explosive incidents involving repeated sudden episodes of impulsive, aggressive, violent behaviour and angry verbal outburst. The applicant was restrained by the informant himself from providing medical assistance on the ground that the deceased was highly qualified lady and she could not suffer from any kind of mental illness. Later on, the deceased started exhibiting prominent signs of mental illness which included but not limited to self smiling, self muttering, apprehension of continuously being watched, hallucinations seeing dead people and God, apprehension of phone and bank account being hacked etc. She used to abuse and physical assault the applicant and his family members on multiple occasions. The applicant preferred a complaint to the S.S.P. Prayagraj which was referred for mediation but the deceased did not appear before the Officer concerned. Since no action was taken by the police authorities, the applicant moved the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and thereafter another application in same manner was also moved. The applicant was forced to prefer a divorce petition before the competent Court. He got her examination done by a psychiatrist and preferred an application under Mental Health Act, 2017. The deceased was employed as a Teacher in Jagat Taran Girls Intermediate College, Prayagraj and she was forced to resign owning to her unfounded apprehensions. Around March-April, 2022, she started hallucinating and hearing voices. The deceased committed suicide on 19.04.2022 by hanging without any instigation, coercion or abetment by the applicant due to her medical condition. It is further submitted that out of the wedlock one child was born who is 10 years old now and living with the applicant. It is also submitted that the cause of the death of the deceased was ascertained to be asphyxia as a result of anti mortem hanging. No other injury was found on the person of the deceased. It is also submitted that the consultation made with the Psychiatrist and the posts on her Facebook Account are also brought on record through a rejoinder affidavit which also indicates mental status of the deceased. She was referred to a mental hospital by the Psychiatrist for treatment.

6. In support of his submission, learned counsel for the applicant relied upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court passed in Rajesh Vs. State of Haryana, (2020) 15 SCC 359 wherein it is held that "the person who is stated to have abeted the commission of suicide must have played an active role by the act of instigation or doing certain act to facilitate the commission of suicide." It is argued that there is no evidence available on record which can substantiate that the applicant was even remotely involved in the commission of the alleged offence.

7. Learned counsel further placed reliance upon the judgement of the Hon'ble Apex Court passed in S.S. Cheena Vs. Vijay Kumar Mahajan & Anr., (2010) 12 SCC 190, (ii) Ude Singh Vs. State of Haryana, (2019) 17 SCC 301, (iii) M.Arjunan Vs. State, (2019) 3 SCC 315 and (iv) Amalendu Pal Vs. State of West Bengal, (2010) 1 SCC 707.

8. It is further submitted that the applicant is languishing in jail since 21.05.2022 having no criminal history and that in case he is released on bail, he will not misuse the liberty of bail and will cooperate in trial.

9. Per contra, the learned Additional Government Advocate as well as learned counsel for the informant opposed the prayer for grant of bail and argued that the deceased was mentally and physically tortured by the applicant and his family members. All the developments which are narrated by the applicant with regard to alleged illness of the deceased, moving the applications under Sections 156(3) Cr.P.C. and filing of divorce petition, relate to the year 2021. The deceased was subjected to mental and physical cruelty soon after her marriage with the applicant. It is also submitted that the divorce petition was also filed in the year 2021. The alleged application moved under Mental Health Act, 2017 in the year 2021 which shows that all the proceedings were initiated by the applicant under a conspiracy at a particular period of time. The deceased was a highly qualified lady and she was a teacher in Jagat Taran Intermediate College, Prayagraj since last 10 years therefore, all the allegations with regard to her mental illness are false and concocted.

10. It is also submitted that so far as the prescription of the Psychiatrist is concerned, the meditation was advised in the absence of the patient. It is not possible that a Doctor can prescribe the meditation or refer to the higher centre in the absence of the patient therefore, the prescription is produced just to give a colour to the bail application. It is also vehemently submitted that such prescription was not filed before the trial Court when the bail application was moved by the applicant. Under the orders of the Court compliance counter affidavit was filed by the State wherein the statement of Doctor is filed in which Doctor stated that at the time of consultation the patient was not present before him, therefore, the entire exercise does not support the case of the applicant in any manner. It is also submitted that the informant, his wife and other witnesses have consistently corroborated the version of the first information report. The applicant and his family members created such circumstances which compelled Nisha Tripathi to commit suicide.

11. It is further submitted that none of the family members informed the complainant and his family about the death of his daughter. The information about the death of the deceased was given by the police. Her dead body was brought down in absence of the informant and his family members. Filing of divorce case by the applicant making false allegations against his wife was direct instigation and abatement to commit suicide. She was deeply hurt with the false allegations undermining her dignity. It is also argued that during the period of ten years of the marriage, no complaint was made by the applicant about her mental illness. She was a brilliant student having a degree in M.A. in Geography and she also qualified N.E.T. and C.T.E.T. examination and was teaching for the last ten years. The applicant and his family members were creating an atmosphere that something was wrong with her by putting her into fear of evils. The applicant fled away from the place of occurrence and was arrested on 20.05.2022 and other accused are still absconding. On 23.07.2021 the applicant mercilessly beat the deceased Nisha Tripathi and she informed concerned Chowki In-charge and a digital complaint was lodged by the deceased. The contents of that complaint indicate the sound mental status of deceased.

12. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

13. Abatement' and 'abatement of suicide' are defined under Section 107 and 306 of IPC respectively. It is deemed proper to reproduce section 107 and 306 of IPC, which reads thus:

"107. Abetment of a thing.

A person abets the doing of a thing, who--

First-- Instigates any person to do that thing; or

Secondly -- Engages with one or more other person or persons in any conspiracy for the doing of that thing, if an act or illegal omission takes place in pursuance of that conspiracy, and in order to the doing of that thing; or Thirdly-- Intentionally aids, by any act or illegal omission, the doing of that thing.

Explanation 1.--A person who, by wilful misrepresentation, or by wilful concealment of a material fact which he is bound to disclose, voluntarily causes or procures, or attempts to cause or procure, a thing to be done, is said to instigate the doing of that thing

Explanation 2.--Whoever, either prior to or at the time of the commission of an act, does anything in order to facilitate the commission of that act, and thereby facilitate the commission thereof, is said to aid the doing of that act.

306. Abetment of suicide.

If any person commits suicide, whoever abets the commission of such suicide, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall alsobe liable to fine."

14. The Hon'ble Apex Court in catena of cases has settled the factors to be kept in the mind while considering an application for bail such as page 25 of the judgment.

15. In the case in hand, it is admitted that the marriage of the applicant solemnized with the deceased 11 years ago and a male child was born out of their wedlock in the year 2014. For a long span of ten years of matrimonial life, there was no complaint against the deceased with regard to her behaviour and about her mental illness.

16. Learned counsel for the applicant placed reliance that an application was moved before the Senior Superintendent of Police, Prayagraj making certain description about the behaviour and conduct of the deceased and it was prayed that a report be lodged and the life of the applicant and his family members be protected. Thereafter, an application was given by Smt. Syama Mishra, the mother of the applicant to S.H.O., Kotwali, Prayagraj describing the behaviour of the deceased. Thereafter since no action was taken by the police, an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. was moved before the Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Allahabad and thereafter another application under same section was moved. Reliance has been placed on the report submitted by the concerned police station about the mental status of the deceased. Divorce petition No.193 of 2021 was also filed mentioning therein the behaviour and conduct of the deceased seeking divorce from her. Certain facebook posts were also placed on the record to indicate the language used by the deceased alleging that the language used in such posts also indicates her mental status.

17. Perusal of the record goes to show that the application given to S.S.P. Praygaraj, S.H.O. Kotwali, Prayagraj, the first and subsequent application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. were moved during the period February, 2021 to July, 2021.

The divorce petition under Section 13 of Hindu Marriage Act was filed by the applicant on 27.01.2021. Suffice to say that all the exercise was done during the year 2021. Earlier to this period since the date of the marriage it appears that everything was fine and was going smoothly. It is pertinent to mention here that the contents of the applications given to police authority and before the Court and also the grounds taken in the divorce petition are more or less identical. To show the bona fide of the applicant, he consulted a competent Psychiatrist for treatment of his wife-the deceased. Through a rejoinder affidavit, prescription was filed in which meditation was prescribed and the patient was referred to a Mental Hospital, Varanasi for evaluation and IPD management. It is important to note that the patient was not present before the doctor concerned. Through a compliance affidavit this information was brought on record by the learned AGA that the deceased was never admitted to the Mental Hospital, Varanasi. This also indicates that this exercise was done by the applicant just to give a colour to his bail application. At this juncture the argument of learned counsel for the informant is also to be taken into consideration that the aforesaid prescription was not filed before the trial court. It is also alleged that the applicant did not allow the deceased Nisha Tripathi to participate in the birth anniversary of her father on 15.05.2022 and her mobile was switched off. It appears that the allegations levelled against the deceased in various applications and divorce petition given by the applicant caused her mental torture and depression which abated her to commit suicide.

18. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Ude Singh and others VS. State of Haryana, (2019) 17 SCC 301 observed that:

"16.1 For the purpose of finding out if a person has abetted commission of suicide by another, the consideration would be if the accused is guilty of the act of instigation of the act of suicide. As explained and reiterated by this Court in the decisions above-referred, instigation means to goad, urge forward, provoke, incite or encourage to do an act. If the persons who committed suicide had been hypersensitive and the action of accused is otherwise not ordinarily expected to induce a similarly circumstanced person to commit suicide, it may not be safe to hold the accused guilty of abetment of suicide. But, on the other hand, if the accused by his acts and by his continuous course of conduct creates a situation which leads the deceased perceiving no other option except to commit suicide, the case may fall within the four-corners of Section 306 IPC. If the accused plays an active role in tarnishing the self-esteem and self-respect of the victim, which eventually draws the victim to commit suicide, the accused may be held guilty of abetment of suicide. The question of mens rea on the part of the accused in such cases would be examined with reference to the actual acts and deeds of the accused and if the acts and deeds are only of such nature where the accused intended nothing more than harassment or snap show of anger, a particular case may fall short of the offence of abetment of suicide. However, if the accused kept on irritating or annoying the deceased by words or deeds until the deceased reacted or was provoked, a particular case may be that of abetment of suicide. Such being the matter of delicate analysis of human behaviour, each case is required to be examined on its own facts, while taking note of all the surrounding factors having bearing on the actions and psyche of the accused and the deceased.

16.2. We may also observe that human mind could be affected and could react in myriad ways; and impact of one's action on the mind of another carries several imponderables. Similar actions are dealt with differently by different persons; and so far a particular person's reaction to any other human's action is concerned, there is no specific theorem or yardstick to estimate or assess the same. Even in regard to the factors related with the question of harassment of a girl, many factors are to be considered like age, personality, upbringing, rural or urban set ups, education etc. Even the response to the ill-action of eve-teasing and its impact on a young girl could also vary for a variety of factors, including those of background, self- confidence and upbringing. Hence, each case is required to be dealt with on its own facts and circumstances."

19. Considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case, submissions of learned counsel for the parties, nature of evidence and gravity of the offence, without expressing any opinion on merits of the case, the Court is of the view that the applicant is not entitled for the bail, therefore, the bail application is rejected.

20. Any observation made above shall not be treated as any finding on the merit and shall not prejudice the trial.

are chains of circumstances which are intact and unbroken. (Para 73, 104, 106)

After a few days of the marriage, Rishi Talwar started beating the informant's daughter. His daughter used to convey to the informant about beating and abuses by the accused over the phone. After the marriage the accused neither allowed the informant's daughter to meet the informant nor was she allowed to go anywhere in her kinship. He used to threaten her for divorce and used to demand money and said that she should take divorce otherwise he would kill her.

3. On 28.04.2014 at about 08:00 O'clock his daughter informed him over the telephone that Rishi had beaten her that day and had been doing so for 3-4 days. Again at about 11-12 O'clock she made a call where she said that Rishi was still beating her and she said that papa take away her and her children from here otherwise Rishi would kill them. After that at around 11 O'clock, Smt. Charu Suri, daughter-in-law of the informant, also (who is accused's sister) called and informed that Rishi Talwar had shot and killed Shweta. The informant immediately informed Jhansi Police and his relative Kamal Raj at around 01:00 O'clock and requested that no action should be taken till he and his family reached Jhansi. He himself would take legal action after seeing the condition of his daughter. Accused's mother Smt. Asha and sister Charu Suri are also involved in the murder.

5. On the night of 30.04.2014 at about 01:00 a.m. the informant with his wife Smt. He said that it is noted in the case diary that the accused used to demand money and used to beat and ask for divorce. This witness admits that though giving divorce was not written but it was written that the accused used to say that take divorce otherwise he would kill her. He admits that informant - Manohar Suri had deposed that after the murder of Shweta, his daughter-in-law, Charu Suri had not returned back to Mumbai with his son.

(XXII) PW-11, Sudhir Suri son of the informant Manohar Lal Suri has been testified by the court even though he was not mentioned as a witness in the charge-sheet. In the open court this witness played the CD on a laptop and deposed that he has downloaded contents from google account in which the call recordings of his wife Charu Suri and her SMSs are saved. In April, 2012 he had purchased admin software. He also filed purchase bill Ex.Ka-16 and proved it. According to him, using this software, all conversations of his wife Charu Suri were recorded and saved in a google account which are still saved in his E-mail account. There was an admin control in his phone and whenever he wanted to hear the recording, he used to download it from google account. He also deposed that he had not done any tampering with this CD. The conversation which he played in the court is the same as in his google account. This witness deposed and produced description of recordings which are as under:

"(i) In the first recording there is a conversation between Charu Suri and her brother Rishi Talwar about murder of Shweta Talwar. In this conversation Rishi Talwar is confessing to his sister that he had killed his wife Shweta Talwar and her dead body was at the house. He told her to not convey this fact to others as he wanted time to hide the dead body. Hearing this, Charu Suri, in the state of weeping, cried as to why he killed her and why he felt no pity. Now everything is ruined. She also asked where are the children, in response he said that they were in the upper portion of the house.

(ii) The second recording is the conversation between his wife Charu Suri and Neeru Sahay, his sister-in-law and Asha Talwar, his mother-in-law in which his wife calls and tells Neeru that our brother Rishi Talwar has shot and killed Shweta Talwar. He also told that this information should not be spread as brother needs a few hours time. Either he would leave the house or would surrender with gun. Apart from this, Asha Talwar has also confirmed the same thing again with Neeru that Rishi had shot and killed Shweta. He informed the court that the mobile number of his wife was 8454840444. He also deposed that this mobile number was in the name of his father Manohar Lal Suri whose bill he used to pay. On this number he has also installed admin control software. He pays the bill amount. Because of doubts about his wife, he had installed the software. On 28.04.2014 he had gone to meet his mother-in-law at about 05:00 to 06:00 p.m. with his wife and son but due to bad situation in the house at night, he went to the nearest hotel and stayed there for the night. On the second day at around 04:00 a.m. on 29.04.2014 he again came back to his in-law's house and called his wife many times but his wife, mother-in-law and son were not there. Then as he wanted to know the facts, he rang his wife but she did not provide him any information. On this, he downloaded it in his google account, and after listening the recording, he came to know that at 05:45 a.m. Rishi Talwar had contacted his sister on phone and had informed this fact. After hearing the recording he asked his wife as to why she did not tell him all these things. From Dharmshala he came to Delhi by taxi. Second recording was done on his sister-in-law, Neeru Sahay's mobile no.9915702175. He recognises all voices of this recording very well and confirmed that these voices were of Rishi Talwar, Charu, Neeru Sahay and Asha Talwar."

(XXIII) In cross-examination he admitted that he had no degree or diploma to recognise the voices nor does he do the work of recognising voices but he and Neeru Sahay, his sister-in-law both have been talking with each other for 10-12 years, therefore, he recognises their voice. Similarly, he cannot say as to when and on which date he talked with Rishi Talwar but for 10-12 years he is also in conversation with him. He admitted that apart from the recording played in court, he has also all the recordings in which his wife has talked with Rishi Talwar. The witness was not sure as to whether such recording was available or not. He deposed that he had not recorded the conversation between him and Asha Talwar separately. After 01/02.05.2014 the mobile phone of Charu Suri was not in use. He cannot say what his wife did with that phone. He got this phone number switch off after about one month. His wife Charu Suri had refused to come to him. He did not turn off this phone immediately because he was expecting his wife to come to him. After one month he had filed divorce petition.

(XXIV) He had provided this CD to the Investigating Officer during the investigation. His father had submitted this CD but he cannot say what was the result of that. He has admitted that he never met the Investigating Officer and the fact deposed in the court had not been informed to the court and the police. Neither the police called him nor did he go automatically. He admitted that the CD has not been signed by him or by his father or by the court but himself said that his advocate Arun Kumar Dixit, engaged by his father, has signed the CD. It is true that there is no date on it. He deposed that the first recording of the CD had become available at 6:00 a.m. on 29.04.2014. The second recording is about a half an hour later. At this juncture advocate Arun Kumar Dixit identified his signature on the CD in question and informed the court that this CD was given by his client on 12.08.2014. The witness denied the suggestions of the defence counsel.

(XXV) PW-12, Ravinder Sharma deposed that he knows Manohar Lal Suri and his family members and also his daughter Shweta who has died; there are family terms between both the families. He used to visit the house of the informant's family. He knows that Shweta Suri deceased was married in Jhansi with Rishi Talwar. He had never visited Jhansi. On the information of the court he came to Jhansi for evidence.

(XXVI) In cross-examination this witness deposed that he had not been questioned by the police regarding this case. He has not come with the informant Manohar Lal Suri but has come separately. The court's summon was forwarded to him. Upon being questioned by the court this witness answered that he had met Shweta Suri in Mumbai. He never met her husband. He knows him only by name. He has no personal information regarding this case. Sudhir Suri told him over phone that his sister has been murdered. He has no hand in Shweta Suri's Murder. If any witness has named him, he has done so wrongly. He has seen photo of the accused, therefore, he recognises him. He never had any conversation with him on the phone or face to face. His relationship with Shweta Suri was because of her being sister of his friend and there were family terms.

(XXVII) PW-13, Charu Suri, sister-in-law of the deceased deposed that the accused is her younger brother and the deceased was her sister-in-law (bhabhi), informant Manohar Lal Suri is her father-in-law. Her brother accused Rishi Talwar was married to Shweta daughter of his father-in-law Manohar Lal Suri. From this wedlock two daughters Ankita Talwar aged about 12 years and Janhvi Talwar aged about 08 years were born. After the marriage neither any quarrel took place between her brother and sister-in-law Swetha before her nor it is in her knowledge. After marriage she used to live with her husband,father-in-law and mother-in-law in Narula, Mumbai. On 28.04.2014 she was at the house of his mother Asha Talwar in Dharmshala, Himachal with her husband, Sudhir Suri and children. She could not remember the mobile number used by her but refused that it was 8454840444. On 28.04.2014 and 29.04.2014 neither her brother Rishi nor her sister-in-law Swetha had called her. She could not remember mobile number of her mother.

(XXVIII) According to this witness mobile number 9805489464 was not with her mother. At 05:00 to 06:00 p.m. on 29.04.2014 her brother Rishi had not called her and had not said that he had shot her wife Shweta. After marriage Shweta remained with Rishi Talwar in Jhansi. Her brother Rishi never harassed her. It is wrong to say that her brother wanted to get rid of Shweta in any way. She expressed ignorance about the petition of divorce by his brother against Shweta, if it was so, her sister-in-law used to live with her brother even after divorce and remained till death with her children. It is true that Shweta was killed in the house of Rishi Talwar and her dead body was found there. It is also true that her father-in-law Manohar Lal Suri had lodged an FIR against her brother Rishi, mother Asha and against her for committing murder of Shweta. She denied that in this respect she had moved an application and affidavit to SSP, Jhansi on 05.05.2014.

(XXIX) This witness was declared hostile and prosecution has cross-examined her in which she deposed that at the time of incident she used to live with her husband but after the incident she was not living with him. There is no divorce between them but an order has been passed under Section 125 CrPC and proceedings of Section 128 CrPC were going on. In the month of June, 2014 she had moved an application saying that application paper no.15-A/4 and affidavit 15-A/12/224 were not signed by her. She was aware that after 05.05.2014 she and her mother were exonerated from the case. This witness disowned the statement recorded by Investigating Officer and also expressed ignorance about advocate Janardan Vyas and notary advocate Lala Ram Verma. This witness recognised the signature on application no.114-B Ex.Ka-17 prepared by her advocate Ramesh Chandra Agrawal and also admitted that she has come to the court from his chamber. She admitted that even after knowing that on application and affidavit 15-A her signatures are verified by advocate Janardan Vyas and certified by notary advocate Lala Ram Verma, she had not made any complaint.

(XXX) On the request of public prosecutor and with the consent of accused counsel Ex.Ka.-7 was compared with paper no.15-A-1/14 and court observed that both the documents were bearing the signature of Charu Suri. The signatures were mostly similar but this witness refused that on 05.05.2014 she prepared the application and affidavit and after signing the same produced before the SSP, Jhansi. The witness also denied the suggestions of the prosecution counsel.

(XXXI) In cross-examination by the accused, the witness deposed that in Ex.Ka-17 the advocate had written the facts which she had narrated. In the night of 29.04.2014 between 11:00 to 12:00 p.m. someone informed that one Ravi had shot Shweta when Rishi was in Delhi but this fact was not told by her to any court or any officer. She deposed that she had informed the officer orally. She deposed that on the day of occurrence when she was in Himachal, all the conversations were made from her husband's phone. After this incident her relations with her husband became sour. She had no idea that her husband was tapping her phone. Her father-in-law does not like her and her husband's relation was bad (with her).

(XXXII) PW-14, Lala Ram Verma, notary advocate, Civil Court, Jhansi deposed that he was a notary advocate. This witness recognised paper no.11-A2 to 11-A4 and deposed that Charu Suri had come to him with the papers on which her signature was identified by advocate Janardan Vyas. The affidavit was read out to Charu Suri. He put his seal and signature; the witness certified his signature and seal on the affidavit. In notary register the said affidavit was entered at serial no.2866 on 05.05.2014 which is signed by Smt. Charu Suri. The witness also filed photocopy of that page of the register attested by him and proved it as Ex.Ka-19.

(XXXIII) In cross-examination this witness admitted that it is true that there was no photograph on the affidavit.

There is neither any photo on the affidavit nor the age of Charu Suri was mentioned. He also admitted that the "word verified to be correct" was not written in his seal. According to this witness, he did not know the deponent personally. The affidavit had come to him already prepared. It was neither typed nor signed by Charu Suri before him. Charu Suri and the advocate had come with this affidavit. It is true that seal of Janardan Vyas advocate and date of his registration was not written on it. The witness denied the suggestions.

19. After closure of the prosecution evidence, statement of the accused has been recorded under Section 313 CrPC in which he denied all the questions saying it to be wrong. In addition to it he, with regard to arrest and recovery of firearm pistol, magazine and live cartridges, stated that he had already reached the police station by 04.30 a.m. after getting information from Anchita - his daughter. On the day of occurrence he had not talked to Charu Suri and also said that Charu Suri had not condemned him. He further answered that the deceased remained at the house upto 09:00 p.m. on 29.04.2014. Thereafter he had gone to Delhi. Ravi had killed the deceased but the father of the deceased has lodged false complaint to blackmail him. He admitted that Charu Suri is living in a separate house in Jhansi. The prosecution sanction, is forged and wrong and he had not killed his wife. At the time of the occurrence he was not present at the house but had gone out of the house to Delhi. He has been falsely implicated.

20. In defence three witnesses have been examined which are as under:-

(I) DW-1, Mahendra Dubey deposed that his shop, Prakash Traders is in Sadar Bazar, Jhansi. He is an A-Class Government Contractor and General Order Supplier. He knows the accused Rishi Talwar who is also an A-Class Government Contractor and Army Supplier. Motor parts are sold by him. He purchases articles from Kashmiri Gate, Delhi. Rishi Talwar also used to purchase articles from Delhi. On 29.04.2014 he had gone to Delhi and had left the house at 08:30 p.m. He reached Jhansi Railway Station where Rishi Talwar was in the queue and asked him to purchase a ticket for Delhi and for that he had also provided money. He purchased two window tickets. Thereafter he waited for the train. He had gone to Delhi by Southern Express which departs from Jhansi in the night at 09:30 p.m. They reached Nizamuddin Railway Station at 05:00-05:30 a.m. Thereafter he sat in the waiting room and had breakfast. At 09:30 a.m. they went to Kashmiri Gate and purchased motor parts. Rishi Talwar said to take his articles also from the dealers and for that he provided receipt and said that there is a meeting, so book his articles. He booked the articles on 01.05.2014 and returned to Jhansi on 02.05.2014.

(II) When he went to provide the bill, accused's shop was closed and a staff was standing out side the shop to whom he handed over the receipt. The staff informed that Rishi Talwar had been sent to jail in connection of the murder of his wife.

(III) In cross-examination he deposed that his shop is 40-50 meters away from that of Rishi Talwar. It is wrong to say that he looks after the business of Rishi Talwar. He recognised Charu Talwar present in the court and admitted that he had not received any summons for testifying. He had come for deposing upon being asked by Charu. He has had good business relations with Rishi Talwar and Charu Talwar for about 25 years. It is wrong to say that he comes to the court to pursue the case. This witness admitted that he had moved adjournment application paper no.138-B and 137-B1 in his signature written by Sri Ramesh Agrawal, advocate for the accused Rishi. He had not given information in writing to any police officer that on the day of occurrence he and Rishi Talwar were in Delhi. The witness himself said that he had told the SO, Ram Bhajan Singh. He had not provided this information in writing to any of the police officers. He had not complained to any higher officer that the fact informed by him was not considered by SO, Ram Bhajan Singh. He further deposed that once he had gone to SSP, Jhansi, however he was not present. He neither submitted this information in writing there nor did he send through post.

(IV) On being asked by the court, the witness deposed that it is true that he used to pursue the case and used to come to the court due to business contact with the accused Rishi Talwar as there is no senior family member to pursue his case. In Delhi on 30.04.2014 at about 11:00 - 12:00 O'clock both were separated, till then they had not received information about the incident. He further deposed that certainly this fact is surprising that husband was not informed even on mobile phone about murder of his wife but he cannot tell the reason.

(V) DW-2, Anil Kumar Singh deposed that Rishi Talwar is his neighbour and lives in front of his house with his wife and two daughters, Ankita and Janhvi. He never saw them fighting with each other besides they were living peacefully. Rishi Talwar has a business of motor parts and used to go to Delhi for purchasing. On 29.04.2014 he was at his house. At about 10:30 p.m. he heard scream of a girl, he came out of the house and found Ankita and Janhvi there and asked the reason for screaming then they informed that Ravi uncle had shot her mother Shweta and her father had gone to Delhi. When he entered in the house, he found dead body of Shweta there, then he rang Rishi Talwar. Several other persons also gathered there who informed the police. The police reached after half an hour, he informed the police about the incident.

(VI) In cross-examination the witness deposed that he did not go to Rishi Talwar's house daily. He cannot say that there used to be quarrel between the wife and husband inside the house. He used to contract in PWD/RES. Their houses are opposite to each other. He neither went to inform any police officer and also did not give it in writing to any police officer on the spot nor did he go to tell any senior officer. Today for the first time he was telling the court. He had not even given an affidavit to any court or anywhere. It is true that on the next day of the incident accused had left the house saying that he was going to the police station. Next day Rishi Talwar was sent to jail. He had rung Rishi Talwar from his mobile no.8853202916. Daughters had given his number. It was informed to him that on the day of incident at about 08:00-09:00 p.m. he had gone to Delhi. Both the daughters had knocked the door of his house. Police came after half an hour till then he remained standing out of the house. Leaving a constable there, the police returned. After 01:00 a.m. he also went to sleep. Police had said that as per need they will call him. The dead body was near a water tap. Shweta was in salwar-suit. He could not say the colour. He had not rung the police. Neighbourers - Sanjiv Pandey, Manish Agrawal, Bablu Agrawal and Saxena Ji had come. He informed the police that daughters had informed him that Ravi uncle had shot their mother. He did not ask about Ravi uncle. Rishi Talwar had informed him at about 07:00-08:00 a.m. to go to police station. After knowing that Rishi Talwar has been sent to jail for the charge of murder of his wife, he did not inform the fact to any police officer. After getting summon from the constable he had come to testify himself. The witness denied that being neighbourer he was giving false evidence.

(VII) Upon being asked by the court the witness answered that he had not heard the sound of firing as the TV was on. He had come out when the daughters came screaming out of the house.

21. Grounds of Appeal:-

(I) The appellant has taken the ground that informant, PW-1 is not an eye-witness and his evidence is wholly unreliable. The only eye-witness is PW-4, Kumari Anchita. The trial court had failed to appreciate her evidence. She had stated that Ravi is the real culprit and the appellant was out of city. Non-prosecution of Ravi is no ground to fasten the guilt upon the appellant and to punish him. The time of occurrence has not been established. The post mortem was conducted after 32 hours but no rigor mortis was found. No credible evidence has been brought on record about a strained relationship to the extent to cause murder. There was no motive on the part of the appellant. The trial court was not justified in relying upon the CD containing the conversation between the appellant and Smt. Charu Suri, PW-13.

(II) The evidence in the form of CD is hit by Section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act. No licence of the software was produced in the trial. The trial court had simply relied on the CD on the ground that PW-13 has not claimed the voice test. It is established law in criminal justice that prosecution has to prove its case on its own evidence and not on the weakness of the investigation or the defence. The affidavit sworn on 05.05.2014 was executed after one week of the occurrence and PW-13 was also a named accused but she was not charge-sheeted. This affidavit was disowned by PW-13 but in any case there is a possibility that it might have been obtained under coercion.

(III) Recovery has been shown from the appellant by PW-10 on 01.05.2014 at 07:30 a.m. while according to the prosecution, the FIR was lodged on 30.04.2014 according to which occurrence took place on 29.04.2014 at 04:45 p.m. It is beyond contemplation that in such circumstances the appellant would carry the weapon with him. The trial court has wrongly shifted the burden of proof upon the accused as to who has committed the murder while there is sufficient evidence that the appellant on 29.04.2014 in the night left his residence for Delhi by Southern Express at 09:30 p.m. The trial court has completely failed to consider this aspect. The impugned judgment and order is bad in law and wholly unwarranted. The prosecution has utterly failed to prove its case beyond the shadow of reasonable doubt. It is based on misleading evidence. The sentence and fine imposed by the trial court are wholly illegal, excessive and unwarranted. Conviction and sentence is against the weight of evidence on record. Hence, the appeal be allowed and the impugned judgment and order passed by the trial court be set aside.

22. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

23. The appeal is decided as under:-

(I) In this case, according to the informant and other witnesses before being killed, the deceased informed her parents about the maltreatment by the accused via telephone at 08:00 p.m. on 28.04.2014 and she also informed that the accused was beating her since last 3-4 days. The deceased again rang at 11:00 - 12:00 p.m. that accused was still beating her. She requested her father to take her away with her children otherwise the accused Rishi would kill her. The informant assured her that he would come in the morning. PW-1, informant again deposed that on 29.04.2014 at 04:55 a.m. Smt. Asha Talwar, mother of the accused made a missed call at his mobile no.9821154419 and when he called back, her phone was switched off. At about 11:00 a.m. his daughter-in-law, Charu Suri, rang and informed that Rishi Talwar has killed Shweta by shooting her. Thereafter the informant after informing SSP, Jhansi and his relative, Kamalraj departed from Mumbai and in the night of 29/30.04.2014 at about 01:00 a.m. he with his wife, son-in-law and daughter reached Jhansi and found that the dead body of his daughter Shweta Talwar was lying in bathroom whom Rishi Talwar had killed by shooting.

(II) The FIR was lodged by the informant at 02:00 a.m. on 30.04.2014 just an hour after reaching the place of occurrence. Why the delay was caused is properly explained by the informant PW-1. PW-5, Monika, elder sister of the deceased and the remaining witnesses have also admitted that informant reached Jhansi in the night of 29/30.04.2014. Thus, there is no delay in lodging the FIR. In the written complaint all necessary facts have been mentioned. FIR is not an encyclopedia. It is not necessary to mention all the facts relating to the commission of the crime.

24. In Rohtash Vs. State of Rajasthan, AIR 2007 SCW 44 it was held that FIR is not an encyclopedia of entire case and need not contain all details.

25. It is a case based on circumstantial evidence. The informant and other witnesses of fact were not present on the spot. Only PW-4, Kumari Anchita is said to be present who has not supported the prosecution version.

26 . In Motilal and others Vs. State of UP, AIR 2010 SC 281 it was held that FIR need not contain every minute details about the occurrence. It is not necessary that the name of every individual present at the scene of occurrence must be stated in the FIR.

27. In Harbans Kaur and another Vs. State of Haryana, AIR 2005 SC 2989 it was held that even a long delay in lodging the FIR can be ignored if witnesses have no motive of implicating accused and have given plausible reason for delay.

28. In Ravinder Kumar and another Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 2001 SC 3570 it was held that when there is a criticism on ground that FIR in a case was delayed, court has to look at reason why there was such a delay. Instances causing delay have to be looked into. If causes are not attributable to any fault to concoct a version made, delay cannot be a ground to treat the FIR vitiated.

29. In C. Magesh Vs. State of Karnataka, AIR 2010 SCW 3194 it was held that the FIR is not substantive evidence it can only be used to corroborate its maker.

30. In this case death of informant's daughter by his son-in-law has been caused. There is no proof that the informant had any enmity or immediate or remote cause of false implication. From the evidence it is established that the family life of the accused and deceased was not good and either divorce petition was going on or a decree of divorce had been passed between them. Even then for the sake of minor daughters, the deceased was living in the house of the accused husband. Thus, the defence argument that the FIR are ante-dated or ante-timed is not proved and the argument advanced in this respect is rejected.

Motive

31. As per the written complaint, the motive behind the commission of crime is that accused used to beat the deceased soon after the marriage. The deceased used to inform her family members and parents about beating and abuses hurled by the accused. He often threatened for divorce, demanded money and threatened to kill her if the deceased did not get divorce. These facts have been proved by the informant PW-1, Manohar Lal Suri.

32. PW-4, Kumari Anchita, daughter of the deceased, has deposed in cross-examination by the accused that relations between his parents were good and no quarrel ever took place. But this evidence of PW-4 is not corroborated by the other evidence on record.

33. PW-5, Monika Umesh Sirke, elder sister of the deceased, deposed in favour of the prosecution and has proved the facts regarding maltreatment by the accused alleged in the written compliant. According to this witness, Smt. Asha Talwar, mother of the accused Rishi Talwar is her real aunt (mausi) and elder sister of her mother. She used to make excuses about her son's conduct, therefore, considering her apologies, Shweta used to go back to her husband's house. She again deposed that Charu Suri her sister-in-law (bhabhi) used to make reconciliation by giving them reference of the girls then Shweta used to go back in her husband's house.

34. PW-8, Umesh Vishnu Sirke, brother-in-law of the deceased has also deposed in favour of the prosecution. PW-9, Smt. Shakti Suri, mother of the deceased has deposed in support of the prosecution that the accused would frequently beat and abuse the deceased and even before the killing, she was physically and mentally tortured.

35. PW-11, Sudhir Suri, brother of the deceased has also deposed in favour of the prosecution and has produced and proved the call recording of the accused, his sister, Charu Suri and his mother regarding his confession.

36. PW-13, Charu Suri, sister-in-law (bhabhi/nanad) of the deceased has not supported the prosecution version and has been declared hostile, although earlier an application with affidavit on 05.05.2014 was given to SSP, Jhansi by her through his advocate, Janardan Vyas notarised by PW-14, notary advocate, Lala Ram Verma. Though the witness tried to deny the execution of the aforesaid application and affidavit but she could not succeed in it.

37. It has also come in evidence that the marriage between the accused and the deceased had broken down and a Divorce Petition No.740 of 2013, under Section 13-B of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 was registered on 17.12.2013 in which address of the deceased is shown as Nerula, Navi Mumbai with the contention that both were living separately since 18th September, 2011 but the deceased was continuing to live in the same house with her children till the date of incident as six months statutory period prescribed under Section 13-B of Hindu Marriage Act had not elapsed.

38. The deceased has met with an unnatural death in the house of the accused, therefore, if alibi of the accused is not proved then the burden under Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act would be upon the accused to explain the circumstances leading to the unnatural death of the deceased.

39. In this case inquest was conducted after lodging the FIR by the Investigating Officer on 30.04.2014 from 02:00 to 02:25 a.m. in which the witnesses have opined that the deceased has died due to gunshot injury. There were blood stained injury above the left ear and three fingers above the navel. In the inquest crime number and sections are mentioned. The witnesses opined that the deceased had died due to gunshot which is also corroborated from the post mortem report. Inquest is not a substantive piece of evidence. The purpose of inquest is to ascertain prima facie, immediate cause of death. There is no need to mention the name of the accused or weapon used in commission of crime or name of the witnesses etc. Thus in this case it is found that the inquest has been done in accordance with rules.

40. On 30.04.2014 at 12:30 p.m. the post mortem commenced. In the evidence of PW-7 the description of the post mortem report has been mentioned. It is found that inquest report, post mortem report and the oral evidence corroborate each other. Hence, there is no need to discuss the post mortem report any further.

Witnesses

41. In this case PW-1, informant - Manohar Lal Suri is the father; PW-5, Monika Umesh Sirke is the elder sister; PW-8, Umesh Vishnu Sirke is brother-in-law; PW-9, Smt. Shakti Suri is the mother and PW-11, Sudhir Suri is brother of the deceased. Thus, they are the family members and relative of the deceased and informant. They all have supported the prosecution version and have adduced evidence regarding the maltreatment of the accused upon the deceased and killing by the accused using firearm. Except for the children of the deceased and accused, none else was present in the house. If the witnesses are the family members or relatives of the informant or the deceased and their evidence is cogent, truthful, reliable and free from any bias it can be relied upon after a careful and cautious scrutiny.

42. Apart from the above witnesses, PW-4, Kumari Anchita, daughter of the deceased and the accused and PW-13, Smt. Charu Suri, sister-in-law (bhabhi/nanad) of the deceased have also been examined. Evidence of these witnesses also has to be scrutinised as they are related to the accused and the deceased. It is admitted by both the parties that PW-4, Kumari Anchita, daughter of the deceased and accused was present in the house at the time of commission of crime. First of all, she was tested under Section 118 of the Indian Evidence Act and was declared to be competent witness and thereafter she was testified on oath. According to this witness the occurrence took place at 09:00 p.m. on 29.04.2014, half an hour after her father left for Delhi, Ravi uncle came and rang the bell; his mother opened the door; he sat in the drawing room; she was watching TV inside the house. They were talking and after sometime she heard that they were quarrelling. She turned down the volume of TV and heard Ravi uncle pressurising her mother to go with him. Her mother refused on the pretext that her husband was not in the house and children were alone. Thereafter, Ravi uncle started to use force. When her mother asked him to leave, he took out a small gun; frightened her mother started running towards bathroom and tried to close the door but before she could succeed, Ravi uncle fired at her and she fell down. She started weeping and crying. He threatened her not to inform anyone regarding his coming there. She went to the upper portion of the house and informed his younger sister that Ravi uncle had killed their mother. She went out of the house where Anil Singh and Sanjeev Pandey uncle met with her, she had informed all the things to them. They said that they were calling to the police station. As she was getting nervous by herself in the house, she remained sometime at the house of Anil Singh and Sanjeev Pandey. Next day when her maternal grandfather came, she told him the facts when he said that he was going to the police station. On 01.05.2014 at 04:00 a.m. her father came and she told all these things about her mother. Her father said that he was going to the police station but did not return.

43. The witness was declared hostile and was cross-examined by the prosecution but she remained intact and did not support the prosecution version. The lower court has not found this witness credible and has not accepted her evidence. This witness has admitted that she had come to court with her aunt (bua), Smt. Charu Suri, PW-13 and was living with her and her cousin brother, Rudransh. Thus, it is proved that she was under the pressure and command of Charu Suri who has also deposed against the prosecution and in support of her accused brother. It appears that this witness was persuaded that her mother had died and her father was alive but in jail, so if she did not give hostile statement, her life would be ruined and his father would be punished and there would be no one to look after and maintain her.

44. PW-13, Charu Suri, elder sister of the accused, has not supported the prosecution version. This witness has not accepted that accused used to torture and harass the deceased and would have wanted to get rid of her. She expressed ignorance that her brother had filed a petition for divorce. Further, she admitted that if it was so, even then her sister-in-law (bhabhi) used to live with her brother and children till the last moment. It is prosecution case that this witness had moved paper no.15-A/1 dated 05.05.2014 and affidavit of the same date before the SSP, Jhansi which are paper no.15-A/2 to 15-A/4. This witness had denied her signature on the application and the affidavit. This witness has been declared hostile and has been cross-examined by the prosecution. The aforesaid application and affidavit were prepared and signed by advocate, Janardan Vyas who has also identified this witness. The affidavit was notarised by advocate, Lala Ram Verma. This witness admits that there was no enmity or animosity with these two advocates. This witness admitted her signature on the application no.114-B Ex.Ka-17. This witness also accepted that she had come from the chamber of advocate, Ramesh Chandra Agrawal, the advocate of her brother (accused). Thus, it is proved that this witness has been supported by the counsel for the accused. This witness also admitted that some adjournment applications moved on her behalf were prepared and moved by the same advocate, Ramesh Chandra Agrawal. This witness admits that she had not made any complaint against the advocates regarding preparation of forged affidavit but she further deposed that only an application was moved in the court though no such application has been filed by this witness.

45. Under Section 73 of Indian Evidence Act the court has power to compare the signature, writing or seal with other admitted or proved signatures, writing or seal. The trial court compared the signatures available on paper no.15-A/4 with Ex.Ka-17 and observed that both the signatures have maximum similarity.

46. Thus, the lower court has concluded that paper nos.15-A/1 to 15-A/4 were prepared, signed and moved by this witness in which she admits that her brother had committed the offence.

47. In Bhagwan Jagannath Markad Vs. State of Maharashtra (2016) 10 SCC 537, Charanpal Vs. State of UP (2006) 6 SCC 662, State of Maharashtra Vs. Tulsi Ram Bhanu Das Kambla AIR 2007 SC 3042, Sucha Singh Vs. State of Punjab (2003) 7 SCC 643 and in so many other cases it is held that the testimony of a witness in a criminal case cannot be discarded merely because the witness is a relative or family member of the victim of the offence. In such cases the court has to adopt a careful and cautious approach in scrutinising the evidence of such witness and if the testimony of related witness is otherwise found credible, accused can be convicted on the basis of testimony of such related witness. Therefore, the evidence of father, mother, sister and brother of the deceased cannot be discarded on account of them being relatives of the deceased.

48. In Sucha Singh (supra) and Pooja Pal Vs. Union of India (2016) 3 SCC 135, Shyama Ghos Vs. State of West Bengal AIR 2012 SC 3539, G. Parshwanath Vs. State of Karnataka, AIR 2010 SC 2914 and in several other cases it is held that evidence of a hostile witness cannot be rejected outrightly. Both the parties are entitled to rely on such parts of his evidence which assists their cases. In this case, PW-4, Kumari Anchita, daughter of the deceased and the accused and PW-13, Smt. Charu Suri, sister of the accused have become hostile and have not supported the prosecution version. This witness has deposed at page-2 that on 29.04.2014 at 09:00 p.m. at the time of incident her father, mother, sister - Janhvi and she herself were present though after sometime her father went to Delhi by train. According to her, after half an hour Ravi uncle came and killed the deceased but no other person had seen Ravi before or after the incident, entering or exiting in the house of the accused. Those days CCTV cameras were often installed by several persons but no such video clip has been produced to establish the presence of Ravi before or after or at the time of incident at the relevant places. It is admitted fact that Ravi lives in Mumbai. Brother of the deceased namely Sudhir Suri and Ravi both are friends. Accused has not produced copy of the divorce petition to show that due to illicit relation of the deceased with Ravi, he had moved the petition for divorce. No submission of such ground nullifies the defence. Hence the ground taken by the accused and the hostile witnesses i.e.

Kumari Anchita and Charu Suri. Statement in this regard under Section 313 CrPC is also not reliable. An independent police agency has investigated the case and has not found arrival of Ravi at Jhansi from Mumbai at the relevant date and time of the incidence.

49. At the time of deposition, PW-4, Kumari Anchita Talwar was living with her aunt (bua) - PW-13, Charu Suri, therefore, she had deposed in such manner. Being a child of tender age she could easily be convinced to give evidence in favour of her accused father. The conclusion is that the evidence of this witness cannot be read in favour of the defence but from the evidence of this witness it is established that the deceased was killed by gun shot at the alleged date and time and at the alleged place of occurrence, in the house of the accused.

50. PW-13, Charu Suri was not present on the place of occurrence and has denied that the accused rang her and informed her about killing of the deceased upon which she scolded him and informed her in-laws. From the evidence of her husband, PW-11, Sudhir Suri and from the recording produced in court it is established that the accused made a confessional statement on mobile to her and she had also conveyed this confessional statement of the accused to her in-laws. This witness had also moved an application paper no.15-A/2, 15-A/4 before the SSP, Jhansi in which she has admitted that the accused had killed the deceased. Later on she tried to retract but from the evidence of PW-14, Lala Ram Verma, notary advocate it is established that the alleged affidavit was executed by her with the help of advocate Sri Janardan Vyas and after signing the affidavit Ex.A-18/A19 produced before him by deponent Smt. Charu Suri she had sworn before him which was duly certified by him.

51. This witness has not produced the evidence independently but she was in contact of Sri Ramesh Chandra Agrawal, advocate for the accused. She used to visit his chamber and had come to court to adduce evidence from his chamber. Counsel for the accused had moved adjournment applications on different dates for her. Thus deposition against the prosecution and in favour of the accused is quite natural. More so, she left her husband and started living separately in Jhansi. In the changed circumstances this witness has not deposed in favour of the prosecution. Hence, her statement is not reliable, admissible and acceptable in favour of the defence.

52. In this case the deceased was the wife of the accused who was living in his house with her children. The incident had taken place inside the house. Therefore, Section 106 of Evidence Act is applicable. For ready reference Section 106 is reproduced as under:-

"106. Burden of proving fact especially within knowledge.--When any fact is especially within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him.

Illustrations

(a) When a person does an act with some intention other than that which the character and circumstances of the act suggest, the burden of proving that intention is upon him.

(b) A is charged with travelling on a railway without a ticket. The burden of proving that he had a ticket is on him."

53. This section is an exception to the burden of proving the fact by the prosecution.

54. In Sandeep Vs. State of UP, (2012) 6 SCC 107, Prithipal Singh Vs.

State of Punjab, 2012 (76) ACC 680 (SC), Jagdish Vs. State of UP, 2009 (67) ACC 295 (SC) and State of Punjab Vs. Karnail Singh, 2003 (47) ACC 654 (SC) it was held that the law casts a duty on prosecution to lead evidence of such character which is almost impossible to be led or at any rate extremely difficult to be led. The duty on prosecution is to lead such evidence which is capable of leading having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case. Here it is necessary to keep in mind Section 106 of the Evidence Act which says that when any fact is especially within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him. Where an offence like murder is committed in secrecy inside a house, the initial burden to establish the case would undoubtedly be upon the prosecution, but the nature and amount of evidence to be led by it to establish the charge cannot be of the same degree as is required in other cases of circumstantial evidence. The burden would be comparatively of a lighter character. In view of Section 106 of Evidence Act, there will be a corresponding burden on the inmates of the house to give a cogent explanation as to how the crime was committed. The inmates of the house cannot get away by simply keeping quiet and offering no explanation on the supposed premise that the burden to establish its lies entirely upon the prosecution to offer any explanation.

55. In Joshinder Yadav Vs. State of Bihar, (2014) 4 SCC 42 it is held that where cruelty and harassment by husband or his relative eventually led to murder of bride by poisoning, circumstantial evidence established murder by poisoning even though viscera report from FSL was not brought on record but corroborative evidence of father and brother of deceased was found credible, it has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that the attending circumstances led to irresistible conclusion of guilt of the accused persons as to how the body of the deceased was found in the river was within their special and personal knowledge but burden under Section 106 of the Evidence Act was not discharged by the accused persons and false explanation was given by them under Section 313 CrPC drawing adverse inference, the Hon'ble Supreme Court confirmed the conviction of the accused persons for the offences under Sections 302/149, 498-A, 201 IPC.

56. All the above judicial precedents and findings would be of no avail if accused succeeds in proving his alibi that he was not present on the spot at the alleged date and time of the occurrence. This fact is decided separately as under:-

(I) The accused has taken plea of alibi that on 29.04.2014 he had gone to Delhi for purchase of articles for his shop. The accused has examined two witnesses to prove his plea of alibi.

(II) DW-1, Mahendra Dubey has deposed that he has a shop in the name and style of Prakash Traders in Sadar Bazar, Jhansi. He is an A-Class Government Contractor and General Order Supplier. According to him, the accused is also an A-Class Government Contractor and Army Supplier. He sells motor parts in his shop. According to him on 29.04.2014 he had gone to Delhi and had left his house at 08:30 p.m. When he reached railway station and stood in the queue, Rishi Talwar came and provided money to purchase a ticket for Delhi. Hence, he purchased two tickets for Delhi. They both reached Nizamuddin Railway Station, Delhi by Southern Express and had breakfast in the waiting room, thereafter they left for Kashmiri Gate at around 09:30 a.m. There they both bought motor parts. Thereafter Rishi Talwar provided receipt and said that he had a meeting and requested to book his goods as well. Then he booked the articles on 01.05.2014 and returned Jhansi on 02.05.2014 where he came to know that Rishi Talwar has been sent to jail with regard to the murder of his wife. This witness has denied that he also looks after the business of the accused, but admitted that in the court room Charu Talwar was standing behind. He did not get any summon. He had come to testify at the behest of Charu. This witness admitted that he has had good business relations with Rishi and Charu for about 25 years. This witness had moved two adjournment applications written by Sri Ramesh Agrawal, advocate for the accused Rishi. Therefore, the prosecution argued that this witness was not deposing independently but was testifying in favour of the accused at the behest of the accused and his sister, Charu Suri with the help of his advocate. This witness admits that on 02.05.2014 he came to know that Rishi Talwar is in jail for the murder of his wife, Shweta. Even then he did not inform any police officer in writing that at the time of incident Rishi Talwar was with him in Delhi. After such deposition this witness himself said that he had told the S.O. Ram Bhajan Singh. This witness further deposed that after that, till date, he had not given in writing to any police officer that Rishi Talwar was with him that day. He had also not complained to higher authorities about the S.O. not taking cognizance. He had not given this information in writing or by post or personally to SSP, Jhansi.

(IV) The trial court has also cross-examined the witness in which he admitted that it is true that he used to come to the advocate for the accused due to business relation with the accused. On 30.04.2014 between 11:00 to 12:00 O'clock he and Rishi Talwar separated from each other till then neither of them had received information about the incident over phone. But this witness has further deposed that it seems strange that the husband was not even informed on the phone about the wife's murder but he cannot tell the reason for it. The accused had the opportunity to produce the shopkeeper from whose shop he had bought the goods but it was not done.

(V) DW-2, Anil Kumar Singh is the neighbour of the accused who has given evidence of good behaviour of the accused and that the accused and the deceased were living peacefully and they had not been seen fighting and quarrelling.

(VI) According to Section 53 of the Evidence Act in criminal proceedings, the fact that the accused is of a good character is relevant but if evidence of his good character is adduced then according to Section 54 of the Evidence Act, the evidence regarding bad character becomes relevant. From the evidence of prosecution witnesses it is proved that their matrimonial life was not good. Even on the day of occurrence the deceased was badly beaten several times by the accused, whereupon she had sought help from her parents. According to this witness on 29.04.2014 at about 10:30 p.m. he heard the scream of a girl. When he came out of his house Anchita and Janhvi met him and informed that Ravi uncle had shot their mother and also informed that their father had gone to Delhi. When he entered the house, the dead body of Shweta was lying there. Thereafter he rang Rishi Talwar.

(VII) If for the sake of argument the evidence of this witness is accepted, the accused was informed about the murder of his wife at about 10:30 p.m. Though in the cross-examination this witness tried to handle his point and said that he did not succeed in contacting the accused on mobile, if it was so, why it was not deposed in the examination-in-chief, is relevant. If accused was out of station and such incident had been caused by another person, this witness and the daughters were competent enough to inform the accused by telephone, mobile or from the telephone booth. It appears that in this regard evidence in cross-examination of the witness is not true. According to him, after half an hour police had reached on the spot. If the children had provided mobile number of the accused to this witness, the police was also competent enough to take the mobile phone from the children and would have talked with the accused. It means the children were also aware that the accused is the real culprit, hence there was no reason for them to inform him.

(VIII) This witness has also not seen Ravi at or nearby the place of occurrence. This witness also admits that one Sanjiv Pandey had also rung up the accused. Sanjiv Pandey has not been examined. Thus, if for the sake of argument it is accepted that on the date and time of occurrence the accused was on the way to Delhi then after coming to know such fact any husband would return to home immediately and would not go for business purposes. This all show that the evidence of this witness is also a bundle of lies. Thus, this Court is of the opinion that from the evidence of these two witnesses it is not established that at the time of occurrence the accused was out of station and was not in the house.

(IX) Both the defence witnesses are either worker in same trade or neighbours of the accused but their evidence did not succeed in passing the prescribed criteria of litmus test.

57. The learned trial court had pointed out the fact of the bail application in which the accused has confessed that in the night of 29.04.2014 he was at the house. In the night some unknown person entered his house and killed his wife. Thus, the accused has accepted his presence at the time of the incident. In paragraph 10 of the bail application he has mentioned that he was at his house at the time of incident and after lodging the FIR on 30.04.2014, he was arrested showing false arrest on 01.05.2014, fake revolver and cartridges were shown to be recovered from his possession. The accused has also tried to falsely implicate Ravi in commission of murder of the deceased. If really he would have gone to Delhi, the plea of alibi would have been mentioned in the bail application.

58. Thus, from the averments of the bail application it is crystal clear that later on after taking legal assistance, the accused created a concocted story that before the murder of the deceased he had left Jhansi and had gone to Delhi. In this regard, his unnatural and unexpectable behaviour has already been discussed and it has been concluded that he had not gone to Delhi. From such written confession it is also established that PW-4 Kumari Anchita Talwar, PW-13, Smt. Charu Suri and DW-1 and DW-2 have given a false statement knowing it to be false and tried their best to misguide the court for which they should have been tried for giving false evidence under Chapter X and XI of the IPC.

59. Under Section 11 of the Evidence Act the plea of alibi is enumerated. Section 11 reads as under:-

"11. When facts not otherwise relevant become relevant.--Facts not otherwise relevant are relevant--(1) if they are inconsistent with any fact in issue or relevant fact;

(2) if by themselves or in connection with other facts they make the existence or non-existence of any fact in issue or relevant fact highly probable or improbable.

Illustrations

(a) The question is, whether A committed a crime at Calcutta on a certain day. The fact that, on that day, A was at Lahore is relevant. The fact that, near the time when the crime was committed, A was at a distance from the place where it was committed, which would render it highly improbable, though not impossible, that he committed it, is relevant.

(b) The question is, whether A committed a crime. The circumstances are such that the crime must have been committed either by A, B, C or D, every fact which shows that the crime could have been committed by no one else and that it was not committed by either B, C or D, is relevant."

60. In Binay Kumar Singh Vs. State of Bihar, AIR 1997 SC 322 it was held that when the presence of the accused at the scene of occurrence has been established satisfactorily by the prosecution through reliable evidence, normally the Court would be slow to believe any counter evidence to the effect that he was elsewhere when the occurrence happened. But if the evidence adduced by the accused is of such a quality and of such a standard that the Court may entertain some reasonable doubt regarding his presence at the scene when the occurrence took place, the accused would, no doubt, be entitled to the benefit of that reasonable doubt. In such circumstances, the burden on the accused is rather heavy. It follows, therefore, that strict proof is required for establishing the plea of alibi.

61. The question arises as to whether the statement of the deceased to her parents on phone/mobile is admissible under Sections 6 and 32(i) of the Evidence Act or not. For ready reference Section 6 reads as under:-

"6. Relevancy of facts forming part of same transaction.--Facts which, though not in issue, are so connected with a fact in issue as to form part of the same transaction, are relevant, whether they occurred at the same time and place or at different times and places.

Illustrations

(a) A is accused of the murder of B by beating him. Whatever was said or done by A or B or the by-standers at the beating, or so shortly before or after it as to form part of the transaction, is a relevant fact."

62. In State of UP Vs. Bashisht Rai and others, 2006 (5) ALJ (NOC) 902 (All) it was held that for application of Section 6, it is necessary that fact must not be too remote but a part of single transaction. Whatever is stated by eye-witness to murder immediately after incident as to participation of accused would be res gastae evidence, same would be admissible in evidence under Section 6.

63. In Gentela Vijayavardhan Rao and another Vs State Of Andhra Pradesh, AIR 1996 SC 2791 it was held that the essence of the doctrine of res gestae is that the fact which, though not in issue, is so connected with the fact in issue "as to form part of the same transaction" becomes relevant by itself. This rule is, roughly speaking, an exception to the general rule that hearsay evidence is not admissible under Section 6 is on account of the spontaneity and immediacy of such statement or fact in relation to fact in issue. But it is necessary that such fact or statement must be a part of the same transaction. In other words, such statement must have been made contemporaneous with acts which constitute the offence or at least immediately thereafter. But if there was an interval, however slight it may be, which was sufficient enough for fabrication of the statement is not a part of res gestae.

64. In Mukesh Vs. State of NCT of Delhi and others, AIR 2017 SC 2161 (Three Judge Bench) and Sandeep Vs. State of UP, (2012) 6 SCC 107 it was held that the burden of proving the plea of alibi lies upon the accused. If the accused has not adequately discharged the burden, the prosecution version which was otherwise plausible as, therefore, is to be believed.

65. In Om Prakash Vs. State of Rajasthan and another (2012) 5 SCC 201 it was held that plea of alibi has to be raised at the first instance and is subject to strict proof of evidence and cannot be allowed lightly, in spite of lack of evidence merely with the aid of principle that an innocent man may not have to suffer injustice by recording conviction in accordance of his plea of alibi. On similar facts in Adalat Pandit Vs. State of Bihar, (2010) 6 SCC 469 it was held that where in a murder trial, the place of alibi not being far, witnesses being colleagues and there being no proper documentary evidence regarding alleged levy work during time of commission of crime, it has been held that the plea of alibi was rightly rejected.

66. Earlier the prosecution witnesses, PW-1, informant father of the deceased, PW-5, Monika, PW-8, Umesh, PW-9, Smt. Shakti Suri and PW-11, Sudhir Suri have successfully proved that before the incident, the deceased was badly beaten by the accused therefore she contacted her parents through mobile/telephone on which they assured to come and get her with her children.

67. According to this Court, such statement was part of the same transaction, therefore, the conversation made by the deceased before the incident and conversation made by PW-13, Charu Suri after the murder of the deceased are relevant and admissible in evidence.

68. According to this Court, the conversation of the deceased with the aforesaid witnesses is also relevant under Section 32(1) of the Evidence Act. Section 32(1) reads as under:-

"32 Cases in which statement of relevant fact by person who is dead or cannot be found, etc., is relevant.--Statements, written or verbal, of relevant facts made by a person who is dead, or who cannot be found, or who has become incapable of giving evidence, or whose attendance cannot be procured without an amount of delay or expense which, under the circumstances of the case, appears to the Court unreasonable, are themselves relevant facts in the following cases:--

1. when it relates to cause of death.--When the statement is made by a person as to the cause of his death, or as to any of the circumstances of the transaction which resulted in his death, in cases in which the cause of that person's death comes into question. Such statements are relevant whether the person who made them was or was not, at the time when they were made, under expectation of death, and whatever may be the nature of the proceeding in which the cause of his death comes into question.

(a) The question is, whether A was murdered by B; or A dies of injuries received in a transaction in the course of which she was ravished. The question is, whether she was ravished by B; or The question is, whether A was killed by B under such circumstances that a suit would lie against B by A's widow. Statements made by A as to the cause of his or her death, referring respectively to the murder, the rape, and the actionable wrong under consideration, are relevant facts."

69. In Madan Vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2018 SC 2007 it was held that dying declaration is an exception to rule against admissibility of hearsay evidence.

70. Though hearsay evidence is not admissible in evidence but in the event the victim dies, his previous statements to any living person become relevant and admissible in evidence under Section 32(1) of The Indian Evidence Act if it relates to the cause of his death. If he had made any statement in this regard the same can be taken into consideration. The statement would be relevant in every case or proceeding in which the cause of death of that person is in issue. In Indian Law it is not necessary that the person who made any declaration was actually expecting an assault which would kill him. It is, therefore, unlike the English Law (see Sharad Birdichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharastra, AIR 1984 SC 1622). In Bhagirath Vs. State of Haryana (1977) 1 SCC 481, Supreme Court held that if the declarant has in fact died and the statement explains the circumstances surrounding his death, the statement will be relevant even if no cause of death was stated at the time of the making of the statement.

71. In Pakla Narayan Swami Vs. Emperor AIR 1939 Privy Council 47, the accused appealed to the Privy Council on the ground that the statement of the deceased to his wife that "he was going to the accused' was wrongly admitted under Section 32(1) and that the statement of the accused to the police that the deceased arrived at his place was admittedly in violation of Section 162 CrPC. Lord Etkin and other Lordships were of the opinion that the natural meaning of the word "used' do not convey any of these limitations. The statement may be made before the cause of death had arisen or before the deceased had any reason to anticipate his murder. The circumstances must be circumstances of the same transaction; general expression including fear or suspicion whether of a particular individual or otherwise and not directly related to the occasion of the death would not be admissible. But statements made by the deceased that he was proceeding to the spot where he was in fact killed, or any such statement which might give reasons for so proceeding, would be "circumstances" in the same transaction and would be so whether the person was known or was unknown to the accused. "Circumstances of the same transaction" is a phrase which no doubt conveys some limitation. It cannot be analogous to the term "circumstantial evidence", which includes evidence of all relevant facts. It is on the other hand narrower than "res gestae." Circumstances must have proximate relations to the actual occurrence.

72. If we compare the fact of the case in hand with the facts of the case of Pakla Naraya Swami (supra) we find many number of similarities. In this case it is proved from the evidence of PW-1, PW-5, PW-8, PW-9 and PW-11 that on 28.04.2014 at about 08:00 p.m. deceased informed on the telephone that Rishi had beaten her badly and it was continuing for 3-4 days. Again at about 11-12 p.m. she made a call and told that Rishi was still beating her and she said that "papa take her away and her children from there otherwise Rishi would kill them". On this, he told the deceased to come in the morning. In this case such statement of the deceased in the aforementioned circumstances are also admissible under Section 32(1) of the Indian Evidence Act and on this score also the accused is liable to be convicted and sentenced.

73. Burden of proof always lies on the prosecution: The concept of proof beyond the shadow of doubt is to be applied in criminal trials. Doubts would be called reasonable if they are free from zest for abstract speculation or free from an over-emotional response. Doubts must be actual and substantial as to the guilt of the accused persons arsing from the evidence from the lack of it as opposed to mere vague apprehension. A reasonable doubt is not an imaginary, trivial or a mere possible doubt, but a fair doubt based on reason and common sense. It must grow out of the evidence (vide State of M.P. Vs. Dharkole, AIR 2005 SC 44.)

74. In criminal cases burden of proof lies on the prosecution to prove that the accused is guilty of the crime with which he is charged. The prosecution asserts the affirmative of the issue and, therefore, has to prove its case. The Court starts with the presumption that the accused is innocent. The innocence of the accused means nothing more than this that burden lies on the prosecution to prove the case beyond reasonable doubt, it is not the accused who has to satisfy the Court that he is innocent. If there is reasonable doubt as to whether the accused killed the deceased the prosecution has not made out the case, the accused is entitled to an acquittal. More serious the crime more strict proof is required. (Refer: Paramjeet Singh Vs. State of Uttrakhand, AIR 2011 SC 200).

75. In Narain Singh Vs. State of Haryana (2004) 13 SCC 264, Babulal Vs. State of MP (2003) 12 SCC 490 and Sharda Vs. State of Rajasthan 2010 (68) ACC 274 (SC) it was held that a dying declaration made by a person on the verge of his death has a special sanctity as at that solemn moment a person is most unlikely to make any untrue statement. The shadow of impending death is by itself guarantee of the truth of the statement of the deceased regarding the circumstances leading to his death. But at the same time the dying declaration like any other evidence has to be tested on the touchstone of credibility to be acceptable. It is more so, as the accused does not get an opportunity of questioning veracity of the statement by cross-examination. The dying declaration, if found reliable can form the base of conviction. A person who is facing imminent death, with even a shadow of continuing in this world practically non-existent, every motive of falsehood is obliterated. The mind gets altered by most powerful ethical reasons to speak only the truth. Great solemnity and sanctity is attached to the words of a dying person because a person on the verge of death of not likely to tell lies or to concoct a case so as to implicate an innocent person. The maxim is "a man will not meet his Maker with a lie in his mount" (nemo moriturus praesumitur mentire). Matthew Arnold said, "truth sits on the lips of a dying man".

The general principle on whch the species of evidence is admitted is that they are declarations made in extremity, when the party is at the point of death, and when every hope of this world is gone, when every motive to falsehood is silenced and mind induced by the most powerful consideration to speak the truth; situation so solemn that law considers the same as creating an obligation equal to that which is imposed by a positive oath administered in a court of justice.

76. Though in this case there is no formal dying declaration as no dying declaration of the deceased has been recorded by any of the persons or the authorities but when she was beaten badly by the accused and was seriously injured and when she rang to her parents who advised her to go to the upper portion of the house to save her life and they would come tomorrow and will take her back, such conversation which was made by the deceased in fear of her life can be very well treated as dying declaration to her parents. This finding finds support from the principle laid down by the Supreme Court in Mukesh Vs. State (NCT) of Delhi and others, AIR 2017 SC 2161 (Three Judge Bench) in which it was held that dying declaration by gestures and writing is admissible. Such dying declaration is not only admissible but possesses evidentiary value. Further, in Laxman Vs. State of Maharashtra (2002) 6 SCC 710 (Five Judge Bench) and in Balvir Singh Vs. State of Punjab AIR 2006 SC 3221 it was held that recording of dying declaration by Magistrate is not mandatory and the same can be recorded by any of the persons. In Laxman Vs. State of Maharashtra (supra) it was held that no statutory form for recording dying declaration is necessary. A dying declaration can be made verbally or in writing and by any method of communication like signs, words or otherwise provided, indication is positive and definite. A dying declaration can be made by the declarant even verbally. Reducing the dying declaration to writing is not mandatory.

77. In Narendra Kumar Vs. State (NCT) of Delhi, AIR 2016 SC 150 it was held that where dying declaration recorded under Section 32 of the Evidence Act did not contain signature or thumb impression of the deceased and alleged to be in violation of the guidelines issued by the Delhi High Court, it has been held that defect in following guidelines is of trivial in nature. Whole of dying declaration otherwise proved by ample evidence cannot be rejected.

78. Thus, the information given by the deceased before her death about the offensive conduct of the accused would be treated as dying declaration as just after delivery of such information she was killed by the accused.

79. According to prosecution, after commission of crime the accused informed his sister PW-13, Charu Suri and narrated the whole story as to how he killed the deceased. It was conveyed by PW-13, Charu Suri to her in-laws and they were insisted to go to Jhansi and in this regard following evidences are again discussed:-

(I) In written complaint it is mentioned that on 29.04.2014 at 04:45 a.m. Smt. Asha Talwar, mother of the accused made a missed call on his mobile and after sometime when he called back, her phone was switched off. At 11:00 a.m. his daughter-in-law, Charu Suri (PW-13), sister of the accused rang and informed that Rishi Talwar has killed Shweta by shooting her. Though PW-13, Charu Suri has refused and accused Rishi Talwar has also refused to have made such extra judicial confession to Charu Suri but from the electronic evidence and from the evidence of PW-11, Sudhir Suri it is proved that in first recording Rishi Talwar told his sister, Charu Suri that he had killed his wife, Shweta Talwar by shooting her and her dead body was in the house. Second recording proves that Charu Suri and her sister, Neeru Sahai and mother-in-law of the witness Asha Talwar had a conversation about the murder of the deceased in which Charu Suri informs Neeru that their brother Rishi Talwar had shot Shweta Talwar dead. In this conversation Asha Talwar had also confirmed this fact to Neeru. The extra judicial confession made by the accused to her sister and mother is being confirmed by the electronic evidence. The defence was free to get the electronic evidence and device tested by any of the recognized institute if they had doubts about concoction of the false evidence by PW-11, Sudhir Suri but it has not been done and the court has accepted the evidence under Section 65-B of the Evidence Act. Electronic evidence and the oral evidence produced by PW-11, Sudhir Suri is admissible in evidence and it has also been established that the accused has made an extra judicial confession of his guilt to her sisters and mother.

(II) In this case there is no variation in ocular and medical evidence though there is no eye-witness of the evidence. PW-4, Kumari Anchita Talwar who is said to have been present on the place of occurrence has not supported the prosecution but the electronic evidence produced by PW-11, circumstantial evidence and confessional statement made by the accused establishes that the deceased was killed by gun-shot which has also been confirmed in post mortem report and the inquest as well. Therefore, there is no contradiction or variation between the medical evidence and the other evidence. Even the defence also admits that the deceased was killed by gun-shot.

(III) According to learned counsel for the appellant no true recovery of the alleged weapon has been made from the accused and his arrest is false. When he went to the police station to lodge the FIR, he was arrested and was shown to be arrested while locking the gate.

(IV) As per Ex.Ka-5, chik FIR Ex.Ka-8 and statement of the I.O, on 01.05.2014 the accused was arrested when he was locking the gate of the house at about 07:30 a.m. and a country-made pistol of 32 bore upon which "MADE IN USA No.405" and on the barrel "OMEY ARMY SUPPLY" was written, alongwith two live cartridges were recovered. On being asked by the I.O. the accused admitted that he had killed his wife on the night of 29.04.2014 from this pistol. It was sealed on spot. The recovery memo was properly prepared and signed by the witnesses.

(V) Ex.Ka-3, recovery memo of two empty cartridges of 32 bore were also recovered from the spot. In this regard FSL Report 86-A/3 is admissible in evidence under Section 293 CrPC from which it is established that the two empty cartridges recovered from the place of occurrence were executed by the country-made pistol recovered from the possession of the accused. In this regard witnesses PW-2, Kamal Raj and PW-3, Azhar Khan have been declared hostile but in this regard the trial court has relied on the case in Govindaraju @ Govinda Vs. State through Srirampuram P.S. and another, AIR 2012 SC 1292 in which it was held that any recovery by the police personnel would not be taken as doubtful in absence of gross infirmity in the evidence of such police personnel.

(VI) The Investigating Officer, PW-10, Ram Bhajan Singh has proved the recovery. He had no enmity with the accused and the FSL Report has also proved that the empty cartridges found on the place of occurrence were shot from the country-made pistol recovered from the possession of the accused. Defence witnesses have admitted that the accused was an A-class army material supplier hence such a fire-arm could be easily available to him. Thus, there is no doubt that the fire arm and live cartridges were not recovered from the possession of the accused or it would have been planted with the accused to falsely implicate him.

(VII) On the basis of the above discussion it is concluded that the relations between the accused and the deceased were not cordial but the deceased was living with the accused for the sake of the future of her children. The deceased was always subjected to cruelty by the accused about which she used to inform her parents. Before this fateful incident she was badly beaten by the accused and was advised by her parents to go to the upper portion of the house to save her life but she could not succeed in it and was killed by the accused. If the deceased would have been killed by another person then the accused could have also received some injuries in the course of firing or saving the life of the deceased as it has been established that he was not out of the house on the date and time of the incident. Further, the empty cartridges fallen on the floor also matched with the fire-arm recovered from the possession of the accused. If the police would have falsely implicated him, certainly there would have been some variation in matching of the cartridges with the recovered fire-arm. Further the accused made an extra judicial confession to his sister Charu Suri and his mother which was recorded with the assistance of electronic device by PW-11, Sudhir Suri. Not making any hue and cry, not lodging any FIR, not informing the in-laws about the murder of the deceased by the accused are also some important points which indicate that none else except the accused had committed the offence and he was thinking to disappear and hide the dead body of the deceased and other incriminating materials from the spot in which he could not succeed.

(VIII) When it is proved that testimony of PW-4, Kumari Anchita Talwar is not correct and she had not supported the prosecution, therefore, this case remains a case based on the circumstantial evidence.

80. It is a case based on circumstantial evidence. None else has seen the commission of crime but the witnesses are not inimical to the accused persons.

81. In cases Nathiya Vs. State (2016) 10 SCC 298, Bhim Singh Vs. State of Uttarakhand (2015) 4 SCC 281 (para 23), Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116 (paras 120 and 121), State of West Bengal Vs. Dipak Halder, (2009) 7 SCC (Three Judge Bench) the Supreme Court has laid down the following principles regarding cases based on circumstantial evidence:

(i) The circumstance from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn must or should be and not merely "may be" fully established;

(ii) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty;

(iii) the circumstances should conclusive in nature and tendency;

(iv) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved; and

(v) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must be so that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

82. In Bhim Singh (supra) it was held that when the conclusion is to be based on circumstantial evidence solely, then there should not be any snap in the chain of circumstances.

83. In State of Goa Vs. Pandurang Mohite, AIR 2009 SC 1066 and in State of U.P. Vs. Satish, (2005) 3 SCC 114 the Supreme Court held that circumstances of "last seen together" do not by themselves and necessarily lead to the inference that it was accused who committed the crime. There must be something more establishing connectivity between the accused and the crime. The time gap between last seen alive and the recovery of dead body must be so small that the possibility of any person other than the accused being the author of the crime becomes impossible.

84. In Rohtash Kumar Vs. State of Haryana, 2013 (82) ACC 401 (SC) (para 25) and in Prithipal Singh Vs. State of Punjab, (2012) 1 SCC 10 the Supreme Court held that if it is established that victim and the accused were lastly seen together then the burden of proof shifts on the accused requiring him to explain how the incident had occurred. Failure on the part of the accused to furnish any explanation in this regard would give rise to a very strong presumption against him.

85. In Ashok Vs. State of Maharashtra, (2015) 4 SCC 393 the Supreme Court held that initial burden of proof is on the prosecution to adduce sufficient evidence pointing towards the guilt of the accused. However, in case it is established that accused was last seen together with the deceased, prosecution is exempted to prove exactly as to what happened in the incident as the accused himself would have special knowledge of the incident and would have the burden of proof on himself as per Section 106 of the Evidence Act. But last seen together itself is not a conclusive proof. Along with other circumstances surrounding the incident like relations between accused and the deceased, enmity between them, previous history of hostility, recovery of weapon from accused etc, non-explanation of death of deceased, etc. may lead to a presumption of guilt of the accused.

86. Learned counsel for the appellant has relied upon the following judicial precedents:-

(I) In Jai Prakash Tiwari Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, 2017 SCC Online MP 2329 there was no firearm injury caused to the victim. Her mother was not found to be eye-witness of the incident. There was no ballistic report to clearly connect the seized weapon in the alleged incident. The complaint had already been registered in another criminal case against the accused appellant in which he had already been acquitted. The defence was dealt with by the trial court in cursory manner. Hence the order of conviction and sentence was set aside. Facts of above noted case are quite different from the facts of the case in hand. Hence the principle laid down by the learned counsel for the appellant does not apply in favour of the appellant.

(II) In Shivaji Chintappa Patil Vs. State of Maharashtra, 2008 SCC Online Bom 1859 it was held that the cause of death was cardiac respiratory arrest due to asphyxia as a result of hanging. The post mortem report was signed with inordinate delay by almost three months. Motive was not proved and the chain of events was not found intact. Facts of the cited case and evidence adduced by the prosecution are totally different from the case in hand. Hence the principle laid down in the aforesaid case cannot be applied in favour of the appellant.

(III) In Pramila Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh, Criminal Appeal No.700 of 2021, decided on 28.07.2021 it was held that the PW-2 child witness was relied on and the conviction was held but in this case PW-4, Anchita Talwar has not supported the prosecution version. The Supreme Court here had referred the case of State of MP Vs. Ramesh, (2011) 4 SCC 786 in which it was held that the evidence of a child witness must be evaluated more carefully with the greater circumspection because he is susceptible to tutoring. In the case at hand it is proved that the child witness PW-4, Anchita Talwar was living with her aunt (bua) who had also left the house of the husband and was living in her maika at Jhansi with the children of the accused, therefore, there was a high possibility that the PW-4 would have been tutored and in that case the court can reject such statement partly or fully. In the cited case the appellant was not directly connected with the deceased as she was the wife of another brother of the husband of the deceased. It is not a case in which facts like stuffed cloth would have to be in the mouth of the deceased but it was a murder caused by two gun-shots. The post mortem report was not found in consonance with the prosecution case and story. Hence giving benefit of doubt the appellant was acquitted. Comparing from the facts and evidences adduced in both the cases it is concluded that due to several variation on account of facts and evidences in both the cases the principle laid down in the aforesaid case cannot be applied in the instant case.

(IV) In Ravinder Singh @ Kuku Vs. State of Punjab, 2022 Live Law (SC) 461 it was held that the certificate under Section 65-B(4) is a mandatory requirement for production of electronic evidence. It was also held that oral evidence in place of such certificate cannot be possibly suffixed. It was also held that in cases based on circumstantial evidence from the circumstances and inference as to the guilt of the accused have to be proved beyond reasonable doubt and have to be shown to be closely related with the principal facts sought to be inferred from those circumstances. In the present case a CD was kept in safe custody of the court which was played by the witness PW-11, Sudhir Suri in laptop about which he deposed that he had uploaded the CD from google account in which phone and SMS of his wife Charu Suri are recorded and saved. He also provided the bill of purchase of admin software. It is true that no such certificate has been obtained. More so, if the electronic evidence produced by PW-11 is thrown away even then the sufficient material is available on the record to prove the chain of the circumstantial evidence against the accused appellant beyond all reasonable doubts. Section 65-B(4) of the Indian Evidence Act is as under:-

"65B. Admissibility of electronic records.

(a) identifying the electronic record containing the statement and describing the manner in which it was produced;

(b) giving such particulars of any device involved in the production of that electronic record as may be appropriate for the purpose of showing that the electronic record was produced by a computer;

(c) dealing with any of the matters to which the conditions mentioned in sub-section (2) relate, and purporting to be signed by a person occupying a responsible official position in relation to the operation of the relevant device or the management of the relevant activities (whichever is appropriate) shall be evidence of any matter stated in the certificate; and for the purposes of this sub-section it shall be sufficient for a matter to be stated to the best of the knowledge and belief of the person stating it."

87. In this regard the trial court has concluded that PW-11, Sudhir Suri purchased the software in April, 2012. A copy of the bill regarding purchase of said software has been filed by this witness as Ex.Ka-16 from which it is clear that the software was licenced. Thereafter all the conversations made in the phone of Smt. Charu Suri were saved in google account as call recording, which according to this witness are still saved in his Email ID. The witness has clarified that he had made CD by downloading it from the google account and the CD was played in the court. The conversation that took place is the same conversation which he had heard on his google account.

88. Raising a question mark on the admissibility of this electronic evidence, it has been argued that in compliance of Section 65-B of the Act, no certificate has been obtained from the producer of the CD regarding the process of its making and its genuineness. This aspect has been noticed by the court. The conversation saved in the CD automatically available in the form of recording in google account under the effect of an admin software by the witness PW-11, Sudhir Suri may be treated as primary evidence and in that case the requirement of certificate under Section 65-B of the Act does not remain.

89. The trial court has relied on Vikram Singh @ Vicky Walia and another Vs. State of Punjab and another, AIR 2017 SC 3227 in which while interpreting Section 65-B in a case related to kidnapping and extortion, the Apex Court had determined that tape recorded conversation is not a secondary evidence and for that the desired certificate is not required under Section 65-B and there is no need to comply with Section 65-B when an electronic evidence is produced in the court as primary evidence. Further, the trial court was also of the opinion that since the CD pertains to such a conversation which has been downloaded through a licenced software, there is not even an iota of doubt about the genuineness of the conversation present in this CD.

90. It is also noteworthy that Smt. Charu Suri, sister of the accused examined as PW-13, has admitted in her evidence that on the day when the statement of her husband i.e. Sudhir Suri, PW-11 was recorded, she had also come to the court and she has no doubt that her husband used to tape her phone. Thus, it is evident that the genuineness of the above CD played in the Court in presence of Smt. Charu Suri was not denied at any stage either in her evidence or by giving any application. No demand of voice test to match her voice was made either by her or by the accused in the defence. Thus, the conversation present in the said CD is admissible in evidence.

91. The trial court further concluded that considering the relevance of this first recording in evidence, the position is clear before the court that this conversation can be considered as extra judicial confession of the accused, the alleged confession of the accused has taken place before Charu Suri, would have formally proved it in the court by her own evidence. But the court is of the opinion that since the conversation between the accused and his sister after the incident in question has happened in the form of natural expression of the incident, this conversation would certainly be considered relevant in evidence under Section 6 of the Indian Evidence Act. In this respect the learned trial court has relied on State of Maharashtra Vs. Kamal Ahmad Mohammad Vakil Ansari and others, 2013 CrLJ 2069.

92. The trial court has referred the citation State (NCT) of Delhi Vs. Navjot Sandhu @ Afsan Guru (2005) SCC (Crl) 1715 (known as parliament attack case) which has been overruled by the judgment in Anvar P.V. Vs. P.K. Basheer, (2014) 10 SCC 473 (three-Judge Bench) in which it has been ruled that under Section 65B(4) certificate is necessary for admissibility of the secondary evidence. In this case PW-13 has accepted that she had no doubt that her husband was taping her phone. This statement confirms that her statement was recorded by her husband, Sudhir Suri, PW-11.

93. At this stage it is necessary to describe the relevant law in relation to the electronic records. Section 65B(4) of the Evidence Act is as under:-

"(4) In any proceedings where it is desired to give a statement in evidence by virtue of this section, a certificate doing any of the following things, that is to say,--(a) identifying the electronic record containing the statement and describing the manner in which it was produced;

(b) giving such particulars of any device involved in the production of that electronic record as may be appropriate for the purpose of showing that the electronic record was produced by a computer;

(c) dealing with any of the matters to which the conditions mentioned in sub-section (2) relate, and purporting to be signed by a person occupying a responsible official position in relation to the operation of the relevant device or the management of the relevant activities (whichever is appropriate) shall be evidence of any matter stated in the certificate; and for the purposes of this sub-section it shall be sufficient for a matter to be stated to the best of the knowledge and belief of the person stating it."

94. In State of UP Vs. Ajai Kumar Sharma, 2016 (92) ACC 981 (SC) (para 14) it is laid down that a "Compact Disk" is a "document" on which admission and denial may be made by both the parties or their advocates.

95. In Mukesh Vs. State (NCT) of Delhi and others, AIR 2017 SC 2161 (three-Judge Bench) Computer Cell

Expert revealed no tampering or editing of the CCTV footage. It was held to be admissible under Section 65B of the Evidence Act.

96. Under Section 3(2) of the Evidence Act electronic records are the documents and they are relevant and admissible under Sections 17, 22A, 34, 35, 39, 45A, 47-A, 59, 65-A, 65-B, 67-A, 73-A, 81-A, 85-A, 85-B, 85-C, 88, 88-A, 90-A and 131 of the Evidence Act.

97. In R.M. Malkani Vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1973 SC 157 and in Ram Singh and others Vs. Col. Ram Singh, 1985 (Supp) SCC 616 and the State (NCT) of Delhi (supra) it is held that the relevant conversation recorded in the tape recorder is admissible in evidence.

98. In Anvar (supra) and Harpal Singh Vs. State of Punjab, (2017) 1 SCC 734 the Apex Court held that proof of electronic record is a special proviso introduced under the Evidence Act. The very caption of Section 65A of the Evidence Act, read with Sections 59 and 65B is sufficient to hold that the special provisions on evidence relating to electronic record shall be governed by the procedure prescribed under Section 65B of the Evidence Act. That is a complete Code in itself. Being a special law, the general law on secondary evidence under Sections 63 and 65 has to yield. An electronic record by way of secondary evidence therefore shall not be admitted in evidence unless the requirements under Section 65B are satisfied. Thus, in the case of CD, VCD, chip, etc. the same shall be accompanied by the certificate in terms of Section 65B obtained at the time of taking the document, without which the secondary evidence pertaining to that electronic record, is inadmissible.

99. In Vikram Singh Vs. State of Punjab, (2017) 8 SCC 518, the original tape recorded conversation of ransom calls was handed over to the police, it has been held that the original tape record was primary evidence, therefore certificate under Section 65B of the Evidence Act was not required for its admissibility. Such certificate is mandatory only for secondary evidence and not for the primary evidence.

100. In State by Karnataka Lokayukt P.S. Bengaluru Vs. M.R. Hiremath, 2019 0 Supreme 590 (SC) it is held that the certificate under Section 65B is sought to be produced in evidence at the trial, not at the stage of framing of charge.

101. In Arjun Panditrao Kholkar Vs. Kailash Kushanrao Gorantyal and others, AIR 2020 SC 4908 (three-Judge Bench) it has been held that certificate required under Section 65B(4) is a condition precedent to the admissibility of evidence by way of electronic record. Oral evidence in the place of such certificate cannot possibly suffice as Section 65B(4) is a mandatory requirement of the law. Section 65B(4) clearly states that secondary evidence is admissible only if lead in the manner stated and not otherwise. To hold otherwise would render Section 65B(4) otiose. The requisite certificate in sub-section (4) of Sections 65B is unncessary if the original document itself is produced. This can be done by the owner of a laptop computer, a computer tablet or even a mobile phone, by stepping into the witness box and proving that the concerned device on which the original information is first stored, is owned and/or operated by him. In cases where "the computer', as defined happens to be a part of a "computer system' or "computer network' and it becomes impossible to physically bring such network or system to the Court, then the only means of proving information contained in such electronic record can be in accordance with Section 65B(1), together with the requisite certificate under Section 65B(4).

102. In Mohammad Arif @ Ashfaq Vs. State (NCT) of Delhi, 2022 0 Supreme (SC) 1113 (three-Judge Bench) the Apex Court discussed the judgment of Navjot Sandhu (supra) and Anvar (supra) and other pronouncements and held that "it must now be taken to have been settled that the decision of this Court in Anvar P.V. (supra) as clarified in Arjun Panditrao (supra) is the law declared on Section 65B of the Evidence Act. In para 22, the reference of the judgment of Arjun Panditrao (supra) has been given which is as under:-

"73. The reference is thus answered by stating that:

73.1. Anvar P.V. v. P.K. Basheer, (2014) 10 SCC 473, as clarified by us hereinabove, is the law declared by this Court on Section 65-B of the Evidence Act. The judgment in Tomaso Bruno v. State of U.P., (2015) 7 SCC 178, being per incuriam, does not lay down the law correctly. Also, the judgment in Shafhi Mohammad v. State of H.P., (2018) 2 SCC 801 and the judgment dated 3-4-2018 reported as Shafhi Mohd. v. State of H.P., (2018) 5 SCC 311s, do not lay down the law correctly and are therefore overruled.

73.2. The clarification referred to above is that the required certificate under Section 65-B(4) is unnecessary if the original document itself is produced. This can be done by the owner of a laptop computer, computer tablet or even a mobile phone, by stepping into the witness box and proving that the device concerned, on which the original information is first stored, is owned and/or operated by him. In cases where the "computer" happens to be a part of a "computer system" or "computer network" and it becomes impossible to physically bring such system or network to the court, then the only means of providing information contained in such electronic record can be in accordance with Section 65-B(1), together with the requisite certificate under Section 65-B(4). The last sentence in para 24 in Anvar P.V. v. P.K. Basheer, (2014) 10 SCC 473 which reads as "... if an electronic record as such is used as primary evidence under Section 62 of the Evidence Act ..." is thus clarified; it is to be read without the words "under Section 62 of the Evidence Act,...". With this clarification, the law stated in para 24 of Anvar P.V. v. P.K. Basheer, (2014) 10 SCC 473 does not need to be revisited.

73.3. The general directions issued in para 64 (supra) shall hereafter be followed by courts that deal with electronic evidence, to ensure their preservation, and production of certificate at the appropriate stage. These directions shall apply in all proceedings, till rules and directions under Section 67-C of the Information Technology Act and data retention conditions are formulated for compliance by telecom and internet service providers."

103. On the basis of above whether it cannot be said that the evidence produced by PW-11, Sudhir Suri is the original and primary document for which no certificate under Section 65B(4) was necessary.

104. Reaching of deceased's parents, brother, sister and brother-in-law immediately after the incident from the different parts of India proves that the deceased had given all the alleged information over the phone to her parents before her death. Neither it is the case of the prosecution nor of the defence that someone else had given this information to the parents of the deceased. Thus the information given by the deceased to her parents soon before her death would be deemed to have been admitted under Section 6 and Section 32(1) of the Evidence Act. Therefore, even if the statement recorded by PW-11, Sudhir Suri is not considered, the information given by the deceased would be considered to be sufficient evidence to convict the accused.

105. In Kalloo @ Kalyan Singh Vs. State of UP, Criminal Appeal No.1459 of 2009 (AHC, DB) decided on 11.07.2022 it was held that where the accused husband had gone to see Ramleela along with his two children when he came back he found his wife dead. In the cited case PW-1, PW-2, PW-6, PW-7, PW-8, PW-9 and PW-13 were declared hostile. The chain of the circumstantial evidence was not found intact and unbroken but in the case in hand it is not so. Hence, the principle laid down is not applicable in the present case.

106. In this case all the chains of the circumstantial evidence are attached with each other. Motive that there was no cordial relation between the wife and the husband and the accused wanted to get a decree of divorce, presence of the accused admitted by him in his bail application, proof that accused was present in the house where deceased was killed, that the deceased had communicated the torture, beating and ill-treatment soon before her death to her parents, extra judicial confession made by the accused to his sisters and mother, recovery of weapon which has matched with the empty cartridges found on the spot, presence of the accused and the deceased together in the house, failure of the accused to prove the plea of alibi are the chains of the circumstances which are intact and unbroken. Thus, the evidence adduced in this case also meets the criteria propounded in the cases based on circumstantial evidence.

107. On the basis of above discussion, this Court is also of the opinion that the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by the ASJ/FTC, Court No.2 Jhansi dated 11.10.2017 is factually and legally correct and lawful and is not liable to be interfered.

108. The appeal has no force and is liable to be dismissed. Accordingly, the appeal is dismissed.

109. Let the record of the lower court be sent back to the court concerned along with a copy of this judgment.

Hon'ble Ajit Singh, J.)

1. This jail appeal has been preferred against the judgment dated 22.11.2016 passed by the Addl. District & Sessions Judge/SC/ST (P.A.) Act, Ghazipur S.S.T. No. 12 of 2014 (State vs. Ram Awatar @ Ganesh), under section 302 I.P.C. and section 3(2)V SC/ST Act, arising out of Case Crime no. 468 of 2013, P.S. Elhapur, district-Ghazipur, by which he has been convicted under section 302 I.P.C. and sentenced to undergo life imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 10,000/- and life imprisonment a fine of Rs. 10,000/- under section 3(2)V SC/ST Act and in default of payment of fine the accused shall further undergo three months additional imprisonment. Both the sentences shall run concurrently.

2. Heard Sri Brij Raj, learned Amicus Curiae appearing on behalf of the appellant and learned A. G. A. for the State.

3. Brief facts as culled out from the record are that a First Information Report was lodged being Case Crime No. 468 of 2013, under section 302 I.P.C. and section 3(2)V SC/ST Act at P.S. Dulhpur, district-Ghazipur. In the FIR, it was alleged that on 19.12.2013 the wife of the informant namely, Lalti Devi was weeding in Garlic field outside village. At about 1:00 p.m. Ram Awatar alias Ganesh, who is the resident of same village reached there and started assaulting the wife of the informant with 'kudal'. At that very time the complainant along with Bhallu Ram son of Mukhram also reached and seen them, the accused Ram Awatar alias Ganesh ran away from the scene with 'kudal'. When the complainant along with other reached at the spot he found that his injured wife succumbed to the injuries at the spot. Upon hearing the noise raised by complainant other villagers reached at the place of occurrence and after leaving the dead body of his wife the complainant reported the matter to the police.

4. On investigation being put into motion, the investigating officer inspected the place of occurrence, recorded the statements of witnesses, prepared the site plan and after completion of investigation submitted charge-sheet to the learned Magistrate under section 302 I.P.C. and section 3(2)V SC/ST Act. The learned Magistrate summoned the accused and committed him to Court of Sessions as prima facie charges were for offences under Section 302 I.P.C. and 3(2)V SC/ST Act.

5. On being summoned, the accused-appellant pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried. The learned Sessions Judge framed charges under Section 302 I.P.C. and 3(2)V SC/ST Act.

6. The Trial started and the prosecution examined 8 witnesses who are as follows:

1	Rajendra Ram	PW1
2	Gullu Ram	PW2
3	Ramadhar	PW3
4	Dr. Tarkeshwar	PW4
5	Head contable Heera Ram	PW5
6	Ram Singh	PW6
7	Dr. Prabhakar	PW7
	Ram
8	Khalikujma	PW8

7. In support of ocular version following documents were filed and proved:

1	Written Report	Ex.Ka-1
2	Panchayatnama	Ex.Ka-2
2	Postmortem Report	Ex.Ka-3
3	Chik FIR	Ex.Ka-4
4	Copy of G.D.	Ex.Ka-5
5	Bloodstain and simple soil from place of occurrence	Ex. Ka-6
6	Site Plan	Ex.Ka-7
7	Chargesheet	Ex.Ka-8
8	Letter to C.M.O.	Ex.Ka-9
9	Pratisaar Inspector	Ex. Ka-10
10	Chalan lash	Ex. Ka-11
11	Police Form 379	Ex. Ka-12
12	Specimen stamp	Ex. Ka-13

8. At the end of the trial and after recording the statements of the accused under section 313 of Cr.P.C., and hearing arguments on behalf of prosecution and the defence, the learned Sessions Judge convicted the accused-appellant as mentioned above.

9. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant submits that he had never moved application for bail either before the trial court or before this Court. He next submits that the accused was of unsound mind and he is going under treatment since 2014 at mental hospital Varanasi for mental illness. The incident was neither preplanned nor premeditated and it occurred at the spur of moment. The accused was not having any intention to commit the murder of the deceased. He also submits that the Investigating Officer in his statement has deposed that the accused belonged to 'Kushwaha' caste, not belonged to Scheduled Caste/Scheduled Tribes category. He recorded the statement of PW1 Ramadhar son of Mosfir, under section 161 Cr.P.C., in which he has categorically stated that he he had seen the accused running away with 'kudal'. He tried to catch hold of him but the accused succeeded to ran away. He also deposed that he has not seen the accused committing the murder of the deceased. PW2 Gullu Ram has deposed that neither he had seen the accused committing the murder nor heard slang words used by the accused.

10. It is submitted by the counsel for the appellant that as far as commission of offence under Section 3(2)(v) of S.C./S.T. Act, 1989 is concerned, the learned Sessions Judge convicted the accused due to the fact that the victim was a person belonging to Scheduled Caste Community, though there were no allegations as regard the offence being committed due to the caste of the deceased and there were no allegations of commission of offence which would attract the provision of Section 3(2)(v) of SC/ST Act.

11. It is submitted by learned counsel for the State that deceased belongs to Scheduled Caste community and the judgment of learned Trial Judge cannot be found fault with just because there is silence on the part of the informant about atrocity committed. It is submitted that the incident occurred because of the caste of the deceased. It is further submitted that any incident on person belonging to a particular caste would be an offence. It is further submitted by learned counsel for the State that the accused killed the deceased as she was belonging to lower strata of life and hence conviction under section 3(2)V SC/ST Act is justified.

12. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant further submits that with regard to nature of mental illness the trial court owed an obligation to undertake an inquiry under section 329 of the Code so as to ascertain whether the accused-appellant was capable of making his defence. Section 329 Cr.P.C. is mandatory. The trial court should have undertake an inquiry under section 329 Cr.P.C. and only thereafter could have proceeded further with the framing of the charge and recording of the evidence. In terms of Section 329 (I) Cr.P.C. the duty of the Court is to try such fact of unsoundness of mind and incapacity of the accused to defend himself. If on the basis of the material brought on record the Court is so satisfied, it should record the finding accordingly and in such case the trial shall have to be postponed. The provisions contained in Section 329 Cr.P.C. serve an important purpose of not proceeding a trial against a person, who on account of his unsoundness of mind is unable to defend himself. It is not difficult to appreciate that such requirement would be mandatory in nature. The proceeding against a person of unsound mind and holding him guilty of criminal offence would be clearly violative of the guarantee contained under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, that no person shall be deprived of his life or liberty without following the procedure established by law.

13. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant further submits that even if the accused had not raised such a plea and even if the defence counsel had not bothered to look into it, still if the materials on record in the form of the documents disclose something about the mental condition of the appellant-accused, then it is the duty of the trial court to look into the materials and ascertain the capacity of the accused to enter the defence in accordance with the provisions of Section 329 Cr.P.C. The satisfaction of the trial court should be recorded in so may words. The provisions of Section 329 do not embrace an idle formality but are calculated to ensure to an accused person a fair trial which cannot obviously be afforded to an insane person and the non-observance of those provisions must be held to convert a trial into a farce. The courts must, therefore, guard against dealing with the matter of suspected sanity of an appellant/accused.

14. This Court after having gone through the facts and circumstances of the instant case, fact is that which is evident from the material on record that there was hostility between accused and the deceased and criminal litigation had taken place between the deceased and the accused. It also emerges from the material evidence on record that the attack on the deceased by the accused person was not premeditated and preplanned and it happened at the spur of moment in sudden altercation between the deceased and the accused person and there was no intention of the accused person to kill the deceased. Whether the injury inflicted by the accused person was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death or not, must be determined on the basis of the facts and circumstances of the case. In the instant case, only one injury was on the vital part, which proved fatal. The injury caused during the occurrence is not a decisive factor but what is important is that the occurrence must have been sudden and unpremeditated and the offender must have acted in a fit of anger. Of course, the offender must not have taken any undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner. Where, on a sudden quarrel, a person in the heat of the moment picks up an instrument which acts as a weapon and causes injuries, one of which proves fatal, he would be entitled to the benefit of exception provided in section 300 of I.P.C.

15. After considering the rival submissions made by learned counsel for the appellant, We concur the finding of Sessions Judge regarding mental status of the accused-appellant, as we do not find any reliable evidence that the accused was of unsound mind. We are fortified in our view by the decision of Gujarat High Court in the case of State of Gujarat vs. Manjuben in R/Criminal Confirmation Case No. 1 of 2018 with R/Criminal Appeal No. 474 of 2019.

16. Facts before us to prove that the appellant had no preintention to commit the murder of the deceased. The injuries come to show that it was not intentionally but it was homicidal death without intention. It has been pointed out by learned counsel for the accused-appellant that the accused-appellant has been in jail for more than 10 yeas.

17. From the above discussion, it is evident that appellant was not having any intention to cause death of the deceased. However, he had knowledge that death would be likely caused by the use of the alleged weapon and he has caused with knowledge bodily injuries as were likely to cause death and in view of the above, a case against the appellant under Part-II to Section 304 I.P.C. is made out and he is not found guilty of the offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C.

18. Offence under Section 3(2)V SC/ST Act is not made out against the accused-appellants as there was no evidence for commission of offence under section 3(2)V of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989. Neither the First Information Report nor the oral testimony of prosecution witnesses even remotely suggest that the offence has been committed only on the ground that the deceased belongs to a particular community. The decision in the case of Vishnu vs. State of U.P. decided on 28.1.2021 in Criminal Appeal No. 204 of 2021 and in the case of Pintu Gupta vs. State of U.P. decided on 28.7.2022 in Criminal Appeal No. 4083 of 2017 will also come to the aid of accused-appellants.

19. In view of the matter, the conviction of the accused is altered from Section 302 I.P.C. to 304 Part-II I.P.C.

20. Considering all these facts, it would be appropriate and proper that the accused be sentenced with the period already undergone in prison by him and the amount of fine be imposed.

21. In the result the conviction of the present accused is altered from Section 302 I.P.C. to section 304 Part-II and he is convicted under Section 304 Part-II with imprisonment already undergone in prison with no fine as the appellant is a poor person and was not able to engage even a lawyer for himself. The fine as ordered by trial court is set aside.

22. Sri Brij Raj, learned Amicus Cuarie has argued this appeal on behalf of appellant Ram Awatar @ Ganesh and he shall be paid a sum of Rs. 15,000/- as his remuneration.

23. Office is directed to transmit the lower court record along with a copy of this judgment to the learned court below for information and necessary compliance as warranted.

Both the punishment are directed to run concurrently.

2. In the guidelines of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, the name of the victim is not disclosed. Her name is referred as letter "X'.

3. Wrapping the facts of the case in brief, at about 12:00 p.m. i.e. in the midnight of 10/11.06.1989 the informant Buddha Chamar alongwith his wife, his daughters namely; Goda and victim "X' and his son Ram Prasad was sleeping in the courtyard of his old house and wingnut (dibari) was kept blown, four persons armed with gun and country made pistol entered in the house and took away his daughter victim "X' aged about 18 years. On the hue and cry by her daughter i.e. victim "X', his wife, his daughter Goda and son awoke and saw the accused presons namely Devi Dayal, Arjun Pasi, Ambika Pasi and Fareed Khan were kidnapping his daughter Victim "X' was being taken by Devi Dayal and Ambika Pasi on the gun point, and accused Arjun Pasi and Fareed Khan robbed the nose ring, sutiya and anklet of his wife and daughter Goda and other household items containing clothes and Rs.1,000/-. When they raised alarm and villagers gathered, accused took to their heels. He tried to search out his elder daughter victim "X', who came after about one an hour from the eastern side of village by crossing the river in wet clothes. She narrated the whole story that all the four persons carried her across the Pirai river and raped her one by one against her will in the bushes and after committing rape upon her all of them fled away.

4. On the basis of written report, F.I.R. was lodged on 11.06.1989 and was registered as Case Crime No.170 of 1989, under Sections 394, 397, 366 and 376 I.P.C., Police Station Mitauli, District Lakhimpur Kheri. The case was entrusted for investigation to S.I. Devideen Singh, who recorded the statement of victim "X' under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and she was medically examined by P.W.-7 Dr. Indra Chopra on 11.06.1989 at about 5:15 p.m. Doctor did not find any mark of injury on her private parts, left abdomen or thigh. On her internal examination, hymen was found old torn. Investigating Officer visited the house of complainant and interrogated complainant and visited the spot where the rape was committed and after spot inspection, prepared site plan as Ext. Ka-2, recovered wingnut (Dibari) and prepared its recovery memo and proved it as Ext. Ka-4. I.O. took the petticoat of the victim "X', and prepared its recovery memo proved it as Ext. Ka-5. Arrested accused Arjun Pasi and Fareed Khan on 13.06.1989. After collecting sufficient evidence submitted the charge-sheet Ext. Ka-6 dated 23.06.1989 against all the accused persons under Sections 394 and 376 I.P.C.

5. Accused appeared before trial court and charges were framed and read over to the accused appellants under Sections 394/376 I.P.C. Accused appellants denied all the charges and claimed to be tried.

6. In order to prove the case, prosecution examined P.W.-1 Victim "X', who narrated whole the story. P.W.-2 Ram Prasad, the brother of the prosecutrix, P.W.-3 Buddha, complainant, who proved written report as Ext. Ka-1 and P.W.-4 Smt. Laxmi W/o the complainant, who corroborated the factum of robbery and abduction of victim "X' by the accused persons. P.W.-5 S.I., Devideen Singh, who investigated the case and proved site plans as Ext. Ka-2 and Ext. Ka-3, memo of Dibari as Ext Ka-4, memo for taking Petticoat as Ext. Ka5 and the charge-sheet as Ext. Ka-6. P.W.-6 Head Constable Shiv Mangal Singh, who prepared chik report on the basis of written report and proved the same as Ext. Ka-7 and registered the case vide entry in G.D. No.12 as Ext. Ka-8. He has further stated that he sent victim "X' for medical examination alongwith Constable Balak Ram. P.W.-7 Dr. Indra Chopra, who medically examined the victim "X' proved the medical report as Ext. Ka-9.

7. After conclusion of the prosecution evidence, the statements of accused-appellants were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. All the accused denied the prosecution allegations and stated that they have been falsely implicated in the present case due to animosity. Accused Devi Dayal has stated that there was enmity between his family and the family of Buddha regarding the house and tree. It is also stated that complainant wanted to marry his daughter victim "X' with him but he refused becasue the victim "X' was not of a good character, therefore, he has been falsely implicated in the present case. Accused Arjun Pasi has stated that on the day of alleged incident he was busy in the marriage of his own daughter. Accused Ambika Pasi has stated that on the day of incident he was in the marriage of the daughter of the accused Arjun Pasi. He is nephew of co-accused Arjun Pasi.

8. Accused were provided the opportunity to adduce defence witness and they produced the defence witnesses, which are as follows:-

- D.W.-1 Rashid.
- D.W.-2 Ram Dayal.
- D.W.-3 Ram Kishun.

9. D.W.-1 Rashid stated that Fareed Khan was in his house to attend the marriage of his niece Parveen in the mid night of 10/11.06.1989 from 10:00 p.m. onwards.

10. D.W.-2 Ram Dayal has stated that his house was adjacent to the house of the complainant Buddha who wanted to grab the plot of accused Devi Dayal and he further stated that the complainant wanted to marry his daughter victim "X' with Devi Dayal and he (Devi Dayal) refused to marry her becasue of her bad name, therefore, Devi Dayal has been falsely implicated in the present case.

11. D.W.-3 Ram Kishun has stated that about five years back in the month of Jeth, Saptami on Saturday he went to attend the marriage of the daughter of accused Arjun Pasi and Arjun Pasi and Ambika Pasi remained there whole the night.

12. On the basis of evidence adduced in the court, learned trial court reached to the conclusion that nothing has been recovered from the possession of the accused-appellants, therefore, the theory of commission of robbery is not reliable. While appreciating the defence evidence, learned trial court held that Fareed Khan had failed to establish the plea of alibi as stated under Section 313 Cr.P.C. Learned trial court further held that the theory of Devi Dayal that he was falsely implicated because the complainant wanted to marry his daughter victim "X' with Devi Dayal and he refused to marry with her daughter victim "X' is not reliable, hence the statement of D.W.-2 Ram Dayal is not helpful to save the accused Devi Dayal. Evidence of D.W.-3 Ram Kishun is also not relied upon by the trial court and it is found that prosecution has successfully established the guilt of the accused-appellants for charges levelled against them under Sections 366 and 376 I.P.C. Thus, learned trial court passed the order of conviction under Sections 366 and 376 I.P.C. and acquitted of the accused-appellants from the charges under Sections 394 and 397 I.P.C.

13. Being aggrieved with the judgment and order dated 22.10.1994, convicted appellants has approached this Court by way of filing the present appeal.

14. Heard Shri Santosh Kumar Kannaujia, learned counsel for the appellants, Shri Manish Kumar Pandey, learned A.G.A.-I for the State-respondent and perused the material available on record.

15. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that the judgment and order passed by the learned court below is against the evidence on record. The prosecution version is not corroborated by the medical evidence. The entire prosecution story is appeared to be highly improbable and unnatural, as the victim "X' has stated that after the gang rape by four persons, she returned herself again by crossing the river. It is also submitted that the punishment is too severe, therefore, the judgment and order of learned trial court is liable to be set aside.

16. On the contrary, learned A.G.A.-I for the State has vehemently opposed the above mentioned averments by submitting that prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt with cogent evidence. All the accused-appellants were identified by witnesses in the light of wingnut (dibari), which was putting up at the time of occurrence. Medical evidence corroborated the offence under Section 376 I.P.C., therefore, the judgment and order of learned trial court is liable to upheld.

17. At the very outset, it is pertinent to mention here that the appeal against accused-appellant no.4 Fareed Khan, who is said to have been died on 06.09.2018 is dismissed as abated vide order dated 24.11.2022.

18. Before reaching to any conclusion, the evidence of witness is to be looked into.

19. P.W.-1 Victim "X' has stated that accused Devi Dayal resides in her village. Accused Arjun Pasi and Ambika Pasi were residing in the village Manhan. Accused Fareed Mistri resides in Miatauli. In the night of incident, when she was sleeping on the cot alongwith her sister Goda in courtyard and her mother was sleeping on the another cot in the courtyard and other family members were sleeping on the mat and her father was sleeping outside the gate of house, accused-appellants Devi Dayal, Arjun Pasi, Ambika Pasi and Fareed Mistri entered in their house and kidnapped her forcefully. Devi Dayal and Ambika Pasi was armed with gun, Arjun Pasi was armed with half-bore gun and Fareed Mistri armed with country made pistol. Devi Dayal and Ambika Pasi took her across the Pirai river and throw her under the tree of Dhak (Palash) and Khajuriya and committed rape upon her one by one by all the four accused-appellants. When they went away, she came back to her house on her own by crossing the river. Accused-appellants have robbed the batua, jewellery, sutiya, nose ring, Rs.1000/- and other household items.

20. P.W.-2 Ramprasad has stated on oath that on the night of incident both of his sisters Goda and victim "X' were sleeping on the cot in the courtyard. He was also sleeping on the another cot nearby. His father was sleeping in the room of colony and the dibari was lightening on the door step, when the accused-appellants entered the house and accused Devi Dayal and Ambika Pasi abducted his sister victim "X' and accused Fareed and Arjun Pasi carried the household goods and jewellery and cash, and the accused Devi Dayal and Ambika Pasi armed with gun, Arjun Pasi armed with half-bore gun and Fareed was armed with country made pistol went towards the east of the village. Her sister victim "X' returned after an hour and narrated the whole story to him.

21. P.W.-3 Buddha, who is complainant of the case has corroborated the statements of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2.

22. P.W.-4 Laxmi, who is mother of victim "X' corroborated the prosecution version and the statements of P.W.-1, P.W.-2 and P.W.-3. She has also stated that she recognized all the accused in the light of dibari and on the hue and cry, villagers Suraj, Badlu, Jaylal and others reached at the place of occurrence. It is also stated that witness Jaylal is in hand and glove with accused and witness Suraj has died.

23. P.W.-5 S.I. Devideen Singh, who is Investigating Officer of the case has stated on oath that after lodging the F.I.R., he started investigation of case. He recorded the statement of Head Moharrir, Shiv Mangal Singh and visited the house of complainant, searched the house of accused-appellants Devi Dayal, Arjun Pasi, Ambika Pasi and Fareed but neither any of the accused was arrested nor any of the stolen property was recovered from their houses. Thereafter, he visited the place where the accused have committed rape upon the victim and prepared the site plan. He recovered dibari and petticoat of victim "X' and prepared recovery memo thereof separately and proved the same in court as Ext. Ka-4 and Ext. Ka-5 and after collecting all the relevant evidence submitted charge-sheet, which he proved in court as Ext. Ka-6.

24. P.W.-6 Head Constable, Shiv Mangal Singh, who proved F.I.R. as Ext. Ka-7 and G.D. No.12 as Ext. Ka-8 and written letter to C.M.O. and sent the victim "X' for medical examination alongwith constable 298 Balak Ram and her parents.

25. P.W.-7 Dr. Indra Chopra, who stated that she medically examined the vicitm "X' on 11.06.1989, proved the medical report, in which the hymen was found old torn. Uterus was normal in size. Vaginal smear was taken and sent for histopathological examination. She could not give opinion regarding the commission of rape that stated that victim 'X' was used to intercourse or act like this and proved the medical report as Ext. Ka-9.

26. D.W.-1 Rashid, who has stated that Fareed Khan was in his house to attend the marriage of his niece Parveen in the night in between 10/11.06.1989 from 10:00 p.m. onwards.

27. D.W.-2 Ram Dayal has stated that his house was adjacent to the house of the complainant Buddha and who wanted to grab the plot of accused Devi Dayal and further stated that the complainant wanted to marry his daughter victim "X' with Devi Dayal and father of Devi Dayal refused then has been falsely implicated in the present case.

28. D.W.-3 Ram Kishun has stated that about five years back in the month of Jeth, Saptami on Saturday he went to attend the marriage of the daughter of accused Arjun Pasi and Arjun Pasi and Ambika Pasi remained there whole the night.

29. As per prosecution story, victim "X' and her younger sister Goda were sleeping on the same cot in the courtyard and his brother was sleeping in courtyard on the separate cot. Mother of the victim "X', other children were also sleeping nearby on the mat when the accused are said to have entered the house and kidnapped the victim "X' across the river Pirai. So far as the robbery is concerned, learned trial court found that nothing recovered from the possession of the accused, hence, none of the accused were convicted under Sections 394 and 397 I.P.C. So far as the incident of rape is concerned, rape is said to have committed by four persons, therefore, there is no much probability of struggle on the part of the victim "X'. It is argued on behalf of learned counsel for appellants that four appellants are said to have committed rape upon the prosecutrix "X' but no sign of injury is found on the body of prosecutrix. As per prosecution version, she was throne under the tree of Palash and was committed rape. If she would have put any resistance, some injuries were bound to happen on the back of prosecutrix. P.W.:- 7 Dr. Indra Chopra found no external or internal injuries on the body of prosecutrix. This argument is devoid of merit. It cannot be said that whenever resistance is offered, there must be some injuries on the body of prosecutrix. The appellants were four in number and the prosecutrix being a girl of eighteen years, she was not expected to offer such resistance as it would cause injuries to her body. It is not correct to say that there was no injury at all. As it has been mentioned by P.W.-7 Dr. Indra Chopra that hymen was old torn present. In this regard Hon. Apex Court held in Balwant Singh and Another Vs. State of Punjab AIR 1997 Supreme Court page 1080 that injuries are not always necessary to be found on the body of prosecutrix during rape if she fails to offer resistance. Apex Court has also held in Gurcharan Singh Vs. State of Haryana 1973 ACC page 04 that absence of violent and stiff resistance on the part of the prosecutrix in the present case may as well suggest helpless surrender to the inevitable due to sheer timidity. Therefore, mere absence of injuries on the body of prosecutrix do not brush aside the whole prosecution case.

30. It is also pertinent to mention here that the prosecutrix "X' fully corroborated the prosecution version. Its also clear that under the threat of life prosecutrix was raped. As per prosecution version, all the four armed with half bore gun and country made pistol. Therefore, the prosecutrix cannot be expected to offer resistance or any type of struggle.

31. It is also submitted on behalf of appellants that there is no independent witness of the occurence. It is also pertinent to mention here that the victim was taken away by the four accused across the river Perai. There cannot be any independent witness of the incident, however, the prosecutrix appeared in witness box and fully corroborated version of F.I.R. The statement of prosecutrix cannot be disbelieved merely because there is no coroborative evidence. In this regard, Hon. Apex Court in State Of Maharashtra vs Chandraprakash Kewal Chand Jain G AIR 1990 page 658, wherein it is held that "ordinarily an indian women would be most reluctant to level false accusation of rape involving her reputation unless she has a very strong bias or reason to do so. Therefore, the statement of victim "X' which fully corrobroates the prosecution version cannot be suspected and disbelieved as solitary statement of prosecutrix can be believed for proving the charges under Section 366 IPC." Hon. Supreme Court has given guidelines in State Of Maharashtra vs Chandraprakash Kewal Chand Jain in the paragraph 16 of the above case it is observed that*"..... But if a prosecutrix is an adult and of full understanding the Court is entitled to base a conviction on her evidence unless the same is shown to be infirm and not trustworthy. If the totality of the circum-stances appearing on the record of the case disclose that the prosecutrix does not have a strong motive to falsely involve the person charged, the Court should ordinarily have no hesitation in accepting her evidence...." In paragraph 17 , it was further observed that " To insist on corroboration except in the rarest of rare cases is to equate a woman who is a victim of the lust of another with an accomplice to a crime and thereby insult womanhood. It would be adding insult to injury to tell a woman that her story of woe will not be believed unless it is corroborated in material particulars as in the case of an accomplice to a crime.....The standard of proof to be expected by the Court in such cases must take into account the fact that such crimes are generally committed on the sly and very rarely direct evidence of a person other than the prosecutrix is available. Courts must also realise that* ordinarily a woman, more so a young girl, will not stake her reputation by levelling a false charge concerning her chastity."

32. In the impugned case, the statement of prosecutrix is corroborated by P.W. 2, 3 and 4, who are brothers and parents of prosecutrix as she was kidnapped by accused Devi Dayal and Ambika Pasi in their presence and rest of accused robbed the household goods, jewellery and cash.

33. It is submitted by learned counsel for accused-appellants that prosecutrix as is said to have kidnapped and carried across the Perai river but there is no sign of the fact that she was throne on grass or leaves and raped. No contents of grass or leaves were found on the clothes of prosecutrix. The court find this argument very week as prosecutrix "X' hereself stated in her statement that after the commission of crime of rape, all the accused fled away. Then, she herself came by crossing river and when she reached to the village, she was in wet clothes. Therefore, the presence of grass or leaves on the clothes of the prosecutrix could not be found out.

34. It is also argued by learned counsel for accused- appellants that no blood stained or spermatozoa were found on the clothes of prosecutrix. In the given set of circumstances, the prosecutrix came across the river and she was in wet clothes. Therefore, the presence of leaves, grass and blood stains or spermatozoa is not possible to be found on the body or clothes of prosecutrix.

35. Learned counsel for the accused appellants advanced the argument that there are major contradictions in the statement of witnesses of fact and learned trial court did not address those contradicions. On the persual of statement of witnesses, there is no major contradicions in the statement of witnesses as all of them corroborated the testimony of prosecutrix herself. However, minor contradictions are there. It is to be kept in mind that the witnesses are illiterate and the statement were recorded after the lapse of three years from the date of occurrence and the evidence of the witness were recorded in piecemeal with the gap of time. Therefore, the discrepancies are bound to happen. On the basis of minor discrepancies, the statement of witnesses cannot be discarded, if they are otherwise truthful.

36. The prosecution has proved the place of occurrence as the prosecutrix has herself pointed out the place where she was raped by all the accused-appellants . The place of occurrence has also been shown by Inviestigation Officer in the site plan and, therefore, the place of occurrence is ascertained and there is no doubt about the place of occurrence.

37. The accused-appellants placed the plea of alibi in the defence but they could not prove the plea in trial court as well as in appellate court. The accused appellant did not file the invitation card of marriage to prove that the accused Arjun Pasi was in the marriage of his own daughter. However, if there was marriage on the fretful date, the appellant must have possessed an invitation card of the marriage of his daughter. Accused Ambika Pasi also claimed alibi on the ground that he had gone in the marriage of the daughter of the co-appellant Arjun Pasi but he could also not proved the defence that there was the marriage of daughter of Arjun Pasi and he attended the marriage. So far as accused Farid Khan is concerned, he stated in his statement recorded under Section 313 that he had gone to attend the marriage of his niece Parveen but Fareed Khan also could not proved the marriage of his niece. He could not even told to the court that where the marriage of his niece was performed. It is further pertinent to mention that accused Fareed khan, who is said to have been died on 06.09.2018 is dismissed as abated vide order dated 24.11.2022. Hence, none of the accused could prove their plea of alibi.

38. P.W.7 Ramdayal deposed in court that there was enmity between the complainant and the father of accused Devi Dayal regarding the land and also that father of Devi Dayal refused to accept the prosecutrix as his daughter-in-law. Therefore, accused Devi Dayal has been falsely implicated. These two arguments are self-contradictory and cannot run parallel. If there is strong enmity regarding the land between complainant and father of accused Devi Dayal, then there is no possibility that complainant would marry his daughter to Devi Dayal. D.W.-2 stated that there was enmity between complainant and father of the appellant Devi Dayal but no such document of any litigation regarding the land is adduced as a defence evidence. Therefore, the defence of appellant is not substantiated by any cogent evidence.

39. Learned counsel for the appellants stated that accused Devi Dayal has served out four years of incarceration, accused Ambika Pasi has served out three years and two months of incarceration and accused Arjun has served out incarceration of two years, therefore, it is prayed to commute the sentence of appellants to the period already undergone by them. It is also submitted that accused have no criminal antecedent apart from this case. Therefore, a lenient view may be taken in the case.

40. Section 376 (2)(g) I.P.C. that in case of gang rape, the rigorous imprisonment shall not be less than ten years. As the accused persons are charged with Section 376(2)(g) I.P.C., it is not a fit case to commute the sentence from ten years to the period already undergone by them.

41. No plausible reason is offered by appellants why they are falsely implicated in the case. No explanation is given by the appellants during the statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. as to why they are falsely implicated in the case. On the contrary, the prosecutrix in so many words proved the prosecution version as to the fact that she was taken away by accused Devi Dayal and all of the appellants committed rape against her will.

42. Hence, the prosecution successfully proved the charges under Section 366 and 376 IPC against all the accused beyond reasonable doubt by the cogent evidence of prosecutrix as well as by the evidence of P.W.-2 and P.W.-4, who are brother and parents of prosecutrix. It is also pertinent to mention here that P.W.-7 Dr. Indra Chopra prepared the medical report, in which the hymen was found old torn. In these circumstances where prosecutrix unequivocally proved the case of rape against all the appellants and appellants could not offer any explanation to the false implication of appellants in such a heinous crime.

43. The judgment of trial court is based on cogent evidence and is found in consonance with the evidence on record. The complicity of all the four accused is found in the crime and the judgment and order passed by learned trial court is liable to be upheld and the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

44. The Appeal is dismissed. The judgment of trial court is upheld. The appeal against appellant No. 4 Fareed Khan, who is said to have been died on 06.09.2018 is dismissed as abated vide order dated 24.11.2022. The appellant Nos. 1, 2 and 3, namely, Devi Dayal, Arjun and Ambika are on bail. They shall surrender before the court concerned within one month from the date of judgment and shall be sent to jail to serve out the remaining sentence. Learned trial court shall prepare the conviction warrant and sent them to jail.

45. Personal Bond and bail bonds of the accused are cancelled.

46. Certified copy of this judgment along with the lower court record be sent to the trial court concerned for necessary information and compliance.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Kumar Singh, J.)

1. The present appeal under Section 374(2) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (hereinafter referred to as "CrPC') read with Section 27 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as "PC Act, 1988') has been filed by the appellant against the judgment and order dated 30.03.2012 passed by the Special Judge, Anti Corruption (West), CBI, Lucknow in Case No.14 of 1999 (State Vs. Subhash Chand Srivastava) under Section 7 and 13(2) read with 13(1)(d) of PC Act, 1988, arising out of R.C. No. 6(A)/1999, P.S. CBI/SPE/ACB, Lucknow, whereby the learned Special Judge has convicted and sentenced the appellant for 6 months rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs. 1,500/- and 15 days additional simple imprisonment, in default of fine for offence under Section 7 of the PC Act, 1988 and 1 year rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs. 1,500/- and 15 days additional simple imprisonment, in default of fine for offence under Section 13(2) read with Section 13(1)(d) of the PC Act, 1988. It was directed that both the sentences would run concurrently.

2. The appellant was posted and was functioning as Office Superintendent-II in establishment section in the office of D.R.M. (Personnel), Northern Railways, Lucknow. Complaint dated 30.01.1999 was lodged by one Ram Kumar-IV who was posted as Diesel Assistant, Alambagh Office Goods Lobby, Mawaiyya, Northern Railways, Lucknow alleging that the accused-appellant demanded a bribe amount of Rs.2,000/- as illegal gratification other than legal remuneration from Sri Ram Kumar-IV for favour of ensuring preparation of outstanding pay bill/payments for the months of October and November, 1998. In the month of October and November, 1998 the complainant was on leave for 8 days and 12 days respectively.

3. On the basis of the complaint, an FIR was lodged on the same day i.e. 13.01.1999 by the C.B.I. under Section 7 of the PC Act, 1988. Verification was conducted by Sri Jayant Kashmiri, Inspector, C.B.I., Lucknow. The accused-appellant was caught red handed while accepting Rs.1,000/- as first installment of bribe amount on 14.01.1999 for sending the charge memo in respect of pay bills of the complainant.

4. After completion of the investigation, the C.B.I. submitted charge-sheet (Exh. Ka 36) under Sections 7 and 13(2)/13(1)(d) of the PC Act, 1988 against the accused-appellant. The Court took cognizance on the charge-sheet and summoned the accused to face trial. Learned trial court framed charges under Sections 7 and 13(2)/13(1)(d) of the PC Act, 1988 on 25.02.2002 against the accused-appellant, which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

5. During the investigation, it was noticed that preparation of leave account/advice note relating to the complainant, Ram Kumar for the months of October and November, 1998 was pending with the accused-appellant and for the preparation of the same and to ensure release of payment for the leave period in favour of the complainant, the accused-appellant demanded a bribe amount of Rs.2,000/-. The complainant who was not willing to pay the said amount, lodged a complaint with the C.B.I., and a trap was laid and the accused-appellant was caught red handed while demanding and accepting the first installment of bribe of Rs.1,000/- from the complainant. Bribe amount was recovered from the drawer of the table of the accused-appellant. The accused-appellant managed to escape from the spot, as such no hand wash could be taken place at that time.

6. Prosecution to prove its case, examined as many as 11 witnesses. Statement of the accused-appellant was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. on 21.2.2012 and his plea was of denial. He did not adduce any oral or documentary evidence in his defence. Trial court after analyzing in detail found the charge against the accused-appellant regarding demand, acceptance and recovery of bribe proved beyond reasonable doubt, and thus, convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant as mentioned above.

7. Sri Anurag Shukla, learned counsel appearing for the accused-appellant has submitted that though the prosecution has failed to prove its case to bring charge home against the accused-appellant but the trial court has convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant without properly appreciating the evidence brought on record.

8. It has been further submitted that the trial court has framed following four points for determination, which are essentially ingredients of the offence for which the accused-appellant was charged:-

"(i) Whether Sri Subhash Chand Srivastava was in a position to do any favour or disfavour to the complainant?

(ii) Whether Sri Subhash Chand Srivastava demanded Rs.2000/- as illegal gratification from the complainant for passing his claim?

(iii) Whether accused accepted Rs.1000/- as bribe from the complainant?

(iv) Whether the alleged amount of Rs.1000/- as bribe, was recovered from the accused?"

The learned trial Court in the entire judgment has not answered any of the aforesaid points framed for determination and, therefore, impugned judgment is bad in law and required to be set-aside.

9. It has been further submitted that admittedly, there was no recovery of Rs.1,000/- from the possession of the accused-appellant. P.W.-2, the complainant had failed to prove the place of recovery of bribe of Rs.1,000/-. At one place the complainant (P.W.-2) in his deposition had said that he had kept the money in an envelope in the almirah, however, at page 10, he had said that money in the envelope was kept in a drawer of the seat of the accused-appellant.

10. When the complainant reached to the office of the accused-appellant, there was no demand of bribe or illegal gratification made by the accused-appellant from him. The accused-appellant allegedly asked the complainant "Kaise aye ho?"

11. Preparation of pay bills of the complainant was to be done by Sri Ved Prakash Tiwari, the then Head Clerk in the office of D.R.M., Northern Railways, Lucknow (P.W.-9), and the accused-appellant had no role in the same. He was not responsible for keeping the leave record. Evidence with regard to demand of bribe was based on tape recorded conversation between the accused-appellant and the complainant, however, the same was not produced during the course of trial.

12. Independent witness, Satish Kumar Srivastava (P.W.-3) had not seen the drawer from which the bribe amount was recovered as he was standing other side of the table. Independent witness, Kapil Nath Rastogi, who had allegedly recovered the bribe, was not produced during the trial.

13. It has been submitted that prosecution had failed to prove that the accused-appellant disappeared from the alleged scene of incident instead he was arrested on the spot. The trap team reached to the office of the accused-appellant during lunch hour and the complainant mischievously put the bribe amount in the drawer of the table of the accused-appellant.

