days was material and an alternative hypothesis as being the cause of death during this period could not have been ruled out in the facts of the case. This being a case of circumstantial evidence the chain of events must be proved to be complete so as to rule out any alternative hypothesis as being the cause of death.

20. Law with regard to the principles to be followed for conviction in a case of circumstantial evidence has been summed up by the Supreme Court in Sharad Birdichand Sarda vs. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116, which has acquired the status of a locus classicus on the issue. The judgment has been followed recently by the Supreme Court in Nagendra Shah vs. State of Bihar, (2021) 10 SCC 725 for applying the five golden principles to observe as under in paragraph 17 to 19 of the judgment:-

"17. As the entire case is based on circumstantial evidence, we may make a useful reference to a leading decision of this Court on the subject. In Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra [Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116 : 1984 SCC (Cri) 487] , in para 153, this Court has laid down five golden principles (Panchsheel) which govern a case based only on circumstantial evidence. Para 153 reads thus : (SCC p. 185)

"153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned "must or should" and not "may be" established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between "may be proved" and "must be or should be proved" as was held by this Court inShivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra [Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra, (1973) 2 SCC 793 : 1973 SCC (Cri) 1033] wherein the following observations were made : (SCC p. 807, para 19)

"19. ... Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between "may be" and "must be" is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions.'

(2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency,

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

18. Paras 158 to 160 of the said decision are also relevant which read thus : (Sharad Birdhichand Sarda case [Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116 : 1984 SCC (Cri) 487] , SCC pp. 186-87)

"158. It may be necessary here to notice a very forceful argument submitted by the Additional Solicitor General relying on a decision of this Court in Deonandan Mishra v. State of Bihar [Deonandan Mishra v. State of Bihar, AIR 1955 SC 801 : (1955) 2 SCR 570, 582 : 1955 Cri LJ 1647] , to supplement his argument that if the defence case is false it would constitute an additional link so as to fortify the prosecution case. With due respect to the learned Additional Solicitor General we are unable to agree with the interpretation given by him of the aforesaid case, the relevant portion of which may be extracted thus : (AIR pp. 806-07, para 9)

"9. ... But in a case like this where the various links as started above have been satisfactorily made out and the circumstances point to the appellant as the probable assailant, with reasonable definiteness and in proximity to the deceased as regards time and situation, ... such absence of explanation or false explanation would itself be an additional link which completes the chain.'

159. It will be seen that this Court while taking into account the absence of explanation or a false explanation did hold that it will amount to be an additional link to complete the chain but these observations must be read in the light of what this Court said earlier viz. before a false explanation can be used as additional link, the following essential conditions must be satisfied:

(1) various links in the chain of evidence led by the prosecution have been [Ed. : The matter between two asterisks has been emphasised in original.] satisfactorily proved [Ed. : The matter between two asterisks has been emphasised in original.] ,

(2) the said circumstance points to the guilt of the accused with reasonable definiteness, and

(3) the circumstance is in proximity to the time and situation.

160. If these conditions are fulfilled only then a court can use a false explanation or a false defence as an additional link to lend an assurance to the court and not otherwise. On the facts and circumstances of the present case, this does not appear to be such a case. This aspect of the matter was examined in Shankarlal case [Shankarlal Gyarasilal Dixit v. State of Maharashtra, (1981) 2 SCC 35, 39 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 315, 318-19] wherein this Court observed thus : (SCC p. 43, para 30)

"30. ... Besides, falsity of defence cannot take the place of proof of facts which the prosecution has to establish in order to succeed. A false plea can at best be considered as an additional circumstance, if other circumstances point unfailingly to the guilt of the accused.'"

19. In this case, as mentioned above, neither the prosecution witnesses have deposed to that effect nor any other material has been placed on record to show that the relationship between the appellant and the deceased was strained in any manner. Moreover, the appellant was not the only person residing in the house where the incident took place and it is brought on record that the parents of the appellant were also present on the date of the incident in the house. The fact that other members of the family of the appellant were present shows that there could be another hypothesis which cannot be altogether excluded. Therefore, it can be said that the facts established do not rule out the existence of any other hypothesis. The facts established cannot be said to be consistent only with one hypothesis of the guilt of the appellant."

21. After referring to the provisions contained under section 106 of the Evidence Act the Court has observed that a case of circumstantial evidence can succeed only if the chain of circumstances is established and failure of prosecution to do so cannot be made good by any failure on part of the accused to discharge the burden under section 106 of the Evidence Act. The observations of the Court in paragraph 22 to 24 of the judgement in Nagendra Shah's case (supra) are also relevant and are reproduced hereinafter:-

"22. Thus, Section 106 of the Evidence Act will apply to those cases where the prosecution has succeeded in establishing the facts from which a reasonable inference can be drawn regarding the existence of certain other facts which are within the special knowledge of the accused. When the accused fails to offer proper explanation about the existence of said other facts, the court can always draw an appropriate inference.

23. When a case is resting on circumstantial evidence, if the accused fails to offer a reasonable explanation in discharge of burden placed on him by virtue of Section 106 of the Evidence Act, such a failure may provide an additional link to the chain of circumstances. In a case governed by circumstantial evidence, if the chain of circumstances which is required to be established by the prosecution is not established, the failure of the accused to discharge the burden under Section 106 of the Evidence Act is not relevant at all. When the chain is not complete, falsity of the defence is no ground to convict the accused.

24. As we have already held in this case, the circumstances established by the prosecution do not lead to only one possible inference regarding the guilt of the appellant-accused."

22. The provisions of section 106 of the Evidence Act will have no applicability in the facts of the case as the dead body of the deceased has been found not from the house of the appellant, rather, it has been found from the canal of which sketch plan is at page 68 of the paper book. The canal is about 70 meter wide and is at a distance from village Nadrai. The place is otherwise a open place and, therefore, presumption under section 106 of the Evidence Act would not arise in the facts of the case.

23. In light of the principles laid down in Sharad Birdichand Sarda (supra), as followed in Nagendra Shah (supra), it is clearly discernable that for a conviction to stand on the basis of circumstantial evidence, the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of guilt of the accused and must exclude other possible hypothesis. In the facts of the case except to allege that the appellant had taken the deceased on motorcycle, there is no evidence either of last seen or to connect the missing dots so as to rule out any alternative hypothesis. An alternative hypothesis for the cause of death cannot be ruled out, particularly when there is a gap of nearly 3-4 days between the allegation of last seen and the time of death of the deceased. In such circumstances, the trial court was not justified in coming to the conclusion that the murder of deceased was done by the accused appellant. The finding, in that regard, by the trial court is found to be based on no evidence. In the facts of the case the chain of events referred to in Sharad Birdichand Sarda (supra) is otherwise not complete, since alternative hypothesis cannot be rule out. From the considerations of materials produced on record we find that the prosecution has miserably failed to prove the alleged offence on part of the appellant beyond reasonable doubt.

24. We now proceed to deal with the other argument advanced on behalf of the appellant, in support of the appeal i.e. non adherence to the procedure stipulated in section 216 Cr.P.C.

25. We have noted that originally the charges against the appellant were framed by sessions judge under section 498-A, 304-B, 201 IPC & ¾ D. P. Act and the entire evidence was adduced by the prosecution in respect of such charges. The witnesses were also cross-examined in that context. It is after the entire oral and documentary evidence was concluded by the trial court, by 10.04.2013, that the alternative charge under section 302 IPC was framed on 24.04.2013. None of the witnesses were produced to prove the charge under section 302 IPC. No finding otherwise is contained in the judgment of the trial court to even suggest that no prejudice would be caused to accused on account of non holding of a new trial in the matter. Sections 216 and 217 Cr.P.C. have been considered by the Supreme Court in R Rachaiah vs. Home Secretary, Bangalore, (2016) 12 SCC 172 to hold the provision to be mandatory in following words in paragraphs 8 to 15 of the judgment:-

"8. The appellants filed a common appeal against the said conviction taking a specific plea to the effect that there could not have been any conviction under Section 302 IPC. In this regard, it was also pleaded that the "alternative charge" under Section 302 IPC was wrongly framed without following the procedure under Sections 216 and 217 of the Code and, therefore, the entire trial insofar as conviction under Section 302 IPC is concerned stood vitiated. It was further argued that there could not have been any conviction under Section 364 IPC as well in the absence of any specific charge under this section. The appellants also challenged the conviction on merits.

9. The High Court, in detail, discussed the merits of the case and did not find favour with the arguments of the appellants. It is not necessary for us to go into this aspect as we find that the trial which is conducted and on the basis of which conviction is recorded under Section 302 IPC is clearly vitiated as the same is in violation of the mandatory procedure prescribed under Sections 216 and 217 of the Code. These two sections are reproduced below:

"216. Court may alter charge.--(1) Any court may alter or add to any charge at any time before judgment is pronounced.

(2) Every such alteration or addition shall be read and explained to the accused.

(3) If the alteration or addition to a charge is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is not likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused in his defence or the prosecutor in the conduct of the case, the court may, in its discretion, after such alteration or addition has been made, proceed with the trial as if the altered or added charge had been the original charge.

(4) If the alteration or addition is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is likely, in the opinion of the court, to prejudice the accused or the prosecutor as aforesaid, the court may either direct a new trial or adjourn the trial for such period as may be necessary.

(5) If the offence stated in the altered or added charge is one for the prosecution of which previous sanction is necessary, the case shall not be proceeded with until such sanction is obtained, unless sanction has been already obtained for a prosecution on the same facts as those on which the altered or added charge is founded.

217. Recall of witnesses when charge altered.--Whenever a charge is altered or added to by the court after the commencement of the trial, the prosecutor and the accused shall be allowed--

(a) to recall or resummon, and examine with reference to such alteration or addition, any witness who may have been examined, unless the court, for reasons to be recorded in writing, considers that the prosecutor or the accused, as the case may be, desires to recall or re-examine such witness for the purpose of vexation or delay or for defeating the ends of justice;

(b) also to call any further witness whom the court may think to be material."

10. The bare reading of Section 216 reveals that though it is permissible for any court to alter or add to any charge at any time before judgment is pronounced, certain safeguards, looking into the interest of the accused person who is charged with the additional charge or with the alteration of the additional charge, are also provided specifically under sub-sections (3) and (4) of Section 216 of the Code. Sub-section (3), in no uncertain term, stipulates that with the alteration or addition to a charge if any prejudice is going to be caused to the accused in his defence or the prosecutor in the conduct of the case, the Court has to proceed with the trial as if it altered or added the original charge by terming the additional or alternative charge as original charge. The clear message is that it is to be treated as charge made for the first time and trial has to proceed from that stage. This position becomes further clear from the bare reading of sub-section (4) of Section 216 of the Code which empowers the Court, in such a situation, to either direct a new trial or adjourn the trial for such period as may be necessary. A new trial is insisted if the charge is altogether different and distinct.

11. Even if the charge may be of same species, the provision for adjourning the trial is made to give sufficient opportunity to the accused to prepare and defend himself. It is, in the same process, Section 217 of the Code provides that whenever a charge is altered or added by the court after the commencement of the trial, the prosecutor as well as the accused shall be allowed to recall or resummon or examine any witnesses who have already been examined with reference to such alteration or addition. In such circumstances, the court is to even allow any further witness which the court thinks to be material in regard to the altered or additional charge.

12. When we apply the aforesaid principles to the facts of this case, the outcome becomes obvious. The accused persons were initially charged for an offence under Section 306 IPC i.e. abetting suicide which was allegedly committed by Dr Shivakumar. It is manifest therefrom that the entire case of the prosecution, even after repeated investigations and medical examination of the dead body/skeleton of Dr Shivakumar, was that the cause of the death was suicide. Thus, after the investigation, what the prosecution found was that Dr Shivakumar had committed suicide and, as per the prosecution, the three appellants had aided and abetted the said suicide which was committed by Dr Shivakumar. On this specific charge, 26 witnesses were examined and cross-examined by the appellants. Obviously, when the appellants are charged with an offence under Section 306 i.e. abetting the suicide, the focus as well as stress in the cross-examination shall be on that charge alone. At the fag-end of the trial, the charge is altered with "alternative charge" with the framing of the charge under Section 302 IPC. This gives altogether a different complexion and dimension to the prosecution case.

13. Now, the charge against the appellants was that they have committed murder of Dr Shivakumar. In a case like this, addition and/or substitution of such a charge was bound to create prejudice to the appellants. Such a charge has to be treated as original charge. In order to take care of the said prejudice, it was incumbent upon the prosecution to recall the witnesses, examine them in the context of the charge under Section 302 IPC and allow the accused persons to cross-examine those witnesses. Nothing of that sort has happened. As mentioned above, only one witness i.e. official witness, namely, Deva Reddi, Deputy Superintendent of Police, was examined and even he was examined on the same date i.e. 30-9-2006 when the alternative charge was framed. The case was not even adjourned as mandatorily required under sub-section (4) of Section 216 of the Code.

14. In a case like this, with the framing of alternative charge on 30-9-2006, testimony of those witnesses recorded prior to that date could even be taken into consideration. It hardly needs to be demonstrated that the provisions of Sections 216 and 217 are mandatory in nature as they not only subserve the requirement of principles of natural justice but guarantee an important right which is given to the accused persons to defend themselves appropriately by giving them full opportunity. Cross-examination of the witnesses, in the process, is an important facet of this right. Credibility of any witness can be established only after the said witness is put to cross-examination by the accused person.

15. In the instant case, there is no cross-examination of these witnesses insofar as charge under Section 302 IPC is concerned. The trial, therefore, stands vitiated and there could not have been any conviction under Section 302 IPC."

26. Necessary ingredients to bring home a charge under section 302 IPC is clearly distinct from the evidence required to be adduced to prove a charge under section 304-B IPC read with section 498-A IPC. Statutory presumption would be available in such cases where the death is within seven years of marriage but for a charge under section 302 IPC the prosecution, by producing cogent evidence, must prove the charge and the presumptions would not be available in such case.

27. The prosecution in support of charge framed under section 302 IPC will have to independently adduce evidence so as to establish the guilt of accused. It is thereafter that the accused gets right to cross examine the prosecution witnesses or to put forth its defence witnesses. Unless such a procedure is followed the right of the accused to prove his innocence would be compromised. Section 216 and 217 Cr.P.C. contains a wholesome procedure encompassing principles of natural justice with the intent that accused is given reasonable opportunity to prove his innocence in a fair criminal trial.

28. In the facts of the case no such procedure consistent with the requirement of section 217 and 218 Cr.P.C. has been followed by the trial court. There is absolutely no whisper in the judgment about compliance of provisions contained in section 216 Cr.P.C. It may be reiterated that the trial court also has not independently formed an opinion that no prejudice would be caused to the appellant in the process. The trial, therefore, is clearly vitiated for non compliance of section 216 Cr.P.C.

29. The plea taken by learned AGA that the matter be remanded to trial court also cannot be accepted for the following reasons:-

(i) No evidence exists against the appellant to bring home the charge under section 302 IPC as all witnesses of fact have turned hostile.

(ii) The appellant has remained in jail for more than 11 years without remission and we cannot allow him to remain in custody any further, as such a course would be wholly unjust in the facts of the case.

30. In view of the aforesaid deliberations and discussions, this appeal succeeds and is allowed. The judgment and order dated 29.05.2013, passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1, Hathras, convicting and sentencing the appellant in Session Trial No.198 of 2012 (State vs. Umesh Yadav) arising out of Case Crime No.498-A, 304-B, 201, 302 IPC & ¾ of Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Sikandrarau, District Hathras is hereby set aside. The appellant is acquitted from the charges of offence under section 302 read with 201 IPC and he shall be set at liberty forthwith, if he is not wanted in any other case.

1. These criminal appeals arise from the judgment and order dated 31.07.2012 passed by the Additional District & Sessions Judge, Court No. 3, Jhansi in Sessions Trial No. 133 of 2007 (State Vs. Sunil Kumar Yadav and another), arising out of Crime No. 193 of 2006, under Section 302 read with Section 34, 498-A IPC & Section 4 Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Erach, District Jhansi, whereby the appellants Smt. Rajola, Raj Kumar @ Majhaley, Smt. Ram Dulari @ Uma, Neetu @ Ram Kumar and Sunil Kumar Yadav have been convicted and sentenced under Section 302/34 IPC with life imprisonment and fine of Rs.10,000/- each; in default of payment of fine to undergo additional imprisonment for a period of six months; under Section 498-A IPC with three years imprisonment and fine of Rs.2,000/- each; in default of payment of fine to undergo additional imprisonment for a period of two months and under Section 4 Dowry Prohibition Act with one year imprisonment and fine of Rs.1,000/- each, in default of payment of fine to undergo additional imprisonment for a period of one month.

2. The prosecution case in brief is that, on 01.11.2006 at about 5.10 a.m., an F.I.R. was lodged at the police Station Erach, District Jhansi by the informant Manmohan Singh, the father of the deceased r/o Village Puraini, Police Station Bhoganipur, District Kanpur Dehat by filing a written report stating therein that his daughter Smt. Anita Yadav aged about 26 years was wedded to Sunil Kumar Yadav R/s Village Dikauli, Police Station Erach, District Jhansi six years prior to the incident. Sufficient dowry was given in marriage, but his daughter told him that her husband Sunil Kumar, mother-in-law Smt. Rajola, brother-in-law Raj Kumar @ Majhale, his wife and younger brother-in-law Neetu aged about 20 years used to torture her in relation to the demand of Rs. One lac for purchasing a tractor. The first informant stated that he helped as much as he could to purchase the tractor. Again, they pressed his daughter to bring a motorcycle from her father and subjected her to harassment for not fulfilling their demand. His daughter informed him about this then he along with other members of his family went to village Dikauli and expressed their inability to pay money for the motorcycle and also asked to bring his daughter with him but they did not see her off. The first informant returned to his village. On 31.10.2006, in the night at about 8 p.m., his daughter phoned and told that the inmates of her sasural were beating her and pleaded him to rescue her. At that information, he along with the other family members arrived at the matrimonial home of his daughter at about 2 o'clock in the night where he found the door of the house closed from outside. He got it opened by Rameshwar, uncle of his son-in-law and there he found that his daughter Anita was lying dead in the room who was set ablaze. On the basis of the written report (Tahreer), the case was registered as Crime No. 193 of 2006 under Sections 498-A, 304-B IPC Section ¾ Dowry Prohibition Act. 6. During investigation, wet and dry soil along with burnt ash of clothes was taken into possession and recovery memo was prepared. An invitation card of marriage of the deceased was given by the informant and memo was prepared. After inspection of the place of occurrence, site plan was prepared and statements of witnesses conversant to the facts of the case were recorded. On the basis of the material collected during investigation, prima facie case was found to be made out against the accused under Sections 498-A, 304-B IPC & Section ¾ Dowry Prohibition Act and hence the charge sheet was submitted to the court concerned.

7. Learned Chief Judicial Magistrate took cognizance of the offences and provided copies of the prosecution papers in compliance of Section 207 Cr.P.C. to the accused persons and committed the case to the court of sessions for trial.

8. The trial court after taking into consideration the material on record, framed the charges against the appellants under Sections 498-A, 304-B IPC & Section 4 Dowry Prohibition Act and alternative charge under Section 302/34 IPC.

9. Charges were read-over and explained to the appellants, the accused appellants pleaded not guilty, denied the charges and demanded trial. Consequently, the case was fixed for prosecution evidence.

10. In support of its case, the prosecution examined P.W.1 Manmohan Singh who is the first informant and father of the deceased, P.W.2 Tulsiram, P.W. 3 Virendra Sigh Yadav both uncles of deceased as witnesses of fact, P.W.4 S.I. 11. On conclusion of prosecution evidence, statements of the appellants were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. wherein they had denied all the allegations made against them including the date of marriage and also stated that the deceased committed suicide by setting herself ablaze because she was under depression being issue-less. Her cremation was performed by appellant Sunil Kumar in the presence of her father and uncle. About the invitation card, it was said to be a fabricated document. In addition thereto, the appellant Sunil Kumar further stated that his marriage was solemnized on 10.5.1998 without dowry. In the year 1999, they both became Voters in the gram panchayat. Since 2003, they had been living separately from other family members. The deceased could not concieve and as such she was under depression for about 6-7 months and on 31.10.2006 at about 10 A.M., while the accused Sunil Kumar was out in relation to the canvassing of the election of Dharmendra Rajpoot, he got information from Chatur Singh that his wife had committed suicide by setting herself ablaze. He immediately came back to his house and sent information to the police station through the village chaukidar and also informed his sasural (the informant) from S.T.D. Phone of Chatur Singh. The family and the first informant came there.

12. The dead body was handed over to him after inquest and post mortem and he performed the last rites of the deceased. The appellants Ram Dulari @ Uma and Smt. Rajola stated that they both went to the temple for Aarti at about 8 o'clock where they were informed by the villagers that smoke was coming from their house so they came back and found that Sunil Kumar was trying to open the doors of the room which was bolted from inside. With the help of the Lekhpal, door was opened where Anita was lying burnt and dead. The information was then given to Raj Kumar and Neetu who were in the field.

13. In defence, two witnesswes namely D.W. 1 Parshuram Yadav & D.W. 2 Lachchi Ram were examined.

14. The learned trial court passed the order dated 31.7.2012 for convicting and sentencing the appellants. Hence this appeal.

15. Heard Shri Yogesh Kumar Srivastava and Shri Noor Mohammad, learned Advocates for the appellants and Shri Rupak Chaubey and Ms. Arti Agarwal, learned A.G.As. for the State and perused the record.

16. Learned counsel for the appellants submits that the trial court has erred in convicting the appellants without considering and appreciating the evidence on record. The prosecution could not prove its case with cogent and reliable evidence. The appellants are innocent and have committed no offence as alleged. There are material contradictions in the statements of prosecution witnesses. The prosecution witnesses are relatives of the deceased. Learned trial court has not considered the fact that the deceased was issue less and was living in distress and committed suicide by setting herself ablaze when the appellants were not present at home. The appellants themselves had informed the parents of the deceased about her death. Initially the parents had no complaint and were satisfied that deceased had committed suicide but later in order to blackmail the appellants, a false case was registered against them. The appellants never subjected the deceased to cruelty in relation to the demand of dowry. It is further submitted that no injury was found on the person of the deceased which gives rise to the inference that deceased had committed suicide by setting herself at fire and the appellants had committed no offence. Lastly, it is submitted that the learned trial court without considering all these facts had convicted the appellants under Section 302 IPC whereas after the investigation, the offence under Sections 498-A, 304-B IPC & Section ¾ Dowry Prohibition Act was found to have been committed. The finding recorded by the learned trial court is based on conjuctures. Learned trial court has misinterpreted Section 106 of Indian Evidence Act to convict the appellants. The judgment in question, thus, pleaded to be erroneous and that the appellants deserve acquittal after allowing the appeals.

17. Learned A.G.A., in rebuttal urged that there is sufficient evidence on record on the basis of which the learned trial court has concluded that the appellants had committed the murder of the deceased inside their house by setting her ablaze. The burden to disclose the facts as to how she had died inside their house was on the appellants because of the said fact being in their special knowledge which can be explained by them only as per Section 106 of Indian Evidence Act. The appellants did not discharge the said burden and, therefore, their conviction is perfectly justified. There is sufficient evidence regarding the demand of dowry and harassment of the deceased in relation thereto by the appellants. Though the fact of death within seven years of marriage was proved by the prosecution but it was not relied by the learned trial court. The appellants were, therefore, convicted and sentenced under Section 302 IPC with the aid of Section 106 of Indian Evidence Act which cannot be said to be against law. The decision of the learned trial court is perfectly sound and the present appeals being devoid of merit are liable to be dismissed.

18. From the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties, the first and foremost question arises for consideration by this Court is that whether the finding given by the learned trial court convicting the accused/appellants under Section 302 IPC with the aid of Section 106 of Indian Evidence Act and acquitting them under Section 304-B IPC on the basis of evidence on record is correct or not.

19. Before we deal with the contentions raised by the learned counsel for the appellants, it would be convenient to take note of the evidence adduced by the prosecution.

20. The prosecution had examined seven witnesses out of which P.Ws. 1 to 3 are the witnesses of fact.

21. P.W. 1 Manmohan Singh, the father of deceased, the first informant, stated that his daughter Anita was wedded to appellant Sunil Kumar Yadav on 23.4.2000 and that he offered dowry according to his capacity. Afterwards, her husband Sunil Kumar, mother-in-law Rajola, brother-in-law Raj Kumar @ Majhaley, his wife Smt. Ram Dulari @ Uma and younger brother-in-law Neetu @ Ram Kumar made demand of Rs. One lac for purchasing tractor. At this, he helped them as much as he could. They, again demanded for the motorcycle and when the said demand was not fulfilled, they subjected his daughter to harassment. His daughter informed him by telephone and also when she came to his house knowing that he along with the members of his family went to the village of her husband and expressed his inability to fulfill the demand and also requested to send his daughter with him but the in-laws of the deceased did not see her off, so he came back to his house. On 30.10.2006, his daughter informed him on telephone that she was being beaten because of the demand of motorcycle, on this the first informant assured her daughter that he would reach there after few days. On 31.10.2006 at about 8 o'clock, his daughter again called on telephone and said that her in-laws would kill her and told him to come soon. The first informant could reach to the matrimonial house of her daughter at the village Dikauli at about 2 o'clock in the night (2 a.m.) where he found that the door of the house was bolted from outside. He called Rameshwar, the uncle of appellant Sunil Kumar Yadav who was living nearby and got the door opened. His daughter was lying inside the room in the burnt state the inmates of the house were not present. P.W. 1 then went to the police station Erach with a written report on the basis of which the case was registered. P.W.1 proved the written report as Ext. Ka-1 being in his writing.

This witness was subjected to gruel cross-examination on the part of the defence but he had asserted the facts as narrated during the examination-in-chief, relating to the demand of dowry and the resultant harassment by the husband and in-laws of her daughter, the deceased.

22. P.W. 2 Tulsiram, is the uncle of the deceased, he also stated that the marriage of deceased was solemnized with Sunil Kumar Yadav on 23.4.2000. Adequate dowry in the shape of household articles such as utensils, Almirah, single bed and several other items as also gold ornaments, clothes were given. After marriage when his niece came back to her village Puraini, she told him and other members of her family that her husband Sunil Kumar Yadav, mother-in-law Rajola, brother-in-law Raj Kumar @ Majhaley, his wife Smt. Ram Dulari @ Uma and younger brother-in-law Neetu @ Ram Kumar made a demand of Rs. One lac for the tractor and also subjected her to cruelty. They also threatened her to leave her matrimonial house in case their demands were not fulfilled. P.W. 2 intervened and tried to help them as much as he could but the family members and husband of the deceased did not give up and again made a demand for motorcycle. Knowing that he along with his brother Manmohan Singh and Sahdev Singh went to Dhikauli where the appellants raised demand for motorcycle and told that if they wanted Anita to live in their house, their demands had to be fulfilled. P.W. 2 stated that he did not send her with them so they came back. On 31.10.2006 at about 8 o'clock, Anita told on the mobile that she was being beaten by her hsuband and in-laws and asked them to come soon otherwise she would be killed. On the said information, he along with his brother (P.W.1) and other members of his family went to the village Dhikauli in the night at about 2 o'clock (2 a.m.) where the door of the matrimonial house of the deceased was bolted from outside. They called Rameshwar, uncle of appellant Sunil Kumar who was living nearby and got the door opened, where they saw Anita lying inside the room in the burnt state. No inmate of the house was present inside. The report of the offence was lodged by his brother Manmohan Singh at the police station. The inquest of deceased Anita was conducted in his presence and he had identified his signature on the inquest report, as Ext. Ka-2.

This witness (P.W.2) has also been subjected to gruel cross-examination on the part of the learned counsel for appellants but he firmly asserted the facts relating to the date of marriage, demand of dowry and harassment of the deceased at the hands of her husand and in-law as narrated by him during the examination-in-chief.

23. P.W.3 Dr. Virendra Singh Yadav, another uncle of deceased Anita, who has narrated that on 23.4.2000 the marriage of Anita was solemnized with Sunil Kumar as per Hindu rituals. Anita studied up to class 5th. In the marriage adequate dowry including household articles, ornaments, clothes etc. and Rs. 55,000/- (fifty five thousand) in cash, were given. After marriage when Anita came back from her sasural, she told before him and other members of his family that her husband Sunil Kumar Yadav, mother-in-law Rajola, brother-in-law Raj Kumar @ Majhaley, his wife Smt. Ram Dulari @ Uma and younger brother-in-law Neetu @ Ram Kumar were making demand for Rs. One lac to purchase a tractor and subjected her to cruelty. On this, P.W.3 along with the other members went to the sasural of Anita and reconciled the matter with the members of her family and also made help (financial) as far as possible. But they made a demand for motorcycle which fact was told by Anita. Knowing that, he along with his brothers Manmohan Singh, Tulsi and nephew Sahdev Singh went to the matrimonial house of Anita at village Dhakauli, where her husband and family members demanded money for motorcycle and said that they would keep Anita in their house, only when their demand of motorcycle was fulfilled. P.W.3 and other members of the family then requested to see her off with them but they did not send her. On 31.10.2006 at about 8 p.m., Anita called through telephone that she was being beaten by in-laws and requested that they should reach early to save her life otherwise she would be killed. P.W. 3 along with his brother (P.W.1) and other members of the family reached the village Dhakauli at about (2 a.m.) 2 o'clock in the night. The door of the matrimonial house of Anita was bolted from outside. It was got opened by Rameshwar, uncle of appellant Sunil Kumar living in the neighbourhood. When he entered the house, he found his niece Anita lying inside the room in burnt state and no one else was present inside. The report of this incident was lodged by his brother Manmohan Singh (P.W.1) on the same day at the police station Erach. The inquest of the body of deceased Anita was conducted in the presence of Nayab Tehshildar, Garautha and P.W.3 also put his signature on the inquest report.

Invitation card of marriage of the deceased Anita was also seized by the Circle Officer provided by his brother in his presence which he proved as Material Ext. 1.

This witness has also been subjected to lengthy cross-examination from the side of the appellants but he had reiterated firmly the facts relating to the date of marriage, demand of dowry and harassment of the deceased at the hands of her matrimonial family including her husband.

24. P.W.4 Rafiq Khan is the Investigating Officer who proved the investigation of the case and also the fard (recovery memo) of seizure of the invitation card as Ext. Ka-3. He has also submitted the charge sheet proved as Ext. Ka-4.

25. P.W. 5 constable Ram Jiwan who was posted at the police station concerned on the day of the incident proved the chik F.I.R. as Ext. Ka-5, in his hand writing and signature, and stated that he registered the case on the basis of the written report given by the informant Manhohan Singh and also entered its detail in the G.D. report no. 6. P.W. 5 also proved the carbon copy of the G.D. by comparing with the original as Ext. Ka-6.

26. P.W. 6 Dr. R.P. Verma conducted the postmortem of the body of deceased Anita. He proved the postmortem report being in his hand writing and signature as Ext. Ka-7.

27. P.W. 7 Hammilal Verma was the previous Investigating Officer, who got prepared the inquest report and other related papers by S.S.I. Lalit Kishor which he proved as Ext. Ka-2 and Ext. Ka-9 to Ka-14. P.W.7 also inspected the place of occurrence and prepared the site plan which he proved as Ext. Ka-8.

28. Before we proceed to evaluate the evidence on record led by the prosecution in support of the charges framed against the appellants, it is necessary to examine the law relating to 'dowry-death', "cruelty' and "dowry demand'.

29. Section 304B and Section 498A I.P.C. is as under:-

"304B. Dowry death.-(1) Where the death of a woman is caused by any burns or bodily injury or occurs otherwise than under normal circumstances within seven years of her marriage and it is shown that soon before her death she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, such death shall be called "dowry death", and such husband or relative shall be deemed to have caused her death.

Explanation.-- For the purpose of this sub-section, "dowry" shall have the same meaning as in section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (28 of 1961).

(2) Whoever commits dowry death shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may extend to imprisonment for life."

30. "498A. Husband or relative of husband of a woman subjecting her to cruelty.--

Whoever, being the husband or the relative of the husband of a woman, subjects such woman to cruelty shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years and shall also be liable to fine.

Explanation.--For the purpose of this section, "cruelty" means--

(a) any willful conduct which is of such a nature as is likely to drive the woman to commit suicide or to cause grave injury or danger to life, limb or health (whether mental or physical) of the woman; or

(b) harassment of the woman where such harassment is with a view to coercing her or any person related to her to meet any unlawful demand for any property or valuable security or is on account of failure by her or any person related to her to meet such demand."

31. The term "dowry" has been defined in Section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (in short 'Dowry Act') as under :-

"Section 2. Definition of 'dowry'- In this Act, 'dowry' means any property or valuable security given or agreed to be given either directly or indirectly."

(a) by one party to a marriage to the other party of the marriage; or

(b) by the parents of either party to a marriage or by any other person, to either party to the marriage or to any other person, at or before or any time after the marriage in connection with the marriage of the said parties, but does not include dowry or mehr in the case of person whom the Muslim Personal Law (Shariat) applies.

Explanation I- For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that any presents made at the time of a marriage to either party to the marriage in the form of cash, ornaments, clothes or other articles, shall not be deemed to be dowry within the meaning of this Section unless they are made as consideration of the marriage of the said parties.

Explanation II- The expression 'valuable security' has the same meaning in Section 30 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1861)."

32. Explanation to Section 304B refers to dowry" as having the same meaning as in Section 2 of the Act'. The question is "what is the periphery of the dowry as defined therein? The argument is that there must be an agreement at the time of the marriage in view of the words "agreed to be given" occurring therein, and in the absence of any such evidence it would not constitute "dowry'. It is noticeable that this definition with the amendment includes not only the period before and at the time of marriage but also the period subsequent to the marriage.

33. This position was clarified in Pawan Kumar and others vs. State of Haryana, 1998 (3) SCC 309:-

"The offence alleged against the accused is under Section 304B I.P.C. Which makes "demand of dowry" itself punishable. Demand neither conceives nor would conceive of any agreement. If for convicting any offender, agreement for dowry is to be proved; hardly any offenders would come under the clutches of law. When Section 304B refers to "demand of dowry", it refers to the demand of property or valuable security as referred to in the definition of "dowry" under the Act. The argument that there is no demand of dowry, in the present case, has no force. In cases of dowry deaths and suicides, circumstantial evidence plays an important role and inferences can be drawn on the basis of such evidence that could be either direct on indirect. It is significant that Section 4 of the Act, was also amended by means of Act 63 of 1984, under which it is an offence to demand dowry directly or indirectly from the parents or other relatives or guardian of a bride. The word "agreement" referred to in Section 2 has to be inferred on the facts and circumstances of each case. The interpretation that the accused seeks, that conviction can only be if there is agreement for dowry, is misconceived. This would be contrary to the mandate and object of the Act. "Dowry" definition is to be interpreted with the other provisions of the Act including Section 3, which refers to giving or taking dowry and Section 4, which deals with a penalty for demanding dowry under the Act and the I.P.C. makes it clear that even demand of dowry on other ingredients being satisfied is punishable. It is not always necessary that there be any agreement for dowry."

34. The Apex Court has highlighted all the aspects of law relating to 'dowry demand' and 'dowry death' in the case Prem Kanwar Vs. State of Rajasthan, 2009(1)JT197.

35. Section 113B of the Evidence Act is also relevant for the purpose of the case at hand. Both Sections 304B I.P.C. And Section 113B of the Evidence Act were inserted, as noted earlier, in view of the dowry Prohibition (Amendment) Act 43 of 1986 with a view to combat the increasing menace of dowry deaths. Section 113B reads as under:-

"113B: Presumption as to dowry death- When the question is whether a person has committed the dowry death of a woman and it is shown that soon before her death such woman has been subjected by such person to cruelty or harassment for, or in connection with any demand for dowry, the Court shall presume that such persons has caused the dowry death.

Explanation- For the purposes of this Section' dowry death' shall has the same meaning as in Section 304B of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1976).

36. The necessity for insertion of the above two provisions has been aptly analyzed by the Law Commission of India in its 21st Report dated 10th August, 1988 on 'Dowry Deaths and Law Reform'. Keeping in view the impediment in the pre-existing laws in securing evidence to prove dowry related death, the legislature thought it wise to insert a provision relating to presumption of dowry death on the proof of certain essentials. It is in this background presumptive Section 113B in the Evidence Act had been inserted. As per the definition of 'Dowry death; in Section 304B I.P.C., and the wordings in the presumptive Section 113 B of the Evidence Act, one of the essential ingredients, amongst other, in both the provisions is that the concerned woman must have been "soon before her death" subjected to cruelty or harassment for or in connection with the demand of dowry".Presumption under Section 113B is a presumption by law. On proof of the essentials mentioned therein, the Court would raise a presumption that the accused persons caused the dowry death. The said presumption shall be raised on the proof of the following essentials:

(1) The question before the Court must be whether the accused committed the dowry death of a woman. (This means that the presumption can be raised only if the accused is being tried for the offence under Section 304B I.P.C.

(2) The woman was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or his relatives.

(3) Such cruelty or harassment was for, or in connection with any demand for dowry.

(4) Such cruelty or harassment was soon before her death.

37. A conjoint reading of Section 113B of the Evidence Act and Section 304B I.P.C. shows that there must be material to show that soon before the death, the victim was subjected to cruelty or harassment. The prosecution has to rule out the possibility of a natural or accidental death so as to bring it within the purview of the 'death occurring otherwise than in normal circumstances'. The expression 'soon before' is relevant in a case where Section 113B of the Evidence Act and Section 304B I.P.C are pressed into service. The prosecution is obliged to show that soon before the occurrence there was cruelty or harassment and only in that case presumption operates. Evidence in that regard has to be led by the prosecution.

38. It has been held that 'Soon before' is a relative term and it would depend upon the circumstances of each case and no strait-jacket formula can be laid down as to what would constitute a period of "soon before' the occurrence. It was observed in a catena of decision of the Apex Court that it would be hazardous to indicate any fixed period, which brings in the importance of a proximity test both for the proof of an offence of dowry death as well as for raising a presumption under Section 113B of the Evidence Act. The expression 'soon before her death' used in the substantive Section 304B I.P.C. and Section 113B of the Evidence Act is to be examined with the idea of proximity test. No definite period has been indicated and the expression 'soon before' is not defined. A reference to the expression 'soon before' used in Section 114 Illustration (a) of the Evidence Act is relevant. It lays down that the Court may presume that a man who is in the possession of goods 'soon after' the theft, is either the thief or has received the goods knowing them to be stolen, unless he can account for his possession. The determination of a period which can come within the term 'soon before' is to be made by the Courts depending upon the facts and circumstances of each case. Suffice it to indicate that the expression 'soon before' would normally imply that the interval should not be much between the concerned cruelty or harassment and the death of the victim. There must be existence of a proximate and live-link between the effects of cruelty based on dowry demand and the death of the victim. If alleged incident of cruelty is remote in time and has become stale enough not to disturb the mental equilibrium of the woman concerned, it would be of no consequence.

39. In the instant case, so far as the first ingredient of Section 304-B IPC is concerned that the death of women must have been caused by burns or bodily injury or otherwise than under normal circumstances, from the statements of P.W.1, P.W.2 & P.W. 3 it is evident that when they had reached the matrimonial house of the deceased at about 2 a.m. she was found lying burnt inside the room of the house. Ext. Ka-2 inquest report also shows that the deceased died of the burn injuries. The postmortem Report Ext. Ka-7 shows the cause of death being Asphyxia due to ante-mortem burn injuries. P.W. 6 Dr. R.P. Verma has proved the cause of death being ante-mortem burn injuries. It, therefore, stands proved that the death was caused by ante-mortem burn injuries which was otherwise than under normal circumstances.

40. As far as the second ingredient that such death must have been occurred within 7 year of the marriage to raise a presumption of dowry death, the first informant PW-1 Manmohan Singh stated in the written report Ext. Ka-1 that he had married his daughter with the appellant Sunil Kumar Yadav R/o village Dikauli, Police Station Eirach, District Jhansi six years prior to the incident. During his examination before the court, P.W.1 disclosed the date of marriage as 23.4.2000. P.W. 2 Tulsiram and P.W.3 Dr. Virendra Singh Yadav also proved the date of marriage as 23.4.2000. Material Exhibit 1, the invitation card on record has been proved by P.W. 3 Dr. Virendra Singh Yadav wherein the date of marriage is mentioned as 23.4.2000. During his examination, the investigation officer P.W.4 stated that he seized the invitation card from the members of family of the deceased. In this way, the date of marriage of the deceased was proved as 23.4.2000. The date of death being 31.10.2006 lead to an inference that the victim died within seven years of her marriage.

41. It is pertinent to note that though the appellants in their statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C. did not admit the date of marriage as 23.4.2000 and contended that it was performed on 10.5.1998 but no evidence was produced in the shape of the invitation card or any other document to prove the disputed date of marriage as asserted by the appellants. A transfer certificate Ext. Kha-1 has been produced and Parshuram, principal of the school was produced as D.W.1 to prove the contents of the transfer certificate who has stated that Sunil Kumar yadav took admission in class 9th on 10.07.1996 and on failure in the high school examination, the transfer certificate was issued in the month of June, 1999. The appellant Sunil Kumar was studying in the school in the year 1996-97 in class 9th. 1997 to 1998 and 1998 to 1999 in class 10th. Except this, D.W.1 did not say anything which would be relvant about the disputed date of marriage by the appellants.

42. Learned trial court has mentioned in para no. 17 of the judgment that P.W. 1 stated during the examination that at the time of marriage, Sunil Kumar was studying in the class 9th or 10th. On the basis of this statement of P.W.1 and the statement of D.W. 1 about the years of education relating to the appellant Sunil Kumar in the year 1998-99, the period of marriage of the deceased at the time of her death was concluded to be beyond 7 years. Further, the learned trial court has quoted an order of this Court passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 9088 of 2010 wherein it was noted that the name of deceased Anita was mentioned in the voter list of gram panchayat Dikauli in the year 1999 and the said fact was not contradicted by the State. From the contents of the aforesaid bail order of this Court, the learned trial court had concluded that the deceased was married to Sunil Kumar Yadav prior to the year 1999, though neither any voter list was produced before the trial court nor any evidence was led in this regard by the appellants. The trial court has also noted that P.W.2 narrated before it that in the year 1999, the name of Anita was entered in the voter list as wife of appellant Sunil Kumar Yadav because she was engaged, i.e. her marriage was settled. On the basis of the above facts, the learned trial court had concluded the period of marriage of deceased with appellant Sunil Kumar Yadav on the date of her death being beyond the period of seven years. In this regard, it is to note that Ext. Kha-1, the transfer certificate has no relevance in so far as the factum of the date of marriage of deceased with appellant Sunil Kumar Yadav. No evidence either in the nature of invitation card or any voter list of gram panchayat, Dikauli of the year 1999 had been produced before the trial court besides any other oral or documentary evidence to prove the contention of the appellants about the date of marriage being 10.5.1998.

43. A perusal of statement of P.W. 2 shows that a suggestion was given to him about the date of marriage being 10.5.1998 in relation to the entry in the voter list of the year 1999 but no such voter list was shown to him nor P.Ws. 1 and 2 anywhere had admitted the date of marriage as suggested by the defence/appellants. The conclusion drawn by the trial court is based on its own hypothesis on assumption simply on the suggestion about the entry of the voter list which was never produced before it. The trial court has, thus, illegally discarded the testimony of P.W. 1 to P.W. 3 about the date of marriage of the deceased as also the veracity of invitation card which was proved as Material Ext. 1 by the prosecution witnesses. The findings of the learned trial court, in this regard, not being based upon any documentary or oral evidence but being hypothetical is liable to be set aside. The assumption drawn by the trial court cannot overthrow the reliable testimony of the prosecution witnesses which is corroborated by documentary evidence produced by them.

44. On due appreciation the evidence on record, the date of marriage of the deceased with appellant Sunil Kumar Yadav stands proved as 31.4.2000. The death of the deceased, thus, proved to have been taken place within seven years of her marriage.

45. Now the next requirement is to ascertain as to whether soon before her death the deceased was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or his relatives and such cruelty or harassment must be in connection with the demand of dowry.

46. In this regard, P.W. 1 who is father of the deceased has supported the prosecution version about the demand of dowry and harassment of the deceased in his examination in chief and also during the cross examination and remained intact in that regard. P.W. 2 Tulsiram uncle of the deceased also proved demand of dowry and harassment of the deceased by her husband and other family members. P.W. 3 Dr. Virendra Singh Yadav another uncle of the deceased also deposed about demand of dowry and harassment of the deceased by her husband and other family members in his examination-in-chief as also the cross-examination. Both the witneses remained intact throughout. As per the statement of the prosecution witnesses the demand of dowry of Rs. One lac was made by the appellants to purchase a tractor for which the parents and uncle of the deceased gave money as per their capacity but again the demand of dowry for motorcycle was made and on failure to fulfill the said demand, the deceased was subjected to torture and was beaten by the appellants. When the prosecution witnesses went to her sasural to reconcile the matter even then the appellants made the demand for motorcycle and also refused to send off the deceased with her parents. On 30.10.2006 telephonic information was given by the deceased herself that she was being beaten by the appellants and when her parents reached at her matrimonial house, she was found lying burnt inside the room of the house. The appellants ran away from their house and the door was found closed from outside. It is, thus, established that after marriage the deceased was subjected to torture on account of non fulfillment of demand of dowry. This situation continued till the fateful day, when the girl died in her matrimonial home by burn injuries.

47. From the due appraisal of the testimony of the prosecution witnesses as abovenoted, it is proved that unnatural death of deceased was caused by burn injuries within seven years of marriage and soon before her death, the deceased was subjected to cruelty by her husband and his family members in connection with the demand of dowry.

48. Now section 113 B of the Indian Evidence Act comes into picutre, on the basis of the material on record the presumption is to be drawn by the court that the appellant had caused the dowry death of the victim. The charge under Sections 304-B IPC stands proved against the appellants. There is clinching evidence on record against all the appellants relating to harassment of the deceased in relation to non fulfillment of demand of dowry, which brings the offence under Section 498-A IPC as well as under Section 4 Dowry Prohibition Act into picture. Hence, the charges under Section 498-A & Section 4 Dowry Prohibition Act also stand proved.

49. Now, the question arises as to whether in the above circumstances, the appellants can be convicted under Section 302 IPC. In this regard, we may note that the learned trial court had not found the charge under Section 304-B IPC proved on the ground that the marriage of the deceased was performed with the appellant Sunil Kumar Yadav more than seven years prior to the date of death, which finding has been found to be hypothetical by this Court on mis-appreciation of the evidence on record, as discussed herein above. The charge under Section 302 IPC framed by the learned trial court was an alternative charge. In case, the charge under Section 304-B IPC was not proved only then the court was to travel further to consider whether the case falls under Section 302 IPC. If case under Section 304-B IPC is found proved, there is no need to consider the matter for the offence under Section 302 IPC unless there is positive evidence to conclude that the appellants had caused her death either by setting her ablaze or causing fatal injury.

50. Learned trial court has convicted and sentenced the appellants under Section 302 IPC and recorded the finding that looking to the position in which dead body was found the appellants caused the death by initially making the deceased unconscious and then setting her ablaze so that she may not protest or save herself. In this regard, there is no evidence on record to show that the deceased was administered something obnoxious and, thereafter, she was set ablaze by the appellants. Even during postmortem no ante-mortem injury except burn injuries were found on the person of the deceased. P.W. 6

Dr. R.P. Verma, who conducted autopsy had also expressed inability to give any opinion as to whether the death was suicidal or homicidal. In situation like this, no conclusion could be drawn that the death of the deceased was homicidal only. So, the findings returned by the trial court that the deceased was first made unconcious by administering some substance and then set ablaze also appears to be based on hypothesis and contrary to the evidence on record. Taking recourse to the Section 106 of Indian Evidence Act is also not found to be justified in the present case in as much as presence of the appellants in the house or room wherein the deceased had died could not be proved by the prosecution. As a result, the learned trial court cannot but be said to have committed illegality in convicting the appellants under Section 302 IPC with the aid of Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act.

51. Thus, from the aforesaid discussion made above the charges under Section 304-B, 498-A IPC & Section 4 Dowry Prohibition Act are proved beyond all reasonable doubt, against the appellants. The conviction and sentence awarded by the trial court under Section 302 IPC by the judgement and order dated 31.7.20212 stands modified accordingly.

52. Now the consideration has to be given on the question of sentence in the case of proven charges under Section 304-B IPC.

53. In the case of Hem Chand v. State of Haryana [(1994) 6 SCC 727], The Apex Court has held in paragraph 7 of the judgment as under:-

"Now coming to the question of sentence, it can be seen that Section 304-B I.P.C. lays down that Whoever commits dowry death shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may extend to imprisonment for life."

The point for consideration is whether the extreme punishment of imprisonment for life is warranted in the instant case, A reading of Section 304-B I.P.C, would show that when a question arises whether a person has committed the offence of dowry death of a woman that all that is necessary is it should be shown that soon before her unnatural death, which took place within seven years of the marriage, the deceased had been subjected, by such person, to cruelty or harassment for or in connection with demand for dowry. If that is shown then the court shall presume that such a person has caused the dowry death. It can therefore be seen that irrespective of the fact whether such person is directly responsible for the death of the deceased or not by virtue of the presumption, he is deemed to have committed the dowry death if there were such cruelty or harassment and that if the unnatural death has occurred within seven years from the date of marriage. Likewise there is a presumption under Section 113-B of the Evidence Act as to the dowry death. It lays down that the court shall presume that the person who has subjected the deceased wife to cruelty before her death shall presume to have caused the dowry death if it is shown that before her death, such woman had been subjected, by the accused, to cruelty or harassment in connection with any demand for dowry. Practically this is the presumption that has been incorporated in Section 304-B I.P.C. also. It can therefore be seen that irrespective of the fact whether the accused has any direct connection With the death or not, he shall be presumed to have committed the dowry death provided the other requirements men-tioned above are satisfied. In the instant case no doubt the prosecution has proved that the deceased died an unnatural death namely due to strangulation, but there is no direct evidence connecting the accused. It is also important to note in this context that there is no charge under Section 302 I.P.C. The trial court also noted that there were two sets of medical evidence on the file in respect of the death of the deceased. Dr. Usha Rani, P.W. 6 and Dr. Indu Latit, P.W. 7 gave one opinion. According to them no injury was found on the dead body and that the same was highly decom-posed. On the other hand, Dr. Dalbir Singh, P.W. 13 who also examined the dead body and gave his opinion, deposed that he noticed some injuries at the time of re-post mortem examination. Therefore at the most it can be said that the prosecution proved that it was an unnatural death in which case also Section 304-B I.P.C. would be attracted. But this aspect has certainly to be taken into consideration in balancing the sentence to be awarded to the accused. As a matter of fact, the trial court only found that the death was unnatural and the aspect of cruelty has been established and therefore the offences punishable under Sections 304-B and 201 I.P.C. have been established. The High Court in a very short judgment concluded that it was fully proved that the death of the deceased in her matrimonial home was a dowry death otherwise than in normal circumstances as a result of cruelty meted out to her and therefore an offence under Section 304 I.P.C. was made out. Coming to the sentence the High Court pointed out that the accused-appellant was a police employee and instead of checking the crime he himself indulged therein and precipitated in it and that bride killing cases are on the increase and therefore a serious view has to be taken. As mentioned above Section 304-B I.P.C. only raises presumption and lays down that minimum sentence should be seven years but it may extend to imprisonment for life. Therefore awarding extreme punishment of imprisonment for life should be in rare cases and not in every case."

54. The view taken by the Apex Court in Hem Chand case (supra) was again affirmed by the Court in the case of G.V. Siddaramesh Vs. State of Karnataka (2010)3 SCC 152 in para 30 as under:-

"On the point of sentence, learned Counsel for the appellant pointed out that the appellant is in jail for more than six years. The appellant was young at the time of incident and therefore, the sentence awarded by the trial court and confirmed by the High Court may be modified. In so far as sentencing under the section is concerned, a three Judge Bench of this Court in the case of Hemchand v. State of Haryana [(1994) 6 SCC 727] has observed that:

"Section 304B merely raises a presumption of dowry death and lays down that the minimum sentence should be 7 years, but it may extend to imprisonment for life. Therefore, awarding the extreme punishment of imprisonment for life should be used in rare cases and not in every case.

Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case, this Court reduced the sentence from life imprisonment awarded by the High Court to 10 years R.I. on the above principle."

55. A reference on this point may also be made to the recent pronouncement of the Apex Court in the case of Sunil Dutt Sharma V State reported in [(2014) 4 SCC 8 375] wherein Hon'ble Apex Court has considered the law on the point of sentence under Section 304-B IPC in detail and reduced the sentence from life imprisonment to ten years.

"13. Would the above principles apply to sentencing of an accused found guilty of the offence under Section 304-B inasmuch as the said offence is held to be proved against the accused on basis of a legal presumption? This is the next question that has to be dealt with. So long there is credible evidence of cruelty occasioned by demand(s) for dowry, any unnatural death of a woman within seven years of her marriage makes the husband or a relative of the husband of such woman liable for the offence of "dowry death" under Section 304-B though there may not be any direct involvement of the husband or such relative with the death in question. In a situation where commission of an offence is held to be proved by means of a legal presumption the circumstances surrounding the crime to determine the presence of aggravating circumstances (crime test) may not be readily forthcoming unlike a case where there is evidence of overt criminal acts establishing the direct involvement of the accused with the crime to enable the Court to come to specific conclusions with regard to the barbarous or depraved nature of the crime committed. The necessity to combat the menace of demand for dowry or to prevent atrocities on women and like social evils as well as the necessity to maintain the purity of social conscience cannot be determinative of the quantum of sentence inasmuch as the said parameters would be common to all offences under Section 304-B of the Penal Code. The above, therefore, cannot be elevated to the status of acceptable jurisprudential principles to act as a rational basis for awarding varying degrees of punishment on a case to case basis. The search for principles to satisfy the crime test in an offence under Section 304-B of the Penal Code must, therefore, lie elsewhere. Perhaps, the time spent between marriage and the death of the woman; the attitude and conduct of the accused towards the victim before her death; the extent to which the demand for dowry was persisted with and the manner and circumstances of commission of the cruelty would be a surer basis for determination of the crime test. Coupled with the above, the fact whether the accused was also charged with the offence under Section 302 of the Penal Code and the basis of his acquittal of the said charge would be another very relevant circumstance. As against this the extenuating/mitigating circumstances which would determine the "criminal test" must be allowed to have a full play. The aforesaid two sets of circumstances being mutually irreconcilable cannot be arranged in the form of a balance sheet as observed in Sangeet (supra) but it is the cumulative effect of the two sets of different circumstances that has to be kept in mind while rendering the sentencing decision. This, according to us, would be the correct approach while dealing with the question of sentence so far as the offence under Section 304-B of the Penal Code is concerned.

14. Applying the above parameters to the facts of the present case it transpires that the death of the wife of the accused-appellant occurred within two years of marriage. There was, of course, a demand for dowry and there is evidence of cruelty or harassment. The autopsy report of the deceased showed external marks of injuries but the cause of death of deceased was stated to be due to asphyxia resulting from strangulation. In view of the aforesaid finding of Dr. L.T. Ramani (PW-16) who had conducted the postmortem, the learned Trial Judge thought it proper to acquit the accused of the offence under Section 302 of the Penal Code on the benefit of doubt as there was no evidence that the accused was, in any way, involved with the strangulation of the deceased. The proved facts on the basis of which offence under Section 304-B of the Penal Code was held to be established, while acquitting the accused-appellant of the offence under Section 302 of the Penal Code, does not disclose any extraordinary, perverse or diabolic act on the part of the accused-appellant to take an extreme view of the matter. Coupled with the above, at the time of commission of the offence, the accused-appellant was about 21 years old and as on date he is about 42 years. The accused-appellant also has a son who was an infant at the time of the occurrence. He has no previous record of crime. On a cumulative application of the principles that would be relevant to adjudge the crime and the criminal test, we are of the view that the present is not a case where the maximum punishment of life imprisonment ought to have been awarded to the accused-appellant. At the same time, from the order of the learned Trial Court, it is clear that some of the injuries on the deceased, though obviously not the fatal injuries, are attributable to the accused-appellant. In fact, the finding of the learned Trial Court is that the injuries No. 1 (Laceration 1" x ½" skin deep on the side of forehead near hair margin) and 2 (Laceration 1 ½" x 1" scalp deep over the frontal area) on the deceased had been caused by the accused-appellant with a pestle. The said part of the order of the learned Trial Court has not been challenged in the appeal before the High Court. Taking into account the said fact, we are of the view that in the present case the minimum sentence prescribed i.e. seven years would also not meet the ends of justice. Rather we are of the view that a sentence of ten years RI would be appropriate. Consequently, we modify the impugned order dated 4.4.2011 passed by the High Court of Delhi and impose the punishment of ten years RI on the accused-appellant for the commission of the offence under Section 304-B of the Penal Code. The sentence of fine is maintained. The accused-appellant who is presently in custody shall serve out the remaining part of the sentence in terms of the present order."

56. In V.K. Mishra and another v. State of Uttarakhand reported in [(2015) 9 SCC 588], the Apex Court has again considered the question of sentence in cases of dowry death and has observed in paragraph nos. 40 and 41 as under:-

"40. For the offence Under Section 304-B Indian Penal Code, the punishment is imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may extend to imprisonment for life. Section 304-B Indian Penal Code thus prescribes statutory minimum of seven years. In Kulwant Singh and Ors. v. State of Punjab (2013) 4 SCC 177, while dealing with dowry death Sections 304-B and 498-A Indian Penal Code in which death was caused by poisoning within seven years of marriage conviction was affirmed. In the said case, the father-in-law was about eighty years and his legs had been amputated because of severe diabetes and mother-in-law was seventy eight years of age and the Supreme Court held impermissibility of reduction of sentence on the ground of sympathy below the statutory minimum.

41. As per prison records, the accused-Rahul Mishra is in custody for more than five years which includes remission. Bearing in mind the facts and circumstances of the case and the occurrence of the year 1997 and that the accused-Rahul Mishra is in custody for more than five years, interest of justice would be met if life imprisonment awarded to him is reduced to imprisonment for a period of ten years. Appellants V. K. Mishra and Neelima Mishra, each of them have undergone imprisonment of more than one year. Appellants No.1 and 2 are aged about seventy and sixty four years and are said to be suffering from various ailments. Considering their age and ailments and facts and circumstances of the case, life imprisonment imposed on Appellants V. K. Mishra and Neelima Mishra is also reduced to imprisonment of seven years each."

57. In the present case, at the time of occurrence, appellant Sunil Kumar Yadav, husband of the deceased was 30 years of age; Smt Rajola mother-in-law was aged about 53 years; Rajkumar @ Majhale younger brother of Sunil Kumar Yadav, was aged about 23 years; Smt. Ram Dulari @ Uma, wife of Rajkumar was aged about 21 years and Neetu @ Ram Kumar the youngest brother of Sunil Kumar was aged about 20 years. As per the record, all the appellants are in custody from 31.7.2012. After six years of marriage the deceased had died out of burn injuries. No antemortem injury was found on the person of the deceased. As per the doctor who had conducted autopsy the death cannot be said to be homicidal by definite opinion.

58. Keeping in mind the principle of sentence under Section 304-B IPC as enunciated by the Apex Court, in the facts and circumstances of the present case, the occurrence which took place in the year 2006 and that the appellants have already undergone the sentence for more than nine years, in our considered opinion, interest of justice would be served if the appellants are awarded sentence under Section 304-B IPC to imprisonment for a period of ten years, each. The conviction of the appellants for other offences and sentences of imprisonment imposed for each offence awarded by the trial court are hereby affirmed. All the sentences shall run concurrently.

59. Resultantly, the appeals are partly allowed, modifying the judgment and order dated 31.7.2012 of the learned Sessions Court to the above extent.

60. Office is directed to certify this judgement to the court concerned forthwith to ensure compliance and also to send back the trial court record.

PROSECUTION CASE:-

4. The prosecution story unfolded with the first information report lodged on 28.02.2006 at about 19.45 hrs. by Sri Atul Tripathi son of deceased Rajendra Prasad Tripathi resident of P.S. Atraulia, District

Azamgarh. The written report given by Sri Atul Tripathi narrates that he and his deceased father were resident of P.S. Atraulia District Azamgarh. On 28.02.2006, the first informant (Atul Tripathi), alongwith Arun Kumar Pandey, Krishna Kumar Tiwari, Rajkumar Tiwari and Ram Shiromani Shukla, was waiting at the 'Kesari Chauraha' for the arrival of his father from Azamgarh. While they were standing, his father alighted from a bus and moved to the pavement towards the East-South side of the crossing (Kesari Chauraha) to go to his house alongwith the first informant and other witnesses.

5. At that point of time, suddenly from a Bolero car, Sons of Laxmi Narain Pandey namely Rajesh Kumar Pandey, Pawan Kumar @ Babloo, Amit Kumar Pandey, Umesh and Ramesh alighted carrying weapons in their hands. They encircled his father and Rajesh Kumar Pandey, Pawan Kumar @ Babloo and Amit Kumar Pandey killed his father by firing from their weapons, Umesh and Ramesh also fired. Laxmi Narain Pandey and Shyam Narain Pandey were sitting in the car and exhorting the assailants that the deceased should not be spared as he wanted to become the Principal. While firing, all the assailants ran away in the said car towards the west side. Crowd was collected on the spot.

6. While leaving the dead body of his father, the first informant went to the police station to lodge the report. The time of the incident as noted in the Check report is 28.02.2006 at about 06.00 PM and the report was lodged on 28.02.2006 at 19.45 hrs, the distance of the police station from the place of the incident which is 'Kesari Chauraha', Kasba Atraulia noted therein is half (½) kilometer. The original report and original G.D. were brought in the Court and G.D. entry of Rapat No.35 was proved to have been prepared on the same date, the carbon copy of which was filed on record. The G.D. entry and the check report were proved to be in the handwriting and signature of PW-6, which were marked as Exhibit Ka-16 & 17. It was stated by PW-6 in his examination-in-chief that the special report of the crime was sent through Constable 694 Ram Surat Yadav on 28.02.2006 itself and entry of the same was made at G.D. No.40 in his handwriting and signature, which was marked as Exhibit Ka-18. The paper No.129 of the special report being in his handwriting and signature was produced in the Court which was noted and proved as Exhibit Ka-18. In cross, PW-6 was contradicted about several inconsistencies pointed out in the entries made by him which would be discussed at the appropriate place of this judgement.

7. At this stage, while noting the police papers, it may be recorded that the Investigating Officer proved the memo of collection of blood stained and plain earth from the spot as Exhibit Ka-10. On 28.02.2006, another memo was prepared of recovery of a bag besides the dead body as Exhibit Ka-2. It was noted in the recovery memo of bag that one bag Rexin, brown-black was found lying besides the dead body. It was seized and opened, a typed application signed by deceased Dr. Rajendra Prasad Tripathi dated 25.02.2006, a service book of the deceased and a letter dated 17.02.2006 addressed to the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh wherein prayer for determination of salary was made and the date certified as 17.02.2006 was mentioned, were found and seized. It is further recorded therein that the application dated 25.02.2006 was addressed to the Commissioner Azamgarh, Division, Azamgarh, District Magistrate, Additional District Magistrate (Revenue and Finances) and Superintendent of Police, Azamgarh, wherein it was mentioned that the accused persons namely Manager Laxmi Narain Pandey and his sons were giving him threat to kill him. The application was seized by the police for including it in the investigation, whereas bag and service book were handed over to the first informant with the direction that he should keep it preserved and would produce it whenever needed in the investigation.

8. The arrest of three accused persons namely Rajesh Kumar Pandey, Umesh Kumar Pandey and Ramesh Kumar Pandey who were travelling in the Bolero Car and the seizure of Bolero Car without registration number used in the occurrence, was made on 05.03.2006, memo of which was prepared and exhibited as Exhibit Ka-11. It was noted therein that a country made pistol 315 bore in working condition, with the description mentioned in the recovery memo was recovered from the possession of Rajesh Kumar Pandey. In the chamber of the pistol one empty cartridge of 315 bore was found and two live cartridges 315 bore from the clothes of Rajesh Kumar Pandey were recovered. The recovered articles were sealed but no independent witness could be found as no-one was ready to be a witness.

9. The arrest of Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey @ Babloo and Amit Kumar Pandey was made on 06.03.2006 from a public place. Two country made pistols of 315 bore and 303 bore were recovered from the possession of Amit Kumar Pandey, wherein one-one live cartridge was found in the chambers of each weapon. The description of both the weapons has been given in the recovery memo proved and exhibited as Exhibit Ka-12. It was noted therein that both the weapons were in working condition.

10. The inquest of the body was conducted on the same day i.e. on 28.02.2006 commencing at 21.10 hrs and ended at 22.25 hrs. The postmortem of the body was conducted on 01.03.2006 at about 11.30 AM. The proximate time of death mentioned therein was about half (½) day. On external examination, Doctor had recorded that:-

"An average built body, eyes, mouth closed, clotted blood present over face and head. Blood oozing out from the nose. Rigour mortis present in both extremities. The postmortem staining present in different parts."

11. On internal examination, the doctor has reported that:-

52. Placing the prosecution evidence, it is vehemently argued by Sri Dilip Kumar learned Senior Advocate that this is a case of false implication of accused persons because of admitted enmity of private witnesses PW-1 and PW-2, one of whom is the son of the deceased and another an employee of the institution against whom disciplinary action was taken by the co-accused Shyam Narain Pandey as Principal of the institution. Further, there are material contradictions in the testimony of PW-1 who is stated to be an eye witness of the incident.

53. The question is as to whether the story of the first informant with regard to the place of the incident and the manner of occurrence could be proved, with the presence of other eye witness, in as much as, the prosecution could not even prove the fact that the deceased had travelled by a Roadways bus on that day. It is vehemently argued that the entire story narrated by PW-1 from the beginning was concocted, in as much as, the narration by PW-1 of the reason of enmity of the deceased with accused Laxmi Narain Pandey for Rs.10 lacs received from M.P. Fund, could not be proved by the prosecution. In cross, it has come that the said money was though transferred by the deceased to the Chief Development Officer, Azamgarh but it was again refunded to the accused Laxmi Narain Pandey for degree college. The enmity suggested by the prosecution because of the dispute relating to the money (Rs. 10 lacs), therefore, falls. The story of the pressure created by Laxmi Narain Pandey upon the deceased to handover money to him was creation of the witnesses PW-1 & PW-2.

54. It is argued that PW-1 was not sure as to whether the deceased (his father) was to be given charge of the post of Principal or the Examination Controller on the next date of the incident, i.e. 01.03.2006. In view of the apparent contradictions in his statement-in-chief and cross, his version that the deceased went to the office of the District Inspector of School to bring the Board copies and that being the reason of the presence of the witnesses on the spot, therefore, is proved to be false. Besides the apparent contradictions in his testimony, no material such as answer books were found near the dead body nor noted in the inquest, the said fact was also admitted by PW-2 that the deceased did not bring answer books with him. No copy or no other material was found besides the dead body. No bus ticket or pass to travel by the roadways bus was found either in the pocket of clothes of the deceased or in the alleged bag found by the Investigating Officer besides the dead body. There is no memo of alleged money recovered from the pocket of the pants of the deceased. In the inquest report, the column for noting the things found besides the dead body is blank which further proves the stand of the defence that nothing was found besides the dead body. As per the evidence of PW-1, the deceased had alighted from the roadways bus. A presumption, thus, has to be drawn in the ordinary course of business that he was travelling with ticket or a pass but no such material was found near the dead body. The entire theory of prosecution of the deceased having alighted from the roadways bus, thus, falls short of evidence. There is, thus, no evidence on record to prove that the deceased went to the office of the District Inspector of School, Azamgarh and was coming back from the said office by a Roadways bus as narrated by the prosecution witnesses. The reason for their presence given by the prosecution witnesses (PW-1 & PW-2) to receive the deceased at the Kesari Chauraha as he was bringing the Board copies, therefore, proved to be wholly concocted story. The presence of prosecution witnesses (PW-1 & PW-2) on the spot, therefore, is belied.

55. It is then argued that once the reason for presence of PW-1 and his companion (PW-2) on the spot could not be proved by the prosecution, the presence of witnesses on the spot becomes highly doubtful. The direction wise details given by PW-1 as to which accused fired in which manner, further goes to show that the prosecution had concocted the entire version of PW-1 about his presence on the spot. There is apparent contradictions in the testimony of PW-1 about the number of fires from the medical evidence wherein only three firearm injuries of entry wounds were found on the person of the deceased. Two other firearm injuries as indicated in the postmortem report are exit wounds corresponding to two entry wounds. According to the learned Senior Counsel, PW-1 having counted the number of firearm injuries as indicated in the postmortem report without understanding its impact, stated that all the accused persons had fired at the deceased and that total 5 fires were made by assigning firearm in the hands of each accused.

56. It is clear in his version that PW-1 though stated that Umesh and Ramesh also fired but did not explain as to whether their fire hit the deceased.

57. PW-2 Rajkumar Tiwari conspicuously absented from the spot soon after the occurrence and did not meet the police officer as is evident from his testimony and that of PW-4. His statement was recorded after about 20-25 days of the occurrence and the admitted fact that he gave an affidavit to the District Magistrate to record his testimony show that the prosecution had pressurized the witnesses to give a false testimony. The statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. of PW-2 was recorded only after he gave affidavit to the District Magistrate on 20.03.2006. It is admitted to this witness (PW-2) that he did not meet the Investigating Officer before giving affidavit to the District Magistrate. It is further argued that, in cross of PW-2, it has come that Ex. Principal Paras Nath Mishra died on the same day and it was suggested that PW-1 was coming from his house, which was near the place of the incident, when this murder was committed. This suggestion given to the witnesses could not be successfully refuted by PW-1 or PW-2 which fact coupled with the above noted facts makes it evident that the prosecution had suppressed the truth, i.e. the reason for the presence of the witnesses on the spot.

58. It is then argued that the suggestion of enmity of the deceased with other persons on account of lodging of the first information report by him was admitted. Further there was a considerable delay in sending the dead body to the police lines. As per the statement of PW-1, the body was sent for postmortem from the place of the incident at about 10.30 PM but as per the entries in Form 13, which records movement of the dead body, the body was dispatched from the place of the incident at 10.25 PM but received in the police lines in the morning at about 11.15 AM. The postmortem commenced at about 11.30 AM and the doctor (PW-3) admitted that he had received the body in the mortuary at 11.15 AM. Similar entries could be seen from two documents maintained at the police lines which are the postmortem register and GD proved by the defence as Exhibit Kha-1 and Kha-2. The entries in the said documents do tally with the postmortem report (Exhibit Ka-4) and the time of arrival and dispatch of the dead body to the mortuary recorded therein is 10.45 PM. The first Investigating Officer namely PW-4 was cross-examined on the issue of arrival of the body in the mortuary and he also admitted that as per his information, the body had reached the mortuary at about 6.00-7.00 AM though it was asserted by PW-4 that the body was straightway sent to the mortuary from the place of the incident for postmortem.

59 The defence witness DW-1, clerk of the police Headquarter, Azamgarh brought the original postmortem register and G.D. and as per the entries therein, it was proved by DW-1 that the dead body of Rajendra Prasad Tripathi (deceased) had reached at the police lines on 01.03.2006 at about 10.45 AM.

60. With the statement of DW-1, learned Senior Counsel for the appellant vehemently argued that the entries in both the documents namely Kha-1 and Kha-2 were of 10.45 AM. There is no corresponding entry in Form 13 wherein a column exist for noting the time of arrival of the dead body in the police lines and also of sending it to the mortuary. The contention is that since only one time namely 22.25 hrs dated 28.02.2006 has been mentioned in the relevant column in Form 13 with regard to which the relevant entry in the postmortem register at serial No.82 Rapat number 50 time 10.45 AM dated 01.03.2006 exist, it can be inferred that the dead body reached the police station only in the morning at about 10.15 AM. It is argued that the distance of the police lines from the place of the incident was about 33 KM. In any case, dead body could not have been received in the police lines at about 10.25 PM as noted in the relevant column of form 13 as it was proved to be the time of dispatch of the dead body. Looking to the distance of the police Headquarter from the place of the incident, only entry of the postmortem register and Rapat No.15 in G.D. (Kha-1 and Kha-2) have to be considered to ascertain the time when the body was received in the police lines, Headquarter Azamgarh. The doctor had proved that the body was received by him for the postmortem at about 11.15 AM on 01.03.2006 alongwith police papers and he conducted postmortem at 11.30 AM.

61. In light of the above evidence on record, no explanation could be offered by the prosecution witnesses specially the Investigating Officer to explain the gap of 12 hrs in transportation of the dead body to the police lines. The Constables carrying the dead body were not examined on the vital delay of arrival of the dead body in the police station and then to the mortuary. As per the opinion of the Doctor, the proximate time of death estimated by him was ½ day that means 12 hrs. From the above opinion of the expert also the death could not have been caused at around 06.00 PM, as projected by the prosecution witnesses of fact (PW-1 & PW-2). It seems more probable that the death was caused sometimes around midnight and for that reason, the body was received in the police lines/mortuary in the morning. The statement of the Investigating Officer (PW-4) also becomes significant when he says that he had received information that the body was received in the mortuary at about 06.00-07.00 AM.

62. In view of the above circumstances, two probabilities arise, firstly, that the incident had occurred in the dead of night and no-one had seen the murder and secondly that some unknown person who were carrying ill will against the deceased on account of lodging of the first information report against them under Section 307 IPC had killed him and for that reason, the body was received in the police lines and the mortuary during morning hours on the next day i.e. 01.03.2006. As a consequence to that, the first information report becomes Ante-time. By preponing the time of lodging of the first information report, the prosecution tried to build a case of the presence of alleged eye witnesses (PW-1 & PW-2) at the site of the incident. The special report of the incident was also sent with considerable delay and as per the endorsement on the same, it was received by the Judicial Magistrate on 04.03.2006.

63. All the above facts taken together prove the improbability of the deceased having alighted from the bus at the Kesari Chauraha at the time which was fixed by the prosecution witnesses. According to the defence, in fact, PW-1 was present in his house which was at a short distance from the place of the incident and the deceased had gone to the house of Paras Nath Mishra, the Ex-Principal who had died on the same day. While coming from the house of Paras Nath Mishra, the deceased was killed by unknown assailants and PW-1, who came from his house projected himself as an eye witness in a motivated manner to falsely implicate the accused persons because of enmity. The reason for presence of the witnesses namely PW-1 on the spot was not narrated in his previous statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. which fact further proves that PW-1 is lying.

64. It is further argued that when it was put to PW-1 that a bus stand was nearby, only 250 paces towards the west from the place of the incident, he admitted the same and this admission would be further proof of the fact that there was no reason for the roadways bus to stop at the Kesari Chauraha which was a busy place. In fact the place of the incident as narrated by PW-1 and the reason for his presence at the said place all are concocted story which could not be proved by the prosecution. The falsity in the testimony of PW-1 is further proved from the fact that he gave a false affidavit in the bail matter against accused Shyam Narain Pandey.

65. On motive, it was vehemently argued by the learned Senior counsel for the appellants that there is no evidence of the suggested motive and PW-1 could not even prove the motive in his oral testimony. It is lastly argued that both the witnesses are interested and partisan witnesses, PW-1 being son of the deceased and PW-2 having grudges against the co-accused Shayam Narain Pandey. No independent witnesses was produced though the incident allegedly had occurred at a crowded place at a time (in the evening) when lot of crowd was collected on the spot. Strict scrutiny of the prosecution evidences, therefore, would be required and it becomes important to ascertain as to whether the deceased had actually travelled by bus.

66. To prove the said doubt in the prosecution story bus ticket was a significant evidence which could not be found by the prosecuting officer. The bag which was allegedly found near the dead body was a planted one. The prosecution witnesses were put to cross on the evidence of proof of traveling of the deceased by bus but none of them could give any satisfactory answer. This fact itself completely ruled out the story of traveling of the deceased by the roadways bus.

67. It is argued by the learned Senior Counsel for the appellant that in the statement of the second Investigating Officer (PW-5) though it has come that he had interrogated the District Inspector of School and recorded his statement but the said statement was neither produced in the evidence nor exhibited. Without proving the evidence of the District Inspector of School, the substance of the statement of the second Investigating Officer in that regard would be liable to be thrown away.

68. The Material Exhibit-12, the bullet recovered from the dead body, could not be matched with the weapons allegedly recovered from the accused persons. This again show the falsity in the case of the prosecution about the weapons in the hands of the accused persons and the offence committed by them. The appellants had been acquitted for the offence under the Arms Act as the recovery of weapon was planted.

69. It is urged that PW-2 admittedly had motive to falsely implicate the co-accused Shyam Narain Pandey. Further investigation of the case was done by the CBCID under the order passed by the State Government. The PW-10, the third Investigating Officer of CBCID, though collected evidence for the offence under Section 120-B but did not produce any witness in the Court and, thus, allegation of conspiracy could not be proved. There is no transparency in the investigation. The material improvement in the testimony of PW-2 were put to the Investigating Officer namely PW-5 who could not explain the same. The offence under Section 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act, which was indicated in the first information report had not been mentioned in any of the police papers prepared by the Investigating Officer.

70. The Investigating Officer did not ascertain the post which the deceased was holding on the date of the incident. There are several flaws in the investigation which were pointed out to the Investigating Officer to dispute the presence of eye witnesses and no satisfactory reply could be obtained. From the entry in the case diary dated 28.02.2006, it was pointed out by the learned Senior Counsel that there was interpolation in the case diary about the bag seized as the case property. This interpolation was put to the Investigating Officer namely PW-4 who could not give any satisfactory answer. It was also observed by the trial Court that there was an interpolation in the case diary and the word "bag" was later introduced.

71. Sri Dilip Kumar learned Senior Counsel for the appellants places reliance on various judgements of this Court and the Apex Court, Nem Singh Vs. Emperor1, Guchun Misir & others Vs State2, State of U.P. Vs. Moti Ram & another3, Sahib Singh Vs. State of Haryana4, Malempati Pattabi Narendra etc. Vs. Ghattamaneni Maruthi Prasad & others5, State of Uttar Pradesh Vs. Babu Singh,6 Jumni & others Vs. State of Haryana7, Ayodhaya Prasad Namdeo Receiver Vs. Babu Ram Prasad8, Chhanga & others Vs. State of U.P.9 to buttress his arguments.

72. It is argued by Sri Durgesh Kumar Singh learned counsel for appellant Shyam Narain Pandey that the accused persons Laxmi Narain Pandey and Shyam Narain Pandey were wrongly convicted in the offence of murder with the aid of Section 149 when admittedly they did not step out of the car. Only role of exhortation had been assigned to these appellants as per own case of the prosecution itself. The accused Laxmi Narain Pandey and Shyam Narain Pandey cannot be said to have committed any offence in prosecution of the common object of the assembly which was projected as unlawful assembly. Reference has been made to the decision of the Apex Court in Roy Fernandes Vs. State of Goa10 to assert that the conviction of two appellants namely Laxmi Narain Pandey and Shyam Narain Pandey for the offence under Section 302 IPC with the aid of Section 149 IPC is a result of misapplication of law. Further, PW-1 did not even assign the role of exhortation to Shyam Narain Pandey in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., his version before the Court, therefore, is a material improvement. As established from the record, PW-2 had motive to falsely implicate Shyam Narain Pandey. He, therefore, is liable to be acquitted.

73. It is lastly argued by Sri Durgesh Kumar Singh learned Advocate that appellant Shyam Narain Pandey could not have been present on the spot, in as much as, he was in Allahabad and sworn an affidavit before the Oath Commissioner in the High Court. Two witnesses, DW-7 a litigant and DW-12, a lawyer were produced in the Court to prove the plea of alibi. Even PW-1 in his testimony admitted that he had never seen Shyam Narain Pandey prior to the incident and could not explain as to how he knew him.

74. This fact shows that PW-1 could not identify Shyam Narain Pandey at the time of the incident. His implication was later made on deliberations at the instance of PW-2 who was having enmity with Shyam Narain Pandey. This fact further proves the falsity in the statement of the prosecution witnesses and the case of prosecution falls on account of all the material contradictions found in the testimony of the prosecution witnesses.

DEFENCE EVIDENCE:-

75. To press the plea of alibi of accused Laxmi Narain Pandey, Pawan Kumar Pandey and Shyam Narain Pandey following evidence has been placed before the Court by the defence.

76. For Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey, their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. were placed wherein Laxmi Narain Pandey stated that he was lodged in the District Jail, Lucknow on the date and time of the incident. Similar plea was taken by appellant Pawan Kumar Pandey that he was lodged in the District Jail, Lucknow alongwith his father on the date and time of the incident. In support of this plea of alibi, the witnesses from the District Jail, Lucknow and the office of the Railway Police Force had been brought in the Court.

77. DW-2 came from the District Jail, Lucknow and deposed that he brought the gate book register and register No.1 (Kaidi register) register No.7 Doctor Mulaiza register in the Court. This witness had simply brought the document noted above and did not say anything beyond that, he was not cross-examined by the prosecution.

78. DW-3, the Head Constable posted in RPF Post, Charbagh (NR) Lucknow brought the original G.D. from the date 14.02.2006 till 27.02.2006 under the orders of the Court and proved the G.D. entries dated 24.02.2006, 16.26 hrs and 25.02.2006 as Exhibit Kha-3 and Kha-4. It was stated by DW-3 that as per the entries in the General Diary, two persons namely Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey were caught by the T.C. (Ticket Collector) and were handed over to RPF post (NR), Charbagh Lucknow alongwith two chargesheets. The entry in that regard exists at serial No.60 of G.D. When the case was registered against these persons, Constable Gauri Shankar Singh was on duty and according to DW-3 these entries might be in the writing of Gauri Shankar Singh. It was further stated that as per the entries in G.D. 25.02.2006 at 00.10 hrs, Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey were in the RPF lock-up under the supervision of Constable Gauri Shankar Singh and they were handed over to Constable Shiv Raj Prasad who made entries at G.D. No.4, 00.10 hrs of handing over the accused persons to him. Constable Shiv Raj Prasad was on duty till 08.15 AM on 25.02.2006 and these two accused alongwith 15 other persons were handed over to another Constable at about 08.15 AM on 25.02.2006, entry of which could be seen at serial No.25 of the G.D. This witness stated that all the above entries and signatures might be of Constable Shiv Raj Prasad. As per the G.D. entries dated 25.02.2006 rapat No.47, two accused persons alongwith 15 others were taken to the Court of ACJM North Railway Charbagh Lucknow by the RPF Constables and they were brought back on the same day at about 18.00 hours, entries of which was made in the G.D. at rapat No.57. In the entries of return of the accused persons in the Lock-up, out of 17 persons, 4 persons were released as they had deposited the requisite fine.

79. These two accused persons namely Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey did not pay the fine of Rs.880/- per person imposed upon them and, therefore, they were inflicted punishment of 15 days imprisonment. The result was that 13 remaining accused including two persons namely Pawan Kumar Pandey and Laxmi Narain Pandey were lodged in the District Jail, Lucknow.

80. DW-3 in his testimony stated that all the above noted G.D. entries could be found in the original copy of the same.

81. In cross, he further stated that the names of the appellant Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey could be found in the list of those persons who did not deposit the requisite fine. On recall, DW-3 filed original Khuraki register, RPF Charbagh, Lucknow for the period from 03.11.2005 to 17.11.2006 and refuted the suggestion of the prosecution that all the documents were forged and prepared in order to provide undue benefit to the accused appellants. One register known as Jama Talashi register dated 24.02.2006 was also brought in the Court by DW-3 and it was stated that during frisking of the accused persons, one mobile charger was found which was not returned to him and as such there was no signature of the accused appellant Laxmi Narain Pandey therein, the copy of the Jama Talashi register was proved as Exhibit Kha-6. The original Khurakhi register was proved as Exhibit Kha-7, wherein it was indicated that meals of two times were given to the accused appellants namely Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey in the RPF locker. One sealed envelope addressed to the Additional District and Sessions Judge, Court No.3 Azamgarh sent by the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate (N.R.) Lucknow was produced by DW-3 in the Court, seal of which was opened therein. Five papers found in the envelope were marked as Exhibit Kha-9, Kha-10, kha-11 and kha-12 and kha-13. Kha-12 pertains to case No.1440 of 2006 arising out of case No.787 of 2006 under Section 137 Railway Act, Laxmi Narain Pandey son of Shiv Kumar Pandey, resident of Adilpur, P.S. Atraulia, District Azamgarh.

82. In cross DW-3 admitted that none of the entries in the register filed by him were made in his presence.

83. DW-4 is the Deputy Jailer, District Jail, Lucknow who brought, on the direction of the Court, the record of proforma for health screening and reasons of admission of the accused in jail, which is the record of the jail hospital. He stated that the entire record of the District Jail, Hospital Lucknow was destroyed in a fire outbreak on 15.03.2006 and the copy of the available record was being filed in the Court as certified by the present Jailer, District Jail, Lucknow as Exhibit Kha-5. He categorically stated that the record which was summoned by the court had been destroyed in the fire incident and was not available in the hospital of the District Jail. Original register No.7, Hospital Mulaiza Register for the period from 21.02.2006 till 04.03.2006, gate register from 24.02.2006 till 18.03.2006 and Kaidi register No.1 dated 28.02.2006 till 07.03.2006 were shown to him and he stated that he was not authorized to send these documents to the Court which were brought by the Constable Ram Nayan Tiwari examined as DW-2.

84. DW-4 categorically stated that for sending those document only the Jailer, District Jail was authorized.

85. DW-5 is the Jailer, District Jail, Lucknow who stated on oath that the above noted documents were sent by him through the Constable Ram Nayan Tiwari (DW-2) as they were summoned by the Court. He further stated that those registers were not sent sealed as there was no such order of the Court. DW-5 narrated that the register noted above bears signatures of two accused appellants namely Pawan Kumar Pandey and Laxmi Narain Pandey in the relevant columns.

86. He was crossed by the prosecution on various discrepancies such as overlapping in the thumb impression and incomplete description of the accused appellants against their names.

87. DW-6 is the Jailer, posted in the District Jail, Lucknow between 07.02.2006 till 20.12.2006. He had identified the entries in the register gate book of the District Jail, Lucknow for the period from 24.02.2006 till 18.03.2006, original of which was brought in the Court and stated that as per the entries therein of dated 22.02.2006 at 17.31 hrs, two accused appellants Pawan Kumar Pandey and Laxmi Narain Pandey were lodged in the District Jail, Lucknow at serial No.2 & 3 alongwith other 11 persons. He explained that in Kaidi register No.1, original of which was before him in the Court, the entries of lodging and release of the convicted accused persons were made and, according to the said Register, at serial No.964 of 25.02.2006, the factum of lodging of Laxmi Narain Pandey son of Shiv Kumar Pandey resident of Village Adilpur, District Azamgarh was noted whose release was made on 02.03.2006 on deposit of fine of Rs.880/- through receipt No.406814. The copy of the said receipt was pasted in the register and the identification marks of Laxmi Narain Pandey had also been noted therein.

89. Similarly, the name of the accused appellant Pawan Kumar Pandey was entered at serial No.965 in register No.1 and the name of his father was mentioned as Laxmi Narain Pandey. His date of lodging in the jail was mentioned as 25.02.2006 with the description of his age, weight, height and identification marks. The names of his relatives had also been indicated therein and he was released on 02.03.2006 on deposit of Rs.880/- by the Railway Court, receipt of which was pasted as receipt No.406815. It was stated that both the receipts were received from the office of the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, (NR) Lucknow. However, he could not identify the signature of the Deputy Jailer on the said entries. The photostat certified copy of the register No.7 (release register) dated 02.03.2006 filed by DW-6 under his signature was exhibited as Exhibit Kha-6 wherein the accused appellant Pawan Kumar Pandey and Laxmi Narian Pandey were shown as having been released at serial No.12 & 13; respectively.

90. Two photostat copies of register No.1 (kaidi register) were filed by DW-6 under his signature as Exhibit Kha-17 and Kha-18.

91. In cross, DW-6 had admitted that none of the entries were made in his presence as they did not pertain to the period of his posting in the District Jail, Lucknow. On a suggestion, it was admitted by DW-6 that whenever some prisoner is lodged in the jail, information is being given to his family members.

92. DW-8 is an officer of RPF, Lucknow who stated that two accused namely Laxmi Narian Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey were arrested and handed over to him. He lodged them in jail on the basis of the charge sheets which were submitted as Case No.7787 of 2006 and 708 of 2006 under Section 137 and 138 of the Railways Act. At that point of time, Constable Gauri Shankar Singh was on lock-up duty and all the entries in the G.D. dated 24.02.2006 and 25.02.2006 shown to him were made by Constable Gauri Shankar Singh. DW-8 had identified the signature and handwriting of Constable Gauri Shankar Singh and stated that two accused appellants, named above, were lodged in the RPF lock up. He stated that 13 accused including two accused appellants herein were lodged in the District Jail, Lucknow on 25.02.2006 and their return was also entered in the G.D. He has further stated, in the cross, that the information of lodging of the accused appellants Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey was sent to their home on the said date itself, i.e. 25.02.2006.

96. In cross, DW-10 admitted that he could not identify the accused persons and he had stated their names on the basis of the entries in the documents proved by him.

97. DW-11 is the T.C. Sarvendra Singh who stated that he was posted at the Railway Station Charbagh. Two persons namely Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey residents of village Adilpur, Police Station Atraulia, District Azamgarh were caught at the first entry gate of Charbagh Railway Station being without ticket and when brought before the concerned officer they were asked to deposit Rs. 130/- as tariff and Rs.250/- (Total rs.380/-) as penalty per person. When they did not deposit the said money, the concerned officer had filled their charge sheet and handed over to them to the Police Station RPF, Charbagh, Lucknow.

98. The attested photostat copy of the said charge sheets had been filed in the Court by DW-11 under his signature as Exhibit Kha-20 and Kha-21. In cross, DW-11 stated that his duty was at the first class entry gate of train No.3075 Jammu Tavi Howrah which reached at Charbagh railway station at about 15.15 hrs at platform No.1. He, however, did not remember as to on which platform, the said train had stopped on 24.02.2006. However, he stated that his duty was at the first class entry gate when he caught the accused-appellant Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey. He could not remember as to whether they were empty hands and also as to why they were caught. However, he stated that since they were charge sheeted that would mean that they were traveling without ticket. He did not remember anything told to him by the accused on that day. He further stated that the accused persons were charge sheeted for the general Bogey. He then stated that on 24.02.2006 apart from these two accused persons at gate No.1 of the platform, no other passenger was caught without ticket.

99. In cross, DW-11, however stated that he could not identify the accused persons if they were brought before him.

100. DW-13 is Deputy Jailer posted in the District Jail, Lucknow on the date of the incident and was shown various registers maintained in the jail as noted above. He stated that there were overlapping in the thumb impression of accused persons in the relevant register No.1 wherein their release was entered and stated that in case of any doubt about the thumb impression, the prisoner would not be released. He admitted that in the relevant column of register No.1, 4 thumb impressions of Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey were there, where there was a lot of overlapping and in a entry like this, release could not be ordered. He then stated that when he directed for release of the accused persons, the entries in the register were not like as they are. He then stated that the registers which were produced in the Court were very important documents and that they are being kept in the custody of jail officer and no-one can touch, see or write anything on the said registers. The suggestion that all the entries in the register of the thumb impressions were made in a forged manner was denied by DW-13.

101. DW-14 Bandi Rakshak, District Jail, Lucknow had proved the entries in the hospital Mulaiza register and the identification marks of physical appearance of the accused persons noted in the gate book. He stated that according to the original hospital Mulaiza register, on physical examination of these accused persons on 26.02.2006, age, sex, weight and height and other specific identification marks were noted in the register. The attested photostat copies of the register was filed by DW-14 under his signature as Exhibit Kha-22. We may record that the identification marks noted in the relevant column of the register were tallied from the identification marks found on the persons of two accused namely Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey in the Court and it was noted therein that all identification marks mentioned in the register tallied with the marks on the body. On a suggestion, DW-14 admitted that he could not explain the overlapping in the thumb impression of the accused persons at the time of release and in case such a situation existed, their release from the jail was not possible. He had denied the suggestion that all these entries were made in connivance of the jail official in a forged manner and admitted that he could not identify the accused appellants namely Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey, apart from the record.

102. DW-15 is the Doctor posted in the Jail who had tallied the identification marks of the accused person in the hospital Mulaiza register and stated that his signature were therein. This witness (DW-15) was recalled and he had tallied the identification marks noted in the register from the 4 identification marks found on the person of the accused appellants in the Court.

103. DW-16 is the handwriting and fingerprint expert who had taken specimen signatures and thumb impressions of the accused person namely Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey as Exhibit Kha-25, Kha-26, Kha-27 and Kha-28 and tallied them with their thumb impression and signature on the relevant documents. The report submitted by him was proved as Exhibit Kha-33. The affidavit filed by DW-16 wherein his report, photos and negative of the thumb impression and signatures were filed and proved was exhibited as Exhibit Kha-34. In a gruelling cross-examination by the prosecution, DW-16 was questioned on various aspects of the report given by him to demonstrate that the thumb impression and signature of the accused persons did not tally with their thumb impression and signatures on various documents filed in defence as noted above.

104. To prove the plea of alibi of accused Shyam Narain Pandey, two witnesses DW-7 namely Sadanand Pandey and DW-12 namely Sudhakar Pandey were produced by the defence. Sadanand Pandey, a resident of District Ballia, in the witness box, stated that he came to the High Court, Allahabad in relation to his case and was staying in the City between 26.02.2006 till 28.02.2006 and on 28.02.2006 at about 7.15 PM he had signed the affidavit before the Oath Commissioner and before his affidavit was prepared, the accused appellant Shayam Narain Pandey also got his affidavit prepared in another case.

105. In cross, DW-7 stated that he knew accused appellant Shyam Narain Pandey very well as they used to meet in the High Court Allahabad when they came for Pairvi of their cases and that he met accused Shyam Narain Pandey in the chamber of an Advocate about five years prior to the date of his deposition.

106. DW-12 is Sudhakar Pandey, an Advocate of the High Court at Allahabad, who stated that accused-appellant Shyam Narain Pandey was staying in his house while doing Pairvi of his case from 26.02.2006 till 01.03.2006 and, on each day, he used to come to his house in the night at about 08.00-09.00 PM. A suggestion was given to this witness that he was resident of Ballia which was the place of residence of accused appellant Shyam Narain Pandey and since he knew him well he was making a false statement.

107. Placing the above evidence filed by the defence, it is vehemently argued by Sri Dilip Kumar, learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey that the onus to prove the plea of alibi had been discharged by the appellants by bringing cogent documentary and oral evidence. It is proved that the said appellants when were traveling on 24.02.2006 from Train No.3074 Jammu Tavi and reached at the first entry gate of the platform No.1 of the Railway Station, Lucknow, were caught by the T.C. (Ticket Collector) Savendra Singh and brought to the office of Incharge who charged them for the ticket of the general bogey with penalty, for traveling without ticket. As the appellants could not deposit the fine, they were charged by the officer concerned. The charge sheet No.35257 and 35258 for two appellants namely Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey; respectively had been submitted and proved as Exhibit Kha-20 and Kha-21. The said charge sheets contain the description of the appellants such as their parentage, residence, post, police station and the district concerned. The time of arrest has been indicated as 15.15 hrs dated 24.02.2006. They were handed over to the RPF office, Charbagh, Lucknow on 24.02.2006 at about 16.40 hrs and the entry in that regard exists in the general dairy, Jama Talashi and Khana Khuraki register of the Railway Police Force. It was proved by DW-3 that the appellants were sent to the lock-up and from there they were also produced in the Court of Railway Magistrate under custody. On 25.02.2006, sentence of 15 days imprisonment was inflicted upon them. The entries in the Jama Talashi register (Exhibit Kha-4) proved that a mobile charger was found from Pawan Kumar Pandey in his personal search. Link evidence of DW-3 based on the G.D. entry produced by the defence is the proof of the fact that the appellants were in the custody of RPF and lodged in the lock-up from 24.02.2006 till 25.02.2006. The Constable Gauri Shankar Singh who was In-charge of lock-up proved that the appellants were in his custody till the midnight of 24-25.02.2006 and further in the custody of Constable Shiv Raj Prasad from midnight till 08.15 AM on 25.02.2006.

108. The crime numbers allotted to the cases lodged against the appellants were also proved. The entries by RPF (NR) Charbagh further prove that 15 other accused persons alongwith two appellants were produced in the Court of Railway Magistrate in the custody of Constable Kesar Bux Singh on 25.02.2006. The G.D. entry in that regard had been proved as Exhibit Kha-4. The entries in Khana Khuraki register which is maintained about the food of the people in the lock-up prove that all the appellants were given two time meal while lodged in the lock-up. All the documents noted above were summoned by the trial court and produced by the persons in whose custody they were kept. Signatures and thumb impression of the appellants were found at the relevant places in the documents and they were tallied from the specimen signatures taken in the Court by DW-16, handwriting expert who proved that signatures and thumb impressions of both the appellants on the documents filed in defence matched with the specimen signatures and thumb impressions. The report of the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate (NR) Charbagh, Lucknow was accompanied with register No.9 (Kha-12) and fine register (kha-13) which further prove that case No.1440 of 2006 (Case Crime No.780 of 2006) and Case No.1444 of 2006 (Case Crime No.788 of 2006) under Section 137 of the Railways Act were registered against the appellants Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey; respectively.

109. Register No.9 Exhibit Kha-12 contain the description such as name, parentage and residents of the accused-appellants and it is noted therein that the total penalty of Rs.880/- each was not deposited by the appellants and, therefore, they were awarded 15 days simple imprisonment. It is proved from the above document that the RPF police handed over the appellants to the District Jail, Lucknow where they were lodged till 02.03.2006. The gate book entry (Exhibit Kha-14) till 25.02.2006 at 17.31 hrs is proof of the said fact.

110. To verify the factum of admission of the appellants in the District Jail, Lucknow, the jail records were summoned which included register No.1, admission register of the convict, the register of screening of the health of the prisoners, the register No.7 release register and the gate books dated 25.02.2006 and 02.03.2006. The jail records produced before the trial court were proved by the officers who were responsible to maintain the said records. The entries in the register maintained in the jail contain the admission time and tallied the description for securing identity of the accused appellants. The identification marks noted in the jail record were tallied physically from the accused-appellants present in the trial Court.

111. DW-15, the Jail Doctor proved the record for keeping track of health of prisoners. DW-14, Bandi Rakshak proved continuous physical presence of both the appellants in the District Jail, Lucknow from 25.02.2006 till 02.03.2006. The description of relations of accused-appellants mentioned in register No.1 can be tallied from the Pariwar register which was filed in evidence by the defence as Exhibit Kha-33. Exhibit Kha-15, Kha-17 and Kha-18 on record are receipt of payment of penalty and fine which were pasted in register No.1. The date of deposit of fine as indicated therein is 02.03.2006 for both the appellants Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey who were physically released only on 02.03.2006. Exhibit Kha-14 contains the names of the appellants Pawan Kumar Pandey and Laxmi Narain Pandey at serial No.1 and 4; respectively and the time of release mentioned therein is 11.36 hrs dated 02.03.2006.

112. The submission, thus, is that the defence has proved the plea of alibi with cogent evidence. All the documents produced in defence are public documents and no doubt can be raised about the genuineness of the same. In the light of steel clay plea of alibi put forth by the defence, it is proved that PW-1 and PW-2 who are related and interested witnesses are perjured witnesses as they had specifically stated the presence of two appellants namely Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey at the place of the incident and specific role had been attributed to them in the entire occurrence. No independent witness was produced nor any residuary evidence was filed by the prosecution. Once the plea of alibi is accepted, the entire prosecution evidence has to be thrown away as unbelievable and manufactured.

113. Pressing the plea of alibi of two appellants namely Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey, it is vehemently argued by the learned Senior Counsel that ample material on record had been brought by the defence and the plea of alibi had been proved. The fact that two accused appellants proved to be not present on the spot itself demolishes the entire prosecution case on the ground that the prosecution had not presented its case in a truthful manner. In a criminal trial, it is the duty of the prosecution to bring all circumstances of the case in a fair and transparent manner as any falsity in the prosecution case which goes to the root of the matter would demolish its case as a whole.

114. It is argued by Sri Dilip Kumar learned Senior Counsel for the appellants that the principle of falsus in uno falsus in omnibus though has no application in India but it can be taken into consideration as a rule of caution. The Court, therefore, is required to examine the evidence of the prosecution witnesses with extra caution as the presence of two appellants namely Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey at the place of the incident had been successfully disputed by the defence. A categorical plea of alibi had been taken on behalf of these appellants and the same was also proved by production of cogent documentary and oral evidence.

115. Adopting the argument of the learned Senior Counsel, Sri Durgesh Kumar Singh learned counsel for the appellant Shyam Narain Pandey also urged that the plea of alibi of Shyam Narain Pandey is proved from the testimony of DW-7 and DW-12 which evidence cannot be discarded by the Court.

116. Sri Rahul Mishra learned counsel for the complainant/first informant, in rebuttal, argued that the presence of first informant namely Atul Tripathi and another eye witnesses PW-2 namely Rajkumar Tiwari on the spot of the incident cannot be discarded for the minor contradictions/inconsistencies pointed out in their testimonies. It was proved by the eye witness PW-1 that three accused persons namely Rajesh Kumar Pandey, Pawan Kumar Pandey and Amit Kumar Pandey shot the deceased to kill him whereas other two accused persons namely Umesh and Ramesh also opened fires from their weapons while two other accused namely Laxmi Narain Pandey and Shyam Narain Pandey were exhorting them to kill sitting in the Bolero Car. From the oral testimony of PW-1 or his statement in the first information report, it cannot be said that all five fires opened by the accused persons hit the deceased. The statement of PW-1 that two other accused namely Umesh and Ramesh also fired at the deceased while he was falling down should be read in this context only.

117. It is urged that the contention of the learned counsels for the appellants that there were material improvements in the testimony of PW-1 with regard to the reason of his presence on the spot is without any substance, in as much as, the first informant (PW-1) was confronted with his statement in the first information report and Section 161 version only to the extent that he did not narrate that his father (the deceased) told him to wait at the Kesari Chauraha. The contention is that the first information report is only an information of the incident and cannot be treated as complete narration of the occurrence. The discrepancy noted above is not so material so as to discard the testimony of PW-1 recorded in the Court. The names of all the accused persons were categorically indicated in the first information report and any suggestion otherwise is liable to be rejected.

118. The entire testimony of PW-1 is unshaken version of the incident. He has categorically assigned the role of each accused persons explaining the motive for commission of the crime. It was proved by PW-1 that he went with his father to Azamgarh but returned back early. The said statement of PW-1 is proof of the deceased having gone to the office of the District Inspector of School (DIOS). Mere fact that Board copies were not found on the spot cannot be a reason to discard the testimony of PW-1 about the reason of presence of the deceased and the witnesses on the spot. PW-2, the Peon of the institution also gave the same reason of his presence on the spot and proved it as well.

119. It is further argued that the fact that there are some inconsistencies about the post being held by the deceased at the time of his death is not relevant. It is, however, proved from the record that on a challenge made by the deceased, the appointment of accused Shyam Narain Pandey on the post of Principal was cancelled as his experience certificate was found invalid and the Board had removed him from the post of Principal. The motive assigned to accused Shyam Narain Pandey is evident from the aforesaid proven fact. The first information report and the oral evidence is proof of the existence of old dispute between the parties. The recovery memo exhibited Ka-2 of recovery of bag and Supurdiginama contains signature of the first informant (PW-1) Atul Kumar Tripathi. The letter found in the bag produced in the Court marked as Exhibit Ka-3 also contain the narration of motive assigned to the accused persons.

120. The defence has not been able to dispute the said letter as the writing or signature of the deceased over the same were proved by the prosecution. It is further submitted by the learned counsel for the first informant that in a writ petition filed by accused Shyam Narain Pandey, the deceased was a party and the said writ petition was dismissed on 25.07.2005. It is further proved that after cancellation of the appointment of Shyam Narain Pandey, the deceased became officiating Principal and his signature were attested by the District Inspector of School. The said fact is corroborated from the testimony of PW-1 and PW-2 and the defence has failed to discredit the said witnesses in cross.

121. The presence of PW-1, the first informant on the spot is further proved by injuries in the postmortem report and the contention of the defence that five shots assigned by PW-1 to five accused persons only in view of five firearm injuries (which included three entry and two exit wound) mentioned in the postmortem report, is unacceptable. It is argued that since all the accused persons were surrounding the deceased from four sides it was possible that PW-1, the first informant, could not count the exact fires and noted the details as to whose fire hit the deceased. However, the version of PW-1 as to how the deceased was killed cannot be discarded.

122. It is proved from the testimony of police witnesses that the Investigating Officer namely the Station House Officer of the police station concerned was not present in the police station when the report was lodged as he was in the field doing investigation and reached after about ½ an hour of the lodging of the report. The police station though was only 1 KM away but the version of PW-1 that the police could not reach the spot also stood explained by the police witness. The time taken in lodging the first information report is because of the fact that the first informant, son of the deceased took time to recover from the shock and, moreover, the first information report lodged at about 07.45 PM is a prompt report. No delay can be attributed to PW-1 in lodging of the said report and there was absolutely no scope of deliberations.

123. As regards the time of receiving of the dead body at the police lines, Headquarter, Azamgarh, heavily agitated by the learned Senior Counsel for the appellants, it is argued by Sri Rahul Mishra learned counsel for the first informant that the police papers proved that the body was taken from the site of the incident at about 10.30 PM. PW-4, the Investigating Officer was consistent on this issue and had denied the suggestion that the body had reached the police lines at 10.25 AM in the next morning, and further stated that as per the information received by him, the dead body reached the mortuary at about 06.00-07.00 AM. It is further argued by the learned counsel for the first informant, that from amongst the two constable namely Janardan Singh and Komal Yadav who took the dead body to the Police Lines, Headquarter, Azamgarh from the spot of the incident, one namely Komal Yadav was summoned by the Court on the application moved by the appellants as a defence witness. However, for the reasons best known to the appellants, they got him discharged and his evidence was not recorded. The contention of the learned Senior Counsel for the appellants that the prosecution did not produce the Constables who carried the dead body to the Police Lines Azamgarh to explain the delay in receipt of the dead body at the police lines, thus, is liable to be rejected.

124. So far as the entry in Form-13 of date and time namely 28.02.2006 at 22.25 hrs (10.25 PM), it is urged that it has to be read as the time of dispatch of the dead body from the place of the incident and it is clear that the time of reaching of the body at the Headquarter had not been mentioned therein, as admittedly the distance of Headquarter from the place of the incident was about 33 KM. The suggestion of the learned counsel for the appellants that the time mentioned in the entry in the postmortem register and G.D. of 10.45 AM dated 01.03.2006 is the time of reaching of the dead body at the police Headquarter, is without any substance, in as much as, there is no basis of the said suggestion.

125. The contention of the first information report being ante-time is without any basis, in as much as, all police papers prepared on the same date contain the proof of the first information report being lodged and the details of the case registered against the appellants can be found therein. Section 161 Cr.P.C. Statement of PW-1 (the first informant) was also recorded on the same date and the inquest report indicate that the inquest was completed by 10.25 PM. The special report under Section 157 Cr.P.C. was sent on the date of the incident i.e. on 28.02.2006 as was proved by PW-6, the Constable Moharir with the G.D. entry No.40 exhibited as Exhibit Ka-18. It was also proved that the Constable 694 Ram Surat Yadav who went to serve the special report came back on the next date and the return of the said Constable was noted in G.D. 21/ 01.03.2006 at about 15.45 hrs, which was proved by PW-6.

126. The endorsement of receiving of the special report by the Chief Judicial Magistrate dated 04.03.2006 would, therefore, be of no relevance. It is stated that the copy to the Chief Judicial Magistrate was sent through the Circle Officer and no suggestion otherwise had been given to PW-6 to confront him on the said fact. The contention of the learned Senior Counsel for the appellants about the first information report being ante-time on the basis of alleged delay in sending the special report under Section 157 Cr.P.C is, thus, liable to be rejected.

127. On the issue of delay in sending the special report, reference has been made to the judgement of the Apex Court in Ombir Singh Vs. State of U.P.11 to argue that even the alleged delay in receiving the report by the judicial Magistrate is not fatal to the prosecution case.

128. It is, thus, argued that the prosecution has proved the place, date and time of the incident as also the manner in which the murder was caused by production of two eye witnesses who remained intact throughout their deposition in the Court. The involvement of the appellants in the crime in question is, thus, proved by the prosecution beyond all reasonable doubt.

129. On the plea of alibi, it is urged by Sri Rahul Mishra, the learned counsel for the first informant that the timing of the appellants traveling ticket-less and then going to the prison for non-deposit of the meager amount of Rs.380/- each, as fine to the Ticket Collector, is noteworthy. The route of travel taken by the appellants is not proved. No luggage was found from the possession of the appellants in frisking except one mobile charger. No evidence could be produced by the defence to explain the said fact. There is no evidence that the appellants were bereft of money or their pockets were snatched. The appellant Laxmi Narain Pandey who claimed the plea of alibi is a very well-off person who owned one intermediate college and one degree college it is difficult to believe rather it is simply unbelievable that he would prefer not to deposit the meagre money of Rs.380/- to invite imprisonment for 15 days. For a respectable person of his stature, this story cannot be believed. It is also not explained as to why family members of appellants Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey did not come forward to deposit the fine, in case, it is accepted without admission that they were bereft of money, and when it has come in the evidence of defence witness that the information of the arrest was given to the family members of the appellants.

130. He contends that it is further noticeable that the fine which the appellants did not deposit earlier either before the Ticket Collector or before the Railway Magistrate and prefer to go to the prison, was deposited on the very next day of the incident i.e. 02.03.2006. Further the first information report, in the instant case, was lodged on 28.02.2006 naming both the appellants. Had they been in prison they could have brought the said fact before the Investigating Officer. No application had been given before the Investigating Officer. No plea of alibi was taken by the said appellants during the course of investigation nor any application for discharge was moved before the Court concerned at any point before the commencement of trial.

131. There is nothing on record that the plea of alibi was taken by appellants Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey in any proceeding prior to the submission of the charge sheet in the Court and their committal to the Sessions Court, though they had ample opportunity to do so. For the first time, plea of alibi was taken in their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. recorded on 01.05.2008. It is, thus, argued that the plea of alibi taken after two years of the lodging of the first information report in itself is proof of the fact it was an afterthought.

132. Further, no application was moved before the Railway Magistrate to secure the file of the case or the order of release of the appellants passed by him and the said records could not be secured by the trial Court on account of belated plea. None of the defence witnesses had identified the accused-appellants and the identification by them on the basis of papers, which were manufactured for the case, will not take the case in favour of the defence. The interpolation and overlapping in the documents proved in defence had been suggested to the defence witnesses and they could not come out with any plausible explanation. The matching of signatures and handwriting of the accused appellants Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey by DW-16 is of no relevance, in as much as, the matching of signatures and thumb impressions of the accused persons were not made from the admitted thumb impression or signature. The comparison made from sample signature and thumb impression taken in the Court after their accusation for involvement in the commission of murder was a baseless exercise. Even otherwise, the credibility of DW-16, the handwriting expert, had been impeached in the cross. His testimony is liable to be rejected as such.

133. Learned AGA adding to the arguments of Sri Rahul Mishra learned counsel for the first informant submits that the recovery memo of bag and Supurdiginama Exhibit Ka-2 proved by the prosecution witnesses cannot be discarded for any doubt about the entry in the case diary. The letter which was found in the bag was part of the case diary. There is no suggestion of plea of alibi to PW-1, the eye witness and the plea was taken for the first time during the course of the examination of the accused appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C.

134. It is urged that from the version of DW-16, it is evident that he took sample signature in the Court and not much can be said about the report of matching of the said signature and thumb impression from the document presented in the defence. In any case, the plea of alibi of the defence is not proved by cogent positive evidence and the documentary evidences produced cannot be attached credence as it is admitted to the defence witnesses that none of the documentary evidences brought in the Court from the District Jail, Lucknow were sent in sealed cover. The possibility of interpolation, forgery in the defence documents, therefore, cannot be ruled out. Learned AGA has relied upon the judgement of the Apex Court in Rajesh Singh & others Vs. State of U.P12.

135. In sum and substance, it was argued by both the counsels for the first informant and the learned AGA that the judgement of the trial court being exhaustive appreciation of the evidence on record cannot be interfered and the appeal deserves dismissal.

136. In rejoinder, Sri Dilip Kumar learned Senior counsel for the appellants has reiterated his previous contentions about the testimonies of prosecution witnesses and the documentary evidences prepared by the formal witnesses during the course of investigation. He again presses the plea that the first information report and all other related papers including inquest were prepared ante-time for two reasons, firstly, that the prosecution had utterly failed to explain the delay in reaching of the dead body at the Police Headquarter; i.e. at about 10.45 AM, inference of which can be drawn from the material on record. And secondly, the corroborative argument for the first information report being ante-time is the delay in sending the special report which was received by the Magistrate on 04.03.2006. It was urged that no definite reason of presence of the witnesses on spot of the incident could be given by the prosecution. The fact that the deceased alighted from the bus at the site of the incident is also not proved by any material such as bus ticket or the answer books which were supposed to be brought by the deceased. The bag allegedly found besides the dead body was introduced in the case diary and not noted in the inquest in the relevant column. The recovery memo of the bag was subsequently prepared document and had been introduced at the instance of the first informant (PW-1) only to show that the deceased was traveling. The Investigating Officer (PW-4) was confronted about the interpolation in case diary of the word "Bag" which he could not explain.

137. It is contended that the defence plea of alibi is proved by the official document summoned by the Court. The report received from the Court of Railway Magistrate, Exhibit Kha-10 & Kha-11 contain entries of the criminal case registered against the appellants and their lodging in the District Jail, Lucknow. The fine register Exhibit Kha-13 is an attested copy which again proves the criminal case registered against the appellants and the proceedings undertaken against them. The identification marks on the person of the accused-appellants had been tallied in the Court. The handwriting expert report is in favour of the appellants. No fault could be attributed to his report on account of tallying of sample signature which was taken in the Court.

138. It is vehemently argued by Sri Dilip Kumar learned Senior counsel for the appellants that watertight proof of steelclay plea of alibi negates the whole prosecution case.

139. Lastly, it was added by Sri Rahul Mishra learned counsel for the first informant that none of the registers produced by the defence witnesses, were sealed when they were brought in the Court. There were overlapping in the thumb impressions of the accused-appellants in all the defence documents especially the release register. Had this been the situation, their release from the jail was not possible which fact was admitted by the defence witnesses on confrontation.

140. Tallying of the specimen signatures of the accused persons by DW-16 will not be read in their favour as the said report cannot be a proof of the fact of genuineness of the entries in defence documents. In any case, the defence while taking the plea of alibi has to stand on its own leg and prove by cogent evidence that the accused-appellants could not be present at the place of the incident in all probabilities. There is no record of the registration of the alleged criminal case under Section 137 of the Railways Act of the Court of Railway Magistrate and the alleged release order on deposit of fine is also not on record. The manufactured documents produced by the defence are liable to be thrown as such.

Analysis:-

141. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record, in light of the arguments of the learned counsel for the parties and the material on record, following issues arise for consideration and pointwise analysis of the evidence on the same is as under:-

A. The first information report being ante-time:-

142. First ground of challenge to the conviction of the appellants is that the case of the prosecution is full of falsity since the very inception. The first information report which set the criminal action into motion itself was ante-time. To buttress this submission, the defence documents namely Exhibit Kha-1 and Kha-2, the postmortem register and the G.D. of the police lines (Headquarter) filed by D.W-1, the clerk posted in the police lines are pressed into service to assert that the body of the deceased Rajendra Prasad Tripathi was received in the police Headquarter on 01.03.2006 at about 10.45 AM. The corresponding entry has to be seen in the police paper form-13, (चालान लाश) (Exhibit Ka-5) wherein the relevant column is to record the time of reaching of the dead body at the police Headquarter and of sending the same to the dispensary/mortuary for the postmortem. As per the statement of PW-1, after half an hour of lodging of the first information report, the Investigating Officer reached the spot and started inquest within 2 to 4 minutes of arrival. The body was removed from the place of the incident at about 10.30 PM. The first Investigating Officer Kamlesh Narayan Pandey (PW-4) who prepared the inquest stated that he could not tell as to when the dead body was sent to the mortuary from the spot of the incident and stated that he gave the responsibility of sending the dead body to the mortuary, to his subordinate S.I. Lalta Yadav and left the place to arrest the accused. PW-4 further stated that he did not know as to whether the body was sent or it remained at the place of the incident throughout the whole night. In the morning, however, he got the information that the body was in the mortuary and the said information was received by him through a staff of the police station at about 06.00-07.00 AM.

143. The postmortem doctor PW-3 stated that the papers relating to the postmortem were received by him on 01.03.2006 at about 11.15 AM and the postmortem was conducted by him at about 11.30 AM. The estimated time of death as recorded by the doctor was about ½, that means 12 hours. In the postmortem report, it was indicated that rigour mortis was present in the body. Two Constables namely Janardan Singh and Komal Yadav who took the body for postmortem were the best persons to prove as to when they had deposited the body in the police lines and how much time they had taken to cover the distance of 33 KM from the place of the incident to the police Headquarter. None of them was produced in the witness box and in view of the statement of the doctor coupled with the entry in Exhibit Kha-1 and Kha-2, it is clear that the body was sent to the mortuary at about 10.45 AM . As per the statement of PW-1, the body was dispatched from the place of the incident at about 10.30 PM, it cannot be accepted that the Constables carrying the dead body took 12 hours to travel the distance of only 33 KM. Further from the condition of the body and the opinion of the doctor, the gap in the postmortem and the time of death was about 12 hours which means that the death could be caused either around 11.30 PM or thereafter.

144. The above facts put together with the entry in form-13 Exhibit Ka-5 clearly prove that the incident had occurred around midnight or after 11.30 PM. The first information report lodged at 19.45 PM (07.45 PM), thus, becomes ante-time. All related police papers to the case prepared by the Investigating Officer, also, became ante-time at one go. As the prosecution had changed the time of the incident, its entire story becomes false. Further the check report was received by the concerned Magistrate on 04.03.2006. The delay in sending the special report in contravention of Section 157 Cr.P.C. further strengthen the case of the defence about the first information report being ante-time. The prosecution has utterly failed to establish the time of reaching of the dead body in the police Headquarter. Only inference, thus, can be drawn is that the dead body reached at the police Headquarter at 10.45 AM, in the morning of 01.03.2006 and it was straightway sent to the mortuary where it was received at 11.15 AM by the doctor who conducted the postmortem. This discrepancy in the prosecution case creates a deep dent in the prosecution story, which is liable to be thrashed away.

145. Considering the said submissions and the rebuttal by Sri Rahul Mishra learned counsel for the first informant, we may first record that in the relevant column of form-13 (Exhibit Ka-5), the time of arrival of the dead body at the police Headquarter and the time of sending it to the mortuary was required to be recorded. These entries are in the nature of check and balance to ensure transparency in the process of investigation. As per the procedure in the Criminal Procedure Code during preparation of the inquest, in accordance with Section 174 Cr.P.C., the Investigating Officer has to draw the report of the apparent cause of death describing such wounds and marks of the injuries as may be found on the body and stating in what manner or by what weapons or instrument (if any) such marks appeared to have been inflicted. After drawing up the said report (inquest report) he has to forward the body, with a view to it being examined, to the nearest civil surgeon or other qualified medical man appointed in this behalf by the State Government. While sending the body, the state of weather and distance and other factors have to be kept in mind so as to avoid the risk of putrefaction of the body on the road which would render such examination useless. In order to check any mishandling of the dead body during its transportation from the place of the incident to the mortuary, the procedure of sending the dead body to the police Headquarter and making entry of the same in form-13 (police papers) has been prescribed, so that in case of any mishandling of the dead body during the course of transportation, responsibility can be fixed on the erring officials and any factor which may arise on account of such eventuality may be explained.

146. Section 157 Cr.P.C. mandates that the report of the commission of an offence, which an officer In-charge of the police station is empowered under Section 156 to investigate, shall be sent forthwith to a Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of such offence. The purpose for forthwith sending the report to the concerned Magistrate is to keep the concerned Magistrate informed of the investigation of the cognizable offence so that he may be able to control the investigation and if required, to issue appropriate directions. The Criminal Procedure Code, thus, provides for internal and external checks; one of them being the sending of the copy of the first information report to the concerned Magistrate at the earliest. Failure to send the copy of the first information report to the Magistrate may cast a shadow on the case of the prosecution, may raise a suspicion that the first information report was a result of consultation and deliberations and it was not recorded on the date and time mentioned in it, and may result in holding that the investigation is not fair and forthright.

147. However, the settled law in a matter of delay in sending the copy of the first information report to the Magistrate, i.e. violation of Section 157 Cr.P.C. is, that the said circumstance alone would not demolish the other credible evidence on record. It would only show the laxity or carelessness on the part of the Investigating Agency and that it was not prompt as it ought to be. However, it would depend upon the facts of the particular case that an unexplained delay may affect the prosecution case adversely. Such an adverse inference may drawn on the basis of the attending circumstances involved in a case.

148. Reverting to the facts of the instant case, we may note that the entries in form-13 Exhibit Ka-5 police paper was prepared and proved by the Investigating Officer Kamlesh Narayan Pandey who entered in the witness box as PW-4. A suggestion was given to PW-4 that at the time of preparation of the inquest, the first information report was not in existence which was categorically denied by him. Further, as noted above from the statement of PW-6, Constable Awdhesh Kumar, posted as Constable Moharir in the police station concerned, the first information report, i.e. the check report Exhibit Ka-16 was prepared on a written report given by PW-1 Atul Tripathi at about 19.45 hours (07.45 PM). The G.D. entry of the check report at Rapat No.35 was proved by bringing the original G.D. and tallying it with the carbon copy prepared in the same process, by PW-6 marked as Exhibit Ka-17. The Investigating Officer namely PW-4 who conducted the proceedings on 28.02.2006, i.e. the date of the incident, proved that the entries in form No.13 Exhibit Ka-5 were made by S.I. Lalta Yadav on his dictation at the place of the incident and the body was sent for the postmortem alongwith this paper and other related documents.

149. A perusal of form-13 indicates that in the relevant column, name of the officer who sent the dead body is mentioned as K. N. Pandey. The date and time of sending of the dead body, noted in the relevant column is 28.02.2006 at 22.25 hours (10.25 PM). The names of two Constables, the Constable No.28 Janardan Singh and Constable 484 Komal Yadav, Police Station Atraulia, District Azamgarh are also indicated in the relevant column of form-13. In the same writing, in the column for arrival of the dead body in the police Headquarter, the date 28.02.2006, time 22.25 hours is mentioned, whereas the distance of the police Headquarter from the place of the incident is indicated as 37 KM in the relevant column therein. It was noted therein that the dead body was sealed in a cloth and sent for postmortem with the police personnel alongwith relevant papers and the result be intimated.

150. This paper (form-13) is countersigned by the Inspector Police lines, Azamgarh on 01.03.2006 and besides his signature the entries of the postmortem register and G.D. report No.15 dated 01.03.2006 at 10.45 AM have been noted in the relevant column of noting the time of receipt of the dead body at the Police lines and sending it to the Mortuary. The column of receipt of the body in the police Headquarter and dispatch of the same to the dispensary was obviously required to be noted by the concerned police officer posted at the Headquarter. It seems that the concerned officer instead of making the correct entry casually extracted the entries in the postmortem register and G.D. Rapat putting his signature on the form-13, while sending the dead body for the postmortem. The time gap in receipt of the body at the police lines and sending of the same to the mortuary, thus, cannot be explained from the entries in form-13 Exhibit Ka-5.

151. However, the said lacuna found in preparation of this document Exhibit Ka-5 form 13 चालान लाश does not become a proof of the fact that the body was received in the police Headquarter at 10.45 AM or it was not dispatched from the place of the incident after inquest at about 10.25 PM as recorded in the relevant entry in form-13 signed by the Investigating Officer, (PW-4), proved to have been prepared in the handwriting of S.I. Lalta Prasad, This fact is further corroborated from the statement of PW-1, the first informant, who stated that the body was dispatched from the place of the incident at about 10.30 PM after it was sealed. The entries in the postmortem register and G.D. of the police Headquarter Exhibit Kha-1 and Kha-2 cannot be read as a proof of the time of receiving of the dead body at the police Headquarter. Those entries only show that the body was sent for postmortem from the police Headquarter at about 10.45 PM and was received by the doctor alongwith the papers at about 11.15 AM as has been proved by the Doctor PW-3 in his deposition in the Court.

152. As regards the submissions of the learned Senior Counsel for the appellants that the prosecution had failed to explain the time taken in transportation of the dead body from the place of the incident to the police Headquarter by producing the best evidence in the shape of two Constables who carried the dead body, relevant is to note that the trial court had considered this aspect and noted in its order that the accused-appellants moved an application for summoning of Constable Komal Yadav, one of the two Constables who carried the dead body. On the said application, the trial court had summoned the said witness to depose on behalf of the accused-appellants. However, the said witness who could throw any light on this issue as he was got discharged from the Court on another application of the defence. The contention of the learned counsel for the appellants that the prosecution had suppressed the best evidence in the shape of the statement of the Constable who carried the dead body, therefore, is liable to be thrown as it is.

153. Further contention of the learned counsel for the appellant is that though the said witness namely Constable Komal Yadav was present in the Court who could throw light on the above noted fact of the case but he was not cross-examined by the Court even after he was discharged as a defence witness and it was always open for the Court to examine him as a Court witness when the witness was available.

154. We do not find any substance in this submission, in as much as, according to us, on perusal of the entries in form-13 and the other corroborative evidence on record, though the correct time of arrival of the dead body in the police Headquarter cannot be ascertained but the said fact in itself would not create any dent in the prosecution story. The lapse on the part of the officer posted in the Police Headquarter in not making correct entries in the relevant column of form-13 Exhibit Ka-5, in itself, would not make the first information report ante-time or demolish the prosecution case.

155. For the proven facts of lodging of the first informant report at 19.45 hours (07.45 PM) on the basis of the written report given by PW-1, no contrary suggestion could be given to PW-6, Constable Moharir who prepared the check report and made G.D. entries of lodging of the first information report at the police station at 19.45 hours.

156. Further, PW-6, in the examination-in-chief proved that the special report of the case was sent to the Senior Officer on 28.02.2006 through Constable 694 Ram Surat Yadav and entry of the same was made in G.D. No.40 which was proved being in his handwriting and signature as Exhibit Ka-18. The paper No.129 of the special report prepared by him being in his handwriting and signature was also proved as Exhibit Ka-18. PW-6 was confronted on the entries of G.D. by making suggestions of overwriting on the same which was explained by PW-6 by saying that the overwriting was made to make necessary correction and it was done by him. He proved that the G.D. dated 28.02.2006 from 19.45 hours on 28.02.2006 till the morning was prepared by him. The certified photo copy of the G.D. of the registration of the case was filed by PW-6 and marked as Exhibit Ka-19. It was categorically stated by PW-6, in cross, that the special report was sent to the District Magistrate, Azamgarh, Superintendent of Police, Azamgarh, Additional Superintendent of Police, Azamgarh, Sub Divisional Magistrate, Budhanpur and Circle Officer, Budhanpur, Azamgarh.

157. He further proved, in cross, that Constable Ram Surat Yadav with whom the special report was sent, returned to the police station on 01.03.2006 at 15.45 hours and entry in that regard had been made at G.D. No.21. The original G.D. dated 01.032006 was forwarded to the Circle Officer on 02.03.2006 by the Station House Officer. On the statement made by PW-6 the Constable Moharir who himself sent the special report to the Senior Officials, that the Constable returned to the police station on 01.03.2006 and the entries in G.D. No.21 proved by him, no contrary suggestion had been given by the defence. In fact this witness was not confronted on this issue.

158. From the statement of PW-6, noted above, it is, thus, proved that the special report of the incident was sent to the Senior Officials on the date of the incident itself i.e. 28.02.2006 and the entry in that regard had been made in G.D. No.40 which also could not be confronted by the defence.

159. It was brought before us by the prosecution that as per practice the special report to the concerned Magistrate is being sent through the Circle Officer. Once the special report was sent on the same day by the police official of the police station concerned (PW-6) to his Senior Officials, any delay on the part of the Circle Officer to forward the report to the concerned Magistrate or delay on the part of the Magistrate in making endorsement on perusal of the special report, would not amount to non-compliance of the provisions of Section 157 Cr.P.C. which cast a mandate on the officer In-Charge of the police station to forthwith send the report of the commission of an offence to the concerned Magistrate. In the fact of this case, it is proved by the prosecution that in compliance of Section 157 Cr.P.lC., the special report was immediately forwarded to the Senior Officials including the Circle Officer on the same day, i.e. on 28.02.2006 through the Constable of the police station concerned. Any further delay which had resulted in the endorsement of the date 04.03.2006 by the Magistrate cannot be attributed to the officer In-charge of the police station concerned.

160. Both the above arguments made by the learned counsels for the appellants to challenge the date and time of lodging of the first informant report or terming the first information report as ante-time, are liable to be rejected. From the evidence of PW-6 and PW-4 as also the relevant papers produced and proved in the Court, it is established that the first information report of the incident was registered at the police station, Atraulia, District Azamgarh on 28.02.2006 at about 19.45 hours, which was at a distance of 1/2 KM from the place of the incident. On receipt of the said report, police reached at the place of the incident and the Investigating Officer who was in the field also reached at the spot and conducted inquest of the dead body. The inquest and all other relevant papers were got prepared by the Investigating Officer (PW-4) through his assistant S.I. Lalta Yadav, under his supervision.

161. The dead body was then sealed and sent for the postmortem through Constable 484 Komal Yadav and Constable 28 Janardan Singh to the police Headquarter at about 10.25 PM. The dead body in sealed state alongwith police papers was received by the doctor namely PW-3 who conducted autopsy at about 11.15 AM on the next date i.e. 01.03.2006. The postmortem was conducted on 01.03.2006 itself at about 11.30 AM. The opinion of the doctor in the postmortem report about the estimated time of death being half day does not fix the time of death to 11.30 PM or thereafter rather the doctor who conducted the postmortem namely PW-3 stated that the proximate time stated by him was only estimated time and the death could have been caused on 28.02.2006 at about 06.00 PM.

162. On this submission of the doctor in his examination-in-chief, he was confronted in cross, wherein he had categorically denied that his statement that the death could have been caused at about 06.00 PM on 28.02.2006 was wrong and was made only to give shape to the instant case.

163. The contention of the learned counsel for the appellants that even as per the postmortem report, the death could not have been caused at about 06.00 PM as per the noting in the check FIR, therefore, is liable to be rejected.

164. In the entirety of the evidence on record, all arguments pertaining to the FIR being ante-time are liable to be turned down.

B. Presence of the witnesses on the spot:-

165. There are two eye witnesses of the incident. PW-1 Atul Tripathi is the son of deceased Rajendra Prasad Tripathi whereas PW-2 Rajkumar Tiwari was a peon in Maruti Inter College, the institution wherein deceased Rajendra Prasad Tripathi was a lecturer. Both the witnesses stated that they were present on the spot and described the occurrence having seen from their own eyes.

166. To demolish the presence of eye witnesses on the spot, it is argued by the learned Senior counsel for the appellants that the reason for the presence of the witnesses (PW-1 & PW-2) near the Kesari Chauraha, the place of the incident, was not proved by the prosecution. As per the statement of these witnesses, the deceased went to the office of the District Inspector of School, Azamgarh on the fateful day and while returning from the said office by a roadways Bus he alighted at the Kesari Chauraha. The witnesses namely PW-1 and PW-2 were present on the spot on the instructions of the deceased as they were to help him alighting the bus with answer books of the Board examination. From the record as also the statements of these witnesses, it is evident that no answer book was found besides the dead body. In the inquest report, there is no mention of any article found besides or from the dead body. As per the prosecution, the deceased was traveling by a roadways bus, the bus ticket or pass to prove the factum of traveling was also not brought in evidence by the prosecution. PW-1, in cross, admitted that no bus ticket was found from the bag allegedly recovered besides the dead body by the police and no travel pass was found from the clothes of the deceased, PW-1 stated only Rs.250/- were taken out by the police from the pocket of pant of his father but no memo was prepared of the said recovery. Further, PW-1 was not even sure as to the post which his father was holding on the fateful day or the charge of which was about to be given to him on 01.03.2006. In one breath, PW-1 stated that his father was supposed to be given the charge of the Examination Controller and, in the second, that he was given the charge of the Principal of the institution. It is admitted by PW-1 that he had not seen any certificate or any document pertaining to handing over charge of the office to his father. He admitted that he could not come to know as to whether the Board copies or any other material was received by his father from the office of the District Inspector of Schools.

167. Allegedly, a memo of recovery of bag found besides the dead body had been prepared by the Investigating Officer and proved as Exhibit Ka-2. The recovery memo records that one typed application signed by deceased Rajendra Prasad Tripathi dated 25.02.2006 and one service book as also a letter dated 17.02.2006 addressed to the District Inspector of School, Azamgarh were found inside the bag. All these documents including the bag were handed over to the son of the deceased namely PW-1. It has come in the evidence of PW-4 that the relevant column No.6 in the inquest of description of articles found besides the dead body was blank, only explanation given by him was that it was left by mistake. PW-4 was also confronted that there was an interpolation in the case diary dated 28.02.2006 about the recovery of bag and the application found in it as they were not mentioned in the case diary initially and an interpolation about these articles, no plausible explanation could be furnished by PW-4, Investigating Officer. It is urged that the Court had also observed that the word "bag" was interpolated in between two words namely "मिट्टी कब्जे" in the case diary which made no sense and this fact further proves that the memo of recovery of bag Exhibit Ka-2 was prepared later as an afterthought and entered in the case diary by interpolation so as to give color to the case of the prosecution by adding the proof of the deceased alighting from the bus at the Kesari Chauraha.

168. The contention is that the blank space in the inquest which was to be mandatory filled up by the Investigating Officer to corroborate the recovery of the bag from besides the dead body creates a serious doubt about the presence of the eye witnesses. Once the prosecution has failed to prove the reason of presence of the eye witnesses on the spot, the entire story of the deceased alighting the bus and the prosecution witnesses present on the spot to receive him falls short of relevant details. In any case, the prosecution had not brought any evidence on record to prove that the deceased went to the office of the District Inspector of Schools and returned by a roadways Bus at the time when the incident had occurred. The statement of PW-1 that he accompanied to his father to Azamgarh and returned back early had also been made just to fill the blanks noted above.

169. It is submitted that PW-1 was further confronted as to the residence of other two witnesses namely Krishna Kumar Tiwari and Arun Kumar Pandey who allegedly accompanied the eye witnesses PW-1 & PW-2. It has come in the evidence of PW-1, in cross, that the witnesses were residents of different villages and no plausible reasons of their presence on the spot could be given by the prosecution. Even otherwise, those two persons who allegedly accompanied the eye witnesses (PW-1 & PW-2) did not enter in the witness box.

170. Much emphasis has been laid to the fact that there was a bus stop about 250 paces towards the west from the Kesari Chauraha and there was no reason for the bus to stop at the busy crossing. It was also argued that on the date of the incident someone else was holding the charge of the Principal and hence the suggestion of enmity of the accused persons including Shyam Narain Pandey with the deceased was without basis.

171. For another motive brought by PW-1 i.e. for enmity of the deceased with accused Laxmi Narain Pandey about money received from M.P. fund, it was argued that the allegation about the said dispute was a concocted story. It is known to all that any amount received in the college account from the government or from a public fund would be deposited in the joint account of the Manager and the Principal which is to be operated with their joint signatures. It was, thus, not possible for the deceased Rajendra Prasad Tripathi to transfer the said money on his own to the Chief Development Officer. This story was created by PW-1 only to implicate the Manager Laxmi Narain Pandey.

172. The defence had also given a suggestion in the cross-examination of PW-1 that the deceased went to the house of Paras Nath Mishra, Ex-Principal, who died on the same date and while he was returning back, some unknown persons out of enmity had caused his murder. It was placed by the learned Senior Counsel for the appellants that the house of Paras Nath Mishra was nearby the place of the incident.

173. With regard to PW-2, another eye witness, it was argued that his credentials are doubtful in as much as, he admitted that he was a life convict in a case alongwith the accused Laxmi Narain Pandey. It is urged by Sri Durgesh Singh learned Advocate that PW-2 had been brought in picture by the prosecution in order to falsely implicate Shyam Narain Pandey who was previously Principal of the institution and with whom PW-2 had grudges. On confrontation, in cross, PW-2 admitted that his salary was stopped by the accused appellant Shyam Narain Pandey and he was suspended and finally four days before his superannuation, he was terminated on account of long unauthorized absence. It is submitted that the reasons for false implication of appellant Shyam Narain Pandey at the instance of PW-2 are reflected in the cross-examination of PW-2. Further, PW-1 admitted that PW-2 was very close to the deceased. Being an interested and inimical witness, the testimony of PW-2 is liable to be discredited.

174. The record also indicates that PW-2 was pressurized by the family members of the deceased to depose against the appellants and he had entered in the witness box after receipt of money. Several contradictions in the testimony of PW-2 were brought before the Court to vehemently argue that the presence of PW-2 was highly improbable at the spot of the incident and no plausible reason could be given by PW-2 for his presence on the spot. There is also a suggestion of political rivalry of PW-2 with appellant Laxmi Narain Pandey on account of election for the post of Gram Pradhan held in the year 1999-2000. PW-2 was also contradicted with his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C to demonstrate that he did not state therein the motive of causing murder or enmity of Laxmi Narain Pandey with the deceased. The contention is that the statement of PW-2 that Laxmi Narain Pandey used to pressurize the Principal of the institution namely the deceased herein, in money matters is nothing but an improvement on material facts. Further, the place where the witnesses were allegedly waiting for the deceased though had been shown in the site plan but the Chowki or wooden bench on which they were sitting according to PW-2, was not shown by the Investigating Officer therein. PW-2 admitted that he did not meet the Investigating Officer at the spot soon after the incident and his statement was recorded after 20-25 days of the occurrence.

175. With the above, it was vehemently argued by the learned Senior Counsel for the appellants that the statements of eye witnesses PW-1 and PW-2 were lacking in material details as to the reason of their presence on the spot. It is further contended that PW-1 had given a detailed description of the manner in which his father was killed but did not give the registration number of the vehicle which was allegedly used in the killing. The place of the incident which was Kesari Chauraha was main Chauraha of Atraulia town and the police station was nearby, about 1 KM from the place of the incident, when the accused persons were carrying grudges and planned to kill the deceased, they could have chosen some other place rather than a busy crowded place to commit the crime in such a daring manner, exposing themselves. The entire family, father and five sons, had been implicated in order to eliminate the whole family because of the alleged enmity of the deceased with two co-accused, appellants Laxmi Narain Pandey and Shyam Narain Pandey.

176. The oral testimonies of the eye witnesses, therefore, are full of embellishments, exaggerations and improbabilities, their presence on the spot is liable be discarded as such.

177. To deal with the submissions on the issue of presence of eye witnesses at the spot, we may record, at the outset, that from the own version of the defence, there is no dispute about the place of the occurrence where the dead body of Rajendra Prasad Tripathi was found, which was Kesari Chauraha, Atraulia located at a distance of about ½ KM from the police station Atraulia wherein the first information report was lodged. The place of the incident is also proved from the suggestion given by the defence that the deceased was killed while he was coming from the house of Paras Nath Mishra, the Ex-Principal of the institution who died on the same date, and that his house was nearby the place of the incident.

178. As concluded in the preceding paragraphs, the first information report of the incident was a prompt report lodged by the son of the deceased namely Atul Tripathi who had entered in the witness box as PW-1. The written report given in the handwriting of PW-1 was proved as Exhibit Ka-1. The first information report was lodged within 1 hour and 45 minutes of the occurrence and the period taken in lodging the report had been explained by PW-1, in cross, when he stated that he went near his father after the accused persons fled away in the Bolero car and the people present on the spot kept hold of him for about 10-15 minutes while he was crying. His mother and sister then came on the spot and they also kept crying. He then went to the place known as Samadhi Sthal Balakdas which was about 10-12 feet on the north side of the road from the place of the incident. It took about twenty minutes to scribe the report and then he left for the police station on foot where he reached within 15 minutes. The police personnel came to know about the murder only when he gave the report and after lodging the same they came alongwith him to the place of the incident. Nothing contrary could be brought in the testimony of PW-1 about writing the report and going to the police station to lodge the same. For the son who had witnessed the murder of his father, this explanation, in cross, about the time taken in going to the police station seems convincing. In a categorical statement, PW-1 stated as to how the murder had been caused. He had given categorical details as to how the accused persons came in a Bolero Car and five of them got down, gheroed the deceased and killed him while two of the appellants were exhorting others to kill.

179 It has come in the evidence of PW-2 that the Bolero car was without a number plate and the said fact is further corroborated from the statement of the Investigating Officer recorded in the recovery memo where he stated that the confiscated Bolero car, which was the case property exhibited as material Exhibit Ka-8, did not carry any number plate, i.e. it had no registration number.

180. Appreciating the testimony of PW-1, it may be noted that he had given orientation of the place of the incident, the motive for causing the murder, reason of his presence and that of other witnesses on the spot and the manner in which the murder was committed by the appellants. The manner of occurrence narrated by PW-1, son of the deceased is corroborated from the testimony of PW-2 to whom the suggestion of enmity is with one of the appellants namely Shyam Narain Pandey. The motive stated by PW-1 for commission of the crime had been reiterated by PW-2 in his own way. The fact that the salary of PW-2 was withheld or he was suspended or he was terminated prior to his superannuation had nothing to do with six other appellants namely Laxmi Narain Pandey and his five sons. There was no suggestion of enmity of PW-2 with any of these appellants except appellant Shyam Narain Pandey. Even it has come in the cross-examination of PW-2 that he was someway related to accused Laxmi Narain Pandey and had been his accomplice in a crime wherein he was convicted alongwith appellant Laxmi Narain Pandey and later acquitted in an appeal by the High Court. There is no reason for PW-2 to falsely implicate the accused persons namely Laxmi Narain Pandey and his sons. The suggestion of political rivalry of Laxmi Narain Pandey with PW-2 Rajkumar Tiwari is too remote.

181. The contradictions in the testimonies of PW-1 and PW-2, pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellant, are minor which do not go to the root of the matter and cannot be given undue credence. Both the witnesses namely PW-1, son of the deceased and PW-2, the Peon of the institution concerned stated that they were present on the spot of the incident on the instructions of the deceased and were waiting for him when he alighted from the roadways bus and was killed by the accused persons near the Kesari Chauraha. Mere fact that no bus ticket or pass to prove the factum of traveling of the deceased by roadways bus or no recovery memo of money was prepared by the Investigating Officer would not be a reason to disbelieve the factum of the deceased alighting from the roadways bus on the spot. It is possible that in the entire commotion, the Investigating Officer did not notice to confiscate the bus ticket as admittedly, he did not notice the articles found besides the dead body in the relevant column of the inquest.

182. This crucial evidence might have been left from being noticed by the Investigating Officer because of lack of promptness or agility on his part but for this reason it cannot be said nor it can be accepted that the deceased did not travel from the roadway bus or did not go to Azamgarh. The fact that the prosecution could not establish the reason for the deceased going to Azamgarh on the fateful day as no answer book was found besides his dead body is not so material so as to thrash-away the entire prosecution case. The suggestion that the recovery memo of bag was prepared as a afterthought is not acceptable as it was proved by PW-4, the Investigating Officer that the recovery memo Exhibit Ka-2 that one rexin bag was found besides the dead body, was prepared in the presence of witnesses including PW-1. It was proved that when the bag was opened a service book, a typed letter dated 17.02.2006 and also an application dated 25.02.2006 were inside. After preparation of the memo of recovery, the bag and the service book were given in the custody of the first informant (PW-1). The bag was produced in the Court and was shown to PW-4 who identified the same which was found besides the dead body, it was marked as Material Exhibit Ka-1. PW-2 also proved that the application found inside the bag as Material Exhibit Ka-3.

183. On confrontation, PW-4, the Investigating Officer stated that he did not think it wise to deposit the bag as case property in the Maalkhana and that is why a सुपुर्दगीनामा was prepared and it was handed over to the first informant with the instruction to produce it in the Court whenever summoned.

184. As regards the interpolation in the case diary about the recovered articles being bag, PW-4 stated that the suggestion that bag was added later by interpolation was wrong. Further from the articles found inside the bag, it seems that a letter was written by the deceased to the District Inspector of School for release of his salary which was withheld for sometime as also stated by PW-1. It was also proved by PW-1 that a dispute about Principalship was going on between the accused Shyam Narain Pandey and the deceased. The appointment of accused Shyam Narain Pandey on the post of Principal was cancelled on account of the complaint made by the deceased, whereafter, Shyam Narain Pandey was removed by the Commission. No inconsistency in the statement of PW-1 & PW-4 could be found with regard to the recovery of bag besides the dead body and preparation of its recovery memo and handing over the same to the eye witness PW-1.

185. For the arguments of the learned Senior Counsel for the appellants, the genuineness of recovery memo Exhibit Ka-2, for the mere reason that no entry of the bag was made in the inquest or the bag was given in the Supurdigi of PW-1, cannot be doubted.

186. Be that as it may, mere fact that the reason as to why the deceased traveled to Azamgarh or whether he had gone to the office of the District Inspector of School, Azamgarh on the fateful day could not be established by the prosecution by the evidences such as bus ticket or any material brought from the office of the District Inspector of School, would not be fatal to the prosecution story. It is proved that there was a dispute related to holding of the post of the Principal in the institution concerned and the deceased was trying hard to get appointment on the post of Principal being the Senior-most Lecturer in the institution concerned. The description in the testimony of PW-1 & PW-2, the eye witnesses of the occurrence, corroborated by the surrounding circumstances of the case such as lodging of the prompt report by PW-1 and the description given by him about the occurrence supported by the testimony of PW-2 is categorical proof of the presence of these two witnesses on the spot.

187. The suggestion of false implication of the appellants at the hands of PW-1 for the enmity projected by the prosecution, cannot be read in favour of the defene, in as much as, two eye witnesses, in the instant case, fall in the category of wholly reliable witnesses and further the suggestion of false implication of the appellants for the proved enmity is unacceptable, in as much as, it is not acceptable that the son of the deceased who had seen the occurrence would let go the real assailants scot free so as to falsely implicate the appellants with whom there is direct enmity of the eye witnesses namely PW-1. The proof of enmity is only with the deceased who was working on the post of Lecturer in the institution of which one of the appellant namely Laxmi Narain Pandey was the Manager and wherein another appellant Shyam Narain Pandey held the post of Principal for sometime. All other appellants are sons of Manager Laxmi Narain Pandey who were carrying grudges with the deceased on account of his actions to hold the post of the Principal of the institution concerned.

188. In the instant case, the trial court had given an exhaustive finding on the credibility of evidence of the eye witnesses. Learned counsel for the appellant pointing out the discrepancies in the ocular account of two witnesses is invoking jurisdiction of the High Court being the first appellate court to reappraise the evidence.

189. In this regard, we would like to refer to the decision of the Apex Court laying down the legal principle in the matter of appreciation of evidence of witnesses by the first appellate court so as to impeach the credit of the witness. The principles narrated in the celebrated decision of the Apex Court in the State of UP vs. M.K. Anthony13 are that while appreciating the evidence of a witness, the approach must be whether the evidence of the witness read as a whole appears to have a ring of truth. Once that impression is formed, it is undoubtedly necessary for the court to scrutinize the evidence more particularly keeping in view the deficiencies, draw-backs and infirmities pointed out in the evidence as a whole and evaluate them to find out whether it is against the general tenor of the evidence given by the witness and whether the earlier evaluation of the evidence is shaken as to render it unworthy of belief. Minor discrepancies on trivial matters not touching the core of the case, hyper-technical approach by taking sentences torn out of context here or there from the evidence, attaching importance to some technical error committed by the investigating officer not going to the root of the matter would not ordinarily permit rejection of the evidence as a whole. If the court before whom the witness gives evidence had the opportunity to form the opinion about the general tenor of evidence given by the witness, the appellate court which had not this benefit will have to attach due weight to the appreciation of evidence by the trial court and unless there are reasons weighty and formidable it would not be proper to reject the evidence on the ground of minor variations or infirmities in the matter of trivial details. Even honest and truthful witnesses may differ in some details unrelated to the main incident because power of observation, retention and reproduction differs with individuals.

190. In the above context, it was held in Leela Ram (D) Through Duli Chand vs State Of Haryana And another14 that the High Court is within its jurisdiction being the first appellate court to re-appraise the evidence, but the discrepancies found in the ocular account of two witnesses unless they are so vital, cannot affect the credibility of the evidence of the witnesses. There is bound to be some discrepancies between the narrations of different witnesses when they speak on details, and unless the contradictions are of a material dimension, the same should not be used to jettison the evidence in its entirety. Incidentally, corroboration of evidence with mathematical niceties cannot be expected in criminal cases. Minor embellishment, there may be, but variations by reason therefor should not render the evidence of eye witnesses unbelievable. Trivial discrepancies ought not to obliterate an otherwise acceptable evidence.

191. The previous decision in Rammi @ Rameshwar Vs. State of M.P15 was taken into account in Leela Ram (D) Through Duli Chand14 to note the observations therein as:-

"In a very recent decision in Criminal Appeal No. 61 of 1999 (Rammi alias Rameshwar v. State of Madhya Pradesh) with Criminal Appeal No. 33 of 1999 (Bhura Alias Sajjan Kumar v. State of Madhya Pradesh) this Court observed :

24. "When eye-witness is examined at length it is quite possible for him to make some discrepancies. No true witness can possibly escape from making some discrepant details. Perhaps an untrue witness who is well tutored can successfully make his testimony totally non-discrepant. But courts should bear in mind that it is only when discrepancies in the evidence of a witness are so incompatible with the credibility of his version that the Court is justified in jettisoning his evidence. But too serious a view to be adopted on mere variations falling in the narration of an incident (either as between the evidence of two witnesses or as between two statements of the same witness) is an unrealistic approach for judicial scrutiny".

This Court further observed :

25 "It is a common practice in trial courts to make out contradictions from previous statement of a witness for confronting him during cross- examination. Merely because there is inconsistency in evidence it is not sufficient to impair the credit of the witness. No doubt Section 155 of the Evidence Act provides scope for impeaching the credit of a witness by proof of inconsistent former statement. But a reading of the Section would indicate that all inconsistent statements are not sufficient to impeach the credit of the witness. The material portion of the Section is extracted below :

" 155. Impeaching credit of witness. The credit of a witness may be impeached in the following ways by the adverse party, or, with the consent of the Court, by the party who calls him.....

(3) by proof of former statements inconsistent with any part of his evidence which is liable to be contradicted."

26. A former statement though seemingly inconsistent with the evidence need not necessarily be sufficient to amount to contradiction. Only such of the inconsistent statement which is liable to be "contradicted"would affect the credit of the witness. Section 145 of the Evidence Act also enables the cross-examiner to use any former statement of the witness, but it cautions that if it intended to "contradict" the witness the cross-examiner is enjoined to comply with the formality prescribed therein. Section 162 of Code also permits the cross-examiner to use the previous statement of the witness (recorded under Section 161 of the Code) for the only limited purpose, i.e. to "contradict" the witness.

27. To contradict a witness, therefore, must be to discredit the particular version of the witness. Unless the former statement has the potency to discredit the present statement, even if the latter is at variance with the former to some extent it would not be helpful to contradict that witness, (vide Tahsildar Singh and Anr. v. State of U.P., AIR (1959) SC 1012)".

192. In paragraph Nos.11 & 12 of Leela Ram (supra), it was further observed:-

"11. The court shall have to bear in mind that different witnesses react differently under different situations : whereas some become speechless, some start wailing some others run away from the scene and yet there are some who may come forward with courage, conviction and belief that the wrong should be remedied. As a matter of fact it depends upon individuals and individuals. There cannot be any set pattern or uniform rule of human reaction and to discard a piece of evidence on the ground of his reaction not falling within a set pattern is unproductive and a pedantic exercise.

12. It is indeed necessary to note that hardly one conies across a witness whose evidence does not contain some exaggeration or embellishments - sometimes there could even be a deliberate attempt to offer embellishment and sometimes in their over anxiety they may give slightly exaggerated account. The Court can sift the chaff from the corn and find out the truth from the testimony of the witnesses. Total repulsion of the evidence is unnecessary. The evidence is to be considered from the point of view of trustworthiness - If this element is satisfied, they ought to inspire confidence in the mind of the Court to accept the stated evidence though not however in the absence of the same".

193. Reverting to the instant case, on evaluation of the evidence of both the eye witnesses, in entirety, the discrepancies pointed out by the learned Senior Counsel for the appellants in their testimonies are found to be minor variations or infirmities in the matter of trivial details which do not touch the core of the case so as to reject the evidence as a whole. Attaching too much importance to the technical errors committed by the Investigating Officer in not noticing the bus ticket as a proof of travel of the deceased from Azamgarh or in not mentioning the bag as an article found besides the dead body in the relevant column of the inquest, in the attending circumstances of the present case, is impermissible, in as much as, absence of these details would not go against the general tenor of the evidence given by the witnesses which is found consistent and credible.

