12. The learned Court below has rightly noted that PW-1, 2 and 4 are informant, his mother and sister respectively which belong to the same family and are interested witnesses and, therefore, their evidence is to be scrutinized very carefully. The informant-appellant has alleged in the report (Ex.A-1) that the accused-respondents threatened him against lodging a report but in his evidence PW-1 has stated that he went alone immediately afterwards to lodge the report. The conduct of PW-1 in going alone to lodge FIR immediately after having been threatened by the accused persons appears to be unnatural. PW-1 has alleged that the accused persons had hit him with but of a gun, stick and kicks but the same did not leave marks or cause bleeding. The accused had not hit him hard but had hit him slowly. PW-3 who conducted medical examination of PW-1 did not found any injury on the person of PW-1, which makes the prosecution case as well as veracity of the evidence of PW-1 and PW-2 doubtful.

13. PW-1 has stated that the medical examination of his sister was also conducted on the same day whereas the sister PW-4 Smt. Sudha has stated that she was not medically examined. No report of PW-4 is available on record and no statement in this regard has been made by PW-3. From this prosecution witnesses appear not to be trustworthy.

14. PW-1 has stated that he had gone to the Police Station alone, however PW-2 stated that her daughter had also gone to the Police Station with her. GD (Ex.A-5) mentions that the informant (PW-1) came with (Smt. Achchhi Devi-PW-2). Thus the version of PW-1, PW-2 and the narration in the GD, all contradict each other which indicates entries in the GD have been concocted.

15. PW-1 has alleged that Dhanni (co-accused) fired with a 315 bore country made pistol. Neither there is any witness of this incident nor was any empty cartridge recovered from the spot which could prove the informant's averment. The statement of PW-4 (informant's sister) that the accused persons hit her mother Smt. Achchhi Devi with but of country made pistol and thrown away the goods of the shop and take away the jewellery and other articles of marriage of PW-4 and her sister-in-law is not corroborated by the statements of PW-1 and PW-2 and appears to be false and unnatural.

16. PW-2 Smt. Achchhi Devi had stated that the accused broke down the goods when the informant had gone to the Police Station for lodging a report. The mention of breakage of goods done by the accused persons in the report Ex.A-1 indicates that the entire prosecution story is planned, concocted and fabricated else this fact could not have been mentioned report (Ex.A-1). From this analysis of the aforesaid facts, learned Court below passed the judgment and order dated 01.10.2011 acquitted the accused persons from all the charges. The appellant-informant has challenged the aforesaid order on the ground that PW-1, PW-2, PW-3, PW-4 and PW-7 have proved the prosecution story but the evidence adduced from the complainant/informant's side was not considered by the Court below. The grounds of challenge to the judgement and order dated 01.10.2014 taken by the informant/appellant are reproduced herein below:-

"1. Because, the court below has not considered the evidence on record.

2. Because, the prosecution has successfully proved the case.

3. Because, the P.W.1, P.W.2, P.W. 3, P.W. 4 and P.W.7 have proved the prosecution story but the court below has not considered.

4. Because the evidence adduced by the complainant/informant side was not considered by the court below.

5. Because, the prosecution has fully proved that the Opp. Parties have committed alleged crime. But the court below has ignored and overlooked the evidence against the Opp. Parties/respondents which is unfair and improper.

6. Because, the eye witnesses in First Information Report namely Saukhi Lal, Bhawanideen and Deshraj have not been examined before the court below.

7. Because, without considering the fact and circumstances of the case and evidence produced by the prosecution, the trial court has acquitted the accused person illegally."

17. Shri Santosh Kumar Tiwari, learned Amicus Curiae has placed reliance on a decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sunil Kumar Vs. State (Govt. of NCT Delhi), (2003) 11 SCC 367 in which relying upon earlier decision in Vadivelu Thevar v. State of Madras, AIR 1957 SC 614, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that:-

"8. In Vadivelu Thevar v. State of Madras this Court had gone into this controversy and divided the nature of witnesses in three categories, namely, wholly reliable, wholly unreliable and lastly, neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable. In the case of the first two categories this Court said that they pose little difficulty but in the case of the third category of witnesses, corroboration would be required. The relevant portion is quoted as under: (AIR p. 619, paras 11-12)

"Hence, in our opinion, it is a sound and well-established rule of law that the court is concerned with the quality and not with the quantity of the evidence necessary for proving or disproving a fact. Generally speaking, oral testimony in this context may be classified into three categories, namely:

(1) Wholly reliable.

(2) Wholly unreliable.

(3) Neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable.

In the first category of proof, the court should have no difficulty in coming to its conclusion either way -- it may convict or may acquit on the testimony of a single witness, if it is found to be above reproach or suspicion of interestedness, incompetence or subornation. In the second category, the court equally has no difficulty in coming to its conclusion. It is in the third category of cases, that the court has to be circumspect and has to look for corroboration in material particulars by reliable testimony, direct or circumstantial. There is another danger in insisting on plurality of witnesses. Irrespective of the quality of the oral evidence of a single witness, if courts were to insist on plurality of witnesses in proof of any fact, they will be indirectly encouraging subornation of witnesses."

18. He has also relied on a judgement of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Amar Singh Vs. Balwinder Singh, (2003) SCC 518, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that in cases of defective investigation the court has to be circumspect in evaluating the evidence but it would not be right in acquitting an accused person solely on account of the defect and to do so would tantamount to playing into the hands of the investigating officer if the investigation is designedly defective. There can be no dispute to the aforesaid proposition of law but the same does not apply to the facts and circumstances of the present case where the prosecution witnesses themselves have made contradictory statements regarding material facts relating to the incident and where PW-5 in whose house the PW-1 is said to have taken shelter has categorically denied the incident.

19. A perusal of the judgement and order dated 01.10.2014 indicates that the learned Court below has thoroughly examined the statements of all the prosecution witnesses. It is settled law that when witnesses are related persons, although their testimony is admissible and form basis of conviction of the accused-persons, the testimony of interested witness has to be examined with extra care and caution.

20. Upon scrutiny of the statements of the PW-1, PW-2 and PW-4, serious discrepancies have come to light. PW-1 has stated that he had gone to the Police Station alone, however PW-2 stated that her daughter had also gone to the Police Station. GD (Ex.A-5) mentions that the informant (PW-1) came with (Smt. Achchhi Devi-PW-2). Thus the version of PW-1, PW-2 and the narration in the GD, all contradict each other which indicates entries in the GD have been concocted.

21. This finding of the learned Court below is based on a thorough and proper analysis of the prosecution evidence. The finding arrived at after a thorough analysis of the entire admissible evidence placed on record cannot at all be termed as perverse.

22. In Jayamma v. State of Karnataka, (2021) 6 SCC 213, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has reiterated the manner in which the High Court should exercise its power of scrutiny in an appeal filed against an order of acquittal, in the following words: -

"the power of scrutiny exercisable by the High Court under Section 378 Cr.P.C. should not be routinely invoked where the view formed by the trial court was a "possible view". The judgment of the trial court cannot be set aside merely because the High Court finds its own view more probable, save where the judgment of the trial court suffers from perversity or the conclusions drawn by it were impossible if there was a correct reading and analysis of the evidence on record. To say it differently, unless the High Court finds that there is complete misreading of the material evidence which has led to miscarriage of justice, the view taken by the trial court which can also possibly be a correct view, need not be interfered with. This self-restraint doctrine, of course, does not denude the High Court of its powers to reappreciate the evidence, including in an appeal against acquittal and arrive at a different firm finding of fact."

23. A perusal of the grounds taken in the memo of appeal indicates that the order of the learned Court below has not been assailed on the ground that it is perverse. During the submission also, learned Amicus Curiae could not demonstrate that the findings of the learned Court below are perverse.

24. In these circumstances, in view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Jayamma (supra), we find that the appellant has failed to make out any ground for admission of the appeal. The appeal is accordingly dismissed at the stage of admission itself.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashwani Kumar Mishra, J.)

1. Jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is invoked in the present bunch of writ petitions, filed with the prayer to quash the First Information Report in Case Crime No.47 of 2022, under Sections 406, 409, 420, 467, 468, 471, 477-A and 120-B IPC, Police Station Phase-I, District Commissionerate Gautam Buddh Nagar, as also the order dated 18.2.2022 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Gautam Buddh Nagar directing lodging of aforesaid FIR, primarily on the ground that offences alleged therein are essentially in the nature of commercial dispute, which ought to have been resolved by way of arbitration and lodgement of first information report is an abuse of the process of law.

2. The informant company and its authorized signatory i.e. respondent no. 3 & 4 have appeared on a caveat and have objected to the maintainability of the writ petition, at this stage, urging that prima facie commissioning of cognizable offence is disclosed in the F.I.R. and the investigating agencies be allowed to proceed with the investigation and the rights and contentions advanced, on behalf of the petitioners, be left open for its examination upon conclusion of investigation. It is stressed that extent of offence since is yet to be determined, therefore, investigation into allegations are necessary before embarking upon adjudication of questions raised in these writ petitions. Arguments accordingly have been concluded by the respective counsel for the parties on the aspect relating to entertainability of the present writ petition, at this stage, and the need to interfere with the impugned First Information Report, as of now. The writ petitions, accordingly, are being disposed off by this common judgment with Writ Petition No.2672 of 2022 (Sharad Arora and another Vs. State of U.P. through Principal Secretary, Home, Lucknow and others) treated as the leading case.

3. We have heard Sri Dileep Kumar, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Sudhanshu Kumar, Sri Manish Singh, Mr.

Rajrshi Gupta & Sri Ramesh Chandra Yadav for the petitioners, Sri Arunendra Singh, learned AGA for the State and Sri Aman Lekhi learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Krishnarjun, Ms. Katyayini, Ms. Ranjana Roy Gaurai, Sri Ujjwal Jain, Ms. Niharika Behl and Smt. Diksha Mishra for the respondents.

4. Brief facts giving rise to the filing of instant writ petitions are that the petitioners in leading writ petition are the founder promoters and directors of a company named "Sensorise Digital Services Private Limited (hereinafter referred to as "SDSPL'), which is engaged in the business of providing "mission critical connectivity services' for Machine-to-Machine (M2M)/Internet of Things (IoT) by utilizing a technology, which is claimed to be open and fully standardized as per available global standards and registered as trademark "QoSim'. This technology is claimed to have existed since late 1990s and was commonly used for "plastic roaming'. SDSPL QoSim is stated to be a product based on the said solution concept and according to petitioners the product being standard based product has no confidential technology attached to it. SDSPL's Intellectual Property (IP) is restricted to "QoSim' trademark. When used in the AIS140 compliance use cases, the SDSPL QoSim is certified alongwith the device that it is embedded in and the certification belongs to the Device partner. SDSPL buys SIM cards from IIIrd Party manufacturers who own the IP and all the software on the card apart from the pre-requisite certifications for the manufacturing process are purchased from outside. SDSPL's customers allegedly are governmental or non-governmental agencies and the services are provided under well defined service level agreements.

5. SDSPL is otherwise a start-up company. It appears that the company needed infusion of funds to grow further and came in contact with the informant, which also is a company in the name of "KKH Finvest Private Limited' (hereinafter referred to as the "investor company'). It is claimed that after due diligence the officials of informant company entered into a memorandum of understanding (MoU) with the petitioner company in April, 2016, which was followed with execution of Shareholding and Share Subscription Agreement (hereinafter referred to as "SSSHA') between the SDSPL and the informant company.

6. The informant company agreed to infuse funds to the extent of Rs. 9 crore in return for 50% share in SDSPL and 49% voting rights. It is admitted that the amount of Rs. 9 crore has been invested by the informant company, although it is alleged that the deposit was somewhat delayed. It is also alleged that the petitioners were forced to sign a revenue sharing agreement with M/s Rosmerta Technologies Limited and by now approximately Rs. 8 crores have been paid to the company for and on behalf of informant company.

7. The management and control of SDSPL apparently was split between two factions i.e. the petitioners, who are the promoter directors, and the informant company and their relationship was being regulated by the terms of SSSHA. SDSPL continued to function in such manner for the last 5-6 years and various decisions came to be taken in respect of its affairs. It emerges that growth and projections disclosed to informant company, on the basis of which it infused funds in SDSPL, fell well short and differences have arisen between the two groups leading to the lodging of the impugned FIR.

8. SSSHA is on record of the writ petition as Annexure 7. Clause 20.2 of it provides for arbitration and Clause 20.2.1 contains an agreement between the parties that all disputes or differences between them in respect of or concerning or connected with the interpretation or implementation of SSSHA including its breach and termination shall at first instance be resolved through negotiation failing which the dispute be referred to arbitration in accordance with the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (hereinafter referred to as the Act of 1996). The investor company instituted a petition under Section 9 of the Act of 1996 before the Delhi High Court on 13.8.2021 levelling various allegations against the SDSPL and sought various reliefs including deferment of meetings till the disputes are resolved by the arbitral tribunal; restraining the respondents (petitioners herein) from deciding any of the agenda items outlined in the notice of adjournment dated 10.8.2021 etc. The prayer clause is exhaustive and included a direction to conduct an immediate audit of intellectual property of SDSPL; a direction that records of SDSPL including minutes of meetings of the Board of Directors and general meetings be corrected to reflect the true and correct proceedings; a direction for investigation for breach of Clause 15 of SSSHA and not to take any managerial decision in respect of the subsidiary of SDSPL i.e. Sensorise Smart Solutions Private Limited (hereinafter referred to as the "Subsidiary Company').

9. Aforesaid application filed under Section 9 of the Act of 1996 was registered as OMP (I)(COMM) 276 of 2021 before the Delhi High Court and the proceedings were deferred on 6.9.2021 on the statement of the parties that they are in conciliation proceedings and in all likelihood the matter would be settled. On 27th September, 2021 the Court was informed by the investor company that a communication is received from Managing Director of SDSPL about proposed Board meeting having been cancelled. The informant company got the petition under Section 9 of the Act of 1996 withdrawn and all pending applications stood disposed off, accordingly.

10. It is on record that no steps were taken thereafter by the informant company to invoke the arbitration clause and no application was otherwise filed for appointment of arbitrator under Section 11 of the Act of 1996.

11. Instead, an application came to be filed on 24.1.2022 under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Gautam Buddh Nagar by the informant company against the promoter directors of SDSPL and its Chief Strategic Officer and other members of its Key Managerial Team and M/s Sim. Things Private Limited and its founders/directors and another company named M/s Iotivity Communications Private Limited and its directors Debdip Saha and Shirsanka Saha, who was earlier a member of Key Managerial Team of SDSPL and had opened a new venture, alleging that the opposite parties in the application have committed cognizable offences in the manner disclosed in the application and the concerned police officials be directed to register FIR against the opposite parties under various sections of IPC.

12. Chief Judicial Magistrate after hearing the applicant called for comments from the concerned Police Station on the question as to whether any FIR has been lodged in the matter, and upon being informed in the negative, proceeded to direct lodging of the FIR vide his order dated 18.2.2022. This order of Chief Judicial Magistrate is also challenged in the present writ petition.

13. Before proceeding to record the submissions advanced in the matter and dealing with it, on merits, it would be appropriate to note the FIR allegations, for proper appreciation of issues raised in this bunch of writ petitions.

14. Informant has alleged in the FIR that founders, promoters and other officers and persons associated with the SDSPL have committed corporate fraud in a well calculated and pre meditated manner against the informant company. The informant company was invited to join as strategic partner with the clear assurance that the SDSPL and its key management team would continue to operate for the benefit of SDSPL and shall ensure confidentiality and would not engage in any competing business for a reasonable period after their termination with the business activity of SDSPL and based upon such representation succeeded in ensuring investment of Rs.9 crores from the informant company. It has later transpired that false representations were made to induce the informant company into investing funds inasmuch as from the very beginning the intention of petitioners was to cheat and not to act for the benefit of SDSPL. Having succeeded in their efforts to cheat the informant company by such inducement, the accused persons have conspired and connived to cheat the informant company by breaching the fiduciary duties owed as per SSSHA and misappropriated the know how and assets of SDSPL to make wrongful gain for themselves, jointly and severally. The IP (Intellectual Property) and its exclusive technology were diverted to another company formed with the active assistance and collaboration of accused and denied access to it, including its source code to the informant company. It is asserted that accused were never interested in developing the business of SDSPL and from the very beginning acted in a planned way to conspire for undue gain for themselves while causing losses for the informant company. For such purposes the minutes of meetings of SDSPL were also forged and fabricated and the business transacted in such meetings were misreported. The wife of first petitioner and father of second petitioner in the leading petition have set up a rival business in the name of M/s SIM Things Private Limited to engage in identical business activities. Business of SDSPL has been allegedly diverted to "SIM Things' thereby duping the informant company. It is further alleged that the extent of conspiracy and entirety of wrongful gains by accused persons is beyond the means of informant company to ascertain and can be determined only in a thorough police investigation. Dishonest inducement, cheating, falsification of company records to make wrongful gains etc. is thus sought to be inquired into in the FIR so as to punish the accused persons.

15. It is also mentioned in the FIR that despite such facts having been highlighted in the company meetings nothing was done and rather forged minutes were prepared showing presence of representative of informant company while he was hospitalized. It is further alleged that instead of rectifying the mistake the accused misled the informant company to enter into conciliation and utilized this time to perpetrate such fraud. The complaint further alleges that scale of fraud can be determined only during course of investigation and as the corporate office of SDSPL situates in NOIDA, as such the FIR needs to be registered at the concerned police station at NOIDA, Gautam Buddh Nagar and investigations be made to punish the accused for offences under Sections 406, 409, 420, 467, 468, 471, 477-A, 34 and 120-B IPC.

16. Learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner contends that allegations made in the FIR at best discloses existence of a commercial dispute between two factions of the company i.e. SDSPL and criminal investigation is not warranted for its resolution. It is urged that a preliminary enquiry ought to have been conducted in the matter by the magistrate before ordering registration of FIR in this case. Submission is that the order of magistrate under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. is a judicial order and preliminary enquiry warranted in a commercial dispute having not been conducted in view of the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Lalita Kumari Vs. Government of U.P. and others, (2014) 2 SCC 1, and Priyanka Srivastava and another Vs. State of U.P. and another, (2015) 6 SCC 287, as such the order of the magistrate directing lodgement of FIR is liable to be quashed. It is further urged that none of the ingredients of various sections of IPC, referred to in the FIR, are disclosed from its bare perusal, inasmuch as there is no entrustment of any property so as to attract sections 406 and 409 IPC; no specific allegation of making false account to attract section 477A; ingredients of "dishonestly' and "fraudulently' defined in section 24 and 25 are not made out as neither any specific allegation of wrongful gain nor making of any forged signature is substantiated; ingredients of section 467 regarding making of false document also is not substantiated. Learned Senior Counsel lastly submitted that the informant is attempting to give a colour of criminal offence to civil dispute and allegations since at best makes out a case of breach of contract and non-maintenance of correct records of company for which adequate adjudicatory process is provided under Chapter XIV of the Companies Act, 2013 from sections 206 to 224 as such the FIR deserves to be quashed.

17. Sri Aman Lekhi, learned Senior Counsel for the respondents, per contra, submits that holding of preliminary enquiry is not mandatory where allegations are specific with regard to commissioning of cognizable offence and the argument to the contrary proceeds on misreading of the referred judgments; same set of facts may give rise to a civil dispute and also criminal offence, both of which can be tried simultaneously, provided ingredients of an offence are disclosed. It is further submitted that specific allegations with regard to commissioning of cognizable offence are made in the FIR and defence of petitioners need not be examined at the threshold, in petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, and the investigation be allowed to be held as per Criminal Procedure Code. Argument also is that petitioners have indulged in forum shopping, inasmuch as, after having served notices for grant of anticipatory bail, they have chosen not to file such application and have instead filed the present petition.

18. Sri Arunendra Singh, learned A.G.A. has adopted the arguments of Sri Lekhi and submits that investigation is progressing in the matter and no occasion arises for this Court to interfere in the matter.

19. Learned Senior Counsels for the parties have elaborately addressed the Court on the aspect relating to maintainability of the present petition for challenging the order of Magistrate, passed under section 156(3) Cr.P.C. It has been urged that order of Magistrate is a judicial order and a writ petition would lie against it on the ground that a preliminary enquiry was not conducted in the matter and the offence alleged falls beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate concerned.

20. In reply, it is urged that even if the order of Magistrate is a judicial order yet the petitioners get no right to challenge it, at this stage, particularly after FIR is registered and the challenge would be limited to the FIR on the grounds permissible in law. Submission also is that corporate office of SDSPL is at Gautam Buddh Nagar and major part of the offences are committed there and thus, the territorial jurisdiction of Magistrate to pass an order under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. cannot be questioned.

21. Nature of an order passed by Magistrate under section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and the remedies available against it are no longer res-integra and fell for consideration earlier before a Full Bench of this Court in Father Thomas vs. State of U.P. and others, 2011 Criminal Law Journal 2278. The issue that arose before the Full Bench was whether the order of Magistrate under section 156(3) Cr.P.C. to direct the police to register FIR and conduct investigation is open to challenge in a revision? Nature of such order i.e. whether it is interlocutory in nature or final also fell for adjudication before the Full Bench. Correctness of the Division Bench judgement in Ajay Malviya vs. State of U.P. and others, 2000 (41) ACC 435 insofar as the revision was held maintainable and, therefore, a writ directed against consequential registration of FIR would not lie, was also questioned.

22. The Full Bench elaborately examined the scheme contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure and the applicable judgments on the issue to hold that right of hearing to a prospective accused at pre-cognizance stage is not conceived and, therefore, no revision would lie against such order which is purely interlocutory in nature, and involves no substantial rights of the parties. After referring to the judgement in Ajay Malviya (supra) the Full Bench observed as under in paragraph 64:-

"64. However it is made clear that the initial order for investigation under section 156(3) is also not open to challenge in a writ petition, as it is now beyond the pale of controversy that the province of investigation by the police and the judiciary are not overlapping but complementary. As observed by the Privy Council in paragraph 37 in Emperor v. Khwaja Nazir Ahmad, [AIR 1945 PC 18.] when considering the scope of the statutory powers of the police to investigate a cognizable case under sections 154 and 156 of the Code, that it would be an unfortunate result if the Courts in exercise of their inherent powers could interfere in this function of the police. The roles of the Court and police are "complementary not overlapping and the combination of individual liberty with a due observance of law and order is only to be obtained by leaving each to exercise its own function."

The Full Bench, therefore, clearly held that the view taken by the Division Bench in Ajay Malviya (supra) that Magistrate's order is revisable is not correct and that the direction to register FIR is interlocutory in nature. The judgment in Father Thomas (supra) holds the field even as of now.

23. The above position in law has been reiterated by the Supreme Court in HDFC Securities Limited and others vs. State of Maharashtra and another, (2017) 1 SCC 640. In para 27 the Court has observed as under:-

"27. It appears to us that the appellants approached the High Court even before the stage of issuance of process. In particular, the appellants challenged the order dated 4-1-2011 passed by the learned Magistrate under Section 156(3) CrPC. The learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellants after summarising their arguments in the matter have emphasised also in the context of the fundamental rights of the appellants under the Constitution, that the order impugned has caused grave inequities to the appellants. In the circumstances, it was submitted that the order is illegal and is an abuse of the process of law. However, it appears to us that this order under Section 156(3) CrPC requiring investigation by the police, cannot be said to have caused an injury of irreparable nature which, at this stage, requires quashing of the investigation. We must keep in our mind that the stage of cognizance would arise only after the investigation report is filed before the Magistrate. Therefore, in our opinion, at this stage the High Court has correctly assessed the facts and the law in this situation and held that filing of the petitions under Article 227 of the Constitution of India or under Section 482 CrPC, at this stage are nothing but premature. Further, in our opinion, the High Court correctly came to the conclusion that the inherent powers of the Court under Section 482 CrPC should be sparingly used."

(emphasis supplied)

24. We are, therefore, not inclined to entertain the present bunch of writ petitions in so far as the order of Magistrate directing the registration of FIR is challenged. Even otherwise, the order of Magistrate has been given effect to and the consequential FIR has been registered. Challenge to the FIR is permissible on the limited grounds enumerated in State of Haryana Vs. Bhajan Lal, [1992 Suppl (1) SCC 335], and such remedy having been availed the challenge to the order of Magistrate under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. is declined.

25. So far as the plea of non holding of preliminary enquiry in the matter is concerned, the argument on behalf of the petitioners proceeds on the judgement of the Supreme Court in Lalita Kumari and Priyanka Srivastava (supra). The Constitution Bench in Lalita Kumar (supra) observed as under in para 120.6 of the report:-

"120.6. As to what type and in which cases preliminary inquiry is to be conducted will depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. The category of cases in which preliminary inquiry may be made are as under:

(a) Matrimonial disputes/family disputes

(b) Commercial offences

(c) Medical negligence cases

(d) Corruption cases

(e) Cases where there is abnormal delay/laches in initiating criminal prosecution, for example, over 3 months' delay in reporting the matter without satisfactorily explaining the reasons for delay.

The aforesaid are only illustrations and not exhaustive of all conditions which may warrant preliminary inquiry."

It is urged with reference to the above judgment that the present case falls in second category, at best, and a preliminary inquiry was mandatory.

26. The conclusions expressed in para 120 of the judgment in Lalita Kumari (supra) can be better understood if it is examined in light of observations made in para 119 of the report, which is reproduced hereinafter:-

"119. Therefore, in view of various counterclaims regarding registration or non-registration, what is necessary is only that the information given to the police must disclose the commission of a cognizable offence. In such a situation, registration of an FIR is mandatory. However, if no cognizable offence is made out in the information given, then the FIR need not be registered immediately and perhaps the police can conduct a sort of preliminary verification or inquiry for the limited purpose of ascertaining as to whether a cognizable offence has been committed. But, if the information given clearly mentions the commission of a cognizable offence, there is no other option but to register an FIR forthwith. Other considerations are not relevant at the stage of registration of FIR, such as, whether the information is falsely given, whether the information is genuine, whether the information is credible, etc. These are the issues that have to be verified during the investigation of the FIR. At the stage of registration of FIR, what is to be seen is merely whether the information given ex facie discloses the commission of a cognizable offence. If, after investigation, the information given is found to be false, there is always an option to prosecute the complainant for filing a false FIR."

The above principle has been reiterated in Priyanka Srivastava (supra) and subsequent judgments on the point.

27. The ratio culled out from paragraph 119 and 120 of the judgment in Lalita Kumari (supra) is that where information given to police ex-facie discloses commissioning of cognizable offence, its registration is mandatory. It is only where information given does not disclose cognizable offence that the FIR may not be registered immediately and some sort of a preliminary verification or enquiry could be held. The use of word 'may' in the judgment is suggestive that such preliminary inquiry is not mandatory in all cases of alleged commercial offences and that such inquiry would be desirable only in a case where information furnished ipso facto does not disclose commissioning of a cognizable offence so as to ascertain whether a cognizable offence has been committed or not?

28. Discretion is, therefore, left with the Magistrate in the matter of holding or otherwise of preliminary inquiry in cases of alleged commercial offence depending upon the facts of a case and it cannot be said that in every case of alleged commercial offence holding of preliminary inquiry would be mandatory. An order of Magistrate, therefore, cannot be challenged on the ground of non-holding of preliminary inquiry if the information given to Magistrate ex-facie discloses commissioning of cognizable offence.

29. In the facts of the present case we find that the FIR contains ex-facie disclosure of cognizable offence in the matter and whether such information is falsely given or is credible or genuine would have to be verified only during the investigation pursuant to FIR. The challenge to the FIR on the ground of non-holding of preliminary enquiry thus fails.

30. Sri Dileep Kumar, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners then took us through the contents of application filed before the Delhi High Court by the informant company in application under section 9 of the Act of 1996, in order to submit that same set of facts form the basis of relief therein, as are mentioned in the impugned FIR and, therefore, lodgement of FIR is bad in law.

31. Though the argument of Sri Kumar appears attractive at the first blush, but a deeper examination of the matter persuades us not to accept it for the reasons enumerated hereinafter.

32. Same set of facts may constitute an offence under the Indian Penal Code while constituting breach of agreement on part of one of the parties and parallel proceedings can always proceed on both counts. What is of importance is to ascertain whether ingredients of an offence are made out in the facts of the case or not? In Priti Saraf and another vs. State of NCT of Delhi and another, (2021) SCC Online SC 206 the Court has observed as under in paragraph 32 to 34 of the judgment:-

"32. In the instant case, on a careful reading of the complaint/FIR/charge-sheet, in our view, it cannot be said that the complaint does not disclose the commission of an offence. The ingredients of the offences under Sections 406 and 420 IPC cannot be said to be absent on the basis of the allegations in the complaint/FIR/charge-sheet. We would like to add that whether the allegations in the complaint are otherwise correct or not, has to be decided on the basis of the evidence to be led during the course of trial. Simply because there is a remedy provided for breach of contract or arbitral proceedings initiated at the instance of the appellants, that does not by itself clothe the court to come to a conclusion that civil remedy is the only remedy, and the initiation of criminal proceedings, in any manner, will be an abuse of the process of the court for exercising inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482 CrPC for quashing such proceedings.

33. We have perused the pleadings of the parties, the complaint/FIR/charge-sheet and orders of the Courts below and have taken into consideration the material on record. After hearing learned counsel for the parties, we are satisfied that the issue involved in the matter under consideration is not a case in which the criminal trial should have been short-circuited. The High Court was not justified in quashing the criminal proceedings in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction. The High Court has primarily adverted on two circumstances, (i) that it was a case of termination of agreement to sell on account of an alleged breach of the contract and (ii) the fact that the arbitral proceedings have been initiated at the instance of the appellants. Both the alleged circumstances noticed by the High Court, in our view, are unsustainable in law. The facts narrated in the present complaint/FIR/charge-sheet indeed reveal the commercial transaction but that is hardly a reason for holding that the offence of cheating would elude from such transaction. In fact, many a times, offence of cheating is committed in the course of commercial transactions and the illustrations have been set out under Sections 415, 418 and 420 IPC. Similar observations have been made by this Court in Trisuns Chemical Industry v. Rajesh Agarwal (supra):--

"9. We are unable to appreciate the reasoning that the provision incorporated in the agreement for referring the disputes to arbitration is an effective substitute for a criminal prosecution when the disputed act is an offence. Arbitration is a remedy for affording reliefs to the party affected by breach of the agreement but the arbitrator cannot conduct a trial of any act which amounted to an offence albeit the same act may be connected with the discharge of any function under the agreement. Hence, those are not good reasons for the High Court to axe down the complaint at the threshold itself. The investigating agency should have had the freedom to go into the whole gamut of the allegations and to reach a conclusion of its own. Pre-emption of such investigation would be justified only in very extreme cases as indicated in State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal [1992 Supp (1) SCC 335]"

34. So far as initiation of arbitral proceedings is concerned, there is no correlation with the criminal proceedings. That apart, the High Court has not even looked into the charge-sheet filed against 2nd respondent which was on record to reach at the conclusion that any criminal offence as stated is prima facie being made out and veracity of it indeed be examined in the course of criminal trial."

33. Merely because on similar facts an application under section 9 of the Act of 1996 is instituted or arbitration for resolution of contractual dispute can be availed of, in terms of the agreement, it would not mean that criminal action cannot be set in motion even though prima facie ingredients of offence are disclosed in the FIR. The fact that even after filing application under section 9 of the Act of 1996 the dispute has not yet been referred to the arbitrator, or the court approached under section 11 of the Act of 1996, also cannot be a ground to challenge the FIR if it otherwise discloses cognizable offence.

34. Whether allegations made in the FIR are correct or not is not required to be examined by this Court, under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, at this stage, since the facts are to be ascertained by the concerned investigating agency at the first instance.

35. Law is otherwise well settled that same set of acts or omissions may constitute offences under different enactments and where there are two distinct offences disclosed, made up of different ingredients, the punishment in both would be permissible even if the offences have some overlapping features. In State vs. Navjot Sandhu, (2005) 11 SCC 600 the Court has observed as under in paragraph 255:-

"255. The learned counsel, apart from placing reliance on Section 56 of POTA, has also drawn our attention to Section 26 of the General Clauses Act and Section 71 IPC. His contention, though plausible it is, has no legal basis. We do not think that there is anything in Section 56 of POTA which supports his contention. That provision only ensures that the conspiracy to commit the terrorist act shall be punishable under POTA. As the appellant is being punished under that section, irrespective of the liability to be punished under the other laws, Section 56 ceases to play its role. Then, we shall turn to Section 26 of the General Clauses Act, which lays down:

"26. Where an act or omission constitutes an offence under two or more enactments, then the offender shall be liable to be prosecuted and punished under either or any of those enactments, but shall not be liable to be punished twice for the same offence."

It becomes at once clear that the emphasis is on the words "same offence". It is now well settled that where there are two distinct offences made up of different ingredients, the bar under Section 26 of the General Clauses Act or for that matter, the embargo under Article 20 of the Constitution, has no application, though the offences may have some overlapping features. The crucial requirement of either Article 20 of the Constitution or Section 26 of the General Clauses Act is that the offences are the same or identical in all respects. It was clarified in *State of Bihar v. Murad Ali Kha*n [(1988) 4 SCC 655 : 1989 SCC (Cri) 27] : (SCC p. 668, paras 30-31)

""Though Section 26 in its opening words refers to "the act or omission constituting an offence under two or more enactments", the emphasis is not on the facts alleged in the two complaints but rather on the ingredients which constitute the two offences with which a person is charged. This is made clear by the concluding portion of the section which refers to "shall not be liable to be punished twice for the same offence". If the offences are not the same but are distinct, the ban imposed by this provision also cannot be invoked.'

The same set of facts, in conceivable cases, can constitute offences under two different laws. An act or an omission can amount to and constitute an offence under IPC and at the same time constitute an offence under any other law." (emphasis in original)

We accept the argument of the learned counsel for the State Mr Gopal Subramanium that offences under Section 302 IPC, Sections 3(2) and 3(3) of POTA are all distinct offences and a person can be charged, tried, convicted and punished for each of them severally. The analysis of these provisions show that the ingredients of these offences are substantially different and that an offence falling within the ambit of Section 3(1) may not be squarely covered by the offence under Section 300 IPC. The same set of facts may constitute different offences. The case of State of M.P. v. Veereshwar Rao Agnihotry [1957 SCR 868 : 1957 Cri LJ 892] is illustrative of this principle. In that case, it was held that the offence of criminal misconduct punishable under Section 5(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act is not identical in essence, import and content with an offence under Section 409 IPC. The bar to the punishment of the offender twice over for the same offence would arise only where the ingredients of both the offences are the same."

36. In Sangeetaben Mahendrabhai Patel vs. State of Gujarat, (2012) 7 SCC 621 the Court observed as under in paragraph 31 to 33:-

"31. Similar view has been reiterated by this Court in State of Haryana v. Balwant Singh [(2003) 3 SCC 362 : 2003 SCC (L&S) 279 : AIR 2003 SC 1253] , observing that there may be cases of misappropriation, cheating, defamation, etc. which may give rise to prosecution on criminal side and also for action in civil court/other forum for recovery of money by way of damages, etc. Therefore, it is not always necessary that in every such case the provisions of Article 20(2) of the Constitution may be attracted.

32. In Hira Lal Hari Lal Bhagwati v. CBI [(2003) 5 SCC 257 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 1121 : AIR 2003 SC 2545] this Court while considering the case for quashing the criminal prosecution for evading the customs duty, where the matter stood settled under the Kar Vivad Samadhan Scheme, 1998, observed that once the tax matter was settled under the said Scheme, the offence stood compounded, and prosecution for evasion of duty, in such a circumstance, would amount to double jeopardy.

33. In view of the above, the law is well settled that in order to attract the provisions of Article 20(2) of the Constitution i.e. doctrine of autrefois acquit or Section 300 CrPC or Section 71 IPC or Section 26 of the General Clauses Act, the ingredients of the offences in the earlier case as well as in the latter case must be the same and not different. The test to ascertain whether the two offences are the same is not the identity of the allegations but the identity of the ingredients of the offence. Motive for committing the offence cannot be termed as the ingredients of offences to determine the issue. The plea of autrefois acquit is not proved unless it is shown that the judgment of acquittal in the previous charge necessarily involves an acquittal of the latter charge."

37. On behalf of the petitioners it has been emphasized that information disclosed in the FIR would fall short of the ingredients required to constitute offences in the disclosed section(s), and the disclosure otherwise is wrong on facts.

38. Admittedly, the facts in its entirety are not before the Court and the investigation is yet to conclude. At this stage, it would not be safe for this Court to adjudicate facts so as to hold that necessary ingredients of offences alleged are not made out against the writ petitioners. A word of caution has been sounded by the Supreme Court for exercise of power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India in Monika Kumar (Dr.) vs. State of U.P., (2008) 8 SCC 781 and reiterated in R. Kalyani vs. Janak C. Mehta, (2009) 1 SCC 516. In R. Kalyani (supra) the Court observed as under in paragraph 14 & 15 of the judgment:-

"14. However, Monica Kumar (Dr.) v. State of U.P. [(2008) 8 SCC 781 : (2008) 9 Scale 166] held: (SCC p. 798, para 36)

"36. ... The inherent power should not be exercised to stifle a legitimate prosecution. The High Court being the highest court of a State should normally refrain from giving a prima facie decision in a case where the entire facts are incomplete and hazy, more so when the evidence has not been collected and produced before the Court and the issues involved, whether factual or legal, are of magnitude and cannot be seen in their true perspective without sufficient material. Of course, no hard-and-fast rule can be laid down in regard to cases in which the High Court will exercise its jurisdiction of quashing the proceeding at any stage."

(1) The High Court ordinarily would not exercise its inherent jurisdiction to quash a criminal proceeding and, in particular, a first information report unless the allegations contained therein, even if given face value and taken to be correct in their entirety, disclosed no cognizable offence.

(2) For the said purpose the Court, save and except in very exceptional circumstances, would not look to any document relied upon by the defence.

(3) Such a power should be exercised very sparingly. If the allegations made in the FIR disclose commission of an offence, the Court shall not go beyond the same and pass an order in favour of the accused to hold absence of any mens rea or actus reus.

(4) If the allegation discloses a civil dispute, the same by itself may not be a ground to hold that the criminal proceedings should not be allowed to continue."

39. We further find force in the argument that petitioners in the facts of the present case have remedy available to them of seeking appropriate protection under Section 438/439 of the code of criminal procedure and in the event such remedy is availed, it shall be dealt with in accordance with law without being influenced by any observation made in the present judgment. We clarify that examination of facts and legal questions in the present judgment were confined to the question posed at the outset i.e. whether interference in the impugned FIR is required in the present petitions or not? All legal and factual issues are thus left open for determination at appropriate stage of the proceedings in accordance with law. Specific role of each petitioner is also not required to be examined by us, at this stage, for the above reasons.

40. In view of our above deliberations we decline to interfere in the present writ petitions which are accordingly dismissed. No order is passed as to costs.

Writ Petition Allowed. (E-11)

List of Cases cited:-

1. Bhim Said Tyagi Vs St. of U.P. (Alld. Criminal Cases 1999 (39) 321),

2. Ram Ji Pandey Vs St. of U.P. & anr. (Criminal Law Journal 1981 (1083).

(Delivered by Hon'ble Deepak Verma, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner; learned A.G.A. for the State-respondents and perused the record.

2. The instant writ petition seeks quashing of the impugned show cause notice dated 01.02.2022 issued by the Additional District Magistrate (Finance and Revenue), Gorakhpur, under Section ¾ U.P. Control of Goondas Act, 1970.

3. It is contended by learned counsel for the petitioner that petitioner is a student of B.A. II year and his examination is going to start from 22.03.2022 and his conduct has always been good. He has been falsely implicated in the impugned notice on account of involvement in a solitary case under Section ¾ U.P. Control of Goondas Act. The petitioner is neither the gang leader nor he is associated with any gang as member and, therefore, no offence under the Goondas Act is made out. He has falsely been implicated in Case Crime No.161 of 2021, under Sections 147, 148, 452, 323, 504, 506, 336, 352, 427 I.P.C. It has next been contended that Investigating Officer has submitted charge sheet in the aforesaid case. The petitioner has been enlarged on anticipatory bail.

4. Counsel for the petitioner next argued that the respondents with mala fide intention initiated proceedings and issued notice dated 01.02.2022 under Section ¾ of U.P. Control of Goondas Act, 1970 against the petitioner, which is faulty and without following the mandatory provisions provided under Section 3(1) of the Act. It has been further argued that notice should contain essential assertion of facts in relation to matter set out in clause a, b and c sub Section 1 of Section 3 of Goondas Act. The notice dated 01.02.2022, challenged herein, does not refer to any evidence or facts.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon full Bench decision (five Judges) Bhim Sain Tyagi Vs. State of U.P. reported in Alld. Criminal cases, 1999 (39) 321 and RamJi Pandey Vs. State of U.P. and another reported in Criminal Law Journal 1981 (1083) and two other judgments passed by Co-ordinate Bench of this Court.

6. Learned A.G.A. opposed the submissions of counsel for the petitioner and submitted that present petition has been filed against the show cause notice and petitioner has remedy to reply of the show cause notice before the authority. The impugned notice issued against the petitioner is just and proper and according to provisions laid down in Section 3 of Goondas Act. It is further submitted that it is well settled proposition of law that on solitary case, notice can be issued.

7. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the aforesaid judgments.

8. The argument raised on behalf of the petitioner with regard to notice is that it does not contain the essential assertions which are required by Section 3(1) clauses a, b and c of Goondas Act. The notice issued under Section ¾ of the petitioner does not contain the mandatory ingredients provided under Section 3(1) of Goondas Act. Notice issued to the petitioner is quoted below:

9. On perusal of notice, it is apparent that notice impugned lacks the assertion of facts in relation to the matters set out in Clause a, b and c and sub Section 1 of Section 3 of Goondas Act. In the instant case, the notice is general in nature and lacking is material particulars. The notice states that petitioner habitually commits crimes or attempts to commit or abets the commission of offences and is generally reported to be a person, who is desperate and dangerous to the community. Witnesses are not willing to come forward to give evidence against him by reason of apprehension on their part as regards the safety of their person and property.

10. In para-17 of judgment in RamJi Pandey (Supra), the Court has held as under :

"17. Learned Standing Counsel urged that on a liberal construction of the notice the material allegations on the basis of which action against the petitioner is proposed' to be taken are dis-cernable, and as such the notice is not rendered illegal and the proceedings taken against the petitioner are valid. It is true that validity of a notice is generally upheld if it substantially conforms with the requirement of law but while considering the validity of a notice issued under Section 3 of the Act the same considerations cannot be applied. As noted earlier, the Act is extraordinary in nature. Its provisions permit serious in-; road on the liberty of a citizen as the provisions permit extemment of a driven (without a judicial trial. The power conferred on the authorities and the procedure provided by the Act seriously impinge upon the fundamental rights of a citizen and it makes a serious inroad on the personal liberty. The provisions of the Act provide slender safeguards to a citizen in requiring the District Magistrate and other authorities to give notice to the person against whom action is proposed under the Act and to set out the general nature of material allegations in the notice with a view to give opportunity to the person concerned to submit his explanation and to defend himself. The persons against whom action is proposed to be taken under the Act has a meagre opportunity of submitting his explanation to the allegations contained in the notice issued to him and to defend himself by producing evidence before the District Magistrate. These are the only safeguaids which the provisions of the Act provide to a citizen against Whom action is proposed to be taken. In such a situation the question of liberal jconstruction of notice does not arise, The Drovisiento of the Act, in our opinjjon, should be strictly complied by the extortive while taking action under the Act. This was emphasised by the Supreme Court in Pandharinath's case 1973 Cri LJ 612 Where it observed (at P. 615):

We will only add that case must be taken to ensure that the terms of Sections 56 and 59 are strictly complied and the slender safeguard which those provisions offer are given, to the proposed] exrternee.

this Court also made similar observations; in Harsh Narainfs case 1972 All LJ 762 in saying that the executive must strictly comply with the pirvisions of the Act. We are therefore ' o$ the opinion that if notice issued) under, Section 3(1) of the Act is not in accorder lance with the provisions of Section 3(1) of the Act and if it fails to comply, with the mandatory requirements of, setting out the general nature of material allegations further proceedings Initialed, in, pursuance of that notice would, also be rendered Illegal."

11. In the aforesaid judgment, it has been held that while issuing notice, the executive must strictly comply with the provisions of Section 3 (1) of the Goondas Act.

12. We find that in view of the full Bench decision, notice issued against the petitioner is not in accordance with the provisions of Section 3(1) of the Goondas Act, hence, impugned notice under Section ¾ of Goondas Act against the petitioner fails to comply with the mandatory requirement of setting out the material allegation and is not in accordance with the provisions of Section 3 (1) of the Act.

13. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed. The impugned show cause notice dated 01.02.2022 issued by the Additional District Magistrate (Finance and Revenue), Gorakhpur, under Section ¾ U.P. Control of Goondas Act, 1970 is hereby, quashed. However, it is open to the District Magistrate to pass a fresh order, if any material is available against the petitioner.

No.123/70/2001 (Dr.Suresh Prashad Tripathi v. Jai Ram Shukla and others) whereby claimant/appellant was awarded Rs.10,000/-, as compensation.

2. Brief facts of the case are that claimant/appellant was doctor in Civil Hospital, Chitrakoot. On 3.3.2001, at about 9:00 A.M., he was going from Kervi to Banda for an official work by bus bearing No. U.P.70-S/8555. The driver of the bus was driving the bus rashly and negligently and by driving so, he hit the Jeep No.U.P.70-J/9604 near Pand Nala Puliya, which was coming from the opposite direction. In this accident appellant sustained injuries. His right leg was fractured and he became permanently disabled. Only respondent No.3-New Indian Assurance Company Ltd. contested the petition and filed its written statement.

3. It was claimed by the appellant that he incurred Rs.1,60,000/- towards payment of medical bills and became disabled permanently to the tune of 50%, but learned Tribunal awarded only Rs.10,000/- for pain and sufferings and rest of the prayers were declined.

4. Heard Shri Krishna Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the appellant, Shri Vipul Kumar, learned counsel for the respondents and perused the record.

5. Learned counsel for the appellant-claimant submitted that impugned judgment is bad in the eye of law and cannot be sustained as Rs.10,000/- were awarded and no amount of medical bills and loss of amenities et cetera was awarded. It is submitted by learned counsel that due to the result of the injuries sustained in accident, appellant became 50% physically handicapped. A permanent disability certificate was issued by Chief Medical officer, Chitrakoot, which is on the record PW2 - Dr.A.K. Mohan proved the certificate. It is also submitted that Dr.A.K. Mohan has also signed the disability certificate, but learned Tribunal did not pay any head towards it and declined the compensation for disability on the ground that claimant did not have any loss of earning due to disability. Learned counsel stated that this finding is erroneous because there is deficiency in day to day functioning of the appellant due to this disability. He next submitted that medical bills were also not reimbursed by the Tribunal. On the basis of above arguments, learned counsel prayed for enhancement of compensation.

6. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondent No.3-Insurance Company, submitted that appellant has submitted claim, which is result of exaggeration. First of all, it is said by learned counsel that all the so-called medical bills, filed by the claimant, are just photostat copies and the original bills were not submitted by him. Therefore, learned Tribunal rightly refused to pay for those medical bills. It is also submitted by learned counsel for the Insurance Company that as per the averments made in the petition, claimant was admitted in Priti Hospital, Prayagraj, where his leg was operated, but again no such documentay evidence is placed on record. Learned counsel vehemently submitted that Dr.A.K Mohan has admitted in his evidence as PW-2 that appellant did not receive any injury in his knee while the disability certificate was on the basis of injuries in thigh and knee and it is also admitted by him that there is no loss of income of claimant due to disability. Moreover, claimant himself has said in his cross-examination as PW-1 that he had loss of income for the reason that he had to employ two assistants for his routine-works while he has not filed any such evidence on record. Lastly, learend counsel appearing for the respondent No.3-Insurance Company submitted that the real fact is that PW2-Dr.A.K. Mohan was also serving in District Hospital in Chitrakoot where he was junior to claimant and that's why he and other doctors including Chief Medical Officer have issued a false disability certificate, which was not believed by learned Tribunal for incurring any loss of income by the claimant. Hence, there is no illegality and infirmity in the impugned judgment which calls for any interference by this Court.

7. In this matter, accident is not disputed by respondent No.3, rather a suggestion is given to appellant in his evidence as PW1 that accident took place due to the negligence of driver of the jeep. It means accident is admitted. The Insurance Company has not disputed any liability on it because the bus was insured on the date of accident, as per the findings in Issue No.4. Now, we come directly to the point of compensation.

8. It is a case of appellant that he sustained injuries in aforesaid accident and became permanently disabled to the tune of 50%, as per disability certificate issued by Chief Medical Officer Chitrakoot. It is also the case of the appellant that he incurred Rs.1,60,000/- towards medical expenses, but these medical bills were not considered by the Tribunal for payment. In this regard, it is admitted that only xerox copies of those bills were produced by the appellant and no explanation is given as to why the original bills were not produced. Even on a query made by us on this point, the learned counsel for the appellant-claimant could not tell any reason. Hence, learned Tribunal has rightly refused to consider the photostat copies of the medical bills. Apart from it, it is relevant to mention that appellant has claimed that his leg was operated upon in Priti Hospital, Prayagraj, and a rod was fitted in the leg and on this point, learned Tribunal has opined that there is no record of admission and discharge of the appellant in aforesaid hospital, but perusal of record shows that there is receipt of Priti Hospital, Prayagraj, on the record for Rs.24,000/-, which also mentions 8.3.2001 as date of admission and 28.3.2001 as date of discharge, but this document is also a xerox copy and not the original one. Hence, this amount also cannot be paid back to the claimant for the xerox copy. Appellant has not clarified as to why original medical bills were not produced even on our asking. Hence, we fully agree with the findings of Tribunal with regard to non-payment of medical bills, as they are xerox copies and may be, being the Government Servant, he may have taken reimbursement from department.

9. Now, we come to the controversy of disability certificate. Although, the learned Tribunal has written in impugned judgment that original disability certificate was not produced and only its photostat copy was on record. Even then, we consider this point in the light of evidence led by PW-1 Dr.A.K. Mohan, because he is the person who has put his signature on disability certificate as Orthopaedic Surgeon, so he has given evidence in this regard. As per injury report of the claimant, only two injuries were found on his body in which injury No.1 is abrasion on the nose and injury No.2 was on the right thigh, which was a contusion. X-ray was adviced but we are suprised from the statement of Dr.A.K. Mohan that he was not sure whether he saw this X-ray report or not. Hence, he denied to give any statement regarding X-ray report in his evidence. It is pertinent to mention that disability certificate was issued on the basis of X-ray report, which shows two injuries; one on thigh and the other on knee and this X-ray report is signed by Dr.A.K. Mohan, but in his statement before the Tribunal the said doctor has stated that he found no injury on the knee, yet he had shown the knee as frozen. Further, it is clarified by him that the knee could be freezed due to negligence of claimant himself and it is also said by him if he had taken physiotherapy treatment, it could have been cured. Appellant/claimant has nowhere said in his statement that he has taken any physiotherapy treatment. Orthopaedic Surgeon Dr.A.K. Mohan was the only doctor in Medical Board, who was having expertise in this type of injuries, sustained by claimant, but he was not sure whether he persued the X-ray plate/X-ray report. It is admission of Dr.A.K. Mohan that he found no injury on knee yet he had shown it frozen. Moreover, it is also stated by him that claimant's injury could be cured by physiotherapy and frozen knee could be the result of his own negligence.

10. Keeping in view above facts and circumstances of the case, the disabilty certificate, itself, becomes doubtful and is not in confirmity with the X-ray report, on which basis, it is prepared. Hence, this certificate cannot be relied on. As far as, the expenses regarding attendants are concerned, there is no such evidence on record that he had paid any money to any attendant.

11. In view of the discussion made above, we are in full agreement with the findings given by learned Tribunal and claimant was rightly awarded Rs.10,000/- with 7% per annum rate of interest for pain and sufferings, way back in the year 2005 for the accident occured in the year 2001.

12. Hence the appeal sans merit and is dismissed accordingly.

3. Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs U.O.I. & ors. (Decided by Hon'ble Apex Court on 27.01.2022)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. Heard Sri Madhav Jain, learned counsel for the appellant and perused the judgment and order impugned. None has appeared for the respondent.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the claimant, challenges the judgment and award dated 2.8.2001 passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, Agra (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in M.A.C.P No.552 of 1999 awarding a sum of Rs.1,77,000/- as compensation with conditional interest at the rate of 9%.

3. The accident is not in dispute. The issue of negligence decided by the Tribunal is also not in dispute. The only issue to be decided is the quantum of compensation awarded.

4. The accident took place on 20.4.1999. The deceased was 25 years of age and was in the profession of selling milk and agriculture. The Tribunal considered his income to be Rs.15000/- per annum, deducted 1/3rd towards personal expenses of the deceased, granted multiplier of 17 and awarded Rs.7,000/- towards non pecuniary damages and that is how the Tribunal has calculated the total compensation to be Rs.1,77,000/-

5. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that the income of the deceased should be considered to be at least Rs.5,000/- per month. It is further submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that the Tribunal has not added any amount under the head of future loss of income which should be granted in view of decision in of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Pranay Sethi and others, 2017 LawSuit (SC) 1093. It is also submitted that the Tribunal has applied the multiplier of 17, which would be 18 in view of the decision of the Apex Court in Sarla Verma and others Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation and Another, 2009 LawSuit (SC)

6. It is also submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that the amount awarded under non pecuniary damages is on the lower side and is required to be enhanced in view of the decision in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Pranay Sethi and others, 2017 LawSuit (SC) 1093.

7. Learned counsel for the appellant has lastly submitted that the interest awarded by Tribunal is on the lower side and it should be as per the repo rate prevailing in those days.

8. Having heard learned counsel for the appellant, in the instant case, the income of Rs.15,000/- per annum as considered by the Tribunal is just and proper. To which as the deceased was below 40 years and was having his own business, 40% will have to be added towards future loss of income of the deceased in view of the decision in Pranay Sethi (Supra). This Court is in agreement with learned counsel for the appellant that the multiplier of 18 should be granted in view of the decision in Sarla Verma (Supra). As far as deduction towards personal expenses of deceased is concerned, it should be 1/4th as the deceased was survived by three minor son, three minor son, widow, mother and three sisters. As far as amount under non-pecuniary heads is concerned, the appellants would be entitled to Rs.50,000/-.

9. Hence, the total compensation payable to the appellants is computed herein below:

i. Annual Income: Rs.15,000/-

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 40% namely Rs.6,000/-

iii. Total income : Rs.15,000 + 6,000 = Rs.21,000/- iv. Income after deduction of 1/4th towards personal expenses : Rs.15,750/-

v. Multiplier applicable : 18

vii. Loss of dependency: Rs.15,750 x 18 = Rs.2,83,500/- viii. Amount under non pecuniary heads : Rs 50,000/-

ix. Total compensation : Rs.3,33,500/-

10. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, the Tribunal has granted conditional interest at the rate of 9% which is bad. The claimants would be entitled to 6% rate of interest from the date of filing of the claim petition till the date of award. However, from the date of filing of this appeal and till the delay was condoned, it would be 3% and from the date the delay is condoned, it would be 6% till the amount is deposited.

11. No other grounds are urged orally when the matter was heard.

12. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and decree passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest as directed above. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

13. The Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Private Ltd. v. Union of India and others vide order dated 27.1.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. As 20 years have elapsed, the amount be deposited in the Saving Account of claimants in Nationalized Bank without F.D.R.

14. This Court is thankful to the counsel for getting this matter decided.

Appeal Dismissed. (E-11)

List of Cases cited:-

1. Ravi Vs Badri Narayan & ors. (2011 (0) Supreme (SC) 201),

2. Vimla Devi & ors. Vs National Insurance Co. Ltd. & anr. (2019 (2) SCC 186).

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. By way of this appeal, the claimants have challenged the judgment and order dated 24.10.2018, passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (MACT)/V-Additional District Judge, Kanpur Nagar (herein after referred to as 'the Tribunal') in MACP No.470 of 2014 (Smt.Manish Dubey and others vs. Ashish Gupta and another), by which the claim petition of petitioners was rejected by the Tribunal.

2. Brief facts of the case are that this claim petition is filed on account of death of deceased Rajeev Dubey in road accident. It is averred in claim petition that on 17.6.2012 at about 8:00 p.m., deceased Rajeev Dubey was going from his home to Sachan Guest House by motorcycle bearing No.UP-78-CL/5855 and when he reached Govind Homeo Hall, a Hyundai-car bearing No.UP-78-AK/9049 came from behind, which was being driven very rashly and negligently by its driver, dashed the motorcycle of the deceased from behind. In this accident, deceased sustained fatal injuries and died during the treatment.

3. Respondent No.1-Akash Gupta filed written statement and submitted that he was driving the aforesaid car at the time of accident and was having valid driving-licence. It was also stated that owner and insurer of motorcycle were not made party.

4. Respondent No.2-M/s Sri Ram General Insurance Co.Ltd. also filed its written statement and submitted that accident did not take place by the aforesaid Hyundai-car. This car is falsely planted in order to secure the amount of compensation. Hence, in this way, the involvement of car was vehemently denied by the Insurance Company.

5. Learned Tribunal, while deciding Issue No.1, relating to the factum of accident, held that accident took place due to dashing the motorcycle by the deceased in divider of the road and motorcycle was not hit by car from behind. With these observations, learned Tribunal rejected the claim petition. Hence, this appeal.

6. Heard Shri Ram Tiwari, learned counsel for the appellants-claimants, Shri Vijay Prakash Mishra, learned counsel appearing for the respondent-Insurance Company and perused the record.

7. Learned counsel for the claimants submitted that Tribunal has failed to appreciate the evidence on record, the fact of involvement of car in accident is very-well proved by the cogent evidence, but learned Tribunal did not agree to it. It is also submitted that PW2 was the eye-witness of the accident and he has clearly stated that he saw the accident, which was caused by the car in question. It is strongly submitted that the charge-sheet is filed against the driver of the car by the police after thorough investigation and this fact is ignored by learned Tribunal. It is submitted that initially a closure-report was filed by Investigating Officer, but he subsequently, filed the charge-sheet after collecting the evidence and competent magistrate has also taken cognizance in the matter. He next submitted that it will be presumed that official and judicial acts were performed in due course unless proved otherwise.

8. Learned counsel for the respondent No.2-Insurance Co. submitted that FIR of this accident is highly belated; it was lodged after one year of the accident. He further submitted that just after the accident, injured/deceased was taken to Regency Hospital and in Medico-Legal Report of that hospital, it is clearly mentioned that motorcycle was dashed in the divider of the road. It is also submitted that after the death of deceased, a written information of the accident was given by Shravan Kumar Shukla, who is brother-in-law of the deceased, to the Police Station-Barra, District-Kanpur Nagar, and he has written in aforesaid report/information that the motorcycle of the deceased was dashed with divider, due to which the deceased sustained head-injuries. He was admitted on 17.6.2012, the day of accident in Regency Hospital wherein he died on 25.6.2012 and in this matter, nobody is responsible. Hence, it is evident that the car is falsely involved in the said accident after nearly one year of the accident otherwise the eye-witness says that he remained present on the spot of the accident about 1/2 hour and saw the number of the car also, but this number was not told to the family members of the deceased because if it would have been so, then the first information report should have been lodged just after the accident.

9. Learned counsel for the appellant relied on the judgments in the case of Ravi vs. BadriNarayan and others, 2011 (0) Supreme(SC) 201 & Vimla Devi and others vs. National Insurance Co.Ltd. and another, (2019) 2 SCC 186. These two judgments are on the point that delay in lodging the FIR in claim-cases should not be the ground of dismissal of the petition, but in the case in hand, the facts are entirely different. In this case, the FIR was lodged after 10 months of the accident, and it shows the fabrication because in Medico-Legal Report of the hospital, it is mentioned that the motorcycle of the deceased dashed in the divider. After death of the deceased, his brother-in-law informed the police at P.S.-Barra, District-Kanpur Nagar that deceased sustained head-injuries on account of being his motorcycle dashed in the divider due to which he died. In the aforesaid two documents, there is no mention of the involvement of any car in the accident as stated in the FIR, which is lodged after 10 months of the accident.

10. Perusal of the record also shows that the so-called eye-witness, namely, PW2 has said in his evidence that he saw the accident and remained present on the spot for 1/2 an hour. It is also said by him that the family members of the deceased reached on the spot, but there is no such evidence or reason as to why he did not tell the number of the car to them when he claims that he saw the number of the car. Although, charge-sheet submitted in this matter against the driver of said car after filing the closure-report earlier, but in spite of this fact, the Medico-Legal Report of the Regency Hospital and the information given to the Police Station-Barra, District-Kanpur Nagar by the brother-in-law of the deceased cannot be ignored.

11. Hence, after threadbare analysis of evidence on record, we are of the considered view that learned Tribunal has rightly appreciated the evidence on record and we are in full agreement with the conclusion expressed by the learned Tribunal that accident took place by dashing the motorcycle in divider of the road and it was not occurred due to hitting the motorcycle by car from behind.

12. Hence, the appeal sans merit and is dismissed, accordingly.

Transfer Application Dismissed. (E-11)

1. Abhilasha Gupta Vs Harimohan Gupta (2021 (9) SCC 730),

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant and Mr. Shreesh Srivastava, learned counsel for the opposite party.

2. Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that applicant is residing at District Etawah. She has also filed Case No. 301 of 2019, under Section 125 Cr.P.C and Case No. 227 of 2019, under Section 12 of Domestic Violence Act at there. He next submitted that only to harass the applicant, opposite party has filed Divorce Petition No. 46 of 2019 before the Principal Judge, Family Court, Auraiya. He further submitted that while she was visting at Auraiya alongwith her father, she was misbehaved and threatened to face dare consequences. For which, applicant has also moved an application before the Senior Superintedent of Police, Auraiya. Lastly, he submitted that under such facts and circumstances, direction may be issued to Court below to transfer her case from Auraiya to Etawah.

3. Mr. Shreesh Srivastava, learned counsel for the opposite party has vehemently opposed the submission of learned counsel for the applicant and submitted that applicant is still residing at District Auraiya, which may be verified from the correspondence between the applicant and S.S.P., Auraiya. Further, pursuant to her alleged application before

S.S.P., Auraiya, no FIR has been lodged. He next submitted that in the divorce petition, applicant has also filed written statements and testimony of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 have also been recorded. He further submitted that during the pendency of divorce petition, applicant has filed an application under Section 24 of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 (hereinafter referred to as Act, 1955) for pendente lite maintenance and litigation expenses, which was partly allowed vide order dated 6.4.2021. Opposite party is paying the litigation expenses to the applicant as directed by the Court below vide order dated 6.4.2021. He also submitted that except the testimony of defence witnesses, nothing remains to be recorded for adjudication of the case. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Abhilasha Gupta vs. Harimohan Gupta reported in 2021 9 SCC 730 decided on 24.9.2021 in which Apex Court has taken the view that once the application under Section 24 of Act, 1955 is allowed and case is at the verge of final decision, no interference is required.

4. In his rejoinder argument, learned counsel for the applicant submitted that she is facing problem in appearing before the Family Court, Auraiya, but he could not dispute this fact that she is receiving the litigation expenses upon her application under Section 24 of Act, 1955 as directed by this Court vide order dated 6.4.2021.

5. I have considered the rival submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the record as well as judgment of Apex Court. Facts of the case are undisputed that applicant has filed written statements before the Court below and testimony of P.W.-1 & P.W.-2 have also been recorded. It is also not disputed that applicant is receiving litigation expenses on month to month basis awarded by the Court below vide order dated 6.4.2021 upon her application under Section 24 of Act, 1955. In the matter of Abhilasha Gupta (Supra), the very same controversy is before the Apex Court in which Apex Court has refused to interfere the transfer application. The said judgment of Apex Court dated 24.9.2021 is being quoted hereinbelow:-

"The present petition has been filed by the petitioner- wife praying inter alia for transfer of a petition for divorce filed by the respondent-husband under Section 13(a) (ia) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 bearing H.M. Case No. A-130 of 2019 titled "Harimohan Gupta vs. Abhilasha Gupta", pending before the Court of the Additional District and Sessions Judge, Susner, Madhya Pradesh to the Family Court at Kota, Rajasthan. Counter affidavit in opposition to the present petition has been filed by the respondent.

Ms. Ranu Purohit, learned counsel for the respondent- husband states that the divorce petition filed by the respondent-husband is at an advance stage. She draws the attention of this Court to the date-wise tabulated statement Signature Not Verified Digitally signed by Dr. Mukesh Nasa Date: 2021.09.29 17:35:56 IST Reason: enclosed with the counter affidavit, marked as Annexure R-1 and states that the evidence of the husband has concluded and the wife has not cited any other witness except for herself. The matter was last listed on 06.08.2021, for recording her testimony but due to the stay order granted in the present proceeding on 20.07.2021, the said matter has been adjourned.

The learned counsel further stated that the distance between present place of residence of the petitioner-wife and the Family Court at Kota, Rajasthan is less than 200 kilometers and offers that the respondent-husband is willing to pay the expenses towards commuting to the petitioner-wife to enable her to appear before the learned Family Court at Kota, Rajasthan for expeditious conclusion of her evidence and final arguments.

The learned counsel for the respondent-husband draws the attention of this Court to the order dated 14.10.2019, passed by the learned Court of the Additional District and Sessions Judge, Susren, Madhya Pradesh which recorded the request of the petitioner-wife to the effect that she may be paid a sum of Rs. 3,000/- (Rupees Three Thousand only) as transportation charges to appear in the Court alongwith an attendant.

Having regard to the advance stage of the divorce petition filed by the respondent-husband against the petitioner-wife at Kota, this Court is not inclined to allow the present petition. However, it is deemed appropriate to direct the respondent-husband to pay a sum of Rs. 4,000/- (Rupees Four Thousand Only) to the petitioner-wife for appearance on each date of hearing before the Court of Additional District and Sessions Judge, Susren, Madhya Pradesh, towards transportation charges.

The transfer petition is disposed of with the aforesaid orders. Interim order dated 20.07.2021 stands vacated."

6. From the perusal of the aforesaid judgment, it is apparent that present controversy is squarely covered with the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Abhilasha Gupta (Supra).

7. Once the applicant has moved application under Section 24 of Act, 1955, which was allowed and uninterrupted litigation expenses is paid to her, she cannot move transfer application on the ground of distance and financial stress. Similarly, in case the proceedings is at the verge of final hearing, any interference in transfer application would only delay the proceedings. Therefore, under such circumstances, no interference is warranted and transfer application is liable to be dismissed.

8. Accordingly, in light of facts mentioned hereinabove as well as law settled by the Apex Court, transfer application lacks merit and is accordingly, dismissed. No order as to costs.

9. However, in case of threat perception, liberty is given to the applicant to move application before the S.S.P., Etawah alongwith order of this Court for security for the date of appearance. In case, any such application is moved before the S.S.P., Etawah, he shall provide ample security to applicant or other witnesses on the date of their appearances before the Principal Judge, Family Court, Auraiya.

10. This order of security shall be confined to only dates of appearance of applicant and other witnesses before the Court and not for any other purpose.

11. Principal Judge, Family Court, Auraiya is directed to make all endeavour to decide the aforesaid case maximum within a period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

Special Appeal Defective No. 718 of 2021

Mashkoor Hasan ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri R.K. Ojha (Senior Advocate), Sri S.B. Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri A.K. Roy (Addl. C.S.C.), Sri Arvind Kumar Pandey

A. Service Law – Appointment/Selection – Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board Rules, 1998 - Rule 13(4) - After a candidate from the select list joins service, the selection process comes to an end and the waiting list cannot be acted upon as the post stands filled up. (Para 10)

B. Jurisdiction - The Joint Director of Education, even after a direction was issued by this Court for consideration of the representation filed by the appellant, did not have the jurisdiction to direct for appointment of the appellant as the same is contrary to law. (Para 8)

In case the appointed candidate had left service thereafter, no person from the waiting list could be offered appointment and that too about 18 years after the selection process was carried out. The order passed by the Joint Director of Education being totally illegal, the same has rightly been stayed by learned Single Judge. (Para 8)

The candidate at Sr. No. 1 in the merit list namely, Dr. Dinesh Vashishth was issued appointment letter on July 16, 2008 and he joined as Principal of the College on July 19, 2008. However, in the year 2011, he left the job and had gone back to his parent institution, where he was working prior to his appointment and joining as Principal of the College. He retired on July 31, 2020 after attaining the age of superannuation. (Para 9)

In an appeal filed by Dr. Dinesh Vashishth, against the order dated 03.09.2008, the order passed by learned Single Judge was set aside on 25.09.2008 with a request to the learned Single Judge to decide the writ petition expeditiously. It was observed in the aforesaid order that the life of the select list would continue till the decision of the writ petition. (Para 13)

There is no quarrel with the proposition of law that with the joining of a candidate in the select list, the process of selection is complete and the waiting list cannot be acted upon. No rules were cited to show about the validity of a select list. Only reference was made to the observation made by the Division Bench of this Court in Special Appeal No. 1282 of 2008, wherein it was recorded that the select list would remain valid till the decision of the WP filed by the Sudhir Kumar Gupta, who was at Sr. No. 2 in the merit list questioning the appointment of Dr. Dinesh Vashishth who was at Sr. No. 1 in the merit list. The present appellant was nowhere in the picture. The aforesaid order could have relevance to the claim of Sudhir Kumar Gupta, for appointment as Principal and not for any other candidate. (Para 7, 14)

Even otherwise, in the case in hand, the select list was notified on September 29, 2003 and appointment on the post was sought and offered to the appellant in the year 2020-21. The claim made by the appellant to the post, in the aforesaid factual matrix by filing a representation and then a WP in the year 2020, was otherwise also highly belated. The post in question was vacated by Dr. Dinesh Vashishth in the year 2011. (Para 15)

Special appeal dismissed. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

1. Har Nath Singh Vs St. of U.P. & ors., Special Appeal No. 1115 of 2019, dated 01.11.2019 (Para 2)

2. Chandresh Nath Singh Baghel Vs Bhagwan Singh Sisodia & ors., 2008 (1) ESC 428 (All.) (Para 8)

2. Dr. Dinesh Vashishth Vs St. of U.P. & ors., Special Appeal No. 1282 of 2008 (Para 4)

Present special appeal assails the judgment and order dated 11.08.2021, passed by Hon'ble Justice Yashwant Verma, J. in Writ-A No. 9776 of 2021.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Bindal, C. J.)

1. The present intra-court appeal has been filed impugning the interim order dated August 11, 2021 passed by learned Single Judge of this Court in a writ petition filed by respondent No.7.

2. Mr. Arvind Kumar Pandey, learned counsel appearing for respondent No.7 raised a preliminary objection regarding maintainability of the present appeal against the interim order passed by learned Single Judge. In support of his arguments, he relied upon a Division Bench judgment of this Court in Special Appeal No. 1115 of 2019 (Har Nath Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others), dated November 1, 2019.

3. Mr. Radha Kant Ojha, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the appellant submitted that an advertisement was issued for selection and appointment to the post of Principal in various institutions including Rani Avanti Bai Inter College, Marhara, District Etah (hereinafter referred to as the "College') in the year 2002. Select list was notified on September 29, 2003. So far as the select list of the College is concerned, Dr. Dinesh Vashishth was at Sr. No.1 whereas Sudhir Kumar Gupta was at Sr. No. 2 and the appellant was at Sr. No. 3 in the merit list.

4. A writ petition was filed by Sudhir Kumar Gupta, the candidate at Sr. No.2 in the merit list, with reference to the said selection and appointment, bearing Writ-A No. 45747 of 2008 (Sudhir Kumar Gupta Vs. State of U.P. and others). In the said writ petition, vide order dated September 3, 2008, operation of the orders impugned therein dated July 31, 2008 and August 12, 2008, was stayed. The said order was challenged by Dr. Dinesh Vashishth by filing Special Appeal No. 1282 of 2008 (Dr. Dinesh Vashishth Vs. State of U.P. and others), which was allowed on September 25, 2008. While setting aside the order dated September 3, 2008 passed by learned Single Judge, a request was made to the learned Single Judge for deciding the writ petition expeditiously. The aforesaid writ petition is stated to be still pending.

5. The learned Senior Counsel further submitted that Dr. Dinesh Vashishth, who was at Sr. No. 1 in the merit list has since retired after attaining the age of superannuation, he is no more a candidate. The candidate at Sr. No. 2 in the merit list namely, Sudhir Kumar Gupta has also left service and hence no more interested to be appointed as Principal of the College. Hence, the appellant was the only candidate available from the select list for being offered appointment as Principal of the College. As his claim was not being considered, he filed Writ-A No. 8770 of 2020 before this Court. The said writ petition was disposed of on November 11, 2020 with a direction to the Joint Director of Education, Aligarh Region, Aligarh to consider and decide the representation filed by the appellant. Pursuant to the aforesaid order, the claim of the appellant was considered and vide order dated June 26, 2021, a direction was issued for appointment of the appellant as Principal of the College. As far as competence of the Joint Director of Education to direct for appointment of the appellant as Principal is concerned, reference was made to Rule 13(4) of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board Rules, 1998 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules'). It was further argued that in the Rules, there is no time limit prescribed for the life of a select list. However, in the case in hand, the same is still alive, for the reason that the Division Bench of this Court while disposing of Special Appeal No. 1282 of 2008 filed by Dr. Dinesh Vashishth, had directed that the life of the select list would continue till the decision of the writ petition by the learned Single Judge. As the writ petition is still pending, the select list is valid. In pursuance of the aforesaid order passed by the Joint Director of Education, an appointment letter was issued in favour of the appellant on July 26, 2021. He joined service and his signatures were also attested. With the passing of the impugned interim order, prejudice has been caused to the appellant as he has been deprived of to serve as Principal of the College, though validly selected.

6. In response to the arguments raised by learned counsel for respondent No.7 regarding maintainability of the present appeal while referring to a Full Bench judgment of this Court in Ashutosh Shrotriya and others Vs. Vice-Chancellor, Dr. B.R. Ambedkar University and others, 2015 (8) ADJ 248, it was submitted by the learned Senior Counsel that the interim order in the case in hand being in the nature of final order, intra-court appeal is maintainable. Prayer for setting aside the aforesaid order has also been made so as to enable the appellant to continue to serve as Principal of the College.

7. In response, learned counsel for respondent No.7/writ petitioner submitted that, undisputedly, the select list, on the basis of which the appellant is seeking appointment, was notified on September 29, 2003. The appellant was at Sr. No. 3 in the merit list. He was never a party in any litigation pending before the Court as it was a lis between the candidates at Sr. Nos. 1 and 2, which is still pending in this Court. Though the litigation was pending, still, undisputedly, the candidate at Sr. No. 1 in the merit list namely Dr. Dinesh Vashishth was issued appointment letter on July 16, 2008 and he had even submitted his joining on July 19, 2008. As a consequence, the post for which the selection was carried out, stood filled up and there was no question of operation of any waiting list even if the select list can be said to be still alive, though the same had outlived its life, as far as the appellant is concerned. The observation made by the Division Bench of this Court while deciding Special Appeal No. 1282 of 2008 was only with reference to a litigation between the candidates at Sr. Nos. 1 and 2 in the merit list, it was not an order in rem rather in personam.

8. The Joint Director of Education, even after a direction was issued by this Court for consideration of the representation filed by the appellant, did not have the jurisdiction to direct for appointment of the appellant as the same is contrary to law laid down by this Court in Chandresh Nath Singh Baghel Vs. Bhagwan Singh Sisodia and others, 2008 (1) ESC 428 (All), as the post in question stood already filled up with reference to the advertisement issued. In case the appointed candidate had left service thereafter, no person from the waiting list could be offered appointment and that too about 18 years after the selection process was carried out. The order passed by the Joint Director of Education being totally illegal, the same has rightly been stayed by learned Single Judge.

9. Learned counsel for the State submitted that the candidate at Sr. No. 1 in the merit list namely, Dr. Dinesh Vashishth was issued appointment letter on July 16, 2008 and he joined as Principal of the College on July 19, 2008. However, in the year 2011, he left the job and had gone back to his parent institution, where he was working prior to his appointment and joining as Principal of the College. He retired on July 31, 2020 after attaining the age of superannuation.

10. Learned counsel for the appellant and the State do not dispute the proposition of law that after a candidate from the select list joins service, the selection process comes to an end and the waiting list cannot be acted upon as the post stands filled up.

11. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the documents available on record.

12. Certain basic facts, which are not in dispute, are that an advertisement was issued for selection and appointment on the post of Principal of the College in the year 2002. The select list was notified on September 29, 2003 in the following order of merit:

1. Dr. Dinesh Vashishth
2. Sudhir Kumar Gupta
3. Mashkoor Hasan

13. As is evident from the select list, the appellant was at Sr. No. 3 in the merit list. From the order dated September 3, 2008 passed by learned Single Judge in Writ-A No. 45747 of 2008 filed by Sudhir Kumar Gupta, the candidate at Sr. No.2 in the merit list, it is evident that there was some litigation pending in the Court with reference to the selection in question. Finally, it was upheld by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the year 2008. It was a dispute between the candidates at Sr. Nos. 1 and 2 in the merit list namely, Dr. Dinesh Vashishth and Sudhir Kumar Gupta. Vide order dated September 3, 2008, the learned Single Judge of this Court had stayed operation of the orders impugned therein, dated July 31, 2008 and August 12, 2008. In an appeal filed against the aforesaid order by Dr. Dinesh Vashishth, the aforesaid order passed by learned Single Judge was set aside on September 25, 2008 with a request to the learned Single Judge to decide the writ petition expeditiously. It was observed in the aforesaid order that the life of the select list would continue till the decision of the writ petition.

14. Further, the undisputed facts which emerge from the documents available on record are that in pursuance of the selection process, the candidate at Sr. No. 1 in the merit list namely, Dr. Dinesh Vashishth was issued appointment letter on July 16, 2008. In pursuance thereto, he submitted his joining report and was permitted to join as Principal of the College on July 19, 2008. He continued to work as such till the year 2011, as submitted by learned counsel for the State. There is no quarrel with the proposition of law that with the joining of a candidate in the select list, the process of selection is complete and the waiting list cannot be acted upon. Even if, for the time being, we do not opine on the issue regarding life of a select list herein, no rules were cited to show about the validity of a select list. Only reference was made to the observation made by the Division Bench of this Court in Special Appeal No. 1282 of 2008, wherein it was recorded that the select list would remain valid till the decision of the writ petition filed by the Sudhir Kumar Gupta, who was at Sr. No.2 in the merit list questioning the appointment of Dr. Dinesh Vashishth who was at Sr. No. 1 in the merit list. The present appellant was nowhere in the picture. The aforesaid order could have relevance to the claim of Sudhir Kumar Gupta, for appointment as Principal and not for any other candidate.

15. Even otherwise, in the case in hand, the select list was notified on September 29, 2003 and appointment on the post was sought and offered to the appellant in the year 2020-21. The claim made by the appellant to the post, in the aforesaid factual matrix by filing a representation and then a writ petition in the year 2020, was otherwise also highly belated. The post in question was vacated by Dr. Dinesh Vashishth in the year 2011.

16. For the reasons mentioned above, we do not find any reason to interfere in the present appeal. The same is, accordingly, dismissed.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 45A- Polygraph Test- admissibility of- Section 141- Leading Questions- The perusal of polygraph test reveals that the investigating officer has asked a pin-point question- Instead of asking leading question from the eye-witness the prosecution should have asked as to who were those persons who have attacked on him and victim. However, even such question could not have been asked while conducting the polygraph test inasmuch as such test has been disapproved by the Hon'ble Apex Court in re: Selvi and others (supra)- When such eye witness and the informant who is wife of deceased had not alleged anything against the present applicant while recording their statement u/s 161 Cr.P.C. respectively whereas the present applicant was close relative of the informant then the statement of eye witness taken while conducting polygraph test would have no evidentiary value in view of the dictum of Hon'ble Court in re: Selvi (supra). Therefore, when such statement of the eye witness in question has got no evidentiary value in the eyes of law, the implication of the present applicant in such case would not be proper subject to other circumstantial evidence and corroborative material which would be seen during trial.

Where leading questions are asked in a Polygraph test, which has been disapproved by the Supreme Court, then the same would have no evidentiary value specially when no allegations were made against the accused in the statement recorded u/s 161 of the Cr.P.C. (Para 15, 16)

Judgements/ Case law relied upon:-

Selvi & ors. Vs St. of Kar. (2010) 7 SCC 263

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashish Kumar Rastogi, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Rao Narendra Singh, learned AGA for the State.

2. The present applicant is in jail Since 18.6.2021 in Case Crime No. 314 of 2018 u/s 302, 307, 323 IPC, P.S. Gosaiganj, District Lucknow. He has further submitted that the present applicant has been falsely implicated in this case as he has not committed any offence as alleged in the prosecution story.

3. Attention has been drawn towards the impugned F.I.R. which is against the four unknown persons who were beating up the husband of the informant mercilessly through sharp edged weapon and batons on 29.5.2018. As per the informant she has seen those persons through the light of torch as the incident is a night occurrence of 9.30 P.M.

4. The police recorded the statement of informant / wife of the deceased on 31.5.2018. Further, the police recorded the statement of eye witness Guddu s/o Guru Prasad u/s 161 Cr.P.C. on 12.1.2019. When the local police could not investigate the matter as no reliable evidences could be collected, matter was transferred to crime branch for further investigation. The crime branch again recorded the statement of eye witness Guddu on 22.5.2020 where he repeated his earlier version recorded under section 161 Cr.P.C. The crime branch conducted the Polygraph test of Guddu s/o Guru Prasad on 15.3.2021. During polygraph test the leading question has been asked from Guddu as to whether the present applicant has committed crime in question, he replied in affirmative. As per learned counsel for the applicant the leading question could have not been asked during investigation. However, on the basis of aforesaid statement of eye witness Guddu the police arrested the applicant and send him jail on 18.6.2021 without intimating any reason to the applicant or his family members regarding the offence he has committed for that he is being arrested. Thereafter, the police filed charge-sheet on 18.7.2021 implicating the present applicant on the basis of polygraph test.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant has drawn attention of this Court towards para 15 of the bail application wherein it has been categorically indicated that the present applicant is brother-in-law of the informant. Therefore, it is beyond any comprehension that if the informant was able to recognize the assailants on the date of incident she could not recognize her close relative. To be more precise, as per learned counsel for the applicant had the offence in question been committed by the present applicant the informant would have recognized him being a close relative but since nothing has been alleged against the present applicant by the informant or other witnesses from 29.5.2018, the date of incident till 5.3.2021 when the polygraph test of Guddu s/o Guru Prasad was conducted, therefore, on the basis of polygraph test the present applicant may not be implicated.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant has drawn attention of this Court towards the dictum of Apex Court in re: Selvi and others vs. State of Karnataka (2010) 7 Supreme Court Cases 263 referring para 240, 242 and 264 which reads as under :

"240. We must also contemplate situations where a threat given by the investigators to conduct any of the impugned tests could prompt a person to make incriminatory statements or to undergo some mental trauma. Especially in cases of individuals from weaker sections of society who are unaware of their fundamental rights and unable to afford legal advice, the moth apprehension of undergoing scientific tests that supposedly reveal the truth the act is threatening to administer the impugned tests could also elicit testimony. It is also quite conceivable that an individual may give his/her consent to undergo the said tests on account of threats, false promises or deception by her investigators. For example, a person may be convinced to give his/her consent after being promised that this would lead to an early release from custody or dropping of charges. However, after the administration of the tests the investigators may renege on such promises. In such a case the relevant inquiry is not confined to the apparent voluntariness of the act of undergoing the tests, but also includes an examination of the totality of circumstances.

242. We can also contemplate a possibility that even when an individual freely consents to undergo the tests in question, the resulting testimony cannot be readily characterised as voluntary in nature. This is attributable to the differences between the manner in which the impugned tests are conducted and an ordinary interrogation. In an ordinary interrogation, the investigator asks questions one by one and the subject has the choice of remaining silent or answering each of these questions. This choice is repeatedly exercised after each question is asked and the subject decides the nature and content of each testimonial response. On account of the continuous exercise of such a choice, the subject's verbal responses can be described as voluntary in nature. However, in the context of the impugned techniques the test subject does not exercise such a choice in a continuous control over the subsequent responses given during the test in case of the narcoanalysis technique, the subject speaks in a drug-induced state and is clearly not aware of his/her own responses at the time. In the context of polygraph examination and the BEAP tests, the subject cannot anticipate the contents of the "relevant questions" that will be asked or the "probes" that will be shown. Furthermore, the results are derived from the measurement of physiological responses and hence the subject cannot exercise an effective choice between remaining silent and imparting personal knowledge. In light of these facts, it was contended that a presumption cannot be made about the voluntariness of the test results even if the subject had given prior consent.

264. In light of these conclusions, we hold that no individual should be forcibly subjected to any of the techniques in question, whether in the context of investigation in criminal cases or otherwise. Doing so would amount to an unwarranted intrusion into personal liberty. However, we do leave room for the voluntary administration of the impugned techniques in the context of criminal justice provided that certain safeguards are in place. Even when the subject has given consent to undergo any of these tests, the test results by themselves cannot be admitted as evidence because the subject does not exercise conscious control over the responses during the administration of the test. However, any information or material that is subsequently discovered with the help of voluntary administered test results can be admitted in accordance with Section 27 of the Evidence Act, 1872."

Emphasis Supplied

7. In the aforesaid judgment the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that no individual should be forcibly subjected to any of the technique in question whether in the context of investigation in criminal case or otherwise and if such technique is adopted, the outcome thereof would have no evidentiary value.

8. Learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that during the aforesaid polygraph test the investigating officer has asked pin pointed question that 'as to whether the present applicant has committed this offence', this witness has given reply in affirmative. As per Sri Rastogi such type of questions are known as 'leading questions' and those questions may not be asked during investigation. Even such leading question may not be asked during examination-in-chief or re-examination during trial except with the permission of the Court, however, during cross-examination such type of questions may be asked.

9. He has further submitted that except the aforesaid statement of eye-witness Guddu during polygraph test no other evidence or material is available with the prosecution to suggest that the present applicant has committed offence in question. Since the charge-sheet has been filed, therefore, there is no apprehension of absconding or tampering of evidence / witness by the applicant.

10. The learned counsel for the applicant has given an undertaking on behalf of applicant that the applicant shall not misuse the liberty of bail and shall cooperate with the trial proceedings and shall abide by all terms and conditions of bail, if granted.

11. Sri Rao Narendra Singh, learned AGA has, however, opposed the prayer of bail but could not dispute the aforesaid submissions so raised by the learned counsel for the applicant. He could also not dispute the proposition of law in re: Selvi (supra).

12. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record and also perused the dictum of Hon'ble Apex Court in re: Selvi (supra).

13. Without entering into the merits of the issue and considering the contents of F.I.R., statement of informant, of eye witness and polygraph test dated 5.3.2021

(Annexure no. 8), I find that this is a fit case of bail.

14. The perusal of polygraph test dated 5.3.2021 (Annexure no. 8) reveals that the investigating officer has asked a pin-point question vide question no. 1 from eye witness Guddu s/o late Guru Prasad that " as to whether Sarhu Ram Prakash and Damad Ashok had assaulted on the victim". The said eye-witness replied "Yes".

15. To me instead of asking leading question from the eye-witness Guddu s/o late Guru Prasad the prosecution should have asked as to who were those persons who have attacked on him and victim. However, even such question could not have been asked while conducting the polygraph test inasmuch as such test has been disapproved by the Hon'ble Apex Court in re: Selvi and others (supra).

16. I am constrained to observe here that when such eye witness Guddu s/o late Guru Prasad and the informant who is wife of deceased had not alleged anything against the present applicant while recording their statement u/s 161 Cr.P.C. on 12.1.2019 and 31.5.2018 respectively whereas the present applicant was close relative of the informant then the statement of eye witness Guddu s/o late Guru Prasad taken while conducting polygraph test would have no evidentiary value in view of the dictum of Hon'ble Court in re: Selvi (supra). Therefore, when such statement of the eye witness in question has got no evidentiary value in the eyes of law, the implication of the present applicant in such case would not be proper subject to other circumstantial evidence and corroborative material which would be seen during trial. In other words, any observation of this Court in this order would not effect the trial proceedings in any manner whatsoever and the trial would be conducted and concluded strictly in accordance with law. Whether the present applicant is guilty or not in the charges framed against him, will be decided by the trial court on its own merit after analyzing the evidences that surfaces on record during the trial.

17. Therefore, In view of the above the present bail application is allowed.

18. Let the applicant Ram Prakash, involved in aforesaid case crime be released on bail on his furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned with the following conditions which are being imposed in the interest of justice:-

(i) The applicant shall file an undertaking to the effect that he shall not seek any adjournment on the dates fixed for evidence when the witnesses are present in court. In case of default of this condition, it shall be open for the trial court to treat it as abuse of liberty of bail and pass orders in accordance with law.

(ii) The applicant shall remain present before the trial court on each date fixed, either personally or through his counsel. In case of his absence, without sufficient cause, the trial court may proceed against him under Section 229-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(iii) In case, the applicant misuses the liberty of bail during trial and in order to secure his presence proclamation under Section 82 Cr.P.C. is issued and the applicant fails to appear before the court on the date fixed in such proclamation, then, the trial court shall initiate proceedings against him, in accordance with law, under Section 174-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(iv) The applicant shall remain present, in person, before the trial court on the dates fixed for (i) opening of the case, (ii) framing of charge and (iii) recording of statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. If in the opinion of the trial court absence of the applicant is deliberate or without sufficient cause, then it shall be open for the trial court to treat such default as abuse of liberty of bail and proceed against him in accordance with law.

(v) The applicant shall not leave the country without permission of the Court concerned.

19. Before parting with it is expected that the trial shall be concluded with expedition. Further, the learned trial court may take all coercive measures as per law if either of the parties do not co-operate in the trial properly. The learned trial court shall fix short dates to ensure that trial is concluded at the earliest.

1. Heard Sri N.K. Chaturvedi, learned counsel for revisionist and Sri Hausihla Prasad Mishra, learned counsel for respondents.

2. Learned counsel for revisionist submitted at the bar that he does want to press the revision against order dated 04.12.2021 passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge/ Special Judge (Prevention of Corruption Act), Court No. 3, Gorakhpur and he may be given liberty to file fresh revision against order dated 04.12.2021, for which Sri Hausihla Prasad Mishra, learned counsel for respondents has no objection.

3. Accordingly, present revision stands dismissed against order dated 04.12.2021 with the aforesaid liberty.

4. Learned counsel for the revisionist submitted that plaintiff/ respondents have filed SCC Suit No. 10/2017 for eviction, arrear of rent and damages on 24.08.2017 in which defendant/ revisionist has filed written statement on 28.03.2003 and taken specific plea that he had already deposited the entire due amount prior to filing of suit through different mode. Later on, after refusal of receiving of rent, he had also instituted a case under Section 30(1) of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 and continuously depositing the rent amount there. He next submitted that plaintiff/ respondents have filed application dated 3.3.2020 under Order XV Rule-5 CPC, which was numbered as Paper No. 33C to struck off defence, upon which, defendant/ revisionist has filed objection dated 11.02.2021, which was numbered as Paper No. 36C. He next submitted that application of plaintiff/ respondents was allowed and objection of defendant/ revisionist rejected on the ground that in all eventuality, after institution of suit, he has required to deposit monthly rent before the Court, where the suit is pending and any deposit made under Section 30(1) of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 cannot be adjusted. He next submitted that impugned order is bad on two grounds; first of all, Order XV Rule- 5 CPC is discretionary and secondly, the provisions should not be interpreted in a way that tenant should be trapped to be evicted. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgement of this Court in the matter of Kedar Nath Vs. Waqf Shekikh Abdullah Charitable Madursa and others; 2016 6 ADJ 24.

5. Learned counsel for the plaintiff/ respondents submitted that from the perusal of Order XV Rule-5 CPC, it is apparent that it is not discretionary, but mandatory in nature, therefore, it is required on the part of defendant/ revisionist to deposit entire monthly rent before the Court, where the suit is pending and any deposit made under Section 30(1) of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 cannot be adjusted to meet the requirement of Order XV Rule 5 of CPC. Court has rightly struck off the defence of the defendant/ revisionist in lack of deposit of monthly rent before the Court, where the suit is pending. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgements of this Court in the matter of Haider Abbas Vs. Additional District Judge (Court No. 3), Allahabad and Ors; 2006 (62) ALR 552, More Singh Vs. Chandrika Prasad; 2016 130 RD 90, Krishna Kumar Gupta Vs. Manoj Kumar Sahu; 2017 LawSuit (All) 658 and Om Prakash Gupta Vs. District Judge and another; 2019 (2) JCLR 529 (All). He also submitted that judgement of Kedar Nath (supra) has not considered the earlier judgement of this Court in the matter of Haider Abbas (supra) and More Singh (supra).

6. I have considered the rival submissions made by learned counsel for the parties. Facts of the case are undisputed. Before proceeding to decide the issue, it would be useful to see the provisions of Order XV Rule 5 of CPC, U.P. Amendment, the same is being quoted below;

"5. Striking of defence for failure to deposit admitted rent, etc. In any suit by a lessor for the eviction of a lessee after the determination of his lease and for the recovery from him of rent or compensation for use and occupation, the defendant shall, at or before the first hearing of the suit, deposit the entire amount admitted by him to be due together with interest thereon at the rate of nine per centum per annum and whether or not he admits any amount to be due, he shall throughout the continuation of the suit regularly deposit the monthly amount due within a week from the date of its accrual, and in the event of any default in making the deposit of entire amount admitted by him to be due or the monthly amount due as aforesaid, the Court may, subject to the provisions of sub-rule (2), strike off his defence.

Explanation 1. The expression "first hearing' means the date for filing written statement for hearing mentioned in the summons or where more than one of such dates are mentioned, the last of the dates mentioned.

Explanation 2. The expression "entire amount admitted by him to be due' means the entire gross amount, whether as rent or compensation for use and occupation, calculated at the admitted rate of rent for the admitted period of arrears after making no other deduction except the taxes, if any, paid to a local authority in respect of the building on lessor's account and the amount, if any, paid to the lessor acknowledged by the lessor in writing signed by him and the amount, if any, deposited in any Court under Section 30 of the U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972.

Explanation 3. (1) The expression "monthly amount due' means the amount due every month, whether as rent or compensation for use and occupation at the admitted rate of rent, after making no other deduction except the taxes, if any, paid to a local authority, in respect of the building on lessor's account.

(2) Before making any order for striking off defence, the Court may consider any representation made by the defendant in that behalf provided such representation is made within 10 days, of the first hearing or, of the expiry of the week referred to in sub-section (1), as the case may be.

(3) The amount deposited under this Rule may at any time be withdrawn by the plaintiff:

Provided that such withdrawal shall not have the effect of prejudicing any claim by the plaintiff disputing the correctness of the amount deposited:

Provided further that if the amount deposited includes any sums claimed by the depositor to be deductible on any account, the Court may require the plaintiff to furnish the security for such sum before he is allowed to withdraw the same."

7. It is admitted position that defendant- revisionist has deposited the amount not before the Court, where the suit was instituted, but before another Court under the proceeding of Section 30(1) of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972. Issue before this Court is as to whether any amount deposited under Section 30(1) of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 can be adjusted against the amount to be deposited before the Court in compliance of Order XV Rule 5 CPC during pendency of suit. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the defendant- revisionist has placed reliance upon judgement of this Court in the matter of Kedar Nath (supra), which was rendered after relying upon different judgements of Apex Court as well as this Court. Relevant paragraph of the said judgement is being quoted below;

"The provisions of Order XV Rule 5 is discretionary, the court is not bound to strike off the defence in every case of mere technical or bonafide default. The provision should not be interpreted in such a way that the tenant should be trapped to be evicted.

(Refer-Vinod Chandra Kala Versus Premier Precisions Tools Manufacturing (P). Ltd., 1996(1) ARC 62; Bhawani Vastrya Bhandan v. Smt. Sahodra Devi, 1996(2) ARC 406)."

8. Earlier, there was conflict of view in judgments of Court on this point and matter was referred to Division Bench of this Court in the matter of Haider Abbas(supra) by framing the following questions;

"Whether the deposit made under Section 30(1) of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 after the date of service of summons of a civil suit for arrears of rent can be taken into consideration for computing the deposit for the purpose of deciding the question whether the defence should or should not be struck off under Order XV Rule 5 CPC?"

9. Division Bench, after considering in detail the provisions of Order XV Rule 5 of CPC and different judgements of Apex Court and this Court, has answered the same, which is as follows;

""The aforesaid decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Atma Ram (supra) emphasizes that if the tenant wishes to take advantage of the beneficial provisions of the Rent Control Act, he must strictly comply with the requirements and if any condition precedent is required to be fulfilled before the benefit can be claimed, the tenant must strictly comply with that condition failing which he cannot take advantage of the benefit conferred by such a provision. It has further been emphasised that the rent must be deposited in the Court where it is required to be deposited under the Act and if it is deposited somewhere else, it shall not be treated as a valid payment/tender of the rent and consequently the tenant must be held to be in default.

In view of the aforesaid principles of law enunciated by the Supreme Court in the aforesaid case of Atma Ram (supra), it has to be held that the tenant must comply with the requirements of Order XV Rule 5 CPC and make the deposits strictly in accordance with the procedure contained therein. A deposit which is not made in consonance with the aforesaid Rule cannot enure to the benefit of the tenant and, therefore, only that amount can be deducted from the "monthly amount" required to be deposited by the tenant during the pendency of the suit which is specifically mentioned in Explanation 3 to Rule 5 (1) of Order XV CPC.

We, therefore, upon an analysis of the provisions of Rule 5 (1) of Order XV CPC, hold that while depositing the amount at or before the first hearing of the suit, the tenant can deduct the amount deposited under Section 30 of the Act but the deposits of the monthly amount thereafter throughout the continuation of the suit must be made in the Court where the suit is filed for eviction and recovery of rent or compensation for use and occupation and the amount, if any, deposited under Section 30 of the Act cannot be deducted."

10. Again, this issue came up before this Court in the matter of More Singh (supra) and this Court after considering the judgement of Division Bench of this Court in the matter of Haider Abbas (supra) and other judgements of Apex Court held as follows;

"It thus follows that while deposits made under Section 30, before the date of first hearing are to be adjusted but any rent deposited thereafter in proceeding under Section 30 would not enure to the benefit of the tenant for adjudging compliance of the provisions of Order XV, Rule 5 CPC."

11. This Court considered this issue in the matter of Krishna Kumar Gupta (supra) also and has taken very same view. Relevant paragraph of the said judgement is being quoted below;

"The difference between the two categories discussed herein above, apart from the stage at which they apply, is two fold: (a) in the first category the defendant is required to make a deposit of the admitted dues whereas in the second category, which relates to monthly deposits, whether he admits it to be due or not, the deposit has to be made on a monthly basis, at the admitted rate of rent, throughout the continuance of the suit; and (b) in the first category the tenant can seek adjustment of the amount deposited under section 30 of UP Act No.13 of 1972 as well as the amount, if any, paid to the lessor acknowledged by the lessor in writing signed by him, whereas in the second category, which relates to monthly deposits, no such adjustment is permissible as would be clear from the difference between Explanation 2 and Explanation 3."

12. Once again this issue came up before this Court in the matter of Om Prakash Gupta (supra) and this Court after considering the different judgements including judgement of Division Bench of this Court in the matter of Haider Abbas (supra) as well as judgement of Single Bench of this Court in the matter of More Singh (supra), has held as follows;

"In the instant case, concededly, even after receipt of summons, monthly rent upto December 2012 was deposited by the tenant in proceedings under Section 30 (1) of the Act. It was only since January 2013 that he started depositing monthly rent in the instant suit. Consequently, the benefit of monthly rent deposited under Section 30 (1) after receipt of summons/filing of written statement i.e. 3.12.2010 upto December 2012 could not be extended to the defendant tenant while reckoning compliance of Order 15 Rule 5 CPC. There is no escape from the mischief of Order 15 Rule 5 CPC. The trial court was justified in striking off the defence. The revisional court has committed a grave error of law in extending benefit of these deposits without considering the legal position laid down in Larger Bench judgment in Haidar Abbas (supra).

In consequence and as a result of above discussion, the impugned order dated 13.5.2015 is quashed and the order passed by the trial court dated 8.8.2014 is restored."

13. In light of different judgements discussed herein above, it is apparently clear that judgements of Haider Abbas (supra) and More Singh (supra) were delivered prior to judgement of Kedar Nath (supra), but while giving the judgement in the matter of Kedar Nath (supra), Court has not considered those judgements. Therefore, the said judgement is per incuriam and cannot be treated as precedent.

14. From perusal of Order XV Rule 5 of CPC, it is apparently clear that before first hearing of the suit proceeding, amount which is to be deposited is having two parts; first part is to deposit the entire amount admitted by the defendant together with interest thereon at the rate of nine per centum per annum as provided in Order XV Rule 5 of CPC and second part is, the amount either admitted or not to be deposited throughout the continuation of suit proceeding from month to month basis. About the first part, any amount deposited by any mode in accordance with law or deposited in proceeding under Section 30(1) of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 can be adjusted, but so far as second part is concerned, any such amount deposited under Section 30(1) of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972, cannot be adjusted. It is always required on the part of defendant to deposit the same before the Court, where the suit is instituted.

15. So far as present case is concerned, there is no dispute of fact and it is admitted position that the revisionist - defendant has never deposited the amount, so due on month to month basis before the Court where the suit was instituted after first date of hearing. Therefore, in light of provisions of Order XV Rule 5 of CPC, ratio of law laid down by the Courts as well as discussion made herein above, no relief can be granted to the revisionist.

16. Accordingly, revision lacks merit and is dismissed.

17. No order as to costs.

THE HON'BLE RAMESH SINHA, J.
THE HON'BLE BRIJ RAJ SINGH, J.

Capital Cases No. 1 of 2014

connected with Criminal Appeal No. 1776 of 2016

State of U.P. ...Appellant
Versus
Deen Dayal Tiwari ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Govt. Advocate, Jyotindra Misra (Amicus), Kapil Misra

Counsel for the Respondent:

A. The testimony of an eye-witness merely because he happens to be a relative of the deceased cannot be discarded as close relatives would be the last one to screen out the real culprit and implicate innocent person.

B. If the prosecution case is established by the evidence adduced, any failure or omission on the part of the Investigating Officer cannot render the case of the prosecution doubtful

C. Prosecution evidence may suffer from inconsistencies here and discrepancies there, but that is a shortcoming from which no criminal case is free. The main thing to be seen is whether those inconsistencies go to the root of the matter or pertain to insignificant aspects thereof.

D. Civil Law - Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 106 - Will apply to those cases where the prosecution has succeeded in establishing the facts from which a reasonable inference can be drawn regarding the existence of certain other facts which are within the special knowledge of the accused. When the accused fails to offer proper explanation about the existence of said other facts, the Court can always draw an appropriate inference.

E. When a case is resting on circumstantial evidence, if the accused fails to offer a reasonable explanation in discharge of burden placed on him by virtue of Section 106 of the Evidence Act, such a failure may provide an additional link to the chain of circumstances. In a case governed by circumstantial evidence, if the chain of circumstances which is required to be established by the prosecution is not established, the failure of the accused to discharge the burden under Section 106 of the Evidence Act is not relevant at all. When the chain is not complete, falsity of the defence is no ground to convict the accused.

F. If Court finds that the offence is of an exceptionally depraved and heinous character and constitutes, on account of its design and the manner of its execution, a source of grave danger to the society at large, Court may impose death sentence.

G. Where an accused does not act on any spur of the momentary provocation and indulges himself in a deliberately planned crime and meticulously executes it, the death sentence may be the most appropriate punishment for such a ghastly crime. The death sentence may be warranted where victims are innocent children and helpless women. Thus, in case the crime is committed in a most cruel and inhuman manner which is an extremely brutal, grotesque, diabolical, revolting and dastardly manner, where his act affects the entire moral fibre of the society, death sentence should be awarded.

Capital case confirmed and criminal appeal dismissed. (E-12)

(B) FACTS

6. The informant P.W.1-Dinanath Tiwari had lodged a written report (Ext. Ka.1) on 12.11.2011, at 06:10 a.m., in police station Pura Kalandar, district Faizabad, alleging therein that on 11/12.11.2011, at about 02:30 a.m., on hearing the noise "cpkvks&cpkvks" (save-save) of the wife and daughters of his elder brother Deen Dayal Tiwari (convict/appellant), he (P.W.1) and his wife Smt. Suneeta alias Anita (P.W.2) came out of their house and reached to the house of Deen Dayal Tiwari (convict/appellant). Thereafter, they asked Deen Dayal Tiwari (convict/appellant) to open the door but the door was not opened. Then, they threatened to break the door. After that Deen Dayal Tiwari (convict/appellant) came out of the house armed with blood stained axe and attacked upon them also and asked them to leave from there and said that he had cut down his wife and four daughters; and he would also kill all of them. On being cried, villagers gathered there, then, they all controlled his elder brother Deen Dayal Tiwari (convict/appellant) and went inside the room, where they saw that Deen Dayal Tiwari (convict/appellant) had cut down all his four daughters and his wife.

7. The informant P.W.1-Dinanath Tiwari got scribed the aforesaid written report (Ext. Ka.1) from a person of his village and after affixing signature thereon, proceeded to lodge the same to police station Pura Kalander, District Faiazabad and lodged it. A perusal of the chik FIR shows that the distance between the place of incident and Police Station Purakalander was 15 kilometer. A perusal of the chik FIR also shows that on the basis of written report of P.W.1-Dinanath Tiwari, Case Crime No. 748 of 2011, under Section 302 I.P.C., Police Station Pura Kalander, district Faizabad was registered against convict/appellant, Deen Dayal Tiwari.

8. The investigation of the case was conducted by P.W.5-Ajay Prakash Mishra, who, in his examination-in-chief, had deposed before the trial Court that on 12.11.2011, he was posted as Station Officer at police station Pura Kalandar, district Faizabad. On the same day, he got information that the incident had taken place in his area. After getting the investigation, he made entry of chik and the F.I.R. in the case diary and recorded the statement of informant Dinanath Tiwari (P.W.1). He reached the spot in the morning and saw that Deen Dayal Tiwari (convict/appellant) was present inside the room in his house after closing the door from inside; the door was bolted from outside also; and many people of the village and nearby places were present there. One brick of the eastern wall of the room was out from which he peeped and saw inside the room that Deen Dayal Tiwari (convict/appellant) armed with blood stained "axe' was present and was walking inside the room. With the help of people present, namely, Visheshwar Nath Mishra (P.W.3), Vishun Tiwari, opened the door of the room by pushing it. The convict/appellant Deen Dayal Tiwari, thereafter, looked behind and wanted to run away but he was caught with the help of the police. After recovering one "axe' from his right hand, the same was taken by the police in its custody. The stain of blood in the iron part of the axe was present and fresh blood in the csV (wooden portion of the axe) was also present. He prepared memo of the same separately under his handwriting and signature. When he asked the name and address of the convict/appellant, he told his name Deen Dayal Tiwari (convict/appellant) son of Late Laxman Prasad Tiwari. Thereafter, he arrested the convict/appellant and handed over by him to the police and instructed to keep him under safe custody. He further deposed that on the pointing out of the convict/appellant, two knives were recovered from the room. After that, he took possession of two knives (one green belt and other yellow metal red green dotted) and one axe and thereafter, he sealed it and prepared memo of the same under his handwriting and signature (Ext. Ka.7). After that, he took possession from the spot of blood stained and plain cloth and bed, recovery memo (Ext. Ka.8) of which, was prepared by him in the presence of witnesses. He, thereafter, collected blood stained soil and plain soil and recovered one sweater and lungi etc. from the spot and thereafter, he sealed it and prepared a recovery memo of it and proved it as Ext. Ka.9 and Ext. Ka. 10 before the trial Court. He further stated that on the pointing out of the informant (P.W.1), he prepared the site plan (Ext. Ka.11) under his handwriting and signature. After that, he recorded the statement of Deen Dayal Tiwari (convict/appellant), who confessed the crime and stated that " his wife was of a bad character and had illicit relation with someone of the village, due to which his relation with his wife became strained, on account of which, on 11.11.2011 in the evening itself, he had decided that tonight itself he would kill his wife, therefore, he had kept the "knife' and "axe' in the evening itself and at around 3 o'clock in the night, when his wife and his daughters were sleeping, he firstly hit the head of his wife Siallali with axe, due to which she screamed, then, he stabbed her with knife. After that, his daughters woke up and came to save their mother, then, he killed them in turn. Among their daughters, he firstly killed Mani Tiwari, then Riya, then Guddan/Gunjan, then Kumari Mahima with a "knife' and "axe'. On hue and cry of बचाओ बचाओ (save save) of his daughters, people of his village and members his family had gathered and these peoples were threatening to break the door and asked him to come out of the room, therefore, he had closed the door inside of his room." He further deposed that on the same day i.e. on 12.11.11 on his dictation, S.I. R.K. Tiwari and Manushekhar Singh had prepared the "panchayatnama' of all the dead bodies lying on the spot inside the room viz. Siallali, Mani Tiwari aged 11 years, Riya Tiwari aged 8 years, Guddan Tiwari aged 6 years and Mahima Tiwari aged 4 years (Ext. Ka.12, Ext. Ka.13, Ext. Ka.14, Ext. Ka.15 and Ext. Ka.16). At the same time, the forms related to the dead bodies, photo lash, challan lash, sample seal, Form-13, letter to RI, letter to CMO etc. were prepared by him under his writing and signature (Ext. Ka. 17 to Ext. Ka. 36). After that, recovered knives, axe and clothes were sent to Forensic Science Laboratory, Lucknow through CJM Faizabad, which is marked as Ext. Ka. 37.

P.W.5 Sri Ajay Prakash Mishra had further deposed that on 13.11.2011, he recorded the statement of eye-witness Anita (P.W.2), Vishnu Tiwari and witnesses of "panchayatnama'. On 14.11.11, the "panchayatnama' was copied in the CD. On 01.12.2011, he recorded the statement of Ashok Tiwari, Ugrasen, Anil Chaurasia and Vishesharnath Mishr (P.W.3). On 02.12.2011, he made entry of all finger impressions taken from the spot in CD. On 13.12.11, he recorded the statement of witness Sanjay Chaurasia and Kashiram Kori and after completion of investigation, he filed charge-sheet (Ext. Ka. 38) against convict/appellant Deendayal Tiwari before the court concerned under his handwriting and signature.

P.W.5 Sri Ajay Prakash Mishra had further deposed that Constable Durga Prasad Mishra was working with him at police station Pura Kalander, district Faizabad, whose handwriting and signature are familiar to him and probably he is posted in Ballia district. Constable Moharrir Durga Prasad Mishra had prepared chik no. 211/11 in his handwriting and signature (Ext. Ka. 39) and endorsed its entry in GD as report no. 7. He proved the carbon copy of GD (Ext. Ka. 40). In report no.16 of G.D., he endorsed his return to the police station and recovery of "knife', "axe' and 7 bundles of cloth marked as Ext. Ka. 41.

In cross-examination, P.W.5 Sri Ajay Prakash Mishra had deposed that he had reached the spot in the morning but he did not remember the time. There was no sunrise. He did not remember the time when he left for place of occurrence from the police station. The information about this case was given by the informant Dinanath Tiwari (P.W.1). He did not remember the time of arrival of P.W.1 at the police station. As soon as the information was received from informant (P.W.1), he left from the police station. The FIR was lodged in his presence. He did not remember how much time it took to write the FIR. He started from police station to the place of the incident at 6.10 a.m. Along with him, S.I. R.K. Tiwari, Constable K.K. Singh, Constable Istiaq, Constable Harihar Tiwari went on a Jeep to the place of incident. The statement of the informant (P.W.1) was recorded on the same day at the police station itself. The informant (P.W.1) had reached the spot by his own conveyance. The place of the incident is 14 Km. from the police station. When he reached to the place of occurrence, the outer door of the house of Deen Dayal (convict/appellant) was opened. There were two rooms, one outside and one inside. The flVduh (iron grill) fixed in the inner door was broken due to push but it was not taken into possession by the police. He denied the suggestion that there was no iron grill inside nor it was broken.

P.W.5, in cross-examination, had further deposed that the body of the wife of the convict/appellant, namely, Siyallali was lying on the cot adjacent to the western wall and the bodies of four daughters were lying on the floor of the room. The width of the room was five steps and the length was seven steps in which the corpses were lying. One axe was recovered from the possession of the convict/appellant and on his pointing out, two knives were recovered. Both the informant (P.W.1) and the convict/appellant are real brothers. The gallery was covered with bricks and it was not cemented and when he reached there, the bricks were fallen. He deposed that there is no signature of the convict/appellant on the seizure memo of weapon of assault. He denied the suggestion that no murder weapon was recovered from the convict/appellant and he had made fake memo. He deposed that first of all, he did the "panchayatnama' of Siallali which started at 6:40 a.m. and ended at 7:25 a.m. The distance from the place of the incident to the police station was written in the "panchayatnama' about 10 km. After that the "panchayatnama' of Km. Mahima was conducted from 7.30 a.m. to 8.00 a.m. The "panchayatnama' of all was over at 11:30 a.m. The panchayatnama started only after the body was found. The convict/appellant was wearing lungi, vest and sweater. He inspected the place of the incident before the "panchayatnama'. The witnesses in the "panchayatnama' were Vishesharnath Mishra (P.W.3), Vishnu Tiwari, Sanjay Chaurasia, Umashankar Mishra, Kashiram Kori. He also denied the suggestion that apart from axe, knife, there was no injury of stick etc. He also denied the suggestion that all the three weapons were not used by the same person and number of attackers were larger one. He also denied the suggestion that all proceedings was done by him on one day and recorded the statement of Vishesharnath (P.W.3) at the place of the incident on 01.12.2011. He further deposed that he recorded the statement of the wife of the informant at the place of occurrence on 13.11.2011 but he could not remember the time. He denied the suggestion that the informant had not gone to the police station and informant was unconscious at the place of occurrence. 16. In the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., convict/appellant claimed to be innocent and denied the allegations levelled against him and stated that the prosecution witnesses had falsely implicated them on account of enmity. The convict/appellant stated in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that before the incident, he was working at Lucknow, upon which he got a good amount of salary and his condition was good. On account of his good condition, his pattedar and villagers were getting jealous to him. He had four daughters and no sons. His brother (informant) had only son. He told that he would give all the properties to his daughters, which was not liked by his brother Dina Nath (informant) because he wanted to get all his properties. He had cordial relationship with his wife and daughters and he loved a lot to his wife and daughters and there were no enmity between them. Before the incident, altercation took place with Visheshar Nath, on account of which, he was inimical to him. He further stated that on the night of the incident, he was sleeping at barn for safety of cutting paddy. When he came home in the morning, he came to know about the incident. He has faith that this incident was done by the villagers and his brother through miscreants. He was stated this by crying but they have falsely implicated him with the connivance of police. No weapon of murder i.e. axe and knife were recovered from his possession.

17. The learned trial Court believed the evidence adduced by Dina Nath Tiwari (P.W.1), Smt. Suneeta alias Anita (P.W.2) and Visheshwar Nath Mishra (P.W.3) and convicted and sentenced Deen Dayal Tiwari in the manner stated in paragraph-2, hereinabove.

18. Hence, the above-captioned appeal and reference.

(C) CONVICT/APPELLANT'S ARGUMENTS

19. On behalf of the convict/appellant, Shri Jyotindra Misra, learned Senior Advocate/Amicus Curiae assisted by Shri Kapil Misra, learned Counsel argued :-

(I) That the case rests entirely on the circumstantial evidence. Unless and until the prosecution proves its case beyond all reasonable doubt, the conviction in a case of circumstantial evidence would not be warranted. His submission is that merely on the basis of suspicion, conviction would not be sustainable.

(II) That the F.I.R. was lodged after arresting of the appellant and, therefore, the F.I.R. is anti-time.

(III) That the investigation of the instant case is tainted as signature of the convict/appellant was not on the seizure memo of weapon of assault. There is no exhibit before the Trial Court to prove that the alleged recovered weapons were used by the convict/appellant. Furthermore, there is no proved serologist report to show that the blood on the murder weapons were of human being and of the deceased. There is a false recovery of axe and knives alleged to be used in the incident by the convict/appellant.

(IV) That P.W.4-Dr. S.K. Shukla, who conducted the postmortem of the deceased had stated in his deposition that some of the injuries over the body of the deceased cannot be caused by alleged recovered weapons.

(V) That there are major contradictions in the statements of P.W.1, P.W.2, P.W.3 and P.W.5.

(V) That the presumption of Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act cannot be drawn against the convict /appellant. His submission is that unless the initial burden is discharged by the prosecution, the burden would not shift on the convict/appellant. The convict/appellant in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. had stated that at the time of the incident, he was sleeping in barn for saving his paddy but the trial Court has not considered this fact while convicting the convict/appellant by means of the impugned order.

(VI) That there was no motive for the convict/appellant to commit the alleged crime as alleged by the prosecution. His submission is that in the case of circumstantial evidence, motive plays an important role and the prosecution has utterly failed to prove the case as to motive.

(VII) That when two views are possible, one leaning towards acquittal and another towards conviction, the benefit should be given to accused.

(VIII) That the findings of guilt recorded by the trial Court is based on surmises and conjectures, hence the impugned judgment is liable to be set-aside.

(IX) That the learned trial court has committed error in concluding that the case of the convict/appellant is covered under the "rarest of rare cases' and, therefore, the death sentence awarded to the convict/appellant is not legally justified.

(D) RESPONDENT/STATE ARGUMENTS

20. On behalf of the State, Shri Vimal Kumar Srivastava, learned Government Advocate assisted by Shri Chandra Shekhar Pandey, learned Additional Government Advocate has argued :-

(I) that the motive for the crime was duly proved.

(II) that place of occurrence is proved without doubt as there is no suggestion that the incident occurred at any other place.

(III) that the house of informant P.W.1 is besides the house of the appellant, where the incident had occurred and their houses are partitioned with pile of brick, therefore, it is quite natural and informant P.W.1 and his wife P.W.2 had heard the noise of the daughters and wife of the appellant and after hearing the noise, both of them i.e. P.W.1 and P.W.2 came out of his house and saw the incident.

(IV) that though the deceased are the family members of P.W.1 and P.W.2 and are related to each other, their testimony cannot be discarded merely because the relationship can never be a factor to affect the credibility of witnesses. His submission is that P.W.1 and P.W.2 have established their presence at the place and time of occurrence and their statements are trustworthy.

(V) that the statements of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3 have been clear and consistent while describing the sequence of events that had taken place on the day of the occurrence. There is no material discrepancy or contradiction in the statements of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3 as they had identified the convict/appellant, who committed the murder of the deceased with axe and knives, which also corroborates with the medical evidence. Hence, merely not appended the signature of the convict/appellant on the memo of the recovery of the weapons of assault i.e. axe and knives, cannot be said that the whole testimonies of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3 are not trustworthy and unreliable.

(VI) that the statements of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3 show that appellant committed the murder of his wife and four minor daughters in the intervening night of 11/12.11.2011 at about 02:30 a.m. with axe and knife and the medical evidences have also supported the prosecution case. The trial Court has rightly discarded the plea of the appellant.

(VII) that the defence had not made suggestion to the Investigating Officer or any member of his team of having any ill motive to falsely implicate the convict/appellant, therefore, there is no occasion to accept the submission that the FIR has been ante-timed, particularly when the record and the GD entry proves prompt lodging of the F.I.R.

(VIII) that the prosecution witnesses i.e. P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3 gave a graphic description of the incident which finds corroboration in the medical evidence as also the position in which the body was noticed at the time of inquest proceedings.

(IX) that absence of serologist report would not make a material difference as this is a case based on ocular account and the spot arrest of the convict/appellant by the police with blood stained axe and knife.

(X) that so far as the sentence is concerned, while placing reliance upon Machhi Singh and others Vs. State of Punjab : (1983) SCC 470, he argued that the trial Court has rightly sentenced the appellant for capital punishment as the prosecution has fully established that this case falls under the category of ''rarest of rare cases'.

(XI) Hence the impugned order is not liable to be set-aside.

(E) DISCUSSION/ANALYSIS

21. We have heard Sri Jyotindra Mishra, learned Senior Advocate/Amicus Curiae assisted by Sri Kapil Mishra, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the convict/appellant, Sri Vimal Kumar Srivastava, learned Government Advocate assisted by Sri Chandra Shekhar Pandey, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State/ respondent at length and have carefully gone through the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence awarded by the learned trial Court by means of the impugned judgment.

22. It would become manifest from the aforesaid that the learned trial Court has based the conviction of convict/appellant on testimonies of the informant Dina Nath Tiwari PW-1, his wife Smt. Suneeta alias Anita PW-2, who are the brother and sister-in-law, respectively, of the convict/appellant and whose house is besides the house of convict/appellant partitioned with brick and Visheshwarnath Mishr P.W.3, who is the independent witness.

23. First, this Court proceeds to test whether the F.I.R. is ante-timed. The offence is said to have been committed in the intervening night of 11/12.11.2011 at 2:30 a.m. The wife and four daughters of the convict/appellant were done to death. The convict/appellant was not spared to lodge the F.I.R. nor informed the police about the incident. It appears that the informant P.W.1-Dina Nath Tiwari, who is the younger brother of the convict/appellant, prepared written report through scribe, whose name has not been disclosed by the prosecution, went to the police station and lodge the F.I.R. at 06:10 a.m. on 12.11.2011. The distance between police station and the place of occurrence is 15 Kms. If statements of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3 are taken into consideration on this point in consonance with the submission raised by the learned Senior Counsel/ Amicus Curiae, it is evident that information to P.W.1 was received at 02:30 a.m. on 11/12.11.2011. P.W.1 and P.W.2 have stated that when they heard the noise of wife and four daughters of the convict/appellant, they came out of their village and were trying to get open the door of convict/ appellant but when the door was not opened, they started removing bricks of the wall and thereafter the convict /appellant opened the door and came out with blood stained axe and threatened them and other villagers who were gathered there to leave from there, otherwise, he would also kill them and after that convict/appellant closed the door. Immediately thereafter, the police reached there and after opening the door by pushing with the help of the villagers, arrested the convict/appellant on spot with blood stained axe and saw that five deadbodies were lying inside the house of the convict/appellant. Furthermore, on the pointing out of convict/appellant, two knives were recovered by the police inside the room.

24. Referring to the aforesaid fact, it was emphasized by the learned Senior Counsel/Amicus Curiae for the convict/appellant that prosecution did not explain as to how and under what circumstances, police reached the place of occurrence and it was argued on behalf of the appellant that this fact itself shows that F.I.R. is ante-timed.

