APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 30.05.2022

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE RAMESH SINHA, J.
THE HON'BLE MRS. SAROJ YADAV, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 36 of 2009

Israfeel ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
J.N. Singh, Avdhesh Kumar Singh Yadav, Manendra Nath Rai, Shraddha Tripathi, Vijay Prakash Srivastava

Counsel for the Opposite Party:
G.A.

A. Criminal Law -Code of Criminal Procedure,1973-Section 374(2) - Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 364, 302 & 201-challenge to-conviction-broad day light murder-strong motive to commit the murder-appellant has done to death the deceased in a brutal manner, by stabbing him with bodkin (sooja) on his neck-as per medical report injuries could be attributable by bodkin (sooja)-statements of eye-witnesses, PW1, PW2 & PW3 fully supported the prosecution story-there was previous enmity between the appellant and the deceased about which an FIR was lodged earlier, it shows clear motive on the part of the appellant to commit the murder of the deceased-the order passed by trial court convicting the appellant for offence in question is upheld.(Para 1 to 55)

B. It is a settled principle of law that the evidence tendered by the related or interested witness cannot be discarded on that ground alone. However, as a rule of prudence, the Court may scrutinize the evidence of such related or interested witness more carefully. Close relationship of witness with the deceased or victim is no ground to reject his evidence. On the contrary, close relative of the deceased would normally be most reluctant to spare the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent one. (Para 43)

The appeal is dismissed. (E-6)

The trial Court had also examined Sanwali Prasad as C.W.1; Raeesh as C.W.2 and Maksood as C.W.3.

13. Reverting to the testimony of the witnesses of fact, P.W. 1-Ibrahim, in his examination-in-chief, had deposed before the trial Court that his brother's name was Rashid (deceased). He and his brother Rashid (deceased) used to work in Delhi and appellant Israfeel also worked in Delhi. From Delhi, they got acquainted with each other, on account of which, Israfeel (convict/appellant) used to visit his village.

P.W.1 had further deposed that about 1½-2 months ahead of the incident, some altercation took place between him (P.W.1), his brother (deceased- Rashid) and Israfeel (convict/appellant) on the issue of money transactions. His brother Rashid (deceased) gave money to Israfeel (appellant). At that time, convict/ appellant Israfeel (appellant) told his brother Rashid that "ऐसा करोगे तो मैं तुम्हें मार दूंगा", to which his brother (Rashid) told to Israfeel (convict/appellant) that "तुम क्या मारोगे".

After about four years of this incident, he went to Dhakerwa mosque for Namaz at around 1:15 p.m. During the course of "Namaz', he heard the voice of Rahmulla (P.W.3) of his village that Israfeel and his two companions caught his brother (deceased Rashid) and assaulted him. After offering "Namaz', he asked everyone for help. Thereafter, he went to Haar near Mahua tree situated in the outskirts of Dhakerwa village where Israfeel (appellant) and his two companions were said to have caught his brother (deceased Rashid), but he did not find anyone there. However, the people present there told him (P.W.1) that Israfeel (appellant) and his two companions took away his brother (Rashiddeceased) towards eastern side on a bicycle. From there, he rushed towards Gupta P.C.O. at Nandval, from where he telephonically informed about the incident to police station Baundi-Kaiserganj as well as at police station Fakarpur. After that he came to Dhakerwa village and from there, he went towards Fakarpur village to search his brother. When he was about to reach Fakarpur, he saw that many people had gathered near Fakarpur culvert (puliya). The people present there told him (P.W.1) that accused persons (including convict/ appellants), after killing his brother (Rashid -deceased), took him on bicycle and went towards the Fakarpur market just now. He, thereafter, immediately rushed towards Fakarpur market.

P.W.1 had further deposed that on the culvert (puliya), where the people were gathered and told him that his brother Rashid (deceased) was killed there, he saw stains of blood there. When he reached Fakarpur market, then, the people present there told him that accused persons went towards Ramleela Ground from Fakarpur Market and when he reached 30 steps before the pond of Ramleela ground, he saw that Israfeel (convict/appellant) had thrown his brother (Rashid- deceased) into the pond from the culvert (puliya) near the pond and ran towards Ramleela ground. He, thereafter, reached near his brother and saw that his brother was dead. On account of fear, he could not dare to chase the accused persons and the accused persons fled away. He further deposed that he did not see two assailants who accompanied convict/appellant Israfeel as they had run away from Fakarpur market. He proved written report (Ext. Ka-1).

P.W.1 had further deposed that the Investigating Officer had inspected the place where Israfeel (convict/appellant) killed his brother and the place where his dead body was thrown.

In cross-examination, P.W.1 had deposed before the trial Court that he was not an eye-witness of the incident and got the report scribed on the basis of what people told him. P.W.1 did not see anyone killing his brother. The bodkin (sooja) with which Israfeel killed his brother was recovered from the possession of Israfeel (convict/appellant).

P.W.1 had further deposed in his cross-examination that Lalta and Naseem (P.W.2) accompanied him when he was searching for his brother. There was blood near culvert in Fakarpur. The people present near the culvert, when his brother was thrown, narrated him (P.W.1) the incident and they were from Fakarpur area and all of them told him (P.W.1) that Kamil and Manjoor were also there with Israfeel (appellant) but despite that, the witness wrote report only against Israfeel (appellant). There was no enmity of co-accused Manjoor with his brother Rashid (deceased) nor did he knew him before the incident.

P.W.1 had further deposed that when he reached Fakarpur police station for lodging F.I.R., Israfeel (appellant) was in lock up at Fakarpur police station and in his presence, Inspector Dixit asked Israfeel (appellant) about the incident. He got his report scribed from some person outside the police station. He further deposed that when he reached police station Fakarpur, the Inspector and Constable asked him the reason for his arrival at police station, to which he told him that he had come to lodge report of the murder of his brother but he did not tell that his brother was killed by three persons. He stayed at police station at about 1-2 hours. The "Panchayatnama' of the dead body of this brother (Rashid) was conducted in the courtyard of police station. At that time, his relatives and other people of the village were present there.

P.W.1 had further deposed that he came to know the telephone numbers of all the three police station from Gupta P.C.O. When he informed about the incident to three police stations, he only told the name of Israfeel (appellant) and did not tell names of the rest of the accused persons. None of his relatives told about the incident that they had also seen the incident. He denied the suggestion that he didn't see any incident and that the report of the incident was written by him at police station.

14. P.W. 2- Naseem had deposed that deceased Rashid was his brother. Before the incident, he, deceased Rashid and convict/appellant Israfeel used to work in Delhi. Israfeel (convict/appellant) knew him and also got acquainted with him and his brother Rashid from Delhi itself. Before the incident Israfeel (appellant) visited his village. The policemen had earlier arrested Israfeel (appellant) in some other incident. At that time, Israfeel (appellant) was enlarged on bail on the surety of father of the witness and Israfeel (appellant) had no suspicion at that time that he was implicated by them. There was enmity between Rashid (deceased) and Israfeel (convict/ appellant) with regard to transaction of money only.

P.W.2 further deposed that incident was of 4-4½ years ago. His brother Rashid was going for "Namaz'. At that time, he was near brick kiln (bhatta). From brick kiln (bhatta), he saw that Israfeel (appellant) had caught hold his brother Rashid near Mahua tree. On his hue and cry, Rahmulla (P.W.3) rushed to his brother Ibrahim (P.W.1) at Mosque and told him the incident. He saw that Israfeel (convict/appellant) stabbed in throat of his brother Rashid (deceased) with bodkin (sooja) and two other men were also present with Israfeel (appellant) but he did not knew other two men, who were armed with "addhi' (small gun) and "katta' (country made pistol), prior to the incident. When Rahmulla (P.W.3) informed about the incident to his brother Ibrahim (P.W.1), then Ibrahim (P.W.1) went to Gupta PCO, where from his brother Ibrahim (P.W.1) telephonically informed police stations Fakarpur Baundi and Kaiserganj about the incident. After "Namaz' was over, they chased the accused persons. Israfeel (appellant) carried his brother Rashid (deceased) on bicycle; killed him (deceased Rashid) on the culvert near Fakarpur; and threw him in the pond. Thereafter, his brother Ibrahim (P.W.1) went to police station and lodged a report. On the same day Fakarpur police had arrested Israfeel (appellant), however, his other two companions ran away from Fakarpur market itself.

In his cross-examination, P.W.2 deposed that he did not know accused Manjoor and Kamil prior to the incident. He had neither ever seen them before the incident nor did he knew their relation with the convict/ appellant. He never told anyone till date that in the said incident Israfeel (appellant) was accompanied with Manjoor and Kamil because he did not know Manjoor and Kamil. The Investigating Officer interrogated him about the said incident. The two companions who accompanied Israfeel had covered their faces with towel (angaucha) because of which he could not identify them.

15. P.W. 3- Rahmulla, in his deposition before the trial Court, deposed that he knew deceased Rashid. The deceased Rashid was murdered around five years ago on Friday (jumma). At the time of incident, he was going to Dhakerwa Mosque for Namaz and when he reached near brick kiln (bhatta), he saw that two-three men took away Rashid (deceased) and amongst them, he only identified Israfeel (convict/appellant). He told this incident to P.W.1 Ibrahim (brother of deceased-Rashid) at the mosque. Ibrahim (P.W.1) was standing in the congregation of prayers and the congregation had already stood up, therefore, they did not go in search of deceased Rashid and started offering Namaz. After offering Namaz, he did not go in search of Rashid (deceased) but he went to Samda market. After that, he did not know whether these people killed Rashid (deceased) or what they did, because he went from Samda market to his old house at Belhari. The witness was declared hostile by the prosecution.

In his cross-examination by Additional District Government Counsel, his statement recorded by the police under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was read over to P.W.3 but he denied to give such statement to the police that when he reached near the brick kiln of Qazmi, Rashid (deceased) shouted and thereafter Israfeel stabbed in the throat of Rashid with bodkin (sooja). He deposed that he told the Investigating Officer that Rashid (deceased) was taken away on a bicycle. He saw the altercation between convict/appellant and the deceased but he did not see Israfeel (appellant) assaulting the deceased. Thereafter, he deposed that Israfeel (appellant) was assaulting Rashid (deceased). He denied the suggestion that he gave false statement due to fear of accused Israfeel (appellant) and other accused persons.

16. C.W. 1- Sanwali Prasad had deposed before the trial Court that Ibrahim (P.W.1) was a resident of his village. Convict/appellant Israfeel knew him. When the Investigating Officer had recovered the bodkin (sooja) from the possession of Israfeel (appellant), Subhash was also present there. The recovered bodkin (sooja) was stained with blood. The Investigating Officer had sealed the recovered bodkin (sooja) in a cloth and after documentation got his signatures on it. He had never seen Israfeel (appellant) killing anyone with bodkin (sooja). His house was 9 kms away from Fakarpur police station. Appellant Israfeel was arrested near Fakarpur police station. He was not there when Israfeel (appellant) was arrested. He came there after half an hour of arrest of Israfeel (appellant) and then the police told him that bodkin (sooja) was recovered from Israfeel's (appellant) possession. There was blood on bodkin (sooja). After that it was sealed by keeping it in a cloth. Based on what the policemen told, he came to know that bodkin (sooja) was recovered from Israfeel's possession.

In his cross-examination, he deposed that bodkin (sooja) was recovered from the possession of Israfeel (appellant) in front of him by the Investigating Officer. Subhash was also with him at that time. On being questioned by the trial Court about his contradictory statement he told that on asking of Advocate of Israfeel he stated that he knew about the recovery of bodkin from the possession of Israfeel, whereas on asking of Public Prosecutor, he stated that the bodkin was recovered by the Inspector in his presence. C.W.1 had deposed that bodkin (sooja) was recovered in front of him by the Investigating Officer.

17. C.W. 2- Raeesh had deposed before the trial Court that Ibrahim (P.W.1) did not know him. He had no knowledge about the murder of Ibrahim's brother. Around 8 years ago, dead body of a man was found from a pond located near Ramleela ground near Fakarpur town. He did not know his name because he was not present on the spot at that time but had gone to one relative in Huzurpur on his death ceremony. He heard about the said dead body. The police did not record his statement. However, his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was read over to him, he told that he had not given any such statement. The Inspector did not interrogate him. The Investigating Officer took his thumb impression on a plain paper, in which nothing was written, nor was anything read over to him. The Investigating Officer did not collect blood soaked soil and plain soil from the spot in his presence.

In his cross-examination, C.W.2 deposed before the trial Court that Munna Lal, son of Pyare Lal, is resident of his own village. Ibrahim (P.W.1), son of Noormohammed, is also resident of his village. The blood stained soil and plain soil was not collected from Wazirganj-Fakarpur road at a distance of about half kilometers nor was it sealed by keeping it in a cloth. He denied the suggestion that the Investigating Officer collected blood soaked soil and plain soil in containers and sealed before him. He deposed that he did not see Israfeel (appellant) killing Rashid (deceased) with a bodkin (sooja).

18. C.W.3- Maksood has deposed before the trial Court that Ibrahim (P.W.1), resident of village Natthupur police station Baundi, was his brother-in-law's brother. He went to the funeral of deceased Rashid. He did not know how Rashid (deceased) died. He didn't even ask anyone whether Rashid (deceased) was killed by someone or died himself. He has not seen Rashid (deceased) being killed by Israfeel with bodkin (sooja). He didn't even hear that the dead body of Rashid (deceased) was found in a pond near Ramleela ground near Fakarpur town because at that time he had gone to Lucknow to do palledari (hostage work). The Investigating Officer neither took his statement nor did any inquiry from him.

In his cross-examination, C.W.3 deposed that he did not know Israfeel (appellant). He deposed that he did not gave statement to Investigating Officer that Israfeel, son of Akbar Ali, along with his two companions had caught Rashid (deceased) between Natthupur-Dhakherwa. He denied to know anything about the incident. He did not know how Rashid (deceased) died. The Investigating Officer did not record his statement.

19. In the statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., the convict/appellant had stated that he lodged a case under section 308 I.P.C. at Police Station Jama Masjid, Delhi against Ibrahim (P.W.1) and Rashid (deceased) stating that he was assaulted by Ibrahim (P.W.1) and deceased (Rashid) at Delhi. On account of this enmity, he was falsely implicated in the instant case by the informant Ibrahim (P.W.1).

20. The learned trial Judge believed the evidences, prosecution witnesses, as well as C.W.1-Sanwali Prasad, and found appellant Israfeel guilty for the offences punishable under Sections 364, 302 and 201 I.P.C. and, accordingly, while acquitting two accused persons Kamil and Manjoor, convicted and sentenced the appellant Israfeel in the manner stated herein-above in paragraph-2.

21. Hence the instant appeal.

22. Heard Shri Manendra Nath Rai assisted by Ms. Shraddha Tripathi, learned counsel for the convict/appellant and Shri Dhananjay Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State/ respondent.

23. Learned Counsel for the appellant has argued that admittedly, P.W. 1-Ibrahim, who is the real brother of deceased, is not an eye-witness of the occurrence because he was informed about the incident by P.W.3-Rahmulla, when P.W.1-Ibrahim was offering "Namaz', to the effect that the deceased was done to death by the convict/appellant Israfeel and two of his companions at village Natthupur Mauja Dhakerwa on 17.11.2000 at 1:30 pm and after offering Namaz, P.W.1- Ibrahim went to village Nandval to Gupta P.C.O. from where P.W.1 informed at police station Fakarpur about the said incident and thereafter he (P.W.1) along with other persons in the village started searching for his brother and while searching he reached Fakarpur and saw that his brother's body was thrown in a pond by appellant Israfeel who had fled from there. He argued that P.W.3- Rahmulla, who has seen the incident and informed P.W.1- Ibrahim about the incident, has not supported the prosecution case and has turned hostile, thus, the prosecution case does not deserve to be believed.

24. It has further been argued by learned counsel for the appellant that P.W.2-Naseem, who is the brother of the deceased, is also not an eye-witness of the incident as he had not seen the appellant committing the murder of the deceased, hence his testimony is also under the clouds of doubt. Thus, he argued that P.W.1-Ibrahim and P.W.2-Naseem being the brothers of the deceased are highly interested and partisan witnesses and their presence at the place of incident also appears to be doubtful, hence, their testimony cannot be said trustworthy.

25. Elaborating his submissions, learned Counsel for the appellant has further argued that though the testimony of P.W.2 was not a reliable one, but even then the trial Court on the basis of the evidence of P.W.2- Naseem has recorded the finding of guilt of appellant by means of impugned order, hence, the findings recorded by the trial Court are erroneous.

26. The next argument of the learned Counsel for the appellant is that on account of paucity of money, the convict/appellant could not engage an Advocate for contesting the case on his behalf before the trial Court, thus, amicus curiae was appointed by the trial Court, and when the examination-in-chief of P.W.1- Ibrahim, P.W.2- Naseem and P.W.3-Rahmulla were recorded by trial Court, no opportunity for cross-examination of these witnesses was afforded to the convict/appellant by the trial Court. Thus, the testimonies of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3 remain unrebutted.

27. It has further been argued by learned counsel for the appellant that co-accused Kamil and Manjoor have been acquitted by the trial Court on the ground that the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the said two co-accused persons but the trial Court erred in convicting the convict/appellant on wrong pretext.

28. Learned Counsel for the appellant has further argued that recovery of the blood stained bodkin (sooja), which is said to have been recovered from possession of the appellant, is a false one, as the witness of recovery, namely, Sanwali Prasad, was summoned as C.W.1, who stated before the trial Court that he had not seen the convict/appellant causing injuries by bodkin (sooja) to deceased (Rashid). He argued that it is apparent from the cross-examination of C.W.1- Sanwali Prasad that he was told by police personnel that a bodkin (sooja) has been recovered from the possession of appellant Israfeel. C.W.1 further stated that when the appellant was arrested, many people were gathered there at that time and thereafter he reached there. He submitted that other witnesses of the recovery namely, Subhash has not been cross-examined by the prosecution. Thus the recovery of weapon of assault, which is said to be recovered from the possession of appellant, is not reliable.

29. It has also been argued by the learned counsel for appellant that the F.I.R. is an anti-timed document, as in the recovery memo and the "Panchayatnama', no case crime number and details of the present case have been mentioned. Thus, the prosecution case is liable to be thrown out on this ground alone.

30. Lastly, learned Counsel for the appellant argued that the appellant is in jail for the last 17 years. He argued that P.W.1- Ibrahim and his brother Rashid (deceased) had assaulted him in Delhi and he had lodged the case under Section 308 IPC against them at police station Jama Masjid in Delhi and because of this enmity, the appellant has been falsely-roped in, in the present case. He argued that the trial Court misread the evidence on record and erred in convicting the appellant in the present case, hence, the impugned judgment is liable to be set aside and appellant be acquitted.

31. Per contra, learned AGA for the State has vehemently rebutted the arguments of learned counsel for the appellant and submitted that the incident took place in broad daylight at 1:30 p.m. in village Natthupur Mauja Dhakerwa. The incident was witnessed by Naseem (P.W.2), the real brother of deceased (Rashid), along with Rahmulla (P.W.3). Soon after the incident Rahmulla (P.W.3) went to mosque where Ibrahim (P.W.1) was offering Namaz and informed him about the incident and stated that Rashid (deceased) was assaulted by appellant Israfeel with bodkin (sooja). Thereafter, Ibrahim (P.W.1) immediately informed the police station about the incident from the P.C.O. of one Ramesh Gupta from village Nandval and went to place of occurrence searching for his brother along with other persons of the village and saw the appellant throwing the dead body of deceased in a pond which was in village Fakarpur near Ramleela ground. He further argued that informant P.W.1-Ibrahim, immediately after the incident, lodged a prompt F.I.R. at police station Fakarpur on the same day at 16:30 hours against the appellant Israfeel and two unknown persons.

32. Learned AGA further argued that P.W.2- Naseem had witnessed the incident in which his brother Rashid (deceased) was murdered by appellant Israfeel with bodkin (sooja). The deceased Rashid sustained multiple punctured wounds on his neck and ocular testimony of P.W. 2- Naseem fully corroborates the post-mortem report of deceased Rashid.

33. It is further argued by learned AGA that P.W.3- Rahmulla, who is an independent eye-witness of the occurrence, has informed the informant P.W.1-Ibrahim about the incident. P.W.3, in his examination-in-chief and cross-examination, admitted the fact that he knew deceased Rashid, who was taken away by two-three persons, out of whom he identified the appellant only and he informed about the said fact to P.W. 1-Ibrahim, who was offering Namaz at mosque, though he has not stated that it was the appellant who had committed the murder of the deceased Rashid. He submitted that P.W. 3- Rahmulla has been declared hostile. Thus, P.W.3 has not supported the prosecution case. He submitted that simply because P.W. 3-Rahmulla became hostile, his testimony cannot be discarded by this Court on this ground alone as the Court has to consider the evidence of the hostile witness to that extent to which it corroborate the prosecution case.

34. It was further submitted by learned A.G.A. that appellant Israfeel was given several opportunities by the trial Court to cross examine P.W.1- Ibrahim, P.W.2- Naseem and P.W.3-Rahmulla and he was also afforded the services of Amicus Curiae by the trial Court and further he engaged a counsel of his choice, but they failed to appear and did not cross-examine P.W.1- Ibrahim, P.W.2- Naseem and P.W.3-Rahmulla, hence the opportunity to cross-examine P.W.1- Ibrahim and P.W.2-Naseem was closed by the trial Court as is evident from the order sheet of the trial Court. He submitted that Ibrahim (P.W.1) and Naseem (P.W.2) were not deliberately cross-examined by the appellant's counsel before the trial Court, though, the formal witnesses who have appeared thereafter before the trial Court, were cross-examined by the appellant, which otherwise speaks about the conduct of the appellant and his Counsel for not cross-examining Ibrahim (P.W.1) and Naseem (P.W.2) for the appellant Israfeel, for which no one can be put to fault except the convict/appellant (Israfeel) himself and his Counsel.

35. Learned AGA has further argued that blood stained bodkin (sooja) (Ext. Ka-6) was recovered from the possession of appellant Israfeel and the deceased was also assaulted by the appellant Israfeel on the date of incident and he was arrested on the date itself. At the time of arrest, the clothes of convict/ appellant were also found stained with blood, for which a recovery memo (Ext.Ka.7) was prepared and further blood soaked soil was recovered from place of occurrence, which was proved as Ext. Ka-8. Thus, the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the appellant Israfeel and the trial Court has rightly convicted and sentenced the appellant. The appeal is devoid of merits and is liable to be dismissed.

36. We have examined the rival contentions advanced by the learned Counsel for the parties along with the impugned judgment and order passed by the trial Court and also perused the lower Court record.

37. It transpires that informant P.W.1-Ibrahim, who is the brother of deceased Rashid, had lodged the First Information Report against convict/appellant Israfeel and two unknown persons on the date of the incident itself, i.e. 17.11.2000 at 04:30 p.m. at police station Fakarpur, district Barabanki, for committing the murder of his brother Rashid (deceased) on 17.11.2000 at 01:30 p.m. in the outskirt of Dhakherwa village.

38. P.W.1-Ibrahim had deposed before the trial Court that on the date of the incident, i.e. 17.11.2000, at 01:15 p.m., he had gone to perform "Namaz' at Dhakerwa mosque. During the course of "Namaz', P.W.3-Rahmulla came at Dhakerwa mosque and informed him (P.W.1) that Israfeel (convict/appellant) and his two companions caught his brother Rashid (deceased) and assaulted him. After offering "Namaz', he (P.W.1) immediately rushed to the place where his brother Rashid was said to be assaulted by Israfeel (convict/appellant) and his two companions, but he did not find any one there, however, the people gathered there informed P.W.1 that his brother Rashid (deceased) was taken away by Israfeel (convict/appellant) and his two companions towards eastern direction on a bicycle. On this information, he went to Gupta P.C.O. at Nandval, from where he telephonically informed about the incident at police station Baundi, Kaiserganj and Fakarpur.

After that he (P.W.1) returned to village Dhakerwa and from there he moved towards Fakarpur. When he was about to reach Fakarpur, he saw that many people were gathered near Fakarpur culvert (puliya) and stains of blood were present there and he was informed by the said people that accused persons (including convict/appellant), after killing his brother Rashid (deceased) went towards Fakarpur market just now on a bicycle. Immediately thereafter, he (P.W.1) rushed towards Fakarpur market, where the people informed him that the accused persons went towards Ramleela ground. Thereafter, he rushed towards Ramleela ground and he reached 30 steps ahead of the pond of Ramleela ground, he saw that Israfeel (convict/ appellant) had thrown his brother into the pond from the culvert (pulia) and ran away towards Ramleela Ground. He, thereafter, reached near his brother and saw that his brother was dead. After that, he went to police station Fakarpur, district Barabanki and lodged the F.I.R.

39. Close scrutiny of testimony of PW.1-Ibrahim shows that the F.I.R. of the incident was lodged promptly. There was no delay in lodging the F.I.R. P.W.1 is not the eye-witness of the incident but he only witnessed the convict/ appellant Israfeel throwing his brother Rashid (deceased) into the pond from the culvert (puliya) and ran towards Ramleela ground. P.W.1 has established his presence near the culvert when his brother Rashid was thrown by Israfeel (convict/appellant) in the pond.

40. P.W.2-Naseem, who is the brother of the deceased Rashid and P.W.1-Ibrahim, had also supported the testimony of the informant P.W.1 and deposed before the trial Court that on the date of the incident i.e. 17.11.2000, when his brother Rashid was going to offer Namaz, he was near brick kiln and from there he saw that Israfeel (convict/appellant) caught his brother Rashid and stabbed on his neck in front of him with bodkin (sooja). On his hue and cry, Rahmulla (P.W.3) went and informed his brother Ibrahim (P.W.1) in the mosque about the incident.

41. The evidence of P.W.2-Naseem shows that he is the eye-witness of the incident. He saw the convict/appellant Israfeel stabbing his brother Rashid (deceased) with bodkin (sooja).

42. Learned Counsel for the appellants contended that the testimonies of P.W.1 and P.W.2 are not reliable and trustworthy as they are the brothers of the deceased Rashid, hence they are related and interested witnesses.

43. It is a settled principle of law that the evidence tendered by the related or interested witness cannot be discarded on that ground alone. However, as a rule of prudence, the Court may scrutinize the evidence of such related or interested witness more carefully. In Namdeo v. State of Maharashtra : (2007) 14 SCC 150 : (2009) 1 SCC (Cri) 773, the Apex Court, after observing previous precedents on the issue of related and interested witnesses, has summarized the law in the following manner:-

"38. it is clear that a close relative cannot be characterised as an "interested" witness. He is a "natural" witness. His evidence, however, must be scrutinised carefully. If on such scrutiny, his evidence is found to be intrinsically reliable, inherently probable and wholly trustworthy, conviction can be based on the "sole" testimony of such witness. Close relationship of witness with the deceased or victim is no ground to reject his evidence. On the contrary, close relative of the deceased would normally be most reluctant to spare the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent one."

44. The Apex Court in Ilangovan v. State of T.N. : (2020) 10 SCC 533 has held that :-

"7. With respect to the first submission of the counsel for the appellant, regarding the testimonies of related witnesses, it is settled law that the testimony of a related or an interested witness can be taken into consideration, with the additional burden on the Court in such cases to carefully scrutinise such evidence (see Sudhakar v. State, (2018) 5 SCC 435). As such, the mere submission of the counsel for the appellant, that the testimonies of the witnesses in the case should be disregarded because they were related, without bringing to the attention of the Court any reason to disbelieve the same, cannot be countenanced."

45. In the instant case, the learned counsel for the appellant, despite his best efforts, could not persuade this Court that the evidence of P.W.1 and P.W.2 was unreliable. The trial Court has specifically recorded the finding of reliability of evidence of P.W.1 and P.W.2. The submission of the learned counsel for the appellant that the evidence of P.W.1 and P.W.2 is unreliable, because they are the brothers of the deceased, cannot be countenanced. P.W.1-Ibrahim has established his presence at the place from where convict/ appellant had thrown his brother Rashid into the pond, whereas P.W.2-Naseem had established his presence at the place, where the convict/appellant had stabbed on the neck of his brother in front of him with bodkin (sooja). Thus, the evidence of P.W.1 and P.W.2 fully established the case that it was the convict/appellant who committed the murder of their brother Rashid.

46. The next contention of the learned Counsel for the appellant is that as P.W.3-Rahmulla, who is the independent witness, was declared hostile by the trial Court, hence the presence of P.W.2-Naseem at the place where his brother Rashid was said to stabbed with bodkin (sooja) is doubtful and on this ground, the entire prosecution case is doubtful.

47. In C. Muniappan v. State of T.N. : (2010) 9 SCC 567, the Apex Court, while dealing with the testimony of a witness over an issue, has held as under :

"69. It is settled legal proposition that the evidence of a prosecution witness cannot be rejected in toto merely because the prosecution chose to treat him as hostile and cross examine him. The evidence of such witnesses cannot be treated as effaced or washed off the record altogether but the same can be accepted to the extent that their version is found to be dependable on a careful scrutiny thereof. (vide Bhagwan Singh v. The State of Haryana, AIR 1976 SC 202; Rabindra Kumar Dey v. State of Orissa, AIR 1977 SC 170; Syad Akbar v. State of Karnataka, AIR 1979 SC 1848; and Khujji @ Surendra Tiwari v. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1991 SC 1853).

70. In State of U.P. v. Ramesh Prasad Misra & Anr., AIR 1996 SC 2766, this Court held that evidence of a hostile witness would not be totally rejected if spoken in favour of the prosecution or the accused but required to be subjected to close scrutiny and that portion of the evidence which is consistent with the case of the prosecution or defence can be relied upon. A similar view has been reiterated by this Court in Balu Sonba Shinde v. State of Maharashtra, (2002) 7 SCC 543; Gagan Kanojia & Anr. v. State of Punjab, (2006) 13 SCC 516; Radha Mohan Singh @ Lal Saheb & Ors. v. State of U.P., AIR 2006 SC 951; Sarvesh Naraian Shukla v. Daroga Singh & Ors., AIR 2008 SC 320; and Subbu Singh v. State, (2009) 6 SCC 462.

Thus, the law can be summarised to the effect that the evidence of a hostile witness cannot be discarded as a whole, and relevant parts thereof which are admissible in law, can be used by the prosecution or the defence.

In the instant case, some of the material witnesses i.e. B. Kamal (PW.86); and R. Maruthu (PW.51) turned hostile. Their evidence has been taken into consideration by the courts below strictly in accordance with law.

Some omissions, improvements in the evidence of the PWs have been pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellants, but we find them to be very trivial in nature.

71. It is settled proposition of law that even if there are some omissions, contradictions and discrepancies, the entire evidence cannot be disregarded. After exercising care and caution and sifting through the evidence to separate truth from untruth, exaggeration and improvements, the court comes to a conclusion as to whether the residuary evidence is sufficient to convict the accused. Thus, an undue importance should not be attached to omissions, contradictions and discrepancies which do not go to the heart of the matter and shake the basic version of the prosecution's witness. As the mental abilities of a human being cannot be expected to be attuned to absorb all the details of the incident, minor discrepancies are bound to occur in the statements of witnesses."

48. In the instant case, reading the evidence in entirety, the evidence of P.W.3-Rahmulla cannot be brushed aside. His evidence shows that the statement of P.W.3-Rahmulla was recorded almost around five years from the date of the incident by the trial Court i.e. on 12.07.2005. In his examination-in-chief, P.W.3 had deposed that on the date of the incident, he was going to offer "Namaz' and when he reached near brick kiln, then, he saw that 2-3 persons were taking away Rashid (deceased) while doing altercations with him and this fact was informed to Ibrahim (P.W.1) by him in the Mosque, where the brother of the deceased- Rashid was offering "Namaz'. At that time, Ibrahim (P.W.1) was standing in the congregation of prayers and the congregation had already stood up, therefore, they did not go in search of deceased Rashid and started offering "Namaz'. After offering "Namaz', he did not go to search Rashid (deceased) as he went to Samda market. In his cross-examination, he deposed that he told the Inspector that Rashid (deceased) was taken away on a bicycle and he also saw as well as heard the altercations between the convict/appellant and the deceased Rashid, however, he at one place stated that he did not see Israfeel assaulting the deceased, at another place, he deposed that Israfeel was assaulting the deceased Rashid.

49. On reading the testimonies of the P.W.2-Naseem and P.W. 3- Rahmulla, it has been categorically established that they were the eye-witnesses of the incident and their evidence fully establishes that it was appellant-Israfeel who committed the murder of Rashid (deceased).

50. So far as the submission of the learned Counsel for the appellant that one Lalta, son of Saktu, was the alleged eye-witness of the prosecution case but the prosecution did not produce him for examination before the trial Court, is concerned, it is apparent to mention here that as stated herein-above, the prosecution witnesses, P.W.1-Ibrahim, P.W.2-Naseem and P.W.3-Rahmulla, have fully supported the prosecution case and they are found to be trustworthy and reliable. More so, it is normally found that when such incident of murder takes place, it is very rare that all the witnesses, who saw the incident, appear to support the same because of fear and other reasons, hence, the non-production of any other independent witnesses who were present at the place of incident hardly prove fatal to the prosecution case.

51. So far as the motive is concerned, it is apparent from the depositions of P.W.1 and P.W.2 that there was enmity between the convict/appellant and deceased Rashid in connection with money transactions. While living in Delhi, convict/appellant had also lodged an FIR under Section 308 for fracas (marpeet), at police station Jama Maszid, New Delhi. Thus, from the facts and circumstances of the case, it cannot be said that there was no motive on the part of the convict/appellant to commit the murder of the deceased Rashid.

52. In regard to the medical evidence, it transpires from perusal of the post-mortem report of the deceased Rashid that the deceased Rashid received two ante-mortem injuries; (i) multiple punctured wounds in the front of the neck in an area of 12 cm X 12 cm, of varying sizes 1 cm X 0.5 cm to 1.5 cm X .70 cm of varying depth; (ii) multiple punctured wounds on back of neck in an area of 9 cm X 3 cm of muscle deep, situated 2 cm below occipital prominence, 6 cm behind Rt. Ear, 5 cm behind Lt. Ear. P.W. 4-Dr. R.C. Singh, in his deposition, had deposed that aforesaid ante-mortem injuries on the dead body of the deceased could be attributable by bodkin (sooja). Thus, the post-mortem report clearly supported the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses.

53. So far as submission of learned counsel for the appellant that an Amicus Curiae has been appointed by the trial Court after completion of examination-in-chief of Ibrahim (P.W.1), Naseem (P.W.2) and Rahmulla (P.W.3), but the appellant was not afforded opportunity to cross examine Ibrahim (P.W.1), Naseem (P.W.2) and Rahmulla (P.W.3), is concerned, this Court finds from perusal of the impugned judgment that in paragraph 23, the trial Court has recorded a specific finding that on the application of the appellant, witnesses were summoned for recording their statement, and the witnesses were present on various dates fixed in the case, but their cross-examination was not done by the counsel for the appellant before the trial Court. Hence, the plea of the appellant that no opportunity has been afforded to the appellant to cross-examine Ibrahim (P.W.1), Naseem (P.W.2) and Rahmulla (P.W.3) is contrary to the record and is rejected accordingly.

54. In view of the foregoing discussions, it is clear that the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt against the appellant, as instant case is relating to the murder of the deceased in a broad daylight; appellant had strong motive to commit the murder of the deceased; appellant has done to death the deceased in a brutal manner, by stabbing him with bodkin (sooja) on his neck, as a consequence of which the deceased succumbed to his injuries; statements of three eye-witnesses, P.W.1-Ibrahim, P.W.2-Naseem and P.W.3-Rahmulla, which were relied upon by trial Court, had fully supported the prosecution case.

55. Thus, the impugned judgment and order passed by trial Court convicting and sentencing the appellant for offence in question is hereby upheld and the same does not require any interference by this Court in the instant appeal.

56. The instant appeal lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed. The appellant is in jail. He shall serve the sentence as ordered by the trial Court vide impugned judgment and order dated 19.11.2008.

57. Let a certified copy of this order as well as lower Court record be transmitted to the Court concerned for necessary information and necessary compliance, forthwith.

A. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 374(2)/383 - Indian Penal Code, 1860-Sections 498-A, 304-B, 302 - Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 - Section 3/4 - Challenge to-conviction-the deceased died on account of hanging after beating her and she met with homicidal death- the deceased was subjected to cruelty or harassment soon before her death regarding dowry-deceased met with unnatural death within 7 years of marriage-accused was demanding motorcycle and Rs. 50,000/- cash-post-mortem report and statement of PW3 (Doctor) proved that the deceased met with homicidal death and not by suicidal death-As per site plan proved by PW5 no broken door was found-The court below rightly sentenced the accused/appellant. (Para 1 to 27)

B. Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 304-B - read together with Section 113-B of the Evidence Act, a comprehensive picture emerges that if a married woman dies under unnatural circumstances at her matrimonial home within 7 years from her marriage and there are allegations of cruelty or harassment upon such married woman for or in connection with demand of dowry by the husband or relatives of the husband, the case would squarely come under "dowry death" and there shall be a presumption against the husband and the relatives.(Para 20, 21, 22)

In brief, prosecution case is that informant Mani Ram has lodged the first information report on the basis of written complaint on 07.06.2014 at 00.15 A.M. alleging therein that he married his daughter Lalita aged about 21 years two years ago with accused-appellant Sugam. The accused-appellant and his family members were demanding a motorcycle and Rs.50,000/- as dowry for the last two years and were harassing his daughter for its non-fulfillment. His daughter told this fact to him but due to his weak financial condition he could not meet the demand of dowry. It is further alleged that on 06.06.2014, the accused-appellant and his family members murdered his daughter by hanging her. The information regarding death of his daughter Lalita Devi was conveyed to him by the accused-appellant. On the information, he went to the house of in-laws' of his daughter and saw the dead body of his daughter was laying on the ground and all the family members of her in-laws have absconded.

4. Ct. Laxmikant PW7 has drawn the Chek Report (Ex.Ka.11) on 07.06.2014 at 00.15 A.M. on the basis of written complaint (Ex.Ka.1) and by making necessary entry in GD (Ex.Ka.12) vide Rapat No. 3 on 07.06.2014 at 00.15 A.M. and registered the Case Crime No.326 of 2014, under Sections 498-A, 304-B I.P.C.

and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act against accused persons namely Sugam (appellant), Nand Ram, Niraj, Sonu and Ram Kishore. The investigation of the case was undertaken by C.O. Subodh Gautam (PW5). On 07.06.2014, he copied the written complaint and GD in the CD and also recorded the statements of Ct. Laxmikant Tripathi, informant Mani Ram. On the same day, he visited the place of occurrence along with informant and prepared site-plan (Ex.Ka.6). In the site-plan he has shown the place where dead body of the deceased was found on cot and the place of the wood plank in the roof from which rope was hanging and also shown the other things present in the house. The inquest of the dead body was conducted by Tahsildar Gulab Singh (PW6) on 07.06.2014. He appointed Mani Ram, Sita Sharan, Kamlesh Kumar, Shivram Singh and Rajjan as Panch and completed the inquest at 9:30 AM. The Panch has opined that the deceased died due to hanging and to ascertain the real cause of death postmortem is needed. PW6 Gulab Singh Tehsildar prepared Panchayatnama (Ex.Ka.2), Photo Nash (Ex.Ka.7), letter to Medical Officer (Ex.Ka.8), Challan Nash (Ex.Ka.9), sealed the dead body and prepared sample Seal (Ex.Ka.10) and sent the dead body for postmortem through Ct. Sriram Verma and Home Guard Amar Singh along with police papers.

5. The autopsy of the dead body of the deceased was conducted by a team of doctors consisting Dr. Udai Srivastava (PW3) and Dr. Bal Govind. (iii) Abrasion (2 X 7) cm on the right cheek, clotted blood present.

6. On internal examination, membrane of the brain and brain were found congested. Mouth, tongue and pharynx were found congested. Muscles of larynx and vocal cords were found damaged. Trachea hyoid bone was found fractured. Pleura and preicardial sac were found congested. The heart was found filled with blood. Lung was found congested and stomach was found empty. Semi-digested food was found in small intestine. Faecal matter was found in large intestine. Lever, spleen, pancreas, kidneys were found congested. Urenary bladder was found empty. The doctor has opined that the deceased has died about 18 hours before the postmortem due to asphyxia as a result of antemortem hanging. Dr. Udal Srivastava prepared the postmortem report (Ex.Ka.5) in his own handwriting on which Dr. Bal Govind Sankhwar endorsed his agreement.

7. On 12.06.2014, the Investigating Officer has recorded the statement of Sita Sharan and Brij Kishore, both brothers of the deceased. On 19.06.2014, he also recorded the statement of Smt. Phool Kunwar, mother of the deceased. The accused-appellant was arrested on 21.06.2014 at 5 A.M. in front of the door of his house. Thereafter, statement of the accused-appellant was recorded wherein he has denied the occurrence. Thereafter, he recorded the statements of witnesses of the Punchnama, Dr. Udal Srivastava and also the statements of persons who have given affidavit regarding non-involvement of other accused. He also collected the marriage card of accused-appellant and deceased (Ex.Ka.3) and prepared memo in this respect (Ex.Ka.5). Thereafter, investigation of the case was transferred to Avinash Kumar Gautam (PW8) who after completing the investigation submitted the charge-sheet (Ex.Ka.13) against accused-appellant under Sections 498-A, 304-B I.P.C. and Sections 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act and the cognizance was taken on 18.09.2014 and after complying the provisions of the Section 207 Cr.P.C. the case was committed to the Court of Sessions vide order dated 18.9.2014 for trial.

8. After hearing the prosecution and learned counsel for the accused-appellant, the charges of offence punishable under Section 304-B, 498-A I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act in alternative charge of Section 302 I.P.C. were framed against the accused-appellant. The accused-appellant has pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

9. In order to prove its case, prosecution has examined informant Mani Ram (father of the deceased) as PW1, Sita Sharan (brother of the deceased) as PW2 and Brij Kishore (brother of the deceased) as PW4 as witnesses of the fact. Prosecution has examined formal witnesses Dr. Udal Srivastava as PW3 to prove the postmortem report (Ex.Ka.5) and the cause of death of the deceased. Investigating Officer CO Subodh Gautam was examined as PW5 to prove the steps taken in investigation and the site-plan (Ex.Ka.6). Gulab Singh Tehsildar was examined as PW6 to prove panchayatnama (Ex.Ka.2), Photo Nash (Ex.Ka.7), letter to Medical Officer (Ex.Ka.8), Challan Nash (Ex.Ka.9), sample seal by which dead body of the deceased was sealed (Ex.Ka.10). Prosecution also examined Ct. Laxmikant as PW7 to prove the check report (Ex.Ka.11) and GD Rapat No. 3 dated 07.06.2014 at 00.15 A.M. (Ex.Ka.12). Investigating Officer CO Avinash Kumar Gautam was examined as PW8 to prove the charge sheet (Ex.Ka.13).

10. Learner lower court has considered the arguments raised by learned Additional Government Counsel and learned counsel for the accused-appellant and after appreciating the evidence available on record and the statements of PW1 Mani Ram, father of the deceased, PW2 Sita Sharan, brother of the deceased, PW4 Brij Kishore, brother of the deceased, has held that the prosecution has proved that the marriage of the deceased has taken place two years before her death i.e. within seven years of marriage and the prosecution has proved beyond reasonable doubt that a motorcycle and Rs.50,000/- were being demanded as dowry by the accused-appellant soon after the marriage and till the death of the deceased. Learned lower court has also held that the deceased has died on account of hanging after beating her and she met with homicidal death. Therefore, learned court below has held that the charges against appellant-accused for offence punishable under Section 498-A, 304-B I.P.C. and Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act are proved beyond reasonable doubt, and accordingly, convicted and sentenced him to undergo rigorous imprisonment for 10 years under Section 304-B I.P.C., to undergo rigorous imprisonment for three years and a fine of Rs.5000/-, in default to undergo further imprisonment for two months under Section 498-A I.P.C. and to undergo rigorous imprisonment for two years and a fine of Rs.10,000/-, in default to undergo further imprisonment for three months under Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act.

11. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the accused-appellant that learned lower court has misinterpreted the evidence adduced by the prosecution and has not considered the evidence adduced by the defence and illegally held that the accused was demanding a motorcycle and Rs.50,000/- as dowry. It is further submitted that no complaint was ever made by the deceased or her parents to the police or higher authorities regarding demand of dowry and consequent harassment. There is no evidence on record to show that any Panchayat was called regarding dispute of demand of dowry and consequent harassment upon the deceased. Learned lower court has not considered the evidence of the defence witnesses DW1 Smt. Gulab Rani and DW2 Munna Lal. It is further submitted that deceased has committed suicide by bolting the door from inside the room and her dead body was taken out from the room after breaking the door. The above circumstance rules out that the deceased met with homicidal death. It is further submitted that PW1 Mani Ram has admitted in his cross-examination that his daughter has returned to his house after about one and a half months after marriage. He has also admitted that his daughter went to her in-law's house on second time and thereafter she did not returned to his house. PW2 Sita Sharan has stated in his deposition that he was not present when his sister had complained to family members regarding demand of a motorcycle and Rs.50,000/- as dowry. It is further submitted by learned counsel for the accused-appellant that PW2 has admitted that after persuasion, his sister was happily sent to her in-law's house. It is proved from the statement on oath of DW1 Gulab Rani that accused-appellant was not present in the house at the time of occurrence and had returned to the house at about 6 P.M. then he came to know about the occurrence. There is no connection between the suicide of the deceased and demand of dowry and harassment. The deceased has suspicion that accused-appellant is having illicit relationship with some other women on account of which she used to quarrel with her husband and committed suicide.

12. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant has further submitted that learned lower court has illegally held the accused-appellant guilty and has illegally sentenced him for the offence punishable under Sections 498-A, 304-B I.P.C. and Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, which is liable to be set-aside and accused-appellant is liable to be acquitted.

13. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the accused-appellant and submitted that from the evidence of PW1 Mani Ram (father of the deceased), PW2 Sita Sharan (brother of the deceased) and PW4 Brij Kishore (brother of the deceased), it is proved beyond reasonable doubt that the marriage of the accused-appellant with deceased has taken place just before two years of her death. It is also proved beyond reasonable doubt that after some time of marriage the accused-appellant was demanding a motorcycle and Rs.50,000/- as dowry and harassing the deceased on account of its non-fulfillment. From their statements it is also proved that after one and a half months of marriage the deceased had visited her parental house and told her parents and family members regarding demand of dowry and consequent torture being committed by the accused-appellant. From their deposition it is also proved that they had persuaded the deceased to go her in-law's house after scolding her husband Sugam. It is also proved from the statement on oath that the information regarding death was given by accused-appellant and thereafter all the family members of accused-appellant escaped from their house which establishes that accused-appellant has committed some wrong deed. Lower court after appraisal of evidence in detail and invoking the presumption of Section 113-B of Evidence Act has rightly held the accused-appellant guilty for offence punishable under Sections 498-A, 304-B I.P.C. and Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act. It is further contended that learned court below keeping in view the injury found in the postmortem report has legally awarded appropriate sentence which cannot said to be disproportionate. He has submitted that the appeal is devoid of merits and the same is liable to be dismissed.

14. Firstly, I would like to discuss the testimony of witnesses of the fact. In this case informant PW1 Mani Ram (father of the deceased), PW2 Sita Sharan and PW4 Brij Kishore, both brothers of the deceased) are witnesses of the fact. PW1 informant Mani Ram has stated on oath that the deceased Lalita Devi is his daughter. At the time of her death she was aged about 21 years. The marriage of the deceased was solemnized with the accused-appellant about two years before the occurrence as per Hindu rites and ceremonies. After some time of marriage, the accused-appellant and his family members started demanding a motorcycle and Rs.50,000/- as dowry. His daughter had told him several times regarding the demand of motorcycle and Rs.50,000 as dowry but due to his bad financial condition he could not meet the demand of dowry. On the day of occurrence, the accused-appellant along with his family members had killed her daughter by hanging. Accused-appellant had informed him over phone regarding the death of his daughter. Thereupon, he along with his family members reached the village Aasta where they found the dead body of his daughter lying on a cot and the accused-appellant and his family members had absconded from their house. At the time of her death, the child of the deceased was about 6-7 months old. He has further stated that he got the written complaint (Ex.Ka.1) written by Kamlesh who read the same to him thereafter he signed on it and lodged the first information report. Thereafter, inquest of the dead body of his daughter was conducted in presence of Shiv Ram Singh, Rajjan, Sita Sharan, Kamlesh and he also signed on inquest report (Ex.Ka.2). In cross-examination, he clarified that he had received the information regarding death of his daughter at about 08:00 P.M. over phone, thereafter, he told his wife Smt. Phool Kunwar and his son Sita Sharan. He had proceeded to village Aasta from his house at 10 P.M. and when they reached there, they found the grandmother of accused-appellant sitting at the door of the house having the child of the deceased in her lap. The accused-appellant and other family members have absconded. He denied the suggestion that there was any division between accused-appellant and Nandram and they were living separately. He further clarified that the dead body of his daughter was lying on a cot. He had gone to police station to lodge the report in the morning at 8 AM. He further stated that he had called Kamlesh by phone for ascribing the written complaint who came to him at 10:30 AM at village Aasta. He further stated that 10-15 persons had gone to village Aasta along with him. The police had arrived at about 10:00 A.M. at the place of occurrence and inquired from him and other persons present there. He has further stated that the marriage of his daughter has taken place happily and after farewell in the marriage his daughter returned to his house after about 15-20 days and remained in his house for about one month. Thereafter, she went to her in-law's house. After about one and a half months of the marriage when his daughter returned to his house, she had complained him regarding demand of dowry and consequent torture committed by the accused-appellant. Thereafter, he persuaded his daughter to go to her in-law's house and she had gone to her in-law's house happily. He further stated that his daughter was taunted by the accused-appellate that her parents had not given dowry. Perusal of examination-in-chief and cross-examination of informant Mani Ram (PW1) reveals that there is no contradiction regarding demand of motorcycle and Rs.50,000/- as dowry and consequent torture committed upon the deceased. Therefore, the statement of PW1 Mani Ram wholly inspires confidence and is reliable. So far as the argument of learned counsel for the accused-appellant that marriage has taken place happily is concerned, it is of no consequence because the demand of motorcycle and Rs.50,000/- was made by the accused-appellant after few days of the marriage. From the statement of PW1, it is also proved that he had persuaded the accused-appellant for not demanding the dowry and had also scolded him. It is also proved that marriage of the deceased with the accused-appellant has taken place just before two years from the appraisal of the evidence of PW1 Mani Ram.

15. It is proved that the deceased met with unnatural death within seven years of marriage and the accused-appellate was demanding dowry after few days of the marriage and continued till death of the deceased.

16. PW2 Sita Sharan is the brother of the deceased who has deposed that the marriage of his sister was solemnized with accused-appellant on 24.06.2012. The marriage card (Ex.Ka.3) is on record which also corroborates his statement. He has also stated that after marriage the accused-appellant started demanding motorcycle and Rs.50,000/- as dowry and he used to assault the deceased on account of its non-fulfillment. He has further stated that whenever his sister came to her parental house she used to tell that accused-appellant was demanding motorcycle and Rs.50,000/- as dowry. He has also corroborated the version of PW1 Mani Ram that he along with his family members persuaded the accused-appellant not to demand dowry but he kept on demanding the dowry. He had received information on phone that his sister has died due to hanging. Thereafter, he reached the village Aasta and found the dead body of his sister lying on a cot and the family members of the accused-appellant have absconded from their house. The proceedings of Panchayatnama had taken place before him. He has further stated that he reached at village Aasta at 10:30 PM and informed the police orally about 11 P.M. At that time police had not registered the case and had returned after seeing the dead body and again came at 8 A.M. on the next day. He has further stated that his father had not gone to lodge the case in the night. He has further stated that in the morning two police personnel had come and got conducted the inquest on the dead body of the deceased. In the inquest report (Ex.Ka.2) it also finds mention that police had received information on 07.06.2014 at 00:15 A.M. and reached at the place of occurrence for Panchayatnama at about 8 A.M. PW6 Gulab Singh, Tehsildar has proved that he had conducted the Panchnama (Ex.Ka.7) on 07.06.2014 and completed it at 9:30 A.M. Thus, the statement of PW2 gets corroboration that police had reached at about 8 A.M. on the next day and conducted the Panchayatnama. He has further stated that he has complained to Nandram at Aasta regarding demand of dowry by the accused-appellant but he had not complained it to police authorities. From the perusal of whole statement of PW2, there is no contradiction on material point and his statement is consistent and he has given the details of persuading the accused-appellant for not demanding motorcycle and Rs.50,000/- as dowry and not to harass the deceased. From his statement, it is also proved that marriage of the deceased was solemnized with the accused appellant on 24.06.2012 and the deceased met with unnatural death on 06.06.2014, meaning thereby, the deceased has died within two years of marriage and demand of dowry and consequent torture was being made by the accused-appellant after few days of marriage which continued till death of the deceased.

17. PW4 Brij Kishore, brother of the deceased, is witness of the fact and he has deposed that marriage of his sister had taken place in the year 2012. From the marriage card and from the statement of PW2 Sita Sharan, it is proved that marriage of the deceased was solemnized with the accused-appellant on 24.06.2012 but due to pressure of the court atmosphere PW4 has stated in examination-in-chief that marriage had taken place on 24.02.2012 which is insignificant contradiction. From the perusal of his statement, it appears that he is illiterate person and has put his thumb impression on his statement as PW4. Therefore, such minor contradiction is of no consequence. He has further stated that whenever his sister came to her parental house she used to tell that accused-appellant is demanding a motorcycle and Rs.50,000/- as dowry and after persuasion he has sent his sister to her in-law's house. He has further stated that his sister died on 06.06.2014 and the information regarding which was given to his brother Sita Sharan (PW2) over phone. He has further deposed that other persons also came to know that his sister died due to hanging and thereafter he along with several persons had gone to her in-law's house where his sister was found lying. He has also deposed that when they reached the in-law's house of his sister, the family members of accused-appellant had absconded. He has further stated that Daroga Ji had taken the marriage card of his sister and prepared memo (Ex.Ka.4). He has also identified his thumb impression on the memo by which marriage card of the deceased was taken in possession by the police. In cross-examination, he has stated that the accused-appellant is financially poor. He has further stated that whenever his sister came to her parental house, every time they used to persuade his sister and sent to her in-law's house. Perusal of the evidence of PW4 reveals that there is no material contradiction which makes his statement unreliable. The statement of PW4 is consistent and inspire confidence. It is proved from his statement that the deceased has died within two years of marriage due to unnatural death.

18. PW3 Dr. Udal Srivastava has proved the postmortem report (Ex.Ka.5) and has opined that the deceased died due to asphyxia as a result of hanging. In cross-examination, this witness has stated that injury nos. 1 & 3 may be caused due to friction by hard object. He has further stated that there is least chance of injury no.2 as a result of suicidal hanging. From the perusal of internal examination, it is proved that hyoid bone was found fractured and the muscles of the neck was damaged. Dr. Udal Srivastava (PW3) has stated that the ligature mark found in the neck of the deceased is rarely found in case of suicidal death.

19. In above circumstance, keeping in view the whole evidence I am of the opinion that the deceased met with homicidal death. The defence of the accused-appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C. is that his wife has suspicion that he has illicit relationship with some other women on account of which she used to quarrel with him and committed suicide by hanging, but from the perusal of postmortem report and the statement of PW3 Dr. Udal Srivastava it is proved that the deceased has met with homicidal death and not by suicidal death. From the perusal of site-plan which is proved by PW5 Circle Officer Subodh Guatam, it is proved that he has not found broken door at the time of preparation of site-plan which rules out the theory of the suicidal death, moreover, no evidence has been given by the defence regarding name of any women with whom the deceased has suspected that her husband was having illicit relation and the prosecution witnesses have also not been cross-examined on this point. Therefore, in above circumstance, the statement of the accused-appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that his wife has committed suicide on account of suspicion that her husband has illicit relation with other women is nothing but a cock and bull story. In view of the evidence as analyzed above, it is proved that the deceased has met with homicidal death on account of demand of dowry which comes within the definition of unnatural death within seven years of marriage. Therefore, it is proved that there is proximity between the demand of dowry and homicidal death of the deceased. The other circumstance which is proved beyond reasonable doubt that accused-appellant and his family members have absconded after the occurrence which also corroborates that offence was committed by the accused-appellant with the help of his family members.

20. Here is relevant to reproduce the Section 304-B I.P.C. which reads as under:-

"304-B. Dowry death.-- (1) Where the death of a woman is caused by any burns or bodily injury or occurs otherwise than under normal circumstances within seven years of her marriage and it is shown that soon before her death she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, such death shall be called "dowry death", and such husband or relative shall be deemed to have caused her death.

Explanation.--For the purpose of this sub-section, "dowry" shall have the same meaning as in Section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (28 of 1961).

(2) Whoever commits dowry death shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may extend to imprisonment for life.

21. Section 113-B of the Indian Evidence Act reads as under :-

"113-B. Presumption as to dowry death.--When the question is whether a person has committed the dowry death of a woman and it is shown that soon before her death such woman has been subjected by such person to cruelty or harassment for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, the Court shall presume that such person had caused the dowry death."

Explanation.--For the purposes of this section, "dowry death" shall have the same meaning as in section 304-B of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860).

22. The conjoint effect of the provisions contained in Section 304-B IPC and Section 113-B of Indian Evidence Act is that if the prosecution seeks conviction of a person for the offence of dowry death, it is obliged to prove as to the following facts :-

(a) The death :

(i) is of a married woman;

(ii) has occurred within the seven years of marriage of the victim;

(iii) is caused by burns or bodily injury, or has occurred otherwise than under normal circumstances; and

(b) Cruelty or harassment was meted out to the victim:

(i) by her husband or any of his relatives;

(ii) for or in connection with any demand for dowry; and

(iii) soon before her death.

23. The Hon'ble Supreme Court dealing with the case of dowry death in the case of Baldev Singh vs. State of Punjab [reported in (2008) 13 SCC 233], has held that "In cases of dowry deaths and suicides, circumstantial evidence plays an important role and inferences can be drawn on the basis of such evidence. That could be either direct or indirect. It is further held that agreement of dowry is not always necessary even demand of dowry and other ingredients being satisfied."

24. In the case of Bachni Devi and another vs. State of Haryana through Secretary of Home Department [reported in 2011 (2) ACC 3 SC], the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that where it is proved by evidence that the deceased met with unnatural death (suicidal or homicidal) within seven years of marriage and it is shown that accused were demanding dowry then it will be presumed that accused has committed the dowry death.

25. In above circumstances, from the evidence on record following facts are proved beyond reasonable doubt:-

(i) That the deceased met with homicidal death because of hyoid bone being fractured, muscles of neck and cartrid artery was also found damaged and injury was found on the face.

(ii) That the deceased met with unnatural death within seven years of marriage.

(iii) That the accused-appellant was demanding motorcycle and Rs.50,000/- just after the marriage which continued till death of the deceased.

26. In above circumstances, ingredients of Section 304-B I.P.C. is satisfied and the presumption against accused shall arise that he has committed the dowry death of the deceased. So far as the evidence of DW1 Gulab Rani, grandmother of the accused-appellant, is concerned, she has not given any evidence regarding suspicion of deceased that accused-appellant has illicit relationship with other women. She has only stated that accused-appellant was not present at the time of occurrence. She has also admitted that at the time of death of the deceased, the deceased has a child of about 6-7 months old. She has admitted that the deceased was not suffering from any illness. Likewise, DW2 Munna Lal has also stated that deceased has committed suicide by bolting the door from inside the room, but no such thing like broken door has been found by the Circle Officer Subodh Gautam (PW5) at the time of preparation of site-plan, therefore, in above circumstance the defence witnesses are unreliable and no reliance can be placed on their evidence.

27. I am in agreement with the finding recorded by the court below that accused-appellant is guilty for offence punishable under Sections 304-B, 498-A I.P.C. and Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act. I am also in agreement with the finding of the court below that from the evidence on record it is also proved that the deceased met with homicidal death and the court below has rightly sentenced the accused-appellant to undergo rigorous imprisonment for 10 years under Section 304-B I.P.C., to undergo rigorous imprisonment for three years and a fine of Rs.5000/-, in default to undergo further imprisonment for two months under Section 498-A I.P.C. and to undergo rigorous imprisonment for two years and a fine of Rs.10,000/-, in default to undergo further imprisonment for three months under Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, which cannot be said to be disproportionate.

28. For the foregoing reasons, I find no merit in the appeal and it is dismissed, accordingly. Consequently, the impugned judgment of conviction dated 03.02.2018 and order of sentence dated 09.02.2018 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court No.1, Jhansi against the accused-appellant is, hereby, confirmed and maintained.

29. Let a copy of this order along with the lower court record be transmitted forthwith to the learned trial court for compliance.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Om Prakash Tripathi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rahul Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Roopak Chaubey, learned A.G.A. for the State-respondent and perused the material on record.

2. The appellant has preferred the present criminal appeal aggrieved by the judgment and orders dated 12.03.1996 and 13.03.1996, passed by the District and Sessions Judge, Kanpur Dehat in Sessions Trial No.173 of 1995 "State vs. Chhunna and others" Police Station Sheorajpur, District Kanpur Dehat, convicting and sentencing the appellant to undergo life imprisonment under Section 302 of IPC with a fine of Rs.3,000/-, in default thereof, to undergo one year rigorous additional imprisonment.

3. The prosecution case is as follows:

4. Subhash Chandra Mishra, the complainant, s/o late Sunderlal Mishra, r/o Village Dubiana, P.S. Sheorajpur, District Kanpur Dehat lodged the first information report on 23.03.1995 alleging that the deceased Sunder Lal r/o village Dubiana, Police Station Sheorajpur, District Kanpur Dehat, had his flour mill towards east of his house at a distance of about 1-1/2 furlong near G.T. Road. On 22.03.1995 at about 8:00 PM, Sunder Lal deceased, his son Subhash Chandra and Rakesh were busy in grinding flour. One Amit resident of village Baharmapur came to the said flour mill for grinding his wheat. Accused Chunna and Dinesh, who were relatives of Amit, were also with him. The accused wanted to get their wheat grinded first, breaking the number of other customers, Subhash Chandra and his brother Rakesh asked them to get the wheat grinded on their turn. On that, accused Chunna and Dinesh threatened them to see. Thereafter Amit went to his house after getting his wheat grinded.

5. On the said night of 22.03.1995, Sunder Lal deceased, was sleeping inside the premises of flour mill on a Takhat. His son Rakesh P.W.2 and Suresh Kumar, brother-in-law (Sala) of Subhash Chandra P.W.1 were sleeping on another Charpai near the Takhat of the deceased. A lighted lantern was hanging inside the premises. At about 11:45 PM. Sunder Lal deceased raised cries. Hearing his cries, Rakesh P.W.2 and Suresh Kumar woke up and observed that Chhunna- accused was inflicting knife blows on the deceased. On the challenge given by Rakesh P.W.2 and Suresh, Chhunna accused fled away. Both Rakesh and Suresh chased Chhunna and observed that accused Dinesh was standing on the gate of flour mill. Both accused fled away taking benefit of darkness. Hearing alarm, the other persons of the village also came to the spot.

6. Sunder Lal deceased had fallen down on the ground and had profused bleeding from the injuries he sustained. Injured was taken to the P.H.C. Sheorajpur at about 3:00 AM. He was attended there by the Pharmacist P.W.3 as the Doctor was not present. After providing first aid, he was referred to L.L.R. Hospital, Kanpur City. But before being shifted to L.L.R. Hospital, the deceased succumbed to his injuries at 5:10 AM. Sri Udai Narain Yadav, P.W.3 sent information of the death of the deceased Sunder Lal,vide memo Ext.Ka-4 to the Police Station Sheorajpur.

7. After the death of the deceased, Subhash Chandra P.W.1 prepared report of the occurrence Ext.Ka-1 in the Hospital and came to the Police Station Sheorajpur, where he lodged the report at 6:50 AM on 23.03.1995. The Chick FIR Ext.Ka-19 was prepared by the then Head Constable who made an endorsement of the same at G.D. report Ext.Ka-20 and registered a case under Section 302 IPC against the accused.

8. The investigation of the case was taken up by Sri Vijay Narain Pandey, I.O., P.W.6. He interrogated the witness of the fact, Subhash Chandra P.W.1 and proceeded to P.H.C., Sheorajpur, where he appointed Panches and conducted inquest of dead body of Sunder Lal and got prepared inquest report Ext.Ka-7, diagram corpse, challan corpse, letter to C.M.O. and R.I. Exts. Ka.-9 to Ka-12 through S.I. Sri Lalluji Dubey. He got the dead body sealed and prepared sample of seal Ext. Ka-8 and handed over to the Constable Sri Shyam Babu P.W.5 and Home Guard Sri Suresh Chandra Pandey for taking it for post mortem. The Investigating Officer thereafter visited the place of occurrence and prepared site-plan Ext. Ka-13 on the pointing of complainant. He also took into possession the blood-stained and plain earth Ext.2/1 and 2/2, sealed it in different containers and prepared recovery memo Ext.Ka-15. He also took into possession blood-stained "Dhoti' of the deceased, sealed it and prepared recovery memo Ext.Ka-14.

9. The autopsy on the dead body of Sunder Lal deceased was conducted on 24.03.1995 by Dr.L.K. Tiwari P.W.4 who found stitched wound on the scrotum, inguinal region and contusions on the left side of chest and head and cause of death was opined due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of antemortem injuries. He prepared post mortem report Ext. Ka-6.

10. On 24.03.1995, the Investigating Officer interrogated Rakesh P.W.2 and Suresh Pandey. He apprehended accused Chhunna and Dinesh. On the pointing of Chhunna accused, I.O. recovered blood-stained knife Ext.1, the weapon of assault, sealed it and prepared recovery memo Ext.Ka-16. On 28.03.1995, he inspected the place of recovery of knife and prepared site-plan Ext.Ka-17 and interrogated the witnesses of recovery and on completion of investigation, he submitted the charge sheet Ext.Ka-18 against the accused under Section 302 IPC on 04.04.1995.

11. The cognizance of the offence had been taken by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kanpur Dehat, who committed the case to the Court of Sessions for trial on 5.7.1995.

12. Accused Chhunna was charged with the offence punishable under Section 302 IPC while accused Dinesh was charged with the offence punishable under Section 302/34 IPC. The accused pleaded not guilty and contended that they being workers of Bahujan Samaj Party were falsely implicated on account of enmity and Party-Bandi.

13. The prosecution, in support of its case, examined Subhash Chandra P.W.1, Rakesh P.W.2, Udai Narain Yadav P.W.3, Dr. L.K. Tiwari P.W.4, Constable Sri Shyam Babu P.W.5, Sri Vijay Narain Pandey, I.O. P.W.6 and S.I. Sri Amarpal Singh P.W.7.

14. Rakesh P.W.2 is a witness of fact while evidence of other witnesses are formal in nature. Besides documents referred to above, the prosecution has also tendered in evidence the report of Joint Director, Forensic Science Laboratory, Lucknow, Ext. Ka-19.

15. According to prosecution, Sunder Lal deceased died on account of knife injuries. The accused have not disputed identity, death and cause of the death of deceased Sunder Lal.

16. So far as the FIR of this case is concerned, the occurrence took place in the night of 22.03.1995 at about 11:45 PM inside the flour mill premises of the deceased, situated in Village Dubiana, Police Station Dheorajpur, District Kanpur Dehat. Thereafter the deceased was taken to the P.H.C. by Khatola (small cot) at about 3:00 AM. Doctor was not present therefore, the Pharmacist had attended the patient and after primary treatment, referred the injured to L.L.R. Hospital, Kanpur City. But before being shifted to L.L.R. Hospital, the deceased Sunder Lal expired at 5:10 AM and thereafter complainant prepared a written report and on the basis of written report, FIR against the accused was lodged at about 6:50 a.m.on 23.03.1995, i.e., after one hour and 40 minutes after death. It is also proved that due to serious injuries, complainant was busy in treatment to save life of his father, after death, information was given to the police station. FIR of the case has been lodged promptly without unnecessary delay and without any legal consult.

17. So far as the motive of the incident is concerned, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the appellant has weak motive to cause the incident. The appellant has been falsely implicated in this case, being member of BSP.

18. It is a case of eye-witness account of those who had seen the occurrence and in case of eye-witness, direct evidence, motive becomes immaterial.

19. In support of above contentions, learned A.G.A. placed reliance on following decisions :

20. In Pratap Singh and others vs. State of UP 2021, SCC Online All 686, the Court held that :

"Motive is not very relevant in a case of direct evidence, where it dependable ocular version is available. Once, there is evidence forthcoming on the basis of an eye witness account that is consistently narrated by multiple witnesses motive is hardly relevant. "

In Abu Thaker Vs. State of Tamil Nadu, (2010) 5 SCC 91, the Court held that :

"It is settled legal proposition that even if the absence of motive and if allowed is accepted that is of no consequence and pales into insignificance when direct evidence establishes the crime, therefore, in case, there is direct, trustworthy evidence of witnesses as to commission of an offence, the motive part uses its significance. Therefore, if the genesis of motive of occurrence is not proved, the ocular testimony of the witnesses as to the occurrence could not be discarded only by reason of absence of motive, if otherwise the evidence is worthy of reliance."

In Bipin Kumar Mondal Vs. State of West Bengal, (2010) 12 SCC 91, the Court held that :

"Motive is of no consequence and pales into insignificance when direct evidence establishes the crime. Motive is a thing which is primarily known to the accused himself and it may not be possible for the prosecution to explain it. Ocular testimony of the witnesses if reliable cannot be discarded only by the reason of the absence of motive."

21. Thus, from the evidence, it is proved that accused Chhunna and Dinesh threatened the deceased Sunder Lal to see at about 8:00 PM and committed the gruesome murder of the deceased Sunder Lal within four hours in the midnight, in the presence of eye-witness.

22. On the basis of law laid down as above, the presence of ocular evidence, the motive becomes immaterial and further the prosecution has also proved the motive for causing the incident by the appellant.

23. Dr. L.K. Tiwari, P.W.4 who conduced the autopsy on the dead body of the deceased on 24.03.1995 at 2:15 PM found following facts :-

" The deceased was aged about 60 years and had died before 1-1/2 day. He had average built body. Rigor mortis passed of from both extremities. Eye and mouth closed. Post mortem staining present on the whole of the back buttock and thighs. Abodmen distended. Blisters present. Skin peeled off at places."

24. The Doctor found following ante-mortem injuries on the dead body of the deceased Sunder Lal.

2. Contusion 6 Cm. x 4 Cm. on the left lateral aspect of lower part of chest and upper part of abdomen.

3. Stitched wound 8 Cm. long with 9 stitches present on right side of scrotum.

4. Stitched wound 3 Cm. long with 3 stitches present on right side of inguinal region on medial side

Scrotum was swollen."

25. On internal examination, both lungs were pale. Both chambers of heart were empty. 1-1/2 Litre blood was present in abdominal cavity. Watery fluid was present in the stomach. Semi solid fluid was present in the small intestines and gases and faecal matters were present in the large intestines. Gallbladder, pancreas, spleen and both kidneys were pale. In the opinion of Doctor, death was caused due to haemorrhage and shock as a result of ante-mortem injuries.

26. Dr. L.K. Tiwari, P.W.4 further opined that injuries further clarified that stitched wounds were not lacerated as oozing of blood is not possible from lacerated wound. However, he stated that he had not opened the stitched wounds.

27. It is true that the Pharmacist, who examined the injuries of the deceased, had not mentioned the nature of injures but considering the internal condition of the dead body and bleeding nature of injuries, Sri Udai Narain Yadav, P.W.3 has stated that injuries were caused by some sharp edged weapon. Dr. L.K. Tiwari, P.W.4 also stated that a huge amount of blood had come out from stitched wounds (injuries nos. 3 and 4). Thus it is clear from the medical evidence is that injuries nos. 3 and 4 were not lacerated or stab wounds but incised wound.

28. Regarding injuries Nos. 1 and 2, Dr. L.K. Tiwari P.W.4 has opined that these injuries could be caused by fall on the ground. It has been clarified by Rakesh P.W.2 that after sustaining knife injuries, the deceased raised cries and fell down on the ground from Takhat, on which he was sleeping. Therefore, there is explanation regarding injuries nos. 1 and 2, which could be caused by the fall.

29. It is clear from the above medical evidence that the deceased died on account of injuries on his scrotum and inguinal region. Thus, the prosecution has successfully proved identity, death and cause of death of Sunder Lal, deceased.

30. The main question before us is that whether the appellant Chhunna had committed the murder of Sunder Lal deceased by inflicting knife injuries.

31. P.W.1 Subhash Chandra was admittedly at his house in the night of occurrence and had not seen the occurrence. This evidence is hearsay so his evidence is not material for proving the manner of occurrence and complicity of accused.

32. P.W.2 Rakesh is only witness, who stated about the manner of occurrence and complicity of accused. According to his evidence, in the night of occurrence, the deceased, he and his relative Suresh were sleeping in the flour mill premises. The deceased was sleeping on the Takhat while he and Suresh were sleeping on a Charpai. Lighted lantern was hanging near the Thakat of deceased and his Charpai. At about quarter to mid-night, he heard the shrieks of his father. He and Suresh woke up and saw that accused Chhunna was inflicting knife blows on the deceased. He and Suresh raised alarm and chased him. The other accused Dinesh was standing on the gate of flour mill. The accused started running. He and Suresh chased the accused but they ran away.

33. In his cross-examination, he clarified that he came to the flour mill on the night of occurrence at about 10:00 pm alongwith Suresh. His father, the deceased came to the flour mill at 9:00 pm when the operation of flour mill was closed. Subhash Chandra P.W.1 stated that he has his residential house and in the night of occurrence, he, his wife and children of Rakesh were sleeping inside the house and Rakesh was sleeping inside the flour mill premises. Rakesh P.W.2 has denied the suggestion of accused that he was sleeping in his house in the night of occurrence. There is no evidence otherwise on record to prove that the witness (P.W.-2) was sleeping inside his house on the night of occurrence. The deceased was aged man of about 60 years, therefore, other member of his family required to sleep in the flour mill premises. There is nothing in the cross-examination of Rakesh P.W.2 to doubt his presence on the spot in the night of occurrence.

34. Rakesh further clarified that he had seen Chhunna accused inflicting one knife blow. It is clear from the evidence of the witness that he woke up on hearing the shrieks of the deceased. This shows that the first blow was inflicted on the deceased before his shrieks and therefore, it was natural for Rakesh P.W.2 to observe only one knife blow on the deceased. Regarding identity of accused Chhunna and Dinesh, Rakesh P.W.2 stated that he was knowing Chhunna accused prior to the incident but was not knowing Dinesh accused before. He also stated that he had seen Chhunna accused twice prior to the occurrence in the market but did not talk to him. Subhash Chandra P.W.1 stated that he knew Chhunna and Dinesh prior to the incident but he was not knowing their parentage. On the day of occurrence, when altercation took place between him and the accused, he enquired parentage and residence of accused Chhunna and Dinesh from their relative Amit who told them the details. It was on the basis of above information, he mentioned the name, parentage and residence of the accused in the FIR. The evidence of Rakesh P.W.2 that he knew Chhunna accused prior to the incident, and met him twice prior to the occurrence in the market, had not been challenged, and therefore, there is ample evidence on record to prove that Rakesh P.W.2 knew Chhunna accused prior to the incident.

35. No direct enmity, ill-will or grudge of witness with the accused or any member of his family had been suggested or proved. The accused contended in their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that they were active members of Bahujan Samaj Party and, therefore, were falsely implicated. What grudge Rakesh P.W.2 had with the accused, had not been specified. Assuming that the accused were members of Bahujan Samaj Party, it was no ground for Rakesh P.W.2 to be enimical with him. Therefore, the alleged enmity suggested by the accused has no weight.

36. Beside the ocular evidence of Rakesh P.W.2, there is evidence of I.O. Sri Vijay Narain Pandey P.W.6, who stated that he apprehended accused Chhunna on 24.03.1995 and on his pointing out recovered blood stained knife Ext.1. The recovery memo Ext.Ka-16 shows that accused had taken the Investigating Officer and the witnesses at a lonely place besides broken boundary of the old hospital and took out blood stained knife from the heap of bricks and handed over to him. The above knife Ext.1 was sealed on the spot and was sent to Forensic Science Laboratory for analysis and report. The report of the Joint Director Forensic Science Laboratory U.P. Lucknow, Ext.Ka-19 shows that item no.3 (knife) contained human blood. There is nothing in the cross-examination of the I.O. to disbelieve him on the issue of recovery of knife on the pointing out of the accused Chhunna. Length of knife is 8 angul, i.e., about 8 cm and injury no.3 was also 8 cm in length with nine stitches, which also reflects that the recovered knife was one, which had been used in causing fatal injury on the person of the deceased. In this way, the evidence of Rakesh P.W.2 finds corroboration from the recovery of human blood-stained knife on the pointing out of Chhunna accused. Apart from this, human blood was found on plain and blood-stained earth, dhoti, shirt, half sweater, vest and towel of the deceased.

37. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that P.W.2 is the near relative of the deceased and due to this reason, his evidence should not be considered reliable.

38. Per contra, learned A.G.A. submitted that evidence of related witnesses is reliable but must be scrutinized with care and caution. On this point, learned A.G.A. relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in Bishwanath Dhuley vs. State of Maharastha, 1997, SCC Criminal 1075, wherein it has been held that : "mere relationship does not qualify the witness even if independent witness in spite of being available not produced related witness to be the competent witness. However, their evidence must be scrutinized with car and caution".

39. Learned A.G.A. has also relied upon another judgment of Apex Court in Kailash vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, 1998 SCC Criminal 1980, wherein it has been held that: "absence of any material on record to show that prosecution witness has any enmity with the accused, his evidence cannot be brushed aside merely on the ground of relationship, generally relations of victim are interested in bringing the book the real culprits".

40. It is evident that the accused and the deceased belong to different castes and had no reason of enmity. Witness P.W.2 was not an interested witness and his presence on the spot at the time of occurrence, can not be disputed. It is not expected that in the mid-night, in the premises of flour mill, presence of independent witness, was not probable. In such circumstances, P.W.2 who was sleeping on the Takhat nearby the deceased, was the best, appropriate and natural witness of the occurrence and his evidence is fully reliable. Thus, mere relationship of the witness with the deceased is no ground to disbelieve his testimony.

41. It is submitted by the learned counsel for the appellant that P.W.2 is the son of the deceased and he is the interested sole witness and in this situation, evidence of P.W.2 is not reliable as it has no corroboration.

42. It is settled that the testimony of single eye witness can be acted upon if otherwise reliable and corroboration required only when his evidence is open to doubt and suspicious. A close relative who is a natural witness, cannot be recorded as an interested witness. The term "interested' postulates that the person concerned must have some direct interest in seeing that the accused person is somehow or the other convicted either because some animus with accused for some other reason. Testimony of solitary witness has to be examined with great care and circumspection. In the present case, P.W.2 is the sole eye witness of the occurrence, who is the son of the deceased. He has no animus to implicate accused falsely. In the long cross-examination, nothing in his evidence contrary to the case of the prosecution could come out. In fact, P.W.2 is solitary, sterling eye witness, whose testimony is wholly, reliable and does not need any sort of corroboration. Besides this, evidence of P.W.2 is corroborated by the Investigating Officer P.W.6, who had recovered blood stained knife on the pointing out of the applicant. Thus, on the basis of solitary evidence of P.W.2, although, witness is related by blood with the deceased, conviction can be recorded. The trial Court has not committed any error much less manifest error in recording the conviction of the accused appellant Chhunna.

43. On the basis of above discussion, it is clear that the prosecution has successfully proved the manner of occurrence that accused Chhunna was real assailant who inflicted the fatal blow on scrotum, inguinal region of the deceased. The nature of ante-mortem injuries of the deceased were such that it could cause his death in all probabilities. This shows that accused Chhunna had every intention and knowledge that injury caused by him would result in the death of the deceased. Therefore, the prosecution has successfully proved the guilt of accused Chhunna for the offence punishable under Section 302 IPC. It is a murder made with cool mind in a planned way four hours after altercation on the same day. It is not a case of grave and sudden provocation.

44. Co-accused Dinesh was not found guilty by the trial Court and was acquitted for the charge under under Section 302/34 IPC. The State of Uttar Pradesh had not filed any appeal against the acquittal of co-accused Dinesh and no such appeal has been brought before us.

45. On the basis of above discussion, we are of the view that the judgment and orders of the trial court dated 12.03.1996 and 13.03.1996 passed by the District and Sessions Judge, Kanpur Dehat in Sessions Trial No.173 of 1995 "State vs. Chhunna and others", Police Station Sheorajpur, District Kanpur Dehat, convicting and sentencing the accused appellant Chhunna to undergo life imprisonment under Section 302 IPC with fine of Rs.3,000/-, in default thereof, to undergo one year rigorous additional imprisonment, is hereby confirmed.

46. During trial, the accused appellant Chhunna was on bail. During appeal, the appellant Chhunna was on bail. The appellant was arrested on 21.01.2020 in execution of the non-bailable-warrant and is detained in the District Jail, Mati, Kanpur Dehat at present. The accused appellant Chhunna is directed to serve out the remaining period of his sentence. The bail bonds filed by the appellant are forfeited and sureties are discharged.

47. The appeal is devoid of merits and liable to be dismissed. The appeal is accordingly, dismissed.

48. Certify this judgment to the Court below immediately for compliance. The compliance report be submitted through the Registrar General, High Court, Allahabad.

Counsel for the Appellants:

A. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 374(2) - Indian Penal Code, 1860-Sections 302, 302/34 & 324-challenge to –conviction-all the three accused participated in commission of the offence as two of them caught hold of the deceased and one gave fatal blow with knife on neck, as a result, deceased died-as per doctor opinion injury no. 1 on neck was sufficient in ordinary course to cause death-no hard and fast rule that in case of single injury, provisions of section 302 IPC would not be attracted- it depends upon the facts and circumstances of each case-the essence of section 34 IPC is consensus of minds of persons participating in a criminal action to bring about a particular result-It does not create any distinct offence but lays down the principle of constructive criminal liability-The case has been proved beyond all reasonable doubts by the statements of prosecution witnesses.(Para 1 to 25)

B. The nature of injury, the part of the body where it is caused, the weapon used in causing such injury are the indicators. of the fact whether the accused caused death with an intention of causing death or not. It cannot be laid down as a rule of universal application that whenever the death occurs on account of a single blow, Section 302 IPC is ruled out.(Para 24)

The appeal is dismissed. (E-6)

1. This criminal appeal under Section 374(2) CrPC arises out of judgment and order dated 31st August, 1982 passed by the IVth Additional Sessions Judge, Lucknow in Sessions Trial No.170 of 1981, convicting accused, Ram Khelawan (appellant no. 1) under Section 302 IPC and accused Budhu and Ram Dutt (appellant no. 2) under Section 302/34 IPC and sentenced them to undergo life imprisonment. "We find that there are consistent statements of prosecution witnesses on record which are also corroborated by the injury reports as well as the opinion of the doctor with regard to receiving fatal blow by the deceased as well as the injuries received by Ketar. The case of the prosecution that Buddhoo had come armed with knife giving challenge that he would not allow Ram Beti to be married in Village Kharika and then Ram Khelawan took knife from Buddhoo and gave knife blow at the left hand of Ketar and thereafter Ram Dutt and Buddhoo caught hold of Ram Deen by his hands and Ram Khelawan gave him knife blow near his neck, go to establish that all the accused have common intention of committing the offence of murder. Therefore, they are liable to be convicted, having the common intention of committing the offence, as has been proved beyond all reasonable doubts by the statements of the prosecution witnesses."

3. As per prosecution case, Ramdin (deceased) his brother Ketar (injured), accused, complainant and witnesses belong to 'Mangta Community'. All these persons were living in their huts, near Banthara Market.

4. Ramdin and Ketar were having sister, Sarjoo, whose husband died and, she was living in a nearby hut. Her elder daughter, Samrata was married to Budhu. Marriage of her younger daughter, Rambeti was arranged and settled by Ramdin and Ketar in village, Kharika. On the date of incident, Barat was to come as marriage was scheduled. At around, 8.30 p.m., when music was being played, two petromaxes were burning and arrangements were being made of food etc., for the guests etc., accused Budhu, followed by present appellants, came there having an open knife in his hand. He challenged that he would not allow Rambeti to get married in village Kharika from where Barat was coming.

5. It is said that when deceased, Ramdin and his brother, injured, Ketar tried to caution and make him understand not to make any disturbance/turbulence in marriage, Ram Khelawan snatched the knife from Budhu and gave knife blow on left hand of Ketar. Ramdin intervened to save his brother and apprehend, accused, Ram Khelawan, Budhu and Ram Dutt caught hood of his hands and Ram Khelawan gave knife blow on neck of Ramdin, who instantly fell down. All the accused fled away from the place of occurrence towards Banthara Market.

6. FIR of the incident was lodged on same day at Banthara Police Station.

7. Injured Ramdin and Ketar were sent to Sarojini Nagar Primary Heath Center for medical aid. Since Ramdin's condition was serious, he was referred to Balrampur Hospital where he died next morning i.e. on 29.11.1980. After investigating the offence, charge-sheet was filed. The accused denied charges and demanded for trial.

8. Deceased, Ramdin was initially medically examined at 9.30 p.m. and Doctor found incised wound 3/4"x1/4" into muscle deep on the lower part of front of middle of neck with bleeding.

9. Injured, Ketar was medically examined at 12.30 a.m. on intervening night of 27/28.11.1980, and the Doctor found him to have suffered incised wound 1"x1/4" into muscle deep on the dorsal surface of left hand and one abrasion 1/4"x1/8" on the tip of left middle finger.

10. During the course of postmortem examination of deceased, Ramdin, which was conducted on 29.11.1980, following antemortem injures were noticed on his body:-

1. Stitched wound 2 cm. long with one stiph on the base of the neck left side 0.5 cm. Left to the supra esternal notch.

2. Multiple abraded contusion in an area of 5 cm. X 2.5 cm. On the back of left elbow.

3. Abraded contusion 1.5 cm. X 0.5 cm. on the front of right leg 26 cm. below right knee.

11. As per opinion given by the Doctor, the death was caused as a result of shock and hemorrhage due to injury no. 1, which was sufficient in ordinary course of nature to cause death.

12. Prosecution, to prove its case, examined injured, Ketar as PW-1 and Prabhudin as PW-2, Dr. S.H.A. Rizvi, the then Medical Officer, who was posted at PHC, Sarojini Nagar, who initially examined Ketar and Ramdin on 27.11.1980, as PW-3, Dr. V.P. Singh, Medical Officer, posted at Civil Hospital, Lucknow, who conducted postmortem examination of deceased, Ramdin, as PW-4, Mr. Ram Singh, Head Constable, who was posted as Head Mohrir at Police Station Banthara on 27.11.1980 and prepared chick report, Exhibit Ka-1, as PW-5, and Mr. Sukh Dev Pandey, Sub-Inspector, who conducted inquest, as PW-6. Mr. Biraj Shyam Mishra, the Investigating Officer who completed investigation, as PW-7.

13. After the prosecution evidence got concluded, statements of accused were recorded under Section 313 CrPC.

14. Since one of the appellants, Ram Khelawan was absconding, the present appeal filed by him and Ram Dutt was disconnected from Criminal Appeal No.685 of 1982 filed by Budhu.

15. This Court has already discussed the evidence in the judgment and order dated 06.04.2018 passed in Criminal Appeal No. 685 of 1982 and, therefore, no useful purpose would be served by extracting the evidence on hereunder. It would be suffice to note that the place of incident, manner in which the incident was caused, presence of the accused and role played by them in furtherance of common intention is fully established by injured witness and independent witness and the evidence of two doctors, who initially conducted the medical examination of the injured and postmortem examination of the deceased respectively.

16. The prosecution story gets corroborated by the medical evidence as well. There is direct evidence of injured and eye-witness, who have fully supported the prosecution case.

17. Mr. Rajesh Kumar Dwivedi, learned Amicus, however, has submitted that the judgment and order dated 06.04.2018 passed in Criminal Appeal No. 685 of 1982 preferred by co-accused, Budhu would not be binding on the present accused-appellants. This Court should examine their case irrespective of finding recorded in the said judgment and order. It has been further submitted that no motive is coming forth for committing the offence by the appellants, Ram Khelawan and Ram Dutt. As per the prosecution case, it was Budhu, who was aggrieved by settling of marriage of Rambeti, his sister-in-law, in village Kharika and, he came with knife. It has been further submitted that it does not appeal to reason that Ram Khelawan would snatch knife from Budhu and give fatal blow on deceased, Ramdin and injure Ketar. It has been further submitted that accused, Ram Dutt has been assigned role of catching hold of the deceased and there is no reason to believe that the accused, Ram Khelawan, and Ram Dutt would have common intention of committing murder of Ramdin. There is nothing on record to suggest that the accused had come prepared to commit the offence or there was premeditation/prior meeting of minds of the accused for commission of offence. He has submitted that it would not be proper to convict appellant, Ram Dutt with aid of Section 34 IPC for offence under Section 302 IPC as role assigned to him of catching hold of the hand of the deceased only single blow was given on deceased, Ramdin and that too by appellant, Ram Khelawan. Except for role of catching hold of appellant, Ram Dutt, no other role has been assigned to him. Therefore, it has been submitted that since there was single injury which was caused to deceased, Ramdin by accused Ram Khelawan and Ramdin died on next day, it is a fit case where appellant, Ram Khelawan and Ram Dutt should be convicted under Section 304 IPC and not under Section 302 IPC, even if the prosecution story is believed.

18. On the other hand, Mr. Umesh Verma, learned A.G.A., has submitted that this Court, while analyzing the evidence on record, has specifically held that the prosecution case was fully proved by evidence on record. This Court also held that all the three accused had common intention for committing murder and, therefore, this Court cannot review the judgment in which specific finding that all the three accused had common intention for committing murder has been recorded. This Court is neither sitting in appeal nor in review against the judgment and order dated 06.04.2018 and, therefore, the findings recorded in judgment and order dated 06.04.2018 passed in Criminal Appeal No.685 of 1982 are binding in the present appeal, and a different view cannot be taken. Mr. Verma has further submitted that even otherwise, when the prosecution has established the role of giving knife blow by Ram Khelawan and catching hold by Budhu and Ram Dutt, it cannot be said that all the three accused did not have common intention to cause death of Ramdin. It is submitted that common intention could develop instantly. Ram Khelawan assaulted Ketar after snatching knife from Budhu and when Ramdin tried to save him, accused Ram Dutt and Budhu caught hold of Ramdin and accused, Ram Khelawan gave fatal blow as a result thereof, he died. It has been further submitted that the Doctor had opined that injury no. 1 suffered by deceased, Ramdin was sufficient in ordinary course of nature to cause death. It has been further submitted that there is no ground to interfere with the conviction and sentence of the accused-appellants by the trial Court and the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

19. We have considered the submissions advanced by the learned amicus and learned Government Counsel.

20. Section 34 of the IPC creates a deeming fiction by infusing and importing a criminal act constituting an offence committed by one into others. It is for the prosecution to prove the common intention to the satisfaction of the Court.

21. This Court in its judgment and order dated 06.04.2018 passed in Criminal Appeal No.685 of 1982, after analyzing the evidence in detail, has held that all the three accused had common intention to commit murder of the deceased.

22. The Supreme Court in recent judgment (2022) 2 SCC 545 (Jasdeep Singh alias Jassu Vs. State of Punjab) has held that common intention to commit an offence is a team effort akin to a game of football involving several positions manned by many. It would be apt to extract few paragraphs from the said judgment hereunder:-

"22. It is a team effort akin to a game of football involving several positions manned by many, such as defender, mid-fielder, striker, and a keeper. A striker may hit the target, while a keeper may stop an attack. The consequence of the match, either a win or a loss, is borne by all the players, though they may have their distinct roles. A goal scored or saved may be the final act, but the result is what matters. As against the specific individuals who had impacted more, the result is shared between the players. The same logic is the foundation of Section 34 IPC which creates shared liability on those who shared the common intention to commit the crime.

23. The intendment of Section 34 IPC is to remove the difficulties in distinguishing the acts of individual members of a party, acting in furtherance of a common intention. There has to be a simultaneous conscious mind of the persons participating in the criminal action of bringing about a particular result. A common intention qua its existence is a question of fact and also requires an act "in furtherance of the said intention". One need not search for a concrete evidence, as it is for the court to come to a conclusion on a cumulative assessment. It is only a rule of evidence and thus does not create any substantive offence.

24. Normally, in an offence committed physically, the presence of an accused charged under Section 34 IPC is required, especially in a case where the act attributed to the accused is one of instigation/exhortation. However, there are exceptions, in particular, when an offence consists of diverse acts done at different times and places. Therefore, it has to be seen on a case-to-case basis.

25. The word "furtherance" indicates the existence of aid or assistance in producing an effect in future. Thus, it has to be construed as an advancement or promotion.

26. There may be cases where all acts, in general, would not come under the purview of Section 34 IPC, but only those done in furtherance of the common intention having adequate connectivity. When we speak of intention it has to be one of criminality with adequacy of knowledge of any existing fact necessary for the proposed offence. Such an intention is meant to assist, encourage, promote and facilitate the commission of a crime with the requisite knowledge as aforesaid.

27. The existence of common intention is obviously the duty of the prosecution to prove. However, a court has to analyse and assess the evidence before implicating a person under Section 34 IPC. A mere common intention per se may not attract Section 34 IPC, sans an action in furtherance. There may also be cases where a person despite being an active participant in forming a common intention to commit a crime, may actually withdraw from it later. Of course, this is also one of the facts for the consideration of the court. Further, the fact that all accused charged with an offence read with Section 34 IPC are present at the commission of the crime, without dissuading themselves or others might well be a relevant circumstance, provided a prior common intention is duly proved. Once again, this is an aspect which is required to be looked into by the court on the evidence placed before it. It may not be required on the part of the defence to specifically raise such a plea in a case where adequate evidence is available before the court."

23. The essence of Section 34 IPC is consensus of minds of the persons participating in a criminal action to bring about a particular result. It does not create any distinct offence but lays down the principle of constructive criminal liability. The facts of this case would disclose that all the three accused had participated in commission of the offence inasmuch as two of them caught hold of the deceased and one gave fatal blow on neck as a result thereof deceased, Ramdin died. According to Doctor, who conducted autopsy on dead-body of the deceased, the injury caused on neck of Ramdin was sufficient in ordinary course to cause death. There is no hard and fast rule that in case of single injury, provisions of Section 302 IPC would not be attracted. It would depend upon facts of each case, nature of injury, part of body where injury is caused, weapon used in causing such injury to ascertain intention of causing death. Therefore, the submission of learned Amicus that since single injury was caused on neck of the deceased, the accused did not have intention to cause death does not appeal to us.

24. The Supreme Court in (2020) 9 SCC 524 (Stalin Vs. State Represented by the Inspector of Police) noted down on this issue, the observations in AIR 1958 SC 465 (Virsa Singh Vs. State of Punjab) and held in paragraph 7.2 as under:-

"7.2 From the above stated decisions, it emerges that there is no hard and fast rule that in a case of single injury Section 302 IPC would not be attracted. It depends upon the facts and circumstances of each case. The nature of injury, the part of the body where it is caused, the weapon used in causing such injury are the indicators of the fact whether the accused caused the death of the deceased with an intention of causing death or not. It cannot be laid down as a rule of universal application that whenever the death occurs on account of a single blow, Section 302 IPC is ruled out. The fact situation has to be considered in each case, more particularly, under the circumstances narrated hereinabove, the events which precede will also have a bearing on the issue whether the act by which the death was caused was done with an intention of causing death or knowledge that it is likely to cause death, but without intention to cause death. It is the totality of the circumstances which will decide the nature of offence."

25. Accused, Ram Khelawan had given knife blow on neck of the deceased which resulted into death of deceased on next day. Considering the opinion of the Doctor, weapon used in committing offence and body part where knife blow was given, this Court is of the view that the accused had intention to cause death while the deceased was caught hold by two other co-accused. In view thereof, this Court does not find any ground to take a different view than the view which has been taken in Criminal Appeal No.685 of 1982. In the result, this appeal also fails and is hereby dismissed. However, considering the fact that the incident took place in the year 1980. The appellants are in their advance age and, therefore, the State Government should consider their case for remission expeditiously, taking into consideration their advance age and their conduct in jail etc. in accordance with law.

26. We appreciate valuable assistance rendered by Mr. Rajesh Kumar Dwivedi, learned Amicus and Mr. Umesh Verma, learned A.G.A. during the course of hearing of this appeal.

27. We fix Rs.11,000/- to be paid to learned Amicus as fee, for assisting the Court.

CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 10.05.2022

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE MRS. SUNITA AGARWAL, J.
THE HON'BLE VIKAS KUNVAR SRIVASTAV, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 1007 of 1996

Kali Prasad ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri V.S. Kushwaha, Sri Dhirendra Kumar, Sri Mohd. Kalim, Sri Ulajhan Singh Bind, Ms. Mary Punch (Sheeba Jose)

Counsel for the Respondent:
Govt. Advocate

A. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 374(2) - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 302-challenge to –conviction-modification of sentence-murder-altercation between two truck drivers over on a trivial issue-the accused and the deceased were strangers-statements of eye-witnesses PW-2 and PW-3 are consistent-both were entangled in the fight while being in their respective trucks, the appellant gave a blow of knife to the deceased-appellant had committed the offence without any pre-meditation in a sudden fight in the state of anger-oral altercation took an ugly turn-death caused due to head injury by the butt of the knife on account of which the deceased went into coma and died-the act of the appellant was clearly with the intent to cause bodily injury which could result in the death-Thus, the appellant is not guilty of murder u/s 302 of the Code but the offence would fall under Section 304 Part I of the IPC.(Para 1 to 38)

B. While answering the question of modification of sentence, the principle of exclusion could be applied. If the accused commits an act while exceeding the right of private defence by which the death is caused either with the intention of causing death or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as was likely to cause death then he would be guilty under Part I of Section 304. On the other hand if before the application of the Exceptions of Section 300 it is found that he was guilty of murder within the meaning of clause "fourthly", then no question of such intention arises and only the knowledge is to be fastened on him that he did indulge in an act with the knowledge that it was likely to cause death but without any intention to cause it or without any intention to cause such bodily injuries as was likely to cause death. There does not seem to be any escape from the position, therefore, that the appellant could be convicted only under Part II of Section 304 and not Part I.(Para 24)

The appeal is partly allowed. (E-6)

2. This appeal is directed against the judgment and order dated 18.4.1996 passed by the VIIth Additional Sessions Judge, Allahabad whereby appellant Kali Prasad has been convicted of the offence under Section 302 IPC and sentenced for life imprisonment.

3. The first information report regarding the incident occurred on 29.6.1994 at about 11:30 AM, at the Phaphamau Railway Crossing, was lodged by Sri Ram Prakash Singh (PW-5) with the thumb impressions of the eye-witnesses PW-2 Ashok Kumar and PW-3 Ramesh Kumar Sharma. As per the eye-witness account as narrated in the written report, on the fateful day, i.e. on 29.6.1994, deceased Ram Aasre Bhartiya was driving a Truck No. UP70 9822 when he reached at the Phaphamau Railway Crossing at about 11:30 AM, the crossing gate was closed to pass a train. As soon as the gate was opened when the train crossed over, deceased Ram Aasre Bhartiya moved his vehicle (truck) to cross the railway track. At the same time, one Truck No.UP65 B8551 also moved forward from the opposite direction (Eastern side) to cross the railway track. By chance, both the trucks came side by side and got stuck in the middle of the railway track. The drivers of the trucks started arguing as to who would take his truck back. Getting angry, out of rage, the driver of Truck No. UP65 B8551 attacked in the neck of deceased Ram Aasre by knife. The Khalasis of the truck namely Ashok and Ramesh got down while making hue and cry and with the help of the public (crowd) present at the spot, they had succeeded in catching hold of the assailant driver. In the meantime, the Khalasi of the said truck had succeeded in running away from the spot of the incident. The truck driver Ram Aasre had died on the spot. Looking to the crowd, the Railway Police reached at the spot and the assailant driver namely the appellant herein was caught. The assailant driver disclosed his name as Kali Prasad son of Lochan Kumhar, resident of Mohalla Golachhani, Police Station Sasaram, District Rohtas (Bihar).

4. The Check FIR was lodged at about 13:30 PM on the same day, i.e. 29.6.1994, at the Chauki G.R.P. Prayag, Sadar, District Allahabad.

As per the version in the first information report, the offence of murder was committed during the course of altercation between two truck drivers on a trivial issue which took an ugly turn on the spot.

5. The recovery memo of the blood stained and plain earth made from near the railway track had been proved as 'Exhibit Ka-16'. The pieces of mirror and glass collected and seized from the Truck No. UP70 9822 were entered in the recovery memo proved as 'Exhibit Ka-17'. The memo of search 'Exhibit Ka-18' indicates that no incriminating material such as knife was recovered from the truck being driven by the accused appellant.

The Ante-mortem injuries indicated in the postmortem report are:-

"(1) Contusion in an area of 2.0" diameter of left Cheek.

(2) Contusion in an area of 2.0" diameter on left temporal region.

(3) Incised wound 5½" x 1½" x muscle deep front of neck below the lower jaw.

(4) Abrasions over both chest & Abdomen except lower 1/3 on the front side."

On internal examination, left temporal bone was found fractured, Subdural & Arachnoid Haemorrhage was present in the brain membranes, Brain was congested. The cause of death as indicated in the postmortem report is "Death in Coma as a result of Ante-mortem injuries".

6. The proximate time of death as opined by the doctor (PW-7) was about 1-1/2 day. The inquest was made on 29.6.1994 and commenced at about 12:35 PM. In the column of information about the crime in the inquest report, it is noted that the deceased was killed during an altercation out of rage. After completion of the inquest, at about 16:30 Hours, the body was sent for postmortem to ascertain the exact cause of death. As per the doctor examined as PW-7, the postmortem report was prepared in his handwriting and bears his signature, it was marked as 'Exhibit Ka-6'. In the examination-in-chief, while narrating the injuries of the deceased, PW-7 had narrated the cause of death as "Coma due to ante-mortem injuries" and stated that the Injury Nos. 1 and 2 could occur from a blunt object whereas injury no. 4 could also be caused by a blunt object. Injury no. 3 was muscle deep and was possibly caused by a sharp edged weapon.

PW-7, in cross, had clarified that width of the weapon used had no concern with the size of injury no. 3 and stated that there may be variation of six hours on both sides in the estimated time of the death.

7. PW-6, Constable Moharir posted at the Prayag G.R.P. Chauki, Allahabad proved that he was on duty when a written memo was given to him by the porter namely Vijay Bahadur of the Railway Station Prayag, Northern Railway, related to the collusion of two trucks at the railway track and traffic jam situation on the spot as also the death of one truck driver. The said memo was entered in the General Diary at Rapat No. 50, Time 12:20 Hours on 29.6.1994. The carbon copy of G.D. prepared in the same process was proved with the original as 'Exhibit Ka-3' being in the handwriting and signature of PW-6.

It is stated by PW-6 that on receipt of the information of the incident through the said memo, two Constables were sent along with the Inquest Form to the spot. On the same day, one written report was also given by Ram Prakash Singh (PW-5) and the case was registered at Rapat No. 17 at about 11:30 AM. The carbon copy of the GD prepared by PW-6 in his hand writing and signature was proved as 'Exhibit Ka-4'. The check report being in the handwriting and signature of PW-7 had been proved as 'Exhibit Ka-5'. PW-6 had denied the suggestion of the report being Ante-time.

8. PW-5, Ram Prakash Singh, the scribe of the first information report stated in the examination-in-chief that he wrote the report on the dictation of two eye-witnesses namely Ashok Bhartiya and Ramesh. After the report was scribed, he read over the same to the witnesses and then put his signature, the witnesses also put their signatures and thumb impressions on the same. The accused Kali Prasad was nabbed by the crowd on the spot and the written report was presented in the Phaphamau Chauki. After he lodged the report, the Investigation Officer recorded his statement. PW-5 had denied the suggestion that the report was dictated by the Investigating Officer and categorically stated that the Investigating Officer instructed the eye-witnesses to give the report in writing when they narrated the incident to him.

9. PW-8 is the Investigating Officer who had identified the memo (Paper No. 17-Ka/7) which was received at the Chauki with regard to the incident and the signature of the officer concerned on the same, which was proved as Exhibit Ka-7. He stated that after receipt of the said memo, he alongwith two Constables carrying the relevant papers, went to the railway crossing where lot of crowd was collected and traffic was jammed. Lots of blood was found at the railway line no. 4 towards East. Almost half of the body of the deceased was hanging from the window of Truck No. UP70 9822 and blood was oozing out in large quantity. The second truck was standing towards the West.

He further stated that in the meantime, Ram Prakash Singh (PW-5) handed over a written report signed by three witnesses. The assailant/appellant herein was caught by the crowd and was handed over to the Investigating Officer. The trucks were sent to the Chauki Phaphamau and the first informant alongwith the written report was sent to Chauki Prayag for lodging of the FIR. The criminal case was registered under Section 304 IPC at the P.S. Prayag. A copy of the FIR was received by the Investigating Officer (PW-8) on the spot and then he proceeded to prepare the relevant papers such as inquest and other related documents. The statements of eye-witnesses were recorded on completion of the inquest and the dead body was sealed and sent for postmortem to Swaroop Rani Hospital, Allahabad. The inquest was proved by PW-8 being in his handwriting and signature as 'Exhibit Ka-1'. Other related documents were proved as 'Exhibit Ka-8' to 'Exhibit Ka-15'. The recovery memos of plain and blood stained earth collected from the railway track and the pieces of broken glass found in the truck of the deceased were also proved by PW-8 as Exhibit Ka-16 and Ka-17. The site plan prepared in the handwriting and signature of PW-8 was proved as Exhibit Ka-19. The weapon of assault namely knife could not be found in the truck and it was intimated that Khalasi of the Truck No. UP65 B8551 (being driven by the assailant/appellant) ran away with the knife. The statements of the eye-witnesses namely PW-2 and PW-3 were recorded on the same day and after completion of the investigation, the charge sheet was submitted on 22.8.1994 as Exhibit Ka-20.

In cross, PW-8 stated that he had reached at the place of incident at about 12:35 PM and when he reached, the body of the deceased was inside the truck, the neck and half of the dead body was hanging outside the window of the truck. The assailant/appellant who was caught by the crowd was complaining pain in his waist, hands and body but there was no visible injury on his person. The Khalasi of the truck was not implicated as an accused as he ran away from the spot. On a suggestion, PW-8 stated that lots of blood was present on the head, face and ears of the deceased and hence the head injury could not be noticed by him. He made inspection of the truck and found several pieces of glass and one rear-mirror. The suggestion that the entire report was prepared at the police station was categorically denied.

10. The formal witnesses had, thus, proved the reports prepared by them during the course of the proceedings beginning from the lodging of the report till the submission of the charge sheet. No apparent contradiction or any inconsistency could be pointed out by the learned counsels for the appellants from the statements of the formal witnesses and the documentary evidences on record as proved by them. No flaw in the investigation made by PW-8, the Investigating Officer, could be brought before the Court.

11. Amongst the witnesses of fact, PW-1 Pyare Lal is the father of the deceased and is a witness of the inquest. He proved his signature on the inquest report which was marked as 'Exhibit Ka-1'. PW-1 denied the suggestion that he was not present on the spot at the time of the preparation of the inquest. PW-4 Indra Bahadur is owner of the Truck No. UP70 9822 which was being driven by the deceased Ram Aasre Bhartiya at the time of the incident. He proved his signatures on the inquest report and, thus, being one amongst the Panch witnesses. PW-4 stated that the information of the incident was given by Khalasi of the truck namely Ramesh (PW-3), while he was present in his Brick Kiln.

12. PW-2 and PW-3 are the eye-witnesses of the occurrence. They both narrated the occurrence of the incident in the same manner as asserted in the written report and also proved their signatures on the inquest. PW-2 Ashok Kumar stated that the Investigating Officer recorded his statement on the spot and he had also identified the appellant Kali Prasad in the Court. PW-2 stated that he went to the market alongwith PW-3 Ramesh at about 8:00 AM and when they came near the railway line, they sat on a tea stall. By the time, Truck No. UP70 9822 came at the crossing and while the other truck being driven by the appellant namely UP65 B8551 was crossing the railway track from the opposite side, an oral altercation started between two drivers as to who would take back his truck. The appellant hit the deceased with the knife. PW-2 stated that when the first knife blow was given by the assailant/appellant, he got down from the truck and could not remember as to how many blows were given by the appellant. Further that at the point of time, when the deceased was given the blow of knife by the appellant, the deceased was holding the collar of the assailant/appellant. He stated that apart from the injury on the neck of the deceased, there was no other injury. It was stated by PW-2 that during oral altercation, the deceased and the appellant started fighting physically and after giving the blow of knife, the appellant moved his truck ahead but the crowd stopped him. At the time of the incident, there was no Khalasi in the truck of the deceased. He further stated that PW-3 Ramesh was also sitting in the truck alongwith him but he was not the Khalasi of the truck.

On confrontation, PW-2 Ashok Kumar categorically stated that both the trucks were standing side by side when the incident had occurred and when the police came, the truck of the deceased was at the same location whereas the truck of the assailant/appellant was at some distance. After the assailant was caught, PW-2 went to the house of the deceased to give information about the incident and the family members of the deceased had reached the spot. PW-3 after narrating the incident in the same manner as mentioned in the written report, stated that he alongwith PW-2 Ashok was sitting at a tea stall at the railway crossing. When deceased Ram Aasre reached in his Truck No. UP70 9822, he alongwith Ashok PW-2 sat inside the truck. After the railway crossing was opened, the truck moved forward and at the same time, another truck coming from the opposite side came side by side to the truck being driven by the deceased and the incident had occurred in the manner as had been narrated by them, namely the PW-2 and PW-3 in the written report.

PW-3 had identified his signature both on the written report as 'Exhibit Ka-2' and the inquest. In cross, PW-3 stated that both the truck drivers were fighting while they were inside their truck and no one came down. The assailant driver (appellant) tried to run away by moving his truck after the incident but he was caught by the public. The information of the incident was given by the Gate-man to the police. The suggestion that the deceased had sustained injuries in an accident with the truck being driven by the appellant, had been categorically denied by PW-3, who stated that there was no apparent injury on the head and face of the deceased and that he did not see any other injury apart from one on the neck of the deceased. The information of the incident to the truck owner was given by him and the report of the incident was written by one person present on the spot on their dictation of the whole occurrence. PW-3 stated that they sat on the truck near the crossing and only rear-mirror of the truck was broken. The suggestion that the broken mirrors/glass caused injuries to the deceased resulting in his death had been categorically denied by PW-3. The suggestion of friendship of PW-3 with the deceased was admitted but it was denied that on account of the friendship, false testimony had been given by him.

13. The appellant Kali Prasad, in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., admitted his presence on the spot by stating that his truck was standing at about 10 to 15 paces away from the railway crossing while his Khalasi went to bring the water, who when came back, informed him that one person was hanging on the truck and in the meantime, the crowd came and started questioning the Khalasi and caught hold of him (the appellant) as the Khalasi ran away in the meantime.

14. In light of above noted evidence, the counsels for the appellant argued that there are material contradictions in the statements of PW-2 and PW-3 who were present in the truck of the deceased at the time of the accident. The truck owner examined as PW-4 categorically stated that PW-3 Ramesh Kumar Sharma was Khalasi of the truck whereas for the reasons best known to PW-3, he had denied the said fact. The story created by PW-2 and PW-3 (eye-witnesses) that they were sitting at a tea stall near the railway crossing and sat in the truck immediately before the incident, is unbelievable. It is not understandable as to why these two persons would deny the factum of travelling in the truck along with the deceased. Moreover, they (PW-2 & PW3) themselves stated that the murder had been caused in a fit of rage during the course of oral and physical altercation between the appellant and the deceased. It, therefore, cannot be a case of murder so as to fall within the meaning of Section 302 IPC from any angle, even if, the entire case of the defence is rejected. The trial court has illegally convicted the appellant for the offence under Section 302 IPC completely ignoring the manner in which the incident had occurred.

It is argued that only one blow of knife that too muscle deep wound was found on the person of the deceased but there is no recovery of alleged weapon/knife. The doctor (PW-7), on the other hand, stated in the examination-in-chief that the death was caused due to Coma on account of head injury which was Subdural & Arachnoid Haemorrhage due to broken bones on the left side of the head. Neither it can be found in the statement of the doctor nor it can be said that the injury no. 3, the incised wound, muscle deep on the neck below the lower jaw, was the cause of the death.

15. For the aforesaid, the present case does not fall beyond the scope of the offence under Section 304 Part II, i.e. of causing injuries with the knowledge that it was likely to cause death but without any intention to cause death. The contention is that the conviction of the appellant under Section 302 IPC is a result of misappreciation of the evidence on record. The appellant, at the worst, can be convicted and punished for the offence under Section 304 Part II, maximum sentence for which is 10 years. The appellant has already suffered incarceration for a period of about 9 years as he was lodged in jail in the year 2019 in execution of a non-bailable warrant issued by this Court vide order dated 3.12.2019 and remained in jail uptill the year 1999 when he was granted bail by this Court.

16. According to the learned counsels for the appellant, the total period of incarceration of the appellant is about 9 years. The judgment of the Apex Court in State Tr. P.S. Lodhi Colony, New Delhi vs. Sanjeev Nanda1 was relied to assert that this case would fall within the meaning of 'Death by negligent Act' and can only fall under Section 304 Part II. The sentencing policy approved and adopted by the Courts that the punishment must be appropriate and proportional to the gravity of the offence committed must guide the Court to determine that the offender should be adequately punished for the crime. The punishment of life imprisonment in the facts and circumstances of the case is grave and disproportionate to the offence committed. The factors necessary to be considered while imposing the sentence such as; the nature and circumstance of the offence; the need for the sentence imposed to reflect the seriousness of the offence; to afford adequate deterrence to the conduct and to protect the public from such crime, have been completely ignored by the trial court while convicting the appellant under Section 302 and awarding sentence of life imprisonment.

17. Learned A.G.A., on the other hand, defended the judgment of the trial court with the assertion that with the proven fact that the appellant was caught red handed on the spot, it is established that he had committed the murder with full knowledge and intention as the blow of knife was given by him to cause death of the person who was attacked. There is ample evidence against the appellant and the prosecution has succeeded in proving its case beyond reasonable doubt that the appellant is the perpetrator of the crime. In the light of the oral testimony of the prosecution witnesses (PW-2 and PW-3) and the promptness of the FIR, the arrest of the accused appellant from the spot, there is no scope of interference in the judgment of conviction and sentence passed by the trial court.

18. Having heard learned counsels for the parties and perused the record, as regards the place of occurrence of the incident and the manner in which the incident had occurred, they stand proved with the statements of the prosecution witnesses and other material circumstances on record. The presence of the eye-witnesses (PW-2 and PW-3) on the spot cannot be doubted as they both are witnesses of the written report which was promptly lodged by PW-5, the scribe of the report. It is proved that PW-5 wrote the report, narrating the occurrence, on the dictation of the eye-witnesses (PW-2 and PW-3), after the police reached the spot of the occurrence. The first information of the incident by a memo paper no. 17-Ka/7 (Exhibit Ka-7) was given by the porter Vijay Bahadur of the Railway Station Prayag, Northern Railway, at the GRP Chauki Prayag, Allahabad entry of which was made in the General Diary by PW-6 at about 12:20 Hours on 29.6.1994. Whereas after receipt of the written report, the first information report under Section 154 Cr.P.C. was registered at about 13:30 hours with the preparation of the Check report which fact is proved.

It was proved by PW-8 that on receipt of the memo Exhibit Ka-7, after its entry in the General Diary, he moved to the place of the incident carrying all relevant papers and when he reached at the crossing, lots of crowd was collected and the appellant was handed over to him by the crowd. On narration of the incident by the eye-witnesses, he directed them to write the report. The scribe of the report PW-5 proved that though he wrote the report on the instructions of the Investigating Officer but at the time when the report was scribed on the dictation of the eye-witnesses (PW-2 and PW-3), the Investigating Officer was not present and denied the suggestion that the report was prepared on the dictation of the Investigating Officer. The occurrence of the incident resulting in the homicidal death of deceased Ram Aasre Bhartiya at the railway crossing, inside the truck being driven by him, is proved. It is also proved that the appellant herein namely Kali Prasad is the perpetrator of the crime and the death was caused during an altercation between the appellant and the deceased. All the suggestions given by the defence that it was an accident, are found without any substance. The presence of the eye-witnesses on the spot cannot be doubted and could not be disputed successfully by the defence.

19. In the said situation, the question is as to whether the act of the appellant in causing death of the deceased would amount to murder within the meaning of Section 300 IPC or it is a case of culpable homicide which will not amount to murder attracting punishment under Section 304 IPC. Further question is as to in which part of Section 304 IPC, the offence in question would be punishable, in case, the Court reaches at the conclusion that it was a case of 'culpable homicide not amounting to murder' and not 'murder'.

20. In order to ascertain the same, we are required to go through the legal principles governing the distinction between the provisions under Sections 300 and 302 of the Code on the one hand and Section 304 Part I and Part II of the Code on the other. Section 299 of the Code which deals with the definition of culpable homicide is also to be taken note of.

Sections 299 and 300 of the Indian Penal Code deal with the definitions of 'culpable homicide' and 'murder'; respectively. In terms of Section 299, 'culpable homicide' is described as an act of causing death:- (i) with the intention of causing death, or (ii) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or (iii) with the knowledge that such an act is likely to cause death. As is clear from the reading of this provision, the first part of it emphasises on the expression "intention' while the latter upon "knowledge'. As has been noted in a catena of decisions, both these words denote positive mental attitudes of different degrees. The mental element in "culpable homicide', i.e. the mental attitude towards the consequences of conduct is one of intention and knowledge. Once an offence is caused in any of the above three stated manners, it would be "culpable homicide'.

Section 300, however, deals with "murder'. Though there is no clear definition of "murder' in Section 300 of the Code but as has been held by the Apex Court and reiterated in Rampal Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh2, "culpable homicide' is the genus and "murder' is its species and all "murders' are "culpable homicides' but all "culpable homicides' are not "murders'.

21. Another classification that emerges from the Code is "culpable homicide not amounting to murder", punishable under Section 304 of the Code. There are decisions which also deal with the fine line of distinction between the cases falling under Section 304, Part I and Part II.

22. Dealing with a matter, wherein the question for consideration was whether the offence established by the prosecution against the appellant therein was "murder" or "culpable homicide not amounting to murder", the Apex Court in Vineet Kumar Chauhan vs. State of Uttar Pradesh3 considered its earlier decision in the State of Andhra Pradesh Vs. Rayavarapu Punnayya and Another4, wherein the then Justice R.S. Sarkaria brought out the points of distinction between the two offences under Sections 299 and 300 IPC, reiterating the law laid down in Virsa Singh Vs. State of Punjab5 and Rajwant Singh Vs. State of Kerala6. It was held therein that whenever a Court is confronted with the question whether the offence is "murder" or "culpable homicide not amounting to murder"; on the facts of a case, it will be convenient for it to approach the problem in three stages:- (i) the question to be considered, at the first stage, would be whether the accused has done an act by doing which he has caused the death of another; (ii) proof of such connection between the act of the accused and the death, leads to the second stage for considering whether that act of the accused amounts to "culpable homicide" as defined in Section 299. If the answer to this question is prima facie found in the affirmative, the stage for considering the operation of Section 300 IPC is reached; (iii) the third stage is to determine whether the facts proved by the prosecution bring the case within the ambit of any of the four clauses of the definition of "murder" contained in Section 300. If the answer is in the negative the offence would be "culpable homicide not amounting to murder", punishable under the first or the second part of Section 304, depending, respectively, on whether the second or the third clause of Section 299 is applicable.

Further, if this question is found in the positive, but the case comes within any of the exceptions enumerated in Section 300, the offence would still be "culpable homicide not amounting to murder", punishable under the first part of Section 304 IPC. It was, however, clarified therein that these were only the broad guidelines to facilitate the task of the Court and not cast iron imperative.

23. In Aradadi Ramudu alias Aggiramudu vs. State through Inspector of Police, Yanam7, the question was for modification of sentence from Section 302 to Section 304 Part II. While answering the same, the Apex Court had considered the above noted decisions in Virsa Singh (supra) as also other decisions in line namely State of U.P. v. Indrajeet8; Satish Narayan Sawant vs. State of Goa9 and Arun Raj vs. Union of India10 to note that for modification of sentence from Section 302 to Section 304 Part II, not only should there be an absence of the intention to cause death, but also an absence of intention to cause such bodily injury that in the ordinary course of things was likely to cause death. [Reference Paragraph 16]

Noticing the above noted decisions, in Rampal Singh (supra) the Apex Court had considered the distinction between the terms "murder" and "culpable homicide not amounting to murder". The observation in State of Andhra Pradesh Vs. Rayavarapu Punnayya (supra) was noted in paragraph '13' of Rampal Singh (supra) as under:-

"13. In the case of State of A.P. v. Rayavarapu Punnayya, this Court while clarifying the distinction between these two terms and their consequences, held as under: - "12. In the scheme of the Penal Code, "culpable homicide' is genus and "murder' its species. All "murder' is "culpable homicide' but not vice versa. Speaking generally, ..."culpable homicide not amounting to murder'. For the purpose of fixing punishment, proportionate to the gravity of this generic offence, the Code practically recognises three degrees of culpable homicide. The first is, what may be called "culpable homicide of the first degree'. This is the greatest form of culpable homicide, which is defined in Section 300 as "murder'. The second may be termed as "culpable homicide of the second degree'. This is punishable under the first part of Section 304. Then, there is "culpable homicide of the third degree'. This is the lowest type of culpable homicide and the punishment provided for it is, also, the lowest among the punishments provided for the three grades. Culpable homicide of this degree is punishable under the second part of Section 304."

The guidelines laid down in its earlier decision in Phulia Tudu vs. State of Bihar11 had been noted therein to reiterate that the safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions (Sections 299 and 300) is to keep in focus the key words used in the various clauses of these sections. In paragraph '17', it was noted that :-

"17. Section 300 of the Code states what kind of acts, when done with the intention of causing death or bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause death or causing bodily injury to any person, which is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death or the person causing injury knows that it is so imminently dangerous that it must in all probability cause death, would amount to "murder". It is also "murder" when such an act is committed, without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such bodily injury. The Section also prescribes the exceptions to "culpable homicide amounting to murder". The Explanations spell out the elements which need to be satisfied for application of such exceptions, like an act done in the heat of passion and without pre- mediation. Where the offender whilst being deprived of the power of self-control by grave and sudden provocation causes the death of the person who has caused the provocation or causes the death of any other person by mistake or accident, provided such provocation was not at the behest of the offender himself, "culpable homicide would not amount to murder". This Exception itself has three limitations. All these are questions of facts and would have to be determined in the facts and circumstances of a given case."

It was observed in paragraph '21' in Rampal Singh (supra) that Sections 302 and 304 of the Code are primarily the punitive provisions. An analysis of these two Sections must be done having regard to what is common to the offences and what is special to each one of them. The offence of culpable homicide is, thus, an offence which may or may not be murder. If it is murder, then it is culpable homicide amounting to murder, for which punishment is prescribed in Section 302 of the Code. Section 304 deals with cases not covered by Section 302 and it divides the offence into two distinct classes, i.e. (a) those in which the death is intentionally caused; and (b) those in which the death is caused unintentionally but knowingly. In the former case the sentence of imprisonment is compulsory and the maximum sentence admissible is imprisonment for life. In the latter case, imprisonment is only optional and the maximum sentence only extends to imprisonment for 10 years. The first clause of Section 304 includes only those cases in which offence is really "murder", but mitigated by the presence of circumstances recognized in the Exceptions to Section 300 of the Code, the second clause deals only with the cases in which the accused has no intention of injuring anyone in particular.

In paragraph '22' Rampal Singh (supra), it was observed that where the act is done with the clear intention to kill the other person, it will be a murder within the meaning of Section 300 of the Code and punishable under Section 302 of the Code but where the act is done on grave and sudden provocation which is not sought or voluntarily provoked by the offender himself, the offence would fall under the Exceptions to Section 300 of the Code and is punishable under Section 304 of the Code. Another fine tool which would help in determining such matters is the extent of brutality or cruelty with which such an offence is committed. (emphasis added)

It was, thus, held therein that the distinction between two parts of Section 304 (Part I and Part II) is evident from the very language of this section. While Part I is founded on the intention of causing the act by which the death is caused, the other is attracted when the act is done without any intention but with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death.

It was further observed therein that it is neither advisable nor possible to state any straight-jacket formula that would be universally applicable to all cases for such determination. Every case essentially must be decided on its own merit. The Court has to perform the very delicate function of applying the provisions of the Code to the facts of the case with the clear demarcation as to under what category of cases, the case at hand falls and accordingly, punish the accused.

24. Referring to an earlier decision in Mohinder Pal Jolly vs. State of Punjab12, it was noted in Rampal Singh (supra) that the distinction between two parts of Section 304 has been stated with some clarity therein which reads as under:-

"24. A Bench of this Court in the case of Mohinder Pal Jolly v. State of Punjab [1979 AIR SC 577], stating this distinction with some clarity, held as under :

"11. A question arises whether the appellant was guilty under Part I of Section 304 or Part II. If the accused commits an act while exceeding the right of private defence by which the death is caused either with the intention of causing death or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as was likely to cause death then he would be guilty under Part I. On the other hand if before the application of any of the Exceptions of Section 300 it is found that he was guilty of murder within the meaning of clause "fourthly", then no question of such intention arises and only the knowledge is to be fastened on him that he did indulge in an act with the knowledge that it was likely to cause death but without any intention to cause it or without any intention to cause such bodily injuries as was likely to cause death. There does not seem to be any escape from the position, therefore, that the appellant could be convicted only under Part II of Section 304 and not Part I."

As a guideline as to how the classification of an offence into either Part of Section 304 would be made, it was held in paragraph '25' as under:-

"25. .....xxxxxxxxxxxx.....This would have to be decided with reference to the nature of the offence, intention of the offender, weapon used, the place and nature of the injuries, existence of pre-meditated mind, the persons participating in the commission of the crime and to some extent the motive for commission of the crime. The evidence led by the parties with reference to all these circumstances greatly helps the court in coming to a final conclusion as to under which penal provision of the Code the accused is liable to be punished. This can also be decided from another point of view, i.e., by applying the ''principle of exclusion'. This principle could be applied while taking recourse to a two-stage process of determination. Firstly, the Court may record a preliminary finding if the accused had committed an offence punishable under the substantive provisions of Section 302 of the Code, that is, ''culpable homicide amounting to murder'. Then secondly, it may proceed to examine if the case fell in any of the exceptions detailed in Section 300 of the Code. This would doubly ensure that the conclusion arrived at by the court is correct on facts and sustainable in law.....xxxxx....."

The following observations in paragraph '16' of the decision in Aradadi Ramudu alias Aggiramudu (supra) have been quoted in para '34' to state that while answering the question for modification of sentence from Section 302 of the Code to Part II of Section 304 of the Code, it has to be kept in mind that:-

"not only should there be an absence of the intention to cause death, but also an absence of intention to cause such bodily injury that in the ordinary course of things is likely to cause death."

25. Keeping in mind the guidelines laid down by the Apex Court, in the facts of the present case, the first step in analysis, would be to examine as to whether the appellant had committed an offence punishable under the substantive provisions of Section 302 of the Code, i.e. "culpable homicide amounting to murder".

26. To return a finding on the issue, we have to determine as to whether the act by which the death is caused would fall in any of the four Clauses detailed in Section 300 of the Code.

27. Proceeding in this way in the facts of the instant case, it may be noted that both the accused and the deceased were strangers. There is no whisper in the entire evidence that they were known to each other. They were crossing the railway track while driving their respective trucks when they reached at the middle of the track. The categorical statement of eye-witnesses (PW-2 and PW-3) is that both the trucks were coming from opposite directions and stopped in front of each other and the drivers started arguing as to who would take his truck back.

28. In the examination-in-chief of PW-2, it has come that while holding collars of each other, the appellant and the deceased were abusing each other taking their heads out of the window of the truck. It has also come that they were entangled in physical altercation as well. The statements of the eye-witnesses are consistent to the effect that when the deceased asked the appellant to take his truck back, the appellant replied that he would not take his truck back and that had led to the oral as well as physical altercation between them. When they both were entangled in the fight while being in their respective trucks, the appellant gave a blow of knife to the deceased Ram Aasre in his neck. After giving the knife blow, the appellant tried to flee from the spot and moved his truck forward but because of the speed breaker, the crowd could catch hold of the appellant. PW-2 while giving the description of the knife stated that its butt was of iron and not wood and when the first blow of knife was given, while blood was oozing out, he came down from the truck. It has also come in the evidence of the prosecution witnesses that the deceased was profusely bleeding after getting the knife blow and his neck was hanging from the window of the door of the truck, when the Investigating Officer reached the spot. The doctor who conducted the postmortem had given the cause of death due to Coma as a result of injuries on the head of the deceased which could be found only on the internal examination of the body. The left temporal bone of the head was found broken and Subdural & Arachnoid Haemorrhage was found present in the brain membranes. One knife blow on the neck of the deceased was muscle deep but as per the opinion of the doctor, the said injury itself could not result in the death of the victim.

The Investigating Officer has categorically stated that no apparent injuries were found on the person of the appellant and he was only complaining of pain in various parts of his body, and that as lots of blood was present on the head, face and ear of the deceased, the head injury could not be noticed by him.

29. From the analysis of the above statements of the witnesses, it is clear that there was a heated exchange of words between the deceased and the appellant, the deceased caught hold of the appellant with his collar and they both were entangled in physical altercation when the appellant gave the knife blows. The evidence when examined in its entirety, establish that the appellant had committed the offence without any pre-meditation in a sudden fight in the state of anger and the entire incident happened within a very short span of time. The oral altercation between the appellant and the deceased took an ugly turn when they both caught hold of the collars of each other and the fight between them became physical. The evidence is that while the deceased caught hold of the appellant by his collar, the appellant took out the knife and gave one blow on the neck of the deceased. It also seems most probable that the appellant also hit the head of the deceased with the butt of the knife (of iron) which caused the fracture of the left temporal bone, which had resulted in the death in Coma. The doctor categorically opined that the death in Coma was caused due to the head injury.

30. In the above circumstances, the act of the appellant of 'culpable homicide' causing the death of the other person who gave the provocation, was committed whilst the appellant was deprived of the power of self-control by grave and sudden provocation but the death cannot be said to have been caused by mistake or accident or without the offender having taken undue advantage.

31. Furthermore none of the clauses of Section 300 of the Code are attracted as intention of the appellant to cause death or such bodily injury which he knew would cause the death of the other person or sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, is not proved.

32. The Court, thus, reaches at the answer to the first question that the appellant had not committed an offence within the meaning of Section 300 IPC, i.e., "culpable homicide amounting to murder", which is punishable under Section 302 of the Code. The incident had occurred in a sudden fight, without any premeditation in the state of anger, the offence committed by the appellant, thus, would fall within the meaning of "culpable homicide not amounting to murder" under Section 304 of the Code.

33. A further question then would be whether the appellant is guilty under Part I or Part II of Section 304.

34. As is evident from the record, the appellant gave two blows of knife one on the neck and other on the head of the deceased by butt of the knife during the course of altercation whereas there was no weapon in the hands of the deceased. It, therefore, cannot be said that the death caused by mistake or accident and without the offender having taken undue advantage. The knife with sharp edges is a dangerous weapon and it is obvious that the appellant was aware that the use of such a weapon could cause death. It, thus, proved that there was knowledge on the part of the appellant that if blows of knife that too on the neck and head of the deceased were given, the possibility of the deceased being killed could not be ruled out. But this itself is not necessarily conclusive of the fact that there was an intention on the part of the appellant to kill the deceased. The intention probably was to merely cause bodily injury. This inference has been drawn by the Court looking to the injuries on the head of the deceased which in all probability had been caused by the butt of the knife as also the neck injury which was not fatal but only muscle deep, and that these injuries were caused by the appellant without premeditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel with the deceased, and also the medical opinion that the death had resulted not because of the neck injury but due to the head injury which caused Subdural & Arachnoid Haemorrhage on account of which the deceased went into Coma and died.

35. Considering the weapon used and the place and nature of the injuries, though it is found that the appellant committed the offence without any premeditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel but the same cannot be said to have been done by mistake or accident. The act of the appellant was clearly with the intent to cause bodily injury which could result in the death of the deceased.

It is a case where there may be an absence of the intention to cause death but it is not where there is also an absence of intention to cause such bodily injury as is likely to cause death which in the ordinary course of things is likely to cause death.

36. In view of the above discussion, though we find that the appellant is not guilty of murder under Section 302 of the Code but he is guilty of committing an offence which is punishable under Section 304 Part I of the Code "Culpable homicide not amounting to murder", punishable in the first part (Part I) of Section 304 of the Code.

37. We, therefore, do not agree with the contentions of the learned counsels for the appellant that the offence committed by the appellant would fall in the Second part (Part II) of Section 304 IPC. Having held that the appellant is guilty of the offence under Section 304 Part I, we partially accept this appeal and alter the offence from that of Section 302 of the Code to one under Section 304 Part I of the Indian Penal Code.

Further, giving due consideration to the facts and circumstances of the present case, we find that the sentence of 10 years rigorous imprisonment would be adequate for the offence of which the appellant has been held guilty.

We, therefore, award a sentence of 10 years rigorous imprisonment to the appellant. The judgment under appeal is modified in the above terms.

38. The appellant is in jail. The appellant has been granted bail on 15.4.1999. However, pursuant to the order dated 3.12.2019, in execution of the non-bailable warrant, the appellant was lodged in jail. The bail application filed by appellant on 3.1.2020 has been rejected by this Court vide order dated 19.12.2019. According to the learned counsels for the appellant, the appellant has remained in jail for about a period of nine years.

Be that as it may, the appellant shall serve out the sentence awarded above.

The appeal is allowed in part.

The office is directed to send back the lower court record along with a certified copy of this judgment for information and necessary compliance.

The compliance report be furnished to this Court through the Registrar General, High Court, Allahabad within one month.

THE HON'BLE RAJAN ROY, J.
THE HON'BLE MRS. SAROJ YADAV, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 1255 of 2016

Bablu @ Nand Kumar ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Rehan Ahmad Siddiqui

Counsel for the Respondent:
Shri Chandra Shekhar Pandey, Additional Government Advocate

A. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973-Section 374(2) - Indian Penal Code, 1860-Sections 498-A, 304-B, 323, 326 - Section 4 of D.P. Act-challenge to –conviction-modification of sentence-dying declaration-deceased got burnt in her matrimonial home and died in hospital during treatment-PW-6 recorded the dying declaration in which deceased stated her husband set her ablaze after pouring kerosene oil and nobody was present there-argument about overwriting of time has no force-conviction can be based on dying declaration alone without corroboration if it is trustworthy and genuine-no evidence of demand of dowry as the witness turned hostile-sentence u/s 302 IPC is confirmed.(Para 2 to 29)

B. It is well settled that, as a matter of law, a dying declaration can be acted upon without corroboration. There is not even a rule of prudence which has hardened into a rule of law that a dying declaration cannot be acted upon unless it is corroborated. The primary effort of the court has to be find out whether the dying declaration is true. If it is, no question of corroboration arises. it is only if the circumstances surrounding the dying declaration are not clear or convincing that the court may, for its assurance, look for corroboration to the dying declaration. (Para 18)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Saroj Yadav J.)

1. This criminal appeal has been filed by the appellant/convict Bablu @ Nand Kumar against the judgement and order dated 14.7.2016 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge/Court No.VIII, District Faizabad in Sessions Trial No.57 of 2015 convicting and sentencing the appellant under Section 304-B of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (in short 'I.P.C.') with life-imprisonment, under Section 323 I.P.C. with six months' imprisonment and fine of Rs.500/-and in default of fine, one month's additional simple imprisonment, under Section 326 I.P.C. with seven years' imprisonment and fine of Rs.10,000/- and in default of fine, six months' additional simple imprisonment, under Section 498-A I.P.C. with two years' imprisonment and fine of Rs.5,000/- and in default of fine, three months' additional simple imprisonment, under Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act with one year's imprisonment and fine of Rs.1,000/- and in default of fine, two months' additional simple imprisonment.

The main grounds of challenge in memo of appeal are that the impugned judgement and order is not sustainable in the eye of law and deserves to be quashed because the trial court has awarded maximum punishment provided under Section 304-B I.P.C. Prosecution witnesses have not supported the prosecution story. The statement-in-chief and cross-examination of the prosecution witnesses are contradictory but this aspect has not been considered by the learned trial court. The offences under Section 498-A, 304-B, 323 and 326 I.P.C. and Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act (in short 'D.P.Act.') are not made out against the appellant. The statements of prosecution witnesses are highly doubtful. The learned trial court has not considered the arguments of the appellant and evidence on record, in the right perspective. Learned trial court has failed to apply its judicial mind while passing the conviction order. No independent witness was examined by the prosecution. The learned trial court has committed illegality in disbelieving the defence version. There is no eye-witness of the crime. The appellant is innocent and has committed no crime. The trial court has wrongly disbelieved the evidence of appellant and the fact that he himself got burnt while trying to save the life of his wife, the deceased.

2. The facts necessary for disposal of this appeal in short are as under :-

An F.I.R. was registered at Case Crime No.592/2014 on the basis of written report dated 5.11.2014 submitted by the complainant Raghuveer at Police Station Kotwali Ayodhya, Faizabad. it was mentioned in the written report that daughter of the complainant named Saloni aged about 24 years was married to Bablu @ Nand Kumar about 4 years' back according to Hindu customs and rites. The appellant and other family members used to harass her for extra dowry and asked for motorcycle and Rs.20,000/- in cash and other goods. Deceased Saloni used to tell about this to her mother and the complainant whenever she came to her parental home. Bablu @ Nand Kumar told her that he will go on 1.11.2014 to the parental house of the deceased and if the demands were not fulfilled, then he will beat and burn the deceased after pouring kerosene oil. The complainant tried to fulfil the demands of the appellant and his family members but on 2.11.2014, Bablu set ablaze the daughter of the complainant after pouring kerosene oil. His daughter was being treated in burn-ward of Faizabad Hospital.

3. After investigation, chargesheet was submitted against the appellant/convict only, under Sections 323, 326, 498-A, 304-B I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of the D.P. Act. The concerned magistrate took cognizance and committed the case to the court of Sessions for trial. The Sessions Court framed charge under Section 304-B I.P.C. and in alternative, charge under Section 302 I.P.C. The charges under sections 498-A, 323, 326 of I.P.C. and under Section 4 of the D.P.Act were also framed.

4. The prosecution in order to prove its case, examined seven witnesses in toto. These witnesses are P.W.-1 Raghuveer the complainant, P.W.-2 Renu the sister of the deceased, P.W.-3 Smt. Kunta Devi mother of the deceased, P.W.-4 Rajendra Kumar Nishad a witness of the vicinity, P.W.-5 Dr. Vipin Kumar who conducted the post mortem on the cadaver of the deceased, P.W.-6 Shri Vinit Kumar Naib Tehsildar who recorded the dying declaration of the deceased and P.W.-7 Shri Dinesh Kumar Dwivedi, Circle Officer who investigated the case. Apart from oral evidence, documents, Exhibit Ka-1 to Exhibit Ka-10 were also proved. The genuineness of chargesheet Exhibit Ka-7, carbon copy of concerned G.D. Exhibit Ka-9, Specimen seal Exhibit Ka-11, information of death by medical officer Exhibit Ka-12, Memo regarding death of the victim Exhibit Ka-13, Police Papers Exhibit Ka-16 and Exhiit Ka-17, Exhibit Ka-14, Exhibit Ka-15 and Exhibit Ka-18 were not disputed by the counsel of the appellant and made endorsement on these documents to that effect. Thereafter, the statement of the appellant/ convict was recorded under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure,1973 (in short 'Cr.P.C.') firstly on 2.1.2016 wherein the convict denied the fact of torturing the deceased for non fulfilment of demand of dowry and the unnatural death of his wife. He also stated that the witnesses had deposed falsely and refused to adduce any evidence in defence. He also stated that he is innocent, and also that he got burnt while trying to save his wife and remained hospitalised for nine days and was still not well completely. The additional statement of appellant/ convict under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded on 25.3.2016 wherein he was asked specifically about dying declaration of the deceased and he stated that dying declaration was recorded illegally. The certificate from the doctor appears to be taken afterwards and there is over-writing on timing. The deceased has given no statement against him and the statement was recorded of someone else maliciously. He has also stated that investigating officer has submitted the chargesheet without any basis. The complainant and other witnesses of facts have stated nothing against him and all have stated that the appellant is innocent. The dying declaration is forged and witnesses P.W.-6 and P.W.-7 have given false evidence against law. He also stated that he wanted to adduce evidence in defence. He got examined D.W.-1 Dr. Hari Om Srivastava in defence.

5. After hearing the arguments of both the sides, on the basis of evidence available on record, the trial court came to the conclusion that the delay in lodging the F.I.R. has been explained by the father of the deceased who is complainant of the case. It is also proved that the deceased died an unnatural death i.e. due to burn injuries which have been proved by the doctor P.W.-5. who conducted the post mortem on the cadaver of the deceased. It is also proved that the incident took place within seven years of marriage of the deceased with the appellant/convict. As far as the demand of dowry and act of cruelty in that regard soon before the death is concerned, the father of the deceased who has been examined as P.W.-1 has proved very well all these facts in his examination-in-chief though in his cross examination, he has not supported what he has stated in the examination-in-chief but has proved Exhibit Ka-1 his written report, lodged by him. Other witnesses of facts examined as P.W.-2, P.W.-3 and P.W.-4 have turned hostile but there is no contradiction on the point that the deceased Saloni was married to Bablu @ Nand Kumar and her parents gave dowry according to their capacity. There is no dispute that the deceased died of burn-injuries. The accused has nowhere stated in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that he never demanded any dowry and his wife Saloni got burnt herself or was set-ablaze by someone else or accidentally, he has only stated that he is innocent and he also got burnt while trying to save his wife. The incident took place in the matrimonial home of the deceased so the persons living in the matrimonial home should have explained the real cause of burn i.e. how she got burnt but nothing has been stated by the appellant/convict in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. explaining or disclosing the fact how the deceased got burnt. The deceased in her dying declaration has stated that the appellant/convict poured kerosene-oil over her and set her ablaze. When the deceased was asked, that did anybody else torture or harass her, she denied and categorically answered that only Bablu her husband, was there and he burnt her after dousing with kerosene oil. The learned trial court has further concluded that the dying declaration has been proved by P.W.-6 Shri Vinit Kumar, Naib Tehsidar and it is also proved that dying declaration was recorded after following required formalities. The deceased has also told P.W.-6 that appellant/convict used to beat her everyday after consuming liquor. The deceased has not implicated anybody else except her husband. The trial court relied upon the dying declaration of deceased as well as on examination-in-chief of the P.W.-1 the complainant and also the medical witness P.W.-5 who conducted the post-mortem and appellant has been convicted under Sections 304-B, 323, 326, 498-A of I.P.C. and also under Section 4 of the D.P.Act.

6. Being aggrieved of his conviction, this appeal has been preferred.

7. Heard Shri Rehan Ahmad Siddiqui assisted by Mohd. Ehsan and Shri Chandra Shekhar Pandey, learned Additional Government Advocate for the respondent State.

8. Learned counsel for the appellant/convict during arguments, emphasised on the point that the extreme punishment has been awarded by the trial court under Section 304-B I.P.C. and it is not a case deserving the extreme punishment. The minimum punishment under Section 304-B is seven years and the appellant/ convict has already undergone a period of nine and a half years, so his sentence i.e. imprisonment for life under Section 304-B, be converted into the period undergone by him.

9. Learned counsel for the appellant/convict also submitted that P.W.-2 Renu, sister of the deceased, P.W.-3 Kunta, mother of the deceased who are witnesses of facts have turned hostile. Even P.W.-1 Raghuveer, the complainant, father of the deceased has given contradictory statement, to what What he has stated in his examination-in -chief and written in written report Exhibit ka-1 on the basis of which F.I.R. was registered.

10. Learned counsel also assailed the dying declaration of the deceased by arguing that dying declaration was not recorded after following all due formalities. The deceased was burnt upto 95%, so she was not in a position to give a dying declaration, hence the sentence should be modified to that effect.

11. Learned counsel for the appellant/convict relied upon the following case laws :-

(b). Hem Chand Vs. State of Haryana reported in (1994) 6 SCC 727.

(c). G.V. Siddaramesh Vs. State of Karnataka.

reported in (2010) 3 SCC 152.

(d) Govind Singh Vs. State of Chattishgarh

(2019) 17 SCC 812.

(e). Amrish Kumar Kashyap Vs. State of U.P. reported in Criminal Appeal Nos.303 and 316 of 2016 decided on 4.5.2016.

(f). Ashadeen and others Vs. State of U.P

reported in 2018 (102) ACC 807.

(g). Mahesh Vs. State of U.P. reported in 2017(6) ALJ 75.

(h). Pravin Khimji Chauhan Vs. The State of Maharashtra reported in Criminal Appeal NO.978 of 2012 decided on 15.2.2022.

12. To the contrary, learned A.G.A. Shri Chandra Shekhar Pandey submitted that there is evidence that the appellant set ablaze the deceased after dousing with kerosene oil, so it is a case of murder and appellant/convict should have been punished under Section 302 I.P.C. instead of under Section 304-B I.P.C. He also argued that dying declaration of the deceased was recorded promptly by authorised executive magistrate i.e. Naib Tehsildar after observing all due formalities. He took certificate of the doctor before recording the dying declaration and also at completion. The dying declaration is genuine, as the deceased very genuinely stated that the appellant/convict set her ablaze after dousing her with kerosene oil. She had not named any other family member of the convict, hence the appeal should be dismissed as minimum punishment under Section 302 I.P.C. is life imprisonment.

12. Considered the rival submissions of the learned counsel of the parties and perused the original record.

13. Evidence available on record reveals that there is no dispute about the fact that the deceased was married with appellant/convict about 4 years back of the incident and she got burnt in her matrimonial home on 2.11.2014 at the time mentioned in the F.I.R. and subsequently died of burn injuries on 9.11.2014 in hospital during treatment. Only fact remains how she got burnt or who burnt her. In this regard, P.W.-1, the complainant father of the deceased has proved in his examination-in-chief that he solemenised marriage of his daughter with the appellant/convict after giving dowry according to his status/capacity but the appellant/convict demanded extra dowry after marriage and started torturing and harassing the deceased and continuously harassed and tortured her for dowry and ultimately set her ablaze after dousing her with kerosene oil. He has proved his written report Exhibit Ka-1 and also proved his signature on it. He has explained the reason for delay in lodging the F.I.R. that he remained busy in treatment of her daughter so could not lodge the F.I.R. promptly. It is proved that deceased was admitted in the hospital after she got burnt, on the same night. The hospital authority informed the executive authority for recording her dying declaration. P.W.-6 Naib Tehsildar reached the hospital to record the same on the same night. He recorded the dying declaration after taking fitness certificate from the doctor and he got it certified after completion of dying declaration that the deceased was fit for giving the statement. The thumb impression of the deceased put on the Dying declaration is not in shape which shows that it was in burnt condition. On behghalf of the appellant/convict, no suggestion has been made to P.W.-6 Naib Tehsildar that the thumb impression is not of the deceased rather it has been suggested that the thumb impression of the patient was taken afterwards, after getting the dying declaration prepared somewhere else. Perusal of dying declaration Exhibit Ka-6 shows that it is in question answer form and very precise. The deceased has categorically stated that her husband Bablu set her ablaze after pouring kerosene oil. She has also stated that nobody else was present there. She has not implicated any other person or family member of the appellant/convict. On being asked, she has answered that she has two children, one daughter and one son. The daughter is elder and the son is younger. On being asked, she has also stated that the appellant/convict used to abuse her and beat her daily after consuming liquor. Again, upon being asked, she has stated that none else used to torture her. The dying declaration has been duly proved by P.W.-6 though there is an over writing on time but P.W.-6 has explained it and denied the suggestion that dying declaration was written at the house of the witness. The certificate of the doctor shows the time of starting as 11.35 P.M. and 11.50 P.M. as time of completion. In such a situation, this argument about over writing of time has no force.

15. It is settled law that the conviction can be based on dying declaration alone without corroboration if the court finds the dying declaration trusthworthy and genuine.

16. In Jayamma and another Vs. State of Karnataka (supra), the Hon'ble Apex Court after quoting the principles regarding dying declaration, summarised by the Apex Court in Shyam Shanker Kankariya Vs. State of Maharashthra (2006) 13 SCC 165 has observed that "it goes without saying that when the dying declaration has been recorded in accordance with law, and it gives a cogent and plausible explanation of the occurrence, the court can rely upon it as the solitary piece of evidence to convict the accused."

17. In Shyam Shanker's case (supra), Hon'ble Apex Court has summarised the principles governing dying declaration as follows :-

"11. .... (i). There is neither rule of law nor of prudence that dying declaration cannot be acted upon without corroboration.

(ii). If the Court is satisfied that the dying declaration is true and voluntary it can base conviction on it, without corroboration.

(iii). The court has to scrutinize the dying declaration carefully and must ensure that the declaration is not the result of tutoring, prompting or imagination. the deceased had an opportunity to observe and identify the assailants and was in a fit state to make the declaration.

(iv). Where dying declaration is suspicious, it should not be acted upon without corroborative evidence.

(v). Where the deceased was unconscious and could never make any dying declaration the evidence with regard to it is to be rejected.

(vi). A dying declaration which suffers from infirmity cannot form the basis of conviction.

(vii). Merely because a dying declaration does not contain the details as to the occurrence, it is not to be rejected.

(viii). Equally, merely because it is brief statement, it is not to be discarded. On the contrary, the shortness of the statement itself guarantees truth.

(ix). Normally the court in order to satisfy whether the deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration look up to the medical opinion. But where the eyewitness has said that the deceased was in a fit and conscious state to make the dying declaration, the medical opinion cannot prevail.

(x). Where the prosecution version differs from the version as given in the dying declaration, the said declaration cannot be acted upon.

(xi). Where there are more than one statement in the nature of dying declaration, one first in point of time must be preferred. Of course, if the plurality of dying declaration could be held to be trustworthy and reliable, it has to be accepted."

18. In State of U.P. Vs. Ram Sagar Yadav and others : 1985(1) SCC 552, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under :-

"13. It is well-settled that, as a matter of law, a dying declaration can be acted upon without corroboration. There is not even a rule of prudence which has hardened into a rule of law that a dying declaration cannot be acted upon unless it is corroborated. The primary effort of the court has to be to find out whether the dying declaration is true. If it is, no question of corroboration arises. It is only if the circumstances surrounding the dying declaration are not clear or convincing that the court may, for its assurance, look for corroboration to the dying declaration."

19. In the present matter, as noted above, dying declaration Exhibit Ka-6 has been duly proved by the executive magistrate who recorded the same and certificate of fitness has been obtained before starting and after completion. This dying declaration was recorded at the time when even F.I.R. was not lodged by the father or any other kith and kin of the deceased. She was admitted in a burnt state in the hospital and hospital authority sent information to the executive authority for recording the same. So there remains no possibility that dying declaration was recorded at the behest of the kith and kin of the deceased or after tutoring by any kith and kin of the deceased. The dying declaration is in question answer form and a very genuine dying declaration wherein deceased has implicated only the culprit and none else. This dying declaration is worthy of credence and it raises confidence of the court that it is genuine and is not a result of tutoring.

20. The case laws Jayamma and another Vs. State of Karnataka (supra) cited by the learned counsel for the appellant/convict is of no help to appellant/convict because in Jayamma's case (supra), the Hon'ble Apex Court found that direct or indirect dominance of the police officer appears to have influenced the answers only in one direction. The narration of events were so accurate that even a witness in the normal state of mind cannot be expected to narrate. The person making statement was very old to narrate the incident with precision as what was made. There was sufficient evidence that the victim was under the effect of sedative pain killers. The dying declaration was recorded by a police officer and not by an executive or judicial magistrate. There were contradictions in the statement of the doctor and the police officer recording the statement. The thumb impression of the victim allegedly put on the dying declaration was very natural. There was no sign of burnt on the thumb impression. The police officer did not take the certificate of witnesses before recording the dying declaration. Judicial or executive magistrate was not called for recording of dying declaration though there was opportunity. In the present matter, dying declaration was recorded by executive magistrate and after taking fitness certificate, before starting recording of dying declaration and also after completion of the dying declaration. The deceased was a young lady married with appellant/convict just 3-4 years ahead of the incident.

21. Hem Chand's case(supra) is also of no help to the appellant/ conviction because in that case, the accused was held guilty on the basis of presumption raised under Section 113-B of the Indian Evidence Act, therefore the Hon'ble Apex Court converted the sentence of life imprisonment into 10 years' imprisonment but in the present case, the evidence on record is there that the deceased was set ablaze by the appellant/convict. The dying declaration is a genuine one, having won confidence of the court.

22. In Govind Vs. State of Chattishgarh (supra), during the verbal quarrel, accused threw chimni lamp on the deceased resulting in burn injury to the deceased. Since the incident took place at the spur of moment, so the apex court converted the sentence awarded under Section 302 I.PC. to Section 304(2) of I.P.C. The situation in the present case is altogether different. There is evidence on record that the appellant/ convict used to beat and abuse the deceased everyday after consuming liquor.

23. Similarly, rest of the case laws cited on behalf of the appellant/convict are of no help due to the difference in facts and circumstances of the present case.

24. In the matter at hand, dying declaration was recorded by the executive magistrate upon the information received from hospital authorities. the dying declaration is a genuine and trustworthy and inspires confidence in the court. It was a fit case where the Sessions Judge ought to have convicted the appellant/convict under Section 302 I.P.C. i.e. for the alternative charge already framed instead of convicting under Section 304-B I.P.C. However, the Sessions Judge has awarded maximum punishment provided under Section 304-B I.P.C. i.e. sentence for life imprisonment, that is very well warranted considering the facts and circumstances and evidence available on record.

25. Now considering all the facts and circumstances of the case, analysed as above, we deem it fit to modify the finding of the trial court to the effect that the appellant/ convict is guilty of offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C. for alternative charge already framed and the punishment awarded by the trial court for life imprisonment to the appellant is confirmed under Section 302 I.P.C.instead of under Section 304-B I.P.C. for the reasons that, there is evidence on record which indicates that the deceased was burnt alive by the appellant and appellant alone. The dying declaration of the deceased noted and analysed above has established beyond reasonable doubt, the guilt of the appellant. The dying declaration is trustworthy and genuine. There is nothing on the record to doubt the credibility of the dying declaration made by the deceased. Here we made it clear that it is not an enhancement of punishment as the trial court has already awarded sentence of imprisonment for life.

26. However, the sentences awarded under Section 323, 326, 498-A I.P.C. and under Section 4 of the D.P. Act are not sustainable. The appellant cannot be convicted under Section 323 and 326 I.P.C. for inflicting simple and grievous injuries on the person of the deceased if he is being punished under Section 302 I.P.C. for causing death.

27. In Sundar Singh and others Vs. State of U.P 1954 SCC Online Allahabad 30 (FB), the Full Bench of this Court has observed as under :-

"23. Every offence, i.e., a separate offence, has a distinct, punishment prescribed for it. There are, however, certain exceptions whereby a series of successive offences have to be treated as "one offence" for the purposes of punishment; apart from this rule, or exception, a man is answerable & punishable for each offence that he commits. A man who sets upon another with a lathi and beats him with it by delivering successive blows is, strictly speaking, guilty of so many separate offences as the blows that he delivers.

"24. If a man causes simple hurt by one blow and grievous hurt by another, then he can be convicted but not punished both under Sections 323 and 325, I.P.C. Section 235, Criminal P.C., makes provision for the trial of a person for more offences than one when such offences are committed during the course of the "same transaction", though at the same time a man may be tried for acts constituting one offence as also constituting another offence when combined together. Sub-section (4) of this section, however, says : "Nothing contained in this section shall affect the Indian Penal Code, 1860, Section 71."

25. Section 71 of the Penal Code, is in these words :

"Where anything which is an offence is made up of parts, any of which parts is itself an offence, the offender shall not be punished with the punishment of more than one of such his offences, unless it be so expressly provided.

Where anything is an offence falling within two or more separate definitions of any Law in force for the time being by which offences are defined or punished, or

Where several acts of which one or more than one would by itself or themselves constitute an offence, constitute, when combined, a different offence, the offender shall not be punished with a more severe punishment than the court which tries him could award for any one of such offences."

26. This section provides two illustrations. Illustration (a) is worded thus :

"A gives Z fifty strokes with a stick. Here A may have committed the offence of voluntarily causing hurt to Z by the whole beating, and also by each of the blows which make up the whole beating. If A were liable to punishment for every blow, he might be imprisoned for fifty years, one for each blow. But he is liable only to one punishment for the whole beating."

27. This illustration, to my mind, clearly indicates the scope and the true meaning of the first part of Section 71. The meaning of the important word in that section, namely, the word "parts" has got to be understood in the light of this illustration, otherwise, there is likely to be, as unfortunately there has been, a complete misunderstanding of the meaning which the Legislature intended for that word, or the sense in which that word was used by the Legislature in that section.

28. The second illustration, namely, illustration (b) is in these words :

"But if, while A is beating Z, Y interferes, and A intentionally strikes Y, here, as the blow given to Y is no part of the act whereby A voluntarily causes hurt to Z, A is liable to one punishment for voluntarily causing hurt to Z, and to another for the blow given to Y."

29. This illustration further clarifies the position, for it makes it clear that when an offence is committed by an individual as against two separate persons, though, broadly speaking, both the offences may have been committed during the course of one transaction, he is made liable for the assault on both the individuals. It is Important to note that the first part of Section 71, I.P.C., really deals with a case in which the whole of the act is punishable under the same section or under allied sections, namely, where a series of offences partake of the same nature. This part of the section, to my mind, does not deal with a case where a part of man's action constitutes one kind of offence and another part of his action, though committed in a sequence in the course of one transaction, falls under another section, not allied.

30. The second part of Section 71 of the Code makes provision for a contingency when the same act constitutes more offences than one."

28. There is no evidence of demand of dowry as the witnesses produced to establish the fact have turned hostile. hence, the conviction under Section 4 of The Dowry Prohibition Act is also set aside.

29. To sum up, the appellant is held guilty for the offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C., for alternative charge already framed and the sentence of life imprisonment awarded by the trial court is hereby confirmed but under Section 302 I.P.C. instead of under Section 304-B I.P.C. The conviction of the appellant/convict U/S 323, 326 and 498-A I.P.C. and U/s 4 of The Dowry Prohibition Act is hereby set aside.

29. The appeal is partly allowed, accordingly.

30. Since the the appellant/ convict is already in jail, he shall serve his sentence in jail, confirmed hereinabove.

31. Let copy of this judgement alongwith original record of trial court be sent to the trial court concerned for information and necessary action.

THE HON'BLE RAMESH SINHA, J.
THE HON'BLE MRS. SAROJ YADAV, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 1314 of 2005
connected with
Criminal Appeal No. 1529 of 2005

Sri Kant & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri Anurag Shukla

Counsel for the Respondent:
Sri Umesh Chandra Verma, Additional Govt. Advocate

A. Criminal Law -Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973-Section 374(2) - Indian

Penal Code, 1860-Sections 302/34 & 323/34-Challenge to-conviction-motive-PW-2 the complainant hearing the noise of altercation over thorny bushes reached the spot where the accused persons were beating the deceased with lathi-danda, meanwhile the other two accused fired upon the deceased of which he died-one appellant was not aware of the fact that the co-appellants will cause death by firing upon the deceased-Hence, this appellant deserves the benefit of doubt and held liable only for the offence under 323 IPC for causing simple injuries to the complainant-While the other co-convicts have rightly been found guilty and punished u/s 302 r/w 34 IPC-The sentence awarded to them by the trial court is hereby affirmed.(Para 1 to 44)

B. The intendment of Section 34 IPC is to remove the difficulties in distinguishing the acts of individual members of a party, acting in furtherance of a common intention. There has to be a simultaneous conscious mind of the persons participating in the criminal action of bringing about a particular result. A common intention qua its existence is a question of fact and also requires an act " in furtherance of the said intention". One need not search for a concrete evidence, as it is for the court to come to a conclusion on a cumulative assessment. It is only a rule of evidence and thus does not create any substantive offence.(Para 35 to 37)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saroj Yadav, J.)

1. The Criminal Appeal No.1314 of 2005 has been filed by the appellants/ convicts Sri Kant and Ram Lakhan and the Criminal Appeal No.1529 of 2005 by appellants/ convicts Kamla Kant and Sunil Kant, being aggrieved of the judgement and order dated 30.9.2005 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/ F.T.C. No.1, Hardoi in Sessions Trial No.257 of 2002 and 252 of 2003 jointly, whereby the appellants/ convicts have been awarded a sentence for life imprisonment under Section 302/34 of the Indian Penal Code (in short 'I.P.C.') and imprisonment of six months under Section 323/34 I.P.C.

2. Since appellant Ram Lakhan died during pendency of the appeal, appeal filed by him stood abated vide order dated 22.7.2019 passed by this court.

3. The facts necessary for disposal of these appeals, shorn of unnecessary details are as under :-

4. A First Information Report (in short 'F.I.R.') was registered at Case Crime No.128 of 2001 under Section 302/323/504 I.P.C. against the appellants/ convicts at Police Station Harpalpur, District Hardoi on the basis of a written report submitted by the complainant Ram Babu Shukla. It was stated in the written report that Anoop Kumar son of Natthu belonging to the family of complainant, put some thorny bushes at the boundary of own paddy-field. Due to this, a way was created through the field of Hari Babu so his cousin Hari Babu during day time at about 1.00 P.M. went to the field to remove thorny bushes on the boundary of the field. As soon as he started removing the thorny bushes, Sri Kant, Kamla Kant and Sunil Kant son of Ram Chandra and Ram Lakhan son of Devi Sahai reached there and started abusing and beating Hari Babu with sticks (lathis). Hearing the noise, he, Natthu Singh and Ram Avtaar resident of same village, reached the spot. As soon as he reached on the spot Ram Lakhan and Sri kant started beating him also, with sticks and Sunil Kant and Kamla Kant fired on Hari Babu with country made pistols. Hari Babu sustained injuries on his stomach and on left side of the head. As soon as fire hit Hari Babu, he ran to save himself towards the grove of Babu Singh, he fell down and died there. Thereafter all the above four miscreants went away towards their own house and the dead body was lying in the grove.

5. After investigation, chargesheet no.96/2001 was submitted in the court against Kamla Kant, Sunil Kant and Sri Kant under Section 302, 323/34 I.P.C.; and chargesheet No.96-A/2001 against Ram Lakhan.

6. After taking cognizance, concerned Magistrate committed both the cases to Sessions court for trial where the case against Sri Kant, Kamla and Sunil Kant was registered as Sessions Trial No.257 of 2002 and against Ram Lakhan, Sessions Trial No.292/2002. Both the sessions trials were consolidated and tried together. Charges were framed against appellants/ convicts. They denied the charges and claimed to be tried.

7. In order to prove the charges levelled against the appellants/ convicts, the prosecution examined seven witnesses in toto. These seven witnesses are :-

(i). P.W.-1 Natthu Lal, alleged eye witness.

(ii). P.W.-2 Ram Babu Shukla, the complainant and the injured eye witness.

(iii). P.W.-3 Dr. V.V. Tripathi, Autopsy Surgeon who conducted postmortem on the cadaver of the deceased.

(iv). P.W.-4 Raja Ram Singh, the third investigating officer who investigated the case partially.

(v). P.W.-5 Har Narain Singh, second investigating officer who investigated the case partially.

(vi). P.W.-6 Suresh Pal, first investigating officer who did investigation, initially.

(vii). P.W.-7 Dr. C.P.Rawat who medically examined the injured.

8. Apart from the above oral evidences, relevant documents were also proved and exhibited as under :-

(i). Exhibit Ka-1- Written report.

(ii). Exhibit Ka-2 - Post Mortem Report.

(iii). Exhibit Ka-3- Chargesheet No.96 of 2001 submitted against Kamla Kant, Sunil Kant and Sri Kant.

(iv). Exhibit Ka-4- Chargesheet No.96A/2001 against appellant/convict. Ram Lakhan.

(v). Exhibit Ka-5 - F.I.R.

(vi). Exhibit Ka-6 - Copy of the relevant G.D. of registration of F.I.R.

(vii). Exhibit Ka-7 - Inquest report.

(viii). Exhibit Ka-8- 'Photo Nash'.

(x). Exhibit Ka-10 - Letter to C.M.O. for conducting autopsy.

(xi). Exhibit Ka-11- Police form No.13 containing the information regarding the case, while sending the dead-body for post mortem.

(xii). Exhibit Ka -12 - Challan 'Laash'.

(xiii). Exhibit Ka-13 - Site-plan of the spot.

(xiv). Exhibit Ka-14-recovery-memo of collection of blood soaked soil and plain soil from the spot.

(xv). Exhibit Ka-15 - Injury report of Ram Babu Shukla, the complainant.

(xvi). Exhibit Ka-16 report of forensic science lab of examination of blood soaked soil and plain soil collected from the spot.

9. After completion of the prosecution evidence, the statements of appellants/ convicts were recorded under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (in short 'Cr.P.C.') wherein they denied the crime and submitted that witnesses have deposed falsely.

10. Appellant/convict Sri Kant submitted that the case was registered due to enmity and refused to give any evidence in defence. Appellant Sunil Kant and Kamla Kant also stated that the case was lodged due to enmity. Appellant Kamla Kant also refused to give any evidence in defence but Sunil Kant stated that he wants to produce evidence in defence. Appellant/ convict Ram Lakhan also stated that the case was lodged due to enmity and he was not at the spot. He was in the temple at the relevant time and he has been implicated falsely. He also wished to produce evidence in defence.

11. No witness was produced in defence by either of the appellants/ convicts, though opportunity was given. The learned trial court after hearing the arguments of both the sides on the basis of the evidence available on record came to the conclusion that the evidence of P.W.-1 Ram Babu Shukla who is an injured witness and also the complainant is trustworthy. He did not name the other two brothers of the appellants/ convicts Sri Kant, Kamla Kant and Sunil Kant. Only those were named who caused the incident. No motive of false implication could be established by the appellants/ convicts. The challan under Section 107/116 of the Cr.P.C. which has been filed by the appellants/ convicts was subsequent to the present F.I.R. hence have no importance. The witnesses should not be counted but the evidence should be weighed. If the sole witness gives a truthful account of the incident, he should be believed. Hence the trial court held the appellants/ convicts guilty under Section 302 and 323 readwith Section 34 I.P.C. and punished them accordingly.

12. Being aggrieved of this judgement and order, these criminal appeals have been filed. The appellants/ convicts have challenged the impugned judgement in the memo of appeals mainly on the ground that the learned lower court has passed the entire judgement on the sole testimony of P.W.-1 Ram Babu Shukla whereas considering in totality this evidence, in the light of factual scenario of the case, it is manifest that he (P.W.-1) was not present at the place of the occurrence and he was not an eye-witness of the case. P.W.-1 Natthu Lal, the independent witness did not support the happening of the alleged occurrence. The alleged eye witness Ram Avtar was not produced in the court. In the post-mortem-report, a single firearm injury was found on the dead body of the deceased Hari Babu and no injury of 'lathi' or 'danda' was found. P.W.-2 Ram Babu Shukla himself made superficial injury on his person, as his medical-examination was conducted after four days of the alleged incident. The appellants/ convicts were implicated due to the enmity and the judgement and order is based on conjectures and surmises, and should be set aside.

13. Heard Shri R.K.Dwivedi, learned Amicus Curiae on behalf of the appellant no.1/Kamla Kant and appellant no.2 /Sunil Kant in Criminal Appeal No.1529 of 2005, Shri Anurag Shukla, learned counsel for the appellant no.1/Sri Kant in Criminal appeal no.1314 of 2005 and Shri Umesh Chandra Verma, learned Additional Government Advocate for the respondent/ State.

14. The learned Amicus Curiae on behalf of the appellant Kamla Kant and Sunil Kant submitted that the F.I.R. was lodged after an inordinate delay and the same was ante-time. The F.I.R. was not forwarded to the concerned Magistrate forthwith. Pramod, Kumar Bajpai, scribe of the written report was not produced in the witness-box by the prosecution. The process of inquest was made with inordinate delay. Constable clerk Shakti Deen, scribe of the chik F.I.R. was not produced in the witness box by the prosecution. The witnesses of the recovery of the blood stain soil and plain soil have not been produced in the witness-box by the prosecution. The medical evidence belies the ocular testimony. According to the post-mortem-report, Exhibit Ka-2 as well as the testimony of P.W.-3 Autopsy Surgeon, no injuries of 'lathi'-danda' were found on the person of the deceased while the complainant has stated that the appellants/convicts beat the deceased with lathis and dandas also. In the injury report of injured Ram Babu Shukla, the doctor P.W.-7 has only indicated colour of the injury no.1 and 4 and he has not indicated colour of other injuries which creates a serious doubt about the existence of said injuries on the person of the injured. There are major contradictions in the testimonies of P.W.-2, P.W.-3, P.W.-6 and P.W.-7. There are major contradictions in the testimony of P.W.-2 itself. No independent witness has supported the prosecution case. P.W.-2 Ram Babu Shukla, is a related and interested witness. His presence on the spot is doubtful. No blood stain on 'Makka', 'Chari' or 'paddy' crops were found. No paddy crop was found by the investigating-officer P.W.-6 in any of the fields near the spot as alleged by P.W.-2. No weapon of assault was recovered by the investigating-officer either from the possession of the appellants/ convicts or on their pointing out. No blood was found on the spot over which the dead body of the deceased was lying. In the site-plan, Exhibit Ka-13 no tree has been shown by the investigating-officer in the grove of Babu Singh where the deceased allegedly fell down and died. It indicates that the site-plan was not prepared by the investigating-officer on the spot at the pointing out of the complainant P.W.-2 and a concocted story has been hatched after the recovery of the dead-body of the deceased who was murdered at some lonely place in the night by some unknown miscreants in the dark hours and the assailants fled away from the spot and the appellants/ convicts were implicated falsely on account of village party-bandi and enmity.