14. Sri Anurag Shukla, learned counsel appearing for the accused-appellant has submitted that it is the basic principle of criminal jurisprudence that burden of proof always lies on the prosecution, and it never gets shifted. It is the onus only which shifts from stage to stage. There can be no conviction solely on the basis of allegation unless the charge is proved by leading cogent and credible evidence beyond reasonable doubt.

15. The prosecution had failed to prove any motive for demand of bribe from the accused-appellant as the accused-appellant was not in position to give any favour to the complainant. In the present case, neither demand is proved nor recovery was effected from the possession of the accused-appellant.

16. On the other hand, Sri Shiv P. Shukla, learned counsel appearing for the C.B.I. has submitted that the prosecution had been able to prove the charge against the accused-appellant beyond reasonable doubt. Learned trial court has considered the evidence in detail and rightly held that the accused-appellant had demanded and accepted the bribe amount of Rs.1,000/- from the complainant, which was recovered from the drawer of the table of the accused-appellant. He, therefore, has submitted that considering the evidence of the prosecution witnesses and the documentary evidence led by the prosecution, the appeal filed by the accused-appellant is liable to be dismissed.

17. For decision in the appeal, it would be appropriate to take note of the evidence brought by the prosecution in support of its case against the accused-appellant.

18. P.W.-1, Sri S.M.N. Islam, who was posted as Senior Divisional Personnel Officer, Northern Railway, Lucknow, had deposed before the court that the accused-appellant was posted as O.S.-II, in D.R.M. (Personnel) Office, on a Class-III post. The witness was competent to appoint and remove the accused-appellant from the post. The C.B.I. requested him for sanctioning the prosecution of the accused-appellant. After considering the case, facts and material brought before him, he passed the order granting sanction for prosecution of the accused-appellant. He proved the sanction order, which was marked as Exh Ka-1.

19. P.W.-2, Sri Ram Kumar-IV, Diesel Asstt., Northern Railway Lucknow, was the complainant of the case, who in his testimony deposed that the complainant was on leave for 20 days in the month of October and November, 1988. He did not get any salary for this period. He met the accused-appellant who was Dealing Assistant on 31.01.1999 and asked him that why his salary was deducted. The accused-appellant demanded Rs.2,000/- as bribe from him. The complainant reached to the office of C.B.I. and gave a complaint to the S.P. He proved the complaint given by him in the C.B.I. office, which was marked as Exh. Ka-2. S.P. C.B.I. introduced him to Sri Jayant Kashmiri and told him that Jayant Kashmini would investigate his case. Jayant Kashmiri called Satish Srivastava from Insurance Company and introduced the complainant to him. Jayant Kashmiri gave him a tape recorder and sent him and Satish Srivastava to D.R.M. Office with a direction that the complainant should record conversation between him and the accused-appellant in tape recorder. On the same day i.e. 13.01.1999 at around 2:15 to 2:30 P.W.-2 went with Satish Srivastava to the office of the accused-appellant. The accused-appellant demanded Rs. 2000/-, which was recorded in the tape recorder. On demanding the bribe, the witness said that as he had received only one day's salary how he would give Rs.2,000/- to the accused-appellant. When the witness said that he would not be able to pay Rs.2,000/-, then the accused-appellant said that he should pay Rs.2,000/- in two installments of Rs.1,000/- each. It was deposed that thereafter, he and Satish Srivastava came back to the C.B.I. office and gave the cassette and recorder to Jayant Kashmiri. Jayant Kashmiri heard the conversation, which was recorded and he sealed the cassette and got the signatures of the witnesses and others on the envelope.

20. P.W.-3, Satish Kumar Srivastava who was posted as Stenographer, National Insurance Company, Regional Office, Hazratganj, Lucknow, had deposed that on 13.01.1999 he got instructions from Sri A.K. Verma, A.O. Vigilance Officer to reach C.B.I. Office, Hazratganj where he reached around 3-3:30 P.M. In C.B.I. office, he met Jayant Kashmiri, the complainant and Kapil Nath Rastogi. C.B.I. officers introduced him to the complainant and Kapil Nath Rastogi. He was told about the complaint of Sri Ram Kumar (P.W.-2) and he was given the complaint (Exh Ka-2) for reading. To verify the complaint, the witness was sent along with the complainant to D.R.M. Office where Subhash Chandra was posted. Before leaving for D.R.M. Office they were given a tape recorder and empty cassette, which was demonstrated to them. They were instructed that after reaching D.R.M. Office, tape recorder should be put on and after conversation would get over, the Tape Recorder was to be stopped. This witness gave the testimony to the effect that when they reached to the office of the accused-appellant, the complainant asked the accused-appellant regarding his payment of salary for the leave. The accused-appellant asked him that whether he had brought money or not, on which the complainant explained his poverty and said that he would arrange some money in 2-3 days on which the accused-appellant said that Rs.1,000/- should be given first and rest of the amount should be given after the complainant would receive his the salary. Thereafter, they came back to the C.B.I. office. On reaching back to the office, the tape was played in which conversation between the accused-appellant and the complainant was recorded. The complainant after looking at the material M.Exh-2 said that there were his signatures on it.

21. P.W.-4, Sri Rajesh Kumar Shukla, Senior Clerk, Senior Section Engineer, Loco N.R., Lucknow, had deposed that he was posted at the above mentioned post since 1995 and was allowed the work of preparing Absentee statement, compilation of leave application, sick certificate and fitness certificate of the employees. He had proved D26 (Ext. Ka-18) absentee statement, which bears the name of complainant i.e Ram Kumar-IV Diesel Asstt. at serial no. 35. Further, he had deposed about preparation of D-27 and D-28, D-29 (Ex Ka-19, Ka-20 & Ka-21). He also said that in absentee statement besides duty chart, there was sick certificate of the complainant. He proved the sick certificate of the complainant for 10 days from 16.10.1998 which was marked as Material Exh. Ka 20. He also proved fitness certificate from 23.03.1998 to 24.04.1998 for which sick certificate for 10 days from 23.03.1998 was issued by DMO, Alambagh ,which was marked as Material Exh 21 and 22.

22. P.W.-5 Ramesh Chandra Bhatia, the then Controller, had deposed on oath that the complainant, Ram Kumar-IV had worked under his subordination and his leave record was being maintained in Loco shed,, Alambagh. He had further explained the procedure regarding maintenance of leave of the concerned employee and the statement of their absence from the work. He had proved Ext Ka-37 in his oral testimony.

23. P.W.-6, Sri Rajiv Srivastava, the then Senior Divisional Medical Officer, Loco shed, Alambagh, Lucknow, had deposed on oath that he was authorized to issue sick and fitness certificate of the Railway Employees and had proved Ext. Ka-16, Ka-20 & Ka-24 of Ram Kumar-IV

24. P.W.-7 Suresh Chand Srivastava, the then APO (Bills) DRMNR/Lucknow, had stated in his oral testimony that his job was to forward the bills after duly checking to the Accounts Section for further process. He had identified D-25 as the charge memo (Exh Ka-25) which was forwarded to accused Subhash Chand Srivastava for further process. He also verified the signatures of accused on the aforesaid document.

25. P.W.-8 Anup Kumar Srivastava, the then O.S.-I, Confidential Section, DRM/NR/Lucknow, had deposed that the accused was posted in the Establishment during year 1997 and had also proved seizure memo Ext. Ka-27, Ka-28 & Ka-29

26. P.W.-9 Ved Prakasn Tripathi, the then Head Clerk DRM/NR/Lucknow had stated in his oral testimony that his main duty was to prepare pay bills of the employees of Loco shed Alambagh. Lucknow. He had further explained the procedure regarding preparation of pay bills and the documents to be considered for the same. He had also attested the documents of Ext. Ka-25, Ka-25/1, Ka-25/2, Ext. Ka-26, ka-26/1, Ka-26/2.

27. PW-10 Jayant Kashmiri, the then Inspector, CBI/ACB, Lucknow, had deposed in his oral testimony that on the basis of the complaint of the complainant Ram Kumar-IV, the RC was registered against the accused Subhash Chand Srivastava. He made a preliminary inquiry and finally lead the trap to catch hold of the accused red handed while demanding and accepting the bribe money. He had proved Ext. Ka-5, Ka-6, Ka-17, Ka-28, Ka-30 to Ka-33, Material Exhibit-3 to 5 & material exhibit-23

28. PW-11 Sri B.S.Mshra, the Investigating Officer of the present case, who was entrusted with the investigation of this case vide order dated 15.1.1999 had proved Ext. Ka-27, Ka-29, Ka-34, Ka-35, Ka-36.

29. The court has to consider that whether the prosecution has been able to prove demand and acceptance of the bribe by the accused-appellant from the complainant or not. Demand of bribe from the complainant had been substantiated by the testimony of the complainant P.W.-2 himself as well as Satish Srivastava, an independent witness (P.W.-3) who accompanied the complainant to the office of the accused-appellant on 13.01.1999, a day prior to the trap proceedings. On 13.01.1999 the complainant and P.W.-3 had gone to the office of the accused-appellant for verification of the allegation of demand of bribe by the accused-appellant. These two witnesses, i.e. P.W.-2 and P.W.-3 in their testimonies had proved the demand of Rs.2,000/- by the accused from the complainant, which was to be paid in two installments of Rs.1,000/- each.

30. The prosecution case is for acceptance and recovery of bribe of Rs.1,000/-. The complainant and P.W.-3 had deposed in the court that bribe amount was put in the drawer as per the asking of the accused-appellant himself and same was recovered from the drawer of the office table of the accused-applicant in the presence of T.L.O. (P.W.10) by other independent witness, Kapil Nath Rastogi who was, however, not produced by the C.B.I. during trial. Testimony of P.W.-3 had remained unshaken in respect of asking the complainant to put Rs.1,000/- in the drawer of the accused-appellant's office table, and the complainant put the bribe of Rs.1,000/- in the drawer of the accused-appellant, which was recovered from the drawer itself in the presence of the witnesses.

31. Submission of Sri Anurag Shukla, learned counsel appearing for the accused-appellant that the accused-appellant had nothing to do with the alleged leave account or payment of salary of the complainant and, therefore, there was no question for any demand of bribe from the complainant and the accused-appellant was not in a position to do any favour to the complainant as his leave account was nil prior to the incident itself. This argument is in respect of the motive for demanding the bribe. Motive would become irrelevant if the prosecution had been able to prove demand and acceptance of the bribe from the complainant. Testimonies of P.W.-2, P.W.-3 and P.W.-10 would fully prove demand and acceptance of bribe of Rs.1,000/- which was recovered from the drawer of office table of the accused-appellant. Submission of Sri Anurag Shukla that testimony of P.W.-2 was not cogent and cannot said to be credible inasmuch as at one point of time, he said that he put the bribe amount in almirah and later on corrected the statement that he considered table as almirah and, therefore, such testimony cannot be said to be credible and trial court should not have placed reliance on such testimony. This minor discrepancy would not destroy the entire case of the prosecution regarding demand, acceptance and recovery of bribe. When the demand and acceptance have been proved and the amount was recovered from the drawer of the office table of the accused-appellant, this minor discrepancy would become irrelevant.

32. Learned counsel appearing for the accused-appellant has submitted that statement of P.W.-3 in cross examination that as he was sitting across the table so he did not see the drawer in which bribe was kept and, therefore, said witness could not be treated as witness of acceptance and recovery of bribe, is also liable to be rejected.

33. P.W.-3 had supported the prosecution case from the very beginning and mere one statement in the cross examination that he did not exactly view the drawer would not be enough to say that the prosecution could not prove the case regarding acceptance and recovery of bribe from the drawer of the accused-appellant.

34. It is settled law that it is necessary to record a conviction under Section 7 and 13 of the PC Act, 1988 proper proof of demand and acceptance of illegal gratification by the accused public servant is necessary. It is also settled that mere possession and recovery of money without proof of demand by the accused does not constitute an offence under Section 7 and 13(2)/13(1)(d) of the PC Act, 1988 (P. Satyanarayana Murthy vs District Inspector of Police, State of Andhra Pradesh and another, (2015) 10 SCC 152)

35. Term "demand" does not find place under PC Act, 1988 but it has virtually been inserted in the statute by interpretative process. Section 20 of the PC Act, 1988 derives certain statutory presumption of guilt. Section 7 has to be read in conjunction with Section 20 which reads as under:-

"20. Presumption where public servant accepts gratification other than legal remuneration.--

(1) Where, in any trial of an offence punishable under section 7 or section 11 or clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 13 it is proved that an accused person has accepted or obtained or has agreed to accept or attempted to obtain for himself, or for any other person, any gratification (other than legal remuneration) or any valuable thing from any person, it shall be presumed, unless the contrary is proved, that he accepted or obtained or agreed to accept or attempted to obtain that gratification or that valuable thing, as the case may be, as a motive or reward such as is mentioned in section 7 or, as the case may be, without consideration or for a consideration which he knows to be inadequate.

(2) Where in any trial of an offence punishable under section 12 or under clause (b) of section 14, it is proved that any gratification (other than legal remuneration) or any valuable thing has been given or offered to be given or attempted to be given by an accused person, it shall be presumed, unless the contrary is proved, that he gave or offered to give or attempted to give that gratification or that valuable thing, as the case may be, as a motive or reward such as is mentioned in section 7, or as the case may be, without consideration or for a consideration which he knows to be inadequate.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-sections (1) and (2), the court may decline to draw the presumption referred to in either of the said sub-sections, if the gratification or thing aforesaid is, in its opinion, so trivial that no interference of corruption may fairly be drawn."

36. Plain reading with the words of Section 20 of the PC Act, 1988 would mean that if it can be proved that a public servant has received gratification, Section 20 brings in statutory presumption that he has received the same with an illegal motive as laid down in Section 7 of the Act. This shifts the burden of proof to the accused who is required to prove that what has been received is a valuable consideration and not an illegal gratification.

37. Constitution Bench in recent judgment in the case of Neeraj Dutta vs State: 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1724 has held that to constitute an offence under Sections 7 and 13(2)/13(1)(d) (i) and (ii) of the PC Act, 1988, if a bribe giver makes an offer to pay without there being any prior demand of the same by a public servant and public servant accepts and receives the bribe, it would be a case of acceptance under Section 7 of the PC Act, 1988. If public servant himself makes a demand and demand is accepted by bribe giver and bribe is paid by the bribe giver, it is a case of obtainment under Section 13(1)(d)(i) and 13(1)(d)(ii) of the Act.

38. It has been held that if the foundational facts are proved, presumption of receipt of obtainment of illegal gratification would be made. If such a presumption of fact would be raised, it is subject to rebuttal by the accused, however, if the presumption is not rebutted, the offence gets proved as provided under Section 20 of the PC Act, 1988.

39. In para 4 and 5 of the aforesaid judgment, ingredients to constitute an offence under Section 7 and 13(1)(d) of the PC Act, 1988 have been mentioned and the paras 4 and 5 of the said judgment are extracted hereunder:-

" 4. The following are the ingredients of Section 7 of the Act:

i) the accused must be a public servant or expecting to be a public servant;

ii) he should accept or obtain or agrees to accept or attempts to obtain from any person;

iii) for himself or for any other person;

iv) any gratification other than legal remuneration;

v) as a motive or reward for doing or forbearing to do any official act or to show any favour or disfavour.

5. Section 13(1)(d) of the Act has the following ingredients which have to be proved before bringing home the guilt of a public servant, namely, -

(i) the accused must be a public servant;

(ii) by corrupt or illegal means, obtains for himself or for any other person any valuable thing or pecuniary advantage; or by abusing his position as public servant, obtains for himself or for any other person any valuable thing or pecuniary advantage; or while holding office as public servant, obtains for any person any valuable thing or pecuniary advantage without any public interest.

(iii) to make out an offence under Section 13(1)(d), there is no requirement that the valuable thing or pecuniary advantage should have been received as a motive or reward.

(iv) an agreement to accept or an attempt to obtain does not fall within Section 13(1)(d).

(vi) mere acceptance of any valuable thing or pecuniary advantage is not an offence under this provision.

(vii) therefore, to make out an offence under this provision, there has to be actual obtainment.

(viii) since the legislature has used two different expressions namely "obtains" or "accepts", the difference between these two must be noted."

40. In para 74 of the said judgment, the law for establishing guilt of the accused/public servant under Section 7 and 13(1)(d) has been summarized, which would read as under:-

"74. What emerges from the aforesaid discussion is summarised as under:

(a) Proof of demand and acceptance of illegal gratification by a public servant as a fact in issue by the prosecution is a sine qua non in order to establish the guilt of the accused public servant under Sections 7 and 13(1)(d)(i) and(ii) of the Act.

(b) In order to bring home the guilt of the accused, the prosecution has to first prove the demand of illegal gratification and the subsequent acceptance as a matter of fact. This fact in issue can be proved either by direct evidence which can be in the nature of oral evidence or documentary evidence.

(c) Further, the fact in issue, namely, the proof of demand and acceptance of illegal gratification can also be proved by circumstantial evidence in the absence of direct oral and documentary evidence.

(d) In order to prove the fact in issue, namely, the demand and acceptance of illegal gratification by the public servant, the following aspects have to be borne in mind:

(i) if there is an offer to pay by the bribe giver without there being any demand from the public servant and the latter simply accepts the offer and receives the illegal gratification, it is a case of acceptance as per Section 7 of the Act. In such a case, there need not be a prior demand by the public servant.

(ii) On the other hand, if the public servant makes a demand and the bribe giver accepts the demand and tenders the demanded gratification which in turn is received by the public servant, it is a case of obtainment. In the case of obtainment, the prior demand for illegal gratification emanates from the public servant. This is an offence under Section 13(1)(d)(i) and (ii) of the Act.

(iii) In both cases of (i) and (ii) above, the offer by the bribe giver and the demand by the public servant respectively have to be proved by the prosecution as a fact in issue. In other words, mere acceptance or receipt of an illegal gratification without anything more would not make it an offence under Section 7 or Section 13(1)(d), (i) and (ii) respectively of the Act. Therefore, under Section 7 of the Act, in order to bring home the offence, there must be an offer which emanates from the bribe giver which is accepted by the public servant which would make it an offence. Similarly, a prior demand by the public servant when accepted by the bribe giver and inturn there is a payment made which is received by the public servant, would be an offence of obtainment under Section 13(1)(d) and (i) and (ii) of the Act.

(e) The presumption of fact with regard to the demand and acceptance or obtainment of an illegal gratification may be made by a court of law by way of an inference only when the foundational facts have been proved by relevant oral and documentary evidence and not in the absence thereof. On the basis of the material on record, the Court has the discretion to raise a presumption of fact while considering whether the fact of demand has been proved by the prosecution or not. Of course, a presumption of fact is subject to rebuttal by the accused and in the absence of rebuttal presumption stands.

(f) In the event the complainant turns "hostile', or has died or is unavailable to let in his evidence during trial, demand of illegal gratification can be proved by letting in the evidence of any other witness who can again let in evidence, either orally or by documentary evidence or the prosecution can prove the case by circumstantial evidence. The trial does not abate nor does it result in an order of acquittal of the accused public servant.

(g) In so far as Section 7 of the Act is concerned, on the proof of the facts in issue, Section 20 mandates the court to raise a presumption that the illegal gratification was for the purpose of a motive or reward as mentioned in the said Section. The said presumption has to be raised by the court as a legal presumption or a presumption in law. Of course, the said presumption is also subject to rebuttal. Section 20 does not apply to Section 13(1)(d)(i) and (ii) of the Act.

(h) We clarify that the presumption in law under Section 20 of the Act is distinct from presumption of fact referred to above in point (e) as the former is a mandatory presumption while the latter is discretionary in nature."

41. The Supreme Court has answered the reference that if in absence of evidence of the complainant (direct/primary/ oral/documentary evidence), it would be permissible to draw an inferential deduction of culpability/guilt of a public servant under Section 7, 13(2)/13(1)(d) of the Act based on other evidence adduced by the prosecution.

42. Considering the evidence on the anvil of the law propounded by the Supreme Court, I am of the view that the prosecution has been able to prove the case of demand, acceptance and recovery of the bribe by the accused-appellant from the complainant. Thus, I find no merit and substance the present appeal, which is hereby dismissed. Bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are dischraged.

43. The accused-appellant is directed to surrender before the trail court forthwith to undergo the sentence awarded by the learned trial court. Let the record of the trail court be transmitted back to the trial court.

1. The application seeks taking additional evidence under Section 391 Cr.P.C.

2. I find that there is no relation between the cases registered against the accused-appellant in two different police stations under different sections. Therefore, application for taking additional evidence under Section 391 Cr.P.C. is rejected.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.
Hon'ble Ajit Singh, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellant and learned A.G.A. for the state.

2. This appeal challenges the judgment and order dated 01.01.2013 passed by Addl. Sessions Judge Court No. 13, Varanasi in Session Trial No. 500 of 2010 (State of U.P. Vs. Shyam Deo and others) convicting the appellants under Section 302 read with Section 34 of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as 'IPC) with life imprisonment and a fine of 5000/- has also been imposed, in default of which the appellants shall have to under go for further three months imprisonment and appellant no.2 has been convicted under Section 498A I.P.C. with three year rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 2000/- has also been imposed, in default of which the appellant no.2 shall have to go for a term of further two month imprisonment.

3. Brief facts as culled out from the record are that the marriage of the deceased was solemnized with Shyam Deo. The F.I.R. discloses that in the wedding the accused-appellants were given enough dowry but despite that they started harassing deceased and demanded a sum of Rs. 50,000/- and a motorcycle. When the said demand could not be fulfilled, the deceased was harassed by all the accused.

Some person had conveyed to the informant that the accused persons had poured kerosene oil on the deceased and had tried to set her ablaze. On the basis of the complaint of the brother of the deceased, the First Information Report was registered on 20.04.2010. The investigation started for commission for offence under Section 498A and 304B Indian Penal Code read with Section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act. Investigation culminated into charge-sheet being laid against Shyam Deo (husband of the deceased), Vindhyanchali (Sister-in-law/Jethani) under Sections 498A and 304B of IPC and Section 3/4 of D.P. Act. On these brief facts the prosecution was put into motion.

4. The accused were summoned and charges were framed by learned Additional Sessions Judge under Sections 498A and 304B of IPC and Section 4 of D.P. Act with alternative charges under Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC. The accused-persons pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried. The offence for which accused was charged was triable by the Court of Sessions, hence, the accused-appellants was committed to the Court of Sessions.

5. The Trial started and the prosecution examined 8 witnesses who are as follows:

1	Vinod Sahani	PW1
2	Gudiya	PW2
3	Kuttar Devi	PW3
4	Mratyunjay Singh	PW4
5	Dr. D.K. Singh	PW5
6	Dr. Alok Singh	PW6
7	Dr. D.K. Kashyap	PW7
8	Ramanad Kushwaha	PW8

6. In support of ocular version following documents were filed:

1	Written Report	Ex.Ka.1
2	Dying Declaration	Ex.Ka.2
3	Postmortem Report	Ex.Ka.6
4	Death Certificate	Ex.Ka.4
5	Information after death	Ex. Ka.5
6	Panchayatnama	Ex.Ka.8
7	Site Plan with Index	Ex. Ka.7
8	Charge Sheet	Ex. Ka.9

7. The learned Additional Sessions Judge has convicted the accused-appellants as above.

8. Learned counsel for the appellant has relied on the decisions of Apex Court passed in Criminal Appeal No. 1418 of 2004 (Bengai Mandal alias Begai Mandal vs. State of Biha) decided on 11th January, 2010, in Criminal Appeal No.514 of 2010 (Chirra Shivraj vs. State of Andhra Pradesh) decided on 26 November, 2010, and decisions of this Court in Criminal Appeal No.1438 of 2010 (Smt. Rama Devi alias Ramakanti vs. State of U.P.) decided on 7.10.2014 and Criminal Appeal No. 2558 of 2011 (Smt. Kanti and Another vs. State of U.P.) decided on 1.2.2021 and has contended that there is faulty charge and the charge could not have been re-framed after the examination of witnesses of prosecution side, who did not support the prosecution. This is the contention of the learned counsel for the appellant, and in the alternative, it is submitted that this is a case which does not go beyond Section 304 Part I or Part II of IPC. There was no intention of the accused to do away with the deceased and the death was due to septicemia after 11 days of incident as per the testimony of P.W.1 also that she died after 11 days of incident.

9. As against this, learned A.G.A. for the State has contended that the dying declaration is believable and, therefore, the learned Judge has not committed any error or there is no error which calls for interference by this Court in this appeal. Moreover, looking to the gruesomeness of the offence and the evidence of prosecution witnesses, this Court should not show any leniency in the matter. It is further submitted by learned A.G.A. that ingredients of Section 300 of IPC are rightly held to be made out by the learned Sessions Judge who has applied the law to the facts in case.

10. We have considered the evidence of witnesses and the Postmortem report which states that the injuries on the body of the deceased would be the cause of death and that it was homicidal death, we concur with the finding of the Court below.

11. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the deceased died due to burn injuries which she sustained accidentally while cooking food. While going through the dying declaration and the postmortem report, we cannot accept the submission of counsel for the accused-appellants that it was an accidental death.

12. Therefore, we are of the considered opinion that the learned Judge has not committed any mistake in relying on the dying declaration. In the light of the decision in Govindappa and others Vs. State of Karnataka, (2010) 6 SCC 533, there is no reason for us not to accept the dying declaration and its evidentiary value under Section 32 of Evidence Act, 1872. We are convinced that P.W.3 was also conveyed by the deceased about the incident and, therefore, the contention of the counsel that it was an accidental death arising out of accidental burning during cooking in the house cannot be accepted. We are of the view that it was a homicidal death and not accidental death.

13. This takes us to the next question whether it was a perpetrated murder or would it fall within any of the exceptions to Section 300 of IPC?

14. It would be relevant to refer to Section 299 of the Indian Penal Code, which reads as under:

"299. Culpable homicide*: Whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing death, or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death, commits the offence of culpable homicide."*

15. The academic distinction between "murder' and "culpable homicide not amounting to murder' has always vexed the Courts. The confusion is caused, if Courts loose sight of the true scope and meaning of the terms used by the legislature in these sections, and allow themselves to be drawn into minute abstractions. The safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions seems to be is to keep in focus the keywords used in the various clauses of Section 299 and 300 of I.P.Code. The following comparative table will be helpful in appreciating the points of distinction between the two offences.

Section 299	Section 300
A person commits culpable homicide if the act by which the	Subject to certain exceptions culpable homicide is murder death is caused is done-	if the act by which the death is caused is done.

INTENTION
(a) with the intention of causing death; or	(1) with the intention of causing death; or
(b) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death; or	(2) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused;
KNOWLEDGE	KNOWLEDGE
(c) with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death.	(4) with the knowledge that the act is so immediately dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as is mentioned above.

16. It is an admitted position of fact that the death was due to septicemia and had occurred after 11 days of incident. The accused-appellants are husband and sister-in-law (jethani) of the deceased. The accused-appellants are in jail for more than 10 years and they are not arguing for clean acquittal and requesting for lesser sentence. Hence, on overall scrutiny of the facts and circumstances of the present case coupled with the opinion of the Medical Officer and considering the principle laid down by the Apex Court in the Case of Tukaram and Ors Vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in (2011) 4 SCC 250 and in the case of B.N. Kavatakar and Another Vs. State of Karnataka, reported in 1994 SUPP (1) SCC 304 & Veeran and others Vs. State of M.P. Decided, (2011) 5 SCR 300, we come to the definite conclusion that the death was not premeditated. The precedents discussed by us would permit us to uphold our finding which we conclusively hold that the offence is not punishable under Section 302 of I.P.C. but is culpable homicide not amounting to murder, punishable U/s 304 (Part II) of I.P.C. We are also fortified in our view by the decisions relied upon by learned Counsel for the appellants in Bengai Mandal alias Begai Mandal vs. State of Biha, Chirra Shivraj vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, Smt. Rama Devi alias Ramakanti vs. State of U.P. &b Smt. Kanti and Another vs. State of U.P. (Supra).

17. It is now to be seen as to what would be the quantum of sentence. In this regard, we have to analyse the theory of punishment prevailing in India.

18. In Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, [AIR 1977 SC 1926], explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

19. 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP [(2004) 7 SCC 257] by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

20. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532], Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734], Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323], State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, [(2015) 3 SCC 441], and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463] and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

21. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

22. As discussed above, 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is very harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Apex Court, as discussed above, has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformative approach underlying in criminal justice system.

23. The accused-appellants are reported to have undergone 12 years of sentence and therefore, we hold that the period undergone will be sufficient punishment. Fine and default sentence are maintained. The accused-appellants be set free forthwith, if not wanted in any other case. He will deposit the fine within four weeks from the date of release and in case fine is not deposited he will be procured to undergo the sentence of default.

24. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and order passed by the learned Sessions Judge shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. Record be sent back to the Trial Court forthwith.

25. Therefore, we convert the sentence of accused appellants from 'life imprisonment' to 10 years' rigorous imprisonment. Fine and default sentence are maintained. If 10 years of incarceration is over. The accused-appellants be set free, if period of sentence and default sentence are over, if not wanted in any other case.

Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:

Criminal Law- Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 363, 366 & 376 – Rape - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - 114-A - The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 164, 313 - on 05.05.1992 accused entered the house of complainant and enticed away her minor daughter - Incident was witnessed by three persons - At the time of incident, the complainant had gone to attend a marriage – Complainant lodged FIR against accused on 12.05.1992 – Trial Court framed charges under aforesaid sections and held that victim was minor on the date of incident and the consent of minor has no effect - Accused enticed the victim for the purpose of marriage and raped her – Impugned order challenged in appeal - Held, no ambiguity and illegality - liable to be confirmed and dismissed. (Para 4, 7, 10, 40)

Held: It was the duty of the Investigating Officer to verify the age of the victim from the school document. If it is not verified then it is fault on behalf of the Investigating Officer for which the age of the victim could not be disputed. The prosecution case cannot be brushed aside on the lacuna made by the Investigating Officer. The St.ment of the victim was recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. on 17.06.1992. But trial court did not discuss the said St.ment in this judgment. No St.ment under Section 164 Cr.P.C. is found on record but it is established law that plethora of judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court held that the St.ment of the victim under Section 164 Cr.P.C. is mere piece of evidence. There is no major contradictions in the St.ment of the victim recorded during the trial and the accused may be convicted on the basis of St.ment of the victim only. The appeal is dismissed. He is directed to surrender before the C.J.M concerned. Personal bond and bail bonds of the accused are cancelled. (Para 30, 35, 36, 42, 43)

The appeal is dismissed. (E-13)

3. In the guidelines of Hon'ble Supreme Court, the name of victim is not disclosed. Her name is refereed as letter "X'.

4. The brief facts of the case are that on 05.05.1992 at about 11:00 P.M., accused Rajendra Prasad @ Gappu entered the house of complainant and enticed away her minor daughter, whose date of birth is 20.08.1980. The incident was witnessed by Vinod Kumar, Motilal, Ram Dashrath and Satrughan. When the accused Rajendra Prasad @ Gappu and the victim were inside the house, these witnesses went inside the house of the complainant. At the time of incident, the complainant had gone to Narainpur to attend a marriage. The complainant searched his daughter but she could not be found. The complainant came to know that Rajendra Prasad @ Gappu had kidnapped his daughter.

5. On the basis of written report, First Information Report under Sections 363 and 366 I.P.C. was lodged in the Police Station Gosaiganj, District Lucknow. Chik report was also prepared endorsing G.D. No.27 at about 15:40 hours on 11.05.1992.

6. The investigation was conducted by the Sub Inspector R.D. Singh, who recorded the statement of complainant and victim, visited place of occurrence and prepared site plan thereof. During the investigation, victim was recovered from Kaiserbagh Bus Stand. The Investigating Officer prepared the recovery memo, Ex. Ka-2 and site plan of the place of recovery, Ex. Ka-6 and handed over the victim to her parents. The victim was medically examined by lady doctor, who prepared medical report, Ex. Ka-4 and she was also medically examined for the purpose of determination of age. The X-ray report, Ex. Ka-3 and X-ray plate, material Ex.-1 is on record. It was opined by doctor that the victim was in between 16 to 17 years of age. After the conclusion of investigation, the charge sheet was submitted before the court of competent jurisdiction.

7. The case was committed to the court of sessions where accused appeared and charges were framed against him under Sections 363, 366 and 376 I.P.C. The accused/appellant denied from the charges levelled against him and claimed to be tried.

8. In order to prove its case, the prosecution has presented following witnesses.

"(i) P.W.-1, Munna Lal (Complainant)

(ii) P.W.-2, the Victim.

(iii) P.W.-3, Dr. J.P. Gupta, Radiologist.

(iv) P.W.-4, Dr. Mridula Sharma

(v) P.W.-5, Sub Inspector R.D. Singh.

(vi) P.W.-6, Ram Sumiran.

(vii) P.W.-7, Retired Sub Inspector Dev Nath Dubey."

9. Besides oral evidence, the following documentary evidences were also prepared and proved in the court.

"(i) Ex. Ka-1, Written Report.

(ii) Ex. Ka-2, Recovery Memo.

(vii) Ex. Ka-7, Charge sheet.

(viii) Ex. Ka-8, Chik report.

10. The learned trial court heard Government Counsel and learned counsel for the accused and after perusing the record, reached to the conclusion that the victim was minor on the date of incident and the consent of minor has no effect and the accused enticed the victim of minor age for the purpose of marriage and raped her. The trial court also reached to the conclusion that accused was 25 years' of age and found the accused guilty of the alleged offence. Aggrieved with judgment and order dated 10.11.2000, the present appeal is preferred.

11. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that judgment and order passed by the learned trial court is erroneous and against the facts of the case. The victim was 18 years' old at the time of incident and the first information report was lodged with inordinate delay. No eye witness was produced in the court and if the prosecution story may be assumed to be true, the consent of prosecutrix ought to be inferred from the material available on record. Therefore, it is prayed that the conviction and sentence fixed against the appellant may be set aside.

12. Per contra, learned A.G.A. submitted that according to the first information report, the victim was minor and her date of birth was mentioned in the F.I.R. itself as 20.08.1980 and the incident happened on 05.05.1992. In the light of above facts, the victim was minor and her consent cannot be presumed. The judgment and order of the trial court is in consonance with the evidence produced in the trial court hence the appeal is liable to be rejected.

13. To recapitulate the evidence of the prosecution, P.W.-1 Munna Lal stated that he went to Narainpur in a marriage of his relative alongwith his wife Saraswati Debi and his daughter i.e. the victim and his son i.e. Brij Mohan were at home. His daughter was aged about 12 years' old at the time of incident. Dinesh Chandra Sharma went to inform him about the incident in Narainpur. When he came, his daughter was missing from his house and co-villagers, Vinod Kumar, Motilal, Ram Dashrath and Satrughan had informed him that they had seen the accused, Rajendra Prasad @ Gappu entering his home and they locked the door of kothari where there was accused with the victim. The accused, Rajendra Prasad @ Gappu removed one part of the door and took the victim alongwith him from the back side. It is also deposed by the complainant that the victim had taken Rs.3,000/- and jewellery from the house. He searched his daughter in the village but could not ascertain her whereabout. This witness proved written report dated 11.05.1992 and stated on oath that he mentioned the date of birth of his daughter as 20.08.1980. P.W.-1 proved recovery memo of his daughter and identified his signature on it.

14. P.W.-2, the victim deposed that on the date of incident, her parents were gone to attend a marriage. Her brother went to the shop for sleeping. The accused, Rajendra Prasad @ Gappu and Urmila came to her house at about 10:00 P.M. to 11:00 P.M. and knocked the door. The victim had a small shop in her house. The accused Rajendra knocked the door and Urmila was also with him. On hearing the voice of Urmila, she opened the door. The accused Rajendra asked for pukar (pan masala). On this, she replied that shop is locked and she could not give pukar (pan masala) at this time. Urmila said that they are standing outside, she can give pan masala to them. When she entered the kothari (small room) from window, the accused also entered in the kothari (small room) and the Urmila shut the door from outside. On hearing hue and cry, the neighbors gathered there and shut the door from outside. The accused, Rajendra Prasad @ Gappu threatened the victim to kill by knife, if she does not accompany him and carried the victim with him. The accused, Rajendra Prasad @ Gappu carried her to Lucknow then Faizabad and kept her in a house for one month. The old land lady provided her food and clothes. The accused committed rape upon her. When she was coming to Lucknow with accused on 10.06.1992, she saw Ram Autar and Puranmasi, who were known to her, she raised alarm then the police personnel arrested the accused at the distance of 10 steps. Recovery memo was prepared and she affixed her thumb impression on it.

15. P.W.-3, Dr. J.P. Gupta who performed X-ray and prepared X-ray report and X-ray plate. Both the papers were proved by him in the court and he determined the age of the victim in between 16 to 17 years.

16. P.W.-4 Dr. Mridula Sharma deposed that she examined the victim on 11.06.1992 at about 12:15 P.M., who was brought by C.P. 2259 Siddheswari Tiwari. No external injuries were found on the person of the victim. According to pathological and radiological report, no opinion about rape could be given. P.W.-4 also proved medical report as Ex. Ka-4.

17. P.W.-5, Sub Inspector R.D. Singh appeared in the court and proved site plan, Ex. Ka-5, recovery memo, Ex. Ka-2, site plan of recovery, Ex. Ka-6 and charge sheet, Ex. Ka-7. He also stated that he produced the victim for recording of the statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C.

18. P.W.-6, Ram Sumiran, the scriber of first information report, who reduced in writing which was stated by the complainant Munna Lal, proved F.I.R. in court that it is his hand writing.

19. P.W.-7, Sub Inspector Dev Nath Dubey is a formal witness, who proved the chik report no.143 dated 11.05.1992, Ex. Ka-8 and G.D., Ex. Ka-9.

20. After the conclusion of prosecution evidence, the statement of accused was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. wherein accused stated that he has been falsely implicated in the case. He had a dispute with complainant Munna on account of reaping water chestnut (singhada) and, therefore, he is falsely roped in the case. The appellant adduced two witnesses in defence i.e. D.W.-1, Urmila and D.W.-2, Ram Autar:-

"D.W.-1, Urmila stated that she knew that victim had fled away with accused but she was at her home because she had delivered a child two days prior to the date of incident.

D.W.-2, Ram Autar stated that he was not present at the time of occurrence. The Sub Inspector obtained his thumb impression on a plain paper."

21. From the perusal of record, it is evident that the incident occurred on 05.05.1992, however, first information report was lodged on 12.05.1992 with the delay of five days. The distance of police station is 7 km. West to the place of occurrence.

22. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that the F.I.R. is lodged with inordinate delay of five days but the delay is explained in the F.I.R. itself by the complainant and it is mentioned in the F.I.R. that he searched his daughter in village, when he could not find out his daughter then the F.I.R. was lodged in the police station. Therefore, the delay in F.I.R. has no effect on the truthfullness of the F.I.R.

23. It is also pertinent to mention here that on 10.06.1992, the victim was recovered when she was coming with accused appellant on rickshaw. Recovery memo is on record as Ex. Ka-2, which is signed by accused, Rajendra Prasad @ Gappu also. Therefore, it is undisputed fact that the accused enticed away the victim with him and she remained in the custody of Rajendra Prasad @ Gappu during this period till she was recovered from the possession of accused.

24. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that no external or internal injury was found on the person of the victim. P.W.-4, Dr. Mridula Sharma stated on oath that there are no external fresh injury on any part of the victim. Hymen was torn and healed and according to pathological report, no opinion of rape was given by the doctor but P.W.-2, the victim herself corroborated prosecution version that the accused carried her to Lucknow and, thereafter, Faizabad by bus. She explained that she did not raise alarm as accused threatened her to kill. She has also stated that if Urmila had not knocked her house, she would not have opened door. Witness in so many words stated that accused raped her against her consent, on her statement, on page no.8, she stated that she used force to refrain the accused from committing rape with her. She could not escape from the room as accused always locked that room. Therefore, there is no question of consent from the side of victim.

25. Section 114-A of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 is being quoted hereunder:-

"114A. Presumption as to absence of consent in certain prosecutions for rape.--In a prosecution for rape under clause

(a) or clause (b) or clause (c) or clause (d) or clause (e) or clause (g) of sub-section (2) of section 376 of the Indian Penal Code, (45 of 1860), where sexual intercourse by the accused is proved and the question is whether it was without the consent of the woman alleged to have been raped and she states in her evidence before the Court that she did not consent, the Court shall presume that she did not consent.]"

26. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of XYZ Vs. State of Gujarat reported in (2019) 10 SCC 337 has held in para 15 as under:-

"During the course of hearing, learned counsel for the appellant, brought to our notice provision/Section 114-A of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. Section 114-A of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 deals with the presumption as to absence of consent in certain prosecution for rape. A reading of the aforesaid Section makes it clear that, where sexual intercourse by the accused is proved and the question is whether it was without the consent of the woman alleged to have been raped, and such woman states in her evidence before the Court that she did not consent, the court shall presume that she did not consent."

27. Further, Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Javed Vs. State of NCT of Delhi reported in 2022 SCC OnLine Del 4182 has held in para 7 as under:-

"The consent of the minor at the age of 16 years, specially, when the applicant was 23 years old and already married also disentitles the applicant for grant of bail. Consent of a minor is no consent in the eyes of law."

28. It is submitted by the learned A.G.A. that the victim was 12 years' of age, therefore, the consent of minor has no effect.

29. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that medical age of the victim is found between 16 to 17 years as the epiphysis around knee were partly fused and epiphysis around wrist not fused, therefore, in the opinion of doctor, the age is about 16-17 years.

30. From the perusal of record, it is clear that no proof of age is collected by the Investigating Officer. However, complainant specifically noted the date of birth of the victim as per school document as 20.06.1980. It was the duty of the Investigating Officer to verify the age of the victim from the school document. If the date of birth is not verified from the school certificate by the Investigating Officer, it is fault on behalf of the Investigating Officer for which the age of the victim could not be disputed. The prosecution case cannot be brushed aside on the lacuna made by the Investigating Officer.

31. Further, in the case of Ram Bihari Yadav Vs. State of Bihar and Ors. reported in MANU/SC/0302/1998, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that in a situation of lapses on the part of the Investigating Officer, the prosecution evidence must be looked at de hors such omissions to find out whether the said evidence is reliable or not.

"In such cases, the story of the prosecution will have to be examined de hors such ommissions and contaminated conduct of the officials otherwise the mischief which was deliberately done would be perpetuated and justice would be denied to the complainant party and this would obviously shake the confidence of the people not merely in the law enforcing agency but also in the administration of justice."

32. It is well established law that where there is specific proof of age from educational document then the opinion of doctor could not be taken into account. However, learned counsel for the appellant stated that this law has been incorporated vide amendment in Juvenile Justice Act, 2013. Before this amendment, the medical evidence was admissible as proof of age. It is assumed that medical evidence is admissible then too, the medical age is merely opinion and the medical opinion is based on guess work. The complainant had given specific date of birth in the first information report itself. It is evident from the date of birth that victim was 12 years old at the time of incident.

33. Learned counsel for the appellant argues that it is stated by P.W.-3 in his cross-examination that "the age of the victim can neither be determined as 15 years nor 18 years", therefore, age of victim cannot be less than 15 years and the age of the victim as mentioned by the prosecution is not reliable.

34. Again at the cost of reiteration that the medical opinion is just an opinion which cannot substitute the date of birth mentioned in F.I.R. as well as proved by complainant who is the father of victim. Prosecution has discharged its burden regarding age of victim. No evidence is led by accused in defence to contradict the age of victim proved by the prosecution.

35. It is also contended by learned counsel for the appellant that the statement of the victim recorded under Section 164 were not found on record. However, the statement of victim was recorded as such. It is true that the statement of the victim was recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. on 17.06.1992. But learned trial court did not discuss the statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. in this judgment. No statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. is found on record but it is established law that plethora of judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court held that the statement of the victim under Section 164 Cr.P.C. is mere piece of evidence. The evidentiary value of statement of the victim recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. is to corroborate or to contradict the prosecution version. The victim had corroborated the prosecution version in her statement recorded on oath before P.O. during the trial. Therefore, if the statement of victim under Section 164 Cr.P.C. are not discussed in the judgment, it do not render statement of victim recorded in court false and unreliable.

36. There is no major contradictions in the statement of the victim recorded during the trial and statement inspired confidence to the level that the accused may be convicted on the basis of statement of the victim only.

37. The relevant paras of Phool Singh Vs. The State of Madhya Pradesh reported in (2022) 2 SCC 74, are being quoted hereunder wherein Hon'ble Supreme Court has opined as under:-

4.1 It is submitted that in the present case both, the learned trial Court as well as the High Court have rightly convicted the accused for the offence under Section 376 IPC, relying upon the sole testimony of the prosecutrix/victim. It is submitted that as such there is no reason to doubt the credibility and trustworthiness of the prosecutrix. It is submitted that even no question was asked to the prosecutrix while cross-examining the prosecutrix that a false case was filed against the accused.

4.2 It is submitted that once it is found that the prosecutrix is reliable and trustworthy, in that case, there can be a conviction for the offence of rape - Section 376 IPC, relying upon the deposition of the sole witness/victim. Reliance is placed on the decisions of this Court in the cases of Ganesan v. State, (2020) 10 SCC 573; Santosh Prasad v. State of Bihar, (2020) 3 SCC 443; State of H.P. v. Manga Singh, (2019) 16 SCC 759; and State (NCT of Delhi) v. Pankaj Chaudhary, (2019) 11 SCC 575.

4.3 It is submitted that in the case of Pankaj Chaudhary (supra), it is specifically observed and held by this Court that conviction can be sustained on the sole testimony of the prosecutrix if it inspires confidence and that there is no rule of law or practice that the evidence of the prosecutrix cannot be relied upon without corroboration.

5.2 In the case of Ganesan (supra), this Court has observed and held that there can be a conviction on the sole testimony of the victim/prosecutrix when the deposition of the prosecutrix is found to be trustworthy, unblemished, credible and her evidence is of sterling quality.

In the aforesaid case, this Court had an occasion to consider the series of judgments of this Court on conviction on the sole evidence of the prosecutrix. In paragraphs 10.1 to 10.3, it is observed and held as under:

10.1. Whether, in the case involving sexual harassment, molestation, etc., can there be conviction on the sole evidence of the prosecutrix, in Vijay [Vijay v. State of M.P., (2010) 8 SCC 191], it is observed in paras 9 to 14 as under: (SCC pp. 195-98)

"9. In State of Maharashtra v. Chandraprakash Kewalchand Jain [State of Maharashtra v. Chandraprakash Kewalchand Jain, (1990) 1 SCC 550] this Court held that a woman, who is the victim of sexual assault, is not an accomplice to the crime but is a victim of another person's lust and, therefore, her evidence need not be tested with the same amount of suspicion as that of an accomplice. The Court observed as under:

"16. A prosecutrix of a sex offence cannot be put on a par with an accomplice. She is in fact a victim of the crime. The Evidence Act nowhere says that her evidence cannot be accepted unless it is corroborated in material particulars. She is undoubtedly a competent witness under Section 118 and her evidence must receive the same weight as is attached to an injured in cases of physical violence. The same degree of care and caution must attach in the evaluation of her evidence as in the case of an injured complainant or witness and no more.

10. In State of U.P. v. Pappu [State of U.P. v. Pappu, (2005) 3 SCC 594] this Court held that even in a case where it is shown that the girl is a girl of easy virtue or a girl habituated to sexual intercourse, it may not be a ground to absolve the accused from the charge of rape. It has to be established that there was consent by her for that particular occasion. Absence of injury on the prosecutrix may not be a factor that leads the court to absolve the accused. This Court further held that there can be conviction on the sole testimony of the prosecutrix and in case, the court is not satisfied with the version of the prosecutrix, it can seek other evidence, direct or circumstantial, by which it may get assurance of her testimony. The Court held as under: (SCC p. 597, para 12).

12. It is well settled that a prosecutrix complaining of having been a victim of the offence of rape is not an accomplice after the crime. There is no rule of law that her testimony cannot be acted upon without corroboration in material particulars. She stands at a higher pedestal than an injured witness. In the latter case, there is injury on the physical form, while in the former it is both physical as well as psychological and emotional. However, if the court of facts finds it difficult to accept the version of the prosecutrix on its face value, it may search for evidence, direct or circumstantial, which would lend assurance to her testimony. Assurance, short of corroboration as understood in the context of an accomplice, would do.'

11. In State of Punjab v. Gurmit Singh [State of Punjab v. Gurmit Singh, (1996) 2 SCC 384], this Court held that in cases involving sexual harassment, molestation, etc. the court is duty-bound to deal with such cases with utmost sensitivity. Minor contradictions or insignificant discrepancies in the statement of a prosecutrix should not be a ground for throwing out an otherwise reliable prosecution case. Evidence of the victim of sexual assault is enough for conviction and it does not require any corroboration unless there are compelling reasons for seeking corroboration. The court may look for some assurances of her statement to satisfy judicial conscience. The statement of the prosecutrix is more reliable than that of an injured witness as she is not an accomplice.

12. In State of Orissa v. Thakara Besra [State of Orissa v. Thakara Besra, (2002) 9 SCC 86], this Court held that rape is not mere physical assault, rather it often distracts (sic destroys) the whole personality of the victim. The rapist degrades the very soul of the helpless female and, therefore, the testimony of the prosecutrix must be appreciated in the background of the entire case and in such cases, non-examination even of other witnesses may not be a serious infirmity in the prosecution case, particularly where the witnesses had not seen the commission of the offence.

13. In State of H.P. v. Raghubir Singh [State of H.P. v. Raghubir Singh, (1993) 2 SCC 622], this Court held that there is no legal compulsion to look for any other evidence to corroborate the evidence of the prosecutrix before recording an order of conviction. Evidence has to be weighed and not counted. Conviction can be recorded on the sole testimony of the prosecutrix, if her evidence inspires confidence and there is absence of circumstances which militate against her veracity. A similar view has been reiterated by this Court in Wahid Khan v. State of M.P. [Wahid Khan v. State of M.P., (2010) 2 SCC 9] placing reliance on an earlier judgment in Rameshwar v. State of Rajasthan [Rameshwar v. State of Rajasthan, AIR 1952 SC 54].

14. Thus, the law that emerges on the issue is to the effect that the statement of the prosecutrix, if found to be worthy of credence and reliable, requires no corroboration. The court may convict the accused on the sole testimony of the prosecutrix."

5.3 In the case of Pankaj Chaudhary (supra), it is observed and held that as a general rule, if credible, conviction of accused can be based on sole testimony, without corroboration. It is further observed and held that sole testimony of prosecutrix should not be doubted by court merely on basis of assumptions and surmises. In paragraph 29, it is observed and held as under:

"29. It is now well-settled principle of law that conviction can be sustained on the sole testimony of the prosecutrix if it inspires confidence [Vishnu v. State of Maharashtra [Vishnu v. State of Maharashtra, (2006) 1 SCC 283]. It is well-settled by a catena of decisions of this Court that there is no rule of law or practice that the evidence of the prosecutrix cannot be relied upon without corroboration and as such it has been laid down that corroboration is not a sine qua non for conviction in a rape case. If the evidence of the victim does not suffer from any basic infirmity and the "probabilities factor" does not render it unworthy of credence, as a general rule, there is no reason to insist on corroboration except from medical evidence, where, having regard to the circumstances of the case, medical evidence can be expected to be forthcoming. [State of Rajasthan v. N.K. [State of Rajasthan v. N.K., (2000) 5 SCC 30]."

38. Learned counsel for the appellant had drawn attention on the statement of defence witness Urmila as the same lady who is said to have come to knock the door of the victim alongwith accused Rajendra Prasad @ Gappu and she stated on oath that she did not come with Rajendra Prasad @ Gappu as she delivered a child two days back. She is interested witness and to some extent, she assisted the appellant in commission of crime, therefore, the statement of the defence witness Urmila cannot be relied upon. So far as D.W.-2 Ram Autar is concerned, he is the witness of recovery, who affixed his thumb impression on recovery memo. He admitted his signature on recovery memo during trial, but he denied the contents of recovery memo. It is already proved that victim was with accused when she was recovered and recovery memo was signed by accused Rajendra Prasad @ Gappu, therefore recovery memo could not be doubted even though contents are denied by D.W.2 Ram Autar.

39. It is a case of appellant that he had dispute over water chestnuts, which were sown by Munna and reaped by accused appellant unlawfully but there is no F.I.R. regarding the incident. It appears that this was not major incident. In the the entire evidence the prosecution proved the fact that the victim was enticed away by Rajendra Prasad @ Gappu on 05.05.1992 and she was recovered from the possession of accused Rajendra Prasad @ Gappu on 10.06.1992. Recovery memo is signed by accused as well as witnesses, delay is explained, the age of the victim is specifically mentioned in F.I.R. by way of date of birth as well as in the statement of the complainant. The victim is proved minor and her consent has no effect. Moreover, the consent of the victim could not be presumed in favour of the accused. Consent is to be proved by the accused appellant by clear evidence.

40. All the factum have been discussed and dealt by the trial court in its judgment. There is no ambiguity and illegality in the judgment of the trial court and the judgment of the trial court is liable to be confirmed and the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

41. So far as the punishment is concerned, learned trial court has considered the young age of the appellant at the time of passing the order and passed seven years' rigorous imprisonment under Section 376 I.P.C., which is bare minimum punishment prescribed in the case. Learned counsel for the appellant could not show any circumstances to mitigate the sentence awarded by the trial court, therefore, the punishment awarded by trial court is also confirmed.

42. The appeal is dismissed. The accused is on bail, he shall surrender before the C.J.M concerned within one month from the date of judgment and shall be sent to jail and serve out the punishment awarded by the trial court.

43. Personal Bond and bail bonds of the accused are cancelled.

44. Let certified copy of this judgment alongwith lower court record be sent to the trial court concerned for necessary information and compliance.

1. The present criminal appeal under Section 374(2) CrPC has been filed against the judgment and order dated 31.08.2015 passed by the learned Special Judge, CBI, Court No. 4, Lucknow in Criminal Case No.01 of 2011 (Computerized No.1600001 of 2011) (State through Central Bureau of Investigation, Lucknow Vs. Banshraj), arising out of R. C. No. 0062011A0001/2011, under Sections 7 and 13(2) read with Section 13(i)(d) Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, (hereinafter referred to as the "PC Act, 1988") Police Station C.B.I./A.C.B., Lucknow by means of which the accused-appellant has been convicted and sentenced as follows:-

ii. U/s 13(2) read with Section 13(i)(d) PC Act, 1988 four years rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs. 40,000/- and in case of default in deposition of the fine amount, one year's additional rigorous imprisonment.

It has also been directed that both the sentences would run concurrently and the period spent in jail shall be adjusted in the sentence awarded.

2. Prosecution case, in FIR, was that accused-appellant, Banshraj, who was posted as Senior Executive Engineer (Electrical & Mechanical) (hereinafter referred to as the "E&M), Kakari Project, National Coal Limited, Sonbhadra, Uttar Pradesh (hereinafter referred to as the "NCL") used to harass complainant, R.K. Mittal by asking for bribe for the work of dismantling and creating HT overhead line.

3. The tender was floated when required at mines in the area of the Kakari Project. The Technical Committee Member was Mr. P. Rai, Chief Engineer (Mines), but in his absence, the accused-appellant, being the Senior Executive Engineer (E&M), acted as Technical Committee Member. The Tender Committee Recommendations (hereinafter referred to as the "TCR") were made by the accused-appellant.

4. Complainant, R.K. Mittal was L-1. The accused-appellant allegedly asked the complainant to bring Rs. 2,600/- otherwise, he would disturb working of the complainant. The accused-appellant allegedly also told the complainant that his Rs.7,000/- was balance for the previous TCR and asked the complainant to bring the previous balance amount of Rs. 7,000/- as well.

5. The complainant gave a complaint to the CBI/ACB on 13.01.2011 in respect of the said demand of bribe by the accused-appellant.

6. After verifying the complaint, the case was registered by the CBI. During pre-trap and post-trap proceedings, the accused-appellant was arrested on 18.01.2011, at around 2 p.m., demanding and accepting Rs.9,600/- from the complainant, which was for making TCR in favour of the complainant and Rs. 20,000/- in respect of the payment made against the bills for the work done by the complainant.

7. After completing investigation, charge-sheet was filed against the accused-appellant under Section 7 and Section 13 (2) read with Section 13(i) (d) PC Act, 1988. The cognizance was taken on the said charge-sheet on 06.05.2011 by the learned trial Court and accused-appellant was summoned to face trial.

8. Charge was framed on 08.07.2011 for the offence under Section 7 read with Sections 13(2) and 13(i)(d) PC Act, 1988.

9. The accused-appellant denied the charge and claimed trial.

10. The prosecution, to prove its case, examined 9 witnesses and proved 20 documents.

11. The accused-appellant, in his defence, examined 5 witnesses.

12. Statement of the accused-appellant was recorded under Section 313 CrPC wherein he had said that the sanction for his prosecution was given without application of mind and, denied that he demanded and accepted any bribe from the complainant. He had also said that pre-trap and post-trap proceedings were illegal and denied the evidence brought on record by the prosecution. He also said that the CBI, after arresting him, got his signatures on post-trap memo (Exhibit Ka-3) and other documents. In respect of recovery of the bribe amount of Rs. 29,600/- from him, the accused-appellant said that it was wrong and when he was going to take lunch by his jeep then the complainant, who met him on the way, said that "I had kept in the drawer sir". Later on, he could realize that the complainant had planted the money and, he was arrested by the CBI after getting off the jeep. No money was recovered from him. After his arrest, signatures of the witnesses were obtained on papers. He denied his signatures on post-trap memo, D-6 (Exhibit Ka-4). The accused-appellant also denied the recovery of the bribe amount from drawer of his office-table by Ram Narain Duble (PW-4) and, also denied the solution turned pink after dipping his fingers. He denied Exhibits Ka-2 to Ka-6 and material exhibits (ME-1 to ME-10). The accused-appellant denied the Memorandum D-12 (Exhibit Ka-20) prepared by Pramod Kumar Singh, PW-3. He said that neither voice recorder of pre-trap and post-trap was produced nor proved in the Court. Neither the TLO nor the CBI had submitted any certificate under Section 65-B of the Evidence Act in respect of the electronic evidence.

13. In his defence, the accused-appellant produced documents and proved the same.

14. Learned trial Court, after analyzing the evidence in detail found the charge proved and held the accused-appellant guilty for the offence under Section 7 read with Sections 13(2) and 13(i)(d) PC Act, 1988 and convicted and sentenced him, as mentioned above.

15. On behalf of the accused-appellant, Mr. Purnendu Chakravarti has submitted that the prosecution has failed to prove the demand, acceptance and recovery of the bribe amount from the accused-applicant; it is sine-qua-none to hold an accused guilty for the offence under Section 7 and Section 13(2) read with 13(i)(d) PC Act,1988 to prove the demand, acceptance and recovery of the bribe amount from the accused; the accused-appellant was not in a position to favour the complainant; PW-5, Vasudeo Adya, who was posted as Deputy General Manager (Finance) at NCL Kakari Project, had explained the entire procedure for work contract and, its execution at NCL; PW-5, in his evidence, said that the bills of the complainant, the contractor, was signed on 10.12.2010; Jag Mohan, Fitment In-charge, checked the bills and signed the same; after processing the bills by Jag Mohan, the accused-appellant, having supervisory capacity, also checked and signed the bills on 10.12.2010; this PW-5 had proved the Document No. 15 (Work Order allotted to the complainant) and Document No. 14 (Bills submitted by the complainant).

16. On behalf of the accused-applicant, Mr. Chakravarti, learned counsel, has further submitted that D. N. Mandal, DW-2, posted in NCL Kakari Project had proved Document No.A94/4 to A94/25. These documents are in respect of TCR and credentials of M/s Vimal Electrical Works, the proprietorship concern of the complainant. This witness has proved the duty-chart, TCR and credentials, submission of the work order and bills for verification, cancellation and show-cause-notices to M/s Vimal Electrical Works for obtaining work order on the basis of forged documents, debarring and blacklisting of M/s Vimal Electrical Works from getting tender of NCL. DW-3, Ram Niwas Sharma, posted at NCL Kakari Project, in his statement recorded on 13.04.2015, proved the document A94/12 (Exhibit Kha-12, which is order of blacklisting of M/s Vimal Electrical Works. This defence witness had also said that he was present on the site-office on 18.01.2011 and he, along with the accused-appellant, left for taking lunch at 2 p.m. from the site-office. The site-office remained open 24 hours. The accused-appellant went to his jeep and he, accompanied him, towards this witness's motorcycle. The complainant went inside the site-office and came out within five minutes. He had call on his mobile. Thereafter, the complainant came towards the accused-appellant and started talking to him. In the meantime, the CBI officials also arrived and took the accused-appellant to site-office. The said witness had specifically denied any demand and acceptance of any bribe-amount made by the accused-appellant from the complainant.

17. Mr. Chakravarti has drawn attention of this Court to the evidence of Suresh Singh, DW-4, posted at NCL Kakari Project. He was also PW-10 in the list of witnesses filed by the CBI along with the charge-sheet. However, the CBI did not examine the said witness. The said defence witness had explained the events in chronological order which took place on 18.01.2011. He had said that DW-3, Ram Niwas Sharma was present with the accused-appellant outside the site-office during lunch hour. Presence of this witness was testified from the attendance-sheet (Paper No. A94/2). DW-5, Lalji, who was driver at NCL Kakari Project, also explained chronological events of 18.01.2011. This witness was in the list of prosecution witnesses at serial no. 8 in the charge-sheet, but he was also not examined by the CBI. This witness, in his deposition, had said that on 18.01.2011 he was taking the accused-appellant in the government vehicle for lunch at 2 p.m. to his residence. When the vehicle had moved 14-15 meters then the complainant, along with another person, came there and parked the motorcycle in front of the jeep, and started talking to the accused-appellant and said that "sir I have kept in the drawer'. At that time, 4-5 other persons came there and the accused-appellant was taken off the jeep and taken to the site-office. Later on, he could know that these 4-5 persons were from CBI. He denied to have recorded his statement recorded under Section 161 CrPC during investigation. He also said that the CBI had never called him in office of the General Manager for investigation or recorded his statement. He said that only once, he was called in office of the General Manager for identifying the voice. When the voice was played in laptop then this witness told that the voice was not clear and, therefore, he was not in a position to identify the same. He said that though he was working with the accused-appellant, but he could not recognize the voice of the accused-appellant.

18. On behalf of the accused-appellant, Mr. Chakravarti has further submitted that there is material contradictions in the evidence of PW-2 and PW-4, shadow-witness, Ram Narain Duble. PW-2, in his examination, had deposed that he had kept the bribe-amount himself, as directed by the accused-appellant, in the drawer of office-table of the accused-appellant. The accused-appellant closed the drawer of the table from his right-hand. However, PW-4, shadow-witness, in his examination, said that when the accused-appellant was arrested, he came to the site-office and found diary inside the drawer of the office-table and the bribe-amount was kept on the diary and drawer of the table was half-opened. Mr. Chakravarti has also submitted that the accused-appellant was intercepted by the CBI, while he was going to have lunch by his official vehicle. Spontaneous reaction was "maine koi paise nahi liya hai". This spontaneous statement cannot be said to be an afterthought, rather it would show innocence. The manner, in which the car was topped, would create a grave suspicion on conduct of the complainant. If the accused-appellant had accepted the bribe-amount from the complainant then why he would leave the bribe-amount in the drawer that was half-opened, while he was going for lunch. He has, therefore, submitted that the prosecution has failed to prove the case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused-appellant. The conduct of the complainant had not been considered by the trial Court.

19. On the other hand, Mr. Shiv P. Shukla, learned counsel for the respondent - CBI, has submitted that the prosecution has proved the case against the accused-appellant beyond reasonable doubt by leading cogent and credible evidence. It has been further submitted that the demand, acceptance and recovery are fully proved in the present case. Minor contradictions, in the testimony of the witnesses, are embellishment and not material to destroy the present case. The trial Court has considered each & every evidence in detail while convicting the accused-appellant. The prosecution has proved the case beyond reasonable doubt and the judgment and & order appealed does not suffer from any illegality or perversity, either in appreciation of evidence or in law and, therefore, the appeal, having no merit and substance, is liable to be dismissed.

20. The question, which falls for consideration in this appeal, is that whether the prosecution has been able to prove the demand and acceptance of the bribe-amount by the accused-appellant. Provisions of Sections 7, 13(i)(d) and 13(2) of the PC Act, 1988 which are relevant, are extracted hereunder:-

"7. Public servant taking gratification other than legal remuneration in respect of an official act.--Whoever, being, or expecting to be a public servant, accepts or obtains or agrees to accept or attempts to obtain from any person, for himself or for any other person, any gratification whatever, other than legal remuneration, as a motive or reward for doing or forbearing to do any official act or for showing or forbearing to show, in the exercise of his official functions, favour or disfavour to any person or for rendering or attempting to render any service or disservice to any person, with the Central Government or any State Government or Parliament or the Legislature of any State or with any local authority, corporation or Government company referred to in clause (c) of section 2, or with any public servant, whether named or otherwise, shall be punishable with imprisonment which shall be not less than 1[three years] but which may extend to 2[seven years] and shall also be liable to fine.

Explanations.--(a) "Expecting to be a public servant." If a person not expecting to be in office obtains a gratification by deceiving others into a belief that he is about to be in office, and that he will then serve them, be may be guilty of cheating, but he is not guilty of the offence defined in this section.

(b) "Gratification." The word "gratification" is not restricted to pecuniary gratifications or to gratifications estimable in money.

(c) "Legal remuneration." The words "legal remuneration" are not restricted to remuneration which a public servant can lawfully demand, but include all remuneration which he is permitted by the Government or the organisation, which he serves, to accept.

(d) "A motive or reward for doing." A person who receives a gratification as a motive or reward for doing what he does not intend or is not in a position to do, or has not done, comes within this expression.

(e) Where a public servant induces a person erroneously to believe that his influence with the Government has obtained a title for that person and thus induces that person to give the public servant, money or any other gratification as a reward for this service, the public servant has committed an offence under this section.

*"13. Criminal misconduct by a public servant.--(1) A public servant is said to commit the offence of criminal misconduct,--

(c) .....

(d) if he,--

(i) by corrupt or illegal means, obtains for himself or for any other person any valuable thing or pecuniary advantage; or

(ii) by abusing his position as a public servant, obtains for himself or for any other person any valuable thing or pecuniary advantage; or

(iii) while holding office as a public servant, obtains for any person any valuable thing or pecuniary advantage without any public interest.

Explanation.--For the purposes of this section, "known sources of income" means income received from any lawful source and such receipt has been intimated in accordance with the provisions of any law, rules or orders for the time being applicable to a public servant.

(2) Any public servant who commits criminal misconduct shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which shall be not less than 3[four years] but which may extend to 4[ten years] and shall also be liable to fine."

21. Section 20 PC Act, 1988 reads as under:-

"20. Presumption where public servant accepts any undue advantage.-- Where, in any trial of an offence punishable under section 7 or under section 11, it is proved that a public servant accused of an offence has accepted or obtained or attempted to obtain for himself, or for any other person, any undue advantage from any person, it shall be presumed, unless the contrary is proved, that he accepted or obtained or attempted to obtain that undue advantage, as a motive or reward under section 7 for performing or to cause performance of a public duty improperly or dishonestly either by himself or by another public servant or, as the case may be, any undue advantage without consideration or for a consideration which he knows to be inadequate under section 11."

22. Plain words of the Statue would meant that if it can be proved that a public servant has received illegal gratification, Section 20 PC Act,1988 brings a statutory presumption that he has received the same with an illegal motive as laid down in Section 7 PC Act, 1988. This shifts burden of proof upon the accused. He has to discharge the burden that what has been received is for a valuable consideration and not for illegal gratification. The Statute does not provide for 'demand' of illegal gratification to constitute an offence under the PC Act, 1988. It has virtually been inserted into the Statute by the Supreme Court by an interpretative process. In order to bring home the guilt of the accused, the prosecution has to first prove the demand of illegal gratification and the subsequent acceptance as a matter of fact. This fact in issue can be proved either by direct evidence which can be in the nature of oral evidence or documentary evidence.

23. Corruption by a public servant is an offence against the State and the society at large. The Supreme Court in 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1724 (Neeraj Dutta Vs. State (Govt. of N.C.T. of Delhi) has answered the reference that "whether circumstantial evidence can be used to prove demand of illegal gratification". In the said case, the Constitution Bench has held that In the absence of evidence of the complainant (direct/primary, oral/documentary evidence), it is permissible to draw an inferential deduction of culpability/guilt of a public servant under Section 7 and Section 13(1)(d) read with Section 13(2) of the Act based on other evidence adduced by the prosecution. Paragraph-7 of the said judgment would read as under:-

"7. It was further observed with reference to Ram Krishan v. state of Delhi, AIR 1956 SC 476 ("Ram Krishan"), that for the purpose of Section 13(1)(a) and (b) of the Act:

"It is enough if by abusing his position as a public servant a man obtains for himself any pecuniary advantage, entirely irrespective of motive or reward for showing favour or disfavour."

24. In the event of complainant turns hostile, or dies or is unable to give his evidence during trial, the demand of illegal gratification can be proved by leading evidence of any other witness, who can again lead any evidence, oral or documentary, or prosecution can prove the case by circumstantial evidence. In such a situation, the trial does not abate nor it would result in an order of acquittal of the accused-public servant. The Supreme Court has held in several judgments that offer of the bribe and demand by the public servant have to be proved by the prosecution as a fact in issue. Mere acceptance or receipt of an illegal gratification without anything more would not make it an offence under Section 7 or Section 13 (1)(d), (i) and (ii) respectively of the Act. The proof of demand of bribe by public servant and its acceptance by him is sine-qua-none for establishing the offence under Section 7 PC Act, 1988. The failure of the prosecution to prove the demand or illegal gratification would be fatal and mere recovery of the amount from the accused would not constitute an offence under Section 7 or 13 PC Act, 1988 and it would not entail his conviction thereunder as held in (2022) 4 SCC 574 (K. Shanthamma Vs. State of Telangana).

25. The accused-appellant was posted as Manager (E&M) at NCL Kakari Project, Sonbhadra. The complainant, PW-2 was a contractor in the NCL. He used to take electric contract. Allegedly, the accused-appellant would demand bribe-amount for preparing the TCR and making payment of the work done. PW-2, the complainant, in his evidence, has fully proved the demand of Rs. 2,600/- made by the accused-appellant, which is 1% of the current TCR i.e. Rs.2,67,270/- and Rs.7,000/- in respect of some old TCR and Rs. 20,000/- for the payment made to the complainant for the work done by him. The complainant had withdrawn this amount from his two bank-accounts which fact got proved. The accused-appellant on 18.01.2011, when the complainant reached to office along with shadow witness, Jai Kumar Bansal (PW-7), enquired from the complainant (PW-2) whether the complainant had brought the money, then the complainant said "yes' and on asking by the accused-appellant, he kept Rs. 29,600/-, the bribe-amount, in the drawer of the office-table of the accused-appellant. Evidence of this independent shadow witness had fully corroborated the testimony of the complainant. The recovery of the bribe-amount from drawer of office-table of the accused-appellant creates no doubt. The bribe-amount was recovered by Ram Narain Duble. The other evidence, such as wash of hand and cloth turning pink, also fully support the recovery of the tainted money from the drawer of office-table of the accused-appellant, which was under his control.

26. The accused-appellant refused to give his voice sample for matching the voice recorded in the voice-recorder, which was kept in the pocket of the complainant, PW-2. When the CD was played, the complainant, PW-2 completely recognized his voice and voice of the accused-appellant demanding the bribe-amount. The testimonies of PW-2, PW-4 and PW-7, regarding demand and acceptance of the bribe-amount, had remained intact.

Whether the drawer was completely closed or half opened, would not make much of difference to brings home the charge against the accused-appellant. This Court cannot substitute its reasoning for not taking the bribe-amount home after receiving the same from the complainant, PW-2. Why the accused-appellant did not take the bribe-amount home, it was for him to decide, and the Court absolutely cannot presume the reasoning for such an action by the accused-appellant. However, since the accused-appellant did not take the bribe-amount home that would not falsify the evidence of the complainant and the independent witnesses, including the recovery witness.

27. The conviction of an accused cannot be founded on the basis of inference, but the prosecution has to prove the offence against accused beyond reasonable doubt by leading cogent and credible evidence. In the present case, each link of chain of events points out towards the guilt of the accused-appellant by evidence led in that regard by the prosecution which satisfies that the chain was complete. The Supreme Court in (1996) 11 SCC 720 (M.K. Harshan Vs. State of Kerala) in somewhat similar circumstances, where the tainted money was kept in the drawer of the accused, who denied the same and said that it was put in the drawer without his knowledge in paragraph-8 has held as under:-

". The plea of the accused is that he was not in the office prior to 4 p.m. and he only entered the office at about 4 p.m. and when he was in his seat, the trap party entered his office and which plea is fairly suggestive that without his knowledge the tainted money must have been put in the drawer of his table. We find some anxiety and an attempt was there on the part of the DSP as well as the other trap witnesses to show that the accused had handled the notes either before they were put into the drawer or thereafter thereby trying to connect him directly with the receipt of the tainted money. Whereas the plea of the accused is that the same has been put in his drawer without his knowledge. PW 1, as mentioned above, deposed that PW 11 asked the accused to touch the currency notes and thereafter his fingers were dipped into the liquid which turned pink. It is significant that PW 8, another Vigilance Officer, who was in the company of PW 11 throughout, deposed that after the necessary signals were given, the trap party proceeded. PW 1 came out, met them and told that the accused had accepted the money and that he had put it in the left top drawer of the table and hearing this the trap party entered the room of the accused. His evidence suggests that PW 1 told him that the accused accepted the money and he himself put the money in the left top drawer of the table. PW 11 also deposed that PW 1 came out and told them that he has given the currency notes to the accused as bribery and it was kept in the left drawer and thereafter the trap party entered the office. These two witnesses also deposed that the accused was asked to dip his right hand in the liquid in the glass and when he did so it became pink in colour. Therefore, according to their versions, as informed by PW 1, the accused himself received the amount and put the same in the drawer and consequently when he dipped his fingers the solution became pink. But the positive case of the prosecution on the other hand as narrated by PW 1 is that the accused never touched the currency notes and it was he who put them in the table drawer. It may be noted that PW 3, a constable, was sent along with PW 1. He was asked to wait outside and relay the signal. PW 11 admitted in the cross-examination that PW 3 could see what was happening in the office of the accused, but PW 3 does not say anything about having seen anything happening in the office of the accused. He does not even say that when PW 1 went inside with the money, he saw the accused in his seat. In the light of these conflicting versions and suspicious features on this crucial aspect, the plea of the accused that the notes were put in the drawer without his knowledge, does not appear to be improbable. In any event, PW 1's evidence for the above said reasons, does not appear to be wholly reliable. It is in this context the courts have cautioned that as a rule of prudence, some corroboration is necessary. In all such type of cases of bribery, two aspects are important. Firstly, there must be a demand and secondly there must be acceptance in the sense that the accused has obtained the illegal gratification. Mere demand by itself is not sufficient to establish the offence. Therefore, the other aspect, namely, acceptance is very important and when the accused has come forward with a plea that the currency notes were put in the drawer without his knowledge, then there must be clinching evidence to show that it was with the tacit approval of the accused that the money had been put in the drawer as an illegal gratification. Unfortunately, on this aspect in the present case we have no other evidence except that of PW 1. Since PW 1's evidence suffers from infirmities, we sought to find some corroboration but in vain. There is no other witness or any other circumstance which supports the evidence of PW 1 that this tainted money as a bribe was put in the drawer, as directed by the accused. Unless we are satisfied on this aspect, it is difficult to hold that the accused tacitly accepted the illegal gratification or obtained the same within the meaning of Section 5(1)(d) of the Act, particularly when the version of the accused appears to be probable."

28. Here the evidence of PW-2 and PW-4 would suggest that the accused-appellant demanded the bribe-amount and he accepted by asking the complainant to keep it in the drawer of the office-table which the accused-appellant himself opened and, therefore, it is not mere demand, but also acceptance of the bribe-amount by asking the complainant to put the same in the drawer. The evidence of PW-2 does not suffer from any infirmity in this regard.

29. In (2009) 3 SCC 779 (C.M. Girish Babu Vs. CBI, Cichin, High Court of Kerala) the Supreme Court has held that mere recovery of money from the accused itself is not enough in absence of substantive evidence for demanding and accepting the money. The Supreme Court has held that there was no voluntary acceptance of the money, knowing it to be bribe. The Supreme Court, after analyzing the evidence on record, in paragraphs 18, 19 and 20 of the said judgment has held as under:-

"18. In Suraj Mal v. State (Delhi Admn.) [(1979) 4 SCC 725 : 1980 SCC (Cri) 159] this Court took the view that (at SCC p. 727, para 2) mere recovery of tainted money divorced from the circumstances under which it is paid is not sufficient to convict the accused when the substantive evidence in the case is not reliable. The mere recovery by itself cannot prove the charge of the prosecution against the accused, in the absence of any evidence to prove payment of bribe or to show that the accused voluntarily accepted the money knowing it to be bribe.

19. The learned counsel for CBI submitted that the onus of proof was upon the appellant to explain as to how he came into possession of the amount recovered from him during the trap. The argument of the learned counsel is obviously based on Section 20 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 which reads as under:

"20. Presumption where public servant accepts gratification other than legal remuneration.--(1) Where, in any trial of an offence punishable under Section 7 or Section 11 or clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (1) of Section 13 it is proved that an accused person has accepted or obtained or has agreed to accept or attempted to obtain for himself, or for any other person, any gratification (other than legal remuneration) or any valuable thing from any person, it shall be presumed, unless the contrary is proved, that he accepted or obtained or agreed to accept or attempted to obtain that gratification or that valuable thing, as the case may be, as a motive or reward such as is mentioned in Section 7 or, as the case may be, without consideration or for a consideration which he knows to be inadequate.

(2) Where in any trial of an offence punishable under Section 12 or under clause (b) of Section 14, it is proved that any gratification (other than legal remuneration) or any valuable thing has been given or offered to be given or attempted to be given by an accused person, it shall be presumed, unless the contrary is proved, that he gave or offered to give or attempted to give that gratification or that valuable thing, as the case may be, as a motive or reward such as is mentioned in Section 7, or, as the case may be, without consideration or for a consideration which he knows to be inadequate.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-sections (1) and (2), the court may decline to draw the presumption referred to in either of the said sub-sections, if the gratification or thing aforesaid is, in its opinion, so trivial that no inference of corruption may fairly be drawn."

20. A three-Judge Bench in M. Narsinga Rao v. State of A.P. [(2001) 1 SCC 691 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 258] while dealing with the contention that it is not enough that some currency notes were handed over to the public servant to make it acceptance of gratification and prosecution has a further duty to prove that what was paid amounted to gratification, observed: (SCC p. 700, para 24)

"24. ... we think it is not necessary to deal with the matter in detail because in a recent decision rendered by us the said aspect has been dealt with at length. (Vide Madhukar Bhaskarrao Joshi v. State of Maharashtra [(2000) 8 SCC 571 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 34] .) The following statement made by us in the said decision would be the answer to the aforesaid contention raised by the learned counsel: (Madhukar case [(2000) 8 SCC 571 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 34] , SCC p. 577, para 12)

"12. The premise to be established on the facts for drawing the presumption is that there was payment or acceptance of gratification. Once the said premise is established the inference to be drawn is that the said gratification was accepted "as motive or reward" for doing or forbearing to do any official act. So the word "gratification" need not be stretched to mean reward because reward is the outcome of the presumption which the court has to draw on the factual premise that there was payment of gratification.

This will again be fortified by looking at the collocation of two expressions adjacent to each other like "gratification or any valuable thing". If acceptance of any valuable thing can help to draw the presumption that it was accepted as motive or reward for doing or forbearing to do an official act, the word "gratification" must be treated in the context to mean any payment for giving satisfaction to the public servant who received it."

30. The said principle is not new one, but a reiteration of the principle enunciated by the Supreme Court in (1979) 4 SCC 725 (Surajmal Vs. State (Delhi Administration).

31. In (2001) 1 SCC 691 (M. Narsinga Rao Vs. State of A.P.), while dealing with sub-section 1 of Section 20 PC Act, 1988 in respect of presumption where the public servant accepts gratification other than legal remuneration, in paragraphs 14, 15, 16, 17, 18 and 19 it has has held as under:-

"14. When the sub-section deals with legal presumption it is to be understood as in terrorem i.e. in tone of a command that it has to be presumed that the accused accepted the gratification as a motive or reward for doing or forbearing to do any official act etc., if the condition envisaged in the former part of the section is satisfied. The only condition for drawing such a legal presumption under Section 20 is that during trial it should be proved that the accused has accepted or agreed to accept any gratification. The section does not say that the said condition should be satisfied through direct evidence. Its only requirement is that it must be proved that the accused has accepted or agreed to accept gratification. Direct evidence is one of the modes through which a fact can be proved. But that is not the only mode envisaged in the Evidence Act.

15. The word "proof" need be understood in the sense in which it is defined in the Evidence Act because proof depends upon the admissibility of evidence. A fact is said to be proved when, after considering the matters before it, the court either believes it to exist, or considers its existence so probable that a prudent man ought, under the circumstances of the particular case, to act upon the supposition that it exists. This is the definition given for the word "proved" in the Evidence Act. What is required is production of such materials on which the court can reasonably act to reach the supposition that a fact exists. Proof of the fact depends upon the degree of probability of its having existed. The standard required for reaching the supposition is that of a prudent man acting in any important matter concerning him. Fletcher Moulton L.J. in Hawkins v. Powells Tillery Steam Coal Co. Ltd. [(1911) 1 KB 988 : 1911 WN 53] observed like this:

"Proof does not mean proof to rigid mathematical demonstration, because that is impossible; it must mean such evidence as would induce a reasonable man to come to a particular conclusion."

16. The said observation has stood the test of time and can now be followed as the standard of proof. In reaching the conclusion the court can use the process of inferences to be drawn from facts produced or proved. Such inferences are akin to presumptions in law. Law gives absolute discretion to the court to presume the existence of any fact which it thinks likely to have happened. In that process the court may have regard to common course of natural events, human conduct, public or private business vis-à-vis the facts of the particular case. The discretion is clearly envisaged in Section 114 of the Evidence Act.

17. Presumption is an inference of a certain fact drawn from other proved facts. While inferring the existence of a fact from another, the court is only applying a process of intelligent reasoning which the mind of a prudent man would do under similar circumstances. Presumption is not the final conclusion to be drawn from other facts. But it could as well be final if it remains undisturbed later. Presumption in law of evidence is a rule indicating the stage of shifting the burden of proof. From a certain fact or facts the court can draw an inference and that would remain until such inference is either disproved or dispelled.

18. For the purpose of reaching one conclusion the court can rely on a factual presumption. Unless the presumption is disproved or dispelled or rebutted, the court can treat the presumption as tantamounting to proof. However, as a caution of prudence we have to observe that it may be unsafe to use that presumption to draw yet another discretionary presumption unless there is a statutory compulsion. This Court has indicated so in Suresh Budharmal Kalani v. State of Maharashtra [(1998) 7 SCC 337 : 1998 SCC (Cri) 1625] : (SCC p. 339, para 5) "A presumption can be drawn only from facts -- and not from other presumptions -- by a process of probable and logical reasoning."

19. Illustration (a) to Section 114 of the Evidence Act says that the court may presume that "a man who is in the possession of stolen goods soon after the theft is either the thief or has received the goods knowing them to be stolen, unless he can account for his possession". That illustration can profitably be used in the present context as well when prosecution brought reliable materials that the appellant's pocket contained phenolphthalein-smeared currency notes for Rs 500 when he was searched by PW 7 DSP of Anti-Corruption Bureau. That by itself may not or need not necessarily lead to a presumption that he accepted that amount from somebody else because there is a possibility of somebody else either stuffing those currency notes into his pocket or stealthily inserting the same therein. But the other circumstances which have been proved in this case and those preceding and succeeding the searching out of the tainted currency notes, are relevant and useful to help the court to draw a factual presumption that the appellant had willingly received the currency notes.

32. In (2009) 15 SCC 200 (State of Maharashtra Vs. Dnyaneshwar Laxman Rao Wankhede), the Supreme Court has held that the burden to discharge the presumption is on the accused in respect of money recovered from him other than the legal remuneration, but the prosecution must prove the foundational facts. Paragraph-16 of the said judgment would read as under:-

"16. Indisputably, the demand of illegal gratification is a sine qua non for constitution of an offence under the provisions of the Act. For arriving at the conclusion as to whether all the ingredients of an offence viz. demand, acceptance and recovery of the amount of illegal gratification have been satisfied or not, the court must take into consideration the facts and circumstances brought on the record in their entirety. For the said purpose, indisputably, the presumptive evidence, as is laid down in Section 20 of the Act, must also be taken into consideration but then in respect thereof, it is trite, the standard of burden of proof on the accused vis-à-vis the standard of burden of proof on the prosecution would differ. Before, however, the accused is called upon to explain as to how the amount in question was found in his possession, the foundational facts must be established by the prosecution. Even while invoking the provisions of Section 20 of the Act, the court is required to consider the explanation offered by the accused, if any, only on the touchstone of preponderance of probability and not on the touchstone of proof beyond all reasonable doubt."

33. Considering the evidence on record, I am of the view that the prosecution has been able to discharge its burden and laid down the foundational facts regarding the charge of the demand and acceptance of bribe-amount by the accused-appellant from the complainant whereas the accused-appellant has not been able to discharge his burden of tainted money found in the drawer of his office table. In view thereof, I find that the appeal has no merit and substance, which is hereby dismissed.

34. The accused-appellant is on bail. His bail bonds are cancelled. Sureties are discharged. The accused-appellant is directed to be taken in custody forthwith to undergo the sentence. Let the trial Court record be remitted back to the learned trial Court forthwith.

1. The present three appeals under Section 374(2) Cr.P.C. have been instituted against the common judgement and order dated 18.10.2021 passed by the learned Special Judge (MP/MLA)/Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.3, Faizabad in Special Case No.3012 of 2018 (State Vs. Phool Chandra Yadav and others), arising out of Case Crime No.24 of 1992, Police Station Ram Janam Bhumi, District Faizabad, whereby the learned trial court has convicted and sentenced the accused-appellants as under:-

U/s 420 I.P.C. three years imprisonment and fine of Rs.6,000/- each and in default of payment of fine, eighteen days additional simple imprisonment; and

U/s 468 I.P.C. five years imprisonment and fine of Rs.8,000/- each and in default of payment of fine, twenty days additional simple imprisonment.

U/s 471 I.P.C. two years imprisonment and fine of Rs.5,000/- each and in default of payment of fine, fifteen days additional simple imprisonment.

Facts:-

2. The prosecution case, in brief, is that the Principal of K.S. Saket Postgraduate College, Faizabad, Sri Yaduvansh Ram Tripathi gave a complaint to the Senior Superintendent of Police, Faizabad on 16.2.1992 alleging that in his previous letter dated 14.2.1992 in respect of the accused-appellants, he informed that they had taken admission on the basis of the forged mark-sheets. It was alleged that accused-appellant Phool Chandra Yadav S/o Tilakdhari Yadav had failed in B.Sc Part-I examination in 1986 having Roll No.60999 and despite writing back papers, he could not clear the examination of the B.Sc Part-I and, therefore, he was not eligible to take admission in B.Sc Part-II, but by forging the mark-sheet and fabricating the documents in criminal conspiracy, he had obtained a forged mark-sheet of clearing B.Sc Part-I. Copy of the result of back paper of 1986 examination, of which the accused Phool Chandra Yadav had fabricated his marks to declare himself passed, was also annexed with the letter. On the basis of this forged and fabricated mark-sheet, he got admission in B.Sc Part-II for the academic session 1986-87, and the then Principal of the College had approved the admission form of the said accused-appellant. A copy of the admission form verified by the then Principal of the College was also attached with the said letter.

3. Accused-appellant, Indra Pratap Tiwari had appeared in B.Sc Part-II examination in the year 1990 as ex-student with Roll No.4263. He failed in the said examination. Despite having got failed in B.SC Part-II examination, the accused-appellant, Indra Pratap Tiwari submitted a forged mark-sheet allegedly issued by the University dated 8.12.1990 and took admission in B.Sc Part-III for the academic session 1990-91. Copy of the said forged mark-sheet was annexed with the letter. He was given a show cause notice by the College, but no reply was given to the said notice and, thereafter, his admission in B.Sc Part-III was cancelled and his election to the post of Secretary of the student union was also declared as illegal. Copy of the said order of cancelling admission in B.Sc Part-III and his election to the post of Secretary of the student union of accused-appellant, Indra Pratap Tiwari was also annexed with the letter of the Principal of the College.

4. In the said letter, it was further alleged that the accused-appellant, Kripa Nidhan Tiwari had given examination of LLB Part-I in the year 1989 with Roll No.51570, but he was unsuccessful. Despite having got failed in LLB Part-I examination, he on the basis of the forged mark-sheet allegedly issued by the University, took admission in LLB Part-II for the academic session 1989-90 on 11.3.1991. Copy of the forged mark-sheet and the admission form were annexed with the letter. When the Principal got to know about this forgery, he gave a show cause notice to Kripa Nidhan Tiwari, but he did not give any reply to the said notice and, thereafter, his admission in LLB Part-II was cancelled.

5. On the basis of the above-mentioned facts, the Principal requested the Senior Superintendent of Police, Faizabad to take appropriate legal action against these three accused-appellants, who had taken admission on the basis of the forged and fabricated mark-sheets/documents and played fraud with the college administration and the University.

6. On this letter, the Senior Superintendent of Police, Faizabad on 18.2.1992 directed the Station House Officer, Police Station Ram Janam Bhumi, Ayodhya to register a case and investigate the offence. In pursuance to the said direction, FIR at Case Crime No.24 of 1992, under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 IPC against the three accused-appellants came to be registered at Police Station Ram Jhanam Bhumi, Ayodhya.

7. The Investigating Officer after completing the investigation, filed the charge sheet against the three accused-appellants under Sections 468, 471 and 420 IPC on 19.7.1996. After taking cognizance, the accused-appellants were summoned on 4.9.1996. However, the charges could be framed only on 9.12.2019 by the learned Special Judge (MP/MLA), Court No.1, Faizabad, which would read as under :-

"(i) That before 18.2.1992 on different occasions Phool Chandra Yadav despite having got failed in B.Sc Part-I examination in 1986 from K.C. Saket Postgraduate College, Accused Indra Pratap Tiwari having got failed in B.Sc Part-II examination in 1990 and accused Kripa Nidhan Tiwari having got failed in LLB Part-I examination in 1989, by playing fraud, prepared forged mark-sheets to have passed in these examinations. Thus, the said act of the accused is an offence punishable under Section 468 IPC, for which the cognizance has been taken by the court.

(ii) That despite knowing the fact that these mark-sheets were forged, the accused Phool Chandra Yadav, on the basis of the forged mark-sheet, took admission in B.Sc Part-II, Indra Pratap Tiwari in B.Sc Part-III and Kripa Nidhan Tiwari in LLB Part-II and, this act of the accused-appellants was an offence punishable under Section 471 IPC and the court has taken cognizance for the said offence.

(iii) That on the basis of the forged mark-sheets, the accused-appellants had taken admission in the next class by cheating the college and such offence is punishable under Section 420 IPC, for which the court has taken cognizance."

8. The accused denied the charges and claimed trial.

Evidence:-

9. The prosecution to prove its case, examined three witnesses. P.W.-1 Mahendra Kumar Agarwal, P.W.-2, Ram Bahadur Singh and P.W.-3 Srikant Pathak.

10. P.W.-1 Mahendra Kumar Agarwal in his examination-in-chief said that he was appointed in the college on 1.10.1966. In the year 1992, Sri Yaduvansh Ram Tripathi was the Principal of the K.S. Saket Postgraduate College. At the relevant time, the witness was working as Office Superintendent of the College. The accused-appellant, Kripa Nidhan Tiwari was the student of LLB Part-I and, as per the tabulation register of the college, he could secure only 120 marks in all the seven papers and was failed. Similarly, Accused-appellant, Indra Pratap Tiwari and Phool Chandra Yadav had also failed in B.Sc Part-II and B.Sc Part-I examinations in 1990 and 1986 respectively. He further said that the Investigating Officer came to the college for the purposes of the investigation and he showed him the tabulation register. He also said that he knew the hand writing and signature of the then Principal, Dr. Yaduvansh Ram Tripathi. He proved Paper Nos.4A/6 and 6A/1, 6A/3 and 6A/5 and 6A/7, on which there were signatures of Dr. Yaduvansh Ram Tripathi, the then Principal. These papers were marked as Ext.Ka-1 to Ext. Ka-7. The witness said that all the three accused-appellants had taken admission on the basis of forged mark-sheets in the next class. He further said that the Office Assistant, Guru Charan Yadav working with him, had died. He gave the information to the Investigating Officer on the basis of the tabulation register of the college.

11. P.W.-2, Ram Bahadur Singh in his examination-in-chief said that in the year 1992, he was working as Senior Assistant (Confidential) in Awadh University, Faizabad. Dr. Yaduvansh Ram Tripathi, the then Principal of K.S. Saket Postgraduate College, Faizabad had requested him for furnishing information regarding the results of the examination of the three students, Phool Chandra Yadav, Indra Pratap Tiwari and Kripa Nidhan Tiwari, accused-appellants. He said that after examining the record of the University, he sent verification of the results of the three students. Certified copy of the papers sent by him to the College i.e. 6A/1, 6A/3, 6A/6 and 6A/7 were verified by the witness.

12. P.W.-3, Srikant Pathak in his examination-in-chief said that Head Moharrir Shivaji Mishra was posted with him in Districts Faizabad and Barabanki. He had seen the hand writing and signatures of the Head Moharrir Shivaji and he was fully aware of his hand writing and signature. He further said that Paper Nos.4A/1 and 4A/2 were in the hand writing and signature of Head Moharrir Shivaji Mishra and he verified his signatures. These papers were marked as Ext.Ka-8. He further said that Sub-Inspector Ram Chandra Singh was posted with him in District Gonda, and he had seen him writing and he knew the signatures of Sri Ram Chandra Singh. He was fully aware of the hand writing and signature. He further said that Paper No.3A/1, Charge Sheet No.11 dated 20.1.1996 was in the hand writing and signature of Sub-Inspector, Ram Chandra Singh and he verified the same and marked as Ext.Ka-9.

13. After the evidence of the prosecution got over, statements of the accused-appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C. were recorded. They denied the evidence and circumstances against them and said that they had been falsely implicated because of enmity. They were innocent. However, the accused-appellants did not lead any defence evidence oral or documentary.

14. The trial court after analyzing the evidence on record and considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case, convicted and sentenced the accused-appellants as mentioned above.

Submissions:-

15. Sri I.B. Singh, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Ishan Baghel, Dr. Salil Kumar Srivastava and Sri Diwakar Singh, for the accused-appellants has submitted that a common FIR was lodged in respect of the three different incidents and in respect of the three different accused, and a common charge sheet was filed against the three accused, on which the common charges were framed. He has further submitted that there was no allegation of criminal conspiracy and abetment among the three appellants. Accused-appellants are the three individuals and as per Section 154 Cr.P.C., the FIR should relate to one offence and not many offences, which are not part of the one transaction and not related to each other. It is submitted that under Sections 221 and 223 Cr.P.C. separate charges should be framed against separate persons and the trial should be conducted separately. However, the accused-appellants were tried jointly in violation of the said procedure. It has further been submitted that conviction of the accused-appellants is based upon using the forged mark-sheets to get admission in the next class. Only photocopies of the mark-sheets allegedly forged by the accused-appellants were produced before the trial court. The originals were never produced before the trial court. The documents produced before the trial court were not proved in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act. The learned trial court had convicted the accused-appellants on the basis of the secondary evidence in gross violation of Section 65 of the Indian Evidence Act. The accused-appellants had been tried and convicted together in violation of the procedure established by law, which vitiated the entire trial proceedings.

16. On the other hand, Sri U.C. Verma, learned AGA, assisted by Sri Rao Narendra Singh, learned AGA, has submitted that the accused-appellants had never taken objection regarding the admissibility of the documentary evidence, which was produced by the prosecution and proved by the witnesses. No objection whatsoever was taken by the accused-appellants during trial. They have never denied that these were not the mark-sheets and admission forms submitted by them for taking admission in the next class. When the accused-appellants have never denied the existence of the documents on the basis of which they took admission in the next class, and they never took objection, it is not open for them to take this objection at this stage of the appeal. It is further submitted that the accused-appellants have also not taken any objection in respect of their trial together or lodging of one FIR or framing of common charge for the offence under Sections 468, 471 and 420 IPC.

17. Learned AGA has further submitted that the accused-appellants may be different, but they had committed identical offence by taking admission in the next class on the basis of the forged and fabricated documents and by cheating the College. It is also submitted that three witnesses have fully proved the prosecution case against the accused-appellants. When the accused-appellants had not taken the objection which they are taking here, their objections are to be rejected. It is further submitted that the documents have been duly proved by the witnesses as they knew the authors of the documents. The Principal himself was no more when the trial commenced and other witnesses had also died. It is also submitted that accused-appellant, Indra Pratap Tiwari is a Mafia, gangster and dreaded criminal and his character is also important while deciding the appeal. The prosecution has brought on record the criminal history of the accused-appellant, Indra Pratap Tiwari, which would read as under:-

"1. Case Crime No.258 of 1991, under Sections 1478, 148, 149 and 307 IPC, Police Station Ram Janam Bhumi, Ayodhya; 35. Case Crime No.620 of 2005, under Sections 147, 323, 504 and 506 IPC, Police Station Gosainganj, Ayodhya."

18. Similarly other two accused-appellants, Phool Chandra Yadav and Kripa Nidhan Tiwari also had some other cases to their credit, which would read as under:-

"1. Case Crime No.16 of 1991, under Sections 323, 504 and 506 IPC, Police Station Ram Janam Bhumi, Ayodhya;

2. 1. Case Crime No.20 of 1992, under Sections 379, 427, 436, 454, 451, 504 and 186 IPC, Police Station Ram Janam Bhumi, Ayodhya; and

3. Case Crime No.24 of 1992, under Sections 420, 467, 468 and 471 IPC, Police Station Ram Janam Bhumi, Ayodhya. And

1. Case Crime No.104 of 1992, under Section 323 IPC and Sections 145 and 146 R.A. Act, Police Station G.R.P. Faizabad, Ayodhya."

19. Except for raising technical grounds, no argument has been advanced that the offences under Sections 468, 471 and 420 IPC are not attracted against the accused-appellants. Therefore, these technical arguments are liable to be rejected.

20. I have considered the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the parties as well as perused the judgement and order of the learned trial court and the evidence on record.

21. P.W.-1 Mahendra Kumar Agarwal and P.W.-2 Ram Bahadur Singh have proved the forged mark-sheets and admission forms of the accused-appellants, on the basis of which they had taken admission. There is nothing in their testimony which would suggest that they have any axe to grind against the accused-appellants or they were falsely deposing. P.W.-1 Mahendra Kumar Agarwal, who was working as Office Superintendent in the college, had specifically deposed that from the tabulation register of the college and the marks obtained by the students, it was evident the three accused-appellants had failed in B.Sc Part-I, B.Sc Part-II and LLB Part-I respectively. However, they had taken admission in the next class on the basis of the forged and fabricated mark sheets. There is no suggestion put by the defence to the said witness that these accused had not submitted these mark-sheets (forged one) for taking admission in the next class. The evidence of the prosecution witnesses had gone un-rebutted and, this Court finds that their testimony was cogent and credible to bring home the charge against the accused-appellants. When the accused-appellants had not taken any objection with respect to the admissibility of the documents during trial and the documents were proved by the witnesses, at this stage it is not open for them to take such objection in the appeal.

22. The cross-examination of the three witnesses would show that the accused-appellants had not put their version in cross-examination of the witnesses.

Case Laws:-

23. The Supreme Court in the case of Muddasani Venkata Narasaiah (Dead) through Legal Representatives Vs. Muddasani Sarojana, (2016) 12 SCC 288 has held that the cross-examination is a matter of substance and not of procedure. One is required to put one's own version in cross-examination of opponent. Paragraph 15 of the judgment which is relevant, would read as under:-

"15. Moreover, there was no effective cross-examination made on the plaintiff's witnesses with respect to factum of execution of sale deed, PW 1 and PW 2 have not been cross-examined as to factum of execution of sale deed. The cross-examination is a matter of substance not of procedure one is required to put one's own version in cross-examination of opponent. The effect of non-cross-examination is that the statement of witness has not been disputed. The effect of not cross-examining the witnesses has been considered by this Court in Bhoju Mandal v. Debnath Bhagat [Bhoju Mandal v. Debnath Bhagat, AIR 1963 SC 1906] . This Court repelled a submission on the ground that the same was not put either to the witnesses or suggested before the courts below. Party is required to put his version to the witness. If no such questions are put the Court would presume that the witness account has been accepted as held in Chuni Lal Dwarka

Nath v. Hartford Fire Insurance Co. Ltd. [Chuni Lal Dwarka Nath v. Hartford Fire Insurance Co. Ltd., 1957 SCC OnLine P&H 177 : AIR 1958 P&H 440]"

24. The Supreme Court in the case of R.V.E. Venkatachala Gounder Vs. Arulmigu Viswesaraswami and V.P. Temple and another, (2003) 8 SCC 752: AIR 2003 SC 4548 in paragraph 20 has held that ordinarily, an objection to the admissibility of evidence should be taken when it is tendered and not subsequently. Once the document has been admitted in evidence and marked as an exhibit, the objection that it should not have been admitted in evidence or that the mode adopted for proving the document is irregular cannot be allowed to be raised at any stage subsequent to the marking of the document as an exhibit. Paragraph 20 of the judgment which is relevant, would read as under:-

"20. The learned counsel for the defendant-respondent has relied on Roman Catholic Mission v. State of Madras [AIR 1966 SC 1457] in support of his submission that a document not admissible in evidence, though brought on record, has to be excluded from consideration. We do not have any dispute with the proposition of law so laid down in the abovesaid case. However, the present one is a case which calls for the correct position of law being made precise. Ordinarily, an objection to the admissibility of evidence should be taken when it is tendered and not subsequently. The objections as to admissibility of documents in evidence may be classified into two classes: (i) an objection that the document which is sought to be proved is itself inadmissible in evidence; and (ii) where the objection does not dispute the admissibility of the document in evidence but is directed towards the mode of proof alleging the same to be irregular or insufficient. In the first case, merely because a document has been marked as "an exhibit", an objection as to its admissibility is not excluded and is available to be raised even at a later stage or even in appeal or revision. In the latter case, the objection should be taken when the evidence is tendered and once the document has been admitted in evidence and marked as an exhibit, the objection that it should not have been admitted in evidence or that the mode adopted for proving the document is irregular cannot be allowed to be raised at any stage subsequent to the marking of the document as an exhibit. The latter proposition is a rule of fair play. The crucial test is whether an objection, if taken at the appropriate point of time, would have enabled the party tendering the evidence to cure the defect and resort to such mode of proof as would be regular. The omission to object becomes fatal because by his failure the party entitled to object allows the party tendering the evidence to act on an assumption that the opposite party is not serious about the mode of proof. On the other hand, a prompt objection does not prejudice the party tendering the evidence, for two reasons: firstly, it enables the court to apply its mind and pronounce its decision on the question of admissibility then and there; and secondly, in the event of finding of the court on the mode of proof sought to be adopted going against the party tendering the evidence, the opportunity of seeking indulgence of the court for permitting a regular mode or method of proof and thereby removing the objection raised by the opposite party, is available to the party leading the evidence. Such practice and procedure is fair to both the parties. Out of the two types of objections, referred to hereinabove, in the latter case, failure to raise a prompt and timely objection amounts to waiver of the necessity for insisting on formal proof of a document, the document itself which is sought to be proved being admissible in evidence. In the first case, acquiescence would be no bar to raising the objection in a superior court.'

25. Similarly, the Supreme Court in the case of P.C. Purushotham Reddiar Vs. V.S. Perumal (1972) 1 SCC 9: AIR 1972 SC 608 has held that if the documents are marked without any objection, it would not be open to the other party to object their admissibility. Paragraphs 18 and 19 of the said judgment is extracted hereunder:-

"18. Now coming to the question as to the expenditure incurred in connection with those meetings, it is no doubt for the appellant to prove the same. According to the respondent he had not maintained any accounts in connection with his election. The expenditure incurred for his election is specially within the knowledge of the respondent. He has not adduced any evidence in that connection. He has totally denied having held those meetings. That denial for the reasons already mentioned cannot be accepted. Therefore we have now to find out what would have been the reasonable expenditure incurred in connection with those meetings. Even according to the respondent for the seven meetings held by him, he incurred an expenditure of more than Rs 225. That means on an average he had incurred an expense of about Rs 32 per meeting. This is clearly an underestimate. But even if we accept that to be correct, for the four meetings referred to earlier, he would have incurred an expenditure of Rs 128. If this expense is added to the sum of Rs 1886/9 p. referred to earlier, the total expenditure incurred exceeds the prescribed limit of Rs 2000. Hence the respondent is clearly guilty of the corrupt practice mentioned in Section 123(6).

19. Before leaving this case it is necessary to refer to one of the contentions taken by Mr Ramamurthi, learned Counsel for the respondent. He contended that the police reports referred to earlier are inadmissible in evidence as the Head Constables who covered those meetings have not been examined in the case. Those reports were marked without any objection. Hence it is not open to the respondent now to object to their admissibility see Bhagat Ram v. Khatu Ram [AIR 1929 PC 110 : 116 IC 394]."*

26. This Court also in the case of Smt. Sudha Agarwal Vs. VIth Additional District Judge, Ghaziabad, 2006 (3) ADJ 429 has held that if any party wants to raise an objection in respect of the admissibility of secondary evidence, then such objection should positively be raised at the trial stage so that the other side should have an opportunity to remove the deficiency. Once the document has been admitted in evidence and marked as an exhibit, the objection that it should not have been admitted in evidence or that the mode adopted for proving the document is irregular cannot be allowed to be raised at any stage subsequent to the marking of the document as an exhibit.

27. It is well settled law that non-examination of the Investigating Officer is not fatal to the prosecution case if the prosecution case is otherwise proved by the evidence, and the evidence is in conformity with case made out in the FIR. Mere non-examination of the Investigating Officer, the prosecution case should not fail if it is otherwise proved by other evidence brought on record.

28. The Supreme Court in the case of Behari Prasad and others Vs. State of Bihar (1996) SCC (Cri) 271 in paragraphs 21 and 23 held as under:-

"21. After considering the facts and circumstances of the case and the judgments of the learned Additional Sessions Judge and of the High Court and the evidences adduced in the case through which we have been taken by the learned counsel for the parties and considering the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties, it appears to us that the prosecution case has been proved by the eyewitnesses in this case. Over the shop room, a long-drawn battle was fought by the deceased up to this Court. Ultimately, the delivery of possession of the shop through court was fixed on the date of incident. It was, therefore, quite natural that the said eyewitnesses being close relations of the deceased were present at the place and at the time of the incident. In our view, the learned counsel for the State is also justified that in the facts of the case the presence of the daughter of the accused aged 14 years in the company of elderly relations was also not unusual. Accused 2 to 4 and deceased-accused Rameswar though related to the deceased had been harbouring ill feeling and grudge against the deceased. As a matter of fact, suit for eviction was also filed by the deceased against Rameswar. It was, therefore, quite likely that they took side of Sheoji Prasad in frustrating the execution of the eviction decree against Sheoji Prasad. Although, the accused managed for the time being to frustrate execution of decree through court by influencing the Naib Nazir to accept the case of independent tenancy in favour of a third party on the face value of the statement of such tenant without ascertaining relevant facts and thereby sending him back without executing the decree, the accused were fully aware that the decree for eviction affirmed up to this Court was staring on their face. They were, therefore, quite agitated and it is not at all unlikely that they became revengeful against the decree-holder deceased Ram Babu.

23. It, however, appears to us that the entire case diary should not have been allowed to be exhibited by the learned Additional Sessions Judge. In the facts of the case, it appears to us that the involvement of the accused in committing the murder has been clearly established by the evidences of the eyewitnesses. Such evidences are in conformity with the case made out in FIR and also with the medical evidence. Hence, for non-examination of Investigating Officer, the prosecution case should not fail. We may also indicate here that it will not be correct to contend that if an Investigating Officer is not examined in a case, such case should fail on the ground that the accused were deprived of the opportunity to effectively cross-examine the witnesses for the prosecution and to bring out contradictions in their statements before the police. A case of prejudice likely to be suffered by an accused must depend on the facts of the case and no universal strait-jacket formula should be laid down that non-examination of Investigating Officer per se vitiates a criminal trial. These appeals, therefore, fail and are dismissed. The appellants who have been released on bail should be taken into custody to serve out the sentence."*

Conclusion:-

29. A document in terms of Section 65 of the Indian Evidence Act is to be proved by a person, who is acquainted with the hand writing of the author thereof. P.W.1 Mahendra Kumar Agarwal, P.W.-2 Ram Bahadur Singh and P.W.-3 Srikant Pathak have proved the documents i.e. Paper Nos.4A/6 and 6A/1, 6A/3 and 6A/5 and 6A/6 and 6A/7 as they were acquainted with the hand writing and signatures of the then Principal Yaduvansh Ram Tripathi and the Sub-Inspector Ram Bahadur Singh.

30. In view thereof, I do not find no substance in the submission of learned counsel for the accused-appellants that the documents were not proved in accordance with the provisions of Section 65 of the Indian Evidence Act.

31. The technical objections taken at this stage have no relevance. The accused-appellants have forged their mark-sheets and took admission in the next class knowing it to be forged and thus, they have committed the offences under Sections 420, 468 and 471 IPC. The forgery was done with obvious purposes of utilizing the mark-sheets to secure admission. The accused-appellants are not in a position to say that they were prejudiced in any manner by common FIR, one charge sheet and same charge for all three accused-appellants and one trial. The allegations are identical. Witnesses were common, who had proved the documents and deposed in support of the charge. Therefore, I am of the considered view that technical plea in this regard has no substance and is rejected.

32. Essentially, the offence under Section 468 IPC is the commission of forgery with an intention to use the forged document for the purposes of cheating, whereas the essential ingredients of Section 471 IPC are fraudulently or dishonestly using as genuine any document or electronic record which the accused knows or has reason to believe to be a forged.

33. From the evidence lead by the prosecution, the offences under Sections 420, 468 and 471 IPC are fully made out and proved against the accused-appellants and, the learned trial court has rightly convicted and sentenced the accused-appellants for the aforesaid offences.

34. In view thereof, I find no substance in these appeals, which are hereby dismissed. The accused-appellants are on bail. Their bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged. They shall be taken into custody forthwith to serve out the sentence as awarded by the learned trial court. The trial court record be returned back forthwith.

Chapters 16, 17 and 22 – FIR dated 01-01-2021 was lodged against the husband of appellant and 2 others – Allegations - accused are involved in anti social activities, on account of fear no one has dare to adduce evidence against them - Immovable properties and automobile vehicles of appellant and her husband were attached - Representations filed – Dismissed – Submission by appellant - District Magistrate has wrongly attached the property, on the wrong presumption that the said properties have been made by involving in anti social activities - Appellant is not named in the F.I.R, she has been implicated for being the wife of accused, whose property has already been released by the court below - Neither Gangster nor she has earned these properties from involving in anti social activities – Held, impugned order is quashed – District Magistrate is directed to release the properties of the appellant. (Para 4, 5, 7, 8, 9, 11, 28, 29)

Held: It is well settled that property being made subject matter of an attachment must have been acquired by a gangster and by commission of an offence triable under the Act. The District Magistrate has to record its satisfaction on this point and is not open to challenge in any appeal. Only a representation is provided for before the District Magistrate under Section 15 and in case he refuses to release the property on such representation, then the person aggrieved has to make a reference to the Court having jurisdiction to try an offence. The Court, under Section 15 (2) has to see whether the property was acquired by a gangster as a result of commission of an offence and has to record his own finding on the basis of the inquiry held by him under Section 16. If the Court finds that the property was not acquired by the gangster, the Court shall order for release of the property. Hence, the enquiry under Section 16, the provisions of Section 14, 15 & 17 was also not followed in accordance with the Act and is hereby quashed. (Paras - 19, 26, 27)

12. 14. Learned Counsel for the appellant further submits that the order dated 22-02-2021 passed by the District Magistrate Sitapur does not reveal that respondent no.-2 had "reason of believe" that the properties in question were acquired by the Appellant as a commission of an offence under the Gangsters Act rather the aforesaid order is passed on mere suspicion, Surmises and conjectures.

15. Shri Manoj Singh, the learned A.G.A. has vehemently argued that the learned trial court has correctly appreciated the material on record before passing the impugned order. The District Magistrate, Sitapur has passed the order dated 02-01-2021 after being fully satisfied that appellant has acquired the properties in question by illegal means involving in anti social activities as prescribed under the Gangster Act, as such there is no illegality, infirmity or perversity in the impugned order. The learned trial court after considering the entire material including the documentary evidence available on record has passed the impugned judgment and order in correct perspectives and it needs no interference.

16. I have heard learned counsel for both the parties and gone through the impugned judgment and order passed by the court below.

17. It seems to be just and expedient to refer to the relevant provisions of the Gangster Act which are as under :-

2. Definitions- In this Act,- (a) "Code" means the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973;

18. The issue involved in the present case may be resolved with the help of the consideration of provisions of section 14, 15 and 17 of the Gangsters Act, which read as under:

14. Attachment of property.-(1) If the District Magistrate has reason to believe that any property, whether movable or immovable, in possession of any person has been acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act, he may order attachment of* such property whether or not cognizance of such offence has been taken by any Court.

(2) The provisions of the Code shall mutatis mutandis apply to every such attachment.

(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of the Code the District Magistrate may appoint an Administrator of any property attached under sub-section (1) and the Administrator shall have all the powers to administer such property in the best interest thereof.

(4) The District Magistrate may provide police help to the Administrator for proper and effective administration of such property.

15. Release of property .- (1) Where any property is attached under Section 14, the claimant thereof may, within three months from the date of knowledge of such attachment, make a representation to the District Magistrate showing the circumstances in and the sources by which such property was acquired by him.

(2) If the District Magistrate is satisfied about the genuineness of the claim made under sub-section (1) he shall forthwith release the property from attachment and thereupon such 6 property shall be made over to the claimant.

16. Inquiry into the character of acquisition of property by court .-

(1) Where no representation is made within the period specified in sub-section (1) of Section 15 or the District Magistrate does not release the property under sub-section (2) of Section 15 he shall refer the matter with his report to the Court having jurisdiction to try an offence under this Act.

(2) Where the District Magistrate has refused to attach any property under sub-section (1) of Section 14 or has ordered for release of any property under sub-section (2) of Section 15, the State Government or any person aggrieved by such refusal or release may make an application to the Court referred to in sub-section (1) for inquiry as to whether the property was acquired by or as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act. Such court may, if it considers necessary or expedient in the interest of justice so to do, order attachment of such property.

(3) (a) On receipt of the reference under sub-section (1) or an application under sub-section (2), the Court shall fix a date for inquiry and give notices thereof to the person making the application under sub-section (2) or, as the case may be, to the person making the representation under Section 15 and to the State Government, and also to any other person whose interest appears to be involved in the case.

(b) On the date so fixed or on any subsequent date to which the inquiry may be adjourned, the Court shall hear the parties, receive evidence produced by them, take such further evidence as it considers necessary, decide whether the property was acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act and shall pass such order under Section 17 as may be just and necessary in the circumstances of the case.

(4) For the purpose of inquiry under sub-section (3), the Court shall have the power of a Civil Court while trying a suit under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (Act No. V of 1908), in respect of the following matters, namely:

(a) summoning and enforcing the attendance of any person and examining him on oath ;

(b) requiring the discovery and production of documents;

(c)receiving evidence on affidavits;

(d) requisitioning any public record or copy thereof from any court or office ;

(e) issuing commission for examination of witnesses or documents;

(f) dismissing a reference for default or deciding it ex parte;

(g) setting aside an order of dismissal for default or ex parte decision.

(5) In any proceedings under this section, the burden of proving that the property in question or any part thereof was not acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of any offence triable under this Act, shall be on the person claiming the property, anything to the contrary contained in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (Act No. 1 of 1872), notwithstanding.

17. Order after inquiry.- If upon such inquiry the Court finds that the property was not acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of any offence triable under this Act it shall order for release of the property of the person from whose possession it was attached. In any other case the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the disposal of the property by attachment, confiscation or delivery to any person entitled to the possession thereof, or otherwise.

19. It is now well settled that property being made subject matter of an attachment under Section 14 of the Act must have been acquired by a gangster and that too by commission of an offence triable under the Act. The District Magistrate has to record its satisfaction on this point. The satisfaction of the District Magistrate is not open to challenge in any appeal. Only a representation is provided for before the District Magistrate himself under Section 15 of the Act and in case he refuses to release the property on such representation, in that case the person aggrieved has to make a reference to the Court having jurisdiction to try an offence under the Act. The Court, while dealing with the reference made under sub-section (2) of Section 15 of the Act has to see whether the property was acquired by a gangster as a result of commission of an offence triable under the Act and has to enter into the question and record his own finding on the basis of the inquiry held by him under Section 16 of the Act. If the Court comes to the conclusion that the property was not acquired by the gangster as a result of commission of an offence triable under the Act, the Court shall order for release of the property in favour of the person from whose possession it was attached.

20. The object behind providing the power of judicial scrutiny under Section 16 of the Code is to check arbitrary exercise of power by the District Magistrate in depriving a person of his property and to restore the rule of law, therefore a heavy duty lies upon the Court to hold a formal enquiry to find out the truth with regard to the question, whether the property was acquired by or as a result of the commission of an offence triable under the Act. The order to be passed under Section 17 of the Act must disclose reasons and the evidence in support of finding of the Court. The Court is not empowered to act as a post office or mouthpiece of the State or the District Magistrate. If a person has no criminal history during the period the property was acquired by him, how the property can be held to be a property acquired by or as a result of commission of an offence triable under the Act is a pivotal question which has to be answered by the Court. Besides, the aforesaid question, the other important question to be considered by the Court is whether the property which was acquired prior to the registration of the case against the accused under the Act or prior to the registration of the first case of the Gangster chart can be attached by District Magistrate under Section 14 of the Act.

21. The provisions of Section 14 of the Act, referred to above, empowers the District Magistrate to attach the property acquired by the Gangster as a result of commission of an offence triable under this Act. The District Magistrate may appoint an Administrator of any property attached, to administer such property in the best interest thereof but there must be reason to believe that any property whether moveable or immovable in possession of any person, has been acquired by a Gangster as a result of commission of an offence, triable under this Act but the District Magistrate in its order has not recorded his satisfaction having reason to believe with regard to the property attached that it was acquired by appellants as a result of commission of an offence triable under Gangster Act, even though while deciding the reference under Section 16 of the Act, the court below does not appreciate the evidence and in a mechanical manner passed the impugned order relying upon the observations made by the District Magistrate which is illegal and an unjustified approach.

22. A coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Smt. Maina Devi versus State of U.P. 2013(83) ACC 902 in paras-8, 9 and 10 has been pleased to held as under:-

8. Considering the facts, circumstances of the case, submissions made by the learned Counsel for the appellant and the learned A.G.A. and from the perusal of the record it appears that the issue involved in the present case may be resolved with the help of the consideration of the provisions of section 14, 15 and 17 of the Gangsters Act, which read as under:

15. Release of property.--(1) Where any property is attached under section 14, the claimant thereof may within three months from the date of knowledge of such attachment make a representation to the District Magistrate showing the circumstances in and the sources by which such property was acquired by him.

(2) If the District Magistrate is satisfied about the genuineness of the claim made under sub-section (1) he shall forthwith release the property from attachment and thereupon such property shall be made over to the claimant.

17. Order after inquiry--If upon such inquiry the Court finds that the property was not acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of any offence triable under this Act it shall order for release of the property of the person from whose possession it was attached. In any other case the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the disposal of the property by attachment, confiscation or delivery to any person entitled to the possession thereof, or otherwise.

9. In light of above mentioned provisions of the Gangster Act the District Magistrate is empowered to attach movable or immovable properties in possession of any person acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act. But for exercising such powers there must be the reason to believe to the District Magistrate that such property was acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act. The words reason to believe are stronger than the word "satisfied", it must be passed on reasons which are relevant and material. In the present case, from the perusal of the lower Court record it appears that only on the basis of the police report submitted by the officer incharge of P.S. Sarai Lak-hansi, District Mau, the District Magistrate, Mau has attached two houses of the appellant, no material was supplied to the District Magistrate to have a reason to believe that the property in question was acquired by the gangster Raj Bahadur Singh as a result of commission of an offence triable under this Act. It vitiates the subjective satisfaction of the District Magistrate also. The learned District Magistrate was having no material in support of the police report that both the houses of the appellant were acquired by his son Raj Bahadur Singh. The learned District Magistrate rejected the application under section 15 of the Gangsters Act moved by the appellant for releasing the attached houses. The application was moved well within the time, the application was a representation to the District Magistrate, Mau, it was having all the details disclosing the sources by which both the houses were acquired by the appellant. But learned District Magistrate did not consider the sources disclosed by the appellant and rejected the application vide order dated 29.12.2008. The explanation of all the sources by which the appellant acquired the houses has not been properly considered. Therefore, impugned order dated 29.12.2008 has become illegal. The learned Special Judge (Gangsters Act), Azamgarh rejected the application moved by the appellant under section 17 of the Gangsters Act without considering the provisions of the section 14 of the Gangsters Act and the "relevancy of the reasons' recorded by the District Magistrate to believe that both the attached houses were acquired by a gangster Raj Bahadur Singh son of the appellant as a result of commission of an offence triable under this Act. The order dated 17.3.2009 passed by learned Special Judge (Gangsters Act)/Additional Sessions Judge, Azamgarh in Criminal Misc. Application No. 2 of 2009 is also illegal.

10. In view of the above discussion, the order passed by District Magistrate, Mau under section 14(1) of the Gangsters Act attaching two houses of the appellant the order dated 29.12.2008 passed by District Magistrate, Mau by which the application under section 15(1)(2) of the Gangster Act has been rejected and the order dated 17.3.2009 passed by learned Special Judge (Gangster Act), Additional Sessions Judge, Azamgarh in Criminal Misc. Application No. 2 of 2009 are illegal, the same are hereby set aside and the District Magistrate, Mau is hereby directed to release both the houses No. 204-D/8 and 205-D/9 situated in Mohalla Chandmari, Imiliyan, P.S. Sarai Lak-hansi, District Mau in favour of the appellant forthwith.

23. Further, another coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Smt. Shanti Devi wife of Sri Ram versus State of U.P. 2007(2) ALJ 483 (All) in paras-9, 10 and 11 has been pleased to held as under:-

9. The conjoint reading of these sections shows that first it has to be proved that gangster or any person on his behalf is or has been in possession of the property, and such property has been acquired by the commission of any offence triable under this Act, only then the District Magistrate acquires jurisdiction to proceed in the matter and to attach the property. Only when the initial burden is discharged, the onus shifts to the gangster or such person, to account for the same satisfactorily. But if it is found that the concerned person was not a gangster and did not acquire the property in commission of any offence triable under this Act, it has to be released as provided in Section 17. In other words the initial burden is on the prosecution to show that the concerned person is a gangster and has acquired property on account of his criminal activity as triable under the Act.

10. Therefore, in order to proceed under section 14 there must be materials for objective determination of the District Magistrate that the person is either a member, leader or organiser of a gang and has acquired any property in commission of any offence under the Act. There must be a nexus between his criminal acts as enumerated therein and the property acquired by him. His mere involvement in any offence is not sufficient to attach his property. In other words what is necessary to find is whether, his acquisition of property was a result of commission of any offence enumerated in the Act being a member, leader or organiser of a gang. One might have committed several offences but if the property acquired by him was with the aid of his earning from legal resources no action under Section 14 of the Act can be taken against him.

11. In the case of Badan Singh alias Baddo v. State of U.P., 2002 Cri LJ 1392 : 2001 All LJ 2852 it has been held by this Court that Section 14 of the Act is a harsh provision that affects one's right to property, which is a fundamental right under the Constitution. Therefore, initial burden was upon the State to satisfy the District Magistrate with necessary materials that a gangster acquired the properties as a result of commission of any offence. It has also been held in this case that the Act does not provide that the aggrived person seeking release of the properties from attachment must prove the source of income for acquisition thereof.

24. Further, another coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Rajbir Singh Tyagi Vs State of U.P. and Others 2018 SCC Online AII 5986. in paras 16 and 18 has been pleased to held as under:-

" 16. A conjoint reading of the aforesaid two definitions what appears is that for taking action under Section 14 against a person, there must be materials for objective determination of the District Magistrate that he either as a member, leader or organizer of a gang acquired any property as a result of commission of any offence under the Act. There must be nexus between his criminal act and the property acquired by him. His mere involvement in any offence is not sufficient to attach his property. In other words, what is necessary to find is whether his acquisition of property was as a result of commission of any offence enumerated in the Act being a member, leader or organizer of a gang. One might have committed several offences, but if the property acquired by him was with the aid of his earning from legal source, no action under Section 14 of the Act can be taken against him.

18. Section 14 of the Act is a harsh provision that affects one's right to property which is a constitutional right under the Constitution. Therefore, initial burden was upon the State to satisfy the District Magistrate with necessary materials that petitioner Rajbir Singh Tyagi being a gangster acquired the properties as a result of commission of any offence. That was however, not done. So, complaining the attachment order to be illegal, a move was made by the petitioners by filing a representation for release of the properties. The said prayer was rejected with the observation that the petitioners could not establish the source of income to build the house and acquire the movables. This approach of the District Magistrate, in my opinion, has no sanction under law. The Act does not provide that-aggrieved person seeking release of the properties from attachment must prove the source of income for acquisition thereof. So, on a conspectus of the relevant provisions of the Act, I am of the considered opinion that the order of attachment passed by the District Magistrate, Muzaffar Nagar is illegal, arbitrary and against the weight of the materials on record."

25. Keeping in view the aforesaid settled proposition of law and the judgment rendered by this Court in the case of Smt. Maina Devi versus State of U.P. 2013(83) ACC 902 and Smt. Shanti Devi wife of Sri Ram versus State of U.P. 2007(2) ALJ 483 (All), and Rajbir Singh Tyagi Vs State of U.P. and Others 2018 SCC Online AII 5986, this Court is of the view that the properties in question, which were attached, were acquired by appellant with the aid of her earning from legal resources and not by commission of any offence triable under the Act. As it is settled law that the property being made subject matter of attachment under Section 14 of the Act must have been acquired by a gangster and that too by commission of an offence triable under the Act. And also the seized property of the husband of the appellant namely Mujeeb Ahmad who is an accused in crime no. 0003 of 2021 was also released in favour of Mujeeb Ahmad by Learned Court below and the present appellant being the wife of co-accused in not even named in the F.I.R. but has only been implicated in the present case just for being the wife of co-accused. And also the impugned order was not passed on reasons which are relevant and material. In the present case from the perusal of the court orders and record it appears that only on the basis of the police report the D.M. has attached the property in question, no material was supplied to the District Magistrate to have reasons to believe that the property in question was acquired by the gangster the present appellant as a result of commission of any offence triable under this Act. It vitiates the subjective satisfaction of the District Magistrate also from the record. It appears that the District Magistrate has no material in support of the police report that the property in question was acquired by the present appellant being gangsters even though the proceedings was not followed as per the provisions of the Act. While passing the impugned orders of attachment the order was passed in mechanical manner without application of mind and is arbitrary. Thus the order passed by learned Special Judge Gangsters Act / Additional Session Judge Court No.-5 Sitapur is also illegal and the same is also liable to be quashed.