25. If submissions raised by the learned Senior Counsel/Amicus Curiae are minutely analyzed with statements of P.W.1, P.W.2, P.W.3 and P.W.5, it clearly emerges that aforesaid statement made by P.W.1 to this extent cannot place the prosecution case doubtful as no question was put to P.W.1 that police personnel came there at that moment whether the police actually proceeded from the police station concerned after registering the case or they belong to patrol party. If such was the position, submission raised by the learned Senior Counsel/Amicus Curiae doubting the existence of F.I.R. at the time mentioned therein cannot be accepted. F.I.R. could come in existence at the time mentioned in it. It may also be mentioned that F.I.R. is not the result of afterthought or consultation. If contents of F.I.R. i.e. written report are taken into consideration in the light of entire evidence, there was no chance to falsely implicate convict/appellant in this matter on the basis of due consultation or an afterthought. It is also noteworthy that F.I.R. is not an encyclopedia. All necessary details required to set the law in motion have been mentioned in written report (Ext. Ka. 1). If for the sake of argument or for a moment submission raised by learned Senior Counsel/Amicus Curiae on point of F.I.R. is taken into consideration, then, also entire prosecution if proved from other evidence cannot be disbelieved on the point of ante-timing of F.I.R. In the present case, five persons including four minor girls were done to death. P.W.1 is brother-in-law (nsoj) of deceased Siyallali and his four niece were also done to death brutally by his elder brother Deen Dayal Tiwari (convict/appellant). Time of receiving of information and reaching the place of occurrence of witnesses shown in the prosecution evidence is not based on exact recording of time but is based on assumption. Written report is briefly stated document. It could be prepared within few minutes and thus, on this point, existence of F.I.R. cannot be doubted. Therefore, in our considered view, finding of the trial Court regarding existence of F.I.R. in this matter cannot be termed to be illegal, rather it is based on correct appreciation of facts, evidence and law. It also transpires from the evidence of the Investigating Officer

P.W.5 that the defense had not put any suggestion to him of having ill-motive to falsely implicate the convict/appellant or there was enmity with the Investigating Officer. Hence, no interference is required in finding of the trial Court on this point.

26. Now we come to deal with motive part. It is true that motive is an essential ingredient to commit an offence. Nothing specific was mentioned by P.W.1 in written report (Ext. Ka.-1) on this point. It is evident that when the convict/appellant was interrogated by the police, then, he stated that the character of his wife was bad and she had affair with some person of the village, therefore, he murdered his wife with axe and knife and when their daughters came to rescue their mother, he also murdered their daughters. P.W.3-Visheshwarnath Mishra examined in the matter had testify the aforesaid confession of the convict/appellant made before the police. Murder of wife and daughters of convict/appellant in the house of the convict/appellant has not been disputed nor statement regarding pressurizing by P.W.1 to transfer of immovable property in his name upon convict/appellant was specifically challenged in cross-examination.

27. As regards non-production of documentary evidence to prove motive is concerned, it is noteworthy that a fact may be proved by oral or documentary evidence. The confession referred here-in-above on this issue will certainly come in the category of direct evidence and same has not been specifically impeached in cross-examination and nothing is on record to disbelieve the said confession made by the convict/appellant before the police on point of motive. Thus, we are of the view that submission raised by learned Senior Advoate/Amicus Curiae on this point cannot be accepted. Thus, it can safely be held that finding recorded by Trial Court on point of motive in impugned judgment needs no interference and same is based on correct appreciation of facts and evidence. Convict/ appellant had motive to commit this offence.

28. So far as medical evidence adduced by prosecution in this case is concerned, five persons, namely, Siallali, Km. Mahima, Km. Mani, Km. Riya and Guddan were done to death in the intervening night of 11/12.11.2011 in the house of convict/ appellant. Postmortem was conducted on 12.11.2011 in between 01:00 p.m. to 02:30 p.m. In all postmortem reports, time of death of deceased persons has been shown as 1/2 day old. Injuries found on body of deceased persons are incised, multiple incised, lacerated, multiple lacerated, contusion, multiple panitrating and crush wounds.

30. In postmortem report (Ext. Ka.-3) of deceased Km. Mahima, aged about 4 years, lacerated wounds were found on

31. So far as postmortem report (Ext. Ka.-4) of deceased Km. Mani, aged about 11 years, is concerned, lacerated wound was found on skull 3 cm above to left ear; contusion was found on forehead at frontal region; left section of neck was 10 x 4.0 x bone deep; incised wound was found on mandible size 4.0 x 1.0 x bone deep.

32. On dead body of deceased Kumari Riya, aged about 8 years, during postmortem (Ext. Ka.-5), lacerated wound was found on left side of face 2 cm medial left ear; left section was found on neck size 6.0 x 9.0 x bone deep; incised wound was found on chest at left side above to epigastric region; and multiple lacerated wound was found on right leg.

33. As per postmortem report (Ext. Ka.-6) of deceased Guddan, aged about 6 years, crush injury was found on left side of skull; cut section was found on neck at anterior aspect; and multiple penetrating wound was found on abdomen.

34. In the opinion of P.W.4-Dr. S.K. Shukla, cause of death of all deceased persons was due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries. P.W.4-Dr. S.K. Shukla was examined before the trial Court and deposed that time of death of deceased persons was 1/2 day old. If statement of P.W.4 is compared in light of statement of other prosecution witnesses examined in the matter, it is clear that all deceased persons were done to death in the intervening night of 11/12.11.2011 at 2:30 p.m. The convict/appellant used same weapon in committing murder of all deceased persons. It is also evident from record that injuries found on body of deceased persons can be caused with the weapon "axe" and "knife" said to have been recovered from the possession of the convict/appellant on spot. Thus, in our considered view, in instant case, prosecution was able to prove date and time of death of deceased persons.

35. It is pertinent to mention here that incident took place in the month of November. Symptom of Rigor Mortis shown in postmortem report of all deceased persons is probable and possible one. Prosecution was also able to prove the manner in which deceased were done to death and has connected the weapon "axe" and "knife" used by convict/appellant in committing the offence. Thus, finding recorded by Trial Court in the impugned judgment and order on point of medical evidence, in our considered opinion, is also in accordance with facts and evidence which needs no interference by this Court. It may also safely be held in this matter that medical evidence is not contrary to oral version of prosecution.

36. So far as recovery of weapon and clothes are concerned, incident took place in the intervening night of 11/12.11.2011 at 2:30 p.m. P.W.1 and other witnesses have reached the place of occurrence immediately in the intervening night itself and thereafter F.I.R. was lodged by P.W.1. It is also evident that on the basis of F.I.R., local police immediately proceeded to the place of occurrence. P.W.5 Ajay Prakash Mishra has stated that he reached the place of occurrence and after conducting inquest proceedings, he sent the deadbodies for post-mortem. Arrest and recovery memo also reveals that convict/appellant was arrested on spot from his house. On inquiry made by P.W.5, arrested convict/appellant confessed that he murdered his wife and children as his wife was bad character and she has relationship with some person of the village. As per this witness, on interrogation of convict/appellant, he disclosed that he hidden the weapon used in commission of crime in his house itself. P.W.5, on the basis of disclosure statement made by convict/appellant and on pointing out of convict/appellant, as per recovery memo, weapons "axe" and "knife" were recovered from the room in the house of convict/appellant itself. If statements of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3 are taken into consideration along with statements of P.W.5, cumulatively, recovery of weapon "axe" and "knife" on pointing out of convict/appellant from the room situated in the house of convict/appellant has been proved by prosecution from its evidence beyond reasonable doubt. Thus, findings recorded by the Trial Court on issue of recovery of "axe" and "knife" on pointing out of convict/appellant need no interference by this Court and same are based on correct appreciation of facts and evidence.

37. As far as truthfulness of statements of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3 is concerned, certainly P.W.1 and P.W.2 are closely related to each other as also with deceased persons, yet their statements, only on this basis, cannot be discarded. None of them are eyewitness account. Whatever information was gathered by P.W.1 at the place of occurrence, he reproduced the same in handwriting and proceeded to police station concerned. Both these witnesses i.e. P.W.1 and P.W.2 had deposed before the trial Court that the house of his elder brother i.e. convict/ appellant and their house were adjacent and their houses were partitioned with brick of wall which was not cemented. Therefore, it is quite probable that P.W.1 and P.W.2, on hearing the noise of the wife and daughters of the convict/appellant, came out from their house and witnessed the incident. P.W.3-Visheweshwar Mishra had fully supported the statements of P.W.1 and P.W.2 and stated that at the time of the incident, he as well as P.W.1 and P.W.2 were present before the house of the convict/appellant and on their presence, the police came and arrested the convict/appellant on spot with blood stained "axe' and "knife'. Therefore, their presence at the place of occurrence at the time stated by them cannot be doubted. Their statements made before the Court can also not be doubted on this ground that there are contradictions and exaggerations in their statements on some points. If their statements are scrutinized cumulatively in its entirety, there is no contradiction in their statements on point of recovery of dead bodies at the place of occurrence, taking of blood stained and plain soil and other articles from the place of occurrence, which were sent to F.S.L. for chemical examination and also on point of recovery of weapon "axe" and "knife". Exaggerations and contradictions said to have been occurred in their statements, as has been elucidated during course of arguments on behalf of convict/appellant, in our considered view, do not go to the root of the case and do not demolish prosecution evidence on material points.

38. It is settled that the testimony of an eye-witness merely because he happens to be a relative of the deceased cannot be discarded as close relatives would be the last one to screen out the real culprit and implicate innocent person. This aspect of the mater has further been clarified by the Apex Court in the case of Dharnidhar Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh : (2010) 7 SCC page 759 as follows:

"12. There is no hard-and-fast rule that family members can never be true witnesses to the occurrence and that they will always depose falsely before the court. It will always depend upon the facts and circumstances of a given case. In Jayabalan v. UT of Pondicherry (2010) 1 SCC 199, this Court had occasion to consider whether the evidence of interested witnesses can be relied upon. The Court took the view that a pedantic approach cannot be applied while dealing with the evidence of an interested witness. Such evidence cannot be ignored or thrown out solely because it comes from a person closely related to the victim."

39. Thus, in our considered view, statements of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3 on material points are fully reliable. Trial Court, while passing impugned judgment and order, has rightly placed reliance on their statements and finding recorded by Trial Court on this issue needs no interference.

40. As regards laches occurred on part of the Investigating Officer i.e. recovery memo of weapons of assault i.e. "axe' and "knife' is defective one as signature of the convict/appellant was not thereon is concerned, we are of the view that it does not go to the root of the case and do not affect the prosecution case. It may be mentioned that since no prosecution case is free from shortcomings, therefore, merely in not available the signature of convict/appellant on the recovery memo of weapons of assault i.e. "axe' and "knife', cannot be disbelieved. In the instant case, recovery of weapon "axe" and "knife" is supported by statements of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3, who were also present at the place of occurrence.

41. Further, if the prosecution case is established by the evidence adduced, any failure or omission on the part of the Investigating Officer cannot render the case of the prosecution doubtful [vide : Amar Singh vs. Balwinder Singh, AIR 2003 SC 1164, Sambu Das vs. State of Assam, AIR 2010 SC 3300].

42. In the case of State of U.P. Vs. Krishna Master and others : 2010 Cri. L.J. 3889 (SC), the Apex Court has held that prosecution evidence may suffer from inconsistencies here and discrepancies there, but that is a shortcoming from which no criminal case is free. The main thing to be seen is whether those inconsistencies go to the root of the matter or pertain to insignificant aspects thereof.

43. Further, the Apex Court in Sampath Kumar vs. Inspector of Police, Krishnagiri : (2012) 4 SCC 124 has also held that minor contradictions are bound to appear in statements of truthful witnesses as memory sometimes plays false and sense of observation differs from person to person.

44. The factum of arrest from spot was not denied by the convict/appellant. P.W.1, who is the younger brother of the convict/appellant, P.W.2, who is the wife of P.W.1, P.W.3, who is the independent witness and P.W.5, who is the Investigating Officer, had deposed in clear terms before the trial Court that the convict/appellant was arrested by the police from the place of the occurrence (i.e. from the house of convict/appellant) along with blood stained "axe' and "knives' as well as five dead-bodies (wife and four minor daughters of the convict/appellant). During the interrogation on spot, the convict/appellant made disclosure statement that as his wife Siyallali had illicit relationship with someone of the village, due to which his relation with his wife became strained, on account of which, on 11.11.2011, in the evening itself, he had decided that tonight itself he would kill his wife, therefore, he had kept the "knife' and "axe' in the evening itself and at around 3 O'clock in the night, when his wife and his daughters were sleeping, he firstly hit the head of his wife Siallali with axe, due to which she screamed, then, he stabbed her with knife. After that, his daughters woke up and came to serve their mother, then, he killed them in turn. Among their daughters, he firstly killed Mani Tiwari, then Riya, then Guddan/Gunjan, then Kumari Mahima with a "knife' and "axe'. On hue and cry of save save of his daughters, people of his village and members of his family had gathered and these peoples were threatening to break the door and asked him to come out of the room, therefore, he had closed the door inside his room." P.W.3, who is independent witness, has also deposed before the trial Court that the convict/appellant had made the aforesaid disclosure statement before him at the time of his arrest on the spot during interrogation by the police. The statement of the convict/appellant recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C shows that he had no enmity with P.W.3. Furthermore, the convict/ appellant had not denied the fact either in the statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. or the written statement submitted by him under Section 313 Cr.P.C. before the trial Court that he had not made disclosure statement before the Investigating Officer P.W.5 or the disclosure statement made by him was concocted or it was made by him only on exerting pressure by the Investigating Officer.

45. At this juncture, it is relevant to mention here that the convict/ appellant admitted the fact that deadbodies of his wife and four daughters were found by the police from his house. The convict/appellant had alleged in the written statement submitted under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that on the date and time of the incident, he was sleeping at his barn for saving paddy crops and when he came in the morning, he came to know the incident and further he alleged that he believed that his brother and villagers had committed this incident with the connivance of miscreants.

46. It is true that Section 106 of the Evidence Act will apply to those cases where the prosecution has succeeded in establishing the facts from which a reasonable inference can be drawn regarding the existence of certain other facts which are within the special knowledge of the accused. When the accused fails to offer proper explanation about the existence of said other facts, the Court can always draw an appropriate inference.

47. It is settled law that when a case is resting on circumstantial evidence, if the accused fails to offer a reasonable explanation in discharge of burden placed on him by virtue of Section 106 of the Evidence Act, such a failure may provide an additional link to the chain of circumstances. In a case governed by circumstantial evidence, if the chain of circumstances which is required to be established by the prosecution is not established, the failure of the accused to discharge the burden under Section 106 of the Evidence Act is not relevant at all. When the chain is not complete, falsity of the defence is no ground to convict the accused.

48. In the instant case, it transpires from the record that the convict/appellant has failed to offer any reasonable explanation in discharge of burden placed on him by virtue of Section 106 of the Evidence Act viz. the defense has failed to produce any clinching evidence (1) at the time of the incident, the convict/appellant was sleeping at his barn to save his crops; (2) the convict/appellant was not arrested from spot; and (3) his wife and daughters were murdered by his brother (P.W.1) and villagers with connivance of miscreants.

49. From the aforesaid discussion and evidence on record, this Court is of the view that the motive is proved by the prosecution; the prosecution witnesses had fully supported the prosecution case and proved their presence at the time of the incident on the place of occurrence; the medical evidence has also corroborated by the disclosure statement made by the convict/appellant itself before the police; and the convict/ appellant was arrested on spot by the police with the weapons of assault. Thus, the circumstances established by the prosecution leads to only one possible inference regarding the guilt of the convict/appellant as the prosecution has proved the guilt of the convict/appellant beyond reasonable doubt by leading cogent evidence.

50. Hence, the submission made by the learned Senior Counsel/Amicus Curiae for appellant in this regard cannot be accepted and the finding recorded by the Trial Court on this point is not liable to be interfered with.

(F) SENTENCE

51. Now, we come to see evidence regarding involvement of convict/appellant in commission of crime and nature of evidence adduced by prosecution. Certainly, it is a case of circumstantial evidence, thus we have to see whether circumstances established by prosecution against convict/ appellant are sufficient to sustain conviction of accused-appellant for offence under Section 302 IPC. Before dealing with aforesaid question, it will be useful to quote settled proposition of law on point of circumstantial evidence.

52. In Brajendra Singh v. State of Madhya Pradesh : (2012) 4 SCC 289, the Apex Court observed as under :-

27. There is no doubt that it is not a case of direct evidence but the conviction of the accused is founded on circumstantial evidence. It is a settled principle of law that the prosecution has to satisfy certain conditions before a conviction based on circumstantial evidence can be sustained. The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established and should also be consistent with only one hypothesis, i.e. the guilt of the accused. The circumstances should be conclusive and proved by the prosecution. There must be a chain of events so complete so as not to leave any substantial doubt in the mind of the Court. Irresistibly, the evidence should lead to the conclusion inconsistent with the innocence of the accused and the only possibility that the accused has committed the crime. To put it simply, the circumstances forming the chain of events should be proved and they should cumulatively point towards the guilt of the accused alone. In such circumstances, the inference of guilt can be justified only when all the incriminating facts and circumstances are found to be incompatible with the innocence of the accused or the guilt of any other person.

28. Furthermore, the rule which needs to be observed by the Court while dealing with the cases of circumstantial evidence is that the best evidence must be adduced which the nature of the case admits. The circumstances have to be examined cumulatively. The Court has to examine the complete chain of events and then see whether all the material facts sought to be established by the prosecution to bring home the guilt of the accused, have been proved beyond reasonable doubt. It has to be kept in mind that all these principles are based upon one basic cannon of our criminal jurisprudence that the accused is innocent till proven guilty and that the accused is entitled to a just and fair trial. [Ref. Dhananjoy Chatterjee v. State of West Bengal, JT 1994 (1) SC 33; Shivu v. High Court of Karnataka, (2007) 4 SCC 713; and Shivaji v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2009 SC 56].

29. It is a settled rule of law that in a case based on circumstantial evidence, the prosecution must establish the chain of events leading to the incident and the facts forming part of that chain should be proved beyond reasonable doubt. They have to be of definite character and cannot be a mere possibility."

53. In present case, none of the witnesses examined in the matter are eye account witnesses of the incident. It is also evident that incident took place in the intervening night of 11/12.11.2011 at the time and place mentioned in chik F.I.R. and stated by prosecution witnesses. Medical evidence also supports prosecution version. Five persons were done to death. Prosecution was able to prove motive against convict/appellant to commit present offence. Weapon "axe" and "knife" said to have been used in commission of crime was also made recovered by convict/appellant from his house itself. The factum of spot arrest of the convict/appellant has not been disputed and the convict/appellant has failed discharge his burden as per Section 106 of the Evidence Act. Thus, in our considered view, what evidence have been made available by prosecution during trial are sufficient to connect convict/appellant with the present matter. Convict/appellant and deceased both were also residing at some house. Incident took place inside the house. Circumstances established by prosecution are firm, cogent and believable. Chain of events are completed and linked with each other. There is no chance of false implication of convict/appellant. All circumstances including motive and previous conduct of convict/appellant as well as recovery of weapon "axe" and "knife" said to have been made on his pointing out cumulatively point towards the guilt of convict/appellant. It is also noteworthy that the best evidence which could be available in the facts and circumstances of the case were proved by the prosecution. Thus, on the basis of evidence available on record, one and only one hypothesis can be drawn that convict/appellant has committed present offence in which he has eliminated his wife and four daughters of his family.

54. So far as the submission of the learned Senior Counsel/Amicus Curiae that the convict/appellant was not present on the place of incident as he was sleeping in barn for saving his paddy on the date and time of the incident as has been stated by him in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., hence, there was no question of the convict/appellant to murder his wife and four daughters, which is alleged to have occurred at 2:30 a.m.. on 11/12.11.2011, we cannot persuade ourselves to accept this contention of learned Senior Counsel/Amicus Curiae. This defence of alibi which has been pleaded by the appellant has not been proved by him, as enjoined upon him by Section 106 of the Evidence Act.

55. For convenience, Section 106 of the Evidence Act reads as under :-

"106. Burden of proving fact within knowledge. When any fact is especially within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him.

Illustration

(a) When a person does an act with some intention other than that which, the character and circumstances of the act suggest, the burden of proving that intention is upon him.

(b) A is charged with travelling on a railway without a ticket. The burden of proving that he had a ticket is on him."

56. In our opinion, the convict/appellant has not been able to discharge this statutory burden enjoined by Section 106 of the Evidence Act. Neither any defence witness has been examined on his behalf to show that he was sleeping in barn at the aforesaid time nor any documentary evidence has been adduced by him and proved which would establish this defence of the convict/appellant. We further find that no suggestion was given to any of the witnesses that at the time of the incident, the convict/appellant was not at the place of incident but was sleeping in barn. The solitary mention of such a defence in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. would not tantamount to the convict/appellant discharging burden upon him as enjoined by Section 106 of the Evidence Act.

57. In view of the aforesaid reasons, the aforesaid contention of learned Senior Counsel/Amicus Curiae for the appellant fails.

58. Thus, we are of the view that Trial Court has rightly held guilty to convict/appellant for committing offence under Section 302 I.P.C. Finding of Trial Court about the guilt of convict/appellant for aforesaid offence is based on correct appreciation of facts and evidence which needs no interference by this Court.

59. As far as sentence imposed upon convict/appellant is concerned, Trial Court in its wisdom has imposed death punishment finding the present case in the category of "rarest of rare" cases. Five persons were done to death. Convict/appellant is husband of deceased Siyallali and father of four minor daughters.

60. Aggravating and mitigating circumstances in the present matter can be summarized as under :-

"Aggravating Circumstances

(a) Offence in the present case was committed in an extremely brutal, grotesque, diabolical, revolting and dastardly manner so as to arouse intense and extreme indignation of society;

(b) Offence was also committed in preordained manner demonstrating exceptional depravity and extreme brutality;

(c) Extreme misery inflicted upon his own wife and four minor daughters;

(d) Helpless children were done to death;

(e) Brutality and premeditated plan of convict/appellant also find support from his act as he ensured the death of all deceased by assaulting upon them on the vital part of deceased persons;

(f) Act of convict/appellant is shocking not only to the judicial conscience but also to the Society as he has eliminated his wife and four daughters only to take revenge from his wife as convict/appellant felt that his wife has bad character and she has eloped with some person of his village;

(g) act and conduct of convict/appellant itself shows that there is no chance of reformation and he is menace to the Society; and

(h) it is a cold-blooded murder without provocation.

61. On the other hand, Mitigating Circumstances, as emerged, are (a) age of the convict/appellant i.e. 43 years at the time of recording of statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C.; (b) he belongs to village background and offence was committed because the convict/appellant felt that his wife had bad character and she has illicit relationship some person of his village; and (c) chance for reformation and rehabilitation.

62. Now the question before this Court is whether death penalty in the present case is justified. Before looking to the facts of present case on the question of sentence, it would be appropriate to advert to judicial authorities on the matter throwing light and laying down principles for imposing penalty, in a case, particularly death penalty.

63. In the case of Bachan Singh v. State of Punjab : (1980) 2 SCC 684, the Apex Court, in para-164, observed that normal rule is that for the offence of murder, accused shall be punished with the sentence of life imprisonment. Court can depart from that rule and impose sentence of death only if there are special reasons for doing so. Such reasons must be recorded in writing before imposing death sentence. While considering question of sentence to be imposed for the offence of murder under Section 302 IPC, Court must have regard to every relevant circumstance relating to crime as well as criminal. If Court finds that the offence is of an exceptionally depraved and heinous character and constitutes, on account of its design and the manner of its execution, a source of grave danger to the society at large, Court may impose death sentence.

64. Relying on the authority in Furman v. Georgia, (1972) SCC On-Line US SC 171, the Apex Court noted the suggestion given by learned counsel about aggravating and mitigating circumstances in para 202 of the judgement in Bachan Singh (supra) which read as under :-

"202. ... 'Aggravating circumstances: A court may, however, in the following cases impose the penalty of death in its discretion:

(a) if the murder has been committed after previous planning and involves extreme brutality; or

(b) if the murder involves exceptional depravity; or

(c) if the murder is of a member of any of the armed forces of the Union or of a member of any police force or of any public servant and was committed -

(i) while such member or public servant was on duty; or

(ii) in consequence of anything done or attempted to be done by such member or public servant in the lawful discharge of his duty as such member or public servant whether at the time of murder he was such member or public servant, as the case may be, or had ceased to be such member or public servant; or

(d) if the murder is of a person who had acted in the lawful discharge of his duty under Section 43 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, or who had rendered assistance to a Magistrate or a police officer demanding his aid or requiring his assistance under Section 37 and Section 129 of the said Code."

65. Thereafter in para 203, the Apex Court observed that broadly there can be no objection to the acceptance of these indicators noted above but Court would not fetter judicial discretion by attempting to make an exhaustive enumeration one way or the other. Thereafter in para 206 of judgment in Bachan Singh (supra), the Apex Court also suggested certain mitigating circumstances as under :-

"206. ... 'Mitigating circumstances.--In the exercise of its discretion in the above cases, the court shall take into account the following circumstances:

(1) That the offence was committed under the influence of extreme mental or emotional disturbance.

(2) The age of the accused. If the accused is young or old, he shall not be sentenced to death.

(3) The probability that the accused would not commit criminal acts of violence as would constitute a continuing threat to society.

(4) The probability that the accused can be reformed and rehabilitated. The State shall by evidence prove that the accused does not satisfy conditions (3) and (4) above.

(5) That in the facts and circumstances of the case the accused believed that he was morally justified in committing the offence.

(6) That the accused acted under the duress or domination of another person.

(7) That the condition of the accused showed that he was mentally defective and that the said defect impaired his capacity to appreciate the criminality of his conduct."

66. Again in para 207 in Bachan Singh (supra), the Apex Court further said that mitigating circumstances referred in para 206 are relevant and must be given great weight in determination of sentence. Thereafter referring to the words caution and care, in Bachan Singh (supra), the Apex Court observed that it is imperative to voice the concern that Courts, aided by the broad illustrative guidelines, will discharge onerous function with evermore scrupulous care and humane concern, directed along the highroad of legislative policy outlined in Section 354(3), viz., that for persons convicted of murder, life imprisonment is the rule and death sentence an exception. A real and abiding concern for the dignity of human life postulates resistance to taking a life through law's instrumentality. That ought not to be done save in the rarest of rare cases when the alternative option is unquestionably foreclosed.

67. In Machhi Singh v. State of Punjab, (1983) 3 SCC 470, stress was laid on certain aspects namely, manner of commission of murder, motive thereof, antisocial or socially abhorrent nature of the crime, magnitude of crime and personality of victim of murder. Court culled out certain propositions emerging from Bachan Singh (supra), in para 38 and said as under :-

"The following propositions emerge from Bachan Singh case:(i) The extreme penalty of death need not be inflicted except in gravest cases of extreme culpability.

(ii) Before opting for the death penalty the circumstances of the 'offender' also require to be taken into consideration along with the circumstances of the 'crime'.

(iii) Life imprisonment is the rule and death sentence is an exception. In other words death sentence must be imposed only when life imprisonment appears to be an altogether inadequate punishment having regard to the relevant circumstances of the crime, and provided, and only provided, the option to impose sentence of imprisonment for life cannot be conscientiously exercised having regard to the nature and circumstances of the crime and all the relevant circumstances.

(iv) A balance sheet of aggravating and mitigating circumstances has to be drawn up and in doing so the mitigating circumstances have to be accorded full weightage and a just balance has to be struck between the aggravating and the mitigating circumstances before the option is exercised."

68. The Apex Court in Machhi Singh (supra) further observed that following questions must be answered in order to apply the guidelines :-

"(a) Is there something uncommon about the crime which renders sentence of imprisonment for life inadequate and calls for a death sentence"

(b) Are the circumstances of the crime such that there is no alternative but to impose death sentence even after according maximum weightage to the mitigating circumstances which speak in favour of the offender?"

(Emphasis added)

69. In Haresh Mohandas Rajput v. State of Maharashtra : (2011) 12 SCC 56, after referring to Bachan Singh (supra) and Machhi Singh (supra), the Apex Court expanded the "rarest of rare" formulation beyond the aggravating factors listed in Bachan Singh (supra) to cases where the "collective conscience" of community is so shocked that it will expect the holders of judicial power centre to inflict death penalty irrespective of their personal opinion as regards desirability or otherwise of retaining the death penalty, such a penalty can be inflicted. Court, however, underlined that full weightage must be accorded to the mitigating circumstances of the case and a just balance had to be struck between the aggravating and the mitigating circumstances.

70. In para 20 of the judgment in Haresh Mohandas Rajput (supra), the Apex Court observed that the rarest of the rare case comes when a convict would be a menace and threat to the harmonious and peaceful coexistence of society. The crime may be heinous or brutal but may not be in the category of "the rarest of the rare case". There must be no reason to believe that the accused cannot be reformed or rehabilitated and that he is likely to continue criminal acts of violence as would constitute a continuing threat to the society. The accused may be a menace to the society and would continue to be so, threatening its peaceful and harmonious coexistence. The manner in which the crime is committed must be such that it may result in intense and extreme indignation of the community and shock the collective conscience of the society. Where an accused does not act on any spur of the momentary provocation and indulges himself in a deliberately planned crime and meticulously executes it, the death sentence may be the most appropriate punishment for such a ghastly crime. The death sentence may be warranted where victims are innocent children and helpless women. Thus, in case the crime is committed in a most cruel and inhuman manner which is an extremely brutal, grotesque, diabolical, revolting and dastardly manner, where his act affects the entire moral fibre of the society, death sentence should be awarded.

71. The issue again came up before Hon'ble Apex Court in Ramnaresh & others v. State of Chhattisgarh reported in (2012) 4 SCC 257, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court reiterated 13 aggravating and 7 mitigating circumstances as laid down in the case of Bachan Singh (supra) required to be taken into consideration while applying the doctrine of "rarest of rare" case. Relevant para of the same reads thus:-

"76. The law enunciated by this Court in its recent judgements, as already noticed, adds and elaborates the principles that were stated in the case of Bachan Singh (supra) and thereafter, in the case of Machhi Singh (supra). The aforesaid judgments, primarily dissect these principles into two different compartments - one being the "aggravating circumstances" while the other being the "mitigating circumstances". The Court would consider the cumulative effect of both these aspects and normally, it may not be very appropriate for the Court to decide the most significant aspect of sentencing policy with reference to one of the classes under any of the following heads while completely ignoring other classes under other heads. To balance the two is the primary duty of the Court. It will be appropriate for the Court to come to a final conclusion upon balancing the exercise that would help to administer the criminal justice system better and provide an effective and meaningful reasoning by the Court as contemplated under Section 354 (3) of Cr.P.C.

Aggravating Circumstances:

(1) The offences relating to the commission of heinous crimes like murder, rape, armed dacoity, kidnapping etc. by the accused with a prior record of conviction for capital felony or offences committed by the person having a substantial history of serious assaults and criminal convictions.

(2) The offence was committed while the offender was engaged in the commission of another serious offence.

(3) The offence was committed with the intention to create a fear psychosis in the public at large and was committed in a public place by a weapon or device which clearly could be hazardous to the life of more than one person.

(4) The offence of murder was committed for ransom or like offences to receive money or monetary benefits.

(5) Hired killings.

(6) The offence was committed outrageously for want only while involving inhumane treatment and torture to the victim.

(7) The offence was committed by a person while in lawful custody.

(8) The murder or the offence was committed to prevent a person lawfully carrying out his duty like arrest or custody in a place of lawful confinement of himself or another. For instance, murder is of a person who had acted in lawful discharge of his duty under Section 43 Cr.P.C.

(9) When the crime is enormous in proportion like making an attempt of murder of the entire family or members of a particular community.

(10) When the victim is innocent, helpless or a person relies upon the trust of relationship and social norms, like a child, helpless woman, a daughter or a niece staying with a father/uncle and is inflicted with the crime by such a trusted person.

(11) When murder is committed for a motive which evidences total depravity and meanness.

(12) When there is a cold blooded murder without provocation.

(13) The crime is committed so brutally that it pricks or shocks not only the judicial conscience but even the conscience of the society.

Mitigating Circumstances:

(1) The manner and circumstances in and under which the offence was committed, for example, extreme mental or emotional disturbance or extreme provocation in contradistinction to all these situations in normal course.

(2) The age of the accused is a relevant consideration but not a determinative factor by itself.

(3) The chances of the accused of not indulging in commission of the crime again and the probability of the accused being reformed and rehabilitated.

(4) The condition of the accused shows that he was mentally defective and the defect impaired his capacity to appreciate the circumstances of his criminal conduct.

(5) The circumstances which, in normal course of life, would render such a behavior possible and could have the effect of giving rise to mental imbalance in that given situation like persistent harassment or, in fact, leading to such a peak of human behavior that, in the facts and circumstances of the case, the accused believed that he was morally justified in committing the offence.

(6) Where the Court upon proper appreciation of evidence is of the view that the crime was not committed in a pre-ordained manner and that the death resulted in the course of commission of another crime and that there was a possibility of it being construed as consequences to the commission of the primary crime.

(7) Where it is absolutely unsafe to rely upon the testimony of a sole eye-witness though prosecution has brought home the guilt of the accused."

72. In the case of Dharam Deo Yadav vs. State of UP reported in (2014) 5 SCC 509, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held thus:-

"36. We may now consider whether the case falls under the category of rarest of the rare case so as to award death sentence for which, as already held, in Shankar Kisanrao Khade v. State of Maharashtra (2013) 5 SCC 546 this Court laid down three tests, namely, Crime Test, Criminal Test and RR Test. So far as the present case is concerned, both the Crime Test and Criminal Test have been satisfied as against the accused. Learned counsel appearing for the accused, however, submitted that he had no previous criminal records and that apart from the circumstantial evidence, there is no eye-witness in the above case, and hence, the manner in which the crime was committed is not in evidence. Consequently, it was pointed out that it would not be possible for this Court to come to the conclusion that the crime was committed in a barbaric manner and, hence the instant case would not fall under the category of rarest of rare. We find some force in that contention.

Taking in consideration all aspects of the matter, we are of the view that, due to lack of any evidence with regard to the manner in which the crime was committed, the case will not fall under the category of rarest of rare case.

Consequently, we are inclined to commute the death sentence to life and award 20 years of rigorous imprisonment, over and above the period already undergone by the accused, without any remission, which, in our view, would meet the ends of justice."

73. In Kalu Khan v. State of Rajasthan reported in (2015) 16 SCC 492, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that:-

"30. In Mahesh Dhanaji Shinde v. State of Maharashtra, the conviction of the appellant-accused was upheld keeping in view that the circumstantial evidence pointed only in the direction of their guilt given that the modus operandi of the crime, homicidal death, identity of 9 of 10 victims, last seen theory and other incriminating circumstances were proved.

However, the Court has thought it fit to commute the sentence of death to imprisonment for life considering the age, socio-economic conditions, custodial behaviour of the appellant-accused persons and that the case was entirely based on circumstantial evidence. This Court has placed reliance on the observations in Sunil Dutt Sharma v. State (Govt. of NCT of Delhi) as follows: (Mahesh Dhanaji case, SCC p. 314, para 35)

"35. In a recent pronouncement in Sunil Dutt Sharma v. State (Govt. of NCT of Delhi), it has been observed by this Court that the principles of sentencing in our country are fairly well settled -- the difficulty is not in identifying such principles but lies in the application thereof. Such application, we may respectfully add, is a matter of judicial expertise and experience where judicial wisdom must search for an answer to the vexed question -- Whether the option of life sentence is unquestionably foreclosed? The unbiased and trained judicial mind free from all prejudices and notions is the only asset which would guide the Judge to reach the "truth'."

74. Applying the exposition of law as discussed above, in the facts of the present case, we have examined the available aggravating and mitigating circumstances in the case in hand.

75. The convict/appellant was 43 years of age, as is disclosed in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C.

76. Coming to the aggravating circumstances, we also find that convict/appellant had committed murder of not only his wife but also his four minor daughters. Postmortem reports disclose brutal, grotesque, diabolical murder, which clearly reflects the mindset of convict/appellant.

77. The present incident was committed when convict/appellant felt that his wife was of a bad character and had illicit relationship with someone of the village. The manner in which offence was committed and also the magnitude of crime, in our view, places the present matter in the category of anti-social or socially abhorrent nature of crime. We concur with the finding of Trial Court that five persons were murdered by convict/appellant of his family in most brutal, grotesque, diabolical and dastardly manner arousing indignation and abhorrence of society which calls for an exemplary punishment. Four minor children including their mother have been murdered by convict/appellant when they were helpless and nothing is on record to show that they aggravated the situation so as to arouse sudden and grave passion on the part of convict/appellant to commit such dastardly crime. Convict/ appellant has also not shown any remorse or repentance at any point of time, inasmuch as, he attempted to hide the weapon in the same house and tried to ran away from the house when the police arrived. Admittedly, when informant P.W.1 reached the house of convict/appellant, the convict/appellant was opened the door and also threatened to leave there, otherwise, he would also kill them. The convict/appellant was arrested on spot on 12.11.2011 in the morning. In the statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. also, we find no remorse on the part of convict/appellant.

78. The above conduct, attitude and manner in which murder of five persons of his family was committed by convict/appellant shows that convict/appellant is a menace to the Society and if he is not awarded with death penalty, even members of the Society may not be safe. He slayed five lives to quench his thirst. The entire incident is extremely revolting and shocks the collective conscience of the community. Murders were committed in gruesome, merciless and brutal manner.

79. Balancing mitigating and aggravating factors and looking to the fact that convict/appellant had committed crime in a really shocking manner showing depravity of mind, in our view, the aggravating circumstances outweigh the mitigating circumstances by all canons of logic and punishment of life imprisonment would neither serve the ends of justice nor will be an appropriate punishment. Here is a case which can be said to be in the category of "rarest of rare" case and justify award of death punishment to convict/appellant. We are also clearly of the view that convict/appellant is a menace to the society and there is no chance of his rehabilitation or reformation and no leniency in imposing punishment is called for.

80. In the circumstances, we are of the view that death punishment imposed upon convict/appellant for the offence under Section 302 IPC is liable to be confirmed. Reference No. 01 of 2014 is liable to be allowed and accepted to the extent of confirmation of death penalty.

(G) CONCLUSION

81. In the result, Capital Case No. 01 of 2014 submitted by Trial Court for confirmation of death punishment awarded to convict/appellant, Deen Dayal Tiwari, for the offence under Section 302 IPC is hereby accepted and death punishment awarded to convict/appellant in the present matter is hereby confirmed.

Consequently, Criminal Appeal No. 1776 of 2016 filed by convict/appellant, Deen Dayal Tiwari, is liable to be dismissed and is, accordingly, dismissed.

82. However, as provided under Section 415 Cr.P.C. execution of sentence of death shall stand postponed until the period allowed for preferring such appeal has expired and if an appeal is preferred within that period, until such appeal is disposed of. It is also clarified that death punishment shall only be executed in accordance with law complying with all guidelines laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court time and again.

83. Let a copy of this judgment along with Trial Court record be sent to Court concerned for compliance and two copies of judgment as well as printed paper book be sent to State Government, as required under Chapter XVIII Rule 45 of Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952.

84. A copy of the judgment be also sent to convict/appellant through Jail Superintendent concerned for intimation. Compliance report be also sent to this Court.

85. Before we part with the case, we must candidly express our unreserved and uninhibited appreciation for the distinguished assistance rendered by Shri Jyotindra Mishra, learned Senior Advocate/learned Amicus Curiae in the above-captioned cases.

CRIMINAL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SUNEET KUMAR, J.
HON'BLE VIKRAM D. CHAUHAN, J.

Government Appeal No. 464 of 2021

State of U.P. ...Appellant
Versus
Tarik ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
G.A.

Counsel for the Resondent:
Sri Ram Kumar Yadav

A. Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 90, 375 & 376 - Where the prosecutrix agrees to have sexual intercourse on account of her love and passion for the accused, and not solely on account of misrepresentation made to her by the accused, or where an accused on account of circumstances which he could not have foreseen, or which were beyond his control, was unable to marry her, despite having every intention to do so. Such cases must be treated differently. An accused can be convicted for rape only if the court reaches a conclusion that the intention of the accused was mala fide, and that he had clandestine motives.

B. Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Section 375 - Consent with respect to Section 375 IPC involves an active (14) understanding of the circumstances, actions and consequences of the proposed act. An individual who makes a reasoned choice to act after evaluating various alternative actions (or inaction) as well as the various possible consequences flowing from such action or inaction, consents to such action.

C. The consent given by the prosecutrix to have sexual intercourse with whom she is in love, on a promise that he would marry her on a later date, cannot be persumed as given under "misconception of fact". Whether consent given by the prosecutrix to sexual intercourse is voluntary or whether it is given under "misconception of fact" depends on the facts of each case. While considering the question of consent, the Court must consider the evidence before it and the (15) surrounding circumstances before reaching a conclusion. Evidence adduced by the prosecution has to be weighed keeping in mind that the burden is on the prosecution to prove each and every ingredient of the offence. Prosecution must lead positive evidence to give rise to inference beyond reasonable doubt that accused had no intention to marry prosecutrix at all from inception and that promise made was false to his knowledge. The failure to keep the promise on a future uncertain date may be on account of variety of reasons and could not always amount to "misconception of fact" right from the inception.

D. To establish whether the "consent" was vitiated by a "misconception of fact" arising out of a promise to marry, two propositions must be established. The promise of marriage must have been a false promise, given in bad faith and with no intention of being adhered to at the time it was given. A failed relationship between two persons which did not culminate into a marriage may not amount to an offence under the Indian Penal Code.

Appeal dismissed. (E-12)

20. The prosecution case is that the accused on the promise of marriage with the victim entered into physical relation with the victim and when the victim asked the accused to marry her, he refused to marry. Accused had physical relation with the victim for two years prior to lodging of the first information report. Victim being PW1 has stated that she knew accused for last two years. Accused after making false promise of marriage raped her and also prepared nude video clips; when victim asked the accused for marriage he would assure the victim that he would talk to his family members.

21. Victim has not made any statement before the trial court that the accused ever went to the house of victim. Victim further stated that she went to the house of accused. Victim further in her cross examination has admitted that she was having love affair with the accused. Further stated that she had gone to the house of accused on several occasion in the last two years prior to the lodging of the first information report.

22. The investigating officer has further stated in his cross examination that the victim has not given details of the date, time and month when physical relation was made between the victim and the accused. Victim has not disclosed as to the place where the physical relation with the accused was made; Victim has not stated that the accused person has made physical relation with her without consent and forcefully. Victim has further not stated as to how many times accused had made physical relation with the victim. Investigating officer has further stated that during investigation no evidence has surfaced that the accused had committed rape of victim. Investigating officer has further testified that the victim wanted to marry the accused and the accused did not want to marry the victim.

23. Abaad (PW 3) has stated that he has not seen the accused committing any objectionable conduct with the victim and the statement made before the trial court was made on the basis of whatever he has heard. Abaad (PW3) is not the eyewitness of the alleged incident nor he has any knowledge with regard to the prosecution case and whatever is stated on the basis of the hearsay.

24. Zeenat (PW 4) who is sister of the victim specifically stated in her statement before the trial court that victim had never informed about her relationship with the accused to any member of family. She has stated that accused had called the victim for talking about marriage.

25. Victim prior to the present First Information Report had lodged on 22 December, 2013 a report at Police Station - Mawana that accused and another were harrasing the victim and when the victim opposed such conduct, then accused thereatened her for life. It is to be noted that the present first information report was lodged on 26 December, 2013, four-days subsequent to the report dated 22 December, 2013 by the victim against the accused person. The allegations in the report dated 22 December, 2013 was of harassment/objectionable conduct of the accused with the victim, whereas in first information report the allegation is that the accused had physical relation with the victim on the promise of marriage. Victim never made any report with regard to physical relation on the promise of marriage in her report dated 22 December, 2013 however when the first information report was lodged on 26 December, 2013, the allegations of rape on false promise of marriage surfaced and as such the conduct of the victim creates doubt on the prosecution story. The aforesaid further is indicative of the fact that no rape was conducted on the person of the victim by the accused person.

26. The victim on earlier occasion was residing with Aditya and father of Aditya had submitted an application to the District Magistrate which is paper number 29 Kha/2 to 29 Kha/3 and a compromise was also entered being paper no 29 Kha /5 and from the aforesaid it is evident that 1 ½ years prior Victim and Aditya had relation on Facebook; they were having love affair; paper number 29 Kha /7 which is written by Aditya Sharma and wherein the aforesaid person has promised that he will marry the victim and he will not harass the victim. He has also written that they will live as husband and wife. On the aforesaid document, victim has also signed.

27. Further, Aditya Sharma has lodged a first information report dated 27 August, 2017 being Case Crime No. 517 of 2017, under section 384 IPC being paper number 29 Kha/9 wherein it is alleged that the victim and the informant entered into friendship on Facebook and they had differences and as such a compromise was entered into in presence of villagers between both the parties and had paid ₹ 1 lakh with the promise that both the parties will not be in contact with each other and the victim will not harass the family members of Aditya. However, on 9th June, 2017 victim with the intention of blackmailing Aditya started harassing him and his family members that they will be send to jail. He has also alleged that victim is a characterless girl.

28. Further another document being paper number 29 Kha/13 is NCR dated 1st September, 2017, under section 323 IPC lodged by victim against Aditya that on 4 September, 2017 at about 11:30 AM with allegation that Aditya had beaten the victim.

29. The victim in her statement before the trial court has stated that she goes to the house of the accused at any time of the day. She also stated that the accused had taken her to the house of a friend on one occasion; he had also taken her to hotel at Delhi.

30. From the statement of the victim, it is evident that she has not given any evidence that the accused had on false pretext of marriage engaged in physical relationship with the victim. Further she has also not stated the time, place and date when physical relationship/ rape was committed by the accused. Victim further stated that her date of birth is 9 July, 1993 and as such the victim was major on the date of alleged incident.

31. It is to be noted that where the physical relationship is made between two persons on consensual basis then the allegations of rape cannot be founded unless consent is not voluntarily.

32. Rape is defined in section 375 of the Indian Penal Code as sexual intercourse with a woman, against her will, without her consent or with her consent where the consent has not been obtained voluntarily. Where a woman enters into physical relationship with a man voluntarily, the aforesaid act may not come within the purview of rape when the parties to the aforesaid act are major. The law recognises individual freedom to have physical relation with person of opposite sex as a legitimate right under Article 21 of the Constitution.

33. The sexual intercourse between a man and a woman without the consent of women is rape. In the present case there is no allegation with regard to the fact that the victim was subjected to physical relationship without her consent or forcefully. The allegations against the accused are that the accused entered into physical relationship with the victim on the false promise of marriage. Section 375 of the Indian penal code postulates sexual intercourse with a woman with her consent as rape where such consent has not been obtained voluntarily.

34. Section 114-A of the Evidence Act, 1872 (hereinafter referred to as "the 1872 Act") provides, that if the prosecutrix deposes that she did not give her consent, then the court shall presume that she did not in fact, give such consent. The facts of the instant case do not warrant that the provisions of Section 114-A of the 1872 Act be pressed into service. The sole question involved herein is whether her consent had been obtained on the false promise of marriage. Thus, the provisions of Sections 375 and 376 I.P.C have to be taken into consideration, along with the provisions of Section 90 IPC.

Section 90 I.P.C provides that any consent given under a misconception of fact, would not be considered valid consent and in the context of Section 375 I.P.C, such physical relationship would tantamount to committing rape.

35. Section 90 IPC defines "consent" known to be given under fear or misconception:

"90. Consent known to be given under fear or misconception.- A consent is not such a consent as is intended by any section of this Code, if the consent is given by a person under fear of injury, or under a misconception of fact, and if the person doing the act knows, or has reason to believe, that the consent was given in consequence of such fear or misconception;"

36. Where a woman does not "consent" to the sexual acts described in the main body of Section 375, the offence of rape has occurred. While Section 90 does not define the term "consent". A "consent" based on a "misconception of fact" is not consent in the eye of the law.

37. Consent may be express or implied, coerced or misguided, obtained willingly or through deceit. There is a clear distinction between rape and consensual sex and in a case like this, the court must very carefully examine whether the accused had actually wanted to marry the victim, or had mala fide motives, and had made a false promise to this effect only to satisfy his lust, as the latter falls within the ambit of cheating or deception. There is a distinction between the mere breach of a promise, and not fulfilling a false promise. Thus, the court must examine whether there was made, at an early stage a false promise of marriage by the accused; and whether the consent involved was given after wholly understanding the nature and consequences of sexual indulgence. There may be a case where the prosecutrix agrees to have sexual intercourse on account of her love and passion for the accused, and not solely on account of misrepresentation made to her by the accused, or where an accused on account of circumstances which he could not have foreseen, or which were beyond his control, was unable to marry her, despite having every intention to do so. Such cases must be treated differently. An accused can be convicted for rape only if the court reaches a conclusion that the intention of the accused was mala fide, and that he had clandestine motives.

38. The Apex Court in Pramod Suryabhan Pawar v. State of Maharashtra, (2019) 9 SCC 608 has observed as under :

"12. This Court has repeatedly held that consent with respect to Section 375 IPC involves an active understanding of the circumstances, actions and consequences of the proposed act. An individual who makes a reasoned choice to act after evaluating various alternative actions (or inaction) as well as the various possible consequences flowing from such action or inaction, consents to such action. In Dhruvaram Murlidhar Sonar v. State of Maharashtra, (2019) 18 SCC 191 which was a case involving the invoking of the jurisdiction under Section 482, this Court observed :-

"15. ... An inference as to consent can be drawn if only based on evidence or probabilities of the case. "Consent" is also stated to be an act of reason coupled with deliberation. It denotes an active will in mind of a person to permit the doing of the act complained of."

39. This understanding was also emphasised in the decision of this Court in Kaini Rajan v. State of Kerala [Kaini Rajan v. State of Kerala, (2013) 9 SCC 113 :-

"12. ... "Consent", for the purpose of Section 375, requires voluntary participation not only after the exercise of intelligence based on the knowledge of the significance of the moral quality of the act but after having fully exercised the choice between resistance and assent. Whether there was consent or not, is to be ascertained only on a careful study of all relevant circumstances."

40. The consent given by the prosecutrix to have sexual intercourse with whom she is in love, on a promise that he would marry her on a later date, cannot be persumed as given under "misconception of fact". Whether consent given by the prosecutrix to sexual intercourse is voluntary or whether it is given under "misconception of fact" depends on the facts of each case. While considering the question of consent, the Court must consider the evidence before it and the surrounding circumstances before reaching a conclusion. Evidence adduced by the prosecution has to be weighed keeping in mind that the burden is on the prosecution to prove each and every ingredient of the offence. Prosecution must lead positive evidence to give rise to inference beyond reasonable doubt that accused had no intention to marry prosecutrix at all from inception and that promise made was false to his knowledge. The failure to keep the promise on a future uncertain date may be on account of variety of reasons and could not always amount to "misconception of fact" right from the inception.

41. The Apex Court in Pramod Suryabhan Pawar v. State of Maharashtra, (2019) 9 SCC 608 observed as under :

"18. To summarise the legal position that emerges from the above cases, the "consent" of a woman with respect to Section 375 must involve an active and reasoned deliberation towards the proposed act. To establish whether the "consent" was vitiated by a "misconception of fact" arising out of a promise to marry, two propositions must be established. The promise of marriage must have been a false promise, given in bad faith and with no intention of being adhered to at the time it was given. The false promise itself must be of immediate relevance, or bear a direct nexus to the woman's decision to engage in the sexual act."

42. The Apex Court in Dhruvaram Murlidhar Sonar v. State of Maharashtra, (2019) 18 SCC 191 observed as under :

"23. Thus, there is a clear distinction between rape and consensual sex. The court, in such cases, must very carefully examine whether the complainant had actually wanted to marry the victim or had mala fide motives and had made a false promise to this effect only to satisfy his lust, as the latter falls within the ambit of cheating or deception. There is also a distinction between mere breach of a promise and not fulfilling a false promise. If the accused has not made the promise with the sole intention to seduce the prosecutrix to indulge in sexual acts, such an act would not amount to rape. There may be a case where the prosecutrix agrees to have sexual intercourse on account of her love and passion for the accused and not solely on account of the misconception created by accused, or where an accused, on account of circumstances which he could not have foreseen or which were beyond his control, was unable to marry her despite having every intention to do. Such cases must be treated differently. If the complainant had any mala fide intention and if he had clandestine motives, it is a clear case of rape. The acknowledged consensual physical relationship between the parties would not constitute an offence under Section 376 IPC."

43. It is not the prosecution case that physical relationship was entered into without the consent of the victim or she was forcefully raped by the accused. The victim was major on the date of alleged occurrence. There is no evidence to the fact that the victim and the accused were seen together in a room by family members or any other person. There is no evidence to the fact that there was any relationship between the victim and the accused. No nude video of the victim was recovered during investigation.

44. The medical evidence and the statement of Doctor who conducted medical examination of victim indicates that there was no external injury found on the body of the victim and the hymen was old, torned and healed. No spermatozoa was found in the viginal seamer of victim nor any internal injury in the private part was found. Medical evidence does not support the prosecution story. Prosecution witness no 6 has stated in a cross examination that she did not find any evidence of sexual assault or physical relationship.

45. On the basis of the aforesaid, the trial court came to the conclusion that there is material contradiction in the statement of victim and the physical relationship was established with the consent of the victim, who is major. The prosecution case is surrounded by suspicious circumstances and is doubtful and no case under section 376 IPC is made out against the accused.

46. It is further to be noted that as per the prosecution case the victim was subjected to rape for two years on the promise of marriage. To establish whether the "consent" was vitiated by a "misconception of fact" arising out of a promise to marry, two propositions must be established. The promise of marriage must have been a false promise, given in bad faith and with no intention of being adhered to at the time it was given. The false promise itself must be of immediate relevance, or bear a direct nexus to the woman's decision to engage in the sexual act. There is no evidence or circumstance in the present case that there was false promise of marriage which was given in bad faith. Further, the allegation of physical relationship with the victim in the facts and circumstances of the present case does not bear any direct nexus to the promise of marriage. The prosecution case rests upon the fact that the accused had physical relationship on the promise of marriage with the victim however when the victim asked the accused to marry her he resiled from his promise to marry. There is no evidence as to the date, time and place when the accused promised to marry the victim. No evidence has been led that the initial promise of marriage was in bad faith. A failed relationship between two persons which did not culminate into a marriage may not amount to an offence under the Indian penal code. The prosecution has not proved the date, time and place when the alleged rape was made by the accused on the victim.

47. The prosecution case further alleges that on 25 December, 2013 at about 6.00 pm accused and his family members had abused and beaten the victim. As per the first information report, victim on 25th December, 2013 along with her younger sister - Zeenat went to the house of the accused, where Mateen, Shahbaz, Smt. Shaheen and accused Tarik were present. Victim informed the family members of the accused that accused on the false pretext of the marriage was having sexual relationship with the victim and she wanted to marry accused Tarik. Accused Tarik and his family members abused the victim and thereafter, have beaten the victim. When the victim objected to the aforesaid act of the accused person and his family members, then Mateen with iron rod, Shahbaaz with danda, beaten the victim and, as a result of the same, victim sustained injuries. It is also alleged that Shaheen and Tarik have entangled dupatta in her neck. When the victim made distress call, the neighbours and other persons came and she was saved.

48. The victim was medically examined by Dr Suranju Kumar Baliyan

(PW6). The medical examination report was exhibited as Ex.Ka.8. As per the medical examination report, no external injury was found on the person of the victim. The doctor who conducted the medical examination of the victim testified before the trial court as PW6. The aforesaid witness has stated before the trial court that no external injuries were found on the body of the victim. The medical examination of the victim was conducted on 30 December, 2013 at District Woman Hospital, Meerut at about 1:45 PM.

49. It is also alleged in the first information report that on 25th December, 2013 victim went to the house of the accused along with younger sister-Zeenat and she was examined before the trial court as PW2. The aforesaid witness has testified before the court that the accused person and his family members have beaten victim and she sustained injuries on account of the aforesaid beating by the accused and his family members. The aforesaid account of the witness does not corroborate with the medical evidence. Further, aforesaid witness has not stated that the accused Tarik and Shaheen had strangled the victim with Dupatta.

50. Abaad (P.W.-3) has stated that he knows accused who lives near his house; he has stated that victim and accused were having relationship and talk of marriage was going on between them; victim and accused were in relationship for past two years from the date of incident; accused did not marry the victim and as such on 25 December, 2013 at about 5-6 pm he was present in his house; when he came out of his house he heard noise coming out from the house of Mateen and a huge crowd had assembled at the door steps of accused; when the witness went to the house of Tarik, father of accused Mateen, his wife Shaheen, his son Shahbaz, victim and her sister were present. At that place Zeenat was shouting and accused, Shahbaz, Mateen and Shaheen were beating her; victim was raising alarm and was stating that for last two years the accused was making false promise of marriage and was having physical relationship with the victim. Javed and other persons were also present who saved the victim. Witness further stated that the medical examination of the victim was held on the same day; he had gone along with the victim for medical examination; victim was having injury; doctor had seen the injury of the victim on 25.12.2013; on 25.12.2013 the police had taken the victim to the doctor; advocate had written the first information report; medical of the victim was held between 9 pm to 10 pm and thereafter the report was prepared; he is stated that the victim sustained 40-50 injuries on her body. The said witness stated that the first information report was lodged on the same day of occurrence at police Station. As per the first information report, the same was lodged on 27/12/2013 after the directions of the Senior Superintendent of Police, Meerut. The medical examination of the victim was held on 30/12/2013 at District Hospital, Meerut. As per the Medical Examination Report no injury was found on the body of the victim. The medical testimony of the doctor also confirmed that there were no external injury and no injury in the private part of the victim. On the aforesaid basis, the testimony of the PW-3 that the victim sustained injury on account of beating/physical assault is not corroborated with the medical evidence. There is serious contradiction in the evidence of prosecution witness no 3 as detailed hereinabove and as such the testimony of the aforesaid witness is doubtful. The trial court on the aforesaid basis discarded the testimony of PW-3.

51. The trial court on the basis of the aforesaid has acquitted the accused for offence under section 376, 323, 504 and 506 by means of judgment dated 10 December, 2013.

52. Considering the overall circumstances and submission of learned A.G.A. and after going through the evidence and lower court record, we are unable to persuade ourselves in taking a different opinion from that of trial court. The trial court was fully justified in acquitting the accused-respondent.

53. Learned AGA failed to point out any illegality, infirmity or perversity in the judgment of the trial court.

54. The leave to appeal application is, accordingly, rejected.

55. The appeal, in consequence, stands dismissed.

Act, 1923 and Section 3/14 of Foreigners Act, 1946, Police Station Cantt., Lucknow, whereby the accused/respondent has been acquitted of charges under Sections under Sections 115, 120-B, 121, 121A and 123 of I.P.C. and accused/respondent was punished with allegedly lessor sentence under Sections 467, 468 and 471 of I.P.C. and Section 3/9 and 5/9 of Official Secrets Act and Section 3/14 of Foreigners Act. The State-appellant prayed also for enhancement of the sentence, awarded to the accused/respondent.

2. The above petitioner for writ of Habeas Corpus has been filed by the petitioner/accused for his release and deportation to his own country i.e. Pakistan. This Criminal Appeal and this Habeas Corpus Writ Petition are interrelated, so we are disposing them of with a common judgment.

3. The brief factual matrix of the case is as under:

I. The respondent/accused Taseen Azeem @ Lareab Khan was arrested by Special Task Force, U.P. Lucknow on 13.09.2006 at 12:05 P.M. on the basis of information received. Upon his arrest it was revealed that he was living in India illegally with fake identity in the name of Lareab Khan son of Gulab Khan and working as an agent of Pakistan Intelligence Agency and transmitting the confidential information of India through email. He also got prepared forged driving license, educational certificates of High School, Intermediate and B.A. in the name of Lareab Khan. Some documents in the name of Precyze Company, some maps and other documents were recovered from the respondent/accused. It was also found that respondent/accused was staying in India since two years with a fake name of Lareab Khan and stayed at different places on rent and also stayed in the hotels at different places. It has also been mentioned in the First Information Report (in short F.I.R.) that during the course of stay in India with the help of Imtiyaz Ahmad he got the job in one placement Company situated in Gomti Nagar, Lucknow, thereafter he also did the job in Life Line and started a partnership Company alongwith Rahul Siddhartha and Fariuddin Ahmad and got prepared the documents by Miraz alias Pappu and stayed for nine months at Akhtar Guest House in Mumbai. He also shared a room with some Merchant Navy personnel. It has also been alleged that a book 'C.I.A. Vs. India, Asia and Afghanistan' was also recovered from the possession of respondent/accused. It has also been alleged that respondent / accused used to give information on mobile phone to I.S.I., cross border through one Javed. He used five email ids for transferring the information to Pakistan. The information sent in respect to Indian Army to Pakistan's I.S.I. and were written in coded language. Allegedly some Secret documents related to military were also recovered from the possession of the accused/respondent. It was also found that through Western Union Money Transfer Bank the respondent/accused used to receive money from Pakistan. When the accused/respondent was interrogated upon arrest, he told the arresting official that his real name is Taseem Anzim son of Raees Azam, resident of House No.A 522 Sector 11 A Northern Karachi, Pakistan. He has four brothers and three sisters and all are younger to him and his father does some glass business in Karachi. He came to India for spying. He was sent by Pakistani officials after giving some training there. He used to send some documents related to army and some important informations to the Pakistan Intelligence Agency. He was doing this job since he was unemployed. Recovery memo was prepared and the articles recovered from the accused/respondent which include two secret documents related to military, two driving licenses, one mobile phone and charger, educational certificates of High School, Intermediate and B.A. and one purse, two diaries, one small telephone diary, two maps, one book, one cheque book, some photostat papers related to Precyze Company and Rs.1,290/- (one thousand two hundred and ninety). The case was registered against the accused/respondent at Case Crime No.132 of 2006, under Sections 115, 120-B, 121, 121A, 123, 420, 467, 468 and 471 of I.P.C. and Section 3/9 and 5/9 of Official Secrets Act and Section 3/14 of Foreigners Act.

II. After investigation chargesheet was submitted against the accused/respondent under Sections 115, 120-B, 121, 121A, 123, 420, 467, 468 and 471 of I.P.C. and Section 3/9 and 5/9 of Official Secrets Act and Section 3/14 of Foreigners Act, the concerned Magistrate took cognizance and committed the matter to Sessions Court for trial. Sessions Court framed the charges under Sections 115, 120-B, 121, 121A, 123, 420, 467, 468 and 471 of I.P.C. and Section 3/9 and 5/9 of Official Secrets Act and Section 3/14 of Foreigners Act. The accused/respondent denied the charges and claimed to be tried.

III. The prosecution in order to prove it's case examined 15 witnesses which are as under:-

a. P.W.1 Vijay Bhushan, Superintendent of Police, City.

b. P.W. 2 Shahab Rasheed Khan, Deputy Superintendent of Police.

c. P.W. Sub Inspector S.N. Dohre.

d. P.W.4 Constable Umrai Lal.

e. P.W.5 Head Constable Manoj Rai.

f. P.W. 6 Sub Inspector Shyam Awadh Singh.

g. P.W. 7 Sub Inspector Chotte Lal.

h. P.W. 8 Parshuram Verma.

I. P.W.9 Mahesh Kumar Gupta.

j. P.W.10 U.C. Mishra.

k. P.W. 11 R.B. Mishra.

l. P.W. 12 Mahendra Babu.

m. P.W. 13 Daljeet Singh.

n. P.W. 14 Sub Inspector N. K. Nagar.

o. P.W. 15 Pramod Kumar Mishra.

IV. Apart from above witnesses, documentary evidence Exhibit Ka-1 to Ka-12 were also proved which includes as under:-

i. Original recovery memo Exhibit Ka-1

ii. Original FIR Exhibit Ka-2

iii. Chick FIR Exhibit Ka-3

IV. Site Plan, Exhibit Ka-4.

v. Charge-sheet Exhibit Ka-5

vi. Sanction Order of U.P. Government Exhibit Ka-6 and Ka-7

vii. Certificate of C.A.V. Intermediate College, Exhibit Ka-8

ix. Confidential report of Allahabad University, Exhibit Ka-10

x. Letter of Police Station Cantt. to Hisar, Exhibit Ka-11

xi. Report of P.S. Kareli, Exhibit Ka-12

V. After completion of evidence of prosecution the statement of accused/respondent under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (in short Cr.P.C.) was recorded, wherein he denied all the allegations and said the evidence is false. He admitted that he is a Pakistani citizen but stated that he was arrested from Nepal border, he never transmitted any information to Pakistan Intelligence Agency, no driving license, no secret documents or educational documents were recovered from him. He also stated that P.W. 9 Mr. Mahesh Kumar Gupta was not the competent authority to give sanction. All the evidences have been created falsely against him. He has been implicated because he is a Pakistani citizen. He also stated that it is true that he came to India without passport, but he did not do any act against the Indian Government or against the country. He did not know who is Lareab Khan, he is confined in jail since last more than seven years and feeling ashamed of his mistake. He also stated that he wants to be a good citizen in the future, so a chance should be given to him to reform. His parents are ill and they are very poor. He did not adduce any evidence in defence.

VI. After hearing the arguments of prosecution and of the accused/respondent in person the learned trial court came to the conclusion that accused has accepted that he is a Pakistani citizen and came to India without any passport, so he is guilty of offence under Section 3/14 of Foreigners Act. It was also concluded by the trial court that accused/respondent was living in India by adopting the name of Lareab Khan, the forged educational certificates of High Schools, Intermediate and B.A. were recovered from the possession of the accused/respondent and that recovery has been proved by the witnesses examined by the prosecution.

VII. The learned trial court came to the conclusion that prosecution has proved the charges levelled against the accused/respondent under Sections 467, 468 and 471 of I.P.C. beyond reasonable doubt. Learned trial court also came to the conclusion that it has been proved by the prosecution that one book 'C.I.A. Vs. India, Asia and Afghanistan' was recovered from the possession of accused/respondent and it has also been proved that some emails were also sent by him to one Javed residing in Pakistan, which includes some informations related to Indian Army which were sent to Pakistan's Intelligence Agency, but it could not be proved what informations were sent, so only offence under Section 3/9 and 5/9 of Official Secrets Act were proved and rest of the offences were not found proved because the accused/respondent did not do any act, which can be termed as terrorist activities or any conspiracy against the India for waging war against India. It has also not been proved that information transmitted related to Army, were of secret nature. Hence, the trial court found and held accused/respondent guilty under Sections 467, 468 and 471 of I.P.C. and under Sections 3/9 and 5/9 of Official Secrets Act, 1923 and under Sections 3/14 of Foreigners Act and punished the accused/respondent in the following manner:-

Sl. No.	Sections	Sentences awarded
1.	Under section 467 I.P.C.	Rigorous imprisonment of eight years coupled with fine of Rs.5,000/- and in default of payment of fine six months additional rigorous imprisonment.
2.	Under section 468 I.P.C.	Rigorous imprisonment of five years coupled with fine of Rs.3,000/- and in default of payment of fine six months additional rigorous imprisonment has been awarded.
3.	Under section 471 I.P.C.	Rigorous imprisonment of five years coupled with fine of Rs.3,000/- and in default of payment of fine six months additional rigorous imprisonment has been awarded.

4.	Under section 3/9 Official Secrets Act.	Rigorous imprisonment of eight years coupled with fine of Rs.5,000/- and in default of payment of fine six months additional rigorous imprisonment has been awarded.
5.	Under section 5/9 Official Secrets Act	Rigorous imprisonment of three years coupled with a fine of Rs.5,000/- and in default of payment of fine six months additional rigorous imprisonment has been awarded.
6.	Under section 3/14 Foreigners Act	Imprisonment of five years coupled with a fine of Rs.5,000/- and in default of payment of fine six months additional rigorous imprisonment has been awarded.

VIII. Learned trial court acquitted the accused/respondent of charges under Sections 115, 120-B, 121, 121A, 123 and 420 of I.P.C. Police Station Cantt., Lucknow. Being aggrieved by this judgment and order the State/appellant preferred this appeal against acquittal as well as for enhancement of sentence awarded.

4. On the other hand, the convict Taseen Azeem @ Lareab Khan filed a Habeas Corpus Petition No.5249 of 2020 praying for the following reliefs:-

"a. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Habeas Corpus directing the opposite party No.1 & 2 to release the petitioner from the custody/detention.

b. Issue a writ in the nature of mandamus to Opposite Party No.3 to deport the petitioner to his Country."

5. In this writ petition it has been stated that petitioner/convict was sentenced for eight years imprisonment in S.T. No.237 of 2007 (State Vs.Taseen Azeem @ Lareab Khan) which he completed on 01.09.2014, on the same day i.e. on 01.09.2014 one false F.I.R. was registered by Police Officer bearing Case Crime No.379 of 2014 under Sections 353, 504 & 506 of I.P.C. and Under Section 3/14 of Foreigners Act, Police Station Mohanlanganj, Lucknow. In the aforementioned Case Crime No.379 of 2014 the petitioner/convict was sentenced with four years imprisonment which he completed on 30.08.2018, since then petitioner is under illegal detention of the jail authorities. The State has filed an appeal for enhancement of the sentence being Criminal Appeal No.1486 of 2016, in which the Hon'ble High Court has directed to send the petitioner back to the jail when he had been called before the Hon'ble High Court on 09.10.2017. Treating this order as interim relief the petitioner is being illegally detained in the District Jail, Lucknow by the State. Even though on the pretext of the pendency of appeal the petitioner cannot be detained in jail as deemed convict which amounts to violation of Article 21 of the Constitution of India. The petitioner /convict challenged the validity of the orders dated 09.10.2017 and 06.03.2019 passed in Criminal Appeal No.1486 of 2016.

6. It has further been stated in the petition that on 09.10.2017 the petitioner was produced for the first time before this Hon'ble High Court in regard to Criminal Appeal No.1486 of 2016 (State Vs. Taseen Azeem @ Lareab Khan) and on that date a co-ordinate Bench of this Court has passed the following order:-

" In compliance of this Court's order dated 13.07.2017, this accused respondent Taseen Azeem @ Lareab Khan was produced before this Court by learned A.G.A., who was brought by Dy. S.P., LIU Lucknow, R.S. Rai.

He informed that earlier he had engaged the counsel but he has not turned up and he may be permitted to argue this case personally.

Summon the lower court record if not received as yet, thereafter, office to proceed for preparation of paper book, as per Rules of the Court.

After preparation of paper book, list this appeal for final hearing, in due course before appropriate Bench.

The accused respondent Taseen Azeem @ Lareab Khan shall be taken back to the District Jail, Lucknow."

7. On 30.08.2018 the petitioner pleaded guilty in Case Crime No.379 of 2014, P.S. Mohanlalganj, Lucknow as the trial was not conducted/commenced and the petitioner already served the stipulated period of sentence in jail and thereafter he was convicted and sentenced under Section 353 of I.P.C. for two years Simple Imprisonment, under Section 504 I.P.C. for two years Simple Imprisonment; under Section 506 of I.P.C. for four years Simple Imprisonment and a fine of Rs.2,000/- by Learned ACJM-III, Lucknow, in Case Crime No.379 of 2014, P.S. Mohanlalganj, Lucknow.

8. The convict/petitioner was not provided any legal assistance during trial to defend him. The counsel who wanted to help the petitioner were beaten and threatened not to defend the petitioner, as such, no proper defense was laid before the Trial Court. The petitioner was arrested on 13.09.2014, on the first occasion he was sentenced for a maximum of eight years rigorous imprisonment, which expired on 12.09.2014 excluding the period of remission. On the second count for an alleged offence committed on 01.09.2014 four years maximum sentence was awarded which also expired on 30.08.2018 excluding the period of remission, as such, the petitioner has already passed about three years more, if remission is counted, i.e. more than the sentence awarded.

9. Heard Shri S.N. Tilhari, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State-appellant and Shri I.B. Singh, Senior Advocate (Amicus Curiae) assisted by Shri Sajeet Kumar Singh and Ms. Beena Rajesh, learned counsel appearing on behalf of convict/respondent. None turned up for Union of India.

10. Shri S.N. Tilhari, learned A.G.A. on behalf of State/appellant submitted that the trial court though held guilty the convict/respondent under Sections 467, 468, 471 of I.P.C. and under Sections 3/9 and 5/9 of Official Secrets Act and under Sections 3/14 of Foreigners Act yet awarded a very meager punishment commensurate to the crime committed by the convict/respondent. The maximum punishment prescribed under I.P.C. for the offences committed under Sections 467 and 471 of I.P.C. is life imprisonment, but the trial court awarded eight years rigorous imprisonment for the offence which is not proper, so the punishment awarded to the convict/respondent should be enhanced. He further submitted that there is evidence for the offences under Sections 115, 120-B, 121, 121A, 123 and 420 of I.P.C. but the trial court has acquitted the convict/respondent for the above offences without applying its legal mind and without appreciating the evidence properly. Hence, the convict/respondent should be convicted for these offences also and the punishment awarded for the offences for which the convict was held guilty should be enhanced.

11. Learned A.G.A. has relied upon following case laws:-

a. Bhim Singh Vs. Union of India and others 2012 SCC online SC 211

b. A.K. Gopalan Vs. Government of India AIR 1966 (SC) 816

c. Abdul Latif Abdul Wahab Sheikh Vs. B.K. Jha, 1987 (2) SCC 22

d. Mohd. Amran @ Naveed Vs. State 2009 SCC online Del. 3364.

e. Lal Singh Vs. State of Gujarat 2001 (3) SCC 221

f. Hazara Singh Vs. Raj Kumar and others 2013 SCC online SC 369.

g. Govind Ramji Jadhav Vs. State of Maharashtra 1990 (4) SCC 718.

12. Contrary to it learned Senior Advocate Shri I.B. Singh, appearing for the convict as Amicus Curiae submitted that it is an admitted fact that convict/respondent is a citizen of Pakistan and he was residing in India without any valid passport or visa, but the allegations that he was involved in anti national activities against India or transmitting the confidential information relating to Indian Army to his own country has not been proved by the prosecution. The Prosecution remained unable to prove that convict/respondent did any terrorist or criminal activity in India which amounted to a threat to the Security of India. Even if it is assumed that the alleged recovery is true, even then the fact that the informations transmitted by the convict/respondent were confidential, has not been proved by any army personnel, so in such a situation it cannot be assumed that the convict/respondent was involved in anti-national activities and was transmitting confidential informations relating to Indian Army to some one in Pakistan.

13. Perusal of the record of the trial court shows that though the prosecution has alleged that the convict/respondent used to transmit information to I.S.I. cross border through one Javed by a mobile phone, but the prosecution did not produce the call details of the alleged mobile phone before the learned trial court. The prosecution has also alleged that the convict/respondent used five email ids for transferring the information cross border to Pakistan, but the prosecution did not adduce any evidence to establish the fact that through the alleged email ids who sent mails and to whom, and also that what was the material sent through the alleged email ids. It was the allegation against the convict/respondent in the FIR that information in respect to Indian Army which would have been sent to I.S.I. was written in coded language, but no evidence has been adduced to show that any effort was made by the Investigating Officer to get decoded the language. It has also been mentioned in the F.I.R. that the convict/respondent used to receive money from Pakistan through Western Union Money Transfer, Bank, but the prosecution did not adduce any evidence in this regard like receipt to show the transfer of money to the convict/respondent through the aforesaid Western Union Money Transfer, Bank.

14. No Army personnel was produced in the Court to prove the fact that information transferred by the convict/respondent was confidential information relating to Indian Army. Admittedly, there is no allegation and evidence of doing any terrorist activity or any such act which may be termed as threat to the security and safety of the nation. In other words, there is no evidence on record to establish the charges levelled against the convict/respondent under Sections 115, 120-B, 121, 121A, 123 and 420 of I.P.C., hence the learned trial court has rightly acquitted the convict/respondent for the aforesaid offences.

15. Now comes the question of enhancement of sentence. The learned trial court held guilty the convict/respondent under Section 467 of I.P.C. awarded sentence of eight years rigorous imprisonment coupled with fine of Rs.5,000/-, under Section 468 of I.P.C. awarded sentence of five years rigorous imprisonment coupled with fine of Rs.3,000/-, under Section 471 of I.P.C. awarded sentence of five years rigorous imprisonment coupled with fine of Rs.3,000/-, Section 3/9 and 5/9 of Official Secrets Act and Section 3/14 of Foreigners Act awarded sentence of three years rigorous imprisonment coupled with fine of Rs.5,000/- and in default of payment of fine, further six months each, additional imprisonment was awarded.

16. Learned A.G.A. submitted that this punishment was insufficient as the offences which were committed by the convict/respondent were of grave nature and he was working as an agent of Pakistan's Intelligence Agency. He forged certain documents to hide his identity to reside in India, so he should have been punished with maximum sentence prescribed under Section 467 of I.P.C. i.e. Life Imprisonment.

17. Learned A.G.A. has placed reliance on case law Mohd. Amran @ Naveed Vs. State (Supra), where the Delhi High Court has held as under:-

"11. We agree with the submissions made by the learned counsel for the State that for offences relatable to terrorism, no leniency in the imposition of sentence has to be shown, more so, when the crime is committed by foreign national who trespasses into the territory of the Union of India and attempts to over awe the very existence of the State."

18. Learned A.G.A. also submitted that convict/respondent was staying in India without any valid Passport or Visa, so inference should be drawn that he was doing some anti-national activities here, against India. On this submission he relied upon a case law cited in Lal Singh Vs. State of Gujarat (Supra), wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"In our view, this submission is required to be considered from a different angle in view of the fact that A-2 is a Pakistani national. If a foreign national is found staying in the country without valid passport and visa and his movements from one place to another with A-1 are established and from the premises occupied by A-1, large quantities of arms and ammunitions etc. are found, it would be prudent and reasonable to draw inference of criminal conspiracy."

19. Here it is evident from the record, the convict/respondent was found guilty and punished on the basis of the evidence that some forged documents which includes two driving licences and mark-sheets of High School, Intermediate and B.A. were recovered from the possession of the convict/respondent, but by using these documents any henious or grave offence was committed by him has not been established by the prosecution. So, considering the nature of the crime committed by the convict/respondent and established by the prosecution, it appears just that trial court awarded the sentence commensurate to the offence committed by the convict/respondent. The case law relied upon by learned A.G.A. i.e. Mohd. Amran @ Naveed Vs. State (Supra) is of no help to the State because in that case the accused was found guilty of offence related to terrorism who was a Foreign National and attempted to over awe the very existence of the State. In the present matter, no such offence has been alleged or established. There is no evidence on record that convict/respondent was involved in terrorist activities or activities which are dangerous to the security and safety of the nation.

20. The case law Lal Singh Vs. State of Gujarat (Supra) is also of no help to the State-appellant as in the cited case law it was established that from the premises occupied by the accused a large quantity of arms and ammunition etc. was found, so on the basis of that the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that " it would be prudent and reasonable to draw inference of criminal conspiracy". But in the present case, there is no such allegation or recovery. Hence considering the facts and circumstances of the case and the evidence available on record there appears no need to interfere with the judgment and order passed by the trial court.

21. It is admitted that convict/respondent has served out the sentence awarded to him in Case Crime No.132 of 2006 and also in Case Crime No.379 of 2014 and now to detain further the convict/respondent in prison shall be illegal and in clear violation of Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

22. In the case of Chairman Railway Board and others Vs. Chandrima Das (MRS) and others 2000 (2) SCc 465 the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that fundamental rights enshrined under Articles 20, 21 and 22 of the Constitution of India are available to non citizens also. In the word of Hon'ble Apex Court reads as Under:-

"30. In Anwar Vs. State of Jammu and Kashmir, it was held that the rights under Articles 20, 21 and 22 are available not only to "citizens" but also to "persons" which would include "non-citizens.

31. Article 20 guarantees right to protection in respect of conviction for offences. Article 21 guarantees right to life and personal liberty while Article 22 guarantees right to protection against arbitrary arrest and detention. These are wholly in consonance with Article 3, Article 7 and Article 9 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights."

23. In the case of Bhim Singh Vs. Union of India and others (Supra) the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"5. In Para 11 of the additional affidavit filed Shri Payingattery Venkiteswaran Sivaraman, it is stated that there are 37 Pakistani prisoners who have completed their sentence but they could not be repatriated as their nationality has not been confirmed by the Pakistan High Commission so far. It is also stated that besides, in respect of 11 Pakistani fishermen, Government of Gujarat has informed that no offence has been registered and they have no objection to their repatriation to Pakistan. However, in respect of these 11 Pakistani fishermen also, nationality has yet not been confirmed by the Pakistan High Commission. The list of these 37 Pakistani prisoners and 11 Pakistani fishermen is placed on record as Annexure G. Of the 37 Pakistani prisoners who have completed their sentence, 21 are stated to be mentally challenged. Most of these 21 persons have completed their sentence in 2007, 2008 and 2009, but their nationality has not been confirmed by the Pakistan High Commission though it appears that the consular access with regard to them was provided a few months before the completion of their sentence. It is indeed unfortunate that these 37 Pakistani prisoners who have served out their sentence and are not required under the Indian laws have been kept in jail because their nationality has not been confirmed. Whatever may be the reason for delay in confirmation of their nationality, we have not even slightest doubt that their continued imprisonment is uncalled for. In no way, can these 37 Pakistani prisoners be treated as prisoners once they have served out their sentence. It is true that unless their nationality is confirmed, they cannot be repatriated and have to be kept in India but until then, they cannot be confined to prison and deprived of basic human rights and human dignity."

24. Hence in the present matter admittedly the convict/respondent has served out the sentence awarded to him in the matter under appeal as well as under another case which was registered against him on the date when he completed the sentence awarded in the present case. Now he cannot be kept in jail and his confinement in jail is uncalled for.

24. Hence in light of the above discussion, we are of the considered view that since convict/respondent has already served out the sentence awarded to him and he is a foreign national without any passport or visa, therefore he must be deported to his own country. The Union of India/respondent No.3 and respondent No.4 are directed to deport him to his own country in accordance with law, unless required in any other case.

25. The above appeal is dismissed and writ petition is disposed of accordingly.

26. The learned A.G.A., as well as Senior Registrar of this Court are directed to send the copy of this judgment to the concerned authorities/departments at the earliest.

A. Civil Law - Civil Procedure Code, 1908 - Order XXVII Rule 1 - Only the officers appointed by Government under Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C., 1908 can sign and verify the papers in legal proceeding on behalf of Government and this power cannot be delegated to any other officers, not appointed by the Government. Any authorization or delegation made to some other officer not appointed by Government then it would be contrary to Order XXVII Rule 1 CPC, 1908 and nullity in the eye of law. Petition allowed.

Petition allowed. (E-12)

2. St. of J.& K. & anr. Vs Gh. Nabi Bhat & ors., AIR 2003 NOC 555 (J.&K.).

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashish Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Rajnish Kumar Rai, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. Present petition has been filed for quashing the order dated 12.11.2021 passed by Additional Civil Judge (Junior Division) IIIrd, Court No. 30, Saharanpur whereby application Paper no. 44-C-2 filed by petitioner in Misc. Case No. 72 of 2020 arising out of Original Suit No. 141 of 1982 has been rejected.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that petitioner is a Company duly registered under the provision of Companies Act, 1956. The said Company earlier filed Original Suit No. 141 of 1982 against the Union of India/Railways for permanent prohibitory injunction in which written statement has also been filed. The Trial Court decreed the aforesaid suit vide exparte judgment and decree dated 21.04.1987. He further submitted that after gap of 33 years, recall application was filed by respondents on 27.10.2020 in which petitioner has also filed objection. One separate application 44-C-2 has also been filed raising objection under Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C., 1908 and has taken specific plea that in light of Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C., 1908, only persons appointed by Central Government can file application alongwith Vakalatnama and affidavit. The said application was rejected vide impugned order dated 12.11.2021. He further submitted that Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C., 1908 clearly states that in any suit by or against the Government, the plaint or written statement shall be signed by such person as the Government may, by general or special Order, appoint in this behalf. It is also stated that it shall be verified by any person, whom the Government may so appoint and who is acquainted with the facts of the case. He next submitted that persons appointed can sign the plaint and verify the same. He next submitted that respondents have also filed Notification dated 04.06.1992 issued by Railway Board, which was earlier filed in objection Paper No. 42-C-2, by which at serial No. 30 of the Schedule, has appointed the Senior Divisional Engineer to represent the Railway Administration to sign the papers and also verify the same on its behalf. In the present case, only Vakalatnama was signed by Senior Divisional Engineer, whereas application was filed under the signature of Assistant Divisional Engineer and also verified by Senior Section Engineer, therefore, such application cannot be entertained. He next submitted that without considering the provisions of Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C., 1908, the application has been rejected.

4. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon judgment of Delhi High Court in the case of M/S C. Lyall and Company Vs. Union of India and others, ILR 1973 Delhi 905 which deals with similar issue, where it was clarified that person/persons appointed can only represent the Government in all proceedings of the case. He also placed reliance upon a judgment of J. & K. High Court in the case of State of J.& K. and another Vs. Gh. Nabi Bhat and others, AIR 2003 NOC 555 (J.&K.). In this matter, again issue was as to whether Under Secretary can represent the Government or not and relying upon the notification dated 04.06.1992, the Court held that he can also file the case as Under Secretary is also notified in notification dated 04.06.1992.

5. Lastly, he submitted that in the present case, vide notification dated 04.06.1992 appointment is given to Senior Divisional Engineer, no other officers can file the application or verify the papers. Therefore, the impugned order dated 12.11.2021 is bad in law and liable to be set aside.

6. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents submitted that once the Senior Divisional Engineer is appointed by Railway Board, which is Government in light of Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C., 1908, he can delegate the power to some other officers also to verify the facts of the case. In the present case, notification was issued for all over India, therefore, for practical purpose, Senior Divisional Engineer is authorized to delegate the power to all the officers to file application alongwith signature and verify the same. Accordingly, Senior Divisional Engineer vide letter dated 21.02.2018 has authorized the Assistant Divisional Engineer, Saharanpur to sign the application and also verify the same. He next submitted that the officer posted at Saharanpur is well acquainted with the facts of the case, who has been authorized to sign the application and verify the same. He lastly submitted that even in case, he is not authorized to sign and verify the application, Railway Board may be given liberty to file fresh application for recall of the order in accordance with law.

7. I have considered the submissions made by learned counsels for the parties and perused the record as well as provisions of Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C., 1908 For ready reference, Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C., 1908 is quoted below:-

"1. Suits by or against Government.- In any suit by or against the Government the plaint or written statement shall be signed by such person as the Government may, by general or special Order, appoint in this behalf, and shall be verified by any person whom the Government may so appoint and who is acquainted with the facts of the case.

STATE AMENDMENT

Uttar Pradesh.-In its application to the State of Uttar Pradesh, in the marginal heading, after the words 'official capacity', insert the words 'or Statutory Authorities, etc.' [Vide U.P. Act 57 of 1976 S. 11 (1-11977)]."

8. From perusal of the Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C., 1908, it is very much clear that only the person, who is appointed by the Government can sign the plaint alongwith signature and also verify the same. In the present case, there is no dispute that Railway Board is an appropriate authority to appoint the person under Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C., 1908 and further as per Notification dated 04.06.1992 Railway Board has appointed the persons for compliance of Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C., 1908 alongwith Schedule having particular of officers. Notification dated 04.06.1992 alongwith schedule is quoted below:-

9. Undoubtedly, the said Schedule is having the appointment of Senior Divisional Engineer at Serial No. 30, but the said Schedule is not having appointment of Assistant Divisional Engineer or Senior Section Engineer. From perusal of the Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C., 1908 as well as Notification dated 04.06.1992, it is apparent that there is no provision for delegation of power to the officer other than that mentioned in Schedule.

10. In the case of M/S C. Lyall and Company (supra), High Court of Delhi, in similar situation, has taken the view that person/persons appointed, only can represent the Government in all proceedings of the case. Relevant paragraphs of the judgment are quoted below:-

"11. The first contention urged on behalf of the Union of India is that the notice of the filing of the award received in the office of the Executive Engineer on 26th April, 1971, could not constitute notice of the filing of the award by the Union of India as neither the person who received the notice nor the Executive Engineer was competent to accept notice on behalf oF the Union of India or otherwise bind the Union of India in relation to any proceedings. Mr. Daphtry who appears for the petitioner, however, relies on a notification being S. R. O. 351 dated January 25, 1958, issued in exercise of powers conferred by Rule 1 of Order XXVII of the first schedule to the Code of Civil Procedure, whereby the Central Government appointed certain officers specified in the schedule to the notification who may sign plaints and written statements in suit in any Court of Civil jurisdiction by or against the Central Government and points out that the schedule to the notification specifically included under the head C. W. P. D., the Superintending Engineers and Executive Engineers which would include the Executive Engineer in question. He further contends that by virtue of the power conferred on the Executive Engineer by this notification to sign the pleadings in any suit by or against the Central Government the said Executive Engineer would be deemed to have been fully authorised to accept notice in respect of the proceedings in relation to which he could sign and verify the pleadings. He further contends that the Executive Engineer in question in whose office the notice had been received was the officer who was concerned with the execution of the contract out of which disputes arose and had been pursuing the proceedings before the Arbitrator on behalf of the Union of India.

(12) This contention of the Union of India must prevail. Order XXVII of the Code of Civil Procedure provides for suits by or against the Government or public officers in their official capacity. Rule 2 A of this order provides that persons being ex-officio or otherwise authorised to act for the Government in respect of any judicial proceedings shall be deemed to be the recognised agents by whom appearances, acts and applications under this Code may be made or done on behalf of the Government. Rule 3 provides that in suits by or against the Government instead of inserting in the plaint the name and description and place of residence; of the plaintiff or defendant, it shall be sufficient to insert the appropriate name as provided in section 79 of the Code. Section 79 provides that in suit by or against the Government, the authority to be named as plaintiff or defendant, in the case of a suit by or against the Central Government shall be the Union of India. Rule 4 of the Order XXVII provides that the Government pleader in any Court shall be the agent of the Government for the purpose of receiving processes against the Government issued by such Court. Rule 2(B) of the said order defines the term "Government pleader" in relation to any suit by or against the Central Government as the pleader as Government may appoint whether generally or specially for the purposes of the said order. Section 80 of the Code provides that no suit shall be instituted against the Government or against the public servant in respect of any act purporting to be done by such public officer in his official capacity until the expiration of two months next after notice in writing has been delivered or left at the office of, in the case of a suit against the Central Government, the Secretary to that Government.

(13) It, therefore, follows that a notice of any proceeding to the Central Government would be valid only if it was either sent to the Sec- retary to the Government or to any other officer who may be authorised to act for the Government in respect of judicial proceedings or to the pleader as defined in Rule 8(B) of the said Order. It is difficult to hold that any public servant who dealt with any proceedings which may have led to the institution of the suit against the Union of India would be competent to accept notice on behalf of the Union of India. It is equally difficult to hold that Union of India would be bound by notice received by various officers at different levels. In any event, in the absence of any provision of law or any rule of business or any statutory rule to the contrary it is not possible to hold that the Executive Engineer was empowered to accept notice on behalf of the Union of India and that the receipt of notice in his office constituted sufficient notice to the Union of India of the filing of the award in the present case."

11. Similar matter again came up for consideration before the High Court of Jammu and Kashmir in the matter of State of J.& K. and another (supra), where the issue was as to whether under Secretary of the Government can file application or not. The Court after going through notification came to conclusion that under Secretary may also file application as it is also notified. Relevant paragraphs of the judgment are quoted below:-

"2. We have heard Ld. Counsel for the parties and perused the record, Ld, Counsel for the respondents Mr. M.A. Qayoom has strenuously argued that appeal can only be filed by the person who is aggrieved of the judgment and only such person can either himself sign the memo of appeal/and the application or he can authorise any other competent person to do so on his behalf. According to him, in the writ petition, the judgment which is sought to be appealed against, state through Chief Secretary and Commissioner Secretary General Department were respondents and therefore they alone can be said to be aggrieved persons. So according to him, the application as well as the power of attorney filed with the application appointing the counsel for prosecution of the application could only be signed by them. According to him in the present case, the application and the power of attorney appointing the counsel for prosecution of application has been signed by Under Secretary to Government General Department who is not legally competent to do so. In support he relies upon case reported in 1998 SLJ Page 46 and 1998 SLJ page 50.

3. Mr. Hussain Ld. Counsel appearing for the applicants submitted that for considering the sufficiency of the cause shown for seeking condonation of delay, liberal approach should be adopted and a meritorious case should not be declined to be heard simply because there is some delay as reported in 2000 SLJ page 335. He further contended that Under Secretary is a competent person under law duly authorised on behalf of the state to make an appeal and sign the same on behalf of the State as well as to make and sign the application for condonation of delay. According to Ld, Counsel the State has empowered the Under Secretary in this behalf by Issuance of SRO 413 dated 18th of August 1973, he relies in support on the case reported in 1974 KLJ page 745.

4. We have considered the respective contentions of the parties raised at the bar and are of the opinion that application seeking condonation of delay has been filed by the competent person for the following reasons:-

State being not a real person, always acts through its officers provision in this regard has been made in order XXVII of the Code of Civil Procedure. It is beneficial to refer to Rules 1 and 2 of Order XXVII in this behalf which are reproduced as under:-

1. Suits by or against Govt. In (the Government) the plaint or written statement shall be signed by such person as the Govt. may, by general or special order, appoint in this behalf and shall be verified by any person whom the Government may so appoint and who is acquainted with the facts of the case.

2. Persons authorised to act for Government -- Persons being ex officio or otherwise to act for the Government in respect of any judicial proceedings shall be deemed to be the recognized agents by whom appearances, acts and applications under this code may be made or done on behalf of the Government."

5. From the bare perused of these rules it is manifestly clear that Government can authorise any person to act on its behalf. Now it is to be seen whether Under Secretary of Administrative department was authorized to act on behalf of the Government. The Government of J & K has issued SRO 413 dated 18th of August 1973 which is as follows.

"Notification SRO 413 dt. 18.8.73; "SRO-413- For purposes of the provisions of Rules 1 and 2 of Order XXVII and Section 2(7) of the Code of Civil Procedure, Svt. 1977, and in modification of paras 38 and 44 of the Revised Law Department Manual, 1935, the Government is pleased to make the following order:-

1. In suits by or against the Government, the plaint or written statement shall be signed by the Secretary/ Head of the concerned Department and shall be verified by either of them or by any other gazetted officer of the Department who is acquainted with the facts of the cases.

2. The Secretary Head of the concerned Department and the Secretary to Government Law Department are ex-officio authorised to act for the government in respect of all judicial proceedings.

Explanation:- for purposes of paras 1 and 2 above secretary shall include the Additional Secretary, the Special Secretary, the Deputy Secretary and the Under Secretary.

3. The Secretary to Govt., Law Department, the Deputy Secretary and the Under Secretary in that Department shall be Government pleaders for the purposes of performing all the function of the Government Pleader under the Code of Civil Procedure within the meaning of Section 2(7) of the said code.

6. As the present case pertains to General Department, as such the Under Secretary to General Department in view of the explanation appended to SRO 413 can be deemed to have been authorized to act on behalf of the Government. So there is no lack of competence on the part of Under Secretary in signing the application and the appeal on behalf of the State and for appointing the counsel for prosecution of the same. Authorities relied upon by the Ld. Counsel for the non applicants are distinguishable and don't deal with the question like in hand."

12. From perusal of Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C., 1908, it is apparently clear that only the person appointed by Government by general or special order, shall sign and verify the plaint or written statement. There is no provision of delegation power to any other officer. Therefore, this cannot be interpreted in any other way except as provided in the language of Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C., 1908. Only those officer/officers, who are appointed by Government, shall sign and verify the papers, affidavits and Vakalatnama in legal proceeding. He can not authorize any other officer on his behalf as it would be De hors the provision of Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C., 1908.

13. This Court is having respectful agreement with the view taken by High Court of Delhi as well as High Court of Jammu and Kashmir in the matters of M/S C. Lyall and Company and State of J.& K. and another (supra) and holds that only the officers appointed by Government under Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C., 1908 can sign and verify the papers in legal proceeding on behalf of Government and this power cannot be delegated to any other officers, not appointed by the Government.

14. In the present case, Railway Board exercising its power conferred under Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C, 1908 has appointed many officers to sign and verify the plaint, written statement etc. on behalf of Railway Board and certainly the said appointment is not having appointment of Assistant Divisional Engineer and Senior Section Engineer, therefore, they cannot sign or verify the application. Any authorization made to such officers would be contrary to the Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C., 1908 and nullity in the eye of law.

15. There is no dispute on the point that Assistant Divisional Engineer and Senior Section Engineer are given authorization and their appointment is not found place in the notification dated 04.06.1992. Therefore, they cannot file and verify the application on behalf of Railway Board in light of the Order XXVII Rule 1 C.P.C., 1908 as well discussion made hereinabove. Therefore, such documents cannot be accepted and no order can be passed upon that.

16. Accordingly, this petition is allowed. The order dated 12.11.2021 passed by Additional Civil Judge (Junior Division) IIIrd, Court No. 30, Saharanpur is hereby quashed.

17. No order as to costs.

18. So far as second prayer for permission to file fresh application is concerned, needless to say that it is always open for the respondents to move applications in accordance with law and for that, no permission is required. It is also obvious that if any such application is filed, same shall be considered and decided in accordance with law.

A. Civil Law - Civil Procedure Code, 1908 - ORDER 39 RULE 1 & 2 - Wherever the proceedings are under the Code of Civil Procedure and the forum is the civil court, the availability of a remedy under the CPC, will deter the High Court, not merely as a measure of self-imposed restriction, but as a matter of discipline and prudence, from exercising its power of superintendence under the Constitution. Hence, the High Court ought not to have entertained the revision under Article 227 especially in a case where a specific remedy of appeal is provided under the Code of Civil Procedure itself.

B. The judgment can be a precedent only for that its actually held therein and not for that which can be inferred therefrom. A Judgment cannot be read as Statute and interpreted.

1. Heard Sri Prashant Chandra, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Nirmit Srivastava, and Ms. Radhika Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Amrendra Nath Tripathi, learned counsel for the respondent no.2 alongwith Sri Anand Pratap Singh, Advocate.

2. This petition has been filed under Article 227 of the Constitution of India with the prayer to set aside the order dated 12.04.2022 passed on an application under Order 39 Rule 1 & 2 of the C.P.C. in Regular Suit No. 297 of 2022 and to direct the trial court to maintain the order dated 17.02.2022 by which an ex parte ad-interim injunction for maintenance of Status quo was passed by the trial court. An additional prayer has been made that the private respondents be directed not to make any transactions in respect of any part of the building known as Paradise Farm, situated at IIM Road, Lucknow without leave of the Court.

3. Sri Amrendra Nath Tripathi has raised a preliminary objection regarding the maintainability of this petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India by referring to Order 43 Rule 1(r) of the C.P.C., wherein it has been provided that an appeal shall lie under Section 104 against an Order under Rule 1 and 2, 2A, 4 or Rule 10 of Order 39.

4. It has been submitted that the order passed on the application for temporary injunction moved by the plaintiff/petitioner has been passed under Order 39 Rule 1 and 2, and therefore, it is an order where the appeal from Order would lie not a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

5. Learned Senior Advocate, Sri Prashant Chandra has argued on the basis of the Judgment rendered by the Supreme Court in the Case of Radhey Shyam and Another vs. Chhabi Nath and Others (2015) 5 SCC 423 that against judicial orders of the Civil Court though Writ under Article 226 is not maintainable, judicial orders can be challenged under Article 227. He has described from paragraphs 2 and 3 of the judgment, the controversy which was referred to the Larger Bench with regard to the observations made by the Division Bench in Surya Dev Rai vs. Ram Chand Rai (2003) 6 SCC 675 and the question that was referred to was whether the Constitution Bench of a corum of nine Judges in Naresh Shridhan Mirajkar vs. State of Maharashtra AIR 1967 SC 1 could have been ignored by two learned Judges in Surya Deo Rai(supra). Learned counsel for the petitioner has read out the conclusion arrived at by the three Judges Larger Bench as mentioned in paragraph 21 and 22 of the judgment and also read out certain portions of paragraph 23 of Radhey Shyam (Supra) where reference was made to the judgment rendered in the case of Surya Deo Rai(Supra) referring to paragraph 19, 24 and 25 of judgement in the case of Surya Deo Rai(Supra). Learned Senior Counsel has also read out certain portions of paragraph 25 and 26 of Radhey Shyam (Supra) to argue that Article 227 confers the power of superintendence of Subordinate Court on the High Court and the control of working of Subordinate Courts including illegality or perversity in orders passed by such Subordinate Courts can be looked into under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

6. It has also been argued that the orders of the Civil Court stand on a different footing from orders of other authorities or Tribunals or courts other then Judicial/Civil Courts, and while appellate or revisional jurisdiction is regulated by the statute, power of superintendence under Article 227 is constitutional.

7. It has been argued by Sri Prashant Chandra that the plaintiff/petitioner is before this Court invoking the power of superintendence under Article 227 of the Constitution of India only because the trial court has exceeded its jurisdiction and has made observations on the merits of the case by holding a mini trial. Reference has been made to Builders' Agreement entered into between the parties and subsequent unregistered notarized agreements made thereafter between the owner of the land, respondent no.2, and the plaintiff/petitioner who is the builder. Detailed arguments have been made regarding the merits of the case which this Court does not consider necessary to refer to as this Court is of the considered opinion that the judgment rendered in the case of Radhey Shyam (Supra) does not lay down the law that even where statutory appeal is maintainable, this Court should interfere in its extraordinary power of supervision under Article 227 of the Constitution of India. The judgement in the case of Radhey Shyam(Supra) was with respect to a particular issue i.e. whether a Writ of Certiorari could have been granted and a Writ Petition under Article 226 was maintainable against orders passed by the Civil Courts in exercise of their powers under the Civil Procedure Code. The question that was referred to the Larger Bench has been mentioned in paragraphs No. 1 to 5 of the said judgment, which are being quoted herein below:-

"A.K. Goel, J.-- This matter has been placed before the Bench of three Judges in pursuance of an order dated 15-4-2009 [Radhey Shyam v. Chhabi Nath, (2009) 5 SCC 616] passed by the Bench of two Hon'ble Judges to consider the correctness of the law laid down by this Court in Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai [Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai, (2003) 6 SCC 675] that an order of the civil court was amenable to writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution. The reference order, inter alia, reads: (Radhey Shyam case [Radhey Shyam v. Chhabi Nath, (2009) 5 SCC 616] , SCC p. 624, paras 30-33)

"30. ... Therefore, this Court unfortunately is in disagreement with the view which has been expressed in Surya Dev Rai [Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai, (2003) 6 SCC 675] insofar as correction of or any interference with judicial orders of civil court by a writ of certiorari is concerned.

31. Under Article 227 of the Constitution, the High Court does not issue a writ of certiorari. Article 227 of the Constitution vests the High Courts with a power of superintendence which is to be very sparingly exercised to keep tribunals and courts within the bounds of their authority. Under Article 227, orders of both civil and criminal courts can be examined only in very exceptional cases when manifest miscarriage of justice has been occasioned. Such power, however, is not to be exercised to correct a mistake of fact and of law.

32. The essential distinctions in the exercise of power between Articles 226 and 227 are well known and pointed out in Surya Dev Rai [Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai, (2003) 6 SCC 675] and with that we have no disagreement. But we are unable to agree with the legal proposition laid down in Surya Dev Rai [Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai, (2003) 6 SCC 675] that judicial orders passed by a civil court can be examined and then corrected/reversed by the writ court under Article 226 in exercise of its power under a writ of certiorari. We are of the view that the aforesaid proposition laid down in Surya Dev Rai [Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai, (2003) 6 SCC 675] , is contrary to the ratio in Mirajkar [Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1967 SC 1 : (1966) 3 SCR 744] and the ratio in Mirajkar [Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1967 SC 1 : (1966) 3 SCR 744] has not been overruled in Rupa Ashok Hurra [Rupa Ashok Hurra v. Ashok Hurra, (2002) 4 SCC 388] .

33. In view of our difference of opinion with the views expressed in Surya Dev Rai [Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai, (2003) 6 SCC 675] , matter may be placed before His Lordship the Hon'ble the Chief Justice of India for constituting a larger Bench, to consider the correctness or otherwise of the law laid down in Surya Dev Rai [Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai, (2003) 6 SCC 675] on the question discussed above."

"2. Since this Bench has to decide the referred question, it is not necessary to mention the facts of the case in detail. Suffice it to say that assailing an interim order of the civil court in a pending suit, the respondent-defendant filed a writ petition before the Allahabad High Court and the High Court having vacated [Chhabi Nath v. Addl. District Judge, Writ-C No. 50636 of 2007, order dated 12-10-2007 (All)] the said interim order granted in favour of the appellant-plaintiff, the appellant moved this Court by way of a special leave petition, inter alia, contending that the writ petition under Article 226 was not maintainable against the order of the civil court and, thus, the impugned order [Chhabi Nath v. Addl. District Judge, Writ-C No. 50636 of 2007, order dated 12-10-2007 (All)] could not be passed by the High Court. On behalf of the respondent, reliance was placed on the decision of this Court in Surya Dev Rai [Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai, (2003) 6 SCC 675] laying down that a writ petition under Article 226 was maintainable against the order of the civil court and thus it was submitted that the High Court was justified in passing the impugned order.

"3. As already mentioned, the Bench of two Hon'ble Judges who heard the matter was not persuaded to follow the law laid down in Surya Dev Rai [Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai, (2003) 6 SCC 675] . It was observed that the judgment in Surya Dev Rai [Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai, (2003) 6 SCC 675] did not correctly appreciate the ratio laid down in the earlier nine-Judge Bench judgment of this Court in Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra [Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1967 SC 1 : (1966) 3 SCR 744] wherein this Court came to the conclusion that "Certiorari does not lie to quash the judgments of inferior courts of civil jurisdiction (para 62)."

"4. With reference to the observations in Surya Dev Rai (Supra) for not following the conclusion in Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar (Supra) , the referring Bench inter alia observed: (Radhey Shyam case [Radhey Shyam v. Chhabi Nath, (2009) 5 SCC 616] , SCC pp. 622-24, paras 25-30)

"25. In our view the appreciation of the ratio in Mirajkar [Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1967 SC 1 : (1966) 3 SCR 744] by the learned Judges, in Surya Dev Rai [Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai, (2003) 6 SCC 675] , with great respect, was possibly a little erroneous and with that we cannot agree.

26. The two-Judge Bench in Surya Dev Rai [Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai, (2003) 6 SCC 675] did not, as obviously it could not overrule the ratio in Mirajkar [Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1967 SC 1 : (1966) 3 SCR 744] , a Constitution Bench decision of a nine-Judge Bench. But the learned Judges justified their different view in Surya Dev Rai [Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai, (2003) 6 SCC 675] , inter alia on the ground that the law relating to certiorari changed both in England and in India. In support of that opinion, the learned Judges held that the statement of law in Halsbury, on which the ratio in Mirajkar [Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1967 SC 1 : (1966) 3 SCR 744] is based, has been changed and in support of that quoted paras 103 and 109 from Halsbury's Laws of England, 4th Edn. (Reissue), Vol. 1(1). Those paras are set out below:

"103. The prerogative remedies of certiorari, prohibition and mandamus: historical development.--Historically, prohibition was a writ whereby the royal courts of common law prohibited other courts from entertaining matters falling within the exclusive jurisdiction of the common law courts; certiorari was issued to bring the record of an inferior court into the King's Bench for review or to remove indictments for trial in that court; mandamus was directed to inferior courts and tribunals, and to public officers and bodies, to order the performance of a public duty. All three were called prerogative writs....

109. The nature of certiorari and prohibition.--Certiorari lies to bring decisions of an inferior court, tribunal, public authority or any other body of persons before the High Court for review so that the court may determine whether they should be quashed, or to quash such decisions. The order of prohibition is an order issuing out of the High Court and directed to an inferior court or tribunal or public authority which forbids that court or tribunal or authority to act in excess of its jurisdiction or contrary to law. Both certiorari and prohibition are employed for the control of inferior courts, tribunals and public authorities.'

The aforesaid paragraphs are based on general principles which are older than the time when Mirajkar [Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1967 SC 1 : (1966) 3 SCR 744] was decided are still good. Those principles nowhere indicate that judgments of an inferior civil court of plenary jurisdiction are amenable to correction by a writ of certiorari. In any event, change of law in England cannot dilute the binding nature of the ratio in Mirajkar [Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1967 SC 1 : (1966) 3 SCR 744] and which has not been overruled and is holding the field for decades.

27. It is clear from the law laid down in Mirajkar [Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1967 SC 1 : (1966) 3 SCR 744] in para 63 that a distinction has been made between judicial orders of inferior courts of civil jurisdiction and orders of inferior tribunals or court which are not civil courts and which cannot pass judicial orders. Therefore, judicial orders passed by civil courts of plenary jurisdiction stand on a different footing in view of the law pronounced in para 63 in Mirajkar [Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1967 SC 1 : (1966) 3 SCR 744] . The passage in the subsequent edition of Halsbury (4th Edn.) which has been quoted in Surya Dev Rai [Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1967 SC 1 : (1966) 3 SCR 744] does not show at all that there has been any change in law on the points in issue pointed out above.

28. The learned Judges in Surya Dev Rai [Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai, (2003) 6 SCC 675] stated in SCC para 18, p. 687 of the Report that the decision rendered in Mirajkar [Naresh Shridhar

Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1967 SC 1 : (1966) 3 SCR 744] was considered by the Constitution Bench in Rupa Ashok Hurra v. Ashok Hurra [Rupa Ashok Hurra v. Ashok Hurra, (2002) 4 SCC 388] and wherein the learned Judges took a different view and in support of that, the following para from Rupa Ashok Hurra [Rupa Ashok Hurra v. Ashok Hurra, (2002) 4 SCC 388] has been quoted: (Surya Dev Rai case [Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai, (2003) 6 SCC 675] , SCC pp. 687-88, para 18)

"(i) that it is a well-settled principle that the technicalities associated with the prerogative writs in English law have no role to play under our constitutional scheme; (ii) that a writ of certiorari to call for records and examine the same for passing appropriate orders, is issued by a superior court to an inferior court which certifies its records for examination; and (iii) that a High Court cannot issue a writ to another High Court, nor can one Bench of a High Court issue a writ to a different Bench of the High Court; much less can the writ jurisdiction of a High Court be invoked to seek issuance of a writ of certiorari to the Supreme Court. The High Courts are not constituted as inferior courts in our constitutional scheme.'

29. We are constrained to point out again that in Rupa Ashok Hurra [Rupa Ashok Hurra v. Ashok Hurra, (2002) 4 SCC 388] the Constitution Bench did not take any view which is contrary to the views expressed in Mirajkar [Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1967 SC 1 : (1966) 3 SCR 744] . On the other hand, the ratio in Mirajkar [Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1967 SC 1 : (1966) 3 SCR 744] was referred to with respect and was relied on in Rupa Ashok Hurra [Rupa Ashok Hurra v. Ashok Hurra, (2002) 4 SCC 388] . Mirajkar [Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1967 SC 1 : (1966) 3 SCR 744] was referred to in SCC para 8, p. 399 and again in SCC para 11 on p. 402 and again in SCC para 59, p. 418 and also in SCC para 60, p. 419 of Rupa Ashok Hurra [Rupa Ashok Hurra v. Ashok Hurra, (2002) 4 SCC 388] . Nowhere even any whisper of a divergence from the ratio in Mirajkar [Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1967 SC 1 : (1966) 3 SCR 744] was expressed. Rather passages from Mirajkar [Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1967 SC 1 : (1966) 3 SCR 744] have been quoted with approval.

30. In fact the question which was referred to the Constitution Bench in Rupa Ashok Hurra [Rupa Ashok Hurra v. Ashok Hurra, (2002) 4 SCC 388] is quoted in para 1 of the judgment and it is clear from the perusal of the said paragraph that the question for consideration in Rupa Ashok Hurra [Rupa Ashok Hurra v. Ashok Hurra, (2002) 4 SCC 388] was totally different. Therefore, this Court unfortunately is in disagreement with the view which has been expressed in Surya Dev Rai [Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai, (2003) 6 SCC 675] insofar as correction of or any interference with judicial orders of civil court by a writ of certiorari is concerned."

"5. Thus, the question to be decided is: whether the view taken in Surya Dev Rai [Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai, (2003) 6 SCC 675] that a writ lies under Article 226 of the Constitution against the order of the civil court, which has been doubted in the reference order, is the correct view?"

8. The Supreme Court answered the reference in paragraph 29, which is being quoted herein below:-

"29. Accordingly, we answer the questions referred as follows:

29.1. Judicial orders of the civil court are not amenable to writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution.

29.2. Jurisdiction under Article 227 is distinct from jurisdiction under Article 226.

29.3 Contrary view in Surya Dev Rai is overruled."

9. It is settled law that the judgment can be a precedent only for that its actually held therein and not for that which can be inferred therefrom. A Judgment cannot be read as Statute and interpreted.

10. In Bhavnagar University vs. Palilana Sugar Mills (2003) 2 SCC 111, the Supreme Court observed in Para 59 thus:- "A decision, as is well known, is an authority for which it is decided and not what can logically be deduced therefrom. It is also well settled that a little difference in facts or additional facts may make a lot of difference in the precedential value of a decision.-----"

11. In Virudhunagar Hindu Nadargal Dharma Paribalana Sabai vs. Tuticorin Educational Society and Others (2019) 9 SCC 538, the Supreme Court was considered "the Maintainability" of a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution, against an order passed by the Civil Court vacating the interim order of injunction granted by the trial court. The interlocutory application filed by the appellants/plaintiffs in Regular Suit filed for Declaration and Permanent Injunction had been allowed by the trial court. The contesting defendants filed a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution against the order of trial court granting injunction whereas a Regular Appeal under Order 43 Rule 1 (r) of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 was filed by another defendant to the Suit. Despite objections to the maintainability of such petition under Article 227, on availability of appeal remedy under the Civil Procedure Code, the High Court allowed the petition and set aside the injunction granted by the trial court. The High Court rejected the preliminary objection regarding maintainability on the basis of the few decisions of the Supreme Court which revolved around the supervisory jurisdiction of the High Court to keep the subordinate courts within the bounds of law. The High Court found fault with the trial court for taking up, the application for injunction and passing an order thereon, in great haste and observed that it was a case of justice being hurried and consequently getting buried.

The Supreme Court observed in paragraph 11 that "the High Court ought to have seen that when a remedy of appeal under Section 104(1)(i) read with Order 43, Rule 1(r) of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, was directly available, Respondents 1 and 2 ought to have taken recourse to the same. It is true that the availability of a remedy of appeal may not always be a bar for the exercise of supervisory jurisdiction of the High Court. In A. Venkatasubbiah Naidu v. S. Chellappan (2000) 7 SCC 695, this Court held that "though no hurdle can be put against the exercise of the constitutional powers of the High Court, it is a well-recognized principle which gained judicial recognition that the High Court should direct the party to avail himself of such remedies before he resorts to a constitutional remedy".

The Supreme Court also observed in para 12 thus:- "But courts should always bear in mind a distinction between (i) cases where such alternative remedy is available before civil courts in terms of the provisions of Code of Civil Procedure, and

(ii) cases where such alternative remedy is available under special enactments and/or statutory rules and the fora provided therein happen to be quasi-judicial authorities and tribunals. In respect of cases falling under the first category, which may involve suits and other proceedings before civil courts, the availability of an appellate remedy in terms of the provisions of CPC, may have to be construed as a near total bar. Otherwise, there is a danger that someone may challenge in a revision under Article 227, even a decree passed in a suit, on the same grounds on which Respondents 1 and 2 invoked the jurisdiction of the High Court. This is why, a 3-member Bench of this Court, while overruling the decision in Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai (Supra), pointed out in Radhey Shyam v. Chhabi Nath(Supra) that "orders of civil court stand on different footing from the orders of authorities or tribunals or courts other than judicial/civil courts".

The Supreme Court further observed in paragraph 13 thus:- "Therefore wherever the proceedings are under the Code of Civil Procedure and the forum is the civil court, the availability of a remedy under the CPC, will deter the High Court, not merely as a measure of self-imposed restriction, but as a matter of discipline and prudence, from exercising its power of superintendence under the Constitution. Hence, the High Court ought not to have entertained the revision under Article 227 especially in a case where a specific remedy of appeal is provided under the Code of Civil Procedure itself."

12. This Court is only concerned with the challenge raised to an order on an application moved under Order 39 Rule 1 and 2 for Temporary Injunction in a Suit for Permanent Injunction filed by the plaintiff/petitioner and the grounds that have been mentioned in this writ petition and which have been read out in their entirety by the learned Senior Counsel, Sri Prashant Chandra can be raised in appeal which is provided under Order 43 Rule 1(r) of the Civil Procedure Code.

13. This petition is dismissed as not maintainable.

A. Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Section 451 - Powers under Section 451 of Cr.P.C. should be exercised expeditiously and judiciously. it is a general rule that case property should be released. It should not to be retained in custody of the court or the police for any time longer than what is absolutely necessary and it should be directly or indirectly disposed of and court must pass order for its disposal. Further where the property is subject to speedy and natural decay, resulting in diminishing its value should not be kept lying unattended.

Sundar Bhai-Amba Lal Desai Vs St. of Guj., reported in 2002 (10) SCC 283

(Delivered by Hon'ble Syed Aftab Husain Rizvi, J.)

1. These two petitions Under Article 227 of the Constitution of India are being heard together and are disposed of by a common order.

2. Heard Sri Swetashwa Agarwal, learned counsel for the petitioners, Ms. Sushma Soni, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record

3. These petitions Under Article 227 of the Constitution of India have been filed with the following prayers:

(I) Issue an appropriate order or direction setting aside the impugned order dated 17.9.2021 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 8, Bulandshahar in Criminal Revision No. 101 of 2021 Abhishek Agarwal Vs. State of U.P. as well as impugned order dated 8.7 2021 passed by the C.J.M. Bulandshahar in Case Crime No. 271 of 2021 State Vs. Abhishek Agarwal, under section 420 IPC and Section 11/12 U.P. Sheera Niyantran Adhiniyam, 1964, P.S. Kotwali Dehat, District Bulandshahar.

(ii) Issue an appropriate order or direction to the court below/C.J.M. Bulandshahar to release the molasses in question weighing 9492 quintal, seized by the O.P. No. 2 from the petitioner's firm-Khiansh Enterprises in connection with Case Crime No. 271 of 2021, under section 420 IPC and Section 11/12 UP. Sheera Niyantran Adhiniyam, 1964, P.S. Kotwali Dehat, District Bulandshahar.

4. In brief the facts are that an FIR Crime No. 271 of 2021, under section 420 IPC and 11/12 U.P. Molasses Control Act, 1964 was registered against the petitioners and one Tushar Agarwal and Sunil Kumar. The allegations of the FIR are that on 4.4.2021 a secret information was received by the complainant regarding storage of molasses, pursuant whereto a raid was conducted by the Excise Officials and upon asking for the molasses related documents, no license or permit could be produced, instead four bills of purchase of Khansari Molasses weighing 755 quintal could only be produced. The molasses stored in the tanks appeared to be much more and there was an apprehension of the same being manufactured by Sugar Mill and 9492 quintal of molasses was found stored in the storage tanks. Samples of molasses was taken at the spot as per the relevant Rules. One of the sample was made available to one Tushar at the factory premises and one sample was sent to the Regional Lab for examination and the seized molasses was given in the custody/superdagi of Unit Representative Tushar Agarwal, directing him not to use or sale the same and that the provisions of UP. Sheera Niyantran Niyamawali, 1974 and U.P. Sheera Nivantran Adhiniyam, 1964 have been violated, for which the first information report is being registered. After investigation charge-sheet has been submitted.

5. Learned counsel for the applicants submitted that the Excise

Officials have initiated the prosecution of the petitioners on their own whims and fancies without there being any offence committed by them. Learned counsel further submitted that all the bills of purchase, GST Invoices and details of Stock Register were duly furnished by the petitioners to the Investigating Officer during the course of investigation regarding the trading of Khandsari Molasses undertaken by them, but no heed was deliberately paid to the same. The petitioners also brought on record the GST Registration Certificate of the firm Khiansh Enterprises, GST Bills and Returns from Jan. 2021 to March 2021, E. Way Bills, GST Bills and Stock Register relating to the purchase and sale of Khandsari Molasses, in support of the release application moved by them. Perusal of the aforesaid bills and invoices would reveal that the petitioners have been trading with various firms across State of U.P in respect of sale and purchase of Khandsari Molasses, upon which requisite taxes were duly paid.

It is further submitted that neither the Investigating Officer nor the Excise Officials disputed any of the Bills or Invoices or Stock Details furnished by the petitioners along with the release application regarding sale and purchase of Khandsari Molasses. However, relying upon the Lab Test Report of the Excise Department, it was alleged that the Molasses in question has been found to be manufactured by Sugar Mill. The aforesaid Lab Report is of no consequence, once the Excise Department got the sample tested through its own Regional Lab, despite a request having been made by the petitioners to get the sample tested through the Lab of Central Government. As per the information obtained under the R.T.I. Act from the National Sugar Institute, Kanpur, it was disclosed that:-

(i) It cannot be determined by chemical examination as to whether the sample of Molasses pertains to Khandsari Molasss or that of Sugar Mill.

(ii) The Institute/National Sugar Institute has not been informed of any yardstick of differentiating between Molasses obtained through Khandsari or Sugar Mill.

The learned Magistrate illegally and erroneously rejected the release application of the petitioners. It is also contended that under section 16 of the Act the offence is compoundable. There is no bar for transportation of the molasses within the State. No proceedings for forfeiture of the molasses have been initiated by the Excise Department. The revisional court also failed to consider the aforesaid facts and legal points and has dismissed the revision. Both the courts below have failed to exercise jurisdiction vested in its.

8. Learned A.G.A. contended that petitioners are accused in the case and charge-sheet has been submitted against them. 9492 quintal molasses was found in the possession of petitioners and they could not show the relevant papers. The molasses was obtained from sugar factory in an unauthorized manner. The molasses has been seized and is a case property. Hence, it can not be released in favour of the petitioners in the case. There is no

9. It is undisputed that the molasses has been taken from possession of the petitioners. Case U/s 420 IPC and 11/12 U.P Sheera Niyantran Adhiniyam, 1964, has been registered against the petitioners. The learned Magistrate has rejected the application on the ground that under the Provision of Section 8 of U.P. Sheera Niyantran Adhiniyam, 1964 no person can store or transport the molasses without permission or license of the Controller and the petitioners have failed to file any license or permission for storage or transportation of the molasses.

Section 8 U.P. Sheera Niyantran Adhiniyam, 1964 provides as follows:

"(1) The Controller may specify the order in which storage tank in a factory shall be filled or emptied and such direction shall be binding on the occupier of the sugar factory.