15. Shri Rajesh Kumar Dwivedi, learned Amicus Curiae relied upon the following case laws :-

ii). Lakshmi Singh and others etc. Vs. State of Bihar : AIR 1976 SC 2263.

iii). Nawazish Ali and others Vs. The State : 2000(41) ACC 181 (Alld. H.C. D.B.)

16. Shri Anurag Shukla, learned counsel for the appellant/ convict submitted that the appellant/ convict has not been assigned the role of firing upon the deceased. He has been assigned the role of beating with lathi and danda. According to the post-mortem report, the deceased died of firearm injury and no injury of lathi or danda was found on the cadaver of deceased. The injuries found on the body of the complainant Ram Babu Shukla are simple in nature hence the appellant Sri Kant cannot be held guilty and punished for the offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C. with the help of Section 34 I.P.C. So he should be acquitted of the offence punishable under Section 302 readwith Section 34 of I.P.C. He relied upon the following case laws :-

: 2018 (2) SCC 342.

17. Contrary to it, learned A.G.A. Shri Umesh Chandra Verma countered the above submissions by submitting that testimony of injured witness P.W.-2 Ram Babu Shukla cannot be doubted because his injuries have been proved by the doctor P.W.-7 who examined his injuries and prepared the medico-legal- report. The P.W.-7 has clearly stated that the injuries found on the body of the injured Ram Babu Shukla cannot be created. There is no dent in the evidence of Ram Babu Shukla and his testimony is trustworthy and reliable so learned trial court has rightly relied upon his sole-testimony and held guilty the appellants/ convicts and punished them. He further submitted that the G.D. has been proved as Exhibit Ka-6, F.I.R. was lodged promptly and there is no delay in lodging of the F.I.R. and F.I.R. cannot be even termed as ante-timed. 'Panchnama' was also filled within reasonable time. All the accused persons went on the spot armed with lathis, dandas and fire-arms. There was prior concert in minds of the appellants/ convicts. So the appellants Sri Kant cannot be absolved of his liability for the offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C. and he has rightly been held guilty and punished under Section 302 and 323 read with Section 34 of the I.P.C. Hence both the appeals should be dismissed.

18. Considered the rival submissions and perused the record of the present appeal as well as of the learned trial court and gone through the case laws cited above.

19. According to the F.I.R., all the four accused persons abused and assaulted the deceased with lathis/dandas and when the complainant P.W.-2 reached there after hearing the noise alongwith others, accused Sri Kant and Ram Lakhan (now dead) assaulted him with lathis/dandas. As Sri Kant and Ram Lakhan assaulted the complainant, so the complainant could not help the deceased, meanwhile Kamla Kant and Sunil Kant fired upon the deceased of which he died. The complainant Ram Babu Shukla, who is an injured witness has proved what he has written in the first information report while being examined in the court as P.W.-2. In cross-examination also, this witness has stood the test of veracity except some minor contradictions. The injuries of this witness have been proved by P.W.-7 Dr. C.P.Rawat, who examined the injured and prepared the medico-legal report exhibit Ka-15. This witness P.W.-7 has denied the suggestion put forward by the defense counsel that these injuries found on the person of the injured Ram Babu Shukla could be self-created. Eight injuries were found on the person of the complainant P.W.-2 and all were simple in nature caused by hard and blunt object. Duration was found about 4 days' old. It is noteworthy that the incident occurred on 3.8.2001 and the injured was examined on 6.8.2001. The time coincides with the time when the incident occurred and the injured received the injuries. The testimony of an injured witness carries a special weight. The presence of this witness at the time of occurrence is also natural because as per the evidence available on record, he resides near to the place of occurrence and he reached at the spot after hearing the noise which was ensuing due to the assault made by accused persons on the deceased Hari Babu. Though P.W.-1 who was mentioned in the F.I.R. as an eye witness has turned hostile and did not support the prosecution case, another eye witness Ram Avtar mentioned in the F.I.R. was not produced by the prosecution, yet the evidence of P.W.-2 is sufficient enough with a ring of truth to prove the incident and also what has been written in the F.I.R. by him. No major contradiction could be brought by the defence in the cross examination of this witness. No reason of false implication could be brought forward by the appellants by this witness i.e. complainant, though they tried to put forward that due to some challan under Section 107/116 of Cr.P.C., the complainant was annoyed, so he implicated them falsely but this is not believable because the challan is subsequent to the incident of this case and this defence was rightly disbelieved by the trial court. Much emphasis has been given by the counsel of appellants that the conviction has been based on the testimony of a single witness which is not proper. This argument of the counsel for the appellants is of no importance because it is a settled law that a conviction can be based on a sole testimony of a witness if the court finds the testimony of that witness creditworthy.

20. In Kartik Malhar Vs. State of Bihar : (1996) 1 SCC 614, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under (relevant paragraphs 2, 3, 4, 6 and 7) :-

"2. The well-known maxim that "Evidence has to be weighed and not counted" has been given statutory placement in section 134 of the Evidence Act which provides us under :

"134. No particular number of witness shall in any case be required for the proof of any fact."

3. This section marks a departure from the English law where a number of statutes still prohibit convictions for certain categories of offences on the testimony of a single witness. This-difference was noticed by the Privy Council in Mahamed Sugal Esa Mamasah Rer Alalah v. The King, A.I.R. (1946) P.C, 3 .....

4. The Privy Council decision was considered by this Court in Vadivelu Thevar v. The State of Madras, A.I.R. (1957) S.C. 614 in which it was observed as under : -

"On a consideration of the relevant authorities and the provisions of the Evidence Act. the following propositions may be safely stated as firmly established :

(1) As a general rule, a court can and may act on the testimony of a single witness though uncorroborated. One credible witness outways the testimony of a number of other witnesses of indifferent character.

(2) Unless corroboration is insisted upon by statute, courts should not insist on corroboration except in cases where the nature of the testimony of the single witness itself requires as a rule of prudence, that corroboration should be insisted upon for example, in the case of a child witness, or of a witness whose evidence is that of an accomplice or of an analogus character.

(3) Whether corroboration of the testimony of a single witness is or is not necessary, must depend upon facts and circumstances of each case and no general rule can be laid down in a matter like this and much depends upon the judicial discretion of the Judge before whom the case comes.

In view of these considerations, we have no hesitation in holding that the contention that in a murder case, the Court should insist upon plurality of witnesses, is much too broadly stated. Section 134 of the Indian Evidence Act, has categorically laid it down that 'no particular number of witnesses shall, in any case, be required for the proof of any fact'. The Legislature determined, as long ago as 1872 presumably after due consideration of the pros and cons. that, it shall not be necessary for proof or disproof of a fact, to call any particular number of witnesses."

This Court further observed as under :

"It is not seldom that a crime has been committed in the presence of only one witness, leaving aside those cases which are not of uncommon occurrence where determination of guilt depends entirely on circumstantial evidence. If the Legislature were to insist upon plurality of witnesses, cases where the testimony of a single witness only could be available in proof of the crime, would go unpunished.....

5. xxxxx.

6. Some other cases of this Court in which the question of sole witness constituting the basis of conviction or otherwise has been considered are State of Haryana v. Manoj Kumar, [1994] 1 SCC 495;Brij Basi Lal v. State of M.P., [1991] Suppl. 1 SCC 200; Jai Prakash v. State(Delhi Administration), [1991] 2 SCC 379; Peodireddi Subbareddi v. State of Andhra Pradesh, AIR (1991) SC 1356; Java Ram Shiva Tagore v. State of Maharashtra, [1991] Suppl. 2 SCC 677 AIR (1991) SC 1735; Anil Pukhan v. State of Assam, AIR (1993) SC 1462 and Ram Kumar v. State of U.P., AIR (1992) SC 1602.

7. On a conspectus of these decisions, it clearly comes out that there has been no departure from the principles laid down in Vadivelyu Thevar's case (supra) and, therefore, conviction can be recorded on the basis of the statement of single eye witness provided his credibility is not shaken by any adverse circumstance appearing on the record against him and the Court, at the same time, is convinced that he is a truthful witness. The Court will not then insist on corroboration by any other eye witness particularly as the incident might have occurred at a time or place when there was no possibility of any other eye witness being present. Indeed, the Courts insist on the quality, and, not on the quantity of evidence."

21. In Kunju @ Bala Chandran Vs. State of Tamilnadu : 2008 (2) SCC 151, the Hon'ble Apex court has also held that the conviction can be based on the sole testimony of a witness who is found reliable. It is not the number of witness but the quality of evidence which is important.

22. In Jayanti Lal Verma Vs. State of M.P. (Now Chattisgarh) 2020 SCC Online SC 944, the Hon'ble Apex Court has laid down the similar view.

23. In the present matter, though another eye witness mentioned in the F.I.R., Natthu Lal has turned hostile but the evidence of P.W.-2 who is also an injured witness, has in a very natural manner step by step, narrated the story before the court and what has been written by him in his written report on the basis of which the F.I.R. was registered. No reason could be evinced to disbelieve the testimony of this witness.

24. The counsel for the appellants also stated that this witness is a relative witness as the deceased was the cousin of this witness, so his testimony should not be believed. This argument also of the appellants carries no force because testimony of a witness cannot be discredited only for the reason of his being a relative of the deceased if the court otherwise finds his testimony creditworthy and reliable.

25. In Kartik Malhar's case (supra), the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under (para 18) :-

"18. We may also observe that the ground that the witness being a close relative and consequently, being a partisan witness, should not be relied upon, has no substance. This theory was repelled by this Court as early as in Dilip Singh's case (supra) in which this Court expressed its surprise over the impression which prevailed in the minds of the members of the Bar that relatives were not independent witnesses. Speaking through Vivian Bose, J., the Court observed :

"We are unable to agree with the learned Judges of the High Court that the testimony of the two eye-witnesses requires corroboration. If the foundation for such an observation is based on the fact that the witnesses are women and that the fate of seven men hangs on their testimony, we know of no such rules. If it is grounded on the reason that they are closely related to the deceased we are unable to concur. This is a fallacy common to many criminal cases and one which another Bench of this Court endeavoured to dispel in Rameshwar v. The State of Rajasthan, [1952] SCR 377 = AIR 1952 SC 54. We find, however, that it unfortunately still persists, if not in the judgments of the Courts, at any rate in the arguments of counsel."

In this case, this Court further observed as under :

"A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, that there is tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth."

26. In the present case, the incident is of day light and there is no reason on the record to disbelieve the testimony of P.W.-2, the complainant and also an injured. The learned counsel for appellants Kamla Kant and Sunil Kant also emphasised much on the arguments that the site of the crime has not been proved by prosecution, as no witness of the recovery of blood soaked soil and plain soil from the spot, has been examined and it could not be established that the incident occurred at the place mentioned in the F.I.R. Though no witness of recovery of blood soaked soil and plain soil from the spot has been examined but that has very well been proved by the concerned investigating officer and Exhibit Ka-16 a report of forensic Science Laboratory, Lucknow which depicts that both the soils i.e. blood soaked soil and plain soil were similar. Hence, there remains no reason to doubt the place of occurrence, furthermore the place of occurrence has very well been proved by the P.W.-2 and also by the Investigating Officer P.W.-6. The post mortem report of the deceased Exhibit Ka-2 shows that the deceased sustained multiple firearm wounds of entries present on left side front of chest and left arm, average measuring 0.3 cm X 0.3 muscle to chest cavity deep."

27. 11 Pellets were also recovered from the left arm chest cavity and left lung of the deceased, as has been noted in the post-mortem-report by the autopsy surgeon. The cause of death has been shown as shock and hemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries. This medical evidence is in support of evidence of eye witness P.W.-2 the complainant. However, the learned counsel for the appellants have argued that P.W.-2 has stated that the deceased was beaten by the appellants by 'lathis/dandas' also but no injury of 'lathi-danda' was found, so the evidence of P.W.-2 is not in consonance with the medical evidence. This argument also on behalf of the appellants has no force because mere absence of injuries of 'lathi'-'danda' cannot convince us to drop the conclusion that the deceased was not fired upon by the appellants Kamla Kant and Sunil Kant as has been stated by P.W.-2 in his statement and also written in the F.I.R. The injuries noted in the Post-mortem-report supports the version of P.W.-2 as far as firearm injuries are concerned. So only for the fact that no injury of 'lathi-danda' was found, the statement of P.W.-2 cannot be disbelieved.

28. The learned counsel for the appellants Kamla Kant and Sunil Kant also argued that the F.I.R. is a delayed one and also ante-timed because the same was not sent to the concerned Magistrate at the earliest. This argument also carries no weight in the light of recent pronouncements of Hon'ble Apex Court.

29. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bimla Devi Vs. Rajesh Singh and another : (2016) 15 SCC 448 has held that "although it is true that delay in sending the F.I.R. to the concerned Magistrate can vitiate the investigation, but it is settled position that a cogent reasoning can override this procedural lacuna. It is an accepted fact that there was a delay of one day in sending the F.I.R., however, no motive in manipulating with the F.I.R. was proved. The prosecution case is strongly backed by testimonies of the six eye witnesses who have testified the incident in almost similar terms. A procedural lapse in not sending the F.I.R. promptly did not prejudice the present case."

30. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Narsingh Pal Vs. State of U.P. : (2020) 14 SCC 281 has held that "the F.I.R. was lodged promptly at 00.30 A.M. on 24.6.2005 by P.W.-1 naming the appellant, promptly accusation was not the result of any consultation but the immediate confirmation of the appellant being the assailant. The fact that there may have been some delay in sending it to the Magistrate, is therefore, inconsequential and has caused no prejudice to the appellant."

31. Recently in Ombir Singh Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh : (2020) 6 SCC 378, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that the delay in compliance with section 157 of the Cr.P.C. cannot in itself be a ground for acquittal of the accused. The Apex Court has also held that in cases where the date and time of the lodging the F.I.R. is questioned, the report becomes more relevant. But mere delay in sending the report itself cannot lead to a conclusion that the trial is vitiated or the accused is entitled to be acquitted on this ground.

32. In the matter in hand, the incident allegedly occurred at 1.00 P.M. and the F.I.R.

was lodged on the same day at 5.25 P.M. The distance of the place of occurrence was 14 kilometers from the concerned police station. The person who went to lodge the F.I.R. was also got injured in the incident. In such circumstances, the F.I.R. cannot be deemed to be a delayed F.I.R. or ante-timed F.I.R. and had rightly been so concluded by the trial court. Thus, the delay in sending the F.I.R. to the concerned Magistrate is of no importance. Hence, there appears no reason to interfere with the conclusions arrived at by the trial court in holding guilty the appellants Kamla Kant and Sunil Kant for the offence punishable under Section 302 read with Section 34 I.P.C. for causing the murder of the deceased Hari Babu.

33. Now comes the case of another appellant Sri Kant who has filed Criminal Appeal No.1314 of 2005. The counsel for the appellant Sri Kant argued that he has been assigned the role of assaulting the injured witness Ram Babu Shukla and he did not cause any injury to the deceased with 'lathi-danda' as there was no injury on the person of the deceased of 'lathi-danda'. He played no role in causing the death of the deceased, hence he can, at the most be held liable for the offence punishable under Section 323 readwith Section 34 I.P.C.

34. Learned A.G.A. opposed the above arguments of the counsel for Sri Kant and submitted that this appellant also played an active role in the murder of the deceased as he also came alongwith other accused persons at the spot with the intention to commit the murder of the deceased. So he is also liable for the offence punishable under Section 302 readwith Section 34 I.P.C.

35. Learned A.G.A. relied upon paragraph 12 of the case Ramaswami Ayyanger and others Vs. State of Tamilnadu : 1976 SCC (Cri.) 518 wherein Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under :-

"12. .....Section 34 is to be read along with the preceding Section 33 which makes it clear that the "act" spoken of in Section 34 includes a series of acts as a single act. It follows that the words "when a criminal act is done by several persons" in Section 34, may be construed to mean "when criminal acts are done by several persons". The acts committed by different confederates in the criminal action may be different but all must in one way or the other participate and engage in the criminal enterprise, for instance, one may only stand guard to prevent any person coming to the relief of the victim, or may otherwise facilitate the execution of the common design. Such a person also commits an "act" as much as his co-participants actually committing the planned crime. In the case of an offence involving physical violence, however, it is essential for the application of Section 34 that the person who instigates or aids the commission of the crime must be physically present at the actual commission of the crime for the purpose of facilitating or promoting the offence, the commission of which is the aim of the joint criminal venture. Such presence of those who in one way or the other facilitate the execution of the common design, is itself tantamount to actual participation in the 'criminal act'. The essence of Section 34 is simultaneous consensus of the minds of persons participating in the criminal action to bring about a particular result. Such consensus can be developed at the spot and thereby intended by all of them....."

36. Learned A.G.A. has also relied upon paragraph 12 of the case Ramesh

Singh @ Photti Vs. State Andhra Pradesh : 2004 SCC (Cri) Supp. 70, which runs as under (relevant para 12) :-

"12. To appreciate the arguments advanced on behalf of the appellants it is necessary to understand the object of incorporating Section 34 in the Indian Penal Code. As a general principle in a case of criminal liability it is the primary responsibility of the person who actually commits the offence and only that person who has committed the crime can be held guilty. By introducing Section 34 in the penal code the Legislature laid down the principle of joint liability in doing a criminal act. The essence of that liability is to be found in the existence of a common intention connecting the accused leading to the doing of a criminal act in furtherance of such intention. Thus, if the act is the result of a common intention then every person who did the criminal act with that common intention would be responsible for the offence committed irrespective of the share which he had in its perpetration. Section 34 IPC embodies the principle of joint liability in doing the criminal act based on a common intention. Common intention essentially being a state of mind it is very difficult to procure direct evidence to prove such intention. Therefore, in most cases it has to be inferred from the act like, the conduct of the accused or other relevant circumstances of the case. The inference can be gathered from the manner in which the accused arrived at the scene and mounted the attack, the determination and concert with which the attack was made, and from the nature of injury caused by one or some of them. The contributory acts of the persons who are not responsible for the injury can further be inferred from the subsequent conduct after the attack. In this regard even an illegal omission on the part of such accused can indicate the sharing of common intention. In other words, the totality of circumstances must be taken into consideration in arriving at the conclusion whether the accused had the common intention to commit an offence of which they could be convicted. (See Noor Mohammad Yusuf Momin Vs. State of Maharashtra AIR 1971 SC 855)."

37. In Jasdeep Singh @ Jassu Vs. State of Punjab : 2022 SCC Online SC 20 (supra) cited by learned counsel for the appellant Sri Kant, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under (para 21 to 28) :-

21.Section 34 IPC creates a deeming fiction by infusing and importing a criminal act constituting an offence committed by one, into others, in pursuance to a common intention. Onus is on the prosecution to prove the common intention to the satisfaction of the court. The quality of evidence will have to be substantial, concrete, definite and clear. When a part of evidence produced by the prosecution to bring the accused within the fold of Section 34 IPC is disbelieved, the remaining part will have to be examined with adequate care and caution, as we are dealing with a case of vicarious liability fastened on the accused by treating him at par with the one who actually committed the offence.

22. What is required is the proof of common intention. Thus, there may be an offence without common intention, in which case Section 34 IPC does not get attracted.

23.It is a team effort akin to a game of football involving several positions manned by many, such as defender, mid-fielder, striker, and a keeper. A striker may hit the target, while a keeper may stop an attack. The consequence of the match, either a win or a loss, is borne by all the players, though they may have their distinct roles. A goal scored or saved may be the final act, but the result is what matters. As against the specific individuals who had impacted more, the result is shared between the players. The same logic is the foundation of Section 34 IPC which creates shared liability on those who shared the common intention to commit the crime.

24.The intendment of Section 34 IPC is to remove the difficulties in distinguishing the acts of individual members of a party, acting in furtherance of a common intention. There has to be a simultaneous conscious mind of the persons participating in the criminal action of bringing about a particular result. A common intention qua its existence is a question of fact and also requires an act "in furtherance of the said intention". One need not search for a concrete evidence, as it is for the court to come to a conclusion on a cumulative assessment. It is only a rule of evidence and thus does not create any substantive offense.

25.Normally, in an offense committed physically, the presence of an accused charged under Section 34 IPC is required, especially in a case where the act attributed to the accused is one of instigation/ exhortation. However, there are exceptions, in particular, when an offence consists of diverse acts done at different times and places. Therefore, it has to be seen on a case to case basis.

26.The word "furtherance" indicates the existence of aid or assistance in producing an effect in future. Thus, it has to be construed as an advancement or promotion.

27.There may be cases where all acts, in general, would not come under the purview of Section 34 IPC, but only those done in furtherance of the common intention having adequate connectivity. When we speak of intention it has to be one of criminality with adequacy of knowledge of any existing fact necessary for the proposed offense. Such an intention is meant to assist, encourage, promote and facilitate the commission of a crime with the requisite knowledge as aforesaid.

28.The existence of common intention is obviously the duty of the prosecution to prove. However, a court has to analyse and assess the evidence before implicating a person under Section 34 IPC. A mere common intention per se may not attract Section 34 IPC, sans an action in furtherance. There may also be cases where a person despite being an active participant in forming a common intention to commit a crime, may actually withdraw from it later. Of course, this is also one of the facts for the consideration of the court. Further, the fact that all accused charged with an offence read with Section 34 IPC are present at the commission of the crime, without dissuading themselves or others might well be a relevant circumstance, provided a prior common intention is duly proved. Once again, this is an aspect which is required to be looked into by the court on the evidence placed before it. It may not be required on the part of the defence to specifically raise such a plea in a case where adequate evidence is available before the court."

38. In the present matter, it is discernible from the evidence available on record that when P.W.-2 the complainant hearing the noise reached the spot where the accused persons were allegedly beating Hari Babu, the deceased, this appellant/convict (Sri Kant) alongwith Ram Lakhan (now dead) started beating the complainant with lathi-danda. Meanwhile, the other two accused appellants/ convicts Kamla Kant and Sunil Kant fired upon the deceased of which he died.

39. Here, on the record, there is no evidence to establish that appellant/ convict Srikant had intention to kill the deceased and had reached at the spot alongwith co-convicts to kill Hari Babu with prior meeting of minds with co-convicts as the complainant has written in his written report that when the deceased started to remove the thorny bushes from the boundary of the field, the appellants/ convicts reached there at the spot and started abusing and beating the deceased with 'lathis-dandas' and when he reached the spot after hearing the noise, Sri Kant and Ram Lakhan started beating him and meanwhile appellants/ convicts Sri Kamla Kant and Sunil Kant fired upon the deceased. These circumstances show that there is possibility that the appellant Sri Kant may not be aware of the fact that the co-appellants/co-convicts will cause the death of the deceased Hari Babu by firing upon him. Hence this appellant/ convict deserves the benefit of doubt to be given to him and he may be held liable only for the offence under Section 323 I.P.C. for causing simple injuries to the complainant Ram Babu Shukla.

40. To sum up, the appellants/ convicts Kamla Kant and Sunil Kant have rightly been found guilty and punished for the offence punishable under Sections 302 readwith Section 34 I.P.C. and the sentence awarded to them by the trial court is hereby affirmed.

However, the conviction and sentence awarded to them Under Section 323/34 is hereby set aside.

41. As far as the appellant/convict Sri Kant is concerned, his conviction under Section 302 readwith Section 34 I.P.C. is set aside and his conviction under Section 323 I.P.C. is hereby affirmed.

42. The appellants/ convicts Kamla Kant and Sunil Kant are already in jail. They shall serve out the sentence awarded to them under Section 302 read with Section 34 I.P.C.

43. The appellant/ convict Sri Kant is on bail. He shall surrender before the concerned trial court to serve out the sentence awarded to him under Section 323 I.P.C. awarded by the trial court, if not served already.

44. These appeals are partly allowed.

45. Let a copy of this order alongwith original record be transmitted to the trial court concerned forthwith for information and necessary action.

46. Shri R.K. Dwivedi, Amicus Curaie shall be paid remuneration as per Rules.

The appeal is partly allowed. (E-6)

List of Cases cited:

1. Shanti Lal Vs St. of M.P.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suresh Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. This appeal has been filed against the judgement and order dated 20.10.2016 passed by the A.S.J., court no. 5 Bahraich in S.T. No. 14/2012 arsing out of case crime no. 645 of 2011, under Sections 8/20 NDPS Act, whereby the trial court convicted and sentenced the appellant u/s 20 NDPS Act for 10 years' rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs. 1 lakh and in default of payment of fine, ten months additional simple imprisonment.

2. Brief fact of the case emerges as such that on 5.12.2011 at 15.00 hours, the informer informed to the police that one Nepali person carrying charas will arrive India via Nepalganj Rupaidiha main highway from Nepal. On receiving this information, Abhinav Kashyap, Assistant Commander made Special Checking Squad comprising SSBL personnel. The special checking squad along with the informant reached the check post which was situated at Nepalganj Rupaidiha highway and started waiting for accused-appellant. At 17.00 hours on pointing out of informer, the suspected accused was intercepted for checking. Even as the accused opened the bag, he started fleeing from the spot. But the special checking squad immediately nabbed him and on asking his name and address and the reason for fleeing, he told that there is charas in his bag and further told his name Ishwar Lal Roka, S/o Jam Bahadur Roka, R/o Nagarpalika Police Station Chowki Ghorahi Ward no. 10 District Dang Western Nepal, aged 41 years. On asking the reason for bringing or taking the alleged charas, the accused told that one week ago, at Weston Hospital, Nepalganj one unknown person met him and offered Indian Rs. 15,000/- for delivering a bag containing Charas to Roadways Bus stop Rupaidiha. On spot contraband article was tested by Drug Testing Kit and prima facie, the recovered contraband article was found to be charas, therefore, the accused-appellant was immediately arrested. The accused was given choice to get the recovered article checked by any officer or Magistrate. The appellant however opted his search by the cheeking squad himself. Accordingly, search was conducted on the spot and consent letter was signed by the accused-appellant. Bag of the accused was searched. It was found that a box containing charas, Indian Rs. 2,500/- and a Samsung Mobile. Then, the information regarding arrest of the accused-appellant was given by the police authority to his wife Lal Kumari. On weighing by the scale available there, the recovered charas was 5kg and 238gms. Out of which, 25-25 gms charas was separately sealed for sample and the remaining charas was sealed in another packet. The accused was brought to the police station- Rupaidiha, where the case under section 8/20 of NDPS Act was registered as case crime no. 645 of 2011.

3. After investigation, charge-sheet was submitted against the accused-appellant before sessions court, Bahraich. This case was transferred to the Special Judge, court no. 4, Bahraich, where the charge was framed. The accused-appellant pleaded not guilty of the charges levelled against him and he contended that he was falsely implicated in this case and claimed to be tried.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined PW 1 Sonam; PW 2 Abhinav Kashyap, complainant; PW 3 Umesh Kumar Bhardwaj.

5. The trial court on the basis of evidence adduced by the prosecution held that the prosecution succeeded to prove the charge against the appellant. It was also held that all the procedural technicalities were complied with. Thus, the trial court convicted the appellant for possessing the contraband article Charas weighing 5kg and 238gms from his possession and sentenced the appellant as aforesaid.

6. Being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the aforesaid order, the appellant preferred this appeal before this Court.

7. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

8. Submission of the counsel for the appellant is that the finding given by the trial court is perverse and bad in the eye of law. There are major contradictions in the statement of the witness. He has also submitted that there is no independent witness examined by the prosecution. All the witnesses shown in the recovery memo is false and concocted and there was non-compliance of the mandatory provision of NDPS Act at the time of search and seizure. It was not told to the appellant that he has right to be searched before the Gazetted officer or magistrate. Thus, there was also non-compliance of Sections 50, 56 and 57 of NDPS Act.

9. The counsel for the appellant further argued that the appellant was neither in possession of any narcotics nor any incriminating article recovered from his possession.

10. Lastly, the counsel for the appellant submits that the appellant has no previous criminal history and he is languishing in jail since 5.12.2011. The appellant has already undergone the sentence of 10 years as awarded by the trial court. Since he is not able to pay the fine of Rs. 1 lakh as aforesaid. So, in default of the same, the appellant shall undergo for 10 months' additional simple imprisonment as awarded by the trial court. Therefore, the counsel submits that liberal view may be taken against the appellant and the appellant be released forthwith as he already remained in incarceration about 10 years and 5 months.

11. Learned AGA opposed and submitted that all the procedure literally complied by the arresting officer at the time of search. He further contended that provision of CrPC makes it clear that the court of law can award imprisonment in default of payment of fine, one fourth of the term of the imprisonment which the court is competent to inflict as punishment for the offence otherwise than as imprisonment in default of payment of the fine. Thus, in this case, in default of payment of fine, the court is competent to award 2 years and 6 months in addition to substantive sentence. However, the trial court already taking liberal view awarded 10 months' additional simple imprisonment in default of payment of fine, which could not be said to be unlawful or otherwise illegal. Thus, the appeal deserves to be dismissed.

12. Insofar as conviction recorded by the trial court is concerned, there is no illegality, irregularity or perversity in the impugned order passed by the trial court. The appellant has already undergone substantial part of sentence of 10 years rigorous imprisonment and in default of payment of fine, he has already spent 5 months in jail.

13. The counsel for appellant has relied upon the judgement of the Apex Court in Shanti Lal vs. State of M.P. decided on 8.10.2007. The relevant portion of which is reproduced hereunder:

"36. We are mindful and conscious that the present case is under the NDPS Act Section 18 quoted above provides penalty for certain offences in relation to opium poppy and opium. Minimum fine contemplated by the said provision is rupees one lakh [fine which shall not be less than one lakh rupees]. It is also true that the appellant has been ordered to undergo substantive sentence of rigorous imprisonment for ten years which is minimum. It is equally true that maximum sentence imposable on the appellant is twenty years. The learned counsel for the State again is right in submitting that clause (b) of sub-section (1) of Section 30, CrPC authorizes the Court to award imprisonment in default of payment of fine up to one-fourth term of imprisonment which the Court is competent to inflict as punishment for the offence. But considering the circumstances placed before us on behalf of the appellant-accused that he is very poor; he is merely a carrier; he has to maintain his family; it was his first offence; because of his poverty, he could not pay the heavy amount of fine (rupees one lakh) and if he is ordered to remain in jail even after the period of substantive sentence is over only because of his inability to pay fine, serious prejudice will be caused not only to him, but also to his family members who are innocent. We are, therefore, of the view that though an amount of payment of fine of rupees one lakh which is minimum as specified in Section 18 of the Act cannot be reduced in view of the legislative mandate, ends of justice would be met if we retain that part of the direction, but order that in default of payment of fine of rupees one lakh, the appellant shall undergo rigorous imprisonment for six months instead of three years as ordered by the trial court and confirmed by the High Court.

37. For the reasons aforesaid, the appeal is partly allowed, conviction recorded and sentence imposed on the appellant to undergo rigorous imprisonment for ten years is confirmed. An order of payment of fine of rupees one lakh is also upheld. But an order that in default of payment of fine, the appellant shall undergo rigorous imprisonment for three years is reduced to rigorous imprisonment for six months. To that extent, the appeal filed by the appellant is allowed. If the appellant has undergone substantive sentence of rigorous imprisonment for ten years as also rigorous imprisonment for six months as modified by us in default of payment of fine, the appellant shall be set at liberty forthwith unless he is required in any other offence. If the appellant has not completed the said period, he will be released after the period indicated hereinabove is over. The appeal is accordingly disposed of."

14. Considering the aforesaid and the law propounded by the apex court, I am of the view that 10 months' additional simple imprisonment is reduced to 5 months' simple imprisionment. Thus, the appeal is partly allowed.

15. If the appellant has undergone substantive sentence of rigorous imprisonment for ten years as also simple imprisonment of five months as modified by this Court in default of payment of fine, the appellant be set at liberty forthwith unless he is required in any other offence.

16. Thus, the appeal is dismissed on the point of conviction and partly allowed on the point of sentence.

17. Office is directed to communicate this order to the court concerned and send back the lower court record, if already received.

Only surviving appellant Resham Singh is represented by the learned senior counsel.

3. The first information report of the incident occurred on 01.08.2006 at about 11.30 a.m was lodged by Charan Singh S/o Jagir Singh, husband of deceased Chhindra Pal Kaur on 01.08.2008, at about 8.30 p.m. The assertion in the written report given by Charan Singh (P.W-1) is that the first informant was four brothers. Out of whom, the eldest one Bagshish Singh was living in Punjab. The entire landed property (agricultural field) of the father of the first informant was given to his two elder brothers namely Jaswant Singh and Resham Singh. The first informant stated that he did not get any share in the property of his father and was doing Majduri (labour work) to feed his family. A dispute related to the landed property was going on between him and his two brothers Jaswant and Resham (the appellants herein). A case under Section 107/116 Cr.P.C was pending before the S.D.M., Dhampur. On account of the said dispute, his wife Chhindra Pal Kaur was burnt to death by pouring kerosene on her by the appellants at about 11.30 a.m on the fateful day. At that point of time, the first informant was out of his house as he went to bring fodder for his cattle. The deceased was admitted in the Government Hospital by the Gram Pradhan Sri Chatar Singh s/o Sri Aidal Singh and other villagers and died at about 4.00 p.m in the hospital. After getting information, the first informant also went to the hospital and brought home the dead body of his wife with the help of villagers. While keeping the body at his house, he went to lodge the first information report.

The Head constable Bhagwan Sharan Pandey handed over the copy of the check report, and the written report on the spot and the investigation was then commenced. The statement of the first informant Charan Singh was recorded on the spot. The inquest of the body of the deceased kept on a cot in the Varandah of the house of first informant Charan Singh was conducted on 02.08.2006 and the body was sealed and sent for post-mortem alongwith relevant papers. The site plan on inspection of the site of the incident was prepared, which was proved as Exhibit-Ka-

5. From the place of the incident, the burnt clothes of deceased Chhindra Pal were collected and a memo was prepared, which was proved as Exhibit-Ka-6. P.W-7 gave the details of the clothes collected in the memo of recovery. The statement of other witness and that of Gram Pradhan Chatar Singh were recorded and the appellant Resham Singh was arrested. On 05.08.2006, the statement of other witnesses were recorded. The appellant Jaswant Singh was arrested on 07.08.2006.

5. On completion of the investigation, chargesheet was filed in the Court which was proved as Exhibit Ka-'7' being in hand writing and signature of P.W-7. P.W-8, the constable clerk had proved the inquest as Exhibit Ka-'8' being in the handwriting of Constable Ramji lal carrying his signature and that of another police personnel. He stated that the body was sealed and sent with relevant police papers and handed over in the Mortuary. After post mortem, body was brought from the Mortuary and handed over to the relatives of the deceased. P.W-8 stated that no one had touched the dead body from the place of the inquest till it was kept safe in the Mortuary. In cross, P.W-8 stated that the body was straightway taken to the Mortuary and they left the place of the incident at about 8.00 a.m and reached at the Mortuary in about two hours. The inquest was done in his presence and his signature also finds place therein. Total eight papers were given to the Chief Medical Officer including inquest report, photo lash etc.

6. P.W-5, doctor-Shamim Ahmad Ansari was posted in the P.H.C Kadrabad District-Bijnor as Medical Officer. On 01.08.2006, the date of the incident, he stated that deceased Chhindra Kaur was brought to the hospital at about 1.00 p.m in the burnt state upto 60-70%. She was brought by Gram Pradhan-Chatar Singh and the admission in emergency register was made by the pharmacist. After examination of the deceased, it was found that her general condition was poor and pulse rate was feeble, i.e very slow. Blood pressure of the patient could not be recorded as her hands were burnt. The first aid was given to the deceased at the hospital and at that point of time Chatar Singh, Baldev Singh and the pharmacist was present. In the presence of these persons, deceased Chhindra Kaur told that she was burnt by pouring kerosene by two brothers of her husband, namely Jaswant Singh and Resham Singh. The said fact was noted by the doctor (P.W-5) in the emergency register of the hospital. The entry of the said statement bears signature of P.W-5, Chatar Singh and Baldev Singh present there. P.W-5 stated that he had transcribed whatever was stated by the deceased. The original register was brought in the Court to prove the said fact. The attested photocopy of the said register was given to the police which was available on record. The signatures on the attestation had been proved by P.W-5 being his own and being correct as per the original register. The photocopy of the extract of emergency register was exhibited as Exhibit Ka-2. P.W-5 kept on to tell that looking to the critical condition of the patient she was referred to a higher centre.

Besides that a letter was sent to the Station House Officer Afjalgarh that Smt Chhindar Kaur w/o Charan Singh was brought to PHC in 60-70% burnt state by Gram Pradhan Chatar Singh and she had been referred to higher centre after first aid. The original copy of the said letter was sent to the police station whereas the carbon copy was pasted on the emergency register which was prepared in the same process. The receipt of the report from the police station in the carbon copy, at about 16.00 hours on 01.08.2006, was proved by P.W-5 with his signature on the carbon copy and by filing a certified copy of the same in the Court, as Exhibit Ka-3. It was stated by P.W-5 that after some time he came to know the deceased Chhindra Pal could not be taken to higher centre and she had died in the hospital itself and her family members took her home. The name of the person who brought the deceased to the hospital was mentioned in the register as Sri Chatar Singh, Pradhan.

7. It was reiterated by P.W-5 in the examination in chief that the deceased had told her name as Chhindra Kaur and narrated the incident on his asking and the said details were entered in the emergency register. In cross, he stated that he did not prepare any medico legal report of the deceased as she was critical and he referred her to a higher centre for treatment. He further stated that he did not talk to other people who brought the deceased to the hospital and only Gram Pradhan-Baldev was present in his chamber with whom he talked. It was reiterated by P.W-5, in cross, that he transcribed the statement of the deceased as was told to him. No certificate was given by him to certify the condition of the deceased that she was fit to make the statement and stated that the statement was written by him personally. He did not consult any other doctor. A suggestion that the deceased was not in the condition to make the statement was emphatically denied by P.W-5 who had reiterated that she was fit enough to make the statement. P.W-5 categorically stated that the deceased had narrated the whole story herself. However, the register on which the statement was written, the thumb impression of the deceased was not taken. The smell of kerosene oil was not coming from the body of the deceased.

8. On a suggestion, P.W-5 stated that after getting 95% of burnt injuries a patient would not be in a condition to speak. As per his own assessment, the deceased was burnt to the extent of 60-70%. Lastly, P.W-5 denied that he did not record the statement of the deceased and it was written on the narration of other people accompanying her.

9. P.W-6 is the doctor who had proved the post-mortem report as Exhibit Ka-'4' being in his signature and handwriting. The external and internal condition of the dead body as described in the post-mortem are:-

"External examination- average body built female, pugilistic appearance, redness present, eyes closed, mouth closed.

Ante time injuries-

Superficial to deep burn all over the body except both soles, Perineum and some part of right leg skin peeled off at places, scorched hair. Burnt area about 95%.

Internal examination-

Brain congested, Trachea coAnte time injuries- ngested with carbon particles, both lungs congested, right heart full, left empty (100 gm), stomach empty, gall bladder congested, spleen congested, both kidney congested, bladder empty.

The estimated time of death was about one day."

10. In the opinion of the doctor, death was caused due to shock on account of burnt injuries and the proximate time of death was one day ago. P.W-6 stated that he had given two sealed envelop, postmortem report, papers of inquest and a sealed bundle of clothes to Constable CP 1257 Tejpal Singh, P.S-Afjalgarh. The appearance of the body mentioned as 'pugilistic' with redness was explained by P.W-6 to be a condition on the body which occur when some one is burnt alive. On a suggestion, P.W-6 stated that even on getting such burnt injuries it was possible that the deceased was not unconscious, she, however, could be unconscious also. Most of the part of the body including neck was burnt and it was possible to have difficulty in talking clearly. He further stated that he did not write in the report that the smell of kerosene oil was coming from the body. In cross, P.W-6 stated that it was possible that the deceased had suffered burn injuries at about 9.00 p.m on 01.08.2006.

11. The recovery memo dated 02.08.2006 (Exhibit Ka-6) describes the burnt clothes of the deceased as: (i) one shirt yellow colour having designs in green etc (in the burnt state); (ii) slip ((baniyan) colour faded (in burnt state); and (iii) one underwear (kachha) grey colour in burnt state, which were siezed from the spot. They were kept in a blue colour polythene and sealed.

12. The post-mortem contains description of clothes and jewellery found on the dead body sealed and sent for postmortem, which is as follows:

1. Salwar -one
2. Dupatta-four
3. broken pieces of glass bangles
4. one metal kada
5. one metal nose pin
6. one braid

(total six items)

All these items were sealed in a cloth bundle and stamped as noted above. The sealed bundle of clothes of the deceased recovered from the place of the incident was opened in the Court and P.W-7, the Investigating Officer had identified them which were marked as Material Exhibit-'1' to '4'.

13. Amongst the witnesses of fact (three witnesses) Charan Singh, P.W-1, the first informant, the husband of the deceased, had been declared hostile as he did not support the prosecution version about the involvement of the accused persons. He, however, proved his signatures on the written report which was exhibited as Exhibit Ka-1. As to the contents of the written report, P.W-1 stated that whatever was written in the said report was not in his knowledge. He further stated that the scribe of the written report was known to him being his neighbour. In cross by the prosecution he stated that he did not know as to how it was written in the report that his brother had killed his wife by burning her. The other contents of the report had also been denied not being in his knowledge. P.W-1 had denied his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C by saying that the Investigating Officer did not record his statement and when the said statement was put to him he replied that he did not know as to how it was written. He had denied the enmity between him and his brother about the landed property as also the proceedings under Section 107/116 Cr.P.C. In cross, on a suggestion by the prosecution, P.W-1 admitted that a compromise had been arrived with his brothers. But the suggestion that he was making a wrong statement on account of the said compromise was denied by P.W-1. He also denied that the written report was got scribed by him in his senses. In cross for defence, P.W-1 stated that his two daughters Balvindra Kaur and Rajvindra Kaur were not at home and they were at the house of their maternal grand father. His wife before becoming unconscious told him that she caught fire while cooking food. Lastly, P.W-1, though admitted that his wife was not unconscious during treatment but in the same breath stated that she was unconscious and died in that state.

14. Another hostile witness is P.W-2 who was an acquaintance of the deceased. In her examination in chief she had denied the involvement of the accused persons in the occurrence and stated that she went to the hospital and the deceased was unconscious and she did not name anyone as accused. In cross by the prosecution, P.W-2 reiterated that when she reached the hospital, the deceased was unconscious. She had denied any relationship with the accused person or the first informant Charan Singh and further retracted from her previous statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. In cross for the prosecution, P.W-2 again stated that the deceased was unconscious before she died and was referred by the doctor to the Government Hospital while she was in unconscious state.

15. P.W-3 Chatar Singh (a hostile witness) stated that he got information on 01.08.2006 that Chhindra Pal Kaur (deceased) got burnt. The said information was given in the police station by him. He denied having gone to the house of the deceased and witnessing her in the burnt state therein but admitted that he brought the deceased to the Government Hospital, Kadrabad and got her admitted therein. He then stated that Chhindra Pal was taking names of her brothers-in-law. On the asking, he stated that the deceased had two brothers-in-law and he did not remember as to whose name was mentioned by her. P.W-3, further stated that Chhindra Pal was saying that her brothers-in-law had burnt her but he did not know as to how it happened. P.W-3 further stated that Amarjeet Kaur (P.W-2) and one Seema were present when statement was made by Chhindra Pal Kaur and then he stated that she did not take name of any of the accused. In cross by the prosecution, P.W-3 stated that the Investigating Officer had recorded his statement in the hospital but he could not tell the time when it was recorded. He had denied his previous version in the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C saying that it was wrong and further stated that the deceased was alive for about 2-3 hours in the hospital and doctors made all efforts to save her. When doctor referred her to Bijnor, he went to arrange a vehicle and in the meantime she died. In cross for the defence, P.W-3 stated that the deceased was repeating the word "jeth" as if she was calling her jeth. Two daughters of the deceased were in the village and he did not know as to whether they were present at the time of the incident. He stated that when deceased Chhindra Pal was admitted in the hospital she was unconscious and was not in a condition to speak. No paper work was made by the doctor in the hospital in his presence.

16. P.W-4 is an important witness of fact, who is daughter of the deceased. She was aged about thirteen years on the date when her statement was recorded. Before recording her statement, the Court had satisfied itself that she was in a position to understand and give reasonable answers to the questions put to her. In her examination in chief, P.W-4 stated that on the fateful day, her younger sister Balvindra Kaur and her mother Chhindra Pal Kaur were in the house. Her mother was cooking food and her father Charan Singh went to jungle to bring fodder. Her two Uncles Jaswant and Resham and Aunt started quarreling (oral) with her mother. Her uncle Jaswant and Resham (appellants) then stated that "this bitch used to quarrel daily, let her finish today." Jaswant then brought kerosene Can (kantari) from his room and poured kerosene on her mother. Her another Uncle Resham lit the fire through a match stick in the clothes of the deceased. Her mother started burning and when both the sisters tried to save her, her uncles frowned that they should also be burnt. Out of fear they kept mum. P.W-4 stated that they had seen that their mother was turning over and over. The incident had occurred in the kitchen outside the Varandah while the deceased was cooking food and the deceased kept on turning over and over in the empty place at the Varandah. Both the sisters went out of the house out of fear and later when lots of people were collected, they came back to the house. Before they came back, the villagers took their mother to the hospital and in the evening she was brought back dead. The police came in the night and took away the body for postmortem. Their father came back to the house in the night and they met him and told him everything truthfully. P.W-4 further stated that their uncles had killed their mother because of the land dispute and now they were residing with their maternal grand father as they still had fear for life from their uncles.

17. In cross, P.W-4 reiterated that she was residing with her maternal grand father and came to the Court alongwith him. The topography of the place of the incident has been narrated by P.W-4 stating that there was one varandah in front of two rooms and there was no construction in front of the Varandah. She then stated that she had no idea of the directions, but stated that there was no boundary wall around the house and no Main gate was also there. Her mother was cooking food in the Sehan and they were using wood stove to cook food. The incident had occurred at around 11.00 a.m to 12.00 noon. Her Aunt was present in the house and arguments between her mother and her Aunt were going on since morning. When her father went to jungle her uncles were present in the house. P.W-4 then stated that they were not beaten by their uncles and when they were threatened orally they went out of the house and came back after sometime. P.W-4 had specified her relationship with appellants-Jaswant and Resham by saying that they were her uncles. On a suggestion by the defence, P.W-4 stated that their neighbours did not reach at the place of the incident when quarrel was going on and they came later. Her mother was wearing salwar-kurta. She had denied the suggestion that her mother became unconscious and stated that she was screaming, before her mother was taken to the hospital, they went out of the house. When the deceased was taken to the hospital she was speaking and that fact was told to her by other people.

18. P.W-4 further goes on to say that the dead body of her mother reached home from the hospital at around 4.00-5.00 p.m on the same day and the police reached at around 8.00-9.00 p.m. Her statement was not recorded by the police on the same day, rather it was taken after 4-5 days of the incident. She had denied the suggestion of giving false testimony under the pressure of her maternal grand father with whom she was residing and stated that it was wrong to say that the incident did not occur in the manner in which it was described by her and that her mother caught fire while cooking food and her uncle did not put her to fire. She has also denied the suggestion that her uncles were not at home and that on the date of the incident she was in the house of her maternal grand father and did not watch the incident.

19. Placing the testimony of the three hostile witnesses and the statement of the doctors (P.W-5 and P.W-6), it was argued by the learned counsel for the appellant that it was an accident and in view of admission of P.W-4 that the deceased was cooking food, it is established that the occurrence was in fact an accident. The deceased caught fire while cooking food through her clothes and for this reason, smell of kerosene could not be found by two doctors namely P.W-5 and P.W-6, who had treated the victim and conducted post mortem of the dead body; respectively.

20. It is vehemently argued that considering the pungent nature of smell of kerosene, it is impossible that smell of it could not be found from the body of the deceased. Both the doctors namely P.W-5 and P.W-6, in cross, categorically stated that they could not smell kerosene from the person of the deceased. The Investigating Officer who collected clothes of the deceased from the spot marked as Exhibit ka-6, also stated that no smell of kerosene was coming from the burnt clothes of the deceased. He also admitted that the 'Can' of kerosene Oil was not confiscated as it could not be found on the spot. Moreover, the clothes of the deceased were not sent for FSL examination to ascertain whether the kerosene was poured on the deceased. Looking to the prosecution story, it is a case of accidental fire and conviction of the appellants is unjustified. Reference has been made to the decision in case of Janardan Dube and ors vs State of Uttar Pradesh reported in 2019 (4) ADJ 307.

21. Learned A.G.A in rebuttal, argued that PW-3-Chatar Singh though had turned hostile but proved that he brought the deceased to the hospital in the burnt state and admitted her for treatment. He also proved that the deceased was taking names of his brothers-in-law and was saying that they had set her on fire. In the examination-in-chief P.W-3 had turned hostile but this part of his testimony cannot be discarded. Moreover, presence of P.W-4, daughter of the deceased is corroborated by the statement of P.W-3. There is no reason for P.W-4, a girl of 13 years, to falsely implicate her two uncles/appellants in the crime. The evidence of P.W-4 cannot be discarded. The doctor P.W-5 who had examined the deceased on her admission in the hospital proved that the deceased was brought by Chatar Singh (P.W-3) in 60-70% burnt state and she was conscious when brought to the hospital. The statement of the deceased giving description of the incident had been recorded in the register by him. The version of the prosecution witnesses corroborate with the medical evidence wherein superficial burn all over the body of the deceased was found except the sole (undersurface of the foot) and her bronchea was found congested with the presence of carbon particles therein. It is, thus, argued that in the totality of facts and circumstances of the case, the prosecution evidence cannot be discarded for the mere fact that three witnesses had turned hostile and the fourth witness of the prosecution is a child witness. The prosecution has proved its case beyond all reasonable doubt and appeal deserves dismissal.

22. In rejoinder, it is submitted that appellant Resham Singh is 63 years old and he is in jail for more than 16 years. His remission may be recommended by the Court, in case, it reaches at the conclusion of the guilt of the appellant.

23. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

24. At the outset, it may be noted that appellant no.1-Jaswant Singh had died on 16.01.2021 while lodged in the Central Jail, Bareilly. The report in this regard has been sent by the Senior Superintendent, Central Jail, Bareilly vide letter dated 20.01.2021. The present appeal, therefore, stands abated in so far as the appellant no.1-Jaswant Singh is concerned. Only surviving appellant before us is appellant no.2-Resham Singh. Coming to the prosecution evidence, we may first consider the statements of the hostile witnesses to find out as to whether their statements in any manner are consistent with the case of the prosecution or the defence version. It may be noted that it is well settled principle for appreciation of evidence of a hostile witness that the evidence of such a witness must be subjected to close scrutiny. Merely because a witness is declared hostile, his entire testimony cannot be excluded from consideration.

25. Any portion of evidence consistent with the case of the prosecution or defence version can be relied upon. The statement particularly examination-in-chief in so far as it supports the case of the prosecution is admissible and can be relied upon by the Court. Reference: Gura Singh vs State of Rajasthan reported in (2001) 2 SCC 205 ; Bhagwan Singh vs State of Haryana reported in 1976 AIR 202; Ramesh Harijan vs State of Uttar Pradesh reported in (2012) 5 SCC 777; Haradhan Das vs State of West Bengal reported in (2013) 2 SCC 197; Lahu Kamlakar Patil and another vs State of Maharashtra reported in (2013) 6 SCC 417;

26. Keeping in mind the above position of law, we proceed to examine the statement of three hostile witnesses so as to find as to what extent they support the prosecution case or their testimony is in favour of defence. P.W-1, husband of the deceased is real brother of the appellants Jaswant Singh and Resham Singh. This witness though supported the defence that the appellants did not pour kerosene or set his wife on fire and stated that when he returned from the fields, he found his wife badly burnt, he took her to the hospital and she was unconscious at that time. She died during treatment in the hospital. In his testimony P.W-1, however, proved the written report which was marked as Exhibit-Ka-1 having been lodged by him. He also identified his signature on the said report and stated that scribe of report was his neighbour and acquaintance. He, however, had denied the contents of the written report by saying that he was not in his senses and did not know as to what was written therein. P.W-1 had also denied his previous version under Section 161 Cr.P.C and disputed the presence of his two daughters Balvindra Kaur and Rajvindra Kaur in the house at the time of the incident. From the statement of P.W-1, thus two facts are proved: firstly the lodging of the first information report by submitting a written report under his signature and, secondly that the said report was scribed by Harish Kumar s/o Kuvar Singh, his neighbour. P.W-1 had also proved that the deceased was found in a burnt state in her house and she was admitted in Kadrabad hospital and died there.

27. P.W-2, Amarjeet Kaur was an acquaintance of the family of the deceased. She did not support the prosecution case that the deceased had disclosed names of the appellants as assailants by saying that she was unconscious throughout. P.W-2 also denied having knowledge as to who had admitted the deceased in the hospital. Nothing much could be elicited from the statement of P.W-2 in favour of the defence except that according to her the deceased was unconscious when she reached the hospital. It is, however, proved by P.W-2 that the deceased was admitted in the hospital and died there and that the doctor at Kadrabad hospital had referred the deceased to the Government hospital Bijnor for treatment.

28. P.W-3-Chatar Singh is an important prosecution witness who though had turned hostile but has supported the prosecution case to the extent that the deceased was admitted in the hospital namely the Government hospital Kadrabad by him in the burnt state and she was treated therein. In the examination in chief, P.W-3 also admitted that deceased namely Chhindra Pal was taking the names of his brothers-in-law and saying that her brothers-in-law had set her on fire. It is, thus, proved that the deceased was conscious when admitted in the hospital. P.W-3, however, had denied as to how she was set at fire was not known and further that the deceased did not take the names of any of the accused appellants. In cross, P.W-3 had admitted that there were only two brothers-in-law of the deceased who were the appellants namely Jaswant and Resham. He also admitted that the deceased was repeating "Jeth-Jeth". P.W-3 though tried to explain this version by saying that while deceased was saying "jeth-jeth", it seemed to him that she was calling her brothers-in-law for help. P.W-2 also admitted that two daughters of deceased Chhindra Pal were in the village but he did not know as to whether they were present at the time of the incident. It is also proved by P.W-3 that the deceased was referred to Bijnor and she died in the hospital before she could be taken to Bijnor. He was confronted with his previous statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C that the appellants Jaswant and Resham poured kerosene on the deceased and set her on fire which he refuted. He admitted that the deceased was alive for 2-3 hours but stated that when she was admitted in the hospital she was unconscious and was not in a position to speak. The doctor did not make any paper work in his presence. From the statement of P.W-3, it is established that the deceased was talking when she was admitted in the hospital by P.W-3, who was the then Gram Pradhan of the village. She was taking names of her brothers-in-law. It is also admitted that the appellants were only brothers-in-law of the deceased.

29. The version of P.W-3 that the daughters of the deceased were present in the village also supports the prosecution case, though whether they were present at the time of the incident may not be known to him. It has come in the examination of P.W-1 that a compromise had been arrived between he and his two brothers. It seems that P.W-1 had turned hostile in order to save his brothers from the clutches of law after getting his share in the landed property with respect to which dispute was earlier going on between them.

30. Having considered the evidence of hostile witnesses, the testimony of the last witness of fact, P.W-4 is also to be considered as an important piece of evidence. P.W-4 Jasvindar Kaur @ Rajvindra Kaur is daughter of the deceased and P.W-1. She was aged about 13 years at the time of her deposition in the Court. The Court had satisfied itself about the competence of this witness looking to her age. P.W-4 categorically stated in the examination in chief that she and her younger sister Balvindra Kaur and deceased Chhindra Pal Kaur were at home. Her mother was cooking food and her father went to collect the fodder. Her two uncles namely Jaswant and Resham (the appellants) and her aunt, were arguing with her mother and during the said argument, the appellants Jaswant and Resham exhorted each other to kill her. Jaswant then brought kerosene from his room and poured on her mother. Resham had set her on fire. In the statement of P.W-4, it has come that the deceased had tried to save herself and in that effort she was turning over and over on the floor of the Varandah after she caught fire. She also stated that when she and her sister tried to save their mother, her uncles had threatened them. It was repeatedly stated by P.W-4 that her mother was turning over and over in the Varandah in an empty place, which seems to us was an effort to save herself from the fire. However, on account of threat given by their uncles both the sisters went out of their house. In cross, P.W-4 categorically stated that she was present in the house at the time of the incident and since after the incident both the sisters were residing with their maternal grand father as they had a threat of their life from her uncles. There is a categorical denial of P.W-4 to the suggestion that her mother caught fire while cooking food and her uncles did not set her on fire. The suggestion that both her uncles were not present in the house was also denied being false. It was categorically denied that she did not witness the incident or was in the house of her maternal grand father at the time of incident.

31. From a careful reading of the statement of P.W-4, no inconsistency or infirmity could be found. Her presence in the house at the time of the incident is proved by the prosecution. The statement of P.W-4 that while her mother was burning she made all efforts to save her by turning over and over in the empty place at Varandah is to be considered in the context of Exhibit-Ka-6 which is the recovery memo of burnt clothes of the deceased. A perusal of Exhibit Ka-6 shows that even underclothes (underwear) of the deceased was collected in the burnt state from the site of the incident, which was the house of the deceased.

32. A further perusal of the post mortem report indicates that four dupattas and one salwar was kept in the bundle by the doctor but none of those clothes were mentioned being in the burnt state. The joint reading of the statement of P.W-4, Exhibit Ka-6, the recovery memo of clothes of the deceased and the postmortem report indicates that in an effort to save herself, the deceased had taken out her clothes while burning and in the process she became naked. The deceased was brought to the hospital by P.W-3 who was the Gram Pradhan. The clothes found on the dead body during the postmortem were four dupattas and one salwar which again show that she was covered by the people who brought her to the hospital.

33. This takes us to the argument of the learned counsel for the appellant that smell of kerosene oil was not found from the clothes of the deceased and neither the autopsy surgeon had noticed the smell of kerosene oil nor the doctor P.W-5 who treated her. As noticed above it is evident from the record that the clothes on which kerosene oil was poured when the deceased was burnt were removed by her in an effort to save herself from the fire and they were collected by the Investigating Officer. The statement of P.W-4 that her mother was turning over and over in the varandah, in an empty place, is a proof of the said fact. Further the clothes of the deceased found on the spots were not burnt completely, as she had taken them out, though her body was burnt to the extent of 95% as per the postmortem doctor and 60-70% as per P.W-5, the doctor who treated her first. In the situation like this, if smell of kerosene oil could not be noticed by the P.W-6, postmortem doctor on the body of the deceased, nothing would turn in favour of the defence, in as much as, once the skin were burnt to the above extent in all likelihood, there was no possibility of presence of smell of kerosene on the naked body.

34. At the cost of repetition, it may be noted that the clothes noted in the postmortem report four Dupattas and shalwar were used to cover the naked body of the deceased and, as such, there was no question of finding smell of kerosene on them.

35. As regards, clothes seized and noticed in Exhibit Ka-6 (Recovery memo) and the statement of the Investigating Officer that he did not find smell of kerosene oil in the clothes or did not seize any such article which could prove that kerosene oil was poured on the deceased, would not be of any help to the defence, in as much as, for any slackness on the part of the Investigating Officer the defence would not be benefited. It has also come in the evidence that the burnt clothes (though not completely) were not sent to the forensic laboratory. The statement of the Investigating Officer that the smell of kerosene oil was not present in the clothes, therefore, cannot be given undue weightage and cannot be read in favour of the defence. As the said fact had neither been noted in the seizure memo (Exhibit Ka-6) nor there is any report of the FSL, it cannot be accepted that the Investigating Officer, who was not vigilant enough to send the clothes to the forensic laboratory, would remember at the time of his deposition that whether the smell of kerosene was coming from the burnt clothes or not.

36. In all the facts and circumstances brought before us, the prosecution has proved by an eye-witness account of P.W-4, the manner in which the crime was committed by the appellant Resham Singh along with his brother. It is also proved by P.W-4 that an oral altercation was going on between the deceased on the one hand and her two brothers-in-law and a sister-in-law on the other side, since morning and they both got angry during the altercation, and poured kerosene oil on the deceased and set her on fire. There is no reason to doubt or discard the statement of P.W-4, the daughter of the deceased, who is found to be a wholly reliable witness.

37. Moreover, appellant Resham Singh was a normal resident of the house and his presence in the house at the time of the incident was proved by P.W-4. In his explanation under Section 313 Cr.P.C, the accused-appellant Resham did not take plea of alibi rather his version in reply to question no.7, to give his explanation, was that clothes of the deceased caught fire while she was cooking food and she had died due to burnt injuries immediately. The appellant Resham Singh then stated that the case against him was false and was pursued at the instance of the father of the deceased who wanted that the landed property be given to his grand daughters. From this explanation of the accused appellant, atleast, his presence in the house at the time of the incident is proved. As regards the false case lodged at the instance of the father of the deceased, suffice it to note that the first information report of the crime was given by the husband of the deceased namely P.W-1, the father of the deceased was nowhere in picture when the report was lodged, the case was investigated and even till the chargesheet was submitted. He did not even enter in the witness box to depose against the accused. By mere fact that two daughters of the deceased started residing with their maternal grand father after this ghastly incident, it cannot be said that their grandfather cooked up the case.

38. Having found that the prosecution had proved occurrence by the statement of eye-witness (P.W-4), the last question which remains to be considered is whether the statement of the deceased noted by the doctor, P.W-5 in the emergency register can be relied as "dying declaration" in aid of the case of the prosecution. In this regard, it is pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellant Resham that the said statement though was exhibited as Exhibit Ka-'2' but was not put specifically to the accused Resham during his examination under Section 313 Cr.P.C.

39. The question no.5 has been placed before us to submit that it was perfunctory and in absence of a categorical question putting Exhibit Ka-'2' to the accused, the said document cannot be read in evidence as it would cause serious prejudice to the accused as he would be deprived of giving his explanation to the said version.

40. To consider the said submission, we may extract question no.'5' of the statement under Section 313 of the accused appellant-Resham Singh as under:

"प्रश्न नं०5: अभियोजन द्वारा प्रस्तुत की गई अभिलेखीय साक्ष्य तहरीर प्रदर्श क-1, इलाज से सम्बन्धित कागज की फोटो कापी प्रदर्श क-2, पी०एम०रिपोर्ट प्रदर्श क-4, नक्शा नजरी प्रदर्श क-5, फर्द कब्जे लेने कपड़े मृतका प्रदर्श क-6, आरोप पत्र प्रदर्श क-7, पंचायत-नामा प्रदर्श क-8, चालान लाश प्रदर्श क-9, फोटो लाश प्रदर्श क-10, चिट्ठी आर.आई.प्रदर्श क-11, चिट्ठी सी०एम०ओ० प्रदर्श क-12, प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट प्रदर्श क-13 आदि के सम्बन्ध में आपको क्या कहना है?

उत्तर नं०5: जी गलत है।"

41. A bare persual of the examination of the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C reveals it to be perfunctory in nature. The statement of the deceased noted in the emergency register marked as Exhibit-Ka-'2' had been put to the accused as "इलाज से सम्बन्धित कागज की फोटो कापी प्रदर्श क-2". The incriminating circumstances reflecting in the documentary evidence (Exhibit Ka-'2') were not put to the accused. The substance of the accusation was not brought to the knowledge of the accused to enable the accused to explain the circumstances appearing in the evidence against him.

42. In a recent decision, the Apex Court in Maheshwar Tigga vs State of Jharkhand reported in (2020) 10 SCC 108 has held that the circumstances not put to an accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C cannot be used against him and must be excluded from consideration. Considering the importance of putting all relevant questions to the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C., it was held therein to be an essential part of fair trial, basic to the principles of natural justice.

43. The observations in para-'8' of the decision are relevant to be noted herein under:

"It stands well settled that circumstances not put to an accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. cannot be used against him, and must be excluded from consideration. In a criminal trial, the importance of the questions put to an accused are basic to the principles of natural justice as it provides him the opportunity not only to furnish his defence, but also to explain the incriminating circumstances against him. A probable defence raised by an accused is sufficient to rebut the accusation without the requirement of proof beyond reasonable doubt."

44. In para-'9' of the said decision, the Apex Court has emphasized the relevance of Section 313 Cr.P.C as noted in a previous decision in Naval Kishore vs State of Bihar reported in (2004) 7 SCC 502. In Naval Kishore (supra) the Apex Court had deprecated the practice of putting entire evidence against the accused in a single question. It was held in para-'5' that:

".....Under Section 313 Cr.P.C. the accused should have been given opportunity to explain any of the circumstances appearing in the evidence against him. At least, the various items of evidence, which had been produced by the prosecution, should have been put to the accused in the form of question and he should have been given opportunity to give his explanation. No such opportunity was given to the accused in the instant case. We deprecate the practice of putting the entire evidence against the accused put together in a single question and giving an opportunity to explain the same, as the accused may not be in a position to give a rational and intelligent explanation. The trial judge should have kept in mind the importance of giving an opportunity to the accused to explain the adverse circumstances in the evidence and the Section 313 examination shall not be carried out as an empty formality. It is only after the entire evidence is unfurled the accused would be in a position to articulate his defence and to give explanation to the circumstances appearing in evidence against him. Such an opportunity being given to the accused is part of a fair trial and if it is done in slipshop manner, it may result in imperfect appreciation of evidence....."

45. Having considered the above legal position, we must consider in the facts of the present case as to whether, having regard to the question put to the accused, it can be said that the question no.5 was such as to transmit the knowledge of the incriminating circumstance against the accused clearly so as to give his defence.

46. A perusal of the question no.5 framed by the trial court indicates that all exhibited documentary evidence from Exhibit-Ka-'1' to Ka-'13' were put together to him in one question. Exhibit Ka-'2' the statement of the deceased noted by the doctor during her treatment is one of them. This documentary evidence has been put to the accused only with the detail that it was a paper relating to the treatment of the deceased together with all other papers of the prosecution. The substance of the said letter was neither extracted in the question nor it was put to the accused to the effect that the deceased recorded her last statement implicating the accused persons as perpetrators of the crime.

47. In the said scenario, the Court must eschew the incriminating circumstances which had not been clearly put to the accused, appearing in the evidence, from consideration. The answer to the last question posed by us, therefore, is in 'Negative'. Excluding the statement of the deceased Exhibit-Ka-'2', from consideration, the decision has to be taken on the basis of the remaining evidence.

48. As discussed above, the statement of P.W-4, a child witness, the daughter of the deceased has been found credit worthy, as no inconsistency, improbability and embelishement could be found therein. It cannot be said that the child witness was a tutored one and the sugggestion with regard to her absence at the place of the incident is found unworthy of acceptance. As regards the hostile witnesses, it has come in their evidence that the first information report of the incident was lodged on the same date i.e 01.08.2006 at about 20-30 hours, after the deceased had succumbed to her injuries at about 4.00 p.m. Two accused persons herein were named in the written report submitted in the police station by P.W-1, the husband of the deceased.

49. From the statement of P.W-2, it is proved that the deceased was admitted in the hospital in burnt state and she had died therein.

50. From the statement of P.W-3, the Gram Pradhan, it is proved that he took the deceased to the hospital in a burnt state and got her admitted therein. The deceased was talking while she was admitted in the hospital and was taking names of her brothers-in-law saying that they had set her on fire. It is further proved from the statement of the doctor namely P.W-5 that when the deceased was admitted in the hospital she was in a fit mental state to talk. From the statement of P.W-6 (autopsy surgeon), it is proved that the injuries found on the person of deceased was superficial to deep burn and as per the opinion of the doctor, the external condition of the body was "pugilistic" appearance and redness which appear when a person is burnt alive. From the recovery memo (Exhibit Ka-6) and the bundle of clothes prepared by the post mortem doctors, it seems that the deceased had removed all her clothes in an effort to save her from burning while she was turning over and over in the open place in the Varandah of the house. The appellant Resham Singh was a normal resident of the house alongwith another appellant (who had died during the pendency of the appeal). No plausible explanation is forthcoming from the appellant Resham Singh as to what had actually happened in the house on the fateful day. The burden laid on the appellants under Section 106 of the Evidence Act in view of the prosecution evidence had not been discharged by them.

51. In addition to the evidence led by the prosecution, this circumstance add weight to the prosecution story. In the totality of the facts and circumstances of the present case, it cannot be said that the prosecution has not been able to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubt.

52. No infirmity could be found in the decision of the trial court.

53. The judgment and order dated 29.02.2008 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Bijnor in Sessions Trial no.500 of 2006 (State vs Jaswant Singh and others) arising out of Case Crime no.674 of 2006 under Section 302/34 I.P.C. P.S-Afjalgarh, District-Bijnor for conviction and sentence of appellant no.2-Resham Singh is hereby affirmed.

54. The appeal is found devoid of merit and hence dismissed.

55. The appellant no.2-Resham Singh is in jail.

56. Certify this judgment to the court below immediately for necessary action.

57. The trial court record be sent back immediately.

At about 10:30 a.m., Guddu S/o Sohanpal, Lala @ Lalji S/o Gokaran Pal of his own village and another person came to the place of incident and they outraged the modesty of his wife and tried to commit rape with her. who proved the recovery of Banka, (4) P.W. -4 Mukesh Kumar Chaturvedi, the constable who lodged the F.I.R., (5) P.W. -5 S.I. Harilal Kardam and P.W. -6 Dr. B.R. Jaiswal who conducted the post mortem.

Accused Lala @ Lalji in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. stated that he too was implicated due to election of Gram Pradhan and stated that the witnesses have given false statements.

7. After adducing the evidences on record, the trial court passed judgment on 05.09.2008 and the accused have been convicted under Section 302/34 I.P.C. and sentenced with life imprisonment. Hence the present appeal.

8. We have heard Ms. Manjusha Kapil, learned Counsel for the appellant and Shri Pankaj Tewari, learned A.G.A. for the State-respondents and perused the record.

9. P.W. -1 was examined before the court and he stated in examination in chief that the incident took place prior to nine months at 10:30 a.m. He was present in his house and his wife had gone to weed out the peppermint crop in her field. The field was 70-80 steps away from his house. When he heard the alarm raised by his wife, he reached to the field and saw that accused Lala armed with knife, Guddu armed with Banka were assaulting and causing injury to his wife and there was another man assisting the accused in commission of offence. He has further stated in examination in chief that in the meantime his elder brother Ram Singh, Raju and Prakash and other witnesses of the village came to the place of incident. The accused ran way from the place of incident after causing the injuries. He saw that his wife was dead. He orally stated the fact to Jagdev Prasad who wrote the tehreer. Whatever, he stated before the scriber of the written report, the same was heard by him and then he made his signature thereon. The said report was submitted to Munshi of Police Station who lodged the report.

In the cross examination, P.W. -1 stated before the court that he has no relation with accused Guddu. Gokaran is father of accused Lala and Lala has got another brother, namely, Chhotanne and prior to two years from the date of incident, the election of Gram Pradhan took place. In the said election Chhotanne, Vijaivir and others were contesting candidates. He further stated in the cross examination that there was no occasion to falsely implicate accused Lala out of grudge of election of Gram Pradhan. Chhotanne was doing business of dairy/milk and he saw Chhotanne at 5 p.m. in the village. He further admitted that Chhotanne used to go Lucknow for selling milk. The P.W. -1 further suggested in the cross examination that there was no occasion to falsely implicate Lala at the place of Chhotanne. In the cross examination, it has been stated by the P.W. -1 that boundary of Ram Sewak is situated towards the eastern side of peppermint field and there was no other adjoining field towards the eastern side. There lies a field related to Guddu son of Sohan towards the northern side of peppermint field. It is further admitted in the cross examination that he and his brother Ram Singh were witness of inquest and the body of the deceased was not found in the field of Guddu. He further suggested in the cross examination that he was unable to suggest as to why the dead body was shown in the field of Guddu. He stated that his wife had gone for weeding out the peppermint in the field at 10 O' Clock in the morning and after half an hour, she was killed. She had eaten paratha and kheer. He further denied the suggestion that he was not present in his house at the time of incident. He further denied that the deceased was killed in the morning when she had gone to ease out herself.

He further deposed before the court that Khurpa was lying in the peppermint field when he reached there. After lodging the report police reached to the spot. The spot was inspected by the police but the Khurpa was not present at the time of spot inspection. He further stated that his brother Ram Singh and his mother were present. He admitted that he could not point out the presence of Khurpa at the time of spot inspection. He did not ask his brother Ram Singh and his mother regarding Khurpa. He admitted that he had seen the entire incidence and accused were assaulting his wife at the eastern side of the peppermint field. When he raised an alarm, the accused ran away from the place of occurrence. Ram Singh had also reached to the place of occurrence. He further admitted that firstly, he reached to the place of occurrence and thereafter the villagers reached there. The accused ran away towards the western side of the village. He further admitted that he told Darogaji that accused ran away towards the southern side. He further deposed that he saw the knife used by the accused and he saw that the knife had sharpness at one side. He denied the charges of the defence side that he was not eye witness. He went to the police station through bicycle and reached within twenty minutes. The hand-written tahreer was given to the police station. The report was handed over to Munshiji in the police station who handed over the same to the Darogaji. The report was read before him by Moharrir.

10. P.W. -2 Ram Singh was also examined and in his examination in chief he also supported the prosecution case as stated by his brother i.e. P.W. -1. P.W. -2 Ram Singh stated before the court that he was real brother of complainant - P.W.- 1 and deceased was wife of the P.W. - 1. he deposed that as soon as he started ploughing his field, he heard the alarm raised by wife of the complainant and reached to the spot. He saw that accused Guddu Pal armed with Banka and accused Lala armed with knife, were assaulting his brother's wife. He could not recognize the third person who caught hold of the deceased. He and his brother Pappu tried to catch the accused but they fled away towards Nayagaon. He further stated that as soon as he reached to deceased he saw that she was dead. He further admitted that inquest was prepared in front of him and he signed on the same and his statement was recorded.

11. P.W. -3, Sriram was also examined before the court and he stated that the Banka was recovered in his presence which was found in the flooded field of Moolchand, under the water. The recovery memo was signed by him. P.W. -3, Sriram deposed that on the date of the occurrence he was present in the outside of his village at 7:30 a.m. The Inspector (Darogaji) Ataria met him and asked him to accompany him to recover Banka which was pointed out by accused Guddu. He and Ranjeet went to the place of recovery by police jeep . The jeep was stopped at the road side of Nayagaon. Accused Guddu reached to the field of Moolchand which was flooded with water. He brought out Banka from the field of Moolchand and confessed that he killed deceased Gudda with that Banka. Darogaji sealed the Banka and thumb impression of P.W. -3, Sriram was obtained on the same. The memo was written in torch light. The bundle was opened before the court and Banka was shown to P.W. -3, Sriram who admitted that it was the same Banka which was sealed by the police at the time of recovery.

12. P.W. -4 Mukesh Kumar Chaturvedi stated that he was posted as Moharrir in Police Station Atariya and chick report -66 of 2006 was prepared and he proved the said F.I.R. whichwas entered at G.D. Rapat No. 18 at 12:30 p.m. Mukesh kumar stated before the court that he was posted as Moharrir at Polie Station Ataria on 13.07.2006. He also admitted that Pappu Pal had come to the police station at 12:30 along with a written report. He further admitted that on he basis of the said report, he prepared Chik Report No. 66/2006 in his own handwriting. He proved Exhibit :- Ka-2, which was lodged at GD Rapat No. 18, timing 12:30 hours.

13. P.W. -5, S.I. Harilal Kardam is the Investigating Officer and he stated before the Court in his examination in chief that the said case was registered in his presence at the police station. He investigated the case and thereafter he recorded the statement of Pappu Pal and Ram Singh under Section 161 Cr.P.C. He further admitted that he had gone to the place of occurrence and the inquest was prepared and thereafter the fard was prepared and the body was sent for post mortem. He also stated before the Court that accused Guddu was arrested on 18.07.2006 and his statement was recorded who confessed the guilt. He further stated that he recovered the Banka at the pointing out of Guddu Pal, the accused.

14. P.W. -6, Dr B.R. Jaiswal was also examined before the Court and he has deposed that post mortem of the deceased was conducted by him and three injuries were found on the body of the deceased and all the three injuries were cut wound injuries. He also admitted that 100 ml. Liquid was found in the stomach of the deceased. The liver was torn, kidneys were pale. The doctor has opined the cause of death as shock and hemorrhage due to ante mortem injuries.

15. The accused has made following submissions in his defence.

(i) It has been argued by the counsel for the appellant that after taking the meal the deceased was killed just after half an hour and thus 100 ml. Liquid could not have been found because she had taken food just prior to half and hour. It is further argued by the counsel for the appellant that the deceased was not killed at 10:30 a.m. rather she was killed in the early hours of morning and thus the prosecution was doubtful.

(ii) Counsel for the accused appellant has submitted that the investigation is faulty and there is no recovery of knife. It has been further submitted that there are contradictions in the statement of the Investigating Officer and the witnesses.

(iii) The defence has taken plea that there was no recovery of knife from accused Lala @ Lalji. It has been further submitted that the knife was quarter to two inches wide as per the statement of the witness but there was punctured wound found on the body of the deceased. As per the post mortem report, the injury has been shown as incised wound but the same is punctured wound. There is no evidence of outraging the modesty of the victim. It is further submitted that when P.W. -1 stated that he and his brother reached to the place of occurrence where as P.W. -2 has said that he was in his field and reached to the spot and further stated that his brother P.W. -1 came from the house; thus it has been submitted that there are contradictions in the statement of P.W. -1 and P.W. -2. The argument has been advanced that the witnesses are interested witnesses and there is no independent witness.

(iv) The accused has further argued that as per the inquest report the dead body of the deceased was found at different place whereas the dead body has been shown at different place as per the F.I.R. The inquest prepared by the I.O. indicates that prosecution case is highly doubtful.

(v) The accused has further submitted that the recovery against Guddu is not in accordance with law. The witness of recovery Sriram is resident of 3 k.m. away. Neither soil nor grass was found on the dead body and the recovery at the pointing out of Guddu is also not admissible in the evidence.

(vi) Counsel for the appellant has further submitted that the appellants are in jail for the last fifteen years, therefore they may be given benefit of undergone period of imprisonment and case may be commuted.

16. We proceed to consider the aforesaid submissions of the counsel for the accused appellants as well as to discuss the case in light of the statement made by the counsel for the appellant one by one.

(i) Pappu Pal has specifically mentioned that his wife Smt. Guddu had gone for weeding out the peppermint crop in the field and the accused outraged her modesty on which she raised alarm. After hearing her alarm, P.W. 1 reached to the place of occurrence which was just 70-80 steps away from his house. He saw accused Lala @ Lalji was armed with knife and Guddu with Banka and they were assaulting his wife. Ram Singh, Raju and Prakash reached to the spot. P.W. -2, Ram Singh has also supported the prosecution case mentioning that at 10:30 a.m. he was ploughing his field and heard the alarm raised by Gudda, thereafter he reached to the place of occurrence and saw the accused were making assault on her. P.W. 1 has admitted in the cross examination that the deceased had taken meal i.e. two paratha and 250 gms. Kheer. There was no cross examination to the extent as to when the deceased had taken the meal. In the rural areas normally, it is found that people used to take break fast in between 6-7 O' clock in the morning because they have to leave for their work. It is thus clear that there is no doubt regarding the time of incident and she was assaulted at 10:30 for which already the examination of the witnesses have taken place and they are consistent that the incident took place at 10:30. The doctor was examined who has admitted that 100 ml. liquid was found in the intestine of the deceased and he admitted that the digestion activities of the body organs stops functioning after death. The decomposition process continues after death. Doctor further admitted that after taking meal the food stored in the large intestine passes through to small intestine slowly slowly after one and half hours. It is thus clear that no adverse inference can be drawn sofar as the date and time of occurrence is concerned.

(ii) The second argument placed by the counsel for the appellant is also not sustainable. It is pointed out that P.W. -1, Pappu Pal and P.W. -2 Sriram have specifically stated the fact of the prosecution case and there is no contradiction. The recovery of Banka has also been proved by P.W. -3 who is an independent witness. The Investigating Officer has not committed any fault while doing investigation. The defence side was unable to point out any major discrepancy in the investigation or lapses on the part of the Investigating Officer. The accused Guddu was arrested on 18.07.2006 and thereafter he confessed the guilt and he admitted that Banka was used in committing the murder of Smt. Gudda. On the pointing out of Guddu, Banka was recovered and the recovery was made in presence of P.W. -3, Sriram. The blood stain was found on the Banka which was proved in the report of F.S.L. dated 01.08.2006. It is thus clear that the investigation conducted by the I.O. is not faulty.

(iii) It is evident that the knife was not recovered but the opinion of the doctor clearly indicates that the injuries could have been caused by Banka and knife. The injuries were not punctured wound rather they were incised wound. It is also evident that the modesty of the deceased was outraged that is why she made alarm upon which P.W. -1 and P.W. -2 reached to the place of the incident. Insofar as the witness Raju Pal and Prakash are concerned, though they are independent witnesses and they filed discharge application did not come forward before the court for giving evidence but P.W. -1 and P..W.-2 have given a consistent statement before the court against the appellant and there is no reason to disbelieve their testimony. The place of occurrence was just 70-80 steps from the house of the P.W. -1 and he was able to reach to the spot on the alarm raised by the wife within short span of time. The doctor has also given opinion that the deceased received three incised wound. The doctor had not admitted that any injury out of three was caused by any other weapon because the injuries were incised wound and no injury was punctured wound. The place of occurrence has been proved as per site plan and the same cannot be doubted.

(iv) The inquest was prepared in the presence of witnesses by S.I. Ramlal on 13.07.2006 as Exhibit Ka - 4. It is mentioned in the inquest report that body of the deceased was found in the vacant field of Guddu S/o Sohan. The I.O. has prepared the site plan (Exhibit Ka -10) which was prepared on 13.07.2006 itself. In the site plan the field of Ram Avatar has been shown and room of boring is shown in dilapidated condition and the dot line is shown. The field of peppermint crop of Pappu has been shown towards south side of the field of the Ram Avtar where place (A) is shown. Place (D) is towards south of the Place (A) which is field of Mulla whereas the accused has been shown from where they reached to the place of deceased. Place (B) is shown where the deceased was caught by the accused. The deceased has been shown running from Place (C). P.W. -1 has already stated that the accused made assault in the field of peppermint and the incident was seen by the witnesses. The site plan is matching with the statement of the witnesses. In the inquest report, it is mentioned that the body of the deceased was found in the field of Guddu son of Sohan. In the site plant Exhibit - 10, there is no field of Guddu Pal mentioned by the I.O. It is thus clear that the site plan proves the prosecution and there is no fault in the investigation while Investigating Officer has prepared the site plan. The entire description as mentioned in the site plan is corroborative to the prosecution case and it is held that the incident took place at the place mentioned by the witnesses.

(v) The recovery of Banka has been shown at the pointing out of the accused Guddu Pal. The recovery was made on 18.07.2006 in the presence of independent witness Sriram. The accused confessed that he committed the crime along with the other co-accused with the help of Banka and knife. The I.O. took him into custody on 18.07.2006 and on his pointing out he went to the field of Moolchand which was flooded with water and on the pointing out of the accused, Banka was recovered. The entire recovery process was done in the presence of independent witness Sriram. The Banka was recovered from the field of Moolchand at the pointing out of the appellant himself and he confessed that the said Banka was used for commission of crime. The Banka was sealed in cover and the same was signed with thumb impression by the accused and other witnesses including Sriram. It is thus clear that there is no iota of doubt that the crime was committed by the accused-appellant with the respective weapons as mentioned in the F.I.R. The recovery of Banka was proved before the trial court.

(vi) Counsel for the appellant argued that the appellants have undergone for about fifteen years of imprisonment in jail and they are entitled to be released. The prosecution case is intact and we are of the opinion that the judgment of the trial court needs no interference. Once the appeal is dismissed there is no argument left for the appellants that they may be released or their sentence may be commuted on the basis of fifteen years of imprisonment. The appellants have to undergo the period of sentence because they have been awarded punishment for life imprisonment.

17. The Apex Court in catena of cases categorically held that the Court is not supposed to give undue importance to omissions, contradictions and discrepancies which do not go to the heart of the matter and shake the basic version of the prosecution witnesses.

18. The Supreme Court, in Rohtash Kumar v. State of Haryana, [(2013) 14 SCC 434] held:-

"24. ... The court has to examine whether evidence read as a whole appears to have a ring of truth. Once that impression is formed, it is undoubtedly necessary for the court to scrutinise the evidence more particularly keeping in view the deficiencies, drawbacks and infirmities pointed out in the evidence as a whole and evaluate them to find out whether it is against the general tenor of the evidence given by the witnesses and whether the earlier evaluation of the evidence is shaken, as to render it unworthy of belief. Thus, the court is not supposed to give undue importance to omissions, contradictions and discrepancies which do not go to the heart of the matter, and shake the basic version of the prosecution witness..."

19. In Kuriya and Anr. v. State of Rajasthan, [(2012) 10 SCC 433], the Supreme Court held:

"30. This Court has repeatedly taken the view that the discrepancies or improvements which do not materially affect the case of the prosecution and are insignificant cannot be made the basis for doubting the case of the prosecution. The courts may not concentrate too much on such discrepancies or improvements. The purpose is to primarily and clearly sift the chaff from the grain and find out the truth from the testimony of the witnesses. Where it does not affect the core of the prosecution case, such discrepancy should not be attached undue significance. The normal course of human conduct would be that while narrating a particular incident, there may occur minor discrepancies. Such discrepancies may even in law render credential to the depositions. The improvements or variations must essentially relate to the material particulars of the prosecution case. The alleged improvements and variations must be shown with respect to material particulars of the case and the occurrence. Every such improvement, not directly related to the occurrence, is not a ground to doubt the testimony of a witness. The credibility of a definite circumstance of the prosecution case cannot be weakened with reference to such minor or insignificant improvements. Reference in this regard can be made to the judgments of this Court in Kathi Bharat Vajsur v. State of Gujarat, [(2012) 5 SCC 724; Narayan Chetanram Chaudhary v. State of Maharashtra, [(2000) 8 SCC 457]; Gura Singh v. State of Rajasthan, [(2001) 2 SCC 205] and Sukhchain Singh v. State of Haryana, [(2002) 5 SCC 100].

31. What is to be seen next is whether the version presented in the Court was substantially similar to what was said during the investigation. It is only when exaggeration fundamentally changes the nature of the case, the Court has to consider whether the witness was stating the truth or not. [(Ref. Sunil Kumar v. State (Govt. of NCT of Delhi)], [(2003) 11 SCC 367].

32. These are variations which would not amount to any serious consequences. The Court has to accept the normal conduct of a person. The witness who is watching the murder of a person being brutally beaten by 15 persons can hardly be expected to a state a minute by minute description of the event. Everybody, and more particularly a person who is known to or is related to the deceased, would give all his attention to take steps to prevent the assault on the victim and then to make every effort to provide him with the medical aid and inform the police. The statements which are recorded immediately upon the incident would have to be given a little leeway with regard to the statements being made and recorded with utmost exactitude. It is a settled principle of law that every improvement or variation cannot be treated as an attempt to falsely implicate the accused by the witness. The approach of the court has to be reasonable and practicable. Reference in this regard can be made to Ashok Kumar v. State of Haryana, [(2010) 12 SCC 350] and Shivlal v. State of Chhattisgarh, [(2011) 9 SCC 561]."

20. In Shyamlal Ghosh v. State of West Bengal, [(2012) 7 SCC 646], the Supreme Court held:

"46. Then, it was argued that there are certain discrepancies and contradictions in the statement of the prosecution witnesses inasmuch as these witnesses have given different timing as to when they had seen the scuffling and strangulation of the deceased by the accused. ..... Undoubtedly, some minor discrepancies or variations are traceable in the statements of these witnesses. But what the Court has to see is whether these variations are material and affect the case of the prosecution substantially. Every variation may not be enough to adversely affect the case of the prosecution.

49. It is a settled principle of law that the court should examine the statement of a witness in its entirety and read the said statement along with the statement of other witnesses in order to arrive at a rational conclusion. No statement of a witness can be read in part and/or in isolation. We are unable to see any material or serious contradiction in the statement of these witnesses which may give any advantage to the accused."

21. We do not find any infirmity, illegality or perversity in the judgment and order of the trial court and are unable to persuade ourselves to take an opinion other than that of the trial court.

22. Consequently, the appeal lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

23. The appellant is in jail, he shall serve out the sentence awarded by the trial court.

24. Let a copy of this order along with lower court record be transmitted to trial court concerned for necessary information and follow up action.

Introduction:-

4. The first information report of the incident, occurred on 20.01.2002 at about 7-7:30 p.m, was lodged on 21.01.2002 at 6.15 am by Shripal @ Pappu s/o Ramsewak Pal reporting therein that his brother Yashpal Singh aged about 29 years had been abducted in order to commit his murder by some miscreants while he and his brother Yashpal (victim) were coming to their house in village Maheshpur from the Government Parag Dairy, Village-Hariharpur. It was averred therein that near the Hariharpur wali bambi ki puliya on the western side, 5-6 persons were standing, the first informant and his brother were on two cycles and his brother (victim) was fifteen paces ahead of him. Three-four unknown persons caught his brother and started beating him. He and his brother had seen the miscreants in the torch light clearly and they all were wearing pant, shirt and sweater. The miscreants first caught his brother, beaten him by kicks and fists and when the first informant intervened he was also beaten. His brother then told him to run away and the informant ran away from the place of the incident to save his life. His brother Yashpal, however, had been abducted by the unknown miscreants and the first informant had an apprehension that they might kill his brother out of enmity. The first informant further states that he alongwith villagers made all possible efforts to search his brother but his whereabouts could not be known. In the written report, the first informant stated that he could identify the miscreants if they were brought before him.

5. On the basis of the written report, P.W-3, Ram Chandra the Head Moharrir posted at the police station concerned registered the first information report and proved that the Check report was prepared in his handwriting and bears his signature, it was exhibited as Exhibit Ka-1. The G.D entry at Rapat no.7 dated 21.01.2002, at 6.15 a.m, was also proved by P.W-3 from the original GD brought in the Court and filing of the carbon copy thereof, marked as Exhibit Ka-2.

6. On a suggestion to this witnesses, he categorically stated that before submission of the written report no oral or telephonic information about the incident was recieved in the police station and no police personnel went to the spot prior to the lodging of the first information report. The Investigating Officer Mahipal Singh Tomar (P.W-6) was present in the police station when the report was lodged.

7. The Investigating Officer P.W-6 stated that the investigation was received by him on 21.01.2002 and after copying the Check report, G.D, the statements of the first informant and other witnesses were recorded. The inspection of the site was made on the pointing out of the first informant and the site plan had been proved as Exhibit Ka-5, being in his handwriting and signature. After recording the statements of other witnesses on 22.1.2002, the search for the victim was conducted from 24.01.2002 for several days. On 05.03.2002, a letter of ransom which was received by the first informant Shripal through the post, was entered in the case diary at parcha no.8. On 06.03.2002, accused-appellant Sarvesh Kumar s/o Ram Bharose was arrested, he was interrogated in the police station. On the information of accused Sarvesh, search was made in the house of Mistri @ Virendra and search for other accused persons was also made. On 8.3.2002, a wireless message was received that the victim Yashpal was present in the Police Station-Bhare in District Etawah. On getting the said information, P.W-6 reached at the police station concerned, interrogated the victim and recorded his statement. The victim named other accused persons in the offence of his abduction. The Investigating Officer states that the victim told him that the accused persons used to visit the house of Lajjaram in the village prior to the incident. They took him to the jungle and used to beat him. Two accused persons namely Munni lal and Shrikant made Anal sex with him and accused Virendra and Bhure threatened him for ransom while he was in their custody. They also forced him to write 2-3 letters to raise the demand for ransom.

8. On 10.03.2002, P.W-6 received a message that appellants Munni lal Prajapati and Jay Prakash @ Bhure had been arrested in some other case in District Auraiya. Their statements were recorded in the police station Ajitmal, they also took the names of Laljjaram, Shrikant, Sarvesh @ Machchar, Virendra @ Tiwari and Lambu as co-accused.

9. The victim was produced before the CJM for recording his statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. At G.D Rapat no.5 dated 9.3.2002, the offence under Section 364A IPC was added and the carbon copy of the said GD had been proved and exhibited as Exhibit Ka-'7'. Photo copy of an inland letter with envelop received by the first informant, entered in the CD, was produced and proved as Exhibit Ka-'8' and Ka-'9'. After the investigation was completed, the chargesheet was submitted. In cross, when the statement of victim Yashpal was put to P.W-6, he admitted that the victim told him that apart from one accused named as Lambu, all other four miscreants used to come to the house of Lajjaram in the village for playing cards and that is why the victim knew all of them. The appellant Lajjaram was resident of the same village as that of the victim. P.W-6 stated that after receipt of the information of the incident, he reached at the spot of the incident at about 10-10.30 hours. P.W-6 denied any knowledge of there being any enmity between Lajjaram and the first informant and also denied the suggestion that a false case was lodged due to enmity.

10. P.W-6 proved that he recorded statement of the first informant on the date of the incident and made inspection of the site on the same day. He stated that the first informant did not mention name of any of the accused in his first statement nor expressed any suspicion on any of them. P.W-6 proved that the victim, in his first statement, told that he knew accused Shrikant before the incident as Shrikant used to come to the house of Lajjaram in the village Maheshpur and knew his name as well. A suggestion of enmity between Shrikant and the first informant was given to P.W-6 which he had denied. In cross for appellant Lajjaram, P.W-6 stated that the victim had taken the names of Munni lal and Shrikant while making allegations of commission of Anal sex with him. It was admitted that the place of the incident falls within the jurisdiction of the police station Sikandra, whereas the first informant was the resident of village Maheshpur.

11. The doctor P.W-5 who had examined the victim on 08.03.2002 at the District hospital, Etawah proved that the victim was brought by the police personnel of the concerned police station in the District Etawah. During the examination, the victim complained of pain on his both shoulders, right leg and chest but there were no visible injuries and as such no definite opinion could be formed about the cause of pain. The doctor, however, stated that such pain may occur due to beating by kicks and fists or because of some old injury. The medico legal report of the victim was proved by P.W-5, as Exhibit Ka-4, being in his hand writing and signature and bearing thumb impression and identification mark of the victim. In cross, P.W-5, again stated that the victim told him during the examination that he was experiencing pain but there was no visible injury or swelling and further that the victim did not make complaint of any pain in his Anus. No proximate time could be estimated as there was no visible injury.

12. The formal witnesses, thus, proved the documents prepared by them during the course of the investigation and the medical examination of the victim. The charge under Section 364 A and 377 IPC framed against the accused appellants had been denied by all of them.

Prosecution Case:-

13. Three witnesses of fact were produced by the prosecution, amongst whom, P.W-1 is the cousin of the victim and the first informant; P.W-2 is the victim Yashpal; P.W-4 is the first informant Shripal @ Pappu. P.W-1 Shivbalak s/o Jorawar Singh, resident of Maheshpur stated that he met the first informant in the field near his house, one kilometre towards the east from the place of the incident. He stated that after hearing the cries he went to the place of the incident at around 7 to 7.15 p.m, Shripal told him that he (Shripal) was also beaten by the miscreants and he had left his cycle at the place of the incident. He came running to the field where P.W-1 was met. The statement of this witness is hearsay so far as the incident of abduction is concerned and nothing much could be elicited from his testimony, in favour of the prosecution.

14. The star witnesses of the prosecution are two brothers P.W-2, the victim and P.W-4, the first informant whose testimony will decide the fate of the case.

15. Coming to the statement of P.W-4, the first informant Shripal @ Pappu, it is to be noted that in his deposition in the Court, he described the incident in the same manner as narrated in the FIR. In his examination in chief, P.W-4 stated that he believed that the accused had abducted the victim due to enmity and they would either kill him or release him on ransom. The report of the incident was dictated to Videsh Singh and after the report was read over to him, it was signed, the written report is Exhibit Ka-3. P.W-4 further stated that he clearly saw the accused persons namely Virendra, Lajjaram, Sarvesh @ Machchar, Jay Prakash in the torch light. But the names of these persons, were disclosed by his brother (P.W-2) when he returned back. At the time when the report was lodged, he (P.W-4) did not know the names of the accused persons. P.W-4 admitted that no examination of his alleged injuries was conducted and the Investigating Officer recorded his statement.

16. In cross, P.W-4 narrated a different story that the miscreants had muffled their faces and he could not identify any of them as it was dark and for that reason, he did not mention the names of the accused persons in the first information report and it was lodged against unknown persons. P.W-4 further stated that he was beaten by the miscreants by lathi and danda and the act of beating continued for about 2-3 minutes. The miscreants had given a blow of danda on his head. He left his cycle on the spot and it was brought to the village by one Nandram. He then stated that the police had reached at the spot before lodging of the first information report and it seemed to him that someone had intimated the police. He then stated that he did not give information to the police. The suggestion given to this witness that his brother was not abducted and the story was created as his brother had fallen in a bad company, was denied by him. He then stated that he went to the spot of the incident along with the police and they made searches in the torch light. The cycle was lying at the roadside and the police picked it up.

17. P.W-4 further stated for lodging the first information report he left to the police station at about 06.15 am by motorcycle and he went alone. In the same breath he says that he could not drive the motorcycle and did not remember the name of the person who drove the motorcycle.

18. With regard to the identity of the accused, P.W-4 admitted in the cross examination that accused Lajjaram was resident of his village and the fields of Lajjaram were nearby his field. A suggestion was given to P.W-4 of previous enmity due to Nali (drain) in their field which he denied. P.W-4 also denied that Lajjaram and Munnilal were friends and that the accused Munnilal used to come to the house of Lajjaram in his village and he had falsely implicated both of them. P.W-4 also admitted that he knew Shrikant prior to the incident but denied any enmity with him because of the betel shop (kiosk). The suggestion that the report was lodged intentionally against unnamed persons and the accused were falsely implicated later after deliberations with his brother (P.W-2) was denied by P.W-4.

19. P.W-2 is the victim namely Yashpal who was aged about 29 years on the date of his deposition. He stated that the incident had occurred at about 7.30 pm when he was coming from Hariharpur after delivering milk. 5-6 persons gheroed him near bambi ki puliya and when his brother Shripal flashed his torch, he had seen that they were carrying guns, country made pistol, lathi and danda. The miscreants caught him though his brother could escape. The miscreants took him to the jungle while covering his eyes but he could slightly see that they used to change places. On the third day of the incident they had beaten him and while beating they asked him as to how much gold and silver and cash he had in his account. One letter was got written by the miscreants for ransom around 14-15th February. The said letter was stamped and addressed to his brother. The contents of the letter had been narrated by P.W-2 in his testimony to emphasize that the ransom of Rs.5,51,101/-, as offerings to Maa Durge, was demanded.

20. P.W-2 admitted that amongst the miscreants, Lajjaram was the resident of his village and also narrated the details of residences of other accused except one unknown miscreant named Lambu; and then stated that he could identify that person if he was brought before him. P.W-2 further stated that except Lambu he knew everyone prior to the incident as they used to come to the house of accused Lajjaram in the village and they all played cards together and since then he knew their names as well. P.W-2 then stated that the miscreants used to beat him and tortured him to do all their daily works such as making of food and fetching the water. They also committed Anal sex with him against his wishes and Shrikant, Munnilal Prajapati and Lajjaram were amongst those who had sex with him. On 20.02.2002, the co-accused Sarvesh @ Machchar alongwith others took him to his village Maheshpur and detained him in his field; they were getting food from the house of accused Sarvesh @ Machchar and stayed there for one week. On 28.04.2002, he was beaten by the accused while they were asking the place of residence of his brother Shiv Balak in District Auraiya.

21. On 04.03.2002, accused Sarvesh @ Machchar went to his house and on 06.03.2002, the police arrested Sarvesh @ Machchar and then there was a lot of chaos amongst the miscreants and they took him to the 'Behad' (deep jungle) of the Yamuna river. There was one more abducted person with them. On 08.03.2002, while the accused persons were sleeping having been tired near the Yamuna river in the field of the jungle and another kidnapped person was sitting, P.W-2 states, that he escaped and reached at the police station Bhare in District Etawah. His medical examination was done at Etawah and the Investigating Officer of the police station Sikandara reached there at about 2.00-2.30 p.m. After interrogation by the Investigating Officer he was taken to the Court for recording his statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C.

22. He further stated that the letter for ransom was given by his brother to the Investigating Officer. In cross for the accused Virendra, Sarvesh and Jay Prakash, P.W-2 reiterated the incident as narrated in his examination in chief but categorically stated that the miscreants were not covering their faces when they pounced from the field at the place of the incident. He further stated that they also hit him by the butt of the gun and all miscreants had beaten him. On being confronted, P.W-2 stated that he knew everyone in the village and population of his village was about 2000. He narrated the place of residence of the accused persons, namely Shrikant, Virendra, Sarvesh and Jay Prakash, and stated that Sarvesh was a relative of Lajjaram and used to come to his village. P.W-2 further stated that he knew names and addresses of the accused persons as they used to play cards in the house of Lajjaram and their addresses were not told to him by anyone else. The accused Lajjaram was resident of his village and the accused Shrikant, Munnilal, Jay Prakash and Virendra were coming to the house of the Lajjaram for about 1½ years prior to the incident and he also used to go there to play cards with them. P.W-2 then stated that his brother knew the accused Shrikant and Lajjaram and no one else.

23. P.W-2 further disclosed that he had partnership with Lajjaram for the crop of sugarcane and there was one more partner with them named as Radhakishan. The partnership was alive at the time of the incident and it was ended only because of the first information report lodged by P.W-2 against the accused persons. P.W-2 however, stated that in relation to the partnership with Lajjaram, no dispute had arisen nor there was any dispute relating to the cost of the crop. At the time when he was with the accused, crop was harvested and the share of Lajjaram had been sent to his house and his own share came to his house. When he came back, though Lajjaram was sent to jail but all accounting of the crop was done by his family members. P.W-2 then denied that a false report was lodged by him because of the dispute relating to the partnership and also denied that any dispute had arisen between them on account of playing of cards together.

24. P.W-2 further stated that the accused persons used to keep him at different places and a ransom of Rs.5,51,101/- was demanded. He was also beaten by the accused persons. P.W-2 repeated many times in his deposition that he knew the accused persons prior to the incident though denied that it was wrong to say that no such incident took place or the accused persons had not beaten him or not demanded ransom. It was stated that the letter for ransom was written by him on the instructions of the miscreants and the signatures of all the accused persons were present thereon which also bears his signature. He stated that he was released from the custody of the accused after 20-22 days of writing of the said letter. The accused persons namely Munnilal and Shrikant used to commit Anal sex with him. P.W-2 stated that the site plan of the site of the incident was prepared at his instance. P.W-2 again admitted that Lajjaram was the resident of his village and their fields were adjacent and the drain of their fields was common though he denied that any dispute had occured between them on account of the common drain.

25. In cross for the accused Shrikant, P.W-2 stated that his brother was not used to going to the house of Lajjaram and that he (P.W-2) could not identify the miscreants when they first met him. The name of the village of the accused Shrikant was disclosed by P.W-2 but he denied any dispute with Shrikant because of the betel kiosk. He stated that when miscreants were taking him with them he did not raise any alarm.

26. P.W-2 stated that the letter for ransom was written in the name of his brother Shripal and the original letter was not brought in the Court on the date of his deposition but kept at his home. PW-2 was recalled and crossed for the accused Shrikant wherein he stated that his brother Shripal knew the accused Shrikant and Lajjaram prior to the incident because of the fact that Lajjaram was resident of his village and Shrikant used to go to the house of Lajjaram and further that Shrikant was also resident of a nearby village. P.W-2 stated that his brother identified two of the miscreants but the reason for lodging the report against unknown persons could not be explained by him. He then stated that he could identify the miscreants when they were at a distance of one feet. P.W-2 stated that he told the doctor to examine his injuries; and to the Investigating Officer that the accused had committed Anal sex with him.

Arguments of the counsels for the appellants:-

27. Placing the above noted statements of the prosecution witnesses and the documentary evidences on record, it is argued by the learned counsel for the appellants that 5-6 persons were implicated for the offence under Sections 364-A and Section 377 IPC at the instance of P.W-2, the alleged victim of the occurence. The first informant/P.W-4 lodged the report of the incident allegedly occurred on 20.01.2002 at about 7.30 p.m., on the next morning, ie 21.01.2002 at about 6.00 a.m. No reason for delay in lodging of the first information report could be furnished by P.W-4. According to P.W-2, the victim, he had escaped from the custody of the accused persons and reached to the police station at Etawah. He was then examined by the doctor and he told the doctor as also the Investigating Officer that the offence under Section 377 IPC was committed with him.

28. It is urged that the victim, in so many words had admitted that he knew the accused persons prior to the incident except one Lambu. He also admitted that his brother, the first informant namely P.W-4 also knew two of the accused persons namely Lajjaram & Shrikant. No explanation could be offered by the prosecution as to why the written report was lodged against unnamed persons. The explanation offered by P.W-4 that he though identified the miscreants but did not know their names and hence the first information report was lodged against unnamed persons is belied by the version of the P.W-2, victim, in his deposition both in chief and cross. There are material inconsistencies in the statements of two prosecution witnesses who are real brothers and their testimonies are full of embelishments and exaggerations. The statement of P.W-4 that the accused persons were covering their faces and, as such, he could not identify them is in complete contradiction to the statement of P.W-2, the victim and his own version in the FIR. This statement is nothing but a material improvement in the testimony of P.W-4 when he was confronted as to why he did not name the accused persons whom he knew well since before the incident. The scribe of the FIR, Videsh Singh was resident of a different village. There is no injury report for the alleged assault on the first informant (P.W-4). Other contradictions in the statement of P.W-4, the first informant and the Investigating Officer about visiting the spot of the incident even after lodging of the first information report have been pointed out by the learned counsels for the appellants to assert that none of the prosecution witnesses are credible, their testimonies are liable to be thrown at the very threshold.

29. It was argued that the victim P.W-2 admitted that the fields of one of the accused Lajjaram and his field were adjacent to each other and his brother P.W-4 knew him very well. The act of P.W-4 in making the written report against unknown persons itself demolishes the entire prosecution story.

30. Moreover, the letter for ransom was not proved by production of original in the Court by both the prosecution witnesses ie P.W-2, (the victim) and P.W-4 (his brother) though P.W-2 deposed that the original letter was kept at his home. P.W-2 though narrated the contents of the letter but did not prove the document in the Court. The proof of photocopy of the letter for ransom in the deposition of the Investigating Officer is of no relevance. P.W-2, the victim though stated that the letter for ransom was written by him and signed by all the accused persons but no forensic report to tally the writing and signature of the accused persons was obtained to testify the genuineness of the said document. It is thus argued that as the demand of ransom could not be proved by the prosecution, the conviction for the offence under Section 364A IPC of the appellants cannot be sustained.

31. Further, there is no medical report to support the allegations of commission of offence under Section 377 IPC. The conviction under the said provision, therefore, has to be set aside. Further, no bodily injury could be found on the person of the victim to support his version that he was beaten by the accused persons. The medical evidence, thus, shatters the occular version of the victim, P.W-2, that he was threatened to death or the conduct of the accused persons gave rise to an apprehension in his mind that he might be put to death. The ingredients of Section 364A, thus, could not be proved by the prosecution.

32. It is argued that the present is a case of false implication of the accused persons at the hands of P.W-2 who projected himself as a victim. It seems that the alleged victim himself went with the appellants and later on the brother of the victim implicated all his acquaintence falsely for the reasons best known to the complainant and the victim. The testimony of P.W-4 is liable to be discarded as a whole as this witness has been proved to be a liar.

Arguments of the State:-

33. Learned AGA, in rebuttal, argued that the best witness in a case of kidnapping is the victim himself. The fact that an unnamed FIR was lodged rather proves that the prosecution is truthful is not making a case of false implication. No contradictory suggestion was given to P.W-2 when he stated that he was taken to different places by the accused persons. The names of all accused persons were disclosed by the victim in his first statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. No contrary suggestion had been given to the victim for false implication of the accused persons by him. The statement of the victim (P.W-2) is that all the accused persons demanded ransom and used to ask him as to how much money, gold and silver he owned and that they also asked about the financial status of his brother Shiv Balak and the place of his residence, proved the demand for ransom.

34. As regards the submission of the learned counsels for the appellants that P.W-2 went on his own with the accused persons, it was argued by the learned A.G.A that there was no suggestion to P.W-2 in that regard during his cross examination. The victim had given a vivid description of the entire occurence. It is evident that the accused persons were caught one by one and then only the victim could escape from their custody, who straightway went to the police station and his medical examination was conducted which also proved that he was beaten by the accused persons. In any case, the statement of P.W-4 cannot be discarded as no motive of making a false report regarding abduction could be assigned to him. He cannot be said to be an untrustworthy witness. The demand for ransom coupled with the threat given to P.W-2 was proved by him in his oral testimony. The fact that the original of the letter for ransom was not produced or the writing and signatures were not tallied would not make any difference in so far as the offence under Section 364A is concerned.

35. It is argued by the learned AGA that contradictions in the testimony of prosecution witnesses are not such that their testimony as a whole, can be discarded. Each and every statement of the prosecution witnesses cannot be read in piecemeal to discard the prosecution witnesses. The fact that P.W-4 did not disclose the names of two of the accused persons who were known to him rather supports the prosecution case and dispels the defence theory that it was a case for false implication, as in that case it was very easy for the first informant to name the accused persons at the very beginning. The submission of the learned counsels for the appellants that there was no medical report to support the version of the victim about commission of the offence under Section 377 IPC, by the accused persons, however, could not be contradicted by making any submissions.

36. In rejoinder, it was reiterated by the learned counsels for the appellants that in this case, the demand for ransom could be proved by the original letter to compare the letter (photocopy) produced by the Investigating Officer but since the original of the said letter was not brought before the Court, the allegations of demand for ransom could not be said to be proved by the prosecution. Further, there is absolutely no evidence that the victim had faced threat of his death. As per his own version the victim was well known to the appellants and he remained in their company for about 1½ months. The entire story put forth by P.W-2 projecting himself as a victim is concocted one. The appeal, thus, deserves to be dismissed.

Analysis:-

37. Having heard learned counsels for the parties, we find it fit to go through the provisions of Section 364A to understand as to what would be the circumstances required in a case, to attract the provisions of Section 364A of the Indian Penal Code.

38. Section 364A of the Code deals with kidnapping for ransom. The Section reads as under:-

"[364A. Kidnapping for ransom, etc.--Whoever kidnaps or abducts any person or keeps a person in detention after such kidnapping or abduction and threatens to cause death or hurt to such person, or by his conduct gives rise to a reasonable apprehension that such person may be put to death or hurt, or causes hurt or death to such person in order to compel the Government or [any foreign State or international inter-governmental organisation or any other person] to do or abstain from doing any act or to pay a ransom, shall be punishable with death, or imprisonment for life, and shall also be liable to fine.]"

This Section refers to both kidnapping and abduction.

39. Section 359 defines kidnapping and as per the definition therein the offence of kidnapping is not attracted in the present case.

40. Abduction is defined in Section 362 as under:

"362. Abduction.--Whoever by force compels, or by any deceitful means induces, any person to go from any place, is said to abduct that person.

Abduction is distinguished from kidnapping. It is well known that the ingredients of the two offences-'kidnapping' and 'abduction' are entirely different. These are two distinct offences;" The ingredients of two offences namely of kidnapping and abduction, are entirely different. These are two distinct offences as noted above. The offence of kidnapping is not made out in the instant case.

41. The provision which defines abduction envisages two types of abductions, ie (i) by force or by compulsion; and/or (ii) inducement by deceitful means. The object of such compulsion or inducement must be the going of the victim from any place.

To "Induce" means "to lead into". 'Deceit' according to its plain dictionary meaning signifies anything intended to mislead another. It is a matter of intention, if the case falls in the second category. The case at hand, however, falls in the first category.

42. It is held by the Apex Court in Malleshi vs State of Karnataka reported in (2004) 8 SCC 95 that the offence of abduction is a continuing a offence. Section 364A provides punishment for kidnapping, arrest, abduction or detaining for ransom. To attract the provisions of Section 364A, what is required to be proved is:-

(1) that the accused kidnapped or abducted the person; and

(2) kept him under detention after such kidnapping and abduction; and

(3) that the kidnapping or abduction was for ransom;

43. The question as to what would amount to pay ransom had further been deliberated by the Apex Court in the aforesaid decision while referring to the dictionary meaning of the words "to pay a ransom" and "demand".

Relevant paragraph-'13' of the decision is to be quoted as under:-

"13.To pay a ransom as per Black's Law Dictionary means "to pay price or demand for ransom". The word "demand" means "to claim as one's due;" "to require"; "to ask relief"; "to summon"; "to call in Court"; "An imperative request preferred by one person to another requiring the latter to do or yield something or to abstain from some act;" An asking with authority, claiming." The definition as pointed out above would show that the demand has to be communicated. It is an imperative request or a claim made. "

It was noted in paragraph-'13' that the essence of abduction is causing to stay a person in isolation and demand for ransom. It cannot be laid down as a straight jacket formula that the demand for payment has to be made to a person who ultimately pays. It has to be established in the facts of the case that the object of abduction was for ransom. In the facts of that case it was held that the demand of ransom was clearly conveyed to the victim and he was even conveyed the amount to be paid. The victim was told that, for his release his family members would have to pay a certain amount of money. It was held that if after making the demand to the kidnapped or abducted person merely because the demand could not be conveyed to some other persons, as an accused is arrested in the meantime, does not take away the offence outside the purview of Section 364 A. It has to be seen in such a case as to what was the object of kidnapping or abduction. It was held in the facts of that case that since the demand had already been made therein by conveying it to the victim, the conviction of the accused under Section 364A could not be said to suffer from any infirmity. It was lastly noted that who pays the ransom is not the determinative fact.

44. Considering the observations in the judgment of the Apex Court in Malleshi (supra), it is clear that the provisions of Section 364A can be said to be attracted in a case where both the ingredients are proved:-

(i) that the accused abducted the person and kept him under detention after abduction;

(ii) the object was for ransom, i.e detention of the victim is with the intention to demand for ransom;

45. Whether the demand could be conveyed to the person or the family members who were to pay for his release is immaterial. It has to be seen by the Court that the object for abduction was for ransom and the demand was conveyed to the victim.

46. In the light of the said discussion, it has to be seen as to whether in the facts of the present case, the prosecution has been able to prove the ingredients of Section 364A IPC.

47. Coming to the facts of the present case, from the evidence of P.W-2 and P.W-4 as noted above, it is established that admittedly the victim P.W-2 knew all the accused persons before hand except one named as Lambu as he used to play cards with them when they came to the house of accused Lajjaram, who was resident of the same village. The accused Lajjaram and the victim had a partnership in relation to a crop of sugarcane at the time of the incident. The fields of the accused Lajjaram and the victim P.W-2 were adjacent. As per the version of P.W-4, the first informant in the written report as also his deposition in the Court, he had seen the accused persons clearly in the torch light when they caught hold of his brother (victim P.W-2) and beaten him.

48. In the said scenario, it is impossible to believe that P.W-4 could not identify Lajjaram who was his next door neighbour and was well acquainted with both of them, i.e. P.W-4 and his brother (the victim herein). It is also difficult to believe that the first informant (P.W-4) could not identify another accused Shrikant whom he knew well as per his own version. From the testimony of both P.W-4 and P.W-2, thus, it is proved that the accused Lajjaram was resident of the same village and the field of Lajjaram was adjacent to their field and that they both knew Shrikant as well. In the said scenario, it is not acceptable that P.W-4 could not identify the accused persons, at least two of them namely, Lajjaram and Shrikant.

49. The explanation offered by P.W-4 for lodging the unnamed FIR that the accused persons had muffled their faces was contradicted by the victim P.W-2. Moreover, the said version is a material improvement as it is in complete contradiction to the first version of P.W-4 in the FIR and his examination-in-chief, wherein he stated that he had seen the accused persons clearly in the torch light and could identify them if they were brought before him and is liable to be discarded as such.

50. Further, the version of P.W-4, in chief, that he had seen miscreants clearly in the torch light and then in the cross that he could not identify any of them as they had muffled their faces and that is why unnamed report was lodged is self contradictory. As regards the rest of the testimony of P.W-4 we can only say that he has proved the written report having been lodged by him, which is exhibited as Exhibit-Ka-3. The contents of the written report had also been proved by P.W-4 in his testimony in the examination in chief.

51. The star witness of the prosecution, the victim, who had entered in the witness box as P.W-2, stayed with the accused persons for about 1½ months and stated that he was detained by them and they moved to different places. There is not even a whisper in the testimony of P.W-2 as to how he was detained by the accused persons who were very well known to him rather who were his friends, with whom he used to play cards and one of them was a neighbour with whom he had partnership for the crop of sugarcane. Mere assertion in the statement of P.W-2, the victim, that the accused persons were 5-6 in number and they took him to the jungle and forced him to cook their food and fetch water for them would not be sufficient to hold that the victim was kept under detention. It is admitted by the victim P.W-2 in his testimony, that he never raised alarm while he was going from one place to another with the accused persons. The mode as to how they travelled from one place to another is completely missing from the testimony of P.W-2. It is difficult to assess as to whether the victim did not have a chance to raise any alarm at any point of time during his stay with the accused persons for about 1½ months which for some time was also in the village of accused Sarvesh @ Machchar. It is noted that the victim P.W-2 very conveniently projected himself as a person in detention and then state that while the accused persons were sleeping, he escaped and straightaway reached to the police station at District-Etawah. In the statement of P.W-2, it has also come that one more abducted person was in his company.

52. Further the object of abduction as projected by P.W-2 was for ransom. The demand of ransom was sought to be proved by producing an inland letter allegedly received through post, photostat copy of which was given to the Investigating Officer who proved it in the Court as Exhibit Ka-8 and Ka-9, the documents having been entered in the case diary by him. How much reliance can be placed on the photocopy of the alleged letter for the demand of ransom has to be seen in the light of the statement of P.W-2, the victim who stated that the letter for demand of ransom was written by him on the instructions of the accused around 14-15th February and this letter was addressed to his brother Shivpal Singh (P.W-4) whose address mentioned in Exhibit-Ka-8 had been proved by P.W-2. P.W-2 stated that the stamp of Rs.1.00/- was pasted therein and the demand of Rs.5,00,000/- was made. The photocopy of this letter though was entered by the Investigating Officer in his case diary and produced in the Court but the original copy had not been produced by the witnesses specifically P.W-2, who deposed that the original letter was in his possession but was not brought in the Court. The best evidence in possession of P.W-2, the victim, has been suppressed by the prosecution.

53. Further, there is no proof of writing of P.W-2 on the said letter for ransom, ie Exhibit Ka-8 and Ka-9, P.W-2 did not prove the letter or his writing on the same in his deposition. No forensic report has been obtained in this regard. Further the statement of P.W-2 is that the letter for ransom (Exhibit Ka-9) contained signatures of all the accused persons with their writing on the letter which were not tallied. The person to whom the said letter was addressed, i.e brother of the victim namely Shiv Pal Singh had not proved that he had received the said letter through post. There is no proof of dispatch of the said letter by post. From the case diary, only this much can be shown that at CD Rapat no.8 dated 05.03.2002, there is an entry that one letter in an envelop was given by the first informant to the Investigating Officer, the content of which was extracted in the case diary and after enclosing the photostat copy of the letter therein, the original was handed over to the first informant with the instructions that it had to be kept preserved and produced in the Court or before the police whenever summoned.

54. From the above entry, only this much can be said that the first informant gave a letter to the Investigating Officer stating that the demand for ransom was made by the accused persons but as to how the said letter was received and who had received the same was not proved. P.W-4, the first informant is completely silent about the letter for ransom given to the Investigating Officer and the scribe of the letter namely P.W-2 who is the victim himself did not prove his writing on the said letter. No inquiry in this regard had been made by the trial court and the original letter was not produced in the Court. These facts are sufficient to conclude that the prosecution had failed to prove the demand for ransom on the basis of the letter for ransom exhibited as Exhibit-Ka-9.

55. As to the rule of proof of a fact by the documentary evidence, it is settled principle that so long as the original exist and is available, it being the best evidence, must be produced. As per the Section 62 of the Evidence Act, the existence of primary evidence generally excludes secondary evidence. Secondary evidence of contents of written instruments cannot be given unless there is some legal excuse for non production of the original. The general rule is that secondary evidence is not admissible until non production of the primary evidence is satisfactorily proved.

56. In view of Section 64, contents of document must be proved by production of the original document and secondary evidence of it is not generally admissible. Section 65 admits secondary evidence only of the existence or the contents of a document which is lost or otherwise unavailable. Section 67 of the Evidence Act provides that mere production of the document in evidence is not proof of genuineness of the document. The genuineness and execution of the document, therefore, has to be proved by the signature or the handwriting of the signatory or the author.

Section 67 enjoins that before the document can be looked into it has to be proved. The provision though does not prescribed any particular mode of proof, the execution or authorship of document being question of fact it can be proved like any other fact by direct or circumstantial evidence. The opinion of a person who is acquainted with the handwriting of a particular person is a relevant fact to prove the handwriting.

57. Similarly, opinion of handwriting expert is also relevant fact for identifying any handwriting. Exhibit Ka-'9' brought by the prosecution as a proof of the document for ransom has not been proved in accordance with the provision of Evidence Act and therefore, has to be rejected.

58. The document proved by the Investigating Officer as Exhibit Ka-9 is, thus, a waste piece of paper and cannot be relied upon to hold that it was a proof of demand for ransom on the part of the accused persons.

59. As regards the contention of the learned A.G.A that since the demand for ransom was conveyed to the victim and he was kept under threat that his release would be subject to the payment of ransom, it is sufficient to hold that the object of keeping the victim under detention was for ransom. This submission of the learned AGA is liable to be rejected at the threshold, inasmuch as, the first ingredient of Section 364A of keeping the victim under detention could not be proved by the prosecution.

60. The fact that the accused persons were well known to the victim and he used to play cards with them raises a serious doubt about the truth of the whole prosecution story. It seems to us that the scene of abduction of the victim and demand for ransom was created by two brothers with some oblique motive. The complete picture of abduction and demand for ransom is hazy and seems to be based on a concocted story. Not going further in this direction, at least, it can be said that the prosecution has not been able to prove the abduction of the victim for demand of ransom.

61. Dealing with the contention of the learned AGA that since the demand was conveyed to the victim and he was put under threat that his release would be subject to the fulfillment of the demand, the second ingredients of Section 364A that the abduction for ransom was fulfilled, it may be noted that this argument is based on the decision of the Apex Court in Malleshi (supra). In Malleshi's case, (supra) the accused persons had abducted a student of first year B.Sc, when he came out of the college along with his classmates. As per the sequence of events therein, the accused called the victim by taking his name and when he turned, he saw that the person wearing white shirt and pant. The victim was told that the accused knew his father. The accused then inquired about the fees and expenses of the college course stating that he wanted to admit his son and took the victim to the jeep parked nearby on the pretext that his son was therein. When the victim went near the vehicle, he was asked to sit in the jeep. Three other persons came and sat in the jeep alongwith the accused by the side of the victim. The door of the jeep was closed and it was driven towards the Highway. The victim was threatened not to raise any voice otherwise, he would be murdered. After they covered some distance, the accused inquired phone number of the father of the victim and told him that they want Rs.2,00,000/- to release him. However, while the victim was permitted to meet the call of nature and the vehicle stopped near a village, the victim ran away. In that factual background, it was held by the Apex Court that since the demand, in that case, had already been made by conveying it to the victim, the offence under Section 364-A was made out.

62. The factual position is different in the present case. As noted above, in the instant case, we are unable to accept the testimony of the victim namely P.W-2 that he was abducted and detained by his own friends and acquaintances with whom he was playing cards frequently and that the demand for ransom of Rs.5,00,000/- was conveyed to his brother. The testimony of both the brothers (P.W-2 & P.W-4) who have created the scene of abduction with the object of demand for ransom is found unreliable. Lots of embellishments, material improvements and unexplained stories are found in the testimonies of P.W-2 who projected himself as the victim and P.W-4 his brother who lodged the first information report. It seems that the prosecution has projected a different story from what had actually happened. The genesis of the occurrence has been suppressed by the prosecution. The fact that the accused persons had criminal antecedents and they were well acquaintance of the victim raises a serious doubt about the story projected by the victim, P.W-2 and his brother P.W-4. The fact that the victim was having a partnership with one of the accused Lajjaram, his neighbour, also indicates that the prosecution is not telling the truth.

63. It has also come in the evidence of P.W-6, the Investigating Officer that he had received the information of abduction of a person named as Yashpal through wireless before the first information report was lodged and the said information was given to him by Head Moharir Ram Chandra at about 9.15 p.m. On getting the said information within 20-25 minutes he reached at the spot. P.W-6 further denied that the first information report was lodged after he reached the spot. P.W-3 Head Moharir, however, stated that no oral or telephonic information was received by him about the incident prior to lodging of the first information report. It has also come in the evidence of P.W-4 that the police reached the spot prior to the lodging of the first information report and according to P.W-4 some acquaintance of his brother might have called the police. The police had reached after about 1¼ hours of the incident and P.W-4 kept on searching for his brother alongwith the police, when his brother was not found he went to the police station to lodge the report along with the police.

64. From the statement of P.W-4 and the Investigating Officer, at least, it is established that the information of abduction of the victim P.W-2 was given to the Investigating Officer within 1¼ hours of the incident and the police also searched for the victim along with the first informant on the spot. The time of the incident as narrated by the prosecution witnesses is 7.30 p.m. The first informant stated that they kept on searching for the victim alongwith the police and when they could not find him he went to the police station to lodge the report along with the police. The Investigating Officer further stated that he reached at the place of the incident at about 10-10.30 p.m directly from another place where he was on duty on receiving a wireless message. He kept on searching of the victim for the whole night and also on the next day of the incident and returned back to the police station at about 3.20 a.m only on 22.01.2002. The entry of his return at the police station was recorded in the case diary. The report of the incident occurred on 20.01.2002 at about 7.30 p.m., however, was lodged on 21.01.2002 at about 6.12 a.m., when according to the Investigating Officer he kept on searching for the victim even for the whole day of 21.01.2002 along with the first informant.

65. We may also note the statement of P.W-3, Head Moharir, at this juncture, when he stated that the Investigating Officer Mahipal Singh was present in the police station when the first information report was lodged and the said report was lodged on his oral orders. The first informant, Shripal (P.W-4) and one Shivpal came to the police station to lodge the report and both the said persons were interrogated by the Investigating Officer (SO Mahipal Singh), whereas the Investigating Officer stated that the report was not lodged on his instructions whether the oral or written and that he was not present in the police station when the report was lodged.

66. This inconsistency in the testimony of P.W-3, P.W-4 and P.W-6, in the light of the circumstances of the present case noted above, also creates doubt about the time of lodging of the first information report and the genesis of the incident. This opinion further finds support from another circumstance brought by the prosecution of the allegation of commission of the offence under Section 377 IPC to implicate four accused persons namely Lajjaram, Shrikant, Munnilal Prajapati and Jay Prakash @ Bhure. The statement of the victim in this regard is at variance in his entire testimony. At one point of time, he stated that all the accused persons committed Anal sex with him almost in a gap of 2-3 days, and that had started after 3-4 days of abduction and then that this offence was firstly committed by Munnilal. The previous statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C, was put to the victim (P.W-2) to confront that only the names of Munnilal and Shrikant was mentioned therein for the alleged offence under Section 377 IPC, he stated that it was wrong and all the accused persons had committed offence under Section 377 with him. The statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C of the appellant could not be found on the record and the said statement was not even put to any of the witnesses during the cross examination.

67. On another occasion, P.W-2 stated that accused Shrikant had also committed the Anal sex and explained as to how all the accused persons used to gang rape him. P.W-2, however, excluded only Virendra @ Tiwari and Sarvesh @ Machchar in his version in the cross for the accused Shrikant when he was recalled.

68. Believing this statement of P.W-2-the victim, the trial court had convicted three accused namely Lajjaram, Shrikant and Jay Prakash @ Bhure under Section 377 IPC, but it had lost sight of fact that there is no medical evidence of commission of the offence under Section 377 IPC. The victim, as per his version, had escaped from the custody of the accused persons and straightaway went to the police station in District-Etawah. The Investigating Officer stated that on 08.03.2002 as soon as he received the message through wireless that the victim was present in the police station at District-Etawah, he reached there and recorded statement of the victim at CD parcha no.10. Referring to the statement of the victim, it was deposed by the Investigating Officer that the victim had told him that the accused persons used to beat him and also committed Anal sex with him. The medical examination of the victim was also done on 08.03.2002 at about 08.05 p.m. After examination, the doctor had opined that the victim was complaining of pain on some parts of his body, i.e shoulder, right leg and chest but there were no apparent injuries or swelling. No complaint was made by the victim about any pain in his Anus. The doctor further stated that he examined the victim on the complaint of pain made by him. It is, thus, evident that the doctor was not communicated either by P.W-2 or the Investigating Officer that he was supposed to examine the victim to ascertain as to whether the offence under Section 377 IPC was committed with him. No supplementary medical examination of the victim was got conducted by the Investigating Officer after interrogating him. On the mere oral testimony of the victim, (P.W-2) in view of the surrounding circumstances of the case, it is difficult to hold that the accused persons had committed the offence under Section 377 IPC. Thus, the allegations of the commission of offence under Section 377 IPC against the appellants could not be proved by the prosecution beyond all reasonable doubt.

69. Lastly, in the statement of P.W-4 one startling fact has been noted by the trial court that during his deposition, this witness was carrying a paper on which he made certain notes related to the incident and he was giving answers while looking to the said paper, the said paper was confiscated by the Court. The deposition of this witness, therefore, cannot be said to be natural and truthful.

Conclusion:-

70. Having regard to the entire evidence discussed above on careful consideration of the relevant attending circumstance, it seems that the prosecution has suppressed the genesis and origin of the occurrence and has thus not presented the true version. The suppression on material facts in the prosecution version creates a deep dent in its story.

71. It is a case where the prosecution has not been able to prove its case of abduction for ransom under Section 364A IPC and commission of offence of Anal sex with the victim under Section 377 IPC by placing cogent evidence to prove the implication of the appellants for the alleged offences beyond reasonable doubt.

72. In view of the above discussion, the judgment and orders of conviction and sentence of the appellants dated 13.04.2007 and 28.04.2007 are hereby set aside.

73. The appeals are allowed.

74. The appellants namely Jay Prakash @ Bhure, Munnilal Prajapati, Shrikant, Virendra, Lajja Ram and Sarvesh Kumar @ Machchar Singh are in jail.

75. All the appellants shall be released from jail forthwith, unless they are wanted in any other case.

76. The office is directed to send back the lower court record along with a certified copy of the judgment for information and necessary compliance.

77. The compliance report be furnished to this Court through the Registrar General, High Court Allahabad.

25. In the present case, there are no eye witness of the occurrence and the incident is of night, outside the room of the informant. The occurrence is based on the circumstantial evidence. The PW-1 (Sunil Singh) and PW-2 (Smt. Renu Devi) had testified before the trial court that the deceased on the night of occurrence was sleeping outside the room of the informant and the room of the accused Manvir was nearby; when the informant and his family members (who were sleeping on the terrace) came down in the morning they saw that accused Manvir was cleaning the blood stains on the floor with the broom. Aforesaid witnesses further stated that on seeing the said witnesses, the accused Manvir went inside the room and locked his room.

26. It is to be noted that under Section 8 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 the conduct of the accused is relevant if such conduct is influenced by any fact in issue or relevant fact and whether it was previous or subsequent thereto. Section 8 of the Evidence Act is reproduced hereinbelow :-

"8. Motive, preparation and previous or subsequent conduct.--Any fact is relevant which shows or constitutes a motive or preparation for any fact in issue or relevant fact.

The conduct of any party, or of any agent to any party, to any suit or proceeding, in reference to such suit or proceeding, or in reference to any fact in issue therein or relevant thereto, and the conduct of any person an offence against whom is the subject of any proceeding, is relevant, if such conduct influences or is influenced by any fact in issue or relevant fact, and whether it was previous or subsequent thereto."

27. This section embodies the rule that the testimony of resgestae is allowable when it goes to the root of the matter concerning the commission of the crime. The conduct of a person involved in crime becomes relevant if his conduct is related to the incident that happened. Where a crime has been committed, the court has to take into account both the previous and subsequent conduct of the accused pertaining to the commission of the crime. In certain cases, the previous conduct of the accused throws light on whether the accused is innocent or guilty whereas in some cases it is the subsequent conduct that becomes very important in determining the innocence or guilt of the accused. The Apex Court in the case of Anant Chintaman Lagu Vs. State of Bombay, AIR 1960 SC 500 observes thus :-

"(15)... A criminal trial, of course, is not an enquiry into the conduct of an accused for any purpose other than to determine whether he is guilty of the offence charged. In this connection, that piece of conduct can be held to be incriminatory which has no reasonable explanation except on the hypothesis that he is guilty. Conduct which destroys the presumption of innocence can alone be considered as material..."

28. In the present case, deceased was found in the morning near the room of the accused. Deceased had gone to sleep at night in front of the room of the informant who is his son and the informant and his family members were sleeping on the terrace of the room. When the informant and his family members came down in the morning they found that the accused was cleaning the blood stains with the broom and on seeing the informant and family members, the accused went into his room and locked his room. The said facts have been duly testified by the witnesses produced by the prosecution. The said facts are relevant under Section 8 of the Evidence Act and indicates towards the fact that the accused is guilty of the offence.

29. It is to be noted that the broom used by the accused has been recovered by the Investigating Officer and the recovery memo dated 2 July, 2006 was prepared. The recovery memo is marked as Ex. Ka-7. A perusal of the said recovery memo would further indicate that the broom was stained with blood. P.W. 5 - S.I. Matadeen Verma has proved the recovery memo dated 2 July, 2006 and has stated that the broom was recovered by him from the place of occurrence and the broom was having blood stains.

30. Investigating Officer S.I. Matadeen Verma (P.W. 5) has further recovered pillow from the place of occurrence. The pillow was blood stained. The recovery memo dated 2 July, 2006 was prepared by the Investigating Officer in respect of recovery of the pillow from the place of occurrence and the same was marked as Ex. Ka - 7. The said witness in his testimony proved the recovery memo and stated that the pillow was blood stained. He has further stated that the blood stained pillow was recovered from the place where the body of the deceased was lying.

31. The Investigating Officer S.I. Matadeen Verma (P.W. 5) has further recovered three bedsheets from the place of occurrence. Bedsheets were blood stained. Recovery memo dated 2 July, 2006 was prepared by the Investigating Officer in respect of recovery of three bedsheets from the place of occurrence and the same was marked as Ex. Ka-7. The said witness in his testimony proved the recovery memo and has stated that the bedsheets were blood stained. He further stated that the blood stained bedsheets were recovered from the place where the body of the deceased was lying.

32. The body of the deceased was sent by the Investigating Officer for post-mortem examination. The post-mortem examination of the deceased was held on 2 July, 2006 at 4:30 p.m. by Dr. Madan Lal (P.W.-7) who was posted at District Government Hospital, Noida, Gautam Budh Nagar. The said witness has identified the post mortem report and the same was marked as Ex. Ka-10.

33. The nature of the injuries suffered by the deceased indicates that the death of the deceased was not natural. In the opinion of the doctor who conducted the post-mortem examination, the deceased died as a result of shock due to anti-mortem injury.

34. The Investigating Officer also prepared an inquest report of the deceased on 2 July, 2006. The inquest was held on 2 July, 2006 at 7:15 a.m. The inquest report is marked as Ex. Ka-2. Inquest report was prepared by S.I. Matadeen Verma (P.W. 5). The said witness has proved the inquest report dated 2 July, 2006. He has stated that the inquest report was prepared by him and was in his handwriting. He also stated that the inquest report has been signed by him. The object of inquest proceedings is to ascertain whether a person has died under unnatural circumstances or unnatural death and if so, what is the cause of the death.

35. As per the opinion of the Panch witnesses, the death of the deceased was unnatural and was a result of injury sustained after rape. The Investigating Officer conquered with the opinion of the Panch witnesses. In view thereof, the death of the deceased was unnatural and injuries were sustained by the deceased and blood was seen in the private part of the deceased. The witnesses P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 had also described the injury sustained by the deceased in their statements.

36. P.W.-1 (Sunil Singh) in his statement before the trial court has stated as follows:-

"मैंने तथा मेरी पत्नि व मेरे लड़के ने अपनी मां दरबी देवी को देखा तो वह मरी पड़ी थी तथा उसका पेटीकोट फटा पड़ा था तथा उसके गुप्तांग से खून जा रहा था। मैंने अपनी मां का शव देखा था। उसके दोनों गालों पर दातों से काटने के निशान थे। गले पर नाखूनों के खरोंचों के निशान साइड से थे। बायें तरफ थे। जाँध पर छुरा मारा हुआ था दाहिनी जाँध में कमर से सट कर। इसके अलावा मां का खून से कपड़ा भीगा था।"

37. P.W.-2 (Smt. Renu Devi) in her statement before the trial court has stated as follows:-

"मैंने अपनी सास को देखा तो वह मरी पड़ी थी तथा खून से लथपथ थी। मैंने उसका पेटीकोट उठाकर देखा था तो उसके गुप्तांग से खून आ रहा था तथा उसके गाल पर भी काट रखा था।"

38. The prosecution has brought on record the circumstantial evidence and medical evidence including the conduct of the accused immediately after the alleged occurrence which points towards the guilt of the accused and as such, the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt.

39. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that there are no independent witness of the alleged crime and the witnesses P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 are relative of the deceased and as such, the testimony of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 cannot be relied upon.

40. A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is often the case that the offence is witnessed by a close relative of the victim, whose presence on the scene of the offence would be natural. The evidence of such a witness cannot automatically be discarded by labelling the witness as interested. It is worthy to note that there is a distinction between a witness who is related and an interested witness. A relative is a natural witness. The Apex Court in Kartik Malhar Vs. State of Bihar, (1996) 1 SCC 614 has opined that a close relative who is a natural witness cannot be regarded as an interested witness, for the term "interested" postulates that the witness must have some interest in having the accused, somehow or the other, convicted for some animus or for some other reason.

41. Merely because the witnesses are family members their evidence cannot per se be discarded. When there is allegation of interestedness, the same has to be established. Mere statement that being relatives of the deceased they are likely to falsely implicate the accused cannot be a ground to discard the evidence which is otherwise cogent and credible. Relationship is not a factor to affect credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. There is no bar in law on examining family members as witness. Evidence of a related witness can be relied upon provided it is trustworthy.

42. The Supreme Court in State of Uttar Pradesh Vs. Samman Dass, (1972) 3 SCC 201 observed as under:-

"23...It is well known that the close relatives of a murdered person are most reluctant to spare the real assailant and falsely involve another person in place of the assailant..."

43. In Khurshid Ahmed Vs. State of Jammu and Kashmir (2018) 7 SCC 429, the Supreme Court on the issue of evidence of a related witness observed as under :-

"31. There is no proposition in law that relatives are to be treated as untruthful witnesses. On the contrary, reason has to be shown when a plea of partiality is raised to show that the witnesses had reason to shield actual culprit and falsely implicate the accused."

44. The prosecution case is that the incident is of night and of a place where the informant along with his family members and the accused were residing as tenants and as such, the incident has occurred inside the house and at night. The incident has occurred at a place which is not ordinarily accessible by the public at large or the incident is of the private house, under normal circumstances an independent witness may not be available and the related witnesses may be natural witness. Further circumstantial evidence plays a vital role in finding the truth of the occurrence.

45. In the instant matter, we find the testimony of the witnesses to be consistent and reliable, and therefore reject the contention of the appellant that the testimony of the witnesses must be disbelieved because they are close relatives of the deceased and hence interested witnesses.

46. Counsel for the appellant has urged that there is difference in the injuries stated by the prosecution witness and the medical evidence. In the present case, there is no eyewitness to the alleged occurrence and the prosecution case rests on the circumstantial evidence. The injuries noted by the Prosecution Witness No. 1 and Prosecution Witness No. 2 are based on the observation made by them when they reached the place of occurrence. The inquest report was prepared in the presence of Prosecution Witness No. 3 and Prosecution Witness No. 4. The observations made by the witnesses (who are related to the deceased or who are independent witnesses) having no medical expertise their observation may not be as accurate as the observation of a doctor who is conducting the post-mortem examination. The injuries which are common in the witness account and the medical examination are that the deceased suffered bite injury on her cheeks; injury in the private part of the deceased. The argument of the learned counsel for the appellant has no force as the injuries indicate that the deceased was subjected to rape prior to her death. It is further to be noted that although the medical evidence of the doctor has not indicated in his post-mortem report with regard to the allegations of rape however the nature of injury sustained by the deceased itself indicate that the deceased was subjected to rape prior to her death. It is also to be noted that the defence has not given any suggestion to the doctor who conducted the post-mortem that the deceased was not subjected to rape.

47. It is argued by the learned counsel for the appellant that the First Information Report has been lodged on the dictation of the Station House Officer and the time for scribe of the First Information Report has been stated as 6:15 a.m. whereas the witness has stated that the First Information Report was scribed at 9:00 a.m. As per the First Information Report dated 2 July, 2006 (Ex. Ka-12), information was received at 6:15 a.m. First Information Report has been lodged by Sunil Singh (P.W.-1). Said witness in his cross-examination has stated that the report was scribed by Tinku on the questioning of the Station House Officer; Station House Officer on the narration of the incident by Sunil Singh has got the report scribed by Tinku; report was taken by the Station House Officer at 9:00 a.m. It is on the aforesaid basis that the learned counsel for the appellant states that there is a contradiction in the time of lodging of the First Information Report and the manner in which the First Information Report was lodged. The statement of the Prosecution Witness No. 1 - Sunil Singh confirms the fact that the First Information Report was lodged on the basis of the information provided by the informant-Sunil Singh. The statement also indicates that information stated in the report dated 2 July, 2006 is based on the facts provided by the informant which was described on the directions of the Station House Officer. An ordinary citizen who has suffered grief in family member or who is not well educated may not be in a position to provide information in a proper manner and in such a situation if the police officer has assisted the informant in lodging the First Information Report in proper manner, the same would not in any manner dislodge the prosecution case. It is to be noted that the officer concerned was not having the knowledge of the facts stated in the First Information Report and as such, he could not have in any manner changed the circumstances stated in the First Information Report. Insofar as the time when the First Information Report was lodged is concerned, as per the First Information Report, it was lodged at 6:15 a.m. whereas as per the statement of Prosecution Witness No. 1, the information was lodged at 9:00 a.m. The Prosecution Witness No. 1 has proved the First Information Report. It is to be noted that the witness was examined on 4 April, 2007 and the cross-examination was extended to 23 July, 2007. A person who is subjected to long cross-examination may not be able to describe the incident and the time as accurately by lapse of time and the same will not in any manner dislodge the prosecution case.

48. It is submitted by counsel for the appellant that at the time of preparation of the inquest report, the first information report was not in existence. The inquest of the deceased was conducted on 2 July, 2006 at 7:15 a.m. The inquest report was marked as Ex. Ka-2 before the trial court. The inquest report specifies the case crime number of the first information report and the date and time when the information was received at the police station. The object of the inquest proceedings under Section 174 Cr.P.C is to ascertain whether a person had died under unnatural circumstances or unnatural death and if so what is the cause of death. The question regarding the details as to how the deceased was assaulted or who assaulted her or under what circumstances she was assaulted is foreign to the ambit and scope of the proceedings under Section 174 Cr.P.C. Mention of the name of accused and the eyewitness in the inquest report is not necessary. Due to non mentioning of the name of the accused in the inquest report, it cannot be inferred that First Information Report was not in existence at the time of inquest proceedings.

49. It is urged on behalf of the appellant that in the pathological report no spermatozoa was found and as such the prosecution story is not reliable. In the present case the circumstantial evidence as stated hereinabove points towards the guilt of the accused. It is further to be seen that in all cases the spermatozoa may not be traced. At times it happens that the accused is not able to commit the crime completely and in such a situation the spermatozoa may not be found. In a case where the slide is sent for examination with delay there are chances that the spermatozoa may not be found. In the present case Prosecution Witness No. 8 has stated that he had sent the slide for examination on 10 July, 2007 to the Forensic Science Laboratory. Under the circumstances, if the spermatozoa is not found the same would not affect the prosecution case.

50. It is further submitted on behalf of the appellant that the blood stained soil was not recovered by the Investigating Officer and as such the prosecution case is not trustworthy. Bloodstained soil is recovered from the place of occurrence in order to establish/prove the place of occurrence. Accused has not stated that the place of occurrence is somewhere else. The accused has not given suggestion to any of the witnesses that the occurrence took place at some other place. It is further to be seen that the Investigating Officer has prepared the site plan of the place of occurrence and the same was marked as Ex. Ka-11 before the trial court. The site plan was duly proved by the P.W.-8. Site plan was prepared on 2 July, 2006. Further, the witnesses of fact have also given detailed account of the place of occurrence and the circumstances which prove towards the guilt of the accused.

51. It is submitted on behalf of the appellant that the informant and other witnesses of fact have stated that the accused was caught on the place of occurrence and was handed to the police whereas the Investigating Officer has arrested the accused from petrol pump. The contradiction pointed out by counsel for the appellant with regard to the place and manner of arrest of the accused is without any force. In this respect, it is to be seen that the police tries to show the arrest of the accused in order to enhance their service record. The contradiction pointed out will not demolish the prosecution case when there is other cogent and trustworthy evidence pointing towards the guilt of the accused.

52. On the basis of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. The allegations against the accused - appellant under Sections 376 and 302 of the Indian Penal Code stands proved by the prosecution.

53. We do not find any infirmity in the impugned judgement dated 5 December, 2007 and sentence dated 6 December, 2007 passed by the trial court convicting the accused - appellant for offence under Sections 376 and 302 of the Indian Penal Code. The sentence awarded by the trial court is in accordance with law and needs no interference.

54. As a result, the present appeal lacks merit and is dismissed.

55. Registrar General of this Court is directed to pay an honorarium of Rs. 20,000/- to Ms. Abida Syed, learned Amicus Curiae for rendering effective assistance in the matter.

56. Let the lower court record be transmitted back to court below along with a copy of this order.

1. Heard Sri Apul Mishra learned Advocate on behalf of appellants Phool Singh, Hari @ Harish Chandra and Charan, Sri Vinod Kumar learned Advocate on behalf of appellant Kallu and Sri Roopak Chaubey learned A.G.A for the State.

2. These three connected appeals are directed against the judgment and order dated 30.9.2003 passed by the Sessions Judge, Mahoba in Sessions Trial no.55 of 1998 arising out of Case Crime no.219 of 1997 P.S-Kulpahad District-Mahoba whereby five appellants namely Kallu, Phool Singh, Hari @ Harish Chandra, Charan and Jogendra have been convicted for the offence under Section 302/149 I.P.C and sentence for life imprisonment; under Section 324/149 I.P.C they were sentenced for rigorous imprisonment for three years as also for the offence under Section 148 I.P.C. punishment for which is two years rigorous imprisonment. All the punishment are to run concurrently.

These three connected appeals are filed by five accused persons, amongst them one appellant Jogendra had died and the appeal on his behalf has been abated.

3. The prosecution story unfolds with a first information report lodged on 19.11.1997 at about 17.00 hours which was on a written report given by Ratan Singh s/o Karore Yadav resident of Kulpahad, Mahoba. As per the written report, the brother of the first informant namely Jai Singh while going to his fields at about 3.00 p.m on 19.11.1997 was attacked by Kallu and Phool Singh by their 12 bore gun and rifle. At that point of time, the victim was near the house of Tikka Ram and was heading towards "Arjun Bandh" from his house. The fires opened by Kallu and Phool Singh hit at the hands of Jai Singh and he ran towards his house. At that time appellants Jogendra, Hari and Charan came out of the house of the Kallu carrying 12 bore guns and started firing at the victim Jai Singh. These persons also fired at the back of the victim Jai Singh. As per the version of the first informant in the written report, the fires opened by the appellants hit the head, back, chest, hands and face of the victim who fell down at the door of his house and died. In the course of firing, one child Sunil s/o Kallu Teli aged about four years had also sustained pellet injuries in his Torso. The motive of committing the crime had been assigned to appellant Charan and Jogendra who were accused in criminal case wherein the deceased was a witness. It was stated that the appellants were having ill will against the deceased on account of his evidence. The incident was witnessed by the younger brother of the deceased namely Todan and one person named Bhaiyan s/o Amar Singh Yadav resident Ragauli P.S-Srinagar and Mohan Singh s/o Balkhandi Sela.

4. Based on the written report, check F.I.R was prepared by the Constable Moharrir P.S-Kulpahad examined as P.W-3. This witness had proved the check report as Exhibit Ka-2 and the G.D entry no.25 dated 19.11.1997 at 17:00 hours as Exhibit Ka-3. In cross, P.W-3 had proved that the written report bears thumb impression of the first informant and the copy of the check was handed over to the Investigating Officer before he proceeded to the spot. The suggestion that the written report was scribed and the check FIR was lodged after the Investigating Officer had returned from the spot had been categorically denied.

5. The papers prepared during the course of investigation had been proved by the Investigating Officer examined as P.W-7, who has deposed that he was posted as Station House Officer in P.S-Kulpahad on the date of the incident and the FIR was lodged in his presence. The investigation was received by him and he proceeded to the place of the incident where the statements of the first informant and other witnesses were recorded. However, as by that time, the night had set in and there was no sufficient light, the dead body and other incriminating material relating to the incident were kept preserved by the police officials posted there. On the next date, i.e 20.11.1997, the inspection of the site of the incident was made and the site plan was prepared which was exhibited as Exhibit-Ka-
6. The blood stained and plain earth collected from the spot was exhibited as Exhibit Ka-7 and six empty cartridges recovered from different places of the incident were noted in a recovery memo which is Exhibit-Ka-8. The inquest of the body was made between 7.30 a.m to 8.30 a.m and the body was sealed and sent for post mortem through two constables after preparation of other related papers. The inquest and other related papers were exhibited as Exhibit-Ka-9 to Exhibit Ka-13. On 24.11.1997, the accused Kallu, Charan and Jogendra were arrested and their statements were recorded. The accused Phool Singh was arrested on 29.11.1997 and his statement was recorded and the statement of accused Hari was noted on 12.12.1997. After recording statements of other material witnesses, chargesheet was prepared and filed as Exhibit-Ka-14. The blood stained, plain earth and shoes of the two deceased were exhibited as material Exhibit-1, 2 and 3; respectively. P.W-7 had deposed that the case property was sent to the forensic laboratory.

6. The doctor conducted post mortem had been examined as P.W-6. He had proved injuries on the person of the deceased as under:

"(1) Fire arm wound of entry 2.5 cm x 2.0 cm over left temporal region 8 cm above left tragus of ear, Shape oval, margin

(4 b). Fire arm wound of exit 12 cm x 8 cm in size irregular shape left upper arm 10 cm shoulder joint, margins outward.

(6 a) Firearm wound of entry of 2 cm x 5 cm size over sternum 17 cm below supra sternal notch margin inverted circular in size direction anterior to posterior.

(6 b). Firearm wound of entry 2.5 x 2.5 cm right side of back heart punctured through and through right side of back of chest 9 cm below right scapula bone, heart punctured through and through.

On internal examination, it was found that brain lining was punctured pericardium punctured, heart empty, one litre pasty food was present in the stomach, gases in small intestine and gases and faecal matter in large intestine. Liver and spleen were congested.

7. The cause of death was indicated as shock and hemorrhage due to ante mortem injuries. The proximate time of death was one day. As per the observation of the doctor on the internal examination of the body, it was found that pericardium and brain lining were broken. Heart was empty. One litre food was present in the stomach. Gases in small intestine and gaseous and feacal matter was present in the large intestine. The rigour mortis had passed on from the neck and present in the upper and lower limbs. P.W-6 had opined that the proximate time of death could be 3.00 p.m on 19.11.1997. He has proved the post mortem being in his handwriting and signature, which is Exhibit Ka-5.

8. P.W-4, doctor Bhram Dutt Dwivedi had proved the injury report of the child Sunil wherein age of the injured has been mentioned about 5 years. It was deposed that the injured was brought to him by the Constable of the Police Station-Kulpahad. The injuries found on the person of the child are:-

"(1). Six small wounds of gun short measuring 0.2 cm x 0.2 cm x muscle deep over an area of 12 cm x 9 cm over the left side of the abdomen, blackening present over the wound, advised X-ray AP and lateral.

(2) 2 small wounds of gunshot measuring 0.2 cm x 0.2 cm x muscle deep 4 cm apart from each other over the medial aspect of the left foot 3 cm below the medial..., blackening present over the wound, advised X-ray AP and lateral.

The doctor has opined that both the injuries had been caused by some fire arm and had been kept under observation and referred to Superintendent CHC for radiological examination to determine the nature of injury and management.

The injury report contains left thumb impression of the injured Sunil and had been attested by the doctor concerned."

9. The two injuries found on the injured were fire arm injuries according to the doctor P.W-4. The nature of injuries though could not be determined by him because of the absence of X-Ray but P.W-4 stated that the injuries were fresh and the possibility of them occurring on 19.11.1997 at about 3.00 p.m was very much there. The injury report had been proved being in the writing and signature of P.W-4 as Exhibit Ka-'4'. He also proved that the injury report contained identification mark and the thumb impression of the injured.

10. Thus, formal witnesses had proved the documents prepared by them related to the case.

11. The forensic science laboratory report is Exhibit-Ka-'15' wherein it is mentioned that in large portion of the clothes, shoes and ring of the deceased blood was found and most of the blood was in the item nos.1, 2 and 5 which were sadri, safi and shoes of the deceased. The blood found in these items was human blood. The blood group of blood of item nos.1, 2, 4 and 5 was identified as Group-'O' and on item no.3 and 7 the blood was found disintegrated as such its blood group could not be determined.

Amongst the witnesses of fact, P.W-1 is the brother of the deceased; P.W-2 Todan Singh is another brother of the deceased; P.W-5 Bhaiyan is also an eye witnesses.

12. This is a case of eye witness account of the incident which had occurred during day hours. Challenging the order of conviction passed by the trial court, it is vehemently argued by Sri Apul Mishra learned Advocate for the appellant that as per own case of the prosecution, P.W-1 was not an eyewitness. His testimony is a hearsay evidence. Further, the presence of P.W-2, another brother of the deceased is found doubtful for various contradictions in his version and improbabilities of the circumstances put forth by him. P.W-5 Bhaiyan, a relative of the deceased is a chance witness as he was resident of a different village and the reason given by him for his presence at the spot is not convincing. One injured, boy of five years, was a passerby who had received only pellet injuries. As per own statement of the prosecution witnesses, there was enmity between the deceased and accused persons, their false implication therefore, cannot be ruled out. The whole prosecution story is manufactured and it was not possible for the witness to see entire incident from the place of their presence indicated in the site plan. The presence of P.W-1 is nowhere indicated in the site plan and he had not seen the incident.

13. From the statement of P.W-1, it is pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellants that this witness in the course of deposition could not even remember the name of an eyewitness and stated that the eyewitness was a resident of Gram Ragauli. P.W-1, in his examination in chief, deposed that the incident was witnessed by three persons namely Todan and Mohan and one relative and that the entire details of the incident was described to him by the eyewitness. At the time of the incident, he was in his field and reached the spot hearing the sounds of fire. Mohan did not enter in the witness box. Two witnesses namely Todan and Bhaiyan were closely related to the deceased and the possibility is that the P.W-1 concocting the whole story on the description given by the alleged eyewitness had lodged the FIR. It is urged that the motive assigned by P.W-1 was that the deceased was a witness in a case of marpeet against the accused person.

14. On a suggestion that the statement of the deceased was already recorded and the accused persons had been acquitted was denied by the prosecution witnesses in a vague manner. It was admitted by P.W-1 that in the case of the murder of father of one of the appellant namely Jogender, P.W-2 Todan, his father and other brothers were named accused and the case was pending in the Court.

15. Pointing out the above facts, it was vehemently submitted by the learned counsel for the appellants that it is a case of false implication of appellant Jogendra and his acquaintance on account of the fact that the deceased and his family members were arraigned as accused in a criminal case for murder of father of Jogendra. P.W-1 had admitted that he was present in his field at the time of the incident and by the time he reached at his house, his brother was already dead and his body was inside the house. The statement of P.W-1 is that when he came besides the dead body of his brother Jai Singh, other witnesses met him there and after staying for about 20-25 minutes besides the dead body he went to the police station alongwith some villagers and injured Sunil. It took them about 1½ hours to reach the police station. P.W-5 stated that the scribe of the written report namely Lakhan Singh met him at Gondi Chauraha, 200 paces from the police station Kulpahad. After the report was scribed at that place they both went to the police station to lodge the same. The scribe of the written report had not entered in the witness box. In fact, the FIR is antetimed as it was prepared by the Investigating Officer for implication of accused persons after deliberation. And for this the first informant had given a vague statement as to how he met Lakhan Singh near the police station by chance and got the report scribed by him.

16. It is contended that noticeable is that the scribe did not enter in the witness box to explain as to how and when he had written the report and lodged it with the first informant P.W-1. Another circumstance which makes the FIR ante time is that the inquest was conducted on the next day in the morning and the explanation offered by the Investigating Officer for delay in the inquest is not convincing, inasmuch as, the body was found in the house of the deceased. It is nobody's case that electrification of the village was not done, so the reason given by the Investigating Officer that it was dark and because of insufficient light inquest was conducted in the morning is not acceptable. This fact itself shows the murder had occurred in the dead of night and no one had seen the occurrence. In fact the police had filled the blanks and the correct sequence of investigation was not followed. The above explanation offered by the Investigating Officer is nothing but an effort to present the FIR as a truthful document.

17. It is argued that the version of P.W-1 itself negates the presence of other two eyewitness at the spot. It is vehemently contended that from the deposition of P.W-1 as also the written report and the statement of P.W-2-Todan Singh, the presence of P.W-2 at the spot is found doubtful, inasmuch as, in his deposition, this witness stated that he had witnessed the entire incident while standing at the Chabutra of the house of Bhagwan Das and two other witnesses namely Mohan Singh and Bhaiyan, who were introduced by the first informant (P.W-1) and P.W-2, were also present with him. These three persons, according to the prosecution had witnessed the entire incident while standing at the said place; whereas P.W-2 in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., had stated that he witnessed the incident while standing at the door of his house and other two witnesses were also present with him. This contradiction in the statement of P.W-2 clearly prove that the place of incident was not the same as narrated by the prosecution witnesses; otherwise, there was no reason to shift the place of witnessing the entire scene. In all probability, the deceased was killed while he was sitting at the door of his house and some unknown assailants had killed him. As per P.W-1, he reached the spot hearing the sounds of the fire and the body of the deceased was inside the house. It is urged that in view of this version of P.W-1, when P.W-2 could not explain his position ie his presence at the door of his house while making deposition in the Court in consonance with his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., he had shifted his position conveniently. This shift in the statement of P.W-2 is a material improvement and impeach the credibility of this witnesses.

18. P.W-2 also proved enimity between the deceased and the accused persons, false implication of the accused in a blind murder, therefore, cannot be ruled out.

19. It is further contended that P.W-1, the first informant, in the written report and in his examination in chief, had assigned rifle in the hands of accused Phool Singh whereas P.W-2 who was projected as an eyewitness had assigned gun in the hands of Phool Singh. This contradiction in the statement of P.W-2 is material improvement in the prosecution case, inasmuch as, the prosecution had changed its version as no injury on the person of deceased could be related to rifle.

20. Further, it was argued that P.W-5 had been introduced by the prosecution on deliberation. This witness is brother-in-law of son of the deceased and a resident of Village Ragauli which was at a distance of 5-6 Kose from the village of the deceased. P.W-5 stated that he came to the house of the deceased to meet him without any reason, whereas P.W-2 on a question put to him stated that Bhaiyan (P.W-5) came to the village to bring his sister. In fact, P.W-2 admitted that there was no reason for P.W-5 to be at the spot. Further, P.W-1, the first informant, could not even recollect the name of this witness (P.W-5) while making his deposition, in the examination in chief. In cross of P.W-5, it has come that the body was sent for post mortem on the date of incident on 19.11.1997 as he stated that the body was taken by the Investigating Officer within one hour of going at the spot, after completion of necessary formalities and the day on which this process was completed was the day of the incident. From the inquest report and the deposition of the Investigating Officer, it is evident that the inquest was done on the next day i.e 20.11.1997. The falsity in the statement of P.W-5 is proved from the circumstances reflected from the record and was sufficient to discard his presence at the spot. Further, P.W-5 even denied his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C by saying that the Investigating Officer did not interrogate him nor recorded his statement. This denial also prove that P.W-5 was not an eye witness and had been introduced by brothers of the deceased in order to project a so called independent witness in a case of false implication of the accused persons.

21. With the above facts, it was further argued that as per the case of the prosecution witness firing had started in front of the house of Tika Ram which has been shown in the site plan as place (B). Eye witness (P.W-2 and P.W-5) had fixed their presence at place marked as (E). The distance between these two places as is evident from the description in the site plan is about 100 paces. P.W-5, in cross, admitted that the distance between the house of Tika Ram at place (B) (where firing had started) and house of Bhagwan Das (E) was 100 paces and all the witnesses had witnessed the incident sitting at the door of Bhagwan Das. It is argued that the place where allegedly the firing had started was quite far from the place where the witnesses were allegedly present. It, therefore, cannot be accepted that the witnesses could have seen the incident so accurately as described in the FIR.

22. It is contended that a further perusal of the site plan indicates that the deceased ran for his life from place (B) to (A) and he had received first shot at place (B). The distance between (A) and (B) as indicated in the site plan is 88 paces. The injury no.5 on the person of the deceased was such a large injury which makes it impossible to believe that the deceased could have run for such a long distance. Further, the injury nos.4A, 4B as also injury nos.6A and 6B are on such places that the deceased could not have run after getting those shots. The story narrated by the prosecution witnesses, thus, that the firing had started by the accused persons at place (D) while the deceased was at place (B) and he ran from the place (B) to (A) when other accused persons joined in firing at place (F) and he finally fell down and died at place (A), is highly improbable. The prosecution has not been able to furnish any explanation of the above query. Further, no blood was found between place (B) to (A), i.e on the road where the deceased was first hit and ran for his life which also dispels the manner of the incident as per the narration of the prosecution witnesses. More and highly probable version of the defence that the deceased was hit by someone else while he was sitting at the door of his house is worthy of acceptance.

23. Further, though rifle had been allocated to one of the accused there is no shot of rifle typically. Injury no.3 seems to have been caused by a blunt object. The witnesses projected by the prosecution are not natural witnesses. No one had seen the incident. The motive for false implication is proved from the version of the prosecution witnesses itself. The massive discrepancies in the statement of prosecution witnesses and documentary evidence, placed by the police show that the prosecution had suppressed the true version of the incident.

24. Lastly it is argued that there is no explanation for 12 hours delay in conducting the inquest when the body was found in the house of the deceased. This show that the family members of the deceased were not sure as to who were the assailants and they bought time with the aid of police to introduce the accused persons and the place of the incidents. It is, thus, argued that the entire prosecution story is cooked up and is full of contradictions, deliberations and apparent inconsistencies. In the totality of the facts and circumstances of the case the conviction of the appellants cannot be sustained.

25. Sri Apul Mishra learned counsel on behalf of the appellant Hari further submits that this appellant had taken a categorical plea of alibi in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C by saying that he was in the Court of Civil Judge/J.D for recording his evidence and was not present at the spot. This plea was illegally rejected by the trial court by saying that looking to the distance of the place of incident from the District Court Mahoba, the presence of the accused appellant Hari at the spot cannot be discarded.

26. Sri Vinod Kumar learned Advocate for the appellant Kallu submits that no motive had been assigned to appellant Kallu by any of the eyewitnesses. Only suggestion of enmity with appellant Kallu as has come up in the cross of P.W-2 relates to an incident of murder of grand father of Kallu that too in the year 1965 wherein father of P.W-2 was an accused. Looking to the remoteness of the motive suggested for appellant Kallu, his involvement in the crime is false. While adopting all other argument placed by Sri Apul Mishra, Sri Vinod Kumar learned Advocate appearing for the appellant Kallu submitted that appellant Kallu is in jail for more than 20-21 years. Section 57 I.P.C prescribes that imprisonment of life is to be reckoned as equivalent to imprisonment for 20 years. The period of incarceration of appellant Kallu, therefore, is sufficient for his release from jail, even in case his conviction is upheld. While arguing on the issue of sentence, it is submitted by the learned counsel for the appellant Kallu that in view of the decision of this Court in Criminal Appeal no.2135 of 2013 (Savir vs State of U.P) dated 5.2.2021, the life sentence of the appellant has to be reckoned to 20 years, as in that case, this Court had fixed the term of life as 14 year and six months. In similar circumstance, the Apex Court in Criminal Appeal no.1044 of 2012 (Shekhar vs State of M.P.) ; Criminal Appeal no.1563-1564 of 2018 had commuted life sentence to 15 and 18 years of the period undergone by the appellants therein. The judgment of the Apex court in Brajendra Singh vs State of U.P1 has been placed before us to assert that the Apex Court while commuting the death sentence had fixed the term of life imprisonment as 21 years. In Ashok Debbarma alias Achak Debbarma vs State of Tripura2 in the case of Armed Extremists death was commuted to 20 years of life imprisonment. The submission, thus, is that the High Court is empowered to put a cap/ceiling of keeping the accused behind the bar and commute the life sentence to a fixed term. In view of the circumstance of the case, keeping the accused Kallu in jail further is against the spirit of the decisions of the Apex Court.

27. Learned A.G.A, in rebuttal, submits that there is no suggestion to P.W-1, first informant with regard to the FIR being ante time. P.W-3 is a natural witness. There is no suggestion of enmity with this witnesses. The injured was examined on the date of the incident itself and it was proved that he was brought to the doctor by a police constable with Majrubi Chitthi. It was a broad day light murder and sequence of events established by the prosecution witnesses gives details of the occurrence. In the FIR if some details are not provided, that would not lead to an inference that the prosecution had presented a concocted story. The eye witnesses of the occurrence are natural witnesses. Minor contradictions in their version rather prove their truthfulness as they did not bother about corroborating their evidence while narrating the occurrence. The reason why blood was not found between the place (B) and (A) is explained from the manner in which the deceased was shot. The entire occurrence between two points could have been completed within 15-20 seconds and further the inquest report and the forensic report indicate that large amount of blood was found on the clothes and shoes of the deceased. It was winter time and dress like Sadri could soak a lot of blood. The blood found in the shoes of the deceased further supports the prosecution case that the deceased ran for his life from place (B). In the FSL report also human blood was found on the clothes, shoes and other articles.

28. It is further argued that the version of P.W-1 also shows the truthfulness of the prosecution story discarding all hypothesis of false implication. Had P.W-1 concocted the story he could have very conveniently included himself as an eyewitness. The contention that P.W-5 was a chance witnesses is not acceptable rather he was a natural witness who had proved his presence in the house of the deceased from about 2-3 days prior to the date of incident. The reason given by P.W-5 to come to the house of the deceased could not be successfully disputed by the defence. However, even if P.W-5 is taken as a chance witness as per the version of the defence, his testimony cannot be discarded as a whole by the mere fact of him being a chance witnesses. The settled law is that if a witness is found to be present on the place of the incident by chance, his testimony has to be carefully scrutinized by the Court with due care and circumspection and not that it must be discarded. The contradictions shown in the statements of P.W-1 and P.W-5 were not put to P.W-5. The arguments of the learned counsel for the appellants, therefore, cannot be accepted.

29. It is further argued by learned A.G.A that it was a prompt report of the occurrence and the statements of the witness under Section 161 Cr.P.C. were recorded on the same day. P.W-1, P.W-2 and P.W-5 fixed their presence at the time of the incident in their first version before the Investigating Officer. P.W-5 had no personal enmity with the accused persons. Other two witnesses namely P.W-1 and P.W-2 though are related but cannot be said to be inimical. Their testimony is natural. The motive that the deceased was a witness against Jogendra, a named accused, in a criminal case had been proved from the statement of the prosecution witnesses. Further, when the accused had fired together at the deceased, only inference that can be drawn is that they had prosecuted the common intention of the unlawful assembly. The medical evidence on record corroborates the occular version and the injuries. No witness had stated that the deceased was shot from close range and none of the injuries suggest otherwise. Injury no.3 had been explained by the doctor by saying that it could occur due to fall. In the ocular evidence it has come that the deceased fell down at the door of his house having received injuries between point (B) to point (A). The pieces of stones collected from place 'A' were found stained in the FSL report with human blood. Injury 4A is a gutter shaped wound which could have been caused due to rifle. All the discrepancies pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellant, therefore, stood explained and in the light of the evidence on record, it is evident that two eyewitnesses were present from the beginning of the incident and promptness of the first information report show that there was no scope of deliberation. The conviction of the appellant, therefore, cannot be set aside.