26. In view of above facts and circumstances of the case, the impugned judgment and order of the learned court below cannot be said to be passed in correct perspectives as it is not sustainable in the eye of law and requires interference by this court, the prosecution has failed to establish that the provisions of Section 2 and 3 of the Gangster Act is attracted in the case of appellant, and further the appellants' property is also not attached in accordance with law, as the prosecution has failed to establish that the said property and vehicle acquired and owned by the appellant have been earned from the income indulging in anti social activities. The enquiry under Section 16 was not done in accordance with the Act, the provisions of Section 14, 15 & 17 was also not followed in accordance with the Act, thus the entire proceeding initiated in pursuance thereof is vitiated.

27. Accordingly, the present appeal is allowed. The impugned judgment and order dated 30-10-2021 passed by the court of learned Special Judge, Gangster Act/ Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 5, Sitapur in Criminal Misc. Case No. 122 of 2021, Najmi Begum Vs. State, arising out of Case Crime No. 0003 of 2021, under Section 2/3 of the Gangster Act, Police Station Kotwali, District Sitapur is hereby quashed.

28. Consequently the order dated 22-02-2021 passed by District Magistrate, Sitapur is also quashed.

29. The District Magistrate, Sitapur is directed to release the properties of the appellant attached vide order dated 02-01-2021 in favour of appellant, forthwith.

30. No order as to costs.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 366, 368, 376 – Punishment for Rape - Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 - Section 3 (2) (v) - The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 156 (3), 313 – Appeal against conviction - As per FIR - Prosecutrix was given some toxic medicine - both the brothers committed forcible sexual intercourse on her for one year - Sessions Judge framed charges on the accused - Prosecution has examined 7 witnesses – Medical evidence does not support the prosecution version as no internal/external injury was found. (Para 4, 6, 7, 11)

Appeal is allowed. (E-13)

Held: Evidence on record does not highlight the theory of commission of rape on the ground that the prosecutrix belong to a particular community. Neither the FIR nor the oral testimony have suggests the same. In the medical report of the prosecutrix, no injury was found on her private part. There was no forcible sex by the appellants with the prosecutrix. The fact that even after her marriage, she has deserted her three children and she was staying with the accused. Her evidence does not proved that she was forced into any kind of relationship. The impugned judgment and order is set aside. (Para 15, 16, 20, 21)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.
Hon'ble Ajit Singh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Syed Ali Imam, learned counsel for the accused-appellants and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. Most unfortunate aspect of this litigation is that despite the fact that the incident occurred in the year 2008, the accused are in jail since 07.08.2014.

3. This appeal challenges the judgment and order dated 07.08.2014 passed by Special Judge (SC/ST Act)/Additional Sessions Judge, Banda in Special Criminal Case No.77 & 107 of 2008, under Sections 366, 368, 376 I.P.C. & 3(2)V SC/ST Act (State vs. Dharmmuni Joshi & Balkhandi Giri) wherein the learned Special Judge has convicted & sentenced accused-appellants, Dharmmuni Joshi and Balkhandi Giri, under Section 376 of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as 'IPC') read with Section 3 (2) (v) of Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 (hereinafter referred to as SC/ST Act) and sentenced them to imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.10,000/- each (Default sentence one year). Under Section 368, they were sentenced to ten years' rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.5,000/- and, in case of default in payment of fine, further to under go six months simple imprisonment. Accused-appellant, Dharmmuni Joshi was also sentenced under Section 366 of IPC for ten years' rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.5,000/- and, in case of default in payment of fine, further to under go six months simple imprisonment.

4. Brief facts as culled out from the F.I.R. are that the prosecutrix was given some medicine which have toxic effect in it and that is how she was lured into following the accused to their home and thereafter, both the brothers committed forcible sexual intercourse on her for one year and after one year she filed an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. which culminated into investigation having taken place.

5. The Investigating Officer investigated the matter after recording the statements of about five witnesses and prepared a site plan and enquired and filed the supplementary report after collecting the injury report returned the case of the prosecutrix culminated into F.I.R. and the charge sheet was laid against the accused-appellants.

6. The accused was committed to the Court of Sessions as the case was triable by the Court of Session. The learned Sessions Judge framed charges on the accused. The accused pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried.

7. So as to bring home the charge, the prosecution has examined the following witnesses who are as under :

1	Prosecutrix	PW1

2	Sankar Giri	PW2
3	Bharat Giri	PW3
4	Dr. Smt. Aneeta Sagar	PW4
5	Lalman Verma	PW5
6	Kishan Lal	PW6
7	Vijay Tripathi	PW7

8. In support of ocular version following documents were filed:

1	F.I.R.	Ex.Ka.5
2	Written Report	Ex.Ka.1
3	Injury Report	Ex. Ka.2
4	Supplementary Report	Ex. Ka.3
5	Charge sheet	Ex. Ka. 7
6	Charge-sheet	Ex. Ka. 8
7	Site Plan with Index	Ex. Ka.3A
8	Site Plan with Index	Ex. Ka.4

9. At the end of the trial and after recording the statement of the accused under section 313 of Cr.P.C., and hearing arguments on behalf of prosecution and the defence, the learned Special Judge convicted the appellant as mentioned aforesaid.

10. As far as commission of offence under Section 3 (2) (v) of SC/ST Act is concerned, it is submitted by learned counsel for the accused-appellants that the offence would not fall within the purview of 3(2) (v) of SC/ST Act as none of the ingredients required for proving that the act was committed because the prosecutrix belong to the said community nor is it proved by cogent evidence that the accused committed the offence (if any) as she belonged to the said community.

11. As far as commission of offence under Section 376 of IPC is concerned, it is submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that the accused has been falsely implicated in the present case. The medical evidence does not support the prosecution version as no internal/external injury was found on person of the prosecutrix. It is further submitted the finding of the Special Judge is based on surmises and conjectures and requires to be upturn. In support of his argument, learned counsel for the appellants has relied on the decisions in Patan Jamal Vali vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, 2021 (4) Supreme 16, Dinesh @ Buddha vs. State of Rajasthan, 2006 (2) Supreme 363, Kaini Rajan vs. State Kerala, 2013 0 Supreme (SC) 896 and also on the decision of this Court in Criminal Appeal No. 204 of 2021 (Vishnu vs. State of U.P.) decided on 28.1.2021 & in Criminal Appeal No.4083 of 2017 (Pintu Gupta vs. State of U.P.) decided on 28.7.2022 and has contended that no ingredients of Section (3) (2) (v) of SC/ST Act & Sections 366, 368 and 376 of IPC is made out and, therefore, the conviction is required to be set aside.

12. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State has submitted that the conviction of the accused is just and proper as ingredients of offences alleged to have been committed are very much there. It is further submitted by learned A.G.A. the accused-appellants were well aware of the caste of the prosecutrix and only because of her caste the above offence has been committed with her and, therefore, finding of the learned Special Judge is just and proper. The learned A.G.A. has heavily relied on the decision of the Apex Court in the case of Patan Jamal Vali (Supra). The accused has also relied on the said judgement.

13. Before we venture upon to discuss the evidence and the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the parties, it would be pertinent to discuss Section 3 (2) (v) of SC/ST Act and provisions of Section 366, 368 & 375 of IPC which read as under :

"3. Punishments for offences of atrocities.--

(1).....xx.....xx.....

(2) Whoever, not being a member of a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe,--

(i).....xxx.....

(ii).....xx.....

(iii).....xxx.....

(v) commits any offence under the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860) punishable with imprisonment for a term of ten years or more against a person or property on the ground that such person is a member of a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe or such property belongs to such member, shall be punishable with imprisonment for life and with fine."

366. Kidnapping, abducting or inducing woman to compel her mar-riage, etc.--Whoever kidnaps or abducts any woman with intent that she may be compelled, or knowing it to be likely that she will be compelled, to marry any person against her will, or in order that she may be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, or knowing it to be likely that she will be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine; 1[and whoever, by means of criminal intimidation as defined in this Code or of abuse of authority or any other method of compulsion, induces any woman to go from any place with intent that she may be, or knowing that it is likely that she will be, forced or seduced to illicit intercourse with another person shall be punishable as aforesaid].

368. Wrongfully concealing or keeping in confinement, kidnapped or abducted person.--Whoever, knowing that any person has been kidnapped or has been abducted, wrongfully conceals or confines such person, shall be punished in the same manner as if he had kidnapped or abducted such person with the same intention or knowledge, or for the same purpose as that with or for which he conceals or detains such person in confinement.

(First) -- Against her will.

(Secondly) --Without her consent.

(Thirdly) -- With her consent, when her consent has been obtained by putting her or any person in whom she is interested in fear of death or of hurt.

(Fifthly) -- With her consent, when, at the time of giving such consent, by reason of unsoundness of mind or intoxication or the administration by him personally or through another of any stupe-fying or unwholesome substance, she is unable to understand the nature and consequences of that to which she gives consent.

(Sixthly) -- With or without her consent, when she is under sixteen years of age. Explanation.--Penetration is sufficient to constitute the sexual intercourse necessary to the offence of rape.

14. The aforesaid provisions of law would now be seen in view of the ocular version as well as the documentary evidence of the prosecution witnesses.

15. The evidence on record does not highlight the theory of commission of rape on the ground that the prosecutrix belong to a particular community. Neither the F.I.R. nor the oral testimony have been remotely suggests the same. So as to attract the provisions of Section 375 read with Section 376 of IPC and Section 3 (2) (v) of SC/ST Act, ingredients of the said offence has to be proved.

16. In the medical report of the prosecutrix, no injury was found on her private part. Two slides were taken from the discharge of vagina and sent for examination. Pathology report received by the doctor and supplementary report was prepared. In supplementary report, no living or dead spermatozoa was found which shatters the prosecution case with regard to commission of rape. Neither dead nor live spermatozoa was found. She was having fetus of five months.

17. This judgment shows that the learned Sessions Judge has convicted the accused-appellant where there was no evidence for commission of offence under Section 3 (2) (v) of The Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989. Neither the First Information Report nor the oral testimony of prosecution witnesses even remotely suggest that the the above offence was committed on the ground that the prosecutrix belongs to a particular community.

18. The medical report does not show presence of any spermatozoa. No injury was found on her private part. The learned judge, unfortunately, no where has discussed about the ingredients of Section 375 of IPC. The learned Sessions Judge has also gone on the assumption that as she was married lady, there is no necessity of there being any kind of injury sustained by her. The learned Session Judge has considered the fact that spermatozoa may or may not be found. The important aspects are non founding of spermatozoa and non finding of any kind of injuries which would permit us to upturn the judgment of learned Sessions Judge. There is no finding as far as commission of offence under Section 3 (2) (v) of SC/ST Act. Only on the ground that the prosecutrix and her family members belong to a particular community, can it be said that the offence has been committed? The answer is, No. We are also fortified in our view by the decision of the Apex Court in Patan Jamal Vali vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 343, wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"58. The issue as to whether the offence was committed against a person on the ground that such person is a member of a SC or ST or such property belongs to such member is to be established by the prosecution on the basis of the evidence at the trial. We agree with the Sessions Judge that the prosecution's case would not fail merely because PW1 did not mention in her statement to the police that the offence was committed against her daughter because she was a Scheduled Caste woman. However, there is no separate evidence led by the prosecution to show that the accused committed the offence on the basis of the caste identity of PW2. While it would be reasonable to presume that the accused knew the caste of PW2 since village communities are tightly knit and the accused was also an acquaintance of PW2's family, the knowledge by itself cannot be said to be the basis of the commission of offence, having regard to the language of Section 3(2)(v) as it stood at the time when the offence in the present case was committed. As we have discussed above, due to the intersectional nature of oppression PW2 faces, it becomes difficult to establish what led to the commission of offence - whether it was her caste, gender or disability. This highlights the limitation of a provision where causation of a wrongful act arises from a single ground or what we refer to as the single axis model.

59 It is pertinent to mention that Section 3(2)(v) was amended by the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act, 2015, which came into effect on 26 January 2016. The words "on the ground of" under Section 3(2) (v) have been substituted with "knowing that such person is a member of a Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe". This has decreased the threshold of proving that a crime was committed on the basis of the caste identity to a threshold where mere knowledge is sufficient to sustain a conviction. Section 8 which deals with presumptions as to offences was also amended to include clause (c) to provide that if the accused was acquainted with the victim or his family, the court shall presume that the accused was aware of the caste or tribal identity of the victim unless proved otherwise. The amended Section 8 reads as follows:

"8. Presumption as to offences. - In a prosecution for an offence under this Chapter, if it is proved that

(a) the accused rendered [any financial assistance in relation to the offences committed by a person accused of], or reasonably suspected of, committing, an offence under this Chapter, the Special Court shall presume, unless the contrary is proved, that such person had abetted the offence;

(b) a group of persons committed an offence under this Chapter and if it is proved that the offence committed was a sequel to any existing dispute regarding land or any other matter, it shall be presumed that the offence was committed in furtherance of the common intention or in prosecution of the common object.

60 The Parliament Standing Committee Report on Atrocities Against Women and Children has observed that, "high acquittal rate motivates and boosts the confidence of dominant and powerful communities for continued perpetration" and recommends inclusion of provisions of SC & ST Act while registering cases of gendered violence against women from SC & ST communities53. However, as we have noted, one of the ways in which offences against SC & ST women fall through the cracks is due to the evidentiary burden that becomes almost impossible to meet in cases of intersectional oppression. This is especially the case when courts tend to read the requirement of "on the ground" under Section 3(2)(v) as "only on the ground of". The current regime under the SC & ST Act, post the amendment, has facilitated the conduct of an inter-sectional analysis under the Act by replacing the causation requirement under Section 3(2)(v) of the Act with a knowledge requirement making the regime sensitive to the kind of evidence that is likely to be generated in cases such as these. 61 However, since Section 3(2) (v) was amended and Clause (c) of Section 8 was inserted by Act 1 of 2016 with effect from 26 January 2016 these amendments would not be applicable to the case at hand. The offence in the present case has taken place before the amendment, on 31 March 2011. Therefore, we hold that the evidence in the present case does not establish that the offence in the present case was committed on the ground that such person is a member of a SC or ST. The conviction under Section 3(2)(v) would consequently have to be set aside."

19. Even if, we go by the evidence of PW-1 who was 35 years of age has nowhere in her oral testimony even mentioned that the accused had kept her captive in their house because she belonged to a particular community and hence, the charge itself having not been proved. The accused could not have been convicted for the charges. She does not have caste certificate, which would be be necessary to see by the learned Sessions Judge for invoking Section 3 (2) (v) of the SC/ST Act which is also absent in the judgement. Just because the parents belonged to a particular community and she was earlier married with one Ganga Ram Bajpayee, does not mean that it was proved that the act was committed because she belonged to a particular community. Thus, the conviction under Section 3(2)(v) of SC/ST Act cannot be upheld and is set aside.

20. There is no medical evidence to prove that she was dragged by the accused when she was taken to their home. The judgment cited by the learned counsel for the appellants in Patan Jamal Vali vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, Dinesh @ Buddha vs. State of Rajasthan, Kaini Rajan vs. State Kerala, and in Vishnu (Supra) would inure for the benefit of the accused. One more aspect is that PW-1, after staying for one year, had gone to the Commissionrate with an advocate, there also she has not raised any hue and cry. It cannot be said that she was confined against her wish. Neither can it be said nor is it proved that there was forcible sex by the appellants herein with the prosecutrix. We are unable to accept the submissions made by learned counsel for the State that this was a case of rape. The ingredients of Sections 366, 368 & 375 of IPC are not proved. The fact that even after her marriage, she has deserted her three children and she was staying with the accused. Her evidence does not proved that she was forced into any kind of relationship.

21. In view of the above, this appeal is allowed. The judgment and order impugned in this appeal is set aside. The accused-appellants are acquitted from the charges levelled against them. The accused are on bail pursuant to the order of this Court dated 10.2.2023. The need not surrender.

22. Record and proceedings be sent back to the Trial Court forthwith.

At about 9:16 p.m. accused Hari Narain @ Devganda @ Jhinguri son of Shyama Bind, who used to work as labour, was residing at his in-laws house along with his wife and kids. About one year ago a slanging match (exchange of) abusive terms. took place between the aunt of the informant and the wife of the accused Hari Narain @ Devganda @ Jhinguri and due to that reason there was enmity between them. The accused threatened with dire consequences but the informant did not take it seriously. The other accused Mukesh used to come to village-Deogauda, that's why he was known to the informant. At about 9:15 p.m. both the accused persons reached near the field on their motorcycle. Upon seeing the brother of the informant, both the accused used filthy language and at that point of time the accused Mukesh put off his pistol and as an when brother of the informant Mahesh tried to run away, the accused Hari Narain @ Devganda @ Jhinguri shot fired on the back of Mahesh. We were afraid and ran away towards the field. Mahesh fell on the ground. After attacking Mahesh both the accused fled away from the scene on their motorcycle. The injured was taken to Mirzapur Hospital from where he was referred to B.H.U. Hospital after first aid.

4. The case was registered against the accused persons. After investigation, the police submitted charge-sheet under sections 307, 504 and 506 IPC. The learned Magistrate summoned the accused persons and committed them to Court of Sessions as prima facie charges were for offences under Sections 307, 504 and 506 I.P.C.

8. At the end of the trial and after recording the statements of the accused under section 313 of Cr.P.C., and hearing arguments on behalf of prosecution and the defence, the learned Sessions Judge convicted the accused-appellants as mentioned above.

9. The trial court recorded statement of the witnesses and after hearing the argument of both the sides, convicted the appellants as aforesaid.

10. This Court has perused the evidence available on record. The complainant Hariom Gaur PW1, who had seen the occurrence, has deposed against the accused persons and PW2 Mahesh Kumar Gaur who sustained injuries in the incident, has specifically nominated the accused persons and their evidence has been corroborated by medical evidence of PW3 Dr. A.K. Pandey.

11. Learned counsel for the appellants has specifically stated that no independent witness has been examined in this matter. He has further submitted that the injured Mahesh Kumar Gaur had not received injuries which could be said that they were fatal to life and doctor has nowhere mentioned in his statement that the injuries sustained by the injured were fatal to life in normal circumstances. The doctor has only mentioned that if proper treatment had not been given then injury might be fatal. Learned counsel for the appellant has further submitted that the incident has happened due to previous enmity between both factions and incident had happened at the spur of moment and the accused persons had not inflicted the injuries with intention to cause death to the injured Mahesh Kumar Gaur. He further submits that on the exhortation of accused Mukesh @ Jeet Lal @ Jetaye , other accused Hari Narain @ Devganda @ Jhinguri fired at the injured, which was hit on his back. The injured sustained injuries on his non-vital part. The injuries received by the injured were although grievous but were not fatal to life. The appellants could not have been convicted under section 307 IPC but they were convicted as per the evidence only under section 324 read with 34 IPC.

12. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that the incident took place in the year 2009. Accused Mukesh @ Jeet Lal @ Jetaya is in jail since 19.10.2009 and accused Hari Narain @ Devganda @ Jhinguri is in jail since 22.10.2012. Both the accused persons were convicted in the year 2012. He further submitted that the accused persons have suffered mental and physical agony of incarnation and they have suffered mentally agony of criminal trial and after conviction since year 2012.

13. Learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the appellants and has submitted that the accused Hari Narain @ Devganda @ Jhinguri had fired at the injured Mahesh Kumar Gaur, causing grievous injury to him and as per doctor opinion the injury sustained by the injured was dangerous and fatal to life. The shot was hit at the centre back of the injured and they have been rightly convicted by the trial court under section 307 read with 34 IPC.

14. We have perused the entire material available on record and considered the evidence minutely, we are of the opinion that the trial court has rightly convicted the accused persons as there was trustworthy evidence of PW1 informant and PW2 injured against the accused persons, which were fully corroborated by the medical evidence. The accused are in jail since 19.10.2009 and 22.10.2012 respectively. The old counsels for appellants have prayed for considering alternative prayer to consider is called up to modify the sentence, considering the various decisions of the Apex Court and the young age of accused and the manner in which incident occurred. Reference to the following decision would be necessary.

15. In Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, AIR 1977 SC 1926, explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturization.Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

16. In Sham Sunder vs Puran, (1990) 4 SCC 731, where the high court reduced the sentence for the offence under section 304 part I into undergone, the supreme court opined that the sentence needs to be enhanced being inadequate. It was held:

"The court in fixing the punishment for any particular crime should take into consideration the nature of offence, the circumstances in which it was committed, the degree of deliberation shown by the offender. The measure of punishment should be proportionate to the gravity of offence."

17. In State of MP vs Najab Khan, (2013) 9 SCC 509, the high court, while upholding conviction, reduced the sentence of 3 years by already undergone which was only 15 days. The supreme court restored the sentence awarded by the trial court. Referring the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP (2010) 12 SCC 532, Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, (2012) 8 SCC 734, the court observed as follows:-

"In operating the sentencing system, law should adopt the corrective machinery or the deterrence based on factual matrix. The facts and given circumstances in each case, the nature of the crime, the manner in which it was planned and committed, the motive for commission of the crime, the conduct of the accused, the nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into the area of consideration. We also reiterate that undue sympathy to impose inadequate sentence would do more harm to the justice dispensation system to undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed. The courts must not only keep in view the rights of victim of the crime but also the society at large while considering the imposition of appropriate punishment."

18. Earlier, "Proper Sentence" was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP (2004) 7 SCC 257 by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the principle of proportionately. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

19. In subsequent decisions, the supreme court has laid emphasis on proportional sentencing by affirming the doctrine of proportionality. In Shyam Narain vs State (NCT of delhi), (2013) 7 SCC 77, it was pointed out that sentencing for any offence has a social goal. Sentence is to be imposed with regard being had to the nature of the offence and the manner in which the offence has been committed. The fundamental purpose of imposition of sentence is based on the principle that the accused must realize that the crime committed by him has not only created a dent in the life of the victim but also a concavity in the social fabric. The purpose of just punishment is that the society may not suffer again by such crime. The principle of proportionality between the crime committed and the penalty imposed are to be kept in mind. The impact on the society as a whole has to be seen. Similar view has been expressed in Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, (2014) 7 SCC 323 , State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, (2015) 3 SCC 441, and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, (2016) 1 SCC 463.

20. In Kokaiyabai Yadav vs State of Chhattisgarh(2017) 13 SCC 449, it has been observed that reforming criminals who understand their wrongdoing, are able to comprehend their acts,have grown and nartured into citizens with a desire to live a fruitful life in the outside world, have the capacity of humanising the world.

21. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP (2010) 12 SCC 532, Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, (2012) 8 SCC 734, Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, (2014) 7 SCC 323 , State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, (2015) 3 SCC 441, and

Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, (2016) 1 SCC 463 and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system."

22. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case and the substantive period already undergone by the appellants in this case and the fact that considerable period has already been served by the accused persons in this case and the fact is that both the appellants are young persons in their mid forties; there is no bread-earner in their families and by so far they have realized the mistake committed by them and are remorseful to their conduct and feel it necessary to serve with their polite and cooperative behaviour to the society which they belong to and now they want to transform themselves into a law abiding citizen, I am of the considered opinion that they should be given a chance to reform themselves and extend their better contribution to the society to which they belong to.

23. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, considering the evidence available on record and considering the nature of injury, this Court deems it fit to alter the conviction to already undergone by the accused persons.

24. Consequently, taking into consideration the period already undergone in prison by the appellants in this case as well as considering that they have suffered physical and mental agony of trial and after conviction for a long period of 10 years, the sentence awarded to them under Section 307/34 is converted to already undergone by them in prison with a fine of Rs. 2000/- each.

25. Accused-appellants are directed to deposit the fine of Rs. 2,000/-each before lower judiciary within three months from the date of passing of the judgement and their released and in default of payment of fine as directed above, they shall undergo simple imprisonment for a period of fifteen days.

26. Appeal is partly allowed in the above terms.

27. Office is directed to transmit a copy of this order to the learned Sessions Judge, Mirzapur for compliance.

28. Office is also directed to send back the record of the trial court immediately.

29. Sri Chetan Chaterjee and Miss Nishi Mehrotra, learned Amicus Cuarie have argued this appeal on behalf of appellants, Mukesh @ Jeet Lal @ Jetaye and Hari Narain @ Devganda @ Jhinguri and they shall be paid a sum of Rs. 15,000/- each as remuneration by High Court Legal Aid Committee.

Criminal Appeal No. 5303 of 2008

Shahid ...Appellant (In Jail)
Versus
State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri S.K. Gupta, Sri Ambrish Kumar Kashyap, Sri Hafeez Khan, Sri S.K. Vidyarthi, Sri S.R. Verma

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 376 – Punishment for Rape - Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 - Section 3 (2) (v) - The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 313, 433 - Appeal against conviction - As per FIR - on 03.12.2006, when the prosecutrix was playing outside the house, accused allured her into his house and committed rape – Trial Court framed charges - Prosecution has examined 12 witnesses - No documentary evidence proved that the injured belongs to SC or ST produced either before Investigating Officer or Sessions Court - No independent witness has been examined – Both prosecutrix and P.W.1 did not know the accused - P.W.1 has denied commission of rape - No internal/external injury was found (Para 2, 3, 5, 6, 9, 10)

Held: Evidence on record depicts the theory of commission of rape on the ground that the prosecutrix belong to a particular community. Neither the FIR nor oral testimony have suggested the same. It is not worth believing that a person who wants to commit sexual offence would enquire from the prosecutrix her name, caste and then commit the unlawful act. The prosecutrix is four years old child and the incident has been properly explained by the prosecutrix and, therefore, there is possibility of such act being committed. Accused has been rightly convicted under Section 376 - 'Reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. Hence, acquitted from charges leveled under SC/ST Act. (Para 14, 15, 17, 24, 25)

Appeal is partly allowed. (E-13)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.
&

1. Heard Sri Amrish Kashyap, learned counsel for the accused-appellant and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. This appeal challenges the judgment and order dated 04.12.2007 passed by Special Judge (SC/ST Act), Kanpur Nagar in Special Sessions Trial No.670 of 2007 (State vs. Shahid) wherein the learned Special Judge has convicted & sentenced accused-appellant, Shahid, under Section 376 of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as 'IPC') for life imprisonment and fine of Rs.10,000, further convicting under Section 363 of IPC for imprisonment 5 years rigorous imprisonment & fine of Rs.5000/- and read with Section 3 (2) (v) of Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 (hereinafter referred to as SC/ST Act) and sentenced him to imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.10,000/- and, in case of default in payment of fine, further to under go one year's simple imprisonment.

3. Brief facts as culled out from the record are that Vijay Kumar, the father of prosecutrix, made a complaint to Police Station Cantt Kanpur Nagar stating that on 03.12.2006, at about 4.00 p.m., when the prosecutrix was playing outside the house, the accused-appellant, Shahid, caught her from behind, Shahid allured him into his house and started committing rape on her. On raising alarm by the prosecutrix, the informant along with his neighbours reached at the place of incident where they saw that accused was committing rape on her, accused ran away from there. It was alleged that the prosecutrix sustained injuries and the informant brought her to the Police Station.

4. After lodging of the F.I.R, the investigation was moved into motion. The prosecutrix was got medically examined. The Investigating Officer, after taking statements of witnesses, submitted charge-sheet against the accused-appellant under Section 376 of IPC and under Section 3 (2) (v) of SC/ST Act.

5. The accused was committed to the Court of Sessions as the case was triable by the Court of Session. The learned Sessions Judge framed charges on the accused. The accused pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried.

6. So as to bring home the charge, the prosecution has examined 12 witnesses who are as under :

1	Vijay Kumar @ Vijjan	PW1

2	Niketa @ Annu	PW2
3	Dr. Avnish Kumar	PW3
4	Ajayveer Singh	PW4
5	Jyotsna Kumari	PW5
6	Ranveer Singh	PW6
7	Akhlal Ahmad Khan	PW7
8	Ajay Kumar Trivedi	PW8
9	R.P. Gupta	PW9
10	Vikas Ram	PW10
11	A.M. Khan	PW11
12	S.B. Mishra	PW12

7. In support of ocular version following documents were filed:

1	F.I.R.	Ex.Ka.3
2	Written Report	Ex.Ka.1
3	Recovery memo of underwear	Ex. Ka. 9
4	X-ray Report	Ex. Ka.10
5	Discharge - slip	Ex. Ka. 2
6	Injury report	Ex. Ka.5
7	Supplementary report	Ex. Ka.6
8	Medico Legal examination report	Ex. Ka.12
9	Charge sheet	Ex. Ka.7
10	Report of Forensic Science Lab.	Ex. Ka. 11
11	Site Plan With Index	Ex. Ka.8

8. At the end of the trial and after recording the statement of the accused under section 313 of Cr.P.C., and hearing arguments on behalf of prosecution and the defence, the learned Special Judge convicted the appellant as mentioned aforesaid.

9. As far as commission of offence under Section 3 (2) (v) of SC/ST Act is concerned, it is submitted by learned counsel that the F.I.R. nowhere states that the injured belongs to a particular community. No documentary evidence so as to prove that the injured belongs to Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe was produced either before Investigating Officer or Sessions Court. No independent witness has been examined by the prosecution. It is stated by prosecutrix that she did not know the accused. P.W.1 had stated that he did not know the accused and in his cross examination he had denied the commission of offence and, therefore, no case is made out for commission of offence under Section 3 (2) (v) of SC/ST Act and finding of the learned Special Judge requires to be upturned.

10. As far as commission of offence under Section 376 of IPC is concerned, it is submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that the accused has been falsely implicated in the present case. The medical evidence does not support the prosecution version as no internal/external injury was found on person of the prosecutrix though the F.I.R. and medical examination were prompt. It is further submitted that even P.W.1, in his cross examination has denied the commission of rape and the finding of the Special Judge is based on surmises and conjectures and requires to be upturn. In support of his argument, learned counsel for the appellant has relied on the decision of this Court in Criminal Appeal No. 204 of 2021 (Vishnu vs. State of U.P.) decided on 28.1.2021 & in Criminal Appeal No.4083 of 2017 (Pintu Gupta vs. State of U.P.) decided on 28.7.2022 and has contended that no ingredients of Section (3) (2) (v) of SC/ST Act & Section 376 of IPC is made out and, therefore, the conviction is required to be set aside.

11. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State has submitted that the conviction of the accused is just and proper as ingredients of offence under Section 3 (2) (v) of SC/ST Act and Section 376 are very much proved. It is further submitted by learned A.G.A. that P.W.2, prosecutrix, has stated that before committing the unlawful act, the accused had asked her name, caste and her husband's name and, therefore, finding of the learned Special Judge is just and proper.

12. Before we venture upon to discuss the evidence and the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the parties, it would be pertinent to discuss Section 375 of IPC which read as under:

*"3. Punishments for offences of atrocities.--

(1).....xx.....xx.....

(2) Whoever, not being a member of a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe,--

(i).....xxx.....

(ii).....xx.....

(iii).....xxx.....

(iv).....xxx.....

(v) commits any offence under the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860) punishable with imprisonment for a term of ten years or more against a person or property on the ground that such person is a member of a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe or such property belongs to such member, shall be punishable with imprisonment for life and with fine."

[375. Rape.--A man is said to commit "rape" who, except in the case hereinafter excepted, has sexual intercourse with a woman under circumstances falling under any of the six following de-scriptions:--*

(First) -- Against her will.

(Secondly) --Without her consent.

(Thirdly) -- With her consent, when her consent has been obtained by putting her or any person in whom she is interested in fear of death or of hurt.

(Fifthly) -- With her consent, when, at the time of giving such consent, by reason of unsoundness of mind or intoxication or the administration by him personally or through another of any stupe-fying or unwholesome substance, she is unable to understand the nature and consequences of that to which she gives consent.

(Sixthly) -- With or without her consent, when she is under sixteen years of age. Explanation.--Penetration is sufficient to constitute the sexual intercourse necessary to the offence of rape.

13. The aforesaid provisions of law would now be seen in view of the ocular version as well as the documentary evidence of the prosecution witnesses. P.W.1, in his cross examination, categorically mentions that he has not seen the appellant committing any kind of sexual intercourse with the prosecutrix. P.W.3, whose oral testimony has been considered, also categorically states that he cannot conclusively opine that whether there was commission of sexual intercourse against the will or against the consent of the prosecutrix.

14. The evidence on record highlights the theory of commission of rape on the ground that the prosecutrix belong to a particular community. Neither the F.I.R. nor the oral testimony have remotely suggested the same. So as to attract the provisions of Section 375 read with Section 376 of IPC and Section 3 (2) (v) of SC/ST Act, ingredients of the said offence has to be proved.

15. The judgment shows that the learned Sessions Judge has convicted the accused-appellant though there was no evidence for commission of offence under Section 3 (2) (v) of The Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989. It is not worth believing that a person who wants to commit sexual offence would enquire from the prosecutrix her name and her caste and then commit the unlawful act. P.W. 1 who is the father of the prosecutrix has stated, he had also stated that he did not know the accused-appellant. The judgment relied by the prosecution before the Court below namely Ved Prakash vs. State of Haryana, JIC 1996 SC 18 cannot apply to the facts of this case.

16. The learned Session Judge has considered the fact that spermatozoa may or may not be found. The important aspects are (a) the prosecution is a 4 years old child, (b) she has narrated the incident, (c) Medical report and the oral testimony of PW-5 which would not permit us to upturn the judgment of learned Sessions Judge

17. The evidence of the prosecutrix is four years old child cannot be doubted and is a full-proof of the fact that the accused laid her into the home, the manner in which the incident occurred has been properly explained by the prosecutrix and, therefore, the medical evidence of Doctor testifies to this effect that there is possibility of such act being committed. In view of the matter, we are convinced that the appellant has been rightly convicted under Section 376.

18. As far as findings on Section 376 are concerned, there is no finding. As far as commission of offence under Section 3 (2) (v) of SC/ST Act is concerned, only on the ground that the prosecutrix and her family members belong to a particular community, can it be said that the offence has been committed? The answer is, No. We are also fortified in our view by the decision of the Apex Court in Patan Jamal Vali vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 343, wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"58. The issue as to whether the offence was committed against a person on the ground that such person is a member of a SC or ST or such property belongs to such member is to be established by the prosecution on the basis of the evidence at the trial. We agree with the Sessions Judge that the prosecution's case would not fail merely because PW1 did not mention in her statement to the police that the offence was committed against her daughter because she was a Scheduled Caste woman. However, there is no separate evidence led by the prosecution to show that the accused committed the offence on the basis of the caste identity of PW2. While it would be reasonable to presume that the accused knew the caste of PW2 since village communities are tightly knit and the accused was also an acquaintance of PW2's family, the knowledge by itself cannot be said to be the basis of the commission of offence, having regard to the language of Section 3(2)(v) as it stood at the time when the offence in the present case was committed. As we have discussed above, due to the intersectional nature of oppression PW2 faces, it becomes difficult to establish what led to the commission of offence - whether it was her caste, gender or disability. This highlights the limitation of a provision where causation of a wrongful act arises from a single ground or what we refer to as the single axis model.

59 It is pertinent to mention that Section 3(2)(v) was amended by the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act, 2015, which came into effect on 26 January 2016. The words "on the ground of" under Section 3(2) (v) have been substituted with "knowing that such person is a member of a Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe". This has decreased the threshold of proving that a crime was committed on the basis of the caste identity to a threshold where mere knowledge is sufficient to sustain a conviction. Section 8 which deals with presumptions as to offences was also amended to include clause (c) to provide that if the accused was acquainted with the victim or his family, the court shall presume that the accused was aware of the caste or tribal identity of the victim unless proved otherwise. The amended Section 8 reads as follows:

"8. Presumption as to offences. - In a prosecution for an offence under this Chapter, if it is proved that

(a) the accused rendered [any financial assistance in relation to the offences committed by a person accused of], or reasonably suspected of, committing, an offence under this Chapter, the Special Court shall presume, unless the contrary is proved, that such person had abetted the offence;

(b) a group of persons committed an offence under this Chapter and if it is proved that the offence committed was a sequel to any existing dispute regarding land or any other matter, it shall be presumed that the offence was committed in furtherance of the common intention or in prosecution of the common object.

[(c) the accused was having personal knowledge of the victim or his family, the Court shall presume that the accused was aware of the caste or tribal identity of the victim, unless the contrary is proved.]"

60 The Parliament Standing Committee Report on Atrocities Against Women and Children has observed that, "high acquittal rate motivates and boosts the confidence of dominant and powerful communities for continued perpetration" and recommends inclusion of provisions of SC & ST Act while registering cases of gendered violence against women from SC & ST communities53. However, as we have noted, one of the ways in which offences against SC & ST women fall through the cracks is due to the evidentiary burden that becomes almost impossible to meet in cases of intersectional oppression. This is especially the case when courts tend to read the requirement of "on the ground" under Section 3(2)(v) as "only on the ground of". The current regime under the SC & ST Act, post the amendment, has facilitated the conduct of an inter-sectional analysis under the Act by replacing the causation requirement under Section 3(2)(v) of the Act with a knowledge requirement making the regime sensitive to the kind of evidence that is likely to be generated in cases such as these. 61 However, since Section 3(2) (v) was amended and Clause (c) of Section 8 was inserted by Act 1 of 2016 with effect from 26 January 2016 these amendments would not be applicable to the case at hand. The offence in the present case has taken place before the amendment, on 31 March 2011.

Therefore, we hold that the evidence in the present case does not establish that the offence in the present case was committed on the ground that such person is a member of a SC or ST. The conviction under Section 3(2)(v) would consequently have to be set aside."

19. The decisions cited by learned counsel for the appellant in Visnu (Supra) and in Pintu Gupta (Supra) will also apply to the facts of this case. This is a similar case to Vishnu (Supra) where the man was languishing in jail for non commission of offence for which he was punished.

20. In Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, [AIR 1977 SC 1926], explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

21. 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP [(2004) 7 SCC 257] by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

22. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532], Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734], Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323], State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, [(2015) 3 SCC 441], and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463] and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

23. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

24. As discussed above, 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'.

25. We, therefore, hold that it is proved that offence under Sections 376 is made out. The accused-appellant is acquitted from the charges leveled against him under Section 3 (2)(v) of the SC/ST Act. We direct the jail authority concerned to set the accused-appellant free, if not warranted in any other offence.

26. Record and proceedings be sent back to the Trial Court forthwith.

27. This Court is thankful to both the learned advocate for ably assisting the Court and getting this matter decided.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mohd. Azhar Husain Idrisi, J.)

1. Heard Sri K.K. Singh, learned Advocate appearing for Sri Shashank

Maurya, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Nagendra Kumar Srivastava, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. Though learned counsel for the appellant has made submissions to press upon the bail application on the ground that the appellant has been incarcerating in jail since 2012 and there possibility of disposal of the appeal in near future is very bleak. As far as bail is concerned, we have gone through the record, the judgment impugned and the factual data, however, having regard to the submissions made by the learned counsel for appellant and his period of incarceration, in the interest of justice, it will be appropriate that appeal itself be heard and decided finally on merits. Accordingly, we proceed to decide this appeal finally.

3. This appeal challenges the judgment and order dated 5.8.2015 passed by Special Judge D.A.A./Additional Sessions Judge, Room No.3, Farrukhabad in Sessions Trial No.234 of 2012 (State vs. Ashok) whereby the learned Sessions Judge has convicted accused-appellant, Ashok, under Section 302 of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as 'IPC') and sentenced him to undergo imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.50,000/- and, in case of default in payment of fine further to undergo one year's simple imprisonment.

4. Succinctly, the facts of prosecution story are that a first information report has been lodged on 19.8.2012 at about 13.10 A.M. against the accused/ appellant Ashok under sections 304 IPC by the informant Smt.

Suneeta, for the murder of her husband, divulging the fact that the complainant in association with her husband Sikandar and her two kids Preeti and Vishal, was accumulating sand on the roof of her house. Her real Devar (husband's brother) Ashok, who was having his house just contiguous to her house, intercepted stating that not a single particle of sand should come on his side. On this issue, he started abusing in filthy language and casting threats and intimidation to life and property. The husband of the complainant proceeded to call his father from his field. The accused appellant could not digest his anger and ire and chased him from behind. The complainant, her daughter (Preeti) and her son (Vishal) went ahead on account of fear apprehending that the accused appellant getting to the victim all alone may attack upon his person. The accused/ appellant and the victim reached inside Karaundha garden of Dileep Maurya. There again they ensued querelling and scuffling. The complainant and her children raised shriek and noise and tried to shield the victim. The accused/ appellant (Ashok) was equipped with a Takora (Axe) in his hand, hit the husband of the complainant Sikander, from back side. As a result of which victim sustained fatal injuries on account of piercing the axe in his head. The victim fell down on the ground in a serious condition and the accused appellant fled away from the place of occurrence. The complainant with the help of Vinod, (another brother of victim and the assailant) brought the injured Sikandar at the Lohiya Hospital, Farrukhabad and admitted him there. The injured was examined in the hospital. Thereafter he was referred for treatment at Kanpur. While proceeding to Kanpur, in the way, a little ahead of Kannauj he succumbed to injuries. The corpse of Sikander was brought back to Lohiya Hospital and kept inside the mortuary. On the basis of a writen application (Ext. Ka-

1) by complainant. Case Crime No. 236 of 2013, under Section 304 I.P.C. was registered at P.S. Maudarwaja, Farrukhabad. The details of the incident was entered in the chick FIR (Ext. Ka- 9) and the same was entered in general diary (G.D.) the corbon copy of the same was prepared. The initial investigation was entrusted to S.I. Jag Mohan Singh.

5. On investigation being put into motion the investigating officer recorded the statement of witnesses, prepared site map, gathered from the place of occurrence, in the presence of witnesses, blood stained and plain soil and prepared memos for the same. The accused/ appellant was taken into police custody on 19.08.2012 and his statement was recorded on 19.8.2012 at about 5.00 p.m. The statement of the accused appellant was recorded in police custody. During the course of recording his statement, he unfolded that the axe used in executing the alleged crime was hidden by him beneath a tree in Karaundha garden. On his disclosure, he was taken to the said garden and in the presence of witnesses Balbir and Dhaniram, the said axe (Physical Ext. 1) was discovered at the pointing of the accused/ appellant, after excavating beneath a tree at Karaundha garden. The blood was saturated on the side of edge and the soil was also stuck in the axe at some places. The description of the said axe was scribed in the recovery memo (Ext. Ka- 5) on which the signature of the witnesses were obtained. Recovery memo was prepared by I.O. The investigation officer also prepared site map (Ext. Ka- 6) of the place of recovery.

6. The information about the death (Ext. Ka.15) of the deceased was received from Lohiya Hospital on 19.8.2012. The inquest (Ext. Ka.11), of the deceased Sikander was conducted on 19.8.2012 at 12.30. According to the opinion of the witnesses of the inquest, the death of victim Sikander happened on account of fatal injuries inflicted on his head. However, to know the real cause of death, it is necessary to conduct post-mortem of the deceased body. Therefore, after carrying out the necessary formalities including handing over of letter of C.M.O (Ext.Ka.12), Photo Lash (Ext.Ka.13), Lash Challan (Ext.Ka.14), etc., the body of the deceased Sikander was duly wrapped in the cloth and sealed and taken to the mortuary for autopsy. The documents concerned, were handed over to Constable 663 Ram Nazar and Constable 707 Pratap Bhan. The post mortem of the deceased Sikander was conducted on 19.8.2012 at about 3.00 p.m. by doctor V.V. Pushkar. The post mortem report (Ext. Ka. 2) of the deceased was prepared by the Dr. V.V. Pushkar.

7. Later investigation was transferred to 2nd Investigating Officer S.I. Anoop Kumar. After due investigation and collecting the credible and clinching material and evidence showing the complicity of the accused/ appellant, the charge sheet (Ext. Ka.8) under sections 304 IPC was submitted by Investigating Officer (I.O.) before the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate Farrukhabad, who took cognizance of the offence under section 304 IPC. on 09.10.2012. Since the offence was exclusively triable by the court of Sessions, hence committed to the Court of Sessions Farrukhabad. The learned Court of Sessions transferred it, to the court of Special Judge (D.A.A.) Farrukhabad, for trial.

8. On 05.02. 2013 the learned Additional Sessions Judge framed charge, against the accused/ appellant under section 304 IPC. Later on 13.12.2013 an alternative charge under Section 302 I.P.C. was also framed. Both the charges were read over and explained to accused/ appellant. He pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

11. On completion of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of Cr.P.C. was recorded wherein he stated that statement of witnesses are false and untrue, he pleaded innocence and taken the defence of enmity for false implication in a manufactured false case. The defence has not adduced any evidence.

12. After hearing arguments on behalf of prosecution and the defence, the learned Additional Sessions Judge convicted the accused/ appellant as mentioned above vide judgement and order dated 05.08.2015. Aggrieved by the said judgement the accused appellant preferred the present appeal.

13. In order to deal with the present appeal, it is pertinent, first, to analyse the prosecution evidence. Prosecution has examined three witnesses of facts namely P.W.1 Smt. Suneeta, who is informant and eye-witness, Pw- 2 Preeti and Pw- 4 Vishal who are also the eye witnesses of facts.

14. In her examination Pw- 1 Smt. Suneeta has stated on oath that she, in association with her husband Sikander and her two children Pw- 2 Preeti and Pw- 4 Vishal, was accumulating sand on the roof of their house. Her Devar (brother of her husband) accused/ appellant Ashok, who was having his house adjacent to her house, intercepted stating that not a single particle of sand should come on his side. On this issue, he started abusing them in filthy language, casting threats and intimidation to their life and property. Her husband proceeded to call his father from the field, but the accused could not digest his anger and ire and followed him. The complainant, her daughter Preeti and son Vishal went ahead on account of fear apprehending that the accused appellant getting the victim all alone, may attack upon his person. The accused appellant and the victim reached inside Karaundha garden of Dileep Maurya, there again the accused appellant and her husband Sikander ensued querelling and scuffling. The complainant and her children raised shriek and noise and tried to shield to the victim. The accused appellant (Ashok) was equipped with Takora (Axe) in his hand, hit the Sikander from his back side on his head. He gave three blows of the axe on his head. Piercing axe in these injuries. As a result of which victim sustained fatal injuries in his head. He fell down on the ground in a serious condition and the accused/ appellant fled away from the place of occurrence, extending threats and intimidation to them. The complainant, with the help of Vinod, her another Devar P.W. 1, brought the injured at the Lohiya Hospital Farrukhabad. The injured was examined there and later referred to Kanpur for treatment. While proceeding to Kanpur, in the way a little ahead of Kannnauj, the victim succumbed to his injuries. The corpse of the deceased Sikander was brought back to Lohiya Hospital. The panchnama of deceased Sikander was conducted there. The complainant got scribed on a paper the information about incident, whereupon her thumb impression was obtained. She proved the Tahrir (written complaint) as Ext. Ka- 1. The I.O. had visited the place of occurrence on her discloser, she aided. And inquest of her husband was conducted at Lohiya Hospital, Farrukhabad.

15. Pw- 2 Preeti and Pw- 4 Vishal are the children of the deceased aged about 16 years and 12 years at the time of recording their evidence in the court respectively. They stated that they were present at the scene of occurrence at the time of incident at about 6.30 a.m on 19.08.2012. Some quarrel had taken place between their father and uncle Ashok on the issue of collection of sand on the roof, whose house is adjacent to their house. The uncle objected the accumulation and threatened that not a single particle of the sand should come towards his side. Thereafter their father went to call his father (their Baba) from the field. They and their mother chased their father on the apprehension that the uncle Ashok may getting to the victim all alone, may attack upon his person. Ashoka followed their father with and Takora, when they reached Karaundha garden of Dileep Mauriya there again Ashoka and their father Sikander ensued quarreally and scuffling. They raised shriek and noise to shield their father. He gave three blows of axe piercing in the head of their father from the back side. As a result of which their father sustained three fatal injuries in the head. He fell down and uncle Ashok fled away there from. Their mother with the help of uncle Vinod carry their father to the hospital to Ram Manohar Lohiya Hospital, Farrukhabad for treatment. Where from he was sent to Kanpur but in the way he died.

16. The learned counsel for defence throughly cross-examined P.W. 1 Sunita, P.W. 2 Preeti and P.W. 4 Vishal. In their cross-examination all the witnesses reiterated that all of them were present at the place of occurrence at the time of incident. They are eye witnesses of the occurrence. P.W. 1 stated that when her husband left his house the accused followed him with a Takora. Anticipating the apprehension that on getting the deceased all alone may attack upon the deceased. So all of them also followed the deceased, when they reached in the Karaundha Garden there held scuffle between the accused and the deceased. During the scuffle accused gave three blows with the axe on the head of the deceased. She tried to shiled her husband. Her husband fell down and Ashok ran away with the axe. She with help of her dewar Vinod and others took her husband from the scene of incident to Lohiya Hospital. Her husband was bleeding from the head. He died in the way to Kanpur near Kannauj. She saw the accused running at a distance of four sticks. She and her children did not following the Ashok because he had axe in hand. She denied the suggestion that she was not present at the time of occurrenc at the spot. She reached at 11.00 o'clock with the application at the Police Station. Thereafter, she went to the Hospital where her husband's dead body was kept. She had both the children with her and they saw the accused hitting the head of the deceased with an axe. PW. 2 and PW. 4 also corroborated the statement P.W. 1. No major contradictions were found in their statement.

17. Thus, all the above three witnesses of fact proved their presence at the place of occurrence at the time of incident. Their statements establishe that incident occured on the issue of collecting sand on roof and that the accused inflicted three fatal blows of Takora (axe) from the back on the head of the deceased and he died due to these fatal injuries.

18. In corroboration of the prosecution case, prosecution has also examined Pw- 4 Dr. V.V. Pushkar. The doctor stated on oath that he conducted post mortem of Sikander (deceased) on 19.8.2012 at about 3.30 p.m. The dead body was brought in a sealed cover by constable 663 Ram Nazar and 7 07 Home Guard Pratap Bhan. The autopsy of the deceased Sikander was conducted after tallying the seal and receiving of the concerned letter and document.

19. (i)- Ante-mortem injuries;- On the post mortem, following ante mortem injuries were found on the person of deceased Sikander-

(ii)- As per doctor's statement, after death, rigor mortis was present over the entire limbs. The body was of average built. Mouth and eyes were closed. Dressing material was present over head. Viggo was present in the right wrist.

(iii)- The doctor opined that the cause of death of Sikander is shock and haemorrhage, as a result of ante mortem injuries.

(iv)- P.W. 3 the Dr. V.V. Pushkar also stated that the Postmortem Examination Report was prepared by him in his own writing and signature. He proved P.M.R. as Ext. Ka. 2 and was sent to S.P. Farrukhabad and two others.

(v)- It was also endorsed that aforesaid injuries on the person of Sikander had come on 19.8.2012, by the incising of sharp edge weapon.

20. Thus, medical evidence has supported the ocular evidence and the prosecution case.

21. P.W. 5 Investigating Officer S.I. Jag Mohan Singh has stated that on the disclosure the accused in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. the Takora (axe), weapon used in the incident was recovered beneath a tree in Karaundha Garden, on the pointing of the accused, in the presence of the witnesses Dhani Ram and Balveer, during examination in the court when the weapon was produced he stated that it is the weapon which he recovered on pointing of the accused in Karaundha Garden. This discovery of the fact is relevant and admissible in evidence under Section 27 of Indian Evidence Act. He proved the axe as physical Ext. No. 1.

22. Pw- 7 Ishwer Dyal has proved chick FIR as Ext. Ka- 9. He also proved the carban copy of the G.D. as Ext. Ka- 10 and request letter for postmortem and other papers sent along with seald cover dead body for postmortem. Ext. Ka- 11 to Ka- 14 were also proved by him.

23. Pw- 5, S.I. Jag Mohan Singh the first I.O. of the case. He prepared site plan as Ext. Ka- 3. He also collected blood stained and plain soil and prepared a memo Ext. Ka- 4. He also arrested the accused near Hathiyapur Railway crossing. The arresting memo was also prepared by him which he proved as Ext. Ka- 7. He further stated that he in the presence of witnesses Dhani Ram and Balbir recovered the axe from the garden of Karaundha at the pointing out of the accused. He proved the memo of recovery of axe as Ext. Ka- 5 and also the axe as physical Ext. Ka- 1 in his examination he further stated that he has prepared map of the place of occurrence and place of recovery as Ext. Ka- 3 and Ka- 6. He stated that afterwards the investigation was transferred to Pw- 6 S.I. Anoop Kumar Tiwari.

24. P.W. 6 Anoop Kumar Tiwari stated that he taken over the investigation from P.W. 5 Jag Mohan Singh. After completion of the investigation, he filed charge-sheet which he proved as Ext. Ka- 8.

25. The learned counsel for appellant argued that the witnesses of facts are related to deceased and thus interested witnesses. It is next argued that there were other witnesses also like Vinod etc. available but prosecution did not examined them. Therefore, the testimony of the prosecution witnesses is unworthy of credit, learened A.G.A. refuted the argument. In this behalf it may be mentioned, it is true that P.W. 1 Sunita,

P.W. 2 Kumari Preeti and P.W. 4 Vishal are wife, daghter and son of the deceased Sikander, but, it may be mentioned that they are not only related to the deceased, but also related to the accused/ appellant. However, nothing could be shown by the accused/ appellant that they were nurturing animus and grudge agianst the accused, as such their testimony cannot be discorded merely because of their relationship with the deceased.

26. The learned trial court rightly believed the evidence of prosecution witnesses as the Apex Court in Appa Bhai Vs. State of Gujarat A.I.R. 1988 S.C. 696 and Ashok Kumar Chaudhary Vs. State of Bihar 2008 (61) ACC 972, has propounded that in the absence of any independent witness, evidence of related witness could not be discorded. If, the presence of the witness at the time of incident is established by evidence, there testimony cannot be discorded on the basis of their being member of the family of the deceased. The proseuciton has established that the witnesses examined were present at the scene of occurrence at the time of incident and there witnessed accused inflicting three blows of axe from back side on the head of the deceased Sikandar in the garden of Dileep Maurya.

27. Even the testimony of P.W.2 (Priti) and P.W.4 (Vishal). the minor daughter and son of the deceased Sikander was sufficient to prove the guilt against the accused appellant as they in their natural course were capable of understanding the incident, gravity as well as gravamen of the occurrence and were capable of understanding the situations and questions put to them. Hence, the corroboration of such evidence of minors (P.W.2 & 4) with other clinching and trustworthy evidence cannot be ignored. The evidence of minors (P.W.2 and P.W. 4) inspires confidence divulging the incident in a natural and simple manner there has been no inconsistency in the cross-examination of prosecution witnsses 1, 2 and 3 they had narrated the prosecution version in a natural and intrinsic manner without any embellishment.

28. Besides, there is no reason that the witnesses, who were closed relation of deceased Sikandar, would falsely implicate the accused/ appellant, leaving the real culprit. Nothing tangible could be elicited from the evidence of the witnesses in the cross-examination by which the prosecution version could be doubted. Their evidence is trustworthy, reliable and free from all taints and flaws. It is a established law that quality and not the plurality of witnesses are required to prove a fact. The dispensation of justice would be affected and hampered, if, number of witnesses are to be insisted upon. Moreover, Vinod was not an eye witness of the occurrence. He reached at the place of occurrence after the incident was over. So, his non examination as a witness do not affect proseuction case at all. Thus, the learend trial court has rightly accepted the proseuction evidence holding the accused/ appellant guilty of the offence killing the deceased.

29. It may be mentioned that ocular evidence of the prosecution is supported by the medical evidence on record. P.W. 3 Dr. V.V. Pushkar in his cross-examition stated that three encised wound over the head of deceased there was a pool of blood on the person of the victim and victim was succumbed to his injuries due to shock and hamerouge as a result of ante-mortem injuries caused by a sharp cutting weapon.

Moreover, the weapon used in the incident was recovered on the basis of the disclosure of the accused in his statement in the police custody. This part of the statement of the accused was relavant under section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act. It was on his instance the weapon (axe) was recovered in front of the witnesses from Karaundha garden hidden beneath the tree. The weapon was exhibited before the court as physical Ext. 1. The formal witnesses chik and G.D writter and investigating officer also corroborated the prosecution case.

30. From the facts and circumstances of the cases it emnates that the crime had been committed in a very bruttal manner, multiple injuries were inflicted on the vital part of the victim the testimony of the witnesses are trustworthy and reliable. The defence has failed to explain as to how victim received the grave and grim injuries on his vital part of the body (head), except as mentioned in the prosecution version. Thus, the evidence of the prosecution witnesses is consistent with the hypotheis of the guilt of the accused appellant and no other hypothesis. The learned Special Sessions Judge passed the order of conviction and sentence after appreciting the entire evidence on record and has rightly arrived at the conclusion that it was the accused/ appellant who alone committed the serious offence of causing fatal and ghastly injuries to the victim. Thus, the impugned judgment may be sustained and uphold to this extents.

31. The learned counsel for appellant has submitted that the incident occurred at the spur of moment which arose due to sudden quarrel between two brothers. It is submitted that the accused had not premeditated to do away with the deceased.

32. In alternative, it is also submitted that at the most, the death can be homicidal death not amounting to murder and punishable under Section 304-II or Section 304-I of I.P.C. If the Court decides that the accused is guilty under Section 302 of IPC, then the accused may be granted fixed term punishment of incarceration as the death is not a gruesome act on part of accused.

33. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State submits that there was no grave and sudden provocation from the side of the deceased and that looking to the gruesomeness of the offence and the evidence of prosecution witnesses, this Court should not show any leniency in the matter. It is further submitted by learned A.G.A. that ingredients of Section 300 of IPC are rightly held to be made out by the learned Sessions Judge who has applied the law to the facts in case.

34. We have considered the ocular evidence of witnesses and the Postmortem report which states that the injuries on the body of the deceased were cause of death and that it was homicidal death. The medical evidence has also supported the ocular evidence. The statement of the witnesses are consistent. There are no major contradictions in their statements and minor contradictions here and there are to be ignored as they did not injure prosecution case at all. Although, all the three witnesses of facts are related to each other and with the deceased but their testimony is trustworthy, as they were the eye-witnesses and there is no reason as to why they would falsely implicate the accused. Accused/ appellant has failed to prove any enmity with the deceased or witnesses. Thus, the evidence adduced by prosecution has established the prosecution case beyond reasonable doubts.Therefore, we concur with the findings of the trial court.

35. This takes us to the next question whether it was a perpetrated murder or would it fall within any of the exceptions to Section 300 of IPC?

36. It would be relevant to refer to Section 299 of the Indian Penal Code, which reads as under:

37. The academic distinction between "murder' and "culpable homicide not amounting to murder' has always vexed the Courts. The confusion is caused, if Courts loose sight of the true scope and meaning of the terms used by the legislature in these sections, and allow themselves to be drawn into minute abstractions. The safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions seems to be is to keep in focus the keywords used in the various clauses of Section 299 and 300 of I.P.Code. The following comparative table will be helpful in appreciating the points of distinction between the two offences:-

A person commits culpable homicide if the act by which the death is caused is done-	Subject to certain exceptions culpable homicide is murder if the act by which the death is caused is done.
INTENTION
(a) with the intention of causing death; or	(1) with the intention of causing death; or
(b) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death; or	(2) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused;
KNOWLEDGE	KNOWLEDGE
(c) with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death.	(4) with the knowledge that the act is so immediately dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as is mentioned above.

38. From the upshot of the aforesaid discussion, it appears that the death caused by the accused was not premeditated, accused though had knowledge and intention that his act would cause bodily harm to the deceased but did not want to do away with the deceased. Hence the instant case falls under the Exceptions 1 and 4 to Section 300 of IPC. While considering Section 299 as reproduced herein above offence committed will fall under Section 304 Part-I as per the observations of the Apex Court in Veeran and others Vs. State of M.P. (2011) 5 SCR 300 which have to be also kept in mind.

39. On overall scrutiny of the facts and circumstances of the present case coupled with the opinion of the Medical Officer and considering the principle laid down by the Apex Court in the Case of Tukaram and Ors Vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in (2011) 4 SCC 250 and in the case of B.N. Kavatakar and Another Vs. State of Karnataka, reported in 1994 SUPP (1) SCC 304, we come to the definite conclusion that the death was not premeditated. The precedents discussed by us would permit us to uphold our finding which we conclusively hold that the offence is not punishable under Section 302 of I.P.C. but is culpable homicide not amounting to murder, punishable U/s 304 (Part I) of I.P.C.

40. Now, it is to be seen whether the quantum of sentence is too harsh and requires to be modified. In this regard, we have to analyse the theory of punishment prevailing in India.

41. In Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, [AIR 1977 SC 1926], explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

42. The term 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP [(2004) 7 SCC 257] by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

43. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532], Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734], Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323], State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, [(2015) 3 SCC 441], and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463] and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

44. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

45. As discussed above, 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is very harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Apex Court, as discussed above, has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformative approach underlying in criminal justice system.

46. In view of the above, the accused-appellant is sentenced to 10 years rigorous imprisonment.299. Culpable homicide: Whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing death, or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death, commits the offence of culpable homicide." Fine is reduced to Rs.5000/-. However, the default sentence is maintaned. If 10 year's sentence is already over, the accused-appellant be set free forthwith, if not wanted in any other case. He will deposit the fine within four weeks from the date of release and in case fine is not deposited he will be re-incarcerated to undergo the sentence of default.

47. Resultantly, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and order dated 05.08.2015 passed by the learned Special Judge D.A.A./ Additional Sessions Judge Court No. 3, shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. Record be sent back to the trial court forthwith.

Revision not maintainable and accordingly dismissed. (E-15)

2. Father Thomas Vs St. of U.P. 2011 (72) ACC 564 (Allahabad) (Full Bench)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suresh Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for appellant, S.P. Tiwari, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the material available on record.

2. By means of this criminal revision, the revisionist has sought following prayer:-

"Wherefore, it is most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to set aside order dated 27.01.2023 passed by learned Civil Judge (Junior Division)/ F.T.C./J.M. Bahraich in Criminal Case No. 3033 of 2022 whereby application moved by the complainant under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. has been allowed.

3. Learned counsel for revisionist has submitted that the order dated 27.01.2023 passed by learned Civil Judge (Junior Division)/ F.T.C./J.M. Bahraich in Criminal Case No. 3033 of 2022 is erroneous and beyond jurisdiction of learned Magistrate. The application moved under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. by the complainant with ulterior motive. The dispute relates to the landed property and the order passed by the learned Magistrate for registration of FIR and to investigate the matter is against the principles of law.

4. Mr. S.P. Tiwari, learned A.G.A. for the State has submitted that this revision is not maintainable against the order of allowing application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. as the proposed accused has no legal right to be heard unless and until summoning order is passed against him.

5. In support of his submission learned A.G.A. has relied upon a judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Union of India Vs. WIN Chaddha reported in 1993 SCC (Criminal) 1171 wherein Hon'ble Apex Court has held that a proposed accused in an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. has got no right to be heard either on the application before the Magistrate or in revision before the revisional court. Hon'ble Apex Court has also affirmed the judgment of this Court in the case of Father Thomas Vs. State of U.P. reported in 2011 (72) ACC 564 (Allahabad) (Full Bench) wherein this Court has held that an accused does not have any right to be heard before he is summoned by the Court under the Code of Criminal Procedure and he has got no right to raise any objection till the stage of summoning and resultantly he cannot be conferred with a right to challenge the order passed against him under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. prior to his summoning. If the Magistrate has allowed an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. directing the police to register FIR and investigate, revision against such order is not maintainable under Section 397 Cr.P.C.

6. Having heard learned counsel for parties and keeping in view the authority relied upon by the learned A.G.A., I do not find any illegality or infirmity in the impugned judgment and order dated 27.01.2023 passed by learned Civil Judge (Junior Division)/ F.T.C./J.M. Bahraich in Criminal Case No. 3033 of 2022.

7. Therefore, this revision is not maintainable and is accordingly dismissed.

5. S.W. Palankattkar & ors. Vs St. of Bihar, 2002 (44) ACC 168

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Heard Shri Bahar Ali, the learned counsel for the applicant as well as Shri Prem Prakash, Mrs. Kiran Singh and Shri Hari Shankar Vajpayee, the learned A.G.A.-I for the State and perused the record.

2. The instant application has been filed by the applicant with a prayer to quash the charge sheet No. 424 of 2019 as well as entire proceeding of Case No. 1548 of 2020, State Vs. Mohd. Khaliq, arising out of Case Crime No. 462 of 2018, under Section 3/5/8 of Uttar Pradesh Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act 1955'), Police Station Dewa, District Barabanki, pending in the court of learned additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 16, Barabanki.

3. The facts of the case in short is that a first information report dated 02.11.2019 was lodged by the at Police Station Dewa, District Barabanki with the allegation that on an information received by informer when A.S.I.-Dharmendra Kumar Yadav and other police personnel reached at Sarsaudi Village near the school they saw one person coming holding a sack, on seeing police personnel that person tried to return back, but the police caught him and on his search beef of cow progeny was found in the sack holding by him. On interrogation the said person told his name Zahoor, he told that he along with the applicant are involved in cow slaughtering and he was going to Lucknow for selling the same.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that there is no chemical analysis report from the veterinary doctor whether seized meat belongs to cow progeny and in the absence of any chemical analysis report, the Investigating Officer submitted charge sheet against the applicant, whereupon the learned Magistrate has also taken cognizance in a routine manner and summoned the applicant for facing trial.

5. Per contra, learned Additional Government Advocates submit that charge sheet was rightly submitted by the Investigating officer and the cognizance taken by the learned Magistrate is also in accordance with law. The name of applicant came into light in the confessional statement of co-accused, Zahoor, who was arrested along with the cow meat, who confessed that he and the applicant were involved in slaughtering of cow, therefore, prima facie offence under Section 3/5/8 of the Act, 1955 is made out against the applicant.

6. After considering the arguments as advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and from the perusal of the charge sheet as well as cognizance order and the F.I.R., offence under Section 3/5/8 of the Act, 1955 is prima facie made out against the applicants. No case is made out for quashing of the proceeding of Criminal Case No. 525 of 2020, under Section 3/5/8 of Act, 1955. It is relevant to quote Section 3, 5, & 8 of Act, 1955 for adjudication of this case :

(4) The form of permit, the form of application therefor and the procedure for disposal of such application shall be such as may be prescribed.

(5) The State Government or any officer authorised by it in this behalf by general or special notified order, may, at any time, for the purpose of satisfying itself, or himself, as to the legality or propriety of the action taken under this section, call for and examine the record of any case and pass such orders thereon as it or he may deem fit].

[(6) Where the said conveyance has been confirmed to be related to beef by the competent authority or authorised laboratory under this Act, the driver, operator and owner related to transport, shall be charged with the offence under this Act, unless it is not proved that the transport medium used in crime, despite all its precautions and without its knowledge, has been used by some other person for causing the offence.

(9) The expenditure on the maintenance of the seized cows and its progeny shall be recovered from the accused for a period of one year or till the release of the cow and its progeny in favour of the owner thereof whichever is earlier.

(10) Where a person is prosecuted for committing, abetting, or attempting to an offense under Sections 3, 5 and 8 of this Act and the beef or cow-remains in the possession of accused has been proved by the prosecution and transported things are confirmed to be beef by the competent authority or authorised laboratory, then the court shall presume that such person has committed such offence or attempt or abetment of such offence, as the case may be, unless the contrary is proved.

(11) Where the provisions of this Act or the related rules in context of search, acquisition, disposal and seizure are silent, the relevant provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 shall be effective thereto.]

[5B. Whoever causes any physical injury to any cow or its progeny so as to endanger the life thereof such as to mutilate its body or to transport it in any situation whereby endangering the life thereof or with the intention of endangering the life thereof does not provide with food or water shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than one year and which may extend to seven years and with fine which shall not be less than one Lakh rupees and which may extend to three Lakh rupees.]

[8. (1) Whoever contravenes or attempts to contravene or abets the contravention of the provisions of Section 3, Section 5 or Section 5-A shall be guilty of an offence punishable with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than three years and which may be extend to ten years and with fine which shall not be less than three Lakh rupees and which may extend to five Lakh rupees.

(3) The names and the photograph of the person accused of the contravention of the provision of Section 5-A shall be published at some prominent place in locality where the accused ordinarily resides or to a public place, if he conceals himself from the law enforcement officers.]

7. Accordingly, the contention of the learned counsel for the applicant that no offence against the applicant is disclosed and the present prosecution has been instituted with a malafide intention for the purposes of harassment, has no force.

8. We are living in a secular country and must have respect for all religions and in Hinduism, the belief and faith is that cow is representative of divine and natural beneficence and should therefore be protected and venerated. The cow has also been associated with various deities, notably Lord Shiva (whose steed is Nandi, a bull) Lord Indra (closely associated with Kamadhenu, the wise-granting cow), Lord Krishna (a cowherd in his youth), and goddesses in general (because of the maternal attributes of many of them). The cow is the most sacred of all the animals of Hinduism. It is known as Kamadhenu, or the divine cow, and the giver of all desires. According to legend, she emerged from the ocean of milk at the time of Samudramanthan or the great churning of the ocean by the gods and demons. She was presented to the seven sages, and in the course of time came into the custody of sage, Vasishta. Her legs symbolise four Vedas; her source of milk is four Purushartha (or objectives, i.e. dharma or righteousness, artha or material wealth, kama or desire and moksha or salvation); her horns symbolise the gods, her face the sun and moon, and her shoulders agni or the god of fire. She has also been described in other forms: Nanda, Sunanda, Surabhi, Susheela and Sumana.

9. The origin of the veneration of the cow can be traced to the Vedic period (2nd millennium 7th century BCE). The Indo-European peoples who entered India in the 2nd millennium BCE were pastoralists; cattle had major economic significance that was reflected in their religion. The slaughter of milk- producing cows was increasingly prohibited. It is forbidden in parts of the Mahabharata, the great Sanskrit epic, and in the religious and ethical code known as the Manu-Smirti ("Tradition of Manu"), and the milk cow was already in the Rigveda said to be "unslayable". The degree of veneration afforded the cow is indicated by the use in rites of healing purification, and penance of the panchagavya, the five products of the cow-milk, curd, butter, urine, and dung.

10. Subsequently, with the rise of the ideal of Ahimsa ("non-injury"), the absence of the desire to harm living creatures, the cow came to symbolize a life of nonviolent generosity. In addition, because her products supplied nourishment, the cow was associated with motherhood and Mother Earth and legislation against cow killing persisted into the 20th century in many princely states.

11. Legends also state that Brahma gave life to priests and cows same time so that the priests could recite religious scriptures while cows could afford ghee(clarified butter) as offering in rituals. Anyone who kills cows or allows others to kill them is deemed to rot in hell as many years as there are hairs upon his body. Likewise, the bull is depicted as a vehicle of Lord Shiva: a symbol of respect for the male cattle.

12. In the Mahabharata, Bhishma (grandfather of the leaders of warring factions) observes that the cow acts as a surrogate mother by providing milk to human beings for a lifetime, so she is truly the mother of the world. The Puranas state that nothing is more religious than the gift of cows. Lord Rama was given a gift of many cows.

13. In the late 19th and 20th century, in India, a movement to protect cows arose that strove to unify the citizens by demanding that the Government of India ban cow slaughter with immediate effect in the country.

14. This Court also hope and trust that the Central Government may take appropriate decision to ban cow slaughtering in the country and to declare the same as 'protected national animal'.

15. From the perusal of the materials on record and looking into the facts of the present case and after considering the arguments made at the bar, it does not appear that no offence has been made out against the applicant.

16. At the stage of issuing process the court below is not expected to examine and assess in detail the material placed on record, only this has to be seen whether prima facie cognizable offence is disclosed or not. The Apex Court has also laid down the guidelines where the criminal proceedings could be interfered and quashed in exercise of its power by the High Court in the following cases:-(i) R.P. Kapoor Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1960 S.C. 866, (ii) State of Haryana Vs. Bhajanlal, 1992 SCC (Crl.)426, (iii) State of Bihar Vs. P.P. Sharma, 1992 SCC (Crl.)192 and (iv) Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. Vs. Mohd. Saraful Haq and another, (Para-10) 2005 SCC (Cri.)283.

17. From the aforesaid decisions the Apex Court has settled the legal position for quashing of the proceedings at the initial stage. The test to be applied by the court is to whether uncontroverted allegation as made prima facie establishes the offence and the chances of ultimate conviction is bleak and no useful purpose is likely to be served by allowing criminal proceedings to be continue. In S.W. Palankattkar & others Vs. State of Bihar, 2002 (44) ACC 168, it has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that quashing of the criminal proceedings is an exception than a rule. The inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C itself envisages three circumstances under which the inherent jurisdiction may be exercised:-(i) to give effect an order under the Code, (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of the court ; (iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice. The power of High Court is very wide but should be exercised very cautiously to do real and substantial justice for which the court alone exists.

18. The High Court would not embark upon an inquiry as it is the function of the Trial Judge/Court. The interference at the threshold of quashing of the charge sheet/criminal proceedings in case in hand cannot be said to be exceptional as it discloses prima facie commission of an offence. In the result, the prayer for quashing of charge sheet/ criminal proceedings of Case No. 1548 of 2020, State Vs. Mohd. Khaliq, arising out of Case Crime No. 462 of 2018, under Section 3/5/8 of Uttar Pradesh Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955, Police Station Dewa, District Barabanki is refused. There is no merit in this application filed by the applicant under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

19. In view of the aforesaid submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and considering the judgments passed by Hon'ble Supreme Court referred above, this Court finds no merit in the present application and the same is liable to be dismissed.

20. Accordingly, the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. filed by the applicant is dismissed.

By means of the instant application, the applicant has prayed for quashing of the impugned order of non-bailable warrant dated 27.09.2022 and impugned order dated 07.12.2022, passed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sitapur, in Criminal Case No. 3095 of 2001, arising out of case crime no. 172 of 2001, under Sections 498A, 304B of the IPC and Sections 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, relating to Police Station Pisawan, District Sitapur.

4. Factual matrix of the case is that the applicant was minor (thirteen years of age) at the time of alleged incident, as her date of birth has been shown as 20.07.1988. The opposite party no. 2, Sri Ram Chandra lodged the first information report, against the present applicant along with the other co-accused persons. Thereafter, the investigation was conducted and the charge-sheet was filed. After the alleged incident, the applicant performed marriage with one Prakash, resident of Village Malhpur Chaubey and started living at her matrimonial house and, thus, she could not receive the summons and, ultimately, when the non-bailable warrant was issued on 27.09.2022, she came to know about the case and, thereafter, approached her counsel, who filed an application before Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sitapur on 14.10.2022 with a prayer that the matter may be referred to the Juvenile Justice Board for trial, as she was thirteen years of age at the time of the incident. On the said application, the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sitapur passed the order on 07.12.2022, whereby, the prayer has been rejected and order of non-bailable warrant was passed and proclamation under Section 82 CrPC was issued against the applicant. Thus the applicant assailed the order dated 27.09.2022 and 07.12.2022 by way of instant application.

5. Contention of learned counsel for the applicant is that an FIR was lodged by the complainant, Ram Chandra under Section 498A, 304B of the IPC and under Section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act at Police Station Pisawan, District Sitapur on 04.09.2000 and the present applicant, who was the minor on the date of said incident, has been implicated in the present case due to ulterior motive as the age of the applicant on the date of incident was thirteen years, as per her date of birth. He submits that when this fact came into knowledge that first information report was lodged against the present applicant and all the family members, the applicant surrendered her before the court concerned and she was granted bail by the trial court vide order dated 08.02.2001.

6. Further submission is that the Investigating Officer conducted the investigation and submitted the charge-sheet against the family members of the applicant in Case Crime No. 172 of 2000 and the investigation against the applicant was kept pending but later on, under the influence of the opposite party no. 2, the charge-sheet was also submitted against the applicant on 24.03.2001 assuming her to be major, although it is apparent from the charge-sheet that the present applicant was about thirteen years of age as is mentioned in the charge-sheet itself.

7. He contended that after filing of the charge-sheet against the applicant, the criminal case was registered as Criminal Case No. 3095 of 2001, (State Vs. Chottaki @ Kiran) but neither any notice nor any summon was ever served upon the applicant and the trial court without ensuring the fact as to whether the summon has been served upon the applicant or not, started issuing non-bailable warrants against the applicant and as soon as the fact with respect to the issuance of non-bailable warrant came into knowledge of the applicant, she moved an application on 14.10.2022 before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sitapur and while moving the application, the plea has been raised that since the applicant was minor on the date of the incident, thus, the matter may be transferred to the Juvenile Justice Board concerned. He added that the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sitapur without applying its judicial mind and without properly scrutinizing the materials available on record, rejected the application of the applicant and issued non-bailable warrant and started the proceeding of proclamation under Section 82 of CrPC.

8. Adding his arguments, he submits that the learned trial court has ignored the provisions of existing Section 7A of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 (hereinafter referred as 'the Act, 2000'), as well as the fact that the applicant was minor on the date of incident, thus, he has committed patent illegality.

9. For reference, Section 7A of the Act, 2000 is extracted as under:-

"7A. Procedure to be followed when claim of juvenility is raised before any court.?

(1) Whenever a claim of juvenility is raised before any court or a court is of the opinion that an accused person was a juvenile on the date of commission of the offence, the court shall make an inquiry, take such evidence as may be necessary (but not an affidavit) so as to determine the age of such person, and shall record a finding whether the person is a juvenile or a child or not, stating his age as nearly as may be: Provided that a claim of juvenility may be raised before any court and it shall be recognised at any stage, even after final disposal of the case, and such claim shall be determined in terms of the provisions contained in this Act and the rules made thereunder, even if the juvenile has ceased to be so on or before the date of commencement of this Act.

(2) If the court finds a person to be a juvenile on the date of commission of the offence under sub-section (1), it shall forward the juvenile to the Board for passing appropriate orders and the sentence, if any, passed by a court shall be deemed to have no effect."

10. Referring the abovesaid provisions, he submits that the trial court did not speak even a single word regarding determination of juvenility of the applicant, thus, the provision regarding enquiry for determining the juvenility has clearly been violated. The trial court though noted the argument of the applicant in the impugned order that she was 13 years of age at the time of incident but neither discussion is there nor finding is recorded.

11. He next added that Section 49 of the Act, 2000 deals with the presumption and determination of the age and, thus, it was also incumbent upon the competent authority to enquire about the fact that whether the alleged accused is a child conflict with law or not.

12. He further contended that the procedure for determination of age has specifically been provided under Rule 12 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 2007. The exhaustive rules with respect to the procedure has been prescribed only to ensure the fact that no juvenile should be tried with other than the procedure prescribed in the Act, 2000 and, thus, he submits that the trial court did not bother to adopt the procedure which was to be followed for determination of the age. Lastly, he submits that since the trial court has at the first hand denied the benefit of juvenility to the present applicant even after application moved by the applicant, therefore, the trial court has not only rejected the application of the applicant but he has also skipped the provisions of law.

13. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance on the judgement rendered in the case of Abuzar Hossain @ Gulam Hossain Vs. State of West Bengal reported in 2012 (10) SCC 489 and has referred paragraph 39.1 of the abovesaid judgement, wherein it has categorically been held that the claim of juvenility can be raised at any stage, even after trial is concluded and appeal is decided.

14. Paragraph 39.1 is extracted as under:-

"39.1 A claim of juvenility may be raised at any stage even after final disposal of the case. It may be raised for the first time before this Court as well after final disposal of the case. The delay in raising the claim of juvenility cannot be a ground for rejection of such claim. The claim of juvenility can be raised in appeal even if not pressed before the trial court and can be raised for the first time before this Court though not pressed before the trial court and in appeal court."

15. Relying upon the aforesaid, he submits that the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that delay in raising the claim of juvanility cannot be a ground for rejection of such claim and the same can be raised even at the stage of appeal, if not pressed before the trial court.

16. Further submission is that since it is clear from the charge-sheet as well as the school leaving certificate, which has been annexed as annexure no. 3 to the application, issued by the Primary School, Dhadhnamau, that the age of the applicant was 13 years at the time of incident as her date of birth is 20.07.1988 and the charge-sheet also mentions the fact that the age of the present applicant was 13 years at the time of incident. He submits that undoubtedly the present applicant was minor at the date of the alleged occurrence and, thus, the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sitapur has no jurisdiction to proceed with the trial of the applicant and the matter should have been remitted back to the Juvenile Justice Board concerned. He next submits that the order passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate dated 07.12.2022 is therefore unlawful and against the law propounded by the Apex Court and thus, the same is unsustainable.

17. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing for the State has controverted the contentions of the learned counsel for the applicant and submits that the incident has taken place in the year 2000 and it is an admitted fact that the present applicant, after lodging of the FIR, appeared before the trial court and she was enlarged on bail, which itself discloses that the criminal case was very well in the knowledge of the applicant. He further submits that since the correct address was not informed to the trial court, therefore, summons were sent on the address which was available on record of the trial court and in case of non-appearance, the trial court issued non-bailable warrants and has taken recourse of the other consequential proceedings and when the Police somehow could reach to the place of the present applicant, she, in the compelling circumstances, appeared before the trial court, thus, it shows that the applicant was deliberately trying to avoid the criminal proceedings and was escaping herself since last 20 years, due to which, the trial proceeding has become delayed. He further submits that the present applicant has not come with clean hands before this Court and she has misused the process of law and the liberty of bail granted by the trial court.

18. Addressing the issue, learned counsel for the State submits that since the non-bailable warrant was issued against the applicant and further the proceeding of Section 82 of CrPC was also initiated and, therefore, once the application was filed by the applicant, the same was dismissed, while discussing in detail all these circumstances and it is not understandable that once the fact was in the knowledge of the applicant that she was minor at the time of the incident, why did she not seek the benefit of the provisions of Section 7A of the Act, 2000, uptil twenty years . Thus, there is no illegality or perversity in the impugned order passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sitapur and this application is liable to be dismissed.

19. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and after perusal of the records, it emerges that the First Information Report was lodged way-back in the year 2000, wherein, while lodging the First Information Report under Sections 498-A, 304 B of IPC read with Section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, the present applicant was implicated. Thereafter, she got married and started living separately with her husband although prior to her marriage, she appeared before the trial court and applied for bail and she was enlarged on bail. It also reveals that the summons were never served upon the applicant as the postal address of the applicant in the record of the trial court was the parental address and the parties did not provide the residential/postal address of the matrimonial place of the applicant. As per the averments of the applicant, the proceedings of non-bailable warrant as well as proclamation under Section 82 of CrPC came into her knowledge, when she appeared before the trial court and submitted an application for declaring her as a juvenile.

20. When this Court examined the order of the learned trial court dated 07.12.2022 impugned in this application, it emerges that an application dated 14.10.2022 was before the trial court, whereby, the applicant claimed her as a juvenile showing her age as 13 years at the time of the incident. The trial court though mentioned the aforesaid application and prayer of the applicant in the order but no finding has been recorded on the core issue of determining the juvenility of the applicant.

21. In the present matter, the application was filed for determination of age and for declaring the applicant as a juvenile/child conflict with law, but the trial court did not consider the same and has issued non-bailable warrant and the proclamation under Section 82 CrPC, ignoring the prayer of the applicant.

22. This Court is not unmindful of the provisions of law as well as the law propounded by the Apex Court with respect to claim of juvenility. From bare reading of Section 7(A) of the Act, 2000, it reveals that 'Whenever' a claim of juvenility is raised before any Court and the Court is of the opinion that an accused was juvenile on the date of commission of the offence, the Court shall immediately make an inquiry taking necessary evidence for determining the age of person, to come to the conclusion that as to whether such an accused is a juvenile or not.'

23. Section 7(A) of the Act, 2000, emphasise that the claim of juvenility can be raised at any stage even after final disposal of the case before the trial court or after the final order passed in an appeal. It has also been settled that delay in raising the claim of juvenility cannot be a ground for rejection of the claim of juvenility.

24. After the aforesaid discussion it is borne out that intent of the legislative is very clear from bare reading of the provisions of Section 7(A) of the Act, 2007 as it mentions that, 'whenever a claim of juvenility is raised', and that clearly shows that an absolute opportunity has been accorded to such an accused to set a claim of his or her being juvenile at the time of the incident and further that can be raised before 'any Court' which indicates that the same can be raised even at the Court of appeal as well as the trial court. The claim of the juvenility can be adjudicated in an appeal, even if, the same was not considered before the trial court.

25. So far as the present case is concerned, the matter is at the stage of trial, though the same is of year 2000 and after about delay of 22 years, the applicant is claiming her to be a juvenile but as per the provisions of law, delay cannot be a ground for entertaining such claims but the Magistrate while passing the impugned order, prima facie, seems to be unreasonable and ignorant of the provisions of law as well as the law propounded by the Apex Court with respect to deciding the claim of juvenility. Further there seems to be no lapse or lacuna on the part of the applicant while submitting an application on 14.10.2022.

26. Consequently, the impugned order dated 07.12.2022 passed by the trial court in Case No. 3095 of 2001 arising out of Case Crime No. 172 of 2001, is hereby set aside.

27. The matter is remitted back to the trial court concerned.

28. The applicant is at liberty to file a fresh application within a period of 30 days from the date of receiving of certified copy of this order, before the trial Court and if such an application is filed, the same shall be decided within further period of 45 days strictly in accordance with law.

29. For the aforesaid period, the non-bailable warrant as well as the proclamation under Section 82 of CrPC shall remain stayed.

30. With the aforesaid directions and observations, the application is hereby allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Umesh Chandra Sharma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sunil Kumar, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Pankaj Kumar Tripathi, learned AGA for the State and Sri Bhanu Prakash Singh, learned counsel for opposite party no.2.

2. This application has been moved under Section 482 CrPC to set aside the order dated 25.07.2022 passed by ACJM-I, Gautam Budh Nagar in Criminal Misc. Application No.462 of 2021 (old No.343 of 2021, Smt. Ruchi Mittal Vs. Amit Mittal and others), under Section 156(3) CrPC treating the application under Section 156(3) CrPC to be a complaint case. It is also prayed that after setting aside the impugned order, a fresh order directing the police to register the case and start investigation and to submit investigation report. Alternatively, a prayer is also made to direct the ACJM-I, Gautam Budh Nagar to hear and decide the aforementioned application under Section 156(3) CrPC within a stipulated period of time.

3. At the very outset before entering into merit it would be proper to mention that Sri Bhanu Prakash Singh, learned counsel appeared on behalf of opposite party no.2 without any notice about which it is argued by the learned counsel for the applicant that he has no locus to appear and argue in the matter. He also pointed out the ordersheet in which earlier on 17.10.2022 it is observed by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court that it is not a revision and Sri Vijay Prakash Mishra, learned counsel (who appeared on behalf of opposite party no.2) has no locus. However, after closer of the argument the learned counsel for the applicant had not opposed the presence, appearance and argument of Sri Bhanu Prakash Singh, learned counsel who appeared on behalf of opposite party no.2.

4. Learned AGA and the learned counsel appearing for opposite party no.2 argued that an application under Section 482 CrPC is not maintainable. Instead of filing a criminal revision the applicant has filed an application under Section 482 CrPC i.e. the present application which is not maintainable.

5. In the connected affidavit the applicant has given the description of the whole episode and about the cases pending between the parties. Admittedly, the applicant is the legally wedded wife of opposite party no.2, Amit Mittal. Opposite party nos.3 and 4 are the father-in-law and mother-in-law of the applicant. Opposite party no.5 is brother of applicant's husband and opposite party no.6 is the wife of opposite party no.5.

6. On the basis of argument of the parties it transpires that instead of this complaint a divorce petition by opposite party no.2 in Bulandshahr and two criminal cases, one under Section 406 IPC and another under Section 420 IPC are also pending. A case under the Guardians and Wards Act and a case under Section 125 CrPC are also pending between the parties and the proceeding of cases under Sections 406 and 420 IPC were stayed by this Court. It is also argued by the learned counsel for the applicant that without any right an application under Section 340 CrPC has been moved by the respondent and till now no payment of interim maintenance has been made by the opposite parties. According to him since opposite parties are advocate in civil courts at Bulandshahar and Gautam Budh Nagar, therefore, the applicant in unable to prosecute the complaint and since commission of a cognizable offence has been alleged, hence instead of treating the application as complaint, the concerned Magistrate should have allowed the application and should have passed an order to register and investigate the case. Learned counsel for the applicant also argued that first of all the application under Section 156(3) CrPC was moved in the Court of ACJM-II but the PO found it difficult to decide the application as the opposite party no.1 is the practicing lawyer in Gautam Budh Nagar, therefore, on the request of ACJM-II the case was transferred to the Court of ACJM-I but the PO of Court of ACJM-I also found it difficult and wrote a letter to CJM, Gautam Budh Nagar showing his unwillingness to hear and decide the proceeding of application under Section 156(3) CrPC. The Chief Judicial Magistrate, Gautam Budh Nagar declined to transfer the same. Being helpless, the ACJM-I converted the application under Section 156(3) CrPC into a complaint which would not meet the ends of justice and in the attending circumstances the applicant being a lady would not be able to prosecute the complaint.

7. Learned counsel for the applicant pointing out Section 397(2) CrPC argued that the impugned order is an interlocutory order about which no revision lies.

8. Contrary to that learned AGA relied on the citation in Atul Pandey @ Param Pragyan Pandey Vs. State of UP and another, 2021 LawSuiut (All) 603 decided by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court and argued that the circumstances expressed by the applicant would not change the form. In aforementioned case the Court citing the judgment in Jagannath Verma and others Vs. State of UP and another, 2015 (88) AllCriC 1, Lalit Kumari Vs. Government Uttar Pradesh, 2014 (84) All CriC 719, Sukhwai Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, 2008 CrLJ 472, Sakiri Vasu Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, 2008 (60) AllCriC 689, Mohd. Yusuf Vs. Afaq Jahan, 2006 (54) AllCriC 530 and in Gopal Das Sindi Vs. State of Assam, AIR 1961 SC 986 concluded that if an application under Section 156(3) CrPC has been rejected or it has been converted into a complaint, the aggrieved party can prefer revision under Section 397 CrPC. It has also been held that an order regarding rejection of such application or conversion of application under Section 156(3) CrPC into a complaint is not an interlocutory order and it can only be challenged by the aggrieved party by filing revision.

9. The facts of this case and the said case are similar in nature. In Atul Pandey (supra) an application under Section 156(3) CrPC was moved by Ali Hasan, which was allowed and it was treated as a complaint. Being aggrieved an application under Section 482 CrPC had been moved about which a question regarding its maintainability was raised. Learned Single Judge referring the aforementioned judicial precedents held that in such circumstances an application under Section 482 CrPC is not maintainable. Relevant part of the judgment is as under:-

"16. In the light of the law laid down by the Full Bench of this Court in Jagannath Verma (supra), I find that the impugned order is revisable in nature. The appropriate remedy against the impugned order available to the applicant is to file a revision under Section 397 Cr.P.C. instead of approaching this Court in its extraordinary jurisdiction by commencing an application under section 482 Cr.P.C. The prospective accused in the case is entitled to be heard.

17. In the wake of the preceding narrative, I find that the law laid down by the Full Bench in Jagannath Verma (supra) is fully applicable to the facts of this case. Judicial discipline prohibits me from entering into the merits of the case made by learned counsel for the applicant.

18. The application under section 482 Cr.P.C. is accordingly dismissed on the ground of existence of alternative remedy of filing a revision under section 397 Cr.P.C. available to the applicant."

10. On the basis of aforementioned discussion, this Court is also in conformity with the principles laid down by the learned Single Judge and is of the opinion that a proceeding under Section 482 CrPC against the impugned order is not maintainable and the applicant should have preferred a revision before the revisional court.

11. Accordingly, this application is dismissed as not maintainable. The applicant is at liberty to institute a revision in the concerned revisional court.

12. Office is directed to return the certified copy of the impugned order to the counsel for the applicant.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar Kumar Yadav, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ravindra Prakash Srivastava, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri R.P. Mishra, learned A.G.A. for the State as well as perused the record.

2. The present application has been filed by the applicant- Suneeta Pandey for quashing of the impugned order dated 03.12.2018, whereby the applicant has been summoned to face the trial u/s 376-D, 212 IPC in exercise of power conferred under Section 319 Cr.P.C. as well as entire proceedings of Special Criminal (Sexual) Case No.08 of 2016 (State Vs. Fanindra Mani Ojha alias Dablu and others) arising out of Case Crime No.874 of 2015, under section 376-D & 212 I.P.C., Police Station- Kotwali Bansi, District- Siddharth Nagar, pending in the court of Additional District and Sessions Judge- Ist, Siddharth Nagar with a further prayer to stay the further proceedings of the aforesaid case.

3. As per F.I.R., the incident took place on 24.06.2015 and the F.I.R. was lodged against unknown persons on 28.07.2015 bearing Case Crime No. 874 of 2015, under Sections 363 and 366 I.P.C. alleging therein that someone has enticed away the daughter of the informant aged about 15 years and took her with him.

4. Statement of the victim has been recorded under Section 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. The victim in her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. has stated that applicant was involved in the alleged incident but the applicant was not named in the charge sheet. Thereafter, opposite party no.2 filed an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. for summoning the applicant and the court below vide order dated 03.12.2018 has summoned the applicant to face trial for the offence under Sections 376-D and 212 Cr.P.C. It is this order which is subject matter of challenge before this Court.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that the applicant is a lady hence no offence under Section 376-D I.P.C. is made out against the applicant and she has been wrongly summoned by the trial court. It is further argued that the applicant has been summoned in exercise of powers conferred under Section 319 Cr.P.C. solely relying upon the statement of Victim (P.W-1) as well as some other extraneous documents, which in fact is not sufficient. He contends that in view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, the impugned order under challenge is vitiated by manifest error of law and amounts to blatant miscarriage of justice, and, therefore, is liable to be quashed.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant has further argued that the trial court has grossly erred in summoning the applicant for the offence punishable under Sectin 376-D IPC and Section 212 IPC. It is argued that a woman cannot commit rape and therefore, she cannot be prosecuted for gang rape because woman cannot be said to have an intention to commit rape. In support of his submission, he relied upon a decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Priya Patel Vs. State of M.P. and another, (2006) 3 SCC (Cri.) 96. He has further relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of State of Rajasthan Vs. Hemraj & Another reported in 2009 (12) SCC 402. It is also submitted that the applicant cannot be held guilty even in terms of the explanation to Section 376(2)(g) of IPC.

The extract of Section 375 & 376(2)(g) IPC prior to amendment is as under:-

375. Rape :-A man is said to commit "rape" who, except in the case hereinafter excepted, has sexual intercourse with a woman under circumstances falling under any of the six following descriptions:--

First.Against her will.

Secondly.Without her consent.

Thirdly.--With her consent, when her consent has been obtained by putting her or any person in whom she is interested in fear of death or of hurt.

Fourthly.--With her consent, when the man knows that he is not her husband, and that her consent is given because she believes that he is another man to whom she is or believes herself to be lawfully married.

Fifthly.--With her consent, when, at the time of giving such consent, by reason of unsoundness of mind or intoxication or the administration by him personally or through another of any stupefying or unwholesome substance, she is unable to understand the nature and consequences of that to which she gives consent.

Sixthly.--With or without her consent, when she is under sixteen years of age.

Explanation.--Penetration is sufficient to constitute the sexual intercourse necessary to the offence of rape.

Exception.--Sexual intercourse by a man with his own wife, the wife not being under fifteen years of age, is not rape.]

376. Punishment for rape (1) Whoever, except in the cases provided for by sub-section (1), commits rape shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may be for life or for a term which may extend to ten years and shall also be liable to fine unless the women raped is his own wife and is not under twelve years of age, in which cases, he shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to two years or with fine or with both:

Provided that the court may, for adequate and special reasons to be mentioned in the judgment, impose a sentence of imprisonment for a term of less than seven years.

(2) Whoever,--

xx xx xx xx xx

(g) commits gang rape, shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than ten years but which may be for life and shall also be liable to fine:

Provided that the court may, for adequate and special reasons to be mentioned in the judgment, impose a sentence of imprisonment of either description for a term of less than ten years, Explanation I.--Where a woman is raped by one or more in a group of persons acting in furtherance of their common intention, each of the persons shall be deemed to have committed gang rape within the meaning of this sub-section.

7. On the other hand, learned A.G.A. has opposed the submission of learned counsel for the applicant and submitted that applicant has committed the alleged offence and it cannot be said that being a lady the applicant or a women cannot commit the offence under Section 376-D I.P.C. The judgements relied upon by the learned cousnel for the appicant are of no help as the same are realted to prior to the amendment in the provisions of Sections 375 to 376E IPC.

8. I have considered the submission made by learned counsel for the applicant and the provisions of Section 319 Cr.P.C. and have arrived at a conclusion that no interference is called for in the impugned order. The scope and ambit of Section 319 of the Code have been elucidated in the case of Hardeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab and others, (2014) 3 SCC 92 by the Hon'ble Apex Court. It has been held that, all that is required by the Court for invoking its powers under Section 319 Cr.P.C. is to be satisfied that from the evidence adduced before it, the person against whom no charge had been framed, but whose complicity appears to be clear, should be tried together with the accused. The ratio laid down by the Supreme Court in Hardeep Singh's case has been explained by the Hon. Apex Court in the case Manjeet Singh Vs State of Haryana and others, (2021) SCC Online SC 632. The Supreme Court after noticing its subsequent judgements on the issue, summarized the scope and ambit of the powers of the Court under Section 319 Cr.P.C. and has held that it is only the material collected by the court during the course of inquiry or trial and not the material collected by the investigating agency during the investigation of the case which can be used, while arraigning an additional accused. The Supreme Court has made it clear that the word "evidence" appearing in Section 319 Cr.P.C. means only such evidence as is made before the court in relation to statements and in relation to the documents which can be used by the court for unveiling all facts, other than the material collected during investigation. Of course, the evidence would also include the evidence led during the trial of the case after framing of charges. It is also laid down that besides the evidence recorded during trial, any material that has been received by the court after cognizance is taken and before the trial commences, can be utilised only for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the court to invoke the power under Section 319 of the Cr. P. C.

9. So far as the argument of learned counsel for the aplicant that a woman cannot commit rape and, therefore, she cannot be prosecuted for gang rape is not correct after going through the amended provisions of Section 375 to 376E IPC by Act 13 of 2013 of the Indint Penal Code, 1860.

10. The case of Priya Patel (Supra), was a case of gang rape, where the wife of the appellant facilitated commission of gang rape within the meaning of Section 376(2)(g) IPC. After elaborate discussion on the provisions under Sectin 375 and 376 IPC, it was held therein, amongst other, that a woman cannot be prosecuted for alleged commission of offence of gang rape.

11. However, going through the amended provisions of Section 375 IPC & 376 IPC, the question, whether a female can commit the offence of rape is itself clear by the non-ambiguous language of section 375 of IPC which specifically states that the act of rape can only be done by a "man' and not by "any woman". Therefore, a woman cannot commit rape. But looking through again the amended provision of Section 376-D IPC, which is a distinct and separate offence of Gang Rape-according to which- "Where a woman is raped by "one or more persons' constituting a group or acting in furtherance of a common intention, each of those persons shall be deemed to have comitted the offence of rape and shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than twenty years, but which may extend to life which shall mean imprisonment for the remainder of that persons's natural life, and with fine". Thus, from the language used in Section 376-D IPC, it is seen that in order to establish an offence under Section 376-D IPC, the prosecution has to adduce evidence to indicate that one or more persons had acted in concert and in such an event, if rape had been committed by even one, all the accused will be guilty irrespective of the fact that victim had been raped by one or more of them. In other words this provision embodies a principle of joint liability and the essence of that liability is the existence of common intention that common intention presupposes prior concert which may be determined from the conduct of offenders revealed during the course of action. In such cases, there must be criminal sharing, marking out a certain measure of jointness in the commission of offence. The term "person" used in the Section should not be contrued in a narrow sense. Section 11 I.P.C. defines "person' as it includes any company or association or body of persons whether incorporated or not. The word "person" is also defined in the Shorter Oxford English Dictionary in two ways: firstly, it is defined as "an individual human being" or "a man, woman, or child"; and, secondly, as "the living body of a human being". As such, a women can not commit the offense of rape but if she facilitated the act of rape with a group of people then she may be prosecuted for Gang Rape in view of the amended provisions. Unlike man, a woman can also be held guilty of sexual offences. A woman can also be held guilty of gang rape if she has facilitated the act of rape with a group of person.

12. Keeping in view of the aforesaid facts and law laid down by the Apex Court, I find no scope for interference in the impugned order passed by the trial court at this stage. The application has no force and is accordingly dismissed.

Criminal Law - Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 – Sections 190,202,216, 218 & 228–Addition or subtraction of offences–Permissible only by trial court at time of framing charge–Magistrate cannot add or subtract offences at stage of summoning in case based on police report–Proper stage is framing of charge by trial court–In cases based on private complaints, Magistrate has power to add or subtract sections after conducting inquiry under Sections 190/202 Cr.P.C.–Criminal Procedure Code, 1973–Case based on police report vs complaint case–Separate procedures prescribed–Cannot be overlapped or clubbed together–Order of Magistrate summoning accused under sections not included in chargesheet–Unsustainable and liable to be set aside.

Application dismissed. (E-9)

List of Cases cited:

St. of Guj. Vs Girish Radhakrishnan Varde AIR 2014 Supreme Court 620.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Learned counsel for the applicants is permitted to make necessary correction in the memo of the application during the course of the day.

2. The case is taken up in the revised call.

3. Heard Ms. Jigyasa Singh, learned counsel for the applicant, Mr. Amit Singh Chauhan, learned AGA for the State and perused the records.

4. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed to quash the order passed by learned Sessions Court, Bhadohi-Gyanpur dated 06.06.2019 in Criminal Revision No. 106 of 2018 (Manju Srivastava Vs. State of U.P. and others) as well as summoning order dated 18.10.2022 passed in protest petition by Judicial Magistrate-II, Bhadohi, Gyanpur in Case Crime No. 0125 of 2016, Case No. 5673 of 2016 (State Vs. Tadaknath and others), under sections 302, 427, 447 of Indian Penal Code, Police Station Koirauna, District Bhadohi and the entire criminal proceeding in the aforesaid case crime.

5. This Court without issuing notice to opposite party no. 2, is deciding the issue on purely legal questions in the present matter.

6. The fact of the case is that the opposite party no. 2 has lodged an FIR against the applicants for the offence under section 302, 323, 504, 506, 427 and 447 IPC. After investigation charge sheet has been submitted on 20.09.2016 for the offence under section 323, 504, 506 IPC. Being aggrieved by the charge sheet the opposite party no. 2 filed protest petition as Case No. 5673 of 2016 (Sate Vs. Tadaknath and others) before the concerned Magistrate on 26.10.2016 and the same was opposed by the applicants. The aforesaid petition was dismissed by the learned Judicial Magistrate-II, Bhadohi-Gyanpur vide order dated 02.11.2018, against which the opposite party no. 2 filed revision before the concerned court as Criminal Revision No. 106 of 2018 (Manju Srivastava Vs. State and others). The aforesaid criminal revision was allowed by the learned Sessions Judge, Bhadohi-Gyanpur vide order dated 06.06.2019 and the matter was remanded back to lower court for reconsideration, therefore, the matter was reheard by the concerned Magistrate and vide the order dated 18.10.2022 the protest petition was allowed, summoning the applicants under sections 302, 427 and 447 of Indian Penal Code.

7. Learned counsel for the applicants submits that the Magisrate cannot add or subtract any offence other than the offence for which charge sheet has been filed. The addition or subtraction of any offence is not permissible at the stage of summoning and it is permissible by the trial court only at the time of framing charge. In support of her argument she has relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in Case of State of Gujrat Vs. Girish Radhakrishnan Varde AIR 2014 Supreme Court 620. The relevant portion of the said judgment of the Apex Court reads as follows:-

"14. The question, therefore, emerges as to whether the complainant/informant/prosecution would be precluded from seeking a remedy if the investigating authorities have failed in their duty by not including all the sections of IPC on which offence can be held to have been made out in spite of the facts disclosed in the FIR. The answer obviously has to be in the negative as the prosecution cannot be allowed to suffer prejudice by ignoring exclusion of the sections which constitute the offence if the investigating authorities for any reason whatsoever have failed to include all the offence into the chargesheet based on the FIR on which investigation had been conducted. But then a further question arises as to whether this lacunae can be allowed to be filled in by the magistrate before whom the matter comes up for taking cognizance after submission of the chargesheet and as already stated, the magistrate in a case which is based on a police report cannot add or substract sections at the time of taking cognizance as the same would be permissible by the trial court only at the time of framing of charge under section 216, 218 or under section 228 of the Cr.P.C. as the case may be which means that after submission of the chargesheet it will be open for the prosecution to contend before the appropriate trial court at the stage of framing of charge to establish that on the given state of facts the appropriate sections which according to the prosecution should be framed can be allowed to be framed. Simultaneously, the accused also has the liberty at this stage to submit whether the charge under a particular provision should be framed or not and this is the appropriate forum in a case based on police report to determine whether the charge can be framed and a particular section can be added or removed depending upon the material collected during investigation as also the facts disclosed in the FIR and the chargesheet.

15. In the alternative, if a case is based on a complaint lodged before the magistrate under Section 190 or 202 Cr.P.C., the magistrate has been conferred with full authority and jurisdiction to conduct an enquiry into the complaint and thereafter arrive at a conclusion whether cognizance is fit to be taken on the basis of the sections mentioned in the complaint or further sections were to be added or substracted. The Cr.P.C. has clearly engrafted the two channels delineating the powers of the magistrate to conduct an enquiry in a complaint case and police investigation based on the basis of a case registered at a police station where the investigating authorities of the police conducts investigation under Chapter XII and there is absolutely no ambiguity in regard to these procedures.

16. In spite of this unambiguous course of action to be adopted in a case based on police report under Chapter XII and a magisterial complaint under Chapter XIV and XV, when it comes to application of the provisions of the Cr.P.C. in a given case, the affected parties appear to be bogged down often into a confused state of affairs as it has happened in the instant matter since the magisterial powers which is to deal with a case based on a complaint before the magistrate and the police powers based on a police report/FIR has been allowed to overlap and the two separate course of actions are sought to be clubbed which is not the correct procedure as it is not in consonance with the provisions of the Cr.P.C. The affected parties have to apprise themselves that if a case is registered under Section 154 Cr.P.C. by the police based on the FIR and the chargesheet is submitted after investigation, obviously the correct stage as to which sections would apply on the basis of the FIR and the material collected during investigation culminating into the chargesheet, would be determined only at the time framing of charge before the appropriate trial court. In the alternative, if the case arises out of a complaint lodged before the Magistrate, then the procedure laid down under Sections 190 and 200 of the Cr. P.C. clearly shall have to be followed.

17. Since the instant case is based on the FIR lodged before the police, the correct stage for addition or substraction of the Sections will have to be determined at the time of framing of charge. But the learned single Judge of the High Court in the impugned judgment and order has not assigned reasons with accuracy and clarity for doing so and has made a casual observation by recording that the Trial Court at the appropriate stage will have the power to determine as to which provision is to be applied before the matter is finally sent for trial. The fall out of the Order of the High Court is that the prosecution represented by the appellant -State of Gujarat might be rendered remedy less as setting aside of the order of the Magistrate is likely to give rise to a situation where the prosecution would be left with no remedy for rectification or appreciation of the plea as to whether inclusion or exclusion of additional charges could be permitted. In fact, while upholding the order of the learned Additional District & Sessions Judge, the High Court has further overlooked the fact that the Additional District & Sessions Judge before whom revision was filed against the order of the Chief Judicial Magistrate, could have allowed the revision on the ground of erroneous exercise of jurisdiction by the Chief Judicial Magistrate who permitted to add three more Sections into the chargesheet. But the Additional District & Sessions Judge instead of doing so has straightway quashed the order passed by the Magistrate instead of confining itself to consideration of the question regarding error of jurisdiction and laying down the correct course to be adopted by the magistrate. In fact, the correct course of action should have been laid down by the High Court as also the learned Additional District & Sessions Judge by permitting the appellant - State of Gujarat to raise the question of addition of charges at the time of framing of charge under Section 228 of the Cr. P.C. and should not have passed a blanket order setting aside the order of the Magistrate without laying down the correct course of action to be adopted by the affected parties with the result that three orders came to be passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Additional District & Sessions Judge and the learned Single Judge of the High Court, yet it could not resolve the controversy by highlighting the appropriate course of action to be adopted by the prosecution-State of Gujarat as also the magistrate which permitted addition of sections after submission of chargesheet missing out that the matter did not arise out of a complaint case lodged before the magistrate but a case which arose out of a police report/FIR in a Police Station."

8. Learned AGA could not dispute the aforesaid legal position that the concerned Magistrate cannot entertain the protest petition and summon the applicants under sections in which the charge sheet has not been submitted.

9. In view of the above the summoning order dated 18.10.2022 passed in protest petition by Judicial Magistrate-II, Bhadohi, Gyanpur in Case Crime No. 0125 of 2016, Case No. 5673 of 2016 (State Vs. Tadaknath and others), under sections 302, 427, 447 of Indian Penal Code, Police Station Koirauna, District Bhadohi is hereby set aside.

10. However, the learned Magistrate is at liberty to consider the matter to take cognizance of other offence against the accused at the time of framing of charges.

11. With the aforesaid direction the application is, accordingly, allowed. There shall be no order as to costs.

2. Shamsher Singh Verma Vs St. of Har., (2016) 15 SCC 485

3. Manu Sharma Vs State (2010) 6 SCC 1

4. V.K. Sasikala Vs State, (2012) 9 SCC 771

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saumitra Dayal Singh, J.)

1. Heard Shri Sudarshan Singh, learned counsel for the applicant and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. Challenge has been raised to the order dated 21.11.2022 passed by the learned court below on Paper No. 10-Kha in Session Trial No. 699 of 2022 (State Vs. Prashant Jaiswal), arising out of Case Crime No. 54 of 2021, under Sections - 376, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. By that order, the learned court below has rejected the application moved by the applicant/accused person. It has thus refused to make available to the applicant a clone copy of the data available on a pen drive submitted by the Investigating Officer as part of the case diary.

3. Submission of learned counsel for the applicant is, the clone copy of the pen drive is necessary to be provided to the applicant to allow him a fair opportunity to confront the prosecution witness with certain parts thereof. Inasmuch as the data on that pen drive is not material referable to Section 173 (6) of the Cr.P.C., rather, it appears to be data referable to section 173 (5) Cr.P.C., the accused has a perfect right to be supplied a copy of the same in the interests of a fair trial which is directly referable to his fundamental right.

4. As to the reasoning offered by the learned court below, it has been submitted, grave error has been committed by it in assuming a violation of privacy of the victim, if the data on the pen drive is made available to the applicant. In the context, violation of fundamental right of the applicant to a fair trial, he would submit, the concerns of privacy may have been addressed by the learned court below by providing for restrains on the applicant from making public, any part of the data that may be thus made available to the applicant. In any case, a full transcript of the audio transaction ought to have been provided to the applicant. Last, it has been submitted, playback of the audio recording once, may not be enough to allow the applicant and his counsel a full and fair opportunity to formulate the exact questions to be put to the prosecution witness. The right of the defence cannot be curtailed on a vague and nebulous concern regarding privacy of the alleged victim. If allowed, it may seriously impair the impartiality and fairness of the trial proceedings, to the grave prejudice of the applicant.

5. On the other hand, the learned AGA would submit, at present it is not clear if the prosecution has relied and any part of the data/audio transaction claimed to be recorded on the pen-drive. Unless that were done first, the applicant cannot claim a right to be made available such document/material.

6. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the record, section 173(5) and (6) and section 207 Cr.P.C. read as under:

"173. Report of police officer on completion of investigation.-

(5) When such report is in respect of a case to which section 170 applies, the police officer shall forward to the Magistrate along with the report-

(a) all documents or relevant extracts thereof on which the prosecution proposes to rely other than those already sent to the Magistrate during investigation;

(b)the statements recorded under section 161 of all the persons whom the prosecution proposes to examine as its witnesses.

(6) If the police officer is of opinion that any part of any such statement is not relevant to the subject- matter of the proceedings or that its disclosure to the accused is not essential in the interests of justice and is inexpedient in the public interest, he shall indicate that part of the statement and append a note requesting the Magistrate to exclude that part from the copies to be granted to the accused and stating his reasons for making such request.

207. Supply to the accused of copy of police report and other documents.-

In any case where the proceeding has been instituted on a police report, the Magistrate shall without delay furnish to the accused, free of cost, a copy of each of the following:-

(i)the police report;

(ii)the first information report recorded under section 154;

(iii) The statements recorded under sub- section (3) of section 161 of all persons whom the prosecution proposes to examine as its witnesses, excluding therefrom any part in regard to which a request for such exclusion has been made by the police officer under sub- section (6) of section 173;

(iv) The confessions and statements, if any, recorded under section 164;

(v) any other document or relevant extract thereof forwarded to the Magistrate with the police report under sub- section (5) of section 173:

Provided that the Magistrate may, after perusing any such part of a statement as is referred to in clause (iii) and considering the reasons given by the police officer for the request, direct that a copy of that part of the statement or of such portion thereof as the Magistrate thinks proper, shall be furnished to the accused:

Provided further that if the Magistrate is satisfied that any document referred to in clause (v) is voluminous, he shall, instead of furnishing the accused with a copy thereof, direct that he will only be allowed to inspect it either personally or through pleader in Court."

7. In P. GopalKrishnan @ Dileep Vs. State of Kerala and Another, (2020) 9 SCC 161 in the context of material/evidence available on electronic media, the Supreme Court had observed as below:-

" In conclusion, we hold that the contents of the memory card/pen drive being electronic record must be regarded as a document. If the prosecution is relying on the same, ordinarily, the accused must be given a cloned copy thereof to enable him/her to present an effective defence during the trial. However, in cases involving issues such as of privacy of the complainant/witness or his/her identity, the Court may be justified in providing only inspection thereof to the accused and his/her lawyer or expert for presenting effective defence during the trial. The Court may issue suitable directions to balance the interests of both sides"

8. Thus, by way of principle, it has to be recognized, material/evidence available on a pen drive/electronic form is a document. In Shamsher Singh Verma Vs. State of Haryana, (2016) 15 SCC 485, it was recognized, a compact disc is a document. Then, being material referable to Section 173(5) Cr.P.C. and not Section 173(6) Cr.P.C., it may be supplied to the accused person as a clone copy of the original. Also, under Section 207 Cr.P.C., the right of the accused to be supplied "any other document or relevant extract thereof forwarded to the Magistrate with the police report under Sub-Section (5) of Section 173 Cr.P.C." may ordinarily be curtailed only if it is voluminous. In that case the Magistrate may allow its inspection instead of supply of a complete copy. The distinction between Section 173 and Section 207 Cr.P.C. was clarified in Manu Sharma Vs. State (2010) 6 SCC 1. Therein, it was observed:

"219. The role and obligation of the Prosecutor particularly in relation to disclosure cannot be equated under our law to that prevalent under the English system as aforereferred to. But at the same time, the demand for a fair trial cannot be ignored. It may be of different consequences where a document which has been obtained suspiciously, fraudulently or by causing undue advantage to the accused during investigation such document could be denied in the discretion of the Prosecutor to the accused whether the prosecution relies or not upon such documents, however in other cases the obligation to disclose would be more certain. As already noticed the provisions of Section 207 have a material bearing on this subject and make an interesting reading. This provision not only require or mandate that the court without delay and free of cost should furnish to the accused copies of the police report, first information report, statements, confessional statements of the persons recorded under Section 161 whom the prosecution wishes to examine as witnesses, of course, excluding any part of a statement or document as contemplated under Section 173(6) of the Code, any other document or relevant extract thereof which has been submitted to the Magistrate by the police under sub-section (5) of Section 173. In contradistinction to the provisions of Section 173, where the legislature has used the expression "documents on which the prosecution relies" are not used under Section 207 of the Code. Therefore, the provisions of Section 207 of the Code will have to be given liberal and relevant meaning so as to achieve its object. Not only this, the documents submitted to the Magistrate along with the report under Section 173(5) would deem to include the documents which have to be sent to the Magistrate during the course of investigation as per the requirement of Section 170(2) of the Code.

220. The right of the accused with regard to disclosure of documents is a limited right but is codified and is the very foundation of a fair investigation and trial. On such matters, the accused cannot claim an indefeasible legal right to claim every document of the police file or even the portions which are permitted to be excluded from the documents annexed to the report under Section 173(2) as per orders of the court. But certain rights of the accused flow both from the codified law as well as from equitable concepts of the constitutional jurisdiction, as substantial variation to such procedure would frustrate the very basis of a fair trial. To claim documents within the purview of scope of Sections 207, 243 read with the provisions of Section 173 in its entirety and power of the court under Section 91 of the Code to summon documents signifies and provides precepts which will govern the right of the accused to claim copies of the statement and documents which the prosecution has collected during investigation and upon which they rely.

221. It will be difficult for the Court to say that the accused has no right to claim copies of the documents or request the Court for production of a document which is part of the general diary subject to satisfying the basic ingredients of law stated therein. A document which has been obtained bona fide and has bearing on the case of the prosecution and in the opinion of the Public Prosecutor, the same should be disclosed to the accused in the interest of justice and fair investigation and trial should be furnished to the accused. Then that document should be disclosed to the accused giving him chance of fair defence, particularly when non-production or disclosure of such a document would affect administration of criminal justice and the defence of the accused prejudicially.

222. The concept of disclosure and duties of the Prosecutor under the English system cannot, in our opinion, be made applicable to the Indian criminal jurisprudence stricto sensu at this stage. However, we are of the considered view that the doctrine of disclosure would have to be given somewhat expanded application. As far as the present case is concerned, we have already noticed that no prejudice had been caused to the right of the accused to fair trial and non-furnishing of the copy of one of the ballistic reports had not hampered the ends of justice. Some shadow of doubt upon veracity of the document had also been created by the prosecution and the prosecution opted not to rely upon this document. In these circumstances, the right of the accused to disclosure has not received any setback in the facts and circumstances of the case. The accused even did not raise this issue seriously before the trial court."

9. Also, in V.K. Sasikala Vs. State, (2012) 9 SCC 771, as issue arose if at the stage of Section 313 Cr.P.C. an accused was entitled to documents not relied by the prosecution. Even such documents were permitted to be examined by the defence. It was then observed:

"13. Without dilating on the said aspect of the matter what has to be taken note of now are the provisions of the Code that deal with a situation/stage after completion of the investigation of a case. In this regard the provisions of Section 173(5) may be specifically noted. The said provision makes it incumbent on the investigating agency to forward/transmit to the court concerned all documents/statements, etc. on which the prosecution proposes to rely in the course of the trial. Section 173(5), however, is subject to the provisions of Section 173(6) which confers a power on the investigating officer to request the court concerned to exclude any part of the statement or documents forwarded under Section 173(5) from the copies to be granted to the accused.

14. The court having jurisdiction to deal with the matter, on receipt of the report and the accompanying documents under Section 173, is next required to decide as to whether cognizance of the offence alleged is to be taken in which event summons for the appearance of the accused before the court is to be issued. On such appearance, under Section 207 CrPC, the court concerned is required to furnish to the accused copies of the following documents:

1. The police report;

2. The first information report recorded under Section 154;

3. The statements recorded under sub-section (3) of Section 161 of all persons whom the prosecution proposes to examine as its witnesses, excluding therefrom any part in regard to which a request for such exclusion has been made by the police officer under sub-section (6) of Section 173;

4. The confessions and statements, if any, recorded under Section 164;

5. Any other document or relevant extract thereof forwarded to the Magistrate with the police report under sub-section (5) of Section 173.

15. While the first proviso to Section 207 empowers the court to exclude from the copies to be furnished to the accused such portions as may be covered by Section 173(6), the second proviso to Section 207 empowers the court to provide to the accused an inspection of the documents instead of copies thereof, if, in the opinion of the court it is not practicable to furnish to the accused the copies of the documents because of the voluminous content thereof. We would like to emphasise, at this stage, that while referring to the aforesaid provisions of the Code, we have deliberately used the expression "court" instead of the expression "Magistrate" as under various special enactments the requirement of commitment of a case to a higher court (Court of Session) by the Magistrate as mandated by the Code has been dispensed with and the Special Courts constituted under a special statute have been empowered to receive the report of the investigation along with the relevant documents directly from the investigating agency and thereafter to take cognizance of the offence, if so required.

17. Seizure of a large number of documents in the course of investigation of a criminal case is a common feature. After completion of the process of investigation and before submission of the report to the court under Section 173 CrPC, a fair amount of application of mind on the part of the investigating agency is inbuilt in the Code. Such application of mind is both with regard to the specific offence(s) that the investigating officer may consider to have been committed by the accused and also the identity and particulars of the specific documents and records, seized in the course of investigation, which supports the conclusion of the investigating officer with regard to the offence(s) allegedly committed. Though it is only such reports which support the prosecution case that are required to be forwarded to the Court under Section 173(5) in every situation where some of the seized papers and documents do not support the prosecution case and, on the contrary, supports the accused, a duty is cast on the investigating officer to evaluate the two sets of documents and materials collected and, if required, to exonerate the accused at that stage itself. However, it is not impossible to visualise a situation whether the investigating officer ignores the part of the seized documents which favour the accused and forwards to the court only those documents which support the prosecution. If such a situation is pointed by the accused and such documents have, in fact, been forwarded to the court would it not be the duty of the court to make available such documents to the accused regardless of the fact whether the same may not have been marked and exhibited by the prosecution? What would happen in a situation where such documents are not forwarded by the investigating officer to the court is a question that does not arise in the present case. What has arisen before us is a situation where evidently the unmarked and unexhibited documents of the case that are being demanded by the accused had been forwarded to the court under Section 173(5) but are not being relied upon by the prosecution. Though the prosecution has tried to cast some cloud on the issue as to whether the unmarked and unexhibited documents are a part of the report under Section 173 CrPC, it is not denied by the prosecution that the said unmarked and unexhibited documents are presently in the custody of the court. Besides, the accused in her application before the learned trial court (IA No. 711 of 2012) had furnished specific details of the said documents and had correlated the same with reference to specific seizure lists prepared by the investigating agency. In such circumstances, it can be safely assumed that what has happened in the present case is that along with the report of investigation a large number of documents have been forwarded to the court out of which the prosecution has relied only on a part thereof leaving the remainder unmarked and unexhibited."

10. Thus, only by way of exception to the general rule, it may be recognized, the Court may be justified to allow for a simple inspection of the documents being relied upon by the prosecution. Statutorily, those exception may arise under section 207(iii) read with section 173(6) Cr.P.C. and section 207(v) read with Section 173(5) Cr.P.C. At the same time, by virtue of the first proviso to section 207, the Magistrate retains discretion to allow any part or portion of the statement to be furnished to the accused, in such event. Also, by virtue of the second proviso to section 207, the Magistrate may only allow inspection of any document (covered by Section 176(5) of the Cr.P.C.), if it is voluminous.

11. Then, by virtue of the ratio of the decision of the Supreme Court in P. Gopal Krishnan (supra), where issues of privacy of the complainant/witness or his/her identity may be involved as may require balancing of interests of both sides, the Magistrate may only allow for an inspection of a document in place of its whole copy being supplied.

12. Thus, denial of complete copy of a document is an exception to the general rule namely, the accused has a right to be made available the material. To carve an exception to the rule, their must exist just and proper grounds. Those may emanate either from Section 173(6) Cr.P.C. when the police officer may have formed an opinion that disclosure of any statement is either not relevant or its disclosure is not essential in the interest of justice or is inexpedient in the public interest. Yet, by virtue of the first proviso to Section 207 the opinion and the reasons (giving rise to it) would remain subservient to the better wisdom of the learned Magistrate. At that stage, the learned Magistrate may, instead of the entire statement or document, allow for a part or portion of it to be made over to the accused. Second, if the document not covered under Section 173(5) Cr.P.C. is voluminous, then, for that reason the learned Magistrate may allow for its extract to be made over to the accused.

13. Seen in that light, clearly, the exception carved out by the Supreme Court in P. Gopal Krishnan (Supra), is referable to the first proviso to Section 207 Cr.P.C. being not in the interest of justice or inexpedient in public interest. However, that decision to be made by the Magistrate being discretionary, would have to be exercised on a judicious application of mind to the particular/peculiar facts giving rise to serious concerns about violation of privacy etc.

14. When the Court seeks to deny an accused person material gathered during investigation and proposes to only allow him an opportunity to peruse the same from the Court record, the Court is taking a decision that may, potentially have a material being on the fairness and completeness of the trial as also its final outcome. Also, that decision if based on or inspired by reason to protect the privacy of another individual must be well reasoned, both on facts and in law.

15. Therefore, before the Court may do that, it must itself examine the material to be sure that the interest to protect the privacy of a complainant or witness etc. outweighs the requirement to make available to the accused person, the material being relied against him. In that, it may also speak to the concerned witness/complainant and ascertain his views. If necessary, it may entertain formal objections and reply thereto and pass such order as may balance the rights and interests of both sides, without risk of impairing the fairness of trial of proceedings.

16. In the present case that exercise does not appear to have been undergone by the learned court below. It has merely considered the application moved by the applicant and the general concern expressed by the prosecution. If the Court had itself examined the material and thereafter proceeded to pass the order, that decision would have been founded on facts and would have addressed the genuine concerns of the parties. In that the Court may also have considered if supply of a transcript of the conversation or any portion or part thereof may serve the need of the defence. Certainly, the volume of the document is not an issue here as the entire document would fit on a pen drive.

17. The reasoning of the learned court below based on Section 327 Cr.P.C. may not be correct. That provision basically requires the trial such as this (involving offence under section 376 IPC), to be conducted in camera. Sub-section (3) of section 327 Cr.P.C. prohibits printing or publication of any matter in relation to such proceeding, except with leave of the Court. Plainly, that provision would have no application to the request of the accused person to be made available copy the document existing on the case diary for the purpose of setting up a defence. That provision applies primarily against printing or publication by third party, outside the Court proceedings. In any case, by virtue of Section 327 Cr.P.C., it would remain with the Court to restrain the accused person from making any publication, through any means of any part of such material, outside the Court proceedings.

18. Further another defect appears to exist in the order learned court below inasmuch as in the earlier part of the order it has been suggested that the copy of the desired document had already been made over to the applicant. That part of the reasoning would conflict with the later reasoning that such clone copy of pen-drive is not required to be given to the accused person, arising from concerns of privacy of the victim.

19. Whichever way the matter is looked at, at present the order passed by the learned court below is found to be deficient in reasoning. In view of the discussion made above, the said order cannot be sustained. It is set aside. The matter is remitted to the learned court below to pass a fresh order, keeping in mind the observation made above. Such exercise may be completed within one month from the date of communication of the order to the learned court below.

20. Accordingly, the present application is disposed of.

List of Cases cited:

Rohit Vs St. of U.P. through Secy. Home Lko. , Bail No.8227 of 2021

(Delivered by Hon'ble Brij Raj Singh, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Rajesh Kumar Singh learned AGA for the State.

2. Present application for bail is filed by the applicant to enlarge him on bail in case crime No.434 of 2023 under Section 376, 323, 506 IPC and 3/4 of Protection of Children from Sexual Offence Act, PS Hargaon, district Sitapur.

3. Two questions before this Court emerged in the case bearing Bail No.8227 of 2021 (Rohit. Vs. State of U.P. through Secy. Home Lko.):

"(i) whether the complainant or any person on behalf of the child victim is to be made a party to the proceedings; and

(ii) if any such person is to be made opposite party in the bail application, what should be the mode of service upon such a person, as the Court is required to ensure that the identity of the child victim is not disclosed at any time during the course of investigation or trial."

4 The Court while discussing the aforesaid two issue, has passed the detailed order and the Court has opined in paragraph-10 of the said case that entitlement of legal assistance through a counsel of their choice is mandatory and also second question has been answered by the Coordinate Bench. While issuing directions, the Court has passed the order that legal assistance is required and the concerned SHO/Special Juvenile Police Unit (SJPU) will inform the victim or the complainant of the case. The relevant paragraphs of the said judgment in the case of Rohit (supra) are quoted below:-

"10. A perusal of Section 40 of the POCSO Act, if made cursorily, would only indicate that it provides entitlement of legal assistance through a counsel of their choice or through Legal Services Authority, to the family or guardian of the child. However, such legal assistance would be meaningless if the family or guardian of the child is not aware of the said legal proceedings. A proper and effective legal assistance can be given to a person only when such a person is made aware of the pending proceedings. If the person is not made aware of the proceedings, no legal assistance can be given to him.