194. No inconsistencies from the previous statements of the eye witnesses

195. The testimony of PW-2 is corroborative to the version of PW-1 both of whom were present on the spot together to receive the deceased who was coming by a roadways bus from the District Headquarter Azamgarh. On consideration of their evidence from the point of view of trustworthiness of the eye witnesses, it inspires confidence in the mind of the Court and removes all doubts sought to be created by the learned counsels for the appellants so as to disbelieve the evidence of such witnesses who are otherwise trustworthy. No such discrepancy could be pointed out by the defence which would shake the basic version of the prosecution case so as to discard the version of the eye witnesses about their presence on the spot.

196. The arguments of the learned Counsels for the appellants noted above to discredit the presence of eye witnesses (PW-1 and PW-2) at the spot of the incident are, thus, liable to be rejected.

C. Ocular Vs. Medical Evidence:-

197. It is argued by the learned Senior Counsel for the appellants that the statement of PW-1 as to the manner of causing firearm injuries to the deceased is in complete contradictions with the medical evidence, which goes to the root of the matter so as to discard the presence of PW-1 on the spot. It is submitted that in the examination-in-chief, PW-1 stated that five accused persons namely Rajesh Kumar Pandey, Amit Kumar Pandey, Pawan Kumar Pandey @ Babloo, Ramesh Kumar Pandey and Rajesh Kumar Pandey had encircled the deceased and all of them were all carrying firearms. Three out of five namely Pawan Kumar Pandey @ Babloo, Rajesh Kumar Pandey and Amit Kumar Pandey had opened fires at the deceased. While the deceased was falling down getting hit by the fires, two accused namely Ramesh Kumar Pandey and Umesh Kumar Pandey also fired whereas only three firearm wounds of entry were found on the person of the deceased as indicated in the postmortem report, proved by the doctor PW-3.

198. In cross on confrontation, PW-1 stated that total five fires were opened by the accused persons and accused Ramesh Kumar Pandey and Umesh Kumar Pandey also opened fires when the deceased was falling down.

199. As per the submissions of the learned Senior Counsel for the appellants, the number 5 had been fixed by the informant PW-1 so as to implicate five accused based on the number of injuries noted in the postmortem report. Out of 5 injuries in the postmortem report, 3 are entry wounds whereas 2 exit wounds correspond to 2 entry wounds of the firearm. There is no explanation as to whether fires allegedly opened by the appellants Ramesh Kumar Pandey and Umesh Kumar Panddy also hit the deceased. There is no recovery of weapons from the possession or on the pointing out of the appellants Ramesh Kumar Pandey and Umesh Kumar Pandey and there is no recovery of empty cartridges from the place of the incident. The falsity in the statement of PW-1 evident from the records proves that he was not present on the spot.

200. Placing the statement of PW-1 recorded on 18.09.2006, it is argued that when this witness gave such a graphic details about the directions in which each assailants was standing while encircling the deceased, he could not have missed the number of fires opened by the appellants and that whose fires hit the deceased.

201. To deal with the above submissions, suffice it to note that in the statement of PW-1, it has come that all five accused persons who encircled the deceased after getting down from the Bolero car, opened fires at the deceased and the first three fires were made by appellants Pawan Kumar Pandey @ Babloo, Rajesh Kumar Pandey and Amit Kumar Pandey. Three firearm entry wounds with blackening and tattooing have been found near the right and left ear and right shoulder of the deceased. The position of all three wounds as indicated in the postmortem report show that three fires were made at the deceased from both sides and they were close range and his right and left parietal & temporal bone of the head were found broken and brain was ruptured.

202. The categorical statement of PW-1 is that while his father was falling down after being hit by three fires opened by appellants Pawan Kumar Pandey @ Babloo, Rajesh Kumar Pandey and Amit Kumar Pandey, two other appellants Ramesh and Umesh also opened fires. The fact that their fires did not hit the deceased or no empty cartridges could be recovered from the spot of the incident would not be a reason to discard the presence of PW-1 who gave a clear and categorical detail as to whose fires hit the deceased. A careful reading of the statement of PW-1 makes his version clear that three fires opened by appellants Pawan @ Babloo and Rajesh and Amit hit the deceased.

203. Even otherwise, it is settled law that in case of any inconsistencies or contradiction between medical and ocular evidence, the ocular testimony of a witness will have greater evidentiary value vis-à-vis medical evidence and unless the oral evidence is totally irreconcilable with the medical evidence, the oral evidence would have primacy. It is only when the contradiction between the two is so extreme that the medical evidence completely rules out all possibilities of the ocular evidence being true at all that the oral evidence is liable to be discarded. Reference State of U.P. vs. Hari Chand16 and Darbara Singh versus State of Punjab.17

204. In view of the above discussion, we find that the inconsistencies pointed out by the learned Senior Counsel for the appellants in the medical evidence vis-a-vis ocular evidence of PW-1 is not a relevant factor so as to discard or disbelieve the ocular evidence. The arguments of the learned Senior Counsel for the appellants in this regard are, thus, liable to be rejected.

D. Ballistic Report:-

205. Placing the ballistic report, it is submitted by the learned Senior Counsel that the recoveries made from the accused appellants Amit Kumar Pandey and Rajesh Kumar Pandey of the weapons namely 315 bore and 303 bore country made pistols, live cartridges and empty cartridge found in the chamber of the weapon could not be proved by the prosecution. The bullet found from inside the dead body could not be matched from any of the recovered weapon, even the recovered cartridges also did not match with the weapons recovered from the possession of appellants Amit Kumar Pandey and Rajesh Kumar Pandey. It is, thus, argued that it proves that the recovery of the firearms was planted by the Investigating Officer. The ballistic report rather supports the defence theory that the deceased was hit by some unknown persons in the dead of night and the implication of the appellants in the crime is false.

206. To deal with this submission, suffice it to note that mere fact that the ballistic report did not support the recovery made by the prosecution would not be a reason to discard the ocular evidence which is supported by the medical evidence, in as much as, two firearms wounds brain cavity deep were through and through as the entry wound 3 cm above left ear correspond with the exit wound at the right eyebrow which both were brain cavity deep. Whereas entry wound at 2 cm above right ear correspond with the exit wound which was 1 cm above the injury No.1. The bullet which was found from the liver of the deceased correspond to the entry wound found at 06. cm below right shoulder margin of which were inverted. It has come in the evidence that three accused persons had fired at the deceased and the fact that recovery of the weapons used in causing murder could not be made or the prosecution could not connect recovered firearms with the occurrence, cannot be given undue importance so as to discard the uncontroverted oral testimony of the eye witnesses namely PW-1 and PW-2.

E. Motive:-

207. On the question of motive, it is proved by the prosecution witness that the deceased was Senior most Lecturer in the institution concerned and he was trying hard to hold the post of Principal of the institution concerned. The accused-appellant Laxmi Narain Pandey was against the deceased and was supporter of co-accused Shyam Narain Pandey. The appointment of Shyam Narain Pandey though was made by the Commission but it was cancelled on the complaint made by the deceased about the genuineness of his testimonials. It has come in evidence that the testimonials of appellant Shyam Narain Pandey, which were the basis of his appointment to the post of Principal were found forged and hence his appointment was cancelled in the year 2005 by the Commission. Both the witnesses of fact proved that there was a dispute between the Manager Laxmi Narain Pandey and the then Principal Rajendra Prasad Tripathi, i.e. the deceased herein in relation to some money received from the M.P. Fund, utilization of which could not be made as per the wishes of the Manager Laxmi Narain Pandey.

208. The recovery of bag material Exhibit 1 was proved by the Investigating Officer PW-4 wherefrom an application material Exhibit Ka-3 was recovered. The contents of the said application had been extracted by the trial court in paragraph No.55 of its judgement. A perusal of which further indicates that the deceased Rajendra Prasad Tripathi wrote the said application against the Manager stating that the Manager of the institution was making all efforts to harass him and prayed that he may be restrained from interfering in the affairs of the institution concerned. The memo of recovery of bag and Supurdignama dated 28.02.2006 Exhibit Ka-2 bears signature of PW-1 namely Atul Kumar Tripathi who in the cross-examination had proved his signatures on the said document. The signature and writing of the deceased on Material Exhibit Ka-3 the application, was also proved by PW-1 by stating that he was well acquainted with the writing and signatures of his father and the signatures on document Exhibit Ka-3 were of his father which was seized by the police on the spot.

209. Nothing contrary could be culled out from the testimony of PW-1, the son of the deceased and PW-4 as also the Investigating Officer who proved recovery of bag and the application as Material Exhibit Ka-1 and Material Exhibit ka-3 found besides the dead body. The correctness of the allegations made in the application form namely Material Exhibit Ka-3 are not relevant for our consideration in the present case. The said document, coupled with other circumstances of the case noted above, proves the motive for commission of the crime. It is settled that motive though is not of much importance in a case of positive ocular evidence, i.e. of eye witnesses account, but the motive if proved or established is a very relevant and important aspect to highlight the intention of the accused and is relevant to show that the person who had the motive to commit the crime actually committed it. However, it is equally settled that such evidence (of motive) alone would not ordinarily be sufficient to record conviction.

E. Flaws in the investigation:-

210. Several flaws in the investigation were pointed out by the learned Senior Counsel for the appellants such as delay in sending the dead body to the police lines and flaw in preparation of recovery memo of bag allegedly found besides the dead body have been dealt with in the foregoing paragraph of this judgement. Several inconsistencies in the statement of the IIIrd Investigating Officer namely PW-10 were pointed out by the learned Senior Counsel to assert that the prosecution had falsely implicated the accused appellants in a zeal to solve the crime merely on account of the alleged enmity of the deceased with the accused persons.

211. Dealing with the same, suffice it to note that it is now a well settled principle that any irregularities or even an illegality during investigation ought not to be treated as a ground to reject the prosecution case and we need not dilate on this issue. Reference may, however, be made to the decision of the Apex Court in State of State of Rajasthan vs. Kishore18 which laid down the above proposition.

F. Trial Court Finding:-

212. For the above discussion, we do not find any error in the finding returned by the trial court on the above noted issues, in holding that the prosecution had proved lodging of the first information report in a prompt manner, the presence of the witnesses on the spot and the motive assigned to the accused appellants to cause the murder. No infirmity could be found in the finding returned by the trial court on the above issues.

G. Plea of Alibi of the accused-appellants:-

213. We are now left with the plea of alibi taken by three appellants.

214. The appellants who have pleaded alibi, are Laxmi Narain Pandey, Pawan Kumar Pandey and Shyam Narain Pandey. In his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. noted above Laxmi Narain Pandey stated that he was lodged in the District Jail, Lucknow on the date and time of the incident whereas Pawan Kumar Pandey another appellant taking the plea of alibi stated that he was lodged in the District Jail, Lucknow alongwith his father on the date and time of the incident. The appellant Shyam Narain Pandey in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. stated that he left for his village on 03.07.2005 after leaving the college and used to reside therein. Between 26.02.2006 and 01.03.2006 he used to go to Allahabad High Court and stayed in Allahabad city for the preparation and pairvi of a rejoinder affidavit.

215. The appellants had produced 15 defence witnesses (DW-2 to DW-16) and number of documentary evidences in support of their plea of alibi.

216. Before adverting to the evidence produced by the defence/appellants, it would be worthwhile to note that in a criminal case wherein an accused makes an effort to take shelter under the plea of alibi, it has to be raised at the first instance and also be subjected to strict proof of evidence by the Court trying the offence. Such a plea cannot be allowed lightly inspite of lack of evidence merely with the aid of salutary principle that an innocent man may not have to suffer injustice by recording an order of conviction inspite of his plea of alibi.

217. While discussing the law relating to plea of alibi, the first and foremost principle is that the burden of substantiating such a plea and making it reasonably probable is upon the accused. The plea of alibi is not one of the general exception contained in Chapter IV IPC. It is a rule of evidence recognized under Section 11 of the Evidence Act. Section 11 of the Evidence Act' 1872 provides that when facts not otherwise relevant are relevant if they are inconsistent with any fact and issue or relevant fact if by themselves or in connection with other facts they make the existence or non-existence of any fact or issue or relevant fact highly probable or improbable.

218. It is settled that the burden of proving commission of offence by the accused so as to fasten the liability of guilt on him remains on the prosecution and would not be lessened by the mere fact that the accused had adopted the defence of alibi. The plea of alibi taken by the accused needs to be considered only when the burden which lies on the prosecution has been discharged satisfactorily. If the prosecution has failed in the discharging its burden of proving the commission of crime by the accused beyond any reasonable doubt, it may not be necessary to go into the question whether the accused has succeeded in proving his defence of alibi. But once the prosecution succeeds in discharging its burden then it is incumbent on the accused taking the plea of alibi to prove it with certainty so as to exclude the possibility of his presence at the place and time of occurrence.

219. Further, when the presence of the accused at the scene of occurrence has been established satisfactorily by the prosecution through reliable evidence, normally the court would be slow to believe any counter evidence to the effect that he was elsewhere when the occurrence happened. But if the evidence adduced by the accused is of such a quality and of such a standard that the court may entertain some reasonable doubt regarding his presence at the scene when the occurrence took place, the accused would, no doubt, be entitled to the benefit of that reasonable doubt. An obligation is cast on the Court to weigh in scales the evidence adduced by the prosecution in proving of the guilt of the accused and the evidence adduced by the accused in proving his defence of alibi. The burden of the accused is undoubtedly heavy. It follows, therefore, that strict proof is required for establishing the plea of alibi. This flows from Section 103 of the Evidence Act which provides that the burden of proof as to any particular fact lies on that person who wishes the Court to believe in its existence. However, while weighing the prosecution case and the defence case, pitted against each other, if the balance tilts in favour of the accused, the prosecution would fail and the accused would be entitled to benefit of that reasonable doubt which would emerge in the mind of the Court.

220. Reference be made to the decisions of the Apex court in State of Uttar Pradesh Vs. Sughar Singh & others19, Binay Kumar Singh Vs. State of Bihar20, Jayantibhai Bhenkarbhai Vs. State of Gujarat21, Jitendra Kumar Vs. State of Haryana22, Darshan Singh Vs. State of Punjab23 wherein above stated legal position has been discussed.

G(i). Plea of alibi of Shyam Narayan Pandey:-

221. In the instant case, plea of alibi of appellant Shyam Narain Pandey is supported by the evidence of two witnesses namely DW-7 Sadanand Pandey and DW-12 Sudhakar Pandey. Sadanand Pandey admittedly, was a resident of District Ballia which was the native village of the appellant Shyam Narain Pandey. As per the statement of DW-7, he met appellant Shyam Narain Pandey between 26.02.2006 till 28.02.2006 when the latter was staying at Allahabad for doing pairvi in his case filed in this Court (Allahabad High Court). The statement of DW-7 was recorded on 02.04.2009. His version in his deposition in the Court is only based on his memory and is not supported by any material on record. In cross, DW-7 admitted that he never went with appellant Shyam Narain Pandey for doing pairvi of his case and he met him in Allahabad only on few days. He also admitted that he came to know about the present criminal case about a year prior to his deposition. It is also admitted by PW-7 that he was not related to the appellant Shyam Narain Pandey. He also did not state that he knew Shyam Narain Pandey from before he met him at Allahabad in the year 2006 or ever met him thereafter. In this scenario, it is difficult to believe that DW-7 who was a litigant in another case could remember after a period of three years as to whom he met in the chamber of an Advocate at Allahabad.

222. DW-12 is an Advocate practicing in the Allahabad High Court. Admittedly he did not file Vakalatnama or appeared on behalf of appellant Shyam Narain Pandey in any matter in Allahabad High Court. It is admitted by DW-12 that some other Advocate was engaged by Shyam Narain Pandey. The statement of DW-12 that the appellant Shyam Narain Pandey used to stay in his house from 26.02.2006 till 01.03.2006 cannot be corroborated from any other circumstance or material brought on record. In cross of DW-12, it has come that his native village was Ballia and appellant Shyam Narain Pandey was also a resident of District Ballia, DW-12 being acquaintance of appellant Shyam Narain Pandey as admitted in his testimony cannot be believed to support the plea of alibi of Shyam Narain Pandey in absence of any other supporting evidence or surrounding circumstance to prove that there was no possibility of presence of appellant Shyam Narain Pandey at the place of the incident on the date and time stated by the prosecution witnesses.

223. As noted above, no documentary proof of presence of appellant Shyam Narain Pandey on the date and time of the incident in Allahabad had been produced and the statement of defence witnesses (DW-7 and DW-12) are bereft of any supporting evidence. It may be noted that neither the Oath Commissioner who verified the affidavit allegedly sworn by appellant Shyam Narain Pandey or the Advocate who was appearing on his behalf in the High Court had been produced in evidence.

224. For the aforesaid, the plea of alibi of appellant Shyam Narain Pandey is liable to be rejected. No infirmity in this regard can be found in the findings of the trial court.

G.(ii). Plea of alibi of Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey:-

225. The appellants Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey pressed the plea of alibi, i.e. the proof of their absence on the spot of the incident at the date and time indicated by the prosecution or in another words to prove their presence at another place by leading a positive evidence which is required to be scrutinized by this Court.

226. The contention is that both the abovenamed appellants were lodged in the District Jail, Lucknow on 25.02.2006 and were released only on 02.03.2006 and on 24.02.2006 they were lodged in RPF lock-up at the RPF post Charbagh (NR) Lucknow. This plea is supported by a number of documentary evidences brought by the defence witnesses who are police officers of RPF and Jailer of the District Jail, Lucknow. Some of the documentary evidences brought on record were summoned by the trial court.

227. DW-11 is the Ticket Collector who stated that while he was posted at the Railway Station, Charbagh, he caught both the appellants at the first class entry gate of Train No.3040 Jammu Tavi Howrah which reached at the Charbagh Railway Station 15.15 hours at platform No.1. From the testimony of this witness, it is evident that he did not identify both the appellants personally rather his version is supported by two documents namely Exhibit Kha-20 and Kha-21. Both these documents are certified copies of the alleged charge sheets prepared on 24.02.2006 in the handwriting and signature of one Atul Kumar who was posted as In-charge CTC in the office of VICTC. These documents are stated to be photostat copies of the original charge sheet and had been attested and filed by DW-11.

228. It is not known as to in what capacity these document were brought by DW-11 for being filed in the Court in support of the plea of the defence that two appellants namely Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey were arrested by DW-11 at the Charbagh Railway Station and charge sheeted as they were traveling without ticket and that they did not deposit the charge of general bogey with penalty

i.e. Rs.380/- per person which was demanded by DW-11 for the offence of traveling without ticket. The Exhibit Kha-20 & Kha-21 for the above reasons cannot be relied to hold that the appellants were arrested by DW-11 on 24.02.2006 at the gate No.1 of the platform No.1 of the Charbagh railway Station, Lucknow.

229. Further documents relied by the appellants in support of the above plea are G.D. entries dated 24.02.2006 and 25.02.2006 which had been filed as Exhibit Kha-3 and Kha-4 and proved in the Court by DW-3, the Head Constable posted in RPF. It was stated by DW-3 that those documents were brought by him pursuant to the order of the Court. DW-8 is a police personnel of RPF who stated that these two appellants were arrested and handed over to him and he lodged them in the District Jail, Lucknow on the basis of the charge sheet prepared against them under Section 137 and 138 Railways Act.

230. DW-9 is a Constable posted in RPF who proved the entry in the G.D. Exhibit Kha-3 and Kha-4 being in his handwriting and signature and stated that when the accused persons were lodged in the RPF lockup, he was on duty to write the G.D. and on frisking of the two appellants, one mobile charger was found from the possession of the appellant Pawan Kumar Pandey.

231. DW-3 also brought the original Khuraki register from 03.11.2005 to 17.11.2006 and filed it in the Court which was proved as Exhibit Kha-7. A copy of Jamatalashi register (the proof of frisking of the accused) before lodging them in the lockup had also been brought on record as Exhibit Kha-7. It may be noted that it has come on record that none of the documents produced in defence by the officers posted in the RPF post (brought under the order of the Court) were brought in sealed cover. G.D. entries dated 24.02.2006 at G.D. No.60 Exhibit Kha-3 records that both the accused who were caught at the first class entry gate by Ticket Collector Sarvendra (DW-1), on interrogation could not produce any proof of traveling and stated that they were traveling from Train No.3074 down, from Moradabad and as they did not have money and when asked to deposit the passengers tariff, they denied. From this story narrated in the G.D. Exhibit Kha-3, pertinent is to note that this entry cannot be accepted as true as there was no proof of traveling of the appellants by Train No.3074 down from Moradabad. The appellants were admittedly residents of District Azamgarh. They both were well-off persons belonging to a reputed family as on the date of the incident, appellant Laxmi Narain Pandey was the Manager of two institutions, one Intermediate and another Degree College. There is no explanation as to why these appellants would travel from Moradabad that too without ticket and how were they bereft of money.

232. The record brought by the defence show that the appellants were without luggage as nothing but a mobile charger could be found in their frisking as is recorded in Exhibit Kha-6, the alleged register of frisking of appellant Pawan Kumar Pandey. From a bare perusal of the document filed as Exhibit Kha-6 it is clear that the entry of the name of Pawan Kumar Pandey son of Laxmi Narain Pandey is not in chronological order. This documents filed to prove the arrest and lodging of the appellants in the RPF lockup at Charbagh, Railway Station, Lucknow, therefore, cannot be believed.

233. DW-10 is the Constable posted in RPF, Charbagh who stated that he took two appellants alongwith 13 persons to the Court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate (NR), Charbagh, Lucknow for their appearance in the Court and DW-10 stated that out of 17, 4 accused persons were released as they deposited the fine and two appellants herein including others (total 13 in number) were lodged in the District Jail, Lucknow. His signature on the entry of the Jail gate book had been identified by DW-10 as Exhibit Kha-19.

234. In cross, it is admitted by DW-10 that he could not identify the accused persons from their appearance and he could only depose on the basis of the relevant registers brought in defence. We may note at this juncture that the entire record of the Court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate (NR) Charbagh had been weeded out as is evident from the record and no proof of appearance of the appellants in the Court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate (NR) Charbagh on 25.02.2006 could be brought or found. The evidence of DW-10, therefore, cannot be believed.

235. Now the remaining documentary evidence and the defence witnesses had been produced to prove the lodging of the appellants in the District Jail, Lucknow.

236. Before appreciating the documents relied by the learned Senior Counsel in that regard, we may note that Exhibit Kha-5 is the certificate of the Medical Officer, District Jail, Lucknow which is countersigned by the Superintendent, District Jail, Lucknow and the said document is dated 31.08.2006. This document was produced by the Deputy Jailer, District Jail, Lucknow who entered in the witness box as DW-4. The certificate dated 31.08.2006 records that in a fire accident on 15.03.2006 the entire record of the Jail Hospital such as admission register and all other documents were destroyed. This certificate was given on 31.08.2006 (as noted above) in relation to some queries made with regard to another prisoner who was admitted in the District Jail, in the month of January, 2006.

237. We may further record that DW-2 is Bandi Rakshak, District Jail, Lucknow who brought the register No.1 (kaidi register) and register No.7 (Doctari Mulaiza register) in the Court. It may further be noted that these documents were not brought in a sealed cover as was admitted by DW-5, the Jailer, District Jail, Lucknow.

238. DW-6 is the Jailer who was posted in the District Jail, Lucknow at the relevant point of time. He was produced to prove the entries in the gate book/ gate register and register No.1 Kaidi register as also the register No.7 (release register). It is admitted by DW-6 that none of the entries were made in his presence as they do not pertain to the period of his posting in the District Jail, Lucknow.

239. DW-13 is the Deputy Jailer posted in the District Jail, Luckow on the date of the incident and he was shown various registers allegedly maintained in the jail and admitted that there were overlappings in the alleged thumb impressions of the accused persons in the relevant register No.1, both against the names of Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey. On confrontation about the overlapping of thumb impression found in the relevant column of register No.1, DW-13 stated that when he directed for release of the accused appellants from jail, the entries in the register were not like this.

240. Hospital Mulaiza register which had been produced by DW-14, Bandi Rakshak, District Jail, Lucknow was placed before us to state that all identification marks mentioned in the said register tallied with the identification marks found on the body of the accused persons, on comparison in the trial court. DW-15 is the doctor who stated that he had tallied the identification marks of the accused persons noted in the Hospital Mulaiza register. It is not clear as to how this document which is known as Hospital Mulaiza register, wherein the health record of the prisoner and their identification marks were noted could be believed when it was not produced in the sealed cover. It may be noted that different officers of the District Jail, Lucknow posted at different point of time were produced in the Court by the defence to prove the entries in the documents/registers brought by DW-2 pursuant to the order of the trial Court.

241. It was admitted by DW-4 that only the Jailer, District Jail, Lucknow was authorized to produce the document in the Court and the Jailer, District Jail, Lucknow when entered in the witness box as DW-5 stated on oath that none of the documents sent by him through DW-2, as summoned by the Court, were in sealed cover. The excuse was that there was no such order of the Court.

242. For the above, none of the documents produced in defence to prove the plea of lodging of the appellants Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey in the District Jail, Lucknow are believable. Moreover, once we have discarded the evidence of proof of arrest, the documents of arrest of the appellants at the railway Station, Charbagh, Lucknow and the factum of their lodging in the lockup of the RPF post (NR) Charbagh, Lucknow on 24.02.2006, all other documents of proof of their lodging in the District Jail, Lucknow are liable to discarded.

243. We may further record that none of the defence witnesses had identified the accused appellants personally and the entire plea of alibi is based on the documentary evidences, genuineness of which is highly doubtful and could not be proved by the defence witnesses. None of the documents are to be believed as genuine documents so as to accept them as a strict proof of plea of alibi of the appellants. As regards Exhibit Kha-12 and Kha-13, the extract of register No.9 and fine register; respectively, which were sent by the Court clerk of the office of the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, (NR) Charbagh, Lucknow by the letter dated 16.03.2009 (Exhibit Kha-11), which were found in the envelope Exhibit Kha-9, reference of which finds place in the statement of DW-13, suffice it to note that as per the report of the Court clerk, the record of cases lodged under Section 137 Railways Act bearing No.1435 of 2006 to 1448 of 2006 had been weeded out under the order of the Presiding Officer dated 05.06.2006. As a result of which, the entries in Exhibit Kha-12 and Kha-13 placed before us could not be verified from the own showing of the defence that the record of the office of the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, (NR) Charbagh, Lucknow was not available when they were summoned by the trial court.

244. For the aforesaid, we are afraid to accept the plea of alibi raised by the appellants Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey on the basis of documentary evidences filed by the defence witnesses (DW-2 to DW-15). As regards the evidence of DW-16, same is liable to be rejected as the genuineness of the documents brought in the Court in defence about the arrest and detention of the appellants Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey firstly in RPF lockup and then in the District Jail, Lucknow is found unbelievable.

245. T here is one more aspect of the matter. As per the plea taken by the two appellants named above, they deposited the fine on 01.03.2006 in the Court of the Railway Magistrate and were released from the District Jail, Lucknow on 02.03.2006. The incident occurred on 28.02.2006 and named FIR was lodged on the said date itself. All other co-accused except Shyam Narain Pandey are immediate family members of accused Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey being sons of Laxmi Narain Pandey. It is noticeable that the plea of alibi had not been taken at any point of time prior to the statement of the said accused appellants recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. before the trial Court. Neither the plea of alibi was taken during the course of investigation nor at the stage of commital. No application for discharge of these appellants had been filed on the plea of alibi. No application had been moved before the competent court to plead that the implication of the appellants in the criminal case was false as they could not remain present on the spot of the crime having been lodged in the District Jail, Lucknow. Had it been done, appropriate enquiry at the inception of this criminal case could have been conducted and appropriate order could have been passed to summon or seal the record of the Court of Railway Magistrate wherein the proceedings under Section 137 Railways Act were allegedly conducted.

246. These facts raise a serious doubt about the genuineness of the plea of alibi.

247. Further, looking to the circumstance and the financial capacity of the appellants, it is difficult to believe that they would not deposit the fine of Rs.880/- per person for traveling without ticket and choose to go to the jail for 15 days. Further it has come in the evidence of the defence witness DW-3 that the information was given to the family members of the arrested accused appellants when they were lodged in jail. It is, thus, difficult to accept that none of the family members of the appellants came forward to deposit the fine or they did not take care to know the whereabouts of the appellants who allegedly remained in jail for 15 days.

248. The exhaustive findings recorded by the trial court on each and every issue relating to the plea of alibi are found justified in the facts and circumstances of the present case in view of the discussion made above.

249. For the above discussion, the plea of alibi taken by the appellants Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey in their statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and the proof brought in the shape of defence witnesses and the documentary evidences filed by them is a concocted story, putforth by the said appellants by carefully constructing the record with the help of the staff of the Railway Police Force and the District Jail, Lucknow.

250. The presence of appellants Laxmi Narain Pandey and Pawan Kumar Pandey at the place of the occurrence on the date and time stated by the prosecution witnesses is found proved in view of the consistent, reliable and trustworthy testimony of eye witnesses namely PW-1 and PW-2. Rejecting the plea of alibi of appellants Laxmi Narain Pandey, Pawan Kumar Pandey and Shyam Narain Pandey, we find that the prosecution had proved the involvement of all the appellants in the occurrence beyond all reasonable doubt.

251. No other point has been pressed.

252. The judgement and order dated 07.08.2012 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.2 Azamgarh in Session Trial No.435 of 2006 arising out of Case Crime No.65 of 2006 under Section 147, 148 149, 302, 120-B, 504, 506 IPC and Section 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act, Police Station Atraulia, District Azamgarh is hereby affirmed.

253. The accused appellants Pawan K

254. The appellant Ramesh Kumar Pandey had died in April, 2021 and the appeal on his behalf has been abated vide order dated 02.02.2022.

255. The accused persons Shyam Narain Pandey, Laxmi Narain Pandey, Umesh Kumar Pandey are on bail. Their bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged. They shall surrender forthwith before the concerned court and be taken into custody and sent to jail to serve their sentence.

256. The appeals are, accordingly, dismissed.

257. Certify this judgement to the court below immediately for compliance.

258. The compliance report be submitted through the Registrar General, High Court, Allahabad.

1. This appeal is directed against the judgment and order dated 22.07.2004 passed by Additional Sessions Judge Fast Track Court Maharajganj in Session Trial No. 19 of 2002, State Vs. Suresh Chandra, arising out of Crime No. 128 of 2002, under Sections 302 and 201 I.P.C., Police Station Farenda, District Maharajganj, convicting the appellant and sentencing him to undergo imprisonment for life under Section 302 IPC, undergo three years rigorous imprisonment under Section 201 IPC and to pay fine of Rs. 2000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo six months imprisonment. All the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

INTRODUCTORY FACTS

2. The prosecution case, in brief, is that a written report dated 03.02.2002 was given by Ram Kishore, S/o Shiv Harsh resident of Gram Ranipur Chauraha, P.S. Purandarpur District Maharajganj with the averment that his nephew Suresh Chandra, S/o Mewa Lal, who was slightly deranged for about a week, went missing since night of 01.03.2002, without telling anyone. On the next day, he came at around 12:00 o'clock in the noon and took his younger son Amarnath and went out of the house quietly. The first informant along with other family members searched Amarnath in the village and nearby places but his whereabouts could not be known. When the first informant was searching Amarnath in the morning at about 8.00 a.m. on 03.02.2002, the other family members enquired from the appellant about his son Amarnath, whereupon he started doing maarpeet with them. When the villagers took the appellant to one side and asked about the child, the appellant told that he had murdered his own son. On being further enquired, the appellant told that he had thrown the dead body of the child in the gutter of the railway line near Bargadwan village. When the first informant along with other villagers went there, the dead body of son of Suresh Chandra namely Amarnath was found lying in the water. Leaving the dead body on the spot, the first informant went to lodge the report.

3. On the basis of the aforesaid written report, a first information report was registered on the same day, i.e., 03.02.2002 being Crime No.128 of 2002 for the offence under Section 302 and 201 IPC at the Police Station Farenda District Maharajganj. The investigation of the case was entrusted to S.I. Ganesh Prasad Shukla. On 03.02.2002, brief details of offence was made in the G.D. (Ext. Ka.4). On 03.02.2002 itself, a special report was forwarded from P.S. Farenda, carbon copy of which is Ext. Ka.5. The Investigating Officer went to the spot and prepared Panchnama of the dead body which is Ext. Ka.6. The dead body of deceased Amarnath was found on the banks of railway gutter. Thereafter, inquest of the body was conducted in the presence of witnesses and for finding out the exact reason of death, Photo Nash (Ext. Ka.7), Police Paper No.13 (Ext. Ka.8), letter to Inspector Gorakhpur (Ext. Ka.9), letter sent to CMS Gorakhpur (Ext. Ka.10) were prepared and the body was sent for post mortem examination after giving custody to Constable Surendra Nath Maurya and Constable Pawan Kumar Singh. The Investigating Officer inspected the spot on 03.02.2002 and prepared site plan (Ext.Ka.11). The return of SHO was disclosed in the Rapat and accordingly, Rojnamcha was prepared, which is Ext. Ka.12.

4. The written report of the first informant was mentioned in Parcha No.1 of case diary on 03.02.2002. The written report of informant, Nakal Rapat, Nakal Panchnama and the statement of inquest witnesses namely, Uma Shankar Chaurasia, Jai Prakash Sharma, Sri Vindeshwari, Sri Bechan and Sri Ram Kishore. Thereafter statement of neighbours namely Krishna Dev Mishra, Sri Ori Lal, Rajman Yadav and Sri Nibu Lal and the statements of Shopkeeper Ram Kewal and villager Shakir under Section 161 CrPC were mentioned in Parcha No.2 of case diary on 04.02.2002. The statements of other witnesses were mentioned in Parcha Nos. 3 to 6 of the case diary.

5. After recording statements of witnesses and collection of evidence, charge-sheet no.35 of 2002 for offence under Section 302 and 201 IPC was submitted against accused Suresh Chandra and the case was remitted to the Court of Sessions for trial.

6. During the course of investigation, post mortem was conducted on 04.02.2002 by Dr. R.A.N Rai at District Hospital, Gorakhpur. According to the post mortem report, contused traumatic swelling of size 6.0 cm x 4.0 cm on back of head on entering haematoma was present underneath. There was haematoma on membrane and brain all over. In the opinion of doctor, the cause of death was coma as a result of ante mortem injury. The proximate time of death was about two days back and was caused due to some hard blunt object.

7. The Chief Judicial Magistrate, Maharajganj vide order dated 07.05.2002 remitted the case to the Court of Sessions for trial. Thereafter, the Sessions Judge, Maharajganj vide order dated 11.07.2002 transferred the case to the court of Additional Sessions Judge, Maharajganj. The trial Court framed charges against accused Suresh Chandra for the offence under Section 302 and 201 IPC. The accused pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried. Thereafter, the case was transferred to the court of Additional Sessions Judge (Fast Track), Maharajganj by Sessions Judge, Maharajganj vide order dated 01.07.2003 for disposal.

PROSECUTION EVIDENCE

8. To bring home the guilt of the accused appellant, the prosecution examined as many as twelve witnesses, viz.- informant Ram Kishore(P.W.1), Dharmraj (P.W.2), Uma Shankar Chaurasia (P.W.3), Bindeshwari Pandey (P.W.4), Krishnadev (P.W.5), Rajman Yadav (P.W.6), Dr. R. N. Rai (P.W.7), Sub Inspector Ganesh Prasad Shukla (P.W.8), Smt. Gyanwati Devi (P.W.9), Bechu Prasad Chaurasia (P.W.10), Indrawati (P.W.11), Vijaylaxmi (P.W.12).

9. After completion of the prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused appellant was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. He was confronted with the incriminating evidence adduced against him during the course of trial, which he denied and pleaded innocence and stated that he was falsely implicated. In defence the accused appellant produced his wife as a witness, Smt. Meena Jaiswal (D.W.1).

TRIAL COURT FINDINGS

10. The trial court after examining the evidence available on record believed the evidence of prosecution witnesses trustworthy and reliable, hence, by means of the impugned judgment and order convicted and sentenced the accused appellant for the offence as stated hereinabove.

11. Hence, this appeal at the behest of the convicted appellant.

12. Heard Sri S. K. Tiwari, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Patanjali Mishra, learned AGA for the State-respondent and scanned the entire record and considered the arguments advanced.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF APPELLANT

13. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the accused-appellant has been convicted and sentenced under Sections 302 and 201 I.P.C. without there being any concrete evidence against him. The judgment of the trial court is based on surmises and conjectures. It is a case of circumstantial evidence and without there being a chain of circumstances, the appellant has been convicted.

14. To substantiate the aforesaid submission, it has been argued by the learned counsel for the appellant that the informant Ram Kishore (P.W.1) had lodged the first information report against the appellant merely narrating a false story. No one had seen the alleged incident and there is no eye witness account of the alleged incident. There are discrepancies in the testimonies of the witnesses.

15. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that in the postmortem of the deceased a contused swelling of size 6.0 c.m. x 4.0 c.m. on the back side of head was found and on entering haematoma was present underneath and there was haematoma on membrane and brain all over. In the opinion of doctor cause of death of the deceased was due to coma. The death was about two days back and was caused by some hard and blunt object.

16. Learned counsel for the appellant further argued that the case rests on circumstantial evidence but none of the circumstances from which inference of guilt against the accused appellant can be drawn could be established by the prosecution. The mental condition of the appellant was not sound, he was a person of unsound mind at the time of the alleged incident and was suffering from mental disorder and was in fact insane within the meaning of Section 84 I.P.C.

17. Learned counsel for the appellant has also argued that motive to commit murder of deceased Amarnath was not proved by the prosecution but even then, the trial court has convicted the accused appellant by misappreciation of the evidence adduced by the prosecution.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF STATE RESPONDENT

18. Learned counsel appearing for State-respondent, on the other hand, submitted that though the case rests on circumstantial evidence, but the chain of circumstances was established on the basis of cogent evidence available on record which clearly indicate involvement of the accused-appellant in the commission of the crime in question.

19. It is pointed out that the accused-appellant committed murder of Amarnath (deceased) who was his own son and threw his body. The dead body of the deceased Amarnath was discovered at the pointing out of the accused appellant. All these circumstances established the guilt of the accused appellant in committing the murder of the deceased.

20. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the material brought on record. It is manifestly clear that the trial Court has convicted the accused appellant merely on the basis of testimonies of the witnesses.

21. To examine the guilt of the accused appellant, we must appreciate the evidence adduced by the prosecution. The present case being a case of circumstantial evidence, it is a well settled law that where there is no direct evidence against the accused and the prosecution rests its case on circumstantial evidence; the inference of guilt can be justified only when all the incriminating facts and circumstances are found to be incompatible with the innocence of the accused. In other words, there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and it must be such as to show that within all human probability, the act must have been done by the accused. All the links in the chain of circumstances must be complete and should be proved by cogent evidence.

22. In the case of Padala Veera Reddy v. State of A.P. : AIR 1990 SC 79, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court laid down the guiding principle with regard to appreciation of circumstantial evidence:-

"(1) the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn, must be cogently and firmly established;

(2) those circumstances should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing towards guilt of the accused;

(3) the circumstances, taken cumulatively, should form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability the crime was committed by the accused and none else; and

(4) the circumstantial evidence in order to sustain conviction must be complete and incapable of explanation of any other hypothesis than that of guilt of the accused and such evidence should not only be consistent with the guilt of the accused but should be inconsistent with his innocence."

23. In the case of State of U.P. v. Ashok Kumar Srivastava : [1992] 1 SCR 37, the Apex Court pointed out that great care must be taken in evaluating circumstantial evidence and if the evidence relied on is reasonably capable of two inferences, the one in favour of the accused must be accepted. It was also pointed out that the circumstances relied upon must be found to have been fully established and the cumulative effect of all the facts so established must be consistent only with the hypothesis of guilt.

24. In the case of Sanatan Naskar and Anr. v. State of West Bengal reported in (2010) 8 SCC 249, the Hon'ble Supreme Court propounded as under:-

"13. There cannot be any dispute to the fact that it is a case of circumstantial evidence as there was no eye witness to the occurrence. It is a settled principle of law that an accused can be punished if he is found guilty even in cases of circumstantial evidence provided, the prosecution is able to prove beyond reasonable doubt complete chain of events and circumstances which definitely points towards the involvement and guilt of the suspect or accused, as the case may be. The accused will not be entitled to acquittal merely because there is no eye witness in the case. It is also equally true that an accused can be convicted on the basis of circumstantial evidence subject to satisfaction of accepted principles in that regard. "

25. In regard to appreciation of circumstantial evidence, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharshtra : 1984 Cri. L.J. 178 was pleased to observe in paras-150 to 158, which are quoted below:-

"150. It is well settled that the prosecution must stand or fall on its own legs and it cannot derive any strength from the weakness of the defence. This is trite law and no decision has taken a contrary view. What some cases have held is only this: where various links in a chain are in themselves complete than a false plea or a false defence may be called into aid only to lend assurance to the Court. In other words, before using the additional link it must be proved that all the links in the chain are complete and do not suffer from any infirmity. It is not the law that where is any infirmity or lacuna in the prosecution case, the same could be cured or supplied by a false defence or a plea which is not accepted by a Court.

151. Before discussing the cases relied upon by the High Court we would like to cite a few decisions on the nature, character and essential proof required in a criminal case which rests on circumstantial evidence alone. The fundamental and basic decision of the Apex Court is Hanumant v. The State of Madhya Pradesh.(1) This case has been uniformly followed and applied by this Court in a large number of later decisions uptodate, for instance, the cases of Tufail (Alias) Simmi v. State of Uttar Pradesh(2) and Ramgopal v. State of Maharashtra(3). It may be useful to extract what Mahajan, J. has laid down in Hanumant's case (supra):

"It is well to remember that in cases where the evidence is of a circumstantial nature, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should in the first instance be fully established and all the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused. Again, the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency and they should be such as to exclude every hypothesis but the one proposed to be proved. In other words, there must be a chain of evidence so far complete as not to leave any reasonable ground far a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and it must be such as to show that within all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

152. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned 'must or should' and not 'may be' established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between 'may be proved' and 'must be or should be proved' as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade & Anr. v. State of Maharashtra where the following observations were made:

"Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between 'may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions."

(2) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say. they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency.

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

153. These five golden principles, if we may say so, constitute the panchsheel of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence.

154. It may be interesting to note that as regards the mode of proof in a criminal case depending on circumstantial evidence, in the absence of a corpus deliciti, the statement of law as to proof of the same was laid down by Gresson, J. (and concurred by 3 more Judges) in The King v. Horry,(l) thus:

"Before he can be convicted, the fact of death should be proved by such circumstances as render the commission of the crime morally certain and leave no ground for reasonable doubt: the circumstantial evidence should be so cogent and compelling as to convince a jury that up on no rational hypothesis other than murder can the facts be accounted for."

155. Lord Goddard slightly modified the expression, morally certain by 'such circumstances as render the commission of the crime certain'.

156. his indicates the cardinal principle' of criminal jurisprudence that a case can be said to be proved only when there is certain and explicit evidence and no person can be convicted on pure moral conviction. Horry's case (supra) was approved by this Court in Anant Chintaman Lagu v. The State of Bombay(2) Lagu's case as also the principles enunciated by this Court in Hanumant's case (supra) have been uniformly and consistently followed in all later decisions of this Court without any single exception. To quote a few cases Tufail's case (supra), Ramgopals case (supra), Chandrakant Nyalchand Seth v. The State of Bombay (Criminal Appeal No. 120 of 1957 decided on 19.2.58), Dharmbir Singh v. The State of Punjab (Criminal Appeal No. 98 of 1958 decided on 4.11.1958). There are a number of other cases where although Hanumant's case has not been expressly noticed but the same principles have been expounded and reiterated, as in Naseem Ahmed v. Delhi Administration(l). Mohan Lal Pangasa v. State of U.P.,(2) Shankarlal Gyarasilal Dixit v. State of Maharashtra(3) and M.C. Agarwal v. State of Maharashtra(4)-a five-Judge Bench decision.

157. It may be necessary here to notice a very forceful argument submitted by the Additional Solicitor-General relying on a decision of this Court in Deonandan Mishra v. The State of Bihar(5), to supplement this argument that if the defence case is false it would constitute an additional link so as to fortify the prosecution case. With due respect to the learned Additional Solicitor General we are unable to agree with the interpretation given by him of the aforesaid case, the relevant portion of which may be extracted thus:

158. It will be seen that this Court while taking into account the absence of explanation or a false explanation did hold that it will amount to be an additional link to complete the chain but these observations must be read in the light of what this Court said earlier, viz., before a false explanation can be used as additional link, the following essential conditions must be satisfied:

(1) various links in the chain of evidence led by the prosecution have been satisfactorily proved.

(2) the said circumstance point to the guilt of the accused with reasonable definiteness, and

(3) the circumstance is in proximity to the time and situation."

26. In regard to motive, in the case of Sampath Kumar v. Inspector of Police Krishnagiri : 2010 Cri. L.J. 3889 (SC), the Apex Court was pleased to observe in para 15 which is quoted below :-

"15. .....One could even say that the presence of motive in the facts and circumstances of the case creates a strong suspicion against the appellant but suspicion, howsoever strong, also cannot be a substitute for proof of the guilt of the accused beyond a reasonable doubt."

27. In the case of Bhagwan Jagannath Markad v. State Of Maharashtra : (2016) 10 SCC 537 the Hon'ble Apex Court summarized the principles for the appreciation of the credibility of witness where there are discrepancies or infirmaries in the statement:

"19. While appreciating the evidence of a witness, the Court has to assess whether read as a whole it is truthful. in doing so the court has to keep in mind the deficiencies, drawback and infirmaries to find out whether such discrepancies shake the truthfulness. ...Only when discrepancies are so incompatible as to effect the credibility of the version of witness , the Court may reject the evidence. ...The Cout has to sift the chaff from the grain and find out the truth. A statement may be partly rejected accepted."

28. In the case of Ratan Lal vs. State of Madhya Pradesh : 1970 LawSuit (SC) 495, the Hon'ble Apex Court was pleased to observe in paragraphs-14 and 15 as under:

14. We are inclined to agree with the conclusion arrived at by the learned Magistrate. We hold that the appellant has discharged the burden. There is no reason why the evidence of Shyam Lal, D.W.1, and Than Singh, D.W.2, should not be believed. It is true that they are relations of the appellant, but it is the relations who are likely to remain in intimate contact. The behaviour of the appellant on the day of occurrence, failure of the police to lead evidence as to his condition when the appellant was in custody, and the medical evidence indicate that the appellant was insane within the meaning of Section 84, I.P.C.

15. We accordingly allow the appeal and acquit the appellant of the offence under Section 435, I.P.C., because at the time of the incident he was a person of unsound mind within the meaning of Section 84 of the Indian Penal Code. His bail bond shall stand cancelled.

Appeal allowed.

29. For the sake of convenience, in the present case the testimonies which have been relied upon by the trial court are being referred hereinafter, which would go to show that there are material contradictions in their statements, which cannot be thrown away lightly.

30. PW-1 Ram Kishore who is the informant of the case and the grand-father of deceased Amarnath, stated that the incident occurred 1-1/2 years back. He further stated that the incident occurred near the bridge of railway line at the distance of one kilometre towards the south of Purandarpur. He also stated that prior to one week of the incident his nephew Suresh had gone mad and he went somewhere one day before the incident and on the next day he came at 12 o'clock and took his son Amarnath whose age was 8 years and went out of the house. The accused appellant took his son Amarnath from the school itself. Thereafter he came to know only after the children of the school had told him that the accused-appellant Suresh had taken away Amarnath. The first informant along with other family members searched Amarnath in the village and nearby places but his whereabouts could not be known. On the next day at about 7.00 a.m. The accused-appellant himself came to the house and started behaving with the family members like a mad. After some time when the family members and other villagers enquired from the appellant about his son, Amarnath, he started maarpeet with them and abused them. When the villagers cajoled and asked about his son, he told that he had murdered his son and thrown his dead body down the gutter of railway line. This witness in his cross-examination stated that Suresh had gone mad one week prior to the incident and during his madness he tried to kill them also. He further stated that the appellant was not having the ability to understand the consequences of the act done by him. He was also not having the ability to differentiate between legal and illegal acts and stated that P.W.1 was not present on the spot at the time of the alleged incident.

31. PW-2, Dharmraj, who is the uncle of accused Suresh Chandra and younger brother of PW-1, has reiterated almost the same statement which was made by PW-1 Ram Kishore. He stated that on 2nd February, 2002 the son of Suresh Chandra, namely Amarnath fallen sick due to fever. Suresh Chandra took his son saying that he was going for his treatment. Thereafter, the whereabouts of Amarnath could not be known to anyone. On suspicion of some untoward incident, the family members started searching him. On the day of the incident deceased Amarnath had gone to the school in the state of fever itself and after school was over, the accused-appellant took his son from the school. Thereafter, on the next day, in the morning at about 7:00-8:00 o'clock, the accused-appellant came home and on being enquired about his son Amarnath, he told that he had murdered his son and thrown his dead body down the gutter of the railway line. In the cross-examination, PW-2 stated that when the accused-appellant was in the state of madness, during that period he used to assault his family members or neighbours with bricks and danda. During the period of fits of insanity, on many occasions, the accused-appellant had been tied with string. Once before the incident, the accused-appellant had assaulted a person with bricks, due to which he sustained injuries in his head. P.W.2 stated that the Investigating Officer had not recorded his statement regarding this incident. When the statement under Section 161 CrPC of this witness was read over to him, he stated that he did not give the statement and he could not tell as to how it was recorded.

32. PW-3, Uma Shankar Chaurasia stated that on 03.02.2002 when he was informed that the dead body of a boy was lying in a ditch near the gutter of the railway line in village Bargadwan Ram Sahai, he went at the spot and came to know that the body was sent to the police station, where the Investigating Officer took his signature on a blank paper. He stated that the inquest was not conducted before him. In the cross-examination, this witness stated that his signature was taken on a blank paper at the police station. When his signature on the inquest was shown to him he admitted that when the Investigating Officer took his signature, the paper was blank and stated that his signature was taken at the police station.

33. PW-4 Vindeshwari Pandey stated that he did not know Suresh of Raniyapur and inquest of deceased Amarnath, son of Suresh, was not conducted before him. He admitted that at the back side of the paper No. 8Ka/2 which is inquest his signature were there, which he did recognize, but stated that when his signature was taken at the last page of the inquest, it was blank and nothing was written on it. This witness stated that the Investigating Officer took his signature, naked dead body was lying in the jeep, but he did not enquire about the dead body from the Investigating Officer. He further stated that he met the Investigating Officer at the side of the railway line of the village and at that time it was 12:00-1:00 o'clock in the day.

34. PW-5 Krishna Dev Mishra stated that accused Suresh is the resident of Ranipur Chauraha and his father was Mewa Lal, who was working in BSF Military. Suresh is the only son of Mewa Lal. Accused Suresh was not doing any job and used to roam around the whole day. He stated that Dr. V.P. Chaurasia resides in Ranipur Chauraha itself; Suresh went to the doctor with his son for his treatment, but he did not remember the date and did not know as to where Suresh had gone along with his son after treatment. On the next day, when he met Suresh, but he did not meet Amarnath. On being asked about the deceased Amarnath from accused Suresh, he told that the deceased Amarnath went there from where he came. The dead body of Amarnath was found lying near the bridge of the railway line but he did not go to see it. In the cross-examination, this witness stated that accused Suresh had gone mad about 10-12 months prior to the incident, his mental condition was not sound. The accused-appellant used to assault people randomly. In a day itself, sometimes he remained in sound mental condition and sometimes in unsound state and when he was in sound state, he used to speak properly. P.W.5 further stated that the accused-appellant had committed the murder when he was in unsound state of mind and was not having the ability to make out difference between legal and illegal acts.

35. PW-6, Rajman Yadav, stated that his shop of scrape was at the distance of 20-25 paces from the house of Suresh. Deceased Amarnath was the son of Suresh. The dead body was found lying near the gutter of the Bargadwa railway line. The age of the deceased Amarnath might be 7-8 years. The son was killed by his father accused Suresh who thrown the dead body in the water. He did not know as to why the accused killed his son, but the accused-appellant was of unsound mind. On the day, before to the day, when the dead body of child Amarnath was found, the accused Suresh took the deceased to Dr. Chaurasia at Ranipur Chauraha and thereafter, the child Amarnath did not return to his home. In the cross-examination, this witness stated that when Suresh was in sound mental condition, he used to treat his wife, children and neighbours properly but when he was in unsound state of mind, he some times used to beat people randomly. When accused Suresh had taken deceased Amarnath to the clinic of Dr. Chaurasia, the doctor had given him a dose of medicine.

36. PW-7, Dr. R.A.N. Rai stated that, on 04.02.2002, he was posted as Assistant at the District Hospital, Gorakhpur. On 04.02.2002, he conducted the post mortem of the body of Master Amarnath whose age was 7 years. The injuries found the dead body were contused traumatic swelling 6.0 cm x 4.0 cm on back of head on internal examination haematoma was found present underneath. There was haematoma on membrane and brain all over. The doctor stated that, in his opinion, the cause of death was due to coma as a result of ante-mortem injuries. The proximate time of death was about two days prior to the postmortem and the injury was caused by some hard blunt object. The post mortem examination report was prepared by him, which was exhibited as Ext.Ka.2.

37. PW-8 Ganesh Prasad Shukla, who was the S.I. Kotwali Chowki Incharge Collectrate Maharajganj, stated that he was the prior investigating officer of the case and, thereafter, on 06.02.2002, the investigation was entrusted to S.H.O. Sri Arun Kumar Singh, but due to injury in his finger the reports of the proceedings were written by him. In the cross-examination, this witness stated that according to law, the investigation of the case started only after registration of the first information report. It was clearly mentioned in the first information report that the accused was of unsound mind and during the course of the investigation he enquired about the mental condition of the accused from his family members and witnesses but no one told him about any unsound mental condition, that is why he did not get his medical done to ascertain the fact of unsoundness of the accused. P.W.8 further stated that the informant had given his statement during the course of the investigation that accused Suresh was of unsound mind. Except the informant, none of the other witnesses said about the accused being of unsound mind. He had recorded the statement of a neighbour Krishna Dev Mishra, who also stated one week prior to the incident, accused Suresh was not in the sound mental condition. On being confronted that once the mental condition of accused was disclosed by the witnesses, why did he not take steps to ascertain the mental condition of the accused, this witness offerred an explanation that the investigation was entrusted to him only for a period of three days w.e.f. 03.02.2002 to 05.02.2002 and, thereafter, the investigation was handed over to S.H.O. He stated that during three days of investigation he only made searches for accused Suresh Chandra, due to which the mental condition test of the accused or expert opinion could not be done/ obtained. This witness further stated that when the accused was arrested, the investigation was with the S.H.O. and that he was present at the time of the arrest.

38. PW-9, Smt. Gyanmati Devi, grandmother of the deceased, stated that she had only one son namely accused Suresh and two daughters Neelam and Poonam. Poonam was married but Neelam was unmarried. The deceased Amarnath was the son of accused Suresh and at the time of the incident, the accused-appellant was not in sound mental condition and he had cut his fingers also. Due to his madness, the accused was locked in a room inside the house. She came to know, thereafter, that someone had killed her grand-son and thrown his dead body. The people started asking from her as to why her son was locked in the room while her grand-son was killed. She further stated that Meena, her daughter-in-law was at home at that time and on the day of the incident, deceased Amarnath went somewhere on his own. She further stated that on the day of the incident deceased Amarnath was suffering from fever and Meena went to Dr. V.P. Chaurasia with Amarnath and after taking medicines, she returned back home while the child Amarnath went outside. On confrontation she stated that on 02.02.2002, accused Suresh did not got to Dr. V.P. Charuasia with his son Amarnath for his treatment and she never came to know that after taking medicines, Suresh had gone somewhere else. He suggestion in this regard had been given categorically denied by P.W.9. A further suggestion was given to P.W.9 that the accused-appellant Suresh had suspicion that the child was not his son as the child's face did not resemble with his face and killed him for that reason, was categorically denied by P.W.9. She also refused the suggestion that accused Suresh came back on 03.02.2022 in the morning and told that he killed his son Amarnath. The suggestion that she was making a false statement in order to save her son (accused Suresh) was also denied.

39. PW-10 Dr. Bechu Prasad Chaurasia stated that, on 02.02.2002 at about 12 o'clock in noon, when he was in his clinic, the wife of Suresh, whose name he did not recollect, came with her son Amarnath and after taking medicines for fever of her son, she along with her son went away. In the cross-examination, he stated that he knew Amarnath and Suresh because they were his neighbours. He came to know that some one had committed murder of Amarnath. He denied the suggestion that when Suresh came to his clinic for treatment of Amarnath, his mental condition was not sound. He further denied that he was making a false statement being neighbour.

40. PW-11, Indrawati stated that accused Suresh Chandra was her nephew, he had two sons and two daughters, and out of them one son Amarnath was killed by someone and his dead body was thrown down the gutter near the Bargadwan Ram Sahai. She stated that on the day of the incident due to fever, Suresh had taken Amarnath to show him to Dr. V. P. Chaurasia for taking medicines.

41. PW-12, Vijay Laxmi stated that deceased Amarnath was her brother and she did not know as to who had committed his murder. Her brother Amarnath was suffering from fever on the day of the incident and her mother went to Dr. V.P. Chaurasia for taking medicine and thereafter, she returned back home. Thereafter, her brother Amarnath had gone somewhere and could not be found. In the cross-examination, she denied the suggestion that on 03.02.2002 at about 8.00 a.m., in the morning, her father came to home. On being confronted with the portion of her statement recorded under Section 161 CrPC that she had stated therein that on 03.02.2002 at about 8.00 a.m., when her father came home alone, the family members started enquiring about her brother Amarnath, the appellant (her father) then told that he had killed him, this witness replied that she had not given such a statement and she did not know as to how it was written by the Investigating Officer. She further added that on the day when the dead body of deceased Amarnath was found, her father was already at home, but she could not remember as to from how many days before the incident, he was at home. She denied the suggestion that she was making a false statement in order to save her father.

42. After completion of the prosecution evidence, the statement of accused Suresh Chandra was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. on 22.6.2004. The accused produced a witness namely Smt. Meena Jaiswal, his wife as D.W.1, in defence, apart from the documents to prove his innocence. Smt. Meena Jaiswal (D.W.1), in her deposition, stated that the deceased Amarnath was her youngest son. One year prior to the murder of her son mental condition of his husband, i.e., the accused-appellant, was not sound, he used to behave like a person of unsound mind. When her son was murdered then also the mental condition of her husband was not good and was locked inside the house. Whenever his mental condition would be fine he would behave like a fit person and his behaviour was good with her and her son. D.W.1 further stated that one day before the incident she went with her son for taking his medicines, her husband did not go for medicine. When she went for medicine, mental condition of her husband was not good and he was locked inside the house. At about 7:00 p.m. her son went outside to play on his own, and, thereafter, his dead body was found. His husband was not well, therefore, no one asked him about her son and she did not ask her husband about her son even after 3-4 days of his death, the reason being that mental condition of her husband was not good. D.W.1 has denied the suggestion since her husband had suspicion because the face of the child did not resemble his face and that is why on the pretext of taking medicine of his son, her husband had taken away her son and committed his murder and thrown away his dead body. D.W.1 also denied she is making a wrong statement in order to save her husband.

43. Analysing the evidence on record, it my be noted that it is true that the F.I.R. of the incident was lodged as per the story narrated by P.W.1-Ram Kishore and P.W.2-Dharmaj, but they did not see the deceased going along with the accused-appellant before the murder of the deceased or the dead body was found. P.W.1-Ram Kishore and P.W.2-Dharmaj had completely denied in their testimonies that they had seen the deceased along with the accused appellant before the murder of the deceased, hence the very basis of lodging of the F.I.R. against the accused/ appellant becomes doubtful and creates suspicion on the prosecution story.

44. So far as the statements given by P.W.1, P.W.2, P.W.3 and P.W.4 are concerned, wherein they have clearly stated that the accused-appellant was a person of unsound mind and was insane at the time of the alleged incident, we may record that not only the Investigating Officer, but the trial court also overlooked this part of the testimony while convicting the accused-appellant. Had the accused Suresh suffering from any mental illness, it could not be ignored. The trial court was under obligation to verify the truth in the testimony of witnesses that the accused-appellant was of unsound mind and was insance.

45. The deposition of D.W.1-Smt. Meena Jaiswal also could not be ignored when she had categorically stated that her husband, the accused-appellant, was of unsound mind at the time of the alleged incident and was locked inside the house when his son had gone missing and died. This testimony of D.W.1 was conveniently overlooked by the trial court while convicting the accused-appellant. It has completely ignored this fact that D.W.1, who is the wife of the accused-appellant and the deceased was whose son, had clearly stated that her husband was suffering from mental illness and he was of unsound mind at the time of the alleged incident. The testimony of D.W.1 carries a weight because of the fact that cannot be ignored she is the real mother of the deceased and her denial about involvement of the accused was categorical.

46. We have further perused the report dated 29/30.03.2022 submitted by the Senior Superintendent, Central Jail, Varanasi, pursuant to the order dated 04.03.2022 passed by this Court. The said report contains two enclosures, one a diagnosis by the doctor of the Mental Hospital, Varanasi and the second, report of the Medical Superintendent, Central Jail, Varanasi, which indicate that appellant, Suresh Chandra, S/o Mewa Lal, aged about 60 years, is suffering from mental disorder and still needs treatment for the said disease.

47. The instant case purely rests on circumstantial evidence. In order to sustain conviction, a complete chain the circumstantial evidence must be formed which is incapable of explanation of any other hypothesis than that of the guilt of the accused. Such evidence should not only be consistent with the guilt of the accused but inconsistent with his innocence. No hard-and-fast rule can be laid to say that the particular circumstances are conclusive to establish guilt. It is basically a question of appreciation of evidence which exercise is to be done by the Court in the facts and circumstances of each case.

48. The evidence tendered in a court of law is either direct or circumstantial. Evidence is said to be direct if it consists an eyewitness account of the facts in issue in a criminal case. On the other hand, circumstantial evidence is evidence of relevant facts from which, one can, by process of intuitive reasoning, infer about the existence of facts in issue or factum probandum. In cases where evidence is of a circumstantial nature, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should, at the first instance, be fully established. Each fact sought to be relied upon must be proved individually. However, in applying this principle a distinction must be made between facts called primary or basic one on one hand and inference of facts to be drawn from them on the other hand. In regard to proof of primary facts, the Court has to judge the evidence and decide whether that evidence proves a particular fact and if that fact is proved, the question whether that facts lead to an inference of guilt of the accused person should be considered.

49. It would be significant to add that while dealing with circumstantial evidence there is always a danger that conjecture or suspicion lingering in the mind may take place of proof. Suspicion, however, strong cannot be allowed to take place of proof and, therefore, the Court has to be watchful and ensure that conjectures and suspicions do not take place of legal proof.

50. There must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistence with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused, where various links in chain are in themselves complete.

51. The present case, which undoubtedly, is a case of circumstantial evidence, is to be looked into in the backdrop of the aforesaid legal principles. In the circumstances before us, we find that the prosecution has completely failed to prove beyond reasonable doubt complete chain of event and circumstances which unerringly point towards the involvement and guilt of the appellant. The prosecution also failed to establish any motive to the accused appellant for committing murder of the deceased, who is the son of the appellant. It was the duty of the prosecution that the appellant was medically examined at the time of his arrest, in which they failed.

52. In the aforesaid facts and circumstances of the case and particularly that the suggestion of the prosecution witness of mental illness of the appellant is found substantiated from the recent medical report, called buy this Court, we are of the considered view that there are various lacunae in the case of the prosecution in establishing the chain of circumstantial evidence against the accused appellant. Further, there is no cogent or clinching evidence on record which proves the guilt of the accused-appellant beyond reasonable doubt. Henceforth, we hold that the prosecution has failed to produce evidence to complete the chain of circumstances and guilt of the appellant beyond all reasonable doubt, the benefit undoubtedly has to go to the accused-appellant Suresh. The impugned judgment of conviction is, thus, found unsustainable and is liable to be set aside. The appellant is entitled to acquittal by giving him benefit of doubt.

53. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. The impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 22.07.2004 passed by Additional Sessions Judge Fast Track Court Maharajganj in Session Trial No. 19 of 2002, State Vs. Suresh Chandra, arising out of Crime No. 128 of 2002, under Sections 302 and 201 I.P.C., Police Station Farenda, District Maharajganj, is hereby set aside.

54. The appellant, Suresh Chandra, is acquitted of the charges under Sections 302 and 201 IPC. The appellant shall be released from the jail forthwith, unless wanted in any other case, subject to compliance of the provisions of Section 437-A Cr.P.C. to the satisfaction of the trial court.

55. The office is directed to send back the lower court record along with a certified copy of this judgment for information and necessary action.

56. The compliance report be submitted to this Court through the Registrary General, High Court, Allahabad.

Challenge to-Conviction-dead body of the deceased was found in the house of appellant-murder was a case of honor killing-Neither the plea of love affair between PW-5 and deceased is proved nor the story that she was brought by PW-5 to the village is supported with any evidence-Even the story that the appellant assaulted PW-5 physically is not proved-For a charge of murder to be proved on the basis of circumstantial evidence, the evidence must be conclusive-The prosecution has miserably failed to establish the charge framed against the appellants of murdering their only daughter-Many facts are left unexplained-none of the ingredients of proving the charge by way of circumstantial evidence existed.(Para 1 to 36)

The appeals are allowed. (E-6)

List of Cases cited:

1. Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs St. of Mah. (1984) 4 SCC 116

2. Hanumant Vs M.P. (1952) AIR SC 343,

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashwani Kumar Mishra, J.)

1. Appellants in these two appeals are the parents of deceased, who have been convicted for murdering their only daughter Rehana, under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC vide judgment and order dated 12.8.2013, passed by the Additional District and Sessions Judge, Court No.6, Moradabad, in Sessions Trial No.439 of 2011 (State Vs. Mustqeem & Khursheeda) arising out of Case Crime No.538 of 2010, Police Station Asmauli, District Moradabad and sentenced to imprisonment for life alongwith fine of Rs.15,000/- each and to undergo three months' additional imprisonment on failure to deposit the fine.

2. Sharafat (PW-1) the Village Chowkidar of Village Mawai Thakuran informed the Station House Officer of Police Station Asmauli on 24.11.2010, by means of a written report (Exhibit Ka-1), that Rehana, aged about 15 years (hereinafter referred to as "deceased'), daughter of Mustqeem son of Hameed Teli (hereinafter referred to as "appellant no.1') has died due to unknown reasons in the night of 23/24 November, 2010 and her dead body is lying in her house. Aforementioned report further states that he (PW-1) heard in the village that deceased had gone to her relatives place in Village Shahpur Sirpuda from where she returned alongwith a resident of the village namely Bhoora (PW-5), son of Mewaram Prajapati (PW-2), and was at her home and that matter is suspicious. Accordingly, necessary action be taken. The written information was entered in GD of concerned police station and is recorded as GD entry No.5 at 5.30 a.m. The scribe of the written report is Pooran Singh, the Village Pradhan (DW-2). On the basis of aforementioned information the inquest of the deceased was conducted.

3. Sub-Inspector Laxmi Shankar on receiving the aforesaid information reached the spot and found relatives of deceased alongwith other villagers to be present at the house of appellants. He thereafter proceeded to get the inquest (panchayatnama) of the deceased conducted. At the time of inquest certain injuries were found on the body of the deceased. However, no opinion could be given by panch witnesses regarding the nature of death i.e. whether the same is homicidal or suicidal. The concerned Sub-Inspector thereafter prepared the inquest report (Exhibit Ka-6) at 6.30 a.m. on 24.11.2010 at Village Mawai Thakuran itself. Having completed the aforesaid formality Sub-Inspector prepared the detailed report and dispatched the dead body for postmortem.

4. The postmortem report is Exhibit Ka-2. According to the autopsy surgeon the cause of death of deceased is asphyxia due to throttling. Age of deceased as per medical opinion was found to be 15 years. The autopsy surgeon found following four ante-mortem injuries on the body of the deceased:-

"(1) Multiple abraded contusion (3cm x 2cm Rt. side and 4 cm x 3cm Lt. side) just below the angle of mandible on both side of neck.

(2) Multiple abraded contusion (3cm x 2cm) in the front of neck 6 cm above the sternal notch.

(3) Abraded contusion 1cm x ½cm on the dorsum of Lt. wrist joint.

(4) Abraded contusion 4cm x 1cm on the mid of front of Rt. leg."

5. Investigation was concluded and ultimately chargesheet No.37 of 2011 was submitted. Appellants (parents of the deceased) were arrested on the charge of murdering their daughter. After submission of chargesheet cognizance was taken by the court concerned. The case was committed to the court of sessions as offence was triable by the court of sessions. The then Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.6, Moradabad charged the appellants with murder of their daughter, as a result of honour killing, under Section 302/34 IPC, vide order dated 5.5.2011. The appellants denied the charge and demanded trial.

6. Prosecution in order to bring home the charge so framed adduced documentary evidence i.e. written report (Exhibit Ka-1), postmortem report (Exhibit Ka-2), panchayatnama (Exhibit Ka-6), chargesheet (Exhibit Ka-5). The prosecution has also adduced Sharafat (PW-1), Mewaram (PW-2), Dr. Ramvir Singh (PW-3), Harendra Singh (PW-4) and Bhoora as PW-5. Sub-Inspector Dayachand Sharma appeared as PW-6, while previous Investigating Officer Ravi Kumar was produced as PW-7. The accused appellants were then examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. Raeesuddin and Pooran Singh have also been adduced as defence witnesses on behalf of accused, whereafter the trial was concluded. The Sessions Court has found the accused appellants guilty of committing offence under Section 302/34 IPC vide judgment dated 12.9.2013, whereafter the present appeals have been filed.

7. Records reveal that prosecution case is not based on any eye witnesses account but the charge of murder against the appellants is attempted to be proved on the basis of circumstantial evidence.

8. Before adverting to the evidence adduced by the prosecution to establish the guilt of appellants beyond reasonable doubt, we would like to be reminded of the words of wisdom expressed by the Supreme Court in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116, which has consistently been followed since then. The Court reiterated its earlier decision in Hanumant Vs. Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1952 SC 343, which held that for proving a case based purely on circumstantial evidence the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency and they should be such as to exclude every hypothesis but the one proposed to be proved. It must be such as to show that within all human probability the act must have been done by the accused. In paragraphs 152 to 154, the Supreme Court in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda (supra) observed as under:-

"152. Before discussing the cases relied upon by the High Court we would like to cite a few decisions on the nature, character and essential proof required in a criminal case which rests on circumstantial evidence alone. The most fundamental and basic decision of this Court is Hanumant v. The State of Madhya Pradesh.(1) This case has been uniformly followed and applied by this Court in a large number of later decisions uptodate, for instance, the cases of Tufail (Alias) Simmi v. State of Uttar Pradesh(2) and Ramgopal v. Stat of Maharashtra(3). It may be useful to extract what Mahajan, J. has laid down in Hanumant's case (supra):

"It is well to remember that in cases where the evidence is of a circumstantial nature, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should in the first instance be fully established and all the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused. Again, the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency and they should be such as to exclude every hypothesis but the one proposed to be proved. In other words, there must be a chain of evidence so far complete as not to leave any reasonable ground far a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and it must be such as to show that within all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned 'must or should' and not 'may be' established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between 'may be proved' and 'must be or should be proved' as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade & Anr. v. State of Maharashtra where the following observations were made:

"Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between 'may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions."

(2) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say. they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency.

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

154. These five golden principles, if we may say so, constitute the panchsheel of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence."

9. It is in the light of above principles that this Court has to examine the question as to whether the prosecution has discharged its burden of proving the guilt of accused appellants of committing offence under Section 302/34 IPC beyond reasonable doubt.

10. Apart from the documentary evidence, referred to above, the prosecution has adduced seven witnesses i.e. PW-1 Sharafat Ali (Chowkidar), who first saw the dead body; PW-2 Mewaram, the father of Bhoora with whom the deceased is said to have returned in the evening/night to her village; PW-3 Dr. Ramvir Singh, who had conducted the postmortem of the deceased; PW-4 Constable Harendra Singh, who was working as Clerk in Police Station Asmauli and has verified GD Entries containing the information with regard to suspicious death of Rehana; PW-5 Bhoora, who is said to have taken the deceased to the village and was later reportedly beaten by the father of the deceased Mustqeem alongwith his associates; PW-6 Dayachand Sharma, who had partly conducted the investigation after transfer of the previous Investigating Officer. PW-7 Ravi Kumar, who was the Station House Officer on the date when the intimation of the incident was received at the police station concerned. PW-1 Sharafat Ali; PW-2 Mewaram and PW-5 Bhoora, who are the witnesses of fact have turned hostile.

11. PW-1 Sharafat has admitted that on 24.11.2010 a Tehrir (written report) was written on his instructions by Pooran Singh, the Village Pradhan. He, however, has denied any knowledge of the person with whom the deceased returned to her village. He claims to have gone to the house of deceased at about 3.00-4.00 a.m. and has proved the written report, which contains his thumb impression. He has however denied having informed the Investigating Officer about return of deceased alongwith Bhoora or staying of deceased and Bhoora in the village school or the factum of appellants having brought the deceased to her house. He has also denied having informed the Investigating Officer about the appellants having murdered the deceased. This witness was subsequently declared hostile.

12. PW-2 Mewaram has also denied any knowledge about the death of deceased or the appellants having killed her. He has, however, admitted that appellant no.1 Mustqeem had come to his house. This witness was also declared hostile. PW-2 has been cross-examined by the Government Counsel and has deposed that he had heard in the village that the appellants had murdered their daughter. He has denied having seen the appellants committing the murder. He has specifically stated that his son Bhoora was taken by appellant no.1 and his relatives to Village Shahpur Sirpuda and that the appellant no.1 alongwith his relatives came to his house in the night and took Bhoora, who was also beaten. The act of taking Bhoora from his house is alleged to be between 12.00-1.00 a.m. in the night by appellant no.1 and four others, whereafter this fact was informed to the police, whereafter the police reached the house of appellant no.1 and her dead body was found. He has denied any affair of deceased with his son but has stated that his son was taken by the appellant no.1 alongwith others.

13. PW-3 Dr. Ramvir Singh is the autopsy surgeon, who has proved the postmortem report. PW-4 Constable Harendra Singh was clerk in the police station and has entered the written report in the General Diary. PW-5 Bhoora has also not supported the prosecution story and was declared hostile. He has, however, denied the suggestion that on account of his affair with deceased she was done to death by appellants. In his cross-examination he has complained of him being beaten by appellant no.1 and four others. He has also testified that he was taken on a bike but was saved by the villagers and relatives of the appellants. The statement about his having been beaten is not substantiated by producing any injury report etc. nor any complaint in that regard is shown to have been lodged. PW-6 Sub-Inspector Dayachand Sharma was the Investigating Officer of the case.

14. PW-7 Ravi Kumar is the Station House Officer, who states that information about the incident was received from PW-1 at about 5.30 a.m. on 24.11.2010 and he had instructed the Sub-Inspector to prepare the inquest etc.

15. The appellants have been examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and have stated that they have been falsely implicated.

16. The accused appellants have produced Raeesuddin as DW-1, who has alleged that the appellants stayed at his house on 23.11.2010 night and at about 5.00 in the morning on 24.11.2010 the information about murder of deceased was received, whereafter the appellants left his house. According to him the Baraat had returned on 23.11.2010 in the evening and that the deceased or her mother had not gone with the marriage party. He has denied the version that the deceased was seen going with PW-5 Bhoora. DW-2 is the scribe, who has proved the written report.

17. The trial court on the basis of aforesaid averments has come to the conclusion that the appellants have strangulated their daughter and her death is due to honour killing.

18. The prosecution case apparently is that the deceased had left village Shahpur Sirpuda alongwith Bhoora without any knowledge of the parents. Having returned from Barat (marriage procession of the relative), the appellants rushed to their Village Mawai Thakuran and while Bhoora was beaten for having brought appellants' daughter, the deceased was done to death as the appellants suspected of her having affair with Bhoora. Since Bhoora and Rehana belong to different religion, as such, the appellants took it as an act which would bring disrepute to the family and accordingly Rehana was done to death. The parents (appellants) suspected affair between deceased and Bhoora and that was the cause for the honour killing of their daughter.

19. There are only three witnesses of fact i.e. PW-1, PW-2 and PW-5 all of whom have turned hostile. None of the witnesses of fact have disclosed anywhere that the deceased was having an affair with Bhoora. Although in statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., PW-1 had asserted that the deceased returned to her Village alongwith Bhoora, but in his statement before the Court he has categorically stated that he has no knowledge as to with whom she returned to her village. He has denied the suggestion that any disclosure was made by him in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. regarding return of deceased with Bhoora.

20. PW-2 also has denied having any knowledge about the murder of deceased. He has merely stated that Mustqeem had come to his house and he had heard in the village that the appellants for the fear of bad name had killed the deceased. He has also asserted the fact that Bhoora was taken in the night and was beaten by Mustqeem and his relative. PW-2, however, has specifically denied any affair between deceased and his son Bhoora.

21. Bhoora (PW-5) has denied that he was called by deceased or that both of them came on a tempo to Asmauli or that the deceased had refused to go with her parents and stayed at the school of Rakesh in the village. He has also denied the appellants having made inquiries about the deceased from him and he was declared hostile. He has further denied the suggestion that the deceased was killed on account of love affair between him and the deceased.

22. None of the witnesses of fact have supported the premise of affair between deceased and Bhoora. Specific suggestions made in that regard to PW-2 and PW-5 have been denied. No other independent witness has been adduced by the prosecution to support the plea of love affair between deceased and Bhoora. Only statement supporting the prosecution version is the statement of PW-2 that he had heard in the village that the appellants had killed their daughter. This part of the statement is a hearsay statement and neither it has been disclosed as to from whom it was heard nor the persons alleged of having said so are produced as evidence.

23. The prosecution version that the deceased returned alongwith Bhoora has also not been proved by the prosecution. PW-1 has denied his disclosure allegedly made to the investigating officer of Bhoora having brought the deceased to the Village. He has clearly denied that he saw Bhoora and Rehana returning to village from Shahpur Sirpuda or the information that Rehana stayed in School of Rakesh in the village and that the appellants brought the deceased to their home from the School.

24. In light of the above, it is apparent that neither the plea of affair between deceased and Bhoora is proved by any evidence, nor the story that she was brought by Bhoora to the village is supported with any evidence.

25. Sri Rahul Saxena for the appellants submits that it is a case of no evidence and the judgment of conviction under challenge is without any basis or evidence and is entirely based on conjectures and surmises.

26. In a case of circumstantial evidence the circumstance, from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn, must be fully established. The primary circumstance relied upon by the prosecution of there being a love affair between deceased and Bhoora; Bhoora having brought deceased to the village and the deceased staying in school of Rakesh in the village is not proved, at all. This is the prime motive attributed to the appellants for honour killing of their daughter. In the absence of any cogent evidence brought on record to support the plea of affair or any improper act on part of the deceased which may bring bad name to the family, we are not impressed by the alleged motive of honour killing.

27. The only circumstance which has been established by the prosecution is the fact that appellant Mustqeem came in the night and took Bhoora and he was physically assaulted. This version of PW-2 and PW-5, however, is not supported by any medical evidence to suggest that Bhoora was physically assaulted, nor any police report etc. has been produced which may go to show that any complaint was made with regard to Bhoora having been forcibly taken by appellant and inflicting him injuries. This statement in itself is not strong enough to infer that the deceased had a love affair with Bhoora and her murder was a case of honour killing.

28. There is another aspect important enough to warrant deliberation at this stage. It remains undisputed that the dead body of the deceased was found in the house of appellant Mustqeem and, therefore, the onus was upon him to explain the circumstance in which the dead body was found at early hours in the day in his house.

29. Admittedly, Mustqeem is the owner of the house and by virtue of Section 106 of the Evidence Act, the appellant Mustqeem had the burden to prove the fact which is specially within his knowledge. However, we find that in the examination of the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C., he has not been confronted with the circumstance of dead body appearing in his house or the fact that he was expected to prove the fact specially within his knowledge. Failure of the prosecution to confront the accused on this aspect under Section 313 Cr.P.C. would have to necessarily exclude this aspect of the matter from consideration. Paragraphs 143 to 145 of the judgment of the Supreme Court in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda (supra) are relevant in this regard and are reproduced hereinafter:-

"143. Apart from the aforesaid comments there is one vital defect in some of the circumstances mentioned above and relied upon by the High Court, viz., circumstances Nos. 4,5,6,8,9,11,12,13,16, and 17. As these circumstances were not put to the appellant in his statement under 313 of the Criminal Procedure Code they must be completely excluded from consideration because the appellant did not have any chance to explain them. This has been consistently held by this Court as far back as 1953 where in the case of Fateh Singh Bhagat Singh v. State of Madhya Pradesh this Court held that any circumstance in respect of which an accused was not examined under 342 of the Criminal procedure code cannot be used against him ever since this decision. there is a catena of authorities of this Court uniformly taking the view that unless the circumstance appearing against an accused is put to him in his examination under s.342 of the or s.313 of the Criminal Procedure Code, the same cannot be used against him. In Shamu Balu Chaugule v. State of Maharashtra(2) this Court held thus:

"The fact that the appellant was said to be absconding not having been put to him under section 342, Criminal Procedure Code, could not be used against him."

144. To the same effect is another decision of this Court in Harijan Megha Jesha v. State of Gujarat (3) where the following observation were made:

"In the first place, he stated that on the personal search of the appellant, a chadi was found which was blood stained and according to the report of the serologist, it contained human blood. Unfortunately, however, as this circumstance was not put to the accused in his statement under section 342, the prosecution cannot be permitted to rely on this statement in order to convict the appellant.':

145. It is not necessary for us to multiply authorities on this point as this question now stands concluded by several decision of this Court. In this view of the matter, the circumstances which were not put to the appellant in his examination under s.313 of the Criminal Procedure Code have to be completely excluded from consideration."

30. Learned AGA has stressed that the statement of appellant supported by DW-1 that Mustqeem stayed with his relatives at Shahpur Sirpuda on the night of 23.11.2010 and came only next morning to his village is inconceivable and against natural conduct of a father of not making any attempt to trace his missing daughter. Though the argument in that regard appears to be weighty, and would render the defence version weak but merely for such reason the lacuna on part of prosecution in failing to establish the charge, based on circumstantial evidence, cannot be made good.

31. Law is settled that any weakness in the defence case would not obviate the prosecution from establishing the charge based on circumstantial evidence. For a charge of murder to be proved on the basis of circumstantial evidence, the evidence must be conclusive. Failure of prosecution to adduce evidence in that regard cannot be made good by the plea of falsity of defence case in that regard.

32. The five golden principles enumerated in paragraph 153 of the judgment in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda (supra), once are applied on the facts of the present case, it would leave no room of doubt for the Court that the prosecution has failed to discharge its burden of proving the guilt of the accused appellants beyond any reasonable doubt. The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn is not established. The evidence available on record is not consistent with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused. The chain of evidence to prove the guilt of accused is clearly broken and the possibility of an alternative hypothesis, except the one, putforth by the prosecution, cannot be ruled out.

33. The plea of learned AGA that it being a case of honour killing the parents must be dealt with severally does not appeal to us. It is settled aspect of criminal jurisprudence that a case can be said to be proved only when there is explicit evidence and no person can be punished for moral conviction.

34. In light of the above deliberations and upon minute examination of the evidence brought on record, we find that the prosecution has miserably failed to establish the charge framed against the appellants of murdering their only daughter. Many aspects in the admitted facts of the case are left unexplained that is how the deceased returned to her village; whether she returned alone or somebody came with her, who killed her; what has been the motive to kill her. The appellants cannot be held guilty of the charge of murder unless the prosecution by adducing cogent evidence discharges the burden of proving their guilt beyond reasonable doubt.

35. The trial court on the basis of above evidence appears to have drawn its finding of guilt against the appellants wholly on assumptions. Even in the absence of any evidence of affair between the deceased and PW-5 or the deceased having been brought by PW-5 etc., it proceeded to hold that the charge of murdering the deceased on account of honour killing has been proved. We cannot approve of the conclusions drawn by trial court after minutely examining the evidence on record. We find that none of the ingredients of proving the charge by way of circumstantial evidence existed and, therefore, the findings of guilt returned by the trial court will have to be held as based only on assumptions. Doubt or suspicion howsoever strong against the accused cannot be a substitute for the charge to be proved against the accused in a criminal trial.

36. In such circumstances, we are of the considered opinion that the judgment and order dated 12.8.2013, passed by the Additional District and Sessions Judge, Court No.6, Moradabad, in Sessions Trial No.439 of 2011 (State Vs. Mustqeem & Khursheeda) arising out of Case Crime No.538 of 2010, under Section 302/34 IPC, Police Station Asmauli, District Moradabad cannot be sustained and is liable to be set aside. The prosecution has failed to prove the charge of murder against the appellants beyond reasonable doubt and, therefore, the sentence and conviction of accused appellants is set aside. The appellants are acquitted from the charges of offence under section 302 read with 34 IPC and they shall be set at liberty forthwith, if they are not wanted in any other case.

37. The appeals are, accordingly, allowed. No order is passed as to costs.

1. Heard Sri Amit Daga learned Advocate for the appellant and Sri Patanjail Mishra learned AGA for the State respondent.

2. This appeal is directed against the judgement and order dated 24.09.2012 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.8, Bulandshahar in S.T. No.221 of 2010, arising out of Case Crime No.348 of 2009, under Section 302 IPC, P.S. B.B. Nagar, District Bulandshahar, whereby the appellant Manoj Kumar Sharma son of Ved Prakash Sharma, resident of village Dhakoli, Police Station B.B. Nagar, has been convicted for the offence under Section 302 IPC and sentenced for life imprisonment.

3. The first information report of the incident occurred on 11.12.2009 at about 02.00 PM, was lodged by Vikas Sharma son of Ved Prakash Sharma, brother of the accused-appellant Manoj Kumar Sharma. It may also be noted herein that deceased Rajeev Kumar Sharma was brother of the first informant as also the accused-appellant herein. It was stated in the report that on 11.12.2009 at about 02.00 PM, the informant received a call on his mobile from Smt. Savita wife of Manoj, the appellant-herein. She told that the appellant went to the tube-well for watering his field but deceased Rajeev Kumar was arguing by stating that he would first water his field and did not allow the appellant to take water from the tube-well. On the said issue, they fought and Rajeev sustained firearm injuries. Savita asked the first informant to take the injured Rajeev to the hospital.

4. On getting this information, the first informant reached at his tube-well at Kharkali Jungle and saw his brother Rajeev Kumar Sharma lying blood soaked on a cot. The injured told the first informant that Manoj Kumar Sharma (the appellant herein) shot two fires on him through his gun. One Sri Bhagwan @ Kallu and other passerby tried to save him and intercepted Manoj but he did not listen to anyone and shot the injured by his licensee gun. The injured begged him to take to the hospital. The first informant alongwith other villagers took the deceased to B.B. Nagar Community Hospital but he succumbed to his injuries on the way. While keeping the dead body at the Government Hospital, the first informant went to lodge the report.

5. The check FIR based on the written report lodged on 11.12.2009 was proved by PW-4, the Constable Clerk posted in the police station B.B. Nagar, being in his handwriting and signature as Exhibit Ka-2. The G.D. entry report No.31 at 15.45 hrs of the said report was proved by bringing the original G.D. in the Court and filing the certified carbon copy of the same, by PW-4, being in his handwriting and signature as Exhibit Ka-3.

6. In cross, PW-4 stated that he could not tell the time of sending the special report to the senior officials. However, the special report was received on 14.12.2009 by the concerned court but the date of sending of the same from the police station was not noted. On further confrontation, he stated that no memo or information of the incident was received from the hospital.

7. The inquest of the dead body was conducted at the Community Health Center, B.B. Nagar which is evident from the inquest report proved by PW-7 as Exhibit Ka-12. The related papers to the inquest prepared for sending the dead body for the postmortem had been proved as Exhibit Ka-13 to Exhibit Ka-19. The postmortem report was proved by the doctor entered in the witness box as PW-5. He stated that he conducted the postmortem on 12.12.2009 at about 11.30 AM. The body was received in the sealed state. On external examination, the deceased appeared to be aged about 32 years, a strong built male. The rigor mortis was present over the entire body. The injury found on the person of the deceased as indicated in the postmortem report are:-

"Firearm wound of entry size 5.0 cm x 3.0 cm x chest cavity deep left side back of chest just lateral to inferior angle of left scapula. Margins inverted and black.

9. The cause of death had been stated as hemorrhage and shock due to antemortem injuries. PW-5 stated that the death was caused by the firearm injuries sustained by the deceased. The postmortem report was proved being in his handwriting and signature by PW-5 as Exhibit Ka-4. The proximate time of death as stated therein is 02.00 PM on 11.12.2009. It was further stated by PW-5 that two gun shot injuries sustained by the deceased were sufficient to cause his death. The wed pieces, pellets and clothes were sealed and handed over to the Constable who brought the dead body. PW-5 was cross-examined by the defence on the issue that looking to the nature of injuries, there was possibility of immediate death. The doctor, on contradiction, stated that two gun shot injuries could not occur by one bullet. A suggestion was also given to PW-5 that the deceased was shot while lying on his left side.

10. The Investigating Officer had entered in the witness box as PW-6 and stated that as soon the case was registered, he received the investigation, recorded the statement of the first informant, went to the Community Health Centre, B.B. Nagar where the body of deceased Rajeev Kumar Sharma was found lying on a cot. The inquest was conducted by PW-7 on his instruction. After completion of the inquest, he went to the spot of the incident alongwith the first informant and prepared the site plan on his pointing out, which was proved as Exhibit Ka-5 in his handwriting. PW-6 stated that he again went to the Community Hospital to ensure that the dead body was sent for the postmortem and then went to the site of the incident wherefrom he made recoveries of two empty cartridges 12 bore and the blood soaked rope of the cot from the spot of the incident. The blood stained and plain earth were also collected and all the said recovery memos were proved as Exhibit Ka-6, Ka-7, Ka-8 and Ka-9, being in the handwriting and signature of PW-6.

11. The statement of Smt. Akhilesh, PW-3 (wife of the deceased) was recorded on 13.12.2009. On 15.12.2009, on the report of the informer, the accused was arrested at about 12.40 PM. One SBBL gun license No.47954 was recovered from the possession of appellant Manoj and the safe custody receiver receipt of the gun store was also seized. The recovery memo was prepared and signed by the accused and the witnesses, proved as Exhibit Ka-10. The statement of the accused-appellant had then been recorded. On 18.12.2009 the statement of another witness Shri Bhagwan @ Kalu (PW-2) was recorded. After recording the statement of other witnesses on 21.12.2009, the incriminating articles recovered from the spot were sent to FSL on 24.12.2009. On completion of the investigation, the charge sheet was submitted and proved as Exhibit Ka-11.

12. The Investigating Officer (PW-6) was confronted on the issue as to whether he recorded statement of Savita, wife of the appellants, on whose information, the first informant went to the spot of the incident. He was further confronted as to whether he ascertained that the deceased was in a position to speak after receiving injuries. PW-6 was further confronted with the injuries shown in the postmortem report to further assert that looking to the nature of injuries, it was not possible for the injured to speak. A suggestion was given that the FIR was based on a concocted story to which he replied by saying that whatever was written by the first informant, it was noted by the Constable Clerk.

13. PW-6 was then confronted with the statement of the first informant recorded in the site plan wherein it was noted that blood was found below the cot wherein deceased was lying when the first informant met him. PW-6 replied that blood was found at one spot only at the site of the incident and not at any other place and denied the suggestion that the deceased was hit while lying on the cot. PW-6 was further confronted on the delay in recording the statement of the witnesses namely Akhilesh and Sri Bhagwan @ Kalu and that the copy of the first information report was not sent with the body sent for the postmortem and also that the special report was not sent by him. It is stated by PW-6 that the special report of the occurrence was sent to the CJM through proper channel and the delay in noticing the same might be because of the concerned engagement of the officer in some other work.

14. On the arrest of the accused and recovery of gun, PW-7, the officer who prepared the recovery memo was crossed who stated that the recovery memo of gun as Exhibit Ka-10 was prepared on the spot and denied the suggestion that the accused Manoj had surrendered in the police station and the gun was recovered from Choudhary Gun House, Hapur. The suggestion that no license or cartridges were recovered from the accused Manoj was also denied. PW-7 denied the suggestion that the entire recovery proceeding was forged.

15. The ballistic report Exhibit Ka-20 shows that two empty cartridges recovered from the spot were tallied with the SBBL gun seized by the police. The clothes of the deceased were found blood stained. Human blood was found on the clothes of the deceased, pieces of rope of cot, pellet and wed pieces found from inside the dead body. The blood stains on earth were disintegrated.

16. The prosecution had produced three witnesses of fact, the first informant as PW-1, an eye witness of the occurrence namely Shri Bhagwan @ Kalu as PW-2; another eye witness Smt. Akhilesh Sharma wife of the deceased as PW-3.

17. PW-1 , the first informant, in the examination-in-chief, reiterated the version of the written report submitted by him. He then stated that his tube-well was existing in the jungle of Kharkali Gaon and when he reached at the tube-well, his brother was lying blood soaked on a cot who told him that appellant Manoj shot him from his licensee gun. The injured Rajeev was taken to the Community Hospital in a 'Jugaad' and he succumbed to his injuries on the way. The written report was scribed by him and submitted in the P.S., B.B. Nagar, proved as Exhibit Ka-1.

18. In cross, PW-1 described the distance of the place of the incident with his village as 700 meter and location of the tube-well in the field. He also described the topography of the place of the incident with the location of his agricultural field and that of his brothers, Rajeev Sharma (deceased) and Manoj (appellant). It was stated by PW-1 that there was a room wherein tube-well was installed and there were trees near the tube-well. He then stated that they were four brother and total 44 bighas of land of the joint family had been partitioned between them. The land of accused Manoj was at the east of the tube-well whereas chak of Rajeev (deceased) was at the north abetting the main road. PW-1 then described the vocation of himself and his three brothers and stated that he was a teacher in a primary institution situated at a distance of 3 km from his village and the school timing was 10.00 AM to 04.00 PM at the time of the incident. Being a Coordinator of Nyay Panchayat, on temporary basis, alongwith teaching work he was doing inspection of the primary institutions. On the day of the incident, he left his home at about 09.30 AM and went to three primary institutions to make inspection. The suggestion that he was not in the village at the time of the incident had been repelled by him. PW-1 then described as to how he had proceeded after the incident, i.e. that he firstly went to the Hospital and then to the police station. PW-1 stated that no information of the death was sent from the Hospital and he wrote the first information report in the Hospital. The suggestion that he reached the Hospital at around 04.00 PM was categorically denied.

19. About relationship of brothers, PW-1 stated that the brothers had normal relationship and there was no enmity between deceased Rajeev and accused Manoj. No fight had occurred between them prior to the incident and all brothers used to address each other as 'Bhaiya' and they never abused each other. The suggestion that he reached at the place of the incident after about 1 hour of death of his brother Rajeev had been categorically denied by PW-1. He then categorically admitted that he did not mention anything told to him by witnesses Akhilesh and Sri Bhagwan in the first information report. A suggestion of enmity of PW-1 with accused Manoj about a compassionate appointment after death of their father was denied by PW-1. It was admitted by PW-1 that witnesses Bhagwan and Akhilesh were related to each other and he denied that the wife of the deceased Akhilesh never went to the field and she and Bhagwan were falsely projected as a witness at his instance.

20. PW-1 further stated that he went to the spot of the incident alongwith the police after lodging of the first information report, got the site plan prepared and recovery of the empty cartridges, blood stained earth was made by the police in his presence.

21. PW-2, Sri Bhagwan @ Kalu was acquaintance of the family. He stated that while he was going to his village via Kharkali on a bicycle, when he reached at the Pakka road near the tube-well of deceased Rajeev at around 02.00 PM, he saw an oral altercation between Rajeev and Manoj. They were arguing on the issue of watering their fields. The wife of Rajeev namely Akhilesh was present. The oral altercation turned into physical and they both got entangled. He and Akhilesh tried to intervene and then Manoj shot two fires from his gun at Rajeev and fled from the spot. Rajeev was crying to take him to the Hospital but since he (PW-2) was afraid he left the place to go to his home. After two days, he came to know that Rajeev had died.

22. In cross, PW-2 stated that he left his house at around 01.00 PM and went to Dhakoli for taking tractor trolley on rent. However, he could not get it and, therefore, was going back to his village Bhasauli via Kharkali. The distance between Dhakauli and Kharkali was stated by PW-2 as 2-2-1/2 KM. He stated that the Investigating Officer recorded his statement and on confrontation with the same, PW-2 stated that wrong reason for going to Kharkali was narrated by the Investigating Officer and he did not know as to why that was written. The relationship of Smt. Akhilesh with this witness (PW-2) was admitted but he stated that Akhilesh was not her real bua (Aunt). He described as to how the incident had occurred and stated that when Manoj fired the shot, Rajeev was at a distance of 2 paces and it was so instant that he could not warn Rajeev. Both the gun shots hit at the back of the injured.

23. On further confrontation, PW-2 stated that he went away from the place of the incident by telling Akhilesh that she should call her family members and he did not have any phone. Savita and Manoj were living in B.B. Nagar and Savita was not present on the spot. He then stated that he was so shaken by the incident that he did not intimate the police. After reaching his home, he told about the incident to his family members who went to B.B. Nagar but he did not go there.

24. The suggestion that he was not present on the spot was denied by PW-2. He admitted that he left Rajeev on the field and did not know as to who took him and PW-1, Vikas Sharma, was not at the spot, by the time he left the place.

25. PW-3 Smt. Akhilesh is the wife of the deceased. She admitted relationship of the accused with the deceased and stated that the appellant was quarrelsome (झगड़ालू) by nature and, therefore, he had separated about 11-12 years ago and was living separately. She then described as to how the incident had occurred and in her statement, it has come that the altercation between the deceased and the appellant occurred on the issue of watering their fields from the tube-well. She then stated that after the deceased was hit at the back he fell down and her brother-in-law (Vikas) namely PW-1 and other villagers took the injured to B.B. Nagar in a 'Jugaad', her husband died on the way.

26. In cross, PW-3 admitted that after the incident they all were living together i.e. the first informant, deceased and her son who was studying in the school. Deceased Rajeev was an agriculturist and used to go to his field daily and she used to carry his food if he would go without having it. PW-3 stated that she also used to go to the field around 10.00-11.00 AM or thereafter, or sometime with the deceased depending upon the work. She did not remember that on the date of the incident whether her husband (deceased) ate his food. PW-3 then stated that only the agricultural land of Manoj (the appellant) had been separated and all other lands were in partnership and her husband Rajeev used to take care of the entire field with one help. She also used to go to the field with Rajeev to help. The topography of the place of the incident, the location of the tube-well was narrated by PW-3. PW-3, during cross, was shown certain photographs of their chak which she identified and proved as Material Exhibit Kha-2 & Kha-3.

27. She stated that PW-3 Sri Bhagwan was not his real nephew but was related to her. The suggestion that PW-2 Sri Bhagwan was not present on the spot was denied by PW-3. She stated that the police had recorded her statement and then stated that no-one came on the tube-well to save her husband rather they were crying from the distance. After PW-2, Sri Bhagwan fled away from the spot other people came in from the road and she did not know anyone. Some villagers lifted her husband, put him on the cot lying there at a distance of 2 to 4 paces from the place where Rajeev was standing and when he was put on the cot, lot of blood was oozing out from his wound. She could not tell the time when the first informant had reached at the spot and denied the suggestion that she took her husband to the B.B. Nagar Hospital with villagers named as Dharampal and Jogpal. PW-3 stated that she was shaken by the incident but she spoke and she did not know as to whether Rajeev was carrying mobile. The suggestion that she was not present on the spot and was making statement at the instance of PW-1, the first informant was categorically denied by PW-3. She also denied the suggestion that PW-2 Shri Bhagwan was not present at the spot and was making deposition at their instance.

28. Placing the oral testimony of the prosecution witnesses and the documentary evidences on record, it is argued by Sri Amit Daga learned counsel for the appellant that both the eye witnesses of the incident are not reliable. The first informant PW-1 is not an eye witness. He though stated that telephonic information of the incident was given by Savita wife of the appellant but the prosecution had not disclosed as to how the factum of the incident came to the knowledge of Savita, who according to the own case of the prosecution witness (Investigating Officer) was not present on the spot. The statement of PW-1, the first informant, that the deceased told him that accused Manoj had killed him by opening gun shots is improbable, looking to the gravity of the injuries sustained by the deceased where heart, pericardium and lungs were found lacerated as bullet had reached straight-way into the heart cavity. The only probability which can be inferred that the deceased had died on the spot.

29. As regards PW-3, wife of the deceased, it is stated that her presence on the spot was not natural as she admitted during the course of the examination that she would not go to the agricultural field regularly. In her statement it has come that she used to go to the field only to bring food of the deceased and when questioned, she stated that she did not remember as to whether her husband ate food on that day. Looking to the status of the family of the deceased, it is improbable that PW-3, his wife would go to the field to help in the agricultural work. Even otherwise, the statement of PW-3 under Section 161 was recorded on 13.12.2009, after two days of the incident.

30. It is argued that the prosecution had introduced one more witness projecting him as an eye witness who is PW-2, nephew of PW-3, wife of the deceased. As per own testimony of PW-2, he was crossing the road besides the field of Rajeev (deceased) by chance and at around 02.00 PM when he reached on the road near the tube-well, he heard oral altercation between Rajeev and Manoj. According to PW-2, he went on the spot, tried to intercept and the incident of firing occurred in his presence. The conduct of this witness is to be noticed to assess the truthfulness of his testimony of witnessing the incident. Admittedly, this witness did not go the house of the deceased to inform about the incident nor he took the deceased to the hospital and left his Aunt, Akhilesh (PW-3) and his injured uncle Rajeev at the place of the incident. The statement of PW-2 that he fled the scene of the occurrence because of the fear is not acceptable and shakes his presence on the spot.

31. Moreover PW-3, another eye witnesses stated, in cross, that other people who were near the place of the incident did not come to the tube-well and they were shouting to save the deceased from the place where they were standing. They only came when PW-2, Sri Bhagwan @ Kallu had fled away from the spot. For the fact that PW-2 was related to the wife of the deceased (PW-3), there is a strong possibility of introducing him as an eye witness at the instance of PW-1 & PW-3.

32. It is argued that even otherwise, PW-2 can only be kept in the category of a chance witness as his presence on the spot was not natural. In this scenario, his testimony would require corroboration from the other material circumstances of the case and can be relied upon only if it inspires confidence of the Court on appreciation with due circumspection and adequate corroboration. The recoveries made by the Investigating Officer are also challenged on various grounds.

33. Lastly, it is argued that as per own case of the prosecution, there was no preanimosity between the accused-appellant and the deceased. It is the case of the prosecution that the incident had occurred during a sudden quarrel between two brothers over a trivial issue of watering their fields from the common tube-well. Both the alleged eye witnesses stated that the appellant and deceased were engaged in oral altercation and they were shouting at each other, which later turned into physical and while they were entangled, two fires were shot by the appellant from his single barrel licensee gun. The seat of both the injuries are at the left side back of the chest and both the injuries are at a short distance of 3 cm, which further show that there was no intention of the accused-appellant to kill the deceased. Moreover, the incident had occurred in the heat of passion when the appellant being elder brother lost his cool as his younger brother started arguing with him and then became physical. It has come in the evidence of PW-3, the alleged eye witness that when the appellant went to the field he told the deceased to allow him to water his field from the common tube-well but the deceased did not agree to that by saying that he was already watering his field and let him finish it first and that the appellant should wait.

34. The contention is that for the above sequence of events proved from the prosecution evidence, the present case does not fall beyond the scope of the offence under Section 304 Part-II; i.e. of causing injuries with the knowledge that it was likely to cause death but without any intention to cause death or to cause bodily injury as is likely to cause death. The contention is that the conviction of the appellant under Section 302 IPC is a result of misappropriation of the evidence and misapplication of law. The appellant, at the worst, can be convicted and punished for the offence 304 Part-II, maximum sentence for which is 10 years. In the alternative, it is submitted that in any case, the offence committed by the appellant cannot travel beyond Section 304 Part-I. The appellant has already suffered incarceration for a period of 12 years as he is lodged in jail since the date of the arrest i.e. 15.12.2009. The prayer is that the Court may sustain the conviction but reduce the sentence to the period already undergone.

35. To substantiate the above submissions, reliance is placed on the decisions of the Apex Court in Pardeshiram Vs. State of Mahdya Pradesh1, Khuman Singh Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh2, Udiya Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh3, Atul Thakur Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh & others4 Surain Singh Vs. State of Punjab5, Ravindra Shalik Naik & others Vs. State of Maharashtra6, Vineed Kumar Chauhan Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh7, Sridhar Bhuyan vs. State of Orissa8, Parkash Chand vs. State of H.P. B9.

36. Learned AGA, on the other hand, defended the judgement of the trial court with the assertion that it is established that the appellant had committed the murder with full knowledge and intention by the single barrel licensee gun which he was carrying at the place of the incident and he had opened two fires, one after the other. There is ample evidence against the appellant and the prosecution has succeeded in proving its case beyond reasonable doubt that the appellant is the perpetrator of the crime. In light of the oral testimony of the prosecution witnesses (PW-2 and PW-3) and the promptness of the FIR, there is no scope of interference in the judgement of conviction and sentence passed by the trial court. It was a day light murder committed by elder brother on a trivial dispute with regard to watering of his field.

37. It is argued that the injuries inflicted by the appellant were sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature and in this circumstances, the appellant cannot argue that he is not guilty of murder. A person who inflicts injuries like the present case, cannot seek shelter of law by saying that the injuries were accidental or otherwise unintentional. No such inference can be drawn from the facts and circumstances of the present case. The argument of the learned counsel for the appellant that the offence committed by the appellant would fall within the meaning of Section 304 Part-A or Part II is without any substance. There is no question of reduction of sentence as the circumstances of the present case clearly proves that the appellant had committed murder of his brother with full knowledge and intention that the gun shot opened by him would cause death to his brother. The ingredients of Section 300 IPC are attracted and the punishment under Section 302 IPC for causing murder has rightly been inflicted by the trial court.

38. On merits, it is argued that both the eye witnesses are consistent about the manner of occurrence and that the deceased was killed by the appellant by opening two gun shots on a trivial issue. The first information report is a prompt report of the incident and the first informant also proved that the deceased had fixed the appellant being the only perpetrator of the crime. The contention is that in any case, no leniency can be shown to the appellant and the appeal deserves dismissal.

39. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record, we may note that as regards the place of occurrence of the incident and the manner in which the incident had occurred, they stand proved with the statements of the prosecution witnesses and other material circumstances on record. The presence of PW-3, wife of the deceased at the spot cannot be doubted, in as much as, the incident had occurred around 02.00 PM when normally wives of agriculturists would go to the field to bring their food. PW-3, in a natural manner stated that she would normally go to the field at around 10.00-11.00 AM after finishing her household work and would bring the food of her husband, if he had not taken food at home. She also stated that she normally used to help her husband in agricultural work like cutting of the weed and spraying of manure. It has also come in the evidence that out of four brothers, the agricultural land was divided and the share of appellant Manoj was separated. Amongst the remaining three brothers, deceased Rajeev was an agriculturist whereas other two brother were engaged in their jobs. Their fields as such were being looked after by deceased Rajeev. From the statement of PW-3, it is evident that the deceased was looking after about 33 bighas of land which came in the share of three brothers as 11 bighas was separated for the appellant Manoj. Looking to the enormous nature of work being done by the deceased Rajeev, the statement of PW-3 that she was helping her husband in agricultural work cannot be discarded.

40. Even otherwise, it has been proved by the prosecution evidence that PW-1, the first informant took the deceased to the hospital with the help of other villagers through a vehicle known as 'Jugaad' and the inquest of the dead body was conducted in the Community Health Centre, B.B. Nagar. As per the inquest report, the body was kept on a cot in the Community Health Centre. The first information report of the incident was lodged within 1 hour 45 minutes of the occurrence after the deceased had succumbed to his injuries. The Investigating Officer went to the spot and prepared the documentary evidences of the occurrence after making inspection of the site. Two empty cartridges were recovered from the spot which did tally with the SBBL gun seized from the possession of the appellant. As per the statement of the doctor, the injuries caused to the deceased were sufficient to cause his death. Nothing contrary could be culled out from the cross examination of the witnesses (PW-2 & PW-3) to demolish their presence on the spot or doubt the prosecution story in any manner. The occurrence of the incident resulting in the homicidal death of the deceased Rajeev at his field near the tube-well at around 02.00 PM stands proved.

41. It is also proved that the appellant herein namely Manoj Kumar Sharma is the perpetrator of the crime and the death was caused during an altercation between the appellant and the deceased. The suggestion given by the defence to the witness to establish that it was an accident are found without any substance. The presence of the eye witnesses on the spot cannot be doubted and could not be disputed successfully by the defence. In the said scenario, the argument raised by the learned counsel for the appellant that the crime committed by the appellant would not fall within the meaning of Section 300 IPC and can only be said to be an offence of "culpable homicide not amounting to murder" attracting punishment under Section 304 IPC, is to be examined.

42. The question is as to whether the act of the appellant in causing death of the deceased would amount to 'murder' within the meaning of Section 300 IPC or it is a case of 'culpable homicide which will not amount to murder' attracting punishment under Section 304 IPC. Further question is as to in which part of Section 304 IPC, the offence in question would be punishable, in case, the Court reaches at the conclusion that it was a case of 'culpable homicide not amounting to murder' and not 'murder'.

43. In order to ascertain the same, we are required to go through the legal principles governing the distinction between the provisions under Sections 300 and 302 of the Code on the one hand and Section 304 Part I and Part II of the Code on the other. Section 299 of the Code which deals with the definition of culpable homicide is also to be taken note of.

44. Sections 299 and 300 of the Indian Penal Code deal with the definitions of 'culpable homicide' and 'murder'; respectively. In terms of Section 299, 'culpable homicide' is described as an act of causing death:- (i) with the intention of causing death, or (ii) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or (iii) with the knowledge that such an act is likely to cause death. As is clear from the reading of this provision, the first part of it emphasises on the expression "intention' while the latter upon "knowledge'. As has been noted in a catena of decisions, both these words denote positive mental attitudes of different degrees. The mental element in "culpable homicide', i.e. the mental attitude towards the consequences of conduct is one of intention and knowledge. Once an offence is caused in any of the above three stated manners, it would be "culpable homicide'.

45. Section 300, however, deals with "murder'. Though there is no clear definition of "murder' in Section 300 of the Code but as has been held by the Apex Court and reiterated in Rampal Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh2, "culpable homicide' is the genus and "murder' is its species and all "murders' are "culpable homicides' but all "culpable homicides' are not "murders'.

46. Another classification that emerges from the Code is "culpable homicide not amounting to murder", punishable under Section 304 of the Code. There are decisions which also deal with the fine line of distinction between the cases falling under Section 304, Part I and Part II.

47. Dealing with a matter, wherein the question for consideration was whether the offence established by the prosecution against the appellant therein was "murder" or "culpable homicide not amounting to murder", the Apex Court in Vineet Kumar Chauhan vs. State of Uttar Pradesh10 considered its earlier decision in the State of Andhra Pradesh Vs. Rayavarapu Punnayya and Another11, wherein the then Justice R.S. Sarkaria brought out the points of distinction between the two offences under Sections 299 and 300 IPC, reiterating the law laid down in Virsa Singh Vs. State of Punjab12 and Rajwant Singh Vs. State of Kerala13. It was held therein that whenever a Court is confronted with the question whether the offence is "murder" or "culpable homicide not amounting to murder"; on the facts of a case, it will be convenient for it to approach the problem in three stages:- (i) the question to be considered, at the first stage, would be whether the accused has done an act by doing which he has caused the death of another; (ii) proof of such connection between the act of the accused and the death, leads to the second stage for considering whether that act of the accused amounts to "culpable homicide" as defined in Section 299. If the answer to this question is prima facie found in the affirmative, the stage for considering the operation of Section 300 IPC is reached; (iii) the third stage is to determine whether the facts proved by the prosecution bring the case within the ambit of any of the four clauses of the definition of "murder" contained in Section 300. If the answer is in the negative the offence would be "culpable homicide not amounting to murder", punishable under the first or the second part of Section 304, depending, respectively, on whether the second or the third clause of Section 299 is applicable.

48. Further, if this question is found in the positive, but the case comes within any of the exceptions enumerated in Section 300, the offence would still be "culpable homicide not amounting to murder", punishable under the first part of Section 304 IPC. It was, however, clarified therein that these were only the broad guidelines to facilitate the task of the Court and not cast iron imperative.

49. In Aradadi Ramudu alias Aggiramudu vs. State through Inspector of Police, Yanam14, the question was for modification of sentence from Section 302 to Section 304 Part II. While answering the same, the Apex Court had considered the above noted decisions in Virsa Singh (supra) as also other decisions in line namely State of U.P. v. Indrajeet15; Satish Narayan Sawant vs. State of Goa16 and Arun Raj vs. Union of India17 to note that for modification of sentence from Section 302 to Section 304 Part II, not only should there be an absence of the intention to cause death, but also an absence of intention to cause such bodily injury that in the ordinary course of things was likely to cause death. [Reference Paragraph 16]

50. Noticing the above noted decisions, in Rampal Singh Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh18 the Apex Court had considered the distinction between the terms "murder" and "culpable homicide not amounting to murder". The observation in State of Andhra Pradesh Vs. Rayavarapu Punnayya (supra) was noted in paragraph '13' of Rampal Singh (supra) as under:-

"13. In the case of State of A.P. v. Rayavarapu Punnayya, this Court while clarifying the distinction between these two terms and their consequences, held as under: -

"12. In the scheme of the Penal Code, "culpable homicide' is genus and "murder' its species. All "murder' is "culpable homicide' but not vice versa. Speaking generally, ..."culpable homicide not amounting to murder'. For the purpose of fixing punishment, proportionate to the gravity of this generic offence, the Code practically recognises three degrees of culpable homicide. The first is, what may be called "culpable homicide of the first degree'. This is the greatest form of culpable homicide, which is defined in Section 300 as "murder'. The second may be termed as "culpable homicide of the second degree'. This is punishable under the first part of Section 304. Then, there is "culpable homicide of the third degree'. This is the lowest type of culpable homicide and the punishment provided for it is, also, the lowest among the punishments provided for the three grades. Culpable homicide of this degree is punishable under the second part of Section 304."

51. The guidelines laid down in its earlier decision in Phulia Tudu vs. State of Bihar19 had been noted therein to reiterate that the safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions (Sections 299 and 300) is to keep in focus the key words used in the various clauses of these sections. In paragraph '17', it was noted that :-

"17. Section 300 of the Code states what kind of acts, when done with the intention of causing death or bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause death or causing bodily injury to any person, which is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death or the person causing injury knows that it is so imminently dangerous that it must in all probability cause death, would amount to "murder". It is also "murder" when such an act is committed, without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such bodily injury. The Section also prescribes the exceptions to "culpable homicide amounting to murder". The Explanations spell out the elements which need to be satisfied for application of such exceptions, like an act done in the heat of passion and without pre- mediation. Where the offender whilst being deprived of the power of self-control by grave and sudden provocation causes the death of the person who has caused the provocation or causes the death of any other person by mistake or accident, provided such provocation was not at the behest of the offender himself, "culpable homicide would not amount to murder". This Exception itself has three limitations. All these are questions of facts and would have to be determined in the facts and circumstances of a given case."

52. It was observed in paragraph '21' in Rampal Singh (supra) that Sections 302 and 304 of the Code are primarily the punitive provisions. An analysis of these two Sections must be done having regard to what is common to the offences and what is special to each one of them. The offence of culpable homicide is, thus, an offence which may or may not be murder. If it is murder, then it is culpable homicide amounting to murder, for which punishment is prescribed in Section 302 of the Code. Section 304 deals with cases not covered by Section 302 and it divides the offence into two distinct classes, i.e. (a) those in which the death is intentionally caused; and (b) those in which the death is caused unintentionally but knowingly. In the former case the sentence of imprisonment is compulsory and the maximum sentence admissible is imprisonment for life. In the latter case, imprisonment is only optional and the maximum sentence only extends to imprisonment for 10 years. The first clause of Section 304 includes only those cases in which offence is really "murder", but mitigated by the presence of circumstances recognized in the Exceptions to Section 300 of the Code, the second clause deals only with the cases in which the accused has no intention of injuring anyone in particular.

53. In paragraph '22' Rampal Singh (supra), it was observed that where the act is done with the clear intention to kill the other person, it will be a murder within the meaning of Section 300 of the Code and punishable under Section 302 of the Code but where the act is done on grave and sudden provocation which is not sought or voluntarily provoked by the offender himself, the offence would fall under the Exceptions to Section 300 of the Code and is punishable under Section 304 of the Code. Another fine tool which would help in determining such matters is the extent of brutality or cruelty with which such an offence is committed. (emphasis added)

54. It was, thus, held therein that the distinction between two parts of Section 304 (Part I and Part II) is evident from the very language of this section. While Part I is founded on the intention of causing the act by which the death is caused, the other is attracted when the act is done without any intention but with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death.

55. It was further observed therein that it is neither advisable nor possible to state any straight-jacket formula that would be universally applicable to all cases for such determination. Every case essentially must be decided on its own merit. The Court has to perform the very delicate function of applying the provisions of the Code to the facts of the case with the clear demarcation as to under what category of cases, the case at hand falls and accordingly, punish the accused.

56. Referring to an earlier decision in Mohinder Pal Jolly vs. State of Punjab20, it was noted in Rampal Singh (supra) that the distinction between two parts of Section 304 has been stated with some clarity therein which reads as under:-

"24. A Bench of this Court in the case of Mohinder Pal Jolly v. State of Punjab [1979 AIR SC 577], stating this distinction with some clarity, held as under :

*"11. A question arises whether the appellant was guilty under Part I of Section 304 or Part II. If the accused commits an act while exceeding the right of private defence by which the death is caused either with the intention of causing death or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as was likely to cause death then he would be guilty under Part I. On the other hand if before the application of any of the Exceptions of Section 300 it is found that he was guilty of murder within the meaning of clause "fourthly", then no question of such intention arises and only the knowledge is to be fastened on him that he did indulge in an act with the knowledge that it was likely to cause death but without any intention to cause it or without any intention to cause such bodily injuries as was likely to cause death. There does not seem to be any escape from the position, therefo*re, that the appellant could be convicted only under Part II of Section 304 and not Part I."

57. As a guideline as to how the classification of an offence into either Part of

"25. .....xxxxxxxxxxx.....This would have to be decided with reference to the nature of the offence, intention of the offender, weapon used, the place and nature of the injuries, existence of pre-meditated mind, the persons participating in the commission of the crime and to some extent the motive for commission of the crime. The evidence led by the parties with reference to all these circumstances greatly helps the court in coming to a final conclusion as to under which penal provision of the Code the accused is liable to be punished. This can also be decided from another point of view, i.e., by applying the "principle of exclusion'. This principle could be applied while taking recourse to a two-stage process of determination. Firstly, the Court may record a preliminary finding if the accused had committed an offence punishable under the substantive provisions of Section 302 of the Code, that is, "culpable homicide amounting to murder'. Then secondly, it may proceed to examine if the case fell in any of the exceptions detailed in Section 300 of the Code. This would doubly ensure that the conclusion arrived at by the court is correct on facts and sustainable in law.....xxxxx....."

58. The following observations in paragraph '16' of the decision in Aradadi Ramudu alias Aggiramudu (supra) have been quoted in para '34' to state that while answering the question for modification of sentence from Section 302 of the Code to Part II of Section 304 of the Code, it has to be kept in mind that:-

"not only should there be an absence of the intention to cause death, but also an absence of intention to cause such bodily injury that in the ordinary course of things is likely to cause death."

59. Keeping in mind the above guidelines laid down by the Apex Court, in the facts of the present case, the first step in analysis, would be to examine as to whether the appellant had committed an offence punishable under the substantive provisions of Section 302 of the Code, i.e. "culpable homicide amounting to murder".

60. To return a finding on the issue, we have to determine as to whether the act by which the death has been caused would fall in any of the four Clauses detailed in Section 300 of the Code.

61. Analyzing the facts of the instant case, it is to be seen that both the accused and the deceased were real brothers. The witnesses had testified that there was no past enmity or acrimony between the two brothers. As per the statement of PW-1, the first informant, who was also one amongst four brothers, relationship between brothers was cordial. There was no animosity between accused Manoj and deceased Rajeev. No fight had occurred between them prior to the incident. The brothers used to respect and address each other as 'Bhaiya' and they never used abusive language while talking. The partition of the agricultural property after death of their father had occurred with their consent and they all got equal shares in the total land of approximately 44 bighas. The land of appellant-Manoj was adjacent to the field of deceased Rajeev and they had common tube-well which was located in the field of Rajeev, which lie abetting the main Pakka road which runs North-South as indicated in the site plan. The crop of wheat was sown in the fields of both deceased Rajeev and accused-appellant Manoj, as per the statement of the wife of the deceased namely PW-3. She stated that appellant came to the field around afternoon and told his brother Rajeev (deceased) that he wanted to water his field. But Rajeev did not agree to that and replied that since his field was being watered, it should be completed first. On this trivial issue, oral altercation started between two brothers and they both got entangled in a physical fight.

62. It has also come in the evidence of PW-3 that appellant Manoj was hotheaded and because of him the agricultural fields were partitioned. The entire incident, thus, had occurred when the deceased (Rajeev) refused to allow his elder brother, the appellant Manoj to water his field first. It is evident that the common tube-well was situated in the field of deceased Rajeev and it appears that in this circumstance, the appellant became furious. While they were arguing and fighting with each other, the appellant who was carrying his licensee gun opened the gun shots. It is established that there was a heated exchange of words between two brothers and they got entangled in physical altercation before the appellant opened the gun shots.

63. The evidence when examined in its entirety, establish that the appellant had committed the offence without any premeditation in a sudden fight in the state of anger and the entire incident happened within a very short span of time. The oral altercation between two brothers took an ugly turn when they got entangled in a physical altercation. Though appellant Manoj opened two gun shots at his brother but the site and distance of both the injuries show that two shots were opened one after the other without understanding the consequence of his action while he was in the heat of passion.

64. It has also come in the evidence of PW-1 that the wife of the appellant namely Savita gave telephonic information to the first informant immediately after the incident though she was not present on the spot. As per the deposition of PW-1, she stated that in a dispute relating to watering of the field, during fight between two brothers, Rajeev had sustained gun shot injuries and she also told the first informant to take deceased Rajeev to the Hospital. This information was passed on immediately after the incident as is evident from the statement of PW-1, the first informant, another brother of the deceased, and when he went on the spot, Rajiv (deceased) was alive.

65. As noted above, it has come in the testimony of eyewitness (PW-2) that the wife of the appellant namely Savita was not present in the field at the time of the incident. On a question which was posed by the learned counsel for the appellant as to who had informed Savita about the incident, the answer can be given from the circumstances which clearly show that it was the appellant himself who intimated his wife to inform his another brother Vikash Sharma, who was present in the village, to take his injured brother to the Hospital. This fact goes to show that the appellant felt remorse and though he himself did not take the deceased to the hospital but inform his another brother immediately through his wife so that the life of his deceased brother be saved. At the cost of repetition, it is to reiterate that no eyewitness stated that Savita (wife of the appellant) was on the spot. As per the statement of PW-1, Savita even told him that the wife of Rajeev namely Smt. Akhilesh was present at the time of the fight between two brothers.

66. In the above emerging circumstances in light of the statement of PW-1 (brother of the deceased and the appellant), it is evident that the appellant had committed the offence while he was deprived of the power of self control by grave and sudden provocation for the reason that his younger brother did not accede to his request. But the death cannot be said to have been caused by mistake or accident or without the appellant being the party to the said provocation. The act of the appellant of "culpable homicide" causing the death of his brother during fight on a trivial issue, however, would not fall in any of the clauses of Section 300 of the Code as the intention of the appellant to cause death or such bodily injuries which he knew would cause death of his brother or sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, is not proved.

67. The mere fact that the appellant was carrying his licensee gun when he went on the spot to water his field cannot be taken as his intention or plan to kill his brother. The relations between the brothers being cordial, the tube-well being common, the crop of wheat having been sown in the fields of both the brothers (deceased and the appellant) and the urgency shown by the appellant to water his field vis-a-vis refusal by deceased Rajeev are the circumstances which would have to be considered cumulatively for objective determination whether the appellant intended to kill or to inflict bodily injury to his brother.

68. As held in Virsa Singh (supra), the intent required should not be linked with the seriousness of the injury. Rather the requirement is that the prosecution must establish that the injuries inflicted are sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature. Once the prosecution discharged this burden, the person who inflicted injuries can only escape if it can be shown, or reasonably deduced, that the injury was accidental or otherwise, unintentional. Whether the injuries are serious or otherwise, and if serious, how serious, is a totally separate and distinct question and has nothing to do with the question whether the accused intended to inflict the injuries in question. The question whether the intention is there or not is one of fact and not of law. Whether the conclusion should be one way or the other is a matter of proof.

69. The Court, thus, reaches at the answer to the first question that the appellant had not committed an offence within the meaning of Section 300 IPC, i.e., "culpable homicide amounting to murder", which is punishable under Section 302 of the Code. The incident had occurred in a sudden fight, without any premeditation in the state of anger, the offence committed by the appellant, thus, would fall within the meaning of "culpable homicide not amounting to murder" under Section 304 of the Code.

70. A further question then would be whether the appellant is guilty under Part I or Part II of Section 304.

71. As is evident from the record, the appellant opened two fires on his brother which hit at the left side of the chest of the deceased and the situs of both the injuries was same, they are only at a distance of 3 cm from each other. When the appellant opened fires during the physical altercation upon his brother there was no weapon in the hands of his brother, it, therefore, cannot be said that the death was caused by mistake or accident or without overt act of the appellant. The gun is a dangerous weapon and it is obvious that the appellant was aware that the use of such a weapon cause death. It is, thus, proved that there was knowledge on the part of the appellant that if gun shot was opened, the possibility of the deceased being killed could not be ruled out. But merely by the said fact, it cannot be said that the appellant had caused gun shot injuries to his brother with the aim or intention to kill him. The aforesaid fact itself is not conclusive to hold that there was an intention on the part of the appellant to kill the deceased.

72. The circumstance, however, proved that the intention probably was to merely cause bodily injury as the injuries were caused by the appellant without premeditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel with his brother and as is established from the prosecution evidence, out of remorse after the incident, the appellant also made an effort to save his brother by conveying the occurrence to his another brother through his wife. The only inference which could be drawn in the peculiar facts and circumstances on record is that the intention probably was to merely cause bodily injury.

73. Having regard to the root cause of the incident and the events that sequentially unfolded thereafter, we are of the comprehension that the appellant was overpowered by an uncontrollable fit of anger so much so that he was deprived of his power of self control and being drawn in a web of action reflexes, he fired at the deceased. The fact do not commend to conclude that the appellant had intention to eliminate his brother though he had the knowledge of the likely fatal consequence thereof.

74. On overall consideration of the facts situation and also the subsequent reaction of the appellant, we are of the considered view that the conviction of the appellant ought to be moderated to one under Section 304 Part I of the Code, "Culpable homicide not amounting to murder", punishable in the first part (Part I) of Section 304 of the Code.

75. As we found that in this case, though there may be an absence of the intention to cause death but it is not where there is also an absence of intention to cause such bodily injury as is likely to cause death which in the ordinary course of things is likely to cause death , we do not agree with the arguments of the learned counsel for the appellant that the offence committed by the appellant would fall in the Second Part (Part-II) of Section 304 IPC.

76. Having held that the appellant is guilty of offence under Section 304 Part I, we partially accept this appeal and alter the offence from that of Section 302 IPC to one under Section 304 Part I of the Indian Penal Code.

77. Further considering the facts of the case in particular, according to us, it would meet the ends of the justice if the sentence for the offence is reduced to the period already undergone, as the appellant has suffered incarceration for more than 12 years. The judgement under the appeal is modified in the above terms.

78. The appellant is in jail. He is hereby ordered to be set at liberty forthwith, if he is not required to be detained in connection with any other crime.

79. The appeal is allowed in part.

80. The office is directed to send back the lower court record along with a certified copy of this judgment for information and necessary compliance.

81. The compliance report be furnished to this Court through the Registrar General, High Court, Allahabad within one month.

Criminal Appeal No. 5453 of 2007

Rajendra Prasad Sharma @ Toni @ Sonu ...Appellant (In Jail)

State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Mayank Bhushan, Sri Akash Mishra, Sri Prashant Kumar Srivastava, Sri Vikram Singh Srivastava (Amicus Curiae)

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

(A) Criminal Law - Appeal against conviction - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 302 – murder - case based on circumstantial evidence - prosecution must fully establish the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn - circumstances so established should be conclusive in nature and tendency - must form a chain of circumstances so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused - such chain of circumstances must be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused - must exclude every possible hypothesis except the one sought to be proved by the prosecution.(Para - 27)

Appellant was a tenant of a one room accommodation - owned by PW-1 (landlord) - foul odour emitting from the room was sensed - tenants including landlord got the lock broken to discover the body - noticed dead body of a girl dressed in a bridal attire lying on a cot - body of deceased in the room of appellant - no direct evidence of offence - chain of circumstantial evidence pointed to the guilt of accused-appellant - ruled out involvement of a third person – trial court convicted accused / appellant – hence appeal.

(B) Criminal jurisprudence - fundamental principle - accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between 'may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions - in a criminal trial, suspicion, howsoever grave, cannot substitute proof - in case of circumstantial evidence - if two views are possible - one pointing to the guilt of the accused - other his innocence - accused entitled to have the benefit of one which is favourable to him. (Para - 21)

(C) Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 106 - Burden of proving fact especially within knowledge - burden lies on the prosecution to prove the guilt of the accused - burden is not in any way modified by the rule of evidence contained in Section 106 of the Evidence Act - false explanation or non-explanation can only be used as an additional circumstance, when the prosecution has proved the chain of circumstances leading to no other conclusion than the guilt of the accused - it cannot be used as a link to complete the chain. (Para -24-27,31)

HELD:-Prosecution evidence raises strong suspicion against the accused-appellant but fails to carry the suspicion to the level of proof. Benefit of doubt goes to appellant. Appellant acquitted of charge for which he has been tried and convicted. Judgment and order of trial court set aside. (Para -33,34)

1. We have heard Sri Vikram Singh Srivastava as an Amicus Curiae, appointed under order dated 18.05.2022, for the appellant, who is in jail; Sri J.K. Upadhyay, learned AGA, for the State; and have perused the record.

2. This appeal is against the judgment and order dated 29.03.2007/30.03.2007 passed by the 16th Additional Sessions Judge, Kanpur Nagar in S.T. No.216 of 2005 thereby, convicting and sentencing the appellant under Section 302 IPC to imprisonment for life.

INTRODUCTORY FACTS

3. The prosecution case, in brief, is that the appellant was a tenant of a one room accommodation owned by PW-1 (Ashok Kumar Tiwari). On 02.06.2004, when foul odour was sensed, the lock of the room was broke open to notice dead body of a girl dressed in a bridal attire lying on a cot. From that room a Sindurdan, Bindi, Lipstick, Broken bangles and few metal articles were recovered of which a seizure memo (Ex. Ka-2) was prepared. A piece of blanket over which the dead body was lying was also seized of which seizure memo (Ex. Ka-3) was prepared. Blood stained floor and plain floor of the spot from where the body was recovered was also lifted of which seizure memo (Ex. Ka-4) was prepared. Inquest was conducted on 02.06.2004, at about 11.45 am. An inquest report (Ex. Ka-5) was prepared. The body was thereafter sealed and sent for autopsy. The autopsy was conducted on 03.06.2004 at about 12.15 pm by PW-5. The autopsy report (Ex. Ka-8), inter alia, recites as follows:-

Body description

Aged 15 years. Average built body. Rigor mortis passed off both the extremities. Both eyes bulging out, mouth open, tongue protruding out, abdomen distended, skin peeled off at places. Skull hairs loose, nails loose. Maggots present, 1 cm long all over the body.

Ante-mortem injuries:-

Incised wound 9 cm x 6 cm front of neck, 3 cm below chin, skin, muscles, trachea absent. Both carotid arteries cut.

Internal Examination:-

Stomach contained 20 ml water fluids. Small intestine half full with gases.

Large intestine contains faecal matter with gases.

Opinion:- Death due to haemorrhage and shock as a result of ante-mortem injuries

Estimated time of death:- Two days before.

4. Prior to the inquest, a written report (Ex. Ka-1) dated 2.6.2004 in respect of discovery of the body from that room was made at Police Station Kalyanpur, District Kanpur Nagar by Guru Prasad Sharma (PW-2), which was registered as Case Crime No.338 of 2004, at 9.45 am of which a chik FIR (Ex. Ka-6) was prepared by PW-4. In this written report, it was alleged that the room from where the body was recovered was in the tenancy of the accused-appellant (Sonu) whose owner was Ashok Tiwari (PW-1). It was alleged that the accused-appellant used to work as a carpenter and used to stay alone in that room though he was a permanent resident of village Naruwa Kohawa, P.S. Kakwan, District Kanpur Nagar. It was also alleged that the appellant and Km. Seema (the deceased) were related to each other. Despite being related to each other, they had developed an intimate relationship which was not acceptable to Chhotey Lal (not examined), the father of the deceased, and when this relationship was discovered, people had objected to it and made Seema and Sonu understand that they should stay away from each other. The report also alleges that in the night of 30.05.2004, Sonu (the appellant) had invited Km. Seema (the deceased) to his room and in the morning of 31.05.2004, like usual, locked the room and went away, whereafter, on 02.06.2004, when foul odour emitting from the room was sensed, tenants including the landlord got the lock broken to discover the body.

5. After investigation, PW-6 submitted a charge sheet (Ex. Ka-9) against the appellant. After cognizance on the charge sheet, the matter was committed to the court of session where the appellant was charged for the offence of murder punishable under Section 302 IPC, vide order dated 16.07.2005. The appellant pleaded not guilty and claimed for trial.

PROSECUTION EVIDENCE

6. During the course of trial, the prosecution examined as many as 7 witnesses.

7. PW-1 - Ashok Kumar Tiwari - landlord. He proved that the room from where the body of the deceased was recovered was given on rent by him to the appellant. In paragraph 2 of his deposition he stated that on 30.5.2004, like usual, Sonu left at 7.00 am for duty but whether he returned that day or not he did not notice. He also stated that he does not know whether on that day, the deceased had come to that room. In paragraph 5 he stated that on 30.5.2004 he did not notice the deceased entering the room of the appellant-accused. In paragraph 10 he stated that when foul door started coming from that room, upon enquiry, he came to know that the accused-appellant never returned after leaving the room in the morning of 31.5.2004. In paragraph 11 he stated that he never saw the accused in the room after 30.5.2004

8. PW-2 - Guru Prasad Sharma (the informant). He spoke about the illicit relations between the appellant (Sonu) and the deceased (Seema) and also stated that they were cousins. Interestingly, he is not an eye witness of any of the incriminating circumstances such as the deceased being last seen alive with the appellant or of the appellant leaving the room from where the body of the deceased was recovered. In fact, he is not a next door neighbour. Notably, his house is 2-3 furlongs away from the complex bearing the room from where the body of the deceased was found. There is another interesting feature in his testimony, as would be apparent from paragraph 25 of his deposition, which is, that Seema's father was addicted to intoxication and was not gainfully employed and that there was no one to look after Seema and, therefore, she used to roam here and there. The exact words used by PW-2 in that regard are reproduced below:-

"सही बात यह है कि सीमा के बाप नसैड़ी थे कुछ करते धरते नही थे, घटना के दिन में वह घर पर नही थे। इसलिए सीमा मारी मारी फिरती थी। सीमा को कोई परवरिश करने वाला कोई नही था।''

9. PW-3 - Radhey Shyam. He is a neighbour and a tenant in the same complex in which the appellant had a room on rent. He proved that the appellant was one amongst many tenants of that complex of which Ashok Tiwari (PW-1) was the landlord. In paragraph 1 of his deposition, PW-3 stated that a girl used to visit Sonu (the appellant) whose name he does not remember. Sometimes that girl used to go back between 10 and 11 pm in the night and sometimes she used to stay over night. He stated that that girl was a relative of the appellant but he is not aware of their relationship. This witness is one of the inquest witnesses. He proved the inquest report. But, interestingly, this witness does not specifically state that he saw the appellant in the company of the deceased whose body was recovered from the room let out to the appellant. He also does not specify a date when he had seen that girl coming and leaving the tenanted accommodation of the appellant. Most importantly, in his deposition, it has come that he had not seen the body because the body was sealed in a cloth when he became a witness to the inquest report.

10. PW-4- HCP Har Charan Singh. He is the head Moharrir of the police station concerned where the written report was submitted and was registered as Case Crime No.338 of 2004. He proves the submission of written report, the registration of the case and the GD entry as well as Chik report thereof, which were all exhibited.

11. PW-5 - Dr. A.K. Gupta, Autopsy Surgeon. He stated that he was posted at the hospital when on 03.06.2004, at 12.15 hours, body of Seema, daughter of Chhotey Lal, was placed for autopsy. He proved conducting autopsy of the cadaver. He proved the injuries noticed in the autopsy report, which was exhibited as Ex. Ka-8. In paragraph 6 of his deposition, he ruled out the possibility of death having occurred by morning of 31.5.2004 by stating as follows:-

"मैगट्स ;डंहहवजेद्ध प्रायः मृतक की मृत्यु के डेढ़ दिन बाद बनने प्रारम्भ हो जाते है। मृतका के शव विच्छेदन से समय पूरे शरीर मे डंहहवजे विद्यमान थे मृतका की मृत्यु दिनांक 30.5.04 से 31.5.04 की प्रातः के मध्य होना सम्भव नही था।''

In his cross examination, PW-5 admitted that death of Seema could have occurred around noon of 01.06.2004.

12. PW-6 - Sanjay Kumar, the second investigating officer, who took over the investigation from Mohan Verma (PW-

7), the first investigating officer, proved various steps of investigation, particularly, in respect of effecting the arrest of the appellant. He stated that as he could not effect the arrest of the appellant, despite steps, he submitted charge sheet in abscondence. The charge sheet was exhibited as Ex. Ka-9.

13. PW-7- S.I. Mohan Verma, the first investigating officer. He stated that on 02.06.2004, after registration of the first information report, he recorded the statement of the scribe of the FIR, the informant and proceeded to the spot and, after inspecting the spot, prepared site plan. The site plan was exhibited as Ex. Ka.-10. He stated that on the spot he found Sindoor, Bindi, etc of which he prepared seizure memos, which were marked Ex. Ka-2. Ex. Ka-3 and Ex. Ka-4. He also conducted inquest proceeding and prepared report (Ex. Ka-5) and papers for autopsy. He proved dispatch of the cadaver for autopsy and of recording statement of inquest witnesses.

14. The incriminating circumstances emanating from the prosecution evidence were put to the appellant for recording his statement under Section 313 CrPC. In the statement recorded under Section 313 CrPC the appellant though denied the allegations but admitted that the room from where the body of the deceased was recovered was in his tenancy and it was owned by PW-1. Interestingly, by question no.9, the statement of PW-5, Dr. A.K. Gupta (the Autopsy Surgeon), was put to the appellant in a manner which was at variance with what PW-5 had actually stated as a witness. The question put, read, as if, PW-5 stated that the deceased had died between 30.05.2004 and morning of 31.05.2004 when, in fact, from paragraph 6 of PW-5's statement it appeared that he had ruled out the possibility of her death between 30.05.2004 and morning of 31.05.2004. Further, no question was put to the appellant in respect of his alleged abscondence as disclosed by PW-6.

15. The defence, however, examined no witness.

TRIAL COURT FINDINGS

16. The trial court while recording conviction took notice of the following circumstances as proved: (i) that in the evening of 30.05.2004 the deceased was seen entering the room of Rajendra Prasad alias Sonu and thereafter she was never seen alive; (ii) that on 02.06.2004 her body was discovered from that room, after breaking open the lock put on that room; (iii) that autopsy disclosed a homicidal death; (iv) that room was let out to the accused-appellant therefore, he was under an obligation to explain the presence of her body in that room; and (v) that the appellant did not return to his room and remained absconding. The trial court held that these circumstances constitute a chain so complete that it pointed to the guilt of the appellant and ruled out involvement of a third person. As there was no good explanation coming from the appellant, the trial court drew an inference in respect of appellant's guilt.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE APPELLANT

17. Assailing the judgment and order of the trial court, learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that PW-1 (the landlord), in paragraph 2 of his deposition, had specifically stated that on 30.05.2004, at about 7 am in the morning, the appellant had left the room to attend to his duty, as usual, and whether he returned thereafter or not, he was not aware. Learned counsel for the appellant further pointed out that in paragraph 5 of his deposition, PW-1 specifically stated that on 30.05.2004, he had not seen Seema (the deceased) going to the room of the accused-appellant. It has been submitted that neither PW-1 nor PW-3 (the neighbour) stated that they saw the deceased entering the room in the tenancy of the appellant on either 30.05.2004 or 31.05.2004 and none of the witnesses had stated that in that room when the deceased entered, the appellant was present. It has been urged that the prosecution evidence is completely silent as regards the deceased being last seen alive with the accused-appellant in that room. It has also been urged that since there is a positive stand in the prosecution evidence, namely, the testimony of PW-1, that the accused left the room in the morning of 30.05.2004 and there is a categorical statement of the doctor (PW-5), vide paragraph 6, that the deceased could not have died in the intervening night of 30.05.2004/31.05.2004 and there being no evidence whatsoever that after leaving the room in the morning of 30.05.2004, as stated by PW-1, the appellant returned back to his tenement, there exists no reliable evidence that soon or before the probable time of death of the deceased was seen alive in the company of the appellant. It has also been urged that the incriminating circumstance, that is, on 30.05.2004 the deceased was seen entering the room of the appellant, on which the trial court has placed reliance, is, firstly, not proved and, secondly, the trial court has misread the evidence that there is statement of the witness that on 30.05.2004 the deceased was seen entering the room in the tenancy of the appellant. It has been submitted that this is a case where there is no motive for the crime and in so far the lock allegedly put on the door of the room is concerned, there is no evidence that the lock was of the appellant or that its key was recovered from the appellant. Further, there is no seizure memo of that lock. In so far as the alleged conduct of the appellant relating to abscondence is concerned, it has not been put to the appellant while recording his statement under section 313 CrPC. It has thus been prayed that the appeal of the appellant be allowed and the judgment and order of the trial court be set aside.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF STATE

18. Sri J.K. Upadhyay, learned AGA, who has appeared for the State, has submitted that as it is admitted by the appellant that he was a tenant of the accommodation, continuity of his possession over the accommodation would be deemed and therefore, as the body of the deceased was recovered from that accommodation of which he was in possession, the burden was on the appellant to specifically disclose that he was away at the relevant time and could not have been there when Seema was killed. He submits that as there is no explanation of the appellant as to when he left the room and as to why he could not, or did not, return back to his room, which was admittedly in his tenancy, an inference with regard to his guilt was a logical inference from the proven circumstances. He further submitted that the deceased was in a relationship with the appellant therefore, in the facts of the case, there could be multiple reasons for the murder including the pressure being built by the deceased upon the appellant to marry her. Hence, absence of evidence of a motive, in the facts of the case, is not relevant. He thus submitted that the proven circumstances taken together, constitute a chain so complete that points towards the guilt of the appellant and rule out all other hypotheses consistent with the innocence of the appellant therefore even if the trial court misread a portion of the testimony that, by itself, would not be sufficient to set aside the judgment and order passed by the trial court. He thus prays that the appeal be dismissed and conviction recorded by the trial court be upheld.

19. Having noticed the prosecution case, the entire prosecution evidence and the rival submissions, before we proceed to evaluate the prosecution evidence, we must remind ourselves that this a case where there is no direct evidence of the offence. It is a case based on circumstantial evidence. In a case based on circumstantial evidence as to when conviction can be recorded, law is well settled by the Supreme Court in the case of Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharashtra (1984) 4 SCC 116 where, in paragraph 153, it was observed:-

"153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned 'must or should' and not 'may be' established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between 'may be proved' and 'must be or should be proved' as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra (1973) 2 SCC 793 where the following observations were made:

"19. .....Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between 'may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions."

(2) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency,

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

20. A three-judge Bench of the Apex Court in case of Shatrughna Baban Meshram Vs. State of Maharashtra (2021) 1 SCC 596 reiterating the legal principles set out in the case of Sharad Birdhichand Sarda (supra), in para 42, observed:-

".....42. Before we deal with the second submission on sentence, it must be observed that as laid down by this Court in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra [(1984) 4 SCC 116], a case based on circumstantial evidence has to face strict scrutiny. Every circumstance from which conclusion of guilt is to be drawn must be fully established; the circumstances should be conclusive in nature and tendency; they must form a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused; and such chain of circumstances must be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused and must exclude every possible hypothesis except the one sought to be proved by the prosecution. The decision in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda V. State of Maharashtra [(1984) 4 SCC 116] had noted the consistent view on the point including the decision of this Court in Hanumant v. State of M.P. [1952 SCR 1091] in which a bench of three judges of this Court had ruled (AIR pp 345-46, para 10):-

"10. It is well to remember that in cases where the evidence is of a circumstantial nature, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should in the first instance be fully established, and all the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused. Again, the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency and they should be such as to exclude every hypothesis but the one proposed to be proved. In other words, there must be a chain of evidence so far complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and it must be such as to show that within all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

21. In addition to above, we must bear in mind the most fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence, which is, that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between 'may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions (vide Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade & Another v. State of Maharashtra, (1973) 2 SCC 793). These settled legal principles have again been reiterated in a three-judge Bench decision of the Supreme Court in Devi Lal v. State of Rajasthan, (2019) 19 SCC 447 wherein, in paragraphs 18 and 19 of the judgment, it was held as follows:-

"18. On an analysis of the overall fact situation in the instant case, and considering the chain of circumstantial evidence relied upon by the prosecution and noticed by the High Court in the impugned judgment, to prove the charge is visibly incomplete and incoherent to permit conviction of the appellants on the basis thereof without any trace of doubt. Though the materials on record hold some suspicion towards them, but the prosecution has failed to elevate its case from the realm of "may be true" to the plane of "must be true" as is indispensably required in law for conviction on a criminal charge. It is trite to state that in a criminal trial, suspicion, howsoever grave, cannot substitute proof.

19. That apart, in the case of circumstantial evidence, two views are possible on the case of record, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other his innocence. The accused is indeed entitled to have the benefit of one which is favourable to him. All the judicially laid parameters, defining the quality and content of the circumstantial evidence, bring home the guilt of the accused on a criminal charge, we find no difficulty to hold that the prosecution, in the case in hand, has failed to meet the same."

22. At this stage, it would be useful also to examine as to when a conviction could be sustained with the aid of section 106 of the Evidence Act. In respect of conviction with the aid of section 106 of the Evidence Act of a person on death of his or her spouse due to injuries, the Supreme Court in the case of Shivaji Chintappa Patil Vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in 2021 (5) SCC 626, in paragraph 23, observed:-

"23. It could thus be seen, that it is well-settled that Section 106 of the Evidence Act does not directly operate against either a husband or wife staying under the same roof and being the last person seen with the deceased. Section 106 of the Evidence Act does not absolve the prosecution of discharging its primary burden of proving the prosecution case beyond reasonable doubt. It is only when the prosecution has led evidence which, if believed, will sustain a conviction, or which makes out a prima facie case, that the question arises of considering facts of which the burden of proof would lie upon the accused."

"16. Applying the said principles to the facts of the present case, the Court is of the opinion that the prosecution had miserably failed to prove the entire chain of circumstances which would unerringly conclude that alleged act was committed by the accused only and none else. Reliance placed by learned advocate Mr. Mishra for the State on Section 106 of the Evidence Act is also misplaced, inasmuch as Section 106 is not intended to relieve the prosecution from discharging its duty to prove the guilt of the accused. In Shambu Nath Mehra vs. State of Ajmer, AIR (1956) SC 404, this court had aptly explained the scope of Section 106 of the Evidence Act in criminal trial. It was held in para 9:

"9. This lays down the general rule that in a criminal case the burden of proof is on the prosecution and Section 106 is certainly not intended to relieve it of that duty. On the contrary, it is designed to meet certain exceptional cases in which it would be impossible, or at any rate disproportionately difficult, for the prosecution to establish facts which are "especially" within the knowledge of the accused and which he could prove without difficulty or inconvenience. The word "especially" stresses that. It means facts that are preeminently or exceptionally within his knowledge. If the section were to be interpreted otherwise, it would lead to the very startling conclusion that in a murder case the burden lies on the accused to prove that he did not commit the murder because who could know better than he whether he did or did not. It is evident that that cannot be the intention and the Privy Council has twice refused to construe this section, as reproduced in certain other Acts outside India, to mean that the burden lies on an accused person to show that he did not commit the crime for which he is tried. These cases are Attygalle v. Emperor [AIR 1936 PC 169] and Seneviratne v. R. [(1936) 3 All ER 36, 49]."

24. The Apex Court in Nagendra Sah Vs. State of Bihar (2021) 10 SCC 725 observed in paragraphs 22 and 23 as:-

"22. Thus, Section 106 of the Evidence Act will apply to those cases where the prosecution has succeeded in establishing the facts from which a reasonable inference can be drawn regarding the existence of certain other facts which are within the special knowledge of the accused. When the accused fails to offer proper explanation about the existence of said other facts, the Court can always draw an appropriate inference.

23. When a case is resting on circumstantial evidence, if the accused fails to offer a reasonable explanation in discharge of burden placed on him by virtue of Section 106 of the Evidence Act, such a failure may provide an additional link to the chain of circumstances. In a case governed by circumstantial evidence, if the chain of circumstances which is required to be established by the prosecution is not established, the failure of the accused to discharge the burden under Section 106 of the Evidence Act is not relevant at all. When the chain is not complete, falsity of the defence is no ground to convict the accused."

25. Further, in the case of Shivaji Chintappa Patil (supra) in paragraph no. 25 it was observed:-

"25. Another circumstance relied upon by the prosecution is, that the appellant failed to give any explanation in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. By now it is well-settled principle of law, that false explanation or non-explanation can only be used as an additional circumstance, when the prosecution has proved the chain of circumstances leading to no other conclusion than the guilt of the accused. However, it cannot be used as a link to complete the chain. Reference in this respect could be made to the judgment of this Court in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda (supra)."

26. In Rajasthan Vs. Kashi Ram, (2006) 12 SCC 254, the Supreme Court in paragraph 26 of the judgment, clarified the law with regard to the provisions of Section 106 of the Evidence Act in the following words:-

"It is not necessary to multiply with authorities. The principle is well settled. The provisions of Section 106 of the Evidence Act itself are unambiguous and categoric in laying down that when any fact is especially within the knowledge of a person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him. Thus, if a person is last seen with the deceased, he must offer an explanation as to how and when he parted company. He must furnish an explanation which appears to the Court to be probable and satisfactory. If he does so he must be held to have discharged his burden. If he fails to offer an explanation on the basis of facts within his special knowledge, he fails to discharge the burden cast upon him by Section 106 of the Evidence Act. In a case resting on circumstantial evidence if the accused fails to offer a reasonable explanation in discharge of the burden placed on him, that itself provides an additional link in the chain of circumstances proved against him. Section 106 does not shift the burden of proof in a criminal trial, which is always upon the prosecution. It lays down the rule that when the accused does not throw any light upon facts which are specially within his knowledge and which could not support any theory or hypothesis compatiable with his innocence, the Court can consider his failure to adduce any explanation, as an additional link which completes the chain.

The principle has been succinctly stated in Naina Mohd."

27. In our considered view, the legal principle deducible from the decisions noticed above is that in a case based on circumstantial evidence the prosecution must fully establish the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn; the circumstances so established should be conclusive in nature and tendency; they must form a chain of circumstances so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused; and such chain of circumstances must be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused and must exclude every possible hypothesis except the one sought to be proved by the prosecution. If the chain of circumstances by itself is not complete, lack of explanation, or false explanation tendered, by the accused is not sufficient to complete the chain. Thus, the ordinary rule that applies to criminal trials is that the burden lies on the prosecution to prove the guilt of the accused, this burden is not in any way modified by the rule of evidence contained in Section 106 of the Evidence Act. It is only in cases where facts proved by the evidence give rise to a reasonable inference of guilt unless the same is rebutted and that such inference can be negatived by proof of some fact which can only be within the special knowledge of the accused, the court can take the aid of Section 106 of the Evidence Act to take the failure of the accused to adduce an explanation as an additional link to the chain of circumstances. But if the proven circumstances by themselves do not indicate that in all human probability it is the accused who has committed the crime in question and those proven circumstances do not exclude a reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused, it would not be legally justified to absolve the prosecution of its burden to prove the guilt by taking recourse to the provisions of Section 106 of the Evidence Act. Ultimately, it is a matter of appreciation of evidence and, therefore, each case must turn on its own facts.