30. On the submission of Sri Vinod Kumar learned Advocate for appellant Kallu for fixing the period of sentence of imprisonment for life, it is argued that the submissions of the learned counsel for the appellant Kallu is based on misinterpretation of the judgment. In all the decisions of the Apex Court relied upon by him, the situation was that while commuting sentence of death to life, the Apex Court put a ceiling fixing the minimum term for which the accused therein had to remain in confinement without remission. The idea was that the accused therein may not get remission prior to the tenure fixed by the Apex Court as after 14 years of life sentence, an accused may be granted remission by the State Government as per its policy. In none of the cases, the Apex Court has held that the High Court is empowered to fix an upper ceiling or cap on the period of life imprisonment. The sentence of imprisonment of life as held by the Apex Court is till the natural life of the accused which cannot be fixed in years by this Court.

31. Reliance has been placed on the judgments of the Apex Court in Sarat Chandra Rabha and others vs Khagendranath and others3, Gopal Vinayak Godse vs State of Maharastra and others4 Maru Ram vs Union of India5, Swamy Shraddananda (2) vs State of Karanataka6, Sahib Hussain Alias Sahib Jan vs State of Rajasthan7, Gurvail Singh Alias Gala vs State of Punjab8, Union of India vs V.Sriharan Alias Murugan and others9, Vikas Yadav vs State of U.P and others10 and Jitendra alias Kalla vs State of Govt, of NCT of Delhi11.

32. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record, noticing that the police papers and the report prepared by the doctors were proved with the deposition of the relevant witnesses, it is pertinent to record at the inception that this is a case of eyewitness account and the murder was committed in the broad day light. The P.W-2, an eyewitness said to have seen the whole occurrence from the beginning of the firing till the deceased had succumbed to his injuries. The ocular version of P.W-2, the manner in which the deceased was assaulted, is supported from the injuries found in the medical examination. As per the statement of P.W-2 when first fire was opened on the deceased by the accused Kallu and Phool Singh, he ran for his life towards his house. In between point '(B)', (where the deceased was first hit at point) and '(A)', (the house of the deceased), at place '(F)' house of Kallu has been shown in the site plan which is undisputed. As per the version of P.W-1, other three accused persons namely Jogendra, Charan Singh and Hari pounced from place '(F)' (house of Kallu) and started firing at the deceased who finally fell at the door of his house but the accused persons continued to fire at him. This version is corroborated from the number and nature of injuries sustained by the deceased. P.W-2 is the natural occupant of the house where the deceased was residing. He fixed his presence at place '(E)' which is in front of the house of Bhagwan Das, near the house of the deceased. The presence of P.W-2 at place (E) cannot be discarded by the mere fact that in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C, it was recorded that he was present at the door of his house. The said statement of this witnesses was recorded on 19.11.1997 whereas site plan was prepared on 20.11.1997 at the instance of P.W-2 who had fixed his presence at place (E). The distance between place (A) and (E) indicated in the site plan is 18 paces only. The version of P.W-2 in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C that he was present at the door of his house and in his cross examination that he was sitting at the Chabutra in front of the house of Bhagwan Das cannot be said to be contradictory.

33. Moreso, the statement of P.W-2 was recorded on the date of the incident itself soon after the Investigating Officer had reached the spot after registration of the FIR, we cannot loose sight of the fact that when the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C of P.W-2 was recorded, he was overwhelmed by the manner in which his brother was assaulted, chased by the accused and then brought to death at the door of his house.

34. A witness of the incident like this where murder of his own brother had been caused by five persons in such a daring manner, cannot be expected to give each and every detail on the same day. However, it can be seen that on the very next day when the site plan was prepared by the Investigating Officer on the pointing of this witness, P.W-2 had clearly fixed his place at (E) which is in corroboration with his oral testimony in the Court. We may also take notice of the fact that looking to the distance between two places (A) and (E), if P.W-2 stated that he was at the door of his house, he cannot be said to have given any contradictory statements, inasmuch as, in common parlance a person standing outside his house or near a place outside his house, would normally say that he was at the door of his house (घर के दरवाजे पर था). This version of P.W-2 in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C cannot be taken literally to mean that he was standing at the door of his house and could not be at the place (E) as indicated by him in the site plan and also stated in his examination-in-chief. The presence of P.W-2 at the site of the incident, thus, cannot be doubted. The house of the witness being nearby the place where witnesses were present, the submission of the learned counsel for the appellant that there is material shift in the version of P.W-2 with regard to the place of his presence at the time of incident, is liable to be rejected.

35. P.W-5 is a witness who was related to the deceased but he was not in a direct relationship either with P.W-1 or P.W-2, brothers of the deceased. P.W-5 is the brother-in-law of son of the deceased. It is, thus, not surprising that P.W-1 could not remember his name while making his deposition in the Court. P.W-1, however, clarified that this witness (P.W-5) was a relative and resident of village of Ragauli which is correct. As regards the submission of P.W-5 being a chance witness, we do not find substance in the same for the categorical statement made by P.W-5 that he came to the house of the deceased about two or three days prior to the incident to see his sister or to bring her with him. His presence in the house of the deceased prior to the incident cannot be doubted for the minor contradictions pointed out in his testimony. In fact, there is no material contradiction in the testimony of P.W-2 and P.W-5 who both had seen the incident together from one place (E). The presence of P.W-5 at the place (E), where another eyewitness P.W-2 was present at the time of the incident, cannot be discarded.

36. The question now is as to whether it was possible for the witnesses to see the first incident occurred at place '(B)', the distance of which was 88 paces from the place (E) (where the witnesses were present). To answer this, we may look at the site plan which is undisputed. The road on which the incident had occurred is a straight road and two assailants had opened fires at the deceased from place (D) and chased the deceased, other three assailants pounced from the house of Kallu which was located at the same road on the opposite side of the house of the deceased. It was, therefore, possible for the witnesses to identify the accused persons clearly and also the weapons carried by them. The assertion of P.W-2 that the assailants Kallu and Phool Singh had opened fire at his brother from place (D) cannot be doubted only because of the distance from the place (E) where witnesses were present. From the site plan, it can be clearly seen that the deceased was at the place '(B)' when firing had started, from there it was natural for him to run towards his house to save his life as the assailants at place '(D)' were on the other side. However, three other assailants joined at place '(F)' and they also shot the deceased resulting in his death. All the injuries on the person of the deceased are fire arm injuries and injury no.3 can be explained from the fact that the deceased fell down on the stone floor at the entrance of his house and died. No discrepancy could be found in the version of the prosecution witnesses.

37. With regard to the timing of the incident and the suggestion that it was a night incident for the reason that the inquest was conducted on the next day, we may note that the prosecution witness had proved that the first information report was lodged within two hours of the incident where the distance of the Police Station was 7 kms. The Investigating Officer had reached the spot by 6-6.30 p.m. and recorded the statements of the witnesses which fact could not be disputed.

38. The reason given by the Investigating Officer is that there was no sufficient arrangement for light and as such he made arrangements for safety of the body and other incriminating material and went back and again in the next morning he came to make inquest. This seems to be a wise decision of a prudent man as the inquest would require minute details of the position of the dead body, clothes worn by it and the details of the injuries, which may not be possible to note even in the electric light. Further, the incident had occurred in the month of November and at that point of time, the place may not be lit up sufficiently. Moreover, there is no suggestion of any enmity of the accused persons with the Investigating Officer. There is no reason before us to doubt the decision of the Investigating Officer not to make inquest in the late evening hours.

39. Further to deal with the submission that no blood was found between place (B) to (A) and, therefore, the prosecution story that the deceased ran after being hit at place (B) is false, suffice it to say that the inquest report as well as FSL report indicate that large amount of blood was found in clothes one of which was Sadri (winter clothes) and shoes of the deceased. The fact that blood was found in the shoes of the deceased itself supports the prosecution story that the deceased ran after being hit at place (B). Had the deceased been sitting at the door of his house while being shot, as per the suggestion of the learned counsel for the appellants, there was no question of large amount of blood being found in his shoes. It is further pertinent to note that blood stained and plain pieces of stones were collected from the spot (A), the door of the house of deceased, where he fell down in the end. The FSL report indicates that human blood was found on the said articles.

40. Further inconsistency pointed out in the statement of the prosecution witnesses are minor and do not shake the prosecution version. It is settled that the errors due to lapse of memory or perception of individual should not be given undue importance. Even minor embellishment in the version of prosecution witnesses perhaps for the fear of their testimony being rejected by the Court are liable to be ignored.

41. On the question of false implication, it is to be noted that motive assigned to the accused persons or causing the murder had been proved by the witnesses P.W-1 and P.W-2 in the course of the cross examination. It is an admitted fact that the deceased was a witness in a case against one of the accused Jogendra and the suggestion of the defence that his testimony was already recorded has not been proved by any cogent evidence. On the date of the incident, the case was going on. In the said scenario, the prosecution has established the motive for the commission of the crime by definite statement. The presence of motive, if established, provides a foundation material to connect the accused with the crime. However, in a case of ocular direct evidence, even absence of motive is insignificant. As to the suggestion of false implication, we may only note that as the motive operates on the minds of different persons, it is not possible for the Court to find out motive of false implication of accused persons. It may be a strong reason to commit the crime or for false implication. Reference: Shankarlal Gyarasilal Dixit12.

42. Lastly, the eyewitness are found to be natural witness whose presence on the spot could not be successfully disputed by the learned counsel for the appellants. The fact that the witnesses are related to the deceased would not be sufficient to discard their testimony as a close relative of the deceased does not, per se, become an interested witness. In law, an interested witnesses is one who is interested in securing the conviction of a person out of vengeance or enmity or due to a dispute and deposes before the Court only with that intention and not to further the cause of justice. Reference: Raju alias Balachandran and others vs State of Tamil Nadu.13

43. In the instant case, the related witnesses to the deceased are two brothers and one brother-in-law of his son. The deceased was himself a witness in a criminal case against one of the accused Jogendra. There is no suggestion of enmity of the witnesses with that of the accused. The first informant, brother of the deceased had truthfully deposed he was not an eyewitness of the incident and the narration in the FIR or in his examination in chief was based on the information passed on by other two witnesses namely P.W-2 and P.W-5, who were present at the spot. P.W-5 is a distant relative, no enmity with the appellants could be attributed to him. As regards P.W-2 he is closely related witness and carefully scrutinizing his testimony, we find that his evidence is cogent, credible and trustworthy. This witnesses can be placed in the category of wholly reliable witness.

44. In the totality of facts and circumstances of the case, it can be seen that the prosecution had proved each and every circumstance leading to the homicidal death of deceased Jai Singh from cogent and trustworthy evidence. Both ocular and medical evidence corroborate each other. No infirmity, therefore, could be found in the judgment of conviction of the trial Court. The sentence provided by the trial Court is minimum.

45. On the question of remission, Sri Vinod Kumar learned Advocate has placed reliance on two decisions of the Division Bench of this Court in Criminal Appeal no.2135 of 2013 (Savir vs State of U.P) and in Criminal Appeal no.1839 of 2004 (Veersen vs State of U.P) to submit that this Court is competent to fix the term of life imprisonment and direct for release of the appellant after 20 years of incarceration. The period of 14 years, according to him, has been fixed as tenure of life imprisonment under Section 57 of the Indian Penal Code.

46. Dealing with this submission of the learned counsel for the appellant Kallu, seeking his release from jail on completion of 20 years incarceration treating it as a sentence for life, we may note that the Division Bench of this Court in both the above noted decisions had relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in Vikas Yadav (supra) and also referred to a decision in Maru Ram vs Union of India (supra) while proceeding to hold that the period of incarceration of a life convict in both the cases being more than 14 years would be just and proper while upholding the judgments of their conviction. We, therefore, first have to go through the decision of the Apex Court in Maru Ram (supra) wherein the challenge was to the vires of Section 433-A of the Criminal Procedure Code. While dealing with the said question, the Apex Court in Maru Ram (supra) in paragraph '25' had considered the Constitution Bench judgment in Gopal Vinayak Godse vs State of Maharastra and others (supra) wherein the concept of the nature of life sentence has been highlighted. It was noted that the Constitution Bench took the view that a sentence of imprisonment for life was nothing less and nothing else than an imprisonment which lasted till the last breath.

47. Another decision of the Constitution Bench in Sarat Chandra Rabha and others vs Khagendranath and others (supra) was relied therein to note that the order of remission does not wipe out the offence, it also does not wipe out the conviction. It does have an effect only on the execution of the sentence, as on remission, a convict person need not to serve that part of the sentence which has been ordered to be remitted. An order of remission, thus, does not in any way interfere with the order of the Court; and it affects only the execution of the sentence passed by the Court. The power to grant remission is executive power and cannot have the effect which the order of appellate and revisional Court would have of reducing the sentence passed by the trial Court and substituting in the decision adjudged by the appellate or revisional Court.

48. It was also noted in Maru Ram (supra) that the nature of life sentence is incarceration until death, a life convict cannot be released as such until there is a release order by the appropriate Government in accordance with the Criminal Procedure Code or a clemency order in exercise of power under Article 72 or 161 of the Constitution of India. It was noted that the Constitution Bench judgment in Godse's case (supra) is authority for the proposition that a sentence for imprisonment of life "imprisonment of the whole remaining period of the convicted persons natural life". The relevant observations of the Constitution Bench in Godse's Case (supra) has been quoted therein as under:

"Unless the said sentence is commuted or remitted by appropriate authority under the relevant provisions of the Indian Penal Code or the Code of Criminal Procedure, a prisoner sentenced to life imprisonment is bound in law to serve the life, term in prison. The rules framed under the Prisons Act enable such a prisoner to earn remissions- ordinary, special and State-and the said remissions will be given credit towards his term of imprisonment. For the purpose of working out the remissions the sentence of transportation for life is ordinarily equated with a definite period, but it is only for that particular purpose and not for any other purpose. As the sentence of transportation for life or its prison equivalent, the life imprisonment, is one of indefinite duration, the remissions so earned do not in practice help such a convict as it is not possible to predicate the time of his death. That is why the rules provide for a procedure to enable the appro- priate Government to remit the sentence under s. 401 of the Code of Criminal Procedure on a consideration of the relevant factors, including the period of remissions earned. The question of remission is exclusively within the province of the appropriate Government; and in this case it is admitted that, though the appropriate Government made certain remissions under s. 401 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, it did not remit the entire sentence. We, therefore, hold that the petitioner has not yet acquired any right to release."

It was also held by the Constitution Bench in Godse's (supra) case that Section 57 IPC does not in any way limit the punishment for imprisonment of life to a term of 20 years. It is only for calculating fractions in terms of punishment.

49. In Vikas Yadav (supra), the question was as to whether the statutory power of the State under Section 433-A Cr.P.C cannot be curtailed by the Court by prescribing a sentence for life imposing a fix term curtailing the power of remission after 14 years as envisaged under Section 433-A Cr.P.C. In Vikas Yadav (supra) the trial Court sentenced the appellant to life imprisonment with fine whereas the High Court while affirming the conviction and sentence had awarded sentence to appellant Vikas Yadav of life imprisonment which shall be 25 years of actual imprisonment without consideration of remission. It is in this circumstance, the aspect of legal impermissibility for imposition of the said sentence was examined by the Apex Court. It was argued therein that the Court imposed a third category of sentence by an experience directing for non granting the remission as provided under Section 433-A after expiry of 14 years which is legally not permissible, inasmuch as, the Court cannot direct the statutory provision to be kept in abeyance as a mode of sentencing structure. The challenge, thus, was that the High Court had fallen in grave error by imposing "fix term sentence", curtailing the power for remission after 14 years, which was beyond its jurisdiction. It was also argued that in respect of the offence under Section 302 IPC, life is the minimum and the maximum is the death sentence and, therefore, the Court has a choice between the two and is not entitled to follow any other path, for that would be violative of sanctity of Article 21 of the Constitution which clearly stipulates that no person shall be deprived of his life or personal liberty except according to the procedure established by law. With that it was argued that imposition of sentence for a fix term was contrary to the procedure established by law and hence impermissible.

50. This question was answered by the Apex Court with the aid of the Constitution Bench judgment in Union of India vs V. Sriharan (supra) wherein out of several questions raised, two questions relevant for our purposes, are to be noted as under:-

"2.2 (i) Whether imprisonment for life means for the rest of one's life with any right to claim remission?

(ii) Whether as held in Shraddananda case (2), a special category of sentence; instead of death; for a term exceeding 14 years and put that category beyond application of remission can be imposed?"

51. By majority decision, the Constitution Bench after referring to its earlier decisions in Maaru Ram (supra), Gopal Vinayak Godse (supra) and State of M.P vs Ratan Singh14 opined that the legal position is quite settled that the life imprisonment only means the entirely of the life unless it is curtailed by remissions validly granted under the Criminal Procedure Code by the appropriate Government or under Article 72 and 161 of the Constitution by the Executive Head; viz, the President or the Governor of the State; respectively.

52. The decision of the Apex court in Bhagirath vs Delhi Administration15 was noted in paragraph '59' of the Constitution Bench in Union of India vs V. Sriharan as under:

" Coming next to the question of set off under Section 428 of the Code, this Court held:

"11.....The question of setting off the period of detention undergone by an accused as an undertrial prisoner against the sentence of life imprisonment can arise only if an order is passed by the appropriate authority under Section 432 or Section 433 of the Code. In the absence of such order, passed generally or specially, and apart from the provisions, if any, of the relevant Jail Manual, imprisonment for life would mean, according to the rule in Gopal Vinayak Godse*, imprisonment for the remainder of life."*

53. In paragraph-'61', having noted the Constitution Bench judgment in Godse's and Maru (supra), it was observed that:-

"61.....The first part of the first question can be conveniently answered to the effect that imprisonment for life in terms of Section 53 read with Section 45 of the Penal Code only means imprisonment for rest of the life of the prisoner subject, however, to the right to claim remission, etc. as provided under Articles 72 and 161 of the Constitution to be exercisable by the President and the Governor of the State and also as provided under Section 432 of the Criminal Procedure Code."

54. Further, considering the principles propounded in Swamy Shraddananda (2) vs State of Karanataka (supra), it was observed in Union of India vs V. Sriharan*(supra)* that the said decision was a well thought out one. The special category of sentence to be considered in substitute of death penalty by imposing life sentence, ie, the entirety of life of a term of imprisonment which can be less than full life time but more that 14 years and put that category beyond application of remission, has been propounded by the Court which is the third category of sentencing for a murder convict.

55. Reverting to Vikas Yadav (supra), it was concluded therein that the situation that has been projected in Swamy Shraddananda (2) (supra) and approved in Union of India vs V.Sriharan (supra) speaks eloquently of judicial experience and the fix term sentence cannot be said to be unauthorised in law. It was concluded in para-'45' that:

"Section 302 IPC authorizes imposition of death sentence. The minimum sentence is imprisonment for life which means till the entire period of natural life of the convict is over. The courts cannot embark upon the power to be exercised by the Executive Heads of the State under Article 71 and Article 161 of the Constitution. That remains in a different sphere and it has its independent legal sanctity. The court while imposing the sentence of life makes it clear that it means in law whole of life. The executive has been granted power by the legislature to grant remission after expiry of certain period. The court could have imposed the death sentence. However, in a case where the court does not intend to impose a death sentence because of certain factors, it may impose fixed term sentence keeping in view the public concept with regard to deterrent punishment. It really adopts the view of "expanded option", lesser than the maximum and within the expanded option of the minimum, for grant of remission does not come in after expiry of 14 years. It strikes a balance regard being had to the gravity of the offence."

56. It is in the above context that the Apex Court in Vikas Yadav (supra) has quoted in para '104' the Constitution Bench in Union of India vs V.Sriharan (supra) to note that the High Court while modifying punishment of a life convict may provide for any specific term of incarceration or till the end of convict's life as an alternate to death penalty.

57. As noted above in Vikas Yadav (supra), the trial Court had imposed the life sentence and the High Court while declaring to enhance the sentence for imprisonment for life to death had imposed fix term sentence curtailing the power of remission after 14 years as envisaged under Section 433-A Cr.P.C, which has been affirmed by the Apex Court while disposing of the appeal.

58. The ratio of the decision of the Apex Court in Swamy Shraddananda(2) Alias Murali Manohar Mishra (supra) as approved in Union of India vs V. Sriharan (supra) and considered in Vikas Yadav (supra) is that the power to impose the modified punishment providing for any specified term of incarceration or till the end of convict's life, as an alternate to death penalty, can be exercised only by the High Court and the Apex Court and not by any other inferior Court. However, the ratio of the Constitution Bench in Godse's Case (supra), i.e. the fundamental principle that a sentence of imprisonment for life is an imprisonment which last till the last breath of the convict has been consistently approved. We also note that the question in Godse's case for consideration was whether there is any provision of law whereunder a sentence for life without any formal remission can be treated as one for the definite period by the Court and it was answered in negative. It is, thus, clear that the special category created in Swamy Shraddananda (2) Alias Murali Manohar Mishra (supra) where the death penalty might be substituted by the punishment of imprisonment for life of imprisonment for a term in excess of 14 years and to put that category beyond the application of remission was approved in the later decisions of the Apex Court. [(In Vikas Yadav (supra)].

59. Further, Section 28 of the Criminal Procedure Code empowers the Court to impose sentence authorised by law. Section 302 IPC authorises the Court to either award life imprisonment or death. The minimum sentence is life imprisonment and maximum is death. The Court cannot curtail the minimum sentence as authorised by the statute. It, therefore, cannot curtail the sentence for life and fix a period of incarceration of a life convict. Life imprisonment as held in Godse's Case (supra) means the whole of the period of convict's natural life which is subject to the power of the appropriate government to grant remission under Section 432 of the Criminal Procedure Code read with section 433-A.

60. In a recent decision in Duryodhan Rout vs State of Orissa16 on a question of interpretation of Section 31 Cr.P.C, it was observed by the Apex Court that imprisonment for life is not confined to 14 years of imprisonment. In view of Section 55 of IPC and Section 433 and 433-A Cr.P.C, only appropriate Government can commute the sentence of imprisonment for life for a term not exceeding 14 years or accedes to the release of such persons unless he has served atleast 14 years of imprisonment. Section 57 of the Indian Penal Code merely relates to calculating fractions of term of punishment by providing numerical value of 20 years to life imprisonment. It was thus held that a person sentenced to life imprisonment is bound to serve the remainder of his life in life imprisonment unless the sentence is commuted by the appropriate Government in terms of Section 55, 433 ad 433-A of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

61. Reliance is placed on the decisions of the Apex Court in Gopal Vinayak Godse (supra) and State of M.P. vs Ratan Singh (supra) as also other decisions in Naib Singh vs State of Punjab17; Ashok Kumar vs Union of India18; Subhash Chander vs Krishan lal19; Mohd Munna vs Union of India20 to hold that :

"26. This Court reiterated that life imprisonment was not equivalent to imprisonment for 14 years or 20 years in Mohd Munna vs Union of India. The Court held that the life imprisonment means imprisonment for whole of the remaining period of the convicted person's natural life. There is no provision either in the Penal Code or in the Criminal Procedure Code, whereby life imprisonment could be treated as either 14 years or 20 years without there being of formal remission by the appropriate Government. "

62. In Raj Kumar vs State of Uttar Pradesh21, it was held that :

"14. A bare perusal of Section 433 of Cr.PC shows that the powers under Section 433 can only be exercised by the appropriate Government. These powers cannot be exercised by any court including this Court. At best, the court can recommend to the State Government that such power may be exercised but the power of the appropriate Government cannot be usurped by the courts and the Government cannot be directed to pass "formal compliance order'. We are, therefore, not inclined to pass a similar order because that is beyond the jurisdiction of this Court."

63. With due respect to the Bench, the Division Bench of this Court in Criminal appeal no.2135 of 2013 (Savir vs State of U.P) and Criminal appeal no.1839 of 2004 (Veersen vs State of U.P) has wrongly interpretted the decisions of the Apex Court in Maru Ram (supra) and Vikas Yadav (supra) to fix a term of life imprisonment to 14.6 years and 15 years; under Section 302 IPC, depending upon the period of incarceration of the appellants in those cases. The conclusion drawn by it is a result of misreading of the said decisions of the Apex Court and ignorance of law. Both the above noted judgments of the Division Bench of this Court are held 'Per incuriam'.

64. Thus, to deal with the submissions of Sri Vinod learned Advocate for the appellant on the issue that since the appellant Kallu has remained in jail for about 20-21 years, his sentence for life imprisonment has to be commuted to the period undergone by him and that he is entitled to be released from jail, we may record that it is not permissible for the Court to fix the period of life sentence to certain years, in as much as, the legal position is that the period of life sentence is natural life of a person. However, as per law of remission, it is within the discretion of the State Government to grant remission to life convict after he has served minimum 14 years of sentence in jail. In the cases relied upon by learned counsel for the appellants, the position as emerges is that the Apex Court while commuting the death sentence to life had fixed a cap so that the convicted accused would not be entitled to seek remission prior to expiry of the said period which was 15 to 21 years in the cases relied by the counsel for the appellant. However, in none of the cases, the decision can be read in the manner as submitted by the learned counsel for the appellant that the High Court is empowered to fix the period of life sentence in a particular case with regard to a particular accused. The submission in this regard are, thus, liable to be rejected.

65. However, noticing that the appellant Kallu remained in jail for 20-21 years, it is open for the jail authorities to assess the condition of his release from jail on remission of his sentence and recommend the same to the State Authorities, if the case of the appellant falls within the four corners of the policy framed by the State Government in the matter of remission of life convict. It is clarified that our observation herein shall not be treated as direction of the Court and the authorities concerned are free to take independent decision in that regard.

66. In view of the above, the appeals stand dismissed.

67. The appellant Phool Singh is in jail in execution of non bailable warrant and appellant Kallu is also in jail.

68. The appellants Hari @ Harish Chandra and Charan are on bail. Their bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged.

69. The Court concerned is directed to take the appellants namely Hari @ Harish Chandra and Charan in custody and send them to jail to serve out the remaining sentence.

70. The office is directed to transmit back the lower court record along with a certified copy of this judgment for information and necessary compliance.

71. Certify this judgment to the court below immediately for necessary action.

Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 1464 of 2022

Vivek Verma ...Applicant

Counsel for the Applicant:
Atul Verma, Akhilendra Pratap Singh

Counsel for the Opposite Party:
Anurag Kumar Singh

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 438- Bail- Third Bail Application - Principle of Parity - As to whether after rejection of bail application of any accused person, the other co-accused persons having similar role or lesser role if granted bail, can be considered as a new ground for considering the subsequent bail application - Two co-accused persons, namely, Aman Singh and Faisal have been granted bail subsequent to rejection of first bail application of the present applicant and role of those co-accused persons and the present applicant is more or less similar as considered above, rather, is having lesser gravity- Out of 101 prosecution witnesses, only 25 prosecution witnesses have been examined by now, therefore, there is no possibility to conclude the trial in near future and the period of incarceration of the present applicant which is more than five years and two months.

Settled law that where the similarly situated co-accused have been enlarged on bail subsequently then consistency requires that the present accused should also be enlarged on bail more so in view of the fact that the accused has undergone a substantial period of incarceration without any likelihood of early conclusion of the trial. (Para 25, 26)

Judgements/ Case law relied upon:-

1. Nanha S/o Nabhan Kha Vs St. of U.P.,1993 Cri.LJ 938

2. U.O.I Vs K.A. Najeeb AIR 2021 SC 712

3. Paras Ram Vishnoi Vs The Director, CBI , Crl. Appeal No.693 of 2021 (Arising out of SLP (Crl) 3610 of 2020)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Atul Verma, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Anurag Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the Central Bureau of Investigation (C.B.I.).

2. As per learned counsel for the applicant, the present applicant is languishing in jail since 15.02.2017 in Case Crime No.52 of 2017, R.C. No.4 (S) /2017, under Sections 302, 120-B and 201 I.P.C., Police Station-C.B.I/SCB, Lucknow, District-Lucknow. He has submitted that the present applicant has been falsely implicated in this case as he has not committed any offence as alleged in the prosecution story.

3. This is the third bail application. The first bail application bearing Bail Case No.5860 (B) of 2017 was rejected on 21.01.2020 by Hon'ble Mr. Justice Chandra Dhari Singh, who has been transferred from this Court to another High Court. The second bail application bearing Bail Case No.3464 (B) of 2020 was dismissed as withdrawn on 08.11.2021 by Hon'ble Mr. Justice Salil Kumar Rai, who is sitting at Allahabad.

4. Since Hon'ble Mr. Justice Chandra Dhari Singh has been transferred to another High Court and Hon'ble Mr. Justice Salil Kumar Rai is sitting at Allahabad, therefore, in view of the order of Hon'ble the Chief Justice dated 13.11.2018 the present bail application has been listed before the regular Court.

5. At the very outset, Sri Atul Verma, learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that he is cautious about the legal position that he cannot take any fresh ground to argue the third bail application which could have been taken at the time of rejection of first or second bail applications.

6. Sri Verma has submitted that he is only pressing this bail application on the ground that the present applicant is in jail since 15.02.2017 and out of total 101 prosecution witnesses only 25 prosecution witnesses have been examined. Therefore, there is no possibility to conclude the trial in near future, so the present applicant may be enlarged on bail. He has further submitted that after rejection of first bail application on merits on 21.01.2020 the bail of the other co-accused persons, namely Aman Singh and Faisal, who have been implicated invoking the provisions of Section 120-B I.P.C. in a same manner the present applicant has been implicated invoking Section 120-B I.P.C., inasmuch as the present applicant has not been attributed the role of main assailant. Even the present applicant was not present on the spot, however, co-accused persons, namely, Aman Singh and Faisal have been attributed the role that they were on Motorbike near the place where incident in question has taken place and the Motorbike which was being used at that point of time by the co-accused was of the present applicant.

7. Sri Verma has also submitted that however before rejection of first bail application of the present applicant on 21.01.2020 the bail of one co-accused, Ajay Patel who was also implicated invoking Section 120-B I.P.C., has been granted bail on 07.11.2019 but he shall not take such ground for the reason that such ground was available to the present applicant at the time of rejection of his first bail application. However, the fact remains that so far as the implication of co-accused persons, namely, Ajay Patel, Aman Singh and Faisal is concerned, all accused persons have been implicated invoking Section 120-B I.P.C., therefore on that score, the present applicant is having parity with all the co-accused persons. Hence, on the aforesaid ground the present applicant may be enlarged on bail.

8. On the other hand, Sri Anurag Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the C.B.I. has submitted that he has provided copy of the counter affidavit to the learned counsel for the applicant, however, he could not file the hard copy thereof whereas copy of the said counter affidavit has been shown to the Court for perusal.

9. Therefore, Sri Singh is directed to file and upload the counter affidavit forthwith and as soon as the said counter affidavit is filed and uploaded, the same shall be processed by the office at the earliest. Even though I am deciding the present bail application on the basis of material available on record but for the purposes of record of the bail application, the same shall be filed and uploaded in view of the aforesaid order.

10. In view of the above, the question before this court for consideration is as to whether after rejection of bail application of any accused person, the other co-accused persons having similar role or lesser role if granted bail, can be considered as a new ground for considering the subsequent bail application. This question has been cropped up before the Division Bench of this Court in re: Nanha S/o Nabhan Kha vs. State of U.P., reported in 1993 Cri.LJ 938, and the Division Bench has formulated the question in para-1 of the judgement, which reads as under:-

"1. In the third bail application moved by the petitioner for bail in case Crime No. 53 of 1989 under Section 302, IPC of P.S. Ganj, district Rampur Hon'ble N.L. Ganguli, J. has referred the following question to a larger Bench for an authoritative pronouncement:-- Whether an accused is entitled to be released on bail on the ground of parity by moving a second or third bail application in a circumstance that at a later date a co-accused of the same criminal case with a similar role was granted bail by the another Hon'ble Judge before whom without disclosing the fact that the bail application of another co- accused with similar role had already been rejected, by another Bench, bail was granted."

11. While considering the aforesaid question, the Division Bench has observed in paras-53 & 58 of the case in re: Nanha (supra) as under:-

"53. There are large number of cases of this Court in which the question of parity in the matters of bail has been considered earlier and the weight of judicial authority is in favour of the principle of parity being followed. In the case of Hadi v. State, 1986 Allahabad Criminal Cases 390 Hon'ble Parmeshwari Dayal, J. bailed out the accused on the ground that co-accused had been bailed out earlier. In another case of Sanwal Das Gupta v. State of U.P., 1986 Allahabad Criminal Cases 79, D.N. Jha, J. observed that where bail was granted to a co-accused then even the Magistrate can admit co-accused to maintain parity. In the case of Ram Roop Vs. State of U.P. 1987 Criminal Rulings 30, this Court observed that a co-accused having similar role having been granted bail another co-accused should also be granted bail. In the case of Ali Hussain v. State of U.P., 1990 U.P. Criminal Rulings 93, Hon'ble S.K. Dhaon, J. placed reliance on the Supreme Court's case of Kallu (supra) and granted bail on the ground of parity. In a unreported decision of this Court in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 1360 of 1987 Rai Munna v. State of U.P. Hon'ble G.P. Mathur, J. granted bail on the ground of parity though the Hon'ble Judge clearly observed that he was still of the opinion that the applicant was not entitled to bail on merits, but, however, as his case was not distinguishable from the case of co-accused the bail was granted on the ground of parity. In his judgment in Sobha Ram's case (supra) Hon'ble V.N. Mehrotra, J. has considered some more unreported decisions of this Court in which bail has been granted on the ground of parity. I respectfully agree with the view of Hon'ble V.N. Mehrotra, J.

58. The word 'parity' means the state or condition being equal or on a level; equality; equality of rank or status (See Shorter Oxford English Dictionary 1936 Ed.). In other words it means being placed at the same footing. All the accused of a case always do not stand on the same footing. While considering bail of different accused the court has to find out whether they stand on the same footing or not. Even if role assigned to various accused is same yet they may stand on different footing. The case of Cap. Jagjeet Singh (supra) is an illustration wherein the Supreme Court distinguished the case of Capt. Jagjeet Singh on the ground that he was in touch with foreign agency and leaking out secrets. The Supreme Court in the case of Gur Charan Singh v. Delhi Administration, AIR 1978 SC 179 : (1978 Cri LJ 129) laid down that the considerations for grant of bail are inter alia the position and status of the accused with reference to the victim and the witnesses; likelihood of the accused; fleeing from justice; of repeating offence; of jeopardising his own life, being faced with grim prospect of possible conviction in the case; of tampering with witnesses; and the like. These are additional factors which are to be judged in the case of individual accused and it may make the cases of different accused distinguishable from each accused. At the same time if there is no real distinction between the individual case of accused the principle of parity comes into play and if bail is granted to one accused it should also be granted to the other accused whose case stands on identical footing."

12. While answering the aforesaid question, the Division Bench has opined in para-61 of the case in re: Nanha (supra) as under:-

"61. My answer to the points referred to is that if on examination of a given case it transpires that the case of the applicant before court is identical, similar to the accused, on facts and circumstances who has been bailed out, then the desirability of consistency will require that such an accused should also be released on bail. (Exceptional cases as discussed above apart). As regards the second part of the question, answer is that it is not at all necessary for an accused to state in his bail application that the bail application of a co-accused has been rejected previously."

13. So as to demonstrate the role of the present applicant, the attention has been drawn by Sri Verma towards the prosecution story wherein the present applicant has been attributed the role of providing the Motorbike to the accused persons who have killed the victim.

14. Sri Verma has further submitted that from the statement of all 25 prosecution witnesses who have been examined and cross-examined, none of them have alleged anything against the present applicant to the effect that the present applicant has committed the crime in question or he was present on the spot. As a matter of fact, the present applicant has been implicated invoking the provisions of Section 120-B I.P.C. in a same manner as the other co-accused, namely, Ajay Patel, Aman Singh and Faisal have been implicated. Even as per the prosecution, the Aman Singh and Faisal were on the Motorbike near the place of incident putting the Helmet on their head but the present applicant was not even present at the place of incident. Therefore, the case of the present applicant is on better footing than the case of other co-accused persons who have been granted bail. Further, Aman Singh and Faisal have been granted bail by this Court on 29.10.2021 and 15.12.2021, subsequent to rejection of first bail application of the present applicant on 21.01.2020. Therefore, the case of the present applicant may be considered in the light of the decision rendered in re: Nanha (supra).

15. On the basis of aforesaid contention, Sri Verma has submitted that the present applicant may be enlarged on bail and he has given undertaking on his behalf that he shall co-operate with the trial proceedings, shall not misuse the liberty of bail and shall not influence any of the witnesses.

16. Sri Verma has submitted with vehemence that the present applicant is having no criminal history of any kind whatsoever and this fact has not been controverted anyway in the counter affidavit.

17. Per contra, Sri Anurag Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the C.B.I. has vehemently opposed the prayer for bail by submitting that since the first bail application has been rejected and the applicant has got his second bail application dismissed as not pressed on 08.11.2021, therefore, the grounds so taken by Sri Atul Verma as a new ground may not be considered as a new ground so the present bail application may be rejected.

18. However, on being confronted on the point at to whether co-accused persons Ajay Patel, Aman Singh and Faisal have been implicated invoking the provisions of Section 120-B I.P.C. in a same manner as the present applicant has been implicated, Sri Singh has submitted that those co-accused persons have been implicated invoking the provisions of Section 120-B I.P.C.

19. On being further confronted as to whether the present applicant was present at the place of incident in a same manner as the co-accused persons, Aman Singh and Faisal, were present putting on Helmet while driving the Motorbike, Sri Singh has submitted that on the basis of material available on record the present applicant was not present at the place of incident, however, he was actually involved as a conspirator.

20. So far as the criminal history of the present applicant is concerned, Sri Singh has submitted that the prosecution/ C.B.I. could not lay his hands on any of the criminal antecedent of the present applicant.

21. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record.

22. Without entering into merits of the issue, considering the fact that after rejection of the first bail application on merits on 21.01.2020, co-accused persons Aman Singh and Faisal have been granted bail on 29.10.2021 and 15.11.2021. Both the co-accused persons have been implicated invoking the provisions of Section 120-B I.P.C. in a same manner as the present applicant has been implicated. As per the prosecution story, Aman Singh and Faisal were present on the spot on their Motorbikes putting the Helmet on their head whereas the present applicant was not present at the place of incident. The Motorbike of the present applicant has allegedly been utilized by the accused persons.

23. Notably, out of 101 prosecution witnesses, only 25 prosecution witnesses have been examined by now, therefore, there is no possibility to conclude the trial in near future and the period of incarceration of the present applicant which is more than five years and two months may be considered in view of the dictum of Apex Court in re: Union of India vs. K.A. Najeeb reported in AIR 2021 Supreme Court 712. Para-16 of the judgment is being reproduced here-in-below:-

"This Court has clarified in numerous judgments that the liberty guaranteed by Part III of the Constitution would cover within its protective ambit not only due procedure and fairness but also access to justice and a speedy trial. In Supreme Court Legal Aid Committee Representing Undertrial Prisoners v. Union of India, it was held that undertrials cannot indefinitely be detained pending trial. Ideally, no person ought to suffer adverse consequences of his acts unless the same is established before a neutral arbiter. However, owing to the practicalities of real life where to secure an effective trial and to ameliorate the risk to society in case a potential criminal is left at large pending trial, Courts are tasked with deciding whether an individual ought to be released pending trial or not. Once it is obvious that a timely trial would not be possible and the accused has suffered incarceration for a significant period of time, Courts would ordinarily be obligated to enlarge them on bail."

24. The Apex Court in the case in re: Paras Ram Vishnoi vs. The Director, Central Bureau of Investigation passed in Criminal Appeal No.693 of 2021 (Arising out of SLP (Crl) 3610 of 2020) has observed as under:-

"On consideration of the matter, we are of the view that pending the trial we cannot keep a person in custody for an indefinite period of time and taking into consideration the period of custody and that the other accused are yet to lead defence evidence while the appellant has already stated he does not propose to lead any evidence, we are inclined to grant bail to the appellant on terms and conditions to the satisfaction of the trial court."

25. In the aforesaid cases, the Apex Court has held that if there is no possibility to conclude the trial in near future and the accused applicant is in ail for a substantial long period then a period of incarceration may be considered as a fresh ground.

26. Since two co-accused persons, namely, Aman Singh and Faisal have been granted bail subsequent to rejection of first bail application of the present applicant and role of those co-accused persons and the present applicant is more or less similar as considered above, rather, is having lesser gravity, therefore, in view of the decision of the Division Bench of this Court rendered in re: Nanha (supra), wherein the Division Bench of this Court has considered various decisions of Apex Court and the case of the present applicant is squarely covered from that judgment, so the benefit of that judgment may be extended to the present applicant.

27. It is made clear that if after releasing from jail after getting bail the present applicant misuses the liberty of bail or influence any witnesses or evidences, the prosecution may file an appropriate application for cancellation of bail which may be considered at the earliest.

28. In view of the above, the present application for bail is allowed.

29. Let the applicant-Vivek Verma, be released on bail in the aforesaid case crime number on his furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned with the following conditions:-

(i) The applicant shall file an undertaking to the effect that he shall not seek any adjournment on the dates fixed for evidence when the witnesses are present in court. In case of default of this condition, it shall be open for the trial court to treat it as abuse of liberty of bail and pass orders in accordance with law.

(ii) The applicant shall remain present before the trial court on each date fixed, either personally or through his counsel. In case of his absence, without sufficient cause, the trial court may proceed against him under Section 229-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(iii) In case, the applicant misuses the liberty of bail during trial and in order to secure his presence proclamation under Section 82 Cr.P.C. is issued and the applicant fail to appear before the court on the date fixed in such proclamation, then, the trial court shall initiate proceedings against him, in accordance with law, under Section 174-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(iv) The applicant shall remain present, in person, before the trial court on the dates fixed for (i) opening of the case, (ii) framing of charge and (iii) recording of statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. If in the opinion of the trial court absence of the applicant is deliberate or without sufficient cause, then it shall be open for the trial court to treat such default as abuse of liberty of bail and proceed against him in accordance with law.

(v) The applicant shall not leave the country without prior permission of the Court.

30. Before parting with, it is expected that the trial shall be concluded with expedition in terms of Section 309 Cr.P.C. Further, the learned trial court may take all coercive measures as per law if either of the parties do not co-operate in the trial properly.

The trial has not proceeded any further. No offence u/s 3/4 of PML Act is made out against him.

9. Learned counsel for the applicant has further referred relied upon the judgement of Supreme Court in the case of Tofan Singh Vs. State of Tamil Nadu1 wherein it has been held that officers, who are invested with powers u/s 53 of NDPS Act, are "police officers" within the meaning of Section 25 of the Evidence Act and, therefore, any confessional statement made before them would attract the bar of Section 25 of the Evidence Act and cannot be taken into account to convict an accused.

10. Learned counsel for the applicant has further stated that the investigative procedure especially in the Statute of PML Act is pari materia to that under NDPS Act. He has further relied upon the judgement of Supreme Court in the case of Nikesh Tara Chand Shah Vs. Union of India2 and the relevant para of the said judgement is reproduced hereunder:-

"Regard being had to the above, we declare Section 45(1) of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002, insofar as it imposes two further conditions for release on bail, to be unconstitutional as it violates Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution of India."

11. Learned counsel for the applicant has also stated that the bail of the present case falls in the category of less than one crore and there is a provision introduced in Section 45(ii) of PML Act inserted vide Act No.13 of 2018 by way of amendment dated 19.4.2018 to release the person on bail if the case falls within one crore.

12. The 'Authority' or 'Court' word used in Section 24(a) or (b) would mean and only mean the Authority constituted under the Act and Courts. Otherwise, expression would defeat the object of Section 24 of PML Act. The investigation conducted by the CBI, ED or any other police agency would not fall within the category of proceedings. He has further stated that the applicant was not arrested during investigation and has retired on 31.12.2016. The complaint was filed on 2.12.2020 before the Special Judge, PMLA, Lucknow. The sole allegation against the applicant is that one Amit Yadav had withdrawn an amount of Rs. 30 lakhs vide two cheques dated 5.9.2016 and 9.6.2016 which were handed over to applicant in cash. The applicant has no criminal history. He is in jail since 20.11.2020 in predicate case and since 22.9.2021 in this case. There is no likelihood of early disposal of the trial. The applicant undertakes that if he is released on bail, he will never misuse the liberty and will cooperate in trial.

13. Per contra, Sri Shiv P. Shukla, learned counsel for the Directorate of Enforcement has vehemently opposed the bail prayer of the applicant by contending that rigors of Section 45 of PML Act are applicable to the present case. As per Section 24, the burden of proof lies upon the accused pertaining to the alleged amount of Rs. 30 lakhs. The total scam is of Rs.1500 crores. He has further relied upon the report dated 16.5.2017 prepared by Hon'ble Mr. (Retd.) Justice Alok Kumar Singh after conducting a thorough inquiry in the matter in which it has come on record that there was illegal money gratification paid to certain accused engineers in cash and through banking transactions which were nothing but the properties involved in money laundering.

14. Sri Shukla has further stated that as per the Rules, an amount of "centage charge" was to be deposited in the appropriate account head of the concerned department through Treasury Challan or through electronic payment. In the instant project, centage charge to the tune of Rs. 71 crores was not deposited for the period of March, 2015 to December, 2015. During this period, the applicant was the Executive Engineer of the concerned department and on being questioned referring the deposition of the said centage charge, he could not provide any documentary evidence of having deposited it.

15. On this count, learned counsel for the applicant has stated that a request was moved by the department for the waiver of said centage charge and, therefore, centage charges were not deposited.

16. Sri Shukla has also referred to the statement of one Siddh Narain Sharma, who has stated that it was the sole responsibility of the Executive Engineer to deposit the "centage charges" and he has also stated that he was not aware as to whether the said "centage charges" were deposited or not. Learned counsel has further stated that the applicant while working as Executive Engineer in the Gomti River Front, did not follow the financial rules whereas the amount due for centage charges were used elsewhere without any approval of the authority. Thus, the applicant did not discharge his official responsibility but indulged in misappropriation and diversion of funds without any approval. Learned counsel has lastly submitted that the applicant is not on bail in the predicate offence.

17. It is also stated that the applicant did not pay due diligence in the construction on RCC Diaphragm Wall and misused his official position. The applicant is stated to have signed an agreement for work of "Intercepting Drain" without any financial sanction. The applicant is stated to have used the financial details and profile of his wife Shyama Devi to channelize, place, layer and project i.e. launder the illegitimate properties involved in money laundering derived and obtained by him through illegal monetary gratifications in Gomti River Front Project.

18. Learned counsel for the applicant has further stated that investigation is still going on and as per the current stage, the liability of applicant is Rs. 30 lakhs, that of the co-accused Anil Yadav is Rs. 53.89 lakhs and that of S.N. Sharma is of Rs. 15 lakhs only.

CONCLUSION

19. The matter pertains to a large scam of Rs. 1500 crores and it was an admitted fact that the applicant was the then Executive Engineer in the department and it was his responsibility to deposit the said "centage charges".

20. Corruption is a form of dishonesty which is undertaken by a person or persons or organization, which is entrusted with a position of authority, in order to acquire illicit benefits or abuse of power for one's personal gain.

21. Of late, we have seen a steep surge in the said means of corruption by those who are in power. Power which may be muscular, administrative or monetary if misused has deletarious effect on others i.e. society as a whole.

22. Lala Hardayal in his book "Hints for Self Culture" has stated as under:-

"Take heed lest you grasp the shadow and miss the substance. You may coin your Brain into money, but then you are abusing and misusing this rare gift of Nature. Intellect should be employed chiefly as an instrument of growth and social service. It must not be a tool for exploiting your fellow-citizens....."

23. The applicant has clearly misused the power entrusted to him and he does not deserve any leniency.

24. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, the nature of offence, embezzlement of huge amount, complicity of accused as well as the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and without expressing any opinion on the merits of the case, I am not inclined to release the applicant on bail.

25. Accordingly, the bail application of the applicant is rejected.

26. However, it is directed that every endeavor shall be made by the trial court to conclude the trial expeditiously, if there is no other legal impediment, within a period of one year from the date of production of a certified copy of this order.

27. It is clarified that the observations made herein are limited to the facts brought in by the parties pertaining to the disposal of bail application and the said observations shall have no bearing on the merits of the case during trial.

The CDR also confirms the complicity of the applicant as he was in regular touch to co-accused through his mobile.

Bail Application rejected. (E-3)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Krishan Pahal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Arun Sinha and Sri Ayodhya Prasad Mishra, learned counsels for the applicant and Sri Vinod Kumar Shahi, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri Santosh Kumar Mishra, learned AGA-I for the State of U.P.

2. By means of the present bail application, the applicant seeks bail in Case Crime No.160 of 2020, under Sections 406, 419, 420, 467, 468, 471, 120-B IPC & Section 7ka/8(1)(1) of Prevention of Corruption Act, Police Station- Hazratganj, District- Lucknow, during the pendency of trial.

BRIEF FACTS OF THE CASE

3. As per prosecution story, two persons, namely, Vaibhav Shukla and his friend Santosh Sharma are said to have met the Informant, Manjeet Singh Bhatia @ Rinku at his residence at Indore, Madhya Pradesh in the month of April, 2018. They are stated to have enquired from Informant whether he has flour mill and also about annual turnover of his business. Vaibhav Shukla belonged to a very respectable family and is a closed friend of the Informant. The said two persons, Vaibhav Shukla and Santosh Sharma are said to have taken documents of Informant's company pertaining to previous financial years and also the profile of Informant's company. They again visited the office of Informant and informed him that one S.K. Mittal who is stated to be the Deputy Director of Department of Animal Husbandry, Uttar Pradesh, had met them and he is very close to the Minister and they want to get him a supply order for supply of wheat, sugar, flour and pulses to the tune of Rs.292.14 crores with the condition that a commission of 3% of the total amount of the supply order is to be provided in advance. The Informant asked them to get the time period extended as the supply order was too big for him. Santosh Sharma is stated to have assured him to get the time extended. The aforesaid two persons are said to have informed the Informant that they would also have their share in the profit and running the said business. On said promise and assurance of Vaibhav Shukla and Santosh Sharma, the Informant has paid huge amount to them which was to be provided to Secretary S.K. Mittal.

4. Thereafter, the Informant was called to Lucknow and is stated to have visited various places along with Vaibhav Shukla and Santosh Sharma and was even stated to have met the said Secretary S.K. Mittal at the Secretariat, Lucknow. The Informant is said to have informed S.K. Mittal that he shall require a godown to keep the said items for which Mittal had asked him to pay Rs.72 lakhs to M/s R.K. Traders, U.P. as a rent for the said godown which was deposited in the bank account of M/s R.K. Traders by the Informant.

5. When Informant checked the online status of the Tender, nothing was found there only then he came to know about the fraud committed to him of Rs.9,72,12,000/-. The Informant enquired from Vaibhav Shukla and Santosh Sharma about the said absence of Tender details on website whereupon they informed him that on 22.11.2018, they have to go to the office of CBCID as there have been some complaints with regard to the said Tender and an enquiry is being conducted. The Informant went to the office by CBCID, Lucknow where his entry was noted on a register and one constable took him to the S.P., CBCID who made certain queries from him regarding the Tender and even asked him to write on a paper that he had already supplied the said material for which he has got the order. On coming out of the gate of CBCID office, the said S.K. Mittal was found waiting outside and on being asked him, the Informant told him about the events at the CBCID office. At this, the said S.K. Mittal had asked him to go back to his home and also asked that he shall be informed further details through Vaibhav Shukla and Santosh Sharma.

6. On 26.12.2018, the Informant again met S.K. Mittal with Vaibhav Shukla and Santosh Sharma and then he asked the present applicant to provide him with a copy of the original work order, an undated bill book and also an affidavit of some supply and only then the said supply shall be started. All the documents as asked by S.K. Mittal, were sent by the Informant through his employee Lavendra. On 11.1.2019, S.K. Mittal is stated to have retained those documents with him and sent Lavendra and Santosh Sharma to the S.P. of CBCID. The Informant was called several times to Lucknow as he insisted for the work after having paid such a heavy amount. On 30.3.2019, the Informant was called to Lucknow and he had stayed in Oyo room behind Piccadily hotel and from where they kept on calling S.K. Mittal for the said amount who assured him that the said money shall be transferred to his account through RTGS. On 31.3.2019 at about 06:00 PM, the Informant was asked to reach in front of Phoenix Mall, Lucknow. The Informant along with Vaibhav Shukla, Santosh Sharma and his friend Rakesh Porwal reached there from where they were forcibly abducted by police men in three vehicles including one constable Dilbahar Singh and were threatened that if they raised any alarm, they shall be put to death. Thereafter, they were taken to police station Naka Hindola, Lucknow where they were threatened by police personnel and are said to have retained their ID proofs also. They were released by the police personnel after threatening them that if they were seen again, they will be killed in an encounter.

7. The Informant came to know later on that the person who had met him as S.K. Mittal is actually Ashish Rai an imposter, who runs an entertainment office at Mumbai and there are several police and media personnel connected to him including Monti Gurjar, Roopak Rai, Santosh Mishra, A.K. Rajiv (present applicant), Amit Mishra, Uma Shankar Tewari, Rajnish Dixit, Anil Rai. The two D.B. Singh and Arun Rai are stated to be the hardcore criminal. Anil Rai, Editor of reputed channel along with Dheeraj Kumar, Private Secretary, Department of Animal Husbandry and Umesh Mishra from the office of State Minister, Animal Husbandry and others were also involved in the commissioning of aforesaid offence. The Informant is said to have been defrauded to the tune of Rs.9,72,12,000/-.

RIVAL CONTENTIONS

8. Learned counsel for the applicant stated that the applicant, who is a permanent resident of Lucknow, has been falsely implicated in the present case. He has not committed any offence as alleged by the prosecution. Although the applicant is named in the FIR but no specific allegations have been levelled against him by the Informant as well as the main witnesses Santosh Sharma and Vaibhav Shukla. Learned counsel has argued that the police arrested the main accused Ashish Rai in connection with the present case and at his pointing out, the police is stated to have gone to the house of the applicant on 14.6.2020 at Nehru Enclave, Gomti Nagar, Lucknow and when the applicant had opened the door of his house, he was identified by Ashish Rai as A.K. Rajiv. The name of the applicant A.K. Rajiv @ Akhilesh Kumar was revealed there. The police is stated to have enquired about some documents connected with the present case on which the applicant is said to have procured a suitcase from a room adjoining to his house. The said suitcase was sealed and seized at the spot and the arrest/recovery memo was also prepared by the police.

9. Learned counsel for the applicant has also relied upon the statement of his Saving Bank Account, State Bank Branch, Jawahar Bhawan, Lucknow wherein an amount of Rs.1,60,000/- is said to have been transferred through three transactions on 27.7.2018, 3.8.2018 and 24.1.2019. There is no evidence of the source of the amount transferred in the said transactions. No cash has been recovered from the possession of the applicant though recovery of Rs.28 lakhs have been made from the house of co-accused Ashish Rai. There is no allegation that the first Informant directly or indirectly paid any amount to the applicant.

10. Learned counsel for the applicant has further argued that no case under the Prevention of Corruption Act is made out against him as he is a private person and has nothing to do with it. The money transferred to the account of the applicant by co-accused Ashish Rai was the payment of a loan which he had taken from him. The amount transferred to his account was not a share of the amount usurped by co-accused Ashish Rai. The applicant is a respectable person and a renowned journalist of the locality. He being a social person meet several persons daily and had no inkling of any offence having been committed by Ashish Rai. The allegations levelled against the applicant have come up in the concluding part of the FIR and not in the main body. The applicant has not forged any document or used it as a genuine one. As a matter of fact, nothing incriminating has been recovered either from the possession of the applicant or at his pointing out. False recovery has been shown from his possession by the police only to show good work. There is no evidence against him except the confessional statement of the co-accused persons which is not admissible under the Indian Evidence Act. The applicant has not given any confessional statement to the police and if any confessional statement has been recorded by it, is false. There is no criminal history of the applicant.

11. Learned counsel for the applicant has further submitted that the applicant had the possession of the documents kept in a suitcase were already in the knowledge of the police before the said recovery as it is said to have been revealed by the co-accused Ashish Rai. So the fact already discovered has been re-discovered by them. The said recovery does not fall within the ambit of Section 27 of the Evidence Act.

12. Learned counsel for the applicant has further contended that the co-accused Monti Gurjar against whom identical allegations have been levelled, has already been enlarged on bail by the trial court vide order dated 18.12.2020. The co-accused Sachin Verma has also been released on short-term bail by this Court vide order dated 22.4.2022 passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.1456 of 2021. The applicant is ready to deposit the amount of Rs.10,00,000/- immediately after his release within a stipulated period fixed by the Court. The charge-sheet has been filed against the applicant. There is nothing on record to suggest that there is any conversation of the applicant either to the Informant or the co-accused persons. The allegation against the applicant is that he had introduced the Constable Dilbahar Yadav to the first Informant, although if it is so, introducing a person to somebody else does not constitute any offence. There is no likelihood of applicant tampering with evidence and he is ready to cooperate with trial.

13. Per contra, Sri Vinod Kumar Shahi, learned AAG assisted by Sri Santosh Kumar Mishra, learned AGA-I have vehemently opposed the bail prayer of the applicant on the ground that none of the accused persons have been granted bail in the present subject matter. The first Informant has been victimized and traumatized by the applicant and other co-accused persons and has even been illegally threatened and beaten up in police custody by the officials of police at CBCID office and P.S. Naka Hindola, Lucknow. The Informant could not bear the trauma and as such took the refuge of the then Speaker of Lok Sabha and on whose directions, the instant FIR has been lodged.

14. Sri Shahi, has further argued that the alleged offence was executed in a well planned and orchestrated manner in connivance with the Personal Assistant and Peon of the Minister along with other named co-accused persons. The said sealed suitcase recovered from his possession was opened in the presence of Magistrate concerned in which a large amount of documents was found which pertain to the said offence which substantiates the allegations of complicity of applicant. The documents relating to the Department of Animal Husbandry were also recovered and the same have been annexed as Annexure-5 to the counter affidavit. He has further placed reliance upon the details of the CDR of the mobile numbers of the applicant indicating that he was in constant touch with the co-accused person Ashish Rai and Dilbahar Yadav from his mobile number 9415907020. The CDR is also a part of the Annexure-5 to the counter affidavit.

CONCLUSION

15. It would be inappropriate to discuss the evidence in depth at this stage because it is likely to influence the trial court but from the perusal of the evidence collected during investigation so far, it prima-facie appears that the applicant was also involved in the commissioning of said offence and no reason was found to falsely implicate him in the present case. This is a high profile fraud committed by the high profile criminals having long reach with higher echelons of the society. This is a white collar crime and such offences are on the rise in the prevalent social conditions. There is a recovery of a suitcase at the pointing out of the applicant. The CDR also confirms the complicity of the applicant as he was in regular touch to co-accused Ashish Rai and Dilbahar Yadav through his mobile.

16. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, the nature of offence, complicity of accused, fraud of huge amount, involvement of high echelons as well as the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and without expressing any opinion on the merits of the case, I am not inclined to release the applicant on bail.

17. Accordingly, the bail application of the applicant is rejected.

18. It is clarified that the observations made herein are limited to the facts brought in by the parties pertaining to the disposal of bail application and the said observations shall have no bearing on the merits of the case during trial.

19. However, it is directed that every endeavor shall be made by the trial court to conclude the trial expeditiously, if there is no other legal impediment.

2. By means of the present application, the applicant seeks bail in Criminal Misc. Case No.2079 of 2021 (CBI Vs. Roop Singh Yadav & Others), under Sections 120-B r/w 420, 467, 468, 471 of IPC and Section 13(2) r/w 13(1)(d) of Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 with substantive offences thereof arisen out of Crime No. RC0062017A0026, registered with CBI, Anti Corruption Branch, Lucknow and pending before the learned Special Judge, Anti Corruption CBI, West, Lucknow.

PROSECUTION STORY

3. In the instant case, the FIR was registered by the CBI on the basis of order dated 17.7.2017 of the Government of U.P. pertaining to the financial irregularities committed with criminal intent in the work of "Gomti River Channelization Project" and "Gomti River Front Development" by the Irrigation Department. The State Government asked for further investigation by the CBI in Case Crime No.831 of 2017, u/s 409, 420, 467, 468, 471, 34 IPC and Sections 7 & 13 of Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 (PC Act) against the accused persons. It has also been alleged that on the written complaint of one Ambuj Dwivedi, an FIR was registered by the local police and later on a Judicial Commission headed by Hon'ble Mr. (Retd.) Justice Alok Kumar Singh was ordered to conduct an enquiry under the Commission of Inquiry Act. A comprehensive enquiry report has been submitted to the State Government on 16.5.2017 leading to the present FIR.

4. After investigation, charge-sheet was filed by the CBI on 16.02.2021, u/s 120-B read with 420, 467, 468, 471 IPC and Section 13(2) read with 13(1)(d) of PC

Act against the applicant and other co-accused persons and further investigation is still pending pertaining to other development works in the aforesaid project.

RIVAL CONTENTIONS

5. Sri Nandit Srivastava, learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the applicant has submitted that the applicant is the junior most employee in the chain and had simply followed the orders of higher authorities. He was only the Junior Assistant/Clerk in the Irrigation Department. He was arrested on 19.11.2020 and the charge-sheet has been filed on 16.2.2021. Till date cognizance has not been taken in the matter. Learned Senior Counsel has further submitted that charge-sheet was filed without obtaining sanction for prosecution of the applicant as he is a government servant. Compliance of mandatory provisions of Section 17A of the PC Act has not been carried out by the CBI before initiating the criminal prosecution against the applicant in the present case. Sanction for prosecution has been filed in the Court on 15.7.2021 which is after a delay of about five months from the filing of the charge-sheet. There is no allegation of tampering with the evidence against the applicant. The alleged charge-sheet has been filed only to deprive the applicant statutory rights of default bail provided u/s 167 Cr.P.C.. There is no prima-facie offence made out against him of being a party in the criminal conspiracy with the main accused, Roop Singh Yadav. The applicant is not named in the FIR.

6. Learned Senior Counsel has relied upon the judgement of Apex Court in the case of Yashwant Sinha & Others v. Central Bureau of Investigation1, wherein it has been held that no Police Officer is permitted to conduct any enquiry or investigation into any offence committed by a public servant where the offence alleged is relatable to any recommendation made or decision taken by the public servant in discharge of his public functions without previous approval, inter alia, of the authority competent to remove the public servant from his Office at the time when the offence was alleged to have been committed.

7. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicant has also submitted that the applicant was not in a position to do any favour or any dis-favour to any of the Contractor as he was only the Junior Assistant having no authority to do anything worthwhile. He has also placed much reliance on the judgement of Apex Court passed in Sanjay Chandra Vs. CBI2, wherein it has been opined that the object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. The courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction, and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and duly found guilty.

8. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicant has also submitted that the eligibility and non-eligibility of the firms/companies in the tender process was to be decided at a later stage by the concerned authorities and the applicant had no role in it. He has then placed much reliance upon the judgement of Apex Court in Dataram Singh Vs. State of U.P. and another3. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that there is no likelihood of the applicant for tampering with the evidence or influencing any witnesses who are all public servant.

9. Per contra, Sri Anurag Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the CBI has vehemently opposed the bail prayer of the applicant by contending that the work of "Intercepting Trunk Drain" was awarded to M/s K K Spun Pipe Pvt. Ltd., New Delhi despite not meeting out the technical qualification criteria of annual turnover and also did not submit the mandatory certificates on financial fitness to be issued by the District Collector. The bank guarantee used by the L-2 firm M/s Brand Eagles Longian JV was made from the account of L-1 firm M/s K K Spun Pipe Pvt. Ltd.. The third party M/s Patel Engineering has categorically denied to have taken part in the tender process. The L-2 firm has entered into agreement with M/s K K Spun Pipe Pvt. Ltd. for participating in tender procedure as such bank guarantee was prepared from the account of M/s K K Spun Pipe Pvt. Ltd. but later on when the manufacturers unauthorizedly allowed taking part in the tender procedure had submitted its separate bid without informing M/s Brand Eagles Longian JV. As such there was a cartel between M/s K K Spun Pipe Pvt. Ltd. and M/s Brand Eagle Longian JV in pursuance of which the bank guarantee of Rs.4.6 crores of the L-2 firm M/s Brand Eagle Longian JV was made from the bank account of L-1 firm M/s K K Spun Pipe Pvt. Ltd. The using of bank guarantee of one firm by another proves that the entire Tender process was a sham.

10. Sri Singh has further stated that after investigation, charge-sheet has been filed against the main accused Roop Singh Yadav, Executive Engineer, Raj Kumar Yadav, Junior Assistant (present applicant), Himanshu Gupta, Director of M/s K K Spun Pipe Pvt. Ltd., Kavish Gupta, Director of M/s K K Spun Pipe Pvt. Ltd. and Badri Shrestha, Senior Advisor of M/s Brand Eagles Longjian JV. Further investigation is also going on in respect to other allegations in the instant matter coupled with 11 remaining works.

11. Sri Singh has also submitted that the applicant had involved in the said corruption and he had exclusive knowledge of the offence. His name has come up during the course of investigation as he was involved in criminal conspiracy with other co-accused persons. The applicant himself has written under his signature that tender documents have been sold by him to M/s Patel Engineering Limited. However, M/s Patel Engineering Limited denied to have purchased the said tender documents. M/s Patel Engineering Limited had not deposited any earnest money which further confirmed the fact that the company had not submitted the tender documents and its forged documents were used by the applicant in the criminal conspiracy with co-accused Roop Singh Yadav with an intention to pool the tender in favour of the co-accused private persons. The applicant has wrongly shown the sale of tender documents to M/s Patel Engineering Limited and had arranged the photocopy of the documents of M/s Patel Engineering Limited which was submitted for the work of Diaphragm Wall. He has further stated that in the present case, tender of Rs.258.69 crore has been given to ineligible company/person which was later on extended to Rs.333 crores.

12. Sri Singh has also placed much reliance on the judgement of Apex Court in Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy Vs. CBI4, wherein it has been held that economic offences constitute a class apart and need to be visited with a different approach in the matter of bail. The economic offence having deep rooted conspiracies and involving huge loss of public funds needs to be viewed seriously and considered as grave offences affecting the economy of the country as a whole and thereby posing serious threat to the financial health of the country.

13. So far as the non-compliance of Section 17A of the PC Act is concerned, Sri Singh has stated that though the applicant was not named in the FIR but his role has surfaced on 10.1.2018 before the amendment made in the PC Act, 1988 in the year 2018 which is effective from 26.7.2018. Investigation against the applicant started well before the said amendment in the PC Act. The said amendment do not have retrospective effect as such there is no need of permission u/s 17A of PC Act (as amended in 2018) against the applicant. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgement of Delhi High Court in the case of Central Bureau of Investigation Vs. A. Raja & Others5 wherein it has been observed as under:-

"61. In view of the Hon'ble Apex Court decision in State of Telangana (supra) and decision of Coordinate Bench of this Court in Madhu Koda (Supra), this Court is of the opinion that amending Act does not apply to the offences which have already taken place under the PC Act, 1988 and moreover, Prevention of Corruption (Amendment) Act, 2018 does not reveal any intention of destroying the earlier provisions and there is no intention to obliterate the earlier law, therefore, this Court is of the opinion that there is no impediment in hearing the criminal leave to appeal, since the offences in question are alleged to have been committed prior to the coming into force of Prevention of Corruption (Amendment) Act, 2018."

14. Sri Singh has also relied upon the jugement of Apex Court in the case of State of Bihar Vs. Amit Kumar6, wherein it has been held that while considering the bail involving socio-economic offences stringent parameters should be applied.

CONCLUSION

15. The matter pertains to a large scam of Rs.1500/- crores. During the relevant period, the applicant was the Junior Assistant/Clerk of the department and prima-facie, it is found that he was also the part and parcel of the chain of corruption having been committed causing a heavy loss to the State Exchequer.

16. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, the nature of offence, embezzlement of huge amount, complicity of accused as well as the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and without expressing any opinion on the merits of the case, I am not inclined to release the applicant on bail.

17. Accordingly, the bail application of the applicant is rejected.

18. However, it is directed that every endeavor shall be made by the trial court to conclude the trial expeditiously, if there is no other legal impediment, within a period of one year from the date of production of a certified copy of this order.

19. It is clarified that the observations made herein are limited to the facts brought in by the parties pertaining to the disposal of bail application and the said observations shall have no bearing on the merits of the case during trial.

Criminal Law- Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- Bail- Relevant considerations- It would be inappropriate to discuss the evidence in depth at this stage because it is likely to influence the trial court but from the perusal of the evidence collected during investigation and the charge-sheet, it appears that the complicity of the applicant is well established by the statements of the Informant - In the changing social circumstances, it has now become obvious that nobody dares to depose against the dreaded and hardened criminals out of fear. The Informant, who himself is a victim could garner some courage as some point of time to depose against such high profile criminals. The crime seems to have been committed after a well orchestrated plan to deprive the Informant/victim of his valuable assets and the culpability of applicant cannot be ruled out from the evidence adduced- It is quite clear that an order of bail cannot be granted in an arbitrary or fanciful manner. A ratio decidendi of the judgement of the Apex Court in Anil Kumar Yadav Vs. State (N.C.T.) of Delhi and another2, has stated that in serious crimes, the mere fact that the accused is in custody for more than one year, may not be a relevant consideration to release the accused on bail.

Where there is prima facie evidence against the accused showing his involvement in the commission of the offence and he is a member of a dreaded and organised criminal gang, then merely because the oral evidence came belatedly or that the accused is under incarceration for more than one year, would in itself not be a ground to enlarge him on bail. Judgements/ Case law relied upon:-

Anil Kumar Yadav Vs State (N.C.T.) of Delhi & anr., (2018) 12 SCC 129

(Delivered by Hon'ble Krishan Pahal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Jyotindra Mishra, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Kapil Mishra, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Anurag Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the CBI and also perused the material available on record.

2. By means of the present bail application, the applicant seeks bail in Case Crime No.810 of 2018, under Sections 147, 149, 386, 329, 420, 467, 468, 471, 394, 506, 120-B, 364-A IPC, Police Station- Krishna Nagar, District- Lucknow, during the pendency of trial.

BRIEF FACTS OF THE CASE

3. Facts in brief giving rise to the present application are that the Informant/victim is a resident of Alambagh, Lucknow and engaged in the real estate business having his office at Gomti Nagar, Lucknow. At the time of the offence, the accused Atique Ahmad, Ex-Member of Parliament, Phulpur, Allahabad was detained in Deoria Jail and he had tried to pressurize the Informant for extortion of money for about two years and out of fear, the Informant had also given him some amount as such. The two henchmen of Atique Ahmad, namely, Mohd. Farooq and Jaki Ahmad had been trying to extort money from the Informant for about several months. The said two accused persons had also taken possession of the office of the Informant forcibly and got their names inducted in the board of the company and procured digital signatures of the Informant and his sister Aarti Jaiswal. Even after that the Informant did not transfer any shares of the company to them. On 26.12.2018, another goon of Atique Ahmad took the Informant to Deoria Jail where Atique Ahmad along with his son Umar and 10-12 other persons were found present. The two accomplices of Atique Ahmad, namely, Jafarullah and Gulam Sarvar (the present applicant) had beaten the Informant mercilessly thereby breaking his fingers and causing him several external and internal injuries. The accused Atique Ahmad in the jail premises itself got the companies M.J. Infra Housing Private Limited, M.J. Infra Green Private Limited, M.J. Infra Land L.L.P. Private Limited and M.J. Infra State Private Limited transferred forcibly in the name of his associates Mohd. Farooq and Jaki Ahmad. The accused Atique Ahmad has even retained the Fortuner Car of the Informant bearing No. UP-32 JR 1804 with him. It has also been alleged in the FIR that the accused Atique Ahmad had obtained signatures of the Informant on blank letter heads including his resignation letters and also pressurized the Informant to make forged signatures of his sister on the blank papers. The accused Atique Ahmad and his associates forcibly obtained the digital signatures of the Informant and his sister and thereby got the names of their associates inducted in all the aforesaid companies.

4. The instant FIR has been lodged at Police Station- Krishna Nagar, Lucknow. The Supreme Court of India vide its order dated 23.4.2019 passed in Writ Petition (Civil) No.699 of 2016 in the matter of Ashwani Kumar Upadhyay and Others Vs. Union of India and Others transferred the investigation of the case to Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) and was also directed to submit quarterly status report of the investigation to the Court. The main accused Atique Ahmad was then shifted to Ahmedabad Jail, Gujarat.

RIVAL CONTENTIONS

5. Sri Jyotindra Mishra, learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the applicant has stated that the applicant is being maliciously prosecuted in the present case. The jurisdiction of the case falls within the Police Station- Gomti Nagar, Lucknow and not Krishna Nagar where the instant FIR has been initially lodged. Learned Senior Counsel has further argued that the statement of the Informant has been recorded four times by the I.O. and in each of the subsequent statement, he has improvised from the previous one. Initially, the two statements were recorded by the local police and the subsequent two have been recorded by the CBI. Absolutely vague allegation has been made in the statement of the Informant that the applicant was present in Deoria Jail with Jafarullah and had even beaten him up thereby causing grievous hurt to him.

6. As per the prosecution allegation, one goon of accused Atique Ahmad had taken Informant forcibly to Deoria Jail by a Fortuner Car No. UP-32 JR 1804, though it is impossible that a single unarmed person would forcibly pickup the Informant at Lucknow and take him to Deoria Jail and during such a long distance from Lucknow to Deoria Jail, the Informant did not raise any alarm while he had ample opportunity to do so and resist. The allegation against the applicant is that his black car was following the said Fortuner car no. UP-32 JR 1804 of the Informant from Lucknow to Deoria Jail. He has dropped the Informant back 100 metres before his house by his car as the alleged Fortuner of the Informant was forcibly retained by co-accused Atique Ahmad. On the way to Deoria Jail, there are six toll booths and surprisingly, there is no CCTV footage to indicate that the applicant had followed the said Fortuner car of the Informant. There is nothing on record to suggest that the applicant was in Deoria jail in connivance with the jail authorities.

7. Learned Senior Counsel has also pointed out several contradictions in the two supplementary statements of the Informant/victim recorded by the I.O. regarding the complicity of the applicant. The prosecution version is doubtful, suspicious and cannot be relied upon.

8. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicant has next contended that the charge-sheet has already been filed in the matter and the trial is not going forward and not even the charge has been framed against the applicant. The CBI is also not interested in getting the trial concluded expeditiously as on the last three occasions, the public prosecutor of the CBI was not present in the Court and the case was adjourned only on this ground.

9. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicant has also relied upon the judgement of Supreme Court passed in the case of Union of India versus K.A. Najeeb1, and the relevant para-16 reads as under:-

"16. This Court has clarified in numerous judgments that the liberty guaranteed by Part III of the Constitution would cover within its protective ambit not only due procedure and fairness but also access to justice and a speedy trial. In Supreme Court Legal Aid Committee Representing Undertrial Prisoners v. Union of India, it was held that undertrials cannot indefinitely be detained pending trial. Ideally, no person ought to suffer adverse consequences of his acts unless the same is established before a neutral arbiter. However, owing to the practicalities of real life where to secure an effective trial and to ameliorate the risk to society in case a potential criminal is left at large pending trial, Courts are tasked with deciding whether an individual ought to be released pending trial or not. Once it is obvious that a timely trial would not be possible and the accused has suffered incarceration for a significant period of time, Courts would ordinarily be obligated to enlarge them on bail."

10. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicant has also submitted that the four co-accused persons, namely, Irfan, Nitesh Mishra, Mahendra Kumar Singh and Pawan Kumar Singh, have already been enlarged on bail by the court concerned passed in Bail Application Nos. 7363 of 2019, 12768 of 2021, 14713 of 2021 and 1786 of 2021, vide orders dated 30.11.2021, 10.12.2021 and 15.12.2021, respectively. The applicant is languishing in jail since 18.2.2019 having no criminal history to his credit, deserves to be released on bail. In case, the applicant is released on bail, he will not misuse the liberty of bail and shall cooperate with the trial.

11. Per contra, Sri Anurag Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the CBI has vehemently opposed the bail prayer of the applicant on the ground that it was the applicant who had beaten the Informant in jail premises along with one Jafarullah. After retaining the alleged Fortuner car by Atique Ahmad, the Informant was sent back to his house in the car of applicant being kidnapped by the co-accused Gulam Moinuddeen Siddiqui. The applicant is named in the FIR and his name has also come up in every statement of the victim. There is no contradiction or discrepancy in the statement of the Informant with regard to the applicant.

12. Learned counsel for the CBI has further argued that the applicant and the co-accused persons are dreaded criminals of the area and out of their fear, the Informant could not dare to depose against them. Several witnesses have been put under Witness Protection Programme. He has further argued that looking at the seriousness and gravity of the subject matter, the investigation was entrusted to CBI by the order of Supreme Court and also the main accused Atique Ahmad has been shifted to Ahmedabad Jail, Gujarat. The local police had also filed charge-sheet against the applicant. The applicant along with other co-accused persons had also forced the Informant to put his sister's forged signature on blank papers/letterheads.

13. Learned counsel for the CBI has further submitted that the case of the applicant is not at par with the other co-accused persons who have been enlarged on bail. The trial could not proceed further owing to Covid-19. The offence is not against a particular person, but against the society as a whole. Investigation is pending against the jail officials involved in the said offence.

14. Learned counsel has fairly conceded the fact that there is no criminal history of the applicant but has stated that he is the main associate of co-accused Atique Ahmad who had been five times M.L.A., once an M.P. and a notorious criminal, against whom 106 cases are pending trial including the heinous offences and out of his fear, the FIR has been lodged after a delay. There is every likelihood that he shall misuse the liberty of bail as he is an influential person and the main associate of Atique Ahmad, therefore, he does not deserve any indulgence. In case, the applicant is released on bail, he will misuse the liberty of bail by extending threat and intimidation to the prosecution witnesses.

CONCLUSION

15. It would be inappropriate to discuss the evidence in depth at this stage because it is likely to influence the trial court but from the perusal of the evidence collected during investigation and the charge-sheet, it appears that the complicity of the applicant is well established by the statements of the Informant. The applicant had followed the alleged Fortuner car of the Informant to Deoria Jail and beaten him up in jail premises coercing him to sign the papers and had dropped him back near his house.

16. In the changing social circumstances, it has now become obvious that nobody dares to depose against the dreaded and hardened criminals out of fear. The Informant, who himself is a victim could garner some courage as some point of time to depose against such high profile criminals. The crime seems to have been committed after a well orchestrated plan to deprive the Informant/victim of his valuable assets and the culpability of applicant cannot be ruled out from the evidence adduced.

17. It is quite clear that an order of bail cannot be granted in an arbitrary or fanciful manner. A ratio decidendi of the judgement of the Apex Court in Anil Kumar Yadav Vs. State (N.C.T.) of Delhi and another2, has stated that in serious crimes, the mere fact that the accused is in custody for more than one year, may not be a relevant consideration to release the accused on bail.

18. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, the nature of offence, severity of offence, threat perception of the witnesses, complicity of accused, involvement of higher echelons of society as well as the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and without expressing any opinion on the merits of the case, I am not inclined to release the applicant on bail.

19. Accordingly, the bail application of the applicant is rejected.

20. It is clarified that the observations made herein are limited to the facts brought in by the parties pertaining to the disposal of bail application and the said observations shall have no bearing on the merits of the case during trial.

21. However, it is directed that every endeavor shall be made by the trial court to conclude the trial expeditiously, if there is no other legal impediment.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- Bail - Narcotic Drug and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985- Sections 8(C)/18/29- Section 52(1) - Standing Order 1/89 dated 13.06.1989 - out of seven samples received, there is a difference of weight in three samples- two samples were found less than the minimum quantity of 24 grams- The recovered contraband is heavy in quantity - There is compliance of the mandatory provision of N.D.P.S. Act - The presence of applicants far away from their usual place of residence further casts shadow on his defence - The sample has been taken before the concerned Magistrate, which negates the theory of any kind of adulteration - There is nothing on record to suggest that there is any animosity of the accused to the officials of the N.C.B - The Standing Order No. 1/88 has been complied with. The call details further corroborate the prosecution story- Minor discrepancy in the weight of the sample sent at the Forensic Laboratory cannot shake the roots of the prosecution case.

Where the recovered contraband is heavy in quantity, the mandatory provisions of the NDPS Act have been complied with and no reason for false implication of the accused is apparent from the record , then merely minor differences in weight of the samples will not be sufficient to render the case of the prosecution doubtful. (Delivered by Hon'ble Krishan Pahal, J.)

1. Since the above two bail applications of the accused-applicants pertain to common recovery, therefore, I am deciding these bail applications by a common judgment.

2. Heard Sri Anuj Dayal, learned counsel for applicants and Sri Akhilesh Kumar Awasthi, learned counsel for the N.C.B. and perused the record.

3. Applicants seek bail in Case Crime No.03 of 2020, under Sections 8(C)/18/29 of Narcotic of Drug and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985, Police Station N.C.B., District Lucknow, during the pendency of trial.

Facts in Brief:-

4. As per prosecution story, on the secret information received by N.C.B. from a squealer on 20.02.2020, a team was constituted for arresting the accused-persons, namely, Chhotey Lal and Kavinder Kumar, from general bogey of Train No.12237 Begumpura Express. The N.C.B. team intercepted the said accused-persons from the said general bogey on 20.02.2020 at 16.15 pm. Thereafter, apprehended accused-persons were taken at platform no.7 and 4 Kg and 3 Kg Opium was recovered respectively from Chhotey Lal and Kavinder Kumar being contained in their bags. The sample of 25 grams was taken from each packet and sealed. The sample of the said contraband was sent for forensic analysis on 23.02.2020 and was received in the Central Revenue Control Laboratory on 24.02.2020 and the report was prepared on 26.02.2020.

Rival Contentions:-

5. Learned counsel for the applicants has stated that out of seven samples received, there is a difference of weight in three samples, out of which, sample P2S1 and P6S1 are found to be of 22.2 grams and 21.6 grams respectively. Thus, they are found deficient of the requisite weight by 2.8 grams and 3.4 grams respectively.

6. On this count, learned counsel for the applicants has placed much reliance on the judgment of Supreme Court passed in case of Rajesh Jagdamba Avasthi vs. State of Goa1. Relevant part of the judgment is quoted hereinasunder:-

"14. We do not find it possible to uphold this finding of the High Court. The appellant was charged of having been found in possession of charas weighing 180.70 gm. The charas recovered from him was packed and sealed in two envelopes. When the said envelopes were opened in the laboratory by the Junior Scientific Officer, PW 1, he found the quantity to be different. While in one envelope the difference was only minimal, in the other the difference in weight was significant. The High Court itself found that it could not be described as a mere minor discrepancy. Learned counsel rightly submitted before us that the High Court was not justified in upholding the conviction of the appellant on the basis of what was recovered only from envelope A ignoring the quantity of charas found in envelope B. This is because there was only one search and seizure, and whatever was recovered from the appellant was packed in two envelopes. The credibility of the recovery proceeding is considerably eroded if it is found that the quantity actually found by PW 1 was less than the quantity sealed and sent to him. As he rightly emphasised, the question was not how much was seized, but whether there was an actual seizure, and whether what was seized was really sent for chemical analysis to PW 1. The prosecution has not been able to explain this discrepancy and, therefore, it renders the case of the prosecution doubtful."

7. Learned counsel for the applicants has further stated that as the quantity of each sample for chemical analysis should not be less than 24 grams in the case of Opium. The requisite directions provided in Standing Order 1/89 dated 13.06.1989 have not been followed and the applicants are entitled for bail on this ground only. As in the present case, two samples were found less than the minimum quantity of 24 grams.

8. Learned counsel for the applicants has placed reliance on the judgment of this Court passed in Criminal Appeal No.1821 of 1998 (Jai Pal and Another vs. State of U.P.) decided on 23.01.2018. Relevant part of the judgment is quoted hereinasunder:-

"13. Firstly, it has to be seen whether it was necessary for prosecution to take weight of the recovered contraband substance and its sample or not. In this regard, learned counsel for the appellant has relied upon the Standing Order No. 1/89 para 2.3 of which provides as follows:

"2.3 The quantity to be drawn in each sample for chemical test shall not be less than 5 grams in respect of all narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances save in the case of opium, ganja and charas (hashish) where quantity of 24 grams in each case is required for chemical test. The same quantities shall be taken for the duplicate sample also. The seized drugs in the packages/containers shall be well mixed to make it homogeneous and representative before the sample (in duplicate) is drawn."

15. This Court is of the opinion that the view of the learned A.G.A. is not tenable because under the Standing Instructions 1/88 issued by the Narcotics Drugs Bureau on 15.3.1988 , though after the recovery made in the present case, provided for the mode to be adopted to take sample of the contraband, which prescribed the certain quantity to be taken out of the contraband. The Standing Order 1 of 89 dated 13.6.1989 issued by Government of India (supra) also prescribes that in case of opium not less than 24 Grams would be taken as sample from the recovered contraband. These Standing Orders and Instructions do indicate that from out of the recovered substance, the sample which was required to be taken must be weighed and the same is required to be collected on the spot as early as possible unless there were such circumstances when it was not possible to collect the sample on the spot. It may also be taken into consideration that under the Old Act, Section 27 of the Act provided lesser punishment for illegal possession of small quantity of any Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substance for personal consumption which would require weighing of the contraband substance. Under the provisions of the old Act the small quantity of opium was prescribed to be 5 grams. as per notification No. S.O. 827 (E) dated 4.11.1985 published in the Gazetted of India (Extra), Part 2 Section 3 (ii) dated 14.11.1985, pp. 2-3 issued by Ministry of Finance, Department of Revenue. Hence it will be supposed that the prosecution was duty bound to weigh the contraband substance allegedly recovered from the accused to know whether the recovered substance was small quantity or above that for determining whether he would be entitled for the benefit of small quantity for personal consumption. The record reveals that in recovery memo 75 grams. opium is alleged to have been found from the accused but no mention is made as to how the same was assessed to be 75 grams. as no weighing machine is recorded to have been called for, for its weighing nor the quantity of its sample is recorded therein. In this regard, P.W.1 has stated the same facts which have been mentioned in the recovery memo. In cross-examination this witness admitted that the weight of opium was recorded to be 75 gram on the basis of conjecture. Similarly P.W.2 has also repeated the same statement as is mentioned in the recovery memo, in examination-in-chief but even he has not disclosed as to how the same was weighed to be 75 grams. Both these witnesses have also not stated about weighing of the sample of the contraband also. It would also be pertinent to mention here that in the F.S.L. report also the quantity received of opium for being tested has not been recorded, hence, it cannot be held that the required minimum quantity of 24 gram was sent to them for being analysed which would also make the correctness of the said report to be doubtful."

9. Learned counsel for the applicants has also placed much reliance on the judgment of this Court passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.9660 of 2021 (Om Prakash Verma vs. State of U.P.) decided on 11.03.2022, wherein it has been opined that the Standing Order and the other guidelines issued by the Authority having legal sanction are required to be complied by the Arresting Authorities. He has further submitted that the recovered contraband is slightly above on the side of commercial quantity as the commercial quantity of Opium is 2.5 Kg. He has also submitted that there are no criminal history of the applicants.

10. Learned counsel for N.C.B., Sri Akhilesh Kumar Awasthi has vehemently opposed the bail application on the ground that the applicants are the perpetrator of the crime and a total of 7 Kg illegal Opium has been recovered from the conscious and constructive possession of the applicants, which is much more than commercial quantity. He has further stated that the mandatory provisions of Sections 50 and 57 have been religiously followed and after completing the investigation, a complaint was filed by the N.C.B. before the competent authority. He has further stated that the applicants are the residents of Jharkhand and were arrested from Charbagh Railway Station, Lucknow. He has further submitted that there are two independent witnesses of the recovery, namely, Rakesh Joshi and Sachin Kumar and the recovery has been undertaken in the present of Gazetted Officer Sujit Kumar Singh. Thus, the mandatory provision of Section 50 N.D.P.S. Act has been complied with. He has further stated that at the spot, test were conducted by D.D.T. Kit and it was found positive for Opium. He has further stated that C.D.R. analysis clearly shows the connection of the accused-applicants. He has further stated that the samples were taken and sent for chemical analysis on 23.02.2020 and was received at the F.S.L. on 24.02.2020 and the test was conducted on 16.03.2020 and the report was prepared on 26.05.2020, which is on record. There is complete compliance of the Standing Order 1/89 of the N.C.B. The minor difference in weight of two samples out of seven does not falsify the prosecution story.

11. Learned counsel has further stated that the case law referred to by learned counsel for applicant are not applicable to the present subject matter at this point of time, adjudication is for the purpose of bail only and we are not dealing with the order of conviction or acquittal. The recovered contraband is commercial in quantity. The accused persons are the residents of Jharkhand and there is nothing on record to suggest that they have been falsely implicated by the N.C.B. and there is nothing on record to suggest as to what animosity the N.C.B. had with the applicants and the another accused person. The applicants are the resident of Jharkhand. There is no reason for their false implication, that too regarding a recovery of this magnitude.

12. Learned counsel for N.C.B. has placed reliance on the following judgments :-

1. Than Kunwar vs. State of Haryana2

2. Ramesh Rana vs. State of U.P. 3

3. Union of India Through N.C.B. vs. Md. Nawaz Khan4

13. It is also provided in Section 52(1) of NDPS Act, wherein it is provided that the sample from the contraband should be taken before a Magistrate. The sample in the present case has been taken before the concerned Magistrate and the same law has been settled by the Apex Court. The taking of the sample before a Magistrate rules out any kind of adulteration or interpolation in the collection of the sample.

14. The relevant portions of the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in Union of India vs. Mohanlal and another13 are as follows :-

"12. Section 52A as amended by Act 16 of 2014, deals with disposal of seized drugs and psychotropic substances. It reads:

Section 52A: Disposal of seized narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances.

(1) The Central Government may, having regard to the hazardous nature of any narcotic drugs or psychotropic substances, their vulnerability to theft, substitution, constraints of proper storage space or any other relevant considerations, by notification published in the Official Gazette, specify such narcotic drugs or psychotropic substances or class of narcotic drugs or class of psychotropic substances which shall, as soon as may be after their seizure, be disposed of by such officer and in such manner as that Government may from time to time, determine after following the procedure hereinafter specified.

(2) Where any narcotic drug or psychotropic substance has been seized and forwarded to the officer-in-charge of the nearest police station or to the officer empowered Under Section 53, the officer referred to in Sub-section (1) shall prepare an inventory of such narcotic drugs or psychotropic substances containing such details relating to their description, quality, quantity, mode of packing, marks, numbers or such other identifying particulars of the narcotic drugs or psychotropic substances or the packing in which they are packed, country of origin and other particulars as the officer referred to in Sub-section (1) may consider relevant to the identity of the narcotic drugs or psychotropic substances in any proceedings under this Act and make an application, to any Magistrate for the purpose of-

(a) certifying the correctness of the inventory so prepared; or

(b) taking, in the presence of such Magistrate, photographs of such drugs or substances and certifying such photographs as true; or

(c) allowing to draw representative samples of such drugs or substances, in the presence of such Magistrate and certifying the correctness of any list of samples so drawn.

(3) When an application is made Under Sub-section (2), the Magistrate shall, as soon as may be, allow the application.

(4) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872) or the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), every court trying an offence under this Act, shall treat the inventory, the photographs of [narcotic drugs, psychotropic substances, controlled substances or conveyances] and any list of samples drawn Under Sub-section (2) and certified by the Magistrate, as primary evidence in respect of such offence.]

13. It is manifest from Section 52A(2)(c) (supra) that upon seizure of the contraband the same has to be forwarded either to the officer in-charge of the nearest police station or to the officer empowered Under Section 53 who shall prepare an inventory as stipulated in the said provision and make an application to the Magistrate for purposes of (a) certifying the correctness of the inventory (b) certifying photographs of such drugs or substances taken before the Magistrate as true and (c) to draw representative samples in the presence of the Magistrate and certifying the correctness of the list of samples so drawn. Sub-section (3) of Section 52-A requires that the Magistrate shall as soon as may be allow the application. This implies that no sooner the seizure is effected and the contraband forwarded to the officer in charge of the Police Station or the officer empowered, the officer concerned is in law duty bound to approach the Magistrate for the purposes mentioned above including grant of permission to draw representative samples in his presence, which samples will then be enlisted and the correctness of the list of samples so drawn certified by the Magistrate. In other words, the process of drawing of samples has to be in the presence and under the supervision of the Magistrate and the entire exercise has to be certified by him to be correct. The question of drawing of samples at the time of seizure which, more often than not, takes place in the absence of the Magistrate does not in the above scheme of things arise. This is so especially when according to Section 52-A(4) of the Act, samples drawn and certified by the Magistrate in compliance with Sub-section (2) and (3) of Section 52-A above constitute primary evidence for the purpose of the trial. Suffice it to say that there is no provision in the Act that mandates taking of samples at the time of seizure. That is perhaps why none of the States claim to be taking samples at the time of seizure. Be that as it may, a conflict between the statutory provision governing taking of samples and the standing order issued by the Central Government is evident when the two are placed in juxtaposition. There is no gainsaid that such a conflict shall have to be resolved in favour of the statute on first principles of interpretation but the continuance of the statutory notification in its present form is bound to create confusion in the minds of the authorities concerned instead of helping them in the discharge of their duties. The Central Government would, therefore, do well, to re-examine the matter and take suitable steps in the above direction."

Conclusion:-

15. The recovered contraband is heavy in quantity. There is compliance of the mandatory provision of N.D.P.S. Act. The presence of applicants far away from their usual place of residence further casts shadow on his defence. The sample has been taken before the concerned Magistrate, which negates the theory of any kind of adulteration. There is nothing on record to suggest that there is any animosity of the accused to the officials of the N.C.B. The Standing Order No. 1/88 has been complied with. The call details further corroborate the prosecution story.

16. Minor discrepancy in the weight of the sample sent at the Forensic Laboratory cannot shake the roots of the prosecution case.

17. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties, nature of offence, evidence on record, pending investigation and considering the complicity of accused, severity of punishment, at this stage, without commenting any opinion on the merits of the case, this Court is not inclined to release the applicants on bail.

18. Both the bail applications are, accordingly, rejected.

19. However, it is directed that the court below may proceed with the trial and reach at the logical conclusion expeditiously, if there is no legal impediment, within a period of one year from the date of production of a certified copy of this order.

20. It is clarified that the observations made herein are limited to the facts brought in by the parties pertaining to the disposal of bail application and the said observations shall have no bearing on the merits of the case during trial.

Criminal Law- Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- Bail- Long period of incarceration- In the present case, more than nine years and one month's period have passed since the present applicants are in jail and despite the specific direction being issued by this Court on 09.08.2016 to conclude the trial expeditiously by fixing day-to-day dates taking recourse of Section 309 Cr.P.C. even the trial has not been completed half the way inasmuch as out of 81 prosecution witnesses, only 21 prosecution witnesses have been examined by now, therefore, the aforesaid fact may convince the Court to consider the present bail application for releasing the applicants on bail.

Prolonged or indefinite incarceration of the accused violates the Right to a fair and speedy trial which is one of the fundamental rights guaranteed under the Constitution of India and therefore the bleak possibility of early conclusion of the trial may be one of the considerations for enlarging the accused on bail. (Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Vijay Kishor Mishra, learned counsel for the applicants, Sri Anurag Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the Central Bureau of Investigation (in short C.B.I.) and Sri Vivek Kumar Rai, learned counsel for the complainant/ informant.

2. This Court has passed the order dated 26.04.2022 as under:-

"Heard Mr. Vijay Kishor Mishra, learned counsel for the applicants, Mr. Anurag Kumar Singh, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the Central Bureau of Investigation and Mr. Vivek Kumar Rai, learned counsel for the informant/complainant/victim.

It has been contended that the present applicants are in jail since 7.4.2013 in Sessions Trial No.830 of 2013, R.C. No.1 (S)/2013/C.B.I./SC-1 New Delhi, under Sections 120 I.P.C. read with Section 302 I.P.C. & Section 25 (i)(b)(a)/26/27 Arms Act, Police Station C.B.I./SC-1 New Delhi.

It has been further contended that there are 81 prosecution witnesses, out of them identity of 11 material witnesses have not been disclosed. Therefore, those 11 witnesses have not been examined.

So far as the examination of other prosecution witnesses are concerned, till date 18 prosecution witnesses have been examined as per the information so given by learned trial court dated 20.04.2021. However, as per learned counsel for the applicants one more witness has been examined.

Learned counsel for the applicants has drawn attention of this court towards Annexure No.28 which is the bail order of co-accused Rajiv Pratap Singh @ Raju Singh, wherein this court in paras 3 and 6 has observed that the trial court has not taken appropriate steps as per Section 309 Cr.P.C. to conclude the trial.

Learned counsel for the applicants has further submitted that during investigation no statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. has been recorded by the prosecution.

On being confronted on such averment, Mr. Anurag Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the Central Bureau of Investigation prays for and is granted a week's time to apprise the court as to whether the statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. of any witness has been recorded or not.

Mr. Rai, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the complainant/informant has also submitted that despite the fact that the relevant material/fact witnesses on his side are ready to be examined, but till date they have not been examined.

Learned counsel for the applicants as well as learned counsel for the informant, both have said that while examining the prosecution witnesses the Central Bureau of Investigation adopts pick and chose policy.

Be that as it may, this is a case wherein the present applicants are in jail for more than 9 years and there is no possibility to conclude the trial in near future, therefore, the aforesaid aspect may be considered on the next date in the light of dictum of Hon'ble Apex Court in the cases of Union of India Vs. K.A. Najeeb; AIR 2021 SC 712 and Paras Ram Vishnoi Vs. The Director, Central Bureau of Investigation, passed in Criminal Appeal

No.693 of 2021 [Arising out of SLP (Crl.) No.3610 of 2020].

Further, in a recent judgment of the Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No.308 of 2022, @ SLP (Crl.) No.4633 of 2021; Saudan Singh Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh vide order dated 25.02.2022, it has been observed that if any accused person is in custody for more than eight or ten years and his/her appeal is pending consideration before learned appellate court, his/her bail application may be considered.

List this case on 9th May, 2022.

This case shall be taken up immediately after fresh cases.

In the meantime, Mr. Anurag Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the Central Bureau of Investigation may seek specific written instructions on the point as to whether the statement of witnesses have been recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. or not. He shall also seek written instructions on the point as to why material witnesses have not been called for examination when this court while granting the bail to co-accused Rajiv Pratap Singh @ Raju Singh has observed that learned trial court should adopt the procedure as prescribed under Section 309 Cr.P.C. conducting trial on day-to-day basis."

3. In compliance of the aforesaid order, Sri Anurag Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the C.B.I. has apprised the Court that during investigation the statement of two material witnesses have been recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C., therefore, the submission of the learned counsel for the applicants that the statement of any person has not been recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C., is absolutely incorrect.

4. Sri Singh has further submitted that after order dated 26.04.2022 being passed one more witness has been examined. He has further submitted that examination of other fact/ relevant witnesses has been started and he is hopeful that the examination of other fact witnesses would be concluded at the earliest taking recourse of Section 309 Cr.P.C.

5. Sri Vivek Kumar Rai, learned counsel for the complainant/ informant has also submitted that unless and until all fact/ relevant witnesses are examined, the present applicants who are the main assailants may not be released on bail otherwise they shall influence the remaining witnesses. He has further submitted on the basis of instructions that the applicants have threatened from jail that as soon as they come out from jail they shall see as to who are giving statement against them. Therefore, on the basis of aforesaid facts the bail application of the present applicants may be rejected.

6. At this stage, both counsel for the C.B.I. and counsel for the private opposite party have been confronted on the point as to whether the present applicants are having any criminal history or they are having any prior criminal antecedent, Sri Rai has submitted that he has no information on that point. However, Sri Anurag Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the C.B.I. has submitted on the basis of information and instructions so received that both the applicants have got no prior criminal antecedent.

7. Sri Anurag Kumar Singh has however submitted that in some dates the delay to conclude the trial was on account of no proper co-operation from the side of the applicant, however, no such information has been shown on the basis of records. He has also submitted that when one relevant witness was being examined on 06.05.2022, after completion of his chief-examination the defence was called upon for cross-examination of such witness, the defence cross-examined such witness on 06.05.2022 and sought further time to conclude the cross-examination on 07.05.2022 and such cross-examination was concluded on 07.05.2022.

8. On the aforesaid contention, I observe that if after completion of the chief-examination of such witnesses on 06.05.2022 the defence cross-examined such witnesses on 06.05.2022 partially and it was concluded on 07.05.2022 so it would not be any deliberate delay on the part of the defence.

9. Sri Anurag Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the C.B.I. as well as Sri Vivek Kumar Rai, learned counsel for the private opposite party have again vehemently opposed the plea for bail of the present applicants by reiterating that the present applicants are the main assailants and are key pin of the crime in question, therefore, they should not be released on bail as they shall tamper the evidences and shall also influence the material witnesses and shall delay the trial proceedings.

10. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record.

11. In the present case, as per learned counsel for the applicants, the applicants are in jail with effect from 07.04.2013 i.e. more than nine years period has passed since they are in jail in Sessions Trial No.830 of 2013, R.C. No.1 (S)/2013/C.B.I./SC-1 New Delhi, under Sections 120 I.P.C. read with Section 302 I.P.C. & Section 25 (i)(b)(a)/26/27 Arms Act, Police Station-C.B.I./SC-1 New Delhi.

12. It would be also opt to indicate here that Annexure No.28 of the bail application is the bail order of co-accused, Rajiv Pratap Singh, dated 25.01.2022 passed in Bail Case No.8364 of 2017 (Rajiv Pratap Singh (Raju Singh) (Third Bail) to quote para-3 thereof, which reads as under:-

"3. The first bail application of applicant has already been rejected on merits vide order dated 23.07.2015. The second bail application was thereafter rejected vide order dated 09.08.2016 directing the trial court to finally dispose of the Sessions Trial expeditiously without granting any unnecessary adjournments and to conduct the trial in accordance with Section 309 Cr.P.C., on a day to day basis."

13. The perusal of para-3 reveals that this Court vide order dated 09.08.2016 directed the learned trial court to conclude the trial expeditiously without granting any unnecessary adjournment taking recourse of Section 309 Cr.P.C. conducting the trial on day-to-day basis. Undisputedly, despite the aforesaid specific direction being issued by this Court on 09.08.2016, about six years period have passed but what to say about the conclusion of trial even the trial has not been completed half the way as out of 81 witnesses only 21 witnesses have been examined by now.

14. Therefore, I am constraint to observe that the aforesaid careless and unwarranted approach of the learned trial court may not be appreciated whereby the specific direction of this Court dated 09.08.2016 has not been followed in its letter and spirit and such direction went in vein.

15. The Hon'ble Apex Court in catena of cases has observed that the right of under trial enshrined under Article 21 of the Constitution of India may be considered and protected inasmuch as they should not be compelled to serve maximum punishing waiting the outcome of trial. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Union of India vs. K.A. Najeeb AIR 2021 Supreme Court 712 and Paras Ram Vishnoi vs. The Director, Central Bureau of Investigation passed in Criminal Appeal No.693 of 2021 (Arising out of SLP (Crl.) 3610 of 2020 granting bail to those accused persons on the ground that there is no possibility to conclude the trial in near future and there is a long incarceration of that accused, therefore, they were entitled for bail. Para-16 of the case K.A.Najeeb (supra) is being reproduced here-in-below:-

"This Court has clarified in numerous judgments that the liberty guaranteed by Part III of the Constitution would cover within its protective ambit not only due procedure and fairness but also access to justice and a speedy trial. In Supreme Court Legal Aid Committee Representing Undertrial Prisoners v. Union of India, it was held that undertrials cannot indefinitely be detained pending trial. Ideally, no person ought to suffer adverse consequences of his acts unless the same is established before a neutral arbiter. However, owing to the practicalities of real life where to secure an effective trial and to ameliorate the risk to society in case a potential criminal is left at large pending trial, Courts are tasked with deciding whether an individual ought to be released pending trial or not. Once it is obvious that a timely trial would not be possible and the accused has suffered incarceration for a significant period of time, Courts would ordinarily be obligated to enlarge them on bail."

16. The Apex Court in the case in re: Paras Ram Vishnoi (supra) has observed as under:-

"On consideration of the matter, we are of the view that pending the trial we cannot keep a person in custody for an indefinite period of time and taking into consideration the period of custody and that the other accused are yet to lead defence evidence while the appellant has already stated he does not propose to lead any evidence, we are inclined to grant bail to the appellant on terms and conditions to the satisfaction of the trial court."

17. Recently the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case in re:Ashim alias Asim Kumar Haranath Bhattacharya alias Asim Harinath Bhattacharya alias Aseem Kumar Bhattacharya vs. National Investigation Agency reported in (2022) 1 SCC (Cri.) 442 has observed in paras-9, 10 & 11 as under:-

"9. We have to balance the nature of crime in reference to which the appellant is facing a trial. At the same time, the period of incarceration which has been suffered and the likely period within which the trial can be expected to be completed, as is informed to this Court that the statement of PW1/defacto complainant has still not been completed and there are 298 prosecution witnesses in the calendar of witness although the respondent has stated in its counter-affidavit that it may examine only 100 to 105 witnesses but indeed may take its own time to conclude the trial. This fact certainly cannot be ignored that the appellant is in custody since 6-7-2012 and has completed nine-and-half years of incarceration as an undertrial prisoner.

10. This Court has consistently observed in its numerous judgments that the liberty guaranteed in Part III of the Constitution would cover within its protective ambit not only due procedure and fairness but also access to justice and a speedy trial is imperative and the undertrials cannot indefinitely be detained pending trial. Once it is obvious that a timely trial would not be possible and the accused has suffered incarceration for a significant period of time, the Courts would ordinarily be obligated to enlarge him on bail.

11. Deprivation of personal liberty without ensuring speedy trial is not consistent with Article 21 of the Constitution of India. While deprivation of personal liberty for some period may not be avoidable, period of deprivation pending trial/appeal cannot be unduly long. At the same time, timely delivery of justice is part of human rights and denial of speedy justice is a threat to public confidence in the administration of justice."

18. In para-12 of the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in re: Ashim (supra), the dictum of the case of K.A. Najeeb (supra) has been considered.

19. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case in re: Saudan Singh (supra) has held that if any accused person is in custody for more than eight or ten years and his/her appeal is pending consideration before learned appellate court, his/her bail application may be considered.

20. Further, on the submission of Sri Anurag Kumar Singh and Sri Vivek Kumar Rai, learned counsel for the complainant/ informant to the effect that if the present applicants are released on bail, they shall influence the witnesses by giving threats for the dire consequences and shall delay the trial proceedings, it is needless to say that this is solemn duty and responsibility of the prosecution to protect and produce its witnesses before the trial court. Their security is solemn duty and responsibility of the police agencies/ prosecution. However, I direct the police agency/ prosecution to protect all the witnesses, particularly the prime and relevant witnesses, providing them the required security, if the need be, and to produce them before the learned trial court safely so that they could be examined without any fear or apprehension.

21. It is always open for the prosecution or counsel for the complainant/ informant to file the application for cancellation of bail if any fact emerges to the effect that the applicants after being released from jail are affecting the trial or influencing the relevant witnesses or threatening them or assaulting them in any manner whatsoever.

22. In the present case, more than nine years and one month's period have passed since the present applicants are in jail and despite the specific direction being issued by this Court on 09.08.2016 to conclude the trial expeditiously by fixing day-to-day dates taking recourse of Section 309 Cr.P.C. even the trial has not been completed half the way inasmuch as out of 81 prosecution witnesses, only 21 prosecution witnesses have been examined by now, therefore, the aforesaid fact may convince the Court to consider the present bail application for releasing the applicants on bail.

23. Accordingly, the bail application is allowed.

24. Let the applicants-Ajay Kumar Pal and Vijay Kumar Pal, be released on bail in the aforesaid case crime number on their furnishing personal bond of Rs.1,00,000/- each and two sureties of Rs.50,000/- each by both the applicants to the satisfaction of the court concerned with the following conditions:-

(i) The applicants shall file an undertaking to the effect that they shall not seek any adjournment on the dates fixed for evidence when the witnesses are present in court. In case of default of this condition, it shall be open for the trial court to treat it as abuse of liberty of bail and pass orders in accordance with law.

(ii) The applicants shall remain present before the trial court on each date fixed, either personally or through their counsel. In case of their absence, without sufficient cause, the trial court may proceed against them under Section 229-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(iii) In case, the applicants misuse the liberty of bail during trial and in order to secure their presence proclamation under Section 82 Cr.P.C. is issued and the applicants fail to appear before the court on the date fixed in such proclamation, then, the trial court shall initiate proceedings against them, in accordance with law, under Section 174-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(iv) The applicants shall remain present, in person, before the trial court on the dates fixed for (i) opening of the case, (ii) framing of charge and (iii) recording of statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. If in the opinion of the trial court absence of the applicants is deliberate or without sufficient cause, then it shall be open for the trial court to treat such default as abuse of liberty of bail and proceed against them in accordance with law.

(v) The present applicants shall not leave the country without prior permission of the Court.

25. Before parting with, it is expected that the trial shall be concluded with expedition in terms of Section 309 Cr.P.C. Further, the learned trial court may take all coercive measures, as per law, if either of the parties does not co-operate in the trial properly.

3. Dataram Singh Vs St. of U.P. & anr. , (2018) 3 SCC 22

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Mr. A.P. Mishra, learned counsel for the applicant, Mr. Rupendra Kumar Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing on behalf of the State and Mr. Ashok Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the complainant/informant.

2. As per Mr. Mishra, the present applicant is in jail since 26.09.2018, in Case Crime No.302 of 2016, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 302, 307, 404, 120-B & 34 I.P.C. Police Station- Baaghrai, District-Pratapgarh. Learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that the present applicant has been falsely implicated in the case as he has not committed any offence as alleged.

3. As per the prosecution case, in the mid night of 11.12.2016 the complainant along with his brother Rajesh Singh, Dheeraj Singh, Sonu Singh, Poonam Singh, wife of Rajesh Singh, Harshvardhan Singh son of Rajesh Singh were returning to his home after attending an invitation in Tiwari Mahamadpur. When they reached at Kamsin Tiraha then the accused persons armed with fire arms and bombs attacked on them. It is further mentioned in the first information report that due to the firing Rajesh Singh died on spot and Dheeraj Singh and Sonu Singh received grievous injuries. It is also alleged in the first information report that during commission of crime the accused persons also looted a licensed pistol and cash of Rs.1,50,000/- and some papers of the deceased.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that on the complaint submitted by informant/complainant as many as 18 persons including the present applicant has been arrested.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that an unexplained delay of more than 14 hours in lodging of first information report renders the prosecution story wholly unreliable particularly when the informant alleges himself to be eye witness.

6. It has been submitted on behalf of the applicant that the complainant, deceased Rajesh Singh and alleged injured Dheeraj Singh are notorious criminals and there is long criminal history to their credits. The aforesaid persons are also history-sheeters and due to their criminal activities, the deceased and alleged injured persons have been caused injuries by some unknown persons in dark hours of winter night and no one could identify the actual assailants. It is also submitted that the complainant was not accompanied with the deceased and alleged injured persons at the time of alleged incident and when he came to know about the aforesaid incident then he lodged a false first information report against those persons, with whom he is on inimical terms, leveling therein totally false and fabricated allegations, just to settle the score of enmity.

7. It is also submitted that neither the complainant nor the wife and son of the deceased have received any type of injury in the alleged incident. This fact itself creates doubt on their presence at the place of incident at the time of alleged incident. The alleged injured Sonu Singh has also denied the presence of complainant and the wife and son of deceased at the place of incident at the time of alleged incident. From perusal of the statements of alleged injured persons namely Dheeraj Singh and Sonu Singh, it is clear that the alleged incident took place in foggy winter night and due to the darkness and fog the accused persons could not be identified by them. From perusal of the statements of alleged injured persons, it is clear that their statements have been recorded after about one month of the alleged incident when they were medically fit.

8. It is also submitted that the injury reports of the alleged injured persons reveal that they were brought by Sanjay Singh and Kamlesh Pratap Singh for their medical examination not by the complainant, Poonam Singh and Harsh Vardhan Singh, who have claimed themselves to be the eye witnesses of the alleged incident. This fact itself creates doubt C21HE692on the presence of complainant, Poonam Singh and Harsh Vardhan Singh at the place of incident at the time of alleged incident.

9. From perusal of the first information report as well as the statement of the complainant, recorded U/S-161 Cr.P.C., it is clear that no specific role has been assigned to the applicant and only general role has been assigned to all the alleged accused persons. From perusal of the post mortem report of deceased, it is clear that the deceased had received only two injuries on his person and he died because of the injury no.1, which is a fire arm injury, and the prosecution is silent on this point that who is author of said injury. It has also been submitted that on 28.03.2017, the wife of deceased namely Smt. Poonam Singh had given an application before the Deputy Inspector General of Police, Allahabad Range, Allahabad, mentioning therein that the statements, U/S-161 Cr.P.C. of the witnesses, including her, have not been recorded correctly, that's why she as well as the other witnesses are giving their statements on affidavit, alongwith the application.

10. Learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that the applicant has a criminal history of four cased, details of which have been given in paragraph no.22 of the bail application.

11. Learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that this Court has granted bail to the co-accused Santosh Vaish in Bail No.7415 of 2017 and Rohit Singh in Bail No.8679 of 2017 vide order dated 5.2.2018. The complainant/informant has challenged the bail order of co-accused Rohit Singh before Hon'ble Apex Court by filing Special Leave to Appeal (Criminal) No.5018 of 2018 contending that the said accused while on bail in the present case has committed two more serious offences. Therefore the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed vide order dated 6.9.2019 that the Investigating Officer should immediately move for cancellation of bail against the said accused before the High Court and if such application is filed, same shall be decided on merits.

12. Pursuant to the aforesaid direction of the Hon'ble Apex Court the application for cancellation of bail was filed before this Court bearing Bail No.9677 of 2019 and this Court vide order dated 27.01.2020 cancelled the bail of co-accused Rohit Singh.

13. Learned counsel for the applicant further submitted that the bail of co-accused Santosh Vaish was not assailed and such order is still maintained. He has further submitted that this Court has also granted bail to other co-accused persons namely Pankaj Pasi @ Pankaj Saroj in Bail No.1030 of 2018 vide order dated 9.2.2018 and to Jwala Singh @ Kuldeep Singh in Bail No.973 of 2018 vide order dated 8.2.2018. One more co-accused Pramod Kumar Singh has been granted bail vide order dated 16.2.2018, passed in Bail No.1169 of 2018, however, an application for cancellation of his bail is pending consideration. It has also been informed that this Court vide recent order dated 8.4.2022 rejected the bail application of one of the co-accsued Sunil Kumar Gupta @ Bachcha in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.10805 of 2019, vide order dated 4.1.2022.

14. To summarize, learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that the bail orders of the co-accused Santosh Vaish, Pakka Pasi @ Pankaj Saroj, Jwala Singh @ Kuldeep Singh are still intact, whereas the bail of Rohit Singh, Sunil Kumar Gupta @ Bachcha has been cancelled. He has further submitted that there may not be any parity in rejection of the bail order as the parity is considered for the bail orders granted in favour of the co-accused persons.

15. Therefore, on the basis of the aforesaid facts and considering the period of incarceration of the present applicant, he may be released on bail giving parity with the aforesaid co-accused persons who have been enlarged on bail by this Court. He has also submitted that there is no possibility to conclude the trial in near future, therefore, the present applicant may not be compelled for pre-trial detention as the same shall be violative of Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

16. Learned A.G.A. as well as Mr. Ashok Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the complainant/informant have vehemently opposed the aforesaid bail application.

17. Mr. Srivastava has submitted that the applicant is a hardened and habitual criminal. He is having a criminal history of ten cases including the present one.

18. Mr. Srivastava, learned counsel for the informant has submitted that eye-witness has fully supported the prosecution version. He has drawn attention of this Court towards the statement of Manoj Kumar Singh informant/complainant and Smt. Poonam Singh wife of the deceased, wherein the name of the present applicant has been taken. Further, the injured witnesses namely Sonu Singh and Dheeraj Singh also supported the prosecution case. He has also submitted that in similar circumstances the bail of co-accused Sunil Kumar Gupta @ Bachcha (Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.10805 of 2019) has been canceled by this Court and said co-accused was having similar role as the present applicant, therefore, the bail application of the present applicant may be rejected.

19. Mr. Srivastava, learned counsel for the complainant has drawn attention of this Court towards paragraph no.22 of the bail application, wherein the applicant has disclosed that he is having a criminal history of four cases, whereas the present applicant is having a criminal history of ten cases as indicated in paragraph no.17 of the counter affidavit of the complainant/informant. No rejoinder affidavit to that counter affidavit has been filed, therefore, Mr. Srivastava has submitted that the present applicant has concealed the entire criminal history.

20. Mr. Srivastava, learned counsel for the complainant has place reliance on the dictum of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Ramesh Bhavan Rathod Vs. Vishanbhai Hirabhai Makwana Makwana (Koli) and another; reported in AIR 2021 SC 2011 to contend that while considering the bail application of the accused, particularly considering the principle of parity, the gravity of the offence, nature of offence and general conduct of the accused should be perused carefully.

21. He has also drawn attention of this Court towards decision rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court dated 1.4.2022 in the case of Rishipal @ Rishipal Singh Solanki Vs. Raju and another; Criminal Appeal No.541 of 2022 arising out of Special Leave Petition (Criminal) No.1743 of 2022 to contend that when the bail application of the co-accused is dismissed, factors which led to such dismissal must be considered while deciding the bail application of the other co-accused persons.

22. I have considered the submissions of learned counsel for parties and perused the material available on record.

23. At the very outset, I must observe that the applicant has disclosed his criminal history of as many as four cases which he has explained in para no.22 of his bail application. The learned counsel for the complainant has however submitted in para-17 of the counter affidavit that he is a hardened criminal having a long criminal history of ten cases which has not been disclosed and explained in the bail application or in the supplementary affidavits, the details of which are as under:

"1. Case Crime No. 142 of 2007, under sections 325 & 323 IPC, Police Station-Baghrai, District- Pratapgarh.

2. Case Crime No. 10 of 2013, under sections 395 & 412 IPC, Police Station- Soraun, District- Allahabad.

3. Case Crime No. 31 of 2016, under sections 448, 506 IPC and 3/5 of Damage to the Public Property Act, Police Station Baghrai, District- Pratapgarh.

4. Case Crime No. 82 of 2016, under sections 110 Cr.P.C. Police Station- Baghrai, District- Pratapgarh. The case is under trial.

5. Case Crime No. 91 of 2016, under section 3 (1) U.P. Gangster Act, Police Station- Baghrai, District- Pratapgarh.

6. Case Crime No. 143 of 2016, under sections 376-G, 506 IPC and 3 (2)(V) SC/ST Act, Police Station- Baghrai, District Pratapgarh.

7. Case Crime No. 197 of 2016, under sections 379 IPC and 3/4 of Damage to the Public Property Act. Police Station Baghrai, District- Pratapgarh.

8. N.C.R. No. 221 of 2015, under sections 323, 504, 506 IPC, Police Station- Baghrai, District- Pratapgarh.

9. Case Crime No. 227 of 2016, under sections 307 IPC, Police Station- Baghrai, District- Pratapgarh.

10. Case Crime No. 302 of 2016, under sections 147, 148, 149, 302, 307, 404, 120-B, 34 IPC, Police Station- Baghrai, District Pratapgarh. (This is the present case)."

24. Therefore, it is clear that after getting bail in first criminal case the present applicant has committed several offences, so it would be appropriate to observe here that he has misused the liberty of bail granted by the competent court of law.

25. When any accused person is released on bail in his/her first criminal case, he/she gives his/her undertaking before the competent court concerned that he/she shall not misuse the liberty of bail. During period of bail if he/she again commits any offence and was arrested, he/she files the next bail application in such crime case making specific and categorical submission and undertaking that he/she shall not misuse the liberty of bail then, the competent court considering the aforesaid undertaking grants bail. Again during the period of bail such accused person commits another offence and obtains bail, it would mean that he/she has got no respect towards the order of the Court whereby he/she has been granted bail and at the same time he/she does not care about his/her undertaking that he/she shall not misuse the liberty of bail.

26. In nutshell, the repeated offender who repeats any crime while he/she is on bail in earlier case/cases should not be granted bail as he/she may again misuse the liberty of bail therefore instead of granting bail, to me, the direction to expedite the trial should be issued.

27. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Dataram Singh Vs. State of U.P. and another reported in (2018) 3 SCC 22 has observed that 'the bail is a right and denial is an exception' but it does not mean that the bail should be granted in every case. Further, at the time of considering the bail application of an accused it is also necessary for the Judge to consider whether the accused is a first-time offender or has been accused of other offences and if so, the nature of such offences and his or her general conduct.

28. The Hon'ble Apex Court in a recent judgment of Ramesh Bhavan Rathod (supra) has observed in paragraphs 22 and 32 as under:

"22. We are constrained to observe that the orders passed by the High Court granting bail fail to pass muster under the law. They are oblivious to, and innocent of, the nature and gravity of the alleged offences and to the severity of the punishment in the event of conviction. In Neeru Yadav Vs. State of U.P. MANU/SC/1208/2014 : (2014) 16 SCC 508, this Court has held that while applying the principle of parity, the High Court cannot exercise its powers in a capricious manner and has to consider the totality of circumstances before granting bail. This Court observed:

17. Coming to the case at hand, it is found that when a stand was taken that the 2nd Respondent was a history sheeter, it was imperative on the part of the High Court to scrutinize every aspect and not capriciously record that the 2nd Respondent is entitled to be admitted to bail on the ground of parity. It can be stated with absolute certitude that it was not a case of parity and, therefore, the impugned order clearly exposes the non-application of mind. That apart, as a matter of fact it has been brought on record that the 2nd Respondent has been charge sheeted in respect of number of other heinous offences. The High Court has failed to take note of the same. Therefore, the order has to pave the path of extinction, for its approval by this Court would tantamount to travesty of justice, and accordingly we set it aside.

32. Our analysis above would therefore lead to the conclusion that there has been a manifest failure of the High Court to advert to material circumstances, especially the narration of the incident as it appears in the cross FIR which was lodged on 13 May 2020. Above all, the High Court has completely ignored the gravity and seriousness of the offence which resulted in five homicidal deaths. This is clearly a case where the orders passed by the High Court suffered from a clear perversity."

29. Notably, the bail of the co-accused Sunil Kumar Gupta @ Bachcha in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.10805 of 2019 has been rejected by this Court vide order dated 4.1.2022 considering the gravity of offence and the statement of eye witnesses and the injured persons.

30. Besides, the bail of another co-accused Rohit Singh has been cancelled by this Court pursuant to the directions of Hon'ble Apex Court considering the gravity of the offence, statements of eye witnesses and the injured persons as well as the fact that such co-accused persons have misused the liberty of bail granted by this Court.

31. Therefore, without entering into the merits of the issue and going through the material available on record, the statements of eye witnesses and injured persons recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., checkered criminal history of the present applicant, I do not find any good ground to grant bail to the present applicant as no case for bail is made out.

32. Accordingly, bail application is rejected.

33. Further, I am not convinced to grant parity to the present applicant with those co-accused persons who have been granted bail by this court inasmuch as the present applicant has got a long criminal history and such history has not been disclosed or explained in his bail application or subsequent affidavits, so this fact alone disentitles him to get parity.

34. Before parting with, it is expected that the trial shall be concluded with expedition, say, within a period of one year. Further, the learned trial court may take all coercive measures as per law if either of the parties do not co-operate in the trial properly. The learned trial court shall fix short dates to ensure that trial is concluded within a period of nine months in terms of Section 309 Cr.P.C..

Selvi & ors. Vs St. of Karn. , (2010) 7 SCC 263

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashish Kumar Rastogi, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Rao Narendra Singh, learned AGA for the State.

2. The present applicant is in jail Since 18.6.2021 in Case Crime No. 314 of 2018 u/s 302, 307, 323 IPC, P.S. Gosaiganj, District Lucknow. He has further submitted that the present applicant has been falsely implicated in this case as he has not committed any offence as alleged in the prosecution story.

3. Attention has been drawn towards the impugned F.I.R. which is against the four unknown persons who were beating up the husband of the informant mercilessly through sharp edged weapon and batons on 29.5.2018. As per the informant she has seen those persons through the light of torch as the incident is a night occurrence of 9.30 P.M.

4. The police recorded the statement of informant / wife of the deceased on 31.5.2018. Further, the police recorded the statement of eye witness Guddu s/o Guru Prasad u/s 161 Cr.P.C. on 12.1.2019. When the local police could not investigate the matter as no reliable evidences could be collected, matter was transferred to crime branch for further investigation. The crime branch again recorded the statement of eye witness Guddu on 22.5.2020 where he repeated his earlier version recorded under section 161 Cr.P.C. The crime branch conducted the Polygraph test of Guddu s/o Guru Prasad on 15.3.2021. During polygraph test the leading question has been asked from Guddu as to whether the present applicant has committed crime in question, he replied in affirmative. As per learned counsel for the applicant the leading question could have not been asked during investigation. However, on the basis of aforesaid statement of eye witness Guddu the police arrested the applicant and send him jail on 18.6.2021 without intimating any reason to the applicant or his family members regarding the offence he has committed for that he is being arrested. Thereafter, the police filed charge-sheet on 18.7.2021 implicating the present applicant on the basis of polygraph test.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant has drawn attention of this Court towards para 15 of the bail application wherein it has been categorically indicated that the present applicant is son-in-law of the informant. Therefore, it is beyond any comprehension that if the informant was able to recognize the assailants on the date of incident she could not recognize her close relative. To be more precise, as per learned counsel for the applicant had the offence in question been committed by the present applicant the informant would have recognized him being a close relative but since nothing has been alleged against the present applicant by the informant or other witnesses from 29.5.2018, the date of incident till 5.3.2021 when the polygraph test of Guddu s/o Guru Prasad was conducted, therefore, on the basis of polygraph test the present applicant may not be implicated.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant has drawn attention of this Court towards the dictum of Apex Court in re: Selvi and others vs. State of Karnataka (2010) 7 Supreme Court Cases 263 referring para 240, 242 and 264 which reads as under :

"240. We must also contemplate situations where a threat given by the investigators to conduct any of the impugned tests could prompt a person to make incriminatory statements or to undergo some mental trauma. Especially in cases of individuals from weaker sections of society who are unaware of their fundamental rights and unable to afford legal advice, the moth apprehension of undergoing scientific tests that supposedly reveal the truth the act is threatening to administer the impugned tests could also elicit testimony. It is also quite conceivable that an individual may give his/her consent to undergo the said tests on account of threats, false promises or deception by her investigators. For example, a person may be convinced to give his/her consent after being promised that this would lead to an early release from custody or dropping of charges. However, after the administration of the tests the investigators may renege on such promises. In such a case the relevant inquiry is not confined to the apparent voluntariness of the act of undergoing the tests, but also includes an examination of the totality of circumstances.

242. We can also contemplate a possibility that even when an individual freely consents to undergo the tests in question, the resulting testimony cannot be readily characterised as voluntary in nature. This is attributable to the differences between the manner in which the impugned tests are conducted and an ordinary interrogation. In an ordinary interrogation, the investigator asks questions one by one and the subject has the choice of remaining silent or answering each of these questions. This choice is repeatedly exercised after each question is asked and the subject decides the nature and content of each testimonial response. On account of the continuous exercise of such a choice, the subject's verbal responses can be described as voluntary in nature. However, in the context of the impugned techniques the test subject does not exercise such a choice in a continuous control over the subsequent responses given during the test in case of the narcoanalysis technique, the subject speaks in a drug-induced state and is clearly not aware of his/her own responses at the time. In the context of polygraph examination and the BEAP tests, the subject cannot anticipate the contents of the "relevant questions" that will be asked or the "probes" that will be shown. Furthermore, the results are derived from the measurement of physiological responses and hence the subject cannot exercise an effective choice between remaining silent and imparting personal knowledge. In light of these facts, it was contended that a presumption cannot be made about the voluntariness of the test results even if the subject had given prior consent.

264. In light of these conclusions, we hold that no individual should be forcibly subjected to any of the techniques in question, whether in the context of investigation in criminal cases or otherwise. Doing so would amount to an unwarranted intrusion into personal liberty. However, we do leave room for the voluntary administration of the impugned techniques in the context of criminal justice provided that certain safeguards are in place. Even when the subject has given consent to undergo any of these tests, the test results by themselves cannot be admitted as evidence because the subject does not exercise conscious control over the responses during the administration of the test. However, any information or material that is subsequently discovered with the help of voluntary administered test results can be admitted in accordance with Section 27 of the Evidence Act, 1872." Emphasis Supplied

7. In the aforesaid judgment the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that no individual should be forcibly subjected to any of the technique in question whether in the context of investigation in criminal case or otherwise and if such technique is adopted, the outcome thereof would have no evidentiary value.

8. Learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that during the aforesaid polygraph test the investigating officer has asked pin pointed question that 'as to whether the present applicant has committed this offence', this witness has given reply in affirmative. As per Sri Rastogi such type of questions are known as 'leading questions' and those questions may not be asked during investigation. Even such leading question may not be asked during examination-in-chief or re-examination during trial except with the permission of the Court, however, during cross-examination such type of questions may be asked.

9. He has further submitted that except the aforesaid statement of eye-witness Guddu during polygraph test no other evidence or material is available with the prosecution to suggest that the present applicant has committed offence in question. Since the charge-sheet has been filed, therefore, there is no apprehension of absconding or tampering of evidence / witness by the applicant.

10. The learned counsel for the applicant has given an undertaking on behalf of applicant that the applicant shall not misuse the liberty of bail and shall cooperate with the trial proceedings and shall abide by all terms and conditions of bail, if granted.

11. Sri Rao Narendra Singh, learned AGA has, however, opposed the prayer of bail but could not dispute the aforesaid submissions so raised by the learned counsel for the applicant. He could also not dispute the proposition of law in re: Selvi (supra).

12. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record and also perused the dictum of Hon'ble Apex Court in re: Selvi (supra).

13. Without entering into the merits of the issue and considering the contents of F.I.R., statement of informant, of eye witness and polygraph test dated 5.3.2021 (Annexure no. 8), I find that this is a fit case of bail.

14. The perusal of polygraph test dated 5.3.2021 (Annexure no. 8) reveals that the investigating officer has asked a pin-point question vide question no. 1 from eye witness Guddu s/o late Guru Prasad that " as to whether Sarhu Ram Prakash and Damad Ashok had assaulted on the victim". The said eye-witness replied "Yes".

15. To me instead of asking leading question from the eye-witness Guddu s/o late Guru Prasad the prosecution should have asked as to who were those persons who have attacked on him and victim. However, even such question could not have been asked while conducting the polygraph test inasmuch as such test has been disapproved by the Hon'ble Apex Court in re: Selvi and others (supra).

16. I am constrained to observe here that when such eye witness Guddu s/o late Guru Prasad and the informant who is wife of deceased had not alleged anything against the present applicant while recording their statement u/s 161 Cr.P.C. on 12.1.2019 and 31.5.2018 respectively whereas the present applicant was close relative of the informant then the statement of eye witness Guddu s/o late Guru Prasad taken while conducting polygraph test would have no evidentiary value in view of the dictum of Hon'ble Court in re: Selvi (supra). Therefore, when such statement of the eye witness in question has got no evidentiary value in the eyes of law, the implication of the present applicant in such case would not be proper subject to other circumstantial evidence and corroborative material which would be seen during trial. In other words, any observation of this Court in this order would not effect the trial proceedings in any manner whatsoever and the trial would be conducted and concluded strictly in accordance with law. Whether the present applicant is guilty or not in the charges framed against him, will be decided by the trial court on its own merit after analyzing the evidences that surfaces on record during the trial.

17. Therefore, In view of the above the present bail application is allowed.

18. Let the applicant Ashok Kumar, involved in aforesaid case crime be released on bail on his furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned with the following conditions which are being imposed in the interest of justice:-

(i) The applicant shall file an undertaking to the effect that he shall not seek any adjournment on the dates fixed for evidence when the witnesses are present in court. In case of default of this condition, it shall be open for the trial court to treat it as abuse of liberty of bail and pass orders in accordance with law.

(ii) The applicant shall remain present before the trial court on each date fixed, either personally or through his counsel. In case of his absence, without sufficient cause, the trial court may proceed against him under Section 229-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(iii) In case, the applicant misuses the liberty of bail during trial and in order to secure his presence proclamation under Section 82 Cr.P.C. is issued and the applicant fails to appear before the court on the date fixed in such proclamation, then, the trial court shall initiate proceedings against him, in accordance with law, under Section 174-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(iv) The applicant shall remain present, in person, before the trial court on the dates fixed for (i) opening of the case, (ii) framing of charge and (iii) recording of statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. If in the opinion of the trial court absence of the applicant is deliberate or without sufficient cause, then it shall be open for the trial court to treat such default as abuse of liberty of bail and proceed against him in accordance with law.

(v) The applicant shall not leave the country without permission of the Court concerned.

19. Before parting with it is expected that the trial shall be concluded with expedition. Further, the learned trial court may take all coercive measures as per law if either of the parties do not co-operate in the trial properly. The learned trial court shall fix short dates to ensure that trial is concluded at the earliest.

of 2006), is facing a prosecution in Case Crime No.312 of 2019, u/s 420, 467, 468, 471, 447, 201, 120-B I.P.C. and Section 3 of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984, Police Station-Azeem Nagar, District-Rampur. STORY AS NARRATED IN FIR

5. Coming to the merits of the case, which ignites from lodging of the F.I.R. by one Sri Allama Zamir Naqvi, a self proclaimed public spirited person, by moving an application addressed to the D.G.P., Luckow on 29.7.2019, and as such, the present F.I.R. came into existence against nine named accused persons including the applicant, his wife Tanzim Fatima and son Abdullah Azam along with six others on 19.8.2019.

6. I have keenly perused the contents of the F.I.R. and for the sake of brevity the bulky F.I.R. is reduced to following points:

(a) The land in dispute relates to one Mr. Imamuddin Quereshi s/o late Badruddeen Qureshi, permanent resident of Lucknow. This gentleman belonged to "Sunni Sect' of Muslim religion (Backward Class), Kasai/Qureshi community, who after the partition, relinquished the citizenship of India and migrated to Pakistan during 1947-49 and since then turned a citizen of Pakistan. As per the provisions of Section -8 of "The Administration of Evacuee Property Act, 1950" the property left by Imamuddin Qureshi was declared as Evacuee Property and deemed to have been vested with the "Custodian' of the State, as per legal implication.

(b) The property left by Imamuddin Qureshi contains one room and an Imambara situated at Village -Singhan Khera, Pargana and Tehsil Sadar, Rampur, having pucca Raqba 86 beegha, 2 biswa and as per notification issued by the Government of India 1962 and 1971, in all 45 gatas, ad-measuring area 13.842 hectares of agricultural land got endorsed and vested with the government, as *per Se*ction 5 of Enemy Property Act, 1968.

(c) In fact, this landed property ad-measuring area 13.842 hectares situated at Village Singhan Khera, Pargana and Tehsil Sadar, District Rampur is the focul issue of the entire controversy of the present bail application.

(d) It is further alleged in the F.I.R. that despite of the fact that the aforesaid property in dispute i.e. 13.842 hectares is under the custody of Custodian, Enemy Property, Ministry of Home, Government of India. The applicant belonging to the City of Rampur and pursuing his dream project "Mohammad Ali Jauhar University" have an evil eye over the land in dispute and in order to digest a valuable piece of land without paying any sale consideration or any authority or title recognized under the law, won over the then Chairman, Sri Syed Waseem Rizvi who was at the relevant time adorning the chair of U.P. Shia Central Waqf Board. Not only Mr. Syed Waseem Rizvi, but rest of the Board of members, namely Mazhar Ali Khan @ Bhukkal Nawab of Lucknow and other members and Inspector, have fabricated certain forged papers and documents. These members and other office bearers of Shia Central Waqf Board virtually started dancing on the tune of their political boss the Applicant and the Chairman. After hatching a conspiracy, making those forged and crafted documents have used them as a genuine one, got the aforesaid land belonging to person of Sunni Sect of Kasai community, showing him as a permanent resident of Asharfabad Deen Dayal Road, Kotwali Saadatganj, Lucknow got the property in question converted into a "Waqf Property' by preparing a forged Waqf Deed, whose alleged settler was late Imamuddin Qureshi. Interestingly a person who has already migrated to Pakistan in 1947-1949, his alleged Waqf was got registered as "I-78' at U.P. Shia Central Waqf Board, Lucknow in 2003. This by itself per se throws ample light on the modus operandi of applicant, who was the then Cabinet Minister and his close friend Syed Waseem Rizvi. Alleged waqf deed is nothing but a tissue of utter falsehood, a tailored document with ulterior motive and purpose just to digest that 13.842 hectares of the land left by Imamuddin Qureshi during partition days. This land was eventually encircled within the University premises, without paying single penny as its consideration or without any authority or title over the land in question.

(e) It is further alleged in the F.I.R., that when in the year 1942 U.P. Shia Central Waqf Board and Sunni Central Waqf Board were established, all waqf properties in the State were measured and identified on a district level. In this regard it was alleged, that during that period Imamuddin Qureshi Trust was registered or not, is a pivotal question? who was its Mutwalli since its establishment? Without having any certificate applied it seems that Mohd. Azam Khan misusing his powers as Cabinet Minister along with his close ally Sri Syed Wazim Rizvi without having any inquiry managed to get said Waqf Deed of Imamuddin Qureshi registered by the then Administrative officer of Shia Central Waqf Board, Sri Syed Gulamus Syedden, in furtherance of common intention of all. The alleged legal formalities are simply eye-wash or a hoax after grossly misusing applicant's power and position at relevant time.

(f) It is also alleged in paragraph-5 of the F.I.R. that as to who are the decedents of alleged settler Imamuddin Qureshi and whether they are residing in Lucknow or Rampur or all of them have migrated to Pakistan are not known, because as mentioned above Imamuddin belonged to Sunni Sec and as to how his trust/waqf property was registered as Shia Waqf Board. By way of repetition it has been alleged that the applicant Mohd. Azam Khan after conniving with the then Chairman, Shia Central Waqf Board Mr. Syed Waseem Rizvi and other Members of Board have swindled the property in question just to benefit Azam Khan's dream project "Mohammad Ali Jauhar University' without any sale consideration or passing any title over the land. By this action the applicant and other co-accused have caused a consideration financial dent to the Government of U.P. as well as Government of India in an organized way.

(g) Interestingly almost after 12 years of its alleged registration with U.P. Shia Central Waqf Board on 2.4.2015 one Masood Khan was appointed as its Mutwalli in a slip short way. It is alleged that Mutwalli Masood Khan was appointed its Mutwalli after 12 years of its registration, is a puppet as "Yes Man' of the applicant. He requested the District Magistrate, Rampur to hand over the aforesaid property as a waqf property. In response to the same, A.D.M., Rampur vide its letter dated 15.4.2015 informed that the land in question ad-measuring 13.842 hectares is an Enemy Property and would remain till such time the Government of India does not release it.

(h) In this long F.I.R. a direct allegation has been made against the applicant for misusing his power as a Cabinet Minister and hushing up the landed property belonging to the Custodian, Evacuee Property, Mumbai, who migrated to Pakistan during partition. In the Revenue Records of 1359 Fasli there is a clear endorsement that land belongs to Imamuddin Qureshi managed by the "Custodian'. Thus right from the day of partition the land is named in the custody of Custodian, Evacuee Property, Mumbai.

(i) After receiving this complaint, the Central Waqf Council Government of India, New Delhi has constituted a nine members team, headed by Dr. Syed Aizaz Naqvi, Advocate, Supreme Court Delhi, who had given a detailed inquiry report on 6.1.2017, and thus, it was prayed that 45 gatas of land belonging to Imamuddin Qureshi, who left Pakistan and accepted the citizenship of that nation, ad-measuring area 13.842 hectares of village Singhan Khera, Pargana Tehsil Rampur it has been declared as "Enemy Property' after fabricating documents in a forged way with intention to cheat and play fraud, causing a huge loss to the Government of U.P. as well as Government of India. It is Mohd. Azam Khan, his wife Tanzim Fatima, his son Abdulla Azam, his friend Syed Waseem Rizvi and others who after concealing the material facts and forging the documents have succeeded to encircle the aforesaid land in dispute within the campus of Mohammad Ali Jauhar Ali University (hereinafter referred to as "University').

Hence this F.I.R. relying upon the report given by the Probe Committee.

7. Thus, for the purpose of present bail application the focal issue of the land is total 45 gatas ad-measuring 13.842 hectares of land situated at Village- Singhan Khera, Pargana and Tehsil Sadar, District Rampur, which has been declared as Enemy Property swindled by Mohd. Azam Khan, the then Cabinet Minister of Govt. of U.P. later on become Chancellor of the University named above.

SUBMISSIONS ADVANCED BY LEARNED COUNSEL FOR THE APPLICANT

8. Sri Imran Ullah, learned Advocate appearing for the applicant raised his submissions touching the various issues, which for the sake of convenience are being formulated herein below :

(i) The applicant has fully cooperated with the investigation, never misused or terrorized any of the witnesses, in which after investigation the police submitted a report u/s 173(2) Cr.P.C. on 27.5.2020. It is contended that the trial has yet not been commenced, thus, now no useful purpose would be served to keep the applicant behind the bars during trial. He is already facing incarceration since 26.2.2020.

(ii) After change in the establishment in the State of U.P. in the year 2017 in the State of U.P., there is volley of criminal cases, one after the other within a span of 2-3 months. Out of 89 cases lodged against the applicant, he has attained bail in 88 cases and thus, present is only case left for the consideration of this Court.

(iii) Since the applicant is languishing in jail since 26.2.2020 and as per the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Satendra Kumar Antil vs C.B.I. reported in 2021 SCC Online SC 922 the applicant deserves to be bailed out in the present case too.

(iv) It is next contended by learned counsel for the applicant that the applicant is a person of 72 years of age, though powerful and influential political giant of the State of U.P., is in jail for almost two and half years. Last year during Covid pandemic he was nearly saved on account of Providence. He was severely fallen sick, his cardiac and renal organs were severely adversely affected and he is still on medication. It would be indeed cruel and inhuman if he would die in harness without any proper treatment.

(v) It is further contended by Sri Imran Ullah, that no doubt the applicant was a Cabinet Minister twice in the Government of Uttar Pradesh, first in 2003 and thereafter in 2012. On both occasions, the applicant was second in command of the Ministry, a virtual political giant. As soon as he came into power on both the occasions, without wasting much of the time after exploiting his position as a Cabinet Minister, managed to get the alleged Imamuddin Trust registered, and thereafter, managed to get the land in question leased out to the University on 31.5.2007, but soon after change in the Government of State of U.P., the said lease deed was cancelled by the same authority on 26.6.2007. As mentioned above, the foundation stone was laid in the year 2005 and the University became a legal entity after establishing the U.P. Act No.19 of 2006. The said Act was passed by the Assembly of the State of U.P. The applicant Mohd. Azam Khan being the perpetual Trustee of Maulana Mohd. Ali Jauhar Trust was declared as a Chancellor of the University for all times to come. This, in fact, the University was his fiefdom of the applicant.

(vi) It is contended by learned counsel Sri Imran Ullah that the applicant has worked for the University constantly, relentlessly for the betterment and upliftment of the citizen, specially the youth of Rohilkhand area. Being a social activist and educationalist he was deeply concerned about the social as well as social upliftment of his area and believes that widespread education is the only way to enlightening masses. He plays the major role for the socio-economic development of the weaker and underprivileged classe in that area. It is further argued that the applicant has dedicated his entire career for the promotion of education in the State of U.P., especially the Districts of Rohilkhand area.

(vii) Learned counsel for applicant fairly conceded that there is no genuine document or any deed with the University/Trust, establishing its good title over the property in dispute i.e. 13.842 hectares village Singhan Khera, Sadar, Rampur. On making query by the Court, as to how and under what circumstances the property in question was encircled within the University premises, Sri Imran Ullah fairly conceded that since the adjacent properties were purchased by the University/Trust, and thus this is the only reason for encircling the Enemy Property within the University campus without any authority of land or good title over the land in question.

This, in fact is startling revelation, whereby it has been conceded by the counsel that in no uncertain terms the modus operandi of ''encircling the Enemy Property' in most abnormal and surreptitious way. This in fact a new jurisprudence by which a disputed landed property could be grabbed, without even semblance of good title.

9. In addition to this, in his rejoinder affidavit, during argument, Sri Imran Ullah, learned counsel for the applicant, categorically submitted that "the land in dispute is still lying idle and vacant, though within the boundaries of aforesaid University and not a single brick has been kept over it." In this regard para-8 of the rejoinder affidavit is quoted herein below :

"8. .....Moreover the land in question is still lying as it is, with absolutely no construction/hindrance/obstacle on the same. However, as per the report of District Magistrate dated 4.9.2017 as well as the site plan also on the land in question no construction has been raised. It has wrongly been alleged that the same is encroached through boundary wall, which is evident from the perusal of the bird's eye view as contained in Google Map, annexed along with bail application as annexure no.28. It may be pointed out that merely by purchasing the land adjacent and around the land in question, it cannot be said that the University/Trust has been encroached upon the said land. There is also a road adjacent to the land in question (Enemy Property) by which the same can be access. It is only for the reasons, best known to the authority concerned, the same has not been used till date by the Administration. Further it is wrongly stated in para under reply that applicant appointed Masood Khan as Mutawalli of the trust Imamuddin, it is specifically mentioned at this stage that applicant has nothing to do with the trust Imamuddin or its mutwalli Masood Khan, neither at any point of time was having any power or control over the trust Imamuddin, hence no question was arise with the appointment of any mutawalli of the said trust."

Similarly, in the written argument submitted on behalf of applicant, there is identical reiteration of the aforesaid fact in para s 24 & 25, which are being reproduced thus :

"24. On 13.5.2020 the Investigating Officer visited the alleged site and prepared Site map which is contained in parcha No.33 of the case diary (RA-1 Page 42 of Rejoinder Affidavit) It shows the land in dispute is surrounded by the University land but there is an approach two way road which can be used to access the alleged land in dispute. The land in dispute I..e the land which has been declared as Enemy Property in the year 2006 and has been given to the custody of District Magistrate, Rampur is still lying as it is with absolutely no construction/hindrance/obstacle on the same though surrounded by the land of university from three sides. However, as per the report of District Magistrate dated 4.9.2017 as well as the site plan also on the land in question no construction has been raised, though in the year 2007 when a demand was made to give the property in question to the University/Trust, the Trust intended that in case, the said land will be given to the University, the same will be changed into a play ground. As per the allegation of the Investigating Officer, the entire disputed land is surrounded by the land purchased by the Trust/University. It has wrongly been alleged that the same is encroached through boundary wall the land in question is clear from all hindrance, obstacle, and construction till date. As evident from google map (page 440) further as evident from the site plan itself, the approach road to the land in dispute is also through the road which is being used for going towards University. Not only this, there is another road from behind which can be used as approach road of the aforesaid disputed property and as such it is wrongly being alleged that the land is being encroached by the University.

25. That in case the land is declared to be enemy land in future the same can be taken possession by the custodian any time as the same is still lying vacant without any hindrance having approach road from two sides."

10. On a conjoint reading of the contents of paragraph mentioned above, which is reproduction from the affidavit on behalf of applicant, the Court has gathered an impression that the land in question is lying vacant, though within the University campus and not even single brick is kept over the land in dispute, then the question arises as to how and under whose authority or title the land in dispute has been encircled within the boundaries of University. Interestingly in Para-25, it has been mentioned that in the event the land in question to be Enemy land in future, the same can be taken possession by the Custodian any time as the same is still lying vacant without any hindrance or having approach road from two sides. Indeed, this is the novel and crooked way of usurping the property from the days of partition. It is the custodian who is having right, title over the property in question. The applicant, being a Chancellor of the University, is a rank trespasser, without any authority of law or license encircled the property in question within the University campus and there seems that now the applicant is "obliging" the government of India/the Administration/Custodian of Evacuee Property, Mumbai to approach the court concerned and get a decree of eviction, then only University would release the property. It is simply amusing whereby rank trespasser, a usurper is justifying its possession over the land in dispute. This is no justification to encircle 13 hectares and odd land in dispute, within the boundaries of the University. Moreover, it has been mentioned that there is proper access to the land given by the University. This is unheard of a novel way of justifying the possession over the property for which neither the Chancellor nor the University has ever authority to encircle the same.

11. From the above averments, it seems that the applicant now wants to distance and disassociate himself in his personal capacity as well as the Chancellor of University over that land in question as well as Imamuddin Qureshi Trust. Under the circumstances, and relying upon his own averment/submissions, let the land in dispute be reverted to the Administrator, Evacuee Property or the District Magistrate, Rampur, being its representative.

12. The applicant in some way or the other, is trying to impress upon the Court that he is doing a pious duty to educate the youth by raising the University but while going through the entire case, this Court is puzzled to seek pious objective and motto to raise any educational institution and that too a dream University in the name of one of our ancestors, Mohammad Ali Jauhar University, in a trading smug manner.

13. Thus, if taking the above averments, submissions and the pleadings of the affidavits, it is well established that the applicant Mohd. Azam Khan was out and out for anyhow grab the property which is already earmarked as Enemy Property by exploiting his position as a Cabinet Minister. He has not having any semblance of any document which could even indicate a good title over the property in question. It is simply amusing and surprising that a Cabinet Minister is stooping down to take away the Enemy Property by applying all foul means and tricks and now trying to delink and disassociate himself from the property in dispute for the reason best known to him.

From the aforesaid fact it is clear, that in order to achieve and thrive his dream project shook his hands with Sri Syed Waseem Rizvi, who has manufactured a sham and a parallel claim by Imamuddin Qureshi Waqf allegedly registered as Shia Central Waqf Board in the year 2003.

SUBMISSIONS ADVANCED BY LEARNED COUNSEL FOR THE STATE

14. Per contra, Sri M.C. Chaturvedi, learned Additional Advocate General for the State and Sri Farman Ali Naqvi, learned Senior Advocate have spearheaded the submissions for the State of U.P. as well as for the informant. At the outset, attention of the Court has been drawn to the Section 36 and 37 of The Waqf Act, 1995 (Chapter - V), Registration of [AUQAF], which is quoted herein below :

"36. Registration.--

(1) Every [waqf], whether created before or after the commencement of this Act, shall be registered at the office of the Board.

(8) In the case of [auqaf] created before the commencement of this Act, every application for registration shall be made, within three months from such commencement and in the case of [auqaf] created after such commencement, within three months from the date of the creation of the [waqf]:

(a) the class of the [waqf];

(b) the name of the mutawalli;

(d) particulars of all [waqf] properties and all title deeds and documents relating thereto;

(e) particulars of the scheme of administration and the scheme of expenditure at the time of registration;

(f) such other particulars as may be provided by regulations.

(2) The Board shall forward the details of the properties entered in the register of auqaf to the concerned land record office having jurisdiction of the waqf property.]

[(3) On receipt of the details as mentioned in sub-section (2), the land record office shall, according to established procedure, either make necessary entries in the land record or communicate, within a period of six months from the date of registration of waqf property under section 36, its objections to the Board.]

15. Sri Chaturvedi, learned Additional Advocate General at the outset has drawn attention of the Court to the Proviso to Section 36(2) of the Waqf Act by making a mention that the registration shall be made by mutwalli provided that such application may be made by the waqf board or his descendants or a beneficiary of the waqf or any Muslim belonging to the "SECT" to which waqf belongs. Thus, it has been argued that the property once owned by Imamuddin Qureshi admittedly a person belonging to "Sunni Sect' of the Muslims community, now, it is the applicant who has to explain as to how and under what circumstances he managed to get the same registered in U.P. Shia Central Waqf Board, when its alleged settler was Sunni.

16. It is canvassed by learned Additional Advocate General that the original waqf deed by the alleged settler of Imamuddin Qureshi was never made available while making its registration which is mandatory. It is further contended that as mentioned above that for registration of document has to be routed through by the mutwalli of the Waqf. The mutwalli "Masood Khan' of this Waqf was appointed on 20.3.2015. Thus, this is an apparent anomaly, wherein a mutwalli is being appointed in the year 2015 and the aforesaid waqf has already been registered in the year 2003. In addition to this it is argued that the creation of waqf and the migration of its Waqif of that Waqf in question to Pakistan, does not grant any right to anyone to usurp the waqf property or for that matter of fact, an enemy property. Said action with regard to either status of waqf or the status of evacuee property has to be decided by the authorities concerned of the respective departments in accordance with law and no other person whosoever the higher authority may be utilize or use his position to manipulate government record. It is urged that the person of a rank of Cabinet Minister of the Govt. of U.P. i.e. the applicant, has got a greater responsibility to act in a more sensible, responsible and diligent way, which is not expected from a person of his stature. It is just for his personal gain to fulfill his dream in the shape of University. Moreover, taking to be true on the face value, that the waqf was created in 1943 remained abandoned uptil 2003, that is to say about 70 years, and all of a sudden a rank stranger Masood Khan, stooge of the applicant, sought appointment as mutwalli, woke up from slumber and got the appointment on the basis of an application dated 16.3.2015. The appointment of mutwalli in the year 2015 is simply an eye-wash and just within one day without holding any inquiry about him he was appointed as mutwalli just to serve the aim and objective of his master i.e. Mohd. Azam Khan, a cabinet minister.

17. It is further submitted by learned counsel for the State that as per revenue record of 1359 Fasli is shown as a land in dispute in the name of "Waqif Imamuddin Qureshi" with a remark that the land in dispute is under the management of "Custodian" and since then the status of property in question remained as such.

18. Sri S.F.A. Naqvi, learned counsel further pointed certain glaring abnormalities which touches the core issue that, when the waqf property has been declared as a evacuee property then aforesaid correspondences were made to the competent authorities to bring disputed plots within the area of so called Waqf of Imamuddin Qureshi. All the issues raised by Sri Naqvi has already been pointed out by Sri MC Chaturvedi, learned AAG and it would be simply reiteration of the arguments.

19. All the acts, referred to above, were maneuvered and conducted in a well planned and settled way, just to grab the disputed property by creating a "sham and parallel dispute' regarding the title and ownership of the Enemy property left by Imamuddin Qureshi from the year 2003 itself. Audacity of the officers, who were dancing to the tunes of the then Cabinet Minister Mohammad Azam Khan, started playing unnaturally by appointing a Mutwalli of the Waqf in question vide its resolution dated 17.3.2015. Even in the year 2015, again a representation was made by the Mutwalli before the District Magistrate/Additional Survey Commissioner of Waqf, Rampur for carrying out necessary correction in the name of Waqf in the relevant revenue record. In response to the same, the Additional District Magistrate/Additional Survey Commissioner Waqf, Rampur vide letter dated 15.4.2015 informed that the property in dispute, measuring 13.842 hectares and 2 biswas, has been declared as "enemy property' vide notification dated 18.7.2006, out of which 9.111 hectares of the land has been leased out to the Border Security Force, remaining land has been recorded as Chak Road Naveen Parti and in the name of other persons. Thus the land in issue, for the purposes of this bail application, is land admeasuring area 13.842 hectare over Gata No.45 surrounded by University from three sides and there is approach road for the fourth side at village Singhan Khera.

20. After miserably failing to establish any good title or its genuine source over the property in dispute i.e. 13.842 hectares Village Singhan Khera, Sadar, Rampur, as a last resort, learned counsel for the applicant has floated a legal fantasy in order to snatch the property and staking claim over the said land by a legal fantasy and fiction by making a mention that the property surrendered in the name of religion "ONCE A WAQF PROPERTY IS ALWAYS A WAQF PROPERTY" as an ultimate weapon. It has been mentioned that way back in the year 1943 when the settler has himself created Imamuddin Waqf toards the said property since then the said property belongs to Almighty "Allah" and thus it cannot be declared as Enemy Property, despite of the fact that its waqif/settler has already been migrated to Pakistan and relinquished the citizenship of India.

21. It is further alleged that the applicant cleverly tailored a sham and a parallel claim against custodian of Enemy Property left by ex-citizen of India who migrated to Pakistan. Of late, getting the said Imamuddin Qureshi Waqf registered under U.P. Shia Central Waqf Board over the land in question the applicant Azam Khan, at a relevant point of time i.e. 2003, crookedly and deceitfully, created a parallel religious body in the name of Imamuddin Qureshi Waqf in connivance of the said Syed Waseem Rizvi, to stake claim over the property in question vis-a-vis Administrator, Enemy Property, Mumbai, who was managing the same and finds place its name since the days of partition. This is a naked attempt of misusing the power and his position by the applicant as a cabinet minister who wants that let these bodies may fight for their respective claim over the property in dispute and taking the advantage of their "shadow fighting" he would enjoy the land in question, without any authority of law.

At this juncture, Sri S.F.A. Naqvi, learned counsel has advanced his submission by making a mention that applicant was working in twin capacity, as a Chancellor of the University as well as a Cabinet Minister of the State Government. There is clear cut case of "conflict of interest' whereby in order to fulfill his dream project he has compromised his position as a Cabinet Minister and now is distancing and disassociating himself from the land in question as well as from the Imamuddin Qureshi Waqf as well as its registration process.

22. As mentioned above, Sri Imran Ullah in no uncertain terms has admitted the very fact that Maulana Ali Jauhar Trust or the University has got no title even for the namesake over the property in dispute. He admits that the University as well as Trust without any title or authority but by virtue of fact that the University has purchased the adjacent lands, unauthorizedly encircled its right over the property in dispute. Neither any authority nor the custodian of the enemy property has ever allotted any property in question in favour of University except in the year 2006, a lease was granted, though within a month of its issuance, withdrawn by the custodian/administrator. As mentioned above this is a novel way to trespass/usurp the land and use it for the purposes of University.

23. This Court is delighted to refer that the consensus of the Muslims, Allaah says (interpretation of the meaning) that Ghasb (to seize something wrongfully) is Haraam, and according to Fiqh terminology, taking the property of others wrongfully, is Haraam.

Furthermore, the Prophet (peace and blessings of Allaah be upon him) said: "Whoever seizes a handspan of land unlawfully, will surround him to the depth of seven earths."

Therefore, the perception that "once waqf property is always waqf property, it vests in Almighty and the same cannot be declared as enemy property, merely on the ground that Waqif/settler has migrated to Pakistan after partition", is completely misconceived according to the Muslim dogma itself.

24. Interestingly, in paragraph 29 of the affidavit of bail application the applicant Mohammad Azam Khan has contended that Mohammad Ali Jauhar University, at no point of time, has got any concern with regard to alleged dispute regarding title over the land in dispute between the Shia Central Waqf Board on one hand and the Custodian of the Enemy Property on the other hand. An automatic question cropped up to be answered by the applicant, as to who is the Mutwalli of the Trust and when he was appointed? From where and which source the applicant is staking his claim over the disputed property? It is also true that the legality, veracity, validity and the authenticity of the said trust i.e. Trust Imamuddin, which was allegedly registered with U.P. Shia Central Waqf Board in the year 2003 has not been unseated by any Court of law. Playing on the anomalous situation, the applicant being main author of the said University, encircled the property-in-question, in the University campus. Maulana Ali Jauhar Trust/University has to explain the source and their good title of the land from which they acquired and encircled it within the precinct of the University?

25. In paragraph 37 of the affidavit of bail application, it has been mentioned that the Waqf deed dated 23.8.1943 as well as the entries made in the Waqf Board's register, still hold good and has not been challenged before any of the competent authority/court of law/ tribunal, neither the same has been declared as null and void till date. There is no order of any Tribunal/Court of competent authority whereby the Waqf deed dated 23.8.1943 has been termed as forged or invalid or void document. It is alleged that during the investigation, the authenticity, veracity and validity of the said deed was questioned and unanimously has been declared as a forged document. There is no handwriting expert opinion before any court of law/competent authority/tribunal by which the aforesaid Waqf deed as well as the entries made in the Waqf Board register in the year 2003, was declared as forged and fabricated.

26. On that other hand, it has been contended by learned counsel for the applicant that apart from these factual issues, the applicant is a septuagenarian, suffering from various old age related serious ailments, was recently critically ill and was admitted in a hospital, who anyhow could save his life, but still in a pathetic health condition. He is a law abiding citizen and has been targeted by different rival political parties, the sky has fallen on him on account of political vendetta.

27. Per contra, Sri Syed Farman Ahmad Naqvi, learned Senior Advocate and other counsels appearing for opposite parties have filed their respective written arguments, by which they have refuted the submissions advanced by the defence tooth and nail by hammering the authenticity and legality of alleged Waqf Deed constituted by Imamuddin Qureshi. In para-4 of the counter affidavit filed by Devendra Kumar,

S.I., P.S.-Azeemnagar, District -Rampur, it is mentioned that vide notification No.12/02/65 dated 18.12.1977 SO No. 5511 and in the revenue record, name of Imamuddin Qureshi was recorded with possession as custodian since 1359 Fasli. It is alleged that the applicants named above, for the purposes of attaining their objective and fulfill their dream project "Mohammad Ali Jauhar University" with only design to usurp the landed property ad-measuring area 13.842 hectare over 45 Gata. Mohd. Azam Khan, the applicant was having an evil eye over this land from very inception and he wanted to grab the property by any means, by hook or crook. In order to achieve his target and to oblige the applicant who at the relevant point of time was powerful Minister of Urban Planning & Development, has colluded with Mr. Syed Wasim Rizvi, the then Chairman of Shia Central Waqf Board. The applicant and Sri Syed Wasim Rizvi exerted pressure upon the concerned officials/officers after getting a green signal from the higher ministry and the Chairman of Waqf Board, the junior officers started dancing to their tunes. It has been argued by Sri Syed Farman Ahmad Naqvi, learned Senior Counsel that it was an intentional creation of a dispute of title of the land in dispute by Shia Central Waqf Board by creating a parallel claim over the land. Admittedly after the enactment of Evacuee Property Act, 1950, the property left by a Muslim gentleman, who surrenders the citizenship of India and migrated to Pakistan, his property by legal implication would be turned into Enemy/Evacuee Property and the same is being administered by the provisions of the Administration of Evacuee Property Act, 1950. Learned Senior Counsel in no uncertain terms, in his submissions, has blasted the very genesis of alleged Waqf Deed of Imamuddin Qureshi settled by him in 1943, over which the entire castle of argument was raised by Sri Imran Ullah, learned counsel for the applicant, who tried to justify the alleged possession of the landed property in dispute by the applicant. In paras 5, 6 and 7 of the counter affidavit filed on behalf of State, it has been mentioned that the alleged "Waqf Deed' of 1943, whose settler was Mr. Imamuddin Qureshi dated 23.6.1943, the address is shown as "Imamuddin Qureshi son of Badrauddin, Sakin Asharfabad Deendayal Road, Lucknow". It was pointed out that at that relevant point of time i.e. in year 1943 there was no road in existence, namely, "Deen Dayal Road, Lucknow' and on this it was indicated by learned counsel for the opposite party, that this itself clearly indicates that the deed-in-question is, per se, a tissue of utter falsehood, a frivolous document and forgery committed on the record. In addition to this, number of other falsity over the alleged deed were pointed out. The Court does not wish to express its opinion about the authenticity and legality of above deed in question either ways at this juncture of adjudicating the bail application.

28. In para-15 of the counter affidavit it has been mentioned that the applicant was bent upon to fulfill his dream project in the name and style of "Mohammad Ali Jauhar University" made all efforts to illegally use of "Enemy Property' of Gata No.45 having area 13.842 hectare, just to extend the boundary of Jauhar University with the help of the Shia Central Waqf Board, Lucknow and with their collusion the Photostat of the forged document of Waqf Deed of 1943 and got it registered without producing its original record, and thereafter, exerting his influence he got appointed his close associate, Masood Khan as a Mutwalli of aforesaid *Waqf*s. Sri Syed Farman Ahmad Naqvi, learned counsel for opposite party strenuously argued that this is a naked and blanket effort of misuse of power and position just to create an unwarranted controversy by inserting and branding the land in dispute Gata No.45 having total area 13.842 hectare as a Waqf property. For this, as mentioned above, it was argued that the applicant cleverly used the old dictum of Muslim Personal Law "once a property of Waqf, is always the property of Waqf". It is further contended by learned Senior Counsel that creation of this Waqf and its registration is nothing a camouflage and hoaks by the applicant, just to create a parallel claim with regard to an "Enemy Property' and thereafter snatched the property for its own purpose.

29. Interestingly, it is also evident that after creating this parallel claim or rather disputing the title over the property. Till date the ownership and the title over the property has not been judicially acknowledged by any competent court of law. Taking advantage of this void, there rises a million dollar question as to who and under what circumstances the property in question was encircled within the boundary of Mohammad Ali Jauhar University.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

30. After hearing the rival submissions at length to the satisfaction of respective counsels, the Court has to adjudicate the allegations and the material collected during investigation to substantiate those allegations and the defence.

31. Sri M.C. Chaturvedi, learned AAG has relied upon the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Naveen Singh vs State of U.P. 2021 6 SCC 191.

"12.3. However, the High Court has not at all considered that the accused is charged for the offences under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471, 120B IPC and the maximum punishment for offence under Section 467IPC is 10 years and fine/imprisonment for life and even for the offence under Section 471 IPC the similar punishment. Apart from that forging and/or manipulating the court record and getting benefit of such forged/manipulated court record is a very serious offence. If the Court record is manipulated and/or forged, it will hamper the administration of justice. Forging/manipulating the Court record and taking the benefit of the same stands on altogether a different footing than forging/manipulating other documents between two individuals. Therefore, the High Court ought to have been more cautious/serious in granting the bail to a person who is alleged to have forged/manipulated the court record and taken the benefit of such manipulated and forged court record more particularly when he has been chargesheeted having found prima facie case and the charge has been framed."

32. Deriving the strength from aforesaid judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court, it is urged by learned A.A.G. that forging and manipulating the court record and getting the benefit of such forged/manipulated record is a very serious offence and it will hamper the administration of justice and it was urged that High Court has been more conscious while granting bail to a person who has forged document and has churned the benefits out of those forged and manipulated document.

33. In reply to it, Sri Imran Ullah learned counsel for the applicant upon taking into various factors such as seriousness of offence, the character of the evidence, the circumstances which are the peculiar to the accused, reasonable apprehension of witnesses being tampered with, larger interest of the public or the State and similar other factors. It is the solemn duty of the Court to decide the bail applicant by a reasoned order, based on bonafides of the applicant in the light of prevailing facts and circumstances. In this regard the Hon'ble Apex Court has pronounced catena of judgments and to start with, State of Maharashtra vs. Sitaram Popat Vital, AIR 2004 SC 4258; Ram Govind Upadhyay vs. Sudarshan Singh and Ors, AIR 2002 SC 1475; Prahalad Singh Bhati vs. N.C.T. Delhi and Ors, AIR 2001 SC 1444; deserve special attention while deciding the present bail application. Cumulatively, if the applicant is being given liberty the factors which are to be taken into consideration while considering and deciding bail application are :

(i) The nature of accusation and severity of punishment in case of convictin and the nature of supporting evidence,

(ii) Reasonable apprehension of tempering of the witness or apprehension of threat to the complainant,

(iv) Prima facie satisfaction of the Court in support of charge,

(v) Court has to take into account whether there is or is not a reasonable ground for believing that the applicant has committed the offence alleged against him,

(vi) Character, means, standing and status of applicant,

(vii) The likelihood of the offence being continued or repeated on the assumption that the accused is a guilty of having committed the offence in past.

34. In the recent judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sanjay Chandra vs Central Bureau of Investigation (2012) 1 SCC 49, has held :

"The object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. Deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment, unless it can be required to ensure that an accused person will stand his trial when called upon. The courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction, and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and duly found guilty. From the earliest times, it was appreciated that detention in custody pending completion of trial could be a cause of great hardship. From time to time, necessity demands that some un-convicted persons should be held in custody pending trial to secure their attendance at the trial but in such cases, `necessity' is the operative test. In this country, it would be quite contrary to the concept of personal liberty enshrined in the Constitution that any person should be punished in respect of any matter, upon which, he has not been convicted or that in any circumstances, he should be deprived of his liberty upon only the belief that he will tamper with the witnesses if left at liberty, save in the most extraordinary circumstances. Apart from the question of prevention being the object of a refusal of bail, one must not lose sight of the fact that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any Court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of former conduct whether the accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an un-convicted person for the purpose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson."

In Manoranjana Sinh Alias Gupta vs CBI, 2017 (5) SCC 218, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under :

"This Court in Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (2012) 1 SCC 40, also involving an economic offence of formidable magnitude, while dealing with the issue of grant of bail, had observed that deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment unless it is required to ensure that an accused person would stand his trial when called upon and that the courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and found guilty. It was underlined that the object of bail is neither punitive nor preventive. This Court sounded a caveat that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of a conduct whether an accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the purpose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson. It was enunciated that since the jurisdiction to grant bail to an accused pending trial or in appeal against conviction is discretionary in nature, it has to be exercised with care and caution by balancing the valuable right of liberty of an individual and the interest of the society in general. It was elucidated that the seriousness of the charge, is no doubt one of the relevant considerations while examining the application of bail but it was not only the test or the factor and that grant or denial of such privilege, is regulated to a large extent by the facts and circumstances of each particular case. That detention in custody of under-trial prisoners for an indefinite period would amount to violation of Article 21 of the Constitution was highlighted."

The Hon'ble Apex Court in Prashanta Kumar Sarkar v. Ashis Chatterjee and another (2010) 14 SCC 496 has laid down the following principles to be kept in mind while deciding bail applications :

(i) whether there is any prima facie or reasonable ground to believe that the accused had committed the offence;

(ii) nature and gravity of the accusation;

(iii) severity of the punishment in the event of conviction;

(iv) danger of the accused absconding or fleeing, if released on bail;

(v) character, behaviour, means, position and standing of the accused;

(vi) likelihood of the offence being repeated;

(vii) reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being influenced; and

(viii) danger, of course, of justice being thwarted by grant of bail."