11. The Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Rules, 2020 (for short "the Rules of 2020') are framed to give effect to the purpose of the POCSO Act. Rules 4(13) and 4(15) relevant for the purpose of this case, which read:

"4. Procedure regarding care and protection of child-

(13) It shall be the responsibility of the SIPU, or the local police to keep the child and child's parent or guardian or other person in whom the child has trust and confidence, and where a support person has been assigned, such person, informed about the developments, including the arrest of the accused, applications filed and Court proceedings.

(14) .....

(15) The information to be provided by the SJPU, local police, or support person, to the child and child's parents or guardian or other person in whom the child has trust and confidence, includes but is not limited to the following: -

(i) the availability of public and private emergency and crisis services; (ii) the procedural steps involved in a criminal prosecution;

(iii) the availability of victim's compensation benefits;

(iv) the status of the investigation of the crime, to the extent it is appropriate to inform the victim and to the extent that it will not interfere with the investigation;

(v) the arrest of a suspected offender;

(vi) the filing of charges against a suspected offender;

(vii) the schedule of Court proceedings that the child is either required to attend or is entitled to attend;

(viii) the bail, release or detention status of an offender or suspected offender;

(ix) the rendering of a verdict after trial; and

(x) the sentence imposed on an offender.

X X X

13. Therefore, from the reading of Section 40 of POCSO Act as well as Rule 4(13) and 4(15) of the Rules of 2020, it is clear that this Court is required to ensure that the SJUP or the local police informs the family or guardian of the child and also provide them legal assistance as required with regard to all proceedings, including the bail applications filed by the accused. Thus, it is necessary to implead the complainant, and in case the complainant is not a family member or guardian of the child, then the family member or guardian of the child as opposite party along with the complainant in the bail applications filed before this Court.

14. There is yet another reason to serve notice of the bail application in every POCSO offence case upon the parent/guardian of the child. A perusal of provisions of POCSO Act and Rules of 2020 casts a duty upon every person involved with the matter including the courts to provide circumstance and atmosphere wherein the victim child and his family feels safe and secure. Providing complete knowledge of judicial proceeding and opportunity to participate in the same would be a step in right direction in making the victim child and his family to maintain its faith in the justice delivery system of the society and thus feel safe and secure.

X X X

18. Notice in every case shall be served through Investigating Officer/S.H.O. of the Police Station concerned upon such complainant and/or parent/guardian of the child. The Investigating Officer/S.H.O. of the Police Station concerned shall ensure that identity of the child does not get disclosed in any manner whatsoever during investigation, trial or during service of notice.

X X X

22. Every notice issued to the complainant or to the family/guardian of the child shall also include the aforesaid details in Hindi language to enable him, in case he so desires, to take assistance from the Legal Services Authority."

5. Sri Rajesh Kumar Singh learned AGA-I has made submissions that Section 40 of the POCSO Act, 2012 is statutory mandate which envisages that the victim has right to represent her cause before the Court. Section 40 of the POCSO Act is quoted below:-

"40. Right of child to take assistance of experts, etc.- Subject to the proviso to section 301 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), the family or the guardian of the child shall be entitled to the assistance of a legal counsel of their choice for any offence under this Act:

Provided that if the family or the guardian of the child are unable to afford a legal counsel, the Legal Services Authority shall provide a lawyer to them."

6. On specific query I have been informed by the Sri Rajesh Kumar Singh, learned AGA-I that as soon as notice is received by the Office of the GA, the information is sent to the concerned police station and the concerned police station informs the victim or the complainant as the case may be. However, he has submitted that while giving information, the police informs the complainant/victim that the case is filed in High Court, and this is only information given to the victim or the family member. It is the practice that after ten days of notice, the applications are filed but the victim or the family member does not know the date fixed by the Court only the notice number registered in the G.A. Office is informed without further details of the number of the application registered in the Office of High Court.

7. Section 40 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offence Act mandates that right of a child to take assistance of a legal practitioner is necessary and I am of the opinion that specific date fixed in the registered application filed in High Court should be informed to the complainant or the victim as the case may be. In my opinion applying the principles of audi alteram partem coupled with Section 40 of the POCSO Act I am of the view that notice is liable to be issued to the complainant/victim.

8. Therefore, I issue notice to O.P. No.2 returnable on or before the date fixed.

9. List this case on 10.4.2023 within top 20 cases.

10. Before parting with the case, I appreciate the legal assistance provided by Sri Rajesh Kumar Singh, learned AGA-I.

RIVAL CONTENTIONS:-

4. Learned counsel for the applicant has stated that the niece of the applicant namely, Priyanka D/o Lalit Kumar had solemnized a love marriage with one Vipul Kumar many years ago. The applicant had opposed the said love marriage of his niece Priyanka. With the passage of time, the brother of the applicant i.e. father of Priyanka accepted the said love marriage of his daughter and his relations with her husband Vipul Kumar became cordial thereon. Learned counsel has further stated that the said Vipul Kumar, husband of his niece is having criminal antecedents as in all, nine cases are pending against him at various places in West UP and Udham Singh Nagar, Uttarakhand. The said son-in-law, Vipul Kumar, tried his best to grab the ancestral property of the applicant and his brothers. Learned counsel has further stated that the aforesaid complaint has been filed at the behest of the said niece and her husband Vipul Kumar just to pressurize the applicant, so that he may not hinder them in getting the property of the applicant transferred to him.

5. Learned counsel has further stated that the complainant herein had moved an application alongwith the affidavit before the trial court on 20.4.2017 to not to proceed against the accused applicant as the person who had committed rape with her was some other person with the same name Pratap Singh. The said application is annexed as Annexure-12 to the affidavit. Learned counsel has further stated that the complainant and her husband Dulli Singh had moved an application supported with the affidavit before the trial court on 17.1.2018 stating therein that the statement of the complainant recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. on record of the trial court is false as the same has been recorded at the instance of Priyanka and her husband Vipul. 7. Learned counsel has further stated that the trial court on 3.8.2018 had passed an order asking the complainant to issue process against each accused person as she had levelled allegations against two different persons with same name Pratap Singh. The said order of the trial court was challenged by the complainant before the revisional court in Criminal Revision No. 245 of 2018 and the same was dismissed on merits.

Learned counsel has submitted that the applicant had lodged an FIR at police station, Kashipur District Udham Singh Nagar, Uttarakhand under Sections 386, 388, 389 and 120-B IPC against the complainant and she was arrested as accused and her statement was recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. wherein the complainant has categorically stated that the applicant and Sushil had not committed any kind of sexual assault with her and a false case has been filed against them.

10. Learned counsel has further argued that after thorough investigation, a charge sheet was submitted against four accused persons including the complainant.

11. Learned counsel has further submitted that the complainant herein is used to filing frivolous FIRs as she had filed an FIR at P.S. Gajraula, District J.P. Nagar, under Sections 452, 342, 506 IPC and 3(2)(Va) SC/ST Act at Case Crime No. 169 of 2018. It has been stated that in the said FIR, a closure report was filed by the police and even the complainant had filed the application before the Magistrate concerned to accept the said closure report which was accepted by it on 14.7.2018. Another witness produced in the present complaint case namely, Sumit Kumar, had also lodged an FIR No. 273 of 2019, at P.S. Kotwali Mandi, District Saharanpur under Sections 328 and 506 IPC, in which also, the closure report was filed and he had filed a protest petition to the said closure report. Despite the said protest petition dated 23.11.2020 the court was pleased to accept the closure report vide order dated 20.2.2021. Another close friend of the complainant, Smt. Usha had also filed an FIR at P.S. Simbhaoli, District Hapur as FIR No. 308 of 2019 in which the final report has been submitted before the trial court, which is pending adjudication. The said Vipul Kumar had also filed a complaint case against the applicant in the court of A.C.J.M.-I, Bijnor on 16.3.2020, which was dismissed vide order dated 4.3.2021 by the trial court. Learned counsel has next stated that all the cases against the applicant have been filed out of vengeance and the parties are inimical to each other and there are various cases and cross cases filed against each other.

12. Learned counsel has next stated that the applicant has a criminal history of five cases, which has been explained. He has placed reliance on the judgements of the Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 577 of 2017 (Arising out of SLP (Crl.) No. 287 of 2017 and State of Haryana and others vs. Bhajan Lal and others 1992 Supp (1) Supreme Court Cases 335.

13. Per contra, learned counsel for the complainant, Sri Mehul Khare, has vehemently opposed the bail application and has stated that the applicant has not come with clean hands as he had challenged the summoning order by filing a Application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. No. 13983 of 2017. The said petition was dismissed by this Court vide order dated 5.5.2017.

14. Learned counsel has next stated that another application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. No. 42944 of 2017 was also filed before the applicant which was again dismissed. Learned counsel has further stated that the applicant had filed a special leave petition before the Supreme Court which was also dismissed vide order dated 6.4.2018.

15. Learned counsel for the complainant has stated that applicant is a powerful person of the locality. Learned counsel has also stated that NBW was issued against the applicant on 2.3.2021 and the proceedings under Section 82 and 83 Cr.P.C. have been completed against the applicant. The applicant is not entitled for anticipatory bail in light of the judgement of this Court passed in Shivam vs. State of U.P. and another reported in AirOnline 2021 All 484, and also the fact that the applicant is having criminal antecedents. The allegations in FIR are serious in nature.

16. The aforesaid case is squarely covered by paragraph 45 of the judgement of this Court passed in Shivam vs. State of U.P. and another (supra), as it is an admitted fact that the applicant had agitated the provisions of Section 482 Cr.P.C. at this Court twice and failed. Paragraph 45 of the judgement is being quoted hereinbelow:-

"45) When the anticipatory bail is sought by an accused after submission of charge-sheet against him, the following particulars are required to be given in the anticipatory bail application to arrive at correct conclusion whether the charge-sheet submitted against the accused can withstand the requirements of law of investigation as considered above and also the consideration made by the Apex Court in various judgements in this regard :-

(i) The charge-sheet along with the entire material collected by the Investigating Officer should be made part of the anticipatory bail application;

(ii) Clear pleading with reference to the material on record should be made stating under which sub-paragraph of paragraph 41 stated hereinabove, the case of the applicant is covered;

(iii) Clear pleading should also be made that the case of the applicant is not barred by paragraph 43 mentioned aforesaid;

(iv) There should be clear averment in the affidavit in support of the anticipatory bail application that the applicant has not challenged the charge-sheet before this Court in any proceeding;

(v) In case the applicant has approached this Court by way of any other proceedings after submission of charge-sheet and has obtained any order in any proceedings, the same shall be disclosed in the anticipatory bail application; and (vi) Clear pleading should be made in the anticipatory bail application that after submission of charge-sheet, the applicant has not approached any court and no such proceeding is pending."

17. The N.B.W. and proceedings under Sections 82 and 83 Cr.P.C. are already complete and the applicant is having criminal antecedents to his credit. The allegations against the applicant are of serious nature. The case law of Bhajan Lal (supra) do not apply to the present case.

18. On due consideration to the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties and considering the nature of accusations and antecedents of the applicant and the case laws produced by learned counsel for applicant, I do not find that the applicant is entitled to be released on anticipatory bail in this case.

19. In view of the above, the anticipatory bail application of the applicant is rejected.

Prem Shankar Prasad Vs St. of Bihar , Criminal Appeal No. 1209 of 2021

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suresh Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant, learned A.G.A. for the State and learned counsel for the first informant.

2. The present application under Section 438 Cr.P.C. has been filed by the applicant seeking anticipatory bail apprehending arrest in Case Crime No. 460 of 2017, under Sections-419/420/467/468/471 IPC, Police Station Jaswant Nagar, District Etawah.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that the applicant is innocent and has falsely been implicated in the present case. Learned counsel further submits that as per the allegations in the FIR that the first informant is the owner and in actual physical possession over the Araji Gata No. 151/1 measuring area 0.5320 hectare out of 2.3960 hectare situated at Mauja Rajmau, Tehsil- Jawant Nagar, Etawah and her name is duly recorded in the Revenue Records. With intention to grab her property, the applicant has executed an agreement to sale to one anonymous lady Prabha Devi, W/o Ramchandra and thereafter on 21.4.2017, he has executed sale deed in her favour and as such, on the basis of forged and fictitious sale deed the applicant wanted to grab the property of the first informant.

4. The counsel for the applicant further submits that the whole prosecution story is totally false and concocted. The applicant purchased the land from one Prabha Devi, W/o Ramchandra after verifying the revenue records. The first agreement to sale was executed between the parties till then there was no dispute raised by anyone with regard to the property in question. At present, the applicant is in actual physical possession of the property in question and when she started to raise construction thereon for her hospital, the first informant demanded hush money. The first informant is a prominent lady and was the Village Pradhan of the erstwhile session and when the applicant refused to do so, then the first informant lodged the FIR on the basis of false and fictitious grounds with allegations that the sale deed was executed through impersonation. It is further submitted that the actual name of the first informant is Kanthsri @ Prabha Devi, W/o Ramchandra @ Rambabu. Thereafter the first informant filed civil suit for cancellation of sale deed of the property in question by means of Original Suit No. 433/2017 which is pending before the Civil Judge (J.D.), Etawah. In fact, the applicant herself subjected to a fraud committed by the first informant herself against which the applicant herself lodged an FIR registered as case crime no. 484/2017, U/s 420/406/467/468 against the first informant and others on 2.7.2017.

5. The learned counsel for the applicant further submits that the applicant is the bonafide purchaser. Earlier after filing of the charge-sheet against the applicant, she approached this Court by means of Application U/s 482 CrPC No. 25709 of 2019 which is still pending before this Court and till today no interim order has been passed and ultimately, the applicant moved the anticipatory bail application before the sessions court concerned but the same was duly rejected. It is further submitted that during course of investigation, the applicant has been protected from arresting till filing of charge-sheet by a coordinate bench of this Court passed in Crl. Misc. Writ Petition No. 19374 of 2017 vide order dated 18.9.2017. There is civil dispute between the parties. During course of investigation, the applicant fully cooperated with the investigation. But the Investigating Officer without collecting any cogent and credible evidence submitted the charge-sheet against the applicant. It is further submitted that proceedings U/s 82 CrPC was initiated against the applicant in a routine manner. The applicant is ready to cooperate with the trial.

6. The learned counsel for the applicant further submits that insofar as the maintainability of the anticipatory bail after issuance of process U/s 82 CrPC is concerned, the counsel for the applicant relies upon the judgement of this Court passed in Crl. Misc. Anticipatory Bail Application No. 4645 of 2022. The relevant portion of which is being reproduced hereunder:

"25. The Apex Court has restrained the proclaimed offender to seek anticipatory bail. The person who is not following the process of law and deliberately avoiding the investigation despite all necessary steps have been taken by the investigating officer to apprise him to cooperate with the process of investigation, e.g. summons have been served but to no avail, thereafter bailable warrants have been served but again he / she is not cooperating with the investigation for no plausible and cogent reasons, lastly non-bailable warrant has / have been served but there is no heed thereon, then the investigation officer has got no option except to seek proclamation u/s 82 / 83 Cr.P.C. It is also relevant to note here that the court concerned must ensure before taking any coercive steps that all the aforesaid proceed, i.e. summons, bailable warrants and non-bailable warrants have been duly served upon the person and he / she is deliberately avoiding the same. Issuing summons, bailable warrant and non-bailable warrants would not suffice but what is most important is its service upon the person because unless and until such process is served no further coercive step should be taken in view of the dictum of Apex Court in re: Inder Mohan Goswami (supra) inasmuch as these coercive steps are directly related with the liberty of the person which is protected under Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

26. Therefore, if the aforesaid process is avoided by the person, any appropriate application for seeking proclamation can be filed by the investigating officer supporting with an affidavit to apprise the court concerned as to how despite the summon, bailable warrant and non-bailable warrant having been served upon the person he / she is deliberately avoiding to cooperate with the investigation and the court after having proper satisfaction on the averments of such application may issue proclamation. Only under these circumstances that person may be declared as proclaimed offender and his / her anticipatory bail application should not be heard. In other words, before filing anticipatory bail that person should be proclaimed offender and his / her anticipatory bail application will loose the right of hearing on merits."

7. Learned AGA as well as the counsel for the first informant vehemently opposed the prayer of the applicant and submitted that the charge-sheet has already been submitted against the applicant in the year 2018 and the case is pending since then. After filing of charge-sheet, the applicant deliberately absented herself from the proceedings. Consequently, the process U/s 82 CrPC has been initiated against the applicant on 22.2.2022 and she has been declared an absconder. It is also submitted that the applicant approached the learned court below for seeking anticipatory bail much later after having been declared as absconder and the anticipatory bail application was rejected by the sessions court on 18.8.2022. Due to non-cooperation of the applicant, the trial is still pending before the trial court. Sufficient evidence is available against the applicant. There is no ground for false implication of the applicant. Thus, the application of the applicant is liable to be rejected. He further relies upon the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Prem Shankar Prasad vs. State of Bihar decided on 21.10.2021 in Criminal Appeal No. 1209 of 2021. The relevant para of which is being reproduced hereunder:

"16. Recently, in Lavesh v. State (NCT of Delhi) [(2012) 8 SCC 730] , this Court (of which both of us were parties) considered the scope of granting relief under Section 438 vis--vis a person who was declared as an absconder or proclaimed offender in terms of Section 82 of the Code. In para 12, this Court held as under : (SCC p. 733)

"12. From these materials and information, it is clear that the present appellant was not available for interrogation and investigation and was declared as 'absconder'. Normally, when the accused is 'absconding' and declared as a 'proclaimed offender', there is no question of granting anticipatory bail. We reiterate that when a person against whom a warrant had been issued and is absconding or concealing himself in order to avoid execution of warrant and declared as a proclaimed offender in terms of Section 82 of the Code he is not entitled to the relief of anticipatory bail."

8. Considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case, I am of the view that the accusation against the applicant is well founded. After filing of the charge-sheet against the applicant, she wilfully absented herself before the trial court and due to this, till today trial against the applicant could not commence. Moreover, it is clear from the above decision that if anyone is declared as an absconder/proclaimed offender in terms of Section 82 of the Code, he is not entitled to the relief of anticipatory bail. Thus, this is not a fit case for anticipatory bail as per law propounded by the Apex Court. Consequently, the application U/s 438 CrPC is hereby rejected.

3. Sushila Aggarwal & ors. Vs St. (NCT of Delhi) & anr., (2020) 5 SCC Page 1 (106)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Tawvab Ahmed Khan, learned counsel for the applicant, Mr. K.P. Pathak, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. The present application has been moved seeking anticipatory bail in Case Crime No. 408 of 2022, under Sections 365, 342, 420 IPC and Section 3, 5(1) of Uttar Pradesh Prohibition of Unlawful Conversion of Religion Act 2021, P.S.-Kotwali, District-Fatehpur, with the prayer that in the event of arrest, applicant may be released on bail.

3. As per contents of first information report, the complainant has alleged that he was promised employment by co-accused

Arman Ali whereafter he was taken to a Madarssa and a mosque and pressure was exerted upon him to convert his religion but some how he managed to escape.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the applicant is innocent and he has an apprehension that he may be arrested in the above-mentioned case, whereas there is no credible evidence against him. He further submits that the applicant has been falsely implicated in the present case due to ulterior motive. The applicant has franchisee of M/s Glaze Trading India Pvt. Ltd. and one of the agent of the company, i.e. Arman Ali was entrusted the work of increasing the number of agents for which Arman Ali informed that he has deposited an amount of Rs.10,000/- for fooding and lodging to one Irshad and another agent, however, as they never wanted to continue as agent of the aforesaid company and demanded the money back, when the same was not returned, a false and frivolous case has been made out against the applicant including the other accused persons. He further submits that the applicant has criminal history of two cases, which has satisfactorily been explained in para 19 of the affidavit in support of bail application. The applicant undertakes to co-operate during investigation and trial and he would appear as and when required by the investigating agency or Court. It has been stated that in case, the applicant is granted anticipatory bail, he shall not misuse the liberty of bail and will co-operate during investigation and would obey all conditions of bail.

5. Per contra, learned AGA opposed the prayer for granted anticipatory bail to the applicant by contending that the applicant is named in the FIR. He further submits that a notice under Section 41A of Cr.P.C. was sent by the investigating officer of the present case on 21.09.2022, but the applicant failed to appear before the Investigating Officer and as such had not co-operated with the investigation. He further submits that the case does not fall under the category of section 438 Cr.P.C. Therefore, the relief as prayed cannot be granted.

6. Considering the submissions made by learned counsel for the parties and perused the record, this Court finds that from the allegations made in the FIR, prima facie offence is made out against the applicant. Having regard to nature of allegations and stage of investigation, held, investigating agency must be given sufficient freedom in process of investigation.

7. Object of section 438 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, is that a person should not be unnecessarily harassed or humiliated in order to satisfy personal vendetta or grudge of complainant or any other person operating the things directly or from behind the curtains. It is well settled that discretionary power conferred by the legislature on this court can-not be put in a straitjacket formula, but such discretionary power either grant or refusal of anticipatory bail has to be exercised carefully in appropriate cases with circumspection on the basis of the available material after evaluating the facts of the particular case and considering other relevant factors (nature and gravity of accusation, role attributed to accused, conduct of accused, criminal antecedents, possibility of the applicant to flee from Justice , apprehension of tampering of the witnesses or threat to the complainant, impact of grant of anticipatory bail in investigation, trial or society, etc.) with meticulous precision maintaining balance between the conflicting interest, namely, sanctity of individual liberty and interest of society.

8. Grant of anticipatory bail may hamper the custodial interrogation and will lead to nondisclosure of useful information and material facts and information. In the case of P. Chidambaram vs. Directorate of Enforcement, reported in (2019) 9 SCC 24, the Apex Court held as under:-

"74. Ordinarily, arrest is a part of the process of the investigation intended to secure several purposes. There may be circumstances in which the accused may provide information leading to discovery of material facts and relevant information. Grant of anticipatory bail may hamper theinvestigation. Pre-arrest bail is to strike a balance between the individual's right to personal freedom and the right of the investigating agency to interrogate the accused as to the material so far collected and to collect more information which may lead to recovery of relevant information. In State Rep.By The CBI v. Anil Sharma(1997) 7 SCC 187, the Supreme Court held as under:-

"6. We find force in the submission of the CBI that custodial interrogation is qualitatively more elicitation-oriented than questioning a suspect who is well ensconced with a favourable order underSection 438of the Code. In a case like this effective interrogation of a suspected person is of tremendous advantage in disinterring many useful informations and also materials which would have been concealed. Success in such interrogation would elude if the suspected person knows that he is well protected and insulated by a pre-arrest bail order during the time he is interrogated. Very often interrogation in such a condition would reduce to a mere ritual. The argument that the custodial interrogation is fraught with the danger of the person being subjected to third-degree methods need not be countenanced, for, such an argument can be advanced by all accused in all criminal cases. The Court has to presume that responsible police officers would conduct themselves in a responsible manner and that those entrusted with the task of disinterring offences would not conduct themselves as offenders."

81. Grant of anticipatory bail at the stage of investigation may frustrate the investigating agency in interrogating the accused and in collecting the useful information and also the materials which might have been concealed. Success in such interrogation would elude if the accused knows that he is protected by the order of the court. ....."

9. In another judgment of Apex Court in case of Sadhna Chaudhary Vs. State of Rajasthan & Anr., reported in 2022 (237) AIC 205 (SC), the Apex Court had held as under:-

"14. Law on the applicability or grant of anticipatory bail under section 438 Cr.P.C. may be briefly summarised as under:

14.1. In Shri Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia and Others v. State of Punjab1, a Constitution Bench of this Court, Chief Justice Y.V. Chandrachud, speaking for the Court dealt with in detail on the considerations for grant of anticipatory bail.

14.2. In Siddharam Satlingappa Mhetre vs. State of Maharashtra and Others2; this Court relying upon the Constitution Bench judgment in Shri Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia laid down in paragraph 112 of the report the following factors and parameters to be considered while dealing with an application for anticipatory bail:

"(i) The nature and gravity of the accusation and the exact role of the accused must be properly comprehended before arrest is made;

(ii) The antecedents of the applicant including the fact as to whether the accused has previously undergone imprisonment on conviction by a court in respect of any cognizable offence;

(iii) The possibility of the applicant to flee from justice;

(iv) The possibility of the accused's likelihood to repeat similar or other offences;

(v) Where the accusations have been made only with the object of injuring or humiliating the applicant by arresting him or her;

(vi) Impact of grant of anticipatory bail particularly in cases of large magnitude affecting a very large number of people;

(vii) The courts must evaluate the entire available material against the accused very carefully. The court must also clearly comprehend the exact role of the accused in the case. The cases in which the accused is implicated with the help of Sections 34 and 149 of the Penal Code, 1860 the court should consider with even greater care and caution because overimplication in the cases is a matter of common knowledge and concern;

(viii) While considering the prayer for grant of anticipatory bail, a balance has to be struck between two factors, namely, no prejudice should be caused to the free, fair and full investigation and there should be prevention of harassment, humiliation and unjustified detention of the accused;

(ix) The court to consider reasonable apprehension of tampering of the witnesses or apprehension of threat to the complainant;

(x) Frivolity in prosecution should always be considered and it is only the element of genuineness that shall have to be considered in the matter of grant of bail and in the event of there being some doubt as to the genuineness of the prosecution, in the normal course of events, the accused is entitled to an order of bail."

14.3. In yet another recent Constitution Bench judgment in the case of Sushila Aggarwal and Others vs. State (NCT of Delhi) and Another3, in paragraph 85 of the report Justice Ravindra Bhatt laid down the guiding principles in dealing with applications under Section 438. Justice M.R. Shah had authored a separate opinion. Justice Arun Misra, Justice Indira Banerjee and Justice Vineet Saran agreed with both the opinions. The concluding guiding factors stated in paragraphs 92, 92.1 to 92.9 are reproduced hereunder:

"92. This Court, in the light of the above discussion in the two judgments, and in the light of the answers to the reference, hereby clarifies that the following need to be kept in mind by courts, dealing with applications under Section 438 CrPC.

92.1. Consistent with the judgment in Shri Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia and others v. State of Punjab4, when a person complains of apprehension of arrest and approaches for order, the application should be based on concrete facts (and not vague or general allegations) relatable to one or other specific offence. The application seeking anticipatory bail should contain bare essential facts relating to the offence, and why the applicant reasonably apprehends arrest, as well as his side of the story. These are essential for the court which should consider his application, to evaluate the threat or apprehension, its gravity or seriousness and the appropriateness of any condition that may have to be imposed. It is not essential that an application should be moved only after an FIR is filed; it can be moved earlier, so long as the facts are clear and there is reasonable basis for apprehending arrest.

92.2. It may be advisable for the court, which is approached with an application under Section 438, depending on the seriousness of the threat (of arrest) to issue notice to the public prosecutor and obtain facts, even while granting limited interim anticipatory bail.

92.3. Nothing in Section 438 Cr. PC, compels or obliges courts to impose conditions limiting relief in terms of time, or upon filing of FIR, or recording of statement of any witness, by the police, during investigation or inquiry, etc. While considering an application (for grant of anticipatory bail) the court has to consider the nature of the offence, the role of the person, the likelihood of his influencing the course of investigation, or tampering with evidence (including intimidating witnesses), likelihood of fleeing justice (such as leaving the country), etc.

The courts would be justified - and ought to impose conditions spelt out in Section 437 (3), Cr.P.C. [by virtue of Section 438 (2)]. The need to impose other restrictive conditions, would have to be judged on a casebycase basis, and depending upon the materials produced by the state or the investigating agency. Such special or other restrictive conditions may be imposed if the case or cases warrant, but should not be imposed in a routine manner, in all cases. Likewise, conditions which limit the grant of anticipatory bail may be granted, if they are required in the facts of any case or cases; however, such limiting conditions may not be invariably imposed.

92.4. Courts ought to be generally guided by considerations such as the nature and gravity of the offences, the role attributed to the applicant, and the facts of the case, while considering whether to grant anticipatory bail, or refuse it. Whether to grant or not is a matter of discretion; equally whether and if so, what kind of special conditions are to be imposed (or not imposed) are dependent on facts of the case, and subject to the discretion of the court.

92.6. An order of anticipatory bail should not be "blanket" in the sense that it should not enable the accused to commit further offences and claim relief of indefinite protection from arrest. It should be confined to the offence or incident, for which apprehension of arrest is sought, in relation to a specific incident. It cannot operate in respect of a future incident that involves commission of an offence.

92.7. An order of anticipatory bail does not in any manner limit or restrict the rights or duties of the police or investigating agency, to investigate into the charges against the person who seeks and is granted prearrest bail.

92.8. The observations in Sibbia regarding "limited custody" or "deemed custody" to facilitate the requirements of the investigative authority, would be sufficient for the purpose of fulfilling the provisions of Section 27, in the event of recovery of an article, or discovery of a fact, which is relatable to a statement made during such event (i.e deemed custody). In such event, there is no question (or necessity) of asking the accused to separately surrender and seek regular bail. Sibbia (supra) had observed that "if and when the occasion arises, it may be possible for the prosecution to claim the benefit of Section 27 of the Evidence Act in regard to a discovery of facts made in pursuance of information supplied by a person released on bail by invoking the principle stated by this Court in State of U.P. v Deoman Upadhyaya."

92.9. It is open to the police or the investigating agency to move the court concerned, which grants anticipatory bail, for a direction under Section 439 (2) to arrest the accused, in the event of violation of any term, such as absconding, non cooperating during investigation, evasion, intimidation or inducement to witnesses with a view to influence outcome of the investigation or trial, etc."

10. In the case of Sushila Aggarwal and others Vs. State (NCT OF Delhi) and another (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed as under:-

"At this stage, it would be essential to clear the air on the observations made in some of the later cases about whether Section 438 is an essential element of Article 21. Some judgments, notably Ram Kishna Balothia, (1995) 3 SCC 221 and Jai Prakash Singh, (2012) 4 SCC 379 held that the provision for anticipatory bail is not an essential ingredient of Article 21, particularly in the context of imposition of limitations on the discretion of the courts while granting anticipatory bail, either limiting the relief in point of time, or some other restriction in respect of the nature of the offence, or the happening of an event. Such obsevations are contrary to the broad terms of the power declared by the Constitution Bench in Sibbia case. The larger Bench had specifically held that an "overgenerious infusion of constraints and conditions which are not to be found in Section 438 can make its provisions constitutionally vulnerable since the right to personal freedom cannot be made to depend on compliance with unreasonable restrictions.(Para 54)"

"The reason for enactment ofSection 438CrPC was parliamentary acceptance of the crucial underpinning of personal liberty in a free and democratic country. Parliament wished to foster respect for personal liberty and accord primacy to a fundamental tenet of criminal jurisprudence, that everyone is presumed to be innocent till he or she is found guilty. Life and liberty are the cherished attributes of every individual. The urge for freedom is natural to each human being. Section 438 is procedural provision concerned with the personal liberty of each individual, who is entitled to the benefit of the presumption of innocence. As denial of bail amounts to deprivation of personal liberty, the court should lean against the imposition of unnecessary restrictions on the scope of Section 438, especially when not imposed by the legislature. (Para 56)"

"Application for anticipatory bail:

Consistent with the judgment in Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia, (1980) 2 SCC 565, when a person complains of apprehension of arrest and approaches for order, the application should be based on concrete facts (and not vague or general allegations) relatable to one or other specific offence. The application seeking anticipatory bail should contain bare essential facts relating to the offence, and why the applicant reasonably apprehends arrest, as well as his side of the story. These are essential for the corut which should consider his application, to evaluate the threat or apprehension, its gravity or seriousness and the appropriateness of any condition that may have to be imposed. It is not essential that an application should be moved only after an FIR is filed; it can be moved earlier, so long as the facts are clear and there is reasonable basis for apprehending arrest. (Paras 92.1 and 85.1)"

11. Whether to grant anticipatory bail or not is a matter of discretion; equally whether and if so, what kind of special conditions are to be imposed (or not imposed) are dependent on facts of the case, and subject to the discretion of the Court. Further, anticipatory bail would depend on the conduct and behaviour of the accused, continue after filing of the chargesheet till end of trial and order of anticipatory bail does not in any matter limit or restrict the rights or duties of the police or investigating agency, to investigate into the charges against the person who seeks and is granted pre-arrest bail.

12. From perusal of the records, it appears that the applicant is the named accused and the allegation against the applicant relates to Uttar Pradesh Prohibition of Unlawful Conversion of Religion Act, 2021, which is a serious offence punishable upto ten years imprisonment and fine of Rs.50,000/-. The Act said that "no person shall convert, either directly or otherwise, any other person from one religion to another by use or practice of misrepresentation, force, undue influence, coercion, allurement or by any fraudulent means. No person shall abet, convince or conspire such conversion". From the allegations made in the FIR, the applicant is involved in forcing people to convert their religion. Prima Facie, offence is made out against the applicant. The other co-accused persons, namely, Alim, Mohsin, Yaseen, Yaseen Mansoori @ Gulam Yaseen Mansoori and Arman Ali have already been granted regular bail by the Co-ordinate Bench of this Court.

13. In the light of above, looking to the facts and circumstances of this case, submissions of learned counsel for the parties, taking into consideration the role assigned to the applicant as per prosecution case, gravity and nature of accusation as well as reasons mentioned above, this Court is of the view that no case for exercising its discretionary power under section 438 Code of Criminal Procedure is made out in favour of applicant.

14. Accordingly this application under section 438 Cr.P.C. is rejected with liberty to avail appropriate remedy as provided under the law.

15. It is clarified that observations made in this order at this stage is limited for the purpose of determination of this anticipatory bail application and will in no way be construed as an expression on the merits of the case. The investigating officer of this case shall be absolutely free to arrive at its independent conclusions according to law on the basis of materials/evidences on record.

4. Prem Shankar Prasad Vs The St. of Bihar & anr. , AIR (2021) SC 5125

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Gaurav Kakkar, learned counsel for the applicants, Mr. Manoj Kumar Tripathi, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2, Mr. Amit Singh Chauhan, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. The present application has been moved seeking anticipatory bail in S.T. No.145 of 2022 arising out of Case Crime No. 840 of 2021, under Sections 452, 354, 323, 325, 504, 506 IPC and Section 3(2)(V)a, 3(1)r and 3(1)s of S.C./S.T. Act, P.S.-Kotwali Shahar, District-Bijnor, with the prayer that in the event of arrest, applicants may be released on bail.

3. A preliminary objection for admissibility of jurisdiction of the aforesaid bail application vide concurrent jurisdiction enshrined in Section 438 of Cr.P.C. has been raised by learned counsel for the opposite parties.

4. While answering the preliminary objection, the learned counsel for the applicant submits that there can be no absolute bar against grant of anticipatory bail in cases under the SC/ST Act if no prima facie case is made out or where on judicial scrutiny the complaint is found to be prima facie mala fide. As per the settled law of the Apex Court passed in case of Prathvi Raj Chauhan vs. Union of India & Others reported in (2020) 4 SCC 727, if the complaint does not make out a prima facie case for the applicability of the provisions of the SC/ST Act, 1989, the bar created by Sections 18 and 18A(i) shall not apply. The only caveat is that the power has to be used sparingly and is not to be used so as to convert the jurisdiction into that under Section 438 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

5. Thus, while entering into the merits of the case to see whether the bar under Section 18 and 18A(i) of the SC/ST Act is applicable to the present case, the applicant counsel has placed the following facts:-

i) An FIR has been lodged by Smt. Sunita on 08.12.2021 at about 13:50 p.m. against the present applicants and one Anil Kumar alleging therein that the victim's husband has a grocery shop and while asking for the goods, Anil Kumar, the named accused entered the shop and when the victim restrained him from entering the shop, asking him to stand outside the shop, finding her to be all alone in the shop, with bad intention, caught hold of the victim and tried to outrage her modesty. The aforesaid accused person used caste indicative words like "Chamar Chatta". Alarm was raised by the victim, on which her son, Manish and brother-in-law, Dinesh reached the shop and thereafter, the aforesaid accused, Anil Kumar called other co-accused persons, who are the applicants in the present case and all of them with common intention entered the house of the victim having rod, danda and sharp edged weapon in their hands and assaulted the victim and her family members. The accused Anil Kumar was carrying countrymade pistol whereas Sohit (applicant no.1) was having iron rod. The accused Akash and Akshay (applicant nos.2 &3 respectively) had carried danda with them. The aforesaid accused persons with intention to kill the victim, her son and brother-in-law assaulted them. On hearing the noise of the victim and her family members, people gathered there to save the aforestated persons. Thereafter, the accused persons while running away from the place used caste indicating words.

ii) The FIR has been lodged after a delay of about one month and three days without giving any plausible explanation for the same, which falsifies the entire story.

iii) Only general allegations have been made against the applicants in the first information report.

iv) It was a sudden fight between the parties and there is no motive or intention on part of the applicants to cause injury to the injured.

v) Perusal of the statement of the victim under Section 164 Cr.P.C. goes to show that no offence under Section S.C./S.T. Act is made out against the applicants.

vi) The applicants have been falsely implicated in the present case due to village party bandi as has been emphasized in para 24 of the affidavit in support of bail application.

vii) Offence under Section SC/ST Act is not attracted against the applicants because as per Section 3(2) (Va) of SC/ST Act, such offence would be made out only when caste indicative words are used against a person or property knowing that such person is a member of a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe or such property belongs to such member.

viii) In the present case, it was a sudden fight between two group of persons, therefore, in case any such words have been used, it was by chance, not knowing that the victim belongs to the SC/ST community.

6. On the cumulative strength of the aforesaid submissions, learned counsel for the applicant submits that the applicants are innocent and they have an apprehension that they may be arrested in the above-mentioned case, whereas there is no credible evidence against them. He further submits that the applicants have been falsely implicated in the present case due to party bandi. The offence under Section 325 IPC is bailable. The applicants undertake to co-operate during investigation and trial and they would appear as and when required by the investigating agency or Court. It has been stated that in case, the applicants are granted anticipatory bail, they shall not misuse the liberty of bail and will co-operate during investigation and would obey all conditions of bail.

7. Per contra, learned AGA as well as learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 opposed the prayer for granted anticipatory bail to the applicants by contending that the applicants are named in the FIR. From the submissions made by learned counsel for the applicants that it was a sudden fight between persons of the two groups, is self indicated of the fact that caste indicative words have been used knowingly. From perusal of the FIR itself, it is clear that offence under Section SC/ST Act has made out.

8. They further submits that from the material as collected by the Investigating Officer, credible, clinching as well as documentary evidences showing the complicity of commission of the crime has been found, therefore, the charge sheet has been submitted against the applicants on 24.12.2021 under Sections 452, 354, 323, 325, 504, 506 IPC and Section 3(2)(V)a, 3(1)r and 3(1)s of S.C./S.T. Act. Thereafter, on the basis of the aforesaid charge sheet, cognizance has been taken by the concerned court below on 04.03.2022. They further submits that as the charge sheet has been submitted against the applicants including the sections of SC/ST Act, therefore, the present anticipatory bail application is not maintainable as in view of Section 18 of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, provisions of Section 438 Cr.P.C. are not applicable pertaining to offence committed under the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989.

9. So far as the merits of the case are concerned, in the present case, two persons, namely, Manish and Dinesh sustained injury and they have been medically examined on 06.11.2021. From perusal of the X-ray report of the Manish and Dinesh, it is clear that they have sustained fracture. The applicants are avoiding to face trial, therefore, non-bailable warrants have already been issued against them. They further submits that the case does not fall under the category of section 438 Cr.P.C. Therefore, the relief as prayed cannot be granted.

10. Considering the submissions made by learned counsel for the parties and perused the record, this Court finds that from the allegations made in the FIR, prima facie offence is made out against the applicants.

11. For ready reference, the provisions of Sections 18 and 18-A and Section 3 (1) (Dha) of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 are reproduced below:-

"18. Section 438 of the Code not to apply to persons committing an offence under the Act.--Nothing in Section 438 of the Code shall apply in relation to any case involving the arrest of any person on an accusation of having committed an offence under this Act.

18-A. No enquiry or approval required.--(1) For the purposes of this Act--*

(a) preliminary enquiry shall not be required for registration of a first information report against any person; or

(b) the investigating officer shall not require approval for the arrest, if necessary, of any person,against whom an accusation of having committed an offence under this Act has been made, and no procedure other than that provided under this Act or the Code shall apply.

(2)The provisions of Section 438 of the Code shall not apply to a case under this Act, notwithstanding any judgment or order or direction of any Court.

Section 3 (1) (s) of SC/ST Act-- abuses any member of a Schedule caste or a Scheduled Tribe by caste name in any place within public view."

12. The legal position is that an anticipatory bail in a crime where an offence under SC/ST Act is alleged can be granted only if the Court is satisfied that the allegations levelled do not prima facie make out a case under SC/ST Act. The position of law remains same even after the enactment of Section 18A of the Act. The Apex Court in the case of Prathvi Raj Chauhan vs. Union of India & Others reported in (2020) 4 SCC 727, has observed as under:-

"11. Concerning the applicability of provisions of Section 438 CrPC, it shall not apply to the cases under the 1989 Act. However, if the complaint does not make out a prima facie case for applicability of the provisions of the 1989 Act, the bar created by Sections 18 and 18-A(i) shall not apply. We have clarified this aspect while deciding the review petitions."

13. From perusal of the FIR itself, it is clear that the offence under SC/ST At is made out against the applicants. Therefore, the present anticipatory bail application is not maintainable in view of Section 18 (2) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 wherein it has been mentioned that provisions of Section 438 Cr.P.C. are not applicable pertaining to offence committed under the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989.

14. So far as the merits of the case, it would be appropriate to refer Section 438 Cr.P.C., which is reproduced herein below:-

"438. Direction for grant of bail to person apprehending arrest.

(1) When any person has reason to believe that he may be arrested on an accusation of having committed a non-bailable offence, he may apply to the High Court or the Court of Session for a direction under this section; and that Court may, if it thinks fit, direct that in the event of such arrest, he shall be released on bail.

(2) When the High Court or the Court of Session makes a direction under sub-section (1), it may include such conditions in such directions in the light of the facts of the particular case, as it may think fit, including-

(i) a condition that the person shall make himself available for interrogation by a police officer as and when required;

(ii) a condition that the person shall not, directly or indirectly, make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the Court or to any police officer;

(iii) a condition that the person shall not leave India without the previous permission of the Court;

(iv) such other condition as may be imposed under sub- section (3) of section 437, as if the bail were granted under that section.

(3) If such person is thereafter arrested without warrant by an officer in charge of a police station on such accusation, and is prepared either at the time of arrest or at any time while in the custody of such officer to give bail, be shall be released on bail; and if a Magistrate taking cognizance of such offence decides that a warrant should issue in the first instance against that person, he shall issue a bailable warrant in conformity with the direction of the Court under sub- section (1)."

15. Grant of anticipatory bail may hamper the custodial interrogation and will lead to nondisclosure of useful information and material facts and information. In the case of P. Chidambaram vs. Directorate of Enforcement, reported in (2019) 9 SCC 24, the Apex Court held as under:-

"74. Ordinarily, arrest is a part of the process of the investigation intended to secure several purposes. There may be circumstances in which the accused may provide information leading to discovery of material facts and relevant information. Grant of anticipatory bail may hamper the investigation. Pre-arrest bail is to strike a balance between the individual's right to personal freedom and the right of the investigating agency to interrogate the accused as to the material so far collected and to collect more information which may lead to recovery of relevant information. In State Rep. By The CBI v. Anil Sharma (1997) 7 SCC 187, the Supreme Court held as under:-

"6. We find force in the submission of the CBI that custodial interrogation is qualitatively more elicitation-oriented than questioning a suspect who is well ensconced with a favourable order under Section 438 of the Code. In a case like this effective interrogation of a suspected person is of tremendous advantage in disinterring many useful informations and also materials which would have been concealed. Success in such interrogation would elude if the suspected person knows that he is well protected and insulated by a pre-arrest bail order during the time he is interrogated. Very often interrogation in such a condition would reduce to a mere ritual. The argument that the custodial interrogation is fraught with the danger of the person being subjected to third-degree methods need not be countenanced, for, such an argument can be advanced by all accused in all criminal cases. The Court has to presume that responsible police officers would conduct themselves in a responsible manner and that those entrusted with the task of disinterring offences would not conduct themselves as offenders."

81. Grant of anticipatory bail at the stage of investigation may frustrate the investigating agency in interrogating the accused and in collecting the useful information and also the materials which might have been concealed. Success in such interrogation would elude if the accused knows that he is protected by the order of the court. ....."

16. In another judgment of Apex Court in case of Sadhna Chaudhary Vs. State of Rajasthan & Anr., reported in 2022 (237) AIC 205 (SC), the Apex Court had held as under:-

"14. Law on the applicability or grant of anticipatory bail under section 438 Cr.P.C. may be briefly summarised as under:

14.1. In Shri Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia and Others v. State of Punjab1, a Constitution Bench of this Court, Chief Justice Y.V. Chandrachud, speaking for the Court dealt with in detail on the considerations for grant of anticipatory bail.

14.2. In Siddharam Satlingappa Mhetre vs. State of Maharashtra and Others2; this Court relying upon the Constitution Bench judgment in Shri Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia laid down in paragraph 112 of the report the following factors and parameters to be considered while dealing with an application for anticipatory bail:

"(i) The nature and gravity of the accusation and the exact role of the accused must be properly comprehended before arrest is made;

(ii) The antecedents of the applicant including the fact as to whether the accused has previously undergone imprisonment on conviction by a court in respect of any cognizable offence;

(iii) The possibility of the applicant to flee from justice;

(iv) The possibility of the accused's likelihood to repeat similar or other offences;

(v) Where the accusations have been made only with the object of injuring or humiliating the applicant by arresting him or her;

(vi) Impact of grant of anticipatory bail particularly in cases of large magnitude affecting a very large number of people;

(vii) The courts must evaluate the entire available material against the accused very carefully. The court must also clearly comprehend the exact role of the accused in the case. The cases in which the accused is implicated with the help of Sections 34 and 149 of the Penal Code, 1860 the court should consider with even greater care and caution because overimplication in the cases is a matter of common knowledge and concern;

(viii) While considering the prayer for grant of anticipatory bail, a balance has to be struck between two factors, namely, no prejudice should be caused to the free, fair and full investigation and there should be prevention of harassment, humiliation and unjustified detention of the accused;

(ix) The court to consider reasonable apprehension of tampering of the witnesses or apprehension of threat to the complainant;

(x) Frivolity in prosecution should always be considered and it is only the element of genuineness that shall have to be considered in the matter of grant of bail and in the event of there being some doubt as to the genuineness of the prosecution, in the normal course of events, the accused is entitled to an order of bail."

14.3. In yet another recent Constitution Bench judgment in the case of Sushila Aggarwal and Others vs. State (NCT of Delhi) and Another3, in paragraph 85 of the report Justice Ravindra Bhatt laid down the guiding principles in dealing with applications under Section 438. Justice M.R. Shah had authored a separate opinion. Justice Arun Misra, Justice Indira Banerjee and Justice Vineet Saran agreed with both the opinions. The concluding guiding factors stated in paragraphs 92, 92.1 to 92.9 are reproduced hereunder:

"92. This Court, in the light of the above discussion in the two judgments, and in the light of the answers to the reference, hereby clarifies that the following need to be kept in mind by courts, dealing with applications under Section 438 CrPC.

92.1. Consistent with the judgment in Shri Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia and others v. State of Punjab4, when a person complains of apprehension of arrest and approaches for order, the application should be based on concrete facts (and not vague or general allegations) relatable to one or other specific offence. The application seeking anticipatory bail should contain bare essential facts relating to the offence, and why the applicant reasonably apprehends arrest, as well as his side of the story. These are essential for the court which should consider his application, to evaluate the threat or apprehension, its gravity or seriousness and the appropriateness of any condition that may have to be imposed. It is not essential that an application should be moved only after an FIR is filed; it can be moved earlier, so long as the facts are clear and there is reasonable basis for apprehending arrest.

92.2. It may be advisable for the court, which is approached with an application under Section 438, depending on the seriousness of the threat (of arrest) to issue notice to the public prosecutor and obtain facts, even while granting limited interim anticipatory bail.

92.3. Nothing in Section 438 Cr. PC, compels or obliges courts to impose conditions limiting relief in terms of time, or upon filing of FIR, or recording of statement of any witness, by the police, during investigation or inquiry, etc. While considering an application (for grant of anticipatory bail) the court has to consider the nature of the offence, the role of the person, the likelihood of his influencing the course of investigation, or tampering with evidence (including intimidating witnesses), likelihood of fleeing justice (such as leaving the country), etc.

The courts would be justified - and ought to impose conditions spelt out in Section 437 (3), Cr.P.C. [by virtue of Section 438 (2)]. The need to impose other restrictive conditions, would have to be judged on a casebycase basis, and depending upon the materials produced by the state or the investigating agency. Such special or other restrictive conditions may be imposed if the case or cases warrant, but should not be imposed in a routine manner, in all cases. Likewise, conditions which limit the grant of anticipatory bail may be granted, if they are required in the facts of any case or cases; however, such limiting conditions may not be invariably imposed.

92.4. Courts ought to be generally guided by considerations such as the nature and gravity of the offences, the role attributed to the applicant, and the facts of the case, while considering whether to grant anticipatory bail, or refuse it. Whether to grant or not is a matter of discretion; equally whether and if so, what kind of special conditions are to be imposed (or not imposed) are dependent on facts of the case, and subject to the discretion of the court.

92.6. An order of anticipatory bail should not be "blanket" in the sense that it should not enable the accused to commit further offences and claim relief of indefinite protection from arrest. It should be confined to the offence or incident, for which apprehension of arrest is sought, in relation to a specific incident. It cannot operate in respect of a future incident that involves commission of an offence.

92.7. An order of anticipatory bail does not in any manner limit or restrict the rights or duties of the police or investigating agency, to investigate into the charges against the person who seeks and is granted prearrest bail.

92.8. The observations in Sibbia regarding "limited custody" or "deemed custody" to facilitate the requirements of the investigative authority, would be sufficient for the purpose of fulfilling the provisions of Section 27, in the event of recovery of an article, or discovery of a fact, which is relatable to a statement made during such event (i.e deemed custody). In such event, there is no question (or necessity) of asking the accused to separately surrender and seek regular bail. Sibbia (supra) had observed that "if and when the occasion arises, it may be possible for the prosecution to claim the benefit of Section 27 of the Evidence Act in regard to a discovery of facts made in pursuance of information supplied by a person released on bail by invoking the principle stated by this Court in State of U.P. v Deoman Upadhyaya."

17. From these materials and information, it is clear that the present applicants were not available for interrogation and investigation and non-bailable warrants were issued against them, therefore, a person against whom a warrant has been issued and, is absconding or concealing himself in order to avoid execution of warrants, is not entitled to the relief of anticipatory bail. The aforesaid has been held by the Apex Court in the case of Prem Shankar Prasad vs. The State of Bihar and another reported in AIR (2021) SC 5125. Relevant paragraph no.16 of the afroresaid judgment is as under:-

"16. Recently, in Lavesh v. State (NCT of Delhi) [(2012) 8 SCC 730] , this Court (of which both of us were parties) considered the scope of granting relief under Section 438 vis-à-vis a person who was declared as an absconder or proclaimed offender in terms of Section 82 of the Code. In para 12, this Court held as under : (SCC p. 733) "12. From these materials and information, it is clear that the present appellant was not available for interrogation and investigation and was declared as 'absconder'. Normally, when the accused is 'absconding' and declared as a 'proclaimed offender', there is no question of granting anticipatory bail. We reiterate that when a person against whom a warrant had been issued and is absconding or concealing himself in order to avoid execution of warrant and declared as a proclaimed offender in terms of Section 82 of the Code he is not entitled to the relief of anticipatory bail."

It is clear from the above decision that if anyone is declared as an absconder/proclaimed offender in terms of Section 82 of the Code, he is not entitled to the relief of anticipatory bail."

Thus the High court has committed an error in granting anticipatory bail to respondent No.2 - accused ignoring the proceedings under Section 8283 of Cr.PC."

18. In the light of above, looking to the facts and circumstances of this case, submissions of learned counsel for the parties, taking into consideration the role assigned to the applicants as per prosecution case, gravity and nature of accusation as well as reasons mentioned above, this Court is of the view that no case for exercising its discretionary power under section 438 Code of Criminal Procedure is made out in favour of applicant.

19. Accordingly this application under section 438 Cr.P.C. is rejected with liberty to avail appropriate remedy as provided under the law.

20. It is clarified that observations made in this order at this stage is limited for the purpose of determination of this anticipatory bail application and will in no way be construed as an expression on the merits of the case. The investigating officer of this case shall be absolutely free to arrive at its independent conclusions according to law on the basis of materials/evidences on record.

Applicant (major) committed inappropriate sexual acts with victim (minor) - prosecution case set out in FIR - victim is 15 years old, but her age is 13 years and 3 months - material inconsistencies in the age related evidence – victim falsely shown as minor - applicant and victim were intimate -F.I.R. is a result of an opposition of victim's parents - applicant not a flight risk - applicant always cooperated with investigation – applicant on interim bail. (Para - 2, 96)

(B) The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 - Section 94 - Presumption and determination of age - at the stage of bail - Whether age of the victim will be determined in accordance with Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015? - If not - manner of assessing the age of a victim in a bail application under the POCSO Act when a challenge is laid to it by an accused – HELD - Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 should not be applied to bail

applications, as it would violate the right of bail of the accused - manner of consideration of age of a victim in a bail application under the POCSO Act should be guided by the line of enquiry and relevant factors - JJ Act, 2015 requires the consideration of age related documents such as school certificates, date of birth certificates, and medical reports for age determination - accused has a right to assail the veracity of the victim's age .(Para - 13, 91, 92, 93)

HELD:-Court obligated to independently evaluate the challenge laid to the victim's age - assessment of age in a bail order is tentative - based on probative value of documents - not advisable to lay down an inflexible or straitjacket formula for grant of bail. Applicant is a law abiding citizen who has cooperated with the investigation and is not a flight risk. No evidence of forceful entry in the house of victim. Victim does not have any criminal history apart from the instant case.(Para - 93)

Bail application allowed. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. The judgement is being structured in the following conceptual framework to facilitate the discussion:

I. Introduction:

2. The prosecution case is briefly this. The victim is a minor. The applicant committed inappropriate sexual acts with her. The applicant is a major.

3. Shri S. P. Tiwari, learned counsel for the applicant has assailed the age of the victim as shown in the prosecution case and has made these submissions:

(i). A false date of birth was got recorded in the school registers by the parents of the victim to give her an advantage in life.

(ii). Various documents like Pariwar Register and Aadhar card which reflect her true age and contradict the prosecution case have not been produced.

(iii). The pathological report reflects that the victim is 17 years of age.

(iv). The victim is in fact a major. However, no medical examination to determine her age as per the latest scientific criteria and medical protocol was got done by expert doctors as it would falsify the prosecution case.

(v). Inconsistencies in the age of the victim as stated in the F.I.R., the statement of the victim under Section 161 Cr.P.C., Section 164 Cr.P.C., school certificate and the age in the pathological report discredit the prosecution case regarding the victim's minority.

4. In Ashish Haldhar Vs. State of UP (Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 10907 of 2022), it is contended by Shri Safiullah, learned counsel for the applicant that the age of the victim as per the radiological/medical report is 18 years. However, the school certificate records her age 13 years 06 months and 27 days. The victim in her statements under Sections 161 Cr.P.C. and Section 164 Cr.P.C. has asserted that she is 18 years of age. The F.I.R. as well as the statement of the first informant depict the age of the victim as 14 years.

5. Similar discrepancies in respect of the age of the victim are exist in other connected bail applications as well.

6. Shri Rishi Chaddha, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State contends that Section 94 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 20151 contemplates that the age depicted in the documents enumerated therein is conclusive and the same cannot be put to challenge in bail proceedings. Further, the offence is disclosed in the F.I.R. which alone is sufficient to trigger the presumption of guilt under Section 29 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 20122.

7. A number of members of the Bar submit that these two larger questions of law crop up regularly in bail applications under the POCSO Act, 2012. The issue needs to be decided in order to end the ambiguity in law.

8. The same questions of law arise in all the companion bail applications.

9. At this stage, the Court requested the members of the Bar to assist the Court on the questions of law.

10. Apart from the counsels for the applicants, Shri Nazrul Islam Jafri, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Ms. Nasira Adil; Shri Vinay Saran, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Saumitra Dwivedi, learned counsel; Shri Shwetashwa Agrawal, learned counsel; Shri Rajiv Lochan Shukla, learned counsel and Ms. Gunjan Jadwani, learned counsel kindly volunteered to assist the Court.

11. On behalf of the State Shri Rishi Chaddha, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State has made his submissions.

II. Submissions on behalf of learned counsel for the applicants and learned members of the Bar:

12. Learned counsel for the applicant and other members of the Bar have contended that:

(i). Age of a victim has to be factored in while considering a bail application under POCSO Act offences.

(ii). The accused can challenge the age of a victim in bail proceedings.

(iii). Attention is called to the liberal interpretation of the enquiry under Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 by authorities in point.

(iv). The presumptions under Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 and Section 29 of the POCSO Act, 2012 can not prejudice the rights of an accused at the stage of bail.

(v). A large number of cases under the POCSO Act relate to runaway couples, and arise from family opposition to such relationships. In bail application excluding evidence or limiting the challenge to the age of the victim which is often on the borderline of majority and at times false, would result in miscarriage of justice for the accused.

Submissions on behalf of the State by learned AGA:

(i). POCSO Act is a special Act where the legislature has made stringent provisions to protect the interests of victims who are minors.

(ii). Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 shall be strictly interpreted and applied at the bail stage to implement the intent of the legislature.

(iii). The presumption of Section 29 of the POCSO Act, 2012 is triggered at the lodgement of the F.I.R. otherwise its purpose will be defeated.

(iv). The legislative intent was clearly to restrict the right of bail considering the gravity of the offences.

III. Issues arising for consideration:

13. Following questions of law thus arise for consideration in the bail application and the other companion bail applications:

I. Whether at the stage of bail the age of the victim will be determined in accordance with Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015? If not what is the manner of assessing the age of a victim in a bail application under the POCSO Act when a challenge is laid to it by an accused?

II. Whether the presumption of culpable intent under Section 29 of the POCSO Act, 2012 is attracted against the accused at the stage of bail?

IV. Statutory Schemes:

14. The determination of age of a child victim under the POCSO Act has to be made in accordance with the procedure for determination of age contemplated in Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 read with Rule 54 (18) (iv) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Model Rules, 20163. The provisions state thus:

"94. Presumption and determination of age. (1) Where, it is obvious to the Committee or the Board, based on the appearance of the person brought before it under any of the provisions of this Act (other than for the purpose of giving evidence) that the said person is a child, the Committee or the Board shall record such observation stating the age of the child as nearly as may be and proceed with the inquiry under section 14 or section 36, as the case may be, without waiting for further confirmation of the age.

(2) In case, the Committee or the Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Committee or the Board, as the case may be, shall undertake the process of age determination, by seeking evidence by obtaining--

(i) the date of birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, if available; and in the absence thereof;

(ii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(iii) and only in the absence of(i)and(ii)above, age shall be determined by an ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or the Board:

Provided such age determination test conducted on the order of the Committee or the Board shall be completed within fifteen days from the date of such order.

(3) The age recorded by the Committee or the Board to be the age of person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of this Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person."

Rule 54 (18) (iv) of the J.J. Rules, 2016:

"54. Procedure in cases of offences against children.- (18) (iv) For the age determination of the victim, in relation to offences against children under the Act, the same procedures mandated for the Board and the Committee under section 94 of the Act to be followed."

15. The procedure for determination of age of a child is provided in Section 34 of the POCSO Act, 2012. The provision is being extracted hereinunder:

"34. Procedure in case of commission of offence by child and determination of age by Special Court. (1) Where any offence under this Act is committed by a child, such child shall be dealt with under the provisions of1[the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 (2 of 2016)].

(2) If any question arises in any proceeding before the Special Court whether a person is a child or not, such question shall be determined by the Special Court after satisfying itself about the age of such person and it shall record in writing its reasons for such determination.

(3) No order made by the Special Court shall be deemed to be invalid merely by any subsequent proof that the age of a personas determined by it under sub-section (2) was not the correct age of that person."

16. Section 49 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 20004 read with Rule 12(3) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 20075 are reproduced below:

"49. Presumption and determination of age.--

(1). Where it appears to a competent authority that person brought before it under any of the provisions of this Act (otherwise than for the purpose of giving evidence) is a juvenile or the child, the competent authority shall make due inquiry so as to the age of that person and for that purpose shall take such evidence as may be necessary (but not an affidavit) and shall record a finding whether the person is a juvenile or the child or not, stating his age as nearly as may be.

(2). No order of a competent authority shall be deemed to have become invalid merely by any subsequent proof that the person in respect of whom the order has been made is not a juvenile or the child, and the age recorded by the competent authority to be the age of person so brought before it, shall for the purpose of this Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person."

Rule 12(3) of JJ Rules, 2007:

"12. Procedure to be followed in determination of Age: (3) In every case concerning a child or juvenile in conflict with law, the age determination inquiry shall be conducted by the court or the Board or, as the case may be, the Committee by seeking evidence by obtaining--

(a) (i) the matriculation or equivalent certificates, if available; and in the absence whereof;

(ii) the date of birth certificate from the school (other than a play school) first attended; and in the absence whereof;

(iii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(b) and only in the absence of either (i), (ii) or (iii) of clause (a) above, the medical opinion will be sought from a duly constituted Medical Board, which will declare the age of the juvenile or child. In case exact assessment of the age cannot be done, the Court or the Board or, as the case may be, the Committee, for the reasons to be recorded by them, may, if considered necessary, give benefit to the child or juvenile by considering his/her age on lower side within the margin of one year.

and, while passing orders in such case shall, after taking into consideration such evidence as may be available, or the medical opinion, as the case may be, record a finding in respect of his age and either of the evidence specified in any of the clauses (a)(i), (ii), (iii) or in the absence whereof, clause (b) shall be the conclusive proof of the age as regards such child or the juvenile in conflict with law."

V. Section 94 of JJ Act : Case Laws:

17. Organic development of legal discourse is a salient feature of statutory enactments and judicial precedents dealing with juveniles in conflict with law and child victims of crime. JJ Act, 2000 read with JJ Rules, 2007 which preceded the current enactment will aid the understanding of evolution of law, and assist the interpretation of the extant statutes.

18. While interpreting the scope and purpose of Section 32 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 1986, a provision in pari materia with Section 49 of the JJ Act, 2000, the Supreme Court in Bhola Bhagat v. State of Bihar6 observed thus:

"18. ..when a plea is raised on behalf of an accused that he was a "child" within the meaning of the definition of the expression under the Act, it becomes obligatory for the court, in case it entertains any doubt about the age as claimed by the accused, to hold an inquiry itself for determination of the question of age of the accused or cause an enquiry to be held and seek a report regarding the same, if necessary, by asking the parties to lead evidence in that regard. Keeping in view the beneficial nature of the socially oriented legislation, it is an obligation of the court where such a plea is raised to examine that plea with care and it cannot fold its hands and without returning a positive finding regarding that plea, deny the benefit of the provisions of an accused. The court must hold an enquiry and return a finding regarding the age, one way or the other..." (emphasis supplied)

19. Jitendra Ram v. State of Jharkhand7 clarified that an unentitled person cannot be dealt with leniently only on the plea of delinquency advanced by the accused. The issue of juvenility according to Jitendra Ram (supra) had to be judged in the facts and circumstances of each case on merits.

20. Rule 22 of the Jharkhand Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 2003 which is in pari materia with Rule 12 of the JJ Rules, 2007, was in issue in Babloo Pasi v. State of Jharkhand8. The Supreme Court in Babloo Pasi (supra) declined to lay down a universal formula for age determination, and instead reiterated the need to judge every case on the basis of materials and evidences before the Court by holding as under:

"22. It is well settled that it is neither feasible nor desirable to lay down an abstract formula to determine the age of a person. The date of birth is to be determined on the basis of material on record and on appreciation of evidence adduced by the parties. The Medical evidence as to the age of a person, though a very useful guiding factor, is not conclusive and has to be considered along with other cogent evidence."

21. Evidentiary value of documents like date of birth entry in school registers and manner of proving medical board opinions were appraised in the following manner in Babloo Pasi (supra):

"27. ...Section 35 of the said Act lays down that an entry in any public or other official book, register, record, stating a fact in issue or relevant fact made by a public servant in the discharge of his official duty especially enjoined by the law of the country is itself a relevant fact.

28. It is trite that to render a document admissible under Section 35, three conditions have to be satisfied, namely: (i) entry that is relied on must be one in a public or other official book, register or record; (ii) it must be an entry stating a fact in issue or a relevant fact, and (iii) it must be made by a public servant in discharge of his official duties, or in performance of his duty especially enjoined by law. An entry relating to date of birth made in the school register is relevant and admissible under Section 35 of the Act but the entry regarding the age of a person in a school register is of not much evidentiary value to prove the age of the person in the absence of the material on which the age was recorded. (emphasis supplied)

29.Therefore, on facts at hand, in the absence of evidence to show on what material the entry in the Voters List in the name of the accused was made, a mere production of a copy of the Voters List, though a public document, in terms of Section 35, was not sufficient to prove the age of the accused. Similarly, though a reference to the report of the Medical Board, showing the age of the accused as 17-18 years, has been made but there is no indication in the order whether the Board had summoned any of the members of the Medical Board and recorded their statement. It also appears that the physical appearance of the accused, has weighed with the Board in coming to the afore-noted conclusion, which again may not be a decisive factor to determine the age of a delinquent."

22. The issue of age determination under the scheme of JJ Act, 2000 read with JJ Rules, 2007 was examined in Jabar

Singh v. Dinesh and another9 in light of Section 35 of the Evidence Act by stating forth:

"27... The entry of date of birth of Respondent No.1 in the admission form, the school records and transfer certificates did not satisfy the conditions laid down in Section 35 of the Evidence Act inasmuch as the entry was not in any public or official register and was not made either by a public servant in the discharge of his official duty or by any person in performance of a duty specially enjoined by the law of the country and, therefore, the entry was not relevant under Section 35 of the Evidence Act for the purpose of determining the age of Respondent No.1 at the time of commission of the alleged offence."

23. Jabar Singh (supra) also reprised the law laid down in Jyoti Prakash Rai v. State of Bihar10 and Ravinder Singh Gorkhi v. State of U.P.11 that age has to be determined under the said statutes in the facts and circumstances of each case and upon evaluation of evidence before the Court.

24. In Jitendra Singh (supra) the Supreme Court reiterated its earlier decisions in Gopinath Ghosh v. State of West Bengal12, Bhoop Ram v. State of U.P.13, Bhola Bhagat v. State of Bihar14, and Hari Ram v. State of Rajasthan15 and did not limit the scope of an inquiry into age determination after a prima facie case for such inquiry was made out by stating:

"9.The burden of making out a prima facie case for directing an enquiry has been in our opinion discharged in the instant case inasmuch as the appellant has filed along with the application a copy of the school leaving certificate and the marksheet which mentions the date of birth of the appellant to be 24-5-1988. The medical examination to which the High Court has referred in its order granting bail to the appellant also suggests the age of the appellant being 17 years on the date of the examination. These documents are sufficient at this stage for directing an enquiry and verification of the facts.

10. We may all the same hasten to add that the material referred to above is yet to be verified and its genuineness and credibility determined. There are no doubt certain telltale circumstances that may raise a suspicion about the genuineness of the documents relied upon by the appellant. For instance, the deceased Asha Devi who was married to the appellant was according to Dr. Ashok Kumar Shukla, Pathologist, District Hospital, Rae Bareilly aged 19 years at the time of her death. This would mean as though the appellant husband was much younger to his wife which is not the usual practice in the Indian context and may happen but infrequently. So also the fact that the appellant obtained the school leaving certificate as late as on 17-11-2009 i.e. after the conclusion of the trial and disposal of the first appeal by the High Court, may call for a close scrutiny and examination of the relevant school record to determine whether the same is free from any suspicion, fabrication or manipulation. It is also alleged that the electoral rolls showed the age of the accused to be around 20 years while the extract from the panchayat register showed him to be 19 years old.

11. All these aspects would call for close and careful scrutiny by the court below while determining the age of the appellant. The date of birth of appellant Jitendra Singh's siblings and his parents may also throw considerable light upon these aspects and may have to be looked into for a proper determination of the question. Suffice it to say while for the present we consider it to be a case fit for directing an enquiry, that direction should not be taken as an expression of any final opinion as regards the true and correct age of the appellant which matter shall have to be independently examined on the basis of the relevant material."

25. Delineating the process of satisfaction to order an enquiry into juvenility and the ambit of such an enquiry, the Supreme Court in Abuzar Hossain alias Gulam Hossain v. State of West Bengal16, set forth thus:

"39.2.For making a claim with regard to juvenility after conviction, the claimant must produce some material which may prima facie satisfy the court that an inquiry into the claim of juvenility is necessary. Initial burden has to be discharged by the person who claims juvenility.

39.3 As to what materials would prima facie satisfy the court and/or are sufficient for discharging the initial burden cannot be catalogued nor can it be laid down as to what weight should be given to a specific piece of evidence which may be sufficient to raise presumption of juvenility but the documents referred to in Rule 12(3)(a)(i) to (iii) shall definitely be sufficient for prima facie satisfaction of the court about the age of the delinquent necessitating further enquiry under Rule 12. The statement recorded under Section 313 of the Code is too tentative and may not by itself be sufficient ordinarily to justify or reject the claim of juvenility. The credibility and/or acceptability of the documents like the school leaving certificate or the voters' list, etc. obtained after conviction would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no hard and fast rule can be prescribed that they must be prima facie accepted or rejected. In Akbar Sheikh2 and Pawan8 these documents were not found prima facie credible while in Jitendra Singh10 the documents viz., school leaving certificate, marksheet and the medical report were treated sufficient for directing an inquiry and verification of the appellant's age. If such documents prima facie inspire confidence of the court, the court may act upon such documents for the purposes of Section 7A and order an enquiry for determination of the age of the delinquent.

48. If one were to adopt a wooden approach, one could say nothing short of a certificate, whether from the school or a municipal authority would satisfy the court's conscience, before directing an enquiry. But, then directing an enquiry is not the same thing as declaring the accused to be a juvenile. The standard of proof required is different for both. In the former, the court simply records a prima facie conclusion. In the latter the court makes a declaration on evidence, that it scrutinises and accepts only if it is worthy of such acceptance. The approach at the stage of directing the enquiry has of necessity to be more liberal, lest, there is avoidable miscarriage of justice. Suffice it to say that while affidavits may not be generally accepted as a good enough basis for directing an enquiry, that they are not so accepted is not a rule of law but a rule of prudence. The Court would, therefore, in each case weigh the relevant factors, insist upon filing of better affidavits if the need so arises, and even direct, any additional information considered relevant including information regarding the age of the parents, the age of siblings and the like, to be furnished before it decides on a case to case basis whether or not an enquiry under Section 7A ought to be conducted. It will eventually depend on how the court evaluates such material for a prima facie conclusion that the Court may or may not direct an enquiry."

26. The Supreme Court in Mahadeo v. State of Maharasthra and another17 applied Rule 12(3)(b) of JJ Rules, 2007 for determination of age of a victim and held:

"12. .....Under Rule 12 (3) (b), it is specifically provided that only in the absence of alternative methods described under 12 (3) (a) (i) to (iii), the medical opinion can be sought for. In the light of such a statutory rule prevailing for ascertainment of the age of a juvenile, in our considered opinion, the same yardstick can be rightly followed by the Courts for the purpose of ascertaining the age of a victim as well.

(emphasis supplied)

13. In the light of our above reasoning, in the case on hand, there were certificates issued by the school in which the prosecutrix did her Vth standard and in the school leaving certificate issued by the said school under Exhibit 54, the date of birth of the prosecutrix has been clearly noted as 20.05.1990, and this document was also proved by PW-11. Apart from the transfer certificate as well as the admission form maintained by the primary school Latur, where the prosecutrix had her initial education, also confirmed the date of birth as 20.5.1990. The reliance placed upon the said evidence by the Courts below to arrive at the age of the prosecutrix to hold that the prosecutrix was below 18 years of age at the time of the occurrence was perfectly justified and we do not find any good grounds to interfere with the same."

27. The ratio in Mahadeo (supra) was followed in the State of Madhya Pradesh v. Anoop Singh18.

28. However, while applying JJ Rules, 2007 to determine the age of a victim, the Supreme Court in Jarnail Singh v. State of Haryana19 took a strict view of the provisions and narrowed the scope of the enquiry to determine the victim's age by holding:

"23.Even though Rule 12 is strictly applicable only to determine the age of a child in conflict with law, we are of the view that the aforesaid statutory provision should be the basis for determining age, even for a child who is a victim of crime. For, in our view, there is hardly any difference in so far as the issue of minority is concerned, between a child in conflict with law, and a child who is a victim of crime. Therefore, in our considered opinion, it would be just and appropriate to apply Rule 12 of the 2007 Rules, to determine the age of the prosecutrix VW-PW6. The manner of determining age conclusively, has been expressed in sub-rule (3) of Rule 12 extracted above. Under the aforesaid provision, the age of a child is ascertained, by adopting the first available basis, out of a number of options postulated in Rule 12(3). If, in the scheme of options under Rule 12(3), an option is expressed in a preceding clause, it has overriding effect over an option expressed in a subsequent clause. The highest rated option available, would conclusively determine the age of a minor. In the scheme of Rule 12(3), matriculation (or equivalent) certificate of the concerned child, is the highest rated option. In case, the said certificate is available, no other evidence can be relied upon. Only in the absence of the said certificate, Rule 12(3), envisages consideration of the date of birth entered, in the school first attended by the child. In case such an entry of date of birth is available, the date of birth depicted therein is liable to be treated as final and conclusive, and no other material is to be relied upon. Only in the absence of such entry, Rule 12(3) postulates reliance on a birth certificate issued by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat. Yet again, if such a certificate is available, then no other material whatsoever is to be taken into consideration, for determining the age of the child concerned, as the said certificate would conclusively determine the age of the child. It is only in the absence of any of the aforesaid, that Rule 12(3) postulates the determination of age of the concerned child, on the basis of medical opinion."

29. An accused person could not access protection under JJ Act, 2000, if the intent was only to cheat justice. Parag Bhati (Juvenile) through Legal Guardian-Mother-Rajni Bhati v. State of Uttar Pradesh and another20, cautioned that:

"34. It is no doubt true that if there is a clear and unambiguous case in favour of the juvenile accused that he was a minor below the age of 18 years on the date of the incident and the documentary evidence at least prima facie proves the same, he would be entitled for this special protection under the Juvenile Justice Act. But when an accused commits a grave and heinous offence and thereafter attempts to take statutory shelter under the guise of being a minor, a casual or cavalier approach while recording as to whether an accused is a juvenile or not cannot be permitted as the courts are enjoined upon to perform their duties with the object of protecting the confidence of common man in the institution entrusted with the administration of justice.

35. The benefit of the principle of benevolent legislation attached to the JJ Act would thus apply to only such cases wherein the accused is held to be a juvenile on the basis of at least prima facie evidence regarding his minority as the benefit of the possibilities of two views in regard to the age of the alleged accused who is involved in grave and serious offence which he committed and gave effect to it in a well-planned manner reflecting his maturity of mind rather than innocence indicating that his plea of juvenility is more in the nature of a shield to dodge or dupe the arms of law, cannot be allowed to come to his rescue."

30. Relying on the ratio of Abuzar Hossain (supra), it was held in Parag Bhati (supra), that contradictory evidence was sufficient to cause an inquiry into the issue of age of the accused :

"36. It is settled position of law that if the matriculation or equivalent certificates are available and there is no other material to prove the correctness, the date of birth mentioned in the matriculation certificate has to be treated as a conclusive proof of the date of birth of the accused. However, if there is any doubt or a contradictory stand is being taken by the accused which raises a doubt on the correctness of the date of birth then as laid down by this Court in Abuzar Hossain (supra), an enquiry for determination of the age of the accused is permissible which has been done in the present case."

31. A discordant view was taken by a two judge Bench of the Supreme Court in Ashwani Kumar Saxena Vs. State of M.P.21 which restricted the jurisdiction of the court and prohibited a detailed enquiry into determination of age in view of the provisions of JJ Act, 2000 read with JJ Rules, 2007.

32. However, the precedential value of Ashwani Kumar Saxena (supra) has to be viewed in light of these facts. The holdings of a three Judge Bench of the Supreme Court in Abuzar Hussain alias Gulam Hossain Vs. State of West Bengal22 was not referred to the Supreme Court in Ashwani Kumar Saxena (supra). Jabar Singh (supra), a coordinate Bench judgement continues to be good law. Finally an integrated view of the controversy was taken in Sanjeev Kumar Gupta Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh and another23.

33. Sanjeev Kumar Gupta (supra) adopted a liberal approach and widened the scope of an enquiry determining the age consistent with the holding in Abuzar Hossain (supra), but opposed to a more constricted enquiry as contemplated in Ashwani Kumar Saxena (supra) or Jarnail Singh (supra) on the following footing:

"15. The above decision in Abuzar Hossain alias Gulam Hossain (supra) was rendered on 10 October 2012. Though the earlier decision in Ashwani Kumar Saxena (supra) was not cited before the Court, it appears from the above extract that the three judge Bench observed that the credibility and acceptability of the documents, including the school leaving certificate, would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no hard and fast rule as such could be laid down. Concurring with the judgment of Justice RM Lodha, Justice TS Thakur (as the learned Chief Justice then was) observed that directing an inquiry is not the same thing as declaring the accused to be a juvenile. In the former the Court simply records a prima facie conclusion while in the latter a declaration is made on thebasis of evidence. Hence the approach at the stage of directing the inquiry has to be more liberal."

34. After extracting Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 in Sanjeev Kumar Gupta (supra) discussed the distinctions between JJ Act, 2015 and JJ Act, 2000 read with JJ Rules, 2007:

"17...Clause (i) ofSection 94(2) places the date of birth certificate from the school and the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination board inthe same category (namely (i) above). In the absence thereof category (ii) provides for obtaining the birth certificate of the corporation, municipal authority or panchayat. It is only in the absence of (i) and (ii) that age determination by means of medical analysis is provided. Section 94(2)(a)(i)indicates a significant change over the provisions which were contained in Rule 12(3)(a) of the Rules of 2007 made under the Act of 2000. Under Rule 12(3)(a)(i) the matriculation or equivalent certificate was given precedence and it was only in the event of the certificate not being available that the date of birth certificate from the school first attended, could be obtained. InSection 94(2)(i)both the date of birth certificate from the school as well as the matriculation or equivalent certificate are placed in the same category."

35. Similarly an enlarged scope of the age determination enquiry under Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 was iterated by the Supreme Court in Ram Vijay Singh v. State of Uttar Pradesh24:

"16. Apart from the said fact, there is an application submitted by the appellant himself for obtaining an Arms Licence prior to the date of the incident. In such application, he has given his date of birth as 30.12.1961 which would make him of 21 years of age on the date of the incident i.e. 20.7.1982. The Court is not precluded from taking into consideration any other relevant and trustworthy material to determine the age as all the three eventualities mentioned in sub-section (2) ofSection 94of the Act are either not available or are not found to be reliable and trustworthy. Since there is a document signed by the appellant much before the date of occurrence, therefore, we are of the opinion that the appellant cannot be treated to be juvenile on the date of incident as he was more than 21 years of age as per his application submitted to obtain the Arms Licence."

36. More recently the parameters of enquiry for determination of age under the JJ Act, 2015 arose for consideration before the Supreme Court in Rishipal Singh Solanki v. State of Uttar Pradesh and others25.

37. Rishipal Singh Solanki (supra) first noticed the contrasting features of the J.J.Act, 2015 and J.J. Rules, 2007:

"29. The difference in the procedure under the two enactments could be discerned as under:

"29.1. As per JJ Act, 2015 in the absence of requisite documents as mentioned in Sub-section (2) of Section 94(a)and (b), there is provision for determination of the age by an ossification test or any other medical age related test to be conducted on the orders of the Committee or the JJ Board as perSection 94of the said Act; whereas, under Rule 12 of the JJ Rules, 2007, in the absence of relevant documents, a medical opinion had to be sought from a duly constituted Medical Board which would declare the age of the juvenile or child. Rule 12 of the JJ Rules, 2007 has been provided under sub-section 2of section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 as a substantive provision.

29.3. Under Section 49 of the JJ Act, 2000, where it appeared to a competent authority that a person brought before it was a juvenile or a child, then such authority could, after making an inquiry and taking such evidence as was necessary, record a finding as to the juvenility of such person and state the age of such person as nearly as may be. Sub-section (2) ofSection 49stated that no order of a competent authority shall be deemed to have become invalid merely by any subsequent proof that the person in respect of whom the order had been made is not a juvenile and the age recorded by the competent authority to be the age of person so brought before it, for the purpose of the Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person.

30. But, under Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015, which also deals with presumption and determination of age, the Committee or the JJ Board has to record such observation stating the age of the child as nearly as may be and proceed with the inquiry without waiting for furtherconfirmation of the age. It is only when the Committee or the JJ Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, it can undertake the process of age determination, by seeking evidence.

31. Sub-section (3) ofSection 94states that the age recorded by the Committee or the JJ Board to be the age of the persons so brought before it shall, for the purpose of the Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person. Thus, there is a finality attached to the determination of the age recorded and it is only in a case where reasonable grounds exist for doubt as to whether the person brought before the Committee or the Board is a child or not, that a process of age determination by seeking evidence has to be undertaken."

38. Thereafter, upon analysis of cases in point Rishipal Singh (supra) thus sums up the law:

"33.2.3. When an application claiming juvenility is made under section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 before the JJ Board when the matter regarding the alleged commission of offence is pending before a Court, then the procedure contemplated under section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 would apply. Under the said provision if the JJ Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Board shall undertake the process of age determination by seeking evidence and the age recorded by the JJ Board to be the age of the person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of the JJ Act, 2015, be deemed to be true age of that person. Hence the degree of proof required in such a proceeding before the JJ Board, when an application is filed seeking a claim ofjuvenility when the trial is before the concerned criminal court, is higher than when an inquiry is made by a court before which the case regarding the commission of the offence is pending (vide section 9 of the JJ Act, 2015).

33.3. That when a claim for juvenility is raised, the burden is on the person raising the claim to satisfy the Court to discharge the initial burden. However, the documents mentioned in Rule 12(3)(a)(i), (ii), and (iii) of the JJ Rules 2007 made under the JJ Act, 2000 or sub-section (2) of section 94 of JJ Act, 2015, shall be sufficient for prima facie satisfaction of the Court. On the basis of the aforesaid documents a presumption of juvenility may be raised.

33.4. The said presumption is however not conclusive proof of the age of juvenility and the same may be rebutted by contra evidence let in by the opposite side.

33.5. That the procedure of an inquiry by a Court is not the same thing as declaring the age of the person as a juvenile sought before the JJ Board when the case is pending for trial before the concerned criminal court. In case of an inquiry, the Court records a prima facie conclusion but when there is a determination of age as per sub-section (2) ofsection 94of 2015 Act, a declaration is made on the basis of evidence. Also the age recorded by the JJ Board shall be deemed to be the true age of the person brought before it. Thus, the standard of proof in an inquiry is different from that required in a proceeding where the determination and declaration of the age of a person has to be made on the basis of evidence scrutinised and accepted only if worthy of such acceptance.

33.6. That it is neither feasible nor desirable to lay down an abstract formula todetermine the age of a person. It has to be on the basis of the material on record and on appreciation of evidence adduced by the parties in each case.

33.7. This Court has observed that a hyper-technical approach should not be adopted when evidence is adduced on behalf of the accused in support of the plea that he was a juvenile.

33.8. If two views are possible on the same evidence, the court should lean in favour of holding the accused to be a juvenile in borderline cases. This is in order to ensure that the benefit of the JJ Act, 2015 is made applicable to the juvenile in conflict with law. At the same time, the Court should ensure that the JJ Act, 2015 is not misused by persons to escape punishment after having committed serious offences.

33.9. That when the determination of age is on the basis of evidence such as school records, it is necessary that the same would have to be considered as perSection 35of the Indian Evidence Act, inasmuch as any public or official document maintained in the discharge of official duty would have greater credibility than private documents.

33.10. Any document which is in consonance with public documents, such as matriculation certificate, could be accepted by the Court or the JJ Board provided such public document is credible and authentic as per the provisions of theIndian Evidence Actviz.,section 35and other provisions.

33.11. Ossification Test cannot be the sole criterion for age determination and a mechanical view regarding the age of a person cannot be adopted solely on the basis of medical opinion by radiological examination. Such evidence is notconclusive evidence but only a very useful guiding factor to be considered in the absence of documents mentioned in Section 94(2) of the JJ Act, 2015."

39. Social realities and absence of reliable age related documents on many occasions were underlined in Mukarrab and others v. State of Uttar Pradesh26.

"10. Age determination is essential to find out whether or not the person claiming to be a child is below the cut-off age prescribed for application of the Juvenile Justice Act. The issue of age determination is of utmost importance as very few children subjected to the provisions of the Juvenile Justice Act have a birth certificate. As juvenile in conflict with law usually do not have any documentary evidence, age determination, cannot be easily ascertained, specially in borderline cases. Medical examination leaves a margin of about two years on either side even if ossification test of multiple joints is conducted.

11. Time and again, the questions arise: How to determine age in the absence of birth certificate? Should documentary evidence be preferred over medical evidence? How to use the medical evidence? Is the standard of proof, a proof beyond reasonable doubt or can the age be determined by preponderance of evidence? Should the person whose age cannot be determined exactly, be given the benefit of doubt and be treated as a child? In the absence of a birth certificate issued soon after birth by the concerned authority, determination of age becomes a very difficult task providing a lot of discretion to the Judges to pick and choose evidence. In different cases, different evidence has been used to determine the age of the accused.

22. A reading of the above decision in Darga Ram alias Gunga's case shows that courts need to be aware of the fact that age determination of the concerned persons cannot be certainly ascertained in the absence of original and valid documentary proof and there would always lie a possibility that the age of the concerned person may vary plus or minus two years. Even in the presence of medical opinion, the Court showed a tilt towards the juvenility of the accused. However, it is pertinent to note that such an approach in Darga Ram alias Gunga's case was taken in the specific facts and circumstances of that particular case and any attempt of generalising the said approach could not be justifiably entertained."

40. Clearly the courts do not resist introduction of evidence beyond the documents enumerated in Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 to arrive at the truth and to serve justice the facts and circumstances of a case so require.

VI. The Two Presumptions:

a. Presumption of correctness of age related documents under Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015:

b. Presumptions under Section 29 of the POCSO Act, 2012:

41. The controversy has to seen from another perspective as well. Section 94 of the J.J. Act, 2015 creates a hierarchy of documents which corresponds to the degree of reliability. From a bare reading, the provision envisages that where a document higher in the said pecking order is available, the documents lower in the statutory preference shall not be received in evidence.

42. Such an embargo on receiving evidence is made on the foot of the concept of presumption of facts. In the context of the JJ Act, 2015, it means that when a document higher on the preferential scale of Section 94 of the J.J. Act, 2015 is produced, it is presumed to be correct and sufficient to establish the age of the victim. Thus the need for any other evidence is obviated and reception of further evidence is proscribed.

43. The second presumption relevant to the current controversy is engrafted in Sections 29 and 30 of POCSO Act, 2012. The provision reads as under:

"29. Presumption as to certain offences: Where a person is prosecuted for committing or abetting or attempting to commit any offence under sections 3, 5, 7 and section 9 of this Act, the Special Court shall presume, that such person has committed or abetted or attempted to commit the offence, as the case may be unless the contrary is proved.

30. Presumption of culpable mental state. (1) In any prosecution for any offence under this Act which requires a culpable mental state on the part of the accused, the Special Court shall presume the existence of such mental state but it shall be a defence for the accused to prove the fact that he had no such mental state with respect to the act charged as an offence in that prosecution.

(2) For the purposes of this section, a fact is said to be proved only when the Special Court believes it to exist beyond reasonable doubt and not merely when its existence is established by a preponderance of probability."

44. The concept of presumptions in evidential law is applied by the legislature to dispense with the proof of certain facts. The discussion will benefit from judicial precedents which analyse the first principles of law of presumptions and its applicability in the context of various statutes.

45. Noticing the presumptions with regard to the culpable mental state of the accused in NDPS Act, the Supreme Court in Noor Aga v. State of Punjab27 emphatically protected the norms on fair trial and the rights of an accused by holding:

"57. It is also necessary to bear in mind that superficially a case may have an ugly look and thereby, prima facie, shaking the conscience of any courtbut it is well settled that suspicion, however high may be, can under no circumstances, be held to be a substitute for legal evidence.

58. Sections 35and54of the Act, no doubt, raise presumptions with regard to the culpable mental state on the part of the accused as also place burden of proof in this behalf on the accused; but a bare perusal the said provision would clearly show that presumption would operate in the trial of the accused only in the event the circumstances contained therein are fully satisfied. An initial burden exists upon the prosecution and only when it stands satisfied, the legal burden would shift. Even then, the standard of proof required for the accused to prove his innocence is not as high as that of the prosecution. Whereas the standard of proof required to prove the guilt of accused on the prosecution is "beyond all reasonable doubt" but it is "preponderance of probability' on the accused. If the prosecution fails to prove the foundational facts so as to attract the rigours ofSection 35of the Act, the actus reus which is possession of contraband by the accused cannot be said to have been established.

59. With a view to bring within its purview the requirements ofSection 54of the Act, element of possession of the contraband was essential so as to shift the burden on the accused. The provisions being exceptions to thegeneral rule, the generality thereof would continue to be operative, namely, the element of possession will have to be proved beyond reasonable doubt.

60. Whether the burden on the accused is a legal burden or an evidentiary burden would depend on the statute in question. The purport and object thereof must also be taken into consideration in determining the said question. It must pass the test of doctrine of proportionality. The difficulties faced by the prosecution in certain cases may be held to be sufficient to arrive at an opinion that the burden on the accused is an evidentiary burden and not merely a legal burden. The trial must be fair. The accused must be provided with opportunities to effectively defend himself."

46. The judgement of Noor Aga (supra) was affirmed by the majority view in the three Judge judgement rendered by the Supreme Court in Tofan Singh Vs. State of Tamil Nadu.28

47. The presumption of culpable mental state under Section 29 of POCSO Act, 2012 shall now be adverted to. The discussion will commence with the brief observations made in State of Bihar Vs. Rajballav Prasad alias Rajballav Prasad Yadav29:

"22. Further, while making a general statement of law that the accused is innocent, till proved guilty, the provisions of Section 29 of thePocsoAct have not been taken into consideration, which reads follows:

"29.Presumption as to certain offences.--Where a person is prosecuted for committing or abetting or attempting to commit any offence under Sections 3, 5, 7 and Section 9 of this Act, the Special Court shall presume, that such person has committed or abetted or attempted to commit the offence, as the case may be unless the contrary is proved."

48. The conditions precedent for applying the statutory presumption of culpable intent against an accused were enumerated after a scholarly foundation by Joymalya Bagchi, J. in Sahid Hossain Biswas v. State of West Bengal30:

"23. A conjoint reading of the statutory provision in the light of the definitions, as aforesaid, would show that in a prosecution under the POCSO Act an accused is to prove `the contrary', that is, he has to prove that he has not committed the offence and he is innocent. It is trite law that negative cannot be proved [see Sait Tarajee Khimchand v. Yelamarti Satyam, (1972) 4 SCC 562, Para-15]. In order to prove a contrary fact, the fact whose opposite is sought to be established must be proposed first. It is, therefore, an essential prerequisite that the foundational facts of the prosecution case must be established by leading evidence before the aforesaid statutory presumption is triggered in to shift the onus on the accused to prove the contrary.

24. Once the foundation of the prosecution case is laid by leading legally admissible evidence, it becomes incumbent on the accused to establish from the evidence on record that he has not committed the offence or to show from the circumstances of a particular case that a man of ordinary prudence would most probably draw an inference of innocence in his favour. The accused may achieve such an end by leading defence evidence or by discrediting prosecution witnesses through effective cross-examination or by exposing the patent absurdities or inherent infirmities in their version by an analysis of the special features of the case. However, the aforesaid statutory presumption cannot be read to mean that the prosecution version is to be treated as gospel truth in every case. The presumption does not take away the essential duty of the Court to analyse the evidence on record in the light of the special features of a particular case, eg. patent absurdities or inherent infirmities in the prosecution version or existence of entrenched enmity between the accused and the victim giving rise to an irresistible inference of falsehood in the prosecution case while determining whether the accused has discharged his onus and established his innocence in the given facts of a case. To hold otherwise, would compel the Court to mechanically accept the mere ipse dixit of the prosecution and give a stamp of judicial approval to every prosecution, howsoever, patently absurd or inherently improbable it may be."

49. The time honoured and time tested rule of evidence that no presumption is absolute, and every presumption is rebuttable forms the basis of the judgement rendered by Manish Pitale, J. in Navin Dhaniram Baraiye v. The State of Maharashtra31, while interpreting the scope of presumption of culpable intent under Section 29 of the POCSO Act :

"18. A perusal of the above quoted provision does show that it is for the accused to prove the contrary and in case he fails to do so, the presumption would operate against him leading to his conviction under the provisions of the POCSO Act. It cannot be disputed that no presumption is absolute and every presumption is rebuttable. It cannot be countenanced that the presumption under Section 29 of the POCSO Act is absolute. It would come into operation only when the prosecution is first able to establish facts that would form the foundation for the presumption under Section 29 of the POCSO Act to operate. Otherwise, all that the prosecution would be required to do is to file a charge sheet against the accused under the provisions of the said Act and then claim that the evidence of the prosecution witnesses would have to be accepted as gospel truth and further that the entire burden would be on the accused to prove to the contrary. Such a position of law or interpretation of the presumption under Section 29 of the POCSO Act cannot be accepted as it wouldclearly violate the constitutional mandate that no person shall be deprived of liberty except in accordance with procedure established by law.

24. The above quoted views of the Courts elucidate the position of law insofar as presumption under Section 29 of the POCSO Act is concerned. It becomes clear that although the provision states that the Court shall presume that the accused has committed the offence for which he is charged under the POCSO Act, unless the contrary is proved, the presumption would operate only upon the prosecution first proving foundational facts against the accused, beyond reasonable doubt. Unless the prosecution is able to prove foundational facts in the context of the allegations made against the accused under the POCSO Act, the presumption under Section29 of the said Act would not operate against the accused. Even if the prosecution establishes such facts and the presumption is raised against the accused, he can rebut the same either by discrediting prosecution witnesses through cross-examination demonstrating that the prosecution case is improbable or absurd or the accused could lead evidence to prove his defence, in order to rebut the presumption. In either case, the accused is required to rebut the presumption on the touchstone of preponderance of probability."

(emphasis supplied)

50. The Kerala High Court in Joy V.S. v. State of Kerala32, highlighted the limitations of the statutory presumption under Section 29 of the POCSO Act, 2012 in the backdrop of Rajballav Prasad (supra) by observing:

"10. This court is not oblivious toSection 29of the Act which contains a legislative mandate that the court shall presume commission of the offences by the accused unless the contrary is proved.Section 29of the Act states that where a person is prosecuted for committing or abetting or attempting to commit any offence underSections 3,5,7and9of the Act, the Special Court shall presume, that such person has committed or abetted or attempted to commit the offence, as the case may be, unless the contrary is proved. The court shall take into consideration the presumption underSection 29of the Act while dealing with an application for bail filed by a person who is accused of the aforesaid offences under the Act (See: State of Bihar v. Rajvallav Prasad, (2017) 2 SCC 178 : AIR 2017 SC 630).

11. However, the statutory presumption underSection 29 of the Act does not mean that the prosecution version has to be accepted as gospel truth in every case. The presumption does not mean that the court cannot take into consideration the special features of a particular case. Patent absurdities or inherent infirmities or improbabilities in the prosecution version may lead to an irresistible inference of falsehood in the prosecution case. The presumption would come into play only when the prosecution is able to bring on record facts that would form the foundation for the presumption. Otherwise, all that the prosecution would be required to do is to raise some allegations against the accused and to claim that the case projected by it is true. The courts must be on guard to see that the application of the presumption, without adverting to essential facts, shall not lead to any injustice. The presumption underSection 29of the Act is not absolute. The statutory presumption would get activated or triggered only if the prosecution proves the essential basic facts. If the accused is able to create serious doubt on the veracity of the prosecution case or the accused brings on record materials which would render the prosecution version highly improbable, the presumption would get weakened. As held by the Apex Court inSiddharam Satlingappa Mhetre v. State of Maharashtra, frivolity in prosecution should always be considered and in the event of there being some doubt as to the genuineness of the prosecution, in the normal course of events, the accused is entitled to an order of anticipatory bail. No inflexible guidelines or straitjacket formula can be provided for grant or refusal of anticipatory bail. It should necessarily depend on facts and circumstances of each case in consonance with the legislative intention."

51. The following questions were framed by the Delhi High Court while determining the scope of Section 29 of the POCSO Act, 2012 and the stage of its applicability in Dharmander Singh v. State (Govt. of NCT of Delhi)33:

"41...iii. When and at what stage does the 'presumption of guilt' as engrafted insection 29get triggered ? and

iv. Does the presumption apply only at the stage of trial or does it also apply when a bail plea is being considered ?

v. Does the applicability or rigour ofsection 29depend on whether a bail plea is being considered before or after charges have been framed ?"

52. Bhambhani, J. in Dharmander Singh (supra), summed up the law in the following manner:

"50. Drawing from the verdict of the Supreme Court and the views taken by the various High Courts in the above cases, in essence, the position is that to rebut a presumption, first, the presumptive proposition must itself be formulated based on relevant and credible material ; and second, the accused must know what presumption he has to rebut. It is not enough to say that the accused has been implicated by the police on charges undersections 3,5,7, and/or 9 of the POSCO Act. At the very least, the charges should have been framed by court against the accused under one or more of those sections for the presumption to arise; and mere implication by the police is not enough.

51. Only when the trial court frames charges, does it form a prima facie opinion that there is a case for the accused to answer and defend. At the stage of framing charges, the trial court may decide not to frame charges against an accused under any of the sections mentioned insection 29but under some other provision; or, it may not frame charges against all accused persons under those sections. So, the presumption undersection 29cannot arise before charges are framed. (emphasis supplied)

52. If the presumption of guilt is taken to arise even before charges are framed, say when a court is considering a bail application, then the court will have to afford to the accused an opportunity to prove that he has not committed the offence; which would require the court to conduct a mini-trial, even when it is only considering a bail plea. What then would remain to be done during the trial itself ? In the opinion of this court it is not the purport ofsection 29that a mini-trial should be conducted at the stage of deciding a bail application. No such concept is known to law. Requiring production and analysis of evidence to form an opinion on the merits of the allegations; and toexpress a view on such evidence, is certainly not within the remit of a court considering a bail plea.

53. Reprising the fundamental tenets of criminal jurisprudence and processual landmarks in constitutional law, Dharmander Singh (supra) explained the ratio of Rajballav Prasad (supra) by holding:

"66. Thatsection 29has been engrafted in the POCSO Act does not mean that the presumption of innocence, which is a foundational tenet of criminal jurisprudence, is to be thrown to the winds. If section 29is so interpreted as to apply it to the stage even before charges are framed, it would not pass constitutional muster sinceArticle 21of our Constitution requires that all substantive as well as procedural provisions must be reasonable, just and fair, as held inter alia in Maneka Gandhi (supra). Such interpretation ofsection 29would also render the right of the accused to a fair trial nugatory and dead letter, which would again do violence to the constitutional guarantee contained inArticle 21.

67. Applyingsection 29to bail proceedings at a stage before charges are framed, would in effect mean that the accused must prove that he has not committed the offence even before he is told the precise offence he is charged with, which would do violence to all legal rationality.

68. In view of the above discussion and after considering the opinion of the Supreme Court and the views taken by the other High Courts, this court is persuaded to hold that the presumption of guilt engrafted insection 29gets triggered and applies only once trial begins, that is after charges are framed against the accused but not before that. The significance of the opening words ofsection 29"where a person is prosecuted" is that until charges are framed, the person is not being prosecuted but is being investigated or is in the process of being charged. Accordingly, if a bail plea is considered at any stage prior to framing of charges,section 29has no application since upto that stage an accused is not being prosecuted.

69. Therefore, if a bail plea is being considered before charges have been framed,section 29has no application ; and the grant or refusal of bail is to be decided on the usual and ordinary settled principles.

70. Now coming to a scenario where a bail plea is being considered at a stage after charges have been framed, in keeping with the observations of the Supreme Court in Rajballav Prasad (supra), the presumption of guilt contained insection 29would get triggered and will have to be "taken into consideration".

71. However, the dilemma would remain as to how the presumption of guilt contained insection 29is to be applied even after charges have been framed, when the accused has not been given the opportunity to rebut such presumption. Whensection 29engrafts the presumption of guilt against the accused, it also affords an opportunity to the accused to rebut the presumption by proving to the contrary. It cannot possibly be that the court should invoke half the provision ofsection 29while ignoring the other half, much less to the detriment of the accused. But even after charges are framed, the accused does not get the opportunity to rebut the presumption or to prove the contrary by leading defence evidence, until prosecution evidence is concluded. It would be anathema to fundamental criminal jurisprudence to ask the accused to disclose his defence; or, worse still, to adduce evidence in his defence even before the prosecution has marshalled its evidence. Again therefore, even for a stage after charges have been framed,section 29cannot be applied in absolute terms to a bail plea without doing violence to the 'due process' and 'fair trial' tenets read intoArticle 21of our Constitution.

74. As always, when faced with such dilemma, the court must apply the golden principle of balancing rights. In the opinion of this court therefore, at the stage of considering a bail plea after charges have been framed, the impact ofsection 29would only be to raise the threshold of satisfaction required before a court grants bail. What this means is that the court would consider the evidence placed by the prosecution along with the charge-sheet, provided it is admissible in law, more favorably for the prosecution and evaluate, though without requiring proof of evidence, whether the evidence so placed is credible or whether it ex facie appears that the evidence will not sustain the weight of guilt."

54. With the advantage of good authorities, the discussion on this issue can now be concluded with the following summation:

1. The presumptions contemplated by law may vary from statute to statute as regards their nature and manner of applicability.

3. Application of the presumptions contemplated in statutes does not preclude the courts from considering peculiar facts and circumstances of a case, nor do they compel the courts to accept the prosecution version as a gospel truth without due application of mind.

2. The stage and manner in which the presumption shall apply will depend on the statutory scheme, facts and circumstances of a case and the nature of evidence.

4. All presumptions are rebuttable. A challenge can weaken or rebut the presumption.

5. The presumptions shall be applied in a manner that they are consistent with the first principles of fair trial in criminal jurisprudence and due process in constitutional processual jurisprudence.

6. The condition precedent for triggering the presumption is that the primary or foundational facts have to be established by the prosecution by attaining standard of evidence which is beyond reasonable doubt and in accordance with law.

7. Presumptions created in a statute will be attracted by the following process. In the first instance after the primary or foundational facts have to be established by applicable standards of evidence. At this stage, the accused will be alerted to his right to assail the presumption. The accused has to be afforded an opportunity to rebut the presumption. After these prerequisites are satisfied, the presumption may ripen into an established fact and made the basis of a judicial finding upon consideration of evidences in the facts and circumstances of a case.

7. The manner and stage of triggering the presumption regarding age related documents under Section 94 of the JJ Act for a juvenile offender shall differ from the case of a minor victim and against an adult accused under the POCSO Act.

8. Prematurely triggering the presumptions under Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 and Section 29 of the POCSO Act, 2012 or inappropriately applying them at the stage of bail will violate the law and cause miscarriage of justice.

VII. Norms of fair procedure in criminal jurisprudence and presumptions under Section 94 of JJ Act and Section 29 of the POCSO Act:

55. Fair trial is the right of an accused and defines the credibility of the criminal justice system. The right of an accused to fair trial and bail also flows from settled canons of criminal jurisprudence and constitutional imperative of fair procedure enshrined in Article 21 of the Constitution of India (see Maneka Gandhi vs. Union of India34). Also see Dharmender Singh (supra) which imports holdings on constitutional processual jurisprudence into criminal trial procedures and bails to uphold the rights of an accused.

56. Some of the established norms of fair trial distilled from authorities on criminal and constitutional processual jurisprudence are these. An accused is innocent till he is proven guilty in accordance with law. In fact "presumption of innocence is a human right". (See Narendra Singh v. State of M.P35 and Ranjitsing Brahmajeetsing Sharma v. State of Maharashtra36). The burden of proving the charge against an accused lies on the prosecution. The prosecution cannot be relieved of such burden in a casual manner. The standards of proving guilt in a criminal case is to prove the incriminating fact beyond reasonable doubt. Full opportunity has to be afforded to an accused to adduce admissible evidence in his defence. The courts have a duty to ensure fairness of a trial.

57. Upon appraising evidence in case multiple conclusions can be drawn, the one in favour of an accused shall be preferred by the court. Similarly, while interpreting a criminal provision if more than one view is possible, the court shall adopt the interpretation favourable to the accused.

58. Juveniles in conflict with law are treated as a separate class by the legislature. The JJ Act, 2015 is alert to the plight of juvenile offenders and also addresses issues raised in prosecution of juveniles. The enactment is reformative in intent and ameliorative in its content. The JJ Act, 2015 clips procedure and limits evidence to shorten the period of trial and to soften the rigours of criminal prosecution for a juvenile offender. Such measures are intended to pave the way for the successful integration of juvenile offenders as responsible citizens in the society.

59. Adult offenders being prosecuted under the POCSO Act are not similarly placed by the legislature as juvenile accused.

60. Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 was devised for juveniles in conflict with law but it is also applied to determine the age of child victims of sexual offences committed by adult accused. While determining a POCSO victim's age under Section 94 of the J. J. Act, 2015, it has to be acknowledged that there is a difference in the claim of juvenility raised by the accused, and the claim of minority of a victim set up by the prosecution.

61. Interpretation of the provisions of Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 read with Rule 54(18)(iv) of the JJ Rules, 2016 has to be made in a manner that it does not lead to miscarriage of justice for adult offenders accused under the POCSO Act. Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015, abridges the age determination procedure to benefit juvenile offenders, but its purpose is not to undermine the rights of adult accused.

62. Under the JJ Act, 2015 age of a juvenile offender is determined by "seeking evidence only if the Board/Committee entertains reasonable doubt as to whether person brought before it is a child or not" [See Rishipal Singh (supra)]. However, the age of a child victim has to be established by evidence beyond reasonable doubt in the first instance before charges can be brought home against an adult accused under the POCSO Act.

63. Benefit of two years margin of error in medical determination of age is given to juvenile offenders [See para 33.8 Rishipal Singh (supra)]. But such relaxation cannot be given while considering a medical report determining the age of a victim in a manner prejudicial to the right of the adult accused.

64. Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 does not lighten the burden of the prosecution to prove primary facts by adducing evidence which reaches the standard of "beyond reasonable doubt". The primary facts to trigger the presumption in the context of the age of a victim are the age related documents mentioned in Section 94 of the J J Act, 2015.

65. Once the said documents are proved "beyond reasonable doubt" the prosecution may invoke the presumption of correctness of age recorded therein and contest introduction of further evidence. However, even at that stage the court may of its own volition or at the instance of the accused decline such plea and receive additional evidence to seek out true facts and serve justice. The courts also have an obligation to ensure that best evidence is produced at the trial.

66. Rights of an accused to assail the prosecution evidences relating to the age of the victim or to adduce further evidence to rebut the prosecution case can not be infringed.

67. Section 29 of the POCSO Act, 2012 creates a presumption of culpable intent against the accused person. The provision cannot be read to mean that the accused shall be presumed to be guilty at the lodgement of the F.I.R. or criminal complaint till proven innocent at the trial. The presumption of innocence which is a fundamental tenet of criminal jurisprudence cannot be turned on its head by a faulty interpretation of the provision. The prosecution has to establish primary facts after attaining the required standards of evidence to trigger the presumption of culpable intent.

VIII. Right of Bail:

a. Constitutional Perspectives:

68. The right to bail is derived from statute but cannot be isolated from constitutional oversight.

69. Good authority has long entrenched the right of an accused to seek bail in the charter of fundamental rights assured by the Constitution of India.

70. Bail jurisprudence was firmly embedded in the constitutional regime of fundamental rights in Gudikanti Narasimhulu and Others Vs. Public Prosecutor, High Court of Andhra Pradesh37. Casting an enduring proposition of law in eloquent speech, V.R. Krishna Iyer, J. held:

"1. Bail or jail?" -- at the pre-trial or post-conviction stage -- belongs to the blurred area of the criminal justice system and largely hinges on the hunch of the Bench, otherwise called judicial discretion. The Code is cryptic on this topic and the Court prefers to be tacit, be the order custodial or not. And yet, the issue is one of liberty, justice, public safety and burden of the public treasury, all of which insist that a developed jurisprudence of bail is integral to a socially sensitized judicial process. As Chamber Judge in this summit court I have to deal with this uncanalised case-flow, ad hoc response to the docket being the flickering candle light. So it is desirable that the subject is disposed of on basic principle, not improvised brevity draped as discretion. Personal liberty, deprived when bail is refused, is too precious a value of our constitutional system recognised under Article 21 that the curial power to negate it is a great trust exercisable, not casually but judicially, with lively concern for the cost to the individual and the community. To glamorize impressionistic orders as discretionary may, on occasions, make a litigative gamble decisive of a fundamental right. After all, personal liberty of an accused or convict is fundamental, suffering lawful eclipse only in terms of "procedure established by law". The last four words of Article 21 are the life of that human right."

71. Engagement of fundamental rights in bail jurisprudence is a constant in constitutional law.

72. The nexus of fundamental liberties of the citizens and the right of bail came to the fore in Hussain and another Vs. Union of India38, when the Supreme Court was alerted to the issue of delay in consideration of grant of bail applications in the courts. In Hussain (supra), it was enjoined:

"22. Timeline for disposal of bail applications ought to be fixed by the High Court."

"29.1.1.Bail applications be disposed of normally within one week;"

73. Nearer home the Allahabad High Court in Emperor Vs. H.L. Hutchinson and another39 stated that grant of bail is the rule and refusal is the exception on the foot of the following reasons:

"11. The principle to be deduced from sections 496 and 497 of the Criminal Procedure Code, therefore, is that grant of bail is the rule and refusal is the exception. That this must be so is not at all difficult to see. An accused person is presumed under the law to be innocent till his guilt is proved. As a presumably innocent person he is entitled to freedom and every opportunity to look after his own case. It goes without saying that an accused person, if he enjoys freedom, will be in a much better position to look after his case and to properly defend himself than if he were in custody. One of the complaints made by the applicants in this case is that their letters sent from the custody have been opened and inspected and censored, and, therefore, they were not in a position to conduct their defence with the aid of such friends as may he outside the prison. As I have said, it is obvious that a presumably innocent person should have his freedom to enable him to establish his innocence."

74. The Supreme Court set its face against restrictions on the power of the courts to grant bail in Ranjitsingh Brahmajeetsing Sharmav.State of Maharashtra40 by observing:

"38.We are furthermore of the opinion that the restrictions on the power of the court to grant bail should not be pushed too far."

75. Constitutionality of onerous conditions for grant of bail imposed by Section 45 of the Money Laundering Act, 2002 was in issue in Nikesh Tarachand Shah Vs. Union of India and another41. This narrative will profit from a detailed consideration of the judgment.

76. The Supreme Court in Nikesh Tarachand (supra) predicated its conclusions by delving into the jurisprudential origins of bails:

"18.What is important to learn from this history is that Clause 39 of the Magna Carta was subsequently extended to pre-trial imprisonment, so that persons could be enlarged on bail to secure their attendance for the ensuing trial. It may only be added that one century after the Bill of Rights, the US Constitution borrowed the language of the Bill of Rights when the principle of habeas corpus found its way into Article 1 Section 9 of the US Constitution, followed by the Eighth Amendment to the Constitution which expressly states that, "excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted". We may only add that the Eighth Amendment has been read into Article 21 by a Division Bench of this Court inRajesh Kumarv.State[Rajesh Kumarv.State, (2011) 13 SCC 706 : (2012) 2 SCC (Cri) 836] at paras 60 and 61."

77. The enquiry into the constitutional validity of the assailed provisions began with the tests for violation of Article 14 "both in its discriminatory aspect and its manifestly arbitrary aspect".

78. The discussion then proceeded to probe the effect of Article 21 of the Constitution of India on the offending provisions for grant of bail. This enquiry was overlaid with a consideration of authorities "on the concept of due process in our constitutional jurisprudence whenever the court has to deal with a question affecting life and liberty of citizens".

79. Finally in Nikesh Tarachand (supra), the onerous conditions for grant of bail in Section 45 (1) of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002, were declared unconstitutional being violative of Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution of India:

"46.We must not forget that Section 45 is a drastic provision which turns on its head the presumption of innocence which is fundamental to a person accused of any offence. Before application of a section which makes drastic inroads into the fundamental right of personal liberty guaranteed by Article 21 of the Constitution of India, we must be doubly sure that such provision furthers a compelling State interest for tackling serious crime. Absent any such compelling State interest, the indiscriminate application of the provisions of Section 45 will certainly violate Article 21 of the Constitution. Provisions akin to Section 45 have only been upheld on the ground that there is a compelling State interest in tackling crimes of an extremely heinous nature." (emphasis supplied)

80. The following statement of law propounded in Maneka Gandhi vs. Union of India42 will fortify this narrative:

"81... Procedure established by law", with its lethal potentiality, will reduce life and liberty to a precarious plaything if we do not ex necessitate import into those weighty words an adjectival rule of law, civilised in its soul, fair in its heart and fixing those imperatives of procedural protection absent which the processual tail will wag the substantive head. Can the sacred essence of the human right to secure which the struggle for liberation, with "do or die" patriotism, was launched be sapped by formalistic and pharisaic prescriptions, regardless of essential standards? An enacted apparition is a constitutional illusion. Processual justice is writ patently on Article 21. It is too grave to be circumvented by a black letter ritual processed through the legislature."

81. In Arnab Manoranjan Goswami Vs. State of Maharashtra and Others,43 the status of liberty in our constitutional value system, realities of the criminal justice process, and nature of the right of bail came up squarely for consideration.

82. The Supreme Court in Arnab Goswami (supra) was cognizant of the tendency to misuse criminal law and held unequivocally that the courts have to ensure that criminal law does not become "weapon for the selective harassment of the citizens".

83. The self imposed fetters on grant of bail under Article 226 of the Constitution of India were removed. The first principles of writ jurisdiction for upholding the fundamental liberties of the citizens were reiterated:

"63....However, the High Court should not foreclose itself from the exercise of the power when a citizen has been arbitrarily deprived of their personal liberty in an excess of state power.

64.While considering an application for the grant of bail under Article 226 in a suitable case, the High Court must consider the settled factors which emerge from the precedents of this Court."

84. Reinforcing the connection between the concept of liberty and the process of criminal law, the Supreme Court in Arnab Goswami (supra), discussed the attributes of liberty and delineated the duties of courts:

"67. Human liberty is a precious constitutional value, which is undoubtedly subject to regulation by validly enacted legislation..... Courts must be alive to the need to safeguard the public interest in ensuring that the due enforcement of criminal law is not obstructed. The fair investigation of crime is an aid to it. Equally it is the duty of courts across the spectrum - the district judiciary, the High Courts and the Supreme Court - to ensure that the criminal law does not become a weapon for the selective harassment of citizens. Courts should be alive to both ends of the spectrum - the need to ensure the proper enforcement of criminal law on the one hand and the need, on the other, of ensuring that the law does not become a ruse for targeted harassment. Liberty across human eras is as tenuous as tenuous can be. Liberty survives by the vigilance of her citizens, on the cacophony of the media and in the dusty corridors of courts alive to the rule of (and not by) law. Yet, much too often, liberty is a casualty when one of these components is found wanting."

"68...Our courts must ensure that they continue to remain the first line of defense against the deprivation of the liberty of citizens. Deprivation of liberty even for a single day is one day too many. We must always be mindful of the deeper systemic implications of our decisions."

85. In view of the constitutional moorings of the right of bail, curtailment of the said right cannot be permitted in absence of an express statutory mandate or contrary to the constitutional scheme. Nor can restrictions of on right of bail be readily inferred from a statute if other interpretations are possible.

VIII. b. Parameters of bail under the POCSO Act:

86. The Court while examining a bail application has to balance and reconcile diverse objectives, namely, the imperative of constitutional liberties of an accused, the necessity of bringing an offender to fair and speedy justice, and the mandate of upholding the law. In POCSO cases the victim has a statutory right to be heard.

87. Parameters of bail are well settled by judicial precedents and practices achieve the aforesaid aims in full measure.

88. Bails under POCSO Act offences have to be considered under Section 439 Cr.P.C. and in accordance with the settled parameters of grant of bail which include nature and gravity of the offences, and the likelihood of an accused having committed the offence. The possibility of the accused reoffending, influencing witnesses and tampering with evidence or being a flight risk are also relevant factors to be considered while deciding a bail application.

89. In POCSO Act related offences the age of a victim is a critical factor which will influence the decision to grant bail.

90. No provisions circumscribing the right of bail can be distilled from the scheme of POCSO Act. The existing norms of bail jurisprudence are sufficient to effectively implement the POCSO Act and to serve justice. Of course, the threshold of satisfaction of the Court while granting bail may vary in the facts and circumstances of each case.

IX. Bails under POCSO Act : Conclusions:

a. Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 & bails under POCSO Act:

91. Applying the provisions of Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015, at the stage of bail would result in consequences not intended by the legislature. In bail proceedings curtailing the rights of an accused to assail the age of the victim stated in the prosecution case on the foot of correctness of documents enumerated in Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015, would be contrary to the scheme of the POCSO Act and violate the right of bail of the accused.

92. It would also be outrightly unfair to an accused to cause his imprisonment on the foot of documents and evidences which he can not freely challenge in a bail proceeding.

93. In wake of the preceding narrative, the manner of consideration of age of a victim in a bail application under the POCSO Act shall be guided as follows:

I. The procedure for determination of a victim's age provided in Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 read with JJ Rules, 2016 shall not apply to bail applications, though the documents therein are liable to be considered. Age of victim as per procedure prescribed in Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 is determined conclusively only in the trial.

II. The line of enquiry and relevant factors to assess the age of the victim in a bail application under the POCSO Act offences are these. The consideration of the age related documents mentioned in Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 i.e. school certificate (including matriculation), date of birth certificate issued by a local body, and medical report for age determination as produced by the prosecution is a good start point in the process.

III. The accused has a right to assail the veracity of the age of the victim as stated in the prosecution case.

IV. The court while deciding the said bail application is obligated to independently:

A. Examine the challenge laid to the victim's age by the accused applicant.

B. Evaluate credible doubts about the age of the victim.

V. The assessment of age in a bail order is of a tentative nature, and is based on probative value of documents which are yet to be proved or statements of witnesses who are still to be examined in court. Such determination by a court is not conclusive and is made only for the limited purpose for deciding the bail application.

VI. Same parameters shall apply to the bail applications filed at a different stages of trial. However, with each stage of the trial, the threshold of the satisfaction of the court may be raised in the facts and circumstances of the case. Heightened threshold of satisfaction means the duty of the court to give full weight to prosecution evidence, and due regard to the defence case while considering grant of bail.

VII. It is not advisable to lay down an inflexible or a straitjacket formula for grant of bail which will fit all cases. Practices and precedents in point are a reliable guide for the Court while exercising its judicial discretion in bail proceedings and a good defence against arbitrary decisions.

IX. b. Conclusions : Sections 29 and 30 of POCSO Act & bails under the POCSO Act:

94. The consideration of presumption of culpable intent under Sections 29 and 30 of the POCSO Act and as contemplated in Rajballav (supra) at the stage of bail shall be governed by the principles of evidential law as regard presumptions and the holdings in Tofan Singh (supra), Joy V.S. (supra), Navin Dhaniram Baraiye (supra), Dharmander Singh (supra) and Sahid Hossain Biswas (supra) and shall be made in the following manner:

1. Presumption of culpable intent under Section 29 of the POCSO Act, 2012 will be attracted only in the manner and stage discussed earlier in the judgement.

2. Presumption of culpable intent of the accused under Sections 29 of the POCSO Act, 2012 shall not apply at the stage of pretrial bails.

3. With each passing stage of trial, the threshold of satisfaction of the court to grant bail will be enhanced depending on the facts and circumstances of a case and the evidences introduced at the trial.

4. At all stages of prosecution the right of an accused to tender his defence or to assail the presumption of culpable intent cannot be restricted. The court has to consider the defence of the accused against the presumption of culpable intent to commit the offence.

X. Order on Bail Application:

95. By means of this bail application the applicant has prayed to be enlarged on bail in Case Crime No. 445 of 2021 at Police Station Majhola, District Moradabad, under Sections 376, 506 IPC and Sections 3/4 POCSO Act and Sections 3(2)(v), 3(2)(va), 3(1)(2) of SC/ST Act.

96. The applicant is on interim bail granted by this Court on 01.04.2022.

97. The following arguments made by Shri S. P. Tiwari, learned counsel on behalf of the applicant, which could not be satisfactorily refuted by Shri Rishi Chaddha, learned AGA from the record, entitle the applicant for grant of bail:

(i). The prosecution case set out in the FIR states that the age of the victim is 15 years.

(ii). The victim in her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. has stated that she is 16 years of age. As per the transfer certificate issued by the school her age is 13 years and 3 months.

(iii). There are material inconsistencies in the age related evidence relied on by the prosecution which discredits the prosecution case.

(iv). The victim has been falsely shown as minor only to aggravate the offence and cause the imprisonment of the applicant under the stringent provisions of the POCSO Act.

(v). The victim is infact a major. Medical examination to determine the correct age of the victim as per the latest scientific and medical protocol by eminent doctors from a reputed institution was not got done as it would falsify the prosecution case.

(vi). The applicant and the victim were intimate.

(vii). The F.I.R. is a result of an opposition of the victim's parents to her relationship with the applicant.

(viii). The statement of the victim is tutored and made at the behest of her parents only to deflect attention from the conduct of the victim and to save the failing prosecution.

(x). There is no evidence of forceful entry in the house of the victim. The victim was a consenting party.

(xi). The applicant does not have any criminal history apart from the instant case.

(xii). The applicant is not a flight risk. The applicant being a law abiding citizen has always cooperated with the investigation and undertakes to cooperate with the court proceedings. There is no possibility of his influencing witnesses, tampering with the evidence or reoffending.

98. In the light of the preceding discussion and without making any observations on the merits of the case, the bail application is allowed.

99. Let the applicant- Monish be released on bail in the aforesaid case crime number, on furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court below. The following conditions be imposed in the interest of justice:-

(i) The applicant will not tamper with the evidence or influence any witness during the trial.

(ii) The applicant will appear before the trial court on the date fixed, unless personal presence is exempted.

1. This revision has been preferred against the order dated 23.1.2017 passed by Civil Judge (S.D.) Bareilly, in original suit no. 12 of 2017 (Span Infra Developers Pvt. Limited Vs. Sushil Kumar Kathooriya) by which learned Court below has rejected the application 36A moved by the defendants under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC.

2. In brief, facts of the case are that the plaintiff Span Infra Developers-opposite party no. 1 filed the aforesaid suit against the defendant-revisionist for a relief of permanent injunction in respect of property shown by letters (अ न ग ब) in the plaint map. As per the plaint, 1/5th of the total area of gata no. 14 area 4 bigha 7 biswa, gata no. 15 area 9 biswa, gata no. 16 area 17 biswa, gata no. 17 rakabai 10 biswa, gata no. 18 area 13 biswa, gata no. 19 area 13 biswa, gata no. 20/1 area 13 biswa, gata no. 21 area 9 biswa, gata no. 22/1 area 8 biswa, gata no. 23/1, area 1 bigha, gata no. 24/1 area 2 biswa 10 biswansi total 30100 yard of i.e. 6020 square yard was under the ownership and in possession of Laxmi Sahakari Awas Samiti Ltd. through Satish Kumar Agrawal as secretary. This land was purchased by three sale-deeds from its previous owners in the year 1986 and the name of the society was also mutated. On the basis of consent and mutual oral partition, the society came into possession of the property shown by letters Ka Kha Ga and Gha in the plaint map. Apart from this, the society had also got some property of gata no. 23/1 on the east side of the road which has also been sold by the society.

3. On 14.6.2005 through registered sale deed society sold an area of 1315.87 square yard to Sarnath Infrastructure Pvt. Limited, Bareilly, after getting adequate consideration and also delivered the possession of the sold land which is shown by the letters M, N, G and Gha.

4. Sarnath Infra. Pvt. Ltd. executed a registered agreement for sale on 12.9.2012 for an area of 815.44 square yard, shown by the letter A, N, Ga & Ba in favour of the plaintiff. As per term no. 2 of the agreement for sale, Sarnath Infra. Pvt. Ltd. had to raise boundrywall for the property in suit before executing the sale-deed in favour of the plaintiff. Since it could not be done so, therefore, Sarnath Pvt. Ltd. delivered the possession of the said land on 29.10.2012 by the letter of possession and on the request of the plaintiff, it was also notarized on 1.11.2012. Since then the plaintiff is in possession of the property in suit of area of 815.44 square yard and for the protection of the property it has also made some construction thereon.

5. Defendant is a land grabber and a mafia type of person who has no concern with the property in suit even then defendant with some unsocial elements on 5.1.2017 reached on the property in suit and tried to dismantle the constructions and occupy the land in suit forcefully. After getting the information from the security guard, the plaintiff reached on the spot and anyhow got stopped such illegal activities. The defendant left the place but threatened that he will come again and shall take possession of the property in suit. The matter was reported to the police who did not help the plaintiff saying it to be a civil matter. Hence, the cause of action arose and the suit was instituted.

6. The revisionist-defendant appeared in the case and moved an application 36 Ka under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC raising the question that the suit is barred by Section 229-B and 331 of the U.P.Z.A.& L.R. Act. The name of the plaintiff is neither recorded in the revenue record, nor in the agreement for sale, there is averment of delivery of possession. The notarized letter of delivery of possession 24C is a forged document. The plaintiff can file a suit only if the execution of sale-deed is in his name. The suit is barred by Section 31 and 38 of the Specific Relief Act. The plaintiff has not come with clean hands. Neither balance of convenience is in favour of the plaintiff nor any irreparable injury is caused to the plaintiff, therefore, the plaint be rejected.

7. Plaintiff filed objection 56C and opposed the application and contended that the suit is not barred by the provisions of U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act and since long time the property in suit is a residential land and the agricultural works are not being done. There are constructions over the property in suit. The suit has been filed on the basis of possession hence the application be rejected.

8. The learned trial Court referred the provisions of Order 7 Rule 11 CPC and concluded that on the basis of agreement for sale and letter of possession, the suit can be maintained and at this stage it can not be said that the letter of possession 24 C is a forged document and conclusion can be drawn only after taking evidence of the parties. The learned Court below has also noted that there is no dispute about the fact that Sarnath Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. Bareilly has executed an agreement for sale in favour of the plaintiff. The suit has been filed on the basis of agreement for sale and on the basis of possession, therefore, it does not appear that the suit is barred by the provisions of U.P.Z.A & L.R. Act and Specific Relief Act.

9. The learned Court below relied on the judgment of Kamla and Others VS. K.T. Ishwara and others, (2008) 12 SCC 661, wherein it has been held that the scope of Order 7 Rule 11 (d) CPC is very limited; at this stage merit of the case can not be looked into. Accordingly, the learned Court below rejected the application under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC.