(2) No molasses produced or stored in a factory in a particular molasses year shall be mixed with any molasses of the previous molasses year without the previous permission of the Controller in writing.

(3) No molasses shall be stored in a factory until it has been weighed or measured.

(4) Occupier of a sugar factory shall take adequate safeguards to see that the wastage in the storage of molasses in a year does not exceed two per cent of the total quantity stored. In case the wastage exceeds two per cent, the occupier shall be liable to penalties imposed under the Act, for the contravention of the rule: Provided that if it is proved to the satisfaction of the Controller that the wastage or deficiency in excess of the above prescribed limit has been caused by accident or any other unavoidable cause, the occupier shall not be liable to penalty.

10. The aforesaid provision is applicable to the sugar factories. The case of the petitioners is that they are sole proprietor of Khiansh Enterprises and said firm is duly registered with GST Department. The firm is engaged in trading of Khandsari Molasses through valid bills of purchase upon the payment of requisite taxes. Petitioner have filed all the bills of purchase sale and also copy of the stock register. Learned A.G.A has not pointed out any discrepany in it. No other person is claiming the impugned molasses.

In case of Sundar Bhai-Amba Lal Desai Vs. State of Gujrat, reported in 2002 (10) SCC 283 the Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed as follows:

"In our view, the powers under section 451 Cr.P.C. should be exercised expeditiously and judiciously. It would serve various purposes, namely:

"1. owner of the article would not suffer because of its remaining unused or by its misappropriation;

2. court or the police would not be required to keep the article in safe custody;

3. if the proper panchnama before handing over possession of the article is prepared, that can be used in evidence instead of its production before the court during the trial. If necessary, evidence could also be recorded describing the nature of the property in detail;

4. this jurisdiction of the court to record evidence should be exercised promptly so that there may not be further chance of tampering with the articles."

11. The offence is also compoundable in nature. In view of the law laid down it is a general rule that case property should be released. It should not to be retained in custody of the court or the police for any time longer than what is absolutely necessary and it should be directly or indirectly disposed of and court must pass order for its disposal. Further where the property is subject to speedy and natural decay, resulting in diminishing its value should not be kept lying unattended.

12. Considering all the facts and attending circumstances of the case it was just and proper on the part of the Magistrate to release the molasses in favour of the petitioners after taking adequate surety bond after getting its value assessed by a competent authority and learned Magistrate may have imposed other conditions which it thinks necessary. Learned Magistrate has failed to exercise his jurisdiction properly. The learned revisional court has also failed to appreciate the facts and law on the point so both the orders are not justified and are liable to be set-aside.

13. The petitions Under Article 227 of the Constitution of India are hereby allowed. The impugned order dated 8.7.2021 passed by C.J.M. Bulandshahar in Case Crime No. 271 of 2021 State Vs. Abhishek Agarwal, under section 420 IPC and 11/12 U.P Sheera Niyantran Adhiniyam, 1964, PS. Kotwali Dehat, District Bulandshahar and order dated 17.9.2021 passed by Additional Session Judge, Court No. 8. Bulandshahar in Criminal Revision No. 101 of 2021 Abhishek Agarwal Vs. State of UP are hereby set-aside. The learned C.J.M. Bulandshahar is directed to release the molasses in question in favour of petitioners after taking personal bonds and one surety bond of adequate amount, The learned Magistrate may got the value of the molasses assessed by any competent authority and fix the amount of personal bond and surety bond accordingly and may also impose other conditions he deems just and necessary.

A. In an Appeal unless the statute restricts the power of the Appellate Court, it has, as a general rule, the same powers as are open to the original authority or court from whose decision the appeal is preferred and a court of appeal has no fetters on it to decide all questions of law and fact which crop up in the case but ordinarily, a court of 11 appeal will not tend to interfere with the exercise of discretion by the lower court and substitute for it, its own discretion unless of course, it is found by the court of appeal that the original court misdirected itself on any question of law or it failed to consider the relevant factors governing the exercise of discretion or its discretion is otherwise vitiated by reason of mis-construction of any statutory provision or on account of misreading of any evidence on record.

B. The relief of interlocutory mandatory injunctions can be granted when

C. Supervisory jurisdiction conferred upon the High Court under Article 227 is confined only to see whether an inferior court or Tribunal has proceeded within the parameters of its jurisdiction. In its exercise of jurisdiction under Article 227, the High Court does not act as Tribunal and it is not open for it to review the order or reassess the evidence upon which the Trial Court has passed an order.

D. the grant of mandatory injunction is not prohibited in all cases if a clear prima facie material is placed which justifies a finding that status quo may be altered by one of the parties if the order of mandatory injunction is not given. It has been observed that an ad-interim mandatory injunction can also be given on strong circumstances so as to protect the rights and interest of the parties and so as not to frustrate their rights regarding mandatory injunction. Such interim relief can be granted if the Court is satisfied that withholding of it would prick the conscience of the Court and do violence to the sense of justice, resulting in injustice being perpetuated throughout the hearing and at the end the Court would not be able to vindicate the cause of justice.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J.)

1. This petition has been filed praying for setting aside the order dated 25.10.2019 and the order dated 02.07.2019 passed by the learned Appellate Court in Civil Appeal no.02 of 2014 and the order dated 28.01.2014 passed by learned Trial Court in Regular Suit No.478 of 2011.

2. Heard Sri Virendra Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Md. Ali, learned counsel for the respondent no.3.

3. The case set up by the petitioner before this Court is that as per the pedigree given in paragraph-3 of the petition, one Jagannath was the owner of two houses situated adjacent to each other. He had two sons, namely, Chhailbihari and Lalta Prasad, both are now dead. Chhailbihari had one son Ram Pratap, who has been arrayed as respondent no.3 and Dwarka Prasad also had one son who was differently abled and died a long time ago and the petitioner is the widow of Dwarka Prasad. There are two houses situated adjacent to each other. The house of the petitioner is existing in a single storey in a dilapidated condition, whereas the house of the respondent no.3 situated next to it is double storey and has a shop also in it. Whereas the house of the respondent no.3 has all basic amenities like electricity connection and water pipeline, the house of the petitioner is in a pitiable condition with no electricity connection or water pipeline. She being a widow, is somehow surviving in the said house. The respondent no.3 taking the benefit of her old age and being a stamp vendor in the Civil Court and aware of court procedure, tried to grab her house by instituting a Regular Suit for permanent injunction against the petitioner on false allegation that he is the exclusive owner in the possession of the house in dispute i.e. the house which is adjacent to his own house and in dilapidated condition in which the petitioner lives, alleging that the father of the plaintiff Chhailbihari and the husband of the defendant Dwarka Prasad were real brothers and the ancestral house which was situated near Cooperative Seed Godown in front of Hatan road had been left by the father of the plaintiff in favour of his brother i.e. the husband of the defendant has he too was differently able and feeble minded.

4. Since the husband of the petitioner and her son were both feeble minded, it was alleged that the plaintiff brought them in the his house and the defenant sold the ancestral house and started residing with the plaintiff. Thereafter the plaintiff got allotted the House no.3/26 in favour of defendant/ petitioner in Kashiram Shahri Awas Yojana and accordingly the defendant/ petitioner shifted in the said house along with her son who died on 12.08.2011. It has been submitted that the petitioner/ defendant was shown to be residing at the house situated in Kashiram Shahri Awas Yojana and not in Mohalla Shubhash Nagar by way of an amendment in the plaint which was allowed on 02.07.2019, which order has also been challenged in this petition. Such amendment was carried out only to avoid proper service of the plaint in Regular Suit being made upon her. It was alleged in the plaint that after the death of her son, the defendant/ petitioner tried to sell the house in dispute in favour of a muscleman after taking forcible the possession from the plaintiff, accordingly necessity arose to file the Suit.

5. It has been submitted by Sri Virendra Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner that initially the respondent no.3 had shown the correct address of the petitioner i.e. the house in dispute, however mischievously the said plaint was amended and she was shown to have been residing at the house situated at Kashiram Shahri Awas Yojana. This was only to enable the plaintiff to manage that the notice of the Regular Suit be not served upon the petitioner and he may be able to obtain ex parte injunction. It has been submitted that after notice was issued, since the petitioner could not be served, the same was published in some newspaper and such condition was found to be sufficient by the Trial Court and initial date was fixed as 17.04.2012 for considering the application for temporary injunction.

Later on an application was moved on 26.03.2012 by the plaintiff for preponing the date fixed by the Trial Court. The date was preponed and fixed for 07.02.2012 with a direction to the plaintiff to inform the defendant of such preponing of the date. However, no intimation whatsoever regarding change of date was given to the defendant/ petitioner and accordingly learned Trial Court when it took up the matter on 07.04.2012 while observing that the defendant was not present restrained the defendant/ petitioner from selling the house in dispute till the next date of listing. The defendant/ petitioner is illiterate, old and ailing lady and she was also mentally disturbed in 2011-2012 due to the death of her young son. Any publication made in any newspaper could not have been read by her and she did not have any information of the pendency of the said Regular Suit. Anyhow when she came to know of the ad-interim injunction dated 07.04.2012, she appeared through the counsel and filed written statement and detailed objections to the application for temporary injunction.

6. It was stated in the objections and in the written statement that about 40 years ago, a partition/ family settlement has taken place and the house in dispute fell in the share of the husband of the petitioner/defendant, whereas the portion on the eastern side fell in the share of the father of the plaintiff. Since then both the parties were in possession of their respective portions of the house and the plaintiff is not the owner, nor in possession of the house as shown in the letters A, B, C & D and had no right to file the Suit for permanent injunction. The defendant/ petitioner also filed photocopies of ration card, receipts of house tax etc. to prove that she had been the owner in possession of the disputed house.

7. Learned Trial Court however passed an order on 28.01.2014 allowing the application under Order 39 Rule 1 C.P.C. moved by the plaintiff by going much beyond the pleadings on record and also the final prayer made in the Suit. By this order, the Trial Court not only restrained the petitioner from selling the property in dispute but also restrained the petitioner from using the same for residing therein. There was no finding on record that the petitioner was not in possession of the house and that she is not residing therein, nor she is the legal owner thereof.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further submitted that since the order dated 28.01.2014 was completely against the record and much beyond the final relief that was claimed by the plaintiff in the Regular Suit itself, the defendant/ petitioner filed Misc. Civil Appeal under Order 41 Rule 1 C.P.C. registered as Misc. Civil Appeal No.02 of 2014. During the pendency of the Appeal, an application was filed under Order 41 Rule 27 by the defendant/ petitioner with a request for admitting certain documents/ papers in additional evidence to prove that the disputed house infact is ancestral and was not the self-acquired property of the father of the plaintiff but had been left by way of family settlement in the name of her dead husband by her father-in-law. She filed a copy of the sale deed dated 17.10.1967 where Jagannath, her father in law had executed sale deed of the property situated opposite Cooperative Seed Go-down towards Hatan Road. It has been argued that when the house/ property situated near Cooperative Seed godown has already been sold out in 1967, there was no question of such house being left in favour of her dead husband Dwarka Prasad by his father Jagannath. The Appellate Court allowed this application on 19.11.2018 and admitted the document in additional evidence.

The plaintiff filed an Appeal before the Appellate Court for amendment of the plaint by which he tried to change his stand. Such application was erroneously allowed on 02.07.2019 which order has also been challenged before this Court. By the order impugned dated 25.10.2019, the Appellate Court has rejected the Appeal filed by the petitioner and affirmed the order passed by the Trial Court dated 28.01.2014.

9. Learned counsel for the petitioner has read out the operative portion of the order dated 28.01.2014 passed by the learned Trial Court, wherein the learned Trial Court has observed that prima facie the plaintiff had been able to show that he is the owner and in possession of the house in question and therefore balance of convenience and the question of irreparable loss has also been shown to be in favour of the plaintiff. The application for temporary injunction was allowed with a direction to the defendant/ petitioner that during the pendency of the Suit, she should not interfere in the plaintiff's peaceful possession of the house situated at Subhash Nagar, Pargana and Tehsil Utraula, District Balrampur, shown in the plaint with the letters A, B, C & D by taking forcibly the possession thereof or by selling it off.

10. Learned counsel for the defendant/ petitioner has read out the operative portion of the order passed by the Appellate Court on 25.10.2019 rejecting the Appeal filed by the defendant/ petitioner. The Appellate Court found that notice had not been served as the service report initially stated that she lived currently in House No.1/26 Kashiram Shahri Awas Yojana and in another service report, the Process Server has stated that the defendant had refused to accept the notice. After publication of notice, the defendant/ petitioner had appeared and had showed her residence as Mohalla Subhash Nagar, Hatan Road, Pargana Utraula, District Balrampur.

11. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has pointed out that the application of the petitioner under Order 41 Rule 27 having been allowed and the additional evidence having been admitted, a duty was cast upon the Appellate Court to consider such additional evidence and give its finding specifically on the points raised in argument on the basis of such additional evidence. He has referred to the judgment rendered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in K.V. Muralidhar Vs. K.V. Ananda Rao and others, 2016 (16) SCC 109, and the judgment rendered by a Coordinate Bench in Rajesh Jaiswal and another Vs. Amit Shyam and another, 2012 SCC OnLine All 4007 and the judgment rendered by another Coordinate Bench in Dr. Chandra Deo Tyagi Vs. Additional District Judge, Court No.1, Meerut and others, 2020 (7) ADJ 216, where similar observations have been made that not only the additional evidence can be filed in an Appeal against a judgment and decree, but also in an Appeal against the order passed on an interlocutory application; if such additional evidence is allowed to be filed and taken on record then the same should be considered and specific finding be recorded thereon.

12. Learned counsel for the petitioner has referred to the judgment rendered by this Court in Shri Ram Singh and another Vs. Special Judge, E.C. Act, Additional District Judge, Ballia and others, AIR 1993 ALL 236, where this Court after considering the scope of judicial review under Article 226 and 227 has also considered the scope of Appeal under Order 43 Rule 1 against an order passed on an interlocutory order under Order 39 Rule 1 C.P.C. It has been held that in an Appeal unless the statute restricts the power of the Appellate Court, it has, as a general rule, the same powers as are open to the original authority or court from whose decision the appeal is preferred and a court of appeal has no fetters on it to decide all questions of law and fact which crop up in the case but ordinarily, a court of appeal will not tend to interfere with the exercise of discretion by the lower court and substitute for it, its own discretion unless of course, it is found by the court of appeal that the original court misdirected itself on any question of law or it failed to consider the relevant factors governing the exercise of discretion or its discretion is otherwise vitiated by reason of mis-construction of any statutory provision or on account of misreading of any evidence on record.

13. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgment rendered by Supreme Court in Metro Marins and another Vs. Bonus Watch Co. (pvt) Ltd. and other, 2004 (7) SCC 478, where in paragraph-9, the Court had observed that an interim mandatory injunction can be granted only in exceptional cases as noted in the judgment rendered by it in Dorab Cawasji Warden Vs. Coomi Sorab Warded, 1990 (2) SCC 117. In Dorab Cawasji Warden (supra), the Supreme Court has observed in paragraph 16 as follows:-

"16. The relief of interlocutory mandatory injunctions are thus granted generally to preserve or restore the status quo of the last non-contested status which preceded the pending controversy until the final hearing when full relief may be granted or to compel the undoing of those acts that have been illegally done or the restoration of that which was wrongfully taken from the party complaining. But since the granting of such an injunction to a party who fails or would fail to establish his right at the trial may cause great injustice or irreparable harm to the party against whom it was granted or alternatively not granting of it to a party who succeeds or would succeed may equally cause great injustice or irreparable harm, courts have evolved certain guidelines. Generally stated these guidelines are:

(1) The plaintiff has a strong case for trial. That is, it shall be of a higher standard than a prima facie case that is normally required for a prohibitory injunction.

(2) It is necessary to prevent irreparable or serious injury which normally cannot be compensated in terms of money.

(3) The balance of convenience is in favour of the one seeking such relief."

14. Learned counsel for the petitioner has referred to the judgment rendered by this Court in Ashok Kumar Bajpai Vs. Dr. (Smt.) Ranjana Bajpai, 2003 SCC OnLine ALL 1296 , and paragraph 14 to 17 thereof which mainly consider the judgements relating to interim relief granted in writ jurisdiction by the High Court which amounts to final relief and inadmissibility thereof and is of not much relevance to the controversy in hand.

15. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also referred to another judgment rendered by this Court in Banshi Lal Vs. Radhey Shyam, 2013 (31) LCD 1530, where this Court has observed that even in the Second Appeal, interference can be made in findings of fact when material or relevant evidence is not considered, which if considered, would have led to opposite conclusion and where a finding has been recorded by the Appellate Court by placing reliance upon in-admissible evidence which if would have been omitted, an opposite conclusion would have been possible.

16. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further placed reliance upon Dilbagrai Punjabi Vs. Sharad Chandra, AIR 1988 SC

1858, paragraph-5 thereof which also relates to the Second Appeal and there is reference to the arguments made by the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent which this Court does not consider necessary to refer to in detail as they are not of much relevance to this case filed under Article 227 of the Constitution.

17. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgment rendered by Supreme Court in Jagdish Singh Vs. Natthu Singh, 1992 (1) SCC 647, and paragraph-10 thereof where the Supreme Court has made observations regarding jurisdiction of the High Court to re-appreciate the evidence in a Second Appeal. However such observations are unnecessary to be referred to in detail in view of the fact and circumstances of this case.

18. It is the case of the respondent as argued by Md. Ali that the petitioner is the paternal Aunt/ Chachi of the respondent no.3. At the time when the father of the respondent no.3 was alive, a family settlement had taken place in which the ancestral house situated at Hatan road opposite Cooperative Seed godown had been given to the husband of the petitioner who was feeble minded and incapable of earning a livelihood on his own. The father of the respondent no.3 had shifted to a house that he had bought from his own earning as stamp vendor in Mohalla Subhash Nagar at Hatan road in Utraula town. On the said property, he had constructed two shops and was also residing. The house was recorded in the name of the father of the respondent no.3 in the municipality records and he had been paying water tax and electricity bill etc. before his death and after his death the respondent no.3 came into possession of the entire house. Since the petitioner who was his Chachi and her husband Late Dwarka Prasad were living penurious condition at Hatan road in the ancestral house, he used to take care of both his Chacha and Chachi and their feeble minded son, and after the death of his Chacha, he had brought his Chachi and her son to the house situated at Subhash Nagar. After his family grew in size, there was a lack of space and therefore the respondent no.3 made great effort in getting allotted a separate residential house under Kashiram Shahri Awas Yojana in the name of his Chachi where she went to live in 2010 along with her son. When her son died there was no one to look after her and then he brought his Chachi back to his house in Subhash Nagar but she appeared to have changed her mind and with malafide intent wanted to grab the house in which the respondent was living with his family therefore, for the said purpose she approached land mafia and anti-social elements with the intention to forcibly grab the possession of the house in question and to sell it off behind the back of respondent no.3. Being apprehensive of being thrown out of his own house, the respondent no.3 filed a Suit for permanent injunction along with an application for temporary injunction.

19. Notice was initially tried to be served through registered post and process server of the Court upon the petitioner but contradictory reports were returned therefore substituted service was affected and such service was found sufficient on the defendant/ petitioner. The defendant filed objections to the application for temporary injunction and written statement in the said Suit which was duly considered by the Trial Court and the learned Trial Court after considering the facts and documentary evidence placed on record came to the conclusion that the plaintiff i.e. the respondent no.3 had been able to establish a prima-facie case in his favour for grant of interim injunction. Hence the order dated 28.01.2014 was passed injuncting the defendant/ petitioner from interfering and forcibly taking possession of the house in question or trying to sell it off during the pendency of the Suit. The petitioner thereafter filed an Appeal and again documentary evidence was considered by the Appellate Court and it found no perversity or illegality in the order dated 28.01.2014 and eventually rejected the Appeal by its order dated 25.10.2019.

20. It was found on the detailed examination of evidence that the defendant/ petitioner did not dispute at any stage the contention of the plaintiff that a separate house was allotted to her in Kashiram Shahri Awas Yojana finding her to be homeless and destitute. The Appellate Court also took into account the agreement to sell made out allegedly by the defendant/ petitioner in favour of one Taufeeq Ahmed to sell off the house in dispute for consideration of Rs.4 lakhs and receipt of advance of Rs.1000/- from him. The Appellate Court observed that in view of such evidence of avoiding of service of notice, and then appearing after publication of the same in newspaper, and allotment of separate house at Kashi Ram Shahri Awas Yojana finding her to be homeless and the agreement to sell, it was evident that the plaintiff was right in his submission before the Trial Court that being homeless she tried to take forcibly the possession of the house in dispute, and had also intended to sell it off to a third person.

21. The Appellate Court thus found that a prima facie case had indeed been made out by the plaintiff against the defendant and with regard to irreparable loss also the Appellate Court found that the apprehension of the plaintiff of being deprived of the house in question and the intention of the defendant to sell it off had not been suitably controverted by the defendant.

22. The Appellate Court has referred the agreement to sell dated 28.08.2013 and other documentary evidence filed by the plaintiff which was not specifically controverted by the defendant, and it also referred to balance of convenience being in favour of the plaintiff as had been shown on the basis of receipts issued by the Municipality that the house in question was recorded in the name of his father and he had been paying house tax, water tax, electricity tax, etc. since much before the cause of action for institution of Suit arose in 2011, whereas the defendant had produced receipts which were much of later date i.e. of the year 2013 onwards. After referring to the evidence considered by the learned Trial Court, the Appellate Court found no good ground to interfere in the interim injunction granted by the Trial Court on 28.01.2014 and affirmed the same by its order dated 25.10.2019.

23. Learned counsel for the respondent has placed reliance upon Raj Kumar Bhatia Vs. Subhash Chander Bhatia 2018 (2) SCC 87, and paragraph-12 thereof, where the scope of interference by the High Court under Article 227 of the Constitution has been considered by placing reliance upon Sadhana Lodh Vs. National Insurance Company Ltd., 2003 (3) SCC 524, where it was held that supervisory jurisdiction conferred upon the High Court under Article 227 is confined only to see whether an inferior court or Tribunal has proceeded within the parameters of its jurisdiction. In its exercise of jurisdiction under Article 227, the High Court does not act as Tribunal and it is not open for it to review the order or reassess the evidence upon which the Trial Court has passed an order.

24. Learned counsel for the respondent no.3 has also placed reliance upon Pepsico India Holding Private Limited Vs. Krishna Kant Pandey, 2015 (4) SCC 270, and paragraph-14 thereof where similar observations have been made by the Supreme Court by considering the earlier binding precedents such as Chandavarka Sita Ratna Rao Vs. Ashalata S. Guram, 1986 (4) SCC 4447 and Waryam Singh Vs. Amarnath, AIR 1954 SC 215 and Nagendra Nath Bora Vs. Commissioner of Hills Division, AIR 1958 SC 398.

25. Learned counsel for the respondent no.3 has also placed reliance upon Hammad Ahmed Vs. Abdul Majeed and others, 2019 (14) SCC 1, and paragraph-57 and 58 thereof, where it has been observed that the grant of mandatory injunction is not prohibited in all cases if a clear prima facie material is placed which justifies a finding that status quo may be altered by one of the parties if the order of mandatory injunction is not given. It has been observed that an ad-interim mandatory injunction can also be given on strong circumstances so as to protect the rights and interest of the parties and so as not to frustrate their rights regarding mandatory injunction. Such interim relief can be granted if the Court is satisfied that withholding of it would prick the conscience of the Court and do violence to the sense of justice, resulting in injustice being perpetuated throughout the hearing and at the end the Court would not be able to vindicate the cause of justice.

26. This Court having heard the counsel for the parties has also perused the order impugned. It is evident that both the courts below have considered documentary evidence filed by the plaintiff which included receipts starting from the year 1983 onwards of various years till 2009 i.e. before the Suit was filed in 2011. They have also considered the specific case of the plaintiff that a separate house under Kashiram Shahri Awas Yojana had been allotted to the defendants in which due enquiry was held finding the defendant to be homeless which specific case was not controverted by the defendant in any of her affidavits. Learned Trial Court as well as the Appellate Court has also considered the agreement to sell made out on 28.08.2013 after the order of the maintenance of status quo was passed by the Trial Court at the stage of ad-interim ex parte hearing of the said Suit, and after the defendant had appeared before the Trial Court and filed her objections and written statement. The trial court as well as the Appellate Court on the basis of evidence led by the parties came to the conclusion that prima facie plaintiff was residing in the house built by his father and that the defendant was trying to sell it off and this apprehension was fortified by agreement to sell made out after the order by the Trial Court for maintenance of status quo passed.

27. In this fact and circumstances, this Court does not find it appropriate to interfere in the orders impugned in this petition.

28. However, since the Suit has been pending since 2011 and evidence has been led by both the parties therein and even additional evidence has been filed which has been taken on record by the Appellate Court, the Trial Court shall try and dispose of the Suit on its merits as expeditiously as possible.

29. Any observations made by this Court in this order have only been made to come to the conclusion regarding justifiability of the orders impugned passed by the Trial Court and the Appellate Court and such observations shall not prejudice the rights of any of the parties in the Suit which is yet to be decided on merits by the competent court.

30. This petition is accordingly disposed of.

A. Civil Law - Civil Procedure Code, 1908 - ORDER 47 RULE 1 - It is settled law that review cannot be treated as an appeal and a re-hearing of the matter is not allowed in the name of a review of the judgment. Review of a judgment can be sought only the ground that it suffers from an "error apparent on the face of the record". But error on the face of record must be such an error which must strike one on mere looking at the record and would not require any long-drawn process of reasoning on the points where there may conceivably be two opinions.

B. Power of review may not be exercised on the ground that the decision was erroneous on merits.

C. Power of review can also be exercised for any sufficient reason which is wide enough to include a misconception of fact or law by a court or even an advocate.

D. The power of review can be exercised for correction of a mistake but not to substitute a view. Such powers can be exercised within the limits of the statute dealing with the exercise of power. The review cannot be treated like an appeal in disguise.

Application dismissed. (E-12)

In the reasons recorded for initiating the re-assessment proceedings, the Assessing Officer has recorded that on examination of the documents on record and 26 AS, it was noticed that the petitioner has received payment under Section 194 J also, but it did not show the said receipts in its Profit and Loss Account and did not give any explanation for the same. The Assessing Officer has further recorded that the petitioner did not disclose the amount of reimbursement of expenses claimed by it and the actual amount received by it towards reimbursement; that it did not submit the details of the expenses incurred by it for verification and it did not produce the ledgers, bills and vouchers of expenses incurred on behalf of the Principal companies and that as per 26 AS the total receipts of the petitioner were Rs.4,66,84,247/- and the TDS was Rs.32,14,869/- whereas it has shown its income at Rs.3,59,59,861/- which is short by Rs.1,07,24,386/- and this income appears to have escaped assessment. The Assessing Officer has recorded that although the petitioner had produced the books of account, annual report, Profit and Loss Account and balance-sheet, but the requisite material facts were embedded in such a manner that the same could not be discovered by the Assessing Officer and it came to light upon investigation conducted subsequent to passing of the assessment order, which would amount to fresh tangible material giving rise to reason to believe that certain income has escaped assessment necessitating initiation of reassessment proceedings.

4. After examining the reasons, this Court had held that the A.O. had recorded his reasons to believe that the petitioner had received payments under Section 194 J also, but it had not shown the said receipts in his Profit and Loss account and had not given any explanation for the same. The petitioner had not disclosed the amount of reimbursement of expenses claimed by it and the actual amount received by it towards reimbursement. It had not submitted the details of expenses incurred by it for verification during the assessment proceedings. It did not produce any ledger, bills and vouchers of expenses incurred on behalf of the Principal Companies. Thus the petitioner did not make a "full and true" disclosure of all the material facts which resulted in an income of Rs. 1,07,24,386/- having escaped assessment.

5. Relying upon the judgments in Raymond Woollen Mills Ltd. Vs. I.T.O. (1999) 236 ITR 36 (SC); Arun Gupta Vs. Union of India, (2015) 371 ITR 394 (AII); Phool Chand Bajrang Lal Vs. ITO, (1993) 4 SCC 77; Srikrishna (P) Ltd. V. ITO, (1996) 9 SCC 534, this Court had held that while scrutinizing a notice under Section 148 of the Act in exercise of our power of judicial review, we can only see whether there was prima facie some material available on record before the Assessing Officer for issuing a notice for re-assessment and we do not have to give a final decision regarding whether there is a suppression of material facts or regarding the sufficiency or correctness of the material. The notice under Section 148 of the Act has been issued by the Assessing Officer after an Investigation was conducted and going through the income tax return and other related documents of the petitioner and after forming a reason to believe that the petitioner did not truly and fully disclose all the material facts, because of which income amounting to Rs. 1,07,24,386/- has escaped assessment. This Court held that there was prima facie material available on record before the Assessing Officer for issuing a notice under Section 148 for initiating reassessment proceedings. For the aforesaid reasons, the writ petition filed for quashing of the notice issued under Section 148 of the Act and the consequential proceedings was dismissed.

6. The petitioner has filed the instant application for review of the aforesaid judgment passed by this Court dismissing the Writ Petition.

7. Before proceeding to examine the submissions of the learned Counsel for the review-petitioner, it would be appropriate to have a look at the scope of review. It is settled law that review cannot be treated as an appeal and a re-hearing of the matter is not allowed in the name of a review of the judgment. Review of a judgment can be sought only the ground that it suffers from an "error apparent on the face of the record". The meaning of the expression "error apparent on the face of the record" has been explained by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in various decisions, some of are being referred hereinbelow.

8. In Meera Bhanja v. Nirmala Kumari Choudhury, (1995) 1 SCC 170, the Hon'ble Supreme Court explained the term "error apparent on the face of the record" in the following words: -

"an error apparent on the face of record must be such an error which must strike one on mere looking at the record and would not require any long-drawn process of reasoning on points where there may conceivably be two opinions*. We may usefully refer to the observations of this Court in the case of Satyanarayan Laxminarayan Hegde v. Mallikarjun Bhavanappa Tirumale AIR 1960 SC 137, wherein, K.C. Das Gupta, J., speaking for the Court has made the following observations in connection with an error apparent on the face of the record:*

An error which has to be established by a long-drawn process of reasoning on points where there may conceivably be two opinions can hardly be said to be an error apparent on the face of the record. Where an alleged error is far from self-evident and if it can be established, it has to be established, by lengthy and complicated arguments, such an error cannot be cured by a writ of certiorari according to the rule governing the powers of the superior court to issue such a writ."

(Emphasis Supplied)

9. In Perry Kansagra v. Smriti Madan Kansagra, (2019) 20 SCC 753, the Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to the earlier decisions on the point and summarized the law on the subject in the following manner: -

"15.1.In Inderchand Jain (2009) 14 SCC 663 it was observed in paras 10, 11 and 33 as under: (SCC pp. 669 & 675)

"10. It is beyond any doubt or dispute that the review court does not sit in appeal over its own order. A rehearing of the matter is impermissible in law. It constitutes an exception to the general rule that once a judgment is signed or pronounced, it should not be altered. It is also trite that exercise of inherent jurisdiction is not invoked for reviewing any order.

11. Review is not appeal in disguise. In Lily Thomas v. Union of India (2000) 6 SCC 224 this Court held: (SCC p. 251, para 56)

"56. It follows, therefore, that the power of review can be exercised for correction of a mistake but not to substitute a view. Such powers can be exercised within the limits of the statute dealing with the exercise of power. The review cannot be treated like an appeal in disguise.'

33. The High Court had rightly noticed the review jurisdiction of the court, which is as under:

"The law on the subject--exercise of power of review, as propounded by the Apex Court and various other High Courts may be summarised as hereunder:

(i) Review proceedings are not by way of appeal and have to be strictly confined to the scope and ambit of Order 47 Rule 1 CPC.

(ii) Power of review may be exercised when some mistake or error apparent on the fact of record is found. But error on the face of record must be such an error which must strike one on mere looking at the record and would not require any long-drawn process of reasoning on the points where there may conceivably be two opinions.

(iii) Power of review may not be exercised on the ground that the decision was erroneous on merits.

(iv) Power of review can also be exercised for any sufficient reason which is wide enough to include a misconception of fact or law by a court or even an advocate.

(v) An application for review may be necessitated by way of invoking the doctrine actus curiae neminem gravabit.'

In our opinion, the principles of law enumerated by it, in the facts of this case, have wrongly been applied."

15.2*.In Ajit Kumar Rath(1999) 9 SCC 596, it was observed: (SCC p. 608, para 29)*

"29. In review proceedings, the Tribunal deviated from the principles laid down above which, we must say, is wholly unjustified and exhibits a tendency to rewrite a judgment by which the controversy had been finally decided. This, we are constrained to say, is not the scope of review under Section 22(3)(f) of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985...."

15.3.Similarly, in Parsion Devi (1997) 8 SCC 715 the principles were summarised as under: (SCC p. 719, para 9)

"9. Under Order 47 Rule 1 CPC a judgment may be open to review inter alia if there is a mistake or an error apparent on the face of the record. An error which is not self-evident and has to be detected by a process of reasoning, can hardly be said to be an error apparent on the face of the record justifying the court to exercise its power of review under Order 47 Rule 1 CPC. In exercise of the jurisdiction under Order 47 Rule 1 CPC it is not permissible for an erroneous decision to be "reheard and corrected". A review petition, it must be remembered has a limited purpose and cannot be allowed to be "an appeal in disguise"."

16.On the other hand, reliance was placed by the respondent on the decision in BCCI v. Netaji Cricket Club(2005) 4 SCC 741 to submit that exercise in review would be justified if there be misconception of fact or law. Para 90 of the said decision was to the following effect: (SCC p. 765)

"90. Thus, a mistake on the part of the court which would include a mistake in the nature of the undertaking may also call for a review of the order. An application for review would also be maintainable if there exists sufficient reason therefor. What would constitute sufficient reason would depend on the facts and circumstances of the case. The words "sufficient reason" in Order 47 Rule 1 of the Code are wide enough to include a misconception of fact or law by a court or even an advocate. An application for review may be necessitated by way of invoking the doctrine actus curiae neminem gravabit."

17.We have gone through both the judgments of the High Court in the instant case and considered rival submissions on the point. It is well settled that an error which is required to be detected by a process of reasoning can hardly be said to be an error apparent on the face of the record. To justify exercise of review jurisdiction, the error must be self-evident. Tested on this parameter, the exercise of jurisdiction in the present case was not correct. The exercise undertaken in the present case, in our considered view, was as if the High Court was sitting in appeal over the earlier decision dated 17-2-2017. Even assuming that there was no correct appreciation of facts and law in the earlier judgment, the parties could be left to challenge the decision in an appeal. But the review was not a proper remedy at all. In our view, the High Court erred in entertaining the review petition and setting aside the earlier view dated 17-2-2017."

10. Now we proceed to examine the grounds taken by the petitioner for seeking a review of the judgment passed by this Court so as to ascertain whether this judgment sought to be reviewed suffers from any such error as strikes on mere looking at the record and as would not require any long-drawn process of reasoning for being established and regarding which there may not be conceivably be two opinions.

11. The petitioner has sought a review of the aforesaid judgment on the ground that the payments made under Section 194 J are clearly reflected in 26 AS and the same had been reconciled by the Assessing Officer during the original assessment proceedings and the difference between the receipts reflected in 26-AS and those reflected in its Profit and Loss Account had been explained through its letter dated 12-02-2015.

12. Whether or not certain receipts are correctly reflected in 26 AS and the Profit and Loss Account of the petitioner, is a disputed question of fact which cannot be decided by this Court in exercise of its writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India or while reviewing the judgment passed in exercise of its writ jurisdiction. Moreover, by raising the aforesaid question, the petitioner is seeking a re-hearing of the Writ Petition, which is not permissible in the name review of the judgment. Such a question can only be decided by the Assessing Authority during re-assessment proceedings, and the petitioner will have full opportunity to place its case during re-assessment proceedings and it is not the case that the dismissal of the Writ Petition will result any miscarriage of justice being caused to the petitioner.

13. The learned Counsel for the petitioner has next contended that during the assessment proceedings, the petitioner had provided the copy of the ledger account of refundable amount received / to be received with a copy of debit note issued to the Principal Companies and it had disclosed all the material facts and nothing was concealed. This question has already been decided in the judgment dated 18-04-2022 and this Court refused to interfere with the notice under Section 148 issued on the basis of the reason recorded by the Assessing Officer that although the petitioner had produced the books of account, annual report, Profit and Loss Account and balance sheet, but the requisite material facts were embedded in such a manner that the material facts could not be discovered by the A.O. This material which came to light upon investigation conducted subsequent to passing of the assessment order, would certainly amount to a fresh tangible material giving rise to reason to believe that certain income has escaped assessment necessitating initiation of re-assessment proceedings. This finding does not suffer from any error which may be said to be apparent on the face of the record so as to warrant a review of the judgment.

14. The learned Counsel for the petitioner has next contended that the judgment in the case of Raymond Woolen Mills Ltd. (supra) is case specific and it cannot be applied to the case of the petitioner. The ratio of the judgments passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Raymond Woolen Mills Ltd. (1) and (2) (supra), is that at the stage of issuing a notice for reassessment, the court has only to see whether there is prima facie some material on the basis of which, the department could re-open the case; the sufficiency or correctness of the material is not a thing to be considered at this stage, and this ratio does not appear to be based on any peculiar facts so as to be not applicable to the present case and the learned counsel for the petitioner could not point out as to how the aforesaid ratio is based on any peculiar facts and it would not apply to the present case. Therefore, we are unable to accept the submission of the learned Counsel for the petitioner that the judgment in the case of Raymond Woolen Mills Ltd. (supra) is case specific and it cannot be applied to the case of the petitioner.

15. The learned counsel for the petitioner also submitted that the judgment in Phool Chand Bajrang Lal (supra) supports the petitioner's contention that to initiate reassessment proceedings, the Assessing Officer must have some tangible material before him before proceeding to initiate the reimbursement under Section 147 of the Act.

16. The learned Counsel for the petitioner has also contended that the order passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Srikrishna (Pvt.) Ltd. versus I.T.O., (1996) 9 SCC 534 relied upon by this Court required that the assessee is under obligation to disclose the material facts and such disclosure should be full and true and the petitioner has made true and full disclosure of all material facts.

17. So far as the submission that the judgment in Phool Chand Bajrang Lal (supra) supports the petitioner's contention that to initiate reassessment proceedings, the Assessing Officer must have some tangible material before him before proceeding to initiate the reimbursement under Section 147 of the Act, we may state that in Phool Chand Bajrang Lal (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court had held that the reassessment proceedings may be started either because of some fresh fact come into light which were not previously disclosed or some information with regard to the fact previously disclosed comes into light which intends to expose untruthfulness of those facts.

18. In the present case, the reassessment has been ordered because the A.O. has recorded his reasons to believe that the petitioner had received payments under Section 194 J also, but it had not shown the said receipts in his Profit and Loss account and had not given any explanation for the same. The petitioner had not disclosed the amount of reimbursement of expenses claimed by it and the actual amount received by it towards reimbursement. It had not submitted the details of expenses incurred by it for verification during the assessment proceedings. It did not produce any ledger, bills and vouchers of expenses incurred on behalf of the Principal Companies. Thus the petitioner did not make a "full and true" disclosure of all the material facts which resulted in an income of Rs. 1,07,24,386/- having escaped assessment. In the instant case, the notice under Section 148 of the Act has been issued by the Assessing Officer after an investigation was carried out and after going through the income tax return and other related documents of the petitioner and after forming reason to believe that the petitioner did not truly and fully disclose all the material facts, because of which income amounting to Rs.1,07,24,386/- has escaped assessment. Thus the reassessment has been ordered upon discovery of apprehended untruthfulness of facts previously disclosed, which came to light after an investigation and, therefore, the judgment in Phool Chand Bajrang Lal (supra) does not support the petitioner and as per the law laid down in Srikrishna (Supra), the reassessment proceedings have rightly been initiated.

19. The judgment passed by this Court has also been sought to be reviewed on the ground that various case laws relied upon by the petitioner in support of its claim have not been considered by this Court. In the judgment sought to be reviewed, the judgments of Aventis Pharma Ltd. versus ACIT, (2010) 323 ITR 570 (Bom), Arun Gupta versus Union of India, (2015) 371 ITR 394 (All) and United Electrical Co. Ltd. versus Commissioner of Income Tax, (2002) 258 I.T.R. 317, cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner have been referred to and dealt with. This Court is not obliged to refer to each and every judgment forming part of a compilation of judgments submitted after conclusion of oral submissions, which judgments were not placed before the Court during oral submissions. Moreover, while deciding the writ petition, we have referred to and relied upon the relevant case laws and it is not been submitted by the petitioner that in the judgment sought to be reviewed, the law applicable to the facts of the case has not been taken into consideration. Therefore, this submission also stands rejected.

20. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we do not find any "error apparent on the face of the record" in the judgment and the order dated 18-04-2022 sought to be reviewed. The application for review of the judgment and order dated 18-04-2022 lacks merit and, is accordingly dismissed.

21. However, there will be no order as to costs.

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE MANOJ MISRA, J.
THE HON'BLE SAMEER JAIN, J.

Ram Samujh & Anr. ...Appellants (In Jail)
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:

Sri D.S. Tiwari, Sri Brijesh Sahai, Sri Manvendra Dixit, Sri P.C. Chaturvedi, Sri S. Shukla, Sri Shashwat Shukla, Sri Sageer Ahmad (Senior Adv.)

Counsel for the Respondent:
D.G.A.

A. Testimony of an independent witness can alone form the basis of conviction but before it's acceptance the court must satisfy itself whether the substratum of the story narrated by the witness is consistent with the other evidence on record, the natural course of events, the surrounding circumstances and inherent probabilities of the case and is such which will carry conviction with a prudent person.

B. Mere congruity and consistency are not the sole test of truth, sometimes even falsehood is given at right appearance of truth so that truth disappears and falsehood comes on surface.

C. Once there arises a strong suspicion of the F.I.R. not being registered at the time when it is purported to have been lodged, the benefit of prompt reporting would not accrue to the prosecution. Under these circumstances the prosecution evidence would have to be evaluated and assessed independently after carefully testing it on all material particulars.

D. Absence of strong motive may not be fatal to the prosecution case based on ocular evidence but where there is an occasion to suspect the prosecution testimony motive accrues importance to test the probability of the prosecution case.

E. Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 141/149 - Where general allegations are made against a large number of persons the court must carefully scrutinize the evidence whether the assembly consisted of some persons which were merely passive witnesses and had joined the assembly as a matter of ideal curiosity without intending to entertain common object of the assembly and should hesitate to convict large number of persons if the evidence available on record is vague and also before convicting with the aid of Section 149 IPC the court must give clear finding regarding nature of common object and that the object was unlawful.

Appeal allowed. (E-12)

1. This appeal was presented on behalf of two appellants, namely, Ram Samujh and Rama Kant. The appeal of Rama Kant was abated vide order dated 21.08.2015, therefore, this appeal survives qua appellant no.1 Ram Samujh only.

2. This appeal is against the judgment and order dated 11.10.1983 passed by the third Additional Sessions Judge, Jaunpur in S.T. No.139 of 1981 connected with S.T. No.120 of 1981 whereby, the surviving appellant no.1 Ram Samujh, along with co-accused Rama Kant and Sher Bahadur Singh, has been convicted and sentenced under Sections 148, 302/149 and 307/149 IPC. Sher Bahadur Singh filed a separate Criminal Appeal No.2412 of 1983 which stood abated vide order dated 11.12.2015. This appeal has, therefore, been pressed only on behalf of the appellant no.1 Ram Samujh, who has been convicted and sentenced as above in S.T. No.139 of 1981.

3. We have heard Sri Sageer Ahmad, learned Senior Counsel, assisted by Sri Shashwat Shukla, for the surviving appellant no.1 (Ram Samujh); Ms. Sanyukta Singh, Brief Holder, and Sri J.K. Upadhyay, learned AGA, for the State; and have perused the record.

INTRODUCTORY FACTS

4. On a written report (Ex. Ka-1), dated 01.05.1981, submitted by Achhaibar (PW-1), scribed by Devi Prasad Maurya (not examined), Case Crime No.56 of 1981, at P.S. Meerganj, District Jaunpur was registered at 01.30 hrs on 01.05.1981 of which GD Entry No.4 (Ex. Ka-9) and Chik FIR (Ex. Ka-8) was prepared by Shyam Lal Tiwari (PW-7). The FIR alleges that the informant (PW-1) for getting his wheat threshed had been at the pumping set of Yadunath Yadav (not examined) where Saheb Lal (the deceased), Saheb Lal's relative Rai Sahab (not examined) and Hanuman Prasad (PW-2) were present. At about 12 midnight, eight men armed with country made pistol, gun and bomb arrived, tied PW-2 and fired at Saheb Lal (the deceased). Saheb Lal fell whereas Rai Sahab escaped towards the village. In the meantime, when a second shot was fired at Saheb Lal, the informant intervened and pleaded that if they have to rob/loot they may go to the village but they should not kill. Upon which, those men threatened the informant, as a result, the informant tried to escape. While he was escaping, those men hurled a bomb. On explosion of that bomb, the dried Arhar (lentil) crop kept there caught fire and started burning, which lit the spot. In the light of that fire, the informant could identify three men, namely, Rama Kant Dube (the appellant no.2); Ram Samujh Mishra (appellant no.1); and Sher Bahadur Singh (the appellant in the connected appeal), who had country made pistol, gun and bomb with them. It is alleged that as the area got sufficiently lit, the accused effected their escape towards south west. On their escape, large number of persons gathered at the spot. Saheb Lal died on the spot whereas the informant received injury. After making allegations noticed above and by stating that the body of the deceased has been left at the spot, the FIR was lodged.

5. PW-1 (the informant) was medically examined by PW-5 (Dr. R.S. Shukla) at 3.15 pm on 01.05.1981. The injury report (Ex. Ka-6) notices following injuries:-

(i) Multiple tiny abrasions on back in an area of 30 cm x 30 cm. Black in colour. Soft scab red in color present.

(ii) Lacerated wound 1 cm x 0.5 cm x skin deep on left buttock.

(iii) Traumatic swelling 22 cm x 6 cm on left leg with an abrasion 0.4 cm x 0.4 cm, 8 cm below knee joint.

(iv) Multiple Tiny abrasions in area 18 cm x 8 cm on back of right leg. Firm red scab present.

Injuries are simple. No.1 and 4 is caused by blast injury and no.2 and 3 by blunt object. Duration about half day.

It be noted that the Chitthi Majrubi (letter for examination of the injured, prepared at the police station) on which the medical examination of PW-1 was carried out by PW-5 has not been exhibited. The injury report (Ex. Ka-6) though reflects that it is a police case and the injured was brought by constable Shyam Narain Mishra (not examined) but the case crime number of the case is not mentioned.

6. As per the inquest report (Ex. Ka-10), inquest was completed by 7 am on 01.05.1981 by S.I. T.M. Tiwari (not examined) under supervision of the Investigating Officer (I.O.) Raj Nath Tripathi (PW-8). The inquest report records the name of Bhagelu, Jatashanker, Asha Ram, Devi Prasad and Nirhu as witnesses but none of them have been examined. It be noted that the inquest report does not bear the case crime number though it mentions the name of PW-1 as the person who gave information at the police station at 1.30 hrs. But there appears overwriting on the digit "1" of the time mentioned in the first column of the inquest report. It be also noted that as per the entry in the inquest report, police left to go to the spot at 5 am in the morning. Another feature noticeable is that the inquest report bears no details of the police papers available, or prepared, or annexed with the inquest report, which, in ordinary course, are to be forwarded with a request for autopsy. As per Challan Lash i.e. Form-13 (Ex. Ka-13), the cadaver reached the District Police Headquarters, 50 km away from the spot, at 14.35 hours of which GD Entry No.22 was made at 14.35 hours at the District Police Headquarters. As per endorsement of Dr. R.P. Rastogi (autopsy surgeon) (PW-6) in Ex. Ka-13, the papers in respect of autopsy were received at the concerned hospital at 4.25 p.m. on 01.05.1981, whereas the body was received in the mortuary, in a sealed cloth, at 4.55 pm and the autopsy commenced at 5 pm. Notably, there is overwriting over digit "4" of the time 4.25 p.m. Another important feature noticeable from the record is that there is nothing to show that the Chik FIR or the GD Entry of the FIR was forwarded to the Autopsy Surgeon or was seen or endorsed by the Autopsy Surgeon (PW-6). It be, however, noted that Challan Nash (Ex. Ka-11), Form No. 33 (Letter requesting the surgeon to conduct autopsy) (Ex. Ka-12), sample seal (Ex. Ka-14) bear case details but the letter of the Station Officer requesting for an autopsy (Ex. Ka-15) bears no such details.

7. Autopsy was conducted at 5 pm by Dr. R. P. Rastogi (PW-6). As per the opinion expressed in the Autopsy report (Ex. Ka--7), death could have occurred 3/4th of a day before. The features of the cadaver noticed during autopsy are below;

External examination: Body strong built wheatish complexion. Rigor mortis present upper and lower part of the body. Eyes and mouth closed with greenish discolouration (sic). Abdomen not distended.

Ante-mortem injuries:

(i) Gun shot wound of entry 3 ½ x 3 cm x abdomen cavity deep. Right side of abdomen 9 cm above umbilicus at 9 O'clock position and 16 cm below right nipple. Omentum protruded through wound. Blackening and scrorching and tattooing present around the wound.

(ii) Multiple gun shot wound of exit in an area of 15 cm x 12 cm x size 0.2 cm x 0.2 cm x muscle to abdomen cavity deep on lower part of left side of abdomen and left upper and outer of buttock into size 0.2 cm x 0.2 cm muscle to abdomen cavity deep. Margins everted under injury and left iliac bone fractured.

Internal examination:

Stomach ruptured near duodenal part. Semi digested food present. Small intestine having multiple through and through opening. Large intestine of descending colon lower part ruptured. Blood vessel (sic) greater omentum ruptured at many places.

Opinion:- Death due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of above injury.

8. The investigation of the case was conducted by PW-8 and two separate charge sheets were submitted. Ex. Ka-27 is the charge sheet submitted against Rama Kant and Sher Bahadur, whereas, Ex. Ka-28 is the charge sheet submitted against surviving appellant (Ram Samujh). After taking cognizance on the charge sheet, case was committed to the court of session. Two separate trials were instituted, namely, S.T. No.120 of 1981, which was against co-accused Rama Kant and Sher Bahadur, and S.T. No.139 of 1981, which was against the surviving appellant Ram Samujh. All the three accused were charged for offences punishable under Sections 148, 302 / 149 and 307/ 149 IPC. It be noted that in the memorandum of the charge there was an allegation with regard to formation of an unlawful assembly with five other unknown persons and of commission of murder of Saheb Lal and of making an attempt on the life of Achhaibar (PW-1) by hurling a bomb at him. The accused pleaded not guilty and claimed for a trial.

9. During the course of trial, eight prosecution witnesses were examined, namely, Achhaibar (PW-1- injured eye witness); Hanuman Prasad (PW-2- another eye witness); Kamla Shanker Upadhyay (PW-3- the constable who carried the body of the deceased to the mortuary for autopsy); Kailash Nath (PW-4- brother of the deceased Saheb Lal - who is not an eye witness but examined to prove the motive for the crime); Dr. R.S. Shukla (PW-5- the person who conducted medical examination of PW-1); Dr. R.P. Rastogi (PW-6- autopsy surgeon who conducted postmortem examination of the body of the deceased); Shyam Lal Tiwari (PW-7 - constable who made GD entry of the written report and prepared Chik FIR); and Rajnath Tripathi (PW-8 - the investigating officer who conducted the investigation of the case and submitted charge sheet).

10. After the prosecution evidence was led, the statement of the accused persons were recorded under section 313 CrPC. The trial court convicted and sentenced the appellants as noticed above against which, instant appeal has been filed.

PROSECUTION EVIDENCE

11. Before we proceed to notice the rival submissions, to have a clear understanding of the context in which those submissions have been made, it would be appropriate to notice the testimony of the prosecution witnesses. The testimony of the prosecution witnesses, shorn of unnecessary details, is as follows:-

12. PW-1- Achhaibar. He described the place of occurrence as being near to the pumping set of Yadhunath, located about two furlong (one furlong is equal to 220 yards) away from the village abadi, around which there were fields but no abadi. He states that Yadunath and Raghunath are brothers. Raghunath has two wives, namely, Batasi and Ramdei. Raghunath does not have a son but only one daughter, namely, Chanri. Chanri's son is Rai Saheb. Yadunath has six sons. Three are very young whereas, the other three, Kailash (PW-4), Jayantri and Saheb Lal (the deceased) were adults. In addition to those sons, Yadunath has a daughter named Manju. Manju's Jeth (husband's elder brother) is Hanuman Prasad (PW-2). PW-1 states that at the time of the incident, except for Saheb Lal nobody else of Yadhunath's family was there. Yadunath, Kailash (PW-4) and Jayantri resided in Bombay. The younger sons resided in the village. PW-1 stated that the pumping set of Yadunath runs on electricity and has a thresher attached to it. The thresher machine was used to thresh his (Yadunath's) own as well as crop of other villagers.

In respect of the incident, PW-1 stated that, that night he had taken his crop for threshing to Yadunath's pumping set. He had reached there by about 11 or quarter to 11 pm, as the electricity used to come late in the night. At that time, there was no electricity. There, Saheb Lal (the deceased), Rai Sahab (not examined), Hanuman Prasad (PW-2) and Saheb Lal's mother Ramdei were present. At that spot, three paces away, towards south east of the pumping set, Saheb Lal and Rai Sahab were sleeping in a cot, four paces away towards north of the pumping set, Hanuman Prasad was sleeping in a cot, Ramdei was sleeping near the room, towards west of the pumping set, in her own cot. PW-1 stated that he was sleeping two paces north of the cot of Rai Sahab and Saheb Lal. Then PW-1 clarified that while he was awake, he saw that from west and south, few men, 7-8 in number, with torches on, were coming. When those men came close, PW-1 asked them as to why they have switched on their torches. Those men replied by saying that they had gone to hear folk stories (Birha). By then, Saheb Lal and Rai Sahab woke up. As soon as Saheb Lal stood up, a gun shot was fired at him, as a result of which, he stumbled and fell on a wheat bushel. Thereafter, a second shot was fired. Then, 3-4 men went towards Hanuman Prasad (PW-2) and tied him to the cot. Rai Sahab, however, escaped. PW-1 stated that when the second shot was fired, he ran 50 paces towards north of the pumping set and when he reached near the field of Kedar a bomb was thrown which exploded near dry Arhar (lentil) crop that was set ablaze and splinters of that bomb, struck PW-1 on his leg and back. PW-1 stated that as the Arhar crop started burning, the area got lit, in that light, he could identify Sher Bahadur, Ram Samjuh and Ramakant, the accused put on trial, who ran away. The remaining he could not identify but if they were brought before him, he would be able to identify them. PW-1 stated that Sher Bahadur had a Katta, Ram Samujh had a gun whereas Ramakant was empty handed. PW-1 stated that as Saheb Lal had died, his body was lifted from the wheat bushel, kept on a cot and covered by a cloth. Thereafter, PW-1 got the report scribed and lodged. PW-1 stated that the I.O. had sent him for medical examination to Sadar Hospital, Jaunpur where he was medically examined and had to remain there for eight days.

In his cross-examination, PW-1 admitted that his grand father (Ruchi) had two brothers, namely, Dukhi and Mukkhu. Mukkhu's wife was Ramdei, who is now Raghunath's wife. PW-1 stated that when Ramdei married Raghunath, she was already pregnant with Chanri. He admitted that his brother Bhagelu also has a pumping set, which runs on electricity and where also, there is a thresher. He stated that near that pumping set, they have their holding and that pumping set is about one furlong away from Yadunath's pumping set. In paragraph 11 of his statement, PW-1 admitted that Ram Samujh (the surviving appellant) is a primary school teacher and has a licensed weapon. In paragraph 13 of his statement, when he was shown that in the FIR he had not mentioned that eight persons had arrived with torches in their hand, PW-1 stated that he made a mention of that in his report but if that was not written, he cannot tell the reason. When confronted with an omission in the FIR that those men, on being questioned, had stated that they were coming after hearing folk stories (Birha), PW-1 stated that he cannot tell the reason for that omission. In paragraph 13 of his statement PW-1 stated that till the time he could notice the accused, he thought that those men were dacoits. When he was confronted with his previous statement under Section 161 CrPC to the effect that Ramakant was carrying a bomb, PW-1 stated that he did not make any such statement but if that was written, he cannot give the reason. In paragraph 14 of his statement, on being confronted with an omission in his previous statement that the gunshot was fired from a gun, PW-1 stated that he had disclosed that the shot was fired from a gun but if that was not written, then he cannot given the reason. In paragraph 15 of his statement, he stated as follows:-

"15– चोट लगने से मैं गिरा नहीं था। खड़ा ही रहा। मैं डर के कारण भागा था। चोट लगने के बाद मैं एक परग आगे बढ़ा और खड़ा हो गया। मैं और यदुनाथ, साहेबलाल एक ही बिरादरी के है। अंधेरे की वजह से मारने वाले को मैं नहीं पहचान पाया था। यह कहना गलत है कि रमाकांत व रामसमुझ मौके पर नहीं थे। यह भी गलत है कि मैं इन दोनों का नाम पार्टीबंदी, दुश्मनी और मृतक के बिरादरी का होने के नाते ले रहा हूँ।''

"मैं पढ़ा लिखा नहीं हू। मैं अपना नाम लिख लेता हूँ। जब गांव के लोग घटनास्थल पर आ गये तब मैं पंपिंग सेट पर आया। देवीप्रसाद से रिपोर्ट लिखने के लिए मैंने कहा और किसी ने नहीं कहा। घटना होने के 8–10 मिनट के बाद मैंने रिपोर्ट लिखने को कहा। यह गलत है कि दिन होने पर मैंने रिपोर्ट लिखाया था। मुझे ध्यान नहीं कि मैंने रिपोर्ट में यह शब्द आज बीती रात को लिखाया था या नहीं। ऐसी बात नहीं है कि रिपोर्ट थाने पर दूसरे दिन सुबह सलाह मशवरे के बाद लिखी गई। मैं अकेले थाने पर नहीं गया था।''

In paragraphs 22 and 23 of his statement, on being confronted that his son Amarnath was an accused in a case under Section 392 IPC in which Jayantri Lal and Saheb Lal (the deceased) were also accused, and in which Ram Chandra Singh was a witness, PW-1 denied the suggestion that co-accused Sher Bahadur was falsely implicated to pressurise Ram Chandra Singh to not press the case against his son under Section 392 IPC. In paragraph 24 of his statement, he claimed ignorance that Lal Bahadur, relative of Devi Prasad Maurya, scribe of the instant FIR, was an accused with Jayantri in that dacoity case. He also denied the suggestion that there were several cases against Jayantri in which PW-1 was a surety for his bail. He also denied the suggestion that in another case of dacoity, Yadhunath, Jayantri Lal, Saheb Lal and Rai Sahab were accused at the instance of Shyam Lal. In paragraph 27 of his statement he admitted that Arhar crop was at some distance from the spot. In paragraph 28 of his statement, PW-1 stated that Saheb Lal (the deceased) stepped off his cot from the northern side whereas Rai Sahab stepped off the cot from the southern side. The shot was fired from north west. The person who fired shot at Saheb Lal was four paces away from the cot. He stated that the second shot was fired at Saheb Lal immediately when he fell and when the second shot was fired, it hit Saheb Lal on the left side of his abdomen. Immediately thereafter, PW-1 clarified that he did not notice where the first and second shot had hit Saheb Lal. Only when the area was lit, on return, after the accused had left, he noticed the injury. He denied the suggestion that Rai Saheb and Hanuman Prasad were not present at the spot.

13. PW-2 (Hanuman Prasad). He stated that his younger brother Rajendra Prasad is married to Yadunath's daughter Manju and, therefore, has relations with Yadunath and comes there often. In the night of the incident, he came from Mariyahu on a train, alighted at Jarauna Station where he met Rai Rahab and from there, he, along with Rai Sahab, came to village Bhatahar (the place of the incident). He stated that he and Rai Sahab, after having dinner, went to sleep at Yadunath's pumping set. There, he slept on a cot about a pace away, towards west of the water tank, whereas towards south, 7-8 paces away, Rai Sahab and Saheb Lal were sleeping on another cot. At the door of pumping set, Ramdei was sleeping. Ramdei is quite old and has poor eyesight. PW-1 had also arrived there for threshing. At that time, there was no electricity therefore, the thresher machine was not running. PW-2 stated that PW-1 was sleeping about two paces away, towards east, of the cot of Saheb Lal and Rai Sahab. At about 12 midnight, 7-8 men with country made pistol, gun and torches arrived. They started talking to PW-1. On this, PW-2 woke up and sat on the cot. As as he got up, 3 - 4 men came and tied him. He stated that when PW-1 objected to it, they threatened him. When Saheb Lal stood up, he was shot at, as a result whereof, Saheb Lal fell on the wheat bushel. Seeing all of this, Rai Sahab ran away. When Saheb Lal fell, another shot was fired at him. Then, PW-1 ran and was given a chase and a bomb was hurled at him, which fell on the Arhar crop, resulting in a fire lighting the area. PW-2 stated that there were 100-150 bushels of Arhar crop and in the light of that fire, PW-2 noticed Sher Bahadur Singh, Ram Samujh and Ramakant. PW-2 stated that Sher Bahadur had a country made pistol, Ram Samujh held a gun and Ramakant was empty handed. The remaining persons he could not recognise. He stated that Saheb Lal died on account of the injury received by him, whereas PW-1 received blast injuries. He stated he does not know whether the shot was fired from a gun or a country made pistol.

During cross-examination, he stated that he knows the sons of Sher Bahadur but he does not know any person in the family of Ram Samujh and, similarly, he does not know the family of Ramakant. He stated that Yadunath's threshing/ flour machine and the pumping machine are in the same room, which is 10-12 feet wide and long. Towards east of that room, there is a water tank and towards south there is a Khalihan. South west of that room, there is an electricity pole and at a short distance from that pole, Saheb Lal and Rai Sahab were sleeping. In paragraph 10 of his statement, he stated that he had noticed weapons in the hand of the accused even before the area was lit by fire. At this stage, he was confronted with his statement under Section 161 CrPC wherein he had stated that he could recognise the accused in the light of the burning crop and that he had seen Ramakant with a bomb. In response thereto, in paragraph 11 of his statement, he stated that he does not know as to how that was written. He was also confronted with his previous statement under Section 161 CrPC where he had stated that he was sleeping. In response thereto, he stated that he was about to sleep and had just covered his face with a quilt.

He denied the suggestion that at the spot neither he was present nor he witnessed any of the accused and that what he has stated is on account of being a relative of the victim's family. In paragraph 16 of his cross examination, at the instance of Sher Bahadur, he stated that prior to the date of the incident he had never met Rai Sahab and that he never expected that he would meet Rai Sahab. To test him whether he knew about the village Bhatahar, questions were put to which he gave evasive answer in paragraph 17. From which it appeared that he did not know much about the village. On further cross-examination, in paragraph 20, he stated that except for the informant, the witnesses and the accused of this case, he knew one more person of that village who is a Block Pramukh but he does not remember his name.

In his cross-examination on 24.02.1982, he stated that Ramdei was not sleeping near him but if that has been written in his statement under Section 161 CrPC, then he cannot tell the reason. In paragraph 25 of his statement he stated that he had reached Yadunath's pumping set by 6-7 pm or may be 8-9.30 pm but by the time he reached there, it was dark and nothing was visible. Then, he stated that if it was totally dark, how could he have reached there. He stated that while they were lying there and talking to each other and were on the verge of sleep, PW-1 arrived there, but he had no talk with PW-1. PW-1 had arrived by about 11 pm. He stated that to cover themselves in the morning, they had quilts but they had not covered themselves with quilts at that time. He clarified his earlier statement that he had covered his face with quilt by stating that that statement is incorrect. The correct fact is that the quilt was kept below his head. In paragraph 28 of his statement, he stated that when he woke up and sat on his cot, initially, he thought that dacoits have come. He noticed them first, when they came to tie him. PW-2 stated that they tied him with a rope, which was lying near the well of Yadunath. On a specific question as to how much time it took them to tie him, PW-2 stated that it must have taken them 2-3 minutes and during that period gunshot was fired and when Ram Achhaibar (PW-1) ran, he was chased and a bomb was hurled at him. He further clarified that the statement which he made on the other day that 3-4 men had tied him is not correct but, in fact, the correct statement is that 3-4 men were tying him. At this stage, PW-2 was confronted with his statement under Section 161 CrPC where he had stated that some people had tied him with a cot to which he responded that he does not know the reason for recording the statement in that manner. He stated throughout the incident, 2-3 persons were standing next to him. In paragraph 31 of his statement, he stated that when the accused gave a chase to PW-1, he got opportunity to untie and get off the cot as the accused were giving a chase to Ram Achhaibar (PW-1). He stated that all the accused had given a chase to Ram Achhaibar. In paragraph 31, he stated that the accused chased Ram Achhaibar upto a distance of 50-60 paces. In paragraph 33, he stated that by the time Daroga Ji had arrived, most of the Arhar crop had burnt though some were burning. In paragraph 35 he stated that Rai Sahab was first to run away, thereafter, Ram Achhaibar (PW-1) ran. PW-2 stated that when he was being tied he heard gunshots. He stated that though he heard two gun shots but he did not notice the firing of gunshot and the causing of injury by the gunshot. He stated that when Rai Sahab was escaping, the miscreants were flashing torch light on him and in that light, he saw Rai Sahab running away. When the accused escaped, he noticed that Saheb Lal was dead. He stated that Saheb Lal was wearing an underwear and a vest. He denied the suggestion that he was not present at the place and time of occurrence and is telling lies because of being a relative of victim's family.

14. PW-3 Kamla Shanker Upadhyay. He was the constable who carried the body of the deceased for autopsy. He stated that he received a sealed body for autopsy. He delivered the body in a sealed condition along with papers to the autopsy surgeon.

In his cross-examination, though he stated that the body was delivered to him at 8 am in the morning but he could not remember as to when he left the police station. However, he delivered the body at the mortuary at 4.55 p.m. He stated that he carried the body in a jeep. He also stated that in ordinary course it would take only two hours to cover that distance in a jeep. He denied the suggestion that he started his journey at 3 pm.

15. PW-4 Kailash Nath. He is the brother of Saheb Lal (the deceased). He stated that the date on which Saheb Lal was killed, he was not there in the village but was at Bombay. He stated that Sukhdeyi was widow of one Yadav. Prior to the incident, Sukhdeyi had executed a sale deed in favour of Ramakant Dubey (accused). But, alleging that that sale deed was executed by an imposter, Sukhdeyi had instituted a suit for cancellation of the sale deed, which was decreed ex-parte on 09.04.1981. The certified copy of the plaint of that suit was marked as Ex. Ka-2 and the decree passed therein was marked as Ex. Ka-3. PW-4 stated that Sukhdeyi had also instituted proceedings before the Settlement Officer of Consolidation in that regard and to prosecute those proceedings, she had appointed Saheb Lal (the deceased) as her attorney. The power of attorney was exhibited as Ex. Ka-4. PW-4 stated that his family and family of Sher Bahadur were in litigation which was pending as a revision, copy of which was marked as Ex. Ka-5. In paragraph 4 of his statement, PW-4 stated that Ram Samujh's brother, Ramdeo Mishra, is a teacher in an institution whose manager is Jokhan Singh i.e. father of Sher Bahadur Singh. In that institution, there is a Primary Pathshala in which Ram Samujh (surviving appellant) is a teacher and because of that relationship, Sher Bahadur Singh and Ram Samujh have close association with each other. He stated that Saheb Lal stays at home and looks after agricultural operations as well as pending cases.

In his cross-examination, he stated that he had been staying in Bombay since he was aged 8 years and that he visits the village once in a year and stays there for a month or two. He stated that six days after his brother's murder, he visited the village. He also stated that when Ramakant obtained a sale deed of the land of Sukhdeyi, he was not present in the village and he was also not in the village when Sukhdeyi instituted the suit. Only 8-9 days after the murder, he came to know about the sale deed and the suit. He stated that Sukhdeyi is alive and has two daughters, who are married. In paragraph 7 of his statement, he clarified that the proceedings in connection with which Sukhdeyi executed power of attorney in favour Saheb Lal were still pending and after the death of Saheb Lal those proceedings were being looked after by her son-in-law, namely, Ram Bali and Ram Kishore. He stated that the suit instituted by Sukhdeyi was decreed ex-parte when Ramakant was in jail. He also stated that Sukhdeyi was in possession of that property. On being questioned whether PW-4 had enquired as to whether Ramakant had put in appearance in those proceedings, he feigned ignorance. He also denied the suggestion that the power of attorney was created after the death of Saheb Lal to add colour to the case.

In paragraph 14 of his statement, he stated that Ramdei's first husband was Mukkhu. He stated that he is not aware that Achhaibar (PW-1) is grand son of Mukkhu. He, however, admitted that Achhaibar (PW-1) is of the same Khandan. He denied the suggestion that because they had grabbed the property of Ramdeyi, there were many enemies of Saheb Lal. He also denied the suggestion that Saheb Lal was accused in multiple criminal cases. He claimed ignorance that Ram Samujh is a teacher in an institution which is not in the village.

16. PW-5 Dr. R.S. Shukla. - The doctor who medically examined PW-1 for his injuries. He proved injury report (Ex. Ka-6). He stated that he examined PW-1 at 3.15 pm on 01.05.1981. He proved the injuries mentioned in the injury report of which details have already been given above. He stated that all the injuries were simple. Injuries 1 and 4 could be from a blast, whereas injuries 2 and 3 could be from hard object. He stated that the injuries were about half a day old and could have been sustained round about midnight of 30.04.1981.

In his cross-examination, he stated that the injuries 2 and 3 could not have been caused on account of a fall but they could be from a lathi or a hard object. He also stated that it is possible that if someone is clothed and bomb particles hit the body, then injury of the nature described as injury no.2 could be caused.

17. PW-6 Dr. R.P. Rastogi, the autopsy surgeon. He proved the autopsy report, which was marked Ex. Ka-7. He stated that he recovered 20 metallic pellets from the body. He accepted the possibility of death having occurred around midnight of 30.04.1981.

In his cross-examination, he stated that he received police papers at 4.25 pm and he conducted the postmortem at 5 pm. He stated that in all the papers that he received, he had put his signature. He stated that at the time when he received the police papers, there was no copy of the FIR with it. He stated that he never received any copy of the FIR. In paragraph 8 of his cross examination, he stated that the injury no.1 is an entry wound, the margin of which is injury no.2 and the same would be possible if someone standing on the right side, near the head, fires a gunshot at the victim while the victim is lying on a cot. In paragraph 9 he categorically stated that both injuries found on the body of the deceased was from a single shot.

18. PW-7 Shyam Lal Tiwari, the constable who prepared Chik FIR and the GD entry of the report. He proved making of the Chik FIR (Ex. Ka-8) and the GD entry (Ex. Ka-9) of the report at its purported time and date.

In his cross-examination, he was confronted with the carbon copy of the Chik prepared of Case Crime No.63 of 1980, under Sections 395/397 IPC. He admitted that that case was registered by Sher Bahadur Singh against Jayantri. This paper was marked Ex. Kha-1. He was also confronted with carbon copy of the Chik prepared in connection with Case Crime No.136 of 1980, under Section 392 IPC, in which the informant was Shyam Lal Maurya and the accused were Jayantri, Saheb Lal, etc. This Chik copy was exhibited as Ex. Kha -2. In paragraph 5, he denied the suggestion that the report of this case was written at the police station in the presence of the I.O. and him. He also denied the suggestion that the deceased was brought on a cot to the police station and that cot was given to Kailash Nath after few days. In paragraph 6, he denied the suggestion that the first information report was lodged on 02.05.1981 after obtaining the autopsy report. He also denied the suggestion that the general diary of the police station was kept vacant to fill up details of this case. He admitted that except for making the Chik report and the GD entry of the written report, he has not prepared any other paper of this case.

19. PW-8 Rajnath Tripathi - Investigating Officer. He stated that after registration of the case, he took over investigation. At 4 am, he arrived at the spot. On account of darkness, he could not hold inquest proceedings till sun rise. He enquired from the witnesses, namely, Rai Sahab, Hanuman Prasad and Ramdei, who were present at the spot. At sun rise, he inspected the body and the spot and the inquest proceedings, under his direction, were conducted by S.I. T.M. Tiwari. He proved the signature of T.M. Tiwari on the inquest report (Ex. He stated that he lifted a portion of the bloodstained wheat bushel where the deceased Saheb Lal allegedly fell after being hit by gun shot. He proved the recovery memo which was marked Ex. Ka-17. That part of wheat bushel was also produced, which was marked material Ex.-1. He also proved recovery of ash of burnt Arhar which was marked as Ex. Ka-18 and the burnt ash was produced which was marked material Ex.-2. He proved recovery of particles of bomb and one empty cartridge K.F. Special (12 bore) of which the seizure memo was exhibited as Ex. Ka-19. The articles seized were produced and were marked as material Ex.-3 and 4. He proved recovery of the bed spread over which the body was laid. Seizure memo of which was exhibited as Ex. Ka-20. The bed spread was produced as material Ex. 5. He stated that after recording the statement of the inquest witnesses, he made efforts to arrest the accused and he arrested Ramakant Dubey near Janghai. PW-8 stated that on 02.05.1982, he received the medical examination paper of Ram Achhaibar as also the clothes, etc worn by the deceased at the time when he was killed including the pellets recovered from his body. The clothes and pellets were produced as material Ex. 6 and 7, respectively. He stated that he conducted search operations of the house of accused Sher Bahadur and Ram Samujh but nothing incriminating could be recovered. He proved the search memos of the two houses which were marked Ex. Ka.-21 and Ka.-22, respectively. He stated that, thereafter, he was transferred from the police station concerned and the investigation of that case was taken over by Gyan Prakash Mishra, thereafter, by Ram Chandra Yadav and, thereafter, by Ram Nagina Singh (each one of them not examined). He also stated that during investigation accused Sher Bahadur Singh had surrendered in court, whereas proceedings under Sections 82/83 CrPC had to be drawn against the accused Ram Samujh and coercive steps were also taken to secure his arrest. He proved the various steps taken by Ram Chandra Yadav to arrest Ram Samujh, which were marked as Ex. Ka.-23 to Ka-26. He also proved submission of charge sheet against Ramakant and Sher Bahadur by investigating officer Gyan Prakash Mishra by identifying his signature, which was exhibited as Ex. Ka-27. He also proved the submission of charge sheet in abscondence against Ram Samujh by I.O. Ram Chandra Yadav, which was exhibited as Ex. Ka-28.

In his cross-examination, he stated that at the time of lodging the report two other men had also come with the injured (i.e. informant) but he was not aware as to how many others were standing outside. He denied the suggestion that when the report was submitted the night had passed and it was dawn. On being confronted with the statement in the report "आज बीती रात", he stated that when he received the report, the night had not passed. He stated he is aware that term "बीती रात" refers to the night that had passed. Suggestion was put to him that the contents of the FIR suggested that it was scribed at the police station and, therefore, there could have been a correction in the words used in the FIR. To this suggestion, PW-8 responded by saying that he has no right to change the contents of a written report. He stated that when he left the police station, it was dark. He had left the police station with panchayatnama register, forms concerning it and case diary and no other paper. He stated that from the police station the distance of Bankat Gaon is a kilometer and a half and from Bankat, Bhatahar is about another kilometer. In respect of Asha Ram, the witness to the inquest, being a resident of Bankat or Bhatahar, he could not tell as to of which village he was a resident. He also denied the suggestion that Asha Ram had been visiting the police station regularly. He denied the suggestion that Asha Ram had arrived at the spot with the police. He stated that when he arrived at the spot, lantern was lit but he did not notice any other source of light. He stated that whatever he had written there, was in the light of lantern or dibbi (kerosene lamp). He stated that the burnt ash was found 30 yards away, towards north, of the pumping set. He stated that he could not ascertain the quantity of ash. He did not notice any wood piece. He stated that there must be around 10-15 bushels of un-burnt Arhar but he did not mention that in any of his papers. He stated that the owner of that Arhar, namely, Kedar, had met him but he had not disclosed about the loss which he had suffered, therefore, there was no specific inquiry in that regard. He admitted that in such matters where crop is burnt, then Section 435 IPC can be put as a charge. He stated that since he was investigating a murder case, he did not investigate into that aspect. He stated that when he arrived at the spot, he found the body on a cot and not on the ground. He stated that there was no blood on the cot and therefore the cot was not seized. He stated that he also did not notice whether the cot was big enough to accommodate two men. He denied the suggestion that because the cot was not big enough to accommodate two men, he deliberately did not seize the same. He denied the suggestion that the cot had been taken to the police and was brought back later. He stated that except for submitting the charge sheet, the entire exercise of that case was conducted by him.

PW-8 described the pumping station by stating that there were two rooms there, both had common exit.

In respect of site plan, PW-8 stated that if one had slept at "B' spot, he would not be able to see 'T' spot though he may be able to see 'A' spot. He stated that at spot 'B' he was not shown any rope with which Hanuman Prasad was tied. He stated that no such rope was taken by him into custody, though, during investigation, he was told that Hanuman Prasad was tied on a cot but that may not have been mentioned in the case diary. He stated that about 150 yards towards south there is Harijan abadi as well as abadi of Lohar community but he did not enquire from them in respect of the incident. In paragraph 31, he stated that during investigation he could not find report of any incident that might have occurred in last six months between accused Sher Bahadur and the deceased or his family, generating ill-will between them. In paragraph 32 of his statement, he stated that he is not aware as to when the first parcha of the case was received in the office of Superintendent of Police. He stated that in the first parcha of the case, there is no date mentioned below the signature of the Circle Officer. Then, he stated that in the first parcha the receiving at the S.P. office is dated 2.6.81 and the second parcha also recites 2.6.81. Third and fourth parcha also recite date of receiving at S.P. office as 2.6.81, whereas, the fifth parcha recites the date 16.6.81. He denied the suggestion that he filled parcha nos.1, 2, 3 and 4 on 01.06.1981 and produced it in the S.P. office on 02.06.1981. He stated that on 02.05.1981, he received the postmortem report and then he came to know that there were two gun shot injuries. He denied the suggestion that after getting the result of post mortem, the report was got prepared at the police station. He stated that he does not know as to how the body was taken from the village. He stated that in the site plan which he prepared he did not show the wheat bushel that was brought by Achhaibar for threshing at the spot. He also stated that Achhaibar (PW-1) did not disclose to him that in the village electricity comes in the night and that eight men with torches had arrived and that Ramakant was empty handed and that the gun shot was fired from a gun. In respect of the statement made by Hanuman Prasad, during investigation, he admitted that during investigation Hanuman Prasad had stated that there was no electricity and that he had fallen asleep. He stated that Hanuman Prasad had not stated that he was on the verge of sleeping and had only covered his face with quilt. PW-8 also stated that Hanuman Prasad stated that Ramdei was sleeping in front of the pumping set. He stated that Hanuman Prasad had also stated that few men had come and had tied him. In paragraph 38 of his statement, PW-8 stated that Sher Bahadur Singh is a man of status, having tractor and holdings. He denied the suggestion that the GD was kept vacant at the police station and the accused were implicated falsely.

20. The incriminating circumstances appearing in the prosecution evidence were put to the accused-appellant. They denied the incriminating circumstances and claimed that they have been falsely implicated out of enmity. It was also stated that the informant and the prosecution witnesses of fact were close associates of each other and were telling lies. What is important to notice here is that an important circumstance relating to adoption of coercive processes to apprehend the surviving accused-appellant because of his alleged abscondence, as it appeared in the testimony of PW-8, was not put to the surviving appellant Ram Samujh while recording his statement under section 313 CrPC.

TRIAL COURT FINDINGS

21. The trial court found the occurrence duly proved by ocular account as well as material collected during investigation; and that PW-1, who was an injured witness and with whom the accused persons had no proven enmity, appeared wholly reliable. Accordingly, it convicted the accused appellants.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE SURVIVING APPELLANT

22. The learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the deceased was a criminal and there were criminal cases of serious offences registered against him as is clear from Ex. Kha-1 and Ex. Kha-2. The motive for the crime set out against the accused is that Sukhdevi had instituted a suit to cancel sale deed against Rama Kant (non-surviving appellant) and to pursue the suit, the deceased Saheb Lal was given a power of attorney. It is submitted that this motive by itself is flimsy because how can a civil proceeding terminate by killing of an attorney. Sher Bahadur (non-surviving accused) was implicated because he had lodged a case against Jayantri (brother of the deceased), Saheb Lal (deceased) and others under section 395/ 397 IPC; whereas, Ram Samujh (surviving appellant) was implicated because he was a teacher in an institution of which, Sher Bahadur's father, Jokhan Singh was a manager. Thus, there was a strong reason to settle a score by utilising a night incident, where none could be noticed, to implicate persons with whom the victim party had enmity whereas, there was no strong reason for the accused, who were of different families, to join hand with each other as to form an unlawful assembly and participate in the crime.

23. It is submitted that as the identity of the miscreants could not be fixed, due to darkness, by guess-work, may be suspicion or ill-motive, three accused, out of eight suspects, were named by lodging an ante-timed FIR. To demonstrate that the FIR was ante-timed, following circumstances were highlighted:-

(i) The written report lodged at 1.30 am, in respect of an incident that allegedly occurred at about midnight, opens with the words "आज बीती रात" which suggests that it was lodged after dawn. Being a written report, it is expected for the scribe to be careful for the choice of words used therefore, when a phrase like "आज बीती रात" is used it means that the report is scribed after dawn and not on or about midnight.

(ii) From the statement of PW-8 it is clear that when he left the police station to go to the spot he did not carry with him copy of Chik Report and GD Entry of its registration. Further, the inquest report though mentions the name of the person from whom information with regard to death of the deceased was received but it does not bear the case details, which means that by the time the inquest report was prepared, the FIR had not come into existence. This is corroborated by the circumstance that neither the FIR copy nor GD Entry copy are entered in the inquest report as documents accompanying inquest report to conduct autopsy.

(iii) From the challan lash (Ex. Ka-13) it appears the body reached the police headquarters, 50 kilometer away from the spot, at 14.35 hours, when, as per the statement of PW-3, the body was handed over to him at 8 am. Importantly, PW-3 stated that the distance which he covered should have been covered in two hours. According to PW-3, the body was taken in a jeep. If he had taken the body at 8 am in the morning, the body would have reached district police head quarters by 10 am or so but here it took them six hours 35 minutes. That apart, as per entry in Ex. Ka-13, the police papers were received by autopsy surgeon at 4.25 pm whereas body was received at 4.55 pm and, most interestingly, according to the doctor (PW-6) he did not receive copy of the FIR. All of this would suggest that the FIR was not lodged by then. It is therefore clearly proved that the FIR is ante-timed.

(iv) Another circumstance which is clinching on this issue is that the CD parcha nos.1, 2, 3 and 4 were all received in the office of Superintendent of Police on 02.06.1981 which is suggestive of the fact that there was no prompt reporting of the case to the supervising authority inasmuch as the police papers were being prepared at leisure. The very fact that the investigating officer was changed thrice would also suggest that the investigation was being carried out with ulterior motive and, therefore, not only the FIR was ante-timed but evidence was fabricated.

24. In respect of reliability of the ocular account of PW-1, it was submitted that PW-1 might have received injuries but all his injuries are on his back and leg while he was running. Admittedly, he neither recognised the person who fired at the deceased nor noticed the surviving appellant hurling a bomb at him. When the bomb was thrown and the gunshots were fired there was total darkness. What is important is that through Ramdei (second wife of Raghunath, who is brother of Yadunath i.e. father of the deceased Saheb Lal) PW-1 is related to the deceased. PW-1 admitted that he belongs to the same Khandaan. Thus, he is a partisan witness and interested in the prosecution of the accused for the reasons noticed above. Further, he improves upon the FIR to introduce torch flashes at the scene of occurrence when, otherwise, the FIR is silent in that regard. Not only that he also improves upon the FIR by specifying that the fire arm injury received by the deceased was from a shot fired from a gun and not from a country made pistol. Further, the ocular account is in respect of two gun shots fired upon the deceased whereas the autopsy report suggests that it is a case of single gun shot. Moreover, according to the doctor, the gun shot injury suggested that the shot was fired at the deceased whilst the deceased was lying and the shot was fired by a person who would have been standing on the right side of the head of the deceased. The ocular account does not match with this medical evidence. Moreover, according to ocular evidence two shots were fired. First, when the deceased stood up from the cot and was in a standing position and when, after the first shot, the injured (the deceased Saheb Lal) fell on the wheat bushel, the second shot was fired which struck him on right side abdomen. This account being at variance with autopsy report clearly suggests that nothing was witnessed except that unknown assailants came and fired and threw bomb for whatever reason it might be.

25. In respect of reliability of PW-2, it is submitted that he is also a partisan witness being elder brother of the son in law of the victim's family and, importantly, is a chance witness who arrived that very day. Further, his statement that he was tied on a cot is not corroborated by seizure of any chord and who tied him is not disclosed by him. Importantly, from the site plan, it appears, he was lying on a cot at the other side of the pumping set room and from there he could not have noticed the assailants. Otherwise also, he speaks of two gun shots fired at the deceased which is in conflict with medical evidence.

26. That the I.O. made no effort to connect the empty 12 bore cartridge recovered from the spot with the licensed gun of the surviving appellant Ram Samujh; and the best evidence, namely, Rai Sahab, who was sleeping with the deceased in the same cot, has been withheld.

27. Lastly, it was submitted that all the accused have been prosecuted with the aid of Section 149 IPC. Though, it is alleged that there were eight persons but neither their identity has been confirmed nor it has been established beyond reasonable doubt that they shared a common object and constituted an unlawful assembly. It is submitted that as per the prosecution testimony those eight persons did not immediately launch an attack. Rather, as per ocular account, they entered into some kind of talks and, thereafter, fired a shot at the deceased. Who fired the shot is not disclosed and there is no statement that there was an exhortation to finish off the victim or to fire shots for any particular purpose. Under the circumstances, till the first shot was fired, there was no unlawful assembly. Otherwise also, according to the prosecution evidence those eight men were returning from a program (Birha - recital of folk stories). Under these circumstances even if those persons were allegedly carrying guns that, by itself, would not be sufficient to assume that they formed an unlawful assembly as the weapon could be for their own protection in the night. Further, after the shot was fired, it is not the case that all eight were moving together. Rather, the evidence is in respect of 3-4 persons tying PW-2 and of giving a chase to PW-1. Consequently, there was hardly any evidence to indicate that 5 or more persons formed an unlawful assembly with a common object. Hence, in any view of the matter, conviction with the aid of Section 149 IPC is not at all justified. It has thus been prayed that the judgment and order of the trial court which fails to take into consideration all these relevant aspects be set aside and the accused-appellant Ram Samujh (the only surviving appellant) be acquitted.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE STATE

28. Per Contra, on behalf of the State it was argued that though there might be enmity between the parties but that by itself is not a ground to doubt the prosecution case more so, because the prosecution case is based on direct evidence. It has been submitted that it is proved on record that there were eight men, who were armed, and they had arrived together and had opened fire at the pumping station of Yadunath, at about midnight, killing one and injuring another by hurling a bomb. Therefore, it can easily be inferred that they were part of an unlawful assembly. Moreover, when they arrive as a group, variously armed with deadly weapons, the members of that unlawful assembly could be imputed knowledge that any such offence as has been committed was likely to occur in prosecution of that object. It was submitted that PW-4 has also proved the motive for the crime and even assuming that the prosecution evidence is not specific in respect of who inflicted gun shot injury but as it is specific that the three accused, who have been put on trial, were part of that unlawful assembly comprising of eight men, the conviction of the accused appellant with the aid of section 149 IPC is justified. In respect of the FIR being ante-timed, learned AGA pointed out that non mention of case crime number in inquest report is not a clinching circumstance to assume that the FIR was ante-timed because there is no column in the form to mention those details. Moreover, the inquest report did disclose the name of the informant and the time at which the information was given. Hence, on that ground, the first information report cannot be said to be ante-timed. Further, a misstatement in the FIR with respect to "आज बीती रात" may be on account of change of date, post midnight, when the report was lodged therefore, it has no bearing on the issue. In respect of the delay in taking the body for autopsy, the learned AGA pointed out that the said delay by itself is not indicative that the FIR was not in existence because there may be various reasons for the delay. In respect of not forwarding copy of FIR and GD Entry thereof, the learned AGA submitted that it is a matter of practice but not a requirement of law to forward copy of the FIR to the autopsy surgeon therefore, on this ground it cannot be assumed that the FIR was ante-timed. He, therefore, submits that this is a case where prompt report was lodged.

29. In respect of the ocular account being in conflict with medical evidence, the learned AGA submitted that the witnesses though spoke about two gun shots but whether the two shots hit or only one shot hit the deceased was not possible to notice in the darkness of night therefore, the prosecution story cannot be discarded merely on that ground. Hence, there is no such discrepancy between the ocular account and the medical evidence as to render the ocular account completely unacceptable.

30. In respect of the source of light, learned AGA submitted that that the source of light were torches and the fire light generated on burning of Arhar crop which is confirmed by recovery of ash from the spot. It has thus been submitted that as the prosecution story flows from an injured witness whose presence cannot be doubted, there is a ring of truth about it and is fully supported by medical evidence as well as material collected during investigation therefore, the conviction recorded by the trial court calls for no interference.

31. Having noticed the rival submissions and the entire prosecution evidence, before proceeding further, it would be apposite to observe that the instant case is a case where the occurrence is of midnight. Admittedly, there was no electric power supply when the incident occurred and it is not the prosecution case that there were lanterns lit or there existed any other source of light except the flash of torches brought by those eight men (i.e. the accused) and the light of fire, which came, later, after the gunshots were fired and bombs were hurled, due to burning of Arhar crop. In this background, out of those eight men, naming only three, who, though, have enmity with the informant side for different reasons but are not of the same family or group as to associate with each other, particularly, in that darkness of night, being men of stature with property and one of them (i.e. the surviving appellant) a teacher, leaves us to ponder whether it is a case where the informant party has exploited the situation of an occurrence to outwit its opponents. No doubt, motives do not have much significance where the prosecution case is based on ocular account but where the circumstances are such that due to darkness of night it might be difficult to identify a person whereas, strangely, the witnesses identify only those with whom they have enmity, by itself, is a reason for us to be circumspect while evaluating the prosecution testimony.

32. In addition to above, we would be dealing with a case where the witnesses are of the same family which had been in litigation with the accused side except the surviving appellant Ram Samujh. Therefore, it is a case where we have to deal with testimony of an interested witness/partisan witness. In that context, before we proceed to weigh the testimony of the prosecution witnesses, it would be apposite to notice few decisions as to how an interested witness testimony is to be evaluated. It is well settled that where the prosecution story finds support from interested or highly inimical witnesses, a degree of caution is required. In Hari Obula Reddy v. State of A.P., (1981) 3 SCC 675, a three-judge Bench of the Supreme Court, with regard to the nature of caution required while assessing the testimony of an interested witness, in paragraph 13 of the judgment, observed as follows:

"..... it is well settled that interested evidence is not necessarily unreliable evidence. Even partisanship by itself is not a valid ground for discrediting or rejecting sworn testimony. Nor can it be laid down as an invariable rule that interested evidence can never form the basis of conviction unless corroborated to a material extent in material particulars by independent evidence. All that is necessary is that the evidence of interested witnesses should be subjected to careful scrutiny and accepted with caution. If on such scrutiny, the interested testimony is found to be intrinsically reliable or inherently probable, it may, by itself, be sufficient, in the circumstances of the particular case, to base a conviction thereon. Although in the matter of appreciation of evidence, no hard and fast rule can be laid down, yet, in most cases, in evaluating the evidence of an interested or even a partisan witness, it is useful as a first step to focus attention on the question, whether the presence of the witness at the scene of the crime at the material time was probable. If so, whether the substratum of the story narrated by the witness, being consistent with the other evidence on record, the natural course of human events, the surrounding circumstances and inherent probabilities of the case, is such which will carry conviction with a prudent person. If the answer to these questions be in the affirmative, and the evidence of the witness appears to the court to be almost flawless, and free from suspicion, it may accept it, without seeking corroboration from any other source. Since perfection in this imperfect world is seldom to be found, and the evidence of a witness, more so of an interested witness, is generally fringed with embellishment and exaggerations, however true in the main, the court may look for some assurance, the nature and extent of which will vary according to the circumstances of the particular case, from independent evidence, circumstantial or direct, before finding the accused guilty on the basis of his interested testimony. We may again emphasise that these are only broad guidelines which may often be useful in assessing interested testimony, and are not iron-cased rules uniformly applicable in all situations." Emphasis Supplied 33. In Jalpat Rai v. State of Haryana, (2011) 14 SCC 208, after reiterating the general principles as noticed above, in paragraph 42 of the judgment, the Supreme Court cautioned the courts of the stark reality that where there is rivalry, hostility and enmity there is a tendency to over implicate and distort the true version against the person(s) with whom there is rivalry, hostility and enmity. In that context, it was observed as follows:

"42..... But it is a reality of life, albeit unfortunate and sad, that human failing tends to exaggerate, over implicate and distort the true version against the person(s) with whom there is rivalry, hostility and enmity. Cases are not unknown where an entire family is roped in due to enmity and simmering feelings although one or only few members of that family may be involved in the crime.

Prior to that, in paragraph 41 of the judgment, in respect of the mode to be adopted by the court while assessing the worth of an interested witness' testimony, the Supreme Court observed:

"41.....To find out the intrinsic worth of these witnesses, it is appropriate to test their trustworthiness and credibility in light of the collateral and surrounding circumstances as well as the probabilities and in conjunction with all other facts brought out on record."

34. In Lakshman Prasad V. State of Bihar, 1981 (Supp) SCC 22, in paragraph 3, the Supreme Court had observed that mere congruity and consistency are not the sole test of truth. It was also observed there that sometimes even falsehood is given an adroit appearance of truth, so that truth disappears and falsehood comes on the surface.

35. The law is thus clear that though testimony of an interested witness can alone form the basis of conviction but before its acceptance the court must satisfy itself whether it is free from suspicion, embellishment and exaggeration and whether the substratum of the story narrated by the witness is consistent with the other evidence on record, the natural course of human events, the surrounding circumstances and inherent probabilities of the case and is such, which will carry conviction with a prudent person.

36. Having noticed the law in respect of the caution to be exercised while assessing an interested witness' testimony, we shall now notice few decisions with regard to the relevance of motive. In Alagupandi v. State of T.N., (2012) 10 SCC 451 (see para 29) it was observed that though existence of a motive for committing a crime is not an absolute requirement of law but is a relevant factor which is to be taken into consideration by the courts for assistance in analysing the prosecution evidence and determining the guilt of the accused. In Badam Singh v. State of M.P., (2003) 12 SCC 792, the apex court, upon finding that the prosecution evidence was suspect and the deceased was a history sheeter and, therefore, could have had multiple enemies, whereas the prosecution had failed to prove motive against the accused put on trial, while giving benefit of doubt to the accused, in para 20 of the judgment, as reported, observed: "....Even though the existence of motive loses significance when there is reliable ocular testimony, in a case where the ocular testimony appears to be suspect the existence or absence of motive acquires some significance regarding the probability of the prosecution case." Thus, what is clear is that although absence of strong motive may not be fatal to the prosecution case based on ocular evidence but where there is an occasion to suspect the prosecution testimony, motive acquires importance to test the probability of the prosecution case.

37. In the instant case, the motive for the crime is set out in the testimony of PW-4 who is not an eyewitness of the incident. According to him there is a land dispute between Sukhdeyi and Ramakant (non-surviving appellant). Sukhdeyi had executed a power of attorney in favour of Saheb Lal (the deceased) to prosecute her case in respect of cancellation of a sale deed set up by Ramakant as also to contest proceedings before the Settlement Officer of Consolidation in respect of grant of permission for such sale. Thus the motive set out against Ramakant is a civil dispute. As against Sher Bahadur there is a twin motive, one which is set out by the prosecution in the testimony of PW-4 and the other which has been suggested by the defence as a reason for his false implication. The motive set up by the prosecution against Sher Bahadur is a pending civil dispute between Yadunath (father of the deceased) and Satyendra Pratap (son of Sher Bahadur Singh) of which details have come in Ex. Ka-5. Whereas, according to the defence, the reason for false implication of Sher Bahadur is that he had lodged a case against Saheb Lal (the deceased) and Jayantri (brother of Saheb Lal), under sections 395/ 397 IPC, which was demonstrated on record through Ex. Kha-1 proved by PW-7. In so far as Ram Samujh (the surviving appellant) is concerned, the motive as against him is flimsy, which is, that Ram Samujh is a teacher in an institution whose manager, namely, Jokhan Singh, is the father of Sher Bahadur Singh. What is notable here is that though some motive has been attributed against all the accused but there is no indication as to why those three would join hand to launch an attack on Saheb Lal. This does affect the probability of the prosecution case and puts us on guard to carefully scrutinise the prosecution evidence to rule out the possibility of the informant party taking advantage of the situation to settle its score against three differently placed persons at one go. At this stage, we may notice that though there is no direct motive set out against the surviving appellant Ram Samujh for committing the crime but, it has come in the evidence (vide paragraph 11 of PW-1's statement) that Ram Samujh held a licensed gun, therefore, the presence of licensed firearm with him might have been a reason for his implication, either because of strong suspicion or to make him ineffective. But, what is important is that this firearm has not been forensically connected with the crime even though an empty cartridge is stated to have been recovered.

38. At this stage, we may notice that, though, the trial court considered Achhaibar (PW-1) as an independent witness but, on a close scrutiny of the prosecution evidence, it transpires that he is related to Ramdei (i.e. second wife of Raghunath i.e. uncle of Saheb Lal) and, therefore, falls in the same Khandaan to which the victim party belongs. In so far as PW-2 Hanuman Prasad is concerned, he is deceased's sister's Jeth (elder brother in law) therefore, he too, cannot be considered an independent witness. Moreover, PW-2 appears to be a chance witness who belongs to another place and had allegedly arrived that very day by train in the night. He states that he met Rai Sahab, whom he had never met before, at the station and had come with him to the place of occurrence. As we have noticed the background facts, the eyewitnesses do fall in the category of partisan witnesses and, therefore, their testimony would have to be put to stringent tests before acceptance to record conviction.

39. No doubt, PW-1 is a person injured in the incident therefore, his presence at some stage of the incident cannot be doubted. But whether he had been present at the place of occurrence from the very beginning or arrived later or whether the incident occurred in the manner alleged are all issues which will have to be examined to ascertain whether the prosecution has been able to bring home the charge against the accused appellant beyond reasonable doubt. Notably, this is a case which occurred at midnight and at a place where, admittedly, there was no electricity at the time of occurrence and no source of light except the flash of torches, allegedly brought by the accused, and the light generated by fire, post the firing of gunshots and hurling of bomb. Therefore, merely, because PW-1 is a person injured in the incident, his testimony is not to be accepted as gospel truth and would have to be evaluated and assessed in the context of the surrounding facts and circumstances of the case borne out from the evidence brought on record.

40. To appropriately, evaluate the testimony of PW-1, we propose to divide his testimony into multiple parts, which are as follows: (i) PW-1 arrived at the spot at 11 pm or so, with his wheat bushel, for threshing at the pump station of Yadunath (deceased's father); (ii) as there was no electricity, he kept lying in wait for electricity to come; (iii) at that spot, there were Saheb Lal (the deceased) and Rai Sahab on one cot, Hanuma Prasad (PW-2) at some distance, on the other side of the pumping set room, on another cot, Ramdei near the door of the pumping set room in a separate cot and there, PW-1 lay not on a cot but on a Gath (a bushel); (iv) at about midnight, he saw 7 to 8 men flashing their torches and coming towards the spot from west and south; (v) when those men came close, PW-1 asked them as to why they were flashing their torches to which they responded by saying that they were coming after hearing folk stories (Birha); (vi) at this point, Saheb Lal and Rai Saheb stood up from their cot; (vii) as soon as Saheb Lal got up, he was shot from a gun, as a result, Saheb Lal fell on a Gath (bushel), immediately thereafter, another shot was fired from the gun; (viii) thereafter, 3-4 men went towards Hanuman Prasad (PW-2) and tied him to the cot; (ix) in the meantime, as soon as the first shot was fired, Rai Sahab effected his escape; (x) that when the second shot was fired, PW-1 also effected his escape towards north of the pumping set; (xi) that after running 50 paces, when he reached Kedar's field, a bomb was hurled, which exploded near Arhar bushel, resulting in a fire and some splinters also injured him; (xii) that the fire lit the spot and in that light he spotted and identified the three named accused including the surviving appellant and noticed that Sher Bahadur held a Katta (country made pistol), Ram Samujh held a gun whereas, Rama Kant was empty handed; (xiii) thereafter, the accused escaped towards south west and Saheb Lal died on spot and his blood got splattered on the bushel.

41. On a cumulative view of all the above parts of PW-1's testimony, the ocular account rendered by PW-1 is in respect of two stages of the incident. First stage is where there was no light. The second stage is where there was light on account of crop burning. Notably, PW-1 does not say that he could recognise or identify any of the offenders before the area was lit by fire on account of crop burning. No doubt, there is mention of flashes of torch light by the accused but it is not his deposition that he could recognise anyone in those flashes of torch light. Another important aspect is that he does not say that he recognised any one on the basis of his voice. Rather, he stated that when the incident occurred, his initial impression was that dacoits have come. Meaning thereby, that initially he could recognise none. Therefore, what we have to test is whether PW-1 could and did recognise the appellants in the light of fire or the prosecution story is contrived as a figment of imagination, based on strong suspicion, or guess-work, or ill motives.

42. Ordinarily, where there is a prompt reporting of an incident, the possibility of the prosecution story being contrived is remote as there is not much time to deliberate and do guess-work. On record, the FIR is prompt. Therefore, the charge of the defence is that the FIR is ante-timed and has been lodged much after dawn and, probably, after autopsy. We therefore proceed to test whether the FIR is ante-timed. In this regard, at the outset, we may observe that this a case more than forty years old when digital records were a dream. With scientific advancement and records being in digital format it is difficult to canvass that the FIR is ante-timed. But in those old days where there were no digital records, ante-timing and back dating was possible. Consequently, we proceed to test the submissions bearing in mind the year to which this case relates to.

43. To test whether a first information report is ante-timed or not, there are no cut and dried formulae. As a first step in this regard, the court has to check whether the police papers prepared after registration of the first information report are not inconsistent with its existence. Ordinarily, where an inquest is conducted after the murder has been reported, the inquest report bears the case details. In this case, the inquest was, purportedly, carried out by 7 am on 01.05.1981 whereas the first information report was, purportedly, lodged at 01.30 hours of 01.05.1981 yet, it bears no case details. But what is important is that the inquest report recites the name of PW-1 as the person on whose information the inquest commenced. It also mentions the time at which the information was given at the police station, which matches with the time at which the FIR was purportedly lodged. But this recital is not conclusive of the existence of the FIR. The defence would say that the FIR was not in existence rather, a page / slot in the General Diary was reserved for filling the details later. Whereas, the prosecution would say that once receipt of information at 1.30 hrs is noted, and the name of informant appears in the inquest report, it means that the information was received at the police station. Both arguments are based on possibilities. As to what is probable, we would have to probe further on the issue.

44. In this context, we shall examine another submission of the defence counsel. According to the defence counsel, neither the FIR nor the GD Entry of the report accompanied the inquest report or the papers forwarded to the autopsy surgeon for autopsy. Rather, the autopsy surgeon (PW-6) made a categorical statement that he did not receive copy of the FIR with the police papers. The learned AGA submitted that there is no requirement of law to forward the copy of the FIR therefore this is not a conclusive circumstance to indicate that the FIR was not in existence by then. In this regard, we may observe that the Code of Criminal Procedure is silent as to what papers need be forwarded by the I.O. along with his request for autopsy. However, U.P. Police Regulations, which is a compilation of instructions, issued by way of guidelines, vide paragraph 139 provides for the procedure to be observed when a body is sent for post-mortem examination. As per the procedure two forms are necessarily to be filled. One is Form No.13, which is commonly referred to as challan lash and the other is Form 33, which is a request letter addressed to the Civil Surgeon to conduct autopsy of the cadaver. Sub regulation (6) of Regulation 139 states that the investigating officer shall prepare in duplicate a descriptive roll of the body (i.e. commonly referred to as photo nash), containing particulars of identification and injuries that may be distinctly apparent. Paragraph 139 (7) of the UP Police Regulations mandate that Form No.13 must be filled with utmost care. In this Form No.13, the name of the police constable to whom the body is handed over and the time of such handing over has to be meticulously entered. It is also provided in sub regulation (7) of Regulation 139 that the I.O. shall also send information with regard to the cause of death as far as the investigating officer has been able to ascertain. Usually to comply with this requirement it is almost customary to forward the inquest report and sometimes they forward copy of Chik FIR or copy of GD Entry of the FIR, or both. In the instant case, the inquest report bears the signature of the autopsy surgeon suggesting that it was forwarded. But neither the inquest report nor the challan lash - Form 13 reflects the case crime number though it mentions the time of receipt of information/ report. Form 13 discloses that the body was handed over to the constable at 7 am and was received at the police head quarters, which was at a distance of 50 km from the spot, at 14.35 hrs. What is interesting is that the autopsy doctor received the papers at 4.25 pm whereas the body was received at 4.55 pm. Notably, in Form No.33 (Ex. Ka-12) there is an endorsement, marking to the doctor, to conduct autopsy. This endorsement is made at 4.15 pm. However, in our view, nothing much turns on these entries and the papers discussed above, as nothing is shown to us that there exists a statutory requirement to forward the Chik FIR or the GD Entry of the FIR along with the request for autopsy. But what is important here is that the inquest and autopsy related papers do not conclusively indicate that the FIR was in existence at the time of inquest as also at the time when requisition was sent for autopsy. What is also important is that there was delay in the body reaching the district police headquarters for autopsy.

45. At this stage, we may notice another submission of the defence counsel, which is that PW-1 was examined for his injuries by PW-5 at 3.15 pm on 01.05.1981. The injury report (Ex. Ka-6) does not disclose the case details and the Chitthi Majrubi has been suppressed. It was argued that if PW-1 was the informant and had arrived at the police station at 01.30 hrs in an injured condition, what was the reason not to send him for medical examination promptly and to wait till 3.15 pm. It is submitted that this clearly suggests that that night he had not been to the police station to lodge the report. In our view, this does raise a doubt as to whether the report was lodged in the night at 1.30 hrs. However, what clinches the issue for us is an interesting recital in the written report with regard to the time of the incident. The first information report recites "Aaj Beeti Raat", which means the night that had passed. If the night had not passed and it was just about midnight when the report was lodged, what was the occasion to mention what has been quoted above. This, therefore, creates a strong suspicion with regard to the first information report being lodged early morning or may be after the inquest was done. And when we consider this circumstance in conjunction with other circumstances, such as the inquest report not bearing the case details and the statement of the I.O. (PW-8) that after registration of the case he left the police station with no other paper except the panchayatnama register, forms concerning it and the case diary, the suspicion gets fortified, which gets amplified when we notice that the body sent on a Jeep reaches the destination, just 50 km away, in 6 hours 35 minutes. Noticeably, PW-3, the person who carried the body to the mortuary for autopsy, states that he was handed over the body at 8 am and that, in ordinary course, the distance of 50 km could be covered in two hours. But he gives no reason for the delay. All of this raises a strong suspicion that the police papers were under preparation and, therefore, the movement of the body was kept on hold. Be that as it may, once there arises a strong suspicion of the FIR not being registered at the time when it is purported to have been lodged, the benefit of prompt reporting would not accrue to the prosecution. Under these circumstances, the prosecution evidence would have to be evaluated and assessed independently after carefully testing it on all material particulars.

46. Bearing that in mind, we now proceed to assess and evaluate the worth of the ocular account rendered by PW-1 and PW-2. The ocular account is in respect of three overt acts of the accused comprising a group of seven to eight persons. First is with regard to a member of that group firing at the deceased; second is with regard to 3 to 4 members of that group tying PW-2 to cot; and the third is in respect of a member of that group throwing a bomb. All the above three overt acts were done in total darkness as it is not the prosecution case that either of the two eyewitnesses recognised any of the named accused before the Arhar crop caught fire. As per the ocular account, the three named accused could be recognised only when the Arhar crop caught fire. Notably, Arhar crop is not a petroleum product that it would burn instantaneously. It is thus probable that for a large scale burning of the crop to occur, some time must have elapsed inviting attention of fellow villagers who had their Abadi in the vicinity. In such circumstances, the possibility of the accused staying there at the spot and not effecting their escape when the job was done does not appeal to logic unless their intention was to loot or rob, which is not the prosecution case. Notably, the Arhar crop damaged was of Kedar who does not figure in the picture. Further, what is important is that, during cross examination, PW-1 admitted that his brother Bagelu was having a pumping set with a thresher attached to it, near which, PW-1 had his holding, which was just a furlong away. In that context, what was the occasion for PW-1 to come to the spot for threshing. Therefore, the question that arises for consideration is whether PW-1 arrived when the incident was on the go or he was there from the start. At this stage, what is important to note is that PW-1 did not have his cot laid at the spot, rather, according to him, he was lying on a bushel. Bearing in mind that PW-1's brother had a thresher, near which PW-1 had his holding, there appears very little logic for PW-1 to arrive at the spot with his bushel for threshing. Notably, presence of PW-1's bushel at the spot has not been confirmed by the I.O. In these circumstances, the presence of PW-1 since the start of the incident appears doubtful and there is a possibility of him arriving at the spot when there was commotion due to gunshots and it is equally possible that when he may have arrived some miscreant may have thrown a bomb near him. But what we have discussed above, is a mere possibility, which is not sufficient to discard PW-1's testimony because we would have to test the same on the scale of probabilities.

47. When we test the ocular account on the scale of probabilities, the ocular account does not inspire our confidence as to the genesis of the incident, inasmuch as, if eight men had come armed with an object to finish off Saheb Lal why would they enter into a dialogue with PW-1 and tell him that they were returning after hearing folk stories (Birha). Rather, they would, if they held torches enabling them to spot and identify, straight away launch an attack on their target and effect escape. What assumes importance here is that the accused had allegedly entered into a dialogue with PW-1. If it were so, and the named accused had been there, who belong to the same village, they would have been identified by their voice, gait or other distinguishable features and their participation in either firing of gunshots, or tying PW-2 to the cot, or hurling bomb(s), would have been specifically disclosed. But, interestingly, they could be recognised only when the crop started burning. And, most interestingly, when they were recognised, they did nothing. As we have observed earlier that Arhar crop is not a petroleum product as to have a low flash point, there would be some time taken to have a full fledged fire out of it. Therefore, the prosecution story does not inspire our confidence not only as to the genesis of the incident but also leaves a lingering doubt that the incident occurred in some other manner than what has been alleged. Notably, Saheb Lal was himself an accused in two cases and one of them was at the instance of one Shyam Lal Maurya. Thus, the possibility of him having other enemies cannot be ruled out. Another important feature of the case is that neither PW-1 nor PW-2 disclose that they heard accused exhorting each other or making any such utterances from which they could be recognised, or their intention, or object, could be gathered. They were also not able to tell as to who fired the shot at the deceased and who tied PW-2. Yet another feature noticeable in the prosecution testimony is that although 7 to 8 men are stated to have arrived, but participation by five or more persons, at any stage of the occurrence, is not borne out from the prosecution evidence. Noticeably, one man fired two shots, 3-4 persons tied PW-2 and, thereafter, they chased PW-1 and hurled bomb. Thus, it is not clear whether amongst those 7 to 8 men only 3 to 4 were miscreants or the entire bunch of 7 to 8 men were moving as a group comprising an unlawful assembly. At this stage, we may observe that to fasten liability with the aid of section 149 IPC there should be clear evidence of constitution of an unlawful assembly comprising of five or more members. In absence whereof, conviction with the aid of section 149 IPC would not be lawful. No doubt, it is not necessary that all five, or more members, be identified as there could be unidentified persons also as part of that assembly, but where it is not clear that five or more persons were acting as a group and participating with an unlawful common object, assuming the existence of an unlawful assembly merely on the basis of count and conduct of few (less than 5 persons), when some of them might be innocent, it would be extremely unsafe to record conviction of two or three persons with the aid of section 149 IPC on their mere armed presence with no specific overt act ascribed to them. It be noted that in the instant case, there is no evidence that all the 7 to 8 persons were exhorting each other or acting in concert or belonged to a same group or family. Rather, the evidence is that they were returning from a village program (Birha). In such circumstances, few of them carrying weapon for their protection, particularly at night, by itself might not be an incriminating circumstance to assume that all of them held a common unlawful object so as to constitute an unlawful assembly. We are conscious of the law that an inference as to whether a group of persons constitute an unlawful assembly or not can be gauged from the conduct of that group as a whole, but each case turns on its own facts. In the instant case, the incident occurred in the darkness of night. There is no clear and cogent evidence that five or more persons participated at any given stage of the occurrence. Reference in the ocular account is specific to participation by 3 to 4 persons though there is reference of 7 to 8 persons coming with torches. Thus, in our view, the evidence with regard to existence of an unlawful assembly is nebulous and vague.

48. In the case of Ramchandran and others Vs. State of Kerala: (2011) 9 SCC 257, the Apex Court, in respect of determination as to whether an unlawful assembly existed or not, observed as follows:-

"The crucial question for determination in such a case is whether the assembly consisted of five or more persons and whether the said persons entertained one or more of the common objects specified by Section 141. While determining this question, it becomes relevant to consider whether the assembly consisted of some persons which were merely passive witnesses and had joined the assembly as a matter of idle curiosity without intending to entertain the common object of the assembly."

The Court also observed in paragraph 27 of the judgment that where general allegations are made against a large number of persons the court must carefully scrutinise the evidence and hesitate to convict large number of persons if the evidence available on record is vague.

49. In the case of Kuldip Yadav and others Vs. State of Bihar: (2011) 5 SCC 324 the Court had observed that before convicting accused with the aid of Section 149 IPC, the Court must give clear finding regarding nature of common object and that the object was unlawful. In the absence of such finding as also any overt act on the part of the accused persons, mere fact that they were armed would not be sufficient to prove common object. Section 149 creates a specific offence and deals with punishment of that offence. It was observed that whenever the court convicts any person or persons of an offence with the aid of Section 149, a clear finding regarding the common object of the assembly must be given and the evidence discussed must show not only the nature of the common object but also that the object was unlawful.

50. In the instant case, though the prosecution case is to the effect that there were seven to eight persons who had arrived at about midnight with weapons but there is no clear cut evidence that they had arrived with a view to finish off the deceased or as an unlawful assembly having one, or more, of the objects specified in Section 141 IPC. No doubt, an inference can be drawn with regard to existence of an unlawful assembly from the conduct of its members. But, here, what is important is that till the gunshot was fired at Saheb Lal there is nothing to indicate that those seven or eight persons shared a common object. Rather, those seven or eight persons were returning after attending a Birha program. It is not the prosecution evidence that there was no Birha program in the village. Thus, how and why an attack was launched at Saheb Lal required some explanation, which is completely lacking. There is no indication in the prosecution evidence that there were hot words exchanged or utterances made. The prosecution evidence in this regard is completely silent and vague. Notably, when the shot was fired the accused were not recognisable either by their face or by their voice therefore, in that darkness, how could it be gathered that those 7 to 8 men, as a group, were targeting Saheb Lal. Thus, it appears to be a case where the incident occurred in some manner other than what has been alleged by the prosecution and the informant party, who were inimical towards the accused, took advantage of the incident to implicate those with whom they had enmity.

51. To satisfy ourselves further, whether the witnesses could even recognise and identify in that darkness, we propose to test the ocular account with reference to the site plan (Ex. Ka-16) prepared by the I.O. on the basis of the spot inspection. The index of site plan depicts various points by letters, which are as follows: "A" is the spot where the cot of Saheb Lal (the deceased), on which he had slept with Rai Sahab, was located; "B" is the spot where the cot of Hanuman Prasad (PW-2), on which he had slept, was located; "D" is the spot from where blood etc. was lifted and near which the informant had slept; "E" is the spot where one empty cartridge was found; "F" is the spot where the burnt ash of Arhar crop was found; "M" is the spot inside the room where there was an electric motor; and "T" is the spot where thresher machine run with that motor was located.

52. What is noticeable in the site plan is that from point "B" where PW-2 is stated to have been lying, point "A" might not be easily visible as in between there is a built structure i.e. the room of the floor mill /the pumping set. The empty cartridge is found at point "E" and not at point "A" (i.e. the spot where deceased had his cot laid). Point "D" from where the blood has been recovered is next to point "A" and might not be noticeable from point "B" due to darkness as also because of the two rooms in between. The point "F" where the burnt ash of Arhar crop has been found is towards north of points "B" and "E" and is far far away from from points "A" and "D". If we take the site location into account, if at point "B" PW-2 had been tied, it would have been extremely difficult for him to witness the gunshots fired at the deceased at point "A", particularly, in complete darkness, and, similarly, if the Arhar crop was set on fire, the light of that crop may not be sufficient to visualise as to what was happening at point "B". Notably, in the testimony of the I.O. (PW-8), if somebody had slept at point "B", he will not be able to visualise place "T" though, he may be able to see place "A" but this appears to be on guess work because, place "A" and place "T" are adjoining each other and the view might get blocked by the rooms. Most importantly, in paragraph 25 of PW-8's statement, the burnt ash was discovered 30 yards towards north of the pumping set rooms. Interestingly, PW-1 ran 50 yards and then he stopped. From that distance, it appears improbable, if not impossible, for PW-1 to spot the perpetrators of the crime. Notably, the injuries which PW-1 suffered were on his back that is suggestive of him being in a running state when the bomb was hurled. Therefore, he could not even noticed as to who hurled the bomb. In that scenario with his back towards the accused probability of PW-1 recognising the named accused is low. Importantly, the site plan does not disclose as to where the named accused were, when they were spotted by PW-1. Even the location of PW-1 from where he spotted the named accused is not disclosed. What is interesting is that the eye witnesses have not stated that the accused were near the burning Arhar crop or were near the deceased when they were identified.

53. In view of the discussion above, we are of the considered view that the prosecution has not been able to prove its case against the surviving appellant beyond reasonable doubt. The possibility of an attack by dacoits or miscreants in the night on the victim party being taken as an opportunity to implicate those with whom the informant party had enmity appears probable. This probability is lent credence by a circumstance that out of seven or eight persons, the witnesses could identify only three with whom they had enmity and who, interestingly, do not come from one family as to associate with each other to participate in the crime. Further, there appears no commonality of interest in these three identified accused except that they have enmity with the informant party for different reasons. Once that is the position and there is a high probability of the FIR being ante-timed, as discussed above, we have no hesitation to extend the benefit of doubt to the accused appellant.

54. At this stage we may observe that in the prosecution evidence it has come that the surviving appellant held a licensed gun but no effort was there to seize it and connect it with the empty cartridge found on the spot. Further, the evidence brought on record suggests that the investigating officer of the case was changed several times. What was the reason for change of the investigating officers is not known but it does reflect upon the fairness of the investigating officer.

55. For all the reasons above, the appeal is allowed. The judgment and order of the trial court convicting and sentencing the surviving appellant Ram Samujh is set aside. The appellant is acquitted of the charge for which he has been tried and convicted. The appellant Ram Samujh was earlier on bail but his bail bonds were cancelled by order dated 10.03.2022 and non bailable warrants were issued against him. If he has not yet been taken into custody, he is not to be taken in custody, subject to compliance of the provisions of Section 437-A CrPC. But, if he has been taken into custody, he shall be released forthwith, subject to compliance of the provisions of Section 437-A CrPC to the satisfaction of the trial court.

56. Let a copy of this order be forwarded to the court below along with the record for information and compliance.

A. The principles of judicial discipline require that the orders of the higher appellate authorities should be followed unreservedly by the subordinate authorities. The mere fact that the order of the appellate authority is not "acceptable" to the department in itself an objectionable phrase or that is the subject matter of an appeal can furnish no ground for not following it unless its operation has been suspended by a competent court.

B. If there is a stay obtained from a higher forum, the mere fact of filing of an appeal will not entitle the authority to not comply with the order of the Forum.

Order on Writ Petition

3. This writ petition has been filed praying for the following relief:-

"(a) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the order dated 19.03.2022 passed by the respondent revenue rejecting the objections taken by petitioner on the matter concerning "issue" of notice under Section 148 of the Income Tax Act.

(b) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the notice under Section 148 of Income Tax Act, as also the Sanction, authorizing the issuance of such notice, both even dated 31.03.2021; and the connected proceeding for reassessment of Income for A.Y. 2013-14.

(c) That, this Hon'ble Court be pleased to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari, quashing the impugned order of Assessment for A.Y. 2013-14 , dated 29.03.2022, bearing DIN ITBA/AST/S/147/2021-22/1041898744(1), passed by Assessing Officer."

4. On 18.04.2022, this writ petition was heard at length and following order was passed.

1. Heard Shri Abhinav Mehrotra, learned counsel for the petitioner, Shri Gaurav Mahajan, learned Senior Standing Counsel for the respondent nos. 2, 3 and 4 and Shri Arvind Kumar Goswami, learned Central Government Standing Counsel for the respondent no. 1.

2. This writ petition has been filed praying for the following relief:

"(a) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the order dt. 19.03.2002 passed by the respondent revenue rejecting the objections taken by petitioner on the matter concerning "issue" of notice under Section 148 of the Income Tax Act.

(b) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the notice under Section 148 of the Income Tax Act, as also the sanction, authorising the issuance of such notice, both even dt. 31.03.2021; and the connected proceedings for reassessment of income for A.Y. 2013-14."

3. The petitioner has earlier filed Writ Tax No. 171 of 2022 which was disposed of by order dated 10.3.2022 as under:

"Heard Sri Abhinav Mehrotra, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned A.S.G.I. for the Union of India - respondent No.1 and Sri Gaurav Mahajan, learned senior standing counsel for the Income Tax Department - respondent Nos.2 and 3.

All the learned counsels for the parties jointly state that the question of issuance of notice has been decided today by this court in Writ Tax No.78 of 2022 (Daujee Abhushan Bhandar Pvt. Ltd. vs. Union of India and 2 others). They jointly state that since the petitioner has raised objection before the Assessing Authority on the point of issue of notice which is pending disposal before the Assessing Authority, therefore, the Assessing Authority may be directed to decide the objection in accordance with law after considering the judgment in the case of Daujee Abhushan Bhandar Pvt. Ltd. (supra).

In view of the aforesaid, the writ petition is disposed of directing the respondent-authority concerned to decide the objection of the petitioner against the notice under Section 148 of the Act, 1961, in accordance with law on the point of date of issuance of notice."