35. Now commensurating with the guidelines as settled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, no doubt that applicant at the relevant point of time was a powerful minister and an uncrowned monarch of the State of Uttar Pradesh during the past regime. He was enjoying number two position in the State hierarchy after the Chief Minister. It is canvassed by the learned counsel that after change of establishment in the State of U.P. in the year 2017 on account of political vendetta, volley of criminal cases of different varieties have been pasted against him.

36. The applicant is an old man of 72 years, a senior citizen, suffering from number of age related ailments; like hyper tension and other severe problems. The Court is aware that recently in Covid pandemic he remained in the hospital for almost a month and his kidneys and other vital organs were got adversely affected. Charge sheet has already been submitted in the matter and it is also given to understand that in most of the cases in which the prosecution were initiated against him, he has been bailed out.

37. The Court is failing to express its view that the applicant is somewhere or the other is trying to impress upon the court that he has left no stone unturned in establishing an University to spread the quality education among the youth in the state of Uttar Pradesh especially Rohilkhand area. No doubt, the object is laudable one but it is expected from a minister who claims himself to be a visionary while establishing the University, but while going through the entire case, the Court is at loss, puzzled and wonder that to thrive his dream project in the name of Mohammad Ali Jauhar University the applicant is trading in a smug manner. It is not only the object which has to be pious one but its means, ways and paths too should be aboveboard and transparent. If a person of a cabinet minister uses a guileful practice or does any act in a slip short and shabby way or connive with deceitful means, then it erodes the confidence of public and the very pious object of the said dream project got spoiled and vitiated.

38. While surfing the motto to raise any educational University, this Court visited Winston Churchil's opinion, which refers as under:

"The first duty of a University is to teach wisdom, not trade, character, not technicalities"

Herein, there seems that the applicant in disguise of raising University is trading and usurping technicalities to grab an evacuee property by oblique means.

Our father of the nation, Mahatma Gandhi, also categorically stated in strong words about achieving higher goals adopting reprehensible means that "I will not let anyone walk through my mind with their dirty feet."

The applicant to grab the land unlawfully has ashramite himself under the umbrella of religion, wherein he pleads that "the Waqf property is the property of Almighty'.

Whereas according to the great thinker and philosopher Seneca "Religion is regarded by the common people as true, by the wise as false, and by rulers as useful."

The applicant, intoxicated on the throne of the power and position misused his authority in a most indecent manner, that's why it is said that" "If absolute power corrupts absolutely, where does that leave God?"

39. There is yet another aspect of the issue i.e. an old saying "power corrupts a man and absolute power corrupts absolutely." An observation that a person's sense of morality lessens as his power increases. This statement has been made by Lord Acton, a British Historian in the late 19th and early 20th century. This doctrine still holds good. Absolute power morally destroys the nature of a person and fills him with destructive pride. If a person save himself from abuse of power, he is humble a person. Explaining further that those who are in power often do not have a people best interest in mind. They are primarily focused on their own benefits and they may abuse their position or power to help themselves.

In the instant case too the applicant being a cabinet minister all powerful person dreamt to establish a University of which he was a perpetual Chancellor like a personal fiefdom and for this he went to any extent adopting all legal, illegal, fair and foul means.

Being a public figure, the applicant has a bundle of responsibility over his shoulder and he cannot afford to shut his eyes towards those means which he has adopted just to achieve his objective, which falls within the realm and ambit of an offence.

However, as bail is a right of any accused and jail is exception, therefore, on the humanitarian ground this Court keeping in view the applicant's deteriorating health, old age and the period undergone in jail, is considering the application of bail be allowed by imposing following conditions.

(i) As mentioned above, the applicant himself has distanced and delinked with the property in dispute though at present lying in the campus of University whose reference is given in paragraphs 8 (vii), 9, 10 and 11 of this judgment, the District Magistrate, Rampur being a representative of Custodian/Administrator of Evacuee/Enemy Property is directed to hold a measurement of the landed property in dispute which is center dispute of this issue admesuring area 13.842 hectares village Singhan Khera, Pargana and Tehsil-Sadar, District Rampur and thereafter raise a boundary wall and barbed wire around it and take the actual physical possession of the property in dispute on behalf of Administrator of Evacuee Property Mumbai latest by 30.6.2022.

In this exercise the the local Revenue authorities, University authorities would fully cooperate and shall not cause any hindrance or obstacle while carrying out aforesaid direction. Since the applicant Mohd. Azam Khan is already in jail for almost two and half years, he shall be released on interim bail during this exercise in aforesaid case crime by furnishing a personal bond of Rs.1 lac and two sureties of the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned. After completion of aforesaid exercise to the satisfaction of the District Magistrate, Rampur and after taking his final nod in the aforesaid drill, then only his interim bail would be converted into regular bail on the same terms and conditions and on the same bonds as furnished earlier. It is expected that the applicant would also render his desired cooperation in completing this object during his release on interim bail. The Custodian Evacuee Property Mumbai is requested to hand over the property in dispute to some para military forces for their training purposes, as already done in the year 2014. The interim bail/regular bail shall be subject to the following further conditions:

(i) THE APPLICANT SHALL SURRENDER HIS PASSPORT ON THE DAY OF HIS RELEASE BEFORE CONCERNED COURT AND ITS FATE AND FUTURE WOULD BE DECIDED AT THE END OF TRIAL.

ABUSE OF LIBERTY OF BAIL AND PASS ORDERS IN ACCORDANCE WITH LAW.

(iii) THE APPLICANT SHALL REMAIN PRESENT BEFORE THE TRIAL COURT ON EACH DATE FIXED, EITHER PERSONALLY OR THROUGH HIS COUNSEL. IN CASE OF HIS ABSENCE, WITHOUT SUFFICIENT CAUSE, THE TRIAL COURT MAY PROCEED AGAINST HIM UNDER SECTION 229-A IPC.

(iv) IN CASE, THE APPLICANT MISUSES THE LIBERTY OF BAIL DURING TRIAL AND IN ORDER TO SECURE HIS PRESENCE PROCLAMATION UNDER SECTION 82 CR.P.C., MAY BE ISSUED AND IF APPLICANT FAILS TO APPEAR BEFORE THE COURT ON THE DATE FIXED IN SUCH PROCLAMATION, THEN, THE TRIAL COURT SHALL INITIATE PROCEEDINGS AGAINST HIM, IN ACCORDANCE WITH LAW, UNDER SECTION 174-A IPC.

(v) THE APPLICANT SHALL REMAIN PRESENT, IN PERSON, BEFORE THE TRIAL COURT ON DATES FIXED FOR (1) OPENING OF THE CASE, (2) FRAMING OF CHARGE AND (3) RECORDING OF STATEMENT UNDER SECTION 313 CR.P.C. IF IN THE OPINION OF THE TRIAL COURT ABSENCE OF THE APPLICANT IS DELIBERATE OR WITHOUT SUFFICIENT CAUSE, THEN IT SHALL BE OPEN FOR THE TRIAL COURT TO TREAT SUCH DEFAULT AS ABUSE OF LIBERTY OF BAIL AND PROCEED AGAINST HIM IN ACCORDANCE WITH LAW.

(vi) THE TRIAL COURT MAY MAKE ALL POSSIBLE EFFORTS/ENDEAVOUR AND TRY TO CONCLUDE THE TRIAL WITHIN A PERIOD OF ONE YEAR AFTER THE RELEASE OF THE APPLICANT.

In case of breach of any of the above conditions, it shall be a ground for cancellation of bail.

40. The present order in this bail application may sound like a decree of the civil court dealing and deciding the title over the property, if not done so, the Court is failing in its duty or seems like providing a shelter and patronage to a rank trespasser and usurper over the property in dispute as per own admission.

41. It is made clear that observations made in granting interim bail/regular bail to the applicant shall not in any way affect the learned trial Judge in forming his own independent opinion based on the testimony of the witnesses and decide the issue objectively.

Trial Court is requested to hear the matter on top most priority and decide the same latest by within one year from the date of production of certified copy of the order without granting any adjournment to either of the parties.

42. Since the bail application has been decided under extra-ordinary circumstances, thus in the interest of justice following additional conditions are being imposed just to facilitate the applicant to be released on bail forthwith. Needless to mention that these additional conditions are imposed to cope with emergent condition-:

1. The applicant shall be enlarged on bail on execution of personal bond without sureties till normal functioning of the courts is restored. The accused will furnish sureties to the satisfaction of the court below within a month after normal functioning of the courts are restored.

2. The party shall file computer generated copy of such order downloaded from the official website of High Court Allahabad.

3. The computer generated copy of such order shall be self attested by the counsel of the party concerned.

4. The concerned Court/Authority/Official shall verify the authenticity of such computerized copy of the order from the official website of High Court Allahabad and shall make a declaration of such verification in writing.

43. However, it is made clear that any wilful violation of above conditions by the applicant, shall have serious repercussion on his/her bail so granted by this Court and the trial court is at liberty to cancel the bail, after recording the reasons for doing so, in the given case of any of the condition mentioned above.

6. Sabir Vs Bhoora @ Nadeem & anr. , Criminal Appeal No.227 of 2022

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. Heard Shri P.K. Singh, learned counsel for applicant and Shri Om Prakash, learned Additional Government Advocate for State.

2. Applicant - Hargovind has preferred second bail application, who is facing trial in connection with Case Crime No.07 of 2019, under Section 376-D, 342, 323, 120B of Indian Penal Code and Section 3/4 of POCSO Act, Police Station - Nibohara, District - Agra.

3. The first bail application was rejected by a reasoned order on facts as well as on Law. The operative portion of order dated 13.7.2021 is reproduced hereinafter :-

"8. The allegations against the applicant are consistent in FIR, statement of victim recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. and 164 Cr.P.C. that during entire occurrence of rape he remained at the place of occurrence. He not only locked the room from outside but repeatedly told co-accused to do it fast. Co-accused Veeru also joined him. Section 376 (D) IPC states that "Where a woman is raped by one or more persons constituting a group or acting in furtherance of a common intention, each of those persons shall be deemed to have committed the offence of rape".

9. Considering the gravity of offence, no case of bail is made out. Accordingly, the bail application is rejected."

4. Shri P.K. Singh, learned counsel for applicant has vehemently argued that while considering first bail application, certain material aspects of the case were not considered such as similarly situated co-accused Veeru @ Virendra was granted bail by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.30684 of 2019, vide order dated 7.8.2019, prior to the order passed in first bail application of applicant.

5. Learned counsel further submits that applicant is a student and presently, he is pursing M.Phil. The allegation that he has closed the door from outside and remained there, is not only improbable as victim has no opportunity to identify from inside the room. Therefore, applicant is also entitled for bail on the ground of parity.

6. Learned counsel for applicant also relied upon a judgment passed by the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Nanha s/o Nabhan Khan vs. State of U.P; 1992 LawSuit (All) 219 wherein, the Division Bench has decided two questions referred to the Bench and in support of his submission, he read out paragraph Nos. 58, 59 and 61, which are mentioned hereinafter :-

"58. The word 'parity' means the state or condition being equal or on a level; equality; equality of rank or status (See Shorter Oxford English Dictionary 1936 Ed.). In other words it means being placed at the same footing. All the accused of a case always do not stand on the same footing. While considering bail of different accused the court has to find out whether they stand on the same footing or not. Even if role assigned to various accused is same yet they may stand on different footing. The case of Cap. Jagjeet Singh (supra) is an illustration wherein the Supreme Court distinguished the case of Capt. Jagjeet Singh on the ground that he was in touch with foreign agency and leaking out secrets. The Supreme Court in the case of Gur Charan Singh vs. Delhi Administration, AIR 1978 SC 179 : (1978 Cri LJ 129) laid down that the considerations for grant of bail are inter alia the position and status of the accused with reference to the victim and the witnesses; likelihood of the accused; fleeing from justice; of repeating offence; of jeopardising his own life, being faced with grim prospect of possible conviction in the case; of tampering with witnesses; and the like. These are additional factors which are to be judged in the case of individual accused and it may make the cases of different accused distinguishable from each accused. At the same time if there is no real distinction between the individual case of accused the principle of parity comes into play and if bail is granted to one accused it should also be granted to the other accused whose case stands on identical footing.

59. None the less the principle of grant of bail on parity cannot be allowed to be carried to an absurd or illogical conclusion so as to put a judge in a tight and straight jacket to grant bail automatically. There may be case which may require an exception; where a judge may not simply take a different view from the judge who granted bail earlier to a co-accused but where the conscience of the judge revolts in granting bail. In such a situation the judge may choose to depart from the rule recording his reasons. However, such cases would be very few.

61. My answer to the points referred to is that if on examination of a given case it transpires that the case of the applicant before court is identical, similar to the accused, on facts and circumstances who has been bailed out, then the desirability of consistency will require that such an accused should also be released on bail. (Exceptional cases as discussed above apart). As regards the second part of the question, answer is that it is not at all necessary for an accused to state in his bail application that the bail application of a co-accused has been rejected previously.

7. Learned Additional Government Advocate has opposed the submission of bail and submits that while rejecting first bail application, this Court has considered all the relevant factors as well as 'Law on bail' and while taking into consideration, statements recorded under Section 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. and that applicant has actively participated in offence by locking the room from outside as well as repeatedly asked the applicant to do the act of rape quickly. The Court has also taken note of Section 376(D) of Indian Penal Code and accordingly, dismissed the first bail application. He further submits that bail order, whereby, co-accused Veeru @ Virendra is granted bail is bereft of reasoning, therefore, it cannot be relied upon as well as parity alone is not a ground to grant bail and there is no subsequent event brought on record before this Court to allow the second bail application.

8. Shri P.K. Singh, learned counsel for applicant has argued the first bail application as well as present bail application. The arguments of learned counsel for applicant are noted in paragraph no.5 of order dated 13.7.2021, which are mentioned hereinafter :-

"5. Learned counsels for the applicant submitted that the age of the victim is determined to be 16 years as per radiology medical report. It is further submitted that during medical examination no injury was found on private part of the victim. Victim has narrated a different story in her statement recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. He further submitted that there is no allegation of rape on the applicant. Therefore, applicant is liable to be released on bail."

9. The arguments of learned counsel for applicant in support of prayer, made in second bail application are of two folds. Firstly, he argued that co-accused Veeru @ Virendra was granted bail by this Court on 7.8.2019 i.e. even before first bail application of applicant was rejected, however, the same was not brought on record of first bail application and secondly, he relied upon concept of 'desirability of consistency' as held in Nanha Singh (Supra). In this regard, it is essential to consider the reasons given by the co-ordinate Bench, while granting bail to co-accused Veeru @ Virendra that :-

"After considering the rival submissions noted hereinabove and the material brought on record, without expressing any opinion on the merits of the case and considering the facts and circumstances of the case, I am of the opinion that the applicant is entitled to be released on bail."

10. The Apex Court in a recent judgment passed in the case of Manoj Kumar Khokhar vs. State of Rajasthan and Another; 2022 SCC Online 30, has retreated the 'Law on bail' as well as requirement of 'Reasoned Order' while rejecting or accepting the bail application. The Apex Court has followed the judgments passed in Ramesh Bhawan Rathod vs. Vishanbhai Hirabhai Makwana (Koli) & Another; 2021 6 SCC 230; Bhupendra Singh vs. State of Rajasthan and Another (Criminal Appeal No.1279 of 2021); Mahipal vs. Rajesh Kumar; 2020 (2) SCC 118; and held that:-

"18. (l) The most recent judgment of this Court on the aspect of application of mind and requirement of judicious exercise of discretion in arriving at an order granting bail to the accused is in the case of Brijmani Devi vs. Pappu Kumar and Anr. - Criminal Appeal No. 1663/2021 disposed of on 17th December, 2021, wherein a three Judge Bench of this Court, while setting aside an unreasoned and casual order of the High Court granting bail to the accused, observed as follows:

"While we are conscious of the fact that liberty of an individual is an invaluable right, at the same time while considering an application for bail Courts cannot lose sight of the serious nature of the accusations against an accused and the facts that have a bearing in the case, particularly, when the accusations may not be false, frivolous or vexatious in nature but are supported by adequate material brought on record so as to enable a Court to arrive at a prima facie conclusion. While considering an application for grant of bail a prima facie conclusion must be supported by reasons and must be arrived at after having regard to the vital facts of the case brought on record. Due consideration must be given to facts suggestive of the nature of crime, the criminal antecedents of the accused, if any, and the nature of punishment that would follow a conviction vis-a-vis the offence/s alleged against an accused."

19. On the aspect of the duty to accord reasons for a decision arrived at by a court, or for that matter, even a quasi judicial authority, it would be useful to refer to a judgment of this Court in Kranti Associates Private Limited & Anr. vs. Masood Ahmed Khan & Ors. - (2010) 9 SCC 496, wherein after referring to a number of judgments this Court summarised at paragraph 47 the law on the point. The relevant principles for the purpose of this case are extracted as under:

"(a) Insistence on recording of reasons is meant to serve the wider principle of justice that justice must not only be done it must also appear to be done as well.

(b) Recording of reasons also operates as a valid restraint on any possible arbitrary exercise of judicial and quasi judicial or even administrative power.

(c) Reasons reassure that discretion has been exercised by the decision maker on relevant grounds and by disregarding extraneous considerations.

(d) Reasons have virtually become as indispensable a component of a decision making process as observing principles of natural justice by judicial, quasi judicial and even by administrative bodies.

(e) The ongoing judicial trend in all countries committed to rule of law and constitutional governance is in favour of reasoned decisions based on relevant facts. This is virtually the lifeblood of judicial decision making justifying the principle that reason is the soul of justice.

(f) Judicial or even quasi judicial opinions these days can be as different as the judges and authorities who deliver them. All these decisions serve one common purpose which is to demonstrate by reason that the relevant factors have been objectively considered. This is important for sustaining the litigants' faith in the justice delivery system.

(g) Insistence on reason is a requirement for both judicial accountability and transparency.

(h) If a judge or a quasi judicial authority is not candid enough about his/her decision making process then it is impossible to know whether the person deciding is faithful to the doctrine of precedent or to principles of incrementalism.

(i) Reasons in support of decisions must be cogent, clear and succinct. A pretence of reasons or "rubber stamp reasons" is not to be equated with a valid decision making process.

(j) It cannot be doubted that transparency is the sine qua non of restraint on abuse of judicial powers. Transparency in decision making not only makes the judges and decision makers less prone to errors but also makes them subject to broader scrutiny. (See David Shapiro in Defence of Judicial Candor [(1987) 100 Harvard Law Review 731- 37)

(k) In all common law jurisdictions judgments play a vital role in setting up precedents for the future. Therefore, for development of law, requirement of giving reasons for the decision is of the essence and is virtually a part of "due process".

20. Though the aforesaid judgment was rendered in the context of a dismissal of a revision petition by a cryptic order by the National Consumer Disputes Redressal Commission, reliance could be placed on the said judgment on the need to give reasons while deciding a matter.

21. The Latin maxim "cessante ratione legis cessat ipsa lex" meaning "reason is the soul of the law, and when the reason of any particular law ceases, so does the law itself", is also apposite.

22. We have extracted the relevant portions of the impugned order above. At the outset, we observe that the extracted portions are the only portions forming part of the "reasoning" of the High court while granting bail. As noted from the aforecited judgments, it is not necessary for a Court to give elaborate reasons while granting bail particularly when the case is at the initial stage and the allegations of the offences by the accused would not have been crystalised as such. There cannot be elaborate details recorded to give an impression that the case is one that would result in a conviction or, by contrast, in an acquittal while passing an order on an application for grant of bail. However, the Court deciding a bail application cannot completely divorce its decision from material aspects of the case such as the allegations made against the accused; severity of the punishment if the allegations are proved beyond reasonable doubt and would result in a conviction; reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being influenced by the accused; tampering of the evidence; the frivolity in the case of the prosecution; criminal antecedents of the accused; and a prima facie satisfaction of the Court in support of the charge against the accused.

23. Ultimately, the Court considering an application for bail has to exercise discretion in a judicious manner and in accordance with the settled principles of law having regard to the crime alleged to be committed by the accused on the one hand and ensuring purity of the trial of the case on the other.

24. Thus, while elaborate reasons may not be assigned for grant of bail or an extensive discussion of the merits of the case may not be undertaken by the court considering a bail application, an order de hors reasoning or bereft of the relevant reasons cannot result in grant of bail. In such a case the prosecution or the informant has a right to assail the order before a higher forum. As noted in Gurucharan Singh vs. State (Delhi Admn.) 1978 CriLJ 129, when bail has been granted to an accused, the State may, if new circumstances have arisen following the grant of such bail, approach the High Court seeking cancellation of bail under Section 439 (2) of the Cr.P.C. However, if no new circumstances have cropped up since the grant of bail, the State may prefer an appeal against the order granting bail, on the ground that the same is perverse or illegal or has been arrived at by ignoring material aspects which establish a prima facie case against the accused."

11. Fall out of above judgments is that to assign reasons to an order is not only essential but is a safeguard that discretion is exercised in a judicious manner.

12. It is also relevant to mention here a short judgment passed by the Supreme Court in the case of Sabir vs. Bhoora @ Nadeem and Another; Criminal Appeal No.227 of 2022, decided on 15.2.2022 wherein similarly worded order as passed on bail application of co-accused, was set aside considering it to be an unreasoned order. For reference, the order is mentioned hereinafter :-

"On perusal of the impugned orders, what is noteworthy is that in the impugned orders passed by the High Court no reason has been given for grant of bail. In the case of murder (under Section 302 IPC), it is expected that at least some reason would be given while reversing the order of the Trial Court, which had rejected the bail application by a reasoned order. What we notice is that in the impugned orders the High Court, while granting bail, has only stated that "Keeping in view the nature of offence, evidence, complicity of the accused, severity of the punishment, submissions of learned counsel for the parties and without expressing any opinion on the merits of the case, this Court is of the view that the applicant is entitled to be enlarged on bail during the pendency of the trial". In the present case, the nature of the offence is very grave i.e. murder under Section 302 IPC and if such reasons are to be accepted for granting bail, then probably in all cases bail would be granted.

Since we find that no reasons have been given in substance and there is only narration of facts in the orders impugned, we are of the opinion that the orders impugned deserve to be set aside. "

13. In the light of above judgments even considering the "desirability of consistency" as held in Nanha (Supra), the parity of an unreasoned order which is against various judgments, as referred above, passed by the Apex Court, could not an order not supported by adequate reasons could not be weighed over an order passed with certain reasons after considering rival submissions and considering 'Law on bail'. While rejecting the first bail application for the sake of repeat, reasons given by this Court are mentioned hereinafter :-

"8. The allegations against the applicant are consistent in FIR, statement of victim recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. and 164 Cr.P.C. that during entire occurrence of rape he remained at the place of occurrence. He not only locked the room from outside but repeatedly told co-accused to do it fast. Co-accused Veeru also joined him. Section 376 (D) IPC states that "Where a woman is raped by one or more persons constituting a group or acting in furtherance of a common intention, each of those persons shall be deemed to have committed the offence of rape".

14. In order to consider the submissions of learned counsel for applicant on merit, I have gone through the material on record and again perused it carefully. The role of applicant was specifically mentioned in the statement of victim recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. that on fateful day, when victim was going to field along with her animals, Jai chand (co-accused) and Hargovind (present applicant) met her and took her to a room at their tubewell. Applicant - Hargovind locked the room from outside and remained there to guard. Meanwhile, co-accused - Jai Chand committed rape inside the room and specifically asked co-accused to complete the act of rape quickly. After the act of rape, applicant and co-accused left the room, locked from outside. Later on, room was opened by father of the applicant.

15. From the statements recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C., the active role of applicant in commission of offence is apparent. He not only actively participated in abduction but remained with co-accused Jai Chand from starting to conclusion of act and helped co-accused Jai Chand by locking the door from outside and remained there to guard abroad to complete the offence quickly.

16. Considering the law on bail as mentioned in the order passed in first bail application as well as judgments passed by the Supreme Court (referred above) in regard to reasoned order as well as law on parity and desirability of consistency and also considering specific role of applicant in commission of the offence and keeping in view the ingredients of Section 376(D) IPC and offence under Section POCSO Act, no case for bail is made out to allow this second bail application.

17. Accordingly, the present bail application is rejected.

Criminal Law- Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 319- Summoning order- The impugned order passed by the court below under Section 319 CrPC was without considering the material on record. The Investigating Officer has not found any material against the revisionist nor his involvement in the instant case was proved, therefore his name was dropped in the charge sheet. This Court further finds that earlier on the application of the prosecution, the revisionist was ordered to be summoned by the court under Section 319 CrPC by order dated 29.5.1991, but this Court vide order dated 8.10.1991 passed in Criminal Revision No.1014 of 1991 quashed the said order of summoning and as such the revisionist cannot again be summoned on the application of the prosecution. Thereafter, the opposite party no.2, informant filed an application 48-Kha under Section 319 CrPC before the learned Sessions Judge, Etawah, who without going through the legal provisions contained under Section 319 CrPC summoned the revisionist and others for facing the trial vide impugned order dated 22.12.1993. The power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. is a discretionary and extraordinary power, which should be sparingly used only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant as held by the Hon'ble Apex Court.

Settled law that the power under section 319 of the CrPc is to be exercised sparingly and not in a routine manner and after considering the material collected during the course of investigation as well as the testimony of the witnesses during trial. (Para 14)

1. Hardeep Singh Vs St. of Punj & ors, (2014) 3 SCC 92

2. Labhuji Amratji Thakor & ors. Vs The St. of Guj. & anr, 2018 (0) Supreme (SC) 1147

3. Brijendra Singh & ors Vs St. of Raj., (2017) 7 SCC 706

4. Periyasami & ors. Vs S. Nallasamy, (2019) 4 SCC 342

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. This criminal revision has been filed by the revisionist Lalia @ Chandra Prakash against the judgment and order dated 22.12.1993 passed by Sessions Judge, Etawah summoning the revisionist under Section 319 CrPC for facing the trial in ST No.435 of 1990 under Section 307

IPC and further issuing non bailable warrant against the revisionist for his appearance before the court below.

2. Heard Sri Purushottam Dixit, learned counsel for the revisionist, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

3. Brief facts of the case are that on 14.5.1990 an FIR was lodged by the informant Ved Prakash that accused Surendra and others had injured his brother Chandra Prakash by opening fire upon him.

4. Learned counsel for the revisionist submits that after investigation the police has submitted the police report against two accused persons namely Surendra son of Baburam and Babu Ram son of Charan Lal only. However, as against the revisionist no police report was filed and the investigation against him was pending. He further submits that thereafter the learned Sessions Judge without perusing the papers on record and without considering the fact of pendency of investigation against the applicant issued the process in exercise of power under Section 319 CrPC and summoned the revisionist.

5. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that the Investigating Officer has not found any material against the revisionist nor found his involvement in the instant case was proved. Therefore, his name was dropped in the charge sheet.

6. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that earlier on an application of the prosecution, the revisionist was ordered to be summoned by the court below under Section 319 CrPC by order dated 29.5.1991 and the same was challenged before this Court. This Court vide order dated 8.10.1991 passed in Criminal Revision No.1014 of 1991 quashed the said order of summoning and as such the revisionist cannot again be summoned on the application of the prosecution.

7. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that the opposite party no.2, informant filed an application 48-Kha under Section 319 CrPC before the learned Sessions Judge, Etawah, who without going through the legal provisions contained under Section 319 CrPC summoned the revisionist and others for facing the trial vide impugned order dated 22.12.1993.

8. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. is a discretionary and extraordinary power, which should be sparingly used only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. In support of his argument, learned counsel for the revisionist has placed reliance on paragraph 105 and 106 of the Constitution Bench judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Hardeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab & others, (2014) 3 SCC 92. Paragraph 105 and 106 of the aforesaid judgment is quoted as under:-

"105. Power under Section 319 CrPC is a discretionary and an extraordinary power. It is to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. It is not to be exercised because the Magistrate or the Sessions Judge is of the opinion that some other person may also be guilty of committing that offence. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised and not in a casual and cavalier manner.

106. Thus, we hold that though only a prima facie case is to be established from the evidence led before the court, not necessarily tested on the anvil of cross-examination, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. In the absence of such satisfaction, the court should refrain from exercising power under Section 319 CrPC. In Section 319 CrPC the purpose of providing if "it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence" is clear from the words "for which such person could be tried together with the accused". The words used are not "for which such person could be convicted". There is, therefore, no scope for the court acting under Section 319 CrPC to form any opinion as to the guilt of the accused."

9. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that the above Constitution Bench judgment was duly considered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Labhuji Amratji Thakor & others Vs. The State of Gujarat and another, 2018 (0) Supreme (SC) 1147 and has placed reliance on paragraph 9 of the aforesaid judgment which is quoted as under:-

"9. The Constitution Bench has given a caution that power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. is a discretionary and extraordinary power, which should be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. The crucial test, which has been laid down as noted above is "the test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction." The present is a case, where the trial court had rejected the application filed by the prosecution under Section 319 Cr.P.C. Further, in the present case, the complainant in the F.I.R. has not taken the names of the appellants and after investigation in which the statement of victim was also recorded, the names of the appellants did not figure. After carrying investigation, the Charge Sheet was submitted in which the appellants names were also not mentioned as accused. In the statement recorded before the Police, the victim has named only Natuji with whom she admitted having physical relations and who took her and with whom she went out of the house in the night and lived with him on several places. The mother of victim in her statement before the Court herself has stated that victim girl returned to the house after one and a half months. In the statement, before the Court, victim has narrated the entire sequence of events. She has stated in her statement that accused Natuji used to visit her Uncle's house Vishnuji, where she met Natuji. She, however, stated that it was Natuji, who had given her mobile phone. Her parents came to know about she having been given mobile phone by Natuji, then they went to the house of Natuji and threatened Natuji."

10. Learned counsel for the revisionist has further placed reliance on paragraph 13 and 15 of the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Brijendra Singh and others vs. State of Rajasthan, (2017) 7 SCC 706, which is quoted as under:-

"13. In order to answer the question, some of the principles enunciated in Hardeep Singh?s case may be recapitulated:

Power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. can be exercised by the trial court at any stage during the trial, i.e., before the conclusion of trial, to summon any person as an accused and face the trial in the ongoing case, once the trial court finds that there is some evidence against such a person on the basis of which evidence it can be gathered that he appears to be guilty of offence. The evidence herein means the material that is brought before the Court during trial. Insofar as the material/evidence collected by the IO at the stage of inquiry is concerned, it can be utilised for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the Court to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. No doubt, such evidence that has surfaced in examination-in-chief, without cross-examination of witnesses, can also be taken into consideration. However, since it is a discretionary power given to the Court under Section 319 Cr.P.C. and is also an extraordinary one, same has to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrants. The degree of satisfaction is more than the degree which is warranted at the time of framing of the charges against others in respect of whom chargesheet was filed. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the Court that such power should be exercised. It is not to be exercised in a casual or a cavalier manner. The prima facie opinion which is to be formed requires stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity.

15. This record was before the trial court. Notwithstanding the same, the trial court went by the deposition of complainant and some other persons in their examination-in-chief, with no other material to support their so- called verbal/ocular version. Thus, the ?evidence? recorded during trial was nothing more than the statements which was already there under Section 161 Cr.P.C. recorded at the time of investigation of the case. No doubt, the trial court would be competent to exercise its power even on the basis of such statements recorded before it in examination-in-chief. However, in a case like the present where plethora of evidence was collected by the IO during investigation which suggested otherwise, the trial court was at least duty bound to look into the same while forming prima facie opinion and to see as to whether ?much stronger evidence than mere possibility of their (i.e. appellants) complicity has come on record. There is no satisfaction of this nature. Even if we presume that the trial court was not apprised of the same at the time when it passed the order (as the appellants were not on the scene at that time), what is more troubling is that even when this material on record was specifically brought to the notice of the High Court in the Revision Petition filed by the appellants, the High Court too blissfully ignored the said material. Except reproducing the discussion contained in the order of the trial court and expressing agreement therewith, nothing more has been done. Such orders cannot stand judicial scrutiny."

11. Learned counsel for the revisionist has further placed reliance on paragraph 14 and 15 of the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Periyasami and others vs. S. Nallasamy, (2019) 4 SCC 342 and has submitted that the earlier judgment, referred above, was duly considered in the present case. Paragraph 14 and 15 of the aforesaid judgment is quoted as under:-

"14. In the First Information Report or in the statements recorded under Section 161 of the Code, the names of the appellants or any other description have not been given so as to identify them. The allegations in the FIR are vague and can be used any time to include any person in the absence of description in the First Information Report to identify such person. There is no assertion in respect of the villages to which the additional accused belong. Therefore, there is no strong or cogent evidence to make the appellants stand the trial for the offences under Sections 147, 448, 294(b) and 506 of IPC in view of the judgment in Hardeep Singh case (supra). The additional accused cannot be summoned under Section 319 of the Code in casual and cavalier manner in the absence of strong and cogent evidence. Under Section 319 of the Code additional accused can be summoned only if there is more than prima facie case as is required at the time of framing of charge but which is less than the satisfaction required at the time of conclusion of the trial convicting the accused.

15. The High Court has set aside the order passed by the learned Magistrate only on the basis of the statements of some of the witnesses examined by the Complainant. Mere disclosing the names of the appellants cannot be said to be strong and cogent evidence to make them to stand trial for the offence under Section 319 of the Code, especially when the Complainant is a husband and has initiated criminal proceedings against family of his in-laws and when their names or other identity were not disclosed at the first opportunity."

12. Learned counsel for the revisionist has submitted that in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court and the facts and circumstances, as narrated above, and from the perusal of the record, the impugned judgment and order dated 22.12.1993 passed by Sessions Judge, Etawah summoning the revisionist under Section 319 CrPC, is against the spirit and directions issued by the Hon'ble Apex Court.

13. Learned AGA has opposed the argument raised by the learned counsel for the revisionist and has submitted that the impugned order dated 22.12.1993, summoning the revisionist under Section 319 CrPC, was rightly passed.

14. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and after perusal of material on record, this Court is of the opinion that the impugned order passed by the court below under Section 319 CrPC was without considering the material on record. The Investigating Officer has not found any material against the revisionist nor his involvement in the instant case was proved, therefore his name was dropped in the charge sheet. This Court further finds that earlier on the application of the prosecution, the revisionist was ordered to be summoned by the court under Section 319 CrPC by order dated 29.5.1991, but this Court vide order dated 8.10.1991 passed in Criminal Revision No.1014 of 1991 quashed the said order of summoning and as such the revisionist cannot again be summoned on the application of the prosecution. Thereafter, the opposite party no.2, informant filed an application 48-Kha under Section 319 CrPC before the learned Sessions Judge, Etawah, who without going through the legal provisions contained under Section 319 CrPC summoned the revisionist and others for facing the trial vide impugned order dated 22.12.1993. The power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. is a discretionary and extraordinary power, which should be sparingly used only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant as held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the cases of Hardeep Singh, Labhuji Amratji Thakor, Brijendra Singh and Periyasami (supra).

15. Accordingly, the revision is allowed. The impugned order dated 22.12.1993 passed by Sessions Judge, Etawah summoning the revisionist under Section 319 CrPC for facing the trial in ST No.435 of 1990 under Section 307 IPC, is hereby set aside.

The accused opposite parties filed an application No. 51-A with the prayer that they may be discharged from the charge framed against them as no case is made out against them.

6. Learned A.G.A.-I further submits that on the aforesaid application moved on behalf of accused opposite parties, the learned trial court after hearing D.G.C.(Criminal) and the learned counsel for the accused opposite parties, has discharged the accused opposite parties by passing the impugned order, which is under challenge before this Court in the present revision.

7. Learned A.G.A.-I further submits that while passing the impugned order the learned trial court has committed error by not considering the evidence adduced by the victim. The learned trial court has also committed error of law by not considering the statements of the victim recorded under Section 161 and 164 Cr.P.C.

8. After considering the arguments advanced by Shri Abhishek Shukla, the learned A.G.A.-I on behalf of State, and after having gone through the impugned order dated 26.11.2001 passed by the trial court and also after perusal of record of the court below, this Court is of the opinion that the learned trial court in its judgment has observed that during investigation there was no evidence found regarding robbery of vehicle, bag, revolver, twelve thousand rupees and papers of vehicle of the informant. Regarding loot of vehicle on the date of incident as alleged by the prosecution, the learned trial court found that the informant could not produce papers of the vehicle relating to its ownership and in inquiry it was found that the same was belonged to one Vijay Swaroop, who produced the papers of the vehicle claiming its ownership and was handed over to him. The loot of revolver, of which the informant was claiming its ownership, was also not found her during investigation.

12. Accordingly, the present revision is dismissed.

13. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

14. Let a copy of this order be sent to the concerned District and Sessions Judge for its onwards transmission to the concerned court.

THE HON'BLE SHAMIM AHMED, J.

Criminal Revision No. 751 of 2022

Wasif ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Sri Sushil Shukla, Sri Aditya Prakash Singh

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
A.G.A.

Criminal Law - Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015-Sections 18 & 94- Cancelation of interim bail by Juvenile Justice Board- The enquiry on the point of juvenility has nothing to do with the enquiry as contemplated under other legislations- In no case the child below sixteen years of age having committed an heinous offence can be detained as convict in regular jails. The punishment as provided under the above provisions is basically of reformative nature. The general principles of care and protection of children as given in Chapter 2 of J. J. Act also include a principle of repatriation and restoration of every child with his family at the earliest. Section 94 of the Act, 2015 provides presumption and determination of age of juvenile and such presumption is not conclusive to prove the case and is rebuttable on the evidence lead by the aggrieved parties.

The inquiry as provided under the Act 2015 is different from that under other laws since the Act 2015 is a special beneficial enactment providing a specific mode for conducting an inquiry for the determination of age of a juvenile in conflict with law however the presumption under Section 94 is rebuttable by either of the parties.

Criminal Law - Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015- Section 94- Even assuming without admitting that the revisionist had failed to appear on the date fixed before the Juvenile Justice Board during enquiry under Section 94 of the Act, 2015, then at most it would have rejected the claim of juvenility. The Board had failed to perform its obligatory duty provided under the provisions of the Act, 2015 in not deciding the claim of juvenility of revisionist for the last five years. Both the Board as well as the appellate court failed to notice that there is no provision for cancellation of bail once granted to any delinquent juvenile under the Act, 2015.

Where the Act 2015 does not provide for the cancelation of bail once granted to a juvenile, then cancellation of bail by either the Board or the Appellate court would be illegal and arbitrary.

Criminal Law - Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015- Section 94- Once the educational documents filed by the revisionist mention his date of birth consistently on all levels, which was supported by the birth certificate issued by the concerned Registrar and there appears no contrary evidence before the Board, the Board ought to have decide the issue of juvenility of the revisionist, and not deciding his claim of juvenility the Board has caused great prejudice to the revisionist who was made to face trial with the other co-accused persons before the trial court for the last more than five years.

The determination of age of a juvenile in conflict with law should be done within a reasonable time by the Board, otherwise the delay in deciding the same will result in the trial of the juvenile with other co-accused, which violates the spirit, and intent of the Act.(Para 22, 25, 27, 28)

2. Sanat Kumar Yadav Vs St. of M.P. in Crl. Rev. No. 3049 of 2016 (dec.on 02.01.2017)

3. Rishipal Singh Solanki Vs St. of U.P. in Crl. Appeal No. 1240 of 2021 (dec. on 18.11.2021),

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. This Court vide order 25.03.2022 issued notice to the opposite party No. 2. Office report dated 11.04.2022 indicates that notice has already been served upon the opposite party No. 2 through legal heirs as per the report of the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Bulandshahar dated 08.04.2022. Thereafter, the case was again taken up on 11.04.2022. Today when the case is being taken up in the revised call, even no one has put in appearance on behalf of opposite party No. 2, nor any counter affidavit has been filed on his behalf. It appears that opposite party No. 2 is not interested to contest the case.

2. Counter affidavit filed on behalf of State is on the record.

3. Learned counsel for the revisionist denied the averments made in the counter affidavit filed on behalf of State.

4. In view of the aforesaid, the Court proceeds to decide the matter finally.

5. Heard Shri Sushil Shukla, Advocate, assisted by Shri Aditya Prakash Singh, the learned counsel for the revisionist and Shri Vinay Prakash Sahu, the learned A.G.A. for the State.

6. This revision is directed against the order dated 27.02.2020 passed by the court of Juvenile Justice Board, Bulandshahar in Criminal Misc. Case No. 97 of 2016, arising out of Case Crime No. 483 of 2016, under Sections 420, 457, 471, 120-B I.P.C., P.S. Khurja Nagar, District Bulandshahar, by which the Juvenile Justice Board had cancelled the interim bail granted to the accused-revisionist by the learned Sessions Judge, Bulandshahar. Aggrieved from the order dated 27.02.2020 the revisionist challenged the same before the court of learned Additional Sessions Judge/ Special Judge (POCSO Act), Bulandshahar in Criminal Appeal No. 9 of 2022, which was dismissed by the learned appellate court vide order dated 29.01.2022, affirming the order dated 27.02.2020 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board. Against the aforesaid orders the present revision is being preferred before this Court.

7. Learned counsel for the revisionist submits that the only legal question involved in this case is whether Juvenile Justice Board who is only competent to determine age of revisionist as to whether he was juvenile on the date of incident or not, can cancel the interim bail granted by the court of Session Judge, Bulandshahar, and whether the Board has vested with its jurisdiction or has exceeded its jurisdiction.

8. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that the Juvenile Justice Board has exceeded its jurisdiction and no power is vested to the Board to cancel interim bail granted by the court of Session Judge, Bulandshahar.

9. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that the facts in brief which arise the present issue is that an F.I.R. bearing Case Crime No. 483 of 2016, under Sections 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C., P.S. Khurja Nagar, District Bulandshahar was lodged by the infomant-opposite party No. 2 against unknown person. During investigation eight persons were found involved. The revisionist along with his father (co-accused) and two other persons who were also made co-accused in the case, were arrested on 24.07.2016 and from their joint possession Rs.5,50,000/- were recovered. After being arrested on 24.07.2016 the revisionist moved his regular Bail Application No. 2578 of 2016 before the court of learned Sessions Judge, Bulandshahar, claiming therein that he was juvenile on the date of incident. In support of his claim for declaring him juvenile the revisionist rests upon his High School certificate of the year, 2017, issued by the Central Board of Secondary Education, the certificate issued by the Principal of Hilman Public School, Agra, certifying his study in Class-Xth, and copy of certificate issued by Principal, Yugshakti Gayatri School, Agra, certifying his education in Class-VIIIth.

10. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that in all the abovementioned documents the date of birth of revisionist was consistent as 17.09.1999. It has further been argued that apart from the aforesaid educational certificates, a birth certificate issued by Registrar, (Birth & Death), Agra, was also appended with the aforesaid bail application in which same date of birth of the revisionist is mentioned.

11. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that while hearing the bail application and taking note of the claim of juvenility of the revisionist the learned Sessions Judge has referred the matter for his age determination to the Juvenile Justice Board with the finding that the Board shall necessarily determine and return the finding about the age of the revisionist within 15 days.

12. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that due to non functioning of the Board no such age determination could be made in next two months, thereafter, the revisionist claimed interim bail before the court of learned Sessions Judge, who after considering the case of the revisionist, vide its order dated 19.10.2016 granted interim bail to the revisionist till the Board becomes functional.

13. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that before Juvenile Justice Board, Bulandshahar, the enquiry in terms of Section 94 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 (hereinafter referred to as, "the Act, 2015') began and has been registered as Misc. Case No. 97 of 2016, and statement of mother of the revisionist and the statements of Principals of Schools were also recorded, and nothing was remained to give finding by the Board regarding age determination of the revisionist, the said enquiry has been remained pending for the last five years, whereas the entire documentary evidence was produced by the revisionist before the Board for determining his age and to declare him as juvenile.

14. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that despite the revisionist had been attending enquiry regularly for the last five years except some adjournments on few dates sought by him, surprisingly on 27.02.2020 the Board had cancelled the interim bail granted by the court of learned Sessions Judge, only on the ground of absence of the accused revisionist on that date and issued non bailable warrant against him.

15. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that cancelling the interim bail by the Juvenile Justice Board, which was granted by the court of learned Sessions Judge, is completely without jurisdiction vested in the Board under the provisions of Act, 2015.

16. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that the interim bail cancellation order was challenged by the revisionist before the court of learned Additional Sessions Judge/ Special Judge, (POCSO) Act, Bulandshahar in appeal, which was also dismissed vide order dated 29.01.2022. Both the orders dated 27.02.2020 and 29.01.2022 are impugned in this revision.

17. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that the Juvenile Justice Board as well as the appellate Court had passed the impugned order in a mechanical manner without considering the evidence on record, and the Juvenile Justice Board has exceeded its jurisdiction while cancelling the interim bail order, and, therefore, issuing non bailable warrant against the revisionist, which is without jurisdiction. The Juvenile Justice Board has failed to discharge its duty as contemplated under the law and delayed the proceeding pending before them for deciding the issue of question of declaration of juvenility of the revisionist.

18. Learned A.G.A. has opposed the submissions of the revisionist and submits that the impugned order was rightly passed by both the courts below.

19. I have considered the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

20. Before this Court proceeds further to assess the evidence and to consider and decide the case on merits, it shall be appropriate to examine the nature and scope of enquiry as contemplated under the law.

21. The Supreme Court of India in Ashwani Kumar Saxena Vs. State of M.P. in Criminal Appeal No. 1403 of 2021 (decided on 13.09.2012), examined the scope of an enquiry expected from a Court, the Juvenile Justice Board and the Committee in the light of earlier judgements and was pleased to observe in para-27 as under:-

"Section 7A, obliges the court only to make an inquiry, not an investigation or a trial, an inquiry not under the Code of Criminal Procedure, but under the J.J. Act. Criminal Courts, JJ Board, Committees etc., we have noticed, proceed as if they are conducting a trial, inquiry, enquiry or investigation as per the Code. Statute requires the Court or the Board only to make an "inquiry' and in what manner that inquiry has to be conducted is provided in JJ Rules. Few of the expressions used in Section 7A and Rule 12 are of considerable importance and a reference to them is necessary to understand the true scope and content of those provisions. Section 7A has used the expression "court shall make an inquiry", "take such evidence as may be necessary" and "but not an affidavit". The Court or the Board can accept as evidence something more than an affidavit i.e. the Court or the Board can accept documents, certificates etc. as evidence need not be oral evidence."

22. The Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the enquiry on the point of juvenility has nothing to do with the enquiry as contemplated under other legislations and gave an opinion in paras-32, 34 and 36 of the aforesaid judgment of Ashwani Kumar Saxena (supra) as below:

32. Consequently, the procedure to be followed under the J.J. Act in conducting an inquiry is the procedure laid down in that statute itself i.e. Rule 12 of the 2007 Rules. We cannot import other procedures laid down in the Code of Criminal Procedure or any other enactment while making an inquiry with regard to the juvenility of a person, when the claim of juvenility is raised before the court exercising powers under section 7A of the Act. Many of the cases, we have come across, it is seen that the Criminal Courts are still having the hangover of the procedure of trial or inquiry under the Code as if they are trying an offence under the Penal laws forgetting the fact that the specific procedure has been laid down in section 7A read with Rule 12.

34. "Age determination inquiry" contemplated under section 7A of the Act r/w Rule 12 of the 2007 Rules enables the court to seek evidence and in that process, the court can obtain the matriculation or equivalent certificates, if available. Only in the absence of any matriculation or equivalent certificates, the court need obtain the date of birth certificate from the school first attended other than a play school. Only in the absence of matriculation or equivalent certificate or the date of birth certificate from the school first attended, the court need obtain the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat (not an affidavit but certificates or documents). The question of obtaining medical opinion from a duly constituted Medical Board arises only if the above mentioned documents are unavailable. In case exact assessment of the age cannot be done, then the court, for reasons to be recorded, may, if considered necessary, give the benefit to the child or juvenile by considering his or her age on lower side within the margin of one year.

36. Age determination inquiry contemplated under the JJ Act and Rules has nothing to do with an enquiry under other legislations, like entry in service, retirement, promotion etc. There may be situations where the entry made in the matriculation or equivalent certificates, date of birth certificate from the school first attended and even the birth certificate given by a Corporation or a Municipal Authority or a Panchayat may not be correct. But Court, J.J. Board or a Committee functioning under the J.J. Act is not expected to conduct such a roving enquiry and to go behind those certificates to examine the correctness of those documents, kept during the normal course of business. Only in cases where those documents or certificates are found to be fabricated or manipulated, the Court, the J.J. Board or the Committee need to go for medical report for age determination.

23. The Madhya Pradesh High Court in Sanat Kumar Yadav Vs. State of M.P. in Criminal Revision No. 3049 of 2016 (decided on 02.01.2017) held that the age determination enquiry has to be conducted within the purview of Section 9(2) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 (hereinafter referred to as the, "Act, 2015') by seeking evidence and by obtaining documents mentioned under Section 94(2) of the Act, 2015 which are comparable with Section 7-A of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 (hereinafter referred to as the, "Act, 2000) and the Rule 12(3) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 2007 (hereinafter referred to as the, "Rules, 2007'). In the above case the Madhya Pradesh High Court referred to judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Akhilesh Yadav Vs. Vishwanath Chaturvedi, 2013(2) SCC 1, to stress the point that the courts are not expected to conduct a roving enquiry into the correctness of school certificate or the date of birth certificate. Madhya Pradesh High Court gave an opinion that school record kept during the normal course of business and whose authenticity or genuineness has not been questioned can form the basis of the determination of age of a juvenile.

24. In the case of Rishipal Singh Solanki Vs. State of U.P. in Criminal Appeal No. 1240 of 2021 (decided on 18.11.2021), the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that where an application is filed before the court claiming juvenility, the provisions of sub Section 2 of Section 94 of the Act, 2015 would have to be applied or read along with sub Section 2 of Section 9 so as to seek the evidence for the purpose of finding as regard the age. The Apex Court also held that the burden of proving is on the person raising such claim, however, the documents mentioned in the relevant rules of 2007 made under the Act, 2000 or the relevant Rules under Section 94(2) of the Act, 2015 shall be sufficient for prima facie satisfaction of the court. The Hon'ble Supreme Court held that such presumption is not conclusive to prove the age and is rebutable on the evidence lead by opposite side. The Hon'ble Supreme Court also cautioned that a hyper technical approach should not be adopted when evidence is adduced on behalf of the accused in support of plea of juvenile.

25. Section 18 of the Act, 2015 provides that if it is found that any child below the age of 16 years has committed a heinous offence, then, notwithstanding anything contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force, may pass orders like allowing child to go home after advice or admonition or to direct the child to participate in group counselling or perform community service or may be released on probation of good conduct or he may be sent to special home for such period not exceeding three years etc. Perusal of provisions of the Act, 2015 establish that in no case the child below sixteen years of age having committed an heinous offence can be detained as convict in regular jails. The punishment as provided under the above provisions is basically of reformative nature. The general principles of care and protection of children as given in Chapter 2 of J. J. Act also include a principle of repatriation and restoration of every child with his family at the earliest.

26. Section 94 of the Act, 2015 provides presumption and determination of age of juvenile and such presumption is not conclusive to prove the case and is rebutable on the evidence lead by the aggrieved parties. Section 94 of the Ac, 2015 is reproduced herein below:

Presumption and determination of age.-(1) Where, it is obvious to the Committee or the Board, based on the appearance of the person brought before it under any of the provisions of this Act (other than for the purpose of giving evidence) that the said person is a child, the Committee or the Board shall record such observation stating the age of the child as nearly as may be and proceed with the inquiry under section 14 or section 36, as the case may be, without waiting for further confirmation of the age.

(2) In case, the Committee or the Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Committee or the Board, as the case may be, shall undertake the process of age determination, by seeking evidence by obtaining--

(i) the date of birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, if available; and in the absence thereof;

(ii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(iii) and only in the absence of (i) and (ii) above, age shall be determined by an ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or the Board:

Provided such age determination test conducted on the order of the Committee or the Board shall be completed within fifteen days from the date of such order.

(3) The age recorded by the Committee or the Board to be the age of person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of this Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person.

27. In view of the above facts and submissions and considering the argument as advanced on behalf of revisionist that even assuming without admitting that the revisionist had failed to appear on the date fixed before the Juvenile Justice Board during enquiry under Section 94 of the Act, 2015, then at most it would have rejected the claim of juvenility. The Board had failed to perform its obligatory duty provided under the provisions of the Act, 2015 in not deciding the claim of juvenility of revisionist for the last five years. Both the Board as well as the appellate court failed to notice that there is no provision for cancellation of bail once granted to any delinquent juvenile under the Act, 2015.

28. There appears force in the arguments of the learned counsel for the revisionist that the lower appellate court has erred in recording the finding that it was the accused-revisionist, who is creating hurdles in the on going enquiry before the Board regarding his age determination. The said finding is perverse in as much as the record of proceedings before the Board reveals that all the evidence has been collected by the Board in the year, 2016 itself, and therefore, there was no legal impediment in deciding the issue of determination of age of the revisionist and the Board has waisted its time for appearance of informant and the said proceedings of enquiry had remained pending over more than five years without any fault of the revisionist and that too in violation of the provisions of Act, 2015. Moreover, once the educational documents filed by the revisionist mention his date of birth as 17.09.1999 consistently on all levels, which was supported by the birth certificate issued by the concerned Registrar and there appears no contrary evidence before the Board, the Board ought to have decide the issue of juvenility of the revisionist, and not deciding his claim of juvenility the Board has caused great prejudice to the revisionist who was made to face trial with the other co-accused persons before the trial court for the last more than five years.

29. In view of the facts and circumstances as discussed above and in agreement with the law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in the cases of Ashwani Kumar Saxena (supra), Akhilesh Yadav (supra) and Rishipal Singh Solanki (supra), as well as in view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Madhya Pradesh High Court in the case of Sanat Kumar Yadav (supra), this revision succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 27.02.2020 passed by Juvenile Justice Board, Bulandshahar in Criminal Misc. Case No. 97 of 2016, arising out of Case Crime No. 483 of 2016, under Sections 419, 420, 467, 471, 120-B I.P.C., Police Station Khurja Nagar, District Bulandshahar and the impugned judgment and order dated 29.01.2022 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge/ Special Judge (POCSO Act), Bulandshahar in Criminal Appeal No. 9 of 2022 are hereby set aside and reversed.

30. It is further observed that the Juvenile Justice Board has yet not decided the claim of juvenility of the revisionist for the last five years, being a peculiar case the Juvenile Justice Board, Bulandshahar is directed to decide the question of juvenility of revisionist within a period of two months from the date of production of certified copy of this order, without granting any unnecessary adjournments to either of the parties and the case may be decided in accordance with law.

31. It is also made clear that this Court has not stayed the proceedings of the trial and the trial court is at liberty to proceed further with the case and decide the same in accordance with law.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 125 Cr.P.C. - The Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Divorce) Act, 1986- Talaq (Divorce)- Validity of- Right to Maintenance- The proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C. is available to revisionist once she had taken resort to proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C. - It is admitted fact that revisionist no.1 and opposite party no.2 are wife and husband and they were married which is uncontroverted. The revisionist no.1 was divorced but as per the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court passed in the case of Shayara Bano Vs Union of India and others (Ministry of Women and Child Development Secretary and others), (2017) 9 SCC 1 wherein it has been pronounced that if the divorce is declared in one go and the Fatava is issued, the same cannot be legal divorce and it has no legal force. The divorce given by opposite party no.2 was not in accordance with the Quoran therefore, the divorce given by the opposite party no.2 was not in accordance with law. Quoran is the only source in which the voice of Allah, Mohammad Sahab have been recited in Aayats. The divorce can be given in accordance with the "verses" which are envisaged in Quoran.

Where the divorce is not given according to the provisions of the Quran, it has no legal force and therefore the right of a Muslim woman to seek maintenance u/s 125 of the Cr.Pc is fully maintenable.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Sections 125 & 397 - The court below passed the order that opposite party no.2 had not deserted her, rather, the revisionist no.1 had left the house on her own will. It has been further recorded by the court below that in absence of physical assault as stated by revisionist no.1, it cannot be interfered that any cruelty was done by the husband. The finding recorded by the court below is wrong. Section 125 Cr.P.C. is to be read in harmonious construction and only on the basis of Section 125 (4) Cr.P.C. the court came to the conclusion that the revisionist no.1 was deserted because she could not produce the evidence of physical assault and cruelty. The court has not considered the fact that specific averment of dowry demand as well as cruelty has been made by revisionist no.1 in her statement as well as in her application.

Merely because the wife has failed to produce evidence of cruelty, inspite of making a specific pleading to the said effect, her claim for interim maintenance cannot be defeated as the same would defeat the very purpose of section 125 Cr.P.c .

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 397 - The court below has overlooked all the factual aspects and has considered the irrelevant facts to defeat the purpose of section 125 Cr.P.C. - The wife-revisionist is entitled for maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C. The High Court has ample power to see the illegality, perversity and error committed by the court below.

Where any order or finding has been recorded by the lower court which is based on irrelevant considerations and is wrong or illegal, the High Court can always interfere with the said order or finding under its revisional jurisdiction. (Para 15, 19, 20, 21, 25, 27)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Brij Raj Singh, J.)

The present revision has been preferred with a prayer to quash the judgment and order dated 22.05.2018, passed by the Principal Judge/A.D.J., Family Court, Lucknow in Criminal Case No.360/2007 (Baby Sukaina @ Zahra Rizvi and another Vs. Shri Adil Rizvi), so far as it relates to the rejection of the application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. in respect of revisionist no.1 and also enhance the amount of maintenance awarded to the revisionist no.2.

2. Revisionist no.1-wife and revisionist no.2-daughter of opposite party no.2, filed application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. stating therein that revisionist no.1 was married to opposite party no.2 on 15.01.2003 at Lucknow according to Muslim religion (Siya) rites. After marriage, revisionist no.1 - wife came to the house of opposite party no.2 - Shri Adil Rizvi and led her marital obligation. Out of the wedlock of revisionist no.1 and opposite party no.2, a girl child was born on 07.07.2004. It has been further mentioned in the application that parents of revisionist no.1 - wife had given dowry as per their financial condition like golden and silver jewelary, clothes, colour television, C.D. player, washing machine, fridge, A.C. and furniture etc. Rs.40,000/- and a motorcycle was demanded by the father of opposite party no.2. His father asked the revisionist no.1 to bring the aforesaid amount and motorcycle from her parents. The mother of opposite party no.2, Smt. Khurshid Zamal @ Rani asked revisionist no.1 to bring one Maruti Car, one Generator as dowry as her father promised to give the same. The application further indicates that after sometime of marriage, the relation between revisionist no.1 - wife and opposite party no.2 - husband started getting strange disposition and they created pressure to bring dowry as mentioned aforesaid. When the dowry demand could not be fulfilled by revisionist no.1, opposite party no.2 and his family members beaten her on 15.09.2003. When the said fact was known to parents of revisionist no.1, they complained in police and on his complain, opposite party no.2 and his family members requested to pardon them and made promise that they would not do any act of harassment against her. The revisionist no.1 was again beaten by opposite party no.2 and his mother on 05.05.2004 and they threw-out her from their house. She reached her parents' house and she was hospitalized in Vardan Nursing Home, where a girl child Sukaina @ Zahra Rizvi was born. The opposite party no.2 was not providing any maintenance, therefore, she filed an application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. for maintenance.

3. The opposite party no.2 filed objection before the court below and denied the incident dated 26.11.2003 and stated that she has not produced any evidence regarding that incident. He further stated that he had borne the expenditure of Nursing Home at the time of birth of his daughter. He further stated that the revisionist no.1 is graduate and earning Rs.4,000/- per month from tuition. He further stated that the father of revisionist no.1 is a gazetted officer and he is receiving salary at Rs.40,000/- and her mother is also a teacher in primary school and her salary is Rs.22,000/- per month. It was also stated that the financial position of revisionist no.1 is strong, therefore, there is no occasion to provide her maintenance as she can maintain herself.

4. After hearing both parties, the judgment has been passed on 22.05.2018 and the application for maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C. filed by revisionist no.1, has been dismissed. However, the application in respect of revisionist no.2 has been allowed and Rs.5,000/- per month has been awarded as interim maintenance. Hence, the present revision has been filed by the revisionists.

5. Heard Sri Nadeem Murtaza, learned counsel for the revisionists, Sri Diwakar Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State and Sri Purnendu Chakravarty, learned counsel for opposite party no.2.

6. Learned counsel for the revisionists has submitted that the court below has recorded incorrect finding wherein it has been observed that it is the revisionist no.1 who has left the house of opposite party no.2. He has further advanced submission that the court below has given erroneous finding wherein it is held that revisionist no.1 was not able to show any injury regarding physical assault made by her in-laws. It has been further argued that it was binding upon the court below that once it settled that revisionist no.1 is wife, she is entitled for maintenance. The court below also misread the judgment passed in the case of Sunita Kachwaha and others Vs. Anil Kachwaha, (2014) 16 SCC 715. The cruelty done by her in-laws, has not been considered and court below passed the order on the presumption that the revisionist has deserted the husband, therefore, she is not entitled for maintenance.

7. Learned counsel for the revisionists has placed reliance on the following judgments:-

(i) Sunita Kachwaha and others Vs. Anil Kachwaha, (2014) 16 SCC 715.

(ii) Shamima Farooqui Vs. Shahid Khan, (2015) 5 SCC 705.

(iii) Shayara Bano Vs. Union of India and others (Ministry of Women and Child Development Secretary and others), (2017) 9 SCC 1.

(iv) Iqbal Bano Vs. State of U.P. and others, (2007) 6 SCC 785.

(v) Smt. Kiran Singh Vs. State of U.P. and another passed in Criminal Revision No.896 of 2019.

8. Learned counsel for the revisionists has further submitted that the court below has passed the judgment against the record and considered the income of the opposite party no.2 as Rs.30,000/- but in the statement and cross examination before the court below the opposite party no.2 has admitted that he was getting Rs.47,000/- salary; thus the maintenance awarded in favour of revisionist no.2 at Rs.5,000/- is not sufficient as the salary of opposite party no.2 was Rs.47,000/- and calculation which was done Rs.30,000/-, is totally perverse and illegal.

9. Sri Purnendu Chakravarty, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 has submitted that in the revisional jurisdiction under Section 397 Cr.P.C. the court has limited scope to appreciate the fact for which finding has already been recorded by the court below. He has further submitted that the court below has passed the order in letter and spirit of under Section 125 (4) Cr.P.C. because it is the revisionist no.1 who had refused to live in the house of opposite party no.2; therefore, she is not entitled for maintenance. He has next submitted that arrears for enhancement in respect of the maintenance of child i.e. the revisionist no.2 cannot be looked into in the revisional jurisdiction because the court below had considered the income and salary of the opposite party no.2 and has passed the order accordingly which cannot be interfered in the revisional jurisdiction.

10. Sri Chakravarty has further submitted that there is no perversity, illegality in the order passed by the court below, therefore, this Court cannot interfere in the case. It has been further submitted that the facts considered by the court below are not contrary to the law and the court below has not recorded finding against the record and evidence. The order passed by the court below is justified and needs no interference.

11. It has been further argued that as per Muslim Personal Law the revisionist no.1 is divorced Muslim wife, therefore, she has to pursue the maintenance case before the Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Divorce) Act, 1986 (here-in-after referred to as the "Act, 1986"). He has vehemently argued that after divorce she is not entitled for maintenance.

12. The argument of Sri Chakravarty, learned counsel for opposite party no.2, is that the revisionist is entitled to seek remedy as provided in Act, 1986, is not sustainable in the eyes of law.

13. The issue in the case of the present controversy of Danial Latifi and another Vs. Union of India, MANU/SC/0595/2001 : 2001 Criminal Law Journal 4660 came up and in para 36, the Act 1986 is considered, which is reproduced below:-

"36. While upholding the validity of the Act, we may sum up our conclusions:

(1) A Muslim husband is liable to make reasonable and fair provision for the future of the divorced wife which obviously includes her maintenance as well. Such a reasonable and fair provision extending beyond the iddat period must be made by the husband within the iddat period in terms of Section 3 (i) (a) of the Act.

(2) Liability of the Muslim husband to his divorced wife arising under Section 3 (i) (a) of the Act to pay maintenance is not confined to the iddat period.

(3) A divorced Muslim woman who is not remarried and who is not able to maintain herself after the iddat period can proceed as provided under Section 4 of the Act against her relative who are liable to maintain her in proportion to the properties which they inherit on her death according to Muslim law for such divorced woman including her children and parents. If any of her relative being unable to pay maintenance, the Magistrate may direct the State Waqf Board established under the Act to pay maintenance.

(4) The provisions of the Act do not offend Article 14, 15 and 21 of the Indian Constitution."

14. In the Case of Iqbal Bano Vs. State of U.P. and others, (2007) 6 SCC 785. The Hon'ble Supreme Court had observed that proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. are civil in nature even if the Court notices that the divorced women in the case in question, it is always open to court to treat it as an petition under the Act considering the beneficial nature of the legislation. Paragraph no.9 of the Iqbal Bano (supra) is quoted below:-

"9. Proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. are civil in nature. Even if the Court notices that there was a divorced woman in the case in question, it was open to him to treat it as a petition under the Act considering the beneficial nature of the legislation. Proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. and claims made under the Act are tried by the same Court. In Vijay Kumar Prasad v. State of Bihar and ors. [(2004) 5 SCC 196], it was held that proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. are civil in nature. It was noted as follows:

"14. The basic distinction between Section 488 of the old Code and Section 126 of the Code is that Section 126 has essentially enlarged the venue of proceedings for maintenance so as to move the place where the wife may be residing on the date of application. The change was thought necessary because of certain observations by the Law Commission, taking note of the fact that often deserted wives are compelled to live with their relatives far away from the place where the husband and wife last resided together. As noted by this Court in several cases, proceedings under Section 125 of the Code are of civil nature. Unlike clauses (b) and (c) of Section 126 (1) an application by the father or the mother claiming maintenance has to be filed where the person from whom maintenance is claimed lives."

15. In my opinion the proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C. is available to revisionist once she had taken resort to proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C. The argument of Sri Chakravarty regarding the alternative remedy provided under the Act, 1986 has no force.

16. Sri Chakravarty has submitted that the revisionist has been divorced by the husband and after divorce she is not entitled for maintenance. This question has come up before Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Shayara Bano Vs. Union of India and others (Ministry of Women and Child Development Secretary and others), (2017) 9 SCC 1. The Supreme Court has dealt the issue of maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C. pronounced that divorced woman is also entitled for maintenance to succor her need. Reference of Verses 224 to 228 contained in Section 28 of Sura II of the Quran are extracted below:-

"224. And make not
God's (name) an excuse
In your oaths against Doing good, or acting rightly,
Or making peace
Between persons;
For God is one
Who heareth and knoweth
All things.
225. God will not*
Call you to account
For thoughtlessness
In your oaths,
But for the intention
In your hearts;
And He is Oft-forgiving
Most Forbearing.
226. For those who take*
An oath for abstention
From their wives,
A waiting for four months
Is ordained;
If then they return,
God is Oft-forgiving,
Most Merciful.
227. But if their intention*
Is firm for divorce,
God heareth
And knoweth all things.
228. Divorced women*
Shall wait concerning themselves
For three monthly periods.
Nor is it lawful for them
To hide what God
Hath created in their wombs,
If they have faith
In God and the Last Day.
And their husbands
Have the better right
To take them back
In that period, if
They wish for reconciliation.
And women shall have rights
Similar to the rights Against them, according To what is equitable;
But men have a degree
(Of advantage) over them
And God is Exalted in Power
Wise."

17. Verses from 229 to 231 contained in Section 29 of Sura II, and Verses 232 and 233 included in Section 30 of Sura II, as also Verse 237 contained in Section 31 in Sura II, are relevant on the issue of divorce, which are extracted below:-

"229. A divorce is only
Permissible twice: after that,
The parties should either hold
Together on equitable terms,
Or separate with kindness.
It is not lawful for you,

(Men), to take back
Any of your gifts (from your wives),
Except when both parties
Fear that they would be Unable to keep the limits
Ordained by God.
If ye (judges) do indeed
Fear that they would be Unable to keep the limits
Ordained by God,
There is no blame on either
Of them if she give Something for her freedom.
These are the limits
Ordained by God;
So do not transgress them
If any do transgress
The limits ordained by God,
Such persons wrong
(Themselves as well as others).
230.So if a husband
Divorces his wife (irrevocably),
He cannot, after that,
Re-marry her until After she has married
Another husband and
He has divorced her.
In that case there is
No blame on either of them
If they re-unite, provided
They feel that they Can keep the limits
Ordained by God.
Such are the limits
Ordained by God,
Which He makes plain
To those who understand.
231.When ye divorce
Women, and they fulfil
The term of their (''Iddat')
Either taken them back
On equitable terms
Or set them free
On equitable terms;
But do not take them back
To injure them, (or) to take Undue advantage;
If any one does that,
He wrongs his own soul.
Do not treat God's Signs
As a jest,
But solemnly rehearse
God's favours on you,
And the fact that He
Send down to you
The Book
And Wisdom,
For your instruction.
And fear God,
And know that God
Is well-acquainted
With all things."

18. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has considered the issue of divorce in Muslim community in the case of Shayara Bano (supra). Paragraph nos. 134, 135, 137, 392 and 393 of the said judgment, are quoted below:-

"134. The "verses" referred to above need to be understood along with Verses 232 and 233, contained in Section 20 of Sura II of the Quran. The above two "verses" are extracted below:-

232. When ye divorce
Women, and they fulfil
The term of their (''Iddat'),
Do not prevent them
From marrying
Their (former) husbands,
If they mutually agree
On equitable terms.
This instruction
Is for all amongst you,
Who believe in God
And the Last Day.
That is (the course Making for) more virtue

And purity amongst you,
And God knows,
And ye know not.
233. The mothers shall give suck
To their offspring
For two whole years,
If the father desires
To complete the term.
But he shall bear the cost
Of their food and clothing
On equitable terms.
No soul shall have
A burden laid on it
Greater than it can bear.
No mother shall be Treated unfairly
On account of his child,
An heir shall be chargeable
In the same way.
If they both decide
On weaning,
By mutual consent,
And after due consultation,
There is no blame on them.
If ye decide
On a foster-mother
For your offspring,
There is no blame on you,
Provided ye pay (the mother)
What ye offered,
On equitable terms.
But fear God and know
That God sees well
What ye do."

135. A perusal of the above "verses' reveals, that the termination of the contract of marriage, is treated as a serious matter for family and social life. And as such, every lawful advice, which can bring back those who had lived together earlier, provided there is mutual love and they can live with each other on honourable terms, is commended. After following the above parameters, the Quran ordains, that it is not right for outsiders to prevent the reunion of the husband and wife. "Verse' 233 is in the midst of the regulations on divorce. It applies primarily to cases of divorce, where some definite rule is necessary, as the father and mother would not, on account of divorce, probably be on good terms, and the interest of children must be safeguarded. Since the language of "verse' 233 is general, the edict contained therein is interpreted, as applying equally to the father and mother, inasmuch as, each must fulfil his or her part, in the fostering of children.

137. Reference is also necessary to verses'34 and 35, contained in Section 6, as well as, verse 128 contained in "Section 19, of Sura IV. All the above verses are extracted below:

"34. Men are the protectors
And maintainers of women,
Because God has given
The one more (strength)
Than the other, and because They support them
From their means.
Therefore the righteous women
Are devoutly obedient, and guard
In (the husband's) absence
What God would have them guard.
As to those women
On whose part ye fear
Disloyalty and ill-conduct,
Admonish them (first),
(Next), refuse to share their beds,
(And last) beat them (lightly);
But if they return to obedience,
Seek not against them
Means (of annoyance):
For God is Most High,
Great (above you all).
35. If ye fear a breach
Between them twain,
Appoint (two) arbiters,
One from his family,

And the other from hers;
If they wish for peace,
God will cause
Their reconciliation:
For God hath full knowledge,
And is acquainted
With all things."
Section 19, Sura IV
"128. If a wife fears
Cruelty or desertion
On her husband's part,
There is no blame on them,
If they arrange
An amicable settlement
Between themselves;
And such settlement is best;
Even though men's souls
Are swayed by greed.
But if ye do good
And practice self-restraint
God is well-acquainted
With all that ye do."

392. In view of the position expressed above, we are satisfied, that this is a case which presents a situation where this Court should exercise its discretion to issue appropriate directions under Article 142 of the Constitution. We therefore hereby direct, the Union of India to consider appropriate legislation, particularly with reference to "talaq-e-biddat'. We hope and expect, that the contemplated legislation will also take into consideration advances in Muslim Personal Law - "Shariat", as have been corrected by legislation the world over, even by theocratic Islamic States. When the British Rulers in India provided succour to Muslims by legislation, and when remedial measures have been adopted by the Muslim world, we find no reason, for an independent India, to lag behind. Measures have been adopted for other religious denominations (see Part IX - Reforms to Personal Law in India, above), even in India, but not for the Muslims. We would, therefore, implore the legislature, to bestow its thoughtful consideration, to this issue of paramount importance. We would also beseech different political parties to keep their individual political gains apart, while considering the necessary measures requiring legislation.

393. Till such time as legislation in the matter is considered, we are satisfied in injuncting Muslim husbands, from pronouncing "talaq-e-biddat" as a means for severing their matrimonial relationship. The instant injunction, shall in the first instance, be operative for a period of six months. If the legislative process commences before the expiry of the period of six months, and a positive decision emerges towards redefining "talaq-e-biddat" (three pronouncements of "talaq", at one and the same time), as one, or alternatively, if it is decided that the practice of "talaq-e-biddat" be done away with altogether, the injunction would continue, till legislation is finally enacted. Failing which, the injunction shall cease to operate."

19. It is admitted fact that revisionist no.1 and opposite party no.2 are wife and husband and they were married on 15.01.2003 which is uncontroverted. The revisionist no.1 was divorced but as per the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court passed in the case of Shayara Bano Vs. Union of India and others (Ministry of Women and Child Development Secretary and others), (2017) 9 SCC 1 wherein it has been pronounced that if the divorce is declared in one go and the Fatava is issued, the same cannot be legal divorce and it has no legal force. The divorce given by opposite party no.2 was not in accordance with the Quoran therefore, the divorce given by the opposite party no.2 was not in accordance with law. Quoran is the only source in which the voice of Allah, Mohammad Sahab have been recited in Aayats. The divorce can be given in accordance with the "verses" which are envisaged in Quoran. The said fact can be seen in Sure Bakar, Sura No.II Aayat No.228, Sure Nisha, Sure No.4, Aayat No.3, 19, 35 and 128 and Sure Talaq Sure No.65, Aayat No.1 and 2. It is thus clear that Talaq given on 05.04.2005 was not in accordance with law, therefore, in view of the judgment of Hon'ble the Supreme Court passed in the case of Iqbal Bano Vs. State of U.P. and others, (2007) 6 SCC 785, it was not accordance with law and the opposite party no.2 could not prove the divorce as per law.

20. The court has given finding that the revisionist no.1 was not examined by the doctor and there is no medical report to that effect; therefore, the fact narrated by her regarding the physical assault is erroneous. The court below passed the order that opposite party no.2 had not deserted her, rather, the revisionist no.1 had left the house on her own will. It has been further recorded by the court below that in absence of physical assault as stated by revisionist no.1, it cannot be interfered that any cruelty was done by the husband.

21. The finding recorded by the court below is wrong. Section 125 Cr.P.C. is to be read in harmonious construction and only on the basis of Section 125 (4) Cr.P.C. the court came to the conclusion that the revisionist no.1 was deserted because she could not produce the evidence of physical assault and cruelty. The court has not considered the fact that specific averment of dowry demand as well as cruelty has been made by revisionist no.1 in her statement as well as in her application. She deposed the fact before the court below that she was harassed and forced to leave the house of her husband. She stated that her in-laws had mentally tortured and thrown her from house, therefore, she was living in her parents' house. It is surprising to note the fact that the court below has overlooked all the factual aspects and has considered the irrelevant facts to defeat the purpose of section 125 Cr.P.C. which has been explained in various judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court. The court below has mentioned judgment of Sunita Kachwaha (supra) but while applying the same he totally overlooked the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court. Para 6, 7, 8, 9 of Sunita Kachwaha (supra) supports the case of revisionist no.1, which are quoted below:

"6. The proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C. is summary in nature. In a proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C., it is not necessary for the court to ascertain as to who was in wrong and the minute details of the matrimonial dispute between the husband and wife need not be gone into. While so, the High Court was not right in going into the intricacies of dispute between the appellant-wife and the respondent and observing that the appellant-wife on her own left the matrimonial house and therefore she was not entitled to maintenance. Such observation by the High Court overlooks the evidence of appellant-wife and the factual findings, as recorded by the Family Court.

7. Inability to maintain herself is the precondition for grant of maintenance to the wife. The wife must positively aver and prove that she is unable to maintain herself, in addition to the fact that her husband has sufficient means to maintain her and that he has neglected to maintain her. In her evidence, the appellant-wife has stated that only due to help of her retired parents and brothers, she is able to maintain herself and her daughters. Where the wife states that she has great hardships in maintaining herself and the daughters, while her husband's economic condition is quite good, the wife would be entitled to maintenance.

8. The learned counsel for the respondent submitted that the appellant-wife is well qualified, having post graduate degree in Geography and working as a teacher in Jabalpur and also working in Health Department. Therefore, she has income of her own and needs no financial support from the respondent. In our considered view, merely because the appellant-wife is a qualified post graduate, it would not be sufficient to hold that she is in a position to maintain herself. Insofar as her employment as a teacher in Jabalpur, nothing was placed on record before the Family Court or in the High Court to prove her employment and her earnings. In any event, merely because the wife was earning something, it would not be a ground to reject her claim for maintenance.

9. The Family Court had in extenso referred to the respondent's salary and his economic condition. The respondent is stated to be an Engineer in PHE, Kota. He is in Government service and according to the pay certificate then produced before the Family Court, he was getting salary of Rs.20,268/- per month. In her evidence, the appellant wife has also stated that the respondent owns a very big house of his own in which he is said to have opened a hostel for boys and girls and is earning a substantial income. She has also stated that the respondent owns another house at Talmandi Sabji Kota, Rajasthan and is receiving rental income of Rs.4,500/- per month. Having regard to the salary and economic condition of the respondent, the Family Court has awarded maintenance of Rs.3,000/- to the wife and Rs.2,500/- to each of the daughters, in total Rs.8,000/- per month. It is stated that the maintenance amount awarded to the daughters has been subsequently enhanced to Rs.10,000/- per month. The maintenance amount of Rs.3,000/- per month awarded to the wife appears to be minimal and in our view, the High Court ought not to have set aside the award of maintenance. The learned counsel for the appellants prayed for enhancement of the quantum of maintenance to the appellant-wife. We are not inclined to go into the said submission, but liberty is reserved to the appellant wife to seek remedy before the appropriate court".

22. Sri Nadeem Murtaza, learned counsel for the revisionists has further relied upon the judgment in the case of Shamima Farooqui Vs. Shahid Khan, [(2015) 5 SCC 705]. Relevant paragraph no.14 of the said judgment is quoted below:-

"14. Coming to the reduction of quantum by the High Court, it is noticed that the High Court has shown immense sympathy to the husband by reducing the amount after his retirement. It has come on record that the husband was getting a monthly salary of Rs.17,654/-. The High Court, without indicating any reason, has reduced the monthly maintenance allowance to Rs.2,000/-. In today's world, it is extremely difficult to conceive that a woman of her status would be in a position to manage within Rs.2,000/- per month. It can never be forgotten that the inherent and fundamental principle behind Section 125 CrPC is for amelioration of the financial state of affairs as well as mental agony and anguish that woman suffers when she is compelled to leave her matrimonial home.

The statute commands there has to be some acceptable arrangements so that she can sustain herself. The principle of sustenance gets more heightened when the children are with her. Be it clarified that sustenance does not mean and can never allow to mean a mere survival. A woman, who is constrained to leave the marital home, should not be allowed to feel that she has fallen from grace and move hither and thither arranging for sustenance. As per law, she is entitled to lead a life in the similar manner as she would have lived in the house of her husband. And that is where the status and strata of the husband comes into play and that is where the legal obligation of the husband becomes a prominent one. As long as the wife is held entitled to grant of maintenance within the parameters of Section 125 CrPC, it has to be adequate so that she can live with dignity as she would have lived in her matrimonial home. She cannot be compelled to become a destitute or a beggar. There can be no shadow of doubt that an order under Section 125 CrPC can be passed if a person despite having sufficient means neglects or refuses to maintain the wife. Sometimes, a plea is advanced by the husband that he does not have the means to pay, for he does not have a job or his business is not doing well. These are only bald excuses and, in fact, they have no acceptability in law. If the husband is healthy, able- bodied and is in a position to support himself, he is under the legal obligation to support his wife, for wife's right to receive maintenance under Section 125 CrPC, unless disqualified, is an absolute right."

23. Similarly, Sri Murtaza has also relied upon a judgment passed by this Court in the case of Smt. Kiran Singh Vs. State of U.P. and another [Criminal Revision No. 896 of 2019, decided on 26.04.2022]. Paragraphs 9 and 10 of the said judgment which are relevant, are quoted below:-

"9. Admittedly, there is no bar under Section 125 Cr.P.C. to grant maintenance to wife, even against whom, a decree for restitution of conjugal rights has been passed. It would be very harsh to refuse maintenance on the ground of a decree of restitution of conjugal rights passed in favour of husband. It is also settled law that even after divorce wife is entitled for maintenance and since the revisionist is legally wedded wife of opposite party no.2, he has to maintain her. It is admitted on record that wife is residing with her parents and has no source of income. Therefore, award for mainteance cannot be denied.

10. Section 125(1) Cr.P.C clearly points out that 'wife' includes a woman, who has been divorced or has obtained a divorce from her husband and has not re-married. The claim of maintenance can only be refused if she has received some compensation from her husband and the decree of the restitution of conjugal rights does not put bar in providing the maintenance."

24. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sunita Kachwaha (supra) has observed that High Court was not right in going into the intricacies of dispute between the appellant-wife and the respondent and observing that the appellant wife on her own left the matrimonial house and therefore she was not entitled to maintenance. The Supreme Court has recorded the finding that the wife must positively aver and prove that she is unable to maintain herself. However, where the wife states that she has great hardships in maintaining herself and daughters, while her husband's economic condition is quite good, wife would be entitled to maintenance.

25. In view of the aforesaid discussion, I over-rule the argument advanced by Sri Chakravarty, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 and I hold that the wife-revisionist is entitled for maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C.

26. The other point is very important to note that the court below has considered the income of the opposite party no.2 as Rs.30,000/- per month whereas the cross examination of D.W.-1 (opposite party no.2) indicates that he has admitted on record that his salary is Rs.47,000/-, thus, the finding in respect of income of the opposite party no.2 is running contrary to the records available.

27. In the submission of Sri Chakravarty, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2, has no legal force wherein he has submitted that under Section 397 Cr.P.C., which is revisional jurisdiction, the court has no power to re-appreciate the evidence. The High Court has ample power to see the illegality, perversity and error committed by the court below. In the present case, the issue of divorce under Section 125 Cr.P.C. has been decided and revisionist has been refused the maintenance. In the present case, the finding runs against the record and not in accordance with law. The Court has ample power to correct the order and take appropriate steps under the revisional jurisdiction; thus, the argument of Sri Chakravarty has no force.

28. In my opinion, once it is admitted on record that the salary of opposite party no.2 is Rs.47,000/-, the court below passed erroneous order by considering the income of opposite party no.2 as Rs.30,000/- only.

29. In view of the aforesaid factual and legal aspect, I am of the view that the order impugned dated 22.05.2018 is erroneous and cannot survive in the eyes of law, therefore, I set aside the impugned order for the aforesaid reasons.

30. The application for maintenance filed by revisionist no.1 is allowed and it is observed that she will be entitled for Rs.7,000/- per month as maintenance. She will be given maintenance Rs.1,500/- from 11.05.2007 to January, 2010; Rs.2,000/- from February 2010 to December 2014; Rs.4,000/- from January 2015 to May 2018 and Rs.7,000/- from January 2018 onwards.

31. Insofar as the prayer for enhancement of maintenance in favour of opposite party no.2 is concerned, I am not inclined to pass any order for the reason that I have awarded Rs.7,000/- per month to the revisionist no.1 reckoning the total salary of the opposite party No. 2 as Rs.47,000/-; thus total Rs.7,000 (in favour of revisionist no.1) + Rs.5,000 (in favour of revisionist no.2) = Rs.12,000/- of total salary of Rs.47,000/-, is justified. The order impugned dated 22.05.2018 is set aside in part and it is modified according to the observation made above.

Chaman Mangla ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Ms. Somya Chaturvedi, Sri Gopal Swarup Chaturvedi (Senior Adv.), Sri Man Singh Yadav

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
G.A., Sri Harsh Vardhan Deshwar

Criminal Law- Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 227 - Application for discharge rejected - Indisputably, it is open to this Court to quash the charges framed by the trial court and discharge the accused revisionist but the same cannot be done by weighing the correctness, sufficiency of the evidence. The principle to be adopted in such cases should be that if the entire evidence produced by the prosecution is to be believed would it constitute the offence or not. It is only at the stage of the trial that truthfulness, sufficiency and acceptability of the evidence can be adjudged. Therefore, it will not be proper to truncate or snip the proceeding at the stage of framing of charges against the revisionist when perusal of the statement of victim said to have been recorded under Section 161 & 164 Cr.P.C. clearly reveals that the revisionist made sexual intercourse with the complainant for a continuous period of two years on false pretext of marriage.

Settled law that at the stage of Section 227/ 228 of the Cr.P.c the court cannot hold a mini trial and sift through the entire evidence but has only to see as to whether on the basis of the evidence offence is made out against the accused or not and only where no offence is made out even from the entire evidence, then the accused can be discharged.

Criminal Revision rejected. (Para 13) (E-3)

Judgements/ Case law relied upon:-

1. St. Vs S. Selvi, (2018) 13 SCC 455

2. Sajjan Kumar Vs CBI, (2010) 9 SCC 368

3. Tarun Jit Tejpal Vs St. of Goa & ors.: 2019 SCC OnLine SC 1053

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar Kumar Yadav, J.)

1. Heard Mr Gopal Swarup Chaturvedi, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Ms Somya Chaturvedi, learned counsel for the revisionist, Mr Harsh Vardhan Deshwar, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 and Mr L. M. Singh, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. This Criminal Revision is directed against the order dated 15.02.2022 passed by learned Addl. District and Sessions Judge, FTC-I Mathura, whereby the application for discharge under Sections 498-A, 504, 506, 376 IPC and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act moved by the revisionist u/s 227 Cr.P.C. in Sessions Case No. 287 of 2021 (State Vs Chaman Mangla) arising out of Case Crime No. 771 of 2020, has been rejected.

3. Initially an FIR vide Case Crime No. 771 of 2020 was registered against the revisionist and his father and mother by the complainant/opposite party no. 2 on 08.11.2020, under Sections 498-A, 504, 506, 376 IPC and Section ¾ of Dowry Prohibition Act.

4. Prosecution story as narrated in the FIR is that the revisionist was to open a cloth-showroom and thereafter he would marry the complainant within a year of opening of showroom. Revisionist is said to have called the complainant at his residence and introduced her with his parents. Seeing her, his parents also said that they liked her and as soon as the showroom is opened they would marry complainant with his son (revisionist). It is further averred that revisionist always called the complainant at his residence in presence of his parents and used to treat the complainant as his wife and had also made sexual relationship on that pretext; and when two years had elapsed, neither the showroom was opened nor the revisionist solemnized marriage with complainant, thereafter, the complainant is said to have asked the parents of the revisionist to get their marriage solemnized upon which the parents of the revisionist said that opposite party no. 2 used to visit their house as their daughter-in-law and soon they would get the marriage of opposite party no. 2 solemnized with revisionist. It is further averred that in the month of October, complainant again asked the revisionist and his parents to solemnize the marriage as the revisionist is harassing her mentally and physically for almost two years and in case the marriage is not solemnized within a month, the complainant would take legal action against them. It is further alleged that thereafter, parents of the revisionist demanded Rs. 25 Lacs for marriage and also said that if the parents of the complainant is able to meet the demand of revisionist, they would get their marriage solemnized, failing which the marriage would not be finalized. It is further alleged that when the complainant asked the parents of the revisionist that the revisionist is making physical relationship with her for the last two years, thereupon she was abused in filthy words, threatened and also driven out.

5. After registration of the FIR, Investigating Officer recorded the statement of complainant and other material witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and the victim was also medically examined at CHC Kosi Kalan, District Mathura on 8.11.2020 from where she was referred to District Women Hospital, Mathura, where the complainant/victim has refused for her internal medial examination.

6. The statement of the victim under Section 164 Cr. P. C. was also recorded before the Magistrate. The extract of statement is as under:-

"पीड़िता ने सशपथ बयान किया कि मेरी उम्र 22 वर्ष है। मै बी0ए0 कर रही हूं। मै चमन पुत्र चेतराम को पिछले दो साल से जानती हूं। मैं जहां ट्यूसन पढ़ाने जाती थी, वहीं चमन मुझे रास्ते में मिलता था। चमन और मै दोनों फेसबुक पर दोस्त बने। हमारे बीच में बातचीत हुई और बाद मे घर आना जाना शुरू हो गया। चमन के घर असके पिता चेतराम व माता शोभना थी। चमन उनकी उपस्थिति में मुझे घर लाता था। वो लोग मुझसे खाने की फरमाईश करते थे जो वो कहते थे, मै बनाती थी। चमन के माता पिता को भी मैं पसंद थी। और वो अपने बेटे की शादी मुझसे करवाने को राजी थी। चमन के मां बाप मुझसे कहते थे कि जैसे ही चमन का शोरूम खुलेगा, हम तुम दोनों की शादी करवा देंगे। इस आड़ में चमन मुझसे कई बार शारीरिक संबंध बनाये। कई बार होटल व फ्लैट में लेकर गया। दो वर्ष बीत जाने के बाद जब न शोरूम खुला और न शादी की बात आगे बढ़ी तो मैनें चमन के माता पिता से बात की। तो चमन के माता पिता बोले कि अपने घर वालों से बोलो की 25 लाख का इंतजाम कर लें। हमारे बेटे के लिए अच्छे रिश्ते आ रहे है। तब मैनें उनको बताया कि मैं गरीब घर से हूं पिताजी जीवित नहीं है हम 3–4 लाख ही खर्च कर सकते है तो सके मां बाप ने शादी करने से मना कर दिया। मुझे रंडी जैसे शब्दों से संबोधित किया। मैनें अपने भाइ कृष्णा को जब ये बात बताई तो वह भी चमन के माता पिता के पास रिश्ता लेकर गया तो उन्होंने कोई जवाब नहीं दिया जब मैनें चमन को एक दिन बाद काल किया तो उसने मुझे अपनी दुकान पर बुलाया और मुझे बदनाम करने की धमकी देने लगा। उसके पास मेरी कुछ फोटोज है जिसे वायरल करने की धमकी देने लगा। इसके अलावा चमन ने मुझे कुछ नशीली गोली देकर कहने लगा इन्हें खा ले और मर जा मगर मुझे भूल जा। मैनें वो नशीली गोलियां घर आकर खा ली जिससे मै बेहोश हो गई। मैनें अगले दिन अपने भाई व मां के साथ पुलिस में रिर्पोट दर्ज करवायी। चमन और उसके पिता चेतराम व माता शोभना

ने मेरे साथ मानसिक व शारीरिक प्रताड़ना की है मै चाहती हू कि चमन को या तो सजा मिले या फिर मुझसे शादी करे।"

7. After concluding the investigation, the Investigating Officer submitted the charge sheet on 25.11.2020 only against the revisionist under Sections 498-A, 504, 506, 376 IPC and Section 3/4 of D. P. Act, upon which cognizance was taken by the court below vide order dated 23.12.2020. Thereafter, revisionist is said to have moved an application for discharge on 7.9.2021, which was objected by the complainant/opposite party no. 2 by filing her objection on 30.09.2021. The court below after taking into account the entire material available on record rejected the discharge application filed by the revisionist vide impugned order dated 15.2.2022 and fixed the next date for framing of charge against the revisionist under Section 376, 504, 506 IPC and Section 4 of the D.P. Act. It is this order which is subject matter of challenge before this Court.

8. It is contended by learned counsel for the revisionist that the trial court has rejected the discharge application without considering the fact that the victim is major and allegation of physical relation between the revisionist and O.P. No. 2 was a consensual physical relationship, therefore, no offence under Section 376 IPC is made out. It is further contended by learned counsel for the revisionist that the impugned order has been passed without considering the material on record and while passing the order impugned court below has not applied it's judicial mind. He further submits that the impugned order rejecting the application for discharge is wholly illegal, capricious and against weight of evidence on record. It is further submitted that there are several contradictions between the version of the FIR and the statements of the informant said to have been recorded under Section 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. and the order has been passed illegally in a routine manner and without application of judicial mind, and therefore, the same is liable to be quashed.

9. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing for Opposite Party No. 2 as well as learned A.G.A. appearing for the State submitted that record reveals that the revisionist had established physical relationship with the complainant on false promise of marriage and when he refused to marry present prosecution has been initiated against the revisionist. Material available on record reveals that O.P. No.2/complainant had entered into physical relationship with the revisionist on misconception of fact and the said consent cannot be considered as a voluntary consent under Section 90 of the Indian Penal Code; that presumption can be drawn under Section 114 A of the Indian Evidence Act that the revisionist had sexual intercourse on false assurance of marriage and the charge sheet has rightly been submitted under Sections 376 IPC along with other sections of IPC.

10. The principles for framing of charge and discharge under Sections 227, 228 and 239 Cr.P.C. have been summarized by the Hon'ble Apex Court in its judgment, State Vs S. Selvi, (2018) 13 SCC 455 wherein it has been held that if on the basis of material on record, the Court prima facie forms an opinion that the accused may have committed the offence, it can frame charges. At the time of framing of charge, the Court is required to proceed on presumption that the material produced by the prosecution is true. At that stage, the Court is not expected to go deep into the matter and hold that the material produced does not warrant conviction.

11. In Sajjan Kumar Vs CBI, (2010) 9 SCC 368, Hon'ble Apex Court on consideration of the various decisions about the scope of Section 227 and 228, laid down the following principles:

"(I) The Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under Section 227 Cr.P.C. has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out. The test to determine prima facie case would depend upon the facts of each case.

(ii) Where the materials placed before the court disclose grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the court will be fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial.

(iii) The court cannot act merely as a post office or a mouthpiece of the prosecution but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and the documents produced before the court, any basic infirmities, etc. However, at this stage, there cannot be a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial.

(iv) If on the basis of the material on record, the court could form an opinion that the accused might have committed offence, it can frame the charge, though for conviction the conclusion is required to be proved beyond reasonable doubt that the accused has committed the offence.

(v) At the time of framing of the charges, the probative value of the material on record cannot be gone into but before framing a charge the court must apply its judicial mind on the material placed on record and must be satisfied that the commission of offence by the accused was possible.

(vi) At the stage of Section 227 and 228, the court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to find out if the facts emerging therefrom taken at their face value disclose the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence. For this limited purpose, sift the evidence as it cannot be expected even at that initial stage to accept all that the prosecution states as gospel truth even if it is opposed to common sense or the broad probabilities of the case.

(vii) If two views are possible and one of them gives rise to suspicion only, as distinguished from grave suspicion, the trial Judge will be empowered to discharge the accused and at this stage, he is not to see whether the trial will end in conviction or acquittal."

12. Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Tarun Jit Tejpal Vs State of Goa and other: 2019 SCC OnLine SC 1053 has taken note of case law in detail while explaining the powers under Section 227/228 Cr.P.C. and reiterated the principle as enumerated in State Vs Selvi (supra) and Sajjan Kumar versus C.B.I., (2010) 9 SCC 368. In para 32 it has been held as under:-

"32. Applying the law laid down by this Court in the aforesaid decisions and considering the scope of enquiry at the stage of framing of the charge under Section 227/228 Cr.P.C., we are of the opinion that the submissions made by the learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant on merits, at this stage, are not required to be considered. Whatever submissions are made by the learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant are on merits are required to be dealt with and considered at an appropriate stage during the course of the trial. Some of the submissions may be considered to be the defence of the accused. Some of the submissions made by the learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant on the conduct of the victim/prosecutrix are required to be dealt with and considered at an appropriate stage during the trial. The same are not required to be considered at this stage of framing of the charge. On considering the material on record, we are of the opinion that there is more than a prima facie case against the accused for which he is required to be tried. There is sufficient ample material against the accused and therefore the learned Trial Court has rightly framed the charge against the accused and the same is rightly confirmed by the High Court. No interference of this Court is called for."

13. Indisputably, it is open to this Court to quash the charges framed by the trial court and discharge the accused revisionist but the same cannot be done by weighing the correctness, sufficiency of the evidence. The principle to be adopted in such cases should be that if the entire evidence produced by the prosecution is to be believed would it constitute the offence or not. It is only at the stage of the trial that truthfulness, sufficiency and acceptability of the evidence can be adjudged. Therefore, it will not be proper to truncate or snip the proceeding at the stage of framing of charges against the revisionist when perusal of the statement of victim said to have been recorded under Section 161 & 164 Cr.P.C. clearly reveals that the revisionist made sexual intercourse with the complainant for a continuous period of two years on false pretext of marriage.

14. Thus, in view of the law as has been explained in several decisions and, the fact that the trial Court having considered the record of the case and evidence brought by the prosecution has formed an opinion prima facie of involvement of the revisionist in commission of offence, the court below has rightly dismissed the argument for discharge of revisionist. There is no illegality, perversity or impropriety in the impugned order. There is no jurisdictional error in the impugned order. The revision is not sustainable and is hereby dismissed.

Office is directed to certify the copy of this order to the court below through learned Sessions Judge, concerned.

Civil Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Sections 177, 178 & 179- The normal rule is that the offence shall ordinarily be inquired into and tried by a court within whose local jurisdiction it was committed. However, when it is uncertain in which of several local areas an offence was committed or where an offence is committed partly in one local area and partly in another or where an offence is a continuing one, and continues to be committed in more than one local area and takes place in different local areas as per Section 178 Cr.P.C. the Court having jurisdiction over any of such local areas is competent to inquire into and try the offence. Section 179 Cr.P.C. makes it clear that if anything happened as a consequence of the offence, the same may be inquired into or tried by a Court within whose local jurisdiction such thing has been done or such consequence has ensued- The offence in this case is said to have been committed in more local areas and one of the local areas being Chitrakoot, the court below at Chitrakoot has jurisdiction to proceed with the criminal case instituted therein.

Where a continuing offence is committed partly in one area or where the consequences of commission of any offence have ensued, then the court within whose jurisdiction the offence has been partly committed or any of the consequences of an offence has ensued, can take cognizance of the said offence. It is further alleged that the revisionist also prepared video clippings and clicked some photographs and also extended threats of making it viral and continuously kept on sexually exploiting her.

4. After investigation, the Investigating Officer has submitted charge sheet against the revisionist on 31.05.2018 and the learned Magistrate while taking cognizance committed the case as Sessions Trial No.36 of 2018 vide order dated 25.06.2018. Feeling aggrieved, the revisionist has preferred an application under Section 177 Cr.P.C. before the court of learned Special Judge (POCSO Act), Karvi, Chitrakoot on 14.03.2022, who vide order dated 14.03.2022 rejected the application filed by the revisionist, hence, this revision.

5. Mr. Rajiv Dwivedi, learned counsel for the revisionist has submitted that the impugned FIR has been lodged against the revisionist as a counterblast to the FIR lodged by the revisionist against the father of the prosecutrix at Police Station Kotwali Karvi Nagar, District Chitrakoot in Case Crime No.41 of 2018, under Sections 419, 420, 406 IPC. He has further submitted that the as per FIR the incident alleged to have taken place at Gramoday University, Chitrakoot, Satna (M.P.) while the FIR has been lodged at Police Station Karvi, Chitrakoot (U.P.). He has further submitted that the charge sheet has been submitted against the revisionist is also without jurisdiction. The impugned order passed by the trial court is illegal, erroneous and arbitrary and also against the provisions of law, hence, the same is liable to be set aside. In support of his submission, learned counsel for the revisionist has relied upon Section 179 of the Act as well as judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Y. Abraham Ajith and others vs. Inspector of Police, Chennai and another, 2004 (6) Supreme 207.

6. On the other hand, supporting the impugned judgment, Mr. Manish Tandon, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 has submitted that the victim in her statement recorded under Sections 161 & 164 Cr.P.C. has assigned specific role of committing rape at various places by the revisionist for the past several years, which exists within the jurisdiction of Uttar Pradesh, thus, in view of Section 178 Cr.P.C., the trial is well maintainable in the eyes of law. The revisionist is a man of criminal propensities involved in several cases. During trial, the prosecutrix was also attacked by the revisionist for which an FIR has also been lodged against the revisionist. He has further submitted that trial court has rightly rejected the application on legal grounds holding that the application moved under Chapter XIII, which provides ordinary place of inquiry and trial and reliance has been placed upon Section 178 Cr.P.C. which deals with place of inquiry or trial. The trial court has clearly held that though the cause of action shown in the FIR are said to have happened at different places and the investigation is conducted within the jurisdiction of commission of crime, which is said to be committed at Chitrakoot, Uttar Pradesh. He has further submitted that Section 178 Cr.P.C. clearly deals with the situation and held that where several acts done in different local areas, it may be inquired into or tried by a court having its jurisdiction, therefore, the trial court has rightly and legally rejected the application under Section 177 Cr.P.C. In support of his submission, he has relied upon the judgment of of this Court in the case of Dharmendra Kumar Tiwari vs. State of U.P. and another, 2020 LawSuit (All) 459.

7. I have considered the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record.

8. Chapter XIII of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (in short "Code") deals with jurisdiction of the criminal courts in inquiries and trials. Sections 177 to 179 Cr.P.C. are quoted as under:-

"177. Ordinary place of inquiry and trial-. Every offence shall ordinarily be inquired into and tried by a Court within whose local jurisdiction it was committed.

178. Place of inquiry or trial. (a) When it is uncertain in which of several local areas an offence was committed, or (b) where an offence is committed partly in one local area and partly in another, or (c) where an offence is a continuing one, and continues to be committed in more local areas than one, or (d) where it consists of several acts done in different local areas, it may be inquired into or tried by a Court having jurisdiction over any of such local areas.

179. Offence triable where act is done or consequence ensues. When an act is an offence by reason of anything which has been done and of a consequence which has ensued, the offence may be inquired into or tried by a Court within whose local jurisdiction such thing has been done or such consequence has ensued.

9. From the above provisions, it is clear that the normal rule is that the offence shall ordinarily be inquired into and tried by a court within whose local jurisdiction it was committed. However, when it is uncertain in which of several local areas an offence was committed or where an offence is committed partly in one local area and partly in another or where an offence is a continuing one, and continues to be committed in more than one local area and takes place in different local areas as per Section 178 Cr.P.C. the Court having jurisdiction over any of such local areas is competent to inquire into and try the offence. Section 179 Cr.P.C. makes it clear that if anything happened as a consequence of the offence, the same may be inquired into or tried by a Court within whose local jurisdiction such thing has been done or such consequence has ensued.

10. In the light of the above, this Court has critically examined the allegations levelled in the complaint as well as the statement of victim No. 2 recorded by the police under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and also the statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. and found that the offence in this case is said to have been committed in more local areas and one of the local areas being Chitrakoot, the court below at Chitrakoot has jurisdiction to proceed with the criminal case instituted therein.

11. In such circumstances, this Court does not find any illegality in the order impugned passed by the court below. Hence, there is no force in this criminal revision and the same is hereby dismissed.

12. No order as to costs.

Criminal Law- Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 190(1) (b) – Application by first informant - Addition of offence by Magistrate to the offences mentioned in the Police Report under section 173(2) of the CrPc at pre-cognizance stage- This is a pre-cognizance stage, where the Magistrate has not taken the cognizance of the offence. Charge-sheet/police report u/s 173(2) of Cr.P.C. is nothing which is simply an opinion of the Investigating Officer based on the material collected during investigation and it is not binding or mandatory upon the Magistrate. The Magistrate may or may not agree with the opinion of the Investigating Officer. The Magistrate has every right to defer his opinion from the opinion of the Investigating Officer, on the basis of material on record by passing a speaking order - The order impugned reflects judicial application of mind by the learned Magistrate - Learned Magistrate after assessing the entire material collected during investigation found that Investigating Officer has wrongly submitted charge sheet u/s 323, 324, 325, 504, 506 I.P.C., which was not in consonance with the gravity of offences made out on the basis of material collected during investigation.

At the pre- cognizance stage the Magistrate is not bound by the police report and can also add offences not mentioned in the Police Report on the basis of the material collected during the course of the investigation. (Para 7, 9, 10)

Case law / Judgements (cited):-

St. of Guj. vs Girish Radhakrishnan Varde in Criminal Appeal No.1996 of 2013(SC).

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rahul Chaturvedi, J.)

1. Heard Shri Prem Shankar Mishra, learned counsel for the revisionists; Shri Bhuvnesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 and learned A.G.A. for the State. Perused the record.

2. The instant criminal revision is being filed by the revisionists Yunus, Kamil and Alim, assailing the legality and validity of impugned order dated 01.02.2021 passed by the Judicial Magistrate, Chandpur, Bijnor in Criminal Case No.391 of 2019 (State vs. Kamil and others), arising out of Case Crime No.223 of 2018, u/s 323, 324, 325, 504, 506 I.P.C., P.S.-Shivala Kala, District-Bijnor, whereby learned Magistrate has taken cognizance against the revisionists for the offence u/s 323, 324, 326, 504, 506 I.P.C., while responding to the application dated 31.5.2019 filed by the prosecution at pre-cognizance stage.

3. Long and short of the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the revisionists is that on 21.11.2018 a F.I.R. was got registered for the incident said to have taken place on 9.9.2018 by Mohd. Akram u/s 307, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. against Kamil, Alim and one unknown person. This F.I.R. was registered routed through an Application u/s 156(3) of Cr.P.C. with the allegation that the contesting parties were political opponents and on this score they were nurturing an inimical relationship. On 9.9.2018 around 06.30 in the evening when the informant was coming to his home, in the way, near a culvert, he was ambushed by Kamil, Alim and one unknown armed with tabbal and knife. They started hurling filthy abuses and thereafter assaulted upon him. Alim was armed with tabbal, who had given a deadly blow over his head, whereas Kamil had assaulted by knife over his head and unknown person had brutally assaulted with lathi-danda. This incident was witnessed by co-villagers and on making challenge by them, the assailants ran away giving threatening to kill the informant.

Mohd. Akram who is the informant, is the main injured and he was put for medical examination. From the medical examination report it transpires that the injured has sustained six injured over his person, including the incised wounds and contused swelling. The injured was referred for X-Ray of skull and chest. Supplementary report indicates that there is head injury over the injured and C.T. scan of the head was advised. C.T. scan report dated 10.9.2018 shows (i) multiple depressed fractures of frontal bone on left side, (ii) fractures of left zygomatic and left orbit and (iii) multiple small hemorrhagic contusions at left frontal lobe. In the opinion of doctor, head injuries are grievous in nature and in the X-Ray report also multiple depression of fracture is observed. After recording the statements of the injured and the doctor, the Investigating Officer of the case, it appears that in order to oblige the accused, changed the texture of the case by dropping Section 307 of I.P.C. from the array of sections mentioned in the F.I.R. and submitted charge-sheet dated 13.2.2019 against the revisionists u/s 323, 324, 325, 504, 506 of I.P.C.

4. Stunned and dissatisfied by this report u/s 173(2) Cr.P.C. submitted by the I.O., the informant moved an application on 31.5.2019 challenging the opinion of the I.O. that keeping in view the gravity, seat and nature of injuries, instead of Sections 323, 324, 325, 504, 506 of I.P.C., the I.O. of the case ought to have submitted charge sheet inserting Sections 307, 308 of I.P.C. among other sections as per prosecution case. It is not out of place to mention here that the application on behalf of prosecution was instituted at pre-cognizace stage.

5. At the stage of taking cognizance, learned Magistrate after taking into account the material collected by the I.O. during investigation and the objection raised by the informant vide application dated 31.5.2019, have passed the present impugned order dated 01.2.2021 (cognizance order) whereby he has taken cognizance of the offences u/s 323, 324, 326, 504, 506 I.P.C.

6. Learned counsel for the revisionists seriously disputed the impugned order passed by the learned Magistrate by making a mention that this is not a stage where the Magistrate can change the texture of the case by inserting the additional sections or replacing the same by more grievous sections of the I.P.C. Learned counsel for the revisionist in this regard has relied upon the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in State of Gujarat vs Girish Radhakrishnan Varde in Criminal Appeal No.1996 of 2013 decided on 25.11.2013. Learned counsel for the revisionists has emphasized on paragraphs 11 and 19 of the said judgement, which read thus :

"11. While analysing the controversy raised in this appeal, it is clearly obvious that the entire dispute revolves around the procedural wrangle and the correct course to be adopted by the trial court while taking cognizance but in the entire process it appears that the distinction between a case lodged by way of a complaint before the magistrate commonly referred to as complaint case under Section 190 of the Cr.P.C. and a case registered on the basis of a first information report under Section 154 of the Cr.P.C. before the police, seems to have been missed out, meaning thereby that the distinction between the procedure prescribed under Chapter XII of the Cr.P.C. to be adopted in a case based on police report and the procedure prescribed under Chapter XIV and Chapter XV for cases based on a complaint case lodged before the magistrate has clearly been overlooked or lost sight of. It may be relevant to record at this stage that the term 'complaint' has been defined in the Cr.P.C. and it means the allegations made orally or in writing to a magistrate, with a view to taking action under the Code due to the fact that some person, whether known or unknown, has committed an offence but does not include a police report lodged under Section 154 Cr.P.C. Section 190(1) of the Cr.P.C. contains the provision for cognizance of offences by the Magistrates and it provides three ways by which such cognizance can be taken which are reproduced hereunder:-

(a) Upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b) upon a police report in writing of such facts--that is, facts constituting the offence--made by any police officer;

(c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer or upon the Magistrate's own knowledge or suspicion that such offence has been committed.

An examination of these provisions makes it clear that when a Magistrate takes cognizance of an offence upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence, a case is instituted in the Magistrate's Court and such a case is one instituted on a complaint. Again, when a Magistrate takes cognizance of any offence upon a report in writing of such. facts made by any police officer it is a case instituted in the Magistrate's court on a police report. The scheme underlying Cr.P.C. clearly reveals that anyone who wants to give information of an offence may either approach the Magistrate or the officer in charge of a Police Station. If the offence complained of is a non-cognizable one, the Police Officer can either direct the complainant to approach the Magistrate or he may obtain permission of the Magistrate and investigate the offence. Similarly anyone can approach the Magistrate with a complaint and even if the offence disclosed is a serious one, the Magistrate is competent to take cognizance of the offence and initiate proceedings. It is open to the Magistrate but not obligatory upon him to direct investigation by police. Thus two agencies have been set up for taking offences to the court."

7. I have carefully gone through the order impugned as well as the facts and circumstances of the case. It is apparent on the face of record from the perusal of material evidence collected during investigation, that there is explicit incompatibility between the offences/sections mentioned in the charge sheet submitted by the Investigating Officer and the offences made out from the material collected during investigation. As mentioned above, in the instant case the police on 13.2.2019 have submitted a charge sheet u/s 323, 324, 325, 504, 506 of I.P.C. against Kamil, Alim and Yunus.

8. Aggrieved by the changing of colour and texture of the case, an application was moved by the injured-informant himself on 31.5.2019 (Annexure No.4 to the petition) whereby detailed allegation has been levelled that Tabbal, knife and lathi-danda were used while making assault and injured sustained grievous injuries corresponding to the said weapons over the vital parts i.e. skull and chest. Not only this, there are depressed fractures over the frontal bone and there is a hemorrhage inside the brain of the injured and as per the supplementary medical report, the injuries sustained by the injured are grievous in nature.

9. This is a pre-cognizance stage, where the Magistrate has not taken the cognizance of the offence. Charge-sheet/police report u/s 173(2) of Cr.P.C. is nothing which is simply an opinion of the Investigating Officer based on the material collected during investigation and it is not binding or mandatory upon the Magistrate. The Magistrate may or may not agree with the opinion of the Investigating Officer. It is clear that the cognizance of the offence was taken on 01.2.2021, responding to the application moved by the informant dated 31.5.2019. Prior to this, there was no cognizance order on record. The Magistrate has every right to defer his opinion from the opinion of the Investigating Officer, on the basis of material on record by passing a speaking order.

10. I have perused the order impugned, which reflects judicial application of mind by the learned Magistrate. Learned Magistrate after assessing the entire material collected during investigation found that Investigating Officer has wrongly submitted charge sheet u/s 323, 324, 325, 504, 506 I.P.C., which was not in consonance with the gravity of offences made out on the basis of material collected during investigation.

11. After appreciated the material on record and the application, learned Magistrate was not in agreement with the opinion formed by the Investigating Officer of the case and has dropped Section 325 I.P.C. and replaced it by Section 326 of I.P.C., in addition to Sections 323, 324, 504, 506 I.P.C. I do not find any illegality or infirmity in the impugned order. Taking into account the totality of circumstances, I am not inclined to upset the order impugned or substitute the discretion exercised by the learned Magistrate.

12. However, it is given to understand that the revisionists Kamil and Alim have got themselves bailed out in Sections 323, 324, 326, 504, 506 I.P.C., except Yunus, as such, revisionist Yunus is directed to surrender before the court concerned by 15.6.2022 and apply for bail in added Section 326 I.P.C., which shall be heard and decided by the concerned court below on the same day.

13. It is open for the revisionists that after getting themselves bailed out, they may take recourse of the appropriate provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure at appropriate stage for seeking discharge, if so advised.

14. With the above observation this revision stands disposed off.

Criminal Revision No. 3618 of 2021

Mohd. Danish ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Sri Bibhuti Narayan Singh

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:

A.G.A.

Criminal Law- Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Sections 451 & 457- U.P. Pradesh Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955 (in short "Act of 1955")- Section 3/5A/8 -- Release Application before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chandauli rejected- It is not disputed that the power under Section 451 of Cr.P.C. is not properly and widely used by the court below while passing the orders. The power conferred under Section 451 of Cr.P.C. be exercised by the court below with judicious mind and without any unnecessarily delay, so that the litigant may not suffer. Merely keeping the article in the custody of the police in the open yard will not fulfill any purpose and ultimately it result the damage of the said property. The owner of the property be allowed to enjoy the fruits of the said property for the remaining period for which the property is being made.

Keeping in custody the seized vehicle because it was allegedly used in the commission of the alleged offence would not serve any purpose and it is incumbent upon the courts to release the same by exercising the power u/s 451 of the CrPc.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 457- U.P. Pradesh Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955 (in short "Act of 1955"), Prevention of Cruelty of Animals Act, 1960 – Section 11- As per the amendment made in Section 5 (A) of the Act, 1955 in year 2020, now the power lies with the District Magistrate to seize or release the vehicle. It would be tried by the competent court and thereby taking note of Section 7 and 5A of Act of 1955, the seized vehicle can be released by the court which would try the case by exercising powers, as exist under section 457 Cr.P.C.- Undisputedly the revisionist is the registered owner of the seized vehicle and the ownership of the vehicle is not in dispute, neither the State or any other person has claimed their ownership over the vehicle, therefore, no useful purpose will be served in keeping the vehicle stationed at the police station in the open yard for a long period allowing it to be damaged with the passage of time.

Where the ownership of the seized vehicle is not in dispute the same can also be released by the District Magistrate who may exercise the powers u/s 457 of the CrPc while also taking note of Section 7 and 5A of the Act 1955, as the vehicle is liable to suffer damage while being stationed under custody and the same will not serve any purpose.

Criminal Revision accordingly allowed. (E-3)

Judgements/ Case law relied upon:-

1. Sunderbhai Ambalal Desai & C.M. Mudaliar Vs St. of Guj, AIR 2003 SC 638.

2. Nand Vs St. of U.P., 1996 Law Suit (All) 423

3. Kamaljeet Singh Vs St. of U.P., 1986 U.P. Cri. Ruling 50 (Alld),

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the revisionist, learned A.G.A. for the opposite party and perused the record.

2. This criminal revision has been filed by the revisionist against the judgment and order dated 30.10.2021 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chandauli in Vehicle Release Application No. 479 of 2021 (State of U.P.Vs. Mustafa and others) and release the vehicle of the the revisionist bearing registration no. U.P. 21CN-2082 Truck (closed body) within time specify by this Hon'ble Court.

3. Learned counsel for the revisionist has submitted that the revisionist is the registered owner of Truck bearing registration No. U.P. 21CN-2082 and the said vehicle is having National Permit and also was insured with the New Indian Assuarance Company Limited and also having certificate of pollution and fitness.

4. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that an the opposite party no.3 lodged an F.I.R. bearing F.I.R. No. 0095 of 2021 under Section 3/5A/8 U.P. Pradesh Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955 (in short "Act of 1955"), under Section 11 of the Prevention of Cruelty of Animals Act, 1960 and under Section 379, 411 I.P.C. Police Station, Ali Nager, District Chandauli against one Mustafa and two others namely Mohd. Sohrab and Washir Ali in which vehicle of the revisionist alleged to have been involved.

5. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that the revisionist was also made an accused being owner of the vehicle and he has been released on bail and further submits that the revisionist has moved a release application before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chandauli.

6. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that the release application of the revisionist was rejected by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chandauli on 30.10.2021 on the ground that the District Magistrate will have power to do all proceedings of confiscation and released of the vehicle.

7. Learned counsel for the revisionist has submitted that the vehicle is standing in open yard in the police station since long and with the passage of time ultimately it will become junk and after sometime it is not useful for any purpose. Reliance has been placed on the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sunderbhai Ambalal Desai and C.M. Mudaliar Vs. State of Gujrat, AIR 2003 SC 638.

8. Learned counsel for the revisionist has further drawn the attention of the Court regarding the provisions of Sections 451 and 457 of Cr.P.C., which is quoted as under:-

"451. Order for custody and disposal of property pending trial in certain cases. When any property is produced before any Criminal Court during any inquiry or trial, the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the proper custody of such property pending the conclusion of the inquiry or trial, and, if the property is subject to speedy and natural decay, or if it is otherwise expedient so to do, the Court may, after recording such evidence as it thinks necessary, order it to be sold or otherwise disposed of.

Explanation.- For the purposes of this section," property" includes-

(a) property of any kind or document which is produced before the Court or which is in its custody,

(b) any property regarding which an offence appears to have been committed or which appears to have been used for the commission of any offence.

457. Procedure by police upon seizure of property.

(1) Whenever the seizure of property by any police officer is reported to a Magistrate under the provisions of this Code, and such property is not produced before a Criminal Court during an inquiry or trial, the Magistrate may make such order as he thinks fit respecting the disposal of such property or the delivery of such property to the person entitled to the possession thereof, or if such person cannot be ascertained, respecting the custody and production of such property.(2) If the person so entitled is known, the Magistrate may order the property to be delivered to him on such conditions (if any) as the Magistrate thinks fit and if such person is unknown, the Magistrate may detain it and shall, in such case, issue a proclamation specifying the articles of which such property consists, and requiring any person who may have a claim thereto, to appear before him and establish his claim within six months from the date of such proclamation."

9. Learned counsel for the revisionist has further submitted that the revisionist is ready to comply with all the conditions, which the lower court will impose while releasing the vehicle. Undisputedly, revisionist is the rightful owner of the vehicle, therefore, the vehicle be released in his favour and the impugned order be quashed.

10. Learned A.G.A. has opposed the prayer and detailed counter affidavit has been filed. In the counter affidavit it has been stated that the said vehicle of the revisionist has been involved in Case Crime No.95 of 2021 and if the said vehicle is released, there would be possibility to use the said vehicle in another crime in future and therefore, the vehicle cannot be released in favour of the revisionist.

11. In the rejoinder affidavit filed by the revisionist, it has been stated by the learned counsel for the revisionist that revisionist is an innocent person and has been falsely implicated in the case and the vehicle has nothing do with the alleged offence, therefore, the entire proceedings is against the process of law and is liable to be quashed.

12. After having heard the learned counsel for the parties, I have carefully gone through the relevant legal provisions and the judgments rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sunderbhai Ambalal Desai (supra).

13. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sunderbhai Ambalal Desai, AIR 2003 SC 638 (supra) in para 17 and 21 has been pleased to hold as under:-

"17. In our view, whatever be the situation, it is of no use to keep such seized vehicles at the police stations for a long period. It is for the Magistrate to pass appropriate orders immediately by taking appropriate bond and guarantee as well as security for return of the said vehicles, if required at any point of time. This can be done pending hearing of application for return of such vehicles.

21. However these powers are to be exercised by the concerned Magistrate. We hope and trust that the concerned Magistrate would take immediate action for seeing that powers under Section 451 Cr.P.C. Are properly and promptly exercised and articles are not kept for a long time at the police station, in any case, for not more than fifteen days to one month. This Object can also be achieved if there is proper supervision by the Registry of the concerned High Court in seeing that the rules framed by the High Court with regard to such articles are implemented properly."

14. In Nand Vs. State of U.P., 1996 Law Suit (All) 423 this Court has observed that pendency of the confiscation proceedings under Section 72 of the U. P. Excise Act is not a bar for release of the vehicle which is required for the trial under Section 60 of the U. P. Excise Act. It has been clearly observed by this Court in para 7 that:-

"I think it is not proper to allow the truck to be damaged by remaining stationed at police station. Admittedly, the ownership of the truck is not disputed. The State of Uttar Pradesh does not claim its ownership. Therefore, I think it will be proper and in the larger interest of public as well as the revisionist that the revisionist gives a Bank guarantee of Rs. 2 lakhs before the C.J.M., Kanpur Dehat and files a bond that he shall be producing the truck as and when needed by the criminal courts or the District Magistrate, Kanpur Dehat, and he shall not make any changes nor any variation in the truck."

This Court further has held in the case of Jai Prakash Vs. State of U.P., 1992 AWC 1744 that mere pendency of confiscation proceedings before the Collector is no bar to release the vehicle.

15. In Kamaljeet Singh Vs. State of U.P., 1986 U.P. Cri. Ruling 50 (Alld), the same view was taken by this court that pendency of confiscation proceedings shall not operate as bar against the release of vehicle seized u/s 60 of Excise Act.

16. In the opinion of this Court, it is not disputed that the power under Section 451 of Cr.P.C. is not properly and widely used by the court below while passing the orders. The power conferred under Section 451 of Cr.P.C. be exercised by the court below with judicious mind and without any unnecessarily delay, so that the litigant may not suffer. Merely keeping the article in the custody of the police in the open yard will not fulfill any purpose and ultimately it result the damage of the said property. The owner of the property be allowed to enjoy the fruits of the said property for the remaining period for which the property is being made.

17. It is further observed that as per the amendment made in Section 5 (A) of the Act, 1955 in year 2020, now the power lies with the District Magistrate to seize or release the vehicle. The facts on record show that a case has been registered against one Mustafa and two others namely Mohd. Sohrab and Washir Ali in which vehicle of the revisionist alleged to have been involved bearing F.I.R. No. 95 of 2021 under Section 3/5A/8 U.P. Pradesh Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955 (in short "Act of 1955"), under Section 11 of the Prevention of Cruelty of Animals Act, 1960 and under Section 379, 411 I.P.C. Police Station, Ali Nager, District Chandauli. It would be tried by the competent court and thereby taking note of Section 7 and 5A of Act of 1955, the seized vehicle can be released by the court which would try the case by exercising powers, as exist under section 457 Cr.P.C.

18. No purpose remains to keep the vehicle stationery during the period of trial and therefore release of vehicle can be permitted in a given case by the court trying the case.

19. Further in the opinion of this Court, the procedure as contemplated under Section 457 of Cr.P.C. be also followed promptly, so that the concerned Magistrate may take prompt decision for disposal of such properties and be released in favour of the entitled person of the said property. Keeping the said property in the custody will not solve any purpose and that gives a mental and financial torture to the owner of the said property which is also against the law and against the principles of natural justice.

20. As per the legal propositions mentioned above and keeping in view this fact that undisputedly the revisionist is the registered owner of the seized vehicle and the ownership of the vehicle is not in dispute, neither the State or any other person has claimed their ownership over the vehicle, therefore, no useful purpose will be served in keeping the vehicle stationed at the police station in the open yard for a long period allowing it to be damaged with the passage of time.

21. In view of the above facts and circumstances of the case, the impugned order is not sustainable in the eyes of law and require interference by this court.

22. Accordingly, the criminal revision is allowed and the impugned order dated 30.10.2021 passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chandauli is set aside and the case is remitted back to the concerned court to pass a fresh speaking and reasoned order keeping in view of the settled law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sunderbhai Ambalal Desai, AIR 2003 SC 638 within a period of two months from the date of production of certified copy of this order in accordance with law.

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri Ram Singh, Sri Daya Ram Yadav

A. Motor Accident Claim – Compensation – Term 'Negligence' – Meaning – Negligence means failure to exercise required degree of care expected of a prudent driver. Negligence is the omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided upon the considerations, which ordinarily regulate conduct of human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. Negligence is not always a question of direct evidence, it is an inference to be drawn from proved facts. Negligence is not an absolute term, but is a relative one, it is rather a comparative term. (Para 6)

B. Motor Accident Cases – Hit and run cases – Frequent use of vehicle on road – Principle of liability – Rule of res-ipsa loquitor – Applicability – Held, in view of the fast and constantly increasing volume of traffic, motor vehicles upon roads may be regarded, to some extent, as coming within the principle of liability defined in Rylands's case – 'Hit and run' cases where drivers of motor vehicles who have caused accidents, are unknown – Court cannot dispense with proof of negligence altogether in all cases of motor vehicle accidents, it is possible to develop the law further on the following lines; when a motor vehicle is being driven with reasonable care, it would ordinarily not meet with an accident and, therefore, rule of res-ipsa loquitor as a rule of evidence may be invoked in motor accident cases with greater frequency than in ordinary civil suits. (Para 9 and 10)

C. Motor Accident Claim – Cause of accident – Reasonable care – Burden of proof, on whom lie – Held, the burden of proof would ordinarily be cast on the defendants in a motor accident claim petition to prove that motor vehicle driven by the driver was being driven with reasonable care or it is proved that there is equal negligence on the part the other side in causing the accident – As far as beneficial piece of legislation is concerned, the strict rules of Civil Procedure Code and Evidence Act are no required to adhered to. (Para 12 and 19)

D. Motor Accident claim – Contributory compensation – In accident, truck driver dashed the motorcyclist from behind – Tribunal held that both drivers have equally contributed to the accident – Validity challenged – Held, the driver of the truck to be 80% negligent, the reason being he is not stepped into the witness box. The vehicle while taking a turn whether the indicators were on the evidence is to the contrary as given by the witnesses for the claimants. However, considering the facts that accident occurred in the cross turning whether held the deceased 20% negligence – High Court re-computed compensation. (Para 13 and 15)

E. Civil Law - Income Tax Act, 1961 – Section 194A (3) (ix) – Withdraw of amount of interest – Certificate of Income Tax authority, when required – Held, if the interest payable to any claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs. 50,000/-, insurance Co./owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 – If the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs. 50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimants to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. (Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.
Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ram Singh, learned counsel for the appellants; Shri Pranjal Mehrotra, learned counsel for the respondent; and perused the record.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the claimants, challenges the judgment and award dated 20.10.2012 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/ District Judge, Court No.6, Ghaziabad (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in Motor Accident Claim Petition No.322 of 2011 awarding a sum of Rs.4,95,200/- with interest at the rate of 7% as compensation.

3. The accident and involvement of vehicle are not in dispute. The accidental injuries caused death is also not in dispute. The issue of negligence decided by the Tribunal is in dispute. The respondent concerned has not challenged the liability imposed on them. The issues to be decided are negligence and the quantum of compensation awarded. The judgment is therefore not stuffed with narration of all facts except for deciding negligence and compensation.

4. We are unable to subscribe to the submission of Shri Ram Singh, learned counsel for appellants that the the deceased has not contributed to the accident on our reasonings given later on.

5. In view of the submission made by both the counsels as far as negligence is concerned this court will have to decide the issue of negligence. It would be relevant to discuss the principles for deciding negligence and to decide whether it is a case of composite / contributory negligence which will also have to be looked into and the principles enunciated for considering the same in a motor accident claim will be sifted and discussed finding on negligence.

6. Negligence means failure to exercise required degree of care expected of a prudent driver. Negligence is the omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided upon the considerations, which ordinarily regulate conduct of human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. Negligence is not always a question of direct evidence, it is an inference to be drawn from proved facts. Negligence is not an absolute term, but is a relative one, it is rather a comparative term. What may be negligence in one case may not be so in another. Where there is no duty to exercise care, negligence in the popular sense has no legal consequence. Where there is a duty to exercise care, reasonable care must be taken to avoid acts or omissions which would be reasonably foreseen and likely to cause physical injury to person. The degree of care required, of course, depends upon facts in each case. On these broad principles, the negligence of drivers is required to be assessed.

7. It would be seen that burden of proof for contributory negligence on the part of deceased has to be discharged by the opponents. It is the duty of driver of the offending vehicle to explain the accident. It is well settled law it is the duty of a fast moving vehicle to slow down and if driver did not slow down at, but continued to proceed at a high speed without caring to notice that another vehicle was either or going ahead crossing, then the conduct of driver necessarily leads to conclusion that vehicle was being driven by him rashly as well as negligently and the driver can be held to be the author of the unforseen incident.

8. 10th Schedule appended to Motor Vehicle Act,1988 contains statutory regulations for driving of motor vehicles which also form part of every Driving License. Clause-6 of such Regulation clearly directs that the driver of every motor vehicle must slow down vehicle at every intersection or junction of roads or at a turning of the road. It is also provided that driver of the vehicle should not enter intersection or junction of roads unless he makes sure that he would not thereby endanger any other person. Merely, because driver of the Truck was driving vehicle on the left side of road would not absolve him from his responsibility to slow down vehicle as he approaches tries to overtake of the vehicle on road, particularly when he could have easily seen, that the vehicle in or over which deceased was riding, was being played.

9. In view of the fast and constantly increasing volume of traffic, motor vehicles upon roads may be regarded to some extent as coming within the principle of liability defined in Rylands V/s. Fletcher, (1868) 3 HL (LR) 330, from the point of view of pedestrian, the roads of this country have been rendered by the use of motor vehicles, highly dangerous. 'Hit and run' cases where drivers of motor vehicles who have caused accidents, are unknown.

10. In the light of the above discussion, even if courts may not by interpretation displace the principles of law which are considered to be well settled and, therefore, court cannot dispense with proof of negligence altogether in all cases of motor vehicle accidents, it is possible to develop the law further on the following lines; when a motor vehicle is being driven with reasonable care, it would ordinarily not meet with an accident and, therefore, rule of res-ipsa loquitor as a rule of evidence may be invoked in motor accident cases with greater frequency than in ordinary civil suits (refer Jacob Mathew V/s. State of Punjab, 2005 0 ACJ(SC) 1840).

11. The negligent act must contribute to the accident having taken place. The Apex Court recently has considered the principles of negligence in case of Archit Saini and Another v. Oriental Insurance Company Limited, AIR 2018 SC 1143.

12. The burden of proof would ordinarily be cast on the defendants in a motor accident claim petition to prove that motor vehicle driven by the driver was being driven with reasonable care or it is proved that there is equal negligence on the part the other side in causing the accident.

13. The driver of both the vehicles have been held to be negligent by the tribunal and the tribunal has held that both drivers have equally contributed to the accident having taken place. The fact that the truck hit the vehicle in which the deceased was traveling from behind, is an admitted position of fact that the truck hit the motorcyclist from behind.

14. Learned counsel for the appellant has relied on the decision of this Court in F.A.F.O. No.16 of 2001 United India Insurance Co. Ltd., Gorakhpur v. Smt. Neera Singh and others.

15. The reasonings given for holding the driver of the motorcycle 50% negligence, when a driver driving bigger vehicle has to be more cautious. The driver of the truck even events of the site plan that the truck driver tried to take a turn, the motorcyclist also tried to take turn that is how the truck driver dashed with the motorcyclist. It is an admitted position of fact that the truck driver dashed the motorcycle from behind even as per the site plan, the documentary evidence goes to show that the accident occurred and died at 7 p.m.. We, therefore, held the driver of the truck to be 80% negligent, the reason being he is not stepped into the witness box. The vehicle while taking a turn whether the indicators were on the evidence is to the contrary as given by the witnesses for the claimants. However, considering the facts that accident occurred in the cross turning whether held the deceased 20% negligence.

Compensation

16. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that the Tribunal has not granted any amount towards future loss of income of the deceased which is required to be granted in view of the decision in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050. It is further submitted that amount under non-pecuniary heads granted and the interest awarded by the Tribunal are on the lower side and require enhancement. Learned counsel for appellants/claimants submitted that deceased was Labour Supply Contractor by profession and was earning Rs.9000/- per month. It is also submitted by learned counsel for appellants that as the deceased was survived by his wife and major son and hence the deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased as 1/3 is not disputed by appellants. The multiplier has to be as per age of deceased and tribunal has granted multiplier of 11 which is not disputed by either side. The tribunal has not assessed the future prospects loss of income, it is submitted that should be 25% instead of 20% as per decision of Pranay Sethi (supra) and U.P. M.V. Rules, 2011. Learned counsel for the appellants has relied on the judgment of the Apex Court titled United India, Insurance Co. Ltd. Gorakhpur v. Smt. Neeraj Singh and others, 2017 (1) AWC 636.

17. Learned counsel for the respondents, has vehemently submitted that the contentions raised by the learned counsel for the appellants are unsubstantiated, learned counsel has submitted that the compensation awarded by the Tribunal is just and proper and does not call for any enhancement. It is further submitted that the accident and decision of tribunal is based on the decision of Sarla Verma (Supra) where it is held further loss of income can't be granted to a person who is self employed. The deduction is just and proper as deceased is considered to have equally contributed in causing the accident.

18. Having heard learned counsels for the parties and considered the factual data, this Court finds that the accident occurred on 11.04.2011 causing death of Prabhu Nath Singh who was 50 years of age and left behind him, wife and a major son. The Tribunal has assessed the income of the deceased to be Rs.9000/- per month. The deceased was Labour Supply Contractor by profession. The Tribunal has relied on the judgment of Saead Bashir Ahmad v. Md. Zamil 2009 (1) TAC 794 and decided that the deceased was earning Rs.9000/- p.m.. The evidence of the witnesses has not been accepted. The Apex Court in Vimla Devi and others Vs. National Insurance Company Limited and another, (2019) 2 SCC 186, has held strict rules of Civil Procedure may not be applied. The deceased died due to the accidental injuries is not in dispute. The judgment of the Apex Court in Anita Sharma v. New India Assurance Co. Ltd. (2021), 1 SCC 171 would also apply to the facts of this case.

19. As far as beneficial piece of legislation is concerned, the strict rules of Civil Procedure Code and Evidence Act are no required to adhered to.

20. In view of the judgment of Vimal Kanwar and others v. Kishore Dan and others, AIR 2013 SC 3830 except income Tax, if payable, no amount could have been deducted by the tribunal in the year of question, i.e., 2011, the income of deceased was below taxable income. The income of Rs.9000/- per month of the deceased as considered by tribunal is maintained. The deceased was in age bracket of 40 - 50 years as Labour supply contractor in light of Pranay Sethi (Supra) 25% of the income will have to be added as future prospects in view of the decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050.

21. In this backdrop we evaluate the compensation in view of the judgment of National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050 and Sarla Verma Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation, (2009) 6 SCC 121 and, the recalculation of compensation would be as follows:

i. Income Rs.9000/- p.m.

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 25% namely Rs.2250/-

iii. Total income : Rs. 9000 + 2250= Rs.11,250/-

iv. Income after deduction of 1/3 : Rs.7500/-

v. Annual income : Rs.7500 x 12 = Rs.90,000/-

vi. Multiplier applicable : 11 (as the deceased was in the age bracket of 51-55 years)

vii. Loss of dependency: Rs.90000 x 11 = Rs.9,90,000/-

viii. Amount under non pecuniary heads (Rs.70,000+30,000) = 1,00,000/-

ix. Total compensation : Rs.10,90,000/-.

x. Amount admissible to the Claimants after deduction of negligence to the tune of 20% on the part of the deceased = Rs.8,72,000/-

22. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma V/s. Venugopal, Reported in 2012 (1) GLH 6 (SC), 442, the order of investment is not passed because applicants /claimants are neither illiterate or rustic villagers.

23. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansagauri P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291, total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimant to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) while disbursing the amount.

24. Fresh Award be drawn accordingly in the above petition by the tribunal as per the modification made herein. The Tribunals in the State shall follow the direction of this Court as herein aforementioned as far as disbursement is concerned, it should look into the condition of the litigant and the pendency of the matter and not blindly apply the judgment of A.V. Padma (supra). The same is to be applied looking to the facts of each case.

25. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National 7 Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

26. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and decree passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the amount along with additional amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

27. We are thankful to learned counsels for the parties for ably assisted the Court.

28. Record be sent back to court below forthwith, if any.

First Appeal From Order No. 311 of 2022

Ompal Singh Sharma & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
National Insurance Company Ltd. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri Dinesh Kumar Bhaskar

Counsel for the Resondents:
Sri Krishna Shanker Chaudhary

A. Motor Accident Claim – Act of God or vis major – Meaning – Rylands' rule – Applicability – Coming of blue bull on the road before a vehicle, Trubunal held it as an Act of God – Validity challenged – Held, only those acts, which can be traced to natural forces and which have nothing to do with the intervention of human agency, can be said to be Acts of God – Act of God or vis major are the forces which no human foresight can provide most and of which human prudence is not bound to recognize the possibility – Held further, if the driver of the vehicle would have taken proper care and caution while plying the vehicle at normal speed, the accident could have been avoided because it is not the case that the car hit the blue bull directly but in order to save the blue bull, it rammed into a tree and overturn in a ditch – High Court applied Rylands' rule and declared the finding of the Tribunal holding the accident to be the result of 'No

Negligence' not sustainable in eye of law. (Para 18, 20, 22 23 and 24)

B. Civil Law - Motor Accident Act, 1988 – Section 169 – Claim – Documentary evidence – Standard of proof – Salary certificate of the deceased, duly issued by the authority with official stamp was produced – Tribunal disbelieved it only on the basis that PW-1, the father of the deceased did not deposed even a single word in his testimony to prove it – Held, Tribunal has lost site of the provision of Section 169, under which it can summon any witness to prove a particular document – Moreover, the standard of proof in the motor accident claim petition is not as strict as in civil or criminal law – In order to award just compensation, there is no requirement of law to prove the matter or document beyond reasonable doubt – High Court re-computed compensation by determining Rs. 9,870/- as the income of deceased and adding 50% future loss and multiplier of 18 and awarded 7.5% interest. (Para 27, 28, 30, 33 and 35)

C. Civil Law - Income Tax Act, 1961 – Section 194A (3) (ix) – Withdraw of amount of interest – Certificate of Income Tax authority, when required – Held, if the interest payable to any claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs. 50,000/-, insurance Co./owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 – If the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs. 50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimants to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. (Delivered by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. This appeal has been preferred by the claimants-appellants against the judgment & award dated 30.9.2013 passed by learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/ District Judge, District Bijnor in Motor Accident Claim Petition No.43 of 2012 (Ompal Singh Sharma and others Vs National Insurance Company Ltd. and others), whereby the learned Tribunal has denied the compensation for the death of Prince Sharma in a road accident, holding the accident to be the result of "Act of God', and awarded Rs.50,000/- under no fault liability under Section 140 of Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act, 1988').

2. The claimants-appellants have preferred this appeal for grant of quantum of compensation under Section 166 of Act, 1988.

3. The brief facts of the case are that claimants-appellants filed a Motor Accident Claim Petition before the Tribunal for seeking compensation under Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 for the death of Prince Sharma (deceased) who lost his life in a road accident. As per averments made in claim petition, on 30.7.2011, the deceased - Prince Sharma was traveling in a Wagon-R Car No. U.P.-21 S-1101 with Mohd. Arif Jameel, Assistant Excise Commissioner, Bijnor, after performing their duties from Bijnor to Moradabad. The car was driven by driver- Jameel Ahmad- respondent no. 3. At about 2:30 p.m., when the car reached a little ahead of Gol Bag Tiraha within the jurisdiction of Police Station, Haldaur, suddenly a wild animal Maha (Blue bull / Neelgay), came in front of car, the driver of Car had lost his control over the Car and dashed against the tree and fell down in a ditch. In this accident, Prince Sharma and Mohd. Jameel Ahmad sustained serious injuries and Prince Sharma (deceased) died on the spot.

4. It is also averred that the age of the deceased was 23 years and he was posted as constable in Excise Department, Bijnor was receiving salary of Rs.12,000/- per month.

5. Aggrieved mainly with the non grant of compensation under Section 166 of Motor Vehicles Act awarded, the appellants have preferred this appeal.

6. Heard learned counsel for the appellants-claimants and learned counsel for the respondents. Perused the record.

7. Learned counsel for the appellants-claimants has submitted that impugned judgment and award is against the law. Learned Tribunal has held that the driver of the car was not negligent but this finding is erroneous because if the vehicle would have been driven with proper care and caution, the accident could have been avoided. Learned Tribunal has adopted incorrect approach, because the vehicle was not being driven at a normal speed. In fact, the driver lost the control on staring and the vehicle dashed into the tree.

8. Per contra, learned counsel for the Insurance Company has vehemently objected the submissions of learned counsel for the appellants-claimants and submitted that it is established on record that a blue bull appeared in front of car, tired his best to save the accident but the car dashed into a tree. Hence, in this accident, the car driver was not negligent. It is next submitted by by learned counsel that the father of the deceased is produced before the Tribunal as PW-1 and a so called eye witness Brijesh Sharma is produced as PW-

2. Both these witnesses have deposed in their testimony that in the said accident, the car driver was not negligent and the accident had taken place due to sudden appears of blue bull. Hence, the appellants have failed to prove that the car driver was negligent under Section 166 of Motor Vehicle Act, 1988, the claim petition can succeeds if the negligence of the driver is proved.

9. Learned counsel for the insurance company has submitted that the information of the accident was reported to police station of which entry is made in General Diary (GD). This GD entry also says that the accident took place due to sudden appears of blue bull. Hence, learned Tribunal has rightly concluded that in the aforesaid accident, the car driver was not negligent and rightly dismissed the claim petition by awarding a sum of Rs.50,000/-, under No Fault Liability , hence there is no illegality in the impugned order which calls for interference by this Court.

10. In addition to the aforesaid submissions, learned counsel for Insurance Company has vehemently submitted that the accident took place as blue bull came on the road all of sudden which was beyond the control of driver of the car and in order to save the blue bull caused the accident. Hence, there was no negligence and the accident in question was result of 'Act of God'.

11. The question which arises is whether the accident was the result only because the blue bull came on the road as held by Tribunal or it was 'human negligence'. While deciding the claim petition, learned Tribunal has not kept in mind the standard of proof required in Motor Accident Claim Petition.

12. In Anita Sharma and Others Vs. The New India Assurance Co. Ltd. and Another, (2021) 1 SCC 171, the Full Bench of Hon'ble Apex Court reiterated the view taken in Parmeshwari Vs. Amir Chand, (2011) 11 SCC 635, that it is very difficult to trace the witnesses and collecting information for an accident which took place many hundreds of kilometers away and further it is held by Hon'ble Apex Court in Anita Sharma and Others (Supra) that in a situation of this nature, the Tribunal has to take a holistic view of the matter. It was necessary to be borne in mind that strict proof of an accident caused by a particular vehicle in a particular manner may not be possible to be done by the claimants. The claimants were merely to establish their case on the touchstone of preponderance of probability.

13. The Division Bench of Madras High Court also held in Reliance General Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Subbulakshmi and Others, passed in C.MA. No. 1482 of 2017 [C.M.P. No. 7919 of 2017. (CMA Sr. No. 76893 of 2016)] has referred the case of Puspabai Purshottam Udeshi Vs. Ranjit Ginning and Pressing Co., 1977ACJ 343 (SC), in which it is observed that the normal rule is that it is for the plaintiff to prove negligence but as in some cases considerable hardship is caused to the plaintiff as the true cause of the accident is not known to him but is solely within the knowledge of the defendant who caused it, the plaintiff can prove the accident but cannot prove how it happened to establish negligence on the part of the defendant. This hardship is sought to be avoided by applying the principle of res ipsa loquitur. The general purport of the words res ipsa loquitur is that the accident 'speaks for itself or tells its own story. There are cases in which the accident speaks for itself so that it is sufficient for the plaintiff to prove the accident and nothing more. It will then be for the defendant to establish that the accident happened due to some other cause than his own negligence. Where the maxim is applied the burden is on the defendant to show either that in fact he was not negligent or that the accident might more probably have happened in a manner which did not connote negligence on his part. For the application of the principle it must be shown that the car was under the management of the defendant and that the accident is such as in ordinary course of things does not happen if those who had the management used proper care.

14. In Bimla Devi and Others VS. Himachal RTC reported in 2009 (13) SCC 530, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that it was necessary to be borne in mind that strict proof of an accident caused by a particular vehicle in a particular manner may not be possible to be done by the claimants. The claimants were merely to establish their case on the touchstone of preponderance of probability. The standard of proof beyond reasonable doubt could not have been applied.

15. In our case, the deceased was traveling in the car, with Assistant Excise Commissioner, Bijnor and Mohd Arif Jameel and the car was being driven by driver Jameel Ahmad- respondent no.3. The deceased died on the spot. The driver of the car has not stepped into the witness box while he was the best witness to depose and prove the manner in which the accident took place. It is not disputed that the accident had taken place due to coming of blue bull on the road but the evidence has been misread by the learned Tribunal.

16. It is the version of appellants-claimants as well as respondents and learned Tribunal also reached to the conclusion that accident took place in order to save the vehicle from blue bull which came on the road all of sudden. Now here comes the question, if the blue bull came on the road before a vehicle whether it can be held that negligence was not proved.

17. While considering the question of inevitable accident, it will be useful to reproduce a passage from celebrated treaties on the Law of Torts, by Justice G. P. Singh.

"All causes of inevitable accidents may be divided into two classes.

(1) Those which are occasioned by the elementary forces of nature unconnected with the agency of man or other cause; and

(2) Those which have their origin either in the whole or in part in the agency of man, whether in acts of commission or omission, non-feasance or mis-feasance or in any other causes independent of the agency of natural forces. The term 'act of God' is applicable to the former class."

18. Act of God is one arising from natural causes. Some of the well-known instances of "Act of God" are the storms, the tides and the volcanic eruptions. They are, in a sense, inevitable accidents beyond the control of man. What is urged in this case is that all inevitable accidents must be taken as acts of God. Matters which are not within the power of any party to prevent are to be considered as acts of God as per the Insurance Company. We are unable to concur with the aforesaid argument of learned counsel for the Insurance Company. In our view, the accident may happen by reason of the play of natural forces or by intervention of human agency or by both. It may be that in either of these cases accidents may be inevitable. But it is only those acts which can be traced to natural forces and which have nothing to do with the intervention of human agency that could be said to be Acts of God. Cockburn C. J.. in the leading case in Nugent v. Smith. (1876-1 CPD 423) said.

"It is at once obvious, as was pointed out by Lord Mansfield in Forward v. Pittard, that all causes of inevitable accident--" "fortuitus" -- may be divided into two classes -- those which are occasioned by the elementary forces of nature unconnected with the agency of man or other cause, and those which have their origin either in the whole or in part in the agency of man, whether in acts of commission or omission, of nonfeasance or of misfeasance, or in any other cause independent of the agency of natural forces. It is obvious that it would be altogether incongruous to apply the term "act of God" to the latter class of inevitable accident. It is equally clear that storm and tempest belong to the class to which the term "act of God" is properly applicable."

19. In Halsbury's Laws of England, Vol. 8, 3rd Edition, page 183, this question is dealt with as under:

"An act of God. In the legal sense of the term, may be defined as an extraordinary occurrence or circumstance which could not have been foreseen and which could not have been guarded against; or. more accurately, as an accident due to natural causes, directly and exclusively without human intervention, and which could not have been avoided by any amount of foresight and pains and care reasonably to be expected of the person sought to be made liable for it or who seeks to excuse himself on the around of it. The occurrence need not be unique, nor need it be one that happens for the first time; it is enough that it is extraordinary, and such as could not reasonably be anticipated. The mere fact that a phenomenon has happened once, when it does not carry with it or import any probability of a recurrence (when, in other words, if does not imply any law from which its recurrence can be inferred) does not prevent that phenomenon from being an act of God. It must, however, be something overwhelming and not merely an ordinary accidental circumstance, and it must not arise from the act of man."

20. Coming of blue bull on the road before a vehicle, as in the case on hand, cannot be termed to hold that claimant did not prove negligence. It is admitted fact that the car, in which, the deceased was traveling dashed into the tree even if it is believed that it was while saving the blue bull and overturned in a big pit. The driver could not control his vehicle and lost control and dashed with tree. This is not the case that vehicle dashed into blue bull but it dashed into tree, when the driver tried to save the blue bull from hitting the car, which goes to show that the car was being plied at a high speed, had the car being driven at normal speed, the accident could have been avoided or its impact could be minimized. This fact itself shows the negligence of the driver, who was driving the vehicle at an excessive speed. The Rule propounded in Rylands Vs. Fletcher, 1868 Law Reports (3) HL 330, can apply to accidents of vehicles in such cases and in motor accident cases.

21. The above Rule eventually gained approval in a large number of decisions rendered by Courts in England and abroad. Winfield on Torts has brought out even a Chapter on the "Rule in Rylands Vs.

Fletcher. At page 543 of the 15th Edn. Of the calibrated work the learned author has pointed out that "over the years Rylands Vs. Fletcher has been applied to a remarkable variety of things; fire gas, explosions, electricity, oil, noxious, fumes, colliery spoil, rusty wire from a decayed fence, vibrations, poisonous vegetation.

22. Act of God or vis major are the forces which no human foresight can provide most and of which human prudence is not bound to recognize the possibility. We are, therefore, of the opinion that even apart from Section 140 of Motor Vehicles Act, a victim in an accident which occurred while using motor vehicle is entitled to get compensation from the Tribunal, unless any exception applies.

23. We are of the considered opinion that if the driver of the vehicle would have taken proper care and caution while plying the vehicle at normal speed, the accident could have been avoided because it is not the case that the car hit the blue bull directly but in order to save the blue bull, it rammed into a tree and overturn in a ditch.

24. Hence, the finding of learned Tribunal holding the accident to be the result of ' No Negligence' is not sustainable in eye of law and we hold that the accident had taken place due to the negligence of the driver of car involved in the accident.

25. The policy being in vogue and though orally submitted by counsel for respondents that there is breach of policy and the insurance company did not challenge the award as the amount awarded was under Section 140 M.V. Act, if this Court decides not to relegate the appellants to Tribunal. The oral objection be heard. We have perused the record, there is no breach of policy proved which can either exonerate the Insurance Company or permit this Court to grant recovery rights to Insurance Company. The finding of fact that the driver of the vehicle had proper driving licence is concurred with us. The finding that the vehicle was insured on the date of accident is also answered against insurance company.

26. The quantum of compensation payable to the appellants-claimants will have to be decided as record is before this Court and accident is decade old. We first thought that the matter can be relegated to the learned Tribunal for fixation of the quantum of compensation but we are mindful of the fact that this is a case in which the accident happened more than 10 years ago. Hence, we incline to fix the quantum of compensation here itself in view of the judgment of Bithika Mazumdar and another Vs. Sagar Pal and Others, (2017) 2 SCC 748 and of this Court in F.A.F.O. No. 1999 of 2007 (Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Smt. Ummida Begum and others) and also in F.A.F.O. No. 1404 of 1999 (Smt. Ragini Devi and others Vs. United India Insurance Company Ltd. and another) decided on 17.04.2019 wherein it has been held that if the record is with the appellate Court, it can decide the compensation instead of relegating the parties to the Tribunal.

27. We find it very strange that the learned Tribunal has opined that the claimants - appellants have failed to prove that the deceased was an employee in the police department as per finding of issue no. 5, while on this issue the learned Tribunal has perused the salary certificate of the deceased which is duly issued by the excise department holds that the same is not proved. Learned Tribunal has disbelieved this salary certificate only on the basis that the father of the deceased PW-1 Om Pal Singh Sharma has not deposed even a single word in his testimony to prove the alleged salary certificate. If it is so then also, in our opinion the learned Tribunal has lost site of the provision of Section 169 of Act, 1988. The learned Tribunal has all the powers of Civil Procedure Code, 1908 with regard to summon any witness to prove a particular document who award just compensation to the claimants, learned Tribunal in suo moto summoned the concerned employee of Excise Department as a witness to prove the salary certificate of the deceased but the Tribunal has failed to do so.

28. Moreover, the salary certificate is on record which is duly issued by Assistant Excise Commissioner, Bijnor under his signature and official stamp. Moreover, the standard of proof in the motor accident claim petition is not as strict as in civil or criminal law. Proving any document in order to award just compensation, there is no requirement of law to prove the matter or document beyond reasonable doubt.

29. In this case, the father of the deceased, PW-1 has specifically deposed in his cross examination that ' esjs yM+ds dh ukSdjh izkscslu ij Fkh'. Moreover, in his examination-in-chief, he has disclosed the salary of his deceased son at Rs.12,000/- per month. This testimony of PW-1 is fully corroborated with the copy of salary certificate issued by Excise Department which is not proved otherwise but even then the learned Tribunal did not take any pain to summon the concerned employee / accountant of the department with regard to salary certificate. Hence, it can be said that the learned Tribunal did not award just compensation to the claimants and has lost sight of beneficial legislative intention.

30. Keeping in view the oral and documentary evidence on record, we are of the considered opinion that the deceased was a constable in excise department although he was on probation. Copy of his last salary certificate shows his gross salary at Rs.9,947/- per month, wash allowance at the rate of Rs.29/- and cycle allowance at the rate of Rs.48/- will not be admissible for the purpose of computation of salary. Hence, we take the income of the deceased at Rs.9,870/- per month.

31. Since the age of the deceased was below 40 years and he was just 23 years old and he was in permanent job, 50% would be added towards future loss of income as held by Hon'ble Apex Court in National Insurance Company vs. Pranay Sethi [2014 (4) TAC 637 (SC)]. Keeping in view the 23 years of age of the deceased, multiplier of 18 would be applied in the light of the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Smt.Sarla Verma vs. Delhi Transport Corporation [2009 (2) TAC 677 (SC)]. The deceased is survived by his parents but the appellant nos. 3 and 4 are brother of the deceased and both are major, hence, it cannot be assumed that they would have been dependant on the deceased. Hence, as per the judgment of Apex Court in Munna Lal Jain & Anr. Vs. Vipin Kumar Sharma & Ors. 2015 (6) SCALE 552, ½ half would be deducted for the personal expenses.

32. In the light of judgment of Pranay Sethi (Supra), appellant shall be entitled to get Rs.15,000/- for loss of estate and Rs.15,000/- for funeral expenses. The father and mother of the deceased will also get Rs.40,000/- each for loss of love and affection as they had lost their young son in the road accident.

33. Hence, the total amount of compensation, in view of the above discussions, payable to the appellants is being computed herein below:

1.	Annual income i.e. Rs.9,870/- (per month) X 12	Rs.1,18,440/- P/A
2.	Percentage towards future prospect : 50%	Rs.59,220/-
3.	Total income : Rs.1,18,440/- + Rs.59,220/- =	Rs.1,77,660/-
4.	Income after deduction of ½ half : Rs.1,77,660/- - Rs.88,830/-	Rs.88,830/-
5.	Multiplier applicable : 18 :- Rs.88,830/- X 18	Rs.15,98,940/-
6.	Amount under non pecuniary head : Rs.15,000 + Rs.15,000 + Rs.40,000/- + Rs.40,000 + 10 % upward revision of every three years.	Rs.1,10,000/-
7.	Total compensation: Rs.15,98,940/- + Rs.1,10,000/-	Rs. 17,10,000/- (rounded up)
8.	Amount after deduction of no fault liability : Rs.17,10,000/- - Rs.50,000/-	Rs.16,60,000/-.

34. It is pointed out by learned counsel for the Insurance Company that the appeal is delayed by 1263 days and the interest of the aforesaid period would not be paid to the appellants-claimants.

35. It is rightly pointed out by the learned counsel for the Insurance Company that appeal is delayed by 1263 days, hence, interest of one year should be deducted. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under:

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

36. We fix the rate of interest as 7.5% per annum till the date of judgment by the learned Tribunal. No interest would be paid for one year after the judgment of learned Tribunal and 6% per annum rate of interest would be paid thereafter.

37. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and award passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest as discussed above from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

38. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansagori P. Ladhani vs. The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., [2007(2) GLH 291] and this High Court in total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimants to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) and in First Appeal From Order No.2871 of 2016 (Tej Kumari Sharma v. Chola Mandlam M.S. General Insurance Co. Ltd.) decided on 19.3.2021 while disbursing the amount.

39. The Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Union of India and Others, vide order dated 27.01.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. Since long time has elapsed, the amount be deposited in the Saving Bank Account of claimant(s) in a nationalized Bank without F.D.R.

5. Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Co. Pvt. Ltd. Vs U.O.I. & ors. decided by the Apex Court on 27.1.2022

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. Heard Sri Shashi Prakash Singh, assisted by Sri Satish Kumar Rai, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Rahul Pandey, learned counsel for the respondents-claimants.

2. This appeal challenges the order dated 12.9.2019 which was passed in M.A.C.P. No.787 of 2002 by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Ghaziabad, wherein the Tribunal, after the remand by this Court, has decided the matter on the issue of quantum of compensation as directed by this Court in F.A.F.O. No.1087 of 2007 which was preferred by the claimants (quorum : Hon.Mr.Justice Sudhir Agrawal and Hon.Mr.Justice Brijesh Kumar Srivastava-II).

3. The award was for grant of compensation for the death of the bread winner of whom the respondents are the legal heirs. The respondents had challenged the award passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal dated 12.9.2019. First Appeal From Order No.1087 of 2007. No appeal was preferred by the Union of India. The Union of India had not challenged nor had filed any cross-objection in the said appeal. After a period of about 8 years more particularly on 15.7.2015, the matter was remitted back to the Tribunal and paragraph no.11 of the said judgement reads as follows:-

"11. The appeal is accordingly partly allowed. The matter is remanded to the Tribunal to decide the matter afresh on the question of quantum of compensation only. The Tribunal shall not be prejudiced by any of the observations made by us in the body of the judgment. Since the matter is old, it shall be decided by Tribunal expeditiously, keeping its own roster in mind."

4. The matter came to be remanded only on the short point as stated above. We do not find any illegality in quantum fixed by Tribunal. In this appeal, grounds of negligence are urged. Counsel for Union of India has contended that the question of contributory negligence was not decided by the Tribunal. The facts of the case rather there is a categorical challenge in paragraph nos. (vii) and (viii). The question now arises whether after a period of 14 years when the Union of India sat silent, can they now be permitted to raise the following grounds:-

"(vii) Because, the Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Bijoy Kumar Dugar Vs. Bidyadhar Dutta and others, reported in (2006) 3 SCC 242, has laid down the law that the drivers of both the vehicles should be held responsible equally in case of head on collision and as such in the present case learned Claims Tribunal had erred in holding the negligence of Bus driver and fixing the entire liability upon the appellant/defendant CRPF Tata Bus.

(viii) Because, the driver of the Bus Shri Ratan Kumar Dutta appeared in the witness box as DW-2 and stated on oath that the deceased was driving his car and coming from the opposite direction. At the time of accident, he was overtaking the three wheeler and in order to crossing the three wheeler, he lost his control and dashed in the offending bus resulting died on the spot."

5. The Tribunal on remand has very categorically mentioned that the parties were heard only for quantum. With this prelude, this appeal preferred by the Union of India and Commandant 48 Vahini, 138 Battalion, C.R.P.F. Group Centre, Durgapur West Bengal (Owner of Vehicle No.HR-68/0104) requires to be decided. In UPSRTC Vs. Km. Mamta and others, reported in AIR 2016 SC 948, the Apex Court has held that all the grounds raised in appeal must be decided by the appellate court but at the outset a question would arise can after a period of 15 years, a decided controversy which was already decided and in which the appellant herein had not agitated can be agitated for the first time in challenging the subsequent award. The grounds of challenge is to the order dated 12.9.2019 contending that the said is based on perverse findings of fact and contrary to law. The next ground is urged in paragraph no.8 as narrated herein above. This ground cannot be re-agitated and cannot be re-decided when the Union of India had not agitated this ground in the year 2007. Now raising these grounds for the first time after 15 years while challenging the award of 2019 which had to deal only with compensations cannot be permitted.

6. The submissions that the Insurance company of Maruti Car is necessary party and be impleaded cannot be accepted at this belated stage. It is submitted that the Tribunal has shown unplaced sympathy in calculating the compensation. It is submitted that the quantum granted is highly excessive. It would, therefore, be necessary to evaluate the quantum granted.

7. It is a decided fact that the deceased was salaried person. He was M.Sc. in Organic Chemistry and has done his Ph.D. He was Director with Dr. Tyagi Lab Pvt. Ltd. for which he used to get salary of Rs. 1,80,000/- per annum. The income-tax return have been also considered and it was on the basis of the income-tax return that his income was considered by this High Court while remanding the matter as well as the Tribunal. The Tribunal considered his income to be Rs.6,27,121/- per annum and added only 10% whereas the U.P. Motor Vehicles Rules, 1998 amended in 2011 obliged to add 20% for future loss of income. 1/4th has been deducted as personal expenses looking to the legal heirs of deceased. The Tribunal granted multiplier of 11. Unfortunately, only Rs. 15,000 + Rs. 15,000 + Rs. 40,000/- as non-pecuniary damages as per judgment of Smt. Sarla Verma and others Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in 2009 ACJ 1298. We are, therefore, unable to accept the submission of the Counsel for the Union of India that compensation granted is exorbitant rather the Tribunal has not decided compensation as directed by High Court in F.A.F.O. No.1087 of 2007 decided on 15.7.2015.

8. This takes us to the grounds raised, the Tribunal has not directed that the amount earlier deposited be deducted. It goes without saying that the amount earlier paid has to be adjusted and for that no separate order or direction was necessary. We need not to pass any fresh direction on the ground that the interest @ 7% is highly excessive and without jurisdiction. It is not countenanced by us. The Rule 220 of the Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicles Rules also mentions that 7% rate of interest has to be granted and it is just and proper, infact, as far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, the interest should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.). The compensation which has been awarded is on the basis of the facts and circumstances and observation of this Court in appeal preferred by respondents-claimants and we do not find any reason to interfere in the same.

9. The grounds, which are taken by the appellants except the ground of quantum, cannot be now agitated after a period of 15 years. The said grounds were available to the appellants where the Tribunal decided the lis between the parties namely in the year 2007. Up to 15.7.2015, the appellants herein did not even raise oral objection to the said award where the Tribunal had awarded a meagre sum of Rs. 2,76,500/- whereas this Court deprecated the same by reasoned order on the basis of the income-tax return. The Tribunal fixed notional income was a finding of fact and as narrated above, even in the later part of this second round of litigation, the Tribunal has though considered the judgment of Pranay Sethi (supra). The respondents may have been now tired as 20 years of elapsed from the date they lost their bread-winner. The minors have become major and, therefore, may be the respondents might not have filed what is known as cross-objection or oral cross-objection.

10. The appeal fails and is dismissed. We deprecate the practice of Union of India agitating a ground which has attained finality under the guise that the Tribunal has committed error in not deciding the issue of negligence. It is stated by the appellant that the entire amount has been deposited. We request the registry of the Tribunal to disburse the said amount in view of A.V. Padma V/s. Venugopal, Reported in 2012 (1) GLH (SC), 442. The record be sent back to the Tribunal.

11. The Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Private Ltd. v. Union of India and others vide order dated 27.1.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation in F.D.R. is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. As 20 years have elapsed, the amount be deposited in the Saving Account of claimants in Nationalized Bank without F.D.R. We should have dismissed this appeal with costs as it is an after thought to challenge the award on grounds which had attained finality and there is a delay of considerable time but as claimants have not filed cross-objection, but we award litigation fees of Rs. 10,000/- to the claimants for this protracted litigation.

12. We are thankful to both the counsels for getting this matter disposed of.

13. Records be sent back to the Tribunal.

First Appeal From Order No. 2019 of 2021

Akhilesh Kumar Anand ...Appellant
Versus
Rahul Mishra & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Pradip Kumar Shukla

Counsel for the Resondents:
Sri Ajay Singh

A. Civil Law - Motor Accident Act, 1988 – Power of Claim Tribunal – Documentary evidence – Standard of Proof – Deceased was a teacher – Salary certificate and salary payment register filed, yet the Tribunal has not relied on this documentary evidence merely on the ground that no concern employee was called by the claimant to prove the salary certificate of the deceased – Permissibility – Held, Tribunal has taken hyper technical view which was not required because the compensation to be awarded under Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 has to be assessed by taking holistic approach as the Act is a benevolent piece of legislation – While deciding the claim petition under the aforesaid act, the Tribunal should not take hyper technical view because the standard of proof is not equated with that of civil litigation or criminal law – High Court re-computed the compensation by adding 50% future prospect and applying multiplier of 17 and awarded 7.5% interest. (Para 9, 10, 16 and 17)

B. Civil Law - Income Tax Act, 1961 – Section 194A (3) (ix) – Withdraw of amount of interest – Certificate of Income Tax authority, when required – Held, if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs. 50,000/-, insurance Co./owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 – And if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs. 50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimants to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income-Tax Authority – Smt. Hansagori P. Ladhani's case relied upon. (Para 20)

Appeal partly allowed. (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. This appeal challenges the judgement and award dated 10.01.2019 passed by Motor Accident Claim Tribunal/Additional District Judge, Court No.11, Kanpur Nagar in MACP No.370 of 2014 (Akhilesh Kumar Anand Vs. Rahul Mishra and others), whereby the learned Tribunal has awarded Rs.6,82,000/- as compensation on account of death of the wife of the claimant/appellant in a road accident with rate of interest 7% per annum.

2. Heard Shri Pradip Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Ajay Singh, learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondents.

3. Brief facts of the case are that a claim petition was filed by appellant on account of death of his wife in a road accident before the learned Tribunal, in which averments are made that on 04.11.2011 at about 10:30 am the deceased was standing besides road near bus stop within the jurisdiction of police station-Kotwali, District- Fatehpur. All of sudden a Tata Safari bearing No.UP 78 BH 2707 came from behind, which was being driven rashly and negligently by its driver. The aforesaid vehicle hit the deceased from behind and the deceased sustained serious injuries. She died on 10.11.2011 during treatment in hospital.

4. The owner and insurance company of the offending vehicle filed their respective statements, in which they denied the accident. Learned Tribunal held that driver of the offending vehicle was negligent and responsible for the accident and awarded the said compensation.

5. In this appeal, the accident is not in dispute. The liability of the insurance company to pay the compensation is also not in dispute. The issue of negligence has attained finality. Now there remains only issue of quantum of compensation to be decided in this appeal.

6. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the learned Tribunal has not awarded just compensation. The age of the deceased was 30 years and she was teacher in Rajkiya Balika Ucchatar Madhyamik Vidyalal, Fatehpur. Her salary was Rs.28,381 per month but the learned Tribunal has not relied on the documentary evidence with regard to the salary of the deceased nor the oral evidence is believed and consequently learned Tribunal has assumed the income of the deceased at Rs.3,000/- per month only. It is also submitted that the appellant has filed salary certificate which is duly attested by District Inspector of Schools yet it is not believed by learned Tribunal on the ground that the aforesaid certificate is not proved by calling the concerned employee of the school.

7. Learned counsel for the insurance company vehemently objected the submissions made by the appellant and submitted that merely the filing of salary certificate is not enough unless it is got proved by summoning the concerned employee of the school with record. Hence, the appellant is failed to prove the income of the deceased and the learned Tribunal has rightly assessed the income of the deceased at Rs.3,000/- per month. There is no illegality or infirmity in the impugned judgement which calls for any interference by this Court.

8. With regard to the quantum of compensation, is in relation with the income of the deceased who admittedly was an educated and highly qualified person was a teacher and not laborer the learned Tribunal has added 50% of income for calculating future loss of income and has deducted 1/3 for personal expenses of the deceased. Learned Tribunal has rightly applied the multiplier of 17 as envisaged in the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in Smt.Sarla Verma vs. Delhi Transport Corporation [2009 (2) TAC 677 (SC)] . Learned Tribunal has also awarded non-pecuniary damages at Rs.70,000/- as per judgement of Apex Court in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050. Learned Tribunal has granted the rate of interest 7% per annum. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that rate of interest should be enhanced.

9. As far as income of the deceased is concerned, the learned Tribunal has altogether disbelieved the documentary as well as oral evidence in this regard. Although, the salary certificate and the copy of salary payment register are on the record yet the Tribunal has not relied on this documentary evidence merely on the ground that no concerned employee was called by the claimant to prove the salary certificate of the deceased. Hence, it was held that the same cannot be read in evidence and was totally discarded.

10. In our view the learned Tribunal has taken hyper technical view which was not required because the compensation to be awarded under Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 has to be assessed by taking holistic approach as the Act is a benevolent piece of legislation. While deciding the claim petition under the aforesaid act, the Tribunal should not take hyper technical view because the standard of proof is not equated with that of civil litigation or criminal law.