10. This revision was entertained and notice was issued to opposite party-plaintiff who filed counter affidavit no. 60549 of 2017 reiterating the averments of the plaint and the objection and has denied the averments of the application moved by the defendant under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC and it has also been averred that the property in suit shall proceed under the Indian Stamp Act 1899 and by order dated 31.3.2006, the Deputy Commissioner (Stamp) has clearly held that the property in question was a residential property; it is well settled law that while deciding the application under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC the Court can only rely upon the averments made in the plaint. If for the sake of argument it is accepted that the property in suit is an agricultural land even then the suit filed by the plaintiff -opposite party was maintainable before the Civil Court on the ground of the principles of relief sought. Copy of the agreement for sale and delivery of possession alongwith order of Deputy Commissioner has been annexed with the counter affidavit.

11. From the perusal of record, it transpires that the defendant-revisionist has not claimed the property in suit on the basis of ownership or possession. At this stage only averment of the plaint has to be seen. Prima-facie it is not in dispute that the property in suit was purchased by Laxmi Sahkari Awas Samiti Limited in 1986 and its name was not mutated and the property in suit was not partitioned by way of consent and mutual oral partition. It is also prima-facie established that Laxmi Sahakari Awas Samiti sold the area of 1315.87 square yard on 14.6.2005 to Sarnath Infrastructure Private Limited, Bareilly, through registered sale-deed. It is also prima-facie established that Sarnath Infrastructure Private Limited executed an agreement for sale on 12.9.2012 in respect of the property in suit of an area of 815.44 square yard and also executed a notarized deed of delivery of possession on 29.10.2012 in favour of the plaintiff. It is also noteworthy that neither Sarnath Infrastructure Private Limited nor Laxmi Saharanpur Awas Samiti had any objections regarding the possession, agreement for sale and letter of delivery of possession executed in favour of the plaintiff. Though the suit for permanent injunction can be filed on the basis of records of right but a suit for permanent injunction can also be maintained on the basis of possessory title atleast against a third person.

12. In Iqbal Basith and Others Vs. N.Subbalakshmi and Others, (2021) 2 SCC 718, it has been held that "suit for permanent injunction can be maintained on the basis of possession and possessory title."

In Rame Gowda (dead) by L.Rs Vs. M V Naidu (dead) by L.Rs and Other, (2204) 1 SCC 769, it is held that a person in possession of land in assumed character of owner of exercising peaceably the ordinary right of ownership has a perfectly good title against all the world but the rightful owner. When the facts disclosed no title in either party, possession alone decides. The latine maxim "possessio contra omnes valet praeter eur cuei ius sit possessionis is important." In the absence of proof of better title, possession or prior peaceful settled possession is itself evidence of title. Law presumes the possession to go with the title unless rebutted. The Apex Court referred the following part of Salmond's book on jurisprudence and following judicial precedents which are as under:

5.Salmond states in Jurisprudence (Twelfth Edition), "few relationships are as vital to man as that of possession, and we may expect any system of law, however primitive, to provide rules for its protection. . . . . Law must provide for the safeguarding of possession. Human nature being what it is, men are tempted to prefer their own selfish and immediate interests to the wide and long-term interests of society in general. But since an attack on a man's possession is an attack on something which may be essential to him, it becomes almost tantamount to an assault on the man himself; and the possessor may well be stirred to defend himself with force. The result is violence, chaos and disorder." (at pp. 265, 266).

"In English Law possession is a good title of right against anyone who cannot show a better. A wrongful possessor has the rights of an owner with respect to all persons except earlier possessors and except the true owner himself. Many other legal systems, however, go much further than this, and treat possession as a provisional or temporary title even against the true owner himself. Even a wrongdoer, who is deprived of his possession, can recover it from any person whatever, simply on the ground of his possession. Even the true owner, who takes his own, may be forced in this way to restore it to the wrongdoer, and will not be permitted to set up his own superior title to it. He must first give up possession, and then proceed in due course of law for the recovery of the thing on the ground of his ownership. The intention of the law is that every possessor shall be entitled to retain and recover his possession, until deprived of it by a judgment according to law." (Salmond, ibid, pp. 294-295) "Legal remedies thus appointed for the protection of possession even against ownership are called possessory, while those available for the protection of ownership itself may be distinguished as proprietary. In the modern and medieval civil law the distinction is expressed by the contrasted terms petitorium (a proprietary suit) and possessorium (a possessory suit)." (Salmond, ibid, p.295)

6. The law in India, as it has developed, accords with the jurisprudential thought as propounded by Salmond. In Midnapur Zamindary Co. Ltd. Vs. Kumar Naresh Narayan Roy and Ors. 1924 PC 144, Sir John Edge summed up the Indian law by stating that in India persons are not permitted to take forcible possession; they must obtain such possession as they are entitled to through a Court.

7. The thought has prevailed incessantly, till date, the last and latest one in the chain of decisions being Ramesh Chand Ardawatiya Vs. Anil Panjwani (2003) 7 SCC 350. In-between, to quote a few out of severals, in Lallu Yeshwant Singh (dead) by his legal representative Vs. Rao Jagdish Singh and others (1968) 2 SCR 203, this Court has held that a landlord did commit trespass when he forcibly entered his own land in the possession of a tenant whose tenancy has expired. The Court turned down the submission that under the general law applicable to a lessor and a lessee there was no rule or principle which made it obligatory for the lessor to resort to Court and obtain an order for possession before he could eject the lessee. The court quoted with approval the law as stated by a Full Bench of Allahabad High Court in Yar Mohammad Vs. Lakshmi Das (AIR 1959 All. 1,4), "Law respects possession even if there is no title to support it. It will not permit any person to take the law in his own hands and to dispossess a person in actual possession without having recourse to a court. No person can be allowed to become a judge in his own cause." In the oft- quoted case of Nair Service Society Ltd. Vs. K.C. Alexander and Ors. (1968) 3 SCR 163, this Court held that a person in possession of land in assumed character of owner and exercising peaceably the ordinary rights of ownership has a perfectly good title against all the world but the rightful owner. When the facts disclose no title in either party, possession alone decides. The court quoted Loft's maxim 'Possessio contra omnes valet praeter eur cui ius sit possessionis (He that hath possession hath right against all but him that hath the very right)' and said, "A defendant in such a case must show in himself or his predecessor a valid legal title, or probably a possession prior to the plaintiff's and thus be able to raise a presumption prior in time.

In Krishna Ram Mahale (dead) by his Lrs. Vs. Mrs. Shobha Venkat Rao (1989) 4 SCC 131, it was held that where a person is in settled possession of property, even on the assumption that he had no right to remain on the property, he cannot be dispossessed by the owner of the property except by recourse to law. In Nagar Palika, Jind Vs. Jagat Singh, Advocate (1995) 3 SCC 426, this Court held that disputed questions of title are to be decided by due process of law, but the peaceful possession is to be protected from the trespasser without regard to the question of the origin of the possession. When the defendant fails in proving his title to the suit land the plaintiff can succeed in securing a decree for possession on the basis of his prior possession against the defendant who has dispossessed him. Such a suit will be founded on the averment of previous possession of the plaintiff and dispossession by the defendant.

In Nagar Palika, Jind Vs. Jagat Singh, Advocate (1995) 3 SCC 426, this Court held that disputed questions of title are to be decided by due process of law, but the peaceful possession is to be protected from the trespasser without regard to the question of the origin of the possession. When the defendant fails in proving his title to the suit land the plaintiff can succeed in securing a decree for possession on the basis of his prior possession against the defendant who has dispossessed him. Such a suit will be founded on the averment of previous possession of the plaintiff and dispossession by the defendant.

In Fakirbhai Bhagwandas and Anr. Vs. Maganlal Haribhai and Anr. AIR 1951 Bombay 380 a Division Bench spoke through Bhagwati, J. (as his Lordship then was), and held that it is not necessary for the person claiming injunction to prove his title to the suit land. It would suffice if he proves that he was in lawful possession of the same and that his possession was invaded or threatened to be invaded by a person who has no title thereof. We respectfully agree with the view so taken. The High Court has kept the question of title open. Each of the two contending parties would be at liberty to plead all relevant facts directed towards establishing their titles, as respectively claimed, and proving the same in duly constituted legal proceedings. By way of abundant caution, we clarify that the impugned judgment shall not be taken to have decided the question of title to the suit property for or against any of the contending parties."

In Anathula Sudhakar v. P. Buchi Reddy, (2008) 4 SCC 594, it has been held that-

"the respondent having succeeded in proving possession over the suit property, and no evidence having been led by the petitioners to indicate to the conrary, or that the possession of the suit property by the respondent was wrongful, a simplicitor suit for injunction against forcible dispossession was maintainable without having to seek any titular rights over the suit property.

In Nair Service Society Ltd. v. K.C. Alexander, AIR 1968 SC 1165, it has been held that:-

"this Court ruled that when the facts disclose no title in either party, possesion alone decides. It was further held that if Section 9 of the Specific Relief Act, 1877 (corresponding to the present Section 6) is employed, the plaintiff need not prove title and the title of the defendant does not avail him. When, however, the period of six month has passed, questions of title can be raised by the defendant and if he does so the plaintiff must establish a better title or fail. In other words, such a right is only restricted to possession in a suit under Section 9 of the Specific Relief Act (corresponding to the present Section 6) but does not bar a suit on prior possession within 12 years form the date of dispossession, and title need not be proved unless the defendant can provide one."

13. The defendant-revisionist is a third party and has not been party to the sale-deeds and letter of the delivery. Till now he has not produced any deed of title about the property in suit, therefore, this Court is of the opinion that in such circumstances the suit of the plaintiff can be maintained against the defendant. Since the defendant is not claiming ownership over the property in the suit, it is not open for him to challenge the suit on the basis of Order 7 Rule 11 CPC. It is also pertinent to mention that sometimes when there is a mixed question of fact and law, it can only be decided after taking evidences of the parties. The power under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC can be exercised at any stage by the trial Court.

14. In Popat and Ketecha Property Vs. SBI Staff Assessment, (2005) 7 SCC 510, it has been held that "disputed question can not be contested in the application under 7 Rule 11 CPC."

15. Thus, on the basis of aforesaid discussions this Court is of the considered view that the the impugned order does not suffer from any illegality or infirmity. The revision is devoid of merit and is liable to be dismissed.

16. Accordingly, the revision is dismissed and the impugned order is affirmed. The stay order dated 10.2.20217 passed by this Court in this revision stands vacated.

17. Let a copy of this order be transmitted to the Court below for necessary compliance.

Civil Revision No. 650 of 2014

Waqf Qabristan Shehkhan Biradri No. 616, Meerut ...Revisionist
Versus
U.P. Sunni Central Board of Waqfs & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Sri Ayub Khan

Counsel for the Respondents:

Civil Law - Civil Procedure Code - Section – 151 - Order - 23, Rule 1 - Nagar Mahapalika Act, 1916 - Section - 213 - Waqf Act, 1995 - Sections – 54 & 55: - Civil Revision - against impugned order - by which application 3C2 U/s 151 of CPC moved by the applicant was allowed - maintainability - nature of property - suit was withdrawn - after about 11 years court below entertain the application under section 151 of CPC and restored the reference to its original number - certainly it is abuse and misuse of the power and illegal exercise of the inherent power of the Court - More so, such withdrawal order is revisable but no such procedure had been adopted by opposite party no. 2 and by adopting a short cut method and by adopting illegal measure, the impugned order has been obtained which is factually and legally incorrect – accordingly, the revision is allowed. (Para - 13, 14, 15)

Revision Allowed. (E-11)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Umesh Chandra Sharma, J.)

1. This civil revision has been instituted against the judgment and order dated 29.9.2014 passed by Waqf Tribunal/Civil Judge (S.D.), Meerut, in Misc. Case No. 17 of 2004 (Mohammad Faruk Vs. Sunni Central Board and Others), by which application 3C2 under Section 151 C.P.C. Moved by the applicant-Mohammad Farooq, was allowed at the cost of Rs. 5,00/- and the order passed on the withdrawal application on 10.12.2003 in reference/original suit no. 1294 of 1993 was recalled.

2. In brief, facts of the case are that Md. Farooq-plaintiff filed a case in the Court of Waqf Tribunal/Civil Judge (S.D.) Meerut, as reference no. 1294 of 1993 against Sunni Central Waqf Lucknow, Managing Committee and Waqf Qabristan Biradari Shah Khan, with the averments that he is owner of the house no. 169 (170) situtated in Mohalla Gulzar Ibrahim, Lisari Road, Halka No. 13, Meerut City, and is living with his family. The house was constructed about 60 years back and father of the plaintiff was the resident of the house in suit as owner with his family and after his death, the plaintiff inherited his right as son and is residing in the house as owner, the name of the petitioner is recorded as owner in the corporation Assessment Register. The house was not dedicated by his father or by him and it is his personal property.

3. On 2.11.1993 the plaintiff received a notice under Section 213 of the Nagar Mahapalika Act from which it is revealed that opposite party no.3 has applied for mutation of its name on the allegations that the property is a waqf property and the same has been registered by opposite party no.1 by order dated 12.9.1991. In the waqf register boundaries and house number are not given but since the opposite party no. 3 has applied for mutation hence the plaintiff is bound to get the order dated 12.9.1994 set-aside. The plaintiff was not given any notice by the opposite party before registering the house in dispute as waqf property and he was not knowing this fact before 2.11.1993. The order dated 12.9.1991 is illegal without jurisdiction and is liable to be set-aside. The plaintiff prayed for setting aside of the order dated 12.9.1991 regarding property in suit passed by U.P. Sunni Cetral Board of Waqf, Lucknow.

4. Defendant nos.2 & 3 appeared and filed written statement/objection and denied the facts of the plaintiff and in additional pleas, pleaded that the petition is miserably time barred and the plaintiff is stopped from challenging the nature of the property being part of Waqf Qabristan Biradary of Sheikhan known as Takia Shad Shah Langot, Meerut. The land beneath the malba of the house, which was erected with the permission of the then Mutwalli of the Waqf Qabristan, forms part of the big area spread over ten thousand square yards from time immemorial. The purpose of permitting the ancestors of the petitioner to reside within the boundaries of the Qabristan was to have a watch upon the waqf property, they did not enjoy and other privilege like ownership or lessee's rights. The petition has been filed on malafide grounds and vague allegations. The plaintiff has deliberately avoided to mention the names of his ancestor, who is alleged to have acquired the land and the mode of its acquisition, Khasra plot number and other details.

The real fact is that the land pertains to Khasra Plot No. 774 and other adjoining numbers, Mahal Lekhraj Mazbata, Qasba Meerut, and the then Mutwalli of Qabristan late Chaudhary Abdul Karim had allowed Mohd Hafiz father of the petitioner-plaintiff to occupy the land as a tenant for which a registered rent deed dated 6.5.1937 was executed between the parties as such the petitioner or his father can not claim ownership right of the property in question. The entire Qabristan was registered with the U.P.S.C. Board of Waqf Lucknow in the year 1970 and a committee of management was appointed for looking after the Waqf property. The petitioner or his late father had not challenged or asserted their title over the property, prior to their objections in the correction proceedings in the office of Meerut Corporation. The plaint is defective and is liable to be rejected on the ground that the Waqf has been impleaded through president of the management committee whereas only secretary of the committee, presently M.Haroon son of M. Shafi is entitled to file or defend the suit on behalf of the Managing Committee of the waqf.

On the aforesaid grounds, defendant prayed for dismissal of the suit and the reference.

5. During course of hearing in the Court of Civil Judge (S.D.)/Waqf Tribunal, Meerut, the plaintiff Mohammad Farooq moved a withdrawal application that on 10.12.2002 at the time of reference, he was not fully aware of the facts and now after getting some old papers, this fact has been known to him that land Tahti of House No. 169 Mauh Gulzar Ibrahim Meerut, Waqf Shekhan/page 616 Meerut, is the waqf property which was taken by Sufi Hafiz Shah on rent from the Mutwalli of the Waqf and used to live as tenant. Late Sufi Hafiz Shah had orally gifted the house and the tenancy rights to the plaintiff and made the plaintiff owner in possession. On this basis, the petitioner had filed the aforesaid suit. Since the actual and true facts are known and it is proved that the disputed property is the waqf property, therefore, the plaintiff has no objection to the continuance of the entry in the name of opposite party no.1 as waqf property. The plaintiff has satisfied himself by understanding the legal position hence it was prayed to struck off the reference no. 1294/1993.

6. This application was allowed on 10.12.2003. The order dated 10.12.2003 reads as under:

"Case is taken up. Called out. The petitioner has prayed by submitting an application to struck off his reference. The opposite has no objection. When the petitioner himself wants dismissal of his reference and does not want to contest, then reference is quashed on the basis of application of the petitioner."

Order

On the basis of application of the applicant, the reference is quashed.

File be consigned. "

7. After a long gap the plaintiff Md. Farooq moved an application 3C2 under Section 151 CPC stating that the house no. 169 Gulzar Ibrahim Lisari Gate, Meerut, is the house of the applicant since the time of his father. The opposite party no.2-waqf has nothing to do with the house, no one has ever made Waqf of the debris of the house or tahti arazi. One Haroon who is the secretary of the waqf wrongly registered the property of the disputed house as waqf and on the basis of wrong entry, name of waqf has wrongly been entered into the records of the Municipal Corporation. After knowing, the applicant filed the reference number 1294/1993 in which evidence of the applicant was yet to be done. Haroon in collusion with the Chief Executive Officer, had wrongly got the order of eviction against the applicant against which the applicant had filed case no. 1095 of 2003. The applicant had obtained stay order in reference no. 1294 of 1993. The applicant is an old man and wanted to avoid hassle of the litigation, besides, Haroon is a very influential person, he tried to intimidate the applicant through other persons, started threatening that he would forcefully take over the house. Since the applicant wanted to avoid litigation, Hafiz Haroon told the applicant that if the applicant is handing over the land, he would consider him owner of the debris and the arazi, and he would not be evicted treating him to be tenant. After withdrawal of the suit, Hafiz Haroon tried to take possession of the house of the applicant under Section 55 of the Waqf Act, 1995 and refused to accept the applicant as tenant. The applicant came to know from these actions that his intention was different, he cheated the applicant and also cheated the Court. On account of cheating the case had been withdrawn due to which applicant is suffering therefore, order dated 10.12.2003 be canceled and the case be decided on merit.

8. Defendant-revisionist filed objection 23C2 with affidavit and submitted that the statement of the applicant-plaintiff is false, the application is malicious and has been moved under pressure of some land mafias who want to take advantage of the opportunity in a wrong way creating influence on the brother and sister of the applicant, therefore, they want to get the order of the Waqf Tribunal quashed. The application is time barred and does not indicate as to how it is maintainable and how it could be decided on merit. The applicant had withdrawn the reference on 10.12.2003 and the original suit number 1095 of 2003 had also been withdrawn. Arif son of the applicant was also present in the Court and they had told the court that he was withdrawing the reference and the suit on their free will, it is wrong to allege that H.M. Haroon, Secretary, Managing Committee/Mutwalli of the Waqf avoided to receive rent or refused to treat the applicant as a tenant. It is specifically stated that the Waqf Qabristan assures the Court that if the applicant is avoiding to perform his undertaking and the fixed rent is paid by him, the proceeding under Section 54/55 Waqf Act would not be initiated against the applicant. It is wrong to allege that the property is not the Waqf property. The Court below after being satisfied had allowed the withdrawal of the reference. The applicant can not dictate the Court of law to act as per his choice and whims, if the application is allowed, the same shall result the endless litigation. The applicant has submitted the application on the greed of land mafias to grab the land. The applicant has concealed the condition of the site that one part was to be used as cemetery and agreed to pay rent on the other part. In fact he had removed all his house-hold articles from that part. Therefore, the application under Section 151 CPC be dismissed.

9. After hearing both the parties, Civil Judge (S.D.)/Waqf Tribunal allowed the application moved by the applicant-opposite party no.2, without giving any cogent reasons, therefore, the revisionist-opposite party had moved this civil revision on the aforesaid grounds.

10. None appeared from both the sides. Therefore, this revision is being decided after evaluating the evidence/material available on record.

11. It is noteworthy that in the reference, opposite party no. 2 has claimed himself and his father to be the owner of the property in question. It is also accepted by him that it is like debris and part of the waqf property. He did not deny that he had not moved the application dated 10.12.2003 before the Waqf Tribunal/Civil Judge (S.D.), Meerut, in which he had accepted that he is the son of Safi Hafiz Shah and had also accepted that the land of house no. 169 is under the ownership of Waqf Qabristan Shekhran Biradari No. 616, Meerut, which was taken by his father on rent and he was living there and during his lifetime, debris of the house and all the rights regarding tenancy was transferred to him by way of oral gift, therefore, he had filed the suit. Mohd. Farooq had also accepted that at the time of institution of the reference, he was not knowing the detail facts of the matter and after getting some old papers he knew that the property in suit is the waqf property which was taken by his father on rent. He had also admitted that he has no objection regarding recording of the property in question as waqf property. He had further admitted that he had satisfied himself by taking legal opinion and the application was moved with his free will and the same was accepted and the reference and the suit of Md. Farooq was dismissed on 10.12.2003.

12. It is a matter of surprise that without moving any application for condonation of delay and without adopting any due course of law, the application under Section 151 CPC was moved and the same was allowed by Civil Judge (S.D.)/Waqf Tribunal, Meerut, without any cogent reason and without any basis. Under Order 23 Rule 1 CPC there is provision for withdrawal of suit which reads as such:

"As per Order 23, Rule 1(1) of the CPC, a plaintiff may abandon his suit or abandon a part of his claim at any time after the institution of a suit. As soon as an application is filed under this sub-rule, the withdrawal of the suit is complete and such withdrawal is not dependent on the court's order."

13. In this case no permission was taken to withdraw the reference with liberty to institute it again in respect of the subject matter, therefore, there was no occasion or right to move an application under Section 151 CPC. The Waqf Tribunal, Meerut, has hammered on the version of the application of the applicant that when the revisionist did not accept him to be tenant then necessity to restore the case arisen. From the perusal of the withdrawal application or from the perusal of the order dated 10.12.2003, it is crystal clear that no such condition was imposed by Mohd. Farooq or by the Court. The withdrawal application was moved without any coercion or undue influence. It has not been alleged by opposite party no.2 that he was withdrawing the reference case on the condition that he would be treated to be tenant of the property in question. The Court below has wrongly concluded that if the reference is restored, the multiplicity of the suit would decrease and the parties would be saved from any trouble. As the matter had already been settled and finalized by way of withdrawal, there was no occasion to entertain the application under Section 151 CPC after a gap of about 11 years and restore the reference to its original number.

14. Certainly it is abuse and misuse of the power and illegal exercise of the inherent power of the Court. More so such withdrawal order is revisable but no such procedure had been adopted by opposite party no.2 and by adopting a short cut method and by adopting illegal measure, the impugned order has been obtained which is factually and legally incorrect. Thus, the impugned order is liable to be set-aside and the revision is liable be allowed.

15. Accordingly, the revision is allowed and the order dated 29.9.2014 passed by Waqf Tribunal/Civil Judge (S.D.), Meerut, is hereby quashed.

16. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the Court below for necessary compliance.

28. P.W.-1 Wasim during his cross examination, averred that at the time of incident, Salauddin, Ummed and Shan Mohammad were present with him in Lohiya Park. Dhananjay demanded money from the Ummed and Ummed loudly said "kaise paise." Ummed was accompanied by Shanu, he thought that they are talking something generally. He authenticated the demand of money by the accused Dhananjay from Ummed on the basis of loud voice of both. He had also seen Deepak. He could not properly understand the dispute, because of clamour in the park. He also proved that Dhananjay had taken out the knife (Khukri) and Deepak caught Ummed. He gave a blow of knife to Ummed from his back, which penetrated across his heart. The knife was visible from outside. Deepak had caught Ummed Ali from right side. Shan Mohammad was trying to pacify them. The accused persons caught hold of Shanu and inflicted him injuries. Shanu tried to flee away, but approximately about 15 to 20 paces fell down on the pakka kharanja. Waseem was not present when the blow of knife was inflicted on Ummed. He emphasized his presence when Shanu was injured with knife. Shanu had run away, after getting separated from the clutches of accused persons. He along with Salauddin (P.W.2) had caught the accused persons. On the shriek and scream, a number of persons gathered including the Guards of the park. On the direction of his uncle Salauddin he had given telephonic call to his family members and police personnel. The said call was received by his mother, on mobile no.9871212230. Ummed is the son of his father's sister. The accused persons were also caught by the Guard and other persons in the park. The time consumed in inflicting injuries to the victims, was hardly two minutes. The victims were taken to the Ambey Hospital. Saleem and Munna and other persons of the locality came at the Hospital. He and Salauddin had gone together therein Hospital in one vehicle and the remaining persons came in another vehicle. Ummed Ali was inflicted only one knife blow and Shan Mohammad was inflicted a number of knife blows. The victim Shan Mohammad was inflicted in hands, legs and stomach. When Ummed was inflicted he could not reach there at the exact spot. Shan Mohammad was alive and was referred to G.T.B. Hospital. He stayed there Ambey Hospital at about half an hour. Shan Mohammad was taken from Ambey Hospital to G.T.B. Hospital by Ambulance. The time consumed in reaching to G.T.B. Hospital, was about half an hour. Shan Mohammad took his last breath in G.T.B. Hospital at about 1 to 2 "O' clock on the same night. Dhananjay had never given to Ummed any money. He showed his ignorance as to whether he had demanded money from anyone else also on the date of occurrence. A number of persons were moving in the park belonging to different casts. The women and girls were also moving in the park. He disowned that Ummed and Shan Mohammad had teased or molested to any girl or women which was opposed by the assailants. He gainsaid that no outsiders had attacked upon the victims from the gathering. He also denied that he had taken into custody to the assailants from gathering. He was not knowing to the assailants from earlier and did not have any animosity with them. He had heard the voice of Dhananjay who had spoken loudly. Thereafter Deepak had caught Ummed and Dhananjay had inflicted the knife blows. He could not ascertain as to whether the assailants had come with the motive of killing to victims as the incident had occurred at the spur of moment. He perceived that in case the victims would have given money to the assailants, they would not have lost their lives. The accused appellant (Dhananjay) had hung the bag on his shoulder at the time of demand of money. The accused appellant (Dhananjay) was caught on the spot after executing the occurrence. The bag containing the knife was also at the place of occurrence. He had not seen the bag putting in the shrubs to anyone. He could not ascertain as to whether the bag was present there or not at the moment of recovery. He was cross examined that earlier he had disclosed that assailants had thrown the bag in the bushes in his presence. Both the accused were trying to flee away. The accused appellant was having the bag of Khukari in his hand at the time of executing the crime. The accused appellant Dhanjay had thrown the bag in the shrub after executing the offence. The accused appellant Dhananjay was earlier caught by his uncle Salauddin and thereafter he caught him. The accused appellant Dhananjay also tried to attack upon Salauddin. He had caught him from behind and snatched the Khukari.

29- The prosecution witness no. 2 Salauddin was cross examined during trial. He averred that he, in association with Wasim (P.W.1), Ummed (deceased) and Shan Mohammad deceased) had proceeded from his house at about 4.30 p.m. on 1.1.2007. Salauddin and Wasim were riding in one motor cycle. Mohammad Ummed & Shan Mohammad were riding on Hero Splendor motor cycle. The motor cycle driving by Wasim (P.W.1) was belonging to Irfan. The time consumed from his house to the park was about 15 to 20 minutes. The heated exchange of words between assailants and the victims ensued after half an hour. The P.W.2 Salauddin and the victims were following at minor distance to each other. He disclosed that the distance of the victims from him was about 20 to 25 paces. The accused appellant demanded money from Ummed but he could not confirm the exact amount of money, which was demanded. On refusal to Ummed to pay the money to the accused appellant caused infuriation and exasperation to the accused persons hurling abusive words. Ultimately fisticuffs were started and the accused appellant stabbed Khukari upon Ummed. There was not huge gathering in the park. He had heard the voice of demand of money as well as refusal to pay the money. When the accused appellant Dhananjay had pierced Khukari, he was at a distance of 15 paces.

The Khukari was put inside a bag covered by chain. Black cover was put on the Khukari. He had never seen to the assailants in the company of victims. He had for the first time seen the assailants. To his best knowledge, there was no transaction between the assailants and the victims. The incident had taken place on account of refusal to pay the money to the assailants. When he had caught to the accused appellant Dhananjay, the accused appellant had already inflicted 7 to 8 injuries to him. Ummed was injured with Khukari from behind the left side Dhananjay was stabbing the Khukari all around, which caused great nervousness to him therefore, he could not muster courage to hold him. The time of incident was confirmed about 5 to 5.15 p.m. There was little fog but the sight was visible. The information of the incident was given by Wasim (P.W.1) from P.C.O. at about 5.30 p.m at the police station and also to the members of the family. The distance of the police station was about two kilometers. The family members and the police personnel reached at the same moment.

30. The investigating officer had recorded the statement of P.W.2 Salauddin on the next day. The investigating officer had not apprised him about his statement. The victims were taken by the police personnel at the Ambey Hospital in association with the family members of the injured.

31. The Khukari was handed over by the P.W.2 Salauddin to the police officer, at the police station. The bag in which Khukari was kept was also taken by the police personnel in their possession.

32. The police team has visited the spot inspection in the presence of P.W.2 Salauddin. The bag was of cream colour having its height about one feet. At the time of spot inspection, none was present there except Salauddin (P.W.2). The guard deputed at the park had also come equipped with guns. The guard had come after execution of the occurrence. He proved his presence at the crucial juncture of incident. He also disowned that there was any scene of teasing and tormenting of girls in the park by the victims Ummed and Shanu. There is not any iota of evidence delineating misbehavior of victims with the girls roving in the park. He proved that accused Dhananjay and Deepak had done to death to Ummed and Shanu. The appellant Dhananjay and the co-accused Deepak are the real perpetrator of crime as a result of which Ummed and Shahu sustained fatal injuries culminating to their death.

33. During his cross examination, Pw- 3 Dr. Arvind Kumar, who had conducted post mortem of Shanu, stated that Shanu was admitted in the hospital on 1.1.2007 at about 8.35 p.m. and succumbed to injuries on 2.1.2007 at 4.00 p.m. The cause of death of Shanu was hemorrhage shock due to ante mortem injuries to abdominal vessel and organ produced by single sharp edge weapon. All injuries are ante mortem in nature .Injury no.1 is sufficient to cause death in ordinary course of nature.

34. In his cross examination, Pw-4 Dr. K.N.Tiwari who had conducted post mortem of Ummed (deceased) stated that corps of the deceased Ummed was brought by Constable Manoj Kumar and Constable Somepal Singh The cause of death of Ummed was hemorrhage and shock as a result of ante mortem injuries sustained. He had proved that the deceased Ummed was caused injury by single sharp edge weapon on the vital organs, inclusive of chest.

35. The learned counsel for the defence also cross examined, P.W.5 Constable Sompal Singh. He stated that the dead body of Ummed Ali was firstly brought at Ghaziabad Police Line at about 1.00 p.m. in the night on 2.1.2007, Next day, the corpse of Ummed was taken to M.M.G. Hospital at Ghaziabad, the corpse of Ummed was taken to mortuary Hindan Ghaziabad after getting the entry done in the M.M.G. Hospital. Both the constables were present at the juncture of post mortem. After autopsy, the corpse of Ummed was handed over to his family members.

36. The P.W.-7 Shamshad was also subjected to the cross examination during trial. He disclosed that Shanu and Ummed is the son of his Sadhu. It was the holistic day of Idu-zuha. He had sacrified goats and had brought the meat at the residence of the victims.e wHe He He was called at the police station for completing the inquest. He confirmed that Ummed had died on the spot and Shanu had succumbed to injuries at the hospital. He had stated that the dead body of Ummed was sealed before him.

37. P.W.-8, investigating officer Malkhan Singh, was also cross examined. He stated that he had conducted the investigation of the said crime. Entire C.D. was prepared by him. He had also recorded the statements of the witnesses. He had recorded the statements of the witnesses. The name of Arvind, Dharmveer were not put in the list of witnesses, because they were not the witnesses of fact. The statements of Arvind, Dharmveer were recorded at the Lohiya Park. He had interrogated to the persons gathered at the place of occurrence and recorded their statement.

38. Arvind, Dharmveer had given their statement in support of the prosecution. Arvind, Dharmveer, deputed at the Lohiya Park in the capacity of Guard. He unfolded that those persons disclosed that the quarrel had ensued between the victims and the assailants, on account of tormentation and teasing of girls. Further it was stated by P.W.8 Malkhan that it was wrong to say that inident had occurred on the issue of tease and taunt to the girls. It was also divulged by P.W.8 that he did not make recovery of Khukari The Khukari was recovered by the complainant and the witnesses and had brought at the police station. Head Moharrir Devendra had prepared the fard of Khukari on 1.1.2007 at the police station. He had sent Khukari and other incriminating articles for forensic report.

39. We have heard learned counsel for the appellant and learned A.G.A. for the State, at length. Perused and analysed the entire evidence and other material, on record.

40. Learned trial court on the basis of the above evidence convicted and sentenced the accused appellant Dhananjay alias Pappu under Section 302 I.P.C. and under Section 25 Arms Act by the impugned judgement dated 22.03.2013. Learned counsel for appellant has assailed the impugned judgement on various grounds.

41. Learned counsel for appellant argued that there is no material from the side of prosecution to evince that the accused persons had hardboured vengeance on the issue of paltry demand of money. The witnesses of facts are the close relations of the deceased and have falsely embroiled the accused persons on suspicion leaving the actual assailant. The presence of prosecution witnesses at the place of occurrence is highly doubt full and not really commend acceptance for their testimony. There are material contradictions in the statement of prosecution witnesses. Medical evidence also do not support the ocular evidence. Tangible materials were elicited from the evidence of the prosecution witnesses in cross examination by which their testimony was not found to be satisfactory. The chain of evidence and circumstances is not complete to conclusively establish that the accused person are the perpetrator of dreadful crime of murder of Ummed Ali and Shanu. The learned trial judge nisred and missappriciated the entire evidence in convicting and sentencing the appellant u/s 302 IPC. The circumstance from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn is not fully established. The prosecution has failed to show that in all human probability, the act have must been done by the appellant. It is also argued that appellant never demanded mony from the victim Ummed Ali. The incident to place in the park were girls and women were also roving there the victim were tesing and tainting them, public opposed and beaten them as a result of which fatal injuries were received by the victims. Appellant has no role in the incident. The conviction and sentence awarded to the appellant u/s 302 IPC is not sustainable and the impugned order dated 23.03.2013 may be quashed and the accessed appellant may be set at liberty.

42. Per contra, learned AGA opposed the arguments submitted by learned counsel for appellant. He argued that there is no embellishment in the prosecution version. There is no material contradiction in the state mant of prosecution witnesess. Medical evidence also supports the ocular evidence. The evidence adduced by prosecution has established guilt of appellant beyond reasonable doubts. The victims died of inflicting the injuries on their person by the appellant and the co accused there is a chain of evidence to demons treat that the diseased victims were inflicted serious injuries with khukri as result of which the victim Ummed Ali took last breath and Shan Mohd was seriously and fatally injured. Accused were caught on the spot with khukri and other incriminating materials. No explanation by appellant as to how and in what manner victims were inflicted grave and grim the story of teasing and tormenting of girls could also not establish on no body had come forward to prove this version of defiance. The learned Sessions Judge has passed order of conviction and sentenced the appellant after appreciating the entire evidence of record. Hence the judgment of learned Sessions Judge may be sustained

43. Learned counsel for the appellant has further elaborated his arguments. He argued that the appellant has been falsely roped in the present case. The incident had occurred inside the Lohiya Park on 1.1.2007 at about 5.30 p.m. on the issue of demand of money from Ummed Ali (nephew) of the complainant. The mere refusal to pay the money to the appellant will not instill such strong motive that the accused appellant will attack upon the victims to take away his life. Learned counsel for the appellant placed reliance upon Virender V. State of Haryana [2020 (1) UP Cr R 356] wherein the Apex Court has held that prosecution has failed to prove any common intention on appellant's part. There is no hint of motive. The conclusion of the lower court is based on assumption and conjectures and not on reliable evidence. In spite of the prosecution having filed to discharge its burden to prove the case against the appellant beyond reasonable doubt- evidence against appellant is shaky and insufficient. Benefit of doubts must go to him.

44. Learned A.G.A. refuted the argument putforth by the learned counsel for the appellant. In this behalf it may be relevant to mention that there is a plethora of cases wherein the Apex Court has observed that motive is relevant facter in all criminal cases, whether based on testimony of eye witnesses or circumstantial evidence. In Shreekantiah Vs. State of Bombay, 1955 SCJ 233 the Apex Court observed-

"It has to be kept in mind that a person does not commit a grave illegal act which might expose him to prosecution and possible disgrace, unless he is prompted by some strong motive."

Whether a criminal act may be presumed without motive? Generally, no criminal act be presumed, unless motive is proved. But there may be cases when even if motive is not proved the commission of criminal act may be presumed. It is not mandatory that motive must exist to prove a criminal act nor is it mandatory that motive must be proved before a criminal act is presumed. In this context it would be apposite to mention here that in Yunis alias Kariya V. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 2003 SC 539, it was held by by the Supreme Court that when ocular evidence (eye witness) is very clear and continuing. role of the accused person in time stands established. Failure to prove motive for crime has no consequence. Similarly, in Anil Yadav V. State of Bihar, 1992 (1) Crimes 282, it was held that motive is not a sine qua non for the success of prosecution case if the evidence is convincing and not open to reasonable doubt. In Thaman Kumar V. State of Union Territory of Chandigarh, AIR 2003 SC 3975, it was held by the Apex Court that where the ocular evidence is found to be trustworthy and is reliable and finds corroboration from medical evidence, the accused can be safely convicted even if the motive for the commission of crime has not been proved. In State of Punjab V. Sucha Singh, AIR 2003 SC 1471 has observed unambiguously that motive howsoever strong it might be, cannot take place of proof- Thus, we can safely infer from the above discussion that where there is clear proof of guilty act, which stands established beyond a straw of doubt, proof of motive hardly matters and is just superfluous. On the contrary, where there is just no proof of guilty act, the proof of motive is of no significance. In other words, motive alone is meaningless unless accompanied by proof of guilty act.

45. In the present case all the witnesses of facts Pw- 1 Wasim and Pw- 2 Salauddin who are eye witnesses of the incident, has averred that while the victims and they were roving in the park, suddenly the accused appeared on the spot and demanded money from the deceased Ummed Ali. On refusal to oblige their demand stating what kind of money, the appellant caused exasperation and excitement to the appellant, prompting them to fight the victims. They started abusive and vituperative words. They could not restrain their anger and caused injuries to the victims. Thus, snatching of money was of the motive of the accused to commit the incident. The testimony of Pw- 1 Wasim and Pw- 2 Salauddin witnesses are trustworthy of credit and their testimony cannot be discarded. They have proved the prosecution story. Medical evidence has very well supported their testimony. In the above legal scenario, even if there is no strong proof of motive the prosecution case cannot be discarded.

46. It is next submitted by the learned counsel for the appellant that there is no independent public witness to support the prosecution version. The learned counsel for appellant argued that the witnesses of facts are related to deceased and thus interested witnesses. It is next argued that there were other witnesses also available but prosecution did not examined them. Therefore, the testimony of the prosecution witnesses is unworthy of credit, learened A.G.A. refuted the argument. In this behalf it may be mentioned that there is catena of decision of the apex Court. Nirmal Singh Vs. State of Bihar 2005 (41) ACC 302 (SC), Hukum Singh Vs. State of Rajasthan, 2000 (6) Supreme Court 245 (SC) Jagdish Vs. STate of Haryana AIR 1998 SC 923 State of Rajasthan Vs. Hanuman AIR 2001 SC 282 R. Prakash Vs. State of Karnataka 2004 (49) ACC 777 (SC) Sandeep Vs. STate of Haryana 2001 CRLJ 1456, Sewak Singh Vs. State of MP 2002 (44) ACC 1 (SC) Ambika Vs. State, 2000 SCC (Criminal) 522, Surendra Narayan Vs. State, AIR 1998 SC 198. The Apex Court has held time and again that if ocular evidence is supported by the medical evidence, the examination of relation or interested witnesses, will not affect prosecution case adversely. It is true that P.W. 1 Wasim, is nephew of P.W. 2 Salauddin and Pw- 2 and the victims are their sister's and brother's son uncle of Pw- 2 and deceased are the nephew wife, daghter and son of the deceased Sikander, but, it may be mentioned that although they are related to the deceased. However, nothing could be shown by the accused/ appellant that they were nurturing animus and grudge against the accused, as such their testimony cannot be discorded merely because of their relationship with the deceased. The two guards namely Arvind and Dharamveer deputed at the said park were not examined. Which creates serious doubt about the prosecution version. Besides, there is no justification if injured witnesses or his relatives will implicate an innocent excepting real culprit. However, an inimical or relative witnesses should be carefully examined.

47. The accused/ appellant has been assigned specific role of causing injury to Ummed Ali with Khukari . There is no material inconsistency or discrepancy in the prosecution version.

48. Learned counsel for the appellant also argued that the alleged incident took place amongst the gathering of the people and the accused persons were held only by the complainant and Wasim (P.W.1) and none had appeared, from the public to hold them. In this regard, it may be mentioned that prosecution has examined Pw- 1 Wasim and Pw- 2 Salauddin as eye witnesses whose evidence is trustworthy. They clearly assigned the role of inflicting Khukri to both the deceased. There is no material contradiction in their statement. It is an established law that quality of the witnesses matters and not be quantity and even if there is solitary believable witness, there need not to examine multiple number of witnesses. Pw- 8 in his S.I. Malkhan Singh has explained that there were number of people present but they were not eye witnesses so he need not taken them as witnesses. Prosecution has also examined Pw- 6 Munna Khan who is the scriber of the first information report (tehrir) Ext. Ka-2 and also Pw- 7 Shamshad who is the witness of inquest report and they are not the witnesses of facts and neither eye witnesses. Therefor the evidence of the witnesses of the fact are worthy of credit. It is common knowledge that often independent witnesses did not comeforward to support prosecution case, due to their own security reasons.

49. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the quarrel ensued between the accused persons and the victims on the issue of tease and taunt upon the girls roving in the park but no girl has come forward to narrate about the said incident. There is not an iota of evidence that the victim has taunt or tease any women. The P.W.1 Wasim and P.W.-2 Salauddin were the eye witnesses who had seen the entire incident and snatched the Khukari from the accused persons, have also not supported this defence version. Appellant was accorded an opportunity to adduce evidence for his defence but they did not availed the opportunity. This leads us adverse inference to the defence version. It may also be mentioned that Pw- 1 Wasim and Pw-2 Salauddin themselves heard that at the time of incident appellant was demanding money and victim Ummed did not oblige his demand the appellant committed the incident by inflicting the blows of Khukri on the person of the victim. Thus, it is well established that the incident occurred on the issue of demanding of money by the appellant.

50. The P.W.1 Wasim and P.W.-2 Salauddin were the eye witnesses who had seen the entire incident and snatched the Khukari from the accused persons but they had not sustained even minor injuries which also indicates that they had not seen the incident. The accused persons had inflicted as many as six injuries to Shan Mohammad who tried to save the injured Ummed Ali and the P.W.1 Wasim and P.W.2 Salauddin held to the accused appellant (Dhananjay) and snatched Khukri (knife) from his hand but no minor injuries were inflicted upon them in the course of scuffing. It may be a fight on behalf of I.O. who could have gather the blood stained cloths. The fault of I.O. cannot adversely affect the prosecution case. Therefore, the argument of the learned counsel for the appellant is not sustainable.

51. The prosecution witnesses had made improvements in their deposition and had narrated the manner of incident in such a way which cannot be perceived by ordinary course of diligence and prudence. There is no material inconsistency in the post mortem report which proves that the manner in which the occurrence took place would be incorrect.

52. The learned counsel for the appellant has argued that the recovery of Khukri and other incriminating articles from the accused persons is highly untrustworthy and dubious. The same was not sent for chemical examination to FSL. Learned A.G.A. refuted the argument. In this regard it is emphasised that Pw- 1 Wasim and Pw- 2 Salauddin are the eye witnesses of the incident has deposed that Pw-2 Salauddin caught hold of the appellant and snatched the Khukri/ knife. Pw- 1 Wasim further stated that when they snatched the knife they were not injured. They also stated that afterward Khukri was given to the police. Pw- 2 Salauddin has stated that a recovery memo of the same, Ext. Ka- 2, was prepared and it was produced before the court during trial as physical Ext. 8. Both these prosecution witnesses identified the Khukri which was used in the incident. Doctor Pw- 3 Arvind Kumar and Pw- 4 Dr. K.N. Tiwari has categorically stated that the injuries inflicted upon the deceased victim were caused by one sided sharp edged weapon, which may be called knife. Thus, the fact of recovery of the Khukri, the weapon of assault has been identified, at all relevant places in the court or outside. Pw-8 I.O. S.I. Malkhan Singh has stated that to ascertain blood stains Khukri was sent to FSL. His statement is fortified by a letter sent to FSL, Agra, the carban copy of which is on record. However, no FSL report is on record regarding the items sent to FSL Agra but is the fault of I.O. who do not collect the report. Nevertheless, it do not affect the prosecution case adverserly.

53. In Baldeo Singh & Anr vs State Of Punjab, 1996 AIR 372, 1995 SCC (6) 596, Amrik Singh vs State Of Punjab And Others, 2000 CriLJ 4305, State of U.P. vs Harvansh sahay 1996(6) SCC 50, State Of Uttar Pradesh vs Hari Mohan & Ors, 2000 SCC 516, Ram Bali vs State Of Uttar Pradesh, 2004, SCC 2329-C Vol. - 02, Vijay singh vs State of Bihar, 2003 Scc 1093, and Dhananjay singh vs State of Punjab, 2004 SCC cri 851 . The Apex Court in Ram Bali (Supra) referring Paras Yadav and Others Vs. State of Bihar (1999 (2) SCC 126) and Ram Bihari Yadav Vs. State of Bihar 1998 (4) SCC 517 and Amar Singh Vs. Balvindar Singh and Others (2003 (2) SCC 518) held that the lapse or omission is committed by the investigating agency or because negligence there had been defective investigation prosecution evidence is required to be examined de hors such omissions carefully to find out whether the said evidence is reliable or not and to what extent, such lapse affected the object of finding out the truth. The contaminated conduct of officials alone should not stand on the way of evaluating the evidence by the courts in finding out the truth, if the materials on record are otherwise credible and truthful; otherwise the designed mischief at the instance of biased or interested investigator would be perpetuated and justice would be denied to the complainant party, and in the process to the community at large.

54. In Ram Bihari Yadav V. State of Bihar and Ors , 1998 (4) SCC 517) the apex court held that if primacy is given to such designed or negligent investigation, to the omission or lapses by perfunctory investigation or omissions, the faith and confidence of the people would be shaken not only in the Law enforcing agency but also in the administration of justice.

55. In Amar Singh V. Balwinder Singh and Ors, (2003 (2) SCC 518), it would have been certainly better if the firearms were sent to the forensic test laboratory for comparison. But the report of the ballistic expert would merely be in the nature of an expert opinion without any conclusiveness attached to it. When the direct testimony of the eye-witnesses corroborated by the medical evidence fully establishes the prosecution version, failure or omission or negligence on the part of the IO cannot affect credibility of the prosecution version.

56. Having regard to the overall facts and circumstances of the case and also from the aforesaid discussions of the evidence on record, there is no manner of doubt about the complicity of the accused appellant (Dhananjay) in inflicting fatal and grave injuries on Ummed and Shan Mohammad which resulted into death of Ummed on the spot and death of Shan Mohammad after some hours. Though the witnesses were cross examined by the defence but no contradiction could be brought so as to discard the version regarding the involvement of the accused appellant in committing ghastly murder of Ummed and Shan Mohammad. The medical evidence adduced by prosecution witness nos. 3l & 4 relating to injuries caused by Khukari stood fully proved. The Khukari was sent to the forensic laboratory. The report was received demonstrating incriminating articles i.e. cover of the Khukari ,blood stained cement and plain cement. Human blood was found on the Khukari and other incriminating articles. In case the investigating officer did not send the Khukri in the forensic science library for analysis and confirmation. The confessional statement made by the accused appellant in the presence of police personnel to the extent of disclosure of facts consistent with the prosecution version is admissible. The prosecution story will not stand demolished for the fault of the investigating officer. The trial court had assessed and analysed the entire prosecution version and defence of the accused appellant on the yardstick of its reliability and trustworthiness and has rightly reached at the conclusion that it is the appellant who in association with co-accused is the real perpetrator of the offence of inflicting fatal and heart rending injuries to Ummed and Shanu who succumbed to injuries. There is clear and categorical evidence to prove the accusations of causing serious injuries with Khukari to Ummed and Shanu. Thus, they cannot escape from the punishment for the offence committed by them. The learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance on a gamut of dictum of Hon'ble Supreme Court in re Khema alias Khem Chandra vs State Of U.P. criminal appeal no. 1200-1202 of 2022 arising out of SLP (Criminal) NO. 8624 Of 2019 , Anil Phukan vs State of Aasam 1993 Law Suit, (229), Virendra (Supra) State represented by Inspector of Police (Supra) do not have any applicability with the present set of facts and circumstances of the case.

57. Thus, there is no embellishment in the prosecution version. The victims died on account of inflicting of injuries on their person by the accused appellant and the co-accused. The entire incident has been narrated in a very intrinsic and natural way. It is a case of homicidal death. The murder has taken place in day light at the public place in the presence of the witnesses who supported the prosecution version in cross examination and examination in chief. The murder has taken place in Ram Manohar Lohiya park on the trivial issue of demand of money from the side of the accused persons and the refusal by the victims. There is a chain of evidence to demonstrate that Shan Mohammad and Ummed were inflicted serious injuries with Khukari as a result of which Ummed took last breath and Shan Mohammad was seriously and fatally injured. The accused persons were caught on the spot and the Khukri and incriminating materials were recovered from the appellant. In case there is any variation or omission in the examination, cross examination or examination in chief that will not jettison the entire prosecution version and will absolve the guilt. The non-examination of Salim and Arif Chaudhary who were illustrated in the list of charge sheet will not falsify the prosecution version in entirety. From the facts and the circumstances of the case it emanates that the crime has been committed shaking the conscience and heart of public at large in a very brutal and diabolical manner., Multiple injuries were inflicted in the vital part of the victim with an intent to eliminate him. The testimony of the witnesses is trust worthy and reliable. No explanation has been given by the accused appellant as to how and in what manner the victims were inflicted grave and grim injuries in the said park. The story of the teasing and tormenting of girls could also not be established and no body had come forward to prove this version. The evidence by the prosecution witnesses is consistent with the hypothesis of the guild of the accused persons. There is no other hypothesis except the guilt of the accused persons. The mere conviction and sentence as well as incarceration of the accused appellant will not placate the severity and barbarity of offence wherein innocent persons were killed in a barbarous and ruthless manner. The nature of injuries on the person of the victims were heart rending and unbearable shaking the soul and conscience of the persons present in the said park. The learned Sessions Judge has passed the order of conviction and sentence after appreciating the entire evidence on record and has rightly arrived at the conclusion that it was the accused persons alone who committed the serious offence of causing fatal and ghastly injuries to the victims hence the judgment and order passed by the learned Sessions Judge may be sustained.

58. In the light of prolix and verbose discussions made herein above and also regard being had to the entire facts and circumstances of the case, we are of the opinion that the prosecution has proved its allegations beyond reasonable doubts, pointing unerringly guilt of the accused appellant. The trial court has rightly accepted the prosecution evidence holding the appellant guilty. However, looking to the nature of allegations, the materials on record and also manner of executing the crime, it appears that the accused appellant did not have any pre-mediation or pre concerted mind to eliminate Ummed and Shanu (deceased). The incident had occurred abruptly on the heat of passion, hence the accused appellant deserves to be convicted. Therefore, we concur with the findings of trial court.

59. This takes us to the next question whether it was a perpetrated murder or would it fall within any of the exceptions to Section 300 of IPC?

60. It would be relevant to refer to Section 299 of the Indian Penal Code, which reads as under:

61. The academic distinction between "murder' and "culpable homicide not amounting to murder' has always vexed the Courts. The confusion is caused, if Courts loose sight of the true scope and meaning of the terms used by the legislature in these sections, and allow themselves to be drawn into minute abstractions. The safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions seems to be is to keep in focus the keywords used in the various clauses of Section 299 and 300 of

I.P.Code. The following comparative table will be helpful in appreciating the points of distinction between the two offences:-

Section 299	Section 300
A person commits culpable homicide if the act by which the death is caused is done-	Subject to certain exceptions culpable homicide is murder if the act by which the death is caused is done.
INTENTION
(a) with the intention of causing death; or	(1) with the intention of causing death; or
(b) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death; or	(2) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused;
KNOWLEDGE	KNOWLEDGE
(c) with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death.	(4) with the knowledge that the act is so immediately dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as is mentioned above.

62. From the upshot of the aforesaid discussion, it appears that the death caused by the accused was not premeditated, accused though had knowledge and intention that his act would cause bodily harm to the deceased but did not want to do away with the deceased. Hence the instant case falls under the Exceptions 1 and 4 to Section 300 of IPC. While considering Section 299 as reproduced herein above offence committed will fall under Section 304 Part-I as per the observations of the Apex Court in Veeran and others Vs. State of M.P. (2011) 5 SCR 300 which have to be also kept in mind.

63. On overall scrutiny of the facts and circumstances of the present case coupled with the opinion of the Medical Officer and considering the principle laid down by the Apex Court in the Case of Tukaram and Ors Vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in (2011) 4 SCC 250 and in the case of B.N. Kavatakar and Another Vs. State of Karnataka, reported in 1994 SUPP (1) SCC 304, we come to the definite conclusion that the death was not premeditated. The precedents discussed by us would permit us to uphold our finding which we conclusively hold that the offence is not punishable under Section 302 of I.P.C. but is culpable homicide not amounting to murder, punishable U/s 304 (Part I) of I.P.C.

64. Now, it is to be seen whether the quantum of sentence is too harsh and requires to be modified. In this regard, we have to analyse the theory of punishment prevailing in India.

65. In Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, [AIR 1977 SC 1926], explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

66. The term 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP [(2004) 7 SCC 257] by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

67. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532], Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734], Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323], State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, [(2015) 3 SCC 441], and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463] and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

68. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

69. As discussed above, 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is very harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Apex Court, as discussed above, has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformative approach underlying in criminal justice system.

70. In view of the above, the accused-appellant is sentenced to 10 years rigorous imprisonment. Fine is reduced to Rs.5000/-. However, the default sentence is maintained. If 10 year's sentence is already over, the accused-appellant be set free forthwith, if not wanted in any other case. He will deposit the fine within four weeks from the date of his release and in case fine is not deposited he will be re-incarcerated to undergo the sentence of default.

71. Resultantly, the appeal is partly allowed to the extent that the appellant be convicted under section 304 Part-I IPC awarding sentence of ten years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs, 15,000/ in Session Trial No. 445 of 2007 is maintainable with default sentence which would run after 10th year of incarceration. As appellant is in jail for 15 years, he be set free immediately if not wanted in other offence. The conviction and sentence awarded vide judgement and order dated 22.03.2013 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge Court No. 1 Ghaziabad in Sessions Trial No. 446 of 2007, under Section 4/25 Arms Act, shall remain intact which is already served.

72. Trail court record be transmitted to the court concerned immediately for necessary action

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J. & Hon'ble Ajit Singh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Karunesh Pratap Singh, learned counsel for the appellant and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. Though learned counsel for the appellant has made submissions as far as bail is concerned, we have gone through the record, the judgment impugned and the factual data and by consent of learned A.G.A. we proceed to decide this appeal finally where the accused-appellant is in jail for more than seven years and he has one daugher to look after.

3. This appeal challenges the judgment and order dated 3.12.2021 passed by Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, P.A. Act/U.P.S.I.B., Gorakhpur in Sessions Trial No.129 of 2016 (State vs. Samharu Gupta) whereby the learned Sessions Judge has convicted accused-appellant under Section 302 of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as 'IPC') and sentenced him to undergo imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.50,000/- and, in case of default in payment of fine further to undergo two years' imprisonment.

4. Brief facts as culled out from the record are that the brother of the deceased made a complaint before the Police Station Pipraich, Gorakhpur stating therein that her sister who was married with accused-appellant 21 years ago was killed by her husband by Shovel (Fawda). It was also stated that there were quarrel between both of them due to suspicion of illicit relation of deceased. The deceased died while on the way to hospital. On the basis of his complaint, First Information Report was registered as Case Crime No. 328 of 2015.

5. On investigation being put into motion, the investigating officer recorded the statements of all the witnesses and submitted the charge-sheet to the learned Magistrate. The learned Magistrate summoned the accused and committed him to Court of Sessions as prima facie charge was under Section 302 of IPC.

6. On being summoned, the accused-appellant pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried. The Trial started and the prosecution examined 11 witnesses who are as follows:

1	Chandrabhan	PW1
2	Smt. Vimla Devi	PW2
3	Ritu Gupta	PW3
4	Arun Gupta	PW4
5	Madhuri Devi	PW5
6	Ganga Prasad	PW6
7	Guddu Gaud	PW7
8	Akhilesh Kumar Upadhyaya	PW8
9	Prabhatesh Kumar	PW9
10	Nirmal Kumar Yadav	PW10
11	Dr. Dhananjay Kushwaha	PW11

7. In support of ocular version following documents were filed and proved:

1	F.I.R.	Ex.Ka.13
2	Written Report	Ex.Ka.1
3	Postmortem Report	Ex.Ka.3/1 & 3/2
4	Panchayatnama	Ex.Ka.11
5	Charge-sheet	Ex. Ka.7
6	Site Plan	Ex.Ka.5
7	F.S.L. Report	Ex.Ka.6

8. At the end of the trial, after recording the statements of the accused under section 313 of Cr.P.C., and hearing arguments on behalf of prosecution and the defence, the learned Sessions Judge convicted the accused-appellant as mentioned above.

9. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that the incident occurred at the spur of moment which arose due to sudden quarrel between husband and wife. It is submitted that the accused had not premeditated to do away with the deceased.

10. In alternative, it is submitted that at the most, the death can be homicidal death not amounting to murder and punishable under Section 304 II or Section 304 I of I.P.C. If the Court decides that the accused is guilty under Section 302 of IPC, then the accused may be granted fixed term punishment of incarceration as the death is not a gruesome act on part of accused.

11. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State submits that there was no grave and sudden provocation from the side of the deceased and that looking to the gruesomeness of the offence and the evidence of prosecution witnesses, this Court should not show any leniency in the matter. It is further submitted by learned A.G.A. that ingredients of Section 300 of IPC are rightly held to be made out by the learned Sessions Judge who has applied the law to the facts in case.

12. We have considered the evidence of witnesses and the Postmortem report which states that the injuries on the body of the deceased would be the cause of death and that it was homicidal death, we concur with the finding of the Court below.

13. This takes us to the next question whether it was a perpetrated murder or would it fall within any of the exceptions to Section 300 of IPC?

14. It would be relevant to refer to Section 299 of the Indian Penal Code, which reads as under:

(4) with the knowledge that the act is so immediately dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as is mentioned above.

16. Out of anger he had given a single blow to his wife. The evidence of P.W.3 also goes to show that incident occurred without premeditation. The deceased resented to the idea of selling field given by the father and there was hot discussion about the same and in anger the accused gave single blow to his wife.

17. From the upshot of the aforesaid discussion, it appears that the death caused by the accused was not premeditated.

Accused though had knowledge that his act would cause bodily harm to the deceased he but did not want to do away with the deceased. Hence the instant case falls under the Exceptions 1 and 4 to Section 300 of IPC. While considering Section 299 as reproduced herein above offence committed will fall under Section 304 Part-I as per the observations of the Apex Court in Veeran and others Vs. State of M.P. Decided, (2011) 5 SCR 300 which have to be also kept in mind.

18. On overall scrutiny of the facts and circumstances of the present case coupled with the opinion of the Medical Officer and considering the principle laid down by the Apex Court in the Case of Tukaram and Ors Vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in (2011) 4 SCC 250 and in the case of B.N. Kavatakar and Another Vs. (A) Criminal Law - Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Sections- 313 & 437 - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 201, 302 & 364 - Appeal – against conviction & sentence - Offence of murder - FIR -, during investigation, it is was found that, accused along with co-accused with an intent to grab amount of two deceased, killed them - Examination of evidences - Court finds that, Accused appellant is with regard to recovery of spade and bullock cart which has already been disbelieved by the court - There is neither any appeal filed against such finding by St. nor we find any error in the conclusion arrived at by court below particularly as recovery of spade is after three and a half months and there are no independent witness to such recovery - Court also finds that, there is no specific question put to the accused appellant with regard to recovery under Section 313 Cr.P.C - admittedly, case is based on circumstantial evidence and in such circumstantial prosecution must connect the chain of events without any alternate hypothesis - held, prosecution has miserably failed to connect chain of events pointing exclusively to the hypothesis of guilt attributed to the accused appellant - motive to commit the offence has not been established - Except for weak evidence in the nature of recovery and circumstance of last seen, - trial court, completely omitted to consider evidence in correct perspective - Inconsistency in testimony has also been overlooked - Gap of 20 hours in time of last seen and expected time of death remains wholly unexplained and an alternative hypothesis consistent with the innocence of accused during such period otherwise cannot be ruled out – in such circumstances accused appellant is entitled of benefit of doubt - Appeal is allowed, directions accordingly. On 14.12.2003 at about 2.00 in the afternoon, the accused Deshraj @ Baba resident of village Jaufri came to their house and informed the two deceased that he would ensure return of outstanding amount from Brahm Dev tomorrow, who is with him at Jaufri. The accused further stated that he would return tomorrow and that two deceased may come with him for receiving the payment. It is then alleged that on 15.12.2003 accused Deshraj @ Baba came to the house of PW-3 at about 9.00 in the morning and asked the two deceased to come with him so as to get the amount from Brahm Dev. The deceased Raju and Om Prakash alongwith accused Deshraj went on their Raajdoot motorcycle bearing Registration No. 81 E 2682 to Jaufri. On the way Sanjeev S/o Om Prakash (PW-4) met him and one of the deceased Om Prakash told him that they are going to Brahm Dev for getting the amount from him and would return by the evening. He further instructed PW-4 to go to Ahmadpur and supervise the work. By the evening when two deceased did not return despite attempts made to locate them. Ultimately, PW-3 came to know that two dead bodies have been found near Jaufri canal which have been sent to mortuary. Thereafter, PW-3 as well as family member of other deceased came to the mortuary and identified the two deceased as Raju and Om Prakash. It is therefore alleged that accused appellant alongwith Brahm Dev with an intent to grab amount of two deceased, killed them.

6. The investigation proceeded with recording of statement of various witnesses. During the course of investigation, the Investigating Officer also recovered a buggi (bullock cart) and a favada (spade) allegedly on the pointing out of the accused appellant from heap of straw in the house of appellant. On the basis of such evidence collected during the course of investigation, the Investigating Officer proceeded to submit charge sheet against the appellant, Brahm Dev and five others. Since the case was triable exclusive by the court of Sessions, therefore, the Magistrate committed the case to the court of Sessions which framed charges against the accused appellant along with others under Section 302 and 201 IPC on 12.10.2005. The accused appellant denied the charges and demanded trial.

7. The prosecution in order to prove its case produced documentary evidence in the form of F.I.R. (Ex. Ka. 1), Written Report (Ex. Ka. 3), Written Report (Ex. Ka. 4), Recovery memo of "Buggi' & Spade (Ex. Ka. 7), Recovery memo of Blood-stained & Plain Soil (Ex. Ka. 8), Recovery memo of Blood-stained & Plain Soil (Ex. Ka. 9), P.M. Report (Ex. Ka. 5), P.M. Report (Ex. Ka. 6), P.M. Report (Ex. Ka. 6A), "Panchayatnama' (Ex. Ka. 12), "Panchayatnama' (Ex. Ka. 16), "Panchayatnama' (Ex. Ka. 19), Charge-Sheet (Ex. Ka. 22), Site Plan with Index (Ex. Ka. 10), Site Plan with Index (Ex. Ka. 21) etc.

8. In addition to the documentary evidence the prosecution has also produced oral testimony of Head Constable Chetna Prakash Gond as PW-1, who has proved the chick FIR. The village Chaukidar who has given a written report had died during the course of trial. PW-2 is the scribe of written report. The prosecution case primarily hinge upon the testimony of two witnesses namely PW-3 Purushotam, brother of one of the deceased Raju, and PW-4 Sanjeev S/o Om Prakash (deceased).

9. PW-3 in his testimony has supported the prosecution case and in his examination-in-chief has alleged that sum of Rs. 15,000/- was outstanding from Brahm Dev on account of milk and cottage cheese provided to him by the deceased Raju and Om Prakash. The accused appellant was working in the shop of Brahm Dev. This witness has further stated that around 09.00 am on 15.12.2003 the accused appellant came to his house and asked the two deceased to come with him for collecting the amount due and payable from Brahm Dev. He has also stated that the deceased Raju and Om Prakash along with the accused appellant had met P.W. 4 and the deceased has assured that they would return by the evening. This witness has been cross examined. In the cross examination he has stated that though the deceased Raju and Om Prakash had gone with the accused appellant and had not return by the evening yet this fact was neither told to anyone nor any report was lodged soon. He stated that he made attempts to locate the deceased and for such purposes visited the house of the appellant where he met the sister in law of accused appellant and she informed PW-3 that two deceased have not come to her house. PW-3 thereafter, returned and did not lodge any report with the police. This witness saw in the newspaper about the discovery of two dead bodies where after he came to the mortuary and could identify the deceased. The witness further stated that his previous disclosure about the outstanding amount being Rs. 15,000/- was incorrect and that a sum of Rs. 80,000/- was due and payable by Brahm Dev and no documents in the form of register or account book was available nor any such material was produced. He has stated that on the basis of grave suspicion he has lodged the report against the accused persons.

10. PW- 4 is the witness of last seen inasmuch as PW-3 in his statement has clearly alleged that two deceased alongwith appellant were seen by PW-4. This witness stated that the accused appellant and deceased Raju were going towards Jaufri on motor cycle. PW-4 admitted it. It is stated that his father (deceased Om Prakash) told him that he is going to Deshraj @ Baba at Jaufri where he was called and where Brahm Dev is also present. This statement of PW-4 is relevant and is reproduced:-

"मेरे पापा ने मुझसे कहा की में देशराज उर्फ़ बाबा के पास कोसेपुर जॉफरी जा रहा हूँ वह पर मुझे बुलाया गया था वह पर ब्रह्मदेव भी है । "

11. This witness has also supported the prosecution case about dead body of two persons having been found on 16.12.2003. Though this witness has supported the prosecution case that amount of Rs. 80,000/- was due to the two deceased on account of supply of milk and cottage cheese but no accounts or registers in that regard have been produced. He has also alleged that his father used to carry a diary which contained all the accounting entries but this diary has not been produced and the diary has not shown to the Investigating Officer. In the cross examination, he has further stated that he saw his father and other deceased Raju on the motorcycle. Statement in that regard is reproduced hereinafter:-

"मेरे पापा जेब में डायरी रखते थे। वह डायरी मेरे पास नहीं है वह डायरी हमने पुलिस को नहीं दिखायी। जो दो पर्चो ब्रह्मदेव के हिसाब के थे वो मैंने पुलिस दरोगा जी को नहीं दिखये। वह दोनों पर्चा अदालत में जमा नहीं किये। जिस मोटरसाइकिल पर मैंने अपने पिता जी व राजू को देखा था ।"

12. This witness has also stated that the motor cycle of his father has not been traced and was kept in police station. He has further admitted that though his father has not returned for two days but no missing report was lodged by him in respect of his disappearance. He has denied the suggestion that he has not seen the accused appellant going with two deceased.

13. PW-5 (Dr. S. K. Upadhyaya) is the doctor who has conducted the autopsy of the two dead bodies. He clearly stated that approximate time of death was about one and a half days from the time when postmortem was conducted. PW- 5 has moreover proved the postmortem report.

14. PW-6 (V.S. Bajpayee) is retired Inspector, who is a witness of the recovery of spade and bullock cart. The spade has also been produced during trial before the court below.

15. PW-7 (Chauthi Prasad) is Sub Inspector, who has conducted the inquest of two dead bodies.

16. PW-8 (Virendra Singh Tomar) is the Investigating Officer of the case. He has admitted that the spade recovered from the house of the accused appellant after three and a half months has not been sent for forensic examination.

17. On the basis of the evidence led by the prosecution during the course of trial, the incriminating materials were confronted to the accused for recording his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The accused has denied the allegations made against him. The incriminating material have been put to the accused appellant in the form of separate questions. We have been taken through the questions by the counsel for the appellant in order to emphasise that there is no specific question put to the accused appellant with regard to recovery of spade and bullock cart.

18. On behalf of the defence testimony of one Chandra Bhan Singh has been produced as DW-1 and not much turns on his testimony.

19. The trial court on the basis of evidence led in the matter has come to the conclusion that two deceased have been done to death by the accused appellant where after their bodies were found in an open place. The motive for commission of the offence is the defaulted outstanding amount payable by Brahm Dev to the two deceased, repayment of which he wanted to avoid. The trial court has relied upon the evidence of PW-3 and PW-4 to hold that the two deceased were lastly seen in the company of accused appellant and it is this evidence which is against the appellant. So far as recovery of spade and bullock cart is concerned, the trial court has disbelieved it on the ground that there are no independent witnesses and even otherwise the recovered items have not been sent for forensic examination. The trial court ultimately held the appellant guilty of the charges and convicted and sentenced him vide the judgment impugned. Being aggrieved, the appellant is before this Court in the present appeal.

20. Sri Gaurav Kakkar, learned counsel for the appellant submits that this is a case of virtually no evidence against the accused appellant inasmuch as the testimony of last seen is not reliable and there is neither any credible recovery from the accused appellant nor the motive is established. It is urged that the appellant was not named in the FIR and his implication has surfaced on the basis of an application of PW-3 after four days which is nothing but an after thought. Learned counsel further submits that in the absence of any motive attributed to the accused appellant the prosecution case based on circumstantial evidence cannot succeed.

Learned counsel further submits that testimony of PW-4 with regard to last seen theory is not reliable and even otherwise there was substantial gap between the time of alleged last seen and the recovery of dead body.

21. Learned AGA, on the other hand, has supported the judgment of court below on the ground that there is definite motive for commissioning of offence as the accused appellant was working for Brahm Dev who owed about Rs. 80,000/- to the two deceased. It is further submitted that two deceased were seen lastly going with the accused appellant and since only their dead body have been recovered later, as such the implication of accused appellant is well founded. Learned AGA also points out that it was only after the witnesses recognized the dead bodies at the mortuary that a report was got lodged with the police in the matter.

22. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the materials on record including the original records.

23. The record reveals that dead body of two unidentified persons were spotted by the village Chaukidar of village Nada Wazidpur in P.S Lodha, District Aligarh at about 8.00 in the morning. The bodies were lying near the canal. The skull was lying at a distance from the two dead bodies. Thereafter, the inquest was conducted and the two dead bodies were sent to mortuary for postmortem. The prosecution witnesses apparently have identified the two dead bodies as that of Raju and Om Prakash at the mortuary.

24. The implication of accused appellant in the present case is on account of the prosecution story that one Brahm Dev was running a shop in Aligarh, selling milk and cottage cheese, which was being supplied by the two deceased Raju and Om Prakash and sum of Rs. 80,000/- was due and payable to the two deceased for long. The accused appellant came to the house of deceased and asked him to come with him for taking the money from Brahm Dev who was at Jaufri with the accused appellant. The prosecution case is that two deceased alongwith accused appellant left on a motor cycle for village Jaufri and were lastly seen together by PW-4 in the morning hours on 15.12.2003. The deceased were seen there. Their dead bodies were found in the next morning on 16.12.2003.

25. As per prosecution case, there was a definite motive for the accused appellant to commit the murder of two deceased as he was employed in the shop of Brahm Dev who owed Rs. 80,000/- to the two deceased. It is further alleged that accused appellant had come to the house of deceased and took them on the pretext of ensuring return of the amount and since the dead bodies were found later the prosecution alleges that it was the accused appellant who had done them to death.

26. Admittedly, it is a case of circumstantial evidence and for a case based on circumstantial to succeed the prosecution must connect the chain of events in such a manner that it points exclusively to the hypothesis of guilt attributed to the accused appellant and that any alternate hypothesis is ruled out.

27. We are, therefore, required to analyse the evidence on record so as to determine whether the chain of events has been successfully connected by the prosecution in this case to implicate the present appellant. The first aspect which requires examination is with regard to the motive which assumes significance in the case of circumstantial evidence. As per the prosecution the motive was that a sum of Rs. 80,000/- which was owed to the two deceased by Brahm Dev had not been returned. The accused appellant is stated to be working in the shop of Brahm Dev. It is, however, admitted that the amount was not payable or due from the accused appellant and no evidence is led by the prosecution to show that accused appellant would have gained anything or was to derive any advantage on account of death of two deceased. The motive as per prosecution could at best implicate Brahm Dev and not the accused appellant. Even otherwise, we find the evidence relating to motive to be weak and except the bald allegation that a sum of Rs. 80,000/- was due and payable to the two deceased in the testimony of PW-3 and PW- 4, there is no other material which may indicate that such amount was actually payable to the two deceased. Neither any accounts have been produced nor any other material in the form of register or diary etc. has been produced during trial, which may show that such amount was payable by Brahm Dev to the two deceased. We are, therefore, of the opinion that prosecution has not been able to establish any motive for the accused appellant to commit the murder of the two deceased. The only material to implicate the accused appellant is the statement of the PW-3 and PW-4 that the accused appellant visited them and asked the two deceased to come with him for collecting outstanding money from Brahm Dev. PW-3 in his statement has further stated that two deceased went along with accused appellant in the morning hours on 15.12.2003. It is also alleged that the incident of three (two deceased along with accused appellant) going together has been witnessed by PW- 4.

28. PW-3 has moreover admitted that his brother had not returned by the evening. The conduct of PW- 3 in not lodging any missing report despite the fact that he knew that his brother had gone with the accused appellant creates some suspicion upon the version of PW-3. In the event PW-3 was aware that his brother had left with the accused appellant and had not returned in the entire night it was expected that he would report the disappearance of his brother to the police and also narrate the fact about the missing person having gone with the accused appellant. There is no evidence to show that such a report was made by PW-3.

29. Similarly, PW-4 although has alleged that he saw the three going together but in his testimony this witness has clearly stated that his father told him that he is going to the accused appellant at village Jaufri where he was called and Brahm Dev is also there. This statement does indicate that accused appellant was actually not present with the two deceased or else the statement would have been different.

30. In the event accused appellant was present with the two deceased there was no occasion for the father of the PW- 4 to state that he is going to the place of accused appellant. In the subsequent part of his testimony also the witness has stated that he saw the two deceased going on motorcycle and there is no reference of presence of accused appellant with the two deceased. This statement therefore, creates suspicion with regard to presence of the accused appellant with the two deceased or the testimony of PW-4 about his having lastly seen the deceased with the accused appellant.

31. We further find substance in the argument of counsel for the appellant that even if the prosecution case on the basis of testimony of PW-3 and PW-4 is accepted, yet it would not establish the guilt of the accused appellant on the settled touchstone of a case of circumstantial evidence.

32. As per prosecution, the postmortem of the two deceased has been conducted on 17.12.2003 at about 3.30 - 4.00 pm. The approximate time of death has been indicated as one and a half day. In the event one and a half day is calculated from the time of conduct of postmortem the expected time of death of the two deceased would be around 3.30- 4.00 am on 16.12.2003. The time gap between the incident of last seen and time of death is thus about 19 - 20 hours.

33. The time gap in that regard is a matter of significance. The law is well settled that an alternate hypothesis consistent with the innocence of accused must be proved to be not in existence and the time gap would be a relevant factor in that regard which would dent the prosecution case.

34. In a recent decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Jabir and ors. vs. The State of Uttarakhand, 2023 AIR SC 488 the Court has specifically examined this aspect of the matter while observing as under:-

"25. In the present case, save the "last seen" theory, there is no other circumstance or evidence. Importantly, the time gap between when the deceased was seen in the company of the accused on 09-10-1999 and the probable time of his death, based on the post mortem report, which was conducted two days later, but was silent about the probable time of death, though it stated that death occurred approximately two days before the post mortem, is not narrow. Given this fact, and the serious inconsistencies in the depositions of the witnesses, as well as the fact that the FIR was lodged almost 6 weeks after the incident, the sole reliance on the "last seen" circumstance (even if it were to be assumed to have been proved) to convict the accused-appellants is not justified. 8 2016 (1) SCC 550."

35. The law is otherwise well settled that the prosecution in a case of circumstantial evidence is obliged to prove each circumstances beyond reasonable doubt and to link all circumstances against the accused appellant.

36. The principle has been summed up in para 21 of the judgment in Jabir (supra) where their Lordships have followed the previous decision of the court in Sarad Birdichand Sarda which has acquired the status of locus classicus on the issue, which is reproduced hereinafter:-

"21. A basic principle of criminal jurisprudence is that in circumstantial evidence cases, the prosecution is obliged to prove each circumstance, beyond reasonable doubt, as well the as the links between all circumstances; such circumstances, taken cumulatively, should form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability, the crime was committed by the accused and none else; further, the facts so proved should unerringly point towards the guilt of the accused. The circumstantial evidence, in order to sustain conviction, must be complete and incapable of explanation of any other hypothesis than that of the guilt of the accused, and such evidence should not only be consistent with the guilt of the accused but should be inconsistent with his innocence.5 These were so stated in Sarad Birdichand Sarda (supra) where the court, after quoting from Hanumant, observed that:

"153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an Accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned 'must or should' and not 'may be' established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between 'may be proved' and "must be or should be proved" as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra (1973) 2 SCC 793 where the following observations were made: [SCC para 19, p. 807: SCC (Cri.) p. 1047] Certainly, it is a primary principle that the Accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between 'may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions.

(2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the Accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the Accused is guilty, (3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency, (4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and (5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of 5 Ibid 3 the Accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the Accused."

154. These five golden principles, if we may say so, constitute the panchsheel of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence." These panchsheel precepts, so to say, are now fundamental rules, iterated time and again, and require adherence not only for their precedential weight, but as the only safe bases upon which conviction in circumstantial evidence cases can soundly rest."

37. We further find support from the judgement of the Supreme Court in the case of Ram Pratap vs. The State of Harayan, 2023 (2) SCC 345 wherein following principles have been laid down:-

"9. It has been held by this Court in a catena of cases including Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra reported at (1984) 4 SCC 116, that suspicion, howsoever strong, cannot substitute proof beyond reasonable doubt. This Court has held that there is not only a grammatical but also a legal distinction between 'may' and 'must'. For proving a case based on circumstantial evidence, it is necessary for the prosecution to establish each and every circumstance beyond reasonable doubt, and further, that the circumstances so proved must form a complete chain of evidence so as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show, in all human probability, that the act has been done by the accused. Further, it has been held that the facts so established must exclude every hypothesis except the guilt of the accused.

38. The other circumstance against the accused appellant is with regard to recovery of spade and bullock cart which has already been disbelieved by the court below. There is neither any appeal filed against such finding by the State nor we find any error in the conclusion arrived at

by the court below particularly as the recovery of spade is after three and a half months and there are no independent witness to such recovery. The spade otherwise has not been sent to forensic examination. We also find force in the contention of learned counsel for the appellant that specific circumstance with regard to recovery since has not been put to the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. therefore, this aspect also cannot be read in evidence against the accused appellant.

39. The principle in that regard has been reiterated by the Supreme Court in the case of Jai Prakash Tiwari vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, 2022 AIR SC 3601 wherein the Court has observed as under:-

"20. This Court in the case of Satbir Singh v. State of Haryana, (2021) 6 SCC 1, while emphasising upon the significance of Section 313 CrPC, has delineated the duty of the trial Court and held thus:

"22. It is a matter of grave concern that, often, trial courts record the statement of an accused under Section 313 CrPC in a very casual and cursory manner, without specifically questioning the accused as to his defence. It ought to be noted that the examination of an accused under Section 313 CrPC cannot be treated as a mere procedural formality, as it is based on the fundamental principle of fairness. This provision incorporates the valuable principle of natural justice -- "audi alteram partem", as it enables the accused to offer an explanation for the incriminatory material appearing against him. Therefore, it imposes an obligation on the part of the court to question the accused fairly, with care and caution. The court must put incriminating circumstances before the accused and seek his response. A duty is also cast on the counsel of the accused to prepare his defence, since the inception of the trial, with due caution..." (emphasis supplied)

40. Once the facts of the present case are analysed on the basis of the law settled by the Supreme Court in respect of case based on circumstantial evidence, we have no hesitation in coming to the conclusion that the prosecution has miserably failed to connect the chain of events pointing exclusively to the hypothesis of guilt attributed to the accused appellant. Except for the weak evidence in the nature of recovery and the circumstance of last seen, which we have discarded for the reasons enumerated above, there is no other circumstance to implicate the accused appellant. The chain of circumstances is, therefore, left incomplete.

41. The trial court while recording the finding of guilt against accused appellant, however, has completely omitted to consider the evidence in correct perspective in light of our discussions held above. The inconsistency in the testimony of PW-3 and PW-4 has been overlooked. The gap of 20 hours in the time of last seen and the expected time of death remains wholly unexplained and an alternative hypothesis consistent with the innocence of accused during such period otherwise cannot be ruled out.

42. In such circumstances, we cannot endorse the findings returned by the court below with regard to the establishment of guilt of accused appellant and the same stands reversed.

43. The appeal consequently succeeds and is allowed. The judgment and order passed by the court below dated 18.02.2017, convicting and sentencing the accused appellant, is set aside. The accused appellant is entitled to benefit of doubt and as he has already undergone incarceration of more than 8 years without remission, he is entitled to be released forthwith, unless he is wanted in any other case subject to compliance of Section 437 Cr.P.C.

1. This appeal has been filed challenging the judgment and order dated 26.05.2000 passed by Vth Additional Sessions Judge, Muzaffarnagar, convicting the appellant in Session Trial No.703 of 1998 (State Vs. Raju), under Sections 302, 376 and 201 I.P.C. and sentencing him to imprisonment for life, imprisonment of life and 3 years R.I., respectively. All the sentences having been directed to run concurrently.

The accused had taken them to the field of Kiran Singh where she found her niece dead. She was in naked condition and her clothes were besides her dead body.

3. The investigation of the case was entrusted to the Sub-Inspector, Om Prakash Singh, who inspected the place of occurrence and prepared the site plan and recorded the statement of witnesses. After completion of investigation, the Investigating Officer has submitted charge-sheet against the accused/appellant under Sections 376, 302 and 201 I.P.C. on 16.03.1998 and the cognizance was taken by the Magistrate and considering that the case was triable by the Session Judge and it was committed to the court of session and the Session Court charged the accused under Sections 376, 302 and 201 I.P.C. on 23.10.1998.

4. In order to prove its case the prosecution has examined five witnesses, who are as follows :

1	Mange Ram	PW-1
2	Dheer Singh	PW-2
3	K.K.Agrawal	PW-3
4	Dr. C.K.Parekh	PW-4
5	Om Prakash	PW-5

5. In support of ocular version following documents were filed:

1	F.I.R.	Ex.Ka.-4
2	Written Report	Ex.Ka.1
3	Pathology report	Ex.Ka. 2
4	P.M. Report	Ex. Ka. 3
5	Panchayatnama	Ex. Ka.7
6	Charge Sheet	Ex.Ka.13
7	Site Plan with Index	Ex. Ka.6

6. The prosecution laid the evidence against the accused and the court after prosecution evidence examined the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and the accused submitted that he has been falsely implicated in the present case with ulterior intention of harassing him. He pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried. The learned Sessions Judge framed charges under Sections 376, 302 and 201 I.P.C.

7. After considering the evidence available on record the trial court convicted the accused as aforesaid. Being aggrieved by the conviction judgment and order this appeal has been filed.

8. Heard Sri Chetan Chatterjee, amicus curaie appointed for the appellant and Sri Patanjali Mishra, learned A.G.A. for the State.

9. Learned counsel for the accused/appellant submits that the appellant has been falsely implicated by the informant as there was no evidence on record which could show that the accused has murder the deceased after committing rape. No one had seen the accused either committing rape or murder. There are contradictions in the statement of witnesses and the last seen evidence given by Janeshwar, Ram Avtar and Dheer Singh against the accused does not appear to be very credible. He also submits that as per postmortem report no spermatozoa was found. The dead body of the deceased was not recovered a the instance of the accused-appellant. He lastly submits that the accused is in jail and he has served more than twenty four years in prison. It was the first offence of the accused and after conviction the accused had not indulged in any other criminal activity. Although the trial court has convicted the present accused on the basis of mere conjuncture while the appellant is absolutely innocent and has been falsely implicated in this case with the ulterior intention of harassing him.

10. Learned A.G.A. has submitted that the accused has committed murder after raping a seven years old child and there was last seen evidence against the accused.

11. The conviction of appellant is based only upon circumstantial evidence. Hence, in order to sustain a conviction, it is imperative that the chain of circumstances is complete, cogent and coherent. This court has consistently held in a long line of cases Hukam Singh v. State of Rajasthan AIR (1977 SC 1063); Eradu and Ors. v. State of Hyderabad (AIR 1956 SC 316); Earabhadrappa @ Krishnappa v. State of Karnataka (AIR 1983 SC 446); State of U.P. v. Sukhbasi and Ors. (AIR 1985 SC 1224); Balwinder Singh @ Dalbir Singh v. State of Punjab (AIR 1987 SC 350); Ashok Kumar Chatterjee v. State of M.P. (AIR 1989 SC 1890)] that where a case rests squarely on circumstantial evidence, the inference of guilt can be justified only when all the incriminating facts and circumstances are found to be incompatible with the innocence of the accused. The circumstances from which an inference as to the guilt of the accused is drawn have to be proved beyond reasonable doubt and have to be shown to be closely connected with the principal fact sought to be inferred from those circumstances. In Bhagat Ram vs. State of Punjab (AIR 1954 SC 621), it was laid down that where the case depends upon the conclusion drawn from circumstances, the cumulative effect of the circumstances must be such as to negate the innocence of the accused and bring the offence home beyond any reasonable doubt. We may also make a reference to a decision of this Court in C. Chenga Reddy and Ors. vs. State of A.P. (1996) 10 SCC 193, wherein it has been observed that:

"In a case based on circumstantial evidence, the settled law is that the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is drawn should be fully proved and such circumstances must be conclusive in nature. Moreover, all the circumstances should be complete and there should be no gap left in the chain of evidence.

Further the proved circumstances must be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused and totally inconsistent with his innocence....".

12. Upon thorough application of the above settled law on the facts of the present case, we hold that the circumstantial evidence against the present appellant does not conclusively establish the guilt in committing the murder of the deceased. The last seen theory, the arrest of the accused, the recovery the dead body, do not conclusively complete the chain of evidence and do not establish the fact.

13. In a case where the conviction is solely based on circumstantial evidence, such inconsistencies in the testimonies of the important witnesses cannot be ignored to uphold the conviction of accused-appellant.

14. It would be seen by this Court that the facts in this case are similar to a recently decided case by the Apex Court titled Ravinder Singh @ Kaku Vs. State of Punjab, decided on 04.05.2022 reported in 2022 (7) SCC 581 wherein the Apex Court while dealing with similar facts has held as follows:

"17. In a case where the conviction is solely based on circumstantial evidence, such inconsistencies in the testimonies of the important witnesses cannot be ignored to uphold the conviction of A2, especially in light of the fact that the High Court has already erred in extrapolating the facts to infer a dubious conclusion regarding the existence of a motive that is rooted in conjectures and probabilities.

18. With respect to the extra judicial confessions, suffice it to say that the attempt of the respondent herein to rely on that is untenable since the High court has taken note of the inconsistencies in the evidence of PW13 Goverdhan Lal and has rightly rejected his Evidence in "in toto". We uphold the judgment of the High Court to the extent that it rejects the testimony of PW13 and finds the theory of extra judicial confession of A2 and A3 to be unnatural."

14. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed and the impugned order dated 26.5.2000 is set aside to the extent that it convicts accused under section 302 and 376 I.P.C. Hence, the conviction of accused is set aside.

15. We direct that a copy of this order be communicated to the relevant jail authorities and the appellant Raju be immediately set at liberty, unless his detention is required in any other case.

3. The prosecution story, in brief, finds place in the F.I.R., which was lodged on the basis of the written report Ex.Ka.-1 given by informant Bacchu Singh, wherein it was narrated that the informant is an employee in Railway Department and has cordial relations with his neighbour accused Mahendra Singh, who uses to come to his house. The informant and his brothers have executed an agreement to sale on 08.07.2011 and the informant got Rs.2 lakh as his share, which were kept in his house. On 12.07.2011, the informant's daughter Bhagwan Dei received a phone call by Mahendra who wanted to have a chat with her mother Laxmi, wife of the informant. After receiving the call, Laxmi took some articles in a bag and went away from house stating that she was going to her parental home at village Nahra and to come back after two hours. Laxmi was seen by many people going towards Chatta alongwith accused Mahendra on Akbarpur Roadways. The informant made a phone call to Laxmi in the evening when she did not reach Nahra, but she was in haste and was unable to talk and subsequently her phone was switched off. The informant found that Rs.2 lakh, gold & silver jewels and clothings were missing from the house. After search, he found and identified the dead body of Laxmi at the Postmortem House, Mathura on 15.07.2011.

4. F.I.R. Ex.Ka.-10 was lodged against the named accused Mahendra Singh on 16.07.2011 at 13:00 P.M. by Constable Clerk Krishan Pal Singh, who also prepared the registration G.D. Ex.Ka.-11.

5. The investigation ensued and was taken over by C.O. Devendra Singh, who performed the proceedings of the investigation and during the course of investigation, the statements of relevant witnesses were recorded by him. The call details record of the mobile phones of the accused and deceased was also obtained. The dead body of the deceased was recovered and cash money and murder weapon knives were also retrived on the pointing out of the accused persons. The investigating officer also prepared the site plans of the place of occurrence and recovery Ex.Ka.-13, Ex.Ka.-15 and Ex.Ka.-17.

6. The inquest of the deceased was performed and inquest report Ex.Ka.-5 was also prepared.

7. The autopsy of the dead body of the deceased was performed by Dr. R.S. Maurya, who after performing the postmortem of the deceased prepared autopsy report Ex.Ka.-2. The following injuries were found over the body of the deceased :

(i) Multiple lacerated wounds on inner aspect of left upper limbs average size 3 cm. x 1.5 cm. x muscular deep.

(iii) Lacerated wound 5 cm. x 2 cm. x abdomen cavity deep on lower part of abdominal mid line.

As per opinion of Doctor, the cause of death was due to shock and haemorrhage, as a result of ante-mortem injuries.

8. After completion of the investigation, charge-sheet Ex.Ka.-18 was filed in the Court against accused Mahendra Singh, Ganga Dhar and Baniya @ Balveer under Sections 302, 201, 120-B, 34, 404 IPC.

9. The investigation of the case under Section 25 Arms Act was taken by S.I. Saleem Khan, who after performing the investigation of the case, prepared site plan Ex.Ka.-19 and Ex. Ka.-21, and submitted charge-sheets Ex.Ka.-20 and Ex.Ka.-22 against accused Mahendra and Ganga Dhar respectively, to the court.

10. The matter, being exclusively triable by the Sessions Court, was committed to the Court of Sessions for trial.

11. Charges under Sections 302/34, 201, 120-B, 404 of IPC were framed on 23.01.2012 against accused Mahendra Singh, Ganga Dhar and Baniya @ Balveer. Charge under Section 4/25 Arms Act was also framed against accused Mahendra Singh and Ganga Dhar on 28.06.2012. The accused persons pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

12. To bring home the charges against the accused, the prosecution produced in all nine witnesses in oral evidence. They are (P.W.1) Bacchu Singh, informant, (P.W.2) Pooran Singh, (P.W.3) Bhagwan Dei, (P.W.4) Shri Chandra, (P.W.5) Dr. R.S. Maurya, (P.W.6) Constable Krishan Pal Singh, (P.W.7) S.I. Devendra Kumar Tyagi, (P.W.8) Devendra Singh and (P.W.9) S.O. Saleem Khan, who were examined.

13. In documentary evidence, written report Ex.Ka.-1, Postmortem Report Ex.Ka.-2, police papers related to postmortem report, pratisar nirikshak report, form 33, inquest, photo lash, letter to C.M.O., nakal report P.S. Chhata, Report of Bharat Singh Ex.Ka.-3 to 9, Chik F.I.R. Ex.Ka.10, G.D. Ex.Ka.-11, Seizure Memo of currency notes Ex.Ka.-12, Site Plan Ex.Ka.-13, Seizure Memo of Cash Ex.Ka.-14, Site Plan Ex.Ka.-15, Seizure Memo of Weapon Ex.Ka.-16, Site Plan Ex.Ka.-17, Charge-sheet Ex.Ka.-18, Site Plan Ex.Ka.-19, Charge-sheet Ex.Ka.-20, Site Plan Ex.Ka.-21, Charge-sheet Ex.Ka.-22, F.I.R. and Registration G.D. relating to the case under Arms Act as Ex.Ka.-23, Ex.Ka.-24, Ex.Ka.-25 and Ex.Ka.-26 respectively have been proved.

14. (P.W.1) Bacchu Singh is the original informant and the husband of the deceased. He has supported the F.I.R. version in his examination-in-chief and has affirmed the fact that his wife Laxmi had left his house on 12.7.2011 after receiving a telephone call of the accused Mahendra alongwith two lac rupees, jewelleries and clothes, as was informed to him by his daughter. On 15.07.2011, he had seen the dead body of Laxmi at Postmortem House, Mathura. He has proved the written report given by him to the police station as Ex.Ka.-1. However, he has admitted in his cross-examination that he had not seen his wife going alongwith the accused. He has stated that the accused used to come to his house from about one year prior to the incident. He has also proved the fact that Rs.90,000/- were recovered by the police from accused Ganga Dhar and the memo thereof was prepared by the police at the police station.

15. (P.W.2) Pooran Singh is the real brother of the informant and he has affirmed the fact in his deposition that he and his two brothers had executed an agreement to sale for a consideration of six lakh rupees and rupees two lakh each were received by all the three brothers, as per their respective shares. However, his testimony, as to the other facts of the case comes within the category of hearsay evidence. The noteworthy part of the deposition of this witness is that when two lakh rupees were distributed amongst all the three brothers including himself, he had made his signature over each and every currency note. Rupees four lakhs were in the form of rupees five hundred notes, whereas rupees two lakh were in the form of rupees one hundred notes and he had signed over all the currency notes.

16. P.W.1 and P.W.2 both state that they found the dead body of the deceased at Postmortem house, Mathura on 15.07.2011.

17. (P.W.3) Bhagwan Dei, is the daughter of the deceased, who in her examination-in-chief has stated that on 12.07.2011, she had received a phone call from the accused Mahendra, who wanted to talk to her mother and after receiving that call, her mother left the house alongwith money, clothes and jewels telling her to come back within two hours, as she was going to her parents' home at Nahra. She herself went to leave her to the Tempo Stand. Thereafter, when she tried to contact her mother on phone, the phone was switched off and subsequently her dead body was found. She has further stated that when she was returning from the Tempo Stand after leaving her mother there, she had seen accused Mahendra Singh, Ganga Dhar and Baniya @ Balveer at the Tempo Stand.

18. It is noteworthy that all the aforesaid prosecution witnesses admit that the murder of the deceased was not committed before them.

19. (P.W.4) Shri Chandra is the witness of last seen and also of extra-judicial confession made by accused Ganga Dhar to him. In his deposition, he has stated that on 12.07.2011 at about 1:00 P.M., he had seen Laxmi wife of Bacchu, going alongwith accused Baniya @ Balveer and Ganga Dhar Nai at the Tempo Stand of the Village. Laxmi had taken a bag and on his query, she told that she was going to her parents' house. On 15.07.2011, he came to know that Laxmi has been murdered. He has further stated that on 16.07.2011, Ganga Dhar Nai, the native of his village came to him and confessed the crime of murder of Laxmi, alongwith Mahendra and Baniya @ Balveer, being seduced by them. Accused Ganga Dhar further told him that in a planned manner, all the three accused had murdered Laxmi by using knife and the dead body was concealed under the grass near the tree besides the railway boundary. He has further stated that the fact of last seen and extra-judicial confession was disclosed by him to the Investigating Officer. He has further stated that he had no friendship with accused Ganga Dhar.

20. (P.W.5) Dr. R.S. Maurya has performed the autopsy of the deceased. Explaining the injuries found over the body of the deceased, he has stated that the death might have been caused on 12.07.2011 at about 1:00 P.M. He has further stated in his cross-examination that the injuries found over the body of the deceased have not been caused by use of sharp-edged weapon or knife rather the injuries might be inflicted by use of any blunt object.

21. (P.W.6) Constable Clerk Krishna Pal Singh is the scribe of the F.I.R., who has proved Chik F.I.R. Ex.Ka.-10 and Registration G.D. Ex.Ka.-11 and has also stated that on the basis of the written report of informant Bacchu Singh, F.I.R. was lodged by him.

22. (P.W.7) S.I. Devendra Kumar Tyagi, is the witness of inquest and has proved the inquest report as Ex.Ka.5. He has stated that on the information given by the informer, he had arrested accused Mahendra Singh and Ganga Dhar and rupees fourty thousand cash each in the form of hundred rupee currency notes were recovered from their possession and recovery memo was prepared. He has further stated that both the accused confessed their guilt before the police and on their pointing out, two knives were retrieved by the police and one mobile phone was also handed over by accused Mahendra to the police and the recovery memo was prepared. Subsequently, on 27.08.2011, accused Baniya @ Balveer was also arrested by the police and on his pointing out, rupees ten thousand were recovered by the police from a box kept in the house of the accused, which were in the form of hundred rupee currency notes. Recovery memo Ex.Ka.-12 has been proved by this witness and the photo copies of the currency notes and their bundles were also proved as Material Ex.-1 to Material Ex.-9.

23. (P.W.8) S.H.O. Devendra Singh is the Investigating Officer of the case, who has proved the proceedings of the investigation in his deposition. The factum of arrest of accused Mahendra Singh, Ganga Dhar and subsequently of Baniya @ Balveer and recovery of knives on the pointing out of accused Mahendra Singh and Ganga Dhar and also of currency notes to the tune of total ninety thousand rupees from all the accused persons has been proved by this witness. He also proves recovery memos Ex.Ka.-14, Ka.-15, Ka.-16, Ka.-17, Site Plan Ex.Ka.13 and charge-sheet Ex.Ka.-18 as well and states that the case properties were sent to F.S.L. The alleged murder weapon, two knives have been proved by him as Material Ex.-10 and Material Ex.-11.

In the cross-examination, he has stated that nothing came to his knowledge regarding the love affair between the accused Mahendra and deceased.

24. (P.W.9) S.H.O. Saleem Khan, is the Investigating Officer of the case under Section 4/25 Arms Act. In his deposition, he has proved the proceedings of the investigation relating to both the cases under Section 4/25 Arms Act and the site plan as well as charge-sheet as Ex.Ka.-20, Ka.-21. As a secondary witness, he has proved the F.I.R. and Registration G.D. relating to both the accused, Mahendra and Ganga Dhar as Ex.Ka.-23, Ex.Ka.-24, Ex.Ka.-25 and Ex.Ka.-26 respectively, for the cases under Arms Act.

25. The learned trial court upon scrutiny of the evidence on record concluded that the case of prosecution was proved beyond reasonable doubt against all the accused persons and recorded conviction and sentence against the accused persons as hereinabove mentioned.

26. Assailing the impugned judgment on various grounds, learned counsel for the appellants have submitted that the prosecution case is based upon circumstantial evidence, but the chain of circumstances is not complete, so as to prove the guilt of the accused. Even the evidence of last seen has not been proved in proper manner. There was no motive for the appellants to do away with the deceased. The Investigating Officer also did not find even a whisper of evidence to the effect that appellant Mahendra Singh was having any affair with the deceased. The so called extra-judicial confession by appellant Ganga Dhar to (P.W.4) Shri Chandra is not a reliable piece of evidence and there was no occasion for appellant Ganga Dhar to make any extra-judicial confession to P.W.4. The prosecution case does not find support from the medical evidence as well which also falsifies the alleged recovery of knives as murder weapons on the pointing out of appellants Mahendra Singh and Ganga Dhar. The statements of P.W.1 and P.W.2 are also not trustworthy. The F.I.R. has also been recorded belatedly and no plausible explanation has been offered by the prosecution in respect thereof. The investigation of the case is also faulty, which affects the prosecution case in material aspects. The conclusion arrived at by the prosecution is per se perverse and based on no credible evidence.

27. On the aforesaid grounds, a prayer to set-aside the impugned judgment and order and acquittal of the appellants has been made by the learned counsel for the appellants.

28. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the present appeals mainly on the ground that the last seen evidence is trustworthy and reliable piece of evidence. (P.W.3) Bhagwan Dei, the daughter of the deceased, had no reason to depose falsely before the court intending false implication of the appellants. The motive of the incident has also been proved by cogent evidence. The appellants wanted to grab the money from the poor deceased lady and in the accomplishment of this object, under the criminal conspiracy, they caused murder of the deceased and grabbed the money from her and a part thereof was recovered from their possession, which further substantiates the prosecution allegations. All the links make a complete chain of circumstances and are sufficient to prove the guilt of the appellants. There is no material fault or discrepancy in the investigation. The prosecution case is also corroborated by the medical evidence. The informant, being worried and busy in search of his wife, could manage to lodge the F.I.R. only after getting the dead body of his wife and that was the cause for delay in lodging of the first information report. Extra judicial confession made by Ganga Dhar, one of the accused persons, is another piece of strong evidence against all the accused persons. On the aforesaid grounds, it has been stated by the learned A.G.A. that the prosecution story is proved by cogent and reliable oral and documentary evidence. There is nothing on record to suggest that the appellants have been falsely implicated by the informant or police. Hence, the appeals are liable to be dismissed.

Principles governing the cases based on Circumstantial Evidence -

29. Indubitably, present is a case based on circumstantial evidence and no direct evidence lies, on record, to indicate the involvement of the accused persons in the alleged crime. What the prosecution is under obligation to prove in a case based on circumstantial evidence, has been settled in umpteen of cases by the Hon'ble Apex Court and this Court as well.

30. In Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116, the Apex Court laid down the following five golden principles, i.e. the panchsheel of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence:

(i) The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between "may be proved' and "must be or should be proved". It is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between "may be' and "must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions.

(ii) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty.

(iii) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency,

(iv) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(v) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

31. In G. Parshwanath Vs. State of Karnataka, (2010) 8 SCC 593, it was held that there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused, where various links in the chain are in themselves complete, then the false plea or false defence may be called into aid only to lend assurance to the court.

32. Recently in Raju Vs. State of Rajasthan, 2022 (121) ACC 954, the aforesaid legal position has been reiterated.

33. Applying the aforesaid proposition of law in the present case, we are under obligation to search out whether having taken cumulatively, the circumstances are forming the chain which is so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all normal and human probabilities, the crime was committed by the accused only and none else and the aforesaid conclusion must be free from any other hypothesis than that of the guilt of the accused.

Last seen Theory -

34. The first circumstance, which is relied upon by the prosecution, is the last seen theory. It has been submitted that the deceased was seen last time in the company of the appellants and thereafter her dead body was recovered. P.W.3, the daughter of the deceased, develops the story of last seen in her cross-examination where she states that while returning from the tempo stand, she had seen Bania, Mahendra and Ganga Dhar standing over the Tempo stand. She had made a specific statement that she had not seen anyone carrying her mother or killing her. Hence, the theory of last seen is not sufficiently proved by the evidence of P.W.3.

35. P.W.4, is another witness of last seen and states that on 12.07.2011 at about 1:00 P.M., he had seen Laxmi going with Bania @ Balveer and Ganga Dhar Nai at the tempo stand of the village who told him that she was going to her parental house. On 15.07.2011, he came to know that she has been murdered. He has further stated that on 12.07.2011 itself, when the informant met him, he had disclosed this fact to him. It is noteworthy that (P.W.1) Bacchu Singh does not state even a single word in respect of meeting of deceased with P.W.4 or any conversation between them. Surprisingly, this fact was not mentioned in the F.I.R. Ex.Ka.-10, lodged four days thereafter by the informant, which was a material fact. It is significant to note that on the point of last seen, the deposition of P.W.4 does not find place in his statement recorded by the investigating officer P.W.8, as admitted by P.W.4 himself.

36. P.W.4 further states in his cross-examination that it is true that many persons were standing at the tempo stand and hence he is unable to tell as to with whom Laxmi had come and whether she was accompanied by anyone or was all alone. He is also unable to tell the time when Laxmi Devi went by tempo nor he has shown the place to the Investigating Officer where she was standing.

37. P.W.4 has also stated, in his cross-examination, that he did not meet any family member of Bacchu Singh at the tempo stand and except Laxmi, Ganga Dhar and Baniya @ Balveer, no other person met him at the tempo stand. This statement shakes the credibility of this witness in the light of the evidence of P.W.3, the daughter of the deceased, who has stated that she had gone to the tempo stand alongwith her mother and came back from there after her mother took her place in the tempo. This contradiction shows that P.W.4, in fact, was not present at the tempo stand and he is not a witness of last seen.

38. We find hearsay evidence of P.W.2 on the point of last seen, which is of no value. Notably, Badan Singh and Saudan Singh, who allegedly told P.W.2 in respect of last seen of the deceased in the company of accused persons, as P.W.2 states, are not examined as prosecution witnesses, nor they are named in the charge-sheet as witnesses.

39. On the basis of the aforesaid analysis, it is explicit that the evidence rendered by the prosecution in respect of the last seen is not reliable and trustworthy rather it is shaky and in fact, the prosecution evidence reflects that there was no witness of last seen. We also find that P.W.2 (Pooran Singh) and P.W.4 (Shri Chandra) nowhere state that appellant Mahendra was also seen by them at the tempo stand alongwith the deceased. It is true that the statement of P.W.3 (Bhagwan Dei) shows that the deceased had left her house on receiving a phone call by appellant Mahendra, but there is no cogent evidence to this fact that she actually went to the appellant Mahendra after leaving her house.

40. In Dharam Deo Yadav vs. State of U.P., (2014) 5 SCC 509, it has been held that "normally the last seen theory comes into play when the time gap between the point of time when the accused and deceased were seen last alive and when the deceased is found dead, is so small that possibility of any person other than the accused being the perpetrator of the crime becomes impossible. It will be difficult in some cases to positively establish that the deceased was last seen with the accused when there is a long gap and possibility of other persons coming in between exists. However, if the prosecution, on the basis of reliable evidence, establishes that the missing person was seen in the company of the accused and was never seen thereafter, as in the present case, it is obligatory on the part of the accused to explain the circumstances in which the missing person and the accused parted company. In such a situation, the proximity of time between the event of last seen together and the recovery of the dead body or the skeleton, as the case may be, may not be of much consequence".

41. Referring the statement of (P.W.5) Dr. R.S. Maurya, it has been vehemently submitted by the learned State counsel that at the time of autopsy of the dead body of the deceased on 15.07.2011, it has been found by the doctor (P.W.5) that the death of the deceased might have been caused on 12.07.2011 at about 1:00 P.M. He has also opined that the death might have been occurred three days before the postmortem. On the basis of said medical evidence, it has been submitted that soon after the last seen of the deceased in the company of the appellants, her homicidal death was caused.

42. The legal position in respect of the last seen theory has also been explained in a catena of decisions of the Apex Court and this Court also such as State of Goa vs. Pandurang Mohite, AIR 2009 SC 1066, State of U.P. vs. Satish, 2005 (3) SCC 114, Mohibur Rahman & Another vs. State of Assam, 2002 (2) JIC 972 (Supreme Court), Rohtash Kumar vs. State of Haryana, 2013 (82) ACC 401 (SC) (Paragraph 25), Ashok vs. State of Maharashtra, (2015) 4 SCC 393, Niranjan Panja vs. State of West Bengal, 2010 (6) SCC 525.

43. If we summarize the legal theory regarding last seen as emerges out from the observations made in the aforesaid judgments, we reach at a definite conclusion that in fact, it would be difficult in some cases to positively establish that the deceased was last seen with the accused when there is a long gap and possibility of other persons coming in between exists. In the absence of any other positive evidence to conclude that the accused and the deceased were last seen together, it would be hazardous to come to a conclusion of guilt in those cases where prosecution depends upon the theory of last seen together. Further, it is always necessary that the prosecution should establish time of death. Even if it is assumed that the death of the deceased in the present case happened on 12.07.2011, as may be inferred from medical evidence, the question stands as to on the basis of which evidence the prosecution succeeds to establish the theory of last seen and the answer is that there is no evidence.

44. It is true that the doctrine of established "last seen together' shifts the burden of proof on accused requiring him to explain how the incident had occurred. Failure on the part of the accused to furnish any explanation in this regard would give rise to a very strong presumption against him.

45. In an established last seen case, the prosecution exempted to prove exact happening of incident, as accused himself would have special knowledge of incident and thus would have burden of proof as per Section 106 Evidence Act, although the initial burden of proof is on prosecution to adduce sufficient evidence pointing towards the guilt of the accused.

46. Hence in the present case, the careful scrutiny of the evidence leads us to the definite conclusion that the last seen theory has gone and, at this juncture, we also find that the learned trial court relying upon the last seen theory has committed a grave error.

Extra Judicial Confession -

47. As another circumstance, to prove the guilt of the appellants, the prosecution has relied upon the extra-judicial confession made by appellant Ganga Dhar to (P.W.4) Shri Chandra. P.W.4, in his examination-in-chief, states that on 16.07.2011, appellant Ganga Dhar Nai had come to him in the village and requested to save him. He, while admitting his guilt, told that in the bad company of Mahendra and Balveer, he has committed a grave mistake and alongwith both of them he has committed murder of Laxmi. Further, he also disclosed the place of concealment of the dead body and the murder weapon (knife) and the bag of the deceased and the time of murder as well. However, in his cross-examination, he states that Ganga Dhar had come to him on 15.07.2011 and this contradiction had been put to him by the defence side in his cross-examination.

48. So far as the confessions are concerned, the law never says that the confessions, in any circumstance, cannot be relied upon at all. If one directly acknowledges his guilt in a criminal charge, he is said to admit his guilt, which in law is called as confession. However, if the confession has been caused by way of any inducement, threat or promise, it, in all circumstances, is irrelevant in a criminal proceeding.

49. As regarding extra-judicial confession, it was so held in State of U.P. Vs. M.K. Anthony, (1985) 1 SCC 505 that extra-judicial confession appears to have been considered as a weak piece of evidence, but there is no rule of law, nor rule of prudence that it cannot be acted upon unless corroborated. It was also pronounced in Narayan Singh Vs. State of

M.P., (1985) 4 SCC 26 that it is not open to any court to start with a presumption that extra-judicial confession is a weak type of evidence. It would depend upon the nature of the circumstances, the time when the confession was made and the credibility of the witnesses, who speak about such a confession. Another authority on the subject is Jagta Vs. State of Haryana, (1974) SCC (4) 747 wherein it was clarified that the evidence about an extra-judicial confession is, in the nature of things, a weak piece of evidence. If the same is lacking in probability, there would be no difficulty in rejecting the same.

50. If we translate the aforesaid theory into the facts and circumstances of this case, we find that (P.W.4) Shri Chandra, in his examination-in-chief, states not only about the confession made by appellant Ganga Dhar Nai to him on 16.07.2011, but the disclosure of this fact also that all the three appellants, after committing the murder of Laxmi by use of knife concealed her dead body near the trees under grass besides the railway boundary and her bag was also hidden there. He also states, in his examination-in-chief, that the extra-judicial confession was made to him by appellant Ganga Dhar on 16.07.2011. This statement takes us to the statement of P.W.8, the Investigating Officer, who has stated that on 16.07.2011, he had visited the place of occurrence and while coming back, he had recorded the statement of Shri Chandra son of Chibbo on the way and on the basis of his statement, the names of accused Mahendra, Ganga Dhar and Baniya @ Balveer came into light. We also find that for extra judicial confession, different dates have been stated by P.W.4 as to when appellant Ganga Dhar came to him and he tells both the dates as correct which makes his testimony doubtful so far as the factum of extra-judicial confession is concerned.

51. We are obliged to examine this aspect also as to why appellant Ganga Dhar chose (P.W.4) Shri Chandra to make his extra-judicial confession before him. P.W.4 is a farmer and resides in the same village where appellants Balveer and Ganga Dhar reside. As he states in his evidence, he is a common man having no influential credit nor holding any high official post or any intimate relations with the informant so that appellant Ganga Dhar would be under impression that he might have saved him. In his cross-examination, P.W.4 states that he belongs to Thakur caste and Ganga Dhar is Nai (Barber) by caste. They are not relatives to each other and he never happened to be in any friendship with Ganga Dhar. He also contradicts P.W.8, the Investigating Officer when he makes statement to disclose the fact of extra judicial confession to the police 3 - 4 days after its making, whereas P.W.8 states this date to be as 16.07.2011. This situation may also be taken into account that whether the factum of accused making confession, all of a sudden, in absence of any cogent reason on his part, especially when the Investigating agency had no clues regarding crime, may be accepted as genuine and reliable. This fact also cannot be over-sighted that appellant Ganga Dhar is not said to be the main culprit, it was appellant Mahendra, whose name was disclosed as the person on whose call the deceased left her house.

52. Learned counsel for the appellants, referring to these statements, vehemently states that in the light of the aforesaid statement, there was no reason for appellant Ganga Dhar to go to the witness Shri Chandra and to make such a serious confession of the offence of murder, who was a common man and was never in a position to protect him.

53. After making a close scrutiny of the testimony of P.W.4 and the circumstances surrounding the extra-judicial confession, we find that the alleged extra-judicial confession in this case is not a reliable piece of evidence. Recently in Union of India Vs. R. Metri, (2022) 6 SCC 525, the Apex Court has held that extra-judicial confession is weak piece of evidence and unless such confession is found to be voluntary, trustworthy and reliable, conviction solely on the basis of the same without corroboration, is not justified.

54. We have no hesitation to hold that the principles enumerated in the aforesaid case law squarely apply to the facts and circumstances of this case. The alleged extra-judicial confession said to be made to P.W.4 by appellant Ganga Dhar is not trustworthy and requires solid corroboration which, no doubt, is missing in this case and hence, we ignore and reject the alleged extra-judicial confession, as relied upon by the prosecution.

Motive and Recovery of Currency Notes and knives -

55. In a catena of decisions, it has been settled that motive keeps a significant place and is countenanced in a case based upon circumstantial evidence.

56. Learned A.G.A. in his argument, as advanced before this Court, has impressed upon the fact that appellant Mahendra was having some affair with the deceased and this fact was also known to him that rupees two lac were kept in the house of the deceased, which were received by her husband P.W.1, as his share in the sale consideration of his land. It has been brought into the evidence that the deceased had left her house alongwith two lac rupees, clothes and jewelleries. It has been submitted by the learned State counsel that to grab the money and jewellery aforesaid, the deceased was taken by the appellants and after taking the money and articles, they caused murder of the deceased and subsequently, Rs.90,000/- out of the aforesaid amount, were recovered in different parts from the respective possession of the appellants. It has been further submitted that the currency notes, which were recovered from the possession of the appellants, were bearing the signature of P.W.2 (Pooran Singh). P.W.2, in his deposition, has stated that he had made his signature over each and every currency note. It has been further argued that no doubt is left to presume that the currency notes retrieved from the appellants were the same, which were taken by the deceased with her while leaving her house.

57. Learned counsel for the appellants have submitted that the evidence of P.W.2 is not natural and he is an unreliable witness when he states that he had made his signature over each and every currency note. P.W.2 has deposed that two lac rupees were in the form of 100/- rupee currency notes and four lac rupees were in the form of 500/- rupee currency notes and he had signed over all the currency notes. The bundles of 100/- rupees currency note were taken by the deceased while leaving her house.

58. Learned counsel for the appellants submit that in the light of the aforesaid statement of P.W.2, it may be assumed that two thousand currency notes in the form of Rs.100/- per currency note were taken by the deceased and P.W.2 had already made his signature over each and every note. It has been vehemently argued that it is neither natural nor believable that P.W.2 signed over two thousand currency notes without any reason and his statement does not appeal to the common sense. We find force in the contention of the learned counsel for the appellants. There was no need or justification to sign over two thousand currency notes and over other currency notes also, which were in the form of Rs.500/- currency notes.

59. Learned State counsel has submitted that P.W.7 proves that Rs.40,000/- each in the form of Rs.100/- currency notes were retrieved by appellants Mahendra and Ganga Dhar respectively and the signatures of Pooran Singh, P.W.2 were found over the first and last currency note of the bundle. Accordingly, Rs.10,000/- in the form of a bundle of Rs.100/- currency notes were retrieved by appellant Balveer from his house and in this bundle also, the signatures of Pooran Singh, P.W.2 were found over the first and last currency note.

60. However, the aforesaid recovery has been denied by the appellants in their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. It is noteworthy that no question regarding the recovery of Rs.10,000/- has been put to appellant Balveer in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. Learned counsel for the appellant - Balveer vehemently argued that this omission on the part of the learned trial court creates a prejudice to the defence of the appellant, as he was not aware of the incriminating evidence of recovery of currency notes adduced against him.

61. Reliance has been placed upon Nar Singh Vs. State of Haryana, (2015) 1 SCC 496 wherein it has been held that -

"(10). There are two kinds of examination under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The first under Section 313 Cr.P.C. (1) (a) Cr.P.C. relates to any stage of the inquiry or trial; while the second under Section 313 Cr.P.C. (1) (b) Cr.P.C. takes place after the prosecution witnesses are examined and before the accused is called upon to enter upon his defence. The former is particular and optional; but the latter is general and mandatory."

"(11). Section 313 Cr.P.C. prescribes a procedural safeguard for an accused, giving him an opportunity to explain the facts and circumstances appearing against him in the evidence and this opportunity is valuable from the standpoint of the accused.....The object of Section 313 (1) (b) Cr.P.C. is to bring the substance of accusation to the accused to enable the accused to explain each and every circumstance appearing in the evidence against him. The provisions of this section are mandatory and cast a duty on the court to afford an opportunity to the accused to explain each and every circumstance and incriminating evidence against him. The examination of accused under Section 313 (1) (b) Cr.P.C. is not a mere formality."

62. In Satbir Singh Vs. State of Haryana, (2021) 6 SCC 1, it was reiterated like this -

"It is a matter of grave concern that, often, Trial Courts record the statement of an accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. in a very casual and cursory manner, without specifically questioning the accused as to his defence. It ought to be noted that the examination of an accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. cannot be treated as a mere procedural formality, as it is based on the fundamental principle of fairness. This provision incorporates the valuable principle of natural justice - "audi alteram partem", as it enables the accused to offer an explanation for the incriminatory material appearing against him. Therefore, it imposes an obligation on the part of the Court to question the accused fairly, with care and caution. The Court must put incriminating circumstances before the accused and seek his response."

63. In the facts and circumstances of the case and keeping in view the observations made in the aforesaid case laws by the Apex Court, we are of the view that serious prejudice has been caused to appellant Balveer by the aforesaid omission which goes against the prosecution.

64. Learned counsel for the appellants have vehemently submitted that, if any circumstance is not explained by the accused in his statement under section 313 Cr.P.C., this alone is not liable to be held them guilty. Reliance has been placed upon Bharat Vs. State of M.P. (2003) 3 SCC 106, wherein it has been observed that if the accused failed to offer any explanation in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., it cannot be held proof of his guilt. No doubt, the aforesaid law leans in favour of the appellants as the burden of proof lying upon the prosecution cannot be replaced.

65. The aforesaid submissions made by both the sides take us to meticulously scrutinize the evidence on record in reference to the motive to commit the crime and the alleged recovery of currency notes on the pointing out of the appellants. 66. To ascertain the fact whether appellant Mahendra had some affair with the deceased, we are obliged to peruse the oral evidence of P.W.1 (Bacchu Singh) and P.W.2 (Pooran Singh). P.W.1 deposes that appellant Mahendra is his neighbourer, who was well known to him and used to come to his house. We do not find even a whisper in the entire testimony of P.W.1 that his wife, the deceased and appellant Mahendra had any affair. His real brother P.W.2 has deposed that he has stated before the police that he had some doubt over the character of Mahendra. Mahendra used to visit the house of his brother Bacchu Singh much prior to the present incident.

67. P.W.3, the daughter of the deceased states that everyone in the house disliked the visit of Mahendra except her mother and she disliked him because he used to come in a drunken position.

68. Further, the attention of the Court is drawn towards the statement of P.W.8 (Devendra Singh), the first Investigating Officer, who has stated in clear terms that " विवेचना में महेंद्र और मृतका श्रीमती लक्ष्मी देवी का प्रेम प्रसंग मेरी जानकारी में नहीं आया था, बल्कि मृतका के पास दो लाख रुपये तफ्तीश में आई थी जिसकी वजह से उसका क़तल हुआ था"

69. In the light of the statement of P.W.1, the husband of the deceased and P.W.8, the first Investigating Officer, we arrive at the conclusion that there is no evidence on record to show that the deceased and appellant Mahendra had been indulged in some affair.

70. So far as the factum of recovery of currency notes on the pointing out of the appellants is concerned, the statements of P.W.7 (S.I. Devendra Kumar Tyagi) and P.W.8 (Devendra Singh) make a sketch of the story of recovery in the manner that Rs.40,000/- each were retrieved from the possession of appellants Mahendra and Ganga Dhar when they were arrested by the police and recovery memo Ex.Ka.-14 was proved by P.W.8, whereas Rs.10,000/- were retrieved on the pointing out of appellant Balveer, which remind us that the recovery of currency notes on the pointing out of appellant Balveer comes within the scope and purview of Section 27 of the Evidence Act.

71. As P.W.7 (S.I. Devendra Kumar Tyagi) deposes, accused Balveer had stated in the police custody that he alongwith other co-accused Mahendra and Ganga Dhar had murdered Laxmi and the dead body was concealed near the railway boundary and Rs.90,000/- got from her bag, were distributed amongst them and he got Rs.10,000/- as his share, which was concealed by him in a box in his house. Pursuant to that statement, when the police went to his house, he opened a box inside his house and one bundle of Rs.100/- currency notes kept in a polythene was handed over by him to the police and the bundle bore the name of Pooran Singh over the first and last currency notes. The bundle of notes was seized and recovery memo Ex.Ka.-12 was prepared on the spot. P.W.8 (Devendra Singh) also proved the recovery memo. The aforesaid articles were proved as Material Exts. 1 to 9 by P.W.7. It is submitted by learned A.G.A. that the aforesaid recovery is admissible under Section 27 of the Evidence Act, which is a strong circumstance against the appellants and P.W.7 & P.W.8 are material witnesses to prove such recovery.

72. The aforesaid recovery has been assailed by learned counsel for the appellants. It has been argued that there is no public witness of the alleged recovery and the recovery is false and fabricated. In this connection, cross-examination of P.W.1, the informant / husband of the deceased has been referred who, in his cross-examination, has deposed that Rs.90,000/- were recovered from the possession of appellant Ganga Dhar only at 10:00 A.M. and the date was 16th. He also states that at the time of recovery, he was present on spot alongwith several persons of the village and appellant Ganga Dhar was also present in custody of the police. However, his signature was not obtained by the police over the memo and the recovery memo was prepared at the police station.

73. Since P.W.1 is the informant and the husband of the deceased, his testimony has a distinguished weight. It is very significant to note that on this point, the prosecution did not request the court to permit it to cross-examine P.W.1 and in this situation, his aforesaid statement finds force and is binding upon the prosecution and it takes us to the relevant law promulgated in Javed Masood and Another Vs. State of Rajasthan, (2010) 3 Supreme Court Cases 538 wherein it has been held that -

"19.....The testimony of Mohammad Ayub (PW 6) cannot easily be surmounted by the prosecution. He has testified in clear terms that PWs 5, 13 and 14 were not present at the scene of occurrence. It is not known as to why the public prosecutor in the trial court failed to seek permission of the court to declare him "hostile". His evidence is binding on the prosecution as it is. No reason, much less valid reason has been stated by the Division Bench as to how evidence of PW-6 can be ignored.

In the present case the prosecution never declared PWs 6,18, 29 and 30 "hostile". Their evidence did not support the prosecution. Instead, it supported the defence. There is nothing in law that precludes the defence to rely on their evidence."

74. In the light of the aforesaid legal position, if we scrutinize the aforesaid statement of P.W.1, we find that according to P.W.1, Rs.90,000/- were recovered from appellant Ganga Dhar alone and if this statement is taken as it is, the story of recovery of Rs.10,000/- on the pointing out of appellant Balveer becomes totally false and baseless. This statement also clarifies that appellant Mahendra was even not present on the spot when Rs.90,000/- is said to be retrieved and no money was recovered from him. It is also significant to mention that Ex.Ka.-14, the recovery memo bears the date as 17.07.2011, whereas the informant P.W.1 states that the recovery was made on 16th.

75. For the recovery evidence under Section 27 of the Evidence Act, the required conditions are propounded like this in Anter Singh Vs. State of Rajasthan, A.I.R. 2004 SC 2865 -

"The first condition necessary for bringing this Section into operation is the discovery of a fact, albeit a relevant fact, in consequence of the information received from a person accused of an offence. The second is that the discovery of such fact must be deposed to. The third is that at the time of the receipt of the information the accused must be in police custody. The last but the most important condition is that only "so much of the information" as relates distinctly to the fact thereby discovered is admissible. The rest of the information has to be excluded."

76. Learned counsel for the appellants has contended that the incident is said to be happened on 12.07.2011 and appellants Mahendra and Balveer were arrested by the police on 17.07.2011 and as per statement of P.W.8, they were having currency notes of the value of Rs.40,000/-, each in the form of Rs.100/- currency notes in the pocket of their pants. It is submitted that it is quite improbable that even after five days of the occurrence, they were wandering with the alleged currency notes, which were obtained by them from the deceased. It was also argued that there is no public or independent witness of the said recovery and the statement of P.W.1, who states that the recovery memo was prepared at the police station, itself falsifies the whole story of alleged recovery of currency notes. In the facts and circumstances of the case, we find ourselves in agreement with the submissions of the learned counsel for the appellants.

77. It is also notable that the aforesaid recovery does not fall within the ambit of Section 27 of Evidence Act, as it was not made in consequence of any information received from both the appellants while in police custody.

78. We may recall the statement of (P.W.2) Pooran Singh, who stated in clear terms that on each and every currency note, he had made his signatures. Admittedly, the signature of (P.W.2) Pooran Singh, is not found on each and every currency note allegedly retrieved from the accused persons. This fact also cannot be ignored that the said currency notes were not put before P.W.2 at the time of recording of his testimony before the court and he had no opportunity to identify his signature over the currency notes and to prove that they are the same currency notes which were signed by him.

79. Another link to complete the chain of circumstances is the recovery of knives on the pointing out of accused-appellants Mahendra and Ganga Dhar, which are claimed to be murder weapons by the prosecution. The aforesaid knives have been proved as Material Exs.-10 and 11 by P.W.7. It is deposed by him that on 17.7.2011, both the aforesaid appellants were arrested by the police. Murder weapons, two knives, were retrieved on their pointing out, which was made subsequent to their statement made to the police confessing their guilt.

80. Learned State Counsel has vehemently submitted that the recovery of knives is a fact discovered pursuant to the disclosure statement made by both the appellants which is admissible under Section 27 of the Evidence Act. Recovery memo (Ex.Ka.-16) and the site plan of place of recovery Ex.Ka.-15 have been properly proved by the Investigating Officer P.W.8. Relying upon Mahendran Vs. State of Tamil Nadu, (2019) 5 SCC 67, he has submitted that relevant fact discovered on the basis of common memorandum of recovery prepared on the basis of disclosures made by the accused persons separately is admissible and this argument has been advanced in the light of the recovery memo Ex.Ka.-16, which is a joint recovery memo.