4. Thereafter, the respondent no. 4 has passed the impugned order in which it observed as under:

"Further, Hon'ble Allahabad High Court has quashed such notices issued u/s 148 on or after 01.04.2021. But the Department has filed SLP before Hon'ble Supreme Court on this issue. Therefore, till the outcome of the issue pending before Hon'ble Court, it cannot be said that the notice is not valid. Therefore, your objections have no force and therefore rejected. Please this may be treated as disposal of your objections."

5. Thus, the aforequoted observation made by the respondent no. 4 in the impugned order dated 19.3.2022, prima facie, appears to be highly contemptuous, whimsical and against all settled principles of propriety and law.

6.Apart from above, the impugned order, prima facie, appears to be misleading inasmuch as in the impugned order, the respondent no. 4 has deliberately not disclosed 'sent time stamp' reports which is always available with the department. That apart, as per reports being filed before this Court by means of counter affidavits and to be precise in Writ Tax No. 211 of 2022, there is 'Income Tax Business Application Technical Team' which used to give the date and time of (i) generation of notice, (ii) digital signing in ITBA by AO, and (iii) triggering of e-mail. These details are also totally lacking in the impugned order.

7. Under the circumstances, we direct the respondent no. 4 to file a personal affidavit of an officer of the Centre not below the rank of Additional Commissioner of Income Tax to explain the things as noted above and file copies of 'sent time stamp' and reports of Income Tax Business Application Technical Team, within three days.

8. Put up as a fresh case on 21.4.2022 at 10:00 AM.

(emphasis supplied by us)

5. On 21.04.2022, matter was again heard and following order was passed, as under"-

"1. Heard learned counsels for the parties.

2. Shri Gaurav Mahajan, learned Senior Standing Counsel for the respondent-Income Tax Department prays for further time to enable the respondent no.4 to file his personal affidavit in compliance to the order dated 18.04.2022.

3. In our order dated 18.04.2022, we have noted the facts as well as the conduct of the respondents that they have clearly denied to obey the final judgment of this Court. That apart, the respondents have also attempted to mislead the Court by suppressing material facts. Despite time granted, personal affidavit is not being filed by the respondent no.4.

4. Instances of not obeying orders of this Court by the respondent-Income Tax authorities, are increasing day-by-day.

5. In view of the aforesaid, last opportunity is afforded to the respondent no.4 to file his personal affidavit in compliance of the order dated 18.04.2022 before the next date fixed subject to payment of cost of Rs.5000/- which shall be deposited with the High Court Legal Services Committee, High Court, Allahabad.

Put up as a fresh case for further hearing on 25.04.2022 at 10:00 a.m."

6. Sri Gaurav Mahajan, learned counsel for the respondents has filed a print out of online deposit of Rs. 5,000/- as cost with the High Court Legal Services Committee, High Court Allahabad along with a receipt i.e. the amount of cost imposed by means of the previous order dated 21.04.2022.

7. Today, a short counter affidavit dated 24.04.2022 has been filed by the learned Senior Standing Counsel on behalf of the respondent nos. 2,3 and 4. In paragraph no. 3,5,6,7,8 and 9 of the aforesaid short counter affidavit filed on behalf of the respondent no.2,3 and 4, it has been stated as under:-

3. That at the very outset it is most humbly and respectfully submitted that the deponent personally and on behalf of the officers of the ReFAC(AU) tenders an unconditional apology for the language used in the order dated 19.03.2022 by which supplementary/additional objection of the petitioner were decided.

Neither the deponent nor the officers of the Assessment Unit had any intention to disobey/disregard the judgment of this Hon'ble Court in the case of Ashok Kumar Agarwal and have the highest regard to the judgments of the Hon'ble Court.

5. That it is most respectfully submits that FAO who may be sitting in any corner of the Country for the Faceless Assessment Scheme is not aware of the technical information about date and stamp of issue of notice, dispatch of notice or service of notice. The FAO receives a digitally maintained Order Sheet which automatically got generated on the date of issuance of the notice u/s 148 of the Act. The digitally generated order sheet mentions the date wise, actions/descriptions, from user to user, remarks etc. A photocopy of the order sheet maintained digitally is enclosed herewith and marked as Annexure No. SCA-1.

6. That the information available with FAO was that the notice under 148 of the Act was issued by Jurisdictional assessing Officer on 31-03-2021 and that the notice u/s 148 was placed on the e filing portal of the assessee on 31-03-2021. The rest of information with regard to issuance of notice is now provided by the ITBA /JAO in response to the High Court Order vide his email dated 23-04-22 sent to office of the deponent.

7. That in the present case the Technical Team of ITBA provided the following details to the JAO through email on 22.04.2022 and the same was also shared with the office of the deponent. The reply received from the Technical Team of ITBA is as follows :-

Date & time of Generation of Notice u/s 148 in ITBA system by AO:

3/31/2021 9:01:29 PM

Date & time of Digital signing (DSC) in ITBA by AO :

3/31/2021 9:51:46 PM

Date &time of triggering of email automatedly by ITBA technical servers :

4/01/2021 5:30:08 AM

Date & time of delivery of email as per data in ITBA technical servers : 4/01/2021 5:30:10 AM

A photocopy of the email from JAO is enclosed herewith and marked as Annexure No. SCA-2.

8. That it is most respectfully submitted that there was no concealment on the part of FAO or ReFAC(AU) as such there was no attempt to misiead nor was there any intention to mislead. That it is most respectfully submitted that on the order dated 19.03.2022 was passed keeping in mind the directions of Hon'ble Court vide order dated 10.03.2022 "to decide the objection of the petitioner against the notice under Section 148 of the Act, 1961, in accordance with law on the point of date of issuance of notice" and as per the details available that the notice was issued on 31.03.2021, the FAO was under bonafide belief that the notice been duly reflected on the portal of the assessee on 31.03.2021. It is further most respectfully submitted that the details of time of issuing the notice and digitally signing have now been received from JAO/ITBA team.

9. That the deponent has examined the orders and letters issued by FAO and it is undeniable that the choice of words and language used by FAO is unacceptable. The FAO has represented before the deponent that he cannot even dream to think of disobeying or showing disregard to the orders of the Court. The only purpose was to communicate and convey to the assessee the fact that the SLP of the Department was pending before the Hon'ble Supreme Court and on the date of this affidavit the judgment has been reserved by the Hon'ble Supreme Court."

8. From the averments made by the respondent nos. 2,3 and 4 in the aforesaid short counter affidavit, it is evident that the notice under Section 148 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 for the Assessment Year 2013-14 was issued to the petitioner on 01.04.2021, whereas the limitation of issuing the notice expired on 31.03.2021. Thus notice under Section 148 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 was time barred and consequently it was without jurisdiction.

9. Since large number of writ petitions are being filed in which the date and time of issuance of notice under Section 148 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 are in issue, and, importantly, those notices are being issued by e-mail, it is directed that the respondent no. 1 shall ensure that the date and time of triggering of e-mail for issuing notices and orders are reflected in the online portal relating to the concerned assessees.

10. Facts of the case as discussed above, particularly the observations made by the respondent no.4 in the last line of the impugned order dated 19.03.2022 noticed by us in our order dated 18.04.2022 quoted in paragraph 4 above clearly indicates that the order dated 19.02.2022 has been passed by the respondents in breach of judicial discipline and propriety causing harassment to the petitioner/assessee on account of the failure to give effect to the order of this Court dated 10.03.2022 in Writ Tax No. 171 of 2022 which was filed by the petitioner. We propose to comment on the conduct of the officer concerned but the respondents have tendered unconditional apology by filing a short counter affidavit dated 22.04.2022, as noted in para 7 above, therefore, in view of the unconditional apology tendered by the deponent Sri Pawan Kumar Sharma, Additional Commissioner of Income Tax in the aforesaid short counter affidavit, we do not propose to proceed against the respondent no.4 by referring the matter for contempt. However, we direct the respondents to be careful in future and must have due regard to the judgments and orders of this Court, keeping in mind the settled principal of judicial propriety and discipline.

Breach of Judicial Discipline-Misconduct-Contemptuous.

11. In the case of Union of India Vs. Kamlakshmi Finance Corpn. Ltd. 1992 (Suppl) SC-C 443 (para 6) Hon'ble Supreme Court upheld the observation of Hon'ble High Court on the conduct of an Assistant Collector and the harassment to the assessee caused by the failure of these officers to give effect to the order of authorities higher to them in the appellate hierarchy and has held as under:

"6. Sri Reddy is perhaps right in saying that the officers were not actuated by any mala fides in passing the impugned orders. They perhaps genuinely felt that the claim of the assessee was not tenable and that, if it was accepted, the Revenue would suffer. But what Sri Reddy overlooks is that we are not concerned here with the correctness or otherwise of their conclusion or of any factual mala fides but with the fact that the officers, in reaching their conclusion, by-passed two appellate orders in regard to the same issue which were placed before them, one of the Collector (Appeals) and the other of the Tribunal. The High Court has, in our view, rightly criticised this conduct of the Assistant Collectors and the harassment to the assessee caused by the failure of these officers to give effect to the orders of authorities higher to them in the appellate hierarchy. It cannot be too vehemently emphasised that it is of utmost importance that, in disposing of the quasi-judicial issues before them, revenue officers are bound by the decisions of the appellate authorities. The order of the Appellate Collector is binding on the Assistant Collectors working within his jurisdiction and the order of the Tribunal is binding upon the Assistant Collectors and the Appellate Collectors who function under the jurisdiction of the Tribunal. The principles of judicial discipline require that the orders of the higher appellate authorities should be followed unreservedly by the subordinate authorities. The mere fact that the order of the appellate authority is not "acceptable" to the department -- in itself an objectionable phrase -- and is the subject matter of an appeal can furnish no ground for not following it unless its operation has been suspended by a competent court. If this healthy rule is not followed, the result will only be undue harassment to assessees and chaos in administration of tax laws."

12. In the case of Official Liquidator Versus Dayanand & Ors. (2008) 10 SCC (para 90) Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that "....it must be remembered that predictability and certainty is an important hallmark of judicial jurisprudence developed in this country in last six decades...."

13. In the case of Kishore Samrite versus State of U.P. and others 2013 (2) SCC 398 (para 29), Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:-

"29. Judicial discipline and propriety are the two significant facets of administration of justice*. Every court is obliged to adhere to these principles to ensure hierarchical discipline on the one hand and proper dispensation of justice on the other. Settled canons of law prescribe adherence to the rule of law with due regard to the prescribed procedures. Violation thereof may not always result in invalidation of the judicial action but normally it may cast a shadow of improper exercise of judicial discretion."*

14. In the case of Bishnu Ram Borah and another Vs. Parag Saikia and others 1984 (2) SCC 488 (para 11), Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under:-

"11. It is regrettable that the Board of Revenue failed to realize that like any other subordinate tribunal, it was subject to the writ jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution. Just as the judgments and orders of the Supreme Court have to be faithfully obeyed and carried out throughout the territory of India under Article 142 of the Constitution, so should be the judgments and orders of the High Court by all inferior courts and tribunals subject to their supervisory jurisdiction within the State under Article 226 and 227 of the Constitution*. We cannot but deprecate the action of the Board of Revenue in refusing to carry out direction of the Hon'ble High Court.....".*

15. In the case of Bhopal Suger Industries Ltd. 16. Law laid down in the aforesaid judgments has been reiterated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Commissioner of Income Tax versus Ralson Industries Ltd 2007 (2) SCC 326 (para 9).

17. In the case of Union of India Versus Namit Sharma 2013 (1) SCC 745 (para 108.14) Hon'ble Supreme Court explained the precedent and judicial discipline and held as under:-

"108.14. Under the scheme of the Act of 2005, it is clear that the orders of the Commissions are subject to judicial review before the High Court and then before the Supreme Court of India. In terms of Article 141 of the Constitution, the judgments of the Supreme Court are law of the land and are binding on all courts and tribunals. Thus, it is abundantly clear that the Information Commission is bound by the law of precedence i.e. judgments of the High Court and the Supreme Court of India. In order to maintain judicial discipline and consistency in the functioning of the Commission, we direct that the Commission shall give appropriate attention to the doctrine of precedence and shall not overlook the judgments of the courts dealing with the subject and principles applicable, in a given case. It is not only the higher court's judgments that are binding precedents for the Information Commission, but even those of the larger Benches of the Commission should be given due acceptance and enforcement by the smaller Benches of the Commission. The rule of precedence is equally applicable to intra-court appeals or references in the hierarchy of the Commission".

18. In the case or Dr. H. Phunindre Singh and others Vs. K.K. Sethi and another (1998) 8 SCC 640 (para 2) Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the question of deliberate violation of the subsisting order of the Court and held as under:-

" 2. Heard learned counsel for the parties. In our view, in the facts of the case, particularly when the order passed by the learned Single Judge of the High Court was not stayed by the Division, Bench, the contempt petition should have been disposed of on merits instead of adjourning the same till disposal of the appeal, so that question of deliberate violation of the subsisting order of the Court is considered and enforceability of the Court's order is not permitted to be diluted. In the facts of the case, we feel that the contempt petition should be disposed of within a period of three months from the date of the communication of this order and we order accordingly. It is further directed that before disposal of the contempt petition, the pending appeal should not be taken up hearing. The appeal is accordingly disposed of".

22. In the case of Sadanand Mukherji Vs. State of U.P. & others 2009 (1) UPLBEC 167 (para 4 and 5) Hon'ble Court held as under:-

"4. Now, while deciding the present controversy learned Tribunal recorded a finding that the claim petition is not maintainable for the same relief, when this Court while remitting back the case to the Tribunal directed the Tribunal to decide the same on merit, it was not open for the Tribunal to make observation that the claim petition was barred by principle of res judicata and not maintainable. Once the writ petition was allowed by the Division Bench of this Court, then Tribunal should have decided the case on merit alone and not on any other ground like being barred by principle of res judicata. It is for the second time that the Tribunal while recording the finding that the claim petition is barred by principle of res judicata. has dismissed the claim petition in violation of the judgment and order of this Court dated 23.8.2005 passed in Writ Petition No.1381 (S/B) of 2005.

5. In the hierarchy of system, the power of superintendence on all subordinate courts, authorities and tribunals is vested under Article 227 of the Constitution of India. After remitting of matter by this Court by the judgment and order dated 23.8.2005, it was not open for the Tribunal to reject the petitioner's case with the finding that the claim petition is barred by res judicata. Learned member of the Tribunal while recording such finding have over stepped jurisdiction vested in them which at the face of record, amounts to contempt of this Court. Both the members of the Tribunal ought to have been cautious of the settled principles of law that they should not have rejected the claim petition in contravention of directions issued by this Court."

23. In Income Tax Appeal No. 293 of 2016 (The Pr. Commissioner of Income Tax-9, Mumbai Versus M/s Associated Cables Pvt. Ltd, Mumbai, decided on 03.08.2018 Division Bench of Bombay High Court held that "..... Merely filing of an SLP from the order of Hindustan Unilever Ltd.(supra) would not make the order of this Court bad in law or give a license to the Revenue to proceed on the basis that the order is stayed and/or in abeyance....."

24. In view of law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and High Court, the principles of judicial discipline and propriety and binding precedent, we hold as under:-

(a) Judicial discipline and propriety are the two significant facets of administration of justice. The principles of judicial discipline require that the orders of the higher appellate authorities should be followed unreservedly by the subordinate authorities. The mere fact that the order of the appellate authority is not "acceptable" to the department in itself an objectionable phrase or that is the subject matter of an appeal can furnish no ground for not following it unless its operation has been suspended by a competent court. If this healthy rule is not followed, the result will only be undue harassment to assessees and chaos in administration of tax laws.

(b) Just as the judgments and orders of the Supreme Court have to be faithfully obeyed and carried out throughout the territory of India under Article 141 of the Constitution, so should be the judgments and orders of the High Court by all inferior courts and tribunals subject to supervisory jurisdiction within the State under Article 226 and 227 of the Constitution.

(c) If an officer under the Income Tax Act, 1961 refuses to carry out the clear and unambiguous direction in a judgment passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court or High Court or the Income Tax Appellate Tribunal then in effect, it is denial of justice and is destructive of one of the basic principles in the administration of justice based on hierarchy of the Court.

(d) Unless there is a stay obtained by the authorities under the Income Tax Act, 1961 from higher forum, the mere fact of filing appeal or SLP will not entitle the authority not to comply with the order of the High Court. Even though the authority may have filed an appeal or SLP but either could not obtain a stay or the stay is refused, the order of the High Court must be complied with. Mere filing of an appeal or SLP against the judgment or order of High Court does not result in the assailed judgment or order becoming inoperative and unworthy of being complied with.

25. In view of the principles settled by Hon'ble Supreme Court and by High Courts in the judgments, briefly discussed above, we direct the respondents to maintain judicial discipline and follow the doctrine of binding precedent and be careful in future, having due regard to the authorities of the Court, keeping in mind the judicial propriety and discipline.

26. The impugned notice dated 31.03.2021 issued on 01.04.2021 under Section 148 of the Income Tax Act, 1961, being without jurisdiction, cannot be sustained and is hereby quashed. Consequently, the order dated 19.03.2022 and the Reassessment Order dated 29.03.2022 for the Assessment Year 2013-14 can also not be sustained and are hereby quashed inasmuch as, the jurisdictional notice itself was without jurisdiction.

27. For all the reasons afore-stated, the writ petition is allowed to the extent and in terms herein above.

28. Let copy of this judgment be sent by the Registrar General of this Court to the respondent no.1 for circulation amongst the authorities under the Income Tax Act, 1961 and for observance of the principles of the judicial discipline and propriety, stated above.

तथ्यात्मक प्रारुप

1. आवेदक (शैलेन्द्र कुमार प्रजापति) ने वर्तमान स्थानान्तरण प्रार्थना पत्र अंतर्गत धारा 407 दण्ड प्रक्रिया संहिता (संक्षेप में द. प्र.सं.) के माध्यम से सत्र परीक्षण संख्या 90 वर्ष 2021, राज्य प्रति शैलेन्द्र (मुकदमा अपराध संख्या 48 वर्ष 2019 धारा 376, 452, 506 भारतीय दण्ड संहिता, थाना विनवार, जिला हमीरपुर से अग्रसर) जो वर्तमान में अपर जनपद एवं सत्र न्यायधीश एफ.टी.सी. हमीरपुर के न्यायालय में लंबित है को जिला हमीरपुर के उक्त सत्र न्यायालय से उसी जिला के किसी दूसरे सत्र न्यायालय में अन्तरित करने की प्रार्थना की है।

2. वर्तमान आवेदन के प्रस्तुत करने से पूर्व, आवेदक ने एक स्थानान्तरण प्रार्थना पत्र जनपद एवं सत्र न्यायाधीश, हमीरपुर के समक्ष धारा 408 भा.दं.सं. के अंतर्गत उपरोक्त प्रार्थना के लिये किया था परन्तु वो जनपद एवं सत्र न्यायाधीश के आदेश दिनांक 4.10.2021 के द्वारा निरस्त कर दिया गया।

3. आवेदक के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री डी.के. मौर्या (आवेदक के अधिवक्ता श्री राम राज प्रजापति द्वारा निर्देशित) ने कथन किया कि आवेदक के विरुद्ध एक गलत मुकदमा दायर किया गया है तथा उचित जांच करे बिना ही उसके विरुद्ध आरोप पत्र प्रेषित कर दिया गया है। आवेदक वर्तमान में जमानत पर है तथा अवर न्यायालय के समक्ष कार्यवाही में उपस्थित हो रहा है।

4. आवेदक के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने स्थानान्तरण की प्रार्थना के पक्ष में कथन किया की-

(i) आवेदक को कोई पूर्व सूचना दिये बिना ही, जब अभियोजन साक्ष्य संख्या 2 का ब्यान लिखा जा रहा था, उसी दौरान उपरोक्त सत्र परीक्षण फास्ट ट्रैक कोर्ट- II को स्थानान्तरित कर दिया गया और आवेदक को अग्रिम तिथि की सूचना के अभाव में साक्षी की प्रति परीक्षा का अवसर भी समाप्त कर दिया गया। इस संदर्भ में उसने एक प्रार्थना पत्र भी

दाखिल किया। जब कोरोना महामारी के कारण सम्पूर्ण देश में कार्यवाहियां/गतिविधियां रुक सी गयी थी, तब भी पूर्वाग्रह से ग्रसित होकर, आवेदक के विरुद्ध गैर जमानती वारन्ट जारी कर दिया गया, जो बाद में प्रार्थना पत्र देने पर निरस्त किया गया।

(ii) विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने यह भी कथन किया कि सत्र न्यायालय में काम कर रहे पेशकार (जगदीश मिश्रा) जो पीड़िता के अधिवक्ता के दोस्त है वो इस मामले में पूर्वाग्रह से ग्रसित हो मामले में आवेदक के विरुद्ध आदेश करवा रहा है। आवेदक की अनुपस्थिति को उपस्थिति दिखा कर, प्रति परीक्षा के लिये तिथि नियत करवा दी, जिसकी सूचना आवेदक व उसके अधिवक्ता को न होने के कारण अगली नियत तिथि पर वो अनुपस्थित रहे, जिसके कारण प्रतिपरीक्षा का अवसर समाप्त कर दिया गया।

(iii) उपरोक्त निवेदन के आधार पर विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने कथन किया कि अगर मेरे पक्षकार को यथोचित आशंका है कि न्याय नहीं हो पायेगा, तो सत्र परीक्षण को स्थानान्तरित कर दिया जाना चाहिए। निष्पक्ष सुनवाई का आश्वासन, न्याय व्यवस्था की प्रथम अनिवार्यता है। अतः प्रार्थना पत्र स्वीकार किया जाये।

5. प्रतिवादी संख्या 2 (विनोद) जो प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट के शिकायतकर्ता है उनको वर्तमान प्रार्थना पत्र का नोटिस बजात खास तामील कराया गया परन्तु न तो वो स्वयं और न ही अधिवक्ता के माध्यम से न्यायालय के समक्ष उपस्थित हुए जबकि इस कारण से दो बार वर्तमान प्रार्थना पत्र पर अगली तिथि भी नियत की गयी।

राज्य का पक्ष

6. राज्य का पक्ष उसके अतरिक्त शासकीय अधिवक्ता ने न्यायालय के समक्ष रखा। उन्होने न्यायालय का ध्यान जनपद एवं सत्र न्यायाधीश के आदेश दिनांक 4.10.2021 पर आकर्षित करवाया जिसके द्वारा आवेदक की स्थानान्तरण प्रार्थना पत्र (अन्तर्गत धारा 408 दं0प्र0सं0) निरस्त किया गया है। उक्त आदेश में यह उल्लेखित है कि जब आवेदक के विद्वान अधिवक्ता को प्रार्थना पत्र पर बहस करने हेतु आमंत्रित किया गया तो उनके द्वारा यह कथन किया गया कि उन्हे कुछ नहीं कहना है तथा प्रार्थना पत्र का परिशीलन करके ही आदेश पारित कर दें। प्रार्थना पत्र भी नवीन अधिवक्ता ने दाखिल किया था जो सत्र परीक्षण में आवेदक के अधिवक्ता नहीं है। आवेदक को अभियोजन साक्ष्य संख्या 2 को प्रतिपरीक्षा की अनुमति उनके द्वारा प्रार्थना पत्र को स्वीकार करते हुए दी जा चुकी है। वर्तमान में शिकायतकर्ता द्वारा एक प्रार्थना पत्र धारा 319 भा.दं.प्र.सं. के अन्तर्गत दो अन्य लोगों को तलब करने हेतु दिया गया है। जिस पर कोई आदेश पारित नहीं हुआ है। आवेदक द्वारा स्थानान्तरण का प्रार्थना पत्र मात्र मामले को विलम्बित रखने के उद्देश्य से दिया गया है तथा प्रकरण में कोई यथोचित आकांक्षा नहीं है तथा ऐसा कारण भी नहीं है कि आवेदक को न्याय मिलने की संभावना न हो, अतः प्रार्थना पत्र निरस्त किया जाये।

7. आवेदक व राज्य के विद्वान अधिवक्ताओं को सुना व पत्रावली की सम्यक परिशीलन किया।

8. भारतीय दण्ड प्रक्रिया संहिता के अध्याय 31 में आपराधिक मामलों के अन्तरण की प्रक्रिया उल्लेखित की गई है। धारा 408 के अन्तर्गत मामलों और अपीलों को अन्तरित करने की सत्र न्यायधीश की शक्ति का उल्लेख है, जबकि धारा 407 के अंतर्गत मामलों और अपीलों को अन्तरित करने की उच्च न्यायालय की शक्ति का उल्लेख किया गया है। संदर्भ के लिये दोनों धारा निम्न उल्लेखित की जा रही है-

"407. मामलों और अपीलों को अन्तरित करने की उच्च न्यायालय की शक्ति- (1) जब कभी उच्च न्यायालय को यह प्रतीत कराया जाता है कि-

(क) उसके अधीनस्थ किसी दंड न्यायालय में ऋजु और पक्षपातरहित जांच या विचारण न हो सकेगा; अथवा

(ख) किसी असाधारणतः कठिन विधि प्रश्न के उठने की संभाव्यता है; अथवा

(ग) इस धारा के अधीन आदेश इस संहिता के किसी उपबंध द्वारा अपेक्षित है, या पक्षकारों या साक्षियों के लिए साधारण सुविधाप्रद होगा, या न्याय के उद्देश्यों के लिए समीचीन है,

तब वह आदेश दे सकेगा कि-

(I) किसी अपराध की जांच या विचारण ऐसे किसी न्यायालय द्वारा किया जाए जो धारा 177 से 185 तक के (जिनके अन्तर्गत ये दोनों धाराएं भी हैं) अधीन तो अर्हित नहीं है, किन्तु ऐसे अपराध की जांच या विचारण करने के लिए अन्यथा सक्षम है;

(ii) कोई विशिष्ट मामला या अपील या मामलों या अपीलों का वर्ग उसके प्राधिकार के अधीनस्थ किसी दंड न्यायालय से ऐसे समान वरिष्ठ अधिकारिता वाले किसी अन्य दंड न्यायालय को अंतरित कर दिया जाए;

(iii) कोई विशिष्ट मामला सेशन न्यायालय को विचारणार्थ सुपुर्द कर दिया जाए; अथवा

(iv) कोई विशिष्ट मामला या अपील स्वयं उसको अन्तरित कर दी जाए, और उसका विचारण उसके समक्ष किया जाए।

(2) उच्च न्यायालय निचले न्यायालय की रिपोर्ट पर, या हितबद्ध पक्षकार के आवेदन पर या स्वप्रेरणा पर कार्यवाही कर सकता है:

परन्तु किसी मामले को एक ही सेशन खंड के एक दंड न्यायालय से दूसरे दंड न्यायालय को अन्तरित करने के लिए आवेदन उच्च न्यायालय से तभी किया जाएगा जब ऐसा अन्तरण करने के लिए आवेदन सेशन न्यायाधीश को कर दिया गया है और उसके द्वारा नामंजूर कर दिया गया है।

(3) उपधारा (1) के अधीन आदेश के लिए प्रत्येक आवेदन समावेदन द्वारा किया जाएगा, जो उस दशा के सिवाय जब आवेदक राज्य का महाधिवक्ता हो, शपथपत्र या प्रतिज्ञान द्वारा समर्थित होगा।

(4) जब ऐसा आवेदन कोई अभियुक्त व्यक्ति करता है, तब उच्च न्यायालय उसे निदेश दे सकता है कि वह किसी प्रतिकर के संदाय के लिए, जो उच्च न्यायालय उपधारा (7) के अधीन अधिनिर्णीत करे, प्रतिभुओं सहित या रहित बंधपत्र निष्पादित करे।

(5) ऐसा आवेदन करने वाला प्रत्येक अभियुक्त व्यक्ति लोक अभियोजक को आवेदन की लिखित सूचना उन आधारों की प्रतिलिपि के सहित देगा जिन पर वह किया गया है, और आवेदन के गुणावगुण पर तब तक कोई आदेश न किया जाएगा जब तक ऐसी सूचना के दिए जाने और आवेदन की सुनवाई के बीच कम से कम चौबीस घंटे न बीत गए हों।

परन्तु ऐसी रोक धारा 309 के अधीन प्रतिप्रेषण की अधीनस्थ न्यायालयों की शक्ति पर प्रभाव न डालेगी।

(7) जहां उपधारा (1) के अधीन आदेश देने के लिए आवेदन खारिज कर दिया जाता है वहां, यदि उच्च न्यायालय की यह राय है कि आवेदन तुच्छ या तंग करने वाला था तो वह आवेदक को आदेश दे सकता है कि वह एक हजार रुपए से अनधिक इतनी राशि, जितनी वह न्यायालय उस मामले की परिस्थितियों में समुचित समझे, प्रतिकर के तौर पर उस व्यक्ति को दे जिसने आवेदन का विरोध किया था।

(8) जब उच्च न्यायालय किसी न्यायालय से किसी मामले का अन्तरण अपने समक्ष विचारण करने के लिए उपधारा (1) के अधीन आदेश देता है तब वह ऐसे विचारण में उसी प्रक्रिया का अनुपालन करेगा जिस मामले का ऐसा अन्तरण न किए जाने की दशा में वह न्यायालय करता।

(9) इस धारा की कोई बात धारा 197 के अधीन सरकार के किसी आदेश पर प्रभाव डालने वाली न समझी जाएगी।

(2) सेशन न्यायाधीश निचले न्यायालय की रिपोर्ट पर या किसी हितबद्ध पक्षकार के आवेदन पर या स्वप्रेरणा पर कार्यवाही कर सकता है।

(3) धारा 407 की उपधारा (4), (5), (6), (7) और (9) के उपबंध इस धारा की उपधारा (1) के अधीन आदेश के लिए सेशन न्यायाधीश को आवेदन के संबंध में वैसे ही लागू होंगे जैसे वे धारा 407 की उपधारा (1) के अधीन आदेश के लिए उच्च न्यायालय को आवेदन के संबंध में लागू होते हैं, सिवाय इसके कि उस धारा की उपधारा (7) इस प्रकार लागू होगी मानो उसमें आने वाले "एक हजार रुपए" शब्दों के स्थान पर "दो सौ पचास रुपए" शब्द रख दिए गए हैं।"

9. उच्चतम न्यायालय ने कई निर्णयों में स्थानान्तरण के कारणों की व्याख्या की है। न्याय न केवल होना चाहिये परन्तु हुआ है ऐसा दर्शित भी होना चाहिये। अन्तरण की विधि सुस्थापित है कि अगर किसी पक्षकार को यह यथोचित आशंका है कि उसे न्याय की प्राप्ति नहीं हो पायेगी तो मामला या अपील का अन्तरण कर देना चाहिए। इस नाते पक्षकार को यह दर्शाने की आवश्यकता नहीं है कि न्याय अनिवार्य रुप से विफल हो जायेगा, अगर वो ऐसे परिस्थितियां दिखाने में सफल होता जाता है, जिनसे यह अनुमान लगाया जा सकता है, कि उसको आशंका है, जो परिस्थितियों के मद्देनजर यथोचित भी है तो स्थान्तरण का मामला हो जायेगा। परन्तु मात्र अभिकथन की किसी मामले में न्याय न होने की आशंका है, स्थान्तरण का पर्याप्त कारण नहीं होगा तथा न्याय के उद्देश्यों के लिये समीचीन भी नहीं होगा। न्यायालय को यह निर्धारित करना होगा कि उक्त आशंका यथोचित है न कि काल्पनिक जो मात्र अनुमान और अटकलों पर आधारित है।

10. स्थान्तरण के आवेदन को निस्तारित करने के कोई नियमित या सख्त नियम विहित नहीं किये जा सकते है तथा मामले की परिस्थितियों के संदर्भ में ही आवेदन निस्तारित किये जाने चाहिये। पक्षकारों व साक्षियों की सुविधा का अर्थ अनिवार्य रुप से आवेदक की ही सुविधा नहीं है, जो न्यायालय के समक्ष आशंका की मिथ्य धारणा के आधार पर आवेदन करता है। स्थान्तरण के संदर्भ में सुविधा का तात्पर्य अभियोजन, अन्य अभियोगी, साक्षियों व वृहत रुप से समाज की सुविधा से है। निष्पक्ष सुनवाई का आश्वासन, न्याय व्यवस्था की प्रथम अनिवार्यता है। आपराधिक विचारण का उद्देश्य, ऐसा उचित व निष्पक्ष न्याय प्रदान करना है, जो किसी भी प्रकार के वाह्य प्रतिफल से अप्रभावित हो।

11. प्रकरण में अगर यह विदित हो जाये कि समाज का विचारण के निष्पक्षता पर विश्वास गंभीर रुप से दुर्बल हो गया है, पीड़ित पक्ष स्थानान्तरण के लिये आवेदन कर सकता है। अगर आपराधिक विचारण निष्पक्ष व स्वतंत्र नहीं है और अगर वो पक्षपात पूर्ण हो तो आपराधिक न्याय व्यवस्था दाँव पर लग जायेगी और जन सामान्य का व्यवस्था के प्रति विश्वास अस्थिर हो जायेगा।

12. न्याय की निष्पक्षता, संविधान का मूल भूत विशिष्टता है, जो यह अपेक्षा करता है कि न्यायधीश, शासकीय अभियोजक, अपराधी का अधिवक्ता या न्यायालय मित्र का सामाजिक हितों में ताल मेल रखते हुए तथा अपराधी के हैसियत व शासन के प्रभाव से अप्रभावित होकर कार्य करेंगे।

विश्लेषण व निष्कर्ष

13. आवेदक की निष्पक्ष व स्वतंत्र न्याय न मिलने की आशंका का आधार विचारण न्यायालय में कार्यरत एक कर्मचारी है, जो कथित रुप से पीड़िता के अधिवक्ता का मित्र है और अपने पद का अनुचित उपयोग कर न्यायिक प्रक्रिया में पीड़िता के अनुकूल व आवेदक के प्रतिकूल आदेश न्यायालय से पारित करवाने में सहायता करता है तथा इसी प्रभाव के कारण न्यायालय ने अभियोजन साक्ष्य की प्रतिपरिक्षा का अवसर समाप्त कर दिया था। परन्तु यह आकांक्षा पत्रावली पर न्यायालय की आदेश के परिशीलन से निराधार प्रतीत होती है, क्यों कि आवेदक को प्रतिपरीक्षा का आवेदन अपर न्यायालय द्वारा 10.2.2021को स्वीकार किया जा चुका है तथा अभियोजन साक्ष्य संख्या 2 (वन्दना) को तलब भी किया जा चुका है। परन्तु आवेदक के हाजिर न होने के कारण उसके विरुद्ध गैर जमानतीय वारन्ट दिनांक 05.03.2021 व 10.3.2021 को जारी किये गये जो प्रार्थनापत्र के आधार पर आदेश दिनांक 02.04.2021 द्वारा निरस्त कर दिये गये। यहाँ यह उल्लेख करना आवश्यक है कि उपरोक्त आदेश विधिनुसार व उचित प्रक्रिया के अंतर्गत किये है। जिनका निदान भी प्रक्रिया के अंतर्गत किया गया है। इसी दौरान शिकायतकर्ता ने एक प्रार्थना पत्र धारा 319 भा.द.सं., के अन्तर्गत दाखिल कर दिया तथा पत्रावली वर्तमान में उक्त प्रार्थना पत्र के निस्तारण के स्तर पर है। अतः आवेदक का स्थान्तरण का आधार यथोचित आकांक्षा पर आधारित नहीं है। उपरोक्त वर्णित आदेश के कारण यह यथोचित आकांक्षा नहीं हो जाती है कि आवेदक को निष्पक्ष व उचित न्याय नहीं प्राप्त होगा और यह भी नहीं प्रतीत होता है कि आवेदक के प्रतिकूल पारित आदेश किसी पूर्वाग्रह या दबाव या अनुचित प्रभाव के अंतर्गत पारित किये गये हैं। अतः आवेदक इस न्यायालय के समक्ष, ऐसा कोई यथोचित कारण या ऐसी परिस्थितियां जिनके कारण यथोचित आकांक्षा हो कि निष्पक्ष न्याय नहीं मिल पायेगा, प्रस्तुत करने में असमर्थ रखा है और न ही कोई ऐसा कारण उपस्थित है कि वर्तमान प्रकरण में स्थान्तरण की प्रार्थना स्वीकार करना, न्याय के उद्देश्य के लिये समीचीन होगा।

14. उपरोक्त विधिक व तथ्यात्मक विश्लेषण का एक ही निष्कर्ष है कि वर्तमान प्रकरण में आवेदक, स्थान्तरण के लिये उचित या निष्पक्ष न्याय न मिलने का कोई यथोचित या वास्तविक आकांक्षा स्थापित करने में असमर्थ रहा है। अतः वर्तमान आवेदन में की गई स्थान्तरण की प्रार्थना बलहीन होने के कारण अस्वीकार की जाती है तथा वर्तमान प्रार्थना पत्र इस आदेश के साथ अंतिम रुप से निस्तारित की जाती है कि सत्र न्यायालय प्रकरण की सुनवाई शीघ्रता व नियमनुसार करेगा तथा इस संदर्भ में इस न्यायालय द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 07.06.2021, रविन्द्र प्रताप शाही उर्फ पप्पू शाही बनाम उत्तर प्रदेश राज्य (आपराधिक प्रकीर्ण जमानत प्रार्थना पत्र संख्या-20591/2021) के मामले में 'त्वरित न्याय' के विश्लेषण को ध्यान में रखेगा।

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard Sri Chandan Sharma, advocate holding brief of Sri Neeraj Rai, learned counsel for the revisionists and Sri Brijesh Chandra Naik, learned counsel for opposite parties.

2. Present revision has been filed for setting aside the judgement and order dated 17.02.2022 passed by learned Additional District Judge, Court No. 10, Varanasi in Small Causes Case No. 04 of 2019 (Smt. Bindo Devi and others Vs. Tara Prasad Sonkar and others).

3. Apart from many other grounds taken in revision, learned counsel for the revisionists has pressed the ground of jurisdiction of the Court only before this Court.

4. Learned counsel for the revisionists submitted that opposite parties instituted Small Causes Case No. 04 of 2019 (Smt. Bindo Devi and others Vs. Tara Prasad Sonkar and others) seeking eviction of revisionists- defendants from disputed property and for recovery of rent arrears also. While filing the suit, opposite parties contended that shop in question was rented at the rate of Rs. 5,000/- per month calculating the valuation of suit Rs. 2,40,000/-. Revisionists- defendants disputed the rent and submitted that shop in question was rented at the rate of Rs. 500/- per month and accordingly, issue No. 2 was framed with regard to actual determination of rent as to whether it was Rs. 5,000/- or Rs. 500/- per month. He next submitted that this issue was decided in favour of revisionists-defendants accepting the rent at the rate of Rs. 500/- per month. He further submitted that once the rent was fixed at the rate of Rs. 500/- per moth by deciding issue No. 2, valuation of suit has been decreed to less than one lac and Court of District Judge would have no jurisdiction to try the case in light of Section 15 of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (hereinafter referred to as "CPC, 1908"). Section 15 of CPC mandate that every suit shall be instituted in the Court of lowest grade competent to try and in the present case, it has to be decided by concerned Small Causes Court. He next submitted that once the Court has no jurisdiction, order passed by the Court is nullity in the eye of law. In support of his contention, he placed reliance upon the judgements of Apex Court in the case of Jagmittar Sain Bhagat Vs. Dir. Health Services, Haryana and others; (2013) 2 SCC (LS) 841 (paragraph 7) and Om Prakash Agarwal Since deceased thr. L.Rs. and Ors. Vs. Vishan Dayal Rajpoot and Ors; 2018 (191) AIC9 (paragraph 20, 21, 34, 47) as well as of this Court in the matter of Prabha Rani Agrawal Vs. Income Tax Officer and Ors; (2013) 259 CTR (All) 118.

5. Learned counsel for opposite parties opposed the submissions raised by learned counsel for the revisionists and submitted that there are two situations; first, Court is having inherent lack of jurisdiction, second, after filing written statement or any subsequent development, Court may not have the jurisdiction to decide the case. He next submitted that in present case, it is necessarily required on the part of revisionists-defendants to raise objection with regard to jurisdiction in written submission to enable the Court to frame issue and decide the same. In the present case, suit was filed alongwith valuation of Rs. 2,40,000/- and the Court is having pecuniary jurisdiction to hear the same on the date of filing, therefore, it is not the case of lack of inherent jurisdiction. Further, while filing written statement, revisionists-defendants has never raised objection about the jurisdiction of the Court and only it was stated in written statement that suit has been filed by showing excess rent to bring the case in appellate jurisdiction of Small Causes Court for early disposal of the matter. It is also stated in written statement that just to deprive one step of appellate court at District Judgeship, excess rent has been shown. He reiterated that at no point of time, revisionists-defendants has raised objection of jurisdiction, therefore, Court is having full jurisdiction to decide the case. In support of his contention, he placed reliance upon the judgement of Apex Court in the matter of Om Prakash Agarwal Since deceased thr. L.Rs. and Ors. Vs. Vishan Dayal Rajpoot and Ors; 2018 (191) AIC9 (paragraph 49, 56, 57) as well as of this Court in the matter of Rajendra Kumar @ Vinay Kumar Vs. Pankaj Kumar Agarwal; 2019 (3) ARC 621.

6. I have considered the rival submissions raised by learned counsel for the parties as well as perused the judgements relied upon Facts of the case are undisputed.

7. After going through the pleadings, the only question before this Court is to decide as to whether without raising the issue of jurisdiction in written submission, Court is bound to first decide its jurisdiction based on pecuniary limits i.e. valuation of case and then proceed to decide the case on merits or not.

8. Learned counsel for the revisionists has only submitted that he has raised objection with regard to amount of rent and once the objection is accepted, it is required on the part of Court to first consider its own jurisdiction to decide the case, but he could not dispute this fact that in written statement, no objection has been raised about the jurisdiction of the Court. Case was filed showing the rent at the rate of Rs. 5000/-, therefore, Court is having full jurisdiction to decide the same. After filing written statement showing the rent at the rate of Rs. 5,00/-, Issue No. 2 was framed with regard to determination of rent and that was ultimately decided in favour of revisionists-defendants accepting the rent at the rate of Rs. 500/- per month. Thereafter, proceeded to decide the case on merits.

9. Learned counsel for the revisionists has relied upon paragraph 7 of judgement of Apex Court in the matter of Jagmittar Sain Bhagat (supra), which is quoted below;

" 7. Indisputably, it is a settled legal proposition that conferment of jurisdiction is a legislative function and it can neither be conferred with the consent of the parties nor by a superior Court, and if the Court passes a decree having no jurisdiction over the matter, it would amount to nullity as the matter goes to the roots of the cause. Such an issue can be raised at any stage of the proceedings. The finding of a Court or Tribunal becomes irrelevant and unenforceable/ inexecutable once the forum is found to have no jurisdiction. Similarly, if a Court/Tribunal inherently lacks jurisdiction, acquiescence of party equally should not be permitted to perpetuate and perpetrate, defeating the legislative animation. The Court cannot derive jurisdiction apart from the Statute. In such eventuality the doctrine of waiver also does not apply. (Vide: United Commercial Bank Ltd. v. Their Workmen, MANU/SC/0067/1951: AIR 1951 SC 230. Smt. Nai Bahu v. Lal Ramnarayan & Ors. MANU/0367/1977: AIR 1978 SC 22; Natraj Studios (P) Ltd. v. Navrang Studios & Anr., MANU/SC/0477/1981: AIR 1981 SC 537' and Kondiba Dagadu Kadam v. Savitribai Sopan Gujar & Ors., MANU/SC/0278/1999: AIR SC 2213)."

10. Learned counsel for the revisionists has relied upon paragraphs 20, 21, 34 & 47 of judgement of Apex Court in the matter of Om Prakash Agarwal Since deceased thr. L.Rs. and Ors. (supra), which are quoted below;

"20. By the above amendment in the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 the limit of pecuniary jurisdiction of small causes court was increased from Rs.25,000/-to Rs.1 Lakh. The Judge, Small Causes Court in the State of U.P. is senior-most Civil Judge, working in the district. Although the Court of Small Causes was empowered to take cognizance of a suit upto the valuation of Rs.1 lakh w.e.f. 07.12.2015, the suit in question namely Small Causes Suit No.1 of 2010 which was pending in the Court of Additional District Judge, Firozabad continued to proceed in the court of Additional District Judge. None of the parties raised any objection with regard to hearing of suit by Additional District Judge, consequently, the Additional District Judge heard the parties and by judgment dated 22.10.2016 decreed the suit for eviction and due rent & compensation. The tenant aggrieved by the judgment of Additional District Judge filed a revision under Section 25 of Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887, before the High Court.

21. One of the grounds taken before the High Court was that in view of the U.P. Civil Laws (Amendment) Act, 2015, the Court of Additional District Judge ceased to have jurisdiction to try suit between lessor and lessee of value upto Rs.1 Lac w.e.f. 07.12.2015, assumption of jurisdiction subsequent thereto, is without jurisdiction.

34. Whether the Additional District Judge, in the facts of the present case, had jurisdiction to take cognizance of small causes suits having valuation upto Rs. 1 lakh and could still have proceeded to decide the suit, whose valuation was less than Rs. 1 lakh? We may also notice provision of Section 15 of the Code of Civil Procedure, which provides that suits shall be instituted in the Court of the lowest grade competent to try it. Section 15 of the Code of Civil Procedure is as follows:- "Every suit shall be instituted in the Court of the lowest grade competent to try it."

47. As noted above, the proviso to subsection (2) provides that figure Rs.5,000/- shall be construed to Rs.25,000/-. By U.P. Civil Laws (Amendment) Act, 2015, the figure of Rs.25,000/- stood substituted by Rs.1 lac. Reading sub-section(2) read with proviso and U.P. Civil Laws (Amendment Act), 2015 clearly means that Small Cause suits with aluation not exceeding Rs.1 lac shall be cognizable by Court of Small Causes. When a Small Cause suit not exceeding value of Rs.1 lac is cognizable by Court of Small Causes, obviously, no other court can take cognizance. Additional District Judge to whom small causes suit in question was transferred since its valuation was more than of Rs.25,000/- was not competent to take cognizance of the suit after U.P. Civil Laws (Amendment Act), 2015 w.e.f.07.12.2015, when the suit in question became cognizable by Small Causes Court i.e. Court of Civil Judge, Senior Division. To the above extent, the judgment of learned Single Judge in Shobhit Nigam's Case has to be approved and judgment of Single Judge in Pankaj Hotels (Supra) laying down that even after 07.12.2015, the Additional District Judge had jurisdiction to decide the suit in question cannot be approved."

11. Learned counsel for the revisionists has also relied upon paragraph 25 of judgement of this Court in the matter of Prabha Rani Agrawal (supra), which is quoted below;

"25. From the aforesaid decisions, it follows that (i) a question relating to jurisdiction which goes to the root of the matter can always be raised at any stage, be in appeal or revision, (ii) initiation of proceedings under section 147 of the Act and/or service of notice are all questions relating to assumption of jurisdiction to assess escaped income, (iii) if an issue has not been decided in appeal and the matter has simply been remanded, the same can be raised again notwithstanding with the fact that no further appeal has been preferred, (iv) in the reassessment proceedings, relief in respect of item which was not originally claimed cannot be claimed again as the reassessment proceedings are for the benefit of the Revenue, and (v) relief can only be claimed in respect of the escaped income. Applying the principles laid down in the aforesaid cases to the facts of the present case, we find that in the first round of proceedings before the Commissioner of Income-tax (Appeals), the appellant had specifically questioned the validity of the proceedings initiated under section 148. of the Act. That issue was not decided by the Commissioner (Appeals) who had remanded the matter for fresh assessment after providing opportunity of hearing. The question relating to the jurisdiction assumed under section 147/148 of the Act goes to the very root of the matter and it can be raised in appeal for the first time. The appellant had raised this question again in appeal and, therefore, it was incumbent upon the "Commissioner of Income-tax (Appeals) to adjudicate upon the grounds' taken before him., In fact, he had casually observed that the proceedings under section 148 of the Act had been validly initiated but, wrongly applied the principles laid down by the apex court in the case of Sun Engineering Works P., Ltd., MANU/SC/0707/1992: [1992] 198 ITR 297 (SC)."

12. Learned counsel for the opposite parties has also relied upon the judgement of Apex Court in the matter of Om Prakash Agarwal Since deceased thr. L.Rs. and Ors. (supra). In that case when issue of jurisdiction came before the Apex Court for adjudication, Apex Court framed three issues and issue No. 3 covers the controversy involved in this matter. Issue No. 3 and findings of Apex Court are quoted herein below;

"5. From the above submissions of learned counsel for the parties and the pleadings on record, following are the issues, which arise for consideration in this appeal:

.....

.....

(ii)

(iii) Whether respondents (tenants) having not raised any objection regarding jurisdiction of the Court of Additional District Judge where the suit was pending after amendments made by Uttar Pradesh Civil Laws (Amendment) Act, 2015, the respondent (tenant) is precluded to question the competence of the Court of Additional District Judge to decide the suit vide his judgment dated 22.10.2016 in view of Section 21 of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 in revision filed under Section 25 of the Provincial Small Causes Court Act?

ISSUE NO. 3.

"It is the submission of learned counsel for the appellant that even if the Additional District Judge was not competent to decide the small causes suit on 22.10.2016, the judgment of the Additional District Judge was not liable to be interfered with by the revisional court in view of Section 21 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Section 21 of the Code of Civil Procedure relates to objection to jurisdiction. Section 21 of the Code of Civil Procedure is as follows:- "21. Objections to jurisdiction.--[(1)] No objection as to the place of suing shall be allowed by any Appellate or Revisional Court unless such objection was taken in the Court of first instance at the earliest possible opportunity and in all cases where issues are settled at or before such settlement, and unless there has been a consequent failure of justice.

[(2) No objection as to the competence of a Court with reference to the pecuniary limits of its jurisdiction shall be allowed by any Appellate or Revisional Court unless such objection was taken in the Court of first instance at the earliest possible opportunity, and, in all cases where issues are settled, at or before such settlement, and unless there has been a consequent failure of justice.

(3) No objection as to the competence of the executing Court with reference to the local limits of its jurisdiction shall be allowed by any Appellate or Revisional Court unless such objection was taken in the executing Court at the earliest possible opportunity, and unless there has been a consequent failure of justice.]"

The policy underlying Section 21 of Code of Civil Procedure is that when the case has been tried by a court on merits and the judgment rendered, it should not be liable to be reversed purely on technical grounds, unless it has resulted in failure of justice. The provisions akin to Section 21 are also contained in Section 11 of the Suit Valuation Act, 1887 and Section 99 of Code of Civil Procedure. This Court had occasion to consider the principle behind Section 21, Code of Civil Procedure and Section 11 of the Suit Valuation Act, 1887 in AIR 1954 SC 340, Kiran Singh v. Chaman Paswan. In paragraph 7 of the judgment following was laid down: −

7. ....The policy underlying Sections 21 and 99 of the Civil Procedure Code and Section 11 of the Suits Valuation Act is the same, namely, that when a case had been tried by a court on the merits and judgment rendered, it should not be liable to be reversed purely on technical grounds, unless it had resulted in failure of justice, and the policy of the legislature has been to treat objections to jurisdiction both territorial and pecuniary as technical and not open to consideration by an appellate court, unless there has been a prejudice on the merits. The contention of the appellants, therefore, that the decree and judgment of the District Court, Monghyr, should be treated as a nullity cannot be sustained under Section 11 of the Suits Valuation Act.

One more submission which was raised in the said appeal was considered by this Court. One of the submission of the appellant who had instituted the suit in the subordinate court was that as per the revised valuation, the appeal against the decree of subordinate judge did not lay before the District Court but to the High Court, hence, the judgment of the District Judge in appeal should be ignored. The appeal in the High Court be treated as first appeal. It was contended that appellant has been prejudiced in the above manner. Rejecting the above submissions, this court laid down following in paragraphs 11 and 12:−

11. .....This argument proceeds on a misconception. The right of appeal is no doubt a substantive right, and its deprivation is a serious prejudice; but the appellants have not been deprived of the right of appeal against the judgment of the Subordinate Court. The law does provide an appeal against that judgment to the District Court, and the plaintiffs have exercised that right. Indeed, the undervaluation has enlarged the appellants right of appeal, because while they would have had only a right of one appeal and that to the High Court if the suit had been correctly valued, by reason of the undervaluation they obtained right to two appeals, one to the District Court and another to the High Court. The complaint of the appellants really is not that they had been deprived of a right of appeal against the judgment of the Subordinate Court, which they have not been, but that an appeal on the facts against that judgment was heard by the District Court and not by the High Court. This objection therefore amounts to this that a change in the forum of appeal is by itself a matter of prejudice for the purpose of Section 11 of the Suits Valuation Act.

12. The question, therefore, is, can a decree passed on appeal by a court which had jurisdiction to entertain it only by reason of undervaluation, be set aside on the ground that on a true valuation that court was not competent to entertain the appeal? Three High Courts have considered the matter in Full Benches, and have come to the conclusion that mere change of forum is not a prejudice within the meaning of Section 11 of the Suits Valuation Act. Vide Kelu Achan v. Cheriya Parvathi Nethiar Mool Chand v. Ram Kishan and Ramdeo Singh v. Raj Narain. In our judgment, the opinion expressed in these decisions is correct.

The above principle has been reiterated by this Court in AIR (1962) SC 199, Hiralal vs. Kalinath and AIR 1963 SC 634, Bahrain Petroleum Co. vs. P.J.Pappu and Another.

This court in (1993) 2 SCC 130, R.S.D.V. Finance Company Private Limited

vs. Shree Vallabh Glass Works Ltd. had again considered Section 21 of the Code of Civil Procedure. In paragraphs 7 and 8, following has been laid down: −

7. ....It may be further noted that the learned Single Judge trying the suit had recorded a finding that the Bombay Court had jurisdiction to entertain and decide the suit. Sub−section (1) of Section 21 of the Code of Civil Procedure provides that no objection as to the place of suing shall be allowed by any appellate or revisional court unless such objection was taken in the court of first instance at the earliest possible opportunity and in all cases where issues are settled at or before such settlement and unless there has been consequent failure of justice. The above provision clearly lays down that such objection as to the place of suing shall be allowed by the appellate or revisional court subject to the following conditions:

(i) That such objection was taken in the court of first instance at the earliest possible opportunity;

(ii) in all cases where issues are settled then at or before such settlement of issues;

(iii) there has been a consequent failure of justice.

8. In the present case though the first two conditions are satisfied but the third condition of failure of justice is not fulfilled. As already mentioned above there was no dispute regarding the merits of the claim. The defendant has admitted the deposit of Rs 10,00,000 by the plaintiff, as well as the issuing of the five cheques. We are thus clearly of the view that there is no failure of justice to the defendant by decreeing of the suit by the learned Single Judge of the Bombay High Court, on the contrary it would be totally unjust and failure of justice to the plaintiff in case such objection relating to jurisdiction is to be maintained as allowed by the Division Bench of the High Court in its appellate jurisdiction.

In (2005) 7 SCC 791, Harshad Chiman Lal Modi vs. DLF Universal Ltd., this court had again considered Section 21 and other provisions of Code of Civil Procedure. In paragraph 30, following has been laid down: −

30. ....The jurisdiction of a court may be classified into several categories. The important categories are (i) territorial or local jurisdiction; (ii) pecuniary jurisdiction; and (iii) jurisdiction over the subject−matter. So far as territorial and pecuniary jurisdictions are concerned, objection to such jurisdiction has to be taken at the earliest possible opportunity and in any case at or before settlement of issues. The law is well settled on the point that if such objection is not taken at the earliest, it cannot be allowed to be taken at a subsequent stage. Jurisdiction as to subject− matter, however, is totally distinct and stands on a different footing. Where a court has no jurisdiction over the subject− matter of the suit by reason of any limitation imposed by statute, charter or commission, it cannot take up the cause or matter. An order passed by a court having no jurisdiction is a nullity.

Again in (2007) 13 SCC 650, Subhash Mahadevasa Habib v. Nemasa Ambasa Dharmadas, this court held that there is distinction between lack of inherent jurisdiction and objection to territorial and pecuniary jurisdiction. This court noticed the amendments made in Section 21 in the year 1976. Following was stated in paragraph 34, 37 and 41:−

34. It may be noted that Section 21 provided that no objection as to place of the suing can be allowed by even an appellate or revisional court unless such objection was taken in the court of first instance at the earliest possible opportunity and unless there has been a consequent failure of justice. In 1976, the existing section was numbered as sub−section (1) and sub−section (2) was added relating to pecuniary jurisdiction by providing that no objection as to competence of a court with reference to the pecuniary limits of its jurisdiction shall be allowed by any appellate or revisional court unless such objection had been taken in the first instance at the earliest possible opportunity and unless there had been a consequent failure of justice .....

37. As can be seen, Amendment Act 104 of 1976 introduced sub−section (2) relating to pecuniary jurisdiction and put it on a par with the objection to territorial jurisdiction and the competence to raise an objection in that regard even in an appeal from the very decree. This was obviously done in the light of the interpretation placed on Section 21 of the Code as it existed and Section 11 of the Suits Valuation Act by this Court in Kiran Singh v. Chaman Paswan followed by Hiralal Patni v. Kali Nath and Bahrein Petroleum Co. Ltd. v. P.J. Pappu. Therefore, there is no justification in understanding the expression objection as to place of suing occurring in Section 21−A as being confined to an objection only in the territorial sense and not in the pecuniary sense. Both could be understood, especially in the context of the amendment to Section 21 brought about by the Amendment Act, as objection to place of suing.

41. In the light of the above, it is clear that no objection to the pecuniary jurisdiction of the court which tried OS No. 61 of 1971 could be raised successfully even in an appeal against that very decree unless it had been raised at the earliest opportunity and a failure of justice or prejudice was shown. Obviously therefore, it could not be collaterally challenged. That too not by the plaintiffs therein, but by a defendant whose alienation was unsuccessfully challenged by the plaintiffs in that suit.

Now, reverting back to facts of this case it is apparent from the judgment dated 22.10.2016 of Additional District Judge, that no objection to the competence of Additional District Judge to decide the case was taken by any of the parties. No objection having been taken to the pecuniary jurisdiction of the Additional District Judge, Section 21 of the Civil Procedure Code comes into play. Subsection (2) of Section 21 provides that no objection as to the competence of the Court with reference to the pecuniary limits of the jurisdiction shall be allowed by any Appellate or Revisional Court unless conditions mentioned therein are fulfilled. No objection has been raised by respondent tenant regarding competence of the Court. Subsection (2) precludes the revisionist to raise any objection regarding competence of the court and further revisional court ought not to have allowed such objection regarding competence of Court of Additional District Judge to decide the suit. The respondent tenant did not raise any objection regarding competence of the Court and took a chance to obtain judgments in his favour on merits, he cannot be allowed to turn-round and contend that the court of Additional District Judge had no jurisdiction to try the Small Cause Suit and the judgment is without jurisdiction and nullity. Section 21 has been enacted to thwart any such objection by unsuccessful party who did not raise any objection regarding competence of court and allowed the matter to be heard on merits. Further, in deciding the small cause suit by Additional District Judge, the tenant has not proved that there has been a consequent failure of justice.

The High Court in the impugned judgment has not adverted to Section 21 of the Code of Civil Procedure. In judgment of Shobhit Nigam (Supra) also, affect of Section 21 was neither considered nor raised. Section 21 contains a legislative policy which policy has an object and purpose. The object is also to avoid retrial of cases on merit on basis of technical objections.

There is another judgment of Single Judge of the High Court referred to by the learned counsel for the respondent i.e. SCC Revision No.305 of 2016, Tejumal vs. Mohd. Sarfraz, 2017 (121) ALR 392. In the above case, learned Single Judge had allowed the revision under Section 25 against the judgment dated 12.08.2016 passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge on the ground that the judgment of Additional District Judge was without jurisdiction. In paragraph 6 of the judgment, High Court had noticed judgment of this court in R.S.D.V. Finance Company Private Limited vs. Shree Vallabh Glass Works Ltd. where it was held that in view of Section 21(1) of the Code of Civil Procedure, objection as to the place of suing should be taken by the party concerned in the court of first instance at the earliest possible opportunity and the objection to this effect shall not be allowed by the Appellate or Revisional Court but relying on the judgment of this Court in Kiran Singh Vs. Chaman Paswan, learned Single Judge held that defect of jurisdiction whether pecuniary or territorial or to the subject matter cannot be cured and can be set up at any stage of the proceeding.

We are of the view that the above view of the learned Single Judge is neither in consonance with the judgment of this Court in Kiran Singhs case nor with R.S.D.V. Finance Company Private Limited (supra) which has been noted and referred to by learned Single Judge. Section 21 is statutory recognition of the legislative policy which cannot be ignored or given a go−by by the litigants who challenges an unfavourable decision.

We thus of the view that the view of the learned Single Judge in Tejumal Vs. Mohd. Sarfraj does not lay down the correct law and cannot be approved.

In the foregoing discussion, we are of the view that High Court committed error in allowing the S.C.C. Revision filed by the respondent tenant without taking into consideration Section 21 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

We thus hold that even when the court of Additional District Judge was not competent to decide the Small Causes Suit in question on the ground that the pecuniary jurisdiction is vested in Court of Small Causes i.e. Civil Judge, Senior Division w.e.f. 07.12.2015, no interference was called in the judgment of Additional District Judge in the exercise of Revisional Jurisdiction by High Court in view of the provisions of Section 21 of Code of Civil Procedure."

13. Learned counsel for the opposite parties has also relied upon paragraph 5 of judgement of this Court in the matter of Rajendra Kumar @ Vinay Kumar (supra), which are quoted below;

"5. In view of the fact admitted by learned counsel for the tenant-revisionist that objection as to the pecuniary jurisdiction was not specifically raised by the tenant-revisionist before the court below after the amendment was made in Section 15 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887, he can not be permitted to raise the objection as to the pecuniary jurisdiction in view of the provisions of Section 21 of the Civil Procedure code, 1908 and the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Om Prakash Agarwal since Deceased Thr. Lrs. & Ors (supra) (paragraphs 56 to 59). Thus, there is no merit in this revision, therefore, the revision is dismissed."

14. Learned counsel for the revisionists has admitted that revisionists-defendants have not raised the issue of jurisdiction due to pecuniary limits in their written submission, but his argument was focused only on the ground that it is a question relating to jurisdiction which goes to the root of matter and can be raised at any stage. Judgement relied by him also support the very same contention.

15. There is no doubt in the submission of learned counsel for the revisionists that a question relating to jurisdiction which goes to the root of the matter can be raised at any stage, but in present case, there is specific bar provided in Section 21 of CPC, 1908, which says that it can be raised in the Court of first instance and not thereafter. Therefore, argument so advanced and judgement relied upon cannot be accepted.

16. Certainly Section 15 of CPC, 1908 provides Court in which suits to be instituted whereas Sections 21 of CPC, 1908 provides objection to jurisdiction. Sections 15 & 21 are being quoted below;

"15. Court in which suits to be instituted.- Every suit shall be instituted in the Court of the lowest grade competent to try it.

21. Objections to jurisdiction.- [(1)] No objection as to the place of suing shall be allowed by any Appellate or Revisional Court unless such objection was taken in the Court of first instance at the earliest possible opportunity and in all cases where issues or settled at or before such settlement, and unless there has been a consequent failure of justice.*

[(2) No objection as to the competence of a Court with reference to the pecuniary limits of its jurisdiction shall be allowed by any Appellate or Revisional Court unless such objection was taken in the Court of first instance at the earliest possible opportunity, and in all cases where issues are settled, at or before such settlement, and unless there has been a consequent failure of justice.

(3) No objection as to the competence of the executing Court with reference to the local limits of its jurisdiction shall be allowed by any Appellate or Revisional Court unless such objection was taken in the executing Court at the earliest possible opportunity, and unless there has been a consequent failure of justice.]"

17. Section 21 of Sub-section (1) deals with the pecuniary limits of jurisdiction of Court and it is very well stated that no objection with regard to competence of Court with reference of pecuniary limits shall be allowed by any Appellate or Revisional Court, unless such objection was taken in the Court of first instance at the earliest possible opportunity. Whereas in present case, this objection has never been taken in written submission, therefore, at this stage, contrary to provisions of Section 17(1) of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887, no objection can be entertained with regard to jurisdiction of Court based upon pecuniary limits.

18. It is also not disputed that it is not a case of lack of inherent jurisdiction.

There is no doubt on the point that at the time of filing of Small Causes Case, rent was claimed as Rs. 5,000/- per month and accordingly, valuation of suit was more than Rs. 1,00,000/-. Therefore, Court was having jurisdiction to try the case and jurisdiction can only be ceased based on pecuniary limits subject to raising objection in written submission, which was never raised. Therefore, competence of Court based upon jurisdiction cannot be challenged without taking objection in written submission at the first instance. Apex Court in the matter of Om Prakash Agarwal (Supra) has taken very same view that no order can be passed contrary to provisions of Section 21 of CPC, 1908. Relying upon the very same judgement, this Court in the matter of Rajendra Kumar @ Vinay Kumar (supra) has also taken the same view.

19. Therefore, under such facts of the case as well as provisions of Section 21 of CPC, 1908 and the judgements discussed above, there is no illegality in the impugned order.

20. Accordingly, revision lacks merit and is dismissed.

21. No order as to costs.

Revision allowed. (E-9)

List of Cases cited:

1. Smt. Krishna Devi Vs Shobha Chandra; 1981 ALL. L.J. 989

2. Prem Chandra Mishra Vs IInd Addl. District Judge, Etah & ors.; 2008 9 ADJ 13.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard Sri Muktesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for revisionists and Sri Pankaj Agarwal, learned counsel for opposite party.

2. Present revision has been filed challenging the order dated 09.03.2022 passed by District Judge, Aligarh in Misc. Case No. 340 of 2021 (Sabir Ahmad & another vs. Khali Ulla) arising out of S.C.C. Suit No. 22 of 2019 (Khali Ulla vs. Sabir Ahmad & another).

3. Learned counsel for defendants-revisionists submitted that SCC Suit No. 22 of 2019 has been filed claiming rent of Rs. 5,000/- per month. Defendants-revisionists could not receive summon, therefore, they were unable to appear before the Court below. Accordingly, the said suit was decreed ex parte vide order dated 07.12.2020. It is next submitted that after knowing about the order dated 07.12.2020, defendants-revisionists have moved application under Order IX Rule 13 of CPC for recalling of ex parte order dated 07.12.2020. It is also submitted that Section 17 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1887') provides to deposit the decretal amount for setting aside the ex parte decree, therefore, defendants-revisionists have also deposited the said amount. It is next submitted that plaintiff-opposite party has also moved application for releasing of amount so deposited in his favour, upon which defendants-revisionists have filed objection dated 12.01.2022 with specific case that this amount can only be released after disposal of application filed under Order IX Rule 13 of CPC and not before that. Lastly, it is submitted that as per Section 17(2) of Act, 1887, as on date, defendants-revisionists are not liable to pay the amount and they would be liable only if application filed under Order IX Rule 13 of CPC is rejected. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court in the matter of Smt. Krishna Devi vs. Shobha Chandra; 1981 ALL. L.J. 989. Therefore, under such circumstances, impugned order is bad and liable to be set aside.

4. Per contra, Sri Pankaj Agarwal, learned counsel for opposite party submitted that recall application has been filed by the defendants-revisionists with specific case that rent of house in question is only Rs. 200/-, therefore, in case of appearance of defendants-revisionists before the Court, they are required to fulfil the conditions of Section 20(4) of The U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972 (hereinafter referred to as "U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972'). He further submitted that Section 20(6) of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 provides that any amount so deposited by the tenant under sub-section (4) or under Rule 5 of Order XV of the First Schedule to the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (Act No. 5 of 1908) shall be paid to the landlord forthwith on his application without prejudice to the parties pleadings and subject to the ultimate decision in the suits. Court below has rightly released the amount so deposited in favour of landlord. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court passed in the matter of Prem Chandra Mishra vs. IInd Addl. District Judge, Etah and others; 2008 9 ADJ 13. He lastly submitted that in the light of Sections 20(4) & (6) of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 read with Order IX Rule 13 of CPC and Section 17(1) of Act, 1887, there is no illegality in the impugned order, therefore, present revision is liable to be dismissed.

5. I have considered the rival submissions advanced by learned counsels for parties and perused the records, provisions of law as well as judgments relied upon.

6. Facts of the case are undisputed and only question which is to be decided is as to whether the amount so deposited in compliance of Section 17 of Act, 1887 along with application under Order IX Rule 13 of CPC be released in favour of landlord or not.

7. Before coming to any conclusion, it is required to reproduce Section 17 of Act, 1887.

"17. Application of the Code of Civil Procedure.--(1) 1[The procedure prescribed in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908), shall, save in so far as is otherwise provided by that Code or by this Act,] be the procedure followed in a Court of Small Causes in all suits cognizable by it and in all proceedings arising out of such suits:

Provided that an applicant for an order to set aside a decree passed ex parte or for a review of judgment shall, at the time of presenting his application, either deposit in the court the amount due from him under the decree or in pursuance of the judgment, or give [such security for the performance of the decree or compliance with the judgment as the Court may, on a previous application made by him in this behalf, have directed.]

(2) Where a person has become liable as surety under the proviso to sub-section (1), the security may be realised in manner provided by section 3[145] of the Code of Civil Procedure, 4[1908 (5 of 1908)]."

8. From the perusal of language of Section 17 of Act, 1887, it is very much clear that though it was enacted to protect the interest of landlord, but the interest of tenant can also not be ignored. Therefore, in Section 17(2) of Act, 1887, it has been clearly held that where a person become liable as surety under the proviso to sub-section (1), the security may be realised. Application under Order IX Rule 13 of CPC has been filed to set aside the ex parte decree and to protect the interest of landlord, decretal amount has to be deposited. In case of allowing the application under Order IX Rule 13 of CPC and setting aside the ex parte , there would have no occasion for landlord to realise the security or encash the money so deposited. In case of rejection of application under Order IX Rule 13 of CPC, interest of landlord is protected and he may realise the amount so deposited.

9. This Court in the Smt. Krishna Devi(Supra) has taken the very same view. Relevant paragraph of the said judgment is quoted below:-

"5. The second contention is without substance. The amount deposited by the defendant and security furnished remained intact till such time that the exparte decree was not set aside. It is only after the ex parte decree had been set aside that the amount and the security were withdrawn. Although the proviso has been incorporated in S. 17 to protect the interest of the decree holder, but its language does not justify the contention that the amount deposited or the security furnished should remain lying in the Court till such time that the suit is disposed of. The deposit and the security under the proviso have to remain intact during the pendency of the application for setting aside the ex parte decree. In case the application for setting aside the ex parte decree is dismissed the amount deposited will be adjusted towards the decree and the security furnished enforced for the same purpose. In the event of the decree being set aside the purpose of the deposit comes to an end. For there is no decree left to be satisfied and the defendant is free to withdraw this amount. Counsel urged that this Court had passed an order restraining the defendant from withdrawing the amount or the security at the time when this revision was admitted. Without deciding as to whether the defendant committed a breach of the direction of this Court, the withdrawal would not affect the validity of the application. For the deposit and the security have to be maintained in case where the application is allowed, only till such time that the application is not decided in favour of the defendant."

10. Not only this, learned counsel for opposite party has placed reliance upon paragraph No. 18 of the judgment passed by this Court in Prem Chandra Mishra (Supra) in which the Court has taken the very same view. Relevant paragraph of the said judgment is quoted below:-

"18. The object behind proviso of Section 17(1) of Provincial Small Causes Courts Act, 1887 is that unscrupulous tenants against whom rent is due, who do not appear on the date fixed may not take advantage of not paying rent and thereby causing harassment of the landlord. The purpose of adding this proviso to Section 17 is to protect the interest of landlord from further harassment and to secure and ensure payment of rent and to put tenant to term to legally make said deposits. Idea behind said provision is to strike a balance between rival interests so as to be just law. In case of ex parte decree tenant has been given liberty to move application under Order IX Rule 13 of Code of Civil Procedure on the ground provided therein but under proviso to Section 17(1) of Provincial Small Cause Court Act, 1887 condition has been imposed so that tenant does not take undue advantage for non-appearance and in this background as condition precedent is it has been made obligatory on the part of the tenant to deposit the amount which is due so that in the even an application for setting aside decree is dismissed the decree in question may be satisfied from the amount deposited or from the security furnished by the judgment-debtor."

11. Therefore, as provided in Section 17 of Act, 1887 as well as law discussed here-in-above, it is apparent that while framing Section 17 of Act, 1887, legislation was conscious enough to protect the interest of landlord as well as tenant. Section 17(1) of Act, 1887 provides for deposit of decretal amount before moving application under Order IX Rule 13 of CPC to protect the interest of landlord whereas Section 17(2) of Act, 1887 provides that only in case a person has become liable as surety, he may realise the money which protects the interest of tenant. Therefore, before decision upon the application filed under Order IX Rule 13 of CPC, if amount is released, that would frustrate the intention of legislation. In case money is released prior to the decision upon the application filed under Order IX Rule 13 of CPC, it may intend to multiplicity of litigation as in case of allowing the application, tenant would have no option but to initiate separate legal proceeding for recovery of the money so realised by the landlord. Therefore, during the pendency of application filed under Order IX Rule 13 of CPC, allowing the application of release of money is against the provisions of Section 17 of Act, 1887.

12. So far as compliance of Sections 20(4) & (6) of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 is concerned, in case of setting aside of ex parte decree, it is open for SCC Court to ensure the compliance of necessary statutory provisions. In case of non-compliance of any provision, it is also open for the parties to move appropriate application before the SCC Court under the provisions of Rules and it is incumbent upon the SCC Court to decide the same in accordance with law.

13. Therefore, in light of observations made here-in-above, order dated

09.03.2022 passed by District Judge, Aligarh is hereby set aside.

14. Accordingly, Revision is allowed.

15. No order as to costs.

5. Bimal Chand Jain Vs Shri Gopal Agarwal 1981 (3) SCC 486

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for Revisionist and learned counsel appearing on behalf of the Respondent, Mr. Umesh Kumar Tiwari at length.

2. This Civil Revision has been filed against the judgment and order dated 08.10.2020 passed by the learned Additional District & Sessions Judge, Court No. 19, Lucknow in SCC No. 30 of 2017, 'Ajay Kumar Agarwal Vs. Ram Autar Khandelwal' with a delay of around one month. Although time was granted earlier to the counsel for the contesting respondents to file objections but he has not filed objections.

3. Learned counsel for the respondent no.2 says that he does not propose to file any objection and the matter be heard on merits.

4. Delay is condoned.

5. Office is directed to give a Regular number to this Revision.

6. It is the case of the Revisionist that the respondent landlord had given a shop on monthly rent of Rs.5,500/- to the Revisionist in 2008. Since then the Revisionist has been paying advance rent continuously either through cash or cheque on demand of the landlord as mutually and orally agreed upon by them. It has been alleged that the respondent's son had asked the Revisionist for Rupees Two Lakhs for opening a new business, but the Revisionist could not furnish such a huge amount immediately. Becoming annoyed the respondent's son persuaded his father to throw the Revisionist out from the premises and had many times illegally approached the Revisionist at his shop forcing him to vacate the premises. The Revisionist ultimately filed an Injunction Suit No. 821 of 2017 before the Civil Judge (Junior Division), Lucknow in May, 2017. After getting notice of such Injunction Suit the respondent landlord sent a legal notice on 27.05.2017 for arrears of rent amounting to Rs.78,000/- for the period between 15.04.2016 to 14.05.2017. Such demand was illegal as the Revisionist had already deposited rent w.e.f. March, 2016 to August, 2016 in the bank account of A. K. Enterprises, the transport firm of the respondent landlord, through cheque No. 405647 on 15.02.2016. The Revisionist on receipt of such legal notice had sent a reply on 27.06.2017 that he had already deposited cheque dated 15.02.2016 in the bank account of the firm for the period w.e.f. March, 2016 to August, 2016. Nevertheless cheque No. 488540 of Rs.78,000/- as demanded by the landlord was again being sent along with the reply through registered post to satisfy the demand for arrears of rent. Since reply had been sent along with a cheque of Rs.78,000/- to the respondent landlord, the Revisionist presumed that the matter had been settled satisfactorily.

7. It has been argued that the respondent landlord with malafide intent filed S.C.C. Suit No. 30 of 2017 on 01.07.2017 for arrears of rent and for eviction. On 07.09.2017, the respondent landlord returned the cheque of Rs.78,000/- to the Revisionist through registered post saying that the account of the Firm had been closed long back and the cheque, therefore, could not be accepted. The Revisionist did not accept this cheque, but approached the court for depositing rent where he was surprised to find out about the pendency of the aforesaid S.C.C. Suit No. 30 of 2017. The Revisionist moved an application under Order 15 Rule 5 read with Section 151 of the CPC on 19.03.2018 for depositing rent along with 9% interest and Advocate's fee that is a total amount of Rs.2,29,220/-. Such arrears were deposited on 12.04.2019. Also, thereafter the Revisionist continued to deposit all rent continuously, as and when it fell due, in the court. However, the S.C.C. Suit has been decreed in favour of the respondent landlord, without appreciating the evidence on record including the application under Order 15 Rule 5 read with Section 151 CPC.

8. It has been argued by Sri Prashant Jaiswal, Advocate appearing for the Revisionist that the learned trial court failed to see that the S.C.C. Suit for arrears of rent was not maintainable as there was no default of rent by the Revisionist. The learned trial court failed to notice that neither the landlord had filed any rent agreement, registered or unregistered, along with the Suit nor he had filed any rent receipt issued by him for any period to show that he was the landlord. The learned trial court could not have come to the conclusion that the Revisionist was a defaulter unless the relationship of landlord and tenant was established and it was also established that the arrears of rent fell due on a particular date. The Revisionist had filed his bank statement to show that all rent was transferred in the bank account of the landlord. The fact of default in payment of Arrears having not been established the very basis of the S.C.C. Suit fell through.

In the Application under Order 15 Rule 5 of the CPC, the Revisionist had specifically stated that advance rent of the period w.e.f. 15.03.2016 to 14.08.2016 had already been paid in the Landlord's Firm's Account i.e. A K & Company's account on 15.02.2016 and the rest of the rent w.e.f. 15.08.2016 to 14.07.2017 had been paid through another cheque again made out in favour of A K & Company sent to the landlord along with this reply of notice dated 27.05.2017. It has also been argued that since the Revisionist had paid rent w.e.f. 15.03.2016 to 14.08.2016 through cheque dated 15.02.2016, the notice that was sent by the landlord in May 2017, was invalid. Even after receipt of notice the petitioner had deposited Rs.78,000/- through cheque in the account of A K & Company on 30.06.2017, therefore, there were no arrears of rent due from the Revisionist and the Suit was not maintainable.

9. It has also been argued that the Suit was not maintainable also for the reason that Ajay Kumar Agarwal had filed a Suit in his personal capacity whereas there was no relationship of landlord and tenant between Ajay Kumar Agarwal and the Revisionist. The Revisionist was running Vinayaka Agencies' retail counter in the shop in question situated at Dubagga on Hardoi Road and the landlord was A K & company of which Ajay Kumar Agarwal was only the proprietor, just as the Revisionist was the proprietor of Vinayaka Agencies. In the Original Suit No. 821 of 2017 filed by the Revisionist against Ajay Kumar Agarwal before the Civil Judge(Junior Division), Haveli, Lucknow, only notice could be served but no temporary injunction could be granted to the Revisionist as the court remained vacant.

10. The learned counsel for the respondent landlord has pointed out the issues framed by the learned trial court that the first issue was with regard to whether there existed any landlord and tenant relationship between the plaintiff and the defendant. The trial court had noted that it was the contention of the Revisionist that there was no relationship of landlord and tenant between him and Ajay Kumar Agarwal and that he was the tenant of A K & Company of which Ajay Kumar Agarwal was only the proprietor and rent had been given through cheques to A K & Company. But in the written statement filed by the tenant, he had admitted that he used to give rent to Ajay Kumar Agarwal also in cash and there was no written agreement between the parties as the landlord and the tenant were good friends in the beginning and landlord Ajay Kumar Agarwal had orally agreed for renting out the shop in question. Also, the Suit for Permanent Injunction, namely Original Suit No. 821 of 2017, had been registered as "Ramavatar Khandelwal vs. Ajay Kumar Aggarwal' and not as "Ramavtar Agarwal vs. A K & Company. The learned trial court came to the conclusion that admission is the best form of evidence. It had been admitted by the tenant that initially rent was giving either in cash to Ajay Kumar Aggarwal or through cheques since the beginning of the tenancy in 2008. Later on, cheques were deposited in the account of A K & Company. It had been admitted by the defendant that Ajay Kumar Agarwal was the only proprietor of the said Firm and no other person had been authorised to receive rent on behalf of the landlord. Besides no documentary evidence was filed by the defendant that the shop in question and the land appurtenant thereto belonged to the Firm A K & Company and not to Ajay Kumar Agarwal.

11. It has been argued by the learned counsel for the Respondent landlord that with regard to the second issue framed by the learned trial court as to whether there was any default in payment of rent by the defendant, the learned trial court has found that the plaintiff had alleged that the defendant had not paid rent since March 2016, whereas the defendant had alleged that rent had been paid w.e.f. March, 2016 in the account of A K & Company. On the application moved by the defendant under Order 15 Rule 5 of the CPC, it had already been held on 10.05.2019 that arrears of rent along with interest and cost of litigation had not been deposited by the defendant in time despite permission being granted in this regard. It had been alleged by the tenant that all arrears of rent including interest and cost of litigation had been deposited through cheque in the name of A K & Company and not in the name of Ajay Kumar Agarwal, whereas there was an admission in the written statement that the shop in question had been taken on rent by the defendant from Ajay Kumar Agarwal and initially rent was also paid to him in cash by the defendant. After the order dated 10.05.2019, the defence of the tenant had been struck off. The learned trial court had also examined the bank statement filed by the tenant as documentary evidence of payment of rent. It was found that although there is a mention of withdrawal of an amount of Rs.79,588/- on 15.02.2016 through cheque, but there is no mention of the account in which such cheque has been paid. The plaintiff had categorically refused that such amount was ever transferred into the account of the landlord or even the firm A K & Company of which he was the proprietor.

It has been pointed out by the learned counsel for the respondent, landlord, that it is evident from the reply to the legal notice sent by the Revisionist on Page 32 of the paper book that he had knowledge of the account of A K & Company having been closed on 27.06.2017 itself, but he issued a cheque dated 28.06.2017 in the name of A K & Company and sent it by post to the respondent landlord.

12. It has also been pointed out by the learned counsel for the respondent that the company's account was opened only on 23.12.2009, and the Revisionist had taken the premises in question on rent since July, 2008 and had been making payment to Ajay Kumar Agarwal in cash since July, 2008 onwards. Inexplicably, he stopped paying rent to Ajay Kumar Agarwal in 2016 and started depositing cheques in the name of A K & Company thereafter. Even if the tenant's contention that he had paid rent into the account of A K & Company was taken to be correct, it would still not make such payment admissible as arrears of rent due to the plaintiff, Ajay Kumar Agarwal, who was admittedly the person from whom the Revisionist had taken the shop on rent. It has been pointed out by the learned counsel for the respondent that till date the Revisionist has refused to give any rent to Ajay Kumar Agarwal, insisting that his landlord is A K & Company and not Ajay Kumar Agarwal.

13. The learned counsel for the respondent landlord has also pointed out from Annexure 5, page 46 of the paper book that the application moved under Order 15 Rule 5 of the CPC on 19.03.2018 had enumerated the heads under which money was proposed to be deposited. Such application was allowed conditionally, but no money was deposited in time prescribed, as a result the learned trial court rejected the application of the tenant on 22.05.2018. A recall application was filed by the tenant on 14.08.2018, which was allowed on 19.01.2019, but no rent was deposited even thereafter, as a result the learned trial court struck off the defence of the tenant on 10.05.2019. Against such an order the tenant filed Writ Petition No. 16426 (M/S) of 2019, where no interim order was granted and after decision of the trial court impugned in this Revision such petition has become infructuous.

14. The third issue framed by the learned trial court related to whether notice issued to the tenant through registered post on 27.05.2017 by the landlord was a valid notice and had been served upon him. The learned trial court on the basis of evidence on record found that not only the notice was served, it was duly replied to by the tenant. With regard to the relief admissible to the plaintiff then learned trial court found that all three issues having been decided in favour of the plaintiff he was entitled for decree of arrears of rent and for eviction. It therefore directed the defendant to pay arrears of twelve months of rent at the rate of Rs.6,500/- from the date of institution of the Suit as also damages pendente lite at the same rate, and to vacate the premises in question and deliver peaceful possession thereof within two months from the date of the order.

15. The learned counsel for the respondent has placed reliance upon judgement rendered by the Supreme Court in "Bal Gopal Maheshwari and Others Vs. Sanjeev Kumar Gupta 2013 (6) AWC 5823 (SC)", where the Supreme Court has considered the provisions of Order 15 Rule 5 of the CPC and striking off of the defence of the defendant on failure to comply. After considering the language of the provision as added by way of amendment in 1972 in the CPC, the Supreme Court placed reliance upon "Bimal Chand Jain Vs. Shri Gopal Agarwal 1981 (3) SCC 486 to say that :- "a comprehensive understanding of Rule 5 of Order 15 should be thus:- Sub-Rule(1) obliges the defendant to deposit, at or before the first hearing of the Suit, the entire amount admitted by him to be due together with interest thereon at the rate of 9% per annum and further, whether or not he admits any amount to be due, to deposit regularly throughout the continuation of the suit, the monthly amount due within a week from the date of its accrual. In the event of any default in making any deposit, the court may, subject to the provisions of Sub-Rule (2) to strike off his defence. We shall presently come to what this means. Sub-Rule 2 obliges the court, before making an order for striking off the defence to consider any representation made by the defendant in that behalf. In other words, the defendant has been vested with a statutory right to make a ''representation' to the court against the decision of his defence being struck off. If a representation is made the court must consider it on its merits, and then decide whether the defence should or should not be struck off. This is the right expressly vested in the defendant and enables him to show by bringing material on the record that he has not been guilty of default alleged or if the default has occurred, there is a good reason for it. Now, it is not impossible that the records may contain such material already. In that event, can it be said that Sub-Rule (1) obliges the court to strike out the defence? We must remember that an order under Sub-Rule (1) striking off defence is in the nature of a penalty. A serious responsibility rests on the court in the matter and the power is not to be exercised mechanically. There is a reserve of discretion vested in in the court not to strike out the defence if on the facts and circumstances already existing on the record, it finds good reason for not doing so. It will always be a matter for the judgement of the court to decide whether on the material before it, notwithstanding the absence of a representation under Sub-Rule (2) the defence should or should not be struck off. The word "may' in Sub-Rule (1) merely vested the power in the court to strike out the defence. It does not oblige it to do so in every case of default. ....."

16. The Supreme Court in the judgement of Bal Gopal Maheshwari(Supra) went on to say that if such discretion is exercised by the learned trial court after looking into an application made by the plaintiff to strike off the defence of the defendant and its reply thereto is submitted by the defendant it would amount to considering the "representation' in the light of Sub-Rule (2) and the High Court should not have interfered in a well considered order passed by the trial court in this regard.

17. The learned counsel for the respondent landlord, has also placed reliance upon a Constitution Bench judgement in the case of "Hari Shankar and others Vs. Rao Girdhari Lal Chowdhury AIR 1963 Supreme Court 698", and judgement rendered in "Rama Murti Devi Vs. Pushpa Devi and Others 2017 (15) SCC 230", regarding the scope of Revision under Section 25 of the Provincial Small Causes Courts Act. Learned counsel for the respondent has pointed out paragraph 29 to 38 of the judgement rendered in Rama Murti Devi(Supra), wherein after considering the Constitution Bench judgement, as aforesaid , it has been observed that the object of Section 25 is to enable the High Court to see that there has been no miscarriage of justice, that the decision was given according to law. The Court placed reliance on observations made by Chief Justice Beaumont in "Bell and Co Ltd. v Waman Hemraj AIR 1938(Bombay) 223", where he said :- ".....The section does not enumerate the cases in which the court may interfere in revision, as does, Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure, and I certainly do not propose to attempt an exhaustive definition of the circumstances which may justify such interference; but instances which readily occur to the mind are cases in which the court which made the order had no jurisdiction or in which the court has based its decision on evidence which should not have been admitted, or cases where the unsuccessful party has not been given a proper opportunity of being heard, or the burden of proof has been placed on the wrong shoulders. Wherever the court comes to the conclusion that the unsuccessful party has not had a proper trial according to law, then the court can interfere. But in my opinion, the court ought not to interfere merely because it thinks that possibly the judge who heard the case may have arrived at a conclusion which the High Court would not have arrived that.....".

18. The Supreme Court referred to another judgement rendered in "Mundri Lal Vs. Sushila Ram (2007) 8 SCC 609"; where it was held that a pure finding of fact based on appreciation of all the evidence although may not be interfered with but there are several circumstances in which the Revisional Court under Section 25 of the 1887 Act, can interfere with the finding of fact. It referred to the observations made by the court in paragraph 22 and 23 as follows :

" 22. There cannot be any doubt whatsoever that the Revisional jurisdiction of the High Court under Section 25 of the Provincial Small Causes Courts Act is wider then Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure. But the fact that Revision is provided for by the statute, and not an Appeal, itself is suggestive of the fact that ordinarily Revisional jurisdiction can be exercised only when a question of law arises.

"23. We however do not mean to say that under no circumstances finding of fact cannot be interfered with. A pure finding of fact based on appreciation of evidence although may not be interfered, with but if such finding has been arrived at upon taking into consideration irrelevant factors or therefore, relevant fact has been ignored, the Revisional Court will have the requisite jurisdiction to interfere with the finding of fact. Applicability of provisions of Section 2 (2) of the Act may in that sense involve determination of mixed question of law and fact."

19. Having heard the learned counsel for the Revisionist and the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent landlord, I have also carefully perused the order impugned. This is not a case where the trial court has considered any irrelevant fact or has ignored any relevant fact. There is also no perverse finding of fact against the record. The Revisionist may have been alleging that he had paid all arrears of rent due to the landlord, the burden was on him to prove such allegations. The learned trial court on the basis of documentary evidence and provisions of Order 15 Rule 5 of the CPC has come to a conclusion that despite an application being made, the defendant had not made any payment at all during the pendency of the Suit in the account of the respondent landlord nor had deposited any sum in cash in the court concerned where the Suit for Arrears of Rent and Eviction was pending. This Court, therefore, finds no good ground to show interference in the order impugned.

20. The Revision stands Rejected. Since the order of the trial court stands affirmed it shall be complied with strictly by the Revisionist, who shall pay all arrears of rent and also damages pendente lite with interest at the rate of 12 percent per annum and vacate the premises in question within a period of two months.

Civil Law - Code of Civil Procedure,1908 - Order XV Rule 5 - Suit for eviction and arrears of rent against revisionist-opposite party filed Written St.ment denying tenancy of revisionist no.1 but accepted tenancy of revisionist no.2 -opposite party filed application under Order XV Rule 5 to strike off defence-no payment of rent before the Court concerned- after first hearing of suit-defence rightly struck off.

Revision dismissed. (E-9)

3. Gaya Prasad Vs Thakur Krishna Chandra Ji Maharaj Virajman Mandir Bag Beniram & anr. reported in 2018 (127) ALR 104

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the revisionists and Sri Harsh Narayan Singh, learned counsel for the opposite party.

2. Present revision has been filed challenging the impugned order dated 3.11.2021 passed by the Additional Session Judge, Court No.1, Banda in SCC No. 3 of 2019 (Smt. Babita vs. Radhe Shyam Chaurasiya).

3. Learned counsel for the revisionist submitted that revisionist no.1 is never the tenant of opposite party, whereas tenancy is with the revisionist no. 2 through her husband since 1989. After institution of Suit No. 3 of 2019, opposite party has filed written statement denying the tenancy of revisionist no.1, but accepted the tenancy of revisionist no. 2. During the pendency of suit proceedings, opposite party has filed an application under Order XV Rule 5 of Code of Civil Procedure (in short C.P.C.) on 5.1.2021 to struck off the defence, which was replied by the revisionists-defendants on 2.2.2021. In its reply, it is stated that revisionist no.1 is never the tenant and revisionist no.2 is shown to be sub-tenant, against whom, no rent is claimed, therefore, both are not liable to pay rent as required under Order XV Rule 5 of C.P.C.. Further, revisionist no. 2 is continuously tried to pay rent, but the same was not accepted by the opposite party, therefore, revisionist no.2 sent the rent of shop in question through post office on 30.4.2019. He also stated that revisionist no.2 paid the rent of 32 months from 13.2.2015 to 13.10.2017. Lastly, he submitted that under such facts and circumstances, application has wrongly been allowed and order is bad in law and liable to be set aside.

4. Per contra, Sri Harsh Narayan Singh, learned counsel for the opposite party submitted that both the defendants-revisionists are tenant of shop in question and taking contrary view. On one hand, they are saying that they are not tenant and on the other hand, it is accepted by revisionist no.2 that she has deposited rent from time to time. He next submitted that in case, revisionist no.1 is not the tenant, he must file an affidavit to this effect before the Court below with the specific averment that his name may be deleted from the array of the parties and he is only visitor at the shop of revisionist no.2, who is original tenant. He further submitted that now it is admitted by the revisionist no.2 that she is tenant. Further, from the pleadings of this revision as well as objection filed to the application under Order XV Rule 5 of C.P.C., it is admitted by the revisionist no.1 that he was not the tenant, therefore, he has not paid rent and revisionist no.2 is tenant, but never deposited the rent as required under provision of Order XV Rule 5 of C.P.C. Therefore, there is no illegality or irregularity in allowing the application filed under Order XV Rule 5 C.P.C.

5. In support of this contention, he placed reliance upon the judgments of this Court in the cases of Maya Devi another vs. Vipin Kumar Kushwaha and another passed in S.C.C. Revision No. 489 of 2014 decided on 26.8.2016, State Bank of India,

City Branch Pandey Hata, Thru. its Branch Manager and another vs. Ram Niwas Verma and others reported in 2018 (127) ALR 362 and Gaya Prasad Vs. Thakur Krishna Chandra Ji Maharaj Virajman Mandir Bag Beniram and another reported in 2018 (127) ALR 104.

6. I have considered the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and perused the provision of Order XV Rule 5 of C.P.C. as well as judgments of this Court. Order XV Rule 5 of C.P.C. Provides as follows:-

"5. Striking of defence for failure to deposit admitted rent, etc. In any suit by a lessor for the eviction of a lessee after the determination of his lease and for the recovery from him of rent or compensation for use and occupation, the defendant shall, at or before the first hearing of the suit, deposit the entire amount admitted by him to be due together with interest thereon at the rate of nine per centum per annum and whether or not he admits any amount to be due, he shall throughout the continuation of the suit regularly deposit the monthly amount due within a week from the date of its accrual, and in the event of any default in making the deposit of entire amount admitted by him to be due or the monthly amount due as aforesaid, the Court may, subject to the provisions of sub-rule (2), strike off his defence.

Explanation 1. The expression "first hearing' means the date for filing written statement for hearing mentioned in the summons or where more than one of such dates are mentioned, the last of the dates mentioned.

Explanation 2. The expression "entire amount admitted by him to be due' means the entire gross amount, whether as rent or compensation for use and occupation, calculated at the admitted rate of rent for the admitted period of arrears after making no other deduction except the taxes, if any, paid to a local authority in respect of the building on lessor's account and the amount, if any, paid to the lessor acknowledged by the lessor in writing signed by him and the amount, if any, deposited in any Court under Section 30 of the U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972.

Explanation 3. (1) The expression "monthly amount due' means the amount due every month, whether as rent or compensation for use and occupation at the admitted rate of rent, after making no other deduction except the taxes, if any, paid to a local authority, in respect of the building on lessor's account.

(2) Before making any order for striking off defence, the Court may consider any representation made by the defendant in that behalf provided such representation is made within 10 days, of the first hearing or, of the expiry of the week referred to in sub-section (1), as the case may be.

(3) The amount deposited under this Rule may at any time be withdrawn by the plaintiff:

Provided that such withdrawal shall not have the effect of prejudicing any claim by the plaintiff disputing the correctness of the amount deposited:

Provided further that if the amount deposited includes any sums claimed by the depositor to be deductible on any account, the Court may require the plaintiff to furnish the security for such sum before he is allowed to withdraw the same."

7. The first part deals with the deposit of the 'entire amount admitted by him to be due' together with interest at or before the first hearing of the suit. The second part deals with the deposit of 'monthly amount due' which has to be made throughout the continuation of the suit. So far as any amount deposited prior to institution of the suit, may be adjusted against the arrears, if any such application is filed. Whereas second part is concerned, it is mandatory requirement to deposit the rent before the Court concerned, where the suit is instituted. In the objection dated 2.2.2021 filed to the application under Order XV Rule 5 of C.P.C as well as affidavit filed before the Court, it is accepted by the revisionist no.2 that no rent has been paid by her before the Court concerned after first hearing of the suit.

8. This Court in the matter of Maya Devi (Supra) has taken specific view that in case of denial of tenancy, he may not be required to deposit the amount admitted to be due at or before the first hearing of the suit but he would still be required to deposit the monthly amount due within a week. Relevant paragraph of the said judgment is being quoted hereinbelow:-

"In the aforesaid case it was held that where the defendant denies the existence of landlord and tenant relationship, he may not be required to deposit the amount admitted to be due at or before the first hearing of the suit but he would still be required to deposit the monthly amount due within a week from the date of its accrual throughout the continuation of the suit because such deposit has to be made in spite of the fact he admits any amount to be due or not."

9. In the matter of Gaya Prasad (Supra), Court has taken the view that rent is required to be deposited in compliance of provisions of Order XV Rule 5 of C.P.C. Relevant paragraph of the said judgment is being quoted hereinbelow:-

"Default in payment of rent is admitted and stands proved on record inasmuch as according to own case of the defendant-petitioner he has not paid rent after 04.08.1999. It is also not disputed that the rent has not been deposited in compliance to the provisions of Order XV Rule 5 C.P.C. Consequently, his defense was also struck off. The order striking off the defense, therefore, also does not suffer from any manifest error of law."

10. In the matter of State Bank of India, City Branch Pandey Hata (Supra), Court has again taken the same view that rent is not deposited by the tenant, therefore, there is no illegality in striking off the defence. Relevant paragraph of the said judgment is being quoted hereinbelow:-

"Considering the admitted facts of the case that the defendants-petitioners have neither disputed the arrears of rent on the first date of hearing nor paid monthly rent and as such protection of order XV Rule 5 C.P.C. was not available to him. Consequently, the court below has not committed any error of law in allowing the application 37Ga and striking off the defence of the defendants-petitioners/tenants. So far as the rejection of application 50Ga is concerned, I find that as per statement made by learned counsel for the plaintiffs-respondents before this Court and not disputed by learned counsel for the defendants-petitioners, the date 8.2.2018 is fixed before the court below for arguments. Therefore, I find it appropriate to request the court below to decide the aforesaid SCC Suit No.05 of 2016 (Ram Niwas Verma and others Vs. State Bank of India and another) in accordance with law, expeditiously, preferably within eight weeks from the date of presentation of a certified copy of this order, without granting any unnecessary adjournment to either of the parties."

11. From perusal of Order XV Rule 5 of C.P.C., it is apparently clear that any deposit made prior to first appearance in SCC suit may be adjusted for arrears of rent due upon filing an application, but after institution of suit, it is mandatory requirement to deposit rent before the Court, where the suit is instituted. Once it is not disputed that rent has not been deposited before the Court concerned, where the suit is instituted, there is no option before the Court to struck off the defence as provided under the provisions of Order XV Rule 5 of C.P.C.

12. So far as present case is concerned, there is admission on the part of revisionist no.2 that she has paid rent from time to time and she is tenant. She also admitted that she has never paid rent before the Court concerned after first hearing of the suit as required under Order 5 Rule 15 of C.P.C.

13. Therefore, in light of facts of the case as well as law laid down by this Court from time to time, there is no illegality or irregularity and Court has rightly struck off the defence of revisionists. Revision lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed. No order as to costs.

4. Gullapalli Krishna Das Vs Vishnumolakala Venkaiah & ors., AIR 1978 SC 361

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Chandra Sharma, .J.)

1. Heard Sri S.D. Kautilya, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri H.P. Mishra, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. This second appeal arises from the judgment and decree dated 12.09.1997 passed in First Appeal No.12/1993 (Smt. Annapurna Devi and others vs. Pt. Ram Shankar Shukla substituted by his legal heirs) by learned First Additional District Judge, Pilibhit by which learned court has allowed the appeal and set aside the judgment and decree dated 28.11.1981 passed by Civil Judge, Pilibhit in O.S. No.49/2007 (Ram Shankar Shukla Vs. Smt. Annapurna Devi and Harish Chandra Bajpai) holding that Smt. Ramshri Kunwar (mother of Smt. Annapurna Devi) became full owner of the property in suit by virtue of Section 14 (1) of the Hindu Succession Act and not a licencee.

3. The facts giving rise to the present appeal are in brief that Pt. Jagan Mohan Shukla was owner of movable and immovable property. He had two wives, one Smt. Ramshri Kunwar and other Smt. Saraswati Devi. Smt. Annapurna Devi was daughter of Smt. Ramshri Kunwar and Pt. Ram Shankar Shukla was son of Smt. Saraswati Kunwar. Sri Ram Shankar Shukla was represented by his son Kamlesh Kumar, daughter Smt. Indra Prakashini and Smt. Raj Mohini. During pendency of this appeal, Kamlesh Shukla also died and represented through his legal representatives. Likewise respondent Smt. Annapurna Devi died and represented through her legal representatives.

4. Pt. Jagan Mohan Shukla executed a family settlement deed on 27.05.1940 with a view to maintain peace and harmony in the family between Sri Ram Shankar Shukla and Smt. Ramshri Kunwar his step mother. He made arrangement of his entire property and gave life estate to his wife Smt. Ram Shri Kunwar in two houses as described in para no.4 A of the plaint and granted absolute rights of ownership of one shop as mentioned in para no.4C, half share in two grooves as mentioned in para no.4B of the plaint. He reserved for his own use, the property mentioned in para no.5 for lifetime and after his death, the plaintiff/Ram Shankar Shukla was to become its absolute owner. The settlement deed dated 27.05.1940 was acted upon and Smt. Ramshri Kunwar was given possession accordingly. She sold some of the property given to her by the deed dated 27.05.1940 and continued to occupy the houses mentioned in para no.4A of the plaint till she died on 16.04.1977 and then property was occupied by her daughter Smt. Annapurna Devi and her husband. Since Smt. Ram Shri Kunwar was given life interest in the property (houses) and daughter of Smt. Ram Shri Kunwar with her husband was living in the houses even after the death of Smt. Ram Shri Kunwar, therefore, they were asked to vacate the property but on their failure, this suit was filed by the plaintiff Ram Shankar Shukla which was decreed by the learned trial court holding that since Smt. Ram Shri Kunwar was given life interest in the disputed houses by way of gift-cum-will-cum family settlement by Pt. Jagan Mohan Shukla, therefore, the case was covered by sub Section 2 of Section 14 of the Hindu Succession Act.

5. Being aggrieved with this judgment and decree Smt. Annapurna Devi preferred first appeal before the District Judge which was heard and decided by learned First Additional District Judge, Pilibhit on 12.09.1997 by which learned court allowed the appeal and held that Smt. Ram Shri Kunwar became the owner of the property in view of Section 14 of the Hindu Succession Act and she was not a licencee. Being aggrieved with this judgment and decree this second appeal has been preferred by legal heirs of Ram Shankar Shukla against Smt. Annapurna Devi (died during the pendency of appeal) and her husband Harish Chandra Bajpai before this Court.

6. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

7. In this appeal two substantial questions of law were formulated.

I. Whether the Gift-cum-will-cum-family settlement dated 27.5.1940 executed by Pt. Jagan Mohan Shukla is not covered by the provisions of Section 14(2) of the Act of 1956.

II. Whether the defendants/opposite parties have any rights on the property in dispute by virtue of the settlement dated 27.05.1940.

8. Learned counsel for the appellants has argued that in the present situation of the case sub-section (2) of Section 14 of Hindu Succession Act will apply because property was not given to Smt. Ram Shri Kunwar by her husband Pt. Jagan Mohan Shukla for her maintenance with limited interest but she was admitted to the property as licencee. The family settlement by which property was devised will not come within the ambit of sub-section (1) of Section 14 of the Act. Nowhere the word maintenance gets mention in the deed of family settlement. In this view, the judgment and decree passed by learned first appellate court is to be set aside and appeal be allowed.

9. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents urged that the reasoning as given by the learned counsel for the appellants does not get support from the language as used in sub-section (1) & (2) of Section 14 of Hindu Succession Act. It is against the intention of the legislature. By passing the act the legislature intended to confer full rights of ownership in the property possessed by a female Hindu either before or after the commencement of the Act. As per interpretation by Hon'ble the Supreme Court, if pre-existing right of a female is recognized in conferring rights regarding some property then sub-section (1) of Section 14 will apply. On the contrary if new right is created only then sub-section (2) may apply. In the present case respondent Smt. Annapurna Devi is daughter of Smt. Ram Shri Kunwar wife of Jagan Mohan Shukla who was entitled for her residence and maintenance from her husband and that right was recognized by devising the property to her through family settlement, therefore, sub-section (1) of Section 14 will apply but not sub-section (2). The learned first appellate court has passed the judgment and decree in question in this appeal after considering all these facts in the light of law as laid down by Hon'ble the Supreme Court and as provided under Section 14 of the Hindu Succession Act. There is no any illegality or infirmity in the impugned judgment but this appeal being forceless, is liable to be dismissed with cost. Learned counsel for the respondent relied on the cases of V. Tulasamma & othes Vs. V. Shehsa Reddy, AIR 1977 SC 1944 and Gullapalli Krishna Das Vs. Vishnumolakala Venkaiah & others, AIR 1978 SC 361.

10. To decide the question, as to whether property in dispute which was devised by Pt. Jagan Mohan Shukla in favour of Smt. Ram Shri Kunwar through family settlement creating life interest in it, confers full right of ownership on her by virtue of sub-section (1) of Section 14 of the Hindu Succession Act or it is covered with the provisions of sub-section (2) of Section 14 of the Act, it is necessary to go through the provisions as contained in Section 14 of the Act and also the various judicial pronouncements in this regard.

11. Section 14 of Hindu Succession Act, 1956 provides that :-

"14(1) Any property possessed by a female Hindu, whether acquired before or after the commencement of this Act, shall be held by her as full owner thereof and not as a limited owner.

Explanation.---In this sub-section, "property" includes both movable and immovable property acquired by a female Hindu by inheri-tance or device, or at a partition, or in lieu of maintenance or arrears of maintenance, or by gift from any person, whether a relative or not, before, at or after her marriage, or by her own skill or exertion, or by purchase or by prescription, or in any other manner what- ever, and also any such property held by her as stridharas immediately before the commence- ment of this Act.

(2) Nothing contained in sub-section (1) shah apply to any property acquired by way of gift or under a will or any other instrument or under a decree or order of a civil court or under an award where the terms of the gift, will or other instrument or the decree, order or award prescribe a restricted estate in such property."

12. Prior to the enactment of Section 14, the Hindu Law restricted the nature of the interest of Hindu female in property acquired by her. The legislature by enacting sub-section (1) of the Section 14 intended to convert the interest which a Hindu female has in property, however, restricted the nature of that interest under the Shastri Hindu Law, into absolute interest. The Hindu Succession Act, 1956 had made far reaching changes in this regard. The Act confers upon the Hindu female, full rights of inheritance and sweeps away the traditional limitations on her powers of disposition.

13. Section 14 (1) is wide in its scope and ambit. It provides that any property possessed by a female Hindu, whether acquired before or after the commencement of this Act shall be held by her as full owner thereof and not as a limited owner. The words 'any property' are large enough to cover any and every kind of property but in order to make it comprehensive, there is an explanation. Now, whatever be the kind of property movable or immovable and whichever be the mode of acquisition, it would be covered by sub-section (1) of Section 14, the object of legislature being to wipe out the disabilities from which a Hindu female suffered in regard to ownership of property under the old law.

14. The provision under sub-section (2) of Section 14 is more in the nature of a proviso or exception to sub-section (1). It cannot be interpreted in a manner to deprive a Hindu female of the protection sought to be given to her by sub-section (1). Sub-section (2) must, therefore, be read in the context of sub-section (1) so as to leave as large a scope for operation as possible to sub-section (1). It must be confined to cases where property is acquired by a female Hindu for the first time as a grant without any pre-existing right, under a gift, will, instrument, decree, order or award, the terms of which prescribe a restricted estate in the property.

15. This line of approach in the construction of sub-section (2) of section 14 is amply borne out by the trend of judicial decisions of Hon'ble the Apex Court. In this connection reference be made to the decision in the case of Badri Parasad vs. Smt. Kanso Devi AIR 1970 SC 1963. The facts in that case were that one Gajju Mal owning self- acquired properties died in 1947 leaving five sons and a widow. On August 5, 1950, one Tulsi Ram Seth was appointed by the parties as an arbitrator for resolving certain dif- ferences which had arisen relating to partition of the properties left by Gujju Mal. The arbitrator made his award on December 31, 1950 and under clause 6 of the award, the 'widow was awarded certain properties and it was expressly stated in the award that she would have a widow's estate in the properties awarded to her. While the widow was in possession of the properties, the Act came into force and the question arose whether on the coming into force of the Act, she became full owner of the properties under sub- section (1) or her estate in the properties remained a restricted one under sub-section (2) of section 14. It was held that although the award gave a restricted estate to the widow in the properties allotted to her, it was sub-section (1) which applied and not sub-section (2), because inter alia the properties given to her under the award were on the basis of a pre-existing right which she had as an heir of her husband under the Hindu Women's Right to Property Act, 1937 and not as a new grant made for the first time. Sub-section (2) can come into operation only if acquisition in any of the methods enacted therein is made for the first time without there being any pre-existing right in the female Hindu who is in possession of the property. It was further held that the mere fact that the partition was by means of an award would not bring the matter within Section 14(2) of the Act, because the interest given to the widow was on the basis of pre-existing right and not a new grant for the first time. So also in Nirmal Chand v. Vidya Wanti (dead) by her legal representatives, C.A. No.609 of 1965, D/- 21-1 1969 (SC) there was a regular partition deed made on December 3, 1945 between Amin Chand, a coparcener and Subhrai Bai, the widow of a deceased coparcener, under which a certain property was allotted to Subhrai Bai and it was specifically provided in the partition deed that Subhrai Bai would be entitled only to the user of the property and she would have no right to alienate it in any manner but would only have a life interest. Subhrai Bai died in 1957 subsequent to the coming into force of the Act after making a will bequeathing the property in favour of her daughter Vidyawati. The right of Subhrai Bai to bequeath the property by will was challenged on the ground that she had only a limited interest in the property and her case was covered by sub-section (2) and not sub-section (1). This contention was negatived and it was held that though it was true that the instrument of partition prescribed only a limited interest for Subhrai Bai in the property, that was in recognition of the legal position which then prevailed and hence it did not bring her case within the exception contained in sub-section (2) of section 14. It was observed:

"If Subhrai Bai was entitled to a share in her husband's properties then the suit proper- ties must be held to have been allotted to her in accordance with law. As the law then stood she had only a life interest in the properties taken by her. Therefore the recital in the deed in question that she would have only a life interest in the properties allotted to her share is merely recording the true legal position. Hence it is' not possible to con- clude that the properties in question were given to her subject to the condition of her enjoying it for her life time. Therefore the trial court as well as the first Appellate Court were right in holding that the facts of the case do not fall within S. 14 (2) of the Hindu Succession Act, 1956."

16. It will be seen from these observations that even though the property was acquired by Subhrai Bai under the instrument of partition, which gave only a limited interest to her in the property, the Court held. that the case fell within sub-section (1) and not sub-section (2). The reason obviously was that the property was 'given to Subhrai Bai in virtue of a pre-existing right inhering in her and when the instrument of partition provided that she would only have a limited interest in the property, it merely provided for something which even otherwise would have been the legal position under the law as it then stood. It is only when property is acquired by a Hindu female as a new grant for the first time and the instrument, decree; order or award giving the property prescribes the terms on which it is to be held by the Hindu female, namely, as a restricted owner, that sub- section (2) comes into play and excludes the applicability of sub-section (1).

17. The object of sub-section (2), as pointed out by Hon'ble the Apex Court in Badri Prasad's case (supra) while quoting with approval the observations made by the Madras High Court in Rangaswami Naicker v. Chinnammal, AIR 1964 Mad 387, is "only to remove the disability of women imposed by law and not to interfere with contracts, grants or decree etc. by virtue of which a woman's right was restricted" and, there- fore, where property is acquired by a Hindu female under the instrument in virtue of a pre-existing right, such as a right to obtain property on partition or a right to maintenance and under the law as it stood prior to the enactment of the Act, she would have no more than limit- ed interest in the property, a provision in the instrument giving her limited interest in the property would be merely by way of record or recognition of the true legal position and the restriction on her interest being a "disability imposed by law" would be wiped out and her limited interest would be enlarged under sub-section (1). But where property is acquired by a Hindu female under an instrument for the first time without any pre-existing right solely by virtue of the instrument, she must hold it on the terms on which it is given to her and if what is given to her is a restricted estate, it would not be enlarged by reason of sub-section (2).

18. In the light of the above decisions of the Hon'ble Apex Court the following principles appear to be clear:

(1) that the provisions of Section 14, of the 1956 Act must be liberally construed in order to advance the object of the Act which is to enlarge the limited interest possessed by a Hindu widow which was in consonance with the changing temper of the times;

(2) it is manifestly clear that sub-s. (2) of Section 14 does not refer to any transfer which merely recognises a pre-existing right without creating or conferring a new title on the widow. This was clearly held by this Court in Badri Parshad's case (supra).

(3) that the Act of 1956 has made revolutionary and far-reaching changes in the Hindu society and every attempt should be made to carry out the. spirit of the Act which has undoubtedly supplied a long felt need and tried to do away with the invidious distinction between a Hindu male and female in matters of intestate succession;

(4) that sub-s. (2) of Section 14 is merely a proviso to. subs. (1) of Section 14 and has to be interpreted as a proviso and not-in a manner so' as to destroy the effect of the main provision.

19. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of V. Tulasamma & othes Vs. V. Shehsa Reddy, AIR 1977 SC 1944 has considered the aforesaid cases and discussed the legal position elaborately relating to sub-section (2) of Section 14 and held in Para No.40 as under :-

"Finally, we cannot overlook the scope and extent of a proviso. There can be no doubt that sub-s. (2) of Section 14 is. clearly a proviso to Section 14 (1) and this has been so held by this Court in Badri Prasad's case (supra). It is well settled that a provision in the nature of a proviso merely carves out an exception to the main provision and cannot be interpreted in a manner so as to. destroy the effect of the main provision or to render the same nugatory. If we accept the argument of the respondent that sub-s. (2) to Section 14 would include even a property which has been acquired by a Hindu female at a partition or in lieu of maintenance then a substantial part of the Explanation would be completely set at naught which could never be the intention of the proviso Thus we are clearly of the opinion that sub-s. (2) of of the proviso should be interpreted in such a way so as not to substantially erode Section 14 (1) or the Explanation thereto. In the present case we feel that the proviso has carved out completely a separate. field and before it can apply three conditions must exist:

(i) that the property must have been acquired by way of gift, will, instrument, decree, order of the Court or by an award;

(ii) that any of these documents executed in favour of a Hindu female must prescribe a restricted estate in such property; and

(iii) that the instrument must create or confer a new right, title or interest on the Hindu female and not merely recognise or give effect to a pre-existing right which the female Hindu already possessed."

20. In the case of Gullapalli Krishna Das Vs. Vishnumolakala Venkaiah & others, AIR 1978 SC 361, the Hon'be Apex Court has again affirmed the law as laid down by it in the case of V. Tulasamma Vs. V. Shehsa Reddy (supra).

21. In the instant case Pt. Jagmohan Shukla had two wives and Smt. Ram Shri Kunwar was one of them who had a daughter namely Smt. Annapurna Devi. Ram Shankar Shukla was from the other wife. Being wife, Smt. Ram Shri Kunwar was entitled for residence and maintenance from her husband Pt. Jagan Mohan Shukla. Through family settlement several properties were devised in favour of her and her step son Ram Shankar Shukla by Pt. Jagan Mohan Shukla to avoid future disputes. She was also conferred right of full ownership in respect of other properties but the houses in dispute except the right to transfer with the consent of Ram Shankar Shukla. Possession was also handed over to her. In the year 1956, the Hindu Succession Act came into force with Section 14 conferring the rights of full ownership on Hindu women. At that time, she was occupying the property. She died on 16.04.1977. It is crystal clear that through family settlement the pre-existing right of residence & maintenance of Smt. Ram Shri Kunwar was recognized. No any new right was conferred on her. So she became full owner of the property in question by virtue of sub-section (1) of Section 14 of the Hindu Succession Act and sub-section (2) of Section 14 of the Act, cannot be applied.

22. Consequently the defendant/respondent Smt. Annapurna Devi, daughter of Smt. Ram Shri Kunwar, who became the full owner of the property in question, is also entitled to inherit the property.

23. This Court is of the considered opinion that there appears no illegality or impropriety in the judgment and decree dated 12.09.1997 passed by learned First Additional District Judge, Pilibhit by which learned court had allowed the appeal and set aside the judgment and decree dated 28.11.1981 passed by Civil Judge, Pilibhit in O.S. No.49/2007.

24. Accordingly, this second appeal lacks merit and is, hereby, dismissed and the judgment and decree passed by first appellate court is confirmed.

25. No order as to costs.

3. Smt. Alka Sharma & ors. Vs U.O.I. & ors., Second Appeal No.192 of 2007

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rohit Ranjan Agarwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri A.P. Tewari, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri P.K. Giri, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the respondents.

2. This is plaintiffs' appeal under Section 100 of Code of Civil Procedure (in short "CPC") against the judgment and decree dated 04.08.2017 passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge/Special Judge (Gangster Act), Court No.8, Deoria in Civil Appeal No.45 of 2016 arising out of judgment and decree dated 22.11.2016 passed by Additional Civil Judge (Junior Division), Court No.24, Deoria in Original Suit No.983 of 2007.

3. The facts, in brief, are that the plaintiffs-appellants filed a declarator suit against the defendants-respondents for declaring them as the legal heirs of deceased Markandey Pandey and also for declaring Markandey Pandey as dead.

4. The plaint version is that, on 12.10.1996, Markandey Pandey left the home to visit Vaishno Devi Temple, but when no whereabouts were heard by the family members, a report of missing person was given to the concerned police station. Further, as the whereabouts of Markandey Pandey was not heard for 7 years and the defendants were not passing orders for entry in the revenue records of the plaintiffs-appellants, Original Suit No.983 of 2008 was filed.

5. The aforesaid suit was contested by the defendant no.2, who filed his written statement and denied the allegations. It was further stated that no first information report has been lodged nor any publication in newspaper has been made regarding missing of Markandey Pandey. The trial Court framed the following issues:-

"01- क्या वादीगण वाद पत्र में उल्लिखित कारणों के आधार पर उदघोषणात्मक ब्यादेश का अनुतोष पाने का अधिकारी है ?

03- क्या अदा न्याय शुल्क अपर्याप्त है ?

04- क्या न्यायालय को मामले की सुनवाई के क्षेत्राधिकार नहीं है ?

05- क्या वाद आदेश 7 नियम-11 सि० प्र ० सं ० से बाधित है ?

06- अन्य कोई अनुतोष ? "

6. The trial Court, while deciding issue no.1, held that no first information report has been brought on record and only through Paper No.23-Ga, an application given to the police station was filed. The Court held that it had no jurisdiction to declare the plaintiffs as the successors of Markandey Pandey and thus, dismissed the suit.

7. Against the said judgment, a Civil Appeal No.45 of 2016 was preferred and the lower appellate Court dismissed the appeal on the ground that notice under Section 80 (2) CPC was not given before the filing of the suit and there was technical error in the filing of the suit and thus, appeal was dismissed on 04.08.2017, hence the present appeal.

8. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record.

9. The plaintiffs-appellants filed suit for declaring them to be the legal heirs of Markandey Pandey who was missing since 12.10.1996 and further sought that Markandey Pandey be declared dead.

10. Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act provides for the declaratory decrees for which any person is entitled to. Section 34 of Specific Relief Act, 1963 is extracted hereasunder:-

" 34. Discretion of court as to declaration of status or right.--Any person entitled to any legal character, or to any right as to any property, may institute a suit against any person denying, or interested to deny, his title to such character or right, and the court may in its discretion make therein a declaration that he is so entitled, and the plaintiff need not in such suit ask for any further relief: Provided that no court shall make any such declaration where the plaintiff, being able to seek further relief than a mere declaration of title, omits to do so.

Explanation.--A trustee of property is a "person interested to deny" a title adverse to the title of some one who is not in existence, and whom, if in existence, he would be a trustee."

11. From the bare perusal of the above provision, it is clear that a suit for declaration could be filed by any person for the following objects (a) for his or her legal character, (b) for any right as to any property. Thus, it is clear that a suit for declaration may be instituted for declaring status or legal character which a person/party may be entitled to. However, in a suit for declaration of a civil death of another person, plaintiff is not entitled to such legal character under Section 34 of the Act. It is because that a suit has been brought for legal character for another person and not of the plaintiff.

12. Section 34 clearly provides that any legal character may be declared for which a plaintiff is entitled. Besides this, he should not be stranger to a dead person, but he must be interested in such legal character, may be as his legal heirs. The suit filed at the instance of plaintiff can be contested by anyone, denying or interested to deny his title to such character or right. Section 34 of the Act further bars any such declaration where the plaintiff is able to seek further relief. Legal character is a position recognised by law. A person's legal character is the attribute which law attaches to him. After death of a person his heirs, having interest in such legal character, have title to seek declaration of such legal character as to the death of the person. The suit at the instance of any such person for a declaration is maintainable, if he can stand the test that he is entitled to any legal character, even though, he cannot lay to immediate claim to any property.

13. In most of the case, the defendants almost accept the fact of missing of a person for whom declaration of civil death is sought, therefore, absence of denial from the side of defendants bars the relief sought. A mere suit of declaration of death of a person is not maintainable. Section 107 and 108 of the Evidence Act are regarding missing of person. Relevant Sections 107 and 108 of Evidence Act are extracted hereasunder:-

"107. Burden of proving death of person known to have been alive within thirty years.- When the question is whether a man is alive or dead, and it is shown that he was alive within thirty years, the burden of proving that he is dead is on the person who affirms it.

108. Burden of proving that person is alive who has not been heard of for seven years.- [Provided that when] the question is whether a man is alive or dead, and it is proved that he has not been heard of for seven years by those who would naturally have heard of him if he had been alive, the burden of proving that he is alive is 2[shifted to] the person who affirms it."