28. In the instant case, the circumstances proved by the prosecution beyond reasonable doubt are: (i) the deceased was a relative (cousin) of the appellant and used to visit the appellant; (ii) the dead body of the deceased was recovered on 02.06.2004 from a room which was let out to the appellant; and (iii) the autopsy report, dated 3.6.2004, indicated that the deceased died a homicidal death two days before the autopsy. At this stage it be noted that the autopsy surgeon (PW-5) ruled out possibility of death occurring between 30.5.2004 and the morning of 31.05.2004. According to the autopsy surgeon death probably occurred around noon on 01.06.2004. Another important feature to note is that the prosecution has failed to prove that the deceased was last seen alive with the accused, either on 30.05.2004 or any time thereafter, till recovery of her body on 02.06.2004.

29. In this case the prosecution has led no evidence to substantiate that the appellant and the deceased lived either as husband and wife or as a live-in couple. The evidence is that the deceased used to come and go. When we carefully scrutinise the prosecution evidence, we would find that the prosecution does not allege continuous presence of the deceased in that room from where her body was recovered. As to when she came, there is no admissible evidence; yet, the trial court recorded a finding that she came on 30.5.2004. What is important to note is that it is not the case of the prosecution that the deceased had no other abode than the place from where her body was recovered. The evidence of the prosecution witness is that she used to come and go. Thus, at best she could be considered a visitor of the place from where her body was recovered but not a resident of that place. The other aspect which assumes importance is that the prosecution has failed to disclose any motive for the crime. In a case based on circumstantial evidence, motive assumes importance. If the accused had been in a relationship with the deceased, there was no reason for the accused to commit her murder. But, interestingly, from the statement of PW-2, this relationship was not palatable to other relatives of the deceased as the deceased and the accused were cousins. In these circumstances, there existed a motive for others, who were not happy with that relationship, to commit the crime.

30. In so far as presence of the body of the deceased in the room of the appellant is concerned, that would have been a gravely incriminating circumstance, if it had been proved, firstly, that the room was under the lock and key of the accused-appellant, secondly, that the deceased entered the room, when the accused was present, and, thirdly, that the appellant had not left the accommodation before the probable time of her death.

31. In the instant case, though, it is alleged that the lock had to be broke open to retrieve the body but neither the lock has been seized nor its key has been recovered from the appellant to show that the room was in exclusive possession and control of the accused appellant. Importantly, the lock of the room was broke open even before lodging the FIR therefore, it was not proved beyond doubt that the room was locked and in exclusive control or possession of the appellant. In respect of deceased entering the room on any particular day in the presence of the accused appellant, there is no evidence. The evidence is of general nature, that is, the deceased used to come and go. In respect of the presence of the accused appellant on or about the relevant time, as per PW-1, to his knowledge, the accused left the room in the morning of 30.05.2004. But, as per information received by him (PW-1), accused left in the morning of 31.05.2004 and did not return. As the statement with regard to leaving on 31.5.2004 would be hearsay, we would have to accept the first statement, that is, the accused left in the morning of 30.05.2004. No doubt, PW-1 stated that the accused left the room, as usual, after locking the room, but, interestingly, the lock alleged to have been put on the door, which was broke open to retrieve the body, has neither been seized nor produced. No key of that lock is stated to have been recovered from the appellant. In these circumstances, one cannot rule out the hand of some one else who had access to that room from where the body was retrieved. Once that is the position and testimony of PW-1 is clear that the appellant had left the accommodation on 30.05.2004 and there is no evidence of his return or as to when the deceased entered the room, the possibility of somebody else committing the crime is not ruled out by the prosecution evidence. In such circumstances, by relying on the legal principles governing a case based on circumstantial evidence, we have no hesitation in extending the benefit of doubt to the appellant. More so, when the autopsy surgeon's (PW-5's) report (Ex. Ka-8), dated 3.6.2004, and his testimony rules out death between the night of 30.05.2004 and the morning of 31.05.2004.

32. At this stage, we may observe that the investigating officer led evidence in respect of various steps taken by him to effect the arrest of the appellant to demonstrate that the accused was absconding but, unfortunately, those incriminating circumstances were not specifically put to the appellant to elicit his explanation while recording his statement under Section 313 CrPC. Without going into the legal aspect as to whether those incriminating circumstance would have to be eschewed from consideration, we may observe that though the conduct of an accused in absconding immediately after the occurrence is relevant, as an indication of his guilty mind, but, it is not conclusive of that fact because, sometimes even innocent persons, when suspected, may abscond to avoid arrest. In Thimma and Thimma Raju V. State of Mysore, (1970) 2 SCC 105, while giving not much importance to the allegation that the accused absconded after the crime, a three-judge Bench of the Supreme Court, in paragraph 11 of its judgment, observed: "Even innocent persons may, when suspected of grave crimes, be tempted to evade arrest: such is the instinct of self-preservation in an average human being. We are therefore, not inclined to attach much significance to this conduct on the peculiar facts and circumstances of this case."

33. In the instant case, abscondence would have been a gravely incriminating circumstance had it been proved that the deceased was wife of the accused-appellant and the accused-appellant had motive to finish off the deceased. Because, in those set of facts, a presumption in respect of joint living could be drawn. But here marriage or live-in relationship of the deceased with the appellant is not proved by the prosecution. Prosecution evidence only proves that she was a regular visitor. It is not proved that she resided with the appellant as a couple and had no other abode. Notably, except for vermillion (Sindoor), bangles, etc nothing much was recovered to demonstrate that goods or clothes of her or of the appellant were there to suggest their joint living. Interestingly, though the dead body was in a bridal attire but there is no evidence that she recently got married to the appellant. May be she wanted to marry the appellant, and that may be the reason for her murder, but conjectures and speculations cannot take the place of proof in a criminal trial. The prosecution had to dispel all these doubts by leading cogent and coherent evidence. In this case, the prosecution was required to establish beyond reasonable doubt as to when the deceased entered the room and that when she entered the room, the appellant was present. If that was proved, the prosecution might have succeeded in absence of evidence or explanation from the accused regarding him parting company of the deceased before the probable time of her death. Rather, here, the prosecution evidence itself is that accused left in the morning of 30.05.2004 or 31.05.2004 (if the hearsay part of the evidence is accepted), whereas, the autopsy evidence suggests that deceased could have died on 01.06.2004. In these circumstances, it would be unsafe to convict the appellant only on his abscondence. The other reason why we do not propose to give that much weightage to his abscondence is lack of motive for the accused to commit the crime as also the possibility of others'

involvement to protect their honour inasmuch as prosecution story accepts that people were objecting to the relationship between the appellant and the accused as they were cousins. For all the reasons above, we are of the view that the prosecution evidence though raises strong suspicion against the accused-appellant but fails to carry the suspicion to the level of proof. Hence, the benefit of doubt must go to the appellant.

34. Consequently, and for all the reasons recorded above, the appeal is allowed. The judgment and order of the trial court convicting and sentencing the appellant is set aside. The appellant is acquitted of the charge for which he has been tried and convicted. The appellant is reported to be in jail. He shall be shall be released forthwith, unless wanted in any other case, subject to compliance of the provisions of Section 437-A CrPC to the satisfaction of the trial court.

35. Let a copy of this order be forwarded to the court below along with the record for information and compliance.

A.G.A.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 8- Subsequent Conduct- The accused-appellant has not absconded and his conduct was not suspicious but was bonafide as he was also searching the deceased along with other boys. Absconding may lead to suspicion against the person who is suspected and has absconded after occurrence but in this case it is not so- ''Absconding' is a telltale circumstance of a guilty mind, unless the accused can offer a reasonable explanation for his absence for several days at his normal place of residence or work or at places where he would normally be expected to be found. It is only one link in the chain of evidence and not the determining link. Hiding in his own house may be absconding. It is hiding to evade process of law.

Where the accused does not abscond after the commission of the offence, then the said fact would be one of the considerations pointing to his innocence as subsequent conduct forms one of the links in a case of circumstantial evidence.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872-Section 45- That the child had been murdered on the previous evening at around 4 to 5 pm and, therefore, when the appellant was seen last at around 4 to 5 pm i.e. around the time when the child was killed it could be safely concluded that the appellant alone had killed the child-No doctor can determine the exact time of death as there can be a variation of six hours on both sides.

Settled law that on the basis of the Post Mortem Report the time of death can only be opined by the medical examiner and no specific time of death can be given with exactitude.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Conviction on the basis of the fact that the appellant was last seen with the deceased has no ground to stand as there are many missing links between the time the first informant (P.W.-1), the P.W. - 2 and

Surendra had seen the appellant last with the child and the time when the body of the deceased was found-In scrutinising circumstantial evidence, a court is required to evaluate it to ensure that the chain of events is established clearly and completely, to rule out any reasonable likelihood of the innocence of the accused. Whether the chain is complete or not would depend on facts of each case emanating from the evidence and no universal yardstick should ever be attempted.

Settled law that in a case resting on circumstantial evidence the prosecution has to connect the links of the circumstances that unerringly point to the guilt of the accused and to no other hypothesis. (18, 29, 33, 38, 39, 40)

1. Heard Sri Amit Daga (Amicus Curiae) assisted by the Sri Abhishek Kumar Jaiswal learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Vikas Goswami learned Government Advocate.

2. This jail appeal has been filed against the judgement and order dated 20.3.2008 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 6, Muzaffarnagar, in Session Trial No. 854 of 2007 arising out of Case Crime No. 7 of 2007, under Section 302 and 201 IPC, Thana - Bhaunrakala, District - Muzaffarnagar, wherein the appellant - Shaki- was tried and punished for the offences under Sections 302 and 201 IPC. Under Section 302 IPC, the appellant was awarded life sentence and a fine of Rs. 10,000/-. In the event of non-deposit of fine, the appellant was to undergo further two years' of rigorous imprisonment and under Section 201 IPC, the appellant was to undergo three years of rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 2,000/- was also imposed. In the event of non-deposit of fine, the appellant was to undergo a further rigorous imprisonment of three months. All the punishments were directed to run concurrently.

3. The father of the deceased Shiva had lodged a first information report on 24.1.2007 alleging that his son Shiva, aged about five years, on the previous day i.e. 23.1.2007, at around 4-5pm, was seen with the appellant - Shaki s/o Somdatt Harijan. It has been alleged in the first information report that when the son of the first informant had not returned, then the first informant tried to search for his son and when the son of the first informant and the accused were not found till the morning of the next day, a first information report was lodged. It has been stated in the F.I.R. that the first informant along with other villagers had commenced a search in the adjoining jungle and then in the sugar cane field of one Satendra s/o Kitepal, the dead body of his son was found buried in a pit which was covered with mud. However, his legs were protruding out. In the first information report itself, the first informant had alleged that the accused had a motive to kill the son of the appellant as earlier the appellant had done some dirty work with Deepak, another son of the first informant who was elder to the one who had died. Since the first informant had, two or three days prior, threatened the appellant with dire consequences, the appellant had taken a revenge. He had also stated in the F.I.R. that when the appellant had taken away his son Shiva, his brother Satyaveer and certain other villagers had also seen the appellant taking the boy with him. He stated that the body of his child Shiva had been exhumed from where the accused-appellant had buried him and the dead body was lying over there. He, therefore, had prayed that the State might proceed against the accused-appellant and take action for the commission of the crime. Thereafter, when the first information report was lodged on 24.1.2007, the police started the investigation. Amongst other investigations, postmortem was also done on the body of the deceased. Thereafter, the Police submitted a charge sheet and upon the submission of the charge sheet, the Court of District and Sessions Judge, Court No. 6, Muzaffarnagar, framed charges against the accused-appellant under Sections 302 read with Section 201 of the IPC. The accused pleaded not guilty and demanded a trial.

4. From the side of the prosecution, P.W. - 1, i.e. the first informant, was examined, Satyaveer, the brother of the first informant was examined as P.W. - 2, the Doctor who had conducted the postmortem was examined as P.W.- 3, the P.W. - 4 Vijendra Singh was the signatory on the Punchnama, the P.W. - 5 & 6 were the investigating officers who had conducted the investigation and the P.W. 7 was the chik writer who was produced to prove the chik.

5. From the defence side, no one was produced. However, the appellant was confronted with certain questions and situations under Section 313 Cr.P.C., which questions were, however, denied by the accused-appellant on 12.11.2007. Thereafter, the Trial Court, after assessing all the evidence and after hearing all the parties passed the judgement and order dated 20.3.2008 convicting the accused-appellant under Section 302 IPC for life imprisonment. A fine of Rs. 10,000/- was also imposed (in the event of non-deposit of fine, the accused-appellant was to undergo a further rigorous imprisonment of two years). He was also convicted under Section 201 IPC for three years of rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 2,000/- was also imposed (in the event of non-deposit of fine, the accused-appellant was to undergo a further three months of rigorous imprisonment).

6. It has been contended by the learned counsel for the accused-appellant that appellant was innocent and had been wrongly convicted as the assessment of evidence was not done properly by the Trial Court. The following were the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the accused-appellant:-

I. The appellant was seen with the victim by the first informant at around 4 - 5pm on 23.1.2007 and, thereafter, the dead-body was found on the next day i.e. on 24.1.2007 at around 12:30pm. There is absolutely no connecting evidence to suggest that the appellant alone was guilty of murdering the child Shiva.

7. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant, therefore, submitted that the evidence on the basis of which the punishment had taken place was circumstantial in nature and the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt was drawn were not such by which, at the first instance, it could be fully established that the accused-appellant was guilty of the crime. He further submitted that the circumstances should have been of such a nature and tendency that they should have excluded every other hypothesis but the one proposed to be proved by the prosecution.

8. He submits that even otherwise, there ought to have been a chain of evidence so complete, as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and it must be such as to show within human probability that the act must have been done by the accused-appellant alone and no one else. He further submits that conviction could have been possible only if the prosecution, after it had led its evidence, would have connected the chain of circumstances in such a manner that the circumstances would have led to no other conclusion other than the conclusion that the accused-appellant was guilty.

9. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant, therefore, submits that after the first informant had seen the accused with the deceased at around 4 - 5 pm in the evening of 23.1.2007, there was absolutely no other evidence which could lead to the conclusion that the accused and the accused alone had killed the deceased and had buried him in the sugar cane field of Satendra s/o Kitepal.

10. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant submitted that there is no clear and specific evidence that the place where the body of the deceased was recovered was accessible only to the accused and no one else. He, therefore, submits that there was absolute lack of evidence with regard to the fact that the accused was last seen with the deceased and furthermore there was no connection with the evidence of the fact that even if the accused was last seen with the victim he had in fact perpetrated the crime. Learned counsel, therefore, submits that it would be very unsafe to conclude that the appellant was guilty of the murder.

11. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant to bolster his argument relied upon A.I.R. 1952 SC 343 : Hanumant Govind Nargundkar and another vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, 1984 (4) SCC 116 : Sharad Birdhichand Sarda vs. State of Maharashtra, 2006 (13) SCC 116 : Bablu alias Mubarik Hussain vs. State of Rajasthan, 2015 (12) SCC 644 : Vijay Shankar vs. State of Haryana, 2017 (100) ACC 913 : Anjan Kumar Sharma and others vs. State of Assam, 2016 (1) SCC 501 : State of Karnataka vs. Chand Basha, 2015 (9) SCC 44 : State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Satveer and others, 2012 (79) ACC 713 : Baliya @ Bal Krishan vs. State of M.P. and the Criminal Appeal No. 5824 of 2010 (Satish Sharma and another vs. State of U.P.).

12. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant, therefore, submitted that the chain of evidence from the time the appellant was last seen with the deceased and till the body of the deceased was found was definitely not complete and, therefore, it could definitely not be said that the evidence was such which could make the prosecution to reach the only conclusion that the appellant was the perpetrator of the crime.

II. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant has submitted that in the first information report the father of the deceased, Sri Karan Singh had stated that the appellant had a motive to kill his son on account of the fact that the first informant had threatened the appellant with dire consequences because of the fact that he had a few days earlier done some dirty work with another son of his, namely, Deepak.

13. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that the attribution of this motive to the appellant was absolutely misplaced as the learned counsel for the accused-appellant submitted that if the appellant had done any dirty work on the person of the son of the first informant then upon seeing the deceased/victim with the appellant, the father/first informant would definitely have reprimanded both his child and also appellant for being together.

14. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that no father in his proper senses would allow any child of his to be with a person who had on an earlier occasion tried to do something dirty on the person of any one of his children and, therefore, learned counsel for the appellant submits that the first informant had for no reason whatsoever tried to implicate the appellant.

III. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant submitted that there were many contradiction in the statements made by the prosecution witnesses. He submits that P.W.-1 i.e. the first informant had stated in the F.I.R. that the witnesses of fact were he himself and Satyaveer. However, in his cross-examination, he has stated that along with him Satyaveer, his brother and one Surendra had also seen the appellant taking away the child. Here, by Surendra he had meant Surendra s/o Rahtu Harijan which name finds place in the list of witnesses in the charge sheet.

15. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant submits that while at one place in his testimony, he has stated that he himself, his brother Satyaveer and Surendra s/o Rahtu had seen the child being taking away at around 4-5pm, in his cross-examination he had stated that he, Surendra s/o Shree pal and Kripal s/o Kadam had also seen the child being taking away by the appellant on 23.1.2007. Learned counsel states that the father in his cross-examination has further stated that on that date both Surendra and Kripal had come back from work after 6:30 pm in the evening after it was dark. Learned counsel, therefore, states that there is a contradiction in what the first informant says in the F.I.R. from what he says in the examination in chief and further he has taken a different stand in the cross-examination.

16. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant further submitted that even though the first informant had stated in the first information report that after 4 to 5 pm when the appellant was last seen with the child the accused was not seen thereafter till his arrest but P.W. -2 i.e. that the brother of the first informant Satyaveer in his statement had stated that Shiva's body was found at around 12:30pm and the first person to find the body of the deceased was Shaki, that is the accused along with four other boys, namely, Vipin, Sonu, Pradeep and Ankit. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant, therefore, submits that, in fact, Shaki as per the statement of P.W. -2 was throughout searching for the child Shiva. Since learned counsel for the appellant had heavily relied upon this part of the statement of P.W. 2, the same is being reproduced here as under:- ''शिवा की लाश करीब साढे बारह बजे दिन में मिली थी। सबसे पहले लाश के पास शाकी अभि0 चार लडको को लेकर जिनमें अंकित, विपिन, सोनू व प्रदीप थे तलाश कराने ले गया था। उन लडकों को ही शाकी ने बताया था शिवा कीलाश गन्ने के खेत में है। उसके बाद ये पांचोंगांव मे गये थे। और फिर गांव वाले इनके साथ गये थे।साकी यह बात बताकर गांव से फरार हो गया था।''

17. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant further submitted that to disprove the fact that Shaki had seen the dead body along with his four friends, namely, Ankit, Vipin, Sonu and Pradeep the four friend were never produced in the witness box.

18. In this case, the accused-appellant has not absconded and his conduct was not suspicious but was bonafide as he was also searching the deceased along with other boys. Absconding may lead to suspicion against the person who is suspected and has absconded after occurrence but in this case it is not so.

19. "Absconding' is a telltale circumstance of a guilty mind, unless the accused can offer a reasonable explanation for his absence for several days at his normal place of residence or work or at places where he would normally be expected to be found. It is only one link in the chain of evidence and not the determining link. Hiding in his own house may be absconding. It is hiding to evade process of law. In Thimma vs. State of Mysore, AIR 1971 SC 1871 the Supreme Court held that even innocent persons may, when suspected of grave crimes, be tempted to evade arrest. Unnatural conduct of accused can strengthen prosecution version.

20. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that if the P.W. 1 i.e. the first informant was of the view that Shaki, the accused and the deceased were together after they were last seen on 23.1.2007 in between 4-5pm till the incident had occured then the first informant should have got at least some report registered with the Police with regard to the fact that his son was not being found.

IV. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant still further has argued that if the post mortem report was seen then there was no sign of any dirty work (as mentioned in Section 377 IPC) having been done on the body of the deceased. He specifically pointed out to column 4 of the postmortem report which is to the effect that there was no abrasion and laceration wound around the anus and, therefore, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that for no reason the appellant was implicated and, thereafter, punished.

21. Learned counsel for the appellant while assailing the judgement of the Trial Court submits that the trial court had only presumed on the basis of suspicion that the deceased was taken away by the appellant after he was last seen on 23.1.2007 at around 4 to 5 pm and he submitted that suspicion cannot take the place of proof. He submits that just because there was an enmity it could not be said that it had to be concluded that the appellant had killed the son of the first informant.

22. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant, thereafter, has also pointed out to the delay in the filing of the first information report. He has drawn the attention of the Court to the statements made by other witnesses wherein it was evident that they had seen the child till very late in the evening much after 4 to 5 pm. It is noteworthy that the presence of the finger prints on the neck of the deceased with the fingers of the accused was not matched. Similarly, the footprints of the actual accused may have been present on the spot, but those footprints were not matched with the footprints of the accused.

23. Learned Additional Government Advocate Sri Vikas Goswami, however, in his reply has submitted that when the appellant was last seen with the deceased at around 4 to 5 pm and, thereafter, when the body was found around 12:30 pm on the next date i.e. 24.1.2007, the prosecution could come to only one conclusion and that was that the appellant had taken away the child and had killed him and buried him in the sugar cane fields. Thus, it was established that the deceased was seen with the accused before the death and, therefore, he was responsible for the death.

24. Learned AGA further submitted that minor discrepancies in the statements of various witnesses with regard to seeing the child playing with the appellant were of no consequence and they should be ignored.

25. Learned AGA submits that the P.W. -1 & 2 were rustic witnesses and if there were certain contradictions in their statements then they were of no value and should be ignored. He vehemently submitted that the hyoid bone of the child was fractured and, therefore, the only conclusion was that the child was murdered by strangulation by the appellant, with whom he was last seen.

26. Learned AGA also tried to fix the time of occurrence by drawing the attention of the Court to the rigour mortis which had set in and he submitted that the stage of rigour mortis was such that it definitely suggested that the child had been murdered on the previous evening at around 4 to 5 pm and, therefore, when the appellant was seen last at around 4 to 5 pm i.e. around the time when the child was killed it could be safely concluded that the appellant alone had killed the child. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has opined in various cases that no doctor can determine the exact time of death as there can be a variation of six hours on both sides.

27. In the case of State of U.P. vs. Mohd. Iqram reported in (2011) 3 SCC (Cri) 354, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that "the post mortem report is not a substantive piece of evidence. Substantive piece of evidence is that statement which is given by witness in Court. If the post mortem is proved but that does not meant that its each and every content thereof also proved or can be held admissible."

28. The decision passed in the case of Kunju Mohammad v. State of Kerala reported in 2004 SCC (Cri) 1425 is relevant in respect of rigor morits and its evidence for ascertaining the time of death. It has been observed that " according to the prosecution the incident took place at 8.15 on 03.11.1991. Post Mortem of the deceased was conducted at 13.30 on the same day. Doctor opined in P.M.R. that rigor mortis was present all over the body. Doctor in his evidence stated that rigor mortis sets in 4 to 7 hours after death. The Supreme Court on the basis of rigor mortis observed that the death in question must have occurred before 6.30 am on 03.11.1991 not at 8.15 a.m. as per prosecution."

29. The time of occurrence can be determined by some other means also such as food found while conducting post mortem.

30. In the instant case, 400ml liquid food was found in the stomach. The autopsy was conducted on 25.1.2007 at 2:30pm. According to the prosecution case, the deceased was killed in the night of 23/24.1.2007. Thus, the post mortem had been conducted after about two days from the time of probable death.

31. According to P.W.-3, Dr. Ashwani Kumar Sharma, who did the post mortem has opined that there is possibility that the deceased was killed in between the evening of 23.1.2007 at 4:00pm to 12:00am. The deceased was killed between 4:00pm to 12:00am of night of 23.1.2007 and 24.1.2007.

32. In the cross-examination, the P.W. - 3, has opined that food remains in the stomach of alive person can be there for six to eight hours. He deposed that the deceased died after 6 to 8 hours after taking the food. He has agreed that there is a possibility of variation of around 6 to 8 hours about the time of death. The hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Pattipati Venkaiah vs. State of A.P. reported in 1985 4 SCC 80 has observed that "the medical science is not yet so perfect as to determine the exact time of death, nor can the same be determined in a computerized or mathematical fashion so as to the last record. The state of the contents of the stomach found at the time of medical examination is not a safe guide for determining the time of occurrence, because that would be matter of speculation. The time required for digestion may depend upon the nature of the food, digestive capacity of a person, and quality and quantity of food and atmospheres and condition etc.

So argument raised on behalf of appellant rejected."

33. Having heard Sri Amit Daga (Amicus Curiae) assisted by the Sri Abhishek Kumar Jaiswal learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Vikas Goswami learned Government Advocate, we are of the view that the order of conviction which was passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 6, Muzaffarnagar, was erroneously passed. The judgement and order dated 20.3.2008 was passed on the testimony of various prosecution witnesses. After the examination-in-chief and the cross-examination of the

P.W. - 1 i.e. the first informant is perused, the Court finds that it could be said that the first informant had seen the appellant along with the first informant's son Shiva at around 4 to 5 pm. As per the P.W. -1, the brother of the P.W. -1 who was produced as P.W. -2 and one Surendra son of Rahtu Harijan had also seen the appellant playing with the deceased at around 4 to 5 pm on 23.1.2007. Thereafter, they were not to be found. As per the P.W. - 1 both the appellant and the deceased had absolutely disappeared after they were last seen and the child after being killed was found buried at 12:30pm on the next date on 24.1.2007. In the cross-examination, we find that the P.W. -1 has also stated that it was Surendra son of Shree Pal who had actually seen the child playing with the appellant. This prosecution witness (P.W.-1) has not been able to, with any certainty, come up with any evidence which would lead one to reach a conclusion that the appellant and the appellant alone had murdered the child. His statement of fact that the appellant was not to be found after he was seen last at 4 to 5 pm was in direct contradiction to the statement made by P.W. - 2 that the appellant himself was searching for the missing child Shiva and the appellant along with 4 other boys, namley, Ankit, Vipin, Sonu and Pradeep had found the dead body. This not only makes the statement of the P.W. - 1 unreliable but in fact a suspicion is raised in the mind of the Court that the first informant was trying to falsely implicate the appellant. The P.W. - 1 has also not tried to disprove the statement of the P.W. - 2 by producing the four boys, namely, Ankit, Sonu, Vipin and Pradeep. He has also not questioned the P.W. - 2 with regard to the fact as to whether he had actually seen the appellant Shaki searching for the missing child. The Court, therefore, finds that conviction on the basis of the fact that the appellant was last seen with the deceased has no ground to stand as there are many missing links between the time the first informant (P.W.-1), the P.W. - 2 and Surendra had seen the appellant last with the child and the time when the body of the deceased was found.

34. Further, we find substance in the argument of the learned counsel for the accused-appellant that if only a few days back the appellant had done some dirty work with the elder son of the first informant who was named Deepak then it was a natural behaviour of any father not to trust the younger son of his with that person.

35. We have earlier already found that this case is totally based on circumstantial evidence and not on direct evidence. In the case of State of U.P. vs. Satish reported in 2005 (3) SCC 114, the Supreme Court has held that "there is no doubt that conviction can be based solely on circumstantial evidence but it should be tested by the touchstone of law relating to circumstantial evidence laid down by this Court as far back in 1952."

36. Further, in the case of Sharad Birdichand Sarda vs. State of Maharashtra reported in AIR 1984 SC 1622, the Supreme Court has held that "before conviction could be based on circumstantial evidence the following conditions must be fully established and they are:

1. The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

2. The fact so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused.

3. The circumstances should be of conclusive nature and tendency.

4. They should exclude every possible hypothesis except one to be proved.

5. There must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

37. These conditions have been called as the "Five golden principles' or to say' constitute the panchsheel of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence.'

38. Recently, in Nathiya vs. State Rep. By Inspector of Police, Bagayam Police Station, Vellore, (Crim. Appeal No. 1015 of 2010, date of judgement 08.11.2016), the Hon'ble Court has approvingly referred to Sujit Biswas vs. State of Assam, (2013) 12 SCC 406 and Raja @ Rajednra vs. State of Haryana (2015) 11 SCC 43. The proposition laid down is to the effect that in scrutinising circumstantial evidence, a court is required to evaluate it to ensure that the chain of events is established clearly and completely, to rule out any reasonable likelihood of the innocence of the accused. Whether the chain is complete or not would depend on facts of each case emanating from the evidence and no universal yardstick should ever be attempted.

39. More recently in Ganpat Singh vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 159, it has been reiterated that circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn, must be cogently and firmly established. The circumstances taken cumulatively, should form a chain so complete, that there is no escape from the conclusion, that within all human probability, the crime was committed by accused and they should be incapable of explanation on any hypothesis other than that of guilt of accused and inconsistent with his innocence."

40. Where a case rests squarely on circumstantial evidence, the inference of guilt can be justified only when all the incriminating facts and circumstances are found to be incompatible with the innocence of the accused or the guilt of any other person. (Raju vs. State, by Inspector of Police, AIR 2009 SC 2171). Onus is on the prosecution to prove that the chain is complete and false defence or plea cannot cure the infirmity or lacuna in the prosecution case. If the evidence relied on is reasonably capable of two inferences, the one in favour of the accused must be accepted.(Vithal E Adlinge vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2009 SC 2067). The circumstances from which an inference as to the guilt of the accused is drawn have to be proved beyond reasonable doubt and have to be shown to be closely connected with the principal fact sought to be inferred from those circumstances (Krishna Ghose vs. State of W.B., AIR 2009 SC 2279).

41. In Dev Kanya Tiwari vs. State of U.P., (2018) 5 SCC 734, it has been held that when there is no eye witness to an incident and the case is entirely based upon circumstantial evidence, then court is expected to be more careful and cautious while analyzing the evidence and while convicting the accused. In other words, in all probabilities chain of circumstances should lead to an irresistible conclusion that the accused participated in the commission of the crime and committed the offence.

42. In the instant case, if the first informant had in his mind the dirty work which was done by the appellant with Deepak his elder son then he would definitely not have allowed the appellant to play with the child of the first informant who was later on murdered. On these grounds we, therefore, conclude that the appeal deserves to be allowed and the appellant deserves to be acquitted.

43. The appeal is, therefore, allowed and the judgement and order dated 20.3.2008 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 6, Muzaffarnagar, in Session Trial No. 854 of 2007 arising out of Case Crime No. 7 of 2007, under Section 302 and 201 IPC, Thana - Bhaunrakala, District - Muzaffarnagar, is quashed and is set aside.

44. Since the appellant is reported to be in jail, he be set free forthwith, if he is not required in any other case.

45. We appreciate the hard work which has been put in by the Amicus Curiae and quantify the fee to be Rs. 35,000/- which may be paid to him.

It is open to the Court concerned to exercise its discretion in the facts and circumstances of each case – However, the discretion to waive statutory period of six months is a guided discretion for consideration of interest of justice where there is no chance of reconciliation and the parties were already separated for a longer period or contesting proceedings for a period longer than the period mentioned in Section 13-B(2) of the Act – Amardeep Singh's case and Amit Kumar's case relied upon. 1. This first appeal under Section 19 of the Family Courts Act, 1984 has been filed challenging the orders dated 02.02.2022 and 07.03.2022 passed by the Family Court (Principal Judge, Family Court, Barabanki) rejecting the prayer made by the Appellant and the Respondent to waive the minimum period of six months stipulated under Section 13-B(2) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 (for short 'the Act') for a motion for passing a decree of divorce on the basis of mutual consent.

2. Anamika Srivastava, the Appellant, was married to Anoop Srivastava, the Respondent, according to Hindu rites and rituals at Barabanki on 17.06.2010. Soon after the marriage, differences arose between them to such an extent that the Appellant left her matrimonial home on 24.09.2010 and since then she has been living with her parents. On 01.05.2013, the Appellant moved an application under Section 125 CrPC against the Respondent before the Family Court. The said case was registered as Criminal Misc. Case No. 258 of 2013 (Anamika Srivastava vs. Anoop Srivastava). On 03.10.2018, the Family Court allowed the application moved by the Appellant and directed the Respondent to pay a sum of Rs. 5000/- (Rupees five thousand only) per month to the Appellant towards maintenance with effect from the date of judgment. The judgment and order dated 03.10.2018 was assailed by the Respondent before this Court in Criminal Revision No.10 of 2019.

3. This Court vide its order dated 08.09.2021, passed in the said criminal revision, referred the matter to the Mediation and Conciliation Centre of this Court to explore the possibility of an amicable settlement between the parties. The mediation was successful. The Appellant and the Respondent agreed to dissolve their marriage. It was agreed that the Respondent shall pay a sum of Rs. 4,25,000/- (Rupees four lacs twenty five thousand only) to the Appellant towards full and final settlement of all disputes and the litigation between them whether civil or criminal will terminate. In terms of the settlement arrived at between the parties, the Respondent paid a sum of Rs. 3,00,000 (Rupees three lacs only) to the Appellant and on 13.01.2022 the parties jointly filed an application under section 13-B of the Act before the Family Court for dissolution of their marriage. The said case was registered as Regular Suit No.56 of 2022, Smt. Anamika Srivastava v. Anoop Srivastava. A copy of the settlement agreement dated 30.03.2022 signed by the Appellant, the Respondent, their counsel and the mediator has been brought on record as annexure no. SA-2 to the supplementary affidavit dated 12.04.2022.

4. On 13.01.2022 the Family Court passed an order, whereby the petition for divorce moved by the Appellant was ordered to be registered. 02.07.2022 was the date fixed for second motion and in the meantime the parties were directed to appear before the mediation centre on 14.02.2022. The relevant portion of the order dated 13.01.2022 is quoted below:

"पक्षकारों द्वारा एक साथ रहना संभव न होने का कथन किया गया तथा आपसी सहमति से तलाक की याचना की गई। पक्षकारों को पुर्नविचार

5. On 02.02.2022 the Appellant and the Respondent jointly moved an application before the Family Court under Section 13-B(2) of the Act, seeking waiver of six months waiting period to make a motion for the court to pass decree of divorce on the ground that the mediation between the parties had already taken place before the mediation centre of this Court wherein the parties had agreed to dissolve their marriage by mutual consent and, as such, there was no occasion for the second mediation. The said application was rejected by the Family Court. The relevant portion of the order dated 02.02.2022 reads as under:-

"वाद पेश हुआ। ग–9 प्रार्थना पत्र प्रार्थीगण की ओर से इस आशय का प्रस्तुत किया गया है कि प्रस्तुत मामले में माननीय उच्च न्यायालय लखनऊ खण्ड पीठ लखनऊ में समझौता होने के उपरान्त प्रस्तुत वाद योजित किया गया है। इसलिए प्रस्तुत मामले में मीडिएशन सेन्टर हेतु नियत तिथि दि0 14.02.2022 व सुनवाई हेतु 02.07.2022 निरस्त करते हुए शीघ्र सुनवाई हेतु अन्य तिथि नियत की जाए।

6. On 07.03.2022 the parties again moved an application for waiving the statutory period of six months for second motion. It was inter alia said in the said application that parties had been living separately for more than ten years; that before the Mediation Centre of this Court the parties freely on their own accord, without any coercion or pressure, have arrived at a joint settlement. In the circumstances, six month waiting period be waived and a decree of divorce be passed forthwith. By an order dated 07.03.2022 the said application has been rejected by the Family Court on the ground that in terms of the order passed in the said case, the parties had not appeared before the mediation centre and, as such, there was no good ground to waive the statutory period of six months. The Order dated 07.03.2022 is extracted below:-

"वाद पेश हुआ। प्रार्थीगण उभय पक्ष की ओर से प्रार्थना पत्र ग–12 इस आशय का प्रस्तुत किया गया है कि उभय पक्ष के मध्य दि0 17.06.2010 को हिन्दू रीति–रिवाज के अनुसार विवाह हुआ था। दोनों के मध्य कोई संतान नहीं है। विवाह के 3 माह बाद ही दोनों पक्ष अलग हो गये और तब से दोनों पक्ष अलग–अलग रह रहे हैं। भरण–पोषण के वाद में उभय पक्ष के मध्य विवाद विच्छेद पर सहमति हुई जिसके अनुक्रम में प्रस्तुत वाद विवाह विच्छेद हेतु अन्तर्गत धारा 13(बी) हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम प्रस्तुत किया गया है और उभय पक्ष के मध्य आपसी सुलह समझौते से भरण–पोषण के संबंध में भी धनराशि मु0 4,25000/– तय हो गयी है जिसमें से मु0 300000/– प्रार्थिनी/वादिनी संख्या–1 को प्राप्त हो चुकी है और सुलह समझौते के अनुक्रम में मु0 1,25,000/– वादी संख्या–2 द्वारा वादिनी संख्या–1 को

प्रस्तुत प्रकरण में अन्तर्गत धारा 13(बी) हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम उभय पक्ष के मध्य हुए विवाह को विघटित करने हेतु संस्थित वाद में प्रथम मोशन हेतु मध्यस्थता केन्द्र पर पक्षकारों को उपस्थित होने हेतु दि0 14.02.2022 की तिथि निर्धारित की गयी और द्वितीय मोशन हेतु सुनवाई की तिथि दि0 02.07.2022 नियत की गयी। किन्तु प्रार्थीगण/वादीगण प्रार्थना पत्र ग–12 समर्थित शपथ पत्र के अनुसार उभय पक्ष दि0 14.02.2022 को सुलह समझौता हेतु मध्यस्थता केन्द्र पर उपस्थित नहीं आये। यद्यपि कोविड–19 महामारी के प्रभाव व प्रसार के कारण न्यायिक कार्य व मध्यस्थता कार्य उक्त अवधि में सम्यक रूप से सम्पादित नहीं हो सका, किन्तु वर्तमान में माननीय उच्च न्यायालय के दिशानिर्देश के अनुक्रम में न्यायिक कार्य व मध्यस्थता कार्य पूर्ण रूप से संचालित किया जा रहा है किन्तु उसके बाद भी उभय पक्ष अन्तर्गत धारा 13(बी) हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम व परिवार न्यायालय अधिनियम की सुसंगत उपबंधों के अधीन सुलह समझौता हेतु मध्यस्थता केन्द्र पहुँच नहीं सके न ही सुलह–समझौता हेतु प्रयासरत हैं न ही बाद में जब मध्यस्थता कार्य सुचारू रूप से संचालित होने लगा तब सुलह–समझौता केन्द्र पहुँचने का कोई कारण दर्शित नहीं किया जा सका। स्वयं प्रार्थीगण/वादीगण के प्रार्थना पत्र के अनुसार लम्बे अन्तराल से उभय पक्ष अलग रह रहे हैं जिसके उपरान्त ही प्रस्तुत वाद योजित किया गया है। न्यायिक कार्य व मध्यस्थता कार्य सामान्य रूप से संचालित होने के उपरान्त भी उभय पक्ष प्रार्थीगण मध्यस्थता केन्द्र पर सुलह समझौता हेतु उपस्थित नहीं हो सके। जैसा की न्याय की मंशा है।

उपरोक्त तथ्य एवं परिस्थितियों में अन्तर्गत धारा 13(बी) हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम व परिवार न्यायालय अधिनियम के सुसंगत उपबंधों के अनुपालन में प्रार्थीगण/पक्षकारों के मध्यस्थता केन्द्र उपस्थित होने के निर्देश के अनुपालन के बिना पूर्व निर्धारित तिथि दि0 02.07.2022 के पूर्व प्रार्थीगण/वादीगण का प्रार्थना पत्र ग–12 में याचित अनुतोष को स्वीकार करते हुए प्रस्तुत वाद को तत्काल आज्ञप्त किए जाने का औचित्य पूर्ण आधार नहीं है। अतः प्रार्थना पत्र ग–12 उपरोक्त विश्लेषण के आलोक में निरस्त किया जाता है। प्रार्थीगण/उभय पक्ष दि0 15.03.2022 को सुलह समझौता हेतु मध्यस्थता केन्द्र उपस्थित हों। तत्पश्चात पत्रावली नियत तिथि दि0 02.07.2022 को पुनर्विचार व द्वितीय मोशन हेतु पेश हो।'*

7. The orders dated 02.02.2022 and 07.03.2022 are under challenge in this appeal.

8. Shri Ramesh Kumar Dwivedi, learned counsel for the Appellant has contended that the marriage between the parties has irretrievably broken down and the parties have settled their differences. Relying upon a decision of the Apex Court in the case of Amardeep Singh v. Harveen Kaur, (2017) 8 SCC 746, the counsel contends that in the absence of any chance of reconciliation, the Family Court ought to have exercised its discretion to waive of the cooling period of six months in favour of the Appellant.

9. Shri Akhilesh Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the Respondent has supported the counsel for the Appellant and has prayed that this appeal be allowed.

10. Heard the counsel for the parties and perused the record.

11. Section 13-B of the Act reads as under:-

"13-B. Divorce by mutual consent.-(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act a petition for dissolution of marriage by a decree of divorce may be presented to the district court by both the parties to a marriage together, whether such marriage was solemnized before or after the commencement of the Marriage Laws (Amendment) Act, 1976, on the ground that they have been living separately for a period of one year or more, that they have not been able to live together and that they have mutually agreed that the marriag

(2) On the motion of both the parties made not earlier than six months after the date of the presentation of the petition referred to in sub-section (1) and not later than eighteen months after the said date, if the petition is not withdrawn in the meantime, the court shall, on being satisfied, after hearing the parties and after making such inquiry as it thinks fit, that a marriage has been solemnized and that the averments in the petition are true, pass a decree of divorce declaring the marriage to be dissolved with effect from the date of the decree."

12. The three ingredients for initiating proceedings under Section 13-B of the Act for divorce by mutual consent are: firstly, that the parties to the marriage have been living separately for a minimum period of one year. Secondly, they have not been able to live together, and thirdly, they have mutually agreed that marriage should be dissolved.

13. Sub-section (1) of Section 13-B of the Act is an enabling section. It enables the parties to file a petition for divorce by mutual consent. Sub-section (2) of Section 13-B lays down the procedure for the parties to adhere to after expiry of six months from the date of filing of the petition for divorce by mutual consent. The second motion, which as per Sub-section (2) of Section 13-B is to be made not earlier than six months after the date of presentation of the petition, enables the court to proceed with the case. If the court is satisfied that the consent of the parties was not obtained by force, fraud or undue influence and they mutually agree that the marriage should be dissolved, the court is left with no other option but to pass a decree of divorce.

14. Sub-section (2) of Section 13-B of the Act, in unequivocal terms, provides that the second motion has to be made not earlier than six months from the date of presentation of the petition before the Court.

15. Section 14 of the Act provides that notwithstanding anything contained elsewhere in the Act, it shall not be competent to the Court to entertain any petition for dissolution of a marriage by a decree of divorce, unless on the date of presentation of the petition, one year had elapsed since the date of marriage. However, the proviso to Section 14 provides that the Court may, on application made to it, in accordance with such rules as may be made by the High Court, allow a petition to be presented before one year has elapsed since the date of marriage, on the ground that the case is one of exceptional hardship to the Appellant or of exceptional depravity on the part of the respondent.

16. The provisions of the Hindu Marriage Act evince an inherent respect for the institution of marriage, which contemplates the sacramental union of a man and a woman for life. However, there may be circumstances in which it may not reasonably be possible for the parties to the marriage to live together as husband and wife. The Act, therefore has provisions for annulment of marriage in specified circumstances, which apply to marriages which are not valid in the eye of law and provisions of judicial separation and dissolution of marriage by decree of divorce on grounds provided in Section 13(1) of the said Act, which apply to cases where it is not reasonably possible for the parties to a marriage to live together as husband and wife.

17. Section 13-B incorporated in the Act with effect from 27.5.1976, which provides for divorce by mutual consent, is not intended to weaken the institution of marriage. Section 13-B puts an end to collusive divorce proceedings between spouses, often undefended, but time consuming by reason of a rigmarole of procedures. Section 13-B also enables the parties to a marriage to avoid and/or shorten unnecessary acrimonious litigation, where the marriage may have irretrievably broken down and both the spouses may have mutually decided to part. But for Section 13-B, the defendant spouse would often be constrained to defend the litigation, not to save the marriage, but only to refute prejudicial allegations, which if accepted by Court, might adversely affect the defendant spouse.

18. Legislature has, in its wisdom, enacted Section 13-B(2) of the Act to provide for a cooling period of six months from the date of filing of the divorce petition under Section 13-B(1), in case the parties should change their mind and resolve their differences. After six months if the parties still wish to go ahead with the divorce, and make a motion, the Court has to grant a decree of divorce declaring the marriage dissolved with effect from the date of the decree, after making such enquiries as it considers fit.

19. Prior to the judgment in Amardeep Singh (Supra), sub-section (2) was treated to be mandatory in nature. In Neeti Malviya v. Rakesh Malviya, (2010) 6 SCC 413, a Bench of two Judges of the Apex Court, while dealing with the question as to whether the period prescribed in Sub-section (2) of Section 13-B of the Act could be waived off or reduced by the Apex Court in exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 142 of the Constitution, observed as under:

"7. As already stated, the language of the said provision is clear and prima facie admits of no departure from the time-frame laid down therein i.e. the second motion under the said sub-section cannot be made earlier than six months after the date of presentation of the petition under sub-section (1) of Section 13-B of the Act."

20. However, in Amardeep Singh (supra), the Apex Court considered the question as to whether the minimum period of six months stipulated under Section 13-B(2) of the Act for a motion for passing decree of divorce on the basis of mutual consent was mandatory or it could be relaxed in any exceptional situations and after taking into account the statutory provisions and the judgment on the issue for the first time opined that the statutory period of six months specified under sub-section (2) of Section 13-B of the Act was not mandatory and the court, in exceptional circumstances, can waive the same, subject to certain conditions specified therein. Paragraph 19 of the said report is extracted below:

"19. Applying the above to the present situation, we are of the view that where the court dealing with a matter is satisfied that a case is made out to waive the statutory period under Section 13-B(2), it can do so after considering the following:

(i) the statutory period of six months specified in Section 13-B(2), in addition to the statutory period of one year under Section 13-B(1) of separation of parties is already over before the first motion itself;

(ii) all efforts for mediation/conciliation including efforts in terms of Order 32-A Rule 3 CPC/Section 23(2) of the Act/Section 9 of the Family Courts Act to reunite the parties have failed and there is no likelihood of success in that direction by any further efforts;

(iii) the parties have genuinely settled their differences including alimony, custody of child or any other pending issues between the parties;

(iv) the waiting period will only prolong their agony.

The waiver application can be filed one week after the first motion giving reasons for the prayer for waiver. If the above conditions are satisfied, the waiver of the waiting period for the second motion will be in the discretion of the court concerned."

21. Thus, as held by the Apex Court in the case of Amardeep Singh, the period mentioned under Section 13-B(2) of the Act is not mandatory but directory. It is open to the Court concerned to exercise its discretion in the facts and circumstances of each case. However, the discretion to waive statutory period of six months is a guided discretion for consideration of interest of justice where there is no chance of reconciliation and the parties were already separated for a longer period or contesting proceedings for a period longer than the period mentioned in Section 13-B(2) of the Act.

22. In Amit Kumar v. Suman Beniwal, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 1270, the Apex Court enumerated some of the factors which are to be taken into consideration while exercising the discretion of waiving the statutory period of six months for moving a motion for divorce and observed as under:-

"27. For exercise of the discretion to waive the statutory waiting period of six months for moving the motion for divorce under Section 13B(2) of the Hindu Marriage Act, the Court would consider the following amongst other factors : -

i. the length of time for which the parties had been married;

ii. how long the parties had stayed together as husband and wife;

iii. the length of time the parties had been staying apart;

iv. the length of time for which the litigation had been pending;

v. whether there were any other proceedings between the parties;

vi. whether there was any possibility of reconciliation;

vii. whether there were any children born out of the wedlock;

viii. whether the parties had freely, of their own accord, without any coercion or pressure, arrived at a genuine settlement which took care of alimony, if any, maintenance and custody of children, etc."

23. Under the Act also, in respect of the family matters, Parliament has made several provisions for reconciliation. Under Section 23(2)

"before proceeding to grant any relief under this Act, it shall be the duty of the court in the first instance, in every case where it is possible so to do consistently with the nature and circumstances of the case, to make every endeavour to bring about a reconciliation between the parties".

24. Sub-section (3) of Section 23 of the Act further provides for methods to facilitate the process, which reads as follows:

"23. (3) For the purpose of aiding the court in bringing about such reconciliation, the court may, if the parties so desire or if the court thinks it just and proper so to do, adjourn the proceedings for a reasonable period not exceeding fifteen days and refer the matter to any person named by the parties in this behalf or to any person nominated by the court if the parties fail to name any person, with directions to report to the court, as to whether reconciliation can be and has been, effected and the court shall in disposing of the proceeding have due regard to the report." (emphasis supplied)

25. The Family Courts Act was introduced with the avowed object to set up Family Courts for the settlement of family disputes, where emphasis was to be laid on conciliation and achieving socially desirable results without adherence to rigid rules of procedure and evidence.

26. Section 9 of the Family Courts Act makes it obligatory on the part of the Family Court to endeavour, in the first instance to effect a reconciliation or a settlement between the parties to a family dispute. During this stage, the proceedings are informal and the rigid rules of procedure do not apply. The said provision reads as follows:

"9. Duty of Family Court to make efforts for settlement.-- (1) In every suit or proceeding, endeavour shall be made by the Family Court in the f*irst instance, where it is possible to do so consistent with the nature and circumstances of the case, to assist and persuade the parties in arriving at a settlement* in respect of the subject-matter of the suit or proceeding and for this purpose a Family Court may, subject to any rules made by the High Court, follow such procedure as it may deem fit.

(2) If, in any suit or proceeding, at any stage, it appears to the Family Court that there is a reasonable possibility of a settlement between the parties, the Family Court may adjourn the proceedings for such period as it thinks fit to enable attempts to be made to effect such a settlement.

(3) The power conferred by sub-section (2) shall be in addition to, and not in derogation of, any other power of the Family Court to adjourn the proceedings."

27. No doubt Section 9 of the Family Courts Act casts an obligation upon the Family Court to make efforts for settlement. However, the Court is not supposed to act in a mechanical manner, and force the parties to engage in mediation where the marriage has irretrievably broken down. Section 9 itself states that the Court is required to make an endeavor to assist and persuade the parties to arrive at a settlement. It also says that this has to be done in consistence with the nature and circumstances of the case. Therefore, it is clear that reference of the parties to mediation is not compulsorily required where the facts and circumstances of the case showcase that no purpose would be served out of such reference. The endeavor to get the matter settled is compulsory, but the reference to mediation by the Family Court itself is not.

28. At this juncture, it is relevant to support the above conclusion by making reference to certain extracts of a judgment of the Apex Court in Naveen Kohli v. Neelu Kohli, (2006) 4 SCC 558, wherein a three Judge Bench of the Apex Court observed as under:

"72. Once the parties have separated and the separation has continued for a sufficient length of time and one of them has presented a petition for divorce, it can well be presumed that the marriage has broken down. The court, no doubt, should seriously make an endeavour to reconcile the parties; yet, if it is found that the breakdown is irreparable, then divorce should not be withheld. The consequences of preservation in law of the unworkable marriage which has long ceased to be effective are bound to be a source of greater misery for the parties.

74. We have been principally impressed by the consideration that once the marriage has broken down beyond repair, it would be unrealistic for the law not to take notice of that fact, and it would be harmful to society and injurious to the interests of the parties. Where there has been a long period of continuous separation, it may fairly be surmised that the matrimonial bond is beyond repair. The marriage becomes a fiction, though supported by a legal tie. By refusing to sever that tie the law in such cases does not serve the sanctity of marriage; on the contrary, it shows scant regard for the feelings and emotions of the parties.

85. Undoubtedly, it is the obligation of the court and all concerned that the marriage status should, as far as possible, as long as possible and whenever possible, be maintained, but when the marriage is totally dead, in that event, nothing is gained by trying to keep the parties tied forever to a marriage which in fact has ceased to exist. In the instant case, there has been total disappearance of emotional substratum in the marriage. The course which has been adopted by the High Court would encourage continuous bickering, perpetual bitterness and may lead to immorality.

86. In view of the fact that the parties have been living separately for more than 10 years and a very large number of aforementioned criminal and civil proceedings have been initiated by the respondent against the appellant and some proceedings have been initiated by the appellant against the respondent, the matrimonial bond between the parties is beyond repair. A marriage between the parties is only in name. The marriage has been wrecked beyond the hope of salvage, public interest and interest of all concerned lies in the recognition of the fact and to declare defunct de jure what is already defunct de facto. To keep the sham is obviously conducive to immorality and potentially more prejudicial to the public interest than a dissolution of the marriage bond."

29. In the case of Amit Kumar (Supra) the Apex Court has observed where marriage between the parities has irretrievably broken down and the parties have mutually opted to part ways, it is better to dissolve the marriage. Paragraphs 18 and 19 of the report are extracted below:-

"18. The object of Section 13B(2) read with Section 14 is to save the institution of marriage, by preventing hasty dissolution of marriage. It is often said that "time is the best healer". With passage of time, tempers cool down and anger dissipates. The waiting period gives the spouses time to forgive and forget. If the spouses have children, they may, after some time, think of the consequences of divorce on their children, and reconsider their decision to separate. Even otherwise, the cooling period gives the couple time to ponder and reflect and take a considered decision as to whether they should really put an end to the marriage for all time to come.

19. Where there is a chance of reconciliation, however slight, the cooling period of six months from the date of filing of the divorce petition should be enforced. However, if there is no possibility of reconciliation, it would be meaningless to prolong the agony of the parties to the marriage. Thus, if the marriage has broken down irretrievably, the spouses have been living apart for a long time, but not been able to reconcile their differences and have mutually decided to part, it is better to end the marriage, to enable both the spouses to move on with the life."

30. In the case at hand both the parties are well educated. Admittedly, the parties lived together only for three months and after which they have separated on account of irreparable differences. The parties have lived apart for more than eleven years. The parties have appeared before the Mediation and Conciliation Centre of this Court and have settled their dispute amicably. The parties are unwilling to live together as husband and wife. Even after eleven years of separation the parties still want to go for divorce. Considering that the parties had already engaged in mediation before the Mediation Centre of this Court, and had failed to reconcile, no purpose would be served by subjecting the parties to the same process again, especially when they have been living apart for several years, and the marriage has irretrievably broken down. No useful purpose would be served in keeping the petition pending except to prolong their agony.

31. In view of the discussions made above, the appeal is allowed.

32. The impugned orders dated 02.02.2022 and 07.03.2022 passed by the Family Court are set aside. The statutory waiting period of six months under Section 13-B(2) of the Act is waived.

33. Parties are directed to appear before the Family Court on 30.05.2022.

The Family Court will forthwith pass a decree of divorce in accordance with law.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Narendra Kumar Johari, J.)

1. First Appeal No. 104 of 2017 (Deepa Bajpai Vs. Dr. Ashish Mishra) under Section 19 (1) of the Family Courts Act, 1984 has been filed against judgment and decree dated 15.05.2017, passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Lucknow in Regular Suit No.2799 of 2016 (Dr. Ashish Mishra Vs. Deepa Bajpai).

First Appeal No. 108 of 2017 (Deepa Bajpai Vs. Dr. Ashish Mishra) has been filed against the order dated 10.07.2017, passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Lucknow in Misc. Case No.Nil/2017, by which the application filed by the appellant for recall of the judgment/decree dated 15.05.2017 was rejected.

2. Since the facts and issue in both the appeals are similar, parties are same, therefore, both the appeals are being decided by the common judgment.

3. The brief facts of the case as argued before us are that the appellant Deepa Bajpai got married with respondent Dr. Ashish Mishra on 29.01.2015 at Lucknow observing Hindu rites and rituals. In the marriage, sufficient dowry including motor car and jewelry were given by the parents of the appellant but respondent and his family members were not satisfied by the dowry given and were continuously rebuking and demanding additional dowry. The mother of appellant was suffering from cancer and her father was working on the post of Assistant Accounts Officer in Defence Accounts department who performed her marriage by taking loan, that is why the parents of the appellant were not in a position to fulfill the demand of additional dowry, consequently, the in-laws of the appellant started torturing her.

4. The appellant was performing her duties as wife of respondent and never left his company. On 11.02.2016, appellant gave birth to a female child but the in-laws were not happy, as the appellant gave birth to a girl. The daughter of the appellant was not a normal child, as she was having only one Kidney in her body and her treatment was continuing from the hospital SGPGIMS, Lucknow. Since the demand of additional dowry could not be fulfilled, hence the in-laws of appellant were continuously torturing and behaving badly with her. They were intending to remarry the respondent in greed of money and were forcing the appellant to take divorce but the appellant was not ready. Without the consent of appellant, the respondent prepared the papers for divorce on the basis of mutual consent. On 20.10.2016, the sister-in-law of appellant snatched her daughter from the lap of appellant and by giving threat of her life they forced the appellant to sign the papers of divorce petition in Court. Appellant appeared before the Court but due to threat to the life of her minor daughter, she could not speak a single word before the Court concerned. She had never signed any affidavit before oath commissioner. The divorce petition was instituted on 20.10.2016 and the next date, after six months, was fixed as 13.05.2017. On 13.05.2017, the next date given by the Court was 15.05.2017. On 15.05.2017 appellant along with respondent appeared before the Family Court and she was again forced to sign on some papers already prepared.

5. The appellant was living in her matrimonial home from 30.1.2015 till 10.06.2017. On 10.06.2017, the family members of the in-laws expelled and turned her out from her matrimonial home on the pretext that the decree for her divorce had been passed. Infact her in-laws had threatened appellant for the life of her minor daughter and she was compelled to sign the pleading and affidavit with false contention. The in-laws of the appellant have also committed offence by rebuking and torturing her in connection with demand of additional dowry. The divorce petition under Section 13-B of the Hindu Marriage Act,1955 has been filed in the Court with false contentions. It has wrongly been mentioned in the divorce petition that the parties have been living separately since 10.09.2015. Hence, a fraud has been committed with the appellant as well as with the court concerned. Accordingly, the consent which was given by the appellant before the Principal Judge, Family Court, was not free and had been obtained by force, fraud and undue influence.

6. Learned counsel for the appellant has further submitted that even the in-laws of the appellant expelled her from her matrimonial home. Immediately she approached to the court concerned to obtain the certified copy of the judgment and decree but her application was rejected on the ground of summer vacation. Immediately after summer vacation, appellant moved an application under Section 151 and under Order 47 Rule 1 of Code of Civil Procedure for recall and cancellation of the aforesaid judgment and decree but the application was rejected by the Principal Judge, Family Court on 10.07.2017. Thereafter, the instant appeal has been filed with the prayer to set aside the judgment and decree dated 15.05.2017. The minor daughter of the appellant is a medically challenged girl, who requires the custody and care of appellant urgently, hence the impugned judgment and decree be set-aside and appeal deserves to be allowed.

7. Learned counsel for the respondent vehemently opposed the arguments and replied that the instant appeal, which has been filed with false contention, according to law, is not maintainable. The application under Section 151 Code of Civil Procedure for cancellation/review of the judgment dated 15.05.2017 has already been rejected by the trial court vide order dated 10.07.2017. The instant appeal is not permissible, according to the provisions of Section 19 (2) of the Family Court Act. Learned counsel for respondent by referring the decision of this Court in the case of Nathu Lal vs. Raghuvir Singh and other; AIR 1926 Alld. 50 further submitted that for the relief as prayed by appellant a suit for declaration is maintainable.

8. We have heard the rival contentions of the parties and perused the record.

9. Taking into consideration the arguments of rival parties, the following points of determination are being framed :

(i) Whether the impugned judgment and decree dated 15.05.2017, is liable to be set-aside as the appellant was under coercion and a fraud has been played with appellant as well as with Court?

(ii) Whether the order dated 10.07.2017, passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Lucknow was bad in law and is liable to be set aside, as prayed in Appeal No.108 of 2017?

(iii) Whether the impugned judgment and decree which is based upon mutual consent under Section 13B of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 can be challenged by way of appeal/suit?

(iv) Whether for the reasons to grant custody of minor daughter, the appeal deserves to be allowed?

10. So far as point (i & ii)) - Whether the impugned judgment and decree is liable to be set-aside as the appellant was under coercion and a fraud has been played with appellant as well as with Court and Whether the order dated 10.07.2017, passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Lucknow was bad in law and is liable to be set aside, as prayed in Appeal No.108 of 2017, are concerned, the provisions of Section 13B of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, is reproduced as under :-

"13B. Divorce by mutual consent. - (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act a petition for dissolution of marriage by a decree of divorce may be presented to the district court by both the parties to a marriage together, whether such marriage was solemnized before or after the commencement of the Marriage Laws (Amendment) Act, 1976 (68 of 1976), on the ground that they have been living separately for a period of one year or more, that they have not been able to live together and that they have mutually agreed that the marriage should be dissolved.

(2) On the motion of both the parties made not earlier than six months after the date of the presentation of the petition referred to in sub-section (1) and not later than eighteen months after the said date, if the petition is not withdrawn in the meantime, the court shall, on being satisfied, after hearing the parties and after making such inquiry as it thinks fit, that a marriage has been solemnized and that the averments in the petition are true, pass a decree of divorce declaring the marriage to be dissolved with effect from the date of the decree."

11. According to the above definition, following ingredients are essential for granting decree of divorce : -

(i) parties have been living separately for a period of one year,

(ii) they have not been able to live together.

(iii) they have mutually agreed that the marriage should be dissolved.

12. The legislature in its wisdom has consciously provided the waiting period during which a decree for divorce by mutual consent can be passed. The object behind providing this period appears to allow time to the spouses to reconsider their decision and finally make up their mind in the above period. It also appears that in the interregnum period between minimum and maximum, the spouse can take legal recourse, if any force or fraud has been played while instituting the suit/proceedings under Section 13B of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955. The enactment also enables the court to satisfy itself that the consent of spouse is free from any extraneous influence or collusion. The legislation has also cast a duty on court under Section 23 of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955. Section 23 of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, reads as under :-

"23. Decree in proceedings.- (1) In any proceeding under this Act, whether defended or not, if the court is satisfied that -

(a) x x x x

(b) x x x x

(bb) when a divorce is sought on the ground of mutual consent, such consent has not been obtained by force, fraud or undue influence, and

(c) x x x x

(d) x x x x

(e) x x x x"

13. It is depicted by the record of the trial court that the application under Section 13B of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 was signed by the appellant who was identified by her counsel Mr. Nischal Pal Advocate. The application contains the photograph of appellant with signature over there also. The petition has been signed by the appellant along with respondent on 20.10.2016. Apart from that, on 15.05.2017, appellant had signed the affidavit which has been filed in the court in support of the application under Section 13B of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955. Record also indicates that a memo of appellant's address was also filed on 20.10.2016 before the Court while institution of petition. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that both the papers, i.e. divorce petition as well as affidavits in evidence has been signed by the appellant due to the reason that a threat was given to her for the life of her minor daughter.

14. Appellant is properly educated and is a post graduate lady, as it has been mentioned in paragraph 1 of the rejoinder affidavit dated 30.05.2018. The petition as well as the affidavit was drafted in Hindi. Certainly the appellant would have gone through the petition as well as the affidavit before signing the aforesaid papers but she did not raise any objection or complaint to Presiding Officer of the Court while the court was examining the parties in accordance with Section 13B (2) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955. Contrary to the same no argument has been put before us. Even no affidavit of her counsel has been submitted by appellant.

15. It has also been argued that petition for divorce was filed by the respondent with false facts. It has wrongly been mentioned in divorce petition that parties are living separately from 10.09.2015. The appellant, as wife was residing with respondent in her matrimonial home till 10.06.2017, the date on which the appellant was expelled from her

16. On the above point, appellant has not filed any documentary evidence in support of her argument regarding her dwelling in her matrimonial home till 20.10.2016. Even, she failed to file any paper of hospital where she gave birth of her daughter, to show the address of patient. The appellant has submitted her memo of address before the proceeding of trial court, showing a different address. She has not explained the same in memo of appeal. In paragraph 9 of Judgment Smt. Sureshta Devi vs. Om Prakash (1991) 2 SCC 25, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that,

"9. The 'living separately' for a period of one year should be immediately preceding the presentation of the petition. It is necessary that immediately preceding the presentation of petition, the parties must have been living separately. The expression 'living separately', connotes to our mind not living like husband and wife. It has no reference to the place of living. The parties may live under the same roof by force of circumstances, and yet they may not be living as husband and wife. The parties may be living in different houses and yet they could live as husband and wife. What seems to be necessary is that they have no desire to perform marital obligations and with that mental attitude they have been living separately for a period of one year immediately preceding the presentation of the petition. The second requirement that they 'have not been able to live together' seems to indicate the concept of broken down marriage and it would not be possible to reconcile themselves. The third requirement is that they have mutually agreed that the marriage should be dissolved."

17. Nothing has been placed on record to show that after 10th September, 2015, any conjugal relation was subsisting between appellant and respondent. For the argued fact that the in-laws of appellant illegally forced her and under coercion the appellant had signed the petition as well as the affidavit in court campus and to compel her, her medically challenged daughter had been snatched from her lap, the appellant even after 10.06.2017, has not lodged any F.I.R./complaint before any authorities/court. Paragraph 2 of the impugned judgment is reproduced as under :-

"पक्षकारों को सुनने तथा उनके शपथ–पत्र के अवलोकन से यह पाया जाता है कि उनके मध्य विवाह सम्पन्न हुआ था और याचिका में कहे गये तथ्य सत्य प्रतीत होते है। पक्षकारों के मध्य आपस में कोई दुरभि–संधि प्रतीत नहीं होती है। पक्षकार लगभग एक साल से अधिक समय से अलग–अलग रह रहे हैं। अतएवं उभय पक्षों की पारस्परिक सहमति के आधार पर उनके मध्य सम्पन्न हुए विवाह के सम्बन्ध में विवाह विच्छेद की डिक्री पारित किया जाना उचित होगा।"

Hence, it is apparent that while passing the impugned judgment, the court had inquired with the parties to ascertain their free consent/collusion and at that time also appellant failed to narrate any fact of force or coercion before the presiding officer or her counsel. Even during the pendency of appeal appellant could have not submitted any cogent evidence which may establish that she was subjected to any undue influence or coercion during the proceedings of trial court, although she had filed the affidavits of Yagya Prasad Bajpai (father of appellant), Ankit Bajpai (brother of appellant) and Lalit Mohan Pandey (brother-in-law of Deepa's father) under Order 41 Rule 27 of Code of Civil Procedure but the deponent of the affidavits are none other than the family members and close relatives of the appellant. According to Section 1 of Evidence Act affidavits are not recognized as evidence.

18. On the basis of above facts and circumstances, it can be said that appellant has failed to prove that the impugned judgment and decree was obtained by playing any fraud or coercion with appellant as well as with the trial court. No evidence has been produced by the appellant before the Family Court in the proceedings under Section 151 and Order 47 Rule 1 Code of Civil Procedure. Accordingly, the first and second points of determination are decided in negative.

19. Point of determination No. (iii) - Whether the impugned judgment and decree, which is based upon mutual consent under Section 13(B) of Hindu Marriage Act, can be challenged by way of appeal/suit: appeal, filed u/s 19(1) of Family Courts Act, whereas, Section 19 (2) of the Act prohibits the maintainability of such appeal. The provision of Section 19 (2) reads as under :-

"19. Appeal.- (1) x x x x x

(2) No appeal shall lie from a decree or order passed by the Family Court with the consent of the parties or from an order passed under Chapter IX of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974):

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall apply to any appeal pending before a High Court or any order passed under Chapter IX of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) before the commencement of the Family Courts (Amendment) Act, 1991.

(3) x x x

(4) x x x

(5) x x x

(6) x x x

20. Learned counsel for the appellant has argued that according to the provisions of Order 43 Rule 1A of the Code of Civil Procedure, the impugned decree can be challenged. The provisions of order 43 Rule 1A of the Code of Civil Procedure, is reproduced as under :-

"1A. Right to challenge non-appealable orders in appeal against decrees.- (1) Where any order is made under this Code against a party and thereupon any judgment is pronounced against such party and a decree is drawn up, such party may, in an appeal against the decree, contend that such order should not have been made and the judgment should not have been pronounced.

(2) In an appeal against a decree passed in a suit after recording a compromise or refusing to record a compromise, it shall be open to the appellant to contest the decree on the ground that the compromise should, or should not, have been recorded."

So far as the appeal from original decree is concerned, Section 96 (3) C.P.C. bars appeal against consent decree. Section 96 (3) C.P.C. reads as under :-

"96.Appeal from original decree.- (1) x x x x x

(2) x x x x

(3) No appeal shall lie from a decree passed by the Court with the consent of parties.

(4) x x x x "

However, appellant cannot get any relief by way of filing appeal under Order XLI Rule 1A of the Code of Civil Procedure, as the Family Court Act is a special Act and according to Section 20 of the Family Court Act, the provisions of the Act have overriding effect. Section 20 of the Family Courts Act, reads as under : -

"20. Act to have overriding effect.-The provisions of this Act shall have effect notwithstanding anything inconsistent therewith contained in any other law for the time being in force or in any instrument having effect by virtue of any law other than this Act."

Hence in accordance with law cited above the appeal against judgment and decree u/s 13(B) is not maintainable.

21. Appellant cannot challenge the above judgment and decree by way of suit also. The barring provision is inacted under Order 23 Rule 3A of the Code of Civil Procedure, which reads as under :-

"3A.Bar to suit.- No suit shall lie to set aside a decree on the ground that the compromise on which the decree is based was not lawful."

22. In the case of K.Rajam Raju and others Vs. Smt. P.Rangamma and others, 2006 (4) ALD 61, it has been held by Andhra Pradesh High Court that on the grounds of any fraud, misrepresentation or coercion an application to set aside the consented decree is maintainable before the same court which passed such order or decree. No separate suit is maintainable.

23. The Himachal Pradesh High Court in the case of Jamna Devi and others Vs. Sarswati Devi and others : MANU/HP/1692/2018, referring the law laid down in the case of Pushpa Devi Bhagat (D) through L.R. Smt. Sadhna Rai Vs. Rajinder Singh and others, MANU/SC/3016/2006, has held in paragraph 13 as under :-

"13. Bearing in mind the aforesaid exposition of law, more particularly, the observations made in para - 10 of the aforesaid judgment, it is evidently clear that all questions with regard to lawfulness validity of the agreement or compromise as being void or voidable or where the compromise, in question, having been obtained by a fraud, duress, coercion etc., the same has to be raised before that Court which passed the decree on the basis of any such agreement or compromise. The Court cannot direct the parties to file a separate suit on the subject or no such suit will lie in view of the provisions of Order 23 Rule 3-A CPC"

24. Learned counsel for the appellant has argued that after getting the knowledge of divorce decree, appellant approached the trial court under the provisions of Order 47 Rule 1 and Section 151 of C.P.C. for recall of judgment and decree dated 15.05.2017 but the application of the appellant was rejected by the Principal Judge, Family Court vide order dated 10.07.2017. The rejection order for the reasons recorded by the Family Court, and in absence of any ground made out within the scope of Order 47 Rule 1 read with Section 151 of C.P.C. was rightly rejected. Therefore, in the light of the above discussion, the above third point of determination is decided in negative. The appellant cannot challenge the impugned judgment and decree by way of present appeal/civil suit.

25. Point of determination No. (iv) - Whether for the reasons to grant custody of her minor daughter, the appeal deserves to be allowed.

26. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the judgment and decree for divorce has been obtained by the respondent by use of force and by committing fraud and under coercion to sign the petition for divorce as well as affidavit in trial court. The daughter of appellant is medically challenged. She has only one kidney in her body and requires special care and protection. On the other hand, respondent is a bank employee and is intending to remarry, therefore, considering the welfare of minor child, it is utmost needed that the daughter of appellant named, Gauri, be given under the custody of her mother and on the above ground the appeal deserves to be allowed.

27. In paragraph 11 of the petition under Section 13B of the Act, the appellant had given her consent to keep her daughter in the custody of respondent. So far as the custody of minor is concerned, undoubtedly, her welfare is supreme and the court has ample power to safeguard the interest of minor. In catena of judgments, it has been held by Hon'ble Supreme Court that in the matter of custody of minor, the paramount consideration for the court to view is as to what is conducive to the welfare of minor child. In the case of Rosy Jacob Vs. Jacob A. Chakramakkal MANU/SC/0260/1973, it has been held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in paragraph 20 that,

"20.The appellant's argument based on estoppel and on the orders made by the court under the Indian Divorce Act with respect to the custody of the children did not appeal to us.

All orders relating to the custody of the minor wards from their very nature must be considered to be temporary orders made in the existing circumstances. With the changed conditions and circumstances, including the passage of time, the Court is entitled to vary such orders if such variation is considered to be in the interest of the welfare of the wards. It is unnecessary to refer to some of the decided cases relating to estoppel based on consent decrees, cited at the bar. Orders relating to custody of wards even when based on consent are liable to be varied by the Court, if the welfare of the wards demands variation."

In view of above, in changed scenario and for welfare of her minor daughter, the appellant always has a liberty to move application for the custody of her minor daughter before appropriate court. The third point of determination is decided accordingly.

28. Under the facts and circumstances of the case, material available on record, we are of the considered view that the present appeal as well as the connected First Appeal No.108 of 2017 being bereft of merit are liable to be dismissed.

29. Accordingly, the first appeals are dismissed.

30. Cost is made easy.

31. Let a copy of the judgment/order be kept in the record of First Appeal No.108 of 2017.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.
Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. This appeal, at the behest of the claimants, challenges the judgment and order dated 15.01.2010 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/ Special/

Additional District Judge, Ballia (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in Motor Accident Claim Petition No. 31 of 2007 awarding a sum of Rs.1,24,500/- with interest at the rate of 6% p.a. as compensation.

2. Heard Sri Satyendra Narayan Singh, learned counsel for the appellants; Sri Aijaz Ahmad Khan, learned counsel for the respondent no. 1-New India Insurance Company Ltd. None appears for the the remaining respondents.

3. The brief facts as culled out from the record are that on 17.01.2007 when deceased was driving his Indica Car No. U.P.-60-H-4901 owned by him and was travelling on Varanasi Ghazipur road, D.C.M. Truck No. U.P.-65-H-8205 coming from opposite side, which was driven rashly and negligently, dashed against the said car at about 10.00 p.m. In this accident, Anand Kumar and Jatin Kumar died on spot and Kumari Drishya Verma and Abhishek Verma sustained grievous injures. Deceased was a healthy person who was partner in J.J. Honda agency Ballia and was dealing in the business of purchase and sale of silver-golden ornaments, in retain which is his ancestral occupation. He was earning Rs. 1,77,578 annually and was paying income tax. He was unmarried. Claimant/appellant no. 1-Moti Lal Sarraf is the father, Claimant/appellant no. 2-Smt. Tara Devi is the mother and Claimant/appellant no. 3- is the sister of the deceased.

4. The accident is not in dispute, the liability of owner/insurance company to pay the compensation is also not disputed. The finding regarding negligence has attained finality. So now it is the dispute of quantum of compensation which is left to be decided in this appeal.

5. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the deceased was a business man he was engaged in jewelry business. It is also submitted that the deceased was income tax payee and his income tax return has been filed on record, but the learned Tribunal did not consider the income mentioned in income tax return on the ground that source of income is not proved by the appellants which was not required. Hence, learned Tribunal has awarded a very meagre amount of compensation. Learned counsel also submitted that it is also opined by the learned Tribunal that income tax return of only one year is filed. Learned Tribunal did not consider the fact that the income at the time of death of the deceased was relevant. It is further submitted that learned Tribunal not given any amount for loss of future income and multiplier of 5 is applied on the basis of age of the parents of the deceased wife, multiplier should have applied according to the age of the deceased. It is next submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that only Rs. 2,000/- were granted for funeral expenses and of Rs. 2,500/- were granted for loss of estate. No amount is granted for the loss of love and affection.

6. Learned counsel for the Insurance Company vehemently objected the submissions made by the appellants and further submitted that income of deceased mentioned in income tax return is not proved. Moreover, income tax return is in the name of firm and the shop of deceased is not disclosed. Hence, learned Tribunal rightly consider notional income of the deceased but learned counsel very fairly submitted that the multiplier should be applied according to the age of the deceased.

7. We have perused the record and impugned judgment.

8. The deceased died on 17.01.2007, hence income of financial year 2005-06 may be relevant. Appellants have filed the copy of income tax return of the deceased pertaining to the financial year 2005-06 which is paper no. 14-C on the record. This goes to show that it is not in the name of firm but it is "individual". This document shows the annual income of the deceased at Rs. 1,77,578/- Learned Tribunal has ignored the income tax return on the ground that registration certificate of business and details of account showing the income of the deceased have not been filed and there is no proof of his income from business of sale and purchase of ornaments. On the basis of above observation, learned Tribunal has refused to rely on the annual income of the deceased on the basis of income tax return. This is not only absurd but not germane to the compensatory jurisprudence with regard to the Motor Accident Claim Petition under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988. The income tax return is the face of income of assessee. This is authentic document of income which cannot be ignored by any Court/Tribunal or Authority. Hence, learned Tribunal has fallen error by not placing the reliance of income tax return which is not controverted by the Insurance Company and is against the judgment of Vimal Kanwar and others v. Kishore Dan and others, AIR 2013 SC 3830. Hence, learned Tribunal has not awarded just compensation. Annual income of the deceased for financial year 2005-06 is shown Rs. 1,77,578/- in the copy of income tax return, filed by the appellants on record which is not shown taxable. Hence we hold the monthly income of the deceased at Rs. 15,000/- per month rounded off.

9. Learned Tribunal has not awarded any sum for future loss of income file but judgment of Apex Court in Sarla Verma and others Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation and another, 2009 ACJ 1298 was in vogue when the impugned judgment was delivered. After the aforesaid judgment, Hon'ble Apex Court has held in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 LawSuit (SC) 1093 that case of self employed persons, if he is below 40 years of age, 40% would be added for future loss of income.

10. Learned counsel for Insurance Company submitted that the deceased was unmarried and nobody was dependent upon him, hence, 1/2 should be deducted for personal expenses of the deceased. Per contra learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the learned Tribunal has rightly deducted 1/3 of income for personal expenses but we unable to concur the submissions made by the appellants. As per the judgment of Apex Court Munna Lal Jain And Another Vs. Vipin Kumar Sharma and Others reported in (2015) 6 SCC 347 1/2 would be deducted for personal expenses because the deceased was unmarried.

11. Learned Tribunal has fallen an error again for applying multiplier on the basis of age of the parents of the deceased Hon'ble Apex Court has held in Munna Lal Jain (Supra) that the multiplier would be applied according to the age of the deceased. As per the judgment of Sarla Verma (Supra), keeping in view 26 years age of the deceased multiplier of 17 would be applicable. Appellants would be entitled to get Rs. 20,000/- for funeral expenses and mother of the deceased being Class-I heir would also get Rs. 50,000/- as filial consortium.

12. Despite the fact that the decisions even in the date when the judgment was pronounced namely Sarla Verma (Supra) were very clear that the income tax returns have to be look into a holistic approach. We are fortified in our view by the judgment of Apex Court in Malarvizhi & Ors. Vs. United India Insurance Company Limited & Anr., reported in 2020 0 AIR (SC) 90 relied by the learned counsel for the appellants will enure for the benefit of the claimants, hence income tax returns are statutory document on which reliance may be placed to determine annual income of the deceased. The Insurance Company has not laid any rebuttal evidence and the Tribunal has failed to consider the potential of a man to earn relying on the decision of the Apex Court in brushing a side the income tax returns goes to show that the Tribunal has made the judgement venerable, just returning of filing that his share or income in the said commercial organization can also not be estimated, the proof is very clear that the income tax returns which were produced by the appellants were in the name of not the firm but it was individual in the name of the deceased. This is an error which is apparent on the face of the record proof of income is not necessary once income tax returns are filed details of account has not to be filed. This is not taking holistic view of the matter the decision relied by the Tribunal in deducting 1/3 and fixing the income at Rs. 3,000/- per month is again bad. The multiplier of parents would not have been applied after the judgment of Sarla Verma (Supra), the judgment is after the judgment of Sarla Verma (Supra) shows that the Tribunal has misdirected itself in awarding multiplier of 5 and added what can be said to be meagre amount under the head of funeral expenses and loss of estate, this itself makes the judgment venerable. We are again fortified in our view the judgment of Apex Court in Smt. Meena Pawaia & Ors. Vs. Ashraf Ali & Ors. reported in 2021 0 Supreme (SC) 694 and the judgement in National Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Indira Srivastava and Others reported in (2008) 2 Supreme Court Cases 763 and a recent decision of this Bench in Panchratni and 5 Others Vs. Smt. Manju Singh and 2 Others in First Appeal From Order No. 2386 of 2013 decided on 25.03.2022 will also enure for the benefit of the appellants. The judgement of Apex Court in General Manager, Kerala State Road Transport Corporation, Trivandrum Vs. Susamma Thomas reported in 1993 (0) AIJEL-SC 9412 and the judgment of Gobald Motor Service Ltd. and another Vs. R.M.K Veluswami and other, 1962 SCR(1) 929 should have been made applicable for granting future loss of income which has not been done. We, therefore, recalculate the income as fallows and as reasoned above.

13. On the basis of above discussions the amount of compensation payable to the appellants is computed herein below:

(i). Monthly income Rs.15,000/-.

(ii) Added 40% for future loss of income=Rs. 6,000/-.

(iii). Total income : Rs.15,000+6,000=21,000/-.

(iv). After 1/2 deduction for personal expenses=Rs.21,000-10,500=10,500/-.

(v). Annual income Rs. 10,500X12=1,26,000/-.

(vi). Multiplier applicable : 17.

(vii). Loss of dependency Rs. 1,26,000X17=21,42,000/-.

(viii). Amount under non pecuniary heads Rs. 20,000+50,000= 70,000/-.

14. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under:

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

15. Learned Tribunal has awarded rate of interest as 6% per annum but we are fixing the rate of interest as 7.5% in the light of the above judgment.

16. In view of the above, the appeal stands partly allowed. Judgment and award passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent- Insurance Company shall deposit the amount within a period of 08 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited. Statutory amount be remitted to the Tribunal.

17. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansagori P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291 and this High Court in total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs. 50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimants to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No. 23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) and in First Appeal From Order No.2871 of 2016 (Tej Kumari Sharma v. Chola Mandlam M.S. General Insurance Co. Ltd.) decided on 19.3.2021 while disbursing the amount.

18. The Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Union of India and Others, vide order dated 27.01.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. Since long time has elapsed, the amount be deposited in the Saving Bank Account of claimant(s) in a nationalized Bank without F.D.R.

19. We request the Registrar General to circulate a copy of this judgement as we have relied on the recent guidelines issued by the Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz (Supra) and the recent judgment of Gujarat High Court The Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Chief Commissioner of Income Tax (TDS), R/Special Civil Application No.4800 of 2021 decided on 05.04.2022.

20. We also request the Registrar General to send the copy of this judgment to the concerned Judge, if he still in service, so that he may not commit such mistakes in future, which are so apparent that it burdens the High Court.

1. Heard Sri Shreesh Srivastava, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Arvind Kumar, learned counsel for the respondent, none appears for the owner and perused the judgment and order impugned.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the claimants, challenges the judgment/award dated 30.3.2021 and the decree dated 3.4.2021 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/ Presiding Officer , Kanpur Nagar (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in M.A.C.No.1014 of 2016 awarding a sum of Rs.19,77,831/- with interest at the rate of 7% as compensation.

3. The accident is not in dispute. The issue of negligence decided by the Tribunal is in dispute. The respondent has not challenged the liability imposed on them. The issues to be decided by this Court are, the quantum of compensation awarded and negligence.

4. Brief facts of the present case are that on 7.5.2016 at about 2:30 p.m, near village Gopalpur, one Magic loader vehicle bearing number U.P.-71 B-9992 was coming from Kanpur side suddenly dashed Gyan Prakash @ Gyan Prakash Uttam who driving his own car on correct side and was plying the vehicle forwards Kanpur from Jahanabad in district Fatehpur. He received several injuries from the aforesaid accident and thereafter he was taken to C.H.C. Bhitargoan there he was declared dead. He died on 7.5.2016 due to the injuries received in the aforesaid motor traffic accident.

5. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that the deceased was 48 years of age at the time of accident and was in the business of dealing in Jwellery and was having his shop. His income was considered by the Tribunal to be Rs.3,58,676/- per year which according to the counsel for the appellant is on the lower side and should be considered at least Rs.4,05,994/- per year as per the income tax return of year preceding the accident or of the year when accident occurred. It is further submitted that the Tribunal has granted amount towards future loss of income of the deceased which is on lower side and should be granted in view of the decision in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050 and Rule 220(i) of U.P. Motor Vehicles Rules, 1998. It is further submitted that the amount granted under non-pecuniary damages are on the lower side requires enhancement in view of the decision of New India Assurance Company Limited Vs. Somwati and others, 2020 LawSuit (SC) 559.

Learned counsel for the appellant further submits that the ocular version of PW-2 is categorical that the road was 12'5 feet wide and, therefore, the decision of the Tribunal that the deceased had contributed 50% to the accident is bad and the facts prove otherwise.

6. Learned counsel for the appellant has heavily relied on the decisions of (a) Oriental Insurance Company Limited Vs. Sangita and others, 2020 LawSuit(SC) 559, (b) Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Limited Vs. Venu Singh and others, 2016 LawSuit (All) 4465, (c) Kumari Kiran and others Vs. Sajjan Singh and others, 2014 LawSuit (SC) 827 (d) Sangita Arya and Others Vs. Oriental Insurance Company Limted and others, (2020) 5 SCC 327 and (e) New India Assurance Company Limited Vs. Somwati and others, 2020 LawSuit (SC) 559 so as to contend that the Tribunal has misdirected itself in not considering the income tax return and decided that the deceased was earning Rs.3,58,676/- which was the mean of three years. Learned counsel has contended that the vehicle driven by the deceased was a smaller vehicle and driver of the truck has not stepped into witness box and therefore the finding of deceased being co-author of accident requires reassessment by this Court.

7. As against this, learned counsel for the Insurance Company has submitted that the award does not require any interference. The accident occurred on 7.5.2016 and the decision of the Tribunal is in consonance with twin decisions namely, Sarla Verma Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation, (2009) 6 SCC 121 for multiplier and compensation is calculated as per decision in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050 and therefore the Tribunal has not committed any error in granting the non pecuniary damages. It is further submitted that the Tribunal has granted compensation considering the income tax return and has rightly taken mean of last three years for deciding the income of deceased. The learned counsel submitted that the evidence of claimants would demonstrate that the decision qua negligence does not require any interference by this Court under Section 173 of Motor Vehicles Act, 1988.

Finding On Negligence

8. The term negligence means failure to exercise care towards others which a reasonable and prudent person would in a circumstance or taking action which such a reasonable person would not. Negligence can be both intentional or accidental which is normally accidental. More particularly, it connotes reckless driving and the injured must always prove that the either side is negligent. If the injury rather death is caused by something owned or controlled by the negligent party then he is directly liable otherwise the principle of "res ipsa loquitur" meaning thereby "the things speak for itself" would apply.

9. The principle of contributory negligence has been discussed time and again. A person who either contributes or is author of the accident, would be liable for his contribution to the accident having taken place.

10. The Division Bench of this Court in First Appeal From Order No. 1818 of 2012 (Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Co.Ltd. Vs. Smt. Renu Singh And Others) decided on 19.7.2016 has held as under :

"16. Negligence means failure to exercise required degree of care and caution expected of a prudent driver. Negligence is the omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided upon the considerations, which ordinarily regulate conduct of human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. Negligence is not always a question of direct evidence. It is an inference to be drawn from proved facts. Negligence is not an absolute term, but is a relative one. It is rather a comparative term. What may be negligence in one case may not be so in another. Where there is no duty to exercise care, negligence in the popular sense has no legal consequence. Where there is a duty to exercise care, reasonable care must be taken to avoid acts or omissions which would be reasonably foreseen likely to caused physical injury to person. The degree of care required, of course, depends upon facts in each case. On these broad principles, the negligence of drivers is required to be assessed.

17. It would be seen that burden of proof for contributory negligence on the part of deceased has to be discharged by the opponents. It is the duty of driver of the offending vehicle to explain the accident. It is well settled law that at intersection where two roads cross each other, it is the duty of a fast moving vehicle to slow down and if driver did not slow down at intersection, but continued to proceed at a high speed without caring to notice that another vehicle was crossing, then the conduct of driver necessarily leads to conclusion that vehicle was being driven by him rashly as well as negligently.

18. 10th Schedule appended to Motor Vehicle Act contain statutory regulations for driving of motor vehicles which also form part of every Driving License. Clause-6 of such Regulation clearly directs that the driver of every motor vehicle to slow down vehicle at every intersection or junction of roads or at a turning of the road. It is also provided that driver of the vehicle should not enter intersection or junction of roads unless he makes sure that he would not thereby endanger any other person. Merely, because driver of the Truck was driving vehicle on the left side of road would not absolve him from his responsibility to slow down vehicle as he approaches intersection of roads, particularly when he could have easily seen, that the car over which deceased was riding, was approaching intersection.

19. In view of the fast and constantly increasing volume of traffic, motor vehicles upon roads may be regarded to some extent as coming within the principle of liability defined in Rylands V/s. Fletcher, (1868) 3 HL (LR) 330*. From the point of view of pedestrian, the roads of this country have been rendered by the use of motor vehicles, highly dangerous. 'Hit and run' cases where drivers of motor vehicles who have caused accidents, are unknown. In fact such cases are increasing in number. Where a pedestrian without negligence on his part is injured or killed by a motorist, whether negligently or not, he or his legal representatives, as the case may be, should be entitled to recover damages if principle of social justice should have any meaning at all.*

20. These provisions (sec.110A and sec.110B of Motor Act, 1988) are not merely procedural provisions. They substantively affect the rights of the parties. The right of action created by Fatal Accidents Act, 1855 was 'new in its species, new in its quality, new in its principles. In every way it was new. The right given to legal representatives under Act, 1988 to file an application for compensation for death due to a motor vehicle accident is an enlarged one. This right cannot be hedged in by limitations of an action under Fatal Accidents Act, 1855. New situations and new dangers require new strategies and new remedies.

21. In the light of the above discussion, we are of the view that even if courts may not by interpretation displace the principles of law which are considered to be well settled and, therefore, court cannot dispense with proof of negligence altogether in all cases of motor vehicle accidents, it is possible to develop the law further on the following lines; when a motor vehicle is being driven with reasonable care, it would ordinarily not meet with an accident and, therefore, rule of res-ipsa loquitor as a rule of evidence may be invoked in motor accident cases with greater frequency than in ordinary civil suits (per three-Judge Bench in Jacob Mathew V/s. State of Punjab, 2005 0 ACJ(SC) 1840).

22. By the above process, the burden of proof may ordinarily be cast on the defendants in a motor accident claim petition to prove that motor vehicle was being driven with reasonable care or that there is equal negligence on the part the other side."

11. As far as negligence is concerned, we are satisfied that the deceased has also contributed to the accident having taken place. The only question is what was the percentage of this contribution.

12. While going through the evidence of PW-2, we find that the vehicle driven by the deceased has also crossed the white mark. However, the driver of the bigger vehicle is suppose to take more caution is cardinal principle of law of negligence. Our findings get support from decision of Apex Court in Kumari Kiran and others (supra).

13. In our case, the charge sheet and FIR was laid against the driver of the other offending vehicle. The driver of the offending vehicle has not stepped into the witness box so as to testify as in what manner, the accident took place. The negligence of the deceased can be attributed 30% as the speed of the bigger vehicle was much more than the speed of car when it dashed with the vehicle driven by deceased and it pushed the vehicle behind. We are fortified in our view by the decision of this Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Co.Ltd. (supra).

14. The Apex Court in the decision of Renu Rani Shrivastava Vs. New India Assurance Company Limited, AIR (2019) 5719 while considering several decision on the issue of negligence has reconsidered the issue of negligence. In the said case the deceased was coming from K side to A side by car and lorry was coming from A to K and there was a collision between two vehicles - car was coming on its correct side. Lorry recklessly and negligently was driven by driver came on the right side of the road and dragged the car to extreme side of road. The Apex Court considered the breadth of road and decided the question of negligence.

15. In case on hand from the evidence it is clear that the car was on its correct side but was slightly on the right hand side of the road. This fact would reveal that the driver of the lorry was more negligent and collided with the car of the deceased at point "A" . Thus, we hold the driver of both the vehicles to have contributed to the accident not in equal proportionate. The driver of the car was driving the smaller vehicle . The driver of lorry was suppose to take more caution and, therefore, we modified the order of Tribunal.

Finding For Compensation :-

16. We consider the income of the deceased to be Rs.4,00,000/- per annum as per the income tax returns. It has been submitted by counsel that tax has already been deduced while calculating the income. As far as the heads of addition of future loss is concerned, the finding of Tribunal does not require any modification as addition of 25% is granted which is just and proper.

17. Heard the learned counsels for the parties and considered the factual data. This Court finds that the accident occurred on 7.5.2016 causing death of Gyan Prasad Uttam who was 48 years of age at the time of accident. The Tribunal has assessed his income to be Rs.3,58,676/- per year which according to this Court, in the year of accident, would be at least Rs.4,00,000/- per year looking to his vocation and the income tax return as per decision of Apex Court in Sangita Arya and Others (supra) and hold that taking mean of income of three years is bad as reflected in tax returns. The income as per income tax return by increasing and hence income of last year return latter most income tax return every year has to be considered taking of average has been deprecated by Apex Court in case titled Sangita Arya and Others (supra) which we follow. To which as the deceased was in the age bracket of 46-50, 25% of the income will have to be added in view of the decision of the Apex Court in Pranay Sethi (Supra). The amount under non-pecuniary heads should be at least Rs.1,00,000/- in view of the decision in Pranay Sethi (Supra) as every three years 10% be added to Rs.70,000/-. In view the facts and circumstances of the case, this Court feels no interference is called for as far as deduction of personal expenses is concerned.

18. The total compensation payable is recalculated and is computed herein below:

i. Annual Income Rs.4,00,000/-

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 25% namely Rs.1,00,000/-

iii. Total income : Rs.4,00,000/- + Rs.1,00,000/- = Rs.5,00,000/-

iv. Income after deduction of 1/3rd towards personal expenses : Rs.3,33,333/-

v. Multiplier applicable : 13

vi. Loss of dependency: Rs.3,33,333/- x 13 = Rs.43,33,329/-

vii. Amount under non pecuniary heads : Rs.1,00,000/- viii. Total compensation :Rs.44,33,329/-.

ix. Compensation payable to claimants after deductions of 30% negligence on the part of the deceased :

Rs.44,33,329/- - Rs.13,29,999/- = Rs.31,03,330/-

19. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, the interest should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.), wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

20. No other grounds are urged orally when the matter was heard.

21. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and decree passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till award and 6% thereafter till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

22. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma V/s. Venugopal, Reported in 2012 (1) GLH (SC), 442, the order of investment is not passed because applicants /claimants are neither illiterate or rustic villagers.

23. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansagauri P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291, total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimant to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) while disbursing the amount.

24. Fresh Award be drawn accordingly in the above petition by the tribunal as per the modification made herein. The Tribunals in the State shall follow the direction of this Court as herein aforementioned as far as disbursement is concerned, it should look into the condition of the litigant and the pendency of the matter and not blindly apply the judgment of A.V. Padma (supra). The same is to be applied looking to the facts of each case.

25. T he Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Private Ltd. v. Union of India and others vide order dated 27.1.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. As 19 years have elapsed, the amount be deposited in the Saving Account of claimants in Nationalized Bank without F.D.R.

Civil Application No. 4800 of 2021, Decided on 05.04.2022

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.
Hon'ble Ajit Singh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Vidya Kant Shukla for the appellants and Ms. Raj Kumari Devi for the respondents.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the claimants, challenges the judgment and award dated 31.03.2016 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, Court No.17, Kanpur Nagar (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in M.A.C.P. No. 624 of 2007 awarding a sum of Rs. 9,48,023/- with interest at the rate of 7% as compensation.

3. Brief facts are that on the fateful date i.e. 8.8.2006 at about 9:40 a.m. the deceased was going to join his duties by Scooter, bearing no.UP78Z-4094, and when he reached near Golghar traffic point, Bahad, district Abardin, Andaman (Port Blair), a Army Truck, bearing no.03-D-152105-M came and dashed with the scooter of the deceased which caused grievous injuries causing death. He succumbed to injuries on the very same day in the hospital.

4. The accident is not in dispute. The claimants have challenged the award on two counts namely negligence and quantum of compensation.

5. Leaned Counsel for the appellant has relied on the decisions in Dinesh Kumar J. @ Dinesh J Vs. National Insurance Company Limited and others, 2018 (1) TAC 337 (SC) and decision of this Court in Smt. Pooja Tiwari and others Vs. Union of India and another, First Appeal From Order No.1663 of 2016, decided on 28.4.2022, so as to contend that the deceased was not negligent and the quantum requires upward modification. It is submitted that the driver of the truck was solely negligent.

6. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the Tribunal has not granted any amount towards future loss of income. It is further submitted that 50% should be added as future loss of income of the deceased in view of the decision in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 105 as the deceased was below 40 years and was in permanent job. It is further submitted that the amount granted under non-pecuniary head is on the lower side and is required to be enhanced. It is lastly submitted that interest should be as per the repo rate prevailing.

7. As against this, learned counsel for the respondent submits that the quantum of compensation awarded by the Tribunal is just and proper and does not call for any interference of the Court.

8. The twin issues posed for our consideration are holding deceased to be co-author of the accident to the extent of 35% and compensation awarded more particularly non-grant of future loss of income.

9. The concept of contributory negligence has been time and again evolved, decided and discussed by the courts.

10. The term negligence means failure to exercise care towards others which a reasonable and prudent person would in a circumstance or taking action which such a reasonable person would not. Negligence can be both intentional or accidental which is normally accidental. More particularly, it connotes reckless driving and the injured must always prove that the either side is negligent. If the injury rather death is caused by something owned or controlled by the negligent party then he is directly liable otherwise the principle of "res ipsa loquitur" meaning thereby "the things speak for itself" would apply.

11. The term contributory negligence has been discussed time and again a person who either contributes or is author of the accident would be liable for his contribution to the accident having taken place. The Apex Court in Pawan Kumar & Anr vs M/S Harkishan Dass Mohan Lal & Ors decided on 29 January, 2014 has held as follows:

"7. Where the plaintiff/claimant himself is found to be a party to the negligence the question of joint and several liability cannot arise and the plaintiff's claim to the extent of his own negligence, as may be quantified, will have to be severed. In such a situation the plaintiff can only be held entitled to such part of damages/compensation that is not attributable to his own negligence. The above principle has been explained in T.O. Anthony (supra) followed in K. Hemlatha & Ors. (supra). Paras 6 and 7 of T.O. Anthony (supra) which are relevant may be extracted hereinbelow:

"6. "Composite negligence" refers to the negligence on the part of two or more persons. Where a person is injured as a result of negligence on the part of two or more wrongdoers, it is said that the person was injured on account of the composite negligence of those wrongdoers. In such a case, each wrongdoer is jointly and severally liable to the injured for payment of the entire damages and the injured person has the choice of proceeding against all or any of them. In such a case, the injured need not establish the extent of responsibility of each wrongdoer separately, nor is it necessary for the court to determine the extent of liability of each wrongdoer separately. On the other hand where a person suffers injury, partly due to the negligence on the part of another person or persons, and partly as a result of his own negligence, then the negligence on the part of the injured which contributed to the accident is referred to as his contributory negligence. Where the injured is guilty of some negligence, his claim for damages is not defeated merely by reason of the negligence on his part but the damages recoverable by him in respect of the injuries stand reduced in proportion to his contributory negligence.

7. Therefore, when two vehicles are involved in an accident, and one of the drivers claims compensation from the other driver alleging negligence, and the other driver denies negligence or claims that the injured claimant himself was negligent, then it becomes necessary to consider whether the injured claimant was negligent and if so, whether he was solely or partly responsible for the accident and the extent of his responsibility, that is, his contributory negligence. Therefore where the injured is himself partly liable, the principle of "composite negligence" will not apply nor can there be an automatic inference that the negligence was 50:50 as has been assumed in this case. The Tribunal ought to have examined the extent of contributory negligence of the appellant and thereby avoided confusion between composite negligence and contributory negligence. The High Court has failed to correct the said error."

12. The Division Bench of this Court in First Appeal From Order No. 1818 of 2012 (Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Smt. Renu Singh And Others) decided on 19.7.2016 which has held as under:

"16. Negligence means failure to exercise required degree of care and caution expected of a prudent driver. Negligence is the omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided upon the considerations, which ordinarily regulate conduct of human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. Negligence is not always a question of direct evidence. It is an inference to be drawn from proved facts. Negligence is not an absolute term, but is a relative one. It is rather a comparative term. What may be negligence in one case may not be so in another. Where there is no duty to exercise care, negligence in the popular sense has no legal consequence. Where there is a duty to exercise care, reasonable care must be taken to avoid acts or omissions which would be reasonably foreseen likely to caused physical injury to person. The degree of care required, of course, depends upon facts in each case. On these broad principles, the negligence of drivers is required to be assessed.

17. It would be seen that burden of proof for contributory negligence on the part of deceased has to be discharged by the opponents. It is the duty of driver of the offending vehicle to explain the accident. It is well settled law that at intersection where two roads cross each other, it is the duty of a fast moving vehicle to slow down and if driver did not slow down at intersection, but continued to proceed at a high speed without caring to notice that another vehicle was crossing, then the conduct of driver necessarily leads to conclusion that vehicle was being driven by him rashly as well as negligently.

18. 10th Schedule appended to Motor Vehicle Act contain statutory regulations for driving of motor vehicles which also form part of every Driving License. Clause-6 of such Regulation clearly directs that the driver of every motor vehicle to slow down vehicle at every intersection or junction of roads or at a turning of the road. It is also provided that driver of the vehicle should not enter intersection or junction of roads unless he makes sure that he would not thereby endanger any other person. Merely, because driver of the Truck was driving vehicle on the left side of road would not absolve him from his responsibility to slow down vehicle as he approaches intersection of roads, particularly when he could have easily seen, that the car over which deceased was riding, was approaching intersection.

19. In view of the fast and constantly increasing volume of traffic, motor vehicles upon roads may be regarded to some extent as coming within the principle of liability defined in Rylands V/s. Fletcher, (1868) 3 HL (LR) 330. From the point of view of pedestrian, the roads of this country have been rendered by the use of motor vehicles, highly dangerous. 'Hit and run' cases where drivers of motor vehicles who have caused accidents, are unknown. In fact such cases are increasing in number. Where a pedestrian without negligence on his part is injured or killed by a motorist, whether negligently or not, he or his legal representatives, as the case may be, should be entitled to recover damages if principle of social justice should have any meaning at all.

20. These provisions (sec.110A and sec.110B of Motor Act, 1988) are not merely procedural provisions. They substantively affect the rights of the parties. The right of action created by Fatal Accidents Act, 1855 was 'new in its species, new in its quality, new in its principles. In every way it was new. The right given to legal representatives under Act, 1988 to file an application for compensation for death due to a motor vehicle accident is an enlarged one. This right cannot be hedged in by limitations of an action under Fatal Accidents Act, 1855. New situations and new dangers require new strategies and new remedies.

21. In the light of the above discussion, we are of the view that even if courts may not by interpretation displace the principles of law which are considered to be well settled and, therefore, court cannot dispense with proof of negligence altogether in all cases of motor vehicle accidents, it is possible to develop the law further on the following lines; when a motor vehicle is being driven with reasonable care, it would ordinarily not meet with an accident and, therefore, rule of res-ipsa loquitor as a rule of evidence may be invoked in motor accident cases with greater frequency than in ordinary civil suits (per three-Judge Bench in Jacob Mathew V/s. State of Punjab, 2005 0 ACJ(SC) 1840).

22. By the above process, the burden of proof may ordinarily be cast on the defendants in a motor accident claim petition to prove that motor vehicle was being driven with reasonable care or that there is equal negligence on the part the other side."

13. The respondent has failed to prove that accident occurred due to carrying of more persons as pillion rider. In absence of such a finding, the respondents having not proved factum of negligent on the part of the scooterist, cannot be benefitted. The negligent act must contribute to the accident having taken place. The Apex Court recently has considered the principles of negligence in case of Archit Saini and another Vs. Oriental Insurance Company Limited, AIR 2018 SC 1143.

14. The Apex Court in Khenyei Vs. New India Assurance Company Limited & Others, 2015 LawSuit (SC) 469 has held as under:

4. It is a case of composite negligence where injuries have been caused to the claimants by combined wrongful act of joint tort feasors. In a case of accident caused by negligence of joint tort feasors, all the persons who aid or counsel or direct or join in committal of a wrongful act, are liable. In such case, the liability is always joint and several. The extent of negligence of joint tort feasors in such a case is immaterial for satisfaction of the claim of the plaintiff/claimant and need not be determined by the by the court. However, in case all the joint tort feasors are before the court, it may determine the extent of their liability for the purpose of adjusting inter-se equities between them at appropriate stage. The liability of each and every joint tort feasor vis a vis to plaintiff/claimant cannot be bifurcated as it is joint and several liability. In the case of composite negligence, apportionment of compensation between tort feasors for making payment to the plaintiff is not permissible as the plaintiff/claimant has the right to recover the entire amount from the easiest targets/solvent defendant.

14. There is a difference between contributory and composite negligence. In the case of contributory negligence, a person who has himself contributed to the extent cannot claim compensation for the injuries sustained by him in the accident to the extent of his own negligence;whereas in the case of composite negligence, a person who has suffered has not contributed to the accident but the outcome of combination of negligence of two or more other persons. This Court in T.O. Anthony v. Karvarnan & Ors. [2008 (3) SCC 748] has held that in case of contributory negligence, injured need not establish the extent of responsibility of each wrong doer separately, nor is it necessary for the court to determine the extent of liability of each wrong doer separately. It is only in the case of contributory negligence that the injured himself has contributed by his negligence in the accident. Extent of his negligence is required to be determined as damages recoverable by him in respect of the injuries have to be reduced in proportion to his contributory negligence. The relevant portion is extracted hereunder :

"6. 'Composite negligence' refers to the negligence on the part of two or more persons. Where a person is injured as a result of negligence on the part of two or more wrong doers, it is said that the person was injured on account of the composite negligence of those wrong-doers. In such a case, each wrong doer, is jointly and severally liable to the injured for payment of the entire damages and the injured person has the choice of proceeding against all or any of them. In such a case, the injured need not establish the extent of responsibility of each wrong-doer separately, nor is it necessary for the court to determine the extent of liability of each wrong-doer separately. On the other hand where a person suffers injury, partly due to the negligence on the part of another person or persons, and partly as a result of his own negligence, then the negligence of the part of the injured which contributed to the accident is referred to as his contributory negligence. Where the injured is guilty of some negligence, his claim for damages is not defeated merely by reason of the negligence on his part but the damages recoverable by him in respect of the injuries stands reduced in proportion to his contributory negligence.

7. Therefore, when two vehicles are involved in an accident, and one of the drivers claims compensation from the other driver alleging negligence, and the other driver denies negligence or claims that the injured claimant himself was negligent, then it becomes necessary to consider whether the injured claimant was negligent and if so, whether he was solely or partly responsible for the accident and the extent of his responsibility, that is his contributory negligence. Therefore where the injured is himself partly liable, the principle of 'composite negligence' will not apply nor can there be an automatic inference that the negligence was 50:50 as has been assumed in this case. The Tribunal ought to have examined the extent of contributory negligence of the appellant and thereby avoided confusion between composite negligence and contributory negligence. The High Court has failed to correct the said error."

18. This Court in Challa Bharathamma &Nanjappan (supra) has dealt with the breach of policy conditions by the owner when the insurer was asked to pay the compensation fixed by the tribunal and the right to recover the same was given to the insurer in the executing court concerned if the dispute between the insurer and the owner was the subject-matter of determination for the tribunal and the issue has been decided in favour of the insured. The same analogy can be applied to the instant cases as the liability of the joint tort feasor is joint and several. In the instant case, there is determination of inter se liability of composite negligence to the extent of negligence of 2/3rd and 1/3rd of respective drivers. Thus, the vehicle - trailor-truck which was not insured with the insurer, was negligent to the extent of 2/3rd. It would be open to the insurer being insurer of the bus after making payment to claimant to recover from the owner of the trailor-truck the amount to the aforesaid extent in the execution proceedings. Had there been no determination of the inter se liability for want of evidence or other joint tort feasor had not been impleaded, it was not open to settle such a dispute and to recover the amount in execution proceedings but the remedy would be to file another suit or appropriate proceedings in accordance with law.

What emerges from the aforesaid discussion is as follows :

(i) In the case of composite negligence, plaintiff/claimant is entitled to sue both or any one of the joint tort feasors and to recover the entire compensation as liability of joint tort feasors is joint and several.

(ii) In the case of composite negligence, apportionment of compensation between two tort feasors vis a vis the plaintiff/claimant is not permissible. He can recover at his option whole damages from any of them.

(iii) In case all the joint tort feasors have been impleaded and evidence is sufficient, it is open to the court/tribunal to determine inter se extent of composite negligence of the drivers. However, determination of the extent of negligence between the joint tort feasors is only for the purpose of their inter se liability so that one may recover the sum from the other after making whole of payment to the plaintiff/claimant to the extent it has satisfied the liability of the other. In case both of them have been impleaded and the apportionment/ extent of their negligence has been determined by the court/tribunal, in main case one joint tort feasor can recover the amount from the other in the execution proceedings.

(iv) It would not be appropriate for the court/tribunal to determine the extent of composite negligence of the drivers of two vehicles in the absence of impleadment of other joint tort feasors. In such a case, impleaded joint tort feasor should be left, in case he so desires, to sue the other joint tort feasor in independent proceedings after passing of the decree or award."

15. The deceased sustained injuri0es on his head as helmet was not used by him. He came from behind and tried to overtake the truck. PW1 and PW2's version is contradicted by driver of the truck, who was also an Army man. The evidence goes to show that it was a case of contributory negligence but, truck being bigger vehicle, the driver of the truck has to be more cautious and, therefore, we hold the deceased negligent to the tune of 25%.

16. It is not in dispute that the deceased was an employee in the Indian

Air Force and was earning Rs.10,748/- per month. This fact has been held by the Tribunal. The Tribunal has considered the judgment in Vimal Kanwar and others v. Kishore Dan and others, 2013 (3) T.A.C. 6 (SC) holding that certain amounts cannot be deducted. We also confirm the same. However, non applicability of the judgment in Sarla Verma and others v. Delhi Transport Corporation and another, 2009 LawSuit (SC) for addition of 50% towards future loss of income is an error apparent on the face of record. Non application of Rules 220 of Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicle Rules, 1998 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules') by the Tribunal is also bad. The finding of the Tribunal that Rules came into force after 2010 and the accident occurred on 8.8.2006 is a misreading of the said Rules by the Tribunal. This finding of the Tribunal will have to be upturned and, therefore, we grant addition of 50% towards future loss of income as both Rules as well as the decision in Sarla Verma (Supra) will apply. The deduction of 1/3rd as granted by the Tribunal is not disturbed. However, we are in agreement with the learned Counsel for the respondents that the multiplier of 16 should be applied instead of 17 as the deceased was in the age bracket of 31 - 35. The Tribunal has granted only Rs.6,000/- under non pecuniary heads which is also bad and against the settled legal principle. Therefore, as far as amount under non-pecuniary head are concerned, the claimants would be entitled to Rs. 70,000 + 10% rise in every three years in view of the decision in Pranay Sethi (supra). We also award Rs.50,000/- each to the minor children, who have lost their father at very prime age. Hence, the compensation payable to the appellants in view of the decision of the Apex Court in Pranay Sethi (Supra) is computed herein below:

i. Income Rs.10,748/- per month

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 50% namely Rs.5,374/-

iii. Total income : Rs. 10,748 + 5,374 = Rs. 16,122/-

iv. Income after deduction of 1/3rd : Rs. 10,748/-

v. Annual income : Rs.10,748 x 12 = Rs.1,28,976/-

vi. Multiplier applicable : 16

vii. Loss of dependency: Rs.1,28,976 x 16 = Rs. 20,63,616/- viii. Amount under non pecuniary heads : Rs.1,00,000/- (rounded up) + Rs.50,000/- + Rs.50,000/- (total Rs.2,00,000/-)

ix. Compensation : Rs. 22,63,616/-

x. Amount payable to claimants after deduction of 25% negligence is Rs. 16,97,712/-.

17. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, the interest should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.), wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

18. No other grounds are urged orally when the matter was heard.

19. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma V/s. Venugopal, Reported in 2012 (1) GLH (SC), 442, the order of investment is not passed because applicants /claimants are neither illiterate or rustic villagers.

20. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansaguri P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291, total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimant to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) while disbursing the amount. The said decision has also been reiterated by High Court of Gujarat in R/Special Civil Application No.4800 of 2021 (The Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Chief Commissioner of Income Tax (TDS) decided on 5.4.2022.

21. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and decree passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

11. Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Pvt. Ltd. Vs U.O.I. & ors. vide order dated 27.1.2022

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ram Ashish Pandey, learned counsel for the appellants, Sri Shresth Pratap Singh, learend counsel appearing along with Ms. Archana Singh, learned counsel for the respondent-Insurance Company and perused the judgment and order impugned.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the claimants, challenges the judgment and award dated 27.02.2017 and decree dated 03.03.2017 passed by the learned Additional District Judge, Court No. 8/Motor Accident Claim Tribunal, Etawah (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in M.A.C.P. No.765 of 2015 (Smt. Shabnam Begum And 5 Others Vs. Surendra Kumar And 2 Others), under Section 140/166 of the Motor Vehicle Act, 1988 (referred as Act), awarding a sum of Rs.4,15,000/- with 7% interest per annum to the claimants.

3. It is not in dispute that the deceased was 34 years of age. He was a L.I.C. Agent. The Tribunal has considered income of deceased to be Rs.3,000/- per month by disbelieving the documentary evidence produced by the claimants and considered income of labourer. It is submitted by Sri Ram Ashish Pandey, learned counsel for the appellants that the income of the deceased should have been considered to be Rs.30,000/- per month; as the deceased was below 40 years, 40% of the income should be added as future loss of income. It is further submitted that the deceased was survived by his widow and three minor children, 1/4th amouny towards personal expenses of the deceased should be deducted. It is also submitted that the interest should be granted at the rate of 7.5% and Rs.70,000/- should be granted under the head of non-pecuniary damages.

4. It is submitted that reliance by Tribunal on the judgment of Laxmi Devi Vs. Mohd. Tavar 2008 (2) TAC SC has been applied by the Tribunal for considering the income is bad. It is submitted that the judgment in the case of Sarla Verma Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation, (2009) 6 SCC 121 has been in vogue when the Tribunal decided this matter on 27.02.2017. The Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicle Rules 1998 (Amended in 2011) was also in vogue despite that the Tribunal has not considered and has not granted any amount under the head of future loss of income. It is submitted that the Tribunal has not followed the judgment in the case of General Manager Kerla State Road Transport Corporation Trivandrum Vs. Susamma Thomas and others 1994 (2) SCC 176 followed by U.P.S.R.T.C. Vs. Trilok Chand, 1996 T.A.C. (2) 176 which has followed the judgment in the case of Gobald Motor Service Ltd. & Vs. R. M. K. Veluswami & Others AIR 1962 SC 1, hence, all the three judgments enjoined duty on the Tribunal to decide what is known as just compensation.

5. The learned Tribunal very unfortunately has not even considered that even in the year of accident the minimum wages admissible for a house wife in the year 2012 were Rs.5,000/- per month. For a child of 12 years in 2012 also the Apex Court has granted a sum of Rs.5/- lacs. In the case of R.K. Malik Vs. Kiran Pal, 2009 14 SCC 1. The learned Tribunal in its over zeal to grant less amount has rendered the award absolutely venerable as the documentary evidence even if was not proved, the Tribunal's in the state should take a holistic view instead of relying upon the judgment of Laxmi Devi (supra) which is of the year 2008. The Tribunal very strangely relies on the xerox copies of school certificate for fixing age but refuses to rely on the Income Tax Return. We do not find any overwriting as mentioned by the Tribunal in its award, it was nobody's case that the documents produced were not genuine. Such a reasoning of the Tribunal shows that either the Tribunal was stayed away with other factor which are not germane to such a litigation. The Tribunal even lost site of the fact that the deceased survived for some hours and was hospitalized. The deceased was a holder of Pan Card. The L.I.C. Agency Code was also there. He was a Income Tax payer and not believing Form 16-A of Income Tax Return is absolutely perverse finding. We do not find any overwriting in the document 16-A filed by the claimants along with the document of Divisional Office Agra, L.I.C. can this all said to be not showing that the deceased was a person who was earning and was a respectable tax payer of the country. The bills given by Manoj Kumar Gupta and the receipts by agricultural Mandi Samiti also belies the finding of the Tribunal. The identity card for Commission Agent also and registration certificate given by K.B.C.L. India Ltd. will not permit us to concur with the learned Tribunal, rather, we deprecate this practice and as there was also further document of Sai Prasad's property in the name of the deceased way back in the year which comprises of bunch of documents which goes to show that he was running a flour mill, it is also orally opined by his wife (widow). We do not find any overwriting in the Income Tax Return produced as document 26(G) and though, the document is not admitted by the Insurance Company. The document shows that he was not a labourer but one of tax payer of this country. The Income Tax Department has also given the acknowledgement of tax deduction at source. The Tribunal under Section 169 of Act could have taken upon itself to see that the documents are proved. The Insurance Company could have also examine as an expert just to brush aside the the same cannot be accepted. The claimants have tried to summon the witnesses but the Tribunal in its over zeal has not considered the same. The written arguments of Insurance Company also did not stayed that the said documents produced are fake. The only contention is that they have not been proved. The finding of fact that the deceased was getting Rs.5,000/- as rent is also held against the claimants.

6. The documentary evidence is there on record which shows that the deceased was getting commission of about Rs.85,000/- per annum from L.I.C. which is also on record which could not be disputed by Ms. Archna Singh, learned counsel for the Insurance Company. The claimants have produced documents to show that the deceased was having his own business, bill are there which are no doubt, xerox copies not proved to be taken though they are secondary evidence. The Tribunal should consider the same. The decision of Tribunal is perverse for discarding all evidence. The judgment of Laxmi Devi (supra) has applicable to cases of labaur when the men or women does not have any vocation or income. The recent judgment in the case of Smt. Meena Pawaia & others Vs Ashraf Ali and others 2001 0 Supreme (SC) 694 would also enure for the benefit of the appellants. We, therefore, cannot concur with the view taken by the Tribunal that minimum of the income i.e. Rs.3,000/- should be considered.

7. The Income Tax Returns are the mirror of the income of the person discarding the same is against the principle of law enunciated by the Apex Court. In F.A.F.O. No. 2019 of 2021 (Akhilesh Kumar Anand Vs. Rahul Mishra and Another) decided on 18.4.2022, the Division Bench of this Court has held as follows:-

"11. The Apex court decision in Anita Sharma Vs. New India Assurance Company Ltd, 2021 (1) SCC 171 and Vimla Devi and others Vs. National Insurance Company Limited and another, (2019) 2 SCC 186, has held that strict proof of all facts is not necessary to decide the motor accident claim petition. The Tribunal should take the holistic view of the matter and the claimant has to establish his/her case on the touchstone of preponderance of probability.

12. The Division Bench of Madhya Pradesh High Court in Reliance General Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Subbulakhmi and others passed in CMA No. 1482 of 2017 has also expressed the same view with regard to the standard of proof.

*13. In Bimla Devi and others Vs. Himanchal Road Transport Corporation and others 2009 (2013) SCC 530, also the Apex Court held that the claimants were merely to establish their case on the touchstone of preponderance of probability. The standard of proof beyond reasonable doubt could not have been applied.

14. Learned Tribunal has discarded the documentary evidence, filed by the appellant with regard to the salary of the deceased. Learned Tribunal could have invoked the powers under Section 169 of the Motor Vehicle Act, 1988, which gives claims Tribunal all the powers of Civil Courts for the purpose of taking evidence, and enforcing the attendance of the witnesses and compel the discovery and proof of documents and material objects. If the learned Tribunal wanted to get the salary certificate and payment register to be proved, it could have suo moto summoned the concerned employee of the school with original record because it is the duty of the Tribunal to award 'just compensation'."

8. Section 169 in The Motor Vehicles Act, 1988-

"169. Procedure and powers of Claims Tribunals.?

(1) In holding any inquiry under section 168, the Claims Tribunal may, subject to any rules that may be made in this behalf, follow such summary procedure as it thinks fit.

(2) The Claims Tribunal shall have all the powers of a Civil Court for the purpose of taking evidence on oath and of enforcing the attendance of witnesses and of compelling the discovery and production of documents and material objects and for such other purposes as may be prescribed; and the Claims Tribunal shall be deemed to be a Civil Court for all the purposes of section 195 and Chapter XXVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974).

(3) Subject to any rules that may be made in this behalf, the Claims Tribunal may, for the purpose of adjudicating upon any claim for compensation, choose one or more persons possessing special knowledge of and matter relevant to the inquiry to assist it in holding the inquiry."

9. The age of the deceased as decided by the Tribunal is maintained. The multiplier for the age 34 years would be 16 and not 17. For non-pecuniary damages, we grant Rs.70,000/- and Rs.50,000/- each to the three minor child. The deduction of 1/4th made by the Tribunal is confirmed.

10. This takes this Court to the issue of compensation. The income of the deceased in the year of accident and looking to his profession namely that of L.I.C. Agent can be considered to be Rs.30,000/- per month to which as he was below 40 years, 40% as future loss of income requires to be added in view of the decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050.

11. Hence, the total compensation payable to the appellants in view of the decision of the Apex Court in Pranay Sethi (Supra) is computed herein below:

i. Income Rs.20,000/- per month

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 40% namely Rs.8,000/-

iii. Total income : Rs. 20,000 + 8,000 = Rs. 28,000/-

iv. Income after deduction of 1/4th : Rs. 21,000/-

v. Annual income : Rs.21,000 x 12 = Rs. 2,52,000/-

vi. Multiplier applicable : 16

vii. Loss of dependency: Rs.2,52,000 x 16 = Rs.40,32,000/- viii. Amount under filial consortium and other non pecuniary heads : Rs.70,000/- + Rs.50,000/- to the each 3 minor children

x. Total compensation : 42,52,000/-

12. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

13. No other grounds are urged orally when the matter was heard.

14. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and decree passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

15. The Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Private Ltd. v. Union of India and others vide order dated 27.1.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. As 10 years have elapsed, the amount be deposited in the Saving Account of claimants in Nationalized Bank without F.D.R.

16. Record be sent back to the tribunal.

17. This Court is thankful to both the counsels for getting this matter decided.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.
Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellants and learned counsel for the respondents. Perused the record.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the claimants, challenges the judgment and award dated 30.11.2010 passed by Motor Accident Claim Tribunal Agra/Additional District Judge, Court No.4, Agra (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in Motor Accident Claim Petition No.458 of 2009 awarding a sum of Rs.2,59,000/- with interest at the rate of 6% as compensation.

3. The accident is not in dispute. The issue of negligence decided by the Tribunal is not in dispute. The respondent concerned has not challenged the liability imposed on them and, therefore, issues decided by the tribunal other then grant of compensation have attained finality. The only issue to be decided is, the quantum of compensation awarded.

4. The brief facts as culled out from the record are that on 25.05.2009 at about 12.00 p.m., deceased Rahul Bansal aged about 20 years along with one Prashant Goyal was going by the Honda Activa Scooter as a pillion rider to his college in a moderate speed on his left side, a truck no.RJ-29/GA-0223 which was being driven ahead of deceased, in a very high speed suddenly applied brake and due to which scooter collided with the truck, the deceased plying along with Prashant Goyal sustained several injuries and died on the same day.

5. It is submitted by Shri Sundeep Agarwal, learned counsel for appellants that the Tribunal refused to consider the Income Tax Returns of the deceased and it is further submitted by Shri Agarwal that young boy who was Student of Engineering may have taken loan that cannot be adversely held against the earning capacity of the deceased. It is not proved by any cogent evidence by the respondents that the evidence of PW-3 is unreliable. It is further submitted that Tribunal has not granted any amount towards future loss of income of the deceased which is required to be granted in view of the decision in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050. It is further submitted that amount under non-pecuniary heads which is granted and the interest awarded by the Tribunal are on the lower side and requires enhancement. Learned counsel for appellants submitted that deceased was Student of Engineering and he was also doing part time job and was earning Rs.10,000/- per month. It is also submitted that as the deceased was looking after his father and mother, the deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased who was bachelor and 20 years of age should be 1/2. The multiplier has to be as per age of deceased, i.e., 20 years and it should have been 18 instead of 14 as awarded by the tribunal. No cogent reasons except that reasonable compensation would be if multiplier of 14 is granted as per age of mother. The tribunal has considered the judgment of Sarla Verma (supra) wherein also it is held that age of deceased be considered. The judgement of Sarla Verma (Supra) has been totally misinterpreted by the learned Judge. The tribunal could have very well even relied on the judgment titled National Insurance Company Ltd v. Shyam Singh and others, 2011 ACJ 1990 SC referred by reiterating Sarla Verma (Supra) which also should have been looked into by the tribunal while deciding the multiplier. The tribunal should not have taken the multiplier of the mother. However, it is now settled legal position that age of the deceased has to be considered. The tribunal has not assessed the future loss of income and it should be 40% of income as per U.P. Motor Vehicles Rules, 2011 and Pranay Sethi (Supra).

6. Learned counsel for the respondent-Insurance company, has vehemently submitted that the compensation awarded by the Tribunal is just and proper and does not call for any enhancement. It is also contended that there is no documentary evidence to show that the income of the deceased was Rs.10,000/- p.m. in the year 2011, i.e., year of accident.

7. The moot question which arises before us, whether this Court should concur with funniest reasons given by the learned tribunal sought to be concurred with and reiterated and supported by Shri Arun Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for respondent-insurance company that a student of Engineering who had taken loan could not serve as he had taken educational loan and could not serve in a private firm. It is submitted by Shri Srivastava that reasoning of the Tribunal are germane and the income of the deceased was rightly considered to be Rs.3,000/- per month as per he was a student and income is not proved.

8. The reasoning given by the tribunal is not only perverse but it has misled itself and misread the judgement of the Apex Court case titled Smt. Sarla Verma Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation and others, 2009 (3) RAJ 373 and has brushed aside the judgments cited by claimants. As far as reasonings and income of deceased are concerned admitted position of facts are as follows:-

(a) Deceased was Student of Engineering and was 20 years of age;

(b) IT returns of the deceased were filed;

(c) he was part time employed; and

(d) the salary certificate is proved by cogent evidence.

9. The tribunal held that as the income of the deceased was not proved, therefore daily wage of labourer should be considered as an income and no amount for future loss could be given. This again if fallacious reading of the facts and non grant of future loss is against the mandate of the Apex Court.

10. It is not proved to the contrary by Insurance Company, therefore, placing not reliance on the document by the tribunal cannot be accepted by this Court as the reason for not accepting IT returns, is that a young student cannot travel to serve and thus considered the minimum amount as income of student.

11. The tribunal with due respect has not taken what is known as holistic view of the matter, the young boy who was aged about 20 years was studying Engineering even if go by the decision of the Apex Court in the case of Meena Pawaia & ors. Vs. Ashraf Ali & ors, 2021 LawSuit (SC) 743 and the judgment cited of this Court and Apex that the tribunal has taken a holistic view in the matter even if the tribunal did not believe that he was serving, the tribunal could not have considered his income as that of a labourer.

12. Having heard learned counsels for the parties and considered the factual data, the accident occurred on 25.05.2009 causing death of Rahul Bansal who was also 20 years of age and left behind him his father and mother. The Tribunal has assessed the income of the deceased to be Rs.3000/- per month is not just and proper, it requires to be enhanced. The income as decided by the tribunal requires interference by this Court. The tribunal has also committed error in not considering future prospects and personal expenses of the deceased and granting multiplier of 14 instead of 18 on basis of wife as awarded by the tribunal requires to be enhanced as per age of the deceased.

13. As far as beneficial piece of legislation is concerned, the strict rules of Civil Procedure Code and Evidence Act are not required to adhered to.

14. The tribunal has erred itself in not considering the income and future prospects as per age of the deceased. The income looking to the private employment and the student of engineering, his income must be Rs.10,000/- p.m. and same should be considered. The deceased was below the age of 40 years and self employed, hence 40% of the income will have to be added in view of the decision of the Apex Court in General Manager, Kerala State Road Transport Corporation, Trivandrum Versus Susamma Thomas reported in 1993 (0) AIJEL- SC 9412 reiterated in Pranay Sethi (Supra). Looking to the general trend even in Gobald Motor Service Ltd. and another Vs. R.M.K Veluswami and other, 1962 SCR(1) 929, the addition of 40% can be granted. The tribunal even at the earliest judgment it would not be committed this fallacy.

15. In this backdrop we evaluate the income in view of the judgment of National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050 and Sarla Verma Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation, (2009) 6 SCC 121 and, the recalculation of compensation would be as follows:

i. Income Rs.10,000/- p.m.

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 40% namely Rs.4000/-

iii. Total income : Rs. 10,000 + Rs. 4,000= Rs.14,000/-

iv. Income after deduction of 1/2 : Rs.7000/-

v. Multiplier applicable : 18 (as the deceased was in the age bracket of 15-20 years)

vi. Loss of dependency: Rs.7000 x 18 = Rs.1,26,000/-

vii. Annual income = Rs.1,26,000 x 12 =Rs.15,12,000/- viii. Under the head of non pecuniary damages = Rs.50,000 + Rs.50,000 (as children are 6 and 13 years of age)= Rs.1,00,000/-

ix. Total compensation : Rs.16,12,000/-.

16. The recent judgment of the Apex Court in Kurvan Ansari Alias Kurvan Ali Vs. Shyam Kishore Murmu, 2021 (0) AIJEL-SC 67995 will also have to be looked into.

17. We deem it fit to rely on the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma and others Vs. R. Venugopal, 2012 (3) SCC 378 wherein the Apex Court has considered the judgment rendered in General Manager, Kerala State Road Transport Corporation, Trivandrum Vs. Susamma Thomas and others, AIR 1994 SC 1631.

18. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma (supra), the order of investment is not passed because applicants /claimants are neither illiterate nor rustic villagers.

19. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansaguri P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291, total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimant to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income-Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) while disbursing the amount.

20. Fresh Award be drawn accordingly in the above petition by the tribunal as per the modification made herein. The Tribunals in the State shall follow the direction of this Court as herein aforementioned as far as disbursement is concerned, it should look into the condition of the litigant and the pendency of the matter and judgment of A.V. Padma (supra). The same is to be applied looking to the facts of each case.

21. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National 7 Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

22. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and award passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the amount along with additional amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

23. Recently the Gujarat High Court in case titled the Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Chief Commissioner of Income Tax (TDS), R/Special Civil Application No.4800 of 2021 decided on 05.04.2022, it is held that interest awarded by the tribunal under Section 171 of Motor Vehicles Act is not taxable under the Income Tax Act, 1961

24. The Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Private Ltd. v. Union of India and others vide order dated 27.1.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. As 13 years have elapsed since occurrence of accident, the amount be deposited in the Saving Account of claimants in Nationalized Bank. The amount shall be credited in the said account without investment.

25. We are thankful to learned counsel for the parties for ably assisting this court in getting this old appeal disposed of.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.
Hon'ble Ajit Singh, J.)

1. Heard Sri B.P. Verma, learned counsel for the claimant-appellants and Sri Arvind Kumar, learned counsel appearing for the New India Insurance Company.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the claimants, challenges the judgment and award dated 07.08.2014 passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/ Additional District Judge, Court No.02, Mathura (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in M.A.C.P No. 172 of 2013 (Smt. Pista Devi and others Vs. The New India Insurance Company Ltd. and others.) awarding a sum of Rs.52,51,911/- as compensation with interest at the rate of 7%.

3. The accident having taken place at the time of noon at about 1:45 P.M. on 04.03.2013 is not in dispute. The vehicle of the opposite party No. 2 Bansal Transport Company, Nayee Mandi, Bharatpur being involved in the accident is not in dispute. The issue of negligence decided by the Tribunal has attained finality as the opposite party No. 2, the owner of the offending vehicle, has chosen not to challenge the award of the Tribunal. Hence, the only issue to be decided is the quantum of compensation awarded.

4. The accident took place in the year 2013. The deceased was about 52 years of age and was working on the post of Charge-man (F) in the Marketing Division of Indian Oil Corporation, Mathura Refinery, Mathura and Rs. 79,876/- per month was his salary. The learned Tribunal has considered the income of the deceased to be Rs.61500/- per month, deducted 1/4th towards personal expenses of the deceased as he was married person and in view of the prevailing judgements, granted multiplier of 9 taking into consideration the relevant factor of age of the deceased and his dependents. The Tribunal has granted Rs.5,000/- towards funeral expenses, however Rs. 15,000/- was claimed in the claim petition.

5. It is submitted by Shri Verma, learned counsel for the appellants that the Tribunal has not granted any amount towards future loss of income; the multiplier granted by the Tribunal is not in consonance with the decisions of the Apex Court. According to him, the multiplier of 11 ought to have been granted by the learned Tribunal as per the decision of the Apex Court in Sarla Verma and others Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation and Another, 2009 Law Suit (SC), but unfortunately in a very strange and casual manner, the learned tribunal has lost sight of this important aspect of the matter while passing the award impugned in this appeal for enhancement of the compensation amount awarded to the dependents of the deceased under different heads. He further submits that the multiplier cannot be as per the whims and fancies of the learned Tribunal just because the deceased was a married person and the loss of non pecuniary damages to the family has to be considered and awarded as per the settled legal position more particularly the law enunciated by the Apex Court in the case of Syed Basheer Ahamed & Ors vs Mohd. Jameel & Anr, 2009 ACJ 690 (SC), which lays down the law in respect to determination and assessment of the dependency of the claimants on the deceased persons. The question as to what factors should be kept in view for calculating pecuniary loss to a dependent came up for consideration before a three-Judge Bench of this Court in Gobald Motor Service Ltd. & Anr. Vs. R.M.K. Veluswami and other [1962 SCR (1) 929], with reference to a case under the Fatal Accidents Act, 1855, wherein, K. Subba Rao, J. (as His Lordship then was) speaking for the Bench observed thus:

"In calculating the pecuniary loss to the dependants many imponderables enter into the calculation. Therefore, the actual extent of the pecuniary loss to the dependants may depend upon data which cannot be ascertained accurately, but must necessarily be an estimate, or even partly a conjecture. Shortly, stated, the general principle is that the pecuniary loss can be ascertained only by balancing on the one hand the loss to the claimants of the future pecuniary benefit and on the other any pecuniary advantage which from whatever source comes to them by reason of the death, that is, the balance of loss and gain to a dependant by the death must be ascertained."

6. Shri Verma submits that the concept of multiplier of '9' adopted by the learned Tribunal to determine the compensation amount payable to the claimants is not as per the ratio decendi of the said judgment and it has to be 11 as per the law laid down by the Apex Court. It is further submitted that the Tribunal has granted only a sum of Rs. 5,000/- towards filial consortium which should be Rs. 40,000/-.

7. Thereafter, the learned counsel Shri D.P. Verma for the appellants further submits that the loss of future prospects calculated by the learned tribunal is also towards lower side. It cannot be decided as per the thumb law of Sarla Verma (supra), it should be decided as per the facts and circumstances of the case particularly the job, profession as well as position in a office or the status of the deceased should be taken into account. Here, in this case as the deceased was a charge-man (F) in the Indian Oil Corporation, it is submitted that the Tribunal has again committed an error in granting only Rs. 15,000/- under the head of non pecuniary damages on the wrong interpretation of the U.P. Motor Vehicle Rules. It is also submitted by Shri Verma that even if this Court holds that the judgment of Sarla Verma (supra) would apply and squarely cover the instant case, the learned Tribunal ought not to have applied it in piecemeal. In the alternative he submits that if this Court takes a view that the decision pronounced in the case of National Insurance Co. Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and others, 2017 0 SC 1050 would apply, it has been clarified by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of New India Assurance Company Ltd. Vs. Urmila Shukla and others reported in 2021 ACJ page 2081 and therefore at least 20% should be granted as future loss and it should be enhanced looking to the evidence on record.

8. In response to the submission made by the learned counsel for the appellants, the learned counsel Shri Arvind Verma appearing for the Insurance Company submits that in view of the judgment of this Hon'ble High Court he has a right to raise oral cross objections and as far as the future prospects is concerned, it should be in consonance with the judgment of the Sarla Verma (supra) and Pranay Sethi (supra) and therefore the 20 per cent could not have been granted as future loss. It is further submitted that the deceased is surviving by his wife and four children, two of them are major and therefore the deduction of 1/4th amount assessed to be deducted from the monthly income of the deceased considering it as his personal expenses should also be either one half or one third. Further argument is that the reasoning given by the learned tribunal for adopting the lower multiplier of '9' is just and proper.

9. This Court finds that according to the learned counsel for Insurance Company the rate of interest should not be 10 per cent as demanded by the learned counsel for the appellants in the grounds of appeal. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the facts and circumstances of this case and the impugned award passed by the learned Tribunal, the only area which we would like to interfere with is multiplier and non pecuniary damages and interest.

10. The learned counsel Shri Verma appearing for the appellants submits that he would be satisfied if the multiplier is applied of 11 in place of 9, future loss to the dependents is awarded at the rate of 20% of the income of the deceased and compensation for non pecuniary damages awarded Rs. 70,000/- and towards the compensation for loss of love and affection is awarded Rs. 30,000/-.

11. No other grounds are urged orally when the matter was heard.

12. Hence, the total compensation payable to the appellants is computed herein below:-

i. Monthly Income: Rs.61,500/-

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 20% i.e. Rs.12,300/-

iii. Less personal expenses of the deceased :Rs.1,93,959 (1/4th)

iv. Monthly loss of dependency : Rs.48,489/-

v. Annual loss of dependency:Rs.5,81,879/- (after tax deduction of Rs. 1,10,482/-)

vi. Multiplier applicable : 11

vii. Total Loss of dependency: Rs.52,36,911/- viii. Compensation for loss of non pecuniary damages: Rs.1,00,000/-

ix. Total compensation Rs.52,36,911/- + Rs.1,00,000/- (under head of non pecuniary damages) = Rs 53,36,911.

13. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

14. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and award passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

15. Recently, the Gujrat High Court in case titled the Oriental Insurance Company Limited Vs. Chief Commissioner of Income Tax (TDS) , R/Special Civil Application No. 4800 of 2021 decided on 5.4.2022 held that interest awarded by the Tribunal under Section 171 of Motor Vehicles Act is not taxable under the Income Tax Act, 1961.

16. The Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Private Ltd. v. Union of India and others vide order dated 27.1.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. As 20 years have elapsed, the amount be deposited in the Saving Account of claimants in Nationalized Bank without F.D.R.

17. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansagauri P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291, total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimant to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income-Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) while disbursing the amount.

18. Fresh Award be drawn accordingly in the above petition by the tribunal as per the modification made herein. The Tribunals in the State shall follow the direction of this Court as herein aforementioned as far as disbursement is concerned, it should look into the condition of the litigant and the pendency of the matter and not blindly apply the judgment of A.V. Padma (supra). The same is to be applied looking to the facts of each case.

19. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma V/s. Venugopal, Reported in 2012 (1) GLH (SC), 442, the order of investment is not passed because applicants /claimants are neither illiterate or rustic villagers.

20. With the aforesaid observations the appeal is allowed partly.

21. This Court is thankful to the counsel for both sides for getting this matter decided.

A. Civil Law - Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 - Sections 166 & 173 - Motor Accident claim - deceased was driving Maruti Wagon-R car which dashed with the truck - it was head on collision - tribunal deducted 40% towards the contributory negligence of the deceased - Held - truck driver did not appear before the tribunal - from the site plan it appears that the accident occurred almost on the middle of the road – therefore there was negligence of the driver of the Maruti Wagon-R car also - driver of the Maruti Wagon-R contributed to 25% of the accident (Para 15)

B. Civil Law - Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 - Sections 166 & 173 - Motor Accident claim - Quantum of compensation - Deceased was 35 years of the age at the time of accident and was running computer centre - Deceased I.T.R of the year 2003-2004 showed his income was Rs. 83,573/- p.a out of which he paid approximately Rs. 3000/- as income tax - Held - income of the deceased in the year of accident & looking to his profession can be considered to be Rs. 80000 per annum - tribunal has not added any amount under the head of future loss of income which is fallacious - Deceased was below the age of 40 years and as per U.P. rules court added 40% as he was self employed - Deceased had a widow and two minor daughters deduction of 1/3rd is maintained, multiplier of 16 granted by the tribunal is maintained and to that sum of Rs. 70,000/- + Rs. 50,000/- each to the minor daughters who have lost their father at a tender age – Interst should be 7.5 % (Page 16)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.
Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sumit Daga, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Saurabh Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondent no.2-United India Insurance Company.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the claimants, challenges the judgment and award dated 25.08.2007 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, Muzaffarnagar (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in M.A.C. P. No. 338 of 2004.

3. Brief facts of the case are that on 5.2.2004 the deceased-Kapil Gupta was going from Khatauli to Haridwar by Wagon-R Car bearing registration no. U.B.P.-8386 which was being driven by deceased-Kapil Gupta. At about 8.00 a.m. when he reached near Wine shop of village Badhedi, under Chapaar Police Station District Muzaffarnagar, driver of a truck coming from Roorkee bearing registration no. U.H.N. 470, driving the truck rashly and negligently dashed into the Wagon-R car as a result of which Kapil Gupta died on the spot and the Wagon-R car entirely got damaged.

4. Deceased-Kamal Arora was 35 years of the age at the time of accident and was running computer centre and was earning Rs.83,573/- annually. The deceased-Kapil Gupta was survived by his widow and two minor daughters. The Tribunal has considered his income to be Rs.75,000/- per annum, deducted Rs. 25,000/- towards personal expenses of the deceased, granted multiplier of 16, granted Rs.9,500/- under non-pecuniary heads and ultimately assessed the total compensation to be Rs.8,09,500/-. The Tribunal held the deceased-Kapil Gupta who was driving the Car negligent to the tune of 40% deducted the amount of compensation to the tune of 40%. The claimants were therefore granted amount of Rs.4,89,500/- as compensation with interest at the rate of 5%.

5. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that the Tribunal has fallen in error in holding the deceased negligent to the tune of 40%. It is submitted that the Tribunal has failed to consider the evidence on record which proves that the accident in question was caused due to rash and negligent driving of the driver of truck No. U.H.N 470 and that the Tribunal has failed to consider the pleadings as well as evidence which clearly establish that the deceased was driving car carefully and cautiously.

6. It is further submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that the accident occurred on 05.02.2004 claiming the life of Kapil Gupta who was 35 years and was running a computer centre and was a income tax payer. His I.T.R of the year 2003-2004 showed his income was Rs. 83,573/- p.a out of which he has paid approximately Rs. 3000/- as income tax and therefore it is submitted that his income to be considered as Rs. 80,000/- p.a. The Tribunal did not grant any amount for future loss of income of the deceased and also the amount awarded under non-pecuniary heads granted by the Tribunal is on the lower side and should be enhanced in view of the the decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 105. Lastly, learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the interest as awarded by the Tribunal is on the lower side and requires to be enhanced.

7. As against this, Sri Saurabh Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondent-Insurance Company submits that as far as the issue of negligence is concerned, the Tribunal has rightly held the deceased negligent to the tune of 40% as the car dashed with the truck and it was head on collision and therefore, it cannot be said that the driver of the truck was solely negligent.

8. It is further submitted by Sri Saurabh Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondent-Insurance Company that the quantum of compensation and the interest awarded by the Tribunal is just and proper and does not call for any interference by this Court.

9. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties, let us consider the negligence from the perspective of the law laid down.

10. The term negligence means failure to exercise care towards others which a reasonable and prudent person would in a circumstance or taking action which such a reasonable person would not. Negligence can be both intentional or accidental which is normally accidental. More particularly, it connotes reckless driving and the injured must always prove that the either side is negligent. If the injury rather death is caused by something owned or controlled by the negligent party then he is directly liable otherwise the principle of "res ipsa loquitur" meaning thereby "the things speak for itself" would apply.

11. The principle of contributory negligence has been discussed time and again. A person who either contributes or is co author of the accident would be liable for his contribution to the accident having taken place and that amount will be deducted from the compensation payable to him if he is injured and to legal representatives if he dies in the accident.

12. The Division Bench of this Court in First Appeal From Order No. 1818 of 2012 (Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Co.Ltd. Vs. Smt. Renu Singh And Others) decided on 19.7.2016 has held as under :

"16. Negligence means failure to exercise required degree of care and caution expected of a prudent driver. Negligence is the omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided upon the considerations, which ordinarily regulate conduct of human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. Negligence is not always a question of direct evidence. It is an inference to be drawn from proved facts. Negligence is not an absolute term, but is a relative one. It is rather a comparative term. What may be negligence in one case may not be so in another. Where there is no duty to exercise care, negligence in the popular sense has no legal consequence. Where there is a duty to exercise care, reasonable care must be taken to avoid acts or omissions which would be reasonably foreseen likely to caused physical injury to person. The degree of care required, of course, depends upon facts in each case. On these broad principles, the negligence of drivers is required to be assessed.

17. It would be seen that burden of proof for contributory negligence on the part of deceased has to be discharged by the opponents. It is the duty of driver of the offending vehicle to explain the accident. It is well settled law that at intersection where two roads cross each other, it is the duty of a fast moving vehicle to slow down and if driver did not slow down at intersection, but continued to proceed at a high speed without caring to notice that another vehicle was crossing, then the conduct of driver necessarily leads to conclusion that vehicle was being driven by him rashly as well as negligently.

18. 10th Schedule appended to Motor Vehicle Act contain statutory regulations for driving of motor vehicles which also form part of every Driving License. Clause-6 of such Regulation clearly directs that the driver of every motor vehicle to slow down vehicle at every intersection or junction of roads or at a turning of the road. It is also provided that driver of the vehicle should not enter intersection or junction of roads unless he makes sure that he would not thereby endanger any other person. Merely, because driver of the Truck was driving vehicle on the left side of road would not absolve him from his responsibility to slow down vehicle as he approaches intersection of roads, particularly when he could have easily seen, that the car over which deceased was riding, was approaching intersection.

19. In view of the fast and constantly increasing volume of traffic, motor vehicles upon roads may be regarded to some extent as coming within the principle of liability defined in Rylands V/s. Fletcher, (1868) 3 HL (LR) 330. From the point of view of pedestrian, the roads of this country have been rendered by the use of motor vehicles, highly dangerous. 'Hit and run' cases where drivers of motor vehicles who have caused accidents, are unknown. In fact such cases are increasing in number. Where a pedestrian without negligence on his part is injured or killed by a motorist, whether negligently or not, he or his legal representatives, as the case may be, should be entitled to recover damages if principle of social justice should have any meaning at all.

20. These provisions (sec.110A and sec.110B of Motor Act, 1988) are not merely procedural provisions. They substantively affect the rights of the parties. The right of action created by Fatal Accidents Act, 1855 was 'new in its species, new in its quality, new in its principles. In every way it was new. The right given to legal representatives under Act, 1988 to file an application for compensation for death due to a motor vehicle accident is an enlarged one. This right cannot be hedged in by limitations of an action under Fatal Accidents Act, 1855. New situations and new dangers require new strategies and new remedies.

21. In the light of the above discussion, we are of the view that even if courts may not by interpretation displace the principles of law which are considered to be well settled and, therefore, court cannot dispense with proof of negligence altogether in all cases of motor vehicle accidents, it is possible to develop the law further on the following lines; when a motor vehicle is being driven with reasonable care, it would ordinarily not meet with an accident and, therefore, rule of res-ipsa loquitor as a rule of evidence may be invoked in motor accident cases with greater frequency than in ordinary civil suits (per three-Judge Bench in Jacob Mathew V/s. State of Punjab, 2005 0 ACJ(SC) 1840).

22. By the above process, the burden of proof may ordinarily be cast on the defendants in a motor accident claim petition to prove that motor vehicle was being driven with reasonable care or that there is equal negligence on the part the other side."

13. The Apex Court in Khenyei Vs. New India Assurance Company Limited & Others, 2015 LawSuit (SC) 469 has held as under:

"4. It is a case of composite negligence where injuries have been caused to the claimants by combined wrongful act of joint tort feasors. In a case of accident caused by negligence of joint tort feasors, all the persons who aid or counsel or direct or join in committal of a wrongful act, are liable. In such case, the liability is always joint and several. The extent of negligence of joint tort feasors in such a case is immaterial for satisfaction of the claim of the plaintiff/claimant and need not be determined by the by the court. However, in case all the joint tort feasors are before the court, it may determine the extent of their liability for the purpose of adjusting inter-se equities between them at appropriate stage. The liability of each and every joint tort feasor vis a vis to plaintiff/claimant cannot be bifurcated as it is joint and several liability. In the case of composite negligence, apportionment of compensation between tort feasors for making payment to the plaintiff is not permissible as the plaintiff/claimant has the right to recover the entire amount from the easiest targets/solvent defendant.

14. There is a difference between contributory and composite negligence. In the case of contributory negligence, a person who has himself contributed to the extent cannot claim compensation for the injuries sustained by him in the accident to the extent of his own negligence;whereas in the case of composite negligence, a person who has suffered has not contributed to the accident but the outcome of combination of negligence of two or more other persons. This Court in T.O. Anthony v. Karvarnan & Ors. [2008 (3) SCC 748] has held that in case of contributory negligence, injured need not establish the extent of responsibility of each wrong doer separately, nor is it necessary for the court to determine the extent of liability of each wrong doer separately. It is only in the case of contributory negligence that the injured himself has contributed by his negligence in the accident. Extent of his negligence is required to be determined as damages recoverable by him in respect of the injuries have to be reduced in proportion to his contributory negligence. The relevant portion is extracted hereunder :

"6. 'Composite negligence' refers to the negligence on the part of two or more persons. Where a person is injured as a result of negligence on the part of two or more wrong doers, it is said that the person was injured on account of the composite negligence of those wrong-doers. In such a case, each wrong doer, is jointly and severally liable to the injured for payment of the entire damages and the injured person has the choice of proceeding against all or any of them. In such a case, the injured need not establish the extent of responsibility of each wrong-doer separately, nor is it necessary for the court to determine the extent of liability of each wrong-doer separately. On the other hand where a person suffers injury, partly due to the negligence on the part of another person or persons, and partly as a result of his own negligence, then the negligence of the part of the injured which contributed to the accident is referred to as his contributory negligence. Where the injured is guilty of some negligence, his claim for damages is not defeated merely by reason of the negligence on his part but the damages recoverable by him in respect of the injuries stands reduced in proportion to his contributory negligence.

7. Therefore, when two vehicles are involved in an accident, and one of the drivers claims compensation from the other driver alleging negligence, and the other driver denies negligence or claims that the injured claimant himself was negligent, then it becomes necessary to consider whether the injured claimant was negligent and if so, whether he was solely or partly responsible for the accident and the extent of his responsibility, that is his contributory negligence. Therefore where the injured is himself partly liable, the principle of 'composite negligence' will not apply nor can there be an automatic inference that the negligence was 50:50 as has been assumed in this case. The Tribunal ought to have examined the extent of contributory negligence of the appellant and thereby avoided confusion between composite negligence and contributory negligence. The High Court has failed to correct the said error."

18. This Court in Challa Bharathamma &Nanjappan (supra) has dealt with the breach of policy conditions by the owner when the insurer was asked to pay the compensation fixed by the tribunal and the right to recover the same was given to the insurer in the executing court concerned if the dispute between the insurer and the owner was the subject-matter of determination for the tribunal and the issue has been decided in favour of the insured. The same analogy can be applied to the instant cases as the liability of the joint tort feasor is joint and several. In the instant case, there is determination of inter se liability of composite negligence to the extent of negligence of 2/3rd and 1/3rd of respective drivers. Thus, the vehicle - trailor-truck which was not insured with the insurer, was negligent to the extent of 2/3rd. It would be open to the insurer being insurer of the bus after making payment to claimant to recover from the owner of the trailor-truck the amount to the aforesaid extent in the execution proceedings. Had there been no determination of the inter se liability for want of evidence or other joint tort feasor had not been impleaded, it was not open to settle such a dispute and to recover the amount in execution proceedings but the remedy would be to file another suit or appropriate proceedings in accordance with law.