11. The Apex court decision in Anita Sharma Vs. New India Assurance Company Ltd, 2021 (1) SCC 171 and Vimla Devi and others Vs. National Insurance Company Limited and another, (2019) 2 SCC 186, has held that strict proof of all facts is not necessary to decide the motor accident claim petition. The Tribunal should take the holistic view of the matter and the claimant has to establish his/her case on the touchstone of preponderance of probability.

12. The Division Bench of Madhya Pradesh High Court in Reliance General Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Subbulakhmi and others passed in CMA No.1482 of 2017 has also expressed the same view with regard to the standard of proof.

13. In Bimla Devi and others Vs. Himachal Road Transport Corporation and others 2009 (2013) SCC 530, also the Apex Court held that the claimants were merely to establish their case on the touchstone of preponderance of probability. The standard of proof beyond reasonable doubt could not have been applied.

14. Learned Tribunal has discarded the documentary evidence, filed by the appellant with regard to the salary of the deceased. Learned Tribunal could have invoked the powers under Section 169 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, which gives claims Tribunal all the powers of Civil Courts for the purpose of taking evidence, and enforcing the attendance of the witnesses and compel the discovery and proof of documents and material objects. If the learned Tribunal wanted to get the salary certificate and payment register to be proved, it could have suo moto summoned the concerned employee of the school with original record because it is the duty of the Tribunal to award "just compensation'.

15. In the case on hand, the appellant has filed the salary certificate of the deceased, which is issued by the Principal of the concerned school, in which the deceased was working as a teacher. In the said certificate the monthly salary of the deceased is shown at Rs.28,581/-. It is also pertinent to mention that District Inspector of School, Fatehpur has sent to the Tribunal a copy of salary payment register, pertaining to the deceased, under his own signature vide letter No.4895 dated 27.11.2018. The copy of salary payment register is also attested by District Inspector of School. Even though, the learned Tribunal has not believed this evidence, which is not the correct appreciation the evidence. Learned Tribunal has itself mentioned in impugned judgement that the salary certificate is filed in original. There is no contention of insurance company that the salary certificate and payment register are fake. The fact that the deceased was working as a teacher is established on record, yet the learned Tribunal has committed an error in equating the deceased with the laborer by assuming the income of the deceased at Rs.3,000/- per month. Learned Tribunal has relied on the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in Lakshmi Devi Devi Vs. Mohd. Tabbar and others 2008 (2) TAC 394 (SC) but this decision cannot be applied to the facts of the case in hand because in our case this fact is established on record that deceased was a teacher and was earning and not a laborer. Hence, we are of the considered view that learned Tribunal has fallen in error by equating the deceased with the laborer. The salary certificate shows the salary of the deceased at Rs.28,381/- per month which is confirmed by the copy of payment register, which also shows the payment of salary of the deceased at Rs.28,381/- per month. There is no other dispute except the rate of interest.

i.	Income of the deceased		Rs.28,381/-
ii.	Percentage towards Future-Prospects (50%)	Rs.28,381/- + 50%	Rs.14,190/-
iii.	Total Income	Rs.28,381/-+ Rs.14,190/-	Rs.42,571/-
iv.	Income after 1/3 deduction for personal expenses	Rs.42,571/- - Rs.14,190/-	Rs.28,381/-
v.	Annual income	Rs.28,381/- x 12	Rs.3,40,572/-
vi.	Multiplier applicable	17
vii.	Loss of dependency	Rs.3,40,572/- x 17	Rs.57,89,724/-
viii.	Amount under Non-pecuniary Heads		Rs.70,000/-
ix	Total Compensation	Rs.57,89,724/- +Rs.70,000/-	Rs.58,59,724/-

17. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under:

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

18. Learned Tribunal has awarded rate of interest as 7% per annum but we are fixing the rate of interest as 7.5% in the light of the above judgment.

19. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and award passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The insurance company shall deposit the amount within a period of 8 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

20. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansagori P. Ladhani vs. The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., [2007(2) GLH 291] and this High Court in total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimants to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) and in First Appeal From Order No.2871 of 2016 (Tej Kumari Sharma v. Chola Mandlam M.S. General Insurance Co. Ltd.) decided on 19.3.2021 while disbursing the amount.

21. The Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Privae Ltd. vs. Union of India and others vide order dated 27.1.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. Since long time has elapsed, the amount be deposited in the Saving Bank Account of claimant(s) in a nationalized Bank without F.D.R.

A. Civil Law - Motor Accident Act, 1988 – Section 169 – Claim – Compensation – Documentary evidence – Proof – 42 years old person died in accident, was Head Master – Tribunal has brushed aside the document on basis that it is not a public document and cannot be taken in evidence and hence considers the income of deceased as that of a labourer – Validity challenged – Held, the document may not be public document, if the tribunal had doubt, it could invoke procedure u/s 169 and could suo moto summoned the officer who had issued the certificate but without any rebuttal evidence by owner or insurance Co. could not have discarded the document and decided that deceased who was a person in vocation was equated with labourer – High Court re-computed compensation by determining the income of deceased Rs. 27,000/- and adding 30% future prospects and multiplier of 14 and awarded 7.5% interest. (Para 18, 20 and 22)

B. Motor Accident Claim – Rash and negligent driving – Term 'Negligence' – Meaning – Principle of 'res ipsa loquitur', when it can be applied – Negligence means failure to exercise care towards others which a reasonable and prudent person would in a circumstance or taking action which such a reasonable person would not. Negligence can be both intentional or accidental though it is normally accidental – If the injury rather death is caused by something owned or controlled by the negligent party then he is directly liable otherwise the principle of "res ipsa loquitur" meaning thereby "the things speak for itself" would apply. (Para 9)

C. Motor Accident Claim – Principle of contributory negligence – Scope and meaning – A person who either contributes or is co author of the accident would be liable for his contribution to the accident having taken place. (Para 10)

D. Motor Accident Claim – Contributory negligence and composite negligence – Difference – In the case of contributory negligence, a person who has himself contributed to the extent cannot claim compensation for the injuries sustained by him in the accident to the extent of his own negligence, whereas in the case of composite negligence, a person who has suffered has not contributed to the accident but the outcome of combination of negligence of two or more other persons – It is only in the case of contributory negligence that the injured himself has contributed by his negligence in the accident. (Para 13)

E. Civil Law - Income Tax Act, 1961 – Section 194A (3) (ix) – Withdraw of amount of interest – Certificate of Income Tax authority, when required – Held, if the interest payable to any claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs. 50,000/-, insurance Co./owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 – And if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs. 50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimants to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. Heard Shri Rishi Kant Rai, learned counsel appearing for the original claimants; Shri Nishant Mehrotra, learned counsel for the Insurance company; none appeared for the owner. Perused the record

2. These appeals are preferred both by claimants and also by Insurance company, F.A.F.O. No.2356 of 2013 is at the behest of the claimants, challenges the judgment and decree dated 14.05.2013 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/District Judge, Mau (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in Motor Accident Claim Petition No.195 of 2010 awarding a sum of Rs.4,64,500/- with interest at the rate of 6% as compensation.

3. F.A.F.O. No.2391 of 2013 is preferred by Insurance company challenging the award on following grounds;

(a) It is challenged that the award is bad as the tribunal has erred on facts. It is alleged that the accident did not involve, the vehicle insured namely Tata Mazic bearing Registration No. UP 54 D 2561.

(b) It is further submitted that the death of Subhash Chandra was not due to the accidental injuries and the driver of Tata Magic was not driving the vehicle negligently;

(c) It is submitted that the driver driving, Tata Magic was not having proper driving licence.

(d) It is further alleged that the accident occurred due to sole negligence on the part of the driver of the motorcycle on which the deceased was allegedly travelling at the time of the alleged accident.

(e) It is further submitted that the deceased was not a third party and, therefore, there was no liability which was cast on the insurance company;

(f) It is further averred that there is liability to pay compensation could not be fastened on the appellate side.

(g) It is further submitted that presence of PW 2 and PW 3 was completely doubtful at the place and time of the alleged accident and their evidence were completely untrustworthy.

(h) It is alleged that there was a major unexplained delay in lodging the FIR. It is further alleged that learned Tribunal failed to appreciate the evidence in right perspective.

(i) It is submitted by learned counsel for Insurance Company that the findings recorded by the learned tribunal on issue no.1 was erroneous, perverse and based on assumptions and irrelevant considerations.

(j) It is further submitted that it was not established from the evidence on record that the driver of the motorcycle on which deceased was allegedly travelling at the time of alleged accident was having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of the alleged accident

(k) It is further submitted that the alleged photo copy of the driving licence of the driver of the vehicle Tata Magic in question was inadmissible in evidence.

(l) It is submitted that the tribunal failed to consider the said aspect and acted illegally in considering the said alleged photo copy of the driving licence in question while deciding issue no.3; it is also stated that it was not established from the evidence on record that the vehicle in question was having a valid and effective fitness certificate and a valid permit at the time of the alleged accident; it is submitted that the findings recorded by the Tribunal on issue no.3 are illegal, perverse and based on irrelevant considerations.

(m) It is further submitted that the employment and the income of the deceased is doubtfull. The Tribunal acted illegally in not appreciating the said aspect of the matter, and in assuming the income of the deceased at Rs.3000/- per month.

(n) It is further submitted that tribunal acted illegally in deducing only 1/4th of the alleged income of the deceased towards personal expenses.

(o) It is alleged that tribunal acted illegally in awarding interest of 6% per annum to the claimants/respondents.

(p) It is averred that the multiplier adopted by the learned tribunal was on higher side and was erroneous.

(q) It is submitted that the learned tribunal acted illegally on assumptions and in a perverse manner in awarding Rs.9,500 for non pecuniary damages.

4. The Apex Court in UPSRTC Vs. Km. Mamta and others, reported in AIR 2016 SC 948, has held that all the issues raised in the memo of appeal are required to be addressed and decided by the first appellate court.

5. In F.A.F.O. No. 2386 of 2013, it is submitted by learned counsel for the claimants that the Tribunal has not granted any amount towards future loss of income of the deceased which is required to be granted in view of the decision in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050. It is further submitted that amount under non-pecuniary heads granted and the interest awarded by the Tribunal are on the lower side and requires enhancement. Learned counsel submitted that deceased was Headmaster in Govt. Primary School and was getting Rs.28,232/- per month as per salary slip. It is also submitted that as the deceased was survived by his wife and five minor children and hence the deduction towards personal expenses of ¼ made by tribunal is not in dipspute. The multiplier has to be as per age of deceased should have been granted 14 instead of 15. The tribunal has not granted future loss of income which should be 30% of income of deceased as per Pranay Sethi's judgment. It is further submitted that the Legal heirs of Subhash Chandra would be entitled to compensation as Subhas Chandra was not a author or co-author of the accident having taken place. It was a case of negligence of Tata Magic and, therefore, liability has been rightly fastened on the insurance company. Just because there was delay in FIR cannot be held that the petition should have been dismissed on the said grounds.

6. Learned counsel for the Insurance company has submitted that claimants have not proved the income of deceased. The tribunal has, therefore, rightly considered the income at minimum scale and the multiplier should have been 14 and not 15. The tribunal could not have granted any amount under the head of future loss of income as the judgment in Sarla Verma (infra) did not specify that people not in service, should be granted future loss of income. It is further submitted that rate of interest granted is just and proper, it does not require any enhancement. It is further submitted that tribunal has committed an error in considering the income of the deceased. Learned counsel for the Insurance company has contended that the multiplier is on higher side. Learned counsel for the Insurance has also heavily relied on the decision of the Calcutta High Court in Sudhir Bhuiya v. National Insurance Company Ltd. and another, 2005(1) TAC 66 (Cal.) so as to contend that the tribunal could not have considered the document which was not public document and could not have considered the income of the deceased.

7. F.A.F.O. No.2391 of 2013:- Question of involvement of vehicle and negligence are decided by these findings.

8. The question of involvement has been raised by the appellant and has contended that deceased was not a third party as to the vehicle in question. While going through the record, it is very clear that the vehicle was involved in the accident. The finding of facts in issue no. 1 is that the vehicle being Tata Magic was mentioned in the FIR. The finding is very clear that the FIR was lodged on 18.8.2010. PW-1, PW-2, and PW-3 have stated in their ocular version that vehicle being Tata Magic driver drove the vehicle rashly and negligently. The vehicle in question was involved is also proved by the fact that the driver of the vehicle did not step into the witness box. The charge sheet was laid against the driver of Tata Magic. Hence, the submission that vehicle was not involved is unsustainable. The release order also lends credence to our finding that vehicle was involved in the accident.

9. The term negligence means failure to exercise care towards others which a reasonable and prudent person would in a circumstance or taking action which such a reasonable person would not. Negligence can be both intentional or accidental which is normally accidental. More particularly, it connotes reckless driving and the injured must always prove that the either side is negligent. If the injury rather death is caused by something owned or controlled by the negligent party then he is directly liable otherwise the principle of "res ipsa loquitur" meaning thereby "the things speak for itself" would apply.

10. The principle of contributory negligence has been discussed time and again. A person who either contributes or author of the accident would be liable for his contribution to the accident having taken place.

11. The Division Bench of this Court in First Appeal From Order No. 1818 of 2012 (Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Co.Ltd. Vs. Smt. Renu Singh And Others) decided on 19.7.2016 has held as under :

"16. Negligence means failure to exercise required degree of care and caution expected of a prudent driver. Negligence is the omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided upon the considerations, which ordinarily regulate conduct of human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. Negligence is not always a question of direct evidence. It is an inference to be drawn from proved facts. Negligence is not an absolute term, but is a relative one. It is rather a comparative term. What may be negligence in one case may not be so in another. Where there is no duty to exercise care, negligence in the popular sense has no legal consequence. Where there is a duty to exercise care, reasonable care must be taken to avoid acts or omissions which would be reasonably foreseen likely to caused physical injury to person. The degree of care required, of course, depends upon facts in each case. On these broad principles, the negligence of drivers is required to be assessed.

17. It would be seen that burden of proof for contributory negligence on the part of deceased has to be discharged by the opponents. It is the duty of driver of the offending vehicle to explain the accident. It is well settled law that at intersection where two roads cross each other, it is the duty of a fast moving vehicle to slow down and if driver did not slow down at intersection, but continued to proceed at a high speed without caring to notice that another vehicle was crossing, then the conduct of driver necessarily leads to conclusion that vehicle was being driven by him rashly as well as negligently.

18. 10th Schedule appended to Motor Vehicle Act contain statutory regulations for driving of motor vehicles which also form part of every Driving License. Clause-6 of such Regulation clearly directs that the driver of every motor vehicle to slow down vehicle at every intersection or junction of roads or at a turning of the road. It is also provided that driver of the vehicle should not enter intersection or junction of roads unless he makes sure that he would not thereby endanger any other person. Merely, because driver of the Truck was driving vehicle on the left side of road would not absolve him from his responsibility to slow down vehicle as he approaches intersection of roads, particularly when he could have easily seen, that the car over which deceased was riding, was approaching intersection.

19. In view of the fast and constantly increasing volume of traffic, motor vehicles upon roads may be regarded to some extent as coming within the principle of liability defined in Rylands V/s. Fletcher, (1868) 3 HL (LR) 330. From the point of view of pedestrian, the roads of this country have been rendered by the use of motor vehicles, highly dangerous. 'Hit and run' cases where drivers of motor vehicles who have caused accidents, are unknown. In fact such cases are increasing in number. Where a pedestrian without negligence on his part is injured or killed by a motorist, whether negligently or not, he or his legal representatives, as the case may be, should be entitled to recover damages if principle of social justice should have any meaning at all.

20. These provisions (sec.110A and sec.110B of Motor Act, 1988) are not merely procedural provisions. They substantively affect the rights of the parties. The right of action created by Fatal Accidents Act, 1855 was 'new in its species, new in its quality, new in its principles. In every way it was new. The right given to legal representatives under Act, 1988 to file an application for compensation for death due to a motor vehicle accident is an enlarged one. This right cannot be hedged in by limitations of an action under Fatal Accidents Act, 1855. New situations and new dangers require new strategies and new remedies.

21. In the light of the above discussion, we are of the view that even if courts may not by interpretation displace the principles of law which are considered to be well settled and, therefore, court cannot dispense with proof of negligence altogether in all cases of motor vehicle accidents, it is possible to develop the law further on the following lines; when a motor vehicle is being driven with reasonable care, it would ordinarily not meet with an accident and, therefore, rule of res-ipsa loquitor as a rule of evidence may be invoked in motor accident cases with greater frequency than in ordinary civil suits (per three-Judge Bench in Jacob Mathew V/s. State of Punjab, 2005 0 ACJ(SC) 1840).

22. By the above process, the burden of proof may ordinarily be cast on the defendants in a motor accident claim petition to prove that motor vehicle was being driven with reasonable care or that there is equal negligence on the part the other side."

12. As we are concerned as to whether qua the death of pillion rider if we hold the driver to be contributor to accident whether deduction would be proper or not reference to case titled Khenyei Vs. New India Assurance Company Limited & Others, 2015 LawSuit (SC) 469, is necessary wherein the Apex Court has held as under:

"4. It is a case of composite negligence where injuries have been caused to the claimants by combined wrongful act of joint tort feasors. In a case of accident caused by negligence of joint tort feasors, all the persons who aid or counsel or direct or join in committal of a wrongful act, are liable. In such case, the liability is always joint and several. The extent of negligence of joint tort feasors in such a case is immaterial for satisfaction of the claim of the plaintiff/claimant and need not be determined by the by the court. However, in case all the joint tort feasors are before the court, it may determine the extent of their liability for the purpose of adjusting inter-se equities between them at appropriate stage. The liability of each and every joint tort feasor vis a vis to plaintiff/claimant cannot be bifurcated as it is joint and several liability. In the case of composite negligence, apportionment of compensation between tort feasors for making payment to the plaintiff is not permissible as the plaintiff/claimant has the right to recover the entire amount from the easiest targets/solvent defendant.

13. There is a difference between contributory and composite negligence. In the case of contributory negligence, a person who has himself contributed to the extent cannot claim compensation for the injuries sustained by him in the accident to the extent of his own negligence;whereas in the case of composite negligence, a person who has suffered has not contributed to the accident but the outcome of combination of negligence of two or more other persons. It is only in the case of contributory negligence that the injured himself has contributed by his negligence in the accident. Extent of his negligence is required to be determined as damages recoverable by him in respect of the injuries have to be reduced in proportion to his contributory negligence. The relevant portion is extracted hereunder :

"6. 'Composite negligence' refers to the negligence on the part of two or more persons. Where a person is injured as a result of negligence on the part of two or more wrong doers, it is said that the person was injured on account of the composite negligence of those wrong-doers. In such a case, each wrong doer, is jointly and severally liable to the injured for payment of the entire damages and the injured person has the choice of proceeding against all or any of them. In such a case, the injured need not establish the extent of responsibility of each wrong-doer separately, nor is it necessary for the court to determine the extent of liability of each wrong-doer separately. On the other hand where a person suffers injury, partly due to the negligence on the part of another person or persons, and partly as a result of his own negligence, then the negligence of the part of the injured which contributed to the accident is referred to as his contributory negligence. Where the injured is guilty of some negligence, his claim for damages is not defeated merely by reason of the negligence on his part but the damages recoverable by him in respect of the injuries stands reduced in proportion to his contributory negligence.

7. Therefore, when two vehicles are involved in an accident, and one of the drivers claims compensation from the other driver alleging negligence, and the other driver denies negligence or claims that the injured claimant himself was negligent, then it becomes necessary to consider whether the injured claimant was negligent and if so, whether he was solely or partly responsible for the accident and the extent of his responsibility, that is his contributory negligence. Therefore where the injured is himself partly liable, the principle of 'composite negligence' will not apply nor can there be an automatic inference that the negligence was 50:50 as has been assumed in this case. The Tribunal ought to have examined the extent of contributory negligence of the appellant and thereby avoided confusion between composite negligence and contributory negligence. The High Court has failed to correct the said error."

14. The recent judgment of the Apex Court reported in Renu Rani Shrivastava v. New India Assurance Co. Ltd, AIR 2019 SC 5719 will not permit us to accept the submission of counsel for the Insurance company that the Tata Magic driver did not drive the vehicle in rashly and negligently manner. The factual data which emerges that the Tata Magic dashed with the motorcyclist causing injuries to the deceased who succumbed to the said injuries.

15. As far as issue no.1 is concerned, it goes to show that vehicle was being driven rashly and negligently by driven of Tata Magic. The accident occurred at 9.00 p.m. The vehicle was being driven, as per the evidence of the witness, rashly and negligently by the driver of the Tata Magic. OPW-Balwant Kumar has stepped into the witness box. As far as issue no.11 is concerned, the driver Balwant Singh was arrested on the spot and, therefore, the vehicles involved is established. The witnesses also deposed on oath that the driver of Tata Magic was driving the vehicle rashly and negligently manner. The charge sheet was led against the driver of the Tata Magic and, therefore, the site plan also goes to show that the motorcyclist was driving the motorcycle on his correct side and the accident occurred solely due to the negligence of the driver of the Tata Magic.

16. As far as liability is concerned, the issue nos. 2 and 3 categorically establish that the vehicle was insured with the insurance company nothing has been proved to buttress the submission that the vehicle was not insured and that there was breach of policy condition. The driver had valid driving licence. The vehicle was insured from 30.7.2010 to 29.07.2011, no evidence is led. Hence, the submission made herein will not permit us to take a different view that then taken by the tribunal, just because a driver of Tata Magic was not made a party.

17. Driver of the Tata Magic in his cross examination and in his oral testimony has denied the fact that vehicle being involved in the accident. The F.I.R., Panchnama, charge sheet, post mortem report, site plan and the release order of Tata Magic will not permit us to accept the submission of counsel that negligence was of driver of motorcycle and vehicle was not insured, nor involved in accident.

Compensation:-

18. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and considered the factual data, this Court finds that the accident occurred on 13.08.2010 causing death of Subhash Chandra Sharma who was 42 years of age and left behind him, wife and five children.

The Tribunal has assessed the income of the deceased to be Rs.3,000/- per month. The deceased was a head master, the documentary evidence at exhibit 45 is produced. The tribunal has brushed aside the said document on basis that it is not a public document and cannot be taken in evidence and hence considers the income of deceased as that of a labourer and decides that the deceased can be said to be getting Rs.100/- which is equated to labourer even in 2010 the minimum wages were not Rs.100/- per day. The document may not be public document if the tribunal had doubt in could invoke procedure under Section 169 of Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 and could suo moto summoned the officer who had issued the certificate but without any rebuttal evidence by owner or insurance company could not have discarded the document and decided that deceased who was a person in vocation was equated with labourer. The tribunal has relied on the certificate for deciding age of deceased but income discards the same this could not have been done. The tribunal has not discussed why future loss is not granted despite the law as to the same was crystallised by Apex Court in General Manager, Kerala State Road Transport Corporation, Trivandrum Vs. Susamma Thomas and others, AIR 1994 SC 1631. The tribunal has committed grave error in not considering that the appellants had proved the income of the deceased by leading oral evidence. The Tribunal has held that deceased may be earning Rs.3000/- p.m.. This is again fallacious as the evidence on record is there. The contention of insurance company that claimants failed to substantiate income of the deceased without proving the same by leading oral evidence and Tribunal has to take notional income of the deceased. The evidence of the witnesses has not been accepted which is against the mandate of the Apex Court in (a) Vimla Devi and others Vs. National Insurance Company Limited and another, (2019) 2 SCC 186 and (b) in Anita Sharma v. New India Assurance Co. Ltd. (2021), 1 SCC 171 which would also apply to the facts of this case.

19. The income of deceased has to be considered to be Rs.27,000/- per month, would be the income of the deceased. The deceased was in age bracket of 40 to 50 years was having a permanent job, hence 30% of the income will have to be added as future prospects.

20. In this backdrop we evaluate the income in view of the judgment of National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050 and Sarla Verma Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation, (2009) 6 SCC 121 and, the recalculation of compensation would be as follows:

i. Income Rs.27,000 - Rs.2000 = Rs.25,000/- p.m. (Income tax and other deductable lump sum amount)

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 30% namely Rs.7500/-

iii. Total income : Rs. 25000 + Rs.7500= Rs.32,500/-

iv. Income after deduction of 1/4 : Rs.24,375/-

v. Annual income : Rs. 24,375 x 12 = Rs.2,92,500/-

vi. Multiplier applicable : 14 (as the deceased was in the age bracket of 41-45 years)

vii. Loss of dependency: Rs. 2,92,500 x 14 = Rs.40,95,000/-

viii. Amount under non pecuniary heads (Rs.70,000+30,000) = 1,00,000/-

ix. Total compensation : Rs.41,95,000/-.

21. The principles of C.P. Code Evidence Act are not to be strictly followed by the tribunal which has been done by the tribunal excepting the validity of the licence. It is not proved that the vehicle did not have illness certificate.

22. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National 7 Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

23. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma V/s. Venugopal, Reported in 2012 (1) GLH 6 (SC), 442, the order of investment is not passed because applicants /claimants are neither illiterate or rustic villagers.

24. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansagauri P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291, total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimant to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) while disbursing the amount.

25. Fresh Award be drawn accordingly in the above petition by the tribunal as per the modification made herein. The Tribunals in the State shall follow the direction of this Court as herein aforementioned as far as disbursement is concerned, it should look into the condition of the litigant and the pendency of the matter and not blindly apply the judgment of A.V. Padma (supra). The same is to be applied looking to the facts of each case.

26. The appeal of the Insurance Company is dismissed.

27. In view of the above, the appeal of the claimants is partly allowed. Award and decree passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the amount along with additional amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

28. The Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Private Ltd. v. Union of India and others vide order dated 27.1.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. As 10 years have elapsed, the amount be deposited in the Saving Account of claimants in Nationalized Bank without F.D.R.

29. We are thankful to learned counsels for the parties for ably assisting the Court.

30. Record be sent back to court below forthwith, if any.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Salil Kumar Rai, J.)

1. This is a claimants' appeal filed under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as, 'Act, 1988') against the judgment and order dated 6.3.2010 passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Court No. 1, Shahjahanpur (hereinafter referred to as, 'Tribunal') in Motor Accident Claim Petition No. 9 of 2005 (Shyamu & Others Vs. Rashid Ahamad & Others).

2. In view of the office report dated 2.1.2019 service of notice on the defendants-respondents is deemed sufficient. Nobody has appeared for opposite party Nos. 1 and 2. Shri Ajai Singh, Advocate, appeared for opposite party No. 3 and was heard in opposition to the present appeal.

3. The appellants instituted Motor Accident Claim Petition No. 9 of 2005 claiming compensation of Rs. 8,48,000/- from the defendants-opposite parties for death of Smt. Rama Devi. The claim petition was filed in December, 2004. Appellant No. 1 is the husband of Smt. Rama Devi and appellant Nos. 2 to 7 are the sons and daughters of Smt. Rama Devi. Appellant Nos. 2 to 7 were minor at the time of death of Smt. Rama Devi. It is alleged in the claim petition that on 11.10.2004, Smt. Rama Devi was going with Radhey Shyam (brother of appellant No. 1) to purchase medicine for her son-appellant No. 7. Smt. Rama Devi was sitting on the back-carrier of the bicycle of Radhey Shyam. It is alleged that a truck bearing Registration No. U.P. 31 E 0242 (hereinafter referred to as, 'offending vehicle') hit the bicycle, as a result of which Smt. Rama Devi fell down and suffered injuries causing her death. It is alleged that the accident occurred due to rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle by its driver. In the claim petition the age of the deceased is stated to be 32 years. It is stated in the claim petition that the deceased was working as a household helper and earned Rs. 6,000/- per month. It is stated that the vehicle was insured with the National Insurance Company Limited, Divisional Office Sadar Bazar, Shahjahanpur, i.e., opposite party No. 3. Opposite party Nos. 1 and 2 are the owner and the driver of the offending vehicle.

4. The opposite party Nos. 1 and 2 did not appear in the Tribunal and did not file their written statement, therefore, proceedings were held ex-parte against them. Opposite party No. 3 filed its written statement denying the accident as well as the negligence of the driver of the vehicle in causing the accident and also contested the amount of compensation sought by the claimants-appellants. It appears from the records, that the Insurance Company also filed an application under Section 170 of the Act, 1988 praying for permission to contest the claim on grounds available against the owner and driver of the vehicle.

5. It is relevant to note that a First Information Report registering Case Crime No. 1240 of 2004, under Sections 279, 338 and 304A I.P.C. was registered against opposite party No. 2, the driver of the vehicle, at the instance of Ramu, brother of appellant No. 1. In the aforesaid Case Crime No. 1240 of 2004, charge-sheet was filed against opposite party No. 2. Radhey Shyam, referred above, has been named as a prosecution witness in the charge-sheet.

6. The Tribunal framed four issues. Issue No. 1 was as to whether the accident which took place on 10.11.2004 killing

Smt. Rama Devi was because of the rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle by its driver. Issue No. 2 was as to whether the offending vehicle was insured with opposite party No. 3. Issue No. 3 was as to whether at the time of accident, the driver of the vehicle had a valid driving license. Issue No. 4 was as to whether the claimants were entitled to any compensation and the defendant liable to pay compensation.

7. Before the Tribunal, the claimants filed a copy of the first information report, the postmortem report of Smt. Rama Devi, copy of the charge-sheet, inquest report, the policy cover note of the offending vehicle and a copy of the driving license of opposite party No. 2.

8. In the Tribunal, the appellant No. 1 appeared as A.P.W.1., Ramu who is the brother of the appellant No. 1 and lodged the first information report appeared as A.P.W. 2 and Radhey Shyam, who was with the deceased at the time of accident appeared as A.P.W. 3 to prove the case of the claimants. The defendants, which included the Insurance Company, did not produce any documentary or oral evidence in the case.

9. The Tribunal after considering the testimony of A.P.W. 3, who is an eye-witness of the accident, and also after taking note that in Case Crime No. 1240 of 2004 a charge-sheet had been filed against opposite party No. 2, i.e., the driver of the vehicle decided issue No. 1 in favour of the claimants and held that Smt. Rama Devi died on 10.11.2004 in the accident caused due to rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle. While deciding Issue No. 1 in favour of the claimants, the Tribunal also considered the postmortem report of the deceased which indicated that death was due to antimortem injuries caused in the accident. Issue Nos. 2 and 3 were decided in favour of the owner of the offending vehicle and it was held that the offending vehicle was insured with opposite party No. 3 and at the time of accident, the driver of the offending vehicle had a valid driving license. However, on issue No. 4, the Tribunal held that the claim petition was not maintainable before the Tribunal, i.e., Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Shahjahanpur, as the accident took place in District-Lakhimpur Kheri and the claimants as well as the owner and driver of the offending vehicle were also residents of District-Lakhimpur Kheri.

10. In the Claims Tribunal the claimants had filed, a residence certificate dated 29.7.2009 issued by the Senior Block Pramukh, Bhawalkheda, District-Shahjahanpur, marked as Paper No. 65Ga, certifying that the claimants were residing in District-Shahjahanpur for the last almost four and half years. The Claims Tribunal held that the aforesaid residence certificate only proved that the claimants were residents of District-Shahjahanpur from January 2005 and were not residents of District-Shahjahanpur in December, 2004 when the claim petition was filed. On the aforesaid ground, the Claims Tribunal rejected the claim petition. Hence, the present appeal.

11. It was argued by the counsel for the appellant that under Section 166(2) of the Act, 1988, the claim petition was maintainable before the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Shahjahanpur because the Office of the Insurance Company was situated in District-Shahjahanpur. It was argued that, even otherwise, the residence certificate produced by the claimants-appellants indicated that the claimant-appellants were residents of District-Shahjahanpur and the Tribunal has misread Paper No. 65Ga, i.e., the residence certificate issued by the Senior Block Pramukh, Bhawalkheda, District-Shahjahanpur. It was argued that in light of the aforesaid, the claim petition was maintainable before the Tribunal at Shahjahanpur and in light of the findings recorded by the Tribunal on other issues, the claimants were entitled to compensation. It was argued that for the aforesaid reasons, the appeal is to be allowed, the order dated 6.3.2010 passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Court No. 1, Shahjahanpur is liable to be set aside and the claimants-appellants may be awarded compensation. In support of his contention, the counsel for the appellant has relied on the following judgements of the Supreme Court :-

(a) Mantoo Sarkar Vs. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., 2009 (2) SCC 244

(b) Malati Sardar Vs. National Insurance Company Limited & Others, 2016 (3) SCC 43

12. Rebutting the argument of the counsel for the appellants, Shri Ajai Singh, Advocate, representing opposite party No. 3 has supported the award of the Tribunal and the reasons given in the same. The counsel for the opposite party No. 3 has argued that because the owner and the driver of the offending vehicle as well as the claimants were residents of District-Lakhimpur Kheri and the accident also occurred in District-Lakhimpur Kheri, therefore, the claim petition was not maintainable before the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Shahjahanpur and the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal rightly dismissed the aforesaid claim petition. It was argued that for the aforesaid reasons, the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

13. I have considered the submissions of the counsel for the parties and have also perused the lower court records.

14. So far as the issue regarding jurisdiction of the Tribunal at Shahjahanpur is concerned, Section 166(2) of the Act, 1988 provides as follows :-

"[(2) Every application under sub-section (1) shall be made, at the option of the claimant, either to the Claims Tribunal having jurisdiction over the area in which the accident occurred or to the Claims Tribunal within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the claimant resides or carries on business or within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the defendant resides, and shall be in such form and contain such particulars as may be prescribed:

Provided that where no claim for compensation under section 140 is made in such application, the application shall contain a separate statement to that effect immediately before the signature of the applicant.]"

(Emphasis added)

15. In Malati Sardar (Supra), the accident took place at Hoogly and the claimant also resided at Hoogly, but the claim petition was filed at Kolkata. The Principal Office of the Insurance Company, which was held liable to pay compensation, was situated at Kolkata. The Tribunal at Kolkata awarded compensation, but in appeal the said award was set aside on jurisdictional ground. It was argued before the Supreme Court that the residence of a juristic person included its Principal Office and, therefore the claim petition was maintainable before the Tribunal in Kolkata. The Supreme Court held that under the Act, 1988 there was no bar to a claim petition being filed under Section 166 of the Act, 1988 at a place where the insurance company, which is the main contesting parties in such cases, has its business. The observations of the Supreme Court in paragraph Nos. 12 and 14 of its judgement are reproduced below :-

"12. We are thus of the view that in the face of judgment of this Court in Mantoo Sarkar (supra), the High Court was not justified in setting aside the award of the Tribunal in absence of any failure of justice even if there was merit in the plea of lack of territorial jurisdiction. Moreover, the fact remained that the insurance company which was the main contesting respondent had its business at Kolkata.

...

14. The provision in question, in the present case, is a benevolent provision for the victims of accidents of negligent driving. The provision for territorial jurisdiction has to be interpreted consistent with the object of facilitating remedies for the victims of accidents. Hyper technical approach in such matters can hardly be appreciated. There is no bar to a claim petition being filed at a place where the insurance company, which is the main contesting parties in such cases, has its business. In such cases, there is no prejudice to any party. There is no failure of justice. Moreover, in view of categorical decision of this Court in Mantoo Sarkar (supra), contrary view taken by the High Court cannot be sustained. The High Court failed to notice the provision of Section 21 CPC.

16. In the present case, it is not disputed that the office of the Insurance Company-opposite party No. 3, is situated at District-Shahjahanpur and the Company has its business at Shahjahanpur. Thus, in light of the observations of the Supreme Court in Malati Sardar (Supra), the Tribunal at Shahjahanpur had the jurisdiction to entertain the claim petition. The Tribunal has clearly erred in holding that the claim petition was not maintainable in Shahjahanpur. The findings of the Tribunal on Issue No. 4 are contrary to law and are hereby set aside and it is held that the claim petition was maintainable before the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, District-Shahjahanpur.

17. The claim petition was contested by the Insurance Company-opposite party No. 3 and the claimants had led their evidence before the Tribunal. The Tribunal has recorded its findings on the other issues framed by it. The records are before this Court and, therefore, it would serve no purpose to remand back the matter to the Tribunal to only quantify the compensation payable to the claimants. In view of the aforesaid, this Court has perused the lower court records to examine the findings of the Tribunal on other issues, i.e., Issue Nos. 1, 2 and 3.

18. Radhey Shyam, A.P.W. 3 was an eye-witness of the accident and has proved the accident. In his testimony, A.P.W. 3 has stated that the deceased, Smt. Rama Devi was with him on his bicycle when the offending vehicle, which was being driven at a high speed, hit the bicycle from behind as a result of which Rama Devi fell down and was crushed by the offending vehicle. In his testimony A.P.W. 3 has stated that the bicycle was on the left side of the road when the offending vehicle hit it. The witness has withstood the cross-examination of opposite party No. 3. There is nothing to discredit the testimony of the witness. The witness proves the claimants' case that the accident took place due to rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle and Smt. Rama Devi suffered injuries in the accident causing her death. The records of the court below also show that Case Crime No. 1240 of 2004 was registered at the instance of Ramu, the brother of appellant No. 2, who was also examined as A.P.W. 2 before the Claims Tribunal. In Case Crime No. 1240 of 2004 a charge-sheet has been submitted against the opposite party No. 2, i.e., the driver of the vehicle. The inquest report and the postmortem report of the deceased also show that death occurred due to antimortem injuries. In view of the aforesaid, the findings of the Tribunal on Issue No. 1, i.e., Smt. Rama Devi died because of the injuries suffered in the accident which took place due to rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle, is affirmed.

19. So far as the findings of the Tribunal on issue Nos. 2 and 3 are concerned the same were not seriously contested by the Insurance Company. The policy cover note and copy of the driving license filed in the Tribunal have not been denied by the Insurance Company. Thus the findings of the Tribunal on issue Nos. 2 and 3 are also confirmed and it is held that the Insurance Company, i.e., the opposite party No. 3, is liable to indemnify the opposite party No. 1, the owner of the vehicle, for the compensation payable to the appellant.

20. So far as compensation to the claimants for the death of Smt. Rama Devi is concerned, it may be noted that in the claim petition, the age of the deceased is stated to be 32 years. The postmortem report records the age of the deceased as 29 years. However, as the claimants-appellants have themselves stated in the claim petition the age of the deceased to be 32 years, the age of the deceased for determining compensation is held to be 32 years.

21. It was stated in the claim petition and in the testimony of A.P.W. 1 that the deceased was earning Rs. 6,000/- per month. A perusal of the testimony of A.P.W. 2 shows that A.P.W. 2 himsef earned only Rs. 1,500/- per month at the time his testimony was being recorded by the Tribunal. In his testimony A.P.W. 3 has stated that the deceased used to earn Rs. 5,000/- per month. There is no documentary evidence proving the income of the deceased and there are inconsistencies in the testimony of different witnesses produced by the claimants to prove the income of the deceased. However, all the witnesses have testified that the deceased was working as household help.

22. The Supreme Court in Jitendra Khimshankar Trivedi Vs. Kasam Daud Kumbhar & Others, 2015 (4) SCC 237 decided compensation for the death of a housewife on the notional ncome of Rs. 3000/- per month. In the circumstances, it would be just and proper to determine compensation in the present case on the notional income of the deceased which would be the minimum wages payable to a daily wager in 2004, i.e., at the rate of Rs. 100/- per day or Rs. 3,000/- per month.

23. The appellant No. 1 is the husband of the deceased and his testimony shows that he was not dependent on the deceased and was himself an earning member. Thus, the appellant No. 1 is not be considered as a dependent of the deceased while deciding the deductions to be made for personal expenses of the deceased. Appellant Nos. 2 to 7 are the sons and daughters of the deceased. In light of the judgement of the Supreme Court in Sarla Verma (Smt) & Others Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation & Another, 2009 (6) SCC 121, 1/4 is to be deducted towards the personal and living expenses of the deceased.

24. It has already been held that the deceased was 32 years old. The deceased was self-employed. The accident took place in 2004, therefore in light of the judgement of the Supreme Court in National Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Pranay Sethi & Others, (2017) 16 SCC 680, 40% shall be added as future prospects to the income of the deceased while determining the multiplicand and in light of the judgement of the Supreme Court in Sarla Verma (Supra), a multiplier of 16 is to be applied while quantifying the total pecuniary damages payable to the claimants.

25. In addition to the aforesaid, in light of the judgement of the Supreme Court in Pranay Sethi (Supra) and Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. vs. Nanu Ram, (2018) SCC OnLine SC 1546, the claimants are also entitled to compensation for loss of estate and for funeral expenses as well as separate compensation for loss of consortium, i.e., the appellant No. 1 is entitled to loss of spousal consortium and appellant Nos. 2 to 7 are entitled to loss of parental consortium.

26. In light of the aforesaid principles, the compensation payable to the claimants is computed as below :-

(a) Notional Income of the deceased Rs. 3,000/- per month, i.e., Rs. 36,000/- per annum.

(b) Deductions towards personal expenses of the deceased (1/4 of her income) = Rs. 9,000/-.

(c) The income of the deceased for determining compensation= Rs. 27,000/-.

(Rs. 36,000 - Rs. 9,000 = Rs. 27,000/-)

(d) Addition of 40% future prospects to the income of the deceased :- Rs. 27,000÷100 x 40 = Rs. 10,800/-.

(e) Thus, the multiplicand= Rs. 27,000+10,800= Rs. 37,800/-.

(f) Applying a multiplier of 16, the total amount of pecuniary damages = Rs. 37,800 x 16 = Rs. 6,04,800/-.

(g) Loss of spousal consortium to appellant No. 1= Rs. 40,000/-.

(h) Loss of parental consortium to appellant Nos. 2 to 7=

Rs. 40,000 x 6 = 2,40,000/- (Rs. 40,000/- each to appellant Nos. 2 to 7)

(i) Funeral Expenses = Rs. 15,000/-

(j) Loss of Estate = Rs. 15,000/-

Thus, the total compensation payable to the appellant= Rs. 9,14,800/- .(f+g+h+i+j).

The aforesaid compensation shall bear interest at the rate of 7% per annum from the date of filing the claim petition till the date of actual payment by the Insurance Company.

27. Thus, it is held that the claimants are entitled to a compensation of Rs. 9,14,800/- with 7% simple interest per annum from the date of filing the petition till the date of actual payment by the Insurance Company.

28. The appellant No. 1 would be paid the compensation awarded for Funeral Expenses, Loss of Estate and Loss of Spousal Consortium with the interest accruing on the same. Appellant Nos. 2 to 7 would be paid compensation awarded to them for Loss of Parental Consortium with the interest accruing on the same. Pecuniary damages of Rs. 6,04,800/- quantified above alongwith the interest accruing on the same shall be divided equally between the appellant Nos. 2 to 7.

29. The opposite party No. 3, i.e., National Insurance Company Limited, Shahjahanpur shall deposit the awarded amount (including the interest) in the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Shahjahanpur within three months from today. The amount so deposited by the National Insurance Company Limited, Shahjahanpur shall be deposited by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Shahjahanpur in the highest interest bearing fixed deposit schemes, either of the post office or of any nationalized bank. The receipts of the fixed deposit shall be given to the appellants who shall be entitled to withdraw the maturity amount when the fixed deposits mature. The maturity amount shall be credited by the bank/post office in any savings account of the appellants. The concerned bank or post office shall not permit any loan or advance against the fixed deposits made in favour of the appellants. The Tribunal, while depositing the amount in any fixed deposit scheme, shall communicate the directions issued by this Court to the concerned bank/post office. In case, the opposite party No. 3 fails to deposit the awarded amount within three months from today, the Tribunal shall recover the same in accordance with law.

30. With the aforesaid directions and observations, the appeal is allowed. Parties shall bear their own cost.

31. Office shall transmit the records of the case to the Tribunal, at the earliest.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.
Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellants and learned counsel for the respondent.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the claimants, challenges the judgment and award dated 06.07.2016 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/II Additional District Judge, Banda (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in Motor Accident Claim Petition No.210 of 2014 awarding a sum of Rs.2,80,000/- with interest at the rate of 7% p.a. as compensation.

3. The brief facts as culled out from the record are that on 29/30.6.2011 at around 01:50 A.M., the petitioner was travelling in Bus No. UP 11 T 2707 from Haridwar to Delhi, when the bus reached near Engineering College at Haridwar, Roorkee Road, being driven rashly and negligently by its driver dashed into a stationary truck. In this accident, the petitioner/appellant sustained grievous injuries due to which he became disabled to the tune of 80%. The appellant was a student of MBA and earning Rs.25,000/- p.m.

4. Aggrieved by the impugned judgment appellants has preferred this appeal.

5. The accident is not in dispute. It is also not in dispute that at the time of accident the offending bus was owned by U.P.S.R.T.C. and the driver of the bus was having a valid and effecting driving licence. It is also not in dispute that the bus was being plied on the road with all necessary documents. Hence only the issue of quantum of compensation is to be decided by this Court.

6. Learned counsel for appellant submitted that a very meagre amount is awarded by learned tribunal. Learned counsel submitted that at the time of accident, the appellant was studying in MBA Course. In this accident, due to grievous injuries in his leg, the leg got shortened and the appellant became 80% disabled as per the medical certificate. Learned counsel submitted that if it would not have happened then the appellant could earn at least Rs.25,000/- per month, after completing his study. But learned tribunal did not consider this fact and assumed his income only Rs.3,000/- per month. The appellant is a student of B.Com (Pass) and was doing MBA from a reputed Institution in Dehradun. It is next submitted by learned counsel that due to shortening of leg, appellant is not able to walk freely and he is not able to do his daily routine works properly and his career prospective are also adversely affected due to disability. Learned counsel did not consider all this facts. It is vehemently submitted that the medical board has issued disability certificate to the tune of 80% but the learned tribunal has considered the disability to the tune of 40% only which is not just and proper. Learned counsel for the appellant has relied on the decisions in (i) Syed Sadiq etc v. Divisional Manager, United India Insurance Co. 2014 LawSuit (SC) 27; (ii) Jithendran v. New India Assurance Co. Ltd. and anr., 2021 0 Supreme (SC) 644; (iii) Pradeep Kumar Tripathi v. Satish Kumar and others, 2017 0 Supreme (All) 1661; and (iv) Gangu Ram v. Rishi Pal & Another, 2018 LawSuit (All) 3762, to contend that the tribunal has not granted just compensation. The calculation given by the tribunal is not fathomed by this Court as two how for reduction of 1 inch of lower limb the tribunal has awarded such meagre compensation is granted by the tribunal. The appellant sustained serious injuries which has caused not only physical impairment but lot of mental trauma.

7. Learned counsel for the Insurance Company objected to the submissions made by appellant and submitted that at the time of accident, he was a student, there is no evidence on record that he was earning any amount. Hence, in absence of any evidence to earnings, the learned tribunal has rightly assessed the income of the appellant at Rs.3,000/- per month. It is also submitted that future loss of income has to be considered by the tribunal and grant of multiplier of 18 does not require alteration. It is submitted that there is no illegality and infirmity in the impugned judgment which calls for any interference by this Court.

8. It is an admitted fact that at the time of accident, the appellant was a student of MBA Course and he was also a Commerce Graduate. The educational qualification of the appellant goes to show that he had potential to earn good amount of money after getting his course completed. It is averred in claim petition that the appellant was doing MBA Course from an Institute in Dehradun.

9. This above fact is not controverted by the insurance company. Keeping in view the judgment of the Apex Court recently in Oriental Insurence Company Limited Versus Meena Variyal and others, 2007(2) T.A.C. 417 (SC) and as per judgment in Meena Pawaia & ors. Vs. Ashraf Ali & ors, 2021 LawSuit (SC) 743 it is held that potentiality to earn should be kept in mind by the tribunal at the time of assessing the income of the injured/deceased.

10. The educational qualifications and family background have also to be taken into consideration. The Apex Court in Basanti Devi and another v. Divisional Manager, The New India Assurance Company Ltd. and others., Civil Appeal Nos.7435-7436 of 2021 has held this. Hence with regard to the educational qualifications and potentiality of the appellant to earn after getting the course of MBA completed, we hold the income of the appellant would be at least Rs.10,000/- per month in the year of accident. Appellant sustained grievous injuries in the accident. Hon'ble Apex Court in case titled Kajal Vs. Jagdish Chand reported in 2020 (0) AIJEL-SC 65725 has quoted the law laid down in Raj Kumar v. Ajay Kumar (2011) 1 SCC 343 in which it is held as below:-

"16. In Raj Kumar v. Ajay Kumar and Others7, this Court laid down the heads under which compensation is to be awarded for personal injuries.

"6. The heads under which compensation is awarded in personal injury cases are the following:

Pecuniary damages (Special damages)

(i)Expenses relating to treatment, hospitalization, medicines, transportation, nourishing food, and miscellaneous expenditure.

(ii) Loss of earnings (and other gains) which the injured would have made had he not been injured, comprising:

(a) Loss of earning during the period of treatment;

(b) Loss of future earnings on account of permanent disability.

(iii) Future medical expenses.

Nonpecuniary damages (General damages)

(iv) Damages for pain, suffering and trauma as a consequence of the injuries.

(v) Loss of amenities (and/or loss of prospects of marriage).

(vi) Loss of expectation of life (shortening of normal longevity).

In routine personal injury cases, compensation will be awarded only under heads (i), (ii) (a) and (iv). It is only in serious cases of injury, where there is specific medical evidence corroborating the evidence of the claimant, that compensation will be granted under any of the heads (ii)(b), (iii), (v) and (vi) relating to loss of future earnings on account of permanent disability, future medical expenses, loss of amenities (and/or loss of prospects of marriage) and loss of expectation of life."

11. It is also submitted that the amount under the non-pecuniary heads and the interest awarded are also on the lower side and requires to be enhanced in view of the following authoritative pronouncements:

(i) Sanjay Kumar v. Ashok Kumar and another, (2014) 5 SCC 330;

(ii) Syed Sadiq and others v. Divisional Manager, United India Insurance Company Limited, (2014) 2 SCC 735;

(iii) V. Mekela v. M. Malathi and another, (2014) 11 SCC 178; and

(iv) Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicles (Eleventh Amendment) Rules, 2011

(v) Har Babu v. Amrit Lal and others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 718 (AI), these judgments will also strengthen our view that 25% should be add as future loss of income.

12. Appellant sustained severe injuries in lower part of his right leg and the leg got shortened. Medical board under Chief Medical Officer, Banda had issued disability certificate to the tune of 80% for particular part of body. Appellant was the student of MBA, he was not doing such type of work so as to affect his functional disability to the tune of 80%. The learned Tribunal has assessed his functional disability to the tune of 40% which is just and proper, hence we maintain it being his whole body functional disability.

13. As far as the medical bills of the appellant are concerned, only the photocopies of medical bills are filed on record and it is fairly submitted by learned counsel for appellant before the tribunal that original medical bills were submitted in U.P. Gram Panchayat for that he has received the payment from the Bank. Hence, the learned Tribunal has rightly refused to make the payment of medical bills.

14. The tribunal has awarded Rs.10,000/- for pain and suffering which are on the lower side, hence the appellant shall be entitled to Rs.50,000/- for pain, shock and suffering. Learned tribunal has awarded Rs.10,000/- for special diet and transportation which we maintain. The tribunal has not awarded any sum for loss of amenities. When the appellant has got his right leg shortened and sustained 40% functional disability, he would have certainly lost some amenities in life for which we grant Rs.50,000/-

15. On the basis of above discussions, the amount of compensation payable to the appellant is computed herein-below.

i. Annual Income : Rs.1,20,000/-

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 40% which would be Rs.48,000/-

iii. Total income (i+ii) : Rs.1,68,000/-

iv. Multiplier applicable : 18

v. Loss of dependency: (Rs.168,000 x 18)=Rs.30,24,000/-

vi. Permanent disability at the rate of 40% = Rs.12,09,600/-

vii. For pain, shock and suffering : Rs.50,000/- viii. For Special diet : Rs.10,000/-

ix. For loss of amenities : Rs.50,000/-

x. For all other non pecuniary damages : Rs.80,000/- xi. Total compensation (vi+vii+viii+ix+x) : Rs.14,00,000/- (in rounded figure)

16. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma V/s. Venugopal, Reported in 2012 (1) GLH 6 (SC), 442, the order of investment is not passed because applicants /claimants are neither illiterate nor rustic villagers.

17. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansaguri P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291, total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimant to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) while disbursing the amount.

18. Fresh Award be drawn accordingly in the above petition by the tribunal as per the modification made herein. The Tribunals in the State shall follow the direction of this Court as herein aforementioned as far as disbursement is concerned, it should look into the condition of the litigant and the pendency of the matter and judgment of A.V. Padma (supra). The same is to be applied looking to the facts of each case.

19. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National 7 Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

20. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and award passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-UPSRTC shall deposit the amount along with additional amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

21. Recently the Gujarat High Court in case titled the Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Chief Commissioner of Income Tax (TDS), R/Special Civil Application No.4800 of 2021 decided on 05.04.2022, it is held that interest awarded by the tribunal under Section 171 of Motor Vehicles Act is not taxable under the Income Tax Act, 1961.

22. The Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Private Ltd. v. Union of India and others vide order dated 27.1.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. As 10 years have elapsed, the amount be deposited in the Saving Account of claimants in Nationalized Bank without F.D.R.

23. We are thankful to learned counsels for the parties for ably assisting this court in getting this old appeal disposed of.

24. Record be sent back to tribunal below forthwith.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. This appeal has been preferred by the claimants-appellants against the judgement and award passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/ Additional District Judge, Court No.5 Gorakhpur dated 15.09.2007 in MACP No.729 of 2016 (Smt. Seema and others Vs. Haribansh and others), by which the Tribunal has awarded compensation Rs.1,89,500/- with interest at the rate of 6% per annum.

2. The brief facts of the case are that claimants-appellants filed a claim petition before the Tribunal seeking compensation under Motor Vehicle Act, 1988 for the death of Ajit Kumar (deceased) in a road accident with the averments that on 7.10.2005 at about 6:30 pm, the deceased was travelling from Gorakhpur Shahar to his house Semuapar in tempo bearing No.UP 53 L 9090. The driver of the aforesaid tempo was driving the vehicle very rashly and negligently and at a very high speed, all of sudden, a vehicle came on the way. The driver had lost his control over the steering of the vehicle and dashed with the tree. In this accident, the deceased sustained serious injuries and died on 08.10.2005.

3. Heard Shri Hari Pratap Gupta, learned counsel for the appellants and Shri Ankur Melhotra, learned counsel for the Insurance Company. However, none is present for respondent owner and driver.

4. The owner's presence is not necessary as the Insurance Company has already deposited the amount awarded by the Tribunal. They have acquiesced to the award. Which means that they have accepted that accident took place on 07.10.2005 and Ajeet Kumar, who was 24 years of age, died out of vehicular injuries. The claimants filed claim petition claiming that the deceased was a trained electrician, who left behind his widow of 22 years and parents who were totally dependent on him of age 52 and 48 years.

5. It is submitted that in the year 2005, deceased was trained electrician, the Tribunal took the income as mentioned for notional income under the second schedule, which according to learned counsel for the appellant could not have been done. That the accident occurred in the year 2005 and the decision was prior to the judgement of Sarla Verma Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation, (2009) 6 SCC 121, no amount towards future loss of income was granted. The Tribunal has deducted 1/3 for personal expenses of the deceased. The Tribunal granted multiplier of 17 and as the deceased did not die on the same day and was hospitalized, granted a sum of Rs.10,000/- for medical expenses and granted Rs.9,500/- under the non pecuniary damages. This amount of Rs.1,89,500/- was to be paid by the respondents jointly and severally with 6% interest. It is this compensation which has aggrieved the appellants.

6. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that the Apex Court in Smt. Meena Pawaia & others Vs. Ashraf Ali and others 2021 0 Supreme (SC) 694 has held that the Tribunals are supposed to consider the potential of a person to earn and a recent judgement of the Apex Court under Section 163A for the death of child of seven years in the year 2004 has held that his notional income should be Rs.25,000/- per annum. In our case, the deceased was a trained electrician and was running his business as a vocation of electrician and, therefore, we consider his income to be Rs.3000/- per month. It is requested that the amount be considered to be Rs.3000/- per month. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that even in the year of accident the Apex Court had held that future loss of income would be admissible, therefore, he claims as 40% of said amount.

7. As far as deduction for personal expenses is concerned, there is no dispute between the parties. As far as the multiplier of 17 is concerned, there is a dispute and it should be 18 according to the learned counsel for the appellants as the Tribunal has applied multiplier as per for the schedule, the schedule, according to the counsel, is now re-visited in Sarla Verma Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation, (2009) 6 SCC 121 Judgement and hence, according to him, the multiplier should be 18. It is submitted that the medical expenses as granted may not be enhanced as there are no vouchers, which show that the amount granted Rs.10,000/- was paid. As far as non pecuniary damages are concerned, it is submitted that this Court may consider the judgement of National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050 and Kurvan Ansari @ Kurvan Ali and another Vs. Shyam Kishore Murmu and another, 2021 (4) TAC 673 (Supreme Court).

8. As against this, learned counsel Shri Ankur Mehrotra, appearing for insurance company has submitted that the Tribunal in the year 2005 has rightly considered the annual income to Rs.15,000/- per annum as there is no documentary evidence was produced. The evidence of PWs-1 & 2 also did not lay down any foundation that income was more than Rs.15,000/- per annum. It is further submitted that in the year of accident the prospective income were not to be considered as Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicle rules, 1998 was silent and amended them in the year 2011. They cannot be retrospectively made effective and as far as multiplier is concerned, the learned counsel states that as per the judgement in Sarla Verma (supra). As far as rate of interest is concerned, learned counsel states that the matter is remain pending before this Court may consider grant of interest as per the repo rates.

9. We have heard learned counsel for the parties in view of the three latest decision of the Apex Court mentioned herein above namely, Smt. Meena Pawaia & others Vs. Ashraf Ali and others 2021 0 Supreme (SC) 694, Basanti Devi and Kurvan Ansari @ Kurvan Ali and another Vs. Shyam Kishore Murmu and another, 2021 (4) TAC 673 (Supreme Court) case wherein the Apex Court has considered the notional income of a minor of seven years in the year 2004 to be Rs.25,000/- per annum. We consider the income of Rs.36,000/- per annum plus 40%. We are relying on the judgement of Pranay Sethi (supra) that it is made applicable retrospectively also and 1/3 would be deducted. The multiplier would be 18. We grant lump-sum Rs.70,000/- as per Pranay Sethi (supra) judgement plus as five years have elapsed the income 10% for every three year. Hence, we round up Rs.30,000/-. As it has been rightly pointed out by the learned counsel for the insurance company that they have conciliated therefore, rate of interest is not enhanced, should be also 6%. rate of interest.

i.	Annual Income	Rs.3,000/- x 12	Rs.36,000/-
ii.	Percenta	Rs.36,000 /- x	Rs.14,400/

	ge towards Future-Prospects (40%)	40%	-
iii.	Total Income	Rs. 36,000 /- + Rs.14,400/-	Rs.50,400/-
iv.	Income after deduction of 1/3	Rs.50,400/- - Rs.16,800/-	Rs.33,600/-
v.	Multiplier applicable	18
vi.	Loss of dependency	Rs.33,600/- x 18	Rs.6,04,800/-
vii.	Amount under Non-pecuniary Heads	Rs.30,000/- +Rs.70,000/-	Rs.1,00,000/-
ix.	Total Compensation	Rs.6,04,800/- +Rs.1,00,000/-	Rs.7,04,000/-

11. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and award passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The insurance company shall deposit the additional amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 6% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

12. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansagori P. Ladhani vs. The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., [2007(2) GLH 291] and this High Court if total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to any claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 but if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimants to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) and in First Appeal From Order No.2871 of 2016 (Tej Kumari Sharma v. Chola Mandlam M.S. General Insurance Co. Ltd.) decided on 19.3.2021 while disbursing the amount.

13. The Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Privae Ltd. vs. Union of India and others vide order dated 27.1.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. Since long time has elapsed, the amount be deposited in the Saving Bank Account of claimant(s) in a nationalized Bank.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashutosh Srivastava, J.)

1. This writ petition styled as a PIL has been filed for declaring the U.P. Land Record Manual as untra-vires the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006, and the Revenue Code Rules, 2016. Although the prayer made in the writ (PIL) is not so specific but from the tenor of the petition it is borne out that the petitioner seeks the aforesaid relief. We however quote the reliefs claimed in the petition which are as under:-

"1. Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of Certiorari declaring U.P. Land Record Manual as ultra-virus (deliberately misspelt to reproduce as it appears in the petition) issue a writ order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondents to make new U.P. Land Record Manual as per provisions of the U.P. Revenue Code 2006 or amend Para ka-124 of U.P. Land Record Manual in accordance with the class of the tenure as defined in U.P. Revenue Code 2006.

issue any other writ order or direction which the Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper under the facts and circumstances of the case."

2. It is contended on behalf of the petitioner that he is a social worker and farmer and takes active part in the social work and espouses the cause of poor villagers and farmers and has no personal interest in filing the present PIL petition which is being filed for the benefit of the villagers and public at large. It is contended that the instant petition raises the issue for the general interest of the public as U.P. Land Record Manual is an old Manual and is not according to U.P. Revenue Code, 2006.

3. Before dealing with the plea as raised in the writ PIL, it would be apposite to briefly state about the U.P. Land Record Manual and the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 as also the Revenue Code Rules, 2016 framed thereunder.

4. The U.P. Land Record Manual is a collection of Rules framed under Section 234 of the Land Revenue Act, 1901 as well as instructions issued by the State Government in relation to various matters. Chapter -V of Part-I of the Manual relates to the map and Khasra, Chapter VIII deals with the Khatauni. The preface to the Manual shows that Chapters III to XI of Part-I of the Manual have been framed under Clause (d) of Section 234 of the Land Revenue Act, 1901. Thus the rules contained in Chapter V and VIII of the Manual are statutory Rules made under Section 234. Chapter-V dealing, inter alia, with Khasra consists of paras 55 to 102. Chapter VIII relates to Khatauni and consists of paras 121 to 160. Para 60 provides that Khasra shall be prepared in Form No. P-3. Form No. P-3 consists of 21 columns. Column- 5 is meant for the name of the cultivator. In Column No.6 are to be entered the names of sub-tenants or tenants of sir, or tenants of permanent tenure-holders, or rent free grantees, or grantees at a favourable rate of rent or occupier of land without the consent of the persons entitled to admit such sub-tenants. Column No.21 is the remark column. Para 71 provides for the entry in Column No.5. It is not only the name of the cultivator but also the "nature of his rights' i.e. the class of his tenure and where necessary, the term of cultivation, have to be entered. These entries are to be made in accordance with paras 72 to 86, 124 and 124-A and 126 to 129 as the case may be. Paras 124 to 129 are in Chapter VIII dealing with Khatauni. In substance the U.P. Land Record Manual provides the rules and procedures for preparation and maintenance of Land Records.

5. The U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 (U.P. Act No.8 of 2012) has been promulgated to consolidate and amend the law relating to land tenures and land revenue in the State of Uttar Pradesh and to provide for matters connected therewith and incidental thereto. There were as many as 39 Acts relating to revenue law enforced in the State of U.P. Out of these Acts, the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 and the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901, are the most prominent. The aforesaid Acts have been amalgamated in the U.P. Revenue Code after repealing them. In the First Schedule 32 Acts have been mentioned which have been repealed. Other repealed Acts are such which have either lost their efficacy or were operating in small areas of the State. Most of the provisions of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 and U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 have been re-enacted in the Code. Section 234(3) of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006, provides that the Revenue Court Manual and the Land Record Manual in force on the date of commencement of the Code shall continue to remain in force until amended, rescinded or repealed by any regulations made under the section.

6. Now comes the question as to whether the constitutional validity of the provisions of the U.P Land Record Manual can be questioned in a writ petition styled as a Public Interest Litigation.

7. The counsel for the respondents in opposition to the petition contends that the vires of the U.P. Land Record Manual cannot be challenged/questioned in a writ petition styled as Public Interest Litigation. A counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of respondents No. 1 & 2 sworn by Sri Vishram s/o Raja Ram posted as OSD, Board of Revenue, U.P., Allahabad wherein a categorical stand has been taken that the provisions of an enactment can be struck down as ultra-vires only on two grounds (i) due to lack of legislative competence; or (ii) violation of any of the fundamental rights of any other constitutional provision. The petitioner has failed to establish that the relevant provisions which the petitioner is alleging to be ultra-vires are actually violative to any fundamental rights as envisaged under Article-14 of the Constitution of India or there is lack of legislative competence. Reliance is also placed upon Article 372 of the Constitution of India.

8. It is for the petitioner to satisfy the Court about the maintainability of the petition which is styled as a PIL. The petitioner in the instant case is not espousing his own cause, but is seeking a relief for declaring U.P. Land Record Manual as ultra-vires the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006. In the entire petition we do not find a single word which could convey that the petitioner is a person who is directly aggrieved. The maintainability of the petition requires close examination though it is styled as a Public Interest Litigation.

9. We are of the opinion that only a person who has suffered from some legal injury can challenge the Act/orders/Rules etc. in a Court of law. Writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is maintainable for the purpose of enforcing a statutory or legal right, where there is a complaint of breach of statutory duty on the part of the Authorities. The rule of locus standi in PIL requires no rigid litmus test but Courts are empowered to examine the case on settled parameters. The dominant object of PIL is to ensure the observance of the provisions of the Constitution or the Law, which can be best achieved to advance the cause of a community or disadvantaged groups.

10. In Stroud's Judicial Dictionary (fifth Edition) "Public Interest' is defined as "A matter of public or general interest" does not mean that which is interesting as gratifying curiosity or a love of information or amusement; but that in which a class of the community have a pecuniary interest, or some interest by which their legal rights or liabilities are affected...."

11. In Black's Law Dictionary (6th Edition) "Public Interest" is defined as "Something in which the public, the community at large, has some pecuniary interest, or some interest by which their legal rights or liabilities are affected. It does not mean anything so narrow as mere curiosity, or as the interests of the particular localities, which may be affected by the matters in question. Interest shared by citizens generally in affairs of local, State or national Government."

12. The concept of PIL initially surfaced in the year 1976 in our Country. After germination of the seeds of concept of PIL in the soil of our judicial system this Rule of PIL was nourished, nurtured and developed by the Apex Court in series of decisions. The traditional syntax of law in regard to locus standi for a specific judicial redress, has been relaxed to achieve the avowed purpose. The recognition for departing with the strict rule of locus standi was to echo the voice of downtrodden or poor who are unable to approach the Court for one reason or the other. Gradually, the Courts have perceived, misuse of Public Interest Litigation, hence, examination of the bonafides of petitioner has become an order of the day.

13. The Supreme Court in the case of Janata Dal vs. H.S. Chowdhary and others, reported in (1992) 4 SCC 305 observed as under:-

"98. While this Court has laid down a chain of notable decisions with all emphasis at their command about the importance and significance of this newly-developed doctrine of PIL, it has also hastened to sound a red alert and a note of severe warning that courts should not allow its process to be abused by a mere busybody or a meddlesome interloper or wayfarer or officious intervener without any interest or concern except for personal gain or private profit or other oblique consideration."

14. Undisputedly, PIL is a weapon which has to be used with great care and circumspection and Courts have to be extremely careful to see that behind a beautiful veil of Public Interest, whether any private malice, vested interest or publicity stunt is lurking. Basically, PIL should be aimed at redressal of public wrong or public injury. The approach of court is to make differentia in between bonafide cause raised for the benefit of public or it is nothing but for oblique consideration. The Court must not allow its process to be abused for oblique consequences. In such proceedings voluminous time of the Court is consumed which time otherwise could have been spent for the disposal of cases in genuine litigation.

15. It would not be out of place to quote the observation of the Supreme Court in the case of Ashok Kumar Pandey Vs. State of West Bengal, reported in 2004 (3) SCC 349 which is as under:-

"12. Public interest litigation is a weapon which has to be used with great care and circumspection and the judiciary has to be extremely careful to see that behind the beautiful veil of public interest an ugly private malice, vested interest and/or publicity seeking is not lurking. It is to be used as an effective weapon in the armory of law for delivering social justice to the citizens. The attractive brand name of public interest litigation should not be used for suspicious products of mischief. It should be aimed at redressal of genuine public wrong or public injury and not publicity oriented or founded on personal vendetta. As indicated above, Court must be careful to see that a body of persons or member of public, who approaches the court is acting bona fide and not for personal gain or private motive or political motivation or other oblique consideration. The Court must not allow its process to be abused for oblique considerations. Some persons with vested interest indulge in the pastime of meddling with judicial process either by force of habit or from improper motives. Often they are actuated by a desire to win notoriety or cheap popularity. The petitions of such busy bodies deserve to be thrown out by rejection at the threshold, and in appropriate cases with exemplary costs.

14.....In such case, however, the Court cannot afford to be liberal. It has to be extremely careful to see that under the guise of redressing a public grievance, it does not encroach upon the sphere reserved by the Constitution to the Executive and the Legislature. The Court has to act ruthlessly while dealing with imposters and busy bodies or meddlesome interlopers impersonating as public-spirited holy men. They masquerade as crusaders of justice. They pretend to act in the name of Pro Bono Publico, though they have no interest of the public or even of their own to protect."

16. Further, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in case of BALCO Employees Union (Regd) Vs. Union of India and others, reported in (2002) 2 SCC 333, observed as under:-

"78. While PIL initially was invoked mostly in cases connected with the relief to the people and the weaker sections of the society and in areas where there was violation of human rights under Article 21, but with the passage of time, petitions have been entertained in other spheres. Prof. S.B. Sathe has summarised the extent of the jurisdiction which has now been exercised in following words :-

"PIL may, therefore, be described as satisfying one or more of the following parameters. These are not exclusive but merely descriptive:

Where the concerns underlying a petition are not individualist but are shared widely by a large number of people (bonded labour, undertrial prisoners, prison inmates).

Where the affected persons belong to the disadvantaged sections of society (women, children, bonded labour, unorganised labour etc.).

Where judicial law making is necessary to avoid exploitation (inter-country adoption, the education of the children of the prostitutes).

Where judicial intervention is necessary for the protection of the sanctity of democratic institutions(independence of the judiciary, existence of grievances redressal forums).

Where administrative decisions related to development are harmful to the environment and jeopardize people's to natural resources such as air or water".

79. There is, in recent years, a feeling which is not without any foundation that Public Interest Litigation is now tending to become publicity interest litigation or private interest litigation and has a tendency to be counter-productive.

80. PIL is not a pill or a panacea for all wrongs. It was essentially meant to protect basic human rights of the weak and the disadvantaged and was a procedure which was innovated where a public spirited person files a petition in effect on behalf of such persons who on account of poverty, helplessness or economic and social disabilities could not approach the Court for relief. There have been, in recent times, increasingly instances of abuse of PIL. Therefore, there is a need to re-emphasize the parameters within which PIL can be resorted to by a Petitioner and entertained by the Court. This aspect has come up for consideration before this Court and all we need to do is to recapitulate and re-emphasize the same."

17. Again in the case of Janata Dal (supra) the Hon'ble Supreme Court opined as under:-

"109. It is thus clear that only a person acting bona fide and having sufficient interest in the proceeding of PIL will alone have a locus standi and can approach the Court to wipe out the tears of the poor and needy, suffering from violation of their fundamental rights, but not a person for personal gain or private profit or political motive or any oblique consideration. Similarly, a vexatious petition under the colour of PIL brought before the court for vindicating any personal grievance, deserves rejection at the threshold."

18. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Guruvayoor Devaswom Managing Committee and another Vs. C.K. Rajan and others reported in (2003) 7 SCC 546, took survey of various decisions in the filed and summarized the position in Para 50 of the judgment. One of the principles which the Hon'ble Supreme Court noted, is reproduced here in below:-

" 50*(i)*. The Court in exercise of powers under Article 32 and Article 226 of the Constitution of India can entertain a petition filed by any interested person in the welfare of the people who is in a disadvantaged position and, thus, not in a position to knock the doors of the Court.

The Court is constitutionally bound to protect the fundamental rights of such disadvantaged people so as to direct the State to fulfill its constitutional promises. (See S.P. Gupta Vs. Union of India [1981 (supp) SCC 87], People's Union for Democratic Rights and Others Vs. Union of India (1982) 2 SCC 494, Bandhua Mukti Morcha Vs. Union of India and Others (1984) 3 SCC 161 and Janata Dal Vs. H.S. Chowdhary and Others (1992) 4 SCC 305)

(ii) Issues of public importance, enforcement of fundamental rights of large number of public vis-Ã -vis the constitutional duties and functions of the State, if raised, the Court treat a letter or a telegram as a public interest litigation upon relaxing procedural laws as also the law relating to pleadings. (See Charles Sobraj Vs. Supdt. Central Jail, Tihar, New Delhi (1978) 4 SCC 104 and Hussainara Khatoon and Others Vs. Home Secretary, State of Bihar (1980) 1 SCC 81).

.....
.....

(xi) ordinarily, the High Court should not entertain a writ petition by way of public interest litigation questioning the constitutionality or validity of a statute or a Statutory Rule."

19. In the case at hand, we find that the U.P. Land Record Manual merely provides the manner and procedure to maintain the land records. Section 234(3) of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 provides that the Land Record Manual in force on the date of commencement of the Revenue Code, 2006, shall continue to remain in force, to the extent they are not inconsistent with the provisions of the Revenue Code, 2006 until amended rescinded or repealed by any regulations made under this Section.

20. In the wake of the above, we are not inclined to entertain the petition styled as PIL particularly in view of the fact that Section 234(3) of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006, itself takes care of the inconsistency of the Land Record Manual and upholds it only to the extent it is not inconsistent with the provisions of the Revenue Code, 2006. We are of the opinion that this is not a fit case where PIL jurisdiction should be invoked or exercised.

21. Accordingly, we dismiss the petition on account of non maintainability by imposing cost assessed at Rs. 10,000/- to be deposited with the High Court Legal Services Committee, High Court, Allahabad, within 45 days from today, failing which the same shall be recovered from the petitioner as arrears of land revenue.

A. Tax Law - The controversy in the present case pertains only to enhanced rate of nitrogen component in DAP as distinguished from enhanced rate of tax on nitrogen component. The Agriculture department has enhanced only the rate of nitrogen for the purpose of levying tax and did not bring any change in the rate of tax. However, the revisionist had collected the enhanced rate of DAP and consequently is lible tp pay tax on the enhanced rates which was so collected by him. (Para 15)

Revision Rejected. (E-10)

List of Cases cited:

M/s Ganesh International & anr. Vs Assistant Commissioner & ors. 2001 (18) NTN DX 43 (distinguished)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. The controversy in the present revision is with regard to the rate of Trade Tax under the U. P. Trade Tax Act applicable for the Nitrogen component in the Chemical Fertilizer DAP (Di Ammonium Phosphate). The impugned Judgment of the Commercial Tax Tribunal, Lucknow Bench while rejecting the appeal preferred by the Revisionist held that the Nitrogen content in the DAP was rightly charged at the rate of Rs.1494.80 rather than Rs.1381.30 per metric ton in light of the fact that the Government of India had enhanced the rates of DAP with effect from 29/01/1999, which would be the relevant date for implementation of the enhanced rate of Trade Tax.

2. The revisionist is engaged in the business of manufacturing of Chemical Fertilizer at its unit at Jagdishpur.

3. During the financial year 1999 - 2000 the assessment of the revisionist was carried out and the Assessing Authority assessed the Tax on sale of DAP on the value of Nitrogen content at the rate of Rs. 1490.80 per metric ton, calculated the Tax @6.5% there on.

4. The Revisionist being aggrieved by the said assessment preferred an appeal before the Deputy Commissioner (Appeal), Trade Tax, Lucknow which was dismissed by order dated 29/09/2001, and similar was the fate of the second appeal at the hands of the Commercial Tax Tribunal, Lucknow.

5. The Assessing authority, 1st Appellate Authority as well as the Commercial Tax Tribunal came to a concurrent finding that the Trade Tax levied upon the component of Nitrogen in DAP would be assessed treating the value of Nitrogen at Rs.1381.30 per metric ton was applicable with effect from 27/05/1998 but as soon as the rate of DAP was enhanced by the Government of India with effect from 29/01/1999 the revised/enhanced rates of Tax would be deemed to have come into force and the Nitrogen component in DAP would be valued at Rs. 1 494.80 per metric ton, and hence did not agree with the submissions of the revisionist.

6. The question which arises for determination in the present revision is :-

Whether the revision in the rate of Nitrogen content in DAP would be applicable from the date of enhancement of the rate of DAP by the Government of India with effect from 29 January, 1999 or from 26 February, 2000 when the same was notified by the State Government ?

7. To address the aforesaid proposition it is necessary to go into the various notifications governing the field with regard to levying of Trade Tax on the Fertilizer where Nitrogen is one of the components. According to the notification dated 27th May, 1998 passed in exercise of Clause [a] of Section 4 read with Section 25 of the Uttar Pradesh Trade Tax Act 1948 it was provided that no Tax under the said Act shall be payable on the sale of Potash and Phosphatic component of the Chemical Fertilizers during the period 1st April, 1998 to 31st March, 2000. It was also provided that the percentage of the different components of the Chemical Fertilizers shall be determined according to the guidelines issued by Department of Agriculture, Uttar Pradesh from time to time. In the same notification it is mentioned that the Department of Agriculture has determined the value of the Nitrogen component in DAP to be Rs.1381.30 per metric ton.

8. Further, the above notification also provided that the value of Nitrogen in DAP is liable to be taxed and the value of Nitrogen will be determined by the Agriculture Department which according to the notification dated 27.5.1988 was determined to be Rs.1381.30 per metric ton. It is noticed that the value of Nitrogen is also notified by the Trade Tax Department and taxed @ 6.5 per cent. The value of Nitrogen is also notified by the Trade Tax Department on the recommendation of Agriculture Department, at par with their duty to determine the rate of Tax.

9. The revisionist started collecting Tax on the Nitrogen component of the DAP treating the value to be Rs.1381.30 and during the assessment years 1998-99, 1999-2000 and continued to charge and deposit the Tax at the said value. It is the proceedings for assessment for the assessment year 1999-2000 that the authority objected to the said determination and sought to assess the Nitrogen component @ Rs.1494.80 per metric ton.

10. The circular dated 26/02/2000 issued by the Commissioner Trade Tax referred the order dated 14/10/99 issued by the State Government stating that as per the notification of the Commissioner of Trade Tax dated 6 May, 1998, the Director (Agriculture) vide his letter dated 19/08/1999 has informed that the value of the Nitrogen component has changed and, therefore, the revised rates of the Nitrogen component in the Potash and Phosphate fertilizers are enhanced to Rs.1494.80 per metric ton.

11. There is no dispute with regard to facts in issue inasmuch as vide notification dated 27th May, 1998 the value of Nitrogen component in DAP was fixed at ₹1381.30. Subsequently the value of DAP was enhanced by the Union of India on 29/1/1999. The notification of the Commissioner, Trade Tax dated 26/02/2000 referred to the said enhancement of rate of DAP and consequent enhancement of value of the Nitrogen component in the DAP vide circular issued by the Department of Agriculture which was given wide circulation. There is no dispute that prior to notification dated 26/02/2000 the notification dated 27th May, 1998 was in existence.

12. It has been contended by the counsel for the revisionist that the notification dated 27.5.1998 held field till it was amended/modified by the subsequent notification related 26.02.2000. It is, therefore, contended that in absence of any valid law / notification there was no occasion for the opposite parties to deduct trade Tax at the enhanced rate of Rs.1494.80, and in case the Tax is deemed to have enhanced with effect from 14/10/1999 i.e. is the date of enhancement of the rates of DAP, the Tax could not have been enhanced retrospectively and consequently submitted that the assessment order, the order passed in first appeal as well as the impugned order of the Commercial Tax Tribunal are illegal and arbitrary and deserve to be set aside.

13. The Revenue, on the other hand, has submitted that once the rate of DAP was enhanced by the Government of India and the revisionist having recovered the enhanced rate of DAP, was bound to pay Tax at the enhanced rate and should have himself found out about the enhanced rate of Nitrogen component in DAP and has, therefore, supported by orders of the authorities below.

14. The notification dated 6th May, 1998 itself provided the percentage of different components of the Chemical Fertilizer shall be determined according to the guidelines issued by the Department of Agriculture from time to time and the Department of Agriculture had informed the Commercial Tax Department vide letter dated 08/05/1998 that value of the Nitrogen component in DAP would be ₹1381.30. In the meanwhile, the rate of the DAP was enhanced by the Government of India by means of order dated 14/10/1999 but no order/notification was issued by the Commercial Tax Department or the Agricultural Department enhancing the rate of the Nitrogen component in DAP. The first appellate court as well as Commercial Tax Tribunal have both while disallowing the claim of the revisionist have held that at the moment the rate of DAP were enhanced by the Central Government vide its order dated 29.1.1999, the revisionist started collecting the enhanced rate.

15. It is also noticed that the controversy in the present case pertains only to enhanced rate of nitrogen component in DAP as distinguished from enhanced rate of tax on Nitrogen component which remained at 6.5 percent. It is not a case where there was any change in the rate of tax but only rate of nitrogen for the purpose of levying Trade Tax was enhanced by the Agriculture Department. Admittedly, the revisionist had collected the enhanced rate of DAP and consequently is liable to pay Tax on the enhanced rates which was so collected by him. The entire argument of the revisionist stating that the rate of tax would not have retrospective effect and relied upon the judgment of this Court in the case of M/S Ganesh International and Another vs Assistant Commissioner and others, 2001 (18) NTN DX 43. The said judgment would not be applicable to the facts of the present case as in the present case there was no change or enhancement in the rate of tax but only change in value of taxable goods.

16. No material has been placed by the revisionist before this Court to upset the concurrent finding of facts recorded by both the authorities below that the revisionist had collected the enhanced rate of DAP from the date of notification issued by Government of India. It is also noticed that vide its order dated 26.2.2000 the Commissioner, Trade Tax had circulated the letter of Government of India dated 14.10.1999 which fact was already within the knowledge of the revisionist, who is a dealer of DAP and the contention of the revisionist in this regard has not been accepted by the first appellate court as well as Commercial Tax Tribunal.

17. The revisionist having realized enhanced rate of DAP from 1999 when the rate was enhanced by the Government of India, he would be liable to pay Trade Tax at the enhanced rate of Nitrogen content in DAP. This finding recorded by the Tribunal has not been assailed by the revisionist. In case, the revisionist is allowed to pay Trade Tax the earlier rate of nitrogen component in DAP, it would amount to unjust enrichment and, therefore, even in this view of the matter the revision fails.

18. This Court in consideration of the aforesaid facts is of the considered opinion that no interference is required with the judgment of the Commercial Tax Tribunal that enhanced rate of nitrogen would be effective from 1999 itself rather than 26.2.2000. The question is answered in favour of the revenue as against the revisionist. Consequently, the revision is dismissed.

5. On 28.03.2022 this Court passed the following order:-

"Heard Sri Rahul Agarwal, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Gaurav Mahajan, learned counsel for the respondent nos. 2,3, and 4. None appears for the respondent no.1.

The only issue involved in the present writ petition is restoration of the GST registration of the petitioner on portal. Prima facie, it appears that the respondents are acting arbitrarily and in defiance of their statutory duties.

Learned counsel for the respondent nos. 2,3, and 4 states that the server is at Chennai under the control of the respondent no.1 and despite writing letters, nothing has been done so far by the respondent no.1. The submission so made also prima facie, reflects dereliction in duties by the respondents and harassment of the petitioner by them.

Let a counter affidavit be filed by the respondent nos.1,2,3 and 4 within two weeks', failing which this Court may consider to impose cost, inasmuch as, due to the alleged non restoration of the GST registration on portal, the petitioner is neither able to carry on his business nor able to make statutory compliances.

Put up as a fresh case before the appropriate bench on 12.04.202"

6. In compliance to the aforesaid order, the respondent nos. 2,3 and 4 filed today counter affidavit dated 11.04.2022 and in paragraph nos. 2, 8 and 9 they have stated as under:-

(2) That the deponent at the very outset craves leave of the Hon'ble Court to bring on record certain important facts, background and material which are already part of record and also flow from the statute book and which will have a material bearing on the outcome of the writ petition. The said facts are as follows:-

(a) The petitioner was a partnership firm consisting of 2 partners namely Satendra Kumar Jain and Narendra Kumar Jain.

(b) On 24.03.2021 Narendra Kumar Jain expired/passed away and the Partnership came to an end and as such the remaining partner submitted an online request through portal for cancellation of their registration vide ARNAA090721101216N dated 22.07.2021 The request for cancellation of their GSTIN 09AAAFU3379A1ZA was approved by the competent authority through the portal vide Reference No. ZA090721586918R dated 23.07.2021. Thus the registration of the petitioner stood cancelled.

(c) On 29.07.2021 a new Deed of Partnership was made/executed between 2 partners namely Satendra Kumar Jain and Siddesh Jain.

(d) Subsequently the new partners filed an appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals) for restoration of its cancelled registration. The appeal was allowed vide order dated 22.10.2021.

(e) Thereafter the petitioner filed an application before the Respondent no.4 along with certified copy of the order dated 22.10.2021 passed by the Commissioner (Appeals) for revocation of its cancelled GST registration/restoration of its GST registration.

(f) Just as the process for cancellation of Registration is through online mode, same is the process of revocation of cancellation of registration is also fully online through portal. In this process, the applicant files revocation online and the same is disposed off online accordingly.

Therefore there is no option to initiate the revocation of cancelled registration by the Respondent Nos. 2,3 and 4. In terms of advisory dated 16.06.2021 on the subject "Difficulty in restoration of cancelled registration-Advisory" issued by the DG (Systems), Chennai, the request of the petitioner dated 28.10.2021 was forwarded to DG (Systems) Chennai along with duly filled prescribed format singed by the Commissioner, Central Goods and Service Tax and Central Excise, Agra for the needful at their end through email dated 23.11.2021. A photo copy of the email dated 23.11.2021 is enclosed herewith and marked as Annexure No. CA-1).

(8) That in reply to the contents of paragraph nos. 12 of the writ petition in the manner as stated therein it is respectfully submitted that acting upon petitioner's letter dated 08.12.2021 for revocation of their cancellation of registration. The request was again forwarded to the D.G. (Systems),

Chennai through email dated 07.01.2022 in continuation of email dated 23.11.2021. A photo copy of the email dated 07.01.2022 is enclosed herewith and marked as Annexure No. CA-2.

(9) That in reply to the contents of paragraph no.13 of the writ petition in the manner as stated therein it is respectfully submitted that acting upon petitioner's letter dated 21.01.2022, this request has also been forwarded vide email dated 28.01.2022 to the DG (Systems), Chennai in continuation of email dated 23.11.2021 and 07.01.2022. A photocopy of the email dated 28.01.2022 is enclosed herewith and marked as Annexure No. CA-3.

7. From the afore-quoted averments made in the counter affidavit by the respondent nos. 2,3 and 4, it is evident that there is total lack of coordination between the authorities and for that reason the Director General (Systems), Chennai is not taking any action and is not giving effect to the order of the appellate authority dated 22.10.2021, despite letters written by the authority as referred in the afore-quoted paragraphs. The policy of the Government is "ease of doing business" but the policy is not properly being executed by own officer of the Government and thus, people are being obstructed to carry on business which is in breach of fundamental rights guaranteed under Article 19(1) of the Constitution of India.

8. Respondent nos. 1 and 5 may file short counter affidavit within a week, by means of their personal affidavit clearly giving response on the prevailing situation and shall also come out an appropriate circular and guidelines as well as appropriate action in the matter so that such thing may not be repeated and the dealers may not be harassed.

9. Put up as a fresh case before the appropriate bench on 21.04.2022 at 10.00 A.M. for further hearing."

5. Today, a short counter affidavit on behalf of respondent nos. 1 & 5 has been filed by Sri Lalan Kumar, Commissioner CGST and CX Agra.

6. In the aforesaid short counter affidavit it has been states as under :-

"10. That the deponent most respectfully submits that during the pendency of the present Writ Petition the registration of the petitioner has been restored on 19.04.2022 and restoration of the registration was also communicated to the petitioner by GSTN Legal, New Delhi through email dated 20.04.2022 containing 1 attachment. A photocopy of the email dated 20.04.2022 and its attachment are enclosed herewith and marked as Annexure No.SCA-4.

11. That at this juncture it is necessary to place on record a Registration Advisory No. 07 of 2022 dated 23.03.2022 the subject of which is "Introduction of Restoration of Cancelled Registration based on Appellate Order - Reg' issued by the Pr. Additional Director General of Systems and Data Management, Chennai. The Registration Advisory was issued on the basis of inputs/communications received from field formations. A photocopy of the Registration Advisory No. 07 of 2022 dated 23.03.2022 is enclosed herewith and marked as Annexure No. SCA-5.

12. That the deponent most respectfully submits that the Registration Advisony No. 7 of 2022 dated 23.03.2022 has put in place a suitable mechanism in the form of a functionality in the name of "Restoration of Cancelled Registration" and has been developed and deployed w.e.f. 23.03.2022 to facilitate the jurisdictional Range Officers to restore the registration in pursuance of judicial/appellate orders and necessary permission to operate this functionality has been enabled for the jurisdictional Range Officers."

7. Annexure SCA - 4 reflects the effective date of registration as 01.07.2017. Thus, the relief no. (i) as sought by the petitioner stands granted and the grievance of the petitioner in this regard now stands redressed.

8. So far as the relief No.(ii) is concerned, we hope that in view of the restoration of registration with retrospective effect on 20.04.2022, the authorities shall see that petitioner may not face any hurdle in filing his returns for the months of August 2021 to March 2022.

9. From the records, it appears that as per own case of the respondents a temporary mechanism to restore cancelled registration was created in the back end and an advisory vide e-mail dated 16.06.2021 was issued in this regard to restore registrations cancelled on the request of the dealers or pursuant to the orders passed by appellate authorities/High Court, but a permanent mechanism could not be developed until the aforesaid advisory dated 23.03.2022 (Annexure No.SCA No.5).

10. But now it developed and deployed a functionality in the name of "Restoration of Cancelled Registration" with effect from 23.03.2022 to facilitate the jurisdictional Range Officers to restore the registration in pursuance of judicial/appellate orders. The aforesaid Registration Advisory No.07/2022, dated 23.03.2022 is reproduced below :

"12. Facts to be within the deponent's knowledge or source to be stated- Except on interlocutory applications, an affidavit shall be confined to such facts as the deponent is able of his own knowledge to prove.

(22-5-1915)."

5. The aforesaid affidavit dated 25.02.2022 filed by Sri Pradyumn Tripathi, Additional Director General, DGGI, Meerut Zonal Unit, Meerut, does not comply with the requirements of a valid affidavit as provided in Rule 12 of Chapter IV of the Allahabad High Court Rules/Order XIX Rule 9 C.P.C.

6. As noticed in paragraph 2 above, the deponent of the aforesaid personal affidavit dated 25.02.2022 has not verified/sworn paragraphs either on personal knowledge or on the basis of information received from others or on the basis of information derived from the documents.

7. Affidavit is a mode of placing evidence before the Court. Party may prove a fact or facts by means of affidavit before this Court but such affidavit should be in accordance Rules. The Rules enable the Court to find out as to whether it would be safe to act on such evidence and to enable the court to know as to what facts are based in the affidavits on the basis of personal knowledge, information and belief as this is relevant for the purpose of appreciating the evidence placed before the Court, in the form of affidavit.

8. It is only on the basis of verification, it is possible to decide the genuineness and authenticity of the allegations and the deponent can be held responsible for the allegations made in the affidavit. It is, therefore, necessary that the person making averments in the affidavit must disclose as to what facts are true to his personal knowledge, what facts are true on the basis of information received from others which he believed to be true and what facts are based on information derived from documents. Full particulars of the document needs to be stated and the deponent has to verify that the information is believed to be true. An affidavit which does not comply with the aforesaid provisions of the Allahabad High Court Rules/CPC, has no probative value and is liable to be rejected.

9. In the case of Bharat Singh and others Vs. State of Haryana AIR 1988 SC 2181, Hon'ble Supreme Court laid down the law that how in Writ Petition or in Counter Affidavit the facts need to be pleaded and proved. The relevant portion of the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Bharat Singh(supra) is reproduced below :-

"In our opinion, when a point which is ostensibly a point of law is required to be substantiated by facts, the party raising the point, if he is the writ petitioner, must plead and prove such facts by evidence which must appear from the writ petition and if he is the respondent, from the counter-affidavit. If the facts are not pleaded or the evidence in support of such facts is not annexed to the writ petition or to the counter, affidavit, as the case may be, the court will not entertain the point. In this context, it will not be out of place to point out that in this regard there is a distinction between a pleading under the Code of Civil Procedure and a writ petition or a counter-affidavit. While in a pleading, that is, a plaint or a written statement, the facts and not evidence are required to be pleaded, in a writ petition or in the counter-affidavit not only the facts but also the evidence in proof of such facts have to be pleaded and annexed to it." (Emphasis supplied by us)

10. In the case of State of Bombay Vs. Purushottam Jog Naik AIR 1952 SC 317 a Constitution Bench considering the importance of verification of an affidavit observed (at p.319 of AIR) :

"We wish, however, to observe that the verification of the affidavits produced here is defective. The body of the affidavit discloses that certain matters were known to the Secretary who made the affidavit personally. The verification however states that everything was true to the best of his information and belief. We point this out as slipshod verification of this type might well in a given case lead to a rejection of the affidavit. Verification should invariably be modelled on the lines of Order XIX, Rule 3, of the Civil Procedure Code, whether the Code applies in terms or not. And when the matter deposed to is not based on personal knowledge the sources of information should be clearly disclosed."

11. In the case of Smt. Savithramma Vs. Cicil Naronha & Anr. AIR 1988 SC 1987 (para 2) Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the importance of verification of affidavit and rejection of affidavit in the absence of proper verification and held as under :-

".....Affidavit is a mode of placing evidence before the Court. A party may prove a fact or facts by means of affidavit before this Court but such affidavit should be in accordance with Order XI Rules 5 and 13 of the Supreme Court Rules. The purpose underlying Rules 5 and 13 of Order XI of the Supreme Court Rules is to enable the Court to find out as to whether it would be safe to act on such evidence and to enable the court to know as to what facts are based in the affidavit on the basis of personal knowledge, information and belief as this is relevant for the purpose of appreciating the evidence placed before the Court, in the form of affidavit. The importance of verification has to be judged by the purpose for which it is required. It is only on the basis or verification, it is possible to decide the genuineness and authenticity of the allegations and the deponent can be held responsible for the allegations made in the affidavit. In this Court evidence in support of the statements contained in writ petition, special leave petitions, applications and other miscellaneous matters, is accepted in the form of affidavit filed by the parties concerned. It is therefore necessary that the party stating facts must disclose as to what facts are true to his personal knowledge, information or belief. If the statement of fact is based on information the source of information must be disclosed in the affidavit. An affidavit which does not comply with the provisions of Order XT of the Supreme Court Rules, has no probative value and it is liable to be rejected. In a matter where allegations of mala fides or disobedience of the Court's order are made against a person or party it is all the more necessary that the person filing affidavit in this regard must take care to verify the facts stated in the affidavit strictly in accordance with the Rules 5 and 13 of Order XI of the Supreme Court Rules. "

12. Since the aforesaid personal affidavit filed on behalf of respondent no.2 by Sri Pradyumn Tripathi, Additional Director General, DGGI, Meerut Zonal Unit, Meerut, does not apply with the provisions of Rule 12 of Chapter IV of the Allahabad High Court Rules/Order XIX Rule 9 C.P.C., therefore, it is liable to be rejected and accordingly it is rejected. However, we grant one more opportunity to the respondent no.2 to file a proper affidavit within three days stating true and correct facts.

13. Put up as a fresh case on 30.05.2022 at 10 A.M.

(A) Administrative Law - in the administrative and the quasi-judicial decision making process - any decision taken upon misreading of a document - in ignorance of a document and without recording reasons - would clearly qualified as arbitrary, perverse and hit by wednesbury arbitrariness - denial of opportunity of hearing also makes the order as violative of principles of natural justice. (Para - 37,38)

(B) Administrative Law - alternative remedy is not an absolute bar - administrative/quasi-judicial authorities are obliged to record reasons - show - cause notice issued with a premeditation would entitle the petitioner to approach this Court in exercise of power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. (Para - 26)

Contract as well as dealership of petitioner (retail out dealer) cancelled – basis of termination - report- suspicion expressed with regard to two pulsar cards - report of OEM MIDCO - allegation with regard to loss of reputation of corporation in view of wide reporting in print and electronic media - impugned order passed on a clear misreading of inspection report - clear misreading of report of MIDCO - non-consideration of vital piece of evidence - improper invocation of deeming provision under clause 5.1.4 of MDG .(Para - 1,29,38)

HELD:- Writ petition would lie against an order, which is perverse and which cannot satisfy the test of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. Impugned order cannot be sustained and is set aside with directions to the respondent - corporation to permit the petitioner to run the retail outlet forthwith subject to the petitioner complying with the other requirements for dispensing the petroleum products as are required under the Act and the Rules. (Para - 30,38)

11. Savitri Devi & ors. Vs U.O.I.& ors. , Writ C No.29859 of 2017

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Bhatia, J.)

1. The present petition has been filed challenging the order dated 15.10.2019 passed by Dispute Resolution Panel (in short "DRP") whereby the appellate forum had remanded the matter for adjudication before respondent no.4 as well as the order dated 19.10.2020 passed by respondent no.3 whereby the contract of the petitioner has been cancelled and his dealership also stands cancelled consequently.

2. This Court during the course of hearing had summoned the records of Writ - C No.21992 of 2020 for the purpose of perusal.

3. Heard Shri Prashant Chandra, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Ms. Radhika Singh, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner and Shri Dipak Seth, Shri Manish Jauhari and Ms. Shruti Sahu, learned counsel(s) appearing on behalf of respondent nos.1 to 4.

4. The facts, in brief, are that the petitioner was appointed as a retail outlet dealer by Indian Oil Corporation (for short "corporation') by means of an appointment letter dated 02.12.2015 for running a retail outlet at Bariha Taranpur, District Lakhimpur Kheri, which was being run by the petitioner in the name and style of M/S R.S. Filling Station. An agreement was executed in between the parties on 01.04.2006. It is also common ground that the dealership granted to the petitioner is governed by the agreement executed in between the parties and the Marketing Discipline Guidelines (hereinafter referred as "MDG") issued from time to time. In the month of April, 2017 in pursuance to the directions given by the State Government, inspections were carried out by the authorities as specified in the Government Order across various petrol and diesel outlets and an inspection was also carried out on the petitioner's outlet on 31.05.2017 by a team of three persons. An inspection report was prepared, which is annexed as Annexure - 4 to the writ petition. It is also relevant to note that detailed instructions were issued by the Chief Secretary, State of U.P. vide communication dated 15.06.2017 constituting a team of 5 persons for carrying out the inspections. In the inspection report as prepared and contained in Annexure - 4, it was recorded that an inspection was carried out and the machines were checked. At the time of inspection, four dispensing units (8 nozzles) were found, out of which 6 nozzles were found in working conditions. From each nozzle, 15 ltrs. each of petrol and diesel were taken out and after inspection, the same were found to be giving proper delivery. 2 nozzles were found to be not in the working conditions. On inspection of pulsar cards of the nozzles, 2 pulsar cards appeared to be suspicious, which were seized and taken into custody and a plastic seal was fixed thereupon.

5. Based upon the inspection report dated 31.05.2017, the respondent - corporation issued a letter dated 31.05.2017 calling for the response from the petitioner. The said letter, which is contained in Annexure - 8, was termed as "fact finding letter". It was mentioned that during the inspection following observations were made and the petitioner was called upon to submit his explanation within a period of 15 days as to why action should not be taken as per the MDG/dealership agreement to protect the marketing interest of the corporation:

"2 Pulsar card were found with impression of tempering, due to which 3 Nozzles (2 MS AND 1 HSD) were affected by these 2 Pulsar card."

6. The petitioner submitted a reply on 15.06.2017 denying the allegations and submitted that no extra chips were found in the machines, the seals of machines were found intact, measurements checked were found in order and the calibration of the machines was done by the Weights and Measurement Officer and a certificate was issued by them, thus, no fault could be attributed to the petitioner. Subsequently, a show - cause notice was issued to the petitioner on 30.08.2018 (Annexure - 10). In the said show - cause notice, first charge alleged was that during the inspection following irregularities were found at the retail outlet:

"2 Pulsar card were found with impression of tempering, due to which 3 Nozzles (2 MS AND 1 HSD) were affected by these 2 Pulsar card."

A copy of the said inspection report was attached with the show - cause notice. It was also mentioned that the fact finding letter was issued to which the petitioner had replied. It was also noticed that in the reply of the petitioner he had requested not to take any action till the time test report of the pulsar card is received. It was also noticed that the District Supply Officer had suspended the diesel selling license of the petitioner. It was indicated in the said show - cause notice that MIDCO Company had released/sent a test report vide its letter dated 15.06.2018 with the following remarks:

"(I) R1 resistor is found missing on pulsar PCB.

(II) Additional Solder marks are observed on C8 capacitorlead.

(III) Additional solder marks are observed on L4 location of pulsar PCB."

A copy of the report was attached alongwith the show - cause notice. It was further recorded that after going through the reply dated 15.06.2017, the same appeared to the respondent to be not satisfactory/convincing and the attention of the petitioner was drawn to the Clause Nos. 16, 44, 58(m) and Clause No.5.1.4 of MDG2012 as amended, which attracts penal action under Clause 8.2 IV - Critical Irregularities: Termination of the first instance. Extract of the report submitted by the MIDCO is as under:

7. The second charge was that the irregularity has also been widely reported in the print and electronic media, which has caused prejudiced in the mind of the general public and the customers and as such has tarnished the good image and reputation of the corporation and the same was against the marketing interest of the corporation.

8. The petitioner was called upon to file his reply within a period of 15 days. It is stated that the petitioner submitted a detailed reply to the said show - cause notice on 05.10.2018, which is contained in Annexure - 13. It is also on record that in the intervening period, the license of the petitioner, which was cancelled by the State, was restored on 31.09.2017. It is on record that the 2 pulsar cards, which were taken into custody by the inspecting team on 31.05.2017 were handed over to the District Supply Officer, however, subsequently, the same were taken by the corporation from the District Supply Officer and one of the pulsar cards was handed over to the Original Equipment Manufacturer (OEM) MIDCO for testing on 15.12.2017 and the other card was handed over to the other OEM Dreser Wayne on 08.12.2017 for testing at NOIDA. The said two reports given by the two OEMs are on record as Annexures - 11 & 12.

9. The report of MIDCO has already been reproduced hereinabove. In the report of the other OEM Dreser Wayne, no signs of damage were found. The said report also observed that although soldiering signs impression have been observed in the pulsar PCB circuitry, however, during testing all operations were found normal. The petitioner in his defense relied upon the report of the Dreser Wayne also to impress that merely by eye estimation, it cannot be presumed that anything wrong was done, which stood confirmed by the OEM while recording that although impressions of soldiering were found on the pulsar PCB, however, during testing all operations were found normal. The report of the other OEM Dreser Wayne was submitted by the petitioner alongwith supplementary reply dated 27.11.2018.

10. It is on record that after the inspection, an FIR was also lodged against the petitioner under Section 3/7 of Essential Commodities Act, however, subsequently, a final report was submitted by the Investigating Officer on 26.12.2018, which was also accepted by the trial Court. It is on record that subsequent to the FIR coming to an end and the supply license being restored by the District Supply Officer on 13.09.2017, the sale of petrol etc., was supplied by the respondents and the operation continued from 01.07.2017 uninterrupted and the supply of HSD was resumed w.e.f 13.09.2017.

11. On 14.03.2019 the respondent - corporation passed an order terminating the retail outlet dealership of the petitioner. A copy of the said termination order is contained in Annexure - 19.

12. Aggrieved against the termination order dated 14.03.2019, the petitioner preferred a writ petition being Writ Petition No.9062 (MB) of 2019 (R.S. Filling Station

v. Indian Oil Corporation & Ors.) before this Court wherein this Court granted an interim indulgence by staying the implementation of the termination order till the disposal of the application for interim relief by the appellate forum and the petitioner was relegated for filing an appeal before the Disputes Resolution Panel. The petitioner preferred an appeal challenging the termination order dated 14.03.2019. The said appeal was disposed off vide order dated 15.10.2019 whereby the appellate authority noticing the contention of the petitioner remanded the matter solely on the ground that the petitioner was denied an opportunity of hearing before passing of the order dated 14.03.2019 with a direction to proceed with the matter from the stage of granting of personal hearing as provided under Clause 8.6 of MDG. The order dated 14.03.2019 was set aside.

13. The said order of the appellate Court was challenged by the petitioner by filing a writ petition being Writ - C No.21992 of 2020, however, during the course of pendency of the said writ petition, a personal hearing letter was issued to the petitioner by respondent no.4 fixing 02.01.2020 for grant of personal hearing in terms of the remand order dated 15.10.2019. The petitioner vide his letter dated 27.12.2019 requested for an adjournment in view of the fact that petitioner could not contact his legal adviser on account of winter vacations, however, an order came to be passed on 19.10.2020 once again cancelling the dealership agreement of the petitioner. The said termination order was made subject to the final outcome of Writ Petition No.1262 (MS) of 2020, which was pending.

14. As the order was passed during the pendency of the writ petition, an amendment application was filed which was allowed permitting the petitioner to amend the writ petition and it is also noticeable that earlier Writ - C No.21992 of 2020 was withdrawn by the petitioner in view of the subsequent developments.

15. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed heavy reliance on the judgment of this Court passed in Writ Petition No.27043 (MB) of 2018 (M/s Chaudhary Filling Point, Kazipur & Anr. v. State of U.P. & Ors.) to argue that in similar circumstances this Court had allowed the writ petition filed by a similarly placed dealer and the said order has attained finality. I shall revert to the same in the latter part of the judgment.

16. Learned counsel for the petitioner also places reliance on a certificate issued by Professor and Head of Electronics Department, National Institute of Technology, Karnataka, who has expressed his opinion that an ordinary laboratory will find it difficult to detect and prove the tampering, which requires specialized instruments and cannot be detected by a visual inspection alone.

17. In the backdrop of the facts as narrated hereinabove, Shri Prashant Chandra, learned Senior Advocate argues that the entire exercise initiated and which has resulted in cancellation of the dealership, was premeditated which is reflected from the show - cause notice and the fact finding letter issued, which clearly is a case of misreading of the report of the inspection team dated 31.05.2017. He further argues that any proceedings which are an outcome of a premeditated mind are clearly arbitrary and are liable to be quashed. He further argues that in inspection report dated 31.05.2017, it was observed that the seals in the dispensing unit were intact, delivery was correct and mere suspicion was noticed in the inspection report, which was clearly misinterpreted while issuing the fact finding letter as well as the show - cause notice wherein it was recorded that inspection team in respect of pulsar cards found an impression of tampering.

18. Learned Senior Advocate further argues that the report of MIDCO which was the basis for issuance of a show - cause notice is based upon visual inspection alone and does not record any conclusion with regard to any material, which can lead to a conclusion that there was any tampering done. He argues that the report of the MIDCO only recorded that "pulsar card is not found in conformance with Midco standard design as per visual inspection test.", which according to the petitioner is not enough to form an opinion that there was any tampering and as also opined by the Professor of NIT, Karnataka. He further argues that in the show - cause notice while levelling second charge it was mentioned that in view of matter being reported widely in the print and medical electronic image, a prejudice has been caused and the good reputation of the corporation is tarnished whereas no material in support of the said allegation contained in the show - cause notice either exists or was ever given to the petitioner. He further argues that the entire exercise was an arbitrary exercise of administrative powers conferred upon the respondent authority, which is subject to judicial review and cannot stand the test of Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

19. Learned Senior Advocate argues that the specific defense of the petitioner as taken in the two replies filed in response of the show - cause notice reliance was placed upon the other report sent by other OEM Dreser Wayne, which clearly demonstrated that there was nothing wrong with the pulsar card and that report ought to have been considered while passing the order only to ascertain that the petitioner was guilty of any malpractices or not. He further argues that the order impugned clearly reveals that no opportunity of hearing has been granted. He argues that the order calling upon the petitioner for personal hearing could not be adhered to in view of the prevalent Covid - 19 Pandemic situation and as such, the directions given by DRP for grant of personal hearing have not been complied with. He further argues that even if the personal hearing was not granted, it was incumbent upon the authority to have considered the replies submitted by the petitioner before forming an opinion leading to termination of the dealership. He again draws my attention to the impugned termination order wherein the authority concerned recorded the findings as were passed in the earlier order dated 08.10.2018, thereafter it records the directions given by the DRP and thereafter it records that despite various opportunities, the opportunity of personal hearing has not been availed by the petitioner, as such, the same was closed. While taking a decision it merely mentions that "in the absence of any new fact, it is concluded that "you have failed to discharge your responsibility as custodian of the outfits and to ensure that no acts are committed by you or your servants or agents, which is prejudicial to the interests or good name of the corporation or its product and in view of large scale reporting in media, the image of the corporation is tarnished", and thus, proceeded to terminate the retail outlet dealership in consonance with Clause 16, 44, 58(m) of the dealership agreement dated 01.04.2006 and clause no.5.1.4 of MDG-2012 as amended and Clause 8.2 IV of the said MDG. This manner of decision making, according to the counsel for the petitioner, is an arbitrary exercise of powers as the appellate order had clearly quashed the earlier termination order dated 14.03.2019 and thus, it is incumbent to have recorded fresh findings taking into consideration the written submissions made by the petitioner.

20. Learned Senior Advocate argues that if the petitioner was granted an effective personal hearing, the petitioner could have demonstrated that in view of the report of the other OEM Dreser Wayne and the opinion of the Professor of NIT, Karnataka, the report of MIDCO could be shown to be no report at all warranting such a severe action. In the light of the said, he argues that the writ petition be allowed.

21. Shri Dipak Seth, learned counsel for the respondent argues that the petition is not maintainable in view of the alternative remedy of appeal, which is provided for in the MDG guideline. He further argues that despite granting ample opportunities, the petitioner failed to avail an opportunity of personal hearing and thus, cannot find fault with the process of decision. He argues that the show - cause notice as issued to the petitioner was not premeditated as the corporation has no bias against the petitioner. In any case, there is no material to argue that there was any personal or institutional bias. He further justifies the order in terms of the MDG, especially Clause 5.1.4, the following is provided:

"5.1.4 ADDITIONAL / UNAUTHORISED FITTINGS / GEARS FOUND IN DISPENSING UNITS /TAMPERING WITH DISPENSING UNIT

Any mechanism / fittings / gear found fitted in the dispensing unit which is likely to manipulate the delivery.

Addition, Removal, replacement or manipulation of any part of the Dispensing Unit including any mechanism, gear, microprocessor chip / electronic parts/ OEM software will be deemed as tampering of the dispensing unit.

In such cases, views and independent opinion of the original equipment manufacturer would be obtained and suitable decision taken.

In case of this irregularity, sales from the concerned dispensing unit to be suspended, DU sealed. Samples to be drawn of all the products and sent to lab for testing."

22. Learned counsel for the respondent further argues that the irregularities as classified under MDG are classified as "critical irregularities' and in terms of Clause - 8.2 (iv), the allegation against the petitioner would fall as "critical irregularity', consequence whereof is provided under MDG itself. He further argues from the report of MIDCO, that perusal of the report itself clearly reveals that the same would fall within mischief of Clause 5.1.4 and thus, no wrong has been committed by the corporation. In the light of the said, he argues that the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

23. Shri Dipak Seth, counsel for the respondent, was confronted with the specific query of this Court as to whether any material was given to the petitioner in support of the second allegation that in view of large scale media reporting, the image of the company tarnished to which he fairly submits that no such material was given to the petitioner nor is it contained in the show cause notice.

24. Shri Prashant Chandra, learned Senior Advocate in rejoinder argues that the alternative remedy would not be an efficacious one in view of the fact that the writ petition is already pending and the termination order has been made subject to the outcome of the writ petition. Furthermore, relegating the petitioner to the alternative remedy would violate the rights of the petitioner under Article 21 of the Constitution of India and further as the retail outlet was admittedly running from 2017, relegating the petitioner to the alternative remedy would cause undue hardship to the petitioner as the retail outlet of the petitioner would not start during the pendency of the appellate proceedings and lastly he argues that any order, which is passed contrary to the principles of natural justice, ex-facie, perverse and based upon no material should not be relegated to the alternative remedy and the writ petition would lie in terms of the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Whirlpool Corporation v. Registrar of Trademarks, Mumbai & Ors. - (1998) 8 SCC 1.

25. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the following judgments:

"1. Maharashtra Chess Association v. Union of India - 2019 SCC OnLine SC 932

2. J. Ashoka v. University of Agricultural Sciences - (2017) 2 SCC 609

3. Ahmad Ullah v. Union of India & Ors. - Writ C No.25502 of 2019 decided on 13.09.2019

9. Oryx Fisheries Private Limited v. Union of India and Ors. - (2010) 13 SCC 427"

26. The said judgments referred to above were to canvass the point that alternative remedy is not an absolute bar, the administrative/quasi-judicial authorities are obliged to record reasons and that show - cause notice issued with a premeditation would entitle the petitioner to approach this Court in exercise of power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

27. Learned counsel for the respondent on the other hand relies upon a judgment of this Court in the case of Savitri Devi and Ors. v. Union of India and Ors. - Writ C No.29859 of 2017 decided on 13.07.2017.

28. In the light of the argument raised at the bar and the pleadings exchanged, this Court is to decide: (i) whether the writ petition would lie before this Court bypassing an appellate remedy provided under the MDG? and;

(ii) whether the action of the respondent in terminating the retail outlet by the petitioner was justified or not?

29. It is undisputed and on record that the basis for passing of the order terminating the dealership was the report dated 31.05.2017 wherein a suspicion was expressed with regard to two pulsar cards, the report of OEM MIDCO and the third allegation with regard to loss of reputation of the corporation in view of wide reporting in print and electronic media.

30. Although a remedy of appeal lies, however, the fact remains that during the period 13.09.2017 till the passing of the termination order dated 19.10.2020, the petitioner was continuing to operate the retail outlet and no fault was found during the said period and the manner of passing the order, which shall be dealt with while deciding the second issue, I have no hesitation in holding that the writ petition would lie against an order, which is perverse and which cannot satisfy the test of Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

31. Referring to the second question, what emanates from the facts is that an inspection was carried out on 31.05.2017 wherein it was expressed that two pulsar cards appeared to be suspicious, the corporation clearly misreading the said inspection report prima - facie formed an opinion that the two pulsar cards were found with impression of tampering. In terms of the inspection report dated 31.05.2017, clearly the said impression formed by the corporation on the reading of the report of the inspection team was a clear misreading and misunderstanding of what was expressed by the inspection team. In the fact finding letter and the subsequent show - cause notice after receiving of the report of MIDCO was the only material available for passing of the order terminating the dealership. The report of the MIDCO on its plain reading did not specifically conclude that there was any tampering or had contained anything to demonstrate that the discrepancies as observed by MIDCO from their ocular inspection could be attributed to the petitioner.

32. It is common ground and not disputed that all the seals were found intact, the quantity of the product dispensed by the dispensing unit were found to be alright. Mere presence of soldiering marks over the pulsar cards, which was the basis of the passing of the order does not make it clear as to how the said discrepancy observed could be attributed to the petitioner, more so, in the light of the report of the OEM Dreser Wayne, which was also given the similar pulsar cards with similar discrepancies, however, after testing, they found that there was nothing wrong with the operations which were effected through the pulsar cards despite their being soldiering marks on them.

33. A very vital piece of evidence given by the petitioner being the report of the Professor of NIT was not even considered. There is further nothing on record to demonstrate as to whether MIDCO had any facility for testing or they were qualified to carry out the testing. That being the case, the entire order is based upon misreading of the inspection report and the report of the MIDCO, which cannot be termed as conclusive so as to establish anything which can be attributed to the petitioner. This aspect was elaborately considered by this Court while delivering the judgment in the case of M/s Chaudhary Filling Point (supra) while dealing with the contentions pertaining to irregularities in the pulsar card, which was almost similar to the allegations contained against the petitioner. It is relevant to quote the relevant extracts from the case of M/s Chaudhary Filling Point (supra), which are as under:

As seen from the reading of the impugned order, the only reason assigned for being not satisfied with the explanation offered by the petitioner was that there was tampering in the DU and pulsar card contains certain soldering marks. However, what was not considered by the competent authority was that at what point of time this unauthorized tampering/soldering was done in the dispensing unit and how the dealer is manipulating the distribution of fuel. No material, much less credible one has been brought on record by the respondents to disclose the unauthorized access to the equipment by the petitioner. It was specific stand of the petitioner that periodically the Weights and Measurements Department officials inspected the seals and they were found to be intact. Further more, what is the impact on tampering/soldering in delivery unit is not disclosed. How the dealer can manipulate delivery of fuel by inserting such unit is not explained. The only objective of a dealer to tamper with dispensing unit is to manipulate delivery of fuel. In this case, the delivery of fuel was found to be accurate prior to checking of unit and after the checking. Furthermore, the defence of the petitioner that it is possible that the supplier himself might have done soldering while repairing for proper functioning of the unit by supplier himself cannot be brushed aside.

In view of the above, merely on assumptions that the tampering/soldering was found in the delivery unit of the dealer premises, the petitioner dealer cannot be visited with severe consequence of termination of dealership and that too when the OEM report does not support or corroborate the version of the respondents. Thus, the action of the respondent-Corporation, in the facts of this case, in terminating the dealership of the petitioner no.1 on the sole ground that soldering/tampering was found in the Dispensing Units is illegal, unreasonable, excessive and made in arbitrary exercise of power and hence unsustainable, more particularly when performance of the petitioner-dealer all along has been appreciated."

34. The submission of Shri Dipak Seth that soldering marks over the pulsar card would be deemed to be tampering in view of Part II of Clause 5.1.4. of the MDG does not merit acceptance for the following reasons:

"5.1.4 ADDITIONAL / UNAUTHORISED FITTINGS / GEARS FOUND IN DISPENSING UNITS /TAMPERING WITH DISPENSING UNIT

Any mechanism / fittings / gear found fitted in the dispensing unit which is likely to manipulate the delivery.

Addition, Removal, replacement or manipulation of any part of the Dispensing Unit including any mechanism, gear, microprocessor chip / electronic parts/ OEM software will be deemed as tampering of the dispensing unit.

In such cases, views and independent opinion of the original equipment manufacturer would be obtained and suitable decision taken.

In case of this irregularity, sales from the concerned dispensing unit to be suspended, DU sealed. Samples to be drawn of all the products and sent to lab for testing."

On a plain reading, Clause 5.1.4 as quoted above deals with the effect of manipulation/modification of the machinery, the said clause has to be read as a whole and cannot be read in parts as argued by Shri Dipak Seth. On its composite reading, it is clear that any addition, removal, replacement or any manipulation of any part of the dispensing unit should be read with Part 1 and necessarily has to correlate with the manipulation of delivery.

To further clarify, the words "addition', "removal', "replacement' or "manipulation' have to be interpreted to be the acts which are done by any person by a conscious act with an intent to manipulate delivery to gain unfair advantage. The deeming fiction can be applied only when it can be concluded that the addition or manipulation has been done with a view to gain any unfair advantage. It is also inconceivable that any dealer would do any manipulation with no consequential gains or benefits. The report of "MIDCO' is silent on this aspect as also the inspection report dated 31.05.2017 and that of OEM Dreser Wayne suggests otherwise. Thus, no material on record exists so as to attract the deeming fiction of clause 5.1.4. of MDG.

35. The judgment of this Court in the case of Savitri Devi (supra) as cited by Shri Dipak Seth did refer to Clause 5.1.4. of the MDG, however, the Court did not interfere for the simple reason that in the said case there was a specific allegation of tampering and also allegation of compromise with the quality and quantity of the petroleum products. The said case also recorded that in the said case, the petitioners did not deny tampering of the dispensing unit in their reply and furthermore on the examination, two external yellow wires were found. These facts are clearly absent in the present case, thus, the said judgment would have no applicability to the facts of the present case.

36. The second allegation levelled against the petitioner with regard to tarnishing of the image of the corporation in view of the large scale reporting, it is an admitted ground that no material existed either before the authority or was confronted to the petitioner to enable the authority to come to a conclusion that the image of the corporation was tarnished and the same could be attributed to the petitioner.

37. It is well settled law that in the administrative and the quasi-judicial decision making process, any decision taken upon misreading of a document, in ignorance of a document and without recording reasons would clearly qualified as arbitrary, perverse and hit by wednesbury arbitrariness. The order impugned, which has been passed merely records the earlier order, the directions given by the appellate forum and the absence of the petitioner for personal hearing and abruptly records that "it is concluded that the petitioner had failed to discharge its responsibilities as custodian of the outfits" clearly there is no application of mind by the authority concerned, the defense as taken by the petitioner in his reply and the supplementary reply have not even been referred to, although the same were also canvassed when the first order of termination was passed and as recorded in the order dated 19.10.2020.

38. The denial of opportunity of hearing also makes the order as violative of principles of natural justice. Although the order records that despite opportunity, the petitioner did not avail the opportunity of hearing, however, the fact remains that during the period from which the dates were fixed for hearing, Covid - 19 Pandemic was prevalent in the country and no reason has been shown as to why the corporation acted in hot haste and closed the right of hearing of the petitioner. Thus, following the judgment of this Court in the case of M/s Chaudhary Filling Point (supra) and observing that the impugned order has been passed on a clear misreading of the inspection report, a clear misreading of the report of MIDCO, non-consideration of vital piece of evidence in the form of report of the other OEM Dreser Wayne as well as the report of the Professor of NIT and improper invocation of deeming provision under clause 5.1.4 of MDG, the impugned order dated 19.10.2020 (Annexure RA - 8) cannot be sustained and is set aside with directions to the respondent - corporation to permit the petitioner to run the retail outlet forthwith subject to the petitioner complying with the other requirements for dispensing the petroleum products as are required under the Act and the Rules.

39. The writ petition stands allowed in terms of the aforesaid directions.

Writ Petition allowed. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Bhatia, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel.

2. In terms of the order passed by this court dated 11.04.2022, the instructions have been filed, the same are taken on record.

3. The present petition challenges the order dated 25.08.2021 whereby the order of confiscation was passed against the petitioner in respect of his vehicle being Truck No. UP75 M-9306 as well as the order dated 21.02.2022 whereby the appeal preferred under section 52(B) of the Indian Forest Act was dismissed.

4. The facts, in brief, are that the petitioner claims to be the owner of the Truck bearing No.UP 75 M-9306, which was purchased by the petitioner after availing a loan. The petitioner gives his truck on hire for transporting the goods from one place to another. On 05.06.2021, the truck of the petitioner was seized while it was transporting 45 logs of Sagwan. As the forest officer was of the view that the goods being transported on the vehicle were illegally transported and an order of seizure came to be passed on 05.06.2021 (Annexure no.4).

5. A perusal of the said seizure report given to the Magistrate indicates that on 05.06.2021 at about 3.00 am while checking, 45 logs of Sagwan wood were being transported illegally by loading the same on the vehicle in question. It was also recorded that the inquiry is going on. The said seizure report was also sent to the authorized officer under section 52-A of the Indian Forest Act. It is also informed at the bar that a case of criminal prosecution under the provisions of the Forest Act is pending before the magistrate and the same is not proceeding any further. The petitioner moved an application stating that he was a mere transporter and nothing was recorded as against the petitioner so as to implicate him in the offence in question, as such he requested that the Truck in question be released in his favour. On the said application, an order came to be passed on 25.02.2021 whereby the authorized officer exercising his power under section 52-A of the Indian Forest Act (as amended in the State of U.P.) proceeded to confiscate the truck in question. The petitioner preferred an appeal under section 52-B of the Indian Forest Act (as amended in the State of U.P.), which too has been dismissed. The said orders are under challenge in the present writ petition.

6. Section 52 of the Indian Forest Act, as amended in the State of U.P., confers the power on the forest officer or a police officer to stop and detain any vehicle and section 52(3) provides that after making a seizure report, the same shall be sent to the magistrate concerned. Section 52 is quoted herein below:

Section 52 :

(i) in sub-section (1), for the words "vehicles or cattle", substitute the words "vehicles, cattle, ropes, chains or other articles";

(ii) for sub-section (2), substitute the following sub-section, namely:?

"(2) Any Forest-officer or Police-officer may, if he has reason to believe that a boat or vehicle of which a forest-offence has been, or is being, committed, require the driver or other person in charge of such boat or vehicle to stop it, and he may detain such boat or vehicle for such reasonable time as is necessary to examine the contents in such boat or vehicle and to inspect the records relating to the goods transported so as to ascertain the claims, if any, of the driver or other person in charge of such boat or vehicle regarding the ownership and legal origin of the forest-produce in question.

(3) Every officer seizing any property under this section shall place on such property a mark indicating that the same has been so seized and shall, as soon as may be, make a report of such seizure to the Magistrate having jurisdiction to try the offence on account of which the seizure has been made, and if the seizure is in respect of forest-produce which is the property of the State Government, shall also make a report to the authorized officer."

Section 52-A of the Act prescribes the procedure after seizure and is as under :

"52A. Procedure on seizure-(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act or any other law for the time being in force where a forest-offence is believed to have been committed in respect of any forest-produce, which is the property of the State Government, the officer seizing the property under sub-section (1) of section 52 shall without unreasonable delay, produce it together with all the tools, boats, vehicles, cattle, ropes, chains and other articles used in committing the offence, before an officer, not below the rank of a Divisional Forest Officer, authorized by the State Government in this behalf, who may, for reasons to be recorded, make an order in writing with regard to custody, possession, delivery, disposal or distribution of such property, and in case of tools, boats, vehicles, cattle, ropes, chains and other articles, may also confiscate them.*

(2) The authorized officer shall, without any undue delay, forward a copy of the order made under sub-section (1) to his official superior.

(3) Where the authorized officer passing an order under sub-section (1) is of the opinion that the property is subject to speedy and natural decay he may order the property or any part thereof to be sold by public auction and may deal with the proceeds as he would have dealt with such property if it had not been sold and shall report about every such sale to his official superior.

(4) No order under sub-section (1) shall be made without giving notice, in writing, to the person from whom the property is seized, and to any other person who may appear to the authorized officer to have some interest in such property:

Provided that in an order confiscating a vehicle, when the offender is not traceable, a notice in writing to the registered owner thereof and considering his objections if any will suffice.

(5) No order of confiscation of any tool, boat, vehicle, cattle, rope, chain or other article shall be made if any person referred to in sub-section (4) proves to the satisfaction of the authorized officer that any such tool, boat, vehicle, cattle, rope, chain or other article was used without his knowledge or connivance or without the knowledge or connivance of his servant or agent, as the case may be, and that all reasonable precautions had been taken against use of the objects aforesaid for the commission of the forest offence.

7. Section 52-B provides for an appeal against the order passed under section 52-A of the Act.

8. I have perused the order passed under section 52 of the Act, which is contained in Annexure 4, which confers the power of detention of a vehicle after recording the 'reasons to believe' and for such time as is necessary to examine the contents as contained in the vehicle and to ascertain the ownership of the vehicle and legal origin of the forest produce in question. The action under section 52-A is specified after the valid order of the detention is passed.

9. In the present case, as is clear from the perusal of the Annexure no.4, which is the detention order, the same does not disclose any 'reasons to believe' recorded so as to implicate the Truck in question with the offence alleged against the owner of the goods. The same merely mentions that the goods being 45 logs of Sagwan were being transported and were apprehended. The 'Reasons to believe' as prescribed under section 52 are necessary to be recorded as the order of detention/seizure is expropriatory in nature and intends to deprive the owner of his property.

10. Section 52-A of the Act provides for steps to be taken after the order of seizure and for producing the sized goods before the Divisional Forest Officer, who is authorized to pass an order after recording the reasons with regard to the custody, possession, delivery, disposal or distribution of such property and further authorizes the concerned officer in case of vehicles to confiscate them.

11. A plain reading of the Section 52-A makes it clear that the power conferred upon the Divisional Forest Officer to take action for confiscation only on being satisfied that a 'forest offence' is believed to have been committed in respect of any forest produce, which is the property of the State Government. The said condition precedent prescribes that prior to the passing of the confiscating order, it is essential to come to a conclusion that a 'forest offence' is believed to have been committed.

12. Admittedly, proceedings with regard to the allegation of 'forest offence' have not been adjudicated so far. The petitioner had specifically raised a plea that he had given the vehicle in question for hire and had no concern with the goods being transported therein. The order of the authorized officer confiscating the goods does not record that the vehicle in question was used in the 'forest offence', which according to the prescribed authority was being committed in respect of a forest produce. The order merely records that the goods in question, being transported, were the government property. He further erred in disbelieving the version of the petitioner that he had given the truck on hire merely because the petitioner did not disclose as to who had booked the truck in question.

13. Considering the order passed under section 52-A of the Act confiscating the Truck coupled with the fact that the proceedings for adjudicating the 'forest offence' have not culminated so far, clearly the divisional forest officer has erred in passing the order of confiscation. The divisional forest officer in terms of the mandate of section 52-A of the Act was clearly empowered to make an order with regard to the custody, possession, delivery and disposal of such property in addition or in alternate to the power of confiscation. No reasons have been recorded as to why the divisional forest officer considered it necessary to confiscate the goods when the trial regarding 'forest offence' is yet to have started. The appellate authority is equally silent as to why the order of confiscation came to be passed when the proceedings for establishing 'forest offence' are pending. The appellate authority has in fact recorded that the appellant failed to establish that he was not involved in the offence. The said finding clearly is erroneous inasmuch as the question of the offence having been committed is yet to be established.

14. The instructions given by the Standing Counsel provide for the manner in which the orders are supposed to be passed. In any event of the matter, it is well established that an order passed cannot be supplemented by giving any reasons which are absent in the orders passed and impugned herein.

15. Thus, in totality and for the reasons recorded, I am of the view that the order impugned dated 25.08.2021 and the order dated 21.02.2022 are liable to be set aside.

16. Accordingly, the orders dated 25.08.2021 are set aside. It is directed that the truck in question, which is in the custody, being the Truck No.UP75 M-9306 shall be released forthwith to the petitioner on his furnishing proof of ownership and giving an undertaking to produce the truck as and when required and with condition that the petitioner shall not sell the truck in question without obtaining adequate permission from the divisional forest officer in accordance with law. The question of confiscation shall be considered by the concerned officer only after the 'forest offence' in question is decided by the competent court after trial.

17. The writ petition stands allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Birla, J.
Hon'ble Vikas Budhwar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Kuldip Shanker Amist, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Sharad Chandra Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel appearing for respondent nos. 1 and 2.

2. The present petition has been filed for seeking the following reliefs :-

"i. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned award dated 12.04.2021, passed by the District Magistrate, Etawah, allowing the Claim No. 272800/48/2019/030794 of the respondent no. 3, (Annexure-7 to the writ petition).

ii. Issue a writ, order and direction dismissing the claim of the Respondent No. 3.

iii. Issue any other and further writ, order or direction which the Hon'ble Court may deem fit and just in the circumstances and facts of the case.

iv. Award cost to the petitioner."

3. By the rejection order, the Insurance Company has repudiated the claim of respondent no. 3 which was made under the Mukhyamantri Kisan Evam Sarvahit Beema Yojana, on the ground that the income certificate was not produced by the claimant within 45 days of the death of the deceased husband. Challenging the same, the petitioner approached this Court by filing Writ-C No. 563 of 2020 (Sohni Shankwar Vs. State of U.P. And 2 Others), which was disposed of vide order dated 14.01.2020. The aforesaid order is quoted as under:-

"Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel.

The claim of the petitioner for grant of benefit under the Mukhyamantri Kisaan Avam Sarvahit Beema Yojana has been rejected by the Insurance Company on a technical ground.

The submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the Insurance Company has no authority of law to reject the claim.

It is acceptable to the parties that under the scheme, if for any reason, the Insurance Company finds that the claim is not acceptable or it has reservation in accepting the claim, the proper remedy is to refer the matter to the District Level Committee, headed by the District Magistrate and the decision of the said Committee would be final.

In view of the above, we dispose of the writ petition with liberty to the petitioner to raise his grievance before the District Magistrate. In case, any such representation is made within a period of two weeks from today, the District Magistrate shall call for the records of the claim submitted by the petitioner and after due verification and examination, get it considered by the District Level Committee in accordance with law, most expeditiously, preferably within a period of two months of submission of representation.

The writ petition stands disposed of, accordingly."

4. Pursuant to the aforesaid order, the impugned order was passed by District Magistrate, Etawah on 12.04.2021 holding that since the Samajwadi Kisan Evam Sarvahit Bima Care Card was liable to be issued free of cost by the Company which was not issued, therefore, it cannot be said that there is any fault on the part of the claimant in getting the income certificate within 45 days of the death of her husband. Accordingly, the claim was allowed granting the compensation of Rs. 5 lakhs.

5. The order is being challenged on two grounds, firstly that the District Magistrate himself has decided the case whereas the claim was to be decided by the District Level Committee and secondly, that the income certificate must have been issued within 45 days but the same was issued after 45 days that cannot be accepted. The identical grounds have been considered by this Court in Writ- C No. 5090 of 2022 (The Oriental Insurance Company Limited And 2 Others Vs. State of U.P. And 133 Others) wherein both the arguments were considered by this Court and relevant paragraphs whereof are quoted as under:-

"The first submission advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioner is found to be wholly misconceived. In the context of the group insurance policy taken out by the State Government, the claimant-respondent became entitled to claim the insured amount on the occurrence of the accidental death of Pushpendra Kumar during the currency of the group insurance policy. The claim itself was made within time. There is no dispute as to these facts. The further fact that the income certificate was issued beyond a period of 45 days did not set up any inherent infirmity in that claim made as period of 45 days mentioned in amended Clause 2 was only directory, that too for the purpose of making the payment only. It was not necessary to determine the liability of the petitioner that arose on the occurrence of death of the insured during the currency of the insurance policy. The claim itself was made within time. No consequence has been shown provided or existing in the insurance policy clauses as may lead to the inference that the insurance claim would become invalid if the income certificate was produced after 45 days. It only affected the release of payment by the petitioner. In any case, the beneficiaries had no control over the time taken in preparation of the said income certificate, by government functionaries.

The delay if any (of 23 days) is mainly as may have been caused while making procedural compliances. It is neither inordinate nor such as may give rise to any doubt as to the genuineness of the claim. Here it may also be noted that the income certificate and its contents are wholly undisputed. It reflects that the income of the deceased was Rs. 36,000/- per annum at the time of his death. Therefore, the claimant-respondents were wholly eligible to receive the insurance money.

In view of the above, the claim made by the claimant-respondent was wholly genuine and valid. The petitioner-insurer had wrongly repudiated that claim.

As to the second submission we are equally unimpressed. In the exercise of judicial review, the Court is not obligated to correct each and every error of law or fact. Since it cannot be disputed that the claimant is entitled to the insured amount, we decline to offer any interference under Article 226 of the Constitution on a technical ground raised by learned counsel for the petitioner that the order should have been passed by the Committee and not the District Magistrate, in her individual capacity. The claimant-respondent being eligible to receive Rs. 5,00,000/- from the petitioner against the insurance policy, no real prejudice has been caused to the petitioner, by the impugned order."

6. The learned counsel for the petitioner could not dispute the same.

7. In view of the final judgment already rendered by coordinate Bench of this Court, we do not find any good ground to take a different view of the matter.

8. Accordingly, the petition stands dismissed.

1. Heard Sri K.M. Asthana, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri B.P. Singh Kachhwah, learned standing counsel for the State-respondents.

2. On 31.03.2022, this Court passed the following order:

"Heard Shri Krishna Mohan Asthana, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

This writ petition has been filed praying for the following relief:

"i) issue an appropriate writ order or direction of suitable nature, commanding the respondent Authority, the Additional District Magistrate (Fin and Rev), Gautam Budh Nagar and the Sub Divisional Magistrate Sadar, Gautam Budh Nagar to complete the process of physical possession of the immovable secured asset to the petitioner situated at House No. C-50, Sector 20, Noida, District Gautam Budh Nagar UP 201001 as per the provisions under Section 14(2) of the SARFAESI Act 2002 in compliance of the order dated 07.10.2016 passed under Section 14(1) of the Act, 2002 by the Competent Authority under the Act 2002.

ii) Issue an appropriate writ order or direction of suitable nature, commanding the respondent no. 2, 3 & 4 to ensure actual physical possession of the immovable mortgaged property/secured asset to the petitioner under the provisions of Section 14(2) of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 without requiring to deposit amount for providing police force within a period to be specified by this Hon'ble Court.

iii) Issue a writ order or direction of suitable nature commanding the respondent authorities to extent all administrative/police assistance in completing the process of physical possession of the immovable property/ secured assets to the petitioner under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002."

Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that more than five years have been passed since the order under Section 14(1) of the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 was passed yet the respondent nos. 1 to 4 have not yet given physical possession of the mortgaged property.

Learned Standing Counsel prays for and is granted 10 days' time to a counter affidavit.

Petitioner shall have three days, thereafter, to file a rejoinder affidavit.

Put up as a fresh case before the appropriate Bench on 15.4.2022."

3. Undisputed facts of the present case are that the petitioner is the secured creditor. An order dated 07.10.2016 under Section 14(1) of The Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 (hereinafter referred to as "SARFAESI Act, 2002') was passed by the respondent No.2. Despite repeated request of the petitioner, the State-respondents have not given physical possession of the secured asset in question to the petitioner. A counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of the respondent Nos.2 and 3. In paragraphs 12 and 17 of the counter affidavit, the respondents No.2 and 3, i.e. the Additional District Magistrate and the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, have stated as under:

"12. That in reply to the contents of paragraph Nos. 22 and 23 of the writ petition it is stated that the Respondent No. 5 challenged the order dated 07.10.2016 before the Debt Recovery Tribunal in SA No. 662 of 2016. The aforesaid SA was dismissed by the Debt Recovery Tribunal vide order dated 03.01.2022. It is further submitted that the necessary action for handing over the possession has to be taken at the level of the Respondent no.4. It is respectfully submitted that as per the procedure the petitioner had to coordinate with the Respondent No. 4 for the compliance of order dated 07.10.2016 passed by the answering Respondent No. 2. From the pleading it is evident that the petitioner at no point of time informed the answering respondents that the order dated 07.10.2016 has not been complied with. It is also relevant to state that as per the pleading itself, the matter remained pending before DRT till 03.01.2022, hence, therefore, the possession could not have been handed over to the petitioner till the decision of the Debt Recovery Tribunal.

17. That in reply to the contents of paragraph Nos. 31, 32 and 33 of the writ petition it is stated that the answering respondents have already passed the order for handing over the physical possession of the mortgaged property to the petitioner and further action has to be taken by the police department."

4. From the aforequoted paragraphs No.2 and 3 of the counter affidavit filed by the respondents No.2 and 3, it is evident that the order dated 07.10.2016 passed by the respondent No.2 under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002, was not complied with even after the S.A. No.662 of 2016 filed by the respondent No.5/ borrower was dismissed by the DRT on 03.01.2022. From the aforequoted paragraphs of the counter affidavit, it is also evident that the respondent Nos.2 and 3 have attempted to shift their responsibility upon the respondent No.4, i.e. the Police Commissioner, Varanasi Zone, Varanasi, who is not taking any action despite the Government Order dated 14.02.2022.

5. In the judgment dated 18.02.2022 passed in Writ-C No.1755 of 2022 (Bank of Baroda vs. District Magistrate Maharajganj and 4 others), this Court quoted the Government Order dated 13.09.2021 whereby the State Government has issued certain directions to all the District Magistrate of the State of Uttar Pradesh. In the aforesaid judgment in the case of Bank of Baroda (supra), this Court observed in paragraphs-7 to 12, as under:-

"7. The enclosures to the personal affidavit of the Chief Secretary reveal that a Government Order dated 13.09.2021 was issued by the Secretary, Government of Uttar Pradesh directing all the District Magistrates of Uttar Pradesh to decide all the pending cases under Section 14 of the Securitization and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 (in short

'SARFAESI Act') within 30 days (in case there is no legal impediment to the same) pursuant to the judgment dated 24.08.2021 passed by this Court. Further, the second enclosure is another Government Order issued by the Special Secretary to the Government of U.P. dated 11.02.2022 to all the District Magistrates directing strict compliance of the Government Order dated 13.09.2021 issued pursuant to the judgment and order dated 24.08.2021 passed in Writ-C No.7126 of 2021.

8. The judgment of this Court dated 24.08.2021 has already been quoted above. A specific direction has been issued to all the District Magistrates of the State to keep a record/register of all the pending applications filed under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act that may clearly disclose to the District Magistrate (on a fortnightly basis) details of all institutions of such applications made in that district and their disposal within time. Further directions in the judgment are as follows:-

"The said register may be duly inspected by the District Magistrate from time to time and also countersigned by him. Based on the entries recorded in such register, a quarterly report of all institution of applications filed under Section 14 of the Act together with the length of pendency of each application be sent to the Registrar General of this Court in the tabular form that may indicate the requirement of the Act is being fulfilled, in letter and spirit, who shall place the same before the appropriate Committee dealing with the functioning of the Debt Recovery Tribunals and Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunals."

9. There is nothing on record to demonstrate that the District Magistrates are maintaining record/registers and are monitoring the disposal of applications filed under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act. The counter affidavit filed on behalf of the District Magistrate in the case in hand reflects that by an order dated 22.05.2017, this Court in Writ-C No.22486 of 2017 directed further proceedings against the respondent no.2 to be kept in abeyance with liberty to deposit the demanded amount with up-to-date interest with four equal installments with the last installment to be paid by 30.06.2018. It has nowhere been stated in the counter affidavit that the application under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act could not be disposed of by the authority concerned for want of information regarding non-compliance of the aforesaid judgment and order dated 22.05.2017 passed by this Court in Writ- C No.22486 of 2017. Rather, it has been stated that due to COVID-19, the judicial work was suspended in the last years.

10. Such a conduct by the authority, charged with deciding/disposing of the applications filed under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act, cannot but be said to be action taken pursuant to the order dated 10.02.2022 passed by this Court in the present writ petition. It is evident that the Government Order dated 13.09.2021, that has been enclosed as Annexure-1 to the personal affidavit filed by the Chief Secretary has been neglected by the respondent-authority/the authority seized of the case under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act.

11. This Court is dealing with several writ petitions every week being filed by secured creditors seeking directions to the District Magistrate for deciding applications under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act.

12. Under the circumstances, it is for the Chief Secretary of the State to take a serious look at the state of affairs and ensure compliance of the judgment and order dated 24.08.2021 passed by this Court as well as the Government Orders issued by the Government itself and take suitable action for violation of the same. We also direct the Chief Secretary of State of Uttar Pradesh to also ensure compliance of those directions in the judgment dated 24.08.2021 which are highlighted in bold letters above."

6. Legislative Mandate of Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 is to the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate or the District Magistrate within whose jurisdiction the secured asset or other documents relating thereto may be situated or found, and the aforesaid two officers are statutorily bound to take possession thereof, and even the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate or the District Magistrate, as the case may be, on the request being made to him, are statutorily bound to take possession of such asset and documents relating thereto and to forward the such asset and documents to the secured creditors provided an application is submitted by the secured creditor accompanied by an affidavit containing averments as provided in Section 14 of the Act.

7. In the case of C.Bright vs. The District Collector & Ors. AIR 2020 SC 5747 (para-20), Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:-

"20. The Act was enacted to provide a machinery for empowering banks and financial institutions, so that they may have the power to take possession of secured assets and to sell them. The DRT Act was first enacted to streamline the recovery of public dues but the proceedings under the said Act have not given desirous results. Therefore, the Act in question was enacted. This Court in Mardia Chemical, Transcore and Hindon Forge Private Limited has held that the purpose of the Act pertains to the speedy recovery of dues, by banks and financial institutions. The true intention of the Legislature is a determining factor herein. Keeping the objective of the Act in mind, the time limit to take action by the District Magistrate has been fixed to impress upon the authority to take possession of the secured assets. However, inability to take possession within time limit does not render the District Magistrate Functus Officio. The secured creditor has no control over the District Magistrate who is exercising jurisdiction under Section 14 of the Act for public good to facilitate recovery of public dues. Therefore, Section 14 of the Act is not to be interpreted literally without considering the object and purpose of the Act. If any other interpretation is placed upon the language of Section 14, it would be contrary to the purpose of the Act. The time limit is to instill a confidence in creditors that the District Magistrate will make an at- tempt to deliver possession as well as to impose a duty on the Dis- trict Magistrate to make an earnest effort to comply with the man- date of the statute to deliver the possession within 30 days and for reasons to be recorded within 60 days. In this light, the remedy under Section 14 of the Act is not rendered redundant if the Dis- trict Magistrate is unable to handover the possession. The District Magistrate will still be enjoined upon, the duty to facilitate delivery of possession at the earliest."

8. Thus, the law stands settled that the SARFAESI Act, 2002 has been enacted to provide a machinery for empowering banks, financial institutions and reconstruction company, so that they may have the power to take possession of secured assets and to sell or manage it. The purpose of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 pertains to the speedy recovery of dues by banks, financial institutions and reconstruction company. The second proviso to Section 14(1) of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 itself mandates that on receipt of the affidavit from the Authorised Officer, the District Magistrate or the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, as the case may be, shall after satisfying with the contents of the affidavit, pass suitable orders for the purpose of taking possession of the secured asset within a period of thirty days from the date of application and if no order is passed within the said stipulated period of thirty days for reasons beyond his control, he may, after recording reasons in writing for the same, pass order within such further period but not exceeding in aggregate sixty days. However, inability to take possession within the prescribed time-limit does not render the District Magistrate Functus Officio. The District Magistrate or the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, as the case may be, is under statutory obligation. Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 itself creates statutory obligation upon the District Magistrate or the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, as the case may be, for public good to facilitate recovery of public dues, to instil a confidence in creditors that the District Magistrate will make an attempt to deliver possession as well as imposes a duty on the District Magistrate to make an earnest effort to comply with the mandate of the statute to deliver the possession within the prescribed time. Even if the prescribed time limit has passed over and the District Magistrate could not handover possession of the secured asset, still the District Magistrate or the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, as the case may be, will be enjoined upon the duty to facilitate the delivery of possession at the earliest. In the light of the these settled position and a clear statutory mandate, the stand taken by the respondents in the counter affidavit is nothing but prima facie a disobedience of the legislative mandate of the Government Orders as well the judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court and this Court.

9. That apart, it appears that pursuant to order dated 24.08.2021 passed in Writ-C No.7126 of 2021, the State Government has issued a Government Order No.117fjV@6&iq0&11&22&15fjV@2022 dated 14.02.2022, which is reproduced below:

10. Counter affidavit filed by the respondent Nos.2 and 3 is apparently in defiance of judgments of this Court as well as the direction issued by the State Government from time to time particularly the aforequoted G.O. dated 14.02.2022. Thus, the facts as stated leaves no manner of doubt that there is failure on the part of the respondent Nos.1 to 4 to discharge their duty under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002.

11. For all the reasons aforestated, the writ petition is allowed. The respondent Nos.1 and 4 are directed to give physical possession of the secured asset in question to the petitioner-bank within one month, if there is no legal impediment.

12. We also direct the Chief Secretary of the State of Uttar Pradesh to issue clear directions to all the concerned authorities in the State of Uattar Pradesh to comply strictly the provisions of Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 and handover physical possession of the secured asset to the concerned bank/ financial institutions/ reconstruction company within the prescribed time, if there is no legal impediment. Such direction shall be issued by the Chief Secretary within two weeks from today.

13. Let a copy of this order be sent by the Registrar General of this Court to the Chief Secretary of the Government of Uttar Pradesh within three days, for compliance.

(A) Arbitration Law - Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 - Sections 7,9 & 17 - Interim measures ordered by arbitral tribunal - arbitration is an important alternative dispute redressal process which needs to be encouraged - availability of alternative remedy does not preclude the High Court from entertaining a writ petition in appropriate case - Court while entertaining a writ petition has to bear-in-mind the fact as to whether the dispute so raised does not involve factual issues which comprise complex questions of fact. (Para -24,27)

(B) Writ Jurisdiction - High Court should not exercise its extraordinary writ jurisdiction when an efficacious alternative remedy is available - is a Rule of prudence and not a Rule of law - Rule of alternative remedy is a Rule of discretion and not a Rule of jurisdiction - Merely because the Court may not exercise its discretion, is not a ground to hold that it has no jurisdiction- it will be for the High Court to decide in the peculiar facts and circumstances of each case whether it should exercise its extraordinary writ jurisdiction or not. (Para -28)

Certain dispute arose with respect to land allotted to petitioners - manufacturing BG PSC sleepers - excess possession of the land beyond the land allotted to them - entailed to correspondence being exchanged from time to time - contract in writing executed between respondents and petitioners - arbitration clause - petitioners signatories to the agreement - issue in question itself arbitrable - within the scope of arbitration clause which can be entertained and adjudicated by the arbitrator.(Para -6,7,25)

5. Heard Sri Uday Gupta through online mode assisted by Sri Ravi Kant and Sri Adarsh Bhushan, learned counsels for the petitioners and Sri Krishna Agarwal learned counsel for the respondents.

6. Learned counsels for the petitioners have argued that certain dispute arose with respect to the land so allotted to them for manufacturing BG PSC sleepers and excess possession of the land beyond the land allotted to them entailed to correspondence being exchanged from time to time.

7. As per learned counsels for the petitioners, a contract in writing had been executed between the respondents and the petitioners on 27.4.1998 with respect to execution of the contractuals/obligations wherein the area of the land so allotted to the petitioner no.1 by the respondents was 5414.40 square meters and the petitioners on the basis of the same enjoyed the benefits of the said land for manufacturing purposes and paid annual licence fee of Rs.5,02,103/-. Subsequently, as per the provisions contained in the contract dated 27.4.1998, there was an increase of payment of annual licence fee 10% annually which swell to Rs.27,40,119/-. It has further been argued by the learned counsel for the petitioners that by virtue of the communication dated 3.11.2006, the petitioners were informed that petitioners were in possession of 964.34 square meters of additional land and steps were to be undertaken to get the said additional land included in the contract. It has further been argued that the same was disputed by the petitioners on 10.2.2007 and on 27.2.2007 another communication was issued to the petitioners mentioning that an amount of Rs.6,75,423/- has been deducted from the bill so raised by the petitioners on the pretext that the petitioners were in possession of extra land. Various correspondences were also extended by the petitioners, one of the same being dated 24.10.2007 admitting the fact that the petitioners are possessing 144 square meters of additional land.

8. Eventually a fresh formal agreement was executed renewing the parent contract wherein the licenced land was shown to be 5414.40 sq. mtrs. It has also been argued that the petitioners disputed the said fact regarding possession of the land being 5414.40 sq. mtrs vide letter dated 15.1.2006 and thereafter a joint inspection team was constituted compromising of the representative of the petitioner company and the authorised officers of the railways which conducted joint spot inspection on 4.4.2016 wherein it was found that the petitioners were in possession of 1122.59 square meters of extra land. Even it has also come on record that a letter was written by the petitioners to the railways on 16.5.2016 to regularise 1122.59 square meters on extra land and on 27.1.2018, petitioners vide covering letter remitted licence fee for extra land treating 1122.59 square meters for the year 2016-17 and 2017-18. It has also been placed on record that the petitioners company also made request for allotment of said extra part of land in their favour.

9. On 15.10.2019 Chief Engineer of the railways sent a communication to the Senior Divisional Engineer Coordination Eastern Railways, Lucknow clearly setting out the fact that in joint inspection 1122.59 Sq. mtrs. of extra land was found in possession of the petitioners. Further the petitioner company also requested for allotment of the said land and also submitted lay out plan which mentioned that the extra land would be 1863.34 sq. mtrs. Thereafter, on 18.2.2021 an order was passed demanding licence fee from the petitioners treating extra land as 4156.87 sq. mtrs. since 2006-07.

10. Being aggrieved against the same, petitioners herein instituted Writ Petition No.17230 of 2021 M/s Calstar Steel Ltd. & another Vs. North Eastern Railway seeking following reliefs:-

a) Call for the records of the present case from the Respondent-North Eastern Railway; and

b) Issue a writ, order or direction/declaration in the nature of mandamus or any other appropriate writ, order or direction directing that the impugned communication dated 18.02.2021 and 15.06.2021 are wholly arbitrary, illegal and contrary to well established legal principles and being so also amount to a serious violation of the Fundamental Rights of the Petitioner No.2 and further direct the Respondent-North Eastern Railway to forthwith amend the Agreement dated 05.09.2014 to include with effect from the year 2016, land admeasuring 1122.59 sq. mtrs. In addition to 5414.40 sq. mtrs. already allotted in terms of the Joint Inspector Report dated 04.04.2016 ; and

c) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari or any other appropriate writ, order or direction quashing the impugned communication dated 18.02.2021 and 15.06.2021 being wholly arbitrary, illegal and contrary to well established legal principles and amount to a serious violation of the Fundamental Rights of the Petitioner No.2; and

d) Award costs of the petition and Counsel's fee of the Petitioners.

11. On 7.10.2021 this Court proceeded to pass the following order and relevant extract is quoted below:

"It is not in dispute that extra land was in possession of the Company over and above 5414.40 sq. meters in relation to which contract was executed in its favour. The main dispute is regarding the extent of extra land in possession of the Company. It is evident that initially the respondent alleged that the extra area was 964.34 sq. meters as mentioned in the communication dated 03.04.2006 addressed to the Company. The Company disputed the same. At a later point of time, in October, 2015, the respondent claimed that the extra area is 4165.87 sq. meters. Again the Company disputed the same by raising a written protest. Thereafter, a joint inspection was carried out on 04.04.2016, in which it transpired that extra land in possession of the Company is 1122.59 sq. meters. Thereafter, the Company requested for including the said area in the agreement. It is also evident that the respondent renewed the licence on 05.09.2014 for an area 5414.40 sq. meters without settling the issue relating to extra land used by the Company. In due course of time, the Company started paying licence fee by treating the additional area as 1122.59 sq. meters as was found in joint inspection and also made request for allotment of 1863.34 sq. meters of extra land over and above the area licensed under the contract. While the said request remained pending, the impugned demand has been raised in which the finding of the joint inspection report dated 04.04.2016 has not been noted nor considered nor even the stand of the petitioner which was there before the respondent in shape of several protest letters and representations.

At this stage, Sri Rajnish Kumar Rai on query made by the Court as to whether the respondent is ready to pass a fresh order after considering the joint inspection report and other relevant material submitted that the respondent shall pass a speaking order in this regard within such time as may be directed by this Court.

Accordingly and having regard to the stand taken by learned counsel for the respondent before this Court, we dispose off the writ petition as follows:

(a) The Company shall file a fresh representation along with supporting material and true attested copy of the instant order before the respondent within two weeks from today.

(b) On receipt of the representation, the competent authority shall examine the representation, the joint inspection report and other relevant evidence and, thereafter, pass a speaking order within a further period of four weeks.

(c) The impugned demand shall abide by the decision that shall be taken on the representation. In case, the Company defaults in making representation within two weeks, as stipulated above, the instant order shall stand discharged and the writ petition would be treated to be dismissed."

12. Thereafter, it appears that the petitioners preferred representation before the railways and the same has been rejected by virtue of the order dated 30.12.2021 holding as under:-

पैरा (xix) आपके द्वारा प्रस्तुत किये गये साक्ष्य, व्यक्तिगत सुनवाई में दिये गये तर्क एवं सभी उपलब्ध कागजातो का गहन अध्ययन करके माननीय उच्च न्यायालय के द्वारा रिट सं०- 17230/2021 मे पारित आदेश दिनांक 07.10.2021 के अनुपालन में निम्न निर्णय दिया जाता है-

(I) फर्म द्वारा 2006 से ही कूलिंग टैंक का निर्माण करके मैटेरियल एवं स्लीपर रखने हेतु अतिरिक्त भूमि पर अतिक्रमण किया गया है। परन्तु उक्त भूमि का सही माप, सभी पक्षो के साथ संयुक्त निरीक्षण न होने के कारण, वर्तमान में प्रमाणित नहीं किया जा सकता। अतः 432 वर्गमीटर के अतिक्रमण (फर्म द्वारा स्वीकार्य) को 01.06.2006 से (रेलवे द्वारा उक्त मद के सम्बन्ध मे प्रथम पत्र की तिथि) 2014 तक (करारनामें के नवीनीकरण तक) लिया जाना उचित है, परन्तु वर्ष 2006-07 से 2016 तक 432 वर्गमीटर भूमि पर टैंक का बनाना स्वीकार किया गया है जबकि 432 वर्गमीटर 3 टैंको का आन्तरिक क्षेत्रफल 3 x 9 x 16 है। जबकि वास्तविक रूप में इन टैंको को बनाने के लिए 28.40 x 16.62=472 वर्गमीटर की भूमि का इस्तेमाल किया गया है। अतः 472 वर्गमीटर भूमि का लाइसेन्स शुल्क तथा लिक्विडेटेड डैमेज देय होगा।

13. Challenging the order now the petitioners are before this Court.

14. Learned counsels for the petitioners have argued that that the order under challenge is perverse contrary to material on record and even in fact is in violation of principles of natural justice.

15. According to learned counsel for the petitioners reliance and reference so made by the respondents upon R.D.S.O. letter dated 15.7.2005 without confronting the same with petitioners and making as one of the basis for passing of the order in challenge vitiates the entire proceedings.

16. In nutshell argument of learned counsel for the petitioners is to the effect that the order under challenge is liable to be set aside and matter be remanded back to the railways to decide a fresh after furnishing the necessary documents which were made the basis of passing the order which is under challenge.

17. Sri Krishna Agarwal learned counsel for the respondents has at the very outset argued that the present writ petition is not maintainable as the petitioners has an alternative efficacious remedy of taking recourse to arbitration as contemplated in Clause 23 of the agreement dated 15.5.2014. According to him disputed question of facts are involved in the present petition which are of complex nature and requires production of documentary evidence which cannot be resorted to in the present proceedings.

18. On being confronted with the said position learned counsel for the petitioners could not dispute the existence of alternative efficacious remedy by means of arbitration. However, according to the learned counsel for the petitioners, the petitioners can though take recourse to arbitration but as the respondents are insisting for the payment of annual licence fees for the excess land so shown to be occupied by the petitioners being 1050 sq. mtrs. for the period from 15.7.2005 to 23.6.2014, thus, according to them arbitration may not be efficacious remedy.

19. We have heard the arguments of the learned counsel for the petitioners, learned counsel for the respondents and perused the record.

20. The Parliament in exercise of powers as conferred therein enacted an Act by the name in the nomenclature of Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (In short Act of 1996) in order to consolidate and amend the law relating to domestic arbitration, international commercial arbitration and enforcement of foreign arbitral awards as also to define the law relating to conciliation and for the matters connected therewith or incidental thereto.

21. For the kind perusal of this Court Sections 7, 9 and 17 of the Act of 1996 are being quoted below-

7. Arbitration agreement.--(1) In this Part, "arbitration agreement" means an agreement by the parties to submit to arbitration all or certain disputes which have arisen or which may arise between them in respect of a defined legal relationship, whether contractual or not.

(2) An arbitration agreement may be in the form of an arbitration clause in a contract or in the form of a separate agreement.

(3) An arbitration agreement shall be in writing.

(4) An arbitration agreement is in writing if it is contained in--

(a) a document signed by the parties;

(b) an exchange of letters, telex, telegrams or other means of telecommunication 1 [including communication through electronic means] which provide a record of the agreement; or

(c) an exchange of statements of claim and defence in which the existence of the agreement is alleged by one party and not denied by the other.

(5) The reference in a contract to a document containing an arbitration clause constitutes an arbitration agreement if the contract is in writing and the reference is such as to make that arbitration clause part of the contract.

9. Interim measures, etc., by Court.--3 [(1)] A party may, before or during arbitral proceedings or at any time after the making of the arbitral award but before it is enforced in accordance with section 36, apply to a court--

(i) for the appointment of a guardian for a minor or person of unsound mind for the purposes of arbitral proceedings; or

(ii) for an interim measure of protection in respect of any of the following matters, namely:--

(a) the preservation, interim custody or sale of any goods which are the subject-matter of the arbitration agreement;

(b) securing the amount in dispute in the arbitration;

(c) the detention, preservation or inspection of any property or thing which is the subject-matter of the dispute in arbitration, or as to which any question may arise therein and authorising for any of the aforesaid purposes any person to enter upon any land or building in the possession of any party, or authorising any samples to be taken or any observation to be made, or experiment to be tried, which may be necessary or expedient for the purpose of obtaining full information or evidence;

(d) interim injunction or the appointment of a receiver;

(e) such other interim measure of protection as may appear to the Court to be just and convenient, and the Court shall have the same power for making orders as it has for the purpose of, and in relation to, any proceedings before it.

(2) Where, before the commencement of the arbitral proceedings, a Court passes an order for any interim measure of protection under sub-section (1), the arbitral proceedings shall be commenced within a period of ninety days from the date of such order or within such further time as the Court may determine.

(3) Once the arbitral tribunal has been constituted, the Court shall not entertain an application under sub-section (1), unless the Court finds that circumstances exist which may not render the remedy provided under section 17 efficacious.]

17. Interim measures ordered by arbitral tribunal.--(1) A party may, during the arbitral proceedings or at any time after the making of the arbitral award but before it is enforced in accordance with section 36, apply to the arbitral tribunal--

(i) for the appointment of a guardian for a minor or person of unsound mind for the purposes of arbitral proceedings; or

(ii) for an interim measure of protection in respect of any of the following matters, namely:--

(a) the preservation, interim custody or sale of any goods which are the subject-matter of the arbitration agreement;

(b) securing the amount in dispute in the arbitration;

(c) the detention, preservation or inspection of any property or thing which is the subject-matter of the dispute in arbitration, or as to which any question may arise therein and authorising for any of the aforesaid purposes any person to enter upon any land or building in the possession of any party, or authorising any samples to be taken, or any observation to be made, or experiment to be tried, which may be necessary or expedient for the purpose of obtaining full information or evidence;

(d) interim injunction or the appointment of a receiver;

(e) such other interim measure of protection as may appear to the arbitral tribunal to be just and convenient, and the arbitral tribunal shall have the same power for making orders, as the court has for the purpose of, and in relation to, any proceedings before it.

(2) Subject to any orders passed in an appeal under section 37, any order issued by the arbitral tribunal under this section shall be deemed to be an order of the Court for all purposes and shall be enforceable under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908), in the same manner as if it were an order of the Court.]

22. The Hon. Supreme Court in the case of State of J & K and another Vs. Dev Dutt Pandit (1999) 7 SCC page 339 in para 23 has observed as under:-

"23. Arbitration is considered to be an important Alternative Disputes Redressal process which is to be encouraged because of high pendency of cases in the courts and cost of litigation. Arbitration has to be looked up to with all earnest so that litigant public has faith in the speedy process of resolving their disputes by this process. "

23. Following the said judgments the Hon. Apex Court in the case of Union of India Vs. Varindera Constructions Ltd. and others (2018) 7 SCC 794 in para 12 has observed as under:-

"The primary object of the arbitration is to reach a final disposition in a speedy, effective, inexpensive and expeditious manner. In order to regulate the law regarding arbitration, legislature came up with legislation which is known as Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996. In order to make arbitration process more effective, legislature restricted the role of courts in case where matter is subject to the arbitration. Section 5 of the Act specifically restricted the interference of the courts to some extent. In other words, it is only in exceptional circumstances, as provided by this Act, the court is entitled to intervene in the dispute which is subject matter of arbitration. Such intervention may be before, at or after the arbitration proceeding, as the case may be. In short, court shall not intervene with the subject matter of arbitration unless injustice is caused to either of the parties."

24. Hon. Supreme Court in the above noted judgments have consistently held that arbitration is an important alternative dispute redressal process which needs to be encouraged.

25. Here in the present case, learned counsel for the petitioners have not disputed the fact that their exists an arbitration clause and further they are signatories to the agreement which contains arbitration clause and the issue in question itself is also arbitrable and within the scope of arbitration clause which can be entertained and adjudicated by the arbitrator.

26. Learned counsels for the petitioners have placed reliance upon the judgment of Uttar Pradesh Power Transmission Corporation Ltd. and another Vs. CG Power and Industrial Solutions Ltd. another AIR Online 2021 SC 243 so as to contend while referring to paragraph 67 which reads as under:-

It is well settled that availability of an alternative remedy does not prohibit the High Court from entertaining a writ petition in an appropriate case. The High Court may entertain a writ petition, notwithstanding the availability of an alternative remedy, particularly (1) where the writ petition seeks enforcement of a fundamental right; (ii) where there is failure of principles of natural justice or (iii) where the impugned orders or proceedings are wholly without jurisidiction or (iv) the vires of an Act is under challenge. Reference may be made to Whirlpool Corporation v. Registrar of Trade Marks, Mumbai and others reported in AIR 1999 SC 22 and Pimpri Chindhwad Municipal Corporation and Ors. V. Gayatri Construction Company and Ors. V. Gayatri Construction Company and Ors. reported in (2008) 8 SCC 172 : (AIR 2008 SC (Supp) 211) cited on behalf of Respondent No.1.

27. Undisputably availability of alternative remedy does not preclude the High Court from entertaining a writ petition in appropriate case. However, this Court while entertaining a writ petition has to bear-in-mind the fact as to whether the dispute so raised does not involve factual issues which comprise complex questions of fact whose determination requires oral evidence or not.

28. In the case of Bal Krishna Ram Vs. Union of India and another 2020 (2) SCC 442 the Hon. Apex Court in paragraph 14 has observed as under:-

"14. It would be pertinent to add that the principle that the High Court should not exercise its extraordinary writ jurisdiction when an efficacious alternative remedy is available, is a Rule of prudence and not a Rule of law. The writ courts normally refrain from exercising their extraordinary power if the Petitioner has an alternative efficacious remedy. The existence of such remedy however does not mean that the jurisdiction of the High Court is ousted. At the same time, it is a well settled principle that such jurisdiction should not be exercised when there is an alternative remedy available3. The Rule of alternative remedy is a Rule of discretion and not a Rule of jurisdiction. Merely because the Court may not exercise its discretion, is not a ground to hold that it has no jurisdiction. There may be cases where the High Court would be justified in exercising its writ jurisdiction because of some glaring illegality committed by the AFT. One must also remember that the alternative remedy must be efficacious and in case of a Non-Commissioned Officer (NCO), or a Junior Commissioned Officer (JCO); to expect such a person to approach the Supreme Court in every case may not be justified. It is extremely difficult and beyond the monetary reach of an ordinary litigant to approach the Supreme Court. Therefore, it will be for the High Court to decide in the peculiar facts and circumstances of each case whether it should exercise its extraordinary writ jurisdiction or not. There cannot be a blanket ban on the exercise of such jurisdiction because that would effectively mean that the writ court is denuded of its jurisdiction to entertain such writ petitions which is not the law laid down in L. Chandra Kumar (supra). "

29. Further in the case of Punjab National Bank and others Vs. Atmanand Singh and others reported in (2020) 6 SCC 256 the Hon. Apex Court in paragraphs no. 22, 23, 24, 25 held as under:-

22. We restate the above position that when the petition raises questions of fact of complex nature, such as in the present case, which may for their determination require oral and documentary evidence to be produced and proved by the concerned party and also because the relief sought is merely for ordering a refund of money, the High Court should be loath in entertaining such writ petition and instead must relegate the parties to remedy of a civil suit. Had it been a case where material facts referred to in the writ petition are admitted facts or indisputable facts, the High Court may be justified in examining the claim of the writ Petitioner on its own merits in accordance with law.

23. In the next reported decision relied upon by the Respondent No. 1 in Babubhai (supra), no doubt this Court opined that if need be, it would be open to the High Court to cross-examine the affiants. We may usefully refer to paragraph 10 of the said decision, which reads thus:

10. It is not necessary for this case to express an opinion on the point as to whether the various provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure apply to petitions Under Article 226 of the Constitution. Section 141 of the Code, to which reference has been made, makes it clear that the provisions of the Code in regard to suits shall be followed in all proceedings in any court of civil jurisdiction as far as it can be made applicable. The words "as far as it can be made applicable" make it clear that, in applying the various provisions of the Code to proceedings other than those of a suit, the court must take into account the nature of those proceedings and the relief sought. The object of Article 226 is to provide a quick and inexpensive remedy to aggrieved parties. Power has consequently been vested in the High Courts to issue to any person or authority, including in appropriate cases any government, within the jurisdiction of the High Court, orders or writs, including writs in the nature of habeas corpus, mandamus, prohibition, quo warranto and certiorari. It is plain that if the procedure of a suit had also to be adhered to in the case of writ petitions, the entire purpose of having a quick and inexpensive remedy would be defeated. A writ petition Under Article 226, it needs to be emphasised, is essentially different from a suit and it would be incorrect to assimilate and incorporate the procedure of a suit into the proceedings of a petition Under Article 226. The High Court is not deprived of its jurisdiction to entertain a petition Under Article 226 merely because in considering the Petitioner's right of relief, questions of fact may fall to be determined. In a petition Under Article 226 the High Court has jurisdiction to try issues both of fact and law. Exercise of the jurisdiction is no doubt discretionary, but the discretion must be exercised on sound judicial principles. When the petition raises complex questions of fact, which may for their determination require oral evidence to be taken, and on that account the High Court is of the view that the dispute should not appropriately be tried in a writ petition, the High Court may decline to try a petition (see Gunwant Kaur v. Bhatinda Municipality [MANU/SC/0397/1969 : (1969) 3 SCC 769]. If, however, on consideration of the nature of the controversy, the High Court decides, as in the present case, that it should go into a disputed question of fact and the discretion exercised by the High Court appears to be sound and in conformity with judicial principles, this Court would not interfere in appeal with the order made by the High Court in this respect.