14. Evidence Act is procedural law and doesn't create any substantial right or obligation. It only facilitates the Court in trial and the above provision comes under the Chapter (burden of proof). From the reading of above provision, it is clear that they come into play only when question arises, whether a man is alive or dead. Section 108 only provides for the circumstances on which onus of proof shifts upon the person who claims that a person is alive for whom no one had heard for seven years. Moreover, it is established principle of law that presumption under Section 108 would be raised in any proceeding.

15. Thus, in a suit filed for declaration by plaintiff claiming himself to be the legal heir of a person missing, the Court can take presumption of death of a missing person under Section 108 of the Evidence Act. The Apex Court in LIC of India Vs. Anuradha, 2004 (10) SCC 131, while dealing with the scope of Sections 107 and 108 of the Evidence Act held that presumption as to death by reference to Section 108 would arise only on lapse of seven years. Relevant para 14 is extracted hereasunder:-

"On the basis of the abovesaid authorities, we unhesitatingly arrive at a conclusion which we sum up in the following words. The law as to presumption of death remains the same whether in Common Law of England or in the statutory provisions contained in Section 107 and 108 the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. In the scheme of Evidence Act, though Sections 107 and 108 are drafted as two Sections, in effect, Section 108 is an exception to the rule enacted in Section 107. The human life shown to be in existence, at a given point of time which according to Section 107 ought to be a point within 30 years calculated backwards from the date when the question arises, is presumed to continue to be living. The rule is subject to a proviso or exception as contained in Section 108. If the persons, who would have naturally and in the ordinary course of human affairs heard of the person in question, have not so heard of him for seven years the presumption raised under Section 108 ceases to operate. Section 108 has the effect of shifting the burden of proving that the person is dead on him who affirms the fact. Section 108, subject to its applicability being attracted, has the effect of shifting the burden of proof back on the one who asserts the fact of that person being alive. The presumption raised under Section 108 is a limited presumption confined only to presuming the factum of death of the person who's life or death is in issue. Though it will be presumed that the person is dead but there is no presumption as to the date or time of death. There is no presumption as to the facts and circumstances under which the person may have died. The presumption as to death by reference to Section 108 would arise only on lapse of seven years and would not by applying any logic or reasoning be permitted to be raised on expiry of 6 years and 364 days or at any time short of it. An occasion for raising the presumption would arise only when the question is raised in a Court, Tribunal or before an authority who is called upon to decide as to whether a person is alive or dead. So long as the dispute is not raised before any forum and in any legal proceedings the occasion for raising the presumption does not arise."

16. In Sanju Devi and others Vs. State and others 2014 SCC Online Delhi 65, the Court held that proceedings under the Indian Succession Act, 1925 are summary proceedings and the petitioner has to file a civil suit to establish the factum of death and then claim the decree accordingly from the civil Court.

17. In Smt. Alka Sharma and others Vs. Union of India and others, Second Appeal No.192 of 2007, decided on 17.01.2020, this Court while deciding question of law framed in the appeal as "whether in view of Section 108 of Evidence Act, 1872 for proving a civil death of a person who is reported to be missing and is not traceable for over seven years, submission of final report by police is mandatory?" This Court held that submission of final report by police is not mandatory inasmuch as police investigation is in the domain of criminal law and that is neither influenced by plaintiff claiming declaration nor is within the authority and control seeking such declaration. Once, the factum of lodging of report and not hearing about that person for seven years or more is proved and admitted by the defendants in regard to whom declaration is being sought is sufficient then requirement of Section 108 of the Evidence Act has been fulfilled.

18. In the case in hand, the relief sought in the suit was for declaring the plaintiffs as the legal heirs of deceased Markandey Pandey against the defendants and also for declaring Markandey Pandey as dead. The contesting State in its written statement has denied the averment of the plaint, while the trial Court while deciding the issue no.1 had recorded finding that DW-1, Vishwakarma Sharma, the Lekhpal in his examination-in-chief had stated that Markandey Pandey is not heard for last ten years and he has not seen him for the said time.

19. Moreover, Paper No.23-Ga was filed before the trial Court to prove the fact that missing report of Markandey Pandey was given to the police. The trial Court had wrongly held that it did not have the jurisdiction to grant such declaration.

20. The lower appellate Court while recording the finding that the suit for declaration under Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act, though, being maintainable, the relief could not be granted as no notice under Section 80 (2) CPC was given to the defendants being the State and, on the basis of technical error dismissed the appeal.

21. From the perusal of the judgment of the trial Court as well as the appellate Court, it is clear that Paper No.9-C and 10-C were brought on record which were the notice given by the plaintiffs under Section 80 CPC and Section 106 of Panchayati Raj Act, 1947, the finding recorded is totally against the material on record. Thus, I find that both the trial Court and the lower appellate Court committed error in dismissing the suit and the appeal, thus, finding recorded by both the Courts below are against the material on record as well as the provisions of law and are, thus, set aside.

22. Thus, considering the facts and circumstance of the case, I find that the suit filed by the plaintiffs as to the legal character that they may declared as the legal heirs of Markandey Pandey being the sons and wife of the deceased and Markandey Pandey be declared dead, was very well maintainable before the trial Court. Both the Courts below fell into trap of holding that the suit as well as the appeal was not maintainable.

23. The judgment and decree passed by the lower appellate Court dated 04.08.2017 and judgment and decree dated 22.11.2016 passed by the trial Court is, hereby, set aside. The suit filed by the plaintiffs-appellants seeking relief of declaration as the legal heir of deceased Markandey Pandey stands decreed.

24. In view of the above, as the the judgment and decree of both the Court below having been set aside, the second appeal stands allowed.

maternal grand-father and grand-mother i.e. respondent no. 5 & 6. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the petitioner no. 2 simply wants visitation rights to meet his son i.e. corpus. Further submitted that as petitioner no. 2 is the father of corpus, so he should be given visitation rights at least twice in a month and at the festivals of Holi and Diwali.

5. Learned counsel for respondent no. 5 & 6 submitted that the corpus does not want to meet his father i.e. petitioner no. 2, hence, visitation rights should not be given to petitioner no. 2.

6. In Yashita Sahu v. State of Rajasthan & Ors. in Criminal Appeal No. 127 of 2020 (Special Leave Petition (CRL) No. 7390 of 2019) the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as follows:

"9. It is too late in the day to urge that a writ of habeas corpus is not maintainable if the child is in the custody of another parent. The law in this regard has developed a lot over a period of time but now it is a settled position that the court can invoke its extraordinary writ jurisdiction for the best interest of the child. This has been done in Elizabeth Dinshaw v. Arvand M. Dinshaw & Ors., Nithya Anand Raghavan v. State (NCT of Delhi) & Anr. and Lahari Sakhamuri v. Sobhan Kodali among others. In all these cases, the writ petitions were entertained. Therefore, we reject the contention of the appellant wife that the writ petition before the High Court of Rajasthan was not maintainable.

19. A child, especially a child of tender years requires the love, affection, company, protection of both parents. This is not only the requirement of the child but is his/her basic human right. Just because the parents are at war with each other, does not mean that the child should be denied the care, affection, love or protection of any one of the two parents. A child is not an inanimate object which can be tossed from one parent to the other. Every separation, every reunion may have a traumatic and psychosomatic impact on the child. Therefore, it is to be ensured that the court weighs each and every circumstance very carefully before deciding how and in what manner the custody of the child should be shared between both the parents. Even if the custody is given to one parent, the other parent must have sufficient visitation rights to ensure that the child keeps in touch with the other parent and does not lose social, physical and psychological contact with any one of the two parents. It is only in extreme circumstances that one parent should be denied contact with the child. Reasons must be assigned if one parent is to be denied any visitation rights or contact with the child. Courts dealing with the custody matters must while deciding issues of custody clearly define the nature, manner and specifics of the visitation rights.

21. Normally, if the parents are living in the same town or area, the spouse who has not been granted custody is given visitation rights over weekends only. In case the spouses are living at a distance from each other, it may not be feasible or in the interest of the child to create impediments in the education of the child by frequent breaks and, in such cases the visitation rights must be given over long weekends, breaks and holidays. In cases like the present one, where the parents are in two different continents, effort should be made to give maximum visitation rights to the parent who is denied custody."

7. Thus, law on the above point is that even if the custody is given to one parent, the other parent must have sufficient visitation rights to ensure that the child keeps in touch with the other parent and does not lose social, physical and psychological contact with any one of the two parents. It is only in extreme circumstances that one parent should be denied contact with the child.

8. So far as the facts of the present case are concerned, the corpus is residing with his maternal grand-father and grand-mother, therefore, this Court is of the opinion that a father cannot be deprived of his visitation rights.

9. In view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court and considering the facts and circumstances of this case, petitioner no. 2 being father of the corpus is entitled for visitation rights subject to following conditions:

(1) Petitioner no. 2 is granted visitation rights to meet his son i.e. corpus once in every month, on the first opening day of every month after study hours for two hours at the School of corpus.

(2) Petitioner no. 2 is also granted visitation rights to meet his son i.e. corpus on the festival of Holi and Diwali, just before the closing day before festival for two hours at the School of corpus.

(3) Petitioner no. 2 shall not create any disturbance in school campus while meeting the corpus and he shall not create any pressure upon the corpus in any manner.

(4) It is made clear that SHO concerned and Principal of DAV Public School, Ghaziabad shall facilitate and ensure the meeting of petitioner no. 2 with corpus.

10. With the above directions, this Habeas Corpus Writ Petition is disposed of finally.

1. Navtej Singh Johar Vs U.O.I.,2018 (10) SCC 1

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar Kumar Yadav, J.)

1. यह बन्दी प्रत्यक्षीकरण याचिका, भारतीय संविधान के अनुच्छेद 226 के अन्तर्गत याची की ओर से इस आशय से योजित की गयी है कि विपक्षी संख्या 4 को आदेशित किया जाए कि याची कु0 नेहा चन्द्रा जो कि विपक्षी संख्या 4 की अभिरक्षा में अवैधानिक रूप से निरूद्व है, उसे इस न्यायालय

के समक्ष प्रस्तुत किया जाए और उसे उसकी माता की अभिरक्षा में सुपुर्द किया जाए।

2. याचिका के तथ्य इस प्रकार है कि याचिनी कु0 नेहा चन्द्रा की माँ श्रीमती अंजू देवी ने एक प्रार्थना पत्र विपक्षी संख्या 3 थानाध्यक्ष, अतरसुईया, जिला प्रयागराज के समक्ष इस आशय का प्रस्तुत किया कि विपक्षी संख्या 4 संजना ने उसकी पुत्री कु0 नेहा चन्द्रा को जबरदस्ती अपने कब्जे में अवैधानिक रूप से निरूद्व कर रखा है जिसे उसकी सुपुदर्गी में दिया जाए परन्तु इस सम्बंध में स्थानीय पुलिस द्वारा कोई कार्यवाही नहीं की गयी। यह भी कथन किया गया कि कु0 नेहा चन्द्र का स्वास्थ ठीक नहीं है एवं वह वयस्क है जिसकी आयु 21 वर्ष से अधिक है और वह स्नातक है।

3. याचिनी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता की बहस सुनने के पश्चात इस न्यायालय के आदेश दिनांक 6–4–2022 के द्वारा विद्वान अपर शासकीय अधिवक्ता को निर्देशित किया गया कि वह याची कु0 नेहा चन्द्रा एवं विपक्षी संख्या 4 कु0 संजना को दिनांक 7–4–2022 को न्यायालय के समक्ष प्रस्तुत करें।

4. आदेश दिनांक 6–4–2022 के अनुपालन में याची कु0 नेहा चन्द्रा एवं विपक्षी संख्या 4 कु0 संजना न्यायालय के समक्ष आज दिनांक 7–4–2022 को उपस्थित हुई। उन्होंने न्यायालय को बताया कि वे दोनों वयस्क है और आपस में एक दूसरे को प्यार करते है तथा दोनों ने आपसी सहमति से समलैगिंक विवाह कर लिया है। उन्होंने इस सम्बंध में न्यायालय को एक वैवाहिक अनुबंध पत्र भी दिखाया जिसमें याची कु0 नेहा चन्द्रा व विपक्षी संख्या 2 कु0 संजना ने अपनी आयु क्रमशः 23 व 22 वर्ष दिखायी है और यह बताया है कि उन्होंने आपस में समलैगिंक विवाह कर लिया है और आगे वे अपने दम्पत्ति दायित्वों का निर्वहन करते रहेगें।

5. याची कु0 नेहा चन्द्रा व विपक्षी संख्या 4 कु0 संजना द्वारा न्यायालय से यह अनुमति मांगी गयी है कि वे वयस्क है और मानसिक रूप से स्वस्थ हैं तथा एक दूसरे से बहुत प्यार करते हैं एवं उन्होंने आपसी सहमति व बिना किसी डर, भय के समलैगिंक विवाह कर लिया है। अतएव उनके समलैगिंक विवाह को न्यायालय द्वारा मान्यता प्रदान की जाए जिससे वे दोनों अपना जीवन वैधानिक रूप से समाज के समक्ष प्रस्तुत कर सकें। साथ ही साथ यह भी कहा कि माननीय सर्वोच्च न्यायालय ने नवतेज सिंह जोहर प्रति यूनियन आफ इण्डिया 2018 (10) एस0 सी0 सी0 1 के मामले में समलैगिंक रिश्तों को अपराध नहीं माना है और दो वयस्क व्यक्तियों को आपसी सहमति के अनुसार साथ रहने में छूट प्रदान की गयी है। उनके द्वारा आगे यह भी कहा गया कि हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम में दो लोगों की शादी करने की बात कही गयी है परन्तु समलैगिंक विवाह का विरोध नहीं किया गया है। अतएव उनके समलैगिंक विवाह को मान्यता मिलनी चाहिए। यह भी कहा गया कि संविधान में प्रदत्त मौलिक अधिकारों के तहत समानता के आधार पर भी उन्हें भारतीय संविधान के अनुच्छेद 14, 16 एवं 21 के अन्तर्गत मौलिक अधिकार प्राप्त है, अतः उनके समलैगिंक विवाह को वैधानिक अधिकार मिलना चाहिए। यदि उन्हें समलैगिंक विवाह का अधिकार नही मिलता है तो भारतीय संविधान में मिले मौलिक अधिकारों का हनन होगा। विश्व के 25 देशों से अधिक देशों ने समलैगिंक विवाह को मान्यता प्रदान की है।

6. विद्वान अपर शासकीय अधिवक्ता श्री लालमनि सिंह एवं श्री एस0 बी0 मौर्या ने उक्त पर निम्न आपत्ति उठायी है कि यह भारत देश है जहाँ भारतीय संस्कृति, धर्म एवं भारतीय विधि के अनुसार देश चलता है। यहाँ पर विवाह को एक पवित्र संस्कार माना गया है जब कि अन्य देशों में विवाह एक अनुबंध है। भारतवर्ष में विवाह के समय हिन्दू स्त्री पुरूष, भगवान व अग्नि को साक्षी मानकर शपथ लेतें है कि वह जीवन पर्यन्त एक दूसरे के सुख–दुख में शामिल होगें। हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम में भी विवाह हेतु एक स्त्री व एक पुरूष की बात कही गयी है। स्त्री, पुरूष के अभाव में विवाह भारतीय परिवेश में किसी भी प्रकार से स्वीकार नहीं किया जा सकता है क्योंकि यह भारतीय परिवारिक संकल्पना से परे है। हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम 1955, विशेष विवाह अधिनियम 1954 एवं विदेशी विवाह अधिनियम 1969 में भी कहीं समलैगिंक विवाह की अनुमति नहीं दी गयी है। यहाँ तक कि मुस्लिम, बौद्व, जैन, सिक्ख आदि धर्म में भी समलैगिंक विवाह को मान्यता नहीं दी गयी है।

7. भारतीय सनातन विधि के अनुसार 16 प्रकार के संस्कार बताये गये हैं, जिनमें गर्भावास्था से लेकर अन्तेष्टि संस्कार शामिल है। गर्भावास्था में शिशु के उत्पन्न होने से और उसके मरण तक के सभी प्रकार के संस्कार बताये गये हैं जो निम्न प्रकार से हैः–

(1) गर्भाधान संस्कार, (2) पुंसवन, (3) सीमांतोनन्यन, (4) जातकर्म, (5) नामकरण, (6) निष्क्रमण, (7) अन्नाप्राश्न, (8) चूडाकर्म, (9) विद्यारम्भ, (10) कर्णवेध, (11) यज्ञोपवीत, (12) वेदारंभ, (13) केशांत, (14) समावर्तन,(15) विवाह, (16) अन्तेष्टि।

8. आगे यह भी कहा गया कि इस प्रकार उक्त 16 संस्कारों में स्त्री पुरूष की अहम भूमिका दर्शायी गयी है और स्त्री पुरूष के अभाव में उक्त संस्कार पूर्ण नहीं हो सकतें हैं। शिशु के उत्पन्न न होने की दशा में कोई भी संस्कार सम्भव नहीं है। इसी को ध्यान में रखते हुए अपने भारतीय संस्कृति और भारतीय विधि में विवाह के लिए एक जैविक पति और जैविक पत्नी का होना अनिवार्य बताया गया है और उनके विवाह को ही मान्यता प्रदान की गयी है। उक्त के अभाव में समलैगिंक विवाह को मान्यता प्रदान नहीं की जा सकती है क्योंकि इसमें स्त्री पुरूष का अभाव है और न ही वे संतान उत्पन्न कर सकते हैं। हिन्दू विधि में विवाह को महत्वपूर्ण माना गया है जिसके अन्तर्गत स्त्री और पुरूष दोनों एक साथ रहकर संतान उत्पन्न करके मानव श्रृंखला को आगे बढ़ाते हैं।

9. आगे यह भी कहा गया कि याची कु0 नेहा चन्द्रा तथा विपक्षी संख्या 4 कु0 संजना की याचना जिसमें उन्होंने अपने समलैगिंक विवाह को मान्यता प्रदान करने का अनुरोध किया है यदि उसे स्वीकार कर लिया जाए तो यह भारतीय संस्कृति, धर्म एवं भारतीय विधि के अनुसार अमान्य होगा और ऐसा होने पर भारतवर्ष के विभिन्न कानूनों में इसका प्रतिकूल प्रभाव पड़ेगा जिसे स्त्री एवं पुरूष को ध्यान में रखकर बनाया गया है।

10. उपरोक्त सभी परिस्थितियों को ध्यान में रखते हुए याची कु0 नेहा चन्द्रा के समलैगिंक विवाह के अनुरोध को खारिज किया जाता है।

11. उपरोक्त टिप्पणी के साथ यह बन्दी प्रत्यक्षीकरण याचिका अन्तिम रूप से निस्तारित की जाती है। (Delivered by Hon'ble Arvind Kumar Mishra-I, J.

Hon'ble Manish Mathur, J.)

1. Learned A.G.A. has filed short counter affidavit, the same is taken on record.

2. Heard Mr. Shyamendra Singh learned counsel for the petitioner whose power is taken on record, Mr. S.P. Singh learned Additional Government Advocate and perused the material brought on record of this Habeas Corpus Writ Petition.

3. Pursuant to our previous order passed on 8th April, 2022, treating the Letter Petition filed by daughter of petitioners to be a Habeas Corpus Petition, certain facts were brought to the notice of this Court on point that the petitioners namely, Savitri and Ram Vilas have been called at Police Station- Mahila Thana, Lucknow, from where they have not returned as yet. The petition after being treated as Habeas Corpus was heard by us, wherein, learned A.G.A. on behalf of the State brought to our notice the fact that no such occurrence took place at the police station as stated.

4. Today petitioners Savitri and Ram Vilas are present before this Court along with their daughter Sorojini duly identified by their counsel and it was informed by the petitioners that some police personnel came to them and required their presence at the police station. Pursuant thereto, petitioners went to the police station where they were allegedly detained and threatened by some police personnel.

5. In the short counter affidavit sworn by Ms. Durgawati posted as Inspector, Mahila Thana, Lucknow who is also personally present in Court, certain facts have been brought to the notice of this Court that petitioners had visited the police station on 08.04.2022 around 12 noon and after recording their statements were allowed to leave the police station at around 3.30 p.m., the same day. The dispute between the complainant- Smt. Sushma Devi and her in-laws i.e. petitioners pertains to partition of ancestral property. Complainant's husband- Vinay Kumar who is the son of Ram Vilas is also supporting his wife and claiming his share in the ancestral property.

6. Deponent Durgavati seeks unconditional apology for inconvenience caused to the Court for the mistake committed while providing information the Court on 8.4.2022, when this petition was listed on a short notice. The mistake committed was not intentional or deliberate but due to carelessness and in-subordination of Head Constable No.1681Shailendra Singh who had not informed the deponent Durgavati that he had summoned Sri Ram Vilas and his wife Savitri. The deponent Durgavati has sent a report to Deputy commissioner of Police (Central), District Lucknow, Commissionerate to take appropriate disciplinary action against him, copy whereof has been annexed as Annexure No.3 to this affidavit.

7. It has been stated by deponent Durgavati that there was no deliberate attempt to humiliate or harass the petitioners but it was misconduct and in-subordination of the Constable concerned otherwise there was no cause for the police to have indulged in any maltreatment of petitioners. In future the police shall be mindful of their activities.

8. In such case we after deliberation express unhesitatingly that there appears to be someone amongst the police personnel who fished in troubled waters and took advantage of the situation both to the detriment of private parties as well as to the working efficiency of the police system and in particular the police station concerned. It is incumbent and obligatory upon the police authorities concerned to nip the mischief in its bud.

9. The right of a citizen not to be detained or restrained by the State or its instrumentalities without the backing of any law is fundamental as reflected in Articles 19(1)(d), 21 and 22 of the Constitution of India. Article 19(1)(d) protects rights of citizens to move freely throughout the territory of India with sub section 5 imposing reasonable restrictions either in the interest of general public or for protection of interest of any scheduled tribe. Article 21 relates to protection of life and personal liberty of any person including non citizens. Article 22 of the Constitution inheres protection against arrest and detention in certain cases.

10. As far back as 1950, His Lordship Hon'ble Justice Fazl Ali in the case of A.K. Gopalan versus State of Madrass, A.I.R. 1950 Supreme Court 27 in his dissenting judgment has held that there is no antithesis between words 'restriction' and 'deprivation'. It was held that restraint on the right to move can assume a variety of forms and restriction would be the most appropriate expression to be used in Clause (v) so as to cover all those forms ranging from total to various kinds of partial deprivation of freedom of movement. It was also held that the penal code does not primarily or necessarily impose restrictions on the freedom of movement and it is incorrect to say that it is a law imposing restrictions on the right to move freely. In fact the primary object of code was held to punish crime and not to restrict movement. His Lordship further held that punitive detention is essentially different from preventive detention and a person can be punitively detained only after a trial for committing a crime and after his guilt has been established in a competent court of jurisdiction whereafter a person so convicted can raise appeal thereagainst and the final judgment would constitute a reasonable restriction which may not follow the right under Article 19(1)(d). However a person who is punitively detained does not require to face any such obstacle.

11. It was held that the expressions 'personal liberty' and 'personal freedom' have a wider and a narrower meaning. In the wider sense they include not only immunity from arrest and detention but also freedom of speech, freedom of association etc while in the narrower sense, they mean immunity from arrest and detention. The concept of personal liberty was used not only in the sense of immunity from arrest but also that it consisted in freedom of movement and locomotion.

12. However with regard to interplay between various articles pertaining to fundamental rights, the majority view in the case of A.K. Gopalan (supra) was that they were distinct and separate without any overlapping and thus the views of Fazl Ali J. remained a minority view.

13. The said aspect was again considered by the Supreme Court in the case of Kharak Singh versus State of U.P., A.I.R. 1963 Supreme Court 1295 in which the majority view of A.K. Gopalan (supra) was confirmed with the dissenting view being taken by His Lordship, Hon'ble Justice Subba Rao who followed the minority view in the case of A.K. Gopalan (supra) while holding that rights conferred by part (III) of the Constitution have overlapping areas and where a law or State action is challenged as infringing rights in different Articles of part (III), the State must satisfy the test of each Article individually. It was held that the expression 'personal liberty' is a comprehensive one and the right to move freely is an attribute of 'personal liberty'. It was held that the rights indicated in Articles 19 and 21 of Constitution were independent fundamental rights, though there was overlapping and as such there was no question of one being carved out of another. It was further held that in case a person's fundamental right under Article 21 was infringed, the State could only rely upon a law to sustain the action but the same would be required to satisfy the tests laid down in Article 19 as well. It was also held that the right of personal liberty takes in not only a right to be free from restriction placed on a person's movements but should also be free from encroachments on his private life.

14. The minority views in the cases of A.K. Gopalan (supra) and Kharak Singh(supra) were thereafter upheld in the subsequent constitution bench judgment by the Supreme Court in the case of Rustom Cavasjee Cooper versus Union of India, 1970, 1 SCC 248.

15. Subsequently in the case of National Legal Services Authority versus Union of India, 2014 (5) SCC 438, examining the ambit of Article 21, the Supreme Court held as follows:-

" 73. Article 21 of the Constitution of India reads as follows:

"21.Protection of life and personal liberty.?No person shall be deprived of his life or personal liberty except according to procedure established by law."

Article 21 is the heart and soul of the Indian Constitution, which speaks of the rights to life and personal liberty. Right to life is one of the basic fundamental rights and not even the State has the authority to violate or take away that right. Article 21 takes all those aspects of life which go to make a person's life meaningful. Article 21 protects the dignity of human life, one's personal autonomy, one's right to privacy, etc. Right to dignity has been recognised to be an essential part of the right to life and accrues to all persons on account of being humans. In Francis Coralie Mullin v. UT of Delhi [(1981) 1 SCC 608 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 212] (SCC pp. 618-19, paras 7 and 8), this Court held that the right to dignity forms an essential part of our constitutional culture which seeks to ensure the full development and evolution of persons and includes "expressing oneself in diverse forms, freely moving about and mixing and comingling with fellow human beings".

75. Article 21, as already indicated, guarantees the protection of "personal autonomy" of an individual. In Anuj Garg v. Hotel Assn. of India [(2008) 3 SCC 1] (SCC p. 15, paras 34-35), this Court held that personal autonomy includes both the negative right of not to be subject to interference by others and the positive right of individuals to make decisions about their life, to express themselves and to choose which activities to take part in. Self-determination of gender is an integral part of personal autonomy and self-expression and falls within the realm of personal liberty guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. "

16. As such it was held that Article 21 protects the basic fundamental right pertaining to dignity of human life and personal liberty.

17. In the case of K.S. Putta Swamy versus Union of India, 2017 (10) SCC 1, it has been held as follows:-

"119. To live is to live with dignity. The draftsmen of the Constitution defined their vision of the society in which constitutional values would be attained by emphasising, among other freedoms, liberty and dignity. So fundamental is dignity that it permeates the core of the rights guaranteed to the individual by Part III. Dignity is the core which unites the fundamental rights because the fundamental rights seek to achieve for each individual the dignity of existence. Privacy with its attendant values assures dignity to the individual and it is only when life can be enjoyed with dignity can liberty be of true substance. Privacy ensures the fulfilment of dignity and is a core value which the protection of life and liberty is intended to achieve."

18. The conjoint reading of aforesaid clearly indicates the consistent view taken by the Supreme Court that right to live with dignity is an essential part of right to life envisaged under Article 21 of Constitution of India since such a right coupled with the right to privacy ensures the fulfilment of core values which the protection of life and liberty is intended to achieve. The Supreme Court in the case of K.S. Putta Swamy (supra) has also held that the freedoms and liberties guaranteed under Article 21 has been interpreted to mean that life does not mean merely a physical existence and in fact includes all those faculties by which life is enjoyed. The ambit of 'procedure established by law' under Article 21 has been interpreted to mean that the procedure placing restriction on such rights must be fair, just and reasonable and the coalescence of Articles 14, 19 and 21 recognizes the interrelationship between rights guaranteed under the said Articles and such requirements of fairness and non discrimination animate both the substantive and procedural aspects of Article 21. It has been held that any law or State action impacting life or personal liberty has to be assessed not with reference to its object but on the basis of its effect and impact on fundamental rights.

19. The observations of Fazl Ali J. in the case of A.K. Gopalan (supra) to the effect that Article 21 purports to protect life and personal liberty and it would be a precarious protection and a protection not worth having if the elementary principle of law pertaining to fundamental rights is to be ignored and excluded is quite apposite in the present context. In the case of K.S. Putta Swamy (supra) the Supreme Court interpreting Article 21 in the context of various judgments has held as follows:-

283. .....Protection of life and personal liberty.No person shall be deprived of his life or personal liberty except according to procedure established by law.'

If this Article is expanded in accordance with the interpretative principle indicated in Maneka Gandhi [Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India, (1978) 1 SCC 248] , it will read as follows:

'No person shall be deprived of his life or personal liberty except according to fair, just and reasonable procedure established by valid law.'

In the converse positive form, the expanded Article will read as below:

'A person may be deprived of his life or personal liberty in accordance with fair, just and reasonable procedure established by valid law.' "

20. In the case of K.S, Putta Swamy (supra) it has been held that when validity of law or State action is questioned on the ground that it violates a guarantee contained under Article 21, the scope of challenge is not confined only to whether the procedure for deprivation of life or personal liberty is fair, just and reasonable but expands to the interrelationship between the guarantees against arbitrariness and the protection of life and personal liberty which operates in a facilitated plane since the procedure for deprivation must be fair, just and reasonable since Article 14 impacts both the procedure and the expression law.

21. The Supreme Court in the case of K.S. Putta Swamy (supra) has indicated three requirements which are to be fulfilled in order to keep the restraints imposed upon a person, within the ambit of fundamental rights. It has been held that the first requirement for imposing such a restraint must be based on a law in existence to justify any such encroachment on the express rights of Article 21. It has been held that existence of law is an essential requirement for imposing restrictions on rights which are guaranteed under part (III) of the Constitution.

22. Secondly the requirement that such State action or law which imposes restriction falls within the zone of reasonableness mandated by Article 14, which is a guarantee against arbitrary State action.

23. Thirdly that the requirement imposing restriction ensures that the means adopted are proportional to the object sought to be achieved since proportionality is an essential facet of the guarantee against arbitrary State action.

24. The concept of life and personal liberty as envisaged under Article 21 have been interpreted in the case of K.S. Putta Swamy (supra) as follows:-

"318. Life and personal liberty are inalienable rights. These are rights which are inseparable from a dignified human existence. The dignity of the individual, equality between human beings and the quest for liberty are the foundational pillars of the Indian Constitution.

319. Life and personal liberty are not creations of the Constitution. These rights are recognised by the Constitution as inhering in each individual as an intrinsic and inseparable part of the human element which dwells within."*

25. Upon examination of the aforesaid pronouncements by the Supreme Court, it is apparent that the guarantees envisaged by the Constitution of India in part (III) can be restricted or controlled only in accordance with provisions of aforesaid Articles constituted in part (III) itself. As such the power of locomotion is an essential element of personal liberty and detention in jail or in a police station is a drastic invasion of that liberty as held by Patanjali Sashtri J. in the case of A.K. Gopalan (supra).

26. The code of criminal procedure also prescribes the manner and procedure under which an investigation is to ensue subsequent to lodging of complaint.

However there is no provision in either the constitution of India or even under the code of criminal procedure which prescribes a police official to summon and detain the person even without lodging of first information report and that too orally. Any such act by police personnel has to be seen in the context of right to personal liberty as envisaged under Article 21 and necessarily stipulates that a procedure which is fair, just and reasonable is required to be followed so that it does not encroach upon the life and personal liberty guaranteed under Articles 21 and 22 of the Constitution.

27. As has already been held that invasion of life or personal liberty must be based on a valid law defined in terms of legitimate state and should be proportional to ensure a rational nexus between the object and means to achieve it.

28. The action taken by police personnel in the present case indicates clear flouting of the right guaranteed to the petitioners under Articles 14, 19, 21 and 22 of the Constitution since oral summoning of the petitioners and their subsequent detention in police station has been resorted to without even lodging of first information report.

29. The State in its counter affidavit has not been able to explain any law under which such a procedure could have been followed particularly when the police personnel summoning the petitioners was not even the investigating officer of the case.

30. Right of locomotion being an essential part of right to life and personal liberty can not be trifled with in such a casual manner merely being clothed with State authority. It is the bounden duty of State and its instrumentalities to be ever vigilant so that fundamental rights guaranteed under part (III) of the Constitution are not infringed, particularly without any authority of valid law which would have a deleterious effect on an ordered society.

31. In view of aforesaid, it would be necessary to direct the State and its instrumentalities that in case any application or complaint is given at any police station which requires investigation and presence of the accused then suitable course of action as prescribed under provisions of Criminal Procedure Code are to be followed which contemplate a written notice being served upon such a person but that too only consequent to a case being registered. In case there is no investigating officer at that juncture, the subordinate police officials are required to take permission/approval of the station incharge before issuing such notice or summons. On no account can an accused or any other person be summoned to a police station orally by subordinate police officials without the consent/approval of the station incharge. The life, liberty and dignity of any person can not be thrown to the winds merely on verbal orders of police officials. It is expected that State and its instrumentalities will be cautious in future with regard to observations and directions issued herein above.

32. With the aforesaid observations, this petition for habeas corpus is finally disposed of.

33. Registry is directed to send a copy of this order to the Additional Chief Secretary, Department of Home, State of U.P. for taking appropriate action for ensuring compliance of aforesaid directions by the police.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suresh Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. Heard Shri Mohiuddin Khan, learned counsel for the applicant and Shri Rupendra Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the respondent.

2. This petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed for setting aside the judgment and order dated 13.12.2019 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.7, Lucknow in Criminal Revision No. 674 of 2019(Bharat Singh Vs. State of U.P. and another) and order dated 18.10.2019 passed by the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Bakshi Ka Talab, Lucknow in case no. 10190 of 2019 (Computerized No. T201910460410190) (Dharmendra Das Vs. Bharat Singh).

3. Submission of the learned counsel for the applicant is that land bearing Gata No. 259 area 6.7660 hectare, Khasra No. 333 area 1.1320 hectare and Khasra No. 406 Ga area 0.9780 hectare situated in village- Aldampur, P.S. Itaunja District-Luknow originally belongs to Thakur Ji Maharaj Trust, Udaseen Sangat, Guruduwara, Nanak Shahi, Purani Sabji Mandi Chowk Lucknow (hereinafter referred to as "Thakur Ji Maharaj Trust") and the opposite party no. 2 is claiming to have purchased the disputed land from Shri Mahant Bharat Das through sale deed dated 17.7.2006.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that due to lack of management of the properties situated at village-Adlampur by Shri Mahant Sabzi Mandi Chowk, Lucknow and taking advantage of such problems the opposite party no. 2 produced Baba Ram Bhajan Das as Chela of Late Mahant Ganga Das Ji and got his name recorded in the revenue record. Thereafter opposite party no. 2 is claiming to have purchased the land bearing Gata No. 259, ad-measuring 6.7660 from Shri Mahant Bharat Dass, Chela of Mahant Baba Ramji Dass through sale deed dated 17.7.2006 and purchased the property in the name of Anmol Gramudyog Sansthan, Awadh Poultry Farm, Faridi Nagar, Lucknow. Opposite party no. 2 is also claiming that his mother and wife had jointly purchased the land bearing Gata No. 333 ad-measuring 1.1320 hectare and Gata No. 406 Ga ad-measuring 0.978 hectare through sale deed dated 18.9.2006.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant further submits that sale deed dated 17.7.2006 and 18.9.20006 are void ab-initio in view of the provisions contained in Section 36 and 37 of the Indian Trusts Act, 1882 and executor of both the sale deed namely Mahant Bharat Dass was not appointed/authorized as Mahant of Thakur Ji Maharaj Trust. Hence he was having no authority to execute the alleged sale deeds. He further submitted that Mahant Parmeshwar Das had resigned and made a declaration through registered sale deed dated 7.2.2011 appointing the applicant as Mahant and Sarvakar of the Thakur Ji Maharaj Trust. A photo copy of the sale deed dated 7.2.20211 is being annexed as Annexure 3 to the petition.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that the applicant having been appointed as Mahant and regarding this Mahajjarnama was also executed which was registered on 19.10.2012 recognizing the applicant as Mahant appointed on the vacant post of the Thakur Ji Maharaj Trust. The petitioner has been handed over possession over the land in question on 13.12.2018 and 17.12.2018. On the spot, the constructed building, Puja Sthan, Kothan, Snan Kund etc are situated and the opposite party no. 2 through muscle power wants to disturb the possession of the petitioner regarding which F.I.R. has been lodged at Police Station- Itaunja, District-Lucknow and report was submitted on 17.9.2019 and on the basis of the said report, case no. 10190 of 2019 (Mahant Dharmendra Das Vs. Bharat Singh) was registered and notice was issued to the opposite parties. The Sub Divisional Magistrate, Bakshi Ka Talab vide his order dated 18.10.2019 has attached the property in dispute under Section 146 (1) Cr.P.C. and appointed Shri Atul Kumar Shukla, Gram Pradhan, Gram Panchayat, Aldampur as receiver on 25.10.2019. The petitioner has filed his detailed objection on 9.10.2019 but same has not been considered by S.D.M., Bakshi Ka Talab (opposite party no. 1.)

7. Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that opposite party no. 2 is regularly trying to take over forcible possession over the disputed land and in this regard, the appointed receiver namely Shri Atul Kumar Shukla, Gram Pradhan has moved a complaint dated 30.10.2019 before Sub Divisional Magistrate, Bakshi Ka Talab for issuing necessary directions to the police of Police Station- Itaunja. The opposite party no. 2 when could not succeed in obtaining forcible possession over the disputed land has filed criminal revision no. 674 of 2019 on 1.11.2019. The Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 7, Lucknow vide his impugned judgment and order dated 13.12.2019 has allowed the revision thereby setting aside the order dated 18.10.2019 passed by opposite party no. 1- the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Bakshi Ka Talab, Lucknow. On the basis of that Civil Judge Hawali (Junior Division), Lucknow in Suit No. 544 of 2009 by the judgment and order dated 6.8.2010 decreed the suit in favour of the opposite party no. 2 and decree was passed restraining the erstwhile respondent in suit permanently not to interfere in the peaceful possession of the applicant.

8. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that decree passed in Suit No. 544 of 2009 was obtained against Parmeshwar Das and Rajendra Singh. The applicant was not party of above suit and thus, the opposite party no. 2 has obtained decree against wrong person hence the same is not enforceable against the applicant according to law. The opposite party no. 2 is trying to take possession of the disputed land. Therefore, the petitioner has filed application dated 21.12.2019 before the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Bakshi Ka Talab for recording the name of Thakur Ji Maharaj in revenue record over the land in dispute and stopping the opposite party no. 2 from interfering in the peaceful possession of the petitioner but till date no action has been taken in the matter. Learned counsel for the petitioner vehemently submits that opposite party no. 2 and Bharat Das @ Ram Newaj Singh are trying to alienate the properties of the trust. The claim of the opposite party no. 2 over the land of the Thakur Ji Maharaj Trust on the basis of the sale deed executed by Bharat Das @ Ram Newaj Singh without obtaining the permission from the competent court is liable to be rejected. Since the property in question belongs to Thakur Ji Maharaj Trust , the applicant- Mahant Dharmendra Das is entitled to get the possession of the property.

9. Thus, in view of the facts and circumstances of the case it is expedient and necessary in the interest of justice that the instant petition be allowed with costs by setting aside the impugned judgment and order dated 13.12.2019 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge and order dated 18.10.2019 passed by the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Bakshi Ka Talab, Lucknow. In support of his submission, learned counsel for the applicant relied upon the judgment of Bombay High Court in the case of Ramabai Govind Vs. Raghunath Vasudeo AIR 1952 Bombay 106, judgment of Calcutta High Court in the case of Misrilal Raidani Vs. Netaichand Nandi AIR 1934 Calcutta 372 and judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Bhinka and others Vs. Charan Singh AIR 1959 SC 960.

10. Learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 submits that at the very outset it is pertinent to submit that the instant petition deserves to be dismissed in limine, as the order under challenge in the instant petition is reviseable. He further submitted that the applicant approached this Court by filing of petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. invoking the inherent powers of this Hon'ble Court, in absolute disregard to the alternative and efficacious remedy available to him. The opposite party no. 2 had purchased the property in question bearing Khasra No. 260, Gata No. 259 admeasuring 6.7660 hectare jointly with his father-in-law, namely, Shri Ramji Singh from the then recorded tenure holder Shri Mahant Bharat Das, chela of Mahant Baba Ramji Dass for sale consideration of Rs.

10,40,000/- by registered sale deed dated 17.7.2006. The land bearing Gata No. 333 admeasuring 1.1320 hectare and Gata No. 406-Ga admeasuring 0.978 hectare were purchased jointly by mother of the opposite party no. 2 namely, Smt. Kalawati Singh and the wife of the opposite party no. 2, namely, Madhu Singh vide sale deed dated 18.9.2006. Thus, the opposite party no. 2 is bonafide purchaser of the aforesaid property and has got absolutely no concern with the dispute between the seller of the aforesaid property i.e. Shri Mahant Bharat Dass and his rivals including the applicant herein. He further submitted that Mahant Ramji Dass was the undisputed chela of Mahant Shri Atma Dass Ji and Mahant Ramji Dass had in his lifetime clarified that he has only two disciples, namely, Baba Dayal and Baba Bharat Dass (who was appointed as Mahant Sarvakar after demise of Mahant Baba Ramji Dass). Baba Parmeshwar Das, who has absolutely no concern with the Thakur Ji Maharaj Trust, claimed successor of Mahant Baba Ramji Dass. The applicant claimed his title over property of the Thakur Ji Maharaj Trust through aforesaid Baba Shri Parmeshwar Dass. Baba Bharat Dass was duly recorded as successor of Mahant Baba Ram Ji Dass and name of Baba Bharat Dass was also recorded in the revenue record.

11. Learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 submitted that Mahant Parmeshwar Dass challenged the succession certificate granted to Mahant Baba Bharat Dass, however, the same was withdrawn by Mahant Parmeshwar Dass and acknowledged that Mahant Baba Bharat Dass is the rightful successor of Mahant Baba Ram Ji Dass. On 5.2.2011 Mahant Parmeshwar Dass, who himself had no title over the aforesaid properties, had declared the applicant to be his successor. However, the declaration letter was revoked by Mahant Parmeshwar Dass on 7.9.2012. Copy of the aforesaid declaration letter dated 5.2.2011 and 7.9.2012 are collectively annexed as Annexure C.A.-3 with counter affidavit. Thus, the petitioner has no right to interfere in the property belonging to the opposite party no. 2.

12. Learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 further submitted that the opposite party no. 2 filed a suit before the learned Civil Judge, Hawali (Junior Division), Lucknow for permanent injunction against Arvind Kumar Singh and Baba Shri Parmeshwar Dass (allegedly guru of the applicant), which is registered as Original Suit No. 544 of 2009 wherein the court restraining the applicant to interfere in the peaceful possession of the opposite party no. 2. The injunction suit is binding on Parmeshwar Dass Ji as well against his legal representative. Learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 also submitted that some of the Khasra No. 259 has been kept in mortgage by the opposite party no. 2 in the name of Gramin Bank of Aryawart. The wife of the opposite party no. 2 is also running a milk production dairy under the Kamdhenu Shceme on the part of the aforesaid land from several years after constructing the requisite built area. Copies of the revenue records are collectively annexed as Annexure C.A.-8 with counter affidavit. It is fully established that the opposite party no. 2 has peaceful possession over the land of Village-Aldampur, Tehsil-Bakshi Ka Talab, District- Lucknow.

13. Learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 further submitted that the proceeding under Section 145 Cr.P.C. was initiated with malafide intention and notice was issued under Section 145 (1) Cr.P.C. against the opposite party no. 2. The opposite party no. 2 presented a detailed written statement and also brought on record judgment and order dated 6.8.2010 passed in O.S. No. 544 of 2009 by which the title of the opposite party no. 2 has been confirmed and decree of permanent injunction has been passed in favour of the opposite party no. 2 but the Sub Divisional Magistrate without application of judicial mind passed the order of attachment on 18.10.2019. It is also submitted that the land bearing Gata No. 333, which has already been sold by the wife of the opposite party no. 2 to the M/s. Fortune Realtors, who has not been made party to the proceedings under Section 145 Cr.P.C. Being aggrieved by the order dated 18.10.2019 the opposite party no. 2 preferred criminal revision no. 674 of 2019 and Criminal Revision Court vide order dated 13.12.2019 after hearing both the parties allowed the revision and set aside the order passed by the Sub Divisional Magistrate. The petitioner had got the interim order dated 10.2.2020 from this Court by suppressing the material facts.

14. Learned counsel for the opposite party vehemently submitted that it is no more a rest-integra that the purpose of the provision of Section 145 Cr.P.C. is to prevent a breach of peace at the instance of the parties who should, like law abiding citizens, place their disputes before a civil court and not take law into their own hands. The provision of Section 145 Cr.P.C. is intended only as a stop-gap arrangement, till the rights are not properly adjudicated by the civil court. Thus, the order of attachment can be passed if it is considered that the case is one of emergency but in the present case the opposite party no. 2 had settled that he has title over the above land and he was in peaceful possession after getting sale deed executed in his favour and permanent injunction was awarded in favour of the opposite party no. 2. The land in question rightly owned and possessed by the opposite party no. 2, therefore, the present application filed by the applicant under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is nothing but abuse of the process of law and thus, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 prayed to dismiss the present petition and vacate the interim protection passed by this Court. In support of his submission learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 reliedupon the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court passed in Civil Appeal No. 3007-3008 of 2017 (Prabhakar Adiga Vs. Gowri and others) and judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court passed in the case of Ram Sumer Puri Mahant Vs. State of U.P. and others; AIR 1985 SC 47.

15. I have heard learned counsel for the petitioner and perused the record. In this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. the main prayer of the applicant is to set aside the judgment and order dated 13.12.2019 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.7, Lucknow and also prayed to quash the order dated 18.10.2019 passed by the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Bakshi Ka Talab, Lucknow.

16. The main prayer of learned counsel for the applicant is that the possession over the disputed land in question was handed over on 13.12.2018 but the opposite party no. 2 through muscles power wanted to disturb the peaceful possession of the petitioner regarding which the petitioner lodged the F.I.R. against the opposite party no. 2. It is also submitted that it is the trust property. The trustee has no right to sell the trust property unless the deed of trust confers such a power. There is no such express power conferred by the Trust Act upon the trustee. Merely because the property is vested in the trustee, the trustee is not entitled to sell the same. He is not the full owner of the property in the real sense of the term, because there is beneficial interest and the ownership therein carved out in the property. The legal ownership which vests in the trustee is for the purpose of the trust and administration of the trust. Therefore, the petitioner submitted before the Court that no legal title accrue in favour of the opposite party no. 2.

17. Learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 submitted before the Court that he had purchased the property in question from the then recorded tenure holder Shri Mahant Bharat Das for sale consideration of Rs. 10,40,000/- by registered sale deed dated 17.7.2006. Another Gata bearing No. 406-Ga admeasuring 0.978 hectare and the land bearing Gata No. 333 admeasuring 1.1320 hectare were purchased jointly by mother of the opposite party no. 2 and the wife of the opposite party no. 2 by the sale deed executed on 18.9.2006. Learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 further submitted that till then the alleged property was in possession of the opposite party no. 2 and his family members. The name of the opposite party no. 2 and other family members were also recorded in revenue records. Till then after execution of the sale deed in favour of the opposite party no. 2 and his family members, they peacefully possessed the land but the applicant wanted to grab the property therefore, on behest of the applicants, proceedings under Section 145 Cr.P.C. was started by Sub Divisional Magistrate.

18. I have heard both the parties at length and perused the record.

19. The provisions of Section 145 (1) and 145 (2) Cr.P.C. and Section 146 Cr.P.C. are quoted herein below:

"145. Procedure where dispute concerning land or water is likely to cause breach of peace. (1) Whenever an Executive Magistrate is satisfied from a report of a police officer or upon other information that a dispute likely to cause a breach of the peace exists concerning any land or water or the boundaries thereof, within his local jurisdiction, he shall make an order in writing, stating the grounds of his being so satisfied, and requiring the parties concerned in such dispute to attend his Court in person or by pleader, on a specified date and time, and to put in written statements of their respective claims as respects the fact of actual possession of the subject of dispute.

(2) For the purposes of this section, the expression" land or water" includes buildings, markets, fisheries, crops or other produce of land, and the rents or profits of any such property.

"146 . Power to attach subject of dispute and to appoint receiver.

(1) If the Magistrate at any time after making the order under sub- section (1) of section 145 considers the case to be one of emergency, or if he decides that none of the parties was then in such possession as is referred to in section 145, or if he is unable to satisfy himself as to which of them was then in such possession of the subject of dispute, he may attach the subject of dispute until a competent Court has determined the rights of the parties thereto with regard to the person entitled to the possession thereof: Provided that such Magistrate may withdraw the attachment at any time if he is satisfied that there is no longer any likelihood of breach of the peace with regard to the subject of dispute."

20. The object of the section 145 Cr.P.C. is to bring to an end by a summary process disputes relating to property, which are essentially of a civil nature, with a view to prevent breach of peace. Orders under the section are mere police orders which do not concern question of title. The section is primarily meant for the prevention of breach of peace where the dispute relates to the possession of immovable property, and to provide a speedy remedy by bringing the parties before the Court and ascertaining who of them was in actual possession and to maintain status quo until their rights are determined by a competent Court. Enquiry under this section is limited to the question as to who was in actual possession on the date of the preliminary order irrespective of the rights of the parties and the S.D.M. can not determine right and title of the properties. Due to this, preliminary order was passed by the Magistrate under Section 145 Cr.P.C. Notice was also issued and order was passed under Section 146 (1) Cr.P.C. for attachment of the property.

21. Being aggrieved with this order of the learned Magistrate for attachment of alleged property the opposite party no. 2 preferred the revision and the revision was allowed by impugned judgment of the Sessions Court.

22. Learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 contended that proceedings under Section 145 Cr.P.C. are summary in nature, even if the rights of the parties are disputed before the competent civil court, and right of any party is protected by the court through interim injunction then the aggrieved party should place its grievance before the competent civil court and summary proceedings under Section 145 Cr.P.C. are not maintainable. Since the permanent injunction in favour of the opposite party no. 2 was passed vide order dated 6.8.2010 passed by Civil Judge Hawali (Junior Division), Lucknow in Suit No. 544 of 2009 (Bharat Singh and others Vs. Arvind Singh and Parmeshwar Das. The suit was decreed in favour of the opposite party no. 2 and decree was passed restraining the erstwhile respondent (legal representative of applicant) permanently not to interfere in the possession of the opposite party no. 2. The decree for permanent injunction, which is passed in favour of the opposite party no. 2, is binding even against the legal representative of the opposite party no. 2 of Original Suit No. 544 of 2009. The record indicates that the applicant failed to indicate that any appeal filed against the order dated 6.8.2010 passed by the Civil Judge, Hawali. Since title is in favour of the opposite party no. 2 is well settled, therefore, the contention of the learned counsel for the applicant is that he was not party of the original suit no. 544 of 2009, so the decree is not binding upon him have no force. The decree for permanent injunction shall be enforceable even against the legal representative. Learned counsel for the applicant failed to show any suit for cancellation of sale deed which was executed in favour of opposite party no. 2 and his family members.

23. In support of his submission learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ram Sumer Puri Mahant Vs. State of U.P. and others; AIR 1985 SC 472 in which it has been held that:-

When a civil litigation is pending for the property wherein the question of possession is involved and has been adjudicated, we see hardly any justification for initiating a parallel criminal proceeding under Section 145 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. There is no scope to doubt or dispute the position that the decree of the Civil Court is binding on the criminal court in a matter like the one before us. Counsel for respondents 2-5 was not in a position to challenge the proposition that parallel proceeding should not be permitted to continue and in the event of a decree of the Civil Court, the criminal court should not be allowed to invoke its jurisdiction particularly when possession is being examined by the civil court and parties are in a position to approach the civil court for interim orders such as injunction or appointment of receiver for adequate protection of the property during dependency of the dispute. Multiplicity of litigation is not in the interest of the parties nor should public time be allowed to be wasted over meaningless litigation. We are, therefore, satisfied that parallel proceedings should not continue and the order of the learned Magistrate should be quashed. We accordingly allow the appeal and quash the order of the learned Magistrate by which the proceeding under Section 145 of the Code of Criminal Procedure has been initiated and the property in dispute has been attached.

In support of his submission learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 also relied upon judgment dated 27.3.2018 of this Court passed in the case of Ganesh Prasad & 5 others Vs. State of U.P. & 4 others in which it has been held that:-

13. After having heard at length the rival contentions and having perused the record, this Court is of the opinion that the learned SDM should not have drawn the proceedings under section 145 (1) or 146 (1) Cr.P.C., when the matter was pending before competent courts for getting the title over the said land decided as well for seeking injunction. The revisionists-second party have admittedly moved revenue court for getting their ownership/title declared over the disputed property vis-a-vis the opposite party Nos. 2 and 3-first party, while the opposite party Nos. 2 and 3-first party have moved Civil Court for seeking permanent injunction against the revisionists, which proceedings are pending. It is also on record that these proceedings were pending from prior to the initiation of proceedings under section 145 (1) or 146 (1) Cr. P.C., therefore, the learned SDM ought to have shunned entertaining any application for such relief. It is also apparent from evidence on record that no emergent situation has been shown to exist which compelled the learned SDM to attach the property in dispute. Not even an iota of evidence is there which would reflect that there was any kind of emergency of compelling nature for the SDM to pass an order for attachment of the disputed property. It would be pertinent to refer to the position of law to substantiate the decision of this Court.

14. The reliance is placed by the learned counsel for the revisionist-second party upon (2002) 3 SCC 700, Ranbir Singh vs Dalbir Singh and others, wherein the order of the High Court setting aside the order passed by SDM under section section 145 (1) and 146 (1) Cr. P.C., was upheld holding that while dealing with a proceeding under section 145 Cr. P.C., the Court has to be concerned only with possession of the property in dispute on the date of the preliminary order and dispossession, if any, within two months prior to that date. The Court is not required to decide either title to the property or rights of possession of the same. It was also found by the Apex Court that both the parties had filed suits seeking decree of permanent injunction against each other and in suit filed by the appellant, an order of interim injunction had been passed and an objection had been filed by the respondent No. 1, in such a situation there was no need for the SDM to draw proceedings under section 145 (1) and 146 (1) Cr.P.C., it was nothing but an abuse of process of Court. The relevant paragraph of the said judgment is quoted herein below:

"8 . However, the High Court was in error in dealing with the Revision Petition as if it was exercising appellate jurisdiction. The High Court has dealt with the developments in the case relating to the acquisition of title, the allegations of fraudulent transfers made by Karnail Singh and M/s. Homestead and the circumstances in which the suit was dismissed as withdrawn. Keeping in view the limited scope of the proceeding under section 145, Cr. P.C. these questions were not material for determination of the main issues in the case. The Court, while dealing with a proceeding under section 145 Cr. P.C., is mainly concerned with possession of the property in dispute on the date of the preliminary order and dispossession, if any, within 2 months prior to that date; the Court is not required to decide either title to the property or rights of possession of the same. The question for determination before the High Court in the present case was one relating to the validity or otherwise of the preliminary order passed by the learned Sub - Divisional Magistrate under section 145 (1) Cr. P.C. and sustainability of the order of attachment passed under section 146 (1) Cr. P.C.. For deciding the questions it was neither necessary nor relevant for the High Court to have considered the matter relating to title to and right of possession of the property. Further, both the parties in the case have filed suits seeking decree of permanent injunction against each other and in the suit filed by the appellant an order of interim injunction has been passed and an objection petition has been filed by respondent No. 1. The suits and the interim order are pending further consideration before the Civil Court. "

24. In view of the above facts and circumstances and after considering the above cited law, it appears that opposite party no. 2 possessed the peaceful possession over the disputed land since 2006 and presently the legal title of the above land in question is in favour of the opposite party no. 2 and which is never disturbed by any civil court. Learned Additional Sessions Judge/revisional court had rightly found that the title as well as possession over the land in question is already settled in favour of the opposite party no. 2 (Bharat Singh). Thus, the proceedings under Section 145 Cr.P.C. is not maintainable and there appears no incorrectness, impropriety or illegality in passing the impugned order, so on the basis of the above discussion findings of the Revisional Court dated 13.12.2019 in passing of the impugned order appears to be justified and proper. Thus, in my considered opinion that the present application filed by the applicant under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is devoid of merit and not maintainable, therefore, the present petition is liable to be dismissed.

25. Interim protection granted earlier shall be vacated forthwith.

26. The application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is, accordingly, dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anil Kumar Ojha, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicants, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. Applicants have filed this application with following prayers:-

"Wherefore, it is most respectfully prayed in the interest of justice that this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to allow this application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. and quash the impugned charge-sheet and summoning order dated 16-2-2022, passed by Learned II Additional Sessions Judge/ Special Judge, S.C./S.T. Act, Lakhimpur Kheri summoning the applicants to face trial vide Special Sessions Trial No. 93/2022, Crime No. 314/2020, U/s 323/504/506 I.P.C. & 3(1) ?, ? of the Act, Police Station- Neemgaon, District- Lakhimpur Kheri, contained as Annexures No. 1 and 2 to this application.

It is further prayed that this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to quash the entire criminal proceedings pending against the applicants in the court of Learned II Additional Sessions Judge/ Special Judge, S.C./S.T. Act, Lakhimpur Kheri vide Special Sessions Trial No. 93/2022, Crime No. 314/ 2020, U/s 323/504/506 I.P.C. & 3(1) ?, ? of the Act, Police Station- Neemgaon, District- Lakhimpur Kheri in pursuance of the impugned charge sheet and summoning order, contained as Annexures No. 1 and 2 to this application.

It is further prayed that this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to issue a direction commanding the concerned court below to decide the bail application of the applicants providing them the benefit of the legal proposition laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the reported case Satender Kumar Antil vs. Central Bureau of Investigation & Another, 2021(4) Crimes 139 (S.C.)."

3. In Girish Kumar Suneja v. CBI, (2017) 14 SCC 809, three Judge Bench of Hon'ble Apex Court has made following observations in para nos. 21, 22 and 23:

"21. The concept of an intermediate order was further elucidated in Madhu Limaye v. State of Maharashtra by contradistinguishing a final order and an interlocutory order. This decision lays down the principle that an intermediate order is one which is interlocutory in nature but when reversed, it has the effect of terminating the proceedings and thereby resulting in a final order. Two such intermediate orders immediately come to mind-an order taking cognizance of an offence and summoning an accused and an order for framing charges. Prima facie these orders are interlocutory in nature, but when an order taking cognizance and summoning an accused is reversed, it has the effect of terminating the proceedings against that person resulting in a final order in his or her favour. Similarly, an order for framing of charges if reversed has the effect of discharging the accused person and resulting in a final order in his or her favour. Therefore, an intermediate order is one which if passed in a certain way, the proceedings would terminate but if passed in another way, the proceedings would continue.

22. The view expressed in Amar Nath and Madhu Limaye was followed in K.K. Patel v. State of Gujarat wherein a revision petition was filed challenging the taking of cognizance and issuance of a process. It was said :

It is now well-nigh settled that in deciding whether an order challenged is interlocutory or not as for Section 397(2) of the Code, the sole test is not whether such order was passed during the interim stage (vide Amar Nath v. State of Haryana, Madhu Limaye v. State of Maharashtra, V.C. Shukla v. State through CBI and Rajendra Kumar Sitaram Pande v. Uttam. The feasible test is whether by upholding the objections raised by a party, it would result in culminating the proceedings, if so any order passed on such objections would not be merely interlocutory in nature as envisaged in Section 397(2) of the Code. In the present case, if the objection raised by the appellants were upheld by the Court the entire prosecution proceedings would have been terminated. Hence, as per the said standard, the order was revisable."

23. We may note that in different cases, different expressions are used for the same category of orders-sometimes it is called an intermediate order, sometimes a quasi-final order and sometimes it is called an order that is a matter of moment. Our preference is for the expression "intermediate order" since that brings out the nature of the order more explicitly."

4. From the perusal of the prayer made by applicants, it is clear that applicants have prayed to quash the summoning order dated 16.02.2022 passed by II Additional Sessions Judge/ Special Judge, S.C./S.T. Act, Lakhimpur Kheri, which reads as follows:

5. In Re: Provision of Section 14a of SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act, 2015, full Bench of this Court has held as follows:

"B. Whether in view of the provisions contained in Section 14-A of the Amending Act, a petition under the provisions of Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India or a revision under Section 397 of the Code of Criminal Procedure or a petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C., is maintainable. OR in other words, whether by virtue of Section 14-A of the Amending Act, the powers of the High Court under Articles 226/227 of the Constitution or its revisional powers or the powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. stand ousted?

We therefore answer Question (B) by holding that while the constitutional and inherent powers of this Court are not "ousted" by Section 14A, they cannot be invoked in cases and situations where an appeal would lie under Section 14A. Insofar as the powers of the Court with respect to the revisional jurisdiction is concerned, we find that the provisions of Section 397 Cr.P.C. stand impliedly excluded by virtue of the special provisions made in Section 14A. This, we hold also in light of our finding that the word "order" as occurring in sub-section(1) of Section 14A would also include intermediate orders."

6. In Girish Kumar Suneja v. CBI (Supra), Honble Apex Court in para 21 has specifically stated referring the judgement of Madhu Limaye Vs. State of Maharashtra (1997) 4 SCC 551 that taking cognizance of an offence and summoning the accused is intermediate order, thus impugned summoning order dated 16.02.2022 is an intermediate order.

7. Now it is to be seen whether Application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. lies against the impugned summoning order dated 16.02.2022 or appeal will lie under Section 14A(1) of the S.C./S.T. Act.

8. Relevant portion of Section 14A(1) of the S.C./S.T. Act. are quoted below for ready reference:

"14A. Appeals.- (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), an appeal shall lie, from any judgment, sentence or order, not being an interlocutory order, of a Special Court or an Exclusive Special Court, to the High Court both on facts and on law."From the perusal of provisions of Section 14A(1) of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities Act), 1989, it is clear that an Appeal shall lie from any judgement, cognizance order, order not being interlocutory order of Special Court, or an exclusive Special Court to the High Court, both on facts and on law."

9. Full Bench of this Court in Re: Provision of Section 14a of SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act, 2015 while answering question B has specifically stated- "we hold also in light of our finding that the word "order" as occurring in sub-section(1) of Section 14A would also include intermediate orders.

10. Thus if any intermediate order is passed by Special Court or an exclusive Special Court in case relating to an offence in the S.C./S.T. Act, that will come in the category of order as provided under Section 14A(1) of SC/ST Act against which only an appeal shall lie before the High Court, both on facts and on law.

11. In view of the above discussion, I am of the considered opinion that Application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. cannot be filed against summoning order dated 16.02.2022 passed by Learned II Additional Sessions Judge/ Special Judge, S.C./S.T. Act, Lakhimpur Kheri.

12. Perusal of prayer further reveals that prayer has also been made to issue a direction commanding the court below to decide the bail application of the applicants providing them the benefit of the legal proposition laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the reported case Satender Kumar

Antil vs. Central Bureau of Investigation & Another, (2021) 10 SCC 773.

13. In Satender Kumar Antil (supra), the Hon'ble Apex Court has issued guidelines to trial courts and High Courts to keep them in mind while considering the bail applications. A copy of the aforesaid judgment was also ordered to be circulated to the Registrars of different High Courts to be further circulated to the trial courts so that necessary bail matters do not come up before Hon'ble Apex Court. Relevant portion of Satender Kumar Antil (supra) is quoted as under:-

"5. The trial courts and the High Courts will keep in mind the aforesaid guidelines while considering bail applications. The caveat which has been put by the learned ASG is that where the accused have not cooperated in the investigation non appeared before the investigating officers, nor answered summons when the courts feels that judicial custody of the accused is necessary for the completion of the trial, where further investigation including a possible recovery is needed, the aforesaid approach cannot give them benefit, something we agree with.

10. A copy of this order be circulated to the Registrars of the different High Courts to be further circulated to the trial courts so that the necessary bail matters do not come up to this Court."

14. During the course of arguments, Advocates complained that Districts Courts do not follow dictum of Satender Kumar Antil (supra) unless specifically directed by the High Court. This is a sorry state of affair. The law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Satender Kumar Antil (supra) is law of land and is binding upon all courts in India.

15. Hence, there is no need to issue a direction to the trial court concerned to decide the bail application applying the legal proposition laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the reported case Satender Kumar Antil (supra).

16. However, it would be appropriate that a copy of this order be sent to the Registrar General of Allahabad High Court, who if required may issue circular to all the courts in the State of Uttar Pradesh under subordination of High Court of Judicature at Allahabad to follow the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Satender Kumar Antil (supra).

17. This Application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. is disposed of with the observation that applicants are permitted to file fresh petition before the appropriate forcum.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Anupam Mehrotra, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Anurag Verma, learned AGA-I for the State as well as Sri H.G.S. Parihar, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Akash Prasad and Sri Amitav Singh, learned counsel for opposite party no.6/ complainant.

2. This petition/application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed challenging the orders of cognizance and commitment of the case to the Court of Session dated 10.01.2020 (Annexures No.1 & 2); police report/ charge sheet no.01/2020 dated 25.12.2019 (Annexure No.3) and further proceedings thereto. As an interim prayer, further proceedings of Sessions Trial No.11 of 2020, order of cognizance as well as commitment order dated 10.01.2020 and the trial of the present case have been prayed to be stayed during pendency of the present petition.

3. Sri Anupam Mehrotra has assailed the aforesaid orders saying that the impugned police report/charge sheet no.01 of 2020 dated 25.12.2019 (Annexure No.3) was filed on the basis of incomplete investigation in Case Crime No.366 of 2019 lodged at Police Station Harchandpur, Raebareli (under Sections 147, 148, 149, 323, 302, 201, 120-B & 216 IPC), wherein the applicant and fifteen more accused persons have been implicated, therefore, such police report may not be termed as police report strictly in terms of Section 173 Cr.P.C. He has also assailed the order dated 10.1.2020 whereby the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Raebareli has taken cognizance of the charge sheet committing the case for trial to the Court of Sessions Judge without ascertaining and verifying the fact as to whether the police report/ charge sheet has been properly filed or not. As per Sri Mehrotra, since the police report/charge sheet has been filed on the basis of incomplete investigation and such fact is clear from the charge sheet itself, therefore, learned Chief Judicial Magistrate instead of taking cognizance of said charge sheet and committing the case for trial, he should have ordered either for further investigation or should wait till investigation completes and all relevant material is placed before the court.

4. Brief facts to consider the prayers of the present applicant are that one FIR was lodged by opposite party no.6, which has been registered as Crime No.366 of 2019, originally under Sections 302 & 201 IPC and was subsequently converted under Sections 147, 148, 149, 323, 302, 201, 120-B & 216 IPC, Police Station Harchandpur, Raebareli against Suresh Yadav, the owner of Somu Dhaba and the unidentified staff members of Somu Dhaba. The alleged incident occurred on 9.10.2019 at 22:00 hours at Somu Dhaba and in the FIR in question, it has been alleged that Aditya Pratap Singh alias Ravi, son of Pradeep Kumar Singh, the complainant (the opposite party no.6 herein) was at the house of his 'bua', (the sister of Ravi's father, Pradeep Kumar Singh, the complainant/opposite party no 6 herein) at Jankipuram, Kanpur Road, P.S. Kotwali Sadar, Raebareli in the night of 9.10.2019 when at around 10:00 PM, Ravi on being called by three persons (Manish Singh, Saurabh Singh and Ajay Singh), went to meet them on a motorcycle (No. UP 33 N 7162). That night, when Ravi did not return to the house of his bua, his bua tried the whole night to contact Ravi on his mobile phone but could not contact him. On the next day, at 7:00 AM, the call of Ravi's bua on Ravi's mobile phone was answered by the S.H.O., Police Station Harchandpur, Raebareli, who told Ravi's bua that the person, the call on whose mobile phone is being answered, his dead body has been found near a godown near Garhi Khas (at Raebareli) and the police has taken the dead body to the District Hospital, Raebareli. On being informed by Raj Kumari Singh about what the S.H.O, told her, Pradeep Kumar Singh (the father of Ravi/the complainant/the opposite party no 6 herein) reached the District Hospital, Raebareli where he found his son lying dead. Thereupon, Pradeep Kumar Singh (the complainant/the opposite party no 6 herein) called Ajay and Manish (supra) to enquire about the death, upon which Pradeep Kumar Singh was told that the previous night, Ravi, along with Manish Singh, Saurabh Singh and Ajay Singh mentioned above, went to the Somu Dhaba for dinner where, in a fracas, Ravi was beaten up by Suresh Yadav (the owner of Somu Dhaba/the applicant's cousin) and the staff members of Somu Dhaba with bamboo stick, poles and iron stick ("lathi, dandey and sariya"). In this fracas, as apprehended by Pradeep Kumar Singh (the complainant/the opposite party no.6 herein), Ravi was killed and his dead body might have been thrown near the godown near Garhi Khas to make the murder appear as an accident. Further, the complainant/the opposite party no 6 herein also apprehended that the CCTV Footages of Somu Dhaba of the intervening night of October 9 and 10, 2019 from 10:00 PM to 01:00 AM might have been deleted so as to erase the evidence of murder.

5. As per Sri Mehrotra, for the aforesaid incident one local leader-Member of Legislative Council, U.P. from Raebareli (for short "MLC"), namely, Sri Dinesh Pratap Singh wrote a letter dated 12.10.2019 to the Chief Minister of U.P. alleging that death of Aditya Pratap Singh alias Ravi is murder at Somu Dhaba and the accused persons are guilty of this murder. It has been further alleged in the said letter that the victim succumbed to the injuries caused by the heated tools used for cooking food. Sri Mehrotra has further submitted that on the aforesaid letter dated 12.10.2019, the Chief Minister of the State directed his Special Secretary to do the needful exercise with promptness and effective action be taken to punish the guilty persons. On the direction of the Chief Minister, the Special Secretary wrote a letter to the Additional Chief Secretary, Home, enclosing therewith the letter of MLC for doing the needful exercise. Therefore, as per Sri Mehrotra, the entire exercise has been carried out by the police at the behest of local MLC and the Chief Minister.

6. Sri Mehrotra has further submitted that since the Additional Chief Secretary, Home, was taking personal interest in the matter, therefore, the investigation was hurriedly concluded and charge sheet was filed on 25.12.2019. The aforesaid charge sheet was based on incomplete investigation inasmuch as during investigation on 14.11.2019, three hard-disks and two adopters of CCTV footage were sent by the police to the Forensic Science Laboratory (FSL) and FSL report was not enclosed with the charge sheet. Sri Mehrotra has drawn attention of this Court towards the last page of the charge sheet to show that the Investigating Officer has categorically indicated that despite the couple of reminders being sent to obtain FSL report, the same has not been received for the reason that no such examination could take place. It has been further indicated that as soon as such FSL report is received, the same shall be produced before the learned court. However, it has been requested in the said charge sheet that on the basis of material available on record, the evidences collected and the statements recorded during investigation, the accused persons may be punished. He has further submitted that despite the fact that charge sheet has already been filed on 25.12.2019, even then the supplementary statements (Mazeed Bayaan) have been recorded by the Investigating Officer of certain persons on 8.1.2020, which is not permissible in the eyes of law inasmuch as there cannot be any further investigation when the original investigation is incomplete. However, ignoring the aforesaid legal binding, the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Raebareli took cognizance of the charge sheet on 10.1.2020 and committed the issue to the Court of Session.

7. Sri Mehrotra has drawn attention of this Court towards the order dated

13.9.2021 (Annexure No.13) whereby the court of Additional Sessions Judge-I, Raebareli, the trial court, directed the State/prosecution to apprise that whether the investigation has completed or not. On the basis of aforesaid order dated 13.9.2021, Sri Mehrotra has submitted that it is evident that so called police report/charge sheet was filed on the basis of incomplete investigation, therefore, the proceedings of trial court are futile as it cannot take cognizance of the offence unless the case has been committed to it by a Magistrate under Section 193 Cr.P.C. For the convenience, relevant portion of Section 193 Cr.P.C. is being reproduced herein below:-

"193. Cognizance of offences by Courts of Session. Except as otherwise expressly provided by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, no Court of Session shall take cognizance of any offence as a Court of original jurisdiction unless the case has been committed to it by a Magistrate under this Code."

8. Sri Mehrotra has submitted that since the impugned charge sheet as well as cognisance order are nullity in the eyes of law, therefore, those may be quashed. He has further submitted that since the charge sheet and cognizance order are not sustainable in the eyes of law, therefore, further trial proceedings in the case in question may be stayed till conclusion of proper investigation as per law. Sri Mehrotra has submitted that the Chief Judicial Magistrate has overlooked the fundamental features of taking cognizance within the meaning of Section 193 Cr.P.C. These well settled features are; (1) for "taking cognizance" no formal action is prescribed, it is taken when a Magistrate first takes judicial notice of an offence i.e., when the Magistrate applies mind for the purpose of proceeding further on a complaint or on a police report or upon information of a person other than a police officer, as the case may be ("judicial notice" inherently means due application of mind); and (2) "Cognizance" means taking cognizance of offence and not of the offenders i.e., the due application of mind by the Magistrate is to be on how much is the commission of an alleged offence made out by the police report ('charge sheet') for the purpose of having a triable case. However, in the present case, as per Sri Mehrotra, the Chief Judicial Magistrate did not take cognizance/applied his mind to the alleged offence, as no conclusion on the commission of alleged offence was possible without the FSL report and without the completion of investigation. In support of his aforesaid submission, he has placed reliance upon the dictums of the Hon'ble Apex Court in re; R.R. Chari v. The State of Uttar Pradesh, AIR (38) 1951 SC 207, Narayandas Bhagwandas Madhavdas v. The State of West Bengal, AIR 1959 SC 1118, Raghubans Dubey v. State of Bihar, AIR 1967 SC 1167, Darshan Singh Ram Kishan v. The State of Maharashtra, 1971 SCC (Cri) 628, Mowu v. The Superintendent, Special Jail, Nowgong, Assam and others, 1972 SCC (Cri) 184, State of West Bengal v. Manmal Bhutoria and Others, (1977) 3 SCC 440 and Tula Ram and Others v. Kishore Singh, (1977) 4 SCC 459. He has referred para-9 of the dictum of of the Apex Court in re; R.R. Chari (supra). Relevant extract of para-9 of R.R. Chari (supra) is being reproduced herein below:-

"(9) ....What is taking cognizance has not been defined in the Cri.P.C. & I have no desire to attempt to define it. It seems to me clear however that before it can be said that any Mag. has taken cognizance of any offence u/s. 190(1)(a) Cri.P.C., he must not only have applied his mind to the contents of the petn but he must have done so for the purpose of proceeding, in a particular way as indicated in the subsequent provisions of this Chap., proceeding u/s. 200 & thereafter sending it for inquiry & report u/s. 202....."

9. In support of his argument that in absence of the completion of investigation, cognizance order of the Chief Judicial Magistrate is a nullity, pursuant to which the trial is impossible and could not commence, Sri Mehrotra has cited the dictum of the Apex Court in re; Raj Kishore Prasad v. State of Bihar and Another, (1996) 4 SCC 495.

10. Referring the dictum of the Apex Court in re; Satya Narain Musadi and Others v. State of Bihar, (1980) 3 SCC 152, Sri Mehrotra has submitted that the Hon'ble Apex Court has clarified about the police report in paras 9 & 10 of the aforesaid judgment observing that Section 173 (2) (1) Cr.P.C. provides that on completion of investigation the police officer investigating into the cognizable offence shall submit a report in the form prescribed by the State Government. Statutory requirement of the report under Section 173 (2) Cr.P.C. would be complied with if the various details therein prescribed are included in the report. On the strength of the aforesaid dictum, Sri Mehrotra tried to explain that unless and until the entire material is collected by the investigating agency, charge sheet should have not been filed and if charge sheet is filed on the basis of incomplete investigation, the learned court of Magistrate should not take cognizance thereof.

11. He has further submitted that the Apex Court in re; Divine Retreat Centre v. State of Kerala & Ors, AIR 2008 SC 1614, V.K. Sasikala v. State Represented by Superintendent of Police, (2012) 9 SCC 771, Parminder Kaur v. State of Uttar Pradesh and Another, (2010) 1 SCC 322 and Karan Singh v. State of Haryana & Anr., AIR 2013 SC 2348, has observed that the investigation is the duty of the police in which the courts do not ordinarily interfere. An exception to this is the abuse of police power in an investigation, against which interference by the High Court lies. Application of mind by the Magistrate under Section 173 (2) Cr.P.C. and the plenary powers of the High Court have been held to be the adequate safeguards for ensuring fair investigation.

12. Per Contra, Sri Anurag Verma, learned AGA has raised preliminary objection regarding maintainability of the instant petition/ application in view of the recent pronouncements of the Apex Court in re; State of Gujarat v. Afroz Mohammed Hasanfatta, (2019) 20 SCC 539, wherein it has been held as follows:-

"16. It is well settled that at the stage of issuing process, the Magistrate is mainly concerned with the allegations made in the complaint or the evidence led in support of the same and the Magistrate is only to be satisfied that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against the accused. It is fairly well settled that when issuing summons, the Magistrate need not explicitly state the reasons for his satisfaction that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against the accused.....

22. In summoning the accused, it is not necessary for the Magistrate to examine the merits and demerits of the case and whether the materials collected is adequate for supporting the conviction. The court is not required to evaluate the evidence and its merits. The standard to be adopted for summoning the accused under Section 204 CrPC is not the same at the time of framing the charge. For issuance of summons under Section 204 CrPC, the expression used is "there is sufficient ground for proceeding..."; whereas for framing the charges, the expression used in Sections 240 and 246 IPC is "there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence...". At the stage of taking cognizance of the offence based upon a police report and for issuance of summons under Section 204 CrPC, detailed enquiry regarding the merits and demerits of the case is not required. The fact that after investigation of the case, the police has filed charge-sheet along with the materials thereon may be considered as sufficient ground for proceeding for issuance of summons under Section 204 CrPC.

23. Insofar as taking cognizance based on the police report is concerned, the Magistrate has the advantage of the charge-sheet, statement of witnesses and other evidence collected by the police during the investigation. Investigating officer/SHO collects the necessary evidence during the investigation conducted in compliance with the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code and in accordance with the rules of investigation. Evidence and materials so collected are sifted at the level of the investigating officer and thereafter, charge-sheet was filed. In appropriate cases, opinion of the Public Prosecutor is also obtained before filing the charge-sheet. The court thus has the advantage of the police report along with the materials placed before it by the police. Under Section 190(1)(b) CrPC, where the Magistrate has taken cognizance of an offence upon a police report and the Magistrate is satisfied that there is sufficient ground for proceeding, the Magistrate directs issuance of process. In case of taking cognizance of an offence based upon the police report, the Magistrate is not required to record reasons for issuing the process. In cases instituted on a police report, the Magistrate is only required to pass an order issuing summons to the accused. Such an order of issuing summons to the accused is based upon subject to satisfaction of the Magistrate considering the police report and other documents and satisfying himself that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. In a case based upon the police report, at the stage of issuing the summons to the accused, the Magistrate is not required to record any reason. In case, if the charge-sheet is barred by law or where there is lack of jurisdiction or when the charge-sheet is rejected or not taken on file, then the Magistrate is required to record his reasons for rejection of the charge-sheet and for not taking it on file.

24. In the present case, cognizance of the offence has been taken by taking into consideration the charge-sheet filed by the police for the offence under Sections 420, 465, 467, 468, 471, 477-A and 120-B IPC, the order for issuance of process without explicitly recording reasons for its satisfaction for issue of process does not suffer from any illegality."

13. Therefore, Sri Verma has submitted that there subsists no valid ground for quashing the criminal proceedings against the accused-applicant and the present petition deserves to be outrightly dismissed.

14. Sri Verma has further submitted that by way of catena of judicial pronouncements, the Apex Court has held that at the time of cognizance, the Magistrate is not required to write a detailed order. So as to strengthen the aforesaid argument, he has placed reliance upon the dictum of the Apex Court in re; Bhushan Kumar and Another v. State (NCT of Delhi) and Another, (2012) 5 SCC 424. Sri Verma has vehemently denied the contention of Sri Mehrotra that the investigation was not carried out in a fair and impartial manner. As per him, the investigation was carried out absolutely in a fair and impartial manner, without any political intervention and pursuant to the revelation of credible and cogent evidence regarding complicity of the accused person, a charge sheet was prepared strictly in consonance with the provisions of Cr.P.C. and was forwarded to the competent court. Sri Verma has further submitted that all reliable and credible evidences have been collected and statements of all witnesses including the injured witnesses have been recorded. Further, at the time of submission of charge sheet only the report from FSL regarding electronic evidence was awaited which will not make the charge sheet against the applicant and other co-accused defective in any manner whatsoever.

15. Sri Verma has however informed the Court that such FSL report regarding electronic evidence gathered during the course of investigation has been received from the Forensic Science Laboratory and the same was duly endorsed in the case diary on 2.11.2021. Such FSL report, which is dated 24.9.2021, has been filed along with supplementary counter affidavit filed on 25.11.2021. Sri Verma has filed statements of all the witnesses including the injured persons by filing counter affidavit and supplementary counter affidavit.

16. Sri Verma has submitted that there is no specific bar to the effect that the additional documents cannot be produced subsequently. If the Investigating Officer obtains reliable document, he may produce the same later on. Not only the above, if the Investigating Officer has himself indicated in the charge sheet that he shall be filing the FSL report when the same is received to him, he can file such report before the learned court concerned and in the present case such FSL report has already been filed. So as to strengthen his aforesaid argument, Sri Verma has cited the dictum of the Apex Court in re; Central Bureau of Investigation v. R.S. Pai and Another, (2002) 5 SCC 82, wherein in para-7, it has been held as under:-

"7. From the aforesaid sub-sections, it is apparent that normally, the investigating officer is required to produce all the relevant documents at the time of submitting the charge-sheet. At the same time, as there is no specific prohibition, it cannot be held that the additional documents cannot be produced subsequently. If some mistake is committed in not producing the relevant documents at the time of submitting the report or the charge-sheet, it is always open to the investigating officer to produce the same with the permission of the court. In our view, considering the preliminary stage of prosecution and the context in which the police officer is required to forward to the Magistrate all the documents or the relevant extracts thereof on which the prosecution proposes to rely, the word "shall" used in sub-section (5) cannot be interpreted as mandatory, but as directory. Normally, the documents gathered during the investigation upon which the prosecution wants to rely are required to be forwarded to the Magistrate, but if there is some omission, it would not mean that the remaining documents cannot be produced subsequently. Analogous provision under Section 173(4) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 was considered by this Court in Narayan Rao v. State of A.P. [AIR 1957 SC 737 : 1958 SCR 283 : 1957 Cri LJ 1320] (SCR at p. 293) and it was held that the word "shall" occurring in sub-section (4) of Section 173 and sub-section (3) of Section 207-A is not mandatory but only directory. Further, the scheme of sub-section (8) of Section 173 also makes it abundantly clear that even after the charge-sheet is submitted, further investigation, if called for, is not precluded. If further investigation is not precluded then there is no question of not permitting the prosecution to produce additional documents which were gathered prior to or subsequent to the investigation. In such cases, there cannot be any prejudice to the accused. Hence, the impugned order passed by the Special Court cannot be sustained."

17. Sri Verma has further submitted that endeavour of the applicant/ petitioner to portray the illegality in the investigation and the consequent cognizance is entirely misplaced and fallacious. Citing the dictum of the Apex Court in re: Union of India v. Prakash P. Hinduja and Another, (2003) 6 SCC 195, he has submitted that assuming though not conceding that there is any error in preparation of the charge sheet in the instant case, the same is no legitimate ground for interference under inherent power of this Court either with the cognizance or with the charge sheet. Relevant extract of para 21 of the aforesaid case is as under:-

"21. ...The Court after referring to Parbhu v. Emperor [AIR 1944 PC 73 : 46 Cri LJ 119] and Lumbhardar Zutshi v. R. [AIR 1950 PC 26 : (1950) 51 Cri LJ 644] held that if cognizance is in fact taken on a police report initiated by the breach of a mandatory provision relating to investigation, there can be no doubt that the result of the trial, which follows it cannot be set aside unless the illegality in the investigation can be shown to have brought about a miscarriage of justice and that an illegality committed in the course of investigation does not affect the competence and the jurisdiction of the court for trial. This being the legal position, even assuming for the sake of argument that CBI committed an error or irregularity in submitting the charge-sheet without the approval of CVC, the cognizance taken by the learned Special Judge on the basis of such a charge-sheet could not be set aside nor could further proceedings in pursuance thereof be quashed. The High Court has clearly erred in setting aside the order of the learned Special Judge taking cognizance of the offence and in quashing further proceedings of the case."

18. Therefore, Sri Verma has submitted that the present petition may be dismissed.

19. Sri H.G.S. Parihar, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Akash Prasad, learned counsel for opposite party no.6, has also adopted the arguments of Sri Anurag Verma, learned AGA. Sri Parihar has further submitted that in the present case after recording the statements of the complainant as well as other witnesses and collecting the material, charge sheet has been filed and the same may not be declared invalid for the reason that at the time of filing the charge sheet, FSL report was not filed. However, he has submitted on the basis of instructions that said FSL report has been filed. As per him, the trial is going on, therefore, no interference in the trial may be required and the present petition may be dismissed.

20. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record.

21. It has been gathered from the material available on record that the prosecution has collected material evidences during the course of the investigation including video footage and clips so as to corroborate the prosecution story. The vehicle used in the assault was also recovered and after proper physical examination of such vehicle, it was allegedly found that this was the vehicle which was used by the assailants/accused persons to kill the victim. Statements of relevant and material witnesses and eye witnesses have been recorded. The statements of aforesaid witnesses including eye witnesses vis-a-vis FSL report of the vehicle in question have been enclosed alongwith the counter affidavit and supplementary counter affidavit filed by the State.

22. Law is settled on the point that there is no specific bar to collect the evidence and file the same after filing the charge-sheet. If the material/evidence is credible and relevant for taking the trial court on any certain conclusion, the same may be accepted by the Magistrate/ trial court. The Hon'ble Apex Court in re; State of Maharashtra v. Sharadchandra Vinayak Dongre and Others, (1995) 1 SCC 42, has held that Magistrate can take cognizance of the offence if he is satisfied that the material placed by the prosecution is sufficient for taking cognizance. He is not debarred from doing so merely because police has filed an application after submission of the charge sheet seeking permission to file supplementary charge sheet.

23. The Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) v. R.S. Pai and Ors, (2002) 5 SCC 82, has held that the Investigating Officer is required to produce all the relevant documents at the time of submitting the charge sheet. At the same time, as there is no specific prohibition, it cannot be held that the additional documents cannot be produced subsequently. If some mistake is committed in not producing the relevant documents at the time of submitting the report or charge sheet, it is always open to the Investigating Officer to produce the same with the permission of the court. Sri Verma has submitted that the aforesaid exercise is also permitted in view of Section 173 (8) Cr.P.C.

24. The Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Dhanaj Singh alias Shera and Others v. State of Punjab, (2004) 3 SCC 654, has observed in paras 5 to 8 as under:-

"5. In the case of a defective investigation the court has to be circumspect in evaluating the evidence. But it would not be right in acquitting an accused person solely on account of the defect; to do so would tantamount to playing into the hands of the investigating officer if the investigation is designedly defective. (See Karnel Singh v. State of M.P. [(1995) 5 SCC 518 : 1995 SCC (Cri) 977]

6. In Paras Yadav v. State of Bihar [(1999) 2 SCC 126 : 1999 SCC (Cri) 104] it was held that if the lapse or omission is committed by the investigating agency or because of negligence the prosecution evidence is required to be examined dehors such omissions to find out whether the said evidence is reliable or not, the contaminated conduct of officials should not stand in the way of evaluating the evidence by the courts; otherwise the designed mischief would be perpetuated and justice would be denied to the complainant party.

7. As was observed in Ram Bihari Yadav v. State of Bihar [(1998) 4 SCC 517 : 1998 SCC (Cri) 1085] if primacy is given to such designed or negligent investigation, to the omission or lapses by perfunctory investigation or omissions, the faith and confidence of the people would be shaken not only in the law-enforcing agency but also in the administration of justice. The view was again reiterated in Amar Singh v. Balwinder Singh [(2003) 2 SCC 518 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 641] . As noted in Amar Singh case [(2003) 2 SCC 518 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 641] it would have been certainly better if the firearms were sent to the Forensic Test Laboratory for comparison. But the report of the ballistic expert would be in the nature of an expert opinion without any conclusiveness attached to it. When the direct testimony of the eyewitnesses corroborated by the medical evidence fully establishes the prosecution version, failure or omission or negligence on the part of the IO cannot affect the credibility of the prosecution version.

8. The stand of the appellants relates essentially to acceptability of evidence. Even if the investigation is defective, in view of the legal principles set out above, that pales into insignificance when ocular testimony is found credible and cogent. Further effect of non-examination of weapons of assault or the pellets, etc. in the background of defective investigation has been considered in Amar Singh case [(2003) 2 SCC 518 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 641]. In the case at hand, no crack in the evidence of the vital witnesses can be noticed."

25. So far as arguments of Sri Mehrotra that charge sheet has been filed under the influence of the local leader, therefore, the same is an outcome of malafide, the Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Mutha Associates and Others v. State of Maharashtra and Others, (2013) 14 SCC 304, has observed in paras 44 to 50 as under:-

"44. That the allegations of mala fides would require a high degree of proof to rebut the presumption that administrative action has been taken bona fide was laid down as one of the principles governing burden of proof of allegations of mala fides levelled by an aggrieved party. The Court in Ajit Kumar Nag v. Indian Oil Corpn. Ltd. [(2005) 7 SCC 764 : 2005 SCC (L&S) 1020] observed thus: (SCC p. 790, para 56)

"56. ... It is well settled that the burden of proving mala fide is on the person making the allegations and the burden is "very heavy'. (Vide E.P. Royappa v. State of T.N. [(1974) 4 SCC 3 : 1974 SCC (L&S) 165]. There is every presumption in favour of the administration that the power has been exercised bona fide and in good faith. It is to be remembered that the allegations of mala fide are often more easily made than made out and the very seriousness of such allegations demands proof of a high degree of credibility. As Krishna Iyer, J. stated in Gulam Mustafa v. State of Maharashtra [(1976) 1 SCC 800] (SCC p. 802, para 2): "It (mala fide) is the last refuge of a losing litigant.'"

45. In State of M.P. v. Nandlal Jaiswal [(1986) 4 SCC 566] this Court laid emphasis on the need for furnishing full particulars of allegations suggesting mala fides. The use of words such as "mala fides", "corruption" and "corrupt practice" was held to be insufficient to necessitate an enquiry into such allegations. The Court observed: (SCC p. 611, para 39)

"39. Before we part with this case we must express our strong disapproval of the observations made by B.M. Lal, J. in paras 1, 9, 17, 18, 19 and 34 of his concurring opinion. The learned Judge made sweeping observations attributing mala fides, corruption and underhand dealing to the State Government. These observations are in our opinion not at all justified by the record. In the first place it is difficult to appreciate how any such observation could be made by the learned Judge without any foundation for the same being laid in the pleadings. It is true that in the writ petitions the petitioners used words such as "mala fide', "corruption' and "corrupt practice' but the use of such words is not enough. What is necessary is to give full particulars of such allegations and to set out the material facts specifying the particular person against whom such allegations are made so that he may have an opportunity of controverting such allegations. The requirement of law is not satisfied insofar as the pleadings in the present case are concerned and in the absence of necessary particulars and material facts, we fail to see how the learned Judge could come to a finding that the State Government was guilty of factual mala fides, corruption and underhand dealing."

46. To the same effect is the decision of this Court in Swaran Lata v. Union of India [(1979) 3 SCC 165 : 1979 SCC (L&S) 237] the Court held that in the absence of particulars, the Court would be justified in refusing to conduct an investigation into the allegations of mala fides.

47. In A. Peeriakaruppan v. Sobha Joseph [(1971) 1 SCC 38] this Court held that even when the Court examining the validity of an action may find a circumstance to be disturbing it cannot uphold the plea of mala fides on ground of mere probabilities. A note of caution was similarly sounded by this Court in E.P. Royappa v. State of T.N. [(1974) 4 SCC 3 : 1974 SCC (L&S) 165] , where the Court held that it ought to be slow to draw dubious inferences from incomplete facts particularly when imputations are grave and they are made against the holder of an office which has high responsibility in the administration. The following passage from the decision is apposite: (E.P. Royappa case [(1974) 4 SCC 3 : 1974 SCC (L&S) 165] , SCC pp. 41-42, para 92)

"92. Secondly, we must not also overlook that the burden of establishing mala fides is very heavy on the person who alleges it. The allegations of mala fides are often more easily made than proved, and the very seriousness of such allegations demands proof of a high order of credibility. Here the petitioner, who was himself once the Chief Secretary, has flung a series of charges of oblique conduct against the Chief Minister. That is in itself a rather extraordinary and unusual occurrence and if these charges are true, they are bound to shake the confidence of the people in the political custodians of power in the State, and therefore, the anxiety of the Court should be all the greater to insist on a high degree of proof. In this context it may be noted that top administrators are often required to do acts which affect others adversely but which are necessary in the execution of their duties.

These acts may lend themselves to misconstruction and suspicion as to the bona fides of their author when the full facts and surrounding circumstances are not known. The Court would, therefore, be slow to draw dubious inferences from incomplete facts placed before it by a party, particularly when the imputations are grave and they are made against the holder of an office which has a high responsibility in the administration. Such is the judicial perspective in evaluating charge of unworthy conduct against ministers and other high authorities, not because of any special status which they are supposed to enjoy, nor because they are highly placed in social life or administrative set up--these considerations are wholly irrelevant in judicial approach--but because otherwise, functioning effectively would become difficult in a democracy. It is from this standpoint that we must assess the merits of the allegations of mala fides made by the petitioner against the second respondent."

48. The charge of mala fides levelled against the appellant Mr Rane, the then Minister was not supported by any particulars. The writ petition filed by APMC did not provide specific particulars or details of how the decision taken by the Minister was influenced by Mutha Associates or by any other person for that matter. The averments made in the writ petition in that regard appeared to be general and inferential in nature. Such allegations were, in our opinion, insufficient to hold the charge of "malice in fact" levelled against the Minister proved.

49. It is true that the High Court has enumerated certain stark irregularities in the decision-making process or the use of material obtained on behalf of (sic behind) the back of the beneficiary of the acquisition as also the denial of fair opportunity to the beneficiary to present its case before the Minister yet those irregularities do not inevitably lead to the conclusion that the Minister had acted mala fide. Failure to abide by the principles of natural justice or consideration of material not disclosed to a party or non-application of mind to the material available on record may vitiate the decision taken by the authority concerned and may even constitute malice in law but the action may still remain bona fide and in good faith.

50. It is trite that every action taken by a public authority even found untenable cannot be dubbed as mala fide simply because it has fallen short of the legal standards and requirements for an action may continue to be bona fide and in good faith no matter the public authority passing the order has committed mistakes or irregularities in procedures or even breached the minimal requirements of the principles of natural justice. The High Court has attributed to the Minister, the appellant in Civil Appeals Nos. 2856-57 of 2002, mala fides simply because the order passed by him was found to be untenable in law. Such an inference was not in our view justified, no matter the circumstances enumerated by the High Court may have given rise to a strong suspicion that the Minister acted out of extraneous considerations. Suspicion, however strong cannot be proof of the charge of mala fides. It is only on clear proof of high degree that the court could strike down an action on the ground of mala fide which standard of proof was not, in our opinion, satisfied in the instant case. To the extent the High Court held the action of the Minister to be mala fide, the impugned order would require correction and Civil Appeals Nos.2856 and 2857 of 2002 allowed."

26. The power of this Court enshrined under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is an inherent power to secure the ends of justice or to prevent any abuse of the process of any Court. This is an extra-ordinary power of the High Court like Article 226 of the Constitution of India but at the same time, this Court must be much careful and cautious before invoking this power to ensure that if this power is not invoked, the litigant would suffer irreparable loss and injury and it would be manifest injustice and abuse of the process of the law. Therefore, the Apex Court has observed in catena of cases that this power should be invoked very sparingly and cautiously.

27. The Hon'ble Apex Court in re; State of U.P. v. O.P. Sharma, (1996) 7 SCC 705, in paras 12 & 13 has observed as under:-

"12. In State of Bihar v. Rajendra Agrawalla [Crl. A. No. 66 of 1996, decided on 18-1-1996] this Court observed as under:

"It has been held by this Court in several cases that the inherent power of the court under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure should be very sparingly and cautiously used only when the court comes to the conclusion that there would be manifest injustice or there would be abuse of the process of the court, if such power is not exercised. So far as the order of cognizance by a Magistrate is concerned, the inherent power can be exercised when the allegations in the first information report or the complaint together with the other materials collected during investigation taken at their face value, do not constitute the offence alleged. At that stage it is not open for the court either to shift the evidence or appreciate the evidence and come to the conclusion that no prima facie case is made out."

13. In Mushtaq Ahmed v. Mohd. Habibur Rehman Faizi [JT (1996) 1 SC 656] this Court held as under:

"... According to the complaint, the respondents had thereby committed breach of trust of government money. In support of the above allegations made in the complaint copies of the salary statements of the relevant periods were produced. In spite of the fact that the complaint and the documents annexed thereto clearly made out a, prima facie case for cheating, breach of trust and forgery, the High Court proceeded to consider the version of the respondents given out in their petition filed under Section 482, CrPC vis-à-vis that of the appellant and entered into the debatable area of deciding which of the version was true, -- a course wholly impermissible... ."

28. The Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Amanullah and Another v. State of Bihar and Others, (2016) 6 SCC 699, while considering the scope of Section 482 Cr.P.C. has observed in paras 25 to 29 as under:-

"25. A careful reading of the material placed on record reveals that the learned CJM took cognizance of the offences alleged against the accused persons after a perusal of the case diary, charge-sheet and other material placed before the court. The cognizance was taken, as a prima facie case was made out against the accused persons. It is well settled that at the stage of taking cognizance, the court should not get into the merits of the case made out by the police, in the charge-sheet filed by them, with a view to calculate the success rate of prosecution in that particular case. At this stage, the court's duty is limited to the extent of finding out whether from the material placed before it, the offence alleged therein against the accused is made out or not with a view to proceed further with the case.

26. The proposition of law relating to Section 482 CrPC has been elaborately dealt with by this Court in Bhajan Lal case [State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426] . The relevant paras 102 and 103 of which read thus : (SCC pp. 378-79)

"102. In the backdrop of the interpretation of the various relevant provisions of the Code under Chapter XIV and of the principles of law enunciated by this Court in a series of decisions relating to the exercise of the extraordinary power under Article 226 or the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code which we have extracted and reproduced above, we give the following categories of cases by way of illustration wherein such power could be exercised either to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelised and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised:

(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(4) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the Act concerned (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the Act concerned, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge.

103. We also give a note of caution to the effect that the power of quashing a criminal proceeding should be exercised very sparingly and with circumspection and that too in the rarest of rare cases; that the court will not be justified in embarking upon an enquiry as to the reliability or genuineness or otherwise of the allegations made in the FIR or the complaint and that the extraordinary or inherent powers do not confer an arbitrary jurisdiction on the court to act according to its whim or caprice."

27. Further, this Court in Rajiv Thapar v. Madan Lal

Kapoor [Rajiv Thapar v. Madan Lal Kapoor, (2013) 3 SCC 330 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 158] has laid down certain parameters to be followed by the High Court while exercising its inherent power under Section 482 CrPC, in the following manner : (SCC pp. 347-49, paras 29-30)

"29. The issue being examined in the instant case is the jurisdiction [Madan Lal Kapoor v. Rajiv Thapar, 2008 SCC OnLine Del 561 : (2008) 105 DRJ 531] of the High Court under Section 482 CrPC, if it chooses to quash the initiation of the prosecution against an accused at the stage of issuing process, or at the stage of committal, or even at the stage of framing of charges. These are all stages before the commencement of the actual trial. The same parameters would naturally be available for later stages as well. The power vested in the High Court under Section 482 CrPC, at the stages referred to hereinabove, would have far-reaching consequences inasmuch as it would negate the prosecution's/ complainant's case without allowing the prosecution/complainant to lead evidence. Such a determination must always be rendered with caution, care and circumspection. To invoke its inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC the High Court has to be fully satisfied that the material produced by the accused is such that would lead to the conclusion that his/their defence is based on sound, reasonable, and indubitable facts; the material produced is such as would rule out and displace the assertions contained in the charges levelled against the accused; and the material produced is such as would clearly reject and overrule the veracity of the allegations contained in the accusations levelled by the prosecution/complainant. It should be sufficient to rule out, reject and discard the accusations levelled by the prosecution/complainant, without the necessity of recording any evidence. For this the material relied upon by the defence should not have been refuted, or alternatively, cannot be justifiably refuted, being material of sterling and impeccable quality. The material relied upon by the accused should be such as would persuade a reasonable person to dismiss and condemn the actual basis of the accusations as false. In such a situation, the judicial conscience of the High Court would persuade it to exercise its power under Section 482 CrPC to quash such criminal proceedings, for that would prevent abuse of process of the court, and secure the ends of justice.

30. Based on the factors canvassed in the foregoing paragraphs, we would delineate the following steps to determine the veracity of a prayer for quashment raised by an accused by invoking the power vested in the High Court under Section 482 CrPC:

30.1. Step one : whether the material relied upon by the accused is sound, reasonable, and indubitable i.e. the material is of sterling and impeccable quality?

30.2. Step two : whether the material relied upon by the accused would rule out the assertions contained in the charges levelled against the accused i.e. the material is sufficient to reject and overrule the factual assertions contained in the complaint i.e. the material is such as would persuade a reasonable person to dismiss and condemn the factual basis of the accusations as false?

30.3. Step three : whether the material relied upon by the accused has not been refuted by the prosecution/complainant; and/or the material is such that it cannot be justifiably refuted by the prosecution/complainant?

30.4. Step four : whether proceeding with the trial would result in an abuse of process of the court, and would not serve the ends of justice?

30.5. If the answer to all the steps is in the affirmative, the judicial conscience of the High Court should persuade it to quash such criminal proceedings in exercise of power vested in it under Section 482 CrPC. Such exercise of power, besides doing justice to the accused, would save precious court time, which would otherwise be wasted in holding such a trial (as well as proceedings arising therefrom) specially when it is clear that the same would not conclude in the conviction of the accused."

28. After considering the rival legal contentions urged by both the parties, case law referred to supra and the material placed on record, we are of the view that the High Court has exceeded its jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC. It has erred in quashing the cognizance order passed by the learned CJM without appreciating the material placed before it in the correct perspective. The High Court has ignored certain important facts, namely, that on 17-10-2008, Appellant 1 was allegedly threatened by the accused Mukhtar for which FIR No. 104 of 2008 was registered against him for the offences punishable under Sections 25 and 26 of the Arms Act, 1959. Further, there are statements of various witnesses made under Section 164 CrP3C, before a Judicial Magistrate, to the effect that the deceased has been murdered by none other than her husband Mukhtar. The evidence collected by the IO by recording the statements of the prosecution witnesses, filed along with the charge-sheet was duly considered by the learned CJM before taking cognizance and therefore, the same should not have been interfered with by the High Court in exercise of its inherent power under Section 482 CrPC.

29. Further, the High Court has failed to take into consideration another important aspect that the case at hand relates to the grave offence of murder and that the criminal proceedings related thereto should not lightly be interfered with, which is a well-settled proposition of law."

29. Therefore, considering the aforesaid settled proposition of law of the Hon'ble Apex Court, I am also of the view that the court should not, except in extra-ordinary circumstances, exercise its jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C., so as to quash the prosecution proceedings after they have been launched.

30. From the material available on record, I am not convinced that there would be manifest injustice or there would be abuse of the process of the court, if such power is not exercised in this case. Notably, the charge sheet has been filed only after collecting the relevant material and evidences which, as per prosecution, were sufficient to file the charge sheet. The FSL report, which was not filed initially with the charge sheet, has been filed later on.

31. On the basis of material available on record, I am of the opinion that non-filing of FSL report along with the charge sheet did not vitiate the charge sheet inasmuch as all other relevant and cogent material, as per prosecution, had been filed. As per prosecution, even on the basis of those materials, which were filed along with the charge sheet, were sufficient for the prosecution to establish its case beyond all reasonable doubts and the accused persons can be held liable on the basis of said material evidence.

32. The law is trite that the additional documents/evidence can be produced subsequently if the same has not been filed along with the charge sheet. However, the Investigating Officer is required to produce all required documents at the time of submitting charge sheet but there is no specific prohibition to that effect.

33. So far as the arguments of Sri Mehrotra regarding the factum of malafide is concerned, on the basis of material available on record, such allegation does not, prima facie, appear to be established inasmuch as the authorities concerned have only discharged their duties and responsibilities within four corners of the law.

34. On the basis of allegations of the FIR, material so demonstrated by the learned counsel for the parties, I am conscious about the fact that the present case relates to the grave offence of murder and the manner in which the said murder is said to have been executed is so brutal as the same has been committed after chasing the victim for quite long distance. Even if some irregularities so caused during investigation or court proceedings as demonstrated by Sri Anupam Mehrotra, the same irregularities are curable and can be regularised under the law and such irregularities may not convince the Court to treat the impugned proceedings as a futile exercise to quash them. The law is trite on this point that the inherent power can be exercised when the allegations in the First Information Report or the complain together with the other materials collected during investigation taken at their face value, do not constitute the offence alleged. I am afraid I cannot agree with the aforesaid submissions of Sri Mehrotra.

35. As to whether the accused persons would be held guilty or not is absolute domain of learned trial court but on the basis of prima facie satisfaction to interfere with the impugned orders as prayed in the present petition, I do not find any substance to invoke my extra-ordinary inherent jurisdiction enshrined under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

36. In view of what has been considered above, I do not find any infirmity or illegality in the impugned orders, thus I am not inclined to interfere with the impugned orders as prayed in this petition.

37. It is made clear that the observations made herein above shall not affect the trial in any manner.

38. It would be apt to note here that initially the judgement was reserved on 13.12.2021, however, while dictating the judgment, some clarifications from the parties were required, therefore, the case was again listed on 07.04.2022 for further hearing.

39. On 07.04.2022, Sri Mehrotra filed certified copy of the application of the prosecution dated 24.12.2019 whereby 14 days' time was sought for remand by submitting that some evidences are to be collected. On that, this Court asked the learned AGA to apprise the Court as to what evidences have been collected within 24 hours inasmuch as such application was filed on 24.12.2021 and charge sheet was filed next day i.e. 25.12.2019.

40. On 13.04.2022, learned AGA provided copy of case diaries bearing CD-

60, 61,62 & 63. He has referred CD62 to show that on 24.12.2019, statement of Pradeep Kumar Singh, informant/complainant and Raj Kumar Singh, eye witness, have been recorded. Serial No.4 (f) of CD61 has been demonstrated to show that name of one accused Sarvesh Yadav son of Bharat Lal Yadav has been dropped from the charge sheet. As per learned AGA, the aforesaid exercise has been carried out on 24.12.2019. On that Sri Anupam Mehrotra has submitted that the aforesaid facts may not be considered as collection of evidence and at the best, it is a recording of statement of some witnesses.

41. As per Sri Mehrotra, there is difference between recording of statement and collecting of evidence. He has further submitted that the aforesaid exercise being carried out till 3:00 PM of 25.12.2019, which has been shown in papers of CD63. Therefore, charge sheet would have been prepared after 3:00 PM. Thereafter, it would have been sent to the supervisory authority, who is Circle Officer and Circle Officer must have taken some time to go through the complete case diary and filed before the court on or before 4:00 PM. Thus, Sri Mehrotra has submitted that it was not practically possible for the prosecution to file charge sheet before the court on 25.12.2019 but the same has been filed on the same date before the court, which is beyond any comprehension. On that, Sri Anurag Verma, learned AGA, has submitted that this fact may not be challenged in a petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. as no miscarriage of justice would be caused to the applicant and only for this reason, impugned charge-sheet, orders and proceedings may not be quashed in view of the settled proposition of law by the Apex Court as cited above.

42. Considering the aforesaid aspects of the issue in question, I am constraint to observe that the prosecution could not explain properly the aforesaid chain of events, but at the same time, I am conscious about the fact that even if there is any procedural lapse or technical error in preparation of the charge sheet, which is curable under the law and such error does not appear to be manifest error and is not causing any miscarriage of justice to the applicant as ample opportunity would be provided to the applicant/defence at the time of trial as per law, therefore, invoking powers enshrined under Section 482 Cr.P.C., charge-sheet and proceedings so challenged may not be quashed.

43. Accordingly, this petition fails and is dismissed.

44. No order as to costs.

Application dismissed. (E-9)

List of Cases cited:

1. Jacob Mathew Vs St. of Pun. reported in (2005) 6 SCC 1.

2. Civil Appeal No.6507 of 2009 (Dr. Mrs. Chanda Rani Akhouri & Ors. Vs Dr. M.A. Methusethupathi & Ors.).

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mohd. Aslam, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant as well as learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed by the applicant with the prayer to quash the impugned order dated 06.08.2021 passed the the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate-Gorakhpur in Case No.2152 of 2021 (Manoj Mishra v. Dr. Sudhakar Pandey), by which, the application of the applicant under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. was rejected.

3. The brief facts of the case is that the father of the applicant was ill and got serious on 03.05.2021, thereafter, applicant took him to the District Hospital-Gorakhpur but In-charge of the Emergency Ward of the District Hospital-Gorakhpur stated that he would not look after the father of the applicant without COVID test report. The applicant's father was tested for COVID-19 on the same day and the antigen as well as RT-PCR report was "negative". The applicant approached the In-charge of the Emergency Ward of the District Hospital-Gorakhpur who stated that his father was not in a serious condition and advised the applicant to take his father home. After reaching home on the same day i.e. 03.05.2021 at about 09:00 p.m., his father fell down and, thereafter, the applicant called for ambulance and the father of the applicant was again taken to the District Hospital-Gorakhpur at about 10:30 p.m. and his father was allotted bed in the COVID Ward at about 12 'o' clock in the night. There was no management of oxygen in the hospital. On 04.05.2021, the applicant rushed to the house of opposite party no.2 and stated about the condition of his father and management of the hospital but when opposite party no.3 came on round, he did not checked his father as the bed ticket was not prepared by the authority concerned. On 04.05.2021, the swab and blood sample was taken for COVID-19 test. The RT-PCR report came on 26.05.2021 as "positive". However, on 04.05.2021, at about 10:30 p.m., the father of the applicant was declared dead. Thereafter, the applicant moved an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. against the opposite party nos.2 and 3 but the said application was rejected by the learned lower court vide order dated 06.08.2021 by relying on the law laid by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Jacob Mathew v. State of Punjab reported in (2005) 6 SCC 1.

4. Feeling aggrieved by it, the applicant preferred the instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

5. It is submitted by the learned counsel for the applicant that on 03.05.2021, the RT-PCR report of his father was found "negative" and the swab and blood sample taken on 04.05.2021 was tested "positive". It is further submitted that the contradictions in the two reports reflect 'gross-negligence' on the part of the doctors concerned.

6. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State opposed the application and stated that it may be possible that the result of the rapid antigen COVID Test report and the RT-PCR report may vary. It is further submitted that the above-noted variations in the two report cannot be termed as 'gross-negligence' on the part of the doctors concerned.

7. I have given thoughtful consideration to the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the material available on record.

8. Hon'ble Apex Court in Jacob Mathew (supra) has held that:-

"To prosecute the medical professionals for negligence under criminal law, something more than mere negligence had to be proved. Medical professionals should not be dragged into criminal proceedings unless negligence of a high order is shown. "

9. Hon'ble Apex Court has reiterated the above-noted proposition of law in the latest judgement passed in Civil Appeal No.6507 of 2009 (Dr. Mrs. Chanda Rani Akhouri & Ors. v. Dr. M.A. Methusethupathi & Ors.).

10. Moreover, there is no independent expert report to establish that there was 'gross-negligence' on the part of opposite party nos.2 and 3. There is possibility that the rapid antigen COVID Test report and the RT-PCR report may vary and that cannot be termed as the 'gross negligence' on the part of opposite party nos.2 and 3.

11. In view of the above, the instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is devoid of merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

2. The present petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed with the prayer to allow this application and quash the entire proceedings of Case No.179/2021, arising out of Case Crime No.0312/2020, under section 174-A IPC, P.S. Behjoi, District - Sambhal, pending before the court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sambhal at Chandausi, to quash the impugned charge sheet dated 01.09.2020 submitted in the aforesaid case and also to quash the impugned cognizance order dated 11.01.2021 passed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sambhal at Chandausi. It has further been prayed to stay the entire proceedings of the aforesaid case.

3. The brief facts of the case are that an F.I.R. being Case Crime No.192 of 2020 dated 19.05.2020 has been lodged against the applicants under Section 34, 120-B, 504, 302, 149, 148, 147 I.P.C. and Section 3(2)(V) SC/ST Act, 1985. In the said case, despite the non-bailable warrant the applicants had not appeared before court then the order of proclamation under Section 82 Cr.P.C. was passed and thereafter, the applicants surrendered before the court below as stated in Para 18 to the application / present petition, which has not been disputed in Para 16 of the counter affidavit filed on behalf of State. After the applicants enlarged on bail. On 09.07.2020 an F.I.R. has been lodged by the Sub-Inspector against the applicants under Section 174-A IPC Case Crime No.0312 of 2020 has been registered in which after filing of chargesheet dated 1.9.2020 the cognizance order dated 11.01.2021 has been passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sambhal, Chandausi. The present petition/application has been preferred feeling aggrieved by the chargesheet dated 1.9.2020 and the cognizance order dated 11.01.2021 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate.

4. Learned counsel for the applicants has submitted that at no point of time, neither any summon, bailable warrant and non-bailable warrant were ever served upon the applicants nor there is any evidence during the investigation on the record regarding the service or refusal to accept the service or the applicants were not present at the address given before the court, same has specifically been pleaded in Para 28 of the application / petition, which has not been either denied or disputed by the state in Para 18 of the counter affidavit.

5. It is further submitted that as per Section 195 Cr.P.C., the lodging of an F.I.R. for Section 174 (A) IPC is not maintainable as per the procedure provided in Cr.P.C., if any proceeding is to be initiated i.e. by filing a complaint in writing either by the public servant concerned, or some other public servant to whom he is administratively subordinate. It is further submitted that in the present case public servant concerned means the Investigating Officer or the officer under whom that Investigating Officer is administratively subordinate. In the case of the applicants the investigating officer was the Circle Officer but the F.I.R. was lodged by the Sub-Inspector. In support of his submission, learned counsel for the applicants has relied upon the judgement and order of this Court dated 20.11.2020 passed in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.12772 of 2020 (Yogenshwar Sood And Another vs State of U.P. and 2 others) and the judgement of Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Daulat Ram vs. State of Punjab, 1962 Supp (2) SCR 812 : A.I.R. 1962 SC 1206.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant has further submitted that the order under Section 82(4) Cr.P.C. was passed on 12.06.2020 and the specific date for appearance of the appellant fixed was 16.07.2020, whereas prior to that date the F.I.R. was lodged on 9.7.2020 which shows the malicious action on the part of the complainant that without waiting the specified date, he proceeded against the applicants.

7. On the other hand, learned A.G.A. has submitted that the applicants had not appeared despite the non-bailable warrants were issued against them. The applicants appeared only after passing proclamation under Section 82 Cr.P.C. It is further submitted that Section 174-A I.P.C. provides initiation of proceeding and punishment against the persons who avoid the summons of the court, hence there is no illegality in the proceedings initiated against the applicants, but unable to dispute the submissions raised by the learned counsel for the applicants and the judgement relied upon.

8. After hearing learned counsel for the parties and going through the record and the judgements relied, it is found that Section 174 A I.P.C. provides that initiation of proceedings and punishment against the person, whoever fails to appear at the specified place and the specified time in response to the proclamation issued under Section 82 Cr.P.C., for the convenience Section 174-A I.P.C. is quoted hereinbelow:

"[174A. Non-appearance in response to a proclamation under section 82 of Act 2 of 1974.?Whoever fails to appear at the specified place and the specified time as required by a proclamation published under sub?section (1) of section 82 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years or with fine or with both, and where a declaration has been made under sub?section (4) of that section pronouncing him as a proclaimed offender, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years and shall also be liable to fine.]."

9. From perusal of the above mentioned provision, it is clear that if a person fails to appear on a specified place and the specified time as required by the proclamation published under Section 82 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, the proceedings under Section 174-A I.P.C. shall be initiated wherein the punishment provided is with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years or with fine or with both, and where a declaration has been made under sub-section (4) of that section, the persons shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years and shall also be liable to fine.

10. In the present case, it is not disputed that the applicants had surrendered after the proclamation order was passed under Section 82 Cr.P.C., but not on the specified place and time as mentioned in the proclamation but the submission of the learned counsel for the applicant is that for initiating a proceeding under Section 174-A I.P.C. the procedure is provided under Section 195 Cr.P.C., for convenience the relevant extract of Section 195 is quoted below:

"195. Prosecution for contempt of lawful authority of public servants, for offences against public justice and for offences relating to documents given in evidence.
(1) No Court shall take cognizance-
(a) (i) of any offence punishable under sections 172 to 188 (both inclusive) of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), or
(ii) of any abetment of, or attempt to commit, such offence, or
(iii) of any criminal conspiracy to commit such offence, except on the complaint in writing of the public servant concerned or of some other public servant to whom he is administratively subordinate;

11. From perusal of the provisions, wherein it has been provided that no court shall take cognizance of any offence punishable under Section 172 to 188 I.P.C. except a complaint made by public servant concerned or some other public servant to whom is administrative subordinate and in the present case concerned public servant is the officer who had investigated the matter and in the present case the circle officer was the investigating officer and he was under the administrative subordinate of Superintendent of Police but neither any complaint in writing was filed by the circle officer or some other public servant to whom the Investigating Officer is administrative subordinate.

12. In the judgement / order dated 20.11.2020 passed by this Court in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.12772 of 2020 (Yogeshwar Sood And Another vs. State of U.P. & 2 others) where the F.I.R. was challenged on the same ground and the Hon'ble Court has quashed the F.I.R. on the ground that as per provision contained in Section 195(1) in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, there is a specific bar for taking cognizance of any offence punishable under Section 172 to 188 of the I.P.C. and quashed the F.I.R. with an undertaking of the petitioners that they will appear before the concerned Magistrate / Court. The relevant extract of the judgement is quoted hereinbelow:-

"After hearing counsel for the parties and going through the record, it is apparent that Section 174-A deals with non-appearance and in case of issuance of a proclamation under section 82 of the Act-2 of 1974. As per provisions contained in Section 195(1) in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 there is a specific bar from taking cognizance of any offence punishable under section 172 to 188 (both inclusive) of the IPC. Thus registration of FIR against petitioners under section 174-A, prima facie appears to be abuse of the process. However, in the writ jurisdiction we have to also balance equities. "

13. Learned counsel for the applicant has also relied upon judgement passed in the case of Daulat Ram vs. State of Punja reprted in 1962 Supp(2) SCR 812; AIR 1962 SC 1206; (1962)2 Crl LJ 286, the relevant para is quoted hereinbelow:

"4. Now the offence under s. 182 of the Penal Code, if any, was undoubtedly complete when the appellant had moved the Tehsildar for action. Section 182 does not require that action must always be taken if the person who moves the public servant knows or believes that action would be taken. In making his report to the Tehsildar therefore, if the appellant believed that some action would be taken (and he had no reason to doubt that it would not) the offence under that section was complete. It was therefore incumbent, if the prosecution was to be launched, that the complaint in writing should be made by the Tehsildar as the public servant concerned in this case. On the other hand what we find is that a complaint by the Tehsildar was not filed at all, but a charge sheet was put in by the Station House Officer. The learned counsel for the State Government tries to support the action by submitting that s. 195 had been complied with inasmuch as when the allegations had been disproved, the letter of the Superintendent of Police was forwarded to the Tehsildar and he asked for "a calendar". This paper was flied along with the charge sheet and it is stated that this satisfies the requirements of s. 195. In our opinion, this is not a due compliance with the provisions of that section. What the section comtemplates is that the complaint must be in writing by the public servant concerned and there is no such compliance in the present case. The cognizance of the case was therefore wrongly assumed by the court without the complaint in writing of the public servant namely the Tehsildar in this case. The trial was thus without jurisdiction ab inito and the conviction cannot be maintained. "

14. From the above mentioned judgement, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that the Tehsildar was investigating the matter and the chargesheet was filed by the Station House Officer, whereas the competent public servant was the Tehsildar and he has not submitted any written complaint, hence, the cognizance of the case was therefore wrongly assumed by the court and the trial was thus without jurisdiction ab initio and the conviction cannot be maintained.

15. In the present case also in pursuance of the F.I.R. lodged by the Sub-Inspector, the chargesheet was filed and the cognizance has been taken by the trial Court for an offence under Section 174-A I.P.C. in absence of any complaint in writing by the officern concerned. In the present case the officer concerned is the Investigating Officer i.e. the Circle Officer or the officer/ the public servant under whom he is administratively subordinate. In the present case the Circle Officer who is under administrative Sub-ordinate of the Superintendent of Police, so the Superintendent of Police has also not filed any complaint as required under Section 195 Cr.P.C. The proceedings were initiated in pursuance of an F.I.R. lodged by Sub Inspector, who was not the investigating officer and hence the order of the trial Court is without jurisdiction ab initio and the proceeding is liable to be quashed.

16. As per the discussion made hereinabove, the proceeding of Case No.179/2021, arising out of Case Crime No.0312/2020, under section 174-A IPC, P.S. Behjoi, District - Sambhal is quashed.