What emerges from the aforesaid discussion is as follows :

(i) In the case of composite negligence, plaintiff/claimant is entitled to sue both or any one of the joint tort feasors and to recover the entire compensation as liability of joint tort feasors is joint and several.

(ii) In the case of composite negligence, apportionment of compensation between two tort feasors vis a vis the plaintiff/claimant is not permissible. He can recover at his option whole damages from any of them.

(iii) In case all the joint tort feasors have been impleaded and evidence is sufficient, it is open to the court/tribunal to determine inter se extent of composite negligence of the drivers. However, determination of the extent of negligence between the joint tort feasors is only for the purpose of their inter se liability so that one may recover the sum from the other after making whole of payment to the plaintiff/claimant to the extent it has satisfied the liability of the other. In case both of them have been impleaded and the apportionment/ extent of their negligence has been determined by the court/tribunal, in main case one joint tort feasor can recover the amount from the other in the execution proceedings.

(iv) It would not be appropriate for the court/tribunal to determine the extent of composite negligence of the drivers of two vehicles in the absence of impleadment of other joint tort feasors. In such a case, impleaded joint tort feasor should be left, in case he so desires, to sue the other joint tort feasor in independent proceedings after passing of the decree or award."

14. The latest decision of the Apex Court in Khenyei (Supra) has laid down one further aspect about considering the negligence more particularly composite/contributory negligence. The deceased or the person concerned should be shown to have contributed either to the accident and the impact of accident upon the victim could have been minimised if he had taken care.

15. The tribunal has considered that the deceased who was driving Maruti Wagon-R car which dashed with the truck and it was head on collision and therefore 40% was deducted to be the contributory negligence of the deceased. We redecide the issue of negligence. Sri Sumit Daga, learned counsel for the appellants has placed reliance on the judgement of this High Court in Uttar Pradesh Rajya Sadak Parivahan Nigam Vs. Smt. Anamika Deo (died) and others, 2022 (4) ADJ 570 (DB) and has contended that even this Court consideres that the driver namely the deceased had contributed to the accident. It won't be 40% as 40% cannot be considered to be rash and negligent driving of the deceased. The charge-sheet was laid against the driver of the truck. The truck driver did not appear before the tribunal, however, from the site plan it appears that the accident occurred almost on the middle of the road and therefore, we are in agreement with the submission of the Sri Saurabh Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondent no. 2 that it cannot be accepted that there was no negligence of the driver of the Maruti Wagon-R car. We hold the driver of the Maruti Wagon-R who contributed to 25% of the accident.

16. This takes this Court to the issue of compensation. The income of the deceased in the year of accident and looking to his profession it can be considered to be Rs.80,000/- per annum. The tribunal has not added any amount under the head of future loss of income which is again fallacious as the judgment of the Apex Court in Gobald Motor Service Ltd. and another Vs. R.M.K Veluswami and other [1962 SCR (1) 929] and General Manager, Kerala State Road Transport Corporation, Trivandrum Vs. Susamma Thomas and others (1994) 2 SCC 176 which was followed by the judgement of the Apex Court in U.P.S.R.T.C. Vs. Trilok Chand, 1996 T.A.C. (2) 286 and therefore taking the thumb rule of Pranay Sethi (Supra) as he was below the age of 40 years ans as per U.P. rules, we add 40% as he was self employed. As he had a widow and two minor daughters deduction of 1/3rd is maintained, multiplier of 16 granted by the tribunal is maintained and to that sum of Rs. 70,000/- + Rs. 50,000/- each to the minor daughters who have lost their father at a tender age.

i. Annual Income Rs.80,000/- (as decided by the Tribunal)

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 40% namely Rs.32,000/-

iii. Total income : Rs. 80,000 + 32,000 = Rs.1,12,000/- iv. Income after deduction of 1/3rd : Rs.74,667/- (rounded of)

vi. Multiplier applicable : 16

vii. Loss of dependency: Rs.74,667 x 16 = Rs.11,94,672/- viii. Amount under non-pecuniary head : 70,000/- + Rs. 1,00,000/-(Rs. 50,000/- each to two minor daughters)

ix. Total compensation : 13,64,672/-

x. Compensation payable to claimants after deductions of 25% negligence on the part of the deceased : 10,23,504/-

18. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

19. No other grounds are urged orally when the matter was heard.

20. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and award passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

21. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma V/s. Venugopal, Reported in 2012 (1) GLH (SC), 442, the order of investment is not passed because applicants /claimants are neither illiterate or rustic villagers.

22. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansaguti P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291, total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimant to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) while disbursing the amount.

23. Fresh Award be drawn accordingly in the above petition by the tribunal as per the modification made herein. The Tribunals in the State shall follow the direction of this Court as herein aforementioned as far as disbursement is concerned, it should look into the condition of the litigant and the pendency of the matter and judgment of A.V. Padma (supra). The same is to be applied looking to the facts of each case.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. By way of this appeal, the claimants have challenged the judgment and award dated 05.09.2017 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, Court No.12, Kanpur Nagar (hereinafter referred to as "Tribunal') in M.A.C.P. No.926 of 2014 (Smt. Kusuma Devi and Others Vs. Shrawan Kumar Mishra and Others) awarding sum of Rs.17,13,000/- as compensation to the claimants with interest at the rate of 7% per annum.

2. Heard Mr. Shyam Narain Pandey, learned counsel for the appellants and Mr. Pawan Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the respondent-Insurance Company. Perused the record.

3. The accident is not in dispute. The driver of the said vehicle was having valid and effective driving licence on the date of accident is also a decided fact. The vehicle being insured and there being no breach of policy condition is a finding, which has attained finality. The Insurance Company Ltd. (hereinafter referred to as "Insurance Company") has not challenged the liability on it. In this case, learned Tribunal has fixed 45% contributory negligence of the deceased which the appellants have objected vehemently and argued this point along with quantum fixed by learned Tribunal.

4. Brief facts of the case are that claimants-appellants filed Motor Accident Claim Petition before the learned Tribunal with the averments that on 21.06.2014 at about 9:45 PM (night) the deceased Lal Bahadur Dwivedi was coming from his field to the home by his motorcycle. When he reached at village Bhinduri within the jurisdiction of police station Chaubepur, District Kanpur Nagar, a truck bearing no.H.R. 38A 5791, going ahead of the motorcycle of the deceased, the truck driver suddenly applied thebrake without any indication, due to which the motorcycle of the deceased rammed into the truck going ahead.

5. In this accident, the deceased sustained fatal injuries and he died on way to the hospital. Manoj Kumar-nephew of the deceased was also travelling in his motorcycle behind the deceased, who saw the accident and taken the deceased to the hospital.

6. The issue regarding the insurance of the offending truck and driving licence of its driver have been decided in affirmative. As far as question of negligence is concerned, Mr. Pawan Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the Insurance Company has submitted that deceased was negligent and responsible for the accident because he hit the truck going ahead. Learned counsel for the Insurance Company has relied on the decision of Apex Court in Nishan Singh and Others Vs. Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. and Others, 2018 (6) Supreme Court Cases 765.

7. It is further submitted that since the deceased was himself negligent, except grant of non pecuniary damages, no other amount would be payable to the claimants-appellants.

8. The term negligence means failure to exercise care towards others which a reasonable and prudent person would in a circumstance or taking action which such a reasonable person would not. Negligence can be both intentional or accidental which is normally accidental. More particularly, it connotes reckless driving and the injured must always prove that the either side is negligent. If the injury rather death is caused by something owned or controlled by the negligent party then he is directly liable otherwise the principle of "res ipsa loquitur" meaning thereby "the things speak for itself" would apply.

9. T he principle of contributory negligence has been discussed time and again. A person who either contributes or author of the accident would be liable for his contribution to the accident having taken place.

10. The Division Bench of this Court in First Appeal From Order No. 1818 of 2012 (Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Co.Ltd. Vs. Smt. Renu Singh And Others) decided on 19.7.2016 has held as under:

"16. Negligence means failure to exercise required degree of care and caution expected of a prudent driver. Negligence is the omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided upon the considerations, which ordinarily regulate conduct of human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. Negligence is not always a question of direct evidence. It is an inference to be drawn from proved facts. Negligence is not an absolute term, but is a relative one. It is rather a comparative term. What may be negligence in one case may not be so in another. Where there is no duty to exercise care, negligence in the popular sense has no legal consequence. Where there is a duty to exercise care, reasonable care must be taken to avoid acts or omissions which would be reasonably foreseen likely to caused physical injury to person. The degree of care required, of course, depends upon facts in each case. On these broad principles, the negligence of drivers is required to be assessed.

17. It would be seen that burden of proof for contributory negligence on the part of deceased has to be discharged by the opponents. It is the duty of driver of the offending vehicle to explain the accident. It is well settled law that at intersection where two roads cross each other, it is the duty of a fast moving vehicle to slow down and if driver did not slow down at intersection, but continued to proceed at a high speed without caring to notice that another vehicle was crossing, then the conduct of driver necessarily leads to conclusion that vehicle was being driven by him rashly as well as negligently.

18. 10th Schedule appended to Motor Vehicle Act contain statutory regulations for driving of motor vehicles which also form part of every Driving License. Clause-6 of such Regulation clearly directs that the driver of every motor vehicle to slow down vehicle at every intersection or junction of roads or at a turning of the road. It is also provided that driver of the vehicle should not enter intersection or junction of roads unless he makes sure that he would not thereby endanger any other person. Merely, because driver of the Truck was driving vehicle on the left side of road would not absolve him from his responsibility to slow down vehicle as he approaches intersection of roads, particularly when he could have easily seen, that the car over which deceased was riding, was approaching intersection.

19. In view of the fast and constantly increasing volume of traffic, motor vehicles upon roads may be regarded to some extent as coming within the principle of liability defined in Rylands V/s. Fletcher, (1868) 3 HL (LR) 330*. From the point of view of pedestrian, the roads of this country have been rendered by the use of motor vehicles, highly dangerous. 'Hit and run' cases where drivers of motor vehicles who have caused accidents, are unknown. In fact such cases are increasing in number. Where a pedestrian without negligence on his part is injured or killed by a motorist, whether negligently or not, he or his legal representatives, as the case may be, should be entitled to recover damages if principle of social justice should have any meaning at all.*

20. These provisions (sec.110A and sec.110B of Motor Act, 1988) are not merely procedural provisions. They substantively affect the rights of the parties. The right of action created by Fatal Accidents Act, 1855 was 'new in its species, new in its quality, new in its principles. In every way it was new. The right given to legal representatives under Act, 1988 to file an application for compensation for death due to a motor vehicle accident is an enlarged one. This right cannot be hedged in by limitations of an action under Fatal Accidents Act, 1855. New situations and new dangers require new strategies and new remedies.

21. In the light of the above discussion, we are of the view that even if courts may not by interpretation displace the principles of law which are considered to be well settled and, therefore, court cannot dispense with proof of negligence altogether in all cases of motor vehicle accidents, it is possible to develop the law further on the following lines; when a motor vehicle is being driven with reasonable care, it would ordinarily not meet with an accident and, therefore, rule of res-ipsa loquitor as a rule of evidence may be invoked in motor accident cases with greater frequency than in ordinary civil suits (per three-Judge Bench in Jacob Mathew V/s. State of Punjab, 2005 0 ACJ(SC) 1840).

22. By the above process, the burden of proof may ordinarily be cast on the defendants in a motor accident claim petition to prove that motor vehicle was being driven with reasonable care or that there is equal negligence on the part the other side."

11. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that learned Tribunal has held the contributory negligence of the deceased to the tune of 45% and this issue of negligence has been wrongly decided by the learned Tribunal because P.W.-2 is the eye witness of the accident and he has deposed in his testimony that the truck driver all of sudden appliedbrake which caused the accident.

12. It is also submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that truck driver did not appear before the learned Tribunal though he was the best witness. The charge sheet is also filed against the driver of the truck, hence, the deceased was not at all negligent in driving the motorcycle. P.W.-

2, Manoj Kumar Dwivedi is the eye witness of the accident, who was coming behind the deceased on his own motorcycle. As per the testimony of P.W.-2, the truck driver applied the brake all of sudden, but he has also deposed that deceased could not apply the brake completely due to which the motorcycle hit the aforesaid truck going ahead of him.

13. We are even fortified in our view by the decision of the Apex Court in Archit Saini and Another Vs. Oriental Insurance Company Limited, AIR 2018 SC 1143, wherein the finding of the Tribunal was upheld by adverting to the same more particularly the Apex Court has upheld the finding in paragraph 21 to 27 in its judgment. The paragraph 5 of the said Apex Court's judgment is reproduced hereinbelow:

"5.The respondents had opposed the claim petition and denied their liability but did not lead any evidence on the relevant issue to dispel the relevant fact. The Tribunal after analysing the evidence, including the site map (Ext. P-45) produced on record along with charge-sheet filed against the driver of the Gas Tanker and the arguments of the respondents, answered Issue 1 against the respondents in the following words:

"21. Our own Hon'ble High Court in a case captioned Lakhu Singh v. Uday Singh [Lakhu Singh v. Uday Singh, 2007 SCC OnLine P&H 865 : PLR (2007) 4 P&H 507] held that while considering a claim petition, the Tribunal is required to hold an enquiry and act not as criminal court so as to find whether the claimants have established the occurrence beyond shadow of any reasonable doubt. In the enquiry, if there is prima facie evidence of the occurrence there is no reason to disbelieve such evidence. The statements coupled with the facts of registration of FIR and trial of the accused in a criminal court are sufficient to arrive at a conclusion that the accident has taken place. Likewise, in Kusum Lata v. Satbir [Kusum Lata v. Satbir, (2011) 3 SCC 646 : (2011) 2 SCC (Civ) 37 : (2011) 2 SCC (Cri) 18 : (2011) 2 RCR (Civil) 379] the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that in a case relating to motor accident claims, the claimants are not required to rove the case as it is required to be done in a criminal trial. The Court must keep this distinction in mind. Strict proof of an accident caused by a particular bus in a particular manner may not be possible to be done by the claimants. The claimants were merely to establish their case on the touchstone of preponderance of probability. The standard of proof beyond reasonable doubt could not have been applied.

22. After considering the submissions made by both the parties, I find that PW 7 Sohan Lal eyewitness to the occurrence has specifically stated in his affidavit Ext. PW 7/A tendered in his evidence that on 15-12-2011 at about 20.30 p.m. he along with PHG Ajit Singh was present near Sanjha Chulha Dhaba on the National Highway leading to Jammu. All the traffic of road was diverted on the eastern side of the road on account of closure of road on western side due to construction work. In the meantime a Maruti car bearing No. HR 02 K 0448 came from Jammu side and struck against the back of Gas Tanker as the driver of the car could not spot the parked tanker due to the flashlights of the oncoming traffic from front side. Then they rushed towards the spot of accident and noticed that the said tanker was standing parked in the middle of the road without any indicators or parking lights.

23. The statement of this witness clearly establishes that this was the sole negligence on the part of the driver of the Gas Tanker especially when the accident was caused on 15-12-2011 that too at about 10.30 p.m. which is generally time of pitch darkness. In this way, the driver of the car cannot be held in any way negligent in this accident. Moreover, as per Rule 15 of the Road Regulations, 1989 no vehicle is to be parked on busy road.

24. The arguments of the learned counsel for the respondent that PW 7 Sohan Lal has stated in his cross-examination that there was no fog at that time and there were lights on the Dhaba and the truck was visible to him due to light of Dhaba and he was standing at the distance of 70 ft from the truck being road between him and the truck and he noticed at the car when he heard voice/sound caused by the accident so Respondent 1 is not at all negligent in this accident but these submissions will not make the car driver to be in any way negligent and cannot give clean chit to the driver of the Gas Tanker because there is a difference between the visibility of a standing vehicle from a place where the person is standing and by a person who is coming driving the vehicle because due to flashlights of vehicles coming from front side the vehicle coming from opposite side cannot generally spot the standing vehicle in the road that too in night-time when there is neither any indicator or parking lights nor blinking lights nor any other indication given on the back of the stationed vehicle, therefore, the driver of the car cannot be held to be in any way negligent rather it is the sole negligence on the part of the driver of the offending Gas Tanker as held inGinni Devi case [Ginni Devi v. Union of India, 2007 SCC OnLine P&H 126 : 2008 ACJ 1572] , Mohan Lal case [New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. Mohan Lal, 2006 SCC OnLine All 459 : (2007) 1 ACC 785 (All)] . It is not the case of the respondent that the parking lights of the standing truck were on or there were any other indication on the backside of the vehicle standing on the road to enable the coming vehicle to see the standing truck. The other arguments of the learned counsel for Respondent 3 that the road was sufficient wide road and that the car driver could have avoided the accident, so the driver of the car was himself negligent in causing the accident cannot be accepted when it has already been held that the accident has been caused due to sole negligence of the driver of the offending stationed truck in the busy road. The proposition of law laid down in Harbans Kaur case [New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. Harbans Kaur, 2010 SCC OnLine P&H 7441 : (2010) 4 PLR 422 (P&H)] and T.M. Chayapathi case [New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. T.M. Chayapathi, 2004 SCC OnLine AP 484 : (2005) 4 ACC 61] is not disputed at all but these authorities are not helpful to the respondents being not applicable on the facts and circumstances of the present case. Likewise, non-examination of minor children of the age of 14 and 9 years who lost their father and mother in the accident cannot be held to be in any way detrimental to the case of the claimants when eyewitness to the occurrence has proved the accident having been caused by the negligence of Respondent 1 driver of the offending vehicle.

25. Moreover, in Girdhari Lal v. Radhey Shyam [Girdhari Lal v. Radhey Shyam, 1993 SCC OnLine P&H 194 : PLR

(1993) 104 P&H 109] , Sudama Devi v. Kewal Ram [Sudama Devi v.Kewal Ram, 2007 SCC OnLine P&H 1208 : PLR (2008) 149 P&H 444] and Pazhaniammal case [New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. Pazhaniammal, 2011 SCC OnLine Ker 1881 : 2012 ACJ 1370] our own Hon'ble High Court has held that "it is, prima facie safe to conclude in claim cases that the accident has occurred on account of rash or negligent driving of the driver, if the driver is facing the criminal trial on account of rash or negligent driving.'

26. Moreover, Respondent 1 driver of the offending vehicle has not appeared in the witness box to deny the accident having been caused by him, therefore, I am inclined to draw an adverse inference against Respondent 1. In this context, I draw support from a judgment of the Hon'ble Punjab & Haryana High Court reported asBhagwani Devi v. Krishan Kumar Saini[Bhagwani Devi v. Krishan Kumar Saini, 1986 SCC OnLine P&H 274 : 1986 ACJ 331]. Moreover, Respondent 1 has also not filed any complaint to higher authorities about his false implication in the criminal case so it cannot be accepted that Respondent 1 has been falsely implicated in this case.

27. In view of above discussion, it is held that the claimants have proved that the accident has been caused by Respondent 1 by parking the offending vehicle bearing No. HR 02 AF 8590 in the middle of the road in a negligent manner wherein Vinod Saini and Smt Mamta Saini have died and claimants Archit Saini and Gauri Saini have received injuries on their person. Shri Vinod Saini, deceased who was driving ill-fated car on that day cannot be held to be negligent in any way. Accordingly, this issue is decided in favour of claimants."

14. It is admitted fact that motorcycle hit the truck from behind, hence, we are in agreement with the finding of learned Tribunal that the deceased did not keep the safe distance from the truck. If he would have kept the safe distance, the accident could have been avoided. Hence, the deceased was also negligent in driving the motorcycle. On the other hand, the truck driver applied the brake all of sudden. The truck driver has not stepped into the witness box, who was the best witness to tell why he applied brake suddenly or whether he was in compulsion to apply the brake all of sudden. Hence, the owner and Insurance Company have not discharged their burden to prove that truck driver was not negligent. Hence, we uphold the conclusion of learned Tribunal that the deceased and truck driver both were negligent and we concur with the finding of learned Tribunal fixing the contributory negligence of truck driver to the tune of 55% and the negligence of the deceased to the tune of 45%. Hence, finding of Tribunal in this regard is maintained.

15. Now, the only issue to be decided is, the quantum of compensation, awarded by the Tribunal.

16. Learned Tribunal has computed the total compensation Rs.31,15,123/- and awarded its 55% as Rs.17,13,000/- after deducting the 45% of amount towards contributory negligence of the deceased.

17. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that deceased was posted as a Fitter in Indian Artificial Limbs Manufacturing Corporation, Kanpur and his salary was Rs.48,438/- per month but learned Tribunal has taken salary only at Rs.37,555/- per month, which was not in consonance with the settled law. Income tax was also deducted from the salary of the deceased and net salary of Rs.36,055/- has taken by the learned Tribunal for the purpose of computation.

18. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that only that part of the salary would be admissible, which was for the benefit of the family of the deceased, but learned Tribunal has committed error in computation of the salary of the deceased. Learned counsel for the appellants has relied on the judgment of Apex Court in Vimal Kanwar and Others VS. Kishore Dan and Others, 2013 0 Supreme (SC) 441.

19. It is also submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that learned Tribunal has not granted any amount under the head of non pecuniary damages and no reason is assigned for non granting the same.

20. Per contra, learned counsel for the Insurance Company has submitted that only non pecuniary damages would be grantable. We are not agreeable with the submission of learned counsel for the Insurance Company that only non pecuniary damages would be granted.

21. Perusal of record shows that last salary slip of the month of April, 2014 is on record and Form-16 is also on record. Form-16 is an authentic document for the purpose of computation of the salary of the deceased. Form-16 shows gross annual income of the deceased at Rs.5,95,175/-. It is also shown that total income tax of the year was Rs.23,622/-. Hence, after the deduction of income tax from the gross salary it comes of Rs.5,71,553/-, which should be considered for computation of compensation, hence, annual income of the deceased is taken at Rs.5,70,000/- (rounded off).

22. Learned Tribunal has added 25% for future loss of income, which needs no interference. Tribunal has deducted ¼ for personal expenses of the deceased. Keeping in view of number of dependents, we uphold the same.

23. Submission is that learned Tribunal has not awarded any sum towards non pecuniary damages and has not assigned any reason for non grant of the same.

24. Other points of contention, which are argued by learned counsel for the appellants is that learned Tribunal has applied multiplier of 8 while should have been 9 as per the judgment of the Apex Court in Sarla Verma and Others Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation and Another, 2009 LawSuit (SC) 613 to which we agree. Learned Tribunal has rightly deducted 1/4 of the income of the deceased for personal expenses. Lastly, it was contended by the appellants that learned Tribunal has awarded interest at the rate of 7% per annum which should be enhanced.

25. No other arguments were placed regarding the fixation of quantum.

26. As per the judgment of Apex Court in National Insurance Company vs. Pranay Sethi [2014 (4) TAC 637 (SC), appellants would be entitled to get Rs.15,000/- for loss of estate and Rs.15,000/- towards funeral expenses. Apart from it, the wife of the deceased shall also be entitled to get Rs.40,000/- for loss of consortium. In this way, the appellants shall be entitled to get Rs.70,000/- under non-pecuniary heads with upward revision after every three years, hence, we allow total Rs.1,00,000/- under non-pecuniary heads.

27. Hence, the total compensation payable to the appellants in view of the decisions of the Apex Court in Sarla Verma and Others (Supra) and Pranay Sethi (Supra) is computed herein below:

1.	Annual income i.e. Rs.5,70,000/-	Rs.5,70,000/- p.a.
2.	Percentage towards future prospect : 25%	Rs.1,42,500/-
3.	Total income : Rs.5,70,000/- + Rs.1,42,500/-	Rs.7,12,500/-
4.	Income after deduction of 1/4 : Rs.7,12,500/- - Rs.1,78,125/-	Rs.5,34,375/-
5.	Multiplier applicable : 9 :- Rs. 5,34,375 X 9	Rs.48,09,375/-
6.	Amount under non pecuniary head : Rs.15,000 + Rs.15,000 + Rs.40,000/- with 10% upward revision	Rs.1,00,000/-
7.	Total compensation : Rs.48,09,375 + Rs.1,00,000/-	Rs. 49,09,375/-
8.	Amount after 45% deduction towards contributory negligence : Rs.49,09,375 - Rs.22,09,218/-	Rs. 27,00,000/- (rounded off)

28. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under:

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

29. Learned Tribunal has awarded rate of interest as 7% per annum but we are fixing the rate of interest as 7.5% in the light of the above judgment.

30. In view of the above, the appeal stands partly allowed. Judgment and award passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent- Insurance Company shall deposit the amount within a period of 08 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited. Statutory amount be remitted to the Tribunal.

31. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansagori P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291 and this High Court in total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimants to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) and in First Appeal From Order No.2871 of 2016 (Tej Kumari Sharma v. Chola Mandlam M.S. General Insurance Co. Ltd.) decided on 19.3.2021 while disbursing the amount.

32. The Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Union of India and Others, vide order dated 27.01.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. Since long time has elapsed, the amount be deposited in the Saving Bank Account of claimant(s) in a nationalized Bank without F.D.R.

33. Recently, this Bench has come across the high handed action taken by the tribunal immediately post declaration of the award by issuing recovery warrant against the Insurance Company even before expiry of period of appeal. As under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 and Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicles (Eleventh Amendment) Rules, 2011, the period of limitation should be permitted to expire and, thereafter, the said claim application/petition itself would be considered to be an execution petition/application for execution of the award, but for a period of 90 days or as described in future till the period of appeal is not over, no coercive action shall be taken ex party in pursuance of the execution proceedings, if initiated. The claimants would not be required to file execution petition, an application in the disposed of matter itself would suffice.

34. It goes without saying that the tribunal shall wait for 90 days, namely, the period of limitation for preferring appeal under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988. The order of this Court in F.A.F.O. No.998 of 2022, United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Dipesh Rai and others decided on 21.4.2022, wherein also this Bench has requested the Hon'ble the Chief Justice to circulate amongst the trial judicial/MACT tribunal in the State. These new directions will apply in all the matters where the awards are passed and/or to be passed and no coercive action shall be taken for 90 days except issuance of summon/notice and an advance copy to the counsel for the Insurance company or the tortfessor who is judgment debtor be served.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Learned counsel for the petitioner is permitted to correct the name of respondent no.4 as Smt. Pooja Devi in place of Smt. Pushpa Devi in the array of parties during the course of the day.

2. Heard Sri Ashok Kumar Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Rajnish Kumar Rai, learned counsels for the respondent nos. 1 to 3.

3. This writ petition has been filed by the petitioner challenging the inquiry report dated 28.09.2021 submitted by respondent no.3 where by certain allegations has been made against the petitioner.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner was posted as Constable in RPF post/Belgachia, Metro Railway, Kolkata and discharging his duties upto the satisfaction of his superior. The respondent no.4, Smt. Pooja Devi (wife of the petitioner), filed N.C.R. against the petitioner on 10.09.2020, which was registered as N.C.R. No. 82 of 2020, under Section 494 IPC. Thereafter, again Smt. Pooja Devi filed an application U/s 155(2) Cr.P.C. before the Judicial Magistrate, Saidpur District-Ghazipur, under Section 494 IPC. On the aforesaid application, the concerned Judicial Magistrate passed order dated 20.10.2020 directing the concerned Station House Officer to investigate the matter. The criminal proceedings with respect to the aforesaid aspect was lodged with the allegations that the petitioner had married for the second time with one Km. Archana Yadav, which was totally biased and false allegation.

5. Though the criminal proceedings is still pending against the petitioner, relying on the same set of facts and evidence, the department has proceeded to initiate the departmental proceedings against the petitioner. Subsequently, show cause notice has been issued to the petitioner on 05.03.2021 and charge sheet has also been issued against him on 30.04.2021.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that the respondent no.3 has submitted the impugned inquiry report dated 28.09.2021 without considering the material facts that the criminal proceedings is still pending against the petitioner before the court below for the same cause of action. He further submits that since the allegations are identical and the basis to proceed both departmentally and in criminal trial are same, therefore, prejudice would be caused to the petitioner in case disciplinary proceedings and criminal trial is allowed to go on simultaneously, therefore, the disciplinary proceedings are liable to be quashed.

7. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondent nos.1 to 3 submits that the acquittal by the criminal court does not vitiate the order of the disciplinary authority while passing the punishment order against the petitioner. Also the findings recorded by the criminal court are not binding, for the purpose of disciplinary proceedings against a delinquent. He further submits that the scope of judicial review is limited to the extent that proceedings have been conducted in accordance with law as it lies against the decision making procedure and not against the decision itself. No illegality in the inquiry report submitted by the Inquiry Officer after holding the enquiry. The Court cannot examine the inquiry report or the order of the disciplinary authority as an appellate authority, rather it has to satisfy itself that the enquiry has been conducted in accordance with law. Thus, the petition is liable to be dismissed.

8. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and scanned the records, the Court finds that the position of law is well settled regarding that the departmental proceedings and the criminal proceedings can go on simultaneously, except where a departmental proceeding and a criminal proceeding are based on the same set of facts and evidence and where the witnesses are common in the said cases, the Court has to decide taking into account the said features of the case as to whether simultaneously continuance of both the proceedings would be appropriate and proper or not.

9. In the judgment of the apex court in the case of Nelson Motis Vs. Union of India & Anr., reported in AIR 1992 SC 1981, it has been held as under:-

"The nature and scope of a criminal case are very different from those of a departmental disciplinary proceeding and an order of acquittal, therefore, cannot conclude the departmental proceeding."

10. In another case of State of Karnataka & Anr. Vs T. Venkataramanappa, (1996) 6 SCC 455, the Apex Court held that acquittal in a criminal case cannot be held to be a bar to hold departmental enquiry for the same misconduct for the reason that in a criminal trial, standard of proof is different as the case is to be proved beyond reasonable doubt but in the departmental proceeding, such a strict proof of misconduct is not required. In the said case, the departmental proceedings had been quashed by the Tribunal as the delinquent had been acquitted by the criminal court of the same charges.

11. While dealing with a similar issue, a three-Judges Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ajit Kumar Nag Vs. General Manager (PJ) Indian Oil Corporation Ltd., (2005) 7 SCC 764, held as under:-

"In our judgment, the law is fairly well settled. Acquittal by a criminal court would not debar an employer from exercising power in accordance with the Rules and Regulations in force. The two proceedings, criminal and departmental, are entirely different. They operate in different fields and have different objectives. Whereas the object of criminal trial is to inflict appropriate punishment on the offender, the purpose of enquiry proceedings is to deal with the delinquent departmentally and to impose penalty in accordance with the service rules. In a criminal trial, incriminating statement made by the accused in certain circumstances or before certain officers is totally inadmissible in evidence. Such strict rules of evidence and procedure would not apply to departmental proceedings. The degree of proof which is necessary to order a conviction is different from the degree of proof necessary to record the commission of delinquency. The rule relating to appreciation of evidence in the two proceedings is also not similar. In criminal law, burden of proof is on the prosecution and unless the prosecution is able to prove the guilt of the accused "beyond reasonable doubt", he cannot be convicted by a court of law. In a departmental enquiry, on the other hand, penalty can be imposed on the delinquent officer on a finding recorded on the basis of "preponderance of probability."

12. The issue as to whether disciplinary proceedings can be held at the time when the delinquent employee is facing the criminal trial, has also been considered from time to time. In State of Rajasthan Vs. B.K. Meena & Ors., AIR 1997 SC 13, the Hon'ble Supreme Court while dealing with the issue observed as under:-

"It would be evident from the above decisions that each of them starts with the indisputable proposition that there is no legal bar for both proceedings to go on simultaneously and then say that in certain situations, it may not be 'desirable', 'advisable' or 'appropriate' to proceed with the disciplinary enquiry when a criminal case is pending on identical charges.....The only ground suggested in the above decisions as constituting a valid ground for staying the disciplinary proceedings is that 'the defence of the employee in the criminal case may not be prejudiced'. This ground has, however, been hedged in by providing further that this may be done in cases of grave nature involving questions of fact and law. In our respectful opinion, it means that not only the charges must be grave but that the case must involve complicated questions of law and fact. Moreover, 'advisability', 'desirability' or 'propriety', as the case may be, has to be determined in each case taking into consideration all the facts and circumstances of the case.....One of the contending considerations is that the disciplinary enquiry cannot be - and should not be - delayed unduly. So far as criminal cases are concerned, it is well known that they drag on endlessly where high officials or persons holding high public offices are involved. They get bogged down on one or the other ground. They hardly ever reach a prompt conclusion.....If a criminal case is unduly delayed that may itself be a good ground for going ahead with the disciplinary enquiry even where the disciplinary proceedings are held over at an earlier stage. The interests of administration and good government demand that these proceedings are concluded expeditiously. It must be remembered that interests of administration demand that undesirable elements are thrown out and any charge of misdemeanour is enquired into promptly. The disciplinary proceedings are meant not really to punish the guilty but to keep the administrative machinery unsullied by getting rid of bad elements. The interest of delinquent officer also lies in a prompt conclusion of the disciplinary proceedings. If he is not guilty of the charges, his honour should be vindicated at the earliest possible moment and if he is guilty, he should be dealt with promptly according to law. It is not also in the interest of administration that persons accused of serious misdemeanour should be continued in office indefinitely, i.e., for long periods awaiting the result of criminal proceedings. It is not in the interest of administration. It only serves the interest of the guilty and dishonest....."

13. In another judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Capt. M. Paul Anthony Vs. Bharat Gold Mines Ltd., AIR 1999 SC 1416, it has been held that there can be no bar for continuing both the proceedings simultaneously. The Court placed reliance upon large number of its earlier judgments, including Delhi Cloth and General Mills Ltd. Vs. Kushal Bhan, AIR 1960 SC 806; Tata Oil Mills Co. Ltd. Vs. The Workmen, AIR 1965 SC 155; Jang Bahadur Singh Vs. Baij Nath Tiwari, AIR 1969 SC 30; Kusheshwar Dubey Vs. M/s. Bharat Coking Coal Ltd. & Ors., AIR 1988 SC 2118; Nelson Motis (Supra); and B.K. Meena (Supra), and held that proceedings in a criminal case and departmental proceedings can go on simultaneously except where both the proceedings are based on the same set of facts and the evidence in both the proceedings is common. In departmental proceedings, factors prevailing in the mind of the disciplinary authority may be many, such as enforcement of discipline or to investigate level of integrity of delinquent or other staff. The standard of proof required in those proceedings is also different from that required in a criminal case. While in departmental proceedings, the standard of proof is one of preponderance of probabilities, in a criminal case, the charge has to be proved by the prosecution beyond reasonable doubt. Where the charge against the delinquent employee is of a grave nature which involves complicated questions of law and fact, it is desirable to stay the departmental proceedings till conclusion of the criminal case. Where the nature of charge in a criminal case is grave and wherein complicated questions of fact and law are involved, will depend upon the nature of the defence, the nature of the case launched against the employee on the basis of evidence and material collected against him during investigation or as reflected in the charge-sheet. In case the criminal case does not proceed expeditiously, the departmental proceedings cannot be kept in abeyance for ever and may be resumed and proceeded with so as to conclude the same at the early date. The purpose is that if the employee is found not guilty his cause may be vindictive, and in case he is found guilty, administration may get rid of him at the earliest.

14. Again in the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of State Bank of India & Ors. Vs. R.B. Sharma, AIR 2004 SC 4144, same view has been reiterated observing that both proceedings can be held simultaneously, except where departmental proceedings in criminal case are based on same set of facts and evidence in both the proceedings is common. The Court observed as under:-

"The purpose of departmental inquiry and of prosecution are to put a distinct aspect. Criminal prosecution is launched for an offence for violation of duty. The offender owes to the society, or for breach of which law has provided that the offender shall make satisfaction to the public. So crime is an act of commission in violation of law or of omission of a public duty. The departmental inquiry is to maintain discipline in the service and efficiency of public service."

15. While deciding the said case a very heavy reliance has been placed upon the earlier judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Depot Manager, Andhra Pradesh State Road Transport Corporation Vs. Mohd Yousuf Miya & Ors., AIR 1997 SC 2232, wherein it has been held that both proceedings can be held simultaneously unless the gravity of the charges demand staying the disciplinary proceedings till the trial is concluded as the complicated questions of fact and law are involved in that case.

16. A similar view has been reiterated by the Apex Court in Kendriya Vidyalaya Sangathan & Ors. Vs. T. Srinivas, AIR 2004 SC 4127. A Three-Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Krishnakali Tea Estate Vs. Akhil Bhartiya Chah Mazdoor Sangh & Anr., (2004) 8 SCC 200 reconsidered all earlier judgments and reiterated the same view, as the approach and the objective of the criminal proceedings, and the disciplinary proceedings are distinct and different. There can be no bar in carrying on the criminal trial and criminal proceedings simultaneously.

17. Thus, there can be no doubt regarding the settled legal proposition that as the standard of proof in both the proceedings is quite different, and the termination is not based on mere conviction of an employee in a criminal case, the acquittal of the employee in criminal case cannot be the basis of taking away the effect of departmental proceedings. Nor such an action of the department can be termed as double jeopardy. The submission made in this regard is untenable in view of the law discussed herein above.

18. So far as the submission made by learned counsel for the petitioner with respect to quash the inquiry report, the power of judicial review conferred on the constitutional court or on the Tribunal is not that of an appellate authority.

19. In the judgment of Apex Court in the case of State of Andhra Pradesh & Ors. vs. S. Sree Rama Rao, AIR 1963 SC 1723, a three Judge Bench of this Court has held that the High Court is not a court of appeal over the decision of the authorities holding a departmental enquiry against a public servant. It is concerned to determine whether the enquiry is held by an authority competent in that behalf, and according to the procedure prescribed in that behalf, and whether the rules of natural justice are not violated. The Apex Court held as under:-

"7. ...The High Court is not constituted in a proceeding under Article 226 of the Constitution a court of appeal over the decision of the authorities holding a departmental enquiry against a public servant: it is concerned to determine whether the enquiry is held by an authority competent in that behalf, and according to the procedure prescribed in that behalf, and whether the rules of natural justice are not violated. Where there is some evidence, which the authority entrusted with the duty to hold the enquiry has accepted and which evidence may reasonably support the conclusion that the delinquent officer is guilty of the charge, it is not the function of the High Court in a petition for a writ under Article 226 to review the evidence and to arrive at an independent finding on the evidence...."

20. In another judgment of B.C. Chaturvedi vs. Union of India & Ors., reported in (1995) 6 SCC 749 again, a three Judge Bench of this Court has held that power of judicial review is not an appeal from a decision but a review of the manner in which the decision is made. Power of judicial review is meant to ensure that the individual receives fair treatment and not to ensure that the conclusion which the authority reaches is necessarily correct in the eyes of the court. The Court/Tribunal in its power of judicial review does not act as an appellate authority to reappreciate the evidence and to arrive at its own independent findings on the evidence. It was held as under:-

"12. Judicial review is not an appeal from a decision but a review of the manner in which the decision is made. Power of judicial review is meant to ensure that the individual receives fair treatment and not to ensure that the conclusion which the authority reaches is necessarily correct in the eye of the court. When an inquiry is conducted on charges of misconduct by a public servant, the Court/Tribunal is concerned to determine whether the inquiry was held by a competent officer or whether rules of natural justice are complied with. Whether the findings or conclusions are based on some evidence, the authority entrusted with the power to hold inquiry has jurisdiction, power and authority to reach a finding of fact or conclusion. But that finding must be based on some evidence. Neither the technical rules of Evidence Act nor of proof of fact or evidence as defined therein, apply to disciplinary proceeding. When the authority accepts that evidence and conclusion receives support therefrom, the disciplinary authority is entitled to hold that the delinquent officer is guilty of the charge. The Court/Tribunal in its power of judicial review does not act as appellate authority to reappreciate the evidence and to arrive at its own independent findings on the evidence. The Court/Tribunal may interfere where the authority held the proceedings against the delinquent officer in a manner inconsistent with the rules of natural justice or in violation of statutory rules prescribing the mode of inquiry or where the conclusion or finding reached by the disciplinary authority is based on no evidence. If the conclusion or finding be such as no reasonable person would have ever reached, the Court/Tribunal may interfere with the conclusion or the finding, and mould the relief so as to make it appropriate to the facts of each case.

13. The disciplinary authority is the sole judge of facts. Where appeal is presented. The appellate authority has co-extensive power to reappreciate the evidence or the nature of punishment. In a disciplinary inquiry the strict proof of legal evidence and findings on that evidence are not relevant. Adequacy of evidence or reliability of evidence cannot be permitted to be canvassed before the Court/Tribunal. In Union of India vs. H.C. Goel [(1964) 4 SCR 781], this Court held at page 728 that if the conclusion, upon consideration of the evidence, reached by the disciplinary authority, is perverse or suffers from patent error on the face of the record or based on no evidence at all, a writ of certiorari could be issued."

21. Again in the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of State of Karnataka & Anr. v. N. Gangaraj reported in 2020 3 SCC 423, the Apex Court has held that once the evidence has been accepted by the departmental authority, in exercise of power of judicial review, the Tribunal or the High Court could not interfere with the findings of facts recorded by reappreciating evidence as if the Courts are the Appellate Authority.

22. In another judgment of the Apex Court in the case of State Bank of Bikaner and Jaipur vs. Nemi Chand Nalwaya, (2011) 4 SCC 584, the Apex Court held that the courts will not act as an appellate court and reassess the evidence led in the domestic enquiry, nor interfere on the ground that another view is possible on the material on record. If the enquiry has been fairly and properly held and the findings are based on evidence, the question of adequacy of the evidence or the reliable nature of the evidence will not be ground for interfering with the findings in departmental enquiries. The Court held as under:-

"7. It is now well settled that the courts will not act as an appellate court and reassess the evidence led in the domestic enquiry, nor interfere on the ground that another view is possible on the material on record. If the enquiry has been fairly and properly held and the findings are based on evidence, the question of adequacy of the evidence or the reliable nature of the evidence will not be grounds for interfering with the findings in departmental enquiries. Therefore, courts will not interfere with findings of fact recorded in departmental enquiries, except where such findings are based on no evidence or where they are clearly perverse. The test to find out perversity is to see whether a tribunal acting reasonably could have arrived at such conclusion or finding, on the material on record. Courts will however interfere with the findings in disciplinary matters, if principles of natural justice or statutory regulations have been violated or if the order is found to be arbitrary, capricious, mala fide or based on extraneous considerations, (vide B. C. Chaturvedi vs. Union of India - 1995 (6) SCC 749, Union of India vs. G. Gunayuthan - 1997 (7) SCC 463, and Bank of India vs. Degala Suryanarayana - 1999 (5) SCC 762, High Court of Judicature at Bombay vs. Shahsi Kant S Patil - 2001 (1) SCC 416)."

23. In view of the above facts, reasons and case laws so cited by the respective parties, this Court does not find any infirmity or illegality in the impugned inquiry report dated 28.09.2021 submitted by the respondent no.3, Enquiry Officer/Inspector/RPF/Noapara, Metro Railway, Kolkata (Annexure No.10 to the writ petition). Therefore, this writ petitioner is liable to dismissed being misconceived.

24. Accordingly, this writ petition is dismissed being misconceived.

25. However, it is always open to the disciplinary authority to proceed against the petitioner strictly, in accordance with law.

4. Supreme Court in St. of Uttaranchal & ors. Vs Kharak Singh , (2008) 8 SCC 236

(Delivered by Hon'ble Siddhartha Varma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Utkarsh Malviya, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Vikram Bahadur Yadav, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. This writ petition has been filed against the order dated 31.10.2009 passed by the Superintendent of Police, Lalitpur dismissing the petitioner from service, the order dated 31.1.2010 passed by the Deputy Inspector General of Police, Jhansi Range, Jhansi dismissing the Appeal and the order dated 29.4.2010 passed by the Additional Director General of Police (Telecommunications), Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow dismissing the Revision filed by the petitioner.

3. The petitioner who was posted as a Constable at Reserve Police Lines, Lalitpur was allegedly found drunk on 20.6.2009. It was alleged that while he was drunk, he had misbehaved with the Station Officer Sri Baljeet Singh. It had, still further, been alleged that after a complaint about the petitioner's drunkenness was made, a medical examination was done and he was suspended on 23.6.2009. A preliminary enquiry was conducted and upon finding that the allegations were prima facie correct, enquiry under Rule 14 of the U.P. Police Officers of the Subordinate Ranks (Punishment & Appeal) Rules, 1991 was conducted. The Enquiry Officer, upon finding that the petitioner was guilty of misbehaviour while he was drunk, submitted his enquiry report on 30.6.2009. In the Preliminary Enquiry report the Enquiry Officer had also given a finding that the petitioner was to be punished with a major penalty. Thereafter under Rule 14(1) of the Rules, the Enquiry Officer issued a charge sheet to the petitioner on 30.7.2009 charging him with the allegation that on 20.6.2009 after consuming liquor, he had misbehaved with the Station Officer. The petitioner replied to the charges on 10.8.2009 and thereafter upon completing the enquiry, the Enquiry Officer on 3.10.2009 submitted his enquiry report again with a recommendation for a major penalty. The Disciplinary Authority i.e. the Superintendent of Police, Lalitpur upon receiving the enquiry report, issued a show-cause notice on 9.9.2009 to the petitioner to submit his reply. The petitioner submitted a detailed reply on 26.10.2009 to the show cause notice with a request to drop all proceedings against the petitioner. Thereafter on 31.10.2009, an order of punishment was passed by the Superintendent of Police, Lalitpur whereby the petitioner was dismissed from service. The petitioner against the order dated 31.1.2010 filed an appeal before the Deputy Inspector General of Police, Jhansi Range, Jhansi which came to be dismissed on 31.1.2010. Thereafter the Revision filed by the petitioner against the order dated 31.1.2010 also met the same fate on 29.4.2010. This order was passed by the Additional Director General of Police (Telecommunications), Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow. Aggrieved thereof the petitioner has filed the instant writ petition.

4. Broadly, the petitioner has made the following submissions:

(i) There was no conclusive medical examination done on the petitioner. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that unless a proper urine test or a blood test was done, the fact that the petitioner had consumed alcohol and had thereafter in an inebriated state misbehaved with the Station Officer could not be conclusively proved. Learned counsel, to bolster his case, relied upon a decision of the Supreme Court in Bachubhai Hassanalli Karyani vs. State of Maharashtra : (1971) 3 SCC 930 and the judgments of this Court in Krishna Kumar vs. Union of India (Writ-A No.67355 of 2007 decided by order dated 15.5.2019) and in Shiv Raj singh vs. State of U.P. & Ors. (Writ-A No.2230 of 2014 decided by order dated 28.3.2018).

(ii) Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the medical report was prepared under the influence of the Station Officer who was physically present at the hospital despite the fact that his presence was not required at all and, therefore, the examining doctor namely Doctor Arjun Singh was under the influence of his presence.

(iii) The Enquiry Officer upon completing the enquiry had given his opinion with regard to the fact as to what punishment the petitioner had to be given. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the job of the Enquiry Officer came to an end upon finding that the petitioner was guilty of the charge. It was the Disciplinary Authority which was required to look into the punishment which was to be given. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the Disciplinary Authority had to also, while imposing punishment, look into the surrounding circumstances i.e. how long the petitioner had served and how had his conduct been in the past. In the instant case, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the petitioner was never punished ever before and this fact was to be looked into by the Disciplinary Authority. To bolster his case, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon a decision of the Supreme Court in State of Uttaranchal & Ors. vs. Kharak Singh : (2008) 8 SCC 236.

(iv) Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the order of dismissal was not the only order which could have been passed by the Disciplinary Authority. A lesser punishment could also have sufficed and the Disciplinary Authority could have considered awarding a lesser punishment. Learned counsel further submitted that the enquiry was conducted in a slipshod manner and no witness of the incident was ever examined.

5. Learned Standing Counsel, however, opposed the writ petition and submitted that the petitioner was guilty of indiscipline as he had entered into an argument with the Station Officer in an inebriated state and since the police force was a disciplined force, the petitioner was rightly punished.

6. Having considered the submissions raised by learned counsel for the parties, the Court is of the view that the conclusion which the Enquiry Officer had arrived at about the drunkenness of the petitioner was definitely erroneous. In the instant case neither was any urine test done nor was any blood test conducted at that point of time. The finding that the petitioner was in a drunken state which was arrived at simply because the petitioner was smelling of alcohol was an absolutely erroneous decision on the part of the Enquiry Officer. Resultantly, the enquiry itself which was based on a wrong input, was absolutely baseless. The moment an allegation was made with regard to drunkenness, either a urine test ought to have taken place or a blood test ought to have been conducted. In the absence of these two tests, the report by the Enquiry Officer become erroneous. Still further, the Court finds that when the Disciplinary Authority was punishing the petitioner, it should have considered the fact that the petitioner had not in any manner indulged in any activity which could be termed as "indiscipline".

7. Under such circumstances, the Court is of the view that the orders impugned cannot be sustained in the eyes of law. Therefore, the order dated 31.10.2009 passed by the Superintendent of Police, Lalitpur; the order dated 31.1.2010 passed by the Deputy Inspector General of Police, Jhansi Range, Jhansi and the order dated 29.4.2010 passed by the Additional Director General of Police (Telecommunications), Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow are quashed and are set aside. The petitioner shall be entitled to all consequential benefits.

8. The writ petition, accordingly, stands allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sandeep Dixit and Sri. Sanjay Bhasin, Senior Advocates assisted by Sri V. S. Ojha, Sri. Amarjeet Singh Yadav and Sri Purushottam Advocates, the learned Counsel for the petitioners, Sri. Rajesh Tiwari, the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondent and Sri Gaurav Mehrotra, the learned Counsel for the opposite party no. 2, i.e. High Court of Judicature at Allahabad.

2. The instant writ petition has been filed by the U. P. Judicial Services Association and 39 others. Briefly stated, the petitioners case is that presently the petitioner nos. 2 to 40 are working on the post of Civil Judge (Senior Division) / Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate / Chief Judicial Magistrate. The year of recruitment of each of the petitioners, the dates of their promotion on the post of Civil Judge (Senior Division) and the respective places of their present posting has been given in the petition in a tabular form. It has further been stated in the writ petition that the services of petitioner nos. 2 to 40 were confirmed on 11.08.2021.

3. On 17.12.2020, this Court had issued an advertisement inviting applications for filling up 98 vacancies of the Higher Judicial Service for the recruitment year 2020 through direct recruitment from amongst the eligible Advocates under 25% quota provided in Rule 6 (ii) of the U.P. Higher Judicial Service Rule 1975 (which will hereinafter referred to as the "Rules of 1975'), out of which 87 were current vacancies and 11 were unfilled vacancies of reserved category of previous recruitment year. The petitioners have stated that as the quota of direct recruitment as provided in Rule 6 (ii) of the Rules of 1975 is 25%, a total of 348 vacancies would be available in the recruitment year 2020 for U. P. Higher Judicial Services and, therefore, after deducting 11 posts of backlog quota from 65% of posts i.e. 226 posts, a total of 215 posts out of 348 vacancies of Higher Judicial Services, which occurred in the recruitment year 2020, are to be filled up by promotion from amongst the Civil Judges (Senior Division).

4. The U.P. Judicial Services Association (the petitioner no.1) claims to have submitted a representation on 21.01.2021 to the Registrar (Selection and Appointment) of this High Court stating that the Judicial Officers in the Civil Judge (Senior Division) Cadre falling in the Zone of consideration (three times of number of vacancies advertised) who have completed more than two years of service in the Civil Judge (Senior Division) Cadre, be permitted to appear in the suitability test for promotion to the Higher Judicial Service Cadre to maintain the quota for promotion as per the Rules of 1975 and to fill the current vacancies, which will increase by the year 2022 due to retirements in the Higher Judicial Service Cadre.

5. On 30.05.2022, a notice has been issued by this Court stating that the suitability test - 2020 for promotion of officers in U.P. Nyayik Seva to U.P. Higher Judicial Services will be held on 11.06.2022. The admit cards of suitability tests may be downloaded by the officers - candidates. A list of 150 officers, who have completed three years' service as on 31.12.2021 in the cadre of Civil Judge (Senior Division), including the names of the officers who are working as Additional District Judge (FTC), and are eligible to appear in the suitability test 2020 under Rule 22 (3) of the Rules of 1975 has been annexed with the aforesaid notice. The petitioners have stated that there are 215 vacancies in the Higher Judicial Service for the recruitment year 2020 available for being filled up by promotion of Civil Judges (Senior Division) under Rule 5 (a) of the Rules of 1975 but the list issued on 30.05.2022 contains the names of only 150 eligible officers, which is not in consonance with the provisions of Rule 20 (2) of the Rules of 1975. As per the petitioners, the fixation of the cut of date as 31.12.2021 and imposition of the condition of having completed three years' service as on 31.12.2021 in the cadre of Civil Judge (Senior Division) for eligibility to appear in the U. P. Higher Judicial Service Suitability Test 2020 violates Rule 5 (a) of the Rules of 1975, as the condition of having completed three years' service in the cadre of Civil Judge (Senior Division) has not been provided as an eligibility condition in the aforesaid Rule. The promotions are to be made from amongst the Civil Judges (Senior Division) on the basis of merit - cum - seniority and passing the suitability test under Rule-5 (a) of the Rules of 1975, without any reference to the length of their service.

6. The petitioners have further stated that on 18.05.1985, a Full Court Resolution had been passed by this Court providing that "no officer of the Nyayik Seva shall be appointed to any post in any capacity in the Higher Judicial Service unless he has held the post of Civil Judge / Chief Judicial Magistrate at least for three years and his work and conduct has been satisfactory in all respect." The petitioners have submitted that at the time of passing of the aforesaid Resolution on 18.05.1985, there were only two sources of recruitment of Higher Judicial Service; (I) 15% direct recruitment from amongst the Advocates and (II) 85% by promotion and no suitability test was provided for promotion of any service candidates. As per the petitioners, this Resolution has lost its efficacy and applicability since the Rules of 1975 were amended in the year 2007 and the aforesaid Resolution violates of Rule 5 (a) of the Rules of 1975.

7. The petitioners have further submitted that they have completed more three years' service as Civil Judges (Senior Division) as on 30.05.2022 and they have wrongly been left out from the list published on 30.05.2022 against the provision contained in Rule 20 (2) of the Rules of 1975 as the number of officers to be included in the list for suitability test ought to have been four times of the number of vacancies earmarked for being filled up by promotion from the officers of U. P. Nyayik Seva. As per the petitioners, the eligibility list published on 30.05.2022 should consist of 860 candidates in view of Rule 20 (2) of Rules of 1975.

8. The petitioners have prayed for quashing of the aforesaid Resolution No. 2-B passed in the meeting of the Full Court held on 18.05.1985 as also quashing of the Resolution, if any, passed by the Selection and Appointment Committee of this Court to the extent of holding the petitioners no. 2 to 40 to be ineligible for being considered for promotion under rule 22 (1) of the Rules of 1975 for the reason that they have not completed three years of service on the post of Civil Judge (Senior Division) as on 31.12.2021 and they have prayed for a direction to the opposite parties to hold all the remaining Civil Judges (Senior Division), including the petitioners, as eligible for appearing in U. P. Higher Judicial Service Suitability Test 2020. The petitioners have further prayed for issuance of a direction to the opposite parties to modify the notification dated 30.05.2022 so as to include the names of the petitioners no. 2 to 40 as suitable for appearing for U.P. Higher Judicial Services Suitability Test 2020.

9. Per contra, Sri Gaurav Mehrotra, the learned counsel appearing for the opposite party no. 2 - the Hon'ble High Court of Judicature at Allahabad, has raised three-fold preliminary objections against the maintainability of the writ petition. The first objection raised by Sri Mehrotra is that the petitioner no.1 is an Association and the writ petition filed by an Association seeking relief for its members is not maintainable. To fortify his submission, he has placed reliance on a Full Bench decision of this Court in the case of Umesh Chand Vinod Kumar and others vs. Krishi Utpadan Mandi Samiti, Bharthana and another, AIR 1984 All 46 wherein the question "whether an Association or persons, registered or unregistered, can maintain a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India for the enforcement of the rights of its members as distinguished from the enforcement of its own rights," was answered in the following words: -

"The position appears to be that an association of persons, regis tered or unregistered, can file a petition under Article 226 for enforcement of the rights of its members as distinguished from the enforcement of its own rights--

(1) In case members of such an association are themselves unable to approach the court by reason of poverty, disability or socially or economically disadvantaged position ("little Indians").

(2) In case of a public injury leading to public interest litigation; provided the association has some concern deeper than that of a wayfarer or a busybody, i.e., it has a special interest in the subject-matter.

(3) Where the rules or regulations of the association specifically authorise it to take legal proceedings on behalf of its members, so that any order passed by the court in such proceedings will be binding on the members.

In other cases an association, whether registered or unregistered, cannot maintain a petition under Article 226 for the enforcement or protection of the rights of its members, as distinguished from the enforcement of its own rights."

9. Sri Mehrotra submits that in the entire writ petition, there is no pleading as to what is the legal character of the petitioner no. 1 Association indicating whether it is a juristic person or not; there is no plea indicating that members of the petitioner no.1 - Association are unable to approach this Court themselves by reason of poverty, disability or socially or economically disadvantageous position; on the contrary the members of the petitioner no.1- Association are holding the post of Civil Judges (Senior Division) and they cannot claim to fall in any disadvantageous position. Sri Mehrotra submits that it is not a case in which there is any allegation of a public injury. Neither the Rules or Regulations of the Association have been brought on record nor is there any pleading to the effect that the Rules or Regulations of the Association authorize it to take legal proceedings on behalf of its members. Sri Mehrotra has submitted that as per the Full Bench decision in the case of Umesh Chand Vinod Kumar (supra), the petitioner no. 1 Association cannot maintain a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India for enforcement or protection of any of the alleged rights of its members.

10. Sri Sandeep Dixit, the learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioners could not rebut the aforesaid submission of Sri Mehrotra and he proceeded to make submissions regarding the merits of the claim of the petitioners.

11. Keeping in view the law laid down by the Full Bench of this Court in the case of Umesh Chand Vinod Kumar (supra), we are of the considered opinion that the petitioner no.1 - Association has no right to maintain the writ petition which has been filed for ventilating the grievances of a class of its members.

12. However, as there are 39 other petitioners also, who have approached this Court by joining in filing of the writ petition, we proceed to consider the other submissions made by the contesting parties.

13. Sri Gaurav Mehrotra has raised the second preliminary objection against maintainability of the writ petition on the ground that it seeks issuance of a writ of Mandamus directing the opposite parties to hold all the remaining Civil Judges (Senior Division), including the petitioners, as eligible to appear in U.P. Higher Judicial Services Suitability Test 2020. The learned counsel representing the High Court has submitted that only the petitioner no. 2 to 40 have approached this Court for redressal of their grievances and the remaining Civil Judges (Senior Division) have not joined in filing the writ petition and, therefore, the writ petition so far as the same relates to the other Civil Judge (Senior Division), who have not approached this Court by filing the writ petition, is not maintainable.

14. We find substance in this objection as the petitioner numbers 2 to 40 cannot represent the remaining Civil Judges (Senior Division), who have chosen not to file a Writ Petition and the petitioner numbers 2 to 40 have rightly not filed this Writ Petition in a representative capacity. Therefore, no relief can be sought in this Writ Petition on behalf of the remaining Civil Judges (Senior Division), who have chosen not to file a Writ Petition.

15. A further preliminary objection of Sri Mehrotra is that the writ petition seeking issuance of a writ of mandamus in respect of the petitioner nos. 2 to 40 is also not maintainable for the reason that for maintaining a petition for issuance of a writ of mandamus, it is a pre-condition that the person seeking issuance of a writ should have first approached the authority concerned by making a demand of redressal of his grievances by submitting a suitable representation and he can approach this Court only after the demand is refused or no decision is taken in respect of the demand. As the petitioner nos. 2 to 40 have approached this Court directly by filing a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India for seeking issuance of a writ of mandamus without submitting any representation for redressal of their grievances, the writ petition filed by them, is not maintainable.

16. Refuting this preliminary objection, Sri. Sandeep Dixit, the learned Senior Advocate representing the petitioners, has submitted that the petitioners have prayed for issuance of a Writ of Certiorari quashing the Resolution No. 2-B passed in the meeting of the Full Court held on 18.05.1985 as also quashing of the Resolution, if any, passed by the Selection and Appointment Committee of this Court to the extent of holding the petitioners no. 2 to 40 to be ineligible for being considered for promotion under rule 22 (1) of the Rules of 1975 for the reason that they have not completed three years of service on the post of Civil Judge (Senior Division) as on 31.12.2021 and they have sought issuance of a Writ of Mandamus to the opposite parties to hold all the remaining Civil Judges (Senior Division), including the petitioners, as eligible for appearing in U. P. Higher Judicial Service Suitability Test 2020 only as a consequence of issuance of the Writ of Certiorari and in such circumstances, the bar pleaded by the learned Counsel for the High Court would not apply.

17. We find force in the aforesaid submission of Sri. Dixit and this preliminary objection raised by Sri. Mehrotra that the Writ Petition for the relief of issuance of a writ of Mandamus is not maintainable for the reason that the petitioner numbers 2 to 40 have not first approached the authority concerned by making a representation, cannot be accepted. A Writ of Mandamus can be claimed as a consequential relief to issuance of a Writ of Certiorari and absence of a prior demand and its refusal by the authority concerned would not be a bar against the maintainability of the Writ Petition in such circumstances.

18. Now we proceed to examine the further submissions made by the learned Counsel for the petitioners. Sri. Sandeep Dixit has submitted that originally Rule 5 of the Rules of 1975 provided as follows: -

5. Sources of recruitment - The recruitment to the service shall be made-

(a) by direct recruitment of pleaders and advocates of not less than seven years' standing on the first day of January next following the year in which the notice inviting applications is published;

(b) by promotion of confirmed members of the Uttar Pradesh Nyayik Sewa (hereinafter referred to as the Nyayik Sewa), who have put in not less than seven years service to be computed on the first day of January next following the year in which the notice inviting application is published.....

19. In the case of All India Judges' Association and others vs. Union of India and others, (2002) 4 SCC 247, the Hon'ble Supreme Court had issued the following directions for recruitment to the Higher Judicial Service i.e. the cadre of District Judges: -

"28. As a result of the aforesaid, to recapitulate, we direct that recruitment to the Higher Judicial Service i.e. the cadre of District Judges will be:

(1)(a) 50 per cent by promotion from amongst the Civil Judges (Senior Division) on the basis of principle of merit-cum-seniority and passing a suitability test;

(b) 25 per cent by promotion strictly on the basis of merit through limited competitive examination of Civil Judges (Senior Division) having not less than five years' qualifying service; and

(c) 25 per cent of the posts shall be filled by direct recruitment from amongst the eligible advocates on the basis of the written and viva voce test conducted by respective High Courts.

(2) Appropriate rules shall be framed as above by the High Courts as early as possible."

20. Sri. Dixit has submitted that the Rules of 1975 were amended after passing of the aforesaid judgment in All India Judges Association case by means of a notification dated 09.01.2007 so as to provide as follows: -

5. Source of recruitment- The recruitment to the service shall be made (a) by promotion from amongst the Civil Judges (Senior Division) on the basis of principle of merit-cum-seniority and passing a suitability test.

(b) by promotion strictly on the basis of merit through limited competitive examination of Civil Judges (Senior Division) having not less than five years qualifying service;

(c) by direct recruitment from amongst the Advocates of not less than seven years standing as on the last date fixed for the submission of application forms.

21. He has submitted that although Sub-rule (b) and (c) of Rule-5 of the Rules of 1975 make a reference to a minimum period of experience as an eligibility condition, Sub-rule (a) which contains the provision for making recruitment by promotion from amongst the Civil Judges (Senior Division) on the basis of merit cum seniority and passing a suitability test, does not contain any reference to any number of years put in service as an eligibility condition and he has further submitted that after the amendment made in Rule 5, the Resolution dated 18.05.1985 passed by the Full Court providing that no officer of the Nyayik Seva shall be appointed to any post in any capacity in Higher Judicial Service unless he has held the post of Civil Judge / Chief Judicial Magistrate at least for three years, has lost its efficacy as the same runs contrary to the provision contained in Rule 5 (a) of Rules of 1975.

22. On the contrary Sri Gaurav Mehrotra has submitted that Sub-rule (3) of Rule 20 of the Rules of 1975 provides that "the Selection Committee shall, after examining the record of the officers included in the list prepared under Sub-rule (2) of the Rules of 1975 make a preliminary selection of the Officers who in its opinion are fit to be appointed on the basis of merit-cum-seniority. In assessing the merit of a candidate the Selection Committee have due regard to his service record, ability, character and seniority.....". (Emphasis supplied)

23. On the basis of written instructions received, Sri. Gaurav Mehrotra has submitted that the Hon'ble Selection and Appointment Committee of this Court in its meeting held on 30.05.2022 has been pleased to resolve as under: -

".....in light of earlier resolution dated 18.05.1985 of Full Court resolved to fix the cut off date for determining the qualifying service as 31.12.2021. The Committee deliberated over the matter and is of the view that since the determination of vacancies for recruitment of U.P. H.J.S.-2020 accounts for vacancies occurring from 01.01.2020 to 31.12.2021, there is no occasion to go beyond that date to fix any date to determine the qualifying service in Civil Judge (Senior Division) cadre for consideration of their promotion to Higher Judicial cadre. Moreover, any relaxation in the determination of qualifying service of three years would result in higher number of vacancies in the Civil Judge (Senior Division) who possess the requisite qualification qualifying service in that cadre to be considered for promotion to the cadre of Civil Judge (Senior Division). Such a scenario would bring about a situation where the cadre of Civil Judge (Senior Division) will collapse owing to huge number of vacant Courts. Thus, the Committee resolves to reject the request made in the representation."

24. Sri. Mehrotra has further submitted that in paragraph 40 of the judgment in the case of All India Judges' Association (Supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court categorically directed that: -

"40. Any clarification that may be required in respect of any matter arising out of this decision will be sought only from this Court. The proceedings, if any, for implementation of the directions given in this judgment shall be filed only in this Court and no other court shall entertain them."

25. The scope of interference by this Court while deciding the petition for issuance of Certiorari is limited to examining the decision making process by examining as to whether the decision making process suffers from any illegality or infirmity. The correctness of the decision cannot be examined by this Court while deciding a petition for issuance of a writ of Certiorari. The decision can only be examined on the touchstone of reasonableness and arbitrariness but the sufficiency or correctness of the reasons cannot be gone into by this Court. A writ of Certiorari cannot be issued where there can be two opinions about the correctness of the decision.

27. After giving a careful consideration to submissions advanced on behalf of the contesting parties, we find that the list of only those Civil Judges (Senior Division) who have completed three years' service has been prepared treating them eligible to appear in the Suitability Test 2022 under Rule 22 (3) in furtherance of decision of the Selection and Appointment Committee which has formed a reasoned opinion in exercise of its power under Rule 20 (3) that only those officers are fit to be considered for appointment on the basis of merit-cum-seniority who have completed a minimum period of three years on the post of Civil Judge (Senior Division). This decision has been taken by the Selection and Appointment Committee keeping into consideration that the vacancies had occurring up to 31.12.2021 and it was felt not to be proper to go beyond that date to fix any date to determine the qualifying service in Civil Judge (Senior Division) cadre for consideration of their promotion to Higher Judicial cadre. The Committee was also of the opinion that by inclusion of Civil Judges (Senior Division) who have not completed three years on the said post would result in higher number of the Courts of Civil Judge (Senior Division) falling vacant and this would create a situation where the cadre of Civil Judge (Senior Division) will collapse owing to huge number of vacant Courts. Therefore, the list of officers prepared under Rule 22 (3) of the Rules of 1975 consequent to the aforesaid decision, needs no interference by this Court in exercise of its Writ jurisdiction.

28. Moreover, so far as the submission of the petitioners that the decision is violative of Rule 5A of the Rules 1975 which was framed in furtherance of the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of All India Judges Association (supra), it is significant to mention that in the same judgment, the Hon'ble Supreme Court had directed "any clarification that may be required in respect of any matter arising out of this decision will be sought only from this Court. The proceeding if any for implementation of the directions given in this judgment shall be filed only in this Court and no other Court shall entertain them."

29. The petitioners are in effect seeking implementation of the directions issued by the Hon'ble Supreme Court contained in paragraph 28 (1) (a) of the judgment in the case of All India Judges Association (supra). In view of the prohibition contained in paragraph 40 of the aforesaid judgment, this Court has been restrained from entertaining the proceedings for implementation of directions given in the judgment and, therefore, we are of the considered opinion that this Court cannot entertain the present writ petition.

30. Accordingly, the writ petition is not maintainable before this Court and is dismissed as such. However, there shall no order as to costs.

Special Appeal dismissed. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Bindal, C.J., & Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. Order dated January 17, 2022 passed by learned Single Judge has been impugned by filing the present intra-court appeal. Vide aforesaid order, two writ petitions including the writ petition filed by the appellants herein, bearing Writ-C No.28322 of 2021, were dismissed.

2. Challenge in the aforesaid writ petition was to the order dated September 17, 2021 passed by the Government of India, Ministry of Skill Development and Entrepreneurship, Directorate General of Training, vide which the appellants-Institutes were de-affiliated and debarred for three years and no further admissions were to be allowed to them from the session 2021. The relevant portion of the order dated September 17, 2021 is reproduced below:

"Committee approved for De-affiliation of these 40 ITIs and debarred them for 3 years. No further admissions to be allowed to these ITIs from session 2021."

3. The aforesaid order was passed on account of the fact that the appellants had furnished forged bank guarantee of ₹50,000/- per unit.

4. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the condition for submission of bank guarantee was imposed by the State Government vide order dated September 25, 2020. Finding that certain bank guarantees were fake, the State Government recommended to the Central Government that the said Institutes be not allowed to make any admission for the session 2021-22. The imposition of higher penalty by the Central Government was totally uncalled for, as there was no violation of any of the conditions imposed by the Central Government. The penalty imposed was disproportionate to the guilt and the idea for furnishing bank guarantee was to compensate the students in case courses are closed midway. Such an eventuality has not yet arisen. The appellants are ready to furnish fresh bank guarantees.

5. Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that in a matter pending before the Lucknow Bench of this Court bearing Writ-C No. 1948 of 2022, vide order dated April 5, 2022, the respondents therein have been restrained from taking any coercive action against the petitioners therein, in case they deposit ₹50,000/- each per unit within 7 days with the authority concerned.

6. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondents submitted that it is a case in which the appellants had furnished forged bank guarantees. Hence, the punishment imposed by the Central Government cannot be said to be disproportionate, seeing their conduct.

7. After hearing learned counsel for the parties, we do not find any case is made out for interference in the present appeal.

8. Vide order dated September 25, 2020, the State Government had imposed a condition that the Institutes are required to furnish bank guarantee of ₹50,000/- per unit. There was no challenge to the aforesaid condition imposed by the State Government which was applicable after the issuance thereof. Rather, in compliance thereof, the appellants furnished bank guarantees, which were found to be forged. Finding the bank guarantees furnished by 40 Institutes to be forged, the State Government recommended to the Central Government that they should not be allowed to make any admission for the session 2021-22. However, the Central Government, finding that it was a case of submission of forged bank guarantee, passed the order dated September 17, 2021, impugned in the writ petition giving rise to the present intra-court appeal.

9. The argument raised by learned counsel for the appellants that the punishment imposed is disproportionate, is merely to be noticed and rejected, for the reason that it was a case of submission of fake bank guarantee and fraud committed on the State, which vitiates everything. The argument that the Central Government had no authority to impose punishment for submission of fake bank guarantee as the condition for submission of bank guarantee was imposed by the State Government is also to be noticed and rejected, for the reason that in case of submission of fake document/bank guarantee, the Institutes concerned have to face the consequences as these are the Institutes which were meant to impart education to students. Still, we find that 40 Institutes have been inflicted with the punishment and only 13 Institutes joined the writ petition. However, in appeal, only 8 Institutes have come in. It was stated by learned counsel for the respondents that there is another special appeal bearing Special Appeal No. 87 of 2022 in which only one Institute is there. That means, all the Institutes have not even challenged the order, realising that they had committed fraud by submitting forged bank guarantees, hence were liable to be punished for the same.

10. We do not find any reason to take a view different than the view taken by the learned Single Judge. There is no merit in the present appeal. The same is, accordingly, dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Devendra Kumar Upadhyaya, J. & Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. This intra-court appeal filed under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court lays a challenge to the judgment and order dated 28.04.2022 passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ-C No.1004847 of 2012 as corrected by means of the order dated 06.05.2022.

2. At this juncture itself, we may notice that in the aforesaid writ petition under challenge was an order dated 13.08.2012 passed by the Deputy Registrar Firms, Societies and Chits, Kanpur Region, Kanpur whereby a list of 112 members of General Body of the Society in question was declared to be valid for the purposes of holding the election of the Executive Body of the Society.

3. Shri Anupam Mehrotra, learned counsel representing the appellant-Smt. Girja Singh has argued that the learned Single Judge while passing the judgment and order under appeal has not considered the issue relating to maintainability of the writ petition at the instance of the petitioner-society and without, thus, deciding the question of maintainability, has allowed the writ petition thereby the learned Single Judge has erred in law. Elaborating this argument, it has been contended by Shri Mehrotra, learned counsel appearing for the appellant that the last renewal of the registration of the Society was done on 26.09.2003 for a period of five years w.e.f. 10.10.2000 and thereafter its registration has not been renewed and accordingly the writ petition filed by the Society whose registration was not renewed, could not be entertained. It has also been argued that in terms of the provisions contained in section 6 of the Societies Registration Act (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act') it is only a registered society which may sue or be sued. In support of this submission, learned counsel for the appellant has relied upon the judgments in the following cases:

(i) PBNC Committee vs. Govt. of A.P., AIR 1958 AP 773

(ii) Pattada Uthayya vs. Pattada Somayya, AIR 1955 Mysore 149

(iii) Mahabir Prasad vs. Satyanarain, AIR 1963 Patna 131

(iv) Arya Samaj vs. Manmohan Tewari, 1994 (12) LCD 205

(v) Adare Madarsa Ziaul-Ulum and others vs. Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits and another, 2005 (23) LCD 1021

4. It has further been argued on behalf of the appellant that the writ petition even at the behest of the petitioner no.2-Shiv Bahadur Singh was not maintainable as he filed the petition claiming to be a Manager of the Society whereas the fact is that he ceased to be the Manager on 24.05.2008. In support of this submission, the judgments cited by the learned counsel for the appellant are as under:

(i) Umesh Chandra vs. Mahila Vidyalaya Society, 2006 (24) LCD 1373

(ii) Baba Bariyar Shah Association vs. State of U. P., 2019 (37) LCD 887

(iii) State of U.P. vs. C.O.D. Chheoki... Cooperative Society, (1997) 3 SCC 681

5. Shri Mehrotra, learned counsel appearing for the appellant has further submitted that contradiction of statement recorded in the order which was under challenge in the writ petition before the learned Single Judge was not permissible as such statement available in an order is the conclusive proof of its existence and the same cannot be contradicted except before the authority passing the order. The judgments relied upon in this regard are:

(i) State of Maharashtra vs. R. S. Nayak, AIR 1982 SC 1249

(ii) Bhagwati Prasad vs. Delhi State Mineral Development Corporation, (1990) 1 SCC 361

(iii) Ram Bali vs. State of U.P., (2004) 10 SCC 598

(iv) State of Assam vs. Union of India, (2010) 10 SCC 408

(v) Jitendra vs. State (NCT of Delhi), (2019) 13 SCC 691

(vi) Madan Mohan vs. Arun Shourie, AIR 2010 All 66

6. Further submission is that though certain allegations of mala fides were asserted by the petitioners against the Deputy Registrar but since he was not impleaded a party in person hence, in this view as well the writ petition was not maintainable. The judgments relied upon in this context on behalf of the appellant are:

(i) Bishundeo Narain vs. Seogeni Rai, AIR 1951 SC 280

(ii) Purushottam Kumar Jha vs. State of Jharkhand, (2006) 9 SCC 458

(iii) Union of India vs. Ranbir Singh Rathaur, (2006) 11 SCC 696

7. It has further been argued that in absence of necessary parties, namely, the persons who were included in the final list of the members of the General Body by the order dated 13.08.2012, the order could not have been quashed by the learned Single Judge. In this respect, learned counsel for the appellant has relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Assam vs. Union of India, (2010) 10 SCC 408.

8. Several other arguments have also been raised by the learned counsel for the appellant stating that since the writ petition involved adjudication of disputed question of facts as such proper recourse opon to the petitioners was to invoke the remedy of a civil suit and not that of writ petition and that once election process had commenced, no interference in the writ petition was permissible. It is also stated that the petitioner no.2 did not approach the Court with clean hands wrongly claiming to be the Manager of the Society and hence he, being guilty of misrepresentation, could not have maintained the writ petition. It has also been contended by the learned counsel for the appellant that it is well settled principle of law that preliminary objection must be adjudicated upon first, however, learned Single Judge has completely overlooked the said well settled principle of law by passing the judgment and order under appeal.

9. In view of the aforesaid submissions, Shri Mehrotra has vehemently argued that the learned Single Judge has completely ignored the submissions made on behalf of the appellant as also the legal principles involved in the matter which vitiates the judgment and order under appeal. Accordingly, the prayer is that the judgment and order passed by the learned Single Judge be set aside and the writ petition be also dismissed.

10. Countering the submissions made on behalf of the appellant, Shri Prashant Chandra, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Mahendra Bahadur Singh representing the respondent no.2 has opposed the prayers made in the special appeal and has submitted that having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case the judgment rendered by the learned Single Judge does not call for any interference in this special appeal which is liable to be dismissed at its threshold.

11. We have considered the rival submissions made by the learned counsel representing the respective parties and have also perused the records available before us on this special appeal. Before adverting to the submissions raised for and against the instant special appeal, we may notice certain facts in brief which will have a bearing on the adjudication of the issue involved in this case.

12. A Society in the name of Gandhi Junior High School, Korari Lachhan Shah, Post Korari Heer Shah, Tehsil & District Amethi (earlier District Sultanpur) was registered on 01.12.1969 at File No.I-10279. The registration of the said Society was renewed from time to time and at a subsequent stage the word "Gandhi" occurring in the name of the Society was removed. The registration of the Society in the name of Intermediate College Korari Lachhan Shah, District Sultanpur was renewed on 26.07.2003 with effect from 10.10.1977 which was valid till 09.10.2005. While renewing the Society till 09.10.2005, the change of the name of the Society as also the amended Memorandum of Association and rules were also taken on record/registered.

13. Thereafter, on an application preferred by one Paras Nath Singh on 05.04.2006, the certificate of registration was renewed for a period of five years with effect from 10.10.2005 and accordingly renewed certificate of registration was issued on 27.06.2006.

14. After renewal of the Society on 27.06.2006, the petitioner no.2 in the writ petition, namely, Shiv Bahadur Singh moved an application on 10.09.2009 stating therein that the earlier Manager, Kali Prasad Singh had died on 06.11.2004 whereafter for the remainder period he was elected as Manager in a meeting of the General Body of the Society held on 12.12.2004, however, Paras Nath Singh, who was the former Principal of the School run by the Society fraudulently got a Society registered in the name of Korari Inter College at registration File No.F-17017. Accordingly, a dispute was raised by Shiv Bahadur Singh in respect of the renewal of the registration of the Society done on 27.06.2006. The matter was considered by the Deputy Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Faizabad Division, Faizabad, who by means of an order dated 21.07.2010 has categorically held that after 25.05.2003 no valid election of the office bearers of the Society was held and accordingly the Deputy Registrar declared the Executive Body of the Society to have become barred by time. The Deputy Registrar, Faizabad also recorded a finding in his order dated 21.07.2010 that the renewal of registration of the Society was made on 26.09.2003 on the basis of the documents/papers presented by Kali Prasad Singh and at that time there was no dispute in the Society. He has also recorded in the order dated 21.07.2010 that the papers presented by Kali Prasad Singh at the time of seeking renewal of the registration of the Society contained a list of the members of the General Body of the Society for the year 2003-04 which comprised of 60 Members. The Deputy Registrar also recorded a finding that the renewal of the registration of the Society made in the year 2006 i.e. on 27.06.2006 was not proper and lawful and as such he withheld the said renewal of the registration of the Society while passing the order dated 21.07.2010.

15. The Deputy Registrar, Faizabad accordingly after giving the aforesaid findings in the order dated 21.07.2010, as observed above, declared the Executive Body of the Society to have become barred by time and accordingly issued the tentative list of the Members of the General Body of the Society comprising of 60 Members which he determined on the basis of list of Members of the General Body for the year 2003-04 presented by Kali Prasad Singh while seeking renewal of the registration of the Society which was done on 26.09.2003. Thus, the Deputy Registrar, Faizabad while passing the order dated 21.07.2010 recorded the following findings:

(a) Renewal of the registration of the Society done on 26.09.2003 on the basis of the documents/papers presented by Kali Prasad Singh was lawful and even undisputed.

(b) Renewal of the registration made in the year 2006 i.e. on 27.06.2006 was improper and incorrect.

(c) The papers presented by Kali Prasad Singh while seeking renewal of the registration of the Society which was made on 26.09.2003 contained a list of 60 Members of the general body of the Society and since no dispute arose on the renewal of the registration of the Society based on these papers including the list of Members, the list of 60 Members of the General Body of the Society appears to be correct.

(d) After 25.05.2003 no valid election of the Society was held as such the Executive Body had become barred by time.

16. After recording the aforesaid findings as noticed in the preceding paragraph, the Deputy Registrar, Faizabad issued a list of 60 Members of the General Body of the Society terming it to be tentative list and inviting objections to the said tentative list so that for the purposes of executive body of the Society final electoral college may be notified

17. It is very significant to note that the aforesaid order dated 21.07.2010 was not challenged by any of the parties to this special appeal neither by any one else before any forum or court. Thus, so far as the findings recorded in the said order dated 21.07.2010 are concerned, the same became final between the parties.

18. Since the electoral college for the purposes of holding election of the Executive Body of the Society, as directed by the Deputy Registrar Faizabad by means of his order dated 21.07.2010, was not being finalized, a writ petition was filed by the respondent no.2-Shiv Bahadur Singh, namely, Writ Petition No.6859 (M/S) of 2011 which was disposed of by a learned Single Judge of this Court dated 17.11.2011 whereby a direction was issued to the authority concerned to publish the final list of the Members of the General Body of the Society within a period of three months.

19. The Deputy Registrar instead of finalizing the electoral college for the purposes of holding election of the Executive Body of the Society pursuant to the earlier order dated 21.07.2010 passed an order on 20.03.2012 whereby he referred the matter for adjudication before the Prescribed Authority under section 25(1) of the Societies Registration Act.

20. The said order dated 20.03.2012 was challenged before this Court by filing writ petition no.1876 (M/S) of 2012. The said writ petition was disposed of by means of an order dated 05.04.2012 by quashing the order dated 20.04.2012 and further permitting the parties to file objections to the tentative list. This Court by the said order dated 05.04.2012 also directed the Deputy Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits to consider the objections which could be raised by the parties against the tentative list and take final decision and publish the final list to hold the election of the Executive Body of the Society. The court also directed the Incharge Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits to place the matter before a Deputy Registrar other than the Deputy Registrar Faizabad Region, Faizabad. It is thereafter that the Deputy Registrar Firms, Societies and Chits, Kanpur Division, Kanpur passed the order dated 13.08.2012 which was challenged by the petitioners before the learned Single Judge by instituting Writ Petition No.4847 (M/S) of 2012 (which was assigned new Number as Writ-C No.1004847 of 2012). The judgment and order under challenge herein dated 20.04.2022 has been passed allowing the said writ petition and quashing the order dated 13.08.2012, as a result of which the order dated 21.07.2010 has been revived and accordingly a direction has been issued by the learned Single Judge to the Deputy Registrar to pass a fresh order in respect of the electoral college for the purposes of holding the election of the Executive Body of the Society by including the members who were living out of 60 members as were finalized by means of the order dated 21.07.2010. The learned Single Judge also directed that if required the election of the Executive Body of the Society shall be held under the supervision of the Deputy Registrar. Learned Single Judge has also clarified that no person shall be added in the list over and above 60 persons as mentioned in the order dated 21.07.2010.

21. Having noted the background facts of the case as narrated above, the questions which primarily fall for our consideration are, (a) as to whether, as contended by the learned counsel for the appellant, the writ petition filed by the petitioner nos.1 and 2 was maintainable and, (b) as to whether any addition in the list of 60 members of the General Body of the Society as per the order dated 21.07.2010 passed by the Deputy Registrar, Faizabad is legally permissible.

22. It has been argued on behalf of the appellant that the registration of the Society having not been renewed after 26.09.2003 (whereby renewal was valid for five years w.e.f. 10.10.2000), the writ petition filed by the petitioner no.1-Society was not maintainable. When we consider this submission, we find that the contention is based solely on the ground of non-renewal of the registration of the Society. Section 3 of the Act provides for registration of a society upon presentation of Memorandum of Association before the Registrar on payment of certain fee. Section 3A of the Act provides for renewal of certificate of the registration of a Society. Scheme of section 3-A of the Act as applicable in the State of Uttar Pradesh permits renewal of certificate of registration even after expiry of the period of registration on payment of late fee. Thus, a society once registered, will not get extinct, that is to say, it will not become non-existent in absence of renewal of the certificate of registration after expiry of the term of registration. The society shall still exist though with a non-renewed certificate. It will still be an entity for the reason that section 3-A permits renewal of certificate of registration even after expiry of the term of registration on payment of late fee. Existence of society will not get extinguished only because of non-renewal of its registration certificate. Section 13 of the Act provides for dissolution of a society and thereupon adjustment of its affairs. Accordingly, we have no hesitation to hold that a society once duly registered, does not lose its entity as a society on account of non-renewal of the certificate of registration. The society will get extinct only when it is dissolved as per the provisions contained in section 13 or 13-A of the Act.

23. So far as the judgments cited by the learned counsel for the appellant in this regard, as mentioned above, are concerned, all the cases related to non-registered society or and unincorporated club and it is in this context that it has been observed that such a society will have the character of an association which cannot sue or be sued except in the name of all the members of the association. In the case of Arya Samaj (supra) it has been held by a Division Bench of this Court that as soon as a society is registered, it acquires a legal entity. We are, thus, of the opinion that non-renewal of certificate of registration may have certain consequences, however, that in itself cannot be a cause of extinction of existence of the society as an entity. The existence/entity of a society comes to an end only on its dissolution as envisaged under sections 13 and 13-A of the Act.

24. Reliance placed by the learned counsel for the appellant on paragraphs 12 & 13 of the judgment in the case of Adare Madarsa and others (supra) is misplaced. This judgment only holds that since renewal of the society in question was granted on the basis of some illegal list as such the society had become unregistered society within the meaning of section 3-A(v) of the Act and the only remedy available was to hold the fresh election in terms of the provisions of section 25(2) of the Act. Thus, this case does not help the petitioner at all, rather it fortifies the contention of the learned counsel representing the respondents that once the Deputy Registrar in his order dated 21.07.2010 has held the executive body of the society being barred by time, it was appropriate and proper on his part to have proceeded to hold the election under section 25(2) of the Act. Thus, in our opinion, the submission of the learned counsel for the appellant that the writ petition was not maintainable at the behest of the petitioner no.1, is not tenable.

25. Similarly the submission raised by the learned counsel for the appellant that the writ petition was not maintainable at the behest of the petitioner no.2, is also not tenable for the simple reason that he is one of the persons included in the list of 60 members of the General Body of the Society as contained in the order dated 21.07.2010 passed by the Deputy Registrar and he, in our considered opinion, did have adequate locus to challenge the order dated 13.08.2012 passed by the Deputy Registrar, Kanpur Region, Kanpur, who had extended the list of 60 members to 112 members which was contrary to the unchallenged findings recorded by the Deputy Registrar in his earlier order dated 21.07.2010. As regards the submission that the petitioners while impeaching the order dated 13.08.2012 in the writ petition before the learned Single Judge could not be permitted to contradict the statement of facts recorded in the said order as the facts recorded in an order by an authority or tribunal or court is conclusive, we may only refer to the averments made in paragraph 29 of the counter affidavit filed in the writ petition by the Deputy Registrar Firms, Societies and Chits, Faizabad where it has been stated by the Deputy Registrar that there are no provisions under the Act which permit providing copies of the documents submitted by the opposite party no.5 in the writ petition to the petitioners, however, under sections 23 and 24 of the Societies Registration Act related documents can be inspected personally by the Deputy Registrar and that copies of such documents cannot be handed over to any other person.

26. The said submissions were made in reply to paragraphs 54 and 55 of the writ petition, wherein it was stated by the petitioner that the Deputy Registrar did not supply copies of the reply and documents submitted by the opposite party no.5 in the writ petition and further that the Deputy Registrar considered the documents filed by the opposite party no.5 in the writ petition, however, he did not supply copies of those documents to the petitioners and that such documents must have been provided to them so that they were able to put up their case before the Deputy Registrar. If the averments made in paragraph 29 of the counter affidavit filed before the learned Single Judge by the Deputy Registrar Faizabad is read in juxtaposition with the submissions made in paragraphs 52, 54 and 55 of the writ petition, it is abundantly clear that there is admission on the part of the Deputy Registrar that copies of the documents submitted before him by the opposite party no.5 in the writ petition were not supplied to the petitioner. In view of this admission by the Deputy Registrar before the Single Judge as made in paragraph 29 of the counter affidavit filed by the him, the submission made on behalf of the appellant that the petitioners could not be permitted to contradict the submissions of facts recorded in the order of Deputy Registrar, loses significance.

27. Yet another submission made by the learned counsel representing the appellant is that the persons whose names were added amongst 112 members in addition to 60 members, by means of the order dated 13.08.2012 passed by the Deputy Registrar, were not impleaded as parties in the writ petition, hence the writ petition suffered from the vice of non-joinder of necessary parties and as such the same was not maintainable. While considering this submission on behalf of the appellant, what we find is that there is a categorical finding recorded by the Deputy Registrar while he passed the order dated 21.07.2010 that documents on the basis of which undisputed renewal of the registration of the society was done on 26.09.2003 also contained a list of 60 members of the General Body of the Society and this order dated 21.07.2010 was never challenged by any one, including those persons, who were added in the list of 112 members over and above 60 members of the General Body of the Society. Since the order dated 21.07.2010 passed by the Deputy Registrar was never challenged, hence the finding recorded in respect of the fact regarding validity of 60 members of the General Body of the Society remains undisputed. Any addition of members apart from 60 members of the General Body of the Society made by the subsequent order passed by the Deputy Registrar on 13.08.2012, in our considered opinion, was not permissible. It is also to be noticed in this regard that vide order dated 21.07.2010 the Deputy Registrar had published undisputed list of 60 members terming such list of members of the General Body as tentative list inviting objections so that electoral college may be finalized for the purposes of holding election of the Executive Body of the Society as contemplated under section 25(2) of the Act. Finalization of electoral college pursuant to the order dated 21.07.2010, in our considered opinion, was only meant for removal of such member from amongst 60 members of the General Body of the Society who for some or other reason might have disqualified themselves to be member of the General Body on account of certain exigencies such as death or resignation or any other like situation. Thus, amongst 60 members of the Society, while finalizing the electoral college pursuant to the order dated 21.07.2010 passed by the Deputy Registrar, the only alteration which was permissible in the said list of 60 members was deletion of names of such persons who might have disqualified themselves to be members on account of the reasons as aforesaid, such as death or resignation or any other like situation. The Deputy Registrar, thus, while passing the order dated 13.08.2012 had clearly exceeded his mandate and jurisdiction in view of the undisputed findings recorded in his earlier order dated 21.07.2010.

28. Accordingly, we have no hesitation to hold that those persons, who were added in the list of 60 members of the General Body of the Society by means of the order dated 13.08.2012, were illegally added. Since the Deputy Registrar while passing the order dated 13.08.2012, thus, exceeded his mandate which was available to him only for the purposes of finalizing the electoral college from amongst 60 members of the General Body of the Society by means of the order dated 21.07.2010, the submission made by the learned counsel for petitioner merits rejection, which is hereby thus, not accepted.

29. We also notice that in the writ petition disputed questions of facts relating to membership of the Society were not involved as the issue related only to finalization of the electoral college on the basis of determination of the members of the General Body of the Society made by the Deputy Registrar by means of his order dated 21.07.2010.

30. For the reasons as aforesaid, we are not inclined to interfere in the judgment and order passed by the learned Single Judge.

31. There is yet another reason why no interference in this special appeal is warranted. The dispute relating to election of the Executive Body of the Society has been pending since fairly a long time and as such we are of the opinion that such dispute should be given quietus which shall be not only in the interest of the warring factions of the society but it shall also be in the interest of the society of the college being run, of the education of the students as also the welfare of the teachers.

32. For all the aforesaid discussion made above, we are of the opinion that the instant appeal lacks merit. Resultantly, the special appeal is, thus, dismissed.

33. The Deputy Registrar concerned is directed to ensure compliance of the directions issued by the learned Single Judge in his order dated 28.04.2022 as corrected by means of the order dated 06.05.2022 passed in Writ Petition No.4847 (M/S) of 2012 (New Number: Writ-C No.1004847 of 2012) within the time period specified for the said purpose in the order passed by the learned Single Judge.

34. However, there will be no order as to costs.

4. St. of U.P. & ors. Vs Harikesh Singh, Special Appeal Defective No. 23 of 2019

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Bindal, C.J. & Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. The present intra-Court appeal has been filed by the State impugning the order dated July 30, 2019. Along with the appeal appeal, an application has been filed seeking condonation of delay in filing thereof. The period for which the delay is sought to be condoned is not mentioned in the application. However, as calculated by the Registry, it comes to 948 days, i.e., more than two years and seven months.

2. earned counsel for the applicants/appellants, while trying to make out a case for condonation of huge delay of more than two years and seven months in filing the appeal, referred to the affidavit filed in support of the application seeking condonation of delay. He submitted that it was on account of bureaucratic set up and impersonal machinery which resulted in delay in filing the present appeal. One of the reasons is also Covid-19 pandemic. The submission is that the case otherwise is meritorious. The learned Single Judge has allowed the prayer for change of date of birth at the fag end of the career of the respondent-employee which is totally in contravention of judgments of Hon'ble the Supreme Court. Reliance is placed on the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bharat Coking Coal Limited and others Vs. Shyam Kishore Singh (2020) 3 SCC 411, wherein relying on the earlier authorities on the issue, it was observed:

"9. This Court has consistently held that the request for change of the date of birth in the service records at the fag end of service is not sustainable."

3. In view of above, it is submitted that the present appeal being meritorious, the delay in filing the appeal be condoned and the appeal be allowed.

4. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondent submitted that the applicants/appellants in the present appeal cannot take shelter of Covid-19 pandemic as the period of filing the appeal expired much prior to the imposition of first lockdown in March, 2020. The impugned order was passed by learned Single Judge on July 30, 2019. A perusal of the aforesaid contents of the affidavit, filed in support of the application seeking condonation of delay, shows that the file was dealt with at different levels as if there is no period prescribed for filing the appeal and it would be filed by the State at its pleasure.

5. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the paper-book.

6. Before the arguments of the parties could be heard and dealt with, there being huge delay in filing the present appeal the application seeking condonation of delay is required to be dealt with first.

7. The following table will show the dates and events after passing of the order by this Court and the action taken by the different departments of the State till such time the present appeal was filed:

27.	09.05.2022	After being prepared, the special appeal was presented.

8. A perusal of the aforesaid contents of the affidavit show that after the writ petition was allowed by learned Single Judge on July 30, 2019, for a period of about five months, i.e., upto December 23, 2019, the matter remained pending for seeking legal opinion as to whether order passed by learned Single Judge is required to be challenged or complied with. Thereafter, till March 28, 2022 the matter remained pending for approval by the competent authority for permission to file appeal against order passed by learned Single Judge. After the permission to file intra-Court appeal was granted, the Special Secretary and Additional Legal Remembrancer, Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow requested Chief Standing Counsel, High Court, Allahabad for filing intra-Court appeal in the matter, who in turn allotted the file to Sri Chandan Kumar, Standing Counsel, High Court, Allahabad on April 8, 2022, who prepared the appeal and thereafter the same was presented on May 9, 2022, i.e., after expiry of the period of limitation even if counted from the date the permission to file the appeal was granted.

9. The contents of the affidavit, which have been summarized above, show that officers of the department at different levels have not been vigilant enough to pursue the case in hand. Where the limitation to file the appeal is merely 30 days from the date of order in addition to the time spent in obtaining the certified copy thereof, firstly the matter remained pending only for seeking opinion by the Chief Standing Counsel as to whether review petition should be filed. It is apparent from the record that the decision was taken by the State Government on March 28, 2022. However, the present appeal was presented on May 9, 2022, i.e., 42 days thereafter.

10. The legal issue as to how an application filed by the State seeking condonation of delay has to be dealt with has invited attention of the Courts on a number of occasions. Initially, the view was that the State Machinery being impersonal, the Courts should be liberal in granting condonation of delay, however, seeing the repeated inaction and casualness in approach on the part of the authorities in filing the appeals after a huge delay, the view had to be revisited.

11. In Postmaster General and Others Vs. Living Media India Limited and Another, (2012) 3 SCC 563 considering the facts of that case, which were similar to the case in hand, the Hon'ble Supreme Court opined that the claim on account of impersonal machinery and inherited bureaucratic methodology of making several notes cannot be accepted in view of the modern technologies being used and available. The aforesaid observation was made about a decade back and there is lot of technological advancements thereafter. But apparently, the matters here are being dealt with in the old fashion. Separate period of limitation has not been provided for filing appeals by the State. The relevant paragraphs from the aforesaid judgment are extracted below:-

"27. It is not in dispute that the person(s) concerned were well aware or conversant with the issues involved including the prescribed period of limitation for taking up the matter by way of filing a special leave petition in this Court. They cannot claim that they have a separate period of limitation when the Department was possessed with competent persons familiar with court proceedings. In the absence of plausible and acceptable explanation, we are posing a question why the delay is to be condoned mechanically merely because the Government or a wing of the Government is a party before us.

28. Though we are conscious of the fact that in a matter of condonation of delay when there was no gross negligence or deliberate inaction or lack of bona fides, a liberal concession has to be adopted to advance substantial justice, we are of the view that in the facts and circumstances, the Department cannot take advantage of various earlier decisions. The claim on account of impersonal machinery and inherited bureaucratic methodology of making several notes cannot be accepted in view of the modern technologies being used and available. The law of limitation undoubtedly binds everybody, including the Government.

29. In our view, it is the right time to inform all the government bodies, their agencies and instrumentalities that unless they have reasonable and acceptable explanation for the delay and there was bona fide effort, there is no need to accept the usual explanation that the file was kept pending for several months/years due to considerable degree of procedural red tape in the process. The government departments are under a special obligation to ensure that they perform their duties with diligence and commitment. Condonation of delay is an exception and should not be used as an anticipated benefit for the government departments. The law shelters everyone under the same light and should not be swirled for the benefit of a few.

30. Considering the fact that there was no proper explanation offered by the Department for the delay except mentioning of various dates, according to us, the Department has miserably failed to give any acceptable and cogent reasons sufficient to condone such a huge delay. Accordingly, the appeals are liable to be dismissed on the ground of delay."

12. Recently, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Madhya Pradesh and Others Vs. Bherulal (2020) 10 SCC 654 again considered the application filed by the State seeking condonation of delay in filing the Special Leave Petition. Similar arguments were made in support of the application, however, the same were rejected. Such type of cases were termed as "certificate cases". The application seeking condonation of delay was dismissed subject to costs of ₹ 25,000/-. Relevant paras nos. 4 to 8 thereof are extracted below:-

"4. A reading of the aforesaid application shows that the reason for such an inordinate delay is stated to be only "due to unavailability of the documents and the process of arranging the documents". In para 4, a reference has been made to "bureaucratic process works, it is inadvertent that delay occurs".

5. A preposterous proposition is sought to be propounded that if there is some merit in the case, the period of delay is to be given a go-by. If a case is good on merits, it will succeed in any case. It is really a bar of limitation which can even shut out good cases. This does not, of course, take away the jurisdiction of the Court in an appropriate case to condone the delay.

6. We are also of the view that the aforesaid approach is being adopted in what we have categorised earlier as "certificate cases". The object appears to be to obtain a certificate of dismissal from the Supreme Court to put a quietus to the issue and thus, say that nothing could be done because the highest Court has dismissed the appeal. It is to complete this formality and save the skin of officers who may be at default that such a process is followed. We have on earlier occasions also strongly deprecated such a practice and process. There seems to be no improvement. The purpose of coming to this Court is not to obtain such certificates and if the Government suffers losses, it is time when the officer concerned responsible for the same bears the consequences. The irony is that in none of the cases any action is taken against the officers, who sit on the files and do nothing. It is presumed that this Court will condone the delay and even in making submissions, straightaway the counsel appear to address on merits without referring even to the aspect of limitation as happened in this case till we pointed out to the counsel that he must first address us on the question of limitation.

7. We are thus, constrained to send a signal and we propose to do in all matters today, where there are such inordinate delays that the Government or State authorities coming before us must pay for wastage of judicial time which has its own value. Such costs can be recovered from the officers responsible.

8. Looking to the period of delay and the casual manner in which the application has been worded, we consider it appropriate to impose costs on the petitioner State of Rs 25,000 (Rupees twenty-five thousand) to be deposited with the Mediation and Conciliation Project Committee. The amount be deposited in four weeks. The amount be recovered from the officers responsible for the delay in filing the special leave petition and a certificate of recovery of the said amount be also filed in this Court within the said period of time."

13. For the reasons mentioned above, in our opinion no case is made out for condonation of huge delay of more than two years and seven months in filing the present appeal. Hence, the application for condonation of delay is rejected and the appeal, accordingly, being barred by limitation is also dismissed.

14. Similar issue came up for consideration before a Division Bench of this Court in Special Appeal Defective No. 23 of 2019 (State of U.P. and others vs. Harikesh Singh) (Lucknow Bench) where certain directions were issued to streamline the court cases and check delays in filing appeals etc. Relevant para 17 thereof is extracted below :-

"17. We also find it appropriate to record here that from the affidavit filed in support of the application seeking condonation of delay, it is evident that the system being followed after decision of cases needs to be re-visited. Office of Advocate General should ensure that after every case is decided by the Court, certified copy thereof should be applied for, immediately and not on the request made by the Department. Immediately, on receipt of the copy of the order, it should be sent to the Department concerned along with the opinion as to whether the case is fit for filing an appeal or not alongwith suggested grounds, instead of waiting for a letter from the concerned Department seeking opinion. Further, the letter should specifically state as to the date on which the limitation to file an appeal or availing any remedy against the order expires. It has to be ensured that opinion in the case alongwith copy of the order reaches the concerned department well before expiry of time for filing appeal and that date should be specifically mentioned. Benefit should be taken of technological advancements and the process could be online as well."

15. However, on account of inaction by the authorities at different levels in the State, the State exchequer should not be made to suffer as a result of an order passed by learned Single Judge of this Court which is claimed to be contrary to law laid down by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Bharat Coking Coal Limited's case (supra), in our view an inquiry is required to be conducted by Secretary, Irrigation Department to fix the responsibility of the officer(s)/official(s) concerned, who have slept over the file as a result of which huge delay occurred in filing the present appeal. The amount which is required to be paid to the respondent on account of change in date of birth, which according to the State was not permissible to him as he could not get the date of birth changed at the fag end of his career, be recovered from him/them after affording due opportunity of hearing.

Such an amount shall not be reimbursed by the State to those officer(s)/official(s) under any circumstance.

16. This Court is constrained to pass such order for the reason that repeatedly in the Court the appeals are being filed by the State after huge delay as if no one is responsible for taking care of litigation which otherwise also results in causing huge loss to the State exchequer besides wasting precious time of the Court which is already flooded with the cases and majority of them are on account of inaction or wrong action by the State.

17. Copy of this order shall be sent to the Chief Secretary of the State of Uttar Pradesh and Secretary, Department of Irrigation for information and compliance.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Prabhakar Awasthi, learned counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Vinay Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the respondent-Union of India.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner has made following relief:

"i. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari, calling for the records of the case and to quash the impugned order dated 26thOctober, 2021 passed by Lieutenant Colonel Officer Officer In-Charge Rtg., respondent no.3 (Annexure No.7 to this writ petition)."

ii. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondents to forthwith issue appointment letter and confer appointment in favour of of petitioner as Draughtsman in General Reserve Engineer Force, Cenre DIGHI Camp Pune, Maharashthra.

It is the case of the petitioner that pursuant to the Advertisement No. 1/2021 dated 20th February, 2021, the petitioner being possessed with matriculation and intermediate mark-sheets/certificates and three Years diploma in Architectural Assistantship, applied for the post of Draughtsman through offline application form. As per the said advertisement, total 43 posts of draughtsman were advertised in following categories: (i) 19 posts for Unreserved category candidates, (ii) 6 posts for Scheduled Caste category candidates, (iii) 3 posts for Scheduled Tribe Category candidates, (iv) 11 posts for Other Backward Class category candidates and (v) 4 posts for Economic Weaker Section category candidates. The petitioner appeared in the written examination and was declared successful and his name was placed at serial no. 22 of the result. By means of letter dated 20th September, 2021, the petitioner was required to appear in the physical efficiency test and primary medical examination which were scheduled to be held between 25th October, 2021 to 27th October, 2021. Thereafter, the petitioner has received an order dated 26th October, 2021 at his residence at District Azamgarh wherein it has been mentioned that due to overlapping of Intermediate Examination Mark-sheet/certificate and Diploma Degree of the petitioner, he could not be given placement and selection. It is against this order that the present writ petition has been filed.

3. Challenging the order impugned, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the order impugned cannot sustain the scrutiny of law, as there would be no bar in obtaining two degrees in one and same academic session. The order impugned is an ex parte order, as before passing the same, neither the petitioner has been afforded opportunity of hearing nor any show-cause notice has been issued to him. Even otherwise, the petitioner would submit that he undertook admission in the academic session 2013-2014 in Intermediate as a private student, whereas he took admission in undergoing diploma course in Architectural Assistantship in academic-session 2012-2015 as a regular student. The bar in obtaining two degrees in a particular academic session would be restricted only to regular candidates and not private students. The impugned order does not provide any law based upon which an alleged overlapping was stood to be not taken for consideration for conferring appointment. On the cumulative strength of the aforesaid, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the order impugned cannot be legally sustained and is liable to be dismissed.

4. Learned counsel for the respondents has raised maintainability of the present writ petition before the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad on the ground that the advertisement No. 1/2021 dated 20th February, 2021 has been issued by the Government of India, Ministry of Defence, Border Roads Wing, Border Roads Organization, General Reserve Engineer Force of which neither the headquarter nor any office of the same is situated within the territorial jurisdiction of the Allahabad High Court of Judicature at Allahabad. The place wherein all the examinations i.e. written examination, physical efficiency test and primary medical examination were held at GREF Centre,Dighi Camp., Pune-15 (Maharashtra) and from where, the impugned order has been passed (by respondent no.3 i.e.Lieutenant Colonel Officer Officer In-Charge Rtg., GREF Centre, Dighi Camp., Pune), is at Pune, Maharashtra, which is also not within the territorial jurisdiction of Allahabad High Court of Judicature at Allahabad. Only on the basis of the fact that the petitioner has received the impugned order at his residence i.e. Village Khand, Post Luchui (Latghat), Azamgarh, no cause of action will arise within the territorial jurisdiction of this Court. In the facts of the present case, the entire cause of action arose at Pune, Maharashtra. Merely because the petitioner is residing at Azamgarh, Uttar Pradesh, this will not give jurisdiction to this Court. Learned counsel for the respondents, therefore, submits that the present writ petition is not maintainable before this Court, as the same has no territorial jurisdiction to entertain the same.

5. Learned counsel for the respondents next submits that against the order impugned which has been passed by respondent no.3 i.e.Lieutenant Colonel Officer Officer In-Charge Rtg., GREF Centre, Dighi Camp., Pune, the petitioner has efficacious statutory alternative remedy by approaching the concerned Armed Forces Tribunal either at Mumbai or at Delhi under the Armed Forces Tribunal Act, 2007. Learned counsel for the respondents, therefore, submits that the present writ petition be dismissed on the ground of availability of statutory alternative remedy.

6. Apart from the above, learned counsel for the respondents submits that the petitioner has made false averment in paragraph-17 by submitting that the petitioner has no other efficacious alternative remedy except to invoke the extraordinary writ jurisdiction before this Court.

7. When as a matter of fact in the Advertisement No. 1/2021 dated 20th February, 2021 itself pursuant to which the petitioner applied for the post of draughtsman, in sub-clause (j) of Clause-14, which provides for Miscellaneous Information, it has been provided that any legal issues arising out of this Advertisement shall fall within the legal jurisdiction of Hon'ble High Court of Delhi. However, deliberately, the petitioner has enclosed only first page of the said advertisement as Annexure-4 to the writ petition, when as matter of fact the said advertisement contains 31 pages, a copy of which has been placed before this Court by the learned counsel for the respondents which is taken on record. In view of the aforesaid, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that as the petitioner has not approached this Court with clean hands, the present writ petition is liable to be dismissed with exemplary cost, on the ground of fraud and misrepresentation.

8. I have considered the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records of the present writ petition including the copy of the Advertisement No. 1/2021 dated 20th February, 2021, which has been placed before this Court today by the learned counsel for the respondents.

9. This Court finds substance in the submissions made by the learned counsel for the respondents that this Court has no territorial jurisdiction to entertain the same, as the entire cause of action in the present case arose at Pune. The Full Bench of this Court in the case of Rajendra Kumar Mishra Vs. Union of India reported in 2004 0 Supreme (All) 1841, after following various judgments of the Apex Court has answered that for the reasons given above we are of the opinion that the Chief of Army Staff can only be sued either at Delhi where he is located or at a place where the cause of action, wholly or in part, arises. Relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid Full Bench judgment, which are relevant for deciding the present writ petition, read as follows:

"10. In our opinion the observation in the aforesaid decision "The Chief of Army Staff may be sued in any High Court in the Country" cannot be construed to mean that the Supreme Court has laid down any absolute proposition that it is open to the petitioner to file a writ petition in any High Court in India. Such an absolute proposition as canvassed by the learned Counsel for the petitioner may lead to conflicting decisions because different petitions can be filed in different High Courts by co-accused in the same case and conflicting decisions can be given.

11. It may be noted that the aforesaid observation in the three Judges decision of the Supreme Court in Dinesh Chandra Gahlori's case (supra) is only a laconic observation and it cannot be override Larger Bench decisions of the Supreme Court.

12. In the present case it may be noted that the misconduct was committed at Calcutta and Summary Court Martial was also held at Calcutta. Thus the entire cause of action arose at Calcutta. We, therefore, fail to understand how a writ petition can be entertained at Allahabad High Court where no part of the cause of action had arisen.

13. In our opinion merely because the petitioner is presently residing in Ballia this will not give jurisdiction to this Court in view of the Seven Judges Bench decision of the Supreme Court in Lt. Col. Khajoor Singh Vs. Union of India. AIR 1961 SC 532. In paragraph 13 of the aforesaid decision the Supreme Court observed:

"Now it is clear that the jurisdiction conferred on the High Court by Article 226 does not depend upon the residence or location of the person applying to it for relief; it depends only on the person or authority x against whom a writ is sought being within those territories. It seems to us, therefore, that it is not permissible to read in Article 226 the residence or location of the person affected by the order passed in order to determine the jurisdiction of the High Court. That jurisdiction depends on the person or authority passing the order being within those territories and the residence or location of the person affected can have no relevance on the question of the High Court's jurisdiction. Thus if a person residing or located in Bombay, for example, is aggrieved by an order passed by an authority located, say , in Calcutta, the forum in which he has to seek relief is not the Mumbai High Court though the order may affect him in Bombay but the Calcutta High Court where the authority passing the order is located. It would, therefore, in our opinion be wrong to introduce in Article the concept of the place where the order passed has effect in order to determine the jurisdiction of the High Court which can give relief under Article."

42. In the present case no part of the cause of action has arisen in U.P. Hence in our opinion the writ petition is not maintainable in this Court. It is accordingly dismissed. The decision of the Division Bench in Kailash Nath Tiwari Vs. Union of India (Supra) in our opinion does not lay down the correct law and is overruled."

(Emphasis supplied)

10. In the case of Board of Trustees for the Port of Calcutta Vs. Bombay Flour Mills Pvt. Ltd., reported in AIR 1995 SC 577, the Apex Court has affirmed the principle that the place where the whole or part of the cause of action arises, gives jurisdiction to the Court within whose territory such place is situated. Whether the cause of action has arisen within the territory of the particular Court will have to be determined in each case on its own facts in the context of the subject matter of the litigation, and relief claimed.

11. In the case of Oil and Natural Gas Commission Vs. Uptal Kumar Basu, reported in (1994) 4 SCC 711, it was held by the Apex Court:

"Under Article 226 a High Court can exercise the power to issue directions, orders or writs for the enforcement of any of the fundamental rights conferred by Part III of the Constitution or for any other purpose if the cause of action wholly or in part, had arisen within the territories in relation to which it exercises jurisdiction, notwithstanding that the seat of the Government or authority or the residence of the person against, whom the direction, order or writ is issued is not within the said territories. The expression "cause of action" means that bundle of facts which the petitioner must prove, if traversed, to entitle him to a judgment in his favour by the Court. Therefore, in determining the objection of lack of territorial jurisdiction the Court must take all the facts pleaded in support of the cause of action into consideration albeit without embarking upon an enquiry as to the correctness or otherwise of the said facts. Thus, the question of territorial jurisdiction must be decided on the facts pleaded in the petition, the truth or otherwise of the averments made in the petition being immaterial."

12. In Union of India Vs. Adani Exports Ltd. And Anr. reported in AIR 2002 SC 126. the Apex Court held that the High Court must be satisfied from the entire facts pleaded in support of the cause of action that those facts do constitute a cause so as to empower the Court to decide a dispute which has, at least in part, arisen within its jurisdiction. Each and every fact pleaded by the party in its application does not ipso facto lead to the conclusion that those facts give rise to a cause of action within the Court's territorial jurisdiction unless those facts, pleaded are such which have a nexus or relevance with the lis that is involved in the case Facts, which have no bearing with the lis or the dispute involved in the case, do not give rise to a cause of action so as to confer territorial jurisdiction on the Court concerned.

13. Similarly in the case of Rajasthan High Court Advocates Association Vs. Union of India & Ors. reported in AIR 2001 SC 416, the Apex Court held that clauses (1) and (2) of Article of the Constitution provide how territorial jurisdiction shall be exercised by any High Court and one of the test may be as to whether the cause of action partly or fully has arisen within its territorial jurisdiction. While deciding the said case reliance was placed upon the Court's earlier judgment in U.P. Rashtriya Chini Mill Adhikari Parishad Vs. State of U.P. reported in (1995) 4 SCC 738, wherein it had been held that the expression "cause of action" has acquired a judicially-settled meaning. In the restricted sense, cause of action means the circumstances forming, the infraction of the right of the immediate occasion for the action. In the wider sense, it means the necessary conditions for the maintenance of the suit, including not only the infraction of the right, but the infraction coupled with the right itself. Compendiously the expression means every fact which it would be necessary for the plaintiff to prove, if traversed, in order to support his right to the judgment of the Court. Every fact which is necessary to be proved, as distinguished from every piece of evidence which is necessary to prove each fact, comprises the "cause of action". It has to be left to be determined in each individual case as to where the cause of action arises.

14. In Navinchandra N.. Majithia y. state of Maharashtra and others reported in AIR 2000 SC 2966, the Apex Court while considering the provisions of clause (2) of Article of the Constitution, observed :

"In legal parlance the expression 'cause of action' is generally understood to mean a situation or State of facts that entities a party to maintain an action in a Court or a Tribunal; a group of operative facts giving rise to one or more basis for suing; a factual situation that entitles one person to obtain a remedy in Court from another person.....'Cause of action is stated to be the entire set of facts that gives rise to an enforceable claim; the phrase comprises every fact, which, if traversed, the plaintiff must prove in order to obtain judgment..:the meaning attributed to the phrase 'cause of action1 in common legal parlance is existence of those facts which give a party a right to judicial interference on his behalf."

15. To the submissions made by the learned counsel for the respondents that against the order impugned the petitioner has efficacious statutory alternative remedy by approaching the concerned Armed Forces Tribunal, this Court is of the opinion that in view of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of L. Chandra Kumar Vs. Union of India and others reported in (1997) 3 SCC 261, specifically after enforcement of Armed Forces Tribunal Act, 2007, the petitioner first should have apportioned the concerned Armed Forces Tribunal against the order impugned.

16. In Devi Saran Mishra Vs. Union of India and Others, reported in 2010 (3) ADJ 593 (paragraphs 23, 24, 25, 26 and 27), a learned Single Judge of this Court has considered in detail the provisions of the Armed Forces Tribunal Act, 2007 (in short "the Act") in the light of various judicial decisions, and has held that in case, the cause of action involved in a Writ Petition is such as falls within the jurisdiction of the Tribunal after enforcement of the Armed Forces Tribunal Act, 2007, such cause of action has to be adjudicated upon in the first instance by the Tribunal. It is only after the decision of the Tribunal, that the matter would come to the High Court under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India. The cause of action of the present Writ Petition as noted above, is evidently such as falls within the jurisdiction of the Tribunal after enforcement of the Act. This is evident from the provisions contained in Section 14 read with Section 3(o) of the said Act as well as Section 15 of the said Act, 2007.

17. In view of the aforesaid, this Court is of the opinion that the present writ petition is liable to be dismissed on the ground of availability of statutory alternative remedy being available to the petitioner.

18. This Court also agrees with the submissions made by the learned counsel for the respondents that the petitioner has not approached this Court with clean hands by making false averments in paragraph-17 and by enclosing incomplete copy of the advertisement deliberately only in order to obtain a fruitful order from this Court.

19. For ready reference, paragraph-17 of the present writ petition reads as follows:

"17. That petitioners have no other efficacious alternative speedy remedy except to invoke extraordinary writ jurisdiction before this Hon'ble Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, on inter alia amongst other."

20. This Court also perused the copy of the complete Advertisement No. 1/2021 dated 20th February, 2021 published by the Government of India, Ministry of Defence, Border Roads Wing, Border Roads Organization, General Reserve Engineer Force, which contains 33 pages, has been placed before by this Court today by the learned counsel for the respondents, when as matter of fact the petitioner has enclosed first page of the said advertisement deliberately. After perusal of the same, this Court finds that as per the terms and conditions mentioned in the said advertisement itself, it has been provided that in case any legal issues arises pursuant to the aforesaid advertisement, the same shall be adjudicated upon before the High Court of Delhi.

21. It would worthwhile to reproduce Clause-14 (j) of the Terms and Conditions mentioned in the aforesaid advertisement, which reads as follows:

"14. Miscellaneous Information

(j) Any legal issues arising out of this Advertisement shall fall within the legal jurisdiction of Hon'ble High Court of Delhi.

22. From the aforesaid it is apparently clear that that the petitioner has misrepresented this Court by means of the present writ petition only in order to obtain fruitful order.

23. When a person approaches a Court of Equity in exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226/227 of the Constitution, he should approach the Court not only with clean hands but also with clean mind, clean heart and clean objective. (Vide The Ramjas Foundation & Ors. Vs. Union of India & Ors., AIR 1993 SC 852; K.P. Srinivas Vs. R.M. Premchand & Ors., (1994) 6 SCC 620). Thus, who seeks equity must do equity. The legal maxim "Jure Naturae Aequum Est Neminem cum Alterius Detrimento Et Injuria Fieri Locupletiorem", means that it is a law of nature that one should not be enriched by the loss or injury to another.

In the case of Nooruddin Vs. (Dr.) K.L. Anand reported in (1995) 1 SCC 242, the Apex Court observed as under:

"????..Equally, the judicial process should never become an instrument of appreciation or abuse or a means in the process of the Court to subvert justice."

Similarly, in the case of Ramniklal N. Bhutta & Anr. Vs. State of Maharashtra & Ors., reported in AIR 1997 SC 1236, the Apex Court observed as under:-

"The power under Art. 226 is discretionary. It will be exercised only in furtherance of justice and not merely on the making out of a legal point??. the interest of justice and public interest coalesce. They are very often one and the same. ?? The Courts have to weight the public interest vis--vis the private interest while exercising the power under Art. 226?? indeed any of their discretionary powers.

(Emphasis added)"

24. In the case of Dr. Buddhi Kota Subbarao Vs. K Parasaran & Ors., reported in AIR 1996 SC 2687, the Apex Court has observed as under:-

"No litigant has a right to unlimited drought on the Court time and public money in order to get his affairs settled in the manner he wishes. Easy, access to justice should not be misused as a licence to file misconceived and frivolous petitions."

25. Similar view has been reiterated by the Apex Court in the case of K.K. Modi Vs. K.N. Modi & Ors. reported in (1998) 3 SCC 573.

26. In M/s. Tilokchand Motichand & Ors. Vs. H.B. Munshi & Anr., reported in AIR 1970 SC 898; State of Haryana Vs. Karnal Distillery, reported in AIR 1977 SC 781; and Sabia Khan & Ors. Vs. State of U.P. & Ors., reported in (1999) 1 SCC 271, the Apex Court held that filing totally misconceived petition amounts to abuse of the process of the Court and such a litigant is not required to be dealt with lightly, as petition containing misleading and inaccurate statement, if filed, to achieve an ulterior purpose amounts to abuse of the process of the Court.

27. In Agriculture & Process Food Products Vs. Oswal Agro Furane & Ors., reported in AIR 1996 SC 1947, the Apex Court had taken a serious objection in a case filed by suppressing the material facts and held that if a petitioner is guilty of suppression of very important fact his case cannot be considered on merits. Thus, a litigant is bound to make "full and true disclosure of facts". While deciding the said case, the Apex Court had placed reliance upon the judgment in King Vs. General Commissioner, reported in (1917) 1 KB 486, wherein it has been observed as under:-

"Where an ex parte application has been made to this Court for a rule nisi or other process, if the Court comes to the conclusion that the affidavit in support of the application was not candid and did not fairly state the facts, but stated them in such a way as to mislead the Court as to the true facts, the Court ought, for its own protection and to prevent abuse of its process, to refuse to proceed any further with the examination of its merits....."

28. In Abdul Rahman Vs. Prasony Bai & Anr., reported in AIR 2003 SC 718; and S.J.S. Business Enterprises (P) Ltd. Vs. State of Bihar & Ors., reported in (2004) 7 SCC 166, the Apex Court held that whenever the Court comes to the conclusion that the process of the Court is being abused, the Court would be justified in refusing to proceed further and refuse relief to the party. This rule has been evolved out of need of the Courts to deter a litigant from abusing the process of the Court by deceiving it. However, the suppressed fact must be material one in the sense that had it not been suppressed, it would have led any fact on the merit of the case.

29. In K.D. Sharma vs. SAIL, reported in (2008) 12 SCC 481, the Apex Court has held that the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court under Article 32 and of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution is extraordinary, equitable and discretionary and it is imperative that the petitioner approaching the writ court must come with clean hands and put forward all the facts before the Court without concealing or suppressing anything and seek an appropriate relief. If there is no candid disclosure of relevant and material facts or the petitioner is guilty of misleading the Court, his petition may be dismissed at the threshold without considering the merits of the claim. The same law was reiterated in G. Jayashree vs. Bhagwandas S. Patel reported in (2009) 3 SCC 141.

30. The Apex Court has repeatedly held that filing of false affidavit and concealment of material facts amounts to interference in the administration of justice and as such is criminal contempt of Court. Again the Apex Court in the case of Sunkara Lakshminarasamma & Anr. Versus Sagi Subba Raju & Ors. reported in (2009) 7 SCC 460 held that filing of false affidavit knowingly is a contempt and exemplary cost be imposed.

31. In view of the aforesaid, this Court finds no good ground to interfere in the present writ petition. This petition is accordingly dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ram Singh Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri J.P.N. Raj, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the State-respondents and Sri Rohit Kumar Singh, learned counsel appearing for the respondent nos. 6 and 8.

2. The present petition has been filed seeking to raise a challenge to the order dated 27.09.2021 passed by the Member (Judicial), Board of Revenue, U.P. at Allahabad in Case No. RES/1417/2021 (Bal Chandra vs. Collector/District Magistrate and others), the order dated 01.05.2015 passed by the Member (Judicial), Board of Revenue U.P. at Prayagraj in Revision No. 23 of 2004-05 (Bal Chandra vs. Collector) as well as order dated 12.01.2005 passed by the Collector, Muzaffar Nagar.

3. The undisputed facts of the case as evident from the pleadings in the petition are that an allotment referable to the provisions under Section 195 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 19501 was made in favour of the petitioners on a proposal dated 09.01.2004 which was approved by the Tehsildar, Kairana vide order dated 25.10.2004. Upon a complaint received with regard to the allotment and taking notice of the fact that as per terms of the amended provisions of the U.P. Act No. 27 of 2004 (w.e.f. 23.08.2004) the power to grant approval stood with the Assistant Collector incharge of the sub-division, the District Magistrate, Muzaffar Nagar passed an order dated 12.01.2005 wherein it was held that the approval granted by the Tehsildar was contrary to law and accordingly the said approval was cancelled and the land was directed to be vested in the Gaon Sabha.

4. Aggrieved by the aforesaid order, the petitioners and other allottees preferred a revision before the Board of Revenue which was rejected by means of an order dated 01.05.2015 upon taking due notice to the amended provisions of Section 195, in terms of which the Tehsildar was not empowered to grant approval. A time barred restoration application was preferred on 02.08.2021. Apart from the point of delay in filing the restoration application, the grounds taken therein were held to be untenable and the same has been rejected by the Board of Revenue by its order dated 27.09.2021.

5. The aforestated three orders i.e. order dated 12.01.2005 passed by the District Magistrate, Muzaffar Nagar, the order dated 01.05.2015 passed by the Member (Judicial), Board of Revenue rejecting the revision and the order dated 27.09.2021 in terms of which the restoration application has been turned down, are subject to challenge in the present writ petition.

6. Counsel for the petitioners has sought to assail the orders by submitting that on 09.01.2004 i.e. the date of proposal by the Land Management Committee, the Tahsildar was vested with the jurisdiction to grant approval to the allotment as per the provisions of Section 195, as they stood at the relevant point of time. It is further submitted that in the absence of any proceeding for cancellation of the allotment as per the provisions of sub-section (4) of Section 198, having been initiated, the order of cancellation would be unsustainable.

7. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, controverting the aforesaid assertions, has submitted that on the date when the proposal was approved, i.e. 25.10.2004, Section 195 had been amended in terms of the amending Act of 2004, which was effective from 23.08.2004, and the Tehsildar was no longer vested with the powers and jurisdiction to grant approval. The approval order of the Tahsildar being beyond jurisdiction, the same would have no effect; accordingly the District Magistrate upon a complaint having been received rightly cancelled the said order. It is also pointed out that the order of the District Magistrate is an order of cancellation of the approval order and it is not an order of cancellation of allotment and in view thereof the same cannot be assailed on the ground that the procedure under sub-section (4) of Section 198 was not followed.

8. In order to appreciate the rival contentions, the relevant statutory provisions would be required to be adverted to.

9. The procedure with regard to allotment of land at the relevant point of time was covered under Section 195 of the UPZA & LR Act.

10. Section 195, at it stood prior to the amendments made in the year 2002, is being reproduced below :-

"195. Admission to land.- (1) The Land Management Committee with the previous approval of the Assistant Collector in charge of the sub-division shall have the right to admit any person as bhumidhar with non-transferable rights to any land other than land falling in any of the classes mentioned in section 132 where -

(a) the land is vacant land,

(b) the land is vested in the Gaon Sabha under section 117, or

(c) the land has come into the possession of Land Management Committee under Section 194 or under any other provisions of this Act."

11. By U.P. Ordinance No. 4 of 2002, promulgated on June 21, 2002, sub-section (2) was inserted. The said sub-section (2) stood as under :-

"(2) If the Assistant Collector in-charge of the sub-division is satisfied that the Land Management Committee has failed to discharge its duties or to perform its functions under sub-section (1), or it is otherwise necessary or expedient so to do, he may himself admit any person as bhumidhar with non-transferable rights of the land under sub-section (1)."

12. By U.P. Ordinance No. 16 of 2002, promulgated on July, 20, 2002, the word "Tehsildar" was substituted for the words "Assistant Collector in-charge of the sub-division" in sub-section (1) as well as in sub-section (2). Both the Ordinances No. 4 and 16 of 2002 were replaced by U.P. Act No. 11 of 2002 which was made effective from July 20, 2002. In the amending Act, sub-section (2) was omitted. Thus, the amendment introduced by the Ordinance No. 16 of 2002 was retained in the Amending Act of 2002, while the changes made by Ordinance No. 4 of 2002, were not provided for.

13. The amendment made to Section 195 as per terms of U.P. Act No. 11 of 2002 was as follows :-

"6. Amendment of Section 195.- In Section 195 of the principal Act for the words "Assistant Collector in charge of the sub-division" wherever occurring, the word "Tehsildar" shall be substituted."

14. Section 195 as it stood consequent to the amending Act of 2002 was as follows :-

"195. Admission to land.- (1) The Land Management Committee with the previous approval of the Tahsilar shall have the right to admit any person as bhumidhar with non-transferable rights] to any land other than land falling in any of the classes mentioned in section 132 where -

(a) the land is vacant land,

(b) the land is vested in the Gaon Sabha under section 117, or

(c) the land has come into the possession of Land Management Committee under Section 194 or under any other provisions of this Act."

15. The provisions were again subject to further amendment by U.P. Act No. 27 of 2004, which came into force on August 23, 2004 and in terms thereof the Assistant Collector in-charge of the sub-division, instead of the Tehsildar, was empowered to admit any person as bhumidhar with non-transferable rights. The amendment made to Section 195 was as follows :-

"8. Amendment of Section 195.- In Section 195 of the principal Act for the word "Tehsildar" the words "Assistant Collector in charge of the sub-division" shall be substituted."

16. The provisions under Section 195, as they stand presently, after the amending Act of 2004, are as follows :-

"195. Admission to land.- (1) The Land Management Committee with the previous approval of the Assistant Collector in charge of the sub-division shall have the right to admit any person as bhumidhar with non-transferable rights to any land other than land being in any of the classes mentioned in section 132 where -

(a) the land is vacant land,

(b) the land is vested in the Gaon Sabha under section 117, or

(c) the land has come into the possession of [Land Management Committee] under Section 194 under any other provisions of this Act."

17. Section 195 contains the provisions with regard to admission to land by the Land Management Committee. As per terms of the provision, the Land Management Committee with the previous approval of the Assistant Collector in charge of the sub-division was empowered to admit any person as bhumidhar with non-transferable rights to any land other than land being in any of the classes mentioned in Section 132 and subject to the condition that (i) the land is vacant land, (ii) the land is vested in the Gaon Sabha under section 117, or (iii) the land has come into the possession of Land Management Committee under Section 194 under any other provisions of this Act.

18. The admission of persons to land under Section 195 was to be made in the order of preference specified under Section 198. The procedure for admission was specified under Rules 173, 174 and 175 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reform Rules, 1952.

19. Upon completion of the aforementioned procedural requirements, the Land Management Committee was required to prepare the documents specified under Rule 176 and thereafter forward the same to the Assistant Collector in charge of the sub-division for approval.

20. The procedure with regard to submission of documents before the Assistant Collector and the manner in which approval was to be accorded thereon was provided for under Rule 176, which is being extracted below :-

"176. - (1) After selecting the person or persons for admission to the land in accordance with Rule 175, the Committee shall prepare—

a) a list of persons so selected in Z.A. Form 57-B;

(b) a certificate of admission to land in Z.A. Form 58; and

(c) a counterpart in Z.A. Form 58-A.

(2) The documents referred to in clauses (a) and (b) of sub-rule (1) shall be duly signed by the Chairman of the Land Management Committee but the document referred to in clause (c) shall be signed by the person so selected for admission to the land.

(3) The document referred to in sub-rule (1) shall then be forwarded to the Assistant Collector-in-charge of the Sub-Division along with—

(a) a copy of the proceedings of the meeting of the Committee in which the decision to settle land was taken; and

(b) a certificate from the Lekhpal concerned to the effect that the particulars of the land mentioned in the list are correct, and that the admission to the land is in accordance with the provisions of the Act and the Rules.

(4) The Assistant Collector in-charge of the Sub-Division shall, on receipt of the documents, referred to in sub-rule (3) scrutinize the decision taken by the Committee and if he is satisfied that the decision of the Committee is in accordance with the Act and the rules made thereunder, he shall record his approval on the list in Z.A. Form 57-B and return the papers to the Land Management Committee within a week of its receipt from the Chairman with the direction that the possession may be delivered to the lessees and the report of mutation be submitted to the Supervisor Kanungo by the Lekhpal immediately after delivery of possession.

(5) If the Assistant Collector in-charge of the Sub-Division finds that the whole or part of the decision taken by the Committee is not in accordance with the provisions of the Act and Rules, he shall record his disapproval on the list in Z.A. Form 57-B and return the papers to the Chairman."

21. The Assistant Collector, on receipt of the documents, was required to scrutinize the decision taken by the Land Management Committee and upon being satisfied that the decision of the Committee was in accordance with the Act and the Rules made thereunder, he was required to record his approval. In the event, the Assistant Collector found that the decision taken by the Committee was not in accordance with the provisions of the Act and the Rules, he was to record his disapproval and return the papers.

22. It would therefore be seen that as per terms of Rule 176 the documents in respect of the proceedings undertaken by the Land Management Committee for grant of admission to land under Section 195, were required to be submitted whereupon the Assistant Collector was required to scrutinize the decision taken by the Committee and to record his approval or disapproval thereon, depending on whether he was satisfied or not that the decision taken by the Committee was in accordance with the Act and the Rules made thereunder.

23. A conjoint reading of the provisions under Section 195 read with Rule 176 would demonstrate that it was the Assistant Collector in charge of the sub-division who was vested with the discretion to approve or to disapprove the proposal submitted by the Land Management Committee after duly scrutinizing the same.

24. In the present case on a complaint received with regard to the allotments the matter was inquired into and the inquiry report submitted by the Additional Collector indicated that consequent to the amendment made by U.P. Act No. 27 of 2004, effective from 23.08.2004, the power to grant approval was with the Assistant Collector and accordingly the approval granted by the Tehsildar on 25.10.2004 was without jurisdiction. The District Magistrate, upon taking into consideration the fact that the eligibility list was not in the order of preference as per Section 198 and that the approval granted by the Tehsildar on 25.10.2004 was without jurisdiction, passed the order dated 12.01.2005 cancelling the approval granted by the Tehsildar and directing the land to be vested with the Gaon Sabha.

25. In terms of the amendment made to Section 195 by U.P. Act No. 27 of 2004 (effective from 23.08.2004), the Assistant Collector in charge of the sub-division was empowered to grant approval to the proposal submitted by the Land Management Committee for admission of land under Section 195. Accordingly, the approval granted by the Tehsildar on 25.10.2004, i.e. on a date subsequent to 23.08.2004, when the amendment had become effective, the order of approval by the Tehsildar, was clearly beyond jurisdiction.

26. The revision filed thereagainst has been rejected for the same reason that the approval was contrary to the provisions contained under Section 195 (1) and also taking into notice the amendment made to Section 195 (1). The restoration application having been filed with a delay of more than six years, the Board of Revenue held the reason for the delay to be insufficient and the grounds taken in the revision were found to be untenable; accordingly, the restoration application was also rejected.

27. It is well settled that where an authority takes upon itself to exercise a jurisdiction it does not possess the order passed would amount to 'nothing' — a nullity. The concept of voidness and nullity has been explained in de Smith's Judicial Review of Administrative Action,2 while considering whether an order or decision is ultra vires or outside jurisdiction, in the following terms :-

"Void acts and decisions are indeed usually destitute of legal effect; they can be ignored with impunity; their validity can be attacked, if necessary, in collateral (or indirect) proceedings; they confer no legal rights on anybody."

28. It needs to be reiterated that conferment of jurisdiction is a legislative function and if an order is passed by an authority having no jurisdiction in the matter, it would be invalid and would amount to nullity. The order made without jurisdiction would be unenforceable and inexecutable and would be devoid of any legal effect.

29. The defect of jurisdiction strikes at the very root of the matter and the order of approval granted by the Tehsildar being a nullity would be non-est and not enforceable. The order passed by the Collector cancelling the approval granted by the Tehsildar, which was beyond jurisdiction, therefore cannot be faulted with. The order passed by the Board of Revenue rejecting the revision and the restoration application, also cannot be said to suffer from any illegality so as to warrant interference.

30. As regards the contention sought to be raised on behalf of the petitioners that the procedure under sub-section (4) of Section 198 for cancellation of the allotment was not followed, it may only be stated that the order of the Tahsildar granting approval being without jurisdiction, the same was a nullity and would have no effect. The District Magistrate upon receiving a complaint and after getting the matter inquired has rightly held that since the Tahsildar was not empowered to grant approval on the said date in view of the amendment made to Section 195 the order of approval was beyond jurisdiction and accordingly the same was cancelled. It would be pertinent to underscore the distinction between cancellation of an order of approval on the ground that the same was without jurisdiction, and cancellation of an order of allotment on account of an irregularity which would require the procedure under sub-section (4) of Section 198 to be followed.

31. No other ground was urged.

32. In view of the above, the Court finds no material error or illegality in the orders impugned so as to persuade this Court to exercise extra ordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

33. The petition stands dismissed accordingly.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Anup Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri

J.P.N. Raj, learned Additional Chief respondents, Sri Deena Nath, holding brief of Sri Jamwant Maurya, learned counsel for the respondent nos. 3, 4 and 5 and Sri Krishna Kant Singh, learned counsel appearing for the respondent no.6.

2. The present petition has been filed seeking to raise a challenge to the order dated 10.08.2021 passed by the Board of Revenue, U.P. at Allahabad in Case No. Rev/06/2008-2009, Computerized Case No. AL2008183499956, under Section 333 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 19501 as well as order dated 22.11.2021 passed in Case No. Rec/1828/2021, Computerized Case No.AL20211834001828 under Section 333 of the Act.

3. It is pointed out that consequent to the death of the sole revisionist on 26.10.2011, a substitution application dated 23.11.2015 was moved on behalf of the petitioners i.e. legal heirs and representatives of the deceased-revisionist along with an application seeking condonation of delay. The said application was rejected by means of an order dated 10.08.2021 assigning the reason that the substitution application had been filed with a delay and that steps had not been taken for issuance of notice pursuant to an order passed with regard to the same.

4. It is further pointed out that a recall application against the aforestated order was moved by the petitioners wherein it was submitted that the applicants i.e. legal heirs and representatives of the deceased-revisionist were already represented by their counsel whose vakalatnama was on record and the contesting respondent nos. 1 and 3 were also represented through their counsel whose vakalatnama was also on Standing Counsel appearing for the State-record. The recall application was also dismissed by the Board of Revenue in terms of an order dated 22.11.2021 reiterating the reasons that the substitution application was filed with delay and that steps were not taken for issuance of notice pursuant to the order passed in regard to the same.

5. On the point of delay in filing the substitution application, learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that the reasons for the same were fully explained in the affidavit filed in support of the delay condonation application. It is pointed out that the affidavit contained a clear assertion that the applicants were not aware with regard to the pendency of the said case as the pairvi of the revision was being done by their father, Sobaran Singh. It was further averred that the applicants became aware of the pendency of the revision for the first time in the year 2015 upon receiving a communication from the counsel, which was addressed in the name of Sobaran Singh, their deceased father, and soon thereafter they sought legal advice and filed the substitution application along with an application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963 seeking condonation of delay.

6. It is accordingly submitted that the delay in filing the restoration application having been sufficiently explained and there being no want of bonafides on the part of the petitioners, the Court ought to have adopted a liberal approach and granted condonation of delay.

7. The manner of exercising discretion in matters relating to condonation of delay is fairly well settled and it has been consistently held that while exercising discretion in such matters, the words "sufficient cause" under Section 5 of The Limitation Act, 1963, should be construed in a liberal manner and in the absence of anything showing malafide or deliberate delay as dilatory tactics, the Court should normally condone the delay.

8. The manner of exercising discretion by Courts in matters relating to condonation of delay was subject matter of consideration in N. Balakrishnan Vs. M. Krishnamurthy2 wherein it was observed as under -:

"9. It is axiomatic that condonation of delay is a matter of discretion of the court. Section 5 of the Limitation Act does not say that such discretion can be exercised only if the delay is within a certain limit. Length of delay is no matter, acceptability of the explanation is the only criterion. Sometimes delay of the shortest range may be uncondonable due to a want of acceptable explanation whereas in certain other cases, delay of a very long range can be condoned as the explanation thereof is satisfactory. Once the court accepts the explanation as sufficient, it is the result of positive exercise of discretion and normally the superior court should not disturb such finding, much less in revisional jurisdiction, unless the exercise of discretion was on wholly untenable grounds or arbitrary or perverse. But it is a different matter when the first court refuses to condone the delay. In such cases, the superior court would be free to consider the cause shown for the delay afresh and it is open to such superior court to come to its own finding even untrammelled by the conclusion of the lower court.

10. The reason for such a different stance is thus:

The primary function of a court is to adjudicate the dispute between the parties and to advance substantial justice. The time-limit fixed for approaching the court in different situations is not because on the expiry of such time a bad cause would transform into a good cause.

11. Rules of limitation are not meant to destroy the rights of parties. They are meant to see that parties do not resort to dilatory tactics, but seek their remedy promptly. The object of providing a legal remedy is to repair the damage caused by reason of legal injury. The law of limitation fixes a lifespan for such legal remedy for the redress of the legal injury so suffered. Time is precious and wasted time would never revisit. During the efflux of time, newer causes would sprout up necessitating newer persons to seek legal remedy by approaching the courts. So a lifespan must be fixed for each remedy. Unending period for launching the remedy may lead to unending uncertainty and consequential anarchy. The law of limitation is thus founded on public policy. It is enshrined in the maxim interest reipublicae up sit finis litium (it is for the general welfare that a period be put to litigation). Rules of limitation are not meant to destroy the rights of the parties. They are meant to see that parties do not resort to dilatory tactics but seek their remedy promptly. The idea is that every legal remedy must be kept alive for a legislatively fixed period of time.

12. A court knows that refusal to condone delay would result in foreclosing a suitor from putting forth his cause. There is no presumption that delay in approaching the court is always deliberate. This Court has held that the words "sufficient cause" under Section 5 of the Limitation Act should receive a liberal construction so as to advance substantial justice vide Shakuntala Devi Jain v. Kuntal Kumari, AIR 1969 SC 575 and State of W.B. v. Administrator, Howrah Municipality, (1972) 1 SCC 366 ."

9. The question as to what would be held to be "sufficient cause" while considering an application seeking condonation of delay again came up for consideration in the case of Esha Bhattacharjee vs. Managing Committee of Raghunathpur Nafar Academy and others3, wherein upon considering the obligation of the Court while dealing with an application for condonation of delay and the approach to be adopted while considering the grounds for condonation, the principles to be applied were summarized. The observations made in the judgment in this regard are as follows -:

"21. From the aforesaid authorities the principles that can broadly be culled out are:

21.1. (i) There should be a liberal, pragmatic, justice-oriented, non-pedantic approach while dealing with an application for condonation of delay, for the courts are not supposed to legalise injustice but are obliged to remove injustice.

21.2. (ii) The terms "sufficient cause" should be understood in their proper spirit, philosophy and purpose regard being had to the fact that these terms are basically elastic and are to be applied in proper perspective to the obtaining fact-situation.

21.3. (iii) Substantial justice being paramount and pivotal the technical considerations should not be given undue and uncalled for emphasis.

21.4. (iv) No presumption can be attached to deliberate causation of delay but, gross negligence on the part of the counsel or litigant is to be taken note of.

21.5. (v) Lack of bona fides imputable to a party seeking condonation of delay is a significant and relevant fact.

21.6. (vi) It is to be kept in mind that adherence to strict proof should not affect public justice and cause public mischief because the courts are required to be vigilant so that in the ultimate eventuate there is no real failure of justice.

21.7. (vii) The concept of liberal approach has to encapsulate the conception of reasonableness and it cannot be allowed a totally unfettered free play.

21.8. (viii) There is a distinction between inordinate delay and a delay of short duration or few days, for to the former doctrine of prejudice is attracted whereas to the latter it may not be attracted. That apart, the first one warrants strict approach whereas the second calls for a liberal delineation.

21.9. (ix) The conduct, behaviour and attitude of a party relating to its inaction or negligence are relevant factors to be taken into consideration. It is so as the fundamental principle is that the courts are required to weigh the scale of balance of justice in respect of both parties and the said principle cannot be given a total go by in the name of liberal approach.

21.10. (x) If the explanation offered is concocted or the grounds urged in the application are fanciful, the courts should be vigilant not to expose the other side unnecessarily to face such a litigation.

21.11. (xi) It is to be borne in mind that no one gets away with fraud, misrepresentation or interpolation by taking recourse to the technicalities of law of limitation.

21.12. (xii) The entire gamut of facts are to be carefully scrutinised and the approach should be based on the paradigm of judicial discretion which is founded on objective reasoning and not on individual perception.

21.13. (xiii) The State or a public body or an entity representing a collective cause should be given some acceptable latitude."

10. Applying the aforesaid principles to the facts of the present case, it would be seen that the affidavit filed in support of application seeking condonation of delay spelt out the reasons for the delay in filing the substitution application and the reasons specified in that regard could not be held to be insufficient and no want of bonafides could have been imputed to the petitioners.

11. The order dated 10.08.2021 passed by the respondent No.2 does not assign any cogent reason which may have persuaded the Court not to accept the explanation furnished by the petitioners and to reject the application seeking condonation of delay and consequently to dismiss the revision as having been abated.

12. The subsequent order dated 22.11.2021 on the recall application also does not accord any consideration to the reasons which were furnished by the petitioners in support of the delay condonation application.

13. On the question with regard to taking steps pursuant to the order directing issuance of notice, it has been pointed out that the applicants i.e. legal heirs and representatives of the deceased-revisionist were already represented through their counsel and the vakalatnama of their counsel was on record. The contesting respondents were also represented through their counsel whose vakalatnama was also on record. The recall application was also dismissed by the Board of Revenue in terms of an order dated 22.11.2021 reiterating the reasons that the substitution application was filed with delay and that steps were not taken for issuance of notice pursuant to the order passed in regard to the same.

14. It is urged on behalf of the petitioners that the rejection of the revision on the ground of not taking steps is based on hyper technical reasoning and would be legally unsustainable.

15. In this regard, this Court may reiterate the proposition that rules of procedure are the handmaid of the justice and no party should ordinarily be denied the opportunity of participating in the process of justice dispensation. It would be apt to refer to the observations made in The State of Punjab and another Vs. Shamlal Murari and another4, wherein it was observed as follows :-

"...processual law is not to be a tyrant but a servant, not an obstruction but an aid to justice. It has been wisely observed that procedural prescriptions are the handmaid and not the mistress, a lubricant, not a resistant in the administration of justice..if the breach can be corrected without injury to a just disposal of the case, we should not enthrone a regulatory requirement into a dominant desideratum..."

16. Learned counsel appearing for the respondents has not disputed the fact that in matters relating to condonation of delay the court has to adopt a liberal approach and in a case where the delay has been sufficiently explained by giving adequate reasons the application ought not to be rejected on some hyper technical reasoning. Learned counsel also does not dispute that once the parties were duly represented through their counsel the revision ought not to have been dismissed for not taking steps for issuance of notice.

17. Having regard to the aforestated facts and circumstances and looking to the interest of justice, the impugned orders dated 10.08.2021 and 22.11.2021 are set aside and the matter is remitted to the Board of Revenue, U.P. at Allahabad for passing of a fresh order after granting due opportunity to the parties concerned.

18. The writ petition stands allowed in the manner as indicated above.

19. The original records received from the Board of Revenue, U.P. at Allahabad, through the Standing Counsel appearing for the State respondents, shall be returned forthwith.

3. It has been admitted by the learned counsel for the parties before us that the impugned notice under Section 148 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act, 1961') for the assessment year 2014-15 was issued by the respondent no. 3 to the petitioner on 1.4.2021. The "reasons to believe" recorded by the respondent no. 3 for issuing the impugned notice, is as under:

"I have reason to believe that an income to the tune of Rs. 2,63,324/- has escaped assessment for the aforesaid year".

4. The re-assessment order dated 31.3.2022 has been passed by the respondent no. 4 i.e. National Faceless Assessment Centre, Delhi under Section 147 read with 144B of the Act, 1961.

5. Shri S.P. Singh, learned Additional Solicitor General of India has placed before us a copy of the two Judges Bench judgement of Hon'ble Supreme Court under Article 142 of the Constitution of India in Civil Appeal No. 3005 of 2022 (Union of India and others Vs. Ashish Agarwal) decided on 4.5.2022 and reported in 2022 SCC OnLine SC 543 and submits that the notices issued after 1.4.2021 under Section 148 of the Act, 1961 are liable to be treated as notices under Section 148A of the Act, 1961 as substituted by the Finance Act, 2021. He draws out attention to paragraph 27 of the aforesaid judgement. He placed before us copy of Instruction being F.No 279/Misc./M-51/2022-ITJ, Ministry of Finance, Department of Revenue, Central Board of Direct Taxes, ITJ Section dated 11.5.2022, invited our attention to paragraph 7.1 of the aforesaid Instruction and stated that the notices under Section 148 relating to assessment years 2013-14, 2014-15 and 2015-16 shall not attract the judgement of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ashish Agarwal (supra). Lastly, Shri S.P. Singh submits that since the notice has been issued on 1.4.2021 for the assessment year 2014-15, therefore, it shall be covered by a Division Bench's judgement of this Court in the case of Daujee Abhushan Bhandar Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Union of India and 2 others (Writ Tax No. 78 of 2022) decided on 10.3.2022.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner draws our attention to paragraphs 23 and 25 of the judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ashish Agarwal (supra) and submits that the impugned notice under Section 148 of the Act, 1961 issued by the respondent no. 3 is wholly without jurisdiction inasmuch as jurisdiction cannot be assumed after expiry of the period of limitation. He further submits that conferment of jurisdiction is essentially an act of legislature and the jurisdiction cannot be conferred by any circular or even by orders of Court. He submits that even under the amended provisions, which has no application on facts of the present case, impugned notice under Section 148 of the Act, 1961 would be without jurisdiction and barred by limitation inasmuch as for the assessment year 2014-15, the limitation under the amended provisions of Section 148A and 149 of the Act, 1961 had expired on 31.3.2018 inasmuch as the allegation of evaded income is Rs. 2,63,324/- which has been provided to be read as Rs. 26,33,324/- by notice dated 17.3.2022 under Section 142(1) of the Act, 1961, which is much below Rs. 50 Lacs.

7. We have carefully considered the submissions of the learned counsels for the parties and perused the record of the writ petition, the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ashish Agarwal (supra) and Circular F.No 279/Misc./M-51/2022-ITJ, dated 11.05.2022 issued by the Ministry of Finance, Department of Revenue, Central Board of Direct Taxes, ITJ Section, New Delhi. Section 147 of the Act, 1961 as it existed till 31.03.2021, empowers the Assessing Officer to assess or reassess or recompute the loss or depreciation allowance or any other allowance, as the case may be, for the concerned assessment year in the case of an assessee if he has reason to believe that income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment, subject to the provisions of Sections 148 to 153. A pre-condition to initiate proceedings under Section 147 is the issuance of notice under Section 148. Thus, notice under Section 148 is jurisdictional notice. Section 149 provides time limit for issuance of notice under Section 148. The time limit is provided under the unamended provisions (existed till 31.03.2021) and the amended provisions (effective from 01.04.2021) as amended by the Finance Act, 2021. Unamended Section 149 and Amended Section 149 are reproduced below:

8. In the case of Ashish Agarwal (supra), Hon'ble Supreme Court held in Paras 23, 25 and 27, as under:-

"23.However, at the same time, the judgments of the several High Courts would result in no reassessment proceedings at all, even if the same are permissible under the Finance Act, 2021 and as per substituted sections 147 to 151 of the IT Act. The Revenue cannot be made remediless and the object and purpose of reassessment proceedings cannot be frustrated. It is true that due to a bonafide mistake and in view of subsequent extension of time vide various notifications, the Revenue issued the impugned notices under section 148 after the amendment was enforced w.e.f. 01.04.2021, under the unamended section 148. In our view the same ought not to have been issued under the unamended Act and ought to have been issued under the substituted provisions of sections 147 to 151 of the IT Act as per the Finance Act, 2021. There appears to be genuine non-application of the amendments as the officers of the Revenue may have been under a bonafide belief that the amendments may not yet have been enforced. Therefore, we are of the opinion that some leeway must be shown in that regard which the High Courts could have done so. Therefore, instead of quashing and setting aside the reassessment notices issued under the unamended provision of IT Act, the High Courts ought to have passed an order construing the notices issued under unamended Act/unamended provision of the IT Act as those deemed to have been issued under section 148A of the IT Act as per the new provision section 148A and the Revenue ought to have been permitted to proceed further with the reassessment proceedings as per the substituted provisions of sections 147 to 151 of the IT Act as per the Finance Act, 2021, subject to compliance of all the procedural requirements and the defences, which may be available to the assessee under the substituted provisions of sections 147 to 151 of the IT Act and which may be available under the Finance Act, 2021 and in law*. Therefore, we propose to modify the judgments and orders passed by the respective High Courts as under:*

(i) The respective impugned section 148 notices issued to the respective assessees shall be deemed to have been issued under section 148A of the IT Act as substituted by the Finance Act, 2021 and treated to be show-cause notices in terms of section 148A(b). The respective assessing officers shall within thirty days from today provide to the assessees the information and material relied upon by the Revenue so that the assessees can reply to the notices within two weeks thereafter;

(ii) The requirement of conducting any enquiry with the prior approval of the specified authority under section 148A(a) be dispensed with as a one-time measure vis-a-vis those notices which have been issued under Section 148 of the unamended Act from 01.04.2021 till date, including those which have been quashed by the High Courts;

(iii) The assessing officers shall thereafter pass an order in terms of section 148A(d) after following the due procedure as required under section 148A(b) in respect of each of the concerned assessees;

(iv) All the defences which may be available to the assessee under section 149 and/or which may be available under the Finance Act, 2021 and in law and whatever rights are available to the Assessing Officer under the Finance Act, 2021 are kept open and/or shall continue to be available and;

(v) The present order shall substitute/modify respective judgments and orders passed by the respective High Courts quashing the similar notices issued under unamended section 148 of the IT Act irrespective of whether they have been assailed before this Court or not.