This decision has noticed Smt. Gunwant Kaur (supra), which had unmistakably held that when the petition raises complex questions of facts, the High Court may decline to try a petition. It is further observed that if on consideration of the nature of the controversy, the High Court decides to go into the disputed questions of fact, it would be free to do so on sound judicial principles. Despite the factual matrix in the present case, the High Court not only ventured to entertain the writ petition, but dealt with the same in a casual manner without adjudicating the disputed questions of fact by taking into account all aspects of the matter. The manner in which the Court disposed of the writ petition, by no stretch of imagination, can qualify the test of discretion having been exercised on sound judicial principles.

24. In Hyderabad Commercials (supra), on which reliance has been placed, it is clear from paragraph 4 of the said decision that the Bank had admitted its mistake and liability, but took a specious plea about the manner in which the transfer was effected. On that stand, the Court proceeded to grant relief to the Appellant therein, the account holder. In the present case, however, the concerned officials of the Bank have denied of being party to the stated agreement and have expressly asserted that the said document is forged and fabricated. It is neither a case of admitted liability nor to proceed against the Appellant Bank on the basis of indisputable facts.

25. Even the decision in ABL International Ltd. (supra) will be of no avail to the Respondent No. 1. This decision has referred to all the earlier decisions and in paragraph 28, the Court observed as follows:

28. However, while entertaining an objection as to the maintainability of a writ petition Under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the court should bear in mind the fact that the power to issue prerogative writs Under Article 226 of the Constitution is plenary in nature and is not limited by any other provisions of the Constitution. The High Court having regard to the facts of the case, has a discretion to entertain or not to entertain a writ petition. The Court has imposed upon itself certain restrictions in the exercise of this power. (See Whirlpool Corporation v. Registrar of Trade Marks [MANU/SC/0664/1998 : (1998) 8 SCC 1]) And this plenary right of the High Court to issue a prerogative writ will not normally be exercised by the Court to the exclusion of other available remedies unless such action of the State or its instrumentality is arbitrary and unreasonable so as to violate the constitutional mandate of Article 14 or for other valid and legitimate reasons, for which the Court thinks it necessary to exercise the said jurisdiction.

30. Applying the said judgements in the facts of the present case, the Court finds that the dispute so raised by the parties centers around factual issues wherein complex questions of facts are involved whose determination requires oral evidence. This Court in the present proceedings under Article 226 of the Constitution of India cannot make any enquiry into disputed questions of fact while taking evidence.

31. Even otherwise once there exist arbitration clause in the agreement dated 5.9.2014 so executed between the respondents one hand and the petitioners on the other hand and the petitioners being signatories of the same and are further not disputing it and also admitting that the dispute itself is clearly arbitrable then while applying the principles of law as culled out as Hon. Apex Court, this Court finds its inability to entertain the present writ petition as the petitioners have adequate efficacious remedy of arbitration as provided in Clause 23 of the agreement dated 5.9.2014.

32. Nonetheless Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 is self contained code wherein not only necessary safeguards have been provided but also jurisdiction has been vested with the competent court under Section 9 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 and under Section 17 of the same so as to warrant interim protection in suitable cases which are filed or pending before it. Thus, the apprehension of the petitioners that this Court in the present proceedings can only be grant interim protection is out of context as specific remedy as discussed above is available to the petitioners under Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996.

33. Resultantly, the present writ petition is dismissed as not maintainable on the ground of alternative efficacious remedy as provided under Clause 23 of the agreement dated 5.9.2014 leaving it open to the petitioners to seek remedy as available under Section 23 of the Act of 1996.

Needless to say that any of the observations made in the present judgment may not be construed to the expression that this Court has adjudicated the matter on merits.

Writ Petition allowed. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Birla, J.
&
Hon'ble Vikas Budhwar, J.)

1. Set of documents three in number running to four pages produced by learned Standing Counsel is taken on record.

2. Ms. Prachi Shukla, holding brief of Sri Shashi Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Sharad Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel, who appears for respondents no.1 to 3.

3. This is a petition filed by the father of the deceased being Neetu seeking following reliefs:-

"a. to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondent no.2 to pay Rs.4 lakhs to the petitioner immediately which has been sanctioned by the respondent no.3 on 06.09.2018 (Annexure No.1);

b. to issue a writ, order or direction as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper under the circumstances of the case;

c. to award cost of the petition to the petitioner."

4. Factual matrix as worded in the present writ petition are that the daughter of the petitioner herein namely, Neetu, aged about 18 years, expired due to snake bite on 21.08.2018 at about 1:00 P.M. (Noon). As per the records it reveals that the Tehsildar, Etah conducted an enquiry and tendered his enquiry report on 21.08.2018, wherein the death of the daughter of the petitioner due to snake bite was confirmed. Records further reveal that on 06.09.2018 the respondent no.3, Sub Divisional Magistrate, Etah issued an office order according its approval for grant of Rs.4,00,000/- as compensation. On 15.04.2019 a communication was issued by the respondent no.3 mentioning therein that the petitioner being the father of the deceased was entitled to be paid Rs.4,00,000/- as compensation on account of the death of his daughter due to snake bite.

5. As the amount of Rs.4,00,000/- which was to be paid as a compensation on account of death of the daughter of the petitioner was not extended so proceedings purported to be under the Right to Information Act, 2005 was put to motion by the petitioner and when the same was also not acceded to then an appeal was also preferred by the petitioner and the respondent no.2 by virtue of his letter dated 04.04.2019 directed for the disposal of the application purported to be under the Right to Information Act, 2005.

6. Eventually, Kanoongo (Finance) supplied the information to the wife of the petitioner being the mother of the deceased that the payment of an amount of Rs.4,00,000/- was deferred and was made subject to receipt of the viscera report.

7. This Court finds that there is a report at page 20 (Annexure-4) of the paper book dated 13.01.2019, wherein Senior Sub Inspector, Police Station Mirhachi, District Etah has issued a communication addressed to Senior Senior Superintendent of Police, District Etah mentioning therein that the samples so drawn from the deceased were sent for its testing to Forensic Scientific Laboratory, Agra, however, the same could not be processed by the Forensic Scientific Laboratory, Agra on the pretext that the sample can not be tested at Agra and the only Forensic Scientific Laboratory is at Mumbai can do the necessary test. Subsequently, on 02.02.2020 the viscera report was sent to Forensic Scientific Laboratory, Maharashtra at Mumbai through one of the constable so posted therein, a copy thereof has been filed as Annexure-5 to the paper book. Forensic Scientific Laboratory, Maharashtra at Mumbai has shown its inability to conduct testing of the viscera as according to it has no jurisdiction to conduct test of the samples which are outside the territorial jurisdiction of Maharashtra.

8. As the petitioner herein has not been paid the amount of Rs.4,00,000/- which had already been sanctioned by the respondents, thus he has filed the present writ petition.

On 06.04.2022 this Court proceeded to pass the following order:-

"Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Sharad Chandra Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel for the respondents.

Learned counsel for the petitioner has filed this writ petition for following reliefs:-

"a. to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondent no.2 to pay Rs.4 lakhs to the petitioner immediately which has been sanctioned by the respondent no.3 on 06.09.2018 (Annexure No.1);

b. to issue a writ, order or direction as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper under the circumstances of the case;

c. to award cost of the petition to the petitioner."

While drawing attention towards annexure-3 to this petition, it is submitted that the claim of the petitioner is being kept pending for last several years on the ground that viscera report has not been received. Attention was also drawn to annexure-6 to the petition to point out that viscera report was returned by FSL Mumbai on the ground that viscera from outside the State are not being tested there and the same has been sent back to the concerned police station. It is submitted that the same is still pending.

This Court fails to understand the ground for keeping the matter pending indefinitely. In case even if the sample has been returned by FSL Mumbai on the ground that outside samples are not tested in Mumbai lab, this cannot be a ground for keeping the claim pending for indefinite period. The State authority should have made arrangement to get the viscera report from other FSL where such samples within the State of U.P. or outside the State of U.P. are tested.

Learned Standing Counsel is directed to seek instructions from the respondent no.2 under his signature within a period of three weeks. The respondent no.2 is at liberty to do the needful in the meantime.

Put up this case on 21.4.2022 as fresh."

9. Today, when the matter was taken up, Sri Sharad Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel has made a submission at bar that he has complete instructions in the matter and he does not propose to file any counter affidavit and the writ petition be disposed of at the admission stage without calling for the response.

10. The Central Government in exercise of power as conferred therein has enacted an act by the nomenclature of the Disaster Management Act, 2005 in order to provide for the effective management of disasters and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto.

11. In order to give ends to the aims and the objects of creation of the Disaster Management Act, 2005, on 27.06.2016 respondent no.1 issued a Notification bearing No.303/1-11-2016-4(G)/16 providing for the modalities with respect to funds for expenditure to be incurred from State Disaster Response Fund (SDRF). The Notification dated 27.06.2016 issued by the respondent no.1 is being quoted hereinunder:-

2. शासन के संज्ञान में आया है कि सर्पदंश से मृत्यु को प्रमाणित करने के लिए मृतक की विसरा जांच हेतु फारेंसिक लैब भेजी जाती है और मृतक की विसरा जांच रिपोर्ट की प्रतीक्षा में मृतक के आश्रितों को अहेतुक सहायता समय से उपलब्ध नहीं करायी जाती है। फारेंसिक स्टेट लीगल सेल के अनुसार सर्पदंश के प्रकरणों में विसरा रिपोर्ट को प्रिजर्व करने का कोई औचित्य नहीं है तथा उनके द्वारा अवगत कराया गया है कि विसरा जॉच रिपोर्ट से सर्पदंश से मृत्यु प्रमाणित भी नहीं होता है।

14. Perusal of the letter in the shape of clarification dated 08.07.2021 issued by the respondent no.1 addressed to all the District Magistrates throughout the State of U.P. will clearly reveal as under:

(a) Panchnama of the deceased is to be conducted.

(b) Post mortem of the deceased is mandatory.

(c) After post mortem there is no need to preserve the viscera report.

(d) compensation to be paid within a period of 7 days from the date of death of the deceased, who dies on account of snake bite.

(e) Viscera report does not certify that the deceased died of snake bite (venom).

15. Learned counsel for the petitioner has sought to argue that the entire stand so taken by the respondents in withholding the payment of an amount of Rs.4,00,000/- as an ex-gratia compensation pursuant to the death of the daughter of the petitioner on account of snake bite due to unavailability of viscera report is thoroughly unjustified as once on 08.07.2021 the State of Uttar Pradesh has come up with a policy decision there is no need to await for obtaining viscera report for the grant of compensation then obviously the petitioner was entitled to be conferred with the benefit of ex-gratia compensation within a period of 7 days.

16. In order to buttress his submission, learned counsel for the petitioner has further argued that once in the policy decision dated 08.07.2021 of the State Government it has come on record that viscera report does not certify the death on account of snake bite (venom) then in these circumstances withholding of monitory compensation in shape of ex-gratia payment is illegal.

17. Countering the said submission, Sri Sharad Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel, who appears for the State has argued that in the case in question though the samples were drawn from the daughter of the petitioner were sent for testing at Agra at first instance and thereafter to the Forensic Scientific Laboratory, Maharashtra at Mumbai but the same was not tested on account that the Forensic Scientific Laboratory, Maharashtra at Mumbai does not conduct testing as according to it has no jurisdiction to conduct test of the samples which are outside the territorial jurisdiction of Maharashtra and thereafter the samples were sent to Forensic Scientific Laboratory at Agra whereat on 20.04.2022 viscera report has been obtained according to which the following has been observed:-

18. According to learned Standing Counsel the testing of the viscera report itself shows that the venom which was found in the blood of the deceased was chemical poison only.

19. Learned Standing Counsel when confronted with the policy decision/clarification dated 08.07.2021 as referred to above could not dispute the same and had made a submission at bar that now in view of the policy decision dated 08.07.2021 the requirement of obtaining viscera report for the grant of monitory compensation/ex-gratia payment referable to death on account of snake bite stands dispensed with and what is to be seen is the fact that the panchnama as well as post mortem has been conducted or not.

20. Sri Sharad Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel has thus argued that in view of the letter of the Kanoongo addressed to the petitioner now the petitioner's claim will be processed and the same will not be denied or the benefits would not be denuded on the ground that the viscera report is either not available or not in favour of the petitioner.

21. Be that as it may be, in view of the arguments so sought to be advanced by the rival parties and further the fact that the learned Standing Counsel has not disputed the existence and the applications of the policy decision/clarification dated 08.07.2021 that the requirement of obtaining viscera report stands dispensed with, the present writ petition is being allowed in the following terms:-

(A) Petitioner within a period of one month from today shall prefer a representation before the respondent no.2, District Magistrate, Etah alongwith the certified copy of the order so passed today annexing with complete documents in support of his claim.

(B) The respondent no.2, District Magistrate, Etah, on receipt of the representation so preferred by the petitioner, shall decide the claim of the petitioner within a further period of one month for grant of compensation/ex-gratia payment to the tune of Rs.4,00,000/- without insisting for the requirement of viscera report in the light of the observation made herein above.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. By the impugned award dated 16.01.2019 the labour court has allowed the industrial reference in favour of the workman by holding that the termination of the respondent workman's services on 08.09.2011 were illegal. Consequential reliefs of reinstatement with full backwages have also been granted.

2. The labour court in the impugned award has found that the services of respondent workman were terminated without holding a disciplinary enquiry. Various communications sent by the employer to the workman to rejoin duties were disbelieved on the foot that they do not reflect a bona fide intent to recall the workman to duty.

3. Sri Diptiman Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the evidence in the record established that the workman was given ample opportunity to rejoin his duties but he failed to do so. The workman had abandoned his service. Petitioner had rightly invoked the applicable standing order holding the field which was not considered by the labour court. No departmental enquiry was liable to held in the facts of this case and the relevant standing orders. The labour court returned perverse findings on the evidence lead by the petitioner.

4. Sri Alok Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for respondent workman contends that the services of the workman were terminated without enquiry. The respondent workman had not abandoned his service. He made several efforts to rejoin his duties but was not allowed to do so by the employer. The termination of the respondent workman was in violation of principles of natural justice was rightly set aside by the court below.

5. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

6. Briefly put the facts are these. The respondent workman had stopped attending office after an incident in the establishment. The employer sent communications asking the workman to rejoin duties, but to no avail. The petitioner employer inferred abandonment of duties by the workman and after invoking the relevant standing order struck him off the roles of employees.

7. The questions which arise for consideration are:

(a) What constitutes abandonment of service by a workman?

(b) Whether abandonment of service can be established against a workman only after holding a regular domestic enquiry?

8. Abandonment of service is an act where the employer finds that a workman by prolonged and unauthorized absence from duty has abandoned his service. The employer employee relationship stands severed since the workman has failed to rejoin duties despite communications by the employer to do so. The inference of the employer regarding abandonment of duty by the employee has to be deduced from the conduct of the employee and requires to be supported by credible materials in the record.

9. The prerequisite conditions for drawing an inference that the workman has abandoned his duties are these. The workman is continuously and unauthorizedly absent from duties. The period of continuous absence may vary from case to case. However it cannot be an inordinately short period. The period of such absence may also be prescribed in the standing order. Secondly the employer should recall the workman and give him an opportunity to resume his duties. Even after receipt of such communications the workman fails to rejoin duties. Thirdly, continuance of such employee on the rolls would not be in the best interest of the establishment. Upon satisfaction of the said conditions precedent the employer may conclude that the employee has abandoned his duties. The employer can then strike the employee off the roles of the establishment and sever the employer employee relationship. In such cases a regular domestic enquiry is not required. However, there is no abandonment of duties if the workman was prevented by the employer from joining his duties.

10. It needs to be seen whether in the facts of this case the aforesaid ingredients are established or not.

11. It is admitted between the parties that on 07.09.2011 the workman had an altercation with another employee one Ganesh Yadav and had allegedly assaulted the latter. The said Ganesh Yadav had also registered FIR against the workman. Thereafter w.e.f. 08.09.2011 the workman did not attend his duties and continuously remained absent. The employer sent various communications to the workman on 29.03.2012 and 25.04.2012 asking him to rejoin his duties. The aforesaid communications have been marked as exhibits and were proved by the petitioner before the labour court. The workman had received the said communications. The aforesaid letters clearly disclose the efforts of employer to recall the workman and enable him to rejoin his duties. But the same were disbelieved by the labour court solely on the foot that they do not reflect bona fide intent. I am afraid the finding is perverse. The contents of the aforesaid letters duly proved before the labour court establish the bonafide intention of an overindulgent employer recalling the long absent employee and notice him to rejoin duties. Admittedly the respondent workman did not respond to the aforesaid communications and failed to rejoin his duties despite notice. He was not prevented by the employer from joining his duty. The conduct of the employer cannot be faulted.

12. Several other corroborative evidences support the conclusion of the employer in regard to the abandonment by the workman and the decision made to strike the workman off the rolls. The incident on 07.09.2011 is admitted between the parties. The respondent workman had also tendered a resignation letter after the incident. The resignation letter was disbelieved by the labour court in a perverse manner. The labour court ought to have examined and compared the signatures of the workman on contemporaneous documents with that on the resignation letter. It failed to do so. It is well established that the workman was continuously absent from duty from 08.09.2011 till the standing order was invoked against him in the aftermath of the communication dated 25.04.2012.

13. The workman had on his part submitted that he had made various attempts to rejoin duties but was denied entry by the employer. The pleadings and evidences tendered by the workman do not support his case. The workman on his own admission made the first communication to rejoin duties highly belatedly on 27.03.2012.

14. The said communication of the workman only demonstrates that the absence of the workman for prolonged period with effect from 08.09.2011 was completely unjustified. The communication dated 27.03.2012 of the workman and his statement before the labour court are self-serving and devoid of bonafide intentions. They are an afterthought and only intended to post fact justify the indefensible conduct of the workman. The witness introduced by the workman in his support was his real brother who merely reiterated the stand of the respondent workman. The witness does not improve the credit of the workman's case. No material in the record has been brought to the notice of the Court that the workman had made genuine efforts to rejoin his duties but was prevented by the employer.

15. The conditions precedent for inferring of abandonment of service were thus fully satisfied.

16. In light of the above facts the employer lawfully invoked clause 21 of the certified standing order against the workman and legitimately inferred that the workman had abandoned his service. The standing order are extracted hereunder:

"21) ABANDONMENT OF EMPLOYMENT

In the event of a workman remaining absent from duty without permission, continuously for a period of 8 days including weekly holidays & other holidays during the period, he shall be deemed to have voluntary abandoned his service and accordingly his name shall be struck off from the Muster Rolls of the company"

17. The services of the workman were terminated in adherence to the standing order.

18. There is a distinction between the abandonment of services and unauthorized absence from duty which is a misconduct.

In the latter case the employee/workman is charged with unauthorised absence from duty and the employer has to hold a domestic enquiry. However when the conditions prerequisite for finding that the workman had abandoned his service are established no such enquiry is necessary. Principles of natural justice cannot be cast in a straight jacket formula and vary from case to case. The principles of natural justice in labour jurisprudence are applied to ensure transparency and fairness in the employer and employee dealings which in turn promote industrial peace.

19. The labour court erred in law by failing to observe the distinction between abandonment of service and the misconduct of unauthorised absence from duty. The labour court in the impugned award illegally found for the workman of the solely on footing that no domestic enquiry was held. This was case of abandonment of service and did not warrant a regular domestic enquiry.

20. At this stage it would be apposite to fortify the narrative with authorities in point.

21. The clause in service conditions which provided for loss of lien of an employee on his post for remaining unauthorizedly absent for more than 8 days arose for consideration before the Supreme Court in Hindustan Paper Corporation Vs. Purnendu Chakrobarty 1 and others. In the facts of the aforesaid case the workman remained absent unauthorizedly for more than 8 consecutive days.

22. The application for grant of medical leave submitted by the workman were not supported by medical certificate and hence his leave was not sanctioned. The workman was noticed as to why the period be not treated as one unauthorized absence. The reply of the workman was found to be bald and Rule 23 (vi) E was invoked out against him.

23. Negating the argument that the notice by the employer did not fulfil the requirements of natural justice, it was held in Hindustan Paper Corporation (supra) as under :

"15. We have extracted Rule 23 in full. The explanation to the Rule specifically states that certain items enumerated thereunder shall not be treated as a penalty at all within the meaning of Rule 23. For our case the relevant sub-clause is (vi) (E) which says that proceeding on leave without prior sanction and remaining unauthorizedly absent for more than 8 consecutive days; and/ or subsequently extended for more than 8 consecutive days; and/ or overstaying his sanctioned leave beyond the period originally granted or subsequently extended for more than 8 consecutive days would result in loss of lien of the appointment of the employee. In this case we have seen that the first respondent had proceeded on leave without prior sanction and remained unauthorisedly absent for more than 6 months consecutively which obliged the appellant-Corporation to issue communication tot he first respondent calling upon him to explain. Unfortunately, the first respondent, for reasons best known to him, has not availed himself of the opportunity as seen earlier but replied in half-hearted way which resulted in the impugned order. Therefore, under the circumstances, it cannot be said that the principles of natural justice have not been complied with or the circumstances required any enquiry as contemplated under Rule 25."

24. The requirement of holding regular departmental enquiry in case of a workman who had absented himself from duties for a period of more than 30 days and failed to give sufficient explanation despite being noticed was examined in Syndicate Bank Vs. General Secretary, Syndicate Bank Staff Association and another2. Upholding the validity of the action of the Bank in applying the clause 16 of the bipartite statement by noticing the employee and not holding regular departmental enquiry, the position of law was propounded thus:

"14. In the present case action was taken by the Bank under Clause 16 of the Bipartite Settlement. It is not disputed that Dayananda absented himself from the work for a period of 90 or more consecutive days. It was thereafter that the Bank served a notice on him calling upon to report for duty within 30 days of the notice standing therein the grounds for the Bank to come to the conclusion that Dayananda had no intention of joining duties. Dayananda did not respond to the notice at all. On the expiry of the notice period Bank passed orders that Dayananda had voluntarily retired from the service of the Bank.

17. Bank has followed the requirements of Clause 16 of the Bipartite Settlement. It rightly held that Dayananda has voluntarily retired from the service of the Bank. Under these circumstances it was not necessary for the bank to hold any inquiry before passing the order. An inquiry would have been necessary if Dayananda had submitted his explanation which was not acceptable to the Bank or contended that he did not report for duty but was not allowed to join by the Bank. Nothing of the like has happened here. Assuming for a moment that inquiry was necessitated, evidence led before the Tribunal clearly showed that notice was given to Dayananda and it is he who defaulted and offered no explanation of his absence from duty and did not report for duty within 30 days of the notice as required in Clause 16 of the Bipartite Settlement.

25. Application of the bipartite settlement of the Bank when a workman absented himself from duty was in issue in Viveka Nand Sethi Vs. Chairman, J & K Bank Ltd and Others3. The need for a full-fledged departmental enquiry was waived, in the wake of service of notice and inadequate reply of the workman by holding:

"14. The bipartite settlement is clear and unambiguous. It should be given a literal meaning. A bare perusal of the said settlement would show that on receipt of a notice contemplated thereunder, the workman must either: (1) report for duties within thirty days;(2) given his explanation for hi absence satisfying the management that he has not taken any employment or avocation; and (3) show that he has no intention of not joining the duties. It is, thus, only when the workman concerned does not join his duties within thirty days or fails to file a satisfactory explanation, as referred to hereinbefore, the legal fiction shall come into force. In the instant case except for asking for grant of medical leave, he did not submit any explanation for his absence satisfying the management that he has not taken up any other employment or avocation and that he has not intention of not joining his duties.

17. Mere sending of an application for grant of leave much after the period of leave was over as also the date of resuming duties cannot be said to be a bonafide act on the part of workman. The Bank, as noticed hereinbefore, in response to the lawyer's notice categorically stated that the workman had been carrying on some business elsewhere.

18. We cannot accept the submission of Mr. Mathur that only because on a later date an application for grant of medical leave was filed, the same ipso facto would put an embargo on the exercise of the jurisdiction of the bank from invoking clause (2) of the bipartite settlement.

19. It may be true that in a case of this nature, the principles of natural justice where required to be complied wit but the same would not mean that a full-fledged departmental proceeding was required to be initiated. A limited enquiry as to whether the employee concerned had sufficient explanation for not reporting to duties after the period of leave had expired or failure on his part on being asked to do so, in our considered view, amounts to sufficient compliance of the requirement of the principles of natural justice."

26. A similarly worded standing order regarding abandonment of service and need for holding a domestic enquiry was interpreted by the Supreme Court in Buckingham and Carnatic C. Ltd Vs. Venkatiah4:

"5. .....Let us first examine Standing Order No. 8(ii) before proceeding any further. The said Standing Order reads thus:

"Absent without Leave : Any employee who absents himself for eight consecutive working days without leave shall be deemed to have left the Company's service without notice thereby terminating his contract of service. If he gives an explanation to the satisfaction of the management, the absence shall be converted into leave without pay or dearness allowance.

Any employee leaving the Company's service in this manner shall have no claim for re-employment in the Mills.

But if the absence is proved to the satisfaction of the Management to be one due to sickness, then such absence shall be converted into medical leave for each period as the employee is eligible with the permissible allowances."

This Standing Order is a part of the certified Standing Order with had been revised by an arbitration award between the parties in 1957. The relevant clause clearly means that if an employee falls within the mischief of its first part, it follows that the defaulting employee has terminated his contract of service. The first provision in clause (ii) proceeds on the basis that absence for eight consecutive days without leave will lead to the inference that the absentee workman intended to terminate his contract of service. The certified Standing Orders represent the relevant terms and conditions of service in a statutory form and they are binding on the parties at least as much, if not more, as private contracts embodying similar terms and conditions of service. It is true that under common law an inference that an employee has abandoned or relinquished service is not easily drawn unless from the length of absence and from other surrounding circumstances an inference to that effect can be legitimately drawn and it can be assumed that the employee intended to abandon service. Abandonment or relinquishment of service is always a question of intention, and, normally such an intention cannot be attributed to an employee without adequate evidence in that behalf. But where parties agree upon the terms and conditions of service and they are included in certified Standing Orders, the doctrines of common law or considerations of equity would not be relevant. It is then a matter of construing the relevant term itself. Therefore, the first part of Standing Order 8(ii) inevitably leads to the conclusion that if an employee is absent for eight consecutive days without leave, he is deemed to have terminated his contract of service and thus relinquished or abandoned his employment.

6. The latter part of this clause, however, provides that the employee can offer an explanation as to his absence and if his explanation is found to be satisfactory by the management, his absence will be converted into leave without pay or dearness allowance. Now, this clause is, in substance a proviso to its first part. Before effect is given to the inference of relinquishment of service which arises from the first part of the clause, an opportunity is given to the employee to offer an explanation and if the said explanation is treated as satisfactory by the management, the inference of termination of contract of service is rebutted and the leave in question is treated as leave without pay or dearness allowance. This latter clause obviously postulates that if the explanation offered by the employee is not found to be satisfactory by the management, the inference arising from the first part prevails and the employee shall be deemed to have terminated his contract of service with the result that the relationship of master and servant between the parties would be held to have come to an end. With the remaining part of the said Standing Order we are not concerned in this appeal.

7. It is true that absence without leave for eight consecutive days is also treated as misconduct under clause 13 (f) of the Standing Orders. The said clause refers to be said absence and habitual absence without leave. In other words, the position under the Standing orders appears to be that absence without leave for more than eight consecutive days can give rise to the termination of the contract of service either under Standing Order 8(ii) or may lead to be penalties awardable for misconduct after due enquiry is held as required by the relevant Standing Order. The fact that the same conduct is dealt with in two different Standing Order cannot affect the applicability of SO 8(ii) to the present case. It is not as if the appellant is bound to treat Venkatiah's absence as constituting misconduct under SO 13 (f) and proceeed to hold an enquiry against him before terminating his services. Dismissal for misconduct as defined under SO 13 may perhaps have different and more serious consequences from the termination of service resulting from SO 8(ii). However that may be, if SO 8(ii) is applicable, it would be no answer to the appellant's case under SO 8(ii) to say that SO 13 (f) is attracted. The position is not seriously in dispute."

27. This Court in Moti Vs. State of U.P5 construed the distinction between abandonment of service and termination of service by holdings:

"14. The submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner lacks merit, Fundamental Rule 18 is applicable in the facts of the instant case. It is not the case of the petitioner that petitioner came to be removed from service for overstayal of leave until his retirement on attaining the age of superannuation. No order was passed by the respondent under Fundamental Rule 18 dispensing with the services of the petitioner. In the instant case, the petitioner abandoned his service on his own in 1985 and thereafter, never returned or approached the authorities to resume duty.

15. The act of abandonment of service was voluntary on the part of the petitioner. The respondents had not terminated the service of the petitioner under the Rules, for his prolonged absence, rather, the petitioner ceased to be in service on his own choice in terms of Fundamental Rule 18 and not due to any punitive action by the employer."

28. The material before the employer was credible and the conclusions of the employer were reasonable. The employer adopted a just and lawful procedure before ending the employer employee relationship on grounds of abandonment of service by the latter. The labour court neglected to consider the adherence of the employer to Standing Order No.21, which was applicable to the facts of this case. There was no requirement of a regular domestic enquiry. Non application of mind by the labour court on these critical aspects vitiate the impugned order. Findings of the labour court on relevant facts are perverse as seen earlier.

29. The employee long absent and not interested in rejoining his duties. Indefinite continuance of such an employee on the rolls of the establishment will only instigate industrial unrest and not foster industrial peace.

30. In the wake of preceding discussion the findings of the labour court in the impugned award are perverse and illegal.

31. The award dated 16.01.2019 is liable to be set aside and is set aside.

32. Before parting one fact needs to be recorded. The petitioner employer to show his fairness had made an offer to the workman to join on an equivalent post at its unit in Devas. The post which the respondent workman was working before he abandoned is not vacant. Learned counsel for the workman Shri Alok Kumar Srivastava, on the basis of instructions submits that the workman has declined the aforesaid offer.

33. The writ petition is allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shree Prakash Singh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Vineet Kumar Chaurasiya, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri Shailendra Kumar Singh, learned Chief Standing Counsel-III assisted by Sri Kuldeep Singh and Sri Y.K. Awasthi, learned Standing Counsel for the State and perused the record.

2. By means of the instant writ petition, the petitioners have assailed the judgment and order dated 24.02.2020 passed by Chairman, Appellate Authority/District Magistrate, Lucknow in Appeal No.20231 of 2019, under Section 16 of the U.P. Maintenance and Welfare of Parents and Senior Citizens Act, 2007 (hereinafter referred to as the "Act, 2007") (Re: Indrajeet Sharma Vs. Uma Shankar Sharma), by means of which, the appeal filed by the petitioners have been dismissed by respondent no.1 on the ground of maintainability. He has further assailed the judgment and order dated 6th June, 2019 passed by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Tehsil-Sadar, District-Lucknow in Case Crime No.38 of 2018, under Section 5 of U.P. Maintenance and Welfare of Parents and Senior Citizens Act, 2007, whereby the petitioners were directed to evict the premises of Plot No.46, Seemant Nagar, Yashbagh Tum, Kalyanpur, Lucknow.

3. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioners submits that factual matrix of the case is that, the petitioner no.1 was being continuously harassed by the respondent no.3 even for food and lodging, and FIR bearing Case Crime No.0124 of 2016, under Sections 498-A/ 323/504/506 IPC and 3/4 of D.P. Act was lodged by petitioner no.1 against the respondent Nos.3 and 6 and other family members. Since the petitioner no.1 was being tortured for demand of dowry and, as such, under the compelling circumstances, the aforesaid FIR was lodged against the respondent no.1, who is the father-in-law of the petitioner no.1.

4. After the aforesaid FIR, a compromise was done between the petitioner no.1 and opposite party no.3 on 08.11.2016 and it was settled in the compromise that opposite party no.3 along with his family will reside in the house No.82, Sector-N, Aliganj and the petitioner was given a ground floor portion situated at Plot No.46, Seemant Nagar, Yashbagh Tum, Kalyanpur, Lucknow, which is about 600 square ft.

5. Since a compromise was entered in between the petitioner no.1 and respondent no.3, as such, the Investigating Officer, who was investigating the matter in Case Crime No.0124 of 2016, submitted a final report on 12.11.2016 before the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.11, Lucknow and, later on, it was accepted vide order dated 17th September, 2017.

6. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioners further added that respondent no.3 is a retired Constable from the Police Department and is getting regular pension and has also got other post retiral dues, but despite the above, the opposite party no.3 had intentionally started to torture and harass the petitioners, while violating the terms and conditions mentioned in the compromise deed dated 08.11.2016. The respondent no.3 submitted an application under Section 5 of the Act, 2007 before the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Tehsil-Sadar for evicting the petitioners from the House No.46 situated at Seemant Nagar, Yashbagh Tum, Lucknow and he did not bother that petitioners are his son and daughter-in-law and even the legal successors of his property, and they have no any other house or place for living.

7. After the aforesaid application instituted before the Opposite Party No.2, the notices were issued for calling explanation/written statement in the case pending before respondent no.2 and it has also been mentioned that prior to the notice, several other notices were issued, though petitioners submitted that the same were not served upon them.

8. Petitioner no.1 had also submitted an application before the District Magistrate, Lucknow on 22nd May, 2019, wherein, it was prayed that case pending before the Sub-Divisional Magistrate may be transferred before any other competent authority, but it was neither heard nor any action has been taken. He further submits that without hearing the side of the petitioners, the Sub-Divisional Magistrate passed the order in Case No.38 of 2018 (Uma Shanker Sharma Vs. Indrajeet Sharma and others) on 6th June, 2019, wherein, they were directed to evict the house of the petitioner no.2, having its No.46 at Seemant Nagar, Yashbagh Tum, Kalyanpur, Lucknow.

9. After the aforesaid order passed by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate under Section 5 of the Act, 2007, the petitioners approached the District Magistrate, Lucknow while instituting a Case No.20231 of 2019 (Indrajeet Sharma Vs. Uma Shanker Sharma) under Section 16 of the Act, 2007. The aforesaid appeal was filed against the order dated 6th June, 2019 passed by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate and order of eviction was passed thereof.

10. Learned District Magistrate, who is the Appellate Authority as per Section 16 of the Act, 2007, has passed the order in an arbitrary and erroneous manner on 24th February, 2020 on the ground of maintainability. As per his verdict, the petitioners had no right to file an appeal under Section 16 of the Act, 2007.

11. Being aggrieved with the order aforesaid, petitioners filed a writ petition bearing No.19104 of 2021 (Misc. Single); Rupam Sharma @ Jyoti Sharma and another Vs. District Magistrate, Lucknow, before this Court and the same was dismissed on 2nd September, 2021 on the ground of maintainability. He submits that, in fact, the aforesaid writ was filed in hurriedly manner and the order dated 24.02.2020 passed by the Appellate Authority i.e. District Magistrate was not appended/challenged in the aforesaid writ petition and, as such, the Hon'ble Court, while passing the order on 2nd September, 2021, dismissed the writ petition and accorded liberty to the petitioners to file a fresh petition.

12. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioners has argued that, in fact, the compromise was entered in between the petitioner no.1 and respondent no.3 on 08.11.2016 and in pursuance of the same, petitioners were residing on the ground floor of Plot No.46 at Seemant Nagar, Yashbagh Tum, Kalyanpur, Lucknow. Further, since a final report was submitted by the Investigating Officer only on the premise of a compromise entered in between the petitioner No.1 and the respondent no.3 and as soon as the final report was submitted, the respondent no.3 has again started harassing and torturing the petitioners for no reasons.

13. Learned counsel for the petitioners further argued that since the petitioners themselves is getting the pension regularly and has also got the service benefits and as such, they are able to maintain themselves and, thus, the aforesaid proceedings before the Sub-Divisional Magistrate and the Appellate Authority/District Magistrate is nothing, but an eyewash. He further added that, in fact, the conduct and behaviour of the respondent no.3 is unbridlled and unguided and he is without any reason torturing the petitioners by way of instituting the aforesaid proceedings.

14. Learned counsel for the petitioners has also added that due to aforesaid action of the respondent no.3, petitioners are compelled to live in the little parental house, and respondent no.3 has become merciless as the petitioner no.1 was pregnant and also in the high-time of Covid-19 Pandemic, the petitioners were forcefully evicted/thrown out from their house. He also added that order dated 6th June, 2019 has been passed without paying heed on the contention of the petitioners and further the same is also in violation of the intent of the Section 5 of the Act, 2007. The orders dated 6th June, 2019 and 24th February, 2020 are highly illegal, unconstitutional and arbitrary. The orders are without reason and are against the intent of the legislature. He submits that if this Hon'ble Court will not quash the orders passed by the respondent Nos.1 and 2, they shall suffer irreparable loss and injury, which could not be compensated by any means.

15. Finally, learned counsel for the petitioners has also drawn attention that the order dated 24th February, 2020 has been passed against the settled proposition of law as plea of the petitioners has been rejected on the ground that right to appeal against any order passed on the Application Under Section 5 of the Act, 2007 is available to the Senior Citizens and the Parents only which is overt and evident from the bare perusal of Section 16 of the Act, 2007. The provision of Section 16 of the Act, 2007 is being extracted as follows:-

Section 16 (Appeals).

"(1) Any senior citizen or a parent, as the case may be, aggrieved by an order of a Tribunal may, within sixty days from the date of the order, prefer an appeal to the Appellate Tribunal:

Provided that on appeal, the children or relative who is required to pay any amount in terms of such maintenance order shall continue to pay to such parent the amount so ordered, in the manner directed by the Appellate Tribunal:

Provided further that the Appellate Tribunal may, entertain the appeal after the expiry of the said period of sixty days, if it is satisfied that the appellant was prevented by sufficient cause from preferring the appeal in time.

(2) On receipt of an appeal, the Appellate Tribunal shall, cause a notice to be served upon the respondent.

(3) The Appellate Tribunal may call for the record of proceedings from the Tribunal against whose order the appeal is preferred.

(4) The Appellate Tribunal may, after examining the appeal and the records called for either allow or reject the appeal.

(5) The Appellate Tribunal shall, adjudicate and decide upon the appeal filed against the order of the Tribunal and the order of the Appellate Tribunal shall be final:

Provided that no appeal shall be rejected unless an opportunity has been given to both the parties of being heard in person or through a duly authorised representative.

(6) The Appellate Tribunal shall make an endeavour to pronounce its order in writing within one month of the receipt of an appeal.

(7) A copy of every order made under sub-section (5) shall be sent to both the parties free of cost."

16. While corroborating his arguments, he has placed reliance on the case reported in 2019 (8) ADJ 731 (D.B.) (Akhilesh Kumar and another Vs. State of U.P. and others) and has referred para 7 of the aforesaid judgment, which is extracted as under:-

7. However, learned standing counsel has referred to a decision in Paramjit Kumar Saroya : Amanpreet v. Union of India, (2014 AIR (P&H) 121 wherein the Division Bench of the Punjab and Haryana High Court has held that a purposive interpretation should be given to Section 16(1) of the Act, 2007 and the only interpretation is that the right of appeal is conferred on both sides. The Court was of the view that it may be a case of an accidental omission and not of conscious exclusion and in order to give a complete and effective meaning to the statutory provision, the Court should read the words into it and the ultimate conclusion being that an appeal from both sides is envisaged under section 16(1) of the Act, 2007. Paragraph Nos. 19, 20, 23 and 27 of the said judgment reads as under:

"19. The petitioners assailed the provisions of sub section (1) of Section 16 of the said Act on the ground that there cannot be a right to appeal only to one of the affected parties, as anomalous situation would be created against the same order with which both the parties may be aggrieved.

17. In a similar controversy the Madras High Court in Balamurugan v. Rukmani (C.R.P.(PD)(MD) No. 437 of 2015 & M.P.(MD) Nos. 1 & 2 of 2015 decided on 29 April 2015) in agreement with the view taken in Paramjit Kumar Saroya (AIR 2014 Punjab and Haryana 121) has held that an appeal under section 16 of the Act, 2007 would be maintainable on the behest of both the parties, i.e. at the instance of the aggrieved party for the reason that where the Tribunal decides a case in favour of the senior citizens or parents, the children or dependent or relatives against whom the order is passed and against whom it can be enforced under section 11 of the Act, 2007 would be the aggrieved person and have a right to file an appeal.

18. He further placed reliance on the case reported in AIR 2014 Punjab and Haryana 121 (Paramjeet Kumar Saroya Vs. Union of India and another) and judgment rendered in case of Carew and Co. Ltd. v. Union of India: (SCC 1.802, para 21), wherein, it has been held the "The law is not "a brooding omnipotence in the sky" but a pragmatic instrument of social order. It is an operational art controlling economic life, and interpretative effort must be imbued with the statutory purpose. No doubt, grammar is a good guide to meaning but a bad master to dictate. Notwithstanding the traditional view that grammatical construction is the golden rule, Justice Frankfurter used words of practical wisdom when he observed#: (US p. 138):

"There is no surer way to misread a document than to read it literally."

19. We are thus of the view that Section 16(1) of the said Act is valid, but must be read to provide for the right of appeal to any of the affected parties.

20. He has further submitted that in our old customary laws, there was traditional principle of law of interpretation, which later on evolved and took the form of new law of interpretation.

Quoting the aforesaid, he has referred the case of Gujarat Urja Vikas Nigam Ltd. v. Essar Power Ltd., (2008) 4 SCC 755. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in aid of interpreting a statute pressed into service the traditional Mimansa system. These principles are the traditional principles of interpretation laid down by Jaimini and are stated to have been used regularly by great jurists who authored the Mitakshara and Dayabhaga laws. The principles were created for religious purpose, but they are stated to be so rational and logical that they began to be used in law, grammar, logic, philosophy and, thus, became of universal application. The three ways of dealing with the conflicts under the Mimansa system have been crystallized as under:--

"(1) Where two texts which are apparently conflicting are capable of being reconciled, then by the principle of harmonious construction (which is called the samanjasya principle in Mimansa) they should be reconciled.

(2) The second situation is a conflict where it is impossible to reconcile the two conflicting texts despite all efforts. In this situation the Vikalpa principle applies, which says that whichever law is more in consonance with reason and justice should be preferred. However, conflict should not be readily assumed and every effort should be made to reconcile conflicting texts. It is only when all efforts of reconciliation fail that the Vikalpa principle is to be resorted to.

(3) There is a third situation of a conflict Sharma Amodh and this is where there are two conflicting 2014.05.31 11 : 40 I attest to the accuracy and integrity of this document chandigarh CWP-12340-2010 (O&M) irreconcilable texts but one overrides the other because of its greater force. This is called a Badha in the Mimansa system (similar to the doctrine of ultra vires)." It is in the aforesaid context that the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under:--

"52. No doubt ordinarily the literal rule of interpretation should be followed, and hence the Court should neither add nor delete words in a statute. However, in exceptional cases this can be done where not doing so would deprive certain existing words in a statute of all meaning, or some part of the statute may become absurd."

21. He further placed reliance on the case reported in (2008) 4 SCC 755 (Gujarat Urja Vkas Nigam Ltd. Vs. Essar Power Ltd.) and has referred paras 52 and 53 of the aforesaid judgment, which are extracted as under:-

52. No doubt ordinarily the literal rule of interpretation should be followed, and hence the Court should neither add nor delete words in a statute. However, in exceptional cases this can be done where not doing so would deprive certain existing words in a statute of all meaning, or some part of the statute may become absurd.

53. In the chapter on `Exceptional Construction' in his book on `Interpretation of Statutes' Maxwell writes : "Where the language of a statute, in its ordinary meaning and grammatical construction leads to a manifest contradiction of the apparent purpose of the enactment, or to some inconvenience or absurdity, hardship or injustice, presumably not intended, a construction may be put upon it which modifies the meaning of the words, and even the structure of the sentence. This may be done by departing from the rules of grammar, by giving an unusual meaning to particular words, by altering their collocation, by rejecting them altogether, or by interpolating other words, under the influence, no doubt, of an irresistible conviction that the legislature could not possibly have intended what the words signify, and that the modifications thus made are mere corrections of careless language and really give the true meaning."

22. He further placed reliance on the case reported in 1991 (2) SCC 87 (Surjeet Singh Kalra Vs. Union of INdia and another) and has referred para 19 of the aforesaid judgment, which is extracted as under:-

19. True it is not permissible to read words in a statute which are not there, but "where the alternative lies between either supplying by implication words which appear to have been accidentally omitted, or adopting a construction which deprives certain existing words of all meanings, it is permissible to supply the words". Having regard to the context in which a provision appears and, the object of the statute in which the said provision is enacted, the court should construe it in a harmonious way to make it meaningful. An attempt must always be made so to reconcile the relevant provisions as to advance the remedy intended by the statute. [378E-G] Craies Statute Law, 7th Edition, P. 109; Hameedia Hardware Stores V. B. Mohan Lal Sowcar, [1988] 2 SCC 513 at 524-25, and Sirajul Haq Khan & Ors. v. The Sunni Central Board of Waqf,

23. Learned counsel for the petitioner further placed reliance on the case of Hameedia Hardware Stores v. B. Mohan Lal Sowcar, (1988) 2 SCC 513 where it was observed that the court construing a provision should not easily read into words which have not been expressly enacted but having regard to the context in which a provision appears and the object of the statute in which the said provision is enacted. The court should construe it in a harmonious way to make it meaningful. An attempt must always be made so as to reconcile the relevant provisions to advance the remedy intended by the statute.

24. He further placed reliance on the case reported in 1988 (2) SCC 513 (Hamedia Hardware Stores Vs. B. Mohal Lal Sowcar), wherein, it has been held by the Apex Court that object of an statute is a primary goal and, as such, making it meaningful, a harmonious interpretation could be done.

25. He further placed reliance on the case reported in S.C.R (Supreme Court Reports) (Sirjul Haq Khan & Others Vs. The Sunni Central Board of Waqf, U.P. and others). The relevant parts of the aforesaid order read as under:-

It is well settled that in construing the provisions of a statute courts should be slow to adopt a construction which tends to make any part of the statute meaningless or ineffective; an attempt must always be made so to reconcile the relevant provisions as to advance the remedy intended by the statute.

26. On the other hand, countering the aforesaid, Sri Shailendra Kumar Singh learned Chief Standing Counsel-III has very vehemently opposed the contention as has been made by the petitioners in preceding paragraphs. He denied the factual matrix of the case as averred by the petitioners. He submits that overtly there is no mention of the parties to the appeal other than the senior citizen as well as parents as Section 16(1) of the Act, 2007 is evident and, therefore, nothing can be added against the intent of the legislature.

27. Learned Chief Standing Counsel for the State submits that, in fact, it is settled proposition of law that while interpreting the statutes or Acts, there can be iron on the fabric, but cannot change the texture. He submits that, in fact, in the given situation/instant matter, the legislature did not put the word in appeal, which could reveal that the right to appeal is extended to the children, relatives or any other person aggrieved by the order passed under Section 5 of the Act, 2007. He submits that, in fact, had there been any intention of the legislature to accord the right of appeal to such a person other than the senior citizen as well as the parents, there would have been the specific wordings in the appeal itself and, as such, the interpretation of the statute cannot be done by putting a word which has cautiously not been added in the provisions. Adding such a word in Section 16(1) of the Act, 2007 would amount to make a legislation by the Court which was not warranted as to the intent of the legislature.

28. Strengthening his arguments, he has placed reliance on a judgment in Appeal (Civil) No. 2298 of 2001 (Gurudevdatta Vksss Maryadit and others Vs. State of Maharashtra and others), wherein, while passing the order, the Apex Court has specifically held that when the expression/ words of legislative provision are capable to construct the purpose of the provision, a court cannot ignore it and further cannot substitute a different construction as the same would affect the object of the legislation. The relevant paragraph of the aforesaid judgment is quoted hereinunder:-

"Moreover, as the extrinsic material reveals, s.40(3) was intended to be remedial. As far as practicable, s.40(1) and (3) should be construed to promote the objects of the Act. Nevertheless, as I pointed out in Kingston v. Keprose Pty Ltd. [1987 (11) NSWLR 404 at 423], in applying a purposive construction, the function of the court remains one of construction and not legislation. When the express words of a legislative provision are reasonably capable of only one construction and neither the purpose of the provision nor any other provision in the legislation throws doubt on that construction, a court cannot ignore it and substitute a different construction because it furthers the objects of the legislation."

29. Learned counsel has further placed reliance on a case bearing Appeal (Civil) No. 5077 of 1998 (Nasiruddin and others Vs. Sita Ram Agarwal) and has referred the relevant paragraph of the aforesaid judgment, which is extracted as follows:-

The court's jurisdiction to interpret a statute can be invoked when the same is ambiguous. It is well known that in a given case the Court can iron out the fabric but it cannot change the texture of the fabric. It cannot enlarge the scope of legislation or intention when the language of provision is plain and unambiguous. It cannot add or subtract words to a statute or read something into it which is not there. It cannot re-write or recast legislation. It is also necessary to determine that there exists a presumption that the legislature has not used any superfluous words. It is well-settled that the real intention of the legislation must be gathered from the language used. It may be true that use of the expression 'shall or may' is not decisive for arriving at a finding as to whether statute is directory or mandatory. But the intention of the legislature must be found out from the scheme of the Act. It is also equally well-settled that when negative words are used the courts will presume that the intention of the legislature was that the provisions are mandatory in character.

30. Referring the aforesaid judgments, he submits that, in fact, it is settled proposition of law that the 'words', which should have been, but was not provided in the statute cannot be settled by Courts as, by doing so, the same would be otherwise adopting the method of legislation and not a construction.

31. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and going through the record, it emerges that right to appeal under the Act, 2007 is only attributed to the senior citizen and the parents though, as per the provisions of Section 5 of Act, 2007, the order may be passed against the children, relatives or any other person also. Section 5(2)(8) is reiterated as under:-

"(2) The Tribunal may, during the pendency of the proceeding regarding monthly allowance for the maintenance under this section, order such children or relative to make a monthly allowance for the interim maintenance of such senior citizen including parent and to pay the same to such senior citizen including parent as the Tribunal may from time to time direct."

"(8) If, children or relative so ordered fail, without sufficient cause to comply with the order, any such Tribunal may, for every breach of the order, issue a warrant for levying the amount due in the manner provided for levying fines, and may sentence such person for the whole, or any part of each month's allowance for the maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case be, remaining unpaid after the execution of the warrant, to imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month or until payment if sooner made whichever is earlier: Provided that no warrant shall be issued for the recovery of any amount due under this section unless application be made to the Tribunal to levy such amount within a period of three months from the date on which it became due."

32. Question arises that whether there can be an iota of intent of any legislature to leave an aggrieved person remediless, which is wholly against the principle of natural justice and procedure established by law.

33. The interpretation of a statutory enactment is not a mechanical task. It is also not based on mathematical formula. While interpreting an statute, the intent of the legislature is to be discovered. The words used/imbibed in the statute are the foremost reliable source of the meaning and intent of any writing. In fact, the finest guide of the meaning of the 'words' in the matured jurisprudence does not lie only in the dictionary, but the purpose and object of the statute has an impact over there.

34. Though, it is a well settled proposition of law that if the language is plain and unambigous, the same cannot be enlarged or added by way of interpretation of statute. The words in a statute neither can be substracted nor can be added, but even then the intent of legislature is the supreme goal to be achieved/interpreted.

35. So far as the parliamentary debates while enactment of Act, 2007 is concerned, there has been no debate qua Section 16(1) of the Act, 2007. The Section 5(2)(8) specifically enlarges certain obligations/liabilities over the children, relative or any other person and, as such, on the other word, they can be said to be a person aggrieved. There can be no such intent of the legislature so as to exclude the right of appeal to such persons upon whom the liability has been fastened. If Section 5(2) as well as Section 5(8) and Section 16(1) are read with each other, it emerges that as per the aforesaid Section 16(1) right of filing an appeal always remain available to the person other than senior citizen and parents also.

36. In view of the aforesaid discussions, there seems to be an accidental omission while enactment of the statute namely Act, 2007, where under Section 16(1), the right to appeal has only been given to the parents and the senior citizens not to the children, relative or other person. In any legislature of the world, there can be no such discussion or intent to exclude a person, who is aggrieved under the same Act, to file an appeal or to extend any remedy therein. So far as the rule of casus omissus is concerned, it is also a vice-versa as if there is a clear necessity of any provision and that has been omitted, then that is out of purview of the doctrine of casus omissus.

37. Objective of any statute is always to provide more effective provisions so that there could remain no ambiguity. The provisions for the maintenance are for welfare of the parents and the senior citizen and was promulgated for better care of them but, there is another side of the story. Because the maintenance has to be given by some person or institute or a juristic person and if such a maintenance is been granted, some person must be affected and thus, the non mentioning of the words in Section 16(1) is not a casus omissus, but it seems an accidental omission.

38. The rule of purposive interpretation also indicates and establishes that the law is such a thing which has to be applied as a pragmatic instrument for social order. The interpretative effort must be inherent with the statutory purpose.

39. There is a well settled principle that the judge can iron the fabrics but cannot change the texture of statute. There is another aspect of this rule that if texture is itself defective due to accidental omission, then that becomes inefficacious and ineffective, and thus, the role of the courts comes into picture. Many times, in case of accidental omission, the Court by way of applying the rule of purposive interpretation has improved the texture, though, did not change the same.

40. Further, it is also important that there is no provision in the Act denying the right of appeal to the other parties. From perusal of the other provisions of the Act and various sub sections discussed aforesaid indicates that the right to appeal to other parties has accidentally been omitted. Only exception to this course of action is the initial words of sub section (1) of Section 16 of the said Act which need to be supplanted to give a meaning to the intent of the statutes.

41. The identical issue was also dealt with by the Punjab and Haryana High Court in case of Paramjeet Kumar Saroya (supra) as well as in case of Balamurugan (supra) by the Madras High Court and it has been held that if the right to appeal is not been accorded to the children, relatives or any other person then the purpose of the Act, 2007 would be frustrated and rather this would be a denial of right to appeal to the person aggrieved.

42. Thus, this Court is also in agreement with the aforesaid orders and find that the right to appeal to any affected parties is available so far as the purpose of the Act, 2007 is concerned.

43. Therefore, this writ petition is hereby partly allowed. The order dated 24.02.2020 passed by respondent no.1 is set aside. The liberty is granted to the petitioners to file an appeal before the Appellate Court under Section 16 of the Act, 2007 afresh, within a period of 15 days from the date of this order and if such an appeal is filed, the Appellate Authority shall take decision on appeal within a further period of four months after calling objections and affording an opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned.

44. No order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Abdul Moin, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Anupama Bhadauria, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Hemant Kumar Pandey, learned counsel appearing for the respondents no. 3 to 5.

2. Instant petition has been filed praying for the following main reliefs:-

(i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certioari or any other Writ, order or direction of like nature setting aside the impugned order dated 23.08.2021 issued by the Respondent as contained in Annexure No. 1 to this writ petition.

(ii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus or any other writ, order or direction of like nature directing the Respondent to permit the petitioner to join the IIIrd Semester of the M.A English Programme along with Batch of 2020-22 at Lucknow campus, which is running since 08.09.2021.

3. The facts of the case have already been indicated by this Court while passing a detailed order on 05.04.2022 which for the sake of convenience is reproduced below:-

1.Heard.

2. Instant petition has been filed challenging the order dated 23.08.2021 passed by the respondent-University whereby the petitioner has been informed that as per the University ordinance there is no provision for re-registration of any semester of any course.

3. The case set forth by the petitioner is that she had taken admission in the M.A (English) course in the session 2019-21. However, on account of the COVID-19 pandemic which came in India in the year 2020 the petitioner suffered from Psychosis which has resulted in she being unable to appear for the examination in the third semester which was held from August, 2020 to December, 2020. In March, 2021 the petitioner applied to join the third semester of M.A (English) programme which has been turned down by the impugned order dated 23.08.2021, a copy of which is annexure 1 to the writ petition by indicating that as per the University ordinance there is no provision of re-registration of any semester of any course.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner contends that once as per her medical condition which is duly certified by the doctor concerned she could not appear in the third semester, as such there cannot be any reason for not permitting the petitioner to join the third semester and appear for the examinations. In this regard, he has placed reliance on Clause XV (c) of the Ordinances Governing Academic and Administrative Matters (Based on UGC Model Ordinances-2012) of the English and Foreign Languages University, Hyderabad which specifically provides that the students whose admission is cancelled are required to re-register for the programme which can be permitted subject to certain conditions.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner contends that once there is specific provision under the ordinance for re-registration of the students and her inability to join the third semester and appear in the third semester examination was on account of circumstances beyond her control rather on account of her medical conditions which duly finds support from the medical certificate issued by the competent doctor, as such the respondent-University be directed to re-register her for the third semester and to permit her to join the third semester and appear in the said examination.

6. On the other hand, Sri Hemant Kumar Pandey, learned counsel appearing for the University contends that as per Clause 15 (b) of the Ordinance, students who fail in two (50%) courses of a semester will not be promoted to the next semester and their admission stands cancelled. Placing reliance on the averments contained in the counter affidavit, Sri Pandey argues that once admittedly the petitioner did not appear in the third semester examinations which were conducted from August, 2020 to December, 2020 and thereafter the students who did not appear in the said examination were also given a chance to appear again in the examination in January, 2021 and the petitioner not having appeared and taking the said chance, her admission has been cancelled and there would not be any occasion for her re-registration.

7. Having heard the learned counsel appearing for the contesting parties and having perused the records what is prima facie apparent is that the petitioner could not join the third semester and appear in the third semester examinations on account of her medical condition. The admission of the petitioner stood cancelled on account of Clause 15 (b) of the Ordinance. The request of the petitioner for her re-registration has also been rejected by the University through the impugned order dated 23.08.2021 on the ground that there is no provision for re-registration of any semester of any course. However, a perusal of the ordinance would prima facie indicate that there is specific provision in Clause 15 (c) which provides that the students whose admission is cancelled, are required to re-register for the programme and the re-registration can be permitted subject to certain conditions. It is thus apparent that the respondents while issuing the impugned order have not considered Clause 15 (c) of the ordinance.

8. Sri Hemant Kumar Pandey, learned counsel appearing for the University prays for and is granted a week's to seek instructions as to whether the case of the petitioner can be considered under Clause 15 (c) of the Ordinance.

9. As the matter pertains to a student, list this case in the next week for further hearing.

4. Subsequent to the order dated 05.04.2022, Sri Hemant Kumar Pandey had pointed out to the Court that this Court had considered the provision of Clause 15 (b) of the ordinance which pertains to M.A distance education while for the petitioner it is Clause VI (d) of Ordinance 10 of Ordinances Governing Academic and Administrative Matters (hereinafter referred to as "Ordinances") which is applicable which in turn is governed by Clause 10.7 of the 10th Ordinance. This statement was recorded by this Court vide order dated 12.04.2022 which for the sake of convenience is reproduced below:-

"Heard.

At the very outset, Shri Hemant Kumar Pandey, learned counsel appearing for the University contends that inadvertently on the previous date i.e. on 05.04.2022 he had argued the matter on the basis of a wrong provision of the Ordinance in as much as Clause XV (b) of the Ordinance pertains to M.A. (English), Distance Mode while the petitioner was a student of regular mode two years (four semester) course and hence the said clause XV (b) of the Ordinance was not applicable.

The aforesaid statement is recorded.

Shri Pandey contends that the case of the petitioner is governed by clause VI (d) of the Ordinance which does not provide for any re-admission.

However in all fairness, Shri Pandey submits that he may be granted two weeks' time to seek instructions as to whether any sympathetic consideration can be extended to the petitioner by the University so as to save the educational career of the petitioner.

List this case in the week commencing 02.05.2022."

5. Thereafter, the Court had required learned counsel appearing for the respondents to seek instructions as to whether any sympathetic consideration can be extended by the University to the petitioner and in pursuance thereof, Sri Hemant Kumar Pandey, learned counsel appearing for the respondents no. 3 to 5 informs that as the University is a five star rated institution, as such, in case any relaxation is extended to the petitioner, the same would result in dilution of the academic standards of the University and may also be cited as a precedent by other students and accordingly, no sympathetic consideration can be extended by the University to the petitioner. Sri Pandey also submits that considering Clause 10.7 of the 10th Ordinance, a student should not have a backlog of more than two courses/ papers at the beginning of any given semester and that students who accumulate backlog of more than two courses/papers at any point of time will have to exit the programme. He contends that as the petitioner was having a backlog of all the papers, as such considering Clause 10.7 of 10th Ordinance, it is deemed that the petitioner has exited from the programme.

6. On the other hand, learned counsel for the petitioner contends that the situation which rendered the petitioner unable to appear in any of the semester examination for the M.A IIIrd semester was occasioned on account of the unprecedented COVID-19 pandemic which was faced by both, the world at large as well as India. She also contends that a complete lock down had been imposed in the country in March, 2020. It is also contended that on account of the COVID-19 pandemic and resultant stress, the petitioner suffered from Psychosis and was under continuous medical treatment of the doctor concerned from 02.07.2020 till March, 2021 as would be apparent from a perusal of the certificate issued by the doctor, a copy of which has been filed as annexure 7 to the writ petition. She thus contends that even if something adverse is contained in the Ordinance of the University the same does not conceptualize the peculiar situation faced by the students at large and the petitioner in particular and in view of the peculiar situation which prevailed during the COVID-19 pandemic and the medical condition of the petitioner duly certified by the medical doctor, she is entitled for sympathetic consideration by the University.

7. Placing reliance on Section 2 (s) and 2 (zc) of the Rights of Persons with Disabilities Act, 2016 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 2016") along with Section 16 (vii) of the Act, 2016 and the Schedule, learned counsel for the petitioner argues that "Psychosis", which the petitioner was suffering from, is indicated as a disability under the provisions of the Act, 2016 and the University ordinance, which are of a date prior to the Act, 2016, could not have obviously considered the Act, 2016 when the Ordinance were framed in the year 2012 as the Act, 2016 itself has come in the year 2016 and thus the provisions of the Act, 2016 which is a special act, are to be read in the Ordinance also.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner also argues that once the University ordinance contain a specific provision for the M.A (English) Distance Mode and the students who are undergoing M.A (English) Distance Mode are eligible for certain relaxation, as such the said relaxation may also be extended to the petitioner taking into consideration the aforesaid circumstances.

9. Having heard the learned counsel appearing for the contesting parties and having perused the records what is apparent is that the petitioner was a student of M.A English for the Session 2019-21 who regularly appeared in semesters I &II of her course. The semester III examinations were scheduled between August, 2020 to December, 2020 but though the petitioner wanted to participate in the same, she could not participate on account of her medical condition of "Psychosis" as certified by a registered medical practitioner as per the certificate annexed with the petition. As per the said certificate, the treatment of the petitioner was continuing even on the date of issuance of the certificate i.e till March, 2021 meaning thereby that during the period the examinations were scheduled, the petitioner was suffering from "Psychosis".

10. Whether the Act, 2016 is applicable on the medical condition of the petitioner is to be seen initially by the Court.

11. Section 2 (s) of the Act, 2016 reads as under:-

"person with disability" means a person with long term physical, mental, intellectual or sensory impairment which, in interaction with barriers, hinders his full and effective participation in society equally with others".

12. Section 2 (zc) of the Act, 2016 reads as under:-

"specified disability" means the disabilities as specified in the Schedule"

13. Chapter X of the Act, 2016 provides as under:-

"56. Guidelines for assessment of specified disabilities:- The Central Government shall notify guidelines for the purpose of assessing the extent of specified disability in a person.

57. Designation of certifying authorities:- (1) The appropriate Government shall designate persons, having requisite qualifications and experience, as certifying authorities, who shall be competent to issue the certificate of disability.(2) The appropriate Government shall also notify the jurisdiction within which and the terms and conditions subject to which, the certifying authority shall perform its certification functions.

58. Procedure for certification:- (1) Any person with specified disability, may apply, in such manner as may be prescribed by the Central Government, to a certifying authority having jurisdiction, for issuing of a certificate of disability.

(2) On receipt of an application under sub-section (1), the certifying authority shall assess the disability of the concerned person in accordance with relevant guidelines notified under section 56, and shall, after such assessment, as the case may be,--

(a) issue a certificate of disability to such person, in such form as may be prescribed by the Central Government;

(b) inform him in writing that he has no specified disability.

(3) The certificate of disability issued under this section shall be valid across the country.

59. Appeal against a decision of certifying authority:-(1) Any person aggrieved with decision of the certifying authority, may appeal against such decision, within such time and in such manner as may be prescribed by the State Government, to such appellate authority as the State Government may designate for the purpose. (2) On receipt of an appeal, the appellate authority shall decide the appeal in such manner as may be prescribed by the State Government."

14. The schedule to the Act, 2016 so far as it pertains to mental behavior provides as under:-

"3. Mental behaviour,--

"mental illness" means a substantial disorder of thinking, mood, perception, orientation or memory that grossly impairs judgment, behaviour, capacity to recognise reality or ability to meet the ordinary demands of life, but does not include retardation which is a conditon of arrested or incomplete development of mind of a person, specially characterised by subnormality of intelligence."

15. A persual of the aforesaid provisions of the Act, 2016 would indicate that "Psychosis" is not defined under the Act, 2016.

16. For understanding the disease of "Psychosis" with which the petitioner was suffering, the Court has referred to the meaning of "Psychosis" as given in Taber Cyclopedic Medical Dictionary, 19th Edition which read as under:-

"A mental disorder in which there is severe loss of contact with reality, evidenced by delusions, hallucinations, disorganized speech patterns, and bizarre or catatonic behavior. Psychotic disorders are common features of schizophrenia, bipolar disorders, and some affective disorders. They can also result from substance abuse (e.f. the use of hallucinogens), substance withdrawal (e.g delirium tremens), or side effects of some prescription drugs"

17. As per the definition, it is apparent that "Psychosis" is a mental disorder in which there is severe loss of contact with reality, evidenced by delusions, hallucinations, disorganized speech patterns, and bizarre or catatonic behaviors.

18. Section 2 (s) of the Act, 2016 only defines a person with disability as a person with long term physical/ mental or sensory impairment which in interaction with barriers, hinders his full and effective participation in the society meaning thereby that a person with disability would have to have long term illness for the purpose to come under the ambit of Act, 2016. From the medical condition annexed by the petitioner it can be seen that the petitioner was not having any long term mental impairment. However, it was an impairment which precluded and restrained her from appearing in the examination for M.A IIIrd semester which was scheduled from August, 2020 to December, 2020. The said illness is said to have been occasioned on account of COVID-19 pandemic situation.

19. The Courts in India including Hon'ble Supreme Court have considered the effect of COVID-19 pandemic situation by issuing various directions from time to time as would be apparent from a perusal of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of In Re Contagion of Covid 19 Virus in Children Protection Homes reported in 2021 SCC Online SC 3178 wherein the Supreme Court was considering the effect of Pandemic on the children in protection homes.

20. Likewise the Bombay High Court in the case of Court on its own motion Vs. Union of India and Ors reported in (2021) SCC Online Bom 790 has considered the effect of Pandemic with regard to reimbursement of college fees of the student who could not deposit the same on account of Pandemic and economic loss suffered during the said period. The Division Bench of Gujrat High Court in the case of Rahul Sharma Vs. State of Gujrat reported in 2020 SCC Online Guj 2641 has considered the modalities to be adopted for conduct of University examination for academic session 2019-20 which could not be held on account of Pandemic.

21. Likewise, keeping in view the COVID-19 pandemic situation, the University Grant Commission issued academic guidelines in July, 2021 of Examination and Academic Calender wherein it has been provided that in view of the financial hardships being faced by parents due to lockdowns and related factors, a full refund of fees should be made on account of cancellations/migrations of students up to 31.10.2021 as a special case in higher education institutions.

22. Though, none of the aforesaid judgments or Universities Grant Commission guidelines have any direct bearing on the issue yet this Court has indicated about the aforesaid judgments in order to demonstrate that the COVID-19 Pandemic situation and the subsequent lockdown resulted in chaos on a large scale which has affected the population at large including students & their parents, both economically, mentally and otherwise.

23. Though Chapter 10 of the Act, 2016 provides certification of specified disabilities and in the present case, no certificate has been issued yet the fact of the matter would remain that considering the illness of "Psychosis" with which the petitioner was suffering during the relevant period i.e the period in which third semester examinations were scheduled, she could not appear in the examination. The intent of the petitioner is to study further and to complete her M.A English course. The respondents themselves in the Ordinance more particularly Ordinance 9 Clause XV (c) have provided that students of distance education course whose admissions are cancelled are required to re-register for the programme and the re-registration shall be permitted subject to certain conditions. No such provision has been given for regular course students. In the peculiar circumstances as have been spelt out by the petitioner and as have been indicated above by this Court namely the unprecedented COVID-19 pandemic situation along with the medical condition of the petitioner i.e "Psychosis" it would be in the fitness of things that the respondents-University consider the extension of re-registration to the petitioner keeping in view the fact that Ordinance 9 which though pertains to M.A English Distance Mode, provides for a re-registration in certain circumstances.

24. Accordingly, the present petition is disposed of leaving it open to the petitioner to submit a fresh representation indicating her grievance along with certified copy of this order to the Chancellor of the University, i.e respondent no. 2. In case, such a representation is made then the Chancellor of the University shall consider the re-registration of the petitioner and her continuance in M.A (English) course keeping in view the observations made above, sympathetically.

25. Let such a consideration be done within a period of four weeks from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order.

26. It is also provided that as this order has been passed in the peculiar facts of this case as such, it shall not be treated as a precedent.

5. As per the pleadings set forth in the writ petition the petitioner has come up with case that she had passed the Intermediate Examination in the year 2019 conducted by Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Prayagraj and also obtained "B' Certificate of NCC and was awarded "BEE' Grading from the Commandant Officer of NCC on 18.06.2019. Record reveals that the petitioner applied under National Eligibility Cum Entrance Test (NEET) U.G. Counseling-2019 Examination on 05.04.2019 and thereafter, an admit card was an issued in her favour allowing her to participate in the examination so sought to be conducted on 05.05.2019. Perusal of the admit card which is appended at page no. 40 of the writ petition reveals that petitioner applied under unreserved category. In paragraph no. 5 of the writ petition, it has been averred that in the National Eligibility Cum Entrance Test (NEET) U.G. -2019 so conducted on 05.05.2019 the petitioner secured 548 marks out of 720 marks and has been assigned over all rank of 24557 (unreserved category) and the category rank whereof is 14324. The score card of the petitioner in NEET Examinatin-2019 is at page no. 41 of the writ petition wherein the category so assigned to the petitioner is unreserved. The petitioner has further averred in paragraph no. 11 of the writ petition that she got herself registered for counseling in U.P. NEET (U.G.) counseling-2019 and the verification was done and in the Registration Slip of counseling -2019 the category so assigned was unreserved and in the column pertaining to sub category "NCC' was mentioned. At page no. 44 of the petition the document verification card-2019 has been appended wherein the category assigned to the petitioner is unreserved and SUB CATEGORY / PH TYPE it has been mentioned as NA/NA. The petitioner in paragraph no. 4 of the writ petition coupled with the receipt which is at page no. 24 of the writ petition has further come up with stand that the petitioner got admitted in M.B.B.S. course in the Moti

Lal Nehru Medical Collage, Prayagraj on 08.07.2019 in NCC category. However, this Court finds that an e-mail communication was issued from the office of the respondent no. 2 marked to the petitioner on 12.07.2019 requiring the petitioner to furnish the "BEE' Grading certificate along with "C' Certificate of NCC Cadet otherwise the admission of the petitioner will be deemed to be cancelled.

6. Being Aggrieved against the aforesaid communication, the petitioner thereafter, instituted the present petition seeking following reliefs:-

"i. Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondent no. 3 not to cancel the admission of the petitioner in MBBS Course, 2019 in MLN Medical College, Prayagraj on the ground that the she does not possess "C' certificate in NCC Examination.

i(a). To issue writ, order or direction the nature of mandamus directing the respondent to include NCC Cadets having "B" certificate with "B" grade in 1 % horizontal reservation as provided in brochure of NEET (UG) Counseling 2019 issued by Respondent No. 2 (Annexure No. 9 to the writ petition).

ii. Issue any other writ order or direction which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the circumstances of the present case.

iii. Award costs of the writ petition to the petitioner."

7. This Court entertained the present writ petition and on 19.07.2019 proceeded to pass the following order:-

"Petitioner, who is minor has approached this Court through his father seeking following relief :-

"(i) issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondent no.3 to cancel the admission of the petitioner in MBBS Course, 2019 in MLN Medical College, Prayagraj on the ground that she does not possess 'C' certificate in NCC Examination."

Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

Shri Amrendra Pratap Singh, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner submits that the petitioner has been granted admission in MBBS course in the Moti Lal Nehru Medical College, Prayagraj on 8.7.2019 under the horizontal reservation of 1% under the category of "B" grading along with the 'C' certificate of NCC as mentioned in the Brochure of National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET) UG Counselling - 2019. Learned counsel further submits that petitioner has approached this Court earlier by way of filing a Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.21919 of 2019, Jigyasa Tiwari (Minor) vs. State of U.P., which was dismissed by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court on 9.7.2019 on the ground that writ petition was rendered infructuous.

The petitioner is now aggrieved by an E-mail dated 12.7.2019 whereby Director General Medical Education and Training, U.P. has communicated to the College that as the petitioner has not been able to submit 'C' certificate of NCC within the prescribed period, therefore, the admission shall be deemed cancelled in case such certificate is not submitted before 19.7.2019. The said communication is impugned in the present writ petition.

It is further submitted that the petitioner is under graduate student and has passed 'B' certificate of NCC Examination - 2019 with "B" grading. He further submits that the petitioner has repeatedly communicated to the authorities that the eligibility for appearing in "C" certificate of NCC is graduation, and as for, the petitioner has passed only Intermediate Examination and got admission in the MBBS course, she is not eligible for the said "C" certificate of NCC. Therefore, by way of said representation, she has requested to reconsider the issue and permit her to continue the studies of MBBS course in the College.

Learned counsel has also relied upon communication dated 9.5.2013 of the Director General of NCC on the issue of implementation of new TRG Syllabus and NCC an elective subject in order to substantiate his submission that eligibility for 'C' certificate of NCC is graduation.

Matter requires consideration.

Let notice be issued to the respondents.

Steps be taken within a three days.

List this matter on 21.8.2019.

Meanwhile, counter and rejoinder affidavits may be exchanged.

The communication dated 9.5.2013 shall be kept in abeyance till further orders and respondents are directed to allow the petitioner to continue her studies in the MBBS course."

8. The respondents herein being aggrieved against the order dated 19.07.2019 passed in the present writ petition preferred SPECIAL LEAVE PETITION (CIVIL) Diary No(s). 39400/19 before the Hon'ble Apex Court wherein the following order were passed:-

*"Order Date : 25.11.2019

"Delay condoned.

Since the order is interim, we find no ground to interefer with the impugnd order passed by the High court.

However, considering the naturw of the disputes, we request the High Court to decide the matter at an early date, as far as possible within six weeks.

The Special Leave Petition is, accordingly, disposed of.

Pending interlocutory application(s), if any, is/are disposed of."

9. An amendment application has been filed on 09.02.2020 seeking amendment in the prayer clause which came to be allowed on 07.04.2022 wherein the following prayer was added:-

"To issue writ, order or direction the nature of mandamus directing the respondent to include NCC Cadets having "B" certificate with "B" grade in 1 % horizontal reservation as provided in brochure of NEET (UG) Counseling 2019 issued by Respondent No. 2 (Annexure No. 9 to the writ petition)."

10. Counter affidavit has been filed by the respo] ndent no. 2 to which a rejoinder affidavit has been filed by the petitioner. A compilation of judgments and also of a Government Order and Brochure has been filed by respondent no. 2.

Argument of the Petitioner

11. Sri Swapnil Kumar assisted by Sri Amrendra Pratap Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner has made manifold submissions namely:-

(a). The requirement of "C' certificate of NCC along with "BEE' Grading in order to enjoy the desired eligibility for being considered under 1% Horizontal Reservation and not including the "BEE' certificate with "B' Grade is illegal besides being in violation of Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

(b). The petitioner herein had applied in National Eligibility Cum Entrance Test (U.G.) 2019 after qualifying Intermediate Examination and in view of the certificate issued by Lieutenant Colonel Officer Commanding 96 U.P. Bn CC, Jaunpur dated 20.06.2019 addressed to respondent no. 2 as per latest policy for certificate exams in NCC a candidate who is Intermediate pass can only hold a "B' Certificate of NCC and "C' Certificate exams are only awarded in the third year of his/her training implying that cadet should be in Degree collage.

(c). There is no logic in not including "B' certificate with "BEE' Grade of NCC while making it admissible for 1% Horizontal reservation.

(d). Once the petitioner has not played fraud then the respondents are estopped from cancelling the candidature of the petitioner as a student in M.B.B.S. course.

(e). Even otherwise once the petitioner has been accorded interim protection by this Court and she is pursuing M.B.B.S. since year 2019 then she should be allowed to continue as a M.B.B.S. student and awarded degree in that regard.

Argument of Respondents

12. Sri Mahendra Pratap, learned counsel who appears for respondent no. 2 has argued that the petitioner is not entitled for grant of any relief particularly in view of the fact that she was thoroughly ineligible to be granted admission as she had played fraud as she while applying in the National Eligibility Cum Entrance Test had shown her category to be unreserved and even in the admit card and score card she was again shown to be under unreserved category and thereafter, in the Registration Slip for counseling the petitioner portrayed herself to be unreserved having sub category of NCC and when she appeared at Nodal Centre, Prayagraj on 26.06.2019 for document verification and produced NCC "B' provisional certificate issued on 18.06.2019. It has further been argued by the counsel for the respondent no. 2 that at the time of the verification it was found that the petitioner did not possess NCC "C' Certificate consequently, the petitioner had made an application on 26.06.2019 that she may be considered in general category instead of sub category NCC. It has further been argued that after submission of the application by the petitioner for changing her category, her category was changed, document verification card was issued which was signed by the petitioner in the presence of Dr. Anoop Jaiswal, who had verified the same and in the said verification card category of the petitioner was mentioned as unreserved and sub category NA/NA (Not Available). Sri Mahendra Yadav who appears for respondent no. 2, has further made a submission that due to technical fault in the NIC the sub category of the petitioner could not be deleted from the system and subsequently, petitioner came for admission on 08.07.2019 along with the Notary Affidavit dated 06.07.2019 that 10 days time be granted for submitting NCC "C' certificate and then the said discrepancy came to the knowledge of the respondents then on 11.07.2019 the respondent no. 3 informed the respondent no. 2 and thereafter, a decision was taken, providing time till 19.07.2019 for submitting NCC "C' Certificate with "BEE' Grading. In nutshell, the argument of Sri Mahendra Yadav, who appears for respondent no. 2 is that the petitioner has herself committed fraud and concealed material facts and once she was not possessing NCC "C' Certificate with "BEE' Grading then she is not entitled to be considered under the reservation quota pertaining to 1% for NCC Cadet. It has further been emphasised that the communication made by the respondent requiring the petitioner to submit NCC "C' Certificate with "BEE' Grading does not suffer from any illegality and the petitioner does not deserve any sympathy and the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

13. Sri Sharad Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel who appears for respondent no- 1 has adopted the argument of learned counsel for respondent no. 2, while adding that petitioner is not entitled to reliefs as she is thoroughly ineligible and mere continuance on the basis of interim order will not create any right upon her.

Replication on behalf of petitioner

14. Learned counsel for the petitioner have reiterated the argument which he had made at the first instance while arguing the writ petition, however, the same is not being recited as it is nothing but repetition of the argument made at the time of arguing of the writ petition.

Questions of Determination

(1) Whether the petitioner is eligible and enjoys desirable qualification for being considered under 1% quota earmarked for NCC candidates by mode of Horizontal Reservation?

(2) Whether the High Court in the garb of judicial review can adorn the chair of the rule enacting authority to decide the educational qualifications?

(3) Whether the petitioner is entitled to benefit of the interim order so granted by this Court permitting her to pursue the M.B.B.S. course till its terminal destination?

(4) Issue with regard to the conduct of petitioner.

SYMPOSIUM

15. We have heard the submission of the parties and perused the record.

16. Admittedly, the present controversy relates to admission in M.B.B.S. course referable to National Eligibility Cum Entrance Test (NEET) U.G. Counseling-2019 which is governed by a Government Order dated 17.06.2019 issued by the respondent no. 1 addressed to respondent no. 2 setting out the conditions, criteria and the parameters for counseling/admission in M.B.B.S. and B.D.S. courses. It is not in dispute that not only vertical but horizontal reservation has been provided for admission in M.B.B.S. and B.D.S. courses. So far as, Horizontal Reservation is concerned, the present controversy revolves around 1% reservation pertaining to NCC "C' Certificate with "BEE' Grading which qualifies and makes the petitioner entitled for 1% reservation for NCC Cadets. Here in the present case it is also not in dispute that the petitioner happens to be a literate person who as per the Intermediate certificate so attached with the writ petition reveals that she has sufficient knowledge of not only Hindi vernacular but English also.

17. Apart from the same, the examination was to be conducted on 05.05.2019 and the petitioner herein applied on 05.04.2019 and obtained admit card wherein the category shown was unreserved and the said admit card not only contained the photograph of the petitioner but also her signature. Even in the score card so issued after the declaration of the result, reveals that the petitioner was shown under the unreserved category. At the time of the counseling, the petitioner got the Registration Slip for counseling prepared wherein she had shown herself to be in the category admissible to unreserved and in the sub category, NCC was mentioned. Thereafter, when the petitioner appeared at Nodal Centre, Prayagraj on 26.06.2019 then she produced NCC "B' provisional certificate issued on 18.06.2019 and when the same was shown to be insufficient to make her entitled for reservation in question then she wrote a letter dated 26.06.2019 which is at page no. 16 of the counter affidavit filed by the respondent no. 2 requesting that her admission may be considered in general category instead of sub category of NCC. In paragraph no. 11 of the counter affidavit it has been alleged that the petitioner's category was changed, document verification card was issued and the petitioner signed on the said card in the presence of Dr. Anoop Jaiswal which was verified, however, due to technical fault in NIC system, the sub category of the petitioner could not be deleted from the system and thereafter, when the petitioner came for admission on 08.07.2019 along with the notary certificate dated 06.07.2019 then the respondent decided to provide her time till 19.07.2019 for submitting NCC "C' Certificate with "BEE' Grading, as the petitioner obviously did not possess the same, thus, she filed the present petition.

18. Now, a question arises as to whether this Court can hold on the insistence of the petitioner that she is eligible to be granted reservation despite the fact that the petitioner does not have NCC "C' Certificate with "BEE' Grading but instead of the same, she is having "B' Certificate with "BEE' grade.

19. The jurisdiction of the Court to either include a qualification which already does not finds place in the statute or to make it equivalent by judicial fiat is a matter which is being discussed later. Nevertheless, the petitioner is not eligible to be considered under NCC category referable to 1% reservation under Horizontal stream as it is not a case wherein the petitioner was not aware about the desirable qualification/eligibility for being considered under 1% reservation for NCC Cadet and further, it is also not a case that the petitioner was not a literate person, however, rather to the contrary the petitioner with her open eyes had filled up the form and thus, any type of excuse is thoroughly unwarranted and the same cannot grant any aid or benefit for the petitioner.

20. Sri Swapnil Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that may be the petitioner did not possess NCC "C' Certificate with "BEE' Grading, however, in view of the amendments so sought in the writ petition a mandamus can obviously be issued to the respondents to include the NCC Cadet having "B' Certificate with "BEE' grading for 1% Horizontal Reservation. Elaborating the said submission, learned counsel for the petitioner has drawn the attention of the Court towards the communication dated 20.06.2019 issued under the signature of Lieutenant Colonel Officer Commanding U.P. NCC, Jaunpur to the respondent no. 2 at page no. 38 of the writ petition so as to contend that a student who had passed Intermediate can only get "B' Certificate of NCC and "C' Certificate of NCC is admissible and is only issued to a student who is pursuing studies in Degree college.

21. We have analysed the argument of the learned counsel for the petitioner, however, we find our inability to subscribe to the same for the simple reason that prescription of a qualification it is essentially and primarily a role reserved for the employer and it is not for the Court while exercising its jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India to arrogate to itself that function.

22. Additionally, we may also taken note of the fact that the Government Order dated 17.06.2019 as well as in the Brochure in question the eligibility to appear in National Eligibility Cum Entrance Test (NEET) U.G. Counseling-2019 extends to a larger magnitude wherein the zone of consideration encompasses candidates who not only appear in qualifying standard examination i.e. 12th standard 2019 results are awaited but also to those applicants who have completed their graduation courses from a Degree Collages.

23. Thus, the argument of the petitioner is that mere possession of "B' Certificate of NCC Cadets is sufficient to make her eligible for being granted reservation under NCC quota is patently misconceived as well as misplaced and out of context. Moreover, once a qualification and eligibility is prescribed then until and unless it is said to be arbitrary of violative of any of the provisions contained under the Constitution of India, the same cannot be said to be either ultra-vires or illegal and set aside or made equivalent as sought to be insisted by the petitioner.

24. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of J. Rangaswamy vs. Government of Andhra Pradesh reported in (1990) 1 SCC 288, has observed as under:

"6. So far as the second plea is concerned, admittedly, the petitioner does not have, while the respondent has, a doctorate in nuclear physics. The plea of the petitioner is that, for efficient discharge of the duties of the post in question, the diploma in radiological physics (as applied in Medicine) from the Bhabha Atomic Research center (BARC) held by him is more relevant than a doctorate in nuclear physics. It is submitted that in all corresponding posts elsewhere, a diploma in radiological physics is insisted upon and that, even in the State of Andhra Pradesh, all other physicists working in the line, except the respondent, have the diploma of the BARC. It is not for the Court to consider the relevance of qualifications prescribed for various posts. The post in question is that of a Professor and the prescription of a doctorate as a necessary qualification therefor is nothing unusual. Petitioner also stated before us that, to the best of his knowledge, there is no doctorate course anywhere in India in radiological physics. That is perhaps why a doctorate in nuclear physics has been prescribed. There is nothing prima facie preposterous about this requirement. It is not for us to assess the comparative merits of such a doctorate and the BARC diploma held by the petitioner and decide or direct what should be the qualifications to be prescribed for the post in question. It will be open to the petitioner, if so advised, to move the college, university, Government, Indian Medical Council or other appropriate authorities for a review of the prescribed qualifications and we hope that, if a doctorate in nuclear physics is so absolutely irrelevant for the post in question as is sought to be made out by the petitioner, the authorities concerned will take expeditious steps to revise the necessary qualifications needed for the post appropriately. But, on the qualifications as they stand today, the petitioner is not eligible to the post and cannot legitimately complain against his non-selection."

25. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Delhi Pradesh Registered Medical Practitioners vs. Director of Health, Delhi Admn. Services and others, reported in (1997) 11 SCC 687, has observed as under:

"5. ... It is not necessary for this Court to consider such submissions because the same remains in the realm of policy decision of other constitutional functionaries. We may also indicate here that what constitutes proper education and requisite expertise for a practitioner in Indian Medicine, must be left to the proper authority having requisite knowledge in the subject. As the decision of the Delhi High Court is justified on the face of legal position flowing from the said Central Act of 1970, we do not think that any interference by this Court is called for. These appals therefore are dismissed without any order as to costs."

26. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Rajasthan and others vs. Lata Arun, reported in (2002) 6 SCC 252, has observed as under:

"13. From the ration of the decisions noted above it is clear that the prescribed eligibility qualification for admission to a course or for recruitment to or promotion in service are matters to be considered by the appropriate authority. it is not for courts to decide whether a particular educational qualification should or should not be accepted as equivalent to the qualification prescribed by the authority."

27. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of P.U. Joshi and others vs. Union of India and others, reported in (2003) 2 SCC 632, has observed as under:

"10. We have carefully considered the submissions made on behalf of both parties. Questions relating to the constitution, pattern, nomenclature of posts, cadres, categories, their creation/abolition, prescription of qualifications and other conditions of service including avenues of promotions and criteria to be fulfilled for such promotions pertain to the field of Policy and within the exclusive discretion and jurisdiction of the State, subject, of course, to the limitations or restrictions envisaged in the Constitution of India and it is not for the Statutory Tribunals, at any rate, to direct the Government to have a particular method of recruitment or eligibility criteria or avenues of promotion or impose itself by substituting its views for that of the State. Similarly, it is well open and within the competency of the State to change the rules relating to a service and alter or amend and vary by addition/ substruction the qualifications, eligibility criteria and other conditions of service including avenues of promotion, from time to time, as the administrative exigencies may need or necessitate. Likewise, the State by appropriate rules is entitled to amalgamate departments or bifurcate departments into more and constitute different categories of posts or cadres by undertaking further classification, bifurcation or amalgamation as well as reconstitute and restructure the pattern and cadres/categories of service, as may be required from time to time by abolishing existing cadres/posts and creating new cadres/posts. There is no right in any employee of the State to claim that rules governing conditions of his service should be forever the same as the one when he entered service for all purposes and except for ensuring or safeguarding rights or benefits already earned, acquired or accrued at a particular point of time, a Government servant has no right to challenge the authority of the State to amend, alter and bring into force new rules relating to even an existing service."

28. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sanjay Kumar Manjul vs. Chairman, UPSC and others, reported in (2006) 8 SCC 42, has observed as under:

"25. The statutory authority is entitled to frame statutory rules laying down terms and conditions of service as also the qualifications essential for holding a particular post. It is only the authority concerned who can take ultimate decision therefor.

27. It is well-settled that the superior courts while exercising their jurisdiction under Articles 226 or 32 of the Constitution of India ordinarily do not direct an employer to prescribe a qualification for holding a particular post."

29. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Maharashtra Public Service Commission vs. Sandeep Shriram Warade and others, reported in (2019) 6 SCC 362, has observed as under:

"9. The essential qualifications for appointment to a post are for the employer to decide. The employer may prescribe additional or desirable qualifications, including any grant of preference. It is the employer who is best suited to decide the requirements a candidate must possess according to the needs of the employer and the nature of work. The court cannot lay down the conditions of eligibility, much less can it delve into the issue with regard to desirable qualifications being at par with the essential eligibility by an interpretive re-writing of the advertisement. Questions of equivalence will also fall outside the domain of judicial review. If the language of the advertisement and the rules are clear, the Court cannot sit in judgment over the same. If there is an ambiguity in the advertisement or it is contrary to any rules or law the matter has to go back to the appointing authority after appropriate orders, to proceed in accordance with law. In no case can the Court, in the garb of judicial review, sit in the chair of the appointing authority to decide what is best for the employer and interpret the conditions of the advertisement contrary to the plain language of the same."

30. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Punjab National Bank Vs. Anit Kumar Das, 2020 SCC Online SC 897 has observed as under:

"21. Thus, as held by this Court in the aforesaid decisions, it is for the employer to determine and decide the relevancy and suitability of the qualifications for any post and it is not for the Courts to consider and assess. A greater latitude is permitted by the Courts for the employer to prescribe qualifications for any post. There is a rationale behind it. Qualifications are prescribed keeping in view the need and interest of an Institution or an Industry or an establishment as the case may be. The Courts are not fit instruments to assess expediency or advisability or utility of such prescription of qualifications....."

(Emphasis supplied by us) "

31. Even the Hon'ble Apex Court has gone to the extent that equivalence of qualification is also not the subject matter or scope of judicial interference. In the case of Zahoor Ahmad Rather and others vs. Sheikh Imtiyaz Ahmad and others, reported in (2019)2 SCC 404, the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as under:

"26. ... The prescription of qualifications for a post is a matter of recruitment policy. The state as the employer is entitled to prescribe the qualifications as a condition of eligibility. It is no part of the role or function of judicial review to expand upon the ambit of the prescribed qualifications. Similarly, equivalence of a qualification is not a matter which can be determined in exercise of the power of judicial review. Whether a particular qualification should or should not be regarded as equivalent is a matter for the state, as the recruiting authority, to determine. The decision in Jyoti KK turned on a specific statutory rule under which the holding of a higher qualification could pre-suppose the acquisition of a lower qualification. The absence of such a rule in the present case makes a crucial difference to the ultimate outcome. In this view of the matter, the Division Bench of the High Court was justified in reversing the judgment of the learned Single Judge and in coming to the 10 id at page 177 conclusion that the appellants did not meet the prescribed qualifications. We find no error in the decision of the Division Bench.

27. While prescribing the qualifications for a post, the State, as employer, may legitimately bear in mind several features including the nature of the job, the aptitudes requisite for the efficient discharge of duties, the functionality of a qualification and the content of the course of studies which leads up to the acquisition of a qualification. The state is entrusted with the authority to assess the needs of its public services. Exigencies of administration, it is trite law, fall within the domain of administrative decision making. The state as a public employer may well take into account social perspectives that require the creation of job opportunities across the societal structure. All these are essentially matters of policy. Judicial review must tread warily. That is why the decision in Jyoti KK must be understood in the context of a specific statutory rule under which the holding of a higher qualification which presupposes the acquisition of a lower qualification was considered to be sufficient for the post. It was in the context of specific rule that the decision in Jyoti KK turned."

32. Yet in one of the recent decisions, the Supreme Court in Kaloji Narayana Rao University of Health Sciences v. Srikeerti Reddi Pingle and others, AIR 2021 SC 1031 has held as under:

"14. A careful reading of the said provision discloses that the MCI emphasized that the candidate should have undergone study at the 10+2 stage, (or in the intermediate course) in the specified subjects of Physics, Chemistry and Biology/Bio-technology. In this case, the certificate relied upon by the student7 merely clarifies that she undertook a course whilst in the 10th grade. That, by no means, is sufficient to fall within the description of "equivalent" qualification under Regulation 4(2)(f). Nor, in the opinion of this court, can it be deemed adequate having regard to the letter of the Assistant Principal of Conrad High School8 that the AP course in Biological Sciences is of college standard.

15. In the opinion of this court, there is a rationale and compelling logic on the part of the University to say that the candidate should have studied biology or biological sciences (apart from the other two science subjects, along with the further requirement of having studied English) in all the relevant years during the intermediate or at 10+2 level. Further, the reference to having studied in the first year in a degree course, at the college level with the said subject, carries with it, the implication that the student would have necessarily undergone academic study and training in the said three subjects at the 10+2 or intermediate level (without which, admission in a degree course is inconceivable in India). The further emphasis onhaving attended or undertaken practical lessons, (again at that level, in each of the concerned years) clearly signifies that a candidate should have undergone study in those subjects for the last two years at school or intermediate college level. The regulation is further clear that the examination score (marks) in Mathematics shall not be taken into consideration for the purpose of admission to a medical course, in reckoning merit or performance in the qualifying examination.

19. It is apparent that the High Court followed its previous judgment, and did not closely scrutinize the equivalence certificate or the subject stipulations. It also appears to have been largely influenced by the fact that the candidate was in fact admitted by the University. In the opinion of this court, the construction placed on Regulation 4(2), i.e., that each of the sub clauses (a) to (f) prescribes independent qualifications which should be deemed essential, is rather simplistic. That interpretation ignores the fact that each of the sub-clauses insists that certain subjects should have been studied, and practical examinations attempted at the 10+2 or equiv- alent level. Secondly, the college or intermediate examination [or equivalent qualifi- cations under Regulation 4(2)(f)] cannot be read in isolation, having regard to the cir- cumstances. The provision must be read in the context of the requirements for eligi- bility under Regulations 4(2)(a) to (e). The equivalence in qualification is not merely at the level of a 10+2 requirement, i.e., that the candidate should have passed an ex- amination equivalent to the intermediate science examination at an Indian Uni- versity/ Board. Additional to this requirement, Regulation 4(2)(f) requires equiva- lence in "standard and scope' in an examination where the candidate is tested in Phys- ics, Chemistry and Biology including practical testing in these subjects, along with English. These subject matter requirements are consistent across Regulations 4(2)(a) to (e) and (f).

22. For these reasons, this court is of the opinion that the interpretation placed up- on the regulations in both the cited cases, by the Madras High Court, do not reflect the correct position. To be eligible, the candidate should produce clear and categorical material to show that she underwent the necessary years of study in all the stipulated subjects. This court is of the opinion that such stipulations are to be regarded as essential, given that the course in question, i.e., MBBS primarily if not predominantly, involves prior knowledge - both theoretical and practical, of senior secondary level in biology or biological sciences."

33. In Special Appeal (D) No. 122 of 2015, Amit Tiwari vs. State of U.P decided on 11.02.2015, this Court has observed as under:

"We are unable to accept the submission. The ICAR has indicated in a broad sense the undergraduate degrees in Agriculture. Among them are also included degrees in Forestry, Home Science, Horticulture, Fisheries Science, Food Science, Veterinary Science and Dairy Technology. If the submission of the appellants were to be accepted, all those degrees also would have to be regarded as equivalent to a Bachelor's Degree in Agriculture. That apart, the view expressed by the Govind Ballabh Pant, University of Agriculture and Technology on 5 November 2014 is what it purports to be namely an opinion. A matter of equivalence cannot be concluded on the basis of such an opinion. The essential issue is whether the Commission, after evaluating the syllabus was justified in holding that the degree of B.Tech in Agricultural Engineering is not equivalent to a Bachelor's Degree in Agriculture. We see no reason to fault that decision, particularly having regard to the fact that the matter was already governed by the earlier judgment of the Division Bench rendered on 1 February 2012 as noted above. "

34. A Full Bench decision in Deepak Singh and others vs. State of U.P. and others, (2020) AllLJ 596, this Court has held as under:

"19. The State Government, while prescribing the essential qualifications or desirable qualifications are best suited to decide the requirements for selecting a candidate for nature of work required by the State Government and the courts are precluded from laying down the conditions of eligibility. If the language in the Rules is clear judicial review cannot be used to decide what is best suited for the employer."

35. Recently, in the case of Anand Bihari vs. State of U.P. being Writ-A No. 15873 of 2021, decided on 9.11.2021, this Court has held as under:

"13. In the case of P.V. Joshi And Others Vs. Accountant General, Ahemdabad And Others 2003 (2) SCC 632 the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"10.We have carefully considered the submissions made on behalf of both parties. Questions relating to the constitution, pattern, nomenclature of posts, cadres, categories, their creation/abolition, prescription of qualifications and other conditions of service including avenues of promotions and criteria to be fulfilled for such promotions pertain to the field of Policy and within the exclusive discretion and jurisdiction of the State, subject, of course, to the limitations or restrictions envisaged in the Constitution of India and it is not for the Statutory Tribunals, at any rate, to direct the Government to have a particular method of recruitment or eligibility criteria or avenues of promotion or impose itself by substituting its views for that of the State. Similarly, it is well open and within the competency of the State to change the rules relating to a service and alter or amend and vary by addition/substruction the qualifications, eligibility criteria and other conditions of service including avenues of promotion, from time to time, as the administrative exigencies may need or necessitate. Likewise, the State by appropriate rules is entitled to amalgamate departments or bifurcate departments into more and constitute different categories of posts or cadres by undertaking further classification, bifurcation or amalgamation as well as reconstitute and restructure the pattern and cadres/categories of service, as may be required from time to time by abolishing existing cadres/posts and creating new cadres/posts. There is no right in any employee of the State to claim that rules governing conditions of his service should be forever the same as the one when he entered service for all purposes and except for ensuring or safeguarding rights or benefits already earned, acquired or accrued at a particular point of time, a Government servant has no right to challenge the authority of the State to amend, alter and bring into force new rules relating to even an existing service."

36. In view of the proposition of law, so culled out by the Hon'ble Apex Court and this Court in the decisions so referred to above, this Court finds its inability to subscribe to the arguments of the counsel for the petitioner, as this Court cannot usurp the functions of either the rule enacting authority or the employer while substituting its own view while including a qualification, which does not find its presence either in the statute or the rule.

37. Another issue, which need to be addressed and taken note of is the fact that the petitioner is continuing to pursue her MBBS course on the strength of the interim order passed in the present writ petition on 19.7.2019 allowing her to continue her study in MBBS course.

38. According to learned counsel for the petitioner, the petitioner herein has completed approximately three years of her MBBS course and the course itself is of 4 and ½ years and approximately, 1 and ½ years are left and thereafter, the petitioner has to undergo internship for a period of one year, thus she is entitled to be bestowed with the judicial blessings in the shape of equity.

39. Elaborating the said submission, Sri Swapnil Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioner has made submissions that petitioner is a young and a bright student, who is pursuing her MBBS course and in case, onslaught of dismissal is passed on to her, then the same will ruin her academic career and she will be in precarious situation.

40. Sri Mahendra Yadav, as well as the learned Standing Counsel have vehemently opposed the submissions and have argued that in the matter of admission, sympathy is not to be resorted to, as the same partakes to a character being misplaced sympathy and according to learned counsel for the respondents, present writ petition is liable to be dismissed and merely because, the petitioner is pursuing her MBBS course on the basis of interim order, the same will be of no avail to her.

41. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Guru Nanak Dev University Vs. Parminder Kumar Bansal, reported in (1993) 4 SCC 401 had an occasion to consider the issue relating to admission to internship course by virtue of interim orders passed by Courts of law and in paragraph 5, 6 and 7, the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as under: -

"5. Sri Gambhir, learned Counsel for the University says that the very implication of the idea of regularisation contained within it the promise that the initial admission itself was irregular. He submitted that the University was confronted with a fait-accompli by virtue of interlocutory orders. The final order in the writ petition did no more than validate and perpetuate the interlocutory error without any pronouncement on or adjudication of the basic issues of eligibility. Sri Gambhir aired a serious grievance that this type of orders would introduce an element of indiscipline in academic life and expose the system to ridicule and render any meaningful control of academic work impossible. He relied upon certain pronouncements of this Court to support his contention that in academic matters courts should be vary in directing the admissions to colleges by means of interim directions which would create complications later and expose even the beneficiaries of such orders to, difficulties when the final adjudication goes against them.

6. Learned Counsel for the respondents, however, sought to maintain that the two candidates had now completed the 12 months of their internship and it would be hard on them if their internship is reckoned from the date of the passing the M.B.B.S. examination.

7. Sri Gambhir is right in his submission. We are afraid that this kind of administration of interlocutory remedies, more guided by sympathy quite often wholly misplaced, does no service to anyone. From the series of orders that keep coming before us in academic matters, we find that loose, ill-conceived sympathy masquerades as interlocutory justice exposing judicial discretion to the criticism of degenerating into private benevolence. This is subversive of academic discipline, or whatever is left of it, leading to serious impasse in academic life. Admissions cannot be ordered without regard to the eligibility of the candidates. Decisions on matters relevant to be taken into account at the interlocutory stage cannot be deferred or decided later when serious complications might ensue from the interim order itself. In the present case, the High Court was apparently moved by sympathy for the candidates than by an accurate assessment of even the prima facie legal position. Such orders cannot be allowed to stand. The Courts should not embarrass academic authorities by itself taking over their functions."

42. Nonetheless, the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Bihar vs. Upendra Narayan Singh, (2009) 5 SCC 65, in paragraph-51 has observed as under: -

"Notwithstanding the critical observations made in Delhi Development Horticulture Employees Union v. Delhi Administration, Delhi and Ors. (supra) and State of U.P. and Ors. v. U.P. State Law Officers Association and Ors. (supra), illegal employment market continued to grow in the country and those entrusted with the power of making appointment and those who could pull strings in the corridors of power manipulated the system to ensure that their favourites get employment in complete and contemptuous disregard of the equality clause enshrined in Article 16 of the Constitution and Section 4 of the 1959 Act. However, the Courts gradually realized that unwarranted sympathy shown to the progenies of spoil system has eaten into the vitals of service structure of the State and public bodies and this is the reason why relief of reinstatement and/or regularization of service has been denied to illegal appointees/backdoor entrants in large number of cases -- Director, Institute of Management Development, U.P. v. 43. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Priya Gupta Vs. State of Chhattisgarh and others, (2012) 7 SCC 433 has held as under:

"67. The admission of the appellants was cancelled by the State Government which, even under the Rules, is the final competent authority for such purposes. In the present case, the mischief played by the concerned persons came to the notice of the Central Government which directed cancellation of the seats and required the State Government to act in accordance with law.

69. It was also argued with some emphasis that the appellants are not at fault. They had taken the entrance examination and were given seats by the concerned authorities. Even if the authorities have committed some irregularity, the appellants should not be made to suffer at the very end of their professional course. To substantiate this premise, they relied upon the judgments of this Court in the cases of A. Sudha v. University of Mysore & Anr. (1987) 4 SCC 537, Amandeep Jaswal v. State of Punjab (2006) 9 SCC 597, R. Vishwanatha Pillai v. State of Kerala & Ors. (2004) 2 SCC 105 and Chowdhary Navin Hemabhai & Ors. v. The State of Gujarat & Ors. (2011) 3 SCC 617.

70. We have perused the judgments of this Court relied upon by the petitioners. Firstly, they were delivered on their own facts and the Court has not stated any absolute principle of law, which would operate as a valid and binding precedent. Secondly, in all these cases, the Court had returned the finding that other authorities or rule-making bodies concerned were at fault and not the students. In the case of Chowdhary Navin Hemabhai (supra), the Court had noticed that the fault was of the rule making authority in not formulating the State Rules, 2008 in conformity with the Medical Council of India Regulations, while in the case of A. Sudha (supra), the Court found that the Principal of the institute was at fault and he had made incorrect statements in writing, which were acted upon by the students bona fide.

71. In the present case, we have no doubt in our mind that the fault is attributed to all the stakeholders involved in the process of admission, i.e., the concerned Ministry of the Union of India, Directorate of Medical Education in the State of Chhattisgarh, the Dean of the Jagdalpur College and all the three Members of the Committee which granted admission to both the appellants on 30th September, 2006. But the students are also not innocent. They have certainly taken advantage of being persons of influence. The father of the Appellant No. 2, Akansha Adile was the Director of Medical Education, State of Chhattisgarh at the relevant time and as noticed above, the entire process of admission was handled through the Directorate. The students well knew that the admissions can only be given on the basis of merit in the entrance test and they had not ranked so high that they were entitled to the admission on that basis alone. In fact, they were also aware of the fact that no other candidate had been informed and that no one was present due to non-intimation. Out of favouritism and arbitrariness, they had been given admission by completing the entire admission process within a few hours on 30th September, 2006.

72. Balancing of equities by the Court itself is inequitable. Some party or the other would suffer a set back or adverse consequence from the order of the Court. On the one hand, if admissions are cancelled, the students who have practically completed their MBBS course would lose their professional education as well as nearly five years of their life spent in such education. If their admissions are protected, then the standard of education, the merit of the candidates and the desirability of the persons of higher merit becoming doctors is negated. The best solution to such problems is strict adherence to the time schedule, procedure for selection/admission and strict observance of the Medical Council of India Regulations, by all concerned. Once these factors are adhered to, not only would such situation not arise, but also it will prevent avoidable litigation before the Courts. The persons who violate the time schedule to grant admissions in an arbitrary manner and by colourable exercise of power, who are not adhering to Medical Council of India Regulations and the judgments of this Court, should be dealt with strictly by punishment in accordance with law, to prevent such mischief from repeating. In the present case, we are informed that the students have already sat for their final examination and are about to complete their courses. Even if we have to protect their admissions on the ground of equity, they cannot be granted such relief except on appropriate terms. By their admissions, firstly, other candidates of higher merit have been denied admission in the MBBS course. Secondly, they have taken advantage of a very low professional college fee, as in private or colleges other than the government colleges, the fee payable would be Rs.1,95,000/- per year for general admission and for management quota, the fee payable would be Rs.4,00,000/- per year, but in government colleges, it is Rs.4,000/- per year. So, they have taken a double advantage. As per their merit, they obviously would not have got admission into the Jagdalpur College and would have been given admission in private colleges. The ranks that they obtained in the competitive examination clearly depict this possibility, because there were only 50 seats in the Jagdalpur College and there are hundreds of candidates above the appellants in the order of merit. They have also, arbitrarily and unfairly, benefitted from lower fees charged in the Jagdalpur College.

73. On the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, though we find no legal or other infirmity in the judgment under appeal, but to do complete justice between the parties within the ambit of Article 142 of the Constitution of India, we would permit the appellants to complete their professional courses, subject to the condition that each one of them pay a sum of Rs.5 lakhs to the Jagdalpur College, which amount shall be utilized for developing the infrastructure in the Jagdalpur College.

74. We have not and should not be even understood to have stated any precedent for the cases like grant of admission and leave to complete the course like the appellants in the present case.

75. We are imposing heavy costs upon these appellants to ensure that such admissions are neither accepted nor granted leave to complete their medical courses in future.

78.4 With all the humility at our command, we request the High Courts to ensure strict adherence to the prescribed time schedule, process of selection and to the rule of merit. We reiterate what has been stated by this Court earlier, that except in very exceptional cases, the High Court may consider it appropriate to decline interim orders and hear the main petitions finally, subject to convenience of the Court. We may refer the dictum of this Court in the case of Medical Council of India v. Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences (2004) 6 SCC 76, para 14 in this regard.

78.5. We have categorically returned a finding that all the relevant stakeholders have failed to perform their duty/obligation in accordance with law. Where the time schedules have not been complied with, and rule of merit has been defeated, there nepotism and manipulation have prevailed. The stands of various authorities are at variance with each other and none admits to fault. Thus, it is imperative for this Court to ensure proper implementation of judgments of this Court and the regulations of the Medical Council of India as well as not to overlook the arbitrary and colourable exercise of power by the authorities/colleges concerned."

44. Yet in the case of Asha vs. Pt. B.D. Sharma University of Health Sciences and others, reported in (2012) 7 SCC 389, the Hon'ble Court has held as under:

"39. With all humility, we reiterate the request that we have made to all the High Courts in Priya Gupta's case (supra) that the courts should avoid giving interim orders where admissions are the matter of dispute before the Court. Even in case where the candidates are permitted to continue with the courses, they should normally be not permitted to take further examinations of the professional courses. The students who pursue the courses under the orders of the Court would not be entitled to claim any equity at the final decision of the case nor should it weigh with the courts of competent jurisdiction."

45. Recently in the case of S Krishna Shradha vs State of Andhra Pradesh and others, (2020) 17 SCC 465, this Court has observed as under: -

"13.1. That in a case where candidate/student has approached the court at the earliest and without any delay and that the question is with respect to the admission in medical course all the efforts shall be made by the concerned court to dispose of the proceedings by giving priority and at the earliest.

13.2. Under exceptional circumstances, if the court finds that there is no fault attributable to the candidate and the candidate has pursued his/her legal right expeditiously without any delay and there is fault only on the part of the authorities and/or there is apparent breach of rules and regulations as well as related principles in the process of grant of admission which would violate the right of equality and equal treatment to the competing candidates and if the time schedule prescribed - 30 th September, is over, to do the complete justice, the Court under exceptional circumstances and in rarest of rare cases direct the admission in the same year by directing to increase the seats, however, it should not be more than one or two seats and such admissions can be ordered within reasonable time, i.e., within one month from 30th September, i.e., cut off date and under no circumstances, the Court shall order any Admission in the same year beyond 30 th October. However, it is observed that such relief can be granted only in exceptional circumstances and in the rarest of rare cases. In case of such an eventuality, the Court may also pass an order cancelling the admission given to a candidate who is at the bottom of the merit list of the category who, if the admission would have been given to a more meritorious candidate who has been denied admission illegally, would not have got the admission, if the Court deems it fit and proper, however, after giving an opportunity of hearing to a student whose admission is sought to be cancelled.

13.3. In case the Court is of the opinion that no relief of admission can be granted to such a candidate in the very academic year and wherever it finds that the action of the authorities has been arbitrary and in breach of the rules and regulations or the prospectus affecting the rights of the students and that a candidate is found to be meritorious and such candidate/student has approached the court at the earliest and without any delay, the court can mould the relief and direct the admission to be granted to such a candidate in the next academic year by issuing appropriate directions by directing to increase in the number of seats as may be considered appropriate in the case and in case of such an eventuality and if it is found that the management was at fault and wrongly denied the admission to the meritorious candidate, in that case, the Court may direct to reduce the number of seats in the management quota of that year, meaning thereby the student/students who was/were denied admission illegally to be accommodated in the next academic year out of the seats allotted in the management quota.

13.4. Grant of the compensation could be an additional remedy but not a substitute for restitutional remedies. Therefore, in an appropriate case the Court may award the compensation to such a meritorious candidate who for no fault of his/her has to lose one full academic year and who could not be granted any relief of admission in the same academic year.

13.5. It is clarified that the aforesaid directions pertain for Admission in MBBS Course only and we have not dealt with Post Graduate Medical Course."

46. Noticing the above mentioned judgment, this Court finds that it is a consistent law right from the very inception that Courts in the rarest of rare case can grant interim protection in the admission matters, when they are convinced that no injustice would be meted to the other party and the petitioner, who has approached the Court for grant of interim protection in admission matter has an cast iron case. In other words, the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed that in the admission matters misplaced sympathy is totally unwarranted.

47. Now another question arises as to whether this Court can issue a direction, which runs contrary to a statute implying that the respondents are to disobey the statute. The Hon'ble Apex Court in para 10 in the case of A.P. Christians Medical Educational Society Vs. Government of Andhra Pradesh and another (1986) 2 SCC 667 has observed as under :-

"We cannot by our fiat direct the University to disobey the statute to which it owes its existence and the regulations made by the University itself. We cannot imagine anything more destructive of the rule of law than a direction by the court to disobey the laws."

48. Further the Hon'ble Apex court in the case of V.K. Sood Vs. Secretary, Civil Aviation and others, AIR 1993 SC 2285, this Court in paragraph-6 and 7 held as under:

"6. Thus it would be clear that, in the exercise of the rule making power, the president or authorised person is entitled to prescribe method of recruitment, qualifications both educational as well as technical for appointment or conditions of service to an office or a post under the State. The rules thus having been made in exercise of' the power under proviso to Art. 309 of the Constitution, being Statutory, cannot he impeached on the ground that the authorities have prescribed tailor made qualifications to suit the stated individuals whose names have been mentioned in the appeal. Suffice to state that it is settled law that no motives can be attributed to the Legislature in making the law. The rules prescribed qualifications for eligibility and the suitability of the appellant would be tested by the Union Public Service Commission.

7. It is next contended that several persons whose names have been copiously mentioned in the appeal were not qualified to hold the post of examiner and they were not capable even to set the test papers to the examiners nor capable to evaluate the papers. We are not called upon to decide the legality of their appointments nor their credentials in this appeal as that question does not arise nor are they before the court. It is next contended by Mr. Yogeshwar Prasad, the learned Senior counsel that on account of inefficiency in the pilots' operational Capability repeatedly air accidents have been occurring endangering the lives of innocent travellers and this Court should regulate the prescription of higher qualifications and strict standard to the navigators or to the pilots be instead on. We are afraid that we cannot enter into nor undertake the responsibility in that behalf'. It is for the expert body and this Court does not have the assistance of experts. Moreover it is for the rule making authority or for the legislature to regulate the method of recruitment, prescribe qualifications etc. It is open to the President or the authorized person to undertake such exercise and that necessary tests should be conducted by U.P.S.C. before giving, the certificates to them. This is not the province of this Court to trench into and prescribe qualifications in particular when the matters are of the technical nature. It is stated in the counter affidavit that due to advancement of technology of the flight aviations the navigators are no longer required and therefore they are not coming in large number. Despite the repeated advertisements no suitable candidate is coming forward, We do not go into fault aspect also and it is not necessary for the purpose of this case. Suffice to state that pursuant to another advertisement made in July 1992, the appellant is stated to have admittedly applied for and appeared before the U.P.S.C. for selection and that he is awaiting the result thereof. Under these circumstances. we do not find any substance in this appeal. The appeal is accordingly dismissed. No costs."

49. Bearing in mind, the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the catena of decisions as extracted hereinabove irresistible conclusion is liable to be drawn that the Court cannot travel beyond the jurisdiction so conferred upon it, while granting a relief to an applicant, merely because certain inconvenience is sought to be meted to him/her. As obviously academic qualifications and eligibility cannot be always tailored to suit a particular candidate.

50. As a matter of fact, mere continuance on the basis of interim order does not create any right in favour of the petitioner, particularly, when admittedly she did not possess the necessary required eligibility for being included in the zone of consideration for grant of horizontal reservation being 1% of NCC Cadets. So far as, the issue relating to grant of relief to the petitioner is concerned, an additional fact need to be noticed that the petitioner was very well aware about the required eligibility and qualification for being considered under Un-Reserved category and reserved category being by virtue of horizontal reservation under NCC Cadets. Further record reveals that the petitioner had blown hot and cold and approbated and reprobated at the same time, as when she got stuck and confronted with the situation that she did not have NCC "C' Certificate having "BEE" Grade that she preferred an application before the respondents and tendered an affidavit on 26.6.2019 for change of her category. The petitioner on one pretext or the other wanted to get herself included in the counselling despite the fact that she was thoroughly ineligible to be conferred the benefit of the reservation as noticed hereinabove.

51. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of R.N. Gosain vs. Yashpal Dhir reported in (1992) 4 SCC 683 has observed as under:-

"10. Law does not permit a person to both approbate and reprobate. This principle is based on the doctrine of election which postulates that no party can accept and reject the same instrument and that "a person cannot say at one time that a transaction is valid any thereby obtain some advantage, to which he could only be entitled on the footing that it is valid, and then turn round and say it is void for the purpose of securing some other advantage". [See: Verschures Creameries Ltd. v. Hull and Netherlands Steamship Co. Ltd., (1921) 2 R.B. 608, at p.612, Scrutton, L.J]. According to Halsbury's Laws of England, 4th Edn.,Vol. 16, "after taking an advantage under an order (for example for the payment of costs) a party may be precluded from saying that it is invalid and asking to set it aside". (para 1508)."

52. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Shyam Telelink Limited vs. Union of India, reported in (2010) 10 SCC 165 has observed as under:

"23. The maxim qui approbat non reprobat (one who approbates cannot reprobate) is firmly embodied in English Common Law and often applied by Courts in this country. It is akin to the doctrine of benefits and burdens which at its most basic level provides that a person taking advantage under an instrument which both grants a benefit and imposes a burden cannot take the former without complying with the latter. A person cannot approbate and reprobate or accept and reject the same instrument."

53. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Cauvery Coffee Traders, Mangalore vs. Hornor Resources (International) Company Limited, reported in (2011) 10 SCC 420 has held as under:

"34. A party cannot be permitted to "blow hot and cold", "fast and loose" or "approbate and reprobate". Where one knowingly accepts the benefits of a contract or conveyance or an order, is estopped to deny the validity or binding effect on him of such contract or conveyance or order. This rule is applied to do equity, however, it must not be applied in a manner as to violate the principles of right and good conscience. (Vide: Nagubai Ammal & Ors. v. B. Shama Rao & Ors., AIR 1956 SC 593; C.I.T. Vs. MR. P. Firm Maur, AIR 1965 SC 1216; Maharashtra State Road Transport Corporation v. Balwant Regular Motor Service, Amravati & Ors., AIR 1969 SC 329; P.R.

Deshpande v. Maruti Balaram Haibatti, AIR 1998 SC 2979; Babu Ram v. Indrapal Singh, AIR 1998 SC 3021; Chairman and MD, NTPC Ltd. v. Reshmi Constructions, Builders & Contractors, AIR 2004 SC 1330; Ramesh Chandra Sankla & Ors. v. Vikram Cement & Ors., AIR 2009 SC 713; and Pradeep Oil Corporation v. Municipal Corporation of Delhi & Anr., (2011) 5 SCC 270).

35. Thus, it is evident that the doctrine of election is based on the rule of estoppel- the principle that one cannot approbate and reprobate inheres in it. The doctrine of estoppel by election is one of the species of estoppels in pais (or equitable estoppel), which is a rule in equity. By that law, a person may be precluded by his actions or conduct or silence when it is his duty to speak, from asserting a right which he otherwise would have had."

54. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sri Gangai Vinayagar Temple and another vs. Meenakshi Ammal and others, reported in (2015) 3 SCC 624 has observed as under:

"16.2. Secondly, on a proper perusal of the plaint, it ought to have been palpably evident that the Plaintiff/Tenant in O.S.5/78 feared dispossession from the demised premises because of what they considered to be an illegal transfer; but since all the Defendants had averred in their Written Statement that they had no intention of doing so, the suit ought not to have been dismissed but ought to have been decreed without more ado solely so far as the prayer of injunction was concerned. But, in the Trial Court the title to the leased land had become the fulcrum of the fight, owing to the pleadings of the Tenant in which it had repeatedly and steadfastly challenged the title of the Trust as well as the Transferees. The Tenant should not be permitted to approbate and reprobate, as per its whim or convenience, by disowning or abandoning a controversy it has sought to have adjudicated."

55. Analyzing the case from every point of angle, this Court finds that the petitioner had been maintaining inconsistent stand right from very inception as at one time, she claims to have applied under unreserved category and also under NCC category, which is under horizontal reservation category. Apart from the same, as already discussed, this Court cannot include any qualification by a judicial fiat, as the same is task, which is to be conducted by the rule making authorities and not by the courts of law. As already observed, mere continuance of any interim order does not create any right or benefit, particularly, in the matter of admission in the present sets of facts, wherein the issue relates to the MBBS Course, whereat merit is of the paramount consideration.

56. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Chandigarh Administration and another vs. Jasmine Kaur and others, (2014) 10 SCC 521 has observed as under: -

"33.1. The schedule relating to admissions to the professional colleges should be strictly and scrupulously adhered to and shall not be deviated under any circumstance either by the courts or the Board and midstream admission should not be permitted.

33.2. Under exceptional circumstances, if the court finds that there is no fault attributable to the candidate i.e., the candidate has pursued his or her legal right expeditiously without any delay and that there is fault only on the part of the authorities or there is an apparent breach of rules and regulations as well as related principles in the process of grant of admission which would violate the right to equality and equal treatment to the competing candidates and the relief of admission can be directed within the time schedule prescribed, it would be completely just and fair to provide exceptional reliefs to the candidate under such circumstance alone.

33.3. If a candidate is not selected during a particular academic year due to the fault of the Institutions/Authorities and in this process if the seats are filled up and the scope for granting admission is lost due to eclipse of time schedule, then under such circumstances, the candidate should not be victimised for no fault of his/her and the Court may consider grant of appropriate compensation to offset the loss caused, if any.

33.4. When a candidate does not exercise or pursue his/her rights or legal remedies against his/her non-selection expeditiously and promptly, then the Courts cannot grant any relief to the candidate in the form of securing an admission.

33.5. If the candidate takes a calculated risk/chance by subjecting himself/herself to the selection process and after knowing his/her non- selection, he/she cannot subsequently turn around and contend that the process of selection was unfair.

33.6. If it is found that the candidate acquiesces or waives his/her right to claim relief before the Court promptly, then in such cases, the legal maxim vigilantibus non dormientibus aequitas subvenit, which means that equity aids only the vigilant and not the ones who sleep over their rights, will be highly appropriate.

33.7. No relief can be granted even though the prospectus is declared illegal or invalid if the same is not challenged promptly. Once the candidate is aware that he/she does not fulfil the criteria of the prospectus he/she cannot be heard to state that, he/she chose to challenge the same only after preferring the application and after the same is refused on the ground of eligibility.

33.8. There cannot be telescoping of unfilled seats of one year with permitted seats of the subsequent year i.e., carry forward of seats cannot be permitted how much ever meritorious a candidate is and deserved admission. In such circumstances, the Courts cannot grant any relief to the candidate but it is up to the candidate to re-apply next academic year.

33.9. There cannot be at any point of time a direction given either by the Court or the Board to increase the number of seats which is exclusively in the realm of the Medical Council of India.

33.10. Each of these above mentioned principles should be applied based on the unique and distinguishable facts and circumstances of each case and no two cases can be held to be identical.

43. As time and again such instances of claiming admission into such professional courses are brought before the Court, and on every such occasion, reliance is placed upon the various decisions of this Court for issuing necessary directions for accommodating the students to various courses claiming parity, we feel it appropriate to state that unless such claims of exceptional nature are brought before the Court within the time schedule fixed by this Court, Court or Board should not pass orders for granting admission into any particular course out of time. In this context, it will have to be stated that in whatever earlier decisions of this Court such out of time admissions were granted, the same cannot be quoted as a precedent in any other case, as such directions were issued after due consideration of the peculiar facts involved in those cases. No two cases can be held to be similar in all respects. Therefore, in such of those cases where the Court or Board is not in a position to grant the relief within the time schedule due to the fault attributable to the candidate concerned, like the case on hand, there should be no hesitation to deny the relief as was done by the learned Single Judge. If for any reason, such grant of relief is not possible within the time schedule, due to reasons attributable to other parties, and such reasons are found to be deliberate or mala fide the Court should only consider any other relief other than direction for admission, such as compensation, etc. In such situations, the Court should ensure that those who were at fault are appropriately proceeded against and punished in order to ensure that such deliberate or malicious acts do not recur."

SUMMATION

57. In summation of the discussion made herein above, we hold: -

A. Petitioner having not possessed with NCC "C' Certificate with "BEE' Grade is neither eligible nor has desired qualification for being considered under 1% quota of NCC category as earmarked in the Government Order dated 17.6.2019 and the National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET) U.G. Counseling - 2019 (Brochure).

B. Prescription of qualification if essentially and primarily a role reserved for the employer and rule enacting authority and it is not for this Court while exercising its jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution to arrogate the said function.

C. Mere continuance on the basis of interim order while pursuing the MBBS Course does not create an equity or sympathy in favour of the petitioner.

D. Even otherwise petitioner is not entitled to any relief in view of the fact that the petitioner blew hot and cold and approbated and reprobated at the same time.

CONCLUSION

58. In view of the above discussion the writ petition is devoid of merit and thus liable to be dismissed.

59. Accordingly, dismissed.

60. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

61. No order as to cost.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Bhatia, J.)

1. Since both the petitions have been preferred challenging the order dated 13.12.2021 hence both the said writ petitions are being decided by means of the present common order.

2. Heard Sri Anil Tiwari, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Apoorva Tiwari, the counsel for the petitioner and Dr. L. P. Mishra, the counsel for the respondents.

3. The facts in brief giving rise to the present petition are that the petitioners, the son and daughter-in-law of respondent no.6 and the parents of respondent no.7 have filed the present petitions challenging the order dated 13.12.2021 passed by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Lucknow in exercise of powers under section 5 of the Maintenance and Welfare of Parents and Senior Citizens Act, 2007 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act of 2007') whereby directions have been given to vacate the residential house situate at 2/1-F Vishesh Khand, Gomti Nagar, Lucknow within a period of fifteen days from the date of passing of the said order. The second petition is filed by the son of petitioners challenging the same order. It is argued that the respondent no.6 is the absolute owner of the property no.2/1-F, Vishesh Khand Gomti Nagar, Lucknow which he acquired out of her own funds. In the said property, on the ground floor the respondent no.6 who is aged about 75 years is residing with her husband Sri Manmohan Tiwari, the petitioners who are son and the daughter in law along with the respondent no.7 who is the grand son of respondent no.6 and the son of the petitioners no.1 & 2 along with their daughter are residing on the first floor. It appears that on account of certain disputes that have arisen in between the family members, the petitioner no.1 filed a regular suit no.882 of 2019 against the respondent no.6 and Sri Manmohan Tiwari seeking a permanent injunction against the dispossession of the petitioner no.1 from the property in question. In the said suit, it has been asserted that the property has been purchased out of the sale proceeds of ancestral property of which the petitioner no.1 was also a co-parcener. The said suit is pending consideration.

4. On 30.07.2019, the respondent no.6, the mother filed a first information report under section 323, 504 and 506 IPC at P.S. Vibhuti Khand, Gomti Nagar, Lucknow against the petitioners alleging physical abuse at the hands of the children. On 20.08.2019, the respondent no.6 preferred an application purporting to be under section 21 and 22 of the 'Act of 2007' before the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, which was registered as Case No.59 of 2019. In the said application, which is annexed as Annexure no.8 to the writ petition, it was alleged that the respondent no.6 is the sole owner of the property in question and on 22.07.2019 at about 6.00 am in the morning, the petitioner no.1 along with the petitioner no.2 physically abused the respondent no.6 and tried to cause harm to her physically. With regard to the petitioner no.2, it was also alleged that she had slapped the respondent no.6. In the said application it was further expressed that from 09.05.2019 up to 15.05.2019, the respondent no.6 and her husband were occasioned with the criminal acts for which a written information was given to the Lucknow Police. She, thus, prayed that she be given the possession of the property which is being occupied by the petitioners no. 1 and 2 without her permission. The age of the respondent no.6 in the said application was disclosed as 73 years and that of her husband was disclosed as 75 years.

5. On the basis of the application filed, the Maintenance Tribunal directed the Deputy Collector to submit an inspection report after inspecting the premises in question. He was also directed to obtain the views of the neighbour to ascertain the correct facts. It was also recorded that the inspection along with the statements shall be submitted before the Tribunal on or before 13.09.2021. In terms of the said directions, a report was submitted before the Maintenance Tribunal, however, the contentions of the counsel for the petitioners is that the report was never provided to the petitioner nor were they afforded the opportunity to file the objections against the said report.

6. Considering the application and the report, the Tribunal by means of the impugned order directed the petitioners and the respondent no.7 (the grandson of the respondent no.6) to vacate the property within a period of fifteen days, failing which the Nayab Tehsildar Lucknow and the Inspector In-charge of Police Station Vibhuti Khand were directed to ensure the compliance of the said order. The said order is under challenge.

7. Sri Anil Tiwari, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Apoorva Tiwari the counsel for the petitioner submits that the said order is bad in law and is liable to be set aside for the following reasons : -

(a) that the Maintenance Tribunal constituted under the Act does not have any jurisdiction to pass an order of eviction as has been done in the present case.

(b) that the order has been passed without observing the principles of natural justice. In support thereof, he cites the report which was called upon by the Tribunal and was made the basis of the order but never supplied to the petitioner.

The legal arguments as raised by Sri Tiwari shall be dealt with subsequently. In the light of the said arguments, Sri Tiwari argues that the order impugned is liable to be set aside.

8. Dr. L. P. Mishra, the counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent no.6 argues that the Tribunal is well within its power to direct the eviction under the Act in question. He further argues that the Act was framed for providing immediate relief to the senior citizens for the purposes mentioned in the Act, which includes the right to property and thus, the Tribunal was well within its rights to direct the eviction as has been done in the impugned order. He further argues that the order has been passed based upon the materials that were available with the Tribunal and the Tribunal being a quasi-judicial body is not expected to meticulously observe the procedures which are observed in a regular suit. He further argues that the dispute in between the petitioners and the respondent no.6 has emanated on various counts and litigation with regard to partition of the ancestral property is also engaging the attention of the courts. He further argues that the respondent no.6 and her husband are the owners of another property which is an ancestral property and is situate at Ganesh Ganj, which the respondent no.6 are ready to offer to the petitioners to buy peace although the respondent no.6 and her husband are under no legal obligation to provide for a residence. He also argues that the petitioners are financially independent and can easily take an accommodation on rent in any locality of the city and they cannot insist on staying in the property in question and thus, do not have any legal right to remain in possession.

9. In view of the arguments as noted above in between the parties, this court is called upon to decide whether under the Maintenance and Welfare of Parents and Senior Citizens Act, 2007, the Tribunal constituted under the Act is empowered to pass an order of eviction particularly keeping in view the Rules of 2014 framed under the State of U.P. and known as Uttar Pradesh Maintenance and Welfare of Parents and Senior Citizens Rules, 2014 and secondly whether the order impugned can be interfered with by exercising the right of judicial review in exercise of the power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India and whether this court can mould the relief keeping in view the exigencies that arise in between the parties.

10. To understand and decide the issues as arise in between the parties, it is essential to understand the Scheme of the Act of 2007. The Act of 2007 was enacted keeping in view the steady rise in the population of the older persons in India and observing that the traditional norms and values of the Indian Society envisage providing care for the aged and keeping in view the recent trends of changes in the society, witnessing a gradual decline of a joint family system resulting into the elder members not being maintained by the children contrary to the social practice that was prevalent in India. The need for enacting was also felt in view of the elders facing emotional neglect and lack of physical and financial support. The Act contains a non - obstantive clause and would thus prevail over the other laws as is clear from the plain reading of the Section 3 of the said Act.

11. Chapter II and Chapter V of the said Act are relevant for the purposes of the present dispute. Chapter II of the said Act provides for manner of grant of 'maintenance to a senior citizens who is unable to maintain himself from his own earning or out of the property owned by him. The procedure for claiming maintenance is elaborated in Section 5 and 6 of the Act. Section 7 provides for the Constitution of the Maintenance Tribunal and a duty is conferred upon the State Government to constitute a Maintenance Tribunal for each sub-division to be presided over by an officer not below the rank of Sub-Divisional Officer of a State. The Tribunal is empowered to hold an enquiry in a summary manner for giving effect to the purpose of section 5 of the Act. Section 9, 10 and 11 of the Act provide for an order of maintenance, alteration of the order of maintenance and the manner of enforcement of the order of maintenance. The Act also directs the constitution of the Appellate Tribunal, to be presided over by an officer not below the rank of District Magistrate and Section 16 of the Act provides for the appeals against an order.

12. Chapter V of the said act specifically Section 21 directs the State Government to take steps for giving wide publicity to the provisions of the Act and to take steps for sensitization in respect of the issues relating to the Act and for effective coordination in between various departments. Section 22 of the Act empowers the State Government to confer the powers and impose duty on a District Magistrate to ensure that the provisions of the Act are properly carried out and the District Magistrate is further empowered to delegate his powers upon any officer subordinate to him. Section 22 is quoted herein below :-

Section 22. Authorities who may be specified for implementing the provisions of this Act -

(1) The State Government may, confer such powers and impose such duties on a District Magistrate as may be necessary, to ensure that the provisions of this Act are properly carried out and the District Magistrate may specify the officer, subordinate to him, who shall exercise all or any of the powers, and perform all or any of the duties, so conferred or imposed and the local limits within which such powers or duties shall be carried out by the officer as may be prescribed.

(2) The State Government shall prescribe a comprehensive action plan for providing protection of life and property of senior citizens.

Section 23 of the Act provides for a situation where the transfers by the senior citizen in respect of his estate to be void in certain circumstances.

It is also essential to note the definition of 'Maintenance' as defined under section (b) of the Act , which is as under :-

2(b) "maintenance" includes provision for food, clothing, residence and medical attendance and treatment.

13. The State of U.P. in exercise of its powers under section 32 of the Act has framed the Rules of the year 2014 duly published in the U.P. Gazette on 24.02.2014. The said rules provide for steps for conciliation/settlement prior to adjudication and in the event of failure of the same provides for reference of the dispute before the Tribunal. Interestingly, Rule 21 of Chapter V of the said Rules provides for duties and the powers to be exercised by the District Magistrate and the same is quoted herein below :

Chapter V

21. Duties and Power of the District Magistrate -

(1) The District Magistrate shall perform the duties and exercise the powers mentioned in sub rules (2) and (3) so as to ensure that the provisions of the Act are properly carried out in his district.

(2) It shall be the duty of the District Magistrate to :

i. ensure that life and property of senior citizens of the district are protected and they are able to live with security and dignity;

ii. oversee and monitor the work of Maintenance Tribunals and Maintenance Officers of the district with a view to ensuring timely and fair disposal of applications for maintenance, and execution of Tribunals' orders;

iii. oversee and monitor the working of old age homes in the district so a to ensure that they conform to the standards laid down in these rule and any other guidelines and orders of the Government;

iv. ensure regular and wide publicity of the provisions of the Act, and Central and State Governments, programmes for the welfare of senior citizens;

v. encourage and co-ordinate with panchayats, municipalities, Nehru Yuva Kendras, educational institutions and especially their National Service Scheme Units, Organisations, specialists, experts activists, etc. working in the district so that their resources efforts are effectively pooled for the welfare of senior citizens of district;

vi. ensure provision of timely assistance and relief to senior citizens in the event of natural calamities and other emergencies;

vii. ensure periodic sensitisation of officers of various Departments and Local Bodies concerned with welfare of senior citizens, towards the needs of such citizens, and the duty of the officers towards the latter;

viii. review the progress of investigation and trial of cases relating to senior citizens in the district, except in cities having a Divisional Inspector General of Police.

ix. ensure that adequate number of prescribed application forms for maintenance are available in officers of common contact for citizens like Panchayats, Block Development Offices, Tahsildar Offices, District Social Welfare Offices, Collectorate, Police Station etc.;

x. promote establishment of dedicated helplines for senior citizens at district headquarters, to begin with; and

xi. perform such other functions as the Government, may by order, assign to the District Magistrate in this behalf, from time to time.

(3) With a view to performing the duties mentioned in sub-rule (2), the District Magistrate shall be competent to issue such directions, not inconsistent with the Act; these rules, and general guidelines of the Government, as may be necessary, to any concerned Government or statutory agency or body working in the district, and especially to the following:

(a) Officers of the State Government in the Police, Health and Publicity Departments, and the Department dealing with welfare of senior citizens;

(b) Maintenance Tribunals and Conciliation Officers;

(c) Panchayats and Municipalities; and

(d) Educational Institution.

Certain other obligations are also cast upon the State under the Rules so framed, however, they need not detain this Court for the purposes of this case.

14. Sri Anil Tiwari, Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioners argues that the scope of Chapter II read with the definition of 'Maintenance' as defined under section 2(b) of the Act makes it clear that the Maintenance Tribunal constituted can pass an order on appropriate application of the senior citizen, who is unable to maintain himself for giving/providing maintenance and is thus confined to grant the financial benefits to the senior citizens on there being requirement for the same under the Act. He argues that the definition of the word 'maintenance' under section 2(b) includes the provision of food, clothing, residence and medical attendance and treatment and thus in light thereof, he argues that in the event a senior citizen is deprived of the said benefits, the Tribunal in exercise of the power under Chapter II can direct the children or the relatives to provide for the said benefits and no other power has been conferred upon the Tribunal including the direction for vacation of the property. He argues that in the present case, the application filed by the respondent no.6 did not disclose anywhere that the respondent no.6 was deprived of food, clothing, residence, medical attendance and treatment and thus, the application was not maintainable under Chapter II.

15. He next argues that even if, for the sake of arguments, section 22 of the Act is taken into consideration read with Rule 21, the District Magistrate is empowered only to do the acts which are required to be performed under the mandate of the Act and once again no specific power of eviction has been granted upon the District Magistrate also either under the Act or the Rules. He also submitted that the definition clause cannot be pressed into service to enlarge the scope of jurisdiction of the Maintenance Tribunal and the expression 'include' in Section 2(b) of the Act 2007 has to be construed in light of the context of the Act of 2007 particularly Section 9 of the Act 2007 which only provides for payment of maintenance in monetary terms. Lastly, he argues that the District Magistrate and the parties should be permitted to resolve the disputes to prevent any apprehension as expressed in the application. The court can direct the District Magistrate to take such steps to ensure the security of the respondent no.6 as may be deemed appropriate by this Court. He categorically states that the offer of alternate residence situated at old Ganesh Ganj is not acceptable to the petitioner as the same is located in an congested locality and has very steep stairs and the petitioner no.2 suffers from slip disk and the alternative accommodation would not be appropriate for their residence.

16. Sri Tiwari has placed reliance on the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of S. C. Ahuja vs. Sneha Ahuja; (2021) 1 SCC 41 to argue that a married woman retains her right in the shared household even if the property is not of the joint family or even if the husband has no right in the said property. He also placed reliance on the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Deddappa vs. Branch Manager; (2008) 2 SCC 595 and argues that a beneficial legislation cannot grant a benefit which was not contemplated by the legislature. Similarly in the case of Teri Oat Estates (P) Ltd. vs. U.T. Chandigarh; (2004) 2 SCC 130 the Hon'ble the Apex Court held that sympathy or sentiment cannot by itself be a ground for passing an order in relation whereto the appellants fail to establish a legal right. He also placed reliance on the judgement of the Supreme Court in the case of State of Punjab vs. Surinder Kumar (1992) 1 SCC 489 to argue that High Court is circumscribed by limitations discussed and declared by judicial decisions and it cannot transgress those limits. He has also drawn my attention to the judgments of the Delhi High Court in the case of Sunny Paul and another vs. State of NCT Delhi and others in W.P. (C) No.10463 of 2015 and LPA No.205 of 2017; the judgment in the Case of Subhashini vs. Deputy Collector Kozhikode (F.B.) decided by the Full Bench by the Kerala High Court; the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of S. Vanitha vs. Deputy Commissioner and others; (2020) SCC online SC 1023. He also drawn my attention to the judgment of the Bombay High Court and the Punjab High Court wherein the power of eviction under the Act has been upheld, however, he argues that in view of the rules framed in Delhi and in Punjab, the judgments may be justified, which is not the case in the State of U.P. as the rules are silent. He also refers to the judgment of the Punjab High Court in the case of Simrat Randhawa vs. State of Punjab decided on 23.01.2020 in CWP No.4744 of 2018, which according to the petitioners' counsel has held that the Act of 2007 does not empower the Tribunal to pass an order of eviction.

In the light of the said submissions, it is argued that the writ petition is liable to be allowed and the order impugned is liable to be set aside.

17. Dr. L. P. Mishra, the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent no.6, on the other hand, has tried to justify the order by drawing my attention to the definition of 'maintenance' as contained in Section 2(b) of the Act, which includes a residence. He further drawn my attention to section 2(f) of the Act, which define the 'property' to mean property of any kind. He argues that section 3 of the Act gives overriding effect to the provisions of the Act and section 8 of the Act provides for procedure for determination in summary manner. He argues that on the plain reading of the intent of the Act, it is clear that the Act is aimed to give relief to the senior citizens who may face harassment by anyone including the children and the relatives and any interpretation, which does not let the senior citizens enjoy their property would militate against the intent of the Act, which is to ensure pleasant, healthy, secure and peaceful life in the old age.

18. He further argues that in any case, the petitioners do not have any right to reside in the property in question and they are only enjoying the property in permissive occupation rights and they cannot even be termed as a licensee as defined under Section 52 of the Easement Act. He further argues that the respondent no.6, although not under legal obligation has offered the residence to the petitioners at their ancestral house No.9 Ganesh Ganj Lucknow which is very close to the school of the children of the petitioners. He further argues that the said ancestral house is a three storied house and there is no legal or other hindrance in the petitioners' staying there. He further argues that the ground floor of the said ancestral house is vacant and keeping in view the physical condition as highlighted by the counsel for the petitioners, a ground floor portion would be more suitable than the present residence where the petitioners are staying on the first floor in the house in question.

19. Thus, in sum and substance the counsel for the respondent no.6 argues that the Tribunal is duly empowered under the Act to grant all the benefits that are included under section 2(b) of the Act which includes 'residence' also. He has also argued that the property in the context of the Act is not to be seen as bundle of legal rights and would mean something more than that including the right to stay and enjoy the property in a peaceful and congenial atmosphere which is being deprived in view of the conduct of the petitioners. He places reliance on the following judgments :

I. S. Vanitha vs. Deputy Commissioner Bengaluru Urban District and others (2020) SCC Online SC 1023

II. Anil Kumar Gupta vs. Presiding Officer Appellate Tribunal/DM Lucknow and others in W.P. Misc. Single No.19482 of 2019 decided on 18.07.2019 by this court.

III. Jyotsana Pawar and others vs. Daulat Ram Pawar and others in LAP No.155 of 2021 decided on 03.05.2021 by the Delhi High Court which has been upheld by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Special Leave to Appeal No.7070 of 2021 decided on 28.05.2021.

IV. Shweta Shetty vs. State of Maharashtra (2021) SCC online Bom 4575 in W.P. (L) No.9374 of 2020 decided on 25.11.2021 by the Bombay High Court.

V. Dinubhai Boghabhai Slonaki Vs. State of Gujarat and others (2018) 11 SCC 129.

VI. Dwarka Nath vs. Income Tax Officer, Kanpur; AIR 1966 SC 81

VII. Guru Datta Sharma vs. State of Bihar and another; AIR 1961 SC 1684

VIII. Jilubhai Nanbhai Khachar vs. State of Gujarat and another; 1995 Supp (1) SCC 596.

20. My attention has been drawn on two orders of this Court - one passed in the Case of Smt. Khushboo Shukla vs. District Magistrate Lucknow decided on 02.11.2021 and the other order passed by me in the case of Jeetu @ Amit Kumar Rawata and another in W.P. No.26686 of 2021 decided on 14.03.2022.

21. The cleavage of arguments of learned counsels is clearly visible inasmuch as the arguments of Sri Anil Tewari are that while interpreting the statute in question, this court should be inclined to accept the classical rule of interpretation where Dr. L. P. Mishra has tried to impress that the court should tilt towards the 'purposive interpretation' used for interpretation.

22. The first question to be determined is whether under the Act and the Rules framed, a remedy of eviction can be granted under the Act or not. I first refer to the judgment of the Delhi High Court passed in W.P. (C) No.10463 of 2015 (Sunny Paul and another vs. State NCT of Delhi and others) where the court was confronted with the similar issue. The High Court of Delhi noticed the judgment of the High Court of Kerala in the case of C.K. Vasu vs. The Circle Inspector of Police, WP (C) 20850 of 2011 decided on 25.05.2012 and in para 28, the following has been observed, which reads as under :

28. Ms. Manmeet Arora, learned amicus curiae submitted that the High Courts of Punjab and Haryana and Gujarat had specifically upheld the power of the Maintenance Tribunal to pass eviction orders in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 23 of the Act, 2007. She fairly stated that a contrary view had been expressed by the High Court of Kerala in C.K. Vasu vs. The Circle Inspector of Police, WP (C) 20850 of 2011 decided on 25th May 2012 and by this Court in the case of Sanjay Walia vs. Sneha Walia (supra).

The Delhi High Court referred to the case of Sanjay Walia vs. Sneha Walia, 204 (2013) DLT 618 while analysing the provisions of the Act held that the claim for eviction by the senior citizens would be maintainable even though they are not the owners of the property in question. The court further recorded that the Tribunal constituted under the Act was empowered to give directions to remove the children from the property, if it is necessary in certain cases to ensure a normal life of the senior citizens and further recording that no rules as are required to be framed under section 22 of the Act proceeded to hold that subsequently the rules have been framed and under the Rule 22 of the said Rules so framed, the Deputy Commissioner/District Magistrate was empowered for eviction of the son and daughter or legal heirs from self acquired property on account of the non-maintenance and ill treatment and after recording, noticed the judgment of the Punjab High Court, proceeded to hold that under section 23 of the Act of 2007, the Maintenance Tribunal can issue an order of eviction to ensure that Senior Citizens live peacefully in their house without being forced to accommodate a son who physically assault and mentally harass them.

23. In the appeal preferred against the said judgment of the Delhi High Court in LPA 205 of 2017, the Division Bench once again considered the power of the Tribunal to order eviction and noticing rules framed in Delhi, upheld the judgment of the learned Single Judge.

24. The Bombay High Court in the case of Shweta Shetty vs. State of Maharashtra (supra) was also confronted with the similar issue and after noticing the various provisions of the Act and particularity the Division Bench Judgment of the Delhi High Court in the case of Sunny Paul (supra) agreed with the said view and endorsed the view of the learned Single Judge who had followed the judgment of the Delhi High Court in the case of Sunny Paul (supra) held that the eviction could be directed in terms of the Act. The Bombay High Court specifically considered the arguments of the parties to the effect that the Rules as framed in Delhi were not framed in Maharashtra which argument was repelled in para 23 as under :

23. We entirely endorse the views of the learned Single Judge and accept them as our own. We are also fully in agreement with the views of the Division Bench of the Delhi High Court in Sunny Paul v. State of NCT of Delhi, a most careful and elaborate judgment that includes what appears to us to be a comprehensive overview of the jurisprudence. That decision dismissed an appeal from an order of a learned single Judge upholding the decision of the tribunal. Mr. Thorat's efforts to contend that this result was only because there are special rules in Delhi that permit eviction does not commend itself to us at all. The Rules cannot, axiomatically, confer a power that does not extend in the statute itself. At best, the Rules may provide a procedure or may clarify, but cannot confer a substantive legal right beyond that which the Act contemplates. Therefore, the argument defeats itself : if the Delhi rules provide for eviction of a person with no right in the property to protect the interests and welfare of a senior citizen, this necessarily means that the right to order a removal of a claimant exists in the statute itself."

25. Thus the, Delhi High Court and the Bombay High Court have interpreted the Act on doctrine of 'purposive interpretation'.

26. The Supreme Court in the case of S. Vanitha vs. Deputy Commissioner (supra) considered the scope of Senior Citizens Act 2007 vis-a-vis the rights enshrined in favour of the daughter in law under the prevention of PWDV Act of 2005 and interplay in between the said statutes when it relates to the right of woman under the Domestic Violence Act, 2005. However, no finding or judgment was given with regard to the rights to direct eviction under the Senior Citizens Act 2007. In the said case, the Supreme Court mainly dealt with the scope of Section 23 of the Senior Citizens Act and thus the said judgment does not in any way decide the issue as has arisen before the Court.

27. So far so good, in the light of the judgment of the Delhi High Court and the Bombay Court, the right of eviction is implicit under the Senior Citizens Act of 2007, however, the problem arising in the present case is that the Tribunal constituted under the Act is manned by a Sub-Divisional Magistrate and not by the District Magistrate. The Rules framed in the State of U.P. are silent and do not confer any specific power upon the S.D.M. to direct eviction in the event of a contingency arising in between the parties.

28. Even if I accept the purposive interpretation, as argued by Dr. Misra, it is difficult to stretch the interpretation so much to hold that it confers the jurisdiction on a Tribunal which is not expressly even implicitly conferred under Chapter II of the statute.

29. This court in the case of Smt. Khushboo Shukla vs. District Magistrate Lucknow decided on 02.11.2021 specifically held that under the provisions of the Act of 2007, in the absence of any specific power of eviction, recourse cannot be taken for summary eviction under the Act. This court while delivering the judgment in the case of Jeetu @ Amit Kumar Rawat and another vs. Sub Divisional Magistrate, Sadar Lucknow held that the District Magistrate was empowered to pass orders taking into account the mandate of Rule 21 of the Rules and also taken into consideration the fact that the alternative accommodation was offered by the parents to the children in the said case. While delivering the judgment in the said case, the court was not apprised of all the judgments, which have been referred above, which led to passing of the order dated 14.03.2022.

30. Coming to the facts of the present case, there was no mention in the application filed by the respondents that they are being deprived of their property and the directions should be issued for eviction of the children so that the parents may be able to get the property as defined under section 2(b) of the Act, the application was simply that the petitioners herein who were residing on the first floor portion had misbehaved with the parents and thus on that ground alone, an apprehension was expressed and the eviction was sought.

31. Considering the judgments of various High Courts and the difference in the rules framed in the State of Delhi and in the State of U.P., I have no hesitation in holding that the SDM did not have any powers to direct eviction and the SDM can only direct the children or relatives to provide for residential needs of parents if such an application is moved and the Tribunal finds it appropriate to order so. However, the District Magistrate who could have exercised such powers under Rule 21 that too if the conditions were satisfied to come to a conclusion that the senior citizens are being prohibited from enjoying the property and are being deprived of the same at the hands of the children or relatives which, I fear, is not existing in the present case.

32. Conclusions :

On interpretation and analysis of the Act, my conclusion is that under Chapter II, no power is vested in the Tribunal to direct eviction simplicitor from the property at the instance of senior citizens. However, the Tribunal is fully empowered to direct the children/relatives (as the case may be) to provide for a residence on an application being filed under Chapter II by a senior citizen.

The District Magistrate is empowered under Chapter V to pass orders and take such steps as may arise for ensuring that the senior citizen may enjoy the property, such steps may include right to order eviction only as a last recourse and in relation to a specific part of the property which are in joint possession of senior citizens as well as children/relatives.

33. Coming to the relief that can be moulded/granted in the present case, the allegation of the senior citizens was that the daughter in law, the petitioner no.2 had slapped the respondent no. 6 and on several occasions had issued threats and thus, there was apprehension and fear lurking in the minds of the respondent no.6 and her husband, the appropriate relief that can be granted to the respondents in the present case, in exercise of the power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, is to direct the District Magistrate to ensure the safety and well being of the respondent no.6 and her husband and if required to use such measures as may be deemed appropriate by the District Magistrate on a request being made by the respondent no.6.

I also deem it appropriate to injunct the petitioners herein not to go to the ground floor portion of the house and not to do any acts to cause any inconvenience to the respondent no.6 and her husband. Any violation of this directions shall be dealt with by the concerned police station, on respondent no.6 or her husband approaching them.

34. I have not gone into the second question raised by the counsel for the petitioners that the order passed is in violation of the principles of natural justice as I have already held that the Tribunal did not have the jurisdiction to direct the eviction under the Scheme of the Act.

35. In view of the directions, as given above, both the writ petitions stand disposed off.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Bindal, C.J.

1. The present writ petition has been filed seeking direction to the respondents to pay compensation to the petitioners in terms of the provisions of the Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act'). Further, direction has been sought for a decision on the representation dated December 31, 2020 filed by the petitioners seeking the aforesaid claim. Reference has been made to two sale deeds (Annexures-2 and 3) in which the landowners therein were granted compensation four times to the circle rate.

2. The learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioners submitted that in view of the Government Order dated March 19, 2015, the petitioners are entitled to receive compensation on the principles as laid down in the Act and the same have even been followed by the State in the cases of other landowners whose sale deeds were registered on July 7, 2017 (Annexure-3) and December 2, 2020 (Annexure-2). He did not dispute the fact that the sale deeds in the case of the petitioners were registered way back in the year 2013 on different dates, much prior to the issuance of the Government Order dated March 19, 2015. He also referred to an order passed by this Court in Writ-C No. 19518 of 2017, titled as Basudeo and others vs. State of U.P. and others in which a direction was issued to the Committee constituted in terms of Clause 3(1) of the Government Order dated March 19, 2015 for reassessment of the compensation. The argument is that the land of the petitioners having been taken for construction of road on Indo-Nepal Border, they should not be discriminated for payment of compensation.

3. After hearing learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners, we do not find any merit in the present petition. The same deserves to be dismissed firstly on the ground of delay and laches. The sale deeds were got registered by the petitioners way back in the year 2013 on different dates after receiving the amount of consideration mentioned therein. No issue was raised by them till such time representation dated December 31, 2020 was filed seeking higher compensation referring to the provisions of the Act and also the Government Order dated March 19, 2015. The writ petition was filed in this Court about eight years after the sale deeds were registered. Any subsequent event will not re-open the issue, which already stood settled. The writ petition deserves to be dismissed on this ground alone.

4. Different facets of issue regarding delay and laches in filing the petition had been subject matter of consideration before Hon'ble the Supreme Court on number of occasions, wherein it has been consistently opined that the party can be denied relief, if he sleeps over the matter.

5. In State of Uttaranchal and another v. Sri Shiv Charan Singh Bhandari and others, (2013)12 SCC 179, Hon'ble the Supreme Court, while considering the issue regarding delay and laches and referring to earlier judgments on the issue, opined that repeated representations made will not keep the issues alive. A stale or a dead issue/dispute cannot be got revived even if such a representation has either been decided by the authority or got decided by getting a direction from the court as the issue regarding delay and laches is to be decided with reference to original cause of action and not with reference to any such order passed. Delay and laches on the part of a government servant may even deprive him of the benefit which had been given to others. Article 14 of the Constitution of India, in a situation of that nature, will not be attracted as it is well known that law leans in favour of those who are alert and vigilant. Even equality has to be claimed at the right juncture and not on expiry of reasonable time. Even if there is no period prescribed for filing the writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, yet it should be filed within a reasonable time. Such an order promoting a junior should normally be challenged within a period of six months or at the most in a year of such promotion. Though it is not a strict rule, the courts can always interfere even subsequent thereto, but relief to a person, who allows things to happen and then approach the court and puts forward a stale claim and try to unsettle settled matters, can certainly be refused relief on account of delay and laches. Anyone who sleeps over his rights is bound to suffer. An employee who sleeps like Rip Van Winkle and got up from slumber at his own leisure, deserves to be denied the relief on account of delay and laches. Relevant paragraphs from the aforesaid judgment are extracted below:-

"16. We have no trace of doubt that the respondents could have challenged the ad hoc promotion conferred on the junior employee at the relevant time. They chose not to do so for six years and the junior employee held the promotional post for six years till regular promotion took place. The submission of the learned counsel for the respondents is that they had given representations at the relevant time but the same fell in deaf ears. It is interesting to note that when the regular selection took place, they accepted the position solely because the seniority was maintained and, thereafter, they knocked at the doors of the tribunal only in 2003. It is clear as noon day that the cause of action had arisen for assailing the order when the junior employee was promoted on ad hoc basis on 15.11.1983. In C. Jacob v. Director of Geology and Mining and another, (2008) 10 SCC 115, a two-Judge Bench was dealing with the concept of representations and the directions issued by the court or tribunal to consider the representations and the challenge to the said rejection thereafter. In that context, the court has expressed thus:-

"10. Every representation to the Government for relief, may not be replied on merits. Representations relating to matters which have become stale or barred by limitation, can be rejected on that ground alone, without examining the merits of the claim. In regard to representations unrelated to the Department, the reply may be only to inform that the matter did not concern the Department or to inform the appropriate Department. Representations with incomplete particulars may be replied by seeking relevant particulars. The replies to such representations, cannot furnish a fresh cause of action or revive a stale or dead claim."

18. In Union of India and others v. M. K. Sarkar, (2010) 2 SCC 59, this Court, after referring to C. Jacob (supra) has ruled that:

15. When a belated representation in regard to a "stale" or "dead" issue/dispute is considered and decided, in compliance with a direction by the court/tribunal to do so, the date of such decision cannot be considered as furnishing a fresh cause of action for reviving the "dead" issue or time- barred dispute. The issue of limitation or delay and laches should be considered with reference to the original cause of action and not with reference to the date on which an order is passed in compliance with a Court's direction. Neither a court's direction to consider a representation issued without examining the merits, nor a decision given in compliance with such direction, will extend the limitation, or erase the delay and laches.

19. From the aforesaid authorities it is clear as crystal that even if the court or tribunal directs for consideration of representations relating to a stale claim or dead grievance it does not give rise to a fresh cause of action. The dead cause of action cannot rise like a phoenix. Similarly, a mere submission of representation to the competent authority does not arrest time.

20. In Karnataka Power Corpn. Ltd. through its Chairman & Managing Director v. K. Thangappan and another, (2006) 4 SCC 322, the Court took note of the factual position and laid down that when nearly for two decades the respondent-workmen therein had remained silent mere making of representations could not justify a belated approach.

21. In State of Orissa v. Pyarimohan Samantaray, (1977) 3 SCC 396, it has been opined that making of repeated representations is not a satisfactory explanation of delay. The said principle was reiterated in State of Orissa v. Arun Kumar Patnaik, (1976) 3 SCC 579.

22. In Bharat Sanchar Nigam Limited v. Ghanshyam Dass (2) and others, (2011) 4 SCC 374, a three-Judge Bench of this Court reiterated the principle stated in Jagdish Lal v. State of Haryana, (1977) 6 SCC 538 and proceeded to observe that as the respondents therein preferred to sleep over their rights and approached the tribunal in 1997, they would not get the benefit of the order dated 7.7.1992.

23. In State of T. N. v. Seshachalam, (2007) 10 SCC 137, this Court, testing the equality clause on the bedrock of delay and laches pertaining to grant of service benefit, has ruled thus:-

"16. ... filing of representations alone would not save the period of limitation. Delay or laches is a relevant factor for a court of law to determine the question as to whether the claim made by an applicant deserves consideration. Delay and/or laches on the part of a government servant may deprive him of the benefit which had been given to others. Article 14 of the Constitution of India would not, in a situation of that nature, be attracted as it is well known that law leans in favour of those who are alert and vigilant."

24. There can be no cavil over the fact that the claim of promotion is based on the concept of equality and equitability, but the said relief has to be claimed within a reasonable time. The said principle has been stated in Ghulam Rasool Lone v. State of Jammu and Kashmir and another, (2009) 15 SCC 321.

25. In NDMC v. Pan Singh and others, (2007) 9 SCC 278, the Court has opined that though there is no period of limitation provided for filing a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, yet ordinarily a writ petition should be filed within a reasonable time. In the said case the respondents had filed the writ petition after seventeen years and the court, as stated earlier, took note of the delay and laches as relevant factors and set aside the order passed by the High Court which had exercised the discretionary jurisdiction.

26. Presently, sitting in a time machine, we may refer to a two Judge Bench decision in P. S. Sadasivasway v. State of Tamil Nadu, (1975) 1 SCC 152, wherein it has been laid down that:

"2. ... A person aggrieved by an order of promoting a junior over his head should approach the court at least within six months or at the most a year of such promotion. It is not that there is any period of limitation for the Courts to exercise their powers under Article 226 nor is it that there can never be a case where the Courts cannot interfere in a matter after the passage of a certain length of time, but it would be a sound and wise exercise of discretion for the Courts to refuse to exercise their extraordinary powers under Article 226 in the case of persons who do not approach it expeditiously for the relief and who stand by and allow things to happen and then approach the court to put forward stale claims and try to unsettle settled matters."

27. We are absolutely conscious that in the case at hand the seniority has not been disturbed in the promotional cadre and no promotions may be unsettled. There may not be unsettlement of the settled position but, a pregnant one, the respondents chose to sleep like Rip Van Winkle and got up from their slumber at their own leisure, for some reason which is fathomable to them only. But such fathoming of reasons by oneself is not countenanced in law. Anyone who sleeps over his right is bound to suffer. As we perceive neither the tribunal nor the High Court has appreciated these aspects in proper perspective and proceeded on the base that a junior was promoted and, therefore, the seniors cannot be denied the promotion.

28. Remaining oblivious to the factum of delay and laches and granting relief is contrary to all settled principles and even would not remotely attract the concept of discretion. We may hasten to add that the same may not be applicable in all circumstances where certain categories of fundamental rights are infringed. But, a stale claim of getting promotional benefits definitely should not have been entertained by the tribunal and accepted by the High Court.

29. True it is, notional promotional benefits have been granted but the same is likely to affect the State exchequer regard being had to the fixation of pay and the pension. These aspects have not been taken into consideration. What is urged before us by the learned counsel for the respondents is that they should have been equally treated with Madhav Singh Tadagi. But equality has to be claimed at the right juncture and not after expiry of two decades. Not for nothing, it has been said that everything may stop but not the time, for all are in a way slaves of time. There may not be any provision providing for limitation but a grievance relating to promotion cannot be given a new lease of life at any point of time."

6. The aforesaid view was followed by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Union of India and others v. Chaman Rana, (2018)5 SCC 798 and Union of India and others v. C. Girija and others 2019(3) SCALE 527.

7. In Chennai Metropolitan Water Supply and Sewerage Board and others v. T. T. Murali Babu, (2014)4 SCC 108, Hon'ble the Supreme Court opined as under:-

"13. First, we shall deal with the facet of delay. In Maharashtra State Road Transport Corporation v. Balwant Regular Motor Service, Amravati and others, AIR 1969 SC 329, the Court referred to the principle that has been stated by Sir Barnes Peacock in Lindsay Petroleum Co. v. Prosper Armstrong Hurd, Abram Farewall, and John Kemp, (1874) 5 PC 221, which is as follows:-

"Now the doctrine of laches in Courts of Equity is not an arbitrary or a technical doctrine. Where it would be practically unjust to give a remedy, either because the party has, by his conduct, done that which might fairly be regarded as equivalent to a waiver of it, or where by his conduct and neglect he has, though perhaps not waiving that remedy, yet put the other party in a situation in which it would not be reasonable to place him if the remedy were afterwards to be asserted in either of these cases, lapse of time and delay are most material. But in every case, if an argument against relief, which otherwise would be just, is founded upon mere delay, that delay of course not amounting to a bar by any statute of limitations, the validity of that defence must be tried upon principles substantially equitable. Two circumstances, always important in such cases, are, the length of the delay and the nature of the acts done during the interval, which might affect either party and cause a balance of justice or injustice in taking the one course or the other, so far as relates to the remedy."

14. In State of Mahrashtra v. Digambar, (1995) 4 SCC 683, while dealing with exercise of power of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution, the Court observed that power of the High Court to be exercised under Article 226 of the Constitution, if is discretionary, its exercise must be judicious and reasonable, admits of no controversy. It is for that reason, a person's entitlement for relief from a High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution, be it against the State or anybody else, even if is founded on the allegation of infringement of his legal right, has to necessarily depend upon unblameworthy conduct of the person seeking relief, and the court refuses to grant the discretionary relief to such person in exercise of such power, when he approaches it with unclean hands or blameworthy conduct.

15. In State of M. P. and others etc. etc. vs. Nandlal Jaiswal and others etc. etc., AIR 1987 SC 251, the Court observed that it is well settled that power of the High Court to issue an appropriate writ under Article 226 of the Constitution is discretionary and the High Court in exercise of its discretion does not ordinarily assist the tardy and the indolent or the acquiescent and the lethargic. It has been further stated therein that if there is inordinate delay on the part of the petitioner in filing a petition and such delay is not satisfactorily explained, the High Court may decline to intervene and grant relief in the exercise of its writ jurisdiction. Emphasis was laid on the principle of delay and laches stating that resort to the extraordinary remedy under the writ jurisdiction at a belated stage is likely to cause confusion and public inconvenience and bring in injustice.

16. Thus, the doctrine of delay and laches should not be lightly brushed aside. A writ court is required to weigh the explanation offered and the acceptability of the same. The court should bear in mind that it is exercising an extraordinary and equitable jurisdiction. As a constitutional court it has a duty to protect the rights of the citizens but simultaneously it is to keep itself alive to the primary principle that when an aggrieved person, without adequate reason, approaches the court at his own leisure or pleasure, the court would be under legal obligation to scrutinize whether the lis at a belated stage should be entertained or not. Be it noted, delay comes in the way of equity. In certain circumstances delay and laches may not be fatal but in most circumstances inordinate delay would only invite disaster for the litigant who knocks at the doors of the court. Delay reflects inactivity and inaction on the part of a litigant "a litigant who has forgotten the basic norms, namely, "procrastination is the greatest thief of time" and second, law does not permit one to sleep and rise like a phoenix. Delay does bring in hazard and causes injury to the lis. In the case at hand, though there has been four years' delay in approaching the court, yet the writ court chose not to address the same. It is the duty of the court to scrutinize whether such enormous delay is to be ignored without any justification. That apart, in the present case, such belated approach gains more significance as the respondent employee being absolutely careless to his duty and nurturing a lackadaisical attitude to the responsibility had remained unauthorisedly absent on the pretext of some kind of ill health. We repeat at the cost of repetition that remaining innocuously oblivious to such delay does not foster the cause of justice. On the contrary, it brings in injustice, for it is likely to affect others. Such delay may have impact on others' ripened rights and may unnecessarily drag others into litigation which in acceptable realm of probability, may have been treated to have attained finality. A court is not expected to give indulgence to such indolent persons- who compete with `Kumbhakarna' or for that matter 'Rip Van Winkle'. In our considered opinion, such delay does not deserve any indulgence and on the said ground alone the writ court should have thrown the petition overboard at the very threshold."

8. In Bal Krishan v. State of Punjab and others, 2013(2) Recent Service Judgments 18, (P&H) wherein the petitioner, after rendering about 34 years of service, sought refixation of his pay from the date he joined service by filing a petition more than three years after his retirement, the High Court of Punjab & Haryana dismissed the writ petition on account of delay and laches only.

9. The issue regarding decision of a claim on a direction by the Court on the representation filed by a writ petitioner was also considered in Union of India and others v. M.K. Sarkar, (2010)2 SCC 59 wherein it was held that the issue of limitation or delay and laches is to be considered with reference to original cause of action and not with reference to an order passed in compliance to Court's direction. The Court's direction to consider representation or a decision given in compliance thereof, will not extend the limitation or erase the delay and laches.

10. In Vijay Kumar Kaul and others v. Union of India and others, (2012)7 SCC 610, Hon'ble the Supreme Court declined relief to the petitioners who were fence sitters as they had approached the Court after the issues raised by other employees were decided. Relief was declined on account of delay and laches.

11. Facts of the case in hand are also similar as writ petition was filed referring to other cases.

12. The issue was further examined in Prabhakar v. Joint Director Sericulture Department and another, (2015)15 SCC 1. It was a case under the Industrial Disputes Act. In the aforesaid case the matter in dispute was regarding delay in raising the industrial dispute. The opinion expressed by the Court was that right not exercised for a long time is non-existent even if there is no limitation period prescribed. The litigant was non-suited on the doctrine of delay and laches as well as doctrine of acquiescence. Paragraph 38 of the judgment is extracted below:-

"38. Likewise, if a party having a right stands by and sees another acting in a manner inconsistent with that right and makes no objection while the act is in progress he cannot afterwards complain. This principle is based on the doctrine of acquiescence implying that in such a case party who did not make any objection acquiesced into the alleged wrongful act of the other party and, therefore, has no right to complain against that alleged wrong."

13. The Halsbury's Laws of England explains delay, latches and acquiescence as under:

"In determining whether there has been such delay as to amount to laches, the chief points to be considered are:

(i) acquiescence on the claimant's part; and

(ii) any change of position that has occurred on the defendant's part.

Acquiescence in this sense does not mean standing by while the violation of a right is in progress, but assent after the violation has been completed and the claimant has become aware of it. It is unjust to give the claimant a remedy where, by his conduct, he has done that which might fairly be regarded as equivalent to a waiver of it; or where by his conduct and neglect, though not waiving the remedy, he has put the other party in a position in which it would not be reasonable to place him if the remedy were afterwards to be asserted. In such cases lapse of time and delay are most material. Upon these considerations rests the doctrine of laches."