17. The present petition/ application is allowed.

2. आवेदकगण के विद्वान अधिवक्ता, विपक्षी सं0 2 के विद्वान अधिवक्ता एवं विद्वान अपर शासकीय अधिवक्ता को सुना तथा पत्रावली का परिशीलन किया।

3. आवेदकगण के विद्वान अधिवक्ता का कथन है कि विपक्षी सं0 2 दिलीप सिंह जाटव ने दि0 20–3–2020 को जिलाधिकारी, मथुरा को जो आवेदन पत्र दिया है उसमें उसने कहा है कि : "चेयरमैन फरह श्री कृष्णकान्त ने धोखाड़ी से बेईमानी की नियत से स्वयं एंट्री कर फर्जी तरीके से प्रार्थी व उसके भाई के खाते में से रूपया निकाल लिये। प्रार्थी जब चेयरमैन कृष्णकान्त से 13.3.2020 को सायं उनके पास गया तो कृष्णकान्त व उनके भाई बंटी व मनमोहन मिले, सभी ने प्रार्थी को गन्दी–गन्दी गालियां दी और कहा कि साले चमरे यह हमारे कमीशन के पैसे हैं, यहॉ से चला जा नहीं तो जान से मार देंगे। काफी लोग इकट्ठे हो गये जिन्होंने मुझे व मेरे साथ गये अशोक ने बचाया। प्रार्थी श्रीमान जी की सेवा में रिपोर्ट दर्ज करने आया है।" विपक्षी सं0 2 दिलीप सिंह जाटव की ओर से इन्हीं कथनों के साथ दि0 31–8–2020 को थाना फरह में एक प्राथमिकी भी पंजीकृत करायी गयी।

4. आवेदकगण के विद्वान अधिवक्ता का कथन है कि इस प्राथमिकी एवं श्किायती पत्र के बारे में जॉच अधिकारी/डिप्टी कलेक्टर, मथुरा द्वारा जॉच की गयी तथा उन्होंने शिकायतकर्ता द्वारा की गयी शिकायत को छल कपट, धोखाधडी व कूटरचित कहने के तथ्य को निराधार माना है, उनके आदेश दि0 6–6–2020 का मुख्य अंश इस प्रकार है :– "शिकायतकर्ता श्री दिलीप कुमार जाटव, पुत्र श्री कुवरसेन, निवासी ग्राम बढ़ाय लतीफपुर बागर की शिकायत एवं श्री कृष्णकान्त पचौरी, चेयरमैन नगर पंचायत फरह मथुरा द्वारा उपलब्ध कराये गये लिखित बयानों का भली–भॉति परीक्षण किया तो पाया गया कि श्री दिलीप कुमार का खाता मथुरा जिला सहकारी बैंक लि0 मथुरा में है, जिसका खाता संख्या 000620000016953 है तथा श्री लालसिंह का खाता भी मथुरा जिला सहकारी बैंक लि0, मथुरा में है जिसका खाता संख्या 000620000016951 है। श्री दिलीप कुमार को बैंक द्वारा जारी की गयी चैक बुक के चैक संख्या 693251 से 4,67,000/–रू0 दिनांक 20–2–2020 को तथा श्री लाल सिंह को बैंक द्वारा जारी की

गयी चैक बुक के चैक संख्या 693202 से 1,35,000/रू0 दिनांक 20–2–2020 को उपरोक्त दोनों धनराशियॉ मथुरा जिला सहकारी बैंक लि0, मथुरा के बैंक मैनेजर द्वारा हस्ताक्षर एवं चैकों का मिलान करके ही भुगतान किया गया होगा। अतः शिकायतकर्ता द्वारा की गयी शिकायत कि छल–कपट, धोखा–धड़ी व कूटरचित करके श्री कृष्णकान्त पचौरी द्वारा 6,02,000/रू0 अपने खाते में ट्रान्सफर करा लिये गये हैं निराधार है क्योंकि मथुरा जिला सहकारी बैंक लि0, मथुरा के बैंक मैनेजर द्वारा हस्ताक्षर एवं चैकों का मिलान करके ही भुगतान किया गया है। शिकायतकर्ता की शिकायत निक्षेपित किये जाने योग्य है।"

5. आवेदकगण के विद्वान अधिवक्ता का यह भी कथन है कि केस डायरी के अवलोकन से यह स्पष्ट होता है कि श्री सतीश चन्द्र मिश्रा, बैंक मैनेजर ने विवेचक को यह बयान दिया है कि :– "èरे सामने कृष्णकान्त पचौरी द्वारा कोई चार सौ बीसी, धोखाधड़ी व षड़यन्त्र नहीं किया गया था। लाल सिंह व दिलीप ने मेरे समक्ष चैक पर हस्ताक्षर किये थे, हस्ताक्षरों का कम्प्यूटर पर मिलान स्वयं मेरे द्वारा किया गया था, इनका क्या विवाद है, मुझे नहीं मालूम, बैंक में कोई चार सौ बीसी, षड़यन्त्र व धोखाधड़ी नहीं की गयी है।"

6. आवेदकगण के विद्वान अधिवक्ता का कथन है कि जॉच अधिकारी/डिप्टी कलेक्टर, मथुरा की उपरोक्त जॉच आख्या एवं संबंधित बैंक मैनेजर द्वारा विवेचक को दिए गए बयान से इस प्रकरण में आवेदकगण के विरूद्ध एस0सी0/एस0टी0 का मामला नहीं बनता है, पक्षकारों के मध्य आपस में व्यापारिक संबंध था तथा व्यापारिक पैसों के लेन–देन का विवाद था, जिसमें उनके मध्य ट्रान्जेक्शन भी हुआ है, किन्तु उसी विवाद के कारण विपक्षी सं0 2 द्वारा आवेदकगण को तंग व परेशान करने के लिए एस0सी0/एस0टी0 ऐक्ट के अन्तर्गत भी फॅसा दिया है, जिसमें विद्वान अवर न्यायालय द्वारा बिना तथ्य एवं साक्ष्यों पर समुचित विचार किए हुए प्रसंज्ञान आदेश पारित कर दिया गया, जो कि अनुचित है तथा अपास्त किए जाने योग्य है।

7. आवेदकगण के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने अपने तर्को के समर्थन में भ्पजमी टमतउं टेण् जीम ैजंजम वि न्जजंतींदक ंदक ंदवजीमत 2020 ।प्ै;ब्द्ध5584 में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा प्रतिपादित विधि व्यवस्था के प्रस्तर 14, 17, 20, 23 एवं 24 की ओर न्यायालय का ध्यान आकृष्ट किया, जो निम्नवत् हैं :–

"14. Another key ingredient of the provision is insult or intimidation in "any place within public view". What is to be regarded as "place in public view" had come up for consideration before this Court in the judgment reported as Swaran Singh & Ors. v. State through Standing Counsel & Ors.5. The Court had drawn distinction between the expression "public place" and "in any place within public view". It was held that if an offence is committed outside the building e.g. in a lawn outside a house, and the lawn can be seen 5 (2008) 8 SCC 435 by someone from the road or lane outside the boundary wall, then the lawn would certainly be a place within the public view. On the contrary, if the remark is made inside a building, but some members of the public are there (not merely relatives or friends) then it would not be an offence since it is not in the public view. The Court held as under:

"28. It has been alleged in the FIR that Vinod Nagar, the first informant, was insulted by Appellants 2 and 3 (by calling him a "chamar") when he stood near the car which was parked at the gate of the premises. In our opinion, this was certainly a place within public view, since the gate of a house is certainly a place within public view. It could have been a different matter had the alleged offence been committed inside a building, and also was not in the public view. However, if the offence is committed outside the building e.g. in a lawn outside a house, and the lawn can be seen by someone from the road or lane outside the boundary wall, the lawn would certainly be a place within the public view.

Also, even if the remark is made inside a building, but some members of the public are there (not merely relatives or friends) then also it would be an offence since it is in the public view. We must, therefore, not confuse the expression "place within public view" with the expression "public place". A place can be a private place but yet within the public view. On the other hand, a public place would ordinarily mean a place which is owned or leased by the Government or the municipality (or other local body) or gaon sabha or an instrumentality of the State, and not by private persons or private bodies."

17. In another judgment reported as Khuman Singh v. State of Madhya Pradesh, 2019 SCC OnLine SC 1104 this Court held that in a case for applicability of Section 3(2)(v) of the Act, the fact that the deceased belonged to Scheduled Caste would not be enough to inflict enhanced punishment. This Court held that there was nothing to suggest that the offence was committed by the appellant only because the deceased belonged to Scheduled Caste. The Court held as under:

"15. As held by the Supreme Court, the offence must be such so as to attract the offence under Section 3(2)(v) of the Act. The offence must have been committed against the person on the ground that such person is a member of Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe. In the present case, the fact that the deceased was belonging to "Khangar"-Scheduled Caste is not disputed. There is no evidence to show that the offence was committed only on the ground that the victim was a member of the Scheduled Caste and therefore, the conviction of the appellant-accused under Section 3(2)(v) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act is not sustainable."

18. Therefore, offence under the Act is not established merely on the fact that the informant is a member of Scheduled Caste unless there is an intention to humiliate a member of Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe for the reason that the victim belongs to such caste. In the present case, the parties are litigating over possession of the land. The allegation of hurling of abuses is against a person who claims title over the property. If such person happens to be a Scheduled Caste, the offence under Section 3(1)(r) of the Act is not made out.

19. This Court in a judgment reported as Dr. Subhash Kashinath Mahajan v. State of Maharashtra & Anr., (2018) 6 SCC 454 issued certain directions in respect of investigations required to be conducted under the Act. In a review filed by the Union against the said judgment, this Court in a judgment reported as Union of India v. State of Maharashtra & Ors., (2020) 4 SCC 761 reviewed the directions issued by this Court and held that if there is a false and unsubstantiated FIR, the proceedings under Section 482 of the Code can be invoked.

The Court held as under:

"52. There is no presumption that the members of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes may misuse the provisions of law as a class and it is not resorted to by the members of the upper castes or the members of the elite class. For lodging a false report, it cannot be said that the caste of a person is the cause. It is due to the human failing and not due to the caste factor. Caste is not attributable to such an act. On the other hand, members of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes due to backwardness hardly muster the courage to lodge even a first information report, much less, a false one. In case it is found to be false/unsubstantiated, it may be due to the faulty investigation or for other various reasons including human failings irrespective of caste factor. There may be certain cases which may be false that can be a ground for interference by the Court, but the law cannot be changed due to such misuse. In such a situation, it can be taken care of in proceeding under Section 482 CrPC."

20. Later, while examining the constitutionality of the provisions of the Amending Act (Central ActNo. 27 of 2018), this Court in a judgment reported as Prathvi Raj Chauhan v. Union of India & Ors., (2020), 4 SCC 727 held that proceedings can be quashed under Section 482 of the Code. It was held as under:

"12. The Court can, in exceptional cases, exercise power under Section 482 CrPC for quashing the cases to prevent misuse of provisions on settled parameters, as already observed while deciding the review petitions. The legal position is clear, and no argument to the contrary has been raised."

23. This Court in a judgment reported as Ishwar Pratap Singh & Ors. v. State of Uttar Pradesh & Anr., (2018) 13 SCC 612 held that there is no prohibition under the law for quashing the charge-sheet in part. In a petition filed under Section 482 of the Code, the High Court is required to examine as to whether its intervention is required for prevention of abuse of process of law or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. The Court held as under:

"9. Having regard to the settled legal position on external interference in investigation and the specific facts of this case, we are of the view that the High Court ought to have exercised its jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC to secure the ends of justice. There is no prohibition under law for quashing a charge-sheet in part. A person may be accused of several offences under different penal statutes, as in the instant case. He could be aggrieved of prosecution only on a particular charge or charges, on any ground available to him in law. Under Section 482, all that the High Court is required to examine is whether its intervention is required for implementing orders under the Criminal Procedure Code or for prevention of abuse of process, or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. A charge-sheet filed at the dictate of somebody other than the police would amount to abuse of the process of law and hence the High Court ought to have exercised its inherent powers under Section 482 to the extent of the abuse. There is no requirement that the charge-sheet has to be quashed as a whole and not in part. Accordingly, this appeal is allowed. The supplementary report filed by the police, at the direction of the Commission, is quashed."

24. In view of the above facts, we find that the charges against the appellant under Section 3(1)(r) of the Act are not made out. Consequently, the charge-sheet to that extent is quashed. The 10 (2018) 13 SCC 612 appeal is disposed of in the above terms."

10. मैंने उभय पक्ष के के विद्वान अधिवक्ता के तर्को के परिप्रेक्ष्य में पत्रावली पर उपलब्ध साक्ष्य एवं प्रश्नगत आदेशों का परिशीलन किया।

11. मेरे विचार से आवेदकगण के विरूद्ध धारा 3(1)(Da), 3(1)(Dha) SC/ST ।बज का अपराध गठित नहीं होता है। यह तथ्य सत्य है कि आवेदकगण एवं विपक्षी सं0 2 तथा उसके भाई के मध्य व्यापारिक संबंध थे, पक्षकारों में आपस में पैसों का लेन–देन हुआ करता था, जिससे विपक्षी सं0 2 ने व्यथित होकर आवेदकगण के विरूद्ध प्राथमिकी दर्ज करायी एवं उच्चाधिकारियों को शिकायती पत्र प्रेषित किए तथा अपनी बात को अधिक बलशाली बनाने के उद्देश्य से उन्होंने आवेदकगण के विरूद्ध अन्य धाराओं के साथ अपनी जाति का फायदा उठाते हुए धारा 3(1)(Da), 3(1)(Dha) SC/ST ।बज भी लिखा दिया। जबकि उन्हें सत्य बातों की शिकायत करने का अधिकार तो है परन्तु अपनी बात को अधिक बलशाली बनाने के उद्देश्य से एस0सी0/एस0टी0 को जबरन नहीं जोड़ना चाहिए। उन्हें किसी व्यक्ति पर अनावश्यक रूप से इस तरह के आरोप लगाने से बचना चाहिए, अन्यथा भविष्य में समाज उनके साथ व्यापारिक व मिलने जुलने वाले संबंधो से दूरी बना लेगा, जो कि समाज के लिए उचित नहीं है।

13. इस स्तर पर आवेदकगण के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने अनुरोध किया कि आवेदकगण के जमानत आवेदन पत्र का निस्तारण करने हेतु संबंधित अवर न्यायालय को निर्देशित कर दिया जाय।

14. उभय पक्ष के विद्वान अधिवक्ताओं के तर्को को श्रवणोपरान्त, पत्रावली के परिशीलन से, न्यायालय ने पाया कि प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट में लगाए गए आरोप एक संज्ञेय अपराध के कमीशन का खुलासा करते हैं और वह आरोप, की गयी विवेचना के उपरान्त लगाए गए हैं, उन आरोपों को इस न्यायालय द्वारा धारा 482 दं0प्र0सं0 के तहत अपनी शक्ति का प्रयोग करते हुए, जॉच के दौरान एकत्र की गयी सामग्री के आरोपों की शुद्धता और विश्वसनीयता का आकलन करने की आवश्यकता नहीं है, इस स्तर पर अभियुक्त के विवादित बचाव पर विचार नहीं किया जा सकता है। तद्नुसार आरोप पत्र या उपरोक्त वाद की कार्यवाही को रद्द करने की प्रार्थना और परिणामी कार्यवाही अस्वीकृत की जाती है।

15. इस स्तर पर, आवेदकगण के विद्वान अधिवक्ता का अनुरोध है कि आवेदकगण को अभी तक उपरोक्त मामले में गिरफ्तार नहीं किया गया है और पुलिस आवेदकगण को गिरफ्तार करने के प्रयास में है, और संबंधित अवर न्यायालय द्वारा आवेदकगण के खिलाफ दण्डात्मक प्रक्रिया जारी की जा सकती है, इसलिए आवेदकगण के जमानत आवेदन पत्र पर विचार करने के लिए संबंधित अवर न्यायालय को निर्देश जारी कर दिया जाय।

16. माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा Satendra Kumar Antil Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation and another (Apecial Leave to Appeal (Crl.) No. 5191 वि 2021 के प्रकरण को आदेश दि0 7—10—2021 द्वारा पहले ही जमानत हेतु दिशा निर्देश देते हुए निस्तारित किया जा चुका है, इसके पश्चात् अब संबंधित अवर न्यायालय को जमानत देने के लिए उनके विवेक और विचार को नियंत्रित करने वाले वैधानिक प्राविधानों को प्रभावित किए बिना, इस न्यायालय द्वारा कोई विशिष्ट निर्देश जारी करने की आवश्यकता नहीं है, क्योंकि यह अपेक्षा की जाती है कि संबंधित अवर न्यायालय आवेदक के जमानत प्रार्थना पत्र को निस्तारित करते समय माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा पहले से जारी आवश्यक दिशानिर्देशों को ध्यान में रखेगा।

17. उपरोक्त टिप्पणियों के साथ, यह आवेदन पत्र अन्तिम रूप से निस्तारित किया जाता है।

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This is a defendants' second appeal, arising from a suit for recovery of possession and mesne profits.

2. Heard learned Counsel for the appellants and Mr. Rajesh Maurya and Mr. Sheo Ram Singh, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents.

3. Budhiram, the sole plaintiff-respondent, who is now represented by his heirs and LRs before this Court, instituted Original Suit No.627 of 1995 in the ex-Court of Munsif, Mohammadabad Gohna, District Azamgarh against Sahabal and Ninku, arrayed as the defendants first set, for a decree of possession, directing the defendants first set to the suit to deliver possession of a house and underlying land shown by letters अ ब स द with boundaries detailed at the foot of the plaint. A further decree was sought praying that the defendants first set be directed to pay the plaintiff mesne profits at the rate of Rs.20/- per month w.e.f. 10.05.1985 till date of delivery of actual physical possession of the suit property.

4. The plaintiff arrayed his brothers, Muktinath and Dhuppu as defendants second set or proforma defendants to the suit, for whose benefit also he instituted the suit. Later on, by an amendment to the plaint, Mahavir, a brother of Ninku, was impleaded as defendant no.5/defendant third set, against whom also relief was claimed to the same effect as the defendants first set.

5. In this appeal, the defendants first set and third set, that is to say, Sahabal, Ninku and Mahavir are the appellants. All three of them had together instituted the present appeal before this Court, but pending appeal they have passed away. They are represented on record by their heirs and LRs, duly substituted. All the three defendants-appellants, that is to say, the original defendants first and third sets to the suit, now represented by theirs heirs and LRs, shall hereinafter be referred to as the defendants, wherever the reference is made collectively. In case of an individual reference to any of the original defendant-appellant, the concerned party would be referred to by his name.

6. Budhiram, the plaintiff, who had instituted the suit, is arrayed to the appeal as the plaintiff-respondent no.1. He has passed away pending appeal and is represented on record by his heirs and LRs. Likewise, the two brothers of Budhiram, to wit, Muktinath and Dhuppu, who were arrayed in the suit as defendants second set in a proforma capacity, have also passed away pending appeal. They too are represented on record by their heirs and LRs. Budhiram, represented by his heirs and LRs, shall hereinafter be referred to as the plaintiff. Muktinath and Dhuppu, who were the defendants second set or the proforma defendants to the suit, now represented by their heirs and LRs, shall hereinafter be referred to collectively as the proforma defendants. Both the plaintiff and the proforma defendants would be referred to individually by their names, wherever the context necessitates.

7. According to the plaintiff, Plot No. 276 (formerly numbered as 531) situate at Village Lado, Tappa Badokhar, Pargana and Tehsil Sagri, District Azamgarh was held as a bhumidhari by Basanta, the plaintiff's and the proforma defendants' father. Five years prior to the institution of the suit, Basanta passed away. After his death, the plaintiff and the proforma defendants succeeded to his rights as bhumidhar of the plot aforesaid. They are bhumidhar in possession of Plot No. 276 (for short "the plot in question") ever since.

8. It is the plaintiff's case that the plaintiff and the proforma defendants live way far off from the plot in question and, therefore, for ease of farming and supervision of crops, they built a temporary shelter, described in vernacular as Madai. The site of this temporary construction is denoted in the map at the foot of the plaint by letters अ ब स द. It is then said that about two and a half years ante-dating the institution of the suit, the plaintiff and the proforma defendants constructed a kachcha house (for short "the suit property") at the site and in place of the temporary shelter. The plaintiff and the proforma defendants would stay in the suit property and take care of their crops. It is the plaintiff's further case that the defendants are natives of the village and their house is located at a distance of about 400 yards from the suit property. The defendants are said to have represented to the plaintiff and the proforma defendants that their house had fallen down and the way it was dangerous to inhabit. The defendants did not have the necessary wherewithal at that time to reconstruct or repair it. They requested the plaintiff to permit them to use the suit property until such time that they could get their own reconstructed. It was also said that the defendants would vacate the suit property as soon as their house was reconstructed/repaired. The plaintiff permitted the defendants use of the suit property as a licensee on condition that they would vacate it on the plaintiff's demand.

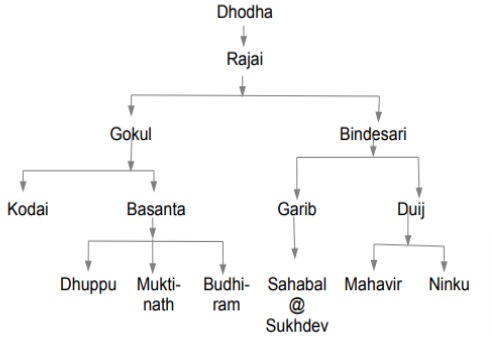
9. It is also the plaintiff's case that the defendants' house has been reconstructed and on the 10th of May, 1985, the plaintiff asked the defendants to vacate, but the defendants, at the instance of inimical elements in the village, turned dishonest and refused to vacate. The plaintiff thereupon revoked the defendants' licence and asked them to vacate. The defendants did not oblige. According to the plaintiff, the defendants are trespassers in the suit property ever since 10.05.1985. The plaintiff is entitled to recover possession of the suit property, besides mesne profits from the defendants w.e.f. 10.05.1985 until delivery of actual physical possession. It is on the basis of the aforesaid facts and cause of action that the suit was instituted on 03.07.1985.

10. The defendants put in a written statement and contested the plaintiff's claim. They propounded a pedigree in support of a case of a co-sharer's right with the plaintiff and the proforma defendants in the plot in question. It is the defendants' case that the plaintiff, the proforma defendants and the defendants are part of a joint Hindu family who were living together. The following pedigree was pleaded by the defendants in their written statement:



11. Based on the pedigree aforesaid, it was pleaded by the defendants that the plaintiff, the defendants and the proforma defendants are the descendants of a common ancestor and constitute a joint Hindu family. It was pleaded that Bindesari, whose branch the defendants represent, had gone insane. For the said reason, after the death of Rajai, Gokul was recorded as the Karta and after him, Kodai and Basanta. The defendants trusted Kodai and Basanta, in both of whom they had faith. Kodai and Basanta were, therefore, recorded over the joint family property. It is pleaded further that during the consolidation operations, the plaintiff had served as a Chakbandi Lekhpal. The defendants would trust the plaintiff also and it was the plaintiff who would take care of records of the family's property and other business after Basanta's death.

12. The defendants have pleaded that upon the members of the family increasing in numbers, Kodai and Basanta set up home in the residential house and in the part of the property where the animals were housed, described as Bardaur, the defendants set up residence. In substance, it was pleaded that growing numbers of the family were spread out into different parts of the property, that the joint family held. After some time, the defendants too set up separate dwelling. Basanta, finding the defendants to be short of accommodation, asked them to utilize the land, comprising the plot in question, for the purpose of a living accommodation and also to house their cattle. The plot in question was close by to the abadi and the defendants, therefore, constructed a temporary shelter thereon, described as Madai, which they later on, by and by replaced by a kachcha house with a tiled roof.

13. It is pleaded that the suit property has no concern with the plaintiff or his ancestors. During the consolidation operations, it was pleaded that the chak of both parties were entered over the plot in question, which, according to the allotment, are in their respective possession. It is then pleaded that the plaintiff and his brothers too separated and the plaintiff and Muktinath, defendant no.3 to the suit, set up residence in the house, wherein regular residential quarters are located. Their cattle were also housed there. The defendants stayed in the suit property and in a part of it, towards the west, the plaintiff and the proforma defendants kept up storing their fire-wood in the same manner as they were doing since long. Dhuppu, defendant no.4 (a proforma defendant) set up separate residence at the place where the family would earlier store their agricultural implements. All his living and that of his family were built around that place.

14. Some years earlier, on the north-western corner of the suit property, where both parties have their chak, both parties sunk a private tubewell and at that place, the plaintiff got his house constructed. The plaintiff and his children stay in that house. In the suit property, neither the plaintiff nor his father ever built a temporary shelter (Madai). It is denied that the defendants' house located in the abadi ever collapsed, so as to require a reconstruction. Much to the contrary, it is pleaded by the defendants that their house located in the abadi is still in existence where it was. The plaintiff never asked the defendants to vacate the suit property. It is pleaded that the plaintiff's intentions went foul during the consolidation operations, about which the defendants never had knowledge. The plaintiff got his father's name entered exclusively over the chak that comprises land coming down from common ancestors. The defendants got the revenue records inspected and then came to know about the fact. Thereupon, the defendants instituted a suit before the Court of competent jurisdiction. It was also pleaded that the plaintiff had no right to institute the present suit. The suit was time barred. The suit is barred by estoppel and bad for mis-joinder. It is also barred by Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963.

15. The plaintiff filed a replica and pleaded that the defendants never had any right to or interest in the plot in question or the suit property. What was particularly pleaded through the replica is the fact that the defendants were not at all connected to the family of the plaintiff and the proforma defendants. The pedigree shown was denied as false and concocted. It was also pleaded that Bindesari, the defendants' ancestor, was not a son of Rajai or a member of his family. The plaintiff propounded a pedigree of his family, that he claimed depicted the correct relationship between parties in Paragraph No.3 of his replica. The pedigree pleaded by the plaintiff is shown below:

16. Mahavir, defendant no.5 and the original appellant no.3 to the appeal, also filed a separate written statement dated 04.05.1987, more or less pleading on the same lines as the defendants. An additional written statement dated 22.07.1988 was filed on behalf of the defendants jointly. A similar additional written statement, also on behalf of the defendants jointly, was filed on 18.08.1988. These pleadings more or less do not add anything material to the defendants' case.

17. On the pleadings of parties, the Trial Court framed the following issues (translated into English from Hindi):

"(1) Whether the plaintiff is entitled to possession of land and the house denoted by letters अ ब स द and things attached to it?

(2) Whether the plaintiff is entitled to mesne profits as claimed in the plaint?

(3) Whether the suit is barred by time?

(4) Whether the suit is barred by estoppel?

(5) Whether the suit is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties?

(6) Whether the suit is undervalued and the court-fee insufficient?

(7) Whether the suit is barred by Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963?

(8) Whether the suit is barred by Section 43 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908?

(9) Whether the plaintiff is entitled to any relief?

(10) Whether the suit is bad for mis-joinder of necessary parties?

(11) Whether the suit is barred by Section 42 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908?"

18. The plaintiff led voluminous documentary evidence in support of his title, including those relating to proceedings during consolidation operations and the rights recorded during consolidation. Documents were also filed, that are very old revenue entries and extracts of the Family Register. A summary of documentary evidence led on behalf of the plaintiff finds a detailed reference in the judgment of the Lower Appellate Court and need not be recapitulated. The plaintiff examined three witnesses, to wit, Budhiram, PW-1, Katwaru, PW-2 and Dharamdev, PW-3.

19. The defendants, on the other hand, also led documentary evidence, a summary of which is also detailed in the judgment of the Lower Appellate Court and is not being reproduced here for the sake of brevity. The defendants examined two witnesses, that is to say, Sahabal, DW-1 and Mangali, DW-2.

20. The issue of valuation was decided by an order of the Trial Court made on 18.12.1986, about which there is no surviving controversy. Issues Nos.3, 4, 7, 8 and 11, all of which are defendants' issues, were not pressed at the trial and, therefore, answered in the negative. The issues of non-joinder of necessary parties and mis-joinder were also decided in the negative in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendants by an order made by the Trial Court on 15.07.1987.

21. The Trial Court tried the suit substantially on Issues Nos. 1 and 2 and decided both in favour of the defendants and against the plaintiff. It was held by the Trial Court that the plaintiff's title to the land, whereon the suit property is located, is established on the basis of documentary evidence, but accepted the defendants' case that the constructions standing thereon were ones of a permanent character, in relation to which, their license could not be revoked, in view of the provisions of Section 60(b) of the Indian Easements Act, 1882. It is on the said findings that the suit was dismissed.

22. Aggrieved by the decree of the Trial Court, the plaintiff instituted Civil Appeal No.110 of 1989 before the District Judge of Azamgarh on 28.02.1989. The said appeal came up for hearing upon assignment, before the learned Additional Civil Judge (now equivalent to the Court of the Civil Judge, Senior Division) on 22.07.1992. The learned Judge allowed the appeal, reversed the decree of the Trial Court in part and decreed the plaintiff's suit, ordering the defendants to deliver possession of the suit property to the plaintiff, including the underlying land, after withdrawing from its possession within a period of three months. However, the plaintiff's claim for mesne profits was dismissed.

23. Aggrieved, this second appeal has been instituted by the defendants

24. This appeal was admitted to hearing on 06.11.1992 on the following substantial questions of law:

(1) Whether the plaintiff could be granted relief in effect of exclusive possession in the face of joint possession?

(2) Whether the suit could be maintainable in view of Section 60 of the Indian Easements Act, 1882?

(3) Whether an issue about tenure of land was desirable and if so, whether there was a mistake of law in not framing and referring the same to the Revenue Court under Section 331-A of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950?

25. The first substantial question of law has been raised on the basis of a case that the suit property was part of a larger holding that was the property of a Joint Hindu family, who had lived together without a formal partition. The defendants have made out themselves to be members of the Joint Hindu family, of which the highest and relevant ancestor was Dhonda. The family, according to them, went into the branches of Gokul and Bindesari, where the defendants represent the branch of Bindesari and the plaintiff and the proforma defendants, the branch of Gokul. The defendants' case proceeds on the basis that Bindesari being of unsound mind, it was the branch of Gokul who served as Karta for the Joint Hindu Family, that the defendants say they were. It is the defendants' case that when Basanta was functioning as the Karta, he had permitted the defendants to set up residence for themselves on a part of the plot in question, in deference to their share in the joint family property. The defendants' case, therefore, is that they first built a temporary shelter, Madai and then a kachcha house on the bidding of Basanta, no doubt, but in realization of their right to hold a specific share in the joint family property that would come by in case of a formal partition. The case of the defendants, therefore, is of a pre-existing right in the Joint Hindu Family property belonging to the Joint Hindu family, of which Dhonda is the progenitor. The permission given to the defendants by Basanta is, therefore, not a license to construct over the suit property. Rather, it is the defendants' case that the permission was given in realization of the defendants' right as a member of the Joint Hindu family to a specific portion of the property thereof, bringing about a partition through an oral family settlement. In effect, therefore, the defendants plead a case of title to the suit property, flowing from their status as members of the joint family in question and a permission from the Karta thereof, which is in the nature of a family settlement.

26. By contrast to the defendants' case, the plaintiff disowns the fact that the defendants and the plaintiff are in any way the members of a Joint Hindu Family. He says that the defendants are in no way connected by a bloodline to the plaintiff or the proforma defendants. They are utter strangers to the plaintiff's family. The plot in question, as well as the suit property is owned by the plaintiff and the proforma defendants that they have inherited from a common ancestor, Raghunath through Shivraj, Gokul and Basanta in successive generations. Bindesari is not at all connected to the plaintiff's family, though a native of the village. Basanta never permitted the defendants to raise constructions over the suit property. Rather, it was the plaintiff who permitted the defendants to use the suit property that had already been constructed by the plaintiff and proforma defendants in order to take care of their crops that stood in the land in dispute. The plaintiff had constructed the suit property first as a temporary shelter, a Madai and then as a kachcha house to look after their crops, because their house was located far away from this part of their agricultural holding. The permission had been given to the defendants to occupy the suit property for such period of time that the defendants needed to reconstruct their own house located some 400 yards away, that had fallen down. The permission that was granted was revoked on 10th of May, 1985 after the defendants' house was reconstructed. Thus, the defendants are trespassers in the suit property, after revocation of their licence by the plaintiff.

27. For the purpose of determination of the substantial question of law under consideration, the two Courts below, particularly the Lower Appellate Court, has gone into the genealogy of parties to determine whether the defendants on one hand, and the plaintiff as well as the proforma defendants on the other, were members of a Joint Hindu Family. The question about the "jointness of possession' of parties really does not arise on the state of evidence here. If it did, perhaps, it would require determination by a competent Revenue Court. Here, there is overwhelming evidence, rather evidence documentary, that establishes the plaintiff's claim to the suit property. There is no documentary evidence to show even a hint or shadow about the defendants' title to the suit property. The plaintiff and his ancestors have consistently remained recorded over the suit property, since before the abolition of Zamindari and until date of the commencement of action. The Lower Appellate Court has made a punctilious reference to the various revenue records, dating back to the year 1940-41, mentioning the relevant Fasli Year. The Lower Appellate Court has taken note of the Bandobast of the year 1349 Fasli, where the name of Kodai and Basanta, sons of Gokul, is recorded. Also considered by the Lower Appellate Court is Khatauni Jild Bandobast of the year 1308 Fasli corresponding to the calendar year 1900-1901. During that period of time, the name of Rajai, son of Dhonda, was recorded and in the same document, the name of Gokul son of Shivraj is also recorded.

28. It has been noted by the Lower Appellate Court that in none of the record of rights relating to the land in dispute, including the suit property, the name of Bindesari occurs, who is said to be the link connecting the defendants to the plaintiff's pedigree. This Court is of opinion that if truly it were a case where the existence of the bloodline claimed by the defendants was necessary to determine the rival claim of the parties about title to the suit property, this case might require trial by the competent Court of revenue jurisdiction, the land being a bhumidhari. But, no question of title arises in this case, for the reason that consolidation operations have admittedly intervened, where, according to the defendants, the parties' chaks have been entered. There is no record from the consolidation that may show title or possession of the defendants or a joint possession for the defendants, a fact found by both the Courts below and more eloquently by the Lower Appellate Court. It is for this reason that so far as title is concerned, the Trial Court and the Lower Appellate Court have returned unanimous findings in favour of the plaintiff and the proforma defendants. The findings recorded by the Authorities under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1961 (for short "U.P. C.H. Act") about title inter partes are final and unassailable before any Court or Authority. If after close of the consolidation operations, about which there are CH Form-23 and CH Form-41 on record, the rights of the defendants are not recorded over the land in dispute or the suit property, there is no title dispute that survives for determination by a Court of revenue jurisdiction.

29. It must be recorded here that the judgments of the two Courts below indicate that the defendants did go for a determination of their rights to the Revenue Court and filed a suit under Section 229-B/ 176 of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, being Suit No.383/413, which was dismissed. Appellate or Revisional remedies against the said determination were invoked by the defendants, but nothing has been brought to this Court's notice to show that the defendants succeeded in their endeavour to establish title to the land in dispute or the suit property. This Court has also perused the certified copy of the judgment and decree dated 31.10.1986 passed by the Sub-Divisional Officer, Sagri, Azamgarh in Suit

No.383/413, under Section 229-B/ 176 of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act. The suit was filed by Sahabal, son of Gareeb, Mahavir and Ninku, the three defendants here, against Budhiram, Muktinath and Dhuppu, the plaintiff and the proforma defendants. The suit related to the defendants' claim for declaration of title and partition of Gata No.531 (old) based on the case of a Joint Hindu Family property, where the property came down from a common ancestor. The issues in the suit, amongst others, were whether the plaintiff and the defendants were co-sharers in possession of the suit property and they had a half share. It was also an issue whether the suit is barred by Section 49 of the U.P. C.H. Act. The Sub-Divisional Officer has recorded a finding that no objection was raised during consolidation operations by the plaintiffs (the defendants here) and, therefore, the suit was barred by Section 49 U.P. C.H. Act. The Revenue Court has also returned a finding that it was the defendants to that suit (who are the plaintiff and the proforma defendants here) who were recorded over the suit property. Nothing has been shown to this Court or noticed by the Courts below that this judgment of the Sub-Divisional Officer has been overturned by a Court of competent jurisdiction in appeal.

30. The plaintiff's title to the suit property has been accepted by both the Courts below on the findings and evidence noticed hereinabove, which cannot be faulted. There is absolutely no evidence to show a case of joint possession between the plaintiff and the defendants, based on a title properly so called, except a licence. Therefore, if on the revocation of the licence, validly made, the defendants could be removed from possession, there is no joint possession inferable by any principle of law for the defendants that may hinder a decree of exclusive possession being passed in favour of the plaintiff, of course, subject to a valid revocation of the licence.

31. In view of the aforesaid conclusion, Substantial Question of Law No. (1) is answered in the affirmative in the terms that exclusive possession can be granted where joint possession of the party resisting dispossession is not based on some kind of a right or title, but a mere licence, of course, subject to its valid revocation.

32. The second substantial question of law raised is whether the suit is maintainable in view of Section 60 of the Indian Easements Act. The question precisely is whether the defendants being in possession of the suit property as licensees, where they have raised constructions of a permanent character, are entitled to resist revocation of their license, in view of the provisions of Section 60(b) of the Indian Easements Act. This substantial question of law has arisen because of the judgment of the Trial Court, which held the plaintiff to be the owner and/ or bhumidhar of the land in dispute, including the suit property, like the Lower Appellate Court, but opined that the defendants had raised constructions comprising the suit property of a permanent character in accordance with the licence given by the plaintiff or his predecessor-in-title.

33. The Lower Appellate Court, on the second point of determination, that it has considered, has examined the plaintiff's case of a license to live in the house constructed by him on the one hand and the defendants' case of being given the land by the plaintiff's predecessor Basanta, pursuant whereto they had raised construction of a permanent nature on the other. The Lower

Appellate Court has meticulously examined evidence of witnesses, including the documentary evidence, particularly the documents relating to consolidation proceedings and opined that if the constructions had been raised by the defendants, acting on the permission given by Basanta before consolidation commenced, the suit property and its value would figure in consolidation proceedings. The witnesses' testimony about who actually constructed the suit property was also considered, particularly that of PW-2, who has said that he was the contractor involved in the construction of the suit property. The said witness has been believed, together with the documentary evidence relating to proceedings during consolidation, by the Lower Appellate Court to find for a fact that constructions comprising the suit property were raised by Budhiram and not the defendants years ago on a permission given by Basanta. These are findings of fact recorded after a careful scrutiny of oral and documentary evidence and cannot be disturbed by this Court sitting in second appeal. In fact, the defendants have spoken about a permission to raise constructions, that have now become the suit property, located over the plot in question, not as licensees but in acknowledgment of their right as coparceners or co-sharers of a Joint Hindu Family with a permission by Basanta acting as the Karta. It is perhaps on account of the fact that the Trial Court has disbelieved the defendants' case of title to the suit property, in whatever manner, that the permission given by Basanta was then examined from the vantage of Section 60(b) of the Indian Easements Act.

34. The Trial Court had held for a fact that it was Basanta who permitted the defendants to raise constructions over a part of the plot in question, that is now the suit property. The Trial Court proceeded to reason that in the absence of any title with the defendants being established to the plot in question or the suit property, the permission, that Basanta granted, must be held to be a licence, permitting the defendants to raise construction of a permanent character. This finding, for cogent reasons assigned, has been overturned by the Lower Appellate Court, upon a consideration of relevant evidence, both documentary and oral. The Lower Appellate Court has held that the constructions were never raised by the defendants, but by the plaintiff, and the defendants were allowed to occupy the suit property for a short period of time between August, 1984 and May, 1985, in order to facilitate the defendants to tide over the crisis of reconstructing their house that had actually collapsed.

35. Learned Counsel for the defendants, however, has impressed upon the Court that the provisions of Section 60(b) of the Indian Easements Act forbid the grantor of a licence from revoking it, where, acting on the licence, a licensee had executed a work of a permanent character and incurred expenses in its execution. Learned Counsel has placed reliance upon the decision of this Court in Jai Narain v. Sri Ram Narain (deceased by L. R's.) and other, AIR 1989 All 182. The attention of this Court has been drawn to Paragraph Nos.7 and 8 of the report in Jai Narain (supra), that read:

"7. I am unable to agree. A some what identical situation came up for consideration before this Court in the case of Azahar Husain v. Mansab, reported in 1940 All LJ 354 : (AIR 1940 All 324). The question raised there was whether S.60(b) of the Easements Act could be pressed in and in respect of that portion of the land which is left by the licensee unbuilt and which is used by him as his Sehan Darvaja. There the licensee had instituted the suit for restraining the licensor from interfering with his possession in respect of vacant piece of land. The learned Judge hearing the second appeal negatived the contention of the licensee holding that where a licence is given to one to build a house on a piece of land and acting upon that licence, he builds a house keeping a portion of the land vacant so that it might be used as sehan darvaza the license would be irrevocable under S.60(b) of the Easements Act both in regard to the site of the house as well as the piece of land, which is appurtenant thereto. The ratio was that a person building a house may legitimately use the land appurtenant thereto for the proper enjoyment of his house provided of course the licensee built the house in pursuance of the terms of the license and the site of the house and the appurtenant land does not exceed the area in respect to which the license was granted.

8. That precisely is the situation obtaining in the present case. With respect, I find myself in complete agreement with the ratio of the decision cited above. The finding in the present case is that the appurtenant land is being used by the plaintiff for tethering cattle and other miscellaneous acts. Further finding is that this land is part and parcel of the land which was granted to the plaintiff under the license. That being so, S.60(b) was attracted in terms. Lease granted in favour of the defendant was hence of no avail to the defendant as against the plaintiff."

36. A perusal of the issue, that fell for consideration of this Court in Jai Narain, shows that it was not about the irrevocability of the licence generally, where the licensee had been permitted to raise constructions of a permanent character by the licensor. That position appears to have been undisputed on facts there. The issue was about a part of the land given on licence by the Zamindar, that was not built upon pursuant to the licence, but remained open. The open portion of the land was appurtenant to the constructions that had been erected acting on the licence. The question, therefore, was whether Section 60(b) would be attracted to that portion of the land held on licence, which the licensee had not utilized to raise constructions. It was held that the protection of Section 60(b) would extend to the unbuilt land held on licence, if it were appurtenant to the land that had been constructed upon in terms of the licence.

37. This Court is afraid that the principle in Jai Narain is not at all attracted to the facts of the present case, where for a fact, the Lower Appellate Court has returned an unassailable finding of fact that the suit property comprises constructions that were raised by the plaintiff and licensed to the defendants as such. The defendants had never themselves raised any construction, acting on any permission or licence, to raise constructions of a permanent character.

38. The other decision relied upon by the learned Counsel for the defendants is Babu Fazal Haq and others v. Lala Data Ram and another, AIR 1975 All 373. In Babu Fazal Haq (supra), it was held by their Lordships of the Division Bench of this Court, thus:

"22. We have now to consider whether the said licence was revocable.

Section 60 of the Indian Easements Act provides :

"A licence may be revoked by the grantor, unless -

(a) it is coupled with a transfer of property and such transfer is in force;

The above section embodies two exceptions to the general rule that a licence is revocable. The instant case is covered by clause (b) of Section 60 which is based on the principle of estoppel by acquiescence. When the licensee acting upon a licence has executed a work of permanent character and incurred expenses in the execution the licence cannot be revoked by the grantor. The man who stands by and allows another person to build on his land, in the belief that he has power or authority to do so, and incurs expenses in such building, cannot turn round and claim the removal of such building on the ground that the latter had no authority to build. He is estopped by his conduct from adopting that course and the law will presume an authority from him in such cases. In the instant case we find from the own admission of the plaintiff that within a few days after obtaining his permission the defendants raised the constructions over the disputed land and they established their factory by installing a saw machine, oil expeller and flour mill. The house of the plaintiff is admittedly situate at a very little distance from the said land. It is quite clear that if the plaintiff had not given the land to the defendants for the aforesaid purposes, he would have taken exception to the making of constructions over the same and the installation of the saw machine, oil expeller and the flour mill. As We have already pointed out, the finding of fact recorded by the courts below is that the land was given by the plaintiff to the defendants for the purpose of making constructions and establishing a factory over it. Since acting on that agreement the defendants made costly constructions of permanent nature, the licence has now become irrevocable....."

39. The law laid down by their Lordships of the Division Bench is without exception as to principle, but of little assistance to the defendants here. The reason is that the holding in Babu Fazal Haq came in the wake of facts, where the findings returned by the Courts of fact were that the licensee was permitted to raise constructions of a permanent nature over his land by the licensor, which was a saw machine, oil expeller and flour mill. It was in that context remarked by their Lordships that if the licensor permits another to raise constructions of a permanent character over his land, where that other incurs expenses in its execution, the licence becomes irrevocable. But again, the aforesaid principles or the holding of their Lordships in Babu Fazal Haq would not help the defendants, because it has been found for a fact by the Courts below that the suit property comprises constructions that were raised by the plaintiff and licensed to the defendants; not constructions raised by the defendants on land licensed by the plaintiff or his predecessors.

40. This Court must also remark that a plea to avail the benefit of Section 60(b) of the Indian Easements Act does not appear to have been specifically raised in the written statement. The case in the written statement was about the proprietary right as a co-sharer or coparcener of a Joint Hindu Family that the defendants set up, where they raised constructions in exercise of a proprietary right with permission of the Karta. That case has not been found vindicated by the Court of facts below, and in the absence of a plea about a licence, acting whereon, constructions of a permanent character were raised by the defendants incurring expenditure, no issue was framed by the Trial Court about it. It is for this reason that the parties did not lead any evidence about a case founded on Section 60(b) of the Indian Easements Act. It is the Trial Court that carved out this case for the defendants out of the shambles of a failed plea of title, based on membership of the Joint Hindu Family and their right as co-sharers therein. The Lower Appellate Court, therefore, for very valid reasons, has held that a plea or an issue claiming for a party the benefit of Section 60(b) of the Indian Easements Act, is a mixed question of fact and law, which requires a specific plea to be taken in the written statement and then evidence led by parties on the issue framed.

41. The point whether a case based on Section 60(b) of the Indian Easements Act could be raised without a specific plea in that behalf, fell for consideration of the Bombay High Court in Ramesh v. Pandurangrao Ratnalikar and others, 2006 SCC OnLine Bom 81, where it was held:

"10. Even though, initially, the defendants in two suits had taken plea of purchase of the land, that plea could not be proved. In all the matters, the plaintiff-respondent has proved his title over the land. The defendants appellants have failed to prove their adverse possession. The trial Court in all the five matters held that the defendants were occupying the land by virtue of licence. Now in the Second Appeals, the defendants have not raised dispute either to the title of the plaintiff nor they have raised the plea of adverse possession. According to them for last ⅔ generations, they are living on the suit lands by constructing huts, which are permanent structures and therefore, in view of section 60(b) of Easements Act, licence has become irrevocable and therefore, the plaintiff cannot revoke the licence and seek possession back. In view of this, the matters rest on the following issue:

11. Whether the defendants-appellants prove that the licence has become irrevocable in view of the provisions of section 60 clause (b) of Indian Easements Act.

12. It is not in dispute that the plaintiff is owner of the land. The defendants or their fathers had taken possession of the land as licensees. It is also not in dispute that the plaintiff issued notices for revocation of license. The said notices were not accepted and thereafter, the plaintiff issued a public notice in local newspaper "Prajawani". Section 60 reads as follows:

"60.Licence when revocable: A licence may be revoked by the grantor unless:--

(a) it is coupled with a transfer of property and such transfer is in force:

13. Admittedly, clause (a) is not applicable to the facts of the present case. Under clause (b) the licence would become irrevocable if licensee acting upon the licence has executed a work of permanent character and incurred expenses in the execution. All the three conditions have to be satisfied, naturally burden lies on the licensee to prove these three conditions, who pleads that the licence has become irrevocable. It is well settled principle of law that before any evidence of any fact may given in a Civil proceeding, party has to plead the fact, so that on such disputed fact issue may be framed and then parties may lead evidence on that issue. Admittedly, in the present matters, the defendants in their written statements had not admitted that they were licensees and further they had also not pleaded that they had, acting upon the licence, constructed huts or houses of permanent character and had incurred expenses in execution of the said work. Naturally, in absence of any such plea of irrevocability of licence, no issue was framed. The plaintiff proceeded to lead evidence to prove his title, licence and revocation of licence by issuing notice. Defendants, on the other hand, tired to lead evidence to prove their title or adverse possession over the said lands for more than 12 years. Plea of irrevocability was not raised in the written statement. Relying on certain authorities of the Supreme Court in Elizabeth v. Saramma, AIR 1985 NOC 159 (Ker.), the Kerala High Court held that irrevocability of licence has to be pleaded and proved and in absence of any pleadings or issue on this point, it cannot be said that licence was irrevocable. In Shankar Gopinath Apte v. Gangabai Hariharrao Patwardhan, (1976) 4 SCC 112 : AIR 1976 SC 2506, the Supreme Court had to deal with the similar case in which the defendant had not pleaded irrevocability of licence nor any issue was raised but it was contended that the defendant-appellant was deemed to be licensee and since he had executed the work of permanent character involving heavy expenditure. Hence, the licence would be irrevocable under section 60(b) of the Easements Act. After discussing the facts of the case, Their Lordships made following observations in para 14

"Only one more thing need be stated: even assuming that the appellant has executed work of a permanent character on the land it cannot be said that he has done so "acting upon the licence", as required by section 60(b) of the Easements Act. If he really improved the land by executing a work of a permanent character, he did so in the belief that being a tenant he will become a statutory purchaser of the land, or that the oral agreement of sale will one fine day be implemented. The execution of work would therefore be in his capacity as a tenant or a prospective purchaser and not in his capacity as a licensee."

42. Again, the point was pronounced upon eloquently by the Rajasthan High Court in Dhool Singh v. Smt. Bardhu Bal and other, AIR 1974 Raj 90, where it was held:

7. ..... The parties had fought the litigation on the question of title alone. Whereas the plaintiff claimed that on account of a gift in his favour by Smt. Kesar Bai, he was the owner of the property, the defendant asserted that the portion sold by the plaintiff to Kadar Bux had been given in "Kanya Dan' to his mother and on account of the unauthorised alienation the disputed portion was given by the plaintiff to the defendant in exchange. It was the plea of the plaintiff that the defendant was in permissive possession. In answer to that the defendant only asserted his own title to the property, but did not set up any case in the alternative that even if he were a licensee the licence would be irrevocable on account of the defendant having raised a construction of permanent character on the property.

Normally a licence is revocable unless the case falls under clauses (a) or (b) of sec. 60 of the Easements Act.

Under clauses (a) of the licence is coupled with a transfer of property and such transfer is in force the licence would not be revocable, and under clause (b) if the licensee, acting upon the licence, had executed a work of permanent character and incurred expenses in the execution then too the licence will not be revocable. It was a mixed question of fact and law whether the necessary conditions about the irrevocability of the licence existed or not. It was, therefore, necessary for the defendant to have pleaded the necessary facts in his written statement and to have a proper issue framed. It is true, two of the witnesses produced by the plaintiff namely, P.W. 4 Kadar Bux and P.W. 5 Vishmmbhar Dayal support the defendant, but these statements can be of no avail to the defendant. Even so, I have considered the question whether the defendant can be said to have made any works of permanent character by the construction of the room or the latrine. So far as the latrine is concerned, the defendant has clearly admitted as P.W. 8 that when he wanted to construct the latrine the plaintiff prevented him and, therefore, he had to content himself by merely having a latrine of "Tat Pattis" (screens made of gunny bags). This latrine cannot, therefore, be said to be any work of a permanent nature. As regards the room, the court below has found that it was "Kucha'. Whether a particular construction is one of permanent character or not is primarily a question of fact and the finding can be given only in the light of the nature of the construction and other attendant circumstances. There is no hard and fast rule to determine as to what construction would be regarded as a work of a permanent, character and what construction otherwise than of permanent character. The court below has held that the room was "Kucha' and, therefore, on the material as it stands one cannot hold that the room was a work of a permanent character. It was for defendant to have raised a plea in his written statement and then to have an issue framed for its determination. In the circumstances of the present case one cannot say that the work was of the permanent character.

11. In these circumstances without there being any plea in the written statement, nor there being any issue one cannot go by just the statements of two of the plaintiff's witnesses. The courts below were, therefore, not right in holding in the circumstances that the licence was irrevocable."

43. Apart from the fact that there is no plea in the written statement urging a case of irrevocable licence based on Section 60(b) of the Indian Easements Act, or in substance asserting such a case, the Lower Appellate Court has found for a fact, that we have already approved as an unexceptionable finding based on relevant evidence, that the suit property comprises constructions raised by the plaintiff and licensed to the defendants.

44. In view of what this Court has found, Substantial Question of Law No.(2) is answered in the affirmative in terms that the suit is maintainable, unaffected by the provisions of Section 60 of the Indian Easements Act.

45. So far as the third substantial question of law is concerned, the defendants have strenuously urged that there being a question of title to the agricultural land involved, an appropriate issue should have been framed and sent to the Assistant Collector for a decision of the same. Learned Counsel for the defendants has strongly disputed it. He submits that this substantial question of law does not arise for consideration in this appeal at all. It is submitted that the plaintiff and the proforma defendants are recorded title holders, with no hint of an interest for the defendants in the suit property being discernible anywhere. The defendants' suit under Section 229-B read with Section 176 of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act has failed and all issues of title are now concluded, in view of the provisions of Section 49 of the U.P. C.H. Act. He submits that during consolidation operations, no objection about title has been raised by the defendants against the plaintiff or his predecessors. Now, therefore, the defendants are precluded from raising the question of title in view of the bar contained in Section 49 of the U.P. C.H. Act. This Court has already remarked that there is absolutely no evidence noticed by the two Courts of fact below, where a triable case relating to title may have been raised by the defendants. Substantial Question of Law No.(3) does not, therefore, arise for consideration and is not required to be answered in view of the provisions of sub-Section (5) of Section 100 CPC.

46. In the result, this appeal fails and is dismissed with costs throughout.

47. The interim stay order dated 06.11.1992 is hereby vacated.

Order on the Cross-objections

1. This cross-objection was filed on 22.02.1993 by the plaintiff against the part of the decree by which his claim for mesne profits has been refused by the Lower Appellate Court. No substantial question of law has been formulated in the memorandum of the cross-objections. During the hearing of the appeal also, no substantial question of law was pointed out by the learned Counsel for the plaintiff, on the basis of which the cross-objections could be admitted to hearing.

2. The cross-objection, accordingly fails and is dismissed.

2. Shailendra Bhardwaj & ors. Vs Chandra Pal & anr. (2013) 1 SCC 579

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J.)

1. Heard Sri B. K. Saxena, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri Ratnesh Chandra, learned counsel for the opposite party no.1.

2. This Revision has been filed challenging the order dated 04.04.2022 passed in Original Suit No. 256 of 2007, "Vijay Dembla vs. Sanjay Dembla and Others by the Court of Civil Judge(Senior Division), Lucknow where the learned Trial Court has decided the issue of Valuation of the Suit i.e. Issue no. 3 and also Issue no.4 relating to payment of enhanced court fee thereon.

3. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the revisionist that the plaintiff i.e. the petitioner filed a Suit for Declaration of Will executed by his mother and also the mother of the opposite party no.1 and 2, Late Rekha Devi Dembla as void and for the Permanent Injunction injuncting the defendant from interfering in the property in dispute. According to the Plaint, a copy of which has been filed as annexure-02 of the application for interim relief, paragraph 14 mentions the contents of the Will and states such contents as factually incorrect, and paragraph 53 mentions, the valuation for the purpose of pecuniary jurisdiction of court fee. As the relief sought was for Declaration in respect of the Will valuation of which was not possible it was notionally fixed at Rs. 35,000/- upon which maximum court fee Rs. 200/- was paid and for further relief of permanent injunction regarding property in dispute Rs.35,00,000/- was fixed as market value and a maximum court fee of Rs. 500/- was paid. The total valuation of the Suit as per the plaint was Rs.35,35,000/- on which Court Fee of Rs.700/- was paid. Against such a statement being made in the plaint the respondent no.1 filed a Written Statement. While replying to the contents of paragraph 53 of the plaint in paragraph 45 of the Written Statement, it was stated that they were misconceived and wrong and that the Suit filed by the plaintiff for Declaration and Permanent Injunction was not maintainable, and also that the Court Fee had not been properly paid by the plaintiff, and therefore, the Suit was liable to be dismissed.

4. It has been argued by the learned counsel for the plaintiff that there is no mention of less valuation of the Suit in Para 45 of the Written Statement. The only mention is with regard to Payment of less Court Fee. It has been also argued that Valuation of Suit and Court Fee are two different things and therefore, two issues were framed issue no.3 relating to Valuation of Suit, Issue no.4 relating to Court Fee paid. It has been further argued that the learned trial court relied upon two sheets of papers submitted during the course of the arguments by the counsel for the respondent no.1 describing a large number of properties and giving their valuation arbitrarily. Such sheets of paper were not filed as documents alongwith list of documents relied upon by the respondent in the written statement, they were not filed alongwith the objection. Not being part of the pleadings in the written statement, they could not have been considered by the trial court while passing the order impugned.

5. It has been argued on the basis of an Execution Application filed on 15.05.1998, a copy of which has been filed as Annexure-02 to the Application for Interim Relief, that two consent awards dated 18.08.1996 and 17.08.1997 had been given by the Sole Arbitrator with regard to the assets left by father of the revisionist and the respondents no.1 and 2 Late Shri Chander Dembla with relation to family assets, for example, Cash, FDRs, Shares, Investment, etc. and all business and properties in dispute between the parties. As per such Awards for which Execution Application has already been filed by the revisionist, only Rs. 5,00,000/- from the family assets were reserved for Late Rekha Devi Dembla, the Mother and each of the two sons i.e. Vijay Dembla and Sanjay Dembla were required to give Rs. 2,500/- per month to her as pocket expenses. In the said Execution Application it was stated that since Sanjay Dembla was not disclosing all the properties belonging to their father, the revisionist was reserving his right to file such details of assets after finding them out.

6. It has been argued that the Execution Application filed under Section 36 of the Arbitration and Cancellation Act, 1996 for execution of the two consent awards is still pending before the District Judge.

7. It has been argued that under Section 7(iv-A) of the Court Fees Act as applicable in U.P., for cancellation or adjudging void an instrument or a decree involving money or property, the Court Fee has to be paid on the Valuation of such property. The valuation not being disputed in the Written Statement by the respondent and only loose sheets of paper being provided to the Trial Court for determination of valuation at the time of argument, no reliance on such loose sheets of papers could have been placed by the learned Trial Court for fixing valuation. The valuation which was mentioned in the plaint by the plaintiff alone could have been relied upon.

8. Learned counsel for the revisionist has referred to Section 6 of the Court Fees Act which refers to court fee and Sub Section (3) thereof, where if a question of deficiency in court fees in respect of any claim/ or memorandum of appeal is raised, the trial court shall proceed to record a finding on the Court Fee and whether it had been paid sufficiently or not. If the court finds that the court fee is insufficient it can call upon the plaintiff or the appellant as the case may be to make good the deficiency within time as prescribed by the trial court/appellate court and in case of failure to do so it may reject the plaint or the appeal. The trial court/appellate court may also for sufficient reasons grant time or extend the time for payment of deficiency in court fee and may also give opportunity to the plaintiff or the appellants for filing security in lieu thereof. But in any case no judgment shall be delivered finally on the plaint or the appeal without such deficiency of court fee as determined by the court being made good by the plaintiff for the appellant.

It has been argued that under Section 12 of the Court Fees Act, a question of valuation for the purpose of determination of the amount of fee payable on the plaint or the appeal has to be decided by the Court and such decision shall be final as between the parties to the Suit/Appeal. It has been argued on the basis of such Section of the Court Fees Act, 1870 (as applicable State of U.P.) that the order passed by the trial court in this case has attained finality and therefore, was a Revisable Order as has been held by the Supreme Court in the Case of Nami Chand vs. The Edward Mills Company Limited AIR 1953 SC 28 where the Supreme Court held that the finality attached to the order regarding valuation of Suit as given under Section 12 of the Court Fee Act means that the parties cannot impugne such a decision by preferring an appeal, but that does not confer on such decision a complete immunity from examination in a higher Court. Learned counsel for the petitioner has read out the observations made by the Supreme Court which are as follows:-

"------ in other words, Section 12 when it says that such a decision shall be final between the parties, only makes the decision of the Court on a question of court-fee non-appealable and places it on the same footing as other interlocutory non-appealable orders under the Code and it does no more than that. If a decision under Section 12 is reached by assuming jurisdiction which the Court does not possess or without observing the formalities which are prescribed for reaching such a decision, the order obviously would be revisable by the High Court in the exercise of revisional powers.------."

9. It has been argued by the learned counsel for the revisionist that a perusal of the trial court's order would show that the formalities required for determination of valuation as per procedure prescribed under law were not followed and therefore, the order passed by the trial court fixing valuation and determining court fees as insufficient is liable to be interfered with by this Court in this revision.

10. It has also been argued by the learned counsel for the revisionist that it is evident from a bare perusal of the order under challenge that not only inadmissible evidence was taken into consideration by the trial court but also the fixation of valuation of Suit at Rupees Two Crores was completely without any material on record, and therefore, the order impugned can also to be said to be perverse and liable to be set aside. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon a Coordinate Bench decision of this Court in "Abhay Sood vs. Babu Butuk Nath" in Civil Revision No. 116 of 2010 decided on 03.12.2012. The Court had observed that in deciding a case, the court should rely upon the evidence led by the parties for deciding the case. "A court of law cannot function as an "assessor'. The Assessment by the Court of law is nothing short of introduction of a third case, which is not permissible under Indian Judicial System. While rejecting the values as proposed by one either of the parties including the valuation report submitted by one of them, the trial court had enhanced the value of the property to the detriment of the plaintiff, without any substance or evidence. Such a determination amounted to perversity which has been defined as deliberately departing from what is normal and reasonable and against the material on record."

11. Learned counsel for the respondent no.1, Sri Ratnesh Chandra, on the other hand, has argued on the basis of the plaint that the Suit was filed for declaration and permanent injunction, the declaration was sought for the Will executed by the Mother of the plaintiff and the defendant, Smt. Rekha Devi Dembla w/o Late Sri Chandra Dembla on 27.04.1998. For determining the validity of a document, the valuation has to be done only on the basis of the value of the properties as mentioned in the document/instrument. He has placed placed before this Court a copy of Will dated 27.04.1998 made out by the Late Mother of the parties wherein she has mentioned that she is owned of 1/3 of all the property owned by her husband including residential houses, shopping complex, plots of land, business, bank accounts, FDRs Shares etc. alongwith her two sons, Vijay Dembla and Sanjay Dembla. She had also mentioned in her Will that being the only daughter of her parents (who died much earlier), she had also inherited property in Village Andal District Burdwan in West Bengal. She had a bank account in her name in the State Bank of Saurashtra and also had movable property and self acquired jewelry for which she was the complete and sole owner and no part of it belonged to anyone but herself. It has been argued that when this fact was placed before the trial court, the trial court passed an order on 20.11.2021 directing the respondent no.1 to place on record the details of all the properties that were involved including movable and immovable, which were either owned solely by Late Rekha Devi Dembla, or in part alongwith her two sons. On such a direction being issued by the trial court, the respondent no.1 had filed a list of such properties. A copy of such list has been filed as Annexure to the application for interim relief, which shows that Late Rekha Devi Dembla owned certain share in residential house, plots of land, shops etc. as well as property in District Burdwan, West Bengal, the total estimated immovable property came to about Rupees Thirty One Crores Thirdy One Lacs and odd. The list of movable properties and their approximate value was also given which including FDR's, bank accounts and shares of more than Rupees Eleven Crores. The total amount of movable property was more than Rupees Twelve Crores Ninty Lacs, the total approximate market value of all the properties of Late Rekha Devi Dembla was more than Rupees Forty Six Crores. It was also mentioned that all the above properties were already under an injunction order passed by the District Judge looking in Execution Case No. 6 of 1998, "Vijay Dembla vs. Sanjay Dembla since 1998 and that the plaintiff had deliberately undervalued the property of Late Rekha Devi Dembla, and if and when such Will is declared void then alone, it could be said that the property has a notional value as submitted in the plaint. The learned counsel for the respondent no.1 has pointed out paragraph 53 and Sub Para (1) thereof as stated in the plaint which says that the Will is incapable of valuation, yet the plaintiff fixed a notional value of the Will at Rs. 35,000/- only, and therefore, paid maximum Court Fee of Rs. 200/- thereon. Learned counsel for the respondent also referred to Section 7(iv-A) of the Court Fee Act, 1870 (as applicable in the State of U. P.) which says that Court Fee has to be paid ad-valorem as per the valuation of the property involved in the decree or instrument.

12. Learned counsel for the respondent no.1 has placed reliance upon judgment rendered by the Supreme Court in the case of Shailendra Bhardwaj and Ohers vs. Chandra Pal and Another (2013) 1 SCC 579. He has referred to paragraph 2 of the said judgment where the relief as claimed in the plaint is mentioned by the Supreme Court and Paragraph 9, which is the conclusion arrived at after consideration of Section 7 (iv-A) (as applicable to the State of U.P.). He has read out the observations made by the Supreme Court which are as follows:-

"9. The suit, in this case, was filed after the death of the testator and, therefore, the suit property covered by the will has also to be valued. Since Section 7(iv-A) of the U. P. Amendment Act specifically provides that payment of court fee in case where the suit is for or involving cancellation or adjudging/declaring null and void decree for money or an instrument, Article 17 (iii) of Schedule II of the Court Fees Act would not apply. The U. P. Amendment Act, therefore, is applicable in the present case, despite the fact that no consequential relief has been claimed. Consequently, in terms of Section 7 (iv-A) of the U. P. Amendment Act, the court fees have to be computed according to the value of the subject-matter and the trial court as well as High Court have correctly held so."

13. It has been argued by the learned counsel for the respondent no.1 that the order of the trial court dated 20.11.2021 has not been placed on record, which order of the trial court is material and should be considered because it allowed the respondent no.1 the defendant in the said suit, to place on record the correct valuation of the property involved in the Will of Late Rekha Devi Dembla. He has argued that the Shares of various Companies alone that were involved in the Will amounted to more than Rupees Eleven Crores, besides there was property in West Bengal, Jewelery etc. and the plaint itself stated that the Will was incapable of valuation. Yet the trial court somehow came to conclusion that the property was more than Rupees Two Crores and fixed court fee, accordingly.

14. This Court has perused the order impugned passed by the trial court and finds that the trial court no doubt has stated that the plaintiff has not mentioned the details of the properties involved in the Will, a declaration for which was sought, and therefore, it had directed the defendant to produce the list of properties movable and immovable, which were a subject matter of the Will of the testator. After referring to the details as given by the defendant, it has decided that the valuation of the property involved in the instrument i.e. the Will was much more then has been disclosed by the plaintiff, and has thereafter, fixed its value as Rupees Two Crores. How such a valuation of Rupees Two Crores has been arrived at when the document submitted by the defendant showed that it was worth more than Rupees Forty Six Crores is not evident from the order impugned dated 04.04.2022.

15. This Court has perused the Will a copy of which was been handed over to this Court by the learned Counsel for the respondent during the course of the arguments. This Court has also perused the papers filed by the respondent before the trial court in pursuance of the order dated 20.11.2021. This Court has also carefully considered the provisions of Article 17 (iii) of the Second Schedule to the Stamp Act and compared it with the language used in Section 7 (iv-A) of the Stamp Act as amended and applicable to the State of U.P. Article 17(iii) is applicable in cases where the plaintiff seeks to obtain a declaratory decree without consequential reliefs and there is no other provision in the Court Fees Act for payment of fee relating to relief claimed. Since Section 7 (iv-A) of the Court Fees Act as applicable to the State of U.P. specifically provides for payment of Court Fee in a case where the Suit is for declaration/involving cancellation of an instrument relating to property which most-surely a Will Deed relating to bequeathing of property is all about, the said Section would squarely be applicable. It is apparent that the petitioners/plaintiff had sought the relief of cancellation/declaration of Will as null and void alongwith relief of prohibitory injunction as a consequential relief. The Will Deed related to movable and immovable properties of the Testator and therefore, the Suit had to be valued only on the face value of such a Will till it was declared void by the Court, and was to chargeable to Stamp Duty "ad valorem" i.e. awarding to the value of the property which has been dealt with in the Will or the instrument bequeathing property.

16. The Order dated 04.04.2022 is set aside, the matter is remitted to the trial court to decide afresh, both Issues No. 3 and 4 in the Suit, after giving opportunity to both the parties to lead evidence. Since the defendant to the Suit has already filed a list of properties, movable and immovable of the testator, the plaintiff is granted four weeks time to file his list of property, which according to him are involved in the Will prayed by him to be declared void.

17. Accordingly, this petition is allowed.

18. Let such issues to be decided by the Trial Court within a period of three months from the date a copy of this order is produced before it.

10. After adducing evidence on record, the trial court convicted the accused under Sections 302/34, 307/34, 323/34, 452/34 I.P.C. and Section 3/25 Arms Act and further reference dated 24.01.2020 has been sent to this Court seeking confirmation of death penalty, hence the present appeal.

The information was sent to the police regarding the threat given by Buddha but no action was taken by the police. He further admitted in the cross-examination that his sister was married second time in the year of the incident. He stated that there are ten or eleven houses nearby his house and there are three accused. He raised alarm due to which people of the village came to the place of occurrence but he could not tell for how long they stayed there. He could not chase the accused and he jumped in the husk-room. He accompanied the police who raided the house of the accused. The dead-body of the mother was taken away for last rites at 5.00 a.m. He further admitted that his sister was separated from Buddha and no notice was given to Buddha regarding the separation of his sister. He submitted that it is wrong to say that Buddha did not commit the murder. He received injury caused by the accused at the time of occurrence and accused has been charged because of his gruesome act of committing murder.

14. In the cross-examination P.W.-1 admitted that his sister was married in the Court and he was not present at the time of marriage. He admitted that on the information, he reached to his village where he found that his mother and male child had died and his daughter was badly injured and hospitalized by the police in Trauma Centre. He further admitted that is daughter Shivangi died in Trauma Centre. In his cross-examination, P.W.-2 Ram Chandar admitted that accused - Buddha was brother in law and was of a bad character due to which he was sent to jail number of times. His sister was unhappy due to bad habits of Buddha, therefore, she was married second time with Pancharam. Buddha was having enmity due to the second marriage of his sister and many times he threatened to kill the family members.

P.W.-5, Rajesh brother of P.W.-1 and P.W.-6 Harish Chandra the brother of complainant and P.W.-7 Deshpati, sister of the complainant was also examined before the court. It is worth to be noted here that P.W.-5, P.W.-6 and P.W.-7 are not witnesses of the incident and all the three witnesses have admitted in the cross examination that they were not present at the time of the incident otherwise they have supported the prosecution case to the effect that accused Buddha had enmity with their family due to the reason that Dehspati was married to other man Pancharam. All the three witnesses have stated that due to enmity the accused Buddha has committed the crime by killing Sursati, Suraj and Shivangi.

18. P.W.-9, Dr. Sunil Kumar Yadav was also examined before the court below and he proved the fact that he conducted the postmortem. According to him, Suraj aged about 10 years died prior to half day. He has given opinion that death is due to comma and ante-mortem injuries.

19. P.W.-10, Vinod Kumar Pandey was also examined before the court below and he stated that he conducted the Panchayatnama of deceased Suraj. The Panchayatnama was conducted in presence of Shyam Bihari, Shiv Sagar, Laxman Prasad and Vinod Kumar. He proved the exhibit of Panchayatnama and all the related documents were proved by him.

20. P.W.-11, Kishan Lal Jatav deposed in his examination-in-chief that he was posted as S.I. in Police Station Malihabad on 15.12.2009 and he conducted the investigation of Case Crime No.580 of 2009, under Section 3/25 Arms Act. On the pointing out of the witnesses, he prepared the site plan of the place of occurrence and accused Buddha was charge-sheeted by him on the basis of approval dated 04.02.2010 by the prosecution authority. He proved all the related documents. He further admitted in the examination that he investigated the case under Section 3/25 Arms Act and visited the place of occurrence and prepared the site plan. He stated that he recorded the statement of witnesses who were belonging to the police party and there was no independent witness. He further admitted that recovery of weapon was made in his presence.

21. P.W.-12, Retired Inspector, Chandra Bhan Yadav was also examined before the court. He admitted that the aforesaid Case Crime No.577 of 2009, under Sections 307, 302, 452, 323 I.P.C. was registered in his presence. He further deposed before the court that on the pointing of complainant, the site plan was prepared by him. He also collected the blood stained soil. He also sealed blood stained bed. The entire documents related to the aforesaid proceeding were proved by the witnesses. In his cross-examination, he admitted that S.I., Vinod Kumar Pandey and other police constable reached the place of occurrence, Rakesh Kumar was not appointed as Panch. He further admitted that he did not send the blood stained soil and blood stained clothes for examination by F.S.L. He further admitted that the entire bundle which was sealed by him, was opened before him and they are pertaining to blood stained soil, blood stained cloth and blood stained bed on which case crime numbers are mentioned. P.W.-12 has proved the entire exhibits from exhibit 1 to 14. He also proved exhibit Ka-21 and Ka-19. He admitted that inquest of deceased Sursati was prepared by him on 12.12.2009. He proved the inquest of deceased Sursati as Exhibit - 26.

22. P.W.-13, Constable Tribhuvan Singh was also examined before the court who admitted that he was posted as Constable Moharrir on Police Station Malihabad on 12.12.2009. On the written Tahrir of Rakesh Kumar, the F.I.R. was lodged. Similarly P.W.-14, Raj Veer Singh also deposed that earlier the said case was investigated by S.I., Chandra Bhan Yadav and thereafter, he started the investigation on Parcha - A. He recorded the statement of complainant and his family members. He further admitted that he prepared the recovery memo of blood stained Banka and site plan of the place of incident. He further submitted that on the basis of material collected by him accused Buddha was charge-sheeted by him in Charge Sheet No.38/2010. He proved the related exhibit documents.

23. P.W.-15, S.I. Amrish Kumar was examined before the court below. He submitted that the death memo of Shivangi was made available to him and Panchayatnama was done at 14.20 hours and ended 15.15 hours. He further admitted that the inquest was prepared before him. He proved the inquest report Ex.-30, Ex.-11 and Ex.-12.

24. D.W.-1, Shankar Ram was also examined before the court and he deposed in examination-in-chief that Buddha is known to him who used to ply rickshaw. He further admitted that Buddha was married with Deshpati prior to 6-7 years and she deserted Buddha and married somewhere else. Buddha used to reside with his mother and he came to know in the year 2009 that Buddha was arrested by the police for the reason that he committed murder of his mother-in-law. He further deposed before the court that Buddha was present with him on the night of the incident and he remained with him throughout night. He further deposed that Buddha had never gone to any place. In the cross-examination, D.W.-1 has admitted that his village and village of Buddha is same and he further deposed that Buddha used to ply rickshaw in Lucknow prior to 6-7 years from the date of incident. Buddha was working at brick kiln at Bakshi Ka Talab on the date of incident. Buddha used to come to his house after every 10-15 days. He further admitted that Buddha is his nephew.

25. D.W.-2, Sundar Lal was examined before the court below who deposed that Buddha is son of his elder father and used to work at brick kiln. He further admitted that he was married with working woman at brick kiln and he has no knowledge about the date of the incident. He further deposed that Buddha met him at the morning and evening on the date of the occurrence and Buddha was falsely implicated. He deposed that Buddha did not commit the crime.

26. D.W.-3, Kewal was also produced before the court, who deposed that the incident took place prior to 10 years. He also admitted that Buddha met him in the morning and at evening on the date of occurrence and Buddha was falsely implicated. He also admitted that Buddha used to ply rickshaw at Lucknow.

27. Learned counsel for the appellant-accused has submitted that there is no source of light mentioned in the F.I.R. as well as in the statement of P.W.-1 and the incident took place on 12.12.2009 at 2.00 a.m. He further submitted that there is no description as to how the informant recognized the accused and parentage of the accused, has not been mentioned. The informant has also not mentioned the type of the weapon used by the accused. It has been further submitted that informant has not stated as to how long he had hidden himself during the commission of offence and when the villagers came to the place of occurrence and it has been submitted that the presence of informant at the place of occurrence is highly doubtful.

28. He has further submitted that P.W.-2, Ram Chandar has admitted that he got information on mobile phone that the loot had taken place at his house, therefore, the entire prosecution story appears to be false and the murder took place in the incident of dacoity. He has further submitted that two witnesses of the recovery, namely, Harish Chandra and Rajesh were not produced in the court and their statements were not recorded. It is argued that in absence of the cross examination of the aforesaid two witnesses, the recovery of Banka is false. The recovery is not genuine and the prosecution case is standing on weak footing.

29. Learned counsel for the appellant-accused has further submitted that defence witness-1, Shankar Ram has clearly stated that accused Buddha was present with him in the night of the incident and on the basis of plea of alibi the accused is liable to be acquitted. He has further submitted that D.W.-2 and D.W.-3 deposed before the court that Buddha met them and told that he was not present at the place of occurrence and strong plea of alibi has been pleaded by the counsel for the appellant.

30. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant has further submitted that trial has not been conducted in fair manner and P.W.-1 was not cross-examined in detail. It is, thus, clear that the evidenciary value of the witnesses were destroyed. Lastly, he has further submitted that death punishment was not warranted and it is not coming from the purview of the rarest of the rare case. There is no material which shows that the accused has grave and serious threat to the society.

31. Learned counsel for the appellant has further submitted that there is no source of light mentioned in the F.I.R. It is admitted case that Buddha is brother-in-law of P.W.-1 and they are closely related to each other. It is always easy to recognize the close acquainted relative, even if there is no source of light. The alarm was raised by Suraj, nephew of P.W.-1 and he woke up and made protest and was caused injury by the accused. There is sufficient time and circumstance to recognize Buddha who is close relative of the appellant. The argument of the source of light, has no relevance in the present case. His other argument that two witnesses, namely, Harish Chandra and Rajesh were not produced, has also no relevance. It is worth to be mentioned that Banka was proved by P.W.-14 Constable Raj Veer Singh. He admitted that he prepared recovery memo of blood stained Banka and site plan of the place of incident. The F.S.L. report was obtained and it was found that human blood was found on the Banka. In absence of examination of witnesses, Harish Chandra and Rajesh, recovery of Banka cannot be falsified.

32. P.W.-1, Rakesh Kumar has categorically stated that the accused-Buddha entered into his house at 2.00 a.m. on 12.12.2009 and assaulted his mother, Sursati and nephew Suraj by causing injury with Banka and killed them. He also assaulted his niece Shivangi with Banka who was badly injured and later on died in the Trauma Centre. P.W.-1 has submitted that he is witness of the incident and injury was caused to him by Buddha and his companions with knife. He ran away from the place and could hide himself in the husk-room. It is noted that the blood stained sweater Ex. Ka-2 and injury of P.W.-1 Ex. Ka-3 was proved before the court. It is, thus, clear that P.W.-1 is the eye witness of the incident and strong motive has been assigned behind triple murder. The motive is very strong, the accused had come to kill his ex-wife, the daughter of deceased Sursati. It has already come on record that her ex-wife, Deshpati had returned to her husband's house prior to one day. The accused came to kill her but he could not find Deshpati in the house and the deceased were killed by him out of enmity. The strong motive can be attributed to accused in view of the fact that the deceased mother-in-law was instrumental in the second marriage of Deshpati, due to which accused Buddha had strong motive to eliminate her. Since, the two children were also sleeping side by side of their grandmother and were witnesses of the said incident that is why they were also eliminated by the accused and his companion by making assault on them. In cross-examination, P.W.-1 has admitted that his sister Deshpati was married with accused-Buddha prior to ten years. Buddha was a drunkard and did not do anything to earn livelihood for sustenance of the family. His sister was beaten many times by Buddha, that is why P.W.-1 and his family members married his sister second time with Pancharam, the resident of Barabanki. In cross-examination, it is admitted by P.W.-1 that his sister Deshpati had come to his house one day before and she had returned back to her husband's house. It is further stated that Buddha had information that his sister was present in his house that is why he came to kill her but killed his mother Surasati, nephew Suraj and niece Shivangi. It is direct evidence against the accused.

33. P.W.-1 is the eye witness who was present at the place of occurrence. P.W.-1, Rakesh Kumar, P.W.-2 Ram Chandar, P.W.-5, Rajesh, P.W.-6 Harish Chandra, P.W.-7 Deshpati have strongly attributed the strong motive behind killing of Sursati, Suraj and Shivangi. P.W.-7, Deshpati has stated that Buddha was married with her and did not do any work for sustenance of the family and she further stated that she was married second time with Pancharam that is why Buddha had enmity with her and entire family. She further stated that prior to one day she had returned back to her husband's residence. It is further relevant to mention here that the marriage of Buddha with Deshpati was admitted by D.W.-1 Shankar Ram and D.W.-2 Sundar Lal, thus, the strong motive can be attributed to the accused in the present case.

34. The prosecution witness, Nazrul Hasan P.W.-4, deposed before the court that Buddha was arrested by him on 15.12.2009 and on his pointing out Banka Ex.-5 was recovered which was proved in the court. F.S.L. report on the Banka was also obtained from laboratory and the human blood was found on the Banka. As per report, the recovery of Banka was also proved before the court. S.I. Vinod Kumar Pandey (P.W.-10) had proved the inquest report of deceased Suraj, Shivangi and all the documents relating to the inquest proceedings have been proved in the court.

35. Chandra Bhan Yadav (P.W.-12) had collected the blood stained soil and sweater and exhibit of the same were proved. He proved the entire Ex.-1 to Ex.-14 related to sweater, blood stained soil, box, soil, the bed, the hair of the deceased, bundle, papers etc. The blood stain was found on sweater, Kathari, blood stained soil, Saree, Blouse, Petticoat, Pant.

36. The inquest of deceased, Sursati, the Police Form No.13, photographs were also proved by the I.O. Chandra Bhan Yadav before the court. Similarly, the inquest of deceased Shivangi and all the related papers of Shivangi including postmortem were also proved. The postmortem of Sursati was also proved before the court by Dr. S.N.S. Yadav (P.W.-8). The doctor had deposed before the court that deceased Shivangi and Sursati were assaulted on their face and head with sharp edged weapon and they received many injuries. The doctor further admitted that the deceased died due to ante-mortem injuries. The postmortem of Suraj was also proved by Dr. Sunil Kumar Yadav (P.W.-9) who stated that Suraj also received injury with sharp-edged weapon on his face and head. He also opined that Suraj died due to ante-mortem injuries. The site plan prepared by Chandra Bhan Yadav (P.W.12) also proved as Ex.-Ka-28. He also proved blood stained sweater, box and lighter. The I.O., Raj Veer Singh (P.W.14) also proved the recovery of the Arm and he also proved the site plan and the F.I.R. in Case Crime No.577 of 2009, under Sections 307, 302, 452, 323 I.P.C.

37. D.W.-1 was examined before the court below who said that accused Buddha was present with him in the night of occurrence but in cross examination the said witness has admitted that Buddha used to work at brick kiln situated at Bakshi Ka Talab. The timing was not ascertained as to when he used to come. He admitted that Buddha was his nephew. Similarly, D.W.-2, Sundar Lal deposed before the court that he met with Buddha in the morning and at the evening. It was further stated that Buddha used to work at Barabanki, Sitapur, Lucknow and used to come after one week. D.W.-3 had admitted that Buddha met him in the morning and evening on the date of occurrence. He also admitted that Buddha used to ply rickshaw in Lucknow but he could not tell as to when Buddha used to come to village. All three defence witnesses did not make statement either before Investigating Officer or Superintendent of Police regarding the presence of Buddha. These witnesses could not produced credible evidence to prove the plea of alibi. Thus, the plea of alibi is not trustworthy.

38. P.W.-1 Rakesh Kumar received injury Ex.Ka-3, which is not serious one but he had received two cut wound 1 cm x

1.5 cm, deep muscle on the right palm. The second cut injury 1 cm x 2 cm deep muscle on left side. Though, the doctor was not examined but the injured witness Rakesh Kumar had deposed before the court that he received two injuries on his hand and ran away from the place and could hide himself to save his life. It is, thus, clear that P.W.-1 was assaulted and is the witness of incident, therefore, the prosecution has proved the case beyond reasonable doubt.

39. Accused - Buddha was arrested on 15.12.2009 and there was recovery of 12 bore country made pistol, two live cartridges of 12 bore. The said fact was admitted by Nazrul Hasan (P.W.-4) in the court during examination-in-chief. Exhibits of recovery was also proved and the site plan for recovery, the charge sheet Ex.Ka-17 were proved by Kishan Lal Jatav (P.W-11).

40. The defence counsel has vehemently argued that it was the case of dacoity and murders were committed. P.W.-2 Ram Chandar got information that there was dacoity in his house. It is astonishing as to how the information of loot was given to Ram Chandar (P.W.-2) and why the information of murder was not given to him. It is, thus, clear that the prosecution cannot be disbelieved on the aforesaid statement of Ram Chandar (P.W.-2) who is not witness of the case. The statement of P.W.-1, Rakesh goes to show that accused - Buddha was arrested and on his pointing out the weapon of assault Banka was recovered. There was human blood found on it. P.W.-1 has narrated the manner of assault by the accused and how the deceased were mercilessly assaulted by accused. The prosecution case is intact and cannot be disbelieved. The argument that there is no independent witness of the case, has no relevancy in the present case. The statement of P.W.-1, P.W.-2, P.W.-5, P.W.-6 and P.W.-7, if perused together, the prosecution case is intact and there is no iota of doubt that accused has not committed the crime. Though, there is no independent witness but the entire prosecution case as stated by the aforesaid witnesses goes to show that offence has been committed by the accused. The formal witnesses have proved the documents and the weapon used in furtherance of crime.

41. It is true that capital punishment is discussed in the social and judicial platform frequently. Undisputedly, neither possible nor prudent to state any cursory form which would be applicable to all the cases of criminology whether capital punishment has been prescribed. Each cases should be examined on its own fact in the light of the principles for death penalty, the circumstances of the offender are also required to be taken into consideration along with the circumstance of crime for the reason that life imprisonment is the rule and death sentence is an exception.

42. Before going into the propriety of sentence imposed upon the accused - appellant, we have to deal the cases with respect to the death penalty and a glance is required to be taken in view of the judgment of Hon'ble the Supreme Court.

43. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Bachan Singh Vs. State of Punjab : AIR 1980 SC 898 has dealt the capital punishment in detail. The relevant paragraph of the judgment is reproduced here-in-below:-

"132. To sum up, the question whether or not death penalty serves any penological purpose is a difficult, complex and intractable issue. It has evoked strong, divergent views. For the purpose of testing the constitutionality of the impugned provision as to death penalty in Section 302 of the Penal Code on the ground of reasonableness in the light of Articles 19 and 21 of the Constitution, it is not necessary for us to express any categorical opinion, one way or the other, as to which of these two antithetical views, held by the Abolitionists and Retentionists, is correct. It is sufficient to say that the very fact that persons of reason, learning and light are rationally and deeply divided in their opinion on this issue, is a ground among others, for rejecting the petitioners argument that retention of death penalty in the impugned provision, is totally devoid of reason and purpose. If, notwithstanding the view of the Abolitionists to the contrary, a very large segment of people, the world over, including sociologists, legislators, jurists, judges and administrators still firmly believe in the worth and necessity of capital punishment for the protection of society, if in the perspective of prevailing crime conditions in India, contemporary public opinion channelized through the people's representatives in Parliament, has repeatedly in the last three decades, rejected all attempts, including the one made recently, to abolish or specifically restrict the area of death penalty, if death penalty is still a recognised legal sanction for murder or some types of murder in most of the civilised countries in the world, if the framers of the Indian Constitution were fully aware -- as we shall presently show they were -- of the existence of death penalty as punishment for murder, under the Indian Penal Code, if the 35th Report and subsequent reports of the Law Commission suggesting retention of death penalty, and recommending revision of the Criminal Procedure Code and the insertion of the new Sections 235 (2) and 354 (3) in that Code providing for presentence hearing and sentencing procedure on conviction for murder and other capital offences were before the Parliament and presumably considered by it when in 1972-1973 it took up revision of the Code of 1898 and replaced it by the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, it is not possible to hold that the provision of death penalty as an alternative punishment for murder, in Section 302 of the Penal Code is unreasonable and not in the public interest. We would, therefore, conclude that the impugned provision in Section 302, violates neither the letter nor the ethos of Article 19."

"200. Drawing upon the penal statutes of the States in U.S.A. framed after Furman v, Georgia, in general, and Clauses 2(a), (b), (c), and (d) of the Indian Penal Code (Amendment) Bill passed in 1978 by the Rajya Sabha, in particular, Dr. Chitale has suggested these "aggravating circumstances":

"Aggravating circumstances : A Court may, however, in the following cases impose the penalty of death in its discretion:

(a) if the murder has been committed after previous planning and involves extreme brutality; or

(b) if the murder involves exceptional depravity; or

(c) if the murder is of a member of any of the armed forces of the Union or of a member of any police force or of any public servant and was committed-

(i) while such member or public servant was on duty; or

(ii) in consequence of anything done or attempted to be done by such member or public servant in the lawful discharge of his duty as such member or public servant whether at the time of

murder he was such member or public servant, as the case may be, or had ceased to be such member or public servant; or

(d) if the murder is of a person who had acted in the lawful discharge of his duty under Section 43 of the CrPC, 1973, or who had rendered assistance to a Magistrate or a police officer demanding his aid or requiring his assistance under Section 37 and Section 129 of the said Code.

201. Stated broadly, there can be no objection to the acceptance of these indicators but as we have indicated already, we would prefer not to fetter judicial discretion by attempting to make an exhaustive enumeration one way or the other.

204. Dr. Chitaley has suggested these mitigating factors:

"Mitigating circumstances":- In the exercise of its discretion in the above cases, the Court shall take into account the following circumstances:

(1) That the offence was committed under the influence of extreme mental or emotional disturbance.

(2) The age of the accused. It the accused is young or old, he shall not be sentenced to death.

(3) The probability that the accused would not commit criminal acts of violence as would constitute a continuing threat to society. (4) The probability that the accused can be reformed and rehabilitated. The State shall by evidence prove that the accused does not satisfy the conditions 3 and 4 above.

(4) The probability that the accused can be reformed and rehabilitated. The State shall by evidence prove that the accused does not satisfy the conditions 3 and 4 above.

(5) That in the facts and circumstances of the case the accused believed that he was morally justified in committing the offence.

(6) That the accused acted under the duress or domination of another person.

(7) That the condition of the accused showed that he was mentally defective and that the said defect unpaired his capacity to appreciate the criminality of his conduct.

207. We will do no more than to say that these are undoubtedly relevant circumstances and must be given great weight in the determination of sentence.

209. There are numerous other circumstances justifying the passing of the lighter sentence; as there are countervailing circumstances of aggravation. "We cannot obviously feed into a a judicial computer all such situations since they are astrological imponderables in an imperfect and undulating society." Nonetheless, it cannot be over-emphasised that the scope and concept of mitigating factors in the area of death penalty must receive a liberal and expansive construction by the courts in accord with the sentencing policy writ large in Section 354 (3). Judges should never be bloodthirsty. Hanging of murderers has never been too good for them. Facts and figures albeit incomplete, furnished by the Union of India, show that in the past Courts have inflicted the extreme penalty with extreme infrequency - a fact which attests to the caution and compassion which they have always brought to bear on the exercise of their sentencing discretion in so grave a matter. It is, therefore, imperative to voice the concern that courts, aided by the broad illustrative guidelines indicated by us, will discharge the onerous function with evermore scrupulous care and humane concern, directed along the high-road of legislative policy outlined in Section 354 (3), viz., that for persons convicted of murder, life imprisonment is the rule and death sentence an exception. A real and abiding concern for the dignity of human life postulates resistance to taking a life through law's instrumentality. That ought not to be done save in the rarest of rare cases when the alternative option is unquestionably foreclosed."

44. The law propounded by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Macchi Singh Vs. State of Punjab : (1983) 3 SCC 470 is also worth to be looked into from the point of view of the rarest of rare case and two questions have been formulated to determine the rarest of rare cases in which the death sentence can be awarded. The two questions formulated in the said case is quoted here-in-below:-

"(i) Is there something uncommon, which tenders sentence for imprisonment for life inadequate calls for death sentence ?

(ii) Rather the circumstances of the crime such that there is no alternative, but to impose the death sentence even after according maximum weightage to the mitigating circumstances which speaks in favour of the offender ?"

45. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Macchi Singh v. State of Punjab (supra), then, proceeded to lay down the circumstances in which death sentence may be imposed for the crime of murder and has held as under :

"32. The reasons why the community as a whole does not endorse the humanistic approach reflected in "death sentence-in-no-case" doctrine are not far to seek. In the first place, the very humanistic edifice is constructed on the foundation of "reverence for life" principle. When a member of the community violates this very principle by killing another member, the society may not feel itself bound by the shackles of this doctrine. Secondly, it has to be realized that every member of the community is able to live with safety without his or her own life being endangered because of the protective arm of the community and on account of the rule of law enforced by it. The very existence of the rule of law and the fear of being brought to book operates as a deterrent for those who have no scruples in killing others if it suits their ends. Every member of the community owes a debt to the community for this protection. When ingratitude is shown instead of gratitude by "killing" a member of the community which protects the murderer himself from being killed, or when the community feels that for the sake of self-preservation the killer has to be killed, the community may well withdraw the protection by sanctioning the death penalty. But the community will not do so in every case. It may do so "in rarest of rare cases" when its collective conscience is so shocked that it will expect the holders of the judicial power centre to inflict death penalty irrespective of their personal opinion as regards desirability or otherwise of retaining death penalty. The community may entertain such a sentiment when the crime is viewed from the platform of the motive for, or the manner of commission of the crime, or the anti-social or abhorrent nature of the crime, such as for instance:

I. Manner of commission of murder

33. When the murder is committed in an extremely brutal, grotesque, diabolical, revolting or dastardly manner so as to arouse intense and extreme indignation of the community. For instance,

(i) when the house of the victim is set aflame with the end in view to roast him alive in the house.

(ii) when the victim is subjected to inhuman acts of torture or cruelty in order to bring about his or her death.

(iii) when the body of the victim is cut into pieces or his body is dismembered in a fiendish manner.

II. Motive for commission of murder

34. When the murder is committed for a motive which evinces total depravity and meanness. For instance when

(a) a hired assassin commits murder for the sake of money or reward

(b) a cold-blooded murder is committed with a deliberate design in order to inherit property or to gain control over property of a ward or a person under the control of the murderer or vis-a-vis whom the murderer is in a dominating position or in a position of trust, or

(c) a murder is committed in the course for betrayal of the motherland.

III. Anti-social or socially abhorrent nature of the crime

35. (a) When murder of a member of a Scheduled Caste or minority community etc., is committed not for personal reasons but in circumstances which arouse social wrath. For instance when such a crime is committed in order to terrorize such persons and frighten them into fleeing from a place or in order to deprive them of, or make them surrender, lands or benefits conferred on them with a view to reverse past injustices and in order to restore the social balance.

(b) In cases of "bride burning" and what are known as "dowry deaths" or when murder is committed in order to remarry for the sake of extracting dowry once again or to marry another woman on account of infatuation.

IV. Magnitude of crime

36. When the crime is enormous in proportion. For instance when multiple murders say of all or almost all the members of a family or a large number of persons of a particular caste, community, or locality, are committed.

V. Personality of victim of murder

37. When the victim of murder is (a) an innocent child who could not have or has not provided even an excuse, much less a provocation, for murder (b) a helpless woman or a person rendered helpless by old age or infirmity (c) when the victim is a person vis-a-vis whom the murderer is in a position of domination or trust (d) when the victim is a public figure generally loved and respected by the community for the services rendered by him and the murder is committed for political or similar reasons other than personal reasons.

38. In this background, the guidelines indicated in Bachan Singh case will have to be culled out and applied to the facts of each individual case where the question of imposing of death sentence arises. The following propositions emerge from Bachan Singh case.

(i) The extreme penalty of death need not be inflicted except in gravest cases of extreme culpability.

(ii) Before opting for the death penalty the circumstances of the 'offender' also require to be taken into consideration along with the circumstances of the 'crime'.

(iii) Life Imprisonment is the rule and death sentence is an exception. In other words death sentence must be imposed only when life imprisonment appears to be an altogether inadequate punishment having regard to the relevant circumstances of the crime, and provided, and only provided, the option to impose sentence of imprisonment for life cannot be conscientiously exercised having regard to the nature and circumstances of the crime and all the relevant circumstances.

(iv) A balance-sheet of aggravating and mitigating circumstances has to be drawn up and in doing so the mitigating circumstances has to be accorded full weightage and a just balance has to be struck between the aggravating and the mitigating circumstances before the option is exercised."

46. In the case of Macchi Singh Vs. State of Punjab (supra) Hon'ble the Supreme Court has confirmed the death sentence awarded to Kashmir Singh, as he was found guilty of causing death to a poor child aged about 6 years.

47. The law propounded by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Bachan Singh and Macchi Singh (supra) are the source for deciding a case whether death penalty has been awarded and till today the aforesaid cases are the very important to weigh the conviction of death penalty. The principle for looking into the death penalty can be seen in the following three principles:-

(i) Conviction based on circumstantial evidence alone.

(ii) Failure of the prosecution to discharge its onus.

(iii) A case of residual dues.

(iv) Where the other peculiar mitigating circumstances outweighed aggravating circumstances.

48. The issue has again came up before Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ramnaresh & others v. State of Chhattisgarh : (2012) 4 SCC 257, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court reiterated 13 aggravating and 7 mitigating circumstances as laid down in the case of Bachan Singh v. State of Punjab (Supra) required to be taken into consideration while applying the doctrine of "rarest of rare" case. The relevant para of the aforeaid judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court reads as under :

"76. The law enunciated by this Court in its recent judgements, as already noticed, adds and elaborates the principles that were stated in the case of Bachan Singh (supra) and thereafter, in the case of Machhi Singh (supra). The aforesaid judgments, primarily dissect these principles into two different compartments - one being the "aggravating circumstances" while the other being the "mitigating circumstances". The Court would consider the cumulative effect of both these aspects and normally, it may not be very appropriate for the Court to decide the most significant aspect of sentencing policy with reference to one of the classes under any of the following heads while completely ignoring other classes under other heads. To balance the two is the primary duty of the Court. It will be appropriate for the Court to come to a final conclusion upon balancing the exercise that would help to administer the criminal justice system better and provide an effective and meaningful reasoning by the Court as contemplated under Section 354 (3) of Cr.P.C.

Aggravating Circumstances:

(1) The offences relating to the commission of heinous crimes like murder, rape, armed dacoity, kidnapping etc. by the accused with a prior record of conviction for capital felony or offences committed by the person having a substantial history of serious assaults and criminal convictions.

(2) The offence was committed while the offender was engaged in the commission of another serious offence.

(3) The offence was committed with the intention to create a fear psychosis in the public at large and was committed in a public place by a weapon or device which clearly could be hazardous to the life of more than one person.

(4) The offence of murder was committed for ransom or like offences to receive money or monetary benefits.

(5) Hired killings.

(6) The offence was committed outrageously for want only while involving inhumane treatment and torture to the victim.

(7) The offence was committed by a person while in lawful custody.

(8) The murder or the offence was committed to prevent a person lawfully carrying out his duty like arrest or custody in a place of lawful confinement of himself or another. For instance, murder is of a person who had acted in lawful discharge of his duty under Section 43 Cr.P.C.

(9) When the crime is enormous in proportion like making an attempt of murder of the entire family or members of a particular community.

(10) When the victim is innocent, helpless or a person relies upon the trust of relationship and social norms, like a child, helpless woman, a daughter or a niece staying with a father/uncle and is inflicted with the crime by such a trusted person.

(11) When murder is committed for a motive which evidences total depravity and meanness.

(12) When there is a cold blooded murder without provocation.

(13) The crime is committed so brutally that it pricks or shocks not only the judicial conscience but even the conscience of the society.

Mitigating Circumstances:

(1) The manner and circumstances in and under which the offence was committed, for example, extreme mental or emotional disturbance or extreme provocation in contradistinction to all these situations in normal course.

(2) The age of the accused is a relevant consideration but not a determinative factor by itself.

(3) The chances of the accused of not indulging in commission of the crime again and the probability of the accused being reformed and rehabilitated.

(4) The condition of the accused shows that he was mentally defective and the defect impaired his capacity to appreciate the circumstances of his criminal conduct.

(5) The circumstances which, in normal course of life, would render such a behavior possible and could have the effect of giving rise to mental imbalance in that given situation like persistent harassment or, in fact, leading to such a peak of human behavior that, in the facts and circumstances of the case, the accused believed that he was morally justified in committing the offence.

(6) Where the Court upon proper appreciation of evidence is of the view that the crime was not committed in a pre-ordained manner and that the death resulted in the course of commission of another crime and that there was a possibility of it being construed as consequences to the commission of the primary crime.

(7) Where it is absolutely unsafe to rely upon the testimony of a sole eye-witness though prosecution has brought home the guilt of the accused."

49. In Sk Abdul Hamid vs. State of MP reported in (1998) 3 SCC 188, while dealing with the question of sentence for the offence of murder, has observed thus:-

"9. Now, coming to the death sentence awarded to the appellants which was confirmed by the High Court, it may be noted that under sub-section (3) of Section 354 CrPC when the conviction is for an offence punishable with death or in the alternative, with an imprisonment for life, the Court is required to state reasons for sentence awarded, and in case of sentence of death, the special reasons for such sentence are to be given. Thus, under the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, life imprisonment for the offence of murder is the rule and death sentence is an exception to be resorted to for special reasons to be recorded by the Court. This Court in a number of decisions has laid down guidelines when the extreme penalty of death sentence is to be awarded. (See: Bachan Singh v. State of Punjab and Machhi Singh v. State of Punjab.) In these cases, it was pointed out that death penalty could be awarded in the rarest of rare cases and the circumstance, when the murder is committed in an extremely brutal, grotesque, diabolical, revolting or dastardly manner, so as to arouse intense and extreme indignation of the community would fall within the category of the rarest of rare cases.

10. Special reasons given by the trial court in awarding death sentence to the appellants and confirmed by the High Court, were that it was such a cruel act where the appellants have not even spared the innocent child and the motive being to grab the property. We have given our earnest consideration to the question of sentence and the reasons given by the High Court for awarding death sentence to the appellants. Having regard to the guidelines stated above, it may be noticed that in the present case it was not pointed out by the prosecution that it was a cold-blooded murder. There is nothing on record to show how the murder has taken place. In the absence of such evidence, we do not find that the case before us falls within the category of the rarest of rare cases, deserving extreme penalty of death. Keeping in view the afore-stated facts, we are of the view that the ends of justice would be met if we substitute the death sentence with that of life imprisonment under Sections 302/34 IPC, while upholding the appellants' conviction, as recorded by the High Court."

50. In the matter of Dharam Deo Yadav vs. State of UP reported in (2014) 5 SCC 509, the Supreme Court has held thus:-

"36. We may now consider whether the case falls under the category of rarest of the rare case so as to award death sentence for which, as already held, in Shankar Kisanrao Khade v. State of Maharashtra (2013) 5 SCC 546 this Court laid down three tests, namely, Crime Test, Criminal Test and RR Test. So far as the present case is concerned, both the Crime Test and Criminal Test have been satisfied as against the accused. Learned counsel appearing for the accused, however, submitted that he had no previous criminal records and that apart from the circumstantial evidence, there is no eye-witness in the above case, and hence, the manner in which the crime was committed is not in evidence. Consequently, it was pointed out that it would not be possible for this Court to come to the conclusion that the crime was committed in a barbaric manner and, hence the instant case would not fall under the category of rarest of rare. We find some force in that contention. Taking in consideration all aspects of the matter, we are of the view that, due to lack of any evidence with regard to the manner in which the crime was committed, the case will not fall under the category of rarest of rare case. Consequently, we are inclined to commute the death sentence to life and award 20 years of rigorous imprisonment, over and above the period already undergone by the accused, without any remission, which, in our view, would meet the ends of justice."

51. In Kalu Khan v. State of Rajasthan reported in (2015) 16 SCC 492, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that:-

"30. In Mahesh Dhanaji Shinde v. State of Maharashtra, the conviction of the appellant-accused was upheld keeping in view that the circumstantial evidence pointed only in the direction of their guilt given that the modus operandi of the crime, homicidal death, identity of 9 of 10 victims, last seen theory and other incriminating circumstances were proved. However, the Court has thought it fit to commute the sentence of death to imprisonment for life considering the age, socio-economic conditions, custodial behaviour of the appellant-accused persons and that the case was entirely based on circumstantial evidence. This Court has placed reliance on the observations in Sunil Dutt Sharma v. State (Govt. of NCT of Delhi) as follows: (Mahesh Dhanaji case, SCC p. 314, para 35)

"35. In a recent pronouncement in Sunil Dutt Sharma v. State (Govt. of NCT of Delhi), it has been observed by this Court that the principles of sentencing in our country are fairly well settled -- the difficulty is not in identifying such principles but lies in the application thereof. Such application, we may respectfully add, is a matter of judicial expertise and experience where judicial wisdom must search for an answer to the vexed question -- Whether the option of life sentence is unquestionably foreclosed? The unbiased and trained judicial mind free from all prejudices and notions is the only asset which would guide the Judge to reach the "truth'."

31. In the instant case, admittedly the entire web of evidence is circumstantial. The appellant-accused's culpability rests on various independent evidence, such as, him being "last seen" with the deceased before she went missing; the extra-judicial confession of his co-accused before PW 1 and the village members; corroborative testimonies of the said village members to the extra-judicial confession and recovery of the deceased's body; coupled with the medical evidence which when joined together paint him in the blood of the deceased. While the said evidence proves the guilt of the appellant-accused and makes this a fit case for conviction, it does not sufficiently convince the judicial mind to entirely foreclose the option of a sentence lesser than the death penalty. Even though there are no missing links in the chain, the evidence also does not sufficiently provide any direct indicia whereby irrefutable conclusions can be drawn with regard to the nexus between "the crime" and "the criminal". Undoubtedly, the aggravating circumstances reflected through the nature of the crime and young age of the victim make the crime socially abhorrent and demand harsh punishment. However, there exist the circumstances such as there being no criminal antecedents of the appellant-accused and the entire case having been rested on circumstantial evidence including the extra-judicial confession of a co-accused. These factors impregnate the balance of circumstances and introduce uncertainty in the "culpability calculus" and thus, persuade us that death penalty is not an inescapable conclusion in the instant case. We are inclined to conclude that in the present scenario an alternate to the death penalty, that is, imprisonment for life would be appropriate punishment in the present circumstances."

52. In Allauddin Mian v. State of Bihar reported in (1989) 3 SCC 5, it was laid down that unless the nature of crime and the circumstances of the offender reveal that the criminal was a menace to the society and the sentence of life imprisonment would be altogether inadequate, the court should ordinarily impose a lesser punishment and not the extreme punishment of death which should be reserved for exceptional cases only.

53. In A. Devendran v. State of Tamil Nadu reported in (1997) 11 SCC 720, which is a case of triple murder, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the trial court was not justified in awarding death sentence as the accused had no pre-meditated plan to kill any person and as the main object was to commit robbery.

54. In Om Prakash v. State of Haryana reported in (1999) 3 SCC 19, a dispute over a small house between two neighbours resulted in the murder of seven persons. Death sentence was imposed on the accused by the trial court which was confirmed by the appellate court. The Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that the bitterness increased to a boiling point and the agony suffered by the appellant and his family members at the hands of the other party, and for not getting protection from the police officers concerned or total inaction despite repeated written prayers, goaded or compelled the accused to take law in his own hands which culminated in the gruesome murders. The accused was a BSF Jawan aged 23 at the time of incident. The Hon'ble Supreme Court commuted the death penalty to imprisonment for life.

55. In the case of Accused 'X' v. State of Maharashtra, reported in (2019) 7 SCC 1, the Supreme Court, while considering the post-conviction mental illness of accused/death row convict as mitigating factor, has observed as under:

"55. Having observed some of the general aspects of sentencing, it is necessary to consider the aspect of post-conviction mental illness as mitigating factor in the analysis of ''rarest of the rare' doctrine which has come into force post Bachan Singh case (supra).

56. As a starting point, we need to refer to Piare Dusadh v. King Emperor, AIR 1944 FC 1, that has already recognized pos-conviction mental illness as a mitigating factor in the following manner: (SCC OnLine FC)

"Case No. 47-The applicant in this case was convicted by a Special Judge of the offence of murder and was sentenced to death on 30.9.1942. His appeal to the Allahabad High Court was dismissed and the sentence of death was confirmed.

The appellant is a young man of 25 who has been twice widowed. His victim was his aunt, 30 years of age, whose husband (Kanchan) had about six years previously murdered his own brother, appellant's father. Kanchan was sentenced to death for the murder, but lost his reason while awaiting the execution of the death sentence, and is now detained as a lunatic.

The evidence in this case leaves no room for doubt that the appellant was rightly convicted of murder. There is some confusion as to the exact motive for the undoubtedly brutal assault of which the appellant made his aunt the victim. The prosecution alleged that the appellant being a widower was chagrined by the refusal of his aunt to become his mistress. In his statement before, the Special Judge he said that another uncle (P.W. 7) who according to the appellant was behind the prosecution was on terms of improper intimacy with the deceased and resented even small acts of kindness on the part of the deceased towards the appellant. In the appeal preferred by him through the jail authorities to the High Court, the appellant stated that his aunt was a woman of loose character and was pursuing him with unwelcome attentions. The previous history of this family indicates that the appellant probably suffers from an unbalanced mind. The nature and ferocity of the assault upon his aunt appear to confirm this. In committing the offence the appellant must have been actuated by jealousy or by indignation either of which would tend further to disturb the balance of his mind. He has besides been awaiting the execution of his death sentence for over a year. We think that in this case a sentence of transportation for life would be more appropriate than the sentence of death. We accordingly reduce the sentence of death to one of transportation for life and subject to this modification dismiss the appeal."

However, this case does not provide any guidelines or the threshold for evaluating what kind of mental illness needs to be taken into consideration by the Courts.

57. We note that, usually, mitigating factors are associated with the criminal and aggravating factors are relatable to commission of the crime. These mitigating factors include considerations such as the accused's age, socio-economic condition etc. We note that the ground claimed by "accused x' is arising after a long time-gap after crime and conviction. Therefore, the justification to include the same as a mitigating factor does not tie in with the equities of the case, rather the normative justification is founded in the Constitution as well as the jurisprudence of the "rarest of the rare' doctrine. It is now settled that the death penalty can only be imposed in the rarest of the rare case which requires a consideration of the totality of circumstances. In this light, we have to assess the inclusion of post-conviction mental illness as a determining factor to disqualify as a "rarest of the rare' case.

59. All human beings possess the capacities inherent in their nature even though, because of infancy, disability, or senility, they may not yet, not now, or no longer have the ability to exercise them. When such disability occurs, a person may not be in a position to understand the implications of his actions and the consequence it entails. In this situation, the execution of such a person would lower the majesty of law.

71.1 That the post-conviction severe mental illness will be a mitigating factor that the appellate court, in appropriate cases, needs to consider while sentencing an accused to death penalty."

56. In the light of above proposition of law, we are required to scrutinize the case in hand minutely to find out whether the case falls under the category of "rarest of the rare case", whether imposition of death penalty, which is an exception, would be the only appropriate & meaningful sentence and whether imprisonment for life which is the rule would not be adequate and would not meet the ends of justice.

57. The court has awarded the death punishment making observation that accused - Buddha committed gruesome act of murder of mother of P.W.-1 aged about 65 years, nephew of P.W.-1 Suraj aged about 10 years and niece of P.W.-1 Shivangi aged about 6 years by using sharp aged weapon i.e. Banka. The court has recorded the finding to award death punishment for the reason that deceased Sursati was caused many injuries on her face and neck, Incised wound 2.5 cm X 1 cm X bone deep present on right side face. Incised wound 3 cm X 1 cm X bone deep present on right side near the below injury no.1. Incised wound 2 cm X 1 cm X Bone deep present on right side forehead 2 cm above right eyebrow. Incised wound bone deep present on left cheek. Multiple Incised wound in an area 18 cm X 12 cm present on face & head. Similarly, Suraj 10 years old received Multiple incised wound in area 18 cm X 12 cm present on left side face and head 3 cm behind outer angle of the left eye size has varies from 3 cm X 1 cm into bone deep to 8 cm X 3 cm in brain cavity deep. Similarly, 6 years' old Shivangi also received multiple incised wound in an area 18 cm X 12 cm present in right side face & right side head joint in-front of right ear size varying from 2.5 cm X 1 cm X Bone deep to 7 cm X 2 cm X Brain cavity deep. The court below has recorded the finding that looking into the inhuman act of the accused, it is obvious that he does not deserve any mercy as he committed murder of three deceased. All the three deceased were innocent and helpless and Buddha had enmity with his wife - Deshpati but he committed murder of the three innocent person and the said act is not pardonable. The court below recorded the finding that in view of the law declared by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the Case of Bachan Singh and Macchi Sigh (supra), the case is coming within the purview of the aggravating circumstances and death punishment was awarded on the aforesaid facts. The court below has further mentioned that though the age of the accused is 50 years and at the time of the incident he was aged about 40 years but there is no mitigating circumstance and he is liable to be punished for the death sentence.

58. The law propounded by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Ramnaresh (supra) is relevant in the present facts and circumstances of the case, particularly, the mitigating circumstances which is discussed in para 76 of the said judgment. Seven points have been formulated for mitigating circumstances:-

"(1) The manner and circumstances in and under which the offence was committed and number (7) wherein it is propounded that upon the testimony of a sole eye-witness whether the death penalty can be converted to life imprisonment.

59. In the present case, we see that there is only one eye-witness i.e. P.W.-1, who has seen the occurrence though he was able to prove the case beyond reasonable doubt but in our opinion, it is not the case coming within the purview of rarest of rare case to award capital punishment on the basis of the sole eye witness i.e. P.W.-1. The point no.1 regarding the mitigating circumstances discussed in the case of Ramnaresh (supra) is also relevant because in the present case, the accused had gone to kill his wife, the sister of P.W.-1, who had performed second marriage, but she was not found and in the aggravated mental situation he found his mother-in-law and two children in the house and killed them. The point no.5 of mitigating circumstances in the case of Ramnaresh (supra) is also relevant which discusses possible behaviour could have effect of giving rise to mental imbalance in that given situation like persistent harassment or in fact leading to such a peak of human behaviour that, in that circumstance of the case, the accused believed that he was morally justified in committing the offence. In the present case, the fact is borne out that he was upset because his wife had married second time leaving him aside and he was getting continuous and persisting pain, perhaps that was cause to commit the crime.

60. It is true that the manner in which crime was committed with Banka, is brutal, cruel and gruesome but looking into the aforesaid circumstances, mental state of the accused and case of single testimony of eye witness, and persistent harassment due to separation of wife, the offence was committed. This could be on account of frustration, mental stress or because of emotional disorder which would be mitigating circumstances to be taken note of.

61. Shri Raza Zaheer, learned Amicus Curiae appearing on behalf of the appellant-Buddha has argued that the trial Court was not right in holding that there was a common intention among the convict/appellant and two other unknown assailants to cause the death of the deceased so as to invoke Section 34 IPC, hence conviction and sentence of the convict/appellant with the aid of Section 34 I.P.C. is liable to be set-aside.

62. To attract applicability of Section 34 IPC, the prosecution is under an obligation to establish that there existed a common intention before a person can be vicariously convicted for the criminal act of another. The ultimate act should be done in furtherance of common intention. Common intention requires a pre-arranged plan, which can be even formed at the spur of the moment or simultaneously just before or even during the attack. For proving common intention, the prosecution can rely upon direct proof of prior concert or circumstances which necessarily lead to that inference. However, incriminating facts must be incompatible with the innocence of the accused and incapable of explanation by any other reasonable hypothesis. Thus, an overt act is not a requirement of law for Section 34 IPC to operate but prosecution must establish that the persons concerned shared the common intention, which can be also gathered from the proved facts.

63. When this Court apply the aforesaid principles relating to applicability of Section 34 IPC to the facts of the present case, this Court is of the view that convict/appellant is entitled to the benefit of doubt on the ground that it cannot be with certainty held that convict/appellant had common intention, viz. none of the prosecution witnesses deposed before the trial Court that before the incident, convict/appellant and other two unknown assailants had met and planned the crime nor the prosecution had stated that the convict/appellant armed with deadly weapon had entered the house of the informant and committed the murder of the deceased but the evidence of the informant P.W.1-Rakesh Kumar shows that on the date of the incident at about 2:00 a.m., when convict/appellant and two other assailants entered into the house, his nephew raised alarm and on his alarm, he woke up and saw that convict/appellant and other two assailants assaulted his mother. Thus, the prosecution has failed to establish the common intention of the convict/appellant to murder the deceased, hence conviction and sentence of the convict/appellant for the offence with the aid of Section 34 I.P.C. is not sustainable.

64. In view of the foregoing discussions, we pass the following order :--

(A) Capital Case No. 02 of 2020

As the appellant has murdered the deceased, which was his individual act and he is responsible for the same, hence he is liable to be convicted for the offence under Section 302, 307, 323, 452 I.P.C. as ''simpliciter'.

Accordingly, this Court modify the conviction of the appellant for the offences under Sections 302/34, 307/34, 323/34 and 452/34 I.P.C to Section 302, 307, 323, 452 I.P.C. as ''simpliciter' and set-aside the death sentence of the convict/appellant under Section 302 I.P.C. and instead sentence him to imprisonment for life.

Convict/appellant Buddha is in jail and shall serve out the sentence.

Subject to this alteration in the sentence, Capital Case No. 1 of 2020 is dismissed.

(B) Jail Appeal No. 364 of 2020 :-

The instant appeal is partly allowed. This Court modify the conviction of the appellant for the offences under Sections 302/34, 307/34, 323/34 and 452/34 I.P.C to Section 302, 307, 323, 452 I.P.C. as ''simpliciter' and set-aside the death sentence of the convict/appellant under Section 302 I.P.C. and instead sentence him to imprisonment for life.

Appellant Buddha is in jail and shall serve out his sentence.

65. Before parting, we record our appreciation rendered by Shri Raza Zaheer, learned Amicus Curiae who assisted this Court in the disposal of the above-captioned reference and appeal, therefore, this Court deem it appropriate to direct for payment to Shri Raza Zaheer, learned Amicus Curiae for his valuable assistance as per Rules of the Court.

66. Let Shri Raza Zahir, learned Amicus Curiae be paid remuneration as per Rules of the Court within a month.

67. Office is directed to send a certified copy of this judgment along with lower court record to the court concerned for information and compliance.

A. Civil Law – Income Tax Act , 1961 - Section 34 (1-A)- Reason to believe- Meaning Scope and Consequences- words 'reason o believe' suggest that belief must be that of an honest and reasonable person based upon reasonable grounds and the I.T.O. may act on direct or circumstantial evidence but not on mere suspicion, gossip or rumour.

B. Civil Law – Income Tax Act , 1961 - Section 47 (a) - important words as used in Section 47 (a) of th Act are stronger than the words "is satisfied". The belief entertained by the I.T.O. must not be arbitrary or irrational. It must be based on reasons which are relevant and material. The use of the words "reason to believe" in Section 147 has to be interpreted schematically and the as the liberal interpretation of the words would have the consequences of conferring arbitrary power on the assessing officer.

C. Change of Opinion- the words "change of opinion implies formulation of opinion and then a change thereon. In terms of assessment proceedings, it means formulation of belief by an assessing officer resulting from what he thinks on a particular question.

D. Reassessment of income under Section 147 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 – Cannot be made and change of opinion. Accordingly notice issued under Section 148 of I.T. Act quashed (para 23, 25 & 26)

5. Thereafter, notice dated 31.03.2021 under Section 148 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 for the Assessment Year 2017-18 was issued by the assessing officer to the petitioner. The assessing officer recorded "reason to believe" as under:-

" As per the information received from the Investigation Wing under category of High Risk CRIU/VRU Information on Insight Portal of he Department, the assessee has deposited cash in aggregating sum of Rs. 4,97,24,000/- during demonetization period which is being treated as undisclosed income during the previous year related to the assessment year under consideration".

The present case is covered under Clause-1(iii) (a) of the aforesaid circular. For the kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court, a true photostat copy of the circular dated 04.03.2021 is being filed herewith and marked as Annexure CA-2 to the present affidavit.

Submissions

9. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that there was no basis or material before the assessing authority for recording 'reasons to believe' and consequently proceeding under Section 148 of the Income Tax Act, was itself without jurisdiction.

10. Learned counsel for the respondents submits that notice under section 148 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 was issued on the basis of Circular dated 04.03.2021 inasmuch as, the petitioner's case was considered as 'potential case' for taking action under section 148 of the Act,1961 by the assessing authority and averments in this regard has been made in paragraph 8 of the counter affidavit. He further submits that the petitioner has not submitted any objection to the 'reasons to believe' recorded by the assessing authority, instead he directly filed the present writ petition. Since the petitioner has not submitted any objection to "reasons to believe" recorded by assessing authority, therefore, writ petition is not maintainable.

Discussion & Findings

11. We have carefully considered the submissions of learned counsels for the parties.

12. In the impugned reassessment order dated 30.03.2022, the respondent no.3 has recorded conclusion, as under:-

"Considering the facts of the case, the submission/documentary evidences filed by the assessee in response to show cause, were found not verifiable and acceptable to justify the genuineness of transactions. Notice u/s 133(6) of the I.T. Act, dated 09.02.2021 issued for same amount of Rs. 1,05,00,000/- from department. In notice u/s 133(6), it is seen that in notice 133(6), details have been sought regarding source of cash deposits in SBN Notes, amounting to Rs. 1,05,00,000/- in bank accounts during the period 08.11.2016 to 31.03.2017. Period mention in notice u/s 133(6) is specific, not for period 01.04.2016 to 31.03.2017 (for F.Y. 2016-17).

Once again, it has stated that the submission/documentary evidences filed by the assessee, were found not verifiable and acceptable to justify the genuineness of transactions.

Subject to the above remarks, the amount of Rs. 38,83,000/- is added as undisclosed income and the assessment is completed u/s147 r.w.s. 144B of IT Act, 1961 after adding Rs. 38,83,000/- as undisclosed income."

13. The first question that needs to be considered in the present writ petition is as to whether "reason to believe" recorded by the assessing officer was totally unfounded and whether it was based on "change of opinion".

Reason to Believe-Meaning, Scope and Consequence:-

14. In the case of State of Uttar Pradesh & Others vs. Aryaverth Chawal Udyog & Others reported in (2015) 17 SCC 324 (paragraphs 28 to 30), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:

*"28. This Court has consistently held that such material on which the assessing Authority bases its opinion must not be arbitrary, irrational, vague, distant or irrelevant. It must bring home the appropriate rationale of action taken by the assessing Authority in pursuance of such belief. In case of absence of such material, this Court in clear terms has held the action taken by assessing Authority on such "reason to believe" as arbitrary and bad in law.

In case of the same material being present before the assessing Authority during both, the assessment proceedings and the issuance of notice for re-assessment proceedings, it cannot be said by the assessing Authority that "reason to believe" for initiating reassessment is an error discovered in the earlier view taken by it during original assessment proceedings. (See: Delhi Cloth and General Mills Co. Ltd. v. State of Rajasthan, (1980) 4 SCC 71).