81. Learned counsel for the appellants has assailed the alleged recovery by arguing that the alleged recovery has been made on 17.7.2011, i.e. five days after the occurrence. There is no public or independent witness of the said recovery, as has been admitted by the Investigating Officer (P.W.8) Devendra Singh himself and the evidence of police officials only is not reliable.

82. The aforesaid rival submissions of both the sides take us to the evidence regarding the recovery of alleged murder weapons. Site plans (Ex.Ka.-15) and (Ka.-21) show that the recovery has been made from the field of Giriraj son of Babu. It is a huge field adjacent to the railway boundary and road. Railway crossing is also existing there at some distance and the recovery place situates in one side of the field which is adjacent to railway boundary and road. Thus, the scene of recovery seems to be a place, visible and accessible to all.

83. In the similar situation, when the recovery of pistol was made from a place which was accessible and visible to anyone and moreover, it was also doubtful whether the said pistol was used in the alleged crime or not, it was held that information leading to discovery of fact is one link in the chain of proof and the other links must be proved in legally permissible manner and it was held, on facts, that the discrepancies and shortcomings in evidence considerably corrode credibility of prosecution version and the inevitable conclusion is that the prosecution has not established the accusations against the accused beyond reasonable doubt and consequently, he is entitled to be acquitted and that is held so in the case of Anter Singh Vs. State of Rajasthan, (2004) 10 SCC 657.

84. (P.W.7) S.I. Devendra Kumar Tyagi, while being contradicted on the point of the site of recovery, had made statement contrary to that of Ex.Ka.15 and Ka.-21. According to him, in all the directions of the place of recovery of murder weapon on the pointing out of appellant Mahendra Singh, there are empty fields, whereas in the relevant map in the west of the scene of recovery, railway boundary and road have been shown and it brings the veracity of the site of alleged recovery under cloud of suspicion. He further states that the two accused persons were arrested at a crowded place and public road, whereas the house of accused Balveer exists in a residential area. Despite that, the absence of public or independent witness of the said recovery also falsifies the story of recovery.

85. In continuation of the scrutiny of evidence regarding recovery of murder weapons, our attention is also drawn to the fact that no FSL Report in respect of the murder weapon, knives, is available on record to connect them with the alleged offence despite the fact that they were sent for chemical examination, as stated by P.W.8, the Investigating Officer.

86. The prosecution has a specific case that the deceased was murdered by use of knives, which are said to be retrieved from the possession of accused Mahendra Singh and Ganga Dhar. We are under obligation to peruse the medical evidence in regard to the recovery of aforesaid knives. As has been mentioned above, P.W.5 (Dr. R.S. Maurya), who has performed the autopsy of the deceased, has found several lacerated wounds on various parts of the body of the deceased. It would be apposite to note here that, in his examination-in-chief, P.W.5 nowhere suggests that the injuries found on the body of the deceased might be inflicted by use of knives. In his cross-examination, he has made a relevant statement that the injuries have not been inflicted by any sharp-edged weapon and significantly, he further states that the injuries have not been caused by knives or any sharp-edged weapon. At the cost of repetition, it is to be reminded that the present is not a case of eyewitness account, rather it is a case of circumstantial evidence where no one has seen the occurrence. Had it been the case based on ocular evidence, the significance of medical evidence might be put into question, but since there is no eyewitness of the occurrence, the medical evidence has its own significance and evidentiary value. Learned counsel for the appellants vehemently submitted that the medical evidence does not support the prosecution version and the alleged recovery of knives is of no use for the prosecution because the knives were not used in the commission of the crime.

87. So far as the absence of public or independent witness is concerned, we notice that the law does not require such a procedure to be adopted at all times, but the strong suspicion is due to the fact that as per medical evidence, the death of the deceased was not caused by use of any sharp-edged weapon or by knives, as the prosecution claims (the medical evidence on this point shall be discussed later in this judgment) and we can successfully take note of the principle enumerated in Sheesh Pal Vs. N.C.T. of Delhi, (2022) 9 SCC 782, in this respect.

88. Thus, we find that not only the last seen evidence adduced by the prosecution is shaky and unreliable, as discussed above, which might be the first link to start with the chain of the circumstances, but another incriminating circumstance of extra-judicial confession has also not been found reliable and trustworthy on the basis of such evidence which, while subjecting to a rigorous test on the touchstone of credibility, is proved to be unacceptable.

89. Recently, in Chandrapal Vs. State of Chhattisgarh (Earlier M.P.), AIR 2022 Supreme Court 2542, a case depending upon circumstantial evidence, the Apex Court taking into account the evidence available on record, held that -

"According to prosecution, co-accused had made self-inculpatory confession before witnesses, disclosing involvement of other accused as well. Extra-judicial confession is a weak kind of evidence and unless it inspires confidence or is fully corroborated by some other evidence of clinching nature, ordinarily conviction for the offence of murder should not be made only on the evidence of extra-judicial confession. In absence of any substantive evidence against the accused, the extra-judicial confession allegedly made by the co-accused loses its significance and there cannot be any conviction based on such extra-judicial confession of the co-accused."

It was further held that -

"The time gap between the two incidents i.e., the day when accused was last seen with the deceased and finding of dead body was quite big. It was difficult to connect accused with the alleged crime, more particularly when there is no other clinching and cogent evidence produced by the prosecution. In absence of any other links in the chain of circumstantial evidence, the accused cannot be convicted solely on the basis of "Last seen together", even if version of the prosecution witness in this regard is believable."

90. The aforesaid observation squarely applies in the circumstances of the present case where the dead body of the deceased was found two days after her alleged last seen with the appellants.

91. The story of recovery of currency notes and knives from the possession of the appellants has also serious loopholes. During the investigation, nothing has come into light to show any illicit relation or extra-marital affair of the deceased with appellant Mahendra. All these circumstances, if put together, thrash out another element of "motive' to commit the crime.

92. Since the recovery of currency notes from the possession of and on pointing out of the appellants has not been proved in the manner provided by law, the strong link of motive which could possibly be helpful for the prosecution to prove its case, is also not available to it. In fact, there was no motive of the appellants to do away with the deceased.

In this regard, the legal position is well settled in umpteen of decisions of the Apex Court, such as Nandu Singh Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (now Chhatisgarh), 2022 SCC Online Supreme Court 1454, Pannayar Vs. State of Tamil Nadu, (2009) 9 SCC 152, State of U.P. Vs. Kishanpal & Ors., (2008) 16 SCC 73, Suresh Chandra Bahri Vs. State of Bihar, 1995 Supp (1) SCC 80, Babu Vs. State of Kerala, (2010) 9 SCC 189 and Anwar Ali Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, (2020) 10 SCC 166 and the crux we find is that the absence of motive in case depending upon the circumstantial evidence is a factor that weighs in favour of the accused. Motive plays an important link to complete the chain of circumstances and in the present case the chain of events do not provide a clear motive to substantiate the argument of the respondent.

Call Details Record -

93. Another aspect to link the accused-appellants with the alleged crime as alleged by the prosecution, is Call

Details Record (CDR), which allegedly took place between the deceased and accused-appellant Mahendra Singh. P.W.7 (Devendra Kumar Tyagi), the Investigating Officer deposes that accused-appellant Mahendra handed over a mobile phone Spice M 4250 having no SIM to the police. P.W.8 (Devendra Singh) also states that call details record of the deceased and accused-appellants were collected and mentioned in the case diary, which is available on record. However, nothing further has been stated by both the witnesses and the prosecution completely missed to prove the aforesaid CDR in the manner provided by law, which is an electronic evidence and is admissible as electronic record under Section 3 of Evidence Act as amended by Act 21 of 2000. However, the procedure and authenticity for the admissibility of electronic record depends upon factual situation and it is always required to see that the person producing electronic evidence, has whether furnished certificate as required under Section 65-B (4) of the Evidence Act. Though such certificate is not always mandatory and the Court, in the interest of justice, may relax its requirements, but at the same time, as held in Anvar P.V. Vs. P.K. Basheer, (2014) 10 SCC 473, safeguards provided under Section 65-B of the Evidence Act are to ensure the source and authenticity of electronic record, as electronic records are more susceptible to tampering, alteration, transposition, excision, etc. without any safeguard, the whole trial based on proof of electronic records can lead to travesty of justice.

94. Expostulating the evidence regarding the CDR, learned counsel for the appellants has impressed upon the provisions of Section 65-B (4) of the Evidence Act, which requires certain certificates to be produced by the party relying upon the electronic evidence. No such certificate is available on record which was necessary in the facts and circumstances of the case and the availability of which, could not be relaxed as the aforesaid evidence of CDR, if proved properly in the manner prescribed by the Evidence Act, could throw some light upon the relations between the deceased and appellant Mahendra and thus, to enable the Court to draw any inference regarding the motive of the case.

95. On the basis of the aforesaid discussion, we are of the considered view that the prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. Learned trial court though has analysed several factors relating to the case, but has not scrutinized the evidence on record in proper and legal manner and thereby, has accorded a perverse finding of conviction. The chain of the circumstances is never complete, which was essential to record a conviction of an accused in a case based on circumstantial evidence. All the material circumstances, like last seen, motive, recovery of murder weapon, extra judicial confession have not been proved for want of cogent and reliable evidence. The evidence rendered by the prosecution is shaky and not trustworthy. The medical evidence stands against the prosecution version. All these shortcomings denude the prosecution case and in the aforesaid legal and factual scenario, we have no option but to set-aside the impugned judgment and order and to record acquittal of all the appellants.

96. Recently, in Ravi Sharma Vs. State (NCT of Delhi), (2022) 8 SCC 536, where in the circumstances of the case, the Supreme Court found the last seen theory not to be true, motive was not proved, recovery of firearm was doubtful, material contradictions found in the evidence rendered and no sufficient link to come to the irresistible conclusion pointing guilt only to appellant, it was reiterated that mere suspicion, howsoever strong it may be, cannot be a substitute for acceptable evidence. In the peculiar circumstances of the present case, the aforesaid theory also applies to this case.

97. Hence, the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence, which has been sought to be assailed, calls for and deserves interference. The criminal appeals are liable to be allowed and the same are, accordingly, allowed.

98. The impugned judgement and order dated 26.02.2020 is, accordingly, set aside. The convicts-appellants are accordingly found not guilty for the offence punishable under Sections 302/34, 120-B, 201, 404 IPC and 4/25 Arms Act. They are acquitted from all the charges. Convicts-appellants are in jail. They shall be released forthwith, if not wanted in any other case.

99. Let a copy of this judgment along with trial court record be sent to the Court concerned for necessary compliance. A copy of this judgement be also placed in the connected appeal.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Manohar Narayan Mishra, J)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellants and learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the lower court record.

2. Instant Crl. Appeal has been preferred by convict appellants Achchhe Lal and Prema Devi against judgment and order dated 19.2.2021 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge/ FTC (offence against women), Jaunpur passed in S.T. No. 263 of 2017 arising out of Case Crime 292 of 2017, under Section 498-A, 304-B IPC and Section 3/4 D.P. Act, P.S. Sujanganj, District Jaunpur. By the impugned judgment and order, learned Trial Court has convicted the appellants for charge under Sections 498-A, 304B IPC and Section 4 of D.P. Act. One year imprisonment and Rs. 2,000/- fine for charge under Section 498-A IPC, 10 years imprisonment for charge under Section 304B IPC and six months imprisonment and Rs. 1,000/- fine for charge under Section 4 D.P. Act and all the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

3. Factual matrix of the case relevant for present appeal is that informant Udayraj Bind, who is r/o Umrikhurd, P.S. Maharajganj, District Jaunpur, lodged an F.I.R. on the basis of written report Ext. Ka-1 at P.S. concerned with averment that his niece Roshni Bind was married with Achchhey Lal Bind S/o Prahland Bindh, R/o village Sujahniya, P.S. Sujanganj, District Jaunpur, on 24.4.2014. Husband and in-laws of his niece were not satisfied with the gifts and dowry given which were given to them in marriage and they started demanding additional dowry to the tune of Rs. 5,00,000/- from Roshni and on non-fulfillment of their demand of dowry, they used to beat and torture her. On 24.5.2017 she was badly tortured by accused persons Achchhey Lal (husband), Rati Lal (husband's brother), Aneeta (sister-in-law) and Prema Devi (mother-in-law). He got apprised of this fact on 24.5.2017 in the evening telephonically. He visited the matrimonial home of his niece by taking a hired vehicle but the accused persons refused to send her off to her parental place. They snatched the child of 18 months from her lap and for that reason she could not accompany the informant to visit her parental home. The informant and his companions returned home thereafter. However, on 26.5.2017 at 12:00 noon he was informed that his daughter (niece) has been burnt. When the informant and his family members reached on the spot, they were apprised of the fact that she was burnt and she has been admitted to P.H.C. Sujanganj and thereafter she was referred to District Hospital for Jaunpur. Informant side visited the victim at P.H.C. Sujangaj where she stated that her husband Achchhey Lal Bind, father-in-law Prahlad, brother-in-law Rati Lal, sister-in-law Aneeta and mother-in-law Prema had burnt her after pouring kerosene oil on her body. Victim died on way to District Hospital. The informant lodged an F.I.R. at P.S. concerned on 26.5.2017 at 16:45 hours.

4. The inquest on dead body of the deceased was conducted on 27.5.2017 between 10:00 am to 12:00 hours. Post mortem of the deceased was conducted by Dr. R.P. Vishwakarma (PW-5) on 27.5.2017 at 3:35 PM. Doctor has stated in his post-mortem examination report that in his opinion, cause of death is due to shock as a result of severe flame burn injury, approximately 98% (ante-mortem).

5. Investigating Officer recorded statements of witnesses of fact Naib Tehsildar Sri Ram Narain as PW-8, Dr. Rajendra Prasad Vishwakarma as PW-5, other witnesses of fact and formal witnesses and finding complicity of accused persons submitted two charge sheet, one against Achchhey Lal, Prahlad and Rati Lal and other against Aneeta and Prema Devi under Sections 498-A, 304B IPC and 3/4 D.P. Act on 20.8.2017 and 13.11.2018 respectively.

Learned magistrate took cognizance of the offence on the basis of charge sheet and summoned accused persons to face trial. Charge sheeted accused persons were enlarged on bail except accused Achchhey Lal and Prema Devi. Learned Magistrate committed the case for trial to Court of Sessions finding the offence being exclusively trial by the Court of Sessions. On commencement of Session Trial, learned Court concerned framed charges under Sections 498-A, 304B and 3/4 D.P. Act against Achchhey Lal, Prahlad and also alternative charge under Section 302/149 IPC against five accused persons. Case of co-accused Rati Lal (brother-in-law of the victim) was referred for trial to J.J.B as he was found juvenile in conflict of law.

6. Trial Court examined PW-1 Uday Raj Bind (informant), PW-2 Pappu @ Hari Shankar (father of the deceased), PW-3 Heerawati @ Kalawati (mother of the deceased), PW-4 Arjun (other uncle of the deceased), PW-5 Dr. Rajendra Prasad Vishwakarma, who conducted post-mortem on the body of the deceased, PW-6 Mandhata Pratap Singh (then Naib Tehsildar) who conducted inquest on the dead body of the deceased on 27.5.2015 at mortuary of District Hospital, Jaunpur, PW-7 Santosh Kumar Shukla (Naib Tehsildar), who recorded dying declaration of the deceased on 26.5.2017 at C.H.C., Sujanganj, PW-8 Ram Narayan Srivastava(then Head Mohrrir) who is author of Chick F.I.R. and extracts of G.D. of registration of case on the date of lodging of F.I.R., PW-9 Vinay Kumar Dwivedi (C.O.), who investigated the case and filed charge sheet against accused Achchhey Lal, Prahlad and Rati Lal dated 20.8.2017 before the Court, PW-10 Uma Shankar Singh C.O.), who carried out initial investigation in the case and PW-11 Digvijay Singh (then C.O.), is last investigating officer of the case who carried out remaining investigation after transfer of Sri Vimay Kumar Dwivedi (PW-9) and filed charge sheet against Prema Devi, Roshni and Aneeta under Section 498-A and 304B IPC and 3/4 D.P. Act.

7. After conclusion of prosecution evidence, statement of accused persons Achchhey Lal, Rati Lal, Prema Devi, Prahlad, Roshni and Aneeta was recorded by the Trial Court under Section 313 Cr.P.C. in which they stated that witnesses have falsely deposed against them. PW-7 Naib Tehsildar recorded dying declaration of the victim/deceased in conspiracy with informant and police. The case was proceeded against them to extract the money after death of the deceased Roshni.

8. In defence evidence accused persons examined DW-1 Sita Devi, mother-in-law of accused-Roshni and DW-2 Ram Bali, who is father-in-law of accused Aneeta, DW-3 Rama Pati, who is neighbour of accused Prahlad where he stalls a tea shop.

9. Trial Court heard the arguments of learned counsel for the State as well as defence counsel and after appreciation of evidence on record, gave verdict against accused Achchhey Lal, Prema Devi for charge under Section 498-A, 304B IPC and Section 3/4 D.P. Act and held that prosecution has exclusively proved charges against these two accused persons beyond reasonable doubt, however, learned Trial Court concluded that charge levelled against accused Prahlad, father-in-law of the deceased, Roshni and Aneeta (married sister-in-law of the deceased) have not been proved beyond reasonable doubt and acquitted them of all charges levelled against them during trial. Present appeal has been preferred by convict accused persons feeling aggrieved by the judgment and order passed by learned Trial Court.

10. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that in F.I.R. general and omnibus allegations are made by the informant against all accused persons. There is no specific allegation against accused-appellants. In dying declaration of the victim, main allegation is made against co-accused Rati Lal (dewar of the deceased) regarding whom it is stated that he ignited a match box and burnt the deceased, however, learned Trial Court in impugned judgment has not placed reliance on said dying declaration recorded by PW-7. There is no allegation or evidence regarding demand of dowry prior to or during marriage against accused-persons. Allegations of demand of dowry after marriage are afterthought and concocted. Learned Trial Court has acquitted the co-accused Prahlad (father-in-law of the deceased) on the ground that on the basis of evidence adduced it is found that he runs a tea shop in some other village and it is natural that he would be living outside home through out the day and in these circumstances the allegation of demand of dowry and subjecting the victim to cruelty is not found reliable qua him. Learned Trial Court has also observed that statement of PW-4 is not in consonance of other witnesses of fact who are his family members. There is no document in support of the theory that deceased was referred to District Hospital, Jaunpur. Learned Trial Court has relied upon defence version that married sister-in-law of the deceased Aneeta and Roshni were not present on the date of incident, inasmuch as, Roshni was married shortly of the fateful incident in present case. Appellants are held in jail custody from the stage of investigation. Learned Trial Court has miserably failed to appreciate the evidence on record while convicting and sentencing the present appellants and mis-appreciated the evidence adduced during trial. There is no cogent and reliable evidence against the appellants to support their conviction for charges allegedly proved against them. He further submitted that deceased's side witnesses never made any complaint after marriage of the deceased with accused Achchhey Lal till her unfortunate death, to any person or Authority regarding demand of dowry or torture against accused persons. In fact, deceased has committed suicide by pouring kerosene oil over her body and burnt herself. Accused Achchhey Lal was outside home as he used to work as labourer at some other place. The other family members were also not present at the time of incident, therefore, they could not see her when she burnt herself but as soon as they noticed the said incident, they attempted to save her and brought her to C.H.C., Sujanganj from where she was sent to District Hospital, Jaunpur but died on way to District Hospital. They informed parental side of the deceased at the earliest and members of her parental side also reached at C.H.C. Sujanganj where she was lying in critical condition and she was not in a position to speak any person because of having 98% burn injury and she was unconscious. In alleged dying declaration also no specific role has been assigned to present appellants.

11. Per contra, learned A.G.A. appearing for the State opposed and contended that the grounds taken in present appeal are not sustainable. The case of prosecution has been proved by cogent evidence of witnesses of fact as well as the statements of doctor who conducted post-mortem of the deceased. Executive Magistrate conducted inquest on the dead body and recorded statements of I.O.s who investigated the case and submitted charge sheet against accused persons. The acquittal of co-accused persons cannot be a ground for acquittal of present appellants as learned Trial Court distinguished the case of acquitted and convicted the accused persons. The judgment of learned Trial Court is based on evidence on record and it requires no interference at appellate stage. Allegations against accused persons are of very serious nature and there is cogent evidence regarding their complicity in the offence of demand of dowry, practising matrimonial cruelty against the deceased and causing dowry death of the deceased on the date and time of the incident who admittedly died in her matrimonial home i.e. home of accused persons.

12. During trial of the case following documents were proved by evidence of witnesses who appeared before the Trial Court.

13. In present case appellants are convicted for charge under Section 498-A, 304-B IPC and Section 4 D.P. Act and sentenced to various terms of imprisonment and fine awarded in impugned judgment.

14. Section 498-A IPC provides as under:-

"Whoever, being the husband or the relative of the husband of a woman, subjects such woman to cruelty shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years and shall also be liable to fine."

15. Present case is based on circumstantial evidence as it is admitted that there is no eye-witness of the incident. The main and major charge framed against the appellants and other accused persons in present case by trial court is that of Section 304-B IPC. The motive of commission of offence by the accused persons is suggested by prosecution is that of demand of dowry and non-fulfillment thereof. Learned trial Court has not placed reliance on dying declaration of the deceased recorded by Santosh Kumar Shukla, Naib Tehsildar, which is marked as Ext. Ka-9, wherein she has stated that on 26.5.2017, the date of incident, she was brought to C.H.C., Sujanganj in burnt condition by her father-in-law Prahlad and husband of named accused Aneeta at around 1:25 pm. In this dying declaration she has stated that on that date her father-in-law Prahlad, mother-in-law Prema Devi, sisters-in-law Roshni and Aneeta and brother-in-law Rati Lal picked quarrel with her, which continued up to afternoon. Her husband poured kerosene oil upon her and her devar caught hold of her and ignited matchstick and set her ablaze due to which her body started burning. It is further stated that she did not know as to who brought her to hospital. This dying declaration is signed by PW-7 Satnosh Kumar Shukla, Naib Tehsildar, who has proved this document by her sworn testimony in which he has stated that he had recorded her dying declaration on being informed by S.D.M., Machhlishahar, Jaunpur. For recording of statements of the victim, he visited C.H.C., Sujanganj, District Jaunpur, where injured was lying in burnt condition and her treatment was being carried out in supervision of doctor. She was in a position of hearing, speaking and understanding. He read over the statement after recording the same to victim as her whole body was burnt and she was unable to affix her signature or thumb impression on her statement.

16. In cross-examination, this witness has stated that he had taken a certificate from doctor who was attending on victim, regarding her ability to speak, but said certificate is not placed on record. He recorded statement at 3:10 pm on 26.5.2017. He admitted in cross-examination that there is overwriting in timing of recording of statement.

17. PW-5, Dr. R.P. Vishwakarma, has stated in his evidence that he was posted as Sr. Medical Officer at Machhlishahar on 27.5.2017. He started post-mortem examination on the dead body of the deceased Roshni, wife of Achchhey Lal on 27.5.2017 at 3:35 pm onwards. The dead body was identified by a Constable of P.S. Machhlishahar, District Jaunpur, who had also brought papers relating to inquest of the deceased. In post-mortem examination superficial and deep flame burn injuries were found present throughout body except both sole of feet. Dust particles were present on upper respiratory track. Line of redness was found. The approximate time of death was one day before. In stomach, pale and semi digested food particles were present. In large intestine faecal matter was present. In his opinion cause of death was due to shock as a result of sever flame burn injury, approximately 98% (ante-mortem). Dr. has stated that burn injuries found on the person of the deceased were sufficient to cause death.

18. Prosecution has produced four witnesses of fact to prove its case out of whom PW-1 Udairaj Bind is informant and uncle of the deceased, who is author of the written report which found basis of lodging of F.I.R. against accused persons with regard to present incident. He has proved written report as Ext. Ka-1 during his examination before the Court. This written report is scribed by one Swaminath Pandey, who is his co-villager. PW-1 has stated that Swaminath Pandey also accompanied him when he visited hospital after coming to know that his niece was burnt. The report was scribed by Swaminath Pandey on his dictation. He is in total three brothers. The elder brother Harishankar is father of the deceased who was having four issues, two sons namely Arun and Ajit and two daughters namely Roshni (deceased) and Archna. Roshni was married to Achchhey Lal (accused) on 24.4.2014. They had given Rs. 1,00,000/- cash and valuable in marriage of Roshni. Roshni gave birth to a son namely Himanshu who was around 18 months of age at the time of incident. Accused persons Achchhey Lal, Rati Lal, Prema Devi, Aneeta and Roshni started demanding dowry through Roshni after birth of Himanshu and began to torture her for dowry. On 24.5.2017 Roshni called his elder brother Arjun (PW-4) and told that accused persons were beating her and called him to come and take her along with him then he visited the house of accused persons with his brother Arjun. When Roshni got prepared to go with them at her parental place, accused persons had snatched the child from her lap and for that reason she declined to go with them without her child and the witnesses came back to their home empty handed. After two days on 26.5.2017 at 12:00 hours they received a phone call from accused persons that their daughter got burn. The witnesses and his family members reached the place of victim, but while reaching there they found that none was present there. The people of the neighbourhood told them that family members of Roshni had taken her to hospital, then they visited hospital and found that Roshni was lying there. She was alive and able to speak. When they spoke to her, she stated that Achchhey Lal had poured kerosene oil on her persons and devar Rati Lal had ignited a matchstick on her person. Her mother-in-law Prema Devi, sister-in-law Aneeta and Roshni had caught hold of her. Her statement was recorded by magistrate in the hospital. She was treated in the hospital but observing her condition, doctor of C.H.C. referred her to District Hospital, Jaunpur but she breathed her last in District Hospital, Jaunpur on same date.

19. In cross-examination this witness has stated that C.H.C. and P.S. both are lying in nearby at town Sujanganj. He stated that all the three brothers Udairaj, Harishankar and Arjun resided together. At the time of marriage Roshni was 19 years of age. His brother Arjun visited place of accused persons in connection with marriage of Roshni. Prahlad has a shop of tea and betel at Belwar market. His home lies 2 km. away from Belwar market. Prahlad sits in his shop in day hours and visits her home in the evening after closing the shop. His brother Harishankar (father of the deceased) works for gain in Mumbai. The marriage of Roshni was settled by his brother Arjun. At the time of marriage accused persons had not made any demand of dowry. The witness and his family members visited the place of accused persons after four days of marriage and thereto no demand of dowry was made and they brought back Roshni with them. She used to come to her parental place and go back to her matrimonial home in routine manner after marriage. When the deceased last time left his home for her matrimonial home having her 18 months old child with her, it was her last visit of her parental place. Thereafter she died at her matrimonial home after three months. He also visited her matrimonial home to participate in marriage of Roshni (sister-in-law of the deceased) where he met family members of Prahlad and husband of the deceased. He also met his niece Roshni there. He visited the hospital on fateful day at around 2:00 pm but he did not found Prahlad and Achchhey Lal there. His brother Arjun was taking Roshni to District Hospital from C.H.C. at around 4:00 pm. He was not accompanying them at that time. It would be wrong to say that Roshni had committed suicide by setting herself ablaze. It would be wrong to say that she has not given any statement to magistrate or Tehsildar. He has not found any other injury on the person of the deceased except burn injuries.

20. PW-2 Pappu @ Harishankar, who is father of the deceased, his statement is consistent with the statement of PW-1 on factual aspects. He stated that on 24.5.2017 his daughter Roshni was beaten by accused persons in connection with demand of dowry. She was also subjected to torture prior to 24.5.2017. She failed to visit his place as the accused persons had snatched her child from her lap. When he met his daughter in hospital, she told that accused persons had set her ablaze by pouring kerosene oil on her body. He also stated that no demand of dowry was made at the time of marriage or just thereafter. Prior to the incident his daughter Roshni had visited his place in the marriage of his brother Arjun and resided with them for two to three months at his home. In said marriage Rati Lal, brother-in-law, of the deceased and Roshni (sister-in-law of the deceased) had visited his home to take Roshni with them. Some dispute occurred at the time of Bidai (send off) of Roshni from his place. When Roshni visited his home in the marriage of his niece, accused Achchhey Lal abused her on telephone. No dispute occurred at the time when Roshni was send off to her matrimonial home along with Rati Lal and Roshni, however she did not proceed happily and she was not willing to go to her matrimonial home. He was present in his home at that time. This was her last Bidai (send off) from her home to the place of her in-laws. Roshni died after seven months of last send off from his home. When his daughter died he was in Bombay. His daughter would speak to his wife and his wife told him that her in-laws are demanding dowry after marriage of his niece (daughter of Arjun). He came back to his home after three days of death his daughter. This is true that quarrel used to take place between Roshni and Achchhey Lal with regard to dowry, however, his daughter did not inform him regarding this dispute. Whatever he was apprised of the dispute between his daughter and her husband through his wife.

21. PW-3 Heerawati @ Kalawati, who is mother of the deceased, has stated in her evidence that her daughter had told her that accused persons were demanding Rs. 5,00,000/- in dowry. She was beaten by the accused persons, six months before her death and Roshni herself informed her about the incident. Her husband had visited the place of her daughter and persuaded the accused persons and thereafter the peace prevailed for sometime, however, in the marriage of daughter of her brother-in-law Roshni visited her home to participate in the marriage. Her Devar had also participated in invitation in said marriage and after returning to his home, he told him that much gift and dowry was given in said marriage by parental side of deceased Roshni. Achchhey Lal (her husband) got infuriated after knowing this and he abused the deceased on telephone. She also reached in the middle of telephonic talk of Roshni and Achchhey Lal and then Roshni gave telephone to her and when she spoke to Achchhey Lal, he abused her also and thereafter demand of dowry of Rs. 5,00,000/- aggravated and Roshni was beaten and subjected to torture by accused persons. She was ultimately done to death by them by setting her ablaze. She also stated that Achchhey Lal holds a tea shop at his home.

22. PW-4, Arjun, who is uncle of the deceased, has stated that when he visited his niece after four days of Bidai (departure) to matrimonial home, she told that his brother and sister-in-law used to tease her for bringing less dowry. On 11.5.2016 marriage of her daughter scheduled and he had brought the deceased ten days back to his home for her participation in the marriage. In marriage of his daughter his in-laws had given much gifts which was noticed by accused Rati Lal (brother-in-law of Roshni) and he told this fact to Achchhey Lal after returning to his home and Achchhey Lal abused the deceased on mobile phone and was demanding Rs. 5,00,000/- as dowry and also stated that he will not permit her to enter in his home without said dowry. He also abused the mother of deceased on telephone in same sequence. When the witness and others had visited the hospital on fateful day Tehsildar was recording the statements of the deceased. Thereafter doctor referred her to District Hospital. They were taking her to District Hospital in ambulance but she died on way. Prahlad holds tea and betel shop at Belwar market where he has also constructed four rooms on road. Marriage of Roshni and Achchhey Lal was solemnized on 24.4.2014 and he visited her parental place eight to ten times after marriage before her death. He also stated that demand of dowry began after marriage of Roshni and not prior to that. The investigating officer had not interrogated him. Rati Lal had not made any demand of dowry when he participated in marriage of his daughter. Roshni went to his matrimonial home after marriage of his daughter unwillingly and thereafter never came back to her parental place. The Tehsildar had taken statement of victim on 26.5.2017 at around 2:00 pm and she was referred to District Hospital at 1:40 hours. He bellied the defence suggestion that no statement of deceased was recorded by Naib Tehsildar. He also denied the defence suggestion that Roshni committed suicide due to non-fulfillment of her aspirations on account of lack of money.

23. PW-7, Santosh Kumar Shukla, Naib Tehsildar admitted in cross-examination that there is overwriting in timing of recording of dying declaration. It was taken at 3:30 pm. He cannot explain as to how this overwriting occurred. He denied the defense suggestion that he had not recorded any dying declaration and there was no instruction to him for recording the same.

24. PW-9 Vinay Kumar Dwivedi is second Investigating Officer of the case. He has proved charge sheet filed in the case against accused persons which is marked as Ext. Ka-12. He admitted that he did not take into account of the fact from author of dying declaration as to her ability to speak at the time of recording of her dying declaration.

25. PW-10 Uma Shankar Singh (first investigating officer) has stated that accused Achchhey Lal had surrendered in the Court on 23.6.2017. He has proved site plan of the place of incident as Ext. Ka-13.

26. This is admitted fact that the marriage of deceased and accused Achchhey Lal was solemnized on 24.4.2014 and she died on 26.5.2017 within seven years of her marriage at her matrimonial home in unnatural circumstances due to extensive burn injuries received.

27. The defense case is that due to want of money and dis-satisfaction on account of non-fulfillment of her aspirations, she committed suicide by pouring kerosene oil on her person, whereas the prosecution case is that deceased was burnt to death by accused persons including her husband and in-laws on account of non-fulfillment of demand of dowry and she was subjected to cruelty soon before her death on 26.5.2017 as well as prior to that.

28. The accused side had failed to specify exact time and manner in which deceased allegedly committed suicide. They have taken a case that none of the family members were present in the house when incident occurred and her in-laws had rushed to C.H.C., Sujanganj as soon as they got apprised of the incident and did whatever they could to save her. None from the side of informant was present at the time of incident and they came to the place of accused persons and thereafter to hospital where victim was admitted after coming to know about the incident. The law does not enjoin a duty on the prosecution to lead evidence of such character which is almost impossible to be led or at any rate extremely difficult to be led. The duty on the prosecution is to lead such evidence which it is capable of leading, having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case. Here it is necessary to keep in mindSection 106of the Evidence Act which says that when any fact is especially within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him. Where an offence like murder or dowry death is committed in secrecy inside a house, the initial burden to establish the case would undoubtedly be upon the prosecution, but the nature and amount of evidence to be led by it to establish the charge cannot be of the same degree as is required in other cases of circumstantial evidence.

29. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sandeep Vs. State of U.P., (2012) 6 SCC 107, Prithipal Singh Vs. State of Punjab 2012(76) ACC 680 (SC) and Trimukh Maroti Kiran versus State of Maharashtra, (2006) 10 SCC 681, observed that burden would be comparatively of alike character. In view of Section 106 of the Evidence Act, there will be a corresponding burden on the inmates of the house to give cogent explanation as to how the crime was committed. The inmates of the house cannot get away by simply keeping quiet and offering no explanation on the supposed premise that the burden to establish its case lies entirely upon the prosecution and there is no duty at all on an accused to offer any explanation.

30. Learned trial court has assigned one reason in disbelieving the dying declaration of the deceased that Magistrate failed to produce a certificate from the doctor regarding mental fitness of the declarant and her capacity to speak in the impugned judgment i spite of the presence of doctor at that time as stated by PW-7, author of dying declaration, however, judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in Laxman Vs. State of Maharashtra, (2002) 6 SCC 710 is relevant here wherein a Constitution Bench placed reliance in Koli Chunilal Savji vs. State of Gujarat, 1999 (9) SCC 562, wherein it is stated that when it was held that ultimate test is whether the dying declaration can be held to be a truthful one and voluntarily given. It is no doubt true that before recording the declaration, the concerned officer must find that the declarant was in a fit condition to make the statement in question. The Constitution Bench held that where it is proved by the testimony of the Magistrate that declarant was fit to make statement even without examination by the doctor, the declaration cannot be acted upon, provided the Court ultimately holds the same to be voluntary and truthful. The certification by the doctor is essentially a rule of caution and, therefore, the voluntary and truthful nature of the declaration can be established otherwise.

31. In V.K. Mishra and Anr. Vs. State of Uttarakhand, (2015) 9 SCC 588 Hon'ble Apex Court held that before recording conviction of an accused under Section 304 B IPC, following conditions must be proved:-

"1. The death of a woman should be caused by burns or bodily injury or otherwise than under a normal circumstance.

2. Such a death should have occurred within seven years of her marriage.

3. She must have been subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband.

4. Such cruelty or harassment should be for or in connection with demand of dowry.

5. Such cruelty or harassment is shown to have been meted out to the woman soon before her death."

32. In Surinder Singh Vs. State of Haryana, (2014) 4 SCC 129, Hon'ble Apex Court held that for presumption contemplated under Section 304-B IPC and Section 113-B of the Evidence Act to spring into action, it is necessary to show that the cruelty or harassment was caused soon before victim's death. The question as to how "soon before". This would obviously depend on facts and circumstances of each case. Section 113-B of Evidence Act provides regarding presumption as to dowry death. In Suresh Kumar Vs. State of Haryana, 2014 Cri.L.J. 551 (SC), it is held that Section 113-B of the Evidence Act introduces a reverse onus, it is to say that though it is ordinarily for prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt but when a reverse onus is introduced, it is for the accused to refute the case of the prosecution and prove his innocence.

33. Section 113-B of the Indian Evidence Act provides as under:-

"113B. Presumption as to dowry death.-- When the question is whether a person has committed the dowry death of a woman and it is shown that soon before her death such woman had been subjected by such person to cruelty or harassment for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, the court shall presume that such person had caused the dowry death.

Explanation. For the purposes of this section, dowry death shall have the same meaning as in section 304B of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860)."

34. In present case, this fact has been proved that on the basis of evidence of witnesses of fact specifically that demand of dowry was initiated by accused Achchhey Lal, husband of the deceased when he was apprised by his younger brother Rati Lal that his in-laws had given much gift and dowry in the marriage of daughter of Arjun, cousin of the deceased as Rati Lal had visited said marriage on invitation from in-laws of his brother Achchhey Lal. Achchhey Lal had telephoned the deceased even when she was at her parental place in connection with marriage of her niece, few months before her unfortunate death, and demanded dowry and abused her as well as her mother PW-3 on telephone and when the deceased came back to her matrimonial home, she was subjected to torture and cruelty which continued till her death, therefore, this fact has been proved beyond reasonable doubt that death of the deceased occurred within seven years of marriage by physical burns and in unnatural circumstances at her matrimonial place. She was subjected to cruelty by her husband Achchhey Lal, soon before her death. Accused failed to divulge any plausible explanation of her death which occurred due to extensive burn injuries received by the deceased at her matrimonial home. Accused Achchhey Lal is husband of the deceased and in view of relations with the deceased, he bears responsibility for upkeep welfare, nurturing and good health of deceased who was his wife but even in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., he has not given any explanation of unfortunate death of his wife within seven years of her marriage. He is simply denied the allegations made against him regarding causing dowry death of the deceased, therefore, he failed to discharge reverse burden imposed under law by virtue of Section 106 of the Evidence Act as well as Section 113-B of the Act. He has also not taken specific plea of alibi in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C.

35. DW-1 Seeta Devi is mother-in-law of co-accused Roshni who stated to the effect that on fateful day Roshni was present in her home as her marriage had taken place on 11.5.2017 with her son namely Dinesh. On 25.5.2017 marriage of daughter of her Jeth was scheduled and that time, Roshni was in her matrimonial home. She has also proved marriage invitation card of Pinki, daughter of her brother-in-law which was scheduled on 25.5.2017, a day before fateful incident in this case. She has proved invitation card as Ext. Kha-2.

36. DW-2 Rambali has stated that his younger brother Udal was married to Aneeta (daughter of Prahlad). Aneeta had gone to her parental place in connection with marriage of her younger sister Roshni, five days back to said marriage and after four days of the said marriage, he brought back Aneeta to his home and Aneeta was present at his home on the date of incident.

37. DW-3 Ramapati Vishwakarma has stated in his evidence that Prahlad and Aneeta used to reside at Belwar market where Prahlad runs a shop. He himself informed Prahlad about the incident of burn of Roshni and thereafter Prahlad rushed to home along with his wife where incident occurred. Witness also holds a shop in a nearby place to the shop of Prahlad. He received information of the incident at around 12:00 hours from some villager but he had not visited the place of incident.

38. From the perusal of statements of witnesses, it appears that these witnesses have stated nothing regarding the innocence of accused Achchhey Lal but these witnesses have been produced to support the fact that accused Aneeta, Rati Lal, Prema Devi and Achchhey Lal were present at the place of incident when burn incident of the victim took place.

39. As regards Prema Devi, no specific allegation has been levelled against her either with regard to demand of dowry or practised matrimonial cruelty or causing death of the deceased against her in dying declaration of the deceased although the same has not been relied upon in impugned judgment as well as in the statement of PW-1 and PW-3. This fact has emerged that accused Achchhey Lal, Rati Lal were directly instrumental in burning of the deceased. General role has been assigned to the accused Prahlad, Prema Devi, Aneeta and Roshni out of whom three were already acquitted by learned Trial Court and accused Prema Devi and accused Achchhey Lal have been convicted by learned Trial Court. No cross appeal appears to be filed with regard to acquittal of the accused Prahlad, Aneeta, Roshni either by State or by first informant, therefore it can be concluded that as the co-accused who have been assigned similar role to that of present appellant Prema Devi, have already been acquitted by learned Trial Court, accused Prema Devi deserves to be extended benefit of doubt in present appeal. Learned Trial Court has concluded in impugned judgment that deceased was not done to death by accused persons by setting her ablaze but she had committed suicide. Even in dying declaration, Ext. Ka-9, which is relied upon by prosecution and is proved by PW-9, the Naib Tehsildar, no specific role has been assigned to Prema Devi and general allegation is made against all the named accused persons that prior to setting her ablaze by Achchhey Lal and Rati Lal, all the accused persons had engaged in altercation with her till the noon on that date.

40. Be that as it may, on the basis of meticulous analysis of evidence appearing on record, this Court is of the considered opinion that prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt against appellant Achchhey Lal for charge under Section 498-A, 304B IPC and 4 D.P. Act and order of learned Trial Court in respect of accused Achhey Lal is liable to be affirmed. However, in view of above discussion Prema Devi, mother-in-law of the deceased, deserves to be acquitted of all the charges for which she has been convicted and sentenced along with appellant Achchhey Lal. Consequently, appeal is partly allowed. The verdict of conviction and sentence imposed on appellant Prema Devi is set aside and she is acquitted of all the charges framed against her by learned Trial Court. Appeal in respect of appellant Achchhey Lal is dismissed and verdict of guilt and sentence awarded to him by learned Trial Court in impugned judgment is affirmed.

41 Let a copy of this judgment along with lower court record be forwarded to the Court concerned for compliance and release order will be issued by the Court concerned through Superintendent of Jail to release the accused Prema Devi, if she is not wanted in any other case.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J. & Hon'ble Ajit Singh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Arvind Kumar Kushwaha, learned Advocate assisted by Ms. Pooj and Sri Upendra Kumar Rai, learned Advocates for the appellant and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. A short prelude about the period of incarceration of accused-appellants and the death of the deceased is necessary. Accused, Vijai Shankar and Smt. Meena Devi, are in jail for more than 12 years and Accused-Chandrawati was also incarcerated before she was released on bail by this Court. The deceased died after a period of 01 month and 07 days. In her Dying Declaration the deceased stated that her mother-in-law and father-in-law have brought her to the hospital and therefore, mother-in-law was granted bail by this Court. The incident occurred because of harassment to her. The court below acquitted the accused under Section 498A but convicted them under Section 304B for life imprisonment.

3. All the three appeals arise out of same incident and challenge the judgment and order dated 14.04.2011 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, New Court No.2, Jaunpur in Sessions Trial No.188 of 2010 (State vs. Vijai Shanker & Others) whereby the learned Additional Sessions Judge has convicted accused-appellants under Section 304B of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as 'IPC') and sentenced them to undergo imprisonment for life.

4. Brief facts as culled out from the record are that on the basis of complaint of the father of the deceased a First Information Report was lodged under Section 498A, 307 of IPC and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, at P.S. Sarai Khwaja, Jaunpur against the accused with an allegation that accused-persons have set ablaze the daughter of informant by pouring kerosene oil on her. She sustained burn injuries and died during the course of treatment. After her death Section 304 B of was added by the investigating agency. The investigating officer recorded the statements of all the witnesses and submitted the charge-sheet to the learned Magistrate. The learned Magistrate summoned the accused and committed them to Court of Sessions as prima facie the case was triable by Sessions Court.

5. On being summoned, the accused-appellant pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried. The Trial started and the prosecution examined 15 witnesses who are as follows:

1	Savitri Devi	PW1
2	Rajesh	PW2
3	Neetu Devi	PW3
4	Sunil Yadav	PW4
5	Meera	PW5
6	Rajesh Chandra Srivastava	PW6
7	Prakash Kumar	PW7
8	Ramesh Kumar	PW8
9	Shiv Pratap Singh	PW9
10	Dr. Satish Singh	PW10
11	Dr. Prabha Shankar Chaturvedi	PW11
12	Dr. R.K. Jaiswal	PW12
13	Vinod Kumar Singh	PW13
14	Santosh Kumar	PW14

	Singh
15	Jyoti Sonkar	Prasad P.W.15

6. In support of ocular version following documents were filed and proved:

1	F.I.R.	Ex.Ka.17
2	Written Report	Ex.Ka.1
3	Dying Declaration	Ex. Ka. 10/16/11
4	Injury Report	Ex.Ka. 12
5	Postmortem Report	Ex.Ka.9
6	Charge-sheet	Ex. Ka.8
7	Site Plan	Ex.Ka.14

7. At the end of the trial, after recording the statements of the accused under section 313 of Cr.P.C., and hearing arguments on behalf of prosecution and the defence, the learned Sessions Judge convicted the accused-appellants as mentioned above.

8. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that the incident occurred at the spur of moment which arose due to sudden quarrel and the accused had not premeditated to do away with the deceased.

9. In alternative, it is submitted that at the most, the death can be said to be homicidal death not amounting to murder and punishable under Section 304 II or Section 304 I of I.P.C. If the Court decides that the accused is guilty, then the accused may be granted fixed term punishment of incarceration. In support of his arguments learned counsel for the appellant has relied on the decision passed in Maniben vs. State of Gujarat, 2009 (5) Supreme 700 & decision of this Court in Criminal Appeal No.1030 of 2013 (Sikander and another vs. State of U.P.) decided on 13.7.2022

10. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State submits that there was no grave and sudden provocation from the side of the deceased and that looking to the gruesomeness of the offence and the evidence of prosecution witnesses, this Court should not show any leniency in the matter. It is further submitted by learned A.G.A. that ingredients of Section 304B of IPC are rightly held to be made out by the learned Sessions Judge who has applied the law to the facts in case.

11. We have considered the evidence of witnesses and the Postmortem report which states that the injuries on the body of the deceased would be the cause of death and that it was homicidal death, we concur with the finding of the Court below.

12. The Dying Declaration has to accepted as it is proved and we concur with the Court below in accepting it which shows that the accused have committed the crime alleged against them.

13. Even if we go by the dying declaration, it is clear that the accident occurred without premeditation. The fact that the deceased was taken to hospital and the husband has repented. The deceased died after few days of incident as a result of septicemia and hence the gravity of offence will have to be looked into. Trial Court itself has held that there was no demand of dowry and have exonerated the accused for the charge under Section 498A of IPC.

14. Even if we consider the offence under Section 304B of IPC and concur with the learned Sessions Judge, it is to be seen whether the quantum of sentence is too harsh and requires to be modified. In this regard, we have to analyse the theory of punishment prevailing in India.

15. We can safely rely upon the decision of the Gujarat High court in Criminal Appeal No.83 of 2008 (Gautam Manubhai Makwana Vs. State of Gujarat) decided on 11.9.2013 wherein the Court held as under:

"12. In fact, in the case of Krishan vs. State of Haryana reported in (2013) 3 SCC 280, the Apex Court has held that it is not an absolute principle of law that a dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction of an accused. Where the dying declaration is true and correct, the attendant circumstances show it to be reliable and it has been recorded in accordance with law, the deceased made the dying declaration of her own accord and upon due certification by the doctor with regard to the state of mind and body, then it may not be necessary for the court to look for corroboration. In such cases, the dying declaration alone can form the basis for the conviction of the accused. But where the dying declaration itself is attended by suspicious circumstances, has not been recorded in accordance with law and settled procedures and practices, then, it may be necessary for the court to look for corroboration of the same.

13. However, the complaint given by the deceased and the dying declaration recorded by the Executive Magistrate and the history before the doctor is consistent and seems to be trustworthy. The same is also duly corroborated with the evidence of witnesses and the medical reports as well as panchnama and it is clear that the deceased died a homicidal death due to the act of the appellants in pouring kerosene and setting him ablaze. We do find that the dying declaration is trust worthy.

14. However, we have also not lost sight of the fact that the deceased had died after a month of treatment. From the medical reports, it is clear that the deceased suffered from Septicemia which happened due to extensive burns.

15. In the case of the B.N. Kavatakar and another (supra), the Apex Court in a similar case of septicemia where the deceased therein had died in the hospital after five days of the occurrence of the incident in question, converted the conviction under section 302 to under section 326 and modified the sentence accordingly.

15.1 Similarly, in the case of Maniben (supra), the Apex Court has observed as under:

"18. The deceased was admitted in the hospital with about 60% burn injuries and during the course of treatment developed septicemia, which was the main cause of death of the deceased. It is, therefore, established that during the aforesaid period of 8 days the injuries aggravated and worsened to the extent that it led to ripening of the injuries and the deceased died due to poisonous effect of the injuries.

19. It is established from the dying declaration of the deceased that she was living separately from her mother-in-law, the appellant herein, for many years and that on the day in question she had a quarrel with the appellant at her house. It is also clear from the evidence on record that immediately after the quarrel she along with her daughter came to fetch water and when she was returning, the appellant came and threw a burning tonsil on the clothes of the deceased. Since the deceased was wearing a terylene cloth at that relevant point of time, it aggravated the fire which caused the burn injuries.

20. There is also evidence on record to prove and establish that the action of the appellant to throw the burning tonsil was preceded by a quarrel between the deceased and the appellant. From the aforesaid evidence on record it cannot be said that the appellant had the intention that such action on her part would cause the death or such bodily injury to the deceased, which was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause the death of the deceased. Therefore, in our considered opinion, the case cannot be said to be covered under clause (4) of Section 300 of IPC. We are, however, of the considered opinion that the case of the appellant is covered under Section 304 Part II of IPC."

16. In the present case, we have come to the irresistible conclusion that the role of the appellants is clear from the dying declaration and other records. However, the point which has also weighed with this court are that the deceased had survived for around 30 days in the hospital and that his condition worsened after around 5 days and ultimately died of septicemia. In fact he had sustained about 35% burns. In that view of the matter, we are of the opinion that the conviction of the appellants under section 302 of Indian Penal Code is required to be converted to that under section 304(I) of Indian Penal Code and in view of the same appeal is partly allowed.

17. The conviction of the appellants - original accused under Section 302 of Indian Penal Code vide judgment and order dated 19.12.2007 arising from Sessions Case No. 149 of 2007 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court No. 6, Ahmedabad is converted to conviction under Section 304 (Part I) of Indian Penal Code. However, the conviction of the appellants - original accused under section 452 of Indian Penal Code is upheld. 16. In latest decision in Khokan@ Khokhan Vishwas v. State of Chattisgarh, 2021 LawSuit (SC) 80, where the facts were similar to this case, the Apex Court has allowed the appeal of the accused appellant and altered the sentence. The decision of the Apex Court in the case of Anversinh v. State of Gujarat, (2021) 3 SCC 12 which was related to kidnapping from legal guardian, wherein it was established that the Court while respecting the concerns of both society and victim, propounded that the twin principle of deterrence and correction would be served by reducing the period of incarceration already undergone by the accused. In our case, this is not that gruesome matter where the accused cannot be dealt with in light of all these judgments. Decisions in Pravat Chandra Mohanty v. State of Odisha, (2021) 3 SCC 529 & Pardeshiram v. State of M.P., (2021) 3 SCC 238 will also enure for the benefit of the accused as the

17. In Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, [AIR 1977 SC 1926], explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

18. 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP [(2004) 7 SCC 257] by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

19. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532], Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734], Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323], State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, [(2015) 3 SCC 441], and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463] and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

20. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

21. As discussed above, 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is very harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Apex Court, as discussed above, has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformative approach underlying in criminal justice system.

22. The accused-appellants, Vijay Shanker & Meena Devi are reported to have undergone 12 years of sentence and therefore, we hold that the period undergone will be sufficient punishment for them. As far as accused-appellant, Chandrawati (mother-in-law of deceased) is concerned, it has come in the Dying Declaration itself that she along with others has taken the deceased to the hospital and looking to her age, the period undergone by her would be sufficient punishment for her. The accused-appellants be set free forthwith, if not wanted in any other case.

23. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and order passed by the learned Sessions Judge shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. Record be sent back to the Trial Court forthwith.

After the matter went for trial it was numbered as Sessions Trial No.483 of 2012. Before the case was committed to trial the police had investigated the matter and had submitted charge sheets against three accused namely Sripal Singh son of Khachedu Singh, Jagat Singh son of Ratan Lal and Satish Nagar son of Shahmal. Since, during the investigation arms were recovered viz.-a-viz. Sripal and Jagat, two further charge sheets were submitted under section 25 of the Arms Act and they were numbered as Sessions Trial No.484 of 2012 and Sessions Trial No.485 of 2012. The trials of the three cases were undergone together with the Sessions Trial No.483 of 2012 being the leading case.

2. The case of the prosecution was that Suresh, the elder brother of the first informant Naresh had purchased 3-4 days back certain shops from Data Ram which were situate at Sutyana Bus Stand. Since the accused Sripal was also wanting to purchase the shops, the accused Sripal along with Satish Nagar and Jagat Singh had warned the deceased that if he purchased those shops, then they would kill him. On the day of occurrence in the morning also when the first informant Naresh along with the brother Suresh had gone to the bus stand then Sripal, Satish Nagar and Jagat had reached the shop and had said that despite the fact that they had warned him not to purchase the shops, he had purchased the shops and, therefore, they would teach him a lesson.

3. The prosecution case further is that the first informant and the deceased to avoid any kind of altercation after the warnings etc. had returned home. However, on the same date i.e. on 19.5.2012 at 9.30 PM when the first informant, the deceased Suresh and the third brother Pawan were going by their Scorpio Car No.UP16T0004 to get their vehicle fueled and when they had reached the Habibpur market gate, the accused Sripal in his Santro Car No.UP16W4011 overtook the Scorpio car and parked it in front of it and from the car the three accused Sripal, Jagat and Satish Nagar came out along with two other persons whose names the first informant was not knowing and fired indiscriminately on Suresh who was sitting on the driver's seat after breaking the windowpane. The first informant and his brother Pawan, to save their lives, got-off the scorpio car and ran away. Thereafter the assailants after having killed Suresh got into the Santro car and went towards Surajpur. The first informant and the other brother Pawan took the car of the owner of Pappu Hotel and took their elder brother to Kailash Hospital at night where Suresh was declared dead. It was the case of the prosecution that the first informant and his brother Pawan recognized the accused in the light of the street lights. The First Information Report was got written by the informant Naresh by one Lokendra Nagar. The First Information Report was numbered as Paper No.Ka-1. On the basis of the First Information Report, Case Crime No.169 of 2012 was got registered under sections 147, 148, 149, 302 and 506 I.P.C. The Chik FIR was numbered as Ka-15 and a corresponding entry was made in the General Diary as Entry No.46 at 23.05 PM. As a part of the investigation, inquest report was got prepared which was numbered as Exhibit-Ka-2 by the Investigating Officer B.R. Zaidi (PW-6). Thereafter the body was sent for post-mortem to the Chief Medical Officer. The Investigating Officer had also prepared a site map (Exhibit-Ka-7). During investigation, when it came to the knowledge of the Investigating Officer that Sripal and Jagat had hidden their pistols before they were arrested, then on the pointing of the accused, the pistols were recovered and the recovery memo was also prepared and exhibited as exhibit K-13. This recovery memo was got proved by PW-6, the Investigating Officer.

7. PW-1, the first informant in his examination-in-chief had stated that the incident was of 19.5.2012. The name of his elder brother who had died in the incident was Suresh Chand. The incident had taken place at around 9.30 PM at the crossing of Kacchi Sadak and the Service Road. He had stated that he along with his younger brother Pawan and the eldest brother Suresh had gone to get their Scorpio Car No.UP16T0004 fueled and while they were heading towards the Fuel Station, a Santro Car overtook the Scorpio Car and parked itself in front of Scorpio Car which was numbered as UP16W4011. From that car, Sripal, Satish Nagar, Jagat and two other persons had come out. The names of the two others were later on told by his brother Pawan and he had revealed that they were called Pappu and Satpal. He had stated in his statement that he had known the accused from before. He had stated that when they got down from the car, they had small firearms of the type of pistol. After coming towards the driving seat, they had tried to open the window. When that did not open, they broke open the windowpane with the butts of their firearm. When Naresh and Pawan, PWs-1 and 2 objected to the actions of the assailants, the assailants indiscriminately fired on Suresh. Upon the initiation of the firing, the first informant and the younger brother, to save their lives, came out of the car. They had made a hue and cry but no-one had responded to it. When they did not find the ignition key of their car, they found a Maruti Car standing at the Pappu Hotel and in that car they took their brother to the Kailash Hospital. From the hotel, it has been stated that, a child had also accompanied them. Upon reaching the hospital, the doctors examined the elder brother of the first informant and declared him dead. Upon Suresh being declared dead, Naresh had gone to the police station and upon his dictation, his cousin Lokendra had written the First Information Report and on it Naresh had put his signature. He has thus proved the First Information Report. Thereafter he has stated that the police had visited the hospital and had started off with the investigation which included the preparation of the inquest report. He stated that on the inquest report, his signature was also there. He had also stated that from the spot, 11 empty cartridges, along with a live cartridge, were also recovered which were taken in possession by the police. The PW-1 had recognized the accused who were present in the Santro car namely Sripal, Satish Nagar and Jagat.

8. PW-2 Pawan has reiterated the statements as were made by his brother Naresh.

9. PW-3 C.S. Yadav, who had written the Panchnama on the dictation of the Investigating Officer B.R. Zaidi, was also examined and he proved the Panchnama.

10. PW-4 Dr. Rakesh Kumar who had performed the post-mortem proved the post-mortem and gave the details of the injuries which were found on the body of the deceased.

11. PW-5 Head Constable Mohd. Naeem had stated that on 19.5.2012, upon the receiving of the First Information Report, he had made an entry in the General Diary at Entry No.46.

12. PW-6 B.R. Zaidi has given a detailed statement with regard to the investigation. He had stated that on the next date i.e. on 20.5.2012, he had investigated the spot and had prepared a site plan. He had stated that from the spot he had recovered 11 empty cartridges and one live cartridge. He had taken them all in his possession and had also sealed them. He had also stated the manner in which he had prepared the samples of the blood stains on the seat cover etc. He had also stated that on 20.5.2012, the accused Sripal and Jagat Singh were arrested. On 27.5.2012, the Santro Car No.UP16W4011 was recovered. He has further stated that on 30.5.2012 from the District Jail Dasna, he had taken the statements of the accused Sripal and Jagat and on their pointing he had recovered the firearms. The recovery had taken place on 2.6.2012 from Sripal and on 3.6.2012 from Jagat Singh. He has stated that after the investigation he had thereafter submitted his charge sheet. He had also given his statement that as to how he had sent the firearms to the forensic laboratory.

13. PW-7 Head Constable Virendra Singh had stated that he was posted in Police Station where his duty was to type on the computer. He had stated that on the basis of Exhibit Ka-1, he had registered the case.

14. PW-8 Vijendra Singh Tomar was the Investigating Officer of the case under the Arms Act viz.-a-viz. Jagat Singh.

15. PW-9 Sub-Inspector Mahesh Kumar Tyagi was the Investigating Officer with regard to the case under the Arms Act viz.-a-viz. Sripal.

16. PW-10 was the retired Inspector Om Prakash and was the Investigating Officer for the C.B.C.I.D.

17. PW-11 Lokendra Kumar who had written the First Information Report on the dictation of Naresh was also examined.

18. PW-12 Shiv Prakash Singh was also a police witness.

19. From the side of the defence Brijpal, Rupesh Kumar, Jaipal Bhagat Ji, Shahmal, Rammi, Anju Bhati, Satya Prakash, Anuj Kashyap and Vinod were produced and examined as DWs-1 to 9 respectively and had tried to prove the alibi taken by the accused Satish Nagar.

20. DW-8 Anuj Kashyap had stated on oath that on 19.5.2012 at around 9.30 PM he was at the hotel and when he had closed the hotel and was going homewards then he found that the Scorpio car was parked near his hotel and Suresh was profusely bleeding. He had stated that he had sent a boy to his father to inform him about the incident. Thereafter they had put Suresh in their car and had taken him to Balaji Hospital where the doctors had advised for a better treatment.

21. Pappu Kashyap who was a witness of the inquest report and was also entered as a prosecution witness in the charge sheet was discharged by the prosecution but was examined as a Court Witness. He has stated in his statement that his hotel was at the T Point of Kacchi Sadak in Habibpur Market and on the date and time of the incident, he was not in his hotel but his two sons Anuj and Ankur were there at the hotel. He was informed by them that Suresh had been injured. The children had informed him that they had taken Suresh to Balaji Hospital where the doctors had refused to take him and that thereafter Pappu had taken the deceased to the hospital where he was declared dead. In his cross-examination, he had categorically stated that Naresh and Pawan, the brothers of the deceased, were not there along with him. He has further stated that Jagat, one of the accused, had reached the hospital.

22. Upon evaluating all the evidence which were brought before it, the Court of Sessions Trial 2nd ADJ, Gautam Budh Nagar on 22.6.2018 convicted the assailants and hence the instant appeals.

23. Two appeals were filed. One being Criminal Appeal No.4646 of 2018 which was filed by Sripal and Jagat and the other being Criminal Appeal No.4587 of 2018 which was filed by Satish Nagar.

24. Sri V.P. Srivastava, Senior Advocate assisted by Sri J.P. Singh and Sri Jai Shankar Audichya, learned counsel for the appellants in Criminal Appeal No.4646 of 2018 and Criminal Appeal No.4587 of 2018 have stated that though the instant incident had occurred, it was very doubtful that it was the accused who were responsible for it. To bolster this argument, learned Senior Counsel has made the following submissions :-

i. Learned counsel has questioned the presence of the eye-witnesses i.e. PW-1 and PW-2. He has stated that if the testimony of CW-1 Pappu Kashyap and that of his son Anuj Kashyap is perused then it would become abundantly clear that the two brothers Naresh and Pawan were not there at the spot. He has made the Court go through the testimony of Pappu Kashyap and has submitted that Pappu Kashyap was the person who had been informed by his son about the firing which was done on Suresh. He has stated in his examination that initially the children had taken Suresh to Balaji Hospital and when Balaji Hospital had refused to admit Suresh, then they had approached him i.e. Pappu Kashyap and Pappu Kashyap thereafter had driven the car to Kailash hospital. He has categorically stated that he alone had taken Suresh to Kailash hospital and no-one else. He has categorically stated that Naresh and Pawan were not there at the hospital.

ii. Learned counsel has further drawn the attention of the Court to the statement of Anuj Kashyap who has stated that he was 22 years of age at the time of the giving of the statement in the year 2018. This meant that in the year 2012 he must have been 16 years of age. He has stated that at the time when the incident had occurred, he had found Suresh covered in blood in his Scorpio car. He has further stated that while he himself and his brother had taken Suresh to Balaji hospital, he had also sent words to his father through one Guddan son of Sabu. After the doctors at Balaji hospital had refused to admit the case, Anuj had driven back to his village where his father had taken charge of the car. He has also stated that at the time when he had taken out Suresh from his car, neither Naresh nor Pawan were present at the spot. He has also submitted that when his father Pappu Kashyap had taken Suresh then also Naresh and Pawan were not to be found. He has also stated that his village from the place of occurrence was 100 to 150 meters away only.

iii. The other argument which the learned counsel for the appellants has advanced is that on 19.5.2012 from the telephone number of the deceased Suresh namely telephone no.9910104300, calls were made to mobile no.9910669785 at 21.33 PM, 21.40 PM and 21.55 PM. Learned counsel submits that when PW-1 says that he had taken charge of the mobile of his brother Suresh at 9.35 PM then how was it possible that phone calls were made from that phone to 9910669785.

Further he submits that from the mobile no.9910104300 there was a phone call on the phone number of PW-1 Naresh being mobile no.8510004300 at 21.57 and 21.56 PM on 19.5.2012. Learned counsel for the appellant, therefore, states that how it was possible that when the PW-1 was saying that the deceased was killed at 21.30 PM, phone calls were being made thereafter at 21.33 PM, 21.40 PM, 21.55 PM, 21.57 PM and 22.56 PM from the phone of the deceased. Learned counsel states that the call details were brought on record by the prosecution and nobody had denied them.

iv. Learned counsel for the appellants to bolster his argument that PW-1 and PW-2 were not present at the spot and that the deceased had been taken by Pappu Kashyap, has shown to the Court the memo of the Kailash hospital which shows that the deceased was brought by Pappu Kashyap to the hospital.

v. Learned counsel for the appellants has thereafter laid much stress on the fact that when Naresh had lodged the First Information Report and which is exhibited as Exhibit Ka-1, this report was preceded by a First Information Report which was also written in the handwriting of Lokendra and was placed in the police station for being lodged as a First Information Report. This document has been exhibited as Exhibit Kha-1. This First Information Report was, as per learned counsel for the appellants, taken note of by the Police Officer stationed at the police station namely Constable Rajesh Jindal. This fact is corroborated from the statement of PW-7 Sri Virendra Singh who in his cross-examination clearly says that the first informant Naresh had brought a First Information report and which was given to Constable Rajesh Jindal and Sri Rajesh Jindal had marked it for being fed in the computer and had put it in the basket. PW-7 had further stated that Sri Rajesh Jindal had shown that document to him and that it was signed by Naresh-PW-1. On the document there was signature of Rajesh Jindal which was proved by PW-7. He has stated that by that document Naresh had informed the police that Suresh had been killed by unknown assailants. He further states that the Exhibit-Ka-15, the chik report, was placed before him after the computer was got repaired and in his statement, he had stated that the computer was out of order from 19.5.2012 to 21.5.2012. This witness, by an order of the Court dated 20.11.2017, was again brought into the witness box for re-examination. In his examination-in-chief on 2.1.2018, PW-7 stated that Exhibit Kha-1 was not placed before him and that Rajesh Jindal had never given that Tahrir to him. However, in his cross-examination when he was confronted with his earlier statement, he stated that the statement which he had earlier given i.e. the statement which he had given on 19.8.2016 was correct. He further states that when the computer was repaired only then the subsequent First Information Report was brought before him. He in fact emphatically states that Exhibit-Kha-1 was put in the basket on 19.5.2012. He also states that on Exhibit Kha-1 the seal of the police station was also there.

vi. Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that when the inquest report was prepared, the body was thereafter sent for post-mortem and with the request for the post-mortem, the list of papers which accompanied the dead body was also there. This list clearly showed that Panchayatnama was of three pages; photo nash was of one page; challan nash was of one page; namoona nash was of one page; the report of the Reserve Inspector was of one page; report of the CMO was of one page and the FIR was also of one page. Learned counsel, therefore, submits that when the computer was out of order from 19.5.2012 to 21.5.2012, then the request for post-mortem which was sent on 20.5.2012 could not have had three paged chik (Exhibit Ka-15) and, therefore, the Exhibit Kha-1 which was the First Information Report, which was lodged earlier in the point of time, alone was there which was of one page. He, therefore, submits that if Exhibit Kha-1 is perused, it would become clear that there was no eye-witness present at the spot.

vii. Learned counsel for the appellant further submits that Pappu Kashyap, who was a witness of the Panchayatnama/inquest report, was also a prosecution witness mentioned in the charge sheet which was submitted by the police then it did not stand to reason as to why the prosecution removed him from the list of prosecution witnesses. He submits that the Court upon being convinced that the prosecution witness Pappu Kashyap was removed mala-fidely from the list of prosecution witness, summoned Pappu Kashyap as CW-1. Learned counsel further submits that the testimony of Pappu Kashyap definitely spoke volumes about the fact that PW-1 and PW-2 were not present at the spot. Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that if the statement of PW-1 is seen then it becomes clear that he had stated that he was sitting on the back seat whereas Pawan, his brother was sitting on the front seat along with the driver. On the contrary, Pawan (PW-2) had stated that he was sitting at the back seat whereas in the front seat along with the driver, Naresh was sitting. Learned counsel for the appellants, therefore, submits that there was a major contradiction in the statements of PW-1 and PW-2. Learned counsel submits that this contradiction could have been ignored but in the instant case when the witnesses are unable to clearly state as to where they were sitting at the time of incident then it definitely becomes a major point for consideration. Learned counsel for the appellants further states that had it been just a mistake as to on which side of the back seat which witness was sitting then also it could have been ignored but when the witnesses are confused as to whether they were sitting in the front seat or the back seat then definitely it becomes a point which requires consideration and, therefore, he submits that in fact the PW-1 and PW-2 were not there on the spot and that they were coming up with a concocted story.

viii. Learned counsel for the appellants submits that the First Information Report as is required to be sent after the lodging of it to the Magistrate under section 157 Cr.P.C. ought to have been sent forthwith to the Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of the offence upon the police report. He submits that if the report was not sent under section 157 Cr.P.C. "forthwith" then it was a major lacuna on the part of the prosecution. Learned counsel for the appellants relied upon the decision of the Supreme Court in Arjun Marik & Others vs. State of Bihar reported in 1994 Supp. (2) SCC 372 to support his case. In this regard, learned counsel for the appellants also relied upon the decision of the Supreme Court in Rajeevan & Anr. vs. State of Kerala reported in (2003) 3 SCC 355 and Meharaj Singh (L/Nk) vs. State of U.P. reported in (1994) 5 SCC 188.

ix. Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that at the place of occurrence 11 empty cartridges along with one live cartridge were found. The post-mortem indicates that there were as many as 11 entry wounds and 5 exit wounds. He submits that when 11 empty cartridges were found then definitely 11 wounds were there but the five bullets which caused exit wounds were not found anywhere in the scorpio car. He, therefore, submits that definitely the deceased was pulled out of the car and killed outside the car and thereafter placed inside the scorpio car at the driver's seat.

x. Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that when the assailants had broken the windowpane and then had fired from the outside, then the Investigating Officer should have collected the glass pieces of the broken window. He, therefore, suggested that it appears that at the time when the body was discovered, the windowpane was intact and mischievously later on the glass pane was smashed and, therefore, there was no mention of the broken glass pieces in the report of the Investigating Officer.

xi. Learned counsel for the appellants further submits that when there was such an incessant firing taken place, it was but natural that the two other eye witness who had claimed were sitting inside the car also ought to have been hit by the bullets and that at least some blood stains ought to have been there on their clothes.

xii. Learned counsel for the appellants submits that if the eye-witnesses had taken the deceased out from the scorpio car and had placed him in a Maruti car of Pappu Kashyap then also there would have been some blood stains on their clothes and since no blood was found on their clothes, the story that they had carried the deceased to the hospital was improbable. Learned counsel states that the PW-1 and PW-2 had wrongly stated that they had washed their clothes. He submits that when such a major murder had taken place then they would not have got the time to wash clothes..

xiii. Learned counsel for the appellants states that on 2.6.2012 on the pointing of Sripal in village Jalpura near Pani Ki Tanki at the T point of Hindon Pushta, the Investigating Officer had got recovered a 9mm pistol made in Bulgaria. He also stated that the Investigating Officer had also got recovered a 9mm pistol made in USA on the pointing of Jagat Singh on 3.6.2012 from near the Hindon Pushta. Learned counsel for the appellants submits that these two recoveries which were allegedly under section 27 of the Evidence Act were absolutely bad in law as under Section 27 of the Evidence Act, the accused who is in the custody when intends to show that he is the author of the concealment of an armed weapon and he wishes to get it discovered then all his statements ought to have been made before two independent witnesses and the exact statements uttered by him ought to have been incorporated in the Panchnama and therefore, the Investigating Officer ought to have drawn the recovery memo as per law. This ought to have been done at the police station in the presence of the independent witnesses so as to lend credence that the particular statement was made in fact by the accused expressing his willingness that he was on his own free will and volition wanting to lead to the place where the weapon of the offence had been hidden. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that once that part of the Panchnama was completed, the police party along with the accused and two independent witnesses ought to have proceeded to that particular place where the accused might have led the police party and if from that particular place the weapon of the offence had been discovered then the process would have formed the second part of the Panchnama.

25. In the instant case, learned counsel for the appellants states that on both dates i.e. 2.6.2012 and 3.6.2012, the recovery was not made as was required to be made under section 27 of the Evidence Act. In this regard, learned counsel for the appellants relied upon two judgments of the Supreme Court in Ramanand @ Nandlal Bharti vs. State of Uttar Pradesh reported in AIR 2022 SC 5273 and in Subramanya vs. State of Karnataka reported in AIR 2022 SC 5110.

26. Learned counsel for the appellants, therefore, submits that when the recovery under section 27 of the Evidence Act becomes erroneous, the whole case of the prosecution, so far as the recovery of firearm is concerned becomes erroneous.

27. Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that the firearms were sent to the ballistic experts much after the charge sheet was submitted. He further submitted that if the report of the Forensic Laboratory is seen then it becomes clear that there were 11 empty cartridges sent. One empty cartridge which was marked as EC-1 was of 9mm; 8 empty cartridges were of 7.62mm and two empty cartridges were of 7.65mm. There was one live cartridge of 7.65mm. There were other bullets also found from the body of the deceased. When the ballistic report came from the Forensic Laboratory, it was of the view that one 9mm empty cartridge could have been fired from the pistol numbered as 11111 and was marked as 1/2012. This was the pistol which was found, as per the prosecution case, from the pointing of Sripal. The other cartridges could not be related to either the pistol no.11111 marked as 1/2012 or with the pistol no.7700 marked as 2/2012 which was found from the pointing of Jagat Singh. Learned counsel for the appellants, therefore, submitted that when just one empty cartridge matched the gun which was found from the pointing of Sripal, made the whole case doubtful. He submitted that the gun which was found from the pointing of Sripal was the gun which was made in Bulgaria and this fact was mentioned in the recovery memo but the ballistic report does not mention about the fact as to which country the pistol was made in. Further, learned counsel for the appellants submitted that in the recovery memo with regard to the pistol which was found from the pointing of Jagat Singh, it was found that it was a 9mm pistol numbered as 7700 and was made in USA but this fact as to which country the pistol was made in was not to be found in the ballistic report. He, therefore, again submitted that the whole case becomes doubtful. Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that when the pistols were produced in the Court, then PW-6, the Investigating Office Sri B.R. Zaidi had stated that he had not sealed the pistols and empty cartridges himself. He had categorically stated upon seeing a string (dori) attached to one of the pistols, that there was no string (dori) on the pistols which he had sent. Learned counsel for the appellants stated that therefore the pistol which was sent by the Investigating Officer did not have any string (dori) but once it was opened in the Court, the pistol had a string (dori). Learned counsel for the appellants, therefore, submitted that the recovery of the pistol becomes doubtful in view of the fact that the ballistic report did not match the empty cartridges with the gun which was found from the pointing out of Jagat. He also submitted that in all probability, the pistol which was attributed to the pointing of Sripal was a planted pistol. He, therefore, submitted that the case became absolutely doubtful.

28. With regard to the Criminal Appeal No.4587 of 2018 (Satish Nagar vs. State of U.P.), learned counsel for the appellant argued that Satish Nagar was not there on the spot. The Investigating Office (PW-6) Sri B.R. Zaidi has stated that during the course of investigation, he was informed that Satish Nagar was in Rajasthan for some religious purpose. PW-10 Om Prakash has stated that he had received 31 affidavits in support of the fact that Satish Nagar was in Rajasthan. He has also stated that the phone of Satish Nagar was not found within the NCR. Learned counsel for the appellant took the Court through various statements of various DWs who had deposed in support of the fact that Satish Nagar was not on the spot but was in Rajasthan. No recovery of any firearm had also been found from Satish Nagar. Learned counsel, therefore, stated that Satish Nagar was not on the spot.

29. In reply, learned AGA Sri S.N. Mishra and Sri Brijesh Sahai, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Sanjay Singh, learned counsel appearing for the first informant argued that minor contradictions/discrepancies in the statements of witnesses would not affect the prosecution case. To bolster his case, Sri Brijesh Sahai relied upon a decision of the Supreme Court in C. Muniappan & Ors. vs. State of Tamil Nadu reported in 2010 (9) SCC 567 and since learned counsel specially relied upon paragraph 85 of the judgment, the same is being reproduced here as under :-

"85. It is settled proposition of law that even if there are some omissions, contradictions and discrepancies, the entire evidence cannot be disregarded. After exercising care and caution and sifting through the evidence to separate truth from untruth, exaggeration and improvements, the court comes to a conclusion as to whether the residuary evidence is sufficient to convict the accused. Thus, an undue importance should not be attached to omissions, contradictions and discrepancies which do not go to the heart of the matter and shake the basic version of the prosecution's witness. As the mental abilities of a human being cannot be expected to be attuned to absorb all the details of the incident, minor discrepancies are bound to occur in the statements of witnesses."

30. Learned counsel for the first informant had stated that the manner of assault had to be seen. Whether the broken glasses of the windowpane was taken into account by the investigating authorities would not go to the root of the matter. Also that the exit bullets were not found by the Investigating Officer would not change the fact that the appellants had murdered the deceased Suresh. He further submitted that it mattered little that the PW-1 and PW-2 were getting confused with regard to the fact that as to on which seat the two of them were sitting when the incident had occurred. He further submitted that there were two independent witnesses i.e. PW-1 and PW-2 and their testimonies cannot be lightly done away with. He submitted that the spot of occurrence was identified; that the incident occurred could not be denied and that there were eye-witnesses of the incident was established from the evidence on record. Learned counsel for the informant stated that the five counts on which the defence had tried to dislodge the prosecution case namely the absence of the eye-witness; manner of assault; date and time of the incident; the spot of the incident and the timing of the First Information Report, all were absolutely established and, therefore, the appellants had no case. So far as the argument of the appellants with regard to section 27 of the Evidence Act was concerned, learned counsel for the first informant submitted that the discovery was from a person who was in custody and was having the information which he told about the authorship of the concealment. Therefore, the discovery was proper and could be looked into. He submitted that it mattered little that there was no deposition of the accused before the appellants proceeded for the discovery. Learned counsel for the first informant had argued that the call details and the paper by which the dead body was brought to the Kailash hospital were not exhibited in the case and, therefore, they were waste papers and could not be relied upon.

31. Having heard Sri V.P. Srivastava, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri J.P. Singh, learned counsel for the appellants in Criminal Appeal No.4646 of 2018 and Sri Jai Shanker Audichya, Advocate assisted by Sri Shyam Shankar Shukla and Sri Vijay Pratap Singh learned counsel for the appellants in Criminal Appeal No.4587 of 2018 and Sri Brijesh Sahai, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Sanjay Singh, learned counsel for the informant as well as learned A.G.A. for the State we are of the view that the Court of Sessions Trial erred in convicting the appellants in both the criminal appeals.

32. To begin with we find that after the First Information Report was lodged, the report as is required to be sent to the Magistrate under section 157 Cr.P.C. was sent almost after 10 days. This as per the judgments of the Supreme Court in Arjun Marik & Ors. vs. State of Bihar reported in 1994 Supp. (2) SCC 372; Badam Singh vs. State of M.P. reported in (2003) 12 SCC 792; Rajeevan & Anr. vs. State of Kerala reported in (2003) 3 SCC 355 and Mehraj Singh (L/Nk) vs. State of U.P. reported in (1994) 5 SCC 188 makes the case doubtful. In the instant case, the informant had reported the matter to the police, as per the prosecution case, on 19.5.2012. The police has stated that a GD entry was made on the same date. Why the special report took such a long time is not made clear. From the statement of PW-7 Virendra Singh, the Head Constable, the Court finds that Sri Virendra Singh was on duty on the date of the incident i.e. on 19.5.2012. He has stated that he had received a written complaint on the basis of which Case Crime No.169 of 2012 under sections 147, 148, 149, 302 and 506 IPC was registered. He had further stated that he had prepared the chik on that very date. However, in his cross-examination he states that from 19.5.2012 to 21.5.2012 the computer was out of order. He also, however, has stated that he could not tell as to for what reason the special report was sent under section 157 Cr.P.C. on 30.5.2012. Coupled with this, when we see that when the Investigating Officer had sent the dead body to the Chief Medical Officer for post-mortem, he had prepared a list of documents which he had sent. This list of documents had 3 pages of panchayatnama; one page of photo nash; one page of challan nash; one page of namoona nash; one page of report of Reserve Inspector; one page of report to the CMO and one page of the First Information Report. The First Information Report as was on record was running into three pages. Why the report when was prepared and was there on record was sent after 10 days is not known and, therefore, for this reason definitely the prosecution story becomes doubtful.

33. After the post mortem report was prepared and after the accused were incarcerated, Sripal and Jagat were in judicial custody. They were taken into police remand and under section 27 of the Evidence Act, on their pointing, the guns were discovered on 2.6.2012 from Sripal and on 3.6.2012 from Jagat.

34. A perusal of the statement of PW-6 B.R. Zaidi, at page 132 of the paper book, clearly states that there were no disclosure statements of the two accused. We find that as per the judgment of the Supreme Court in Ramanand @ Nandlal Bharti vs. State of Uttar Pradesh reported in AIR 2022 SC 5273 and in Subramanya vs. State of Karnataka reported in AIR 2022 SC 5110 the disclosure was a must. When the accused while in custody makes a statement before two independent witnesses, the exact statement or rather the exact words uttered by the accused should be incorporated in the panchnama by the Investigating Officer and, therefore, the first part of the deposition for the purpose of section 27 of the Evidence Act ought to have been drawn in the police station in the presence of the two independent witnesses. This would have lend credence that a particular statement made by the accused was of his own free will and that he was willing to point out the place where the weapon of offence was hidden. It is only after the first part of the deposition is complete, the police party along with the accused and two independent witnesses should have gone to the place to which the accused might have led the police party to and this discovery should have formed the second part of the memo of recovery. The judgment cited above has held as follows :-

"This is how the law expects the investigating officer to draw the discovery panchnama as contemplated under Section 27 of the Evidence Act. If we read the entire oral evidence of the investigating officer then it is clear that the same is deficient in all the aforesaid relevant aspects of the matter."

35. Applying the aforesaid principle of law, we find that the evidence of the Investigating Officer was not only unreliable but it could be said that it did not constitute any legal evidence.

36. Furthermore, we find that the incident as has been stated by the PW-1 Naresh who is the first informant does not stand to scrutiny. It has been stated that the incident occurred at 9.30 PM but from the evidence of PW-6, we find that there were phone calls made from the phone of the deceased even after 9.30 PM. What is more, the statement of CW-1-Pappu Kashyap when read along with the statement of Anuj Kashyap-DW-8 definitely shows that the prosecution case was week. The CW-1-Pappu Kashyap has stated in his testimony on oath that he was the person who had taken the deceased in his car after his children had informed that Suresh had been injured. He very categorically states that there was no one present at the time of the incident. He had stated that his children had taken out Suresh from the Scorpio car and had put him in their own car and had taken Suresh to Balaji hospital. When in Balaji hospital, the authorities had not accepted the case, then the children had brought the body back and Pappu Kashyap had taken Suresh to Kailash hospital. He had very categorically stated that there was no one present at the time when all this was going on. Along with this if the statement of DW-8-Anuj Kashyap is perused, we find that the case of CW-1 gets corroborated with the statements of DW-8. He has stated that Suresh when was hit by the assailants then he, Anuj Kashyap, had taken Suresh to the hospital and when the hospital people had refused to take the case then they had gone to their village and then his father had taken Suresh for treatment. In the statement it is very categorically stated that the spot of the occurrence was only 100 to 150 meters away from the village where the father Pappu Kashyap was. Therefore, we find that even the Trial Court has, for no reason, disbelieved the DW-8 and CW-1. If both the statements are read together, it would become clear that Anuj Kashyap was present at the hotel when the incident had occurred. He had rushed with Suresh to the hospital called Balaji and when the case was refused, from there he took assistance of his father who thereafter had taken Suresh to Kailash hospital.

37. What is more the Court definitely finds that PW-1 at page 72 of the paper-book states that he was sitting on the back seat whereas PW-2, at page 91 of the paper-book, states that he was sitting on the back seat. This even though could have been, under normal circumstances, a minor discrepancy but when such a grave incident had taken place wherein their own brother had been murdered then the whole picture would have been etched in the minds of the witnesses and they could not have forgotten as to which seat they were occupying at the time of incident. In the instant case, when they are not clear as to who sat on which seat, it becomes doubtful that they were at all there.

38. What is more, the Court finds that there were 11 bullet injuries on the body of the deceased and not a single exit bullet of the five exit injuries was found in the car. Also the two of the witnesses who claimed themselves to be there along with the deceased have not received any kind of injury and also no blood stain was found on them. What is more, if the PW-1 had picked up the deceased and had taken him to the hospital then admittedly blood would have been there on his clothes. He simply says that he had washed away all the clothes and therefore could not explain the absence of blood on his clothes. This definitely raises a doubt in the mind of the Court.

39. Also if the forensic report is seen, we find that only one empty cartridge out of the 11 empty cartridges could be related to a particular gun and all the other 10 empty cartridges did not match with either of the two guns which were discovered by the Investigating Officer with the help of the two accused Sripal and Jagat. This again makes the case extremely doubtful.

40. So far as the case taken by the counsel for the appellants with regard to the fact that the PW-1 Naresh had lodged a prior First Information Report which they had brought on record as exhibit Kha-1, the Court tried to examine as to whether that document was there. If the statement of PW-7 Virendra Singh is seen, it becomes clear that he had stated that a document of that kind was brought to the police station and also the officer in-charge Sri Rajesh Jindal had made a note on the document that the document had to be registered and had put it in the basket (tokari). He recognized the signature of Rajesh Jindal also. However, the Court is circumspect in accepting this document as the document was proved in a very flimsy manner. The signatures of Naresh were not verified from the admitted signature which was there on the exhibit-Ka-1 and also the Court feels that this document ought to have been brought in the open when the investigation was going on.

41. Under such circumstances, even though the PW-7 Virendra Singh had proved the document, the Court does not find it very reliable and, therefore, it is not being used in any manner to come to any conclusion whatsoever.

42. We have also gone through the statements of DW-1 to 7 who had given their statements that Satish Nagar had gone to Rajasthan. They had also relied upon various affidavits which the 31 individuals had given for proving the fact that Satish Nagar had gone to Rajasthan on that particular date. However, neither the Investigating Officer nor the CBCID looked into those documents and, therefore, it cannot, with any certainty, be said that Satish Nagar had gone to Rajasthan. We do find substance in the argument of learned counsel for the appellant that there was non-compliance of the provisions of paragraph 107 of the Police Regulations as it was the duty of the Investigating Officer to have looked into the affidavits and also it was his duty to have seen all the other evidence. Since nothing was looked into, it cannot be said with certainty as to where Satish Nagar was at the time of incident.

43. However, the case certainly becomes doubtful because of the testimonies of CW-1 and DW-8 namely Pappu Kashyap and Anuj Kashyap respectively; the fact that there was delayed information to the Magistrate under section 157 Cr.P.C.; the discovery under section 27 of the Evidence Act was doubtful; the ballistic report did not state that 10 out of 11 empty cartridges were fired from the two pistols which were discovered and also because of the fact that the exit bullets and the glass panes were not considered by the investigating authorities.

44. The prosecution must prove its case beyond all reasonable doubt as has been held by a Full Bench judgment of this Court in Rishi Kesh Singh & Ors. vs. The State reported in AIR 1970 Allahabad 51 (FB). The operative portion of the judgment is reproduced here as under :-

"177. In accordance with the majority opinion, our answer to the question referred to this Full Bench is as follows:--

The majority decision in 1941 All LJ 619 = AIR 1941 All 402 (FB) is still good law. The accused person is entitled to be acquitted if upon a consideration of the evidence as a whole (including the evidence given in support of the plea of the general exception) a reasonable doubt is created in the mind of the Court about the guilt of the accused."

45. The prosecution definitely failed to prove the case which was taken by it beyond all reasonable doubt.

46. Under such circumstances, both the appeals are allowed. The judgment and order dated 22.6.2018 passed by the Additional District & Sessions Judge/Fast Track (Second), Gautam Budh Nagar is set-aside. The appellants, if are not required in any other case, be released forthwith.

4. On investigation being put into motion, the investigating officer recorded the statements of all the witnesses and submitted the charge-sheet to the learned Magistrate. The learned Magistrate summoned the accused and committed him to Court of Sessions as prima facie charge was under Sections 452, 304, 326, 323 IPC.

5. On being summoned, the accused-appellant pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried. The Trial started and the prosecution examined 8 witnesses who are as follows:

1	Kasim	PW1
2	Nadeem Ahmed	PW2
3	Hazi Hakim Naeem	PW3
4	Salim	PW4
5	Genda Lal	PW5
6	Vidya Ram Diwakar	PW6
7	Dr. Kulbhushan	PW7
8	Dr. T.K. Panth	PW8

6. In support of ocular version following documents were filed and proved:

1	F.I.R.	Ex.Ka.2
2	Written Report	Ex.Ka.1
3	Recovery Memo of Burnt Piece of Rug	Ex.Ka.7
4	Injury Report	Ex.Ka.11
5	Injury Report	Ex. Ka.12
6	Injury Report	Ex.Ka.13
7	Post Mortem Report	Ex.Ka.10
8	Charge-sheet	Ex.Ka.9
9	Site Plan with Index	Ex.Ka.6

7. At the end of the trial, after recording the statements of the accused under section 313 of Cr.P.C., and hearing arguments on behalf of prosecution and the defence, the learned Sessions Judge convicted the accused-appellant as mentioned above.

8. Ms. Mary Puncha submits that the herein appellant had illicit relation with the accused Ateek Ahmad who breathed his last when he was in jail. When the incident had occurred she was in her late 40s and now she is in her early 60s and is in jail. It is further submitted that the evidence, led before the court below, was so scanty that the conviction could not have been recorded. The incident occurred on 22.5.2010 and the injuries, which were caused, were not such which can be said to have been caused by the appellant herein. The appellant also had sustained injuries. The death certificate of deceased Mushtak

Ali has been considered to be homicidal death and not a murder. The witnesses PW-1 to PW-4 have not supported the prosecution case. The learned court below has convicted the accused without any oral or documentary evidence and has come to the conclusion that Mushtak Ali, Hasim and Najim were injured. All the three injured have turned hostile. The injured had testified as per the provisions of Section 32 Indian Evidence Act being treated as Dying Declaration and have named the accused Ateek Ahmad only and not the present appellant, therefore, her conviction is bad in the eye of law.

9. Ms. Mary Puncha has relied upon the judgements of the Supreme Court in the cases of State of Punjab vs. Bawa Singh, reported in 2015 0 Supreme (SC) 38 and Deo Narain Mandal vs. State of U.P., reported in 2004 0 Supreme (SC) 944 and judgements of this Court passed in Criminal Appeal No. 1007 of 1996 (Kali Prasad vs. State of U.P.) and Criminal Appeal No. 4083 of 2017 (Pintu Gupta vs. State of U.P.) so as to contend that the punishment awarded is too harsh as the appellant herein is not the sole author of the incident.

10. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State submits that there was no grave and sudden provocation from the side of the deceased. It is further submitted that the Dying Declarations categorically show that the appellant was also involved in the act. The act was committed at night. The learned trial court has rightly accepted the Dying Declaration and the reasoning given in paragraphs- 57 to 62 are such which require to be confirmed by this Court. It is further submitted that looking to the gruesomeness of the offence and the evidence of prosecution witnesses, this Court should not show any leniency in the matter.

11. We have considered the evidence of witnesses and the Postmortem report which states that the injuries on the body of the deceased would be the cause of death and that it was homicidal death, we concur with the finding of the Court below. However, it is to be seen whether the sentence awarded is too harsh. In this regard, we have to analyse the theory of punishment prevailing in India.

12. In Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, [AIR 1977 SC 1926], explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

13. 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP [(2004) 7 SCC 257] by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

14. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532], Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734], Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323], State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, [(2015) 3 SCC 441], and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463] and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

15. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

16. The Apex Court in the judgement of Raj Bala (supra) has held that the proportionate punishment would be just and proper. The conscious of society will have to be kept in mind. The accused has already been in jail for a period of 13 years. She has a young son who is litigating for her and, therefore, all the contours of sentencing policy would go to show that would be to hold that the accused is to undergo 13 years of incarceration u/s 304 I.P.C. This Bench is further fortified in its view by the judgement in the case of Pintu Gupta (supra) where the Court, after considering all facts and circumstances on proper sentence as on the basis of reformative theory, gave incarceration of 9 years to be just and proper. In this case the lust act was committed by accused Ateek Ahmad, the main conspirator, and, therefore, there is no question of showing leniency but a fixed term incarceration would be just and proper.

17. As discussed above, 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is very harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Apex Court, as discussed above, has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformative approach underlying in criminal justice system.

18. As far as Section 452 I.P.C. is concerned, the accused has already undergone incarceration of 5 years; as far as Section 326 I.P.C. is concerned she has already been in jail for 10 years, therefore all that remains to be decided is the sentence u/s 304 I.P.C., namely, life sentence. We substitute the life sentence to fixed period of 13 years. Fine and default sentence maintained. The accused be set free on completing 13 years of incarceration with remission.

19. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and order dated 10.10.2012, passed by the learned Sessions Judge, shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. Record be sent back to the Court below forthwith.

20. This Court is thankful to Sri Mohd. Kalim and Ms. Mary Puncha, learned counsel.

1. Heard Sri Ajay Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the appellants and learned A.G.A. for the State. Sri Lokesh Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the informant has absented himself.

2. This appeal challenges the judgment and order dated 5.8.2010 passed by Additional Sessions Judge Fast Track Court No.1, Meerut in Sessions Trial No. 735 of 1997 (State vs. Anees and others) convicting accused-appellants under Section 302/149 of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as 'IPC') and sentenced the accused-appellants to undergo imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.2,000/- each and in case of default of payment of fine, further to undergo imprisonment for a period of two years.

3. The five accused were alleged to have committed an offence, on 15.4.1997 when all of them pursuant to their common intention to do away with Ajeej s/o Ahmad Majeed, who had borrowed the sum of Rs.50,000/- from one Anees @ Gama. On 15.4.1997 at about 6:00 PM, when informant and his brother went the residence of Anees @ Gama for getting back the money. At that time, Anees @

Gama holding an iron rod, Nasreen also had an iron rod, Firoz was having a brick, Nafees had stick in his hand and Hafeez Khurshid, Ujer and Anees @ Gama tried to assault the persons and exalted that as the deceased and his brother were daily demanding money, they be done to death. A quarrel ensued between the parties. Anees @ Gama did away with Ajeej on F.I.R. being lodged, the prosecution was moved into motion and accused were alleged to have committed an offence under Section 147, 148 read with section 302 I.P.C.

4. On investigation being put into motion, the investigating officer recorded the statements of all the witnesses and submitted the charge-sheet to the learned Magistrate. The learned Magistrate summoned the accused and committed to them to Court of Sessions as prima facie charges were for offences under Sections 302 I.P.C.

5. On being summoned, the accused-persons pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried. The Trial started and the prosecution examined 6 witnesses who are as follows:

1	Mohd. Tahir	PW1
2	Summar Ahmad	PW2
3	Dr. N. Nathani	PW3
4	Dev Dutt Sharma	PW4
5	Sagir Ahmad	PW5
6	Ranvir Singh	PW6

6. In support of ocular version following documents were filed:

1	F.I.R.	Ex.Ka.3
2	Written Report	Ex.Ka.4
3	Recovery memo	Ex. Ka.6, 7, 8 & 16
4	Postmortem Report	Ex.Ka.2
5	Site Plan	Ex.Ka.9

7. After prosecution witness were over and the documents being exhibited, the accused-appellants examined D.W.-1 & 2 namely, Mohd. Yamin and Mohd. Nausad. At the end of the trial and after recording the statement of the accused under section 313 of Cr.P.C., and hearing arguments on behalf of prosecution and the defence, the learned Sessions Judge convicted the appellants as mentioned aforesaid.

8. The main assailant Anees @ Gama has passed away during the pendency of this appeal. The other co-accused, who is assigned the role and portrayed as Nasreen @ Naseem, Firoz and Uzair. The three accused, who have been assigned the role of doing away with the deceased, the accused have been tried for commission of offence under Section 302 read with section 149 I.P.C. and have been convicted for the same.

9. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that the alteration of charge, after the trial was over, could not have been framed and this is bad in the eye of law. In support of this submission he has relied on the decision of the Division Bench of this Court penned by one of us (Dr. K.J. Thaker) in Criminal Appeal No. 5657 of 2011 (Santosh vs. State of U.P.) decided on 22.2.2021. Charges could not have been re-framed so as to take it to the higher charge.

10. It is further submitted that the incident occurred at the spur of moment.

There is no premeditation between the accused to do away with the deceased. It was only after the deceased demanded the amount of Rs.50,000/- borrowed from him, which caused this incident to occur.

11. It is further submitted that conviction under Section 302 is not made out. In alternative, it is submitted that at the most, the death can be homicidal death not amounting to murder and punishable under Section 304 II or Section 304 I of I.P.C. If the Court decides that the accused is guilty, then the accused may be granted fixed term punishment of incarceration.

12. In support of his arguments, learned counsel for the appellant has relied on the decisions in Hardev Singh and another vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1975 SC 179, Zahoor & Others Vs. State of U.P., 2011 (15) SCC 218 and Kandhai & Others Vs. State of U.P., 2014 (0) Supreme (All) 2597, decisions of this Court in Criminal Appeal No.4722 of 2015 Ram Roop Vs. State of U.P., Smt. Rama Devi Vs. State of U.P., 2017 (0) Supreme (All) 2554, Bengai Mandal @ Begai Mandal vs. State of Bihar, 2010 (1) Supreme 49, Sampat Babso Kale and Anr. Vs. State of Maharashtra, 2019 0 Supreme (SC) 415, Dukhmochan Pandey vs. State of Bihar, 1997 LawSuit, (SC) 1219 & Jainul Haque v. State of Bihar, AIR 1974 SC 45, K. Ramachandra Reddy vs. Public Prosecutor, 1976 LawSuit (SC) 214, Sanjay Maurya vs. State of U.P., 2021 (0) Supreme (All) 132.

13. Learned counsel for the State has submitted that though role of surviving accused is not that of assailants, the punishment with the aid of Section 149 of IPC will not permit this Court to show any leniency in the matter. It is further submitted by learned A.G.A. that the decisions referred by counsel for the appellants will not apply to the facts of this case.

14. Considering the evidence of the witnesses and also considering the medical evidence including post mortem report, there is no doubt left in our mind about the guilt of the present appellants. The conviction under Section 302 I.P.C. is bad in the eye of law and the matter would fall within Section 304(I) of I.P.C.

15. However, the question which falls for our consideration is whether, on reappraisal of the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, the conviction of the appellant under Section 302 of I.P.C. of the Indian Penal Code should be upheld or the conviction deserves to be converted under Section 304 Part-I or Part-II of the Indian Penal Code. It would be relevant to refer Section 299 of the Indian Penal Code, which read as under:

"299. Culpable homicide: Whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing death, or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death, commits the offence of culpable homicide."

16. The academic distinction between "murder' and "culpable homicide not amounting to murder' has always vexed the Courts. The confusion is caused, if Courts losing sight of the true scope and meaning of the terms used by the legislature in these sections, allow themselves to be drawn into minute abstractions. The safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions seems to be to keep in focus the keywords used in the various clauses of Section 299 and 300 of I.P.Code. The following comparative table will be helpful in appreciating the points of distinction between the two offences.

Section 299	Section 300
A person commits culpable homicide if the act by which the death is caused is done-	Subject to certain exceptions culpable homicide is murder if the act by which the death is caused is done.
	INTENTION
(a) with the intention of causing death; or	(1) with the intention of causing death; or
(b) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death; or	(2) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused;
KNOWLEDGE	KNOWLEDGE
(c) with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death.	(4) with the knowledge that the act is so immediately dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as is mentioned above.

17. On overall scrutiny of the facts and circumstances of the present case coupled with the opinion of the Medical Officer and considering the principle laid down by the Apex Court in the Case of Tukaram and Ors Vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in (2011) 4 SCC 250 and in the case of B.N. Kavatakar and Another Vs. State of Karnataka, reported in 1994 SUPP (1) SCC 304, we are of the considered opinion that it was a case of homicidal death not amounting to murder.

18. From the upshot of the aforesaid discussions, it appears that the death caused by the accused was not premeditated, accused though had knowledge and intention to cause bodily harm to the deceased but did not want to do away with the deceased. Hence the instant case falls under the Exceptions 1 and 4 to Section 300 of IPC. While considering Section 299 as reproduced herein above offence committed will fall under Section 304 Part-I as per the observations of the Apex Court in Veeran and others Vs. State of M.P. Decided, (2011) 5 SCR 300 which have to be also kept in mind.

19. In latest decision in Khokan@ Khokhan (Supra) where the facts were similar to this case, the Apex Court has allowed the appeal of the accused appellant. The decision of the Apex Court in the case of Anversinh v. State of Gujarat, (2021) 3 SCC 12 which was related to kidnapping from legal guardian, wherein it was established that the Court while respecting the concerns of both society and victim, propounded that the twin principle of deterrence and correction would be served by reducing the period of incarceration already undergone by the accused. In our case, this is not that gruesome matter where the accused cannot be dealt with in light of all these judgments. Judgments in Pravat Chandra Mohanty v. State of Odisha, (2021) 3 SCC 529 & Pardeshiram v. State of M.P., (2021) 3 SCC 238 will also enure for the benefit of the accused.

20. The judgments cited by the learned counsel for the appellant and facts and evidence as sited above, would permit us to uphold our finding which we conclusively hold that the offence is not punishable as per Section 302 of I.P.C. but is culpable homicide not amounting to murder, punishable U/s 304 (Part I) of I.P.C.

21. We now come to the role of the accused-appellants. All the four accused-appellants were convicted for the offence punishable under Section 302 read with Section 149 of IPC.

22. On perusal of the record in the light of Section 149 of I.P.C., It cannot be said that there was common intention or object to do away with the deceased. There was no premeditation of minds as the F.I.R. itself states that the deceased had gone to the residence of the accused to demand his money and that infuriated the accused and non lethal weapon was used though a cartridge and a country made pistol has been recovered from the accused Anees @ Gama but while going through the record and while going through the post-mortem report, while going through the medical report it is very clear that fire arm is not used and the deceased did not receive any fire arm injury nor was a fire arm used, which shows that there was no intention of doing away with the deceased and the object was only to teach a lesson to the deceased. The deceased did not succumbed to the injuries on the spot, the informant @ brother of the deceased took him to the hospital and during treatment, he was declared dead. Therefore, the offence cannot be said to be one under which can be punished with the aid of Section 149 I.P.C.

23. The accused-appellants are convicted for culpable homicide not amounting to murder with punishment of sentence of ten years and fine of Rs.1,000/- each. If the fine is not paid, default sentence of three months, which would start after the tenth year of incarceration. The ten years of incarceration would be with remission.

24. The appeal is partly allowed. In view of the matter, the case would fall within Section 304-I I.P.C. Fine substituted to Rs.1,000/- each and if the fine is not paid, the default sentence would start after ten years of incarceration with remission. If the accused has served out their period, they released.

25. Record and proceedings be sent back to the Court below forthwith.

26. This Court is thankful to learned Advocates for ably assisting the Court.

Criminal Law- Indian Penal Code-1860-Sections 34 & 302-Deceased was attacked by a sword by one of the accused resulting death of the deceased-Conviction U/s 302 r/w section 34 IPC-When there was a sword being used the injuries could not be as wide as have been shown in the post mortem report. The first injury is of 7cm X 3cm which is a very wide injury and which could be caused only by an object which was not sharp-Definitely the injury of 12cm X 4cm also could not be caused by a sword which is a very sharp weapon-Injuries which are 7cm and 12cm in the length were there cannot be explained-St.ment of Ramdayal (prosecution's eyewitness) who was brother in law of the deceased in his cross-examination absolutely falsifies the case of the prosecution and in his cross-examination he had divulged the truth- No reason to believe that accused appellants had committed the crime-Appellants acquitted.

Appeal allowed. (E-15)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Siddhartha Varma, J. & Hon'ble Rajiv Joshi, J.)

1. A First Information Report was lodged by one Rampal on 24.05.1995 stating that the accused had gone to the house of Vidyasagar and had searched for him and thereafter one of them had hit him by a sword which had resulted in such an injury that Vidyasagar could not stand. The first informant resultantly had gone out to search for a vehicle to carry Vidyasagar to get medical aid. In the First Information Report, it was stated that Rampal along with Ramdayal had gone to Sherpur where the first informant and Ramdayal (Vidyasagar's brother-in-law (behnoi)) had met the Gram Pradhan and Ramavtar Kurmi and they had narrated to them about the incident.

2. The further case of the First Informant is that when the first informant and Ramdayal could not get any vehicle they went back to the house of Vidyasagar where it was found that he had died and, therefore, they approached the Police Station Katra, Sahjahanpur, to lodge a First Information Report. A chik FIR was prepared and handed over to the first informant. The police visited the spot and recovered the blood stained earth and plain earth. The police also recovered the cot on which Vidyasagar was sitting.

3. The police also prepared a spot map. Thereafter, a Panchayatnama was prepared and the body was sent for post mortem.

4. Upon the First Information Report being lodged which gave rise to Case Crime No. 90 of 1995, the police further investigated and took statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and, thereafter, submitted its charge-sheet on 23.06.1995. The Magistrate took cognizance of the matter and placed the case for trial before the Sessions Judge, who on 31.10.1996 framed charges against Baikunthnath, Dharamvir, Totaram and Ram Ashrey @ Nanhika. At the trial stage, the prosecution produced seven prosecution witnesses. The accused persons gave their statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and thereafter when the trial concluded and resulted in a conviction against the alive accused persons, namely, Ram Asre @ Nanhika and Dharamvir, under Section 302 IPC read with Section 34 IPC, the instant appeal was filed.

5. Before the High Court in Appeal, Shri Apul Mishra, learned counsel for the appellants has, therefore, argued that;

I. On the date and time when Vidyasagar was attacked it was 07:30 pm in the evening of 24.05.1995. Thereafter the First Information Report was lodged on 11:05 pm by P.W.-1 Rampal and, therefore, it was a very belated FIR.

II. Learned counsel for the appellants has further argued that, in fact, Rampal was an illiterate person and, therefore, he had tried to get the assistance of Ramdayal and, therefore, he had waited for Ramdayal to come to the village of the deceased from where he was residing and that took some time.

III. The FIR version given by Rampal was very different from the version of the other eye-witnesses namely, PW-2 and PW-3 who have actually assigned the role of assailing by sword to the appellant Ram Ashrey.

IV. Learned counsel for the appellants states that when Rampal was accompanied by Ramdayal to village Sherpur where they had gone to fetch a vehicle then Ramdayal must have told that who had hit the deceased by sword yet he had chosen to narrate that it was not clear as to who had hit the deceased by sword while he was lodging the First Information Report. Learned counsel for the appellants states that definitely Ramdayal knew the name of Ram Ashrey as he has through out mentioned the name in his statement in the Court.

V. Learned counsel for the appellants stated that Ramavtar whom the PW-1 and PW-3 met for the purposes of getting vehicle was never produced in the Court as witnesses.

VI. While in the FIR it was stated that Urmila the sister of the deceased was present as an eye witness at the time of the incident, she was never produced as an eye witness in the Court.

VII. The sword is a large thing which could have been recovered from either the possession of the assailants or it could have been found lying at the place of incident but the sword had never been discovered.

VIII. The motive which the prosecution has attributed for the killing of Vidhyasagar that Vidhyasagar, who was a mason, had refused to work as mason for Totaram, Baikhund Nath, Ramashrey and Dharamvir could not be believed.

IX. Learned counsel for the appellants had argued that even if the case of killing was proved, it could not be said that it was a culpable homicide amounting to murder and, therefore, the accused could not have been punished for murder.

To support his argument, learned counsel for the appellants has stated that it appears that there was a heated altercation between Baikhund Nath and Vidhyasagar and, therefore, just to conclude the argument, the four assailants had gone and in the heat of the moment the sword was used.

X. Learned counsel for the appellants states that injuries on the body of deceased were not such which could be attributed to a sword.

XI. Learned counsel for the appellants states that Ram Dayal had stated in his examination-in-chief that Ram Ashrey had inserted the sword in the body of Vidhya Sagar and this version, he says, did not match with the injury report.

XII. Learned counsel for the appellants states that if the cross-examination of P.W. -3, namely, Ram Dayal, who was the brother-in-law of the deceased, is seen then it could easily be said that the story which was told by the first informant at the time of lodging of the first information report was absolutely a fallacious one as the P.W.-3 had stated that he had come to his in-laws place in the afternoon where he had met Vidhyasagar. Vidhyasagar had entertained the P.W.-3 and, throughout, Vidhyasagar was present with him. He further states that Vidhyasagar never went out of the house. He further states that Vidhyasagar had, till the evening when he died, remained at home. He does not corroborate the story that Vidhyasagar had gone and had verbal altercation with Baikuntnath. He also does not support the story that he was the one who had brought Vidhyasagar back from the place of verbal altercation and, therefore, learned counsel for the appellants states the whole story that Ram Dayal had brought Vidhyasagar from the location where the verbal altercation had taken place with Baikuntnath and Vidhyasagar is falsified.

6. Learned counsel for the appellants, therefore, states that this statement of Ramdayal absolutely falsifies the case of the prosecution. He states that there was no verbal altercation and Vidyasagar was not brought by Ramdayal and also there was no premeditation with regard to the commission of crime between the four accused.

7. At the time of the trial seven prosecution witnesses were examined. PW-1 was the first informant. He had narrated the story that Baikunthnath and Vidyasagar had verbal altercation, thereafter, Ramdayal the brother-in-law (Behnoi) of Vidyasagar had brought Vidyasagar back to his house. Subsequently, at 07:30 pm Baikunthnath and Totaram came in from the southern side of the house where Vidyasagar was residing and Dharamvir and Ram Ashrey came to the house from the eastern side of the house of Vidyasagar where Vidyasagar was sitting in the cot. He states that four of them had surrounded Vidyasagar and Vidyasagar tried to stand up but Baikunthnath, Totaram and Dharamvir held Vidyasagar from the back and thereafter he nowhere says that he had not seen as to who had actually assailed Vidyasagar with sword and, thereafter, he states that the four of them had run away from the eastern side.

8. PW-1 further states that he had gone to arrange for the vehicle for taking Vidyasagar for medical treatment but could not get any vehicle and, therefore, he come back to the village where he found that Vidyasagar had died. He, therefore, had proved the FIR.

9. The prosecution witness no. 2 Smt. Kalavati was the mother of the deceased. She had tried to give a motive for the murder and she had said that Vidyasagar was a mason. He had, before he died, worked as a mason in the house of the accused persons. The accused persons were not giving wages to the deceased and, therefore, Vidyasagar had refused to work and when he refused to work at the house of the accused, the accused had killed Vidyasagar. She also tells the same story as was told by PW-1 with regard to the fact as to how the assailants entered in the house and had killed Vidyasagar with a sword.

q10. PW-3 Ramdayal who is the brother-in-law (behnoi) of Vidyasagar in his cross-examination in chief stated that at around 07:00 pm, he had gone to the crossing where Vidyasagar and Baikunthnath were having altercation and had brought Vidyasagar back to his home and at around 07:30 pm accused persons had come and had killed Vidyasagar. However, as has been pointed out by the counsel for the appellants that in the cross-examination, the PW-3 had given an absolutely different statement which is being reproduced here as under:

"जिस समय लाश सील की गई तो उस समय रात्रि थी। घटना वाले दिन मै दोपहर को अपनी ससुराल में आ गया था। विद्यासागर मिले थे। खिलाया पिलाया, बातचीत की। विद्यासागर ने मेरे साथ खाना नहीं खाया। रोटी खाई थी। मैंने जब खाना खाया तो विद्यासागर मौजूद था। मुझे नहीं ध्यान की विद्याराम मेरे पास कितनी देर रहा। घर से कही नहीं गया। शाम को उसकी मृत्यु हो गई। मैंने दस मिनट खाना खाया। विद्यासागर घर में रहा। शाम तक घर पर रहा। शाम को घटना हो गई।

11. PW-4 was the doctor who had conducted the post mortem. PW-5 was the Sub-Inspector, Jagbeer Singh Tomar who had done the initial investigation. PW-6 was the Sub-Inspector who had further conducted the investigation and the PW-7 was also an Investigating Officer.

12. The doctor, PW-4 had given a medical report which was proved by him and the report was never challenged by any of the prosecution in which he had given the following injuries:

i. At the left shoulder on the back side there were injuries by a sharp weapon within an area 15cm X 12cm. He had stated that on the back of the left shoulder there were three injuries:

1. 3cm X 7cm.
2. Small injury 1.5cm X 1cm deep.
3. 12cm X 4cm deep till the bone.

13. Further it was found that at the time of post mortem, the bone had fractured and the ribs were also fractured.

14. Under Section 313 Cr.P.C. the defence had denied having committed the crime.

15. Learned A.G.A. opposed the appeal and stated that when there were eye witnesses, there was no reason to come to any other conclusion which had been arrived by the trial Court.

16. Having heard learned counsel for the appellants, Shri Apul Mishra and one learned A.G.A., Shri S.N. Mishra, we are of the view that the appeal deserves to be allowed.

17. We have closely scrutinised the evidence on record and the statements made by the witnesses. The sword was never discovered; a very important witness i.e. the sister of the deceased Smt. Urmila who was also the wife of Ramdayal never came to the witness box; there was definitely a great delay in the FIR. All these were such arguments from the side of the appellants which could be said that they could be interpreted both in favour of the accused and also against them. However, the arguments which would be analysed henceforth would make any person of prudence come to the only conclusion that the appellants were innocent. Firstly, when there was a sword being used the injuries could not be as wide as have been shown in the post mortem report. The first injury is of 7cm X 3cm. It is a very wide injury which could be caused only by an object which was not sharp. Definitely the injury of 12cm X 4cm also could not be caused by a sword which is a very sharp weapon.

18. Still further if the statement of Ramdayal is perused, we find that he states that assailants including Ram Ashrey had inserted the sword. He uses the word "ghop' which means stabbing. That would mean that the sword is directly inserted in the body from the sharp end of the sword. How then the injuries which are 7cm and 12cm in the length were there cannot be explained.

19. Further the statement of Ramdayal in his cross-examination absolutely falsifies the case of the prosecution. Throughout the prosecution he has said that Ramdayal is the person who had gone to fetch Vidyasagar, the deceased, from the place where he had entered into a verbal altercation with Baikunthnath but in his cross-examination Ramdayal had given out a different picture and which was that when Ramdayal had come to his in-laws house in the afternoon and from that time and till the time vidyasagar was killed, Vidhyasagar never moved out of the house. Ram Dayal is the prosecution's eyewitness. Also this witness cannot be disbelieved as he is not related by blood and therefore while he was giving this statement in his cross-examination he had divulged the truth.

20. Under such circumstances, we have no reason to believe that Dharamvir and Ram Ashrey had committed the crime and, therefore, we are of the view that the Appeal deserves to be allowed and Ram Ashrey and Dharamvir deserve to be acquitted.

21. Since Totaram and Baikunthnath had died during the Trial and the Trial had abated vis-a-vis them, there is no requirement to give any verdict with regard to their roles.

22. The Appeal is allowed. The appellants are acquitted.

23. The appellants if are not wanted in any other case may be released.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rajiv Lochan Shukla, learned counsel assisted by Sri Neeraj Kumar Sharma, Sri Shanda Prasad Mishra, learned counsels for appellant, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The record is before this Court hence instead of deciding application for release on bail we venture to decide the main appeal as appellant is in fact since 15.07.2017 and is an aged lady.

3. This appeal challenges the judgment and order dated 12.09.2018 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.5, Ghaziabad in Sessions Trial No.07 of 2018 convicting accused-appellant under Sections 498A & 304B of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as 'IPC') and Section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Masoori, District Ghaziabad alternate charge under Section 302 IPC read with Section 34 IPC and sentenced the accused to undergo imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.20,000/- under Section 302 of I.P.C. and half of the amount of the total fine has to be paid to Munni, the mother of the deceased.

4. Factual scenario as culled out from the record and the judgment of the Court below is that the complainant lodged a complaint that his daughter was married with Sumit alias Bholu. After she went to matrimonial home, she was being harassed for dowry. The family members of the accused and accused demanded motorcycle and Rs.50,000/-. Incident occurred on 29.04.2017, she was set ablaze by pouring kerosene on her in which, she suffered grievous injuries and she was sent to Safdarganj Hospital, Delhi for further treatment where she died on 06.05.2017. The complainant lodged the complaint on 30.04.2017.

5. Investigation was moved into motion. After recording statements of various persons, the investigating officer submitted the charge-sheet against accused under 498A & 304 B of I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (in short 'D.P. Act'). The learned Chief Judicial Magistrate before whom charge sheet was laid put the same before the learned Sessions Judge. The learned Sessions Judge, on hearing the learned Government Advocate and learned counsel for the accused, framed charges under Section 498A, 304B, 302/34 of I.P.C. & Section 4 of D.P. Act.

6. On being summoned, the accused pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried, hence, the trial started and the prosecution examined 9 witnesses who are as follows:

1	Rama	PW1
2	Keshpal	PW2
3	Munni	PW3
4	Kuldeep	PW4
5	Esha	PW5
6	Dr. Vedant Kulshrestha	PW6
7	Ravindra Kumar Singh	PW7
8	Atar Singh	PW8
9	Pawan Kumar	PW9
10	Jogendra	PW10
11	Ishwar Singh	PW11
12	Aatish Kumar Singh	PW12
13	Danish Alam	PW13
14	Rajkumar Pandey	PW 14
15	Ravindra Yadav	PW15

7. In support of ocular version following documents were filed:

1	F.I.R.	Ex.Ka.7
2	Written Report	Ex.Ka.1
3	Statement of Gunjan	Ex. Ka.3
4	Medico-Legal Report	Ex.Kha.1
5	Postmortem report & Death Report	Ex.Ka.2
6	Death summary	Ex.Kha.2
7	Final Form/Report	Ex.Ka.8

8. At the end of the trial and after recording the statement of the accused under section 313 of Cr.P.C., and hearing arguments on behalf of prosecution and the defence, the learned Sessions Judge convicted the appellants as mentioned aforesaid.

9. It is submitted by learned counsel for accused-appellant that the accused is in jail since 15.07.2017.

10. Learned counsel for the appellant has vehemently submitted that dying declaration is not worth believing. It is submitted that it is an admitted position of fact that deceased died out of septicemia after seven days of incident.

11. It is further submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that most of the witnesses have turned hostile (thereby have not supported the prosecution) despite that, learned Sessions Judge has convicted accused/appellant for commission of offence under Section 302 of I.P.C.

12. In support of the his submission, learned counsel for the appellant has relied on (i) Sohan Lal alias Sohan Singh and others v. State of Punjab, AIR 2003 SC 4466; (ii) Panchdeo Singh v. State of Bihar, AIR 2002 SC 526; (iii) Kanti Lal v. State of Rajasthan, (2009) 12 SCC 498; (iv) Krishna Chandra v. The State of U.P., 1996 Crl. LJ 1507; (v) AIR 2008 SC 426, Sher Singh v. State of Punjab, so as to contend that the dying declaration has being wrongly relied by court below so as to convict the accused who is innocent.

13. In alternative, it is submitted that if this court concerns with the trial court that it was accused who was author of the offence at the most punishment can be under Section 304 II or Section 304 I of I.P.C as the deceased died after few days. If the Court feels, as the accused has been in jail for more than 5 years without remission, she may be granted fixed term punishment of incarceration. It is submitted that accused had no intention to do away with the deceased.

14. Learned A.G.A. for the state has vehemently submitted that facts of this case will not permit the Court to convert the sentence to that under Section 304 Part I of I.P.C. as none of the judgments relied by the accused-appellant will apply to the facts of this case as the accused is proved to have committed the offence.

15. Considering the evidence of the witnesses and also considering the medical evidence including post mortem report, there is no doubt left in our mind that it was homicidal death. The question whether it was accused who was perpetrator. The dying declaration of deceased corroborates with medical evidence Section 32 of Evidence Act for believing dying declaration that it was accused who was guilty of committing the offence.

16. However, the question which falls for our consideration is whether, on reappraisal of the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, the conviction of the appellant under Section 302 of I.P.C. of the Indian Penal Code should be upheld or the conviction deserves to be converted under Section 304 Part-I or Part-II of the Indian Penal Code. It would be relevant to refer Section 299 of the Indian Penal Code, which read as under:

"299. Culpable homicide: Whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing death, or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death, commits the offence of culpable homicide."

17. The academic distinction between "murder' and "culpable homicide not amounting to murder' has always vexed the Courts. The confusion is caused, if Courts losing sight of the true scope and meaning of the terms used by the legislature in these sections, allow themselves to be drawn into minute abstractions. The safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions seems to be to keep in focus the keywords used in the various clauses of Section 299 and 300 of I.P.Code. The following comparative table will be helpful in appreciating the points of distinction between the two offences.

Section 299	Section 300
A person commits culpable homicide if the	Subject to certain exceptions culpable homicide is murder is the act by which the death is

act by which the death is caused is done-	caused is done.
INTENTION
(a) with the intention of causing death; or	(1) with the intention of causing death; or
(b) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death; or	(2) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused;
KNOWLEDGE	KNOWLEDGE
(c) with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death.	(4) with the knowledge that the act is so immediately dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as is mentioned above.

18. On overall scrutiny of the facts and circumstances of the present case coupled with the opinion of the Medical Officer and considering the principle laid down by the Apex Court in the Case of Tukaram and Ors Vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in (2011) 4 SCC 250 and in the case of B.N. Kavatakar and Another Vs. State of Karnataka, reported in 1994 SUPP (1) SCC 304, we are of the considered opinion that the offence would be one punishable under Section 304 part-I of the IPC.

19. From the upshot of the aforesaid discussions, it appears that the death caused by the accused was not premeditated, accused had no intention to cause death of deceased, the injuries were though sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to have caused death, accused had no intention to do away with deceased, hence the instant case falls under the Exceptions 1 and 4 to Section 300 of IPC. While considering Section 299 as reproduced herein above offence committed will fall under Section 304 Part-I as per the observations of the Apex Court in Veeran and others Vs. State of M.P. Decided, (2011) 5 SCR 300 which have to be also kept in mind.

20. In latest decision in Khokan@ Khokhan (Supra) where the facts were similar to this case, the Apex Court has allowed the appeal of the accused appellant. The decision of the Apex Court in the case of Anversinh v. State of Gujarat, (2021) 3 SCC 12 which was related to kidnapping from legal guardian, wherein it was established that the Court while respecting the concerns of both society and victim, propounded that the twin principle of deterrence and correction would be served by reducing the period of incarceration already undergone by the accused. In our case, this is not that gruesome matter where the accused cannot be dealt with in light of all these judgments. Judgments in Pravat Chandra Mohanty v. State of Odisha, (2021) 3 SCC 529 & Pardeshiram v. State of M.P., (2021) 3 SCC 238 will also enure for the benefit of the accused.

21. All others judgments which were pressed into service by the learned counsel for the appellant are not discussed as that would be repetition of what we have decided.

22. In Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, [AIR 1977 SC 1926], explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

23. 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP [(2004) 7 SCC 257] by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

24. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532], Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734], Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323], State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, [(2015) 3 SCC 441], and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463] and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

25. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

26. As discussed above, 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is very harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Apex Court, as discussed above, has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformative approach underlying in criminal justice system.

27. We come to the definite conclusion that the death was due to septicemia. The judgments cited by the learned counsel for the appellant would permit us to uphold our finding which we conclusively hold that the offence is not under Section 302 of I.P.C. but is culpable homicide and, therefore, we convict accused under Section 304(II) IPC and sentence of the accused appellant is reduced to the period already undergone till date.

28. Appeal is partly allowed. Record and proceedings be sent back to the Court below forthwith.

29. This Court is thankful to learned Advocates for ably assisting the Court.

As these appeals arise out of judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 19.11.2011 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge (Ex Cadre), Court No. 23, Allahabad in Sessions Trial No. 18 of 2001 (State Vs. Kallu and others) arising out of Crime No. 88 of 1999 Police Station- Lalapur, District- Allahabad, convicting accused-appellants Kallu, Sushil and Rajjan and sentencing each of them under Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC to undergo imprisonment for life and a fine of Rs. 10,000/- with default stipulation, they are being disposed of by this common order.

2. According to prosecution case, informant, Nankau, son of Chhedi Lal Mishra, resident of Othagitarhaar, Police Station- Lalapur, District- Allahabad, submitted written report (Ext.Ka.1) on 07.11.1999 in Police Station- Lalapur, stating that on 07.11.1999 at 11.00 a.m., accused-appellants Kallu, Sushil and Rajjan, sons of Sangam Lal came to forcibly cut clump of bamboo trees (banskot) of the informant situated at village- Ashwanipur Mazra Goisara of the informant. When they were forbidden by Chhedi Lal from cutting the clump of bamboo trees (banskot), they started beating his father by sickle (hasiya) and lathis. On hue and cry being raised, the brothers of informant, Shivakant and Dayakant, came to save him, then accused also assaulted them by lathi causing severe injury to them. Accused, Rajjan, with the intention of causing death, assaulted his father on his head and back of body causing grievous injury to him. On the basis of the written report of the informant, FIR (Ext.Ka.6) was lodged in P.S.- Lalapur as Crime No. 88 of 1998 under Section 307 of IPC against accused-appellants Kallu, Sushil and Rajjan on 07.11.1999 at 11.30 o'clock. While undergoing medical treatment, injured Chhedi Lal Mishra died on 07.11.1999 at 13.00 o'clock and the case was converted to one under Section 302 of IPC. The investigation of the case was done by P.W.4 S.I. Prem Kumar Yadav. He visited the place of occurrence and on the pointing out of informant, prepared site plan thereof (Ext.Ka.2). He collected blood-stained and plain earth from the place of occurrence and kept in container and sealed the collection. The recovery memo regarding collection of plain and blood-stained earth was prepared which is (Ext.Ka.3). Accused-appellants Kallu, Sushil and Rajjan were arrested and on their pointing out, the weapons of offence, 2 lathis and 1 sickle (hasiya) were recovered from the courtyard of the house of the accused-appellants. These recovered articles were wrapped in cloth and sealed. The recovery memo thereof (Ext.Ka.4) was prepared.

3. The inquest proceedings of the dead body of Chhedi Lal Mishra was conducted on 07.11.1999 at 15.00 o'clock in the supervision of HCP Ramhit Verma. The inquest report is (Ext.Ka.11).

4. The postmortem of the dead body of deceased Chhedi Lal Mishra was done by P.W.6 Dr. Mohd. Farukh, who was posted as Medical Officer in Moti Lal Nehru District Hospital, on 08.11.1999 at 2.00 p.m.. According to the postmortem report (Ext.Ka.10), following antemortem injuries were found on the body of the deceased :-

(i) one triangular incised wound of size 15 cm x 6 cm cavity deep on the back side of head which was situated 14 cm away from the right ear.

(ii) An incised wound of size 6 cm x 1/2 cm muscle deep situated on the right temporal region of the head.

(iii) An incised wound of size 3 cm x 1 cm muscle deep situated on right buttock.

(iv) An incised wound of size 2 cm x 1 cm muscle deep situated at lower right side of the back.

(v) An incised wound of size 5 cm x 1 1/2 cm muscle deep situated on the lower side of the back.

(vi) An incised wound of size 2 cm x 1 cm muscle deep situated on behind the back between both scapula.

5. External examination :- There were fractures in the back side and right side of the skull of the head. The membrane of brain was congested. The brain cavity was found cut. There was no blood in the heart or the lungs.