25. Therefore, we have proposed to pass the present order with a view avoiding filing of further appeals before this Court and burden this Court with approximately 9000 appeals against the similar judgments and orders passed by the various High Courts, the particulars of some of which are referred to hereinabove. We have also proposed to pass the aforesaid order in exercise of our powers under Article 142 of the Constitution of India by holding that the present order shall govern, not only the impugned judgments and orders passed by the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad, but shall also be made applicable in respect of the similar judgments and orders passed by various High Courts across the country and therefore the present order shall be applicable to PAN INDIA.

27. The present order shall be applicable PAN INDIA and all judgments and orders passed by different High Courts on the issue and under which similar notices which were issued after 01.04.2021 issued under section 148 of the Act are set aside and shall be governed by the present order and shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The present order is passed in exercise of powers under Article 142 of the Constitution of India so as to avoid any further appeals by the Revenue on the very issue by challenging similar judgments and orders, with a view not to burden this Court with approximately 9000 appeals. We also observe that present order shall also govern the pending writ petitions, pending before various High Courts in which similar notices under Section 148 of the Act issued after 01.04.2021 are under challenge."

9. The judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court under Article 142 of the Constitution of India, in the case of Ashish Agarwal (supra) has been explained for implementation/ clarified by Instruction No.01/2022 being F.No 279/Misc./M-51/2022-ITJ, dated 11.05.2022 issued by the Ministry of Finance, Department of Revenue, Central Board of Direct Taxes, ITJ Section, New Delhi, in exercise of powers under Section 119 of the Act, 1961, which is reproduced below:-

F. No 279/Misc./M-51/2022-ITJ

New Delhi, Dated: 11th May, 2022

Subject: Implementation of the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court dated 04.05.2022 (2022 SCC Online SC 543) (Union of India v. Ashish Agarwal) -- Instruction regarding

1. Hon'ble Supreme Court, vide its judgment dated 04.05.2022 (2022 SCC Online SC 543), in the case of Union of India v. Ashish Agarwal has adjudicated on the validity of the issue of reassessment notices issued by the Assessing Officers during the period beginning on 1st April, 2021 and ending with 30th June 2021,within the time extended by the Taxation and Other Laws (Relaxation and Amendment of Certain Provisions) Act, 2020 [hereinafter referred to as "TOLA"] and various notifications issued thereunder (these reassessment notices hereinafter referred to as "extended reassessment notices").

2. These extended reassessment notices were issued by the Assessing Officers under the provision of section 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act") following the procedure prescribed under various sections pertaining to reassessment namely sections 147 to 151, as they existed prior to their amendment by the Finance Act, 2021 (hereinafter referred to as "old law"). With effect from l April 2021, the old law has been substituted with new sections 147-151 (hereinafter referred to as the "new law").

3. Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that these extended reassessment notices issued under the old law shall be deemed to be the show cause notices issued under clause (b) of section 148A of the new law and has directed Assessing Officers to follow the procedure with respect to such notices. It has also held that all the defences available to assessees under section 149 of the new law and whatever rights are available to the Assessing Officer under the new law shall continue to be available. Hon'ble Supreme Court has passed this order in exercise of its power under Article 142 of the Constitution of India.

4. The implementation of the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court is required to be done in a uniform manner. Accordingly, in exercise of its power under section 119 of the Act, the Central Board of Direct Taxes (hereinafter referred to as "the Board") directs that the following may be taken into consideration while implementing this judgment.

5.0 Scope of the judgment:

5.1 Taking into account the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in various paragraphs, it is clarified that the judgment applies to all cases where extended reassessment notices have been issued. This is irrespective of the fact whether such notices have been challenged or not.

6.0 Operation of the new section 149 of the Act to identify cases where fresh notice under section 148 of the Act can be issued:

6.1 With respect of operation of new section 149 of the Act, the following may be seen:

- Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the new law shall operate and all the defences available to assessees under section 149 of the new law and whatever rights are available to the Assessing Officer under the new law shall continue to be available.

- Sub-section (I) of new section 149 of the Act as amended by the Finance Act, 2021 (before its amendment by the Finance Act, 2022) reads as under:-

149. (1) No notice under section 148 shall be issued for the relevant assessment year,--*

(a) if three years have elapsed from the end of the relevant assessment year, unless the case falls under clause (b):

(b) if three years, but not more than ten years, have elapsed from the end of the relevant assessment year unless the Assessing 0fficer has in his possession books of account or other documents or evidence which reveal that the income chargeable to tax, represented in the form of asset, which has escaped assessment amounts to or is likely to amount to fifty lakh rupees or more for that year:

Provided that no notice under section 148 shall be issued at any time in a case for the relevant assessment year beginning on or before 1st day of April, 2021, if such notice could not have been issued at that time on account of being beyond the time limit specified under the provisions of clause (b) of sub-section (1) of this section, as they stood immediately before the commencement of the Finance Act, 2021:

- Hon'ble Supreme Court has upheld the views of High Courts that the benefit of new law shall be made available even in respect of proceedings relating to past assessment years. Decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court read with the time extension provided by TOLA will allow extended reassessment notices to travel back in time to their original date when such notices were to be issued and then new section 149 of the Act is to be applied at that point.

6.2 Based on above, the extended reassessment notices are to be dealt with as under:

(i) AY 2013-14, AY 2014-15 and AY 2015-16: Fresh notice under section 148 of the Act can be issued in these cases, with the approval of the specified authority, only if the case falls under clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 149 as amended by the Finance Act, 2021 and reproduced in paragraph 6.1 above. Specified authority under section 151 of the new law in this case shall be the authority prescribed under clause (ii) of that section.*

(ii) AY 16-17, AY 17-18: Fresh notice under section 148 can be issued in these cases, with the approval of the specified authority, under clause (a) of sub-section (1) of new section 149 of the Act, since they are within the period of three years from the end of the relevant assessment year. Specified authority under section 151 of the new law in this case shall be the authority prescribed under clause (i) of that section.*

7.0 Cases where the Assessing Officer is required to provide the information and material relied upon within 30 days:

7.1 Hon'ble Supreme Court has directed that information and material is required to be provided in all cases within 30 days. However, it has also been noticed that notices cannot be issued in a case for AY 2013-14, AY 2014-15 and AY 2015-16, if the income escaping assessment, in that case for that year, amounts to or is likely to amount to less than fifty lakh rupees. Hence, in order to reduce the compliance burden of assessees, it is clarified that information and material may not be provided in a case for AY 2013-14, AY 2014-15 and AY 2015-16, if the income escaping assessment, in that case for that year, amounts to or is likely to amount to less than fifty lakh rupees. Separate instruction shall be issued regarding procedure for disposing these cases.

8.0 Procedure required to be followed by the Assessing Officers to comply with the Supreme Court judgment:

8.1 The procedure required to be followed by the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer/Assessing Officer, in compliance with the order of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, is as under:

- The extended reassessment notices are deemed to be show cause notices under clause (b) of 148A of the Act in accordance with the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court. Therefore, all requirement of new law prior to that show cause notice shall be deemed to have been complied with.

- The Assessing Officer shall exclude cases as per clarification in paragraph 7.1 above.

- Within 30 days i.e. by 2nd June 2022, the Assessing Officer shall provide to the assessees, in remaining cases, the information and material relied upon for issuance of extended reassessment notices.

- The assessee has two weeks to reply as to why a notice under section 148 of the Act should not be issued, on the basis of information which suggests that income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment in his case for the relevant assessment year. The time period of two weeks shall be counted from the date of last communication of information and material by the Assessing Officer to the assessee.

- In view of the observation of Hon'ble Supreme Court that all the defences of the new law are available to the assessee, if assessee makes a request by making an application that more time be given to him to file reply to the show cause notice, then such a request shall be considered by the Assessing Officer on merit and time may be extended by the Assessing Officer as provided in clause (b) of new section 148A of the Act.

- After receiving the reply, the Assessing Officer shall decide on the basis of material available on record including reply of the assessee, whether or not it is a fit case to issue a notice under section 148 of the Act. The Assessing Officer is required to pass an order under clause (d) of section 148A of the Act to that effect, with the prior approval of the specified authority of the new law. This order is required to be passed within one month from the end of the month in which the reply is received by him from the assessee. In case no such reply is furnished by the assessee, then the order is required to be passed within one month from the end of the month in which time or extended time allowed to furnish a reply expires. If it is a fit case to issue a notice under section 148 of the Act, the Assessing Officer shall serve on the assessee a notice under section 148 after obtaining the approval of the specified authority under section 151 of the new law. The copy of the order passed under clause (d) of section 148A of the Act shall also be served with the notice u/s 148.

- If it is not a fit case to issue a notice under section 148 of the Act, the order passed under clause (d) of section 148A to that effect shall be served on the assessee.

10. Learned Additional Solicitor General of India has made a statement before us, as noted in paragraph-5 above, that as per Clause-7.1 of the Board's circular dated 11.05.2022, the notices under Section 148 relating to the Assessment Years 2013-14, 2014-15 and 2015-16, shall not attract the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ashish Agarwal (supra) and the impugned notice under Section 148 issued on 01.04.2021 for the Assessment Year 2014-15 is, therefore, clearly barred by limitation and consequently without jurisdiction. Therefore, in view of the admission made by the learned Additional Solicitor General on behalf of the respondents, we do not propose to deal with the other arguments of learned counsel for the petitioner as noted in paragraph-6 above and thus all other questions including the question of conferment of jurisdiction etc., are left open.

11. As per Clauses 6.2 and 7.1 of the Board's Circular dated 11.05.2022, if a case

12. For all the reasons aforestated, the impugned notice under Section 148 of the Act, 1961 issued on 01.04.2021 for the Assessment Year 2014-15 and the impugned notice dated 13.01.2022 under Section 144 of the Act, 1961 and the reassessment order dated 13.01.2022 under Section 147 read with Section 144B of the Act, 1961 for the Assessment Year 2014-15 passed by the respondent No.4 are hereby quashed. The writ petition is allowed.

(A) Tax Law - The Uttar Pradesh Excise Act, 1910 - Sections 2, 3, 11, 12, 13, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 22, 28 & 40 - The U.P. Excise Manual - paragraph Nos. 605, 608, 609, 610, 613, 615(5), 617(3), 814 - ''import', ''importer' and ''imported' - The Customs Act , 1962 - Section 45, 46, 47, 49, 57, 58, 59, 68 , Indian Stamp Act, 1899 - 'bond' - for the purpose of levy of Consideration fee/''Pratiphal Shulk', on excess transportation loss of HSMS, the applicable law for computation of that regulatory fee would remain the laws of the State of Uttar Pradesh, only - Consideration fee/''Pratipahal Shulk' would be imposed in accordance with the rates prescribed in the State of Uttar Pradesh and not any other State - statutory authorities must act within the confines of the law. (Para - 71)

Consideration Fee/'Pratiphal Shulk' - imposed on petitioner - alleged - excess loss of High Strength Malt Spirit (HSMS) - against two transactions - order confirmed in appeal - remedy of revision - filed directly before this Court - plea of lack of jurisdiction - entire quantities of HSMS subjected to Consideration Fee*/Pratiphal Shulk'* - imported into the country - said goods fell outside the scope of levy of Excise duty by State of U.P. - State revenue authorities to impose Consideration fee/'Pratiphal Shulk', against alleged loss of revenue on foreign liquor - springing from excess loss of the commodity HSMS - during its transportation from a bonded warehouse at I.C.D. Dadri, Gautam Budh Nagar - to petitioner's distillery at Modi Nagar - whether permissible.(Para -2,3,39)

HELD:-Consideration fee/''Pratiphal Shulk' may be levied on excess loss of HSMS, whether imported from outside the country or procured from another State of India. Injunction sought against that levy, by looking at the provision of law providing for levy of Consideration fee/''Pratiphal Shulk' on excess loss of HSMS when transported within the State, from a distillery inside the State of Uttar Pradesh, is misconceived and inapplicable. Petitioner bound to compensate loss to revenue arising from excessive loss of HSMS during transportation, inside the State of Uttar Pradesh, at rates prescribed under amended Paragraph 814 of the Manual.(Para - 60)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saumitra Dayal Singh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rajat Bose along with Sri Pratik J. Nagar & Sri Atulya Kishore, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Manish Goyal, learned Additional Advocate General along with Sri A.K. Goyal, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel and Sri Jagdish Mishra, learned Standing Counsel, for the State respondents.

2. Present petition has been filed against the orders dated 08.07.2019 and 25.01.2021. By order dated 08.07.2019, passed by respondent no.3/Deputy Commissioner, Excise, Meerut Region, Meerut, Consideration Fee/'Pratiphal Shulk' Rs. 15,51,042.50 has been imposed on the petitioner, on alleged excess loss of High Strength Malt Spirit (hereinafter referred to as the HSMS), against two transactions. That order has been confirmed in appeal, vide order dated 27.01.2021, passed by the Excise Commissioner.

3. Admittedly, the petitioner has a remedy of revision against the order dated 27.01.2021, under Section 11 of the Uttar Pradesh Excise Act, 1910 (hereinafter referred to as the Act). However, the present petition was filed directly before this Court, on the plea of lack of jurisdiction. Thus, it has been submitted, the entire quantities of HSMS subjected to Consideration Fee*/Pratiphal Shulk*' had been imported into the country from M/s William Grant & Sons Distillers Limited, Giravan Distillery, Grangestone Industrial Estate, Girvan, Scotland, United Kingdom (hereinafter referred to as William Grant). Therefore, the said goods fell outside the scope of levy of Excise duty by the State of U.P. Accordingly, the matter was entertained, and Counter Affidavit called. Pleadings are complete. The matter was thus heard. Here, it may be noted, the plea of alternative remedy has not been urged at the stage of final hearing. The State has also sought a decision on merits.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner states, the petitioner is a duly incorporated company having its distillery at Modi Nagar, Ghaziabad. It first imported into the country, 24,400 Bulk litres of HSMS from William Grant, against Bill of Entry BE

No. 7590551 dated 10.08.2018. Those goods entered the country through a seaport, in the State of Gujarat. They were then transshipped to I.C.D., Dadri during that import. At Dadri, those goods were imported into the country and cleared for home consumption against payment of Custom Duty @ 150% of the value of goods. As per the Certificate of Analysis, Goods Note, Certificate of Origin and Age Certificate, issued by the Custom Authorities in the United Kingdom, HSMS thus imported were having alcoholic strength, 68%. Thereafter, the petitioner applied for permission to "import'/"transport' those 24,400 Bulk litres of HSMS from I.C.D., Dadri, to its distillery at Modi Nagar, Ghaziabad. That permission was granted vide order dated 21.08.2018, under the Act and Rules framed thereunder. Perusal of that order reveals, the permission was granted on Form FL-22 [under Paras 609, 615(5) & 617(3) of the Excise Manual] against payment of Import fee @ Rs. 4/- bulk litre. No amount of Excise duty was prepaid, yet the petitioner was allowed to transport the goods, against bond [under Para 610(c) of the Excise Manual]. That consignment was dispatched from the I.C.D., Dadri, in a sealed tanker bearing registration No. HR-55-AI-2419. It reached the petitioner's distillery at Modi Nagar, Ghaziabad, on 2.9.2018. At that stage, the HSMS thus imported was measured, having alcoholic strength 66.21% v/v.

5. Thus, against 24,400 Bulk litres of HSMS of strength 68% v/v dispatched, only 24,346 Bulk litres of HSMS, of strength 66.2% v/v, were received at the petitioner's distillery. Thus, against allowable transit loss of 82.96 Alcoholic litres, 474.9 Alcoholic litres were found short. Thus, 391.94 Alcoholic litres or 915.75 Bulk litres excess loss was found. Arising from the aforesaid discrepancy, demand notice dated 05.09.2018 was issued to hold the petitioner liable to pay Consideration Fee/"Pratiphal Shulk' (on excess transit loss), Rs. 10,91,879.25. The petitioner submitted its reply on 11.10.2018. It objected to the applicability of Rule 5 of Rules relating to Issue of Spirit from Distilleries Working in Private Premises or in Premises Owned by the State Government Rules (hereinafter referred to as the Distillery Rules). According to the petitioner, the said Rule would apply only in case of transportation of such goods from a distillery and not in case of goods dispatched to a distillery.

6. Similarly, in the second transaction, the petitioner sought to import 24596 Bulk litres of HSMS from William Grant. Similar procedures were followed, and similar communications were issued leading to similar result. In that case, against 24596 Bulk litres of HSMS of strength 67.6% v/v, measured by the Custom Authorities of United Kingdom, upon receipt at the petitioner's distillery, the same were found to be 24593 Bulk litres of HSMS of 66.6% strength. Against allowable transit loss 164.82 Alcoholic litres, loss suffered was found to be 248 Alcoholic litres. Thus, 164.82 Alcoholic litres or 385.10 Bulk litres excess loss was found. On 22.09.2018, a second demand notice no.484 was issued demanding Consideration Fee/excise duty/"Pratiphal Shulk' Rs.4,59,385.20. The petitioner filed its reply dated 11.10.2018, to that notice.

7. Thereafter, the date of personal hearing was fixed for 08.05.2019. On 08.07.2019, a common order was passed confirming the demand of Consideration Fee/"Pratiphal Shulk', on excess transit loss at Rs.15,51,042.50, on both transactions

8. Against that common order, the petitioner filed appeal no.57 of 2019 under Section 11(1) of the Act. It was dismissed by order dated 27.01.2021. Further, by a separate letter dated 27.01.2021, the petitioner was required to deposit the disputed demand. However, within three days therefrom, on 05.02.2021, the entire disputed demand of Consideration Fee/"Pratiphal Shulk' was recovered, much before expiry of normal period of limitation to file a revision. It may be noted, under the scheme of the Act, under Section 11, upon a revision being filed and 25% of the disputed demand being paid, the balance disputed demand would remain stayed during pendency of the revision application.

9. Learned counsel for the petitioner would submit, the State of U.P. has no legislative competence to levy Excise duty on HSMS imported from outside the country. Consequently, it also does not have any competence to impose Consideration fee/'Pratiphal Shulk', that is Excise duty, in another garb. First, reference has been made to Entry 51 read with Entry 8 of List-II of Seventh Schedule of the Constitution of India to submit, the competence of the State legislature extends to enact laws to levy excise duty on manufacture or production (inside Uttar Pradesh), of alcoholic liquor for human consumption. As to the meaning of intoxicating liquor, reference has been made to a division bench decision in M/s Jain Distillery Private Limited Vs. State of U.P. & 5 Others, Writ Tax No. 378 of 2021, decided on 28.9.2021.

10 . Referring to the definition clause under the Act, it has been stated, under:- Section 3(3a) of the Act, "excise duty' and "countervailing duty' have the same meaning as may be assigned to those terms under Entry 51 of List-II to the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution; Section 3(8) of the Act, the word 'spirit' means any liquor containing alcohol obtained by distillation whether denatured or not; Section 3(11) of the Act, the word 'liquor' means all intoxicating liquor including those specified by the Act or as may be notified by the State Government; Section 3(13) of the Act, the word 'intoxicant' means a liquor or any intoxicating drug under the Act; Section 3(17) of the Act, the word 'import' implies bringing into Uttar Pradesh (any excisable goods) otherwise across the customs frontier as defined by the Central Government; Section 3(18) of the Act, a corresponding definition of 'export' exists; Section 3(19) of the Act, the word 'transport' means movement from one place to another within the State of Uttar Pradesh; Section 3(20) of the Act, the word 'manufacture' includes every process whether natural or artificial, by which an intoxicant may be produced or prepared and last; under Section 3(22a) of the Act, "excisable articles' means, any alcoholic liquor for human consumption or any intoxicating drug.

11. Thus, relying on the aforesaid provisions of the Act, it has been vehemently urged, HSMS were imported by the petitioner from William Grant, across the customs frontier of the country, (as defined by the Central Government) namely, the I.C.D., Dadri. They were neither excisable goods nor they were goods produced inside the State of U.P. nor they were brought inside the State of U.P. from any other State within the country. Therefore, by very description of their arrival into the country and/or the State of U.P., from abroad, the goods HSMS were not amenable to Excise duty under the Act. Therefore, they were not liable to suffer levy of Consideration Fee/''Pratiphal Shulk', either.

12. By way of elaboration of his submissions learned counsel for the petitioner has relied on the provisions of Section 12 of the Act. While sub-Section (1) of the said provision refers to grant of permission by the State Government-for the purpose of import of excisable goods, sub-Section (2) thereof makes it plain - nothing in sub-Section (1) would apply to the goods that may be imported into the country, after suffering liability of Customs duty. HSMS having suffered Custom duty under the Indian Customs Act, 1962 (hereinafter referred to as the Customs Act), upon its import across the customs frontiers of the country i.e. at the I.C.D. Dadri, the same were not liable to suffer Excise duty or any other levy, by whatever name called, under the Act.

13. Then, reliance has also been placed on provisions of Section 28 of the Act. It is the levy provision. It levies Excise duty or a Countervailing duty on any excisable article that may be imported (into the State from any other part of the country) or exported or transported to any other part of the country, in accordance with Section 12 or 13 respectively or manufactured, cultivated, or collected under Section 17 or manufactured in any distillery established under Section 18. The fact that HSMS were transported and the fact, by some process of reasoning they may be described as an excisable article, would not invite levy of Excise duty and/or Consideration fee/'Pratiphal Shulk' on that transportation. That is the clear effect of the first proviso to Section 28(1) read with Section 12(2) of the Act. It would injunct the levy of Excise duty on HSMS, since those goods had been imported into the country, upon sufferance of import duty under the Customs Act.

14. Learned counsel for the petitioner would rely on the principle - import of HSMS into the country was not complete till the goods HSMS reached the I.C.D., Dadri. Only after the goods reached the petitioner's distillery, the import of HSMS (into the country), was complete. Therefore, by virtue of Section 12(2) read with proviso (I) to Section 28(1) of the Act, no Excise duty or Consideration Fee/"Pratiphal Shulk' could be imposed on any quantity of HSMS lost in the course of import of those goods into the country. Reliance has been placed on Garden Silk Mills Ltd. & Anr. Vs Union of India & Ors., (1999) 8 SCC 744; Kiran Spinning Mills vs Collector of Customs, (2000) 10 SCC 228 and Indian Tourist Development Corporation Limited Through Hotel Ashoka vs. Assistant Commercial Tax & Anr. (2012) 3 SCC 204. In that context, reliance has also been placed on Circular No.50 of 2020 dated 05.11.2020 issued by the Government of India, declaring I.C.Ds. to be "self-contained Customs station".

15. Second, in the alternative, it has been submitted, in any case, the levy of Consideration Fee/'Pratiphal Shulk' may arise under the Act only in the event of transportation loss suffered during, and upon it exceeding, permissible limits, only when that excisable article may be in transit from a distillery. Assuming, HSMS were excisable goods, the excess loss was suffered while those goods were in transit from the ICD, Dadri to the petitioner's distillery. That transaction would fall outside the levy provision even if that provision were to apply. Here, referring to paragraph No. 612 read with paragraph Nos. 613 and 814 of the U.P. Excise Manual (under Chapter-VIII), it has been submitted, those provisions apply only to dispatches made by and from the distillery and not - to the distillery. In that regard, reliance has been placed on Mohan Meakin Breweries Ltd. Vs Excise & Taxation Commr., Chandigarh & Ors., (1976) 3 SCC 421.

16. Last, still in the alternative, in any case, conceptually and as also according to the statutory scheme itself, Consideration Fee/'Pratiphal Shulk' may be levied under the Act, only by the State of export. In case of inter-State trade within the country, such levy may arise in the consignor State, upon receipt of intimation of excess loss, sent by the consignee State. In the instant case, undisputedly, the goods had been dispatched from Scotland in United Kingdom. Therefore, theoretically, and in view of the earlier submissions advanced, the levy could not arise at the instance of or by the State of import namely the State of Uttar Pradesh. Reliance has been placed on Mohan Meakin Breweries Ltd. (supra) and State of U.P. & Ors Vs. Modi Distillery & Ors., (1995) 5 SCC 753.

17. Countering the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Additional Advocate General would submit, there are no pleadings made in the writ petition and no grounds have been raised to assail the legislative competence of the State of U.P. to enact any law to subject loss of imported HSMS- to Consideration Fee/''Pratiphal Shulk' . Reference has been made to the pleadings and grounds raised in the writ petition.

18. Then, it has been further submitted, such a ground was not raised by the petitioner in its reply dated 11.10.2018 furnished to the show cause notice dated 05.9.2018. On the contrary, the petitioner applied for issuance of permission to import quantities of HSMS. The petitioner paid the import fee, chargeable thereon. The only plea raised at the stage of reply to the show-cause notice and even in the present writ petition is - Chapter VIII of the Rules (framed under the Act) does not apply to import of excisable goods into State of U.P. and that those Rules apply only to export from inside the State of U.P., to another State.

19. Without prejudice to the above objection - of absence of plea, it has been submitted, Section 12(2) of the Act read with Section 3(17) of the Act do not create a bar against levy of Excise duty on transit loss or Consideration Fee/''Pratiphal Shulk' on excess transit loss, because the actual dispatch of the goods may have been made from the ICD Dadri. Referring to Indian Oil Corporation Limited Vs. State of U.P. & Ors., 2018 (6) ADJ 706, it has been submitted, regulatory provisions cannot be cited to define the custom frontiers under the Act. Merely because Section 60 of the Customs Act permits clearance of goods from a Customs warehouse, it cannot be said - upon clearance/dispatch of goods from such warehouse, the goods first crossed the custom frontier of the country. Those are only facilitative provisions for the benefit of the importer or owner of the goods. The Inland Container Depots (I.C.Ds.) are creatures of statute. They are not determinative of occurrence of the taxable event under the Act.

20. In the present case, undisputedly, the goods landed in the country through the seaport at Gujarat. Therefore, the entry of HSMS, across the customs frontier was complete at that point of time. Their storage at I.C.D. Dadri was only a facilitation arrangement to ensure further compliances of the provisions of the Customs Act. It was not determinative of the physical crossing of the goods across the customs frontier of the country.

21. Then, reference has been made to the permission to transport, obtained by the petitioner on Form FL-22, issued under paragraph Nos. 609, 615(5) and 617(3) of the U.P. Excise Manual. It was thus submitted, the petitioner twice obtained permissions under the Act, to transport 24,400 Bulk litres and 24596 Bulk litres, HSMS, against payment of import fee @ Rs. 4 per Bulk litre. That permission was sought and was granted on the own application made by the petitioner, under the Act. Thus, the petitioner was permitted to transport desired quantities of HSMS, from ICD Dadri to its distillery at Modi Nagar Ghaziabad. No amount of Excise duty was pre-paid, at that stage as the consignments were transported under respective bonds issued by the petitioner.

22. Further, relying on the application dated 02.8.2018 made by the petitioner with respect to the first transaction, and the other application dated 31.8.2018, made by the petitioner with respect to the second transaction (Annexure SCA-1 and SCA-2), it has been submitted, the petitioner had itself sought permission to transport the (imported) High Strength Malt Spirits, from Dadri to Modi Nagar via Ghaziabad. That permission was granted subject to the conditions specified in the communication dated 20.8.2020 (Annexure CA-1 to the counter affidavit).

23. Referring to the transaction thus conducted, it has been strenuously urged, the concept of crossing the custom frontier [contemplated under Section 3(17) of the Act] is wholly inapplicable to the goods that were dispatched from Dadri in Gautam Budh Nagar to Modi Nagar in Ghaziabad. Though that transportation began at I.C.D. Dadri, it cannot be said, the goods crossed the custom frontiers of the country, at Dadri. In fact, the goods were transported from one place to another, both inside the State of U.P.

24. Coming to the levy provisions, it has been submitted, similarly under Section 28 of the Act, the exclusion provided under the first proviso to sub-Section (1) would remain inapplicable to the facts of the present case, for the reasons noted above.

25. Then, it has been submitted, undisputedly the strength of the HSMS imported against the two transactions was 68% and 67.6%, London Proof. At that strength, per se, that liquor (as a category) was fit for human consumption. Its dilution for the purpose of making it marketable in the domestic tariff area, amounted to 'manufacture' as defined under Section 3(20) of the Act. It made those manufactured goods liable to suffer Excise duty under the Act. Yet, it would not render the imported article HSMS unfit for human consumption. It did not make them fall outside the legislative competence of the State of U.P., to impose Excise duty under the Act.

26. In such circumstances, it must be presumed, the goods that were dispatched against the two disputed transactions from I.C.D. Dadri were of requisite strength i.e., 68% & 67.6% v/v, measuring 24,440 & 24,596 Bulk litres, respectively. However, upon the same being tested for strength, upon their arrival at Modi Nagar, they were found to be of strength 67% and 66.21% v/v. It represented excessive loss, beyond the permissible limit i.e. 0.5%. It also represented excess loss of quantity 1300.85 Bulk litres. It is for that purpose that the Rule provides for realisation of Consideration Fee/"Pratiphal Shulk', to ensure, no quantity of excisable goods is dealt with except in compliance with the regulatory law enacted by the State. Relying on the amended law providing for permissible loss @ of 0.5%, as approved by the Supreme Court in State of U.P. and Others Vs. Delhi Cloth Mills and another, (1991) 1 SCC 454, it has been urged that the demand of Consideration Fee/"Pratiphal Shulk', is wholly in accordance with law.

27. The decision of the Supreme Court in State of U.P. & Ors. Vs. Modi Distilleries & Ors. (supra) is stated to be distinguishable. In that, the High Court quashed the orders demanding Excise duty. The Supreme Court categorised the cases into four types. Group-A cases involved demand of Excise duty on wastage of Indian Made Foreign Liquor (IMFL) exported outside the State of U.P. Group-B cases involved demand of Excise duty on wastage during transportation (in containers) - of High Strength Spirit of strength 80-85%, from distilleries to warehouse. Group-C cases involved demand of Excise duty on obscuration. The last category - Group-D cases involved Excise duty levied on pipeline wastage. In the submission of the learned Additional Advocate General, the present case falls in neither of the categories A, B, C or D, dealt with by the Supreme Court. Looking at the strength of HSMS, at below 68%, it was an alcohol fit for human consumption. Therefore, it cannot be equated with a commodity that was only a raw material to produce alcoholic liquor fit for human consumption. For that reason, the ratio in the case of State of U.P. Vs. Modi Distillery (supra), would not apply to the present case.

28. In the present case, since the goods in question were being transported within the State, the concept of levy of Consideration Fee/"Pratiphal Shulk' on excess loss suffered during export to another State, also would not apply. Here, the transaction was covered as loss was suffered, during transportation within the State. It would be a transaction covered under Section 28(1)(c) of the Act, read with Section 3(19) of the Act.

29. In the rejoinder arguments, Shri Bose, has referred to pleadings made in the Supplementary Rejoinder Affidavit and the Rejoinder Affidavit to submit - the plea of lack of legislative competence was raised. In any case, it has been submitted, that plea is purely legal. It arises on the undisputed facts of the case. Therefore, the same may not be barred from being raised. As to the submission based on definition of a custom frontier, strong objection has been raised. Though 'custom frontier' has not been defined under the Act, yet the same has been defined under Section 2(4) of the IGST Act. It means limits of the custom area as defined under Section 52 of the Customs Act. Then, the phrase 'crossing the custom frontier of India' has been defined under Section 2(a)(b) of the CST Act. It means crossing the limits of the area of a customs station within which imported goods or exported goods are ordinarily kept, before clearance by a custom authority. In turn, 'customs area' has been defined under Section 2(11) of the Customs Act. It reads:

"2(11). "customs area' means the area of a customs station [or a warehouse] and includes any area in which imported goods or export goods are ordinarily kept before clearance by customs authorities."

30. Heard learned counsel for the parties (over a long period of time, interspersed with adjournments). In face of the first issue raised being purely legal, and in absence of any dispute as to fact, the objection raised by the State - to availability of pleadings (in the writ petition) - to support the first ground of challenge raised, is not accepted. To deal with the first submission advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner, it is relevant to take note of certain provisions of the Act, namely, sub-Sections (3-a), (11), (13), (17), (19), (20) and (22-a) of Section 3 of the Act may be seen. They read as below:

"3. Interpretation.- In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in this subject or context:

(3a) "Excise Duty" and "countervailing duty" means any Excise Duty or countervailing duty, as the case may be, as is mentioned in Entry 51 of List II in the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution;

(11) "liquor" means intoxicating liquor and includes spirits of wine, spirit, wine, tari, pachwai, beer and all liquid consisting of or containing alcohol, also any substance which the State Government may by notification declare to be liquor for the purposes of the Act.

(13) "intoxicant" means any liquor or intoxicating drug as defined by this Act;

(17) "import" (except in the phrase "import to India") means to bring into Uttar Pradesh otherwise than across a customs frontier as defined by the Central Government;

(19) "Transport" means to move from one place to another within Uttar Pradesh;

(20)"Manufacture" includes every process weather natural or artificial, by which any intoxicant is produced or prepared, and also re distillation and every process for the rectification, flavouring, blending or colouring of liquor;

(22-a) "excisable article" means-

(a) any alcoholic liquor for human consumption; or

(b) any intoxicating drug;"

31. Then, Section 12 of the Act reads as below:

"12. Import of intoxicants. - (1) No intoxicant shall be imported unless-

(a) the State Government has given permission, either general or special, for its imports;

(b) such conditions (if any) as the State Government may impose have been satisfied; and

(c) the duty (if any) imposed under Section 28 has been paid or a bond has been executed for the payment thereof.

(2) Sub-section (1) shall not apply to any article which has been imported into India and was liable on such importation to duty under the Indian Tariff Act, 1894, or the Sea Customs Act, 1878.

(3) Clauses (a) and (b) of sub-section (1) shall not apply to liquor manufactured in India and declared under Section 4 to be foreign liquor."

32. The levy provision - Section 28 of the Act reads as below:

"28. Duty on excisable articles. - (1) An excise duty or a countervailing duty, as the case may be, at such rate or rates as the State Government shall direct, may be imposed, either generally or for any specified local area, on any excisable article-

(a) imported in accordance with the provisions of Section 12 (1); or

(b) exported in accordance with the provisions of Section 13; or

(c) transported; or

(d) manufactured, cultivated or collected under any licence granted under Section 17; or

(e) manufactured in any distillery established, or any distillery or brewery licensed, under Section 18 :

Provided as follows-

(i) duty shall not be so imposed on any article which has been imported into []India and was liable on such importation to duty under the Indian Tariff Act, 1894, or the Sea Customs Act, 1887;

(ii) [* ].

Explanation. - (1) Duty may be imposed under this section at different rates according to the places to which any excisable article is to be removed for consumption, or according to the varying strength and quality of such article.

[(2) The State Government shall, in imposing an Excise duty or a countervailing duty as aforesaid and in fixing its rate, be guided by the directive principles specified in Article 47 of the Constitution of India.

(3) Such duty shall not exceed the maximum as provided hereinafter:"

33. Read in the backdrop of Entry 51 of List II of the 7th Schedule to the Constitution of India, together with the definition clause of 'Excise duty' and 'import' [Section 3 (3-a) and 3(17) of the Act] together with Section 28 of the Act, it is plain - the State of U.P., could not and it did not levy Excise duty on any Excisable article imported across the customs frontier of the country, after payment of Customs duty etc. However, that embargo in law, operates against levy of Excise duty (under the Act) on an imported article, cleared or made available, as such, for home consumption. It would not extend or apply to any "excisable article' manufactured from that imported and Customs duty paid, article.

34. Here, as a fact, the impost of Consideration fee/'Pratiphal Shulk' is not on the quantities of HSMS received by the petitioner, at its distillery. Rather, that impost has arisen on the excess and therefore, unaccounted loss of HSMS, while that imported article was transported inside the State of Uttar Pradesh. The text of the show-cause-notices dated 22.09.2018 and 26.09.2018 (Annexure No. 7 to the writ petition), clearly refers to the facts - against two transactions of 24,400 and 24,596 Bulk litres of Malt Spirit of strength 68% and 67.6% v/v, imported from William Grant, as cleared by the Customs authorities, 24346 and 24593 Bulk litres, were received at the petitioner's distillery, bearing strength 66.2% and 66.6% v/v, respectively.

35. Accordingly, it was assumed, at that stage, the balance quantity of that commodity had been lost during transportation (against the two transactions). That loss was more than the loss allowable @ 0.5%. Accordingly, the revenue loss was estimated at Rs. 10,91,879.5 and Rs. 4,59,385/- respectively. It appears to have been demanded and recovered against the bond executed by the petitioner, as Consideration fee/'Pratiphal Shulk'.

36. Therefore, the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner-ICD Dadri, Gautam Buddh Nagar was the custom frontier of the country - for the purpose of import of goods, is not central or relevant to the core issue involved in the dispute. Whether the goods HSMS are treated to have been imported into the country at the seaport at Gujarat or at land port-ICD Dadri, Gautam Buddh Nagar (inside the State of U.P.), would make no difference to the determination of that issue. It would have been relevant if the impost under challenge had been of Excise duty on clearance/receipt of HSMS, in that form and condition. Here, it may be noted, undisputedly, the petitioner manufactures foreign liquor from HSMS at its distillery at Modi Nagar, Ghaziabad, by making adequate dilutions to HSMS under a pre-defined process; it thus obtains foreign liquor of strength 42.8% v/v; bottles the same and clears those excisable goods against payment of Excise duty, inside the State of U.P. Therefore, it is not the case of the petitioner that foreign liquor manufactured from HSMS was not dutiable under the Act. In fact, its case is otherwise.

37. In view of the above, the frontal aspect of the first submission advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner, is found to be misconceived. In absence of any impost of Excise duty under the Act, on HSMS, that aspect of the submission advanced, is academic. Strictly, it does not arise in the facts of the present case. However, it's other aspect may be examined a little later.

38. Also, in view of the discussion made above, the ratio arising from Golden Silk Mills Ltd (supra); Kiran Spinning Mills (supra); Indian Tourist Development Corporation Ltd. (supra), does not conflict with the impost of Consideration Fee/'Pratiphal Shulk'.

39. Insofar as the second submission is concerned, it must be examined -whether it was permissible for the State revenue authorities to impose Consideration fee/'Pratiphal Shulk', against alleged loss of revenue on foreign liquor, springing from excess loss of the commodity HSMS, during its transportation from a bonded warehouse at I.C.D. Dadri, Gautam Budh Nagar, to the petitioner's distillery at Modi Nagar.

40. Before making any further discussion on that count, again, it may be relevant to take note of certain provisions of the law. The statutory requirement to obtain Pass, to amongst others, import and/or transport intoxicants within the State of U.P., is contained in Section 15 & 16 of the Act. The rule making power under the Act is contained in Section 40. Relevant to the present discussion, Sections 15, 16 & 40(1), (2) and (2-d) read as below:

15. Passes necessary for import, export and transport. - No Intoxicant exceeding such quantity as the Government may prescribe by notification, either generally for the whole of Uttar Pradesh or for any local area comprised therein, shall be imported, exported or transported except under the provisions of the next following section:

Provided that, in the case of duty-paid foreign liquor other than denatured spirit such passes shall be dispensed with unless the [State Government] shall by notification otherwise direct to any local area :

Provided also, unless the State Government shall otherwise direct, that no pass shall be required for the transport of any [intoxicant] exported under a pass issued by an officer duly authorised in this behalf from any place beyond the limits of [Uttar Pradesh] to any other place beyond the said limits.

16. Grant of passes for import, exports and transport*. - Passes for the import, export or transport of intoxicants may be granted by the Collector.*

Such passes may be either general for the definite periods and kinds of [intoxicants] or special for specified occasions and particular consignments only."

"40. Power of State Government to make rules. - (1) The [State may make rules for the purpose of Government] carrying out the provisions of this Act or other law for the time being in force relating to excise revenue :

...

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provision, the State Government may make rules-

...

(d) regulating the import, export, transport or possession of any [intoxicant]"

41. Under the Act, numerous Rules have been framed from time to time. Apparently, for the sake of convenience and ready reference, they have been compiled in a compendium, popularly known as the U.P. Excise Manual (hereinafter referred to as the 'Excise Manual'). That compendium has been arranged in Chapters, broken into Sections, further structured into Parts, with various individual Rule numbers mentioned as paragraphs of that compendium, numbered consecutively, in a single series. Paragraph no. 12 of the Excise Manual reads as below:

"12. Foreign liquor. - Foreign Liquor means-

(1) beer and spirit, wines and liquors, which have been imported into India and are intended for human consumption and were liable, on such importation, to duty under the Indian Tariff

Act, 1894 (read with the Indian Tariff Act, 1934), or the Sea Customs Act, 1878;

(2) spirit made in India and sophisticated or coloured so as to resemble in flavour or colour, liquor imported into India;

(3) beer brewed in India;

(4) wines and liquors made in India, and

(5) all rectified, perfumed, medicated and denatured spirits, wherever made."

(emphasis supplied)

42. Thus, the fine distinction that may otherwise exist between foreign liquor imported into India and similar beverages manufactured inside the country, has been blurred. While liquors manufactured outside the country are first included in the term foreign liquor, as described under sub-paragraph 1 of paragraph 12 of the Manual, similar liquors distilled or manufactured inside the country are included within the meaning of that term - under Sub-paragraphs 2, 3 and 4 of paragraph 12 of the Excise Manual.

43. Then, under Paragraph 37 of the Excise Manual, amongst others, it has been provided as below:

"37. The following duties are imposed in Uttar Pradesh :

(1) On Indian-made foreign liquor imported or manufactured in, and issued from distilleries, a fixed still-head duty calculated on either the gallonage in terms of London Proof or per gallon at fixed strength."

44. Again, Paragraph 41 of the Excise Manual provides for forms of wholesale vends. Amongst others, with respect to foreign liquor, it has been provided as below:

"41. Forms of wholesale vend. - The following forms of vend by wholesale are- permitted within Uttar Pradesh :

(2) Foreign liquor - Licence for wholesale vend may be issued by the Collector with the previous sanction of the Excise Commissioner to distillers, brewers, importers, exporters, vendors, and (in certain cases) to auctioneers."

45. Coming to the specific provision under the Excise Manual, contained in Chapter VIII, it provides for a set of Rules relating to foreign liquor. Section XXXVIII thereof refers to import, export, and transport of foreign liquor other than denatured spirit. Paragraph Nos. 605, 606 contained therein, read as below:

"605. Foreign liquor is defined in paragraph 12 of Chapter I and is classified in paragraph 7 of the same Chapter.

606. Quantitative limits of import etc. - (1) No quantitative limit is prescribed for the export, transport or possession of foreign liquor (other than denatured spirit) obtained from overseas.*

Note. - No duty-paid foreign liquor imported from foreign countries (other than denatured spirit) exceeding 6 quart bottles shall be imported in Uttar Pradesh in the local areas mentioned in the following Schedule except under a pass issued in accordance with paragraphs 609 to 610 infra.

SCHEDULE

(1) All Municipal areas, (2) all town areas, (3) all cantonment areas, (4) all notified areas, and (5) all railway stations.

(2) A bona fide traveller coming into Uttar Pradesh may import for his own personal use, Indian-made foreign liquor not exceeding two quart bottles in all. Indian-made foreign liquor may be imported in larger quantities only in accordance with the rules hereinafter following. There is no quantitative limit for transport of Indian-made foreign liquor.

(3) No denatured spirit in excess of limit of retail sale shall be imported, exported or transported except under a pass as provided for in Sections 15 and 16 of the Act.

46. Part (A-1) of Chapter VIII, Section XXXVIII of the Excise Manual pertains to Import of IMFL. It contains Rules pertaining to import of IMFL into the State of U.P., from any other State in the country. Paragraph Nos. 608, 609, 610 and 613 of the Manual read as below:

608. Methods of import. - Indian-made foreign liquor may be imported either-

(1) in bond for payment of duty in Uttar Pradesh;

(2) on repayment of duty in Uttar Pradesh; or

(3) on repayment of duty in the State or Union Territory of export, at the rates leviable in Uttar Pradesh to be subsequently transferred to this State by book transfer;

(4) free duty or a reduced rate of duty under the conditions laid down in the rules hereinafter following.

(1) Import in Bond

609. Conditions to be fulfilled by importer. - Any person holding a licence for the vend of foreign liquor and also regimental units in Uttar Pradesh may import Indian-made foreign liquor from a distillery, brewery, bonded warehouses or bonded laboratory in another State or Union Territory under a bond for payment of the duty imposed under Section 28 of the United Provinces Excise Act, 1910 (Act IV of 1910) after he or his agent has-

(a) obtained a permit from the Collector of the district of import in prescribed Form (F.L. 27);

(b) executed a bond (which may be either general or special) in favour of the Collector of the district of import for payment of the duty leviable on the liquor to be imported;

(c) obey all the rules in force in the district, State or Union Territory from which the exp ort is to be made.

610. Permit for import. - (a) The importer shall present an application to the Collector of the district of import specifying-(1) the quantity and description of the Indian-made foreign liquor to be imported, (2) the name of the distillery, brewery, bonded warehouse or bonded laboratory from which the liquor is to be imported, (3) the quantity of liquor to be imported in terms of L.P. and the amount of duty leviable thereon in this State, and (4) the name of the bonded warehouse to which the liquor is to be consigned.

(b) The licensed retail vendor shall also deposit in the treasury a fee at the rate of rupees five per quart bottle on spirits, cordials and wines and sixty paise per quart bottle or beer, stout and other fermented liquors, in advance and shall attach the treasury challan with his application presented to the Collector of the district of import. The Collector shall issue a permit as laid down in sub-rule (d) only when the treasury challan evidencing payment of the fee is produced.

(c) The importer shall also execute (unless a general bond previously executed by him still in force) either a general or a special bond in the prescribed form in favour of the Collector of the district of import for the payment of duty leviable under Section 28 on the actual import and on the excess loss in transit according to the rule in force in the exporting State or Union Territory.

(d) The Collector shall, unless there is any reason to the contrary, prepare a permit in triplicate in Form F.L. 22 sanctioning the import under bond. The permit shall contain all the particulars specified in sub-clause (a) and shall clearly specify that a bond for payment of duty has been executed in the district of import. One copy of the permit shall be made over to the importer, the second copy shall be forwarded to the Chief Revenue Authority of the district of export and the third shall be retained by the Collector for record and verification of the consignment on arrival. The permit shall remain in force up to the date specified therein.

613. Pass to be verified by Assistant Excise Commissioner. - (1) As soon as may be after such arrival the officer in-charge of the bonded warehouse shall certify on the importer's copy of the pass full details regarding the liquor received in such form as may be prescribed in the pass or required by the authorities of the district or place of export and shall return it to the officer who granted it after verification by the Assistant Excise Commissioner.*

(2) Within fifteen days of the date of receipt of the warehouse the importer shall clear the whole consignment on payment of duty in the treasury of the district of import. If he fails to do so, the Collector may charge storage fees at such rates as he thinks fit for the period it remains in the warehouse in excess of 15 days. The Collector may dispose it of as he thinks proper, at the risk of the importer, if it is not cleared within three months from the date of receipt.

(3) The importer shall also be liable to pay duty on excess transit wastages according to the rules in force in the State or Union Territory of export.

Note. - Clause (2) of this rule does not apply to cases where spirit has been imported by distillers and stored in the distillery building."

47. It may be noted, under Part (A-II) of Chapter VIII, Section XXXVIII of the Excise Manual, other Rules exist to regulate the Import of Overseas Foreign Liquor in Scheduled Areas in U.P. Since, in the present case, the permit was not sought (by the petitioner), under that provision and no action has been taken thereunder, no further reference is required to be made to that set of Rules. However, as noted above, as a commodity IMFL is also included in 'Foreign Liquor', under Paragraph 12 of the Excise Manual. Therefore, there is no inherent or patent lack or error, of jurisdiction or authority involved, in the facts of this case.

48. Again, as a fact, the petitioner made applications under Part (A-1) of Chapter VIII, Section XXXVIII of the Manual, to cover the proposed transaction - to transport HSMS from the bonded warehouse at I.C.D. Dadri, in Gautam Budh Nagar to Modi Nagar in Ghaziabad. It described the transaction as one of import (into the State of U.P.), of HSMS. As to the nature of the commodity, there can be no dispute, HSMS at 68% and 67.6% strength v/v did not render itself alcoholic liquor unfit for human consumption. At present, that principle or test maybe available, only with respect to alcoholic liquors of much higher strength i.e., above 80-85%. This observation is being recorded, on the strength of the undisputed individual facts of this case, seen in the light of the decision of the Supreme Court in State of U.P. & Ors. Vs. Modi Distilleries & Ors. (supra), wherein while dealing with Group-B cases (involving cases of high strength malt spirit of 80-85% strength), it was observed as below:-

"10. What the State seeks to levy excise duty upon in the Group "B' cases is the wastage of liquor after distillation, but before dilution; and, in the Group "D' cases, the pipeline loss of liquor during the process of manufacture, before dilution. It is clear, therefore, that what the State seeks to levy excise duty upon is not alcoholic liquor for human consumption but the raw material or input still in process of being rendered fit for consumption by human beings. The State is not empowered to levy excise duty on the raw material or input that is in the process of being made into alcoholic liquor for human consumption."

49. Second, even otherwise, it would be one thing to say - HSMS, if it had been cleared inside the State of U.P. for consumption in that form itself, would not have attracted levy of Excise duty under the Act (by virtue of its import from outside the country), and it would be completely another thing to say - that commodity would therefore fall outside the regulatory provisions of the Act.

50. The applicable provisions - Section 15 and 16 of the Act have been quoted in paragraph 40 above. Clearly, those provisions are regulatory laws and not levy provisions. Therefore, under the Scheme of the Act, intoxicant, or liquor (as defined under Section 3 and 11 of the Act) including HSMS, stood covered under the regulatory provisions under the Act. Thus, amongst others, by virtue of Section 15 of the Act, HSMS could not be imported or transported within the State of Uttar Pradesh, except in accordance with the provisions of Section 16 of the Act. That provision of the Act mandatorily prescribes issuance of Pass, amongst others, for import and/or transportation of intoxicant including liquors, inside the State of U.P.

51. Section 12(2) of the Act only excludes the applicability of Section 12(1) of the Act, to intoxicants imported in India against Customs duty payment under Central enactments. Plainly, it has no application to Section 15 & 16 of the Act. There is no similar exclusion clause under those regulatory law provisions. Upon a co-joint reading of Sections 12, 15 and 16 of the Act, though no prior permission (under section 12) may be required under the Act to import into India, HSMS, yet a Pass (under section 16) was mandatory to be obtained, to transport the HSMS from I.C.D. Dadri, in Gautam Budh Nagar to the petitioner's distillery at Modi Nagar, in Ghaziabad.

52. Therefore, at the superficial level, a piquant situation arises. Though, the regulatory law obligated the petitioner to transport the goods from Gautam Budh Nagar, Ghaziabad against valid Permit/Pass issued under the Act, it may have remained true that the nature of transaction was one of import of goods from outside the country, pursuant whereto the goods reached the I.C.D., Dadri at Gautam Budh Nagar, in the State of U.P. Hence, they were not liable to suffer Excise duty under the Act by virtue of specific exemption created under Proviso (i) to Section 28(1) of the Act.

53. However, that does not offer any legal mystery or difficulty as to operation and/or order of primacy of enacted laws, noticed above. In this situation, two mutually independent consequences arose, under two different laws, neither in conflict with the other. Each law was enacted by the competent legislature for its own independent and (mutually) exclusive purpose. The Customs Act sought to levy Customs duty on the import of HSMS while the Act, amongst others, sought to regulate transportation of the commodity/article thus cleared for home consumption (under the Customs Act), inside the State of U.P. Therefore, there is no conflict between the two laws.

54. For the imposition of tax or Customs duty liability, on imported HSMS, it must be accepted and recognised, the goods were imported across the customs frontiers of the country at I.C.D. Dadri, in Gautam Budh Nagar. Therefore, no amount of Excise duty may have been imposed under the Act, on those goods till they remained HSMS. Yet, by way of a regulatory measure, the State legislature could bind the importer/petitioner to account for the entire quantity of HSMS thus imported, to ensure it was used wholly to manufacture excisable articles inside the State of Uttar Pradesh. Consequently, to enforce that regulatory measure, it could impose fee on excessive loss of that imported commodity, during its transportation inside the State of Uttar Pradesh i.e., upon their clearance from the bonded warehouse at Dadri to its distillery at Modi Nagar, Ghaziabad.

55. Merely because no Excise duty could be levied under the Act on HSMS, there is no reason to accept - those goods imported into the country would be exempt from operation of the regulatory law, inside the State of Uttar Pradesh though similar goods originating in any part of the country, would be subject to such regulatory law when imported into the State of Uttar Pradesh.

56. In State of Jharkhand and Others Vs. Ajanta Bottlers and Blenders Pvt. Ltd, (2019) 7 SCC 545, an issue arose as to the validity of a regulatory import fee, imposed under State Excise laws. Finding that applicable law to be regulatory, the Supreme Court reversed the decision of the High Court, and held as under:

14. Indeed, if the State legislation was to provide for levy on the imported rectified spirit per se the same would be without jurisdiction, as consistently held, including by the Constitution Bench in Deccan Sugar & Abkari Co. Ltd. v. Commr. of Excise [Deccan Sugar & Abkari Co. Ltd. v. Commr. of Excise, (2004) 1 SCC 243] , para 2 of this decision, which reads thus: (SCC p. 244)

"2. It is settled by the decision of this Court in Synthetics and Chemicals Ltd. v. State of U.P. [Synthetics and Chemicals Ltd. v. State of U.P., (1990) 1 SCC 109] that the State Legislature has no jurisdiction to levy any excise duty on rectified spirit. The State can levy excise duty only on potable liquor fit for human consumption and as rectified spirit does not fall under that category the State Legislature cannot impose any excise duty. The decision in Synthetics and Chemicals Ltd. v. State of U.P. [Synthetics and Chemicals Ltd. v. State of U.P., (1990) 1 SCC 109] has been followed in State of U.P. v. Modi Distillery [State of U.P. v. Modi Distillery, (1995) 5 SCC 753] where certain wastage of ethyl alcohol was sought to be taxed. This Court following the decision in Synthetics and Chemicals Ltd. [Synthetics and Chemicals Ltd. v. State of U.P., (1990) 1 SCC 109] came to the conclusion that this cannot be done."

15. The next question is whether the levy is in the nature of tax or excise duty. If it is a case of excise duty on potable liquor produced by use of imported rectified spirit, the State has jurisdiction to legislate in respect of duty on the production or manufacture of such goods produced or manufactured within the State. In the present case, we find merits in the submissions of the appellant State that the impost is neither in the nature of a tax nor excise duty but it is towards the charges by whatever name, for regulating the production of potable liquor to preserve public health and morality including for parting with its rights or privileges regarding manufacture, supply or sale of potable liquor or intoxicating liquor and to regulate the use of imported rectified spirit for production and sale of potable liquor. In such a case, the State need bear no quid pro quo to the services rendered to the licensee for production of foreign liquor (IMFL).

16. The fact that the manufacturer-respondent has already obtained requisite licences for import of rectified spirit and production of foreign liquor (IMFL) on payment of fixed rates does not mean that the State has surrendered all facets of its rights in respect of every form of activity in relation to potable liquor -- its manufacture, storage, export, import, sale and possession. The amended provision is an enabling provision authorising the State to levy charges or impost for ceding its one or more of the activity in respect of foreign liquor (IMFL) produced by use of imported rectified spirit. Such impost can be in addition to the general power of the State to issue licence on payment of fees for production and sale of potable liquor. As observed in Har Shankar [Har Shankar v. Excise & Taxation Commr., (1975) 1 SCC 737] , in para 56, the State need bear no quid pro quo to the services rendered to the licensees of producer of foreign liquor.

17. The respondent respondent, however, placed heavy reliance on the decision in State of U.P. v. Vam Organic Chemicals Ltd. [State of U.P. v. Vam Organic Chemicals Ltd., (2004) 1 SCC 225] , to contend that the State is obliged to justify the impost based on quid pro quo. We are afraid, this decision is of no avail to the respondent. In that case, the Court was dealing with challenge to Rule 3(a) therein on the ground that the State Legislature did not have legislative competence to legislate on "denatured spirit" which is unfit for human consumption. In that context, this Court relied on the decision in Synthetics and Chemicals Ltd. v. State of U.P. [Synthetics and Chemicals Ltd. v. State of U.P., (1990) 1 SCC 109] and answered the issue. If the case under consideration was to be regarding legislation on imported rectified spirit as such, this decision would have come handy. However, having opined that the purport of the impugned Rule 106(Tha), is to permit impost on the final processed product being foreign liquor "IMFL", before bottling as fit for human consumption, the State has jurisdiction to legislate on that subject and need bear no quid pro quo to the services rendered to the licensee of manufacturer of foreign liquor (IMFL).

57. A clear distinction exists, in interpretation of provisions of substantive levy of tax or duty and provisions for levy of fee under a regulatory law. That may be recognised and maintained. The two cannot be equated as may result in the regulatory law being rendered toothless or as may allow it to be circumvented by devices that may not have been contemplated by the legislature.

58. The provisions of Sections 15 and 16 of the Act read with Paragraph Nos. 605 to 613 of the Excise Manual are part of the regulatory laws. The clear intent of those provisions is to ensure, no quantity of foreign liquor, suffers excessive loss, amongst others during its transportation inside the State of Uttar Pradesh, as may result in a corresponding revenue loss. It is clearly a provision in the interest of revenue to prevent unscrupulous importers from drawing excessive profits at the cost of corresponding undue loss of revenue to the State-by arranging the import/export/transport transaction/s in a manner whereby excessive quantities of foreign liquor may be claimed lost, though the same may have been unscrupulously removed during their transportation, to obtain liquor, either of same strength or lesser strength. In the present case, as recorded in the show cause notices, the goods HSMS were lost both in quantity and strength.

59. Undisputedly, under Section 3 of the Act, where the context otherwise requires, the statutory definition of any word or phrase, may be departed. There is no exception to doubt the same. In Dhandhania Kedia & Co. Vs CIT AIR 1959 SC 219, a three-Judge bench of the Supreme Court had the occasion to consider if the statutory definition given to the phrase "previous year" incorporated under section 2(11) of the Indian Finance Act, 1950, being period of twelve months ending last day of March next, preceding the year for which assessment was to be made, would apply to words "six previous years' used in Section 6 of that Act for the purpose of computation of accumulated profits of a company preceding the date of its liquidation. That dispute arose, since, to the erstwhile State of Udaipur, the Income Tax Act first came in force on 01.04.1950 whereas the disputed dividend Rs. 26000/- first arose upon liquidation of the company in question, on 22.04.1950. Negating the submission based on the statutory definition of "previous year', the Supreme Court found, that meaning to be plainly repugnant to the definition of "dividend' in Section 2 (6A)(c) of that Act.

60. In view of the discussion made above, the words "import', "importer' and "imported' used in Paragraphs 608, 609, 610, 613 etc. of the Excise Manual must be read in their complete/wider/natural sense - to include within their sweep, a transaction of transportation (inside the State of Uttar Pradesh) of goods imported into India. That context (of regulatory law), requires, a departure to be made from the narrower statutory meaning of the word "import', as contained in Section 3(17) of the Act. In other words, to preserve the efficacy of the regulatory law, it must be given - the word "import' used in the regulatory provisions of the Act and the Excise Manual must be given a wider more generic meaning than the narrower meaning given under Section 3(17) of the Act. That interpretation is permissible and necessary to be adopted by virtue of the opening words of Section 3 of the act namely, "In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context". Therefore, Consideration fee/"Pratiphal Shulk' may be levied on excess loss of HSMS, whether imported from outside the country or procured from another State of India. Therefore, the injunction sought against that levy, by looking at the provision of law providing for levy of Consideration fee/"Pratiphal Shulk' on excess loss of HSMS when transported within the State, from a distillery inside the State of Uttar Pradesh, is misconceived and inapplicable.

61. Again, as a fact, reference may be made to the application made by the petitioner for grant of Form FL-22. Copies of letters dated 02.08.2018 and 31.08.2018 issued by the petitioner to import 24,400 Bulk litres of HSMS and 24,346 Bulk litres of HSMS respectively, have been annexed as Annexure no.1 & 1A to the Supplementary Counter Affidavit, filed by the State. 63. Thus, in view of the scheme of Sections 15 & 16 of the Act, the petitioner sought permission to transport quantities of HSMS cleared in its favour, by the Customs authorities at I.C.D. at Dadri, Gautam Budh Nagar, for 'transportation' to its distillery, at Modi Nagar, Ghaziabad. It was described by the petitioner as a transaction of import, from I.C.D. Dadri. Yet, the nature of that transaction involved inter-play of the laws enacted by the State legislature i.e. the Act read with the Rules framed thereunder and the laws enacted by the Parliament, namely, the Customs Act and the Rules framed thereunder.

64. There is no conflict between the Customs laws enacted by the Parliament and the regulatory laws enacted by the State legislature. Under Chapter VIII of the Customs Act, the procedure is prescribed to obtain clearance of goods, for import and export. Section 45 of the Customs Act places restriction on the custody and removal of imported goods. Thus, goods imported from outside the country are unloaded in a customs area. They remain in the custody of the person approved by the Principal Commissioner of Customs or Commissioner of Customs, until they are cleared for consumption or warehousing or transit, in accordance with the provisions of the Customs Act. Under Section 46 of the Customs Act, a detailed procedure is provided for entry of goods on importation, on the strength of bill of entries etc. Section 47 of the Customs Act provides for clearance of goods for home consumption upon payment of import duty. Section 49 of the Customs Act provides for storage of goods in warehouse, pending their clearance or removal. For ready reference, that provision reads as below:

"49. Storage of imported goods in warehouse pending clearance or removal.-

Where, -

(a) in the case of any imported goods, whether dutiable or not, entered for home consumption, the Assistant Commissioner of Customs or Deputy Commissioner of Customs is satisfied on the application of the importer that the goods cannot be cleared within a reasonable time;

(b) in the case of any imported dutiable goods, entered for warehousing, the Assistant Commissioner of Customs or Deputy Commissioner of Customs is satisfied on the application of the importer that the goods cannot be removed for deposit in a warehouse within a reasonable time, the goods may pending clearance or removal, as the case may be, be permitted to be stored in a public warehouse for a period not exceeding thirty days:

PROVIDED that the provisions of Chapter IX shall not apply to goods permitted to be stored in a public warehouse under this section:

PROVIDED FURTHER that the Principal Commissioner of Customs or Commissioner of Customs may extend the period of storage for a further period not exceeding thirty days at a time.]"

65. Under Chapter IX of the Customs Act, provisions have been made for warehousing (as contemplated under Section 49 of the Customs Act). Sections 57 and 58 of the Customs Act deal with licensing of public and private warehouses, respectively. Section 59 provides for issuance of bond for goods warehoused. Section 68 provides for clearance of warehoused goods, for home consumption. For ready reference, relevant extract of Section 68 of the Customs Act reads as below:

"68. Clearance of warehoused goods for home consumption

Any warehoused goods may be cleared from the warehouse for home consumption, if-

(a) a bill of entry for home consumption in respect of such goods has been presented in the prescribed form;

(b) the import duty, interest, fine and penalties payable in respect of such goods have been paid; and]

(c) an order for clearance of such goods for home consumption has been made by the proper officer;"

66. In the context of the above-described Custom laws, Circular no. 50/2020 dated 05.11.2020 (relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner), was issued. Contents of paragraph nos. 2, 2.1, 2.1.1, 2.1.2, 2.4, 2.4.1, 2.4.2, 2.4.3 and 2.4.4 are quoted below:

" 2. Distinction between ICD, CFS and AFS

2.1 Inland Container Depot (ICD) :

2.1.1. An off seaport (or port) facility. having such fixed installations or otherwise, equipment, machinery etc. providing services for handling / clearance of laden import, export containers for home use, warehousing, temporary admissions, re-export etc under customs control and with storage facility for customs bonded or non-bonded cargo.

2.1.2. An ICD is a "self-contained Customs station" like a port or air cargo unit where filing of Customs manifests, Bills of Entries, Shipping Bills and other declarations, assessment and all the activities related to clearance of goods for home use, warehousing, temporary admissions, re-export, temporary storage for onward transit and outright export, transshipment, etc., take place. An ICD would have its own automated system/ with a separate station code (such as INTKD 6, INSNF6 etc.) being allotted by Ministry of Commerce and with in-built capacity to enter examination reports and enable assessment of documents, processing of manifest, amendments, etc.

2.2. Container Freight Station

2.2.1. An of seaport (or port) facility having such fixed installations or otherwise, equipment, machinery etc. Providing services for handling / clearance of laden import, export containers for home use, warehousing, temporary admissions, re-export etc under customs control and with storage facility for customs bonded or non-bonded cargo.

2.2.2. Though by definition, both ICD and CFS are similar, a CFS is only a Customs area notified under section 8 of the Customs Act, 1962, located in the jurisdiction of a Commissioner of Customs exercising control over a specified Customs port, airport, ICS/ICD while an ICD is notified under section " of the Customs Act, 1962. A CFS cannot have an independent existence and has to be linked to a Customs station within the jurisdiction of Commissioner of Customs. It is an extension of a Customs port set up with the main objective of decongestion. In a CFS only a part of the Customs processes mainly the examination of goods is normally carried out by Customs besides stuffing/de stuffing of containers and aggregation/ segregation of cargo. Thus, Custom's functions relating to processing of manifest, import/ export declarations and assessment of Bill of Entry/Shipping Bill are performed in the Custom House/Custom Office that exercises jurisdiction over the parent port/airport/ICD/LCS to which the said CFS is attached. In the case of Customs Stations having facility of automated processing of documents, minals are provided at such CFSs for recording the result of examination, etc. In some CFSs, extension Service Centers are available for filing documents, amendments etc. However, the assessment of the documents etc. is carried out centrally.

2.2.3. An ICD may also have several CFSS attached to it within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Customs just as in the case of a port.

2.3. Air Freight Station (AFS)

2.3.1. An off-airport common user facility equipped with fixed installations of minimum crement and offering services for handling and temporary storage of import and export cargo etc.

2.3.2. While CFS handles maritime cargo, an AFS is meant to handle air cargo.

2.4. Important centers of activity relating to ICDs/CFSs/AFSS

2.4.1 Pail Siding (in case of a rail-based terminal): The place where container trains are ved, dispatched and handled in a terminal. Similarly, the containers are loaded on and unloaded from rail wagons at the siding through overhead cranes and / or other the equipment.

2.4.2 Container Yard: Container yard occupies the largest area in the ICD/CFS. It is acting area where the export containers are aggregated prior to dispatch to port, pt containers are stored till Customs clearance and where empty containers await movement. Likewise, some stacking areas are earmarked for keeping special ners such as refrigerated, hazardous, overweight/ over-length etc.

2.4.3. Warehouse: Public warehouse appointed under section 57 or private warehouse licensed under section 58 is a covered space/shed where export cargo is received and import cargo stored/delivered; containers are stuffed/stripped or reworked; LCL exports are consolidated and import LCLS are unpacked; and cargo is physically examined by Customs. Export and import consignments are generally handled either at separate areas in a warehouse or in different nominated warehouses/sheds.

2.4.4. Gate Complex: The gate complex regulates the entry and exits of road vehicles carrying cargo and containers through the terminal. It is place where documentation, security and container inspection procedures are undertaken."

67. Thus, it may be true, the I.C.D. at Dadri is a Self-contained Custom Station or Off Seaport (or port) facility. To that limited extent, for the purpose of the Customs Act, mainly for the levy of Customs duty and clearance of goods for home consumption, it may be considered a custom frontier of the country, irrespective of its geographical location, well inside the mainland. Yet, that status under that law would have no impact on the definition and identity of the geographical boundaries of the State of U.P., for the limited purpose of a regulatory law enacted by that State.

68. As to the third submission advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner, limits of permissible wastage (during transportation) have been prescribed, under Rule 5 of the Distillery Rules. The same limit has been made applicable to cases of import of foreign liquor by virtue of the provisions of Paragraph No. 613(3) of the Excise Manual, quoted above. Here, it may also be noted, the Rules Relating to Issue on Spirit From Distilleries Working in Private Premises or Premises Owned by the State Government, that prescribe the permissible limits of loss, have been amended by Notification dated 08.02.1978. Rule 5 of those Rules (Paragraph 814 of the Manual) provides for (revised) permissible limit of loss during transportation. The above-described amended Rule 5 reads as below:

5- लकड़ी के पीपे या धातु के पात्र में बन्ध-पत्र के अधीन परिवहित या निर्यातित स्प्रिट के अभिवहन में क्षरण, वाष्पीकरण या अन्य अपरिहार्य कारण से हुई वास्तविक हानि के लिए 0.5 प्रतिशत तक की छूट दी जायगी।

इस नियम के अधीन दी जाने वाली छूट असावनी भेजी गई स्प्रिट की मात्रा से गन्तव्य स्थान पर प्राप्त मात्रा को कम करके अवधारित की जायगी। दोनों मात्रा को लीटर अल्कोहल में उल्लिखित किया जायगा। छूट की गणना पारेषण में सम्मिलित प्रत्येक लकड़ी के पीपे या धातु के पात्र में विद्यमान मात्रा पर की जायगी। यदि ऐसे अधिकारी की, जिसके द्वारा स्प्रिट के पारेषण की उसके गन्तव्य स्थान पर माप की गई हो और उसे प्रमाणित किया गया हो, रिपोर्ट से यह प्रकट हो कि अनुज्ञेय सीमा से अधिक छीजन हुई है तो बन्ध-पत्र निष्पादित करने वाला व्यक्ति उतनी कमी पर, जितनी छूट से अधिक हो शुल्क का देनदार होगा। उद्ग्रहणीय शुल्क की दर इस राज्य में ऐसी स्प्रिट पर उद्ग्रहणीय शुल्क की उच्चतम दर होगी।"

69. The fact that quantities of HSMS had been received at I.C.D., Dadri, Gautam Budh Nagar from a (geographical) place situated in the State of Gujarat, may also not lead to the conclusion that HSMS had been imported from Gujarat. To that extent alone the reasoning offered by learned counsel for the petitioner, may not be faulted.

70. The import of HSMS from Scotland, in United Kingdom was not complete till the goods were cleared for home consumption, at I.C.D., Dadri. There is no fact allegation made by the petitioner of any loss of strength or volume suffered before the goods reached the I.C.D. Dadri. Therefore, the excessive loss - of strength and volume (of HSMS), occurred during the transportation of those goods, from the bonded warehouse at I.C.D., Dadri, to the petitioner's distillery at Modi Nagar, Ghaziabad, after their clearance for human consumption.

71. Examined in the context of discussion made above, the geographical place where the goods HSMS commenced their journey (upon being cleared from home consumption) remained inside the State of Uttar Pradesh, i.e., at Dadri, in Gautam Budh Nagar. Yet, HSMS had not been produced inside the State of Uttar Pradesh. In fact, they were imported into the country, at the I.C.D., Dadri, in Gautam Budh Nagar. Therefore, those goods became available for home consumption, under the umbrella of local regulatory laws of the State of Uttar Pradesh, only. Keeping these facts in mind, for the purpose of levy of Consideration fee/''Pratiphal Shulk', on excess transportation loss of HSMS, the applicable law for computation of that regulatory fee would remain the laws of the State of Uttar Pradesh, only. Any other construction may lead to redundancy of the regulatory law, a consequence to be avoided. Therefore, in such circumstance, Consideration fee/''Pratipahal Shulk' would be imposed in accordance with the rates prescribed in the State of Uttar Pradesh and not any other State. Thus, upon excessive loss of HSMS, the petitioner became obligated to pay Consideration Fee/'Pratiphal Shulk'. To that transaction, it was no longer relevant that the goods originated from Scotland in United Kingdom. By virtue of Paragraph 613(3) of the Excise Manual the petitioner was bound to compensate the loss to revenue arising from excessive loss of HSMS during transportation, inside the State of Uttar Pradesh, at rates prescribed under amended Paragraph 814 of the Manual.

72. In the absence of any pleading or evidence led by the State, though not part of the true reasoning, yet, it may be observed in the passing, under the terms of the bond executed by the petitioner, it became legally bound to that liability. The parties to the dispute have not brought on record the contents of the bond submitted by the petitioner. Yet, its issuance is admitted on Form FL 22 (as annexed to the Writ Petition), itself. Normally, under the Act, bonds are issued on Form PD15. It is the proforma for bonds to be issued for removal of spirits from distilleries. For ready reference, proforma bond on Form PD15 reads as below:

Form of general bond to be executed for the removal of spirits from distilleries for transport/export without pre-payment of duty.

This Indemnity Bond made the.....day of.....19.....Between..... .....son of.....resident of.....(and..... .....son of ..... resident of .....) (hereinafter called the distiller/the distillers which expression shall include his/their heirs, representatives, successors and assigns) of the one part AND the Governor of Uttar Pradesh (hereinafter called the Governor which expression shall include his successor and assigns) of the other part;

Whereas under the rules of the Government of Uttar Pradesh in the Excise Department the distiller is/distillers are permitted from time to time to transport/export spirits from his/their distillery at. ...to all or any of the bonded warehouses mentioned in the passes covering such transport/export without previous payment of duty on the distiller/ distillers executing an indemnity bond on the terms and conditions hereinafter mentioned;

Now this Bond witnesses and the distiller/distillers hereby convents/convent with the Governor as follows:

1. That the distiller/distillers shall not at any one time to so transport/export any quantity of spirits the duty on which at the rate prescribed therefor at the time or the aggregate of such duty and the duty at the aforesaid rate on any quantity previously transported/exported and not yet delivered at destination shall exceed the sum of Rupees Provided that any allowance sanctioned for dryage and wastage and any quantity not delivered at destination for which duty has been paid under clause (3) hereinafter following shall not be included in the calculation of the quantity not delivered at destination

2. That the distiller/distillers shall within the time mentioned in his/their pass issued by the officer-in-charge of the distillery on each occasion of the transport/export of spirits or within such further time as may be granted by way of extension by the Collector of the transporting/exporting district, deliver or cause to be delivered the spirits so transported/exported on that occasion into the custody of the officer-in-charge of the bonded warehouse. mentioned in the pass

3. That if the whole or any quantity of spirit transported/exported on any occasion shall not have been delivered at the destination as hereinbefore agreed, the distiller/distillers shall indemnify the Governor of any loss of duty which the Governor may suffer by reason of such non-delivery or short delivery by paying to him on demand the duty at the rate then in force on any quantity of spirit not so delivered.

In witness whereof the distiller has/distillers have hereunto set his hand/their hands the day of the years first above written.

73. In the face of such bond, if issued, by way of a pure contractual liability, the same would be fully enforceable. Interestingly, in State of Kerala and Others Vs. Mc. Dowell and Company Ltd., 1994 Supp. (2) SCC 605, an issue arose as to the levy of stamp duty (under Indian Stamp Act, 1899), on a 'bond' issued under the Kerala Abkari Act. There, 'bond' was defined under the Kerala Abkari Act as an instrument whereby a person obligated himself to pay money to another, on the condition that the obligation shall be void if a specified act was performed or not performed. The majority view (of two Judges) opined, that the instrument (in that case), was a 'bond' under the Indian Stamp Act, 1899, because the issuer had bound himself to pay the promised money in the event of specified quantities of liquor (that were removed from warehouses without payments of State Excise duty), being not actually exported out of the State and that liability would cease to exist if all quantities were exported. In his dissenting opinion, Justice Ram Manohar Sahai opined - since the liability to pay State Excise duty was pre-existing, the 'bond' in question was only an agreement.

74. Under the Act, 'bond' has not been defined. However, whether we treat the bond (that may have been issued in the present case), to be a bond simplicitor or an agreement, once issued, it would bind the issuer to account for the entire quantities of the Excisable article (as they existed at the beginning of their journey), at the end of that journey. For that reason also, exact terms of the bond apart, the nature of liability to pay Consideration fee/"Pratiphal Shulk' against excess loss of HSMS may remain enforceable, by way of a pure contractual liability.

75. For reasons noted above, it would not be right to say - the Act and the Excise Manual create levy of Consideration Fee/"Pratiphal Shulk' only on dispatches made from the distillery and not to the distillery. All transportation of liquor within the State, is covered within the regulatory sweep of Sections 15 & 16 of the Act. The petitioner applied and the respondents granted Pass to the petitioner (to transport HSMS from I.C.D. Dadri, in Gautam Budh Nagar to petitioner's distillery at Modi Nagar, Ghaziabad), on Form FL-22, against bond. That procedure was not contrary to the law. The petitioner was bound by the terms of the Pass read with the Excise Manual.

76. Accordingly, for reasons noted above, the writ petition lacks merit. No further challenge has been raised to the computation method adopted by the revenue authorities, to determine the amount of Consideration Fee/"Pratiphal Shulk'. Thus, it is not the petitioner's case that computation made is excessive or that it should have been computed through any other method.

77. Before parting, it may be observed, statutory authorities must act within the confines of the law. In the present case, they ought to have waited for expiry of the period of limitation that was available to the petitioner, to file revision, before recovering the disputed amount. The beauty and predictability of the rule of law may not take seed and it may not bear fruit in a civil society, unless the State authorities discharge their powers and functions, with the exactitude advised by the law. That degree of self-restraint alone lays the foundation of trust between the almighty State and its functionaries on one side and the citizen (and his associations, corporations, entities etc.), on the other. The citizen is tiny, yet he is the omnipresent entity for whom the modern-day State exists. It is his labour that generates both, the fuel i.e., the revenue as also the spark i.e., the means generated by the laws, that combusts the fuel and drives the giant engine of the State machinery, with purpose. Therefore, the State and its functionaries may never seek to outwit the citizen, either deliberately or inadvertently, by adopting any doubtful method. The citizen and all associations, corporations, entities that he forms, must be able to trust blindly, the State for compliance of the laws, as enacted and enforced, even if the former be perceived, standing in violation of the law. That, amongst others would be one test to ascertain adherence to the rule of law, under the Constitutional scheme of governance.

78. Last, a regret is expressed - to the delay caused in conclusion of these proceedings. In the first place, the hearing was disrupted on certain dates owing to unavoidable circumstances. Thereafter, dictation of order, though commenced upon conclusion of hearing, could not be concluded earlier, for reasons, both, avoidable and unavoidable.

79. The Writ Petition fails and is dismissed. No order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Daya Shankar Mishra, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Abhishek Mishra, learned counsel for the applicant and learned A.G.A. for the opposite party-State.

2. The present criminal misc. bail application has been filed on behalf of applicant- Wali Hasan to release him on bail in Case No.1392 of 2019, under Sections 8, 20, 29, 60 and 3 of N.D.P.S. Act, Police Station- Baradari, District- Bareilly.

3. Learned Senior Counsel on behalf of the applicant submitted that sub-Inspector lodged a first information report on 17.11.2019 against the applicant and two others with the allegation that on the basis of information received, first informant seized a truck on 17.11.2019 at 12:45 hours, which was alleged to be driven by applicant and carrying 91 packets of Ganja weighting about 201 K.G. He further submitted that 91 packets of alleged contraband (Ganja) in 8 Bags (Bora) was alleged to be recovered from inside of truck but only 1 packet weighting 1 K.G. (Ganja) out of 91 Packets was sent for chemical examination so utmost 1 K.G. can be said to be Ganja but remaining 200 K.G. cannot be said to be Ganja or any other contraband unless there is proper sampling and its chemical examination. He further submitted that it is not mentioned in the recovery memo that from each 91 packets, sample of alleged contraband (Ganja) was taken and sent for chemical examination, as such, the procedure of sampling adopted by the police authority is in violation of Standing Order / Instruction No.1 of 1989 dated 13.6.1989 issued by the Government of India under Section 52 A of N.D.P.S. Act. He has placed reliance upon Clause 2.1 to 2.8 of Standing Order / Instruction No.1 of 1989, which are as follows:

2.1 All drugs shall be classified, carefully, weighed and sampled on the spot of seizure.

2.2 All the packages/containers shall be numbered and kept in lots for sampling. Samples from the narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances seized, shall be drawn on the spot of recovery, in duplicate, in the presence of search witnesses (Panchas) and the persons from whose possession the drug is recovered and a mention to this effect should invariably be made in the panchnama drawn on the spot.

2.3 The quantity to be drawn in each sample for chemical test shall not be less than 5 grams in respect of all narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances save in the cases of opium, ganja and charas (hashish) were a quantity of 24 grams in each case is required for chemical test. The same quantities shall be taken for the duplicate sample also. The seized drugs in the packages/containers shall be well mixed to make it homogeneous and representative before the sample (in duplicate) is drawn.

2.4 In the case of seizure of a single package/container, one sample in duplicate shall be drawn. Normally, it is advisable to draw one sample (in duplicate) from each package/container in case of seizure of more than one package/container.

2.5 However, when the packages/containers seized together are of identical size and weight, bearing identical markings and the contents of each package given identical results on colour test by the drug identification kit, conclusively indicating that the packages are identical in all respects the packages/container may be carefully bunched in lots of 10 package/containers except in the case of ganja and hashish (charas), where it may be bunched in lots of, 40 such packages/containers. For each such lot of packages/containers, one sample (in duplicate) may be drawn.

2.6 Where after making such lots, in the case of hashish and ganja, less than 20 packages/containers remain, and in the case of other drugs, less than 5 packages/containers remain, no bunching would be necessary and no samples need be drawn.

2.7 If such remainder is 5 or more in the case of other drugs and substances and 20 or more in the case of ganja and hashish, one more sample (in duplicate) may be drawn for such remainder package/container.

2.8 While drawing one sample (in duplicate) from a particular lot, it must be ensured that representative sample the in equal quantity is taken from each package/container of that lot and mixed together to make a composite whole from which the samples are drawn for that lot.

4. He next submitted that there is no evidence on record regarding taking of samples as provided in standing order / instructions mentioned above, as such, taking of proper sample is highly doubtful.

5. On the point of sampling of contraband, learned counsel placed reliance upon following judgments and orders:

(i) Phool Chand Ali Vs. Union of India reported in 2020 O Supreme (All) 797.

(ii) Om Prakash Verma Vs. State of U.P. reported in 2022 O Supreme (All) 323.

(iii) Amrik Singh Vs. State of U.P. order dated 9.1.2014 passed in Criminal Appeal No.1106 of 2013

(iv) Gaunter Edwin Kircher Vs. State of Goa reported in (1993) 3 SCC 145

6. Learned counsel for applicant further submitted that standing instruction and the guidelines issued by the authority having legal sanction are required to be strictly followed by the police / arresting authorities as held by the Apex Court in the case of Noor Aga Vs. State of Punjab (2008) 3 JIC 640 (S.C.), the paragraph nos.123, 124 and 125 of the judgment are as follows:

123. Guidelines issued should not only be substantially complied, but also in a case involving penal proceedings, vis-`-vis a departmental proceeding, rigours of such guidelines may be insisted upon. Another important factor which must be borne in mind is as to whether such directions have been issued in terms of the provisions of the statute or not. When directions are issued by an authority having the legal sanction granted therefor, it becomes obligatory on the part of the subordinate authorities to comply therewith.

124. Recently, this Court in State of Kerala & Ors. v. Kurian Abraham (P) Ltd. & Anr. [(2008) 3 SCC 582], following the earlier decision of this Court in Union of India v. Azadi Bachao Andolan [(2004) 10 SCC 1] held that statutory instructions are mandatory in nature.

125. Logical corollary of these discussions is that the guidelines such as those present in the Standing Order cannot be blatantly flouted and substantial compliance therewith must be insisted upon for so that sanctity of physical evidence in such cases remains intact. Clearly, there has been no substantial compliance of these guidelines by the investigating authority which leads to drawing of an adverse inference against them to the effect that had such evidence been produced, the same would have gone against the prosecution."

7. Learned counsel further submitted that if power is given under the Act / statute / Rules to do a certain thing in a particular way, the thing must be done in that way or not at all. The other method are forbidden. On this point, learned Counsel placed reliance upon the case of Taylor Vs. Taylor [(1875) 1 Ch.D 426, 431] , Ramchandra vs. Govind AIR 1975 SC 915 Chettiam Vettil Ahamad Vs. Taluk Land Board (1979) 3 SCR 839, Shivcharan Sharma Vs. Union of India and Others 1981 A.L.J. 641 and A.R. Antalay Vs. Ramdas Sriniwas Nayak and Another 1984 2 SCC 500 wherein Hon'ble Court have held that failure to comply with the provisions made for doing a particular act renders the action nonest.

8. Learned counsel further submitted that vide order dated 31.8.2020, this Court has directed learned A.G.A. to file counter affidavit, accordingly, counter affidavit has been filed in this case but there is no categorical averment in the counter affidavit that sampling was done according to standing order / instruction. He further submitted that this Court vide order dated 6.9.2021 directed the counsel for applicant to inform the Court about the status of the trial, accordingly, supplementary affidavit was filed by applicant on 13.9.2021 annexing the certified copy of the order sheet in order to demonstrate that trial has not been concluded and prosecution has not produced any witness in the Court, therefore, custody of the applicant is against the provision of Article 21 of the Constitution of India. He further submitted that trial is still pending.

9. Learned counsel lastly submitted that applicant has no other criminal antecedents and is languishing in jail since 17.11.2019.

10. On the other hand, learned A.G.A. submitted that search was made in accordance with law and total 91 packets weighting 201 K.G. contraband was recovered from which sample has been taken and sent for chemical examination, in which, it was found that sample weighting 1 K.G. was Ganja. He further submitted that investigation was conducted in free and fair manner, accordingly, charge sheet was submitted against the applicant under Sections 8, 20, 29, 60, 3 of N.D.P.S. Act. He further submitted that although it is admitted that applicant has no criminal history but accused applicant is a man of criminal nature, as such, is not entitled to be released on bail, otherwise it will be harmful to the society. On the point of compliance of Standing Order / instruction no.1 of 1989 and its averment in any document (F.I.R., recovery memo or in the counter affidavit before this Court), learned A.G.A. could not satisfy the Court that compliance of standing order / instruction was made in respect to sampling of alleged contraband from 91 packets.

11. In reply, learned counsel for the applicant submitted that the applicant is in custody from more than 2 ½ years and trial is still pending and there is fair chance of acquittal of the applicant on the ground mentioned above, so applicant is entitled to be released on bail. On the point of custody, learned counsel for the applicant placed reliance upon a case arising out of N.D.P.S. Act in which point of sampling etc. were involved and the Apex Court has released the accused on bail in which accused (Raja Chandrasekharan) remained in custody for over a period of two years, the reference of the case is as follows:

Bharat Chaudhary Vs. Union of India with Raja Chandrasekharan Vs. the Intelligence Officer reported in 2021 O Supreme (SC) 811.

12. The Court while considering the provisions of Section 37 of the N.D.P.S. Act finds that State was granted time to reply and the State has filed counter affidavit, which has been taken into consideration. So far as other conditions is concerned, it will be relevant to mention that the Apex Court in the case of Union of India vs. Shiv Shankar Keshari (2007) 7 SCC 798 as well as in Union of India Vs. Rattan Malik (2009) 2 SCC 624 has held that court while considering the bail application with reference to section-37 of the Act is not called upon the record a finding of not guilty. It is for the limited purpose essentially confined to the question of releasing the accused on bail that the Court is called upon to see if there are reasonable grounds for believing that the accused is not guilty and records its satisfaction about existence of such grounds. It is further material to state that the applicant has no criminal history which is not disputed by the State.

13. Considering the submissions of both the parties and keeping in mind the twin conditions of Section 37 of N.D.P.S. Act and perusing the evidence on the record, it is very much established that sampling was done contrary to the Standing Order / Instruction No.1 of 1989 dated 13.6.1989, which are mandatory in nature, as such chances of applicant conviction is weak on the basis of sampling of contraband done in the present matter as well as on the basis of the ratio of the judgment in the case of Union of India vs. Shiv Shankar Keshri (supra) larger mandate of Article 21 of the constitution of India without expressing any opinion on the merit of the case, I am of the view after applying section 37 of the N.D.P.S. act that the applicant is entitled to be released on bail.

14. Let the applicant- Wali Hassan involved in aforesaid case be released on bail on their furnishing a personal bonds and two heavy sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the Court concerned with the following conditions:-

(i) The applicant shall file an undertaking to the effect that he shall not seek any adjournment on the dates fixed for evidence when the witnesses are present in court. In case of default of this condition, it shall be open for the trial court to treat it as abuse of liberty of bail and pass orders in accordance with law.

(ii) The applicant shall remain present before the trial court on each date fixed, either personally or through his counsel. In case of his absence, without sufficient cause, the trial court may proceed against him under Section 229-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(iii) In case, the applicant misuses the liberty of bail during trial and in order to secure his presence proclamation under Section 82 Cr.P.C. is issued and the applicant fails to appear before the court on the date fixed in such proclamation, then, the trial court shall initiate proceedings against him, in accordance with law, under Section 174-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(iv) The applicant shall remain present, in person, before the trial court on the dates fixed for (i) opening of the case, (ii) framing of charge and (iii) recording of statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. If in the opinion of the trial court absence of the applicant is deliberate or without sufficient cause, then it shall be open for the trial court to treat such default as abuse of liberty of bail and proceed against him in accordance with law.

Counsel for the Opposite Party:

A. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Section 344 - It is high time for the trial court to resort to Section 344 Cr.P.C in appropriate cases. In the present case since the prosecutrix before the trial Court has turned hostile and completely denied the prosecution version, therefore she is not entitled to the benefit of any compensation paid by the Government, which has been collected from the taxpayers of the country.

Application allowed. (E-12)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjay Kumar Singh, J.)

1- Heard Mr. Shashi Kant Rai, learned counsel for the applicant, learned Additional Government Advocate representing the State and perused the record.

2- By means of this application under Section 439 of Cr.P.C., applicant, who is involved in Case Crime No. 661 of 2020, under Section 376/34 IPC, P.S. Anoopshahr, District Bulandshahr seeks enlargement on bail during the pendency of trial.

3- This is the second bail application. The first bail application of the applicant was rejected by this Court vide order dated 13.08.2021 passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 23073 of 2021 on the ground that victim in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. has made allegation of rape against all the three accused person and in the vagina of the victim a circular wooden piece of 12 cm long and 2.5 cm in circumference was found.

4- The main substratum of argument of learned counsel for the applicant is that the evidence of the victim has been recorded before the trial court on 30.07.2021 as PW-1 in which she has not supported the prosecution case and has been declared hostile. She stated that she had made the allegation of rape in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. at the behest of her husband and police. It is also pointed out that other co-accused namely, Solanki Sharma and Rajesh Sharma have been granted bail by the co-ordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 25.02.2022 and 26.04.2022 passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 52622 of 2021 and Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 36862 of 2021, respectively. The case of the applicant stands on better footing than that of the aforesaid co-accused. The applicant has no criminal history to his credit and he is languishing in jail since 29.12.2020.

5- Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State opposed the prayer for bail of the applicant by contending that possibility of winning over of the victim cannot be ruled out, but does not dispute the aforesaid factum of the case as argued on behalf of the applicant.

6- Considering the facts and circumstances of the case as well as keeping in view the nature of the offence, evidence, complicity of the accused as well as considering the fact that the victim in her evidence before the trial court has not supported the prosecution case and that the other co-accused namely Solanki Sharma and Rajesh Sharma have been granted bail by the co-ordinate Bench of this Court, this Court is of the opinion that the applicant has made out a case for bail. Hence, the bail application is hereby allowed.

7- Let the applicant-Hariom Sharma be released on bail in the aforesaid case crime number on furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned with the following conditions, which are being imposed in the interest of justice:-

(i) That the applicant shall cooperate in the expeditious disposal of the trial and shall regularly attend the court unless inevitable.

(ii) That the applicant shall not directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the court or to any police officer or tamper with the evidence.

(iii) That after his release, the applicant shall not involve in any criminal activity.

(iv) The identity, status and residential proof of sureties will be verified by court concerned.

8- In case of breach of any of the conditions mentioned above, court concerned will be at liberty to cancel the bail and send the applicant to prison.

9- It is clarified that anything said in this order is limited to the purpose of determination of this bail application and will in no way be construed as an expression on the merits of the case.

10- Before parting with this case, I would like to observe that nowadays the practice of stating falsehood are being increased and the same is on higher side. On account of allegation of rape against the applicant, the image of the applicant has been tarnished in the society. He was arrested and suffered the ignominy of being involved in most hatred offence of rape. He lost reverence in the society whereas every one has right to live with dignity in the society. On acquittal of the accused on the ground that victim turned hostile, the stigma against him may be washed away to the certain extent but that is not enough. It is well settled that presumption of innocence will have to be balanced with the right of victim and accused as well as above all societal interest for enforcing the rule of law. Neither accused nor victim or any witnesses should be permitted to subvert a criminal trial by stating falsehood and resort to contrivances, so as to make it theatre of the absurd. Dispensation of justice in a criminal trial is a serious issue and cannot be allowed to become a mockery by simply allowing prime prosecution witnesses /victims to turn hostile as a ground of acquittal. Complainants should also be accountable and should take responsibility on their shoulder.

11- Considering the societal interest, it is high time for the trial court to resort to Section 344 Cr.P.C in appropriate cases. In the present case since the prosecutrix before the trial Court has turned hostile and completely denied the prosecution version, therefore she is not entitled to the benefit of any compensation paid by the Government, which has been collected from the taxpayers of the country.

12- In view of the above trial Court shall consider the issuance of necessary direction against the alleged prosecutrix/ victim to refund the amount of compensation, if any received by her, in the appropriate head of the treasury account and shall also ensure the compliance of provisions of section 344 Cr.P.C at the appropriate stage, if it deems fit and proper under the facts and circumstances of the case.

13- Office is directed to transmit a copy of this order to the court concerned within a week for compliance.

Counsel for the Applicant:

A. Criminal Law - U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities Prevention Act,1986 - Section 19(4) - The accused person, who has been prosecuted for serious offences including murder, attempt to murder and criminal conspiracy, should not be granted bail under the U.P. Gangster and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986

B. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 2(wa), 24(8), 372 & 301 - The matter in question is under Section 3(1) of U.P. Gangster and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986, and not under the IPC or any other Special Act and the complainant of the said case is the S.H.O. of the police station. So the counsel for the victim of the predicate offence i.e. FIR No. 002 of 2022 does not come within the category of "victim" pertaining to the present case. If the said victims of the predicate offence are permitted to appear and oppose the bail applications in the matters of Gangsters Act, it shall open a Pandora's box and prove hurdle in proper disposal of the case.

Application allowed. (E-12)

3. Sabir Ali Khan Vs St. of U.P Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 18588/2021

(Delivered by Hon'ble Krishan Pahal, J.)

1. Counter Affidavit filed by learned counsel, Sri Sushil Kumar Singh, is taken on record.

2. Heard Sri Vivek Pandey, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Sushil Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the victim (in the case of murder), and learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the material placed on record.

3. By means of the present bail application, the applicant seeks bail in Case Crime No. 54 of 2022, under Section 3(1) of U.P. Gangster and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986, Police Station-Tulsipur, District- Balrampur, during the pendency of trial.

RIVAL CONTENTIONS:-

4. Learned counsel for applicant has stated that applicant is a lady, aged 28 years and has her children to tender to. It is argued by the learned counsel that the prosecution under the Gangsters Act has been launched against the applicant on the basis of one criminal case shown in the gang chart, in which she has already been enlarged on bail by this Court on 20.4.2022. The details of criminal case have been mentioned in paragraph 6 of the affidavit accompanying the bail application. In the said criminal case, the role of the applicant is shown to be of criminal conspiracy only. She has been falsely implicated in the present case due to political rivalry. She is not the member of any gang. It is further stated that there is no other criminal history of the applicant. The applicant is languishing in jail since 10.1.2022. In case, the applicant is released on bail, she will not misuse the liberty of bail.

5. Per contra, learned A.G.A. and learned counsel for the victim, Sri Sushil Kumar Singh (in the said case of murder in which applicant is on bail) has vehemently argued that he has a right to be heard and he has relied on the judgements of the Apex Court as well as of this Court, wherein it has been opined that the bails of the Gangsters Act should not be leniently taken up.

6. Learned counsel for the victim of the predicate offence under Section 302 IPC has placed much reliance on Section 19(4) of the U.P. Gangster and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986, which reads as follows :-

"Section-19(4)- Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code, no person accused of an offence punishable under this Act or any rule made thereunder shall, if in custody, be released on bail or on his own bond unless :

(a) the Public Prosecutor has been given an opportunity to oppose the application for such release, and

(b) where the Public Prosecutor opposes the application, the Court is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for believing that he is not guilty of such offence and that he is not likely to commit any offence while on bail."

7. Learned counsel has further stated that the provisions of Clause 19(4) of U.P. Gangster and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 are at par with Section 37 of the NDPS Act, wherein twin conditions are in matters of commercial recovery of contraband.

8. Learned counsel has relied on the judgment of the Supreme Court passed in Jagjeet Singh & Others versus Ashish Mishra @ Monu & Another1, wherein it has been stated that a 'victim' within the meaning of Cr.P.C. cannot be asked to await the commencement of trial for asserting his/her right to participate in the proceedings.

9. Learned counsel has further relied on the judgement of the Supreme Court passed in Sudha Singh versus State of Uttar Pradesh2, wherein it has been opined that the accused person, who has been prosecuted in fifteen cases for serious offences including murder, attempt to murder and criminal conspiracy, should not have been granted bail under the U.P. Gangster and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986, and the said bail was set aside by the Supreme Court.

10. The learned counsel has further stated that the property worth crores of rupees belonging to the father of the applicant has been attached and even his three bank accounts have also been attached by the State. Learned counsel has next stated that the deep involvement of the applicant as the active member of the gang in a very sensitive matter and same has to be considered as per the provision of U.P. Gangster and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986, as any member of the gang, collectively or individually, is equally instrumental. Therefore, the individual act or the registration of previous case by him or her is to be judged by entire activity of gang in totality. Learned counsel has further stated that she is likely to inherit the illegally gained property of her father and husband.

11. Learned counsel has placed reliance on the judgement of this Court passed in Sabir Ali Khan versus State of U.P.3, wherein it has been stated that the Court has to be satisfied regarding the fact that there is no likelihood of the applicant committing any offence, whatsoever, in future also.

12. Learned counsel has further stated that there is a criminal history of thirteen cases of the father of applicant, which includes four cases of murder. He has next stated that there is a criminal history of two cases assigned to the husband of applicant also.

13. Learned counsel for the applicant has stated that the said case laws are not applicable to the present applicant as she is a lady and the criminal history referred to regarding father and husband of applicant by the learned counsel for the said victim does not apply to the applicant. The applicant was not named in the said FIR under Section 302 IPC, and her name has come up later on during investigation. The FIR was filed against unknown persons. The father of applicant is an Ex-M.P. and all have been implicated out of political rivalry.

CONCLUSION:-

14. A perusal of the record suggests that the FIR in the subject matter has been lodged by Awdhesh Raj Singh, S.H.O. P.S. Bilaspur, District- Balrampur, U.P. and there are only police witnesses in it. The victim/complainant of the predicate offence i.e. FIR No. 002 of 2022 is neither a victim nor a witness in the offence under the U.P. Gangster and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986,

15. If the said victims of the predicate offence are permitted to appear and oppose the bail applications in the matters of Gangsters Act, it shall open a Pandora's box and prove hurdle in proper disposal of the case.

16. It is true that the victim has been defined under Section 2(wa) of Cr.P.C., and the victim has been accorded the opportunity to file an appeal against any order of acquittal under proviso to Section 372 Cr.P.C.. Section 2 (wa) Cr.P.C. is being reproduced herinunder:-

"Section 2(wa)- "victim" means a person who has suffered any loss or injury caused by reason of the act or omission for which the accused person has been charged and the expression "victim" includes his or her guardian or legal heir."

17. Section 24(8) of Cr.P.C. reads as follows:-

"Section 24(8)- The Central Government or the State Government may appoint, for the purposes of any case or class of cases, a person who has been in practice as an advocate for not less than ten years as a Special Public Prosecutor:

[Provided that the Court may permit the victim to engage an advocate of his choice to assist the prosecution under the sub-section.]

18. Under proviso to Section 24(8) Cr.P.C., permission is accorded to the advocate of the choice of the victim to assist the prosecution and not to the public prosecutor. This has of late been added vide amendment of Cr.P.C. dated 31.12.2009.

19. Section 372 Cr.P.C. is being reproduced hereinunder:-

"372. No appeal to lie, unless otherwise provided.- No appeal shall lie from any judgment or order of a Criminal Court except as provided for by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force.

[Provided that the victim shall have a right to prefer an appeal against any order passed by the Court acquitting the accused or convicting for a lesser offence or imposing inadequate compensation, and such appeal shall lie to the Court to which an appeal ordinarily lies against the order of conviction of such Court.]"

20. Despite the said amendments in the Cr.P.C., Section 301 has not been amended to date. Section 301 of the Code reads hereinunder:-

"301. Appearance by Public Prosecutors.-(1) The Public Prosecutor or Assistant Public Prosecutor in charge of a case may appear and plead without any written authority before any Court in which that case is under inquiry, trial or appeal.

(2) If in any such case any private person instructs a pleader to prosecute any person in any Court, the Public Prosecutor or Assistant Public Prosecutor in charge of the case shall conduct the prosecution, and the pleader so instructed shall act therein under the directions of the Public Prosecutor or Assistant Public Prosecutor, and may, with the permission of the Court, submit written arguments after the evidence is closed in the case."

21. Section 301 applies to the complainant of the case, who can get himself represented in Court through his Advocate. The reason is that the complainant may or may not be the stranger to the offence, but the victim is the person, who suffers due to that offence.

22. Of late, the criminal jurisprudence has developed that the victim is being accorded proper opportunity of being heard not only at the various stages of trial and even at the stage of disposal of bail. But the story herein is a bit different. The matter in question is under Section 3(1) of U.P. Gangster and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986, and not under the IPC or any other Special Act and the complainant of the said case is the S.H.O. of the police station. So the counsel for the victim of the predicate offence i.e. FIR No. 002 of 2022 does not come within the category of "victim" pertaining to the present case. Inspite of the provisions discussed above, the counsel for victim in the offence u/s 302 IPC has been heard at length.

23. After hearing the learned counsel for the parties and seeing the circumstances of the case and considering the fact that there is only one case pending against the applicant and that too of a criminal conspiracy, the twin conditions referred to in Section 19(4) of the U.P. Gangster and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986, stand satisfied and it is a fit case for bail.

24. Without expressing any opinion on the merits, the bail application is allowed. Let the applicant Zeba Rizwan, involved in aforesaid case crime be released on bail on her furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned with the following conditions that :-

1. The applicant shall not tamper with the prosecution evidence by intimidating/ pressurizing the witnesses, during the investigation or trial.

2. The applicant shall cooperate in the trial sincerely without seeking any adjournment.

3. The applicant shall not indulge in any criminal activity or commission of any crime after being released on bail.

25. In case of breach of any of the above conditions, it shall be a ground for cancellation of bail. Identity, status and residence proof of the applicant and sureties be verified by the court concerned before the bonds are accepted.

A. The National Investigation Agency Act,2008 - Section 21 - Scheduled offences, whether investigated by the National Investigation Agency or by the investigating agencies of the St. Government, are to be tried exclusively by Special Courts set up under the NIA Act. When the cases pertaining to the scheduled offence are to be tried by a Special Court, then Section 21 of the NIA Act would 9 categorically apply to the case and an appeal shall only lie to the said case, before a division bench of the High Court, therefore, against the bail rejected by Special Court appeal would lie before the Division Bench of the High Court. Bail Application dismissed as non maintainable.

Held: Application allowed. (E-12)

2. Cherukuri Kutumbayya Vs The Municipal Council, Vijayawada

3. Bikramjit Singh Vs St. of Pun. (2020)10 SCC 616

(Delivered by Hon'ble Krishan Pahal, J.)

1. Heard Sri I.B. Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Ishan Baghel, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Shiv Nath Tilhari, learned A.G.A.-I for the State and perused the material available on record.

2. At the outset, learned A.G.A.-I for the State has raised a preliminary objection that the present bail is not maintainable as it cannot be heard before this Court as it is hit by Section 21 of The National Investigation Agency Act, 2008 (hereinafter referred to as "the NIA Act"). An appeal ought to have been filed on behalf of the applicant under Section 21 of the NIA Act to be heard by a division bench.

3. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicant has pressed the bail application on the ground that trial of the case by Special Court without following Section 6 of the NIA Act is illegal. The case has not been notified to the Central Government as provided under Section 6 of the NIA Act, which is being reproduced hereinbelow :-

"6. Investigation of Scheduled Offences.-(1) On receipt of information and recording thereof under section 154 of the Code relating to any Scheduled Offence the officer-in-charge of the police station shall forward the report to the State Government forthwith.

(2) On receipt of the report under sub-section (1), the State Government shall forward the report to the Central Government as expeditiously as possible.

(3) On receipt of report from the State Government, the Central Government shall determine on the basis of information made available by the State Government or received from other sources, within fifteen days from the date of receipt of the report, whether the offence is a Scheduled Offence or not and also whether, having regard to the gravity of the offence and other relevant factors, it is a fit case to be investigated by the Agency.

(4) Where the Central Government is of the opinion that the offence is a Scheduled Offence and it is a fit case to be investigated by the Agency, it shall direct the Agency to investigate the said offence.

(5) Notwithstanding anything contained in this section, if the Central Government is of the opinion that a Scheduled Offence has been committed which is required to be investigated under this Act, it may, suo motu, direct the Agency to investigate the said offence.

(6) Where any direction has been given under sub-section (4) or sub-section (5), the State Government and any police officer of the State Government investigating the offence shall not proceed with the investigation and shall forthwith transmit the relevant documents and records to the Agency.

(7) For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that till the Agency takes up the investigation of the case, it shall be the duty of the officer-in-charge of the police station to continue the investigation.

(8) Where the Central Government is of the opinion that a Scheduled Offence has been committed at any place outside India to which this Act extends, it may direct the Agency to register the case and take up investigation as if such offence has been committed in India.

(9) For the purposes of sub-section (8), the Special Court at New Delhi shall have the jurisdiction."

4. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicant has placed much reliance on the judgment of this Court dated 26.2.2019 passed in Vineet Kumar Dixit vs. State of U.P.1, wherein it has been opined after relying on the judgments of Patna High Court and Rajasthan High Court, that the cases even where scheduled offences punishable under the provisions of Schedule have been alleged, shall be tried by the courts as provided for under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, and not in accordance with the special procedure provided under the Act unless (i) The investigation of such cases is entrusted by the Central Government to the N.I.A. and (ii) The N.I.A. transfers the same to the investigating agency of State Government. The special procedure under the NIA Act would attract only when the Central Government entrusted the investigation to the NIA, who in turn either entered into the investigation itself or transfers the investigation to the State Investigation Agency as prescribed in Sections 6 and 7 of the NIA Act. There is nothing on record which may suggest that in the instant case, any of the eventuality mentioned in Sections 6 and 7 of the NIA Act exists and therefore, the bail application filed by the applicants/accused persons is maintainable under Section 439 of the Cr.P.C. The objection of the learned A.G.A.-I, is therefore, without any substance and is not acceptable.

5. Learned Senior Counsel has also placed reliance on the judgments of the Andhra Pradesh High Court in Cherukuri Kutumbayya v. The Municipal Council, Vijayawada, wherein it has been opined that :-

"6. The expression "save as otherwise provided" in Sub-Section (2) means "except to the extent specific provision is made'. In other words Sub-Section (2) will come into play only in cases which are not governed by any other specific provisions of law. Therefore, it is only where there is no other special provision in respect to any other type of land this Sub-Section is attracted. Since the legislature has enacted a specific provision in regard to agricultural lands, it is reasonable to infer that that category of lands contemplated by that Sub-Section should be governed by it.

6. Per contra, learned A.G.A.-I has vehemently opposed the bail application on the ground that the applicant has not raised any objection at the trial court regarding non-compliance of Section 6, regarding the case being tried by the Special Court under the NIA Act. Had so been the case, the trial would have been proceeded before the Sessions Judge.

7. He has further placed much reliance on Section 10 of the NIA Act, which reads as follows :-

" 10. Power of State Government to investigate Scheduled Offences.- Save as otherwise provided in this Act, nothing contained in this Act shall affect the powers of the State Government to investigate and prosecute any Scheduled Offence or other offences under any law for the time being in force."

8. Learned A.G.A.-I has also placed much reliance on Section 21 of the NIA Act, which reads as under :-

"21. Appeals.-(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code, an appeal shall lie from any judgment, sentence or order, not being an interlocutory order, of a Special Court to the High Court both on facts and on law.

(2) Every appeal under sub-section (1) shall be heard by a bench of two Judges of the High Court and shall, as far as possible, be disposed of within a period of three months from the date of admission of the appeal.

(3) Except as aforesaid, no appeal or revision shall lie to any Court from any judgment, sentence or order including an interlocutory order of a Special Court.

Provided that the High Court may entertain an appeal after the expiry of the said period of thirty days if it is satisfied that the appellant had sufficient cause for not preferring the appeal within the period of thirty days:

Provided further that no appeal shall be entertained after the expiry of period of ninety days."

9. Learned A.G.A.-I has stated that as per sub-section (4) of Section 21, it is stated that notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (3) of Section 378 of the Code, an appeal shall lie to the High Court against an order of the Special Court regarding bail. The same has to be heard by a division bench of the High Court. Learned A.G.A.-I has further stated that offence committed herein is also under Section 121(A) which is the scheduled offence and the said scheduled offence can be tried by a Special Court as provided under Section 10 of the NIA Act. The Schedule is being reproduced hereinunder :-

10. Learned A.G.A.-I has stated that the judgment referred to by the learned Senior Counsel does not apply to the present case, as by that time, there was no notification by the State Government for establishing the Special Courts. The Special Court has been established in the State of U.P. on 20.04.2021. The notification is as under:-

UTTAR PRADESH SHASAN
GRIH (POLICE) ANUBHAG-9

In pursuance of the provisions of clause (3) of Article 348 of the Constitution of India, the Governor is pleased to order the publication of the following English translation of notification no. 1002/VI-P-9-21-31(75)/2017, dated April 20, 2021.

NOTIFICATION
No. 1002/VI-P-9-21-31(75)/2017
Lucknow: Dated: April 20, 2021

In exercise of the powers conferred under sub-section (1) of Section 22 of the National Investigation Agency Act, 2008 (Act No. 34 of 2008), the Governor with the concurrence of Hon'ble High Court of Judicature at Allahabad, is pleased to designate the 3rd Senior most Court of Additional District and Session Judge, Lucknow as Special Court having territorial jurisdiction of whole state of Uttar Pradesh for the trial of all offences as specified in the Schedule appended to the aforesaid Act, which are investigated by Anti-Terror Squad/State Police of Uttar Pradesh.

By Order,

(Awanish Kumar Awasthi)
Additional Chief Secretary

11. Learned A.G.A.-I has further stated that the present FIR No. 09 of 2020 was lodged on 20.6.2021 i.e. after the notification of the State Government and the applicant is in jail since 22.9.2021 and the bail was rejected on 03.02.2022. All these events have occurred after the establishment of Special Courts by the State Government.

12. Learned A.G.A.-I has further stated that in the present subject matter, a letter has been sent by the Inspector General, ATS, Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow, Dr. G.K. Goswami, on September, 2, 2021 wherein a report has been sent to the Home Department vide letter no. ATS-25-2-(09)/2021/6939 regarding the present case. It has further been stated that the Special Secretary, Home State of U.P. has sent a letter to the Ministry of Home Affairs, Government of India to the same effect.

13. Learned A.G.A.-I has placed much reliance on Section 22 of the NIA Act, which reads as under :-

" 22. Power of State Government to designate Court of Session as Special Courts.-- (1) The State Government may designate one or more Courts of Session as Special Courts for the trial of offences under any or all the enactments specified in the Schedule.

(2) The provisions of this Chapter shall apply to the Special Courts designated by the State Government under sub-section (1) and shall have effect subject to the following modifications, namely:-

(i) references to "Central Government" in sections 11 and 15 shall be construed as references to State Government;

(ii) reference to "Agency" in sub-section (1) of section 13 shall be construed as a reference to the "investigation agency of the State Government";

(iii) reference to "Attorney-General for India" in sub-section (3) of section 13 shall be construed as reference to "Advocate-General of the State".

(3) The jurisdiction conferred by this Act on a Special Court shall, until a Special Court is designated by the State Government under sub-section (1) in the case of any offence punishable under this Act, notwithstanding anything contained in the Code, be exercised by the Court of Session of the division in which such offence has been committed and it shall have all the powers and follow the procedure provided under this Chapter.

(4) On and from the date when the Special Court is designated by the State Government the trial of any offence investigated by the State Government under the provisions of this Act, which would have been required to be held before the Special Court, shall stand transferred to that Court on the date on which it is constituted."

14. Learned A.G.A.-I has stated that on the date when the Special Court was designated by the State Government, the trial of any offence investigated by the State Government under the provisions of the NIA Act, it would have been required to be held before the Special Court shall stand transferred to that Court on the date, it is constituted.

15. Learned A.G.A.-I has further stated that under Section 22, the word "Agency" which has been used in sub-section (1) of Section 13 shall be construed as a reference to "Investigation Agency of the State Government". To buttress his arguments, learned Senior counsel has placed much reliance on the judgment of the Supreme Court passed in Bikramjit Singh versus State of Punjab,2 wherein it has been stated that:-

"26. Before the NIA Act was enacted, offences under the UAPA were of two kinds - those with a maximum imprisonment of over 7 years, and those with a maximum imprisonment of 7 years and under. Under the Code as applicable to offences against other laws, offences having a maximum sentence of 7 years and under are triable by the Magistrate's Courts, whereas offences having a maximum sentence of above 7 years are triable by Courts of Session. This Scheme has been completely done away with by the NIA Act, 2008 as all Scheduled Offences i.e. all offences under the UAPA, whether investigated by the National Investigation Agency or by the investigating agencies of the State Government, are to be tried exclusively by Special Courts set up under that Act. In the absence of any designated Court by notification issued by either the Central Government or the State Government, the fall back is upon the Court of Sessions alone. Thus, under the aforesaid Scheme what becomes clear is that so far as all offences under the UAPA are concerned, the Magistrate's jurisdiction to extend time under the first proviso in Section 43-D(2)(b) is non-existent, "the Court" being either a Sessions Court, in the absence of a notification specifying a Special Court, or the Special Court itself. The impugned judgment in arriving at the contrary conclusion is incorrect as it has missed Section 22(2) read with Section 13 of the NIA Act. Also, the impugned judgement has missed Section 16(1) of the NIA Act which states that a Special Court may take cognizance of any offence without the accused being committed to it for trial inter alia upon a police report of such facts."

16. Learned A.G.A.-I has stated that scheduled offences, whether investigated by the National Investigation Agency or by the investigating agencies of the State Government, are to be tried exclusively by Special Courts set up under the NIA Act.

Section 13(1) of the NIA Act, which begins in a notion reads as under :-

"13. Jurisdiction of Special Courts.-(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code, every Scheduled Offence investigated by the Agency shall be tried only by the Special Court within whose local jurisdiction it was committed."

17. The aforesaid Section 13(1) of the NIA Act begins with a non-obstante clause, which is notwithstanding anything contained in the Code, read with Section 22(2)(ii), states that every Scheduled Offence that is investigated by the Investigation Agency of the State Government is to be tried exclusively by the Special Court within whose jurisdiction it was committed.

18. When the cases pertaining to the scheduled offence are to be tried by a Special Court, then Section 21 of the NIA Act would categorically apply to the case and an appeal shall only lie to the said case, before a division bench of the High Court.

19. Thus, it follows from the aforesaid averments of the parties that the Special Court in the State has been established vide notification no. 1002/VI-P-9-21-31(75)/2017, and the bail application of the applicant has been rejected by the Special Court under NIA Act vide order dated 3.2.2022. No objection whatsoever, has been raised by the applicant before the designated court and the provisions of Section 21(4) are applicable to the present case. Furthermore, Section 6 of the NIA Act has been complied with. The bail application filed without jurisdiction before this Court is, thus, not maintainable.

20. The bail application is dismissed with a liberty to file an application for appeal under Section 21 of the NIA Act before the appropriate bench.

21. The counsel for the applicant shall be returned the certified copies of the orders and other relevant documents, after keeping photocopies thereof, as per the Rules of the Allahabad High Court.

Application allowed. (E-12)

List of Cases cited:-

1. Atul Mishra Vs St. of U.P. & ors. 2022(3) ALJ 78

2. Dataram Singh Vs St. of U.P. & anr. (2018)3 SCC 22

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the material placed on record.

2. Applicant seeks bail in Case Crime No.193 of 2019, under Sections 363, 366, 504, 506, 376 IPC & Sections 3/4 of P.O.C.S.O. Act, Police Station Mitauli, Distric

3. The counsel for the victim is regularly absent since last so many dates. The hearing cannot be stalled on account of non cooperation of one counsel.

4. As per prosecution story, the applicant is stated to have enticed away the minor daughter of the informant in the night of 16/17.05.2018 at about 2:00 am. As per the allegations in the FIR, the date of birth of the victim is stated to be 13.11.2004 and the applicant is stated to have left her alone outside the village on 12.12.2018 i.e. after a period of about six months. The victim was found pregnant at that time and is stated to have given birth to a female child on 31.12.2018.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant has stated that he was madly love with the victim and out of fear of the villagers had eloped with the victim and had undergone marriage in a temple although the said marriage is not registered. Learned counsel for the applicant has further stated that although the statement of the victim recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. is against the applicant, but the same has been garnered out of fear of the family members of the girl. The applicant and the victim belong to the same village and the same community. He further argued that the applicant proposes to rear his child as he is the father and he is very much willing to keep his married wife and the newborn baby with him. Several other submissions have been made on behalf of the applicant to demonstrate the falsity of the allegations made against him. The circumstances which, as per counsel, led to the false implication of the applicant have also been touched upon at length. The applicant is languishing in jail since 01.10.2019. In case, the applicant is released on bail, he will not misuse the liberty of bail. There are no criminal antecedents of the applicant.

6. Per contra, Sri Girjesh Kumar Dwivedi, learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the bail application but has not disputed the fact that out of the said union of the couple, a baby girl was born on 31.12.2018 and she is more than three and half years of age as present, who is being taken care of by the parents of the victim, although he has not disputed the fact that the applicant has no criminal history.

7. The matter shatters the conscious of one and all. What is the fault of the new born baby who has come to world under such circumstances?

8. Admittedly, as per the radiological examination report, the age of the victim is between 18-20 years, which is on record as filed in supplementary affidavit dated 13.01.2022. Thus, the victim can be stated to be major at the time of offence.

9. In this conservative and non-permissive society, it is true that marriage in the same village is prohibited and is not customary, and it may be an after effect of media and cinema. Instances of marriage in the same village are on the rise. This does adversely affect the social fabric. Both the accused and the victim are of very young age and have barely attained the age of majority. A baby girl has been born out of their wedlock. Though, the marriage may not be described as per the law of the land, but the Court has to apply a pragmatic approach in such conditions and indeed both the families are required to act practically. A lot of water has flown down the Ganges. Now, it's time to move ahead.

10. The youth in their tender age become victim to the legal parameters though rightly framed by the legislature, but here this Court is being drawn to make an exception in the extraordinary circumstances of the case. The life of a newborn child is at stake. She cannot to be left to face the stigma during her life.

11. The mathematical permutations and combinations have to be done away with. A hypertechnical and mechanical approach shall do no good to the parties and why should an innocent baby out of no fault of her bear the brutalities of the society in the present circumstances. Human psychosis and that too of the adolescents has to be taken into account.

12. This Court in the case of Atul Mishra vs. State of U.P. And 3 others1, has also done away with the stringent provisions of the P.O.C.S.O. Act under the extra-ordinary circumstances of the case.

13. Keeping in view the nature of the offence, evidence on record regarding complicity of the accused, larger mandate of the Article 21 of the Constitution of India and the dictum of Apex Court in the case of Dataram Singh Vs. State of U.P. and another2, and without expressing any opinion on the merits of the case, the Court is of the view that the applicant has made out a case for bail. The bail application is allowed.

14. Let the applicant- Ramshankar, who is involved in aforementioned case crime be released on bail on his furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned subject to following conditions. Further, before issuing the release order, the sureties be verified.

(i) The applicant is being released on bail on the assurance of the learned counsel for the applicant that he is very much willing to take care of his wife (victim) and the infant. The applicant shall deposit (fixed deposit) a sum of Rs.2,00,000/- in the name of new born child of the victim till her attaining the age of majority within a period of six months from the date of release from jail.

(ii) The applicant shall file an undertaking to the effect that he shall not seek any adjournment on the date fixed for evidence when the witnesses are present in Court. In case of default of this condition, it shall be open for the Trial Court to treat it as abuse of liberty of bail and pass orders in accordance with law.

(iii) The applicant shall remain present before the Trial Court on each date fixed, either personally or through his counsel. In case of his absence, without sufficient cause, the Trial Court may proceed against him under Section 229-A IPC.

(iv) In case, the applicant misuses the liberty of bail during trial and in order to secure his presence proclamation under Section 82 Cr.P.C., may be issued and if applicant fails to appear before the Court on the date fixed in such proclamation, then, the Trial Court shall initiate proceedings against him, in accordance with law, under Section 174-A IPC.

(v) The applicant shall remain present, in person, before the Trial Court on dates fixed for (1) opening of the case, (2) framing of charge and (3) recording of statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. If in the opinion of the Trial Court absence of the applicant is deliberate or without sufficient cause, then it shall be open for the Trial Court to treat such default as abuse of liberty of bail and proceed against him in accordance with law.

In case of breach of any of the above conditions, it shall be a ground for cancellation of bail.

It is made clear that observations made in granting bail to the applicant shall not in any way affect the learned trial Judge in forming his independent opinion based on the testimony of the witnesses.

The examination of material either by the Forensic Analyst or Chemical Analyst is an integral part of investigation which may provide a link regarding the cause of death or give a lead in the matter. The same is very relevant for the proper investigation and even for the courts judging the case in the trial. The chargesheets are submitted without the reports of the Forensic Lab or Chemical Analyst, the investigation cannot be said to be completed without the report (s) of the experts to whom materials 5 are sent for their opinion. As the prosecution relies on the said part of evidence also, it cannot be said that the investigation has concluded in spite of the reports not being received. A tendency has developed of filing of the said reports of the experts through a supplementary charge sheet at a much much later stage. In the meantime the accused suffers the rigorous of jail and explores the remedy available to him for bail and even as per the facts of the present case all the witnesses have been examined in the trial but the said report is still awaited in spite of a letter and it's reminder by the concerned trial court to a responsible officer of the laboratory for sending a report by examining the contents out of turn. This system cannot be given a knot. It has to be deprecated. This Court apart from its inherent power has power of superintendence also. It cannot shut its eye to grave irregularities, when they are brought to its notice or even comes to its knowledge.

Application dismissed. (E-12)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Samit Gopal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ravi Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Sanjay Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the State and perused the records.

2. Personal affidavit of Sri Ashok Kumar, Deputy Director, Forensic Science

Laboratory, U.P., Agra has been filed today which is taken on record. He is present in Court in compliance of the order dated 6.4.2022 of this Court.

3. Personal affidavit of Sri Badugu Deva Paulson, Secretary (Home), Government of U.P., Lucknow has also been filed today which is taken on record.

4. Personal affidavit of Sri Mukul Goel, Director General of Police, U.P., Lucknow has also been filed today which is taken on record.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant states that the present bail application has rendered infructuous as the trial has concluded and the applicant has been convicted, as such the same may be dismissed as not pressed.

6. Although a prayer has been made to dismiss the bail application as not pressed but since compliance affidavits have been filed by the concerned officials as stated above in compliance of the order dated 6.4.2022 of this Court, it would be necessary to refer to them as the said matter is in the larger interest of justice before closing the issue.

7. On 6.4.2022, following order was passed by this Court:-

"Heard Sri Ravi Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Sanjay Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the State.

This is the second bail application on behalf of the applicant. The first bail application of the applicant was rejected by this Court vide order dated 6.2.2020 passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.4779 of 2020. While rejecting the said bail application, this Court had expedited the trial and directed to conclude the same as expeditiously as possible, preferably within six months from the date of production of certified copy of the same. The said order was filed before the trial court on 3.3.2020.

Learned counsel for the applicant argued that the applicant is in jail since 23.04.2018 and the trial has not concluded. This Court vide order dated 27.10.2021 directed the District Judge, Meerut to send the report regarding the stage of trial and compliance of the order dated 06.02.2020 passed by this Court. The order passed on 27.10.2021 is quoted here-in-below:-

"Heard Sri Ravi Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Akhilesh Kumar Tripathi, learned counsel for the State.

This is the second bail application on behalf of the applicant. The first bail application of the applicant was rejected by this Court vide order dated 6.2.2020 passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.4779 of 2020.

Learned counsel for the applicant argued that the order rejecting the first bail of the applicant was filed before the trial court on 3.3.2020 and even then the trial is pending and has not yet concluded. He has placed the certified copy of the order sheet which is annexed as annexure no.23 to the affidavit filed in support of bail application. The applicant is in jail since 23.04.2018.

Looking to the arguments of the learned counsel for the applicant, let a report from the District Judge, Meerut be called within three weeks from today regarding the stage of trial and compliance of the order dated 06.02.2020 passed by this Court.

The office to communicate this order to the concerned District Judge within a week from today.

Let the matter be listed in the week commencing 22.11.2021 along with report received from the District Judge, Meerut."

The report of the In-Charge Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, Special Court No.2 (Prevention of Corruption Act), Meerut dated 17.11.2021 is on record.

A perusal of the said report shows that the statement of P.W.1 Phool Chand Singh was recorded on 4.9.2019, statement of P.W.2 Umesh Chand was recorded on 15.11.2019, statement of P.W.3 and 4 Monu and Devendra Saini was recorded on 18.2.2020. Subsequently the certified copy of the order dated 6.2.2020 was filed before the trial court on 5.3.2020, after it, statement of P.W.5 S.I. Ajay Kumar was recorded on 18.3.2020, statement of P.W.6 Dr. Vinod Kumar Singh was recorded on 16.10.2020 and 8.1.2021, statement of P.W.7 Constable Clerk Rambir Singh was recorded on 4.11.2020, statement of P.W.8 Dr. Shashank Mishra was recorded on 21.12.2020 and statement of P.W.9 S.I. Sunir Kumar was recorded on 10.8.2021. The report of the Forensic Lab with regards to the examination of the alleged weapon of assault has not reached the Court and as such the same was summoned. The trial court sent a letter dated 7.9.2021 and subsequently a reminder dated 11.11.2021 to the Forensic Science Laboratory, Agra for summoning the said report and even stating to the Joint Director that if the said item has not reached it's number, it should be examined on priority and a report be sent immediately. The report of the concerned trial Judge states that except for the report of the Forensic Lab, trial is almost complete.

This situation is alarming.

The investigation concluded and charge sheet was submitted which appears to have been submitted without the report of the Forensic Lab. The charges were framed and the evidence of all the witnesses have been examined as is evident from the report dated 17.11.2021 of the Trial Judge sent by the In-Charge District Judge with his letter dated 17.11.2021. The delayed examination of material in the Forensic Lab appears to be a routine now. In spite of the order of this Court and also various orders of other Courts, the system has not improved and it appears that the same have no effect and there is no anxiety by anyone to improve the system. The present case is glaring example of it. The applicant is in jail since 23.04.2018. The only impediment in conclusion of trial as of now is non-receipt of the report of the Forensic Lab. The letter and it's reminder by the trial court to the Joint Director, Forensic Laboratory, Agra also appear to have been kept pending in a routine manner without any action on it. Even the minimum courtesy of reciprocating the said letter and its reminder was not resorted to by the concerned officer. An order/direction/request from a court is expected to be honoured.

This Court in Crl. Misc. Bail Application No.14403 of 2021 "Tahir Khan Vs. State of U.P." vide order dated 11.11.2021 wherein viscera was preserved and the report was not made available had shown it's displeasure in delayed examination of the same by the Forensic Lab and had directed the Director General of Police, U.P., Lucknow and the Secretary, Homes, Government of U.P., Lucknow to take up the issue at their end for it's expeditious examination to help the Investigating Agencies so that the same would not be an impediment before the courts in deciding matters. It appears that in spite of the said order no system has been evolved and the matter is not being looked seriously by the concerned authorities. It is reiterated that the examination of material either by the Forensic Analyst or Chemical Analyst is an integral part of investigation which may provide a link regarding the cause of death or give a lead in the matter. The same is very relevant for the proper investigation and even for the courts judging the case in the trial. The charge-sheets are submitted without the reports of the Forensic Lab or Chemical Analyst, the investigation cannot be said to be completed without the report (s) of the experts to whom materials are sent for their opinion. As the prosecution relies on the said part of evidence also, it cannot be said that the investigation has concluded in spite of the reports not being received. A tendency has developed of filing of the said reports of the experts through a supplementary charge sheet at a much much later stage. In the meantime the accused suffers the rigorous of jail and explores the remedy available to him for bail and even as per the facts of the present case all the witnesses have been examined in the trial but the said report is still awaited in spite of a letter and it's reminder by the concerned trial court to a responsible officer of the laboratory for sending a report by examining the contents out of turn. This system cannot be given a knot. It has to be deprecated.

This Court apart from its inherent power has power of superintendence also. It cannot shut its eye to grave irregularities, when they are brought to its notice or even comes to its knowledge.

Looking to the facts of the matter as stated above, let personal affidavits be filed by the Director General of Police, U.P., Lucknow and the Secretary, Home, Government of U.P., Lucknow informing the Court as to what steps are being taken by them for expeditious examination of materials sent to the experts for analysis. The said affidavit be filed within three weeks from today.

The Director, Forensic Science Laboratory, Agra is directed to appear before this Court on the next date and explain as to why the letter dated 7.9.2021 and its reminder dated 11.11.2021 sent by the trial court has not been acted upon.

The Registrar General, High Court shall communicate this order to the concerned officers forthwith. Learned A.G.A. for the State shall also communicate it them for immediate compliance."

8. In response to the same, the affidavit of Deputy Director, Forensic Science Laboratory, U.P., Agra states that the examination report dated 03.03.2021 was sent to the Senior Superintendent of Police, Meerut by speed post on 3.3.2021 itself. Thereafter a reminder was sent for the same by the Circle Officer, Daurala, Meerut on 24.9.2021 through special messenger asking for the report to whom it was communicated that the said report dated 3.3.2021 has already been sent by post. Still in response to the said reminder, a second copy of the said report was sent on 24.12.2021 by Special Messenger Constable 1599 Shiv Pratap of Police Station Kankarkhera, District Meerut. The Station House Officer of Police Station Kankarkhera, District Meerut informed the Senior Superintendent of Police, Meerut that the report in question had been submitted in the Court of Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, District Meerut on 24.12.2021 and the evidence has completed and the matter has been fixed for 20.4.2022 for delivery of judgement. The judgement has been delivered on 20.04.2022 convicting the accused appellant Praveen Pal.

9. .2022 stating about the steps being taken for expediting the examination of samples of the Forensic Science Laboratory so that the investigating agencies would be expediting the cases and also in order to remove the impediment caused by delay in deciding the cases before the courts. The steps which are being taken have been stated in para nos.6 to 14 of the said affidavit, the same are reproduced hereunder:-

11. In view of the affidavits of Secretary (Home), Government of U.P.,

THE HON'BLE SANJAY KUMAR SINGH, J.

Criminal Misc. 2nd Bail Application No. 45253 of 2021

Dheeraj Kumar Shukla ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri Chandra Shekhar Mishra

Counsel for the Opposite Party:
G.A.

A. Criminal Law - Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 – Section 37 --- The power to grant bail to a person accused of having committed offence under the NDPS Act is not only subject to the limitations imposed under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, it is also subject to the restrictions placed by sub-clause (b) of subsection (1) of Section 37 of the NDPS Act. Apart from giving an opportunity to the Public Prosecutor to oppose the application for such release, the other twin conditions viz; (i) the satisfaction of the Court that there are reasonable grounds for believing that the accused is not guilty of the alleged offence; and (ii) that he is not likely to commit any offence while on bail, have to be satisfied. It is manifest that the conditions are cumulative and not alternative. The satisfaction contemplated regarding the accused being not guilty, has to be based on "reasonable grounds". The expression `reasonable grounds' has not been defined in the said Act but means something more than prima facie grounds. It connotes substantial probable causes for believing that the accused is not guilty of the offence he is charged with.

B. While considering an application for bail with reference to Section 37 of the NDPS Act, the Court is not called upon to record a finding of 'not guilty'. At this stage, it is neither necessary nor desirable to weigh the evidence meticulously to arrive at a positive finding as to whether or not the accused has committed offence under the NDPS Act. What is to be seen is whether there is reasonable ground for believing that the accused is not guilty of the offence(s) he is charged with and further that he is not likely to commit an offence under the said Act while on bail. The satisfaction of the Court about the existence of the said twin conditions is for a limited purpose and is confined to the question of releasing the accused on bail. Although it is established that a court considering a bail application cannot undertake a detailed examination of evidence and an elaborate discussion on the merits of the case, the court is required to indicate the prima facie reasons justifying the grant of bail. Merely recording "having perused the record" and "on the facts and circumstances of the case" does not subserve the purpose of a reasoned judicial order. Though detail evaluation of facts on merit is not permissible, but the Court granting bail cannot obviate its duty to apply its judicial mind and to record reasons, brief as they may be, for the purpose of deciding whether or not to grant bail.

C. Bail orders of the Coordinate Benches, which have been passed without giving reason on merit and without taking note of limitations provided under Section 37 of the N.D.P.S. Act in cases of a recovery of contraband of commercial quantity have no persuasive value and the same is not binding upon this Court. A judge is not bound to grant bail to an accused on the ground of parity even where the order granting bail to an identically placed co-accused contains no cogent reasons or if the same has been passed in flagrant violation of well established principle of law. If any illegality is brought to the knowledge of the Court, the same should not be permitted to perpetuate. It is also well settled that no judge is obliged to pass orders against his conscience merely to maintain consistency.

D. Long detention may be relevant for grant of bail in matters arising out of conviction under Penal Code etc., but are not sufficient to satisfy the mandatory requirements as stipulated in clause (b) of sub-Section (1) of Section 37 of the N.D.P.S. Act. Mere long detention in jail does not entitle an accused to be enlarged on bail pending trial.

E. Fresh arguments in a second bail application for an accused cannot be allowed to be advanced on those very facts that were available to the accused while the first bail application was moved and rejected.

Application dismissed. (E-12)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjay Kumar Singh, J.)

1- This is second bail application moved on behalf of the applicant. The first bail application of the applicant has been rejected by detailed order dated 06.07.2021 passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 42092 of 2020.

2- By means of this second bail application, the applicant-Dheeraj Kumar Shukla, who is involved in Case Crime No. 0325 of 2020, under Sections 8/20 of Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act (hereinafter referred to as "N.D.P.S. Act"), police station Jhunsi, district Prayagraj, is seeking enlargement on bail during the pendency of trial.

3- Heard Mr. Chandra Shekhar Mishra, learned counsel for the applicant, Mr. Virendra Kumar Maurya, learned Additional Government Advocate assisted by Mr. Prashant Kumar Singh, learned Brief holder appearing on behalf of State of U.P. and perused the record.

4- In short compass, the facts of the case as per prosecution case are that on the information of informer, two vehicles white coloured Swift Dzire car and grey coloured Honda City car were intercepted on 23.06.2020 by the police team using necessary force and persons sitting in the vehicles were pulled out. On questioning, they disclosed about transportation of illegal Ganja in the said vehicles. On interrogation at the spot, the apprehended accused persons, who were sitting in Honda City car, disclosed their names as Praveen Maurya alias Punit Maurya (owner), Rishabh Kumar (Driver) and Dhiraj Maurya, whereas person, who was driving Swift Dzire car disclosed his name as Dheeraj Kumar Shukla (applicant). The accused were enlightened about their legal rights to be searched before a Gazetted Officer, to which they declined and gave their consent saying that informant may take their search. Accordingly, they were searched, but no contraband was recovered from their personal search, except mobile phones and some cash amount etc. as mentioned in the recovery memo. On taking search of aforesaid vehicles, total 92.410 Kgs. of Ganja were recovered from the dicky of Honda City car bearing No. MH 04 AF 0076 and 65.160 Kgs. of Ganja were recovered from the dicky of Swift Dzire car bearing No. UP 70 EW 0246. As such, total 157.570 Kgs of illegal Ganja have been recovered in this case. Accused persons could not show the authorization for keeping and transporting the same. Separate samples of about 100-100 grams each of Ganja were taken out from each packets, thereafter samples and remaining Ganja as well as other recovered materials were separately sealed in white cloths. Specimens of seal were prepared. Accused persons disclosed that they have been engaged in the trafficking of Ganja since last several years. They also disclosed that they purchased the Ganja from one Hari, resident of Kodpad, Odisha and will sell the same on higher price in Prayagraj. Both the aforesaid vehicles were also seized. Contents of recovery memo were explained to the accused persons and after taking their signatures, copy of recovery memo was handed over to them. On the basis of aforesaid recovery, a case was registered against the accused persons at Case Crime No. 0325 of 2020, under section 8/20 of N.D.P.S. Act, police station Jhunsi, district Prayagraj.

5- It is submitted by learned counsel for the applicant that instant second bail application has been moved mainly on the following two new grounds:-

(i)- After rejection of first bail application of the applicant on 06.07.2020, co-accused Sonoo Shukla and Praveen Maurya @ Puneet Maurya have been granted bail by the Coordinate Bench of this Court vide orders dated 14.07.2021 and 14.09.2021 in Criminal Misc. Bail Application Nos. 20323 of 2021 and 44698 of 2020 respectively, therefore, the applicant is also entitled to be released on bail on the ground of parity.

(ii)- Applicant is in jail but trial is not proceeding effectively.

6- Per-contra, learned Additional Government Advocate vehemently opposed the prayer for bail of the applicant by contending that:-

(i)- commercial quantity of Ganja is 20 Kg, whereas in this case total 157.570 Kgs. of illegal Ganja have been recovered (92.410 Kgs. of Ganja was recovered from the dicky of Honda City car bearing No. MH 04 AF 0076 and 65.160 Kgs. of Ganja from the dicky of Swift Dzire car bearing No. UP 70 EW 0246), which are much more than commercial quantity, therefore, provisions of Section 37 of the N.D.P.S. Act are attracted in the present case.

(ii)- co-accused Sonoo Shukla and Praveen Maurya @ Puneet Maurya have been granted bail by the Coordinate Bench vide orders dated 14.07.2021 and 14.09.2021 respectively without considering the mandatory provisions of Section 37 of the N.D.P.S. Act and material on record available in the case diary as well as without giving any reason, therefore, benefit of parity of such bail orders cannot be given to the present applicant.

(iii)- the bail has been obtained by misrepresentation of facts and law. It is submitted that in this case, total 157.570 Kgs "Ganja' was recovered from the dicky of the vehicles in question, therefore, provisions of Section 50 of N.D.P.S. Act is not attracted at all in view of the recent judgments of the Apex Court in the cases of Varinder Kumar Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, (2020) 3 SCC 321, Kallu Khan Vs. State of Rajasthan, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 1223 and Dayalu Kashyap Vs. State of Chattisgarh, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 334.

(iv)- Mr. Maurya, learned A.G.A. has also placed reliance upon following judgments of the Apex Court as well as of this Court:-

(a). In Chandigarh Administration and another Vs. Jagjit

Singh and another, AIR 1995 SC 705, the Apex Court in paragraph-8 has held as follows:

"..... if the order in favour of the other person is found to be contrary to law or not warranted in the facts and circumstances of his case, it is obvious that such illegal and unwarranted order cannot be made the basis of issuing a writ compelling the respondent-authority to repeat the illegality or to pass another unwarranted order."

"..... The illegal/unwarranted action must be corrected, if it can be done according to law-indeed, wherever it is possible, the Court should direct the appropriate authority to correct such wrong orders in accordance with law-but even if it cannot be corrected, it is difficult to see how it can be made a basis for its repetition.

"..... Giving effect to such pleas would be prejudicial to the interests of law and will do incalculable mischief to 5 public interest. It will be a negation of law and the rule of law."

(b). In Special Leave Petition No. 4059 of 2000: Rakesh Kumar Pandey Vs. Munni Singh @ Mata Bux Singh and another, decided on 12.3.2001, the Hon'ble Apex Court strongly denounced the order of the High Court granting bail to the co-accused on the ground of parity in a heinous offence and while cancelling the bail granted by the High Court it observed that:-

"The High Court on being moved, has considered the application for bail and without bearing in mind the relevant materials on record as well as the gravity of offence released the accused-respondents on bail, since the co-accused, who had been ascribed similar role, had been granted bail earlier."

(c). In the case of Satyendra Singh Vs. State of U.P., 1996 A.Cr.R. 867, the following observations have been made by this Court :

Para 16: "The orders granting, refusing or cancelling bail are orders of interlocutory nature. It is true that discretion in passing interim orders should be exercised judicially but rule of parity is not applicable in all the cases, where one or more accused have been granted bail or similar role has been assigned inasmuch as bail is granted on the totality of facts and circumstances of a case. Parity can not be a sole ground and is one of the grounds for consideration of the question of bail."

7- Having heard the learned counsel for the parties, I find that the issue that arises for consideration before this Court is "as to whether the applicant is entitled to be released on bail only on the ground of parity of bail orders dated 14.07.2021 and 14.09.2021 of co-accused Sonoo Shukla and Praveen Maurya @ Puneet Maurya, which have been passed by the Coordinate Bench without considering the mandatory provisions of Section 37 of the N.D.P.S. Act and without giving reasons."

8- Relevant part of the aforesaid bail order dated 14.07.2021 of co-accused Sonoo Shukla passed by the Coordinate Bench is being reproduced herein below:-

"Heard learned counsel for the applicant, learned A.G.A for the State and perused the record.

It has been argued by learned counsel for the applicant that applicant is innocent and he has been falsely implicated in the present case. It is alleged that 157.570 of Ganja was alleged to be recovered from the vehicle Swift Desire Car No. UP-70-EW-0246, which is registered in the name of accused-applicant. It is further contended that the alleged recovery was not made from the accused-applicant and he was implicated in this case on the ground that he is registered owner of the aforesaid Swift Desire Car. It is further contended that the recovery was made from Dheeraj Kumar Shukla, who is the brother of present accused-applicant from aforesaid Swift Desire Car. It is contended that on arrest of co-accused - Dheeraj Kumar Shukla, he stated that this car belongs to him. His father has purchased in the name of present accused-applicant for use of co-accused Dheeraj. It is further contended that Swift Desire Car No. UP-70-EW-0246 has been released in favour of the accused-applicant by the Court of learned Additional District & Sessions Judge Court No. 10, Allahabad on 15.10.2020. It is further contended that the alleged vehicle was used for transporting of alleged contraband without his knowledge of his brother or without his consent.

Learned A.G.A. has opposed the prayer for bail, but he could not dispute the aforesaid facts and submitted that the alleged recovery was not made from the accused-applicant. He has not disputed the above facts that the alleged vehicle was not released in favour of the accused applicant.

Considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case, submissions of learned counsel for the parties, nature of evidence and all attending facts and circumstances of the case, without expressing any opinion on merits of the case, the Court is of the view that the applicant has made out a case for bail. The bail application is allowed."

9- Relevant part of bail order dated 14.09.2021 of co-accused Praveen Maurya @ Puneet Maurya passed by the Coordinate Bench is being also reproduced herein below:-

"Heard learned counsel for the applicant, learned AGA, appearing for the State and perused the material brought on record.

It has been contended by the learned counsel for the applicant that 92.410 kilograms contraband article, i.e. Ganja, is said to have been recovered from the vehicle in which the applicant and one co-accused were sitting along with the driver. He further submits that there is no compliance of mandatory provisions of Section 50 N.D.P.S. Act, hence the recovery is bad in the eyes of law. It has also been submitted that the applicant is languishing in jail since 24.06.2020. The applicant has no other reported criminal antecedent.

Learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the prayer.

Courts have taken notice of the overcrowding of jails during the current pandemic situation (Ref.: Suo Motu Writ Petition (C) No. 1/2020, Contagion of COVID 19 Virus in prisons before the Supreme Court of India). These circumstances shall also be factored in while considering bail applications on behalf of accused persons.

Having heard the submissions of learned counsel of both sides, nature of accusation and the severity of punishment in case of conviction and the nature of supporting evidence, prima facie satisfaction of the Court in support of the charge, reformative theory of punishment, and larger mandate of the Article 21 of the Constitution of India, the dictum of Apex Court in the case of Dataram Singh v. State of U.P. and another, reported in (2018) 2 SCC 22 and without expressing any opinion on the merit of the case, I find it to be a case of bail."

10- Before delving into the matter, it is apposite to quote the Section 37 of N.D.P.S. Act, which are as follows:-

"37. Offences to be cognizable and non-bailable. - (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974)-

a- every offence punishable under this Act shall be cognizable;

b- no person accused of an offence punishable for [offences under section 19 or section 24 or section 27A and also for offences involving commercial quantity] shall be released on bail or on his own bond unless

(i) the Public Prosecutor has been given an opportunity to oppose the application for such release, and

(ii) where the Public Prosecutor opposes the application, the court is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for believing that he is not guilty of such offence and that he is not likely to commit any offence while on bail.

(2) The limitations on granting of bail specified in clause (b) of sub-section (1) are in addition to the limitations under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) or any other law for the time being in force, on granting of bail."

11- On several occasions, the Apex Court has considered the issue relating to provisions of Section 37 of the N.D.P.S. Act and after wholesome treatment laid down guidelines in this regard observing inter alia that recording of finding in terms of Section 37 of N.D.P.S. Act is a sine qua non for granting bail under N.D.P.S. Act. Reference of some of the relevant decisions are as follow:-

(i). The expression 'reasonable grounds' has not been defined in the N.D.P.S. Act, but the Apex Court in the case of Union of India Vs. Rattan Mallik @ Habul, 2009 (1) SCC (Crl) 831, has settled the expression "reasonable grounds". Relevant paragraphs no. 12, 13 and 14 are quoted herein below:

"12. It is plain from a bare reading of the non-obstante clause in the Section and sub-section (2) thereof that the power to grant bail to a person accused of having committed offence under the NDPS Act is not only subject to the limitations imposed under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, it is also subject to the restrictions placed by sub-clause (b) of subsection (1) of Section 37 of the NDPS Act. Apart from giving an opportunity to the Public Prosecutor to oppose the application for such release, the other twin conditions viz; (i) the satisfaction of the Court that there are reasonable grounds for believing that the accused is not guilty of the alleged offence; and (ii) that he is not likely to commit any offence while on bail, have to be satisfied. It is manifest that the conditions are cumulative and not alternative. The satisfaction contemplated regarding the accused being not guilty, has to be based on "reasonable grounds".

13. The expression `reasonable grounds' has not been defined in the said Act but means something more than prima facie grounds. It connotes substantial probable causes for believing that the accused is not guilty of the offence he is charged with. The reasonable belief contemplated in turn points to existence of such facts and circumstances as are sufficient in themselves to justify satisfaction that the accused is not guilty of the alleged offence. [Vide Union of India Vs. Shiv Shanker Kesari, (2007) 7 SCC 798] Thus, recording of satisfaction on both the aspects, noted above, is sine qua non for granting of bail under the NDPS Act.

14. We may, however, hasten to add that while considering an application for bail with reference to Section 37 of the NDPS Act, the Court is not called upon to record a finding of 'not guilty'. At this stage, it is neither necessary nor desirable to weigh the evidence meticulously to arrive at a positive finding as to whether or not the accused has committed offence under the NDPS Act. What is to be seen is whether there is reasonable ground for believing that the accused is not guilty of the offence(s) he is charged with and further that he is not likely to commit an offence under the said Act while on bail. The satisfaction of the Court about the existence of the said twin conditions is for a limited purpose and is confined to the question of releasing the accused on bail."

(ii). In case of Union of India Vs. Ram Samujh, (1999) 9 SCC 429, Apex Court has made following observations in paragraph 7 of the said judgment, which are reproduced herein below:-

"7. It is to be borne in mind that the aforesaid legislative mandate is required to be adhered and followed. It should be borne in mind that in murder case, accused commits murder of one or two persons, while those persons who are dealing in narcotic drugs are instruments in causing death or in inflicting death blow to number of innocent young victims, who are vulnerable: it causes deleterious effects and deadly impact on the society; they are a hazard to the society; even if they are released temporarily, in all probability, they would continue their nefarious activities of trafficking and/or dealing in intoxicants clandestinely. Reason may be large stake and illegal profit involved. This Court, dealing with the contention with regard to punishment under NDPS Act, has succinctly observed about the adverse effect of such activities in Durand Didien v. Chief Secretary. Union Territory of Goa. [1990] 1 SCC 95 as under:

"24. With deep concern, we may point out that the organised activities of the underworld and the clandestine smuggling of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances into this country and illegal trafficking in such drugs and substances have led to drug addiction among a sizeable section of the public, particularly the adolescents and students of both sexes and the menace has assumed serious and alarming proportion in the recent years. Therefore, in order to effectively control and eradicate this proliferating and booming devastating menace, causing deleterious effects and deadly impact on the society as a whole, the Parliament in the wisdom has made effective provisions by introducing this Act 81 of 1985 specifying mandatory minimum imprisonment and fine."

(iii). In Union of India Vs. Shiv Shankar Kesari, (2007) 7 SCC 798, Apex Court elaborated and explained the conditions for granting of bail as provided under Section 37 of the Act. Relevant paragraph Nos. 6 and 7 are extracted here in below :-

"6. As the provision itself provides no person shall be granted bail unless the two conditions are satisfied. They are; the satisfaction of the Court that there are reasonable grounds for believing that the accused is not guilty and that he is not likely to commit any offence while on bail. Both the conditions have to be satisfied. If either of these two conditions is not satisfied, the bar operates and the accused cannot be released on bail.

7. The expression used in Section 37 (1)(b) (ii) is "reasonable grounds". The expression means something more than prima facie grounds. It connotes substantial probable causes for believing that the accused is not guilty of the offence charged and this reasonable belief contemplated in turn points to existence of such facts and circumstances as are sufficient in themselves to justify recording of satisfaction that the accused is not guilty of the offence charged."

(iv). In State of Kerala Etc. Vs. Rajesh Etc. AIR 2020 Supreme Court 721, Apex Court again considered the scope of Section 37 of N.D.P.S. Act and relying upon earlier decision in Ram Samujh (Supra) held as under:

"20. The scheme of Section 37 reveals that the exercise of power to grant bail is not only subject to the limitations contained under Section 439 of the CrPC, but is also subject to the limitation placed by Section 37 which commences with non-obstante clause. The operative part of the said section is in the negative form prescribing the enlargement of bail to any person accused of commission of an offence under the Act, unless twin conditions are satisfied. The first condition is that the prosecution must be given an opportunity to oppose the application; and the second, is that the Court must be satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for believing that he is not guilty of such offence. If either of these two conditions is not satisfied, the ban for granting bail operates.

21. The expression "reasonable grounds" means something more than prima facie grounds. It contemplates substantial probable causes for believing that the accused is not guilty of the alleged offence. The reasonable belief contemplated in the provision requires existence of such facts and circumstances as are sufficient in themselves to justify satisfaction that the accused is not guilty of the alleged offence. In the case on hand, the High Court seems to have completely overlooked the underlying object of Section 37 that in addition to the limitations provided under the CrPC, or any other law for the time being in force, regulating the grant of bail, its liberal approach in the matter of bail under the NDPS Act is indeed uncalled for."