14. In State of Jammu & Kashmir v. R. K. Zalpuri and others, (2015)15 SCC 602 Hon'ble the Supreme Court considered the issue regarding delay and laches in raising the dispute before the Court. It was opined that the issue sought to be raised by the petitioners therein was not required to be addressed on merits on account of delay and laches. The relevant paras thereof are extracted below:-

"27. The grievance agitated by the respondent did not deserve to be addressed on merits, for doctrine of delay and laches had already visited his claim like the chill of death which does not spare anyone even the one who fosters the idea and nurtures the attitude that he can sleep to avoid death and eventually proclaim "Deo gratias - thanks to God".

28. Another aspect needs to be stated. A writ court while deciding a writ petition is required to remain alive to the nature of the claim and the unexplained delay on the part of the writ petitioner. Stale claims are not to be adjudicated unless non-interference would cause grave injustice. The present case, need less to emphasise, did not justify adjudication. It deserves to be thrown overboard at the very threshold, for the writ petitioner had accepted the order of dismissal for half a decade and cultivated the feeling that he could freeze time and forever remain in the realm of constant present."

15. The aforesaid view was followed by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Union of India and others v. Chaman Rana, (2018)5 SCC 798.

16. Subsequently, a Constitution Bench of Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Senior Divisional Manager, Life Insurance Corporation v. Shree Lal Meena, (2019)4 SCC 479, considering the principle of delay and laches, opined as under:-

"36. We may also find that the appellant remained silent for years together and that this Court, taking a particular view subsequently, in Sheel Kumar Jain v. New India Assurance Company Limited, (2011)12 SCC 197 would not entitle stale claims to be raised on this behalf, like that of the appellant. In fact the appellant slept over the matter for almost a little over two years even after the pronouncement of the judgment.

37. Thus, the endeavour of the appellant, to approach this Court seeking the relief, as prayed for, is clearly a misadventure, which is liable to be rejected, and the appeal is dismissed."

17. In Bharat Coking Coal Ltd. and others v. Shyam Kishore Singh, (2020)2 Supreme Today 189, the issue regarding the delay and laches, was considered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court and a petition filed belatedly, seeking change in the date of birth in the service record, was dismissed.

18. Recently, Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Kapilaben Ambalal Patel and others v. State of Gujarat and another, 2020 SCC OnLine SC 439, while agreeing with the conclusion recorded by the Division Bench of the High Court that the writ petition filed in the year 2001 questioning the Possession Panchanama dated March 20, 1986, suffered from laches, held as under:-

"23. ... However, it is not necessary for us to dilate on these aspects having agreed with the conclusion recorded by the Division Bench of the High Court that the writ petition filed in the year 2001 by the appellants with limited relief of questioning the Possession Panchanama dated 20.3.1986, suffered from laches. The Division Bench of the High Court noted that the learned single Judge completely glossed over this crucial aspect of the matter, and we find no reason to depart from that conclusion.

24. In view of the above, it is not necessary for us to dilate on other contentions raised by the appellants or by the respondent-State on merits.

25. Having said thus, it must follow that the present appeal is devoid of merits and the impugned decision of the Division Bench of the High Court ought to be upheld on the threshold ground of writ petition being barred by laches."

19. So far as the sale deeds (Annexures-2 and 3), to which reference has been made by learned Senior Counsel, are concerned, the same were registered after issuance of Government Order dated March 19, 2015. Further in Basudeo's case (supra), the sale deed was registered in the year 2015, after the Government Order dated March 19, 2015 came into force. In the case in hand, the sale deeds were registered in the year 2013 on different dates, much prior to the Government Order dated March 19, 2015.

20. For the reasons mentioned above, we do not find any case is made out for interference in the present case. The same is accordingly, dismissed.

Krishna Autar & ors. Vs St. of U.P. & ors. , Writ-C No. 44720 of 2016

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Bindal, C.J.
Hon'ble Piyush Agrawal, J.)

1. The grievance raised by the petitioner in the present petition is that appropriate compensation has not been paid to him on account of acquisition of his land. The prayer in the present petition is for quashing the order dated November 11, 2020 passed by respondent no. 3 vide which his claim was rejected. Prayer has also been made for quashing the award dated August 17, 2016 passed by Additional District Magistrate (Land Acquisition), Kanpur Nagar. Prayer has been made for payment of compensation in terms of provisions of Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013 (hereinafter referred to as "2013 Act").

2. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the land of the petitioner was proposed to be acquired by issuing notifications under Section 28 of the U.P. Avas Evam Vikas Parishad Act, 1965 (hereinafter referred to as "1965 Act") read with Section 4 of Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (hereinafter referred to as "1894 Act") on March 10, 1973. As the provisions of 1894 Act are applicable for acquisition of land under 1965 Act, notification under Section 6 was issued on August 27, 1980. The award was announced on August 17, 2016 in terms of the provisions of the 2013 Act. However, assessment of the compensation was not appropriately made. Immediately thereafter on September 6, 2016, the petitioner was advised to file appeal against the award to the Commissioner, Kanpur Division, Kanpur. As the same was not being decided, Writ-C No. 12744 of 2020 (Ram Bharose Vs. State of U.P. and others) was filed in this Court. The same was disposed of on September 8, 2020 with a direction for disposal of the appeal filed by the petitioner. The impugned order dated November 11, 2020 has been passed thereon.

3. Referring to the judgment of this Court in Writ-C No. 44720 of 2016 (Krishna Autar and others Vs. State of U.P. and others), prayer is that the compensation payable to the petitioner deserves to be assessed in terms thereof.

4. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondents submitted that the award having been announced, in the case in hand, after the 2013 Act came into force, applying the procedure laid down therein, petitioner, if aggrieved, has remedy to file objection under Section 64 thereof. The same having not been filed, the award should not be permitted to be challenged by filing writ petition in this Court. No appeal was maintainable against the award before the Commissioner. That remedy was wrongly availed of by him. No relief can be granted to him at this stage.

5. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the paper-book.

6. Some of the basic facts, which are not in dispute in the present petition, are that for acquisition of land of the petitioner, notifications under Sections 4 and 6 of the 1894 Act were issued on March 10, 1973 and August 27, 1980. The award was not announced immediately thereafter. It was after a period of 36 years, that on August 17, 2016, the award was announced by the Additional District Magistrate (Land Acquisition), Kanpur Nagar. Feeling aggrieved, the petitioner, as may have been advised at that time, instead of filing objection under Section 64 of the 2013 Act, preferred appeal to the Commissioner, Kanpur Division, Kanpur. The same was rejected as not maintainable.

7. In terms of Section 64 of the 2013 Act, if any land owner is aggrieved by the assessment of amount of compensation on account of acquisition of land, he has remedy to file representation before the Collector within six weeks from the date of award. What we find in the case in hand is that grievance was raised by the petitioner by filing appeal to the Commissioner within six weeks from the date of the award. The same was sent by him through registered-post. After filing the appeal, petitioner had been pursuing his appeal but could not get any relief, as wrong forum was invoked.

8. Be that as it may, it is a case of a poor land owner, whose land was acquired and immediately thereafter he has raised the issue regarding amount of compensation though filing an appeal to the Commissioner, but, in our opinion, the same should be considered as objection filed in terms of Section 64 of the 2013 Act, so that the petitioner is not deprived of assessment of fair compensation on account of acquisition of his land. The aforesaid objection, which was sent by him through registered post to the Commissioner, Kanpur Division, Kanpur and copy whereof is annexed as Annexure-4, be dealt with by Collector concerned in terms of provisions of Section 64 of the 2013 Act. Needful shall be done within a period of three months from the date of receipt of copy of this order.

9. The petition stands allowed in aforesaid terms.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Bhatia, J.)

1. Heard learned Counsel for the petitioners as well as Sri Indrajeet Shukla, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State and Sri Vasudeo Mishra, who appears on behalf of the respondents no.3 and 4.

2. The facts that emerged from Writ-C No.1002174 of 2015 are that one Sri Amit Kumar Pandey died on account of coming into contact with live wire on 12.10.2011 at 08:45 AM due to electric shock. It is also on record that with regard to the incident, an FIR was registered as Case Crime No.358 of 2011, under Section 304A of the IPC against the officers of the electricity department on account of the death of Sri Amit Kumar Pandey. The petitioners made several applications for grant of compensation but the same was not done. It is specifically pleaded in para 8 of the writ petition that with regard to the live wires, a complaint was also made to the electricity department and apprehension was also expressed that the improper laying of electricity lines and that too fraudulently can lead to an accident anytime which can result in loss of life and property.

3. As no compensation was paid by the electricity department, an application was filed under the Public Liability Insurance Act, 1991 (in short ' the PLI Act') before the District Magistrate wherein it was stated that at the time of accident, the age of the deceased Amit Kumar Pandey was 23 years and was earned Rs.9,000/- per month. It was also stated that Amit Kumar Pandey was survived by his father, mother, wife and two minor children. It was also stated that on the date of incident i.e. 12.10.2011 at about 08:45 AM, the deceased was working along with his uncle Brijesh Pandey. While going to the field, the uncle of the deceased came in contact with the electricity and when the deceased tried to save him, he got electrocuted and died. It is also recorded that after the death of Amit Kumar Pandey, postmortem was also conducted. The cause of death as shown in the postmortem report is shock as a result of electrocution.

4. The facts that emerge from Writ-C No.1002173 of 2015 are that as per the allegations one Brijesh Pandey died in the same incident in which Amit Kumar Pandey also died arising out of electrocution, as such, a claim petition was filed under Section 6 of the PLI Act before the District Magistrate alleging that the claimants i.e. father and mother were entitled for compensation on account of death of Brijesh Pandey. It is stated that he also died in the incident which took place on 12.10.2011 in which Amit Kumar Pandey died. An FIR was lodged and a postmortem was conducted over the body of Brijesh Pandey which discloses the cause of death as shock as a result of electrocution. It was alleged that late Brijesh Pandey was aged about 28 years and was earning Rs.9000/- per month and on the application of the claimants petitioners herein, the District Magistrate granted compensation of Rs.1,00,000/- (Rupees One Lac) vide order dated 13.03.2015 on the same reasoning as contained in the award passed in the case of Amit Kumar Pandey.

5. The Counsel for the petitioners argues that the amount of compensation as awarded by the District Magistrate amounting to Rs.1,00,000/- (Rupees one lac) is arbitrary and cannot be termed as 'just compensation'. He argues that in terms of the mandate of Section 6 of the PLI Act, it was incumbent upon the authority to award 'just compensation' after an inquiry which the District Magistrate has failed to do. He argues that the District Magistrate has merely followed a Government Order by awarding Rs.1,00,000/- (Rupees one lac) as compensation which is neither provided under the Act nor under the Rules and thus, it is prayed that the amount as awarded on 13.03.2015 be enhanced and the petitioner be paid just compensation for which he is entitled in accordance with law.

6. In support of the said submissions, the petitioner places reliance on the judgment of this Court in the case of Bheem Sen vs State of U.P. and others; 2019 (6) ADJ 586 whereby this Court after considering the two earlier judgments of the High Court as well as the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court had proceeded to award the compensation of Rs.40,00,000/- (Rupees forty lac). He also places reliance on another judgment of this Court in the case of Yas Pal Singh (Minor) and another vs State of U.P. and others; 2017 (5) ADJ 696. He also drawn my attention to the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court wherein considering the provisions of Motor Vehicle Act, the Hon'ble Supreme Court was of the view that it is incumbent upon all the courts to ensure just compensation irrespective of the fact that whether the same is claimed or not.

7. The Counsel for the respondent, on the other hand, argues that as no finding of fault has been recorded, the maximum compensation that could have been paid is provided under Section 3 of the Act and in terms of the Schedule of the said Act. The petitioners could be paid only Rs.25,000/- (Rupees Twenty Five Thousand), however, in terms of the Government Order issued by the concerned Department, an amount of Rs.1,00,000/- (Rupees one lac) has been paid, thus, the order of the District Magistrate cannot be termed as arbitrary. He further argues that in any case, no inquiry to the quantum of compensation has been done by the District Magistrate.

8. The Counsel for the respondent places reliance on the judgment of this Court passed in the case of U.P. Power Corporation Limited and others vs District Magistrate/ Collection, Sultanpur and others decided on 07.09.2021 in Writ Petition No.42 (MS) of 2005.

9. In the light of the arguments as raised between the parties, this Court is to consider whether the amount of compensation awarded can be termed as 'just' and whether the court while exercise the power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India can enhance the compensation from the face of pleadings exchanged between the parties?

10. Considering the claim of the petitioners that the incident occurred on account of the negligence of the department, specific pleadings in this regard has been made in para 8 of the writ petition wherein it has been stated that admittedly complaints were made with regard to the improper keeping of the electricity wire and an apprehension had also expressed that the negligent act of the department in not maintaining the electricity can cause accident and loss of life and of property. Annexure-5 of the writ petition is an application moved on 23.11.2006.

11. To elaborate further paragraph 8 of the writ petition and its reply as contained in para 7 of the counter affidavit are quoted hereinbelow:

"8. That in support of his claim, the petitioners have also filed the copy of several applications which were filed by the uncle of the deceased at the time of forceful electric connection over the land of petitioner upon which junior Engineer Electric has been directed to visit the spot and insure no danger took place, but inspite of repeated directions given by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate and Executive Engineer and District Magistrate, Sultanpur nothing has been ensured by Junior engineer Electric and as such due to grass and negligent act of electricity department an incident took place in which the son of petitioner nos. 1 and 2 and husband of the petitioner no.3 and father of the petitioner nos. 4 and 5 died. The copies of the applications moved by the uncle of the deceased before the opposite parties are being annexed herewith collectively as Annexure No.5 to this writ petition.

7. That the contents of paragraph 8 of the writ petition as stated is not correct hence denied."

12. A perusal of the award itself indicates that the stand of the electricity department before the District Magistrate was that one of the residents of the village Ram Samhar had extracted the electricity by extending a cable without the permission of the department in an illegal manner and on receiving the information of the accident, the electricity department had taken steps to stop current flow from the cable. It was also the stand of the department before the District Magistrate that the death had occurred on account of the electrocution, however, it could not be termed as fault of the department. In view of there being specific pleadings, supported by Annexure-5 and there being no specific denial to the said pleadings coupled with the stand taken by the department before the District Magistrate, it can be safely presumed that the department was negligent in not checking unauthorized use of electricity by extension of cables over the area in question.

13. Considering the submissions made at the bar, it is clear that the death occurred on account of electrocution and improper maintenance of the electricity lines by the respondent Corporation which fact has been admitted by the respondents in the stand taken before the District Magistrate, as such, the negligence of the respondent Corporation stands established.

14. The next issue is to decide 'what would be the just compensation'. Specific pleadings in this regard in the form of the petition before the District Magistrate with regard to the age of the deceased, his dependants and his income which according to the petitioners was Rs.9,000/- per month was made.

15. The Counsel for the respondents places heavy reliance on the judgment of this Court in the case of U.P. Power Corporation Limited and others vs District Magistrate/ Collection, Sultanpur and others (supra) wherein this Court after considering the mandate of Sections 3, 7 and 8 of the PLI Act came to the conclusion that the petitioner while filing the claim petition under the Public Liability Insurance Act can be entitled to claim only the compensation as specified in the Schedule as referred to in Section 3 of the PLI Act and claiming compensation of higher amount, the PLI Act, 1991 can be of no avail. It was further held that in the PLI Act, there is no mechanism by which it can be said that the principles for awarding compensation in the case of Motor Vehicles Acts can be applied for computing the compensation under the PLI Act.

16. I have gone through the said judgment and with respect, I differ with it for the reason that from the plain reading of the PLI Act, it is clear that the compensation can be claimed under the said Act under two provisions, firstly under Section 3, which provides for grant of compensation on the principles of 'No fault' and confines to the quantum of compensation to the extent indicated in the Schedule as appended to the Act, however, Section 6 of the Act provides for compensation other than under 'No fault' and empowers the grant of compensation as specified in Section 7 of the PLI Act.

17. In the judgment passed in the case of U.P. Power Corporation Limited and others vs District Magistrate/ Collection, Sultanpur and others (supra), the mandate of Section 6 was not brought to the notice of the Court concerned and as such, the judgment was passed under an impression that the claim can be made and awarded only under Section 3 which is qualified by Sections 7 and 8 of the said Act whereas Section 6 provides for an application other than an application which is prescribed under Section 3 of the PLI Act and in fact, the plain reading of Section 7 makes it clear that the same refers to the application filed under Section 6(1) of the Act.

18. For perusal of Sections 3, 6, 7 and 8 of the PLI Act are quoted below:

"3. Liability to give relief in certain cases on principle of no fault.--(1) Where death or injury to any person (other than a workman) or damage to any property has resulted from an accident, the owner shall be liable to give such relief as is specified in the Schedule for such death, injury or damage.

(2) Every application under sub-section (1) shall be made to the Collector and shall be in such form, contain such particulars and shall be accompanied by such documents as may be prescribed.

(3) No application for relief shall be entertained unless it is made within five years of the occurrence of the accident.

7. Award of relief.--(1) On receipt of an application under sub-section (1) of section 6, the Collector shall, after giving notice of the application to the owner and after giving the parties an opportunity of being heard, hold an inquiry into the claim or, each of the claims, and may make an award determining the amount of relief which appears to him to be just and specifying the person or persons to whom such amount of relief shall be paid.*

(b) the Collector shall arrange to pay from the Relief Fund, in terms of such award and in accordance with the scheme under section 7A, to the person or persons referred to in sub-section (1) such amount as may be specified in that scheme;

(c) the owner shall, within such period, deposit such amount in such manner as the Collector may direct.]

(5) The Collector shall have all the powers of a Civil Court for the purpose of taking evidence on oath and of enforcing the attendance of witnesses and of compelling the discovery and production of documents and material objects and for such other purposes as may be prescribed; and the Collector shall be deemed to be a Civil Court for all the purposes of section 195 and Chapter XXVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974).

(6) Where the insurer or the owner against whom the award is made under sub-section (1) fails to deposit the amount of such award within the period specified under sub-section (3), such amount shall be recoverable from the owner, or as the case may be, the insurer as arrears of land revenue or of public demand.

(7) A claim for relief in respect of death of, or injury to, any person or damage to any property shall be disposed of as expeditiously as possible and every endeavour shall be made to dispose of such claim within three months of the receipt of the application for relief under sub-section (1) of section 6.

(8) Where an owner is likely to remove or dispose of his property with the object of evading payment by him of any amount of the award, the Collector may, in accordance with the provisions of rules 1 to 4 of Order XXXIX of the First Schedule to the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908), grant a temporary injunction to restrain such act.]

8. Provisions as to other right to claim compensation for death, etc.--(1) The right to claim relief under sub-section (1) of section 3 in respect of death of, or injury to, any person or damage to any property shall be in addition to any other right to claim compensation in respect thereof under any other law for the time being in force.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), where in respect of death of, or injury to, any person or damage to any property, the owner, liable to give claim for relief, is also liable to pay compensation under any other law, the amount of such compensation shall be reduced by the amount of relief paid under this Act."

19. For the reasons recorded above and the fact that the application in the present case was filed under Section 6 and not under Section 3 of the PLI Act, I do not see any reason to accept the contention of the Counsel for the respondent based upon the judgment passed by this Court in the case of U.P. Power Corporation Limited and others vs District Magistrate/ Collection, Sultanpur and others (supra).

20. Now coming to the quantum of compensation that can be awarded by this Court in the judgment passed in the case of Bheem Sen (Supra) noticed that the liability under a tort in respect of the public undertaking would arise on establishing the legal wrong/ tort. The Court also noticed that for payment of tort compensation besides the remedy of suit, as is available under the common law, various statutes have been enacted for payment of tortious liability such a Motor Vehicles Act (for claims arising out of motor vehicle accidents), Employees Compensation Act (for claiming compensation by employees), PLI Act, Fatal Accidents Act, Consumer Protection Act, to name a few and in the case where liability is claimed against public undertaking which is amenable to writ jurisdiction, the power under Article 226 can be exercised for grant of just and proper compensation. All the forums provided in the above referred Acts basically have been enacted for laying procedures for expeditiously claiming a tortious liability.

21. The Court also noticed the lines of decision where the compensation was granted in the cases of medical negligence and custodial deaths in Nilabati Behera vs State of Orissa; (1993) 2 SCC 746, State of M.P. vs Shyamsunder Trivedi; (1995) 4 SCC 262, People's Union for Civil Liberties vs Union of India; (1997) 3 SCC 433, and Kaushalya vs State of Punjab; (1999) 6 SCC 754, Supreme Court Legal Aid Committee vs State of Bihar; (1991) 3 SCC 482, Jacob George (Dr.) vs State of Kerala; (1994) 3 SCC 430; Paschim Banga Khet Mazdoor Samity vs State of West Bengal; (1996) 4 SCC 37 and Manju Bhatia vs New Delhi Municipal Council; (1997) 6 SCC 370.

22. Although it is true that the principles for grant of compensation under the Motor Vehicles Act have not been made specifically applicable to the grant of compensation under the PLI Act, however, the facts remain that under Section 6 of the PLI Act, the Collector is bound to determine and pay the compensation which is a 'just compensation'. The concept of 'just compensation' has been emphasized from time to time by the courts holding that courts/ tribunals are not only expected to grant 'just compensation', it is the duty of the court to grant 'just compensation' especially when the claim arises out of the socio-economic legislation.

23. In view thereof, I am of the view that the manner of determining the compensation as provided under the Motor Vehicles Act can be taken as a cue to determine and grant compensation in the present case also. The principle of quantum of compensation have been explained in details taken in the context of Motor Vehicles Act by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of National Insurance Company Limited vs Pranay Sethi and others; (2017) 16 SCC 680, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that for determining compensation, it is required that the following parameters be established, the age of the deceased, the income of the deceased and the number of the dependents. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has further given directions with regard to the claim of compensation on both pecuniary and non-pecuniary heads and specific directions in that regard are contained in para 59 of the said judgment, which reads as under:

"59. In view of the aforesaid analysis, we proceed to record our conclusions:-

59.1. The two-Judge Bench in Santosh Devi should have been well advised to refer the matter to a larger Bench as it was taking a different view than what has been stated in Sarla Verma, a judgment by a coordinate Bench. It is because a coordinate Bench of the same strength cannot take a contrary view than what has been held by another coordinate Bench.

59.2. As Rajesh has not taken note of the decision in Reshma Kumari, which was delivered at earlier point of time, the decision in Rajesh is not a binding precedent.

59.3. While determining the income, an addition of 50% of actual salary to the income of the deceased towards future prospects, where the deceased had a permanent job and was below the age of 40 years, should be made. The addition should be 30%, if the age of the deceased was between 40 to 50 years. In case the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years, the addition should be 15%. Actual salary should be read as actual salary less tax.

59.4. In case the deceased was self-employed or on a fixed salary, an addition of 40% of the established income should be the warrant where the deceased was below the age of 40 years. An addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years and 10% where the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years should be regarded as the necessary method of computation. The established income means the income minus the tax component.

59.5. For determination of the multiplicand, the deduction for personal and living expenses, the tribunals and the courts shall be guided by paragraphs 30 to 32 of Sarla Verma which we have reproduced hereinbefore.

59.6. The selection of multiplier shall be as indicated in the Table in Sarla Verma read with paragraph 42 of that judgment.

59.7. The age of the deceased should be the basis for applying the multiplier.

59.8. Reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs. 15,000/-, Rs. 40,000/- and Rs. 15,000/- respectively. The aforesaid amounts should be enhanced at the rate of 10% in every three years."

24. In the light of the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others vs Delhi Transport Corporation and another; (2009) 6 SCC 121 as followed in the case of Pranay Sethi (supra), I proceed to determine the compensation payable to the petitioner on account of death of Amit Kumar Pandey and Brijesh Pandey.

25. In the claim petition, it was alleged by the claimants that Brijesh Pandey was aged about 28 years and was unmarried. The mother and the father were dependants on the said Brijesh Pandey. It was also alleged that he earned Rs.9000/- (Rupees nine thousand per month), although, there is no evidence with regard to the earning on record.

26. From the perusal of the documents especially the postmortem conducted on the body of the deceased Brijesh Pandey, which is on record, the age of the deceased has been shown to be 30 years and thus I accept the said age as the age on which the deceased Brijesh Pandey died. As no income proof has been attached, I presume the minimum wages to be earned by the deceased Brijesh Pandey assessed as Rs.4500/- per month. The deceased Brijesh Pandey is unmarried and only the mother and the father were dependent, an addition of 40% is to be made in the income of the deceased in terms of the judgment of the Pranay Sethi's case (Supra) towards future prospects. At the time of death, the age of the victim is 30 years, thus multiplier '17' is applied. The deceased was unmarried, therefore, 50% will be deducted towards personal expenses in view of the judgnent of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of General Manager, Kerala State Road Transport Corporation Vs. Susamma Thomas; 1994 (2) SCC 176. The dependents of Brijesh Pandey are entitled for compensation as per the calculation made hereinunder:

Sl. No.	Head	Amount
1	Monthly Income of the deceased	Rs.4500/- per month
2	Adding 40% towards future prospect	Rs.4500+1800 = Rs.6300/-
3	Net yearly income	Rs.6300 x 12 = Rs.75600/-
4	Deducting 50%	Rs.75600 x 50% = Rs.37800/-
5	Applying multiplier of '17' at the age between 26 to 30 as per Sarla Verma's case	Rs.37800 x 17 = Rs.6,42,600/-
6	Amount under the conventional heads [loss of estate Rs.16,500/-, loss of consortium Rs.45,000/- (each of dependents); Rs.45,000 x 2 = Rs.90,000/- and funeral expenses Rs.16,500/-) as per Pranay Sethi (Supra)]	Rs.16,500 + Rs.90,000 + Rs.16,500 =Rs.1,23,000/-
7	Total amount of compensation payable to the dependents of the deceased	Rs.6,42,600+Rs.1,23,000 = Rs.7,65,600/-

27. Thus, in Writ-C No.1002173 of 2015, the petitioners are entitled for payment of compensation of Rs.7,65,600/- along with interest @ 6% from the date of accident i.e. 12.10.2011 up to actual payment/ realization.

28. In the case of Amit Kumar Pandey, the age as disclosed in the postmortem report is 28 years. The income although alleged to Rs.9000/- per month has not been established by evidence, as such, I presume the minimum wages to be earned by the deceased was Rs.4500/- on which enhancement of 40% is permissible as future prospect. The petitioner is survived by his wife, two minor children, mother and father, hence, the deduction of 1/4th of his income is permissible in view of law laid down in Pranay Sethi (Supra). At the time of death, the age of the victim is 28 years, thus multiplier '17' is applied. The dependents of Amit Kumar Pandey are entitled for compensation as per the calculation made hereinunder:

Sl. No.	Head	Amount
1	Monthly Income of the deceased	Rs.4500/- per month
2	Adding 40% towards future prospect	Rs.4500+1800 = Rs.6300/-
3	Net yearly income	Rs.6300 x 12 = 75600/-

4	Deducting 1/4th towards personal expenses	Rs.75600 x 25% = Rs.18900/- After deduction Rs.75600-Rs.18900 = Rs.56700/-
5	Applying multiplier of '17' at the age between 26 to 30 as per Sarla Verma's case	Rs.56700 x 17= Rs.9,63,900/-
6	Amount under the conventional heads [loss of estate Rs.16,500/-, loss of consortium Rs.45,000/- (each of dependents); Rs.45,000 x 5 = Rs.2,25,000/- and funeral expenses Rs.16,500/-) as per Pranay Sethi (Supra)]	Rs.16,500 + Rs.2,25,000 + Rs.16,500 =Rs.2,58,000/-
7	Total amount of compensation payable to the dependents of the deceased	Rs.9,63,900 + Rs.2,58,000/- = Rs.12,21,900/-

29. Thus, in Writ-C No.1002174 of 2015, the petitioners are entitled for payment of compensation of Rs.12,21,900/- along with interest @ 6% from the date of accident i.e. 12.10.2011 up to actual payment/ realization.

30. For the reasons recorded above, both the writ petitions are disposed off.

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Civil Law - Motor Accident Act, 1988 – Claim – Obligation of vehicle at the inter junction, where two road crossing each other – Tribunal found the deceased sole negligent and car driver not negligent – Validity challenged – Held, the law is well settled that at interception or inter junction, it is the duty of the vehicle, coming on the highway from intercepting road to slow down the vehicle and to see on all sides more particularly, his right and left side to ensure whether any vehicle is coming on the highway – High Court overruled the finding of Tribunal and held both drivers of the car and motorcycle, were co-authors of the accident and have contributed to the accident – High Court re-computed the compensation by adding 15% future loss and applying multiplier of 9 and awarded 7.5% interest. (Para 12, 13, 20 and 21)

B. Motor Accident Claim – Rash and negligent driving – Term 'Negligence' – Meaning – Principle of 'res ipsa loquitur', when it can be applied – Negligence means failure to exercise care towards others which a reasonable and prudent person would in a circumstance or taking action which such a reasonable person would not. Negligence can be both intentional or accidental though it is normally accidental – If the injury rather death is caused by something owned or controlled by the negligent party then he is directly liable otherwise the principle of "res ipsa loquitur" meaning thereby "the things speak for itself" would apply. (Para 8)

C. Motor Accident Claim – Principle of contributory negligence – Scope and meaning – A person who either contributes or is co author of the accident would be liable for his contribution to the accident having taken place. (Para 9)

D. Civil Law - Income Tax Act, 1961 – Section 194A (3) (ix) – Withdraw of amount of interest – Certificate of Income Tax authority, when required – Held, if the interest payable to any claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs. 50,000/-, insurance Co./owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 – But if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs. 50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimants to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. (Delivered by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

(Oral Judgment by Hon'ble Ajai Tyagi, J.)

1. This appeal challenges the judgement and order of MACT/Special Judge E.C. Act, Meerut dated 13.10.2015 in MACP No.1276 of 2012 (Deepak Sharma Vs. Jitendra Singh and others), by which the claim petition filed by appellant was dismissed.

2. Heard learned counsel for the appellant and learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondents.

3. Brief facts of the case are that a claim petition was filed by appellant before the learned Tribunal on account of death of father of the appellant Brahm Swarup Sharma in a road accident. As per averments in the petition, on 05.08.2012 at about 3:00 pm, the deceased was going from Meerut to Sardhna by his motorcycle bearing No.UP 15 Q 5760. When he reached by pass road Khirwa crossing, a car bearing No.DL 7 CC 2323 which was coming from the side of Haridwar and was being driven rashly and negligently by its driver dashed into the motorcycle of the deceased. In this accident, the deceased sustained fatal injuries and died. The age of the deceased was 58 years. The deceased was serving in Custom and Central Excise Department and was also getting pension due to being an ex-army man.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that learned Tribunal held that in the aforesaid accident the deceased was himself 100% negligent and the car driver was not negligent at all. Learned counsel submitted that there is crossing on the spot of the accident. The car driver was driving the car at a very high speed while the deceased was standing on his motorcycle on the side of the road. The car driver hit the motorcycle because he was driving rashly and negligently. Learned counsel attracted our attention towards the testimony of PW2, who is eye-witness of the accident and submitted that the eye-witness PW-2 has also stated that the deceased was standing on his motorcycle on the side of the road and the car driver dashed into the motorcycle due to high speed. In this way, the car driver was sole negligent but the learned Tribunal did not appreciate the evidence in right perspective. Learned counsel for the appellant relied on the judgement of this Court, penned by one of us, Smt. Meenakshi Srivastava Vs. Dheeraj Pandey and others 2022 0 Supreme (All) 318 decided on 11.03.2022.

5. It is next submitted by the learned counsel for the appellant that the deceased was in service in Central Excise Department, Meerut from where he was getting salary of Rs.20,000/- per month. The deceased was ex-army man and he was getting pension also nearly Rs.7,000/- per month. The age of the deceased was 58 years as per his service book record.

6. Learned insurance company vehemently opposed the submissions made by the appellant and submitted that at the time of accident the deceased came from the side road, which was crossing the highway, hence, it was duty of the deceased to see right and left side of the highway to make sure that no vehicle is coming from either side and after taking aforesaid precaution, he should have crossed the highway but he did not take such precaution. It is also submitted that eye-witness PW2 has given false evidence that the deceased was standing on motorcycle on the side of the road but as per the site-plan, the place of the accident is shown in middle of the road. Moreover, there was no indicating board or red light at the crossing, which could caution the vehicle running on the highway. Hence, the learned Tribunal has rightly held that the car driver was not negligent and the deceased was sole author of the accident. Hence, there is no illegality or infirmity in the impugned judgement which calls for any interference by this Court.

7. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties, let us consider the negligence from the perspective of the law laid down.

8. The term negligence means failure to exercise care towards others which a reasonable and prudent person would in a circumstance or taking action which such a reasonable person would not. Negligence can be both intentional or accidental which is normally accidental. More particularly, it connotes reckless driving and the injured must always prove that the either side is negligent. If the injury rather death is caused by something owned or controlled by the negligent party then he is directly liable otherwise the principle of "res ipsa loquitur" meaning thereby "the things speak for itself" would apply.

9. The principle of contributory negligence has been discussed time and again. A person who either contributes or author of the accident would be liable for his contribution to the accident having taken place.

10. The Division Bench of this Court in First Appeal From Order No. 1818 of 2012 (Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Co.Ltd. Vs. Smt. Renu Singh And Others) decided on 19.7.2016 has held as under:

"16. Negligence means failure to exercise required degree of care and caution expected of a prudent driver. Negligence is the omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided upon the considerations, which ordinarily regulate conduct of human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. Negligence is not always a question of direct evidence. It is an inference to be drawn from proved facts. Negligence is not an absolute term, but is a relative one. It is rather a comparative term. What may be negligence in one case may not be so in another. Where there is no duty to exercise care, negligence in the popular sense has no legal consequence. Where there is a duty to exercise care, reasonable care must be taken to avoid acts or omissions which would be reasonably foreseen likely to caused physical injury to person. The degree of care required, of course, depends upon facts in each case. On these broad principles, the negligence of drivers is required to be assessed.

17. It would be seen that burden of proof for contributory negligence on the part of deceased has to be discharged by the opponents. It is the duty of driver of the offending vehicle to explain the accident. It is well settled law that at intersection where two roads cross each other, it is the duty of a fast moving vehicle to slow down and if driver did not slow down at intersection, but continued to proceed at a high speed without caring to notice that another vehicle was crossing, then the conduct of driver necessarily leads to conclusion that vehicle was being driven by him rashly as well as negligently.

18. 10th Schedule appended to Motor Vehicle Act contain statutory regulations for driving of motor vehicles which also form part of every Driving License. Clause-6 of such Regulation clearly directs that the driver of every motor vehicle to slow down vehicle at every intersection or junction of roads or at a turning of the road. It is also provided that driver of the vehicle should not enter intersection or junction of roads unless he makes sure that he would not thereby endanger any other person. Merely, because driver of the Truck was driving vehicle on the left side of road would not absolve him from his responsibility to slow down vehicle as he approaches intersection of roads, particularly when he could have easily seen, that the car over which deceased was riding, was approaching intersection.

19. In view of the fast and constantly increasing volume of traffic, motor vehicles upon roads may be regarded to some extent as coming within the principle of liability defined in Rylands V/s. Fletcher, (1868) 3 HL (LR) 330. From the point of view of pedestrian, the roads of this country have been rendered by the use of motor vehicles, highly dangerous. 'Hit and run' cases where drivers of motor vehicles who have caused accidents, are unknown. In fact such cases are increasing in number. Where a pedestrian without negligence on his part is injured or killed by a motorist, whether negligently or not, he or his legal representatives, as the case may be, should be entitled to recover damages if principle of social justice should have any meaning at all.

20. These provisions (section 110A and sec.110B of Motor Act, 1988) are not merely procedural provisions. They substantively affect the rights of the parties. The right of action created by Fatal Accidents Act, 1855 was 'new in its species, new in its quality, new in its principles. In every way it was new. The right given to legal representatives under Act, 1988 to file an application for compensation for death due to a motor vehicle accident is an enlarged one. This right cannot be hedged in by limitations of an action under Fatal Accidents Act, 1855. New situations and new dangers require new strategies and new remedies.

21. In the light of the above discussion, we are of the view that even if courts may not by interpretation displace the principles of law which are considered to be well settled and, therefore, court cannot dispense with proof of negligence altogether in all cases of motor vehicle accidents, it is possible to develop the law further on the following lines; when a motor vehicle is being driven with reasonable care, it would ordinarily not meet with an accident and, therefore, rule of res-ipsa loquitor as a rule of evidence may be invoked in motor accident cases with greater frequency than in ordinary civil suits (per three-Judge Bench in Jacob Mathew V/s. State of Punjab, 2005 0 ACJ(SC) 1840).

22. By the above process, the burden of proof may ordinarily be cast on the defendants in a motor accident claim petition to prove that motor vehicle was being driven with reasonable care or that there is equal negligence on the part the other side."

(Emphasis added)

11. We have perused the judgement of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Archit Saini & another Vs. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. AIR 2018 SC 1143 but we have to appreciate entire evidence on record, documentary evidence as well as oral. There are discrepancies between the site-plan and oral evidence of PW2. As per the testimony of PW2, at the time of accident the deceased was not driving the vehicle in the middle of road but was standing on his motorcycle on the side of the road. While, the spot/place of impact of the accident is shown to be in the middle of the road in the site-plan.

12. It is an admitted fact that the offending car was running on the highway and the deceased was crossing or about to cross the highway from the intercepting road. This law is well settled that at interception or inter junction namely, where two roads cross each other, it is the duty of the vehicle, coming on the highway from intercepting road to slow down the vehicle and to see on all sides more particularly, his right and left side to ensure whether any vehicle is coming on the highway or leaving the other road and entering the intersection so as to cross the road from either side which could endanger either of them. The case on hand, it seems that the deceased did not take aforesaid precaution because at the time of accident, the deceased was in the middle of the road while crossing the highway. Although, the deceased should have been more cautious, it was equally the duty of the car driver who was driving a bigger vehicle to slow down his vehicle when he was approaching the cross road, because any vehicle or pedestrian could come from either side of the intercepting road. Hence, in such a situation, duty is cast on the drivers of the both the vehicles but the degree of caution is higher on the part of the person approaching on the highway from intercepting road in comparison to the person, driving on the highway because vehicles generally move at higher speed on the highways. Hence, merely because the driver of the car was driving on the left side of the road would not absolve him from his responsibility to slow down the car when he was approaching the interception of the roads. We do not concur with the submissions of learned counsel for the insurance company that there was no indicating board or red light at the crossing, because the driver of the car could easily see from a distance that there is intercepting road ahead of him. Hence, he was also duty bound to slow down the car, but he did not take such precautions. It is also pertinent to mention that the car driver, who is the best witness, has not stepped into the witness box to explain the accident.

13. In view of the above, we cannot concur with the learned judge of the Tribunal that the deceased was solely negligent and car driver was not rash and negligent. We are of the considered opinion that drivers of the car and motorcycle, both were co-authors of the accident and have contributed to the accident and there is negligence on part of both the drivers. We hold the deceased to be equally negligent namely 50% negligent and the driver of the car to be 50% negligent as the deceased was coming from the smaller road and required to be cautious while entering the inter junction of roads, deceased also was negligent though it is opined by PW2 to have stopped at interjection but the speed shows that he was also eqaully careless.

14. The next issue which arises is regarding compensation and liability of the respondents and liability to compensate the appellant. While pondering over the matter the question is should the matter be sent to tribunal for deciding quantum as for liability the tribunal has returned the finding that there is no breach of policy nor is there anything proved by insurance company to prove to the contrary the fact that the matter has remained pending for long, namely 7 years, the record and proceedings are before this Court and the matter whether be remanded to the Tribunal or decided here? The answer is in the affirmative. We place reliance on the judgments of the Apex Court in Bithika Mazumdar and another Vs. Sagar Pal and others, (2017) 2 SCC 748, Vimla Devi and others Vs. National Insurance Company Limited and another, (2019) 2 SCC 186 and of this Court in F.A.F.O. No. 1999 of 2007 (Oriental Insurance Company Limited vs. Smt. Ummida Begum and others) and in F.A.F.O. No. 1404 of 1999 (Smt. Ragini Devi and others Vs. United India Insurance Company Limited and another) decided on 17.4.2019 wherein it has been held that if the record is with the appellate Court, it can decide compensation instead of relegating the parties to the Tribunal.

15. Hence, as far as quantum is concerned, after hearing the learned counsel for both the parties and perusal of the record, we find that the deceased was in service in Central Excise Department in Meerut. It is also on record that the deceased was ex-army man and he was getting pension also. The pay slip of the deceased is issued by Assistant Chief Accountant of Customs and Central Excise Department, Meerut, which is paper No.25 Ga/2. Although, no concerned employee/accountant of the department has appeared before learned Tribunal with salary record, yet the salary slip cannot be disbelieved because it is filed in record by the Commissioner, Central Excise Meerut-I in response to the information, sought under Right to Information Act. The net amount of the salary was Rs.15,169/- in which the component of provident fund Rs.8,500/- would be added as per judgement of Vimal Kanwar and others Vs. Kishore Dan and others, 2013 (3) TAC, 6 (SC). Hence, the total payable salary comes Rs.15,169+ Rs.8,500 = Rs.23,669/-. It is pertinent to mention that this pay slip pertains to the last full month salary of the deceased prior to accident which the deceased received. Apart from salary slip, the pass book of the deceased paper No.23 Ga/5 is also on record, which is said to be pension pass book or the pass book in which the pension of the deceased was being credited. The perusal of this pass book shows that he has received Rs.6934 as last pension. Hence, total income of the deceased by way of salary and pension comes to Rs.23,669+Rs.6,934=Rs.30,603/- per month which is rounded up at Rs.30,000/- per month.

16. As per the judgement of Hon'ble the Apex Court in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050 the deceased was a salaried person and within the age bracket of 50-60 years, hence, 15% would be added to his salaried income only, because the aforesaid judgement of Pranay Sethi (supra) provides for future prospects to the tune of 15% for the persons who are in the permanent job or are self-employed. The deceased was receiving pension but as the son is married and daughters are married and his wife has predeceased him the amount of pension would have been spent by him and the amount would not increase as it would stop with his demise, hence, on the component of pension, no future loss of income can be calculated or granted.

17. When we scanned through the record, we noted that the appellant/claimant has deposed as PW1 and in his cross-examination, he has deposed that the deceased is survived by three daughters and the appellant but the appellant has not made the daughters as party to the claim petition and the learned Tribunal has also lost sight to this fact. Hence, we take it to ourselves to take care of the compensation payable to the sisters of the appellant would be entitled to compensation also in view of the Judgement of Apex court reported in Smt. Manjuri Beri Vs. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. AIR 2007 SC 1474 as they are legal representative of deceased.

18. As far as the deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased are concerned, as per the testimony of appellant PW1, his mother has predeceased his father. Appellant has also deposed that he is in service and getting salary at Rs.15,000/- per month. He has three sisters and all of them are married. Hence it can safely be assumed that the sisters were not dependent on father. In such a situation, we consider it appropriate to deduct ½ for personal expenses of the deceased and the amount of pension would be spent on himself we cannot deduct ¾ as submitted by learned counsel for respondent.

19. The copy of the service book shows the date of birth of the deceased as 01.07.1954. Hence, at the time of accident, the deceased was of 58 years old. Hence, as per the judgement of Smt. Sarla Verma vs. Delhi Transport Corporation [2009 (2) TAC 677 (SC)] multiplier of 9 would be applied.

20. Hence, the total compensation, in view of the above discussions, payable to the appellant-claimant is being computed herein below:

i.	Total income (salary + pension)		Rs.30,000/-
ii.	Percentage towards Future-Prospects (on income from salary Rs.23,669/- only) 15%		Rs.3,550/-
iii.	Total Income	Rs.30,000/-	Rs.33,550/-
		+Rs.3,550/-
iv.	Income after 1/2 deduction for personal expenses	Rs.33,500/- - Rs.16,775/-	Rs.16,775/-
v.	Annual income	Rs.16,775/- x 12	Rs.2,01,300/-
vi.	Multiplier applicable	9
vii.	Loss of dependency	Rs.2,01,300/- x 9	Rs.18,11,700/-
viii.	Payable amount after deduction of 50% for contributory negligence	Rs.18,11,700- Rs.9,05,850	Rs.9,05,850/-

21. The three daughters of the deceased, who are married as per testimony of the appellant, would get Rs.50,000/- each and the rest amount of compensation would be paid to the appellant with interest, which would be 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till the date of depositing the amount by the Insurance Company respondent No.2. Insurance Company shall deposit the amount of compensation within 12 weeks from today.

22. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma Vs. Venugopal reported in 2012 (1) GLH (SC) 442, the order of investment is not passed because applicants/claimants are neither illiterate nor rustic villagers.

23. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed.

24. Fresh award be drawn accordingly by the Tribunal as per modification made herein.

20. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansagori P. Ladhani vs. The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., [2007(2) GLH 291] and this High Court in total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimants to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) and in First Appeal From Order No.2871 of 2016 (Tej Kumari Sharma v. Chola Mandlam M.S. General Insurance Co. Ltd.) decided on 19.3.2021 while disbursing the amount.

21. The Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Privae Ltd. vs. Union of India and others vide order dated 27.1.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. Since long time has elapsed, the amount be deposited in the Saving Bank Account of claimant(s) in a nationalized Bank without F.D.R.

Order On Civil Misc. Restoration Application

For the reasons disclosed in the affidavit filed in support of the restoration application, cause shown constitutes sufficient cause, consequently, restoration application is allowed. Order dated 5.1.2012, dismissing the appeal is recalled and the appeal is restored to its original number.

Order On Appeal

1. Appeal is restored to its original number.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the Employees State Insurance Corporation, challenges the judgment and order dated 22.2.1993 passed by Judge, Employees Insurance Court, Kanpur in Appeal No.250 of 1992 whereby the Court below had allowed the appeal upturning the decision of the medical board.

3. Brief facts are that the Medical Board issued a certificate awarding Nil loss of earning capacity to the injured-claimant. The injured suffered employment injuries on his left eye. The employment injury was not in dispute. What is in dispute is the grant of compensation considering his employment injury to 30%. Can this be considered to be bad and perverse finding and question of law? The answer is no as it is a finding of fact and not law.

4. The undersigned is fortified in the aforesaid view as the appeal under Workmen Compensation Act/Employees State Insurance Act has to be viewed very seriously in view of the judgment in Golla Rajanna Etc. Etc. Vs. Divisional Manager and Another, 2017 (1) TAC 259 (SC). The finding of fact is that the injured was an employee who had sustained employment injury and was incapacitated to the tune of 30%.

5. This Court is further supported in its view by the decision of the Apex Court in Civil Appeal No.7470 of 2009 North East Karnataka Road Transport Corporation Vs. Smt. Sujatha decided on 2.11.2018 wherein it has been held by the Court as under:

"15. Such appeal is then heard on the question of admission with a view to find out as to whether it involves any substantial question of law or not. Whether the appeal involves a substantial question of law or not depends upon the facts of each case and needs an examination by the High Court. If the substantial question of law arises, the High Court would admit the appeal for final hearing on merit else would dismiss in limini with reasons that it does not involve any substantial question/s of law.

16. Now coming to the facts of this case, we find that the appeal before the High Court did not involve any substantial question of law on the material questions set out above. In other words, in our view, the Commissioner decided all the material questions arising in the case properly on the basis of evidence adduced by the parties and rightly determined the compensation payable to the respondent. It was, therefore, rightly affirmed by the High Court on facts.

17. In this view of the matter, the findings being concurrent findings of fact of the two courts below are binding on this Court. Even otherwise, we find no good ground to call for any interference on any of the factual findings. None of the factual findings are found to be either perverse or arbitrary or based on no evidence or against any provision of law. We accordingly uphold these findings."

6. This Court, recently in F.A.F.O. 1070 of 1993 (E.S.I.C. Vs. S. Prasad) decided on 26.10.2017 has followed the decision in Golla Rajana (Supra) and has held as follows:

"The grounds urged before this Court are in the realm of finding of facts and not a question of law. As far as question of law is concerned, the aforesaid judgment in Golla Rajanna Etc. Etc. Versus Divisional Manager and another (supra) in paragraph 8 holds as follows "the Workman Compensation Commissioner is the last authority on facts. The Parliament has thought it fit to restrict the scope of the appeal only to substantial questions of law, being a welfare legislation. Unfortunately, the High Court has missed this crucial question of limited jurisdiction and has ventured to re-appreciate the evidence and recorded its own findings on percentage of disability for which also there is no basis."

7. A recent decision of the Apex Court in the case of Mayan Vs. Mustafa and another, 2022 ACJ 524 also holds that the Court cannot interfere unless there is a question of law involved and finding of fact is sought to be assailed. In our case the injury was during the course of employment. The percentage of injury was decided by the Commissioner. The judgment of Apex Court in Salim Versus New India Assurance Co.Ltd. and another, 2022 ACJ 526 will also not permit this Court to interfere in the well reasoned judgment of the Commissioner.

8. In view of the above, the appeal fails and is dismissed. The so called questions of law framed by the Insurance Company are answered against it. In fact the substantial questions of law raised are the questions of fact.

9. Interim relief, if any, shall stand vacated forthwith.

10. As this is an appeal of the year 1993, all the amounts kept in fixed deposit, will be transmitted to the account of claimant- M. Raza who shall give his bank account.

A. Service Law – Promotion - Allahabad High Court Officers and Staff (Conditions of Service and Conduct) Rules, 1976 - Clause (ii) of Rule 8(a)(i) - The eligibility of a candidate is to be reckoned on the fixed date indicated in the advertisement/notification inviting applications. In the absence of a date fixed, the requisite eligibility is to be judged on the last date for making the applications and not on any date subsequent to that date. (Para 11)

The proposition that where applications are called for prescribing a particular date as the last date for filing the applications, the eligibility of the candidates shall have to be judged with reference to that date and that date alone, is a well-established one. A person who acquires the prescribed qualification subsequent to such prescribed date cannot be considered at all. An advertisement or notification issued/published calling for applications constitutes a representation to the public and the authority issuing it is bound by such representation. It cannot act contrary to it. (Para 13)

In the present case, the learned Single Judge erred in law in permitting the writ petitioners/respondents who admittedly did not possess the minimum educational qualifications as prescribed u/Rule 8(a)(i)(ii) of the Allahabad High Court Officers and Staff (Conditions of Service and Conduct) Rules, 1976 as it stood on the date of the notice inviting applications to appear in the examination and also declare their results. Since the writ petitioners/respondents have already appeared in the examination held on 10.04.2022, we deem it appropriate to modify the order of the learned Single Judge by directing that the results of the writ petitioner/respondents and all other candidates who have been permitted to take the examination dated 10.04.2022 pursuant to the order of the learned Single Judge dated 08.04.2022 shall not be declared and shall abide by the outcome of the writ petition. The results of all other candidates may be declared by the High Court, if it so desires, however, the results so declared shall also abide by the outcome of the writ petition. (Para 10, 14)

Present special appeal challenges the judgment and order dated 08.04.2022, passed by Hon'ble Single Judge in Writ-A No. 4533 of 2022.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pritinker Diwaker, J.

Hon'ble Ashutosh Srivastava, J.)

1. These Intra Court Appeals have been filed questioning the legality, propriety and correctness of the order dated 08.04.2022 passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ-A No.4533 of 2022 (Devendra Pal Singh and 16 others Vs. State of U.P. and 2 others) whereby and whereunder the prayer No. (iii) and (iv) made in the writ petition have been allowed qua the Petitioner Nos.4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 15, 16 & 17 and directions have been issued permitting them to appear in the examination after due verification of their Course on Computer Concepts Certificate (hereinafter referred to as 'CCC Certificate'). The writ petition has been dismissed qua the writ petitioners No. 1, 2, 3, 7, 13 & 14 with liberty to file a fresh writ petition. The writ petition has been further directed to be heard finally on the following question framed:-

"11. In view of this interim order, the prayers no.(iii) and (iv) are allowed and the matter will be heard finally on following issues:-

"Whether considering that addition of a new eligibility qualification by way of amendment (in present case, CCC Certificate), a course of minimum three months in order to participate in a competitive examination for Class IV employees of the High Court for the posts in the cadre of Computer Assistant, requirement to posses all the qualifications including the amended qualification before the date of advertisement could be relaxed up to the date of examination due to the short time-line that amendment was carried out on 13.3.2021, date of advertisement was 28.9.2021 and the examination is scheduled on 10.4.2022 ?"

2. The issue before the learned Single Judge pertains to the recruitment to the 17 posts of Computer Assistant in the Establishment of the High Court by way of promotion by holding a Departmental Examination from amongst eligible Class IV Employees working in the High Court Establishment. The Notice dated 28.09.2021 was issued for inviting applications from Class IV employees who have completed 5 years continuous satisfactory service as on 01.07.2021 and possess the minimum educational qualification as prescribed under the Rules. The relevant Rules which govern the recruitment are "the Allahabad High Court Officers and Staff (Conditions of Service and Conduct) Rules, 1976". The Clause (ii) of Rule 8(a)(i) of the 1976 Rules existing at the time of issuance of the Recruitment Notice is reproduced hereunder:-

"(ii) 40% by promotion on merit through competitive examination from Class IV employees who have completed five years continuous satisfactory service as on 01st July of the year of recruitment and possesses the minimum educational qualification of intermediate along with CCC Certificate/Diploma/Degree in Computer Science from recognized institute established by law in India."

3. The cut off date for submitting the application forms was 19.10.2021. A total of 135 Class-IV candidates are stated to have applied for the Departmental Examination-2021 to be held for the purpose of the aforesaid Recruitment. The application forms of 114 candidates were rejected on the ground that they did not satisfy the condition stipulated in Rule 8(a)(i)(ii) of the 1976 Rules inasmuch as they did not possess the minimum educational qualification of Intermediate along with CCC Certificate/ Diploma/Degree of Computer Science from recognized institute established by law in India. Accordingly, vide Notice dated 16th March, 2022 the Registrar (J) (S & A/Establishment) informed the eligible 21 Class-IV candidates of the High Court, Allahabad/Lucknow Bench that the Departmental Examination for promotion of Class-IV employees to the post of Computer Assistant is scheduled to be conducted on 10.04.2022 at 11:00 AM in the High Court Premises. The notice also informed that the application forms of the rest of the 114 Class-IV candidates who had applied for the Departmental Examination-2021 for the post of Computer Assistant had been rejected.

4. A set of 17 candidates, whose application forms had been rejected, approached this Court by filing Writ (A) No.4533 of 2022 claiming the following reliefs:-

"(i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the impugned notice dated 16th March 2022 (Annexure No. 9 to the writ petition) by which the candidature of the petitioners has been cancelled.

(ii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the impugned notice dated 28th September 2021 (Annexure No.5 to the writ petition) issued by Registrar General, High Court, Allahabad (Respondent No.2).

(iii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondents to permit the petitioners to appear in the examination and also declare their results.

(iv) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the Hon'ble High Court to accept the CCC Certificate said to be completed and accept to the candidates who have completed their CCC before the examination for the purpose of minimum qualification.

(v) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondents Hon'ble High Court to permit some of the petitioners who have not completed their CCC Certificate and grant them sometime to complete the same.

(vi) Issue any other writ, order or direction which this Hon'ble Court may deem fir and proper in the facts and circumstances of the case.

(vii) Award to cost of the petition in favour of the petitioner."

5. The contention of the writ petitioners before the learned Single Judge was that the petitioners No. 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 14, 15 and 16 have obtained the CCC Certificates subsequent to the Recruitment Notice dated 28.09.2021 but before the date of the scheduled examination i.e. 10.04.2022 and in such view of the matter they be permitted to appear in the examination. It was also contended that initially vide Notification dated 21.12.2020, 17 posts of Computer Assistant were sought to be filled up and the petitioners were eligible as the Rules did not contain the requirement of possessing CCC Certificate/Diploma/Degree of Computer Science but the said notification was cancelled and fresh notice has been issued on 28.09.2021 but in the interregnum the Recruitment Rules have been amended and their application forms have been rejected on the ground of not possessing the qualification of CCC Certificate/ Diploma/ Degree in Computer Science. However, the petitioners No.4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 15, 16 & 17 now possess the requisite certificate by December, 2021 and should not be deprived from appearing in the exam scheduled for 10.04.2022, particularly, in view of the fact that there was a surge of Covid-19 cases and the CCC Certificate Course which requires at lease 3 months could not be perused.

6. The learned Single Judge found favour with the contentions advanced by the petitioners and, accordingly, by the impugned order permitted the petitioners possessed with the CCC Certificates to appear in the examination after due verification of the certificates and allowed the final prayers (iii) & (iv) made in the writ petition while directing that the writ petition would be heard finally on the question framed as reproduced herein above. The Prayers No. iii and iv are quoted hereunder:-

"(iii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondents to permit the petitioners to appear in the examination and also declare their results.

(iv) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the Hon'ble High Court to accept the CCC Certificate said to be completed and accept to the candidates who have completed their CCC before the examination for the purpose of minimum qualification."

7. Sri Samir Sharma, learned Senior Counsel, assisted by Sri Chandan Sharma, Advocate, representing the appellants in Special Appeal No.310 of 2022 vehemently submits that the impugned order of the learned Single Judge cannot be sustained in as much as the learned Single Judge has granted final relief as prayer Nos.3 & 4 have been finally allowed at the preliminary hearing stage. The learned Single Judge has by the impugned order permitted the petitioners to appear in the examination and at the same time directed for declaration of their result which is patently illegal and impermissible under the law. The learned Single Judge proceeds on equity alone ignoring the settled principle that "Equity follows Law" while granting interim relief contrary to law. The order of the learned Single Judge is self contradictory in as much as on one hand, prayer Nos.3 & 4 in the writ petition have been finally granted and yet the issue has been left open to be decided at the time of final hearing. It is submitted that a candidate for appointment to any particular post must fulfill the minimum eligibility criteria on the date of advertisement or the cut off mentioned. Admittedly, on the date of notice inviting applications for promotion to the posts in question i.e. 28.09.2021 the petitioners did not fulfill the minimum eligibility criteria for promotion to the post and the learned Single Judge by the impugned order has issued directions dehors the Rules itself. Lastly, it is submitted that the writ petitioners did not implead the permitted candidates mentioned in the order dated 16.03.2022 as party respondents in the writ petition while seeking its quashing and above all the writ petition itself at the instance of the writ petitioners who admittedly were not eligible to participate in the recruitment process, was not maintainable and the learned Single Judge manifestly erred in law in entertaining and partly allowing the same.

8. Sri R. K. Ojha, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Shivendu Ojha, learned counsel representing the writ petitioner-respondents, in opposition to the Special Appeals, submits that the Special Appeals have been filed against an interlocutory/interim order and as such, are not maintainable. The interim order has already taken effect in as much as the writ petitioners have already appeared in the exam which was held on 10.04.2022 and the Special Appeals have thus been rendered infructuous. The Special Appeals are otherwise not maintainable as the appellants themselves pursuant to the impugned order have accepted the interim order and permitted the other similarly circumstanced candidates, besides the writ petitioners to appear in the examination. The 21 candidates mentioned in the list appended to the impugned order dated 16.03.2022 were not required to be impleaded as no relief was being claimed against them. The learned Senior Counsel thus submits that the appeals may be dismissed and the writ petition itself which is pending before the learned Single Judge be decided on its merit.

9. We have heard the learned counsels for the parties and have perused the record.

10. We are conscious of the fact that pursuant to the impugned order of the learned Single Judge, the writ petitioners have been permitted to appear in the examination held on 10.04.2022 and in fact the writ petitioners and similarly circumstanced candidates have also been permitted to appear in the examination held on 10.04.2022. The Special Appeal in our opinion to that extent has been rendered infructuous. However, we find that the learned Single Judge by the impugned order has not only permitted the writ petitioners to take the examination but has also directed for declaration of their results. Such a direction in our opinion was not required. In fact, the direction permitting the writ petitioners to appear in the examination even though they did not possess the requisite qualification prescribed under the relevant Rules governing the field itself is contrary to law.

11. In the opinion of the Court, the eligibility of a candidate is to be reckoned on the fixed date indicated in the advertisement/notification inviting applications. In the absence of a date fixed, the requisite eligibility is to be judged on the last date for making the applications and not on any date subsequent to that date. The Apex Court in the case of Rekha Chaturvedi (Smt.) Vs. University of Rajasthan and others, reported in 1993 Supp (3) SCC 168 in para 10 observed as under:-

"10. The contention that the required qualifications of the candidates should be examined with reference to the date of selection and not with reference to the last date for making applications has only to be stated to be rejected. The date of selection is invariably uncertain. In the absence of knowledge of such date the candidates who apply for the posts would be unable to state whether they are qualified for the posts in question or not, if they are yet to acquire the qualifications. Unless the advertisement mentions a fixed date with reference to which the qualifications are to be judged, whether the said date is of selection or otherwise, it would not be possible for the candidates who do not possess the requisite qualifications in praesenti even to make applications for the posts. The uncertainty of the date may also lead to a contrary consequence, viz., even those candidates who do not have the qualifications in praesenti and are likely to acquire them at an uncertain future date, may apply for the posts thus swelling the number of applications. But a still worse consequence may follow, in that it may leave open a scope for malpractices. The date of selection may be so fixed or manipulated as to entertain some applicants and reject others, arbitrarily. Hence, in the absence of a fixed date indicated in the advertisement/notification inviting applications with reference to which the requisite qualifications should be judged, the only certain date for the scrutiny of the qualifications will be the last date for making the applications. We have, therefore, no hesitation in holding that when the selection Committee in the present case, as argued by Shri Manoj Swarup, took into consideration the requisite qualifications as on the date of selection rather than on the last date of preferring applications, it acted with patent illegality, and on this ground itself the selections in question are liable to be quashed. Reference in this connection may also be made to two recent decisions of this Court in A.P. Public Service Commission, Hyderabad & Anr. v. B. Sarat Chandra & Ors., (1990) 4 SLR 235 and The District Collector & Chairman, Vizianagaram (Social Welfare Residential School Society) Vidanagaran & Anr. v. M. Tripura Sundari Devi, (1990) 4 SLR 237."

12. A similar question as involved in the case at hand arose in the case of Ashok Kumar Sharma and another Vs. Chander Shekher and another, reported in 1993 Supp (2) SCC 611. The question involved was as to whether the educational qualifications should be possessed on the date of submission of the application form or on the date of interview. The majority view was that the requirement stood fulfilled if the candidates were possessed of the requisite educational qualifications on the date of the interview even though they admittedly did not possess the same at the time of submission of the application forms. The majority view held that it was in public interest to entertain applications of candidates who did not possess requisite educational qualification on the date of application but possessed it on the date of interview, despite express instructions in the advertisement that such applications would not be entertained.

13. The majority view in Ashok Kumar Sharma's case was however reviewed and not approved by the Apex Court in Ashok Kumar Sharma & others Vs. Chander Shekhar and another, reported in 1997 (4) SCC 18 by observing as under:-

"The proposition that where applications are called for prescribing a particular date as the last date for fling the applications, the eligibility of the candidates shall have to be judged with reference to that date and that date alone, is a well-established one. A person who acquires the prescribed qualification subsequent to such prescribed date cannot be considered at all. An advertisement or notification issued/published calling for applications constitutes a representation to the public and the authority issuing it is bound by such representation. It cannot act contrary to it. One reason behind this proposition is that if it were known that persons who obtained the qualifications after the prescribed date but before the date of interview would be allowed to appear for the interview would be allowed to appear for the interview, other similiarly placed persons could also have applied. Just because some of the persons had applied notwithstanding that they had not acquired the prescribed qualifications by the prescribed date, they could not have been treated on a preferential basis. Their application ought to have been rejected at the inception itself. This proposition is indisputable and in fact was not doubted or disputed in the majority Judgement. This is also the proposition affirmed in Rekha Chaturvedi (Smt.) v. University of Rajasthan and others [1993 Suppl. (3) S.C.C 168]. The reasoning in majority opinion that by allowing the 33 respondents to appear for the interview, the Recruiting Authority was able to get the bests talent available and that such course was in furtherence of public interest is, with respect, an impermissible Justification It is, in our considered opinion, a clear error of low and an error apparent on the face of the record. In our opinion, R.M. Sahai, J. (and the Division Bench of the High Court) was right in holding that the 33 respondents could not have allowed to appear for interview."

14. In view of the above legal position, we are of the opinion that the learned Single Judge erred in law in permitting the writ petitioners/ respondents who admittedly did not possess the minimum educational qualifications as prescribed under Rule 8(a)(i)(ii) of the Allahabad High Court Officers and Staff (Conditions of Service and Conduct) Rules, 1976 as it stood on the date of the notice inviting applications to appear in the examination and also declare their results. Since the writ petitioners/ respondents have already appeared in the examination held on 10.04.2022, we deem it appropriate to modify the order of the learned Single Judge by directing that the results of the writ petitioner/respondents and all other candidates who have been permitted to take the examination dated 10.04.2022 pursuant to the order of the learned Single Judge dated 08.04.2022 shall not be declared and shall abide by the outcome of the writ petition. The results of all other candidates may be declared by the High Court, if it so desires, however, the results so declared shall also abide by the outcome of the writ petition. We have been informed that the counter and rejoinder affidavits have been exchanged between the parties. Accordingly, in the circumstances, we request the learned Single Judge to proceed to decide the writ petition on merits at the earliest.

15. The Special Appeals are disposed of accordingly.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE DEVENDRA KUMAR UPADHYAYA, J.
THE HON'BLE SUBHASH VIDYARTHI, J.

Spl. Appeal No. 23 of 2022

Jyoti Sikka ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Lalta Prasad Misra, Naveen Shukla

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Practice & Procedure - Joinder/ Non-Joinder of Parties - The appellant does not have any personal interest or concern with the said dispute except that she has been representing the writ petitioner before the learned Single Judge. Thus the Court is of the opinion that the parties in the writ petition are not necessary parties to be impleaded in this Special Appeal considering the nature of prayer brought before this Court. (Para 8)

B. Special Appeal - The Court observed that the certain remarks contained in the order under appeal passed by the Single Judge are adverse and stigmatic and because of which appellant have to face civil consequences. It is also clear that before passing such an order the appellant was not given any notice or an opportunity of hearing. Therefore, this Court opines that instead of approaching the forum of Special Appeal, the appellant ought to have moved appropriate application before the Single Judge for redressal of her grievances. (Para 32 & 33)

C. The statement of facts as to what transpired at the time of hearing recorded in the judgment or order of a Court are to be treated to be conclusive of the facts so stated and no one can be permitted to contradict such statements by affidavit or other evidence. (Para 26)

The appellant prayed to expunge the remarks contained in specific paragraphs of the order under appeal which allegedly are adverse against and cast aspersions on the appellant. The learned Single Judge also ordered that copy of that said order be forwarded for necessary action to the Principal Secretary and the Additional Chief Secretary, Government of U.P. in the Department of Forest. Order on C. M. Application No.1 of 2022

1. Office has reported delay of 18 days in filing the Special Appeal.

2. We have heard the learned counsel for the appellant and learned Chief Standing Counsel representing the sole respondent and have also perused the averments made in the application supported by an affidavit.

3. We are satisfied that the delay has sufficiently been explained.

4. Accordingly, the application is allowed and the delay in preferring the Special Appeal is hereby condoned.

Order on C. M. Application No.3 of 2022

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellant and learned Chief Standing Counsel and perused the averments made in the application with the prayer to grant leave of the Court to file Special Appeal which is supported by an affidavit.

2. Though, the appellant is not a party in the writ petition in which the order dated 02.03.2022 has been passed by the learned Single Judge which is under appeal herein, however, since the prayer in the Special Appeal is confined to set aside only that portion of the order where allegedly aspersions have been cast and adverse remarks has been made against the appellant, the application is allowed and the leave to appeal is granted.

Order on Special Appeal

1. This case presents somewhat unusual facts before us.

2. The instant intra-court appeal seeks to challenge the order dated 02.03.2022, passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ -C No.6208 of 2021 to the extent the order allegedly casts aspersions and makes adverse remarks against the appellant who is a practicing lawyer of this Court and at the relevant point of time was an Additional Advocate General for State for Uttar Pradesh and has been representing the State in the cases brought before this Court.

3. Learned Chief Standing Counsel has raised certain preliminary objections about the maintainability of the Special Appeal. It has been contended in this regard by the learned Chief Standing Counsel that in terms of the provision contained in Chapter IX Rule 7 of the Rules of the Court, all the parties who are arrayed as either parties in the writ petition wherein the order under appeal has been passed, ought to have been arrayed as respondents in this Appeal. It has also been submitted by the learned Chief Standing Counsel that the writ petition was filed by the State of Uttar Pradesh not through the Legal Remembrancer/Principal Secretary, Department of Law but by the Department of Forest through Divisional Forest Officer, Lucknow. Thus, submission is that in the instant Special Appeal, the State has been arrayed not through the Forest Department; rather through Legal Remembrancer/ Principal Secretary, Department of Law and as such description of the respondent is defective.

4. On the aforesaid grounds, learned Chief Standing Counsel has contended that the Special Appeal suffers from the vice of non-joinder of necessary parties and description of State as respondent is also defective.

5. In reply to the said objections, learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that appellant has no personal concern with the adjudication of the dispute in the writ petition and that she has only been representing the writ petitioner before the learned Single Judge and is aggrieved only by the adverse remarks made by the learned Single Judge, hence parties in the writ petition are not necessary parties. He further states that no relief is being claimed by the appellant against the parties in the writ petition, thus there is no defect in the array of parties in this Special Appeal.

6. Therefore, it has been submitted that the parties to the writ petition pending before the learned Single Judge are not necessary parties so far as the issue raised in this Special Appeal is concerned. It has also been argued that since it is believed by the appellant that on the basis of the order passed by the learned Single Judge, the appellant has been discharged from the office of Additional Advocate General of State for Uttar Pradesh by the Law Department, as such State of U.P. in this appeal has been arrayed as respondent not through Forest Department but through Legal Remembrancer/Principal Secretary, Department of Law.

7. Having considered the submissions made by the learned counsel representing the parties in respect of the preliminary objections as to the maintainability of the Special Appeal, we are unable to agree with the submissions made by the learned Chief Standing Counsel.

8. It is true that in the writ petition, the dispute is in relation to certain land between the Forest Department of the State and certain individuals. The appellant does not have any personal interest or concern with the said dispute except that she has been representing the writ petitioner before the learned Single Judge. Thus, we are of the considered opinion that the parties in the writ petition are not necessary to be impleaded in this Special Appeal considering the prayer and the nature of issue brought before us. The preliminary objection as to the maintainability of the Special Appeal, therefore, merits rejection, which is hereby rejected.

9. Learned counsel for the appellant in support of the prayer made in this special appeal has argued that the adverse remarks against the appellant in the order passed by the learned Single Judge are capable of visiting the appellant with adverse civil consequences and that the remarks are so serious that the same are capable of resulting in adverse repercussions on the professional carrier of the appellant as an Advocate, which have been made without affording any opportunity of hearing to the appellant and hence the same need to be expunged.

10. It has further been argued on behalf of the appellant that there is no recognized or prescribed procedure, in the functioning of this Court, of taking permission of the Court in case a counsel is not in a position to appear in a case to be called out during course of the day and hence in this view of the matter as well, the observations made by the learned Single Judge in the order under appeal are unwarranted. It has been submitted that on 3rd of March, 2022 when the order under appeal was passed, no substantial proceedings were to be drawn for the reason that in the writ petition the person arrayed as opposite party no.1 had died and only a request for grant of time for making an application seeking substitution of the legal heirs of the deceased-opposite party was to be made and as such presence of the appellant, who was Additional Advocate General of the State, was not required as necessary assistance to the Court could have been provided by the learned Standing Counsel who was assisting her. It has also been stated that the circumstance in which the appellant could not appear in the case before the learned Single Judge on 02.03.2022 was occasioned because of the fact that the appellant had to leave the Court to attend some medical emergency and even otherwise also there was no occasion for the learned Single Judge to insist for her appearance in the case.

11. Unfolding the events and the circumstances in which the order has been passed by the learned Single Judge on 02.03.2022, in his submission learned counsel for the appellant has stated that the writ petition was instituted by the Forest Department of State of Uttar Pradesh through Divisional Forest Officer, Lucknow against one Har Charan Kaur Gill and that the appellant was engaged to argue the writ petition as an Additional Advocate General for the State and on her argument an interim order was passed in favour of the State on 09.03.2021. It has also been stated on behalf of the appellant that the case was listed before the learned Single Judge on 02.03.2022, however, in the evening of March 1, 2022, learned counsel representing the opposite party no.1 in the writ petition informed the appellant that the said opposite party had died on 27.12.2021 and accordingly the State Counsel assisting the appellant, on the case being called out, requested the learned Single Judge to grant some time to move the application for substitution of the legal heirs of the deceased opposite party, however, the learned Single Judge observed (as informed to the appellant by the learned State Counsel assisting her) that perhaps in the case the appellant as Additional Advocate General was appearing and therefore she be sent for to appear and argue the case. Learned counsel for the appellant further states that after getting the case passed over at about 12.30 p.m. the assisting counsel telephonically informed the appellant that the case was passed over and though he had requested for grant of time in order to enable the State to take steps for bringing an application for substituting the legal heirs of opposite party no.1, however, learned Single Judge desired presence of the appellant before the Court by stating that the case was being conducted by the appellant and enquired about her whereabouts.

12. The appellant thereafter is said to have told the learned State Counsel assisting her that for seeking time for moving application for substitution of the legal heirs of the deceased opposite party, her presence in the Court was not required. In the sequence of events as disclosed in this special appeal on behalf of the appellant, it has further been stated that the appellant also informed the learned State Counsel assisting her that she had left the premises of the Court in order to attend some medical emergency. The case is said to have been called out after lunch recess and as per the appellant, learned counsel assisting her informed the learned Single Judge that the appellant could not appear as she had gone to attend some medical emergency, however, even after this information was furnished to the Court, the order under appeal has been passed by the learned Single Judge.

13. It is also the case of the appellant that after the order under appeal dated 02.03.2022 was passed by the learned Single Judge, State Government has passed an order on 12.04.2022 discharging her from the office of Additional Advocate General and that except the order dated 02.03.2022 passed by the learned Single Judge no other material was available with the State Government which may have resulted in passing of the order discharging the appellant from the office of Additional Advocate General.

14. Stating the aforesaid facts, it has been argued by the learned counsel for the appellant that she was not given any opportunity before passing the order under appeal which contains unwarranted and uncalled for remarks against her. Drawing our attention specially to the observations made in paragraphs 4 and 6 of the order under appeal, it has been argued by the learned counsel representing the appellant that it is not only that the said remarks/observations which adversely affect the appellant were made without giving any opportunity of hearing or even without putting the appellant to notice but also that there is no prescribed procedure which requires any counsel to seek leave of the Court in a matter which is listed during the course of the day, in case the counsel has to leave the Court premises for attending some medical emergency. It has also been submitted that the facts and circumstances of the case did not warrant the order under appeal to have been sent to the Principal Secretary, Law and the Additional Chief Secretary, Department of Forest for information and "necessary action".

15. Emphasis of the learned counsel for the appellant is that the learned Single Judge ought not to have sent the copy of the said order to the State Government for "necessary action". It has thus, been argued that discharge of the appellant from the office of Additional Advocate General has precipitated for no other reason but because of the fact that the order dated 02.03.2022 was sent to the State Government in the Department of Law as well for "necessary action". The submission, thus, is that the remarks/observations contained in paragraphs 4 and 6 of the order under appeal were not called for not only for the reason that the appellant was neither given any opportunity of hearing, nor was she put to any notice before recording such remarks but also for the reason that the factual background of the case were also not correctly appreciated by the learned Single Judge. The prayer thus is that the order under appeal be set aside except to the extent it fixes a date in the matter.

16. We have considered the submissions made by the learned counsel appearing for the appellant and have also perused the records available before us on this special appeal.

17. In this special appeal we have essentially been called upon to expunge the remarks contained in paragraphs 4 and 6 of the order under appeal which allegedly are adverse against and cast aspersions on the appellant.

18. There are well recognized legal principles which are to be followed while considering a matter where consideration is to be made by a Court of law to the prayer for expunction of such remarks. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of State of U.P. vs. Mohammad Naim, reported in AIR 1964 SC 703 had the occasion to cull out the relevant considerations which should weigh with a court while considering such a matter. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the said case of Mohammad Naim (supra) had observed as under:

"It has been judicially recognised that in the matter of making disparaging remarks against persons or authorities whose conduct comes into consideration before courts of law in cases to be decided by them, it is relevant to consider (a) whether the party whose conduct is in question is before the court or has an opportunity of explaining or defending himself ; (b) whether there is evidence on record bearing on that conduct justifying the remarks; and (c) whether it is necessary for the decision of the case, as an integral part thereof, to animadvert on that conduct. It has also been recognised that judicial pronouncements must be judicial in nature, and should not normally depart from sobriety, moderation and reserve. "

(Emphasis supplied by Court)

19. Thus, the first and foremost question to be considered in such a matter is as to whether the party whose conduct is in question had an opportunity of explaining or defending himself. The other considerations to be made are as to whether there is evidence on record justifying the remarks and as to whether remarks are necessary for decision of a case as an integral part thereof. The Hon'ble Supreme Court while culling out these considerations to be made in such a matter further goes on to say that judicial pronouncements must be judicial in nature and should not depart from sobriety, moderation and reserve.

20. The judgment in the case of Mohammad Naim (supra) has been referred and followed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Neeraj Garg vs. Sarita Rani and others, reported in (2021) 9 SCC 92. The case of Neeraj Garg (supra) also related to a lawyer practicing in the Hon'ble High Court of Uttarakhand and certain remarks and observations were made by the said Court against the lawyer without putting him to notice or providing opportunity of hearing.

21. In the case of A. M. Mathur vs. Pramod Kumar Gupta and others, reported in (1990) 2 SCC 533, Hon'ble Supreme Court while considering a matter where certain derogatory remarks were made by Hon'ble Madhya Pradesh High Court against a Senior Advocate and Ex. Advocate General of the State has noticed the significance of avoidance of even the appearances of bitterness which has been held to be important in a judge and which requires a judge not to cast aspersions on the professional conduct of a person.

22. In para 10 of the case of A. M. Mathur (supra) the Hon'ble Supreme Court has quoted Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, the Former Judge of U. S. Supreme Court and author of famous book titled "The Nature of the Judicial Process". In this case quoting justice Felix Frankfurter and Justice Cardozo, Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed that judicial restraint and discipline are as important to the administration of justice as they are to the effectiveness of the army. Hon'ble Supreme Court has also observed in the said judgment that the Court has the inherent power to act freely upon its own conviction on any matter coming before it for adjudication but it is a principle of the highest importance for proper administration of justice that derogatory remarks ought not to be made against persons or authorities whose conduct comes into consideration unless the same becomes necessary for decision of the case. We find it appropriate to extract paragraphs 10 to 14 of the judgment in the case of A.M. Mathur (supra) which are as under:

"10. Justice Cardozo of course said:

"The great tides and currents which engulf the rest of men, do not turn aside in their course, and pass judges by. We like to figure to ourselves the processes of justice as coldly objective and impersonal. The law, conceived of as a real existence, dwelling apart and alone, speaks, through the voices of priests and ministers, the words which they have no choice except to utter. That is an ideal of objective truth toward which every system of jurisprudence tends.... It has a lofty sound; it is well and finely said; but it can never be more than partly true.

11. Justice Felix Frankfurter, put it with a different emphasis:

"Judges are men, not disembodied spirits. Of course a judge is not free from preferences or, if you will, biases."

12. It is true that the judges are flesh and blood mortals with individual personalities and with normal human traits. Still what remains essential in judging, Justice Felix Frankfurter said:

"First and foremost, humility and an understanding of the range of the problems and (one's) own inadequacy in dealing with them, disinterestedness ... and allegiance to nothing except the effort to find (that) pass through precedent, through policy, through history, through (one's) own gifts of insights to the best judgment that a poor fallible creature can arrive at in that most difficult of all tasks, the adjudication between man and man, between man and state, through reason called law."

13. Judicial restraint and discipline are as necessary to the orderly administration of justice as they are to the effectiveness of the army. The duty of restraint, this humility of function should be constant theme of our judges. This quality in decision making is as much necessary for judges to command respect as to protect the independence of the judiciary. Judicial restraint in this regard might better be called judicial respect, that is, respect by the judiciary. Respect to those who come before the court as well to other co-ordinate branches of the State, the executive and the legislature. There must be mutual respect. When these qualities fail or when litigants and public believe that the judge has failed in these qualities, it will be neither good for the judge nor for the judicial process. 14. The Judge's Bench is a seat of power. Not only do judges have power to make binding decision, their decisions legitimate the use of power by other officials. The judges have the absolute and unchallengeable control of the court domain. But they cannot misuse their authority by intemperate comments, undignified banter or scathing criticism of counsel, parties or witnesses. We concede that the court has the inherent power to act freely upon its own conviction on any matter coming before it for adjudication, but it is a general principle of the highest importance to the proper administration of justice that derogatory remarks ought not to be made against persons or authorities whose conduct comes into consideration unless it is absolutely necessary for the decision of the case to animadvert on their conduct. "

(Emphasis supplied by Court)

23. Having noticed, the broad legal principles to be followed while considering the matter where the court is called upon to deal with a prayer for expunction of disparaging remarks against the person of authority, as above, when we examine the narration of the facts and circumstances made on behalf of the appellant before us which allegedly led to passing of the order under appeal by Hon'ble Single Judge, what we find is that the version of the facts as noticed in the order under appeal passed by the learned Single Judge is at variance with the one put forth before us on behalf of the appellant in this special appeal. Learned Single Judge only records that the learned State Counsel assisting the appellant put in his appearance and in the first session before lunch it was informed that the appellant would appear in the matter and that the matter may be taken up in the revised call as she was busy in some other court. Learned Single Judge further records that on being asked as to where was the appellant busy at that time, it was told by learned State Counsel assisting her that she was busy in some other Court. Further learned Single Judge records in the order that on a specific query as to which Court the appellant was arguing, the learned State Counsel assisting her did not have any answer. In this background learned Single Judge records that learned assisting Counsel had the courage to tell complete lie in the Court. Learned Single Judge thereafter records that when the case was taken up in the revised call the appellant was not present and on being asked as to where was she busy, it was told by learned State Counsel assisting the appellant that she had left the Court as she had to attend some urgent work.

24. In the aforesaid background facts, learned Single Judge, thus, has remarked in paragraph 4 of the order under appeal that appellant did not have the courtesy to come and seek permission of the Court for leaving the Court premises despite having accepted the case when the case was kept to be taken up in the revised call. The learned Single Judge, thus, observed that the Court does not approve of the conduct of the appellant and also that of the learned State Counsel assisting her. The learned Single Judge also ordered that copy of the said order be forwarded for information and necessary action to the Principal Secretary, Law and the Additional Chief Secretary, Government of Uttar Pradesh in the Department of Forest.

25. Thus, the facts and events as narrated on behalf of the appellant which we have recorded in this order are in departure with the facts and events which we find recorded in the order under appeal passed by the learned Single Judge.

26. This Court is a Court of record and thus records of the Court, which will necessarily include an order passed by the Court, has to be accorded utmost sanctity. The statement of facts as to what transpired at the time of hearing recorded in the judgment or order of a Court are to be treated to be conclusive of the facts so stated and no one can be permitted to contradict such statements by affidavit or other evidence.

27. Hon'ble Suprerme Court in the case of State of Maharashtra vs. Ramdas Shrinivas Nayak and another, reported in (1982) 2 SCC 463 has noted the aforesaid legal position and has enunciated the principle that the Court cannot launch an enquiry as to what transpired in the Court and further that matters of judicial record are unquestionable. Paragraphs 4 and 8 of the judgment in the case of Ramdas Shrinivas Nayak (supra) are relevant to be noted which are extracted herein below:

"4. When we drew the attention of the learned Attorney-General to the concession made before the High Court, Shri A.K. Sen, who appeared for the State of Maharashtra before the High Court and led the arguments for the respondents there and who appeared for Shri Antulay before us intervened and protested that he never made any such concession and invited us to peruse the written submissions made by him in the High Court. We are afraid that we cannot launch into an enquiry as to what transpired in the High Court. It is simply not done. Public policy bars us. Judicial decorum restrains us. Matters of judicial record are unquestionable. They are not open to doubt. Judges cannot be dragged into the arena. "Judgments cannot be treated as mere counters in the game of litigation." We are bound to accept the statement of the Judges recorded in their judgment, as to what transpired in court. We cannot allow the statement of the Judges to be contradicted by statements at the Bar or by affidavit and other evidence. If the Judges say in their judgment that something was done, said or admitted before them, that has to be the last word on the subject. The principle is well-settled that statements of fact as to what transpired at the hearing, recorded in the judgment of the court, are conclusive of the facts so stated and no one can contradict such statements by affidavit or other evidence. If a party thinks that the happenings in court have been wrongly recorded in a judgment, it is incumbent upon the party, while the matter is still fresh in the minds of the Judges, to call the attention of the very Judges who have made the record to the fact that the statement made with regard to his conduct was a statement that had been made in error. That is the only way to have the record corrected. If no such step is taken, the matter must necessarily end there. Of course a party may resile and an appellate court may permit him in rare and appropriate cases to resile from a concession on the ground that the concession was made on a wrong appreciation of the law and had led to gross injustice; but, he may not call in question the very fact of making the concession as recorded in the judgment.

8. So the Judges' record is conclusive. Neither lawyer nor litigant may claim to contradict it, except before the Judge himself, but nowhere else."

28. Referring to the judgment in the case of Ramdas Shrinivas Nayak (supra), Hon'ble Supreme Court in yet another case that is, in the case of Roop Kumar vs. Mohan Thedani, reported in (2003) 6 SCC 595 has reiterated the aforesaid legal position. Paragraph 11 of the said judgment is also relevant to be extracted which is as under:

"11. It would be logical to first deal with the plea relating to absence of forum of appeal. It is to be noted that the parties agreed before the High Court that instead of remanding the matter to the trial court, it should consider materials on record and render a verdict. After having done so, it is not open to the appellant to turn around or take a plea that no concession was given. This is clearly a case of sitting on the fence, and is not to be encouraged. If really there was no concession, the only course open to the appellant was to move the High Court in line with what has been said in State of Maharashtra v. Ramdas Shrinivas Nayak. In a recent decision Bhavnagar University v. Palitana Sugar Mill (P) Ltd. the view in the said case was reiterated by observing that statements of fact as to what transpired at the hearing, recorded in the judgment of the Court, are conclusive of the facts so stated and no one can contradict such statements by affidavit or other evidence. If a party thinks that the happenings in court have been wrongly recorded in a judgment, it is incumbent upon the party, while the matter is still fresh in the minds of the judges, to call the attention of the very judges who have made the record. That is the only way to have the record corrected. If no such step is taken, the matter must necessarily end there. It is not open to the appellant to contend before this Court to the contrary."

29. In the case of Commissioner of Customs, Mumbai vs. Bureau Veritas and others, reported in (2005) 3 SCC 265, Hon'ble Supreme Court again referred to the judgment in the case of Ramdas Shrinivas Nayak (supra) and observed that the statements of facts as to what transpired at the time of hearing recorded in the judgment of the Court are conclusive of the facts so stated and that no one can contradict such statements by affidavit. Paragraph 14 of the said judgment is extracted herein below:

"14. After having agreed on some point as recorded, it is not open to the appellant to turn around or take a plea that the position is different. If really there was no agreement, the only course open to the appellant was to move the Tribunal in line with what has been said in State of Maharashtra v. Ramdas Shrinivas Nayak. In a recent decision Bhavnagar University v. Palitana Sugar Mill (P) Ltd. the view in the said case was reiterated by observing that statements of fact as to what transpired at the hearing, recorded in the judgment of the court, are conclusive of the facts so stated and no one can contradict such statements by affidavit or other evidence. If a party thinks that the happenings in court have been wrongly recorded in a judgment, it is incumbent upon the party, while the matter is still fresh in the minds of the judges, to call the attention of the very judges who have made the record. That is the only way to have the record corrected. If no such step is taken, the matter must necessarily end there. It is not open to the appellant to contend before this Court to the contrary."

30. It is not that in a situation where a party thinks that the happenings in Court have wrongly been recorded in a judgment or order, then the party is remedy-less. As held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Ramdas Shrinivas Nayak (supra) and Roop Kumar (supra), in such an event the party concerned must move the judge/court calling the attention of that very judge who is said to have recorded the facts relating to his/her conduct. The principle that "judge's record is conclusive" has a purpose and is necessary to be followed for maintaining the sanctity of the records of the Court, specially the Court which is a Court of record.

31. In view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the aforementioned cases Ramdas Shrinivas Nayak (supra) and Roop Kumar (supra), the appropriate course available to the appellant is to approach the learned Single Judge who has passed the order under appeal and to call his attention that the facts, circumstances and events which led the learned Single Judge to make the alleged offending observations are not correct and that such observations have thus been made in error.

32. From the records available before us what is indisputably clear is that before recording the alleged offending remarks in the order under appeal the appellant was neither put to notice nor was she given any opportunity of hearing. It is also indisputable that certain remarks contained in the order under appeal passed by the learned Single Judge are adverse and stigmatic and thus visit the appellant with adverse civil consequences.

33. For the discussions made and reasons given above, we are of the opinion that instead of approaching the forum of special appeal, the appellant ought to have moved appropriate application before the learned Single Judge apprising him of the facts and circumstances as narrated before us in this special appeal and seek redressal of her grievances.

34. The special appeal is, thus, disposed of permitting the appellant to approach the learned Single Judge calling his attention to the facts narrated on her behalf in this special appeal and seek remedy concerning her grievances relating to the aspersions cast and adverse remarks made against her, as stated in this special appeal.

35. We request the learned Single Judge that in case any such application with appropriate prayer is made by the appellant, the same shall be considered and decided with expedition.

36. In the facts of the case there will be no order as to costs.

A. Service Law - The appellant is challenging the transfer order by which she was asked to rejoin at her original place of posting. Appellant had submitted application seeking her transfer which was approved but on verification it was found that incorrect information was furnished for transfer. The order of rejoining at her original place of posting is correct as interchange of cadre was not permissible in the Order dated 2.12.2019. (Para 7)

Appeal Rejected. (E-10)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Piyush Agrawal, J.)

1. The present intra-Court appeals have been preferred assailing the common judgement & order dated August 27, 2021 passed in leading Writ A No. 6418 of 2021, vide which the writ petitions filed by the appellants against their transfer orders have been dismissed.

2. As the issues involved in these appeals are similar arising out of common judgement and order, hence the same are being decided by the common order.

3. The facts of Special Appeal No. 724 of 2021 are taken for the purpose of deciding these two appeals.

4. The appellant applied for intra-State or inter-District transfer on the strength of Government Order dated December 9, 2019, which was accorded. The application was processed and she was transferred at her requested place. Later on, on scrutiny of documents, it revealed that the disclosed information given by the appellant was incorrect and therefore her transfer order was recalled. The appellant preferred writ petition before this Court, which was dismissed by the learned Single Judge by the impugned order.

5. Learned Senior Counsel appearing for the appellant submits that transfer of the appellant had been sanctioned by the Board of Basic Education and on February 2, 2021, the appellant was relieved from her place of posting in district Chitakoot to join at the transferred place i.e. Rampur vide order dated February 02, 2021. But on May 10, 2021, the appellant was directed to re-join at her original place of posting i.e. district Chitakoot. Feeling aggrieved, the appellant preferred writ petition before this Court, which was dismissed by the learned Single Judge vide impugned order holding that incorrect information was given by the appellant for seeking her inter -district transfer. He prays for allowing the appeal.

6. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel supports the impugned order and prays that the present appeals are liable to be dismissed summarily. He submitted that the appellants herein got the benefit of the policy by furnishing wrong information hence, the order was rightly recalled.

7. After hearing learned counsel for the parties and perusing the record, the undisputed fact that emerges is that the appellant was appointed as Assistant Teacher in primary institution. After the issuance of Government Order dated December 2, 2019, appellant submitted application seeking her transfer, which was approved. Subsequently on verification it was revealed that incorrect information was furnished by the appellant for transfer that she belonged to the rural local area cadre while sought her transfer to urban local area cadre. The said inter-change of cadre was not permissible, in the absence of any formal order. Therefore, the appellant was rightly directed to re-join at her original place of posting.

8. The appellant has also failed to bring on record any cogent reason or material to show that her posting was in urban local area cadre instead of rural local area cadre.

9. Learned Senior Counsel, at this juncture, has submitted that the appellant was receiving House Rent Allowance of urban area. Therefore, she should be treated in Urban Local Area Cadre. The appointment letter issued to the appellant is on record, which shows that her appointment was in rural local area cadre. Merely, the residence of appellant for payment of House Rent Allowance for urban local area has no relevance for determining the cadre of the appellant.

10. It is stated at bar that the appellants have joined at their original place of posting.

11. In view of the facts stated above as well as in the absence of any material available on record to show that the appellants belong to urban local area cadre, no case is made out for interference with the order passed by the learned Single Judge.

12. The appeals fail and are accordingly dismissed.

13. There shall be no order as to costs.

A. Service Law - Disciplinary Proceeding - U.P. Government Servant (Discipline & Appeal) Rules, 1999 - Rule 9(4), 10 - The Disciplinary Authority has to consider the entire material on record including the charges, facts of the case, reply submitted by the petitioner to the charge, evidence adduced dring inquiry and then to record his independent and objective opinion as to whether the charge against the petitioner is proved ad why the reply of the petitioner against the charge and his response to the inquiry report is not accepted by the Disciplinary Authority. In the instant case, the Disciplinary Committee did not apply mind to the relevant aspects of the matter and did not discuss about the charges and evidence followed by his own opinion in respect of each of the charges as to how it is proved against the petitioner and why the reply of the petitioner in this regard against the charge sheet as also against the inquiry report is not acceptable. (Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy, J.)

1. Heard Shri Sharad Pathak, learned counsel for petitioner and Shri Vivek Shukla, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for State.

2. Ordinarily in matters of minor punishment the High Court is loathe to interfere and the petitioner is relegated to the alternative remedy before the U.P. Public Services Tribunal, however, the contention of Shri Sharak Pathak, learned counsel for the petitioner in this case is that there is apparent error on the face of the record as while passing the impugned order the Special Secretary to the Government who has passed the order has merely quoted the Charge, the finding of the Inquiry Officer in respect thereto and response of the petitioner to the show cause notice and the inquiry report. This has been done from internal Page 1 to internal page 6, up to this stage there is absolutely no discussion of the findings by the Inquiry Officer, the reply submitted by the petitioner to the charge sheet, the evidence which may have been collected in the inquiry, independently and objectively by the Disciplinary Authority to arrive at any finding. It is only in Para 3 that the Special Secretary has expressed his opinion. Para 3 reads as under:-

3. The submission is that proceedings were initiated for imposing a major punishment by issuance of charge sheet. The petitioner had submitted reply to the charge sheet. Thereafter, inquiry was conducted. The Inquiry Officer submitted his findings. The Disciplinary Authority obviously did not differ from the report of the Inquiry Officer, therefore, he served a show cause notice upon the petitioner enclosing therewith the inquiry report asking him to respond whereupon the petitioner has submitted his response. Now, at this stage the Disciplinary Authority was required to independently and objectively consider the entire material on record including the charges, facts of the case, reply submitted by the petitioner to the charge, evidence adduced during inquiry and then to record his independent and objective opinion as to whether the charge against the petitioner is proved and why the reply of the petitioner against the charge and his response to inquiry report is not acceptable to the Disciplinary Authority. A finding of guilt in respect of each charge should have been recorded with such discussion. It can not be a mechanical exercise because the Inquiry Officer has found the charge to be proved, especially as, even thereafter, the petitioner has responded to the show cause notice as against the inquiry report.

4. On a bare perusal of Para 3 of the impugned order the Court finds that there is no due and proper application of mind by the Disciplinary Authority to the relevant aspects of the matter and no discussion of the charges and evidence followed by his own opinion in respect of each of the charge as to how it is proved against the petitioner and why the reply of the petitioner in this regard against the charge sheet as also against the inquiry report is not acceptable. Para 3 merely says that charge no. 1 and 2 have been found to be proved partially and totally respectively and the State Government has decided to impose a punishment of censure entry and withholding of two annual increments. Thereafter, it says that after examining the representation of the petitioner against the show cause notice a tentative punishment was proposed to the Public Service Commission seeking its approval which was granted on 17.11.2021 and thereafter in Para 3 straightway the punishment of censure and withholding of two annual increments for years have been passed. The order is not at all in keeping with the requirements of principle of natural justice. There is no due and proper application of mind as referred hereinabove. There are no reasons given by the Disciplinary Authority discussing the charges and evidence etc.

5. Even if as Shri Vivek Shukla, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel says that the punishment imposed was a minor one the fact remains that the proceedings were initiated for imposing a major punishment, but, this apart, even while imposing a minor punishment the order of the Disciplinary Authority has to disclose some application of mind which is absent in this case. It is passing of such orders which compel the Courts to interfere in such matters. Merely quoting the charge, findings of the Inquiry Officer, extract of the reply of the petitioner to the show cause notice does not mean due and proper application of mind nor is it in keeping with the principle of natural justice.

6. At this stage Shri Vivek Shukla, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel relied upon Rule 9(4) of the U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Rules, 1999')which reads as under:-

"9.(4) If the disciplinary authority having regard to its findings on all or any of charges is of the opinion that any penalty specified in Rule 3 should be imposed on the charged Government servant, he shall give a copy of the inquiry report and his findings recorded under sub-rule (2) to the charged Government servant and require him to submit his representation if he so desires, within a reasonable specified time. The disciplinary authority shall, having regard to all the relevant records relating to the inquiry and representation of the charged Government servant, if any, and subject to the provisions of Rule 16 of these rules, pass a reasoned order imposing one or more penalties mentioned in Rule 3 of these rules and communicate the same to the charged Government servant."

7. Even when tested on the anvil of the said Rule the impugned order can not be sustained. By the said rule also, after the charged government servant submits his response to the show cause notice, the Disciplinary Authority is mandated to consider all relevant records relating to the inquiry and representation of the charged government servant, if any, and subject to the provisions of Rule 16 of the Rules, pass a reasoned order imposing one or more penalties mentioned in Rule 3 of the Rules, 1999 and communicate it to the charged government servant. As already stated, there is no 'consideration' by the Disciplinary Authority of all the relevant records relating to the inquiry and representation of the charged government servant. Mere reference or quoting of the reply does not amount to its consideration. The order for the reasons already mentioned can not be stated to be reasoned order also.

8. The Court may in this regard refer to the decision in the case of Kaptan Singh Vs. State of U.P. and Anr. reported in 2014 (4) ALJ 440 wherein the law as to how an inquiry is to be conducted and what is the role of the Disciplinary Authority has been discussed, albeit that was a matter pertaining to major punishment but so far as application of mind by the Disciplinary Authority is concerned, the same is somewhat similar whether the punishment to be imposed is major or minor and any order without due and proper application of mind even if imposing minor punishing is against the principle of natural justice as also against the letter and spirit of the Rules, 1999.

9. Even in respect to minor punishment Rule 10 of the Rules, 1999 reads as under:-

"10. Procedure for imposing minor penalties. - (1) Where the disciplinary authority is satisfied that good and sufficient reasons exist for adopting such a course, it may, subject to the provisions of sub-rule (2) impose one or more of the minor penalties mentioned in Rule 3.

(2) The Government servant shall be informed of the substance of the imputations against him and called upon to submit his explanation within a reasonable time. The disciplinary authority shall after considering the said explanation, if any, and the relevant records, pass such orders as he considers proper and where a penalty is imposed, reason thereof shall be given. The order shall be communicated to the concerned Government servant."

10. Sub-rule (1) of Rule 10 very categorically provides that where the disciplinary authority is satisfied that good and sufficient reasons exist for adopting such a course, it may, subject to the provisions of sub-rule (2) impose one or more of the minor penalties mentioned in Rule 3.

11. The satisfaction of the Disciplinary Authority has to be based on good and sufficient reasons which obviously implies proper application of mind, the entire material on record including the inquiry report where there is an inquiry report or otherwise the show cause notice. Merely because at the stage of Rule 9 of the Rules, 1999 the Disciplinary Authority has not differred with the inquiry report, does not mean that, ultimately, after considering the response of the chargesheeted government servant to the inquiry report, he does not have to apply his mind and has necessarily to accept the inquiry report and the findings contained therein. This is not the scheme of the Rules, 1999 nor its intent. The requirement of Rules as aforesaid and principal of natural justice are not meant to be an empty formality.

12. Further more, Sub-rule (2) of Rule 10 of the Rules, 1999 also says that after considering the said explanation of the government servant, if any, and the relevant records, pass such orders as he considers proper and where a penalty is imposed, reason thereof shall be given. None of these parameters and requirements are satisfied in the impugned order. The Court does not go into the question as to how the Special Secretary has passed the impugned order on behalf of the State Government as ordinarily it is the Principal Secretary or the Additional Chief Secretary who passes such an order which may be communicated by the Special Secretary, but, it does not take this into account for quashing the impugned order and it does so for other reasons already mentioned hereinabove.

13. The State Government, however, shall now proceed to pass a fresh order in the light of what has been stated hereinabove considering the response of the petitioner to the inquiry report etc. and other material on record.

14. The writ petition is allowed in the aforesaid terms.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that on the basis of charge sheet against the petitioner, the respondent no.4 has passed order dated 12.01.2022 for initiating departmental proceedings against the petitioner and charge sheet/memo has been filed by respondent no.4. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that departmental proceedings has been initiated against the petitioner on the same set of facts and evidence as that in the criminal case.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that on one hand the petitioner is facing criminal proceedings and on the other hand departmental proceedings have been initiated against him relying upon the same set of facts and evidence, therefore, the departmental proceedings should be kept in abeyance till the conclusion of criminal case.

6. He further submits that the petitioner has not been convicted in the criminal case, hence without conclusion of the criminal case, the departmental proceedings cannot be initiated for the same set of facts and evidence. The criminal case and departmental proceeding are based on same set of fact and same evidence, as such continuance of departmental inquiry, is not at all justifiable and consequentially directive be issued for withholding departmental proceeding till criminal trial is not over. For this preposition, he has placed reliance on Regulation 492 and 493 of U.P. Police Regulations as well as judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the cases of Capt. M. Paul Anthony vs. Bharat Coal Mines Ltd. Reported in 1999 (3) SCC 679 and State Bank of India vs. R.B. Sharma reported in 2004 (7) SCC 27 as well as the judgment of this Court in the case of Dhirendra Kumar Tiwari vs. State of U.P. and Ors. passed in Writ-A No.2705 of 2012 decided on 16.01.2012.

7. On the other hand, learned Standing counsel contended that there is no bar in simultaneous proceeding i.e. criminal proceeding and departmental proceeding can go on simultaneously as area of both departmental proceeding and criminal prosecution are altogether different and as such there is no occasion for staying departmental proceedings hence such writ petition be dismissed.

8. After hearing the arguments advanced by both the parties, it would be appropriate to analyze the relevant part of the judgments, settled proposition of law as well as the relevant regulations in this regard. In the case of Capt. M. Paul Anthony vs. Bharat Coal Mines Ltd. reported in 1999 (3) SCC 679, the Apex Court after taking into consideration various other judgments has held that after taking into account various earlier judgments has held that departmental proceedings and proceedings in criminal case can proceed simultaneously, as there is no bar in their being conducted simultaneously, though separately. It has been further held that if the departmental proceedings and criminal case are based on similar set of facts and charges in criminal case against delinquent employees is of grave nature which involves complicated questions of fact and law, it would be desirable to stay the departmental proceedings till conclusion of criminal case. Whether complicated questions of fact and law are involved or not will depend upon the nature of the offence, and the case lodged against the employee on the basis of evidence and material collected during the investigation or as reflected in the charge sheet, and these facts are not to be considered in isolation but due regard has to be given to the fact that departmental proceedings cannot be unduly delayed. Thus, if complicated questions of fact and law are involved, and departmental proceedings and criminal case are based on identical and similar set of facts, only then it is desirable to stay the departmental proceedings, but the said facts are not to be considered in isolation. Paragraph 22 of the judgment being relevant is being quoted below:

"22. The conclusions which are deducible from the various decisions of this Court referred to above are:

(i) Departmental proceedings and proceedings in criminal case can proceed simultaneously, as there is no bar in their being conducted, simultaneously, though separately.

(ii) If the departmental proceedings and the criminal case are based on identical and similar set of facts and charge in criminal case against delinquent employees is of a grave nature which involves complicated questions of law and fact, it would be desirable to stay the departmental proceedings till the conclusion of criminal case.

(iii) Whether the nature of a charge in a criminal case is grave and complicated questions of fact and law are involved in that case will depend upon the nature of the offence, the nature of case launched against the employee on the basis of evidence and material collected against him during the investigation or as reflected in the charge sheet.

(iv) The factors mentioned at (ii) and (iii) above cannot be considered in isolation to stay the departmental proceedings but due regard has to be given to the fact that departmental proceedings cannot be unduly delayed. (v) If the criminal case does not proceed or its disposal is being unduly delayed, the departmental proceedings, even if they were stayed on account of pendency of criminal case can be resumed and proceeded with so as to conclude them at an early date, so that if the employee is found not guilty his honour may be vindicated and in case he is found guilty, administration may get rid of him at the earliest."

9. The judgment in the case of Capt. M. Paul Anthony (Supra) has been followed in the case of State Bank of India and others Versus R.B. Sharma reported in 2004 (7) SCC 27. Relevant paragraphs 7,8 and 11 are being quoted below:-

"7. It is a fairly well stetted position in law that on basic principles proceedings in criminal case and departmental proceedings can go on simultaneously, except where departmental proceedings and criminal case are based on the same set of fact and the evidence in both the proceedings is common.

8. The purpose of departmental enquiry and of prosecution are two different and distinct aspects. Criminal prosecution is launched for an offence for violation of a duty the offender owes to the society, or for breach of which law has provided that the offender shall make satisfaction to the public . So crime is an act of commission in violation of law or of omission of public duty. The departmental enquiry is to maintain discipline in the service and efficiency of public service. It would, therefore, be expedient that the disciplinary proceedings are conducted and completed as expeditiously as possible. It is not, therefore, desirable to lay down any guidelines as inflexible rules in which the departmental proceedings may or may not be stayed pending trial in criminal case against the delinquent officer. Each case requires to be considered in the backdrop of its own facts and circumstances. There would be no bar to proceed simultaneously with departmental enquiry and trial of a criminal case unless the charge in the criminal trial is of grave nature involving complicated question of fact and law. Offense generally implies infringement of public duty, as distinguished from mere private rights punishable under criminal law. When trial for criminal offence is conducted it should be in accordance with proof of the offence as per the evidence defined under the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (in short " the Evidence Act"). Converse is the case of departmental enquiry. The inquiry in a departmental proceeding relates to conduct or breach of duty of the delinquent officer, to punish him for his misconduct defined under the relevant statutory rules or law. That the strict standard of proof or applicability of the Evidence Act stands excluded is a settled legal position. Under these circumstances, what is required to be seen is whether the departmental enquiry would seriously prejudice the delinquent in his defence at the trial in a criminal case. It is always question of fact to be considered in each case depending on its own facts and circumstances.

11. There can be no straitjacket formula as to in which case the departmental proceedings are to be stayed.

There may be cases where the trial of the case gets prolonged by the dilatory method adopted by the delinquent official. He cannot be permitted to, on one hand, prolong criminal case and at the same time contend that the departmental proceedings should be stayed on the ground that the criminal case is pending."

10. If departmental proceedings and criminal case are based on similar set of facts and charges in criminal case against delinquent employee is of grave nature which involves complicated question of fact and law, it would be desirable to stay the departmental proceedings till conclusion of criminal case. Whether complicated question of fact and law are involved or not will depend upon the nature of the offence, and the case lodged against the employee on the basis of evidence and material collected during the investigation or as reflected in the charge sheet. Thus it is clear that departmental proceeding can proceed, as there is no bar and only when nature of charge in criminal case are grave and complicated question of fact and law are involved, then departmental proceedings can be stayed and further also in contingency when departmental enquiry would seriously prejudice delinquent in his defence at the trial, and even these facts cannot be considered in isolation to stay departmental proceeding but due regard will have to be given to the fact that departmental proceedings cannot be unduly delayed.

11. There is a consensus of judicial opinion on a basic principle that proceedings in a criminal case and departmental proceedings can go on simultaneously, except where departmental proceedings and criminal case are based on the same set of facts and the evidence in both the proceedings is common. Basis for this proposition is that proceedings in a criminal case and the departmental proceedings operate in distinct and different jurisdictional areas. In the departmental proceedings, the factors operating in the mind of the Disciplinary Authority may be many, such as enforcement of discipline, or to investigate the level of integrity of delinquent or other staff. The standard of proof required in those proceedings is also different from that required in a criminal case. While in departmental proceedings, the standard of proof is one of preponderance of the probabilities, in a criminal case, the charge has to be proved by the prosecution beyond reasonable doubt.

12. The principles which govern a disciplinary enquiry are distinct from those which apply to a criminal trial. In a prosecution for an offence punishable under the criminal law, the burden lies on the prosecution to establish the ingredients of the offence beyond reasonable doubt. The accused is entitled to a presumption of innocence. The purpose of a disciplinary proceeding by an employer is to enquire into an allegation of misconduct by an employee which results in a violation of the service rules governing the relationship of employment. Unlike a criminal prosecution where the charge has to be established beyond reasonable doubt, in a disciplinary proceeding, a charge of misconduct has to be established on a preponderance of probabilities. The rules of evidence which apply to a criminal trial are distinct from those which govern a disciplinary enquiry.

13. In a judgment of a three judge Bench of the Court in the case of State of Haryana vs. Rattan Singh, reported in (1977) 2 SCC 491 set out the principles which govern a disciplinary proceedings as follows:-

"4. It is well settled that in a domestic enquiry the strict and sophisticated rules of evidence under the Indian Evidence Act may not apply. All materials which are logically probative for a prudent mind are permissible. There is no allergy to hearsay evidence provided it has reasonable nexus and credibility. It is true that departmental authorities and Administrative Tribunals must be careful in evaluating such material and should not glibly swallow what is strictly speaking not relevant under the Indian Evidence Act. For this proposition it is not necessary to cite decisions nor text books, although we have been taken through case-law and other authorities by counsel on both sides. The essence of a judicial approach is objectivity, exclusion of extraneous materials or considerations and observance of rules of natural justice. Of course, fairplay is the basis and if perversity or arbitrariness, bias or surrender of independence of judgment vitiate the conclusions reached, such finding, even though of a domestic tribunal, cannot be held good. However, the courts below misdirected themselves, perhaps, in insisting that passengers who had come in and gone out should be chased and brought before the tribunal before a valid finding could be recorded. The "residuum' rule to which counsel for the respondent referred, based upon certain passages from American Jurisprudence does not go to that extent nor does the passage from Halsbury insist on such rigid requirement. The simple point is, was there some evidence or was there no evidence -- not in the sense of the technical rules governing regular court proceedings but in a fair commonsense way as men of understanding and worldly wisdom will accept. Viewed in this way, sufficiency of evidence in proof of the finding by a domestic tribunal is beyond scrutiny. Absence of any evidence in support of a finding is certainly available for the court to look into because it amounts to an error of law apparent on the record. We find, in this case, that the evidence of Chamanlal, Inspector of the Flying Squad, is some evidence which has relevance to the charge levelled against the respondent. Therefore, we are unable to hold that the order is invalid on that ground."

(emphasis supplied)

14. These principles have been reiterated in subsequent decisions of this Court including State of Rajasthan vs. B K Meena reported in (1966) 6 SCC 417; Krishnakali Tea Estate vs. Akhil Bharatiya Chah Mazdoor Sangh reported in (2004) 8 SCC 200; Ajit Kumar Nag vs.

Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. reported in (2005) 7 SCC 764; and CISF vs. Abrar Ali reported in (2017) 4 SCC 507.

15. In Karnataka Power Transmission Corporation Ltd. vs. C. Nagaraju, this Court has held that the two proceedings, criminal and departmental, are entirely different. They operate in different fields and have different objectives. In the disciplinary proceedings, the question is whether the delinquent employee is guilty of such conduct as would merit his removal from service or a lesser punishment, as the case may be, whereas in the criminal proceedings, the question is whether the offences registered against him are established, and if established, what sentence should be imposed upon him.

16. The issue as to whether disciplinary proceedings can be held at the time when the delinquent employee is facing the criminal trial, has also been considered from time to time. In State of Rajasthan Vs. B.K. Meena & Ors. reported in AIR 1997 SC 13, the Hon'ble Supreme Court while dealing with the issue observed as under:-

"It would be evident from the above decisions that each of them starts with the indisputable proposition that there is no legal bar for both proceedings to go on simultaneously and then say that in certain situations, it may not be 'desirable', 'advisable' or 'appropriate' to proceed with the disciplinary enquiry when a criminal case is pending on identical charges.....The only ground suggested in the above decisions as constituting a valid ground for staying the disciplinary proceedings is that 'the defence of the employee in the criminal case may not be prejudiced'. This ground has, however, been hedged in by providing further that this may be done in cases of grave nature involving questions of fact and law. In our respectful opinion, it means that not only the charges must be grave but that the case must involve complicated questions of law and fact. Moreover, 'advisability', 'desirability' or 'propriety', as the case may be, has to be determined in each case taking into consideration all the facts and circumstances of the case.....One of the contending considerations is that the disciplinary enquiry cannot be - and should not be - delayed unduly. So far as criminal cases are concerned, it is well known that they drag on endlessly where high officials or persons holding high public offices are involved. They get bogged down on one or the other ground. They hardly ever reach a prompt conclusion.....If a criminal case is unduly delayed that may itself be a good ground for going ahead with the disciplinary enquiry even where the disciplinary proceedings are held over at an earlier stage. The interests of administration and good government demand that these proceedings are concluded expeditiously. It must be remembered that interests of administration demand that undesirable elements are thrown out and any charge of misdemeanour is enquired into promptly. The disciplinary proceedings are meant not really to punish the guilty but to keep the administrative machinery unsullied by getting rid of bad elements. The interest of delinquent officer also lies in a prompt conclusion of the disciplinary proceedings. If he is not guilty of the charges, his honour should be vindicated at the earliest possible moment and if he is guilty, he should be dealt with promptly according to law. It is not also in the interest of administration that persons accused of serious misdemeanour should be continued in office indefinitely, i.e., for long periods awaiting the result of criminal proceedings. It is not in the interest of administration. It only serves the interest of the guilty and dishonest....."

17. While deciding the said case a very heavy reliance has been placed upon the earlier judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Depot Manager, Andhra Pradesh State Road Transport Corporation Vs. Mohd Yousuf Miya & Ors., reported in AIR 1997 SC 2232, wherein it has been held that both proceedings can be held simultaneously unless the gravity of the charges demand staying the disciplinary proceedings till the trial is concluded as the complicated questions of fact and law are involved in that case.

18. A similar view has been reiterated by the Apex Court in the case of Kendriya Vidyalaya Sangathan & Ors. Vs. T. Srinivas, reported in AIR 2004 SC 4127. A Three-Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case on Krishnakali Tea Estate Vs. Akhil Bhartiya Chah Mazdoor Sangh & Anr. reported in (2004) 8 SCC 200 reconsidered all earlier judgments and reiterated the same view, as the approach and the objective of the criminal proceedings, and the disciplinary proceedings are distinct and different. There can be no bar in carrying on the criminal trial and criminal proceedings simultaneously.

19. Much reliance has been placed on Regulations 492 and 493 of of U.P. Police Regulations. The two Regulations mentioned are set out below:-

"492. Whenever a police officer has been judicially tried, the Superintendent must await the decision of the judicial appeal, if any, before deciding whether further departmental action is necessary.

493. It will not be permissible for the Superintendent of Police in the course of a departmental proceeding against a Police Officer who has been tried judicially to reexamine the truth of any facts in issue at his judicial trial, and the finding of the Court on these facts must be taken as final.

Thus. (a) if the accused has been convicted and sentenced to rigorous imprisonment,l no departmental trial will be necessary, as the fact that he has been found deserving of rigorous imprisonment must be taken as conclusively providing his unfitness for the discharge of his duty within the meaning of Section 7 of the Police Act. In such cases the Superintendent of Police will without further proceedings ordinarily pass an order of dismissal, obtaining the formal order of the Deputy Inspector General when necessary under paragraph 479 (a). Should be wish to do otherwise he must refer the matter to the Deputy Inspector General of the range for orders.

(b) If the accused has been convicted but sentenced to a punishment less than of rigorous imprisonment a departmental trial will be necessary, if further action is though desirable, but the question in issue at this trial will be merely (1) whether the offence of which the accused has been convicted amounts to an offence under Section 7 of the Police Act .(2) if so, what punishment should be imposed. In such cases the Superintendent of Police will (i) call upon the caused to show cause why any particular penalty should not be inflicted on him (ii) record anything the accused Officers has to urge against such penalty without allowing him to dispute the findings of the Court. and (iii) write a finding and order in the ordinary way dealing with any plea raised by the accused officers which is relevant to (1) and (2) above..

(c) If the accused has been judicially acquitted or discharged, and the period for filing an appeal has elapsed and/or no appeal has been filed the Superintendent of Police must at once reinstate him if he has been suspended; but should the findings of the Court mot be inconsistent with the view that the accused has been guilty of negligence in, or unfitness for, the discharge of his duty within the meaning of Section 7 of the Police Act, the Superintendent of Police may refer the matter to the Deputy Inspector General and ask for permission to try the accused departmentally for such negligence or unfitness:"

20. Bare perusal of Regulations 492 and 493 would go to show that whenever a police officer has been judicially tried, the Superintendent must await the decision of the judicial appeal, if any, before deciding whether further departmental action is necessary. Regulation 493 mentions that it will not be permissible for the Superintendent of Police in the course of a departmental proceeding against a Police Officer who has been tried judicially to re-examine the truth of any facts in issue at his judicial trial and the finding of the Court on these facts must be taken as final. Division Bench of this Court in the Case of Kedar Nath Yadav Vs. State of U.P. reported in 2005(3) E.& C 1955, while considering these very Regulations, has taken the view, that even after enforcement of 1991 Rules, these two Regulations continue to hold the field. Both these Regulations occupy different field i.e. wherein Police Officer has been judicially tried and after judicial trial is over, and consequently will not come to the rescue of petitioner.

21. Reliance has been placed on the judgment of this Court in the case of Virendra Kumar Sharma Vs. State of U.P. 2002(3) UPLBEC, for the preposition that, when charges are engaging attention of criminal trial or police investigation, departmental enquiry cannot proceed on same charges. Said decision has been rendered, in context of the mandate provided for in Rule 104 of U.P. Rajya Sahkari Bhoomi Vikas Bank Employees, Service Rules, 1976, which specifically prohibits departmental enquiry against a charge which is sub-judice in judicial enquiry or trial.

22. Argument has also been advanced, that disciplinary proceeding in the present case, is in fact second enquiry on same facts and same charges, as such same is legally not permissible. Reliance in this connection has been placed on judgment of this Court, in the case of Ram Nath Singh Vs. State of U.P. reported in 2002(3) UPLBEC 2463. Arguments advanced are clearly devoid of substance, as in the present case, at no point of time any departmental enquiry has been held in the past, wherein petitioner has been exonerated, and too the contrary for the first time, for his alleged misconduct, petitioner is being asked to appear and face enquiry. Judgment cited is totally out of context and will not come to the rescue of petitioner.

23. Thus, there can be no doubt regarding the settled legal proposition that as the standard of proof in both the proceedings is quite different, therefore, no interference is required by this Court in the departmental proceedings being carried out against the petitioner.

24. However, it is open to the disciplinary authority to conclude the departmental proceedings, strictly in accordance with law, at the earliest possible preferably within a period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order before the disciplinary authority.

25. With the aforesaid observations and directions, this writ petition is disposed of.

A. Practice & Procedure - Through this petition, the Court clarified that when an inquiry has not been concluded within the time which has been fixed by the Court, the employer has the option to seek an extension of time by making an appropriate application to the Court, setting out the reasons for the delay in conclusion of the inquiry. The Court on the other hand, based on the reasons stated, has to consider whether to extend the time or not. Meaning thereby, it will not be open to the employer to disregard that stipulation and an extension of time must be sought. The Court further added that mere delay on the part of the employer to conclude a disciplinary proceeding in time did not ipso facto nullify the entire proceeding. (Para 8 & 12) (E-10)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy, J.)

1. Heard.

2. The case of the petitioner is that, the Tribunal while deciding the Claim Petition No. 151 of 2011 quashing the earlier order of punishment dated 08.01.2011 and directing the opposite parties before it to conclude the inquiry or the disciplinary proceedings within three months of service of the copy of said judgment, the said judgment was challenged by the State before this Court by means of Writ Petition No. 4147 (SB) of 2017 which was dismissed summarily on 22.02.2017. Therefore, the State was already aware of the judgment dated 31.03.2015 passed in the above mentioned claim petition as it had challenged the same before this Court and its petition was dismissed on 22.02.2017. However, the disciplinary proceedings were not completed within three months as ordered, not even from the date of passing of the judgment in Writ Petition by the High Court. Instead, the inquiry was completed on 17.09.2020, that is, almost five years from the date of judgment of the Tribunal and three years from the date of judgment of the High Court. Thereafter, a show cause notice was issued to the petitioner on 12.10.2020 and the final order for punishment has been passed by the State Government in the name of his Excellency the Governor on 21.04.2022, that is, seven years from the judgment of the Tribunal and five years from the date of judgment of the High Court referred hereinabove.

3. The contention is that, this order is in the teeth of the full Bench decision of this Court in the case of 'Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi Vs. The New India Insurance Company Ltd. and others', Writ Petition No. 7179 (SS) of 2009.

4. The counsel for the State on the other hand says that the Full Bench does not bar the authorities from passing an order of punishment if the time period prescribed by a judgment of the Court or the tribunal has expired.

5. The contention of the State at this stage appears to be apparently erroneous in law.

6. Question no. (a) considered by the full Bench in Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi (supra) reads as under:-

"Whether if an inquiry proceeding is not concluded within a time frame fixed by a court and concluded thereafter, without seeking extension from the Court then on the said ground the entire inquiry proceeding as well as punishment order passed, is vitiated in view of the judgment in the case of P.N. Srivastava."

7. The answer to the said question reads as under:-

"We hold that if an enquiry is not concluded within the time which has been fixed by the Court, it is open to the employer to seek an extension of time by making an appropriate application to the court setting out the reasons for the delay in the conclusion of the enquiry. In such an event, it is for the court to consider whether time should be extended, based on the facts and circumstances of the case. However, where there is a stipulation of time by the Court, it will not be open to the employer to disregard that stipulation and an extension of time must be sought."

8. On the face of it, the answer to question no. (a) is that if inquiry has not concluded within the time which has been fixed by the Court, it is open to the employer to seek an extension of time by making an appropriate application to the Court, setting out the reasons for delay in conclusion of the enquiry. These observations of the Full Bench clearly mean that two course of actions are open, one to drop the proceedings if the same are not concluded within the time prescribed by the Court/Tribunal, the other is to seek extension of time. The Full Bench has further stated that in such an event, that is, where extension of time is sought by the employer, it is for the Court to consider whether time should be extended, based on the facts and circumstances of the case. However, where there is stipulation of time by the Court, it will not be open to the employer to disregard that stipulation and an extension of time must be sought. This answer to question no. (a) is mandatory as is evident from the very language used therein. When the Full Bench says that where there is stipulation of time by the Court it will not be open to the employer to disregard that stipulation and an extension of time must be sought, it means that it cannot proceed further to pass the final order without seeking permission and the same being granted by the Court.

9. Reliance placed by the counsel for the State on the answer to question no. (b) is misconceived as, if based on the said answer, the contention is accepted that a final order could be passed without seeking permission of the Court and without applying for such permission and the same being granted, then, it will negate the answer to question no. (a). In fact, it will negate the very judgment of the Full Bench. Nevertheless, for the satisfaction of the State's counsel the Court may refer to question no. (b).

"Whether the law as laid down by a Division 2 Bench of this Court in the case of P.N. Srivastava that if an inquiry proceeding is not concluded within a time frame as fixed by a Court, it stands vitiated is still a good law in view of the judgment rendered by the Supreme Court in the case of Suresh Chandra as well as a judgment dated 27.07.2009 of a Division Bench of this Court in Writ Petition No. 1056 (SB) of 2009 (Union of India and others Vs. Satendra Kumar Sahai and another)."

10. The answer to the said question is as under:-

"The judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Suresh Chandra (supra) as well as the judgment of the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Satyendra Kumar Sahai (supra) clearly indicate that a mere delay on the part of the employer in concluding a disciplinary enquiry will not ipso facto nullify the entire proceedings in every case. The court which has fixed a stipulation of time has jurisdiction to extend the time and it is open to the court, while exercising that jurisdiction, to consider whether the delay has been satisfactorily explained. The court can suitably extend time for conclusion of the enquiry either in a proceeding instituted by the employee challenging the enquiry on the ground that it was not completed within the stipulated period or even upon an independent application moved by the employer. The court has the inherent jurisdiction to grant an extension of time, the original stipulation of time having been fixed by the court itself. Such an extension of time has to be considered in the interests of justice balancing both the need for expeditious conclusion of the enquiry in the interests of fairness and an honest administration. In an appropriate case, it would be open to the Court to extend time suo motu in order to ensure that a serious charge of misconduct does not go unpunished leading to a serious detriment to the public interest. The court has sufficient powers to grant an extension of time both before and after the period stipulated by the court has come to an end."

11. Nowhere does this answer to question no. (b) says that even if the time stipulated for the Court for completing an inquiry/disciplinary proceeding has expired and no permission for extension of time has been sought nor has it been granted, it is open for the authority to pass the final order without the said eventuality. The argument in fact runs contrary to the answer to question no. (a) as is apparent on the face of the record. Both answers to questions (a) and (b) have to be read, understood and applied harmoniously. What answer to question no. (b) says is that in the event the time has expired and an extension of time is sought by the employer or for that matter the employee approaches the Court challenging the proceedings on the ground that the same have not been completed during the stipulated period as ordered by the Court, this by itself, that is, mere delay on the part of the employer in concluding a disciplinary inquiry will not ipso facto nullify the entire proceeding in every case, meaning thereby, the Court which has fixed a stipulation of time has the jurisdiction to extend the time also. This can be done on an application by the employer or on a challenge being raised by an employee suo moto. It is for the Court to consider in these circumstances whether the delay has been satisfactorily explained, the Court can suitably extend time for conclusion of the inquiry. The Court has the inherent jurisdiction to grant an extension of time, such an extension of time has to be considered in the interest of justice balancing both the need for expeditious conclusion of the inquiry in the interest of fairness and an honest administration. The purpose behind is that a serious charge of misconduct does not go unpunished leading to serious detriment to the public interest. Nowhere does the answer to question no. (b) permit conclusion of the inquiry and thereafter passing of a final order of punishment by the disciplinary authority even where the time for completing of such enquiry or proceedings has already expired and no extension of time has been sought by the employer nor granted by the Court whether at its behest or in proceedings initiated by the employee. As already stated earlier, answer to question no. (b) deals with the situation where the time has expired which makes it mandatory for the employer to seek extension of time for completing such enquiry in view of the answer to question no. (a) and in that context the Court has the power to extend the time. The contention of the State's counsel if accepted will nullify, as already stated, the answer to question no. (a).

12. On a harmonious and conjoint reading of both the answers i.e. to question (a) and (b) by the Full Bench what comes out is that where there is stipulation of time by the court, it will not be open for the employer to disregard that stipulation and an extension of time must be sought. There is no escape from this. If it is sought then the court has power to extend the time and in this context, the observation of the Full Bench that mere delay on the part of employer in concluding a disciplinary inquiry will not ipso facto nullify the entire proceedings has to be understood, meaning thereby, it is not as if once stipulated time has not been adhered, such proceedings have necessarily to be nullified. The Court has jurisdiction in suitable cases to extend the time. But this does not mean that the employer can pass final order in such a proceedings without seeking such extention of time or without the same being granted otherwise in some proceeding by the employee challenging its continuance after expiry of the stipulated time. Where would be the occasion for extension of time for completing the inquiry/ proceedings when a final order has already been passed concluding the proceedings? None. As already stated earlier, if answer to question no.(b) is understood as suggested by the State Counsel then it will render the answer to question no.(a) otiose.

13. In a given case even where such a final order has been passed, even if it is to be quashed, the Court may in its discretion in exercise of his jurisdiction under article 226 of the Constitution of India may grant further time for completing the inquiry proceedings afresh, if the charges are serious enough and as observed by the Full Bench a situation exists where a serious charge of misconduct would go unpunished leading to serious detriment to the public interest merely because of the delay on the part of the employer and/ or where delay is not much, but, that does not appear to be the case here. In this case the punishment which has been imposed is a minor punishment. There are no charges of financial irregularity involved. As already stated, the judgment of the Tribunal is dated 31.03.2015, that is, it was passed more than seven years ago. The writ petition of the State itself was highly belated having been filed in the year 2017 and the same came to be dismissed on 22.02.2017, that is, more than five years ago. We're now in the year 2022. There is no mention of the factors which led to this delay in the impugned order. The Court also notices the inquiry report, according to which no loss was caused to the Government on account of any action of the petitioner. The only error pointed out on his part was as under:-

"परन्तु गिट्टी की कुटाई के उपरान्त 03 माह के अन्दर लेपन का कार्य सुनिश्ति न कराये जाने के कारण नियंत्रण में शिथिलता हेतु आंशिक दोष होता है I"

14. On admitted facts as mentioned in the impugned order where only a minor punishment of withholding one increment of one year and recovery of the amount of one increment which would otherwise be payable for a year from the petitioner has been ordered. Nevertheless, in the larger interest, the State is granted one opportunity to demonstrate before the Court as to how it seeks to sustain the impugned order in the light of the above. This, of course, is without prejudice to the legal position discussed hereinabove so that this Court may do substantial justice under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

15. List this case on 23.05.2022 amongst the first ten cases of the day. No further time shall be granted to the opposite parties for filing a counter affidavit.

16. Until further orders, the impugned order is hereby stayed.

17. The name of Sri R.K. Upadhyay shall be printed in the cause list as learned counsel for opposite party no. 2.

A. Service Law - The employee can be discharged from service or a prospective employee may be refused employment on the ground of suppression of material information or making false statement in reply to queries relating to prosecution or conviction or acquittal in a criminal offence. (Para 13)

Writ Petition Rejected. (E-10)

3. Daya Shankar Yadav Vs U.O.I. (2010) 14 SCC 103

4. St.of Raj. & ors. Vs Chetan Jeff Civil Appeal No. 3116 of 2002

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suneet Kumar, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State-respondents.

2. Petitioner applied for the post of Constable (Civil Police) against an advertisement issued in 2013, by the second respondent- U.P. Police Recruitment and Promotion Board, Lucknow. Petitioner was declared successful in physical and medical examination, however, he was not sent for training alongwith similarly situated candidates. On verification of the antecedent of the petitioner, it was informed by the District Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar, that the following cases are registered against the petitioner:

Sl No.	Case Crime No.	Under Sections	Police Station	District	Status
1	NCR 03/2013	323/504 IPC	Ibrahimpur	Ambedkar Nagar	Pending
2	FIR 25/2013	436/506 IPC	Ibrahimpur	Ambedkar Nagar	Pending
3	NCR 38/2015	352/504 IPC	Ibrahimpur	Ambedkar Nagar	Pending
4	FIR 63/2015	392/411/506 IPC	Aliganj	Ambedkar Nagar	Acquitted on 17.02.2017
5	FIR 73/2015	3/4 Goonda Act	Ibrahimpur	Ambedkar Nagar	Acquitted on 17.03.2018

3. On specific query, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that on the last date for submission of the application form for the post in 2012, admittedly, all the criminal cases against the petitioner was pending and it was in the knowledge of the petitioner, however, the said information was suppressed and not disclosed in the relevant column of the form. The status of the cases is of a later date.

4. By the instant writ petition, petitioner has raised challenge to the orders dated 08.08.2016 and 01.08.2017, passed by the third respondent- District Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar, whereby, the representation of the petitioner, seeking a direction to the District Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar, to take steps for submission of the verification report, has been disposed of forwarding the antecedents of the petitioner to the competent authority. A further prayer has been made that a direction be issued to the State-respondents to consider the candidature of the petitioner for training, pursuant to the Government Order dated 28.04.1958.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has confined the writ petition to prayer clause-(i) as considerable time has since lapsed and the petitioner, at this stage, cannot be sent for training. In other words petitioner seeks quashing of the antecedents forwarded by the District Magistrate to the employer.

6. It is not being disputed by the learned counsel for the petitioner that he had suppressed the criminal cases pending against him on the last date of submission of the application form for the post. The criminal cases noted herein above are serious offences and in any case, it is the discretion of the employer as to whether to offer appointment to the petitioner having regard to the pending criminal cases.

7. In the case of Jainendra Singh v. State of U.P., (2012) 8 SCC 748, in para 29.4, Supreme Court has observed and held that "a candidate having suppressed material information and/or giving false information cannot claim right to continue in service and the employer, having regard to the nature of employment as well as other aspects, has the discretion to terminate his services. In para 29.6, it is further observed that the person who suppressed the material information and/or gives false information cannot claim any right for appointment or continuity in service. In para 29.7, it is observed and held that "the standard expected of a person intended to serve in uniformed service is quite distinct from other services and, therefore, any deliberate statement or omission regarding a vital information can be seriously viewed and the ultimate decision of the appointing authority cannot be faulted."

8. In the case of Rajasthan Rajya Vidyut Prasaran Nigam Limited v. Anil Kanwariya, (2021) 10 SCC 136, Supreme Court held that:

9. The issue/question may be considered from another angle, from the employer's point of view. The question is not about whether an employee was involved in a dispute of trivial nature and whether he has been subsequently acquitted or not. The question is about the credibility and/or trustworthiness of such an employee who at the initial stage of the employment i.e. while submitting the declaration/verification and/or applying for a post made false declaration and/or not disclosing and/or suppressing material fact of having involved in a criminal case. If the correct facts would have been disclosed, the employer might not have appointed him. Then the question is of TRUST. Therefore, in such a situation, where the employer feels that an employee who at the initial stage itself has made a false statement and/or not disclosed the material facts and/or suppressed the material facts and therefore he cannot be continued in service because such an employee cannot be relied upon even in future, the employer cannot be forced to continue such an employee. The choice/option whether to continue or not to continue such an employee always must be given to the employer. At the cost of repetition, it is observed and as observed hereinabove in catena of decision such an employee cannot claim the appointment and/or continue to be in service as a matter of right."

10. The police force, a disciplined force, even if, the candidate is acquitted or discharged in criminal case, that acquittal or discharge order will have to be examined to assess, whether, the candidate is completely exonerated in the case on merit and whether his appointment poses a threat to the discipline of the police force.

11. The learned counsel for the petitioner submits that petitioner would be satisfied, at this stage, in the event, the impugned communication of the third respondent recording therein the criminal antecedents of the petitioner is set-aside. He further submits that in the event of the communication not being quashed, that would have an adverse impact on future appointment of the petitioner.

12. The submission, in my opinion is misconceived and unfounded. In future appointments petitioner is bound to disclose all the criminal cases lodged against him, whether, convicted or acquitted. The district authorities are bound to inform the employer about the antecedents of the petitioner, the lodged criminal cases against the petitioner would always be reflected in the report, even upon acquittal. It is upon the employer to consider whether having regard to the criminal cases, even upon acquittal, petitioner is fit for appointment.

In Daya Shankar Yadav v. Union of India, (2010) 14 SCC 103, Supreme Court had an occasion to consider the purpose of seeking the information with respect to antecedents. It is observed and held that the purpose of seeking the information with respect to antecedents is to ascertain the character and antecedents of the candidate so as to assess his suitability for the post. It is further observed that when an employee or a prospective employee declares in a verification form, answers to the queries relating to character and antecedents, the verification thereof can lead to any of the following consequences: (SCC pp. 11011, para 15)

"15. ... (a) If the declarant has answered the questions in the affirmative and furnished the details of any criminal case (wherein he was convicted or acquitted by giving benefit of doubt for want of evidence), the employer may refuse to offer him employment (or if already employed on probation, discharge him from service), if he is found to be unfit having regard to the nature and gravity of the offence/crime in which he was involved.

(b) On the other hand, if the employer finds that the criminal case disclosed by the declarant related to offences which were technical, or of a nature that would not affect the declarant's fitness for employment, or where the declarant had been honourably acquitted and exonerated, the employer may ignore the fact that the declarant had been prosecuted in a criminal case and proceed to appoint him or continue him in employment.

(c) Where the declarant has answered the questions in the negative and on verification it is found that the answers were false, the employer may refuse to employ the declarant (or discharge him, if already employed), even if the declarant had been cleared of the charges or is acquitted. This is because when there is suppression or nondisclosure of material information bearing on his character, that itself becomes a reason for not employing the declarant.

(d) Where the attestation form or verification form does not contain proper or adequate queries requiring the declarant to disclose his involvement in any criminal proceedings, or where the candidate was unaware of initiation of criminal proceedings when he gave the declarations in the verification roll/attestation form, then the candidate cannot be found fault with, for not furnishing the relevant information. But if the employer by other means (say police verification or complaints, etc.) learns about the involvement of the declarant, the employer can have recourse to courses (a) or (b) above."

13. Thereafter, it is observed and held that an employee can be discharged from service or a prospective employee may be refused employment on the ground of suppression of material information or making false statement in reply to queries relating to prosecution or conviction for a criminal offence (even if he was ultimately acquitted in the criminal case).

14. In para 13, of the report Supreme Court observed and held as under:

"13. In Avtar Singh [Avtar Singh v. Union of India, (2016) 8 SCC 471, though this Court was principally concerned with the question as to nondisclosure or wrong disclosure of information, it was observed in para 38.5 that even in cases where a truthful disclosure about a concluded case was made, the employer would still have a right to consider antecedents of the candidate and could not be compelled to appoint such candidate."

15. Recently, the Supreme Court in State of Rajasthan and others vs. Chetan Jeff, Civil Appeal No.3116 of 2002, decided on 11 May, 2022, upon considering the precedents, affirmed the decision of the authority (employer) in declining appointment on the post of Constable as the candidate had suppressed the information of pending criminal cases. The Court observed and held that acquittal or benefit of Probation of Offenders Act would not be sufficient to appoint the candidate on the post of Constable.

16. Having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case and the proposition of law and precedents, the writ petition being devoid of merit, is accordingly, dismissed.

17. No cost.

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Abhishek Kumar Pandey, Apoorva Tewari

A. Service Law - Temporary government servant as also the government servant appointed on deputation have no right to hold the post, his services are liable to be terminated by giving him one month notice without assigning any reason either as per the terms of the contract or the statutory rules regulating the terms and conditions of the service. In the present case, the Court earlier directed the reinstatement of the petitioner holding the termination/repatriation was arbitrary. But the respondent- State Urban Development Agency released the salary of the petitioner for the remaining period of the contract and declined to renew the contract of appointment further. As observed and held that SUDA was justified in not renewing the contract of appointment of the petitioner being based on an objective assessment of performance and utility of the petitioner, which was as per the terms and conditions governing the appointment of the government servant. (Para 36- 39)

The decision of the respondent to repatriate the petitioner to his parent department and to not to renew the contract of the petitioner further was based on the performance, conduct and disutility of the petitioner, therefore valid and non-arbitrary. (Para 41)

8. St. of U.P. Vs Kaushal Kishore Shukla (1991) 1 SCC 691

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suneet Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Apporva Tewari, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Kazim Ibrahim, learned counsel appearing for respondents No. 2 & 3 and learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. Petitioner has raised challenge to the order dated 8 July 2020, passed by the second respondent, Director State Urban Development Agency (for short "SUDA'), repatriating the petitioner to his parent department. A further challenge has been raised to the consequential order dated 15 July 2020, whereby, the petitioner has been relieved from the post of Project Officer, District Unnao Development Authority Sultanpur, and order dated 29 July 2020, whereby, the fourth respondent has been posted on the said post.

3. The facts, briefly stated, for the purposes of the present writ petition, is that petitioner came to be appointed in 1987 on the post of Junior Clerk in the Department of Animal Husbandry, Government of U.P. Pursuant to a requisition issued by the State Urban Development Agency on 21 June 2017, petitioner applied for appointment on deputation for the post of Project Officer. The requisition was followed by an advertisement dated 26 June 2017, published in daily Amar Ujala. Petitioner applied for the post of Project Officer through proper channel on 3 July 2017, upon selection, petitioner was issued appointment order dated 27 October 2017. An agreement dated 17 November 2017, setting forth the terms and conditions of appointment was entered between the petitioner and SUDA, wherein, the maximum period of deputation was provided at 5 years, but renewable every year. On accepting the terms and conditions of appointment, petitioner came to be relieved by his parent department on 4 December 2017, thereafter, petitioner submitted his joining before the second respondent on 5 December 2017. Petitioner came to be posted Project Officer, District Urban Development Authority, Sultanpur (for short "DUDA') on 2 January 2018, consequently, petitioner joined the post at Sultanpur on 6 January 2018.

4. Petitioner after putting in two and half years of service, by the impugned order dated 8 July 2020, came to be repatriated to his parent department on administrative ground. Consequently, petitioner came to be relieved by the District Magistrate, Sultanpur, on 15 July 2020. Aggrieved, petitioner instituted the instant writ petition, wherein, an interim order came to be passed on 17 November 2020, staying the effect and operation of the impugned order and a further direction was issued to reinstate the petitioner. It appears that the second respondent declined to reinstate the petitioner, but paid the salary for the remaining period of contract for that year.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has made the following submissions while assailing the impugned order:

(i) that the impugned order is unreasoned, non-speaking and arbitrary;

(ii) that no opportunity of hearing was given before passing the impugned order;

(iii) that status of the petitioner on appointment on deputation is distinct from a transferee on deputation;

(iv) that petitioner could not have been removed/reverted during the term of deputation without affording opportunity or show cause;

(v) that no reasons have been assigned in the impugned order.

6. In support of his submission reliance has been placed on the decisions rendered by the Supreme Court in Ashok Kumar Ratilal Patel vs. Union of India1; Union of India vs. S.N. Maity2; Union of India vs. V. Ramakrishnan and others3 & Balmer Lawrie and Company and others vs. Partha Sarathi Sen Roy and others4.

7. In rebuttal, in the counter affidavit filed by the second respondent, it has been stated that petitioner failed to discharge his duties satisfactorily with full dedication in the interest of SUDA. The organization is engaged in implementing various schemes of the Central Government and/or State Government for urban poor, consequently, the beneficiaries were deprived of the benefits of the scheme or suffered due to delay in getting the benefits, viz, dwelling houses, and funds for construction of houses. It is further stated that petitioner miserably failed to achieve the targets and in one such scheme 566 dwelling units was sanctioned, but petitioner failed to complete even a single dwelling unit. As against 6180 dwelling units only 2150 i.e. less than 30% was achieved showing lack of interest by the petitioner in the work of SUDA.

8. Further, in National Urban Livelihood Mission (for short "NULM'), financial assistance to the urban poor for setting up establishment for source of livelihood, petitioner miserably failed to achieve the target. The comparative chart with regard to Prime Minister Awas Yojana (Urban) and progress of NULM Scheme has been placed on record along with the counter affidavit at Annexure-CA-1.

9. It is further stated that petitioner was issued notice on 5 December 2019, for meeting the targets under the various schemes, petitioner replied on 24 December 2019, assuring that he shall make an endeavour to achieve the target. It is further stated that petitioner did not show any interest to the work allotted at District Sultanpur, further, petitioner violated Conduct Rules and the transfer policy by invoking political pressure to transfer him to another district of his choice. It is alleged that the wife of the petitioner submitted several applications for his transfer, the office of Deputy Chief Minister was approached for transfer. Further, it is stated that petitioner absented from duty leaving the station headquarter on several occasions without sanctioned leave or information, for which he was issued notice on 29 January 2019 and 19 May 2020.

10. That apart it is further alleged that serious complaints were received against the petitioner demanding bribe at Rs. 50 thousand each from the beneficiaries under the Schemes, and on the said complaint Additional Director SUDA directed the Chairman, DUDA Sultanpur, to conduct an enquiry and submit a report. Petitioner on an earlier occasion was issued notice dated 11 April 2019, by the Director SUDA, to show cause with regard to his poor performance in achieving targets. Despite notice, petitioner did not show any inclination to improve the targets, rather, applied political pressure demonstrating that petitioner was not interested in the work and lacks the aptitude and positive approach towards implementation of the Schemes for urban poor. Several complaints were received from the beneficiaries alleging demand of bribe for grant of benefits under the Schemes, on which an enquiry was conducted. The authority taking a lenient view repatriated the petitioner to the parent department as per the terms and conditions of the contract of appointment. It is urged that petition lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed.

11. Rival submissions fall for consideration.

12. To ascertain, as to whether, the second respondent had applied his mind independently before passing the impugned order, the learned counsel appearing for the second respondent was directed to produce the records pertaining to the decision taken on the repatriation of the petitioner. Learned counsel produced the record and upon perusal of the record and the order-sheet, with the assistance of the learned counsels, it is noted that complaint was received from Member of the Legislative Assembly, through the office of the Chief Minister, alleging that petitioner lacks knowledge of the work, consequently, the wards inhibited by marginalized sections of society have been deprived of the development work under the Schemes. The beneficiaries have not received benefits of the Schemes, further, the proposed work was also not carried out by the petitioner under the Prime Minister National Awas Yojana and Kashi Ram Shahri Awas Yojana. Further, there is allegation of rampant corruption in allotment of the benefits under the Schemes. The complaint sought transfer of the petitioner. It is further noted that during Covid Pandemic petitioner without information and proper approval of his superior went missing from his duty for which petitioner was called upon to explain vide notice dated 19 May 2020. Further, it is noted that the petitioner for his transfer to another district i.e. DUDA Prayagraj, mounted pressure from the State Government/Central Government which is unbecoming of a government servant. In the aforenoted background, it was requested that petitioner be repatriated to his parent department as per the terms and conditions of appointment, which came to be duly approved by the second respondent on 8 July 2020. The decision of the second respondent is based on the noting endorsed by several officers.

13. Learned counsel for the petitioner was allowed to peruse the original record and the notings therein.

14. In the backdrop of the aforenoted satisfaction recorded by the second respondent pertaining to the performance, conduct and utility of the petitioner, learned counsel for the second respondent submits that the competent authority having regard to the terms and conditions of appointment, repatriated the petitioner. The second respondent in its wisdom did not desire to transfer the petitioner or to proceed departmentally against the petitioner for his incompetence, lack of interest, and/or, on allegations of misconduct/extraneous considerations, instead, passed an order simplicitor repatriating the petitioner to the parent department.

15. It is urged that the motive behind the impugned order rests upon the assessment of the overall work, performance and conduct of the petitioner. The impugned order is not founded on misconduct perse. The entire record of the petitioner, including, complaints received against him were considered by the second respondent before passing the impugned order.

16. Submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner that since the petitioner's appointment was appointment on deputation and not by way of transfer on deputation, therefore, petitioner was entitled to a show cause notice before petitioner could have been repatriated to the parent department. He submits that there is a distinction between "transfer on deputation' and "appointment on deputation'. Petitioner came to be appointed on deputation after due process of selection against a post with the second respondent.

17. Reliance has been placed on Ashok Kumar (supra) wherein, Supreme Court noted that the appellant, therein, came to be selected on the post of Director AICTE for a period of three years. Before the petitioner could join the post, the appointment on deputation came to be cancelled as the grade-pay for the selected post was lower than the revised grade-pay which the petitioner was entitled in his parent department. The respondent withdrew the offered appointment of the appellant on the ground that the deputation from higher post to lower post is not admissible under the rules. The Court in the given facts noted that the appellant was prepared and submitted his willingness to join at the lower grade-pay, in the circumstances, the Court was of the opinion that the action of the authority in withdrawing the appointment of the appellant was arbitrary and in violation of Article 14 of the Constitution. The Court made the following observation.

14. ..... A person, who applies for appointment on deputation has indefeasible right to be treated fairly and equally and once such person is selected and offered with the letter of appointment on deputation, the same cannot be cancelled except on the ground of non- suitability or unsatisfactory work.

15. The present case is not a case of transfer on deputation. It is a case of appointment on deputation for which advertisement was issued and after due selection, the offer of appointment was issued in favour of the appellant. In such circumstances, it was not open for the respondent to argue that the appellant has no right to claim deputation and the respondent cannot refuse to accept the joining of most eligible selected candidate except for ground of unsuitability or unsatisfactory performance.

18. The case would not apply to the facts arising in the instant writ petition. It is not the case of the petitioner that appointment of the petitioner was recalled or cancelled before joining the post on deputation, rather, it is a case where the respondents after assessing the performance and utility of the petitioner declined to extend the contract of appointment and instead repatriated the petitioner to his parent department. The issue, in the facts of the case in hand, is as to whether the petitioner could be repatriated by an order simplicitor in terms of the appointment agreement.

19. In S.N. Maity (supra), the writ petitioner (respondent before the Supreme Court) was a Scientist in Central Mining Research Institute. He came to be appointed on deputation on the post of Controller General of Patents, Designs and Trade Marks. After serving for one year, he was repatriated to his parent department. The order was contested on the ground that principles of natural justice was violated, therefore, being arbitrary and violative of Article 14 of the Constitution. A finding was returned by the Court that the case of the petitioner was not a case of simplicitor deputation but appointment on a deputation, therefore, petitioner could not have been repatriated to his parent department prematurely without disclosing the grounds for repatriation. The Court returned a finding that the tenure of posting of the petitioner/respondent was curtailed without any justifiable reason. The Court, however, declined to reinstate the petitioner/respondent as the tenure had expired but in the interest of justice directed that the petitioner/respondent shall be entitled to salary for the said period at 9% interest.

20. The distinguishing feature of S.N. Maity (supra) is that petitioner/respondent came to be appointed after due process on the recommendation of the Union Public Service Commission (UPSC) for a period of five years. The premature repatriation was not backed/supported by the grounds/reasons for repatriation. As against the facts of the case in hand, the contract of appointment incorporates a condition that the deputation could be terminated at any time. Further, the conduct and performance of the petitioner would be assessed every year and upon satisfaction of the competent authority the contract would be renewed on year to year basis. The term of initial appointment would be for three years but not exceeding five years. In other words in the instant case the terms and condition of appointment of the petitioner was not a term appointment, but appointment on year to year basis. The contract of appointment was required to be renewed upon assessment of performance, suitability and conduct of the petitioner. In the event the contract of appointment not being renewed, on the ground of suitability and unsatisfactory performance petitioner could be repatriated. The nature of appointment on deputation was purely temporary.

21. Supreme Court in Balmer Lawrie (supra), observed and held that where the actions of an employer bear public character and contain an element of public interest, as regards the offers made by him, including the terms and conditions mentioned in an appropriate table, which invite the public to enter into contract, such a matter does not relegate to a pure and simple private law dispute, without the insignia of any public element whatsoever. Where an unfair and untenable, or an irrational clause in a contract, is also unjust, the same is amenable to judicial review.

22. Reliance was placed by the Court on the decision rendered in West Bengal State Electricity Board & others vs. Desh Bandhu Ghosh and others5, Supreme Court considered a case where the respondent-employee was terminated by giving him only three months' notice, and without holding any enquiry or informing him about any actions on his part that were unwarranted. The court, after placing reliance on the judgment in Workmen vs. Hindustan Steel Ltd.6, held that where a regulation enables an employer to terminate the services of an employee, in an entirely arbitrary manner and in a manner that confers vicious discrimination, the same must be struck down as being violative of Article 14 of the Constitution.

23. The decision relied upon is of no help to the petitioner as the petitioner has not challenged any terms and conditions of the contract of appointment to urge that respondents could not have terminated the services of the petitioner without assigning any reason. The repatriation of the petitioner rests upon review of his performance and suitability. The non-renewal of contract of appointment of the petitioner is not based on the principle of "hire and fire'. The second respondent has assigned reasons to support the impugned order as reflected from the record.

24. Reliance has been placed on the terms and conditions incorporated in the Government Order dated 26 May 2003, wherein, it has been provided that the government servant appointed on deputation should not be repatriated before three years and in no case the deputation should exceed five years. It is urged that petitioner was entitled to continue for the remaining tenure. The Government Order is not of much assistance to the petitioner as the terms and conditions agreed between the parties, governing the appointment of the petitioner, would be relevant. The service contract clearly provides (Clause-2) that after one year of service, the performance of work and conduct of the petitioner would be reviewed and in the event of a satisfaction being recorded by the authority, the deputation period shall be extended for another year. It further provides that the assessment of performance and suitability would be undertaken, on year to year basis and the deputation period in any case would not exceed beyond five years.

25. Clause 3(i) of the agreement provides that after one year the deputation could be terminated without any notice. Clause 2(ii) provides that SUDA can terminate the service by notice of one calendar month, if the petitioner fails in performance of his duty and efficiency. Clause 13 clearly provides that the services of the petitioner is absolutely temporary and the deputation would automatically terminate on the expiry of the term i.e. one year.

26. Clause 1, 2, 3 and 3(i) and (ii) is extracted for ready reference:

''1. प्रथम पक्ष अपने को अभिकरण के आदेशों के तथा उनके अधिकारियों तथाप्राधिकारियों के अधीन प्रस्तुत करेगा, जिनके अधीन अभिकरण द्वारा उसे समय समयपर रखा जाता है तथा प्रथमतः एक वर्ष की अवधि के लिए प्रतिनियुक्ति पर रहेगा जो सन ..... के माह..... के दिनांक ..... से प्रारम्भ होगी और इसमें अंतर्विष्ट उपबन्धोंके अधीन होगी।

27. On specific query, it is not in dispute between the contesting parties that though petitioner during subsistence of his contract came to be repatriated, however, the second respondent declined to reinstate the petitioner, despite the directions of this Court, but in lieu thereof paid the salary for the remaining period of contract of the year. In other words, the respondent-SUDA declined to take work from the petitioner or renew the contract, instead have taken a decision to repatriate the petitioner to the parent department as per the terms and conditions stipulated in the contract.

28. On specific query, the learned counsel for the petitioner admits that the services of the petitioner would govern as per the terms and conditions of the contract of appointment. The terms, inter alia, provides:

(i) that the appointment on deputation of the petitioner is on yearly basis;

(ii) that the contract of appointment is renewable upon assessment of the suitability, conduct and performance of the petitioner, it is not automatic;

(iii) that the contract of appointment can be terminated by SUDA on one month notice in the event the performance, duty and responsibility being unsatisfactory;

(iv) that as per the Government Order dated 26 May 2003, the minimum tenure of deputation would be three years and not beyond five years.

29. The undisputed facts emerging in the given case is:

(i) that petitioner came to be appointed on deputation after due process against a post;

(ii) that the appointment of the petitioner would stand on a higher pedestal as against appointment on deputation by transfer;

(iii) that petitioner would have a right to the post until three years or five years, upon approval, subject to the terms and conditions of the contract of appointment;

(iv) that the service on deputation of the petitioner came to be terminated/repatriated in midst of the subsisting second year contract;

(v) that admittedly months notice was not given to the petitioner before passing the impugned order;

(vi) that the impugned order does not disclose any ground/reasons for consideration.

30. In the backdrop of admitted facts the question that arises is:

(i) as to whether, repatriation of the petitioner without notice/show cause in midst of the contract is arbitrary exercise of power being violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India;

(ii) whether, petitioner is entitled to reinstatement for the remaining period of contract.

31. Having regard to the terms and conditions of the contract of appointment the deputation was on year to year basis, subject to being renewed. In other words renewal of the contract of appointment is not automatic but dependent upon a satisfaction being recorded by the competent authority with regard to suitability, conduct and performance. It, therefore, follows that in the event the contract of appointment is not renewed upon assessment, SUDA is not required to give any notice to the incumbent (clause-2). It is not open to the incumbent to insist that he has a right to continue on deputation as a matter of right for the remaining tenure, provided, there is material to support the decision and application of mind by the competent authority thereon. In that event the Court would decline to interfere as it would tantamount to sitting in appeal over an administrative order.

32. The matter, however, would entirely be different in case the services of the incumbent is being abruptly terminated upon repatriation in midst of the subsisting contract then in that event notice as provided in the contract (clause-3(ii)) was required to be complied. In case the termination of deputation is founded on allegations of misconduct in midst of the subsisting contract then notice followed by enquiry is must. In the given facts, admittedly the contract of service of the petitioner was terminated by SUDA during the contract followed by repatriation. As per terms and conditions of appointment SUDA was bound to put the petitioner to a month's notice (Clause-3(ii)) which was not followed, consequently, this Court directed the second respondent to reinstate the petitioner. The order was not complied instead petitioner was paid full salary for the remaining period of the contract. It was open to SUDA having regard to the materials against the petitioner with regard to his performance, conduct and utility, not to extend/renew the contract of appointment (Clause-2).

33. In the circumstances, petitioner cannot insist that he should be reinstated upon renewing the contract of appointment. The respondent-SUDA cannot be directed to renew the contract, provided the decision of SUDA is not arbitrary and whimsical but founded on valid and reasonable assessment. The record pertaining to the petitioner, as noted earlier, reflects that the second respondent had taken a considered decision upon assessment of the performance, conduct and utility of the petitioner. This Court would not delve upon the sufficiency of the material or the nature of complaints. The decision of the second respondent in the circumstances cannot be said to be arbitrary or whimsical. It is founded on objective consideration of the materials noted in the record. The details, in fact and figure, has been stated in the counter affidavit filed by second respondent. Accordingly, a direction to reinstate the petitioner would primarily tantamount to renewal of the contract of appointment of the petitioner which would, in the circumstances amount to substituting the opinion and order of the second respondent.

34. It is settled law that the court can lift the veil of the innocuous order to find whether it is the foundation or motive to pass the offending order. If misconduct is the foundation to pass the order then an enquiry into misconduct should be conducted then an action according to law should follow. But if it is motive, it is not incumbent upon the competent officer to have the enquiry conducted and the service of a temporary employee could be terminated, in terms of the order of appointment or rules giving one month's notice or pay, salary in lieu thereof. Even if an enquiry was initiated, it could be dropped midway and action could be taken in terms of the rules or order of appointment.

35. Supreme Court in State of U.P. and others vs. Prem Lata Misra (Km) and others7, upon noticing the facts arising therein, that the respondent/government servant came to be appointed, thereafter, her work was supervised by the higher officers and two officers have submitted their reports concerning the performance of the duties by the government servant. She was regularly irregular in her duties, insubordination and left the office during office hours without permission etc. On consideration thereof, the competent authority found that the respondent is not fit to be continued in service as her work and conduct were unsatisfactory. Under these circumstances, the Court held that the termination is for her unsuitability or unfitness but not by way of punishment as a punitive measure and one in terms of the order of appointment and also the Rule. Accordingly, the Supreme Court observed and held that the High Court has gone against settled law in allowing the writ petition. (Refer: State of U.P. vs. Kaushal Kishore Shukla8)

36. Temporary government servant having no right to hold the post, his services are liable to be terminated by giving him one month notice without assigning any reason either under the terms of contract providing for such termination or under the relevant statutory rules regulating the terms and conditions of the temporary government servant.

37. The principle would apply to the government servant appointed on deputation, depending upon the terms and conditions of contract of service.

38. In S.N. Maity (supra) upon returning a finding that termination/repatriation was arbitrary and whimsical, directed payments of full salary for the period of contract along with interest but declined reinstatement as the term of the contract of appointment had expired.

39. In the facts in hand, this Court had directed reinstatement of the petitioner, prima facie, holding that termination/repatriation was arbitrary for want of notice passed in midst of the term of contract. It appears that SUDA on being advised released the salary of remaining period of the contract and declined to renew the contract of appointment further. As observed and held earlier SUDA was justified in not renewing the contract of appointment of the petitioner being based on an objective assessment of performance and utility of the petitioner, which was as per the terms and conditions governing the appointment of the government servant.

40. In the facts of the case in hand, petitioner even otherwise upon reinstatement could have been repatriated to the parent department after working for the remaining period of the yearly contract. SUDA was within its right and authority, as per the terms of the contract, to have denied renewal based on the assessment of the performance, conduct and utility of the petitioner. In any case petitioner was only entitled to salary for the remaining period of the contract as petitioner came to be terminated in midst of the contract without notice, which has been duly paid to him.

41. The contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner that petitioner was entitled to notice/disciplinary proceeding on the allegation of misconduct. Having regard to the conditions of service that the appointment of the petitioner was temporary and could be repatriated on notice. It was open to the second respondent to put the petitioner to notice/enquiry or terminate the deputation, and/or, decline further renewal of the contract. SUDA choose not to renew the contract of appointment and drop the idea of enquiry which is as per the terms and condition of contract of appointment, instead, paid the salary for the remaining period of contract realizing that they did not put the petitioner to notice before repatriating the petitioner during subsistence of the contract. But in any case they assigned reasons, duly noted in the file, for repatriating the petitioner and not renewing the contract of appointment. The decision rests on foundation based on performance, conduct and disutility of the petitioner. The decision of SUDA to repatriate the petitioner cannot, in the circumstances, be said to be arbitrary.

42. The writ petition being devoid of merit is, accordingly, dismissed.

43. No cost.

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Service Law - Right to Privacy - Juvenile Justice Board (Care & Protection of Children) Act, 2000: Section 2(k), 2(1), 19, 21 - Juvenile Justice Board (Care & Protection of Children) Act, 2015: Section 24 - Juvenile Justice Board (Care & Protection of Children) Rules, 2007: Chapter II, Rule 3 - Constitution of India, 1950 : Article 226, 21

The Court observed that petitioner was declared as juvenile by the Board at the time when the F.I.R. was lodged against him, therefore, his case was to be dealt taking into consideration the provisions of Juvenile Justice Act, 2000. Disclosure of details of criminal prosecution faced as a juvenile is violative of right to privacy and right to reputation of child guaranteed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. It also denudes the protection of child sought by the Act. However, it is noteworthy that the petitioner has been acquitted in that instant case and the case lodged against him was trivial in nature and should not be viewed as disqualification for entry in Government service. (Para 28 & 29)

If a juvenile is convicted, same should be obliterated, so that there is no stigma with regard to any crime committed by such a person as a juvenile, as the object of Juvenile Justice Act is to reintegrate juvenile back in the society as a normal person. (Para 25)

The respondent cancelled the appointment of the petitioner on the post of Lower Division Clerk (LCD) on the ground that he had concealed the material facts of the criminal prosecution faced as a juvenile.

1. Heard Mr. Pankaj Kumar Gupta, learned counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Umesh Chandra Tripathi, learned counsel for respondent nos. 1, 2 & 3 and Mr. Ashim Mukherjee, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. The writ petition has been filed, challenging the impugned order dated 24.11.2021 passed by respondent no.3, AGM(Pers.), Canteen Stores Department (in short "CSD'), Ministry of Defence, Government of India whereby the candidature of the petitioner for selection on the post of Lower Division Clerk (LCD) has been rejected on the ground of suppression of material fact of his involvement in criminal case which was registered against him on 16.04.2010 prior to the submission of application form to the Office of Staff Selection Commission.

3. The facts of the present matter are as follows:-

(I) The Staff Selection Commission, New Delhi issued an advertisement in the year 2017 for 'Combined Higher Secondary Level (10+2) Examination', inviting applications form for direct recruitment on the post of Lower Division Clerk (LCD) in various departments under the Government of India.

(II) The petitioner being qualified and eligible applied for the aforesaid post and after successfully completing written as well as type test, the petitioner was selected on the post of Lower Division Clerk (LCD) in Canteen Stores Department, Ministry of Defence, Government of India.

(III) The concerned department/respondent no.2 issued a letter to the petitioner, offering appointment as Lower Division Clerk in Canteen Stores Department along with attestation form for employment. The petitioner submitted the attestation form along with educational certificates.

(IV) On 03.03.2020, while filling this attestation form, the petitioner himself has disclosed the information regarding pendency of one criminal case against him. On 22.10.2020, the concerned department issued a letter to the petitioner for seeking clarification with regard to the criminal case pending against him and direct the petitioner to forward the copy of F.I.R. and latest Court proceedings/orders for completion of appointment formalities.

(V) In compliance of the aforesaid letter, the petitioner submitted his reply on 06.01.2021 stating therein that the F.I.R. was lodged against him due to family property dispute with his uncle namely, Shyam Lal Yadav, which was registered as Case Crime No. 250 of 2010, under Sections 323, 504, 506, 308 I.P.C. at Police Station Soraon, District Allahabad. It was also mentioned that during investigation the trial Court had released the petitioner on bail. He has also mentioned that the Investigating Officer has submitted a charge sheet against the petitioner under Sections 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. It was also submitted that trial Court after perusing the records, on 23.12.2020 declared the petitioner Juvenile and transfered the matter before Juvenile Justice Board.

(VI) On 26.04.2021, the General Manager, Canteen Stores Department, Ministry of Defence, Govt. of India issued a letter for cancellation of appointment of the petitioner on the post of Lower Division Clerk (LCD) on the ground that he had concealed the material facts with regard to the First Information Report lodged against him.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that petitioner was juvenile at the time of alleged incident i.e. on 16.4.2010, he was 17 years 9 months and 13 days old and he was declared juvenile by the concerned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that the respondents have acted arbitrarily in non-suiting the claim of the petitioner, merely, on the basis of pendency of criminal case which is trivial in nature and it cannot be fastened any disqualification as per relevant provisions of Juvenile Justice Board (Care & Protection of Children) Act, 2000. He further submits that the petitioner was acquitted in the aforesaid case, therefore, he gave a representation dated 23.07.2021 before the authorities concerned i.e. respondent no.2 requesting him to consider his claim for appointment on the post of Lower Division Clerk (LCD) in the department but no decision has been taken, hence, the petitioner has approached this Court by means of filing Writ-A No.12811 of 2021 (Abhishek Kumar Yadav Vs. State of U.P. & others) and the Hon'ble Court vide order dated 24.09.2021 directed the respondent no.3 to re-examine the claim of the petitioner for appointment on the said post and decide the same by reasoned and speaking order.

6. In compliance of the order of this Court, the representation of the petitioner was rejected by the impugned order dated 24.11.2021 on the ground that while submitting the attestation form, the petitioner has suppressed the fact with respect to the pendency of criminal case against him.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that the impugned order is illegal, arbitrary and bad in the eyes of law as the respondents while passing the aforesaid order did not consider the fact that the petitioner was a minor at the time when the criminal case was lodged against him and was declared so by the Juvenile Justice Board, hence, they ought to have considered the claim of the petitioner taking into consideration the provisions of Juvenile Justice (Care & Protection of Children) Act, 2000.

8. He further submits that the petitioner at the time of lodging the said F.I.R. was a juvenile and a juvenile has been defined in Section 2(k) of the Act, 2000. The same is extracted below:-

"(k)" "juvenile" or "child" means a person who has not completed eighteen year of age."

9. He placed Section 19 of the Act, 2000, which reads as under:-

"19. Removal of disqualification attaching to conviction:- (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law, a juvenile who has committed an offence and has been dealt with under the provisions of this Act shall not suffer disqualification, if any, attaching to a conviction of an offence under such law.

(2) The Board shall make an order directing that the relevant records of such conviction shall be removed after the expiry of the period of appeal or a reasonable period prescribed under the rules, as the case may be."

10. As the petitioner was under the age of 18 years at the time of lodging of the F.I.R, he had to be treated as a juvenile in conflict with law. A "juvenile in conflict with law" has also been defined under Section 2 (1) of the Act, 2000. The same reads as under:-

"(1) "juvenile in conflict with law" means a juvenile who is alleged to have committed an offence and has not completed eighteenth year of age as on the date of commission of such offence;"

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that Section 19 of the Act of 2000 has been incorporated in order to give a juvenile an opportunity to lead his life with no stigma and to wipe out the circumstances of his past. Thus provides that a juvenile shall not suffer any disqualification attaching to conviction of an offence under such Act. A "juvenile" on the date when the alleged offence has been committed is required to be dealt with under the Juvenile Justice (Care & Protection of Children) Act, 2000 which declares that all criminal cases against individuals who are described as "juvenile in conflict with law" be decided by the authorities constituted under the Act by the Juvenile Justice Board. If a conviction is recorded by the Juvenile Justice Board, Section 19 (1) of the Act of 2000 stipulates that juvenile shall not suffer any disqualification attached to the conviction of an offence under such law. Further Section 19 (2) of the Act of 2000 contemplates that the Board must pass an order directing all the relevant records of such conviction to be removed after expiry of the period of appeal or reasons as prescribed under the rules as the case may be.

12. In the present case, it would not be out of place to mention that the petitioner was a juvenile at the time when the F.I.R. was lodged and was acquitted by the concerned competent Court, hence, the impugned order is not justified as the same has been passed without consideration of the aforesaid provisions of the Act, 2000.

13. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also placed reliance upon Section 21 of the Act, 2000 which prohibits publication of the name of the "juvenile in conflict with law" with the object to protect a juvenile from adverse consequences on account of his conviction for an offence committed as a juvenile. The same reads as follows:-

"21. Prohibition of publication of name, etc., of juvenile involved in any proceeding under the Act.-

(1) No report in any newspaper, magazine, new-sheet or visual media of any inquiry regarding a juvenile in conflict with law under this Act shall disclose the name, address or school or any other particulars calculated to lead to the identification of the juvenile nor shall any picture of any such juvenile be published:

Provided that for reasons to be recorded in writing the authority holding the inquiry may permit such disclosure, if in its opinion such disclosure is in the interest of the juvenile.

(2) Any person contravening the provisions of sub-section (1) shall be punishable with fine, which may extend to one thousand rupees."

14. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the sensitivity in matters relating to a juvenile or child or "juvenile in conflict with law" has been dealt with in Chapter II of the Juvenile Justice (Care & Protection of Children) Rules, 2007. Rule 3 therein gives in detail the fundamental principles to be followed in administration of the Rules.