6. In the opinion of the Medical Officer, death was caused due to trauma and haemorrhage by antemortem injuries.

7. The Investigating Officer, (P.W.4) S.I. Prem Kumar Yadav recorded the statement of witnesses of fact and formal witnesses under Section 161 CrPC in the case diary and after investigation, submitted charge-sheet under Section 302 IPC against accused-appellants Kallu, Sushil and Rajjan.

8. On 22.02.2001, learned trial Judge framed charge under Section 307/34 and 302/34 IPC against the accused-appellants. The accused denied the charge and claimed trial.

9. The prosecution examined (P.W.1) Shivakant, (P.W.2) Dayakant and (P.W.3) Nankau as witnesses of fact. The prosecution also examined Investigating Officer, S.I. Prem Kumar Yadav (P.W.4), Constable Bade Lal at P.S. Lalapur (P.W.5), Dr. Mohd. Farrukh, who conducted postmortem of deceased Chhedi Lal Mishra

(P.W.6) and Constable Abhinav Tiwari (P.W.7).

10. (P.W.1) Shivakant and (P.W.2) Dayakant turned hostile and did not support the prosecution case. The eyewitness (P.W.3) Nankau proved written report (Ext.Ka.1). He deposed in support of the charge framed against the accused-appellants.

11. The Investigating Officer (P.W.4) S.I. Prem Kumar Yadav by his evidence proved, site plan of the place of occurrence (Ext.Ka.2), recovery memo regarding plain and blood-stained mud collected from the place of occurrence (Ext.Ka.3), memo relating to recovery of weapon of offence, two lathis and sickle (hasiya) on the pointing out of accused Kallu, Sushil and Rajjan respectively (Ext.Ka.4). He also proved, by his evidence, blood-stained mud, (material Ext.1), plain mud (material Ext.2), weapon of offence Hasiya (material Ext.3) and charge-sheet sent against accused Kallu, Sushil and Rajjan (Ext.Ka 5). (P.W.5) Constable Clerk Bade Lal proved chik FIR of Crime No. 88/1999 under Section 307 IPC (Ext.Ka.6), the copy of G.D. Report No. 9, dated 07.11.1999, at 11.30 o'clock regarding institution of aforesaid case crime number (Ext.Ka.7), the report sent from the office of HCP Allahabad regarding the destruction of original G.D. (Ext.Ka. 8), carbon copy of G.D. Report No. 11, dated 07.11.1999, at 13.00 o'clock regarding conversion of Crime No. 88 of 1999 into Section 302 IPC (Ext.Ka.8) after the death of deceased Chhedi Lal Mishra. Dr. Mohd. Farrukh (P.W.6), the Medical Officer, conducting postmortem of deceased Chhedi Lal Mishra, proved his postmortem report as (Ext.Ka.10).

12. Since HCP Ramhit Verma, who had conduced inquest proceedings of Chhedi Lal Mishra had died, P.W.7 Constable Abhinav Tiwari who had worked with the aforesaid HCP and was familiar with his handwriting and signature, proved the inquest report as (Ext.Ka.11) and other police papers relating to postmortem of deceased Chhedi Lal Mishra i.e. (Ext.Ka.12) to (Ext.Ka.16), which were prepared by late HCP Ramhit Verma.

13. On 14.08.2007, the trial Judge recorded statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. of accused-appellants Kallu, Sushil and Rajjan. They stated that false case was registered and the witnesses gave false evidence. Accused-appellant, Sushil Kumar stated in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that on 07.11.1999 at 11.00 o'clock, he and his two brothers, namely, Kallu and Rajjan were cutting the clump of bamboo trees (banskot) in their Field No. 573/574 situated at village- Ashwanipur Mazra Goisara. Chhedi Lal and his sons Shivakant, Babu Yadav and Lallan arrived there and started abusing them. They caused fatal injuries by assaulting with lathi and danda. In the exercise of right of private defence, the accused-appellants also assaulted them with lathi, danda in which, Chhedi Lal sustained injury. The informant and his party members fired on the accused-appellants by a country-made pistol (katta). Their medical examination was done by the Medical Officer through the police.

14. By the impugned judgment and order dated 18.11.2011, the trial Judge acquitted the accused-appellants under Section 307 read with Section 34 IPC and convicted them under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and sentenced them, as aforesaid.

15. It has been argued on behalf of the accused-appellants that two witnesses of fact (P.W.1) and (P.W.2) turned hostile and did not support the prosecution case. The statement of evidence of (P.W.3) Nankau has several contradictions and is not reliable. Thus, the conviction cannot be based on the single testimony of (P.W.3) Nankau. It has also been argued on behalf of the accused-appellants that they were cutting clump of bamboo trees (banskot) of their ownership. Deceased Chhedi Lal Mishra and his sons Shivakant, Dayakant and Nankau tried to prevent them from cutting the clump of bamboo trees (banskot) and attacked them in the course of which injuries were caused to the accused-appellants. In exercise of their legitimate right of private defence, the accused-appellants attacked deceased Chhedi Lal Mishra and his sons to repel them during which some injuries have been caused to Chhedi Lal Mishra resulting his death for which the accused-appellants could not be made liable.

16. It has been argued on behalf of the State that there is cogent, reliable and convincing evidence of (P.W.3) Nankau, which has not shaken during the prolonged and detailed cross-examination done on behalf of the accused-appellants. The evidence of P.W.1 has been corroborated by the confessional statement of accused-appellants and recovery of weapon of offence on the pointing out of the aforesaid accused-appellants.

17. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the entire lower court record.

18. The definition of the offence punishable under Section 302 of IPC is given in Section 300 IPC which is as follows:-

300. Murder.--Except in the cases hereinafter excepted, culpable homicide is murder, if the act by which the death is caused is done with the intention of causing death, or--

2ndly.--If it is done with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused, or-- .

3rdly.--If it is done with the intention of causing bodily injury to any person and the bodily injury intended to be inflicted is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, or--

4thly.--If the person committing the act knows that it is so imminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause death, or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and commits such act without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as aforesaid.

19. In Section 300 IPC, above four exceptions are given. If the act committed, comes under the gamut of any of these exceptions, accused shall not be punished for murder under Section 302 I.P.C., but for having committed culpable homicide not amounting to murder punishable under Section 304 I.P.C. The accused-appellants have claimed that they inflicted injury on Nankau and his companions in exercise of their right of private defence. The provision relating to right of private defence of person or property with reference to committing the murder of the attacker is given in Exception 2 of Section 300 IPC which is as follows:-

Exception 2.--Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender in the exercise in good faith of the right of private defence of person or property, exceeds the power given to him by law and causes the death of the person against whom he is exercising such right of defence without premeditation, and without any intention of doing more harm than is necessary for the purpose of such defence.

20. In the case of "Dhirendra Kumar Vs. State of Uttarakhand, 2015 SCC Online SC 163," the Supreme Court has laid down the parameters, which are to be taken into consideration, while deciding the question as to whether the case falls under Section 302 I.P.C. or Section 304 I.P.C. which are as follows :-

(a) the circumstances under which the incident took place;

(b) nature of weapons used;

(c) whether the weapon was carried or was taken from the spot;

(d) whether the assault was made on vital parts of the body;

(e) the amount of force used;

(f) whether the deceased participated in the sudden fight;

(g) whether there was any previous enmity;

(h) whether there was any sudden provocation;

(i) whether the attack was in the heat of passion; and

(j) whether the person inflicted injury or took undue advantage or acted in cruel or unconscious manner.

21. From the analysis of the oral as well as documentary evidence produced by the prosecution, it has to be seen whether charge under Section 302 read with Section 34 I.P.C. is proved against the appellants.

22. (P.W.1) Shivakant, who is son of deceased Chhedi Lal, has fully denied that in pursuance of common intention of all, accused-appellants Kallu, Sushil and Rajjan inflicted fatal injury on deceased Chhedi Lal by assaulting him with lathis and sickle (hasiya) causing his death. He has stated that he was not present at the place of occurrence and that he does not know who caused injury to Chhedi Lal due to which he died. He further stated in his evidence that on 07.11.1999 at 5.00 a.m. in the morning, when there was slight darkness, his father who was expert in the use of lathi had gone to the orchard for exercise as well as for training others.

23. (P.W.1) Shivakant stated that Nankau and Dayakant are his real brothers. They did not receive any injury in the incident. (P.W.1) Shivakant stated that accused-appellants are sons of his father's sister (bua). He had no enmity with the accused-appellants. There was no dispute regarding the clump of bamboo trees (banskot) with them. (P.W.1) Shivakant has denied that since the accused-appellants are sons of his father's sister (bua), they have compromised the matter and out of their fear, he is giving false evidence to protect them from punishment.

24. (P.W.2) Dayakant has given identical evidence as that of (P.W.1) Shivakant in his deposition.

25. The son of the deceased (P.W.3) Nankau has stated in his evidence that the occurrence took place on 07.11.1999. He was present at the place of occurrence. Accused-appellants, Kallu, Sushil and Rajjan were cutting his clump of bamboo trees (banskot). His father, Chhedi Lal forbid them from cutting it. Then, accused-appellants started beating his father by lathi, danda and sickle (hasiya). On hue and cry being raised by his father, he and his brothers, Shivakant and Dayakant went to save his father from being assaulted by accused-appellants. He and his brothers, Shivakant and Dayakant were also beaten by lathi and danda by the accused-appellants. He further deposed that his father received injury on back of his head. Accused-appellant, Rajjan, with an intention of causing death, has assaulted his father by sickle (hasiya) and other appellants assaulted him with lathi. After the incident, he lodged FIR in the concerned police station by submitting written report (Ext.Ka.1).

(P.W.3) Nankau has stated in his cross-examination that the clump of bamboo trees (banskot) is situated about one kilometre away from his house. The marpeet took place about fifty steps away in the west direction from the clump of bamboo trees (banskot). He admitted that during the course of marpeet, he has witnessed injury in the body of accused-appellant, Sushil from which blood was oozing and there was no injury on the body of other two accused. He stated that, at the time of occurrence, he was present in his adjoining agricultural land. The marpeet lasted for 10 minutes. After the incident, he wrote a written report. He went to the concerned police station. He proves the written report (Ext.Ka.1).

In his cross-examination, he deposed that the clump of bamboo trees (banskot) is of his ownership and that of his family. He denied that the clump of bamboo trees (banskot) is situated in the agricultural land of the accused-appellants. He has emphatically denied that accused-appellants, Kallu, Sushil and Rajjan were cutting their own clump of bamboo trees (banskot). He also denied that when accused-appellant did not stop cutting the clump of bamboo trees (banskot) then his father Chhedi Lal and brothers, Shivakant and Dayakant, had beaten the accused-appellants with lathi and danda. He also denied that his father Chhedi Lal had fired with firearms. P.W.3 has expressed his ignorance that the number of the plot on which the quarrel took place is 573/574. He has also expressed his ignorance that he does not know whether the clump of bamboo trees (banskot) is situated in Plot No. 573/574. He denied that he was not present at the time of occurrence. He has also denied that when Chhedi Lal and his brothers, Shivakant and Dayakant were beating the accused-appellants, they assaulted in their right of private defence in the course of which his father Chhedi Lal received injuries. (P.W.3) Nankau has deposed in his evidence that when his father prevented the accused from cutting his clump of bamboo trees (banskot), then accused-appellants, Rajjan armed with sickle (hasiya), Sushil and Kallu, armed with lathi and danda respectively assaulted his father and caused fatal injuries to him. He has also deposed that when P.W.3 Nankau and his brothers, (P.W.1) Shivakant and (P.W.2) Dayakant, reached there, accused-appellants, Kallu and Sushil assaulted them with lathi, danda causing injuries to them. According to postmortem report (Ext.Ka.10) of deceased Chhedi Lal, incised wounds are found on temporal region of head, back of head, right buttock, lower side of back and behind the back between both scapula. Incised wounds can only be caused by attack with sickle (hasiya), and it cannot be caused by lathi, danda. Although (P.W.3) Nankau has deposed that accused, Sushil and Kallu, assaulted Shivakant and Dayakant with lathi, danda causing them injuries, but Shivakant and Dayakant have stated that they were not assaulted by the accused in the alleged occurrence. They have also stated that they did not receive any injury caused by the accused-appellants in the incident. There is no visible injury caused by lathi and danda on the person of deceased Chhedi Lal or P.W.1 Shivakant and P.W.2 Dayakant.

26. The law relating to vicarious liability u/s 34 I.P.C. has been settled by the Apex Court. The Supreme Court in Suresh and Another Vs. State of U.P., (2001) 3 Supreme Court Cases 673, has held as under :

"The special feature of Section 34 is only that such participation by several persons should be "in furtherance of the common intention of all". Hence, under Section 34 one criminal act, composed of more than one act, can be committed by more than one persons and if such commission is in furtherance of the common intention of all of them, each would be liable for the criminal act so committed. Section 34 is intended to meet a situation wherein all the co-accused have also done something to constitute the commission of a criminal act. Thus to attract Section 34 I.P.C. two postulates are indispensable : (1) the criminal act (consisting of a series of acts) should have been done, not by one person, but more than one person. (2) Doing of every such individual act cumulatively resulting in the commission of criminal offence should have been in furtherance of the common intention of all such persons. Looking at the first postulate pointed out above, the accused who is to be fastened with liability on the strength of Section 34 I.P.C. should have done some act which has a nexus with the offence. Such an act need not be very substantial, it is enough that the act is only for guarding the scene for facilitating the crime. The act need not necessarily be overt, even if it is only a covert act it is enough, provided such a covert act is proved to have been done by the co-accused in furtherance of the common intention. Even an illegal omission to do a certain act in a certain situation can amount to an act. But an act, whether overt or covert, is indispensable to be done by a co-accused to be fastened with the liability under the section and if no such act is done by a person, even if he has common intention with the others for the accomplishment of the crime, Section 34 I.P.C. cannot be invoked for convicting that person. In other words, the accused who only keeps the common intention in his mind, but does not do any act at the scene, cannot be convicted with the aid of Section 34 I.P.C. There may be other provisions in the I.P.C. like Section 120-B or Section 109 which could then be invoked to catch such non-participating accused. Thus, participation in the crime in furtherance of the common intention is a sine qua non for Section 34 I.P.C. Exhortation to other accused, even guarding the scene etc. would amount to participation. Of course, when the allegation against an accused is that he participated in the crime by oral exhortation or by guarding the scene the court has to evaluate the evidence very carefully for deciding whether that persons had really done any such act."

The Apex Court in Gangadhar Chandra Vs. State of West Bengal, (2022) 120 ACC 267 held :

"common intention contemplated by Section 34 I.P.C. presupposes prior concert. It requires meeting of minds. It requires a pre-arranged plan before a man can be vicariously convicted for the criminal act of another, the criminal act must have been done in furtherance of common intention of all the accused. In a given case, the plan can be formed suddenly."

27. Therefore, appellants, Kallu and Sushil can be held vicariously liable for the murder of Chhedi Lal only if it is proved that they assaulted Chhedi Lal with lathi and danda and Rajjan attacked Chhedi Lal with sickle in pursuance of the common intention of himself as well as other accused persons. Thus, the prosecution has to prove that appellants, Kallu and Sushil shared a common intention of causing murder in pursuance of which appellant, Rajjan caused fatal injury by sickle on the head and other parts of the person of Chhedi Lal, resulting in his death.

28. (P.W.3) Nankau, son of deceased Chhedi Lal, has deposed in his evidence that on 07.11.1999 at about 11 a.m., accused-appellants Rajjan, Kallu and Sushil, were cutting clump of bamboo trees (banskot) situated in his land and when his father Chhedi Lal forbid the appellants from cutting the clump of bamboo trees (banskot), accused-appellant, Rajjan assaulted his father with sickle (hasiya) and appellants, Kallu and Sushil assaulted (P.W.3) Nankau and his brothers, Shivakant and Dayakant with lathi and danda causing fatal injuries to his father, Chhedi Lal due to which he died later on. He has admitted that in the fighting and altercation, accused Sushil also received injury and blood was oozing from his body. P.W.3 has deposed that at the time of occurrence, he was present in his nearby agricultural land.

29. (P.W.3) Nankau has been cross-examined in detail by the defence but nothing emerges which may shake or demolish his deposition regarding assault by Rajjan with sickle on Chhedi causing his death. Thus, the evidence of P.W.3 appears to be cogent, truthful and reliable. P.W.3 has mentioned that due to assault of the appellants, his father, Chhedi Lal received injury on the head and his back. P.W.1 and P.W.2 have not supported the evidence of (P.W.3) Nankau regarding the assault by Sushil and Kallu by lathi and danda to them or their father, Chhedi Lal. The evidence of P.W.1 and P.W.2 is supported by the postmortem report of Chhedi Lal where only incised injuries caused by sickle is mentioned and no injury caused by lathi and danda is mentioned. Hence, participation of accused, Kallu and Sushil in the murder of Chhedi Lal is not proved. The oral evidence of (P.W.3) Nankau regarding the date, time, place of occurrence and manner of assault by appellant, Rajjan, by sickle and injury received by Chhedi Lal due to which he died later and lodging of first information report are corroborated by the documentary evidence, written report (Ext.Ka.1), chik F.I.R. (Ext.Ka.6), recovery memo of weapons (sickle and lathi) used in the offence (Ext.Ka.4) blood-stained and plain earth (Ext.Ka.3), the inquest report (Ext.Ka.11), postmortem report of deceased (Ext.Ka.10) and charge-sheet (Ext.Ka.5).

30. It has been argued by the learned counsel for the appellants that only one prosecution witness (P.W.3) Nankau, who is the son of deceased Chhedi Lal, has supported the prosecution case. The other two witnesses, (P.W.1) Shivakant and (P.W.2) Dayakant have not supported the prosecution case. They have also denied that these two prosecution witnesses have not received any injury in the incident. He has also argued that the appellants cannot be convicted on the basis of the testimony of single witness who is relative/son of the deceased Chhedi Lal. The provisions relating to number of witnesses required for proving a fact is given under Section 134 of Indian Evidence Act which is as follows :

134. Number of witnesses :- No particular number of witnesses shall in any case be required for the proof of any fact.

31. It has been held by the Apex Court in Maqsoodan & Ors. Vs. State of U.P, 1983 SC 1926 that neither the number of witnesses nor the quantity of evidence is material, it is the quality that matters. There is general public reluctance in appearing as witnesses, hence there should be no insistence that there should be more witnesses than one.

32. The Apex Court in Laxmibai (Dead) through LRs Vs. Bhagwantbura (Dead) through LRs, AIR (2013) SC 1204 has held that it is time-honoured principle that evidence must be weighed and not counted. It is whether the evidence as ring of truth, is cogent, credible and trustworthy or otherwise. The legal system has laid emphasis on value provided by each witness, rather than the multiplicity or plurality of witnesses. It is quality and not quantity, which determines the adequacy of evidence as has been provided by Section 134 of the Evidence Act.

33. In Brijbasi Lal Vs. State of M.P., 1991 SCC (Crl.) 546, the Apex Court convicted the accused on the sole testimony of P.W.1 who was son of deceased Vishwanath after finding that his evidence was wholly acceptable. The Apex Court in Chinniah Servai Vs. State of Madras, AIR 1957 SCC 614 laid down that "plurality of witnesses is not necessary to prove a criminal charge and that the conviction can be based even on the sole testimony of a witness provided the testimony of that witness is wholly acceptable.

34. Applying the above test, we, at the same time, bearing in mind the relationship of P.W.3 with the deceased, examined the evidence carefully and are satisfied that the evidence of P.W.3 is reliable and free from any infirmity. Therefore, we have no reason to refuse to act upon the testimony of P.W.3 merely on the ground that he is the son of the deceased since the evidence of P.W.3 is otherwise reliable and acceptable. We have no hesitation in agreeing with the finding of the trial court.

35. In view of the law laid down by the Apex Court regarding the testimony of single testimony of related witness, the arguments advanced on behalf of the defence counsel are not acceptable.

36. (P.W.3) Nankau has admitted in his cross-examination that during the occurrence, he had seen blood on the person of appellant, Sushil. The appellants during their trial, in cross-examination of P.W.3 Nankau as well as in their statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., had put forward the plea of right of private defence. Appellant Sushil has stated in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that their clump of bamboo trees were situated in plot nos. 573/574, village- Ashwanipur Mazra Goisara. On 07.11.2019 at 11 o'clock. He and his two other brothers were cutting their clump of bamboo trees. Chhedi, Shivakant, Babu Yadav andLallan abused them and caused fatal injury to them by assaulting them with lathi and danda. In their defence, they also used lathi and danda. They received injury in the incident and were got medically examined through policemen in the Government hospital.

37. The Investigating Officer (P.W.4) Prem Kumar Yadav has accepted in his cross-examination that on the date of incident, he had also got all the three appellants medically examined by sending police constable to the government hospital. He has stated that he had not seen the documents relating to the field in which clump of bamboos trees were growing. In the file of trial court, the appellants have as per list 92Kha/1 filed documents no. 92Kha/2 is khasra of the year 1413 year fasli relating to plot no. 574 area 0.888 hectare, which is in the name of Sangam Lal, father of appellant. In this Khasra, it is mentioned that apart from imli and amla trees, clump of bamboo trees are situated. The appellants have also filed khatauni of aforesaid plot 92Kha/3 relating to the year 1410 to 1415 fasli in respect of plot no. 574 area 0.888 hectare of village- Ashwanipur Mazra Goisara, the aforesaid plot is in the name of Sangam Lal, son of Ram Prakash. The appellants have also filed in the trial court document no. 92Kha/4 Ch format 26 relating to which village- Ashwanipur Mazra Goisara. In this document, it is mentioned that appellant's father, Sangam Lal, son of Ram Prakash, obtained the ownership of plot no. 524/3 in which clump of bamboo trees is situated by paying Rs. 240/- as compensation for it. Vide aforesaid list number 92Kha/1, the appellants had filed document nos. 92Kha/5 to 92Kha/7. The F.I.R. of cross-case relating to the incident which was registered as Crime No. 88A/1999 under Section 147, 148, 307, 323, 504 I.P.C. against Chhedi Lal Mishra, son of Ram Pratap, Shivakant and Dayakant, son of Chhedi Lal Mishra and two other persons. Thus, accused-appellants have lodged cross-case relating to the incident against deceased Chhedi and his two sons, Shivakant and Dayankant and two other persons.

38. The accused-appellants had also filed document nos. 92Kha/9, injury report of accused Rajjan, 92Kha/10 injury report of Sushil Kumar and 92Kha/11 injury report of Kallu, who have received 5, 5 and 6 injuries respectively. On the behalf of informant, per list 95Kha, documents 95Kha/1 and 95Kha/2 were filed which are khasra khatauni of plot nos. 655 area 0.514 hectare situated in village- Ashwanipur Mazra Goisara in which clump of bamboo is situated, which is in the name of informant's mother, Rajkali and his five brothers. Thus, it appears that the disputed clump of bamboo trees were claimed by both the appellants and the informant, as being situated in the agricultural field of their ownership. During the cutting of the clump of bamboo trees by the appellants, altercation and fight took place in which Chhedi Lal received fatal injuries and he died later on. Appellants, Rajjan, Kallu and Sushil also received injuries. Cross-case was registered by both the parties. The informant and his sons were acquitted in criminal case and appellants were convicted in the related cross-case by the impugned order passed by the trial court.

39. From the above discussion, the right of private defence of appellant, Rajjan is established that they have caused injury while they were obstructed in cutting the clump of bamboo trees which was allegedly situated in the land of their ownership. They were attacked by informant, his father and brothers in which, they received injuries. They were medically examined and they also lodged the F.I.R. against the informant and persons on his side. The law relating to right of private defence of persons and property has been given in Sections 96 to 106 of the Indian Penal Code. The Apex Court in the case of "Darshan Singh Vs. State of Punjab,

(2010) 2 SCC 333 has given the summary of principles regarding the right of private defence which is as follows :-

(i) Self-preservation is the basic human instinct and is duly recognized by the criminal jurisprudence of all civilized countries. All free, democratic and civilized countries recognize the right of private defence within certain reasonable limits.

(ii) The right of private defence is available only to one who is suddenly confronted with the necessity of averting an impending danger and not of self-creation.

(iii) A mere reasonable apprehension is enough to put the right of self-defence into operation. In other words, it is not necessary that there should be an actual commission of the offence in order to give rise to the right of private defence. It is enough if the accused apprehended that such an offence is contemplated and it is likely to be committed if the right of private defence is not exercised.

(iv) The right of private defence commences as soon as a reasonable apprehension arises and it is co-terminus with the duration of such apprehension.

(v) It is unrealistic to expect a person under assault to modulate his defence step by step with any arithmetical exactitude.

(vi) In private defence the force used by the accused ought not to be wholly disproportionate or much greater than necessary for protection of the person or property.

(vii) It is well settled that even if the accused does not plead self-defence, it is open to consider such a plea if the same arises from the material on record.

(viii) The accused need not prove the existence of the right of private defence beyond reasonable doubt.

(ix) The IPC, 1860 confers the right of private defence only when that unlawful or wrongful act is an offence.

(x) A person who is in imminent and reasonable danger of losing his life or limb may in exercise of self-defence inflict any harm even extending to death on his assailant either when the assault is attempted or directly threatened.

40. (P.W.3) Nankau has admitted in his evidence that the incident of marpeet took place about 50 fts away from the field where clump of bamboo trees were situated and were cut by the appellants. The statement of P.W.3 is also corroborated by the site plan (Ext.Ka.2) which was prepared by the Investigating Officer on the pointing out of informant.

41. From the aforesaid appreciation of evidence, it is proved that appellant, Rajjan caused injury to Chhedi Lal (deceased) by attacking with sickle (hasiya), a person who was unarmed and an old man, and exceeded his right of private defence. Therefore, he shall not be fully exonerated from the offence of causing the death of Chhedi Lal since he has proved that he caused the injury to Chhedi Lal, resulting in his death in the exercise of his right of private defence. The offence committed by him will not be murder, but culpable homicide not amounting to murder which is punishable under Section 304 I.P.C.

42. Now, it has to be seen that the injury caused by appellant, Rajjan by sickle and appellants, Sushil and Kallu by lathi and danda in furtherance of their common intention to cause culpable homicide not amounting to murder of deceased, so that they could be vicariously held guilty collectively under Section 304 (1) I.P.C.

43. From the oral evidence of (P.W.1) Shivakant, (P.W.2) Dayakant and (P.W.3) Nankau and other prosecution evidence, it is not proved that the attack was pre-planned and there was prior meeting of mind of the appellants and they unitedly decided to cause death of deceased Chhedi Lal by attacking him with sickle, lathi and danda. There is no allegation of exhortation by one accused-appellant to other, to attack and kill deceased, Chhedi Lal. From the evidence on record, it is clear that only appellant, Rajjan attacked deceased, Chhedi Lal without pre-meditation in a sudden quarrel. He did not go anywhere else to procure the weapon of offence i.e. sickle, but it was lying nearby, while he was cutting the clump of bamboo trees.

44. From the above oral and documentary evidence, the presence of appellants, Kallu and Sushil at the place of occurrence and their participation in the assault on Chhedi Lal, Shivakant and Dayakant, becomes doubtful. Thus, from the evidence on record, presence and participation of appellants, Kallu and Sushil in the crime is not proved.

45. Thus, from the evidence on record, it is not proved that appellants, Sushil and Kallu, attacked deceased (Chhedi Lal) but only appellant, Rajjan attacked him with sickle. From the evidence of P.W.3 and the postmortem report, it is proved that the fatal injuries due to which Chhedi died were caused by sickle on his head and his back. Thus, from the aforesaid evidence, it is proved that appellant, Rajjan attacked Chhedi Lal with sickle in his right to private defence with the intention of causing death or with causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death. It is clear that only appellant, Rajjan, attacked deceased Chhedi Lal without pre-meditation in sudden quarrel. He did not go anywhere else to procure sickle, but it was lying nearby while he was cutting the clump of bamboo trees (banskot). There is no allegation of exhortation by any accused-appellant to attack and kill the deceased.

46. The prosecution has failed to prove the charge under Section 302 I.P.C. r/w 34 I.P.C. against appellants, Rajjan, Sushil and Kallu. The prosecution is successful in proving beyond reasonable doubt the charge u/s 304 (I) I.P.C. against appellant, Rajjan and has failed to prove the charge under Section 302 I.P.C. or Section 304 I.P.C. against appellants, Kallu and Sushil.

47. In view of above, the appeal is allowed qua appellants, Kallu and Sushil. Their conviction u/s 302 r/w 34 I.P.C. is set-aside. The appellants are on bail. They need not surrender. Their bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged.

48. So far as the appeal of appellant, Rajjan, is concerned, the same is partly allowed. His conviction and sentence u/s 302 r/w 34 I.P.C. is converted into conviction u/s 304 (I) I.P.C. He is sentenced to 10 years rigorous imprisonment, with a fine of Rs.10,000/- and in default in payment of fine, simple imprisonment for six months. Appellant, Rajjan is in jail. He will undergo the sentence as imposed above.

49. Let a copy of this judgement and trial court record be sent to the concerned Sessions Judge for compliance.

Revision allowed, impugned summoning order set-aside. (E-15)

List of Cases cited:

1. Hardeep Singh Vs St. of Pun., (2014) 3 SCC 92

2. Brijendra Singh Vs St. of Raj., (2017) 7 SCC 706

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shree Prakash Singh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ramakar Shukla, learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri Anirudh Kumar Singh the learned AGA-I for the State.

2. Notice to the the opposite party no. 2 is hereby dispensed with.

3. By means of the instant revision a challenge has been made to the impugned summoning order dated 09.12.2022 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 8, Sultanpur in Sessions Trial No. 1249 of 2021 arising out of case crime no. 484 of 2021, under Sections 498A, 304B of the IPC and Section 3/4 of the DP Act, Police Station Gusaiganj, District Sultanpur.

4. Contention of the learned counsel for the revisionist is that an first information report was lodged by the opposite party no. 2, against the revisionist and other family members on 07.08.2021 at 7:19 PM, showing the incident dated 05.08.2021 at 4:00 PM and while lodging the first information report, the opposite party no. 2 has made an allegation that on 05.08.2021 at about 04:00 PM, she received a phone call from Jabir at Bombay who informed that Rashida (deceased) is ill and when she called on mobile phone of Rashida, then father-in-law picked up the phone and said that he is at work, far away from house and immediately cutoff the phone. Thereafter, five minutes later, Asgar called on mobile phone and informed that Rashida has hanged herself. He added that allegation is that the marriage of the deceased, namely, Rashida was performed, two years ago, from the date of the incident and she was having six years' child but after the marriage, husband and other family members started harassing the deceased while taunting over her and due to the same, she hanged herself.

5. He submits that it is an admitted fact that the revisionist was not on the place of occurance at the time of alleged incident and thereafter when he came back, he informed to the opposite party no. 2 regarding the incident and without knowing the truthfulness of the incident, the informant lodged the instant first information report and the revisionist is implicated. He next added that after lodging of the first information report, a thorough investigation was done and the charge-sheet was filed against the other alleged co-accused persons and the final report was submitted in respect with the present revisionist.

6. Adding his arguments, he submits that no evidence was found by the Investigating Officer during course of investigation against the present revisionist, so far as, the allegation of dowry death is concerned and considering the statements of the witnesses under Section 161 and other evidences, the final report was submitted by the Investigating Officer and thus there was no occasion for the trial Court to summon the revisionist under Section 319 of CrPC.

7. During the course of his arguments, he has also drawn attention towards the order impugned, wherein, in the finding clause, the trial court has taken the note of the statement of the witnesses recorded under Section 161 of CrPC and the case diary. He submits that the trial Court has erred to pass the impugned order, as it has been a settled law that only on the basis of the statement under Section 161 or the reiteration of the same by the PWs in their statements, would have no ground to summon an accused under the provisions of Section 319 of CrPC.

8. In support of his contention, he has drawn attention towards the case reported in (2014) 3 SCC 92, Hardeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab along with the other connected petitions and has referred paragraphs 105 and 106 of the judgement.

9. Paragraph 105 and 106 of the judgement are read as under:-

"105. Power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. is a discretionary and an extra-ordinary power. It is to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. It is not to be exercised because the Magistrate or the Sessions Judge is of the opinion that some other person may also be guilty of committing that offence. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised and not in a casual and cavalier manner.

106. Thus, we hold that though only a prima facie case is to be established from the evidence led before the court not necessarily tested on the anvil of Cross-Examination, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. In the absence of such satisfaction, the court should refrain from exercising power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. In Section 319 Cr.P.C. the purpose of providing if 'it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence' is clear from the words "for which such person could be tried together with the accused." The words used are not 'for which such person could be convicted'. There is, therefore, no scope for the Court acting under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to form any opinion as to the guilt of the accused. "

10. Referring the aforesaid, he submits that Hon. Apex Court has held that the power under Section 319 CrPC is discretionary and an extraordinary power and thus the same should be used sparingly and it has further been held that much stronger evidences than mere probability of complicity is the rule, where the trial court exercises power under Section 319 of CrPC.

11. He has further drawn attention towards the case reported in (2017) 7 SCC 706, Brijendra Singh Vs. State of Rajasthan and referred paragraph 14 and 15 of the judgement.

12. Paragraph 14 and 15 of the judgment are quoted hereinunder:-

"14. When we translate the aforesaid principles with their application to the facts of this case, we gather an impression that the trial court acted in a casual and cavalier manner in passing the summoning order against the appellants. The appellants were named in the FIR. Investigation was carried out by the police. On the basis of material collected during investigation, which has been referred to by us above, the IO found that these appellants were in Jaipur city when the incident took place in Kanaur, at a distance of 175 kms. The complainant and others who supported the version in the FIR regarding alleged presence of the appellants at the place of incident had also made statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to the same effect. Notwithstanding the same, the police investigation revealed that the statements of these persons regarding the presence of the appellants at the place of occurrence was doubtful and did not inspire confidence, in view of the documentary and other evidence collected during the investigation, which depicted another story and clinchingly showed that appellants plea of alibi was correct.

15. This record was before the trial court. Notwithstanding the same, the trial court went by the deposition of complainant and some other persons in their examination-in-chief, with no other material to support their so- called verbal/ocular version. Thus, the 'evidence' recorded during trial was nothing more than the statements which was already there under Section 161 Cr.P.C. recorded at the time of investigation of the case. No doubt, the trial court would be competent to exercise its power even on the basis of such statements recorded before it in examination-in-chief. However, in a case like the present where plethora of evidence was collected by the IO during investigation which suggested otherwise, the trial court was at least duty bound to look into the same while forming prima facie opinion and to see as to whether 'much stronger evidence than mere possibility of their (i.e. appellants) complicity has come on record. There is no satisfaction of this nature. Even if we presume that the trial court was not apprised of the same at the time when it passed the order (as the appellants were not on the scene at that time), what is more troubling is that even when this material on record was specifically brought to the notice of the High Court in the Revision Petition filed by the appellants, the High Court too blissfully ignored the said material. Except reproducing the discussion contained in the order of the trial court and expressing agreement therewith, nothing more has been done. Such orders cannot stand judicial scrutiny. "

13. Relying upon the ratio of the judgement aforesaid, he submits that it has been settled by the Apex Court that mere possibility of complicity is not sufficient ground to issue summons under Section 319 of CrPC, but stronger evidences are required to be there. He submits that from bare perusal of the order-sheet it is evident that learned Trial Court while passing the order impugned dated 09.12.2022 has not recorded its satisfaction with respect to the fact that the case comes under the purview of much stronger case and has only considered the statements recorded under Section 161 and statements of P.W. 1 and there was no such material which could substantiate that there is more than prima facie case.

14. Concluding his arguments; he submits that the order impugned vitiates in the eyes of law as the same is not only against the law propounded by the Apex Court but it is against the object of the provisions of law also and therefore, the order impugned is liable to be set-aside.

15. Per contra, the learned counsel appearing for the State has opposed the contention aforesaid and submits that the detailed order has been passed on 09.12.2022 while considering the material available before the trial Court. He added that finding in the order is evident that the trial Court has gone through the statement of the witnesses recorded under Section 161 CrPC as well as the statement of PW1 and after application of judicial mind, he has passed the order. He submits that the statement of PW1 has been recorded during the trial, wherein, the trial Court found that the same will lead to the conviction of the revisionist as much stronger case was established. The statement of PW1 has been discussed by the learned trial Court in the impugned order. Further argued that everything has been discussed thoroughly in the order and therefore the order impugned do not assail any illegality or infirmity, hence the revision is liable to be dismissed.

16. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and after perusal of material placed on record, it emerges that the final report was submitted by the Investigating Officer in the case of present revisionist and the charge-sheet was filed against the other co-accused persons. Learned trial Court while passing the summoning order dated 09.12.2022 has considered the statement of the witnesses under Section 161 and the statement of PW1 deposed before the trial Court including the case diary which indicates that those are the foundation of the impugned order.

17. Further Section 319 of CrPC envisages an extraordinary power conferred upon a Court to do substantial justice and thus should be exercised cautiously as the investigating agency found no evidence against such allegedly accused person during course of the investigation. The very purpose of Section 319 of CrPC is to avoid any escape of a guilty person from the trial and therefore discovery of the further evidence must disclose more than prima facie case.

18. The settled law is that the Courts should not exercise its power under Section 319 of CrPC in a supine and cavalier manner but if the Court is on a material conclusion that there are more than prima facie evidence against an accused, certainly this power can be exercised.

19. In case of Hardeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab (Supra), it has categorically been held that Section 319 of CrPC is a discretionary and extraordinary power which is to be exercised when there is a strong and cogent piece of evidence against an accused person and thus it should be exercised sparingly. The apex Court has very cautiously interpreted the abovesaid provision and held that for exercising of power under Section 319 CrPC, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of complicity.

20. The Apex Court later on, in case of Brijendra Singh and Others (Supra) has also discussed the law enunciated in Hardeep Singh's case and has held that power under Section 319 CrPC can be exercised by the trial Court at any stage during the trial and any person can be summoned as an accused for facing the trial. The Apex Court has very clearly held that the word 'evidence' means the material brought before the Court during trial. The material/evidence collected by the Investigating Officer at the stage of enquiry can only be utilised for corroboration thereof.

21. When this Court examines the instant matter in its facts and in the law propounded by the Apex court, it borne out that the learned trial Court while passing the impugned order has considered the statement of the complainant under Section 161 of CrPC and has also perused the case diary. Much reliance has been placed on the case diary though the case of the revisionist is, that he is the father-in-law of the deceased and the statement of the witnesses which was recorded under Section 161 CrPC and the other materials, are insufficient to file a charge-sheet against the revisionist and therefore the Investigating Officer has filed the charge-sheet against all the accused persons except the present revisionist.

22. It is settled law that the trial Court can take step to add such persons as accused on the basis of evidence adduced and not on the basis of materials available in the charge-sheet or the case diary as, such materials do not constitute 'evidence'. In the case in hand, it is, prima facie, evident that the learned revisional Court has not only gone through the case diary but has also placed reliance on the first information report, the statement of the witnesses recorded under Section 161 CrPC and the statement of PW1 before the trial Court therefore there was no any material evidence other than the aforesaid before the trial Court while passing the impugned summoning order.

23. Further no satisfaction has been recorded by the Court below with respect to the fact that the prosecution succeeded to establish that there are more than prima facie or much stronger case against the revisionist and if such an evidence are adduced, there are chances of conviction of the revisionist. Further, the learned trial Court has also skipped the law enunciated by the Apex Court.

24. Resultantly, the revision is hereby allowed and the impugned summoning order dated 09.12.2022 is hereby set-aside.

25. The matter is remitted to the trial Court concerned to pass a fresh order, after considering the ratio of the judgements passed by the Apex Court in Hardeep Singh (Supra) and Brijendra Singh (Supra) including the other materials available before it, within period of 45 days from the date of the certified copy of the order.

26. Office is also directed to inform this order to the trial Court forthwith.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suresh Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for revisionist Sri Ghaus Beg, learned AGA and perused the record.

2. Learned counsel for revisionist submitted that he inadvertently impleaded Judicial Magistrate in the array of opposite party and learned counsel for revisionist submitted that he want to delete the opposite party no.1 Judicial Magistrate-III. Submission of learned counsel for revisionist is hereby allowed and it is directed to delete the same.

3. This Criminal Revision has been preferred u/s 397 read with Section 401 of Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 against the impugned order dated 21.1.2023 passed by the Judicial Magistrate-III, Lucknow, whereby without assigning any cogent reason the learned trial court has rejected the application dated 24.1.2020. Being aggrieved with impugned order dated 24.1.2020 this revision preferred by the revisionist in respect of release of vehicle bearing registration no. UP-32/CN5543 (Bus).

4. Learned counsel for revisionist submitted that revisionist is the registered owner of vehicle no. UP-32/CN5543 (Bus). On 18.10.2019 the above mentioned vehicle met with an accident near Purniya Chaurah under P.S. Madiyaon, Lucknow with motor cycle bearing registration no. UP32-KR-1795. In the said incident no one has got injury. However, the said motor cycle was partially damaged. In this behalf, Sri Krishan Kant Kushwaha lodged FIR on 18.10.2019 against unknown person as a Case Crime No. 947/2019 u/s 279, 337, 427 IPC, P.S. Madiyaon, Lucknow which is annexed as Annexure No. 4. The vehicle of the revisionist was seized and detained at P.S. Madiyaon on 18.10.2019.

5. The revisionist preferred the application on 27.1.2020 before ACJM, IV, Lucknow for release of the vehicle but the Magistrate concerned vide the order dated 5.3.2020 rejected the said release application on flimsy grounds in an illegal and arbitrary manner by stating that accused of this crime failed to surrender before the court and the license of the driver is not duly verified.

6. Being aggrieved with the impugned order dated 5.3.2020 passed by learned Magistrate the revisionist preferred the Revision No. 204/2020 on 17.8.2020. Learned Additional District and Sessions Judge, Lucknow allowed the said revision and set aside the order dated 5.3.2020 and remanded the matter to the learned trial court with direction to consider the release application. After hearing the parties the revisional court passed the order dated 15.12.2021 in the light of the judgement passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Sunderbhai Ambalal Desai V/s State of Gujarat, AIR 2003, Supreme Court, Page No. 638 which is annexed as Annexure No. 8.

7. The relevant portion of which is being reproduced hereunder:

"In our view, whatever be the situation it is of no use to keep seized vehicle at the police stations for a long period so it is for the magistrate to pass appropriate order immediately by taking appropriate bond and guarantee as well as security return of the said vehicle at any point of time. This can be done pending hearing of application for return of such vehicle.

In any case,before handing over possession of such vehicles, appropriate photographs of the said vehicle could be taken and detailed panchnama should be prepared.

However those powers are to be exercised by the concerned Magistrate. We hope and trust that the concerned Magistrate would take immediate action for seeing that powers under section 451 CrPC are properly and promptly exercised and articles are not kept for a long time at the police station, in any case for not more than fifteen days to one month."

8. In pursuance of order dated 15.12.2021 passed by learned Revisional Court, revisionist approached before the Judicial Magistrate-III and again moved the application in the light of the direction given by the learned Revisional Court. But the learned Magistrate rejected the release application dated 21.1.2003 without considering the direction given by learned Revisional Court to consider the release application of the revisionist as law propounded by Hon'ble Apex Court in Sunderbhai Ambalal Desai V/s State of Gujarat (Supra).

9. Order dated 21.1.2023 passed by learned Judicial Magistrate, III, Lucknow reads as under:

10. Thus, learned counsel for revisionist submitted that it is the settled law of the land that it is of no use to keep the seized vehicle at police station for a long period and it was directed to the Magistrate to release the above vehicle after taking sufficient guarantee/surety. Even, that learned trial court did not consider the provisions enshrined in Section 451 CrPC and due to impugned order dated 21.1.2023 the vehicle of revisionist is unnecessary kept in police custody for about approximately 3 years and 6 months. Thus the revisionist suffer irreparable loss and he prayed that his revision to be allowed.

11. Learned AGA vehemently opposed and submitted that this is the case of property.

12. I have heard the learned counsel for parties and perused the record.

"Section 451 in The Code Of Criminal Procedure, 1973 reads as under:

Order for custody and disposal of property pending trial in certain cases. When any property is produced before any Criminal Court during any inquiry or trial, the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the proper custody of such property pending the conclusion of the inquiry or trial, and, if the property is subject to speedy and natural decay, or if it is otherwise expedient so to do, the Court may, after recording such evidence as it thinks necessary, order it to be sold or otherwise disposed of. Explanation.- For the purposes of this section," property" includes-

(a) property of any kind or document which is produced before the Court or which is in its custody,

(b) any property regarding which an offence appears to have been committed or which appears to have been used for the commission of any offence"

13. On perusal of the order of learned Judicial Magistrate dated 21.1.2023, learned Magistrate rejected the release application without assigning any reason in very cursory manner. It was the bounden duty of Magistrate to follow the direction issued by the revisional court vide order dated 15.12.2021 but the Magistrate fail to follow the order of revisional court. Learned Revisional Court in his findings dated 15.12.2021 clearly gave direction to the learned trial court that verification of license of driver is not required in this case and the revisionist is agree to compensate the victim adequately and clearly indicated that due to passage of time the seized vehicle became deteriorated.

14. This fact is undisputed that the chargesheet has already been filed before the trial court, so, in these circumstances, learned trial court without application of judicial mind wrongly rejected the release application. Even the learned trial court did not bother to follow the direction issued by revisional court and the learned trial court neither read the Section 451 of CrPC nor follow the dictim of Hon'ble Apex Court in Sunderbhai Ambalal Desai (Supra).

15. It is clear that the revisionist is entitled to the possession of above vehicle. This seized vehicle is related to the accident matter and only on the basis of the pollution certificate or verification of license of driver the release of the vehicle could not be denied. Learned Magistrate has no power to enquire about validity of license of driver and pollution certificate as Magistrate is not a police officer or officer of the transport department.

16. In this matter, it is also desirable that the production of vehicle is not inevitable. In General Insurance Council v/s State of AP 2010 (6) SCC Hon'ble Apex Court held that the production of the vehicle is not necessary during trial and the photograph of the vehicle would be sufficient to be proved in evidence and the learned Apex Court directed to release the vehicle immediate forthwith.

17. The purpose of revisional jurisdiction is to examine the correctness or propriety of order. It is indicated that the order passed by the learned Magistrate is non speaking without application of judicial mind and without reading the relevant provisions as well as Apex Court law. Order passed by the learned Magistrate is cryptic and this practice is highly deprecated. Conduct of the learned Magistrate is against the Judicial Propriety and it amounts to contempt also.

18. Learned Magistrate is hereby warned in future to pass the order in accordance with law.

19. Consequently, the revision is hereby allowed.

20. Thus, in above discussion I quash the impugned order dated 21.1.2023 passed by Judicial Magistrate-III and court concerned is directed to release the above vehicle in favour of the revisionist forthwith after taking proper surety.

21. Senior Registrar of this Court is hereby directed to communicate the order of this Court to learned Judicial Magistrate, III, Lucknow through District Judge Lucknow. It is also directed to District Judge, Lucknow to keep vigil against the officer concerned.

22. Accordingly, this Criminal Revision is disposed of.

Criminal revision allowed. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suresh Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the revisionist, Shri Vijay Prakash Dwivedi, learned AGA for the State and perused the material available on record.

2. The instant Criminal Revision under Section 102 of the Juvenile Justice (Care & Protection of Children) Act, 2015 has been filed against the judgment and order dated 28.2.2023 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (POCSO Act), Sultanpur in Special Sessions Trial No. 537 of 2018 arising out of case crime No. 423 of 2017, U/s 354(B) IPC and Section 17/18 of Protection of Children from Sexual Offence Act, 2012, Police Station- Lambhua, District- Sultanpur, whereby the application for declaring the revisionist as juvenile in conflict with law has been rejected.

3. Learned counsel for the revisionist submits that the revisionist preferred an application for declaring his juvenility before the trial court U/s 9 of Juvenile Justice (Care & Protection of Children) Act, 2015 (in short "the Act, 2015"). The trial court recorded the findings that the family register issued by the Panchayat is not admitted as a proof of age under the provision of section 94 of the Act, 2015, which is contrary to the view held by the Apex Court. But the said application of the revisionist was rejected by the learned trial court without appreciating the evidence available on record and without observing the procedure as prescribed U/s 9 and 94 of the Act, 2015 on 28.2.2023. The said sections 9 and 94 of the Act, 2015 read as under:

"9. Procedure to be followed by a Magistrate who has not been empowered under this Act.- (1) When a Magistrate, not empowered to exercise the powers of the Board under this Act is of the opinion that the person alleged to have committed the offence and brought before him is a child, he shall, without any delay, record such opinion and forward the child immediately along with the record of such proceedings to the Board having jurisdiction.

(2) In case a person alleged to have committed an offence claims before a court other than a Board, that the person is a child or was a child on the date of commission of the offence, or if the court itself is of the opinion that the person was a child on the date of commission of the offence, the said court shall make an inquiry, take such evidence as may be necessary (but not an affidavit) to determine the age of such person, and shall record a finding on the matter, stating the age of the person as nearly as may be:

Provided that such a claim may be raised before any court and it shall be recognised at any stage, even after final disposal of the case, and such a claim shall be determined in accordance with the provisions contained in this Act and the rules made thereunder even if the person has ceased to be a child on or before the date of commencement of this Act.

(3) If the court finds that a person has committed an offence and was a child on the date of commission of such offence, it shall forward the child to the Board for passing appropriate orders and the sentence, if any, passed by the court shall be deemed to have no effect.

(4) In case a person under this section is required to be kept in protective custody, while the person's claim of being a child is being inquired into, such person may be placed, in the intervening period in a place of safety.

94. Presumption and determination of age.- (1) Where, it is obvious to the Committee or the Board, based on the appearance of the person brought before it under any of the provisions of this Act (other than for the purpose of giving evidence) that the said person is a child, the Committee or the Board shall record such observation stating the age of the child as nearly as may be and proceed with the inquiry under section 14 or section 36, as the case may be, without waiting for further confirmation of the age.

(2) In case, the Committee or the Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Committee or the Board, as the case may be, shall undertake the process of age determination, by seeking evidence by obtaining --

(i) the date of birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, if available; and in the absence thereof;

(ii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(iii) and only in the absence of (i) and (ii) above, age shall be determined by an ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or the Board:

Provided such age determination test conducted on the order of the Committee or the Board shall be completed within fifteen days from the date of such order.

(3) The age recorded by the Committee or the Board to be the age of person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of this Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person."

The further submission the counsel for the revisionist is that without proper inquiry and without application of judicial mind, the trial court rejected the aforesaid application of the revisionist in a cursory manner on the same day i.e. on 28.2.2023 without conducting any inquiry under the Act, 2015.

4. Learned counsel for the revisionist submitted that in section 94 of the Act, 2015, it is clearly provided that first preference should be given to the date of birth certificate issued from the school or the matriculation or equivalent certificate issued from the concerned board. But the counsel submitted that the revisionist is illiterate and he never got admitted in any school and thus, his birth certificate issued from the board is not available. It is further submitted that as per section 94(ii) of the Act, 2015, birth certificate issued by the Panchayat shall be considered. But the learned trial court rejected the birth certificate of the revisionist issued by the Panchayat in a cursory manner without passing any appropriate order. It is also submitted that learned trial court in the judgement mentioned that in 313 CrPC statement, the revisionist himself stated that he was about 20-21 years. The matter pertains to year 2017, which itself shows that six years ago, the age of the revisionist was less than 18 years. Moreover, in pariwar register issued by the Gram Panchayat, the date of birth of the revisionist is 2001. The counsel further submitted that juvenility can be claimed at any stage even pendency of the appeal.

5. Learned AGA vehemently opposed and submitted that the trial court rejected the application of the revisionist after applying judicial mind. Thus, the impugned order passed by the trial court is not liable to be quashed.

6. Considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case, learned trial court is directed to decide the application to claim the juvenility of the revisionist within one month as per sections 9 and 94 of the Act, 2015. Till determination of claim of the juvenility, no final order shall be passed. The impugned order dated 28.2.2023 passed by the trial court is hereby quashed.

7. Accordingly, the instant revision is hereby allowed.

8. Let this order be communicated to the court concerned for necessary compliance.

(A) Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 323, 376, 504 & 506 - The Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 - Section 3/4 , The Code of criminal procedure, 1973 - Section 73 - Warrant me be directed any person - If during investigation, the Investigating Officer intends to arrest the person accused of the offence, he has to seek for and obtain a warrant of arrest from the Magistrate - Magistrate is fully competent to issue non-bailable warrant to apprehend recalcitrant person who is accused of non-bailable offence and is evading arrest. List of Cases cited:

St. through C.B.I. Vs Dawood Ibrahim Kaskar & ors. , (2000) 10 SCC 438

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ramesh Sinha, J.)

1. This petition seeks issuance of a writ in the nature of Certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 15.10.2022 passed by the Special Judge (POCSO Court), Allahabad, whereby non-bailable warrant has been issued against the petitioner in F.I.R. No. 0136 of 2022, under Sections 323, 376, 504, 506 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012, Police Station Phaphamau, District Allahabad.

2. Heard Ms. Archi Piyush, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Shri J.K. Upadhyaya, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State/respondents no. 1 to 3 and perused the impugned F.I.R. as well as material brought on record.

3. It appears that the proceedings were commenced pursuant to an FIR dated 18.05.2022, registered as FIR No.0136 of 2022, under Sections 354 (k), 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012, Police Station Phaphamau, District Allahabad, against the petitioner, whereupon the case was investigated. The aforesaid F.I.R. was challenged by the petitioner by filing Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 6443 of 2022 before this Court, which was dismissed as withdrawn by means of the order dated 31.05.2022. Thereafter, the petitioner has filed anticipatory bail application, bearing No. 7475 of 2022, which was rejected by the learned Single Judge vide order dated 31.08.2022. During the pendency of the investigation, the Investigating Officer of the case has filed an application before the Special Judge (POCSO Court), Allahabad, stating that the petitioner is the wanted accused in F.I.R. No. 0136 of 2022 but in spite of his best efforts, he could not secure the arrest of petitioner and the petitioner is absconding and there is an apprehension that the petitioner could commit heinous crime, therefore, non-bailable warrant be issued against the petitioner. The Special Judge (POCSO Court), Allahabad, took cognizance of the aforesaid application of the Investigating Officer and upon examining the assertions of the application as well as the case diary, the Special Judge (POCSO Court) issued non-bailable warrant against the petitioner by means of the order dated 15.10.2022. It is at this stage that the present writ petition under Article 226 of the writ petition has been filed by the petitioner, seeking quashing of the aforesaid order dated 15.10.2022 passed by the Special Judge (POCSO Court), Allahabad.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the Special Judge (POCSO Court), Allahabad has passed the impugned order on the basis of the application moved by the Investigating Officer that the petitioner is not co-operating with the investigation. She argued that the investigation is still continuing and no report has been submitted under Section 173 (2) Cr.P.C. She also argued that informant Shri Hari Shanker Tiwari and the petitioner are the residents of Nai Basti Rangpura, Banaras Road, Phaphamau, Prayagraj and they have amicably settled the dispute by means of compromise deed dated 16.01.2023, a copy of which has been annexed as Annexure no.6 to the writ petition. Therefore, issuance of non-bailable warrant against the petitioner during pendency of invesigation is liable to be quashed. In support of her submission, she has relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in State through CBI Vs. Dawood Ibrahim Kaskar and others : (2000) 10 SCC 438, wherein the Apex Court has held that the power of issuance of non-bailable warrant can be exercised by the learned Magistrate for appearance of accused before the Court and not before the police in aid of investigation.

5. Learned Additional Government Advocate, on the other hand, has contended that the impugned order has been passed by the Special Judge (POCSO Court), Allahabad, issuing non-bailable warrant against the petitioner, after taking into account the fact that though the Investigating Officer has raided the house of the petitioner, his relative and other places for arrest of the petitioner, but he is absconding, and is also evading himself from arrest, as indicated in the application moved by the Investigating Officer before the Court concerned, hence, under compelling circumstances, the Investigating Officer has moved the application on 13.10.2022, requesting the Court to issue non-bailable warrant. Therefore, the Special Court (POCSO Court), Allahabad, has rightly passed the impugned order against the petitioner. He also argued that the case of Dawood Ibrahim Kaskar (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner is not applicable in the instant case as the facts of the both cases are entirely different.

6. We have examined the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record as well as material brought on record.

7. Perusal of the impugned order indicates that the Special Court (POCSO Court), Allahabad has examined the assertions of the application filed before it that a raid was conducted at the house of the petitioner as well as the house of his relative and other places but he is absconding and he is also trying to evade himself from arresting here and there and there is an apprehension that the petitioner could commit serious offence. The Special Court (POCSO Court), Allahabad has also examined the office report to the effect that no application on behalf of the petitioner/accused for surrendering himself is pending in the Court. After examining the aforesaid and also going through the case diary, the Special Court (POCSO Court) has issued non-bailable warrant against the petitioner, who is an accused of Crime No. 0136 of 2022, under Sections 323, 376, 504, 506 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012, Police Station Phaphamau, District Allahabad. Thus, we are of the considered view that the Special Court (POCSO Act), Allahabad has rightly exercised his power in issuing non-bailable warrant against the petitioner.

8. The judgment of the Apex Court in State through CBI Vs. Dawood Ibrahim Kaskar and others (supra) relied by the petitioner is distinguishable from the facts and circumstances of the case, as in Dawood Ibrahim Kaskar (Supra), the investigation was completed and charge-sheet was submitted, whereas in the instant case, the investigation is still continuing and the accused/petitioner is evading arrest and not appearing before the police for getting his statement recorded and not co-operating with the investigation.

9. At this juncture, it would be apposite to reproduce Section 73 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, which reads as under :-

"73. Warrant may be directed any person. (1)The Chief Judicial Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class may direct a warrant to any person within his local jurisdiction for the arrest of any escaped convict, proclaimed offender or of any person who is accused of a non- bailable, offence and is evading arrest.

(2)Such person shall acknowledge in writing the receipt of the warrant, and shall execute it if the person for whose arrest it was issued, is in, or enters on, any land or other property under his charge.

(3)When the person against whom such warrant is issued is arrested, he shall be made over with the warrant to the nearest police officer, who shall cause him to be taken before a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the case, unless security is taken under section 71."

10. Perusal of the aforesaid provision, it is apparent that if during invesigation, the Investigating Officer intends to arrest the person accused of the offence, he has to seek for and obtain a warrant of arrest from the Magistrate. The Magistrate is fully competent to issue non-bailable warrant to apprehend recalcitrant person who is accused of non-bailable offence and is evading arrest.

11. In the instant case, the Special Judge (POCSO Court), Allahabad has exercised its judicial discretion considering the gravity of the offence as well as taking into account the fact that the petitioner is not co-operating with the investigation as succssively the police had raided his premises so that he may be questioned in details regarding various facets of commission of crime. Hence, it was necessary to curtail his freedom in order to enable the Investigating Officer to proceed without any hindrance.

12. Ordinarily, arrest is a part of process of investigation. As the statement of the victim has been recorded showing the involvement of the petitioner in commission of crime, in the opinion of the Investigating Officer, it was necessary to effectuate his arrest and in doing so, he has committed no fault in moving before the Court to obtain non-bailable warrant. Furthermore, a plain reading of the FIR discloses the age of the victim to be less than 18 years.

13. So far as the plea of the petitioner that a compromise entered into between the informant and petitioner is concerned, we find that the statement of the prosecutrix under Section 164 Cr.P.C. has been recorded, supporting the prosecution case, at this stage, it cannot be said that no offence prima facie is committed by the petitioner. Therefore, the plea of the petitioner in regard to the compromise does not in any way help him because the said compromise has been entered between the petitioner and the informant and not with the prosecutrix.

14. For the aforesaid reasons, the impugned order issuing non-bailable warrant against the petitioner by the Special Judge, POCSO Court, Allahabad of which quashment is sought, cannot be said to suffer from any illegality so as to persuade this Court to exercise its inherent jurisdiction under Section 226 of the Constitution of India.

15. The instant writ petition is, accordingly, dismissed.

Hospital, Basti having O.P.D. registration number 6034; on account of aforesaid medical problem, petitioner took leave on 26.08.2021, the said information was duly communicated to the Principal of school and it was duly noted in the school register; the online portal for sanction of leave was nonfunctional (due to technical error) in the entire Uttar Pradesh from 21.08.2021 to 27.08.2021, that is why petitioner applied offline for the leave and the information was given to respondent no.10; the respondent no.10 visited the school on 26.08.2021 and created a chaos there. He has also made overwriting in the attendance register and marked petitioner absent; as soon as the petitioner got the abovementioned information from school staff after he came back on 28.08.2021, he went to meet private respondent after school hours; the petitioner was asked to meet at 06:00 pm in front of Boons restaurant at District Basti and there an illegal demand of Rs. 10,000/- (finally settled for Rs. 7,000/-) was raised by respondent no.10 from petitioner; on the said illegal demand being raised by respondent no. 10, a complaint dated 06.09.2021 was made before Superintendent of Police, Vigilance Department, Gorakhpur raising his grievances; acting on the said complaint dated 06.09.2021, inquiry was done, averments of complaint were found genuine and it came into the knowledge that respondent no.10 is a corrupt officer; later on after following due process, trap was organized on 15.09.2021 and respondent number 10 was caught red handed by the trap team taking bribe of Rs. 7,000/-; for the offence committed by respondent no.10, first information report dated 16.09.2021 was registered at Police Station Gorakhpur Sector (Vigilance Establishment) under Section 7 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 against respondent no.10; once respondent no.10 was arrested and sent to judicial custody, vide order dated 24.09.2021 he was suspended; bail application was moved by the respondent no.10 before Additional District and Sessions Judge (P.C. Act), Court Number 5, Gorakhpur being Bail Application Number 4445 of 2021 and the same was rejected vide order dated 28.09.2021; being aggrieved by bail rejection order dated 28.09.2021, Bail Application Number 43678 of 2021 (Manoj Kumar Singh Vs. State of U.P.) was filed before this Court; since charge sheet was not submitted within prescribed period, therefore an application under section 167(2) Cr.P.C. was moved by the respondent no.10 before the court below with a prayer to release on bail; Investigating Officer and Special Public Prosecutor submitted report before the court below that entire documents were sent to the Government but prosecution sanction had not been given; the learned Additional District and Session Judge (P.C. Act), Court Number 5, Gorakhpur granted bail to respondent n.10 vide order dated 16.11.2021; once bail application of respondent no.10 was allowed by the court below, bail application filed before this Court was dismissed as infructuous vide order dated 09.12.2021.

5. This Court while entertaining the writ petition at the initial stage passed order dated 08.07.2022, relevant portion whereof is extracted herein-below:

"Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner was working as Assistant Teacher at Primary School, Barhauwa, Vikas Khand Saltauva, Gopalganj, District Gorakhpur. On 26.8.2021 he was suffering from fever and cold/cough and due to illness, he took leave on 26.8.2021. Shri Monoj Kumar Singh, Block Education Officer/respondent no.10 visited the school on the said date and marked the petitioner as 'absent'. On some illegal demand made by the respondent no.10, the petitioner made a complaint before the Superintendent of Police, Vigilance Department, Gorakhpur on 06.9.2021 against him. Thereafter, the respondent no.10 was caught red handed by the trap team while taking bribe of Rs.7000/- and consequently, the first information report was lodged against him on 16.9.2021 at Police Station Gorakhpur Sector (Vigilance Establishment) under Section 7 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 against him. He was arrested on 24.9.2021 and sent to judicial custody. It is also alleged that the respondent no.10 is an influential person and has been reinstated in service. The competent authority is sitting tight in the matters relating to prosecution sanction. A bare perusal of the order impugned dated 02.6.2022, it is crystal clear that the impugned order dated 17.5.2022 is passed on the recommendation of the political persons and even their names are also mentioned. As per business rules, they have no authority to intervene in the proceeding. By the impugned order dated 02.06.2022, respondent no. 7 has directed for transfer of the investigation of Case Crime Number 05 of 2021 from Gorakhpur Sector of Uttar Pradesh (Vigilance Establishment) to Lucknow Sector (Vigilance Establishment), that too on the pretext of the accused person, which clearly shows that the impugned orders are passed just to provide benefit to respondent no. 10. In support of his submission, he has placed reliance on paragraph no. 39 of the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Writ Petition (Crl) No. 130 of 2020 (Arnab Ranjan Goswami vs. Union of India & Ors).

Before proceeding further in the matter, let learned A.G.A. seek instructions in the matter and file an affidavit of the respondent no.3, Additional Chief Secretary, Home and Vigilance Establishment Government of U.P., Lucknow and respondent no. 4, Additional Director Education (Basic) Prayagraj, on or before the next date fixed in the matter.

Put up this case again as fresh on 13.07.2022."

6. This Court, by its subsequent order dated 30.01.2023, directed the learned AGA to produce the order dated 17.05.2022 passed by the Additional Chief Secretary, which has been impugned in the present petition, inasmuch as the contention of the petitioner is specific to the effect that the said order was not made available to him.

7. Today, learned AGA has produced the order dated 17.05.2022, which reads as follows:-

8. Pursuant to the order dated 08.07.2022, personal affidavit of Shri Awanish Kumar Awasthi, posted as Additional Chief Secretary (Home /Vigilance), Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow was filed. Paragraph Nos. 5 to 7 of the affidavit are quoted herein-below:

"5. That the impugned order dated 02.06.2022, consequential to the order dated 17.05.2022, was passed after carefully considering the representation moved by Shri Manoj Kumar Singh.

6. That the representation moved by the delinquent Manoj Kumar Singh, comprised 20 issues on which he prayed for objective, fair and impartial investigation.
7. That it is noteworthy, that various pieces of evidence were annexed to the representation moved by Manoj Kumar Singh, in support of the prayer for fair investigation on the 20 issues raised by the accused. The fact of the annexures in support of his prayer, finds mentioned in both the impugned orders dated 17.05.2022 and 02.06.2022."

9. It is contended by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the respondent no.10, after having been released from jail, is threatening the petitioner to get the matter compromised. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that thereafter the order impugned dated 17.05.2022 and consequential order dated 02.06.2022 has been passed and the investigation in relation to Case Crime No.5 of 2021 has been transferred from Gorakhpur Sector to Lucknow Sector at the behest of the accused person, namely, the respondent no.10. He further submits that the order impugned dated 17.05.2022 has been passed on the recommendation of political persons to accord benefit to the respondent no.10. While referring to Annexure No.6 to the writ petition, it has been submitted that the investigating officer, by letter dated 12.11.2021 brought to the notice of Special Judge (Prevention of Corruption Act), Gorakhpur that the entire proceedings of investigation have already been completed and the necessary documents have been forwarded to the State Government but, till date, requisite sanction has not been accorded at the State Level due to which it was not possible to submit charge sheet. The letter further indicates the stand of the investigating officer that after obtaining sanction from the State Government, further proceedings will be held.

10. The sheet anchor of the argument of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that the investigation could not have been transferred at the behest of accused person and that in this case there was neither any justification nor any occasion for the authorities to transfer investigation once it was clearly opined that the entire proceedings of investigation were already over.

11. The contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner to the effect that the impugned transfer order has been passed at the behest of the accused persons stands substantiated from paragraph 2 of the order dated 17.05.2022 (afore-quoted) which speaks that in relation to the concerned trap, taking into consideration the stand taken by Manoj Kumar Singh (respondent no.10), the decision to transfer investigation from Gorakhpur Sector to Lucknow Sector has been taken. In support of the contention to the effect that investigation cannot be transferred from one investigating agency to the other at the behest of accused persons, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon a decision of the Apex Court in case of Arnab Ranjan Goswami Vs. Union of India & others: (2020) 14 SCC 12. The Apex Court in paragraphs 47 and 48 of aforesaid judgment has observed as follows:-

"47. As we have observed earlier, the petitioner requested for and consented to the transfer of the investigation of the FIR from the Police Station Sadar, District Nagpur City to the N.M. Joshi Marg Police Station in Mumbai. He did so because an earlier FIR lodged by him at that police station was under investigation. The petitioner now seeks to pre-empt an investigation by the Mumbai Police. The basis on which the petitioner seeks to achieve this is untenable. An accused person does not have a choice in regard to the mode or manner in which the investigation should be carried out or in regard to the investigating agency. The line of interrogation either of the petitioner or of the CFO cannot be controlled or dictated by the persons under investigation/interrogation*. In P Chidambaram v Directorate of Enforcement (2019) 9 SCC 24, R Banumathi, J. speaking for a two judge Bench of this Court held that:*

"66...there is a well-defined and demarcated function in the field of investigation and its subsequent adjudication. It is not the function of the court to monitor the investigation process so long as the investigation does not violate any provision of law. It must be left to the discretion of the investigating agency to decide the course of investigation. If the court is to interfere in each and every stage of the investigation and the interrogation of the accused, it would affect the normal course of investigation. It must be left to the investigating agency to proceed in its own manner in interrogation of the accused, nature of questions put to him and the manner of interrogation of the accused."

(Emphasis supplied)

This Court held that so long as the investigation does not violate any provision of law, the investigation agency is vested with the discretion in directing the course of investigation, which includes determining the nature of the questions and the manner of interrogation. In adopting this view, this Court relied upon its earlier decisions in State of Bihar v P P Sharma and Dukhishyam Benupani, v Arun Kumar Bajoria in which it was held that the investigating agency is entitled to decide "the venue, the timings and the questions and the manner of putting such questions" during the course of the investigation.

48. In CBI v Niyamavedi: (1995) 3 SC 601, Sujata V Manohar, J. speaking for a three judge Bench of this Court held that the High Court should have:

"4...refrained from making any comments on the manner in which investigation was being conducted by the CBI, looking to the fact that the investigation was far from complete."

This Court observed that:

"4...Any observations which may amount to interference in the investigation, should not be made. Ordinarily the Court should refrain from interfering at a premature stage of the investigation as that may derail the investigation and demoralise the investigation. Of late, the tendency to interfere in the investigation is on the increase and courts should be wary of its possible consequences."

This Court adopted the position that courts must refrain from passing comments on an ongoing investigation to extend to the investigating agencies the requisite liberty and protection in conducting a fair, transparent and just investigation."

12. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further placed reliance upon a decision of the Apex Court in the case of Bimal Gurung and Ors. Vs. Union of India (UOI) and Ors.: (2018) 15 SCC 480, in paragraphs 29 and 53 of the said judgment, the Apex Court has observed as follows:-

29. The law is thus well settled that power of transferring investigation to other investigating agency must be exercised in rare and exceptional cases where the Court finds it necessary in order to do justice between the parties to instil confidence in the public mind, or where investigation by the State Police lacks credibility. Such power has to be exercised in rare and exceptional cases. In K.V. Rajendran vs. Superintendent of Police, (2013) 12 SCC 480, this Court has noted few circumstances where the Court could exercise its constitutional power to transfer of investigation from State Police to CBI such as: (i) where high officials of State authorities are involved, or (ii) where the accusation itself is against the top officials of the investigating agency thereby allowing them to influence the investigation, or (iii) where investigation prima facie is found to be tainted/biased.

53. Most of the cases which were cited before us by the parties are the cases where this Court exercised jurisdiction under Article 32 in transferring the investigation at the instance of the victims. For a victim the investigation in a case is of much significance. In the event, a proper investigation is not carried out and relevant evidence which would have been collected by due care and caution, is not collected, the victim is sure not to get justice on such faulty investigation. In case of faulty investigation, where an accused has been wrongly roped in, he has the right to seek all remedies before the Court of Law for further investigation and a Court of Law is able to marshall all evidence and capable of discerning truth from evidence on record. Although as a principle, there is no fetter on an accused to move a Court of Law for transfer of investigation, but on the facts of this case as noted above, we do not think it to be a fit case where this Court may exercise jurisdiction under Article 32 to transfer the cases enmasse to an independent agency. The present case cannot be said to be a case of individual's persecution by the State authority."

13. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also placed reliance upon a decision of of this Court in the case of Omveer Vs. State of U.P. and others: 2008 (5) ADJ 698 (DB), paragraphs 13 and 15 of the said judgment read as follows:-

"13. The perusal of the application filed by the wife of Charan Singh accused does not indicate any cogent reasons on the basis of which further investigation was required. His application mentioned only earlier incident and the enmity. How and on what reasons the State Government came to the conclusion that further investigation is required is not born out from the impugned order. No reasons has been assigned by the State Government to give a latitude to the wife of the charge-sheeted absconding accused of a murder charge to have say in a matter of investigation. In our opinion, the impugned order seems to have been passed because of extraneous consideration and under political pressure. Learned AGA has also failed to point out any reason as to why investigation by SIS or any other agency was an indispensable necessity. The State Government, was not excepted to give a long rope to the accused of a murder charge to remain absconding and make him subject to the jurisdiction of the Court. Since the charge sheet has already been submitted and the accused never participated in the investigation and brought their version before the I.O. we fail to understand the reason why the State Government has allowed them to have a say in the matter when those absconding accused have got a scanty respect for the law.

15. In such a view, we are of the opinion that the impugned order has been passed because of extraneous consideration by the State Government and follow up order by the S.S.P. and therefore, we quash the impugned order dated 27.3.2008 passed by SSP Gautam Budh Nagar in case crime No. 302 of 2007, under Sections 302, 307 IPC and also order by State Government dated 26.3.2008. We direct the court concerned to proceed with the case forthwith after securing the presence of the accused persons. The accused persons would have full right to raise their grievance in the trial at the proper stage of framing of charge."

14. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also placed reliance upon a decision of this Court in the case of Kumari Aayasha Vs. State of U.P. and Ors: 2018(1) ADJ 85 (DB), paragraph 10 of the said judgment reads as as follows:-

"10. Upon consideration of the judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to above we find that the order dated 18.5.2016 passed by the Secretary, Department of Home, Government of U.P., Lucknow, has been passed at the behest of the wife of one of the accused namely Waqil Ahmad. The only ground discernible from the order dated 18.5.2016 for transferring the case to C.B.C.I.D. appears to be the plea of alibi raised by the applicant Smt. Safia in respect of some of the accused persons. The order dated 18.5.2016 does not record a satisfaction regarding fulfilment of any of the conditions necessary for transfer of investigation from local police to C.B.C.I.D*. as provided, vide G.O. dated 05.09.1995. Furthermore, the report dated 30.03.2016 submitted by the Senior Superintendent of Police, Muzaffar Nagar does not recommend for transfer of the above mentioned case crime number to the C.B.C.I.D. Thus, the learned counsel for the petitioner is right in contending before us that the impugned order dated 18.05.2016 passed by the respondent No. 1 is violative of the G.O. dated 22.10.2014 and contrary to the report dated 30.03.2016 submitted by the Senior Superintendent of Police, Muzaffar Nagar."*

15. The learned counsel for the petitioner has also placed reliance upon a decision of this Court passed in Smt. Vandana Srivastava Vs. State of U.P. and 4 others: 2014 (7) ADJ 679 (DB). Relevant portion of the aforesaid judgment reads follows:-

"We may only record that despite specific query being made to the learned Government Advocate and the battery of the learned AGAs, who are present in the Court, none could inform the Court as to what Government orders apply in matter of exercise of power of transfer. What has been referred to, to this Court is only a letter of the Additional Director General of Police (Apraadh Evam Kanoon Vyawastha, U.P.) dated 12th December 2012. We fail to understand as to how a letter of the Additional Director General of Police can control the discretion of the State Government, being a subordinate officer.

But what we find is that under the said circular, guidelines have been laid down in the matter of transfer of investigation and it has specifically been provided various clauses that in normal circumstances no order for transfer should be made on an application of an accused. Every attempt should be made to get the investigation completed on merits in a fair and diligent manner. It has again been repeated that normally no transfer could be affected on the asking of the accused. In paragraph 5 of the circular it has been mentioned that if it is necessary to transfer the investigation in special circumstances, then the conditions existing for such transfer should specifically be mentioned in the order itself and an intimation be given to the higher authorities/State etc.

We are of the opinion that what applies in the matter of transfer of the investigation by the higher police officers applies with full force in the matter of exercise of discretion for transfer by the State Government. In as much as, it is the case of the State itself that the power to transfer the investigation both in favour of the State Government as well as in favour of the higher police authorities flows from Section 36 of the Code of Criminal Procedure read with section 3 of the Police Act, 1961.

We are very sorry to record that the State will not follow any guideline in the matter of exercise of discretion qua transfer of investigation and would continue to act arbitrarily. This Court is facing petitions every day where orders of transfer of investigation are being challenged not only on merit but also on the ground that they contain no reasons.

The practice must be put to an end. Such kinds of orders of transfer of investigation have the affect of loss of confidence of common public in the criminal justice system of this State.

The higher the authorities the higher the responsibility for exercise of power of transfer on cogent grounds and sparingly. Power of transfer of investigation cannot be made a tool in the hands of accused or other involved in the matter to prolong the investigation on some pretext or the other.

We deem it fit and proper to issue following directions in the matter of transfer of investigation by the higher police authorities or by the State Government:

(a) normally there should be no any order of transfer of investigation on an application made by an accused.

(b) Every attempt should be made by the higher police authorities/State on receipt of an application for transfer of investigation to first ensure that the investigation is done by the concerned Police Station/concerned police authority in a fair and diligent manner.

(c) Before passing any order on an application for transfer of investigation, the minimum expected from the State Government or from the higher police officers is to obtain a report from the Investigating Officer qua the status of the investigation and the order of the High Court, if any, in respect of the case crime number.

d. If it is absolutely necessary to pass an order of transfer of investigation on the application of an accused, then the minimum required would be that the order must be supported by cogent reasons with reference to the material available with the authority transferring the investigation.

(e) If necessary and permissible, an opportunity should also be afforded to the informant/complainant before making any such order of transfer."

16. Per contra, the contention of the learned counsel for the respondent no.10 is that he was selected on the post of Block Education Officer on 24.03.2021 and was posted at Block Saltauwa on 29.06.2021 and at the time when inspection of the school was done on 26.08.2021, the petitioner was absent and when the school was inspected again on 01.09.2021, the petitioner was absent on that date too. It is further contended that the matter was referred to B.S.A. on 08.09.2021 and on the date of trap, no matter was pending before the respondent no.10. Learned counsel for the respondent no.10 has relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Mohan Lal Vs. State of Punjab: AIR 2018 SC 3853 with specific reference to paragraphs 11 and 12. For ready reference, paragraphs 11 and 12 of the said judgment are being quoted below:-

"11. A fair trial to an accused, a constitutional guarantee under Article 21 of the Constitution, would be a hollow promise if the investigation in a NDPS case were not to be fair or raises serious questions about its fairness apparent on the face of the investigation. In the nature of the reverse burden of proof, the onus will lie on the prosecution to demonstrate on the face of it that the investigation was fair, judicious with no circumstances that may raise doubts about its veracity. The obligation of proof beyond reasonable doubt will take within its ambit a fair investigation, in absence of which there can be no fair trial. If the investigation itself is unfair, to require the accused to demonstrate prejudice will be fraught with danger vesting arbitrary powers in the police which may well lead to false implication also. Investigation in such a case would then become an empty formality and a farce. Such an interpretation therefore naturally has to be avoided.

12. That investigation in a criminal offence must be free from objectionable features or infirmities which may legitimately lead to a grievance on part of the accused was noticed in Babubhai vs. State of Gujarat, (2010) 12 SCC 254: as follows:

"32. The investigation into a criminal offence must be free from objectionable features or infirmities which may legitimately lead to a grievance on the part of the accused that investigation was unfair and carried out with an ulterior motive. It is also the duty of the investigating officer to conduct the investigation avoiding any kind of mischief and harassment to any of the accused. The investigating officer should be fair and conscious so as to rule out any possibility of fabrication of evidence and his impartial conduct must dispel any suspicion as to its genuineness. The investigating officer "is not merely to bolster up a prosecution case with such evidence as may enable the court to record a conviction but to bring out the real unvarnished truth".

33. In State of Bihar v. P.P. Sharma (AIR 1991 SC 1261) this Court has held as under:

"57. ... Investigation is a delicate painstaking and dextrous process. Ethical conduct is absolutely essential for investigative professionalism. ... Therefore, before countenancing such allegations of mala fides or bias it is salutary and an onerous duty and responsibility of the court, not only to insist upon making specific and definite allegations of personal animosity against the investigating officer at the start of the investigation but also must insist to establish and prove them from the facts and circumstances to the satisfaction of the court.

59. Malice in law could be inferred from doing of wrongful act intentionally without any just cause or excuse or without there being reasonable relation to the purpose of the exercise of statutory power. ...

61. An investigating officer who is not sensitive to the constitutional mandates, may be prone to trample upon the personal liberty of a person when he is actuated by mala fides."

17. Learned counsel for the respondent no.10 has further placed reliance upon a decision of Madras High Court in the case of A.V. Bellarmin Vs. Mr. V. Santhakumaran Nair passed in Criminal O.P. (MD) No.12212 of 2013 and M.P. (MD) Nos.1 and 2 of 2013, decided on 13.08.2015. Paragraph no. 14 of the aforesaid judgment reads as follows:-

"14. Instrumentality of a State and its officials must conform to the Rule of Law leading to fairness in action. It has been well established that fairness is a facet of Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Such a fairness in action is also mandatorily to be followed in a criminal investigation. A right to a fair investigation is not only a constitutional right but a natural right as well. In Sathyavani Ponrani v. Samuel Raj, 2010 (4) CTC 833, while dealing with fair investigation, this Court has held that the same is mandatory under Articles 14, 21 and 39 of the Constitution of India. The following paragraphs would be apposite:

6.Free and Fair Investigation and Trial is enshrined in Article 14, 21 and 39-A of the Constitution of India. It is the duty of the state to ensure that every citizen of the country should have the free and fair investigation and trial. The preamble and the constitution are compulsive and not facultative, in that free access to the form of justice is integral to the core right to equality, regarded as a basic feature of our Constitution. Therefore such a right is a constitutional right as well as a fundamental right. Such a right cannot be confined only to the accused but also to the victim depending upon the facts of the case. Therefore such a right is not only a constitutional right but also a human right. Any procedure which comes in a way of a party in getting a fair trial would in violation of Article 14 of the Constitution.

67.The Hon'ble Apex Court in ZAHIRA HABIBULLA H. SHEIKH v. STATE OF GUJARAT [(2004) 4 SCC 158] has observed as follows:

"36. The principles of rule of law and due process are closely linked with human rights protection. Such rights can be protected effectively when a citizen has recourse to the courts of law. It has to be unmistakably understood that a trial which is primarily aimed at ascertaining the truth has to be fair to all concerned. There can be no analytical, all-comprehensive or exhaustive definition of the concept of a fair trial, and it may have to be determined in seemingly infinite variety of actual situations with the ultimate object in mind viz. whether something that was done or said either before or at the trial deprived the quality of fairness to a degree where a miscarriage of justice has resulted. It will not be correct to say that it is only the accused who must be fairly dealt with. That would be turning a Nelson's eye to the needs of the society at large and the victims or their family members and relatives. Each one has an inbuilt right to be dealt with fairly in a criminal trial. Denial of a fair trial is as much injustice to the accused as is to the victim and the society. Fair trial obviously would mean a trial before an impartial judge, a fair prosecutor and atmosphere of judicial calm. Fair trial means a trial in which bias or prejudice for or against the accused, the witnesses, or the cause which is being tried is eliminated. If the witnesses get threatened or are forced to give false evidence that also would not result in a fair trial. The failure to hear material witnesses is certainly denial of fair trial."

18. Learned counsel for the respondent no.10 has further relied upon a decision of the Apex Court in the case of Nirmal Singh Kahlon Vs. State of Punjab and others: (2009) 1 SCC 441. Paragraph 28 of the aforesaid judgment reads as follows:-

"An accused is entitled to a fair investigation. Fair investigation and fair trial are concomitant to preservation of fundamental right of an accused under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. But the State has a larger obligation i.e. to maintain law and order, public order and preservation of peace and harmony in the society. A victim of a crime, thus, is equally entitled to a fair investigation. When serious allegations were made against a former Minister of the State, save and except the cases of political revenge amounting to malice, it is for the State to entrust one or the other agency for the purpose of investigating into the matter."

19. Learned counsel for the respondent no.10 has further relied upon same authorities that have been relied upon by the petitioner side viz. Vandana Srivastava (supra), Km Aayasha (supra), Omveer (supra), Bimal Gurung (supra).

20. In sum and substance the contention of the learned counsel for the respondent no.10 is that fair investigation as well as fair trial is fundamental right of the accused and, therefore, it is the duty of the investigating agency as well as the courts of law to ensure that investigation is conducted in fair and impartial manner.

21. Learned AGA, on the other hand, submits that investigation was already on its conclusion when the present writ petition was filed and on account of interim order passed by this Court on 04.01.2023, no further proceedings, either way, could be held. He has also placed for perusal of court Parcha No.14 dated 04.01.2023 being part of the record of investigation, which recites that most of the evidences and statements have already been collected/recorded during the course of investigation.

22. During the course of arguments, a dispute arose with respect to the aspect of sanction. Whereas the contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner is to the effect that papers for obtaining requisite sanction under the Statute have already been sent to the State Government as stands reflected from Annexure No.6 to the writ petition, the learned counsel for the respondent no.10 on the other hand submits that no such record is available with the State Government and, therefore, the contention advanced with regard to sanction is fallacious.

23. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties, having perused the record and having carefully examined the ratio laid down in the authorities cited at the Bar, we find that the impugned order dated 17.05.2022 transferring investigation from Gorakhpur Sector to Lucknow Sector of the Vigilance Department is based upon letters of Ministers on the one hand and representation of the accused (respondent no.10) on the other. The order impugned does not disclose any other cogent or valid reason for transferring the investigation. Even from perusal of affidavit of Shri Awanish Kumar Awasthi, this Court finds that it is admitted to the State-Authorities that the orders impugned dated 17.05.2022 and 02.06.2022 have been passed after considering the representation moved by respondent No. 10 (Shri Manoj Kumar Singh). Further stand taken in the affidavit of Shri Awasthi that the reasons for transfer are mentioned in both the said impugned orders, does not stand reflected from the orders impugned as no reason other than political interference and representation of respondent No. 10 has been mentioned in both the said orders.

24. Therefore, we find substance in the arguments of the learned counsel for the petitioner that the law laid down by the Supreme Court as well as this Court to the effect that investigation normally cannot be transferred at the behest of accused person has been violated in the present case and, even otherwise, political interference in the matter of transfer of investigation from one agency to the other is apparent even from bare perusal of the order impugned dated 17.05.2022. This Court does not find any speaking reason or ground which could justify transfer of investigation except the reasons disclosed in the order impugned dated 17.05.2022. Further the case is not of exceptional or rare nature in which transfer of investigation could be said to be justified.

25. Keeping in view all the aforesaid facts and circumstances of the case, we find that the order impugned dated 17.05.2022 being based on political interference and having been passed at the behest of accused (respondent no.10) and being bereft of any valid or cogent reasoning, cannot be sustained and is liable to be set aside. Similarly the consequential order dated 02.06.2022 also cannot be sustained and is liable to be set aside.

26. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed. The order impugned dated 17.05.2022 as well as consequential order dated 02.06.2022 transferring investigation of Case Crime No.5 of 2022 from Gorakhpur Sector of U.P. (Vigilance Establishment) to Lucknow Sector (Vigilance Establishment) are hereby quashed by issuing a writ of certiorari.

27. At this stage, learned counsel for the petitioner presses prayer no.(b), which is with regard to issuing a direction to the respondent no.4 to pass appropriate orders under Section 19 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, regarding sanction of prosecution. We find that at this stage the prayer (b), as claimed, cannot be granted, inasmuch as, once the orders impugned dated 17.05.2022 and 02.06.2022 are set aside, further consequences would certainly follow in accordance with law and hence with regard to prayer made in relation to Section 19 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, it is for the competent authority to take final call in this regard within a period of three months from the date a certified copy of this order is produced before the said authority.

Counsel for the Respondents:

(A) Criminal Law - The Constitution Of India - Article 19 - Right to Freedom - Liberty of free expression is not to be confounded or confused with license to make unfounded allegations against any institution, much less the Judiciary - freedom is never absolute because the makers of the Constitution have imposed certain restrictions upon it - Particularly when such Freedom of Speech is sought to be abused and it has the effect of scandalising the institution as a whole and the persons who are part of the said institution and cannot defend themselves publicly, the same cannot be permitted in law - Lawyers and litigants cannot be permitted to 'terrorise' or 'intimidate' Judges with a view to 'secure' orders which they want. (Para - 18,19,20)

Petitioner used all sorts of canards and unfounded insinuations against Presiding Officer - seeking direction to institute an inquiry against concerned judicial officer - vague and bald - absolutely no material to substantiate - apprehensions made petitioner - such kind of ultra sensitiveness cannot constitute any legitimate ground - nothing on record to establish any nexus between concern presiding officer and the informant, petitioner's opponent. (Para - 17,25)

HELD:-Not a fit case to exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. Petition filed leveling unsubstantiated allegations against presiding officer based on unfounded apprehensions, and the petitioner wasted precious time of the Court by filing frivolous litigation.(Para - 26)

Petition dismissed with cost. (E-7)

7. Vishram Singh Raghubanshi Vs St. of U. P. , (2011) 7 SCC 776

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Birla, J. & Hon'ble Rahul Chaturvedi, J.)

1. Heard Shri Ravi Kumar, the petitioner, appearing in person before us to plead his own case; learned AGA for the State of UP and perused the pleadings of aforesaid writ petition and the prayer sought by the petitioner.

2. At the outset we were shocked and stunned to see the array of the respondent parties, whereby, Smt. Mahima Jain, a serving judicial officer, presently posted as Civil Judge (J.D.)/F.T.C.-2, Gautam Budh Nagar is arrayed as respondent no.2 and Smt. Kusumlata Daksh, Bench Secretary (Peshkar) attached to the Court of Civil Judge (J.D.)/F.T.C.-2, Gautam Budh Nagar as respondent no.3. This Court records its strongest exception to such type of loose and irresponsible drafting of the petition; whereby every man on road (the petitioner) assumes a right to use any number of castic innuendos and pungent remarks upon judicial officer's integrity. Though, this issue would be dealt at the later part of the judgment in more befitting way, but, at this juncture we record our grave concern to such type of pratices.

3. Now coming to next issue, whereby Mr. Ravi Kumar, the petitioner himself has drafted the petition in Hindi and sought following prayers. At this stage we may clarify that we have got no hesitation in admitting and entertaining the writ petition drafted in Hindi but it must carry some substance in it. The prayers sought by the petitioner are :

"अ . उपर्युक्त याचिका में उत्प्रेषणात्मक प्रकृति का आदेश या निर्देश जारी करते विपक्षी सं० 2 व 3 के विरूद्ध मुकदमा चलाने की अनुमति प्रदान करने की कृपा करें।

ब. उपर्युक्त याचिका में उत्प्रेषणात्मक प्रकृति का आदेश या निर्देश जारी करते हुए विपक्षी सं० 2 व 3 के विरूद्ध विभागीय जाँच के आदेश पारित करने की कृपा करें।

स. उपर्युक्त याचिका में तथ्यों एवं परिस्थितियों के आधार पर माननीय न्यायालय उपर्युक्त प्रकृति का आदेश या निर्देश जारी करने की कृपा करें।

द. उपर्युक्त याचिका में याची के हक में सव्यय आदेश या निर्देश जारी करने की कृपा करें। "

4. Thus, from above it is clear that the petitioner sought "उत्प्रेषणात्मक प्रकृति का आदेश" which, if translated in English means "Writ of Certiorari" was sought from us to initiate prosecution against respondent nos.2 and 3 and second (ii) Writ of certiorari is sought to initiate the departmental inquiry agianst respondent nos.2 and 3.

5. Without appreciating the nature and scope of writ of certiorari, the aforesaid two prayers were sought by Mr. Ravi Kumar, the petitioner, in person. Writ of Certiorari could be issued in cases, "Whenever any body of persons having legal authority to determine questions affecting rights of subjects and having the duty to act judicially but have acted in excess of their legal authority." The essential features and conditions under which "writ of certiorari' could be issued have been pointed out by Hon'ble Apex Court in Province of Bombay vs Khushaldas (AIR 1950 SC 222); T.C. Basappa vs T. Nagappa (AIR 1954 SC 440) and Hari Vishnu Kamath vs. ahmad Ishaque (AIR 1955 SC 233) and other most of the cases. Assessing the guidelines laid down in above judgments and the prayer sought by Mr. Ravi Kumar, the petitioner, we are afraid that we can not grant the prayer i.e. to initiate the prosecution against the respondent nos.2 and 3, nor we can grant relief to initiate the disciplinary/ departmental proceeding against them.

FACTS & CIRCUMSTANCES OF INSTANT CASE:-

6. Mr. Ravi Kumar, the petitioner is a chargesheeted accused of Case No.191 of 2018, arising out of Case Crime No.130 of 2016, u/s 498A, 323, 506, 342, 354 I.P.C. & ¾ of D.P.Act, P.S. Mahila Thana, District Gautam Budh Nagar, pending in the Court of Civil Judge (S.D.)/F.T.C., Gautam Budh Nagar. The aforesaid petitioner, through his counsel, has filed an Application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. No.13544 of 2018 (Smt. Satveeri and 4 others vs State of U.P.) assailing the legality and validity of the charge sheet as well as summoning order dated 12.3.2018. A Bench of this Court on 20.4.2018 referred the matter before Allahabad High Court Mediation & Conciliation Centre to enable the parties to settle down their differences and discord with the aid and help of Mediator. While passing the order, the Bench without entering into the merit of the case, keeping in vie the nature of accusation made thought it proper to refer the matter for mediation, directing the Mediation Centre to conclude the mediation process within two months and furnish its report. The Court had also stayed the proceedings of the Case No.191 of 2018 for the period of two months or till next date of listing. Relevant excerpts of the order dated 20.4.2018 are quoted below for the easy reference :-

"Without going into the merits of the applicants' case at this stage, since the matter is a matrimonial dispute between applicant no. 5 and opposite party no.2, who are husband and wife, it is desirable that the parties be required to attempt a re-conciliation of their differences with the assistance of Allahabad High Court Mediation and Conciliation Centre.

Learned counsel for the applicants is in agreement with the aforesaid course of action.

It is directed that petitioners shall deposit a sum of Rs. 15,000/- within three weeks from today with the Mediation Centre of which Rs. 12,000/- would be paid to the opposite party no. 2 for appearance before the Mediation Centre.

Upon deposit aforesaid being made good, the Mediation Centre will issue notice to both the parties fixing an early date for appearance and further proceedings before the Centre.

The Mediation Centre will submit their report within two months from the date parties are required to first appear before the Centre. Thereafter the case shall be listed before appropriate Bench.

Till the next date of listing, the further proceedings in Case No. 191 of 2018, arising out of case crime no. 130 of 2016, under Sections 498A, 323, 506, 342, 354 IPC and 3/4 of D.P. Act, P.S. Mahila Thana, District Gautam Buddh Nagar, pending in the court of learned Civil Judge (S.D.)/F.T.C., Gautam Budh Nagar shall remain stayed."

Its the own admission by Mr. Ravi Kumar that the process of mediation got aborted and no result has come out of the same.

7. The Court has occasion to summon the parent records of aforesaid Application u/s 482 No.13544 of 2018. Curiously enough, the matter was referred to the mediation process way back on 20.4.2018 and as per information rendered by the petitioner Mr. Ravi Kumar, the mediation failed in the year 2018 itself but there is no report available to this effect on the record. This is the most disgusting feature of the case. It is now a normal practice that such type of lapses often occur, where the reports, pleadings are never placed on record within the reasonable time. The Registrar General, Allahabad High Court is hereby directed to hold an inquiry to its logical end and fix the responsibility of erring employees and thereafter suitable departmental proceedings shall be initiated against them for not sending the report from Mediation Centre to the second concerned, so that the report may be placed on original records of the case at first opportunity.

8. Now coming back to the facts of the case, it is born out from the order-sheet of Application u/s 482 No.13544 of 2018 that during the period of last four years, since 20.4.2018 to till date, only on two occasions i.e. in the year 2022, following orders were passed :

(i) Order dated : 31.5.2022-
(On the application)
List in the week commencing 4.7.2022.
Interim order, if any, shall continue till next date of listing.
(ii) Order dated : 4.7.2022-
List after one month.
Interim order, if any, is extended till next date of listing."

9. Except the aforesaid two orders of 31.5.2022 and 4.7.2022 there were no orders of extending the interim order during last four years. As mentioned above, while referring the matter to A.H.C.M.C.C., in order to facilitate the contesting parties, the Court in its own wisdom while passing the parent interim order has put a cap of two months only. From October, 2018 till 31.5.2022 there was no orders as to extending the stay order.

10. Learned A.G.A. has drawn attention of the Court to the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court, In re : Asian Resurfacing of Road Agency Pvt. Ltd. and other Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, Crl. Appeal No.1375-1376 of 2010 decided on 28.03.2018, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has opined:-

"Situation of proceedings remaining pending for long on account of stay needs to be remedied. Remedy was required not only for corruption cases but for all civil and criminal cases where on account of stay, civil and criminal proceedings were held up. At times, proceedings were adjourned sine die on account of stay. Even after stay was vacated, intimation was not received and proceedings were not taken up. It was directed that in all pending cases where stay against proceedings of civil or criminal trial was operating, the same would come to end on expiry of six months from today unless in exceptional case by speaking order such stay was extended. In cases where stay was granted in future, same would end on expiry of six months from date of such order unless similar extension was granted by speaking order."

11. Thus, it is contended by the learned A.G.A. that the interim order dated 20.4.2018 was effective only up to six months. The petitioner never bothered to get the interim order extended during this period and he wants to enjoy the interim order for unlimited period on certain unfounded presumption and taking legal advice.

12. On the other hand, before the Magistrate, an application was moved on 7.11.2020/20.4.2022 along with the computer generated status report of the case, requesting the court to issue summons in the light of intervening developments.

13. Attention was also drawn to Annexure-5 of the writ petition, which is incomplete order-sheet starting from 01.12.2021 to 14.7.2022. From the perusal of this incomplete order-sheet it is evident that on 19.3.2021, N.B.W. was issued by the court to ensure his personal presence and on 20.9.2021, time was sought by the counsel for the petitioner to furnish relevant documents on the record. But it seems that no reference of those documents were ever furnished, which were supposed to be furnished by the applicant/now the petitioner herein. When the accused appeared in the Court and apprised that the aforesaid proceeding is still pending before this Court by means of 482 proceeding.

14. Now coming to the real crux of issue, relying over which the petitioner has used all sorts of canards and unfounded insinuations against the Presiding Officer.

15. Orders of two dates are relevant i.e. 11.8.2021 and 20.9.2021. We have keenly perused both these orders. On 11.8.2021, it has been mentioned that P.O. is on leave, accused were absent, let N.B.W. be issued fixing 24.9.2021. However, later on, on the same date in the presence of advocate of the accused he was directed to file certified copy of the order-sheet of Hon'ble High Court by 20.9.2021 (though later it was 24.9.2021), with the additional rider that accused shall remain present in the court. It was clarified, if there is no stay order from this Court, the accused have to appear on 20.9.2021 and apply for bail. On the next date fixed i.e.

20.9.2021 the P.O. was on leave, however, those documents were taken on record.

16. The petitioner Ravi Kumar has taken a strong exception of preponing of the date from 24.9.2021 to 20.9.2021 which was in the presence and knowledge of his counsel and despite of our repeated warnings not to use harsh expression against the Presiding officer, he keep on using those uncalled for expressions against the learned Presding Officer. Not only this in his pleadings in the writ petition, he states that :-

"8- यह की परिवाद संख्या 191/2018 शिवानी बनाम रवि कुमार आदि में दिनांक 11/08/2021 को अग्रिम नियत दिनांक 24/9/2021 नियत की गयी और बिना पक्षकारों को सूचित किये बिना उचित क़ानूनी प्रक्रिया अपनाए बिना विपक्षी संख्या 02 व 03 की मिलीभगत (षड़यंत्र) के चलते परिवाद संख्या 191/2018 शिवानी बनाम रवि कुमार आदि की ऑर्डरशीट में जालसाजी करके दी० 24/09/21 की जगह दी0 01/09/2021 नियत कर दिया गयी. जो कि कानून का स्पष्ट रूप से उल्लंघन किया गया है जिससे प्रार्थी व अन्य के विरुद्ध धोखे से 82, 83 की कार्यवाही की जा सके. और जिससे याचिकर्ता पर नाजायज दबाव बनाकर जमानत करने के लिए विवश किया जा सके और याचिकर्ता की 482 संख्या 13544/18 महत्वहीन की जा सके."

17. This is nothing but a deliberate and intentional attempt on the part of Ravi Kumar, the petitioner to browbeat a judicial officer and kneel down him by casting absolute canard and venom vomiting against him. There is nothing on record to establish any nexus between the concern presiding officer and the informant, petitioner's opponent. This is nothing but a stinking attempt on the part of petitioner to put a question mark on the integrity of the Presiding Judge, which has to be handled with iron hands by the superior courts. All these developments as culled out from the order sheet, was in front of petitioner's counsel. The court has unable to gather any conspiracy theory between the Presiding officer and petitioner's opponents, as alleged in para 8 of the writ petition. At the cost of repetition, we have tried to persuade the petitioner Mr. Ravi Kumar not to do so but stubborn petitioner keep on hammering his arguments and wasting the time of the Court. The allegations made are scandalous and are capable of shaking the very edifice of the judicial administration and also shaking the faith of common man in the administration of justice.

LEGAL DISCUSSION :

18. In this regard, at this juncture it is imperative to spell out the view taken by the Hon'ble Supreme Cout in Suo Motu Contempt Petition (Crl.) No.1 OF 2020 IN RE : Prashant Bhushan and another, whereby the Hon'ble Apex Court categorically expressed its concern and observed thus :

"34. Though there is a Freedom of Speech, freedom is never absolute because the makers of the Constitution have imposed certain restrictions upon it. Particularly when such Freedom of Speech is sought to be abused and it has the effect of scandalising the institution as a whole and the persons who are part of the said institution and cannot defend themselves publicly, the same cannot be permitted in law. Though a fair criticism of judgment is permissible in law, a person cannot exceed the right under Article 19(1)(a) of the Constitution to scandalize the institution.

35. It is apparent that the contemnor is involved in making allegations against the retired and sitting Judges. On one hand, our attention was attracted by Shri Dushyant Dave, learned senior counsel, towards the norms of judicial conduct which also provide that Judges cannot express an opinion in the public. The Judges have to express their opinion by their judgments, and they cannot enter into public debate or go to press. It is very easy to make any allegation against the Judges in the newspaper and media. Judges have to be the silent sufferer of such allegations, and they cannot counter such allegations publicly by going on public platforms, newspapers or media. Nor can they write anything about the correctness of the various wild allegations made, except when they are dealing with the matter. Retired Judges do have the prestige that they have earned by dint of hard work and dedication to this institution. They are also not supposed to be answering each and every allegation made and enter into public debate. Thus, it is necessary that when they cannot speak out, they cannot be made to suffer the loss of their reputation and prestige, which is essential part of the right to live with dignity. The Bar is supposed to be the spokesperson for the protection of the judicial system. They are an integral part of the system. The Bar and Bench are part of the same system i.e. the judicial system, and enjoy equal reputation. If a scathing attack is made on the judges, it would become difficult for them to work fearlessly and with the objectivity of approach to the issues. The judgment can be criticized. However, motives to the Judges need not be attributed, as it brings the administration of justice into disrepute. In Halsbury's Laws of England, Fourth Edition, Volume 9, in para 27, it is observed that the punishment is inflicted, not for the purpose of protecting either the Court as a whole or the individual Judges of the Court from repetition of the attack but for protecting the public and especially those who either voluntarily or by compulsion are subject to the jurisdiction of the Court, from the mischief they will incur if the authority of the Tribunal is undermined or impaired. Hostile criticism of the judges or judiciary is definitely an act of scandalizing the Court. Defamatory publication concerning the Judge or institution brings impediment to justice."

19. At this juncture it would be useful to refer the decision of The Himanchal High Court in "Court on its own Motion vs Coram" decided on 24th August, 2018, whereby the Himanchal High Court while thrashing the several judgment has held that :

"17. It has to be remembered that the subordinate judiciary forms the very backbone of the administration of justice and the higher court would come down with a heavy hand for preventing the judges of the subordinate judiciary from being subjected to scurrilous and indecent attacks, which scandalize or have the tendency to scandalize, or lower or have the tendency to lower the authority of any court as also all such actions which interfere or tend to interfere with the due course of any judicial proceedings or obstruct or tend to obstruct the administration of justice in any other manner.

18. No affront to the majesty of law can be permitted. The fountain of justice cannot be allowed to be polluted by disgruntled litigants or lawyers. The protection is necessary for the courts to enable them to discharge their judicial functions without fear. (Ajay Kumar Pandey, Advocate, (1998) 7 SCC 248).

19. It is well settled that litigant or for that matter even a lawyer cannot be permitted to browbeat the court or terrorize or intimidate the Judges as held by the

Hon'ble Supreme Court in Chetak Construction Ltd. v. Om Prakash (1998) 4 SCC 577:

"16. Indeed, no lawyer or litigant can be permitted to browbeat the court or malign the presiding officer with a view to get a favourable order. Judges shall not be able to perform their duties freely and fairly if such activities were permitted and in the result administration of justice would become a casualty and the rule of law would receive a setback. The Judges are obliged to decide cases impartially and without any fear or favour. Lawyers and litigants cannot be permitted to 'terrorise' or 'intimidate' Judges with a view to 'secure' orders which they want. This is basic and fundamental and no civilized system of administration of justice can permit it."

20. These observations were subsequently, reiterated in Radha Mohan Lal v. Rajasthan High Court (2003) 3 SCC 427.

21. Reverting back to the facts, it would be noticed that the genesis of the entire episode appears to be the application filed by respondent/contemnor for release of the vehicle. In case the respondent/contemnor felt that the same was not being decided expeditiously or the decision rendered by the Magistrate was in any way wrong or erroneous, he could have resorted to lawful remedies butcould not have resorted to Judge bashing and using derogatory and contemptuous language against Judges.

22. No Judge is infallible and the order passed by him/her may or may not be correct, but that would not give a litigant much less a lawyer to indulge in Judge bashing. The Hon'ble Supreme Court inHaridas Das vs. Usha Rani Banik (Smt.) and others APU Banik(2007) 14 SCC 1 has rightly observed as under:

"1. "Judge bashing" and using derogatory and contemptuous language against Judges has become a favourite pastime of some people. These statements tend to scandalize and lower the authority of the Courts and can not be permitted because, for functioning of democracy, an independent judiciary to dispense justice without fear and favour is paramount. Its strength is the faith and confidence of the people in that institution. That cannot be permitted to be undermined because that will be against the public interest.

2. Judiciary should not be reduced to the position of flies in the hands of wanton boys. Judge bashing is not and cannot be a substitute for constructive criticism.

12. There is guarantee of the Constitution of India that there will be freedom of speech and writing, but reasonable restriction can be imposed. It will be of relevance to compare the various suggestions as prevalent in America and India. It is worthwhile to note that all utterances against a Judge or concerning a pending case do not in America amount to contempt of Court. InArticle 19the expression "reasonable restrictions" is used which is almost at par with the American phraseology "inherenttendency" or "reasonable tendency". The Supreme Court of America in Bridges v California (1911) 86 Law Ed. 192 said:

"What finally emerges from the clear and present danger cases is a working principle that the substantive evil must be extremely serious and the degree of imminence extremely serious and the degree of imminence extremely high before utterances can be punished."

20. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vishram Singh Raghubanshi Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh (2011) 7 SCC 776, has noted the dangerous trend of making false allegations against judicial officers and observed as under:

"18. The dangerous trend of making false allegations against judicial officers and humiliating them requires to be curbed with heavy hands, otherwise the judicial system itself would collapse. The Bench and the Bar have to avoid unwarranted situations on trivial issues that hamper the cause of justice and are in the interest of none. "Liberty of free expression is not to be confounded or confused with license to make unfounded allegations against any institution, much less the Judiciary". A lawyer cannot associate himself with his client maligning the reputation of judicial officers merely because his client failed to secure the desired order from the said officer. A deliberate attempt to scandalise the court which would shake the confidence of the litigating public in the system, would cause a very serious damage to the Institution of judiciary. An Advocate in a profession should be diligent and his conduct should also be diligent and conform to the requirements of the law by which an Advocate plays a vital role in the preservation of society and justice system. Any violation of the principles of professional ethics by an Advocate is unfortunate and unacceptable. (Vide: O.P. Sharma & Ors. v. High Court of Punjab & Haryana, (2011) 5 SCALE 518)."

21. We are now-a-days living in a democracy in its ugliest form; where nobody has got any regard for any institution. This is unholy and dangerous sign that all and sundry are making unfounded and unsubstantiated allegations against judiciary in an irresponsible manner. Making irresponsible insinuations upon the judiciary or its officers has now become a fashion. This unholy practice has to be whole-heartedly discouraged and deplored by every responsible person of the society. Judiciary is one of the strongest pillars of any healthy democracy. This fact receives more significance when recently we have celebrated our 75th Independence Day. In order to strengthen the foremost pillars of democracy, there should be mutual regard. The subjects of that democracy too are expected to not become liberal and irresponsible in their expression. The Superior Courts are bound to protect their subordinate courts.

22. This Court records its strongest anguish and concern that the people at large are now making unwarranted and unsubstantiated and canards against the judicial officers relying upon their whims and capricious and making irresponsible allegations of dishonesty. The higher courts are duty bound to save the dignity and honour of the system in general and the individual judicial officer as well that no person is permitted to make a sweeping and wild allegations regarding the integrity and character of any judicial officer.

23. The apprehension of the petitioner solely springs from the uncalled for preponing the date as has been described hereinbefore, which according to the petitioner is tantamount to a conspiracy of the judge and his predilection towards prosecution side. The unsubstantiated paranoia of an ultra-conscious litigant and his illegitimate apprehensions cannot make us to believe on them and also cannot constitute a legitimate ground to allow the prayer sough in the petition. The Judges are also the parts of the society just as everybody else is and they do not live in ivory towers. The upsurge of particular type of social crimes causes concern of the judges also who in an important way have also to deal with such crimes in their judicial capacity, therefore, if at some stage some judge ventilates his exasperation at commission of certain crimes which may sometimes appear to be revolting against the collective consents of humanity of which the judge himself is an integral part. Such expressions must not be mistaken to be any abdication of judicious independent thinking. Nor should it be interpreted as an indication that such presiding officer shall not adhere to the shorn duties as a Judge.

24. If there is some such order passed by the trial court with which the petitioner feels aggrieved, the right course is to challenge the same in judicial capacity in the higher courts. The propriety or correctness of any step or order taken or adopted by any judicial officer is amenable to jurisdiction of the superior court. So far as the allegation that the presiding officer is hand in glove with the opposite party is concerned, our judicial institutions are robust enough not to be swayed by any such parochial considerations. It is very easy to make insinuation against the presiding officer like this. We do not find any substantial record on the basis of which it may hold that either presiding officer has been approached or the petitioner has been nurtured holds water. The allegation as has been fastened by the petitioner against the presiding officer is too vague and conjectural and perhaps even irrelevant and simply cannot persuade us.

25. Submission as has been raised by the petitioner in order to seek direction to institute an inquiry against the concerned judicial officer is very vague and bald. There is absolutely no material to substantiate the same. It is very difficult to accept such kind of unsubstantiated insinuations to become a legitimate ground to initiate any inquiry. The apprehensions as have been made by the petitioner seems to be wholly unfounded and such kind of ultra sensitiveness cannot constitute any legitimate ground to allow the prayer sought in the petition.

26. We conclude that this is not a fit case where this court should exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India and as we have noted that the present petition is filed levelling unsubstantiated allegations against the presiding officer based on unfounded apprehensions and petitioner has wasted precious time of the Court by filing frivolous litigation, under circumstances, the present writ petition stands dismissed with costs of Rs.50,000/- to be paid to the State Exchequer.

27. The petitioner shall deposit the cost of Rs.50,000/- with the Registrar General of this Court within a period of five months from today. On deposit of such cost, it shall be transmitted to the account of Allahabad High Court Mediation & Conciliation Centre. If the petitioner fails to deposit the cost of Rs.50,000/- (Rs. Fifty thousand), the Registrar General of this Court shall inform the District Magistrate/Collector, Gautam Budh Nagar for recovery of the said amount as arrears of land revenue, who shall after recovering the same amount from the petitioner, transmit it to the Registrar General of this Court for depositing in the account of Allahabad High Court Mediation & Conciliation Centre within a further period of three months.

28. Let a copy of this judgment be communicated to the learned District & Sessions Judge, Gautam Budh Nagar as well as to Ms. Mahima Jain, Judicial Officer/Civil Judge (J.D.)/F.T.C.-2, Gautam Budh Nagar by the Registrar (Compliance) of this Court forthwith.

29. Let the copy of this order be circulated to every sessions division by Registrar General of this Court.

1. Hear Sri Rajeev Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri O.P. Rai and Ashish Rai, learned counsel for the respondent no. 3 and learned A.G.A. for the state and perused the material on record.

2. Instant habeas corpus petition has been filed by the petitioner no. 2 Smt. Anu Kumari on behalf of the corpus Viraj Bhati (minor) as well as on her own behalf and has sought following relief in the petition:-

"(i) issue a writ of habeas corpus, directing the respondent no. 3 to produce the corpus/petitioner no. 1/minor boy/son of petitioner no. 2 before this Hon'ble

Court who is illegally detained by his grandmother/respondent no. 3 in the parental house of his late father situated at B-16, C-2, Everest Apartment, Shalimar Garden, Extension II, Sahibabad and District-Ghaziabad against the wish by the petitioner no. 1 to petitioner no. 2 on video call happened on 22.4.2022.

(ii) Issue any other suitable order or direction as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the circumstances of the case for producing the corpus.

(iii) Award the cost of the habeas corpus petition to the petitioners."

3. Learned counsel for the petitioners based his submissions on averments made in writ petition and submitted that petitioner no. 1 is minor son of petitioner no. 2, born out of wedlock of petitioner no. 2 and her husband Vivek Bhati. Their marriage was solemnized on 7.3.2014 with the consent of parties as well as with consent of their family members in accordance with Hindu rites and rituals. Petitioner no. 2 resided with her husband in a rented house at Krishna Nagar East, Delhi. Petitioner no. 2 is presently residing in District Bulandshahar along with her father. Birthday of the corpus was celebrated by petitioner no. 2 and respondent no. 3, however, the child is presently detained by respondent no. 3 in parental house of corpus. Father-in-law of the petitioner no. 2 namely Satpal Bhati was a leading Advocate at District Ghaziabad and husband of petitioner no. 2 Vivek Bhati and his younger brother Mr. Varun Bhati were also Advocates, however, father-in-law of petitioner no. 2 died untimely, thus entire family became shocked. Husband of petitioner no. 2 started consuming liquor frequently and this was opposed by petitioner no. 2. He also used to physically assault her and used to make demand of dowry as such she lodged an F.I.R. on 30.3.2021 against her husband and his family members under Sections 498A, 323, 504, 506, 307 IPC and ¾ D.P. Act, which is registered as case crime no. 242 of 2021 at P.S. Kotwali Shahar, District Bulandshahar. Unfortunately husband of petitioner no. 2 died in a road accident on 9.4.2021. Petitioner no. 2 became widow due to death of her husband. She is graduate in commerce and started working as Sales Executive in a Company named as Ferns Petals to meet out household expenses and for the welfare of her small child. For enhancing her monthly income, petitioner no. 2 also started online sale of household goods by taking assistance of her retired father, who was in Army. Petitioner no. 2 is apprehending threat to her life from her mother-in-law. She also apprehends threat to life of her minor son, who is co-sharer of landed property of respondent no. 3 and her son Varun Bhati, who is an Advocate. Respondent no. 3 is infirm and old aged lady in whose custody corpus is presently lying due to death of her father-in-law and husband, and family outcome of her in-laws has deteriorated. It is further submitted that petitioner no. 2 is concerned about future and education of her minor son, who is illegally detained by respondent no. 3 and her son Varun Bhati as her son Varun bhati is an Advocate in Ghaziabad. She is fearful of approaching local Court for custody of minor child due to attitude of local lawyers in favour of her brother-in-law and son of respondent no. 3, therefore it is prayed that child may be directed to be produced before the Court and necessary order may be passed regarding transfer of custody of corpus in favour of petitioner no. 2, who is her natural guardian.

4. Per contra, learned A.G.A. as well as learned counsel for the private respondents objected the prayer made by the petitioner no. 2 in writ petition. It is further argued that actual date of birth of petitioner no. 1 is 15.3.2015 and not 15.3.2016 as stated in writ petition. This fact can be verified from birth certificate issued from Nagar Nigam Ghaziabad and Ambey Hospital, a copy of birth certificate has been filed as Annexure CA-2 with counter affidavit. Custody of child was initially with his late father and after his death, it passes on respondent no. 3 (grandmother of corpus) and his uncle Varun Bhati. Petitioner no. 2 did not come to take forward the custody of corpus at the time of death of her husband and at that time respondent no. 3 and her son were only person who looked after petitioner no. 1. In fact she was never interested in custody of her child for a period of almost two years and the child is lying along with his grandmother and uncle. As the child is lying in custody of his grandmother and uncle, he cannot be said to be lying in illegal custody and present habeas corpus is not maintainable as such and appropriate remedy is available to the petitioner no. 2 to approach the statutory forum available under law seeking custody of the child. The petitioner no. 2 is presently not employed in Company named as Ferns Petals as she was terminated on 30.8.2021 and a certificate has been issued in this regard by Sri Gaurav Jain, partner of said firm, which is filed along with counter affidavit. The child is being imparted quality education by respondent no. 3 and his uncle Varun Bhati and is obtaining outstanding colour in his studies. Uncle of child Varun Bhati earns sufficiently and he is an Income-tax payee and is able to meet out academic and other expenses of child. Petitioner no. 1 is not willing to reside with his mother and is happily residing with his grandmother and uncle. He is aged around 7 years and is deeply attached with his grandmother and uncle.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner placed reliance on a case decided by this Court in Master Advait Sharma Vs. State of U.P. and five others, 2021 0 Supreme (All) 216, wherein matter of custody of minor child between his parents was occupied the centre stage of controversy. The child's misfortune, circumstanced as he is, is the fallout of an estrangement of his parents, who did not seem to have got along in matrimony. Both were highly educated and employed in a reputed companies. Both sides levelled a number of allegations against each other in their pleadings which were impleaded with virtues claimed for themselves and demonizing the other party including in-laws on both sides. This Court considered the provisions of Section 6-a of the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act, 1956, wherein it is provided that natural guardian of a Hindu, minor, in respect of minor's persons as well as in respect of minor's property (excluding his or her undivided interest in combined family property), are- (a) in the case of a boy or an unmarried girl- the father, and after him, the mother: provided that the custody of a minor who has not completed the age of five years shall ordinarily be with the mother. This Court observed in paragraph nos. 44, 49, 51 as under:-

44. The provision lays down the Rule that notwithstanding the father being the natural guardian, the custody of a minor, who has not completed the age of five years, ought ordinarily be with the mother. This rule echoes experience of mankind that mothers are best suited to take care of very young children. Since, however, welfare of a child is of paramount consideration, the proviso to Section 6(a) of the Act of 1956, makes a remarkable prescription by employing the word ''ordinarily' to qualify the rule. The word ''ordinarily' gives full play to the Court's assessment in a given case to find out where the welfare of the minor would be best secured. It must be remarked here before moving ahead that even the natural guardianship of a minor under Section 6(a) of the Act of 1956 is now no longer preferentially held by the father. The mother and the father are at par as natural guardians of the minor, in view of the holding of the Supreme Court in Githa Hariharan (Ms) and another vs. Reserve Bank of India and another, (1999) 2 SCC 228. The dispute here is about custody and not about guardianship, which is hardly disputed for both parents.

49. In the opinion of this Court, there is a strong presumption about a child's welfare to be better secured in the mother's hand, which can be dispelled only by cogent and glaring evidence about the mother's lack of fitness to discharge her maternal obligations, as already remarked. There is no such circumstance or evidence brought to this Court's notice that may render Preeti unfit to take care of her minor son. This Court is fortified in the view that we take by the decision of the Supreme Court in Roxann Sharma vs. Arun Sharma, (2015) 8 SCC 318, where it has been held:

"13. The HMG Act postulates that the custody of an infant or a tender aged child should be given to his/her mother unless the father discloses cogent reasons that are indicative of and presage the likelihood of the welfare and interest of the child being undermined or jeopardised if the custody is retained by the mother. Section 6(a) of the HMG Act, therefore, preserves the right of the father to be the guardian of the property of the minor child but not the guardian of his person whilst the child is less than five years old. It carves out the exception of interim custody, in contradistinction of guardianship, and then specifies that custody should be given to the mother so long as the child is below five years in age. We must immediately clarify that this section or for that matter any other provision including those contained in the G and W Act, does not disqualify the mother to custody of the child even after the latter's crossing the age of five years."

51. I had occasion to consider the question about the right of a mother to the custody of her young child, particularly, in the context of Section 6(a) of the Act of 1956 in Master Atharva (Minor) and another vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and 7 others, 2020 (143) ALR 332, where it was held:

"9. A reading of the terms of the proviso to Section shows that quite apart from the question of natural guardianship, the custody of a minor, who has not completed the age of five years, is to be ordinarily with the mother. The only niche, therefore, so far as the statue goes, is the word "ordinary". The word "ordinary" signifies that as a matter of rule, children up to the age of five years are to be left with their mothers, but there could be exceptions as well. Those exceptions could be where the mother is demonstrably leading an immoral life or may have remarried, where in her new home, the child from her earlier alliance has no place, or where the mother is convicted of a heinous offence etc. In the present case, no such circumstance has been indicated, much less pleaded and proved so as to place the mother in that exceptional category where she may be deprived of the custody of her young child, who is still well below the age of five years.

10. It must also be remarked that even after the child turns five, it is not that the mother becomes disentitled. She still would be the best person to tender a child and groom him into an adult. In this connection, reference may be made to the decision of the Supreme Court in Roxann

Sharma v. Arun Sharma, (2015) 8 SCC 318, where it has been held:

"13. The HMG Act postulates that the custody of an infant or a tender aged child should be given to his/her mother unless the father discloses cogent reasons that are indicative of and presage the likelihood of the welfare and interest of the child being undermined or jeopardised if the custody is retained by the mother. Section 6(a) of the HMG Act, therefore, preserves the right of the father to be the guardian of the property of the minor child but not the guardian of his person whilst the child is less than five years old. It carves out the exception of interim custody, in contradistinction of guardianship, and then specifies that custody should be given to the mother so long as the child is below five years in age. We must immediately clarify that this section or for that matter any other provision including those contained in the G and W Act, does not disqualify the mother to custody of the child even after the latter's crossing the age of five years."

6. In Master Advait (supra), this Court ordered that Master Advait Sharma shall be delivered by his father into custody of his mother within a week of pronouncement of this judgment, failing which C.J.M., Ghaziabad shall cause the minor to be delivered into custody of his mother, Smt. Preeti Rai at Ghaziabad through agency of the police. However the father will have visitation rights of the child being one of his natural guardian and corresponding obligations will lie upon the mother to facilitate the visitation.

7. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Perry Kansagra Vs. Smriti Madan Kansagra, (2019) 20 SCC 753 and Ashish Ranjan Vs. Anupma Tandon and Anr., (2010) 14 SCC 274 held that in case of custody of child paramount consideration remains welfare and interest of the child.

8. In the present case, the dispute regarding custody of minor is lying between his mother on one hand and his grand mother and uncle on the other hand. The child is lying in custody of his grandmother and the petition has been approached by his uncle Varun Bhati. Father of corpus died on 8.4.2021. This is a case of respondent no. 3 that after death of her person Vivek Bhati, custody of petitioner no. 1 passage on her being his grandmother and also to his uncle Varun Bhati and they are well equipped to take care of all essential needs of the child whereas petitioner no. 2 claims custody of child being his mother. From perusal of record, it appears that her private job was for stipulated period and presently she is not in the employment of G.H. Enterprises (Ferns Petals). She has stated that she earns sufficiently by engaging herself in other part time jobs. The corpus (minor) is aged about six to seven years as per his date of birth recorded as 15.3.2015. Section 6 of the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act provides that natural guardian of a Hindu minor, in respect of minor's person as well as in respect of minor's property are-

(a) in the case of a boy or unmarried girl and father, and after him, mother: provided that the custody of a minor, who has not completed age of five years, was ordinarily be with the mother.

Explanation:- In this Section the expression "father" and "mother" do not include a step-father and step-mother.

9. Hon'ble Apex Court in Githa Hariharan v. Reserve Bank of India, AIR 1999 SC 1149, observed that in the phrase " the father" and after him, " the mother", the word' after need not necessarily mean after the lifetime of father. In the context in which it appears in Section 6(a) it means "in the absence of', the word "absence' therein referring to the father's absence from the care of minor's property or person for any reason whatsoever. If the father is wholly indifferent to the matters of minor or if by virtue of mutual understanding between the parents, the mother is put exclusively in charge of the minor or if the father is physically unable to take care of minor for any reason whatsoever, the father can be considered to be absent and mother being a recognized natural guardian can act validly on behalf of the minor as the guardian.

10. In the case of Rosy Jacob v. Jacob Chakramakkal, AIR 1973 SC 2090, Hon'ble Apex Court held that controlling consideration governing the custody of children is the welfare of children and not the right of the parents.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioners placed reliance on judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in Tejaswini Gaud and others vs. Shekhar Jagdish Prasad Tewari and others reported in (2019) 7 SCC 42, wherein, also matter of custody of minor child between the father of minor girl and his sister-in-law (sister of his deceased wife) was involved; High Court of Bombay held that respondent no. 1 father only surviving parent of child, is entitled to the custody of child and the child needs love, care and affection of father, taking into account that respondent no. 1 was hospitalized for serious ailment and in those circumstances, the appellant, his brother and sister-in-law have looked after child and in the interest of justice it is just and proper that custody of child is handed over back to the first respondent (father of the child). However, the High Court observed that efforts put in hands of the appellant, in taking care of child has to be recognized and so High Court granted appellant no. 2 and 3 access to the child. The above order of the High court was challenged before the Apex Court by private respondent in whose custody child was lying but same was disposed by the Apex Court and impugned judgement of High Court was affirmed subject to certain conditions and observations. However, Hon'ble Apex Court had observed in paragraph Nos. 13, 14, 18, 19, 20, 22, 25, 52, which are as under:-

"13. Writ of habeas corpus is a prerogative process for securing the liberty of the subject by affording an effective means of immediate release from an illegal or improper detention. The writ also extends its influence to restore the custody of a minor to his guardian when wrongfully deprived of it. The detention of a minor by a person who is not entitled to his legal custody is treated as equivalent to illegal detention for the purpose of granting writ, directing custody of the minor child. For restoration of the custody of a minor from a person who according to the personal 3 Gohar Begum v. Suggi @ Nazma Begam and others AIR 1960 SC 93 4 Smt. Manju Malini Sheshachalam D/o Mr. R. Sheshachalam v. Vijay Thirugnanam S/o Thivugnanam & Others 2018 SCC Online Kar 621 law, is not his legal or natural guardian, in appropriate cases, the writ court has jurisdiction.