(v). The Apex Court in Union of India vs Prateek Shukla (Crl.A. No. 284/2021), AIR 2021 SC 1509 has held that merely recording the submissions of the parties does not amount to an indication of a judicial or, for that matter, a judicious application of mind. The provisions of Section 37 of the N.D.P.S. Act provide the legal norms which have to be applied in determining whether a case for grant of bail has been made out. The relevant paragraph nos. 11 of the said judgment are reproduced herein under :

"11. Ex facie, there has been no application of mind by the High Court to the rival submissions and, particularly, to the seriousness of the allegations involving an offence punishable under the provisions of the NDPS Act. Merely recording the submissions of the parties does not amount to an indication of a judicial or, for that matter, a judicious application of mind by the Single Judge of the High Court to the basic question as to whether bail should be granted. The provisions of Section 37 of the NDPS Act provide the legal norms which have to be applied in determining whether a case for grant of bail has been made out. There has been a serious infraction by the High Court of its duty to apply the law....."

NOTE:- Here it is also relevant to mention that in the case of Prateek Shukla (supra), Review Petition (Crl.) No.323 of 2021 was filed but the same was rejected by the Apex Court vide order dated 17.08.2021.

(vi). The Apex Court in the matter of The State (NCT of Delhi) Narcotics Control Bureau Vs. Lokesh Chadha, (2021) 5 SCC 724 has held that :

".....Section 37 of the NDPS Act stipulates that no person accused of an offence punishable for the offences under section 19 or section 24 or section 27A and also for offences involving commercial quantity shall be released on bail, where the Public Prosecutor oppose the application, unless the court is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for believing that he is not guilty of such offence and that he is not likely to commit any offence while on bail."

(vii). Narcotics Control Bureau Vs. Laxman Prasad Soni, Etc. (Criminal Appeal Nos. 438-440 of 2021 decided by the Apex Court on 19.04.2021).

In the said case, there was recovery of 229 Kgs. of Ganja from the possession of accused persons. Out of which 25 Kgs. of Ganja was recovered from one vehicle occupied by the accused. There was another vehicle namely truck in which rest of the contraband material was found. The accused persons, who were arrested along with 25 Kgs. Ganja have been granted bail by the co-ordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 23.09.2019 in Criminal Misc. Bail Application Nos. 38036 of 2019, 38066 of 2019 and 38048 of 2019 without considering provisions of Section 37 of the N.D.P.S. Act.

The aforesaid order dated 23.09.2019 has been set-aside by the Apex Court on account of the reason that the applications for bail were allowed by the High Court without considering the import and effect of Section 37 of the N.D.P.S. Act.

(viii). The Apex Court in Union of India v. Vimla Singh, decided on 19.08.2021 in Criminal Appeal No. 862 of 2021, has set-aside the bail order passed by High Court to four accused on the ground that High Court has not taken into account the effect and rigour of Section 37 of the N.D.P.S. Act.

Control Bureau, Lucknow vs. Md. Nawaz Khan, (2021) 10 SCC 100 has held that:-

"23.....the test which the High Court and this Court are required to apply while granting bail is also for offences involving commercial quantity shall be released on bail, where there are reasonable grounds for believing that he is not committed an offence and whether he is likely to commit any offence while on bail. Given the seriousness of offences punishable under the NDPS Act and in order to curb the menance of drug-trafficking in the country, stringent parameters for grant of bail under the NDPS Act have been prescribed."

12- The Apex Court in several cases deprecated the practice of passing bail orders without giving reasons. In order to deal the issue involved in the case in hand, it would be useful to refer following judgments of the Apex Court.

(i). The Apex Court in Kalyan Chandra Sarkar v. Rajesh Ranjan @ Pappu Yadav and another, (2004) 7 SCC 528 has held that:-

"....although it is established that a court considering a bail application cannot undertake a detailed examination of evidence and an elaborate discussion on the merits of the case, the court is required to indicate the prima facie reasons justifying the grant of bail."

(ii). The Apex Court in the case of Sonu vs Sonu Yadav and another, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 286 has observed that an order without reasons is fundamentally contrary to the norms which guide the judicial process. The administration of criminal justice by the High Court cannot be reduced to a mantra containing a recitation of general observations. That there has been a judicious application of mind by the judge who is deciding an application under Section 439 of the CrPC must emerge from the quality of the reasoning which is embodied in the order granting bail.

The relevant paragraph nos. 11 and 12 of the said judgments are reproduced herein under:-

"11. In the earlier part of this judgment, we have extracted the lone sentence in the order of the High Court which is intended to display some semblance of reasoning for justifying the grant of bail. The sentence which we have extracted earlier contains an omnibus amalgam of (i) "the entire facts and circumstances of the case"; (ii) "submissions of learned Counsel for the parties"; (iii) "the nature of offence"; (iv) "evidence"; and (v) "complicity of accused". This is followed by an observation that the "applicant has made out a case for bail", "without expressing any opinion on the merits of the case". This does not constitute the kind of reasoning which is expected of a judicial order. The High Court cannot be oblivious, in a case such as the present, of the seriousness of the alleged offence, where a woman has met an unnatural end within a year of marriage. The seriousness of the alleged offence has to be evaluated in the backdrop of the allegation that she was being harassed for dowry; and that a telephone call was received from the accused in close-proximity to the time of death, making a demand. There are specific allegations of harassment against the accused on the ground of dowry. An order without reasons is fundamentally contrary to the norms which guide the judicial process. The administration of criminal justice by the High Court cannot be reduced to a mantra containing a recitation of general observations. That there has been a judicious application of mind by the judge who is deciding an application under Section 439 of the CrPC must emerge from the quality of the reasoning which is embodied in the order granting bail. While the reasons may be brief, it is the quality of the reasons which matters the most. That is because the reasons in a judicial order unravel the thought process of a trained judicial mind. We are constrained to make these observations because the reasons indicated in the judgment of the High Court in this case are becoming increasingly familiar in matters which come to this Court. It is time that such a practice is discontinued and that the reasons in support of orders granting bail comport with a judicial process which brings credibility to the administration of criminal justice.

12. For the above reasons, we are of the view that the order of the High Court granting bail without due application of mind to the relevant facts and circumstances as well to the provisions of the law requires the interference of this Court."

(iii). The Apex Court in the matter of Ms Y versus State of Rajasthan and another, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 458 considering the earlier decisions as well as judgment of the Apex Court in the matter of Mahipal v. Rajesh Kumar @ Polia and another, (2020) 2 SCC 118 has again insisted for giving reasoned order while granting or refusing bail. The relevant paragraph nos. 22 and 23 of the said judgments are reproduced herein under:-

"22. The impugned order passed by the High Court is cryptic, and does not suggest any application of mind. There is a recent trend of passing such orders granting or refusing to grant bail, where the Courts make a general observation that "the facts and the circumstances" have been considered. No specific reasons are indicated which precipitated the passing of the order by the Court.

23. Such a situation continues despite various judgments of this Court wherein this Court has disapproved of such a practice. In the case of Mahipal (supra) this Court observed as follows:

"25. Merely recording "having perused the record" and "on the facts and circumstances of the case" does not subserve the purpose of a reasoned judicial order. It is a fundamental premise of open justice, to which our judicial system is committed, that factors which have weighed in the mind of the Judge in the rejection or the grant of bail are recorded in the order passed. Open justice is premised on the notion that justice should not only be done, but should manifestly and undoubtedly be seen to be done. The duty of Judges to give reasoned decisions lies at the heart of this commitment. Questions of the grant of bail concern both liberty of individuals undergoing criminal prosecution as well as the interests of the criminal justice system in ensuring that those who commit crimes are not afforded the opportunity to obstruct justice. Judges are duty-bound to explain the basis on which they have arrived at a conclusion.

(iv). In quite recent, the Apex Court in the case of Manoj Kumar Khokhar versus State of Rajasthan and another, (2022) 3 SCC 501 considering several previous judgments on the issue has held that thought detail evaluation of facts on merit is not permissible, but the Court granting bail cannot obviate its duty to apply its judicial mind and to record reasons, brief as they may be, for the purpose of deciding whether or not to grant bail.

13- In view of the above discussion, it is crystal clear that before granting bail for the offence under N.D.P.S. Act, twin conditions as provided under Section 37(1)(b)(i) and (ii) have to be satisfied, which is in addition to Section 439 of Cr.P.C. and mandatory in nature.

14- Having examined the bail orders of co-accused in its entirety, I find substance in the submission of learned A.G.A. that co-accused Sonoo Shukla and Praveen Maurya @ Puneet Maurya have been granted bail by the Coordinate Bench of this Court without taking into account the effect and rigour of Section 37 of the N.D.P.S. Act and ignoring the settled law laid down by the Apex Court regarding application of Section 37 of the N.D.P.S. Act, whereas recovered quantity is undisputedly is commercial quantity. In the conspectus of the facts of the case, Section 50 of the N.D.P.S. Act is also not applicable as the recovery of "Ganja' was from the dicky of vehicles. I also find that no reason on merit of the case has been recorded for granting bail to them. The Apex Court in the cases which are mentioned in preceding paragraph nos. 11 and 12 has deprecated the practice of granting or refusing bail without indicating reason on merit.

15- In the light of dictum of aforesaid judgments of the Apex Court as well as the reasons mentioned in preceding paragraph nos. 13 and 14, this Court is of the view that such bail orders of the Coordinate Benches, which have been passed without giving reason on merit and without taking note of limitations provided under Section 37 of the N.D.P.S. Act in cases of a recovery of contraband of commercial quantity have no persuasive value and the same is not binding upon this Court. A judge is not bound to grant bail to an accused on the ground of parity even where the order granting bail to an identically placed co-accused contains no cogent reasons or if the same has been passed in flagrant violation of well established principle of law. If any illegality is brought to the knowledge of the Court, the same should not be permitted to perpetuate. It is also well settled that no judge is obliged to pass orders against his conscience merely to maintain consistency. Hence, the benefit of parity of bail orders dated 14.07.2021 and 14.09.2021 of co-accused Sonoo Shukla and Praveen Maurya @ Puneet Maurya cannot be extended to present applicant. Accordingly, the submission of learned counsel for the applicant for granting bail to the applicant on the ground of parity is hereby rejected. The issue of parity is decided against the applicant.

16- So far as next argument of learned counsel for the applicant that the applicant is in incarceration for a long time since 24.06.2020, therefore, he is liable to be released on bail is concerned, it is argued by learned A.G.A. that in the case of Union of India v. Rattan Mallik (supra), the accused was in jail for last three years, but the Apex

Court has made an observation that the stated circumstances may be relevant for grant of bail in matters arising out of conviction under Penal Code etc., but are not sufficient to satisfy the mandatory requirements as stipulated in clause (b) of sub-Section (1) of Section 37 of the N.D.P.S. Act. Learned A.G.A. further submits that the argument of learned counsel for the applicant has no leg to stand on the ground that there is good authority to hold that mere long detention in jail does not entitle an accused to be enlarged on bail pending trial. It has been held to this effect in Vijay Kumar vs. Narendra and others, (2002) 9 SCC 364, Ramesh Kumar Singh vs. Jhabbar Singh and others, 2004 SCC (Cri) 1067 and Girand Singh vs. State of U.P., (2010) 69 ACC 39. Learned A.G.A. has also referred to the judgment of the Apex Court rendered in the case of Rajesh Ranjan Yadav @ Pappu Yadav vs. CBI through its Director reported in (2007) 1 SCC 70 wherein the Apex Court has held as under:

".....None of the decisions cited can be said to have laid down any absolute and unconditional rule about when bail should be granted by the Court and when it should not. It all depends on the facts and circumstances of each case and it cannot be said there is any absolute rule that the mere fact that the accused has undergone a long period of incarceration by itself would entitle him to be enlarged on bail".

17- Here it would be relevant to mention that before the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Satya Pal Vs. State of U.P., (1998) 37 ACC 287, the following question had been referred by learned Single Judge for decision :-

"Whether a fresh argument in a second bail application for an accused should be allowed to be advanced on those very facts that were available to the accused while the first bail application was moved and rejected."

The Division Bench after wholesome treatment has answered as under :-

"Accordingly our answer to the question referred is that fresh arguments in a second bail application for an accused cannot be allowed to be advanced on those very facts that were available to the accused while the first bail application was moved and rejected."

18- In the light of analysis of the case as mentioned above and considering the recovery of huge quantity of Ganja as mentioned above, coupled with the fact that the applicant was apprehended at the spot and was having conscious and constructive possession over the recovered Ganja, I do not find any reasonable ground in terms of Section 37 of the N.D.P.S. Act to hold that the applicant is not guilty of an offence and he is not likely to commit any offence while on bail.

19- In view of the facts and circumstances of the case and on account of the reasons mentioned above, I do not find any good ground for enlarging the applicant on bail. The second bail application of the applicant is accordingly rejected.

20- It is made clear that the finding recorded and observation made herein above is for a limited purpose and is confined to the question of releasing the accused applicant on bail only. The trial Court shall be absolutely free to arrive at its independent conclusions on the basis of evidence led unaffected by anything said in this order.

21- However, trial Court is directed to conclude the trial of the applicant expeditiously in accordance with provisions of Section 309 Cr.P.C without granting unnecessary adjournment to either of the party.

22- Copy of this order be sent to the concerned Court below for compliance.

A. Criminal Law – Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 153-B & 505(2) - Quashing of F.I.R.--- Dissent and criticism of the elected government's policy, when puissant, deceptive or even false would be ethically wrong, but would not invite penal action. Only where the written or spoken words have the tendency of creating public disorder or disturbance of law and order or affecting public tranquillity, the law needs to step in to prevent such an activity.

B. The instigation must necessarily and specifically be suggestive of the consequences and sufficient certainty to incite the consequences must be capable of being spelt out to be incitement. The word 'Promote' does not imply mere describing and narrating a fact, or giving opinion, criticising the point of view or actions of another person. It requires that the speaker should actively incite the audience to cause public disorder. This active incitement can be gauged by the content of the speech, the context and surrounding circumstances and the intent of the speaker. However, in case the speaker does not actively incite the descent into public disorder and is merely pointing out why a certain person or group is behaving in a particular manner, what are their demands and their point of view or when the speaker interviews such person or group, it would be a passive delivery of facts and opinions which may not amount to promotion. In such circumstances it cannot be said that the news was published to create nuisance or riot and incite the people.

1. Heard Ms. Pragya Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioners and learned

A.G.A. for the State. None appeared for the informant despite sufficient service.

2. The instant petition has been filed for quashing the First Information Report (here-in-after referred as FIR) dated 31.01.2021 in Case Crime No.27 of 2021, under Section 153-B and 505 (2) of Indian Penal Code (here-in-after referred as IPC), registered at Police Station- Civil Lines, District- Rampur alongwith consequential reliefs.

3. Petitioner no.1 is the founding editor of online news publication 'The Wire' and the petitioner no. 2 is the reporter of the said online news publication. The farmers were protesting against three farmer laws enacted in 2020. As a mark of protest they marched in Delhi on 26.01.2021 and in an incident near 'ITO' New Delhi, a young man named Navreet Singh Dibdiba hailing from district Rampur, U.P. suffered serious injuries and succumbed to death. The State version is that death was caused due to an accident involving his tractor whereas some of the eye witnesses and the victims primarily claim that it was due to bullet injury. 'The Wire' covered this incident in its report dated 30.01.2021 titled "Autopsy Doctor Told Me He'd Seen the Bullet Injury but Can Do Nothing as His Hands are Tied" authored by the petitioner no.2 and shared it on Twitter handle at 10.08 A.M. A clarificatory statement was issued by the three doctors who carried out the postmortem denying that they had spoken to the media or any other person or they made any such statement. The said news was also published by the petitioner no.1 on 30.01.2021 at 04:46 P.M. after it was issued by Rampur Police at 4.39 P.M. The FIR was lodged on 31.01.2021 at 00.59 bearing FIR No. 27 of 2021 under Sections 153-B and 505 (2) IPC against the petitioner no.1 on the basis of a complaint by one Sanju Turaiha / respondent no.3 alleging that the petitioner no.1 by way of the aforementioned tweet, sought to provocate the masses, spread riot, tarnish the image of medical officers by proving wrong to the panel of Medical Officers and disturb law and order and though the doctors who performed the postmortem denied that they have told the victim's family that the cause of the death was bullet injuries but the petitioner no.1 did not delete the tweet. The petitioners approached the Hon'ble Supreme Court challenging the three FIRs. Including the FIR No. 27 of 2021 in Writ Petition (Criminal) No.71 of 2021. The Hon'ble Supreme Court by means of the order dated 08.09.2021 permitted the petition to be withdrawn by the petitioner no. 2 and granted protection from any coercive action for a period of two months. Consequently, the present writ petition has been filed.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioners submitted that the petitioners have wrongly and falsely been implicated in the case. The allegations made in the FIR does not disclose the commissioning of any offence under Section 153-B and 505 (2) IPC. The petitioners had only published the statement of the parents of the deceased and the contradictions of the doctors was also published / uploaded at the earliest after it's release. Therefore even if the same was not deleted it does not constitute any offence. There was no threat of riots and in fact there was no violence or riot on account of the alleged publication. She had further submitted that the fair criticism is permissible under law. She had also submitted that the grand father of the deceased has moved the Delhi High Court praying for a Court monitored probe into the death of his grandson, where the High Court has issued the notices and the Delhi High Court is monitoring the investigation. Therefore the FIR is nothing but an abuse of process of law and curtailment of right to freedom of speech. Therefore the impugned FIR is not sustainable in the eyes of law and liable to be quashed.

5. Learned A.G.A. vehemently opposed the submissions of learned counsel for the petitioners. He submitted that the FIR has rightly been lodged in accordance with law as despite the contradictions of the doctors in regard to the statement published by the petitioners, the news item was not deleted. The allegations levelled in the FIR disclose the commissioning of offence under Section 153-B and 505 (2) IPC. Therefore the FIR can not be quashed and the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

6. We have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

7. The farmers were protesting against the three farm laws enacted in the year 2020. As a part of their protest the farmers marched into New Delhi on 26.01.2021. During the protest in an incident near 'ITO' New Delhi, a young man named Navreet Singh Dibdiba hailing from district Rampur, U.P. died due to certain injuries suffered in the incident. 'The Wire' online news publication, the founding editor of which is the petitioner no.1, covered this incident in its news report dated 30.01.2021 titled as "Autopsy Doctor Told Me He'd Seen the Bullet Injury but Can Do Nothing as His Hands are Tied" authored by petitioner no. 2. The news item is extracted below:-

'Autopsy Doctor Told Me He'd Seen the Bullet Injury But Can Do Nothing as His Hands are Tied'

Grandfather of Navreet Singh, killed in tractor parade on January 26, levels dramatic charge, doctors deny making any statement.

Note: This story ends with a video of the wounds on Navreet Singh's face which some readers may find disturbing.

New Delhi: The family of Navreet Singh - the young man killed during the tractor parade in the capital on January 26 - has refused to accept the Delhi police's claim that he died because his tractor overturned, and insists he was shot - as farmers who say they were witness to the incident near ITO had originally claimed.*

The cause of Navreet Singh's death is at the centre of three sedition cases that the police in Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh and Haryana have filed against journalists including India Today's Rajdeep Sardesai, and the Congress politician Shashi Tharoor for blaming his death on a gunshot.

The Delhi police were quick to release video footage in which a tractor can be seen crashing into a police barricade and overturning. However, farmers at the scene claimed Navreet had been shot at before he lost control of the vehicle.

The post mortem report, prepared by a medical officer at the District Hospital, Rampur, after a 2 am autopsy on January 27, concluded that the "cause of death is shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem head injury", which Delhi Police officials have cited as consistent with their explanation.

The family, however, contests this report.

''We were cheated, now courts will decide'

"We were told by the doctor that they have clearly seen the bullet injury, and then we cremated his body peacefully. But we were cheated, as the [post mortem] report that came out did not say that. The doctor even told me that even though he had seen the bullet injury, he can do nothing as his hands are tied," Hardeep Singh Dibdiba, Navreet's grandfather alleged, while speaking to The Wire on Friday, three days after his death.

On their part, the doctors have denied saying any such thing.

Dibdiba, 68, has been part of the farmers' protest since the beginning, he says, adding that he has authored five books on Sikhism. However, after his grandson's death, he is back in Dibdiba village of Rampur in Uttar Pradesh.

Noting the mention that the post-mortem report makes of two "lacerated" wounds, one on Navreet's chin and the other behind his ear, he said, "They [doctors] haven't directly mentioned the word bullet in the post-mortem, but given the circumstances and the kind of government that is governing the state, they wrote as much as they could about it. Now the courts themselves will clear the matter once we have a lawyer," he said.

Navreet's father, Vikramreet Singh, 46, said, "Everybody who saw his dead body saw that it was a bullet injury. One of the doctors who did the post-mortem said that it is a bullet injury, but that he can't write it." He added that his son had recently returned from Australia and went to Delhi to participate in the tractor parade by farmers. "We will finish his last rites by February, 4 and then go ahead with our plan of action," he said.

UP police deny interference or pressure

Denying the family's bullet injury claim, the seniormost police officer of the area, ADG Bareilly Avinash Chandra, said, "We had made a panel of senior doctors for the autopsy. We have no reason to suppress or distort such a document because the matter is of Delhi Police."

One organisation the family could approach, say lawyers, is the National Human Rights Commission, which could examine the video made during the autopsy and cross examine the doctor who wrote up the report.

What happened that day?

When this reporter saw Navreet Singh's body lying on the road at ITO on January 26, several farmers identified themselves as eyewitnesses to the incident and claimed that the young man had died as a result of being hit by a bullet.

Though no police personnel were visible within at least 300 meters from the dead body, the farmers told reporters that the police had "dispersed from the scene."

Even after the Delhi Police released footage which showed Navreet's tractor turning turtle, the farmers at the scene stuck to their claims. "A bullet hit him and that is why he lost control of the tractor and met with an accident," said one man who said he was a witness.

Family says deep gash above ear is ''exit wound' of bullet

The post mortem report makes no mention of any bullet injury but does note the presence of an inverted injury on the left side of Navreet's lower chin, and an everted injury above his right ear. The report, which The Wire has accessed, lists six injuries including those over the eyebrow, chin, skull, ear ossicles, chest and thigh.

The post mortem report mentions a "lacerated wound of size 2cmx1cm over left side of the chin, 1cm below left angle of the mouth," adding that "margins are inverted and bone deep." Another injury, the report said, was a "lacerated wound of size 6cmx3cm over [the] right ear, margins are irregular and everted (inside out) right ear ossicles and brain matter is coming out from [the] wound." The report also mentions a "lacerated wound of size 2cmx1cm bone deep medial end of right eyebrow, margins are inverted," and "traumatic swelling" over the skull.

The family claims that the injury on his right ear is the exit wound from the bullet. However, Manoj Shukla, deputy CMO and doctor at the district hospital in Rampur where the post-mortem report was prepared, said this was not so. Speaking to The Wire over the phone on Friday, he said that it is possible that something else might have hit his right ear. "Or you may have got the wrong document," he added.

According to a senior doctor at the All India Institute of Medical Sciences, speaking to The Wire on condition of anonymity, laceration wounds can be associated with bullet injuries. A laceration is a wound that occurs when skin, tissue, and/or muscle is torn or cut open. Lacerations may be deep or shallow, long or short, and wide or narrow. Most lacerations are the result of the skin hitting an object, or an object hitting the skin with force.

He said, "It seems that the post mortem report has carefully been made to remove any doubts about a bullet injury." He added that the nature of the injury on his lower chin and ear could be possible entry and exit points of a bullet injury, especially given that the two injuries form a straight line. He added, "If a bullet had passed this man's head, the mandible bone would have been fractured but the report doesn't mention it. In fact, the autopsy report does not mention any X-rays done."

Navreet Singh's father says that the doctors had assured them that a bullet injury was visible in the X-rays but refused to show it to them. Dr. Shukla also confirmed that X-Rays were taken during the autopsy. However the post-mortem does not refer to any of them.

The family also shared a video of Navreet's face, pointing to the deep holes visible in his left chin and above his right ear, making the point that this was a bullet injury. While it is impossible for journalists or lay persons to reach any firm conclusion, the family is hoping an independent probe will establish the truth.

Reacting to Dibdiba's allegations, the Rampur police tweeted a statement on Saturday evening signed by the three doctors involved in Navreet Singh's post-mortem denying that they had spoken "to the media or any other person" or provided any such information as is being attributed to them in the media."

In the news the State's version as well as the allegations of victim's family were published. It also carries contents of the postmortem report. A clarification of the three doctors was issued by the Rampur Police at 04:39 PM on the same date. It was also published, immediately thereafter, at 04:46 PM on 30.01.2021. The statement reads as follows:-

9. The aforesaid FIR was lodged under section 153-B and 505 (2) IPC, which are extracted below for ready reference:-

"153-B. Imputations, assertions prejudicial to national integration.--(1) Whoever, by words either spoken or written or by signs or by visible representations or otherwise,-- (a) makes or publishes any imputation that any class of persons cannot, by reason of their being members of any religious, racial, language or regional group or caste or community, bear true faith and allegiance to the Constitution of India as by law established or uphold the sovereignty and integrity of India, or

(b) asserts, counsels, advises, propagates or publishes that any class of persons shall, by reason of their being members of any religious, racial, language or regional group or caste or community, be denied, or deprived of their rights as citizens of India, or

(c) makes or publishes and assertion, counsel, plea or appeal concerning the obligation of any class of persons, by reason of their being members of any religious, racial, language or regional group or caste or community, and such assertion, counsel, plea or appeal causes or is likely to cause disharmony or feelings of enmity or hatred or ill-will between such members and other persons, shall be punished with imprisonment which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both.

(2) Whoever commits an offence specified in sub-section (1) in any place of worship or in any assembly engaged in the performance of religious worship or religious ceremonies, shall be punished with imprisonment which may extend to five years and shall also be liable to fine.

505 (2) Statements creating or promoting enmity, hatred or ill-will between classes.-- Whoever makes, publishes or circulates any statement or report containing rumour or alarming news with intent to create or promote, or which is likely to create or promote, on grounds of religion, race, place of birth, residence, language, caste or community or any other ground whatsoever, feelings of enmity, hatred or illwill between different religious, racial, language or regional groups or castes or communities, shall be punished with imprisonment which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both."

10. For constituting an offence against a person under Section 153-B IPC there should be words either spoken or written or signs or visible representations by a person on account of which any class of persons can not by reason of their being members of any religious, racial, language or regional group or caste or community, bear true faith and allegiance to the constitution of India or uphold the sovereignty and integrity of India or on account of various factors mentioned therein be denied or deprived of their rights as citizens of India or such assertion, counsel, plea or appeal causes or likely to cause disharmony or feelings of enmity or hatred or ill will between such members and other persons.

11. Similarly for constituting an offence under Section 505 (2) IPC, it refers to a person making, publishing or circulating any statement or report containing rumour or alarming news. Thereafter, it refers to the intent of the person which should be to create or promote and then refers to the harm-based element, that is, likely to create or promote on the ground of religion, race, place of birth, residence, language, cast, etc., feeling of enmity, hatred or ill-will between different religions, racial language, religious groups or castes or communities, etc. Unless the aforesaid ingredients are fulfilled the offences under sections 153-B and 505 (2) can not be made out.

12. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Amish Devgan Vs. Union of India and Others; (2021) 1 SCC 1, has held that a publication which contains unnecessary asides which appear to have no real purpose other than to disparage will tend to evidence that the publications were written with a malafide intention. However, opinions may not reflect malafide intention. It has further been held that dissent and criticism of the elected government's policy, when puissant, deceptive or even false would be ethically wrong, but would not invite penal action. It has also considered that as to what will be the impact of statement or impact and authority of a reasonable person. The relevant paragraphs- 70, 71 & 76 to 78 are extracted below:-

"70. Manzar Sayeed Khan, taking note of the observations in Bilal Ahmad Kaloo, records that common features of Section 153A. And 505 (2) being promotion of feeling of enmity, hatred or ill-will "between different' religious or racial or linguistic or regional groups or castes or communities, involvement of at least two groups or communities is necessary. Further, merely inciting the feeling of one community or group without any reference to any other community or group would not attract either provision. Definition of "hate speech' as expounded by Andrew F. Sellars prescribes that hate speech should target a group or an individual as they relate to a group.

71. The Preamble to the Constitution consciously puts together fraternity assuring dignity of the individual and the unity and integrity of the nation. Dignity of individual and unity and integrity of the nation are linked, one in the form of rights of individuals and other in the form of individual's obligation to others to ensure unity and integrity of the nation. The unity and integrity of the nation cannot be overlooked and slighted, as the acts that "promote' or are "likely' to "promote' divisiveness, alienation and schematism do directly and indirectly impinge on the diversity and pluralism, and when they are with the objective and intent to cause public disorder or to demean dignity of the targeted groups, they have to be dealt with as per law. The purpose is not to curtail right to expression and speech, albeit not gloss over specific egregious threats to public disorder and in particular the unity and integrity of the nation. Such threats not only insidiously weaken virtue and superiority of diversity, but cut-back and lead to demands depending on the context and occasion, for suppression of freedom to express and speak on the ground of reasonableness. Freedom and rights cannot extend to create public disorder or armour those who challenge integrity and unity of the country or promote and incite violence. Without acceptable public order, freedom to speak and express is challenged and would get restricted for the common. masses and law-abiding citizens. This invariably leads to State response and, therefore, those who indulge in promotion and incitement of violence to challenge unity and integrity of the nation or public disorder tend to trample upon liberty and freedom of others.

76. Persons of influence, keeping in view their reach, impact and authority they yield on general public or the specific class to which they belong, owe a duty and have to be more responsible. They are expected to know and perceive the meaning conveyed by the words spoken or written, including the possible meaning that is likely to be conveyed. With experience and knowledge, they are expected to have a higher level of communication skills. It is reasonable to hold that they would be careful in using the words that convey their intent. The reasonable-man's test would always take into consideration the maker. In other words, the expression "reasonable man' would take into account the impact a particular person would have and accordingly apply the standard, just like we substitute the reasonable man's test to that of the reasonable professional when we apply the test of professional negligence. 98 This is not to say that persons of influence like journalists do not enjoy the same freedom of speech and expression as other citizens, as this would be grossly incorrect understanding of what has been stated above. This is not to dilute satisfaction of the three elements, albeit to accept importance of "who' when we examine "harm or impact element' and in a given case even "intent' and/or "content element'.

77. Further, the law of "hate speech' recognises that all speakers are entitled to "good faith' and "(no)-legitimate purpose' protection. "Good faith' means that the conduct should display fidelity as well as a conscientious approach in honouring the values that tend to minimise insult, humiliation or intimidation. The latter being objective, whereas the former is subjective. The important requirement of "good faith' is that the person must exercise prudence, caution and diligence. It requires due care to avoid or minimise consequences. "Good faith' or "no-legitimate purpose' exceptions would apply with greater rigour to protect any genuineacademic, artistic, religious or scientific purpose, or for that matter any purpose that is in public interest, or publication of a fair and accurate report of any event or matter of public interest.Such works would get protection when they were not undertaken with a specific intent to cause harm. These are important and significant safeguards. They highlight importance of intention in "hate speech' adjudication. "Hate speech' has no redeeming or legitimate purpose other than hatred towards a particular group. A publication which contains unnecessary asides which appear to have no real purpose other than to disparage will tend to evidence that the publications were written with a mala fide intention. However, opinions may not reflect mala fide intention.

78. The present case, it is stated, does not relate to "hate speech' causally connected with the harm of endangering security of the State, but with "hate speech' in the context of clauses (a) and (b) to sub-section (1) of Section 153A, Section 295A and sub-section (2) to Section 505 of the Penal Code. In this context, it is necessary to draw a distinction between "free speech' which includes the right to comment, favour or criticise government policies; and "hate speech' creating or spreading hatred against a targeted community or group. The former is primarily concerned with political, social Racial and Religious Tolerance, 2001 (Victoria, Australia) and economic issues and policy matters, the latter would not primarily focus on the subject matter but on the substance of the message which is to cause humiliation and alienation of the targeted group. The object of criminalising the latter type of speech is to protect the dignity (as explained above) and to ensure political and social equality between different identities and groups regardless of caste, creed, religion, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, linguistic preference etc. Freedom to express and speak is the most important condition for political democracy. Law and policies are not democratic unless they have been made and subjected to democratic process including questioning and criticism. Dissent and criticism of the elected government's policy, when puissant, deceptive or even false would be ethically wrong, but would not invite penal action. Elected representatives in power have the right to respond and dispel suspicion. The "market place of ideas' and "pursuit of truth' principle are fully applicable. Government should be left out from adjudicating what is true or false, good or bad, valid or invalid as these aspects should be left for open discussion in the public domain. This justification is also premised on the conviction that freedom of speech serves an indispensable function in democratic governance without which the citizens cannot successfully carry out the task to convey and receive ideas. Political speech relating to government policies requires greater protection for preservation and promotion of democracy. Falsity of the accusation would not be sufficient to constitute criminal offence of "hate speech'."

13. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Patricia Mukhim Vs. State of Meghalaya and Others; 2021 SCC Online SC 258, has held that only where the written or spoken words have the tendency of creating public disorder or disturbance of law and order or affecting public tranquillity, the law needs to step in to prevent such an activity. The Hon'ble Supreme Court regarding right to freedom of speech has held as under in paragraph 14:-

"14. India is a plural and multicultural society. The promise of liberty, enunciated in the Preamble, manifests itself in various provisions which outline each citizen's rights; they include the right to free speech, to travel freely and settle (subject to such reasonable restrictions that may be validly enacted) throughout the length and breadth of India. At times, when in the legitimate exercise of such a right, individuals travel, settle down or carry on a vocation in a place where they find conditions conducive, there may be resentments, especially if such citizens prosper, leading to hostility or possibly violence. In such instances, if the victims voice their discontent, and speak out, especially if the state authorities turn a blind eye, or drag their feet, such voicing of discontent is really a cry for anguish, for justice denied - or delayed. This is exactly what appears to have happened in this case."

14. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the Case of Vinod Dua vs Union Of India and Others; 2021 SCC OnLine SC 414, had held that a citizen has a right to say or write whatever he likes about the Government, or its measures, by way of criticism or comment, so long as he does not incite people to violence against the Government established by law or with the intention of creating public disorder and that is only when the words or expressions have pernicious tendency or intention of creating public disorder or disturbance of law and order that Sections 124-A and 505 of the IPC must step in.

15. The word 'Incitement' has been considered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the Case of Amish Devgan Vs. Union of India and Others (Supra). The instigation must necessarily and specifically be suggestive of the consequences and sufficient certainty to incite the consequences must be capable of being spelt out to be incitement. The word 'Promote' does not imply mere describing and narrating a fact, or giving opinion, criticising the point of view or actions of another person. It requires that the speaker should actively incite the audience to cause public disorder. This active incitement can be gauged by the content of the speech, the context and surrounding circumstances and the intent of the speaker. However, in case the speaker does not actively incite the descent into public disorder and is merely pointing out why a certain person or group is behaving in a particular manner, what are their demands and their point of view or when the speaker interviews such person or group, it would be a passive delivery of facts and opinions which may not amount to promotion. In such circumstances it can not be said that the news was published to create nuisance or riot and incite the peaple.

16. Adverting to the facts of this case, the FIR was lodged alleging therein that the petitioners by publication of the alleged news and the aforesaid tweet sought to provocate the masses, spread riot, tarnish the image of medical officers by proving wrong to the panel of Medical Officers and disturb law and order and though the doctors who performed the postmortem denied that they have told the victim's family that the cause of the death was bullet injuries but the petitioner no.1 did not delete the tweet. Perusal of the publication made by the petitioners indicate that it mentions the fact of incident, thereafter the statement of the family members regarding incident and alleged information given by the doctors to him, denial of the U.P. Police and the fact as to what happened that day. This publication was made on 30.01.2021 at 10.08 A.M. and on the very same day a clarification of the three doctors was issued by Rampur Police at 04:39 PM, immediately thereafter at 04:46 PM, the same was also published by the petitioners. The aforesaid news items does not disclose that any opinion was expressed by the petitioners with consequences thereof, therefore this Court does not find any opinion or assertion on the part of the petitioners which may have the effect of provocating or inciting the people. Nothing was also brought before this court to indicate that there was any disturbance or riot which may have any bearing on public disorder on account of the publication of news/ tweet of the petitioners.

17. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Niharika Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. Vs. State of Maharashtra and Others; 2021 SCC OnLine SC 315 has recorded its conclusions in regard to quashing of the F.I.R. / criminal proceedings, according to which the F.I.R. can be quashed on the parameters laid down in the case of R.P. Kapoor Vs. State of Punjab; AIR 1960 SC 866 and State of Haryana Vs. Bhajan Lal; 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335. The cases in which the F.I.R. / complaint can be quashed have been identified in paragraph 102 of Bhajan Lal (Supra) which is extracted below:-

"102.(1) where the allegations made in the First Information Report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused;

(2) where the allegations in the First Information Report and other materials, if any, accompanying the F.I.R. do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investi- gation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code;

(3) where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or 'complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused;

(4) where the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code;

(5) where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused;

(6) where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institu- tion and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party;

(7) where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

18. In view of above this court is of the view that since the allegations made in the FIR does not disclose the commissioning of offences under Sections 153-B and 505 (2) IPC, therefore, it is not sustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be quashed. The FIR is accordingly quashed. The writ petition is allowed. No order as to costs.

1. These writ petitions have been filed with a prayer that the First Information Report dated 14.4.2021 under sections 498-A, 323, 506, 406, 342, 313, 351 I.P.C. and sections 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act be quashed. A further prayer has been made that the petitioners in pursuance of the aforesaid First Information Report be not arrested.

2. For the decision of controversy, the facts mentioned in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 7081 of 2021 are being taken into consideration.

3. A perusal of the First Information Report shows that the respondent no.4 had married the petitioner on 6.5.2011 at Greater Noida, Uttar Pradesh. This marriage was also got registered as per law. It has been alleged in the First Information Report that since the inception of the marriage, the petitioner used to forcefully take-away the salaries of respondent no.4 and in fact he had forced the respondent no.4 to transfer almost Rs.2,00,000/- to clear off his educational loans. He had further forced the respondent no.4 to give Rs.80,000/- to pay off some other loan. It has been alleged that the petitioner regularly used to transfer various amounts from the accounts of respondent no.4 to his accounts to pursue his higher studies in BITS Pilani. Respondent no.4 has stated that the petitioner had forced her to leave her job in India and to go to the USA on an H4 visa and had made her to work in the USA online despite the fact that the visa did not permit her to do so. It has been alleged in the First Information Report that despite the fact that respondent no.4 desired to pursue her higher studies in Pepperdine University, the petitioner had restrained her from studying. During their stay as husband and wife in the USA, in June, 2016, the respondent no.4 had got pregnant but because of the fact that the petitioner had pushed her, she had fallen-down and resultantly a miscarriage had taken place. Subsequently, in 2017, the respondent no.4 again got pregnant but during the pregnancy, it has been alleged, the petitioner had never cared for her and, therefore, from May 2017 to August 2017, the respondent no.4 stayed in India. It has been alleged that despite the fact that the husband did not care for the respondent no.4, she went back to USA to save her marriage for the sake of her child which she was bearing. It has also been stated that despite requests from the in-laws that they may return her Stridhan, the same was not returned to her. Subsequently, when the respondent no.4 had gone back to USA and the child, was born, the petitioner, it has been alleged, did not take care of the respondent no.4 and did not even take any paternity leave to take care of the child. On top of that it has been alleged that the parents of the petitioner also came to USA and the respondent no.4 was required to conduct the household chores. In June 2018, the opposite party no.4 flew down to India once again with her son and in the following July, the petitioner sent her a notice for divorce. Thereafter, to save the marriage she again flew back in August 2018 to enquire why all the cruelty was being perpetrated. It has been alleged that the petitioner had throughout been ignoring the respondent no.4. In the USA the petitioner had cancelled all the credit cards which were there with the respondent no.4. The respondent no. 4 and her son were made to live in a state of penury without any medical support. Despite the fact the parents of the respondent no. 4 had sent money, she was not allowed to pursue her studies. At times, she was closed in the bath room and was beaten. When the respondent no.4 had desired the admission of the young child in a day-care centre, the petitioner had denied the same. It has been alleged in the First Information Report that when the respondent no.4 on 15.3.2019 had fallen ill, she had to herself go to the hospital and in the hospital when there was no money with her, the emergency contact people in USA suggested her that she should go back to India. It has been alleged that after that she came back to India where she filed a complaint under the Domestic Violence Act. It has been alleged that behind the back of respondent no.4, the petitioner had also filed a case for divorce. When the respondent no.4 was in India, on 26.2.2021, two persons had come to the house of respondent no.4 and had threatened her and her parents to withdraw the cases otherwise they would kill both, the parents and the son of respondent no.4.

4. Challenging the instant First Information Report, the learned counsel for the petitioner Sri Prabhat Jauhar assisted by Sri Prakhar Saran Srivastava had argued that despite the fact that respondent no.4 had got admission in the USA, she never studied. He has submitted that on 14.1.2016, the petitioner had also purchased a house for the respondent no.4 in NOIDA from his own pocket. Learned counsel for the petitioner argued that when respondent no.4 had urged for the admission of the child in a day-care centre and when there was some dispute regarding that, the respondent no.4 had approached the US Police which had found that there was no merit in the complaint. This had happened on 15.3.2019 and the respondent no.4 had come back to India on 19.3.2019. Aggrieved by the actions of the respondent no.4, the petitioner had sent a legal notice through his attorney to respondent no.4 to return the minor child and also he had informed the respondent no.4 about the contemplated divorce proceedings in the USA. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also stated that after the divorce petition was filed by the petitioner in USA on 4.3.2021, the respondent no.4, as a counter-blast to the filing of the divorce case in the US Court, filed the instant First Information Report on 14.4.2021. He submits that the order for the custody of the son was passed on 18.12.2020 and that was also a reason for the F.I.R. In the meantime, it is alleged that the petitioner had filed a Habeas Corpus Petition for the custody of the minor child before the Allahabad High Court which was still pending. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also stated that the respondent no.4 had filed a Special Leave Petition against the order of issuance of notice in the Habeas Corpus Petition and the Supreme Court had also tried reconciliation but that had failed and, therefore, the Habeas Corpus Petition in the High Court was to be heard. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that if the First Information Report is perused, then it becomes abundantly clear that all the incidents which had been complained of had occurred in the USA and, therefore, the respondent no.4 had no cause of action in India. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also submitted that the ingredients of Section 498A I.P.C. were also not present in the First Information Report which was lodged by the respondent no.4. Learned counsel for the petitioner has stated that the cruelty of the husband or the relatives of the husband should have been to the extent that it would have driven the respondent no.4 to a state when she would have committed suicide. If that had not happened then the cruelty should have caused a grave injury or a danger to the life, limb or health (whether mental or physical) to the respondent No.4. In the absence of the necessary ingredients as were to be found under section 498-A I.P.C., the First Information Report was required to be quashed. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further submitted that the respondent no.4 had hardly stayed with her in-laws and, therefore, it could not be said that they had subjected her to any cruelty or torture. In this regard, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the decisions of the Supreme Court in Ruchi Majoo vs. Sanjeev Majoo : (2011) 6 SCC 479; Vipin Jaiswal (A-1) vs. State of Andhra Pradesh : (2013) 3 SCC 684; Virala Bharath Kumar & Anr. vs. State of Telangana & Anr. : (2017) 9 SCC 413 and Kamlesh Ghanshyam Lohia & Ors. vs. State of Maharashtra, Through the Commissioner of Police & Ors. : (2019) 4 RCR (Cri.) 169 and has submitted that if the necessary ingredients for constituting an offence under section 498-A I.P.C. and other accompanying sections were not present, the First Information Report ought to be quashed.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner further stated that the lodging of the F.I.R. was an abuse of process of law and if it was established that there was no cruelty then the F.I.R. should be quashed.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon a reply of the respondent no. 4 of October 2019 which was sent to the notice which the petitioner had sent on 26.3.2019 and has stated that in the reply the respondent no. 4 had stated that if the petitioner filed a written apology and took the responsibility of his wife and son and provided a maintenance of $2000 per month for the basic sustenance and maintenance for his wife and son in India then she was ready for a settlement. He also relied upon that portion of the reply wherein it had been stated that if the petitioner came down to India and took his wife and son to USA then the respondent no. 4 was ready to condone his cruelty and submitted that when she was herself ready for rapprochement then no question of cruelty etc. arose. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also stated that for all the allegations which the respondent no. 4 had made in the first information report, namely, the fact that the petitioner was preventing the respondent no. 4 for pursuing her studies; maltreatment at USA; the abortion which had taken place in the year 2016; the maltreatment at his hands after the child was born and the maltreatment after the petitioner's parents had gone to USA no report to the Police in USA was made and, therefore, the allegations made in the first information report were baseless and an abuse of the process of law. He further stated that only to wreak vengeance and with malafide intentions the first information report was lodged. In this regard, he relied upon a judgement of the Supreme Court reported in 2019 (15) SCC 357 (Rashmi Chopra vs. State of U.P.) and has submitted that if the FIR was a counter-blast to the divorce petition which the petitioner had filed and if the ingredients of the various sections under which the FIR was filed were not fulfilled then the FIR ought to be quashed.

7. Learned counsel further relied upon a judgement of the Supreme Court reported in 2009 (7) SCC 712 (Harmanpreet Singh Ahluwalia and others vs. State of Punjab and others) and has submitted that if after the investigation was concluded and yet a charge sheet was filed against the accused then the same ought be quashed. He also submits that on the basis of what had been said in the judgement reported in 2009 (7) SCC 712 (supra) in paragraph 32 that if from any particular fact of the case it was found that the FIR had been made with an ulterior motive to harass the accused then the continuance of criminal proceedings against the accused would amount to abuse of the process of the court.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner further argued that since most of the offences had allegedly occurred in the USA the petitioner could not be investigated against and could not be tried in India as all the evidence were available only in the USA.

9. Learned counsel for the petitioner in the end submitted that there was a Look Out Notice and there was also a non-bailable warrant issued against the petitioner and if the High Court did not protect the interest of the petitioner then the petitioners interest would be greatly jeopardized.

10. In reply, Sri Ashish Deep Verma assisted by Sri Azad Khan learned counsel appearing for respondent no.4 has submitted that if on the perusal of the First Information Report, a cognizable offence was disclosed, then in a writ petition, the genuineness or the credibility of the information would not be relevant. Learned counsel for the respondent no.4 has relied upon the decisions of the Supreme Court in

State of Haryana & Ors. vs. Bhajan Lal & Ors. : 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335; State of Kerela & Ors. O.C. Kuttan & Ors. : (1999) 2 SCC 651; State of Telangana vs. Habib Abdullah Jeelani & Ors. : (2017) 2 SCC 779; P. Chidambaram vs. Director of Enforcement : (2019) 9 SCC 24 and Neeharika Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. vs. State of Maharashtra & Ors. : 2021 SCC Online SC 315 and has submitted that the High Court should not interfere in the investigation which was to be done by the State as that would result in miscarriage of justice. From the judgement of the Supreme Court in Neeharika Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. (supra) learned counsel for the respondent no.4 has stated that the following principles of law emerged, which are as follows :-

"From the aforesaid decisions of this Court, right from the decision of the Privy Council in the case of Khawaja Nazir Ahmad (supra), the following principles of law

i) Police has the statutory right and duty under the relevant provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure contained in Chapter XIV of the Code to investigate into cognizable offences;

ii) Courts would not thwart any investigation into the cognizable offences;

iii) However, in cases where no cognizable offence or offence of any kind is disclosed in the first information report the Court will not permit an investigation to go on;

iv) The power of quashing should be exercised sparingly with circumspection, in the "rarest of rare cases'. (The rarest of rare cases standard in its application for quashing under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is not to be confused with the norm which has been formulated in the context of the death penalty, as explained previously by this Court);

v) While examining an FIR/complaint, quashing of which is sought, the court cannot embark upon an enquiry as to the reliability or genuineness or otherwise of the allegations made in the FIR/complaint;

vi) Criminal proceedings ought not to be scuttled at the initial stage;

vii) Quashing of a complaint/FIR should be an exception and a rarity than an ordinary rule;

viii) Ordinarily, the courts are barred from usurping the jurisdiction of the police, since the two organs of the State operate in two specific spheres of activities. The inherent power of the court is, however, recognised to secure the ends of justice or prevent the above of the process by Section 482 Cr.P.C.

ix) The functions of the judiciary and the police are complementary, not overlapping;

x) Save in exceptional cases where non-interference would result in miscarriage of justice, the Court and the judicial process should not interfere at the stage of investigation of offences;

xi) Extraordinary and inherent powers of the Court do not confer an arbitrary jurisdiction on the Court to act according to its whims or caprice;

xii) The first information report is not an encyclopaedia which must disclose all facts and details relating to the offence reported. Therefore, when the investigation by the police is in progress, the court should not go into the merits of the allegations in the FIR. Police must be permitted to complete the investigation. It would be premature to pronounce the conclusion based on hazy facts that the complaint/FIR does not deserve to be investigated or that it amounts to abuse of process of law. During or after investigation, if the investigating officer finds that there is no substance in the application made by the complainant, the investigating officer may file an appropriate report/summary before the learned Magistrate which may be considered by the learned Magistrate in accordance with the known procedure; xiii) The power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is very wide, but conferment of wide power requires the court to be cautious. It casts an onerous and more diligent duty on the court;

xiv) However, at the same time, the court, if it thinks fit, regard being had to the parameters of quashing and the self-restraint imposed by law, more particularly the parameters laid down by this Court in the cases of R.P. Kapur (supra) and Bhajan Lal (supra), has the jurisdiction to quash the FIR/complaint; and

xv) When a prayer for quashing the FIR is made by the alleged accused, the court when it exercises the power under Section 482 Cr.P.C., only has to consider whether or not the allegations in the FIR disclose the commission of a cognizable offence and is not required to consider on merits whether the allegations make out a cognizable offence or not and the court has to permit the investigating agency/police to investigate the allegations in the FIR."

12. Learned counsel for the respondent no. 4 further states that even on facts the petitioner could not be exonerated of the charges of cruelty as he had though purchased the property in question in the name of his wife, he had yet to pay 40% of the cost of it and because he had stopped giving the various instalments the builder was after the life of the respondent no. 4 to pay remaining installments. Learned counsel for the respondent no. 4 also submitted that the offences which had been alleged against the petitioner were continuous in nature. The offences of cruelty had started off right from the date the couple had got married. The FIR was a result of all that had happened in the past so many years and, therefore, the petitioner could not get away by saying that there was no particular incident of cruelty.

13. Learned counsel for the respondent no. 4 further submitted that cruelty is a term which has a different meaning for every individual. For arriving at a conclusion as to whether there was cruelty against a particular individual all surrounding circumstances had to be looked into. In the instant case, he submits that the respondent no. 4 came from a very well-to-do family and was a well educated lady and, therefore, she expected a treatment which was of a nature which would go with her upbringing. He submits that when proper treatment was not meted out to her then it was definitely cruelty. Learned counsel for the respondent no. 4 has also submitted that not only the petitioner had filed the divorce petition in the USA but he had also filed a divorce suit in August 2019 in India (This fact has not been controverted by the learned counsel for the petitioner).

14. Learned counsel submitted that the reply which the respondent no. 4 had sent in October 2019 and the Email which she had sent showed how disgruntled she was with her situation and that she was in fact being cruelly deprived of her maintenance.

15. Learned counsel for the respondent no. 4 further submitted that under Section 498-A of the IPC, the cruelty had not only to be physical torture or atrocity. There could be a mental and emotional injury while physical injury was not present, which was a latent form of cruelty but was equally serious in the terms of the provisions of statutes and this cruelty would also embrace the attributes of cruelty in terms of Section 498-A of the IPC.

16. Learned counsel for the respondent no.4 also relied upon the provisions of Section 188 and 189 of the Cr.P.C. which are being reproduced here as under:-

"188. Offence committed outside India. When an offence is committed outside India-

(a) by a citizen of India, whether on the high seas or elsewhere; or

(b) by a person, not being such citizen, on any ship or aircraft registered in India, he may be dealt with in respect of such offence as if it had been committed at any place within India at which he may be found:

Provided that, notwithstanding anything in any of the preceding sections of this Chapter, no such offence shall be inquired into or tried in India except with the previous sanction of the Central Government."

189. Receipt of evidence relating to offences committed outside India. When any offence alleged to have been committed in a territory outside India is being inquired into or tried under the provisions of section 188, the Central Government may, if it thinks fit, direct that copies of depositions made or exhibits produced before a judicial officer in or for that territory or before a diplomatic or consular representative of India in or for that territory shall be received as evidence by the Court holding such inquiry or trial in any case in which such Court might issue a commission for taking evidence as to the matters to which such depositions or exhibits relate.

17. He submits that the petitioner could be tried in India even for the offences which he had committed in the USA. He submits that for investigation, in fact, no sanction of the Central Government was also required. For this purpose, he relied upon 2011 (9) SCC 527 (Thota Venkateshwarlu vs. State of Andhra Pradesh through Principal Secretary and another). So far as the evidence was concerned, learned counsel for the respondent no. 4 submitted that under Section 189 Cr.P.C. all the evidence could be obtained by the investigating agency even from the USA.

18. Learned counsel for the respondent no. 4 replying to the arguments of the petitioner that a protection was required from the High Court because the look out notice had been issued against the petitioner and that a non-bailable warrant had been issued, submitted that the petitioner had throughout avoided investigation vis-a-vis the FIR which was lodged on 14.4.2021 and, therefore, no indulgence be granted to the petitioner. He further submits that if the offences were cognizable in nature the FIR could not be quashed and, therefore, the prayer for a protection could not be granted to the petitioner.

19. Learned counsel for the respondent no. 4 thus submitted that the case could very well be looked into by the police as also by the Courts at Gautam Budh Nagar under the provisions of Section 188 Cr.P.C. He also relied upon the decision of the Supreme Court in Om Hemrajani vs. State of U.P. & Ors. : AIR 2005 SC 392 and submitted that the offence which were committed outside India could be very much tried in India.

20. Learned AGA Sri Arunendra Kumar Singh also submitted that the FIR could not be tinkered with lightly. He relied upon the judgements of the Supreme Court which had been relied upon by the learned counsel for the respondent no. 4.

21. Learned counsel for the State also submitted that the offences alleged in the FIR were of a continuing nature and they could not be taken lightly. Still further, learned AGA submitted that most of the judgements which had been cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner were for the quashing of the charge sheet.

22. Having heard learned counsel for the parties, the Court finds from the perusal of the First Information Report that there are allegations which reveal the commission of a cognizable offence. Respondent No. 4 has alleged various kinds of cruelties which had led her to various illnesses. The respondent no. 4 had also alleged that there was a miscarriage which had resulted because of the fact that the petitioner had pushed her. Still further the Court finds that the respondent no. 4 was being deprived of her financial resources and that had driven her to come back to India and in India also, the Court finds, there was a threat made vis-a-vis the respondent no. 4 and her parents on 26.2.2021 when two persons had reached her house at 5.30 PM and had threatened her with dire consequences. The arguments of the learned counsel for the petitioner that the FIR was a counter-blast to the notice for divorce and that the FIR itself was a malicious persecution of the petitioner do not hold any water.

23. Under such circumstances, when the First Information Report definitely discloses the commission of cognizable offences the writ petition does not warrant any interference.

24. The Court also finds that under Section 188 and 189 Cr.P.C. the offences alleged to have been committed beyond the territory of India by an Indian citizen could be investigated into and also tried in India.

25. Both the writ petitions are, accordingly, dismissed.

26. Dismissal of the Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 7081 of 2021 and Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 7082 of 2021 would not in any manner come in the way of the petitioner in availing the remedies which might be available under the Cr.P.C.

Application No.48 of 2019, dated 09.09.2019, Civil Misc. Application No. 49 of 2019 dated 30.11.2019 and Civil Misc. Application No.52 of 2020 dated 30.07.2020, filed by the respondent No.12 and objections thereto filed by the petitioner being objection Nos. 54 of 2020, 55 of 2020 and 56 of 2020, dated 20.10.2020, 20.10.2020 and 03.11.2020 respectively.

2. By the aforesaid three applications, the applicant/respondent no.12 has prayed as under :

Civil Misc. Application No. 48, dated 09.09.2019	Civil Misc. Application No.49 dated 30.11.2019	Civil Misc. Application No. 52 dated 30.07.2020

denied by the Company and is disputed and the claim requires evidence oral and documentary for which remedy lies in the common court/appropriate court of law. "	may be directed to file their claims before the NCLT."	Ltd may be directed to file their claims before the NCLT."

3. The main contention of learned counsel for the applicant/respondent no.12 is that since the Company's Act, 1956 has been repealed by the new Act i.e. The Companies's Act, 2013 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act 2013") and the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code 2016 (hereinafter referred to as "the IBC") has been enacted, therefore, by virtue of Section 434(1)(c) of the Act, 2013 read with Rule 5 of the Companies (Transfer of pending proceedings) Rules, 2016 (hereinafter referred to as "the Transfer Rules, 2016"), the present Company petition is not maintainable before this Court and it has to be transferred to the National Company Law Tribunal (for short "NCLT") constituted under Section 408 read with Section 410 of the Act 2013.

4. This petition was heard on several occasions and detailed orders including the orders dated 29.09.2020, 02.12.02020 and 20.01.2021 were passed incorporating the submissions of learned counsels for the parties.

5. By order dated 02.12.2020, following questions were framed for consideration :-

(i) Whether in view of Section 434(1)(c) of the Companies Act 2013 read with Rule 5 of the Companies (Transfer of Pending Proceedings) Rules, 2016, the present Company petition which by order dated 28.5.2019 passed by the Division Bench converted the PIL No.12324 of 2003 into the present Company Petition, can be proceeded with by the High Court or it has to be transferred to the NCLT" ?

(ii) Whether after the enactment of the Companies Act 2013, the present petition could have been registered as Company Petition by converting PIL No.12324 of 2003 by order dated 28.05.2019 whereas after enactment of the Act 2013 and constitution of the Tribunal NCLT under Section 408 read with Section 410 of the Act 2013, no Company Petition would lie to the High Court ?

6. Learned counsel for the applicant/respondent no.12 has submitted as under :-

(A) In view of Section 408, 410 and 434(1)(c) of the Companies Act, read with the 5th proviso, the High Court has no jurisdiction to entertain or proceed with a Company Petition inasmuch as the jurisdiction in Company Petition for winding up on the ground of inability to pay tax is maintainable only before the NCLT. Reliance is place on the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court dated 22.01.2019 in Civil Appeal No.818 of 2018 (Forech India Ltd. Vs. Edelweiss Assets Reconstruction Co. Ltd.) (paras 12 and 17). (B) As per Rule 5 of the Companies (Transfer of Pending Proceedings) Rules, 2016, enacted by Notification dated 07.12.2016 as amended by 2nd amendment Notification dated 29.06.2017, all petitions relating to winding up under Clause (e) of Section 433 of the Companies Act, 1946 on the ground of inability to pay debts, pending before the High Court as on 15.12.2016 stood transferred to the NCLT.

Therefore, this Court should also transfer the present petition to NCLT.

(C) It is admitted that the order dated 28.05.2019 in PIL No.12324 of 2003 was passed by the Division Bench with the consent of the parties. The relevant portion of paragraph-47 of the aforesaid order dated 28.05.2019, reads as under:

"(II) Since it is an old matter, Registry of this Court now shall register a Winding Up Company Petition and place this matter before Company Judge so that Court may proceed in the matter by considering claims of the parties The property, movable or immovable, in the custody of District Administration or the Registrar General etc., shall be taken in custody by Company Judge or if so directed, shall be handed over to Official Liquidator for maintenance of property and dealing with the same in the manner as directed by Company Judge in the winding up petition.

(III) Till further order is passed by Company Judge, Registrar General is directed to keep the entire money, as detailed in para 38 of this order, in a fixed deposit and thereafter it shall be dealt with in the manner as directed by Company Judge.

(IV) Claim of M/s Pushpa Petroleum is said to be founded on a compromise between the said Firm and M/s SBPL dated 04.04.2005. The Company Judge shall look into its genuineness and pass appropriate order."

(D) The aforesaid order was passed on no objection/ consent of the applicant/ respondent No.12 but that consent or no objection does not confer any power upon the High Court to proceed with the present matter as a company petition, inasmuch as the High Court has no jurisdiction to proceed with the company petition under the Companies Act, 2013. Now company petition can be filed by the petitioner only before the NCLT in accordance with the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013.

(E) In any case, this court cannot proceed with the present company petition and instead the matter should be remitted to the NCLT under Section 271 of the Companies Act, 2013.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted as under :-

(a) A Writ (C) No.758 of 1996 (Jagriti Upbhogta Kalyan Parishad and others Vs. Union Of India and Others was filed by the present petitioners before the Hon'ble Supreme Court under Article 32 of the Constitution of India and by Order dated 13.01.2003, Hon'ble Supreme Court has disposed of the writ petition with certain directions and consequent thereto a public interest litigation (PIL) No.12324 of 2003 (Jagriti Upbhogta Kalyan Parishad Thru Its Joint Secretary Vs. Union Of India and Others) was registered in this Court and after various steps were taken under directions of this Court pursuant to the aforesaid order of Hon'ble Supreme Court, the aforesaid PIL was disposed of by order dated 28.05.2019 with the following directions :-

"(I) CBI Court shall proceed to decide the cases pending before it ensuring hearing on day to day basis. It should endeavor to complete trial in all these cases expeditiously since sufficient time has already elapsed. Now it is expedient that proceedings should be completed within two years, but if for any good or valid reason, it fails to do so, it may submit a progress report to the Court seeking further time.

(II) Since it is an old matter, Registry of this Court now shall register a Winding

Up Company Petition and place this matter before Company Judge so that Court may proceed in the matter by considering claims of the parties The property, movable or immovable, in the custody of District Administration or the Registrar General etc., shall be taken in custody by Company Judge or if so directed, shall be handed over to Official Liquidator for maintenance of property and dealing with the same in the manner as directed by Company Judge in the winding up petition.

(III) Till further order is passed by Company Judge, Registrar General is directed to keep the entire money, as detailed in para 38 of this order, in a fixed deposit and thereafter it shall be dealt with in the manner as directed by Company Judge.

(IV) Claim of M/s Pushpa Petroleum is said to be founded on a compromise between the said Firm and M/s SBPL dated 04.04.2005. The Company Judge shall look into its genuineness and pass appropriate order."

(b) Pursuant to the aforesaid directions, the aforesaid PIL was converted/registered as the present Company petition No.16 of 2019, with the consent of the applicants herein/respondent no.12.

(c) Vide para (a) of the order, Hon'ble Supreme Court transferred entire papers of the aforesaid Writ Petition requesting Hon'ble the Chief Justice of this Court to constitute the Special Bench to deal with the matter and the Special Bench will appoint a retired Judge of the High Court as a Special Commissioner.

(d) The Special Commissioner, in terms of the aforequoted order of Hon'ble Supreme Court and pursuant to the orders passed by the High Court from time to time, took effective steps and did the needful to adjudicate the claims. The aforesaid writ petition was registered as PIL No.12324 of 2003 but by order dated 28.05.2019, the High Court directed the PIL to be converted into a Company petition which is the present Company Petition No.16 of 2019.

(e) Present case is not a winding up proceedings under the Companies Act, 1956 but it is a petition registered under the order dated 28.05.2019 passed by the High Court in PIL No.12324 of 2003.

(f) The jurisdiction of the High Court to proceed with the present Company Petition, under the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case and the aforequoted order of Hon'ble Supreme Court; is not ousted even as per provisions of Section 434(1)(c) of the Act, 2013 read with Rule 5 of the Companies (Transfer of Pending Proceedings) Rules, 2016, particularly when this company petition was not pending as on the cut off date i.e. 15.12.2016. Therefore, present company petition should be concluded by the High Court.

(g) PIL No.12324 of 2003 was converted into the present Company petition by order dated 28.05.2019, passed by the High Court which was passed on "no objection" filed by all the contesting parties including the petitioners and the respondent no.12. Therefore, after getting the P.I.L. converted with consent into a company petition, the respondent no.12/applicants can not raise objections that the present company petition can not be adjudicated by the High Court.

(h) Since PIL No.12324 of 2003 was converted into the present Company Petition by order dated 28.05.2019, passed by the Division Bench of this court, therefore, the present petition is not a petition for the purposes of Section 434(1)(c) or Section 271 of the Companies Act, 2013. It is a petition under the orders passed in the aforesaid PIL, therefore, the provisions of Section 271 or Section 434(1)(c) of the Companies Act, 2013, shall not be attracted. Reliance is placed on the principles laid down in Reserve Bank of India A Statutory Boday vs. M/s. Sahara India Financial Corporation Ltd., 2019 (3) ADJ 540 (LB).

(i) A company petition cannot be automatically transferred by the High Court to the Tribunal under Section 434 (1)(c) of the Companies Act, 2013 rather third proviso to Rule 5 of the Companies (Transfer of Pending Proceedings) Rules, 2016 as amended by the Second Amendment Rules vide GSR 732(E) dated 29.06.2017 leaves the discretion with the court where the winding up proceedings are pending to transfer it or not to transfer it to the Tribunal. Rule 5 of the Companies (Transfer of Pending Proceedings) Rules, 2016 as amended on 29.06.2017, reads as under:

"5. Transfer of pending proceedings of Winding up on the ground of inability to pay debts.- (1) All petitions relating to winding up of a company under clause (e) of section 433 of the Act on the ground of inability to pay its debts pending before a High Court, and, where the petition has not been served on the respondent under rule 26 of the Companies (Court) Rules, 1959 shall be transferred to the Bench of the Tribunal established under sub-section (4) of section 419 of the Companies Act, 2013 exercising territorial jurisdiction to be dealt with in accordance with Part II of the Code:

Provided that the petitioner shall submit all information, other than information forming part of the records transferred in accordance with rule 7, required for admission of the petition under sections 7, 8 or 9 of the Code, as the case may be, including details of the proposed insolvency professional to the Tribunal upto 15th day of July, 2017, failing which the petition shall stand abated:

Provided further that any party or parties to the petitions shall, after the 15th day of July, 2017, be eligible to file fresh applications under sections 7 or 8 or 9 of the Code, as the case may be, in accordance with the provisions of the Code:

Provided also that where a petition relating to winding up of a company is not transferred to the Tribunal under this rule and remains in the High Court and where there is another petition under clause (e) of section 433 of the Act for winding up against the same company pending as on 15th December, 2016, such other petition shall not be transferred to the Tribunal, even if the petition has not been served on the respondent."

(j) In support of his submissions, Sri Saran has relied upon paragraphs-57 and 58 of the judgment of this court in the case of Reserve Bank of India A Statutory Boday vs. M/s. Sahara India Financial Corporation Ltd. (supra).

Facts

8. The petitioners filed a writ petition before Hon'ble Supreme Court under Article 32 of the Constitution of India bringing to its notice that how various consumers, distributors and dealers of the respondent no.12 i.e. M/s. S.B. Petroleum Ltd., spread in nine states, namely, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Karnataka, Uttar Pradesh, Haryana, Rajasthana, Bihar, Delhi and Punjab were taken for a ride and cheated by collection of crores of rupees and syphoned it by acquiring personal properties. The matter was heard by Hon'ble Supreme Court for several years and ultimately the writ petition was disposed of by order dated 13.01.2003 as under :-

"This writ petition under Article 32 of the Constitution of India was filed in public interest, approximately six years earlier, bringing to the notice of this Court how various consumers, distributors and dealers of respondent No. 12 -M/s. S.B. Petroleum Ltd. spread in nine States, namely Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Karnataka, Uttar Pradesh, Haryana, Rajasthan, Bihar, Delhi, Punjab were taken for a ride and cheated by collection of crores of rupees. According to the petitioners crores of rupees were syphoned and personal properties acquired. Various orders were passed by this Court from time to time against respondent. 12-Company and its Managing Director and his family members and also other Directors. Directions were also issued to various authorities noticing a total inaction on the part of the authorities. Some of the orders passed to which reference can be made in this regard are the orders dated 20th October and 17th November, 1997, 6th February and 20th March, 1998 and 3rd December, 2001. Various bank accounts and properties have been attached. The matter was also investigated by CBI and the Economic Offences Wing (CID) U.P. We have been informed by Shri Altaf Ahmad, learned Additional Solicitor General that 22 chargesheets were filed on 24th December, 1999 before Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate III, Lucknow. Learned Additional Solicitor General submits that primarily on account of the non-cooperation of the accused charges have not been framed. We, however, refrain from expressing any opinion except observing that all concerned are directed to cooperate in the expeditious disposal of the cases that have been initiated as a result of directions issued in this matter.

Having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case, we do not think it possible for this Court to either examine from time to time the progress of the criminal cases so as to ensure its expeditious disposal and to also go into the factual details of a large number of consumers and their rights, and also the rights, if any, of dealers/distributors. We may note that though large sums have been refunded, according to respondent no.12, to the consumers but it seems that still there may be large number of consumers to get the refunds. We feel it would be appropriate, if the matter is transferred to the High Court in terms of the prayer made in I.A.No.27/2002 filed by learned Amicus Curiae. Accordingly, we issue the following directions:

The writ petition and all applications are disposed of in the above terms."

9. Vide direction No.(a) of the aforequoted order, Hon'ble Supreme Court transferred case papers of the aforesaid Writ Petition (c) No.758 of 1996 to this Court with a request to Hon'ble Chief Justice of Allahabad High Court to constitute a Special Bench either at Allahabad or at Lucknow Bench to deal with the matter. The Special Bench will appoint a retired judge of the High Court as a Commissioner and decide about his remuneration/expenses etc. The Special Commissioner will take charge of all the assets including the Bank accounts of the respondent no.12. Pursuant to the aforesaid directions the Public Interest Litigation (PIL) No.12324 of 2003 (Jagriti Upbhogta Kalyan Parishad Thru Its Joint Secretary Vs. Union Of India And Others) was registered in this Court. A Special Commissioner was also appointed who carried out tremendous job before the assets may be sold and the proceeds may be distributed amongst the claimants/petitioners, the aforesaid PIL was disposed of by a detailed order dated 28.05.2019. The directions given by the Division Bench in the aforesaid PIL No.12324 of 2003 while disposing of the aforesaid PIL no.12324 of 2003 by order dated 28.05.2019, are as under :-

"(I) CBI Court shall proceed to decide the cases pending before it ensuring hearing on day to day basis. It should endeavor to complete trial in all these cases expeditiously since sufficient time has already elapsed. Now it is expedient that proceedings should be completed within two years, but if for any good or valid reason, it fails to do so, it may submit a progress report to the Court seeking further time.

(II) Since it is an old matter, Registry of this Court now shall register a Winding Up Company Petition and place this matter before Company Judge so that Court may proceed in the matter by considering claims of the parties The property, movable or immovable, in the custody of District Administration or the Registrar General etc., shall be taken in custody by Company Judge or if so directed, shall be handed over to Official Liquidator for maintenance of property and dealing with the same in the manner as directed by Company Judge in the winding up petition.

(III) Till further order is passed by Company Judge, Registrar General is directed to keep the entire money, as detailed in para 38 of this order, in a fixed deposit and thereafter it shall be dealt with in the manner as directed by Company Judge.

(IV) Claim of M/s Pushpa Petroleum is said to be founded on a compromise between the said Firm and M/s SBPL dated 04.04.2005. The Company Judge shall look into its genuineness and pass appropriate order.

10. Pursuant to the direction of the Division Bench of this Court in para 47(II)/(III)/(IV) of the order dated 28.05.2019 in the aforesaid PIL No.12324 of 2003 the present petition has been registered and listed before me as Company Judge nominated by Hon'ble the Chief Justice by order dated 17.06.2020 on administrative side. This is how the present company petition has came up before this court for consideration.

11. However, the present case could not be proceeded to reach the logical ends on account of further obstructions created by the applicants/respondent no.12 by making successive application being Civil Misc. Application No.48 dated 09.09.2019, Civil Misc. Application No. 49 dated 30.11.2019 and Civil Misc. Application No.52 dated 30.07.2020 which are being hereby decided.

Discussion and Findings

12. I have carefully considered the submissions of learned counsels for the parties and perused the records of the case.

13. It is undisputed that the entire proceedings against the applicants/respondent no.12 and their properties took place pursuant to the directions of Hon'ble Supreme Court vide order dated 13.01.2003 in Writ Petition (c) No.752 of 1996, filed by the petitioner herein under Article 32 of the Constitution of India. The direction given by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the order dated 13.01.2003, has already been reproduced above. It is also admitted to the applicants/respondent no.12 that the Special Commissioner, in terms of the aforequoted order of Hon'ble Supreme Court and pursuant to the orders passed by the High Court from time to time in the aforesaid PIL no.12324 of 2003, took effective steps and did the needful to adjudicate the claim.

14. Now, mainly the process of selling the assets and distribution of proceeds amongst the claimants in adjudication of their claims, is left. It appears that under the facts and circumstances of the case the Division Bench thought it fit to provide by order dated 28.05.2019 that the PIL may now be converted and registered as a winding up company petition so that the matter may reach to its logical ends. Thus, the present case is not winding up proceedings under the Companies Act, 1956 but it is a petition registered under the orders of the Division Bench dated 28.05.2019 in PIL No.12324 of 2003, which itself was the result of order of Hon'ble Supreme Court dated 13.01.2003, passed under Article 32 of the Constitution of India in Writ Petition (c) No.758 of 1996.

15. It has been admitted by learned counsel for the applicant/respondent no.12 that the aforesaid PIL No.12324 of 2003 was converted into the present company petition by order dated 28.05.2019 on "no objection" filed by all the contesting parties including the petitioners and the applicants/respondent no.12. Thus, the aforesaid PIL was converted into the present petition with the consent of the applicants/ respondent no.12. Consequently, the respondents can not raise objection that the present company petition can not be adjudicated by the High Court. Without prejudice to the above, it is further relevant to mention that neither the applications presently under consideration filed by the applicants/respondent no.12 have disclosed any reason for transfer of the present petition to NCLT nor learned counsel for the applicants/respondent no.12 has raised any contention disclosing reasons for transfer, except that the present petition deserves to be transferred to the NCLT under the Transfer Rules, 2016. There is no doubt that the second proviso to Section 434(1)(c) provides that any party to winding up proceedings pending before any Court immediately before the commencement of IBC, may file an application for transfer of such proceedings and the Court may transfer all such proceedings to the NCLT. However, the said proviso does not mandate that the proceedings would automatically stands transferred rather it leaves the decision with the Court where the winding up proceedings are pending, to transfer the same or not to transfer the same. The applications of the applicants/respondent no.12 do not even disclose specifically as to why power to transfer the winding up petition should be exercised by this Court and the winding up petition should be transferred, particularly when after journey of about 25 years the matter is now about to reach to its logical end. Similar is the view taken by Lucknow Bench of this Court in the case of Reserve Bank of India a Statutory Body Vs. Sahara India Financial Corporation Ltd. 2019 3 ADJ 540(LB)(para 43,51,53,56,57 & 58). The judgment of this Court in the case of Saumya Co-operative Housing Society Vs. State of U.P., 2019 (143) RD relied by learned counsel for the applicants/respondent no.12 laying down the principle that jurisdiction can not be conferred on a Court by consent, is distinguishable on facts of the present case. Reasons in this regard have already been stated in foregoing paragraphs. It would be relevant to mention at the cost of repetition that the present petition has come into existence on account of the orders of Hon'ble Supreme Court dated 13.01.2003 in Writ Petition (c) No.758 of 1996 followed by order of the Division Bench of this Court dated 28.05.2019 in PIL No.12324 of 2003.

16. It would not be out of place to mention that pursuant to the direction of Hon'ble Supreme Court particularly those given in paragraphs g, h, i and l of the order dated 13.01.2003, the Special Commissioner took up the entire matter and after issuance of notices publicised in largely circulated news papers, adjudicated the claims. An interim report dated 11.01.2006 was submitted by the Special Commissioner, namely, Sri Justice R.A. Sharma (Retd.) and thereafter a supplementary final report dated 05.09.2006 was also submitted. The interim report dated 11.01.2006 is a very detailed report which discloses various steps taken by the Special Commissioner pursuant to the orders of Hon'ble Supreme Court and also the Division Bench of this Court in the aforesaid PIL No.12324 of 2003.

17. In the supplementary final report the Special Commissioner concluded as under :-

"By his orders dated 28.03.2006, the Special Commissioner has decided 153 claims. The judgments of the decided claims are contained in two volumes. All these judgments have been filed before this Hon'ble Court.

In the final report, it was mentioned that five cases; two from U.P. and three from Maharashtra, have been adjourned from time to time at the request of the parties and are fixed in April and June, 2006. Now, these five cases have also been decided. There were also five highly belated claims, which were left undecided. These claims have also been decided.

The Special Commissioner has awarded Rs. 9,42,65,989/- + Rs. 1,68,82,865/- = Rs. 11,11,48,854/- to the claimants whose claims have been allowed.

As all the pending claims have been decided by the Special Commissioner, his judicial work is over. Sale of the properties, mentioned in the Special Commissioner's order dated 28.03.2006, which is part of volume I of the judgments, and payment of the amount to the claimants whose claims have been decreed are the only work left. The sale of the properties is likely to take time, as the orders of the Special Commissioner have been challenged.

This report is, accordingly, submitted to bring on record the position with regard to the disposal of the claims filed before the Special Commissioner."

18. Thereafter, on account of death of Sri Justice R.A. Sharma, by order of the Division Bench this Court Sri Justice R.R.K. Trivedi (Retd.) was appointed as a Special Commissioner on 06.08.2013 to carry out the orders of Hon'ble Court. A lot of amount has been collected which are kept in three bank accounts and details of which have been given by Sri Justice R.R.K. Trivedi (Retd.) in his application dated June 10, 2020. The amounts is available in the bank in the form of FDRs. are about 1.25 crores.

9. The facts as briefly noted above clearly indicates that such steps have already been taken which are irreversible. Therefore, in terms of the provisions of Section 434 (c) of the Companies Act, 2013 read with Rule 5 of the Transfers Rules, 2016, the transfer applications in question filed by the applicants/respondent no.12 deserve to be rejected.

20. In the case of Action Ispat and Power Private Limited Vs. Shyam Metalics and Energey Limited (2021) 2 SCC 641 (para 14 to 26) Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the provisions of Section 434(c) of the Companies Act, 2013 and the Transfer Rules 2016 and held that transfer of petition pending in High Court to NCLT can be made when no irreversible steps towards winding up of the Company have otherwise taken place. Therefore, even in view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court the present company petition need not to be transferred to the NCLT.

21. For all the reasons aforestated, the Civil Misc. Application No.48 of 2019 dated 09.09.2019, Civil Misc. Application No. 49 of 2019 dated 30.11.2019 and Civil Misc. Application No.52 of 2020 dated 30.07.2020, filed by the applicants/ respondent No.12 are hereby rejected.

22. The matter is released and be listed on 25.03.2022 before the appropriate court.

Even in the revised list none appeared on behalf of the opposite party nos.2 to 4 nor any counter affidavit has been filed on their behalf, this court proceed to hear the matter finally.

2. This revision is directed against the order dated 26.07.2001 passed by learned District and Sessions Judge, Kannauj by which he has accepted the final report submitted by the Investigating Officer and set aside the order dated 25.04.2001 passed by the Judicial Magistrate, Chhibramau by which he has summoned the opposite party no.2 under Section 379 I.P.C.

3. The brief facts of the present case is that the revisionist has constructed a house in the property in dispute and also there are 32 trees of Mango and one tree of Neem. On 06.09.2000 respondent No.2 along with some unsocial elements has broken the lock of the house of the revisionist and took possession on the same and also take away the goods of Rs. 8000/-. The revisionist tried to lodge F.I.R. by approaching the concerned Police Station and by sending Fax message to the Superintendent of Police, but no F.I.R. has not been lodged. Thereafter, revisionist filed an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. before the Judicial Magistrate on 02.12.2000 and on the application of the revisionist on the same day the Judicial Magistrate, First Class has passed an order directing the Police Station of concerned Police to lodge an F.I.R. and inform the Court. Pursuant to the order passed by the Judicial Magistrate an F.I.R. has been lodged by the police on 07.12.2000, under Sections 147, 504, 506, 427, 448, 379 I.P.C. and the same was registered as Case Crime No. 454 of 2000 and after investigation the Investigating Officer in a mechanical manner submitted final report in favour of the opposite party no.2 without considering the evidence on record.

The revisionist has again approached to the Police Authority for again re-investigation and also filed protest petition before the Judicial Magistrate and on the protest petition of the revisionist the learned Magistrate vide order dated 25.04.2001 have issued summons to the opposite party no.2 under Section 379 I.P.C.

4. Feeling aggrieved by the order dated 25.04.2001 the opposite party no.2 filed a criminal revision before the learned District and Sessions Judge, Kannauj and the revisional court vide impugned order dated 26.07.2021 set aside the summoning order dated 25.04.2001 and also accepted the final report without considering the evidence on record.

5. After hearing the learned counsel for the revisionist and learned A.G.A. for the State and on perusal of the record it reveals that the F.I.R. was registered by the revisionist against opposite party no. 2 under Sections 147, 504, 506, 427, 448, 379 I.P.C. and after investigating final report was submitted by the Investigating Officer in a mechanical manner. Thereafter, the learned Magistrate after considering the protest petition and perusing the record summoned the accused under Section 379 Cr.P.C. vide order dated 25.04.2001, expressing his judicial power.

6. In Gangadhar Janardan Mhatre vs. State of Maharashtra and others 2004 (7) SCC 768, the Court reiterating above view said as under:

"The Magistrate can ignore the conclusion arrived at by the Investigating Officer and independently apply his mind to the facts emerging from the investigation and take cognizance of the case, if he thinks fit, exercise of his powers under Section 109(1)(b) and direct the issue of process to the accused."

(emphasis added)"

7. In Pakhando and others Vs. State of U.P. reported in 2001 SCC Online All 967 a Division Bench of this Court after considering Section 190 Cr.P.C. has held that if upon investigation Police comes to conclusion that there was no sufficient evidence or any reasonable ground of suspicion to justify forwarding of accused for trial and submits final report for dropping proceedings, Magistrate shall have following four courses and may adopt any one of them:

(I) He may agreeing with the conclusions arrived at by the police, accept the report and drop the proceedings. But before so doing, he shall give an opportunity of hearing to the complainant;

(II) He may take cognizance under Section 190(I)(b) and issue process straightway to the accused without being bound by the conclusions of the investigating agency, where he is satisfied that upon the facts discovered or unearthed by the police, there is sufficient ground to proceed; or

(III) He may order further investigation, if he is satisfied that the investigation was made in a perfunctory manner; or

(IV) He may, without issuing process or dropping the proceedings decide to take cognizance under Section 190(I)(b) upon the original complaint or protest petition treating the same as complaint and proceed to act under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. and thereafter decide whether complaint should be dismissed or process should be issued.

8. In Mohammad Yusuf Vs. State of U.P. 2007 (9) ADJ 294, Police submitted final report which was not accepted by Magistrate, not on the basis of material collected by Police, but, relying on Protest Petition and accompanying affidavit Magistrate issued process. Court disapproved the aforesaid procedure adopted by Magistrate and said:

"Where the magistrate decides to take cognizance under section 190 (1) (b) ignoring the conclusions reached at by the investigating officer and applying his mind independently, he can act only upon the statements of the witnesses recorded by the police in the case-diary and material collected during investigation. It is not permissible at that stage to consider any material other than that collected by the investigating officer. In the instant case the cognizance was taken on the basis of the protest petition and accompanying affidavits. The Magistrate should have adopted the procedure of complaint case under Chapter XV of the Code of Criminal Procedure and recorded the statements of the complainant and the witnesses who had filed affidavits under Section 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. The Magistrate could not take cognizance under section 190 (1) (b) Cr.P.C. on the basis of protest petition and affidavits filed in support thereof. The Magistrate having taking into account extraneous material i.e. protest petition and affidavits while taking cognizance under section 190 (1) (b) Cr.P.C. the impugned order is vitiated." (emphasis added).

9. In the instant case, after submission of final report under Section 173 Cr.P.C. against opposite party no. 2, the learned Magistrate after considering the protest petition rejected the final report and arrived at conclusion that case is made out against opposite party under Sections 379 I.P.C. and cognizance order was also passed on 25.04.2001 and summoned the accused/opposite party. Contention of the counsel for the revisionist is perfectly correct that the Magistrate has power straightway disagreeing with the conclusion arrived at by the Investigating Officer. Being aggrieved with the order dated 25.04.2001, opposite party No.2 filed revision in the court of District and Sessions Judge, Kannau. Sessions Court considered the plea of alibi of the accused only on the basis of affidavit submitted by opposite party and quash the order of cognizance passed by Magistrate against the opposite party under Sections 379 I.P.C. vide order dated 26.07.2001 and accepted the final report submitted by investigating officer. Revisional Sessions Court has allowed the revision of opposite party no.2 on the basis of plea of alibi filed on affidavit of witness. But it is a settled principal of law that plea of alibi must not be looked at the stage of investigation and inquiry. Plea of alibi of accused shall be examined only during the trial at the stage of defence. Order of learned Revisional Sessions Court is totally based on plea of alibi of accused-oppposite parties on the basis of affidavit submitted by witness before the Sessions Court. So the order of the lower revisional court is not sustainable in the eyes of law. On exercising the revisional power, learned Sessions Court cannot quash the cognizance and summoning order passed by the Magistrate, in exercising its revisional power, jurisdiction of Sessions Court is very limited and the Sessions Court can only examine the illegality, irregularity and impropriety of the order passed by the Magistrate. If the Sessions Court find any illegality, irregularity or jurisdictional error then Sessions Court cannot quash the proceedings but the revisional court have only power to issue direction by pointing out the error regarding the order passed by the Magistrate. Therefore, order of learned Sessions Court, is wholly erroneous and against the set principles of law.

10. In view of the aforesaid discussion this Court is of the view the present revision of revisionist is liable to be allowed and the order dated 26.07.2001 passed by learned District and Session Judge, Kannauj is hereby quashed.

11. The District and Session Judge, Kannauj is directed to pass a fresh order in accordance with law in view of the observation of this Court after hearing the aggrieved parties.

12. Accordingly, the revision is allowed.

13. The office is directed to transmit back the lower court record, if any, with a copy of the judgment and order of this Court before the court below for its compliance.

(Criminal Misc. Delay Condonation Application No. 135146 of 2016)

1. This revision has been filed challenging the judgment and order dated 21.10.2015 passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Mirzapur in Misc. Case No. 39 of 2014, by which application of revisionist filed under Section 126(2) Cr.P.C. was rejected, which was preferred by the revisionist against the judgment and order dated 01.01.2014 passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Mirzapur in Misc. Case No. 102 of 2013, Smt. Meera Devi Vs. Laxman Prasad, whereby the court below has allowed the application undr Section 125 Cr.P.C. moved on behalf of wife (opposite party No. 2 herein) and directed the revisionist to pay maintenance allowance to his wife at the rate of Rs. 5,000/- per month from the date of application and remaining balance amount be paid in four equal installments in every three months within a period of one year.

2. Heard learned counsel for the revisionist and learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 and learned A.G.A. for the State.

3. This revision is barred by limitation and has been filed with a delay of 756 days.

4. Learned counsel for the revisionist submits that the revisionist is husband and his wife-opposite party no.2 filed an application under Section 125 of Cr.P.C., which was allowed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, Mirzapur vide its order dated 01.01.2014 and awarded maintenance at the rate of Rs. 5000/- per month from the date of application i.e. 28.07.2006. Against the said order the revisionist filed an application under Section 126(2) Cr.P.C. which was rejected by the learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Mirzapur on 21.10.2015. He further submits that the revisionist reached Allahabad on 24.03.2016 and thereafter, again went back to Mirzapur for taking some relevant papers and finally came to Allahabad on 11.04.2016 and after preparing this revision, filed the same along with application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act.

5. The explanation given in affidavit accompanying delay condonation application filed under Section 5 of Limitation Act, 1963 is neither acceptable nor trustworthy.

6. The expression "sufficient cause" in Section 5 of Act, 1963 has been held to receive a liberal construction so as to advance substantial justice and generally a delay in preferring appeal may be condoned in interest of justice where no gross negligence or deliberate inaction or lack of bona fide is imputable to parties, seeking condonation of delay. In Collector, Land Acquisition Vs. Katiji, 1987(2) SCC 107, the Court said, that, when substantial justice and technical considerations are taken against each other, cause of substantial justice deserves to be preferred, for, the other side cannot claim to have vested right in injustice being done because of a non deliberate delay. The Court further said that judiciary is respected not on account of its power to legalise injustice on technical grounds but because it is capable of removing injustice and is expected to do so.

7. In P.K. Ramachandran Vs. State of Kerala, AIR 1998 SC 2276 the Court said:

"Law of limitation may harshly affect a particular party but it has to be applied with all its rigour when the statute so prescribe and the Courts have no power to extend the period of limitation on equitable grounds."

8. The Rules of limitation are not meant to destroy rights of parties. They virtually take away the remedy. They are meant with the objective that parties should not resort to dilatory tactics and sleep over their rights. They must seek remedy promptly. The object of providing a legal remedy is to repair the damage caused by reason of legal injury. The statute relating to limitation determines a life span for such legal remedy for redress of the legal injury, one has suffered. Time is precious and the wasted time would never revisit. During efflux of time, newer causes would come up, necessitating newer persons to seek legal remedy by approaching the courts. So a life span must be fixed for each remedy. Unending period for launching the remedy may lead to unending uncertainty and consequential anarchy. The statute providing limitation is founded on public policy. It is enshrined in the maxim Interest reipublicae up sit finis litium (it is for the general welfare that a period be put to litigation). It is for this reason that when an action becomes barred by time, the Court should be slow to ignore delay for the reason that once limitation expires, other party matures his rights on the subject with attainment of finality. Though it cannot be doubted that refusal to condone delay would result in foreclosing the suiter from putting forth his cause but simultaneously the party on the other hand is also entitled to sit and feel carefree after a particular length of time, getting relieved from persistent and continued litigation.

9. There is no presumption that delay in approaching the court is always deliberate. No person gains from deliberate delaying a matter by not resorting to take appropriate legal remedy within time but then the words "sufficient cause" show that delay, if any, occurred, should not be deliberate, negligent and due to casual approach of concerned litigant, but, it should be bona fide, and, for the reasons beyond his control, and, in any case should not lack bona fide. If the explanation does not smack of lack of bona fide, the Court should show due consideration to the suiter, but, when there is apparent casual approach on the part of suiter, the approach of Court is also bound to change. Lapse on the part of litigant in approaching Court within time is understandable but a total inaction for long period of delay without any explanation whatsoever and that too in absence of showing any sincere attempt on the part of suiter, would add to his negligence, and would be relevant factor going against him.

10. I need not to burden this judgment with a catena of decisions explaining and laying down as to what should be the approach of Court on construing "sufficient cause" under Section 5 of Act, 1963 and it would be suffice to refer a very few of them besides those already referred.

11. In Shakuntala Devi Jain Vs. Kuntal Kumari, AIR 1969 SC 575 a three Judges Bench of the Court said, that, unless want of bona fide of such inaction or negligence as would deprive a party of the protection of Section 5 is proved, the application must not be thrown out or any delay cannot be refused to be condoned.

12. The Privy Council in Brij Indar Singh Vs. Kanshi Ram ILR (1918) 45 Cal 94 observed that true guide for a court to exercise the discretion under Section 5 is whether the appellant acted with reasonable diligence in prosecuting the appeal. This principle still holds good inasmuch as the aforesaid decision of Privy Council as repeatedly been referred to, and, recently in State of Nagaland Vs. Lipok AO and others, AIR 2005 SC 2191.

13. In Vedabai @ Vaijayanatabai Baburao Vs. Shantaram Baburao Patil and others, JT 2001(5) SC 608 the Court said that under Section 5 of Act, 1963 it should adopt a pragmatic approach. A distinction must be made between a case where the delay is inordinate and a case where the delay is of a few days. In the former case consideration of prejudice to the other side will be a relevant factor so the case calls for a more cautious approach but in the latter case no such consideration may arise and such a case deserves a liberal approach. No hard and fast rule can be laid down in this regard and the basic guiding factor is advancement of substantial justice.

14. In Pundlik Jalam Patil (dead) by LRS. Vs. Executive Engineer, Jalgaon Medium Project and Anr. (2008) 17 SCC 448, in para 17 of the judgment, the Court said :

"...The evidence on record suggests neglect of its own right for long time in preferring appeals. The court cannot enquire into belated and state claims on the ground of equity. Delay defeats equity. The court helps those who are vigilant and "do not

15. In Maniben Devraj Shah Vs. Municipal Corporation of Brihan Mumbai, 2012

"What needs to be emphasised is that even though a liberal and justice oriented approach is required to be adopted in the exercise of power under Section 5 of the Limitation Act and other similar statutes, the Courts can neither become oblivious of the fact that the successful litigant has acquired certain rights on the basis of the judgment under challenge and a lot of time is consumed at various stages of litigation apart from the cost. What colour the expression 'sufficient cause' would get in the factual matrix of a given case would largely depend on bona fide nature of the explanation. If the Court finds that there has been no negligence on the part of the applicant and the cause shown for the delay does not lack bona fides, then it may condone the delay. If, on the other hand, the explanation given by the applicant is found to be concocted or he is thoroughly negligent in prosecuting his cause, then it would be a legitimate exercise of discretion not to condone the delay. In cases involving the State and its agencies/instrumentalities, the Court can take note of the fact that sufficient time is taken in the decision making process but no premium can be given for total lethargy or utter negligence on the part of the officers of the State and / or its agencies/instrumentalities and the applications filed by them for condonation of delay cannot be allowed as a matter of course by accepting the plea that dismissal of the matter on the ground of bar of limitation will cause injury to the public interest."

16. In my view, the kind of explanation rendered herein does not satisfy the observations of Apex Court that if delay has occurred for reasons which does not smack of mala fide, the Court should be reluctant to refuse condonation. On the contrary, I find that here is a case which shows a complete careless and reckless long delay on the part of revisionist which has remain virtually unexplained at all. Therefore, I do not find any reason to exercise my judicial discretion exercising judiciously so as to justify condonation of delay in the present case.

17. In the result, the application deserves to be dismissed.

18. Accordingly, the application for condonation application is hereby rejected.

Since delay condonation application No. 135146 of 2016 has been rejected by this Court vide order of date, therefore, the present revision is also dismissed as barred by limitation.

1. This revision is directed against the judgment and order dated 09.03.2017 passed by Special Judge (POCSO Act) Additional Sessions Judge Court No. 12 Moradabad in Appeal No. 207/2016 (Shane Abbas Vs. Kumar Fiza Zaidi) dismissing the appeal of the present revisionist and confirmed the order dated 20.10.2016 passed by Juvenile Justice Board Moradabad in Case No. 77/2016 arising out of Case Crime No. 237/2016, under Sections 302, 120B I.P.C. Police Station Civil Lines, District Moradabad, by which the opposite party No.2-Kumari Fiza Naseem Zaidi has been

2. The brief facts of the present case is that on 25.02.2016 opposite party No.2-Kumari Fiza Naseem Zaidi and others have committed brutal murder of the brother of the revisionist, who was practising advocate and returning from kachery (District Court). The opposite party No.2 raised the plea of her juvenility before the Juvenile Justice Board Moradabad and after considering the material evidence the Juvenile Justice Board, Moradabad vide order dated 20.10.2016 allowed the application of the opposite party no.2 and she was declared juvenile. Thereafter, the present revisionist filed an appeal against the order dated 20.10.2016 before the Special Judge (POCSO Act) Additional Sessions Judge Court No. 12 Moradabad bearing Criminal Appeal No. 207/2016 (Shane Abbas Vs. Kumari Fiza Zaidi) raising objection that the date of birth of the opposite party No.2-Kumari Fiza Naseem Zaidi as per the certificate issued by the Municipal Corporation Moradabad is 16.11.1998 and according to the High School Certificate her date of birth is 16.11.1999 and as per Medical report (X-ray report) her age is 19 years, even then learned courts below have not considered the same and passed the impugned order. Several other grounds were taken while assailing the impugned order passed by the court below.

3. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

4. Before this Court proceeds further to assess the evidence and to consider and decide the case on merits, it shall be appropriate to examine the nature and scope of enquiry as contemplated under the law.

5. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Rishipal Singh Solanki Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and others 2021 0 Supreme (SC) 698 in paras 18,19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27 has held as under:

"18. The JJ Act, 2015 is a sequel to the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protectiion of Children) Act 2000 (hereinafter referred to as the "JJ Act, 2000') which has since been repealed. Under the JJ Act, 2000, an amendment was made by Act 33 of 2006 with effect from 22.8.2006 under which Section 7A of was inserted which reads as under:

"7A. Procedure to be followed when claim of juvenility is raised before any court.-- (1) Whenever a claim of juvenility is raised before any court or a court is of the opinion that an accused person was a juvenile on the date of commission of the offence, the court shall make an inquiry, take such evidence as may be necessary (but not an affidavit) so as to determine the age of such person, and shall record a finding whether the person is a juvenile or a child or not, stating his age as nearly as may be:

Provided that a claim of juvenility may be raised before any court and it shall be recognised at any stage, even after final disposal of the case, and such claim shall be determined in terms of the provisions contained in this Act and the rules made thereunder, even if the juvenile has ceased to be so on or before the date of commencement of this Act.

(2) If the court finds a person to be a juvenile on the date of commission of the offence under sub-section (1), it shall forward the juvenile to the Board for passing appropriate orders and the sentence, if any, passed by a court shall be deemed to have no effect." of Section 49 of the said Act reads as under:

"49. Presumption and determination of age.-

(1) Where it appears to a competent authority that person brought before it under any of the provisions of this Act (otherwise than for the purpose of giving evidence) is a juvenile or the child, the competent authority shall make due inquiry so as to the age of that person and for that purpose shall take such evidence as may be necessary (but not an affidavit) and shall record a finding whether the person is a juvenile or the child or not, stating his age as nearly as may be.

(2) No order of a competent authority shall be deemed to have become invalid merely by any subsequent proof that the person in respect of whom the order has been made is not a juvenile or the child, and the age recorded by the competent authority to be the age of person so brought before it, shall for the purpose of this Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person."

19. Rule 12 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children)

Rules, 2007 (hereinafter referred to as the "JJ Rules, 2007') prescribed the procedures for determination of age. Rule 12 reads as under - "12. Procedure to be followed in determination of Age.

(1) In every case concerning a child or a juvenile in conflict with law, the court or the Board or as the case may be the Committee referred to in Rule 19 of these rules shall determine the age of such juvenile or child or a juvenile in conflict with law within a period of thirty days from the date of making of the application for that purpose.

(2) The Court or the Board or as the case may be the Committee shall decide the juvenility or otherwise of the juvenile or the child or as the case may be the juvenile in conflict with law, prima facie on the basis of physical appearance or documents, if available, and send him to the observation home or in jail.

(3) In every case concerning a child or juvenile in conflict with law, the age determination inquiry shall be conducted by the court or the Board or, as the case may be, the Committee by seeking evidence by obtaining -

(a) (i) the matriculation or equivalent certificates, if available; and in the absence whereof;

(ii) the date of birth certificate from the school (other than a play school) first attended; and in the absence whereof;

(iii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(b) and only in the absence of either (i), (ii) or (iii) of clause (a) above, the medical opinion will be sought from a duly constituted Medical Board, which will declare the age of the juvenile or child. In case exact assessment of the age cannot be done, the Court or the Board or, as the case may be, the Committee, for the reasons to be recorded by them, may, if considered necessary, give benefit to the child or juvenile by considering his/her age on lower side within the margin of one year.

and, while passing orders in such case shall, after taking into consideration such evidence as may be available, or the medical opinion, as the case may be, record a finding in respect of his age and either of the evidence specified in any of the clauses (a)(i), (ii), (iii) or in the absence whereof, clause (b) shall be the conclusive proof of the age as regards such child or Ihe juvenile in conflict with law.

(4) If the age of a juvenile or child or the juvenile in conflict with law is found to be below 18 years on the date of offence, on the basis of any of the conclusive proof specified in sub-rule (3), the Court or the Board or as the case may be the Committee shall in writing pass an order stating the age and declaring the status of juvenility or otherwise, for the purpose of the Act and these rules and a copy of the order shall be given to such juvenile or the person concerned.

(5) Save and except where, further inquiry or otherwise is required, inter alia, in terms of Section 7A, Section 64 of the Act and these rules, no further inquiry shall be conducted by the court or the Board after examining and obtaining the certificate or any other documentary proof referred to in sub-rule (3) of this rule.

(6) The provisions contained in this rule shall also apply to those disposed of cases, where the status of juvenility has not been determined in accordance with the provisions contained in sub-rule (3) and the Act, requiring dispensation of the sentence under the Act for passing appropriate order in the interest of the juvenile in conflict with law."

20. Rule 12 of the JJ Rules, 2007 deals with the procedure to be followed in determination of age. The juvenility of a person in conflict with law had to be decided prima facie on the basis of physical appearance, or documents, if available. But an inquiry into the determination of age by the Court or the JJ Board was by seeking evidence by obtaining : (i) the matriculation or equivalent certificates, if available and in the absence whereof; (ii) the date of birth certificate from the school (other than a play school) first attended; and in the absence whereof; (iii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat. Only in the absence of either (i), (ii) and (iii) above, the medical opinion could be sought from a duly constituted Medical Board to declare the age of the juvenile or child. It was also provided that while determination was being made, benefit could be given to the child or juvenile by considering the age on lower side within the margin of one year. If a juvenile in conflict with law was found to be below 18 years, an order had to be passed declaring the status of the juvenility by the Court. The said procedure was also applicable to dispose off cases where the status of the juvenility had not been determined in accordance with the Act and the Rules made thereunder.

21. On repeal of JJ Act, 2000 and on the enforcement of JJ Act, 2015, the procedure to be followed when a claim of juvenility is raised before any court, other than a Board is stipulated under Section 9 (2) & (3). The same reads as under -

"2) In case a person alleged to have committed an offence claims before a court other than a Board, that the person is a child or was a child on the date of commission of the offence, or if the court itself is of the opinion that the person was a child on the date of commission of the offence, the said court shall make an inquiry, take such evidence as may be necessary (but not an affidavit) to determine the age of such person, and shall record a finding on the matter, stating the age of the person as nearly as may be:

Provided that such a claim may be raised before any court and it shall be recognised at any stage, even after final disposal of the case, and such a claim shall be determined in accordance with the provisions contained in this Act and the rules made thereunder even if the person has ceased to be a child on or before the date of commencement of this Act.

(3) If the court finds that a person has committed an offence and was a child on the date of commission of such offence, it shall forward the child to the Board for passing appropriate orders and the sentence, if any, passed by the court shall be deemed to have no effect."

There is no corresponding Rule to determine juvenility akin to Rule 12 of the JJ Rules, 2007.

22. On the other hand, under section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015, a presumption is raised that when a person is brought before the JJ Board or the Child Welfare Committee (''Committee' for short) (other than for the purpose of giving evidence) and the said person is a child, the JJ Board or the Committee shall record such observation stating the age of the child as nearly as may be, and proceed with the inquiry under Section 14 or Section 36, as the case may be, without waiting for further confirmation of the age. But where the said Board or the Committee has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the JJ Board or the Committee, as the case may be, shall undertake the process of age determination by seeking evidence by obtaining -

(i) the date of birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, if available; and in the absence thereof;

(ii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(iii) and only in the absence of (i) and (ii) above, age shall be determined by an ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or the Board.

Provided such age determination test conducted on the order of the Committee or the Board shall be completed within fifteen days from the date of such order. The age recorded by the Committee or the Board to be the age of person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of the Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person. For immediate reference section 94 of JJ Act, 2015 is extracted as under:

"94. Presumption and determination of age.- (1) Where, it is obvious to the Committee or the Board, based on the appearance of the person brought before it under any of the provisions of this Act (other than for the purpose of giving evidence) that the said person is a child, the Committee or the Board shall record such observation stating the age of the child as nearly as may be and proceed with the inquiry under Section 14 or Section 36, as the case may be, without waiting for further confirmation of the age.

(2) In case, the Committee or the Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Committee or the Board, as the case may be, shall undertake the process of age determination, by seeking evidence by obtaining -

a) the date of birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, if available; and in the absence thereof;

b) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

c) and only in the absence of (i) and

(ii) above, age shall be determined by an ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or the Board.

Provided such age determination test conducted on the order of the Committee or the Board shall be completed within fifteen days from the date of such order.

(3) The age recorded by the Committee or the Board to be the age of person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of this Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person.

23. Under section 7A of JJ Act, 2000 which was inserted by an amendment with effect from 22.08.2006, provision was made to claim juvenility by contending that the accused person was a juvenile on the date of commission of the offence and in such a case, on the evidence taken on record, a finding regarding the age of such person had to be recorded by the court, other than a JJ Board. The claim for juvenility could be raised before any Court and at any stage, even after the final disposal of a case and such claim had to be determined in terms of the said Act and the rules made thereunder. If the Court found a person to be a juvenile on the date of commission of offence under sub-section (1) of section 7A of the JJ Act, 2000, it had to forward the juvenile to the JJ Board for passing appropriate orders and the sentence, if any, passed by a Court would not have any effect. However, under the JJ Act, 2015, a provision corresponding to section 7A of the JJ Act, 2000, is in the form of sub-Section 2 of Section 9 of the said Act, which has been extracted above.

24. Further, unlike section 49 of JJ Act, 2000, section 94 of JJ Act, 2015 provides for presumption and determination of age if the Juvenile Justice Board or the Committee has reasonable grounds to doubt whether the person brought before it is a child or not. It shall undertake the process of determination of age by seeking evidence such as:

(i) the date of birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, if available; and in the absence thereof;

(ii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat; and

(iii) only in the absence of (i) and (ii) above, age shall be determined by an ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or the Board.

25. The difference in the procedure under the two enactments could be discerned as under:

(i) As per JJ Act, 2015 in the absence of requisite documents as mentioned in Sub-section (2) of Section 94(a) and (b), there is provision for determination of the age by an ossification test or any other medical age related test to be conducted on the orders of the Committee or the JJ Board as per Section 94 of the said Act; whereas, under Rule 12 of the JJ Rules, 2007, in the absence of relevant documents, a medical opinion had to be sought from a duly constituted Medical Board which would declare the age of the juvenile or child.

(ii) With regard to the documents to be provided as evidence, what was provided under Rule 12 of the JJ Rules, 2007 has been provided under sub-section 2 of section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 as a substantive provision.

(iii) Under Section 49 of the JJ Act, 2000, where it appeared to a competent authority that a person brought before it was a juvenile or a child, then such authority could, after making an inquiry and taking such evidence as was necessary, record a finding as to the juvenility of such person and state the age of such person as nearly as may be. Sub-section (2) of Section 49 stated that no order of a competent authority shall be deemed to have become invalid merely by any subsequent proof that the person in respect of whom the order had been made is not a juvenile and the age recorded by the competent authority to be the age of person so brought before it, for the purpose of the Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person.

26. But, under Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015, which also deals with presumption and determination of age, the Committee or the JJ Board has to record such observation stating the age of the child as nearly as may be and proceed with the inquiry without waiting for further confirmation of the age. It is only when the Committee or the JJ Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, it can undertake the process of age determination, by seeking evidence.

27. Sub-section (3) of Section 94 states that the age recorded by the Committee or the JJ Board to be the age of the persons so brought before it shall, for the purpose of the Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person. Thus, there is a finality attached to the determination of the age recorded and it is only in a case where reasonable grounds exist for doubt as to whether the person brought before the Committee or the Board is a child or not, that a process of age determination by seeking evidence has to be undertaken.

6. The Supreme Court of India in Ashwani Kumar Saxena Vs. State of M.P. in Criminal Appeal No. 1403 of 2021 (decided on 13.09.2012), examined the scope of an enquiry expected from a Court, the Juvenile Justice Board and the Committee in the light of earlier judgements and was pleased to observe in para-27 as under:-

"Section 7A, obliges the court only to make an inquiry, not an investigation or a trial, an inquiry not under the Code of Criminal Procedure, but under the J.J. Act. Criminal Courts, JJ Board, Committees etc., we have noticed, proceed as if they are conducting a trial, inquiry, enquiry or investigation as per the Code. Statute requires the Court or the Board only to make an "inquiry' and in what manner that inquiry has to be conducted is provided in JJ Rules. Few of the expressions used in Section 7A and Rule 12 are of considerable importance and a reference to them is necessary to understand the true scope and content of those provisions. Section 7A has used the expression "court shall make an inquiry", "take such evidence as may be necessary" and "but not an affidavit". The Court or the Board can accept as evidence something more than an affidavit i.e. the Court or the Board can accept documents, certificates etc. as evidence need not be oral evidence."

7. The Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the enquiry on the point of juvenility has nothing to do with the enquiry as contemplated under other legislations and gave an opinion in paras-32, 34 and 36 of the aforesaid judgment of Ashwani Kumar Saxena (supra) as below:

32. Consequently, the procedure to be followed under the J.J. Act in conducting an inquiry is the procedure laid down in that statute itself i.e. Rule 12 of the 2007 Rules. We cannot import other procedures laid down in the Code of Criminal Procedure or any other enactment while making an inquiry with regard to the juvenility of a person, when the claim of juvenility is raised before the court exercising powers under section 7A of the Act. Many of the cases, we have come across, it is seen that the Criminal Courts are still having the hangover of the procedure of trial or inquiry under the Code as if they are trying an offence under the Penal laws forgetting the fact that the specific procedure has been laid down in section 7A read with Rule 12.

34. "Age determination inquiry" contemplated under section 7A of the Act r/w Rule 12 of the 2007 Rules enables the court to seek evidence and in that process, the court can obtain the matriculation or equivalent certificates, if available. Only in the absence of any matriculation or equivalent certificates, the court need obtain the date of birth certificate from the school first attended other than a play school. Only in the absence of matriculation or equivalent certificate or the date of birth certificate from the school first attended, the court need obtain the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat (not an affidavit but certificates or documents). The question of obtaining medical opinion from a duly constituted Medical Board arises only if the above mentioned documents are unavailable. In case exact assessment of the age cannot be done, then the court, for reasons to be recorded, may, if considered necessary, give the benefit to the child or juvenile by considering his or her age on lower side within the margin of one year.

36. Age determination inquiry contemplated under the JJ Act and Rules has nothing to do with an enquiry under other legislations, like entry in service, retirement, promotion etc. There may be situations where the entry made in the matriculation or equivalent certificates, date of birth certificate from the school first attended and even the birth certificate given by a Corporation or a Municipal Authority or a Panchayat may not be correct. But Court, J.J. Board or a Committee functioning under the J.J. Act is not expected to conduct such a roving enquiry and to go behind those certificates to examine the correctness of those documents, kept during the normal course of business. Only in cases where those documents or certificates are found to be fabricated or manipulated, the Court, the J.J. Board or the Committee need to go for medical report for age determination.

8. In Jabar Singh Vs. Dinesh and another - (2010) 3 SCC 757, Hon'ble Apex Court Court considered a situation wherein the entry of date of birth in the admission form of the school records or transfer certificates did not satisfy the condition laid down under Section 35 of the Evidence Act, i.e., the said entry was not in any public or official register and was not made either by a public servant, in the discharge of his official duty or by any person in performance of a duty specially enjoined by the law of the country and therefore the said evidence was not relevant for the purpose of determining the age of the accused in the said case. In the aforesaid case, this Court set aside the order of the High Court in revision and confirmed the order of the trial Court holding that the accused therein was a juvenile at the time of the commission of the alleged offence.

9. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Ram Vijay Singh Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh- 2021 CriLJ 2805, has observed as under :

"the ossification test is not the sole criterion of age determination and a blind and mechanical view regarding the age of the person cannot be adopted solely on the basis of medical opinion by radiological examination. Though, radiological examination is a useful guiding factor for determining the age of a person, the evidence is not of a conclusive and incontrovertible nature and it is subject to a margin of error. Medical evidence as to the age of a person, though a very useful guiding factor, is not conclusive and has to be considered along with other circumstances. The relevant paragraphs of the said judgment are extracted as under: "14. We find that the procedure prescribed in Rule 12 is not materially different than the provisions of Section 94 of the Act to determine the age of the person There are minor variations as the Rule 12(3)(a)(i) and (ii) have been clubbed together with slight change in the language. Section 94 of the Act does not contain the provisions regarding benefit of margin of age to be given to the child or juvenile as was provided in Rule 12(30(b) of the Rules. The importance of ossification test has not undergone change with the enactment of Section 94 of the Act. The reliability of the ossification test remains vulnerable as was Under Rule 12 of the Rules."

10. Hon'ble Apex Court in the Case of Shah Nawaz Vs. State of U.P. and others reported in AIR 2011SC3107 in paras 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 has held as under:

"7) In Raju and another Vs. State of Haryana (2010) 3 SCC 235, this Court had admitted "mark sheet" as one of the proof in determining the age of the accused person. In that case, the appellants therein Raju and Mangli along with Anil alias Balli and Sucha Singh were sent up for trial for allegedly having committed an offence punishable under Section 302 read with Section 34 of the IPC. Accused Sucha Singh was found to be a juvenile and his case was separated for separate trial under the Act. Others were convicted under Section 302 read with Section 34 of the IPC and were sentenced to imprisonment for life and to pay a fine of Rs. 5,000/-. Apart from contending on the merits of the prosecution case, insofar as appellant No. 1, Raju, is concerned, the counsel appearing for him submitted that on the date of the incident that is on (31.03.1994), he was a juvenile and as per his mark sheet, wherein his date of birth was recorded as 1977, he was less than 17 years of age on the date of the incident. Learned counsel submitted that having regard to the recent decision of this Court in Hari Ram Vs. State of Rajasthan and another, (2009) 13 SCC 211, appellant No. 1 must be held to have been a minor on the date of the incident and the provisions of the Act would apply in his case. Learned counsel further contended that the appellant No. 1 would have to be dealt with under the provisions of the said Act in keeping with the decision in the aforesaid case. On merits, while accepting the claim of the learned counsel for accused-appellant, this Court altered the conviction and sentence and convicted under Section 304 Part I read with Section 34 IPC instead of Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC. As far as appellant No. 1, namely, Raju was concerned, while accepting the entry relating to date of birth in the mark sheet referred his case to the Board in terms of Section 20 of the Act to be dealt under the provisions of the said Act in keeping with the provision of Section 15 thereof. It is clear from the said decision that this Court has accepted mark sheet as one of the proof for determining the age of an accused person.

8) Similarly, this Court has treated the date of birth in School Leaving Certificate as valid proof in determining the age of an accused person. In Bhoop Ram Vs. State of U.P. (1989) 3 SCC 1, this Court considered whether the appellant therein is entitled lesser imprisonment than imprisonment for life and should have been treated as a "child" within the meaning of Section 2(4) of the U.P. Children Act, 1951 (1 of 1952). The following conclusion in para 7 is relevant which reads as under:-

"7.....The first is that the appellant has produced a school certificate which carries the date 24-6-1960 against the column "date of birth". There is no material before us to hold that the school certificate does not relate to the appellant or that the entries therein are not correct in their particulars.... "

It is clear from the above decision that this Court relied on the entry made in the column "date of birth" in the School Leaving Certificate.

9) In Rajinder Chandra Vs. State of Chhattisgarh and another (2002) 2 SCC 287, this Court once again considered the entry relating to date of birth in the mark sheet and concluded as under:

"5. It is true that the age of the accused is just on the border of sixteen years and on the date of the offence and his arrest he was less than 16 years by a few months only. In Arnit Das v. State of Bihar this Court has, on a review of judicial opinion, held that while dealing with the question of determination of the age of the accused for the purpose of finding out whether he is a juvenile or not, a hypertechnical approach should not be adopted while appreciating the evidence adduced on behalf of the accused in support of the plea that he was a juvenile and if two views may be possible on the said evidence, the court should lean in favour of holding the accused to be a juvenile in borderline cases. The law, so laid down by this Court, squarely applies to the facts of the present case.

10) In Arnit Das v. State of Bihar (2000) 5 SCC 488, the Court held that while dealing with a question of determination of the age of an accused, for the purpose of finding out whether he is a juvenile or not, a hyper-technical approach should not be adopted while appreciating the evidence adduced on behalf of the accused in support of the plea that he is a juvenile and if two views may be possible on the same evidence, the court should lean in favour of holding the accused to be juvenile in borderline cases.

11) In Ravinder Singh Gorkhi Vs. State of U.P. (2006) 5 SCC 584 with regard to the entries made in School Leaving Certificate, this Court has observed as under:- "17. The school-leaving certificate was said to have been issued in the year 1998. A bare perusal of the said certificate would show that the appellant was said to have been admitted on 1-8-1967 and his name was struck off from the roll of the institution on 6-5-1972. The said school-leaving certificate was not issued in the ordinary course of business of the school. There is nothing on record to show that the said date of birth was recorded in a register maintained by the school in terms of the requirements of law as contained in Section 35 of the Evidence Act. No statement has further been made by the said Headmaster that either of the parents of the appellant who accompanied him to the school at the time of his admission therein made any statement or submitted any proof in regard thereto. The entries made in the school-leaving certificate, evidently had been prepared for the purpose of the case. All the necessary columns were filled up including the character of the appellant. It was not the case of the said Headmaster that before he had made entries in the register, age was verified. If any register in regular course of business was maintained in the school, there was no reason as to why the same had not been produced."

12) In Pradeep Kumar Vs. State of U.P. 1995 Supp (4) SCC 419*, this Court considered the commission of offence by persons below 16 years of age. The question before a three- Judge Bench was whether each of the appellants in those appeals was a child within the meaning of Section 2(4) of the U.P. Children Act, 1951 and as such on conviction under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC should have been sent to an approved school for detention till the age of 18 years. At the time of granting special leave, appellant, by name, Jagdish produced High School Certificate, according to which he was about 15 years of age at the time of occurrence. Appellant - Krishan Kant produced horoscope which showed that he was 13 years of age at the time of occurrence. So far as appellant - Pradeep was concerned, a medical report was called for by this Court which disclosed that his date of birth as 07.01.1959 was acceptable on the basis of various tests conducted by the medical authorities. In the above factual scenario/details, this Court concluded as under:-*

"3. It is thus proved to the satisfaction of this Court that on the date of occurrence, the appellants had not completed 16 years of age and as such they should have been dealt with under the U.P. Children Act instead of being sentenced to imprisonment on conviction under Section 302/34 of the Act"

After saying so and after finding that the appellants were aged more than 30 years, this Court directed not to send them to an approved school under the U.P. Children Act for detention, while sustaining the conviction of the appellants under all the charges framed against them, quashed the sentences awarded to them and ordered their release forthwith."

11. In case of Parag Bhati (Juvenile through Legal Guardian-Mother-Smt. Rajini Bhati v. State of Uttar Pradesh and another - (2016) 12 SCC 744, Ho'ble Apex Court observed as under:

"34. It is no doubt true that if there is a clear and unambiguous case in favour of the juvenile accused that he was a minor below the age of 18 years on the date of the incident and the documentary evidence at least prima facie proves the same, he would be entitled to the special protection under the JJ Act. But when an accused commits a grave and heinous offence and thereafter attempts to take statutory shelter under the guise of being a minor, a casual or cavalier approach while recording as to whether an accused is a juvenile or not cannot be permitted as the Courts are enjoined upon to perform their duties with the object of protecting the confidence of common man in the institution entrusted with the administration of justice.

35. The benefit of the principle of benevolent legislation attached to the JJ Act would thus apply to only such cases wherein the accused is held to be a juvenile on the basis of at least prima facie evidence regarding his minority as the benefit of the possibilities of two views in regard to the age of the alleged accused who is involved in grave and serious offence which he committed and gave effect to it in a well-planned manner reflecting his maturity of mind rather than innocence indicating that his plea of juvenility is more in the nature of a shield to dodge or dupe the arms of law cannot be allowed to come to his rescue. (Emphasis added) From the above decision, it is clear that the purpose of Juvenile Justice Act, 2000 is not to give shelter to the accused of grave and heinous offences.

36. It is settled position of law that if the matriculation or equivalent certificates are available and there is no other material to prove the correctness of date of birth, the date of birth mentioned in the matriculation certificate has to be treated as a conclusive proof of the date of birth of the accused. However, if there is any doubt or a contradictory stand is being taken by the accused which raises a doubt on the correctness of the date of birth then as laid down by this Court in Abuzar Hossain, an enquiry for determination of the age of the accused is permissible which has been done in the present case."

12. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Abuzar Hossain @ Gulam Hossain Vs. State of West Bengal reported in 2012 (10) SCC 489, a three judge Bench considered questions arising under the JJAct and the rules framed thereunder. After a detailed consideration of earlier judgments of the Apex Court on this issue, the larger bench of the apex Court, laid down as under:

39. Now, we summarise the position which is as under:

(i) A claim of juvenility may be raised at any stage even after final disposal of the case. It may be raised for the first time before this Court as well after final disposal of the case. The delay in raising the claim of juvenility cannot be a ground for rejection of such claim. The claim of juvenility can be raised in appeal even if not pressed before the trial court and can be raised for the first time before this Court though not pressed before the trial court and in appeal court.

(ii) For making a claim with regard to juvenility after conviction, the claimant must produce some material which may prima facie satisfy the court that an inquiry into the claim of juvenility is necessary. Initial burden has to be discharged by the person who claims juvenility.

(iii) As to what materials would prima facie satisfy the court and/or are sufficient for discharging the initial burden cannot be catalogued nor can it be laid down as to what weight should be given to a specific piece of evidence which may be sufficient to raise presumption of juvenility but the documents referred to in Rule 12(3)(a)(i) to (iii) shall definitely be sufficient for prima facie satisfaction of the court about the age of the delinquent necessitating further enquiry under Rule 12. The statement recorded under Section 313 of the Code is too tentative and may not by itself be sufficient ordinarily to justify or reject the claim of juvenility. The credibility and/or acceptability of the documents like the school leaving certificate or the voters' list, etc. obtained after conviction would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no hard and fast rule can be prescribed that they must be prima facie accepted or rejected. In Akbar Sheikh and Pawan these documents were not found prima facie credible while in Jitendra Singh the documents viz., school leaving certificate, marksheet and the medical report were treated sufficient for directing an inquiry and verification of the appellant's age. If such documents prima facie inspire confidence of the court, the court may act upon such documents for the purposes of Seciton 7A and order an enquiry for determination of the age of the delinquent.

(iv) An affidavit of the claimant or any of the parents or a sibling or a relative in support of the claim of juvenility raised for the first time in appeal or revision or before this Court during the pendency of the matter or after disposal of the case shall not be sufficient justifying an enquiry to determine the age of such person unless the circumstances of the case are so glaring that satisfy the judicial conscience of the court to order an enquiry into determination of age of the delinquent.

(v) The court where the plea of juvenility is raised for the first time should always be guided by the objectives of the 2000 Act and be alive to the position that the beneficent and salutary provisions contained in 2000 Act are not defeated by hyper-technical approach and the persons who are entitled to get benefits of 2000 Act get such benefits. The courts should not be unnecessarily influenced by any general impression that in schools the parents/guardians understate the age of their wards by one or two years for future benefits or that age determination by medical examination is not very precise. The matter should be considered prima facie on the touchstone of preponderance of probability.

(vi) Claim of juvenility lacking in credibility or frivolous claim of juvenility or patently absurd or inherently improbable claim of juvenility must be rejected by the court at threshold whenever raised.

13. I have perused the judgment passed by both the courts below.

14. Section 8 of The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 provides the powers, functions and responsibilities of the Board, which reads as under:-

(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force but save as otherwise expressly provided in this Act, the Board constituted for any district shall have the power to deal exclusively with all the proceedings under this Act, relating to children in conflict with law, in the area of jurisdiction of such Board.

(2) The powers conferred on the Board by or under this Act may also be exercised by the High Court and the Children's Court, when the proceedings come before them under section 19 or in appeal, revision or otherwise.

(3) The functions and responsibilities of the Board shall include--

(a) ensuring the informed participation of the child and the parent or guardian, in every step of the process;

(b) ensuring that the child's rights are protected throughout the process of apprehending the child, inquiry, aftercare and rehabilitation;

(c) ensuring availability of legal aid for the child through the legal services institutions;

(d) wherever necessary the Board shall provide an interpreter or translator, having such qualifications, experience, and on payment of such fees as may be prescribed, to the child if he fails to understand the language used in the proceedings;

(e) directing the Probation Officer, or in case a Probation Officer is not available to the Child Welfare Officer or a social worker, to undertake a social investigation into the case and submit a social investigation report within a period of fifteen days from the date of first production before the Board to ascertain the circumstances in which the alleged offence was committed;

(f) adjudicate and dispose of cases of children in conflict with law in accordance with the process of inquiry specified in section 14;

(g) transferring to the Committee, matters concerning the child alleged to be in conflict with law, stated to be in need of care and protection at any stage, thereby recognising that a child in conflict with law can also be a child in need of care simultaneously and there is a need for the Committee and the Board to be both involved;

(h) disposing of the matter and passing a final order that includes an individual care plan for the child's rehabilitation, including follow up by the Probation Officer or the District Child Protection Unit or a member of a non-governmental organisation, as may be required;

(i) conducting inquiry for declaring fit persons regarding care of children in conflict with law;

(j) conducting at least one inspection visit every month of residential facilities for children in conflict with law and recommend action for improvement in quality of services to the District Child Protection Unit and the State Government;

(k) order the police for registration of first information report for offences committed against any child in conflict with law, under this Act or any other law for the time being in force, on a complaint made in this regard;

(l) order the police for registration of first information report for offences committed against any child in need of care and protection, under this Act or any other law for the time being in force, on a written complaint by a Committee in this regard;

(m) conducting regular inspection of jails meant for adults to check if any child is lodged in such jails and take immediate measures for transfer of such a child to the observation home; and

(n) any other function as may be prescribed.

15. Section 9 of The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 provides procedure to be followed by a Magistrate who has not been empowered under this Act, reads as under:

(1) When a Magistrate, not empowered to exercise the powers of the Board under this Act is of the opinion that the person alleged to have committed the offence and brought before him is a child, he shall, without any delay, record such opinion and forward the child immediately along with the record of such proceedings to the Board having jurisdiction.

(2) In case a person alleged to have committed an offence claims before a court other than a Board, that the person is a child or was a child on the date of commission of the offence, or if the court itself is of the opinion that the person was a child on the date of commission of the offence, the said court shall make an inquiry, take such evidence as may be necessary (but not an affidavit) to determine the age of such person, and shall record a finding on the matter, stating the age of the person as nearly as may be:

Provided that such a claim may be raised before any court and it shall be recognised at any stage, even after final disposal of the case, and such a claim shall be determined in accordance with the provisions contained in this Act and the rules made thereunder even if the person has ceased to be a child on or before the date of commencement of this Act.

(3) If the court finds that a person has committed an offence and was a child on the date of commission of such offence, it shall forward the child to the Board for passing appropriate orders and the sentence, if any, passed by the court shall be deemed to have no effect.

(4) In case a person under this section is required to be kept in protective custody, while the person's claim of being a child is being inquired into, such person may be placed, in the intervening period in a place of safety.

16. Section 18 of the Act, 2015 provides that if it is found that any child below the age of 16 years has committed a heinous offence, then, notwithstanding anything contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force, may pass orders like allowing child to go home after advice or admonition or to direct the child to participate in group counselling or perform community service or may be released on probation of good conduct or he may be sent to special home for such period not exceeding three years etc. Perusal of provisions of the Act, 2015 establish that in no case the child below sixteen years of age having committed an heinous offence can be detained as convict in regular jails. The punishment as provided under the above provisions is basically of reformative nature. The general principles of care and protection of children as given in Chapter 2 of J. J. Act also include a principle of repatriation and restoration of every child with his family at the earliest.

17. Section 94 of the Act, 2015 provides presumption and determination of age of juvenile and such presumption is not conclusive to prove the case and is rebutable on the evidence lead by the aggrieved parties. Section 94 of the Act, 2015 is reproduced herein below:

Presumption and determination of age.-(1) Where, it is obvious to the Committee or the Board, based on the appearance of the person brought before it under any of the provisions of this Act (other than for the purpose of giving evidence) that the said person is a child, the Committee or the Board shall record such observation stating the age of the child as nearly as may be and proceed with the inquiry under section 14 or section 36, as the case may be, without waiting for further confirmation of the age.

(2) In case, the Committee or the Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Committee or the Board, as the case may be, shall undertake the process of age determination, by seeking evidence by obtaining--

(i) the date of birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, if available; and in the absence thereof;

(ii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(iii) and only in the absence of (i) and (ii) above, age shall be determined by an ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or the Board:

Provided such age determination test conducted on the order of the Committee or the Board shall be completed within fifteen days from the date of such order.

(3) The age recorded by the Committee or the Board to be the age of person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of this Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person.

18. In the M.R. Register of K.C.M. School, Civil Lines, Moradabad, in which the opposite party No.2 has studied from Class VII to XI, the name of the opposite party No.2 was registered at serial No. 16352 and it has also been proved by the statement of the Principal of the said institution and on the M.R. Register of K.G.Methodist School Civil Lines, Moradabad in which the opposite party No.2 studied from Class 2 to 3 her name was registered as Serial No. 537 and the Manager of the said institution stated on oath this fact. Further, Principal G.K.Vailhm College Moradabad, in which the opposite party No.2 had studied in Class Nursery, has also stated on oath that on the M.R. Register her name was registered at Serial No. 521 and thus it is beyond doubt that from K.G. to XI the date of birth of the opposite party No.2 was registered as 16.11.1999 and this Court is satisfied that all the entry relating to date of birth entered is one of the valid proofs of evidence for determination of age and it has also been proved by the statement of the Principal of the said institutions, therefore, undoubtedly opposite party No.2 was juvenile aged about 16 years 03 months and 09 days on the date of incident and there is no dispute as per the school record.

It is settled position in law that if the matriculation or equivalent certificates are available and there is no other material evidence to create doubt on the date of birth mentioned in the matriculation or equivalent certificate or genuineness of the certificate, then the date of birth mentioned in the matriculation certificate shall be treated as date of birth of the accused/juvenile. However, if there is any doubt, further enquiry shall be made and the Board/Court shall be justified to determine the age of the accused/juvenile claiming juvenility, on the basis of medical opinion from a duly constituted medical board. In view of the provision of Section 94 (2) of the Act, 2015 while making enquiry for determining the age of an accused/juvenile who is involved in a grave and heinous offence, the Board/Court should be more careful and conscious and once the the date of birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, if available and is proved then there was no justification to consider the age certificate issued by Municipal Corporation, Moradabad for determining the age of the accused-opposite party No.2 or determining the age by the medical Board.

In the present case in the school certificate from Class UKG to XI the date of birth of the opposite party No.2 is recorded as 16.11.1999, therefore, undoubtedly opposite party No.2 was juvenile on the date of incident, therefore, objection of the revisionist has no force that she is not juvenile on the date of incident.

The Court below has rightly considered the certificate issued by the Board from where the opposite party No.2 has passed her matriculation examination in which her date of birth is recorded as 16.11.1999 and the court below has passed the impugned order considering the provision of Section 94 (2) of the Act, 2015.

19. In view of the aforesaid discussion and considering the above proposition of law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court, I am in full agreement and I find no illegality or perversity in the impugned order dated 09.03.2017 passed by Special Judge (POCSO Act) Additional Sessions Judge Court No. 12 Moradabad in Appeal No. 207/2016 (Shane Abbas Vs. Kumar Fiza Zaidi) dismissing the appeal of the present revisionist and confirmed the order dated 20.10.2016 passed by Juvenile Justice Board Moradabad in Case No. 77/2016 arising out of Case Crime No. 237/2016, under Sections 302, 120B I.P.C. Police Station Civil Lines, District Moradabad.

20. Accordingly, the revision does not require any interference by this Court and is hereby dismissed.

21. The file is consigned to record.

22. Let the copy of this judgment and order be placed before he Registrar General, High Court, Allahabad to communicate the same to all the District Judges and the Presiding Officer of all the Juvenile Justice Board of the districts for its necessary compliance.

[2] Pleadings have been exchanged between the parties in all the above captioned revisions and as such, all the matters has ripe for final submissions to be adjudicated on merits.

[3] Coincidentally, all the aforesaid three revisionists, are assailing the legality and validity of the order dated 03.03.2022 through their respective revisions mentioned above whereby learned Additional Sessions Judge (Fast Track Court-I), Hapur, by three different orders of the same date i.e 03.03.2022, have rejected all the discharge applications of the revisionists under section 227 Cr.P.C. in S.T. No. 19 of 2020 (State v. Manju Bansal and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 567 of 2018, under sections 498-A, 504, 506, 307 and 120-B IPC and ¾ of the Dowry Prohibition Act, P.S. Pilakhuwa, District Hapur.

Since, order dated 03.03.2022 has been passed on three different applications in the same Sessions Trial, therefore, for the sake of brevity and convenience, all the aforesaid three revisions are clubbed together and decided by a common judgement by this Court.

FACTS OF THE CASE & SUBMISSIONS BY THE COUNSEL FOR THE REVISIONISTS:-

[4] As per prevailing practice nowadays in the society mostly in the cases of matrimonial discord, misunderstanding and incompatibility between the married couples, results into ever abhorring FIR. Here too, it seems to be a repetition of the same practice. In the instant case, the FIR was lodged by none other than the wife Ms. Shivangi Bansal herself against her husband as well as her in-laws. From the perusal of the FIR, it is borne out that for the incident of 04.10.2018, the present FIR came into existence on 22.10.2018 lodged at Police Station-Pilkhua, District-Hapur(native place of Ms. Shivani Bansal) against five named accused including husband and his relatives. In addition to above named accused persons, two more namely Chirag Bansal brother-in-law(devar) and Smt. Shipra Jain, married sister-in-law(nanad) were also roped in these offences. From the text of the FIR, following salient factual features of the case are apparent :-

[5] The written complaint signed by the informant Ms. Shivangi Bansal was sent to the office of the Prime Minister, Government of India, Chief Minister, State of U.P., Police Commissioner, New Delhi, D.G.P. Lucknow, Superintendent of Police, Hapur and Circle Officer, Police Station-Pilkhua, District-Hapur with the allegations that opposite party no.2 Ms. Shivangi Bansal was married with Sahib Bansal on 05.12.2015 according to Hindu rites and rituals. It seems that there was a deep rooted misunderstanding, and thorough incompatibility and discord between husband and wife, in fact, both of them were fierce-foe of each other.

[6] It is alleged that in the marriage, her parents have spent about Rs.2 crores in the shape of cash, jwellery, clothing, utensils, furniture and other gifts worth Rs.50 lacs. But, all the above named five persons were not happy by the aforesaid dowry and were demanding Rs.20 lacs more as an additional dowry which later on swelled to the figure of Rs.50 lacs. It is alleged that (a) the informant's father-in-law Mukesh Bansal wanted to have sexual favours from opposite party no.2 and not only this, her devar Chirag Bansal also have tried to ravish her physically. (b) The husband-Sahib Bansal used to lock her in the bathroom after taking away her mobile phone.(c) When the informant got pregnant, then they asked some astronomer to predict the sex of 'still born' baby. Then, her mother-in-law and sister-in-law pressurized her to get aborted. On making refusal, all the family members became physical with her. (d) During the stage of pregnancy, her husband tried to establish sexual relationship per-force. Not only this, he tried to have unnatural and oral sex and even, pissed in her mouth. (e) There was constant demand of additional dowry and on refusal by opposite party no.2 to oblige them, she was assaulted brutally by fists and kicks and maltreated and humiliated to its optimum.

[7] On 03.04.2017, Mukesh Bansal, (father-in-law) tried to distance with the warring couple and they shifted to some other rented accommodation, leaving behind the husband & wife to 130, First Floor, Rajdhani Enclave, Pithampura, New Delhi. In the month of September, 2017, when the informant was impregnated for the second time, the family members got her aborted in 2017 itself. On 03.10.2018, there was again demand of additional dowry of Rs.50 lacs and again on refusal, her husband attempted to strangulate her by 'chunni' and to further humiliate her, got her head into the commode of the toilet. On 04.10.2018, she dialed '100' and thereafter, gave written tehrir to A.S.P., Women Cell, New Delhi and then, left the company of her husband and returned to her place at Hapur.

[8] The story narrated in the FIR is not only abhorring, full of dirt, filth and venomous accusations where the informant fiercely abused her own husband and in-laws by using all the ways and means in the tone, tenor and texture in the extreme manner. The graphic and vivid descriptions of the incident without any shame or hitch of any sort which, speaks out volume of mental condition and amount of venom and poison in the mind of the informant. She without mincing any word, rather exaggerating the incident to manifolds, had vomitted the snide before the Court. Interestingly, general and sweeping allegations have been fastened against all the family members for committing sodomy, attempt to rape and illegal abortion etc. upon all the family members with special focus upon her husband, Sahib Bansal.

[9] As such, it is clear that the couple Sahib Bansal and Shivangi Bansal was married in December, 2015. Parents-in-law of the informant withdrew themselves from the company of their son and daughter-in-law keeping in view the growing acrimony between them and started residing to some other place in a rented accommodation. Thus, in-fact Mukesh Bansal and Smt. Manju Bansal(parent-in-law) remained in the company of warring Sahib Bansal (son) and daughter-in-law Shivangi Bansal, for almost one year and four months only and in order to achieve larger good, they came out silently from the lines of their son and daughter-in-law with hope and trust that bitterness between them would be diluted and the relationship between them would congenial.

[10] Learned counsel for the revisionist drew attention of this Court to GD Entry 027-A dated 04.10.2018, a call received by PCR that, in House No. 130 First Floor, Rajdhani Enclave, Peetampura, New Delhi, the husband is beating his wife. On 04.10.2018 at 10.10 P.M. an endorsement was made to the Police personnels, after meeting Ms. Shivangi Bansal, it was disclosed that the informant got married with Sahib Bansal about three years back, who constantly used to tease, beat and assault her for additional dowry. Thereafter, Ms. Shivangi Bansal after collecting her belongings along with her daughter's clothes and toys, proceeded to the house of her father Rajesh Goyal and mother-Sandhya Goyal at Pilkhuwa, Hapur. She has also given a handwritten application, enclosing a photostat copy of her complaint filed in the office of ACP, Women Cell, Rani Bagh, New Delhi and then proceeded to Pilakhuwa, District Hapur. On the same breath, she made similar allegations that her husband made demand for additional dowry of Rs. 50 Lacs and sought sexual favours in the shape of anal and oral sex and various other cruel acts of sex. She has also reiterated all the versions of the FIR in this application too. In the same application, she, in no uncertain terms, have stated that "I do not want to live with him(husband)." "I am not physically hurt." "I am not going for medical examination." It is crystal clear that despite all allegations of marpeet, she has made a candid statement that she was not physically assaulted, therefore, does not want to undergo any medical examination. On the same date, husband-Sahib Bansal also gave a detailed application with the allegation, exploiting the ugly situation that Shivangi Bansal has demanded Rs.5 crore else she would make the life of Sahib Bansal(husband) and his family members miserable like hell. The detailed application running into five pages is at Page-54 onwards of the affidavit.

[11] Interestingly, by giving application on 04.10.2018 as mentioned above, Shivangi Bansal categorically denying any physical assault upon her by her husband and she does not want to get herself medically examined. On the other hand, she appeared before the police on 22.10.2018 to get herself medically examined in C.H.C. Hapur wherein the doctor in the medical report, has candidly mentioned that she has sustained no injury on her person, annexure-3 to the petition.

However, in the counter affidavit filed by learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 and injury report issued by Bhagwan Mahavir Hospital, Pitampura, New Delhi dated 04.10.2018 at 9:11 pm is annexed whereby, it discloses certain injuries over her persons. It is alleged that these injuries were sustained by her husband who was present at his flat. She has made a complaint to the doctor that she was assaulted by her husband who tried to strangulate her and she made a complaint of pain around her neck and also nausea and vomitting. The condition of the patient was conscious and oriented and making a physical investigation, the doctor has opined that there is linear transverse bruise seen over lateral part of the neck. There is small burn sign seen at left forearm and tenderness in the backside. Thus, in totality, it is alleged that the husband had tried to strangulate her by a scarf resulting into a bruise over the neck. Except this, there is no vital injury over her person. Thus, it is quite clear that the instant is a no injury case wherein the informant has sustained a single scratch over her person and so far as strangulating her neck by chunni is concerned, there is sign and mark of struggle over her neck suggestive of the fact that husband has made an effort to gag her neck.

[12] The police, after probing the matter in depth, has submitted the charge sheet dropping all the offences, wherein the informant had made wild accusations in the FIR against her husband and his family members. The aforesaid charge sheet has been filed only under sections 498A, 323, 504, 506, 307 IPC and ¾ of D.P. Act. Thus, it is explicitly clear that the FIR is nothing but a virtual canard and full of venom where the informant unmindful of the fact to its far-reaching repercussions, pasted all the filth upon revisionist in wild manner but was unable to produce any documentary evidence/proof to substantiate the levelled allegations and thus, all the sections of unnatural/oral sex, forcible abortion have gone to haywire resultantly dropped from charge sheet. Not only this, names of Chirag Bansal and Ms. Shipra Jain finds no place in the charge sheet, so filed by the police.

[13] It is also relevant to point out here that under the auspices of Hon'ble the Apex Court and this Court as well, the matter was referred twice for mediation and conciliation proceeding so as to sort out and patch up the matter outside the court in an amicable way. But, unfortunately its ultimate result was a big zero. The parties failed to avail the advantage of the opportunity offered by the Apex Court as well as this Court. Eventually, after getting themselves bailed out from the court concerned, the husband Sahib Bansal, Mukesh Bansal, father-in-law, and Manju Bansal, mother-in-law moved the different discharge applications and vide order dated 03.03.2020, all the three applications stood dismissed by the learned sessions Judge, Hapur. On this factual backdrop of the case, the present three different revisions have been tabled before this Court by Sahib Bansal(husband), Mukesh Bansal(father-in-law) and Manju Bansal(mother-in-law).

[14] This Court has perused the order impugned and the submissions advanced by the respective parties and the grounds taken by the learned counsel for the revisionists, is that the order impugned passed by the court below which was canvassed as an illegal, perverse and without application of judicial mind, besides, it is a misuse of the procedure of the court.

[15] It is further urged by learned counsel for the revisionist that so far as Mukesh Bansal and Manju Bansal are concerned, they are parents-in-law of the opposite party no.2, informant who got married in December, 2015 with the son, Sahib Bansal. They remained in the company of the son and daughter-in-law upto 30.04.2017, to be precise 1 year, 4 months and 25 days from the date of marriage. During this, they repeatedly tried to pacify and get the rifts patched up but sensing that situation, heated up from bad to worse, they themselves decided to resile from the company of their son and daughter-in-law and started to reside in a distant place i.e. 44, Kapil Vihar, North-west, Delhi, a rented accommodation. Thus, from 30.04.2017, the physical presence of the old and pained couple from the site of the plagued situation on the place of said occurrence is completely cut off. The opposite party no.2 is a furious lady who wants to level the score with her husband as well as in-laws and the tone, texture and tenor of the FIR speaks volume about her mental condition. Her psyche and amount of venom in the mind of the informant goes to show that in order to take revenge from her husband and in-laws, she has gone to any extent, crossing all the limits of decency. On making an inquiry, except one small bruise over her neck, there is no other scratch over her person. The injuries shown may or may not touch the four corners of Section 307 IPC only against her husband who was residing with her at relevant point of time. On top of it, it has been contended by learned counsel for the revisionist that it is true, that there are certain specific allegations against the husband who resides with opposite party no.2 in the same flat and it is just possible that relationship between the husband and wife may be sore but so far as parent-in-law are concerned, they are out of canvass since 30.04.2017. The parent-in-law and other family members are roped in just because they are the parent, brother and sister of the husband-Sahib Bansal.

Lastly, learned counsel for the revisionist has drawn the attention of the Court to the allegations of the FIR whereby it is mentioned that parents of the informant spent Rs.two crores on her marriage and has given gifts worth Rs.50 lacs.

Learned counsel for the revisionist has drawn the attention of the Court to the annexure 3 and 4 of the rejoinder affidavit which are Income Tax Return of the opposite party no.2. The ITR of assessment year of 2014-15 shows that Shivangi Bansal has a gross total income of Rs.2,24,542/- whereas in the year 2015-16, she has shown her gross total income of Rs.2,75,246/- whereas her father's ITR of 2015-16, 2016-17, gross total income is Rs.3,53,693/- and Rs.5,54,772/- respectively and after having deduction, the total income was Rs.3,85,500/-. Their financial health on which they have given tax, clearly indicates their financial status and to suggest that the amount of Rs.2 crore was spent in the marriage and gifts of Rs.50 lacs were given, is simply cock and bull story. The informant has mentioned astronomical figures without any basis for which she is required to give a reasonable justification. The ITRs of father and daughter indicates that both of them belongs to upper middle-class, a well-to-do businessman.

[16] Thus, in the instant revision, judicial scrutiny of order dated 03.03.2022 passed by the Additional District and Sessions Judge/F.T.C.-I, Hapur is required to be done by this Court.

[17] Section 227 of Cr.P.C. has to be read with Section 228 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is indeed precious safe-guard for the defence to have a pre-battle protection conferred by the legislation under chapter XVI of Cr.P.C. There is no provision which empowers the Magistrate to discharge the accused. This extra-ordinary power can only be exercised by the trial Court and not by the Magistrate for the offences which are exclusively tried by the Court of Sessions itself. It is settled law that charge sheet constitute prima facie evidence constituting the offence for the proceedings and it is only the learned trial Judge after assessing the material on record and after affording the opportunity of hearing to the contesting parties, framed charges against the accused persons. Prior to this, the avenue has been created by the legislation giving a weapon of discharge in the hands of accused so as to rely upon the material collected by the police during investigation and citing the loopholes and pitfalls in the prosecution story and the material collected by the Investigating Officer of the case during investigation, and after assessing those materials collected during investigation and critically examined them, if the court finds that there is no sufficient or confidence generating material collected in the investigation, the trial court well within its power to discharge the accused and record the reasons for doing so.

In the instant case, except a typical sweeping remark by the informant and her parent that entire family used to harass her for the additional dowry of Rs.20 lacs or Rs.50 lacs ?? Thereafter, the applicant and his son Chirag Bansal used to seek sexual favours from her, putting her head in the commode, pissing in her mouth, all these are nothing but exaggaration and magnifying the incident to thousands fold for obvious reasons and purpose. Learned trial Judge ought to have weighed entire material on record specifically the fact that the Mukesh Bansal and his wife since 30.04.2017 are out of scene and they have got feeble reason or occasion for them to demand additional dowry.

[18] For the purpose of determining that whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, the Court assess compartively wider discretion in exercise of which it can determine the question, whether the material on record, if undisputed is such on the basis of which conviction can be of such reasonable possibility. Only the prima facie case is to be seen whether the case is beyond reasonable doubt or not, cannot be assessed at this stage. If the Court comes to the conclusion that the commission of the offence, is probable consequence, prima facie case of framing charge exist then the charges would be framed. At the stage of framing the charge, probative value of materials cannot be gone into. The basic underline idea behind section 227 and 228 Cr.P.C. is to ensure that the court should be satisfied that the accusation made against the accused is not frivolous and fictitious but on the contrary, some material for proceeding against the named accused persons.

[19] It would be hazardous to act upon the discrepancies in the material collected during investigation unless they are so apparent and glaring as to adversly affect the credibility of the prosecution case in its totality, without affording the reasonable opportunity to the prosecution to substantiate the allegations. The only prima facie case is to be seen while assessing all the facts and circumstances, materials collected during investigation, strict standard or proof while evaluating the material to ascertain, whether there is prima facie case against the accused or not.

Sri Srivastava, learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the revisionist in order to buttress his submissions, has relied upon the celebrated judgment of Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of State of Karnataka Vs. L. Munishwamy and others reported in 1977 AIR 1489, paragraph nos.7 and 8 of which are quoted hereinbelow :-

"The second limb of Mr. Mookerjee's argument is that in any event the High Court could not take upon itself the task of assessing or appreciating the weight of material on the record in order to find whether any charges could be legiti- mately framed against the respondents. So long as there is some material on the record to connect the accused with the crime, says. the learned counsel, the case must go on and the High Court has no jurisdiction. to put a precipitate or premature end to the proceedings on the belief that the prosecution is not likely to succeed. This, in our opinion, is too broad a proposition to accept.

-Section 227 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 2 of 1974, provides that:

"If, upon consideration of the record of the case and the documents submitted there- with, and after hearing the submissions of the accused and the prosecution in this be- half, the Judge considers that there is not sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, he shall discharge the accused and record his reasons for so doing."

This section is contained in Chapter XVIII called "Trial Before a Court of Sessions". It is clear from the provi- sion that the Sessions Court has the power to discharge an accused if after perusing the record and hearing the parties he comes to the conclusion, for reasons to be re- corded, that there is not sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. The object of the provision which requires the Sessions Judge to record his reasons is to enable the superior court to examine the correctness of the reasons for which the Sessions Judge has held that there is of is not sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. The High Court therefore is entitled to go into the reasons given by the Sessions Judge in support of his order and to determine for itself whether the order is justified by the facts and circumstances of the case.....

Let us then turn to the facts of the case to see, wheth- er the High Court was justified in holding that the proceed- ings against the respondents ought to be quashed in order to prevent abuse of the process of the court and in order to secure the ends of justice. We asked the State counsel time and again to point out any data or material on the basis of which a reasonable likelihood of the respondents being convicted of any offence in connection with the attempted murder of the complainant could be predicated. A few bits here and a few bits there on which the prosecution proposes to rely are woefully inadequate for connecting the respond- ents with the crime, howsoever, skilfully one may attempt to weave those bits into a presentable whole. There is no material on the record on which any tribunal could reason- ably convict the respondents for any offence connected with the assault on the complainant. It is undisputed that the respondents were nowhere near the scene of offence at the time of the assault. What is alleged against them is, that they had conspired to commit that assault. This, we think, is one of those cases in which a charge of conspiracy is hit upon for the mere reason that evidence of direct involvement of the accused is lacking. we have been taken through the statements recorded by the police during the course of investigation and the other material. The worst that can be said against the respondents on the basis thereof is that they used to meet one another frequently after the dismissal of accused No. 1 and prior to the commission of the assault on the complainant. Why they met, what they said, and whether they held any deliberations at all, are matters on which no witness has said a word. In the circumstances, it would be a sheer waste of public time and money to permit the proceedings to continue against the respondents. The High Court was therefore justified in holding that for meeting the ends of justice the proceedings against the respondents ought to be quashed."

[20] Hammering further, learned Senior Counsel, Sri Srivastava has relied upon the recent judgment of Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Sanjay Kumar Rai Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and another reported in 2021 AIR(SC) 2351 in which three Judges Bench of the Court has pointed out and underlined need of Discharge in the Cr.P.C., paragraph no.16 of which is quoted hereinbelow :-

"16. Further, it is well settled that the trial court while considering the discharge application is not to act as a mere post office or mouth piece to the prosecution. The Court has to sift through the evidence in order to find out whether there are sufficient grounds to try the suspect. The court has to consider the broad probabilities, total effect of evidence and documents produced and the basic infirmities appearing in the case and so on. [Union of India v. Prafulla Kumar Samal]. Likewise, the Court has sufficient discretion to order further investigation in appropriate cases, if need be. "

[21] In this regard, there are two earlier celebrated judgment of Hon'ble the Apex Court on the issue of Discharge i.e. (i) Union of India Vs. Prafulla Kumar Samal reported in 1979 3 SCC 4 ; (ii) Dilwar Balu Kurane Vs. State of Maharashtra reported in (2002) 2 SCC 135. In Prafulla Kumar Samal's case, scope of Section 227 of Cr.P.C. was considered and after adverting to various judgments, the Court has enumerated following principles :-

(i) The Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under section 227 of the Code has the undoubted powers to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not, a prima facie case against the accused has been made out.

(ii) Where the materials placed before the Court disclose "grave suspicion" against the accused which has not been properly explained the Court will be fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial.

(iii) The test to determine a prima facie case would naturally depend upon the facts of each case and it is difficult to lay down a rule of universal application. By and large, however, if two views are equally possible and the Judge is satisfied that the evidence produced before him while giving rise to some suspicion but not grave suspicion against the accused, he will be fully within his right to discharge the accused.

[22] Similarly, in the case of Dilawar Balu Kurane (supra), the principle enunciated in Prafull Kumar Samal case has been reiterated as held that the jurisdiction under section 227 of the Cr.P.C., "Judge which under the present Code, an experience Court, cannot act merely as a postoffice or a mouthpiece of the prosecution but has to consider the broad prababilities of the case, the total impact of the evidence and the documents produced before the court, the basic infirmities appearing in the case and so on. It is however, does not mean that Judge should make a roving inquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he is conducting a trial. The Court is not required to hold a mini-trial at the state of Discharge.