15. The said Act is a beneficial legislation. The principles of such beneficial legislation are to be applied only for the purpose of interpretation of this statutes. The concealment of the pendency of criminal case against the petitioner was of no consequence. As per the requirement of law a conviction in an offence will not be treated as a disqualification for a juvenile. The records of the case pertaining to his involvement in a criminal matter are to be obliterated after a specified period of time. The intention of the legislature is clear and in so far as juveniles are concerned their criminal records is not to stand in their way in their lives. The cancellation of the candidature of the petitioner is thus bad in the eyes of law. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that the respondents failed to appreciate the fact that the petitioner was entitled to the benefits of the provisions of the Act of 2000.

16. In the present case, the petitioner had given the details of the case pending against him at the time of submission of his attestation form, therefore, there was no suppression of any fact by him.

17. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the charges which were levelled against the petitioner were trivial in nature and must be passed off and could not be viewed as a disqualification for entry in Government service. It is in that context the following observations as made by the Supreme Court in Avtar Singh are of relevance:-

"(5) In a case where the employee has made declaration truthfully of a concluded criminal case, the employer still has the right to consider antecedents, and cannot be compelled to appoint the candidate.

(6) In case when fact has been truthfully declared in character verification form regarding pendency of a criminal case of trivial nature, employer, in facts and circumstances of the case, in its discretion may appoint the candidate subject to decision of such case."

18. He raised his contention with respect to the provisions of Section 24, which is as follows:-

24. Removal of disqualification on the findings of an offence-

"(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, a child who has committed an offence and has been dealt with under the provisions of this Act shall not suffer disqualification, if any, attached to a conviction of an offence under such law.

Provided that in case of a child who has completed or is above the age of sixteen years and is found to be in conflict with law by the Children's Court under clause (i) of sub-section (1) of section 19, the provisions of sub-section (1) shall not apply.

(2) The Board shall make an order directing the Police, or by the Children's Court to its own registry that the relevant records of such conviction shall be destroyed after the expiry of the period of appeal or, as the case may be, a reasonable period as may be prescribed.

Provided that in case of a heinous offence where the child is found to be in conflict with law under clause (i) of sub-section (1) of section 19, the relevant records of conviction of such child shall be retained by the Children's Court."

It is evident there from, that even if a juvenile is convicted under the provisions of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, the same is not liable to be viewed as a disqualification which may otherwise and ordinarily stand attached upon a person being convicted. Hence, the matter be remanded to the respondents for re-evaluation of the petitioners claim in light of the legal provision which is adverted to. He, therefore, submits that the impugned orders are unsustainable.

19. In support of his submission, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance the several judgements of this Court. In case of Rajiv Kumar Vs. State of U.P. and another, reported in 2019 (4) ADJ 316, the holdings were summed up as follows:-

"157.....The insistence of the State employer on a disclosure of criminal prosecution faced as a child reflected an impersonal attitude and a rote response to child rights. This is not an environment which fosters a healthy development of children and where rights of children flourish.

158. The requirement posed by the respondents to the petitioner to make a declaration disclosing details of criminal prosecution faced by the latter, insofar as it included the criminal prosecution faced by the petitioner as a minor child of 10 years was in violation of the fundamental rights of the petitioner guaranteed byArticle 14 and 21of the Constitution of India and in the teeth of Section 25 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 1986.

159. The details of past prosecution faced by the petitioner as a child was not a valid criteria nor a lawful consideration to judge his suitability for appointment. Such criteria was arbitrary and illegal.

160. The declaration made by the petitioner was not a relevant consideration in the appointment of the petitioner. Hence, even the falsity of the declaration made by the petitioner could not invalidate his appointment.

161. The petitioner in defence of his fundamental rights vested by Article 14 and 21 of the Constitution of India, could hold his silence or decline to disclose details of the prosecution in a criminal trial faced by him as a minor child of 10 years. Such action or declaration of the petitioner cannot be faulted with.

The services of the petitioner cannot be terminated on the foot of such action or declaration." (emphasis supplied)

20. He has placed another judgement of this Court passed in case of Kishan Paswan Vs. Union of India and others, reported in 2020 (11) ADJ 254, wherein relying on provisions of Section 24 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 following has been held:-

"102. The wide consensus of such values helps us in determining the rights of a child. The endeavours of the courts and the legislatures alike is to protect the identity of the child offender, and to shield the child in conflict with law from suffering lasting and traumatic consequences of criminal prosecution. A child who has been prosecuted for criminal offence is entitled to a fresh chance in life. The child has to begin life as an adult on a clean state, as if no such criminal prosecution happened. This is possible when the fact of such criminal prosecution is purged from public discourse and is not a consideration for appointment to an office. The denial of public space and legitimacy to the fact of such criminal prosecution is the sheet anchor of the right to privacy and right to reputation of a child. An employer cannot elicit any information from any candidate or employee regarding the prosecution of the latter in a criminal case as a minor child for non heinous offences. An employer is precluded from seeking a declaration from a candidate or an employee regarding the prosecution of the latter in a criminal case as a child. (emphasis supplied)."

"112. The criteria of past criminal prosecution for forming an opinion about considering a criminal antecedents of a candidate is a valid one. This criteria which is valid for adults, would be flawed if applied to children. This would amount to treating unequals as equals. A logical sequitor is that fact of a past criminal prosecution of a child is not a relevant consideration for appointment to a public post or office and is violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. (emphasis supplied)"

21. He also placed reliance on another judgement of this Court in case of Shivam Maurya Vs. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2020 (5) ADJ 5. The Division Bench of this Court has taken a similar view in the aforesaid case, which is as follows:-

"14. The said Act is a beneficial legislation. The principles of such beneficial legislation are to be applied only for the purpose of interpretation of this statute. The concealment of the pendency of criminal case against the appellant-petitioner was of no consequence. As per the requirement of law a conviction in an offence will not be treated as a disqualification for a juvenile. The records of the case pertaining to his involvement in a criminal matter are to be obliterated after a specified period of time. The intention of the legislature is clear that in so far as juveniles are concerned their criminal records is not to stand in their way in their lives. The cancellation of the candidature of the appellant-petitioner was thus bad. The authority concerned failed to appreciate the fact that the appellant-petitioner was entitled to benefit of the provisions of Act of 2000. The cancellation of the candidature of the petitioner goes contrary to the object sought to be achieved by the Act of 2000. Section 19 of the Act of 2000 protects a juvenile and any stigma attached to his conviction is also removed. The Act of 2000 does not envisage incarceration of a juvenile which clearly shows that the intention and object was not to shut the doors of a disciplined and decent civilised life. It provides him an opportunity to mend his life for the future.

15. We thus hold that the authority concerned fell in complete error in not extending the benefit of Act of 2000 to the appellant-petitioner particularly when there are specific provisions provided therein to take care of a juvenile being implicated, tried and / or convicted in a criminal matter. We thus extend the benefit provided under Section 19 of the Act of 2000 to the appellant-petitioner."

22. In the case of Upendra Chauhan Vs. Union of India And 5 Others, reported in 2019 (3) ADJ 613, the Court has given the following conclusion:-

"It is evident that the respondents have taken contradictory and conflicting stands. While at one place, they admit that due disclosure was made in the attestation form, in the subsequent paragraphs they proceed to note that the suppression regarding the criminal cases was deliberate and with an intent to obtain entry in Government service and not due to any misconception. Not only are these findings incompatible, they evidence a complete non-application of mind. The findings with respect to suppression are not only belied from the recitals appearing in the impugned order itself but also from the attestation form in which the petitioner had admittedly made the requisite disclosure.

Additionally the Court notes the submission of learned counsel for the petitioner who contended that the charges which were levelled against the petitioner were trivial in nature and must be passed off and attributed to the exuberance and intemperance of youth and clearly could not be viewed as a disqualification for entry in Government service. It is in that context the following observations as made by the Supreme Court in Avtar Singh are of relevance:

"(5) In a case where the employee has made declaration truthfully of a concluded criminal case, the employer still has the right to consider antecedents, and cannot be compelled to appoint the candidate.

(6) In case when fact has been truthfully declared in character verification form regarding pendency of a criminal case of trivial nature, employer, in facts and circumstances of the case, in its discretion may appoint the candidate subject to decision of such case."

The contention lastly raised with respect to the provisions of Section 24 also merits due consideration. In the considered view of the Court and as is evident therefrom, even if a juvenile is convicted under the provisions of the 2015 Act the same is not liable to be viewed as a disqualification which may otherwise and ordinarily stand attached upon a person being convicted. This issue too merits the matter being remanded to the respondents for re-evaluation of the petitioners claim in light of the legal provision which is adverted to. On an overall conspectus of the aforesaid and in the considered view of this Court the impugned orders are rendered unsustainable."

23. After dealing with several relevant provisions related to juvenile and taking into consideration the judgements passed in several cases, the Court has laid down the law as has emerged after considering the settled position of law in the case of Anuj Kumar Vs. State of U.P. and Others, reported in 2021 0 Supreme (All) 404, which is as follows:-

"I. Juveniles and adults form separate classes. Criminal prosecution of an adult is a lawful basis for determination of suitability of a candidate for appointment to public office. However prosecution of juveniles is in a separate class. Using criminal prosecution faced by a candidate as a juvenile to form an opinion about his suitability for appointment, is arbitrary illegal and violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

II. The requirement to disclose details of criminal prosecutions faced as a juvenile is violative of the right to privacy and the right to reputation of a child guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. It also denudes the child of the protection assured by the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000 (as amended from time to time). Hence the employer cannot ask any candidate to disclose details of criminal prosecution faced as a juvenile.

III. The candidate can hold his silence or decline to give information about the criminal prosecution faced as a juvenile. Denial of such information by the candidate will not amount to a false declaration or a willful suppression of facts.

IV. The conviction by a Juvenile Justice Board under the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000 of a juvenile is not a disqualification for employment. As a sequitor prosecution faced as a juvenile is not a relevant fact for forming an opinion about the criminal antecedents and suitability of the candidate for appointment. Such prosecution cannot be made a basis for denial of appointment. Non disclosure of irrelevant facts is not "deliberate" or willful concealment of material facts. Hence non-disclosure of such criminal cases cannot invalidate the appointment of the said person.

V. Clarification:

These holdings shall not apply to cases beyond the ambit of Juvenile Justice Act, 2000 (as amended from time to time) and also in cases of heinous crimes committed by persons in the age group of 16 to 18 years."

24. Learned counsel for the petitioner has lastly relying upon the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Union of India And Others Vs. Ramesh Bishnoi, reported in (2019) 19 Supreme Court Cases 710, reads as follows:-

"It is clear that at the time when the charges were framed against the respondent, on 30.06.2009, the respondent was well under the age of 18 years as his date of birth is 05.09.1991. Firstly, it was not disputed that the charges were never proved against the respondent as the girl and her parents did not depose against the respondent, resulting in his acquittal on 24.11.2011. Even if the allegations were found to be true, then too the respondent could not have been deprived of getting a job on the basis of such charges as the same had been committed while the respondent was juvenile. The thrust of the legislation, i.e. The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 as well as The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 is that even if a juvenile is convicted, the same should be obliterated, so that there is no stigma with regard to any crime committed by such person as a juvenile. This is with the clear object to reintegrate such juvenile back in the society as a normal person, without any stigma. Section 3 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 lays down guidelines for the Central Government, State Governments, the Board and other agencies while implementing the provisions of the said Act. In clause (xiv) of Section 3, it is clearly provided as follows:

"3. (xiv) Principle of fresh start: All past records of any child under the Juvenile Justice system should be erased except in special circumstances."

In the present case, it is an admitted fact that the respondent was a minor when the charges had been framed against him of offences under Sections 354, 447 and 509 of IPC. It is also not disputed that he was acquitted of the charges. However, even if he had been convicted, the same could not have been held against him for getting a job, as admittedly he was a minor when the alleged offences were committed and the charges had been framed against him."

25. Thus, even if a juvenile is convicted, same should be obliterated, so that there is no stigma with regard to any crime committed by such a person as a juvenile, as the object of Juvenile Justice Act is to reintegrate juvenile back in society as a normal person.

26. Learned Standing Counsel on the other hand submits that the petitioner at the time of submitting attestation form on 02.03.2020 had revealed the information that a criminal case was pending against him but the aforesaid facts who had been concealed by him at the time of submitting of declaration form during document verification at the office of Staff Selection Commission (SCC) on 17.09.2019. The declaration given by the petitioner is as follows:-

"I also declare that I do not stand debarred by SSC/UPSC as on date and never been convicted by any court of law, I also declare that no charge sheet is pending against me in any court of law. Further declare that I have never been dismissed or removed from Govt. Service or my service been terminated during probation."

27. He further submits that the conduct of the petitioner in suppressing the fact of his being embroiled in a criminal case, impinges on his integrity whereas in a sensitive department like the Canteen Stores Department, the respondents required a person of the highest integrity and, therefore, even applying law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Avtar Singh, the decision of the respondents taken on due application of mind cancelling the appointment of the petitioner on the ground of suppression does not want any interference at the hands of this Hon'ble Court, therefore, the petition is liable to be dismissed.

28. In the facts of the present case, it is admitted position that the petitioner was juvenile as declared by the Board at the time when the F.I.R. was lodged against him, therefore, his case was to be dealt, taking into consideration the provisions of Juvenile Justice (Care & Protection of Children) Act, 2000. Even if it is presume that the petitioner had not disclosed about the pendency of the criminal case, the requirement of disclosed details of criminal prosecution faced as a juvenile is violative of right to privacy and right to reputation of child, guaranteed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. It also denudes the child of protection sought by the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000, hence, it was not expected from the petitioner to disclose details of criminal prosecution faced as a juvenile.

29. Admittedly, the petitioner has been acquitted in the present case and the case so lodged against him was trivial in nature and should not be viewed as disqualification for entry in Government service.

30. In view of the above discussion, the impugned order is arbitrary, illegal and unsustainable in the eyes of law.

31. The writ petition stands allowed. The impugned order dated 24.11.2021 passed by respondent no.3 is set aside and the mandamus is issued to the respondents to issue appointment letter to the petitioner, in accordance with law as well as in the light of observations made hereinabove.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Attau Rahman Masoodi, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Rahul Shukla learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State.

2. The process of recruitment in a level playing field is bound to be tested on the touchstone of equality in every case. This is what Article 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India guarantee to every participating candidate in the selection process.

3. In the present case, the advertisement for filling up the posts of Constable(Female) in the police department U.P. were advertised by the Uttar Pradesh Police Recruitment and Promotion Board on 29.12.2015, pursuant to which, the petitioner applied and her application form having been found complete in all respects was scrutinized and included in the process of selection. The petitioner in the application form had identified her candidature as OBC category candidate on the basis of a validly issued certificate in her favour on 4.2.2016. There is specific mention of the category i.e. OBC relating to the petitioner in her application form. The petitioner was included in the selection process as OBC category candidate. The process of selection for the purposes of evaluation of merit comprised of assessment of marks based on her performance in the high school and intermediate besides in the physical efficiency test. 10. Shri Rahul Shukla, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State while explaining the document verification report has argued that category entry in the chart as 'General' is an implicit consequence of the failure on the part of the petitioner to produce her original category certificate dated 4.2.2016. The report would have treated the petitioner as "OBC' if the original certificate as mentioned in the application form submitted online was produced on the date fixed. The argument put-forth does have force particularly when the petitioner is a signatory to the above report but what is relevant to be noticed is the case pleaded by the petitioner, in response to which, the Court does not find a satisfactory or well supported reply emerging from the original record produced before the Court.

11. In paragraph 14 and 15 of the writ petition, it is a clear case of the petitioner that she had appeared before the committee for documents verification on 20.7.2017. It is also averred by her that the original certificate submitted along with the online application form was produced by her at the time of document verification. It is further submitted that the previous certificate of category issued to the petitioner was also available with her of which the copy on being demanded by the authorities was duly supplied. The original category certificate of the relevant date i.e. 4.2.2016 has been produced before this Court by the petitioner as well.

12. Paragraphs 14 and 15 of the writ petition being relevant are extracted hereunder :

"14. That on 20.07.2016 petitioner duly appeared in the documents verification and physical standard test at Police Lines, Sultanpur along with her original educational document, caste certificate dated 04.02.2016(Annexure No. 4) and Domicile certificate dated 04.02.2016(Annexure No. 5) and other relevant documents. At the time of document verification petitioner duly submitted photocopies of the same document before the authority concerned. Authority concerned duly verified the photocopies from the original document and accepted the same.

15. That it is also very relevant to mention here that at the time of document verification authority concerned required additional another certificate of category and domicile, which have also available with the petitioner, in bona-fide manner petitioner has also produced as additional documents as required by the authority concerned i.e. Category certificate no. 460631401937 dated 24.8.2014 issued by the competent authority. True copy of the additional Category certificate No. 460631401937 dated 24.8.2014 issued by the competent authority is being filed herewith and marked as annexure no. 7".

13. In paragraph 8 of the short counter affidavit, the following stand was adopted by the State in reply to the case set up by the petitioner :-

"8. That the scrutiny of documents and physical standard test of petitioner Shalu Verma was taken by a committee presided by the Sub-divisional Magistrate in Police Lince, District Sultanpur on 20.7.2016, in which petitioner had submitted OBC caste certificate no. 460631401937 dated 24.8.2014 which was different from that OBC caste certificate no. 466163000425 dated 04.02.2016 as applied in the online application. After submission of the OBC caste certificate of different dated from the originally applied in online application, which is issued before the fixed period(issued on or after 01.04.2015 but issued till the last date 24.02.2016 fixed for registration of this recruitment process), before the Examination Committee, the Examination Committee rejected the certificate and considered the petitioner as a General Category candidate. Members of the Committee as well as petitioner are also agreed and signed on the report of the Examination Committee which is annexed as Annexure No. 2. Petitioner has obtained total 417.9 marks (79.5+154.40+184=417.9) in accordance with Rules. Cut-off marks of last selected candidate of General category(Women) for the post of Police Constables is 418.77. Petitioner is not selected due to lower marks obtained by her in comparison with that of the last selected candidate of general category for the post of Police Constables".

14. On a close scrutiny of the stand spelt out in the short counter affidavit, it is evident that the reason of non-production of category certificate i.e. OBC dated 4.2.2016 does not find mention in the documents verification report reproduced herein-above meaning thereby that the version set out in paragraph 8 of the short counter affidavit has no documentary support from the original record. The entry of details in the DV report unless maintained by the competent committee for cross check cannot be assumed to be a gospel truth. No record to cross check the details in the DV report were maintained by the committee except the signature obtained on the report. Any reason spelt out in the counter affidavit must find support from the original record without which an improbable ground has no legs to stand in the eyes of law. The mere mention of the petitioner's category in the upper part of DV report as 'General' and 'No' in the last column does not reconcile with any reason spelt out by the committee. It is highly improbable that a selected candidate would make no effort to produce the relevant certificate or even if she fails to produce, why would she not seek time for production of an existing document.

15. The question as to whether the petitioner produced the original OBC certificate dated 4.2.2016 or not has to be tested from the original record. There are two aspects relevant for this purpose. Firstly, the authorities must show as to what number of documents were duly received for verification and which documents a candidate failed to produce. In the event of failure, whether a candidate demanded an opportunity or not.

16. This Court fails to understand as to why a candidate who has rightly mentioned the category certificate i.e. OBC of a particular date i.e. 4.2.2016 would firstly submit the irrelevant certificate and secondly may not produce the relevant certificate at the time of documents verification. The petitioner's height was also recorded less by one inch which was corrected on her protest and this fact is recorded in the physical standard test report placed before us. In absence of any plausible justification recorded in the documents verification report except the baseless consequence of failure, the very stand adopted in paragraph 8 of the short counter affidavit is wholly unfounded and unsupported on the basis of any tangible proof. Interestingly the DV report is in two parts. The second part on the top records "Qualified'. It is not spelt out in the first part as to what number of documents were checked and which of those were not produced. There is no clarity of the documents which were checked nor there is any such mention in the fist part of DV report as to what number of documents were verified and which of those were not produced. As to how the modified or verified category was mentioned as "General' instead of OBC, there is no supporting material or a reason available on record. The stand adopted in the short counter affidavit is afterthought, dubious and misleading.

17. This Court would caution the administrative authorities not to swear affidavits on oath adopting a stand untraceable to the original record. This is an unhealthy practice and amounts to an abuse of administrative power. Selection for appointment of a candidate is a valuable right. This right has to be honored without deviating from the principles of equality and equal treatment.

18. In the present case, it is clear that the cut-off marks of general category candidates are shown to be above 418.77 whereas the cut-off marks for OBC stood at 410.6. On the basis of marks obtained by the petitioner while belonging to the OBC category, she has clearly qualified the benchmark and she is thus entitled to be included amongst the selected candidates of OBC category. Once a candidate having 410.6 marks was appointed, as to why a candidate obtaining 417.9 marks may not have a preferential right remains inexplicable by the State. The individual right which had accrued to the petitioner was not open to be frustrated on the strength of any irrelevant document of which the production does not seem to be in the course of prudent behaviour particularly when there is no mention in the original record that the petitioner had failed to produce the original OBC category certificate dated 4.2.2016. The recording of consequence i.e. "General' unless backed by an authentic proof of failure to produce the category certificate, in my humble view, is an arbitrary act falling within the scope of judicial review and the Court would not shut the doors of justice in a case like the one at hand.

19. The record does not support the case of the State which was carefully examined. The Court has extracted the entire details of documents verification and physical standard test reports herein-above.

20. In the result, once the right of appointment having accrued to the petitioner on equal basis was acted upon in respect of the other OBC category selected candidates, there is no reason as to why the petitioner may not be extended the same benefit with the issuance of appointment in her favour.

21. This Court accordingly directs the competent authority to proceed with the benefit of selection including notional seniority as has accrued to the petitioner at par with the other selected candidates having equal merit or less.

22. This exercise shall be carried out not later than a period of six weeks from the date a certified copy of this order is served to the competent authority along with the representation.

23. The writ petition is allowed with no order as to cost.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Jaspreet Singh, J.)

1. In the instant petition, the dispute relates to Plot Nos. 1838/1, 1823/1, 1816, 1817, 1815, 1824/2 and 1828/1 of Gata No. 306 of Village Lokpur, Pargana, Barsona, Tehsil and District Sultanpur which was recorded in the name of the private respondent nos. 1, 2 and 3 in the basic year Khatauni.

2. The petitioner had filed his objections under Section 9-A (2) of the Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (hereinafter referred to as Act of 1953) staking claim over the disputed plots on the ground that the petitioner was in occupation of the disputed plots in question much prior to the abolition of Zamindari and thus had acquired sirdari rights in the land in dispute after the abolition of Zamindari. An alternate plea was also raised that since the petitioner was recorded as an occupant in 1359 Fasli and was in cultivatory possession. three years prior to the abolition of Zamindari, hence, he acquired adhivasi rights which later matured into sirdari in 1362 Fasli and continued to be in possession.

3. It was also stated that the private respondents were influential persons who by using their influence got the name of the petitioner expunged and replaced by their own names. On becoming aware of the aforesaid, the petitioner had instituted a suit under Section 229-B of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, (hereinafter referred to as U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act) for declaration of his rights before the Competent Court, however, with the commencement of Consolidation Operations, the suit of the petitioner abated in light of the order dated 19.07.1975.

4. It was also stated that the petitioner had been conferred with sirdari rights in terms of Section 240 (J) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act and the private respondents had received compensation in respect of the land, accordingly, all rights of the private respondents got extinguished and they could not claim any right in the disputed plots nor re-agitate the claims.

5. The private respondents contested the objections filed by the petitioner before the Consolidation Officer on the ground that the private respondents were recorded as cultivatory tenants having hereditary rights. They had acquired sirdari rights and continued to be in possession, prior to the abolition of Zamindari and even thereafter. Even during the first consolidation, there was some dispute regarding the rights of the private respondents which was duly adjudicated and the records were corrected and the names of the private respondents continued. It was also stated that the alleged entry in favour of the petitioner was false and fictitious and no benefit of the same could be claimed by the petitioner.

6. It was also stated that the private respondents had not received any compensation and proceedings under Section 240 (J) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, if any, were not in accordance with law nor the same had any effect on the rights of the private respondents.

7. The Consolidation Officer, (Area No. 4, Musafikhana), Sultanpur by means of his order dated 07.10.1980 accepted the contentions of the petitioner and after deleting the name of the private respondents incorporated the name of the petitioner in respect of the disputed plots. The private respondents being aggrieved against the order of the Consolidation Officer dated 07.10.1980 preferred an appeal under Section 11 (1) of the U.P.C.H. Act which came to be allowed by the SOC, Sultanpur by means of order dated 30.11.1981.

8. The petitioner being aggrieved against the aforesaid order dated 30.11.1981 passed by the SOC, Sultanpur in appeal preferred a revision under Section 48 of the U.P.C.H. Act, 1953 before the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Sultanpur which was dismissed by means of order dated 30.11.1981 affirming the order passed by the SOC.

9. Being aggrieved against the aforesaid two orders, the petitioner instituted the instant petition wherein this Court by means of order dated 17.03.1983 admitted the petition. During the pendency of the petition, the original petitioner Bhagwan Deen expired and was substituted by his son whereas the private respondent nos. 1, 2 and 3 also expired and are represented by their legal heirs. However, for the sake of convenience, this Court shall be referring to the parties as originally impleaded at the time of institution of this petition. The parties have exchanged their counter and rejoinder affidavits including the supplementary affidavit which is on record.

10. Sri Vijay Bahadur Verma and Sri R.D. Shahi, learned counsel for the petitioner have attacked the order passed by the SOC, Sultanpur and the DDC, Sultanpur primarily on three grounds:-

(i) It is urged that the two courts have erred in misconstruing the provision of Section 20 and Section 240 (J) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. It has been submitted that ample evidence was brought on record to establish that the petitioner was recorded in 1359 Fasli as well as 1362 Fasli. In terms of Section 20 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, any person in occupation and cultivatory possession acquired adhivasi rights which later in terms of Section 240 (A) to 240 (M) which was introduced by the U.P. Act No. 20 of 1954 by inserting Chapter IX-A in the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act conferred sirdari rights. It is also submitted that provisions have been misconstrued, inasmuch as, the petitioner was in possession even prior to the abolition of zamindari and in the document which was brought on record Muddatkasht was shown as two years which would indicate that the possession of the petitioner was even prior to the abolition of Zamindar and in any case his name was recorded in 1359 Fasli and thus there was no legal impediment in the conferment of the sirdari rights which had matured by operation of law, accordingly, this aspect of the matter has been completely misconstrued resulting in sheer miscarriage of justice.

(ii) It is also urged that even otherwise in alternate the petitioner had perfected his rights by adverse possession, inasmuch as, he was recorded in 1359 Fasli and Muddatkasht as indicated above was shown to be two years, thus, at the relevant time for perfecting the rights of adverse possession, three years period was provided which was completed successfully by the petitioner and even on this count he had matured his rights by adverse possession and got adhivasi rights which later matured into Sirdari rights and this aspect of the matter has also been misconstrued by both the SOC, Sultanpur as well as the DDC, Sultanpur.

(iii) The third limb of the arguments of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that with the introduction of Chapter IX-A in the year 1954 in the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, once the petitioner was conferred with the sirdari rights and a scheme was prepared whereunder the private respondents received compensation and a final statement was published in terms of Section 240 (J) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, thus, in so far as the private respondents are concerned, all their rights extinguished and after having received the compensation, it is not open for the private respondents to claim the land nor stake any right and this aspect has also not been appropriately appreciated by the two Consolidation Authorities.

11. That the learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon a Special Bench decision of this Court in the case of Avdhesh Singh and Another Vs. Bikarama Ahir and others reported in 1975 RD 132 (Special Bench) as well as on Tauley and others Vs. DDC and others reported in 1982 RD 327.

12. Per contra, Sri S.P. Tiwari, learned counsel for the private respondents urged that:

(i) in order to claim sirdari rights in terms of Section 20 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, it was necessary for the petitioner to establish that he was an occupant in 1356 Fasli as well as 1359 Fasli. The petitioner was never recorded in 1356 Fasli and a mere entry which was fraudulent relating to 1359 Fasli, without any basis or backing of an order or not made in accordance with the provisions of the Land Revenue Act cannot confer any benefit on the petitioner. It is also urged that apart from 1359 and 1362 Fasli there is no other document which relates to the entry of the name of the petitioner.

(ii) The contention as raised by the petitioner that he was in possession much prior to the abolition of zamindari is also not substantiated by any material on record. Rather, the name of the answering respondent have throughout being recorded in 1356, 1359, 1362 Fasli. The answering respondent had also filed a Khasra (for 12 years 1366 to 1377 fasli). Even in the first round of consolidation, there was some dispute which was also contested by the answering respondents and the records were corrected incorporating the name of the private respondents. Even at that time the petitioner had raised no objection and this would establish that the answering respondents have been in possession throughout and they had matured their rights of sirdari and consequently they have also been granted bhumidhari rights.

(iii) It is submitted that initially there was an interim order in the instant petition but the petition came to be dismissed for want of prosecution twice and the interim order stood vacated which was never restored and thereafter the answering respondent had made an application under Rule 109-A for implementation of the order passed by the SOC and the DDC which came to be allowed and the names of the answering respondents have been recorded as bhumidhar with transferrable rights in the Khatauni. It has also been pointed out that during the pendency of the petition sometime in the year 2016, the land in question was acquired by the State Government for its Scheme of 6 Lane Purvanchal Expressway. Thus, it is urged that the findings recorded by both the SOC as well as the DDC is based on proper appreciation of the material available on record as well as the law, consequently, the writ petition deserves to be dismissed.

13. The learned counsel for the respondents has relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in the case of Smt. Sonawati and others Vs. Sri Ram and others 1968 RD 151; Bachan and Another Vs. Kankar and others 1972 RD 219; Jagdamba Prasad Vs. Rafiuddin and others 1967 RD 173 (DB).

14. The Court has heard the learned counsel for the parties at length and also carefully perused the material available on record.

15. In order to appreciate the respective contentions, it would be relevant to notice that the claim of the petitioner is primarily based on his possession and as per the petitioner, he was in possession as an occupant prior to the abolition of zamindari and his name is also recorded as evident from the Khatauni of 1359 fasli. Reliance has also been placed upon the Khatauni of Village Lokpur, Pargana, Barsona, Tehsil and District Sultanpur, Khata 1/37 wherein the name of Bhagwati Deen, the petitioner has been shown with muddat kasht two years in Part-II as shikmi. Even in Khatauni Part-II of 1362 Fasli Khata No. 149, name of Bhagwati Deen has been shown as Shikmi and reliance has also been placed on Form 101-ZA to buttress the submissions that the adhivasi rights of the petitioner matured into sirdari. Irrigation receipts had also been filed by the petitioner and his son Dharmraj also examined himself before the Consolidation Officer reiterating his stand and stated by him that since his father Bhagwan Deen, the petitioner had become old and was not able to see or walk properly, accordingly, in his place Dharmraj led the evidence.

16. On the other hand, the private respondents had filed the Khatauni of 1356 fasli and 1364 to 1369 fasli, Khasra for 12 years, 1366 to 1377 fasli, CH Form-6 and led his evidence before the Consolidation Officer.

17. It is on the basis of the aforesaid documentary and oral evidence led by the parties that the Consolidation Officer found that since the name of the petitioner was recorded in 1359 fasli and with the advent of Section 240 incorporated in Chapter IX of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, the adhivasi rights matured into sirdari rights and also the evidence relating to possession, especially the irrigation receipts filed by the petitioner were taken to be the basis to record that the petitioner was in possession and had been conferred with the sirdari rights and that the name of the petitioner had been incorrectly deleted and that the petitioner had been conferred with sirdari rights, consequently, the name of the respondents was expunged. These findings were upset by the SOC which had been confirmed by the DDC.

18. Before proceeding any further, it will be relevant to notice certain provisions which have been relied upon by the parties to buttress their respective submissions and at the outset, it will be necessary to first ascertain whether any adhivasi rights have been conferred upon the petitioner. It is only if the adhivasi rights were conferred, then only in terms of Chapter IX-A of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act can the sirdari rights be conferred upon such adhivasis.

19. The submission of learned counsel for the petitioner which commences with the plea of having adhivasi rights and having been conferred with sirdari rights and the alternate plea of adverse possession shall be tested in light of the legal provisions and the decision on the aforesaid point rendered by this Court as well as the Apex Court. Section 20 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act reads as under:-

"20. A tenant of Sir, sub-tenant or an occupant to be an adhivasi.-[Every person who-(a) on the date immediately preceding the date of vesting was or has been deemed to be in accordance with the provisions of this Act]-

(i) except as provided in [sub-clause (i) of Clause (b)], a tenant of sir other than a tenant referred to in Clause (ix) of Section 19 or in whose favour hereditary rights accrue in accordance with the provisions of Section 10; or

(ii) except as provided in [sub-clause (i) of Clause (b)], a sub-tenant other than a sub-tenant referred to in proviso to sub-section (3) of Section 27 of the United Provinces Tenancy (Amendment) Act, 1947 (U.P. Act X of 1947), or in sub-section (4) of Section 47 of the United Provinces Tenancy Act, 1939 (U.P. Act XVII of 1939) of any land other than grove land,

(b) was recorded as occupant,-

(i) of any land [other than grove land or land to which Section 16 applies or land referred to in the proviso to sub-section (3) of Section 27 of the U.P. Tenancy (Amendment) Act, 1947] in the khasra or khatauni of 1356-F prepared under Section 28 [33] respectively of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 (U.P. Act III of 1901), or who was on the date immediately preceding the date of vesting entitled to regain possession thereof under Clause (c) of sub-section (1) of Section 27 of the United Provinces Tenancy (Amendment) Act, 1947 (U.P. Act X of 1947); or shall, unless he has become a bhumidhar of the land under sub-section (2) of Section 18 or an asami under Clause (h) of Section 21, be called adhivasi of the land and shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, be entitled to take or retain possession thereof."

(ii) of any land to which Section 16 applies, in the [khasra or khatauni of 1356 fasli prepared under Sections 28 and 33 respectively of] the United Provinces Land Revenue Act, 1901 (U.P. Act III of 1901), but who was not in possession in the year 1356-F;

20. From the perusal of the aforesaid provisions, the part relevant for the instant controversy is Section 20 (b) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. The aforesaid provision clearly provides that any person who was recorded as an occupant of any land in the Khasra or Khatauni of 1356 fasli which is prepared under Section 28 and 33 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 or who was on the date immediately preceding the date of vesting entitled to regain possession thereof.

21. It is in this light, if the documents filed by the respective parties are seen, it would indicate that the petitioner had filed the Khatauni of 1359 fasli and 1362 fasli. It is not disputed that the petitioner has not filed the Khasra. His case is only on the basis of Khatauni of 1359 and 1362 fasli, thus, in terms of Sub Clause (b) of Section 20, the Khasra and Khatauni of 1356 fasli has not been filed nor is it the basis of the claim of the petitioner. Rather, he has developed his case by summiting that in the Khatauni of 1359 fasli, muddat kasht of 2 years has been shown which necessarily will relate back to 1356 fasli, consequently, he submits that he gets the right of adhivasi in terms of the aforesaid provision.

22. In the said breath, he further urges that since he has been in possession for three years, accordingly, he had even perfected his rights by adverse possession and thus Section 20 (b) which refers to the word "any person in occupation would also include a person who has perfected his rights by adverse possession" hence rights of adhivasi came to be bestowed in terms of the Act and with the advent of Chapter IX-A by operation of law, his rights of adhivasi matured in sirdari rights.

23. At this stage, it will be relevant to notice that in so far as the law of adverse possession in respect of revenue land is concerned it is a little different from the law of adverse possession relating to the buildings and urban properties. In so far as the limitation for perfecting rights by adverse possession as applicable to revenue lands is concerned it was initially a period of continuous possession for two years but later w.e.f. 09.04.1955, the same came to be extended to three years. Later, in the year 1957, this was enhanced to 6 years and in respect of the land belonging to Gram Sabha, it was 12 years. Subsequently, in the year 1971, a further amendment was introduced which enhanced the limit and the period for claiming adverse possession became 12 years and in respect of land belonging to Gram Sabha it was 30 years.

24. In the aforesaid backdrop and the limitation which has been enhanced progressively in terms of Section 209 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act which relates to eviction of a person in un-authorized occupation. However, at the relevant time in 1955, it was 3 years which is to be seen for the purposes of the instant case.

25. It is also to be noticed that any person who claims the right of adverse possession must show that he has been in continuous possession over the land in question. His name has been duly incorporated in terms of the record prepared under the Land Record Manual. The Khatauni which is prepared should be in accordance with the provisions of the Land Record Manual and thus the person pleading adverse possession must show not only his possession but the entries have been prepared in accordance with the provisions of the Land Record Manual and the same was also in the knowledge of the true owner who has been served with Form PA-10 and despite the same he did not take any action to seek the eviction of such person in terms of the limitation provided only then the right can be claimed.

26. It is also to be remembered that since the person pleading adverse possession does not have any special equities in his favour, consequently, it is his burden to discharge and show that the entries were prepared in accordance with law and in case if the entries have not been prepared in accordance with the provisions contained in the Land Record Manual then the plea cannot be successfully allowed.

27. In this regard, it will be relevant to notice the decision of this Court in the case of Putti and others Vs. Assistant Director of Consolidation, Bahraich and others reported in 2006 SCC Online (Alld) 1286 which has been considered in a subsequent decision dealing with the law regarding adverse possession in detail in Babu Ali Vs. DDC and Others reported in 2021 (8) ADJ 579.

28. Lately, this Court also had the occasion to consider the aforesaid issue of adverse possession in the case of Chit Bahal Singh and others v. Joint Director of Consolidation and others, decided on 29.04.2022 and by relying upon the decision of Babu Ali and another v. D.D.C. and others (Supra) the plea of adverse possession was rejected. The relevant paras explaining the law and the preparation of entries and what ingredients have to be met are being extracted hereinafter:-

"11.The para-89-A, 89-B and 102-B of the Land Records Manual (here-in-after referred as "the manual'), relevant for the purpose, are extracted below:--

"89-A. List of changes.-After each Kharif and rabi portal of a village the Lekhpal shall prepare in triplicate a consolidated list of new and modified entries in the Khasra in the following form:

Form No.P-10

Khasra No. of Plot	Area	Details of entry in the last year	Details of entry made in the current year	Verification report by the Revenue Inspector	Remarks
1	2	3	4	5	6

(ii) The Lekhpal shall fill in the first four Columns and hand over a copy of the list to the Chairman of the Land Management Committee. He shall also prepare extract from the list and issue to the person or persons concerned recorded in Columns 3 and 4 to their heirs, if the person or persons concerned have died, obtaining their signature in the copy of the list retained by him. Another copy shall be sent to the Revenue Inspector.

(iii) The Revenue Inspector shall ensure at the time of his partial of the village the extract have been issued in all the cases and signatures obtained of the recipients.

89-B. Report of changes.- The copy of the list with the Lekhpal containing the signatures of the recipients of the extracts shall be attached to the Khasra concerned and filed with the Registrar (Revenue Inspector) alongwith it on or before 31st July, of the following year (sub-paragraph (iv) of the paragraph 60).

102-B. Entry of possession (Column 22) (Remarks column).- (1) The Lekhpal shall while recording the fact of possession in the remarks Column of the Khasra, write on the same day the fact of possession with the name of the person in possession in his diary also, and the date and the serial number of the dairy in the remarks Column of the Khasra against the entry concerned.

(2) As the list of changes in Form p-10 is prepared after the completion of the patal of village, the serial number of the list of changes shall be noted in red ink below the entry concerned in the remarks column of the Khasra in order to ensure that all such entries have been brought on the list.

(3) If the Lekhpal fails to comply with any of the provisions contained in paragraph 89-A, the entry in the remarks Column of the Khasra will not be deemed to have been made in the discharge of his official duty."

12. Reading of the aforesaid provisions makes it clear that if any entry is made in PA-10, the same shall be communicated to the person or persons concerned recorded in columns 3 and 4 or their heirs and obtain their signatures. Records on being submitted to the Revenue Inspector, he shall ensure at the time of Padtal i.e. verification of the village that it has been issued in all the cases and the signatures obtained by the recipients. Therefore, in case, any entry made on the basis of adverse possession the same was to be communicated to the person concerned and the person claiming is required to prove that it was in accordance with the manual and as to what was nature of possession and when it started in the knowledge of the tenant and the possession was continuous and how long it continued.

13. This Court considered this issue in the case of Mohd. Raza v. Deputy Director of Consolidation, 1997 RD 276 and held that the entries in the revenue papers not prepared by following the procedure prescribed under the Uttar Pradesh Land Records Manual and PA-10 notice was not served on the main tenant, such entries are of no evidentiary value and would not confer any right.

14. This court, in the case of Gurumukh Singh v. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Nainital, (1997) 80 RD 276, has also held that the entries will have no evidentiary value if they are not in accordance with the provisions of Land Records Manual and the burden to prove is on the person who is asserting the possession on the basis of adverse possession. Relevant paragraphs 6 and 7 are extracted below:--

"6. It is clear from Para A-102C of the Land Records Manual that the entries will have no evidentiary value if they are not made in accordance with the provisions of Land Records Manual. There is presumption of correctness of the entries provided it is made in accordance with the relevant provision of Land Records Manual and secondly, in case where a person is claiming adverse possession against the recorded tenure-holder and he denies that he had not received any P.A. 10 or he had no knowledge of the entries made in the revenue records, the burden of proof is further upon the person claiming adverse possession to prove that the tenure-holder was duly given notice in prescribed Form P.A. 10. Para A-81 itself provides that the notice will be given by the Lekhpal and he will obtain the signature of the Chairman, Land Management Committee as well as from the recorded tenure-holder. It is also otherwise necessary to be provided by the person claiming adverse possession. The law of adverse possession contemplates that there is not only continuity of possession as against the true owner but also that such person had full knowledge that the person in possession was claiming a title and possession hostile to the true owner. If a person comes in possession of the land of another person, he cannot establish his title by adverse possession unless it is further proved by him that the tenure-holder had knowledge of such adverse possession.

7. In Jamuna Prasad v. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Agra, this Court repelled the contention that the burden of proof was upon the person who challenges the correctness of the entries. It was observed:

"Learned counsel for the Petitioner argued that there was a presumption of correctness about the entries in the revenue records and the onus lay upon the Respondent to prove that the entries showing the Petitioner's possession had not been in accordance with law. This contention is untenable Firstly, it is not possible for a party to prove a negative fact. Secondly, the question as to whether the notice in Form P.A. 10 was issued and served upon the Petitioner also is a fact which was within his exclusive knowledge."

"Petitioner's contention that the burden lay on the Respondents to disprove the authenticity and destroy the probative value of the entry of possession cannot be accepted. In my opinion, where possession is asserted by a party who relies mainly on the entry of adverse possession in his favour and such possession is denied by the recorded tenure-holder, the burden is on the former to establish that the entries in regard to his possession was made in accordance with law."

15. This Court, in the case of Sadhu Saran v. Assistant Director of Consolidation, Gorakhpur, (2003) 94 RD 535, has held that it is well settled in law that the illegal entry does not confer title. Therefore even if the entry has been made, it does not confer right title or interest if it is not in accordance with law and the prescribed procedure. This Court and the counsel for the parties also could not get the same in the Lekhpal diary. The provision of PA-24 has come vide notification dated 03.07.1965, therefore it is also of no assistance because entry could not have been made on the basis of PA-24 in Khatauni of 1373 fasli and it is also without number and year.

16. This Court, in the case of Putti v. Assistant Director of Consolidation, Bahraich, (2007) 2 All LJ 43, has held that the court should be slow to declare the right on the basis adverse possession otherwise it may become a weapon in the hands of mighty persons to acquire the property of the weaker sections of society. It has further held that there shall not be presumption of continuous possession to declare right and title on the basis of adverse possession unless year to year entries made in accordance with law in the Khasra or Khatauni and proved by cogent and trustworthy evidence, the burden to prove which is on the person who claims Sirdari or Bhumidhari rights on the basis of adverse possession. Relevant paragraph-41 is extracted below:--

"41. Right to claim title on the basis of adverse possession is a legacy of British law. Courts should be slow to declare right on the basis of adverse possession. In case liberal approach is adopted to extend right and title on the basis of adverse possession then it may become a weapon in the hands of mighty persons to acquire the property of the weaker sections of the society. Accordingly, it shall always be incumbent upon the Courts to do close scrutiny of the evidence and material on record within the four corners of law as settled by Apex Court, discussed herein above. Even little reasonable doubt on the evidence relied upon by a party to claim right and title on the basis of adverse possession may be sufficient to reject such claim under a particular fact and circumstance. There shall not be presumption on continuous possession to declare right and title on the basis of adverse possession unless year to year entries made in accordance to law in the Khasra or Khatauni are proved by cogent and trust worthy evidence. burden of proof of such entries shall lie, as discussed herein above, on the person who claims Sirdari or bhumidhari right on the basis of adverse possession. In the absence of any such proof, presumption shall be in favour of recorded tenure-holder whose name has been recorded in column-1 of the Khatauni."

17. The Hon'ble Apex Court, in the case of P.T. Munichikkanna Reddy v.Revamma, 2008 (26) LCD 15, has held that in case of adverse possession, communication to the owner and his hostility towards the possession is must. The relevant paragraphs 19 to 23 are extracted below:--

"19. Thus, there must be intention to dispossess. And it needs to be open and hostile enough to bring the same to the knowledge and plaintiff has an opportunity to object. After all adverse possession right is not a substantive right but a result of the waiving (willful) or omission (negligent or otherwise) of right to defend or care for the integrity of property on the part of the paper owner of the land. Adverse possession statutes, like other statutes of limitation, rest on a public policy that do not promote litigation and aims at the repose of conditions that the parties have suffered to remain unquestioned long enough to indicate their acquiescence.

20. While dealing with the aspect of intention in the Adverse possession law, it is important to understand its nuances from varied angles.

21. Intention implies knowledge on the part of adverse possessor. The case of Saroop Singh v. Banto, (2005) 8 SCC 330 in that context held:

"29. In terms of Article 65 the starting point of limitation does not commence from the date when the right of ownership arises to the plaintiff but commences from the date the defendants possession becomes adverse. (See Vasantiben Prahladji Nayak v. Somnath Muljibhai Nayak, (2004) 3 SCC 376).

30. Animus possidendi is one of the ingredients of adverse possession. Unless the person possessing the land has a requisite animus the period for prescription does not commence. As in the instant case, the appellant categorically states that his possession is not adverse as that of true owner, the logical corollary is that he did not have the requisite animus. (See Mohd Mohd. Ali v. Jagadish Kalita, SCC para 21)"

22. A peaceful, open and continuous possession as engraved in the maxim nec vi, nec clam, nec precario has been noticed by this Court in Karnataka Board of Wakf v. Government of India, (2004) 10 SCC 779 in the following terms:

"Physical fact of exclusive possession and the animus possidendi to hold as owner in exclusion to the actual owner are the most important factors that are to be accounted in cases of this nature. Plea of adverse possession is not a pure question of law but a blended one of fact and law. Therefore, a person who claims adverse possession should show : (a) on what date he came into possession, (b) what was the nature of his possession, (c) whether the factum of possession was known to the other party, (d) how long his possession has continued, and (e) his possession was open and undisturbed. A person pleading adverse possession has no equities in his favour. Since he is trying to defeat the rights of the true owner, it is for him to clearly plead and establish all facts necessary to establish his adverse possession"

It is important to appreciate the question of intention as it would have appeared to the paper-owner. The issue is that intention of the adverse user gets communicated to the paper owner of the property. This is where the law gives importance to hostility and openness as pertinent qualities of manner of possession. It follows that the possession of the adverse possessor must be hostile enough to give rise to a reasonable notice and opportunity to the paper owner."

29. If the plea of adverse possession of the petitioner is tested in the light of the law as noticed hereinabove, this Court has no hesitation to hold that the plea has not been substantially either pleaded with necessary particulars nor it has been proved as required in law. Needless to state that in order to successfully urge the plea of adverse possession, it has to be specifically pleaded and proved with cogent evidence. The point of time, when the possession begins and when it notably becomes adverse. The entry in the change of possession must be indicated in red ink. Merely an entry of possession is not always adverse to the knowedge of the recorded tenant. Adverse possession is proved not by the period of tenure nor can there be presumption that the adverse possession continues. The limitation is to be counted from the First of July, following the time of un-authorized occupation and the time of possession year to year. Neither there is any material on record to indicate that the petitioner had indicated that the entries recorded in 1359 Fasli were in accordance with law and that Form PA-10 was duly served on the private respondents and despite their knowledge, they failed to take any action seeking eviction apart from the fact that the petitioner has also not been able to establish that his name finds recorded in the Khatauni in Part-II in red ink. Hence, in absence of the essential ingredients of adverse possession not being met, the aforesaid plea fails.

30. Now, in order to test the plea regarding the petitioner having adhivasi rights, the bare Section 20 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act has already been noticed hereinabove. Now, it will also be apposite to consider certain relevant decisions regarding conferment of adhivasi rights and in this regard the decision of the Apex Court in the case of Smt. Sonawati (supra) is relevant and the relevant paragraphs of the said decision read as under:-

"4. In order that a person may be regarded as an adhivasi of a piece of land, Section 20(b) of Act 1 of 1951 requires that his name must be recorded in the khasra or khatauni for 1356 Fasli as an occupant. The Assistant Collector has pointed out that according to para 87 of the Land Records Manual it is necessary for a Patwari to make an enquiry about the status of the occupant, and if he thinks that a claimant is an occupant, he should enter the name in red ink in khsra as -- "Kabiz, sajhi etc." Admittedly Pritam Singh was not shown as kabiz or sajhi nor was the entry posted in red ink.

6. It must therefore be held that relying upon the entry of his name in the "remarks" column in the khasra for 1356 Fasli Pritam Singh could not claim that he had established his rights as an adhivasi of the land under Section 20(b) of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act 1 of 1951.

7. The alternative case under Section 3 of the U.P. Land Reforms (Supplementary) Act 31 of 1952 may now be considered. Section 3 of Act 31 of 1952 provides, insofar as it is material:

"(1) Every person who was in cultivatory possession of any land during the year 1359 Fasli but is not a person who as a consequence of vesting under Section 4 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (U.P. Act 1 of 1951) (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), has become a bhumidar, sirdar, adhivasi or asami under Sections 18 to 21 of the said Act shall be and is hereby declared to be, with effect from the appointed date--

(a) if the bhumidhar or sirdar of the land was, or where the land belongs jointly to two or more bhumidars or sirdars, all of them were, on the appointed date person or persons referred to in item (i) to (vi) of sub-section (2) of Section 10 of the said Act, an asami from year to year, or

(b) if the bhumidhar or sirdar was not such a person, an adhivasi, and shall be entitled to all the rights and be subject to all the liabilities conferred or imposed upon an asami or an adhivasi, as the case may be, by or under the said Act.

Explanation.--A person shall not be deemed to be in cultivatory possession of the land, if he was cultivating it as a mortgagee with possession or a thekedar, or he was merely assisting or participating with a bhumidhar sirdar, adhivasi or asami concerned in the actual performance of agricultural operations."

The section appears to be somewhat involved in its phraseology. But its purport is fairly clear. A person who is not in consequence of the provisions of Sections 18 to 21 of the U.P. Act 1 of 1951 a bhumidhar, sirdar, adhivasi or asami but who is in "cultivatory possession" of land during 1359 Fasli shall be entitled to the rights in respect of that land of an asami from year to year if the bhumidhar or sirdar of the land was on the appointed date a person who is referred to in Items (i) to (vi) of Section 10(2) of the U.P. Act 1 of 1951, and he shall be entitled to the rights of an adhivasi if the bhumidhar or sirdar of the land was not a person referred to in Items (i) to (vi) of Section 10(2). The U.P. Act 31 of 1952 was enacted to grant protection to certain persons who had been in "cultivatory possession" of land in the holdings of bhumidhars or sirdars, and had been or were being forcibly evicted from the land by the tenure holders. The language of the section clearly shows that it was intended to grant the rights of an asami or adhivasi according as the case fell within clause (a) or clause (b) to a person who had been admitted to cultivatory possession and who was in such possession in 1359 Fasli.

9. The scheme of Section 3 of the U.P. Land Reforms (Supplementary) Act, 1952 is different from the scheme of Section 20(b) of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act 1 of 1951. Whereas under Act 1 of 1951 the entry is made evidence without further enquiry as to his right of the status of the person who is recorded as an occupant, under Section 3 of the U.P. Land Reforms (Supplementary) Act, 1952, a person who claims the status of an asami or an adhivasi must establish that he was in "cultivatory possession" of the land during the year 1359 Fasli. The expression cultivatory possession" is not defined in the Act, but the Explanation clearly implies that the claimant must have a lawful right to be in possession of the land, and must not belong to the classes specified in the Explanation. "Cultivatory possession" to be recognized for the purpose of the Act must be lawful, and for the whole year 1359 Fasli. A trespasser who has no right to be in possession by merely entering upon the land forcibly or surreptitiously cannot be said to be a person in "cultivatory possession" within the meaning of Section 3 of U.P. Act 31 of 1952. We are of the view that the Allahabad High Court was right in holding in Ram Krishna v. Bhagwan Baksh Singh that a person who through force inducts himself over and into some land and succeeds in continuing his occupation over it cannot be said to be in cultivatory possession of that land so as to invest him with the rights of an asami or an adhivasi, and we are unable to agree with the subsequent judgment of a Full Bench of the Allahabad High Court in Nanhoo Mal v. Muloo that occupation by a wrongdoer without any right to the land is "cultivatory possession" within the meaning of Section 3 of the U.P. Act 31 of 1952.

10. A person who has no right to occupy land may rely upon his occupation against a third person who has no better title, but he cannot set up that right against the owner of the land. It must be remembered that by Section 3 of U.P. Act 31 of 1952 the legislature conferred rights upon persons in possession of land against the tenure holders, and in the absence of any express provision, we are unable to hold that it was intended by the Act to put a premium upon forcible occupation of land by lawless citizens."

31. In Bacchan (Supra) it has been held that if the entries are not genuine, it cannot confer any adhivasi rights and the relevant portion of the said decision reads as under:-

"17.. Section 20 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 speaks of a person recorded as occupant to become adhivasi of the land and will be entitled to take or retain possession as mentioned in the section. One of the principal matters mentioned in the section is that the Khasra or Khatauni of 1356 Fasli is to be prepared under Sections 28 and 33 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901. The U.P. Land Records Manual in Chapter A-V in para A-55 to A-67 lays down the manner in which the Khasra or the field book showing possession is to be prepared by the Patwari in the areas to which Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 applies. There are detailed instructions about the manner in which the enquiry should be carried out about actual possession and change in possession and corrections in the map and field book, the form in which the khasra is to be prepared. The form of khasra is given in para A-80. The form shows that the Lekhpal has to prepare a consolidated list of entries after partial or proper investigation. Again, para A-70 to A-73 to the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act show how entries have to be made in khataunis every year showing the nature of tenure of each holder. The khatauni is meant to be a record of tenure-holders. The manner of changes to be made there is laid down in para A-82 to A-83. Entries are to be checked. Extract has to be sent to the Chairman, Land Management Committee as contemplated in paragraph A-82 (iii). In this context Section 20(b)(i) of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act which speaks of the record "as occupant" in the khasra or khatauni of 1355 Fasli refers to the khasra or khatauni being prepared in accordance with the provisions of the Land Revenue Act, 1961. Khasra is the field book provided for by Section 28 of the Land Revenue Act. Khatauni is an annual register prepared under Section 32 of the Land Revenue Act 1951. It has to be emphasised that the entry under Section 20 (b)(i) of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 in order to enable a person to obtain adhivasi rights must be an entry under the provisions of law."

32. Another decision of the Apex Court in Wali Mohd. Vs. Ram Surat and Others, 1991 (9) LCD 79 is also relevant and in paragraphs 4 and 5, it has been held as under:-

"4. The said section deals with the question as to who is entitled to take or retain possession of the land in question. The plain language of the aforesaid clause (i) of sub-section (b) of section 20 of the said Act suggests that this question has to be determined on the basis of the entry in the Khasra or Khatauni of 1356 Fasli Year prepared under sections 28 and 33 respectively of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901. An analysis of the said section shows that under sub-section (b) of section 20 the entry in the Khasra or Khatauni of the Fasli Year 1356 shall determine the question as to the person who is entitled to take or retain possession of the land. It is, of course, true that if the entry is fictitious or is found to have been made surreptitiously then it can have no legal effect as it can be regarded as no entry in law but merely because an entry is made incorrectly that would not lead to the conclusion that it ceases to be an entry. It is possible that the said entry may be set aside in appropriate proceedings but once the entry is in existence in the Khasra or Khatauni of Fasli Year 1356, that would govern the question as to who is entitled to take or retain possession of the land to which the entry relates.

5. It was submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that if the entry was not correct, it could not be regarded as an entry made according to law at all and the right to take or retain possession of the land could not be determined on the basis of an incorrect entry. He placed reliance on the decision of this Court in Bachan and another v. Kankar and others, [1973] 1 SCR 727. In that judgment the nature of the entries in Khasra or Khatauni is discussed and it is also discussed as to how this entry should be made. This Court held that entries which are not genuine cannot confer Adhivasi rights. It has been observed that an entry under section 20(b) of the said Act, in order to enable a person to obtain Adhivasi rights, must be an entry under the provisions of law and entries which are not genuine cannot confer Adhivasi rights. In that judgment it has been stated that the High Court was wrong when it held that though the entry was incorrect, it could not be said to be fictitious. That observation, however, has to be understood in the context of what follows, namely, that an entry which is incorrectly introduced into the records by reason of iII- will or hostility is not only shorn of authenticity but also becomes utterly useless without any lawful basis. This judgment, in our view, does not lay down that all incorrect entries are fictitious but only lays down that a wrong entry or incorrect entry which has been made by reason of iII-will or hostility cannot confer any right under section 20(b) of the said Act. This decision is clarified by a subsequent judgment of this Court in Vishwa Vijai Bharti v. Fakhrul Hasan and others, [1976] Suppl. SCR 519, where it has been held as follows:

"It is true that the entries in the revenue record ought, generally, to be accepted at their face value and courts should not embark upon an appellate inquiry into their correct- ness. But the presumption of correctness can apply only to genuine, not forged or fraudu- lent, entries. The distinction may be fine but it is real. The distinction is that one cannot challenge the correctness of what the entry in the revenue record states but the entry is open to the attack that it was made fradulently or surreptitiously. Fraud and forgery rob a document of all its legal effect and cannot found a claim to possessory title."

33. Similarly, the decision of the Apex Court in the case of Udai (Dead), Ram Lakhan (Dead), Karedin and Others Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Varanasi and Others reported in 1990 (8) LCD 266 is also relevant and in paragraphs 9, it has been held as under:-

"9.The facts in Amba Prasad v. Abdul Noor Khan [AIR 1965 SC 54 : (1964) 7 SCR 800] were more complicated. But, for our present purposes, it is sufficient to extract the facts as set out in the headnote. Before the coming into operation of the Act, Amba Prasad was the zamindar of the disputed land. The names of the respondents had been recorded in the khasra for 1356 Fasli as persons in possession of the disputed land but they had been dispossessed after 30-6-1949. They claimed adhivasi rights under Section 20 on the strength of the record for 1356 Fasli and were successful in their claim before the Board of Revenue. The Supreme Court dismissed Amba Prasad's appeal. Hidayatullah, J. (as His Lordship then was) analysed the terms of Section 20 and its explanations thus: (SCR pp. 807-808)

"The scheme of the section may now be noticed. The section, speaking generally, says that certain persons ''recorded' as ''occupants' of lands (other than grove lands or lands to which Section 16 applies) shall be known as adhivasis and shall be entitled to retain or to regain possession of them, after the date of vesting which was 1-7-1952. Such persons do not include an intermediary (Explanation IV). Such persons must be recorded as occupants in the khasra or khatauni for 1356 Fasli (1-7-1948 to 30-6-1949). If such a person is in possession he continues in possession. If he is evicted after 30-6-1943 he is to be put back in possession notwithstanding anything in any order or decree. By fiction such persons are deemed to be entitled to regain possession (Explanation I). The emphasis has been laid on the record of khasra or khatauni of 1356 Fasli and 30-6-1948 is the datum line. The importance of an entry in these two documents is further apparent from Explanations II and III. Under the former, if the entry is corrected before the date of vesting (1-7-1952), the corrected entry is to prevail and under the latter the entry is deemed to be corrected (even though not actually corrected, if an order or decree of a competent court ordering the correction had been made before the date of vesting and the order or decree had become final. There are thus two date lines. They are 30-6-1948 and 1-7-1952, and the title to possession as adhivasi depends on the entries in the khasra or khatauni for the year 1356 Fasli."

(emphasis in original)

His Lordship then observed:

"Before we proceed to decide whether the answering respondents satisfy the above tests we must consider what is meant by the terms ''occupant' and ''recorded'. The word ''occupant' is not defined in the Act. Since khasra records possession and enjoyment the word ''occupant' must mean a person holding the land in possession or actual enjoyment. The khasra, however, may mention the proprietor, the tenant, the subtenant and other person in actual possession, as the case may be. If by occupant is meant the person in actual possession it is clear that between a proprietor and a tenant the tenant, and between a tenant and the subtenant the latter and between him and a person recorded in the remarks column as ''dawedar qabiz' the dawedar qabiz are the occupants. This is the only logical way to interpret the section which does away with all intermediaries. If rights are not to be determined except in the manner laid down by the section, the entries must be construed as explained by the four explanations. Once we find out the right person in the light of the explanations, that person continues as an adhivasi after 1-7-1952, provided he is in possession or was evicted after 30-6-1948. If he was evicted after 30-6-1948 he is entitled to regain possession in spite of any order or decree to the contrary. The word ''occupant' thus signifies occupancy and enjoyment. Mediate possession, (except where the immediate possessor holds on behalf of the mediate possessor), is of no consequence. In this way even persons who got into occupation when lands were abandoned get recognition. The section eliminates inquiries into disputed possession by accepting the records in the khasra or khatauni of 1356 Fasli, or its correction before 1-7-1952. It was perhaps thought that all such disputes would have solved themselves in the four years between 30-6-1948 and 30-6-1952."

(emphasis added)

His Lordship concluded by touching upon the question whether the person claiming rights under Section 20 should prove actual possession in 1356 Fasli and, observing that this question had been left open in the Upper Ganges case [AIR 1961 SC 143 : (1961) 1 SCR 564] , said there was no reason to disturb a long established line of decisions of the Allahabad High Court answering the question in the negative. In the result, Amba Prasad's appeal was dismissed."

34. From the perusal of the aforesaid decision what can be culled out is that a person who claims adhivasi rights, his name must have been recorded in 1356 fasli in the Khasra or Khatauni which is duly prepared in terms of the provisions of the Land Revenue Act. In the instant case, it is not disputed that the petitioner was not recorded in the 1356 fasli. Thus, prima facie, he does not ipso-facto can claim the rights of adhivasi in terms of Section 20 (b) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act.

35. Now, even if the contention of the petitioner is considered in terms of the plea that his name was recorded in 1359 Fasli muddatkasht two years and therefore he was in possession that also does not impresses the Court for the reason that in the Khatauni of 1356, the name of the private respondents is recorded. In part-II there is no entry of either the petitioner or any other person shown as Shikmi. It is only in the khatauni of 1359 fasli that the name of the private respondents is recorded in the first part whereas the name of the petitioner Bhagwati Deen is recorded as Shikmi and so also in the Khatauni of 1362 fasli Part-II, however, there is nothing on record to indicate that the name of the private respondents were ever deleted or expunged. The possession of the petitioner has not been established in 1356 fasli and merely an indirect attempt is being made to relate to the possession to 1356 fasli by referring to the entry contained in 1359 fasli with muddat kasht of two years.

36. On the other hand, the name of the private respondents has continuously been recorded in 1356, 1359 and 1362 fasli and even in the Khasra of 12 years from 1366 to 1377 as well as Khataunis of 1364 to 1369 fasli which clearly establishes the clean chain of right and possession of the respondents.

37. Apart from this, another fact which can be noticed, though, the effect of such entries made in the consolidation operations which did not reach the stage of Section 30 of the U.P.C.H. Act would not have any binding effect as held by this Court in the case of Tauley (supra) but nevertheless the fact remains that even in the first consolidation where there was a dispute regarding the rights of the private respondents in respect of the disputed property and the private respondents had raised objection in respect of their names which came to be corrected and even thereafter it remained in the name of the respondents only goes on to corroborate the continuity of possession and rights of the respondents. Even though it may not have any binding effect on the petitioner for the purposes of title but nevertheless these are surrounding and accentuating circumstances which amplifies the strength of the plea raised by the respondents and in order to defeat the same, the petitioner ought to have filed strong evidence contradicting or belying the same which unfortunately has not been done. For the reason that the petitioner did not have any other material except the said document of 1359, 1362 fasli and certain statement as prepared under Section 240 of the U.P.Z.A & L.R. Act to indicate that the rights of the respondents had been extinguished. Thus, for the aforesaid reasons, the plea of adhivasi rights of the petitioner also does not convinces this court and is consequently turned down.

38. Now, coming to the effect of the statement made under Section 240 (j) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, the learned counsel for the petitioner has placed heavy reliance on the decision of the Special Bench of this Court in the case of Avdhesh Singh (Supra), however, before proceeding further, it will be relevant to notice the issues before the Special Bench which were as under:-

"1. Whether the finality of Compensation Statement under Sec. 240-J, U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act extinguishes the rights and title of the landholder and the landholder is debarred from showing in the subsequent proceedings that the land is not held by Adhivasi?

2. Whether the finality of Compensation Statement under Sec. 240-J is final between landholder and State only and not between landholder and person claiming Adhivasi rights?

3. Whether the finality amounts to an adjudication of title between the landholder and the person claiming Adhivasi right and the principle of res-judicata or constructive res-judicata applies?

4. Whether the landholder against whom Compensation Statement has become final and who has received compensation has no locus standi to re-agitate his rights in respect of the land in question?

5. What is the nature of proceedings under Sec. 240-D of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act and their effect in a regular title suit or proceeding?

6. What is the meaning of the word "final' used in Sec. 240-J(2) of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act?

Considering the arguments, the Court observed:-

2. During the hearing before us learned counsel representing the parties agreed that the last two questions of the orders of reference either do not arise or the answers to them would be covered by the answers to the first four questions. We consequently do not propose to answer those two questions. The questions that have been referred to us have been the subject-matter of consideration in a bead-string of decisions, many of which have interpreted the Full Bench decision in Maqbool Raza v. Joint Director of Consolidation1 in diverse ways.

10. I wish to emphasise here, even at the risk of repetition, that the limited object of preparation of the Compensation Statement under Sec. 240-D is to provide a basis for determination of the identity of the land acquired, the assessment of compensation payable therefor and the landholder entitled thereto. As to which individual is the Adhivasi of the land acquired has no impact on decision of either of these three matters. An ex-parte determination by the Compensation Officer of these matters could, not have been countenanced. The legislature consequently has provided by Sec. 240-F that the Compensation Statement prepared under Sec. 240-D shall be published in the manner prescribed and a copy thereof shall be sent to the landholder concerned. While this provision provides that a copy of the Compensation Statement shall be sent to the landholder concerned which necessarily means the landholder mentioned in it, it also requires publication in the manner prescribed. Rules 193-B and 193-C of the Rules framed under the Act provide for various statements that have to be prepared consequent on a notification under Sec. 240-A. Rule 193-E(i) makes provision for publication in the Official Gazette of a notice in Z.A. Form No. 111 after the draft Compensation Statement has been drawn up by the Compensation Officer. Sub-rule (ii) of rule 193-E requires that a copy of the no-notice in Z.A. Form No. 111 along with a certified extract of the draft compensation statement shall be served on the landholder in the manner specified in the Code of Civil Procedure. Though the manner in which the publication has to be made was left to the rule-making authority, the requirement that the Compensation Statement shall be published in itself implies that the, publication must be effective so that all concerned may have notice thereof. The rule has, as noticed, provided for publication of a notice in Z.A. Form No. 111 in the Official Gazette. Publication in the Official Gazette in this country has always been considered in the eye of law as effective publication.

12. The question arises as to what is the scope of the words "person interested" for the purposes of Sec. 240-G. Does it include the recorded or unrecorded Adhivasi? To my mind the answer must be in the negative. Since the Compensation Statement prepared under Sec. 240-D and published under Sec. 240-F is prepared expressly for purposes of assessment and payment of compensation for acquisition of rights, title and interest of landholder in the land referred to in Sec. 240-A, the only persons interested in disputing its correctness can be (1) those claiming that they and not the person shown in the Compensation Statement are the landholders entitled to compensation, or that they also along with the landholder mentioned in it are entitled to compensation (2) the landholder shown in the Compensation Statement or any one else claiming to be the landholder who asserts that the land is not of the nature contemplated by Sec. 240-A of the Act and thus has not been acquired and (3) the recorded landholder or any one else claiming to be the landholder disputing the assessment of compensation as disclosed in the Compensation Statement. An Adhivasi recorded or unrecorded in the Compensation Statement can possibly have no interest in supporting or disputing the quantum of compensation assessed or to the identity of the person to whom it is paid or asserting that the land does not belong to the class contemplated by Sec. 240-A and hence in the entire Compensation Statement. No objection consequently, to my mind, is entertainable at the instance of an Adhivasi recorded or unrecorded in the Compensation Statement.

In the very nature of things neither an Adhivasi, if any mentioned in the Compensation Statement, nor any one else claiming to be an Adhivasi can conceivably interested in establishing that the land mentioned in the Compensation Statement is not of the nature referred to in Sub-sec. (1) of Sec. 240-A. In fact, every person claiming to be an Adhivasi of the land in question would be interested in showing that it is land of that nature, otherwise he would not become Sirdar. Only landholders whose rights are claimed to have been acquired by reason of a notification under Sec. 240-A can be interested in asserting that the land mentioned in the Compensation Statement is not land of the nature contemplated by Sec. 240-A and hence in filing an objection of the nature envisaged by Sec. 240-H(2)(a). If, however, in the objection contemplated by Sec. 240-H(2)(a) the Adhivasi recorded or unrecorded is impleaded as a party, he and the landholder both would be bound by the decision arrived at in the consequent proceedings on the principle of res-judicata and it will be open to neither of them to contend in a separate suit that the decision was incorrect. An Adhivasi who is not a party to the proceedings would, however, remain unaffected by the decision. An objection as envisaged by Sec. 240-H(2)(b) can be raised by persons interested in showing that either they alone to the exclusion of the person shown as landholder in the Compensation Statement or along with him are landholders entitled .

And finally, The Court concluded:-

19.For the reasons given above, my conclusion is that the Compensation

Statement prepared under Chapter IX-A of the Act is final as far as the identity of the land acquired, the quantum of compensation assessed, and the identity of the landholder who in lieu of extinction of his rights in the land is entitled to receive the compensation are concerned and for no other purpose.

20.My answer to the first four questions referred to us are as follows:--

(1) Finality of Compensation Statement under Sec. 240-J, U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act extinguishes the rights and title of the landholder and the landholder is debarred from showing in collateral or separate proceedings that the land is not held by an Adhivasi, except in cases where the provisions of the Act have not been followed or where the Compensation Statement has been prepared in disregard of the fundamental principles of judicial procedureKatikara Chintamani Dora v.Guletreddi Annamanaidu [(1974) 1 SCC 567 : A.I.R. 1974 S.C. 1069.] . If the requirements of the Act have not been complied with or the fundamental principles of judicial procedure have been disregarded, the Compensation Statement signed and sealed by the Compensation Officer under Sec. 240-J(2) of the Act can be assailed in collateral proceedings.

(2) The Compensation Statement signed and sealed under Sec. 204-J(2) of the Act is final between the landholder and the State alone.

(3) The Compensation Statement amounts, to an adjudication of title between the landholder and the person claiming Adhivasi rights and the principle of res-judicata and constructive res-judicata will apply only to an Adhivasi who has been a party to proceedings consequent on an objection of the nature contemplated by Sec. 240-H(2)(a) of the Act.

(4) The landholder against whom Compensation Statement has become final; and who has received compensation has no locus standi to reagitate his rights in respect of the land in question.

39. Noticing the aforesaid, it would indicate that the Special Bench noticed that the statement of compensation as prepared under Chapter IX-A of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act is final as far as the identity of the land acquired, the quantum of compensation assessed and the identity of the land holder who in lieu of extinction of his rights in the land is entitled to receive compensation and for no other purpose. The compensation statement is final between the landholder and the State alone and it amounts to an adjudication of title between the landholder and the person claiming adhivasi rights and the principle of res-judicata and constructive res-judicata will apply only to such adhivasi who had been a party to the proceedings consequent to an objection of the nature contemplated under Section 240 (H) (2) (a) of the Act and then such land holder against whom compensation statement has become final and who has received the compensation has no locus standi to re-agitate his rights of the land in question.

40. Before looking into the applicability of the aforesaid propositions as laid by the Special Bench in Avdhesh Singh (Supra), it will also be relevant to notice that the respondent herein has categorically filed an affidavit as late as on 01.04.2022 on the specific asking of this Court in its order dated 30.03.2022 as to specifically state whether the respondents have received the compensation in terms of the Section 240 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. In the said affidavit, it has been categorically stated that no compensation has been received by the respondents. There does not appear to be any reason to disbelieve the same for another reason, inasmuch as, the State has also not raised any objections that the respondents could not re-agitate his rights as he has received the compensation in terms of Chapter IX-A of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act.

41. Even otherwise, the petitioner has merely filed certain statements of compensation before this Court along with the rejoinder affidavit dated 11.11.2019 to raise the plea regarding the compensation having been received by the respondent. But the said documents could not be verified. Moreover, a categorical statement has been given by the respondent in his affidavit as noticed above that he has not received any compensation and also that though the said plea was raised by the petitioner even before the two courts but neither the said documents were furnished before the two Courts nor the plea found favour with them as rightly noticed by the DDC that since the right of adhivasi has not been conferred on the petitioner, consequently, he could not further be granted any benefit in terms of Section 240 (J) of the U.P.Z.A & L.R. Act neither the proceedings in terms of Chapter IX-A of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act were in accordance with law.

42. This was a ground upon which the aforesaid plea was rejected by the SOC as well as by the DDC but nothing has been brought on record by the petitioner to controvert the same. There is also nothing on record to show that in the proceedings under Section 240 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, the petitioner was a party, thus, if at all the statement at best could be find between the State and the respondent as held by the Special Bench but even there is no confirmation of the same nor controversion by the State in regard to the compensation, thus, the plea of Section 240 (J) of the U.P.Z.A & L.R. Act also does not find favour with this Court.

43. It is equally settled that an entry in the revenue records do raise a presumption but the same is rebuttable in nature. Any entry which is not prepared in accordance with law cannot confer any benefit to a party claiming the same. In the instant case as both the SOC as well as the DDC have meticulously considered the submissions and the material available on record and had arrived at a finding that merely because of one entry in 1359 fasli which is also not proved nor having been made in accordance with the provisions contained under the Land Revenue Act as has been discussed in the preceding paragraphs, no benefit could be granted to the petitioner, thus, the third plea of the petitioner also fails and the Special Bench decision of Avdhesh Singh (Supra) also does not come to the rescue of the petitioner. Moreover, it could not be disputed that the respondents were granted bhumidhari rights after the application of the respondents under Rule 109 of the Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings, Rules, 1954 was allowed.

44. Thus, in light of the detailed discussions and for all the reasons, hereinabove, this Court is satisfied that there is no error committed by the SOC and the DDC which may require any interference of this Court in exercise of powers conferred under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

45. Accordingly, the petition sans merit is thus dismissed. In the facts and circumstances, there shall be no order as to costs.

A. Criminal Law -Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973-Section 374(2) - Indian Penal Code, 1860-Sections 148, 436/19, 429/149, 323/149 & 302/149-challenge to-conviction-deceased died in an incident of dacoity-appellant no. 2 was armed with country made firearm, however from the perusal of the postmortem report of deceased, no fire arm injury was reported on the deceased nor her injured son sustained any fire arm injury-the Prosecution examined eleven witnesses-Their testimonies are consistent with the prosecution story-the injury reports of the injured as well as the deceased fully supported and corroborated the prosecution case in respect of manner of commission of crime-PW-5 who is an independent witness, stated in his testimony that the deceased was stabbed by other accused not by appellant no. 2 and the same was supported by the testimony of PW-4-PW-2 and PW-3 also supported the same version that appellant no. 2 neither extended threat to the deceased nor he extended exhortation to inflict injuries to PW-4 (deceased son)-Prosecution witnesses have stated in their testimony that in first leg of incident, accused persons including appellant no. 2 had opened indiscriminate fire-While, in the second leg of incident, despite being armed with fire arm , appellant no. 2 did not use alleged country made fire arm on the deceased-appellant no. 2 did not share common object of unlawful assembly to kill the deceased-Thus, Trial court has committed error in holding the appellant guilty u/s 302/149 IPC-The same being illegal and perverse deserves to be set aside.(Para 1 to 42)

B. A common object may be formed by express agreement after mutual consultation, but that is by no means necessary. it may be formed at any stage by all or a few members of the assembly and the other members may just join and adopt it. Once formed, it need not continue to be the same. it may be modified or altered or abandoned at any stage. The expression " in prosecution of common object" as appearing in Section 149 has to be strictly construed as equivalent to " in order to attain the common object." Each member of what is likely to be committed in prosecution of their common object may vary not only according to the information at his command, but also according to the extent to which he shares the community of object, and as a consequence of this the effect of Section 149 IPC may be different on different members of the same assembly. (Para 37)

The appeal is partly allowed. (E-6)

3. At the outset, it is required to be noted that the charge-sheets, Ex. Ka-7 and Ex. Ka-12 were laid before learned trial Court against six accused persons. The case against accused, Ram Bux Singh and Dev Bux Singh stood abated during trial due to their death. The instant appeal was filed by three appellants, namely, Sheo Bux Singh, Raj Bahadur Singh and Nanha Singh. Due to death of appellant no.1, Sheo Bux Singh and appellant no.3, Nanha Singh, the instant appeal has already been abated, vide order of this Court dated 21.04.2018. Therefore, the present appeal survives only in respect of appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh.

4. The facts as unfolded by the prosecution, in short conspectus, are that a written report, Ex. Ka-2 was given at Police Station Ajgain, District Unnao in the intervening night of 13.02.1979/14.02.1979 at 00:30 hours by the first informant, Vijay Bahadur Singh, P.W.-2 stating therein that on 13.02.1979 at about 9:00 P.M., Ram Bux Singh, Dev Bux Singh armed with fire arms, Sheo Bux Singh armed with lathi along with one of his associate Raj Bahadur Singh, who was armed with country made fire arm and Nanha Singh, who was carrying a knife, came to the house of younger brother of the first informant and pressed his door and opened fire at his door. These accused persons hurled abuses and were also extending threat to kill. On hearing commotion, the first informant came upstairs and raised alarm. The accused persons opened fire at the first informant who, after taking shelter, started pelting stones etc. at the accused persons. Meanwhile, accused, Dev Bux Singh torched the thatch of Ram Singh and Ram Prakash and thereafter, torched the houses of Kallu Singh, Bhagauti Lodh and the house of the first informant. They also set the stubble ablaze. They were extending threat to shoot anyone who comes to rescue. Due to commotion, Jagan, Chetram, Purvi, Prabhu, Ram Sevak Yadav and some other people came to the spot and also raised alarm. Ram Sevak was hit by Sheo Bux Singh by Lathi when he was trying to take his animals away.

4(a) In this incident of torching thatches etc. two bulls, one buffalo, one cow and one calf belonging to Kallu Singh died due to burn injuries, whereas a buffalo and a goat belonging to Ram Prakash and two buffalo and a calf belonging to Ram Singh also died. Various household articles of Kallu Singh, Ram Prakash and Ram Singh were burnt in this incident. First informant's thatch and a window was also burnt in this incident.

4(b) Thereafter, all accused persons are said to have gone to the house of Ram Prashad and have stabbed his wife, Sarju Devi. The son of Ram Prashad, Gurudin was present there, who raised alarm. He was also beaten by Lathi. When they were challenged by the people, who had reached on the spot, the accused persons retreated towards Village Nanatikur.

4(c) According to prosecution, one of the relative of first informant, Narendra was accused in a case pertaining to murder of Mahendra Singh, which had occurred about two years ago. Due to aforesaid reasons, brothers of deceased, Mahendra Singh, accused, Ram Bux Singh, Sheo Bux Singh and Dev Bux Singh nourished grudge against the first informant and his family members. It is also stated in the written report Ex. Ka-2 that the accused persons nourished grudge against Ram Prakash for the reasons that he stood as a witness against Ram Bux Singh.

5. The aforesaid written report, Ex. Ka-2 was scribed by Ram Sevek. On the basis of said written report, Ex. Ka-2 given by PW-2, Vijay Bahadur, a first information report bearing Case Crime No.39/1979, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 436, 452, 324, 429 I.P.C., Ex. Ka-13 came to be lodged at Police Station Ajgain, District Unnao against Ram Bux Singh @ Munnu Singh, Dev Bux Singh, Sheo Bux Singh, Raj Bahadur and Nanha Singh.

6. On receiving information of death of the injured, Sarju Devi, Section 302 I.P.C. came to be added during investigation vide G.D. No.14 dated 18.03.1979, Ex. Ka-15.

7. During investigation, evidence regarding complicity of one Kaptan Singh was also collected by the Investigating Officer, therefore, upon conclusion of investigation, charge-sheet, Ex. Ka-7 was submitted against Kaptan Singh and Ex. Ka-12 was submitted against Ram Bux Singh @ Munnu Singh, Dev Bux Singh, Sheo Bux Singh Raj Bahadur, Nanha Singh and Kaptan Singh.

8. According to injury report, Ex. Ka-5, following injuries were reported on the body of the deceased, Sarju Devi :-

10. According to injury report, Ex. Ka-6 following injuries were reported on the person of Gurudin, PW-4, who is son of the deceased Sarju Devi :-

1. Contusion on the left hand over the area of 4 cm x 3 cm area.

2. Incised wound 6.5 cm x .25 cm x muscle deep (just tailing the skull bone) on the top of the head slightly towards the left side and 7 cm above the left eye brow tailing is towards anterior aspect.

11. It is revealed from the perusal of the injury report, Ex. Ka-1 that following injuries were reported on the person of Ram Sevak:-

1. Lacerated wound of 6 cm x 1/2 cm x bone deep over left side of scalp about 10 cms. away from left ear blood clotted over margins.

2. Abrated contusion of 5 cm x 4 cm red color over outer aspect of right hand and area of swelling of 8 cm x 6 cm around it.

12. Dr. R.K. Maheshwari, PW-6 has proved postmortem report of animals as Ex. Ka.3, who are reported to have died due to burn injuries. It is stated in the said postmortem report that the cause of death of animals was shock as a result of burn injuries.

13. The matter was investigated by Sub Inspector, Sripal Tripathi, PW-10, who visited the place of occurrence and prepared site plan, Ex. Ka-9. He recorded statements of witnesses, under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and collected bloodstainted and plain soil from the spot and prepared memo, Ex. Ka-10 in respect thereof. He has also collected ashes from the spot and prepared memo, Ex. Ka-11. After conclusion of the investigation, charge-sheet was submitted against Ram Bux Singh, Deo Bux Singh, Sheo Bux Singh, Nanha Singh and Raj Bahadur Singh as Ex. Ka-12 by Sub Inspector Sripal Tripathi. Thereafter, he was transferred to other district on 28.04.1979, therefore, the investigation was entrusted to Sub Inspector, Vijay Pal Singh, PW-8 who also submitted charge-sheet Ex. Ka-7 against accused, Kaptan Singh.

14. The accused, Sheo Bux Singh was charged for the offence under Sections 302/149, 429, 436, 147 & 323 I.P.C. Kaptan Singh was charged for the offence under Sections 302/149, 429, 436 & 147 I.P.C. Ram Bux Singh was charged for the offence under Sections 302/149, 429, 436 & 148. Raj Bahadur Singh was charged for the offence under Sections 302/149, 429, 436 & 148 I.P.C. Nanha Singh was charged for the offence under Sections 302/149, 429, 436 & 148 I.P.C. The accused persons denied the charges and stated that they have been falsely implicated. They claimed trial.

15. To bring home the guilt of the appellant to the hilt, the prosecution has examined as many as eleven witnesses. PW-1, Dr. R.K. Khattar, PW-2, Vijay Bahadur, who is the first informant, PW-3, Ram Prakash Singh, PW-4, Gurudeen, who is son of the deceased, PW-5, Sri Jaggan, PW-6, Dr. R.K. Maheshwari, PW-7, Dr. Rama Shankar Shukla, PW-8, Sri Vijay Pal Singh, PW-9, Dr. V.C. Rastogi, PW-10, S.I. Sripal Tripathi, Investigating Officer, PW-11, Sri Shubham karan Singh.

16. The statement of the appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. He denied the charges and stated that he has been falsely implicated due to enmity. He has also stated that the statements of prosecution witnesses were false.

17. After appreciating the prosecution evidence, the learned trial Court vide impugned judgment and order dated 19.01.1984 has convicted the accused, Sheo Bux Singh, Raj Bahadur Singh, Nanha Singh as aforesaid and has also recorded the finding of acquittal of co-accused, Kaptan Singh.

18. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that the first information report is antetimed keeping in view the fact that the distance of Police Station Ajgain, from the place of occurrence is about nine miles. The incident is said to have occurred at about 9:00 P.M. in the night of 13.02.1979, which spanned over two hours. Thereafter, the first informant proceeded to get the first information report lodged, which ultimately came to be lodged at 00:30 hours at Police Station Ajgain.

19. His further submission is that from the perusal of Ex. Ka-22, G.D. No.11 dated 15.02.1979, entered at Police Station Kotwali, Kanpur. It transpires that the deceased, Sarju Devi died in an incident of dacoity. Her husband was also a witness of Panchayatnama, Ex. Ka-18, wherein too, it is mentioned that the deceased, Sarju Devi died in an incident of dacoity. Therefore, he submits that the entire prosecution story implicating the present appellant is false and concocted.

20. He has also submitted that the appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh has been falsely implicated in this case due to his acquaintance with other co-accused, Ram Bux Singh. No specific role in commission of crime has been assigned to him. There is nothing on record to show that he, in any manner, acted in furtherance of common object of unlawful assembly. It is also submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that the appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh has been shown to be armed with country made fire arm, however, it would appear from the perusal of postmortem report of deceased, Ex. Ka-8 that no fire arm injury was reported on the person of the deceased. Even her son, injured Gurudeen, PW-4 has not sustained any fire arm injury. Therefore, he submits that the appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh never shared common object of alleged unlawful assembly. The finding of learned trial Court convicting the appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur with the aid of Section 149 I.P.C. for offence of murder of deceased, Sarju Devi is based on surmises and conjunctures only which are palpably illegal and deserve to be set aside.

21. Learned Additional Government Advocate appearing on behalf of the State, on the other hand, has submitted that the first information report in this case is prompt. In order to prove its case beyond doubt the prosecution has examined as many as eleven prosecution witnesses. Their testimonies are consistent with the prosecution story as contained in written report, Ex. Ka-2. He has also submitted that the injury reports of the injured as well as deceased, Sarju Devi fully support and corroborate the prosecution case in respect of manner of commission of crime. There is nothing on record to show that the appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh was falsely implicated in this case. The finding of conviction of appellant is based on proper appreciation and analysis of prosecution evidence and as a result thereof, the appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh has rightly been convicted under Sections 148, 436/149, 429/149, 323/149 and 302/149 I.P.C. He has, thus, submitted that the instant appeal being devoid of merit deserves to be dismissed.

22. Having heard learned counsel for appellant, learned A.G.A. for the State and upon perusal of the record, we find that according to first informant, Vijay Bahadur, PW-2 the incident started about 9:00 P.M. on 13.02.1979, when accused persons arrived at the house of his younger brother, Ram Singh. The entire incident spanned over two hours. After the incident was over, the first informant got the first information report scribed by Ram Sevak, after half an hour of retreat of accused person from the spot. Police Station Ajgain is situate at a distance of nine miles from the place of occurrence. Therefore, taking into account all the aforesaid facts and circumstances, we do not find the first information report to be antetimed.

23. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Anil Kumar v. State of U.P., (2004) 13 SCC 257 has held that minor variance in the statement of maker of first information report should not lead to conclude that first information report is antetimed.

24. Adverting to the second contention of learned counsel for the appellant, we notice that the deceased, Sarju Devi died on 15.02.1979 at Kanpur in Ursala Hospital during her treatment. An information was given by Emergency Medical Officer to the Police Station

Kotwali, Kanpur that Sarju Devi had died in an incident of dacoity. A general diary entery no.11 dated 15.02.1979, Ex. Ka-22 was entered at Police Station Kotwali, on the basis of aforesaid information given by Emergency Medical Officer. The same information finds mention in Ex. Ka-18, Panchayatnama, of which, husband of the deceased is also a Panch. However, there is nothing on record to show as to what was the basis of such information. There is nothing on record to suggest that such information was given by either first informant or any family members of the deceased. Therefore, such entry made in general diary at Police Station Kotwali, Kanpur made at the behest of Emergency Medical Officer does not, in any manner, affect the veracity and credibility of prosecution case.

25. From the perusal of the written report Ex. Ka-2, it is apparent that the alleged incident is said to have taken place in two distinct legs.

26. Regarding the first leg of incident, PW-2, first informant, Vijay Bahadur has stated on oath that on the date of incident accused persons, who were armed with fire arms, came to the house of his younger brother Ram Singh. Accused, Ram Bux Singh and Dev Bux Singh opened fire from their guns. Accused, Dev Bux Singh torched the thatches of Ram Sevak, Ram Prakash, Kallu Singh and Bhagauti Lodh. Accused, Dev Bux Singh also torched the thatch of first informant. During this process, accused persons were also making regular fires from their fire arms.

27. This leg of incident has also been witnessed by PW-3, Ram Prakash Singh, who has stated that on 13.02.1979 at 9:00 P.M. in the night, the accused person came to his uncle's house. Accused, Ram Bux Singh and Dev Bux Singh were carrying guns. Kaptan Singh and Raj Bahadur Singh were carrying country made fire arms, Sheo Bux Singh was armed with lathi whereas Nanha Singh was carrying a knife. He has stated to have seen accused persons while they were making indiscriminate firing and accused Dev Bux Singh torched the thatches of Ram Sevak, Ram Prakash, Kallu Singh and Bhagauti Lodh.

28. The investigating officer had collected ashases from the spot during investigation and had prepared memo in respect thereof as Ex. Ka-11. It also appears to us that though, PW-3, Ram Prakash Singh and PW-5 Sri Jaggan have not witnessed this incident since its inception, however, they have categorically stated to have seen the accused persons on the spot while the thatches etc. were burning. In this leg of incident many animals had died due to burn injuries. This fact stood proved by the testimony of PW-6, Dr. R.K. Maheshwari who had conducted postmortem of animals and prepared postmortem report, Ex. Ka-3, according to which, the animals are reported to have died due to burn injuries.

29. The prosecution evidence adduced to prove the first leg of incident appears to us to be consistent. It is based on cogent evidence. No material contradiction could be pointed out to us which may lead to any otherwise inference.

30. Therefore, in view of aforesaid discussion, we converge to the irresistible conclusion that the conviction of appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh, under Sections 148, 436/149, 429/149, 323/149 I.P.C. is based on cogent and reliable evidence available on record.

31. In the second leg of incident, the accused persons are stated to have gone to the house of Ram Sevek, where accused, Nanha Singh is stated to have stabbed the deceased, Sarju Devi mercilessly causing her death. The appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh is also stated to be present on the spot while deceased, Sarju Devi was stabbed by accused, Nanha Singh. The incident of stabbing of deceased, Sarju Devi has occurred at her house where her son Gurudin, PW-4, who is also an injured, was present. His presence on the spot appears to us to be natural being son of the deceased.

32. The PW-4, Gurudin has clearly stated in his testimony that except accused, Sheo Bux Singh no other accused assaulted him. This witness has sustained injuries on his person which has been reported to be a contusion and an incised wound which, according to his injury report, Ex. Ka-6, might have been caused by blunt object and sharp instrument respectively. He has stated to have been given blow from lathi by accused, Sheo Bux Singh.

33. The PW-5, Sri Jaggan, who is an independent witness, has stated in his testimony that the deceased, Sarju Devi was stabbed by accused, Nanha Singh. In his cross examination he has admitted the fact that in his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. he had not stated that all the accused persons while chasing the deceased had entered into the house of the deceased, Sarju Devi. Thus, his such statement during trial appears to be an improvement in order to rope in the appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh.

34. On a close scrutiny of the testimony of prosecution witnesses of fact, PW-2, Vijay Bahadur, who is the first informant, PW-3, Ram Prakash Singh, PW-4, Gurudeen, who is son of the deceased and also an injured and PW-5, Sri Jaggan, who is an independent witness, we find that no prosecution witness has stated in his testimony that the appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh either extended threat to the deceased, Sarju Devi or his son, Gurudin, PW-4. He has also not extended exhortation to inflict injuries to Gurudin, PW-4 or the deceased, Sarju Devi.

35. We have been able to notice that the prosecution witnesses have stated in their testimony that in first leg of incident, accused persons including the appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh, who were armed with fire arm, had opened indiscriminate fire. However, significantly, despite being armed with a fire arm in the second leg of incident in which an old hapless lady was done to death by the accused, Nanha Singh by stabbing her mercilessly, no use of alleged country made fire arm being held by present appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh was alleged by the prosecution.

36. Therefore, it appears to us that appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh was not sharing the common object of unlawful assembly insofar as it relates to killing of deceased, Sarju Devi is concerned. There is nothing on record to suggest that he had knowledge that the deceased, Sarju Devi would be killed by the co-accused, Nanha Singh in second leg of incident. The fact that the deceased, Sarju Devi was stabbed by accused, Nanha Singh and injured, Gurudin, PW-4 was inflicted injuries by accused, Sheo Bux Singh stands proved in the light of consistent testimony of prosecution witnesses. However, we find that the conviction of appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh, under Section 302 I.P.C. read with Section 149 I.P.C., in absence of any cogent evidence to the effect that either he was sharing common object of unlawful assembly to kill the deceased, Sarju Devi or atleast he knew that the co-accused persons are likely to kill the deceased, Sarju Devi, is not sustainable.

37. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Chanda v. State of U.P., (2004) 5 SCC 141, in paragraph no.8 has held as under:-

8. The pivotal question is applicability of Section 149 IPC. The said provision has its foundation on constructive liability which is the sine qua non for its operation. The emphasis is on the common object and not on common intention. Mere presence in an unlawful assembly cannot render a person liable unless there was a common object and he was actuated by that common object and that object is one of those set out in Section 141. Where common object of an unlawful assembly is not proved, the accused persons cannot be convicted with the help of Section 149. The crucial question to determine is whether the assembly consisted of five or more persons and whether the said persons entertained one or more of the common objects, as specified in Section 141. It cannot be laid down as a general proposition of law that unless an overt act is proved against a person, who is alleged to be a member of an unlawful assembly, it cannot be said that he is a member of an assembly. The only thing required is that he should have understood that the assembly was unlawful and was likely to commit any of the acts which fall within the purview of Section 141. The word "object" means the purpose or design and, in order to make it "common", it must be shared by all. In other words, the object should be common to the persons, who compose the assembly, that is to say, they should all be aware of it and concur in it. A common object may be formed by express agreement after mutual consultation, but that is by no means necessary. It may be formed at any stage by all or a few members of the assembly and the other members may just join and adopt it. Once formed, it need not continue to be the same. It may be modified or altered or abandoned at any stage. The expression "in prosecution of common object" as appearing in Section 149 has to be strictly construed as equivalent to "in order to attain the common object". It must be immediately connected with the common object by virtue of the nature of the object. There must be community of object and the object may exist only up to a particular stage, and not thereafter. Members of an unlawful assembly may have community of object up to a certain point beyond which they may differ in their objects and the knowledge possessed by each member of what is likely to be committed in prosecution of their common object may vary not only according to the information at his command, but also according to the extent to which he shares the community of object, and as a consequence of this the effect of Section 149 IPC may be different on different members of the same assembly.

(Emphasis supplied by us)

38. On the appreciation of evidence on record, we are of the considered view that the appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh did not share common object of unlawful assembly to kill the deceased, Sarju Devi in the second leg of incident. Therefore, on a careful scrutiny of the material on record, we have no hesitation to record that in the facts of the case, the learned trial Court has committed an error in holding that the appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh was guilty of the offence under Section 302 I.P.C. read with Section 149 I.P.C.

39. The upshot of the aforesaid discussion is that the conviction of appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh under Sections 148, 436/149, 429/149, 323/149 I.P.C. is based on cogent and reliable evidence wherein no interference by this Court is warranted. Whereas, his conviction under Section 302 I.P.C. read with Section 149 I.P.C. has not been established beyond a reasonable doubt. Therefore, the same being illegal and perverse deserves to be set aside.

40. The instant appeal is thus, partly allowed. The conviction of appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh under Sections 148, 436/149, 429/149, 323/149 I.P.C. and sentences awarded therefor are affirmed. Whereas his conviction and sentence under Section 302 I.P.C. read with Section 149 I.P.C. are hereby set aside. He is acquitted of the charges under Section 302 I.P.C. read with Section 149 I.P.C.

41. In case, the appellant no.2, Raj Bahadur Singh has already undergone sentences awarded to him for the offences under Sections 148, 436/149, 429/149, 323/149 I.P.C., he shall be released forthwith, unless required in any other case.

1 . This appeal has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 12.01.2006 passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge Court No.6, Jaunpur in Sessions Trial No.126 of 2004; State Versus Phool Chandra under Section 302 IPC, Police Station-Sarai Khwaja, District-Jaunpur arising out of Case Crime No.8 of 2004 whereby the appellant Phool Chandra has been convicted and awarded sentence under Section 302 IPC for life imprisonment.

2. The F.I.R. was lodged by the informant Rajesh Kumar Agrahri son of the deceased Ram Asrey on 08.01.2004 at 18:10 alleging therein that while his father was tying his goat in front of Malhani Bazar (Bhadora) Temple, Police Station Sarai Khwaja, District Jaunpur at 01:30 in the day on 08.01.2004, Phool Chandra Yadav, the appellant son of Kewla Prasad suddenly came and started beating his father by a Danda. His father shouted then the informant and Sonu son of Harish Chandra and Gulab Chandra @ Gullu son of Banarsi rushed to the spot and after seeing them the accused ran away. The deceased was taken to the Sadar Hospital, Jaunpur where he died during treatment. In pursuance of the aforesaid F.I.R. the investigation was conducted and the charge sheet was submitted against the appellant under Section 304 I.P.C.

3. Since the charge was under Section 304 I.P.C. the case was committed to the Sessions Court. The charge was framed by the Sessions Judge, Jaunpur on 20.04.2004 against the appellant under Section 302 I.P.C. Charge was read over and explained to the accused who denied the charge and claimed to be tried.

4. In support of the charge seven witnesses were examined namely Rajesh Kumar Agrahri as PW-1, Sonu Gupta as PW-2 as witnesses of fact. Head Constable Adya Prasad Yadav as PW-3, who had written the F.I.R. on the basis of complaint. Dr. P.N. Pandey as PW-4, who had conducted the postmortem. Constable Subhash Chandra Pandey as PW-5, who took the body of the deceased to the postmortem house. Sub-Inspector Amar Singh as PW-6, the investigating officer of the case and Dr. Rajnath Gautam as PW-7 the Medical Officer who had examined the injuries of the deceased.

5. After the evidence was adduced by the prosecution, the appellant was examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. He denied the allegations and stated that the evidence has been given by PW-1 and PW-2 due to enmity and PW-4 to PW-7 are the Government witnesses and they have given forged evidence. Lastly he stated that Ram Asrey was patient of Asthema. He had difficulty in movement. While he was tying the goat near the temple, the goat tried to run, on account of which he fell on well head in which he suffered injuries but he has falsely been implicated. After considering the evidence and material on record, the appellant has been convicted and awarded sentence for life imprisonment under Section 302 I.P.C.

6. We have heard Sri Manu Sharma, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant and Km. Meena, learned A.G.A. for the State.

7. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the appellant has falsely been implicated. The presence of witnesses on the spot and the place of incident is doubtful. The PW-2 stated that he and Rajesh; PW-1 had gone to see fair in Baba at Gauspur and returned home in the evening and then took deceased to hospital. It was informed by the people that the deceased has sustained injuries by lathi danda. He further submitted that injured was admitted in hospital by the villager and not by the son therefore the presence of PW-1 is also doubtful. He further submitted that the place of incident is also doubtful because no blood stain was recovered whereas doctor had stated that deceased died due to excessive bleeding. The doubt has also been raised in regard to place of arrest of the appellant on the ground that PW-1 stated that the arrest was made from sugar cane field whereas PW-2 stated that the appellant was found sitting at his house eating sugar cane. The recovery is also said to be doubtful and it has been argued that there is all possibility that the injury was sustained by the deceased due to accident while tying goat. He further submitted that motive for offence could not be proved therefore the intention to kill also could not be proved so it can not be said to be a case falling under Section 302 I.P.C. because the F.I.R. was also lodged and charge sheet was submitted under Section 304 I.P.C. and charge under Section 302 I.P.C. could not be proved beyond doubt, therefore the sentence awarded is also excessive. Accordingly he submitted that the appeal is liable to be allowed.

8. Learned A.G.A. vehemently opposed the submissions of learned counsel for the appellant. She had taken us to the evidence on record and contended that though the charge sheet was submitted under Section 304 I.P.C. but the charge was rightly framed under Section 302 I.P.C. and the charge was proved by the eye witnesses beyond doubt. It was a case of broad day light murder which has been proved by eye witnesses therefore even if the motive could not be proved, it is of no consequence. The conviction has rightly been made and adequate sentence has been awarded to the appellant. The appeal is liable to be dismissed.

9. We have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the evidence and material on record.

10. The PW-1 Rajesh Kumar Agrahri lodged the F.I.R. at 18:10 on 08.01.2004 in regard to the aforesaid incident at 01:30 PM on the same day. The F.I.R. was lodged under Section 304 I.P.C. PW-1 had proved the F.I.R. He had stated in his evidence that there are a large number of Yadvas in his village. He is of business community who are in minority therefore the persons of Yadav community keep enmity with them. He had further supported the version of the F.I.R. and stated that after incident he had taken his father to the hospital where he died during treatment. The deceased died during treatment at 05:10 PM and the F.I.R. was lodged at 06:10 PM therefore there was no delay in lodging the F.I.R. because it is a primary duty of the son to first get his father treated in case of such incident. PW-1 had stated that when the appellant had started beating his father by stick, he cried then he alongwith Sonu and Gulab of his village reached on the spot then the appellant ran away. However, on account of beating by lathi (danda) his father suffered serious injuries therefore he was taken to hospital. He also stated in his evidence that his father had suffered injuries on the back side of his head. An exhaustive cross examination was done from PW-1 but nothing could be extracted which may doubt the testimony of PW-1.

11. PW-2 had also stated that the incident is of 1-1/2 PM on 08.01.2004. He alongwith Gulab Chandra @ Gullu and Rajesh Kumar rushed to the spot after hearing the cry of the deceased Ram Asrey then he saw that the appellant was beating Ram Asrey with Lathi & Danda and after sustaining injuries he fell down, but even thereafter he was being beaten. He and others tried to catch the appellant but he ran away. This statement was recorded on 04.01.2005 and after a long cross examination on several dates i.e. 02.02.2005, 22.02.2005 and 27.05.2005 he was got declared hostile by the prosecution as he stated that he and Rajesh had gone to see the fair in Baba of Ghauspur. They returned in the evening and then took the deceased to hospital and the people had informed that the injuries were suffered from Lathi & Danda. Thereafter in cross-examination and suggestion of cross defence he stated that it is wrong to say that he has not seen the incident from his eyes. Therefore even though he was declared hostile after cross examination on several dates but lastly he supported his evidence by the suggestion therefore his earlier statement can not be ignored in which he had proved the incident. It is settled proposition of law that even after a witness has been declared hostile, the evidence which inspires confidence, can be considered and would be relevant. Therefore this Court is of the view that it is a case in which there are two eye witnesses of the incident who have proved the incident and nothing could come out in the cross-examination which may raise any doubt about their testony about the incident. Therefore the contention of learned counsel for the appellant that the presence of witnesses at the time of incident is doubtful, is misconceived and not tenable and liable to be rejected. As such the incident has been proved by two eye witnesses.

12. PW-3 Head Constable 98 Aadya Prasad Yadav has proved the lodging of the F.I.R. and G.D. entries. PW-4 Dr. P.N. Pandey, who had conducted the postmortem, has proved the postmortem report in which one injury was found. He stated that in his opinion the cause of death was excessive bleeding due to anti mortem injury. PW-5 has stated in his evidence that he had sealed the dead body and produced for postmortem before the doctor. The inquest report was prepared by the S.I. Ramesh Chandra Mishra on which he has also signed. PW-6 S.I. Amar Singh has stated that while he was posted as Sub-Inspector, Police Station- Sarai Khwaja, the F.I.R. vide Case Crime No.804 under Section 304 I.P.C. was lodged on a written complaint of Rajesh Agrahri against the appellant Phool Chandra. The investigation was assigned to him. He after recording the statements and inspection of the site and preparation of the site plan which is in his writing and under his signature had submitted the charge sheet under Section 304. He also stated that he had recovered the Lathi and prepared the form which is signed by the witnesses. PW-7 Dr. Rajnath Gautam, Anaesthesia Department, Moti Lal Nehru Medical College, Allahabad had stated that while he was posted as Emergency Medical Officer, District Hospital Jaunpur on 08.01.2004 had inspected the injuries of the deceased Ram Asrey at 02:53 PM in which he had suffered four injuries. He had also stated that the death could have been caused on account of injuries no.1 and 2. He proved the injury report.

13. Learned counsel for the appellant had submitted that since the presence of witnesses on the spot is doubtful and opinion of the doctor that if the deceased would have been old he could die on account of injuries sustained on the head by falling and the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. there is all possibility of injuries to have been caused due to accident while tying the goat and the appellant has been falsely implicated in the case. As discussed above, since the precense of the witnesses can not be doubtted at the time of occurrence and merely because an opinion has been given by the doctor and the appellant has stated in his statement under Section 313 I.P.C. it can not be said that injuries have been caused due to falling and due to accident while tying goat because the occurrence of incident has been proved by the two eye witnesses PW-1 and PW-2. The prosecution witnesses, who are the eye witnesses, have proved that the deceased had suffered injuries by beating of the appellant and even otherwise the appellant or any body else had not made any complaint regarding injuries to have been suffered by the deceased on account of any accident while tying the goat.

14. The deceased, after the incident, was taken to the hospital by PW-1 Rajesh Kumar Agrahri, PW-2 Sonu Gupta and Gulab. He was examined by the Emergency Medical Officer in District Hospital Jaunpur. Four injuries were recorded by the Medical Officer. (i) Lacerated wound 4cmX 1cm deep on left side skull above 5cm from the left ear pinna, bleeding. (ii) Lacerated wound 3cm X ½ cm bone deep on back of skull 8cm post to right ear pinna (iii) Abbression 2cmX1cm above the right year and (iv) abbression 3cmX2cm above the left ear pinna. The injuries (i) and (ii) were kept under observation and X-Ray was adviced. It was opined that the injuries were caused by hard and blunt object. The doubt has also been raised in regard to presence of PW-1 because in the injury report the deceased has been shown brought by Gulab. But it can not be accepted in view of evidence of PW-1 PW-2 and PW-7. No complaint was also made by any body in this regard. The appellant could also have produced Gulab in defence to prove it, but it was not done. The evidence on record is sufficient to reject the contention of learned counsel for the appellant.

15. The deceased died during treatment at 05:10 PM thereafter the F.I.R. was lodged at 06:10 PM. The postmortem of deceased was conducted on 09.01.2004. In the postmortem lacerated wound with blue mark 8cmX4cm X-skull deep on the right side of head 8cm above right ear pinna under lying skull bone fractured and bleeding was found. Blood was also found in skull. Therefore, though there was difference in the medical examination and the postmortem in regard to the injuries but it is not disputed that anti mortem injury was found on the head of the deceased and the cause of death was anti mortem injuries on the vital part. The ocular evidence also shown that the blow of lathi was on head. The argument was raised that the informant had got the injuries made after making payment to the Emergency Medical Officer. However the doctor has stated in his statement on oath that he has received the prescribed fees.

16. The trial court considered the issue and recorded a finding that the doctor conducting the postmortem with the help of sweeper may have left to see the same. This Court while examining the medical report and the postmortem report found that the lacerated wounds mentioned in the injury report are of 4cmX1cm and 3cmX ½ cm on the head and in the posmortem the injury recorded is 8cmX4cm X-skull deep on the right side of head 8 cm above the right ear pinna and underlying skull bone was fractured. Therefore there is a possibility that the injury may have been seen as one in the postmortem due to bleeding and proximity in the injuries. However this court is of the view that since some doubt has been raised in regard to the injury report and no cogent evidence could be adduced to doubt the post mortem report the post mortem report would prevail. However, both the reports have been proved by the respective doctors and no cross examination was made on it, which may doubt the reports. Therefore non collection of blood from the spot also can not be fatal because it may be a fault on the part of investigating officer. Even otherwise the medical evidence is only corroborative and ocular evidence cannot be discarded on any discrepancy of the medical evidence. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Solanki Chimanbhai Ukabhai Versus State of Gujarat; (1983) 2 SCC 174 has considered the issue and held as under in paragraph 13:-

"13. Ordinarily, the value of medical evidence is only corroborative. It proves that the injuries could have been caused in the manner alleged and nothing more. The use which the defence can make of the medical evidence is to prove that the injuries could not possibly have been caused in the manner alleged and thereby discredit the eye-witnesses. Unless, however the medical evidence in its turn goes so far that it completely rules out all possibilities whatsoever of injuries taking place in the manner alleged by eyewitnesses, the testimony of the eye-witnesses cannot be thrown out on the ground of alleged inconsistency between it and the medical evidence."

17. Doubt is also raised by the learned counsel for the appellant regarding the recovery on the ground that Lathi was not produced before the Court. But it can not be a ground for doubting the recovery because the Lathi was recovered, the description of which was made in the recovery memo dated 08.01.2004. Even otherwise the witnesses have proved that the appellant had beaten the deceased by the Lathi and medical and postmortem also indicate that the injuries were caused by the hard and blunt object.

18. The issue raised regarding place of arrest is also not tenable because the place of arrest is not material in view of proof of case beyond doubt.

19. This is a case in which though any enmity between the deceased and the appellant could not be proved but it is a case of an incident occurred in broad day light in which the deceased had suffered serious injury on account of which he succumbed to death. Since the motive could not be proved therefore it may be a case in which the intention to kill may not be there. If the motive and intention to kill is not proved then it is required to be considered as to whether the offence would fall under the category of murder or not otherwise it may be a case of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Sections 299, 300 and 304 I.P.C. relevant for the purpose are extracted below:-

"299. Culpable homicide.--Whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing death, or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death, commits the offence of culpable homicide.

300. Murder.--Except in the cases hereinafter excepted, culpable homicide is murder, if the act by which the death is caused is done with the intention of causing death, or--

2ndly.--If it is done with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused, or--*

3rdly.--If it is done with the intention of causing bodily injury to any person and the bodily injury intended to be inflicted is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, or--*

4thly.--If the person committing the act knows that it is so imminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause death, or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and commits such act without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as aforesaid.*

Exception 1.--When culpable homicide is not murder.--Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, whilst deprived of the power of self-control by grave and sudden provocation, causes the death of the person who gave the provocation or causes the death of any other person by mistake or accident.*

The above exception is subject to the following provisos:--

First.--That the provocation is not sought or voluntarily provoked by the offender as an excuse for killing or doing harm to any person.*

Secondly.--That the provocation is not given by anything done in obedience to the law, or by a public servant in the lawful exercise of the powers of such public servant.*

Thirdly.--That the provocation is not given by anything done in the lawful exercise of the right of private defence.*

Explanation.--Whether the provocation was grave and sudden enough to prevent the offence from amounting to murder is a question of fact.*

Exception 2.--Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender in the exercise* in good faith of the right of private defence of person or property, exceeds the power given to him by law and causes the death of the person against whom he is exercising such right of defence without premeditation, and without any intention of doing more harm than is necessary for the purpose of such defence.

Exception 3.--Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, being a public servant or aiding a public servant acting for the advancement of public justice, exceeds the powers given to him by law, and causes death by doing an act which he, in good faith, believes to be lawful and necessary for the due discharge of his duty as such public servant and without ill-will towards the person whose death is caused.

Exception 4.--Culpable homicide is not murder if it is committed without premeditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel and without the offender's having taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner.

Exception 5.--Culpable homicide is not murder when the person whose death is caused, being above the age of eighteen years, suffers death or takes the risk of death with his own consent.

304. Punishment for culpable homicide not amounting to murder.-- Whoever commits culpable homicide not amounting to murder, shall be punished with 1 [imprisonment for life], or imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine, if the act by which the death is caused is done with the intention of causing death, or of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death; or with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, or with fine, or with both, if the act is done with the knowledge that it is likely to cause death, but without any intention to cause death, or to cause such bodily injury as is likely to cause death.

20. In view of above to bring a case under Section 300 firstly it must be established that a bodily injury is present; secondly the nature of the injury must be proved and thirdly it must be proved that there was an intention to inflict that particular bodily injury and it was not accidental or unintentional or that some other kind of injury was intended and fourthly it must be proved that injury inflicted on the deceased is sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature. If all these eliments are established by the prosecution the offence would be murder under Section 300 I.P.C.

21. The Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the issue in the case of Virsa Singh Vs. The State of Punjab; Manu/SC/0041/1958 (AIR 1958 SC 465) and held as under in paragraph 22 to 30:-

22. First, it must establish, quite objectively, that a bodily injury is present;

23. Secondly, the nature of the injury must be proved; These are purely objective investigations.

24. Thirdly, it must be proved that there was an intention to inflict that particular bodily injury, that is to say, that it was not accidental or unintentional, or that some other kind of injury was intended.

25. Once these three elements are proved to be present, the enquiry proceeds further and,

26. Fourthly, it must be proved that the injury of the type just described made up of the three elements set out above is sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature. This part of the enquiry is purely objective and inferential and has nothing to do with the intention of the offender.

27. Once these four elements are established by the prosecution (and, of course, the burden is on the prosecution throughout) the offence is murder under s. 300, 3rdly. It does not matter that there was no intention to cause death. It does not matter that there was Do intention even to cause an injury of a kind that is sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature (not that there is any real distinction between the two). It does not even matter that there is no knowledge that an act of that kind will be likely to cause death. Once the intention to cause the bodily injury actually found to be present is proved, the rest of the enquiry is purely objective and the only question is whether, as a matter of purely objective inference, the injury is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death.

No one has a licence to run around inflicting injuries that are sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature and claim that they are not guilty of murder. If they inflict injuries of that kind, they must face the consequences; and they can only escape if it can be shown, or reasonably deduced that the injury was accidental or otherwise unintentional.

28. We were referred to a decision of Lord Goddard in R v. Steane (1) where the learned Chief Justice says that where a particular intent must be laid and charged, that particular intent must be proved. Of course it must, and of course it must be proved by the prosecution. The only question here is, what is the extent and nature of the intent that s. 300 3rdly requires, and how is it to be proved ?

29. The learned counsel for the appellant next relied on a passage where the learned Chief Justice says that:

"if, on the totality of the evidence, there is room for more than one view as to the intent of the prisoner, the jury should be directed that it is for the prosecution to prove the intent to the jury's satisfaction, and if, on a review of the whole evidence, they either think that the intent did not exist or they are left in doubt as to the intent, the prisoner is entitled to be acquitted."

30. We agree that that is also the law in India. But so is this. We quote a few sentences earlier from the same learned judgment:

"No doubt, if the prosecution prove an act the natural consequences of which would be a certain result and no evidence or explanation is given, then a jury may, on a proper direction, find that the prisoner is guilty of doing the act with the intent alleged."

22. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Pulicherla Nagarjun Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh; (2006) 11 SCC 444 observed as to what is to be considered for deciding a case as to whether it falls under Section 302 or 304 Part-I or 304 Part-II and also the intention to cause death can be gathered from a combination of circumstances. The relevant paragraph-18 is extracted below:-

"18. Therefore, the court should proceed to decide the pivotal question of intention, with care and caution, as that will decide whether the case falls under Section 302 or 304 Part I or 304 Part II. Many petty or insignificant matters # plucking of a fruit, straying of a cattle, quarrel of children, utterance of a rude word or even an objectionable glance, may lead to altercations and group clashes culminating in deaths. Usual motives like revenge, greed, jealousy or suspicion may be totally absent in such cases. There may be no intention. There may be no pre-meditation. In fact, there may not even be criminality. At the other end of the spectrum, there may be cases of murder where the accused attempts to avoid the penalty for murder by attempting to put forth a case that there was no intention to cause death. It is for the courts to ensure that the cases of murder punishable under section 302, are not converted into offences punishable under section 304 Part I/II, or cases of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, are treated as murder punishable under section 302.

The intention to cause death can be gathered generally from a combination of a few or several of the following, among other, circumstances : (i) nature of the weapon used; (ii) whether the weapon was carried by the accused or was picked up from the spot; (iii) whether the blow is aimed at a vital part of the body; (iv) the amount of force employed in causing injury; (v) whether the act was in the course of sudden quarrel or sudden fight or free for all fight; (vi) whether the incident occurs by chance or whether there was any pre- meditation; (vii) whether there was any prior enmity or whether the deceased was a stranger; (viii) whether there was any grave and sudden provocation, and if so, the cause for such provocation; (ix) whether it was in the heat of passion; (x) whether the person inflicting the injury has taken undue advantage or has acted in a cruel and unusual manner; (xi) whether the accused dealt a single blow or several blows. The above list of circumstances is, of course, not exhaustive and there may be several other special circumstances with reference to individual cases which may throw light on the question of intention. Be that as it may."

23. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Suresh Chandra Bahri Vs. State of Bihar and Others; MANU/SC/0500/1994 has held that sometimes motive plays an important role and becomes a compelling force to commit a crime and therefore motive behind the crime is a relevant factor for which evidence may be adduced. However it further noticed that in a case where there is clear proof of motive for the commission of the crime it affords added support to the finding of the court that the accused was guilty of the offence charged with. But the absence of proof of motive does not render the evidence bearing on the guilt of the accused nonetheless untrustworthy or unreliable because most often it is only the perpetrator of the crime alone who knows as to what circumstances prompted him to a certain course of action leading to the commission of the crime. Therefore motive may only be a relevant factor to form an opinion as to whether in a given circumstances there was an intention to kill on account of which the case may fall under Section 302.

24. In the present case the injuries were inflicted by a blow of Lathi which can not be said to be a deadly weapon. However if the injuries inflicted on the vital part it may cause death. Therefore in such circumstance if the motive and intention to kill is not proved the case may fall under Section 304-I or 304-II. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Joseph Vs. State of Kerala; AIR 1994 SC 34 has accepted the contention of the appellant that the Lathi used as a weapon is not a deadly weapon. In the said case the occurrence was a result of trivial incident and the accused dealt two blows on the head with a Lathi. Therefore it was held that it can not be said that he intended to cause injury which is sufficient, at the most it can be said that by inflicting such injuries he has knowledge that he was likely to cause a death and in such circumstance the offence committed by him will be culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

25. In the present case though four injuries have been referred in the medical examination held after the incident but in the posmortem conducted on the body of the deceased only one injury was found on the back of head of the deceased i.e. on the vital part. The deceased had died on account of the said anti mortem injury. Therefore even if it is a case of single blow of Lathi and the appellant knowingly made a single blow that it was likely to cause death it would be a culpable homicide not amounting to murder which will fall under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C. because the intention to cause death could not be proved.

26. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Gurmukh Singh Vs. State of Haryana; (2009) 15 SC 635 held that the appellant therein on the spur of the moment inflicted a single lathi blow and the other accused have not indulged in any overt act. There was no intention or pre-meditation in the mind of the appellant to inflict such injuries to the deceased as were likely to cause death in the ordinary course of nature. Similar is the position in the present case and if the appellant had intention to kill he must have made repeated blows on the vital part. The age of the appellant at the time of incident was about 22 years of age as recorded in the arrest memo.

27. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Gurmail Singh and Others Vs. State of Punjab; (1982) 3 SCC 185 in which the accused no.1 was aged about 19 years shown in the judgment held that having regard to all the circumstances and the facts found by the High Court, it may be said that accused no.1 is shown to have committed an offence under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C.

28. In view of above and considering the over all facts and circumstances of the case it is apparent that the appellant who was aged about 22 years of age at the time of alleged incident made one or two blow of Lathi on the deceased aged about 60 years. Though it was on a vital part but it was without intention to kill because it could not be proved. Though it may be with the knowlodge that it is likely to cause death. Therefore this Court is of the view that the offence would fall under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C. The learned trial court also has awarded the punishment of life imprisonment only under Section 302 I.P.C. whereas the punishment for murder provided under Section 302 is with death or imprisonment for life and shall also be liable to fine therefore only life imprisonment could not have been awarded under Section 302 IPC. In the present case the F.I.R. was lodged under Section 304 and the charge sheet was also filed under Section 304 but since charge was framed under Section 302 therefore the same has been held to be proved and the punishment has been awarded under Section 302 which is not in accordance with the provision. Therefore, it appears that the court was intending to award punishment under Section 304 but awarded the punishment under Section 302 I.P.C. Accordingly, this Court is of the view that the judgment and order passed by the learned trial court is liable to be modified and punishment awarded to the appellant under Section 302 IPC is liable to be converted under Section 304 Part-II.

29. The appeal is, accordingly, partly allowed. The judgment and order dated 12.01.2006 awarding life imprisonment under Section 302 IPC is modified and the appellant is sentenced with the imprisonment of 10 years and a fine of Rs.20,000/- is imposed under Section 304 Part-II because the deceased was aged about 60 years when he was done to death by the appellant. In case the fine is not deposited the appellant will have to serve six moths more in jail. On completion of the aforesaid punishment and in case the appellant is not wanted in any case he shall be released forthwith.

30. Before parting we record appreciation for the assistance rendered by Shri Manu Sharma, Amicus Curiae and quantify the fees as Rs.20,000/- which shall be paid to him forthwith.

31. The copy of this order shall be communicated to the Jail Superintendent of concerned Jail forthwith for communication to the appellant and necessary compliance.

B. Where there is a contradiction between medical evidence and ocular evidence can be crystallised to the effect that though the ocular testimony of a witness has greater evidentiary value vis-vis medical evidence, when medical evidence makes the ocular testimony improbable, that becomes a relevant factor in the process of the evaluation of evidence. However, where the medical evidence goes so far that it completely rules out all possibility of the ocular evidence being true, the ocular evidence may be disbelieved.(Para 21 to 24)

1. We have heard Sri Manoj Kumar Yadav, holding brief of Ms. Manju Yadav, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Pankaj Saxena, learned A.G.A., for the State.

2. This appeal is against the judgment and order dated 19.6.1991 passed by VIth Additional Sessions Judge, Bijnor in Sessions Trial No. 445 of 1990 convicting the appellant under Section 302 I.P.C. and sentencing him to imprisonment for life.

3. The prosecution case, as per the first information report (Ex. Ka-1) which has been lodged on oral information provided by the father of the deceased, namely, Harbansh Singh (PW-1), is that deceased Arjun Singh was his younger son. The informant had partitioned his property as per which, his elder son i.e. the accused- appellant Balvinder Singh got equal share as provided to the deceased Arjun Singh, but he was not happy with the share he got and therefore, he bore enmity with the deceased Arjun Singh. It is alleged that on the date of incident i.e. 1.6.1990, at about 8.00 am, the informant (PW-1) went with his daughter Jasveer Kaur (PW-3) to the field where he noticed his help Harphool (not examined) in a petrified state. Immediately thereafter, the informant noticed that the accused-appellant was assaulting the deceased with an axe. It is alleged that as the informant and his daughter raised an alarm, after inflicting several blows on the neck and other parts of the body of the deceased, the accused appellant ran away whereas the deceased fell and died on the spot.

4. The first information report was lodged at 12.15 hours on 1.6.1990 at P.S. Rehad, District Bijnor, which was about 20 km away from the spot, giving rise to Case No.39 of 1990. Upon registration of the first information report, inquest was conducted at the spot by about 15.30 hours. Autopsy of the body was conducted by PW-2 Dr. H.P. Agrawal on 2.6.1990 at about 11.00 a.m. and autopsy report (Ext.Ka.2) describes ante mortem injuries as follows:-

(i) Incised wound 25 cm x 15 cm x cavity deep on back of head and neck extending from one ear to another ear. Brain matter is coming out. All the structures underneath injuries are exposed. Second, third cervical vertebrae and occipital bone are cut;

(ii) Incised wound 2½ cm x 1 cm x 6 cm on right side face 3 cm below the right ear. On exposure, right side mandible cut;

(iv) Incised wound 4 cm x 1 cm x muscle deep on front of right thigh 5 cm above the right knee;

(v) Incised wound 6 cm x 2 cm x muscle on antero lateral aspect of left thigh 10 cm above left knee;

(vi) Abrasion 3 cm x 2 cm on front of left thigh in middle;

(vii) Incised wound 1 cm x ½ cm x muscle deep on lateral aspect of left little toe.

Internal examination disclosed stomach empty, small intestine containing small amount of pasty material and large intestine having faecal matter and gases.

Opinion:- Cause of death is as a result of "shock and haemorrhage" due to head injury.

Time of death:- About one day before.

5. After conducting the investigation, charge sheet (Ext.Ka.10) was submitted by PW-5 K.P. Dixit. On which, after taking cognisance, the case was committed to the court of Session where, on 5.2.1991, charge of an offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C. was framed against the accused-appellant. During the course of trial, the prosecution examined five witnesses. Their testimony, in brief, is as follows:-

6. PW-1 Harbansh Singh is the father of the deceased as well as of the accused-appellant. He stated that his first wife died 2-2½ months after the birth of the accused-appellant, whereafter he married another lady and out of second wedlock he has two sons, namely, Arjun Singh (the deceased), Kartar Singh, and a daughter, namely, Jasveer Kaur (PW-3). He stated that he divided his property into four parts giving 4 acres each to his three sons and kept 4 acre of land for himself. He stated that on account of above partition, the accused-appellant was not happy as he wanted half share of the land. On account of this, he had bad relations with the deceased. He stated that efforts were made to have a settlement but the settlement was deferred to await the marriage of PW-1's daughter, namely, PW-3, with a promise that the remaining land would be divided thereafter. PW-1 stated that despite the above assurance, the accused-appellant was not happy. He stated that his third son, namely, Kartar Singh is serving outside the district. In respect of the incident, PW-1 stated that on 1.6.1990 at about 8.00 a.m. when the deceased was ploughing the field, he and his daughter (PW-3) went to the field to serve food to the deceased, when they reached there, he noticed Harphool in a petrified state. There he noticed that Balwinder Singh (the accused-appellant), who had an axe (Kulhari), was inflicting blows on the deceased. When they challenged the accused, after inflicting the blows, he ran away. He stated that he witnessed the entire incident. He stated that thereafter he went and lodged the first information report. He proved the Chik FIR placed before him which was marked as Ext.Ka.1.

7. In his cross-examination, he stated that when his first wife died, accused Balwinder Singh was 2-2½ years old. At present Balwinder Singh would be aged about 40 years. He stated that Balwinder

Singh was married 4-5 years before and he has two daughters. He stated that two years ago, Balwinder Singh separated and started residing separately with his family. One year prior to the incident, he had partitioned the property and that partition had taken place in a Panchayat. He stated that the partition was an oral partition and there was no written record of it. He stated that the place of occurrence is about ½ to ¾ miles south to his residence. That field is of 20 Bigha area. The said field is exclusively in the name of Arjun Singh (the deceased). West to the plot there is 'Rasta' and next to the 'Rasta' there is a 'Talab'. He stated that at the time of incident there was no crop standing. When he was about 100 paces away from the spot, he had noticed Balwinder Singh assaulting the deceased but he did not run away seeing the informant. He stated that Balwinder Singh must have taken 4-5 minutes to kill the deceased. He admitted that his statement was recorded before the Magistrate. When confronted with his statement made before the Magistrate, PW-1 stated that what he had stated before the Magistrate was that when they reached near the field, Balwinder Singh had spotted him and had escaped towards south but had not stated that he had escaped while they were away from the field. He stated that he does not know as to how it was written that before he could reach the field, Balwinder Singh had escaped. After stating as above, PW-1 gave graphic description of the blows by stating that the first blow was inflicted on the neck, thereafter on the face and thereafter again on the neck and when the deceased fell, blows were inflicted on his leg. He described the axe as one which is used to cut the wood. He stated that the axe had 5 inch wide blade and that blade was fixed on a wood piece about a yard long. He stated that the first infliction was from the front on neck and face thereafter the infliction was on the leg. On being confronted with his statement in the first information report that he had not mentioned in the report that he had gone to the field to serve food, he stated that might have been left out in the report. On being further cross-examined, he stated that his second wife is alive. He denied the suggestion that the deceased was killed in the darkness of the night by some unknown person and because of his second wife, he has implicated the accused-appellant.

8. PW-2 Dr. H.P. Agrawal, who is the autopsy surgeon, proved the autopsy report and proved the injuries as have been noticed above. The autopsy report was marked as Ext.Ka.2 on his deposition. The doctor in his testimony accepted the possibility of death to have occurred at about 8.00 a.m. on 1.6.1990. He was recalled at the request of the prosecution. On recall, he stated that the incised wound found on the body of the deceased could be a result of infliction of blows with Kulhari and that the abrasions noticed could be on account of friction from hard object. He again reiterated that death as a consequence of those injuries was possible to have occurred on or about 8.00 a.m. of 1.6.1990. In his cross-examination by the defence, he stated that there could be a margin of 6 hours in the estimated time of death and, therefore, it is possible that the death might have occurred between 4 and 5 a.m. in the morning of that day. He specifically stated that stomach was empty and not even liquid was present. Large intestine contained faecal matter. In respect of injury no.1, which was 25 cm x 15 cm in dimension, he stated that such an injury could be inflicted if the blade of axe/Kulhari is 10 inch wide. In respect of abrasions found on the body of the deceased, he admitted the possibility of such abrasions being a result of friction from some hard blunt object.

9. PW-3 Jasveer Kaur is the sister of the deceased and step-sister of the accused-appellant. She reiterated what was stated by PW-1 in respect of the incident and about infliction of Kulhari blows by the accused-appellant on the deceased. She also stated that whereabouts of Harphool are not known as he has run away due to fear of the in-laws of the accused-appellant. In her cross-examination, she stated that the deceased had left the house to go to the field at about 6 or quarter to 6 a.m. and at that time she had served tea to the deceased and other than tea he had taken nothing. She stated that she is not aware whether the deceased had attended to nature's call before going to the field. She stated that she had not served any snacks with tea to the deceased. She stated that on that day she had prepared vegetable and Roti to serve the deceased and she carried the same in a box with her father (PW-1) to the field. In respect of the partition between the brothers, she stated that partition had taken place about 1-1½ years before the incident and that the place of occurrence was the field of the deceased (Arjun Singh). She stated that she was not aware till the marriage of Balwinder Singh (the accused-appellant) that Balwinder was her step-brother. She came to know about it only 6-7 months after the marriage of the accused-appellant. She stated that she came to know about the relationship only when some dispute started in respect of partition of the land, whereafter she came to understand that she happens to be accused-appellant's step-sister. She stated that after partition of the land, Balwinder Singh (the accused-appellant) started living separately and in her (PW-3's) house, her father, mother and deceased Arjun Singh used to reside. She stated that prior to the incident, there was no fight between the brothers and that there was never a report in respect of any incident between them but whether Balwinder Singh (the accused-appellant) was annoyed with the partition or not, she is not aware of, because he never said anything to her. She stated that on the day of incident, Arjun Singh had taken the plough (Hal) to the field and had also taken a stick for herding the bullocks. Harphool had also gone with Arjun Singh. She stated that the field was being ploughed for the last 1-2 days. She specifically stated that when she reached the field, Arjun Singh was not lying on the field but she saw both Arjun Singh and Balwinder Singh standing over there and Balwinder Singh was assaulting Arjun Singh with axe/Kulhari. At that time, Arjun Sigh had nothing to defend. On being specifically questioned as to whether Arjun Singh had died before she and her father arrived at the spot, PW-3 stated that when she reached near Arjun Singh, by that time Arjun Singh had fallen and when she tried to shake him, she found him dead. On being confronted with her previous statement before the Magistrate wherein she had stated that Arjun Singh was dead before she reached the spot, she stated that the aforesaid statement is correct because when she reached near the body of Arjun Singh and tried to shake his head, she found that he was dead. She stated that her father was ahead of her. She clarified that when she first saw Arjun Singh, he was standing and by the time she could reach the spot, he was lying. She also stated that when Balwinder Singh had inflicted Kulhari blows at Arjun Singh, he was standing in front of Arjun Singh. On being specifically questioned from where she saw the infliction of Kulhari blows on the leg region of the deceased, she stated that she saw the entire incident while she was running towards the spot seeing that Balwinder Singh was inflicting axe blows on Arjun Singh. She stated that while running she did not specifically notice where Kulhari blows were inflicted, but she did scream that his brother should not be assaulted. She stated that she did not specifically notice whether her step-brother Balwinder Singh had inflicted blows on the leg of Arjun Singh but she did notice that her brother Balwinder Singh was inflicting injuries to Arjun Singh with the axe/Kulhari. She specifically stated that the injuries were inflicted from the sharp side of the axe. At this stage the witness started weeping. She denied the suggestion that in the darkness of the night some unknown person killed the deceased, of which information was received in the morning and upon which they went to the spot. She also denied the suggestion that she is telling lies because she is the step-sister of the deceased.

10. PW-4 Chhatra Singh is the constable who carried the body of the deceased after inquest for autopsy. He proved that the body was carried to the mortuary in a sealed condition. He stated that body had to be carried to Bijnor which is 100 Km away from the spot, therefore they reached next morning.

11. PW-5 K.P. Dixit is the Investigating Officer of the case. He stated that after registration of the case, he took over its investigation. The inquest was conducted by him. He proved that he had taken blood-stained and plain earth from the spot, of which seizure memo was exhibited as Ext.Ka.3. He stated that site plan was prepared by him after inspection and on the instructions of the informant. The site plan was exhibited as Ext.Ka.4. He stated that thereafter he recorded the statement of the witnesses. He proved the inquest report, photo lash, challan lash, letter to C.M.O. and letter to R.I. On his statement, those documents were exhibited as Ext.Ka.5 to Ext.Ka.9. He stated that on 10.6.1990 he arrested the accused. On 7.7.1990 he got the statement of the informant and Jasveer Kaur recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. He stated that after completing the investigation, on 10.7.1990 he submitted charge-sheet which was marked as Ext.Ka.10. He also proved the Chik F.I.R. and the G.D. Entry of the FIR by recognising the signature of the clerk, namely, constable Jaipal Singh. The Chik F.I.R. was exhibited as Ext.Ka.1 and G.D. Entry thereof was exhibited as Ext.Ka.11. In his cross-examination, he stated that he arrived at the spot by about 12.00 noon. The place of occurrence is about 20 Km from the police station and the 'Rasta' is kaccha. He used a cycle to cover the distance and the informant Harbansh Singh and witness Harphool were also on their respective cycles with him. He stated that the informant had given the information at the police station and he had arrived at the spot with them on cycle. He stated that none of the witnesses had any injuries on their body. He stated that adjoining the field where the occurrence took place, there was field of Mahendra Singh and west to that field there was a 'Rasta' and thereafter there were fields of Ramesh, etc. He stated that at the spot he did not notice any lathi, danda, panni or any weapon but he did notice a plough (Hal) though there were no bullocks. He also stated that at the spot he did not notice any utensil. He stated that there was a large gathering at the spot and had there been any utensil, the same might have been removed. He clarified his earlier statement by stating that he arrived at the spot at 3-3.15 p.m.

12. The incriminating material appearing in the prosecution evidence were put to the accused-appellant while recording his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The accused-appellant stated that he has been falsely implicated on account of enmity. He also stated that on account of partition there was no animosity and that he was happy with the partition. The accused-appellant, however, did not examine any witness in defence.

13. The trial Court upon finding that it was a day time incident and there were two eye witnesses to support the prosecution case and their account found corroboration in the medical evidence, convicted the appellant, as above.

14. Questioning the judgment and order of the trial Court, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that there is no strong motive proved by the prosecution for the crime inasmuch as the partition had already taken place about 1-1½ years before the incident and no untoward incident between the two step-brothers or between the accused-appellant or his father was ever reported. The incident occurred in the field surrounding which there was no Abadi. The main eye witness of the incident was Harphool, who has not been examined. The first information report would indicate that the witnesses (PW-1 and PW-3) arrived at the spot after the deceased was killed and therefore, it is an incident which occurred before PW-1 and PW-3 could reach the spot and as the prosecution has suppressed the main witness, namely, Harphool, who was the help of the deceased, an adverse inference is to be drawn against the prosecution. It has also been pointed out that the deceased was found empty stomach whereas the statement of PW-3 would indicate that she had served tea to the deceased about 2 hours before. The doctor (PW-2) specifically stated that neither there was any food material nor any liquid in the stomach of the deceased which would suggest that the prosecution story is contrived and because the accused-appellant is the step-brother of PW-3 and his father was under influence of his second wife i.e. step-mother, who was alive, the accused-appellant has been falsely implicated. It has been submitted that the axe has not been recovered and that according to the ocular account, the blade of the axe had a width of 5 inch which would under no circumstances inflict the kind of injury as was noticed in the shape of injury no.1 recited in the autopsy report.

15. Learned counsel for the appellant also invited our attention to the recital in the autopsy report that the large intestine was loaded with faecal matter to demonstrate that the deceased had not attended to nature's call. It was argued that it is a common practice of villagers to defecate early morning. Presence of faecal matter would suggest that incident occurred in the night, which is a possibility accepted by the doctor as, according to him, death could have also occurred in the wee hours, that is to say, at 4.30 a.m.

16. In a nutshell, the submission of the learned counsel for the appellant is that the witnesses examined were inimical to the appellant; the ocular account suggests that PW-1 and PW-3 either witnessed the incident from a distance or they arrived at the spot when the deceased was already dead; and that the best evidence, which could have been through Harphool, has been withheld, as a consequence whereof, the appellant is entitled to the benefit of doubt. It is submitted that the trial Court has not tested the evidence on the touch stone of probabilities and has accepted the prosecution story as gospel truth, therefore its judgment be set aside.

17. Per contra, learned A.G.A. submitted that it is a case where there is no suggestion to PW-2 or to any of the witnesses in respect of ante timing of the first information report. The informant (PW-1) is the natural father of the deceased as well as of the accused-appellant. He has fully supported the prosecution case. The step-sister of the accused-appellant, namely, Jasveer Kaur (PW-3), has equally supported the prosecution case and she has also specifically disclosed that the accused and she were brought up as brother and sister and they could never feel that they were step brother and sister. It was only after the marriage of the accused-appellant, she could sense that the accused-appellant was born of a different mother. All of this would suggest that witness PW-3 had no animosity with the accused-appellant. She deposed what she actually witnessed therefore, there is no good reason to disbelieve her. Non-examination of Harphool would not be fatal to the case as he was a servant and his whereabouts were not known as after the incident he had escaped due to fear of the in-laws of the accused-appellant. In respect of presence of faecal matter in the large intestine of the deceased, learned AGA submitted that it is not a determining factor to ascertain whether the incident occurred in the wee hours of the morning as much would depend on the habit of a person as also whether there has been complete evacuation during defecation or not. In respect of the conflict of medical evidence with ocular account in respect of the dimension of neck injury qua the dimension of the axe blade, it was submitted that if two blows are inflicted on or about the same neck line, it is possible that it may give appearance of a single incised wound of a larger dimension. It was submitted that otherwise there is no such conflict which may render the ocular account completely unacceptable. It has also been pointed out by learned AGA that the defence has not alleged that the deceased had other enemies also. There is no suggestion to the prosecution witnesses that the incident occurred in some other manner at some other place. Learned A.G.A. concluded by submitting that this is a case of day time occurrence, where the first information report was prompt, considering the distance and the mode of transport available; there are eye witnesses of the incident; and their testimony is in sync with the medical evidence therefore, the trial Court was justified in recording the conviction. He thus prayed that the appeal be dismissed.

18. Having considered the rival submissions we find that there is no dispute in respect of the spot, which is the field of the deceased i.e. the son of PW-1. The prosecution witnesses of the incident are father (PW-1) and sister (PW-3) of the deceased. They have disclosed good reason for their presence at the spot at the time of incident. According to PW-3, the deceased had gone to the field to plough the same early morning at about 6.00 a.m. While going to the field he had taken only tea served by PW-3 therefore, it is quite natural for PW-3, the sister of the deceased, to take food for the deceased who was working at the field. Since PW-3 is a girl, it is quite natural that her father, who was residing with her, would accompany her to the field, which was at a distance of over half a mile from the village Abadi. In these circumstances, the presence of PW-1 and PW-3 at the spot is not improbable or unnatural. Insofar as the submission that the eye witnesses reached the spot after the incident had occurred is concerned, nothing has come out, during cross-examination, which may discredit their statement with regard to they having arrived at the spot at the time of incident. In fact, PW-1 has given a graphic description of the manner in which the blows were inflicted. According to PW-3, PW-1 was ahead and PW-3 was following PW-1 and therefore, PW-1 witnessed more than what PW-3 could. Moreover, PW-3 being a girl might be in a state of shock at the time when she witnessed the incident and therefore, she did not specifically notice as to how many, and where, injuries were inflicted on her brother. Her testimony in these circumstances cannot be discredited merely because she could not specifically describe the number and site of injuries inflicted. Perhaps it could be that from some distance she noticed her two brothers standing face to face and one inflicting blows on the other while she was running and screaming to stop infliction of blows and by the time she arrived at the spot, her brother (the deceased) had fallen. There appears truth in her statement and nothing could be elicited from her cross examination to doubt her deposition.

19. In respect of the stomach of the deceased being empty despite consumption of tea, as alleged by PW-3, we do not find it to be a circumstance which may discredit the testimony of PW-3 because it is quite possible that if the tea had more water than milk, it might pass through the stomach and enter the small intestine quicker than usual. Moreover, the defence has not cross examined the autopsy surgeon in respect of possibility of tea remaining in the stomach after two hours of its consumption. Noticeably, pasty material was noticed in the small intestine at the time of autopsy. Accordingly, we do not find the circumstance that the stomach contents were nil sufficient to raise a doubt in respect of the eye witness account rendered by PW-3.

20. Insofar as the presence of incised wound of the dimension of 25 cm x 15 cm, recited by way of injury no.1 in the autopsy report, is concerned, no doubt, PW-1, disclosed the width of blade of axe as 5 inch only but, admittedly, the axe has not been recovered therefore, what was the actual width of the blade is just an estimate may be by guess-work or by imagination. Hence nothing much turns on that. Further, the trial court has recorded good reasons for the same by stating that it is quite possible that on account of multiple blows on or about the same area, an incised wound of a larger dimension may appear than the dimension of the blade. Noticeably, there is ocular account in respect of infliction of two blows on the neck of the deceased; one blow on the face and others on leg. This ocular evidence is largely corroborated by the medical evidence i.e. the autopsy report.

21. At this stage, we may notice few decisions of the Supreme Court on the issue as to when a conflict between medical evidence and ocular account would render the ocular account untrustworthy and unreliable. In Thaman Kumar vs. State of Union Territory of Chandigarh, (2003) 6 SCC 380, in paragraph 16, it was observed as follows:

"16. The conflict between oral testimony and medical evidence can be of varied dimensions and shapes. There may be a case where there is total absence of injuries which are normally caused by a particular weapon. There is another category where though the injuries found on the victim are of the type which are possible by the weapon of assault, but the size and dimension of the injuries do not exactly tally with the size and dimension of the weapon. The third category can be where the injuries found on the victim are such which are normally caused by the weapon of assault but they are not found on that portion of the body where they are deposed to have been caused by the eye-witnesses. The same kind of inference cannot be drawn in the three categories of apparent conflict in oral and medical evidence enumerated above. In the first category it may legitimately be inferred that the oral evidence regarding assault having been made from a particular weapon is not truthful. However, in the second and third category no such inference can straightway be drawn. The manner and method of assault, the position of the victim, the resistance offered by him, the opportunity available to the witnesses to see the occurrence like their distance, presence of light and many other similar factors will have to be taken into consideration in judging the reliability of ocular testimony.

22. In Anil Rai vs. State of Bihar (2001) 7 SCC 318, view taken earlier, in Punjab Singh vs. State of Haryana, 1984 Supp SCC 233, that, (1) if direct evidence is satisfactory and reliable, the same cannot be rejected on hypothetical medical evidence, and (2) if medical evidence when properly read shows two alternative possibilities but not any inconsistency, the one consistent with the reliable and satisfactory statements of the eye witness has to be accepted, was affirmed. Similarly, in Abdul Sayeed vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, (2010) 10 SCC 259, the legal position, in this regard, has been crystallised, in paragraph 39 of the judgment, as follows:

"39. Thus, the position of law in cases where there is a contradiction between medical evidence and ocular evidence can be crystallised to the effect that though the ocular testimony of a witness has greater evidentiary value vis--vis medical evidence, when medical evidence makes the ocular testimony improbable, that becomes a relevant factor in the process of the evaluation of evidence. However, where the medical evidence goes so far that it completely rules out all possibility of the ocular evidence being true, the ocular evidence may be disbelieved."

23. The above view has been affirmed in Central Bureau of Investigation and Another vs. Mohd. Parvez Abdul Kayyum and others, (2019) 12 SCC 1.

24. In the light of the law noticed above, what we have to examine is whether the medical evidence goes so far that it completely rules out all possibility of the ocular evidence being true. In our view, the medical evidence does not rule out infliction of blows with Kulhari (axe) as is the ocular account. In so far as dimension of the injury found on the neck (i.e. injury no.1 recited in the autopsy report) is concerned, that is not a determinative factor to discredit the ocular account completely for the following reasons: (a) that the dimension of the blade of an axe mentioned in the ocular account i.e. 5 inch may be a result of guess-work because that axe has not been recovered; (b) that the increase in dimension may be a result of the second blow on the same area (neck line) as is the ocular account; and (c) the doctor has admitted the possibility of that wound being a consequence of infliction of blow from an axe.

25. As we find the ocular account rendered by PW-1 and PW-3 reliable and not inconsistent with medical evidence; and that the first information report was promptly lodged considering the distance and the mode of transport available, we do not find any error in the judgment and order of conviction recorded by the trial court. More so, when it is a case where a natural father and step sister of the accused, with whom no ill-will could be demonstrated, have deposed against the accused-appellant. Keeping in mind that accused-appellant's natural father and step-sister (who was brought up as real sister of the accused-appellant) have deposed against him and have proved the charge, we do not wish to draw an adverse inference for non-production of Harphool who is stated to have left the employment due to threat extended by the in-laws of the accused-appellant as stated by PW-3. We are therefore of the considered view that the prosecution has succeeded in proving its case against the appellant beyond reasonable doubt.

26. For the reasons above, the judgment and order of the trial Court is affirmed. The appeal is dismissed.

27. The appellant is reported to be on bail. His bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged. He shall surrender before the court concerned forthwith from where he shall be sent to jail to serve the sentence awarded by the trial court.

28. Let a copy of this order be sent to the trial court along with the record for information and compliance.

1. These two appeals question the judgment and order dated 07.07.1993 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (E.C. Act), Etawah in Sessions Trial No. 11 of 1992 convicting Arvind Kumar (appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 1300 of 1993), under Section 302 I.P.C., and Akhilesh @ Pappu (appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 1217 of 1993), under Section 302 read with Section 34 I.P.C., and sentencing them to imprisonment for life. As the two appeals arise from a common judgment and order, they are being decided by a common judgment and order.

INTRODUCTORY FACTS

2. On a written report (Exb. Ka-1), scribed by Dev Narayan Mishra (not examined), signed by Smt. Sobha Awasthi (PW-1), first information report (FIR) was registered at P.S. Auraiya, District Etawah on 21.08.1991 at 7.45 am, vide GD No. 15 (Exb. Ka-5) of which Chik FIR (Exb. Ka-4) was made/ prepared by Srinarayan Awasthi (PW-6). It is alleged in the FIR that the accused-Arvind Kumar (appellant in Crl. Appeal No. 1300 of 1993) and Akhilesh @ Pappu (appellant in Crl. Appeal No. 1217 of 1993) are both sons of Kunwar Pal and they live across Kharanja (vertical brick-laid road), right in front of the informant's house. It is alleged that informant's husband Satish Chand (the deceased) had built a latrine on the south eastern corner of her house which falls in front of Kunwar Pal's house. As the toilet was in front of Kunwar Pal's house, Kunwar Pal and his sons were not happy with it and were building pressure on the deceased to remove the toilet, but the informant's husband was not agreeable. Two days before the incident, the accused-appellants had threatened the informant in connection with that issue. It is alleged that in the night of 20/21.08.1991 while informant was sleeping in a room, on the southern side of her house and her husband (the deceased), her son (Saurabh) and daughters Km. Seema (PW-2) and Km. Tapasya were sleeping in the courtyard, where a lighted lantern was hanging as usual, at about 2 am, informant's sleep got disturbed because of noise. When she woke up, she saw that her husband (the deceased) was engaged in a scuffle with Arvind whereas Arvind's brother (Akhilesh) was pressing the mouth of her daughter (Km Seema-PW-2) to restrain her from screaming. It is alleged that as soon as the informant raised an alarm, Akhilesh exhorted Arvind to finish off the deceased. Upon which, a shot was fired by Arvind at the deceased, who fell and died. After firing the shot, Arvind and Akhilesh escaped by scaling the wall of the south-east corner of a bathroom of her house. The informant alleged that there was a third person also, who was sitting on the wall and keeping a watch on the incident and as soon as the incident was over, he ran away. In the report it is alleged that the entire incident was witnessed in the light of the lantern. It was also alleged that Shyam Sundar Mishra (not examined) had also noticed these three accused jumping off the wall and escaping in the light of a torch.

Informant alleged that the third person is not known to her but she can recognise him if he is produced in front of her. The FIR also alleges that an empty cartridge was found lying at the spot. Upon registration of the FIR, inquest was conducted by S.I. R.N. Sharma (not examined) under the direction of PW-5. The inquest report (Exb. Ka-6) describes the body as having been laid on a Chadar (bed-sheet) spread on the ground.

3. The autopsy was conducted by Dr. R.N. Sharma (PW- 4) at about 3.30 pm on 22.08.1991. The autopsy report (Exb. Ka-3) recites:-

EXTERNAL EXAMINATION:

Average body built, rigor mortis passed from both the extremities. Decomposition started. Skin peeling off at places. Abdomen, penis, scrotum distended.

ANTE-MORTEM INJURIES:

(i) Firearm wound of entry 1 cm x 1 cm x chest cavity deep on the anterio medial aspect of left shoulder 7 cm below to head of humerus. Margins inverted;

Blackening, tattooing and scorching around the wound;

(ii) Blackening, tattooing in an area 15 cm x 12 cm extending from left side face, sic, left side of neck and some portion of chest.

INTERNAL EXAMINATION:

(i) Left side 3rd rib fractured, left pleura lacerated, left lung lacerated, pericardium lacerated, heart lacerated, one metallic bullet found embedded in the heart; stomach empty, small intestine had digested food matter, large intestine had faecal matter with gases.

CAUSE OF DEATH:

Death due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries.

ESTIMATED TIME OF DEATH:

About 1 and ½ day before.

4. During investigation, the I.O. collected an empty cartridge of .315 bore of which seizure memo (Exb. Ka-10) was prepared. The I.O. collected torches of witnesses, namely, Gyan Prakash and Ramjas (who was not examined), and prepared custody memo (Exb. Ka-12). The I.O. also collected blood-stained earth and plain earth from the spot of which memorandum (Exb. Ka-9) was prepared. The I.O. had collected lantern from Shobha Awasthi (the informant) which was allegedly hung at the spot and in the light of which the incident was witnessed. The I.O. also collected torch from witness Shyam Sundar. A composite collection and custody memo of torch and lantern (Exb. Ka-2) was prepared. The I.O. also prepared site plan (Ex. Ka-13) and, after recording the statement of witnesses and completing the investigation, the I.O. Sri K.R. Mishra (PW-5) submitted charge-sheet (Exb Ka-16) against both the appellants. After taking cognizance on the charge sheet and committal of the case to the Court of Session, vide order dated 02.04.1992, the trial court framed charge against appellants for the offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C. The appellants denied the charge and claimed trial.

5. During the course of trial, the prosecution examined six witnesses: PW-1 (Shobha Awasthi) and PW-2 (Km. Seema), namely, the wife and daughter, respectively, of the informant, the eye-witnesses of the incident; Pahalwan (PW-3) - the person who took the written report of the informant to be lodged at the police station concerned; Dr. R.N. Sharma (PW-4) - the autopsy surgeon who conducted the autopsy of the body of the deceased; Keshav Ram Mishra (PW-5) - the investigating officer (I.O.) who proved various stages of the investigation; and Sri Narayan Awasthi (PW-6) - the constable who made GD entry of the written report and prepared Chik FIR thereof.

6. After the examination of the prosecution witnesses, the incriminating circumstances appearing in the prosecution evidence were put to the accused while recording their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. Both the accused denied their involvement and claimed that they have been falsely implicated because of the enmity arising out of Pradhan Election. It was claimed that in the Pradhan election, the accused party had supported Bhogi Lal Pandit as against Aditya Mishra, who was elected Gram Pradhan. It was stated that Aditya Mishra runs a school in which the informant is a Principal. It was stated that the informant was elected unopposed on the post of Up Pradhan and for the above reason, the informant bore enmity with the accused and has, therefore, falsely implicated the accused. The accused, however, did not lead any evidence in defence.

7. The trial court after considering the ocular account rendered by PW-1 and PW-2 and upon finding that the incident occurred within the house where the presence of PW-1 and PW-2 was natural and that there was no serious conflict between the medical evidence and the ocular account rendered by the witnesses, taking into account that the first information report, in the facts of the case, was not delayed, recorded conviction and sentenced the appellants as above.

8. We have heard Sri V.P. Srivastava, learned senior counsel, assisted by Sri Sushant, for the appellants and Sri J.K. Upadhyay, learned A.G.A., along with Miss. Sanyukta Singh, brief holder, for the State and have perused the record.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE APPELLANTS

9. Questioning the judgment and order of conviction passed by the court below, the learned counsel for the appellants submitted as follows:-

(i) The prosecution has not been able to prove a serious motive for the crime;

(ii) The ocular account does not inspire confidence for the following reasons:-

(a) If the accused had entered the house with an intent to finish off the deceased and were armed with country made pistol as is the ocular account, there is no logical reason why the accused would not use it at the first opportunity. The allegation that there was a scuffle with the deceased does not inspire confidence therefore, the incident occurred in some other manner than alleged and the prosecution is hiding true facts;

(b) The ocular account would suggest that the appellant (Arvind) fired a shot at the deceased while the deceased was in a standing position with his hands held by appellant (Akhilesh). Holding of hands by appellant (Akhilesh) is neither disclosed in the FIR nor in the statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Further, if the shot had been fired in that position, the bullet would not travel in a downward direction as is disclosed by the autopsy surgeon. According to autopsy surgeon (PW-4), the bullet travelled in a downward direction which suggests that the shot was fired while the deceased was lying on the cot or he was at a much lower level than the assailants;

(c) There appear two injury marks on the body of the deceased suggesting that two shots were fired at the deceased whereas the ocular account is in respect of solitary shot which renders the ocular account untrustworthy and unacceptable.

(d) The empty cartridge was recovered from bathroom at quite a distance from the place where the shot is alleged to have been fired. This suggests that no one witnessed the incident and the ocular account is untrustworthy.

(iii) There is an inordinate delay in lodging the FIR. The incident allegedly occurred in the night, at about 2 am, whereas, the report has been lodged at 7.45 am after 5 hours 45 minutes. This delay would suggest that either none was present at the time of the incident and the informant had to be called to the spot or it is a case where the prosecution story was developed after deliberation on the basis of suspicion and guess work;

(iv) That the independent witnesses, namely, Gyan Prakash, Ramjas and Shyam Sundar, amongst others, were not examined as a result whereof an adverse inference be drawn against the prosecution case.

(v) The scene of crime was altered before the I.O. could reach the spot as the body was found lying on a Chadar with a pillow underneath the head therefore, the ocular account cannot draw support from the material collected during the course of investigation.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE STATE

10. Per contra, the learned AGA submitted that this is a case where the incident took place within the house of the deceased. PW-1 is the wife and PW-2 is the daughter of the deceased. Their presence at the spot, particularly during night hours, is natural. The source of light has been disclosed both in the first information report and in the statement made to the I.O. as also in the deposition before the Court. The source of light was shown during investigation and the I.O. also noticed the lantern of which custody memo was prepared and the same was produced as a material exhibit. Since there was death of the husband of the informant, who had two daughters and a young son, it is not expected that she would rush to lodge the first information report leaving her two daughters and a young son back therefore, the written report, after being scribed and signed by the informant, was dispatched through PW-3, who lodged the same at the police station in the early hours of the morning. PW-3 confirmed that the written report was handed over to him at about 3 am for being lodged at the police station. Under these circumstances, it cannot be said that there is a delay in lodging the report.

11. In respect of the motive for the crime, the learned AGA submitted that the motive is a mental condition which none can speculate upon therefore, whether, in a given set of circumstances, the motive was sufficient for the crime or not is not to be guessed by the Court. Moreover, it is a case based on ocular account therefore, existence or non-existence of motive is not of material significance. Otherwise also, the prosecution has been successful in proving the motive, which is, that the accused party had been objecting to the construction of the latrine which was right in front of the house of the accused, across the Kharanja.

12. In respect of there being conflict between the ocular account and the medical evidence, the learned AGA submitted that there is no apparent conflict. The ocular account is in respect of a single shot fired at the deceased. Notably, there is a solitary gun shot entry wound and the other injuriy noticed is of discharge of gun powder. It has been submitted that merely because the direction of the shot was downwards it would not be sufficient to disbelieve the ocular account because as per the ocular account, the deceased was caught hold by hand by Akhilesh and was shot by Arvind. In that moment, it is possible that the deceased might have bent while Arvind in an erect position would get an opportunity to fire from close, on or about the shoulder region, with barrel pointing downwards so that the bullet could enter the chest cavity near the left shoulder joint, break the rib, proceed downwards, lacerate the lung and the heart and get embedded there as was found during autopsy. In that kind of a posture, if the shot is fired from a country made pistol, there would be discharge of gun powder resulting in blackening of the face, neck and shoulder region as is noticed while recording injury no. 2 therefore, it is not a case where two shots were fired rather it is a case of single shot, which gave rise to two noticeable injury marks, one where the bullet penetrated the body and the other which was on account of discharge of gun powder. It has thus been submitted that there is no conflict between medical evidence and the ocular account.

13. In respect of the submission as to why the accused would enter into a scuffle if they had a desire to finish off the deceased from the beginning, it has been argued by the learned AGA that it is quite possible that the accused might have had a desire to molest the young daughter of the informant (PW-2) and, in that process, the deceased, who was sleeping in the courtyard, might have got up, resulting in a scuffle. It was submitted how the incident started would not be relevant at this point. What is relevant is that both the appellants had entered the house at night. Both participated in the crime. Appellant-Arvind fired the shot whereas the appellant-Akhilesh caught hold the deceased and exhorted the other appellant to fire the shot. As the ocular account is trustworthy and is corroborated by medical evidence on these material particulars, there would be no justification to disbelieve the prosecution account. It was thus prayed by the learned AGA that the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt, hence, the appeal be dismissed.

PROSECUTION EVIDENCE

14. Before we proceed to weigh the rival submissions and analyse and evaluate the prosecution case/ evidence, it would be appropriate to notice the testimony of the prosecution witnesses in some detail. The prosecution examined as many as six witnesses, their testimony, in brief, is as follows:

15. PW-1 - Shobha Awasthi - Informant - the wife of the deceased. PW-1 deposed about the location of her house being across the Kharanja, in front of the house of the accused. She stated that at the east corner of her house, her husband got a latrine/toilet constructed which falls right in front of the house of the accused across the Kharanja to which the accused had objection and were pressing her husband to demolish the latrine. In connection with which, on 19.08.1991, in the evening, there was an altercation between the deceased and the accused-Arvind and Akhilesh, who left extending threats to the deceased. PW-1 stated that her husband was a teacher in Nehru Inter College, Auraiya. She stated that in the night of the incident (20/21.08.1991) while she was sleeping near the opening of a doorless kothri (a small room) of her house, on disturbance, at about 2 am, she woke up and saw her neighbour (Arvind) and her husband grappling with each other. She came out, and in the light of lantern lit there, she saw that accused Akhilesh @ Pappu was pressing the mouth of her daughter (Seema-PW-2). Underneath the Chappar, her other daughter (Tapasya) and son (Saurabh), who are aged 14 years and 9-10 years, respectively, were lying on cot. She stated that that day her husband (deceased) was lying in the courtyard (Aangan) on a cot. She also stated that with Arvind and Akhilesh, there was one unknown person who was squatting on the wall of the house. She stated that when she came out and raised an alarm, Akhilesh exhorted Arvind to finish off the deceased, upon which Arvind fired a shot from close distance at the deceased. The shot hit the deceased, he fell and died. Whereafter, the accused escaped by scaling the wall of the bathroom. Soon thereafter, neighbours Shyam Sundar and others arrived. They also told her that they had noticed Arvind and Akhilesh in the light of torch. PW-1 stated that she dictated the report to Dev Narayan Mishra. Thereafter she signed the report and gave it to Pahalwan (PW-3), her neighbour, to lodge the report at the police station. The report was marked Exhibit Ka-1. She identified the two accused Arvind and Akhilesh in court. She stated that the police had collected the lantern and gave its custody to her. She proved the custody memo and also produced the lantern.

In her cross-examination, in respect of construction of the house and the latrine/toilet, she stated that her house was constructed 13/14 years ago whereas the toilet was constructed 6-7 years later. She stated that prior to this toilet/latrine, there was no other toilet/latrine in her house. She stated that the latrine is covered and is about two hands away from the Kharanja, across which, there is house of the accused. She stated that Kharanja is about 15 feet wide with drain on both sides and the water of both sides is discharged into that drain. She was cross-examined, at length, to ascertain whether she is aware of her neighbourhood and surroundings, but nothing much could be elicited therefrom. Consequently, we do not propose to notice the same. Suggestions were put to her that her husband had opened a bank with the Gram Pradhan (Aditya Narayan Mishra) by the name of Neelanchal and people thought that he had lot of money. She denied both the suggestions.

In respect of the source of light to witness the incident, she stated that that day was Ekadashi of Shukl Paksh meaning thereby that it was close to full moon. She stated that she is aware that on that day the moon rises near about evening time and sets by about 1.30 am in the night. She denied the suggestion that because it was month of August, kerosene lamp would have had attracted insects therefore, it was not there. She also denied the suggestion that that night it was raining and as there was a full moon, no lantern was lit.

In respect of reporting the incident regarding extension of threat for removal of the latrine, she stated that no report in that regard is to her knowledge but, if her husband has made a report, she is not aware of that. She stated that the accused raised objection regarding the toilet on 19.08.1991 but not before. In respect of the time when they raised objection and extended threat, she stated that when threat was extended it must be between 5-6 pm. She stated that threat was not extended by entering the house but at the door of her house. Threat was extended to her husband (the deceased) and altercation in that regard must have lasted about an hour. She stated that she did not venture out to listen to what all were being said but her husband had told her that the accused were threatening him. She stated that she is not aware whether any other person was present when threats were extended. She denied the suggestion that the story of extension of threat has been introduced on legal advise.

On further cross-examination, she stated that at the time of the incident when she woke up, moon was there and the time must have been around 1-1.30 am. She stated that after killing her husband, the accused escaped from her house at about 2 am. She stated that she saw the accused when they were inside the house and not when they escaped from the house.

In respect of the period during which the accused stayed in the house of the informant, PW-1 stated that between her waking up, on sensing disturbance, and the accused leaving the house at least half an hour must have elapsed.

In respect of the scuffle between her husband and the accused, she stated that during the scuffle, Arvind held a pistol in his hand but he did not assault her husband with that pistol. She stated that at the time of the scuffle, the deceased must have been 1 and ½ pace north of the cot where he had slept. She added that during the course of the scuffle, she was making attempts to come close to her husband but when she was just few paces away, Arvind fired at the deceased. She stated that, at that time, Akhilesh had caught hold the deceased. Prior to that, Akhilesh had been pressing the mouth of her daughter (Seema). She stated that Akhilesh caught hold the deceased when she came near to the deceased and it was only then, that Akhilesh exhorted Arvind to fire.

In respect of the posture which the deceased held at the time of fire, she stated that when Arvind fired shot at the deceased, deceased was in a standing position and Akhilesh had pulled both his hands from behind. She stated that when the shot was fired, her husband's face was towards north and Arvind's face was towards south.

In respect of the distance from where the shot was fired, she stated that it was a close shot and the pistol was near about touching the body of the deceased. She stated that at that point of time, the distance between the deceased and Arvind must have been less than one hand. She stated that the shot struck the deceased on left side chest. She stated categorically that a single shot was fired and no sooner the shot struck the deceased, the deceased fell and the accused ran away. She also stated that after the shot was fired, the pistol was opened in the courtyard (Aangan). She stated that she had not noticed any weapon in the hand of Akhilesh or with the person who was sitting on the wall.

In respect of arrival of the villagers after the incident, she stated that first to arrive was Shyam Sundar; thereafter, there were others including Ramjas and Gyan Prakash. Shyam Sundar, Ramjas and Gyan Prakash had also noticed and recognised the accused while they were running away.

In respect of the time when the report was scribed, she stated that after the villagers, namely, Shyam Sundar, Ramjas and Gyan Prakash, arrived, at about 3 am, she dictated the report to Devendra Narayan Mishra, who is maternal uncle of the deceased, and it was handed over to Pahalwan to be lodged at the police station.

On further cross-examination, she stated that she is a teacher in a Junior High School since 1967 and since 1973 she is a Principal. She stated that Aditya Narayan Mishra, the current Gram Pradhan, is manager of that institution.

In respect of the empty cartridge recovered from her house, she stated that empty cartridge had not fallen in the Aangan (courtyard) but was noticed in the bathroom and it was recovered by the police from the bathroom and its position was not disturbed by anyone. She stated that she came to know about the cartridge lying there when villagers had come in the night and had noticed the same in the light of torch.

She stated that neither she nor any of her children received any injury. She stated that as soon as the accused left, after killing the deceased, she came near the body of the deceased, lifted it and put its head on her lap. She stated that, at that time, the body was bleeding and her clothes got blood-stained but she had not shown blood-stains to the I.O. If the I.O. had seen those blood-stains then she cannot say. Later, those clothes were washed. She stated that her daughters' clothes were not blood-stained.

At this stage, she was confronted with her report where she had not disclosed that the deceased was caught hold by Akhilesh @ Pappu. She stated that during investigation, she had disclosed it to the I.O. but if that had not been written, she cannot tell the reason for the same. She also stated that though, that night, her husband was lying on the cot but at the time when he was killed he was not on that cot and, therefore, on that cot, there was no blood. She stated that when the shot was fired at her husband, he fell on the ground of the courtyard and there was no cloth there. Immediately thereafter, she clarified that when villagers arrived, the body was covered with cloth and when the I.O. arrived, the body was in the same position and the head of the body was on her lap.

But the I.O. took off the head from her lap and placed it on the floor. She stated that she dictated the written report at 3 am while her husband's head was on her lap. She again reiterated that empty cartridge was not at the spot where the shot was fired but was noticed in the bathroom.

She denied the suggestion that in the darkness of the night she did not witness the incident and that the incident was caused by some unknown person. She also denied the suggestion that at the time of the incident, her husband was alone. She also denied the suggestion that no empty cartridge was recovered. She denied the suggestion that the report was not lodged by her and that the same was lodged later, after deliberation.

On further cross-examination, she stated that it must have taken 15 minutes to dictate the report. She stated that the report was carried by Pahalwan son of Shyam Sundar to lodge at the police station. She stated that she is not aware as to which conveyance was used by him to lodge the report but Pahalwan uses a cycle. She stated that he must have left at about 3 am. She denied that a police personnel had arrived at the spot before the arrival of the I.O. She stated that the I.O. first inspected the spot and thereafter he interrogated her and had also noticed the lantern etc. The I.O., thereafter, carried out inquest and the proceedings relating thereto. She stated that the body was carried in a trolley attached to the police jeep. With the body, her dewar (Mahesh Chand) and her brother (Kamla Kant) and Uma Kant were there along with several others. She stated that along with the I.O. there was another Inspector, who left by 12 noon. She denied the suggestion that she was not at Quotara (the village where the incident took place) but had to be called after the incident had taken place. She denied the suggestion that she arrived after day break on 21.08.1991 and, by the time she arrived, the body had been sealed.

16. PW-2 - Km. Seema - daughter of the deceased, aged about 20 years. After describing the location of various cots where her family members were laid that night, she stated that in the night of 20/21.08.1991, at about 2.00 am, while she was lying in her cot underneath the Chappar, Arvind and Akhilesh after scaling the wall jumped into the courtyard. She woke up and saw that a person was also squatting on the wall next to the bathroom. Arvind was moving towards her father (the deceased) and Akhilesh came towards her. When she shouted, Akhilesh pressed her mouth and, thereafter, Arvind and the deceased entered into a scuffle.