29. The standard of reason exercised by the assessing Authority is laid down as that of an honest and prudent person who would act on reasonable grounds and come to a cogent conclusion. The necessary sequitur is that a mere change of opinion while perusing the same material cannot be a "reason to believe" that a case of escaped assessment exists requiring assessment proceedings to be reopened. (See: Binani Industries Ltd. v. CCT,(2007) 15 SCC 435; A.L.A. Firm v. CIT, (1991) 2 SCC 558). If a conscious application of mind is made to the relevant facts and material available or existing at the relevant point of time while making the assessment and again a different or divergent view is reached, it would tantamount to "change of opinion".

If an assessing Authority forms an opinion during the original assessment proceedings on the basis of material facts and subsequently finds it to be erroneous; it is not a valid reason under the law for re-assessment. Thus, reason to believe cannot be said to be the subjective satisfaction of the assessing Authority but means an objective view on the disclosed information in the particular case and must be based on firm and concrete facts that some income has escaped assessment.

30. In case of there being a change of opinion, there must necessarily be a nexus that requires to be established between the "change of opinion" and the material present before the assessing Authority. Discovery of an inadvertent mistake or non-application of mind during assessment would not be a justified ground to reinitiate proceedings under Section 21(1) of the Act on the basis of change in subjective opinion (CIT v. Dinesh Chandra H. Shah, (1972) 3 SCC 231; CIT v. Nawab Mir Barkat Ali Khan Bahadur, (1975) 4 SCC 360)."

15. In the case of The Commissioner of Sales-Tax U.P. vs. M/s. Bhagwan Industries (P) Ltd., Lucknow, AIR 1973 SC 370 (Paras 9 & 10), Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:

"9. The controversy between the parties has centered on the point as to whether the assessing authority in the present case had reason to believe that any part of the turnover of the respondent had escaped assessment to tax for the assessment year 1957-58. Question in the circumstances arises as to what is the import of the words "reason to believe", as used in the section. In our opinion, these words convey that there must be some rational basis for the assessing authority to form the belief that the whole or any part of the turnover of a dealer has, for any reason, escaped assessment to tax for some year. If such a basis exists, the assessing authority can proceed in the manner laid down in the section. To put it differently, if there are, in fact, some reasonable grounds for the assessing authority to believe that the whole or any part of the turnover of a dealer has escaped assessment, it can take action under the section. Reasonable grounds necessarily postulate that they must be germane to the formation of the belief regarding escaped assessment. If the grounds are of an extraneous character, the same would not warrant initiation of proceedings under the above section. If, however, the grounds are relevant and have a nexus with the formation of belief regarding escaped assessment, the assessing authority would be clothed with jurisdiction to take action under the section. Whether the grounds are adequate or not is not a matter which would be gone into by the High Court or this Court, for the sufficiency of the grounds which induced the assessing authority to act is not a justiciable issue. What can be challenged is the existence of the belief but not the sufficiency of reasons for the belief. At the same time, it is necessary to observe that the belief must be held in good faith and should not be a mere pretence.

10. It may also be mentioned that at the stage of the issue of notice the consideration which has to weigh is whether there is some relevant material giving rise to prima facie inference that some turnover has escaped assessment. The question as to whether that material in sufficient for making assessment or re-assessment under section 21 of the Act would be gone into after notice is issued to the dealer and he has been heard in the matter or given an opportunity for that purpose. The assessing authority would then decide the matter in the light of material already in its possession as well as fresh material procured as a result of the enquiry which may be considered necessary."

16. A Division Bench of this Court, while dealing with the validity of the re-assessment notice under Section 148 in Writ Tax No.874 of 2010 (M/S Parmarth Steel And Alloys Pvt. Ltd. vs. State of U.P. and Others, decided on 28.03.2022, held as under (Para 17) :

"17. It is settled principles of law that proceedings under Section 21 of the Act, 1948 can be initiated if the material on which the Assessing Authority bases its opinion, is not arbitrary, irrational, vague, distant or irrelevant. There must be some rational basis for the assessing authority to form the belief that the whole or any part of the turnover of a dealer has, for any reason, escaped assessment to tax for some year. If such a basis exists, the assessing authority can proceed in the manner laid down in Section 21 of the Act, 1948. If the grounds are of an extraneous character, the same would not warrant initiation of proceedings under the above section. If, however, the grounds are relevant and have a nexus with the formation of belief regarding escaped assessment, the assessing authority would be clothed with jurisdiction to take action under the section. Whether the grounds are adequate or not is not a matter which would be gone into by the High Court for the sufficiency of the grounds which induced the assessing authority to act is not a justiciable issue. The question as to whether that material in sufficient for making assessment or re-assessment under section 21 of the Act would be gone into after notice is issued to the dealer and he has been heard in the matter or given an opportunity for that purpose. The assessing authority would then decide the matter in the light of material already in its possession as well as fresh material procured as a result of the enquiry which may be considered necessary.

17. In the case of Sheo Nath Singh vs. Appellate Assistant CIT, (1972) 3 SCC 234 (Para-10), Hon'ble Supreme Court while considering the similar provisions of Section 34 (1-A) of the Indian Income Tax Act, 1922, held as under:-

"..... There can be no manner of doubt that the words "reason to believe" suggest that the belief must be that of an honest and reasonable person based upon reasonable grounds and that the Income Tax Officer may act on direct or circumstantial evidence but not on mere suspicion, gossip or rumour. The Income Tax Officer would be acting without jurisdiction if the reason for his belief that the conditions are satisfied does not exist or is not material or relevant to the belief required by the section. The court can always examine this aspect though the declaration or sufficiency of the reasons for the belief cannot be investigated by the court."

18. In the case of Union Of India And Others vs M/S. Rai Singh Dev Singh Bist & others, AIR 1974 SC 478 : (1973) 3 SCC 581 (para-5), Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:-

"..... before an Income-tax Officer can be said to have had reason to believe that some income had escaped assessment, he should have some relevant material before him from which he could have drawn the inference that income has escaped assessment. His vague feeling that there might have been some escape of income from assessment is not sufficient... ....."

"11. As stated earlier, the reasons for the formation of the belief must have a rational connection with or relevant bearing on the formation of the belief. Rational connection postulates that there must be a direct nexus or live link between the material coming to the notice of the Income-tax Officer and the formation of his belief that there has been escapement of the income of the assessee from assessment in the particular year because of his failure to disclose fully and truly all material facts. It is no doubt true that the court cannot go into the sufficiency or adequacy of the material and substitute its own opinion for that of the Income-tax Officer on the point as to whether action should be initiated for reopening assessment. At the same time we have to bear in mind that it is not any and every material, howsoever vague and indefinite or distant, remote and farfetched, which would warrant the formation of the belief relating to escapement of the income of the assessee from assessment. The fact that the words "definite information" which were there in section 34 of the Act of 1922 at one time before its amendment in 1948 are not there in section 147 of the Act of 1961 would not lead to the conclusion that action cannot be taken for reopening assessment even if the information is wholly vague, indefinite, farfetched and remote. The reason for the formation of the belief must be held in good faith and should not be a mere pretence.

12. The powers of the Income-tax Officer to reopen assessment though wide are not plenary. The words of the statute are "reason to believe" and not "reason to suspect". The reopening of the assessment after the lapse of many years is a serious matter. The Act, no doubt, contemplates the reopening of the assessment if grounds exist for believing that income of the assessee has escaped assessment. The underlying reason for that is that instances of concealed income or other income escaping assessment in a large number of cases come to the notice of the income-tax authorities after the assessment has been completed. The provisions of the Act in this respect depart from the normal rule that there should be, subject to right of appeal and revision, finality about orders made in judicial and quasi-judicial proceedings. It is, therefore, essential that before such action is taken the requirements of the law should be satisfied. The live link or close nexus which should be there between the material before the Income-tax Officer in the present case and the belief which he was to form regarding the escapement of the income of the assessee from assessment because of the latter's failure or omission to disclose fully and truly all material facts was missing in the case. In any event, the link was too tenuous to provide a legally sound basis for reopening the assessment. The majority of the learned Judges in the High Court, in our opinion, were not in error in holding that the said material could not have led to the formation of the belief that the income of the assessee respondent had escaped assessment because of his failure or omission to disclose fully and truly all material facts. We would, therefore, uphold the view of the majority and dismiss the appeal with costs."

"6. It is well settled as a result of several decisions of this Court that two distinct conditions must be satisfied before the Income Tax Officer can assume jurisdiction to issue notice under section 147 (a). First, he must have reason to believe that the income of the assessee has escaped assessment and secondly, he must have reason to believe that such escapement is by reason of the omission or failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for his assessment. If either of these conditions is not fulfilled, the notice issued by the Income Tax Officer would be without jurisdiction. The important words under section 147 (a) are "has reason to believe" and these words are stronger than the words "is satisfied". The belief entertained by the Income Tax Officer must not be arbitrary or irrational. It must be reasonable or in other words it must be based on reasons which are relevant and material. The Court, of course, cannot investigate into the adequacy or sufficiency of the reasons which have weighed with the Income Tax Officer in coming to the belief, but the Court can certainly examine whether the reasons are relevant and have a bearing on the matters in regard to which he is required to entertain the belief before he can issue notice under section 147 (a). It there is no rational and intelligible nexus between the reasons and the belief, so that, on such reasons, no one properly instructed on facts and law could reasonably entertain the belief, the conclusion would be inescapable that the Income Tax Officer could not have reason to believe that any part of the income of the assessee had escaped assessment and such escapement was by reason of the omission or failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts and the notice issued by him would be liable to he struck down as invalid."

21. In the case of Income Tax Officer, Ward No.62 vs. TechSpan India (P.) Ltd. and another, (2018) 6 SCC 685 (Paras 14 to 18), Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

"14. The language of Section 147 makes it clear that the assessing officer certainly has the power to re-assess any income which escaped assessment for any assessment year subject to the provisions of Sections 148 to 153. However, the use of this power is conditional upon the fact that the assessing officer has some reason to believe that the income has escaped assessment. The use of the words "reason to believe' in Section 147 has to be interpreted schematically as the liberal interpretation of the word would have the consequence of conferring arbitrary powers on the assessing officer who may even initiate such re-assessment proceedings merely on his change of opinion on the basis of same facts and circumstances which has already been considered by him during the original assessment proceedings. Such could not be the intention of the legislature. The said provision was incorporated in the scheme of the IT Act so as to empower the Assessing Authorities to re-assess any income on the ground which was not brought on record during the original proceedings and escaped his knowledge; and the said fact would have material bearing on the outcome of the relevant assessment order.

15. Section 147 of the IT Act does not allow the re-assessment of an income merely because of the fact that the assessing officer has a change of opinion with regard to the interpretation of law differently on the facts that were well within his knowledge even at the time of assessment. Doing so would have the effect of giving the assessing officer the power of review and Section 147 confers the power to re-assess and not the power to review.

16. To check whether it is a case of change of opinion or not one has to see its meaning in literal as well as legal terms. The words "change of opinion" implies formulation of opinion and then a change thereof. In terms of assessment proceedings, it means formulation of belief by an assessing officer resulting from what he thinks on a particular question. It is a result of understanding, experience and reflection.

17. It is well settled and held by this court in a catena of judgments and it would be sufficient to refer Commissioner of Income Tax, Delhi vs. Kelvinator of India Ltd. (2010) 320 ITR 561(SC) wherein this Court has held as under: (SCC p.725, para 5-7)

"5....where the Assessing Officer has reason to believe that income has escaped assessment, confers jurisdiction to reopen the assessment. Therefore, post-1-4-1989, power to reopen is much wider. However, one needs to give a schematic interpretation to the words "reason to believe"..... Section 147 would give arbitrary powers to the Assessing Officer to re-open assessments on the basis of "mere change of opinion", which cannot be per se reason to reopen.

6. We must also keep in mind the conceptual difference between power to review and power to reassess. The Assessing Officer has no power to review; he has the power to reassess. But reassessment has to be based on fulfillment of certain precondition and if the concept of "change of opinion" is removed, as contended on behalf of the Department, then, in the garb of re-opening the assessment, review would take place.

7. One must treat the concept of "change of opinion" as an in-built test to check abuse of power by the Assessing Officer. Hence, after 1-4-1989, Assessing Officer has power to reopen, provided there is "tangible material" to come to the conclusion that there is escapement of income from assessment. Reasons must have a live link with the formation of the belief."

18. Before interfering with the proposed reopening of the assessment on the ground that the same is based only on a change in opinion, the court ought to verify whether the assessment earlier made has either expressly or by necessary implication expressed an opinion on a matter which is the basis of the alleged escapement of income that was taxable. If the assessment order is non-speaking, cryptic or perfunctory in nature, it may be difficult to attribute to the assessing officer any opinion on the questions that are raised in the proposed reassessment proceedings. Every attempt to bring to tax, income that has escaped assessment, cannot be absorbed by judicial intervention on an assumed change of opinion even in cases where the order of assessment does not address itself to a given aspect sought to be examined in the reassessment proceedings."

22. In the case of Radha Krishna Industries vs. State of H.P., (2021) 6 SCC 771, Hon'ble Supreme Court reiterated the law laid down in its earlier judgments in the case of Kelvinator of India Limited (supra) and TechSpan India (P.) Ltd. (supra) and held that the power to reopen an assessment must be conditioned on the existence of "tangible material" and that "reasons must have a live link with the formation of the belief".

23. The law laid down in the judgment referred above, leaves no manner of doubt that:-

(a) The assessing officer under Section 147 of the Act, 1961 has the power to re-assess any income which escaped assessment to tax for any assessment year subject to the provisions of Sections 148 to 153. The power to reassess under Section 147 of the Act, 1961 has been incorporated so as to empower the Assessing Authorities to re-assess any income on the ground which escaped his knowledge.

(b) The words "reason to believe" suggest that the belief must be bona fide and must be that of an honest and reasonable person based upon reasonable grounds and that the Income Tax Officer may act on direct or circumstantial evidence but not on mere suspicion, gossip or rumour. His vague feeling that there might have been some escapement of income from assessment is not sufficient. The reasons for the formation of the belief must be based on tangile material and must be based on a rational connection with or relevant bearing on the formation of the belief. Rational connection postulates that there must be a direct nexus or live link between the material coming to the notice of the Income-tax Officer and the formation of his belief that there has been escapement of the income of the assessee from assessment in the particular assessment year. In other words, such material on which the assessing Authority bases its opinion must not be arbitrary, irrational, vague, distant or irrelevant. If the grounds for formation of "reason to believe" are of an extraneous character, the same would not warrant initiation of proceedings under Section 147 of the Act, 1961.

(c) If, there are, in fact, some reasonable grounds for the assessing authority to believe that the whole or any part of income of the assessee has escaped assessment, it can take action under Section 147 of the Act, 1961. If the grounds taken for initiating reassessment proceedings under Section 147 of the Act, 1961 are relevant and have a nexus with the formation of belief regarding escaped assessment, the assessing authority would be clothed with jurisdiction to take action under the section. Whether the grounds are adequate or not is not a matter which would be gone into by the High Court for the sufficiency of the grounds which induced the assessing authority to act is not a justiciable issue. What can be challenged is the existence of the belief but not the sufficiency of reasons for the belief. The belief must be held in good faith and should not be a mere pretence.

Change of Opinion

(f) Reassessment of income under Section 147 of the Act, 1961 cannot be made on change of opinion. The words "change of opinion" implies formulation of opinion and then a change thereof. If the Assessing Officer has earlier made assessment for the same Assessment Year expressing an opinion of a matter either expressly or by necessary implication then on the same matter, a reassessment proceedings for the alleged escapement of income from assessment to tax, cannot be initiated as it would be a case of "change of opinion". If the assessment order is non-speaking, cryptic or perfunctory in nature, then it may be difficult to attribute to the assessing officer any opinion on the questions that are raised in the proposed reassessment proceedings. If a conscious application of mind is made to the relevant facts and material available or existing at the relevant point of time while making the assessment and again a different or divergent view is reached, it would tantamount to "change of opinion". If the assessing Authority forms an opinion during the original assessment proceedings on the basis of material facts and subsequently finds it to be erroneous; it is not a valid reason under the law for re-assessment.

24. Coming to the facts of the present case, we find that during the course of regular assessment proceedings, the assessing officer had required all details of the cash deposited by the petitioner in the bank during the Assessment Year 2017-18, which were furnished by the petitioner-assessee. The assessing officer required various other details by notice dated 23.11.2019 under Section 142(1) of the Act, 1961 which were also furnished by the petitioner and thereafter, the regular assessment order under section 143(3) of the Act, 1961 dated 25.12.2019 was passed. The explanation submitted by the petitioner regarding cash deposits in bank during Assessment Year 2017-18, was accepted by the assessing officer.

25. After the assessing officer had earlier made assessment for the same assessment year and accepted the explanation of the petitioner regarding cash deposits in bank, reassessment proceedings for the alleged escapement of the income from assessment to tax on the ground of cash deposits in bank which were earlier considered by the assessing officer in regular assessment proceedings, would amount to "change of opinion". Since the assessing officer, during the course of the regular assessment proceedings, consciously applied his mind to the cash deposits in bank by the petitioner, then initiation of the reassessment proceedings on the same set of facts would tantamount to "change of opinion". Therefore, the assessing officer could not assume jurisdiction to initiate reassessment proceeding in the facts and circumstances of the present case.

26. Apart from above, "reason to believe" recorded by the assessing officer was neither bonafide nor based upon reasonable ground. It was based on vague feeling that there might have been some escapement of income from assessment. Therefore, reason to believe recorded by the Assessing Officer could not give jurisdiction to the assessing officer to issue notice under section 148 of the Act, 1961. The stand taken by the respondents in the aforequoted para 8 of the counter affidavit dated 25.04.2022 reveals that the case of the petitioner was selected for reassessment under Section 147/148 of the Act, 1961 on the basis of CBDT Circular dated 04.03.2021 being "potential case" for taking action under Section 148 of the Act, 1961. The assessing officer has blindly applied the aforesaid Circular of the CBDT, without looking into the facts of the present case and in complete ignorance of the direction of the CBDT in paragraph 3 of the said Circular. In paragraph 3 of aforesaid Circular the CBDT has clarified that action under Section 148 of the Act shall be taken by the assessing Officer in respect of the specified categories of cases after forming a reasonable belief that income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment. Thus "reason to believe" recorded by the Assessing Officer for issuing the impugned notice under section 148 of the Act, 1961 blindly applying the Circular of CBDT dated 04.03.2021 and without forming reasonable belief that income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment, cannot authorise the Assessing Officer to assume jurisdiction to issue notice to the petitioner under Section 148 of the Act, 1961. Therefore, the impugned notice under Section 148 of the Act, 1961 issued by the respondents to the petitioner was itself without jurisdiction.

27. Even conclusion drawn in the reassessment order dated 30.03.2022 as aforequoted, clearly indicates that there was no material before the Assessing Officer to hold that the cash deposited by the petitioner in Bank during the Assessment Year in question has escaped assessment to tax, inasmuch as , the Assessing Officer has abruptly and without recording any reason has held Rs. 38,83,000/- as undisclosed income for Assessment Year 2017-18. There is no whisper in the impugned reassessment order as to how the Assessing Officer has arrived at the aforesaid amount as undisclosed income and that how the aforesaid amount represents undisclosed income of the petitioner/assessee. Thus the reassessment proceeding initiated by the Assessing Officer against the petitioner for the Assessment Year 2017-18 was not only without jurisdiction but also it was abuse of power and the impugned reassessment order was passed arbitrarily and unauthorisedly.

28. For all the reasons aforestated, the impugned notice dated 31.03.2021 and 22.11.2021 under Section 148 and 143 (2) read with Section 147 of the Act, 1961 for the Assessment Year 2017-18 and the reassessment order dated 30.03.2022 under Section 147 read with Section 144B of the Act, 1961 for the Assessment Year 2017-18 cannot be sustained and are hereby quashed.

29. The writ petition is allowed with cost of Rs. 5000/- which shall be deposited by the respondents with the High Court Legal Services Committee, High Court, Allahabad within four weeks from today.

Put up as a fresh case before the appropriate bench on 04.04.2022."

Since in the aforequoted order dated 04.04.2022, this Court noticed that certain letters have been procured by the respondent so as to avoid to comply with the direction given in paragraph 5 of the order of this Court dated 04.04.2022, the respondent no.1 filed her personal affidavit dated 06.04.2022 stating in paragraph 5, as under :-

"5. That in reply to the same, the Additional Commissioner Grade-1, Commercial Tax, Jhansi has informed that the said letter has been given by the petitioner's counsel Sri Naresh Kumar Gupta, Advocate Jhansi out of his own willingness and there was no pressure on him to do so. A true copy of letter dated 06.4.2022 written by Additional commissioner Grade-1 jhansi and letter dated 31.3.2022 given by advocate Shri Naresh Kumar Gupta are being appended herewith and marked as Annexure-1 to this affidavit."

15. Perusal of Anenxure-1 to the aforesaid personal affidavit dated 06.04.2022 shows that at page 7 is the letter of the Additional Commissioner dated 06.04.202 and at pages 8 and 9 are two letters, both dated 31.03.2022 (one relating to Writ-Tax No.419 of 2022 and the other relating to Writ-Tax No.424 of 2022), which is said to have been signed by the counsel at Jhansi.

16. As per reliefs sought in the writ petitions, the petitioner has prayed for refund of the amount and grant of interest. Under the circumstances, learned counsel for the petitioner has now pressed for the relief for grant of interest and, therefore, this Court heard learned counsels for the parties and passed the order dated 21.04.2022, as under :-

"1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the respondents.

2. High handedness, abuse of power and harassment of dealers by the respondents are evident on record and also reflected from the orders passed by this Court in the leading petition, being Writ-Tax No.424 of 2022 as well as the orders dated 28.03.2022 and 04.04.2022 passed in the connected Writ-Tax No.419 of 2022.

3. From the orders dated 28.03.2022, it is evident that despite the petitioner succeeded in appeal, the respondents, on one pretext or the other, and also on account of dereliction in their duty, have not given effect to the appellate order to grant refund to the petitioner of the amount deposited by him. Despite our order dated 18.04.2022, in the two personal affidavits filed today, there is not even a whisper about payment of interest on illegally withheld amount deposited by the petitioner.

4. Learned Standing Counsel submits that since GST is a new regime, therefore, some direction by the Court for grant of interest under the facts and circumstances of the case, is needed.

5. Oral request made by the respondents through the learned Standing Counsel, as recorded above, be brought on record by means of personal affidavit of the respondent no.1 for consideration by this Court. The personal affidavit may be filed on or before the next date fixed.

6. Put up as a fresh case for further hearing on 27.04.2022 at 10:00 a.m. alongwith connected writ petition."

17. Today, a personal affidavit of the respondent no.1 dated 25.04.2022 has been filed in which the respondent no.1 has stated in paragraphs 12 to 21 as under :-

"12. That on 09.07.2018 the petitioner gave his letter for refund due to appellate order but file RFD-01A on common portal nor did he informed the proper officer that there was any technical issue for filing of RFD-01A which is a mandatory requirement as per Rule 89(1) and 97A of CGST/UPGST Rules, 2017. For kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court true copy of Form RFD-01A is being appended herewith and marked as Annexure-8 to this affidavit.

13. That again on 09-12-2020 and on 21-01-2021 reminder letter was given by the petitioner before the proper officer and in turn proper officer duly communicated to the petitioner that he should file online application in format (RFD-01) on the common portal but it was not complied with.

14. That on request of the petitioner to provide password, the proper officer suggested him to generate a token for technical glitches on the common portal at https:// selfservice.gstsystem.in/, even after this communication no compliance was made by petitioner.

15. That the petitioner could have approached on self help portal which had started functioning since 22.1.2018 and also there was a help desk established in GSTN but there was no averment in the writ petition that the petitioner ever approached GST self-help portal for the technical difficulties faced by him.

16. That due to technical glitches, the temporary I.D. of the petitioner was not available at the end of proper officer's login as it was at development stage of GST Portal and hence it was not possible to provide the password to the petitioner from the proper officer's end.

17. That when the entire problem came into knowledge of the deponent, she took it up on top priority with GSTN and after continuous efforts with CEO of GSTN, it was possible to activate the temporary I.D. at the login of the proper officer to provide password

18. That after receiving the password, the online refund application in form RFD-01 was filed by the petitioner on 31.03.2022. A true copy of RFD-01 filed by the petitioner is being appended herewith and marked as Annexure-9 to this affidavit.

19. That the abovementioned application RFD-01 was disposed and refund was sanctioned in Form RFD-06 within the time period specified under Section 56 of the CGST/UPGST Act, 2017 hence liability to pay interest does not arise. True copy of the Refund Sanction Order ic. RFD-06 is being appended herewith and marked as Annexure-10 to this affidavit.

20. That as per Section 54 of CGST/UPGST Act and rules 89 of CGST/UPGST Rules and circulars issued by the department, refund can only be made after the taxpayer file refund application in form RFD-01/RFD-01A as the case may be and there was no system of giving suo moto refund at the officer level under the GST system.

21. That in view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances mentioned above, this Hon'ble Court may be pleased to pass appropriate orders/direction in the interest of justice."

18. That facts of the case as discussed above leaves no manner of doubt that the respondent No.3 mischievously created temporary I.D. for depositing of the sum of Rs.4,70,400/- made by the petitioner pursuant to the order dated 30.12.2017 passed by the respondent No.3 under Section 129 of the U.P. GST Act, 2017, even though he was well aware of the fact that the petitioner is a registered dealer of Gujrat State and the provisions of IGST Act are applicable and all details relating to petitioner were available with him and there was no need to create a temporary I.D.. The password of the temporary I.D. created by the respondent No.3 was never communicated to the petitioner despite repeated demands made by him which fact is further evident from own letters of the respondents quoted in paragraphs 7 and 9 of this judgment and paragraph-16 of the personal affidavit of the respondent No.1 dated 25.04.2022 quoted in paragraph 17 of this judgment. The appellate authority, by order dated 30.06.2018, not only allowed the appeal of the petitioner and set aside the order dated 30.12.2017 passed by the respondent No.3, but also directed for refund of the amount/ bank guarantee deposited by the petitioner. The petitioner moved the application dated 09.07.2018 for refund before the respondent No.3 along with a copy of the order of the appellate authority. Subsequently, it was followed by several applications written by him to various authorities/ respondents. Thus, it was wholly impossible for the petitioner to submit online Form RFD-01A for refund inasmuch as the petitioner was not having the password of the temporary I.D. mischievously created by the respondent No.3 at its own. The respondent No.1 herself has stated in paragraph-16 of her personal affidavit dated 25.04.2022 that due to technical glitches, the temporary I.D. of the petitioner was not available at the end of proper officer's login as it was at development stage of GST Portal and hence it was not possible to provide the password to the petitioner from the proper officer's end. Thus, facts sufficiently establish that the petitioner was entitled for refund in terms of the order for refund passed by the First Appellate Authority dated 30.06.2018 and he applied for refund on 09.07.2018 but the respondents deliberately did not refund the amount on one pretext or the other. There was no fault on the part of the petitioner asking the respondents to refund the deposited amount in terms of the order of the First Appellate Authority dated 30.06.2018. It is only when this court passed the order dated 28.03.2022, the respondents awoke and allowed the petitioner also to submit Form RFD-01A. Thus, online RFD-01A filed by the petitioner as required by the respondents, relate back to his refund application dated 09.07.2018 whereas the refund has been sanctioned by the respondents to the petitioner on 31.03.2022 and it was paid on 04.04.2022 but without interest. The letter dated 31.03.2022 was procured by the respondents from the local counsel of the petitioner at the time of sanctioning of the refund i.e. on 31.03.2022 which prima facie amounts to interference in court proceedings by the respondents and constituting criminal contempt. However, learned standing counsel much persuaded us not to refer the matter for criminal contempt particularly in view of the unconditional apology tendered by the respondent No.1.

19. Now the question that remains for consideration is as to whether under the facts and circumstances, the petitioner is entitled for interest on the amount of Rs.4,70,400/-, was liable to be refunded in terms of the order of the First Appellate Authority dated 30.06.2018 but it was refunded on 04.04.2022.

21. As per provisions of Section 54(1) of the CGST Act, 2017, the petitioner could claim refund by making an application before the expiry of two years from the relevant date in such form and manner as may be prescribed. The relevant date for the purposes of the present case is referable to Explanation 2(d) appended to Section 54 which provides that in case where the tax becomes refundable as a consequence of judgment, decree, order or direction of the Appellate Authority, Appellate Tribunal or any court, the date of communication of such judgment, decree, order or direction.

22. It is undisputed that the proper office while accepting the deposit of tax and penalty by bank-draft from the petitioner for Rs.4,70,400/- for release of goods pursuant to the order dated 30.12.2017 under Section 129 (3) of the U.P. Goods and Service Tax Act, 2017, mistakenly shown the deposit under the aforesaid Act instead of IGST Act and further committed a manifest error whether deliberately or otherwise, to deposit the aforesaid amount by creating a temporary ID at its own, without informing any relevant fact or password etc. to the petitioner. Therefore, it was wholly impossible for the petitioner to apply online for refund under Section 54(1) of the Act read with Rule 89 of the Rules. It is well settled that law does not compell a man to do what he cannot possibly perform. Under the circumstances, the petitioner admittedly moved a refund application dated 09.07.2018 in physical form for refund of the aforesaid amount pursuant to appellate order dated 30.06.2018 and also enclosed a copy of the appellate order along with the refund application. Since then, the petitioner who is based in the State of Gujrat has been running from pillar to post to get the refund as is evident from the facts briefly noted in paragraph-6 to 10 of this judgment. The respondents themselves have forgotten the password of the temporary ID and, therefore, could not provide it to the petitioner as is evident from their own letter dated 16.07.2021 referred in the order dated 28.03.2022 passed by this court (quoted in paragraph-11 above). The fact that the petitioner was compelled to apply for refund physically vide application dated 09.07.2018, also stands admitted by the respondent No.1 in paragraph-16 of her personal affidavit dated 25.04.2022 quoted in paragraph 17 above, that due to technical glitches, the temporary I.D. of the petitioner was not available at the end of proper officer's login as it was at development stage of GST Portal and hence it was not possible to provide the password to the petitioner from the proper officer's end.

23. Thus, as per own admitted case of the respondents, they themselves firstly proceeded arbitrarily and deposited the amount received from the petitioner, by creating a temporary ID and did not give access to the petitioner to the said ID and even the said temporary ID was not available at the end of the proper officer's login and its password was not provided to the petitioner as per own stand taken by the respondents in the afore-quoted paragraph-16 of the personal affidavit dated 25.04.2022. Under the circumstances, when the appellate authority vide order dated 30.06.2018 directed for refund and the order was communicated to the respondents by the petitioner vide letter dated 09.07.2018, then, the respondents were bound to refund the amount along with interest under Section 56 of the CGST/ U.P. GST Act, 2017 but on one hand, they arbitrarily withheld the refund of the petitioner for more than 33 months and on the other hand, they again arbitrarily acted and have not granted interest to the petitioner on the delayed refund of the amount in question. The principal amount deposited was refunded by the respondents to the petitioner only on 04.04.2022. Thus, the petitioner is entitled for interest under Section 56 of the Act, 2017.

24. There is another aspect of the matter, so far as the payment of interest by the respondents to the petitioner is concerned. As per refund sanctioned order dated 31.03.2022 (Annexure-10 to the personal affidavit of the respondent No.1 dated 25.04.2022), the reason for granting refund has been recorded as under:

"With reference to order 17/2018 dated 30-06-2018 issued by Additional Commissioner, Grade-2 (Appeal), second, commercial tax, Jhansi zone, Jhansi."

25. The communication of the aforesaid appellate order dated 30.06.2018 was made to the respondents on 09.07.2018 which fact could not be disputed by the respondents. Thus, the relevant date as per explanation 2(d) of the explanation appended to Section 54 of the Act, 2017 is 09.07.2018, i.e. date of communication of the appellate order. As per the proviso to Section 56 of the Act, 2017, where the appellate order has attained finality and refund arisen therefrom is not refunded within sixty days from the date of receipt of application filed consequent to such order, interest at such rate not exceeding 9% as may be notified by the Government on the recommendations of the Council shall be payable in respect of such refund from the date immediately after the expiry of sixty days from the date of receipt of application till the date of refund. Thus, the amount refunded by the respondents pursuant to the appellate order dated 30.06.2018 communicated on 09.07.2018, the interest shall be liable to be paid by the respondents to the petitioner for the period from 09.09.2018 to 31.03.2022.

26. In the present set of facts, the respondents have committed wrong firstly by not showing the deposit under IGST Act, secondly by showing the deposit by creating temporary ID at its own and thirdly, not informing the petitioner the password for the temporary ID so created, to enable him to apply in the prescribed form. The Respondent No.1 in paragraphs-16, 17 and 18 of her personal affidavit dated 25.04.2022 (aforequoted) has herself stated that due to technical glitches, the temporary I.D. of the petitioner was not available at the end of proper officer's login as it was at development stage of GST Portal and hence it was not possible to provide the password to the petitioner from the proper officer's end, and it was the effort made at the end of the respondent No.1 that it became possible to activate the temporary ID at the login of the proper officer to provide password when the entire problem came into knowledge of the respondent No.1 and thereafter, on receiving the password, the petitioner made online application in RFD-01 on 31.03.2022. Thus, the respondents arbitrarily and illegally withheld the amount of refund despite the order of the first appellate authority dated 30.06.2018 for refund.

27. It is well settled that "construction which permits one to take advantage of one's own wrong or to impair one's own objections under a Statute should be disregarded. The interpretation should as far as possible be beneficial in the sense that it should suppress the mischief and advance the remedy without doing violence to the language", vide Commissioner of Customs (Prev.), Mumbai vs. M. Ambalal, 2010 (260) ELT 487 (para-11). It has also been settled that no one can take advantage of his own wrong vide Union of India vs. Shakti LPG Lt., 2008 (223) ELT 129 (SC) (para-9). Therefore, applying the aforesaid settled principles, the respondents cannot be allowed to take advantage of their own wrong so as to deny the payment of interest to the petitioner on delayed refund.

28. For all the reasons afore-stated, both the writ petitions are allowed. The respondents are directed to pay interest to the petitioner within a month from today, for the period from 09.09.2018 to 31.03.2022, at the rate notified under Section 56 of the Act.

A. Court is frequently coming across writ petitions in which impugned orders reflect non-observance of principles of natural justice and eve reply submitted by assesses is not being considered by Assessing Officers under the faceless regime as well as non-faceless regime under the Act, 1961.

B. Taxpayers are important pillars of economy of the country. Their harassment not only causes jolt to the economy of the country and also employment and also comes in the way of economic policy of the Government including the policies "Ease of Doing Business". The instructions dated 23.04.2022 issued by the CBDT in exercise of powers conferred u/S 119 of the Act, 1961 and St.ment made by the Respondent No.04 in the afore quoted Para 10 of the personal affidavit dated 19.05.2022 needs to be implemented truly and effectively and, therefore, necessary mandamus needs to be issued to the respondents.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surya Prakash Kesarwani, J.
Hon'ble Jayant Banerji, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashish Bansal, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri S.P. Singh, learned Additional Solicitor General of India assisted by Sri Arvind Kumar Goswami, learned Central Government Standing Counsel and Sri Ashish Agarwal, learned Standing Counsel for the respondent-Income Tax Department.

2. A personal affidavit of respondent No.4, namely, Sri Tarun Bajaj, Revenue Secretary to the Government of India, New Delhi dated 19.5.2022 has been filed today which is taken on record.

3. Learned Additional Solicitor General has referred to paragraphs 9 and 10 of the aforesaid personal affidavit dated 19.5.2022 and stated that the date of circular in paragraph 10 has been wrongly mentioned as 25.4.2022 instead 23.4.2022 and copy of said circular dated 23.4.2022 has already been filed alongwith the personal affidavit dated 3.5.2022. He further states that the Government's stand stated in paragraph 10 of the personal affidavit dated 19.5.2022 is clear and, accordingly, the Government shall take all actions against the erring officers.

4. In the order dated 30.03.2022 passed by this court, submissions of the learned counsel for the petitioner have been noted as under:-

"Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the two land in question were jointly owned by seven persons. The petitioner herein and the aforesaid Dushyant Bhati both were also co-owners of the aforesaid agricultural land which was sold by two separate registered sale deeds. For the same set of reasons proceedings under Section 148 of the Act, 1961, were initiated against the petitioner and the aforesaid Dushyant Bhati who is the son of the petitioner. The Assessment Order dated 23.03.2022 under Section 147 read with Section 144 B of the Act, 1961, in respect of Dushyant Bhati has been passed by the National Faceless Assessment Centre, Delhi, accepting his claim that the land in question was accepted to be an agricultural land situate beyond 8 km. of municipal limits. Thus the disclosed income in the returns for the Assessment Year 2013-14 has been accepted and no tax has been imposed in respect of the sale of the land in question. On the other hand totally contrary view has been taken in the matter of the petitioner vide reassessment order dated 28.03.2022, under Section 147 read with Section 144 B of the Act, 1961, passed by the National Faceless Assessment Centre, Delhi, whereby 1/7th of the consideration in respect of the land in question, belonging to the petitioner, has been assessed as a long term capital gain on the finding that the land in question is not an agricultural land. Thus, on the same set of facts while the respondents have accepted the claim of petitioner's son in respect of the same land and on the other hand in respect of the same land the stand taken by the petitioner has been rejected and the sale proceeds of the agricultural land has been assessed as a long term capital gain."

5. In the order dated 18.04.2022, submission of learned counsel for the respondent Nos.1, 2 and 3 has been noted, as under:

"Today, learned counsel for the respondent nos.1, 2 and 3 states that conflicting orders are being passed by National Faceless Assessment Centre and for which steps shall be taken to remove the anomalies.

In view of the statement as aforenoted and also the fact that two conflicting reassessment orders have been passed by the National Faceless Assessment Centre in respect of two co-owners of the same land, we direct the newly impleaded respondent no.4 to look into the matter and file his personal affidavit explaining the state of affairs and the steps being taken by the Government."

6. In response, a personal affidavit dated 03.05.2019 on behalf of Union of India has been filed by Sri Tarun Bajaj, Revenue Secretary to the Government of India who has stated in paragraph-11 of the affidavit, as under:

"11. The petitioner has an alternate administrative remedy in form of approaching the Local Committee for grievance settlement instead of approaching the Court in writ proceedings. Local committee has been empowered to deal with Taxpayer's Grievances from High-Pitched Scrutiny Assessment upon receipt of grievances, related to High-pitched Scrutiny assessments completed either under the Faceless Assessment regime or non-faceless Assessment regime and ascertain whether there is a prima-facie case of High-pitched Assessment, non-observance of principles of natural justice, non-application of mind or gross negligence of Assessing Officer/Assessment Unit. Issues such as the present case can be resolved by individual taxpayers through the remedy of approaching local committees set up for grievance redressal.

7. True copy of instructions/ Circular F.No.225/101/2021-ITA-II, Government of India, Ministry of Finance, Department of Revenue, Central Board of Direct Taxes dated 23.04.2022 issued under Section 119 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and filed as Annexure A-1 to the personal affidavit dated 03.05.2022 is reproduced below:

8. On 05.05.2022, this Court passed the following order:

"Sri S.P. Singh, learned Additional Solicitor General has filed a personal affidavit dated 03.05.2022 of Sri Tarun Bajaj, Revenue Secretary to the Government of India annexing therewith a circular dated 23.04.2022 providing for constitution of local committees which prima facie appears to be wholly unsatisfactory and a complete eyewash to address the problem being faced by assessees on account of conflicting orders by the National Faceless Assessment Centre, New Delhi inasmuch as it merely provides a forum for complaint without any relief to the complainant and without fixing of accountability of the erring officers. It is highly improbable that an assessee shall make complaint against his assessing officer whether faceless or non-faceless without any relief to him from arbitrary assessment order or order passed in breach of principles of natural justice.

Learned Additional Solicitor General states that the Revenue Secretary to the Government of India shall file a better affidavit indicating solution to the problem of conflicting orders, arbitrary orders and frequent breach of principles of natural justice by assessing authorities including National Faceless Assessment Centre, within two weeks.

Time as prayed is granted.

Put up as a fresh case on 19.05.2022 for further hearing."

9. In the personal affidavit filed today, the respondent No.4 by means of personal affidavit of Sri Tarun Bajaj, Revenue Secretary to the Government of India, New Delhi has stated in paragraphs-10 and 12, as under:-

"10. It is further respectfully submitted that even though a large number of assessments were carried out efficiently and effectively, yet, recognising the difficulties faced by the tax payers, the Central Board of Direct Taxes issued instruction F. No. 225/101/2021/-ITA-II, dt. 25/04/22, for dealing with taxpayers grievances. The local committee ascertains whether the additions made in the assessment order is not backed by any sound reasons or logic, provisions of law have been grossly misinterpreted or obvious and well-established facts on record have been ignored outrightly. The said instruction also provides for initiation of suitable administrative action against the erring officer in case where assessments are found by the local committee to be high-pitched or where there is non-observance of principles of natural justice, non- application of mind or gross negligence of assessing officer/ Assessment Unit. Also, the findings of the local committee are considered for revisiting SOP/policy on faceless assessment and addressing systems related issues.

12. The Petitioner has statutory remedy under the Income Tax Act, 1961 which he may avail by filing revision petition before the jurisdictional Principal Commissioner of Income Tax under section 264 or filing appeal before the Commissioner of Income Tax (Appeals) under section 250. The Petitioner has also filed application for witndrawal of Writ Petition to avail the remedy available under law. As such the Writ Petition is liable to be dismissed."

10. In instructions/ Circular F.No.225/290/2015-ITA-II, dated 09.11.2015 issued by the Government of India, Ministry of Finance, Department of Revenue (CBDT), the Central Board of Direct Taxes (for short "CBDT") itself has noted that "it has been brought to the notice of Board that the tendency to frame high-pitched and unreasonable assessment orders is still persisting due to which grievances are being raised by the taxpayers. Such grievances not only reflect harassment of taxpayers but also lead to generation of unproductive work for Department as well as Appellate Authorities." Under the aforesaid instructions dated 09.11.2015, Local Committees were constituted to resolve quickly the taxpayers' grievances on account of high-pitched and unreasonable additions made by the Assessing Authorities. But it appears that tendency to frame high-pitched and unreasonable assessment orders is still persisting as also acknowledged by the respondents which resulted in issuance of instructions/ Circular dated 23.04.2022 under Section 119 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 so as to give it statutory backing.

11. This Court is also frequently coming across the writ petitions in which impugned orders reflect non-observance of principles of natural justice and even reply submitted by assessees are not being considered by Assessing Officers under the faceless regime as well as non-faceless regime under the Act, 1961.

12. Tax payers are one of the important pillars of economy of the country. Their harassment not only causes jolt to the economy of the country and employment but also comes in the way of economic policy of the government including the policy "Ease of Doing Business". The instructions dated 23.04.2022 issued by the CBDT, in exercise of powers conferred under Section 119 of the Act, 1961 and statement made by the respondent No.4 in the aforequoted para-10 of the personal affidavit dated

19.05.2022, needs to be implemented truly and effectively. Therefore, necessary mandamus needs to be issued to the respondents.

13. In view of the aforesaid, the writ petition is disposed off giving liberty to the petitioner to avail statutory remedy of appeal or revision under the Act, 1961 as he may be advised. All pending applications are disposed off.

14. In view of the discussions made above, particularly considering the instructions dated 23.04.2022 issued by the CBDT in exercise of powers conferred under Section 119 of the Act, 1961 and the statement of the respondent No.4 made in para-10 of the personal affidavit filed on 19.05.2022, the following directions in the nature of mandamus are issued:-

(i) The respondent No.4 shall ensure that copies of instructions F.No.225/101/2021-ITA-II, Government of India, Ministry of Finance, Department of Revenue, Central Board of Direct Taxes dated 23rd April, 2022 is circulated within a month from today to Tax Bar Associations at District Level, State Level and National Level for information along with the following contents of paragraph-10 of the personal affidavit dated 19.05.2022:-

"The said instruction also provides for initiation of suitable administrative action against the erring officer in case where assessments are found by the local committee to be high-pitched or where there is non-observance of principles of natural justice, non-application of mind or gross negligence of assessing officer/ Assessment Unit."

(ii) The respondent No.4 shall ensure that the aforesaid instructions dated 23.04.2022 along with afore-quoted contents of paragraph-10 of the personal affidavit dated 19.05.2022 shall be displayed on the official website of the Income Tax Department for awareness and information of taxpayers and consultants.

(iii) The constitution of Local Committees, procedure for submissions, receipts and disposal of grievances as provided in the aforesaid instructions dated 23.04.2022 and the above noted contents of the paragraph 10 of the personal affidavit dated 19.05.2022, for the purposes of publicity and awareness amongst taxpayers/ assessees to achieve the mandate of Clause 2.A.(iv) of the aforesaid instructions dated 23.04.2022, shall be published regularly for one year at least once in three months in two National Newspapers (one in English and the other in Hindi) and two State Level Newspapers (one in Hindi or Local Language and the other in English).

(iv) In the event "Local Committees" as referred in Clause 2.A.(i) of the aforesaid instructions dated 23.04.2022 in all the regions across the country including Pr.CCIT (Exemptions) and Pr.CCIT (International Taxation) have not yet been constituted, then the respondent No.4 shall ensure that Local Committees as provided in Clause 2.A.(i) of the aforesaid instructions dated 23.04.2022 be constituted within fifteen days from today and be made functional.

(v) The respondent No.4 shall ensure to establish a monitoring cell at the level of Government or CBDT within a month from today, if not established so far, which shall ensure regular monitoring of the Local Committees, follow up actions and review by Principal Chief Commissioners of Income Tax and Zonal Members, and analyse the quarterly reports for effective implementation of the instructions dated 23.04.2022 and the statement made in paragraph 10 of the personal affidavit dated 19.05.2022 aforequoted.

(vi) The Local Committee shall dispose off each grievance petition within two months from the end of the month in which grievance petition is received by it and its result and action taken on administrative side, if any, shall be communicated in writing to the concerned assessee within next four weeks.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surya Prakash Kesarwani, J.
Hon'ble Jayant Banerji, J.)

1. Heard Shri Nishant Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Manu Ghildyal, learned Standing Counsel for the respondent-Income Tax Department.

2. By order dated 11.04.2022, this Court specifically directed the respondent no.2, vide paragraph 10 of the order, as under :-

"10. In view of the aforesaid, we direct the respondent no.2 to file a short counter affidavit by means of his personal affidavit stating as to how the notice under Section 148 of the Act, 1961 issued by him to the petitioner was a valid notice and how the respondent no.2 could get jurisdiction to issue notice under Section 148 of the Act, 1961 when the very basis of issuing notice, ie., 'reason to believe', recorded by him was totally unfounded, non-existent and wholly baseless."

3. Today, a counter affidavit dated 22.04.2022 on behalf of the respondent no.2 has been filed by Kumari Sukanya Kirti, Assistant Commissioner of Income Tax, Circle 5(3)(1), Noida. In paragraph 3 thereof, the respondent no.2 has stated as under :-

"3. That, vide order dated 11.04.2022, the Hon'ble Court has specifically sought reply to the following questions:-

(i) how the notice under Section 148 of the Act, 1961 issued by him to the petitioner was a valid notice?

(ii) how the respondent no.2 could get jurisdiction to issue notice under Section 148 of the Act, 1961 when the very basis of issuing notice, ie., 'reason to believe', recorded by him was totally unfounded, non-existent and wholly baseless."

4. Perusal of the counter affidavit shows that there is not even a whisper with respect to the query of the Court (as itself mentioned by the respondent no.2 in paragraph 3(ii) of her counter affidavit). On the other hand, in the re-assessment order, it has been specifically mentioned that "on perusal of the documentary evidence submitted by the assessee in reference to the information available on record, no inference is drawn in connection with the amount of Rs.45 lakhs". It shall not be out of place to mention that the petitioner submitted objection to the 'reason to believe' recorded by the assessing authority. In his objection, the petitioner has specifically stated that the petitioner has not entered into any transaction amounting to Rs.45 lakhs during the year under consideration which has been made basis for recording the "reason to believe" and to issue notice under Section 148 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act, 1961'). The petitioner has also produced documentary evidences to show that no transaction of Rs.45 lakhs as alleged was entered by the petitioner. Despite of these facts, on totally baseless and unfounded grounds, a notice under Section 148 of the Act, 1961 was issued by the respondent no.2 and, in a most arbitrary manner, the objection of the petitioner was not considered by the asssessing authority and was arbitrarily rejected.

5. Despite our order dated 11.04.2022, the respondent no.2 has deliberately filed an evasive affidavit (counter affidavit) in which there is no whisper with regard to the second query of the Court.

Reason to Believe - Meaning, Scope and Consequence:-

6. In the case of State of Uttar Pradesh & Others vs. Aryaverth Chawal Udyog & Others reported in (2015) 17 SCC 324 (paragraphs 28 to 30), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:

"28. This Court has consistently held that such material on which the assessing Authority bases its opinion must not be arbitrary, irrational, vague, distant or irrelevant. It must bring home the appropriate rationale of action taken by the assessing Authority in pursuance of such belief. In case of absence of such material, this Court in clear terms has held the action taken by assessing Authority on such "reason to believe" as arbitrary and bad in law.

In case of the same material being present before the assessing Authority during both, the assessment proceedings and the issuance of notice for re-assessment proceedings, it cannot be said by the assessing Authority that "reason to believe" for initiating reassessment is an error discovered in the earlier view taken by it during original assessment proceedings. (See: Delhi Cloth and General Mills Co. Ltd. v. State of Rajasthan, (1980) 4 SCC 71).

29. The standard of reason exercised by the assessing Authority is laid down as that of an honest and prudent person who would act on reasonable grounds and come to a cogent conclusion. The necessary sequitur is that a mere change of opinion while perusing the same material cannot be a "reason to believe" that a case of escaped assessment exists requiring assessment proceedings to be reopened. (See: Binani Industries Ltd. v. CCT,(2007) 15 SCC 435; A.L.A. Firm v. CIT, (1991) 2 SCC 558). If a conscious application of mind is made to the relevant facts and material available or existing at the relevant point of time while making the assessment and again a different or divergent view is reached, it would tantamount to "change of opinion".

If an assessing Authority forms an opinion during the original assessment proceedings on the basis of material facts and subsequently finds it to be erroneous; it is not a valid reason under the law for re-assessment. Thus, reason to believe cannot be said to be the subjective satisfaction of the assessing Authority but means an objective view on the disclosed information in the particular case and must be based on firm and concrete facts that some income has escaped assessment.

30. In case of there being a change of opinion, there must necessarily be a nexus that requires to be established between the "change of opinion" and the material present before the assessing Authority. Discovery of an inadvertent mistake or non-application of mind during assessment would not be a justified ground to reinitiate proceedings under Section 21(1) of the Act on the basis of change in subjective opinion (CIT v. Dinesh Chandra H. Shah, (1972) 3 SCC 231; CIT v. Nawab Mir Barkat Ali Khan Bahadur, (1975) 4 SCC 360)."

7. In the case of The Commissioner of Sales-Tax U.P. vs. M/s. Bhagwan Industries (P) Ltd., Lucknow, AIR 1973 SC 370 (Paras 9 & 10), Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:

"9. The controversy between the parties has centered on the point as to whether the assessing authority in the present case had reason to believe that any part of the turnover of the respondent had escaped assessment to tax for the assessment year 1957-58. Question in the circumstances arises as to what is the import of the words "reason to believe", as used in the section. In our opinion, these words convey that there must be some rational basis for the assessing authority to form the belief that the whole or any part of the turnover of a dealer has, for any reason, escaped assessment to tax for some year. If such a basis exists, the assessing authority can proceed in the manner laid down in the section. To put it differently, if there are, in fact, some reasonable grounds for the assessing authority to believe that the whole or any part of the turnover of a dealer has escaped assessment, it can take action under the section. Reasonable grounds necessarily postulate that they must be germane to the formation of the belief regarding escaped assessment. If the grounds are of an extraneous character, the same would not warrant initiation of proceedings under the above section. If, however, the grounds are relevant and have a nexus with the formation of belief regarding escaped assessment, the assessing authority would be clothed with jurisdiction to take action under the section. Whether the grounds are adequate or not is not a matter which would be gone into by the High Court or this Court, for the sufficiency of the grounds which induced the assessing authority to act is not a justiciable issue. What can be challenged is the existence of the belief but not the sufficiency of reasons for the belief. At the same time, it is necessary to observe that the belief must be held in good faith and should not be a mere pretence.

10. It may also be mentioned that at the stage of the issue of notice the consideration which has to weigh is whether there is some relevant material giving rise to prima facie inference that some turnover has escaped assessment. The question as to whether that material in sufficient for making assessment or re-assessment under section 21 of the Act would be gone into after notice is issued to the dealer and he has been heard in the matter or given an opportunity for that purpose. The assessing authority would then decide the matter in the light of material already in its possession as well as fresh material procured as a result of the enquiry which may be considered necessary."

8. A Division Bench of this Court, while dealing with the validity of the re-assessment notice under Section 148 in Writ Tax No.874 of 2010 (M/S Parmarth Steel And Alloys Pvt. Ltd. vs. State of U.P. and Others, decided on 28.03.2022, held as under (Para 17) :

"17. It is settled principles of law that proceedings under Section 21 of the Act, 1948 can be initiated if the material on which the Assessing Authority bases its opinion, is not arbitrary, irrational, vague, distant or irrelevant. There must be some rational basis for the assessing authority to form the belief that the whole or any part of the turnover of a dealer has, for any reason, escaped assessment to tax for some year. If such a basis exists, the assessing authority can proceed in the manner laid down in Section 21 of the Act, 1948. If the grounds are of an extraneous character, the same would not warrant initiation of proceedings under the above section. If, however, the grounds are relevant and have a nexus with the formation of belief regarding escaped assessment, the assessing authority would be clothed with jurisdiction to take action under the section. Whether the grounds are adequate or not is not a matter which would be gone into by the High Court for the sufficiency of the grounds which induced the assessing authority to act is not a justiciable issue. The question as to whether that material in sufficient for making assessment or re-assessment under section 21 of the Act would be gone into after notice is issued to the dealer and he has been heard in the matter or given an opportunity for that purpose. The assessing authority would then decide the matter in the light of material already in its possession as well as fresh material procured as a result of the enquiry which may be considered necessary.

9. In the case of Sheo Nath Singh vs. Appellate Assistant CIT, (1972) 3 SCC 234 (Para-10), Hon'ble Supreme Court while considering the similar provisions of Section 34 (1-A) of the Indian Income Tax Act, 1922, held as under:-

"..... There can be no manner of doubt that the words "reason to believe" suggest that the belief must be that of an honest and reasonable person based upon reasonable grounds and that the Income Tax Officer may act on direct or circumstantial evidence but not on mere suspicion, gossip or rumour. The Income Tax Officer would be acting without jurisdiction if the reason for his belief that the conditions are satisfied does not exist or is not material or relevant to the belief required by the section. The court can always examine this aspect though the declaration or sufficiency of the reasons for the belief cannot be investigated by the court."

10. In the case of Union Of India And Others vs M/S. Rai Singh Dev Singh Bist & others, AIR 1974 SC 478 : (1973) 3 SCC 581 (para-5), Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:-

"..... before an Income-tax Officer can be said to have had reason to believe that some income had escaped assessment, he should have some relevant material before him from which he could have drawn the inference that income has escaped assessment. His vague feeling that there might have been some escape of income from assessment is not sufficient... ....."

"11. As stated earlier, the reasons for the formation of the belief must have a rational connection with or relevant bearing on the formation of the belief. Rational connection postulates that there must be a direct nexus or live link between the material coming to the notice of the Income-tax Officer and the formation of his belief that there has been escapement of the income of the assessee from assessment in the particular year because of his failure to disclose fully and truly all material facts. It is no doubt true that the court cannot go into the sufficiency or adequacy of the material and substitute its own opinion for that of the Income-tax Officer on the point as to whether action should be initiated for reopening assessment. At the same time we have to bear in mind that it is not any and every material, howsoever vague and indefinite or distant, remote and farfetched, which would warrant the formation of the belief relating to escapement of the income of the assessee from assessment. The fact that the words "definite information" which were there in section 34 of the Act of 1922 at one time before its amendment in 1948 are not there in section 147 of the Act of 1961 would not lead to the conclusion that action cannot be taken for reopening assessment even if the information is wholly vague, indefinite, farfetched and remote. The reason for the formation of the belief must be held in good faith and should not be a mere pretence.

12. The powers of the Income-tax Officer to reopen assessment though wide are not plenary. The words of the statute are "reason to believe" and not "reason to suspect". The reopening of the assessment after the lapse of many years is a serious matter. The Act, no doubt, contemplates the reopening of the assessment if grounds exist for believing that income of the assessee has escaped assessment. The underlying reason for that is that instances of concealed income or other income escaping assessment in a large number of cases come to the notice of the income-tax authorities after the assessment has been completed. The provisions of the Act in this respect depart from the normal rule that there should be, subject to right of appeal and revision, finality about orders made in judicial and quasi-judicial proceedings. It is, therefore, essential that before such action is taken the requirements of the law should be satisfied. The live link or close nexus which should be there between the material before the Income-tax Officer in the present case and the belief which he was to form regarding the escapement of the income of the assessee from assessment because of the latter's failure or omission to disclose fully and truly all material facts was missing in the case. In any event, the link was too tenuous to provide a legally sound basis for reopening the assessment. The majority of the learned Judges in the High Court, in our opinion, were not in error in holding that the said material could not have led to the formation of the belief that the income of the assessee respondent had escaped assessment because of his failure or omission to disclose fully and truly all material facts. We would, therefore, uphold the view of the majority and dismiss the appeal with costs."

"6. It is well settled as a result of several decisions of this Court that two distinct conditions must be satisfied before the Income Tax Officer can assume jurisdiction to issue notice under section 147 (a). First, he must have reason to believe that the income of the assessee has escaped assessment and secondly, he must have reason to believe that such escapement is by reason of the omission or failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for his assessment. If either of these conditions is not fulfilled, the notice issued by the Income Tax Officer would be without jurisdiction. The important words under section 147 (a) are "has reason to believe" and these words are stronger than the words "is satisfied". The belief entertained by the Income Tax Officer must not be arbitrary or irrational. It must be reasonable or in other words it must be based on reasons which are relevant and material. The Court, of course, cannot investigate into the adequacy or sufficiency of the reasons which have weighed with the Income Tax Officer in coming to the belief, but the Court can certainly examine whether the reasons are relevant and have a bearing on the matters in regard to which he is required to entertain the belief before he can issue notice under section 147 (a). It there is no rational and intelligible nexus between the reasons and the belief, so that, on such reasons, no one properly instructed on facts and law could reasonably entertain the belief, the conclusion would be inescapable that the Income Tax Officer could not have reason to believe that any part of the income of the assessee had escaped assessment and such escapement was by reason of the omission or failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts and the notice issued by him would be liable to he struck down as invalid."

13. In the case of Income Tax Officer, Ward No.62 vs. TechSpan India (P.) Ltd. and another, (2018) 6 SCC 685 (Paras 14 to 18), Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

"14. The language of Section 147 makes it clear that the assessing officer certainly has the power to re-assess any income which escaped assessment for any assessment year subject to the provisions of Sections 148 to 153. However, the use of this power is conditional upon the fact that the assessing officer has some reason to believe that the income has escaped assessment. The use of the words "reason to believe' in Section 147 has to be interpreted schematically as the liberal interpretation of the word would have the consequence of conferring arbitrary powers on the assessing officer who may even initiate such re-assessment proceedings merely on his change of opinion on the basis of same facts and circumstances which has already been considered by him during the original assessment proceedings. Such could not be the intention of the legislature. The said provision was incorporated in the scheme of the IT Act so as to empower the Assessing Authorities to re-assess any income on the ground which was not brought on record during the original proceedings and escaped his knowledge; and the said fact would have material bearing on the outcome of the relevant assessment order.

15. Section 147 of the IT Act does not allow the re-assessment of an income merely because of the fact that the assessing officer has a change of opinion with regard to the interpretation of law differently on the facts that were well within his knowledge even at the time of assessment. Doing so would have the effect of giving the assessing officer the power of review and Section 147 confers the power to re-assess and not the power to review.

16. To check whether it is a case of change of opinion or not one has to see its meaning in literal as well as legal terms. The words "change of opinion" implies formulation of opinion and then a change thereof. In terms of assessment proceedings, it means formulation of belief by an assessing officer resulting from what he thinks on a particular question. It is a result of understanding, experience and reflection.

17. It is well settled and held by this court in a catena of judgments and it would be sufficient to refer Commissioner of Income Tax, Delhi vs. Kelvinator of India Ltd. (2010) 320 ITR 561(SC) wherein this Court has held as under: (SCC p.725, para 5-7)

"5....where the Assessing Officer has reason to believe that income has escaped assessment, confers jurisdiction to reopen the assessment. Therefore, post-1-4-1989, power to reopen is much wider. However, one needs to give a schematic interpretation to the words "reason to believe"..... Section 147 would give arbitrary powers to the Assessing Officer to re-open assessments on the basis of "mere change of opinion", which cannot be per se reason to reopen.

6. We must also keep in mind the conceptual difference between power to review and power to reassess. The Assessing Officer has no power to review; he has the power to reassess. But reassessment has to be based on fulfillment of certain precondition and if the concept of "change of opinion" is removed, as contended on behalf of the Department, then, in the garb of re-opening the assessment, review would take place.

7. One must treat the concept of "change of opinion" as an in-built test to check abuse of power by the Assessing Officer. Hence, after 1-4-1989, Assessing Officer has power to reopen, provided there is "tangible material" to come to the conclusion that there is escapement of income from assessment. Reasons must have a live link with the formation of the belief."

18. Before interfering with the proposed reopening of the assessment on the ground that the same is based only on a change in opinion, the court ought to verify whether the assessment earlier made has either expressly or by necessary implication expressed an opinion on a matter which is the basis of the alleged escapement of income that was taxable. If the assessment order is non-speaking, cryptic or perfunctory in nature, it may be difficult to attribute to the assessing officer any opinion on the questions that are raised in the proposed reassessment proceedings. Every attempt to bring to tax, income that has escaped assessment, cannot be absorbed by judicial intervention on an assumed change of opinion even in cases where the order of assessment does not address itself to a given aspect sought to be examined in the reassessment proceedings."

14. In the case of Radha Krishna Industries vs. State of H.P., (2021) 6 SCC 771, Hon'ble Supreme Court reiterated the law laid down in its earlier judgments in the case of Kelvinator of India Limited (supra) and TechSpan India (P.) Ltd. (supra) and held that the power to reopen an assessment must be conditioned on the existence of "tangible material" and that "reasons must have a live link with the formation of the belief".

15. In view of the above discussion, we summarize the principles, powers and limitations on exercise of powers under Section 147/148 by Income Tax Officers/ Authorities under the Income tax Act, 1961, as under:-

(a) The assessing officer under Section 147 of the Act, 1961 has the power to re-assess any income which escaped assessment to tax for any assessment year subject to the provisions of Sections 148 to 153. The power to reassess under Section 147 of the Act, 1961 has been incorporated so as to empower the Assessing Authorities to re-assess any income on the ground which escaped his knowledge.

(b) Reassessment of income under Section 147 of the Act, 1961 cannot be made on change of opinion. The words "change of opinion" implies formulation of opinion and then a change thereof. If the Assessing Officer has earlier made assessment for the same Assessment Year expressing an opinion of a matter either expressly or by necessary implication then on the same matter, a reassessment proceedings for the alleged escapement of income from assessment to tax, cannot be initiated as it would be a case of "change of opinion". If the assessment order is non-speaking, cryptic or perfunctory in nature, then it may be difficult to attribute to the assessing officer any opinion on the questions that are raised in the proposed reassessment proceedings. If a conscious application of mind is made to the relevant facts and material available or existing at the relevant point of time while making the assessment and again a different or divergent view is reached, it would tantamount to "change of opinion". If the assessing Authority forms an opinion during the original assessment proceedings on the basis of material facts and subsequently finds it to be erroneous; it is not a valid reason under the law for re-assessment.

(c) The words "reason to believe" suggest that the belief must be bona fide and must be that of an honest and reasonable person based upon reasonable grounds and that the Income Tax Officer may act on direct or circumstantial evidence but not on mere suspicion, gossip or rumour. His vague feeling that there might have been some escapement of income from assessment is not sufficient. The reasons for the formation of the belief must be based on tangile material and must be based on a rational connection with or relevant bearing on the formation of the belief. Rational connection postulates that there must be a direct nexus or live link between the material coming to the notice of the Income-tax Officer and the formation of his belief that there has been escapement of the income of the assessee from assessment in the particular assessment year. In other words, such material on which the assessing Authority bases its opinion must not be arbitrary, irrational, vague, distant or irrelevant. If the grounds for formation of "reason to believe" are of an extraneous character, the same would not warrant initiation of proceedings under Section 147 of the Act, 1961.

(d) If, there are, in fact, some reasonable grounds for the assessing authority to believe that the whole or any part of income of the assessee has escaped assessment, it can take action under Section 147 of the Act, 1961. If the grounds taken for initiating reassessment proceedings under Section 147 of the Act, 1961 are relevant and have a nexus with the formation of belief regarding escaped assessment, the assessing authority would be clothed with jurisdiction to take action under the section. Whether the grounds are adequate or not is not a matter which would be gone into by the High Court for the sufficiency of the grounds which induced the assessing authority to act is not a justiciable issue. What can be challenged is the existence of the belief but not the sufficiency of reasons for the belief. The belief must be held in good faith and should not be a mere pretence.

(e) The question as to whether the material on the basis of which the assessing authority has formed the belief for "reason to believe" is sufficient, for making assessment or reassessment under Section 47 of the Act, 1961, would be gone into after the notice is issued to the assessee and he is heard or given an opportunity for that purpose. The assessing authority would then decide the matter in the light of material already in his possession as well as fresh material procured as a result of inquiry, if any, which may be considered necessary.

16. Perusal of the impugned notice under Section 148 of the Act, 1961 and other impugned orders clearly shows that the "reason to believe" recorded by the assessing authority, failed to pass the standard of reason exercised by the assessing authority to be that of an honest and prudent person who would act on reasonable grounds and come to a cogent conclusion. The reasons recorded were totally unfounded and consequently the jurisdictional notice under Section 148 of the Act, 1961 issued by the assessing authority was without jurisdiction. Once the notice under Section 148 of the Act, 1961 issued by the assessing authority was without jurisdiction, the subsequent proceedings, including re-assessment order, cannot be sustained.

17. For all the reasons afore-stated, the impugned notice dated 31.03.2021 under Section 148 of the Act, 1961 issued by the respondent no.2, the order dated 09.03.2021 rejecting the objection of the petitioner, the re-assessment order dated 31.03.2022 under Section 147 of the Act, 1961 for the Assessment Year 2013-14 and the demand notice dated 31.03.2022 issued under Section 156 of the Act, 1961 cannot be sustained and are hereby quashed.

18. For all the reasons aforestated, the writ petition is allowed with cost of Rs.5000/-, which the respondents shall deposit with the High Court Legal Services Committee, High Court, Allahabad within three weeks from today, failing which the amount shall be recovered as fine.

3. This writ petition was heard at length on 21.04.2022 and a detailed order was passed. The matter was again heard on 29.04.2022 and 06.05.2022. Counter and rejoinder affidavits have been exchanged between the parties.

4. Petitioner no.1 is the partnership concern engaged in manufacture and sale of tobacco products and is registered under the provisions of The Central Goods & Service Tax Act, 2017 (hereinafter referred to as the 'CGST Act') having GSTIN 06AABFG2788A1ZQ at Panipat (Haryana). Petitioner no.2 is a proprietorship concern engaged in transportation of goods and is registered under the CGST Act as a service provider having GSTIN 09ACIPY7858G2ZO at Gorakhpur. The aforesaid facts stated in paragraphs 4 and 5 of the writ petition have not been denied by the respondent no.3 in the counter affidavit dated 05.05.2022.

5. In paragraph 6 of the writ petition, it has been stated that the goods manufactured by petitioner no.1 are usually consumed in Nepal which he used to export to Nepal covered under the letter of undertaking for export of excisable goods without payment of duty under Notification No.42/2001- CE(N.T.) dated 26.06.2001. In paragraph 7 of the writ petition, it has been stated that in the course of business, petitioner no.1 dispatched the consignment of BIJLI SPIT TOBACCO packed in 200 boxes valuing Rs.7,20,000/- covered under the invoice no.51/2021-22/GTMC dated 14.01.2022 to Lumbini Traders, Krishna Nagar, Nepal, through the transporter namely, Ankul Transport Service. In paragraphs 8 and 9, it has been stated that HSN code of the commodity meant for export was mentioned on the aforesaid invoice, and that the digits of tariff mentioned therein are required to be mentioned only when the commodity is subject matter of export. In paragraph 10 of the writ petition, it has been stated that in the invoice it was specifically mentioned that "Export to Nepal Goods dispatched under LUT

ARN No.AD0603210027240 DTD. 06/03/2021" and the copy of LUT was attached with the invoice for the purpose of transshipment to Nepal. In paragraph 11 of the writ petition, it has been stated that the invoice issued for the goods was in accordance with the condition prescribed in Tariff Code-24039910. In paragraph 12, it has been stated that the petitioner no.1 got generated E-way Bill No.3414 0160 4901 from the portal of Government of India on 14.01.2022 at 3:09 P.M. for the goods in question by giving the reference of invoice.

6. The aforestated paragraphs 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 of the writ petition have been replied by the respondent no.3 in paragraph 31 of the counter affidavit as under :-

"31. That the contents of paragraph nos.6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 & 12 of the writ petition do not call for any reply and comments being matter of record be verified therefrom."

7. In paragraphs 14, 15, 16 and 17 of the writ petition, the petitioners have stated as under :-

"14. That as the Government of Nepal after opening its border (which was sealed in March 2020 with India) imposed conditions of 7 days quarantine and the visitors are allowed only after 14 days from the date of having last dose of COVID-19 vaccine and as the driver of the vehicle does not fulfill the conditions required for entry in Nepal thus he left the goods in the godown of petitioner no. 2 situated at Gida, Gorakhpur for further transshipment by another vehicle to Nepal. In support of the above said submission the petitioner is bringing on record a news report published in Kathmandu Post. A true/photo copy of the news report as published in Kathmandu Post is being filed herewith and marked as Annexure No.8 to this writ petition.

15. That as the quantity of the goods of the petitioner is not a full truck load further limited drivers are available intended to transport goods in Nepal thus the period specified in E-way bill expired.

16. That the expiry of period of E-way bill is beyond the control of the petitioner and is not a deliberate act of the petitioner in fact the same is bona fide.

17. That under the above said specific circumstances the goods in question can only be transported to Nepal, when the vehicle is available and in the instant case the petitioner no. 2 ultimately arranged the vehicle no. UP 65 BT 2241 and issued GR No. 635 dated 26.02.2022 for the goods in question and for the purpose of compliance of the provisions of rule 138 and 138A being transporter generated E-way bill no. 4712 3392 2443 on 26.02.2022 itself by giving the details of the documents. A true/photo copy of the GR No. 635 dated 26.02.2022 and E-way bill no. 4712 3392 2443 are being filed herewith and marked as Annexure No.9 and 10 to this writ petition.

8. The aforequoted paragraphs 14, 15, 16 and 17 of the writ petition have been replied by the respondent no.3 in paragraphs 33, 34 and 35 of the counter affidavit in which he has not specifically denied the contents of the aforesaid paragraphs of the writ petition. Thus, the averment of facts made in paragraphs 14, 15 and 16 of the writ petition stands admitted to the respondents. What has been stated in the counter affidavit while replying the aforesaid paragraphs of the writ petition is that the petitioners being aware of the COVID-19 pandemic situation, should not have export the goods and, instead of getting generated the second e-way bill, should have got extended the validity of the e-way bill within 8 hours of its expiry as per the provisions of Rule 138(10) of the CGST/IGST Rules.

9. In paragraph 22 of the writ petition, the petitioners have stated that "there is no intention of evasion of tax and the goods in question are covered by documents required to be carried as per the provisions of Rule 138(A)." In paragraph 27 of the writ petition, the petitioner no.2 has stated that "he was of the bonafide opinion that the place of dispatch is required to be disclosed from Panipat as the goods had originally originated from Panipat not from Gorakhpur". In paragraph 28 of the writ petition, it has been stated that the petitioner no.2 had generated e-way bill on 26.02.2022 indicating the said invoice as bill of supply bonafidely and in doing so there is no intention of evasion of tax. The contents of aforesaid paragraphs of the writ petition have been replied by the respondents in paragraphs 37 and 38 of the counter affidavit in which the facts so stated have not been specifically denied at all.

10. In paragraph 43 of the writ petition, the petitioners have stated that they have sent the objection through speed post but no order or notice fixing any other date has been communicated to them. In paragraph 44 of the writ petition, the petitioners have stated that they cannot be punished for the mistake occasioned bonafidely under the specific condition imposed by the Government of Nepal for entry due to COVID-19. These paragraphs 43 and 44 have been replied in paragraph 40 of the counter affidavit in which the facts as aforementioned have not been specifically denied by the respondents.

11. In paragraphs 46, 47 and 48 of the writ petition, the petitioners have stated that the respondent no.3 had issued notice dated 28.02.2022 in the form of an order in arbitrary exercise of his power and ordered for deposit of more than Rs.1,00,000/- for release of the vehicle and while issuing the said notice directed to deposit Rs.3,00,000/- as against the outer limit of Rs.1,00,000/- fixed by the Statute. In paragraphs 50, 51 and 52 of the writ petition, the petitioners have made detailed and pointed specific averments that neither there was any intention of evasion of tax nor have they committed any default nor a sum of Rs.27,07,200/- could have demanded for release of goods nor the goods could be confiscated. It has further been specifically stated that the transaction in question was covered by IGST Act. These paragraphs have been replied in paragraphs 42, 43, 44 and 45 of the counter affidavit in which there is no specific denial.

12. Thus, from the facts as may be ascertained from the averments made by the parties in the writ petition and the counter affidavit, it is admitted to the parties that the goods in question originated from Panipat and were being transported with valid invoice from Panipat to Nepal but due to restriction imposed on account of COVID-19 pandemic, as specifically mentioned in paragraphs 14, 16, 17, 27 and 28 of the writ petition, the goods were unloaded at Gorakhpur and after the arrangement of another vehicle was made under prevailing situation of COVID-19 pandemic, the goods were transported to Nepal. Since the time gap was much, therefore, a second e-way bill was generated so that the goods may reach to its destination at Nepal. There is absolutely no dispute that the goods in question were dispatched by the petitioner no.1 from Panipat (Haryana) under valid invoice and valid papers. The goods in question were intercepted and seized by the respondents on hyper-technical ground and assumptions, without there being any allegation of intention to evade payment of tax. The second e-way bill was generated bonafidely and in circumstance beyond control of the petitioners. The averments of the petitioners in paragraph No.16 of the writ petition that generating the second e-way bill was totally bonafide, has also not been denied by the respondents. Since the goods were covered by valid documents, therefore, it could not have been detained or seized and hence the entire proceedings were totally arbitrary, illegal and without jurisdiction. The action of the respondents in seizing the goods in question is evidently an act of harassment to the petitioners, breach of their fundamental rights guaranteed under Article 14 of the Constitution of India and blatant abuse of power by the respondents.

13. In the case of Assistant Commissioner (ST) & Ors. vs. M/s Satyam Shivam Papers Pvt. Limited & Anr. (Special Leave to Appeal No.21132 of 2021, decided on 12.01.2022, Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:-

"Having heard learned counsel for the petitioners and having perused the material placed on record, we find no reason to consider interference in the well-considered and well-reasoned order dated 2nd June, 2021, as passed by the the High Court for the State of Telangana at Hyderabad in Writ Petition No. 9688 of 2020. Rather, we are clearly of the view that the error, if any, on the part of the High Court, had been of imposing only nominal costs of Rs. 10,000/- (Rupees Ten Thousand) on the respondent No. 2 of the writ petition, who is petitioner No.2 before us.

The consideration of the High court in the order impugned and the material placed on record leaves nothing to doubt that the attempted inference on the part of petitioner No.2, that the writ petitioner was evading tax because the e-way bill had expired a day earlier, had not only been baseless but even the intent behind the proceedings against the writ petitioner was also questionable, particularly when it was found that the goods in question, after being detained were, strangely, kept in the house of a relative of the petitioner No.2 for 16 days and not at any other designated place for their safe custody.

The High Court has, inter alia, found that:

"41. ..... It was the duty of 2nd respondent to consider the explanation offered by petitioner as to why the goods could not have been delivered during the validity of the e-way bill, and instead he is harping on the fact that the e-way bill is not extended even four(04) hours before the expiry or four(04) hours after the expiry, which is untenable.

The 2nd respondent merely states in the counter affidavit that there is clear evasion of tax and so he did not consider the said explanations.

This is plainly arbitrary and illegal and violates Article 14 of the Constitution of India, because there is no denial by the 2nd respondent of the traffic blockage at Basher Bagh due to the anti CAA and NRC agitation on 4.01.2020 up to 8.30 pm preventing the movement of auto trolley for otherwise the goods would have been delivered on that day itself. He also does not dispute that 04.01.2020 was a Saturday, 05.01.2020 was a Sunday, and the next working day was only 06.01.2020."

The High Court has further found and, in our view, rightly so thus:

"42. How the 2nd respondent could have drawn an inference that petitioner is evading tax merely because the e-way bill has expired, is also nowhere explained in the counter- affidavit.

In our considered opinion, there was no material before the 2nd respondent to come to the conclusion that there was evasion of tax by the petitioner merely on account of lapsing of time mentioned in the e-way bill because even the 2nd respondent does not say that there was any evidence of attempt to sell the goods to somebody else on 06.01.2020. On account of non-extension of the validity of the e-way bill by petitioner or the auto trolley driver, no presumption can be drawn that there was an intention to evade tax".

The High Court has also commented on blatant abuse of the power by the petitioner No.2 and has deprecated his conduct in the following words:

"43. We are also unable to understand why the goods were kept for safe keeping at Marredpally, Secunderabad in the House of a relative of 2nd respondent for (16) days and not in any other place designated for such safe keeping by the State.

44. In our opinion, there has been a blatant abuse of power by the 2nd respondent in collecting from the petitioner tax and penalty both under the CGST and SGST and compelling the petitioner to pay Rs.69,000/- by such conduct.

45. We deprecate the conduct of 2nd respondent in not even adverting to the response given by petitioner to the Form GST MOV-07 in Form GST MOV-09 and his deliberate intention to treat the validity of the expiry on the e-way bill as amounting to evasion of tax without any evidence of such evasion of tax by the petitioner."

Having said so, the High Court has set aside the levy of tax and penalty of Rs. 69,000/- (Rupees Sixty-nine Thousand) while imposing costs of Rs. 10,000/- (Rupees Ten Thousand), payable by the petitioner No.2 to the writ petitioner within four weeks.

The analysis and reasoning of the High Court commends to us, when it is noticed that the High Court has meticulously examined and correctly found that no fault or intent to evade tax could have been inferred against the writ petitioner. However, as commented at the outset, the amount of costs as awarded by the High Court in this matter is rather on the lower side. Considering the overall conduct of the petitioner No.2 and the corresponding harassment faced by the writ petitioner we find it rather necessary to enhance the amount of costs.

Upon our having made these observations, learned counsel for the petitioners has attempted to submit that the questions of law in this case, as regards the operation and effect of Section 129 of Telangana Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 and violation by the writ petitioner, may be kept open. The submissions sought to be made do not give rise to even a question of fact what to say of a question of law. As noticed hereinabove, on the facts of this case, it has precisely been found that there was no intent on the part of the writ petitioner to evade tax and rather, the goods in question could not be taken to the destination within time for the reasons beyond the control of the writ petitioner. When the undeniable facts, including the traffic blockage due to agitation, are taken into consideration, the State alone remains responsible for not providing smooth passage of traffic.

Having said so; having found no question of law being involved; and having found this petition itself being rather mis-conceived , we are constrained to enhance the amount of costs imposed in this matter by the High Court.

The High Court has awarded costs to the writ petitioner in the sum of Rs. 10,000/- (Rupees Ten Thousand) in relation to tax and penalty of Rs.69,000/- (Rupees Sixty-nine Thousand) that was sought to be imposed by the petitioner No.2. In the given circumstances, a further sum of Rs. 59,000/- (Rupees Fifty-nine Thousand) is imposed on the petitioners toward costs, which shall be payable to the writ petitioner within four weeks from today. This would be over and above the sum of Rs. 10,000/- (Rupees Ten Thousand) already awarded by the High Court.

Having regard to the circumstances, we also make it clear that the State would be entitled to recover the amount of costs, after making payment to the writ petitioner, directly from the person/s responsible for this entirely unnecessary litigation.

This petition stands dismissed, subject to the requirements foregoing.

Compliance to be reported by the petitioners."

(emphasis supplied by us)

14. Applying the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Satyam Shivam Papers Pvt. Ltd. (supra) on the facts of the present case, the writ petition deserves to be allowed with cost.

15. For all the reasons aforestated, the impugned detention order dated 07.03.2022, the release order dated 13.03.2022 and notices dated 22.03.2022 and 28.03.2022, are hereby quashed being totally arbitrary and illegal. The goods and vehicle in question seized by the respondents are directed to be released forthwith.

16. The writ petition is, accordingly, allowed with cost of Rs.50,000/- to each of the petitioners, i.e. total Rs.1,00,000/- which the respondents shall pay the petitioners within four weeks from today.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This petition is directed against an order of Mr. Ramesh Chandra, the 8th Additional District Judge, Court No.5, Allahabad passed in Rent Control Appeal No.10 of 2018, dismissing the said appeal and affirming the order of the Prescribed Authority/ Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division), Court No.14, Allahabad, allowing the landlord's application for release under Section 21(1)(a) of The Uttar Pradesh Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972 (U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972)1.

2. An application for release under Section 21(1)(a) of the Act was made by Deepak Tandon and Shekhar Tandon, both sons of the late Manmohan Tandon, seeking release of a part of residential accommodation bearing premises No 18/15, Hastings Road, 1/5 Nyay Marg, Tandon Quarters, Allahabad (now Prayagraj), as detailed at the foot of the application. The aforesaid accommodation, that shall hereinafter be referred to as the property in dispute, is in the tenancy occupation of Ashok Kumar Kesarwani. Kesarwani is a tenant in the property in dispute at a monthly rent of Rs.520/-, besides water tax and house tax. The property in dispute was let out to Kesarwani's father, the late Kundan Lal Kesarwani for residential purposes. Kundan Lal Kesarwani lived in the property in dispute during his lifetime and left behind him Ashok Kumar Kesarwani, who is the opposite party to the application for release and the petitioner here, besides two other sons and daughters. The two other brothers of Ashok Kumar Kesarwani, who shall hereinafter be referred to as 'the tenant-petitioner', moved away from the property in dispute and settled elsewhere in Allahabad. The tenant-petitioner's sisters got married and have settled down in their matrimonial homes. The late Kundan Lal Kesarwani passed away some 20 years prior to institution of proceedings for release. The tenant-petitioner has inherited the tenancy and stays in the property in dispute along with his family. The tenant-petitioner manages a General Merchant and Grocers Shop located 25 metres away from the property in dispute. The tenant-petitioner's shop aforesaid is housed in the premises of one Smt. Chanda Rani Tandon, an aunt of the the two landlords, Deepak Tandon and Shekhar Tandon. Pending proceedings before the Courts below, Shekhar Tandon has passed away and is represented on record before this Court by his two sons, Ayush Tandon and Utkarsh Tandon, besides his widow Smt. Archana Tandon. Deepak Tandon is arrayed as respondent no.3 to the petition. The heirs of Shekhar Tandon and Deepak Tandon shall hereinafter be referred to as 'the landlord-respondents' in case of a collective reference; in case of an individual reference, the landlord concerned shall be mentioned by name.

3. It is the landlord-respondents' further case that the tenant-petitioner has built a house of his own bearing Premises No. 62/30/6 B, Nawab Yusuf Road, Allahabad and has moved to the aforesaid house of his after vacating the property in dispute. For all practical purposes, the tenant-petitioner has moved out of the property in dispute and holds it in namesake, as it carries meagre rent. The tenant-petitioner has placed his lock on the property in dispute in order to retain possession thereof. It was the case of Deepak Tandon and Shekhar Tandon that their mother is very old and stays with them at their residential premises located at 47/33, Lukarganj, Allahabad. The distance between the landlord-respondents' residence and that of their business premises is about 3 kilometers. Deepak Tandon owns a firm by the name of Shubham Fluent Controls and Dynamics, whereas Shekhar Tandon owns a business by the name of Tele Links. Both the businesses are housed in parts of premises owned by Smt. Chanda Rani Tandon, an aunt of Deepak Tandon and Shekhar Tandon.

4. The landlord-respondents are doing business in rented accommodation that is located at a distance of 100 metres for Deepak Tandon and 25 metres for Shekhar Tandon from the property in dispute. Deepak Tandon and Shekhar Tandon have to stay in their business premises in connection with their business from 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. Both of them are turning old and to spend 12 hours and more at work causes exertion and tension. Deepak Tandon is a heart patient and has been advised by Doctors to eschew excessive labour and tension. The passage between the business premises of Deepak Tandon and Shekhar Tandon and their house involves negotiating the Railway Over-bridge, which is plagued by extraordinary traffic congestion leading the two brothers to face extreme inconvenience and difficulties.

5. It is the landlord-respondents' case that Deepak Tandon has filed P.A. Case No. 20 of 2011 against Rajesh Kumar Gupta, who is in occupation of accommodation abutting the tenant-petitioner. That accommodation is sought release of by Deepak Tandon for business's purposes. The said relief has been granted by the Prescribed Authority and the Appellate Authority, but the case was pending before this Court when the present release application was moved. Likewise, another P.A. Case was filed against a different tenant by Deepak Tandon and Shekhar Tandon, that is to say, Rajendra Kumar Abbi, who was in occupation of a shop, also sought release of for business purposes.

6. It is the pleaded case of the landlord-respondents that they made another release application being P.A. Case No. 6 of 13, Deepak Tandon and another vs. Smt. Saroj Anand, seeking release of part of the house in her possession on the ground of personal need for residential occupation for themselves and their families. It is the landlord-respondents' further case that in future they desire to have a house that was next to their office and business premises. For the present, the two landlords, Deepak Tandon and Shekhar Tandon said that they bona fide required the property in dispute for the purpose of lunch and rest during the afternoon, as it was close by to their business premises. If available, it would obviate obviate the necessity for the two brothers negotiating the traffic jam to make it to their residence located at Lukerganj everyday for lunch and rest.

7. It is the landlord-respondents' further case that the tenant-petitioner's need for the property in dispute has been effaced because he has acquired in the same city area at the distance of a mere 150 metres from the last mentioned property, a house of his own, much larger in size, that is a three storied structure. The tenant-petitioner resides in the aforesaid house of his along with his family members.

8. It is specifically pleaded that the requirement of the two landlords, Deepak Tandon and Shekhar Tandon is bona fide for the property.

9. The tenant-petitioner filed a written statement and also an additional written statement, wherein he has not disputed his status as a tenant in the property in dispute, whereof the landlord-respondents have been acknowledged to be the landlords. It is the tenant-petitioner's case that the property in dispute has been in the tenancy occupation of the family since the past 50 years. His father was originally the tenant and used the said property as a godown to store his wares. After the death of the tenant-petitioner's father, he took up residence in the property in dispute and at the same time, utilized it as a godown. The tenant-petitioner denied the fact that he utilizes the property in dispute exclusively for the purpose of his residence, as asserted by the landlord-respondents. It was further pleaded at the instance of the landlord-respondents that the tenant-petitioner, from time to time, increased the monthly rent, which, in the current time, is a sum of Rs. 520/- per mensem. It includes water tax and sewer tax. The landlord-respondents, in the month of November, 2015 demanded of the tenant-petitioner that the rent may be enhanced to a sum of Rs. 3,000/-, which the latter declined. There is a case also pleaded about the fact that initially, the landlord-respondents accepted the rent, but later on refused, on account of which, the tenant-petitioner is regularly depositing the same under Section 30(1) of the Act. It was then pleaded that some other tenants have been evicted and there is available accommodation with the landlord-respondents to satisfy their claimed bona fide need, but deliberately the landlord-respondents have suppressed the facts and made the present release application mala fide.

10. There is also a specific plea raised in paragraph no. 25 of the written statement, setting out names of various tenants who are continuing to occupy different parts of the landlord-respondents' premises, but no proceedings for eviction have been taken against them. The tenant-petitioner, on the basis of singling him out for eviction proceedings has raised a plea of mala fides against the landlord-respondents. In the additional written statement, the tenant-petitioner has not denied the fact that he has got constructed a house of his own bearing Premises No. 62/30/6B, Nawab Yusuf Road, Allahabad, but said that his house is very small, admeasuring 15' x 30'. The tenant-petitioner goes to the said house to retire for the night. It is then pleaded in the additional written statement that in the afternoon hours, he takes time off from his shop and eats his lunch, utilizing the property in dispute. The tenant-petitioner also says that he is afflicted by kidney disease, that causes him to frequently need the urinal. He utilizes the property in dispute that was located at the distance of a three quarters of a kilometer from his shop for the twin purpose of eating his lunch and answering the frequent call of nature, a fallout of his diseased kidneys. In addition, the property in dispute is used as a godown for his shop, where he can conveniently and quickly ensure supplies to his shop. It is also the tenant-petitioner's case that pending the proceedings for release, the landlord-respondents have got vacated adjoining shops from the other tenants, Rajesh Kumar Gupta, Surendra Kumar, Suresh Khanna, Rajendra Kumar Abbi, all of which has led the landlord-respondents to acquire in a vacant state much accommodation, that they can utilize for the purpose of satisfaction of their claimed bona fide need. The shops vacated by the above named persons are part of the same premises as the property in dispute and adjoining it. It is broadly on the aforesaid pleas that the tenant-petitioner has resisted the release application.

11. The parties filed their affidavits and some on behalf of the witnesses in support of their respective cases. The Prescribed Authority vide judgment and award dated 30.11.2017 allowed the release application. The tenant-petitioner filed Rent Appeal No. 10 of 2018 before the District Judge of Allahabad. The appeal came up for determination before the Additional District Judge, Court No. 5 Allahabad, who proceeded to hear and dismiss the appeal vide the judgment impugned dated 07.01.2019.

12. Dissatisfied, the tenant-petitioner has filed the present petition under Article 227 of the Constitution.

13. Parties have exchanged affidavits.

14. Heard Mr. Vishal Khandelwal, learned Counsel for the tenant-petitioner and Mr. Kunal Shah, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent nos. 3 to 6.

15. It has been argued by Mr. Khandelwal that the property in dispute being one that is a residential building, it cannot be released for a business purpose, because what the landlord-respondents have said in their application normally constitutes a business purpose. He points out that the application is not maintainable, in view of Clause (ii) of the third proviso to Section 21(1) of the Act. It is argued that the landlord-respondents have pleaded a case that they need the property in dispute so that they can eat their lunch conveniently, as it is situate close to their business premises, sparing them the trouble of going home everyday, that is located three kilometers away from their place of work. This purpose the learned Counsel for the appellant submits is a business purpose, and not residential purpose.

16. This Court is afraid that the aforesaid objection is not very well-founded, because the plea that the property in dispute is a residential accommodation, attracting the bar carried in Clause (ii) of the third proviso to Section 21(1)(a) of the Act, was never taken in the written statement filed before the Prescribed Authority. It was also not argued before the Appellate Authority. It is before this Court that the plea has been urged for the first time. Learned Counsel for the tenant-petitioner says that the position is admitted that the property in dispute is a residential accommodation, and therefore, no pleading to that effect is required. He has urged that admission is the best form of proof and here, this position it admitted that the property in dispute is a residential accommodation. This submission too is not borne out by the facts on record. In paragraph no. 21 of the written statement filed by the tenant-petitioner, it has been averred that the property in dispute was used since the time of their father for the purpose of his godown and also residence and until date, the tenant-petitioner utilizes the said property as a godown and also for the purpose of residence. However, a perusal of paragraph no. 5 of the additional written statement shows that the tenant-petitioner utilizes the property in dispute as a godown in order to facilitate his business and the only other use to which it is put is that the tenant-petitioner eats his lunch there and uses the washroom. This clearly would not show that the property in dispute was let out for a residential purpose. Rather, the totality of the pleadings indicate that since the time of his father, the property in dispute was used as a godown. Quite apart, how much of it was used for residence and what part as a godown would be a matter which would have been gone into from the point of view of maintainability, if that plea had specifically been raised before the Authorities below. The plea was not specifically taken before the Authorities below, on account of which, that issue with reference to the evidence was never examined. The same issue arose between the petitioner and another tenant, Rajesh Kumar Gupta, against whom, release was ordered by the Prescribed Authority and the Appellate Authority. This Court, however, in a writ petition, set aside the order on the ground that the tenancy was essentially for a residential purpose, where three rooms were utilized for residence and one for a shop, whereas the landlord-respondents had sought release for commercial purpose, attracting the bar under the third proviso to Section 21 of the Act.

17. The aforesaid view of this Court did not find favour with their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Deepak Tandon and another v. Rajesh Kumar Gupta2 where it was held :

15. In our considered opinion, the High Court committed jurisdictional error in setting aside the concurrent findings of the two courts below and thereby erred in allowing the respondent's writ appeal and dismissing the appellants' application under Section 21(1)(a) of the 1972 Act as not maintainable. This we say for the following reasons:

15.1. First, it is not in dispute that the respondent (opposite party) had not raised the plea of maintainability of the appellants' application under Section 21(1)(a) of the 1972 Act in his written statement before the Prescribed Authority.

15.2. Second, since the respondent failed to raise the plea of maintainability, the Prescribed Authority rightly did not decide this question either way.

15.3. Third, the respondent again did not raise the plea of maintainability before the first appellate court in his appeal and, therefore, the first appellate court was also right in not deciding this question either way.

15.4. Fourth, it is a settled law that if the plea is not taken in the pleadings by the parties and no issue on such plea was, therefore, framed and no finding was recorded either way by the trial court or the first appellate court, such plea cannot be allowed to be raised by the party for the first time in third court whether in appeal, revision or writ, as the case may be, for want of any factual foundation and finding.

15.5. Fifth, it is more so when such plea is founded on factual pleadings and requires evidence to prove i.e. it is a mixed question of law and fact and not pure jurisdictional legal issue requiring no facts to probe.

15.6. Sixth, the question as to whether the tenancy is solely for residential purpose or for commercial purpose or for composite purpose i.e. for both residential and commercial purpose, is not a pure question of law but is a question of fact, therefore, this question is required to be first pleaded and then proved by adducing evidence. It is for this reason, such question could not have been decided by the High Court for the first time in third round of litigation in its writ jurisdiction simply by referring to some portions of the pleadings. In any case and without going into much detail, we are of the view that if the tenancy is for composite purpose because some portion of tenanted premises was being used for residence and some portion for commercial purpose i.e. residential and commercial, then the landlord will have a right to seek the tenant's eviction from the tenanted premises for his residential need or commercial need, as the case may be.

15.7. Seventh, the High Court exceeded its jurisdiction in interfering with the concurrent findings of fact of the two courts below while allowing the writ appeal entirely on the new ground of maintainability of the application without examining the legality and correctness of the concurrent findings of the two courts below, which was impugned in the writ appeal.

15.8. Eighth, the High Court should have seen that the concurrent findings of facts of the two courts below were binding on the writ court because these findings were based on appreciation of evidence and, therefore, did not call for any interference in the writ jurisdiction.

18. This is precisely the position here on facts and the state of pleadings. In view of holding of the Supreme Court in Deepak Tandon (supra), the point urged by Mr. Khandelwal does not hold substance. So far as the question of bona fide need and comparative hardship is concerned, both the Authorities below have concurrently answered it against the tenant-petitioner and the inference drawn by both Courts from the evidence on record is, in no way, perverse or based on irrelevant material. The most important fact that tips the scales heavily in favour of the tenant-petitioner on both the counts of bona fide need and comparative hardship is that it is admitted to the tenant-petitioner that he has acquired/got constructed a house within the same city, situate at Premises No. 62/30/6B, Nawab Yusuf Road, Allahabad. The tenant-petitioner has, no doubt, attempted to explain the possession of a residential accommodation on the ground that the house constructed by him is very small, as he says in paragraph no. 5 of his Additional W.S., admeasuring 15' x 30' that he utilizes to retire at night alone, but that explanation is in apology for a plenary admission of the fact that the tenant-petitioner has a residential accommodation available to him in the same city. Rather, the tenant-petitioner's further case that he utilizes the property in dispute to eat his lunch and answer the call of nature excludes the case that he utilizes the property in dispute for residential purposes at all. These facts have figured in the pleadings of the tenant-petitioner, let alone the evidence. The findings that the Authorities below have given on its basis cannot, therefore, be faulted at all.

19. It is, thus, clear that the property in dispute is not at all utilized as a residential premises by the tenant-petitioner, but as a godown and a place to facilitate his business located at a short distance. It is the tenant-petitioner's case that he utilizes the property in dispute to eat his lunch and use the washroom, accessing it conveniently from his shop located close by. The landlord-respondents also need the property in dispute for a similar purpose, that is to say, as an adjunct or facility to their business, which they can utilize during the day to eat their lunch, instead of going to their faraway located home. Once both the tenant-petitioner and the landlord-respondents seek to utilize the property in dispute for a similar purpose and the landlord-respondents have shown that they need it to carry on their business with ease, the bona fide need of the landlord-respondents must be accepted. Likewise, comparative hardship would also have to be held in favour of the landlord-respondents, as both the tenant-petitioner and the landlord-respondents need the property in dispute for a similar purpose. Where the competing need is similar and evenly balanced, comparative hardship has to be held in favour of the landlord-respondents.

20. The Appellate Court has taken note particularly of the fact that in paragraph no. 13 of the affidavit, Paper No. 24ka, the tenant-petitioner has admitted the fact that he has recently got constructed the house bearing Premises No. 62/30/6B, Nawab Yusuf Road, Allahabad and has, on that basis, opined that the tenant-petitioner has no right whatsoever to object to the release of the property in dispute. This line of reasoning is an alternate to that this Court has hitherto considered. It proceeds on the tenant-petitioner's assertion that the property in dispute is residential or that was the purpose for which it was let out. Even if this case of the tenant-petitioner were to be accepted, Explanation (i) to Section 21(1) of the Act would come into play and disable the tenant-petitioner from objecting to the application for release. The disability under the aforesaid provision would be attracted if the tenant-petitioner or any member of his family has acquired another residential building in the same city, municipality etc. In this connection, reference may be made to the decision of the Supreme Court in Shiv Singh Chak v. Baby Jain3, where it has been held :

8. Explanation (i) to Section 21(1) of the Act provides that where a proceeding for eviction is initiated by the landlord in regard to a residential building under Section 21(1) of the Act and where the tenant or any member of his family has acquired a vacant residential building in the same city/town/area, the prescribed authority shall not entertain any objection of the tenant against the application for eviction. In effect this means that where the landlord avers and proves in an eviction proceedings relating to a residential building under Section 21(1) of the Act, that the tenant has acquired vacant possession of a residential building in the same city/town/area, it will not be permissible for the tenant to challenge the *bona fide*s of the landlord or put forth any hardship as a defence. But the said Explanation (i) to Section 21(1) does not apply to non-residential buildings. The Explanation to Section 21(1) starts with the words "In the case of a residential building". As the Explanation is inapplicable to a non-residential building, the bar contained in Clause (i) of the Explanation will not operate where the eviction petition is in regard to a non-residential building. But the fact that the tenant has acquired a suitable alternative non-residential building may, however, be urged as a good ground to hold that no hardship will be caused to the tenant if he is evicted from the premises let out to him.

21. To the same effect is the decision of this Court in Laxmi Kant Bhatnagar v. District Judge, Muzaffarnagar and another4, where it was observed :

8. The legislative mandate is very clear. Once a tenant has himself got a residential accommodation, or through any member of his family who has been normally residing with him or is wholly dependent on him, in a vacant state, no objection against release application under section 21(1)(a) of Act, 1972 shall be entertained from such tenant.

9. The sale-deed is on record. There is nothing to show that accommodation was not vacant at the time of execution of sale-deed between petitioner-tenant's wife and erstwhile landlord of said building. No other material has been placed to show that the building when acquired was not vacant. The acquirement of building by petitioner's wife is not in dispute. It is also not in dispute that Explanation (i) would be attracted in the present case. Even during course of argument Sri A.K. Mehrotra has not controverted that the said provision i.e., Explanation (i) to section 21(1)(a) shall be attracted in the present case.

10. That being so, against landlord's application for release of residential accommodation, no objection can be entertained from the tenant. It means that the tenant loses any locus standi to object prayer for release made by the landlord.

11. That being so, it results in extinguishing any right to contest prayer of landlord for release of residential building which embraces within itself right to pursue or contest in subsequent proceedings also.

22. Thus, viewed from any angle and whichever way it is considered, no case for interference with the impugned order is made out.

23. In the result, this petition fails and is dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

Heard Mr. Satish Kumar Pandey, learned Counsel for the petitioners and Mr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, learned Counsel appearing for the respondents via video conferencing.

2. This is a petition under Art. 227 of the Constitution, seeking to set aside the order dated 26.10.2021 passed by the District Judge, Mainpuri in Transfer Application No. 85 of 2021, praying for a transfer of Civil Appeal No. 40 of 2016, Shivpal Singh and others v. Dafedar Singh, pending before the Ist Additional District Judge, Mainpuri to the Court of the District Judge. The appellants in the civil appeal pending before the District Court appear to be defendants of Suit No. 939 of 1996, decided by the Civil Judge (Junior Division), Mainpuri vide judgment and decree dated 20.10.2016. They are the petitioners here, whereas respondent nos. 1 to 13 are the plaintiff-respondents to the present petition as well as the appeal before the District Court. The petitioners' application for transfer has been dismissed by the learned District Judge of Mainpuri vide order dated 26.10.2021.

3. Before this Court could examine the merits of the order passed by the District Judge dated 26.10.2021, refusing the petitioners' plea for transfer of the appeal, Mr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, learned Counsel appearing for respondents took an objection that in view of the decision of this Court in Jaikaran Singh and others v. Balakram and others1, this petition is not maintainable. Instead, a transfer application would lie to this Court under Section 24 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 19082 after rejection of the petitioners' transfer application by the District Judge under the aforesaid provision.

4. Mr. Satish Kumar Pandey, learned Counsel for the petitioners, on the other hand, has countered the objection as to the maintainability of this petition under Art. 227 of the Constitution. He submits that once a transfer application under Section 24 of the Code is rejected by the District Judge, asking for transfer of a suit or appeal from one Court to another in the same judgeship, the only remedy is a petition under Art. 227 of the Constitution and not a transfer application made further to this Court under Section 24 of the Code. He has placed reliance upon the decision of this Court in Smt. Sunita Devi v. Ram Kripal and another3 and another decision of this Court in Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. through its Principal Secretary v. Ram Swaroop Bajaj (deceased) through his legal heir Km. Aparna Bajaj4.

5. This Court has examined the matter, and there appears to be difference of opinion on the point between learned Single Judges of this Court. In Jaikaran Singh (supra), Siddharth Varma, J. held that against an order of the District Court declining a transfer application under Section 24 of the Code, a petition under Art. 227 of the Constitution does not lie.

The remedy of the unsuccessful applicant for transfer is to invoke the concurrent jurisdiction of this Court under Section 24 of the Code. His Lordship in Jaikaran Singh has opined :

10. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties, I am of the view that an Application under Article 227 of the Constitution of India did not lie against an order passed under Section 24 of the CPC by the District Court. The High Court can always independently look into the grounds of a Transfer Application afresh. The jurisdiction conferred on both - the High court and the District was concurrent and was independently available to both the Courts.

11. However, the parties should approach the District Court first and thereafter the High Court as judicial property demand that judicial hierarchy be maintained. It was, therefore, always in the interest of justice that the powers of the District Court be invoked initially and, thereafter, those of the High Court. Certainly an order passed on a Transfer Application does not bring to an end the litigation between the parties and, therefore, as has been held in Asrumati Debi v. Kumar Rupendra Deb Raikot (supra) as an order passed under Section 24 of the C.P.C. is not a judgement the High court cannot exercise its supervisory jurisdiction. Thus, once when the doors of the District Court have been knocked the filing of a Transfer Application before the High Court is neither prohibited nor excluded. A bare reading of the Section 24 of the C.P.C. would clarify the point in issue and, therefore, Section 24 of the C.P.C. is being reproduced here as under:

24. General power of transfer and withdrawal.- (1) On the application of any of the parties and after notice to the parties and after hearing such of them as desired to be heard, or of its own motion without such notice, the High Court or the District court may at any stage--

(a) transfer any suit, appeal or other proceeding pending before it for trial or disposal to any court subordinate to it and competent to try or dispose of the same, or

(b) withdraw any suit, appeal or other proceeding pending in any Court subordinate to it, and

(i) try or dispose of the same; or

(ii) transfer the same for trial or disposal to any Court subordinate to it and competent to try or dispose of the same; or

(iii) retransfer the same for trial or disposal to the Court from which it was withdrawn.

(2) Where any suit or proceeding has been transferred or withdrawn under sub-section (1), the Court which is thereafter to try or dispose of such suit or proceeding may, subject to any special directions in the case of an order of transfer, either retry it or proceed from the point at which it was transferred or withdrawn.

(3) For the purposes of this section.--

(a) Courts of Additional and Assistant Judges shall be deemed to be subordinate to the District Court;

(b) "proceeding" includes a proceeding for the execution of a decree or order.

(4) The Court trying any suit transferred or withdrawn under this section from a Court of Small Cases shall, for the purposes of such suit, be deemed to be a Court of Small Causes.

(5) A suit or proceeding may be transferred under this section from a Court which has no jurisdiction to try it.

12. In contrast, the provisions of Order IX Rule 13 of the C.P.C. may also be looked into which clearly put a bar on the filing of an application under Order IX

Rule 13 of the C.P.C. once the parties had got an Appeal decided by a higher court. The provisions of Order IX Rule 13 of the C.P.C. are also being reproduced here as under:--

13. Setting aside decree ex parte against defendant. - In any case in which a decree is passed ex parte against a defendant, he may apply to the Court by which the decree was passed for an order to set it aside; and if he satisfies the Court that the summons was not duly served, or that he was prevented by any sufficient cause from appearing when the suit was called on for hearing, the Court shall make an order setting aside the decree as against him upon such terms as to costs, payment into Court or otherwise as it thinks fit, and shall appoint a day for proceeding with the suit:

Provided that where the decree is of such a nature that it cannot be set aside as against such defendant only it may be set aside as against all or any of the other defendants also:

Provided further that no Court shall set aside a decree passed ex parte merely on the ground that there has been an irregularity in the service of summons, if it is satisfied that the defendant had notice of the date of hearing and had sufficient time to appear and answer the plaintiff's claim.

[Explanation. - Where there has been an appeal against a decree passed ex parte under this rule, and the appeal has been disposed of on any ground other than the ground that the appellant has withdrawn the appeal, no application shall lie under this rule for setting aside that ex parte decree.]

13. Under such circumstances, to say that the legislature desired the filing of only one application, either before the High Court or before the District Court would be an erroneous interpretation.

14. Therefore, relying on Asrumati Debi v. Kumar Rupendra Deb Raikot4 I hold that since the High Court had not to sit in appeal or under its supervisory jurisdiction over the order passed by the District Court while rejecting a Transfer Application, and in fact it had to independently decide the Transfer Application afresh, the Application under Article 227 of the Constitution of India was not maintainable.

15. The application, therefore, under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is dismissed as being not maintainable.

6. Much earlier than the decision in Jaikaran Singh, Surya Prakash Kesarwani, J. appears to have taken a contrary view, holding that no power has been conferred on the High Court to set aside orders made by the District Court on a transfer application under Section 24 of the Code and that, therefore, against an order passed by the District Judge allowing a transfer application, further transfer application to this Court would not lie under Section 24 of the Code. His Lordship has followed an earlier decision of this Court to the same effect in Smt. Sunita Devi. His Lordship in Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. (supra) held :

5. From perusal of the aforesaid provisions, it is apparently clear that no power has been conferred on the High Court to set aside the order passed by the District Court on an application under section 24 of C.P.C.

6. In the case of Dr. Ajay Chaturwedi v. Smt. Shobhana1, a Division Bench of this Court has considered the nature of power under section 24 of C.P.C. and held that transfer of proceedings of suit, appeal etc. can be directed by the High Court/District Court on an application as also suo moto. This power of transfer is not an exercise of original jurisdiction, it is not an exercise of appellate jurisdiction nor it is an exercise of revisional jurisdiction. The power of transfer of suit and other proceedings is an exercise of power of superintendence. The legal position has also been explained by the Madras High Court in the case of P. Karuppiah Ambalam v. Ayya Nadar2. The power conferred under section 24 of C.P.C. gives power to two Superior Courts, viz., the High Court or the District Court to withdraw any suit, appeal or other proceedings pending in any Court subordinate to it and either try and dispose of the same, or transfer the same for trial or disposal to any Court, subordinate to it and competent to try or dispose of the same. Section 24 confers a very wide power, and it is intended to enable the two Superior Courts mentioned in it to exercise their general power of superintendent over Subordinate Courts, or in the interest of justice.

7. In the case of Sunita Devi (supra), this Court considered the scope of section 24 of C.P.C. and held as under:

"8. The expression "the High Court or the District Court" clearly indicates that the power of the District Judge and that of the High Court under section 24 of the C.P.C. Is mutually exclusive. The word "or" in the expression "the High Court or. The District Court" in sub-section (1) is used disjunctively and not conjunctively which means that a person can move either the High Court or the District Court and not both the Courts in succession one after the other. Thus, from the aforesaid expression it is crystal clear that the application under section 24 of the C.P.C. can either be moved before the District Judge or the High Court and cannot be moved simultaneously or one after the other. Thus, the remedy can be availed either by approaching the District Judge or directly to the High Court. Since the jurisdiction of the District Judge and the High Court is concurrent under section 24 of the C.P.C, so if one party has approached the District Court, that party would be precluded from approaching the High Court under section 24 of the C.P.C. The High Court under section 24 of the C.P.C. cannot sit over the order of the District Judge as a Revisional Court or as an Appellate Court.

10. From the above provision of the Cr. P.C. it is clear that if any transfer application is rejected by the Sessions Judge the applicant can come to the High Court for getting the case transferred from one Court to the other in the same judgeship on the same ground but there is no such provision in the C.P.C. So, in the absence of such provision no party can approach the High Court after rejection of his application by the District Judge. In this reference, the ruling of the Hon'ble High Court rendered in Dadi jagannadham v. Jammulu Ramula1, may be referred to. In this ruling, it has been held that the Court could not add words to a statute or read words into it which are not there, especially when the literal reading produces an intelligible result.

11. So, in the absence of any specific provision in the C.P.C. a person cannot approach the High Court under section 24 of the C.P.C. or any other provision of the C.P.C. to get his case transferred from one Court to another in the same judgeship after rejection of his transfer application by the District Judge on the same ground. But he is not remediless. He may approach the High Court for this purpose by means of filing the writ petition under Article 226 and 227 of the Constitution of India and may invoke the High Court's power of superintendence" 9.

In view of the aforesaid, I find that transfer application filed by the applicant is not maintainable. Consequently, the transfer application deserves to be dismissed.

7. It must be remarked that the decision of this Court in Smt. Sunita Devi was rendered in a case where the applicant before this Court had moved a transfer application under Section 24 of the Code, after rejection of his application seeking transfer of the suit within the same judgeship by the District Judge. It was in that context that Mohd. Tahir, J. held that a further transfer application under Section 24 CPC would not lie, for the reasons indicated in Paragraph Nos. 10 and 11 of the report. In Jaikaran Singh, the two earlier decisions of this Court in Smt. Sunita Devi and Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. were not brought to His Lordship's notice.

8. This issue appears to have been considered by a Division Bench of the Calcutta High Court in Gora Chandas v. Dipali Das5 and an earlier decision of a Division Bench of the same Court in Hari Nath Biswas and another v. Devendra Nath Biswas6 where it was held that against refusal of an application under Section 24 of the Code by the District Judge, a fresh application for transfer to the High Court under Section 24 of the Code is maintainable. Their Lordships of the Division Bench in Gora Chandas (supra) followed a learned Single Judge of the Patna High Court in Sheo Nandan Lal and others v. Mangal Chand7.

9. To my understanding, the jurisdiction under Section 24 of the Code is concurrent and nature of the power exercised under Section 24 is essentially administrative. It is administrative in the sense that it does not decide rights of parties in the sense that it is done in a lis before the Court. All that is decided in an application under Section 24 of the Code is the Court that would hear a suit or an appeal or other proceedings governed by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. The resultant of a determination under Section 24 of the Code is nothing more than the fact whether Court "A' "B' or "C' would hear and decide a lis between parties. To transfer a case within a judgeship, the District Judge has concurrent jurisdiction with the High Court. If the District Judge declines to transfer a case from a particular Court or grants a transfer, the High Court, being a Court of superior jurisdiction, can be approached by the unsuccessful party before the District Judge or the party who feels that the transfer has been wrongly granted, through an original application under Section 24 of the Code. The High Court, being a Court of superior jurisdiction, above the District Judge, can take an "administrative decision" so to speak, to grant a transfer, where the District Judge has refused, or to re-transfer a case where the District Judge has granted it to the same Court or some other Court. In passing any of these orders, the High Court would not be deciding any case in the sense of a lis or undoing an order of the District Judge in the sense that an Appellate Court or Revisional Court does, where a subordinate Court passes a judicial order, deciding a lis inter partes.

10. The view that I take draws much for its inspiration from the decision of this Court in Jagdish Kumar v. The District Judge, Budaun and others8. In the case last mentioned, the District Judge had dismissed a transfer application under Section 24 of the Code. Upon an application under the section last mentioned being made to this Court, after the District Judge had rejected that prayer, an objection about maintainability of a second or a further application under Section 24 of the Code on the same grounds was raised before this Court by the learned Counsel for the respondents. This Court formulated two questions, which are detailed in Paragraph No. 7 of the report in Jagdish Kumar (supra) which reads :

7. The contention of the counsel for the opposite party that a second application under Section 24 of the Code on the self same ground after its rejection is not maintainable is disputed by the counsel for the applicant. From the arguments advanced by the respective counsel on this point, the following questions are formulated.-(1) whether the order rejecting or allowing an application under Section 24 of the Code is a case decided within the meaning of Section 115 of the Code and is thereby open to revision or not? (2) whether the jurisdiction of the High Court and the District Court under Section 24 of the Code is concurrent to the extent that after a decision by one Court on such application a second application on the self same cause of action to the other court is competent.

11. Though the answer to the first question formulated in Jagdish Kumar also has bearing on the issue involved here, but it is the second question that squarely covers the controversy. In answering the second question in Jagdish Kumar, D.K. Seth, J. held :

18. Now turning to the second point it may be observed that Section 24 of the Code has used an expression which clearly indicates that the power is concurrent to both the District Judge and the High Court. Inasmuch as it has used the expression that "High Court or the District Court may (a) transfer any suit, appeal or other proceeding pending before it for trial or disposal to any court subordinate to it and competent to try or dispose of the same, or (b) withdraw any suit, appeal or other proceeding pending in any court subordinate to it, and (i) try or dispose or the same; or (ii) transfer the same for trial or disposal to any Court subordinate to it and competent to try or dispose of the same, or (iii) retransfer the same for trial or disposal to the court from which it was withdrawn".

19. The jurisdiction conferred under Section 24 of the Code is concurrent does not conceive of any scope of doubt. But whether the concurrent jurisdiction means that both the jurisdiction can be availed together or one after the other. The concurrence means both the courts having jurisdiction, the parties are free to approach one or the other. Whenever concurrent jurisdiction has been conferred on the High Court and the District Court, it is provided that it one of the forum is approached, the party would be precluded from approaching the other forum. Inasmuch as in the West Bengal amendment of Section 115 of the Code by which Section 115A has been inserted. Under the said provisions both High Court and District Court have been empowered to entertain an application under Section 115 of the Code. Under sub-sections (3) and (4) thereof it has been provided that if either of the court is approached, no further revision shall be entertained between the same parties either by the High Court or the District Court as the case may be. Similar provision has also been incorporated in Section 397 of the Cr.P.C. where in sub-section (3) similar exclusion of jurisdiction by the High Court or Sessions Court having concurrent jurisdiction has been provided. In the absence of specific prohibition or exclusion of jurisdiction, Section 24 of the Code cannot be interpreted to mean that the jurisdiction of the one court is to the exclusion of the other. But a situation may arise where the High Court having been unsuccessfully approached, a party may approach to the District Court thereafter. If such a situation is permitted, it would work out a judicial anarchy. After having unsuccessful before the District Court, a party may approach the High Court. Such position is in conformity with the system of judicial hierarchy. If the party approaches the High Court then it cannot come back to the District Court. Such an interpretation would not be in conformity with the judicial system of hierarchy.

20. But in case a party seeking transfer, is unsuccessful in the District Court whether he is precluded from challenging the said order. The answer would be available by resorting to Article 227 of the Constitution. Therefore, it cannot be said that he is precluded from challenging such an order if sufficient ground is made out for invoking such jurisdiction. Similarly if an applicant before the High Court succeeds, the aggrieved party cannot avail the concurrent jurisdiction of the District Judge thereafter on the same analogy due to which successful candidate is so prevented. The jurisdiction may not be mutually excluded but once the High Court is approached, the jurisdiction of the District Court is excluded.

21. In the case of Gorachand Das v. Bipal Das 1976 (2) Cal LJ 380, it was held that even after the District Court refused the prayer for transfer under Section 24 of the Code, the High Court may be moved for transfer.

22. Thus the out-come of the above discussion indicates that when an application for transfer before the District Court fails, the party applying may approach the concurrent jurisdiction of the High Court under the same provision but the party opposing though may apply for retransfer before the District Judge but cannot challenge the said order under Section 115 of the Code though, however, on the principle on which Article 227 of the Constitution can be exercised he may invoke the power of superintendence conferred upon the High Court by the Constitution under Article 227 of the Constitution thereof. But if the party approaches the concurrent jurisdiction of the High Court straightaway then the applicant and opposite party - both may approach the Supreme Court under Section 25 of the Code, if aggrieved by the order of the High Court. But once the High Court passes an order under Section 24 on an application of an unsuccessful applicant before the District Judge, the order of the District Judge stands overruled by implication on passing of the order by the High Court. As such in the facts and circumstances of the present case, the application under Section 24 of the Code before this Court is maintainable.

12. The decision in Jagdish Kumar was followed in Ishtiyak Ahmad v. Smt. Meena and others9, where it was observed :

5. The remedy under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is an extraordinarily remedy of discretionary nature and it cannot be ordinarily permitted to be invoked if the party has any alternative statutory remedy for getting the desired relief.

6. The jurisdiction under section 24, C.P.C. is concurrent jurisdiction conferred both upon the District Judge and the High Court. Therefore, if an application under section 24, C.P.C. has been rejected, the party aggrieved may move a fresh application before the High Court under section 24, C.P.C. itself as has also been laid down by the aforesaid decision.

13. While the decision in Jaikaran Singh did not notice the earlier decisions in Smt. Sunita Devi and Indian Oil Corporation Ltd., taking a contrary view, it is equally true that in Smt. Sunita Devi and Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. the very well reasoned decision in Jagdish Kumar was not brought to their Lordships' notice.

14. For the reasons I have already indicated, I am inclined to the view taken in Jagdish Kumar and Jaikaran Singh, but, bearing in mind the requirements of judicial discipline and the fact that there are contradictory views expressed by learned Judges of this Court sitting singly, I am of opinion that the question involved ought to be authoritatively decided by a larger Bench.

15. In the circumstances, the following question is referred for consideration by a larger Bench :

Whether against an order made by the District Court, refusing a transfer application under Section 24 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 an application for transfer on the same grounds by the same party is maintainable before the High Court under Section 24 CPC?

16. Until decision of the case by larger Bench, further proceedings in Civil Appeal No. 40 of 2016, pending before the Ist Additional Civil Judge, Mainpuri shall remain stayed.

17. Let papers of this case be laid by the Registry before His Lordship the Hon'ble the Chief Justice for appropriate orders, at the earliest.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Syed Aftab Husain Rizvi, J.)

1. Heard earned counsel for the applicant, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the material on record.

2. This application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed to quash the order dated 2.2.2022 passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Varanasi in Case No. 1982 of 2021 (Bhonu Patel Vs. Ramnagina Yadav and others). By the impugned order the learned Magistrate has treated the application U/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. moved by the applicant as a complaint case.