[23] After evaluating the material and various case laws discussed in the judgment of Sajjan Kumar VS. Central Bureau of Investigation, reported in 2010 (9) SCC 368 Hon'ble the Apex Court has broadly formulated the parameters to be exercised while dealing the case under section 227 and 228 of Cr.P.C. Paragraph no.17 of the aforesaid judgment is quoted as under :-

"17) Exercise of jurisdiction under Sections 227 & 228 of Cr.P.C.

On consideration of the authorities about the scope of Section 227 and 228 of the Code, the following principles emerge:-

(i) The Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under Section 227 of the Cr.P.C. has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out. The test to determine prima facie case would depend upon the facts of each case.

ii) Where the materials placed before the Court disclose grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the Court will be fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial.

iii) The Court cannot act merely as a Post Office or a mouthpiece of the prosecution but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and the documents produced before the Court, any basic infirmities etc. However, at this stage, there cannot be a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial.

iv) If on the basis of the material on record, the Court could form an opinion that the accused might have committed offence, it can frame the charge, though for conviction the conclusion is required to be proved beyond reasonable doubt that the accused has committed the offence.

v) At the time of framing of the charges, the probative value of the material on record cannot be gone into but before framing a charge the Court must apply its judicial mind on the material placed on record and must be satisfied that the commission of offence by the accused was possible.

vi) At the stage of Sections 227 and 228, the Court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to find out if the facts emerging therefrom taken at their face value discloses the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence. For this limited purpose, sift the evidence as it cannot be expected even at that initial stage to accept all that the prosecution states as gospel truth even if it is opposed to common sense or the broad probabilities of the case.

vii) If two views are possible and one of them gives rise to suspicion only, as distinguished from grave suspicion, the trial Judge will be empowered to discharge the accused and at this stage, he is not to see whether the trial will end in conviction or acquittal."

Toing the similar lines in recent judgment of Tarun Ji Tejpal Vs. State of Goa reported in (2015) 14 SCC 481, same ratio has been reiterated as in the case of Sajjan Kumar's case(supra).

[24] Now, coming to the precise question involved in the present case has to level the omnibus allegations of dowry related harassment of all the family members connected with the husband in recent judgment of Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of K. Subba Rao Vs. State of Telangana reported in 2018 (14) SCC 452 , it was observed by Hon'ble the Apex Court that the Court should be extremely careful and vigilant in proceeding against the distant relative of the husband in the crimes pertaining to the dispute even in dowry deaths. All the relatives of the husband should not be roped in on the basis of omnibus allegations unless Specific Instances of the involvement in the crime as alleged and surfaced during investigation with materials certainty. The sweeping and general allegations are very frequent now-a-days and if such people are put to trial on such a casual and omnibus allegations, it would bound to lead the disastreous result and unwarranted hardships to those persons.

In the instant case where her in-laws Mukesh Bansal and Manju Bansal remained in the company of their warring son and daughter-in-law barely for one year and four months and 25 days, left their company on 30.04.2017. Since, thereafter, the affair is between son and the victim alone. In addition to this, in their respective statement under section 161 Cr.P.C., a casual and sweeping allegations were fastened against them also when they are not in position to demand any additional dowry. It was further argued that victim priot to 03.10.2018, has not made a single whisper regarding dowry relatedd harassment and atrocities upon her by her parent-in-law. Then, the court has got no reason to presume that the in-laws were also active participants in extending dowry related harassment from the distance. It is urged by learned counsel for the revisionist that obnoxious allegations are motivated one, driven by a sheer retaliation without any iota of any sanctity to it.

Sri Srivastava, learned Senior Counsel also relied upon the latest judgment of Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Kahkashan Kausar@Sonam Vs. State of Bihar in Criminal Appeal No.195 of 2022 decided on 01.02.2022, following observations were made by the Apex Court :-

"18. The above-mentioned decisions clearly demonstrate that this court has at numerous instances expressed concern over the misuse of section 498A IPC and the increased tendency of implicating relatives of the husband in matrimonial disputes, without analysing the long term ramifications of a trial on the complainant as well as the accused. It is further manifest from the said judgments that false implication by way of general omnibus allegations made in the course of matrimonial dispute, if left unchecked would result in misuse of the process of law. Therefore, this court by way of its judgments has warned the courts from proceeding against the relatives and in-laws of the husband when no prima facie case is made out against them."

SUBMISSIONS ADVANCED BY OPPOSITE PARTY NO.2 :-

[25] Per contra, Sri Raj Kumar Kesari, learned counsel for the complainant has drawn the attention of the Court to the 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. statements of the victim annexed as Annexure-4 to the revision. The most interesting feature of the entire counter affidavit is that there is not a single averment in the entire affidavit which is dedicated exclusively to parent-in-law Mukesh and Manju Bansal. As usual, vague and sweeping allegations are made not only in the FIR but also in the averments of the counter affidavit qua her parent-in-law.

[26] I have perused the statement carefully. Being the youngest among the children of Rajesh Kumar Goyal and Sandhya Goyal, opposite party no.2 completed her B.Com Hons. from Sri Ram College of Commerce, New Delhi University. She is aged about 28 years and got married with Sahib Bansal on 05.12.2015. Besides Mukesh Bansal and Manju Bansal, she has included Chirag Bansal, unmarried devar and Shipra Jain, married nanad(sister-in-law). The couple were blessed with daughter Raina Bansal. The date of incident is 03.04.2018 and from the 161 Cr.P.C. statement, its questionaire and 164 Cr.P.C. statement, it is abunduntly clear that on the fateful day, oppposite party no.2 along with her husband and Raina Bansal were at the residence residing at 130, First Floor, Rajdhani Enclave, Pitampura, New Delhi. So far as parent-in-law are concerned, she states that her devar chirag also resides with her parent-in-law at Kapil Vihar, Pitampura, New Delhi. Both of them are in distinct domestic and separate entity on 30.04.2017. She has made severe allegations of assault and unnatural sex with her upon her husand and in this questionaire, she had made completely sweeping allegations of having sexual favours upon her own father-in-law and brother-in-law on unspecified date and time. Though, she has levelled omnibus allegations of demanding additional dowry upon all the named accused persons. In addition to this, there was also accusation with regard to forcible abortion and second time pregnancy. But its accusation got flat when the Investigating Officer inquired from Dr. Amita Agrawal, her Gynechologist who in no uncertain terms, gave the statement to the I.O. of the case that the second abortion was made on her own acceptance and willingness. There was nothing like forced abortion. However, in her statement, learned counsel for the complainant has tried to defend the orders of learned Additional Sessions Judge, Hapur that in parcha no.17, the statement of Rajesh Kumar Goyal and Sandhya Goyal was recorded in which they stated that both of them also demanded additional dowry and became physical with her on this score.

LEGAL DISCUSSION:-

I have perused the order impugned passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court, Hapur dated 03.03.2022 and while rejecting the discharge application, it has been mentioned :

"Case Diary ke parcha no.17 par gavahan Rajesh Kumar va Smt. Sandhya Goyal म इंलंद ंदजंतहंज 161 Cr.P.C. me abhiyukt dwara pidita ke sath dahej ki maang ko lekar marpeet ki gayi aur pidita k sath Sahib va saas va sasur dahej ki maang karne ka kathan kiya hai. Vivechak dwara vivechana ke dauran ekatrit kiye gaye sakshyo ke aadhar par, prarthi/abhiyukt Mukesh Bansal ke virudh antargat dhara 498-A, 323, 504, 506, 307, 120B IPC va 3/4 D.P. Act me aarop patra preshit kiya gaya hai |"

It is indeed an unfortunate that the learned trial Judge has consciously ignored the plethora of evidence collected by the I.O. during investigation that Mukesh Bansal and his wife are residing separately since 30.04.2017 and they have got no occasion to demand additional dowry. Moreover, at some places, there is demand of Rs.20 lacs and at some place, it has been swelled to Rs.50 lacs ??? In addition to this, there is general and sweeping allegation without any material particulars of demand of dowry by the parent-in-law makes the entire prosecution story a doubtful and revengful proposition. Still, the learned Sessions Judge has picked up few lines in 161 Cr.P.C. statement ignoring the rest of the averments and material caste a serious expulsion upon the order impugned.

[27] Learned counsel for the complainant in his counter affidavit has annexed the injury report of the complainant dated 04.10.2018 by making a mention that she was examined on the date of incident by Bhagwan Mahavir Hospital, Pitampura, New Delhi with the report that physical assault has been made by her husband and had tried to strangulate her as told by the patient. But surprisingly, in the entire counter affidavit, except making a mention that "since at the time of marriage", the revisionist and all the family members were demanding dowry continuously, there is nothing special indicting the parent-in-laws in this offence. It is further most important to mention that Mukesh Bansal and Manju Bansal had left the company of her son and daughter-in-law on 30.04.2017 itself and residing in a separate accommodation as independent domestic unit and therefore, there is no chance of any interference in the matrimonial or personal matter of Sahib Bansal and Shivangi Bansal.

[28] I have perused the 161 Cr.PC. Statement of the witness Neha(aunt of Shivangi Bansal), Shweta(Aunt), Anand Prakash, family acquaintance, Chandra Mohini Goyal, independent witness, Vinay

Agrawal, independent witness, Sri Bhagwan, Vina Jain. None of these witnesses in their respective 161 Cr.P.C. statements, even whispered against the parent-in-law for their alleged act of misbehaviour on account of additional dowry and seeking sexual favours from their daughter-in-law.

In our traditional Indian family, where they are residing in a joint family with unmarried son, it is highly improbable and difficult to digest the allegations of demanding sexual favours from her daughter-in-law by father-in-law or brother-in-law. The stray and tangent allegations of demanding dowry by father-in-law and mother-in-law would not bring them within four corners of Section 498-A IPC and keeping in view the ratio laid down by Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Sajjan Kumar(supra) and Kahkashan Kausar@Sonam and assessing them with the facts of the present case, I find that the order of learned trial Judge is well short of standards enumerated in the aforesaid case, so far as it relates to Mukesh and Manju Bansal.

No doubt, Sahib Bansal, being the husband and the allegations are clearly against him for committing marpeet, atrocities and treating her in inhuman way, the Court is not in a position to make any comment either ways. But since, he was residing with opposite party no.2 at the relevant point of time, his complicity in the commission of offence cannot be ruled out altogether.

[29] Hence, considering the facts and circumstances of the case, the present revision with regard to Mukesh Bansal and Manju Bansal is hereby allowed for the reasons enumerated above and the order impugned dated 03.03.2022 is hereby set-aside. So far as husband-Sahib Bansal is concerned, the revision relates to him is dismissed and he is directed to regularly and faithfully appear before the court concerned and contest the trial to its logical conclusion.

ROLE OF ADVOCATES WHILE DEALING WITH MATRIMONAL MATTTERS AND LANGUAGE OF THE F.I.R./COMPLAINT

[30] Yet coming to another aspect of the issue which is disturbing and mind-boggling to the Court. After reading the FIR allegedly lodged by Ms. Shivangi Bansal after 18 days of the incident, which is ever-abhorring, full of dirt and filth. The graphical description portrayed by her in her FIR is deplorable to be condemned in its strongest terms. The FIR is the place where the informant gives the story mobilizing the State Machinery engaging in the commission of cognizable offence. It is not soft porn literature where the graphical description should be made. Hon'ble the Apex Court in its judgment in the case of Priti Gupta Vs State of Jharkhand, 2010(71) SCC 667 has fastened the liability upon the counsels, paragraph nos.30, 31, 32 and 33 are quoted hereinbelow :-

"30. It is a matter of common experience that most of these complaints under section 498-A IPC are filed in the heat of the moment over trivial issues without proper deliberations. We come across a large number of such complaints which are not even bona fide and are filed with oblique motive. At the same time, rapid increase in the number of genuine cases of dowry harassment are also a matter of serious concern.

31. The learned members of the Bar have enormous social responsibility and obligation to ensure that the social fiber of family life is not ruined or demolished. They must ensure that exaggerated versions of small incidents should not be reflected in the criminal complaints. Majority of the complaints are filed either on their advice or with their concurrence. The learned members of the Bar who belong to a noble profession must maintain its noble traditions and should treat every complaint under section 498-A as a basic human problem and must make serious endeavour to help the parties in arriving at an amicable resolution of that human problem. They must discharge their duties to the best of their abilities to ensure that social fiber, peace and tranquility of the society remains intact. The members of the Bar should also ensure that one complaint should not lead to multiple cases.

32. Unfortunately, at the time of filing of the complaint the implications and consequences are not properly visualized by the complainant that such complaint can lead to insurmountable harassment, agony and pain to the complainant, accused and his close relations.

33. The ultimate object of justice is to find out the truth and punish the guilty and protect the innocent. To find out the truth is a herculean task in majority of these complaints. The tendency of implicating husband and all his immediate relations is also not uncommon. At times, even after the conclusion of criminal trial, it is difficult to ascertain the real truth. The courts have to be extremely careful and cautious in dealing with these complaints and must take pragmatic realities into consideration while dealing with matrimonial cases. 34. Before parting with this case, we would like to observe that a serious relook of the entire provision is warranted by the legislation. It is also a matter of common knowledge that exaggerated versions of the incident are reflected in a large number of complaints. The tendency of over implication is also reflected in a very large number of cases.

35. The criminal trials lead to immense sufferings for all concerned. Even ultimate acquittal in the trial may also not be able to wipe out the deep scars of suffering of ignominy. Unfortunately a large number of these complaints have not only flooded the courts but also have led to enormous social unrest affecting peace, harmony and happiness of the society."

[31] Therefore, the Court is of the opinion that while deciding the present issue, the Court should not take into these graphical description of the accusation made by the complainant and simply over-look these graphic and distressful allegations made by a lady who after receiving legal advice, pasted those dirt and filth upon her husband and other family members. The interesting feature is that she has been unable to substantiate those allegations even at the time of investigation and these allegations were found false and the sections related to it were dropped.

The Court records its strongest exception to such type of language used by the informant. The language of the FIR should be decent one and no amount of atrocities faced by the informant, would justify her to use such type of castic expressions. FIR/complaint is the gateway of any criminal case even soft and decent expression would well communicate the alleged atrocities faced by her.

CONSTITUTION OF FAMILY WELFARE COMMITTEES :-

[32] In this connection, there is yet another judgment of Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Social Action Forum for Manav Adhikar Vs. Union of India reported in 2018 (10) SCC 443. The Hon'ble Apex Court was aware that Section 498A IPC and its allied sections is mercilessly used by the advocates to serve the objective of their clients and that is why after exaggerating the incident manyfold, tailored an imaginary and abhorring story. This laudable section was brought into the Statute Book in the year 1983. The objective and the reasons for introducing Section 498-A IPC can be gathered from the Statements of Object and Reasons of the criminal law(Second amendment Act, 1983) which reads thus :-

"Increasing graph of dowry death is matter of serious concern. The extent of effort has been commented by the Joint Committee of the House constituted to examine the working of Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961. The cases of cruelty by the husband and other relatives which culminated in the society or murder, hapless women concerned constitute only a small fraction of cases involving the cruelty. It is therefore proposed to amend the IPC, Code of Criminal Procedure and Indian Evidence Act suitably to deal effectively not only with the cases of dowry deaths but also cases of cruelty to married woman by her in-laws".

[33] However, it has been contended that Section 498A IPC since its introduction, has increasingly deal vilified and associated with the perception and its misuse by the women who frequently used it as a weapon against her in-laws. As the petitioners, though there is general complaint that Section 498A IPC is subject to gross misuse, yet there is no concrete data to indicate how frequently the provision has been misused. Further, the Court by whittling down the stingency of Section 498A IPC is proceeding on an erroneous premises that there is misuse of said provision whereas infact misuse by itself cannot be ground to repeal the panel provision or take away its teeth.

It is question of a common observation that every matrimonial case is being exaggerated manifold with all the pungent and castic allegations dowry related atrocities involving the husband and all family members. This rampant practice now a days has adversaly affecting our social fibre especially in the northern India. In the metro cities, the doctrine of 'live-in relationship' has silently sneaked into our socio-cultural ethos by replacing our traditional marriages by its new modern abrasion in the name of 'live-in relationship'. This is a ground reality and one has to accept it willy-nilly which is nowhere similar to our traditional marriage. It is defined as domestic co-habitation between adult couple who are not married. It is a stress free companionship without any legal obligation, it has many complication, responsibilities and legal liabilities. It is a voluntary agreement in it that unmarried male or female decides to live together in one roof in a sexual and romantic relationship which seems to be marriage in alternative or substitute to the traditional marriage in which unmarried couple lives together without marrying with each other free from its legal implications, committment and responsibilities. In fact, this is an off shoot of traditional indian marriage just to save the couple from the hazards and legal complications and bickering between them, The two young couples agree to have sexual and romantic relationship. The traditional fragarance of our age-old institution of marriage would completely evapourated over period of time if such gross and unmindful misuse of section 498-A IPC would keep on pasted rampantly.

[34] Thus assesing the totality of the circumstances, object and the allegation of misuse of this piece of legislation in a shape of Section 498A IPC, the Court is proposing the safeguards after taking the guidace from the judgment of Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Social Action Forum for Manav Adhikar Vs. Union of India (Supra) keeping in view the growing tendency in the masses to nail the husband and all family members by a general and sweeping allegations.

3. The case in question was registered vide RC No. 006202014A0015 against the accused-revisionist, Sri Shyam Sunder Prasasd, the then Branch Manager, Punjab National Bank, Branch-Dhanghata district-Sant Kabir Nagar under section 7 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, on 26-04-2014 on the basis of written complaint made by Sri Kaleem Ahmad. It was alleged in the F.I.R. that the complainant, Sri Kaleem Ahmad was sanctioned the Cash Credit Limit of Rs. 8 Lakh from the Punjab National Bank, Dhanghata Branch, district-Sant Kabir Nagar on 26-03-2014. The complainant was issued one Cheque Book bearing nos. UKM 065501 to 065520 in respect of this Cash Credit Limit Loan Account. The complainant had issued eight cheques from the said cheque book and out of the these eight cheques, three cheques issued by him got cleared and three cheques were bounced/dishonoured. The complainant therefore, requested the parties to whom the remaining two cheques had been issued, not to produce/present them as the cheques issued by him in respect of the Cash Credit Limit Loan Account were being bounced/dishonoured.

4. It is alleged that the complainant enquired from the accused-revisionist about the reason for the cheques which got dishourned/bounced. The accused-revisionist replied that the account had been frozen. It was further alleged that the accused-revisionist had demanded bribe of Rs. 80,000/- from the complainant for defreezing the account. It was also alleged that the accused-revisionist had demanded the bribe through cheques to be issued in the name of other person.

5. The complaint made by the complainant was verified and a criminal case was registered against the accused-revisionist under section 7 of the Prevention of Corruption Act,1988 on 26-04-2014. It is further said that during verification of the complaint, on 25-04-2014, when the complainant met and requested the accused-revisionist for reducing the bribe amount, he agreed to accept the bribe of Rs. 50,000/- by cheque. This conversation was recorded and transferred into a blank Compact Disc, marked as Q-1 and taken into record. The C.B.I. Team was formed on the instructions of Head of Branch, CBI, ACB, Lucknow including Sri Diwakar Pande, Inspector(Trap Laying Officer) for laying of trap. The Trap Laying Team completed the pre trap proceedings and Cheque No. UKM 065514 for a sum of Rs. 50,000/- was drawn which was to be given as illegal gratification to the accused-revisionist and it was treated with phenolphthalein powder to be handed over to the accused-revisionist during the trap proceedings. The accused-revisionist was caught red-handed with tainted bribe cheque. The conversation between the accused-revisionist and the complainant was recorded during the transaction of bribe cheque and the same was transferred into a blank Compact Disc, marked as Q-2. The voice samples of the accused-revisionist were sent to CFSL, New Delhi for voice analysis.

6. During course of the investigation, the C.B.I. noted that the Cash Credit Loan Account of the complainant was de-frozen a day before the trap to facilitate the payment of illegal gratification.

7. The C.B.I. after investigation of the offence, filed chargesheet for the offences punishable under sections 7 & 13(2) readwith section 13(1)(d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 against the accused-revisionist.

8. After framing of the charges against the accused-revisionist, the first prosecution witness was examined on 26-09-2014 and in so far as many as 11 witnesses in the case have been examined. An application under section 311 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 was filed on 22-11-2021 to bring on record two certificates dated 24-09-2021 & 25-09-2021 under section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 as well as to recall the witnesses to prove those certificates. It was said that the certificates were produced alongwith the chargesheet, but, same were not in a proper form and during the trial proceedings, proper certificates have been prepared, which need to be produced in prescribed forms. It was further said that the application was not an attempt to fill up the lacuna of the prosecution case. In the said application, the C.B.I. also relied on the Judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Arjun Panditrao Khotkar Versus Kailash Kushanrao Gorantyal and Others, reported in (2020) 7 Supreme Court Cases 1, to say that the certificates under section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act can be produced at any stage of the trial, if the same was not produced alongwith electronic record or not produced in the court with the chargesheet.

9. The accused-revisionist filed his objections to the said application and the learned trial court after looking at the certificates, noted that the certificates of section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act in respect of the Compact Disc marked as SQ-1 were issued by Sri Raka Kant Tewari, Investigating Officer.

10. During verification of the complaint on 25-04-2021, Compact Disc. marked as Q-1 and Investigation Copy Q-1 was prepared. This certificate was in respect of recording of the conversation between the accused-revisionist and the complainant. The conversation was recorded in a Digital Voice Recorder in presence of an independent witness namely, Sri Amir Ali. This recorded conversion was copied in two empty compact Discs in the presence of independent witnesses and no tampering was made in the recording.

11. Sri Diwakar Pandey,Trap Laying Officer, had issued certificates marked as Compact Discs marked as Q-2 and S-1 and during the trap proceedings, the investigation copy, S-1 was prepared, in which the conversation between the accused-revisionist and the complainant was recorded. The certificates had been issued for recording the said conversation in the presence of the independent witness and sealing the same and there was no tampering in the said recording of the conversation.

12. Learned Trial Court after taking note of the provisions of Section 65- B(4) of the Indian Evidence Act and the Judgment of of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Anvar P.V. Versus P.K.Basheer, reported in (2014) 10 SCC 473 as well as Arjun Panditrao Khotkar(Supra), held that the powers of section 311 Cr.P.C. are to be used for just and fair decision in the case. It is held that the trial is still on and therefore, for a just and fair decision in the trial, the certificates issued under section 65-B (4) of the Indian Evidence Act are to be taken on record. The trial court allowed the application for taking on record the certificates issued by Sri Raka Kant Tiwari and Sri Diwakar Pandey and they have been summoned by the impugned order to prove the certificates.

13. Sri Ajay Kumar Rai, learned counsel for the accused-revisionist has submitted that the C.B.I did not file any certificate of Section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 alongwith the chargehseet in respect of the Compact Discs. marked as Q-1 and Q-2 in the manner as prescribed under law. During the examination of the prosecution witnesses, the Compact Discs. were exhibited without having the certificates as contemplated under section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act.

14. It is submitted that now the certificates under section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act have been sought to be produced at the belated stage when the prosecution witnesses have already been examined and only the Investigating Officer remains to be examined. It is submitted that at this belated stage, there was no occasion for the trial court to allow the application of the prosecution to produce the certificates under section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act and recalling the witnesses, who are the C.B.I. Officers to prove them.

15. It is further submitted that the C.B.I. has wrongly stated that alongwith chargesheet, certificates under section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act were filed, however, they were not in correct form and therefore, fresh certificates in correct form were to be filed. He has further submitted that as a matter of fact no certificate under section 65(B) of the Indian Evidence Act was filed with the Compact Discs marked as Q-1 & Q-2 initially with the chargehseet. He has further submitted that no reason is coming forth in the application for issuing the certificates under section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act so belatedly inasmuch as the chargesheet was filed in the year 2014 itself, but, the certificates are of the years 2021. When the certificates are being issued by the C.B.I. Officers itself, at this belated stage accepting the certificates and allowing the application to recall the witnesses is highly prejudicial to the trial of the accused-revisionist. He therefore, submits that the C.B.I. is trying to fill up the lacuna inasmuch as in the absence of the certificates issued under section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act are mandatory for proving the conversation allegedly recorded in the Compact Discs and in the absence of the certificates, the said Compact Discs would not have been evidence in law and therefore, to that extent, the accused-revisionist would be prejudiced.

16. On the other hand, Sri Shiv P.Shukla, learned counsel representing the C.B.I. has submitted that the certificates issued under section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act can be produced at any stage of the trial in respect of the electronic evidence being relied on by the prosecution. He has further submitted that the trial is still on and the witnesses are being examined and therefore, producing the certificates under section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act in respect of the two Compact Discs would not create any prejudice to the accused-revisionist in any manner rather the trial court after considering the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act and the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court as mentioned above, allowed the application under section 311 Cr.P.C. for a just and proper decision in the case. He further submits that the present revision is without merits and is liable to be dismissed.

17. I have considered the submissions advanced on behalf of learned counsel for the accused-revisionist as well as learned counsel for the C.B.I.

18. By amending the section 65 of the Act of 2000 w.e.f. 17th October, 2000, a special provision as to evidence led into electronic record and admissibility of the electronic record have been incorporated in section 65-A & 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act. The contents of the electronic record may be proved as per the provisions of section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act. The subject matter of sections 65-A & 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act is the proof of information contained in electronic records. These are the special provisions relating to evidence led in electronic records. For convenience, Section 65-A & Section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act, read as under :-

"[65A. Special provisions as to evidence relating to electronic record.- The contents of electronic records may be proved in accordance with the provisions of section 65B.

(2) The conditions referred to in sub-section (1) in respect of a computer output shall be the following, namely:?

(b) during the said period, information of the kind contained in the electronic record or of the kind from which the information so contained is derived was regularly fed into the computer in the ordinary course of the said activities;

(c) throughout the material part of the said period, the computer was operating properly or, if not, then in respect of any period in which it was not operating properly or was out of operation during that part of the period, was not such as to affect the electronic record or the accuracy of its contents; and

(d) the information contained in the electronic record reproduces or is derived from such information fed into the computer in the ordinary course of the said activities.

(3) Where over any period, the function of storing or processing information for the purposes of any activities regularly carried on over that period as mentioned in clause (a) of sub-section (2) was regularly performed by computers, whether?

(a) by a combination of computers operating over that period; or

(b) by different computers operating in succession over that period; or

(c) by different combinations of computers operating in succession over that period; or

(d) in any other manner involving the successive operation over that period, in whatever order, of one or more computers and one or more combinations of computers, all the computers used for that purpose during that period shall be treated for the purposes of this section as constituting a single computer; and references in this section to a computer shall be construed accordingly.

(4) In any proceedings where it is desired to give a statement in evidence by virtue of this section, a certificate doing any of the following things, that is to say,?

(a) identifying the electronic record containing the statement and describing the manner in which it was produced;

(b) giving such particulars of any device involved in the production of that electronic record as may be appropriate for the purpose of showing that the electronic record was produced by a computer;

(c) dealing with any of the matters to which the conditions mentioned in sub-section (2) relate, and purporting to be signed by a person occupying a responsible official position in relation to the operation of the relevant device or the management of the relevant activities (whichever is appropriate) shall be evidence of any matter stated in the certificate; and for the purposes of this sub-section it shall be sufficient for a matter to be stated to the best of the knowledge and belief of the person stating it.

(5) For the purposes of this section,?

(a) information shall be taken to be supplied to a computer if it is supplied thereto in any appropriate form and whether it is so supplied directly or (with or without human intervention) by means of any appropriate equipment;

(b) whether in the course of activities carried on by any official, information is supplied with a view to its being stored or processed for the purposes of those activities by a computer operated otherwise than in the course of those activities, that information, if duly supplied to that computer, shall be taken to be supplied to it in the course of those activities;

(c) a computer output shall be taken to have been produced by a computer whether it was produced by it directly or (with or without human intervention) by means of any appropriate equipment.

Explanation.?For the purposes of this section any reference to information being derived from other information shall be a reference to its being derived therefrom by calculation, comparison or any other process.]"

19. Section 65-B (i) of the Indian Evidence Act begins with an non absenting clause and it provides that any information that is contained in electronic record printed on a paper, stored, recorded or copied in optical or magnetic media produced by a computer shall be deemed to be a document, and shall be admissible in any proceedings, without further proof or production of the original, as evidence of any contents of the original or of any fact stated therein of which direct evidence would be admissible.

20. Sub. Section (2) of Section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act refers to the condition that must be satisfied in respect of the computer output and states that the test of being included in conditions are provided in Section 65-B (2) (a) to Section 65-B (2) (d) which states that computer be regularly used to store or process of information for the purposes of any activities regularly carried on over the period in question. The conditions mentioned in sub. section 2(a) to sub. section 2(d) must be satisfied cumulatively. Sub. Section 4 of Section 65-B provides that a certificate is to be produced that identifies the electronic record containing the statement and describing the manner in which it was produced or gives particulars of any device involved in the production of that electronic record to show that the electronic record was produced by a computer, by either a person occupying a responsible official position in relation to the operation of the relevant device; or person who is in the management of relevant activities-whichever is appropriate.

21. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Arjun Panditrao Khotkar(Supra) held that for admissibility of an electronic record/document, section 65-B(4) is mandatory for recording it in evidence. When the electronic record is produced in evidence without proper certificate, trial court must summon the person/persons referred in Section 65-B (4) of the Indian Evidence Act, and require that such certificate be given by such person/persons. It has further held that in criminal trials, the accused must be supplied all documents that the prosecution seeks to rely upon before commencement of the trial under section 207 Cr.P.C. to enable the accused to prepare for the trial before it commences. However, that does not mean that the trial court cannot exercise powers under section 311 Cr.P.C. in permitting the evidence to be filed at a later stage. The only caveat is that the same should not result in serious or irreversible prejudice to the accused-revisionist. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in para no. 56 of the said Judgment held that in appropriate cases, the trial court depending on the facts and circumstances of the case may exercise its discretion under section 91 or section 311 Cr.P.C. or Section 165 of the Indian Evidence Act as the case may be and can allow the prosecution to produce the certificates under section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act at later point of time and same would also be the case in respect of an accused who desires to produce the requisite certificates as part of his defence. Para no. 56 of the said Judgment, which is relevant, is extracted hereinunder :-

"56. Therefore, in terms of general procedure, the prosecution is obligated to supply all documents upon which reliance may be placed to an accused before commencement of the trial. Thus, the exercise of power by the courts in criminal trials in permitting evidence to be filed at a later stage should not result in serious or irreversible prejudice to the accused. A balancing exercise in respect of the rights of parties has to be carried out by the court, in examining any application by the prosecution under Sections 91 or 311 of the CrPC or Section 165 of the Evidence Act. Depending on the facts of each case, and the Court exercising discretion after seeing that the accused is not prejudiced by want of a fair trial, the Court may in appropriate cases allow the prosecution to produce such certificate at a later point in time. If it is the accused who desires to produce the requisite certificate as part of his defence, this again will depend upon the justice of the case - discretion to be exercised by the Court in accordance with law."

22. Section 311 Cr.P.C. empowers the court that if the court considers the evidence of witnesses to be essential for a just and fair decision of the case, it can summon such a person not only on the motion of either prosecution or of the defence case, but, also it can do so on its own motion. The court has power to recall any witness or witnesses already examined or to summon any witness even if the evidence in both sides is closed so long as the court retains seisin of the criminal proceedings.

23. In the present case, the two Compact Discs have already been supplied to the accused-revisionist and only certificates under section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act have been allowed to be produced to prove and by allowing the application under section 311 Cr.P.C., this court does not find that the accused-revisionist is prejudiced in any manner by producing the certificates in respect of the electronic record/evidence, which are being relied upon by the prosecution, which have already been supplied to the accused-revisionist at the stage of complying with the provisions of Section 207 Cr.P.C. The trial court has exercised its discretion as vested in it under section 311 Cr.P.C. for just and valid reasons for rendering a just and proper decision in the trial and therefore, this court does not find that there is any error of law or jurisdiction which has been committed by the trial court by allowing the application of the C.B.I. under section 311 Cr.P.C. by the impugned order.

24. Thus, this court, does not find that there is any scope for interference with the impugned order and the present revision is dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi J.)

1. Heard Sri Anoop Kumar Upadhyay, Advocate holding brief of Sri Ram Prakash Singh, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri Tilak Raj Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State respondents and perused the record.

2. The instant revision under Sections 397/401 of the Criminal Procedure Code has been filed by the accused-revisionist seeking to challenge the validity of the order dated 27.05.2022 passed by the learned Sessions Judge, Gonda in Sessions Trial No. 338 of 2022 (State vs. Vijay Mishra & Others), arising out of Case Crime No. 90 of 2019, under Sections 323, 325, 308 I.P.C., Police Station- Umari Begumganj, District- Gonda whereby the application under Section 228 (1) (a) of the Cr.P.C. filed on behalf of the accused-revisionist for transferring the case to the Court of Magistrate, has been rejected.

3. The aforesaid case has been instituted on the basis of an F.I.R. alleging that the four named accused persons, including the revisionist, had assaulted the informant's brother with sticks, because of which he fell unconscious. The injured was taken to the police station while he was still unconscious. On these allegations, the F.I.R. was registered in respect of offences under Sections 323, 325 and 308 I.P.C.

4. The medical examination report of the injured mentions following injuries suffered by the victim:-

1. Lacerated Wound - 8 x .5cm I Bron above (Right) ear.

2. Lacerated Wound - 4.8 cm x 1cm Top of Head.

3. Lacerated Wound - 2x2 cm (Right) Leg above 12cm (Right) Ankle.

4. Contused- Swelling 6x4 cm over right shoulder.

5. Contused- Swelling over (Left Right) wrist all around.

6. Swelling over (Right) Ankle.

7. Complaint of Pain- Over back of chest abdomen B/ 1 upper & lower limbs.

8. Contusion 25cm X 13cm right side back of chest.

5. On the basis of the aforesaid F.I.R., a Sessions Trial No. 338 of 2022 has been instituted, which is pending before the learned Sessions Judge, Gonda.

6. The accused persons filed an application under Section 228 (1) (a) of Cr.P.C. in the aforesaid Session Trial stating that none of the injuries reported in the medical examination report of the injured person indicates that death could have been caused by such injury. As there is no injury which could be life threatening, prima facie no offence under Section 308 I.P.C. is made out and it can at the most lead to commission of offences punishable under Section 323 and 325 I.P.C., both of which are triable by a Magistrate. The accused persons accordingly prayed that Section 308 I.P.C. may be expunged and the case be transferred to the Court of Magistrate for its trial.

7. The aforesaid application was rejected by the learned Sessions Judge, Gonda by means of the order dated 27.05.2022 holding that the injured has suffered injuries on his head and head injuries could be life threatening. Therefore, the accused persons have rightly been charged with an offence under Section 308 I.P.C. Accordingly, the application filed under Section 228 (1) (a) Cr.P.C. has been rejected.

8. Assailing the aforesaid order dated 27.05.2022 before this Court in Revision, the learned counsel for the revisionist has submitted that the order dated 27.05.2022 has been passed in a mechanical manner without properly considering the evidence available on record, which does not support the prosecution story regarding commission of an offence under Section 308 I.P.C. The learned counsel for the revisionist has further submitted that the ingredients of Section 308 I.P.C. are not made out in the present case and this aspect has been ignored by the learned court below.

9. On the other hand, Sri Tilak Raj Singh, learned A.G.A. has submitted that there is sufficient material on record to indicate commission of an offence under Section 308 I.P.C. and the order dated 27.05.2022 passed by the learned court below is based on sound reasons and it needs no interference by this Court in exercise of the revisional jurisdiction.

10. Before proceeding to decide the rival submissions made before this Court, it would be appropriate to look at the provisions of Section 308 I.P.C., which provides as follows:-

"308. Attempt to commit culpable homicide.--Whoever does any act with such intention or knowledge and under such circumstances that, if he by that act caused death, he would be guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both; and, if hurt is caused to any person by such act, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, or with fine, or with both. Illustration A, on grave and sudden provocation, fires a pistol at Z, under such circumstances that if he thereby caused death he would be guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. A has committed the offence defined in this section."

11. The essential ingredients of the first part of Section 308 I.P.C. are that

(i) a person does any act

(ii) with intention or knowledge to commit culpable homicide not amounting to murder,

(iii) that the offence was committed under such circumstances that if by that act the accused caused death, he would be guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

12. A bare perusal of the aforesaid statuory mandate makes it clear that by enacting Section 308 I.P.C., the Legislature has made a composite provision in order to deal with two spearate situations.

13. The first part of Section 308 does not make any inference to any hurt being caused by the accused persons and, therefore, any hurt being caused is not an essential condition to attract the provisions of Section 308 I.P.C.

14. The second part of Section 308 provides that if hurt is caused to any person by an act which falls within the purview of the Section, the accused shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, or with fine, or with both.

15. A combined reading of both the parts of Section 308 clarifies that the legislative mandate in Section 308 is that whoever does any act with such intention or knowledge and under such circumstances that, if he by that act caused death, he would be guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, but inspite of the effort made by him he completely fails to achieve his goal of committing culpable homicide not amounting to murder, he shall still be held guilty of committing an offence under Section 308 I.P.C. and he shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both. However, if by his attempt hurt is caused to any person by such act, shall be yet be guilty of committing an offence under Section 308 I.P.C. and in such a situation a higher punishment of imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, or fine, or both will be inflicted upon the accused.

16. Now I proceed to consider the submission made by the learned Counsel for the Revisionist that the medical examination report does not mention any injury on any vital part of the victim's body and, therefore, prima facie the accused-revisionist cannot be tried for an offence under Section 308 I.P.C. and he can only be tried for offences under Section 323 and 325 I.P.C., both of which are triable by Magistrate and, therefore, his case should be transferred from the Court of Sessions to a Court of Magistrate under Section 228 (1) (a), Cr.P.C. This contention is liable to be rejected for two reasons. First, the medical examination report of the injured shows that he has suffered a Lacerated Wound of size 8x.5cm above his right ear, a Lacerated Wound of size 4.8 cm x 1cm on the top of his head and he has also suffered a Contusion of size 25cm X 13cm on the right side of back of his chest. All these injuries are on vital parts of the injured's body and, therefore, the contention of the learned Counsel for the revisionist that the accused-revisionist did not cause any injury on any vital part of the injured's body is incorrect and the same is rejected.

17. Secondly, assuming that the injured did not suffer any injury on any vital body of his body, even then prima facie it appears that the accused-revisionist committed an act with an intention or knowledge and under such circumstances that, if he by that act caused death, he would be guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, then even if the accused-respondent failed completely in his attempt and he could not inflict any hurt on the body of the injured, the accused-revisionist would still be guilty of committing an offence punishable under the first part of Section 308 I.P.C. and he has to face a trial for the said offence. For this reason also, the contention of the learned Counsel for the revisionist is liable to be rejected.

18. The order under challenge in this revision has been passed upon an application filed by the accused under Section 228 (1) (a) of Cr.P.C., which reads as under:-

"228. Framing of charge.

(1)If, after such consideration and hearing as aforesaid, the Judge is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence which-

(a) is not exclusively triable by the Court of Session, he may, frame a charge against the accused and, by order, transfer the case for trial to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, and thereupon the Chief Judicial Magistrate shall try the offence in accordance with the procedure for the trial of warrant- cases instituted on a police report;

(b) is exclusively triable by the Court, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused.

(2) Where the Judge frames any charge under clause (b) of sub- section (1), the charge shall be read and explained to the accused and the accused shall be asked whether he pleads guilty of the offence charged or claims to be tried."

19. Since from the discussion made above, the contention of the accused-respondent that no injury has been caused on any vital part of the body of the injured and, therefore, the charges against him at the most make out a case under Section 323 and 325 I.P.C. and no offence under Section 308 I.P.C. is made out, has already been rejected, therefore, the accused-applicant cannot maintain an application under Section 128 (1) (a) Cr.P.C. for transferring the case from the Court of Sessions to a Court of Magistrate on the ground that no offence under Section 308 I.P.C. is made out against him.

20. Whether the accused has committed the offence punishable under Section 308 I.P.C. or not and if yes, whether his act would fall under the first part of Section 308 or in the second part thereof, are matters to be decided during the trial and at this stage only this much can be said that the accused has to face trial for the offence under Section 308 I.P.C., which is triable by a Court of Sessions and, therefore, the case cannot be transferred to a Court of a Magistrate.

21. Keeping in view the aforesaid discussions, this Court is of the considered view that the order dated 27.05.2022 passed by the learned Sessions Judge, Gonda, rejecting the accused-revisionist's application under Section 228 (1) (a) Cr.P.C. does not suffer from any illegality so as to call for an interference by this Court in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction..

22. The revision lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

23. However, there is no order as to costs.

1. This criminal revision has been filed with a prayer to set aside the order dated 26.02.2022 passed by Additional Session Judge/Special Judge, Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, Court No. 9, Lucknow in Criminal Case No. 957 of 2018 (State Vs. Vikas Asthana & Others) whereby the application for discharge filed by the revisionist has been rejected as well as to quash the order dated 06.04.2022 whereby the ourt below has framed the charges against the revisionist under Section 7/13 (1) (d) read with Section 13 (2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, under Section 8/13 (1) (d) read with Section 13 (2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, under Section 420 I.P.C. and under Section 120B I.P.C. arising out of Case Crime No. 264 of 2017, under Sections 7, 8, 13 (1) (d) and 13 (2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 and Sections 410, 420, 120B, 34 I.P.C, PS

Barhpura, District Etawah and discharge the revisionist-accuesd from all the charges.

2. Prior to discussing the present controversy, it is necessary to discuss the detail background of "discharge" enshrined under Criminal Procedure Code which would be also relevant to decide the present controversy.

3. Introductory Part:-

The provison of discharge is available to the accused to demonstrate before the court that after perusing the material and evidence, he has been maliciously charged. Under the Criminal Procedure Code, 1973, the Discharge Application is envisaged to provide remedy to the person who has been maliciously charged. If the allegations which have been made against him are false, this Code provides the provisions for filing a discharge application. If the evidence given before the Court is not sufficient to satisfy the offence and in the absence of any prima facie case against him, he is entitled to be discharged.

4. Division of Criminal Cases:-

There are two major classifications of criminal cases under the Code of Criminal Procedure that is:

(1) Cases instituted on the basis of a police report (Section 238-243).

(2) Cases instituted otherwise than on police report based on the complaint (Section 244-247).

There are four types of the trial procedures provided under CrPC:

1. Summary trials (Section 260-265),

2. Trial of summons cases by Magistrates (Section 251-259),

3. Trial of warrant cases by Magistrates (Section 238-250), and

4. Trial before a court of Sessions (Section 225-237).

The procedure of warrant cases is used for the trial of warrant cases by the Magistrates and the trial before the court of sessions whereas trial of summons cases by Magistrates and summary trials are tried in a summons case trial.

5. Summons Cases:-

Section 2 (w) of the CrPC defines "Summons case' as a case that is related to an offence and it is also not a "warrant case'. It includes those offences other than warrant cases i.e, those offences which are not punishable with death, life imprisonment, or imprisonment exceeding two years.

6. The Warrant Cases:-

Warrant case is defined under Section 2 (x) of the CrPC as a case of an offence which is punishable with death, life imprisonment, or imprisonment exceeding two years.

Discharge on the basis of a police report:-

The procedure of law is that the police after completing its investigation files the final charge sheet under Section 173 of the code. Trial against the accused begins by the concerned Court thereafter.

However, Section 239 and 227 of CrPC, provide provisions that before the charges are framed against an Accused person, he can be discharged. However, in warrant cases only, these provisions can be used by the Accused.

7. Discharging in warrant case on a police report before Magistrate:-

It is procedure of law that the police, after completing its investigation, files the final charge sheet against the accused. Thereafter the accused has to face trial as the charges are framed against him, by the concerned Court. However, the Code of Criminal Procedure grants a procedure that states that the Accused person can be discharged before the charges are framed against him.

Section 239 of the Code of Criminal Procedure states when accused shall be discharged.

Upon due consideration of the police reports and all the documents sent under Section 173, after hearing prosecution as well as accused, the Magistrate may consider the charge to be groundless against the accused and he can discharge the accused and also record his reasons for doing so.

The significant value of the materials on record cannot be looked into at the stage of framing of a charge by the Magistrate and the materials brought on record by the prosecution against the accused have to be trusted as true at that stage. The emerging judicial view is that the Court cannot initiate an in-depth inquiry into the evidence at this stage.

8. Important elements for Discharge:-

The Court will have to consider the Charge sheet and the Police Report submitted to it by the Police under Section 173, following are the essential elements:

- The Magistrate may, if he deems fit, examine the Accused.

- Thereafter the arguments of both the Prosecution and the Accused Parties and their versions would be heard versions.

- Grounds against the accused to be baseless- There should not be any evidence present against the accused. The Court also has to assure itself that there is no prima facie case against the accused.

If all the above conditions are fulfilled, then the Accused shall be discharged.

9. Whether the magistrate has to take cognizance of the material brought by the accused?

Under Section 239 of the code, the Magistrate has to give the prosecution and the accused a chance of being heard besides taking cognizance of the police report and the documents sent therewith. The Code makes it mandatory for the Court to give a hearing to the accused to determine whether it is essential to proceed to the next stage. It is a matter of the application of the judicial mind.

Nothing in the code restricts the scope of such an audience to oral arguments. If the accused produces any trustworthy material at that stage which might drastically affect even the very feasibility of the case, it would be very inappropriate to recommend that no such material shall be taken into consideration by the Court at that stage. The word ground includes the insufficiency of evidence to justify the charge.

10. When accused shall be discharged in Sessions trial:-

Section 227 of the Code defines that if the judge considers that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, upon hearing the submissions of the prosecution and the accused in the behalf and consideration of the record of the case along with the documents submitted therewith, he shall discharge the accused and record his reasons also for so doing.

Only after considering allegations in the charge-sheet and the relevant case-law, the Discharge of an accused can be ordered.

11. Mandatory cases where Sessions Judge is bound to discharge:-

1. Where he is precluded from proceeding because of a prior judgment of High Court,

2. Where the prosecution is clearly barred by limitation,

3. Where the evidence produced is not sufficient,

4. Where there is no legal ground for proceeding against the accused, or

5. Where no sanction has been obtained.

12. Decision of Court for Sufficient ground:-

As per Section 227 of the Code, the magistrate should ensure that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding, it means that no prudent person can conclude that there are grounds or even a single ground to sustain the charge against the accused. If the Sessions Judge is certain that the trial would only be a futile exercise or complete waste of time, he has the authority to discharge the accused.

For the purpose of deciding whether the grounds are sufficient for proceeding against an accused, the Court determines the question whether the material on record, if it is un-rebutted, is sufficient to make the conviction possible. It postulates the exercise of the judicial mind to the facts of the case to decide whether a case has been made out by the prosecution for trial.

13. Judicial Scrutiny for prima facie case:-

It is only through the facts of each case through which the judge can determine if it is a prima-facie case and in this regard, it is neither possible nor desirable to formulate rules of universal application. However, if both of the views are possible and the Judge is convinced that the evidence presented before him gives rise to suspicion but not grave suspicion, he can discharge the accused. At this stage, he does not need to bother whether the trial will lead in conviction or not.

The test to be applied is whether the materials on record, if unrebutted, is sufficient to make conviction possible. The ground word used in the context is a ground for putting the accused on trial and not a ground for conviction. If the evidence produced is not sufficient for the judge to proceed against the accused, it may be a ground or that the prosecution is barred by limitation or as no sanction has been obtained, the accused cannot be proceeded with or due to a prior judgment of the High Court, he is precluded from holding the trial.

14. Whether the material which is produced by the accused can be looked into by the session's court?

In the case of Satish Mehra v. Delhi Administration and Another reported in (1996) 9 SCC 766, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that if the accused produces any convincing material at the stage framing of charge which might drastically affect the very sustainability of the case, it is unfair to suggest that no such material should be considered into by the court at that stage.

It was held that the main motive of granting a chance to the accused of making submissions as envisaged in Section 227 of the CrPC, is to assist the court to determine whether it is required to proceed to conduct the trial. It was also observed that nothing in the Code limits the ambit of such hearing to oral arguments only and, therefore, the trial court can consider the material produced by the accused at the stage observed under Section 227 of the Code. However, the said judgement Satish Mehra (supra) decided by Hon'ble Supreme Court, has been turned down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Orissa Vs. Devendra Nath Padhi and it has been observed by Apex Court that at the time of framing charge or taking cognizance the accused has no right to produce any material. No provision in the code of criminal procedure 1973 grants to the accused any right to file any material or document at the stage of framing of charge.

15. The Judicial power of the Court at the time of considering the discharge application:-

The Magistrate cannot be assumed to be a post office to frame the charges at the instruction of the prosecution, and application of judicial mind to the facts of the case is necessary to determine whether a case has been made out by the prosecution for trial. In determining this fact, it is not mandatory to dive into the pros and cons of the matter by the court.

At the stage observed under Section 227, the Judge has to merely examine the evidence in order to determine whether or not the grounds are sufficient for proceeding against the accused. The nature of the evidence recorded by the police or the documents produced in which prima facie reveals that there is a suspicious situation against the accused so as to frame a charge against him before the court would be taken into account in order to find out the sufficiency of ground.

16. Discharge after Framing of Charge:-

If there are no sufficient grounds for proceeding against the accused, the accused has to be discharged, but if the Court is of the opinion after such consideration that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed the offence which is exclusively triable by the Court of Session then the charge against the accused must be framed. Once the charges are framed, the accused is put to trial and thereafter either acquitted or convicted, but he cannot be discharged. Once charges are framed under Section 228 of the code, there is no back-gear for discharging the accused under Section 227 of the code. Discharge post framing of charge is not viewed in CrPC.

17. Discharge is not Acquittal:-

The discharge of an accused under Section 227 of CrPC, is not tantamount to the acquittal of an accused. Under Section 227 of the code, the accused is released on the ground of non-availability of the materials collected by the officeduring the investigation, the Court does not absolve the accused from all the charges at that stage. The discharge may be due to inept inquiry and investigation. The discharged person can again be charged subsequently after proper investigation and collection of relevant materials. The basic intention of the legislature is to prevent one's subjection to the judicial process without any foundation.

18. Review of a Discharge Order:-

Discharge Order does not lead to acquittal as no trial has taken place. Where the Magistrate had discharged some of the accused after recording the evidence let in by the prosecution, but if the fresh materials are found against the discharged accused, he can consider the offence as it is not the review of the discharge order, earlier passed by the Magistrate.

19. Discharge of the accused by Court of Sessions:-

In the case of Sanjay Gandhi vs Union of India reported in AIR 1978 SC 514, it was held that there is no such provision that permits the Magistrate to discharge the accused. Discharge order can be given only by a trial court and in respect of the offences exclusively triable by a court of session, the court of the Judicial Magistrate is not the trial Court.

20. Discharge of accused in Warrant Cases instituted on Complaint:-

Section 245 of CrPC: When accused shall be discharged;

1) If the Magistrate views that no case has been made out against the accused which, if unrebutted, would warrant his conviction, after taking all the evidence referred to in Section 244, for reasons to be recorded, the Magistrate shall discharge him

2) Nothing in this section can forbid a Magistrate from discharging the accused at any precedent stage of the case if he contemplates the charge to be groundless and the reasons shall be recorded by him.

Under Section 245(1), the Magistrate has to consider whether the evidence produced by the prosecution, if remains unrebutted, is sufficient to make conviction of the accused possible. If there is no convincing material on record against the accused, then the Magistrate shall proceed to discharge the accused under Section 245(1) CrPC.

Section 245(2) CrPC empowers the Magistrate to discharge the accused at any precedent stage of the case which means even before such evidence is led. However, the Magistrate has to come to the conclusion that the charge is groundless in order to discharge an accused under Section 245(2) CrPC. The Magistrate can take this decision even prior to the appearance of the accused before the Court or the evidence which is taken under Section 244 CrPC. The words "At any previous stage of the case' written in Section 245(2) CrPC. brings clarity to this position.

21. What is the previous stage?

The previous stage in the context means that any stage prior to the evidence of the prosecution, under Section 244(1) of the code, is completed. Such stages would lie under Section 200 Cr.P.C. to Section 204 CrPC.

22. Discharge in Summons Case:-

Whether the magistrate is empowered to drop proceedings and discharge an accused in a Summons case which is instituted on a complaint has the power?

Section 251 of the CrPC states:

The substance of accusation to be stated- In a summons case, When the accused appears or is brought before the Magistrate, he should be made aware of the particulars of the offence of which he is accused, and the question shall be asked to him whether he pleads guilty or has any defence to make, but it shall not be obligatory to frame a formal charge. On a bare reading ofSection 251 CrPC, it becomes clear that there is no particular power to discharge or drop proceedings granted to the Magistrate in a Summons Trial.

23. Brief facts of the case:-

The revisionist filed application before the Court below to discharge him from the charges in Case No. 0264 of 2017, under Sections 7, 8, 13 (1) (d) and 13 (2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 and Sections 410, 420, 120B, 34 I.P.C, PS Barhpura, District Etawah.

In the application it is stated that provision of Section 120B I.P.C. and Section 34 I.P.C., both cannot stand simultaneously and charge sheet is vitiated. It is further stated in the application that C.O. V. S Veer Kumar arrested the revisionist first and thereafter, the first information report was lodged and made entry in G.D. The proceeding was done on the information given by unknown informant who was not made eye witness of the recovery. It has further been submitted in the application that accused alongwith other co-accused were doing their public duty, therefore, the offence under Sections 419 and 420 I.P.C. is not made out. It has further been submitted in the application that applicant was posted as Passenger Tax Officer in Farrukhabad and he was assigned the duties by the office and in pursuance of the order passed by the department, he was checking at the check post village Udi, District Etawah. As a public officer he was performing his duties and Rs 9,500/- recovered by the police but the said amount was belonging to revisionist. The total recovery of Rs.20,290/- has been shown against all the 7 accused persons which is not a case of trap. The procedure of Section 212 Cr.P.C. has not been followed and the recovery has been said to be illegal.

24. The prosecution had opposed the application for discharge and after hearing both the parties, the impugned orders dated 26.02.2022 and 06.04.2022 have been passed by the Court below.

25. Heard Sri Akhilesh Kumar Kalra, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri Anurag Verma, learned A.G.A. for the State.

Sri Akhilesh Kumar Kalra has argued that Sections 7, 13 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 and Section 120 B I.P.C. are not made out. He has also invited attention towards the paper which is part of case diary as contained Annexure-8 and argued that the said paper indicates that the revisionist was posted as Passenger Tax Officer at the relevant place and he has not committed offence. Sri Akhilesh Kumar Kalra has also invited attention towards challan which was done by the revisionist in his official duty as contained in Annexure-10 and has argued that he was doing his official duty but has been falsely implicated in the present case. It has been argued by counsel for the revisionist that A.R.T.O. had entrusted duty on 1st Ocober, 2017 by which the revisionist was directed to check the Udi check post situated at District Etawah and thus, he was doing his official duty but police has implicated him falsely. Sri Akhilesh kumar Kalra, learned counsel for the revisionist has placed reliance on the following judgements reported by Hon'ble Supreme Court:-

(i) Rekha Jain Vs. State of Karnataka and Another; 2022 SCC online SC 585 (ii) Sanjay Kumar Rai Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and Another; 2021 SCC Online SC 367 (iii) N. Vijay Kumar Vs. State of Tamil Nadu; (2021) 3 SCC 687; (iv) Central Bureau of Investigation, Hyderabad Vs. K. Narayana Rao; (2012) 9 SCC 512 (v) Archana Rana Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and Another; (2021) 3 SCC 751.

26. Sri Anurag Verma, learned A.G.A. has made submission that order passed by the court below is justified and there is sufficient evidence and material against the revisionist. The court below has recorded finding after considering the evidences and material collected by the police and the discharge application has rightly been dismissed. He has further submitted that once there was sufficient material available before the court below, there is no option left except to frame charges and the court under the revisional jurisdiction has limited jurisdiction to see the legality and perversity of the order. He has further submitted that court in revisional jurisdiction cannot exercise power of the appellate court and evidences cannot be weight and appreciated, collected by the police and he has placed reliance of the several following judgements pronounced by the Hon'ble Apex Court :-

(i) State of Rajasthan Vs Fatekh Karan Medhu; (2017) 3 SCC 198 (ii) State Represented By Deputy Superintendent of Police, Vigilance And Anti-Corruption, Tamil Nadu Vs. J. Doraiswamy And Others (2019) 4 Supreme Court Cases 149 (iii) Srilekha Sentil Kumar Vs. Deputy Superintendent Of Police, Central Bureau OF Investigation, ACB, Chennai; (2019) 7 SCC 82 (iv) State By Karnataka Lokayukta, Police Station, Bengaluru Vs. M. R. Hiremath; (2019) 7 SCC 515 (v) M. E. Shivalingamurthy Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, Bengaluru; (2020) 2 SCC 768

27. Sri Akhilesh Kumar Kalra has submitted that provision of 7/13 (1) (d) read with Section 13 (2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, under Section 8/13 (1) (d) read with Section 13 (2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 is not attracted in the present case. After looking into the material on record, it is evident that revisionist was standing at barriers situated at Village Udi, District Etawah and he was illegally receiving money from the trucks by using barriers and upon the raid made by C.O. he was was arrested. Thus, Section 7/13 (1) (d) read with Section 13 (2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, under Section 8/13 (1) (d) read with Section 13 (2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 is made out. Similarly conspiracy was made by accused/revisionist alongwith co-accused Constable Laxmikant, Constable Shobhit Kumar, Constable Rajnesh, Rampratap, Umesh Chandra and Janved Singh and illegal money was obtained by stopping the truck, all the accused had conspired by making plan and illegal money was received by them. Thus, Section 420 I.P.C. is made out against all the accused. Section 120B I.P.C. is also made out for the reason that accused/revisionist and all the other co-accused had made conspiracy and committed offence which is a penal offence under Section 120B I.P.C. Paragraph Nos.10 and 11 of the judgement Rekha Jain (supra) will not be applicable in the present case. In the case of Rekha Jain (supra) there was no allegation whatsoever to the effect that accused Rekha Jain induced the complainant to part with the gold jewellery. In the absence of allegation of inducement Rekha Jain was not liable to be prosecuted but in the present case, the specific allegation has been levelled against the accused and co-accused who made conspiracy to receive illegal money by stopping trucks at the barrier. The said case Rekha Jain will not be applicable in the present case.

28. Counsel for the revisionist has placed the judgement of Sanjay Kumar Rai (supra) which is regarding the maintainbility of the revision. There is no doubt that under the revisional jurisdiction, the court is not merely a post office. After looking the entire evidences, if the court comes to the conclusion that no charge is made out, the Court can discharge. Thus, there is no claimer on the point of maintainbility. The case Archana Rana (supra) has been relied by the counsel for the revisionist. Paragraph Nos. 7 and 8 of the said judgement has been placed before me in which it is observed that even if averments made in the complaint are taken on their face, they do not constitute the ingredients necessary for the offence under Sections 419, 420 I.P.C. In the present case the material evidences collected by the Investigating Officer indicates that offence is made out under Sections 420 and 120-B I.P.C.

29. Sri Akhilesh Kalra has relied on the para-22, 23, 24 and 30 of judgement of Central Bureau of Investigation, Hyderabad (supra). The ingredients of offence of criminal conspiracy are that there should be an agreement between the persons who are alleged to conspire even if some acts are proved to have been committed, it must be clear that they were so committed in pursuance of an agreement made between the accused persons who were charges to the alleged conspiracy. In the present case, I have seen that all the seven accused including the revisionist have conspired to receive illegal money by stopping the truck and all of them committed offence and recovery was made to that effect. Since, there was sufficient material, therefore, the court framed the charges and there was no option left to court while considering the evidences collected by the Investigating Officer.

30. The next judgement cited by Sri Akhilesh Kumar Kalra, learned counsel for the revisionist, N. Vijay Kumar (supra) is not applicable in the present controversy for the reason that accused was convicted and sentenced was imposed for the offence committed under the Prevention of Corruption Act. Against the judgement, appeal was preferred before the High Court which too was dismissed on 15.09.2020. It is thus clear that said case is arising out of the judgement of trial court and this is discharge application which has been dismissed and the aforesaid judgement relied by counsel for the revisionist is not applicable in the present case.

31. Per contra, Sri Anurag Verma, learned A.G.A. has cited the judgement of State of Rajasthan (supra). Paragraph nos. 26, 27, 28 and 29 of the said judgement are quoted below:-

"26. The scope of interference and exercise of jurisdiction under Section 397 CrPC has been time and again explained by this Court. Further, the scope of interference under Section 397 CrPC at a stage, when charge had been framed, is also well settled. At the stage of framing of a charge, the court is concerned not with the proof of the allegation rather it has to focus on the material and form an opinion whether there is strong suspicion that the accused has committed an offence, which if put to trial, could prove his guilt. The framing of charge is not a stage, at which stage final test of guilt is to be applied. Thus, to hold that at the stage of framing the charge, the court should form an opinion that the accused is certainly guilty of committing an offence, is to hold something which is neither permissible nor is in consonance with the scheme of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

27. Now, reverting to the limit of the scope of jurisdiction under Section 397 CrPC, which vests the court with the power to call for and examine the records of an inferior court for the purposes of satisfying itself as to the legality and regularity of any proceedings or order made in a case. The object of this provision is to set right a patent defect or an error of jurisdiction or law or the perversity which has crept in the proceeding.

28. It is useful to refer to the judgment of this Court in Amit Kapoor v. Ramesh Chander [Amit Kapoor v. Ramesh Chander, (2012) 9 SCC 460 : (2012) 4 SCC (Civ) 687 : (2013) 1 SCC (Cri) 986] , where scope of Section 397 CrPC has been succinctly considered and explained. Paras 12 and 13 are as follows : (SCC p. 475)

"12. Section 397 of the Code vests the court with the power to call for and examine the records of an inferior court for the purposes of satisfying itself as to the legality and regularity of any proceedings or order made in a case. The object of this provision is to set right a patent defect or an error of jurisdiction or law. There has to be a well-founded error and it may not be appropriate for the court to scrutinise the orders, which upon the face of it bears a token of careful consideration and appear to be in accordance with law. If one looks into the various judgments of this Court, it emerges that the revisional jurisdiction can be invoked where the decisions under challenge are grossly erroneous, there is no compliance with the provisions of law, the finding recorded is based on no evidence, material evidence is ignored or judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily or perversely. These are not exhaustive classes, but are merely indicative. Each case would have to be determined on its own merits.

13. Another well-accepted norm is that the revisional jurisdiction of the higher court is a very limited one and cannot be exercised in a routine manner. One of the inbuilt restrictions is that it should not be against an interim or interlocutory order. The Court has to keep in mind that the exercise of revisional jurisdiction itself should not lead to injustice ex facie. Where the Court is dealing with the question as to whether the charge has been framed properly and in accordance with law in a given case, it may be reluctant to interfere in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction unless the case substantially falls within the categories aforestated. Even framing of charge is a much advanced stage in the proceedings under CrPC."

29. The Court in para 27 has recorded its conclusion and laid down principles to be considered for exercise of jurisdiction under Section 397 particularly in the context of quashing of charge framed under Section 228 CrPC. Paras 27, 27.1, 27.2, 27.3, 27.9 and 27.13 are extracted as follows : (Amit Kapoor case [Amit Kapoor v. Ramesh Chander, (2012) 9 SCC 460 : (2012) 4 SCC (Civ) 687 : (2013) 1 SCC (Cri) 986] , SCC pp. 482-83)

"27. Having discussed the scope of jurisdiction under these two provisions i.e. Section 397 and Section 482 of the Code and the fine line of jurisdictional distinction, now it will be appropriate for us to enlist the principles with reference to which the courts should exercise such jurisdiction. However, it is not only difficult but is inherently impossible to state with precision such principles. At best and upon objective analysis of various judgments of this Court, we are able to cull out some of the principles to be considered for proper exercise of jurisdiction, particularly, with regard to quashing of charge either in exercise of jurisdiction under Section 397 or Section 482 of the Code or together, as the case may be:

27.1.Though there are no limits of the powers of the Court under Section 482 of the Code but the more the power, the more due care and caution is to be exercised in invoking these powers. The power of quashing criminal proceedings, particularly, the charge framed in terms of Section 228 of the Code should be exercised very sparingly and with circumspection and that too in the rarest of rare cases.

27.2.The Court should apply the test as to whether the uncontroverted allegations as made from the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith prima facie establish the offence or not. If the allegations are so patently absurd and inherently improbable that no prudent person can ever reach such a conclusion and where the basic ingredients of a criminal offence are not satisfied then the Court may interfere.

27.3.The High Court should not unduly interfere. No meticulous examination of the evidence is needed for considering whether the case would end in conviction or not at the stage of framing of charge or quashing of charge.

27.9.Another very significant caution that the courts have to observe is that it cannot examine the facts, evidence and materials on record to determine whether there is sufficient material on the basis of which the case would end in a conviction; the Court is concerned primarily with the allegations taken as a whole whether they will constitute an offence and, if so, is it an abuse of the process of court leading to injustice.

27.13.Quashing of a charge is an exception to the rule of continuous prosecution. Where the offence is even broadly satisfied, the Court should be more inclined to permit continuation of prosecution rather than its quashing at that initial stage. The Court is not expected to marshal the records with a view to decide admissibility and reliability of the documents or records but is an opinion formed prima facie."

32. erintendent of Police, Vigilance And Anti-Corruption, Tamil Nadu (supra). Paragraph nos. 11, 13, 14 and 15 of the aforesaid judgement are relevant and the same are quoted below:-

"11. We find that the High Court acted like an appellate court than as a revisionary court as if it was hearing the appeal against the final verdict of the Special Court.

13. In our view, such approach of the High Court while deciding the discharge applications of the respondents (accused) is not legally correct and, therefore, it cannot be upheld.

14. In our view, consideration of the record for discharge purpose is one thing and the consideration of the record while deciding the appeal by the appellate court is another thing.

15. While considering the case of discharge sought immediately after the charge-sheet is filed, the court cannot become an appellate court and start appreciating the evidence by finding out inconsistency in the statements of the witnesses as was done by the High Court in the impugned order [State v. J. Doraiswamy, 2016 SCC OnLine Mad 17955] running in 19 pages. It is not legally permissible."

33. Sri Anurag Verma has also shown the judgement of Srilekha Sentil Kumar (supra). Paragraph no. 9 of the said judgement is quoted below:-

"9.In other words, we are of the view that the issues urged by the appellant and the same having been refuted by the respondent are such that they can be decided more appropriately and properly during trial after evidence is adduced by the parties rather than at the time of deciding the application made under Section 239 CrPC."

34. Sri Anurag Verma has further relied the judgement of State By Karnataka Lokayukta, Police Station, Bengaluru (supra). Paragraph no. 25 of the said judgement is quoted below:-

"25. The High Court ought to have been cognizant of the fact that the trial court was dealing with an application for discharge under the provisions of Section 239 CrPC. The parameters which govern the exercise of this jurisdiction have found expression in several decisions of this Court. It is a settled principle of law that at the stage of considering an application for discharge the court must proceed on the assumption that the material which has been brought on the record by the prosecution is true and evaluate the material in order to determine whether the facts emerging from the material, taken on its face value, disclose the existence of the ingredients necessary to constitute the offence. In State of T.N. v. N. Suresh Rajan [State of T.N.v.N. Suresh Rajan, (2014) 11 SCC 709 : (2014) 3 SCC (Cri) 529 : (2014) 2 SCC (L&S) 721] , adverting to the earlier decisions on the subject, this Court held : (SCC pp. 721-22, para 29)

"29. ... At this stage, probative value of the materials has to be gone into and the court is not expected to go deep into the matter and hold that the materials would not warrant a conviction. In our opinion, what needs to be considered is whether there is a ground for presuming that the offence has been committed and not whether a ground for convicting the accused has been made out. To put it differently, if the court thinks that the accused might have committed the offence on the basis of the materials on record on its probative value, it can frame the charge; though for conviction, the court has to come to the conclusion that the accused has committed the offence. The law does not permit a mini trial at this stage."

35. Pragraph Nos. 17.7, 17.8, 18, 28 and 29 of the judgement of M. E. Shivalingamurthy (supra) has been relied by Sri Anurag Verma, learned A.G.A. and the aforesaid paragraphs are quoted below:-

"17.7.At the time of framing of the charges, the probative value of the material on record cannot be gone into, and the material brought on record by the prosecution, has to be accepted as true.

17.8.There must exist some materials for entertaining the strong suspicion which can form the basis for drawing up a charge and refusing to discharge the accused.

18. The defence of the accused is not to be looked into at the stage when the accused seeks to be discharged under Section 227 CrPC (see State of J&K v. Sudershan Chakkar [State of J&K v. Sudershan Chakkar, (1995) 4 SCC 181 : 1995 SCC (Cri) 664 : AIR 1995 SC 1954]). The expression, "the record of the case", used in Section 227 CrPC, is to be understood as the documents and the articles, if any, produced by the prosecution. The Code does not give any right to the accused to produce any document at the stage of framing of the charge. At the stage of framing of the charge, the submission of the accused is to be confined to the material produced by the police (see State of Orissa v. Debendra Nath Padhi [State of Orissa v. Debendra Nath Padhi, (2005) 1 SCC 568 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 415 : AIR 2005 SC 359]).

28. It is here that again it becomes necessary that we remind ourselves of the contours of the jurisdiction under Section 227 CrPC. The principle established is to take the materials produced by the prosecution, both in the form of oral statements and also documentary material, and act upon it without it been subjected to questioning through cross-examination and everything assumed in favour of the prosecution, if a scenario emerges where no offence, as alleged, is made out against the accused, it, undoubtedly, would enure to the benefit of the accused warranting the trial court to discharge the accused.

29.It is not open to the accused to rely on the material by way of defence and persuade the court to discharge him."

36. The arguments advanced by Sri Anurag Verma has force, it is true that probative value of the material on record cannot be gone into and the material brought on record by the prosecution has to be accepted as true. The material available on record goes to show prima facie the case against the accused, therefore, he cannot be discharged. The court does not give any right to accused to produce any document at the stage of framing of charges.

37. In my opinion, the court cannot become an appellate court and appreciation of evidence by finding inconsistency in the evidences cannot become ground for discharging the accused. It is well settled proposition that power of quashing the criminal proceeding at the time of framing of charge should be exercised very sparingly with circumspection and in the rarest of rare cases. I have to apply the test as to whether uncontroverted allegations as made from the record and evidence prima facie established the offence or not.

38. In view of the aforesaid discussion, I do not find any infirmity, illegality, perversity in the orders dated 26.02.2022 and 06.04.2022; thus, the revision being devoid of merit is dismissed.

39. No order as to costs.

40. However, it is made clear that the observations made above will not influence the trial in any manner and revisionist is at liberty to seek any remedy available to him under the law.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. This revision has been filed challenging the judgment and order dated 28.01.2004 passed by learned Additional District and Sessions Judge (F.T.C.), District Sonbhadra, dismissing Criminal Appeal No. 5 of 1998 (Virendra Kumar Vs.

State), preferred against the judgment and order dated 18.02.1998 passed by learned Special Judicial Magistrate, Duddhi, District Sonbhadra in Criminal Case No. 228 of 1987 (State Vs. Shyam Sundar Agrahari and another), under Section 7/16 of Food Adulteration Act, Police Station Shakti Nagar, District Sonbhadra, convicting and sentencing the revisionist under Section 7/16 of Prevention of Food Adulteration Act, 1954 (hereinafter referred to as the, "Act, 1954') with a punishment of six months rigorous imprisonment along with a fine of Rs. 1,000/- with default stipulation.

2. Heard Shri Gajendra Pratap Singh, the learned Senior Counsel, assisted by Shri Satyendra Prakash Srivastava, the learned counsel for the revisionist, Shri Suresh Bahadur Singh, the learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

3. Learned counsel for the revisionist submits that the complaint was filed in the year 1986 and the revisionist was convicted and sentenced by the trial court for six months rigorous imprisonment in the year, 1998, which judgment and order was affirmed by the learned appellate court in the year, 2004. The date of birth of the revisionist is 25.10.1968 and on the date of alleged incident he was aged about 17 years, 07 months 23 days and as such at that time he was minor and by now 36 years have already been elapsed. The delay in trial deprives the right of the revisionist of speedy trial and he may be given benefit of first offender under the provisions of the U.P. First Offenders Probation Act, 1938 (hereinafter referred to as the, "Act, 1938'). In support of his submission he placed reliance upon a judgment given by this Court in the case of Badan Singh Vs. State of U.P. in Criminal Revision No. 2066 of 1973 (decided on 31.03.1976).

4. From perusal of impugned order of conviction it appears that the accused-revisionist was held guilty for an offence punishable under Section 7/16 of Prevention of Food Adulteration Act as he was found keeping exposed for sale Gram Pulses which was found adulterated with 9.86% Khesari which is prohibited. The article was thus adulterated within the meaning of clause (f) of sub-Section (1) of Section 2 of the Act, 1954. It was not disputed that the provision to Section 16 of the Act was not attracted and as such he was liable to be punished with imprisonment for a term not less than six months and with fine of Rs. 1,000/-.

5. The relevant portion of sub-section (1) of Section 4 of the Act, 1938 reads as under:

(1) When any person is convicted of an offence not punishable with death or transportation for life, and no previous conviction is proved against the offender, if it appears to the court before which he is convicted, regard being had to the age, character, antecedents or physical or mental condition of the offender and to the circumstances in which the offence was committed that it is expedient that the offender should be released on probation of good conduct the court may instead of sentencing him at once to any punishment, direct that he be released on his entering into a bond, with or without sureties, to appear and receive sentence when called upon during such period not exceeding three years as the court may direct and in the meantime to keep the peace and be of good behaviour :

Provided .....

Provided also that if a person under twenty-one years of age is convicted of any offence under the Indian Penal Code, or any other enactments prescribed in this behalf under rules made by the State Government, which is punishable with imprisonment not exceeding six months, the court shall take action under this section unless, for special reasons to be recorded in writing, it does not consider it proper to do so.

6. Sub-section (1) of Section 4 of the Act is applicable to persons of all ages subject to conditions which have been specified therein. It is applicable to a person convicted of an offence not punishable with death or transportation of life provided that no previous conviction is proved against him and further if it appears to the court before which is convicted that it is expedient that he be released on probation of good conduct regarding had to the age, character, antecedents or physical mental condition of the offender and to the circumstances in which the offence was committed. Section 4(1) of the Act, 1938 is applicable to all offences punishable with a less severe sentence than death or life imprisonment. It is clear that there the conviction is for an offence of less than a certain degree of gravity, the degree of gravity being measured by maximum punishment which can be imposed for the offence, the benefit of the section can be extended to such an offender. No other exception with regard to the nature of the offence is contemplated by the provision.

7. The second proviso to Section 4(1) of the Act, 1938 lays down that if a person under 21 years of age is convicted of any offence under the Indian Penal Code, or any other enactments prescribed in this behalf under rules made by the State Government and the maximum punishment provided for the offence does not exceed six months, the court shall extend the benefit of the section unless, for special reasons to be recorded in writing, the court does not consider it proper to extend the benefit of the provision to him. While in the case of offenders above the age of 21 years, absolute discretion is given to the court, in the case of the offenders below the age of 21 years, an injunction is issued to the court not to sentence the young offenders to imprisonment unless the court for special reasons does not consider it proper to extend to him the benefit of the First Offenders Probation Act.

8. Sub-section (1) of Section 16 of the Act, 1954 provides the punishment which may be awarded to a person found guilty of the various offences under that Act. In addition the penalty to which he may be liable under Section 6, he shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than six months, but it may extend to six years and with fine which shall not be less than Rs. 1,000/-. The proviso lays down that in case of the offences specified therein, a lesser sentence may be imposed for adequate and special reason be mentioned in the judgment.

9. As observed above, Section 4 of the First Offenders Probation Act does not contemplate any exception other than those specifically mentioned therein, i.e., (1) the offence is not punishable with death or transportation for life, (2) no previous conviction is proved against the offender, (3) the court finding him guilty is of the opinion that having regard to the age, character, antecedents or physical and mental condition of the offender and to the circumstances in which the offence was committed, it is expedient to release him on probation of good conduct and (4) the accused in such an event enters into a bond with or without sureties to appear and receive sentence when called upon during such period not exceeding three years as the court may direct and in the meantime to keep the peace and be of good behaviour. In case of a person under 21 years of age, the proviso imposes a duty on the court not to sentence him to imprisonment unless for special reasons to be recorded in writing, it does not consider it proper to extend the benefit of the First Offenders' Probation Act. There is nothing in the Offenders Act to indicate that its operation is excluded in the case of persons found guilty of offences undo the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act. In the absence of a clear indication to that effect, the provisions of the Offenders Act would be applicable to a person found guilty of offences under the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act in spite of the fact that a minimum sentence is provided for in respect of certain offences committed under that Act.

10. The question of the applicability of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1938, to the case of a person found guilty of an offence under the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act came up for consideration before the Supreme Court in Isher Das v. State of Punjab : AIR 1972 SC 1295. The Supreme Court held that the provisions of the Probation of Offenders Act is not excluded in the case of the persons found guilty of the offences under the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act. No distinction was made between a case which entails the minimum sentence prescribed under Section 1(c)(1) and a case to which the proviso to that section was attracted. The court, however, cautioned that the provisions of the Probation of Offenders Act should not be lightly resorted to in view of the fact that the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act has been enacted with the aim of eradicating that anti-social evil and for ensuring purity in the articles of food. It is true that the decision of the Supreme Court was influenced by the fact that Section 4(1) of the Probation of Offenders Act contained the non obstinate clause "notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force" and that Section 18 of the Act excluded from its operation only the offence under Sub-section (2) of Section 5 of the Prevention of Corruption Act and further that the First Offenders' Probation Act was enacted subsequent to the enactment of the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act, but that would make no difference in determining the question whether the operation of the Offenders Act is excluded in the case of persons found guilty of offences under the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act, The underlying object of both the Central and the State Acts obviously is that an accused person should be given a chance of reformation which he would lose in case he is incarcerated in prison and associated with hardened criminals. That object is further emphasised in enacting that a person who is less than 21 years of age and is convicted for an offence punishable with imprisonment not exceeding six months, the court is under a duty not to sentence him to imprisonment unless there exists special reasons which justify such a course.

11. In Jai Narain v. Municipal Coirporation of Delhi : AIR 1972 SC 2607, the court reiterated the principle that the provisions of the Probation of Offenders Act apply to persons found guilty under the Prevention of Food

Adulteration Act, although on the facts and circumstances of the case, the court came to the conclusion that it was neither expedient nor in consonance with the object with which the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act was passed to apply Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act to the case in hand. The principle laid down in Isher Das's case (supra) was again affirmed in Pyarali K, Tejani v. Mahadeo Ramchandra Dange and others : AIR 1974 SC 28. In the words of Iyer, J.:

"The rehabilatory purpose of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958, is pervasive enough technically to take within its wing? an offence even under the Act."

12. The principle that emerges from these decisions is that the Probation of Offenders Act apply to offences under the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act, Its operation cannot be whittled down or circumscribed by the fact that a minimum sentence is provided for certain offences and no discretion is left to the court in that matter.

13. In view of above, this Court is of the view that the benefit of the First Offenders Probation Act can be allowed to an accused who is found guilty of an offence under the provisions of Prevention of Food Adulteration Act (Act No. 37 of 1954), to which the proviso to Section 16 of the Act does not apply.

14. Considering the fact and circumstance of the case, I am of the view that the benefit of provision of Probation of Offender Act, 1958 should be provided to the accused/appellant.

15. Thus, the revision is partly allowed. The judgment and order dated 28.01.2004 passed by learned Additional District and Sessions Judge (F.T.C.), District Sonbhadra, dismissing Criminal Appeal No. 5 of 1998(Virendra Kumar Vs. State), preferred against the judgment and order dated 18.02.1998 passed by learned Special Judicial Magistrate, Duddhi, District Sonbhadra in Criminal Case No. 228 of 1987 (State Vs. Shyam Sundar Agrahari and another), under Section 7/16 of Food Adulteration Act, Police Station Shakti Nagar, District Sonbhadra, so far as it relates with the conviction of revisionist is maintained, but the sentence is modified. Instead of sending the revisionist, Virendra Kumar, to jail, he is given benefit of Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1938. He is directed to file two sureties bonds of Rs.20,000/- and a personal bond of same amount to the effect that he shall maintain peace and good behaviour and shall not commit any offence during the period of one year. The bonds aforesaid be filed by him within two months from the date of this judgment before District Probation Officer, Sonbhadra.

16. Copy of this judgment along with lower court record be sent to the District Judge, Sonbhadra with immediate effect for compliance.

4. Rishipal Singh Solanki Vs St. of U.P. in Criminal Appeal No. 1240 of 2021 (decided on 18.11.2021)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sunil Kumar, learned counsel for the revisionist as well as Sri Ishwar Chandra Tyagi, learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 and Sri Abhishek Shukla, learned A.G.A.-1 for the State and perused the record.

2. This revision is directed against the order dated 14.10.2021 passed by the Additional District and Session Judge, Court No.4, Amroha, on an application (paper no. 13-B) dated 14.10.2021 moved on behalf of the revisionist in Session Trial No. 200 of 2018 arising out of Case Crime No. 735 of 2017: State of U.P. Vs. Pravav and others, under Section 395, 397, 427, 412 I.P.C. Police Station Gajraula, District Amroha by which he was pleased to reject the application dated 14.10.2021 of the revisionist-applicant seeking declaration of applicant to be Juvenile conflict with law and to refer his case to the Juvenile Justice Board, Amroha.

3. Learned A.G.A. has filed counter affidavit, which is on record. Learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 submits that he will argue the case in absence of counter affidavit and learned counsel for the revisionist submits that there is no need to file rejoinder affidavit, therefore, this court has no option to hear and proceed with the matter.

4. Learned counsel for the revisionist submits that the court below has passed the impugned order without jurisdiction vested in it, therefore, the revisionist has approached this Court directly by filing of the present revision and without filing the appeal under Section 101 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 (for short "the Act, 2015') and the impugned order is totally illegal on the face of the record.

5. Facts which are the genesis of the present dispute are that an F.I.R. dated 29.12.201 was registered by the opposite party no.2 as Case Crime No. 0735 of 2017 against six known and one unknown persons namely, Pranav Kumar alias Raghav, Abrar, Mujeem, Pawan Kumar, Amar Pal Yadav, and Bittu Chauhan, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 394, 307, 427 and 506 I.P.C. with the allegation that he is

District Coordinator of B.J.P. On 28.12.2017 when he was sitting in his office then accused persons along with 30-40 unknown persons having illegal arms in their hands entered in his office. Accused Raghav opened fire by which he has sustained injury in his hand. Again accused Raghav shot fired which hit his computer. In this incident Mahaveer Singh Chauhan, Pintu Singh, Sudhir Teetu alias Saurabh Choudhary and Anil Gupta have sustained injuries. The accused persons also committed loot of his golden chain, cash of Rs. 1,40,000/- and other document besides mobile phone and computer. They also damaged Scorpio Car, Scooter and Motor Cycle on account of the election enmity.

6. In the said F.I.R, the date of incident as alleged was 28.12.2017. The investigations were carried out and charge sheet was filed and after filing of the Charge-sheet the case was committed to the Court of Sessions where it was numbered as Session Trial No. 200 of 2018 : State Vs. Pranav and others. The trial was transferred to the Court of IV Additional District and Session Judge, Amroha where the proceedings of the present trial are going on.

7. The revisionist has claimed to be declare as a juvenile on the basis of his High School Certificate which indicates his date of birth as 10.07.2000, by filing an application dated 14.10.2021 before the Additional District and Session Judge, Court No.4, Amroha to consider his case and to refer this case for hearing before the Juvenile Justice Board, Amroha. The Additional District and Session Judge, Court No.4, Amroha relying on the age of the revisionist shown in the charge-sheet i.e. 20 years, rejected the application of the revisionist.

8. Learned counsel for the revisionist submits that the revisionist is a child. His date of birth is 10.07.2000 and the same has been recorded in his High School Certificate-cum-marksheet dated 17.05.2015 issued by the Board of High School and Intermediate Education U.P. (Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, U.P.) for High School Examination 2015 which the revisionist passed with Roll No. 0723441 being regular student of S.P.L.D.S.V. M.I.C. Hasanpur Amroha and as such on the alleged date of incident i.e. 28.12.2017 the revisionist was less than 18 years old.

9. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that neither the revisionist was named in the F.I.R. nor he was put for identification from any prosecution witness nor there is any recovery or discovery of any case property or weapon of assault either from the possession or on the pointing of the revisionist, nor he was named as an accused by any witness nor there was any direct, indirect or circumstantial evidence to connect the revisionist with the alleged crime has been collected by the Investigating Officer nor there is any legal evidence collected against the revisionist but despite of that merely on the basis of confessional statement of co-accused, the revisionist has been made accused in the present case on the basis of charge-sheet filed by the police.

10. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that the revisionist is innocent and he has been falsely implicated in the present case by the police, during the course of investigation as he was not named in the F.I.R.

11. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that vide impugned order dated 14.10.2021 learned trial court rejected the aforesaid application of the revisionist in gross violation of the provisions of law and without following the procedure established by law to refer the matter to the Committee or the Board for determination against the spirit of the provisions made under the Act, 2015. He further submits that the court below did not have jurisdiction to decide the claim of juvenility and Juvenile Justice Board is empowered to decided the said question.

12. Learned counsel for the revisionist has drawn attention of this Court towards Section 94 (2) of the Act, 2015 and submits that Section 94 (2) provides the manner in which the determination of age is to be undertaken as well as also provides the preferential documents serially having the overriding effect on the other documents. The said provision does also contain a special clause that if any document as provided is not available then how the determination of the age is to be undertaken.

13. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that the Child Welfare Committee or the Juvenile Justice Board are the only authorities competent to hold the enquiry either regarding the determination of the age of the Juvenile. Accordingly the regular trial court holding trial of any criminal case is not competent to hold any such enquiry for determination to the age of a Juvenile conflict with law and to pass the order accordingly. As such the learned Fourth Additional District and Session Judge was supposed to refer the application moved by the applicant before the committee or before the Board (as the case may be) for determination and he will continue to proceed with the trial of rest of the accused persons . Whenever the report of Board or committee may be submitted before the aforesaid court after determination of age, thereafter the trial court has to proceed accordingly but in any case the learned trial court could not reject the application out rightly on the basis of the those grounds which are not known to law and in conflict of the law.

14. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that the date of birth certificate from the school or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board is given top preference and in case if such a certificate is not available then as a secondary measure, the birth certificate given by the corporation or the Municipal authorities or Panchayat is to be given preference and if even this certificate is not available then only in absence of both above certificates, determination of age is to be done by an ossification test or by any other latest medical determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or Board. Since in the present case the revisionist has relied upon his matriculation certificate issued by Board of High School and Intermediate Education U.P dated 17.05.2015 wherein the date of birth of the revisionist has been specifically mentioned as 10.07.2020 which proved itself that the revision was juvenile, and since the aforesaid document is an undisputed document and is having top priority in view of Section 94 (2) of the Act, therefore the learned trial court has committed gross illegality while rejecting the application dated 14.10.2021 of the revisionist out rightly without considering the provisions of law.

15. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that the learned trial court has himself noted in the impugned order dated 14.10.2021 that on the date of alleged incident i.e. 28.12.2017 the revisionist was aged about 17 years 5 months and 18 days old (and his date of birth is 10.07.2000). The learned trial court has also taken note of the High School certificate of the revisionist in the impugned order which apparently proved that the learned trial court was conscious about both these facts, but while passing the impugned order has totally ignored and overlooked the facts and the impugned order was passed ignoring the material on record.

16. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that the trial court has also noted the objections raised by the learned Additional Government Advocate (Criminal) on the margin of the application dated 14.10.2021 filed by the revisionist-applicant in the impugned order and has wrongly been relied upon the said objection that in the charge-sheet the age of the revisionist is shown as 20 years but surprisingly enough the learned trial court has illegally been observed that there is a margin of two years both sides of the age shown in the High School Certificate and the revisionist is appearing to be 20 years of age physically.

17. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that the findings recorded by the learned court below in the impugned order is perverse in nature and contrary to the record as well as wholly illegal and without jurisdiction. Accordingly these findings are liable to be set aside and the impugned order is also liable to be set aside, the trial court has exceeded its jurisdiction which is not vested in him, the impugned order is illegal and liable to be set aside as the same is passed in violation of the Act, 2015.

18. Learned A.G.A. and learned counsel for opposite party no. 2 have conceded that the trial court has no jurisdiction to decide the juvenility of a person, in view of the provision of Section 94 (2) of the Act, 2015.

19. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and persued the record.

20. Before this Court proceeds further to assess the evidence and to consider and decide the case on merits, it shall be appropriate to examine the nature and scope of enquiry as contemplated under the law.

21. The Supreme Court of India in Ashwani Kumar Saxena Vs. State of M.P. in Criminal Appeal No. 1403 of 2021 (decided on 13.09.2012), examined the scope of an enquiry expected from a Court, the Juvenile Justice Board and the Committee in the light of earlier judgements and was pleased to observe in para-27 as under:-

"Section 7A, obliges the court only to make an inquiry, not an investigation or a trial, an inquiry not under the Code of Criminal Procedure, but under the J.J. Act. Criminal Courts, JJ Board, Committees etc., we have noticed, proceed as if they are conducting a trial, inquiry, enquiry or investigation as per the Code. Statute requires the Court or the Board only to make an "inquiry' and in what manner that inquiry has to be conducted is provided in JJ Rules. Few of the expressions used in Section 7A and Rule 12 are of considerable importance and a reference to them is necessary to understand the true scope and content of those provisions. Section 7A has used the expression "court shall make an inquiry", "take such evidence as may be necessary" and "but not an affidavit". The Court or the Board can accept as evidence something more than an affidavit i.e. the Court or the Board can accept documents, certificates etc. as evidence need not be oral evidence."

22. The Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the enquiry on the point of juvenility has nothing to do with the enquiry as contemplated under other legislations and gave an opinion in paras-32, 34 and 36 of the aforesaid judgment of Ashwani Kumar Saxena (supra) as below:

32. Consequently, the procedure to be followed under the J.J. Act in conducting an inquiry is the procedure laid down in that statute itself i.e. Rule 12 of the 2007 Rules. We cannot import other procedures laid down in the Code of Criminal Procedure or any other enactment while making an inquiry with regard to the juvenility of a person, when the claim of juvenility is raised before the court exercising powers under section 7A of the Act. Many of the cases, we have come across, it is seen that the Criminal Courts are still having the hangover of the procedure of trial or inquiry under the Code as if they are trying an offence under the Penal laws forgetting the fact that the specific procedure has been laid down in section 7A read with Rule 12.

34. "Age determination inquiry" contemplated under section 7A of the Act r/w Rule 12 of the 2007 Rules enables the court to seek evidence and in that process, the court can obtain the matriculation or equivalent certificates, if available. Only in the absence of any matriculation or equivalent certificates, the court need obtain the date of birth certificate from the school first attended other than a play school. Only in the absence of matriculation or equivalent certificate or the date of birth certificate from the school first attended, the court need obtain the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat (not an affidavit but certificates or documents). The question of obtaining medical opinion from a duly constituted Medical Board arises only if the above mentioned documents are unavailable. In case exact assessment of the age cannot be done, then the court, for reasons to be recorded, may, if considered necessary, give the benefit to the child or juvenile by considering his or her age on lower side within the margin of one year.

36. Age determination inquiry contemplated under the JJ Act and Rules has nothing to do with an enquiry under other legislations, like entry in service, retirement, promotion etc. There may be situations where the entry made in the matriculation or equivalent certificates, date of birth certificate from the school first attended and even the birth certificate given by a Corporation or a Municipal Authority or a Panchayat may not be correct. But Court, J.J. Board or a Committee functioning under the J.J. Act is not expected to conduct such a roving enquiry and to go behind those certificates to examine the correctness of those documents, kept during the normal course of business. Only in cases where those documents or certificates are found to be fabricated or manipulated, the Court, the J.J. Board or the Committee need to go for medical report for age determination.

23. The Madhya Pradesh High Court in Sanat Kumar Yadav Vs. State of M.P. in Criminal Revision No. 3049 of 2016 (decided on 02.01.2017) held that the age determination enquiry has to be conducted within the purview of Section 9(2) of the Act, 2015 by seeking evidence and by obtaining documents mentioned under Section 94(2) of the Act, 2015 which are comparable with Section 7-A of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 (hereinafter referred to as the, "Act, 2000) and the Rule 12(3) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 2007 (hereinafter referred to as the, "Rules, 2007'). In the above case the Madhya Pradesh High Court referred to judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Akhilesh Yadav Vs. Vishwanath Chaturvedi, 2013(2) SCC 1, to stress the point that the courts are not expected to conduct a roving enquiry into the correctness of school certificate or the date of birth certificate. Madhya Pradesh High Court gave an opinion that school record kept during the normal course of business and whose authenticity or genuineness has not been questioned can form the basis of the determination of age of a juvenile.

24. In the case of Rishipal Singh Solanki Vs. State of U.P. in Criminal Appeal No. 1240 of 2021 (decided on 18.11.2021), the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that where an application is filed before the court claiming juvenility, the provisions of sub Section 2 of Section 94 of the Act, 2015 would have to be applied or read along with sub Section 2 of Section 9 so as to seek the evidence for the purpose of finding as regard the age. The Apex Court also held that the burden of proving is on the person raising such claim, however, the documents mentioned in the relevant rules of 2007 made under the Act, 2000 or the relevant Rules under Section 94(2) of the Act, 2015 shall be sufficient for prima facie satisfaction of the court. The Hon'ble Supreme Court held that such presumption is not conclusive to prove the age and is rebutable on the evidence lead by opposite side. The Hon'ble Supreme Court also cautioned that a hyper technical approach should not be adopted when evidence is adduced on behalf of the accused in support of plea of juvenile.

25. Section 8 of The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 provides the powers, functions and responsibilities of the Board, which reads as under:-

(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force but save as otherwise expressly provided in this Act, the Board constituted for any district shall have the power to deal exclusively with all the proceedings under this Act, relating to children in conflict with law, in the area of jurisdiction of such Board.

(2) The powers conferred on the Board by or under this Act may also be exercised by the High Court and the Children's Court, when the proceedings come before them under section 19 or in appeal, revision or otherwise.

(3) The functions and responsibilities of the Board shall include--

(a) ensuring the informed participation of the child and the parent or guardian, in every step of the process;

(b) ensuring that the child's rights are protected throughout the process of apprehending the child, inquiry, aftercare and rehabilitation;

(c) ensuring availability of legal aid for the child through the legal services institutions;

(d) wherever necessary the Board shall provide an interpreter or translator, having such qualifications, experience, and on payment of such fees as may be prescribed, to the child if he fails to understand the language used in the proceedings;

(e) directing the Probation Officer, or in case a Probation Officer is not available to the Child Welfare Officer or a social worker, to undertake a social investigation into the case and submit a social investigation report within a period of fifteen days from the date of first production before the Board to ascertain the circumstances in which the alleged offence was committed;

(f) adjudicate and dispose of cases of children in conflict with law in accordance with the process of inquiry specified in section 14;

(g) transferring to the Committee, matters concerning the child alleged to be in conflict with law, stated to be in need of care and protection at any stage, thereby recognising that a child in conflict with law can also be a child in need of care simultaneously and there is a need for the Committee and the Board to be both involved;

(h) disposing of the matter and passing a final order that includes an individual care plan for the child's rehabilitation, including follow up by the Probation Officer or the District Child Protection Unit or a member of a non-governmental organisation, as may be required;

(i) conducting inquiry for declaring fit persons regarding care of children in conflict with law;

(j) conducting at least one inspection visit every month of residential facilities for children in conflict with law and recommend action for improvement in quality of services to the District Child Protection Unit and the State Government;

(k) order the police for registration of first information report for offences committed against any child in conflict with law, under this Act or any other law for the time being in force, on a complaint made in this regard;

(l) order the police for registration of first information report for offences committed against any child in need of care and protection, under this Act or any other law for the time being in force, on a written complaint by a Committee in this regard;

(m) conducting regular inspection of jails meant for adults to check if any child is lodged in such jails and take immediate measures for transfer of such a child to the observation home; and

(n) any other function as may be prescribed.

26. Section 9 of The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 provides procedure to be followed by a Magistrate who has not been empowered under this Act, reads as under:

(1) When a Magistrate, not empowered to exercise the powers of the Board under this Act is of the opinion that the person alleged to have committed the offence and brought before him is a child, he shall, without any delay, record such opinion and forward the child immediately along with the record of such proceedings to the Board having jurisdiction.

(2) In case a person alleged to have committed an offence claims before a court other than a Board, that the person is a child or was a child on the date of commission of the offence, or if the court itself is of the opinion that the person was a child on the date of commission of the offence, the said court shall make an inquiry, take such evidence as may be necessary (but not an affidavit) to determine the age of such person, and shall record a finding on the matter, stating the age of the person as nearly as may be:

Provided that such a claim may be raised before any court and it shall be recognised at any stage, even after final disposal of the case, and such a claim shall be determined in accordance with the provisions contained in this Act and the rules made thereunder even if the person has ceased to be a child on or before the date of commencement of this Act.

(3) If the court finds that a person has committed an offence and was a child on the date of commission of such offence, it shall forward the child to the Board for passing appropriate orders and the sentence, if any, passed by the court shall be deemed to have no effect.

(4) In case a person under this section is required to be kept in protective custody, while the person's claim of being a child is being inquired into, such person may be placed, in the intervening period in a place of safety.

27. Section 18 of the Act, 2015 provides that if it is found that any child below the age of 16 years has committed a heinous offence, then, notwithstanding anything contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force, may pass orders like allowing child to go home after advice or admonition or to direct the child to participate in group counselling or perform community service or may be released on probation of good conduct or he may be sent to special home for such period not exceeding three years etc. Perusal of provisions of the Act, 2015 establish that in no case the child below sixteen years of age having committed an heinous offence can be detained as convict in regular jails. The punishment as provided under the above provisions is basically of reformative nature. The general principles of care and protection of children as given in Chapter 2 of J. J. Act also include a principle of repatriation and restoration of every child with his family at the earliest.

28. Section 94 of the Act, 2015 provides presumption and determination of age of juvenile and such presumption is not conclusive to prove the case and is rebutable on the evidence lead by the aggrieved parties. Section 94 of the Ac, 2015 is reproduced herein below:

Presumption and determination of age.-(1) Where, it is obvious to the Committee or the Board, based on the appearance of the person brought before it under any of the provisions of this Act (other than for the purpose of giving evidence) that the said person is a child, the Committee or the Board shall record such observation stating the age of the child as nearly as may be and proceed with the inquiry under section 14 or section 36, as the case may be, without waiting for further confirmation of the age.

(2) In case, the Committee or the Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Committee or the Board, as the case may be, shall undertake the process of age determination, by seeking evidence by obtaining--

(i) the date of birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, if available; and in the absence thereof;

(ii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(iii) and only in the absence of (i) and (ii) above, age shall be determined by an ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or the Board:

Provided such age determination test conducted on the order of the Committee or the Board shall be completed within fifteen days from the date of such order.

(3) The age recorded by the Committee or the Board to be the age of person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of this Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person.

29. In view of the facts and circumstances as discussed above and in agreement with the law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in the cases of Ashwani Kumar Saxena (supra), Akhilesh Yadav (supra) and Rishipal Singh Solanki (supra), as well as in view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Madhya Pradesh High Court in the case of Sanat Kumar Yadav (supra), this revision succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 14.10.2021 passed by the Additional District and Session Judge, Court No.4, Amroha in Session Trial No. 200 of 2018 arising out of Case Crime No. 735 of 2017: State of U.P. Vs. Pravav and others, under Section 395, 397, 427, 412 I.P.C. Police Station Gajraula, District Amroha is hereby set aside and reversed.

List of Cases cited:

Rajnesh Vs Neha & anr. : 2020 SCC Online SC 903

(Delivered by Hon'ble Karunesh Singh Pawar, J.)

1. These are two Criminal Revisions against the judgment and order dated 6.3.2012 passed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, Lucknow, by which Criminal Misc. Case No.760 of 2004, Smt. Poonam Devi vs. Narendra Kumar, filed under Section 125 Cr.P.C. by Smt. Poonam Devi (wife/revisionist) has been allowed.

2. Smt. Poonam Devi has filed the Criminal Revision No. 136 of 2012 inter alia praying for enhancement of the maintenance allowance @ Rs. 5000/- per month from the date of filing of the application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. i.e. 2.8.2004 and has also prayed for awarding the cost of Rs. 15,000/- lump sum, whereas Criminal Revision No. 176 of 2012 has been filed by Shri Narendra Kumar, who is the husband of Smt. Poonam Devi, praying for setting aside the order dated 6.3.2012 passed by the learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Lucknow in Case No. 760 of 2004.

3. Since both the criminal revisions arise out of the common factual matrix and law as well as the common judgment, therefore, these two criminal revisions are being decided by the common judgment and order.

4. Heard Shri Mukul Rakesh, learned Senior Counsel, who has put in appearance for the husband Narendra Kumar in Criminal Revision No.176 of 2012 and Shri Satish Chandra Srivastava, who has appeared for Smt. Poonam Devi in Criminal Revision No. 136 of 2012.

5. Shri Satish Chandra Srivastava, learned counsel for revisionist Smt. Poonam Devi in Criminal Revision No. 136 of 2012 has submitted that the application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. filed by the revisionist/claimant Smt. Poonam Devi remained pending since 2.8.2004 and thus eight years were taken for deciding the application under Section 125 Cr.P.C., which is summary proceeding and therefore, she is entitled for the maintenance allowance to be given from the date of the filing of the application under Section 125 i.e. 2.8.2004.

6. Learned Counsel for the revisionist/claimant/Poonam Devi has further submitted that at least 1/3rd of the amount of the income of the husband ought to have been awarded in her favour. He submits that as less than 1/3rd amount has been awarded by means of the impugned order by the learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Lucknow, therefore, the amount awarded in favour of the claimant/ revisionist is liable to be enhanced.

7. Refuting the aforesaid submissions made by learned Counsel for the revisionist/claimant/Poonam Devi, Shri Mukul Rakesh, learned Senior Counsel for the revisionist/husband/Narendra Kumar has submitted that there was no reason for the trial court to award the maintenance of Rs.1500/- per month from the date of application. The order impugned is ambiguous as learned trial court has wrongly interpreted the statement of the opposite party 2 i.e. Smt. Poonam Devi recorded before this Court in Habeas Corpus Writ Petition No. 284 of 2004 : Smt. Poonam Devi Vs. Ram Narain. He submits that the trial court has erroneously drawn adverse conclusion against the revisionist/husband/Narendra Kumar for filing a suit under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act at Unnao ignoring the fact that respondent no.2/wife/Poonam Devi is permanent resident of Unnao.

8. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record, this Court finds that it is not in dispute that Smt. Poonam Devi (revisionist/wife) was married with the Narendra Kumar (revisionist/husband) on 28.4.2002. The dispute arose between the parties after six months of their marriage. The revisionist/Poonam Devi was living separately away from her husband (revisionist/Narendra Kumar) for justified reasons as her father had died and her in-laws were forcing her to sell her ancestral land so that Maruti Car be purchased. From the evidence led before the trial court it has come on record that the Revisionist/Poonam Devi was subjected to mental and physical cruelty for demand of dowry.

9. It transpires from the impugned order that learned trial Court, while deciding the case, has framed three issues i.e. (i) whether the husband has no source of income; (ii) whether the husband is neglecting his wife and is not maintaining his wife; and (iii) whether the wife is able to maintain herself. The finding given by the learned trial court is extracted below:-

"प्रस्तुत मामले में साक्ष्य से स्पष्ट है कि यादिनी अपने पति से अलग रह रही है। वादिनी के अनुसार उसके पिता की मृत्यु हो चुकी है और उसके पति -सास-ससुर तथा परिवार के अन्य सदस्य, पिता की जमीन अपने नाम कराने के लिए वादिनी पर दबाव डालने लगे तथा वादिनी को प्रताड़ित करने लगे और उसके पति व ससुराल वाले वादिनी से अपने पिता की जमीन बेचकर मारुति कार खरीदने के लिए कहते थे तथा मानसिक व शारीरिक रूप से प्रताड़ित करते थे। यह भी उल्लेख किया गया है कि वादिनी की ससुराल वालों ने उसका तीन माह का गर्भ गिरवा दिया और वादिनी के चाचा राम नरायन जब उससे मिलने आये, तो वादिनी के ससुराल वालों ने वादिनी को जबरदस्ती उनके साथ भेज दिया और कहा कि जब तक अपने पिता की जमीन बेचकर मारुति कार खरीद नहीं लेती हो, ससुराल वापस मत आना। वादिनी के चाचा द्वारा वार्तालाप कर मामले को सुलझाने का प्रयास किया गया, किन्तु वादिनी के पति वादिनी को ले जाने के लिए तैयार नहीं हुए।

प्रतिवादी-पक्ष द्वारा वादिनी द्वारा अभिकथित तथ्यों से इन्कार किया गया है, और यह अभिकथित किया गया है कि वादिनी, प्रतिवादी के यहां कोई काम नहीं करती थी और वह अपने चाचा के साथ स्वयं चली गई थी। प्रतिवादी उसे कई बार लेने गया, किन्तु वह वापस नहीं आई और अन्ततः प्रतिवादी ने मा० उच्च न्यायालय में एक हैवियस कारपस दाखिल किया, जिसमें वादिनी ने उपस्थित होकर बताया कि वह अपनी मर्जी से चाचा के साथ रह रही है और प्रतिवादी के साथ रहने से इन्कार कर दिया। उसके बाद प्रतिवादी ने पारिवारिक न्यायालय, कानपुर में वाद संख्या-88/ 2004 - अन्तर्गत धारा-9 हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम प्रस्तुत किया। उल्लेखनीय है कि प्रतिवादी ने उन्नाव न्यायालय से विवाह-विच्छेद की डिकी प्राप्त कर ली है और दूसरी शादी भी कर ली है, जिससे उसे एक 12 महीने की पुत्री भी है। वादीनी ने अपनी प्रतिपरीक्षा में बताया है कि वह विदा

दोनों पक्षों की साक्ष्य से स्पष्ट है कि वादिनी तथा प्रतिवादी की शादी के 6 माह बाद विवाद उत्पन्न हुआ। वादिनी के अनुसार प्रतिवादी तथा उसके परिवार के लोग दहेज के लिए उसको प्रताउित करते थे और उसके पिता की मृत्यु के बाद कहते थे कि यह जमीन बेचकर मारुति कार खरीद कर दे, जबकि प्रतिवादी का कथन है कि वादिनी घर में कोई काम नहीं करती थी और छोटी-छोटी बातों में विवाद उत्पन्न करती थी। साक्ष्य से स्पष्ट है कि पार्दिनी के परिवार के लोग शादी मैं जो मोटरसाइकिल प्रतिवादी को दिये थे, यह वादिनी ने वापस ले लिया है, क्योंकि प्रतिवादी कार की मांग करता था।

प्रतिवादी द्वारा प्रस्तुत लिखित बहस में उल्लेख किया गया है कि वादिनी दिनांक 08.06.2003 को अपने चाचा के साथ चली गई थी और जब प्रतिवादी उसे विदा कराने गया तो वह मायके में नहीं मिली, वह अपनी बहन के यहां गई हुई थी। उसके बाद पुनः प्रतिवादी, वादिनी के घर गया, तो वादिनी के परिवार वालों ने प्रतिवादी के साथ अभद्रता की तथा मोटरसाइकिल यू0पी0-35सी 9387 छीन ली। दिनांक 24.08.2007 को प्रतिवादी ने प्रधान न्यायाधीश, पारिवारिक न्यायालय, कानपुर में धारा-9 हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम का वाद संस्थित किया। प्रतिवादी ने दिनांक (02.04 2008 को एक हैवियस कारपस रिट संख्या-216/2004 प्रस्तुत किया, जिसमें वादिनी ने अभिकथन किया कि वह प्रतिवादी के साथ नहीं रहना चाहती है, बल्कि अपने चाचा के साथ जाना चाहती है। प्रतिवादी ने धारा-9 हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम का वाद खारिज कराकर उन्नाव में धारा-13 हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम में वाद संख्या-226/2005 दिनांक 18.05.2005 को संस्थित किया, जिसमें वादी को डिक्री प्राप्त हो गई। दिनांक 27.11.2009 को प्रतिवादी ने शिवरानी नामक औरत से विवाह कर लिया. जिससे एक पुत्री हुई, जिसका नाम वैष्णवी है और उसकी उम्र 12 माह है। इस प्रकार स्पष्ट है कि प्रतिवादी वादिनी को दहेज के लिए प्रताड़ित करता था तथा वादिनी पर दबाव बनाता था कि वह अपने पिता की जमीन बेचकर मारुति कार खरीदे और उसके लिए उसे मानसिक व शारीरिक रूप से प्रताड़ित करता था। प्रतिवादी ने हैवियस कारपस की रिट तथा धारा 9 हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम का वाद भी संस्थित किया था और बाद में उन्नाव में धारा-13 हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम की याचिका प्रस्तुत कर विवाह-विघटन की डिकी भी प्राप्त कर ली और पुनः शिव रानी नामक औरत से शादी कर ली है, जिससे उसे एक पुत्री भी है, जिसकी उम्र लगभग 12 माह है। इस प्रकार समस्त परिस्थितियों से स्पष्ट है कि प्रतिवादी, बादिनी को जानबूझकर उपेक्षित करते हुए उसका भरण-पोषण नहीं कर रहा है।

प्रतिवादी-पक्ष की ओर से देव नरायन हालदार बनाम श्रीमती अनुश्री हालदर ए आई आर 203 सुप्रीम कोर्ट 3174 का सन्दर्भ प्रस्तुत किया गया है, जिसमें माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा यह अवधारित किया गया है कि यदि दहेज मांग करने की साक्ष्य तथा वादिनी को

शारीरिक व मानसिक रूप से प्रताड़ित करने की साक्ष्य पत्रावली पर न हो और वादिनी स्वयं अलग रह रही हो, तो यह भरण-पोषण भत्ता प्राप्त करने की अधिकारिणी नहीं है

प्रस्तुत मामले में, जैसा कि ऊपर विश्लेषित किया गया है, प्रतिवादी द्वारा वादिनी को दहेज के लिए प्रताड़ित किया जाता था तथा उस पर दबाव डाला जाता. था कि वह अपने पिता की जमीन को बेचकर प्रतिवादी के लिए मारुति कार खरीद कर दे और इसी सम्बन्ध में प्रतिवादी ने उसे मारपीट कर भगा दिया था। प्रतिवादी ने हैवियस कारपस रिट प्रस्तुत की तथा कानुपर न्यायालय में धारा-9 हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम का वाद प्रस्तुत किया, जिसे प्रतिवादी ने खारिज करा लिया और धारा-13 हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम का वाद उन्नाव में प्रस्तुत किया, जबकि प्रतिवादी ने एक वाद अन्तर्गत धारा-9 हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम कानपुर में प्रस्तुत किया था और वह कानपुर में रहता था, तो उन्नाव न्यायालय में धारा-13 हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम का वाद प्रस्तुत करने का क्या औचित्य था। जनपद उन्नाव में प्रतिवादी द्वारा वाद प्रस्तुत किया गया. जिससे स्पष्ट है कि प्रतिवादी येन-केन-प्रकारेण वादिनी से छुटकारा पाना चाहता था और उन्नाव न्यायालय से विवाह विघटन की डिक प्राप्त कर दूसरा विवाह भी कर लिया जिससे उसे एक पुत्री भी है, किन्तु प्रतिवादी ने इस तथ्य का अपनी मुख्य परीक्षा में अथवा किसी अन्य साक्ष्य के माध्यम से पत्रावली पर प्रस्तुत नहीं किया है। उक्त तथ्य प्रतिवादी की प्रतिपरीक्षा में सामने आया है, जिससे स्पष्ट है कि प्रतिवादी ने इस तथ्य को छिपाने का प्रयास किया और प्रतिवादी का यह आचरण भी इस बात का द्योतक है कि वादिनी द्वारा आरोपित तथ्य सही है। अतएव, यह कहना समीचीन नहीं है कि वादिनी स्वयं प्रतिवादी से अलग रह रही है और दहेज की मांग अथवा मानसिक व शारीरिक प्रताड़ित किये जाने की तथ्य को सिद्ध नहीं कर सकी।

जहां तक, प्रतिवादी की आय का सम्बन्ध है, यह निर्विवादित है कि प्रतिवादी एच०ए०एल०, कानपुर में टेक्निशियन के पद पर कार्यरत है और उसे रु० 15,000/- प्रतिमाह प्राप्त होते हैं। जहां तक इस तथ्य का प्रश्न है कि उसके परिवार में उसके भाई, पिता तथा अन्य सदस्य हैं, जिनका भरण-पोषण भी प्रतिवादी पर आश्रित है, स्वीकार करने योग्य नहीं है, क्योंकि प्रतिवादी ने अपनी प्रतिपरीक्षा मे यह स्पष्ट किया है कि वह अपने परिवार से अलग रहता है। इस प्रकार प्रतिवादी के पास पर्याप्त साधन है. उसके बावजूद भी वह अपनी पत्नी का भरण-पोषण नहीं कर रहा है।

जहां तक, वादिनी की आय के स्रोत का प्रश्न है, प्रतिवादी ने अपनी आपत्ति में अभिकथन किया है कि वादिनी के बाबा के पास लगभग 20 बीघा कृषि योग्य भूमि है तथा उसके चाचा के पास भी 25 बीघा जमीन है। पिता की मृत्यु के बाद यादिनी अपनी कृषि योग्य भूमि की देखभाल करती है और इससे वादिनी की मासिक आय रु०5000/- है। प्रतिवादी द्वारा लिखित बहस में भी इस बात का उल्लेख किया गया है कि वादिनी की ग्राम पहाड़पुर में सात बीघा कृषि योग्य भूमि है, जिसमे वादिनी का 1/3 हिस्सा है तथा पहाडपुर गाँव में सात कमरे का पक्का मकान है, जिसकी कीमत नो लाख रुपये

है, जिसमें वादिनी का 1/3 हिस्सा है। कृषि योग्य भूमि से वादिनी रु०60.000/- वार्षिक की आय प्राप्त करती है तथा बाग से रु०15,000/- आय प्राप्त करती है तथा दो मकान हैं, जिससे रु 2000/- किराया प्राप्त करती है। प्रतिवादी द्वारा कुछ खतौनी के उद्धरण प्रस्तुत किये गये हैं, जिसमें कृषि योग्य भूमि में वादिनी का नाम खसरा सं०- 1737 स्थित ग्राम भदेसुवा परगना निगोहा तहसील मोहनलाल गंज पर वारिस के रूप में अन्य सहखातेदारों के साथ अंकित दिखाया गया है। इस गाटे का क्षेत्रफल 6640 हेक्टेयर है। प्रतिवादी द्वारा वादिनी की कृषि योग्य भूमि का विवरण तो प्रस्तुत किया गया है, किन्तु अपनी कृषि योग्य भूमि का कोई विवरण प्रस्तुत नहीं किया गया है। यदि कृषि योग्य भूमि में वांदिनी का कोई हिस्सा है भी तो यह नहीं कहा जा सकता कि उसके पास भरण-पोषण के लिए पर्याप्त साधन हैं। जहां तक प्रतिवादी पक्ष द्वारा अपनी लिखित बहस में आय का विवरण दिया गया है, उसकी कोई साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत नहीं की गई है, अतः यह स्वीकार करना समीचीन नहीं है कि वादिनी के पास अपने भरण-पोषण के लिए पर्याप्त साधन हैं।

उपरोक्त विश्लेषण से स्पष्ट है कि वादिनी जो प्रतिवादी की विवाहिता पत्नी है. युक्तियुक्त कारण से प्रतिवादी से अलग रह रही है और प्रतिवादी उसकी उपेक्षा करके भरण-पोषण नहीं कर रहा है। यादिनी की अपनी स्वयं की कोई आय नहीं है, अतएव यह प्रतिवादी से भरण-पोषण प्राप्त करने की अधिकारिणी है।

जहां तक, भरण-पोषण की धनराशि का प्रश्न है. यह निर्विवादित है कि प्रतिवादी एच०ए०एल०, कानपुर में टेक्निशियन के पद पर कार्यरत है, जहां उसे रु० 15,000/- मासिक प्राप्त होते हैं, अतएव, वादिनी प्रतिवादी से रु04000/ प्रतिमाह भरण-पोषण की धनराशि प्राप्त करने की अधिकारिणी है।

आदेश

प्रार्थिनी / वादिनी का प्रार्थना पत्र अन्तर्गत धारा-125 द०प्र०सं० स्वीकार किया जाता है। विपक्षी / प्रतिवादी को आदेशित किया जाता है कि वह प्रार्थिनी / वादिनी को प्रार्थना पत्र प्रस्तुत करने की तिथि से निर्णय की तिथि तक रू. 1,500/- (एक हजार पाँच सौ रुपये मात्र) प्रतिमाह तथा निर्णय की तिथि से रु0 4000 / - (चार हजार रुपये मात्र) प्रतिमाह भरण-पोषण भत्ता की धनराशि का भुगतान करेगा।"

10. A perusal of the impugned judgment of the learned trial Court, it is evident that learned trial Court has considered the statement of the wife Poonam Devi given before this Court in Habeas Corpus Writ Petition No. 284 of 2004 on 01.10.2004, where she has stated that she, on her own accord, is residing with her uncle and has refused to go with her husband (Narendra Kumar). Thereafter, a Suit for Restitution Of Conjugal Rights was filed by the husband/Narendra Kumar under Section 9 of the Hindu Marriage Act, which was registered as Suit No.88 of 2004 in the Court of Principal Judge, Family Court, Kanpur. Thereafter, the husband Narendra Kumar had filed a suit for divorce in the Court of Principal Judge, Family Court, Unnao. Has also obtained the decree and re-married and out of the wedlock he had 12 months old daughter. The claimant/ Poonam Devi has clarified the statement given by her before the High Court that she doesn't have the guts/courage to go with her husband so she wants to go with her uncle. After scrutinizing the evidence learned trial court has arrived at a conclusion that the claimant/Poonam Devi has been deliberately neglected and was denied the maintenance. Learned trail court has further considered that Habeas Corpus Writ Petition (supra) was filed at High Court, Lucknow by the husband Narendra Kumar. Thereafter in Family Court, Kanpur an application under Section 9 Hindu Marriage Act was filed. Subsequent thereto a suit under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act was filed at Unnao thereafter had arrived at a conclusion that the husband somehow wanted to get rid of the claimant and after getting the divorce decree from Unnao he has remarried and had a daughter. However, the husband in his examination-in-chief or by way of any other evidence has not brought these facts on record rather the same has been revealed in his cross examination and therefore has rightly inferred that the husband/ Narendra Kumar has tried to conceal these facts and considering this conduct of the husband/Narendra Kumar the trial court has found the allegations made by the claimant/wife Poonam Devi correct and therefore has rightly arrived at a conclusion that it will not be proper to say that claimant herself is residing away from her husband Narendra Kumar and could not prove the demand of dowry and the mental and physical cruelty which she was subjected and thus has decided the issue no.2 in favour of the claimant.

11. So far as income of the respondent/husband/ Narendra Kumar is concerned issue no.1 was framed. It is not in dispute that Narendra Kumar is employee in HAL Kanpur on the post of Technician and he is getting Rs.15000/- per moth. It has been rightly held that he has enough source of income and still he is not maintaining his wife. The wife though has some ancestral agricultural land but on that basis it has been rightly held that she cannot maintain herself. The husband has not given any details of his agricultural income and he has not adduced any evidence regarding the income of the wife except the objections filed by him and thus trial court has rightly concluded that the claimant/Poonam Devi is the legally wedded wife of the respondents and is residing away from him for justified reasons and the respondents is not maintaining her and she has no source of income and therefore she is entitled to receive maintenance from the husband.

12. So far as the amount of maintenance is concerned, on the basis of undisputed facts that the respondents is a Technician in HAL Kanpur where he is getting Rs.15,000/- per month and therefore learned trial court has held that the claimant/Poonam Devi is entitled to get Rs.4,000/- per month maintenance amount from the husband/Narendra Kumar, I do not find any illegality in the order impugned. The same is in conformity with the law however, considering the fact that the maintenance application remained pending since 2004, therefore, I am of the opinion that the claimant is entitled to a cost of Rs.15000/- as the expenses which has been incurred by her during these eight years while contesting this case before the trial court. Learned trial court has awarded Rs.15,00/- per month maintenance from the date of filing of the application and Rs.4,000/- per month from the date of the order to be paid to the claimant by the respondents.

13. So far as awarding the maintenance amount from the date of the application filed under Section 125 Cr.P.C. is concerned, it would be apt to mention here that Hon'ble Supreme Court in Rajnesh Vs. Neha and another : 2020 SCC Online SC 903, has held in paragraph-10 that the maintenance has to be awarded from the date of application. The relevant part of the judgment is reproduced as under :-

"IV Date from which Maintenance to be awarded

There is no provision in the HMA with respect to the date from which an Order of maintenance may be made effective. Similarly, Section 12 of the D.V. Act, does not provide the date from which the maintenance is to be awarded.

Section 125(2) Cr.P.C. is the only statutory provision which provides that the Magistrate may award maintenance either from the date of the order, or from the date of application. [K. Sivaram vs. K. Mangalamba and others: 1989(1) APLJ (HC) 604].

In the absence of a uniform regime, there is a vast variance in the practice adopted by the Family Courts in the country, with respect to the date from which maintenance must be awarded. The divergent views taken by the Family Courts are : first, from the date on which the application for maintenance was filed; second, the date of the order granting maintenance; third, the date on which the summons was served upon the respondent.

(a) From date of application

The view that maintenance ought to be granted from the date when the application was made, is based on the rationale that the primary object of maintenance laws is to protect a deserted wife and dependant children from destitution and vagrancy. If maintenance is not paid from the date of application, the party seeking maintenance would be deprived of sustenance, owing to the time taken for disposal of the application, which often runs into several years.

The Orissa High Court in Susmita Mohanty v Rabindra Nath Sahu, 1996(I) OLR 361 held that the legislature intended to provide a summary, quick and comparatively inexpensive remedy to the neglected person. Where a litigation is prolonged, either on account of the conduct of the opposite party, or due to the heavy docket in Courts, or for unavoidable reasons, it would be unjust and contrary to the object of the provision, to provide maintenance from the date of the order.

In Kanhu Charan Jena v. Smt. Nirmala Jena, 2001 Cri L.J. 879, the Orissa High Court was considering an application u/S. 125 Cr.P.C., wherein it was held that even though the decision to award maintenance either from the date of application, or from the date of order, was within the discretion of the Court, it would be appropriate to grant maintenance from the date of application. This was followed in Arun Kumar Nayak v Urmila Jena, (2010) 93 AIC 726 (Ori) wherein it was reiterated that dependents were entitled to receive maintenance from the date of application.

The Madhya Pradesh High Court in Krishna Jain v Dharam Raj Jain, 1993 (2) MPJR 63 held that a wife may set up a claim for maintenance to be granted from the date of application, and the husband may deny it. In such cases, the Court may frame an issue, and decide the same based on evidence led by parties. The view that the "normal rule" was to grant maintenance from the date of order, and the exception was to grant maintenance from the date of application, would be to insert something more in Section 125(2)Cr.P.C., which the Legislature did not intend. Reasons must be recorded in both cases. i.e. when maintenance is awarded from the date of application, or when it is awarded from the date of order.

The law governing payment of maintenance u/S. 125 Cr.P.C. from the date of application, was extended to HAMA by the Allahabad High Court in Ganga Prasad Srivastava v Additional District Judge, Gonda & Ors.51 The Court held that the date of application should always be regarded as the starting point for payment of maintenance. The Court was considering a suit for maintenance u/S. 18 of HAMA, wherein the Civil Judge directed that maintenance be paid from the date of judgment. The High Court held that the normal inference should be that the order of maintenance would be effective from the date of application. A party seeking maintenance would otherwise be deprived of maintenance due to the delay in disposal of the application, which may arise due to paucity of time of the Court, or on account of the conduct of one of the parties. In this case, there was a delay of seven years in disposing of the suit, and the wife could not be made to starve till such time. The wife was held to be entitled to maintenance from the date of application / suit.

The Delhi High Court in Lavlesh Shukla v Rukmani, Crl. Rev. Pet. No. 851/2019, decided by the Delhi High Court vide order dated 29.11.2019, held that where the wife is unemployed and is incurring expenses towards maintaining herself and the minor child / children, she is entitled to receive maintenance from the date of application. Maintenance is awarded to a wife to overcome the financial crunch, which occurs on account of her separation from her husband. It is neither a matter of favour to the wife, nor any charity done by the husband.

(b) From the date of order

The second view that maintenance ought to be awarded from the date of order is based on the premise that the general rule is to award maintenance from the date of order, and grant of maintenance from the date of application must be the exception. The foundation of this view is based on the interpretation of Section 125(2) Cr.P.C. which provides :

"(2) Any such allowance for the maintenance or interim maintenance and expenses for proceeding shall be payable from the date of the order, or, if so ordered, from the date of the application for maintenance or interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be."

The words "or, if so ordered" in Section 125 has been interpreted to mean that where the court is awarding maintenance from the date of application, special reasons ought to be recorded. [Bina Devi & Ors. v State of Uttar Pradesh & Ors. (2010) 69 ACC 19]In Bina Devi v State of U.P., (2010) 69 ACC 19, the Allahabad High Court on an interpretation of S.125(2) of the Cr.P.C. held that when maintenance is directed to be paid from the date of application, the Court must record reasons. If the order is silent, it will be effective from the date of the order, for which reasons need not be recorded. The Court held that Section 125(2) Cr.P.C. is prima facie clear that maintenance shall be payable from the date of the order.

The Madhya Pradesh High Court in Amit Verma v Sangeeta Verma & Ors. C.R.R. No. 3542/2019 decided by the Madhya Pradesh High Court vide Order dated 08.1.2020, directed that maintenance ought to be granted from the date of the order.

(c) From the date of service of summons

The third view followed by some Courts is that maintenance ought to be granted from the date of service of summons upon the respondent.

The Kerala High Court in S. Radhakumari v K.M.K. Nair, AIR 1983 Ker 139, was considering an application for interim maintenance preferred by the wife in divorce proceedings filed by the husband. The High Court held that maintenance must be awarded to the wife from the date on which summons were served in the main divorce petition. The Court relied upon the judgment of the Calcutta High Court in Samir Banerjee v Sujata Banerjee, 70 CWN 633, and held that Section 24 of the HMA does not contain any provision that maintenance must be awarded from a specific date. The Court may, in exercise of its discretion, award maintenance from the date of service of summons.

The Orissa High Court in Gouri Das v Pradyumna Kumar Das, 1986 (II) OLR 44, was considering an application for interim maintenance filed u/S. 24 HMA by the wife, in a divorce petition instituted by the husband. The Court held that the ordinary rule is to award maintenance from the date of service of summons. It was held that in cases where the applicant in the maintenance petition is also the petitioner in the divorce petition, maintenance becomes payable from the date when summons is served upon the respondent in the main proceeding.

In Kalpana Das v Sarat Kumar Das, AIR 2009 Ori 133, the Orissa High Court held that the wife was entitled to maintenance from the date when the husband entered appearance. The Court was considering an application for interim maintenance u/S. 24 HMA in a petition for restitution of conjugal rights filed by the wife. The Family Court awarded interim maintenance to the wife and minor child from the date of the order. In an appeal filed by the wife and minor child seeking maintenance from the date of application, the High Court held that the Family Court had failed to assign any reasons in support of its order, and directed :

"9. ?Learned Judge. Family Court has not assigned any reason as to why he passed the order of interim maintenance w.e.f. the date of order. When admittedly the parties are living separately and prima facie it appears that the Petitioners have no independent source of income, therefore, in our view order should have been passed for payment of interim maintenance from the date of appearance of the Opposite Party-husband?"

Discussion and Directions

The judgments hereinabove reveal the divergent views of different High Courts on the date from which maintenance must be awarded.

Even though a judicial discretion is conferred upon the Court to grant maintenance either from the date of application or from the date of the order in S. 125(2) Cr.P.C., it would be appropriate to grant maintenance from the date of application in all cases, including Section 125 Cr.P.C. In the practical working of the provisions relating to maintenance, we find that there is significant delay in disposal of the applications for interim maintenance for years on end. It would therefore be in the interests of justice and fair play that maintenance is awarded from the date of the application.

ourt held that the entitlement of maintenance should not be left to the uncertain date of disposal of the case. The enormous delay in disposal of proceedings justifies the award of maintenance from the date of application. In Bhuwan Mohan Singh v Meena, (2015) 6 SCC 353, this Court held that repetitive adjournments sought by the husband in that case resulted in delay of 9 years in the adjudication of the case. The delay in adjudication was not only against human rights, but also against the basic embodiment of dignity of an individual. The delay in the conduct of the proceedings would require grant of maintenance to date back to the date of application.

The rationale of granting maintenance from the date of application finds its roots in the object of enacting maintenance legislations, so as to enable the wife to overcome the financial crunch which occurs on separation from the husband. Financial constraints of a dependant spouse hampers their capacity to be effectively represented before the Court. In order to prevent a dependant from being reduced to destitution, it is necessary that maintenance is awarded from the date on which the application for maintenance is filed before the concerned Court.

In Badshah v Urmila Badshah Godse (2014) 1 SCC 188, the Supreme Court was considering the interpretation of Section 125 Cr.P.C. The Court held :

"13.3. purposive interpretation needs to be given to the provisions of Section 125 CrPC. While dealing with the application of a destitute wife or hapless children or parents under this provision, the Court is dealing with the marginalised sections of the society. The purpose is to achieve "social justice" which is the constitutional vision, enshrined in the Preamble of the Constitution of India. The Preamble to the Constitution of India clearly signals that we have chosen the democratic path under the rule of law to achieve the goal of securing for all its citizens, justice, liberty, equality and fraternity. It specifically highlights achieving their social justice. Therefore, it becomes the bounden duty of the courts to advance the cause of the social justice. While giving interpretation to a particular provision, the court is supposed to bridge the gap between the law and society."

It has therefore become necessary to issue directions to bring about uniformity and consistency in the Orders passed by all Courts, by directing that maintenance be awarded from the date on which the application was made before the concerned Court. The right to claim maintenance must date back to the date of filing the application, since the period during which the maintenance proceedings remained pending is not within the control of the applicant."

14. From the aforesaid dictum, it transpires that controversy in this regard has been settled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and it has been directed by Hon'ble Supreme Court that maintenance be awarded from the date on which the application was made before the concerned Court. It was also held by the Apex Court that the right to claim maintenance must date back to the date of filing the application, since the period during which the maintenance proceedings remained pending is not within the control of the applicant. The judgement being retrospective shall apply in this case also. Therefore, a sum of Rs.4,000/- awarded by the learned trial court in favour of the claimant/wife has to be paid by the husband/Narendra Kumar to the claimant/wife from the date of filing of the application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. i.e. w.e.f. 2.8.2004.

15. Accordingly, Criminal Revision No. 136 of 2012 filed by Smt. Poonam Devi is allowed in part. The judgment and order dated 6.3.2012 passed by the trial court is modified to the extent that the husband-Narendra Kumar is directed to pay a sum of Rs. 4,000/- to his wife-Smt. Poonam Devi from the date of application filed under Section 125 Cr.P.C. i.e. w.e.f. 2.8.2004. It is clarified that any amount paid by the husband-Narendra Kumar during pendency of the case under Section 125 Cr.P.C. before the learned trial Court shall be adjusted from the amount payable to Smt. Poonam Devi.

16. So far as the enhancement of the maintenance as awarded by the trial Court is concerned, no fresh circumstances have been brought before this Court so as to enhance the maintenance, however, liberty is granted to the claimant/wife to move an application under Section 127 Cr.P.C. for altercation in allowance of maintenance upon proof of change in circumstances such as enhancement of the salary of her husband Narendra Kumar etc. If such application is made, the same shall be decided, expeditiously, by the trial court concerned.

17. So far as plea raised in Criminal Revision No. 176 of 2012 by the husband Narendra Kumar that statement made by the claimant before this Court in the Habeas Corpus writ petition has not been considered by the learned trial court is concerned, the same is not correct as the learned trial court has not only considered the statement of the claimant in the Habeas Corpus writ petition made before this Court but has also considered the statement of the claimant/witness/wife, who has stated that the statement was given as she could not dare to go with her husband and therefore she wanted to go with her uncle.

18. In Habeas corpus writ petition only this much is to be seen whether the detenue has been illegally detained or not. The only interpretation to the statement given by the wife/Poonam Devi before this Court in Habeas Corpus petition can be made that she has not been illegally detained. The learned trial court while considering this statement has simultaneously also considered the conduct of the husband by which he has filed case under Section 9 of the Hindu Marriage Act at Kanpur Family Court and another case under Section 13 Hindu Marriage Act was filed by the husband at Unnao court and has obtained the decree of divorce and has remarried after the decree of divorce and has a girl of 12 months old. All these facts show that learned trial court has rightly held that husband Narendra Kumar wanted to get rid of the claimant/wife and all these facts have not been stated by him in his examination-in-chief or by means of any other evidence rather the same have come before this Court in his cross examination and therefore has rightly held that the husband has tried to conceal these facts from this court and then considering the conduct of the husband, the trial court has rightly held that the claimant is residing away from the husband for justified reasons and she has been neglected by not paying maintenance and husband had to maintain to her and she is a destitute and has no source of income and therefore she is entitled to get the maintenance from the husband.

19. In view of the forgoing discussion, the Criminal Revision No. 176 of 2012 filed by the husband/Narendra Kumar is dismissed.

CIVIL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 06.06.2022

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SUBHASH VIDYARTHI, J.

Second Appeal No. 169 of 2022

Shantisaran & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
Sadiq Hasan @ Nibbar & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri Dinesh Kumar Mishra, Sri Dinesh Kr. Chaudhary

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri A.Z. Siddiqui

A. Civil Law - Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Section 100 - Scope - Interference when permissible - second appeal would be maintainable only on substantial question of law & it does not lie on question of facts or of law - existence of "a substantial question of law" is a sine qua non for the exercise of the jurisdiction under Section 100 CPC - There are two situations in which interference with findings of fact is permissible - first one is when material or relevant evidence is not considered which, if considered, would have led to an opposite conclusion - second situation is where a finding has been arrived at by placing reliance on inadmissible evidence which if it was omitted, an opposite conclusion was possible. In either of the above situations, a substantial question of law can arise (Para 26)

B. Civil Law - Adverse Possession - for claiming title on the basis of adverse possession, it should be nec vi vec, nec precario, i.e., the possession adverse to the competitor - Whatever may be the intention of a person acquiring title by adverse possession, his adverse possession cannot commence unless he obtains required possession with animus - claim of adverse possession being a hostile assertion involving expressly or impliedly a denial of title of the real owner, the burden is always on the person who asserts such a claim to prove by clear and unequivocal evidence that his possession was hostile to the real owner (Para 23)

C. Civil Law - Evidence - civil suit - Burden of proof - initial burden of proof lies on the plaintiff to prove his claim, but when the plaintiff has discharged his burden by proving that his ownership and possession of the land, the onus shifts on the defendant to prove his possession and how he acquired it - when both the parties have led evidence, the question of burden of proof poses its importance and logical conclusion can be drawn on the basis of the entire evidence placed on record by both the parties (Para 25)

Suit for permanent Injunction - Plaintiff averred that taking advantage of his absence, defendants were trying to interfere in his possession - defendant pleaded that the plaintiff had not been residing in the village for the past about 50 years - the site came in possession of the answering defendants & that they were in possession of the land in dispute - Appellate court framed the issue as to whether defendants proved their right over the land in dispute through adverse possession? – first appellate court recorded a finding that the disputed land was in use and possession of the plaintiff till time he shifted to Balrampur City - possession of the defendants in absence of the plaintiff casually and occasionally cannot be recognized as adverse to plaintiff due to want of his knowledge - it is not defendants case that they entered into possession of the land in a hostile manner in the knowledge of the plaintiff – defendants failed to plead and prove as to when did they enter into possession of the land and what was the nature of their possession - defendants failed to prove by clear and unequivocal evidence that their possession is hostile to real owner, i.e. plaintiff - Held - findings of the First Appellate Court are based upon a thorough and proper examination and scrutiny of the entire evidence available on record and same cannot said to be perverse, so as to warrant interference under Section 100 of the Civil Procedure Code (Para 17, 18, 21, 25)

Some Bamboo, Mango, Shisham and Neem trees had also been planted on the aforesaid land by the plaintiff, which are still existing thereon. Three huts were existing on the land in dispute, which were being used by the plaintiff's father and were in his possession. The defendants cut down and sold away some bamboos from the plaintiff's land and the plaintiff had lodged a first information report in police station-Maharajganj complaining about the aforesaid offence. At the time of filing of the suit the plaintiff was aged about 90 years and he used to reside in the Balrampur City and he used to visit the land in question occasionally. Taking advantage of the plaintiff's absence, the defendants were trying to interfere in the possession of the plaintiff over the land in question and for this reason he filed a suit claiming permanent injunction.

4. The defendant nos. 3, 5 to 12 and 14 filed a written statement, inter alia, stating that the description of the land in question given at the foot of the plaint is not correct and the defendants gave a site plan of the land in question, which according to them was correct. They pleaded that the plaintiff had not been residing in the village for the past about 50 years. When he used to reside in the village, a hut of the plaintiff existed on the land in question and when he started cultivation through other persons his hut also fell down and the site thereof came in possession of the answering defendants. The defendants stated that they were in possession of the land in dispute, therefore, the suit for permanent injunction was not maintainable.

5. During pendency of the suit, the plaintiff Amir Hasan died and his sons - the Respondents no. 1 and 2 in this Second Appeal, were substituted as plaintiffs in his place.

6. The following issues had been framed by the learned trial Court: -

1- Whether the plaintiff is the owner and in possession of the land in dispute, if yes, then whether the plaintiff is entitled to get the decree of perpetual injunction as

2- Whether the trees etc. existing on the land in disputed had been planted by the plaintiff, if yes, then its effect?

3- Whether the plaintiff is entitled to any other relief?

7. The plaintiff as well as the defendants had led evidence and after considering the entire evidence placed by the parties, the learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Balrampur decided the suit holding that the plaintiffs could not prove their possession and ownership over the land in dispute. The plaint does not mention any boundaries of the land in question and the land cannot be identified by its description given in the plaint. The learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Balrampur dismissed the suit filed by the plaintiffs for the aforesaid reasons.

8. The substituted plaintiffs challenged the aforesaid judgment and decree dated 24.07.2018 by filing an appeal under Section 96 of the Civil Procedure Code in the court of the learned District Judge, Balrampur and the aforesaid appeal has been allowed by means of the judgment and decree dated 30.04.2022. The aforesaid judgment and decree dated 30-04-2022 has been challenged by the instant second appeal only the defendant no. 2, 6/1 and 14 and rest of the defendants have been arrayed as proforma respondents in the Second Appeal.

9. While deciding the first appeal, the learned appellate court framed the following two points for determination in the appeal: -

(i) Whether the disputed land is owned and possessed by the plaintiff?

(ii) Whether the defendants have proved their right over the land in dispute through adverse possession?

10. The learned District Judge has held that the plaintiff has stated that the disputed land is owned and possessed by the plaintiff, the construction existing on the land were raised by the plaintiff and that he had planted the trees and bamboos on the said land. The defendants pleaded that the plaintiff was in possession over the land about 50 years ago and hut of the plaintiff existed there but the same has been destroyed and the land in question came into possession of the defendants. The trees and bamboos existing on the land have been claimed to be planted by the defendants.

11. After examining the statement of the witnesses, the learned Appellate Court held that all the witnesses examined on behalf of the plaintiff, namely, P.W.1 Jamal Ahmad, P.W.2 Sadiq Hasan, P.W.3 Ramhet, P.W.4 Mohammad Ali, P.W.5 Shamshulla and P.W.6 Sagir Ahmad had supported the plaint version and all of them have specifically stated that the disputed land along with construction and trees existing over it, is owned and possessed by the plaintiff. No material contradiction arose during examination of the plaintiff's witnesses. The learned First Appellate Court further observed that the defendants' witnesses, namely, D.W. 1, Shanti Saran (the Appellant No. 1 in the Second Appeal) in para 4 D.W. 2 Ganga Prasad in para 5, D.W. 3 Rajendra Prasad in para 4 and 5, D.W. 4 Nanake in para 7 and D.W. 5 Salik Ram in paras 4 and 5 of their respective affidavits filed as their examination-in-chief, had categorically stated that the hut on the land in question had been constructed by the plaintiff and subsequently the plaintiff left the village and started cultivation on his field through other persons.

12. The learned court below came to a conclusion that on the basis of the evidence led by both the parties, it appears that the dispute arose because of absence of the plaintiff from the village for a long period of time through which period the plaintiff used to visit the village casually and occasionally while residing at Balrampur City. In such circumstances, the land in dispute would have been used by the defendants casually and occasionally in absence of the plaintiff or his legal representatives/ successors after his demise. The First Appellate Court has recorded in the judgment under challenge that D.W. 4, Nanake has stated in his cross examination that he has been told by his father that the disputed land / property was owned and possessed by the plaintiff, Late Amir Hasan during his life time and the cowshed etc. existing on the said land was constructed by him.

13. The learned First Appellate Court has held that the law is well settled that when the both the parties have led evidence, the burden to proof looses its significance, the court has to draw a conclusion on the basis of the entire evidence placed on record by both the parties. The evidence adduced by both the parties is sufficient to prove that the disputed land was in use and possession of the plaintiff till the time he shifted to Balrampur City.

14. The learned court below held that lodging of first information report by the plaintiff in the year 1987 regarding theft of bamboo planted on the land in dispute shows that the plaintiff had reacted against the interference by the defendants upon his land and that possession of the defendants in absence of the plaintiff casually and occasionally cannot be recognized as adverse to plaintiff due to want of his knowledge. The defendants have failed to prove by clear and unequivocal evidence that their possession is hostile to real owner, i.e. plaintiff.

15. The learned court below held that the trial court has failed to appreciate the evidence of the parties correctly and it had dismissed the suit filed by the plaintiff wrongly and that the suit deserves to be decreed, as the plaintiff's possession and ownership over the disputed land has been established by the evidence available on the record. The learned first Appellate Court allowed the appeal and decreed the suit on the basis of the aforesaid findings.

16. Assailing the correctness of the aforesaid judgment and decree passed by the learned First Appellate Court, Sri. Dinesh Kumar Mishra, the learned counsel for the defendant - appellants, has firstly submitted that the judgment of the learned First Appellate Court is not sustainable in the eyes of law for the reason that the First Appellate Court has given its own finding of facts without setting aside the finding recorded by the learned trial court.

17. It is settled law that the powers of First Appellate Court are co-extensive with that of the trial court while deciding the suit. A perusal of the judgment passed by the first appellate court indicates that the court has formulated two point for determination - (1) whether the disputed land is owned and possessed by the plaintiff and (2) whether the defendants have proved their right over the land in dispute through adverse possession. The first Appellate Court has proceeded to examine the entire evidence available on record and after examination of the entire evidence, the learned first appellate court has came to a conclusion that the learned trial court has failed to appreciate the evidence led by the parties correctly and has wrongly dismissed the suit filed by the plaintiff. The first appellate court has recorded a finding that the disputed land was in use and possession of the plaintiff till time he shifted to Balrampur City and use of the land by the defendants in absence of the plaintiff cannot be treated as hostile possession of the defendants and it may not be recognized as possession adverse to the plaintiff due to want of his knowledge.

18. While deciding the issue no. 1 as to whether the plaintiff is owner and in possession of the land in dispute, the learned trial court had held that the plaintiff could not prove his possession and ownership on the land in dispute, which had not been sufficiently described in the plaint. After examining the entire evidence available on record, the learned first Appellate Court held that the trial court has failed to appreciate evidence of the parties correctly and that the evidence adduced by the parties is sufficient to prove that the disputed land was in regular use and occupation of the plaintiff till he shifted to Balrampur City and that the defendants could not prove their title by adverse possession, and thus the learned First Appellate Court has in fact reversed the finding of the learned trial court and therefore, there is no force in the submission of the learned Counsel for the appellants that the learned first Appellate Court has allowed the appeal without reversing the finding of the facts recorded by the trial court and it does not give rise to any substantial question of law.

19. The second submission of the learned counsel for the appellants is that the first Appellate Court has erred in law in allowing the appeal only on the basis of the statement of D.W. 4, Nanake, without considering the evidence of the plaintiff's witnesses, who were four in number.

20. As has already been observed that in the preceding paragraphs, the learned First Appellate Court had referred to the statements of the witnesses of the plaintiff, namely, P.W. 1 Jamal Ahmad, P.W. 2

Sadiq Hasan, P.W. 3 Ramhet, P.W. 4 Mohammad Ali, P.W. 5 Shamshulla and P.W. 6 Sagir Ahmad and has also referred to the specific paragraphs of the examination in chief of the defendants' witnesses, namely, D.W. 1 Shanti Saran, D.W. 2 Ganga Prasad, D.W. 3 Rajendra Prasad, D.W. 4 Nanake and D.W. 5 Salik Ram and all of them had stated that they had been informed by their ancestors regarding the hut constructed by the plaintiff Amir Hasan prior to 70-80 years. Therefore, I find myself unable to accept the submission of learned counsel for the appellants that the judgment of the learned first appellate court is based only on the statements of D.W. 4 Nanake.

21. The learned counsel for the appellants next submitted that the First Appellate Court erred in law in allowing the appeal without deciding the point of possession of contesting respondents / plaintiffs. However, as has been noticed in the previous paragraphs of this judgment, the learned First Appellate Court has thoroughly examined the statements of the witnesses produced by the plaintiff as well as by the defendants and after examining the entire evidence available on record, it has held that the disputed land was in regular use and occupation of the plaintiff till he shifted to Balrampur City and occasional use of the land in question by the defendants cannot be treated as hostile possession of the defendants and that the plaintiff was in possession of the land in dispute and the defendants could not show that they dispossessed the plaintiff and entered into the possession of land in dispute.

22. The defendants pleaded that the land in question was originally in possession of the plaintiff and when he started living in Balrampur City, the land came into possession of the defendants, but they did not plead as to how this transfer of possession took place. It is not the case of the defendants that the plaintiff had handed over possession of the land to the defendants and it is also not their case that they entered into possession of the land in a hostile manner in the knowledge of the plaintiff. Therefore, the defendants have not set up a case of adverse possession also.

23. The learned first Appellate Court has relied upon the decisions of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in P. Lakshmi Reddy versus L. Lakshmi Reddy, AIR 1957 314 wherein it was laid down that for claiming title on the basis of adverse possession, it should be nec vi vec, nec precario, i.e., the possession adverse to the competitor. Whatever may be the intention of a person acquiring title by adverse possession, his adverse possession can not commence unless he obtains required possession with animus.. The learned first Appellate Court also relied upon Annasaheb Bapusaheb Patil and others versus Balwant alias Babasaheb Patil (dead) by L.Rs. Etc., AIR 1995 SC 895, in which it was held that the claim of adverse possession being a hostile assertion involving expressly or impliedly a denial of title of the real owner, the burden is always on the person who asserts such a claim to prove by cledar and unequivocal evidence that his possession was hostile to the real owner.

24. In Vishwanath Bapurao Sabale versus Shalinibai Nagappa Sabale and others, (2009) 12 SCC 101, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"20. ... Once he proved his title the onus was on Laxmibai and consequently upon the appellant to prove that they started possessing adversely to the interest of Shivappa. For the purpose of arriving at a finding as to whether the appellant and Laxmibai perfected their title by adverse possession, the relationship of the parties may have to be taken into consideration.

* * *

23. Furthermore for claiming title by adverse possession, it was necessary for the plaintiff to plead and prove animus possidendi. A peaceful, open and continuous possession being the ingredients of the principle of adverse possession as contained in the maxim nec vi, nec clam, nec precario, long possession by itself would not be sufficient to prove adverse possession.

24. In P.T. Munichikkanna Reddy v. Revamma (2007) 6 SCC 23, this Court held: (SCC pp. 71-72, para 23)

"23. It is important to appreciate the question of intention as it would have appeared to the paper-owner. The issue is that intention of the adverse user gets communicated to the paper-owner of the property. This is where the law gives importance to hostility and openness as pertinent qualities of manner of possession. It follows that the possession of the adverse possessor must be hostile enough to give rise to a reasonable notice and opportunity to the paper-owner."

(emphasis in original)"

25. The learned first Appellate Court has held that the law is settled that when both the parties have led evidence, the question of burden of proof poses its importance and logical conclusion can be drawn on the basis of the entire evidence. The law in this regard is that the initial burden of proof lies on the plaintiff to prove his claim, but when the plaintiff has discharged his burden by proving that his ownership and possession of the land, the onus shifts on the defendant to prove his possession and how he acquired it. In the present case, the plaintiff's witnesses as well as those of the defendants. had stated that originally the plaintiff was in possession of the land. Although the defendant / appellant had disputed the plaintiff's claim, they failed to plead and prove as to when did they enter into possession of the land and what was the nature of their possession. In these circumstances, the suit was rightly decreed by the learned first Appellate Court and there is no illegality in it.

26. The scope of interference in a Second Appeal is well settled and it has been reiterated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in S. Subramanian v. S. Ramasamy, (2019) 6 SCC 46 in the following words: -

"7.3. As per a catena of the decisions of this Court, while deciding the second appeal under Section 100 CPC, the High Court is not required to reappreciate the entire evidence on record and to come to its own conclusion and the High Court cannot set aside the findings of facts recorded by both the courts below when the findings recorded by both the courts below were on appreciation of evidence. That is exactly what is done by the High Court in the present case while deciding the second appeals, which is not permissible under the law.

7.4. Even otherwise, it is required to be noted that as per a catena of the decisions of this Court and even as provided under Section 100 CPC, the second appeal would be maintainable only on substantial question of law. The second appeal does not lie on question of facts or of law. The existence of "a substantial question of law" is a sine qua non for the exercise of the jurisdiction under Section 100 CPC. As observed and held by this Court in Kondiba Dagadu Kadam3, in a second appeal under Section 100 CPC, the High Court cannot substitute its own opinion for that of the first appellate court, unless it finds that the conclusions drawn by the lower court were erroneous being:

(i) Contrary to the mandatory provisions of the applicable law;

OR

(ii) Contrary to the law as pronounced by the Apex Court;

OR

(iii) Based on inadmissible evidence or no evidence.

It is further observed by this Court in the aforesaid decision that if the first appellate court has exercised its discretion in a judicial manner, its decision cannot be recorded as suffering from an error either of law or of procedure requiring interference in second appeal. It is further observed that the trial court could have decided differently is not a question of law justifying interference in second appeal.

7.5. When a substantial question of law can be said to have arisen, has been dealt with and considered by this Court in Ishwar Dass Jain4. In the aforesaid decision, this Court has specifically observed and held: (SCC p. 437)

"Under Section 100 CPC, after the 1976 Amendment, it is essential for the High Court to formulate a substantial question of law and it is not permissible to reverse the judgment of the first appellate court without doing so. There are two situations in which interference with findings of fact is permissible. The first one is when material or relevant evidence is not considered which, if considered, would have led to an opposite conclusion. The second situation in which interference with findings of fact is permissible is where a finding has been arrived at by the appellate court by placing reliance on inadmissible evidence which if it was omitted, an opposite conclusion was possible. In either of the above situations, a substantial question of law can arise."

27. The findings of the learned First Appellate Court are based upon a thorough and proper examination and scrutiny of the entire evidence available on record and, in any case, the same cannot said to be perverse, so as to warrant interference by this Court in exercise of its powers under Section 100 of the Civil Procedure Code. All the submissions made by the learned Counsel for the defendants / appellants do not give rise to any substantial question of law. I find no good ground for admission of the appeal.

28. Accordingly, the second appeal is dismissed at the admission stage.

29. However, there will be no order as to costs.

CIVIL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 27.06.2022

Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Manoj Misra, Sri Anjani Kumar Mishra, Sri Ashwani K. Mishra, Sri O.P. Lohia, Sri Raghuvansh Misra, Sri Rahul Agarwal, Sri Vageesh Pandey, Sri Vrindavan Mishra

Counsel for the Respondents:
S.C., Sri Narendra Mohan, Sri Anil Sharma (Senior Adv.), Sri R.M. Saggi, Sri P.K. Giri (Addl. C.S.C.)

A. Civil Law - Indian Trust Act, 1882 - Charitable and Religious Trusts Act, 1920 - Charitable Endowment Act, 1890 - 'Tandon Trust' created in the memory of the grandparents of the Authors of the Trust - By judicial order, High court held that the 'Tandon Trust' was not a charitable and religious trust - there was no element of charity in the deed created/executed by the Author of the Trust - thus the provisions of Charitable and Endowments Act, 1890 & and Charitable and Religious Trusts Act, 1920 not applicable - Notification of 1972 will have no bearing upon the status of the trust - judicial order of High Court will prevail over the Administrative Notification issued by the State - Once, the declaration was there, neither the defendants nor the Courts below had the right to disregard it (Para 61, 62, 64, 65)

B. Civil Law - 'Judgment in rem', meaning of - judgment in personam refers to a judgment against a person as distinguished judgment against a thing, right or status and judgment in rem refers to judgment that determines the status or conditions of property which operates directly on the property itself - A declaration of the status is always in rem and not in personam - The relief of declaration is for the world to know about the status of the person in favour of whom the declaration has been made - In the present case, the Court while decreeing the Suit of K.N. Shivpuri declared the status of the 'Tandon Trust', not being a charitable and a religious trust covered under the Act of 1920 - declaration made by the Court as to the status of the trust is to the world at large and not to any particular party in a suit, as it affects people at large - judgment rendered in second appeal was binding on the defendants-respondents even though they were not the party, as the said judgment was in rem (51, 52 53, 54, 55)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rohit Ranjan Agarwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Anil Sharma, learned Senior Counsel, assisted by Sri R.M. Saggi, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri P.K. Giri, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the respondents.

2. This case has a long chequered history. A brief narration of the case is necessary for better appreciation of the case, which are as under:-

3. On 06th June, 1946, Baijnath Tandon, Kedarnath Tandon and Rajnath

Tandon sons of one Lala Lallumal created a trust named "Tandon Trust' in memory of Smt. Hira Devi and Lala Lallumal consisting of immovable properties with the object of encouraging education, culture, study of Hindu Religion, Philosophy and Social Service in order to perpetuate the memory of the grand mother and father of the Authors of the Trust.

4. The Trust consisted of the original nine trustees who were to manage the properties of the Trust. Para 7 provided for the vacancy caused in case of a trustee is removed, the same was to be filled according to the provisions of Indian Trust Act, 1882.

5. On 29.01.1966, two of the trustees, Dr. Govardhan Das Agarwal and Manohar Lal Shahaney applied to the Court of District Judge, Jhansi under Section 3 of the Charitable and Religious Trusts Act, 1920 (hereinafter called as "Act of 1920") claiming the opposite parties, who were the other trustees, to furnish to the Court the full particulars as regards the nature and objects of the Trust, of the value, condition, management and application of all Trust properties, of the income that has arisen from the said property so far, directing Accounts of the Trust properties and money to be taken, examined and audited. The said case was registered as Case No.32 of 1966.

6. In the said Suit, opposite party no.8, Kailash Narain Shivpuri moved an application under Section 5 (3) of the Act of 1920 and gave an undertaking for instituting a suit for declaration before the Civil Court. The District Judge, on 17.08.1968, passed an order staying the proceedings of Case No.32 of 1966 and granted time for filing declaratory suit.

7. Kailash Narain Shivpuri, thereafter, filed an Original Suit No.1268 of 1968 in the Court of Munsif, Jhansi seeking a relief of declaration to the effect that the Trust in Suit (Misc. Case No.32/66-67 of the Court of District Judge, Jhansi) is not one to which the Act, 1920 applies. In the said Suit, both Dr. Govardhan Das Agarwal and Manohar Lal Shahaney, who were the plaintiffs in Case No.32 of 1966 were arrayed as the defendants. The said Suit was contested and the trial Court vide judgment and decree dated 17.05.1971 dismissed the Suit. Against the said judgment, First Appeal No.121 of 1971 was filed by Kailash Narain Shivpuri.

8. During the pendency of the said proceedings, six out of living eight trustees moved an application under Section 4 (1) of the Charitable Endowment Act, 1890 (hereinafter called as "Act of 1890") for including and declaring a trust as Charitable Trust. A Government Notification was made on 07.07.1972 through Treasurer, Charitable Endowment, U.P. including the trust as a Charitable Endowment. Scheme of Administration was drawn and Committee of Management was constituted which was headed by the District Magistrate. The notification was published in the Gazette on 15.07.1972. The Additional District Judge, Jhansi on 05.08.1974 dismissed the appeal filed by Kailash Narain Shivpuri.

9. Against the said judgment, a second appeal being Second Appeal No.2655 of 1974 was preferred. This Court vide judgment dated 21.10.1981 set aside the judgment and decree passed by both the Courts below while allowing the appeal and decreed the Suit filed by Kailash Narain Shivpuri, holding that the Tandon Trust was not the trust for charitable purpose so as to be governed by the provisions of Act of 1920.

10. The judgment rendered by this Court was not challenged by any of the trustee or the State. One of the trustees Kailash Narain Tandon moved an application on 20.09.1990, before the Collector, Jhansi along with copy of the judgment. The Collector, Jhansi sought written opinion of the District Government Counsel (DGC), who on 01.11.1990 opined that the judgment of this Court was final, once it was held that the Trust is not a Charitable and Religious Trust and was a private Trust and the Government Notification of 1972 needs to be amended.

11. Despite, the opinion of the DGC (Civil) when the order was not complied with by the defendants, notice under Section 80 of CPC was served on 01.11.1991 and thereafter, Suit No.11 of 1992 was filed by the present plaintiff-appellant seeking a relief for a decree for declaration to this effect be passed that the vesting order dated 07.07.1972 in respect of the properties of "Tandon Trust', Jhansi vested in defendant no.2 is illegal and without jurisdiction, and the properties of "Tandon Trust' stand divested from defendant no.2 and re-vested in old trustees and continued to be vested in old trustees and their successors as per terms of Trust deed before the Notification, and Trust Committee or Management formed under Scheme of Administration in consequence of vesting order presided over by the District Magistrate, Jhansi has no existence in the eye of law and should be dissolved.

12. Further, relief for permanent injunction restraining the defendant from transacting any business, or dealing with properties of "Tandon Trust' in any manner whatsoever and non-interference in working of old trustees and their successors was also sought. The said Suit was contested by defendants-respondents no.1 to 3 who filed their written statement denying the plaint allegation. The trial Court framed the following issues:-

"1- क्या आदेश दिनांक 7-7-72 जिसके द्वारा टण्डन ट्रस्ट की सम्पत्ति को प्रतिवादी संख्या-2 में निहित किया गया है, अवैध एवं बिना क्षेत्राधिकार है ?

2- क्या वादी की वाद अल्प मूल्यांकित तथा न्यायशुल्क अपर्याप्त है?

3- क्या माननीय उच्च न्यायालय इलाहाबाद द्वारा द्वितीय अपील संख्या-2655/74 में पारित किये गए आदेश प्रतिवादीगण पर बन्धनकारी नही है और राज्य सरकार का आदेश दिनांकित 7-7-72 इससे प्रभावित नही है?

4- क्या चैरीटैबिल एण्ड रिलीजियस ट्रस्ट एक्ट के प्राविधान प्रतिवादी संख्या-3 पर लागू नही होते जैसा कि प्रतिवादपत्र के पैरा 24 में कहा गया है?

6- क्या दावे में दारा-80 सी०पी०सी० की नोटिस की कमी का दोष है?

7- क्या वादी के पूर्वज श्री बैजनाथ टण्डन अन्य ट्रस्टियों के साथ टण्डन ट्रस्ट की सम्पत्ति को ट्रजरार चैरिटैबिल एण्डावमेंट एक्ट 1890 के तहत निहित करने की शासन से प्रार्थना की थी।? यदि हाँ तो प्रभाव?

8- क्या वादी ट्रस्ट सम्पत्ति को क्षति पहुँचाने एवं ट्रस्ट के उद्देश्यों को विफल करने का कार्य कर रहा है?

9- क्या वादी को राजाज्ञा एवं प्रशासन योजना को चुनौती देने का अधिकार नही है?

10- वादी किस अनुतोष को पाने का अधिकारी है?

11- क्या वादीगण का वाद स्टापेल के सिद्धान्तों से बाधित है?

12- क्या वादी कैलाश नारायण एवं उनके पिता श्री बैजनाथ टण्डन ने राजाज्ञा में वर्णित सम्पत्ति को ट्रस्ट की सम्पत्ति स्वीकार किया है? यदि हां तो प्रभाव?

13- क्या वादी का वाद काल बाधित है?

14- क्या कैलाश नारायण टण्डन दावा दायर करते समय काफी वृद्ध थे एवं उन्हें दिखाई नहीं देता था?

16- क्या शासन द्वारा अनुमोदित प्रबन्ध के अन्तर्गत गठित ट्रस्ट कमेटी जो चैरिटेबिल इण्डावमेंट एक्ट के अन्तर्गत बनाई गई, उचित प्रकार से कार्य नहीं कर रही है और क्या शासन द्वारा ट्रस्ट की समस्त चल अचल सम्पत्ति अपने अधिकार में नही ली गई? यदि हां तो प्रभाव?

17- क्या माननीय उच्च न्यायालय द्वारा निगरानी संख्या-1605/77 में दिए गए निर्णय दिनांक 23-4-80 से वादी पाबन्द है तथा प्रस्तुत वाद दायर करने से विवंधित है?

18- क्या उच्च न्यायालय को वाद की सुनवाई की अधिकारिता प्राप्त नही है?"

13. Issue no.1 was in regard to the fact that whether by Notification dated 07.07.1972, the properties of "Tandon Trust' came within the purview of defendant-respondent no.2. Issue no.3 was in regard to the fact that whether the judgment rendered in Second Appeal No.2655 of 1974 by the High Court was binding and affected the Notification dated 07.07.1972 and further issue no.9 was framed to the effect that whether plaintiff can challenge the Government Notification.

14. Issues no.1, 3 and 9 were tried together by the trial Court and it was held that the Notification dated 07.07.1972 could not be challenged in a suit. The Court further held that no benefit of the judgment rendered in second appeal could benefit the plaintiff-appellant. The Suit was dismissed on 30.05.1998. Against the said judgment, Civil Appeal No.65 of 1998 was filed, wherein the lower appellate Court framed following points of determination:-

"मुख्य रूप से निर्धारण के लिए प्रश्न यह है की क्या टंडन ट्रस्ट चैरिटेबिल प्रयोजन का नहीं है और राजाज्ञा दिनांकित 07.07.72 अवैध व बिना क्षेत्राधिकार के है तथा माननीय उच्च न्यायालय की द्वितीय अपील संख्या-2655/74 के आदेश दिनांक 21.10.81का निर्णय उक्त ट्रस्ट पर लागू होता है?"

15. The lower Appellate Court held that the Scheme of Administration made under Section 5 (4) of the Act of 1890 cannot be challenged in the present proceedings and further held that judgment rendered in second appeal was not binding on the defendants-respondents as they were not the party and the said judgment was not in rem and therefore, dismissed the appeal on 17.01.2003. Hence, the present second appeal.

16. This Court, on 23.04.2003, admitted the appeal on following substantial questions of law:-

(i) Whether the Trust which is not Charitable can be governed by the provisions of Charitable Endowment Act, 1890 and,

(ii) Whether the Notification dated 07.07.1972 issued under Section 4 of Charitable Endowment Act, 1890 was void and without jurisdiction?

17. Sri Anil Sharma, learned Senior Counsel submitted that before the Notification dated 07.07.1972, two trustees, namely, Govardhan Das Agarwal and Manohar Lal Shahaney in the year 1966 had moved application under Section 3 of Act, 1920 seeking particulars as regards nature and objects of the Trust. In the said proceedings, another trustee Kailash Nath Shivpuri had objected and moved application under Section 5(3) of the Act of 1920 and the District Judge granted permission to file a suit for declaration. According to him, the suit filed in the year 1968 was categorical to the effect that a declaration was sought that the Trust in Suit/Case No.32/67 is not one to which Charitable and Religious Trusts Act, 1920 applies.

18. Once, the dispute as to the status of the Trust was raised before the Notification, it will have no effect as this Court in Second Appeal No.2655 of 1974 decreed the Suit holding Tandon Trust not to be Trust for charitable purpose on 21.10.1981, and the judgment so rendered was in rem and not in persona.

19. According to Senior Counsel, the declaration by this Court was to the status of the Trust which was in litigation since 1968. Once, it was held to be Trust not covered under the Act of 1920 or 1890, Notification dated 07.07.1972 will have no consequence.

20. He next contended that after the judgment of 1981, request was being made by the trustees to the Collector, Jhansi for divesting the properties of the Trust from the Treasurer and re-vesting it into the old trustees and for dissolution of the Trust Committee. The Collector has also sought the opinion of the DGC, who opined in favour of the plaintiff-appellant on 01.11.1990, but when no action was taken, plaintiff-appellant was left with no option, but to file a Suit for declaration for divesting the properties from defendant no.2 and re-vesting in the old trustees.

21. He further laid emphasis that both the Courts below were not correct to hold that the judgment passed in second appeal was not applicable upon the defendants-respondents in the present case as they were not the party to the Suit. According to him, as the Suit filed by Kailash Nath Shivpuri for the status of the Trust, which was declared to be not covered under the Act of 1920, was a judgment in rem and binding upon the present defendants.

22. Moreover, neither any appeal nor review was filed by the present defendants-respondents against the judgment of 1981 which became final, as it declared the status of the Trust. Further, on the question of limitation, he has relied upon Article 58 of the Limitation Act, which provides limitation for declaratory suit from the date of denial. Reliance has been placed upon the decision of Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in case of Natha Singh and Another Vs. Heet Singh and Ors. AIR 1980 All 358 and Booz-Allen & Hamilton Inc Vs. SBI Home Finance Ltd. and Ors. 2011 (5) SCC 532.

23. Sri P.K. Giri, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the defendants-respondents while defending the judgment passed by Courts below submitted that Suit filed by Kailash Nath Shivpuri was inter se between the trustees and the present defendants were not party to the same. According to him, once the application was moved under Section 4 of the Act of 1890 by six of the trustees and a Notification was made on 07.07.1972, the property of the Trust came within the purview of the Act of 1890 and the relief claimed by the plaintiff cannot be granted.

24. According to the State Counsel, the judgment rendered in second appeal is of the year 1981, while the plaintiff-appellant instituted the Suit in the year 1992 and the same was barred by limitation and no explanation has been afforded as to why there was such delay on his part. He then contended that both the Courts below had rightly recorded the findings that once the State Government notified on 07.07.1972, the said Notification cannot be quashed in a suit proceedings.

25. He lastly contended that the finding recorded in Second Appeal No.2655 of 1974 is not binding as the defendants-respondents were not the party in the Suit, nor the plaintiffs of that Suit, after the Notification, had either amended their Suit or appeal impleading the present defendants as the party. According to him, the said judgment was binding inter se between the parties and not upon the present defendants-respondents. Apart from this, no other argument has been raised from the State side.

26. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record.

27. Before proceeding to consider and decide the substantial questions of law framed above, it would be necessary to have a brief glimpse of Religious Endowments Act, 1863 (hereinafter called as "Act of 1863"), The Indian Trust Act, 1882 (hereinafter called as "Act of 1882"), The Charitable Endowments Act, 1890 (hereinafter called as "Act of 1890") and The Charitable and Religious Trusts Act, 1920 (hereinafter called as "Act of 1920") as well as the definition and meaning of the word "Trust", "Religious Endowment" and "Charitable Endowment."

28. Religious and Charitable Trust exists, in some shape or other, in almost all the civilized countries and their origin can be traced primarily to the instincts of piety and benevolence which are implanted in the human nature. The form and nature of these trusts undoubtedly defer according to spiritual and moral ideas of different nations, and even among the same people, ideas are seen to vary.

29. In Tagore Law Lectures, His Lordship Justice B.K. Mukherjea traced the concepts of Religious and Charitable Trust from the days of Roman Empire till the present time. He wrote that Imperial Rome under the Christian Emperors was dissimilar in many respects to Pagan Rome, and the religious and charitable institutions in England undoubtedly took a different shape when she abjured, Catholicism and became Protestant. The popular Hindu religion of modern times is not the same as religion of the Vedas though the latter are still held to be the ultimate source and authority of all that is held sacred by the Hindus.

30. Before proceeding further, it is necessary to have clear idea as to what is meant by the expression "Religious and Charitable Trusts" in its proper juristic sense. For this purpose, a little excursion into the yields of English and Roman law is necessary. A trust would obviously be denominated a religious or charitable trust if it is created for purposes of religion or charity. Two things, therefore, require to be considered in this connection, viz., (I) what are religious and charitable purposes? and (ii) what is a trust?

31. It is well known, "religion" is a matter of faith with individuals and communities, and it is not necessarily theistic (e.g., Buddhism). All that we understand by religious purpose is that the purpose or object is to secure the spiritual well-being of a person or persons according to the tenets of the particular religion which he or they believe in.

32. On the other hand, "Charity" means benevolence and in its wide and popular sense it comprehends all forms of benefit, physical, intellectual, moral, ethical or religious, bestowed upon persons who are in need of them.

33. The conception of word "Trust' was devised by the Chancery Courts in England, which as Courts of Conscience attempted to supply the deficiencies of the English Common Law, by administering what were known as principles of equity and natural justice. These principles were imported to a large extent from the Roman Civil Law.

34. Lewin in his well-known treaties on the Law of Trusts defines "Trust" to be a "confidence reposed in some other, not issuing out of the land, but as thing collateral, annexed in privity to the estate of the land, for which cestui que trust has no remedy, but by Subpoena" (by which an unscrupulous defendant who could not be touched in the common law courts was compelled to appear before an Equity Judge and made to carry out his orders, the proceeding being entirely one i*n persona*m in the Chancery).

35. Trust as understood in English Law were unknown in both Hindu and Muslim jurisprudence. But, Hindus have also Religious Institutions which were governed by their own customs and rites, both public and private. Muslims have also evolved the concepts of Waqf. But, they were strictly governed by Muslims Personal Law.

36. Under the Hindu system, there is no line of demarcation between the religion and charity. On the other hand, charity is regarded as a part of religion. The Hindu religion recognises the existence of life after death and it believes in the law of Karma according to which good or bad deeds of a man produce corresponding results in the life to come.

37. Hindu Religious and Charitable Acts have been from the earliest time classified under two heads viz. Istha and Purtta. The two words are often used conjointly and they are as old as Rigveda.

38. During the British Rule, for the first time, Law relating to Religious Endowments was codified and the Religious Endowments Act, 1863 came into existence. The preamble of the Act is extracted hereasunder:-

"An Act to enable the Government to divest itself of the management of Religious Endowments.

Preamble.--Whereas it is expedient to relieve the Boards of Revenue, and the local Agents, in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal, and the Presidency of Fort Saint George, from the duties imposed on them by Regulation XIX, 1810 (Ben. Reg. 19 of 1810), of the Bengal Code (for the due appropriation of the rents and produce of lands granted for the support of Mosques, Hindu Temples, Colleges and other purposes; for the maintenance and repair of Bridges, Sarais, Kattras, and other public buildings; and for the custody and disposal of Nazul Property or Escheats), and Regulation VII, 1817 (Mad. Reg. 7 of 1817), of the Madras Code (for the due appropriation of the rents and produce of lands granted for the support of Mosques, Hindu Temples and Colleges or other public purposes; for the maintenance and repair of Bridges, Choultries, or Chattrams, and other public buildings; and for the custody and disposal of Escheats), so far as those duties embrace the superintendence of lands granted for the support of Mosques or Hindu Temples and for other religious uses; the appropriation of endowments made for the maintenance of such religious establishments; the repair and preservation of buildings connected therewith, and the appointment of trustees or managers thereof; or involve any connexion with the management of such religious establishments."

39. Thereafter, need was felt for precise legislation relating to trust when the increasing number of European and Eurasian population had to face problems in administering the trust created by them, prior to which they were governed by the Indian Trust Act, 1866. The British Rule enacted the Indian Trust Act, 1882 which was introduced to amend the law relating private trust and trustees. The preamble of the Act of 1882 reads as under:-

"An Act to define and amend the law relating to Private Trusts and Trustees.

Preamble.--WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend the law relating to private trusts and trustees."

40. Likewise, Section 3 defines "Trust" which is extracted as under:-

"3. Interpretation-clause--"trust":--A "trust" is an obligation annexed to the ownership of property, and arising out of a confidence reposed in and accepted by the owner, or declared and accepted by him, for the benefit of another, or of another and the owner:"

41. Subsequently, in the year 1890, it was found that an Act be enforced on the lines of the Act which was in existence in England, wherein an official was appointed who was capable of discharging the function as official trustee of charity lands and official trustee of charitable funds, with this objects, the Charitable Endowments Act, 1890 was enacted. Section 2 of the Act provides for the definition of the word "charitable purpose" which is extracted hereasunder:-

"2. Definition. --In this Act "charitable purpose" includes relief of the poor, education, medical relief and the advancement of any other object of general public utility, but does not include a purpose which relates exclusively to religious teaching or worship."

42. Simultaneously, Section 3 provides for the appointment and incorporation of Treasurer of Charitable Endowment. Section 4 provides for the orders vesting property in the Treasurer so appointed under Section 3, whereas Section 5 provides for the Scheme for Administration of property vested in the Treasurer.

43. As the Government at that time found that Act of 1863 was the result of the decision of the Government to divest its officer of all direct Superintendence and control of Religious and Charitable Endowment in India, transferring their function to manager or managing committee and merely making provisions for intervention by the Civil Court on application made by any person interested in a particular institution. This policy, however, did not long remain unchallenged and there was consistent complaint.

44. The Government decided to enact a law, whereby any person interested in a trust may apply a petition to the District Judge for an order directing the trustee to furnish him with information as to nature and objects of trust and of the value, condition, management, and application of the subject matter of the trust, and of the income belonging thereto, or as to any of these matters, and also directing that the accounts of the trust shall be examined and audited.

45. Thus, it came into existence The Charitable and Religious Trusts Act, 1920. Section 3 provided the power to apply to the Court in respect of a trust of a charitable or the religious nature. Section 5 provided the procedure of the petition to be heard. Further, Section 12 provided that no appeal shall lie against any order passed or against any opinion, advice or direction given under the Act.

46. Thus, what culls out from the above is to the nature of a trust or a religious and charitable endowment created under the various statutory provisions of the Act enacted from 1863 to 1920.

47. In the present case, the dispute is in regard to "Tandon Trust" which is alleged to have been created by its Author on 06th June, 1946. The trust deed clearly defines the object, which is of Encouraging Education, Culture, Study of Hindu Philosophy and Social Service in order to perpetuate the memory of the grand mother and father of the Author of the Trust.

48. Clause 7 of the trust deed in clear terms provides that in case of removal of any trustee under the Indian Trust Act, the vacancy so caused will be filled by the provisions of the terms of the Clause No.3 and 4, meaning thereby that the trust under consideration is a private trust and its incorporation and functioning has to be considered under the scope of Act of 1882.

49. This Court in Second Appeal No.2655 of 1974 while deciding as to whether "Tandon Trust' in question was a trust for charitable purpose, so as to be governed by the provisions of the Act of 1920 held it not to be a charitable trust and found it to be out from it's purview. The matter regarding declaring "Tandon Trust' was initiated by one of the original trustee Kailash Narain Shivpuri in the year 1968 after having been granted permission by the District Judge on his application filed under Section 5 (3) of the Act of 1920 in Misc. Case No.32 of 1967.

50. This Court while allowing the appeal of one of the trustees had decreed the Suit No.1268 of 1968, declaring "Tandon Trust' not to be a charitable and religious trust. Once, the character and status of the trust was declared by this Court, which remained unchallenged by the present defendants-respondents since 1981, cannot change the nature and hold the same to be guided by the Act of 1920 on the strength of Government Notification dated 07.07.1972 published in Gazette on 15.07.1972.

51. As this Court, on 21.10.1981, having decreed the Suit of 1968, the declaration as to the status will be from the date of institution of the Suit and not from the pronouncement of the judgment. Moreover, the judgment rendered on 21.10.1981 was a judgment in rem, as it declared the status of the trust, and not in personam as claimed by the defendants-respondents and held by the Courts below.

52. A declaration of the status is always in rem and not in personam. The relief of declaration is for the world to know about the status of the person in favour of whom the declaration has been made.

53. In Booz-Allen & Hamilton Inc. (Supra), the Apex Court held that a right in rem is a right exercisable against the world at large as contrasted from the right in personam which is an interest protected solely against specific individuals. Actions in personam referred to actions determining the rights and interests of the parties themselves in the subject matter of the case, whereas actions in rem referred in actions determining the title of property and rights of the parties, not merely among themselves, but also against all persons at any time claiming an interest in that property.

54. Correspondingly, the judgment in personam refers to a judgment against a person as distinguished judgment against a thing, right or status and judgment in rem refers to a judgment that determines the status or conditions of property which operates directly on the property itself.

55. In the present case, the Court while decreeing the Suit of K.N. Shivpuri had declared the status of the "Tandon Trust', not being a charitable and a religious trust covered under the Act of 1920. The declaration made by the Court as to the status of the trust is to the world at large and not to any particular party in a suit, as it affects people at large.

56. Once, the declaration was made of status and nature of the trust in 1981 decreeing the Suit of 1968, the subsequent Notification of 1972 lost its relevance and only needed a consequential order from the Collector for getting the same denotified.

57. The argument of the State counsel that the present Suit filed in the year 1992 was time barred and further, the State was not a party in the Suit of 1968 has no legs to stand, as once the declaration was made, the subsequent Suit filed claiming relief of divesting the property from the defendants cannot be said to be time barred as neither the State nor the defendants in the Suit of 1968 had challenged the judgment of this Court till date and the status declared by the Court stands as it is.

58. The claim for divesting the property from the realm of defendants cannot be said to be time barred, once the property has been declared to be non-religious and non-charitable and being a private trust. The defendants continue over the same as an illegal occupants and cannot claim right to continue on the ground of limitation.

59. Moreover, the DGC (Civil) had given his opinion on 01.11.1990 being Paper No.27-C-1/156/12 that the Notification of 1972 be amended, but still the defendants continued defying the judgment rendered in the second appeal on 21.10.1981.

60. Both the Courts below wrongly held that the Notification dated 07.07.1972 cannot be challenged and quashed in the present proceedings, as the only relief sought by the plaintiff-appellant was to the extent of divesting the property from the defendants and re-vesting the same in the plaintiff-appellant on the basis of the judgment dated 21.10.1981. Both the Courts below fell into error that once, it was notified in the year 1972 and the property was brought within the ambit of Act of 1920, the Suit was not maintainable at the behest of the appellant ignoring the judgment of this Court dated 21.10.1981.

61. The judgment and order passed by both the Courts below are illegal and arbitrary as they have failed to honour and comply the judgment of this Court dated 21.10.1981, declaring the status of the "Tandon Trust'. Once, the declaration was there, the defendants nor the Courts below had the right to dishonour the same.

62. Considering the facts that the "Tandon Trust' created in 1946 having been declared to be a non-religious and non-charitable trust and out of the scope of Act of 1920, the same cannot be governed by the provisions of the Charitable and Endowments Act, 1890, as there was no element of charity in the deed created/executed by the Author of the Trust.

63. Moreover, the distinction has been made clear as to which Trust will fall under the Act of 1863, 1882, 1890 and 1920. Thus, the first substantial question of law framed stands answered in negative i.e. in favour of the appellant and against the defendants-respondents.

64. Once, it is held that the "Tandon Trust' is not a charitable and religious trust and the provisions of the Act of 1890 is not applicable in view of the judgment dated 21.10.1981, and the status of the trust having been declared by this Court decreeing the Suit of 1968, the Notification dated 07.07.1972 will not be applicable upon the trust bringing it within the ambit of the Act of 1920.

65. Once, the status of the trust having been declared by this Court and the same having been remained unchallenged by the defendants-respondents, the Notification of 1972 will have no bearing of it upon the status of the trust, as the trust has been declared out of the purview of the Act of 1890 and 1920 by a judicial order of this Court and will prevail over the Administrative Notification issued by the State on 07.07.1972 published in Gazette on 15.07.1972. Thus, the second substantial question of law stands answered i.e. in favour of the appellant and against the defendants-respondents. Thus, both the substantial questions of law as framed stand answered.

66. Having considered material on record, this Court finds that the judgments and decree passed by both the Courts below are illegal and arbitrary and cannot be sustained in the eye of law and are thus, set aside.

63. The Second Appeal stands allowed.

64. The Suit of the plaintiff-appellant being Suit No.11 of 1992 stands decreed.

65. Office to transfer back the records of the Courts below.

First Appeal From Order No. 51 of 2018

The National Insurance Co. Ltd.
...Appellant
Versus
Vishram & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Anil Srivastava

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri Jagat Pal Singh, Sri Maneesh Pandey

A. Civil Law - Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 - Computation of Compensation - Just compensation - Rule 220-A(4) of the Rules, 1998 - if a statutory instrument affords greater or better benefits, said statutory instrument shall operate and the norms laid down by different judicial precedents shall not limit the operation of such statutory instrument - statutory instrument shall prevail over the norms laid down by judicial precedents only to the extent it gives greater or better benefit than the judicial precedents - If the norms laid down by judicial pronouncements give greater or better benefit than the formula devised by the statutory instrument, the judicial precedents shall prevail over the statutory instrument (Para 34)

B. Civil Law - Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 - Section 173 - Delay in F.I.R. - mere delay in registering a First Information Report regarding the accident cannot be a ground to doubt the case of the claimants - if there was no indication of fabrication or concoction to implicate innocent persons then, even if there was a delay in lodging the First Information Report, the claim case cannot be dismissed merely on the ground of delay in lodging the F.I.R. –

Accident occurred on 22.12.2014 - injured admitted in the Trauma Centre in K.G.M.U. on 22.12.2014 itself - injured died on 6.1.2015 - Held - family of the deceased was occupied in the treatment of the deceased - case of the claimants cannot be rejected only on the ground that the First Information Report was registered nine days after the incident (Para 10)

C. Civil Law - Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 - Evidence - Proof - Preponderance of probability - claimants are required to establish their case on the touchstone of preponderance of probability and the standard of proof beyond reasonable doubt is not applied while inquiring into the case

Accident proved by the testimony of eyewitness of the incident (P.W. – 2) - charge-sheet filed by the police against the driver of the offending vehicle - Post mortem report indicates that death occurred due to ante-mortem injuries and the nature of the injuries shows that the same were caused in an accident - evidence on record proves that Sushil was injured in the accident that took place due to rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle and subsequently died due to the injuries caused in the accident (Para 14)

Testimony of P.W. - 2 cannot be rejected merely on the ground that the date of admission of the deceased in the Trauma Centre as stated by P.W. – 1 (wife of deceased) and P.W. - 2 is different from the date of his admission in the Trauma Centre as recorded in the discharge slip - P.W. - 2 who got the deceased admitted in Trauma Centre was not cross-examined by the opposite parties regarding the entries in the discharge slip (Para 11)

Insurance counsel argued that the site plan falsifies the testimony of P.W. - 2 - P.W. - 2 stated that the accident occurred in front of Bajrang Hospital while the site plan shows that the accident occurred in front of Heera Complex – Held - both Heera Complex and Bajrang Hospital are adjacent to the road on which the accident took place - not much importance is to be given to the difference between the statement of P.W. - 2 and the site plan regarding location of different buildings (Para 11)

D. Civil Law - Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 - Computation of Compensation - Notional Income - Deceased worked as a Loader with Usha Company and with private traders and earned Rs.9,000/- per month - said fact testified by P.W. – 1 - there is no document on record to prove the income of the deceased - Tribunal has computed the compensation payable to the claimants on the notional income of the deceased as Rs.100/- per day - Held - it would be just to treat the notional income of the deceased as Rs. 200/- per day, i.e., Rs 6,000/- per month (Para 20)

E. Civil Law - Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 - Computation of Compensation - compensation is to be determined on notional income of the deceased which in turn, is to be determined on the minimum wages of an unskilled labour and as the deceased was 24 years old, therefore, in accordance with the Rules, 1998, 50% has to be added as future prospects in his notional income while determining the multiplicand (Para 38)

F. Civil Law - Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 - Computation of Compensation - deductions towards personal and living expenses of the deceased - Father – Held - subject to evidence to the contrary, father was likely to have his own income and would not be considered to be a dependent - claimants have not filed any evidence to show that the father of the deceased had no income of his own - only the mother, the wife and the minor son of the deceased shall be considered his dependent for deciding the deductions to be made towards personal and living expenses of the deceased (Para 21)

Rule 220-A(4) of the Rules, 1998 identifies 'loss of love and affection' and 'loss of consortium' as separate categories of non-pecuniary damages - Loss of love and affection at the rate of Rs.50000 to each of the claimants - Loss of spousal consortium to opposite wife of deceased Rs.40,000 - Loss of filial consortium to parents of deceased i.e. Rs.40,000 to each of the claimants (Para 42)

Allowed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Salil Kumar Rai, J.)

1. The above First Appeal From Orders have been filed under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as, "Act, 1988') against the judgment and award dated 30.5.2016 passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Lucknow in Motor Accident Claim Petition No. 99 of 2015. First Appeal From Order No. 817 of 2016 has been filed by the National Insurance Company Ltd., Lucknow (hereinafter referred to as, "Insurance Company') for setting-aside the award dated 30.5.2016 while First Appeal From Order No. 51 of 2018 has been filed by the claimants for enhancement of compensation. The appellant in First Appeal From Order No. 817 of 2016 shall hereinafter be referred as the Insurance Company in the present appeal. The opposite party nos. 1 to 4 in First Appeal From Order No. 817 of 2016 shall hereinafter be referred as the claimants in the present appeal, the opposite party no. 5 in First Appeal From Order No. 817 of 2016 is the owner of the vehicle and shall hereinafter be referred as owner of the offending vehicle and opposite party no. 6 is the driver of the offending vehicle and shall hereinafter be referred as driver of the offending vehicle in the present judgment.

2. The facts of the case are that Motor Accident Claim Petition No. 99 of 2015 was instituted by the claimants claiming a compensation of Rs.22,00,000/- for the death of Sushil (hereinafter referred to as, "the deceased') due to the injuries caused in the accident which allegedly took place due to rash and negligent driving of Bus No. U.P. 32 C.N. - 4757 (hereinafter referred to as, "offending vehicle'). The accident took place on 22.12.2014 at 7:50 a.m. In the claim petition, the accident was alleged to have occurred in front of Bajrang Hospital. The case of the claimants is that on 22.12.2014 the deceased was going on a bicycle to join his duties in Usha Company and, at 7:50 a.m. when he was in front of Bajrang Hospital, the offending vehicle hit the bicycle from the front causing injuries to the deceased who subsequently died on 6.1.2015 due to the injuries caused in the accident. It has been stated by the claimants that the deceased was initially admitted in Bajrang Hospital who after giving first aid to the deceased referred him to Trauma Centre in King George Medical University, Lucknow (hereinafter referred to as, "K.G.M.U.') where the deceased died on 6.1.2015. According to the claimants, the deceased was admitted in the K.G.M.U. on 22.12.2014 itself. A First Information Report registering Case Crime No. 476 of 2014 under Sections 279, 338 and 427 of the Indian Penal Code was also registered against the driver of the offending vehicle on 31.12.2014. It is the case of the claimants that the deceased was working as a Loader in Usha Company as well as for certain private traders and earned Rs.9,000/- per month. On the aforesaid pleas, the claimants claimed a compensation of Rs.22,00,000/- for the death of the deceased. The opposite party no. 1 / claimant no. 1 is the father of the deceased, opposite party no. 2 / claimant no. 2 is the mother of the deceased, opposite party no. 3 / claimant no. 3 is the wife of the deceased and opposite party no. 4 / claimant no. 4 is the minor son of the deceased. Opposite party no. 4 was one year old at the time of accident.

3. The owner and the driver of the vehicle filed their written statements denying the incident and the involvement of the offending vehicle in the accident and also denied the allegation that Sushil died due to any injuries caused in the accident. The case of the owner and the driver of the vehicle was that on the date of accident, the offending vehicle was not plying on the route on which the accident occurred. It was additionally pleaded by the owner and the driver of the vehicle that at the time of accident, the vehicle was insured with the Insurance Company and the driver of the vehicle had a valid driving licence. The Insurance Company, i.e., the appellant also filed its written statement denying the incident and the involvement of the offending vehicle in the accident and additionally pleaded that there was contributory negligence on the part of the deceased in the accident.

4. In Motor Accident Claim Petition No. 99 of 2015, the Tribunal framed five Issues. Issue No. 1 was regarding the factum of accident and the involvement of the offending vehicle in the accident. Issue No. 2 was as to whether there was any contributory negligence on the part of the deceased in causing the accident, Issue No. 3 was as to whether at the time of accident, the driver of the offending vehicle had a valid driving licence. Issue No. 4 was as to whether at the time of accident, the offending vehicle was insured with the Insurance Company. Issue No. 5 was regarding the amount of compensation payable to the claimants and the defendant liable to pay the said compensation.

5. In the Tribunal, the opposite party no. 3 / claimant no. 3 deposed as plaintiff witness no. 1 and one Mahesh deposed as plaintiff witness no. 2 for the claimants. In the Tribunal, the claimants filed the First Information Report, the post-mortem report of the deceased, the inquest report, the charge-sheet filed by the police against the driver of the offending vehicle in Case Crime No. 476 of 2014, the discharge certificate of the King George Medical University and the medical receipts showing expenses on the treatment of the deceased. The defendant produced the driver of the offending vehicle as D.W. - 1 and the owner of the vehicle as D.W. - 2 and also filed the route chart of 31st July, 2015 and 27th January, 2016 to show that the offending vehicle did not ply on the route on which the accident took place.

6. The Tribunal decided Issue No. 1 in favour of the claimants relying on the testimony of plaintiff witness nos. 1 and 2 as well as after taking note of the First Information Report and the fact that a charge-sheet had been filed against the driver of the offending vehicle regarding the accident. So far as Issue No. 2 is concerned, the Tribunal after considering the site plan held that there was no contributory negligence by the deceased in causing the accident as the deceased was on the left side of the road when the accident occurred. Issue Nos. 3 and 4 were decided in favour of the owner and the driver of the offending vehicle and it was held by the Tribunal that, at the time of accident, the driver of the offending vehicle had a valid driving licence and the vehicle was insured with the appellant - Insurance Company. So far as Issue No. 5 is concerned, the Tribunal in light of the findings on Issue Nos. 3 and 4 held the Insurance Company liable to indemnify the owner of the vehicle. The Tribunal determined the compensation after taking the notional income of the deceased as Rs. 3,000/- per month and after adding of 50% future prospects in the income of the deceased. The Tribunal deducted 1/4 against personal and living expenses of the deceased and applied a multiplier of 18 holding that the age of the deceased was 24 years. The Tribunal awarded Rs.5,000/- for loss of consortium, loss of love and affection and funeral expenses, in accordance with Rule 220-A (4) of the Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicles Rules, 1998 (hereinafter referred to as, "Rules, 1998') and further Rs.25,078/- for the medical expenses incurred by the claimants on the treatment of the deceased. On the aforesaid, the Tribunal awarded a total compensation of Rs.7,69,078/- as compensation to the claimants with 7% interest from the date of instituting the claim petition till the date of final payment. Hence, the present appeals.

7. It was argued by the counsel for the appellant that the discharge certificate issued by the Medical Officer on duty at King George Medical University showed that the deceased was admitted in the Trauma Centre on 23.12.2014 at 3:15 p.m. It was argued that the aforesaid document which was marked as Paper No. C-4/8 in the Tribunal clearly falsified the testimony of P.W. - 1 and P.W. - 2 that the accident occurred on 22.12.2014 and their testimony regarding the accident was not reliable. It was argued the delay in filing the First Information Report had not been explained by the claimants. It was further argued that the route chart filed by the owner and the driver of the offending vehicle clearly showed that the offending vehicle did not ply on the route on which the accident took place and the allegation of the claimants that the accident took place because of rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle was false. It was further argued that the site plan prepared by the police in Case Crime No. 476 of 2014 showed that the accident happened in front of Heera Complex and not in front of Bajrang Hospital as alleged by the claimants. It was argued that the documentary evidence on record clearly contradicted the case of the claimants. It was further argued that the Tribunal has ignored the aforesaid evidence which went to show that a false case was set-up by the claimants to get compensation and the findings of the Tribunal on Issue No. 1 are contrary to the evidence on record and are liable to be set-aside. It was argued that for the aforesaid reasons, First Appeal From Order No. 817 of 2016 is to be allowed and the award dated 30.5.2016 passed by the Tribunal is to be set-aside.

8. Rebutting the arguments of the counsel for the appellant, the counsel for the claimants has supported the reasons given by the Tribunal in support of its findings and has argued that the accident was proved by the testimony of P.W. - 2, who was an eye-witness to the incident. It was argued that the discharge certificate issued by the Medical Officer of K.G.M.U. did not correctly record the date of admission of the deceased and the fact that the deceased was admitted in K.G.M.U. on 22.12.2014 was proved by other documents available on record, especially Paper Nos. C-24/1 and C-24/2. It was argued that the evidence on record clearly showed that the deceased died due to the injuries caused in the accident which took place because of rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle and there is no error in the findings of the Tribunal on Issue Nos. 1 and 2. It was further argued that the Tribunal has awarded very meager compensation to the deceased and the compensation had to be computed on a notional income of Rs.200/- per day. It was further argued that the Tribunal has awarded very meager amount for loss of consortium and loss of love and affection to the claimants and for the funeral expenses and the Tribunal has not awarded any amount to the claimants for loss of estate. It was argued that the claimants were entitled to separate compensation for loss of consortium and loss of love and affection. It was argued that in the aforesaid circumstances, the compensation is to be enhanced and the award of the Tribunal is to be modified. It was argued that for the aforesaid reasons, First Appeal From Order No. 51 of 2018 is to be allowed and First Appeal From Order No. 817 of 2016 is liable to be dismissed.

9. I have considered the rival submissions of the counsel for the parties and also perused the records.

10. It is settled law that in claim cases registered under the Act, 1988, the claimants are required to establish their case on the touchstone of preponderance of probability and the standard of proof beyond reasonable doubt is not applied while inquiring into the case. Further, in Ravi vs Badrinarayan & Ors. 2011 (4) SCC 693, it was observed that mere delay in registering a First Information Report regarding the accident cannot be a ground to doubt the case of the claimants. It was observed by the Supreme Court that if there was no indication of fabrication or concoction to implicate innocent persons then, even if there was a delay in lodging the First Information Report, the claim case cannot be dismissed merely on that ground and delay in lodging the First Information Report cannot be treated as fatal to the case of the claimants. It is the case of the claimants that the accident occurred on 22.12.2014. The injured died on 6.1.2015. The injured, according to the claimants, was admitted in the Trauma Centre in K.G.M.U. on 22.12.2014 itself. Apparently, the family of the deceased was occupied in the treatment of the deceased. From the said reason, the case of the claimants cannot be rejected only on the ground that the First Information Report was registered nine days after the incident.

11. In his testimony, the plaintiff witness no. 2, who is an eye-witness of the accident, has stated that he and the deceased, were going on their bicycles to join their duties and when they were in front of Bajrang Hospital, the offending vehicle hit the bicycle of the deceased from the front resulting in injuries to Sushil. It has been stated by P.W. - 2 that he initially got Sushil admitted in Bajrang Hospital from where the deceased was referred to Trauma Centre in K.G.M.U. and consequently he got the deceased admitted in Trauma Centre in K.G.M.U. on 22.12.2014 itself. The fact that the injured / deceased was admitted in the Trauma Centre on 22.12.2014 has also been proved by the plaintiff witness no. 1, who is the wife of the deceased. The discharge slip issued by the Medical Officer on duty of K.G.M.U. shows that the deceased was admitted in the Trauma Centre on 23.12.2014. However, Paper No. C-22/15 which is a receipt issued by the Care Diagnostic Private Ltd. shows that the deceased was referred by Doctor Bajrang Hospital on 22.12.2014 and Paper Nos. C-24/1 and C-24/2 also show that the deceased was given medicine by the K.G.M.U. Welfare Society, Lucknow on 22.12.2014 itself. Paper Nos. C-24/1 and C-24/2 indicate that the injured was an In-patient on the date the receipts were issued, i.e., 22.12.2014. Paper Nos. C-24/1 and C-24/2 have not been denied by the defendants and the authenticity of the said documents have not been questioned by the defendants. The Medical Officer on duty who issued the discharge certificate was not examined by either of the parties. There can be many reasons for the entry in the discharge slip showing that the injured was admitted in the Trauma Centre on 23.12.2014. The said entry could be an error caused due to over sight or could be because the deceased may not have been officially admitted on the said date in the Trauma Centre because of shortage of space / beds and may have been admitted on the next date after space / bed was available. It is common knowledge that many times patients are unofficially acommodated in the verandahs and galleries of the hospitals because of shortage of space and beds in the hospitals but are treated by the doctors and are admitted officially only when beds are vacated by the already admitted patients. The aforesaid practice explains the entries in Paper Nos. C-24/1 and C-24/2. It may also be noted that P.W. - 2 who got the deceased admitted in Trauma Centre was not cross-examined by the opposite parties regarding the entries in the discharge slip even though from the cross-examination of P.W. - 1, it appears that the attention of P.W. - 1 was brought to the aforesaid entry in the discharge slip. P.W. - 1 is not an eye-witness of the incident or the fact regarding admission of the injured / deceased in the Trauma Centre on 22.12.2014 and in her testimony, P.W. - 1 has stated that she did not go to K.G.M.U. but has testified that her husband was taken to K.G.M.U. from Bajrang Hospital by P.W. - 2 on the same date. In light of the aforesaid, the testimony of P.W. - 2 cannot be rejected merely on the ground that the date of admission of the deceased in the Trauma Centre as stated by P.W. - 1 and P.W. - 2 is different from the date of his admission in the Trauma Centre as recorded in the discharge slip.

12. It was also argued by the counsel for the appellant that the site plan also falsifies the testimony of P.W. - 2 in as much as in his testimony, the P.W. - 2 has stated that the accident occurred in front of Bajrang Hospital while the site plan shows that the accident occurred in front of Heera Complex. I have perused the site plan prepared by the police in Case Crime No. 476 of 2014 which is part of the paper book submitted by the appellant. A perusal of the site plan shows that both Heera Complex and Bajrang Hospital are adjacent to the road on which the accident took place. Heera Complex is on the north side of the road while Bajrang Hospital is on the south side of the road. The site plan does show that the accident occurred on the north side of the road which is adjacent to Heera Complex. But in light of the locations of Bajrang Hospital and Heera Complex as well as the fact that the injured was immediately shifted to Bajrang Hospital, not much importance is to be given to the difference between the statement of P.W. - 2 and the site plan regarding location of different buildings.

13. The route chart of the offending vehicle filed by the defendant does not by itself disprove the case of the claimants as there is no evidence that the offending vehicle had scrupulously followed the schedule given in the route chart.

14. The accident has been proved by the testimony of P.W. - 2, who is an eye-witness of the incident. A charge-sheet has also been filed by the police against the driver of the offending vehicle in Case Crime No. 476 of 2014. The post-mortem indicates that death occurred due to ante-mortem injuries and the nature of the injuries shows that the same were caused in an accident. In light of the aforesaid, the evidence on record proves that Sushil was injured on 22.12.2014 in the accident that took place due to rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle and subsequently died due to the injuries caused in the accident. The findings of the Tribunal on Issue No. 1 are affirmed.

15. So far as the findings of the Tribunal on Issue No. 2 is concerned, there is no evidence to show any contributory negligence of the deceased. The site plan submitted by the police indicates that the deceased was on the left side of the road. In view of the aforesaid, the findings of the Tribunal on Issue No. 2 are also affirmed.

16. So far as the findings on Issue Nos. 3 and 4 are concerned, the same have not been challenged by the Insurance Company in their present appeal. The policy documents filed by the owner of the vehicle showed that the vehicle was insured with the appellant from 15.10.2014 to 14.10.2015. The accident took place on 22.12.2014. The vehicle was insured with the appellant on the date of accident. Similarly, the driver of the offending vehicle was issued a driving licence on 19.10.2004 which was valid till 18.7.2023. In light of the aforesaid, the findings of the Tribunal on Issue Nos. 3 and 4 are also affirmed.

17. So far as the grant of compensation to the claimants is concerned, the Tribunal has held the age of the deceased as 24 years old. The findings of the Tribunal on the age of the deceased has not been challenged either by the claimants or the appellant. In light of the aforesaid, the compensation has to be computed holding the age of the deceased to be 24 years.

18. It was the case of the claimants that the deceased worked as a Loader with Usha Company and with private traders and earned Rs.9,000/- per month. The said fact has been testified by P.W. - 1. In his testimony, the P.W. - 2 has also stated that the deceased was going with him to join his duty at Usha Company and they were the employees of the contractor engaged by the Usha Company and did the job of a Loader. However, there is no document on record to prove the income of the deceased. The Tribunal has computed the compensation payable to the claimants on the notional income of the deceased as Rs.100/- per day.

19. In New India Assurance Co. Ltd. vs Smt. Resha Devi & Others (2017) 3 ADJ 685, a Division Bench of this Court held that the notional income of an unskilled labour cannot be taken to be less than Rs.200/- per day. The observations of this Court in Paragraph Nos. 9 and 11 are reproduced below :-

"9. The next submission of the learned counsel for the appellant that income of Rs.100/- per day presumed by the tribunal is extremely on higher side is without any force and not liable to be accepted. Tribunal in recording the said claim has relied upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Laxmi Devi and another Vs. Mohammad Tabbar and others, 2008 (2) TAC 394 SC wherein notional income to unskilled labour was presumed to be Rs.100/- per day. Much water has flown since 2008. It is a matter of common knowledge that with the rise in price index, there has been considerable increase in the wages of salaried as well as self employed person. The average income of even a daily labour in 2014 when the accident took place cannot be presumed to be less than Rs.200/- per day*. In our considered opinion, the tribunal committed a manifest error of law in presuming the notional income of the deceased to be Rs.100/- per day.*

10. .....

11. There can be no exact uniform rule for measuring the value of the human life and the measure of damages cannot be arrived at by precise mathematical calculations. Obviously award of damages would depend upon the particular facts and circumstances of the case but the element of fairness in the amount of compensation so determined is the ultimate guiding factor. In such view of the matter, presumption of Rs.100/- per day as notional income even for a unskilled labour in the year 2014 appears to us to be frugal and by no stretch of imagination to be just even the minimum wages fixed by the State Government is much higher than that looking to the rise in cost index. We are of the considered upon that notional income of an unskilled labour could not be less than Rs.200/- per day."

(emphasis added)

20. In the present case, the accident occurred in 2014. Following the judgment of the Division Bench of this Court, it would be just to treat the notional income of the deceased as Rs. 200/- per day, i.e., Rs.6,000/- per month.

21. The opposite party no. 1 / claimant no. 1 is the father of the deceased, opposite party no. 2 / claimant no. 2 is the mother of the deceased, opposite party no. 3 / claimant no. 3 is the wife of the deceased and opposite party no. 4 / claimant no. 4 is the minor son of the deceased. In United India Insurance Company Ltd. vs. Satinder Kaur @ Satwinder Kaur & Ors., 2021 (11) SCC 780, it has been held that "subject to evidence to the contrary, the father was likely to have his own income and would not be considered to be a dependent, hence, the mother alone will be considered to be a dependent.' The claimants have not filed any evidence to show that the father of the deceased had no income of his own. In view of the judgment of the Supreme Court in Satinder Kaur (supra), only the mother, the wife and the minor son of the deceased shall be considered his dependent for deciding the deductions to be made towards personal and living expenses of the deceased. It was held in Sarla Verma (Smt) & Ors. vs Delhi Transport Corporation & Anr. 2009 (6) SCC 121 that where the dependent family members of the deceased are 2 to 3, 1/3 is to be deducted towards personal and living expenses of the deceased. The Tribunal has wrongly deducted 1/4 as personal and living expenses of the deceased on the premise that more than three persons were dependent on the deceased. In view of the aforesaid, 1/3 is to be deducted towards personal and living expenses of the deceased.

22. The deceased was 24 years old and, therefore, according to Sarla Verma (supra), a multiplier of 18 has to be applied while computing the compensation payable to the claimants.

23. In Kirti & Anr. vs Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. 2021 (2) SCC 166, the Supreme Court has held that adding future prospects where compensation is computed on the notional income of the deceased is a component of just compensation. The observations of the Supreme Court in Paragraph Nos. 13 and 39 of the aforesaid judgment are reproduced below :-

"13. Given how both deceased were below 40 years and how they have not been established to be permanent employees, future prospects to the tune of 40% must be paid. The argument that no such future prospects ought to be allowed for those with notional income, is both incorrect in law and without merit considering the constant inflation-induced increase in wages. It would be sufficient to quote the observations of this Court in Hem Raj v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., as it puts at rest any argument concerning non-payment of future prospects to the deceased in the present case:

"7. We are of the view that there cannot be distinction where there is positive evidence of income and where minimum income is determined on guesswork in the facts and circumstances of a case. Both the situations stand at the same footing. Accordingly, in the present case, addition of 40% to the income assessed by the Tribunal is required to be made."

39. Taking the above rationale into account, the situation is quite clear with respect to notional income determined by a court in the first category of cases outlined earlier, those where the victim is proved to be employed but claimants are unable to prove the income before the court. Once the victim has been proved to be employed at some venture, the necessary corollary is that they would be earning an income. It is clear that no rational distinction can be drawn with respect to the granting of future prospects merely on the basis that their income was not proved, particularly when the court has determined their notional income."

24. Thus, the future prospects have to be added in the notional income of the deceased. The deceased was 24 years old. The proportion of the income to be added in the future prospects of the deceased shall be considered subsequently in the judgment. At this stage, it may be noted that 50% has been added by the Tribunal as future prospects in the income of the deceased.

25. It was argued by the counsel for the claimants that the claimants were entitled to separate compensation for loss of consortium as awarded in Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. vs. Nanu Ram 2018 SCC OnLine SC 1546 and also for loss of love and affection and the amount to be awarded in the aforesaid categories is to be decided on the basis of the amounts awarded in National Insurance Company Ltd. vs Pranay Sethi & Ors. (2017) 16 SCC 680 as well as Magma General Insurance (supra). It was also argued by the counsel for the claimants that the claimants are entitled to compensation for loss of estate and funeral expenses as held in Pranay Sethi (supra).

26. There is some difference between the parameters for award of compensation as prescribed by Rule 220-A and the principles for award of compensation as laid down by the Supreme Court in its different judgments. Two differences which are relevant for the present case are considered below.

27. Rule 220-A (3) of the Rules, 1998 provides that future prospects of a deceased shall be added in the actual salary or minimum wages of the deceased as under :-

(i) Below 40 years of age : 50% of the salary

(ii) Between 40-50 years of age : 30% of the salary

(iii) More than 50 years of age : 20% of the salary

*(iv) When wages not sufficiently proved. : 50% towards inflation and price index.

28. In Pranay Sethi (supra), the Supreme Court endorsed addition of 50% as future prospects in the established income of the deceased if he was below 40 years and was in a permanent job, 30% if he was between 40 and 50 years and 15% if the deceased was between 50 to 60 years. It was further laid down in Pranay Sethi (supra) that if the deceased was self employed or on a fixed salary, 40% should be added as future prospects in his established income if he was less than 40 years, 25% should be added if he was between the age of 40 and 50 years and 10% should be added if he was between 50 and 60 years. In Pranay Sethi (supra), it was laid down that there should be no addition of future prospects in the income of the deceased if he was more than 60 years. The relevant observations of the Supreme Court in Pranay Sethi (supra) are reproduced below : -

"58. The controversy does not end here. The question still remains whether there should be no addition where the age of the deceased is more than 50 years. Sarla Verma thinks it appropriate not to add any amount and the same has been approved in Reshma Kumari. Judicial notice can be taken of the fact that salary does not remain the same. When a person is in a permanent job, there is always an enhancement due to one reason or the other. To lay down as a thumb rule that there will be no addition after 50 years will be an unacceptable concept. We are disposed to think, there should be an addition of 15% if the deceased is between the age of 50 to 60 years and there should be no addition thereafter. Similarly, in case of self-employed or person on fixed salary, the addition should be 10% between the age of 50 to 60 years. The aforesaid yardstick has been fixed so that there can be consistency in the approach by the tribunals and the courts.

59. In view of the aforesaid analysis, we proceed to record our conclusions:

59.3. While determining the income, an addition of 50% of actual salary to the income of the deceased towards future prospects, where the deceased had a permanent job and was below the age of 40 years, should be made. The addition should be 30%, if the age of the deceased was between 40 to 50 years. In case the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years, the addition should be 15%. Actual salary should be read as actual salary less tax.

59.4. In case the deceased was self-employed or on a fixed salary, an addition of 40% of the established income should be the warrant where the deceased was below the age of 40 years. An addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years and 10% where the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years should be regarded as the necessary method of computation. The established income means the income minus the tax component."

(emphasis added)

29. The difference between the parameters prescribed by Rule 220-A(3) for addition of future prospects in the income of the deceased and the norms, for the said purpose, laid down in Pranay Sethi (supra) are evident. The difference is not only regarding the percentage of the income of the deceased which is to be added as future prospects while determining compensation but also regarding the age of the deceased till which future prospects are to be added to his income. Pranay Sethi (supra) recommends that there should be no addition of future prospects if the deceased was above 60 years while Rule 220-A(3) provides for addition of 20% as future prospects in the income of the deceased if he was above 50 years and prescribes no maximum age after which future prospects are not to be added in the income of the deceased. Further, for the purposes of adding future prospects, Rule 220-A(3) does not differentiate between a deceased who had a permanent job and a deceased who was on a fixed salary or a deceased whose income is determined on minimum wages while in Pranay Sethi (supra) different norms have been prescribed for adding future prospects in cases of deceased who had a permanent job and a deceased who was on a fixed salary. No standard has been laid down in Pranay Sethi (supra) for adding future prospects in case the income of the deceased is determined on the basis of minimum wages payable to skilled, semi-skilled or unskilled worker at the relevant time.

30. The other difference between the principles laid down by the Supreme Court in its different judgments and the norms prescribed by Rule 220-A is regarding the different category of non-pecuniary damages payable as compensation.

31. The Supreme Court in Pranay Sethi (supra) referred to only three conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses which are to be awarded to the claimants under Section 166 of the Act, 1988. In Pranay Sethi (supra), it was laid down that compensation under the aforesaid conventional heads should be Rs.15,000/-, Rs.40,000/- and Rs.15,000/-, respectively. In Magma General (supra), the Supreme Court awarded compensations for both loss of love and affection and for loss of consortium. The compensation for loss of love and affection was determined as Rs.50,000/- and the compensation for loss of consortium, in accordance with Pranay Sethi (supra), was determined as Rs.40,000/-. The compensation under the aforesaid heads were paid separately to each of the claimants by the Supreme Court in Magma General (supra). However, subsequently, the Supreme Court in Satinder Kaur (supra) held that loss of love and affection is included in loss of consortium and, therefore, there was no justification to award compensation towards loss of love and affection as a separate category. In Satinder Kaur (supra), the Supreme Court observed that in Pranay Sethi (supra) the Constitution Bench had held that in death cases, compensation would be awarded only under three conventional heads, viz - loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses. The aforesaid principle was reiterated by the Supreme Court in The New India Assurance Company Ltd. vs. Smt. Somwati & Ors., (2020) 9 SCC 644.

32. However, Rule 220-A(4) of the Rules, 1998 identifies 'loss of love and affection' and 'loss of consortium' as separate categories of non-pecuniary damages. Rule 220-A(4) of the Rules, 1998 is reproduced below :-

"(4) The non-pecuniary damages shall also be payable in the compensation as follow :-

(i) Compensation for loss of estate : Rs. 5,000 to Rs. 10,000

(ii) Compensation for loss of consortium : Rs. 5,000 to Rs. 10,000

(iii) Compensation for loss of love and affection : Rs. 5,000 to Rs. 15,000

(iv) Funeral expenses costs of transportation of body : Rs. 5,000 or actual expenses whichever is less

(v) Medical expenses : actual expenses proved to the satisfaction of the Claims Tribunal."

33. A reading of the judgments of the Supreme Court in Pranay Sethi (supra), Satinder Kaur (supra) and Smt. Somwati (supra) do not indicate that Rules, 1998 were brought to the notice of the Supreme Court in the aforesaid cases. Subsequently, the Supreme Court in New India Assurance Company Ltd. vs. Urmila Shukla & Ors. 2021 SCC OnLine SC 822 held that if an indicia is made available in the form of a statutory instrument which affords a favourable treatment, the decision in Pranay Sethi (supra) cannot be taken to have limited the operation of such statutory provision especially when the validity of the statute was not put under challenge. It was observed by the Supreme Court that if a statutory instrument has devised a formula which affords better or greater benefit, such statutory instrument must be allowed to operate unless the statutory instrument is otherwise found to be invalid. The issue before the Supreme Court in Urmila Shukla (supra) was whether in accordance with Rule 220-A(3)(iii), 20% was to be added as future prospects in the income of the deceased if the deceased was above 50 years or whether the addition is to be 15% as laid down in Pranay Sethi (supra). The Supreme Court, in Urmila Shukla (supra), applying the principle stated before, affirmed the award of the Tribunal and the High Court which had added 20% as future prospects in the income of the deceased who was above 50 years. The observations of the Supreme Court from Paragraph Nos. 8 to 11 are reproduced below :-

"8. It is submitted by Mr. Rao that the judgment in Pranay Sethi does not show that the attention of the Court was invited to the specific rules such as Rule 3(iii) which contemplates addition of 20% of the salary as against 15% which was stated as a measure in Pranay Sethi. In his submission, since the statutory instrument has been put in place which affords more advantageous treatment, the decision in Pranay Sethi ought not to be considered to limit the application of such statutory Rule.

9. It is to be noted that the validity of the Rules was not, in any way, questioned in the instant matter and thus the only question that we are called upon to consider is whether in its application, sub-Rule 3(iii) of Rule 220A of the Rules must be given restricted scope or it must be allowed to operate fully.

10. The discussion on the point in Pranay Sethi was from the standpoint of arriving at "just compensation" in terms of Section 168 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988.

11. If an indicia is made available in the form of a statutory instrument which affords a favourable treatment, the decision in Pranay Sethi cannot be taken to have limited the operation of such statutory provision specially when the validity of the Rules was not put under any challenge. The prescription of 15% in cases where the deceased was in the age bracket of 50-60 years as stated in Pranay Sethi cannot be taken as maxima. In the absence of any governing principle available in the statutory regime, it was only in the form of an indication. If a statutory instrument has devised a formula which affords better or greater benefit, such statutory instrument must be allowed to operate unless the statutory instrument is otherwise found to be invalid."

(emphasis added)

34. There is no reason or logic to restrict the principle enumerated in Urmila Shukla (supra) only to the difference between Rule 220-A(3)(iii) and the norms laid down in Pranay Sethi (supra). The principle enumerated in Urmila Shukla (supra) is that if a statutory instrument affords greater or better benefits, said statutory instrument shall operate and the norms laid down by different judicial precedents shall not limit the operation of such statutory instrument. It is to be noted that the statutory instrument shall prevail over the norms laid down by judicial precedents only to the extent it gives greater or better benefit than the judicial precedents. If the norms laid down by judicial pronouncements give greater or better benefit than the formula devised by the statutory instrument, the judicial precedents shall prevail over the statutory instrument. In other words, just compensation under Section 168 of the Act, 1988 is to be determined applying the norms prescribed in Rule 220-A and the principles laid down by the judicial precedents, whichever gives greater or better benefit to the claimants.

35. Rule 220-A(4) of Rules, 1998 identifies 'loss of consortium' and 'loss of love and affection' as different heads for award of non-pecuniary damages. In that respect, Rule 220-A(4) gives better benefit than the principles laid down by the Supreme Court in Satinder Kaur (supra) which held that 'loss of love and affection' is included in "loss of consortium' and no separate compensation is to be paid for loss of love and affection. However, so far as the amount to be awarded under the conventional heads is concerned, the amounts prescribed in Pranay Sethi (supra) and Magma General (supra) give greater benefit than Rule 220-A.

36. Thus, the categories under which the non-pecuniary damages are to be awarded is to be decided in light of Rule 220-A(4) and the amount to be awarded under the aforesaid categories is to be the amount fixed by the Supreme Court in Pranay Sethi (supra) and Magma General (supra). Further, future prospects is to be added in the income of the deceased on the formula prescribed in Rule 220-A(3) of the Rules, 1998.

37. It is clarified that compensation on the aforesaid principle is to be determined in cases of accidents that took place after 26.9.2011 as Rule 220-A was inserted in Rules, 1998 with effect from 26.9.2011.

38. Applying the aforesaid principle in the present case, the compensation is to be determined on notional income of the deceased which in turn, is to be determined on the minimum wages of an unskilled labour and as the deceased was 24 years old, therefore, in accordance with the Rules, 1998, 50% has to be added as future prospects in his notional income while determining the multiplicand.

39. It is further held that the claimants were entitled to separate compensations for both 'loss of consortium' and for 'loss of love and affection.'

40. In light of the principles enumerated above, the compensation to be awarded to the claimants is computed as follows :-

(1) Monthly income of the deceased = Rs.6,000/- per month, i.e., Rs.72,000/- per annum.

(2) Addition of 50% as future prospects = Rs.36,000/-.

Thus, total income of the deceased for purposes of compensation = Rs.1,08,000/-

(3) Deductions of 1/3 towards personal and living expenses of the deceased = Rs.36,000/-

(4) Thus, the multiplicand = Rs.72,000/- (Rs.1,08,000 - Rs. 36,000)

(5) Thus, the pecuniary damages payable to the claimants = Rs. 12,96,000/- (72,000 x 18)

(6) Loss of filial consortium to opposite party no. 1 / claimant no. 1 and opposite party no. 2 / claimant no. 2 = Rs.40,000 x 2 = Rs.80,000/- (Rs.40,000 to each of the claimants).

(7) Loss of spousal consortium to opposite party no. 3 / claimant no. 3 = Rs.40,000/-.

(8) Loss of parental consortium to opposite party no. 4 / claimant no. 4 = Rs.40,000/-.

(9) Loss of love and affection to opposite party nos. 1 to 4 / claimant nos. 1 to 4 = Rs.50,000 x 4 = Rs.2,00,000/- (Rs.50,000 to each of the claimants).

(10) Loss of estate = Rs.15,000/-.

(11) Funeral expenses = Rs.15,000/-.

(12) Medical expenses in the treatment of the injured / deceased = Rs.25,078/-

Thus, total compensation = Rs.17,11,078/- [Adding Item Nos. 5 to 12]

41. Thus, it is held that the claimants are entitled to a compensation of Rs.17,11,078/-. The claimants shall be entitled to interest at the rate of 7% per annum as awarded by the Tribunal. First Appeal From Order No. 817 of 2016 is dismissed and First Appeal From Order No. 51 of 2018 is allowed and the award of the Tribunal is modified to the aforesaid extent.

42. The pecuniary damages determined above at Item No. 5 along with the interest accruing on the same shall be divided equally between opposite party no. 3 / claimant no. 3 and opposite party no. 4 / claimant no. 4. The opposite party no. 3 / claimant no. 3 shall also be paid the compensation for loss of spousal consortium, loss of estate, funeral expenses and loss of love and affection as computed above along with the interest accruing on the same. The opposite party nos. 1 and 2 / claimant nos. 1 and 2 shall be paid the compensation computed above for loss of filial consortium and for loss of love and affection along with the interest accruing on the same. The opposite party no. 4 / claimant no. 4 shall be paid the compensation computed above for loss of parental consortium and for loss of love and affection along with the interest accruing on the same. The medical expenses incurred on the treatment of the deceased shall be divided equally between opposite party no. 1 / claimant no. 1 and opposite party no. 3 / claimant no. 3.

43. The balance amount / excess amount as awarded by this Court in the present appeals shall be deposited by the National Insurance Company Ltd., Lucknow in the Tribunal within three months from today. The amount so deposited by the National Insurance Company Ltd. under the present order of this Court, shall in turn be deposited by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Lucknow in the highest interest bearing fixed deposit schemes, either of the post office or of any nationalized bank. The receipts of the fixed deposit shall be handed over to the claimants who shall be entitled to withdraw the maturity amount on the maturity of the fixed deposits. The maturity amount shall be credited by the bank/post office in any savings account held by the claimants singly. The concerned bank or post office shall not permit any loan or advance against the fixed deposits made in favour of the claimants. The Tribunal, while depositing the amount in any fixed deposit scheme, shall communicate the directions issued by this Court to the concerned bank/post office.

44. With the aforesaid directions and observations, First Appeal From Order No. 817 of 2016 is dismissed and First Appeal From Order No. 51 of 2018 is allowed. Parties shall bear their own cost.

45. The office shall transmit the records of the case to the Tribunal, at the earliest.

B. Civil Law - Motor Accident Claim - Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 – Charge-sheet –

Relevance - charge-sheet is an important piece of evidence in motor accident claim cases where proof of accident required is not proof beyond reasonable doubt, but the case has to be considered on the touchstone of preponderance of probability- In the instant case, Charge-sheet against the driver of the offending vehicle filed - filing of a charge-sheet against the driver of the offending vehicle prima facie points to his culpability - First Information Report, the charge-sheet, the site plan and the testimony of the P.W. 2 read jointly and as a whole prove the case of the claimants that the accident was caused due to rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle (Para 20)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Salil Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Both the First Appeals From Order have been filed under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as, 'Act, 1988') and arise from the same award of the Tribunal, i.e., the judgment and award dated 26.3.2016 passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/FTC Court, District-Lakhimpur Kheri (hereinafter referred to as, 'Tribunal') in Motor Accident Claim Petition No. 339 of 2014 and were therefore connected and have been heard together.

2. Motor Accident Claim Petition No. 566 of 2016 has been filed by the Insurance Company, which was one of the defendant in Motor Accident Claim Petition No. 339 of 2014 and has been filed to set aside the award dated 26.3.2016. Motor Accident Claim Petition No. 145 of 2017 has been filed by the claimants for enhancement of compensation. The Insurance Company is the appellant in F.A.F.O. No. 566 of 2016 and shall be referred as Insurance Company in the present judgement, the claimants are respondent Nos. 1 to 8 in the aforesaid appeal and shall be referred as claimants in the present judgement. The owner of the offending vehicle is respondent No. 9 in F.A.F.O. No. 566 of 2016 and shall be referred as the owner of the vehicle. The driver of the offending vehicle has been arrayed as respondent No. 10 in F.A.F.O. No. 566 of 2016 and shall be referred as driver of the offending vehicle in the present

3. Claimant No. 1 is the wife of the deceased, claimant No. 2 is the mother of the deceased, claimant Nos. 3 to 7 are the sons of the deceased and claimant No. 8 is the daughter of the deceased. On the date of the accident claimant Nos. 3 to 6 were major and between 18 to 23 years.

4. The order-sheet of the First Appeal From Order No. 145 of 2017 shows that vide order dated 13.12.2017 a Division Bench of this Court had condoned the delay in filing the aforesaid appeal. However, it appears that regular number has not yet been allotted to First Appeal From Order No. 145 of 2017 and the records reflect the defective number. However, as the delay in filing the appeal has been condoned, the Court proceeded to hear the appeal on merits. Apart from the aforesaid, the order-sheet of the case also indicates that service of notice on the owner of the vehicle was held to be sufficient, but service of notice on the driver of he offending vehicle, who has been arrayed as respondent No. 2 in First Appeal From Order No. 145 of 2017, was held not to be sufficient by noting dated 1.3.2019 of the Joint Registrar (J)(L). However, as the Insurance Company has not questioned the award of the Tribunal so far as the award holds it liable to indemnify the owner of the vehicle, therefore, the Court has proceeded to hear both the appeals on merits without waiting for service of notice of the appeal on the driver of the offending vehicle.

5. The facts of the case are that the claimants instituted Motor Accident Claim Petition Case No. 339 of 2014 before the Tribunal alleging that one Rafiq (hereinafter referred to as, "deceased') was killed in an accident which happened on 1.8.2014 due to rash and negligent driving of a tanker bearing Registration No. UP 31 T 5208 (hereinafter referred to as, "offending vehicle'). It was stated in the claim petition that on 1.8.2014 at 4:30 p.m. the deceased was going on a motorcycle to join his duties when the offending vehicle hit the motorcycle from the front as a result of which the deceased suffered injuries and subsequently died on 17.8.2014 due to the aforesaid injuries. It was further stated in the claim petition that the deceased was aged 45 years and was working as Fodder Cutter in the Forest Department getting a salary of Rs. 26,280/- per month and the claimants were dependent on the deceased. On the aforesaid pleadings the claimants sought compensation of Rs. 50 lacs for the death of Rafiq. It is also on record that a First Information Report registering Case Crime No. 630 of 2014 under Sections 279, 358 and 427 I.P.C. was registered against the driver of the offending vehicle on 4.8.2014 and a charge-sheet against the driver has been filed in the aforesaid case.

6. The owner and the driver of the offending vehicle as well as the Insurance Company contested the appeal and filed their written statements. In their written statements the owner and driver of the offending vehicle denied the involvement of the offending vehicle in the accident and also the allegation regarding negligence of the driver in causing the accident. The Insurance Company also filed its written statement contesting the claim petition and, apart from denying the involvement of the vehicle in the accident, the Insurance Company also pleaded that the accident occurred because of the negligence of the deceased. It was also pleaded by the Insurance Company that the deceased was more than 55 years of age at the time of accident and did not have a valid driving license at the time of accident.

7. On the pleadings of the parties, the Tribunal framed five issues. Issue No. 1 was as to whether on 1.8.2014 at 4:30 p.m. the deceased was injured in an accident caused due to rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle and died on 17.8.2014 because of the injuries caused in the accident. Issue No. 2 was as to whether at the time of accident the driver of the offending vehicle had a valid driving license. Issue No. 3 was as to whether at the time of the accident the offending vehicle was insured with the Insurance Company and Issue No. 4 was as to whether at the time of the accident the offending vehicle was being driven contrary to the terms of the insurance contract. Issue No. 5 framed by the Tribunal was regarding entitlement of the claimants to compensation, the amount of compensation they were entitled to and the defendant liabl

8. Before the Tribunal, the claimants filed the First Information Report registering Case Crime No. 630 of 2014 (marked as Paper No. 6Ga and 28Ga/2 in the Tribunal), the Post-Mortem Report of the deceased (marked as Paper No. 8Ga in the Tribunal), the Charge-sheet filed against the driver of the offending vehicle (marked as Paper No. 28Ga/10 in the Tribunal), the site plan prepared by the Investigating Officer in Case Crime No. 630 of 2014 (marked as Paper No. 28Ga/8in the Tribunal), the driving license of the deceased (marked as Paper No. 46Ga in the Tribunal), pay bills of the deceased (marked as Paper Nos. 48Ga to 50Ga in the Tribunal), service book of the deceased (marked as Paper No. 47Ga in the Tribunal) and receipts showing medical expenses incurred in the treatment of the deceased (marked as paper Nos. 30Ga/1 and 30Ga/135 in the Tribunal). The owner and the driver of the offending vehicle filed the driving license of the driver of the offending vehicle, fitness certificate and the insurance cover note of the offending vehicle as well as tax receipts relating to the offending vehicle.

9. In the Tribunal, the claimant No. 1 deposed as plaintiff-witness No. 1 and one Mohd. Farooq, who is the eye-witness of the incident deposed as plaintiff-witness No. 2.

10. The Tribunal after considering the testimony of P.W. 2, the First Information Report, the charge-sheet filed against the owner of the offending vehicle, the site plan and the postmortem report of the deceased, decided Issue No. 1 in favour of the claimants and against the defendants. While recording its findings on issue No. 1, the Tribunal rejected the arguments of the defendants regarding any contributory negligence by the deceased.

11. Issue Nos. 2, 3 and 4 were decided in favour of the owner of the offending vehicle and against the Insurance Company.

12. So far as issue No. 5 is concerned, the Tribunal held the Insurance Company liable to pay compensation and awarded a total compensation of Rs. 23,32,640/- with 7% simple interest from the date of filing of the claim petition. The Tribunal held the age of the deceased to be 52 years on the basis of his driving license and therefore applied a multiplier of 11 while determining the loss of dependency caused due to the death of the deceased. Relying on the salary bills of the deceased, the Tribunal determined the multiplicand as Rs. 26,280/- and deducted 1/3 as personal and living expenses of the deceased. The Tribunal did not make any allowance for future prospects while determining the loss of dependency and paid Rs. 5,000/- for funeral expenses, loss of love and affection and loss of consortium and Rs. 10,000/- for medical expenses incurred by the claimants in the treatment of the deceased. The Tribunal has awarded compensation only to the claimant Nos. 1, 2, 7 and 8 and has refused compensation to respondent Nos. 3 to 6 on the ground that they were major at the time of accident.

13. It was argued by the counsel for the Insurance Company that in its judgement and award dated 26.3.2016 the Tribunal has erroneously shifted the burden of proof on the defendants even though the settled law is that the burden to prove the negligence of the driver of the offending vehicle in case of accident is on the claimants. It was argued that in his cross-examination, the P.W. 2 had admitted, that half of the road on the right side of the offending vehicle was vacant when the offending vehicle hit the motorcycle and the width of the road was 15 feet, which proves that almost 7.5 feet on the left side of the motorcycle of the deceased was vacant when the offending vehicle allegedly hit the motorcycle and, therefore, the deceased could have easily avoided the accident if he was careful. It was argued that the accident as shown in the site plan which shows that the offending vehicle hit the motorcycle of the deceased on the right side of the road, is not corroborated by the testimony of P.W. 2 and, therefore, can not be relied upon to accept the plea of the claimants. It was argued that the Tribunal has misread the documentary and oral evidence on record which clearly went to show that the accident was not caused due to the negligence of the driver of the offending vehicle. It was argued that for the aforesaid reasons the judgement and award dated 26.3.2016 passed by the Tribunal is liable to be set aside.

14. Rebutting the contention of the counsel for the appellant, the counsel for the claimants has supported the reasons given by the Tribunal for its finding on issue No. 1. It was argued by the counsel for the claimants that the oral and the documentary evidence on record conclusively proved that the deceased was injured in the accident and died because of the injuries and the accident took place due to the negligence of the driver of the offending vehicle. The counsel for the claimants has argued that the Tribunal, however, has awarded very less compensation to the claimants. It was argued that the postmortem report of the deceased showed that deceased was 45 years old and, therefore, a multiplier of 14 had to be applied while determining the pecuniary damages payable to the claimants. It was argued that the Tribunal has wrongly deducted 1/3 as personal and living expenses of the deceased and has also erred in not adding future prospects in the income of the deceased while determining the pecuniary damages. It was further argued that the claimants were entitled to compensation for loss of estate, funeral expenses and separate compensations for loss of consortium as well as for loss of love and affection as determined in National Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Pranay Sethi & Others, (2017) 16 S.C.C. 680 and Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. vs. Nanu Ram, (2018) SCC OnLine SC 1546 and as provided in U.P. Motor Vehicle Rules, 1998 (hereinafter referred to as, "Rules, 1998'). It was further argued that the claimants had proved the medical expenses of Rs. 40,000/- incurred in the treatment of the deceased and the Tribunal has wrongly awarded only Rs. 10,000/- against the medical expenses. It was argued that for the aforesaid reasons, the compensation awarded by the Tribunal is to be enhanced, First Appeal From Order No. 566 of 2016 is liable to be dismissed and First Appeal From Order No. 145 of 2017 is to be allowed.

15. I have considered the submissions of the counsel for the parties and perused the records of the Tribunal.

16. The first issue that arises for determination by this Court is as to whether the accident which took place on 1.8.2014 injuring the deceased and ultimately resulting in his death on 17.8.2014 was caused due to rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle by its driver.

17. It is settled law that the standard of proof required in motor accident claim cases under the Act is preponderance of probabilities and not that of proof beyond reasonable doubt. The strict principles of evidence and standard of proof required in a criminal trial are not applicable in accident cases registered under the Act. In this context, the observations of the Supreme Court in Anita Sharma Vs. New India Assurance Company Limited & Another, (2021) 1 S.C.C. 171 is reproduced below :-

"21. Equally, we are concerned over the failure of the High Court to be cognizant of the fact that strict principles of evidence and standards of proof like in a criminal trial are inapplicable in MACT claim cases. The standard of proof in such like matters is one of preponderance of probabilities, rather than beyond reasonable doubt. One needs to be mindful that the approach and role of Courts while examining evidence in accident claim cases ought not to be to find fault with non-examination of some best eye-witnesses, as may happen in a criminal trial; but, instead should be only to analyze the material placed on record by the parties to ascertain whether the claimant's version is more likely than not true.

22. A somewhat similar situation arose in Dulcina Fernandes v. Joaquim Xavier Cruz wherein this Court reiterated that: (SCC p. 650, para 7)

"7. It would hardly need a mention that the plea of negligence on the part of the first respondent who was driving the pick-up van as set up by the claimants was required to be decided by the learned Tribunal on the touchstone of preponderance of probabilities and certainly not on the basis of proof beyond reasonable doubt. (Bimla Devi v. Himachal RTC)."

(Emphasis added)

18. The plaintiff-witness No. 2, i.e., Mohd. Farooq, who was riding on another motorcycle behind the deceased and was an eye-witness of the accident has proved the accident as pleaded in the claim petition. The statement of P.W. 2 in his cross-examination that, at the time of accident half of the road on the right side of the offending vehicle was vacant does not necessarily prove that the accident occurred because of the negligence of the deceased. An eye-witness can only give a rough, and not an exact account, of the width of the road and the position of the vehicles at the time of accident. The statement of P.W. 2 in his cross-examination does not contradict the site plan so far as the position of the vehicles at the time of accident is concerned. The site plan shows that the offending vehicle was initially on its left side, i.e., on the west side of the road, but had turned right and hit the motorcycle of the deceased. The clause "at the time of accident' in the statement of P.W. 2 can not be read to identify the position of the vehicles at the exact time when the offending vehicle collided with the motorcycle but, on a reading of the testimony of P.W. 2 as a whole, it indicates the position of the offending vehicle slightly before the collision. The site plan which shows that the offending vehicle was initially on the left side but subsequently turned right causing the accident is corroborated by the testimony of P.W. 2. At this stage it would be relevant to note that under Rule 203-A of the Rules 1998, the Investigating Police Officer is enjoined to prepare a site plan of the accident, and submit it to the Claims Tribunal. By virtue of Section 211-A of the Rules, 1998 the site plan submitted under Rule 203-A is presumed to be correct and is to be read in evidence without formal proof unless proved contrary. Rules 203-A and 211-A, are reproduced below :-

"203-A. Duties of Investigating Police Officer-(1) The Investigating Police Officer shall prepare a site plan, drawn on scale as to indicate the layout and width etc. of the road/roads or place as the case may be, the position of Vehicle/Vehicles, or persons, involved and such other facts as the case may be relevant, authenticated by the witnesses and in case no witness is available same shall be recorded, so as to preserved the evidence relating to accident. He shall also get the scene of accident photographed from such angles as to clearly depict the accident, as above, inter-alia for the purpose of proceeding before the Claims Tribunal.

211-A. Presumption about the papers- The reports, certificates and papers submitted or issued under Rules 203-A, 203-C and 203-D shall be presumed to be correct and shall be read in evidence without formal proof unless proved contrary."

19. It may also be noted that there is no plea of any contributory negligence on the part of the deceased by the driver of the offending vehicle in his written statement. The driver of the offending vehicle also did not appear as a witness to prove that the deceased was negligent or not careful and if the deceased was careful the accident could have been avoided.

20. The plea of the claimants that the accident was caused due to rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle is also proved by the contents of the First Information Report and the fact that charge-sheet against the driver of the offending vehicle has been filed in the aforesaid case. The filing of a charge-sheet against the driver of the offending vehicle prima facie points to his culpability. The charge-sheet is an important piece of evidence in motor accident claim cases where proof of accident required is not proof beyond reasonable doubt, but the case has to be considered on the touchstone of preponderance of probability. In this context the observations of the Supreme Court in Mangla Ram Vs. Oriental Insurance Company Limited & Others, (2018) 5 S.C.C. 656 is reproduced below :-

"27. Another reason which weighted with the High Court to interfere in the first appeal filed by respondents 2 & 3, was absence of finding by the Tribunal about the factum of negligence of the driver of the subject jeep. Factually, this view is untenable. Our understanding of the analysis done by the Tribunal is to hold that Jeep No. RST 4701 was driven rashly and negligently by respondent 2 when it collided with the motorcycle of the appellant leading to the accident. This can be discerned from the evidence of witnesses and the contents of the charge-sheet file by the police, naming Respondent 2. This Court in a recent decision in Dulcina Fernandes, noted that the plea of negligence on the part of the driver of the offending vehicle as set up by the claimants was required to be decided by the Tribunal on the touchstone of preponderance or probability and certainly not by standard of proof beyond reasonable doubt. Suffice it to observe that the exposition in the judgements already adverted to by us, filing of charge-sheet against Respondent 2 prima facie points towards his complicity in driving the vehicle negligently and rashly. Further, even when the accused were to be acquitted in the criminal cases, this Court opined that the same may be of no effect on the assessment of the liability required in respect of motor accident cases by the Tribunal."

21. The observations of the Division Bench of this Court in paragraph Nos. 29 and 30 of its judgement reported in Dr.

Anoop Kumar Bhattacharya & Another Vs. National Insurance Co. Ltd., (2021) 12 ADJ 596 are also relevant for the purpose and are reproduced below :-

"29. We may now revert to the original question whether Tribunal was correct in altogether excluding from evidence the documents such as the FIR, the site plan and the charge-sheet, which form part of the police record.

30. We have no doubt in our mind that the answer to the aforesaid question must be a resounding 'No'. The Tribunal opted to ignore the FIR, the charge-sheet and the site plan on the ground that they do not establish either that the driver of the offending truck was involved in the accident or that he was guilty of rash and negligent driving. In our opinion, the Tribunal would have been correct had the standard of proof in claim proceedings been that of beyond reasonable doubt as is the case with criminal proceedings. Even in a criminal proceedings, these documents may be considered to corroborate the evidence led in the Court and not to be completely disregarded or ignored. In any case, corroborative value of the police record cannot be ignored completely though decision may not be based solely upon them. Moreover, the standard of proof in the claim proceedings is not that of proof beyond reasonable doubt but that of preponderance of probabilities. The Tribunal on assessment of evidence before it had to satisfy itself that it was more likely than not that the events as alleged in the claim petition had transpired. To our mind, the documents such as the FIR, the site map and the charge-sheet, which form part of the police record, even though they do not establish the occurrence when considered holistically and prudently could help draw an informed and intelligent inference as to the degree of probability which lends itself to the case set up by a claimant. Was the FIR promptly lodged or was it lodged after an undue delay? Does the site plan conform to the recital contained in the FIR? Do injuries sustained corroborate the recital contained in the FIR? Does the charge-sheet bolster the allegations contained in the FIR? These are the factors which when considered fairly and prudently could help to assess if the case set up by the claimants was more probable or not. As such, we consider it an error to altogether ignore the said documents on the ground that they were not conclusive proof of the occurrence more sosince that is not the goal of claim proceedings in the first place."

(Emphasis added)

22. The First Information Report, the charge-sheet, the site plan and the testimony of the P.W. 2 read jointly and as a whole prove the case of the claimants as pleaded in their claim petition, i.e., the accident was caused due to rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle.

23. For the aforesaid, reasons the findings of the Tribunal on Issue no. 1 are affirmed.

24. So far as the other point that arises for determination by this Court is regarding the compensation payable to the claimants. Before proceeding further, it would be relevant to note that the Tribunal has denied compensation to claimant Nos. 3 to 6 on the ground that they were major at the time of the accident and were therefore not entitled to compensation. The aforesaid opinion of the Tribunal is not correct. Under Section 166 of the Act, 1988 an application for compensation arising out of an accident may be made, "by all or any of the legal representatives of the deceased, where death has resulted from the accident'. Proviso to Section 166 of the Act, 1988 provides that where all the legal representatives of the deceased have not joined in the application for compensation, the application shall be made on behalf of or for the benefit of all the legal representatives of the deceased and the legal representatives who have not so joined, shall be impleaded as respondents to the application. Section 166(1) of the Act, 1988 is reproduced below :-

"166. Application for compensation.--(1) An application for compensation arising out of an accident of the nature specified in sub-section (1) of section 165 may be made--

(a) by the person who has sustained the injury; or

(b) by the owner of the property; or

(c) where death has resulted from the accident, by all or any of the legal representatives of the deceased;

(d) by any agent duly authorised by the person injured or all or any of the legal representatives of the deceased, as the case may be:

Provided that where all the legal representatives of the deceased have not joined in any such application for compensation, the application shall be made on behalf of or for the benefit of all the legal representatives of the deceased and the legal representatives who have not so joined, shall be impleaded as respondents to the application."

(Emphasis added)

25. Recently, the Supreme Court in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Birender & Others, (2020) 11 S.C.C. 356 reiterated that the compensation to the legal representatives of the deceased who are major is not limited only to conventional heads and they may be entitled to compensation for loss of dependency even if they are earning members. The observations of the Supreme Court in paragraph Nos. 13 and 14 of its judgement in Birender (Supra) are reproduced below :-

"13. In para 15 of Manjuri Bera, while adverting to the provisions of Section 140 of the Act, the Court observed that even if there is no loss of dependency, the claimant, if he was a legal representative, will be entitled to compensation. In the concurring judgment of Justice S.H. Kapadia, as His Lordship then was, it is observed that there is distinction between "right to apply for compensation" and "entitlement to compensation". The compensation constitutes part of the estate of the deceased. As a result, the legal representative of the deceased would inherit the estate. Indeed, in that case, the Court was dealing with the case of a married daughter of the deceased and the efficacy of Section 140 of the Act. Nevertheless, the principle underlying the exposition in this decision would clearly come to the aid of the respondent Nos. 1 and 2 (claimants) even though they are major sons of the deceased and also earning.

14. It is thus settled by now that the legal representatives of the deceased have a right to apply for compensation. Having said that, it must necessarily follow that even the major married and earning sons of the deceased being legal representatives have a right to apply for compensation and it would be the bounden duty of the Tribunal to consider the application irrespective of the fact whether the concerned legal representative was fully dependent on the deceased and not to limit the claim towards conventional heads only. The evidence on record in the present case would suggest that the claimants were working as agricultural labourers on contract basis and were earning meagre income between Rs.1,00,000/- and Rs.1,50,000/- per annum. In that sense, they were largely dependent on the earning of their mother and in fact, were staying with her, who met with an accident at the young age of 48 years."

(Emphasis added)

26. In view of the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Birender (Supra), the claimant nos. 3 to 6 can not be denied compensation merely because they were major at the time of accident. In the present case, the Tribunal has not only not awarded compensation for loss of dependency to respondent Nos. 3 to 6 but has also not awarded any compensation to respondent Nos. 3 to 6 under the conventional heads. In her affidavit, the P.W. 1, i.e., the claimant No. 1 has stated that family of the deceased which included his major sons, i.e., the respondent Nos. 3 to 6 were dependent on the deceased. However, in her cross-examination the P.W. 1 has stated that the claimant No. 3 was working in Forest Department and the claimant No. 4 was doing odd jobs as casual worker. In light of the testimony of P.W. 2, the claimant no. 4 is to be considered as dependent on the deceased and the claimant No. 3 was entitled to compensation, at least, under the conventional heads. Similarly, the claimant Nos. 5 and 6 were entitled to compensation for loss of dependency as well as under the conventional heads as there is no evidence that they were employed at the time of accident and were not dependent on the deceased. The Tribunal has clearly erred on the aforesaid count and it is held that respondent Nos. 3 to 6 were also entitled to compensation for the death of their father in the accident.

27. In United India Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Satinder Kaur @ Satwinder Kaur & Others, (2021) 11 S.C.C. 780, it was held that mother is to be considered as dependent on the deceased. Thus, in the present case there were seven dependents of the deceased. In accordance with the judgement of the Supreme Court in Sarla Verma (Smt) & Others Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation & Another, 2009 (6) SCC 121, 1/5 is to be deducted towards the personal and living expenses from the established income of the deceased while determining the multiplicand.

28. The other question that arises while determining compensation is regarding the multiplier to be applied which is dependent on the age of the deceased. In the claim petition, the age of the deceased was stated to be 47 years. The postmortem report records the age of the deceased as 45 years. The service-book of the deceased shows the date of birth of the deceased to be 27.6.1967, i.e., 47 years at the time of his death. The driving license of the deceased shows the date of birth of the deceased as 1.1.1962, i.e., the deceased was 52 years old at the time of his death. None of the aforesaid documents are conclusive proof of the age of the deceased. However, the date of birth of a licensee on the driving license is recorded on the particulars given by the holder of the driving license himself. Apparently, it was on the information of the deceasd that his date of birth was recorded in the driving license. The Tribunal committed no illegality in holding the age of the deceased to be 52 years on the basis of his driving license. The findings of the Tribunal on the aforesaid issue is affirmed. On the age of the deceased, in accordance with the law laid down in Sarla Verma (Supra), a multiplier of 11 has to be applied while determining the pecuniary damages payable to the claimants.

29. The income of the deceased has been proved by his pay-bills which showed that the deceased earned Rs. 26,280/- per month and the deceased was working as fodder cutter in the Forest Department. The income of the deceased as determined by the Tribunal has not been disputed by the Insurance Company in the present appeal. Thus, the multiplicand is to be determined on the aforesaid income of the deceased.

30. It was argued by the counsel for the claimants that the multiplicand and thus the pecuniary damages had to be determined by adding future prospects in the established income of the deceased in accordance with Rule 220-A of the Rules 1998 and the claimants were also entitled to separate compensations for loss of consortium and loss of love and affection as well as compensations for loss of estate and funeral expenses as determined in Pranay Sethi (Supra) and Magma General Insurance (Supra).

31. There is some difference between the parameters for award of compensation as prescribed by Rule 220-A and the principles for award of compensation as laid down by the Supreme Court in its different judgments. Two differences which are relevant for the present case are considered below.

32. Rule 220-A (3) of the Rules, 1998 provides that future prospects of a deceased shall be added in the actual salary or minimum wages of the deceased as under :-

(i) Below 40 years of age : 50% of the salary

(ii) Between 40-50 years of age : 30% of the salary

(iii) More than 50 years of age : 20% of the salary

(iv) When wages not sufficiently proved. : 50% towards inflation and price index.

33. In Pranay Sethi (supra), the Supreme Court endorsed addition of 50% as future prospects in the established income of the deceased if he was below 40 years and was in a permanent job, 30% if he was between 40 and 50 years and 15% if the deceased was between 50 to 60 years. It was further laid down in Pranay Sethi (supra) that if the deceased was self employed or on a fixed salary, 40% should be added as future prospects in his established income if he was less than 40 years, 25% should be added if he was between the age of 40 and 50 years and 10% should be added if he was between 50 and 60 years. In Pranay Sethi (supra), it was laid down that there should be no addition of future prospects in the income of the deceased if he was more than 60 years. The relevant observations of the Supreme Court in Pranay Sethi (supra) are reproduced below : -

"58. The controversy does not end here. The question still remains whether there should be no addition where the age of the deceased is more than 50 years. Sarla Verma thinks it appropriate not to add any amount and the same has been approved in Reshma Kumari. Judicial notice can be taken of the fact that salary does not remain the same. When a person is in a permanent job, there is always an enhancement due to one reason or the other. To lay down as a thumb rule that there will be no addition after 50 years will be an unacceptable concept. We are disposed to think, there should be an addition of 15% if the deceased is between the age of 50 to 60 years and there should be no addition thereafter. Similarly, in case of self-employed or person on fixed salary, the addition should be 10% between the age of 50 to 60 years. The aforesaid yardstick has been fixed so that there can be consistency in the approach by the tribunals and the courts.

59. In view of the aforesaid analysis, we proceed to record our conclusions:

59.3. While determining the income, an addition of 50% of actual salary to the income of the deceased towards future prospects, where the deceased had a permanent job and was below the age of 40 years, should be made. The addition should be 30%, if the age of the deceased was between 40 to 50 years. In case the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years, the addition should be 15%. Actual salary should be read as actual salary less tax.

59.4. In case the deceased was self-employed or on a fixed salary, an addition of 40% of the established income should be the warrant where the deceased was below the age of 40 years. An addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years and 10% where the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years should be regarded as the necessary method of computation. The established income means the income minus the tax component."

(Emphasis added)

34. The difference between the parameters prescribed by Rule 220-A(3) for addition of future prospects in the income of the deceased and the norms, for the said purpose, laid down in Pranay Sethi (supra) are evident. The difference is not only regarding the percentage of the income of the deceased which is to be added as future prospects while determining compensation but also regarding the age of the deceased till which future prospects are to be added to his income. Pranay Sethi (supra) recommends that there should be no addition of future prospects if the deceased was above 60 years while Rule 220-A(3) provides for addition of 20% as future prospects in the income of the deceased if he was above 50 years and prescribes no maximum age after which future prospects are not to be added in the income of the deceased. Further, for the purposes of adding future prospects, Rule 220-A(3) does not differentiate between a deceased who had a permanent job and a deceased who was on a fixed salary or a deceased whose income is determined on minimum wages while in Pranay Sethi (supra) different norms have been prescribed for adding future prospects in cases of deceased who had a permanent job and a deceased who was on a fixed salary. No standard has been laid down in Pranay

Sethi (supra) for adding future prospects in case the income of the deceased is determined on the basis of minimum wages payable to skilled, semi-skilled or unskilled worker at the relevant time.

35. The other difference between the principles laid down by the Supreme Court in its different judgments and the norms prescribed by Rule 220-A is regarding the different category of non-pecuniary damages payable as compensation. The Supreme Court in Pranay Sethi (supra) referred to only three conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses which are to be awarded to the claimants under Section 166 of the Act, 1988. In Pranay Sethi (supra), it was laid down that compensation under the aforesaid conventional heads should be Rs.15,000/-, Rs.40,000/- and Rs.15,000/-, respectively. In Magma General (supra), the Supreme Court awarded compensations for both loss of love and affection and for loss of consortium. The compensation for loss of love and affection was determined as Rs.50,000/- and the compensation for loss of consortium, in accordance with Pranay Sethi (supra), was determined as Rs.40,000/-. The compensation under the aforesaid heads were paid separately to each of the claimants by the Supreme Court in Magma General (supra). However, subsequently, the Supreme Court in Satinder Kaur (supra) held that loss of love and affection is included in loss of consortium and, therefore, there was no justification to award compensation towards loss of love and affection as a separate category. In Satinder Kaur (supra), the Supreme Court observed that in Pranay Sethi (supra) the Constitution Bench had held that in death cases, compensation would be awarded only under three conventional heads, viz - loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses. The aforesaid principle was reiterated by the Supreme Court in The New India Assurance Company Ltd. Vs. Smt. Somwati & Others, (2020) 9 SCC 644.

However, Rule 220-A(4) of the Rules, 1998 identifies 'loss of love and affection' and 'loss of consortium' as separate categories of non-pecuniary damages. Rule 220-A(4) of the Rules, 1998 is reproduced below :-

"(4) The non-pecuniary damages shall also be payable in the compensation as follow :-

(i) Compensation for loss of estate : Rs. 5,000 to Rs. 10,000

(ii) Compensation for loss of consortium : Rs. 5,000 to Rs. 10,000

(iii) Compensation for loss of love and affection : Rs. 5,000 to Rs. 15,000

(iv) Funeral expenses costs of transportation of body : Rs. 5,000 or actual expenses whichever is less

(v) Medical expenses : actual expenses proved to the satisfaction of the Claims Tribunal."

A reading of the judgments of the Supreme Court in Pranay Sethi (supra), Satinder Kaur (supra) and Smt. Somwati (supra) do not indicate that Rules, 1998 were brought to the notice of the Supreme Court in the aforesaid cases. Subsequently, the Supreme Court in New India Assurance Company Ltd. Vs. Urmila Shukla & Others, (2021) SCC OnLine SC 822 held that if an indicia is made available in the form of a statutory instrument which affords a favourable treatment, the decision in Pranay Sethi (supra) cannot be taken to have limited the operation of such statutory provision especially when the validity of the statute was not put under challenge. It was observed by the Supreme Court that if a statutory instrument has devised a formula which affords better or greater benefit, such statutory instrument must be allowed to operate unless the statutory instrument is otherwise found to be invalid. The issue before the Supreme Court in Urmila Shukla (supra) was whether in accordance with Rule 220-A(3)(iii), 20% was to be added as future prospects in the income of the deceased if the deceased was above 50 years or whether the addition is to be 15% as laid down in Pranay Sethi (supra). The Supreme Court, in Urmila Shukla (supra), applying the principle stated before, affirmed the award of the Tribunal and the High Court which had added 20% as future prospects in the income of the deceased who was above 50 years. The observations of the Supreme Court from Paragraph Nos. 8 to 11 are reproduced below :-

"8. It is submitted by Mr. Rao that the judgment in Pranay Sethi does not show that the attention of the Court was invited to the specific rules such as Rule 3(iii) which contemplates addition of 20% of the salary as against 15% which was stated as a measure in Pranay Sethi. In his submission, since the statutory instrument has been put in place which affords more advantageous treatment, the decision in Pranay Sethi ought not to be considered to limit the application of such statutory Rule.

9. It is to be noted that the validity of the Rules was not, in any way, questioned in the instant matter and thus the only question that we are called upon to consider is whether in its application, sub-Rule 3(iii) of Rule 220A of the Rules must be given restricted scope or it must be allowed to operate fully.

10. The discussion on the point in Pranay Sethi was from the standpoint of arriving at "just compensation" in terms of Section 168 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988.

11. If an indicia is made available in the form of a statutory instrument which affords a favourable treatment, the decision in Pranay Sethi cannot be taken to have limited the operation of such statutory provision specially when the validity of the Rules was not put under any challenge. The prescription of 15% in cases where the deceased was in the age bracket of 50-60 years as stated in Pranay Sethi cannot be taken as maxima. In the absence of any governing principle available in the statutory regime, it was only in the form of an indication. If a statutory instrument has devised a formula which affords better or greater benefit, such statutory instrument must be allowed to operate unless the statutory instrument is otherwise found to be invalid."

(Emphasis added)

36. There is no reason to restrict the principle enumerated in Urmila Shukla (supra) only to the difference between Rule 220-A(3)(iii) and the norms laid down in Pranay Sethi (supra). The principle enumerated in Urmila Shukla (supra) is that if a statutory instrument affords greater or better benefits, said statutory instrument shall operate and the norms laid down by different judicial precedents shall not limit the operation of such statutory instrument. It is to be noted that the statutory instrument shall prevail over the norms laid down by judicial precedents only to the extent it gives greater or better benefit than the judicial precedents. If the norms laid down by judicial pronouncements give greater or better benefit than the formula devised by the statutory instrument, the judicial precedents shall prevail over the statutory instrument. In other words, just compensation under Section 168 of the Act, 1988 is to be determined applying the norms prescribed in Rule 220-A and the principles laid down by the judicial precedents, whichever gives greater or better benefit to the claimants.

37. Rule 220-A(4) of Rules, 1998 identifies 'loss of consortium' and 'loss of love and affection' as different heads for award of non-pecuniary damages. In that respect, Rule 220-A(4) gives better benefit than the principles laid down by the Supreme Court in Satinder Kaur (supra) which held that 'loss of love and affection' is included in "loss of consortium' and no separate compensation is to be paid for loss of love and affection. However, so far as the amount to be awarded under the conventional heads is concerned, the amounts prescribed in Pranay Sethi (supra) and Magma General (supra) give greater benefit than Rule 220-A.

38. Thus, the categories under which the non-pecuniary damages are to be awarded is to be decided in light of Rule 220-A(4) and the amount to be awarded under the aforesaid categories is to be the amount fixed by the Supreme Court in Pranay Sethi (supra) and Magma General (supra). Further, future prospects is to be added in the income of the deceased on the formula prescribed in Rule 220-A(3) of the Rules, 1998.

39. It is clarified that compensation on the aforesaid principle is to be determined in cases of accidents that took place after 26.9.2011 as Rule 220-A was inserted in Rules, 1998 with effect from 26.9.2011.

40. The accident in the present case took place on 1.8.2014. Thus, it is held that in accordance with Rule 220-A(3) of the Rules, 1998, 20% had to be added as future prospects in the established income of the deceased while determining the multiplicand. Further, the claimants were entitled separate compensations under both categories, i.e., for loss of love and affection and also for loss of consortium.

41. Apart from the aforesaid, the Tribunal has awarded only Rs. 10,000/- as medical expenses for the treatment of the deceased. The accident occurred on 1.8.2014 and the deceased died on 17.8.2014. The deceased was hospitalized for almost 16 days. The receipts regarding the diagnostics tests, purchase of medicines, payment of ambulance as well as under other heads were filed by the claimants and marked as paper Nos. 30Ga/1 and 30Ga/135 in the Tribunal. The receipts show that approximately Rs. 40,000/- was spent by the claimants on the treatment of the deceased. The receipts filed by the claimants were not rebutted by the defendants including the Insurance Company. In the circumstances, the claimants are entitled to Rs. 40,000/- as medical expenses for the treatment of the deceased.

42. In light of the aforesaid principles, the compensation payable to the claimants is computed as below :-

(a) Pecuniary Damages

(i) Income of the deceased = Rs. 26,280/- per month, i.e., Rs. 26,280x12 = Rs. 3,15,360/- per annum

(ii) Adding 20% as future prospects in the income of the deceased = Rs. 3,15,360 + 63072= Rs. 3,78,432/-

(iii) Deductions towards personal expenses of the deceased (1/5 of his income) = Rs. 75,686.40

(iv) Thus multiplicand = Rs. 3,78,432 - Rs. 75,686.40 = Rs. 3,02,745.60

(v) Applying a multiplier of 11, the total amount of pecuniary damages = Rs. 3,02,745.60 x 11 = Rs. 33,30,201.60

Thus, the pecuniary damages payable to the claimants is Rs. 33,30,201.60

(b) Compensation for loss of estate = Rs. 15,000/-

(c) Compensation for loss of spousal consortium to claimant No. 1 = Rs. 40,000/-

(d) Compensation for loss of filial consortium to claimant No. 2 Rs. 40,000/-

(e) Compensation for loss of parental consortium to claimant Nos. 3 to 8= Rs. 2,40,000/-

(Rs. 40,000x6 and Rs. 40,000/- to each claimant separately)

(f) Compensation for loss of love and affection to the claimants = Rs. 4,00,000/- (Rs. 50,000 x 8, i.e., Rs. 50,000/- to each claimant separately)

(g) Funeral expenses = Rs. 15,000/-

(h) Medical expenses incurred in the treatment of the deceased Rs. 40,000/-

Thus, the total compensation payable to the claimants = Rs. 41,20,201.60 (a+b+c+d+e+f+g+h) which is rounded off as Rs. 41,20,200/-.

43. In view of the aforesaid, it is held that the claimants were entitled to compensation of Rs. 41,20,200/-. It is apparent that the Tribunal has awarded very less compensation to the claimants. The award of the Tribunal is modified to the extent stated above. The compensation as awarded by this Court shall carry the same interest as awarded by the Tribunal.

44. Compensation for pecuniary damages as computed in the present judgement alongwith the interest accruing on the same shall be divided equally amongst all the claimants excepting claimant No. 3. Compensation for funeral expenses and medical expenses alongwith the interest accruing on the same shall be paid exclusively to claimant No. 1. Compensation for loss of estate alongwih the interest accruing on the same shall be divided equally amongst all the claimants. Compensation for loss of consortium and for loss of love and affection alongwith the interest accruing on the same shall be paid as indicated above in Paragraph No. 42.

45. The appellant in F.A.F.O. No 566 of 2016, i.e., The New India Assurance Company Limited shall deposit the balance/excess amount (including the interest) in the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Lakhimpur Kheri within three months from today. The amount so deposited by the New India Assurance Company Limited, shall, in turn, be deposited by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Lakhimpur Kheri in the highest interest bearing fixed deposit schemes, either of the post office or of any nationalized bank. The receipts of the fixed deposit shall be given to the claimants who shall be entitled to withdraw the maturity amount when the fixed deposits mature. The maturity amount shall be credited by the bank/post office in any savings account of the claimants. The concerned bank or post office shall not permit any loan or advance against the fixed deposits made in favour of the claimants. The Tribunal, while depositing the amount in any fixed deposit scheme, shall communicate the directions issued by this Court to the concerned bank/post office. In case, the New India Assurance Company Limited fails to deposit the awarded amount within three months from today, the Tribunal shall recover the same from the New India Assurance Company Limited in accordance with law.

46. With the aforesaid directions and observations, the First Appeal From Order No. 566 of 2016 is dismissed and First Appeal From Order No. 145 of 2017 is allowed. Parties shall bear their own cost.

47. Office shall transmit the records of the case to the Tribunal, at the earliest.

A. Civil Law - Transfer of Property Act, 1882, Section 3 - "a person is said to have notice" - Where any transaction relating to immovable property is required by law to be and has been effected by a registered instrument, any person acquiring such property shall be deemed to have notice of such instrument as from the date of registration - legal presumption of knowledge of notice arises from omission to search registration in the register kept under the Registration Act - Specific Relief Act, 1963, Section 19 - specific performance of a contract may be enforced against— (a) either party thereto; (b) any other person claiming under him by a title arising subsequently to the contract, except a transferee for value who has paid his money in good faith and without notice of the original contract - question as to whether subsequent purchasers are bona fide purchasers for value without notice - burden of proving exception of the general rule given in Section 19 of the Specific Relief Act is on the party pleading it - it is upon subsequent purchasers to show that they are the bonafide transferee for value without notice - subsequent purchasers have got only the right to defend their purchase on the premise that they have no prior knowledge of the agreement of sale with the plaintiff - They are bona fide purchasers for valuable consideration, though they were not necessary parties to the suit. (Para 21, 34)

In the present case, it is upon the appellants to show that they are the bonafide transferee for value without notice - a registered

agreement to sale was entered between plaintiff respondent and late Jaswant Singh, the defendant, on 26.08.1985 - Original Suit No. 849 of 1987 was filed by the plaintiff respondent against late Jaswant Singh for specific performance of the contract entered on 26.08.1985 - Jaswant Singh after filing of Original Suit No. 849 of 1987 executed a registered sale-deed on 28.10.1987 in favour of Ravi Prakash Agrawal and others - Subsequently, on 08.03.1988 the suit property was transferred by Ravi Prakash Agrawal and others in favour of present appellants - agreement to sale was registered on 26.08. thus, the appellants will be deemed to have notice of the fact that an agreement to sale was entered between the plaintiff respondent and defendant (deceased Jaswant Singh) 937)

B. Civil Law - Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order 41 Rule 31 C.P.C. - Order 41 Rule 31 C.P.C. mandates that a judgment of the appellate court shall be in writing and shall state the points for determination - substantial compliance - effect - Where the appellate court has considered the entire evidence on record and discussed the same in detail, come to any conclusion and its findings are supported by reasons even though the point has not been framed by the appellate Court there is substantial compliance with the provisions of Order 41 Rule 31 CPC and the judgment is not in any manner vitiated by the absence of a point of determination - Non-compliance - Non-compliance with the provisions may not vitiate the judgment and make it wholly void, and may be ignored if there has been substantial compliance with it and the second appellate Court is in a position to ascertain the findings of the lower appellate (Para 18)

Issue/point of determination with regard to bonafide/malafide purchase by the appellant having knowledge/no knowledge of the agreement to sale was framed never framed nor decided. – Held – Held - Appellate court has considered the entire evidence on record and discussed the same in detail and has come to conclusion and recorded its finding though the point of determination has not been framed by the lower appellate court, but still there is substantial compliance of the provisions of Order 41 Rule 31 C.P.C. - lower appellate court rightly decreed the suit of plaintiff respondent no. 1 for specific performance for which he is entitled pursuant to the registered agreement to sale executed on 26.08.1985 between the plaintiff and the defendant (deceased Jaswant Singh) under whom the present appellants are litigating (Para 40)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rohit Ranjan Agarwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Kshitij Shailendra, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Ravi Kant, learned Senior Counsel, assisted by Sri Tarun Agrawal, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. This is defendant-III set/appellants' second appeal under Section 100 C.P.C. challenging the judgment and decree dated 19.01.2022 passed by the District Judge, Aligarh in Civil Appeal No. 132 of 2016 arising out of Original Suit No. 849 of 1987, and judgment and decree dated 28.10.2016 passed by the Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division), Court No. 2, Aligarh in Original Suit No. 849 of 1987.

3. This appeal has a chequered history. A brief description is necessary for better appreciation of the case, which is as follows;

4. Plaintiff respondent nos. 1 and 2 entered into a registered agreement of sale with one Jaswant Singh, the original defendant Ist set/respondent on 26.08.1985 for the sale of bhumidhari land for Rs. 98,195 for which an advance of Rs. 5000/- was given at the time of agreement of sale and balance amount of Rs. 93,195/- was to be paid by the plaintiff respondent at the time of execution of sale-deed. According to the agreement to sale the sale-deed was to be executed within four months on taking balance sale consideration and defendant (deceased Jaswant Singh) was to take necessary permission of sale, if any.

5. According to the plaintiff respondent several requests were made with the defendant to obtain income tax exemption certificate but the sale-deed was not executed. Thus, a letter was sent by the plaintiff respondent to the defendant (deceased Jaswant Singh) on 05.12.1985 calling upon him to appear in the office of Sub-Registrar, Koil, Aligarh with income tax exemption certificate on 24.12.1985. When the defendant did not reach the office of Sub-Registrar, on his request the sale-deed was to be executed on 26.12.1985. On that day again, the defendant did not reach the office of Sub-Registrar and gave excuse that once the certificate is received regarding exemption from the Income Tax Department, he will execute the sale-deed. When the sale-deed was not executed by the defendant, the plaintiff respondent filed Original Suit No. 849 of 1987 on 26.10.1987 claiming relief of specific performance of contract in favour of the plaintiff respondent against the defendant and defendant be directed to execute the sale-deed after taking balance sale consideration of Rs. 93,195/-. An alternate plea was also taken that in case the relief cannot be legally granted then decree of return of Rs. 5000/- pendente lite in future be passed in favour of plaintiff respondent and against the defendant. The defendant (deceased Jaswant Singh) on 28.10.1987 executed a sale-deed in favour of one Ravi Prakash Agrawal. The said transferee through sale-deed dated 08.03.1988 transferred the said property in favour of present appellants' predecessor as well as the appellant.

6. Original Suit No. 849 of 1987 filed by the plaintiff respondent no. 1 was decreed ex parte on 05.12.1989. The trial court had directed the heirs of late Jaswant Singh to execute registered sale-deed in favour of plaintiff after depositing the balance amount of Rs. 93,195/- The heirs of defendant Ist set (deceased Jaswant Singh) filed an application under Order 9 Rule 13 C.P.C. for setting aside the ex parte decree dated 05.12.1989. In the meantime, the ex parte decree was put into execution which was registered as Execution Case No. 36 of 1990 and an amount of Rs. 93,195/- was deposited by the decree holder before the execution court. The application under Order 9 Rule 13 C.P.C. was allowed on 07.03.1998. The trial court again decreed the suit under Order 8 Rule 10 C.P.C. on 28.11.2000 directing for refund of Rs. 5000/- alongwith 12% interest per annum. The judgment and decree of trial court was put to challenge by the plaintiff respondent nos. 1 and 2 by filing Civil Appeal No. 12 of 2001 requesting that the suit be decreed for relief of specific performance of the contract. The said appeal was allowed on 30.10.2003 and the matter was again remitted to the trial court for decision afresh on merits after hearing the parties concerned.

7. Meanwhile, the heirs of defendant Ist set/respondent no. 3 (deceased Jaswant Singh) filed Suit No. 314 of 1992 before the Civil Judge (Junior Division), Hawali, Aligarh for cancellation of sale-deed executed by their father late Jaswant Singh against the respondent no. 4 Ravi Prakash Agrawal on 08.03.1988. In the said suit the present appellants were also arrayed as defendant and they had filed their written statement. The said suit was dismissed on 31.07.2015.

8. While in the Suit No. 849 of 1987 an amendment application was moved by the plaintiff respondent Paper No. 155-Ka for impleading the subsequent purchaser including the appellants, which was allowed on 03.08.2016. The trial court found that subsequent purchaser having not appeared despite notices and publication made proceeded ex parte as there was direction of this Court to conclude the suit proceedings and on 28.10.2016 partly decreed the suit of the plaintiff respondent to the extent that they were entitled to a decree for refund of Rs. 5000/- deposited at the time of execution of agreement to sale alongwith interest and as the litigation has been going on for 30 years they were entitled for compensation of Rs. 2,00,000/-. Being dissatisfied by the judgment of trial court, the plaintiff respondent nos. 1 and 2 filed Civil Appeal No. 132 of 2016 before the District Judge, Aligarh who allowed the appeal and directed for the execution of the sale-deed in view of the fact that the balance sale consideration money of Rs. 93,195/- is already deposited in the court. Hence, this present appeal by the subsequent purchaser and his legal heirs.

9. Sri Kshitij Shailendra, learned counsel appearing for the appellants, assailed the order of lower appellate court on the ground that the mandatory provisions of Order 41 Rule 31 C.P.C. has not been complied with and not even a single point of determination has been framed. He has relief upon a decision of coordinate Bench of this Court in case of Ram Pravesh and others Vs. Ram Bilash and others, 2015 (5) ADJ 690, a decision of this Court in case of Ram Chander Vs. Imtiyaz Ali and another, Second Appeal No. 226 of 2018, decided on 30.03.2022.

10. He next contended that initially the suit for specific performance was filed against the defendant vendor Jaswant Singh and the present appellants who are subsequent purchaser were for the first time impleaded in suit by order of trial court on 03.08.2016 and no opportunity has been granted to file written statement. He then submitted that Section 19 (b) of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 (hereinafter referred as the "Act of 1963') protects the case of subsequent purchaser and the said provision can only be invoked when an issue/point of determination with regard to bonafide/malafide purchase by the appellant having knowledge/no knowledge of the agreement to sale was framed, admittedly, this issue was never framed nor decided.

11. Reliance has been placed upon a decision of Apex Court in case of Guruswamy Nadar Vs. P. Lakshmi Ammal (Dead) Through LRS. and Others, 2008 (5) SCC 796. He then contended that once the decree passed by the trial court on 05.12.1989 was set aside, the Execution Case No. 36 of 1990 has lost its significance and amount deposited in the said execution proceedings would be of no consequence and the lower appellate court directing for enforcement of the contract of the year 1985 and co-relation to the amount deposited in execution case is totally illegal. He next submitted that the plaintiff having called upon the defendant to execute sale-deed on 24.12.1985 there was no notice on record and mere receipt dated 24.12.19985 and 26.12.1985 filed by the plaintiff alongwith list 98-C would not be sufficient to satisfy the requirement of Section 16 (c) of the Act of 1963.

12. Reliance has been placed upon a decision of Apex Court in case of Veluyudhan Sathyadas Vs. Govindan Dakshyani, JT 2002 (5) SC 357, G. Jayashree and others Vs. Bhagwandas S. Patel and others, 2009 (3) SCC 141, relevant paragraph nos. 32 to 35 are extracted here as under;

"32. The civil courts, in the matter of enforcement of an agreement to sell, exercise a discretionary jurisdiction. Discretionary jurisdiction albeit must be exercised judiciously and not arbitrarily or capriciously. A plaintiff is expected to approach the court with clean hands. His conduct plays an important role in the matter of exercise of discretionary jurisdiction by a court of law. In Mohammadia Cooperative Building Society Limited v. Lakshmi Srinivasa Cooperative Building Society Limited & ors. [(2008) 7 SCC 310], this Court held:

"71. Grant of a decree for specific performance of contract is a discretionary relief. There cannot be any doubt whatsoever that the discretion has to be exercised judiciously and not arbitrarily. But for the said purpose, the conduct of the plaintiff plays an important role. The courts ordinarily would not grant any relief in favour of the person who approaches the court with a pair of dirty hands."

33. In Sanjana M. Wig (Ms.) v. Hindustan Petroleum Corpn. Ltd. [2005) 8 SCC 242] in regard to exercise of the discretionary jurisdiction, this Court held that the same depends upon the facts and circumstances of each case wherefor no hard and fast rule can be laid down.

34. We may notice that B.P. Jeevan Reddy, J. in K.S. Vidyanadam & ors. v. Vairavan(1997) 3 SCC 1] held that a new look is required to be given and the rigour of the rule is required to be relaxed by courts as regards the principle that time is not of the essence of the contract in case of immovable properties as when the said principle was

"11.....The learned Counsel for the plaintiff says that when the parties entered into the contract, they knew that prices are rising; hence, he says, rise in prices cannot be a ground for denying specific performance. May be, the parties knew of the said circumstance but they have also specified six months as the period within which the transaction should be completed. The said time-limit may not amount to making time the essence of the contract but it must yet have some meaning. Not for nothing could such time-limit would have been prescribed. Can it be stated as a rule of law or rule of prudence that where time is not made the essence of the contract, all stipulations of time provided in the contract have no significance or meaning or that they are as good as nonexistent? All this only means that while exercising its discretion, the court should also bear in mind that when the parties prescribes certain time-limit(s) for taking steps by one or the other party, it must have some significance and that the said time-limit (s) cannot be ignored altogether on the ground that time has not been made the essence of the contract [relating to immovable properties]."

This court therein noticed the decision rendered in Mademsetty Satyanarayana v. G. Yellogi Rao[(1965) 2 SCR 221] where Subba Rao, J. (As His Lordship then was) made a distinction between Indian law and the English law on the subject to hold that some delay may not be a bar in granting a relief of specific performance as the limitation for filing such suit is prescribed under the Limitation Act, 1963, stating:

"13. In the case before us, it is not mere delay. It is a case of total inaction on the part of the plaintiff for 2 1/2 years in clear violation of the terms of agreement which required him to pay the balance, purchase the stamp papers and then ask for execution of sale deed within six months. Further, the delay is coupled with substantial rise in prices- according to the defendants, three times - between the date of agreement and the date of suit notice. The delay has brought about a situation where it would be inequitable to give the relief of specific performance to the plaintiff."

35. Mr. Nariman, however, would contend that somewhat different view has been taken by this Court in Nirmala Anand v. Advent Corporation (P) Ltd. & ors. [(2002) 8 SCC 146], wherein this Court in a situation of this nature had directed payment of a higher price. Each case is, thus, required to be considered on its own facts. No hard and fast rule, therefore, can be laid down. While determining the lis in a suit for specific performance of contract, no legal principle in absolute terms can be laid down. Relief in a matter of this nature has to be granted keeping in view a large number of facts."

13. Reliance has also been placed upon decision of Apex Court in case of J.P. Builders and another Vs. A. Ramadas Rao and another, 2011 (1) SCC 429, relevant paragraph nos. 22, 24, 25, 26 and 27 are extracted here as under;

"22. The words "ready" and "willing" imply that the person was prepared to carry out the terms of the contact. The distinction between "readiness" and "willingness" is that the former refers to financial capacity and the latter to the conduct of the plaintiff wanting performance. Generally, readiness is backed by willingness.

24. In P.D'Souza vs. Shondrilo Naidu, (2004) 6 SCC 649 paras 19 and 21, this Court observed:

"19. It is indisputable that in a suit for specific performance of contract the plaintiff must establish his readiness and willingness to perform his part of contract. The question as to whether the onus was discharged by the plaintiff or not will depend upon the facts and circumstance of each case. No strait-jacket formula can be laid down in this behalf....

21.....The readiness and willingness on the part of the plaintiff to perform his part of contract would also depend upon the question as to whether the defendant did everything which was required of him to be done in terms of the agreement for sale."

25. Section 16 (c) of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 mandates "readiness and willingness" on the part of the plaintiff and it is a condition precedent for obtaining relief of grant of specific performance. It is also clear that in a suit for specific performance, the plaintiff must allege and prove a continuous "readiness and willingness" to perform the contract on his part from the date of the contract. The onus is on the plaintiff.

26. It has been rightly considered by this Court in R.C. Chandiok & Anr. vs. Chuni Lal Sabharwal & Ors., (1970) 3 SCC 140 that "readiness and willingness" cannot be treated as a straight jacket formula. This has to be determined from the entirety of the facts and circumstances relevant to the intention and conduct of the party concerned.

27. It is settled law that even in the absence of specific plea by the opposite party, it is the mandate of the statute that plaintiff has to comply with Section 16(c)of the Specific Relief Act and when there is non- compliance with this statutory mandate, the Court is not bound to grant specific performance and is left with no other alternative but to dismiss the suit. It is also clear that readiness to perform must be established throughout the relevant points of time. "Readiness and willingness" to perform the part of the contract has to be determined/ascertained from the conduct of the parties."

14. Lastly, he contended that the impleadment application impleading the subsequent purchaser was allowed on 03.08.2016 and notices having been issued on 22.08.2016 and the trial court on the next date i.e. 26.09.2016 observing that the suit has to be expeditiously decided in view of the directions of the High Court fixed for 27.09.2016 and thereafter publication was permitted on 24.10.2016 and the suit was decreed on 28.10.2016 leaving no time for the appellants to contest the same.

15. Sri Ravi Kant, learned Senior Counsel, appearing for the plaintiff respondent nos. 1 and 2, submitted that the agreement to sale which was entered on 26.08.1985 between the plaintiff and defendant (deceased Jaswant Singh) is a registered document. The sale-deed was to be executed within four months during which Jaswant Singh was required to take necessary permission from the Income Tax Department. According to him, the notice was given by the plaintiff to the defendant on 05.12.1985 for executing the sale-deed on 24.12.1985. The plaintiff having been present in the office of Sub-Registrar on that day and then again on 26.12.1985 had brought on record the receipt dated 24.12.1985 and 26.12.1985 through Paper No. 98-Ga which clearly proves that the plaintiff was always ready and willing to perform the essential terms of the contract which are to be performed by him and, thus, the provisions of Section 16 (c) of the Act of 1963 should be read in favour of plaintiff having complied the said provision.

16. He further submitted that a subsequent purchaser from vendor defendant, though necessary party to a suit, cannot raise such a plea and it is only the vendor defendant who can raise such plea. Reliance has been placed upon the decision of Apex Court in case of Jugraj Singh and another Vs. Labh Singh and others Vs. 1995 (2) SCC 31. Relevant paragraph nos. 3 to 5 are extracted here as under;

"3. Section 16 (c) of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 provides that the plaintiff must plead and prove that he has always been ready and willing to perform his part of the essential terms of the contract. The continuous readiness and willingness at all stages from the date of the agreement till the date of the hearing of the suit need to be proved. The substance of the matter and surrounding circumstances and the conduct of the plaintiff must be taken into consideration in adjudging readiness and willingness to perform the plaintiff's part of the contract.

4.The Privy Council in Ardeshir H. Mama v. Flora Sassonhas held that in a suit for specific performance the averment of readiness and willingness on plaintiff's part up to the date of the decree is necessary.

5.This Court in Gomathinayagam Pillai v. Palaniswami Nadarquoting with approval Ardeshir case had held as follows:

"But the respondent has claimed a decree for specific performance and it is for him to establish that he was, since the date of the contract, continuously ready and willing to perform his part of the contract. If he fails to do so, his claim for specific performance must fail."

That plea is specifically available to the vendor/defendant. It is personal to him. The subsequent purchasers have got only the right to defend their purchase on the premise that they have no prior knowledge of the agreement of sale with the plaintiff. They are bona fide purchasers for valuable consideration. Though they are necessary parties to the suit, since any decree obtained by the plaintiff would be binding on the subsequent purchasers, the plea that the plaintiff must always be ready and willing to perform his part of the contract must be available only to the vendor or his legal representatives, but not to the subsequent purchasers. The High Court, therefore, was right in rejecting the petitioners' contention and rightly did not accept the plea. We do not find any ground warranting interference."

17. He then submitted that the lower appellate court had categorically recorded the finding as to the readiness and willingness of the plaintiff for execution of sale-deed by the defendant in his favour. He then contended that the lower appellate court had substantially complied the provisions of Order 41 Rule 31 C.P.C. as it is clear from the judgment of lower appellate court that there is substantial compliance of requirement of Order 41 Rule 31 C.P.C.

18. According to him, the lower appellate court had considered the entire evidence and discussed in detail, and the conclusion and findings are supported by reasons even though no point of determination has been framed. Reliance has been placed upon the decision of Apex Court in case of G. Amalorpavam and others Vs. R.C. Diocese of Madurai and others, 2006 (3) SCC 224. Relevant paragraph no. 9 is extracted here as under;

"9. The question whether in a particular case there has been a substantial compliance with the provisions of Order 41 Rule 31 CPC has to be determined on the nature of the judgment delivered in each case. Non-compliance with the provisions may not vitiate the judgment and make it wholly void, and may be ignored if there has been substantial compliance with it and the second appellate Court is in a position to ascertain the findings of the lower appellate Court. It is no doubt desirable that the appellate court should comply with all the requirements of Order 41 Rule 31 CPC. But if it is possible to make out from the judgment that there is substantial compliance with the said requirements and that justice has not thereby suffered, that would be sufficient. Where the appellate court has considered the entire evidence on record and discussed the same in detail, come to any conclusion and its findings are supported by reasons even though the point has not been framed by the appellate Court there is substantial compliance with the provisions of Order 41 Rule 31 CPC and the judgment is not in any manner vitiated by the absence of a point of determination. Where there is an honest endeavour on the part of the lower appellate court to consider the controversy between the parties and there is proper appraisement of the respective cases and weighing and balancing of the evidence, facts and the other considerations appearing on both sides is clearly manifest by the perusal of the judgment of the lower appellate court, it would be a valid judgment even though it does not contain the points for determination. The object of the Rule in making it incumbent upon the appellate court to frame points for determination and to cite reasons for the decision is to focus attention of the Court on the rival contentions which arise for determination and also to provide litigant parties opportunity in understanding the ground upon which the decision is founded with a view to enable them to know the basis of the decision and if so considered appropriate and so advised to avail the remedy of Second Appeal conferred by Section 100 CPC."

19. He next submitted that the defendant (deceased Jaswant Singh) executed the sale-deed in favour of Ravi Prakash Agrawal on 28.10.1987 while the suit for specific performance was filed by the plaintiff respondent nos. 1 and 2 on 26.10.1987 i.e. prior to the execution of sale-deed in favour of Ravi Prakash Agrawal and others. According to him, the doctrine of lis pendens will apply and the party purchasing the property after suit has been filed by the original purchaser will not get the title and benefit. Thus, exemption of Section 19 (b) of the Act of 1963 will not be available to appellants in view of doctrine of lis pendens.

20. Reliance has been placed upon the judgment of Apex Court in case of Guruswamy Nadar (Supra). Relevant paragraph nos. 9, 10 and 17 are extracted here as under;

"9. Section 19 of the Specific Relief Act clearly says subsequent sale can be enforced for good and sufficient reason but in the present case, there is no difficulty because the suit was filed on 3.5.1975 for specific performance of the agreement and the second sale took place on 5.5.1975. Therefore, it is the admitted position that the second sale was definitely after the filing of the suit in question. Had that not been the position then we would have evaluated the effect of Section Section 52 the Transfer of Property Act. But in the present case it is more than apparent that the suit was filed before the second sale of the property. Therefore, the principle of lis pendens will govern the present case and the second sale cannot have the overriding effect on the first sale.

10. The principle of lis pendens is still settled principle of law. In this connection, the Full Bench of the Allahabad High Court in Smt. Ram Peary (supra) has considered the scope of Section 52 the Transfer of Property Act. The Full Bench has referred to a decision in Bellamy v. Sabine[(1857) 44 ER 842 at p.847)wherein it was observed as under:

"4..... It is scarcely correct to speak of lis pendens as affecting a purchaser through the doctrine of notice, though undoubtedly the language of the Courts often so describes its operation. It affects him not because it amounts to notice, but because the law does not allow litigant parties to give to others, pending the litigation, rights to the property in dispute, so as to prejudice the opposite party.

Where a litigation is pending between a plaintiff and a defendant as to the right to a particular estate, the necessities of mankind required that the decision of the Court in the suit shall be finding, not only on the litigant parties, but also on those who derive title under them by alienations made pending the suit, whether such alienees had or had not notice of the pending proceedings. If this wsere not so, there could be no certainty that the litigation would ever come to an end."

17. Similarly, in Jugraj Singh & Anr. V. Labh Singh & Ors. [(1995) 2 SCC 31], it was also emphasized that the plea that the plaintiff was to prove that he was ready and willing to perform his part of the contract. It is personal to him. The subsequent purchasers have got only the right to defend their purchase on the premise that they have no prior knowledge of the agreement of sale with the plaintiff. They are bona fide purchasers for valuable consideration, though they were not necessary parties to the suit. But in the present case, the second purchaser was a defendant in the suit and this plea was also considered by learned Single Judge and it found that there was sufficient allegation made in the plaint that the plaintiff was ready and willing to perform his part of the contract. This aspect was dealt with by learned Single Judge in its order dated 24.7.1990 and learned Single Judge in paragraph 8 held as follows:

" On the first of these submissions, I find that as against the definite plea in paragraph 7 of the Plant that Plaintiff has been and is still ready and is still ready and willingly specifically to perform the agreement on her part of which the 1st Defendant has had notice. The only plea in the written statement of the 1st Respondent is " the allegations in Para 7 of the Plaint that this Defendant is aware of the contract is denied as false". Thus, it is found that there is no denial at all t the plea that the Plaintiff was ready and willing to perform her part of the contract. Likewise, the 2nd Respondent also has not denied the said plea, in his written statement. Further, to the specific averment in para 5 of the Plaint "by the latter part of July, 1974, the Plaintiff informed the Defendants of her readiness to complete the sale", there is no specific denial at all. There is only a vague and evasive denial by the 1st Respondent as follows:

" The allegation contained in para 5 of the Plaint are frivolous and denied.'

Likewise, the 2nd Respondent also has not specifically denied the above said averment in the Plaint."

Therefore, from this finding it is more than apparent that the plaintiff while filed the suit for specific performance of the contract was ready and willing to perform her part of the contract. This argument was though not specifically argued before the Division Bench, the only question which was argued was whether the principle of lis pendens will be applicable or Section 19 of the Specific Relief Act will have overriding effect to which we have already answered. In the present case the principle of lis pndens will be applicable as the second sale has taken place after the filing of the suit. Therefore, the view taken by the Division Bench of the High Court is correct and we do not find any merit in this appeal and the same is accordingly dismissed with no order as to costs."

21. Reliance has also been placed upon a decision of coordinate Bench of this Court in case of Awadh Raj and others Vs. Gulab Singh and others, 2005 (2) AWC 1827 (All). Relevant paragraph nos. 17 and 18 are extracted here as under;

"17. The fourth substantial question of law relates to the question as to whether the defendant-appellants are bona fide purchasers for value without notice. I may again refer to the exception of the general rule given in Section 19 of the Specific Relief Act. This exception has been created in Section 19 of the Specific Relief Act in favour of the bona fide transferee without notice. The burden of proving this exception is on the party pleading it. Here, in the instant case, the defendant-appellants are pleading that they are the bona fide transferees for value without notice. In order to challenge the finding of the lower appellate court; the defendant-appellants have raised this contention. The learned first appellate court has recorded a finding that the agreement in question executed in favour of the plaintiff is a registered document and the defendant-appellants have not made any enquiry before getting the sale deed executed from the office of the Sub-Registrar about the title over the disputed land. The first appellate court has referred the admission of the defendant No. 2 Lalta Prasad Singh in which he has stated that he had not made any enquiry before the execution of the sale deed. It has been argued that the registration of the agreement cannot be said to be sufficient notice to the purchaser. This contention has no force of law. For this purchase, I may refer the interpretation of a phrase "a person is said to have notice" given under Section 3 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 which is as follows :

" 'a person is said to have notice' of a fact when he actually knows that fact, or when, but for wilful abstention from an inquiry or search which he ought to have made, or gross negligence, he would have known it.

Explanation 1.--Where any transaction relating to immovable property is required by law to be and has been effected by a registered instrument, any person acquiring such property or any part of, or share or interest in, such property shall be deemed to have notice of such instrument as from the date of registration or where the property is not all situated in one sub-district, or where the registered instrument has been registered under Sub-section (2) of Section 30 of the Indian Registration Act, 1908 from the earliest date on which any memorandum of such registered instrument has been filed by any Sub-Registrar within whose sub-district any part of the property which is being acquired, or of the property wherein a share or interest is being acquired, is situated ;

Provided that--

(1) The instrument has been registered and its registration completed in the manner prescribed by the Indian Registration Act, 1908 and the rules made thereunder.

(2) The instrument or memorandum has been duly entered or filed, as the case may be, in books kept under Section 51 of that Act, and ;

(3) The particulars regarding the transaction to which the instrument relates have been correctly entered in the indexes kept under Section 55 of that Act.

Explanation II.--Any person acquiring any immovable property or any share or interest in any such property shall be deemed to have notice of the title, if any, of any person who is for the time being in actual possession thereof.

Explanation III.--A person shall be deemed to have had notice of any fact if his agent acquires notice thereof whilst acting on his behalf in the course of business to which that fact is material :

Provided that, if the agent fraudulently conceals the fact, the principal shall not be charged with notice thereof as against any person who was a party to or otherwise cognizant of the fraud."

18. The Transfer of Property Act, 1882 contemplates three kinds of notice ; (i) actual notice, (ii) constructive or implied notice and (iii) notice to an Agent. Notice includes both actual and constructive notice. The legal presumption of knowledge of notice arises from (a) a wilful abstention from inquiry and search ; (b) gross negligence ; (c) omission to search registration in the register kept under the Registration Act; (d) Actual possession and (e) Notice to Agent. (See Ram Saran and Anr. v. Kuriamal and Ors., 1988 ALJ 1288). The person who is bound to make an inquiry and fails to do it should be held to have notice of all facts which would have come to his knowledge had he made the inquiry. Where a document has been registered a person would, as a matter of law be deemed to have notice in the circumstances and to the extent mentioned in the Explanation / to Section 3 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 cited above. It has been held by the Supreme Court that if, there is a charge on immovable property by registered instrument, the subsequent transferee will have notice of charge (See M.L. Abdul Jabbar Sahib v. H. Venkata Sastri and Sons and Ors., AIR 1969 SC 1147). Therefore, in view of the aforesaid legal proposition of law, I hold that the registration of an agreement to sell can be termed as sufficient notice to the purchaser in the circumstance when the subsequent purchaser himself admits that he had not made any enquiry before getting the sale deed executed from the vendor. The question as to whether the finding whether the defendant-appellants are bona fide purchaser for value without notice or not? is a finding of fact or law? Here, in this case when the defendant-appellants have not made any enquiry, there is a legal presumption of knowledge of notice arising from wilful abstention from enquiry and search. There can be a case of constructive notice and in that case, it will be a question of fact."

22. Sri Ravi Kant, learned Senior Counsel, lastly submitted that the impleadment application was allowed on 03.08.2016 and, thereafter, the order-sheet reveals that when the matter was fixed for 26.09.2016 there being a direction of this Court for early disposal of the matters which are prior to the year 2000, the Court fixed 27.10.2016. On that day the trial court found that the registered notice sent to the some of the defendant had returned back, order was passed for publication. On 14.10.2016 the court found that publication having been made and no one had appeared the court fixed 19.10.2016 for proceeding ex parte. Thereafter, 26.10.2016 was fixed for argument and on 28.10.2016 the judgment was passed by the trial court.

23. According to him, the defendant appellants deliberately did not appear before the trial court. He invited the attention of the Court to the Original Suit No. 314 of 1992 filed by the legal heirs of late Jaswant Singh for cancellation of the sale-deed executed in the year 1987 and 1988 in favour of Ravi Prakash Agrawal and others, and thereafter in favour of appellants' predecessor as well as the appellants, wherein the appellants have filed their written statement and the issue was framed regarding the cancellation of the sale-deed in view of the agreement to sale which had been executed by the father of the plaintiff of that suit in favour of plaintiff respondent nos. 1 and 2. The defendants have contested the suit and the said suit was dismissed on 31.07.2015. Thus, it can safely be said that the present appellants were fully aware of the fact that suit of plaintiff respondent nos. 1 and 2 was pending for specific performance.

24. I have heard rival submissions and perused the material on record.

25. Before proceeding to decide the present appeal, a cursory glance of Section 16 and Section 19 of the Act of 1963 are necessary for better appreciation of the case.

"16. Personal bars to relief.--Specific performance of a contract cannot be enforced in favour of a person--

2 [(a) who has obtained substituted performance of contract under section 20; or]

(b) who has become incapable of performing, or violates any essential term of, the contract that on his part remains to be performed, or acts in fraud of the contract, or wilfully acts at variance with, or in subversion of, the relation intended to be established by the contract; or

(c) 3 [who fails to prove] that he has performed or has always been ready and willing to perform the essential terms of the contract which are to be performed by him, other than terms of the performance of which has been prevented or waived by the defendant.

Explanation.--For the purposes of clause (c),--

(i) where a contract involves the payment of money, it is not essential for the plaintiff to actually tender to the defendant or to deposit in court any money except when so directed by the court;

(ii) the plaintiff 4 [must prove] performance of, or readiness and willingness to perform, the contract according to its true construction.

19. Relief against parties and persons claiming under them by subsequent title.--Except as otherwise provided by this Chapter, specific performance of a contract may be enforced against--

(a) either party thereto;

(b) any other person claiming under him by a title arising subsequently to the contract, except a transferee for value who has paid his money in good faith and without notice of the original contract;

(c) any person claiming under a title which, though prior to the contract and known to the plaintiff, might have been displaced by the defendant;

[(ca) when a limited liability partnership has entered into a contract and subsequently becomes amalgamated with another limited liability partnership, the new limited liability partnership which arises out of the amalgamation.]

(d) when a company has entered into a contract and subsequently becomes amalgamated with another company, the new company which arises out of the amalgamation;

(e) when the promoters of a company have, before its incorporation, entered into a contract for the purpose of the company and such contract is warranted by the terms of the incorporation, the company: Provided that the company has accepted the contract and communicated such acceptance to the other party to the contract."

26. Section 16 (c) of the Act of 1963 provides that specific performance of a contract cannot be enforced in favour of a person who fails to prove that he has performed or has always been ready and willing to perform the essential terms of the contract which are to be performed by him. Thus, a suit at the instance of a person seeking enforcement of a contract has to prove that he was ready and willing to execute his part of contract. Likewise, Section 19 provides that subsequent sale can be enforced for good and sufficient reasons where the transferee has paid his money in good faith and without notice of the original contract.

27. In the case in hand, it is an admitted position from both the sides that a registered agreement to sale was entered between plaintiff respondent nos. 1 and 2 and late Jaswant Singh, the defendant, on 26.08.1985. It is also not in dispute that Original Suit No. 849 of 1987 was filed by the plaintiff respondent against late Jaswant Singh for specific performance of the contract entered on 26.08.1985. Moreover, Jaswant Singh after filing of Original Suit No. 849 of 1987 executed a registered sale-deed on 28.10.1987 in favour of Ravi Prakash Agrawal and others. Subsequently, on 08.03.1988 the suit property was transferred by Ravi Prakash Agrawal and others in favour of present appellants' predecessor and appellant as well.

28. A finding has been returned by the lower appellate court to the extent that on 05.12.1985 plaintiff respondent gave notice to the defendant (deceased Jaswant Singh) for executing the sale-deed on 24.12.1985, on that day the plaintiff appeared before the office of Sub-Registrar but defendant did not turn up to execute the sale-deed. Again, it was agreed between the parties to appear on 26.12.1985, but that day also the defendant failed to appear and sought time for obtaining exemption certificate from the Income Tax Department. The finding recorded by the lower appellate court that the plaintiff respondent no. 1 was ready and willing to perform his part of contract and through document Paper No. 98-C, receipt of presence of plaintiff respondent before the office of Sub-Registrar on 24.12.1985 and 26.12.1985, has been brought on record to establish the readiness and willingness of the plaintiff respondent.

29. The decisions relied upon by the appellants' counsel is not applicable in the present case as plaintiff respondent was always ready and willing to perform his part of the contract. Apex Court in case of J.P. Builders (Supra) in fact supported the case of the plaintiff respondent who by his conduct and document brought on record has established his readiness and willingness to carry out the terms of the contract. There is no dispute to the fact that a decree of specific performance can only be granted when once the plaintiff establishes his case that he was ready and willing to perform his part of contract. The law in regard to Section 16 (c) of the Act of 1963 is no more res integra.

30. Moreover, the Apex Court in case of Jugraj Singh and another (Supra) in categorical terms held that the subsequent purchasers have got only the right to defend their purchase on the premise that they have no prior knowledge of the agreement of sale with the plaintiff and they are bonafide purchasers for valuable consideration. The plea regarding readiness and willingness can only be raised by the vendor defendant and not by the subsequent purchaser or his legal representatives.

31. Now coming to the argument raised by the appellants that lower appellate court having decreed the suit for specific performance and directing defendants to execute sale-deed in favour of plaintiff respondent and not granting benefit of Section 19 (b) of the Act of 1963 cannot be done unless the issue/point of determination was framed by the court below and the same was decided.

32. The arguments, so raised, have no merits as the sale-deed executed on 28.10.1987 by the defendant (deceased Jaswant Singh) in favour of Ravi Prakash Agrawal and others was hit by doctrine of lis pendens as the suit was filed by the plaintiff respondent on 26.10.1987. The law regarding lis pendens has already been settled by Full Bench of this Court in case of Smt. Ram Peary and others Vs. Gauri and others, AIR 1978 All 318. The Supreme Court relying upon this judgment held that the sale as well as the subsequent sale of the property during pendency of the suit cannot have overriding effect and doctrine of lis pendens will apply.

33. Apex Court in case of Guruswamy Nadar (Supra) relying upon the judgment of Smt. Ram Peary (Supra) and Jugraj Singh (Supra) held that second sale cannot have overriding effect over the first sale due to principle of lis pendens and the subsequent purchaser has only got the right to defend their purchase on the premise that they have no prior knowledge of the sale to the plaintiff.

34. In case of Awadh Raj (Supra) the Court while deciding the issue "whether registration of an agreement to sell can be termed as sufficient notice to the purchaser" held that the exception created in Section 19 of the Act of 1963 in favour of the bonafide transferee without notice, the burden of proving this exception is on the party pleading it.

35. In the present case, it is upon the appellants to show that they are the bonafide transferee for value without notice. In this regard Section 3 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (hereinafter referred as the "Act of 1882') is of great significance where the interpretation of phrase "a person said to have notice" has been given, which is extracted here as under;

"["a person is said to have notice"] of a fact when he actually knows that fact, or when, but for wilful abstention from an enquiry or search which he ought to have made, or gross negligence, he would have known it.

Explanation 1.--Where any transaction relating to immovable property is required by law to be and has been effected by a registered instrument, any person acquiring such property or any part of, or share or interest in, such property shall be deemed to have notice of such instrument as from the date of registration or, [where the property is not all situated in one sub-district, or where the registered instrument has been registered under sub-section (2) of section 30 of the Indian Registration Act, 1908 (16 of 1908), from the earliest date on which any memorandum of such registered instrument has been filed by any Sub-Registrar within whose sub-district any part of the property which is being acquired, or of the property wherein a share or interest is being acquired, is situated]:

Provided that--

(1) the instrument has been registered and its registration completed in the manner prescribed by the Indian. Registration Act, 1908 (16 of 1908) and the rules made thereunder,

(2) the instrument 3 [or memorandum] has been duly entered or filed, as the case may be, in books kept under section 51 of that Act, and

(3) the particulars regarding the transaction to which the instrument relates have been correctly entered in the indexes kept under section 55 of that Act.

Explanation II.--Any person acquiring any immoveable property or any share or interest in any such property shall be deemed to have notice of the title, if any, of any person who is for the time being in actual possession thereof.

Explanation III.--A person shall be deemed to have had notice of any fact if his agent acquires notice thereof whilst acting on his behalf in the course of business to which that fact is material:

Provided that, if the agent fraudulently conceals the fact, the principal shall not be charged with notice thereof as against any person who was a party to or otherwise cognizant of the fraud.]"

36. Thus, the Act of 1882 contemplates three kind of notice, (i) actual notice, (ii) constructive or implied notice and (iii) notice to an agent. The legal presumption of knowledge of notice arises from (a) a wilful abstention from inquiry and search; (b) gross negligence; (c) omission to search registration in the register kept under the Registration Act; (d) Actual possession and (e) Notice to Agent. The Supreme Court in case of M. L. Abdul Jabbar Sahid Vs. H. Venkata Sastri and Sons and others, AIR 1969 SC 1147, held that if there is a charge on immovable property by registered instrument, the subsequent transferee will have notice of charge.

37. In the present case the agreement to sale was registered on 26.08.1985, thus, the appellants will be deemed to have notice of the fact that an agreement to sale was entered between the plaintiff respondent and defendant (deceased Jaswant Singh). Moreover, the present appellants as well as their vendor Ravi Prakash Agrawal and others were party to the suit filed by the legal heirs of Jaswant Singh for cancellation of sale-deed in the year 1992, wherein while deciding the issue no. 1 the fact regarding pendency of suit filed by the plaintiff respondent had come into light and the said suit was dismissed in the year 2015 itself.

38. The argument raised by the appellants' counsel that no notice was given nor they were party to the suit and the trial court in a hurried manner partly decreed the suit, has no legs to stand in view of the provisions of the Act of 1882, wherein the registration of agreement to sale and omission on the part of the appellants to such registration in the register kept under the Registration Act would amount to notice, and also the fact that they were the defendants in the suit filed by the legal heirs of the defendant (deceased Jaswant Singh) since 1992, thus, taking a plea in the year 2016 that they were not aware of the fact cannot be accepted.

39. Lastly, it has been argued that the lower appellate court without framing the point of determination, as mandated under Order 41 Rule 31 C.P.C. has decided the appeal.

40. From the reading of the judgment of lower appellate court, it is clear that the court has considered the entire evidence on record and discussed the same in detail and has come to conclusion and recorded its finding though the point of determination has not been framed by the lower appellate court, but still there is substantial compliance of the provisions of Order 41 Rule 31 C.P.C.

41. The provisions of Order 41 Rule 31 C.P.C. mandates that a judgment of the appellate court shall be in writing and shall state (a) the points for determination, (b) the decision thereon, (c) the reasons for the decision, and (d) where the decree appealed from is reversed or varied, the relief to which the appellant is entitled.

42. In the present case an honest endeavour has been made on the part of lower appellate court to consider the controversy between the parties. There is proper appraisement of the respective case of both the sides and after considering and balancing all the evidence, facts and other consideration, the lower appellate court had proceeded to pronounce the judgment.

43. In case of G. Amalorpavam (Supra), the Apex Court while dealing with the said issue had held that the very object of Order 41 Rule 31 C.P.C. is in making it incumbent upon the appellate court to frame points for determination and to cite reasons for the decision is to focus attention of the Court on the rival contentions which arise for determination and also to provide litigant parties opportunity in understanding the ground upon which the decision is founded with a view to enable them to know the basis of the decision and if so considered appropriate and so advised to avail the remedy of second appeal conferred by Section 100 C.P.C.

44. In the present case, substantial compliance of the Order 41 Rule 31 C.P.C. has been made out by the lower appellate court and the judgment has been passed after re-appreciating the judgment as well as considering and weighing the respective cases of the parties.

45. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, I find that no substantial question of law arises in the present appeal and the lower appellate court has rightly decreed the suit of plaintiff respondent no. 1 for specific performance for which he is entitled pursuant to the registered agreement to sale executed on 26.08.1985 between the plaintiff and the defendant (deceased Jaswant Singh) under whom the present appellants are litigating. No interference is required by this Court with the judgment and decree passed by the lower appellate court on 19.01.2022 in Civil Appeal No. 132 of 2016.

46. The Apex Court in Civil Appeal No.8971 of 2010 (Kripa Ram (deceased) through Legal Representatives and others vs. Surendra Deo Gaur and others, decided on 16.11.2020 has held that the second appeal can be dismissed without even formulating the substantial question of law. Relevant paras 25 and 26 reads as under :

"25. In a judgment reported as Ashok Rangnath Magar v. Shrikant Govindrao Sangvikar (2015) 16 SCC 763, this Court held that the second appeal can be dismissed without even formulating the substantial question of law. The Court held as under:

"18. In the light of the provision contained in Section 100 Code of Civil Procedure and the ratio decided by this Court, we come to the following conclusion:

(i) On the day when the second appeal is listed for hearing on admission if the High Court is satisfied that no substantial question of law is involved, it shall dismiss the second appeal without even formulating the substantial question of law;

(ii) In cases where the High Court after hearing the appeal is satisfied that the substantial question of law is involved, it shall formulate that question and then the appeal shall be heard on those substantial question of law, after giving notice and opportunity of hearing to the Respondent;

(iii) In no circumstances the High Court can reverse the judgment of the trial court and the first appellate court without formulating the substantial question of law and complying with the mandatory requirements of Section 100 Code of Civil Procedure."

26. In view of the above findings, we do not find any error in the judgment and order of the High Court dismissing the Second Appeal. The present appeal is thus dismissed. Pending applications, if any, shall stand disposed of."

47. Both the Courts below had rightly dismissed the suit of the plaintiffs-appellants, which needs no interference by this Court. No substantial question of law is made out.

48. Second Appeal fails and is, hereby, dismissed.