3. The averments made in the application are that the plot no. 125, 175, 176, 179, 180, 183, 257 total area 1.94 acre situated in village Shahpur, Pargana Katehar, Tehsil & District Varanasi are the ancestral property of the applicant and his uncle Shyamlal son of late Sitaram. Both applicant and his uncle were cultivating on the aforesaid land for about 35 years. After the death of his uncle applicant was continuously cultivating the aforesaid plots up till now. After the death of Sitaram name of the both daughters namely Smt. Sajni and Smt. Mankeshri were mutated on the aforesaid land without any order of the competent authority with the collusion of the Lekhpal concern and name of late Shyamlal was not mutated in respect of the aforesaid land. When this fact came into the knowledge of Shyamlal, uncle of the applicant then he filed a suit under section 229-B U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act in the year 1987 before the concerned Sub Divisional Officer but the same was dismissed against which the appeal was filed before the Commissioner, Varanasi Division, Varanasi the same was also dismissed then against the same second appeal was filed before the Board of Revenue which is still pending and interim stay order has been granted. During the continuance of the stay order granted in the aforesaid second appeal Smt. Sajni and Smt. Mankeshri executed a registered sale deed in the year 1993 in favour of Ramlal, Shyamlal, Rajendra, Mahendra all sons of Khaderan Shahu, resident of Panihari. Uncle of the applicant namely late Shyamlal executed a registered will deed on 3.4.1998 in favour of the applicant in respect of the aforesaid land. During the pendency of the aforesaid case O.P. No. 7 got a registered sale deed dated 25.5.2012 executed by Ramlal, Shyamlal, Rajendra, Mahendra all sons of Khaderan Shahu in favour of his wife Smt. Ranjita Yadav O.P. No.8 and his mother late Kalawati Devi and O.P. No. 9 got the sale deed executed in the name of his wife Suman Singh O.P. No. 10 in respect of the aforesaid plots in collusion with O.P. Nos. 11 and 12 and their names had also been mutated in the aforesaid plots. Thereafter by order dated 30.7.2015 passed by additional Sub divisional Officer Sadar, Varanasi name of the wife of O.P. No. 7 Smt. Ranita Yadav and his mother namely Kalawati Devi and O.P. No. 8 and wife of O.P. No. 9 Smt. Suman Singh and O.P. No. 10 were deleted from the revenue record in respect of the aforesaid plots. O.P. No. 7 namely Guru Prasad Yadav filed a Revision No. 2097 of 2015 (Smt. Kalawati Devi and others Vs. Shyam Lal and others) against the order dated 30.7.2015 in the Hon'be Board of Revenue U.P. at Lucknow, which is still pending. The uncle of the applicant namely Shyamlal died on 23.12.2016. The O.P. No. 2 namely Ramnagina Yadav is retired police officer. Despite knowing the fact that the name of Smt. Ranjita Yadav O.P. No. 8 and his mother-in-law namely Kalawati Devi have been deleted from the revenue record in respect of the aforesaid land and case is pending in Board of Revenue, O.P. No. 2 to 10 got a registered sale deed executed on 28.10.2015 in the name of Smt. Asrafi Devi wife of O.P. No. 2 with intention to cause unlawful loss to the applicant. On the basis of the aforesaid registered sale deed dated 28.10.2015 O.P. No. 2 to 6 filed a mutation proceedings in the competent court but the same was rejected on 19.5.2016 ex-parte against which a restoration application was filed but the same was also dismissed on 5.3.2020. The aforesaid order has already been recorded in the Khatauni of the aforesaid plots. O.P. Nos. 2 to 11 by playing fraud got the registered sale deed dated 28.10.2015 the same is clear from the aforesaid facts. On 23.7.2021 at about 4:00 p.m. O.P. No. 2 taking the advantage of his being related to the police department, in collusion with some peoples of P.S. Chaubepur came along with O.P. Nos. 3 to 12 and 10-15 unknown persons at plot nos. 179, 180, 183, 257 with intention to take possession of the land and to cultivate the same and on making of the objection by the applicant O.P. Nos. 2 to 12 and 10-15 unknown persons started abusing the applicant by using filthy words and also started beating him then on hearing the alarm of the applicant, his son and other people came on the spot and save the applicant and thereafter opposite parties run away from there saying the applicant not to come near the land otherwise they will kill him and buried him in the land in dispute and his dead body could not be traced.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant contended that there are clear allegations in the application from which a cognizable offence is made out. Some of the accused are known but some of the accused are unknown. Without investigation their identity can not come into picture. Hence, in the circumstances the investigation is necessary. The learned Magistrate has failed to consider it and has passed the order for treating the application as a complaint case instead of registration of FIR and investigation. In the circumstances of the case the learned Magistrate was bound to order for registration of the case and investigation. Learned counsel further contended that learned Magistrate has relied upon the case law of Sukhwasi Vs. State of U.P. (2007) 59 SCC page 739 but ignored the ruling cited on behalf of applicant which are as follows:

1. Lalita Kumari Vs. Govt. of U.P. and others AIR 2014 SC 187

2. Anmol Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others 2021 0 Supreme(All) 10 2021 1 ADJ 400

3. Ramdev Food Products Pvt. Ltd. Vs. State of Gujarat AIR 2015 Supreme Court 1742

5. Learned counsel further contended that the aforesaid rulings also support the applicant's case. The impugned order is arbitrary and illegal.

6. Learned A.G.A. contended that there is no illegality in the impugned order. It is also contended that the impugned order is revisable, hence, application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. is not maintainable. There is no averment in the application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. that the impugned order is abuse of process of court. In absence of such specific averment the application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. can not be entertained.

7. It is settled principle of law that on an application U/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. the learned Magistrate has following three options:

1. He may out rightly reject the application if he comes to the conclusion that no cognizable offence is made out.

2. If he comes to the conclusion that cognizable offence is made out and investigation is also required, he may pass the order for registration of the FIR and investigation in the matter.

3. If he comes to the conclusion that although a prima facie cognizable offence is made out but in the circumstances of the case no investigation is required, he may treat it as complaint case.

8. It is not mandatory for a Magistrate to order for registration of FIR and investigation in on each and every application moved under section 156(3) Cr.P.C. which discloses a cognizable offence. It is the discretion of the Magistrate which is to be exercised judicially and not arbitrarily.

9. The allegations made in the application U/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. clearly indicates that there is property dispute between the parties and parties are litigating the same before the competent courts and one of the party has executed sale deed. Subsequent sale deed have also been executed by the purchasers. Considering all the facts and circumstances of the case the order to treat the application U/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. as a complaint seems to be just and reasonable. Learned Magistrate has also given reasons and cited the case law in support of his finding. So it can not be said that impugned order is arbitrary or unjust.

10. The ruling cited by the learned counsel for the applicant are not applicable in the present case. The case of Lalita Kumari (supra) is on different point. It relates to the interpretation of Section 154, Section 41(1)(a), Section 41(1)(g) of Cr.P.C.

11. The facts of the case of Anmol Singh Vs. State of U.P. are different. That case was related to an offence of molestation and sexual assault. Considering the gravity and severity of the offence and the requirement of the evidence for the purpose of launching successful prosecution this court interfered in the matter and set-aside the order of treating the application as a complaint and directed the learned Magistrate to pass a fresh order.

12. In Ramdev Food Products Pvt. Ltd. Vs. State of Gujarat (supra) cited by the learned counsel for the applicant the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the "direction under section 156(3) is to be issued, only after application of mind by the Magistrate. When the Magistrate does not take cognizance and does not find it necessary to postpone issuance of process and finds a case made out to proceed forthwith, direction under the said provision is issued. In other words, where on account of credibility of information available, or weighing the interest of justice it is considered appropriate to straightway direct investigation, such a direction is issued. Cases where Magistrate takes cognizance and postpones issuance of process are cases where the Magistrate has yet to determine 'existence of sufficient ground to proceed'. Subject to these broad guidelines available from the scheme of the Code, exercise of discretion by the Magistrate is guided by interest of justice from case to case."

13. Even after registration of the application as a complaint case the Magistrate has ample power during inquiry under section 202 Cr.P.C. to direct the investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit.

14. Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. provides as follows:

"Any Magistrate, on receipt of a complaint of an offence of which he is authorised to take cognizance or which has been made over to him under section 192, may, if he thinks fit, and shall, in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction postpone the issue of process against the accused, and either inquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding:

15. Provided that no such direction for investigation shall be made-

(a) where it appears to be Magistrate that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Sessions; or

(b) where the complaint has not been made by a Court, unless the complainant and the witnesses present (if any) have been examined on oath under section 200."

(Delivered by Hon'ble Syed Aftab Husain Rizvi, J.)

1. Heard Sri S.M. Iqbal Hasan, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Girish Chandra Yadav, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2, Sri Arvind Kumar, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. This criminal misc. application under section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed to quash the entire criminal proceeding of Case No.4907 of 2021 (State Vs. Farmeeda Begum and others), including Charge Sheet No.68 of 2021, dated 18.03.2021, arising out of Case Crime No.412 of 2020, under sections 420, 467, 468, 471, 120-B, 409, IPC and section 3/7 Essential Commodities Act, Police Station Munda Pandey, District Moradabad, as well as cognizance order dated 26.03.2021, passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.1, Moradabad.

3. Applicant is an accused in the aforesaid case. FIR has been lodged on 21.11.2020, on the application of complainant Mohini Mishra, Supply Inspector, Tehsil Sadar Moradabad. The application addressed to the SHO/SO, Police Station Munda Pandey, District Moradabad, and it is mentioned that kindly take reference to the letter No.3814 dated 08.09.2020 of Additional Commissioner, Food & Supply Department, Moradabad, annexing the letter No.369 dated 22.06.2020 of Mr. Ashok Kumar Mishra, Deputy Secretary, Government of U.P. and letter No.256 dated 11.02.2020 of Vishal Bharadwaja, Staff Officer, Chief Secretary & Additional Director (Administration). The inquiry report of Food Cell, forwarded for necessary action. In continuation of the aforesaid you are hereby informed that the D.O. Letter No.110 dated 22.01.2020 of Mr. Dayanand Mishra, S.P. Food Cell, annexing the photocopy of the inquiry report of Mr. Umesh Chand Pandey, Police Inspector, Food Cell, dated 08.01.2022. According to inquiry report, the allegations levelled against Smt. Farmeeda Begum, was inquired by Mr. Umesh Chand Pandey, Police Inspector, Food Cell, Kanpur and according to inquiry report, Smt. Farmeeda Begum, has not properly distributed the Essential Commodities from April-2018 to July-2018, and she committed black marketing of it. The quantity of distributed commodities was determined by her own will and she has charged more price than the fixed price and has not distributed the commodities and kerosene oil. She has also committed forgery and cheating, by preparing false distribution register, false distribution certificate and false 'Farms Ka & Kha'. It is recommended that for the aforesaid act of Smt. Farmeeda Begum, a case under sections 420, 467, 468, 471, & 409, IPC and section 3/7 Essential Commodities Act, be registered against her and her agreement be cancelled. Mr. Mitra Pal Singh, the member of the Administrative Committee of Grama Panchayat, Mudiya Malookpur Mustkam, Block Munda Pandey, Tehsil and District Moradabad, in collusion with Smt. Farmeeda Begum has given a false certificate that Essential Commodities have been properly distributed, which shows his prima-facie involvement in the matter, hence case under sections 120-B, 420, 467, 468 and 471, IPC, be also registered against him. The agreement of fair price shop of Smt. Farmeeda Begum, Mudiya Malookpur, has already been cancelled on 21.05.2019 by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar. After investigation charge sheet has been submitted.

4. Contentions of learned counsel for the applicant are that the applicant is a fair price shop dealer. She was running her shop in strict compliance by the provision of Control Orders under the supervision of three layer system i.e. distribution through camp, monitoring and checking by village Administrative Committee and third by the officials of the department. The frivolous and false complaint dated 17.07.2018 was lodged against the applicant by the rival group alleging that she has not properly distributed the commodities. Prior to this complaint also a complaint was made against the applicant pursuant thereto the cancellation order was passed and the Hon'ble High Court was pleased to stay the cancellation order by means of order dated 21.02.2018 Consequently her agreement was restored on 12.03.2018. Within four months the second complaint dated 17.07.2018 was again filed by the rival factions. After thorough inquiry the Area Food Officer made a report dated 30.07.2018 whereby he has stated that complaint was frivolous and forged. Another complaint was made on 23.07.2018. On this complaint the Sub Divisional Officer issued a charge sheet and sought explanation from the applicant. The applicant filed reply and refuting the allegations along with evidences. Sub Divisional Officer Sadar, Moradabad considered the reply and passed order dated 10.11.2018 wherein he has mentioned that in the village day to day complaints are being made against each other, therefore, it would be proper to hold an open meeting of Villagers so that the complaint may be disposed of properly. When the repeated efforts of complainant were failed and every time after inquiry complaints were found false then Mangal Singh and Shakeel again moved a complaint in Tehsil Diwas, pursuant thereto Revenue Inspector was authorized to conduct inquiry. The complainant approached the Inspector and offered illegal gratification and prepared a forge report sitting at the house of Mangal Singh. The several photographs were available while he was hosting a break fast, the applicant made a complaint of this event to the authority and when no action was taken against the Revenue Inspector the applicant moved an application before the Head Mahila Ayog, Chief Minister of Uttar Pradesh, Commissioner Principal Secretary and District Magistrate requesting therein for proper action. Having knowledge of the complaint made by the applicant, the departmental officers become infuriated and challenged the applicant for teaching her a lesson. In compliance of the order dated 14.01.2019 applicant has filed detailed reply to the charge sheet alongwith three months distribution record on 03.01.2019. The authorities concerned instead of holding open meeting proceeded in the matter and passed the cancellation order dated 21.02.2019. Against the cancellation order the applicant has preferred a Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.8861 of 2019. The Hon'ble High Court was pleased to stay the operation of the impugned order till the next date of listing and thereafter on 25.04.2019 the writ petition was dismissed on the ground of alternative remedy. The applicant preferred an appeal before the Commissioner Moradabad Division Moradabad. During pendency of the appeal the Supply Inspector issued an order dated 06.07.2019 whereby he asked the distribution record in pursuance to some back dated order dated 29.01.2019. The applicant challenged the validity of the order by means fo writ petition No.23138 of 2019. The Hon'ble High Court was pleased to stay the order dated 06.07.2019 till the next date of listing. Meanwhile the appeal was dismissed by the Commissioner Moradabad Division Moradabad on 25.11.2019, against which the applicant has preferred a Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.21116 of 2020 before this Hon'ble Court, which is pending consideration. The respondent authorities being prejudiced and having malice against the applicant, has proceeded in the matter despite having the stay order dated 18.07.2019. Civil proceeding is pending and there is no evidence which remotely connect the applicant with black marketing. Allegations against the applicant are general. There is no specific allegations.

It is further contended that investigating officer has annexed the record distribution as part of case diary. The investigating officer also recorded the statement of Mohd. Zaki, the person, is now a subsequent dealer appointed in place of Farmeeda and he was instrumental in the cancellation of the agreement of the shop of the applicant. He is prejudiced and not independent witness. The learned counsel also contended that neither in the FIR nor in the entire case diary there is any reference of any control order violation, hence no offence under section 3/7 of Essential Commodities Act is made out.

Learned counsel for the applicant further contended that from the impugned cognizance order it transpires that no reasoning have been given instead the order is a mechanical order, therefore, the cognizance order is illegal and liable to be quashed. The allegations against the applicant is of forgery and preparing forged distribution certificate where as the distribution was made by the applicant correctly under videography and still photograph but in spite of that due to village party politics and due to annoyance of respondent authorities the present criminal proceeding has been initiated against the applicant. Annoyed with the repeated relief granted by the High Court, criminal case has been instituted maliciously, due to reason that applicant has made a complaint to higher authorities against the revenue inspector, FIR has been lodged with ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance. It is evident that the entire proceeding against the applicant, who is lady is malicious, prejudiced and due to party politics whereas the fact of the matter is that no offence is made out against the applicant. Without collecting the expert examiner report, the investigating officer filed charge sheet, which is apparently erroneous. There is no direct evidence which indicates that the applicant has committed any crime. The present criminal proceeding is nothing but manifestly attended with malafide as the applicant has made complaint of the official, who became prejudiced against her.

Learned counsel for the applicant placed reliance on the case of 'Babubhai Vs. State of Gujarat, 2010 CJ(SC) 1429 and also on the case of 'Jahoor Vs. State of U.P. and another', in Criminal Revision No.569 of 2021, decided on 25.10.2021.

5. Learned AGA for the State and learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 submitted that after inquiry by food cell it was found that applicant has committed irregularities in distribution of essential commodities and she has sold the Ration in black market. There are clear allegations against the applicant. The investigating officer has recorded the statements of the witnesses and has collected material evidence during the course of investigation and on the basis of credible evidence, has submitted the charge sheet. The learned Magistrate being satisfied with it has taken cognizance on it. There is no sufficient grounds to quash the charge sheet or summoning order. There is no illegality in the impugned summoning order.

6. Admittedly the applicant was a fare price shop dealer of Village Mudiya Malookpur, District Moradabad. The FIR has been lodged against her on 21.11.2020. In the affidavit filed in support of the application, the applicant has given details of various complaints and proceedings, which has been made against her, prior to this FIR. It is specifically stated that on 17.07.2018 a complaint was lodged against her for not property distributing the commodities. Prior to this complaint, another complaint was made against her and cancellation order was passed. The High Court was pleased to stay the cancellation order, by means of order dated 21.02.2018. Consequently, her agreement was restored on 12.03.2018. It is further stated that within four months, second complaint dated 17.04.2018 was again filed by the rival, and after thorough inquiry this complaint was found frivolous and forged. Another complaint was made on 23.07.2018 and on this complaint the Sub Divisional Officer issued a charge sheet and sought explanation from the applicant. The Sub Divisional Officer passed the order dated 10.11.2018 mentioning therein that in the village day to day complaint are being made against each other, therefore, it would be proper to hold an open meeting of villagers, but no open meeting was held. Again a complaint was made on 16.10.2018 in Tehsil Diwas, which was disposed of by order dated 23.10.2018. It is further alleged that when repeated efforts of complainant failed and every time complaints were found false, then a complaint was moved in Tehsil Diwas and revenue inspector was authorized to conduct the inquiry. Complainant approached him and offered illegal gratification and prepared a forged report, setting at the house of complainant Mangal Singh. Several photographs were available hosting a breakfast. The applicant has raised these matters to the concerned authorities and when no action was taken against the revenue inspector, she moved applications before Mahila Ayog, Chief Minister of U.P. and other authorities for proper action against the revenue inspector. Having knowledge of complaint, the departmental officers became infuriated and challenged the applicant for teaching a lesson. The FIR has been lodged maliciously. In counter affidavit filed by the opposite party, the aforesaid facts have not been specifically controverted. So from the material available on record it is established that prior to lodging of this FIR, several false and frivolous complaints were filed against the applicant and ultimately inquiry was entrusted to the revenue inspector, who was approached by complainant party and applicant made a complaint against him.

7. All the allegations of the FIR are general in nature. There is no specific allegation. The only allegations of the FIR are that the fair price shop dealer, charges more than the fixed price, and distribute commodities in less quantity and when weighed at home, it weight is found less. In the statements of witnesses recorded by the instigating officer also there are almost general allegations in the nature mentioned above. Witnesses Mohd. Zaki is the persons who has got fair price shop after cancellation of the quota of accused-applicant. There is also no specific allegations that what kind of forgery has been committed by the accused-applicant and which entry is forged. In absence of specific allegations, the ofence of cheating and forgery cannot be proved. There is no reference of any violation of any control order in the FIR, but section 3/7 of Essential Commodities Act has been imposed. So, if the evidence available on record is taken on its face value as true, even then it will not be sufficient to convict the accused-applicant.

8. In case of 'State of Haryana and others Vs. Ch. Bhajan Lal and others', in Civil Appeal No.5412 of 1990, decided on 21.11.1990, the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph no.108 has laid down following norms for exercising powers under section 482 Cr.P.C.":-

"108. In the backdrop of the interpretation of the various relevant provisions of the Code under Chapter XIV and of the principles of law enunciated by this Court in a series of decisions relating to the exercise of the extraordinary power under Article 226 or the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code which we have extracted and reproduced above, we give the following categories of cases by way of illustration wherein such power could be exercised either to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelised and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised.

(i). Where the allegations made in the First Information Report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(ii). Where the allegations in the First Information Report and other materials, if any, accompanying the F. I. R. do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156 (1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

(iii). Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(iv). Where, the allegations in the F.I.R. do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code.

(v). Where the allegations made in the F.I.R. or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(vi). Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/ or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the oncerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(vii). Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/ or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

9. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of "Prakash Babu Raghubansi Vs. State of M.P., (2004) 7 SCC 482, in paragraph no.5 has made following observations:-

"Section 7 refers to contravention of any order made under Section 3. It is essential for bringing in application of Section 7 to show that some order has been made under Section 3 and the order has been contravened. Section 3 deals with powers to control production, supply, distribution etc. of essential commodities. Exercise of such powers, can be done by "order". According to Section 2(c) "notified order" means an order notified in the official Gazettee, and Section (CC) provides that "order" includes a direction issued thereunder."

So the Hon'ble Apex Court has propounded that for an offence under section 3/7 Essential Commodities Act, violation of any commody control order, should be there.

10. It is clear from the analysis of material on record that the criminal proceeding of this case is maliciously attended with malafide. It has been instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused-applicant with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge. It is also clear that, even if the evidence available on the record is taken on its face value as true, even then it will not be sufficient to convict the accused-applicant.

11. The preposition of law as laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of 'State of Haryana and others Vs. Ch. Bhajan Lal and others'(supra) and "Prakash Babu Raghubansi Vs. State of M.P.(supra), are fully applicable on the present case. Keeping in view the proposition of law the facts and circumstances of the case, the present application under section 482 Cr.P.C. is liable to be allowed.

12. The criminal misc. application under section 482 Cr.P.C. is allowed and the entire criminal proceedings relating to aforementioned case is hereby quashed.

A. Criminal Law – Indian Penal Code, 1860 -Sections 302/34 & 201 - Conviction under. Child testimony- testimony of a child witness aged about 8 years it is trite in law that the evidence of a child witness has to be subjected to closest scrutiny and can be accepted only if the court comes to the conclusion that the child is a competent witness within the meaning of Section 18 Evidence Act. A child witness can be a competent witness provided that the St.ment of such a child witness is reliable, truthful and is corroborated by the prosecution evidence.

B. Suspicion howsoever strong may not take the place of truth. The prosecution must stand or fall on its own legs and it cannot derive any strength form the weaknesses of the defense.

C. Criminal Law – Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 174 - Purpose of inquest- the object of the proceedings under Section 174 Cr.P.C., is to investigate into and draw up a report of the apparent cause of death, whether a person has died under suspicious circumstances or an unnatural death and if so, what is apparent cause of death. The officer preparing inquest has to describe such wounds as may be found on the body of the deceased and St. in what manner by what weapon or instrument, if any, such wounds appear to have been inflicted. The position in which, the dead body was found at the spot may be a material circumstance in a particular case, as in the present case and the said position can only be ascertained from the inquest report prepared under Section 174 of the Criminal Procedure Code as the said report is the only evidence of narration of the position of the dead body found on the spot.

D. Hanging and strangulation – Difference between- Mere fracture of the hyoid bone cannot be a reason to form a conclusive expert opinion of the death caused due to strangulation as is clear from the reading of the Chapter '19' of the Text Book of Modi on Medical Jurisprudence and Toxicology (24th Edition).

E. Last Seen Evidence- Mere evidence of last seen, though an important circumstance, cannot be made sole basis for conviction of the accused in absence of any other corroborating circumstance to prove the guilt of the accused.

1. At the outset, it may be noted that this appeal has been argued only on behalf of appellant no. 2 Lalta Prasad son of Tara Chand as appellant no. 1 Nanhi Devi has been granted remission by the State Government and no one appears on her behalf to argue the appeal.

As the appellant no. 2 was not represented by a counsel, Sri Anurag Sharma learned Advocate has been appointed as Amicus Curiae to assist the Court. The order dated 13.1.2022 of appointment of Amicus has been intimated to the appellant no. 2 Lalta Prasad who is presently lodged in the Central Jail, Bareilly. The report of the Senior Superintendent, Central Jail, Bareilly in this regard has been received through the CJM, Pilibhit.

Heard Sri Anurag Sharma learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant no. 2 and Sri Rupak Chaubey learned A.G.A for the State respondents.

2. This appeal is directed against the judgment and order dated 19.7.2005 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 3, District Pilibhit in the Sessions Trial No. 537 of 2001, wherein two accused persons namely Nanhi Devi and Lalta Prasad were convicted of the offence under Section 302 readwith Section 34 IPC and sentenced for life imprisonment with fine of Rs. 10,000/- each, as also under Section 201 IPC for rigorous imprisonment of one year with fine of Rs. 1000/- each. The default punishment was three months additional simple imprisonment for each accused. All the punishments are to run concurrently.

3. According to the prosecution story, a report in writing was submitted by the Gram Pradhan, Village Karnapur, on 31.7.2001 at about 9:30 AM, that a resident of the said village namely Taule Ram son of Totaram had committed suicide by tying a knot in his neck and postmortem of his body be conducted to make further enquiry. The said report marked as Exhibit Ka-1 had been proved by PW-1, Gram Pradhan being in his handwriting and signature.

Another report was entered in the Case Diary by the Investigating Officer, the Sub-Inspector posted in Thana Barkhera, District Pilibhit, which was allegedly received by him at the spot of the crime during the course of investigation. This report had been proved to be given by PW-2 Natthu Lal son of Lalaram and is marked as Exhibit Ka-2 bearing signature of the said witness. PW-2 stated that the said report was written by the Gram Pradhan on his dictation and after writing the same the report was read over to him and then he put his signature. As per the said report, deceased Taule Ram son of Totaram was cousin of the first informant Natthu Lal (PW-2). Nanhi Devi wife of Taule Ram was having illicit relationship with Lalta Prasad son of Tara Chand resident of the same village who used to frequently visit the house of Taule Ram. On account of their relationship, Lalta Prasad and Nanhi Devi had killed Taule Ram in the intervening night of 30/31.7.2001 by strangulation and his body was then hanged on the roof in the Khaprail by a rope. All the facts narrated therein were disclosed by Roop Lal son of deceased Taule Ram to the first informant Natthu Lal (PW-2) and his family members.

4. The record indicates that the report (Exhibit Ka-2) was stated to have received by the Investigating Officer at the spot and he proceeded to make investigation of the crime without registration of the first information report, i.e. preparation of the Check report and GD entry. The Case Diary indicates that the said report was entered in the Case Diary on the spot and it was noted by the Investigating Officer in the case diary itself that after making entry, he was proceeding with the investigation and would register the report on reaching the police station. It is an admitted fact that the report (Exhibit Ka-2) was registered as a first information report of the crime on the next day, i.e. on 1.8.2001 at about 6:30 AM, after the Investigating Officer returned to the police station, entry of which was made at GD No. 11. This report was mentioned as a supplementary report given by Natthu Lal son of Lalaram during investigation, in his deposition as PW-11, by the Investigating Officer. PW-11 has deposed that he had kept the said report in the Case Diary and, thereafter, proceeded to record the statement of the first informant Natthu Lal (PW-2) and eye-witness Roop Lal son of deceased. The Investigating Officer in his statement in the examination-in-chief submitted that he had prepared the site plan on the pointing out of Roop Lal. The inquest had commenced at about 11:00 AM and completed by 12:00 (noon). As per the entry in the Case Diary, the report (Exhibit Ka-2) was entered in the Case Diary while proceeding to record the statement of Natthu Lal (PW-2) at about 12:30 PM. The inquest report indicates that panch witnesses though were satisfied that the death was caused due to hanging but opined that the postmortem be conducted to find out the actual cause of death. The inquest report also records that there was a lot of crowd when the officer reached the spot and the family members of deceased were wailing inconsolably. The inquest writer had expressed his opinion that the case of suicide seemed doubtful. The inquest report had been proved as Exhibit Ka-8 being in the handwriting and signature of PW-11, the Investigating Officer.

5. Exhibit Ka-4 is the recovery memo of a plastic rope wherein noose of two meters was found in the neck of the deceased and knot at the other end was found wherein a red Chunri cloth was stuck. This recovery memo had been proved by PW-11 who deposed that after recording the statement of Panch witnesses and other witnesses present on the spot including the Gram Pradhan Ram Autar, the body was sealed and sent for the postmortem. The case was registered as Case Crime No. 275 of 2001 under Sections 302 and 201 IPC against Lalta Prasad and Nanhi Devi at Rapat No. 11 at about 6:30 AM on 1.8.2001 in the General Diary and the same was copied in the Case Diary. PW-11 stated, in cross, that he had received information of suicide in the police station and did not record the statement of Ram Autar, Gram Pradhan at that point of time rather the statement of this witness was recorded at the spot. It is also admitted by PW-11 that till the inquest was completed, which took about one hour, no report was given by Natthu Lal and the report (Exhibit Ka-2) was handed over to him at about 12:10 PM and after copying the same in the Case Diary, the statements of Natthu Lal and Ram Autar were recorded. The postmortem was conducted on 31.7.2001 itself by 4:30 PM. The cause of death reported therein was asphyxia as a result of strangulation. The ante-mortem injuries found on the person of the deceased had been proved by the doctor PW-9.

On external examination, the condition of the body as noted in the postmortem report was:-

"Male body of average built muscular.....Rigor Mortis passed off, from all the four limbs. Body swollen, superficial skin peeled off from several places of body, foul smell present. Eye closed. Mouth open with Tongue protruding out"

In the report, it has come up that Hyoid bone was fractured at the junction of left greater cornu with its body.

The postmortem report had been proved to be in the handwriting and signatures of PW-9 as Exhibit Ka-6.

6. As per the statement of the doctor in the examination-in-chief, the proximate time of death could be the intervening night of 30/31.7.2001. He, however, stated that there may be difference of four hours on both sides in the estimated period from death. As to the condition of the dead body as reported in the postmortem report, in cross, it was stated by the doctor that he had received the body with the police papers on 31.7.2001 at about 2:30 PM and started postmortem at about 4:30 PM. The rigor mortis normally passed on in 1½ days in the month of July, i.e. in the summer and rainy months. The ligature mark was not found present at the left side of the neck and it was not present at the back side as well. The injury on the neck was in the shape of a groove which could not be caused by Lathi but by a rope, however, on strangulation by Lathi, if the rope is tied, the mark of rope would be superimposed on the mark of Lathi. It was admitted, as indicated in the postmortem report that putrefaction of the body was started as the superficial skin was peeled off from several places. On a suggestion, PW-9 stated that the said situation could appear within 1½ day to 2 days and the death may have been caused in the intervening night of 29/30.7.2001. PW-9, the doctor, however, refuted the suggestion that the death was caused due to hanging and not by strangulation through Lathi.

7. The recovery of Lathi, the alleged murder weapon, was made from the house of the appellant Lalta Prasad. Two persons namely Devaki Nandan and Baburam had been made witnesses of the recovery of Lathi. Exhibit Ka-5, the recovery memo of Lathi was proved by PW-12, the second Investigating Officer, who had arrested appellant Lalta Prasad on 8.8.2001. The charge sheet submitted by PW-12 had been proved as Exhibit Ka-10 in his handwriting and signature. From the statement of PW-12, it is evident that the arrest of Nanhi Devi, the co-accused was made on 5.8.2001 from the house of Hetram located in another village and her statement was recorded in the police station. A perusal of the Case Diary further indicates that Nanhi Devi was found in her paternal house (Maika) and Hetram was his brother whereas the appellant Lalta Prasad was arrested from the Bus stand in the village. A recovery memo Exhibit Ka-3 of recovery of 'Dibbi' kerosene dated 14.8.2001 had been proved being in the handwriting and signature of PW-12 and the witnesses of the recovery were Natthu Lal, Kali Charan and Keshari Lal. The Exhibit Ka-3 also bears left thumb impression of child witness Roop Lal as it was stated to have been handed over to the officer by the child.

8. Amongst the witnesses of fact, PW-1 Ram Autar, the Gram Pradhan had proved the written report given by him as Exhibit Ka-1, noted above, and also proved that the Exhibit Ka-2 was the report scribed by him on the dictation of Natthu Lal (PW-2) after the child witness Roop Lal had narrated the whole story to them. This witness had not been cross-examined by the defence. PW-2 Natthu Lal proved that he was related to the deceased and stated that appellant Lalta Prasad was having illicit relationship with the wife of Taule Ram and on the date of the incident he had seen deceased Taule Ram in good condition. However, on the next morning, wife of the deceased was crying in the house that her husband had committed suicide but later on the child Roop Lal son of the deceased had disclosed that it was a murder committed by Lalta and Nanhi Devi (wife of the deceased). The story narrated by the child witness has been extracted in the examination-in-chief by PW-2 who stated that whatever was disclosed to him by Roop Lal was written in the report Exhibit Ka-2. This witness (PW-2) was also not cross-examined by the defence.

9. PW-3 Kalicharan who is also a witness of the recovery memo (Exhibit Ka-3) the source of light (a dibbi of kerosene oil), stated in his examination-in-chief that on the fateful night at about 9:00 PM, he alongwith Komil Prasad son of Bheem Sen and Devaki Nandan was standing outside his house in the village and while they were talking they saw the appellant Lalta entering into the house of deceased Taule Ram carrying Lathi. Next day, he came to know that Taule Ram had died and his wife was screaming that her husband had committed suicide by hanging himself. Later, the son of the deceased namely Roop Lal had disclosed the murder committed by Lalta Prasad and Nanhi Devi. This witness had also proved his signature on the recovery memo Exhibit Ka-3. The dibbi of kerosene oil had been marked as Material Exhibit-1 at the instance of this witness. In cross, PW-3 stated that the house of Komil and his house were adjacent whereas the house of Devaki Nandan was about 4-5 meters towards the East. The house of Lalta Prasad was located at the eastern side and while coming to the house of deceased Taule Ram from the East, his house (i.e. of PW-3) would fall in between. PW-3 had admitted that there was no source of light where they were standing but asserted that it was a bright night and they could easily identify any passerby. PW-3, in cross, further stated that he was not on talking terms with Taule Ram and he did not use to go to his house and he was not on the talking terms with the appellant Lalta Prasad nor he had ever gone to his house as well. He stated that the appellant Lalta Prasad used to go to the house of deceased Taule Ram. On a suggestion given to this witness, he had admitted that in the village people used to carry Lathi in a routine manner. On another suggestion given to PW-3, he admitted that he had good terms with Natthu Lal, the first informant and Natthu Lal (PW-2) was an influential person in the village. On another suggestion of relationship of appellant Lalta Prasad and Nanhi Devi, PW-3 stated that since Lalta Prasad used to go to the house of Nanhi Devi, and the same according to him, was an indication of their illicit relationship. The house of Natthu Lal was located at a distance of about 4-5 meters towards the South of the house of deceased Taule Ram. It has come up in the cross-examination of this witness that the child Roop Lal was residing with Natthu Lal (PW-2) since after the incident and the entire landed property of deceased Taule Ram was in possession of Natthu Lal who was also keeping all the proceeds of the crop with him and that the deceased was having approximately 11 bighas of land. On a suggestion of enmity with appellant Lalta Prasad, this witness had categorically denied the same. He had also denied that he was giving statement under the influence of Natthu Lal.

10. PW-4 Chhotelal had proved his signature on the recovery memo of the plastic rope Exhibit Ka-4 and stated that the body of deceased Taule Ram was found hanging by the said rope and the knees of the dead body were touching the floor. This witness had also identified the rope seized by the Investigating Officer marked as Material Exhibit-2. In cross, this witness stated that the Investigating Officer had left the village at about 12:00-1:00 PM after the postmortem of the body was conducted.

11. PW-5 Komil Prasad reiterated the version of PW-3 Kalicharan of having seen the appellant Lalta Prasad entering inside the house of deceased Taule Ram and stated that it was a moonlit night. This witness admitted, in cross, that he used to go to the house of Taule Ram but had never seen Lalta Prasad and Nanhi Devi in any objectionable state. This witness stated that they had seen Lalta entering inside the house of the deceased Taule Ram while he and Kalicharan were standing near the house of Devaki Nandan and they kept talking while standing at the same place for about two hours. Lalta came from the side of his house which was at the East. This witness (PW-5) stated that the police had interrogated him on the next day of recovery of the dead body and he was called in the police station. The appellant Lalta was doing labour work and the suggestion of enmity of PW-5 with Lalta was denied by him.

12. Devaki Nandan (PW-6) had entered in the witness-box as a witness of recovery of Lathi, proved his signature on the recovery memo Exhibit Ka-5. the Lathi was identified by him and marked as Material Exhibit-3. PW-6, in his deposition, did not say anything about having seen appellant Lalta entering into the house of deceased Taule Ram on the fateful night though he was standing with other two witnesses namely Kalicharan (PW-3) and Komil Prasad (PW-5) as stated by them.

13. PW-8 is a witness named as Gulabi son of Ugrasen who stated on oath that he knew appellant Lalta Prasad and Nanhi Devi who were residents of the same village. The deceased Taule Ram was husband of Nanhi Devi. On the fateful night, at about 11:00 PM, while he alongwith one Jhhabbu Lal was coming back from their field, as soon as they reached in front of the house of the deceased, they witnessed Lalta coming out of the house of the deceased carrying Lathi in his hand. The appellant Lalta was shaken and tying a shirt in his head while coming out of the house of Taule Ram and went towards his house. Next day, Taule Ram was found dead and later his son Roop Lal narrated the whole story of murder. In cross, this witness gave the reason of him crossing the house of Taule Ram (deceased) and stated that his house was located near the house of Taule Ram. An observation is noted at the end of the cross-examination of this witness that on a suggestion given to this witness instead of giving an answer he kept mum, though he had denied the suggestion of making a false deposition on the instructions of Natthu Lal.

14. PW-7 is the child witness. His statement was recorded by the Court after recording satisfaction that he understood the questions well and was in a position to give answers to the same. PW-7 Roop Lal stated that deceased Taule Ram was his father. On the fateful night, he was sleeping at the roof of his house in a cot alongwith his sister Brijmati. His mother, one brother Anil and another sister Dayawati were also sleeping nearby. A dibbi was lit up. His father Taule Ram was sleeping in the room on the roof. His mother had cooked 'Khichdi' in the evening and they all ate it and slept. His father and mother had a fight three days prior to the incident and his father had beaten his mother and as such they were not on talking terms. On the fateful night, his father did not have food. After sometime, accused Lalta came on the roof while PW-7 was awake. Lalta told his father to come down with him to take woods and took his father downstairs. His mother Nanhi Devi also went behind them and PW-7 followed all of them. One dibbi was lit up at the ground floor. The appellant Lalta dragged his father in a room and threw him on the floor and then strangulated him by Lathi while sitting over his father. His mother Nanhi Devi was catching hold the legs of his father. PW-7 stated that he tried to save his father and confronted Lalta who slapped and threatened him that he would also be killed. His father then died. At that point of time, his father (deceased) was wearing a shirt and Bermuda. Then his mother changed the clothes of his father and made the dead body wear black pant and red shirt. Lalta then carried the deceased to the roof through the stairs, he and his mother both also went upstairs. His mother then gave a rope to Lalta by which their goat was being tied. Lalta then hanged his father through the rope in the Khaprail. Both the accused persons namely his mother Nanhi and Lalta, thereafter, went downstairs. PW-7 states that he, thereafter, slept and in the morning, his mother was crying that his father had committed suicide. PW-7 stated that all the above stated facts were disclosed by him to his uncle (Tau) Natthu Lal, Devaki Nandan and Ram Dayal. In cross, PW-7 stated that he came to the Court for deposition with his uncle Natthu Lal and on each date fixed, he came with him. He was studying in class IV and since after the death of his father, he was residing with his uncle Natthu Lal. PW-7 also admitted, in cross, that his father had two fields and both were in the possession of his uncle Natthu Lal who was also keeping the proceeds of the crop. A suggestion was given to this witness that he was under the control of his uncle Natthu Lal which had been denied categorically.

PW-7 stated, in cross, that on the next morning, his mother woken him up but he could not tell the time when he got up. He then stated that on the fateful day, he ate 'roti' and slept when there was a little dark. When in the morning, his mother woke him up, he saw that the dead body of his father was hanging and his mother was crying. Amongst all his siblings, PW-7 was the eldest. PW-7 had denied the suggestion that his father was taking any intoxicating substance but stated on his own that his father used to remain out of the house frequently for about two-two months. He lastly stated that the entire story was narrated by him on his own and the police personnel did not ask him to make any statement. PW-7 had denied the suggestion of false deposition made at the instance of his uncle Natthu Lal and that he did not witness anything.

15. Placing the statements of all the prosecution witnesses and the documentary evidence, it is argued by the learned Amicus that the star witness of the prosecution is a child witness namely PW-7 whose testimony is not trustworthy. The fact that the child witness was in the custody of PW-2/Natthu Lal, a relative of the deceased, shows that he was a tutored witness. This fact is further evident from the contradictions and improvements in the testimony of the child witness. PW-2 is the beneficiary of the situation as there was no one in the family of the deceased as is evident from the statement of the Gram Pradhan. After the incident, PW-2 got possession of the land owned by the deceased and was keeping the proceeds thereof. Other three children of the deceased had become orphan and no arrangement has been made by PW-2 for securing the future of the children of the deceased. The story brought by the prosecution of strangulation by appellant Lalta by Lathi is concocted one, inasmuch as, apart from the recovery of Lathi from the house of the appellant Lalta, there is no evidence to point towards the guilt of the appellant. In the medical evidence, though there is a suggestion of the death caused by strangulation but the same cannot be said to a definite opinion as it was based merely on the fact that the hyoid bone was found fractured, which could also be the result of hanging. The position in which the dead body was found at the place of incident as is reflected from the inquest clearly suggests that it was a case of hanging. The trial court without proper appreciation of the evidence on record, solely upon opinion of the expert, had held that it was a case of death caused by strangulation and ruled out the possibility of hanging. The opinion of the expert was required to be considered in the surrounding circumstances of the case.

The witnesses of last seen produced by the prosecution to prove the involvement of the appellant Lalta are not trustworthy. They were planted at the instance of PW-2 who is the ultimate beneficiary of the whole scenario. In any case, on the mere evidence of last seen, it would be unsafe to convict the appellant.

16. Lastly placing the statement of the child witness, it is submitted that, in cross, this witness had admitted that in the morning he was woken up by his mother and then he saw his father hanging in the Khaprail while his mother was crying. This fact itself is sufficient to prove the appellant innocent, inasmuch as, the version of this witness about the occurrence becomes false and tutored one. There is no witness of last seen of the deceased alive with the appellant. There are different sets of witnesses who had deposed that they had seen appellant Lalta entering in the house of the deceased and also coming out of the same. The manner in which the prosecution had introduced witnesses for each circumstance shows that the entire prosecution story was concocted. No motive has been assigned to the appellant Lalta, except the plea of illicit relationship of Lalta with the wife of the deceased (Nanhi Devi), which the prosecution has failed to prove. The recovery of the dead body was in the house of the deceased and there is no other incriminating circumstance than the witnesses of last seen to connect the appellant (Lalta) with the crime. The entire prosecution story was carefully constructed at the instance of the relative of the deceased so as to eliminate the wife of the deceased in order to grab his landed property or as a result of his own imagination.

The time of death is also disputed as the postmortem report indicates that rigor mortis had passed on, putrefaction of the body had begun and foul smell was present. As per the opinion of the doctor, the estimated time of death could be 1½-2 days and death could have been caused in the intervening night of 29/30.7.2001. The witnesses of last seen had also been introduced as inquest witnesses which show the zeal on the part of the Investigating Officer to solve the crime in a hurry. There is complete silence about Nanhi Devi being present in the house when the Investigating Officer reached at the spot after receipt of the report of the Gram Pradhan.

17. Reliance is placed on the decision of the Apex Court in Nathiya vs. State Represented By Inspector of Police, Bagayam Police Station, Vellore1; Digamber Vaishnav and another vs. State of Chhattisgarh2 and Jagdish and others vs. State of Haryana3 to assert that if two views are possible, the weight of evidence would tilt in favour of the accused. On the fractured evidence of the prosecution, conviction cannot be sustained.

18. Learned AGA, in rebuttal, submits that the prosecution witnesses had fixed the presence of appellant Lalta in the house of the deceased in the intervening night of 30/31.7.2001 between 9PM to 11PM. PW-3 Kalicharan and PW-5 Komil Prasad who were neighbours witnessed the accused Lalta entering in the house of the deceased at about 9:00 PM, whereas PW-8 Gulabi who was also living nearby witnessed appellant Lalta coming out of the house of the deceased carrying Lathi at about 11:00 PM. There is categorical version of the witnesses regarding the motive which was illicit relationship of appellant Lalta with the wife of the deceased namely Nanhi Devi. The child witness had described the entire occurrence in a categorical version in his examination-in-chief. His testimony cannot be discarded terming him as a tutored witness.

As regards the interest shown by PW-2 Natthu Lal, cousin of the deceased in the whole occurrence, it is submitted by the learned AGA that after death of the father of PW-7, the child witness, and arrest of his mother there was only one relative left in the village namely Natthu Lal who could have looked after the child and the landed property of the deceased. This fact, in any case, would not go against the prosecution as the evidence collected in relation to the crime at the time of the occurrence has to be seen. The medical evidence also corroborates the prosecution version that it was not a case of hanging rather the death was caused by strangulation, homicidal death had occurred in the house of the deceased, wherein presence of the appellant Lalta had been fixed by the prosecution witnesses.

19. In addition to the above, the recovery of murder weapon Lathi had also been made at the instance of appellant Lalta from his house which was proved by PW-12.

20. In the totality of the facts and circumstances of the case, it is established that the prosecution had brought the circumstances in relation to the commission of crime which when put together formed a complete chain which unerringly point towards the guilt of the accused persons Lalta and Nanhi Devi. No infirmity at all can be found in the decision of the trial court. The appeal, thus, deserves to be dismissed.

21. Having considered the submissions of the learned counsels for the parties and perused the record, we find that the prosecution case rests mainly on the evidence of the child witness namely PW-7 Roop Lal who was aged about 8 years on the date of the incident.

22. To test the submission of the learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant that the evidence of the child witness is unreliable or not trustworthy, we deem it apt to discuss the law relating to appreciation of evidence of a child witness.

23. It is trite in law that the evidence of a child witness has to be subjected to closest scrutiny and can be accepted only if the court comes to the conclusion that the child is a competent witness within the meaning of Section 118 of the Evidence Act. A child witness, by reason of his tender age, is a pliable witness. He can be tutored easily either by threat, coercion or inducement. Therefore, the court must be satisfied that the attending circumstances do not show that the child was acting under the influence of someone or was under any threat or coercion.

24. The settled principle is that a child witness can be a competent witness provided the statement of such witness is reliable, truthful and is corroborated by other prosecution evidence. The Court in such circumstance can safely rely upon the statement of a child witness and it can form the basis for conviction as well. Further, the evidence of a child witness and credibility thereof would depend upon the circumstances of each case. The only precaution which the court should bear in mind while assessing the evidence of a child witness is that the witness must be reliable one and his/her demeanour must be like any other competent witness and that there exists no likelihood of being tutored.

The evidence of a child witness can be relied upon if the Court, with its expertise and ability to evaluate the evidence, comes to the conclusion that the child is not tutored and his evidence has a ring of truth. The Courts have consistently held that evidence of a child witness must be evaluated carefully as the child may be swayed by what others tell him and he is an easy prey to tutoring. There is no rule or practice that in every case the evidence of a child witness be corroborated by other evidence before a conviction can be allowed to stand but as a rule of prudence the court always finds it desirable to seek corroboration to such evidence from other reliable evidence placed on record. It is not the law that if a witness is a child, his evidence shall be rejected, even if it is found reliable.

It is almost always safe and prudent to look for corroboration for the evidence of a child witness from the other evidence on record, because while giving evidence a child may give scope to his imagination and exaggerate his version or may develop cold feet and not tell the truth or may repeat what he has been asked to say not knowing the consequences of his deposition in the Court. [Reference K. Venkateshwarlu vs. State of Andhra Pradesh4; Alagupandi alias Alagupandian vs. State of Tamil Nadu5; Shivasharanappa and others vs. State of Karnataka6 and Digamber Vaishnav and another vs. State of Chhattisgarh (supra).

25. While considering the evidence of a child witness, in his legendary way, the Chief Justice Y.V. Chandrachud (as he then) in Suresh vs. State of U.P.7 said that:-

"(11).....xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx.....
Children, in the first place, mix up what they see with what they like to imagine to have seen and besides, a little tutoring is inevitable in their case in order to lend coherence and consistency to their disjointed thoughts which tend to stray. The extreme sentence cannot seek its main support from evidence of this kind which, even if true, is not safe enough to act upon for putting out a life."

26. Keeping in mind the above rule of prudence, we proceed to evaluate the evidence of the child witness, PW-7, who is the star witness of the prosecution.

27. We may note that before proceeding to record the statement of PW-

7, the trial court had satisfied itself about the competence of the child witness.

28. The story narrated by the child witness (PW-7) about the occurrence in his examination-in-chief, extracted in the foregoing paragraphs of this judgment, was conveyed to his uncle Natthu Lal, Devki Nandan and Ram Dayal in the afternoon on 31.7.2001 when the Investigating Officer was present on the spot. In cross, this witness stated that he came to the Court to depose alongwith his uncle Natthu Lal (PW-2) and on each date fixed, he came with him. PW-7 was studying in Class IV and was living with his uncle (PW-2) after death of his father. It has come in the evidence that the fields of his father were in occupation of Natthu Lal (PW-2) who was keeping the proceeds of the same with him. All the expenses of PW-7 were being borne by his uncle Natthu Lal. On a suggestion, PW-7 stated that on the date of the incident, he was woken up by his mother but he did not remember the time and that on the day of the incident, he slept after eating 'roti' while there was a little dark and in the morning when his mother woke him up, he saw the dead body of his father hanging and his mother crying. Amongst all siblings, PW-7 was the eldest. He had denied that the incident narrated by him was based on the suggestion of the police and asserted that he narrated the whole story on his own. He also stated that his father was not taking intoxicating substance but he used to remain out of the house for 2-2 months. PW-7 denied the suggestion of the deposition being made at the instance of Natthu Lal.

Analysing his testimony, PW-7 is a witness who was aged about 8 years on the date of the incident. In his narration of the story about the occurrence and participation of appellant Lalta and his mother Nanhi in the crime, pertinent is to note that there apparent contradictions in his version in the examination-in-chief and cross-examination with regard to his being an eye-witness of the whole occurrence from the beginning till the end. His statement that he slept after the occurrence, i.e. after death of his father at the hands of his mother and co-accused Lalta, does not seem to be natural. For a child of 8 years seeing his father being killed and hanged by his own mother must be a moment of great shock. However, from his reaction to the whole occurrence, it cannot be assumed that he was lying. There are other circumstances which need to be appreciated to evaluate the truthfulness of the testimony of PW-7, the child witness. One of the said circumstance is the entry of appellant Lalta in the house of deceased during night hours and reason given for the deceased to accompany him to go downstairs. It is difficult to believe that on the asking of a labour Lalta, the deceased would go to bring woods alongwith him that too in the night hours when there is also a suggestion of his wife having illicit relations with Lalta. It has come in the evidence of PW-7, the child witness, that both his parents, the deceased and Nanhi Devi had a fight three days prior to the occurrence and they were not on talking terms. In a situation like this, this part of the statement of PW-7 could not be corroborated from the prosecution evidence.

The second circumstance is the narration by PW-7 that appellant Lalta had dragged his father (the deceased) in the room and threw him on the floor and then strangulated him with the Lathi while his mother was catching hold of the legs of his father and his father died. In this statement, there is no narration of any struggle or resistance put by his father (the deceased), who was a young man of 30 years with strong built as is evident from the postmortem report. It cannot be accepted that when the deceased was awake and was not under any intoxication, why would he not resist and make efforts to save himself. The co-accused Nanhi and appellant Lalta could not be said to be persons of such a built or background that the deceased could not have fought while his child was standing besides him and fighting for him. There is a statement of the child that when he fought for his father, Lalta slapped and threatened to kill him. It is not acceptable that a father even after seeing threat to the life of his child would not react or resist. From the postmortem report, absolutely no sign of struggle or fight could be seen on the body of the deceased. It is difficult to accept that the accused persons were so strong that they could overpower the deceased to the extent that he could not show any resistance or struggle for his life or of his child. There is no mark at all of dragging of the body or any sign of throwing the deceased on the floor. No external injury was found by the doctor apart from the only ligature mark on the neck of the deceased.

Further the child witness (PW-7) stated that when his father had died, he was wearing a shirt and Bermuda and his clothes were changed by his mother and the dead body was made to wear a black pant and red shirt. It does not stand to reason as to why the clothes of the deceased would be changed by the accused persons when they were creating a scene of suicide as in that case, it would be irrelevant as to what was the deceased wearing. The narration of the dead body having been carried by the appellant Lalta on the first floor and then hanged in the Khaprail from the rope is also unacceptable. In case, the appellant with the co-accused planned to project it a case of hanging, they could have hanged the dead body anywhere in the house which was a two storey house. It is not understandable as to why would the accused take the risk of carrying the body upstairs just to hang it. There is also no sign of dragging of the deceased upstairs. A further contradiction in the statement of PW-7 is found from the postmortem report, where semi digested food was found in the small intestine of the deceased and the large intestine was full of gases and faecal matter. The statement of PW-7 that his father did not have dinner on the fateful day is, thus, belied.

29. A further perusal of the inquest report indicates the position in which the dead body was found hanging in the house. It is noted therein that the dead body was found hanging on the first floor of the house (which was a two storied house) in Khaprail from a rope. Both the hands of the deceased were towards the ground and his both legs were on the ground, folded from both the knees. The tongue of the deceased was caught between teeth and blood was coming out of the right ears and eyes. While describing the injuries on the body in the inquest report, it is noted that the body was turned over to note any signs of injury but apart from the mark of the rope on the neck, there was no other injury. The inquest was prepared by PW-11 Surendra Kr. Singh, the Investigating Officer. He has proved the inquest report as Exhibit Ka-8 being in his handwriting and signatures and stated that he had also prepared the site plan, Exhibit Ka-7 and the recovery memo, Exhibit Ka-4. Apart from these three papers, all other papers on record namely Challanlash, Photolash etc. have been admitted to be genuine documents. In the inquest report itself, PW-11 had raised a doubt about the cause of death being suicide. It has also been noted therein that when PW-11 reached the spot, two constables of the nearest Chauki were already present there. The body was hanging in the 'Balli' of Khaprail at the first floor. There was a lot of crowd and the family members and relatives of the deceased were crying. The inquest had commenced at about 11.00 AM and ended at 12:00 PM.

30. A perusal of the case diary further indicates that the statement of the first informant (PW-2) namely Natthu Lal was recorded at 12:30 PM after making entry of the written report Exhibit Ka-2 given by him. The Parcha no. 1 of Case Diary, however, began with the information provided by the Gram Pradhan Ram Autar in writing which is Exhibit Ka-1 that Taule Ram, a resident of the village had committed suicide. It then narrates that on receiving the said information, carrying necessary papers, the Investigating Officer PW-11 came at the house of the deceased Taule Ram. Two Constables from nearest Chauki were present there and the dead body was hanging in the Khaprail. Raising suspicion about the cause of death being of suicide, body was sealed and sent for the postmortem and recovery memo of rope was prepared.

A written report was given on the spot by PW-2 Natthu Lal which was also extracted in the Case Diary and the Investigating Officer had then proceeded to record the statement of PW-2 which began at 12:30 PM. The statement of child PW-7 was recorded at 12:45 PM as evident from the Case Diary. In the entire sequence of event uptill recording of the statement of Natthu Lal (PW-2) and the child witness Roop Lal (PW-7), there is complete silence about the presence of co-accused Nanhi, wife of the deceased in the house. The Investigating Officer in the inquest noted that the family members of the deceased were wailing but in the Case Diary at Parcha No. 2, it was noted that when he looked to arrest Nanhi Devi she was not met as she had left the house clandestinely alongwith her other children.

31. As per the prosecution story, the Gram Pradhan Ram Autar who had entered in the witness-box as PW-1 went to lodge the written report about the death of Taule Ram as he had seen the wife of deceased Taule Ram wailing in her house saying that her husband had committed suicide. In his statement in chief as PW-1, the Gram Pradhan stated that as the deceased had no parents and real brothers and as no relative of the deceased went to the police station, he being the Gram Pradhan went to give information in writing. PW-1 though had not been confronted in cross but his statement in the examination-in-chief is reiteration of his first version recorded in the Case Diary (Section 161 statement). From the statement of PW-1, at least, it is evident that he was the first one to reach at the spot and he had seen the wife of the deceased wailing in her house.

32. As noted above, in the inquest, presence of wife of the deceased has not been specifically indicated though it is noted that the family members of the deceased were wailing. The prosecution version about the presence of the wife of the deceased at the time when the police reached at the spot is completely missing. Further from the extract of the inquest noted in the Case Diary as also the narration of the position of the dead body while hanging, it is noteworthy that both the legs of the deceased were found folded from the knees while the body was hanging. Both the hands of the body were also hanging towards the ground. Apart from the ligature mark, no other injury or any sign of struggle was found on the person of the deceased as is clear from both the inquest and the postmortem report. In such a situation, looking to the position in which the dead body of the deceased was found hanging by the Investigating Officer who was the first one to reach the spot on receipt of the report of suicide, the part of the statement of PW-7 that the deceased was first killed by strangulating his neck and then his body was taken to the first floor and hanged from a rope does not seem to be correct. There is no indication in the inquest report nor it can be assumed that the legs of the dead body after the deceased was killed, were folded and tied. It cannot also be visualized that after death, both the legs of the body would be folded from the knees on its own when it was hanged on the Khaprail. We may also note that the body was hanging from a plastic rope, the possibility of it getting loose due to the weight of the dead body, resulting in the knees touching on the ground cannot be ruled out.

33. Furthermore, in cross, PW-7 stated that in the morning on 30.7.2001, he was woken up by his mother and then he saw that the dead body of his father hanging from the Khaprail and his mother was crying. PW-7 also stated that he slept early in the evening (when there was little dark) after having dinner and was woken up in the morning by his mother. His statement that his father did not have food that night is found false.

34. From the above, the narration of the story of the occurrence by PW-7 does not inspire confidence of the Court. However, before reaching at any conclusion, other evidence on record i.e. surrounding circumstances of the case are also to be appreciated.

35. At this stage, it needs to be mentioned that two witnesses PW-4 and PW-5 namely Chhotelal and Komil Prasad; respectively, stated that both legs of the deceased were folded from the knees and touching the floor while the body was hanging from the Khaprail by a plastic rope. PW-4 had been produced as witness of recovery of the rope and is not a Panch witness. He has proved his signature on the memo of recovery of rope Exhibit Ka-1 and the rope having been sealed in his presence as Material Exhibit-2.

36. We may note that the purpose of inquest, the object of the proceedings under Section 174 Cr.P.C., is to investigate into and draw up a report of the apparent cause of death, whether a person has died under suspicious circumstances or an unnatural death and if so, what is apparent cause of death. The officer preparing inquest has to describe such wounds as may be found on the body of the deceased and state in what manner by what weapon or instrument, if any, such wounds appear to have been inflicted. The position in which, the dead body was found at the spot may be a material circumstance in a particular case, as in the present case and the said position can only be ascertained from the inquest report prepared under Section 174 of the Criminal Procedure Code as the said report is the only evidence of narration of the position of the dead body found on the spot. In the instant case, the position in which, the dead body was found to be hanging is relevant to ascertain as to whether the death was caused by hanging or the deceased was first done to death and his body was hanged.

The statement of the Investigating Officer in the inquest with regard to the position of the dead body, while it was hanging from the Khaprail roof of the house, is based on his actual observation at the spot and is admissible under Section 60 of the Evidence Act as such. While considering the impact of the statement in the inquest report, site plan, seizure list, i.e. papers prepared by the Investigating Officer at the spot, it was held by the Apex Court in Rameshwar Dayal v. State of U.P.8 that the documents like the inquest report, seizure lists or the site plan consist of two parts:- (i) one which is admissible and; (ii) the other is inadmissible. That part of such documents which is based on the actual observation of the witness at the spot being direct evidence in the case is clearly admissible under Section 60 of the Evidence Act. Whereas, the other part which is based on the information given to the Investigating Officer or on the statement recorded by him in the course of investigation, is inadmissible under Section 162 Cr.P.C. except for the limited purpose mentioned in that section.

37. For the above discussion, we are of the opinion that the statement of the Investigating Officer with regard to the position of the dead body while it was hanging from the Khaprail by a plastic rope, i.e. both legs of the body were folded from the knees while the knees were on the ground becomes admissible in evidence and has to be read and analyzed alongwith the other evidence on record.

38. From the postmortem report, the injuries found on the person of the deceased are only ligature mark which was though horizontal but not continuous. It was present all around the neck except on the left side base of the neck and just behind the left ear. The ligature mark was in the shape of a groove, base of which was pale and margins were congested. Multiple abrasions were present on the margins of the groove and the area just below the ligature mark on the front part of the neck. The larynx and trachea were congested and hyoid bone was fractured at the junction of the left larger Cornu with its body. The opinion of the doctor that it was a death caused by strangulation, seems to have been arrived only for the reason that the hyoid bone was found fractured. It is not the case of the prosecution that the deceased was strangulated by ligature rather the use of wooden stick to compress his neck has been suggested by the prosecution. There was nothing before the doctor to opine that Lathi (wooden stick) was used to strangulate the deceased.

39. As regards the condition of the dead body, it may also be noted that the body was swollen, putrefaction had commenced as the superficial skin was peeled off from several places and foul smell was present, Eyes were closed, Mouth open with tongue protruding out. As per the observation of the Investigating Officer in the inquest as noted above, both legs were folded from the knees while the body was hanging from a plastic rope, the hands were hanging whereas the wrists were clinched, half open.

40. Considering the above part of the medico legal report (postmortem report) and the position of the dead body as per the observation of the Investigating Officer in the inquest, we are afraid to form any definite opinion as to the manner of death of the deceased, whether suicidal or homicidal. No definite opinion can be formed as per the expert report that it was a case of strangulation by use of a wooden stick to compress the neck and then suspending the body by a rope to simulate suicide by hanging. Noticeably enough there was absolutely no mark at all of struggle or violence on the dead body. It cannot be accepted that a man of about 30 years of age could be overpowered by his wife and his paramour (the appellant) in such a manner that he could not offer any kind of resistance that too when his child of 8 years, who was fighting for him, was also threatened to be killed.

41. It is not a case of the prosecution that the deceased was first made unconscious and then killed. The abrasions on the margins of the groove or at the area just below the ligature mark on front part of the neck cannot prove it a definite case of strangulation by a wooden stick as multiple abrasions at the margins of the groove may occur due to use of a plastic rope while hanging. The pattern of the ligature mark as appeared on the neck, however, is very similar to the ligature mark as may occur in the case of hanging. In any case, no groove in the middle of the front of the neck corresponding to the wooden stick used, was found. On a suggestion to the doctor (PW-9), he had tried to explain the same that the marks of Lathi could be superimposed by the marks of the rope which may be correct but the definite opinion formed by the doctor about the death caused by strangulation with the use of wooden stick (Lathi) to compress the neck in absence of any sign of injury corresponding to the same, seems to be confusing, that too when the doctor himself says that the groove mark on the neck was typically caused by the rope and not by Lathi. It may be reiterated that the ligature mark was not continuous as it was not present on the left side back of the neck and just below the left ear. The explanation offered by the doctor that it was missing because of the hair on the back of the neck is only a guess work. Nothing in this regard is mentioned in the postmortem report. Further there is no explanation as to the ligature mark missing from the "just below the left ear". Moreover, it is not a case of strangulation by ligature. Further the fracture of left larger cornu of the hyoid bone stands explained from the knots found in the plastic rope from which the body was hanging. The recovery memo of the rope (Exhibit Ka-4) show that there was 2m. noose (फन्दा) in the plastic rope and one more knot was there at the opposite end and a red piece of chunri gote (shining) cloth was stuck in the noose (फन्दा). The abrasion on the margins of groove can be attributed to the plastic rope whereas the fracture of hyoid bone may have been caused because of the position of the knot in the rope at the time of hanging of the body. In any case, there is no definite evidence on record to prove it a case of strangulation by Lathi (wooden stick).

Besides that, the proximate time of death as estimated by the doctor cannot be fitted in the prosecution story. As per the external appearance of the dead body, rigor mortis had passed on and putrefaction of the body had commenced. The body was swollen and superficial skin was peeled off from several places with the presence of foul smell. The said external appearance of the body seem to be the reason why the doctor had opined in the postmortem report that the proximate time of death was about 1½ days, whereas from the evidence on record, it can be seen that the postmortem of the dead body was conducted within 18-20 hours of the time of death as projected by the prosecution witnesses. This external appearance of the dead body, in view of the opinion of the doctor about the proximate time of death, also creates doubt on the prosecution story about the death caused by strangulation between 9:00PM to 11:00 PM in the intervening night of 30/31.7.2001.

42. We may record that mere fracture of the hyoid bone cannot be a reason to form a conclusive expert opinion of the death caused due to strangulation as is clear from the reading of the Chapter '19' of the Text Book of Modi on Medical Jurisprudence and Toxicology (24th Edition).

43. Now analysing the remaining evidence on record, the evidence of last seen by PW-3 Kalicharan and PW-5 Komil Prasad, we may note that Kalicharan (PW-3) stated that he alongwith Komil Prasad (PW-5) and Devaki Nandan (PW-6) was standing in front of the house of Devaki Nandan and at around 9:00 PM when they had seen appellant Lalta entering in the house of the deceased carrying Lathi. PW-3 Kalicharan had also been introduced as a witness of recovery of dibbi. He admitted that he had good relations with the first informant Natthu Lal (PW-2) and Natthu Lal was an influential person in the village. PW-5 Komil Prasad further stated that while standing at the same place, i.e. in front of the house of Devaki Nandan from where they had seen Lalta entering in the house of the deceased at around 9:00 PM, they kept on talking for two hours. These witnesses (PW-3 and PW-5) are, however, silent as to whether they had also seen Lalta coming out of the house also at around 11:00 PM as per the version of PW-8.

44. To prove the said fact, the prosecution had introduced another witness who is PW-8 Gulabi. He stated that he witnessed appellant Lalta coming out of the house of the deceased at around 11:00 PM. Further, amongst the witnesses of last seen, Devaki Nandan had also been produced as PW-6 but he had only proved the recovery of 'Lathi' from the house of Lalta and identified his signature on the recovery memo as Exhibit Ka-5. PW-6 (Devaki Nandan), in front of whose house, other witnesses of last seen were standing is completely silent about having seen Lalta entering in the house of deceased alongwith the other witnesses namely Kalicharan (PW-3) and Komil Prasad (PW-5).

45. For the above discussion, the evidence of last seen of the appellant Lalta entering and coming out of the house of deceased Taule Ram between 9:00 to 11:00 PM is not found convincing. Even otherwise, mere evidence of last seen, though an important circumstance, cannot be made sole basis for conviction of the accused in absence of any other corroborating circumstance to prove the guilt of the accused. In the circumstances brought before us, it is not possible to shift burden on the appellant Lalta to offer an explanation on the evidence of last seen of the prosecution witnesses (PW-3 and PW-5).

In a recent decision in Nizam and another vs. State of Rajasthan9 considering the importance of theory of last seen, the Apex Court has observed that the evidence of last seen alive, undoubtedly is an important link in the chain of circumstances that would point towards the guilt of the accused with some certainty as the last seen theory holds the courts to shift the burden of proof to the accused and the accused to offer a reasonable explanation as to the cause of death of the deceased.

But it is well-settled that it is not prudent to base the conviction solely on last seen theory. It was held that last seen theory should be applied taking into consideration the case of the prosecution in its entirety and keeping in mind the circumstances that precede and follow the point of being so last seen.

46. In the instant case, considering the evidence in its entirety before us, even this is doubtful that the deceased had been done to death between 9:00 PM to 11 PM as sought to be proved by the prosecution witnesses namely PW-3, PW-5 and PW-8, inasmuch as, the medical evidence does not support the ocular evidence of these witnesses about the proximate time of death. Lastly, as regards the recovery of Lathi, it is known to all that the villagers ordinary keep Lathi in their houses and often carry it while going to their fields. The proof of recovery of Lathi from the house of appellant Lalta given by PW-6 Devaki Nandan, therefore, will not add any strength to the prosecution case.

Apart from all the evidences noted above, there are other circumstances which also create doubt on the prosecution story. One of them is that the prosecution witnesses had proved that the wife of the deceased (Nanhi Devi) was present in the house when PW-1, Ram Autar, Gram Pradhan went to lodge the report (Exhibit Ka-1) of the suicide committed by her husband. The Investigating Officer reached at the spot after lodging of the said report at about 9:30 AM. In his examination-in-chief, PW-11 (Investigating Officer) stated that he reached at the spot carrying necessary papers and while doing Panchayatnama (inquest), a suspicion was raised about the death being a case of suicide. During the investigation, another written report was given by PW-2 Natthu Lal (Exhibit Ka-2) reporting murder committed by the wife in the company of the appellant Lalta. PW-11, however, is conspicuously silent about the presence of the wife of the deceased (Nanhi Devi) in the house when he reached at the spot. In the Case Diary (CD I) at page ½, where the written report given by PW-2 (Natthu Lal) was extracted by the Investigating Officer, time of which is mentioned as 12:10, in the margin by the red ink, it is noted that a search for arrest of Nanhi Devi was made but she had left her house alongwith her children clandestinely. From the Case Diary (CD IV) dated 5.8.2001, it is evident that Smt. Nanhi Devi (wife of the deceased) was arrested from the house of her brother Hetram son of late Tarachand, resident of Gram Bhoodha, which was her paternal house (Maika). The prosecution evidence, thus, is not conclusive about the presence of Nanhi Devi in her house in the morning when police had reached at the spot, though all the prosecution witnesses stated that Nanhi Devi was wailing in the morning that her husband had committed suicide. When and how Nanhi Devi had slipped from her house alongwith her children, when the entire village was collected and police was present could not be explained by the prosecution. In the inquest report also, it is mentioned that when police had reached at the spot family members of the deceased were crying. In the statement of PW-1, the Gram Pradhan, it has come that there were no immediate family members of the deceased except his wife and children. The silence of the prosecution witnesses about the circumstance in which Nanhi Devi wife of the deceased had left her house in the presence of villagers and police also creates a deep dent in the prosecution story.

47. In the entirety of the facts and circumstances of the present case, we do not find any definite evidence so as to hold the appellant Lalta guilty for the offence of murder of deceased Taule Ram, the husband of co-accused Nanhi Devi.

48. The evidence of last seen, as discussed above, does not inspire the confidence of the Court so as to shift burden on the appellant Lalta to explain the circumstances being in his special knowledge.

49. It is settled that mere suspicion, however strong it may be, cannot take the place of proof. The prosecution must stand or fall on its own legs and it cannot derive any strength form the weaknesses of the defence. [Reference Anjlus Dungdung vs. State of Jharkhand10 and Nanhar and other vs. State of Haryana11].

50. No motive at all has been assigned to appellant Lalta independent to that of the co-accused Nanhi Devi. The illicit relationship of the wife of the deceased namely co-accused Nanhi Devi with the appellant is not proved. All the prosecution witnesses have stated that they had no knowledge about the relationship of appellant Lalta with the wife of the deceased and simply because Lalta used to go to the house of the deceased, they assumed such a relationship. We must also not loose sight of the fact that the deceased was a well off person, who was having around 11 Bighas of land in his name and a house which was a two storied house in the village. The couple had four children born out of the wedlock and the youngest one was about 2½ years of age whereas the eldest child was 8 years old. To the contrary, the appellant Lalta was only a labour. Even on comparison of the economic status of the appellant Lalta and the deceased, it is difficult to believe that a lady (wife of the deceased) having four children between the age of 8 to 2½ years, the young wife of a well off person in the village, would indulge in an extramarital relationship with a man who was only a labour.

What gain accused Nanhi Devi could have by killing her own husband when only immediate dispute between them was a 'Marpeet' prior to the incident is unexplained.

The motive for the offence as alleged by the prosecution is not at all convincing nor it could be proved.

51. Lastly, in this entire sequence of events, we can clearly see that the sole beneficiary of the whole situation was the first informant namely Natthu Lal (PW-2), who was cousin of the deceased, as he got possession of the landed property of the deceased. In their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., both the accused persons stated that they were implicated falsely at the behest of Natthu Lal namely PW-2. Natthu Lal namely PW-2 was an influential person of the village is proved by the prosecution witness Kalicharan (PW-3). The possibility of Natthu Lal (PW-2) being the master mind behind the whole prosecution story, in view of the circumstances brought before us, cannot be ruled out.

52. Be that as it may, the evidence brought forth by the prosecution may give rise to a suspicion but suspicion is not a proof of the guilt particularly when the evidence of the prosecution witnesses do not inspire confidence, for the reasons disclosed above.

53. In the entirety of the evidence on record, we find that the prosecution has not been able to prove the guilt of appellant Lalta for the offence of murder of deceased Taule Ram beyond all reasonable doubt.

The judgment and order dated 19.7.2005 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 3, Pilibhit in Sessions Trial No. 537 of 2001 for conviction of the appellant No. 2 Lalta Prasad is hereby set aside.

The appellant no. 2 Lalta Prasad is in jail. He shall be released from the jail forthwith, if not wanted in any other case.

54. In so far as another appellant Nanhi Devi is concerned, she has been already granted remission by the State Government. As no one has appeared to represent her case the Court desist from forming any opinion on her case in view of the remission of her sentence. The appeal, accordingly, stands disposed of.

It is, however, kept open for appellant Nanhi Devi to move an application to revive her appeal for decision on the merits of the order of conviction, if she so desires.

The office is directed to send back the lower court record along with a certified copy of this judgment for information and necessary compliance.

The compliance report be furnished to this Court through the Registrar General, High Court, Allahabad within one month.

Sri Anurag Sharma learned Amicus Curiae rendered valuable assistance to the Court. (Delivered by Hon'ble Rohit Ranjan Agarwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Arpit Agarwal, learned counsel for the appellants.

2. This is plaintiffs' second appeal under Section 100 of Code of Civil Procedure (hereinafter called as "CPC") arising out of judgment and decree dated 13.03.2019 passed by District Judge, Pilibhit and judgment and decree dated 08.03.2022 passed by Civil Judge (Senior Division) arising out of Original Suit No.66 of 2012.

3. Facts, in brief necessary to appreciate the controversy in hand, are that the plaintiff filed an Original Suit No.66 of 2012 claiming relief of permanent injunction against the defendants-respondents for not interfering in the property mentioned in the plaint.

4. Case set up by the plaintiff was that a registered Will was executed on 08.07.1954 by one Smt. Ram Daulati in favour of late Ram Chandra Lal, father of the plaintiffs. The testator of the Will died in the year 1957 and since then the possession of late Ram Chandra Lal continued till his death and thereafter the plaintiffs are in possession. The plaintiffs had demolished the two storey building which was existing over the land in dispute for constructing a new house. It was on 10.03.2012, when the plaintiffs were trying to raise construction then the defendants objected and tried to take forcible possession. Hence, the suit for injunction was filed.

5. The plaintiffs filed a list of documents which included the electricity bill, the tax receipts etc. Despite, notice, the defendants did not turn up and the trial Court proceeded ex-parte, and on 13.03.2019 dismissed the suit on the ground that plaintiffs claimed to be the owner in possession on the basis of the Will deed dated 08.07.1954, which was not brought on record and only the receipts of the Nagar Palika Parishad regarding house tax and water tax were filed.

6. Against the said judgment, a Civil Appeal No.24 of 2019 was filed, the lower appellate Court framed the following points of determination under Order 41 Rule 31 of CPC, which are as under:-

"1. क्या विद्वान अवर न्यायालय द्वारा पारित किया गया प्रश्नगत निर्णय पत्रावली पर उपलब्ध साक्ष्य के विपरीत है?

2. क्या अपीलार्थी द्वारा प्रस्तुत की गयी पंजीकृत दिनांकित 08.07.1954 के आधार पर अपीलार्थी / वादीगण का कोई विवादित संपत्ति में पहुंचते है अथवा नहीं?"

7. During the pendency of the appeal, the plaintiffs-appellants filed copy of the Will deed under Order 41 Rule 27 of CPC, which was taken by the Court. The lower appellate Court tried both the points together and found that the alleged Will dated 08.07.1954 was not proved by the appellants as required under Section 63 (C) of the Indian Succession Act, 1925 (hereinafter called as "Act 1925") read with Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (hereinafter called as "Act 1872"), and further held that Section 90 of the Act of 1872 was not applicable, which was in regard to the presumption of document being 30 years old. The lower appellate Court on 08.03.2022 dismissed the appeal, hence the present appeal.

8. Sri Arpit Agarwal, learned counsel for the appellants submitted that lower appellate Court fell into the trap by holding that the case of the appellants was not covered under Section 90 and in fact, covered under Section 90-A (2) of the Act, 1872. According to him, both the sections operate in a different field, and the Will dated 08.07.1954 was a 67 years old document, and as per Section 90, the said Will should have been presumed to have been executed by the testator in favour of late Ram Chandra Lal. According to him, the lower appellate Court wrongly held that the case would fall under sub-Section 2 of Section 90-A of the Act, 1872.

9. Reliance has been placed upon the decision of Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in case of Nirmala Verma Vs. Nirmal Banerjii and others 2010 (1) AWC 978. Relevant paras 27 and 31 are extracted hereasunder:-

"27. The Court further finds that the lower appellate court has observed that the presumption under Section 90 of the Evidence Act was not available to the appellant on the ground that the documents filed was not 20 years old. The lower appellate court held that the lease-deed was executed on 21.2.1963 and that the suit was filed on 5.2.1973, i.e., approximately 10 years old on the date of the institution of the suit and therefore, the provisions of Section 90 and 90A of the Act was not applicable. In my opinion, the finding of the lower appellate court is not correct. For facility, Sections 90 and 90-A of the Evidence Act, as applicable in the State of U.P., reads as under :

90. Presumption as to documents thirty years old.-Where any document purporting or proved to be thirty years old, is produced from any custody which the signature and every other party of such document, which purports to be in the handwriting of any particular person, is in that person's handwriting, and, in the case of a document executed or attested, that it was duly executed and attested by the persons by whom it purports to be executed and attested.

90-A. Presumption as to electronic record five years old:-- Where any electronic record, purporting or proved to be five years old, is produced from any custody which the Court in the particular case considers proper, the Court may presume that the digital signature which purports to be the digital signature of any particular person was so affixed by him or any person authorised by him in this behalf."

31. In Manjoor Ali and Anr. v. Kishmat Ali and Ors. MANU/UP/0519/2004 : AIR 2004 Allahabad 395*, I had the occasion to deal with the provisions of Section 90 and 90A of the Evidence Act. The Court held-*

"From the aforesaid it is clear that Section 90-A(20 does not override Section 90 of the Evidence Act. Both the sections operate in different fields. A document which is registered and which is more than 20 years old could not be admitted in evidence under Section 90-A(2) if the said document is the basis of the suit or of defence. However, the presumption, if available under Section 90, can therefore be raised by the Court even after holding that the presumption is not available under Section 90-A of the Act. Thus, I hold, that the presumption under Section 90(2) of the Evidence Act is not taken away by the provisions of Section 90-A)(2) of the Act.

The question therefore, that arises in the present case is whether the presumption under Section 90(2) of the Act was available on the certified copy of the sale deed dated 16-5-1933 to the plaintiff. It is relevant to state here that Section 90 of the Act removes the strict rule of proof of private documents. Presumption of genuineness may be raised where the document is produced from a proper custody. However, in view of the provisions of Section 90 of the Act, it is the discretion of the Court to accept the presumption flowing from Section 90. In the present case, the mere production of the certified copy of the sale deed was not by itself sufficient to justify the presumption of the execution of the original under Section 90. The provisions of Section 90 has to be read along with Section 65 of the Act. Mere production of a certified copy of the said deed is not sufficient to draw a presumption under Section 90. It must be shown that the document produced was a copy admitted as secondary evidence under Section 65 of the Act.""

10. Reliance has also been placed upon decision in case of Jeevan Bahadur Samaddar Vs. Govind Charan Samaddar and others, 2013 (120) RD 717. Relevant para 18 is extracted hereasunder:-

"18. However 'presumption' under Section 90 is not obligatory on the part of the Court. The word 'may' used in both sub-sections leave it to the Court, to draw such presumption or not. Obviously, if the Court decline to raise presumption, it must be for valid reasons. The words 'may presume' has been defined in Section 4 of Act, 1872 and reads as under:

"4. "May presume"- Whenever it is provided by this Act that the Court may presume a fact, it may either regard such fact as proved, unless and until it is disproved, or may call for proof of it."

(emphasis added)"

11. Sri Agarwal then contended that father of the plaintiffs continued in possession over the property in dispute since 1954 till his death and thereafter the plaintiffs continued, but dispute arose after the existing building was demolished and construction was going to be raised. According to him, the Will which was registered in 1954 should be presumed to be a document executed by the testator and need not be proved in the present suit in view of provisions of Section 90. He then contended that Section 68 of the Act of 1872 will not be attracted in the present case as both the attesting witnesses are dead and it is only when the Will is put to execution, it was to be proved by one of the attesting witnesses. In the present case, as the document in question was 30 years old (in U.P. Amendment 20 years). The said Will was not required to be proved and it will be presumed to have been duly executed by the testator in favour of the propounder of the Will.

12. I have heard counsel for the plaintiffs-appellants and perused the record.

13. After perusal of record, this Court finds that the plaintiffs-appellants had filed a simplicitor suit for permanent injunction restraining the defendants from interfering in their peaceful possession on the basis of the Will deed said to have been executed on 08.07.1954 in favour of father of the plaintiffs. The Will deed was never put to execution either by the father of the plaintiffs or the plaintiffs who are said to be the propunder of the Will.

14. Before adverting to decide the present appeal, a cursory glance of provisions of Section 63 of the Act, 1925, Sections 68, 69, 90 and 90-A of the Act of 1872 are necessary for the better appreciation, which are extracted hereasunder:-

The Indian Succession Act, 1925

"S. 63. Execution of unprivileged wills.--Every testator, not being a soldier employed in an expedition or engaged in actual warfare, 1 [or an airman so employed or engaged,] or a mariner at sea, shall execute his will according to the following rules:--*

(a) The testator shall sign or shall affix his mark to the will, or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction.

(b) The signature or mark of the testator, or the signature of the person signing for him, shall be so placed that it shall appear that it was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a will.

(c) The will shall be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the will or has seen some other person sign the will, in the presence an d by the direction of the testator, or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgement of his signature or mark, or of the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary.

The Indian Evidence Act, 1872

"S. 68. Proof of execution of document required by law to be attested. -- If a document is required by law to be attested, it shall not be used as evidence until one attesting witness at least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence:*

[Provided that it shall not be necessary to call an attesting witness in proof of the execution of any document, not being a will, which has been registered in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Registration Act, 1908 (16 of 1908), unless its execution by the person by whom it purports to have been executed is specifically denied.]

S. 69. Proof where no attesting witness found. -- If no such attesting witness can be found, or if the document purports to have been executed in the United Kingdom, it must be proved that the attestation of one attesting witness at least is in his handwriting, and that the signature of the person executing the document is in the hand writing of that person.*

S. 90. Presumption as to documents thirty years old. -- Where any document, purporting or proved to be thirty years old, is produced from any custody which the Court in the particular case considers proper, the Court may presume that the signature and every other part of such document, which purports to be in the handwriting of any particular person, is in that person's handwriting, and, in the case of a document executed or attested, that it was duly executed and attested by the persons by whom it purports to be executed and attested.

ch, and under the care of the person with whom, they would naturally be; but no custody is improper if it is proved to have had a legitimate origin, or if the circumstances of the particular case are such as to render such an origin probable.

S. 90A. Presumption as to electronic records five years old. -- Where any electronic record, purporting or proved to be five years old, is produced from any custody which the Court in the particular case considers proper, the Court may presume that the 2 [electronic signature] which purports to be the 2 [electronic signature] of any particular person was so affixed by him or any person authorised by him in this behalf.

Explanation. -- Electronic records are said to be in proper custody if they are in the place in which, and under the care of the person with whom, they naturally be; but no custody is improper if it is proved to have had a legitimate origin, or the circumstances of the particular case are such as to render such an origin probable."

15. Chapter III of Act 1925 is in regard to the execution of unprivileged Wills. Section 63 provides the manner in which a testator shall execute his Will :-

(a) The testator shall sign or shall affix his mark to the Will, or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction,

(b) The signature or mark either of the testator, or the signature of the person signing for him, shall be placed and shall appear that it was intended to give effect to the writing as a Will,

(c) the Will has to be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark on the Will. Further, each of the witnesses shall sign the Will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time.

16. Thus, the Act of 1925 prescribes the methodology for execution of a Will. The Act of 1872 is a procedural law and Section 68 provides for the proof of execution of a document which is required by law to be attested.

17. Proviso to the said Section requires that in case of proving a Will, the same has to be done through attesting witnesses. The legislature had prescribed the procedure for proving the execution of a Will through an attesting witness. But, in cases where the attesting witnesses are not available, as in the case of death or out of the jurisdiction of the Court or kept out of the way by the adverse party or cannot be traced despite diligence search. In those cases, the Will may be proved in the manner provided in Section 69 of the Act of 1872.

18. The Supreme Court in Babu Singh and others Vs. Ram Sahai @ Ram Singh, 2008 (14) SCC 754 had the occasion to consider the effect of Sections 68 and 69 of the Act of 1872. Relevant paras 17 and 18 are extracted hereasunder:-

"17. It would apply, inter alia, in a case where the attesting witness is either dead or out of the jurisdiction of the court or kept out of the way by the adverse party or cannot be traced despite diligent search. Only in that event, the Will may be proved in the manner indicated in Section 69, i.e., by examining witnesses who were able to prove the handwriting of the testator or executant. The burden of proof then may be shifted to others.

18. Whereas, however, a Will ordinarily must be proved keeping in view the provisions of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act and Section 68 of the Act, in the event the ingredients thereof, as noticed hereinbefore, are brought on record, strict proof of execution and attestation stands relaxed. However, signature and handwriting, as contemplated in Section 69, must be proved."

19. In the case in hand, it was a specific case of the plaintiffs that Will deed was executed on 08.07.1954 and more than 67 years have elapsed and both the attesting witnesses have died, thus Section 69 comes into play and the execution of the Will deed was required to be proved according to Section 69 by at least proving that the attestation of one attesting witness at least is in his handwriting, and that the signature of the person executing the Will is in the handwriting of that person. But, the plaintiffs apart from filing the Will deed dated 08.07.1954 during pendency of the appeal did not take any step to prove the handwriting of either one of the attesting witness or the executor, and solely relied upon Section 90 of the Act 1872, for presuming the document to be 20 years old, which need not to be proved.

20. The Division Bench of Delhi High Court in Jagdeesh Prasad Vs. State Manu/DE/0605/2015, in a similar circumstances, held that in case of death of attesting witnesses, Section 69 of the Act comes into play and the execution of the Will deed is required to be proved by the handwriting of one of the witnesses and the executant . Relevant Paras 13, 14 and 15 are extracted hereasunder:-

"13. The legislature was conscious of the fact that a situation may arise where both attesting witnesses have taken the train to the heaven before the testator died or before the beneficiary propounds the Will. The consciousness of the legislature can be found in Section 69 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, which reads as under:-

69. Proof where no attesting witness found -

If no such attesting witness can be found, or if the document purports to have been executed in the United Kingdom, it must be proved that the attestation of one attesting witness at least is in his handwriting, and that the signature of the person executing the document is in the handwriting of that person.

14. Section 69 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, while dealing with a situation where no attesting witness can be found, requires evidence to be led that the signatures on a document which law requires to be attested by one or more witnesses are that of the executant with further proof that there is attestation in his handwriting by one attesting witness.

15. Law does not envisage that if both attesting witnesses to a Will have died or for some reason are not available, that would be the end of the Will. The way forward has been guided by the legislature under Section 69 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872."

21. A Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Santosh Kumar Gupta Vs. Harvinder Nath Gupta and others, 1996 SCC Online All 1325 while deciding the testamentary suit held that in case, the attesting witnesses are dead or not available, the execution of the Will can be proved in accordance with mode prescribed under Section 69 of the Act, then Court should not raise presumption under Section 90 of the Act and admit the document in evidence, but direct the party to prove the document by leading evidence. Relevant Para 15 is extracted hereasunder:-

"15. As already discussed above, plaintiff in this case has failed to prove by cogent evidence that both the attesting witnesses are dead. The plaintiff has also failed to prove the hand writing and the signature of said attesting witnesses under Section 69 of the Evidence Act. He has not produced any relation or any such person who would depose that the attesting witnesses were dead. On the contrary, the plaintiff had tried to prove the same by his evidence and has failed to establish the said fact before this Curt. In such a situation, in my opinion, the presumption under Section 90 of the Evidence Act is not available to the plaintiff. I consequently do not find any force in the submission of Shri J. Nagar regarding the presumption about due and valid execution and attestation of the document on the ground that is is over 30 years old. In view of the aforesaid discussion I am of this opinion that the plaintiff has failed to prove the due and valid execution and attestation of the Will (A-5). Issues 1 and 2 are decided accordingly against the plaintiff."

22. Dealing with the similar situation for the execution and proving of a Will under Section 63 of the Act 1925 and Section 69 read with Section 90 of the Act 1872, the Apex Court in Bharpur Singh and others Vs. Shamsher Singh, 2009 (3) SCC 687, held that in case, the provisions of Section 68 of the Act 1872 could not be complied with, then the other provisions contained therein, namely, Section 69 and 70 would be attracted. Relevant Paras 18 and 19 are extracted hereasunder:-

"18. Respondent was a mortgagee of the lands belonging to the testatrix. He is also said to be the tenant in respect of some of the properties of the testatrix. It has not been shown that she was an educated lady. She had put her left thumb impression. In the aforementioned situation, the question, 15 which should have been posed, was as to whether she could have an independent advice in the matter. For the purpose of proof of will, it would be necessary to consider what was the fact situation prevailing in the year 1962. Even assuming the subsequent event, viz., the appellants had not been looking after their mother as has been inferred from the fact that they received the news of her death only six days after her death took place, is true, the same, in our opinion, would be of not much significance.

19. The provisions of Section 90 of the Indian Evidence Act keeping in view the nature of proof required for proving a Will have no application. A Will must be proved in terms of the provisions of Section 63(c) of the Indian Succession Act, 1925 and Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. In the event the provisions thereof cannot be complied with, the other provisions contained therein, namely, Sections 69 and 70 of the Indian Evidence Act providing for exceptions in relation thereto would be attracted. Compliance with statutory requirements for proving an ordinary document is not sufficient, as Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act postulates that execution must be proved by at least one of the attesting witness, if an attesting witness is alive and subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence."

23. It is no doubt correct that a Will executed under Section 63 of the Act, 1925 has to be proved that it was executed, at least by one of the attesting witnesses under Section 68, the requirement of Section 63 of Act, 1925 read with Section 68 of Act, 1872 has already been considered and upheld by the Apex Court in case of B. Venkatamuni Vs. C.J. Ayodhya Ram Singh and others, 2006 (13) SCC 449.

24. I t is only in case where plaintiffs come up with a case that the attesting witnesses of the Will have died or not available to prove the execution of the Will as required under Section 68, then the alleged Will deed is required to be proved by the handwriting of one of the witnesses of attesting witnesses and the executant under Section 69.

25. Argument raised at bar that there was no requirement to prove the execution of Will under Section 68, as presumption in favour of the execution of Will is there, under Section 90 is a fallacy and has no merit.

26. As regards, a Will which has been executed under Section 63 of the Act 1925, the mandatory provision has been provided under Section 68 for proving its execution in case of non-compliance of Section 68, Section 69 is attracted. Reliance placed upon the decision by appellants on the decision of Nirmala Verma (Supra) is distinguishable in the present case and the same is not applicable.

27. Moreover, in that case, provisions of Section 69 of the Act 1872 were not considered. Further the relief sought in the suit is only for the permanent injunction claiming on the basis of the Will deed executed in favour of the father of the appellants. No declaratory relief has been sought by the plaintiffs for declaring their ownership/title on the basis of the Will dated 08.07.1954. The Apex Court in Anathula Sudhakar Vs. P. Buchi Reddy (Dead) by LRs. and others 2008 (4) SCC 594 had cleared the air in regard to the principle as to when a suit for permanent injunction will lie. Relevant Paras 13 and 21 are extracted hereasunder:-

"13. The general principles as to when a mere suit for permanent injunction will lie, and when it is necessary to file a suit for declaration and/or possession with injunction as a consequential relief, are well settled. We may refer to them briefly.

13.1) Where a plaintiff is in lawful or peaceful possession of a property and such possession is interfered or threatened by the defendant, a suit for an injunction simpliciter will lie. A person has a right to protect his possession against any person who does not prove a better title by seeking a prohibitory injunction. But a person in wrongful possession is not entitled to an injunction against the rightful owner.

13.2) Where the title of the plaintiff is not disputed, but he is not in possession, his remedy is to file a suit for possession and seek in addition, if necessary, an injunction. A person out of possession, cannot seek the relief of injunction simpliciter, without claiming the relief of possession.

13.3) Where the plaintiff is in possession, but his title to the property is in dispute, or under a cloud, or where the defendant asserts title thereto and there is also a threat of dispossession from defendant, the plaintiff will have to sue for declaration of title and the consequential relief of injunction. Where the title of plaintiff is under a cloud or in dispute and he is not in possession or not able to establish possession, necessarily the plaintiff will have to file a suit for declaration, possession and injunction.

21. To summarize, the position in regard to suits for prohibitory injunction relating to immovable property, is as under :

(a) Where a cloud is raised over plaintiff's title and he does not have possession, a suit for declaration and possession, with or without a consequential injunction, is the remedy. Where the plaintiff's title is not in dispute or under a cloud, but he is out of possession, he has to sue for possession with a consequential injunction. Where there is merely an interference with plaintiff's lawful possession or threat of dispossession, it is sufficient to sue for an injunction simpliciter.

(b) As a suit for injunction simpliciter is concerned only with possession, normally the issue of title will not be directly and substantially in issue. The prayer for injunction will be decided with reference to the finding on possession. But in cases where de jure possession has to be established on the basis of title to the property, as in the case of vacant sites, the issue of title may directly and substantially arise for consideration, as without a finding thereon, it will not be possible to decide the issue of possession.

(c) But a finding on title cannot be recorded in a suit for injunction, unless there are necessary pleadings and appropriate issue regarding title [either specific, or implied as noticed in Annaimuthu Thevar (supra)]. Where the averments regarding title are absent in a plaint and where there is no issue relating to title, the court will not investigate or examine or render a finding on a question of title, in a suit for injunction. Even where there are necessary pleadings and issue, if the matter involves complicated questions of fact and law relating to title, the court will relegate the parties to the remedy by way of comprehensive suit for declaration of title, instead of deciding the issue in a suit for mere injunction.

(d) Where there are necessary pleadings regarding title, and appropriate issue relating to title on which parties lead evidence, if the matter involved is simple and straight-forward, the court may decide upon the issue regarding title, even in a suit for injunction. But such cases, are the exception to the normal rule that question of title will not be decided in suits for injunction. But persons having clear title and possession suing for injunction, should not be driven to the costlier and more cumbersome remedy of a suit for declaration, merely because some meddler vexatiously or wrongfully makes a claim or tries to encroach upon his property. The court should use its discretion carefully to identify cases where it will enquire into title and cases where it will refer to plaintiff to a more comprehensive declaratory suit, depending upon the facts of the case."

28. Thus, the position, which culls out is that the permanent injunction was sought on the basis of a Will without seeking a declaratory relief by the plaintiffs nor any effort was made to prove the execution of the Will from where the plaintiffs sought to derive their title. The suit filed by the plaintiffs for permanent injunction was defective as declaratory relief was not sought and the title was under cloud, which could have been proved only by adhering to the provisions of Section 69 of the Act of 1872.

29. Thus, considering the facts and circumstances of the case, I find that no case for interference has been made out by the plaintiffs-appellants before this Court. More so, the argument that Will deed dated 08.07.1954 was to be presumed to have been executed in view of Section 90 has no merit as the plaintiffs were required to prove the execution of the Will by adverting to provisions of Section 69 of the Act 1872 by proving through the handwriting of one of the witnesses of the Will and the executant which he failed and thus, not entitled to any relief.

30. The Apex Court in Civil Appeal No.8971 of 2010 (Kripa Ram (deceased) through Legal Representatives and others vs. Surendra Deo Gaur and others, decided on 16.11.2020 has held that the second appeal can be dismissed without even formulating the substantial question of law. Relevant paras 25 and 26 reads as under :

"25. In a judgment reported as Ashok Rangnath Magar v. Shrikant Govindrao Sangvikar (2015) 16 SCC 763, this Court held that the second appeal can be dismissed without even formulating the substantial question of law. The Court held as under:

"18. In the light of the provision contained in Section 100 Code of Civil Procedure and the ratio decided by this Court, we come to the following conclusion:
(i) On the day when the second appeal is listed for hearing on admission if the High Court is satisfied that no substantial question of law is involved, it shall dismiss the second appeal without even formulating the substantial question of law;

(ii) In cases where the High Court after hearing the appeal is satisfied that the substantial question of law is involved, it shall formulate that question and then the appeal shall be heard on those substantial question of law, after giving notice and opportunity of hearing to the Respondent;

(iii) In no circumstances the High Court can reverse the judgment of the trial court and the first appellate court without formulating the substantial question of law and complying with the mandatory requirements of Section 100 Code of Civil Procedure."

26. In view of the above findings, we do not find any error in the judgment and order of the High Court dismissing the Second Appeal. The present appeal is thus dismissed. Pending applications, if any, shall stand disposed of."

31. Both the Courts below had rightly dismissed the suit of the plaintiffs-appellants, which needs no interference by this Court. No substantial question of law is made out.

32. Second appeal fails and is, hereby, dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashutosh Srivastava, J.)

1. These writ petitions raise common issue and questions of law, therefore, they are being decided by a common order. The Writ Tax No.1085 of 2021 (M/s Sultan Tanneries and Leather Products Vs. Union of India and others) is treated as the leading writ petition.

2. We have heard Sri Rahul Agarwal, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Krishna Agarwal, learned counsel for the Respondent, Directorate of Revenue Intelligence (DRI) and Sri Amit Mahajan and Sri Ashok Singh, learned Senior Standing Counsels appearing for Central Goods and Service Tax/Central Excise, Kanpur.

3. The challenge raised in this writ petition is to the jurisdiction of the Commissioner, CGST and Central Excise, Kanpur, the Respondent No.4 to adjudicate the show cause notice dated 22.06.2011 issued by the Commissioner of Customs (Expert) Jawahar Lal Nehru, Customs House, Nhava Sheva, Tal Vran, District Raigarh, Maharashtra, Respondent No.2, under the Customs Act, 1962. The challenge is based on the premise that the Respondent No.4 is neither a proper officer nor is competent to pass any order under the Customs Act, 1962 in as much as the Respondent No.4 was merely assigned the jurisdiction by the order of the Board dated 20.11.2012 and cannot, therefore, be an officer appointed under Section 4(1) of the Customs Act, 1962. Further, the Parliament in its wisdom has enacted the Central Goods and Service Act, 2017 w.e.f. 01.07.2017 and consequent to such enactment, there remains no officer designated as "Commissioner of Customs, Central Excise and Service Tax, Kanpur". The Commissioner of CGST and Central Excise, Kanpur and "Commissioner of Customs, Central Excise and Service Tax Kanpur" are two different officers, the former being a non-existent and the later being not the "Proper Officer" under Section 2(34) or an officer appointed under Section 4(1) of the Customs Act, 1962 and thus lacking jurisdiction to adjudicate the proceedings under Section 28 of the Customs Act pursuant to the impugned show cause notice dated 22.06.2011. Accordingly, a relief to quash the further proceedings, pursuant to the show cause notice dated 22.06.2011 issued by the Respondent No.2 so far as it relates to the petitioner, has been sought. In the alternative, a direction in the nature of mandamus has been sought to direct the Respondent No.4 to proceed with the adjudication of the show cause notice only after making available the documents/evidences etc. sought to be summoned by the petitioner vide its submission dated 09.02.2021 and affording an opportunity of cross examination of the witness relied upon by the DRI.

4. The facts shorn of unnecessary details relevant for the purpose of deciding the writ petition briefly stated are that the petitioner is a company engaged in the business of manufacture and export of finished leather having IEC No.0688000932. During the period of 01.04.2006 to 30.11.2009, the petitioner exported four consignments of finished leather through Nhava Sheva Port, Navi Mumbai to different buyers in Italy. The exports were described as "finished leather made out from buffalo hides" in all the shipping bills, Invoice, Packing List and Certificate of origin. The exports were classified as "Finished Leather of all kinds" under Chapter Heading 4107 of the Schedule II (Export Policy) of ITC (HS). The exports being finished leather was free (without any restrictions) provided the leather confirmed to the specifications under Public Notice of Government of India, Ministry of Commerce dated 27.05.1992 (Public Notice No.3). The Officers of the DRI on the strength of some statements tendered before them by some quality Inspector for some Italian Buyers in India concluded that the shipments exported by the petitioner to the Italian Buyers were not of finished leather: but of Semi finished leather and the petitioner has availed inadmissible exemption of export duly @ 60% during the period 01.04.2006 to 30.11.2009 along with inadmissible export incentives of duty drawback and DFIA Schemes. Consequently, the petitioner was served with the impugned show cause notice dated 22.06.2011 by the Respondent No.2 directing the petitioner, its Directors, its CHA's transferees of DFIA License and to whomsoever concerned to show cause as to why;

(i) Goods having declared FOB value of Rs.1,59,69,201/- should not be confiscated;

(ii) Export duty amounting to Rs. 95,81,520/- should not be recovered along with interest;

(iii) The amount of DFIA benefits availed against respective lincenses in respect of shipping Bill should not be denied and the licenses themselves may not be recommended for cancellation;

(iv) Import duty forgone of Rs.1,89,47,771/- should not be demanded and recovered along with interest and the goods so imported should not be confiscated; and

(v) Penalty should not be imposed jointly and severally under Sections 114, 114A, 114AA and 117 of the Customs Act.

5. By order dated 20.11.2012 issued by the Board, the Respondent No.3 was appointed as Common Adjudicating Authority. However, the matter was kept pending and on 13.01.2020 a notice came to be issued by the Superintendent CGST and Central Excise, Kanpur Intimating the date of personal hearing before the Respondent No.3. The petitioner on receipt of the Notice is stated to have filed a detailed objection alleging incompetence of the Respondent No.4 to adjudicate the matter in terms of Section 32(4) of the Customs Act, which objections are stated to be pending. Besides, the above objections the petitioner is stated to have filed detailed written submissions dated 09.02.2021 with request to be made available all documentary evidences and for affording opportunity to cross examine which too is stated to be pending consideration with the respondents.

6. The counsel for the petitioner has assailed the show cause notice dated 22.06.2011 as also the entire proceedings consequent thereto principally on the following grounds:-

(i) The Respondent No.4 has no authority in law to adjudicate the show cause notice dated 22.06.2011 and the Respondent No.2 has no authority in law to issue the impugned show cause notice dated 22.06.2011.

(ii) The Respondent No.2 is not competent to issue show cause notice under Section 75 of Customs Act read with Rule 16 of the Drawback Rules, 1995.

(iii) Proposal for confiscation and imposition of penalties consequential to demand under Section 28 and 75 of Customs Act and Rule 16 of Drawback Rules, 1995 are bad in law

(iv) The demand of export duty is not sustainable on merits.

(v) The demand of import duty is not sustainable on merits.

(vi) Section 28AAA of the Customs Act cannot be invoked.

(vii) Once the authorisation was issued by DGFT with open eyes, the respondents cannot question the benefits extended under the authorisations.

(vii) The show cause notice is otherwise bad in law.

Submissions of the Petitioner:

7. It is vehemently contended by Sri Rahul Agarwal, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the writ petitioner that order under Section 28 of the Customs Act and Rule 16 of the Drawback Rules can be passed only by a "Proper Officer" as defined under Section 2(1) of Customs Act while adjudication of confiscation and penalties can be done by an "Adjudicating Authority" as defined under Section 2(34) of the Customs Act. Section 3 of the Customs Act provides for classes of Officers of Customs which includes Commissioner of Customs etc. and the Respondent No.4 does not fall under any of the class of officers specified under the said section. Section 4 of the Customs Act confers power on the Board to appoint such persons as it thinks fit to be the officer of Customs but no notification under Section 4 has yet been issued notifying the Respondent No.4 as an officer of Customs. Likewise under Section 6 of the Customs Act, the Central Government is empowered to entrust either conditionally or unconditionally, to any officer of the Central Government or State Government or a local authority any functions of the Board or any officer of Customs under the Act but till date no such notification has been issued by the Central Government entrusting the Respondent No.4 with any function of the Officer of Customs.

8. He further submits that the Respondent No. 4 was earlier appointed as "Commissioner of Central Excise" under the Central Excise Act, 1944 and upon the enactment of the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 (CGST Act), the Respondent No. 4 will be deemed to be an officer appointed under CGST Act by virtue of Section 3 of the CGST Act and thus cannot be called a ""Proper Officer"" or "adjudicating authority" under the Customs Act. Consequently, the assumption of jurisdiction to proceed under the impugned notice is wholly without jurisdiction and without authority of law. Reliance has been placed upon Para 22 of the decision of the Apex Court in Canon India Private Limited versus Commissioner of Customs (2021 SCC Online SC 200) to buttress the above submissions wherein the Apex Court held that the Notification No. 40 of 2021 dated 02.05.2021 as invalid having been issued by an Authority which had no power to do so in purported exercise of powers under a section which does not confer any such power. The Para No. 22 of the decision is quoted here-under:

"If it was intended that officers of the Directorate of Revenue Intelligence who are officers of Central Government should be entrusted with functions of the Customs officers, it was imperative that the Central Government should have done so in exercise of its power under Section 6 of the Act. The reason why such a power is conferred on the Central Government is obvious and that is because the Central Government is the authority which appoints both the officers of the Directorate of Revenue Intelligence which is set up under the Notification dated 04.12.1957 issued by the Ministry of Finance and Customs officers who, till 11.5.2002, were appointed by the Central Government. The notification which purports to entrust functions as proper officer under the Customs Act has been issued by the Central Board of Excise and Customs in exercise of non-existing power under Section 2 (34) of the Customs Act. The notification is obviously invalid having been issued by an authority which had no power to do so in purported exercise of powers under a section which does not confer any such power."

9. Reliance is also placed upon the decision of the Apex Court in the case of Commissioner of Customs versus Sayed Ali [2011 (3) SCC 537] to emphasis the point that it is only such Customs Officer who have been assigned the specific function of assessment and reassessment of duty in the jurisdictional area where the import concerned was effected, who are competent to issue notice under Section 28 of the Act. In the case at hand, the Respondent No. 2 is not the person who was assigned the specific function of assessment and reassessment of duty and as such, is not the "Proper Officer" having jurisdiction to issue notice under Section 28 of the Act.

Submissions of the Respondents:

10. Per contra, Sri Ashok Singh, learned Senior Standing Counsel for the District Taxes in opposition to the writ petition submits that in view of the orders of the Board dated 10.11.2012, 09.06.2015 and 17.10.2018 read with the queries made by the Principal Chief Commissioner, CGST and Central Excise, Lucknow dated 31.05.2018 and the order of the Board dated 28.11.2019, the Respondent No. 4 has the jurisdiction to adjudicate the impugned show cause notice.

11. Sri Amit Mahajan, learned Senior Standing Counsel for direct taxes who has appeared in Writ Tax No. 1096 of 2021 submits that the Notifications above mentioned have been considered by the Gujrat High Court in Swati Menthol & Allied Chem. Ltd. versus Jt. Dir., DRI, [2014 (304) ELT 21 (Guj.)], and in view of the judgment of the Gujrat High Court, the writ petition has no merit and is liable to be dismissed.

12. Sri Krishna Agarwal, learned counsel for the respondent-DRI, in opposition to the writ petitions, submits that the DRI Officers and Customs, in view of the Notification No. 31/1997 (N.T.) dated 07.07.1997 and Notification No. 15/2002-Customs (N.T.) dated 07.03.2002 (as amended) issued under Section 4 (I) of the Customs Act, 1962 appointing the Commissioner of Customs, Central Excise and Service Tax, Kanpur as officer of Customs, such officers are the "Proper Officer"s within the meaning of Section 2 (34) of the Customs Act, 1962 and in such view of the matter, the DRI Officer are competent to issue notices for adjudication under Section 28 of the Customs Act, 1962. He further submits that in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Canon India Private Limited versus Commissioner of Customs (2021 SCC Online SC 200), the jurisdiction has been conferred by the statute upon the officers of DRI which cannot be taken away either by any law or by any judgment. Reliance is placed upon the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Pahwa Chemicals (P) Ltd. versus Commissioner of Central Excise, New Delhi [2005 (2) Supreme Court Cases 720]. He further submits that the reliance placed by the counsel for the petitioners upon the decision in the case of Canon India Pvt. Ltd. (supra) is completely misplaced as neither the aforementioned notifications nor the provisions of Section 28 (11) of the Customs Act, 1962 have been considered therein. He goes on to submit that Sub Section (11) of Section 28 of the Customs Act, 1962 was inserted by Act No. 14 of 2011 w.e.f. 16.9.2021 which provides that notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any judgment, decree or order of any Court of Law, Tribunal or other Authority, all persons appointed as officers of Customs under sub-Section (1) of Section 4 before the 6th day of July, 2011 shall be deemed to have and always had the power of assessment under Section 17 and shall be the power of assessment under Section 17 and shall be deemed to have been and always had been proper officers for the purpose of Section 28. He thus submits that the submissions of the learned counsel for the petitioner are without substance and contrary to the relevant provisions and notifications and as such do not merit consideration and the writ petitions warrant outright dismissal.

Discussion and Findings:

13. We have carefully considered the rival contentions of learned counsel for the respective parties and have perused the record. The short questions that call for consideration in these bunch of writ petitioners are firstly, as to whether in the facts of the case, the impugned show cause notice issued by the Respondent No.2 is valid in law and the Respondent No.2 is possessed of the jurisdiction to issue the same and secondly, as to whether the Respondent No.4 has the jurisdiction to adjudicate the show cause notice issued by the respondent No.2.

14. In order to answer the questions aforesaid, it would be apt to consider certain provisions of the Customs Act, 1962 and refer to circulars and Notifications issued by the CBE & C. Section 2(34) of the Customs Act, 1962 defines the term "Proper Officer" as under:-

"2(34) "proper officer", in relation to any functions to be performed under this Act, means the officer of customs who is assigned those functions by the Board or the [Principal Commissioner of Customs or Commissioner of Customs]"

15. The term "Proper Officer" is used at various places under the Act, under Section 17 it is "Proper Officer" who can verify the self-assessment of goods and examine or test any imported goods or exported goods as may be necessary. Likewise under Section 18 it is the "Proper Officer" who may undertake the exercise of provisional assessment and direct the importer to pay difference in duty or furnish security as deemed fit for provisional release of the goods. Section 28 of the Customs Act pertains to recovery of duties not levied or short-levied or erroneously refunded and provides for a complete mechanism for recovery of duties not levied or short-levied or erroneously refunded or any interest has been paid, part paid or erroneously refunded in which case "Proper Officer" shall serve a notice on the person chargeable with the duty or interest requiring to show cause why he should not pay the amount specified in the notice. The period of limitation prescribed for issuance of the notice is one year in normal cases and extended period in cases of collusion, willful misstatement or suppression of facts is five years.

16. As noticed herein above, that under Section 2(34) of Customs Act, 1962 a "Proper Officer" is defined as a person in relation to any function to be performed under the Act to mean the Officer of Customs who is assigned those functions by the Board or Commissioner of Customs. Thus, the "Proper Officer" is a person, who has been assigned functions by the Board or the Commissioner of Customs in relation to such functions to be performed under the Act.

17. The Apex Court in the case of Commissioner of Customs vs. Sayed Ali, reported in 2011 (265) ELT 17 (SC) has held that it is only the officers of Customs, who are assigned the functions of assessment working under the jurisdiction of Collectorate/Commissionerate within whose jurisdiction Bills of entry or baggage declaration had been made and the consignment having been cleared will have jurisdiction to issue notice under Section 28 of the Act. In the said case, the assessee who was engaged in the business of carpet manufacturing and export was charged with the misuse of the Export Pass Book Scheme by selling goods cleared duty free in the open market or selling the pass book in premium in violation of the restrictions imposed on such sale. Investigation was conducted by the Marine and Preventive Wing of Customs and the Assistant Collector of Customs (Preventive), Mumbai, issued show cause notice alleging violations of the provisions of Section 111(d) of the Customs Act. At an appellate stage, the Collector (Appeals) though set aside the order passed by the Assistant Collector, granted liberty to the Department to re-adjudicate the case after issuing proper show cause notice. Fresh notice was issued under Section 28 (1) of the Customs Act by the Collector of Customs (Preventive) which was questioned on the ground of jurisdiction of the Collector of Customs (Preventive) to proceed in the matter. It was in this background that the Apex Court rendered its decision holding that only such Custom Officers who have been assigned the specific functions of assessment and reassessment of duty either by the board or the Commissioner of the Customs in terms of Section 2(34) in the jurisdiction at area where the import concerned has been affected, who is competent to issue notice under Section 28 of the Act.

18. Perhaps since the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sayed Ali (Supra) would upset large number of pending and even concluded proceedings, the Legislature in its wisdom introduced sub-Section (11) of Section 28, which provides as under:-

"(11) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any judgment, decree or order of any Court of law, Tribunal or other authority, all persons appointed as officers of Customs under sub-section (1) of section 4 before the sixth day of July, 2011 shall be deemed to have and always had the power of assessment u/s 17 and shall be deemed to have been and always had been the proper officers for the purposes of this section."

19. The Board in its Circular dated 23.09.2011, in connection with the newly added sub-Section (11) of Section 28, clarified as under:-

*" *** **** ****

2. Further, as a prospective remedial measure, in terms of Section 2(34) of the Act, 1962, the Board issued Notification No. 44/2011-Customs (N.T.) dated 6-7-2011. By virtue of this notification, officers of Directorate General of Revenue Intelligence (DRI), Commissionerates of Customs (Preventive), Directorate General of Central Excise Intelligence (DGCEI) and Central Excise Commissionerates were assigned the functions of the 'proper officer' for the purposes of Sections 17 and 28 of the said Act.

*** **** ***

4. Accordingly, as per the amended Section 28 of the Customs Act, 1962, show cause notices issued prior to 6-7-2011 by officers of Customs, which would include officers of Commissionerates of Customs (Preventive), Directorate General of Revenue Intelligence (DRI), Directorate General of Central Excise Intelligence and similarly placed officers stand validated since these officers are retrospectively recognized as 'proper officers' for the purpose of Sections 17 and 28 of the said Act.

5. In this regard it may also be noted that in terms of Notification No. 44/2011-Customs (N.T.) , dated 6-7-2011 the officers of DRI and DGCEI are 'proper officers' for the purposes of Section 28. However, it is hereby directed by the Board that these officers shall not exercise authority in terms of clause (8) of Section 28 of the said Act. In other words, there shall be no change in the present practice and officers of DRI and DGCEI shall not adjudicate the show cause notices issued u/s 28 of the said Act."

20. A perusal of the aforesaid notification dated 23.09.2011 issued by the Board would show that sub-Section (11) would operate notwithstanding anything contrary to the judgment, decree or order of any Court and all persons appointed as officers of the Customs under sub-Section (1) of Section 4 before the 6th Day of July, 2011 would be deemed to have always had the power of assessment under Section 17 and should be deemed and always should be considered as proper officers for the purpose of the said section.

21. In the context of the inquiry, whether the Respondent No.2 can be stated to be an "Proper Officer", we may refer to the different notifications of the Central Board of Excise and Customs, which have been placed before us for consideration.

22. Notification dated 07.07.1997 provided as under:-

26. A perusal of the notification dated 02.05.2012, however, reveals that officers of the Directorate of Revenue Intelligence (DRI) have not been assigned specific function of adjudication under Section 28 of the Customs Act.

27. The question, however, as to whether by virtue of the notifications dated 07.07.1997, 07.03.2002 and 06.07.2011, the DRI would have the authority to act under Section 28 of the Customs Act and whether by virtue of the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sayed Ali (Supra) this position would be altered. It is evident from the notification dated 07.07.1997 that all officers of the DRI are appointed as officers of the Customs under the notification dated 07.03.2002. The officers of the Directorate of Revenue Intelligence have been given jurisdiction over the whole of India.

28. The Government of India, Ministry of Finance (Department of Revenue) Central Board of Excise and Customs vide order dated 20.11.2012 issued in terms of Notification No.15/2002-Customs (N.T.) dated 07.03.2002 (as amended) issued orders as under:-

29. Then again the Government of India, Ministry of Finance, Department of Revenue, Central Board of Excise and Customs vide Circular dated 09.06.2015 regarding appointment of common adjudicating authority it was directed as under:-

Circular No. 18/2015- Customs
F.No. 450/145/2014- Cus IV
Government of India
Ministry of Finance
Department of Revenue
Central Board of Excise and Customs

New Delhi, Dated: 09.06.2015

To

All Chief Commissioner of Customs / Customs (Preventive)

All Chief Commissioners of Customs and Central Excise

All Commissioners of Customs

All Commissioners of Customs and Central Excise

Sir / Madam,

Subject: Appointment of common adjudicating authority -regarding Reference is invited to Notification No 60/2015-Customs (N.T.), dated 04.06.2015 whereby the power to appoint common adjudicating authority in cases investigated by DRI upto the level of Commissioner of Customs have been delegated to Principal Director General of Directorate of Revenue Intelligence in terms of section 152 of the Customs Act, 1962. This notification was issued in the interest of expediting decision making with resultant benefits to both trade and revenue in terms of faster settlement of outstanding disputes. These appointments were done hitherto by the Central Board of Excise and Customs under sections 4 and 5 of the Customs Act 1962.

2. In the light of the aforementioned notification, all cases of appointment of common adjudicating authority in respect of cases investigated by DRI will be handled by Principal DG, DRI. In this regard, the Board has prescribed the following guidelines for Principal DG, DRI:

(a) The following cases initiated by DRI shall be assigned to Additional Director General (Adjudication), DRI:

(i) Cases involving duty of Rs.5 crores and above;

(ii) Group of cases on identical issues involving aggregate duty of Rs.5 crores or more;

(iii) Cases involving seizure value of Rs.5 crores or more;

(iv) Cases of over-valuation irrespective of value involved; and

(v) Existing DRI cases with erstwhile Commissioner (Adjudication)

(b) Cases other than at (a) above involving more than one Customs Commissionerate would be assigned to the jurisdictional Commissioner of Customs on the basis of the maximum duty evaded;

(c) Cases other than at (a) above involving a single Customs Commissionerate would be assigned to the jurisdictional Commissioner of Customs;

(d) Non-DRI cases pending with erstwhile Commissioner (Adjudication) would be assigned to Additional Director General (Adjudication), DRI;

(e) Past DRI cases pending for adjudication with jurisdictional Commissioners of Customs would continue with these officers;

(f) Remand cases would be decided by the original adjudicating authority.

3. All other cases of appointment of common adjudicator i.e. other than the cases mentioned in paragraph 2 above would continue to be dealt by the Board. This would include cases made by Commissionerates or cases made by DRI wherein the adjudicating officer is an officer below the level of Additional Director General (Adjudication), DRI.

4. Board has also decided that all the pending cases where common adjudicating authorities have not been appointed so far or where the common adjudicating authorities have been appointed but adjudications have not been done should be disposed of expeditiously in terms of aforementioned guidelines. However, while doing so in regard to the latter category of cases, Principal DG, DRI will take into consideration the fact whether or not personal hearings have taken place and the stage of passing the adjudication order. This is to ensure that cases about to be finalized are not reallocated to another adjudicating authority thereby defeating the objective of expediting the finalization of disputes.

5. Difficulty faced, if any, may be brought to the notice of the Board at an early date.

Yours faithfully
(Pawan Khetan)
OSD (Customs IV)

New Delhi, the 17th October, 2018

To,

The Principal Chief Commissioner,
GST & Central Excise,
Lucknow Zone
7-A, Ashok Marg,
Lucknow-226001

Sir,

Sub: Clarify jurisdiction of the 24 cases related with the Customs wherein the SCNs issued by DRI, Lucknow and other port authorities - reg.

Please refer to you letter C.No. V(30) CCO/LKO/ Tech/ Adj./08/ 2018 dated 31.05.2018 on the subject cited above.

In this regard, it is brought to your notice that the Commissioner of Customs, Central Excise & Service Tax, Kanpur, appointed as an officer of Customs to adjudicate the cases vide CBEC order dated 20.11.2012 continues to be an officer of Customs to adjudicate the cases assigned to him. Further, Board's circular no. 18/2018-Customs dated 09.06.2015 lays down that past DRI cases pending for adjudication with the jurisdictional Commissioner of Customs continues with these officers.

In view of the above, you are requested to direct the concerned officer to expedite adjudication proceedings.

Yours faithfully,
(Zubair Riaz)
Director (Customs)

31. As noted, the notification for the purpose of Section 2(34) of the Customs Act assigns functions of the proper officer to the various officers including those under the Directorate of Revenue Intelligence, such as Additional Director, Joint Director, Deputy Director and Assistant Directors for the purposes of Sections 17 and 28 of the Customs Act.

32. From the perusal of the aforesaid notifications circulars and clarifications issued from time to time it is more than apparent that the Respondent No.2 had the jurisdiction to issue impugned show cause notice and the Respondent No.4 has the jurisdiction to adjudicate the same. The show cause notice under Section 28(1) could be issued by the "Proper Officer". A "Proper Officer" is one, who is defined in Section 2(34) as the officer of Customs, either by the Board or by the Commissioner of Customs, who is assigned specific functions.

33. In such view of the matter, we find substance in the submissions made by the learned counsel representing the respondents and, accordingly, hold that the Respondent No.2 had the jurisdiction to issue impugned show cause notice. At the same time we hold that the Respondent No.4 has the jurisdiction to adjudicate the show cause notices. Our conclusion is supported by the decision rendered by the High Court of Gujarat in the case of Swati Menthol and Allied Chemical Ltd. Vs. Joint Director, Directorate of Revenue Intelligence, reported in 2014 (304) ELT 21 (Gujarat).

34. The relief nos. a and b, as claimed by the petitioner, cannot be granted and the same are declined. So far as the alternative relief claimed by the petitioner for issuance of mandamus directing the Respondent No.4 to proceed with the adjudication of the show cause notice only after making available the documents/evidence etc. and also affording an opportunity to cross examine the witnesses whose testimony is stated to have been relied upon during the investigation by the Directorate of Revenue Intelligence is concerned, similar relief was considered and repealed by this Court in the case of Commissioner of Central Excise, Meerut-I and another Vs. M/s Parmarth Iron Pvt. Ltd., Bijnor (Special Appeal No.741 (D) of 2010 decided on 29.11.2010, reported in 2011(2) ADJ 83 (DB). The conclusion of the learned Division Bench in paragraph 16 and 17 is quoted below:-

"16. We, therefore, have no hesitation in holding, that there is no requirement in the Act or Rules, nor do the principles of natural justice and fair play require that the witnesses whose statements were recorded and relied upon to issue the show cause notice, are liable to be examined at that stage. If the Revenue choose not to examine any witnesses in adjudication, their statements cannot be considered as evidence. However, if the Revenue choose to rely on the statements, then in that event, the persons whose statements are relied upon have to be made available for cross examination for the evidence or statement to be considered.

17. We are, therefore, clearly of the opinion that there is no right, procedurally or substantively or in compliance with natural justice and fair play, to make available the witnesses whose statements were recorded, for cross examination before the reply to the show cause notice is filed and before adjudication commences. The exercise of cross-examination commences only after the proceedings for adjudication have commenced."

35. We are in full conferment with the view taken by the Coordinate Bench in the aforesaid case. Admittedly, in the instant case, the proceeding for adjudication are yet to commence. In such view of the matter, the ratio of the case of Commissioner of Central Excise, Meerut-I (Supra) is squarely applicable to the case of the present writ petitioner.

36. In view of the above discussion, we find that the petitioner is not entitled to any of the relief claimed in the writ petition. The writ petition is devoid of merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

37. Since the leading Writ (Tax) No.1085 of 2021 has been dismissed, therefore, the Writ (Tax) No.1092 of 2021 and Writ (Tax) No.1096 of 2021 are also dismissed.