14. In Gohar Begum3 where the mother had, under the personal law, the legal right to the custody of her illegitimate minor child, the writ was issued. In Gohar Begum3, the Supreme Court dealt with a petition for habeas corpus for recovery of an illegitimate female child. Gohar alleged that Kaniz Begum, Gohar's mother's sister was allegedly detaining Gohar's infant female child illegally. The Supreme Court took note of the position under the Mohammedan Law that the mother of an illegitimate female child is entitled to its custody and refusal to restore the custody of the child to the mother would result in illegal custody of the child. The Supreme Court held that Kaniz having no legal right to the custody of the child and her refusal to make over the child to the mother resulted in an illegal detention of the child within the meaning of Section 491 Cr.P.C. of the old Code. The Supreme Court held that the fact that Gohar had a right under the Guardians and Wards Act is no justification for denying her right under Section 491 Cr.P.C. The Supreme Court observed that Gohar Begum, being the natural guardian, is entitled to maintain the writ petition and held as under:-

"7. On these undisputed facts the position in law is perfectly clear. Under the Mohammedan law which applies to this case, the appellant is entitled to the custody of Anjum who is her illegitimate daughter, no matter who the father of Anjum is. The respondent has no legal right whatsoever to the custody of the child. Her refusal to make over the child to the appellant therefore resulted in an illegal detention of the child within the meaning of Section 491. This position is clearly recognised in the English cases concerning writs of habeas corpus for the production of infants. In Queen v. Clarke (1857) 7 EL & BL 186: 119, ER 1217 Lord Campbell, C.J., said at p. 193:

"But with respect to a child under guardianship for nurture, the child is supposed to be unlawfully imprisoned when unlawfully detained from the custody of the guardian; and when delivered to him, the child is supposed to be set at liberty." The courts in our country have consistently taken the same view. For this purpose the Indian cases hereinafter cited may be referred to. The terms of Section 491 would clearly be applicable to the case and the appellant entitled to the order she asked.

8. We therefore think that the learned Judges of the High Court were clearly wrong in their view that the child Anjum was not being illegally or improperly detained. The learned Judges have not given any reason in support of their view and we are clear in our mind that view is unsustainable in law. .....

10. We further see no reason why the appellant should have been asked to proceed under the Guardian and Wards Act for recovering the custody of the child. She had of course the right to do so. But she had also a clear right to an order for the custody of the child under Section 491 of the Code. The fact that she had a right under the Guardians and Wards Act is no justification for denying her the right under Section 491. That is well established as will appear from the cases hereinafter cited." (Underlining added)

18. Habeas corpus proceedings is not to justify or examine the legality of the custody. Habeas corpus proceedings is a medium through which the custody of the child is addressed to the discretion of the court. Habeas corpus is a prerogative writ which is an extraordinary remedy and the writ is issued where in the circumstances of the particular case, ordinary remedy provided by the law is either not available or is ineffective; otherwise a writ will not be issued. In child custody matters, the power of the High Court in granting the writ is qualified only in cases where the detention of a minor by a person who is not entitled to his legal custody. In view of the pronouncement on the issue in question by the Supreme Court and the High Courts, in our view, in child custody matters, the writ of habeas corpus is maintainable where it is proved that the detention of a minor child by a parent or others was illegal and without any authority of law.

19. In child custody matters, the ordinary remedy lies only under the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act or the Guardians and Wards Act as the case may be. In cases arising out of the proceedings under the Guardians and Wards Act, the jurisdiction of the court is determined by whether the minor ordinarily resides within the area on which the court exercises such jurisdiction. There are significant differences between the enquiry under the Guardians and Wards Act and the exercise of powers by a writ court which is of summary in nature. What is important is the welfare of the child. In the writ court, rights are determined only on the basis of affidavits. Where the court is of the view that a detailed enquiry is required, the court may decline to exercise the extraordinary jurisdiction and direct the parties to approach the civil court. It is only in exceptional cases, the rights of the parties to the custody of the minor will be determined in exercise of extraordinary jurisdiction on a petition for habeas corpus.

20. In the present case, the appellants are the sisters and brother of the mother Zelam who do not have any authority of law to have the custody of the minor child. Whereas as per Section 6 of the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act, the first respondent- father is a natural guardian of the minor child and is having the legal right to claim the custody of the child. The entitlement of father to the custody of child is not disputed and the child being a minor aged 1½ years cannot express its intelligent preferences. Hence, in our considered view, in the facts and circumstances of this case, the father, being the natural guardian, was justified in invoking the extraordinary remedy seeking custody of the child under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

22. After referring to various judgments and considering the principles for issuance of writ of habeas corpus concerning the minor child brought to India in violation of the order of the foreign court, in Nithya Anand7, it was held as under:-

6 Ruchi Majoo v. Sanjeev Majoo (2011) 6 SCC 479 7 Nithya Anand Raghavan v. State (NCT of Delhi) (2017) 8 SCC 454 "46. The High Court while dealing with the petition for issuance of a writ of habeas corpus concerning a minor child, in a given case, may direct return of the child or decline to change the custody of the child keeping in mind all the attending facts and circumstances including the settled legal position referred to above. Once again, we may hasten to add that the decision of the court, in each case, must depend on the totality of the facts and circumstances of the case brought before it whilst considering the welfare of the child which is of paramount consideration. The order of the foreign court must yield to the welfare of the child. Further, the remedy of writ of habeas corpus cannot be used for mere enforcement of the directions given by the foreign court against a person within its jurisdiction and convert that jurisdiction into that of an executing court. Indubitably, the writ petitioner can take recourse to such other remedy as may be permissible in law for enforcement of the order passed by the foreign court or to resort to any other proceedings as may be permissible in law before the Indian Court for the custody of the child, if so advised."

25. Welfare of the minor child is the paramount consideration:- The court while deciding the child custody cases is not bound by the mere legal right of the parent or guardian. Though the provisions of the special statutes govern the rights of the parents or guardians, but the welfare of the minor is the supreme consideration in cases concerning custody of the minor child. The paramount consideration for the court ought to be child interest and welfare of the child.

52. In our judgment, the law relating to custody of a child is fairly well settled and it is this: in deciding a difficult and complex question as to the custody of a minor, a court of law should keep in mind the relevant statutes and the rights flowing therefrom. But such cases cannot be decided solely by interpreting legal provisions. It is a human problem and is required to be solved with human touch. A court while dealing with custody cases, is neither bound by statutes nor by strict rules of evidence or procedure nor by precedents. In selecting proper guardian of a minor, the paramount consideration should be the welfare and well-being of the child. In selecting a guardian, the court is exercising parens patriae jurisdiction and is expected, nay bound, to give due weight to a child's ordinary comfort, contentment, health, education, intellectual development and favourable surroundings. But over and above physical comforts, moral and ethical values cannot be ignored. They are equally, or we may say, even more important, essential and indispensable considerations. If the minor is old enough to form an intelligent preference or judgment, the court must consider such preference as well, though the final decision should rest with the court as to what is conducive to the welfare of the minor."

12. On the basis of observations of Hon'ble Apex Court, which has binding force and facts and circumstances of the case, I am of the considered opinion that above judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court may act as a guiding force for this Court in present case and no pedantic approach can be taken by the court while deciding the custody of the child. In present case petitioner no. 2, who is mother of child, has neither abandoned nor deprived him of his right to maternal love and affection. She is natural guardian of the child due to death of his father. Respondent no. 3 and her surviving son Varun Bhati undoubtedly have taken care of the child since death of his father and fact of their care and concerned of the child cannot be lost side.

13. However, only due to this fact that the mother, who is petitioner no. 2, cannot be denied the custody of her child being her natural guardian under law and privacy over custody of child has been claimed by her rightly above any other person in absence of his father. A mother is always mother whether earning sufficiently or not and it cannot be presumed that after termination of her employment in Ferns Petals, she will not be able to nourish and take care of needs of the child. She has superior right of custody over her son than his grandmother and uncle in absence of anything adverse on the part of the mother except the fact that she is not employed in any regular job. However, till the child, who is stated to be between six to seven years of age at present, gets acquainted with everything and will be in company of his mother i.e. petitioner no. 2, respondent no. 3 and her son Varun Bhati shall have access to him in the form of visitation rights for a period of one year of this order.

14. Keeping in view the fact that petitioner no. 2 is resident of Bulandshahar and the respondent no. 3 and her son are settled in Ghaziabad, it is directed that respondent no. 3 and her surviving son (uncle of the child), will have visitation rights to the corpus Viraj Bhati (petitioner no. 1) for a period of one year at the place of petitioner no. 2, twice in a month on a Sunday between 11:00 am to 5:00 pm, subject to prior arrangement made with petitioner no. 2 telephonically. Petitioner no. 2 will facilitate the meeting between the child and his grandmother and uncle accordingly and will not create any impediment therein. Accordingly this Habeas Corpus Writ Petition is allowed.

15. Therefore, it is directed that respondent no. 3 shall handover custody of petitioner no. 1 to petitioner no. 2 (mother of the corpus) within 30 days from the date of production of a certified copy of this order, at the residence of petitioner no. 2. Keeping in view the interest of child, both the parties shall cooperate with each other to ensure direction of this Court.

16. It is further directed that in case respondent no. 3 or her family members adopt any procrastinating approach in handing over custody of child to petitioner no. 2 (mother) or refused to transfer the custody of child, matter would be reported by petitioner no. 2 to S.S.P., Ghaziabad and C.J.M., Ghaziabad, who shall ensure compliance of this order and shall ensure the custody of child to petitioner no. 2 on production of a copy of this order before them.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Chaudhary, J.)

1. By the present second appeal, appellants are challenging the judgment and order dated 24.04.1995 passed by the learned Additional District Judge, Karvi in Civil Appeal No. 5 of 1990 (Babu Khan and others vs. Atul Prakash) and judgment and order dated 30.04.1990 passed by learned Munsif-Magistrate, Karvi, Banda in Original Suit No. 79 of 1988 (Atul Prakash vs. Babu Khan and others).

2. The suit was filed by the plaintiff-respondent Atul Prakash for cancellation of sale deed dated 28.04.1988 executed by defendant-appellant nos. 1 to 3 in favour of defendant-appellant nos. 4 to 8 and for permanent injunction restraining the defendants-appellants from raising any construction or interfering in possession of the plaintiff over the property in dispute. The Trial Court at the very initial stage, on 16.05.1988, granted an injunction order restraining the defendants-appellants from creating any hindrances. The suit was decreed and the appeal against the same was dismissed.

3. Brief facts of the case are that Rustam Khan was the owner of the property in question. He, unfortunately, died in the year 1964 leaving behind his widow and five sons, namely, Ramzan Khan (eldest), Nazir Khan, Babu Khan, Chand Khan and Nasim Khan. The widow of Rustam Khan also died sometime later, after which Ramzan Khan the eldest of the siblings took care of the interests of the brothers, who were all minors at that time. Ramzan Khan and Nazir Khan executed sale deed dated 28.07.1977 of the property in dispute on their behalf as well as in their capacity as de-facto guardian on behalf of remaining three minor brothers (first set of defendant-appellant) in favour of plaintiff-respondent. By entry dated 13.10.1982, name of the plaintiff-respondent was duly mutated in the revenue records and no objections against the same were filed by defendant-appellants first set, even after attaining majority. In 1987, on becoming major, defendant-appellant No. 1 and 2 filed a suit under Section 229B of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 19501 challenging the sale deed dated 28.07.1977. Written statements were also filed. However, during the pendency of the said suit, defendant-appellant first set executed a sale deed dated 28.04.1988, for the sale of their share in the property in question, in favour of the second set of defendant-appellants (some of them have been substituted by their legal representatives in the proceedings). They also permitted the proceedings initiated under Section 229-B to be dismissed for non-prosecution. Respondent herein filed the present Original Suit No. 79 of 1988 against both sets of appellants praying for cancellation of the said sale deed dated 28.04.1988 and for relief of permanent prohibitory injunction restraining defendants-appellants from interfering in his peaceful possession over the property in question. The suit was filed on the ground that the demised property was already sold by defendant-appellant first set in favour of plaintiff-respondent by sale deed dated 28.07.1977. The suit was decreed in favour of the plaintiff-respondent. Aggrieved by the judgment and decree dated 30.04.1990, defendants-appellants filed a first appeal, which was also dismissed on 24.04.1995. Thus, they preferred present second appeal.

4. Learned counsel for the appellants assails the judgment of both Courts on the ground, that, Ramzan Khan being a brother was not legal or de-jure guardian of defendant-appellant first set under the Mohammedan law, therefore, the sale deed dated 28.07.1977 executed by him for the sale of shares of his minor brothers is void. Since the sale deed dated 28.07.1977 is void to the extent of the shares of the defendant-appellant first set, therefore ignoring its consequences, defendant-appellant first set could legally execute the sale deed dated 28.04.1988 in favour of defendant-appellants second set for sale of their shares in the property. In such circumstances, plaintiff-respondent never had any legal claim to the 3/5th of the property, sold vide sale deed dated 28.07.1977, and thus suit was liable to be dismissed to the said extent.

5. Learned counsel for the defendants-appellants further submits that both the courts have also wrongly applied provisions of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act. As the first set of defendants-appellants are adherents of Islam, therefore, the aforesaid statute has no applicability in this case. In support of his arguments, learned counsel for the defendant-appellants has relied upon the following judgments:

(i) Madhegowda (D) by L.Rs. vs. Ankegowda (D) by L.Rs. and others2

(ii) Mushamat Anto vs. Reoti Kaur3

(iii) Meethiyan Sidhiqu vs. Muhammed Kunju Pareeth Kutty and others4

(iv) Mohd. Amin and others vs. Vakil Ahmad and others5

(v) Prem Singh and others vs. Birbal and others6

6. Learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondent supports the judgments of both the Trial Court and the First Appellate Court. He submits that the land in dispute being agricultural land has to be governed by the provisions of the Guardianship and Wards Act, 18907 and U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act and Mohammedan law has no applicability in the present dispute. He further submits that it was necessary for the first set of appellants to get the sale deed dated 28.07.1977 cancelled. He supports the finding of the Court regarding estoppel by relying on Sections 4(2), 4(3) and 30 of the Guadianship and Wards Act, 1890 and Article 60 of the Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1963. He argues that even the youngest of the three brothers attained majority in the year 1982 and, therefore, they should have filed a suit for getting the sale deed dated 28.07.1977 cancelled, no later than the year 1985. But the suit under Section 229-B of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act was only filed in 1987 and that too was not contested properly, thus dismissed for default and never restored. Thus, now they are estopped from challenging the sale deed. In support of his arguments, learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondents has placed reliance upon the following judgments:

(i) Utha Moidu Haji vs. Kuningarath Kunhabdullah & Ors.8

(ii) Mashkoor Alam vs. Kumari Amir Bano & Ors.9

(iii) Murugan & Ors. vs. Kesava Gounder (dead) & Ors.10

(iv) Bailochan Karan vs. Basant Kumari Naik & Anr.11

(v) Lalloo & Ors. vs. Board of Revenue & Ors.12

7. Learned counsel for the appellants presses for the following substantial questions of law:

(i)Whether in the facts and circumstances of the case elder brother was competent to alienate the interests of the defendant-appellant first set, who were minor brothers?

(ii)Whether Muslim minors, whose property is sold by a de-facto but not de-jure guardian by executing a sale deed on their behalf during their minority, need to get the sale deed cancelled by filing a civil suit on attaining majority or is the sale deed void, non-est in law, and therefore the minor need not even repudiate it?

(iii)Whether the First Appellate Court erred in applying the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act and law on adverse possession vis-a-vis the Muslim Personal law in the facts and circumstances of the present case, where the first set of appellants are adherent of Islam?

8. Heard counsels for the parties and perused the record with their assistance.

9. Since both the substantial question of law number one and two deal with similar issues therefore they are being decided together. The learned Trial Court has framed issue no. 2 and 3 with regard to the eligibility of Ramzan Khan for transferring the shares of his minor brothers vide sale deed dated 28.07.1977. Trial Court has held that since the mother of the defendant-appellant first set died, therefore, Ramzan Khan aged about 21 years at that time, as the eldest brother, assumed the role of de-facto guardian under Mohammedan law and was also competent to sell the properties of his minor brothers. The same was affirmed by the First Appellate Court. the First Appellate Court has applied the law settled by this Court in Ram Sunder vs. Board of Revenue13 and held that if a minor fails to challenge the sale deed on attaining majority the sale deed was binding on the minor. It has further held that even if the sale deed dated 28.07.1977 was void to the extent of the shares of the defendant-appellant first set, they required a declaration to that effect from Court. In Ram Sunder (Supra) facts were that a hindu mother acting as a guardian sold her minor child's property without describing herself as a guardian. On attaining majority, the son failed to challenge the sale deed and it was held that the sale is now binding on him. Both the Trial Court and the First Appellate Court have held that since the mutation proceedings were over by 13.10.1982, and Babu Khan, one of the defendant-appellant from the first set, had become major by then and did not object to the mutation of names of plaintiff-respondent in the revenue records, therefore it must be understood that defendant-appellants first set have ratified the sale deed dated 28.07.1977.

10. So far as the judgment relied upon by Trial Court and Appellate Court is concerned, Ram Sunder (supra) is a case arising out of Hindu Law and has no applicability to the present facts where parties are governed by Mohammadan Law. With regard to other case laws relied upon by counsel for plaintiff-respondent in the case of Utha Moidu Haji (supra), in paragraph 14 it is clearly stated that no issue was ever framed with regard to the status of the guardianship and eligibility of the acting guardian. Therefore, it is also distinguishable from the facts of the present case and of no help to the plaintiff-respondent. The judgment in the case of Murugan (supra) is also distinguishable from the facts of the present case as in the said case the issue was with regard to limitation in case a minor dies before attaining majority and also in the said case the parties were governed by the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act, 1956. The plaintiff-respondent also can not claim any benefit from Bailochan Karan (supra) and Lalloo (supra), as both these cases pertain to parties belonging to non-Muslim faith.

11. Under Muslim personal law, interests of minor is well protected. Muslim Law distinguishes between the status of a de facto guardian and a legal/de jure guardian. Any decision with regard to the devolution of the property of a Muslim minor can be only by a legal guardian and that too only on limited grounds. The law in this regard is well settled and suffice would to refer to the paragraph 5 of the Meethiyan Sidhiqu (supra), where the Supreme Court held:

"5. Mulla's "principle of the Mohammadan Law" [Nineteenth Edition] by Justice M. Hidayatullah, former Chief Justice of this Court and Arshad Hidayatullah, deals with legal property guardians of a muslim minor in Section 359. In the order, only father, executor appointed by the father's will, father's father and the executor appointed by the will of the father's father, are legal guardians of property. No other relation is entitled to be the guardian of the property of a minor as of right; not even the mother, brother or uncle but the father or the paternal grand-father of the minor may appoint the mother, brother of uncle or any other person as his executor or executrix of his will in which case they become legal guardian and have all the powers of the legal guardian as defined in Sections 362 and 366 of the above Principles. The Court may also appoint any one of them as guardian of the property of the minor in which case they will have all the powers of a guardian appointed by the court, as stated in Sections 363 to 367."

In light of the law settled both the First Appellate Court and the Trial Court are wrong in holding that being a de facto guardian of the Muslim minors, their brother Ramzan Khan could execute a valid sale deed on their behalf. Admittedly there is no appointment of guardian of minors under the Guardianship and Wards Act.

12. It has long been settled by a Full Bench of this Court in Mushamat Anto (supra), that any transfer of property by a de facto guardian of a Muslim minor is void and non-est, it cannot be ratified by the minor upon his attainment of majority. Even when the transaction has been ratified by the minor after he has attained majority, it can subsequently be challenged by him or by his transferees. The relevant paragraph of the Mushamat Anto (supra) reads;

"Two questions have been referred to this Full Bench by the Bench before which the case came up for disposal. They are as follows:

(1) Can a transaction amounting to an alienation of an immovably property belonging to a Muhammadan minor by the de facto guardian of the minor be ratified by the latter upon his attainment of majority?

.....

Dealing with the third proposition, their Lordships examined the text of the Hedayah and the Fatwa-i-Alamgiri and came to the conclusion that the Hanafi doctrine relating to a sale by an unauthorised person remaining dependent on the sanction of the owners refers to a case where such owner is sui juris possessed of the capacity to give the necessary sanction to make the transaction operative, and that they did not find any reference in these doctrines relating to fazuli sales, so far as they appear in the Hedayah or the Fatwa-i-Alamgiri, to dealings with the property of minors by persons who happen to have charge of the infants and their property, in other words, the de facto guardians. In their Lordships' opinion the doctrine about fazuli sales appears clearly to be based on the analogy of an agent who acts in a particular matter without authority, but whose act is subsequently adopted or ratified by the principal which has the effect of validating it from its inception. The idea of agency in relation to an infant is as foreign, their Lordships conceived, to Mahomedan law as to every other system.

Our answer to the first question referred to us is in the negative, as the transaction being void there is no question of ratification. The answer to the second question is that there can be no valid ratification and therefore there can be no estoppel on account of any such ratification."

13. In light of the law settled by the Full Bench of this Court, both the courts erred in holding that once the mutation proceedings are over with no objections from the defendant-apellants, they are estopped from questioning the validity of the sale deed dated 28.07.1977. Instead, as per the Mushamat Anto (supra), since there is no concept of subsequent ratification of an illegal/void act under Mohammedan law, it can be concluded that a Muslim minor can not ratify a void ab initio act after attaining majority, even if he wants to.

14. With regard to substantial question of law number three i.e., application of Muslim Law vis-a-vis U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, the learned First Appellate Court in its judgment has simply brushed off the issue by saying that "I do not want to enter into the controversy as to whether Mohammedan personal law was involved or the U.P.Z.A. Act was involved.". On the other hand, in its judgment the First Appellate Court has also dismissed the applicability of Full Bench judgment of this court in the case of Mushamat Anto (Supra), holding that the said case is from before the enactment of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, and is, therefore, not applicable. The First Appellate Court has also referred to the judgment of Ram Chander Dubey and Ors. vs. The Deputy Director of Consolidation, Deoria and Ors.14 but did not state as to why the same would not apply. In Ram Chander Dubey (supra) this court in pargraphs 15 has held;

"15. Judged in the light of what has been said above, it will be found that U. P. Act I of 1951 does not crystallise or declare the existing law upon the land tenure system but deliberately departs from the old law in respect of various matters. It supersedes prior law and lays down the whole of the law of succession, transfer, bequest etc. Therefore, in cases governed by the Act reference to the previous rule of Hindu law or Mohammadan law cannot be made as it is not permissible, but the Hindu law can certainly be resorted to in respect of matters for which no provision is made in U. P. Act No. I of 1951. Matters saved from the operation of the Act, of course, continue to be governed by the personal law to the extent the same is applicable. The Act does not touch or affect the law of joint family, hence the Hindu law continues to operate in this matter."

15. Thus, personal law would apply even to land covered by the provisions of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act to the extent the same is not ousted by U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act. There is no provision in U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, contrary to the Mohammadan Personal Law, that validates a sale deed by de facto guardian of a muslim minor, which is void ab initio and can not be ratified even on attaining majority by the minor under Mohammadan Law. Thus, the sale deed dated 28.07.1977 executed by the de facto guardian of minors is void to the extent of share of minors.

16. Had the matter been only with regard to the personal law of Mohammadan, it could be concluded with the aforesaid, but, the provosions of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act are also applicable. In present case, bhumidhars were minor muslim boys whose agricultural land was sold by de-facto guardian. There is no dispute that the minors were ousted from the property in dispute by the sale deed dated 28.07.1977 executed in favour of plaintiff-respondent. Both the Trial Court and the First Appellate Court have given specific finding of fact that the plaintiff-respondent is in possession of the property in dispute since the date of sale deed. Section 189(c), Section 193, Section 209 and Section 210 of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act deals with right of the bhumidhar who stands dispossessed from his land. The said sections reads:-

"189. Extinction of the interest of a bhumidhar with transferable rights.--The interest of a bhumidhar with transferable rights in his holding or any part thereof shall be extinguished--

(c) when he has been deprived of possession and his right to recover possession is barred by limitation."

Thus, when a bhumidhar with transferable rights is deprived of his possession and his right to recover possession is barred by limitation, his right in the holding is extinguish*ed. Section 193 provides with consequences of extinction of the interest. It reads:-*

"193. Rights and liabilities of a sirdar or asami on extinction of his interest.--When the interest of a bhumidhar or asami is extinguished he shall vacate his holding, and he shall, except in cases where his interest has extinguished under or in accordance with the provisions of any law for the time being in force relating to the acquisition of land, have in respect of removals of standing crops and any construction existing on the holding the same right as he would have upon ejectment under the provisions of this Act."

209. Ejectment of persons occupying land without title. - A person taking or retaining possession of land otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of the law for the time being in force; and-

(a) where the land forms part of the holding of a bhumidhar, [* * ] or asami without the consent of such bhumidhar, [ * *] or asami;

(b) where the land does not form part of the holding of a bhumidhar, [* ] or asami without consent of the [Gaon Sabha], shall be liable to ejectment on the suit in cases referred to in Clause (a) above of the bhumidhar, [* * ] or asami concerned and in cases referred to in Clause (b) above of the [Gaon Sabha] [ * ] and shall also be liable to pay damages.

[(2) To every suit relating to a land referred to in Clause (a) of sub-section (1) the State Government shall be impleaded as a necessary party.]"

"210. Consequence of failure to the suit under Section 209. - If a suit for eviction from any land under Section 209 is not instituted by a bhumidhar or asami, or a decree for eviction obtained in any such suit is not executed within the period of limitation provided for institution of such suit or the execution of such decree, as the case may be, the person taking or retaining possession shall-

(a) where the land forms pail of the holding of a bhumidhar with transferable rights, become a bhumidhar with a transferable rights of such land and the right, title and interest of an asami, if any, in such land shall be extinguished;

(b) where the land forms part of the holding of a bhumidhar with non-transferable rights, become a bhumidhar with non-transferable rights I and the right, title and interest of an asami, if any, in such land shall be I extinguished;

(c) where the land forms part of the holding of an asami on behalf of the Gaon Sabha, become an asami of the holding from year to year.

[Provided that the consequences mentioned in Clauses (a) to (c) shall not ensue in respect of any land held by a bhumidhar or asami belonging to a Scheduled Tribe.]"

17. Consequences under the civil law, in case a person fails to take possession of his property within the statutory period of limitation is, that, the other side gets rights as adverse possession. However, under the above provisions of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, when a bhumidhar fails to file suit for possession, against a person holding possession of his bhumidhari land against law and without his consent, within period of limitation prescribed, rights of bhumidhar from the land are extinguished and the person holding possession becomes bhumidhar. As per Section 341 of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, provisions of the Limitation Act are made applicable to proceedings under the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, unless otherwise expressly provided. Limitation for filing a suit for possession is 12 years as per entry 65 of Schedule I of the Limitation Act. Since, it is admitted that property sold belonged to minors, thus, Section 6 and 7 of the Limitation Act would come into play and the starting date of period of limitation would be from the date they become major. In the suit, all the three minor brothers, namely, Chand Khan, Babu Khan and Nisar Khan were made defendants as major. None of them were made party through any guardian. In their written statement also it was not claimed that any of them was minor. Thus, admittedly in the year 1982, all three brothers were major. Thus the limitation for initiating proceedings for recovery of possession, at best, expired in the year 1994 on expiry of 12 years. Sole proceedings which were initiated under Section 229-B for declaration and/or possession by the said brothers were admittedly permitted by them to be dismissed for want of prosecution. In his oral statement Babu Khan admitted that they never filed any application for restoration. Till date, there is no claim that those proceedings under Sectio 229-B were restored or contested any further. Thus, no proceedings were initiated for possession by the brothers, as minors or on becoming major, and the earlier filed proceedings under Section 229 B of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act were also permitted to be dismissed for default. The Trial Court as well as the First Appellate Court have given a categorical finding that the plaintiff-purchaser-respondent has been in possession of the property in dispute on the basis of sale deed dated 28.07.1977. The ex-parte injunction granted in favour of plaintiff initially by order dated 16.05.1988 continued throughout the suit.

19. From the above, it is clear that the plaintiff respondents-purchaser were throughout in possession of the property in dispute since the sale deed dated 28.07.1977 and the defendant-appeallants first set after becoming major permitted the proceedings under Section 229-B to be dismissed and never initiated any other proceedings for possession of the property in dispute. Thus, as per joint reading of Section 189(c), Section 193, Section 209 and Section 210, rights of defendants-respondents first set from the property in dispute stand extinguished and the plaintiffs-respondents have become bhumidhar. Same is position with regard to defendant-appellants second set who purchased the property in dispute from the defendant-appellants first set. They also never took any proceedings for possession at any stage whatsoever. Thus, both sets of appellants have lost any right in their favour, even presuming they had any either under the Mohammedan law or by virtue of the sale deed dated 28.04.1988, due to the application of Section 189(c), Section 193, Section 209 and Section 210 of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act.

20. In the aforesaid circumstances since appellants now do not have any right in the property in dispute, no relief in the present second appeal can be granted to them. The second appeal is dismissed.

4. Paras Nath Singh Vs Deputy Director of Consolidation & ors. 1985 R.D. 71

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Counsel for the petitioner is permitted to implead Upziladhikari, Kanpur Nagar as respondent No.5 in the array of parties during the course of day.

2. Heard Mr. Ajay Kumar, Counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents and Mr. Dheeraj Kumar Dwivedi for respondent No.4.

3. The instant petition has been filed against the order of Board of Revenue dated 26.4.2022, by which, the second appeal filed by respondent No.4 has been allowed setting aside the judgment of the Courts below and proceeding of the suit has been remitted back before the Trial Court to decide the suit afresh after impleadment of the Gaon Sabha.

4. Counsel for the petitioner submitted that the suit under Section 144 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 filed by respondent No.4 has been dismissed by the Trial Court and the decree has been maintained in first appeal but Appellate Court has arbitrarily allowed the second appeal and remitted the matter back before the Trial Court for fresh trial. He further submitted that suit for declaration filed by respondent No.4 was rightly dismissed by Trial Court and First Appellate Court as no claim was raised during consolidation operation. He further submitted that Second Appellate Court has exceeded his jurisdiction in allowing the second appeal, as such, the impugned judgment be set aside against the order of Trial Court.

5. In reply, Counsel for respondent No.4 submitted that suit under Section 144 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006, filed by respondent No.4 has been dismissed without framing issues and giving parties to lead the evidence according to the issues framed in the suit as such the same was wholly illegal. He further submitted that there is no limitation for filing the suit under Section 144 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 but the plaintiff suit has been dismissed arbitrarily holding that it is barred by limitation. He further submitted that Second Appellate Court has allowed the second appeal and remitted the matter back for filing fresh suit under Section 144 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006.

6. Counsel for the respondent No. 4 placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court reported in 2020 RD (140) 186 Babu vs. Mahaveer in which it has been held that unless the issues are framed in the suit for declaration under Section 144 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006, the judgment cannot be passed on merit. He further submitted that there is no limitation for filing suit under Section 144 of U.P. Revenue Code, 2006. He finally submitted that no interference is required against the order of Board of Revenue by which the matter has been remanded back to the Trial Court to decide the suit afresh on merits.

7. I have considered the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

8. There is no dispute about the fact that the suit under Section 144 of U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 filed by respondent No.4 has been dismissed without framing issue in the suit.

9. There is also no dispute about the fact that the suit has been dismissed on the ground of limitation also and the judgment and decree of the Trial Court has been maintained in First Appeal but in Second Appeal, the judgments of Trial Court and First Appellate Court have been set aside and the matter has been remanded back to the Trial Court to decide the suit afresh on merit.

10. Since, the suit under Section 144 of U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 has been decided without framing issue, as such, in view of ratio of law laid down by this Court in Babu (Supra), judgment passed by the Trial Court cannot be maintained on merit. The paragraph Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5 & 6 of the judgment rendered in Babu (Supra) is relevant for perusal which are as under:-

"2. The manner in which the suit instituted by the respondent no.1 under Section 229-B of U.P. Z.A. & L.R.Act has been decided by the impugned order dated 28.01.2019 cannot be appreciated. The trial court has neither framed issues nor has provided any opportunity of leading evidence to the parties to prove their respective cases. The provisions contained in Code of Civil Procedure has been given a go bye.

3. As already observed above by the Court in its order dated 21.02.2019, the proceedings under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A & L.R Act are regular proceedings where declaration of rights in a holding is decided on the basis of evidence.

4. Learned counsel for respondent no.1 has also not been able to defend the impugned order; rather he appears to agree that the matter ought to have been remanded to the Sub-Divisional Officer concerned.

5. For the aforesaid reasons, this petition is allowed and the judgment and order dated 28.01.2019 passed by the Sub-Divisional Officer, Malihabad, Lucknow in Computerized Case No.T201810460101621; Mahavir vs Babu and others, under Section 229-B of U.P. Z.A & L.R.Act, as is contained in annexure no.1 to the writ petition, is hereby quashed.

6. The Sub-Divisional Officer is directed to decide the suit afresh in accordance with law and also by following the procedure as prescribed under the provision of the Code of Civil Procedure. The Sub-Divisional Officer shall expedite the proceedings of the suit and conclude the same within a period of six months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order."

11. This court in the case reported in AIR 1983 Allahabad 450 Smt. Kaniz Fatima and another Vs. Shah Naim Ashraf has held that if no issue has been framed on a question which arises out of the pleading of the parties, the Court cannot proceed to record a finding on that point. The paragraph nos. 19 & 20 of the judgement are relevant, which are as under:-

"19. There is no dispute with the proposition of law laid down in the aforesaid decision but the true scope of the said rule would be that where the parties have led their entire evidence on all the pleas raised by them, they cannot be permitted to urge at the conclusion of the proceedings or in appeal that they were taken by surprise by non-framing of an issue on that particular point on which they have already exhausted their evidence. In such a case it cannot be said that the parties are prejudiced in any manner whatsoever by non-framing of an issue. But the said rule cannot be construed to cover those cases as well where the evidence was led on issues on which the parties actually went, to trial because it is well settled that the evidence adduced on any particular issue by the parties cannot be made foundation for decision of any other and different plea on which no issue has been framed, because in the absence of an issue on the point they cannot be said to have an opportunity of adducing evidence in support of it or in rebuttal of it. It cannot be assumed that the parties have exhaustively led evidence on all the pleas raised in the pleadings. A party is supposed to lead evidence only on the issues framed in the suit. The other party can object and the Court can always refuse to record evidence which does not relate to the issues framed in the suit. Even if evidence has been led and brought on record, the court will not be justified to look into that evidence for deciding a point not covered by the issues. Thus, it cannot be said that it the parties had led evidence in the case it should be construed to cover all the pleas raised in the pleadings although no issue has been framed on that point.

20. The object of framing the issue is to direct that attention of the parties to lead evidence on that specific issue frame and if no evidence is led (one line obliterated. Ed.) drawn against the concerned parties for holding that it has no evidence to support or to rebut the plea covered by the issue in question. But in the absence of the proper issues covering all the pleas raised in pleadings it cannot be said that the parties have exhausted all their evidence or all the pleas raised by them although the same are not covered by the issues framed. In the view of the matter, we find that in the present case since proper issues have not been framed, which arise out of the pleadings of the parties as well as in the statement of the case recorded under Order 10 Rule 2 of the Code, it cannot be said that the defendants have led all their evidence which they would have led in support of the pleas, which are not covered by the issued framed in the suit. The decision recorded by court below, therefore, cannot be sustained on the said ground urged by learned counsel of the plaintiff. The case, therefore, deserves to be remanded to the trial court for decision afresh after framing proper additional issues in the suit and giving full opportunity to the parties to lead their evidence which they may like to produce in support of their case. Learned court below will carefully scrutinize pleadings and frame necessary additional issues."

12. So far as the limitation question is concerned, the law is well settled that there is no limitation for filing suit for declaration under Section 229 B of U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. This Court in the case reported in 2005 (99) R.D. 529, Pan Kumari Vs. Board of Revenue, U.P. at Allahabad & Others has held that there is no limitation for filing suit under Section 229 B of U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, the paragraph no.6 of the judgment is relevant, which is as follows:

"6. Sri. R.C. Singh submits that the suit under Section 229-B was barred by limitation. In support of this contention he relies upon Section 341 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, which provides that the Limitation Act would be applicable to proceedings under the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act and limitation in a suit for declaration would be governed by Article 137 of Schedule 1 of the Limitation Act as there is no period prescribed for such a suit under the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. Section 341 itself provides that the provisions of certain Acts including the Limitation Act shall apply to the proceedings under the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act unless otherwise provided in the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. Rule 338 of the U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Rules provides that the suits, applications and other proceedings specified in Appendix III shall be instituted within the time specified therein for them respectively. Recourse to the provisions of the Limitation Act would be available only If there is no provision under Rules in respect of the period of limitation for the different classes of suits or proceedings mentioned therein. In Appendix III the period of limitation provided for different classes of suits has been given. As regards suits under Section 229-B column 4, which prescribes the period of limitation for different classes of suit says "none". It would therefore be treated that there is no limitation for filing a suit under Section 229-B. Section 9 of the Civil Procedure Code provides that all suits of civil nature shall be instituted in the civil Court except those, which have been excepted. A suit under Section 229-B falls within the excepted category and such suits even though they involve declaration are suits of a special character. Article 137 of the Limitation Act relied upon by Sri Singh in any case is applicable only to applications and not to suits and therefore has no play. When the rule making authority has provided different periods of limitation for different classes of suits it would be treated that provisions prescribing period of limitation in the Limitation Act would not be applicable to suits under the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. Section 189 U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act sets out the circumstances in which the interest of a bhumidar is extinguished. Clauses (a), (aa) and (b) relate to cases where the bhumidar dies leaving no heir, or where he has let out his holding in contravention of the provisions of the Act or where the land is acquired. Sub-section (c) of Section 189 provides that where a bhumidar has lost-possession the bhumidari right would extinguish when the right to recover possession is lost. In Ram Naresh v. Board of Revenue 1985 Rev Dec. 444 relied upon by Sri R.C. Singh it was held that the provisions of Section 27 of the Limitation Act would be attracted to suits instituted under Section 229-B. Section 27 provides that on the determination of the period limited for instituting a suit for possession the right to such property shall be extinguished. The rule is an exception to the general rule that limitation bars the remedy but does not extinguish the right. If, however, a person is in possession his right can not be extinguished unless the case is covered by Clauses (a), (aa) and (b) of Section 189. He can therefore seek a declaration of his right at any point of time. If a person has been dispossessed he would have to institute a suit under Section 129 U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. Appendix III provides the period for limitation for filing a suit under Section 209. It would follow therefore that a suit under Section 229-B would be barred by limitation the bhumidar is out of possession and his right to file a suit under Section 209 is barred by limitation. The finding of fact recorded on the question of possession is that the plaintiffs have established their continuous possession over the disputed land. The finding is not shown to be vitiated by any error. As the rights of the plaintiff were never extinguished no question of limitation arises. For the reasons given above the writ petition lacks merit and is dismissed."

13. So far as exercise of jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India against the impugned order of Board of Revenue is concerned, this Court in the case reported in 1985 R.D. 71, Paras Nath Singh Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation and Others has held that if as a result of quashing the impugned order another illegal order would be restored then Court would refuse to interfere with the impugned order. Paragraph No.21 of the judgment is as follows:

"21. It is, no doubt, correct to say that any order passed without jurisdiction is a nullity and deserves to be quashed. But if as a result of quashing that order another wrong and illegal order would be restored, this Court would refuse to interfere with the impugned order which appears to be quite proper equitable and just order. As mentioned above, the power under Article 226 of the Constitution is devised to advance justice and not to thwart it. To me it appears to be well settled that an order which is illegal cannot be quashed or set aside in writ jurisdiction if quasing of it results in bringing on record another illegal order."

14. Considering the entire facts and circumstances, of the case as well as ratio of law laid down by this Court there is no illegality or infirmity in the judgment of Board of Revenue by which the judgment and decree of the Trial Court and First Appellate Court have been set aside and the matter has been remitted back to the Trial Court to decide the suit afresh on merit.

15. No interference is required against the impugned judgment.

16. Writ petition is devoid of merit and, is accordingly, dismissed.

17. However, Trial Court - Upziladhikari, Kanpur Nagar is directed to decide the suit under Section 144 of U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 after framing issue and permitting authorities to lead evidence, in accordance with law. The suit will be decided, expeditiously, preferably within a period of one year from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

Committee of Mgmt. Gautam Buddhha Inter College & anr.. Vs St. of U.P & ors.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Kumar Gupta, J. & Hon'ble Syed Qamar Hasan Rizvi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Siddharth Khare, counsel for the appellant, learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents and Sri G.K. Singh learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri H.P. Sahi for respondent Nos. 5 and 6.

2. This intra-court appeal arises out of judgment and order dated 19.12.2022 passed by learned Single Judge in Writ-C No. 37460 of 2022 filed by respondent Nos. 5 and 6 (hereinafter referred to as 'the petitioners').

3. The petitioners in the Writ Petition were the Committee of Management of Goswami Tulsi Das Inter College, a recognized Institution under the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act') and its Manager (respondents no.5 & 6 in the instant appeal). They had, in the writ petition, assailed the order dated 04.11.2022 passed by the State Government superseding the Committee of Management in exercise of power under Section 16-D(4) of the Act. The writ petition has been allowed on the sole ground that opportunity of hearing was not afforded to the petitioners by the State Government while superseding the Management. The Writ Court has quashed the order impugned in the writ petition and has remitted the matter back to the State Government for passing a fresh order after affording opportunity of hearing to the writ petitioners.

4. The brief facts of the case are that the appellant herein (respondent No. 5 in the writ petition) had made complaint against the petitioners and on basis thereof, the Director of Education, on 27.05.2021, recommended to the State Government to supersede the Committee of Management and appoint an Authorized Controller in its place.

5. In pursuance thereof, it seems that the Special Secretary (Secondary Education) heard the parties on 24.06.2021 and 28.12.2021. The petitioners filed a detailed objection on 28.12.2021 to the charges levelled against the Committee of Management and the appellant also filed his reply on the same date. The State Government vide its letter dated 31.12.2021 forwarded the reply submitted by the Committee of Management and the appellant dated 28.12.2021 for factual examination and recommendation by the Director (Secondary) U.P. In pursuance thereof, the Director (Secondary) U.P. obtained reports from the Joint Director of Education, Gorakhpur and District Inspector of Schools, Kushinagar wherein they recommended for superseding the Committee of Management in exercise of power under Section 16-D (4) of the Act on three charges mentioned therein. It was followed by passing of the order impugned in the writ petition dated 4.11.2022 relying on the recommendation of the Director of Education, (Secondary), Uttar Pradesh dated 21.03.2022.

6. Learned counsel for the appellant vehemently contended that the impugned order of learned Single Judge proceeds on a wrong assumption of fact that opportunity of hearing was not given to the petitioners before superseding the Committee of Management. In support of his contention he has placed reliance on the recitals contained in the impugned order to the effect that the Special Secretary (Secondary Education), U.P. heard the parties on 24.06.2021 and 28.12.2021.

7. He has also invited the attention of the Court towards a notice dated 16.03.2022 issued by Deputy Secretary, U.P. Government addressed to Director of Education (Secondary) and District Inspector of Schools, Kushinagar with copy thereof endorsed to the Manager, Committee of Management of the Institution fixing 21.03.2022 as date for hearing in connection with the proceedings relating to appointment of Authorized Controller. It is submitted that the said communication further reveals that yet another opportunity of hearing was given to the parties on 21.03.2022 and thus it is submitted that learned Single Judge committed an error apparent on the face of record in remitting the matter back to the State Government for affording opportunity of hearing to the writ petitioners.

8. Sri G.K. Singh, learned Senior Counsel, appearing for the petitioners, submitted that the hearing which was afforded to the parties on 24.06.2021 and 28.12.2021, was not sufficient, inasmuch as the recommendation for superseding the Committee of Management was made by the Director of Education subsequently, vide its letter dated 21.03.2022 and thereafter no opportunity of hearing was granted. He further submits that the petitioners were never served with any notice dated 16.03.2022 fixing 21.03.2022 as date of hearing, nor any hearing took place on that date.

9. Sri Siddharth Khare, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the Director of Education initially made a recommendation for superseding the Committee of Management vide its letter dated 27.05.2021 and consequently the hearing held on 24.06.2021 and 28.12.2021 was sufficient and the writ petitioners cannot complain of breach of principles of natural justice. He submits that although Director of Education (Secondary) made another recommendation on 21.03.2022 for superseding the Committee of Management but it was based on same charges and, therefore, no fresh opportunity of hearing was required to be given to the writ petitioners.

10. Sri G.K. Singh, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioners, in reply submitted that the procedure adopted by the State Government after the hearing took place on 28.12.2021 was in gross violation of principles of natural justice. It is submitted that the State Government called for a report from Director of Education (Secondary) in context of the reply submitted by the petitioners and the appellant and thereafter based on his recommendation contained in letter dated 21.03.2022, proceeded to pass the impugned order without supplying its copy to the petitioners.

11. In other words, the submission is that when there was a fresh recommendation by Director of Education by letter dated 21.03.2022, which alone had been made basis for passing the impugned order, it was incumbent upon the State Government to have afforded fresh opportunity of hearing to the petitioners. He further submits that even otherwise, the impugned order is bad in the eyes of law, inasmuch as it does not take into consideration the detailed reply submitted by the petitioner on 28.12.2021 denying each and every charge levelled against the Committee of Management of the Institution.

12. We have considered the rival submissions and perused the material on record.

13. The Writ Court while remitting the matter to the State Government has placed reliance on a judgment of learned Single Judge in Committee of Management, Gautam Buddha Inter College and Another Vs. State of U.P. & 4 Others1, wherein it has been held that although the statute provides for opportunity of hearing at the stage of enquiry by the Director but in case there is recommendation by the Director to supersede the Committee of Management, it is implicit in the provision that the State Government would accord hearing to the affected parties before it supersedes the Committee of Management. This is necessary, in view of the fact that the decision making authority is the State Government and it is enjoined with duty to record reasons for supersession of the Committee of Management. The relevant observations are extracted below:-

"10. In my opinion, it would be incumbent upon the State Government to issue notice to the aggrieved party to show cause before passing an order on the recommendation of the Director. The decision making authority is the State Government and not the Director. Aggrieved party would have every right to show cause before the State Government, contending that the recommendations made by the Director are either incorrect or per se perverse. It would, therefore, be incumbent upon the State Government to pass suitable order considering the objections. It is immaterial whether the Committee of Management has appeared before the Director pursuant to the show cause notice under sub-section (3). Principle of natural justice would have to be read into sub-section (4) to uphold the vires of the section.

18. Notwithstanding, the fact that the sub-section (4) does not contain any express provision for the affected party being given an opportunity of being heard. Undoubtedly, action under the said sub section is a function which involves due application of mind to the facts as well as to the requirements of law. Therefore, it is plain that before acting upon the recommendation of the Director, State is bound to put the aggrieved party to notice. Civil consequence of superseding the Committee of Management follows the decision of the State Government and not of the Director."

14. Sri G.K. Singh, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners has not disputed before us that the State Government heard the parties on 24.06.2021 and 28.12.2021. He also does not dispute that the hearing on the aforesaid dates was preceded by a recommendation dated 27.05.2021 by the Director of Education (Secondary), Uttar Pradesh for superseding the Committee of Management in exercise of power under Section 16-D(4) of the Act.

15. The purpose of affording hearing is to provide opportunity to the Committee of Management to place its defence in context of the recommendation made by the Director of Education. It would get opportunity to impress upon the State Government that on the basis of material available on record, the law does not warrant appointment of an Authorized Controller.

16. Albeit, in the instant case, there was a previous recommendation superseding the Committee of Management, followed by hearing, but thereafter, as is evident from the impugned order, the State Government instead of applying its own independent mind to the objection submitted by the petitioners and taking decision in the matter, called for a fresh report from the Director of Education (Secondary). He, in turn, called for the comments from the Joint Director of Education, Gorakhpur and District Inspector of Schools, Kushinagar and submitted a fresh recommendation on 21.03.2022. Based on the same, the State Government had proceeded to supersede the Committee of Management. The order does not indicate that the fresh recommendations and the reports called for, were made available to the petitioners, as specifically pleaded in paragraphs 48 and 49 of the writ petition and which fact is not disputed by counsel for the appellant and learned Standing Counsel.

17. Additionally, there is no indication in the impugned order that any consideration was given to the detailed reply submitted by the petitioners denying each and every charge levelled against them. The State Government under law is empowered to supersede the Committee of Management by an order 'for reasons to be recorded'. The State Government was thus enjoined with the duty to consider the reply and give reasons for not accepting the reply, which has not been done.

18. A perusal of the impugned order reveals that the State Government has not even alluded to the reply submitted by the petitioners dated 28.12.2021 and merely, relying on the recommendation made by the Director of Education dated 21.03.2022 had superseded the Committee of Management. This, in our opinion, has also resulted in gross violation of the principles of natural justice.

19. For the reasons given in the order of learned Single Judge and for additional reasons recorded by us, we decline to interfere in the matter.

20. The appeal lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

21. No order as to costs.

4. It is submitted that the petitioner possesses a diploma in mechanical engineering passed in the year 1991 from the Board of Technical Education U.P. The advertisement as well as certificate of the diploma are contained in Annexure No. 1 and 2 to the petition. The petitioner belongs to a scheduled caste category and applied for the said category. The petitioner was selected and was granted appointment by the office order dated 06.12.2007 in the pay scale of Rs. 3050-4590. Thereafter the petitioner joined and is in continuous service and presently is posted in District Mainpuri. The work and conduct of the petitioner has been satisfactory. The post of the petitioner is categorized in Group-C. The pay scale of the petitioner was revised from time to time vide office orders dated 07.10.2003, 14.05.2012 and 03.10.2012.

5. In public works department there existed a post of Junior Engineer (Civil) and Junior Engineer (Mechanical). On 01.01.2015, The State Government U.P., notified U.P. Lok Nirman Vibhag Avar Abhiyanta (Civil) (Group-C), Service Rules 2014 and also U.P. Lok Nirman Vibhag Avar Abhiyanta (Mechanical) (Group-C) Service Rules 2014. Under both the rules there existed 5 percent quota of promotion to the post of Junior Engineer to be filled up by promotion from amongst the substantively appointed Group-C Employees of the department who have obtained the qualification specified in Group-C after obtaining the permission of the department and have completed 10 years of substantive service on the first day of the year of recruitment.

6. It has been further submitted that the petitioner is fully qualified and eligible to be considered for the promotion against the five percent quota of Junior Engineer.

7. It has been further submitted that the Chief Engineer (Establishment), Group-C category by communication dated 03.10.2016 sought information pertaining to Group 'C' Staff of the department eligible for consideration for promotion under 5 percent quota for the post of Junior Engineer. Responding to the said notification, the Executive Engineer, Provincial Division, Mainpuri, intimated that there was no such Group-C staff in this division. The aforesaid response dated 18.10.2016, however, specifies that the petitioner is possessing a diploma and was working in the Division, but, the diploma possessed by him had been obtained prior to the date of appointment in the department.

8. Again the Superintending Engineer, Mainpuri Circle, vide notification dated 22.12.2017 sought information regarding eligible candidates for consideration for promotion on the said post of Junior Engineer. The Executive Engineer, Provincial Division, Mainpuri vide letter dated 29.01.2018 replied in which it was specified that there did not exist any such staff in his division, however, in submitting the aforesaid communication, it was specifically stated that the petitioner was working as a heavy machine operator in the division and possessed a diploma prior to the date of his appointment.

9. The Superintendent Engineer again vide letter dated 07.01.2020 sought information from the Executive Engineer Mainpuri. Replying that, the Executive Engineer sent a communication dated 20.01.2020 in which again name of the petitioner was specified, but it was mentioned that he possesses a diploma prior to the date of appointment. The copy of the aforesaid notifications are on record as Annexure No. 8 to 11 to the writ petition.

10. Thereafter, the petitioner vide various representations prayed for according consideration for promotion under the quota for promotion.

11. On the representation of the petitioner, the Executive Engineer sent a letter dated 11.06.2018 to the Superintendent Engineer, who forwarded it to the Chief Engineer and the Chief Engineer in turn forwarded such information vide letter dated 27.06.2018 to the Chief Engineer (Establishment) Group-C Category, however, till date the case of the petitioner has not been considered for promotion for the sole reason that the petitioner is not covered strictly by the language utilized in Rule 5 of the 2014 Rules which permits consideration of an employee who has obtained diploma for the promotion by the department while in service, whereas the petitioner had a diploma prior to the date of his appointment.

12. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied on the judgment of the Division Bench of this Court dated 04.01.2016 passed in Writ C No. 62726/2016 (Madhvendra Singh Vs. State of UP and others), wherein Rule 5 of 2014 Rules was challenged in so far as it excluded from consideration the candidate who possesses diploma prior to his appointment.

13. The petitioner of the aforesaid writ petition Madhavendra Singh represented the authorities along with copy of the judgment dated 04.01.2015. Another judgment dated 22.11.2018 has been relied by the learned counsel passed in Writ petition No. 33558/2017 "Vinod Goel Vs. State of U.P. and others".

14. It has been submitted that as a consequence of the aforesaid judgment, the controversy stands settled for consideration under Rule 5 of 2014 Rules, upon such a group C post an incumbent who already possess the diploma at the time of entry in service is also eligible.

15. It is further submitted that the objection against the candidature of the petitioner is contrary to 2014 Rules as interpreted by the Division Bench of this Court.

16. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel has submitted that the petitioner is not eligible to be promoted only on the basis of seniority list. It has been submitted on behalf of the State that the recruitment to the post of Junior Engineer, Mechanical is made on the basis of seniority subject to rejection of the unfit in accordance with the Uttar Pradesh Promotion by Selection in Consultation with Public Service Commission (Procedure) Rules, 1970 as amended from time to time.

17. He also submits that 2014 Rules is effective from 01.01.2015 and according to the provision of the 2014 Rules, 95 percent of the vacancies of the Junior Engineer are to be filled by the direct recruitment and five percent post are filled by way of promotion in a selection year. He also submits that excess posts have already been filled up by way of promotion. In previous years due to wrong calculation based on the cadre strength, more posts have been fulfilled which was not in accordance with law, then some administrative orders were passed by the respondents authorities which were challenged by the aggrieved persons before the Court.

18. It has been further submitted that at present, there is no vacancy in the department which has to be filled by way of promotion. Hence, no requisition can be forwarded the U.P. Public Service Commission to fill the post by way of promotion.

19. It is also submitted that several petitions are pending before this Court where some interim orders are going on and the aggrieved persons are working in shelter of those interim orders. In such circumstances, no further process can be initiated to fulfill the post of promotion by sending the requisition to U.P. Public Service Commission.

20. It is also submitted that in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 3099 of 2022, the promotion orders of the petitioner has been cancelled by the respondent authorities and the same was stayed by this Court. Specific pleadings in this regard has been made in para 25 of the short counter affidavit.

21. It has been further submitted by the learned Standing Counsel that the respondent authorities have not violated any existing rules and has further submitted that the petitioner is not eligible to be promoted.

22. Learned counsel for the petitioner in rebuttal has submitted that after the controversy regarding interpretation of Rule 5 of 2014 Rules has been settled by the Division Bench of this Court in the judgment and order dated 04.01.2016 passed in Writ-C No. 62726/2015, Madhvendra Singh (supra), it is not open for the State to contend that the petitioner is not eligible for promotion.

23. It is further submitted that in case the excess posts have been filled up by the department, the petitioner cannot be deprived from being considered for promotion as the fault of filling excess posts is of the respondents authorities. In case there are no post left, the State may direct to create a supernumerary post for grant of effective relief to the petitioner. In support of his contention, he has relied on three judgments of the Apex Court i.e. 1994 Supp (1) SCC 84 (para-10), Union of India Vs. Vijay Kumari", "2009 (14) SCC 173 (para 45), Union of India Vs. Parul Devnath" and "2020 (3) SCC 803 (para-22), Govind Chandra Tiriya Vs. Sibaji Charan Panda".

24. A perusal of judgment passed in Writ C No. 62726/2015 dated 04.01.2016 shows that the Division Bench while deciding writ petition has held that "In our view, the requirement that a candidate should have fulfilled the required educational qualifications as prescribed by Rule 8 after obtaining the permission of the department covers those in service candidates who have acquired the qualifications during their employment with the State Government. This is intended to ensure that a candidate who is duly employed with the State obtains the educational qualifications only after seeking and obtaining the permission of the prescribed authority. Obviously, the object and purpose is not to exclude from consideration in service candidates who have already obtained educational qualifications prescribed prior to their date of entry in service. In other words, Rule 5 (2) is not intended to act as an exclusion of in service candidates who otherwise fulfill the requirement of holding the prescribed qualifications, where the qualifications had already been acquired prior to entry in service. If the Rule is construed in the manner it has been interpreted by the State Government, it would become manifestly arbitrary since it would operate to exclude in service candidates who fulfill all the required norms including the prescribed qualifications, only on the ground that the qualifications had been obtained prior to the date of entry in service. This is evidently not the object and purpose which is sought to be achieved by the Rule.

Hence, as we have interpreted the Rule, it would not exclude the petitioner from being considered for promotion merely on the ground that he had not obtained the educational qualifications prescribed with the permission of the department. There was no occasion for the petitioner to obtain the permission of the department for the simple reason that he had acquired a three year diploma in 1988, much prior to his appointment in the clerical cadre of the PWD in 1999. We, consequently, hold that the petitioner shall not be excluded from the eligibility list for the reasons which had weighed with the authorities. We clarify that it would be open to the authorities to duly verify that the petitioner does fulfill the prescribed qualifications. Subject to this verification and the petitioner meeting the required norms as prescribed in Rule 5 (2), the name of the petitioner shall be included in the eligibility/select list in accordance with law. This exercise shall be completed within a period of one month from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order. In the view which we have taken in interpreting Rule 5 (2), it has not been necessary for the Court to strike down the provisions contained in the Rule."

25. The issue in the present case that in case the petitioner has got a diploma prior to the date of appointment and not with the permission of the department whether still his case shall be covered under Rule 5(2) of 2014 Rules. The above interpretation by the Division Bench of this Court clearly answers the issue. Rule 5(2) of 2014 Rules has been interpreted by the Division Bench to the effect that it is not intended to act as an exclusion in service candidates who otherwise fulfills the requirement of holding prescribed qualification where the qualification had already been acquired prior to entry in the service like the petitioner. Accordingly, it cannot be contended by the respondent authorities that the petitioner is not having the requisite qualification or he is not eligible to be promoted because he has not obtained the diploma with prior permission of the department.

26. So far as the argument of learned Standing Counsel that they did not have any vacancy for filling 5 percent post quota for promotion which can be filled up for grant of promotion to the petitioner is concerned, this Court has noticed the fact that in the counter affidavit, it has been acknowledged by the State that several illegal promotions have been made under the aforesaid quota which subsequently have been cancelled and persons directed to be reverted have been granted stay orders from the Court and are working on the strength of said stay orders. In view of the admitted position, the respondent cannot be permitted to perpetuate the the illegality on the pretext that they don't have any vacancy under five percent quota.

27. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid judgment in the case of Union of India Vs. Vijay Kumar (supra), Union of India Vs. Parul Devnath (supra) and Govind Chandra Tiriya Vs. Sibaji Charan Panda (supra) has time and again issued directions for creation of supernumerary post for grant of effective relief to the concerned litigants, after it was found by the Court that they were wrongly denied their legal entitlements.

28. Accordingly, in order to balance the equities, a writ of mandamus is issued to the respondent authorities to consider the claim of the petitioner for promotion afresh after creating a supernumerary post under five percent quota which shall be adjusted in future, upon the occurrence of a vacant post, in the same quota. This exercise shall be conducted within a period of three months from the date of receipt of certified copy of this order.

29. The writ petition is allowed. No order as to cost.

5. A.K.S. Rathore (dead) thru LRS Vs U.O.I. & anr.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned standing counsel for State- respondents.

2. Present petition has been filed for quashing the impugned orders dated 04.11.2009, 05.11.2009, 14.10.2020 & 18.04.2011 and for payment of consequential dues.

3. Counter and rejoinder affidavits have been exchanged. With the consent of learned counsel for the parties, writ petition is being decided at the admission stage itself.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that during pendency of writ petition, Raj Pal Singh (husband of petitioner) died and now petition is being contested by his wife after filing substitution application, which has been allowed.

5. He next submitted that husband of petitioner (Raj Pal Singh) was serving as Sub Inspector in Civil Police and after attaining the age of superannuation i.e. 60 years, he was retired from service on 31.05.2009. While, he was posted at Ramabai Nagar, a disciplinary proceeding was initiated against him to award major punishment and also withholding the salary for the period of his absence from duty. Pursuant to that, a charge sheet dated 24.10.2008 was served upon husband of petitioner and he has submitted his reply dated 13.11.2008 denying all charges. Ultimately, Enquiry Officer has submitted enquiry report dated 06.03.2009 against the husband of petitioner with recommendation of punishment for withholding salary for the period of absence and further reversion to minimum pay scale for one year.

6. Pursuant to enquiry report dated 06.03.2009, two show cause notices dated 27.05.2009 has been issued to husband of petitioner by Disciplinary Authority, upon which, he has submitted reply dated 30.05.2009. Disciplinary Authority without considering the reply of husband of petitioner and without recording any finding upon that, has passed impugned orders dated 04.11.2066 & 05.11.2009 imposing the punishment proposed by Enquiry Officer. Against the impugned orders, husband of petitioner has preferred appeal before respondent no. 3, which was dismissed vide order dated 14.10.2010. After dismissal of appeal, husband of petitioner has preferred revision before respondent no. 2, which was also dismissed vide order dated 18.04.2011.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that impugned orders are bad on two grounds.

8. First of all, Enquiry Officer has no business to propose the punishment and it is upon the Disciplinary Authority to take decision after considering the enquiry report and other material available on record. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in the matter of State of Uttaranchal Vs. Kharak Singh; 2008 (8) SCC 236.

9. Secondly, impugned orders are having no reason and no consideration of reply of husband of petitioner dated 30.05.2009 of show cause notice dated 27.05.2009. For this, he has taken specific plea in paragraph 11 of the affidavit filed along with petition and in the counter affidavit, there is a very vague denial not supported with any document. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court in the matter of Surendra Singh Vs. State of U.P. (Writ A No. 23290 of 2017) decided on 24.05.2017.

10. He next submitted that after death of deceased employee (in present case, husband of petitioner), no further or fresh enquiry may be initiated. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgments of this Court in the matters of Durgawati Dubey Vs. State of U.P. and 3 others (Writ A No. 40057 of 2013) decided on 8.10.2018, Raj Kishori Devi Widow (deceased) Vs. State of U.P. and 4 others (Writ A No. 47122 of 2016) decided on 30.7.2019 and judgment of Apex Court in the matter of A.K.S. Rathore (dead) through LRS Vs. Union of India & another in Civil Appeal No. 7028 of 2022 (arising out of SLP (C) No. 22570 of 2016 decided on 28.9.2022.

11. Sri Govind Narayan Srivastava, learned standing counsel vehemently opposed the submissions raised by learned counsel for the petitioner, but could not dispute this fact that punishment so given is as proposed by the Enquiry Officer. He also could not dispute that impugned orders have been passed without considering the reply of petitioner dated 30.05.2009 having no finding upon that.

12. I have considered the rival submissions raised by learned counsel for the parties and perused the record. Last paragraph of the enquiry report dated 06.03.2009 provides proposed punishment i.e. withholding salary for the period of absence and further reversion to minimum pay scale for one year, which are awarded to the petitioner. Apex Court in the matter of Kharak Singh (supra) has considered this fact and opined that Enquiry Officer has no authority to make recommendation for punishment. Relevant paragraphs of the said judgment are quoted below;

"18. Another infirmity in the report of the enquiry officer is that he concluded the enquiry holding that all the charges have been proved and he recommended for dismissal of the delinquent from service. The last paragraph of his report dated 16-11-1985 reads as under:

"During the course of above inquiry, such facts have come into light from which it is proved that the employee who has doubtful character and does not obey the order, does not have the right to continue in the government service and it is recommended to dismiss him from the service with immediate effect."

(emphasis supplied)

Though there is no specific bar in offering views by the enquiry officer, in the case on hand, the enquiry officer exceeded his limit by saying that the officer has no right to continue in the government service and he has to be dismissed from service with immediate effect.

19. As pointed out above, awarding appropriate punishment is the exclusive jurisdiction of the punishing/disciplinary authority and it depends upon the nature and gravity of the proved charge/charges and other attended circumstances. It is clear from the materials, the officer, who inspected and noted the shortfall of trees, himself conducted the enquiry, arrived at a conclusion holding the charges proved and also strongly recommended severe punishment of dismissal from service. The entire action and the course adopted by the enquiry officer cannot be accepted and is contrary to the well-known principles enunciated by this Court.

13. Apex Court has taken firm view that Enquiry Committee has no authority to recommend the punishment.

14. From the perusal of show cause notice dated 27.05.2009 and reply submitted by the husband of petitioner dated 30.05.2009, it is apparently clear that reply so given by the petitioner has not been considered and straightway impugned orders have been passed with a one line observation that reply of petitioner is not satisfactory. No finding is recorded in support of that as to why reply is not satisfactory. This issue has also been decided by this Court in the matter of Surendra Singh (Supra). Relevant paragraphs are being quoted below;

"By the impugned order, the petitioner has been found guilty and he has been awarded a censure entry in terms of Rule 4(1)(b)(iv) of the U.P. Police Officers of Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rule, 1991.

It is contended on behalf of the petitioner that the impugned order is arbitrary and illegal and it does not disclose any reason, hence, the order is liable to be set aside. He further submits that in response to the show cause notice, the petitioner has submitted detailed representation on 28.04.2016. The authority concerned without adverting to his reply has rejected it by single order that his reply was found "Asantoshjanak" (Unsatisfactory). He submits that no reason has been assigned in the matter, hence, the order is arbitrary.

I have heard the learned counsel for the parties.

It is well settled law that an administrative/quasi judicial order must contain reason in support of the conclusion and in absence of the reason, the order become arbitrary.

The Supreme Court in long line of decisions has settled the view that recording the reasons is an essential feature in administrative decision. Recording the reasons also checks the State functionaries to act fairly and restrain them from arbitrary exercise of their administrative or quasi judicial power. The reasons in support of decision must be cogent and clear, which can demonstrate that authority concerned has applied his mind. Reference may be made to the judgments of Supreme Court in the cases of Assistant Commissioner, Commercial Tax Department, Works Contract and Leasing Vs. Shukla and Brothers, (2010) 4 SCC 785; Kranti Associates Private Limited Vs. Masood Ahmed Khan, (2010) 9 SCC 496; Union of India Vs. Mohan Lal Capoor, AIR 1974 SC 87; S.N. Mukherjee Vs. Union of India, AIR 1990 SC 1984; Raj Kishore Jha Vs. State of Bihar, (2003) 11 SCC 519; Assistant Commissioner, Commercial Tax Department, Works Contract and Leasing, Kota Vs. Shukla and Brothers (2010) 4 SCC 785.

In view of the said settled law, I find that the impugned order which is cryptic and skeletal, needs to be set aside. Accordingly, it is set aside.

The matter is remitted to the authority concerned to pass fresh order in accordance with law, expeditiously.

In view of the fact that from order itself, it is evident that no reason has been mention, no useful purpose would be served to grant time to learned Standing Counsel to file counter affidavit.

With the aforesaid observation, the writ petition is disposed of."

15. Court is of the firm view that recording of reason is an essential feature in Administrative decisions.

16. Now, coming to the last submission as to whether a fresh enquiry can be conducted or not? It is undisputed that as on date, original petitioner, (husband of present petitioner before substitution), is no more. This matter was before this Court in the matter of Durgawati Dubey (Supra). Relevant paragraphs are quoted below;

"After going through the judgments and facts of the case, this Court is of the view that against a dead person, neither disciplinary proceeding can be initiated nor any punishment order can be passed. In the present case, facts are not disputed that disciplinary proceeding was initiated against husband of petitioner after his death, which suffers from non application of mind as well as contrary to the law laid down by this Court as well as other High Courts, therefore, the impugned order dated 10.06.2013 is not sustainable and is hereby quashed.

The writ petition is allowed. No order as to costs."

17. Court is of the firm view that no disciplinary proceeding can be initiated against a dead person. This Court in the matter of Raj Kishori Devi Widow (supra) has again taken the similar view. Relevant paragraphs are being quoted below;

"Learned Single Judge of of this Court in Rajeshwari Devi Vs. State of U.P. and others, in the similar facts, held as follows:

"Holding of departmental enquiry and imposition of punishment contemplates a pre-requisite condition that the employee concerned, who is to be proceeded against and is to be punished, is continuing an employee, meaning thereby is alive. As soon as a person dies, he breaks all his connection with the worldly affairs. It cannot be said that the chain of employment would still continue to enable employer to pass an order, punitive in nature, against the dead employee..... all the punishments contemplated under the rules are such which can be imposed on a person who is still continuing to be an employee."

It follows that punishment provided under the Disciplinary Rules can be imposed upon the government servant and not on the family member of the government servant. As soon as an incumbent ceases to be a government servant upon death, no penalty under the rules could have been imposed upon him.

That being so, the question of passing an order, which may have the effect of punishing legal heirs of the deceased employee would not arise. In the facts of the instant case, disciplinary proceeding was initiated against the employee immediately before his retirement and before the disciplinary enquiry could conclude he died. The disciplinary enquiry, thereafter, could not have been proceeded under Section 351A of the Civil Service Regulations, accordingly, the competent authority dropped the enquiry. By the impugned order, recovery was sought to be made from the post retiral dues from the legal heir for the misdemeanour and misconduct of the delinquent employee, which was not permissible in view of Rule 54-B of the Fundamental Rules.

Learned standing counsel, in rebuttal, does not dispute the fact that the enquiry was dropped as the employee died and the enquiry could not be concluded before death of the employee. In the circumstances, no recovery could have been made from the post retiral dues without a finding being recorded against the deceased/employee under the Rules that he was responsible for having caused loss to the government.

The order dated 17 June 2016 passed by the second respondent-Finance Controller and Chief Accounts Officer, Foods and Civil Supplies, Lucknow, is unsustainable, accordingly, set aside and quashed.

The recovered sum of the post retiral dues shall be released to the petitioner by the second respondent--Finance Controller and Chief Accounts Officer, Foods and Civil Supplies, Lucknow, within two months from the date of filing of certified copy of this order along with interest @ 7% per annum on the sum from the date of recovery.

The writ petition stands allowed. No Cost."

18. Recently, in the matter of A.K.S. Rathore (supra), Apex Court has taken a very clear view that no disciplinary proceeding can be initiated or continued against a dead person. Relevant paragraphs are being quoted below;

"8. Today even if we dismiss the above appeal, no final order can be passed in the disciplinary proceedings, against a dead person. The disciplinary proceedings have actually abated. In other words the dismissal of the above appeal will have the same consequences as the appeal being allowed.

9. In view of the above, the above appeal is disposed of holding that the disciplinary proceedings initiated affinst the original appellant stand abated. As a consequence, the legal representatives of the original appellant will be entitled to all the benefits that the original appellant would have been entitled to, as per the rules. The respondents may pass orders in accordance with the rules, about the benefits law-fully admissible to the original appellant and disburse the same within a period of 12 weeks. There will be no order as to costs."

19. In the present case, Disciplinary Authority has given the same punishment, which was proposed by Enquiry Officer and further no finding has been recorded while passing the impugned orders, therefore, it is bad in law.

20. Under such facts and circumstances of the case as well as law discussed herein above, impugned orders dated 04.11.2009, 05.11.2009, 14.10.2020 & 18.04.2011 are bad and hereby quashed. Further, as on date, husband of petitioner (employee) is no more, therefore, matter cannot be remitted back to the respondents for passing fresh order and petitioner shall be entitled for all consequential benefits permitted under the Rules.

21. Accordingly, petition is allowed.

22. No order as to cots.

23. Respondents are directed to pay all consequential benefits arising out of quashing of impugned orders to the petitioner i.e. wife of Raj Pal Singh within three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

2. Learned AGA does not propose to file any counter affidavit. However, pleadings between applicants and opposite party no.2 (informant) have been exchanged.

3. Heard Sri Dhirendra Kumar Srivastava and Sri Hari Krishna Singh, learned counsels for the applicants, Sri Amarnath Tripathi, Sri Bhanu Prakash Verma and Sri Shashi Kant Shukla, learned counsels for opposite party no.2 and Dr. S.B.Maurya, learned AGA-I, for the State.

4. The instant applications under Section 482 Cr.P.C. have been filed by the applicants with a prayer to quash the cognizance order dated 05.11.2022 as well as entire proceeding of Case No. 1327 of 2020 pending in the Court of ACJM, Court No.1, Mathura arising out of Case Crime No. 648 of 2019, under Sections 409, 420 IPC, Police Station Kotwali, District Mathura.

Factual Matrix

5. Opposite party no.2 lodged FIR against applicants under Sections 409, 420 IPC on 31.08.2019 at Case Crime No. 648 of 2019 at Police Station Kotwali, District Mathura and as per allegation made in the FIR, informant/opposite party no.2 made a Golden Chatra on the order of the applicants weighing about 3.352 Kilogram and 420 miligram valuing about 1,31,36,289/- and handed over the same to the applicants on 06.04.2018 and applicants promised him that within a week they will make the payment and on 09.05.2018 applicants donated the Golden Chatra at Badrinath Dham and when more than a month passed then informant demanded his money but applicants stated that within 2-4 months they will make the payment but they did not make the payment and thereafter they refused to make any payment. According to the FIR, applicants were having intention to cheat informant since beginning and thus they committed fraud.

6. After registration of the FIR, investigation was conducted and during investigation Investigating Officer recorded the statement of opposite party no.2, the informant and he reiterated the version of the FIR. During investigation, Investigating Officer also recorded the statements of some independent witnesses and they stated that applicants did some interior work of the house of the informant and estimate of the renovation was rupees 9.5 Crore but informant i.e. opposite party no.2 paid only Rs. 1.2 Crore and due to this reason some dispute arose between applicants and informant and applicants also filed a civil suit in this regard against informant before Civil Judge (Junior Division), Ludhiana vide Case No. 7461 of 2019 and only due to this reason informant lodged FIR of the present case against the applicants after cooking up false and fabricated story and in fact informant did not want to pay the remaining amount to the applicants. These independent witnesses also stated that after the alleged date of handing over the Golden Chatra to the applicants, informant deposited Rs. 10 Lakhs in the account of the firm of the applicants. After investigation on 16.12.2019 Investigating Officer submitted final report in the present matter.

7. From the record, it reflects that during pendency of final report before the court concerned informant i.e. opposite party no.2 moved an application for further investigation before Inspector General of Police, Agra and on 06.01.2020, Inspector General of Police, Agra transferred the investigation from District Mathura to District Agra and directed the SSP, Agra to allot further investigation of the case to some competent police officer and on the direction issued by Inspector General, Agra further investigation of the case was commenced and during further investigation subsequent statement of informant i.e. opposite party no.2 was recorded and he reiterated his earlier version recorded by earlier Investigating Officer although in his subsequent statement he admitted the fact that applicants informed him that they are in the business of interior decoration and he gave them a contract to renovate his house. He further stated that applicants provided him estimate of Rs. 9.5 Crore for renovation. Informant i.e. opposite party no.2 also stated that on different dates he transferred number of amounts in the account of the firm of applicants and made a request to them to start the renovation work of his house and thereafter applicants sent some materials of about Rs. 8,48,000/- and in the meantime applicants stated to him that they wanted to donate a Golden Chatra at Badri Nath Dham and they placed the order in this regard to him and on their verbal order he prepared a Golden Chatra of about 3.352 Kilogram and 420 miligram and cost of the Chatra was Rs. 1,31,36,289/- and handed over the same to the applicants on 06.04.2018 but they did not make the payment. In his second statement opposite party no.2 further stated that as applicants were doing the renovation work of his house, therefore, he deposited Rs. 10 lakhs on 12.06.2018 in the account of the firm of the applicants i.e. after handing over the Golden Chatra to the applicants. Opposite party no.2 further stated that on 12.06.2019 applicants sent legal notice to him and also filed civil suit against him in the court of Civil Judge (Junior Division), Ludhiana and thereafter on 31.08.2019 he lodged FIR of the present case.

8. During further investigation, Investigating Officer also recorded the statement of Pundereep Goswami Ji Maharaj. He stated that Golden Chatra was made by the informant.

9. During further investigation, again investigation was transferred from District Agra to Mathura by the order of the Inspector General of Police, Agra on the application of the informant i.e. opposite party no.2 and thereafter on 14.10.2020 statement of Ashok Kumar Agrawal, the brother of the informant was recorded and he also stated that informant handed over the work of renovation of his house to the applicants and they provided estimate of about rupees 9.5 Crore and thereafter opposite party no.2 transferred 1.10 Crore in the account of the firm of the applicants and thereafter applicants sent materials of about Rs. 1,48,000/- but they did not start any work of renovation and thereafter they by playing fraud got manufactured Golden Chatra from the informant amounting to Rs. 1,31,36,289/- weighing about 3.352 Kilogram and 420 miligram and donated the same at Badri Nath Dham and did not make the payment of Golden Chatra. Ashok Kumar Agrawal, the brother of the informant also stated that on 12.06.2018

i.e. after alleged handing over the Golden Chatra to the applicants by the informant, Rs. 10 Lakhs were transferred by opposite party no.2 in the account of the firm of applicants.

10. From the record, it further reflects that during further investigation, Investigating Officer made query from Badri Nath Kedar Nath Samiti and on 07.02.2020 Samiti provided its reply and as per reply, applicants on 09.05.2018 donated a Golden Chatra at Badri Nath Dham weighing about 3.354 Kilogram and entry of the same was made on 24.10.2018 at the register of the temple. It appears from the record that after further investigation on 16.10.2020 charge-sheet was submitted against the applicants in the present matter and after submission of the charge-sheet cognizance was taken and summons were issued to the applicants on 05.11.2020.

11. Hence the present application.

Submission on behalf of the applicants

12. Learned counsel for the applicants submitted that entire allegations made against the applicants are totally false and baseless and in fact applicants never placed any order to the opposite party no.2 with regard to the Golden Chhatra. He submits, applicants are in the business of interior designing and informant engaged them for the purpose of renovation of his house and in this regard an estimate of Rs. 9.5 Crore was given by the applicants to him and thereafter work of renovation of the house of the informant (Opposite Party No. 2) was started and Opposite Party No. 2 transferred Rs. 1.2 crore in the account of the firm of the applicants but thereafter some dispute arose between the parties with regard to the remaining payment and in this regard firm of the applicants sent a legal notice to the Opposite Party No. 2 on 12.6.2019 through its counsel and demanded the remaining dues of Rs. 8.3 crore and Opposite Party No. 2 gave reply to the same through his advocate on 26.6.2019 and stated in his reply that in spite of advance payment of Rs. 1.2 crore applicants did not even start renovation work of his house and alleged that applicants committed fraud.

13. He further submits, in reply dated 26.6.2019 Opposite Party No. 2 did not state about the fact of Golden Chhatra and this fact clearly suggest that only due to the dispute arose between the parties with regard to the payment of renovation of the house of the informant the FIR of the present case was lodged against the applicants by setting up a false and concocted story.

14. He further submitted that firm of the applicants also replied on 19.9.2019 but in the meantime on 31.8.2019 Opposite Party No. 2 has lodged FIR of the present case against the applicants. He further submitted that there is no admissible evidence on record which can show that applicants placed any order for making of Golden Chhatra. He further submitted that the present dispute is purely civil dispute and even if applicants failed to keep promise to make payment of golden chhatra as alleged then also no criminal liability could be fastened against them.

15. He further submitted that from the subsequent statement of the Opposite Party No. 2 and his brother Ashok Kumar Agrawal recorded during further investigation, it is evident that the amount of Rs. 10 lac was transferred by Opposite Party No. 2 in the account of the firm of the applicants after about two months from the date of alleged handing over the Golden Chhatra to the applicants and this fact clearly suggest that there was no dispute pending between the parties with regard to the Golden Chhatra rather the dispute was pending with regard to the renovation of the house of informant which was being done by the firm of the applicants.

16. He further submitted that as informant/ Opposite Party No. 2 failed to make the payment of the balance amount of Rs. 8.3 crore to the applicants, therefore, the firm of the applicant filed a civil suit for damages against Opposite Party No. 2 on 21.9.2019 which is still pending. He further submitted that except the verbal allegation there is also no evidence on record which can show that Opposite Party No. 2 handed over the Golden Chhatra to the applicants.

17. He further submitted that in fact the Golden Chhatra was not individually donated by the applicants at Badrinath Dham but it was handed over by the group of devotees at Badrinath Dham and this fact is evident from the letter of Maharshi Mukta Seva Mission which has been annexed as Annexure No. 19 to the affidavit filed in support of the present application. He further submitted that Uttarakhand Government in the year 2021 has constituted Uttarakhand Char Dham Management Board (in short Board) to look after the working of the temples in the State and abolished Badrinath Kedarnath Mandir Samiti which earlier looked the working of the temples in the State and Maharshi Mukta Seva Mission through its letter dated 15.4.2021 informed the newly constituted Uttarakhand Char Dham Management Board that on 09.05.2018 the Golden Chhatra was donated by groups of devotees and also apprised the Board about the wrong information furnished by the earlier Samiti to the Investigating Officer and also requested to issue correct information. He further submits, after that on 26.04.2021 the Board sent letter to Maharshi Mukta Sewa Mission and informed that Golden Chhatra was collectively donated by large numbers of devotees on 09.05.2018 and entry of the same has been made in the record of the temple. He further submits, therefore, it is evident that the Golden Chhatra was donated collectively by number of devotees and not by applicants individually.

18. He further submitted that even if the allegations are accepted then also no offence under Section 409, 420 IPC is made out against the applicants as there is no evidence on record which can show that applicants were having any intention to cheat the informant/Opposite Party No. 2 since beginning.

19 . He further submitted that admittedly applicants are neither public servant nor banker nor merchant nor broker nor attorney nor agent, therefore, offence under Section 409 IPC is not made out against them. He further submitted that without any application of mind in routine manner cognizance was taken by the Court concerned, therefore, cognizance order dated 5.11.2020 and proceedings pending against the applicants before the Court concerned are liable to quashed.

Submission made on behalf of the respondents

20. Learned counsels for the informant as well as learned AGA submitted that from the perusal of the record it appears that applicants committed offence under Section 409, 420 IPC and they were having intention since beginning to deceit the informant and in spite of receaving the Golden Chhatra of about Rs. 1,31,36,289/- they did not pay the amount and donated the Chhatra at Badrinath Dham, thus committed offence of cheating and criminal breach of trust and it cannot be said that it was merely a breach of a promise.

21. Learned counsel for the informant further argued that from the perusal of the statement of the Opposite Party No. 2 and other witnesses it is apparant that on the order placed by applicants Golden Chhatra was made by the informant and he handed over the same to them but they failed to make the payment of the same and this fact shows that applicants were having intention to cheat the informant. He further submitted that from the letter of Badrinath Kedarnath Mandir Samiti which was sent by the Samiti to the Investigating Officer it reflects that applicants were the persons who donated the Golden Chhatra at Badrinath Dham and at this stage it cannot be said that the Golden Chhatra was donated collectively by the devotees rather there is evidence on record which can clearly shows that applicants were the persons who donated the same at Badrinath Dham.

22. He further submitted that as applicants being interior decorator were doing some work of renovation of the house of Opposite Party No. 2, therefore, in fiduciary relationship without any written agreement, on the verbal order placed by the applicants Opposite Party No. 2 made the Golden Chhatra and handed over it to them and as work of renovation of the house of the Opposite Party No. 2 was under way, therefore, Opposite Party No. 2 even after handing over the Golden Chhatra to the applicants transferred the amount of Rs. 10 lacs in the account of the firm of the applicants with regard to renovation work and from this fact it cannot be presumed that no dispute with regard to Golden Chhatra was pending between the parties.

23. He further submitted that as the dispute with regard to the payment of the renovation of the house of the informant and Golden Chhatra were two different disputes, therefore, in reply to the legal notice of the applicants, Opposite Party No. 2 did not disclose the fact about Golden Chhatra and therefore, it also cannot be presumed on the basis of the reply of the legal notice given by the Opposite Party No. 2 that no such dispute with the regard to the payment of the Golden Chhatra was existed.

24. He further submitted that applicants by playing fraud with deceitful intention duped amount of more than Rs. 1,31,00,000 of the informant. He further submitted that as there is prima facie sufficient evidence against the applicants on record, therefore, Court concerned rightly took the cognizance and issued the summons.

25. He further submitted that the previous investigation could not be properly conducted and with the connivance of the applicants, first Investigating Officer submitted final report in the present matter and after further investigation on the basis of evidence collected during further investigation charge-sheet was filed against applicants, therefore, the instant applications filed on behalf of the applicants are devoid of merits and are liable to be dismissed.

Analysis

26. I have given my thoughtful consideration on the rival submissions advanced by learned counsels for both the parties and perused the material placed on record.

27. The power of this Court with regard to its inherent jurisdiction has been discussed by Three Judges Bench of the Apex Court in case of R.P. Kapur Vs. State of Punjab AIR 1960 SC 866 and Three Judges Bench of the Apex Court summarised the categories of cases where inherent power can or should be exercised to quash the proceedings:-

(i) Where it manifestly appears that there is a legal bar against the institution or continuance of proceedings for example want of sanction,

(ii) Where allegation in the first information report or complaint if taken at its face value and accepted in their entirety do not constitute the offence alleged,

(iii) Where the allegations constituted an offence but there is no legal evidence adduced or the evidence adduced clearly or manifestly fails to prove the charges.

28. The Apex Court in its celebrated judgement of State of Haryana and others Vs. Bhajan Lal and other 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 considered in detail the scope of this Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and/ or Articles of 226 of Constitution of India and identified the following categories in which proceedings can be quashed and observed in paragraph 102 as:-

"102. In the backdrop of the interpretation of the various relevant provisions of the Code under Chapter XIV and of the principles of law enunciated by this Court in a series of decisions relating to the exercise of the extraordinary power under Article 226 or the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code which we have extracted and reproduced above, we give the following categories of cases by way of illustration wherein such power could be exercised either to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelised and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised.

(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156 (1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155 (2) of the Code.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(4) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155 (2) of the Code.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

29. Recently Three Judges Bench of the Supreme Court in the case of M/s Neeharika Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. Vs. State of Maharashtra and others AIR (2021) SC 1918 also occasioned to discuss the scope of Section 482 Cr.P.C. and Article 226 of Constitution of India and observed that if a case falls under the parameters of R.P. Kapur case (supra) and Bhajan Lal case (supra) then this Court is having jurisdiction to quash the proceedings by invoking its jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

30. The Three Judges Bench of the Apex Court in case of Prabhatbhai Aahir alias Parbatbai Bhimsinhbhai Karmur and others Vs. State of Gujarat and another (2017) 9 SCC 641 observed that Section 482 Cr.P.C. is pre-faced with an overriding provision and this Court being a superior Court has the inherent power to make such order as necessary (i) to prevent an abuse of the process of any Court; or (ii) otherwise to secure the ends of justice.

31. Again apex Court in case of Kapil Agarwal and others Vs. Sanjay Sharma and others (2021) 5 SCC 524 observed with regard to power of this Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. as:-

"As observed and held by this Court in catena of decisions, inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and/or under Article 226 of the Constitution is designed to achieve salutary purpose that criminal proceedings ought not to be permitted to degenerate into weapon of harassment. When the Court is satisfied that criminal proceedings amount to an abuse of process of law or that it amounts to bringing pressure upon accused, in exercise of inherent powers, such proceedings can be quashed."

32. The law with regard to the power of this Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is settled that this Court cannot scuttle a legitimate prosecution at its inception and the inherent power should be used sparingly with abundant caution but at the same time if it appears that even if entire allegations are accepted and even then no offence is made out or proceedings has been initiated with mala-fide intention only to harass the accused persons then in the interest of justice and to secure the ends of justice this Court should invoke its jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and may quash the proceedings.

33. In case at hand, proceedings pending against the applicants relates to Sections 409, 420 IPC and therefore, question before this Court is, whether the offences of cheating and criminal breach of trust have been made out from the face value of the allegations. Following the well settled principle of law, contents of the allegations would have to be taken as a whole to deduce as to whether the ingredients of the offence have been duly established.

34. In the present matter, the FIR was lodged on 31.8.2019 and according to the FIR applicants placed an order for Golden Chhatra and on the order of the applicants a Golden Chhatra was made by the informant and it was handed over to them and applicants promised that within a week they will make the payment but when more than one month was passed then informant demanded their dues but applicants did not make the payment, therefore, as per allegation made against the applicants, they failed to fulfil their promise. Therefore, question arises if allegations made against the applicants are accepted then offences under Section 420, 409 are made out or not.

35. The ingredients of the offence of cheating and dishonestly inducing delivering of property are spelt out in Section 420 of IPC it reads as follows:

420. Cheating and dishonestly inducing delivery of property.--Whoever cheats and thereby dishonestly induces the person deceived to deliver any property to any person, or to make, alter or destroy the whole or any part of a valuable security, or anything which is signed or sealed, and which is capable of being converted into a valuable security, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine.

36. Therefore, for offence under Section 420 IPC cheating and dishonest inducement to deliver the property is necessary.

37. In Hridaya Ranjan Prasad Verma Vs. State of Bihar (2000) 4 SCC 168, the Apex Court interpreted Section 415 and 420 of IPC and hold that fraudulent and dishonest intention is a pre-condition to constitute the offence of cheating the relevant extract from the judgment are as follows:-

"14. On a reading of the section it is manifest that in the definition there are set forth two separate classes of acts which the person deceived may be induced to do. In the first place he may be induced fraudulently or dishonestly to deliver any property to any person. The second class of acts set forth in the section is the doing or omitting to do anything which the person deceived would not do or omit to do if he were not so deceived. In the first class of cases the inducing must be fraudulent or dishonest. In the second class of acts, the inducing must be intentional but not fraudulent or dishonest.

15. In determining the question it has to be kept in mind that the distinction between mere breach of contract and the offence of cheating is a fine one. It depends upon the intention of the accused at the time of inducement which may be judged by his subsequent conduct but for this subsequent conduct is not the sole test. Mere breach of contract cannot give rise to criminal prosecution for cheating unless fraudulent or dishonest intention is shown right at the beginning of the transaction, that is the time when the offence is said to have been committed. Therefore it is the intention which is the gist of the offence. To hold a person guilty of cheating it is necessary to show that he had fraudulent or dishonest intention at the time of making the promise. From his mere failure to keep up promise subsequently such a culpable intention right at the beginning, that is, when he made the promise cannot be presumed." (emphasis supplied)

38. In Dalip Kaur Vs. Jagnar Singh (2009) 14 SCC 696, Apex Court held that a dispute arising out of a breach of an agreement would not amount to an offence of cheating under Section 415 and 420 IPC and observed as:-

"9. The ingredients of Section 420 of the Penal Code are:

"(i) Deception of any persons;

(ii) Fraudulently or dishonestly inducing any person to deliver any property; or

(iii) To consent that any person shall retain any property and finally intentionally inducing that person to do or omit to do anything which he would not do or omit."

10. The High Court, therefore, should have posed a question as to whether any act of inducement on the part of the appellant has been raised by the second respondent and whether the appellant had an intention to cheat him from the very inception. If the dispute between the parties was essentially a civil dispute resulting from a breach of contract on the part of the appellants by non-refunding the amount of advance the same would not constitute an offence of cheating. Similar is the legal position in respect of an (2009) 14 SCC 696 offence of criminal breach of trust having regard to its definition contained in Section 405 of the Penal Code. (See Ajay Mitra v. State of M.P. [(2003) 3 SCC 11 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 703])" (emphasis supplied)

39. Therefore, from the prenciple laid down by the Apex Court with regard to an offence under Section 420 IPC it appears that for offence under Section 420 IPC it is necessary that a person had fraudulent or dishonest intention at the time of making the promise and from his mere failure to keep up promise subsequently such a culpable intention right at the beginning that is when he made the promise cannot be presumed.

40. Applying the above principle in case at hand, I find no offence under Section 420 IPC is made out against the applicants as from the allegation it appears that applicants failed to keep their promise to make the payment of alleged Golden Chhatra and there is no evidence on record which can suggest that applicants were having dishonest and fradulent intention at the time of making the promise and from the allegation it appears that they merely breached the promise which does not attract Section 420 IPC.

41. Section 409 IPC deals with criminal breach of trust by public servant or by banker, merchant or agent and reads as follows:-

409. Criminal breach of trust by public servant, or by banker, merchant or agent.--Whoever, being in any manner entrusted with property, or with any dominion over property in his capacity of a public servant or in the way of his business as a banker, merchant, factor, broker, attorney or agent, commits criminal breach of trust in respect of that property, shall be punished with [imprisonment for life], or with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine.

42. Therefore from the perusal of Section 409 IPC it appears that who ever being public servant or in way of his business as banker, merchant, factor, broker, attorney or agent commits offence of criminal breach of trust then he will be liable under Section 409 IPC.

43. In case at hand, applicants are neither public servants nor they are bankers nor they in way of their business as a merchant or broker or attorney or agent committed the alleged offence, therefore, offence under Section 409 IPC against the applicant is also not made out.

44. However, charge-sheet against the applicants has not been filed under Section 406 IPC but question also arises whether offence of criminal breach of trust stipulated under Section 405 IPC against the applicants is made out.

45. In Section 406 IPC punishment has been provided for offence of criminal breach of trust and offence of criminal breach of trust has been defined under Section 405 IPC which read as followes :-

405. Criminal breach of trust.--Whoever, being in any manner entrusted with property, or with any dominion over property, dishonestly misappropriates or converts to his own use that property, or dishonestly uses or disposes of that property in violation of any direction of law prescribing the mode in which such trust is to be discharged, or of any legal contract, express or implied, which he has made touching the discharge of such trust, or wilfully suffers any other person so to do, commits "criminal breach of trust".*

Explanation 2[1].--A person, being an employer 3[of an establishment whether exempted under section 17 of the Employees' Provident Funds and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952 (19 of 1952), or not] who deducts the employee's contribution from the wages payable to the employee for credit to a Provident Fund or Family Pension Fund established by any law for the time being in force, shall be deemed to have been entrusted with the amount of the contribution so deducted by him and if he makes default in the payment of such contribution to the said Fund in violation of the said law, shall be deemed to have dishonestly used the amount of the said contribution in violation of a direction of law as aforesaid.]

[Explanation 2.--A person, being an employer, who deducts the employees' contribution from the wages payable to the employee for credit to the Employees' State Insurance Fund held and administered by the Employees' State Insurance Corporation established under the Employees' State Insurance Act, 1948 (34 of 1948), shall be deemed to have been entrusted with the amount of the contribution so deducted by him and if he makes default in the payment of such contribution to the said Fund in violation of the said Act, shall be deemed to have dishonestly used the amount of the said contribution in violation of a direction of law as aforesaid."

46. The offence of criminal breach of trust contains two ingredients (a) entrusting any person with property, or with any dominion over the property, and (b) the person entrusted dishonestly misappropriated or converts to his own use that property to the detriment of the person to entrusted it.

47. In Anwar Chand Sab Nanadikar Vs. State of Karntaka (2003) 10 SCC 521, the Apex Court observed as:-

"7. The basic requirement to bring home the accusations under Section 405 are the requirements to prove conjointly (1) entrustment, and (2) whether the accused was actuated by the dishonest intention or not misappropriated it or converted it to his own use to the detriment of the persons who entrusted it. As the question of intention is not a matter of direct proof, certain broad tests are envisaged which would generally afford useful guidance in deciding whether in a particular case the accused had mens rea for the crime."

48. In Vijay Kumar Ghai Vs. State of West Bengal (2022) 7 SCC 124 held as followes:-

"28. "Entrustment" of property under Section 405 of the Penal Code, 1860 is pivotal to constitute an offence under this. The words used are, "in any manner entrusted with property". So, it extends to entrustments of all kinds whether to clerks, servants, business partners or other persons, provided they are holding a position of "trust". A person who dishonestly misappropriates property entrusted to them contrary to the terms of an obligation imposed is liable for a criminal breach of trust and is punished under Section 406 of the Penal Code."

49. Therefore, from the above principles laid down by the Apex Court, merely breach of contract does not attracts offence of criminal breach of trust and for offence under Section 405 IPC entrustment is necessary.

50. In case at hand, there is no legal evidence of the entrustment of Golden Chhatra to the applicants on record except the verbal allegation made by the informant. Further, there is also no legal evidence on reord, which can show that applicants placed an order to the informant for Golden Chhatra except the verbal allegation made by the imformant. It further appears that evidence adduced by prosecution is not sufficient to prove the charges against the applicants.

51. The three judges Bench in the case of R.P. Kapoor (supra) held that if there is no legal evidence available on record or evidence adduced fails to prove the charges, then proceedings can be quashed.

52. Thus, in view of the principle laid down in the case of R.P. Kapoor (supra) offence under Section 405 IPC is also not made out against the applicants.

53. Further, from the perusal of the material placed on record, it appears that applicants were in the business of interior decoration and informant engaged them for renovation of his house and applicants provided him an estimate of Rs. 9.5 crore for renovation and some dispute of amount arose between the parties and in this regard a legal notice was sent by the firm of the applicants to the informant in the month of May, 2019 and informant in the month of June, 2019 replied the same but in the reply it is no where stated about the dispute with regard to Golden Chhatra and thereafter on 31.8.2019 FIR of the present case was lodged. This fact suggest that a dispute with regard to payment of renovation of the house of informant was pending between applicants and the informant and this fact also has been admitted by the informant and his brother in their statements recorded during further investigation, therefore, it appears that informant instituted the present proceeding with mala fide intention and ulterior motive for wrecking vengeance due to private and personal grudge. The Apex Court in case of Bhajan Lal (supra) held that if any proceeding has been initiated with mala fide intention due to personal grudge then it should be quashed.

54. Further, the dispute in hand appears to be primarily civil dispute and law is settled that a criminal prosecution should not be allowed to continue if it attracts civil liability. In case of Indian Oil Corporation Vs. NEPC India Ltd. (2006) 6 SCC 736, the Apex Court observed as:

13..... any effort to settle civil dispute and claim which do not involve any criminal offence by applying pressure through criminal prosecution should be deprecated and discouraged.

55. Therefore, from this point of view too, the proceeding pending against the applicants is liable to be scuttled at its inception.

56. Further, there is one more important aspect in the present case, the FIR of the present case was lodged on 31.8.2019 and from the statements of the informant and his brother recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. it reflects that informant after two months from the date of lodgement of the FIR of the present case transferred Rs. 10 lacs in the account of the firm of the applicants with regard to the dispute arose between them in respect of the payment of the renovation of his house and this fact again shows that the FIR of the present case appears to be lodged with mala fied intention as if after two months from the lodgement of the FIR informant transferred such a huge amount towards the applicants then it indicates that no dispute with regard to non-payment of the Golden Chhatra existed till then and this fact again strengthen the version of the defence that due to the dispute with regard to the payment of renovation of the house of the informant the FIR of the present case was lodged.

57. Further, as per allegation, on 06.04.2018 alleged Golden Chhatra was handed over by the informant to the applicants but FIR of the present case was lodged on 31.08.2019 i.e. after about more than a year. Therefore, it appears that when in May, 2019 a legal notice was given by applicants to the informant for non-payment of their dues with regard to the payment of renovation of the house of informant then FIR was lodged in August, 2019.

58. Further, it is hard to believe that an article of more than 1.25 Crores was made by informant on mere verbal order without any advance and it was even handed over to the applicants without any payment.

59. Therefore, from the discussion made above, in my considered view, proceedings pending against the applicants in the aforesaid case are liable to be quashed.

60. Accordingly, proeedings of the aforesaid case pending against the applicants are hereby quashed.

61. Accordingly, both the applications are allowed.

1. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been preferred by the applicant for the following relief:

"PRAYER

It is, therefore, most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to allow this application and quash the impugned order dated 05/01/2023 passed by District and Session Judge Mirzapur and cancelled the Anticipatory bail Application No. 529/2022 Surendra Kumar V/S Anup Kumar Singh in case crime no. 30/2021 U/S 419, 420, 467, 471 I.P.C., P.S.- Kotwali Katra, District Mirzapur, against the applicant and It is also restore the Anticipatory bail, which has already been granted vide dated 15/09/2022 in case crime no. 30/2021 U/S 419, 420, 467, 471 I.P.C., P.S.- Kotwali Katra, District- Mirzapur till the disposal of the Trial.

It is also prayed that this Hon'ble Court may kindly pleased to stay the further proceedings in case crime no. 30/2021 U/S 419, 420, 467, 471 I.P.C., P.S.- Kotwali Katra, District- Mirzapur, otherwise applicant/petitioner suffer irreparable loss and injury, and/or pass such other and further order which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper under the facts and circumstances of the case."

2. This case is classic example of how a person, who is an accused wastes the precious time of the High Court by filing petition/application one after another; concealing the material fact as well as avoiding the process of Court like non-bailable warrant, proceedings initiated under Section 82 Cr.P.C.

3. I have heard the learned counsel for the applicant and Mr. Jitendra Kumar Jaiswal, learned A.G.A. for the State.

CASE OF THE APPLICANT

4. Earlier the applicant has lodged a First Information Report dated 6th March, 2020 against the opposite party no 2 which came to be registered as Case Crime No. 53 of 2020 under Sections 419, 420, 468 & 471 I.P.C. Police Station- Kotwali Katra, District- Mirzapur, a copy of which has been enclosed as Annexure No.1 to the affidavit accompanying the present application.

5. As a counter blast to the aforesaid FIR, opposite party no. 2 lodge the First Information Report on 21st February, 2021 against the applicant which was registered as case crime no. 30 of 2021 under Sections 419, 420, 468 and 471 I.P.C., Police Station-Kotwali Katra, District- Mirzapur, a copy of which has been enclosed as Annexure No.2 to this affidavit.

6. After lodgement of the aforesaid FIR against the applicant, he moved an Anticipatory Bail Application No.1225 of 2021 which was rejected by the Sessions Judge Mirzapur vide dated 19.10.2021 by observing that no apprehension has been established in the bail application. Not being satisfied with the aforesaid order, the applicant moved an Anticipatory bail application No.4527/2022 before this Court. The said bail application has been dismissed as not pressed by this Court vide order dated 28th July, 2022. For ready reference, order dated 28th July, 2022 reads as follows:

"Heard Sri Pavan Kishore, learned counsel for the applicant, learned AGA and Sri Shailesh Pandey, learned counsel for the complainant.

At the very outset learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that he does not want to press this application as the applicant is willing to appear before the learned court below where the proceedings are pending consideration.

Accordingly, the present application is dismissed being not pressed.

Consigned to records."

7. After taking some time, the applicant filed second anticipatory bail application before court below on 2nd September, 2022, which was numbered as Anticipatory bail application No. 1558/2022. This second bail application was allowed by the court below vide order dated 15th September, 2022. After obtaining the said order, the applicant was following each and every condition as mentioned in the order of court below granting anticipatory bail to the applicant.

8. It is surprising that the informant/opposite party no.2 filed a bail cancellation application before court below on 8th November, 2022, which was not pressed by informant, whereafter again on 9th November, 2022, he filed second bail cancellation application Under Section 439 (2) Cr.P.C., which was registered as Bail Cancellation Application no.529 of 2022. The court below without going through the fact of the case and without following due procedure known to law has rejected the anticipatory bail application of the applicant vide order dated 5th January, 2023.

9. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that as per settled law, if an accused breaches any condition mentioned in the order granting anticipatory bail to him earlier, the court of law granting the same can reject the bail application under Section 439 Cr.P.C., while in the present case the applicant has not breached any of the conditions mentioned in the order dated 15th September, 2022 granted anticipatory bail to the applicant. In support of his case, learned counsel for the applicant has placed reliance upon the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Daulat Ram and Others v. State of Haryana (1995) 1 SCC 349, State (Delhi Admn) v. Sanjay Gandhi (1978) 2 SCC 411, Kashmira Singh v. Duman Singh (1996) 4 SCC 693, CBI v. Subramani Gopalkrishnan (2011) 5 SCC 296, X v. State of Telangana. (2020) 16 SCC 511), wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has opined that very cogent and overwhelming circumstances are necessary for an order directing cancellation of bail. It has further been opined that bail granted cannot be cancelled in a mechanical manner without considering whether any supervening circumstances have rendered it in conducive to allow fair trial. Learned counsel for the applicant, therefore, submits that the court below without following provisions of law has cancelled the anticipatory bail of the applicant, which is liable to be quashed.

10. On the cumulative strength of the aforesaid, learned counsel for the applicant submits that this Court may allow this application and quash the impugned order dated 5th January, 2023 passed by District and Session Judge Mirzapur cancelling the anticipatory bail application of the applicant and restore the order dated 15th September, 2022 granting anticipatory bail to the applicant.

CONCEALMENT OF MATERIAL FACT

11. Mr. Jitendra Kumar Jaiswal, learned A.G.A. has raised preliminary objection to the maintainability of the present application by submitting that this is the third applications filed by the applicant under Section 482 Cr.P.C. Earlier he has filed two applications under Section 482 Cr.P.C. being Application U/S Nos. 16846 of 2021 (Anoop Singh Vs. State) and 23322 of 2021 (Anoop Singh Vs. State of U.p. & Another) but he has concealed the said fact in the present application. In support of his plea, he has drawn attention of the Court to paragraph no.2 of the affidavit accompanying the present

"2. That this is a first Criminal Misc. Application (482) before this Hon'ble court and no any Cri. Writ Petition, Cri. Misc. application (482) is pending before this Hon'ble court or any other court or Lucknow Bench."

12. Learned A.G.A., therefore, submits that since the applicant has not approached this Court with clean hands by filing this third application under Section 482 Cr.P.C., it is liable to be dismissed with exemplary cost for concealment of material fact.

13. To the aforesaid submissions of the learned A.G.A., though the learned counsel for the applicant has placed the copies of the orders passed in the earlier two applications of the applicant before this Court, but on a pointed query made by this Court as to why he has concealed the material fact, he could not answer the same.

MAINTAINABILITY

14. Mr. Jitendra Kumar Jaiswal, learned A.G.A. has also raised preliminary objection to the maintainability of the present application by submitting that this is the third application filed by the applicant under Section 482 Cr.P.C. He, therefore, submits that successive applications under Section 482 Cr.P.C. cannot be entertained and this third application is liable to be rejected as not maintainable.

15. In reply, learned counsel for the applicant submits that it is no doubt true that this is the third application filed by the applicant under Section 482 Cr.P.C. but the same is not maintainable in view of the judgment and order of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Vinod Kumar, IAS vs. Union of India & Others in Writ Petition (s) (Criminal) No(s). 255 of 2021 decided on 29th June, 2021. The relevant portion of the said judgment has been referred by the learned counsel for the applicant, which is being quoted herein-below:

"The law on point as held by this Court in "Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, West Bengal Vs. Mohan Singh & Ors." reported in SCC (1975) 3 706 is clear that dismissal of an earlier 482 petition does not bar filing of subsequent petition under Section 482, in case the facts so justify."

WHETHER THE APPLICANT IS ENTITLED TO GRANT ANTICIPATORY BAIL WHEN AS A MATTER OF FACT NON-BAILABLE WARRANT AS WELL AS PROCEEDINGS UNDER SECTION 82 CR.P.C. HAVE BEEN INITIATED AGAINST HIM?

16. It is submitted by learned counsel for the applicant that the applicant is innocent and has no concern with the present matter. It is further submitted that although proceedings under Section 82 Cr.P.C. have been initiated against the applicant yet no prima facie case is made out against the applicant. It is further submitted that mere issuance of non-baible warrant and initiation of proceedings under Section 82 Cr.P.C. can be the basis for cancelling the anticipatory bail earlier granted to the applicant. Very cogent and overwhelming circumstances are necessary for an order directing the cancellation of bail already granted. In support of his case learned counsel for the applicant has placed reliance upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Dolat Ram & Ors. Vs. The State of Haryana reported in (1994) Spp. 6 S.C.R. It is also submitted that he has fully cooperated with the investigating agency. He was not arrested during investigation. It is further submitted that if applicant is allowed on anticipatory bail, he will cooperate with the Trial Court. There is no chance of him fleeing away from the Courts of law. There is no criminal history of the applicant. Applicant undertakes that he will not misuse the liberty and will cooperate. Applicant has apprehension of his arrest by the police any time.

17. On the other hand, learned A.G.A. opposed the prayer and argued that proceedings under Section 82 Cr.P.C. have been initiated against the applicant, as he did not appear before the court concerned despite service of summon/notice/bailable and non-bailable warrants is continuing till today. Applicant is not cooperating to the Court concerned. In support of his submissions, learned A.G.A relied upon the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Pradeep Sharma reported in (2014) 2 SCC 171 and in the case of Prem Shanker Prasad Vs. State of Bihar reported in AIR OnLine 2021 SC 915 and further argued that applicant is not entitled to be released on anticipatory bail. A prima facie case is made out against him.

MERIT OF THE IMPUGNED ORDER CANCELLING THE ANTICIPATORY BAIL APPLICATION OF THE APPLICANT

18. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that since the order impugned passed by the court below in a mechanical manner, the same cannot be legally sustained and is hereby set aside and the order granting anticipatory bail to the applicant be restored.

19. Per contra, learned A.G.A. submits that while passing the impugned order the court below has recorded categorical finding fact, as such there is no illegality or infirmity in the same.

20. I have considered the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records of the present application including the order impugned.

21. Now this Court comes on the issue of maintainability of this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. It is no doubt true that this is the third application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. which has been filed by the applicant but from the perusal of the orders of this Court dated 21st September, 2021 and dated 5th May, 2022 passed in the first and second applications under Section 482 Cr.P.C. filed by the applicant bearing Nos. Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. No. 16846 of 2021 (Anoop Singh Vs. State of U.P. & Another) and Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. No. 23322 of 2022 (Anoop SinghVs. State of U.P. & Another), copies of which have been placed before this Court today.

22. Perusal of the order dated 21st September, 2021 passed in first application being Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. No. 16846 of 2021 (Anoop Singh Vs. State of U.P. & Another) indicates that applicant has challenged the order dated 26th October, 2021 issuing non-bailable warrant against the applicant passed in the aforesaid criminal case, whereas from the order dated 5th May, 2022 it is clear that the applicant has challenged the charge sheet dated 15.03.2021 as well as entire proceedings of Case No. 1085 of 2021, arising out of Case Crime No. 30 of 2021, under Section 419, 420, 468, 471 of I.P.C., P.S. Kotwali Katra, District Mirzapur, pending in the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Mirzapur with a further prayer to stay further proceeding in the aforesaid case. In the present applicant i.e. third application, the applicant has challenged the order dated 5th January, 2023 cancelling the anticipatory bail earlier granted to the applicant.

23. It would be worthwhile to reproduce orders 21st September, 2021 and dated 5th May, 2022 passed by this Court in the first and second application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. by the applicant, which read as follows:

Order dated 21st September, 2021:

"Heard learned counsel for the applicant, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed with a prayer to quash the charge sheet dated 15.03.2021 as well as entire proceedings of Case No. 1085 of 2021, arising out of Case Crime No. 30 of 2021, under Section 419, 420, 468, 471 of I.P.C., P.S. Kotwali Katra, District Mirzapur, pending in the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Mirzapur with a further prayer to stay further proceeding in the aforesaid case.

Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that the First Information Report was lodged at the instance of the private respondent against the applicant, is wholly illegal, concocted and has been lodged with false and baseless averments. The opposite party no. 2 is a person of criminal intent and a large number of criminal cases are pending against him and he had initiated the present malicious proceedings against the applicant as a counter blast to the criminal case lodged by applicant on 06.03.2020 against him which has been registered at Crime No. 53 of 2020, under Section 419, 420, 468, 471 I.P.C., P.S. Kotwali Katra, District Mirzapur. No offence is made out against the applicant and private respondent no. 2 has no locus-standi to lodge the F.I.R. The applicant has no criminal antecedents, hence, this application.

Per contra, learned A.G.A. vehemently opposed the above submission.

Perusal of the record reveals that an F.I.R. was lodged by Surendra Kumar Singh on 21.02.2021 at P.S. Kotwali Katra, District Mirzapur, under Section 419, 420, 468, 471 of I.P.C. After investigation, the police submitted the charge sheet against the applicant and found offences under Section 419, 420, 468, 471 of I.P.C. proved. In the charge sheet, it has been stated that the applicant Anoop Kumar has mentioned different dates of birth at different places. At one place his date of year mentioned as 1969 and at other place, it is mentioned as 1975. He obtained two Arm Licenses. It has also been stated that there is contradiction with regard to date of birth in the affidavit and application.

In M/s Neeharika Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. v. State of Maharastra and others, 2020 SCC Online SC 850, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

"iv) The power of quashing should be exercised sparingly with circumspection, as it has been observed, in the rarest of rare case (not to be confused with the formation in the context of death penalty).

v) While examining an FIR/complaint, quashing of which is sought, the court cannot embark upon an enquiry as to the reliability or genuineness or otherwise of the allegations made in the FIR/complaint;

vi) Criminal proceedings ought not to be scuttled at the initial stage;

vii) Quashing of a complaint/FIR should be an exception rather than an ordinary rule."

Following other authorities can be cited on the aforesaid point: R. P. Kapur vs. The State Of Punjab, AIR 1960 SC 866, State of Haryana and others Vs. Ch. Bhajan Lal and others, AIR 1992 SC 604, State of Bihar and Anr. Vs. P.P. Sharma, AIR 1991 SC 1260 lastly Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. and Ors. Vs. Md. Sharaful Haque and Ors., AIR 2005 SC 9.

All the submissions made at the Bar relate to the disputed questions of fact, which cannot be adjudicated upon by this Court in proceedings u/s 482 Cr.P.C. This Court cannot embark upon the factual enquiry as to the truthfulness of statement of witnesses in proceedings under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

Learned counsel for the applicant relied upon the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Mohammed Ibrahim and others v. State of Bihar and another, (2009) 3 SCC (Cri) 929.

have gone through the aforesaid citation, the facts of this case are totally different from the aforesaid case, hence, the relief cannot be granted in view of the aforesaid authority.

In view of the above, I am of the considered opinion that the Application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. is not maintainable in the present case.

Accordingly, the prayer for quashing the proceedings is refused.

This application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. is hereby, dismissed."

24. From perusal of the aforesaid three prayer made in all the three applications filed by the applicant under Section 482 Cr.P.C., it is apparently clear that all the three applications have been filed for different cause of action and on different facts.

25. The Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the case of Anil Khadiwala Vs. State Govt. of NCT of Delhi reported in 2019 (17) SC 1002, relying upon the earlier judgment of the Hon'ble Surpeme Court in the case of Superintendent And Remembrancer Vs. Mohan Singh And Ors. reported in AIR 1975 SC 1002 has opined that successive application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. under the changed circumstances is maintainable. Relevant portion whereof is being quoted herein-below:

"8. In Mohan Singh (supra), it was held that a successive application under Section 482 . under changed circumstances was maintainable and the dismissal of the

"2. ..... Here, the situation is wholly different. The earlier application which was rejected by the High Court was an application under Section 561-A of the CrPC to quash the proceeding and the High Court rejected it on the ground that the evidence was yet to be led and it was not desirable to interfere with the proceeding at that stage. But, thereafter, the criminal case dragged on for a period of about one and half years without any progress at all and it was in these circumstances that respondents Nos. 1 and 2 were constrained to make a fresh application to the High Court under Section 561-A to quash the proceeding.

It is difficult to see how in these circumstances it could ever be contended that what the High Court was being asked to do by making the subsequent application was to review or revise the Order made by it on the earlier application. Section 561-A preserves the inherent power of the High Court to make such Orders as it deems fit to prevent abuse of the process of the Court or to secure the ends of justice and the High Court must, therefore, exercise its inherent powers having regard to the situation prevailing at the particular point of time when its inherent jurisdiction is sought to be invoked. The High Court was in the circumstances entitled to entertain the subsequent application of Respondents Nos. 1 and 2 and consider whether on the facts and circumstances then obtaining the continuance of the proceeding against the respondents constituted an abuse of the process of the Court or its quashing was necessary to secure the ends of justice. The facts and circumstances obtaining at the time of the subsequent application of respondents Nos. 1 and 2 were clearly different from what they were at the time of the earlier application of the first respondent because, despite the rejection of the earlier application of the first respondent, the prosecution had failed to make any progress in the criminal case even though it was filed as far back as 1965 and the criminal case rested where it was for a period of over one and a half years....."

26. From the aforesaid legal positions, this Court finds substance in the submission made by the learned counsel for the applicant and holds that this third application filed by the applicant for the different relief as also under the changed circumstances is maintainable

27. So far as the preliminary objection raised by the learned A.G.A. for the State qua the concealment of fact in filing the present application, is concerned, this Court may record that in paragraph-2 of the affidavit accompanying the present application, it has specifically been stated that "this is a first criminal misc. application (482) before this Court Hon'ble Court," when as matter of fact the applicant has earlier filed two applications giving rise to the same criminal case. For the reasons best known to the applicant, he has concealed the aforesaid fact while filing the present third application under Section 482 Cr.P.C., meaning thereby that the applicant has not approached this Court with clean hands, which amounts to interference with the administration of justice.

28. In M/s. Tilokchand Motichand & Ors. Vs. H.B. Munshi & Anr., reported in AIR 1970 SC 898; State of Haryana Vs. Karnal Distillery reported in AIR 1977 SC 781; and Sabia Khan & Ors. Vs. State of U.P. & Ors. reported in (1999) 1 SCC 271, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that filing totally misconceived petition amounts to abuse of the process of the Court and such a litigant is not required to be dealt with lightly, as petition containing misleading and inaccurate statement, if filed, to achieve an ulterior purpose amounts to abuse of the process of the Court.

29. In Agriculture & Process Food Products Vs. Oswal Agro Furane & Ors., reported in AIR 1996 SC 1947, the Apex Court had taken a serious objection in a case filed by suppressing the material facts and held that if a petitioner is guilty of suppression of very important fact his case cannot be considered on merits. Thus, a litigant is bound to make "full and true disclosure of facts". While deciding the said case, the Hon'ble Supreme Court had placed reliance upon the judgment in King Vs. General Commissioner, reported in (1917) 1 KB 486, wherein it has been observed as under:-

"Where an ex parte application has been made to this Court for a rule nisi or other process, if the Court comes to the conclusion that the affidavit in support of the application was not candid and did not fairly state the facts, but stated them in such a way as to mislead the Court as to the true facts, the Court ought, for its own protection and to prevent abuse of its process, to refuse to proceed any further with the examination of its merits....."

30. In Abdul Rahman Vs. Prasony Bai & Anr., AIR 2003 SC 718; and S.J.S. Business Enterprises (P) Ltd. Vs. State of Bihar & Ors., reported in (2004) 7 SCC 166, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that whenever the Court comes to the conclusion that the process of the Court is being abused, the Court would be justified in refusing to proceed further and refuse relief to the party. This rule has been evolved out of need of the Courts to deter a litigant from abusing the process of the Court by deceiving it. However, the suppressed fact must be material one in the sense that had it not been suppressed, it would have led any fact on the merit of the case.

31. In K.D. Sharma vs. SAIL, reported in (2008) 12 SCC 481, the Apex Court has held that the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court under Article 32 and of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution is extraordinary, equitable and discretionary and it is imperative that the petitioner approaching the writ court must come with clean hands and put forward all the facts before the Court without concealing or suppressing anything and seek an appropriate relief. If there is no candid disclosure of relevant and material facts or the petitioner is guilty of misleading the Court, his petition may be dismissed at the threshold without considering the merits of the claim. The same law was reiterated in G. Jayashree vs. Bhagwandas S. Patel reported in (2009) 3 SCC 141.

32. The Hon'ble Supreme Court of India has repeatedly held that filing of false affidavit and concealment of material facts amounts to interference in the administration of justice and as such is criminal contempt of Court. In Dhananjay Sharma versus State of Haryana & ors., reported in AIR 1995 SC 1795, wherein in paragraphs 39 and 40, th

"39. The question, therefore, which now requires our consideration is as to what action, is required to be taken against the respondents.

40. Section 2 (c) of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 (for short the Act) defines criminal contempt as the publication (whether by words, spoken or written or by signs or visible representation or otherwise) of any matter or the doing of any other act whatsoever to (1) scandalise or tend to candalise or lower or tend to lower the authority of any Court: (2) prejudice or interfere or tend to interfere.....Thus, any conduct, which has the tendency to interfere with the administration of justice or the due course of judicial proceedings amounts to the commission of criminal contempt. ....."

33. The Apex Court in the case of Sunkara Lakshminarasamma & Anr. Versus Sagi Subba Raju & Ors. reported in (2009) 7 SCC 460 held that filing of false affidavit knowingly is a contempt and exemplary cost be imposed.

34. In Afzal & Anr. Versus State of Haryana & Ors., reported in JT 1996 (1) SC 328, the Apex Court in paragraph-32 has held as follows:

"32. The question then is: whether he committed contempt in the proceedings of this Court? Section 2 (b) defines "Contempt of Court" to mean any civil or criminal contempt. "Criminal contempt" defined in Section 2(c) means interference with the administration of justice in any other manner. A false or a misleading or a wrong statement deliberately and wilfully made by a party to the proceedings to obtain a favourable order would prejudice or interfere with the due course of judicial proceedings. ....."

35. In Dhananjay Sharma vs. State of Haryana & others reported AIR 1995

SC 1795, in paragraph-40 the Supreme Court has held as follows:

"40. .....Thus, any conduct which has the tendency to interfere with the administration of justice or the due course of judicial proceedings amounts to the commission of criminal contempt. ....."

36. In Sabia Khan & Ors. Vs. State of U.P. & Ors., (1999) 1 SCC 271, the Hon'ble Apex Court held that filing totally misconceived petition amounts to abuse of the process of the Court and such litigant is not required to be dealt with lightly.

37. In view of the aforesaid, this Court finds substance in the submission made by the learned A.G.A. for the State that this Court must view with disfavour any attempt by a litigant to abuse the process. The sanctity of the judicial process will be seriously eroded if such attempts are not dealt with firmly. A litigant like the applicant who takes liberties with the truth or with the procedures of the Court should be left in no doubt about the consequences to follow. Others should not venture along the same path in the hope or on a misplaced expectation of judicial leniency. Exemplary costs are inevitable, and even necessary, in order to ensure that in litigation, as in the law which is practised in our country, there is no premium on the truth. In the case in hand, the applicant has concealed the material fact by filing this third application and he has not approached this Court with clean hands, his application is not only liable to be rejected on this ground alone but also the applicant should be punished with exemplary cost.

38. Qua the submission raised by the learned A.G.A. that since the proceedings under Section 82 Cr.P.C. have been initiated against the applicant, his anticipatory bail application cannot be entertained, this Court also find substance in it.

39. In Lavesh Vs. State of (NCT of Delhi reported in (2012) 8 SCC 730, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has considered the scope of granting relief under under Section 428 Cr.P.C. vis-à-vis to a person who was declared as an absconder or proclaimed offender in terms of 82 Cr.P.C. In para 12, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:

"12. From these materials and information, it is clear that the present appellant was not available for interrogation and investigation and was declared as "absconder". Normally, when the accused is "absconding" and declared as a "proclaimed offender", there is no question of granting anticipatory bail. We reiterate that when a person against whom a warrant had been issued and is absconding or concealing himself in order to avoid execution of warrant and declared as a proclaimed offender in terms of Section 82 of the Code he is not entitled to the relief of anticipatory bail." It is clear from the above decision that if anyone is declared as an absconder/proclaimed offender in terms of Section 82 of the Code, he is not entitled to the relief of anticipatory bail. In the case in hand, a perusal of the materials i.e., confessional statements of Sanjay Namdev, Pawan Kumar @ Ravi and Vijay @ Monu Brahambhatt reveals that the respondents administered poisonous substance to the deceased. Further, the statements of witnesses that were recorded and the report of the Department of Forensic Medicine & Toxicology Government Medical College & Hospital, Nagpur dated 21.03.2012 have confirmed the existence of poison in milk rabri. Further, it is brought to our notice that warrants were issued on 21.11.2012 for the arrest of the respondents herein. Since they were not available/traceable, a proclamation under Section 82 of the Code was issued on 29.11.2012. The documents (Annexure-P13) produced by the State clearly show that the CJM, Chhindwara, M.P. issued a proclamation requiring the appearance of both the respondents/accused under Section 82 of the Code to answer the complaint on 29.12.2012. All these materials were neither adverted to nor considered by the High Court while granting anticipatory bail and the High Court, without indicating any reason except stating "facts and circumstances of the case", granted an order of anticipatory bail to both the accused. It is relevant to point out that both the accused are facing prosecution for offences punishable under Section 302 and 120-B read with Section 34 of IPC. In such serious offences, particularly, the respondents/accused being proclaimed offenders, we are unable to sustain the impugned orders of granting anticipatory bail. The High Court failed to appreciate that it is a settled position of law that where the accused has been declared as an absconder and has not cooperated with the investigation, he should not be granted anticipatory bail."

40. In State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Pradeep Sharma as well as in the case of Prem Shanker Prasad Vs. State of Bihar (Supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court relying upon the judmgent of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Lavesh (Supra) has held that if anyone is declared as an absconder/proclaimed offender in terms of Section 82 of the Code, he is not entitled to the relief of anticipatory bail.

41 From the aforesaid legal positions as settled by the Hon'ble Surpeme Court, this Court holds that the applicant against whom proceedings 82 Cr.P.C. have been initiated by the court below after issuance of summons/bailable warrant/non-bailable warrant is not entitled to grant anticipatory bail. Anticipatory bail filed by such person is not maintainable as also the same cannot be entertained by this Court in exercise of powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

42. Lastly, this Court comes on the merit of the order impugned. While passing the order impugned the court below has recorded that though the fact has been mentioned in the second anticipatory bail application before the court below that the first anticipatory bail application was rejected due to non-mentioning of "apprehension to arrest", but after that before the Hon'ble High Court, the applicant has withdrawn his anticipatory bail application stating that applicant/accused is willing to appear before the lower court and this fact has not been mentioned in the anticipatory second bail application filed before the court below. The fact that he has obtained 15 days protection from the Hon'ble High Court, when non-bailable warrant has been issued against him, on the assurance that he shall appear before the court below on the due date, has also not been mentioned in the second anticipatory bail application. The court below has further recorded that above facts should have been mentioned in the second anticipatory bail application which has been allowed by the said court. The fact that the first anticipatory bail application was rejected only because apprehension to arrest was not recorded. The court below has also recorded that the first anticipatory bail application was rejected by that court on 19th October, 2021 on the basis of non-apprehension to arrest. Thereafter, the second anticipatory bail application was not presented before that Court but before the Hon'ble High Court, by means of Criminal Misc. Anticipatory Bail Application U/S 438 Cr.P.C. No. 4527/2022. From perusal of the numbers of the first anticipatory bail application filed before the court below as well as from the anticipatory bail application filed before this Court, it is clear that the anticipatory bail application was presented before the Hon'ble High Court in the year 2022 while the first anticipatory bail application was rejected by that court below on 19.10.2021. Therefore, the court below has opined that either the applicant/accused should have appeared before the learned lower court according to his own statement recorded in the order of this Court or the second anticipatory bail application should have been presented before the Hon'ble High Court, again, where his first anticipatory bail application was rejected due to his non-coercion. Since the statements regarding the submission of the anticipatory bail application before the Hon'ble High Court were material statements in the facts and circumstances of this case, which were not mentioned in the bail application, the court below has come to the conclusion that not mentioning in the second anticipatory bail application was omission/concealment of material facts. On the basis of the aforesaid findings, the court below has passed the order impugned cancelling the anticipatory bail granted earlier to the applicant.

43. On examination of the order impugned, this Court finds that the court below has recorded categorical finding of fact and has rightly cancelled the anticipatory bail granted earlier to the applicant, which warrants no interference by this Court in exercise of powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C., as there is no illegality or infirmity in it.

44. In view of the deliberations and discussions made above, this Court holds that a accused-applicant who conceals facts and files a false affidavit in the High Court and who has made a mockery of the orders of the lower court by avoiding process of summon, bailable warrant, non-bailable warrant and the proceedings under Section 82 Cr.P.C. is not entitled to get leniency, mercy and justice in any way and that too from the Court which exercises inherent power under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

45. Accordingly, the present application is dismissed with cost of Rs. 10,000/- to be paid by the applicant to the High Court Legal Services Authority, Allahabad within a month from today. In case of default, the same shall be recovered by the District Magistrate, Mirzapur from his arrears of land revenue.

46. A copy of this order shall be given to the learned A.G.A. who shall communicate the District Magistrate, Mirzapur for necessary compliance of this order.

(A) Criminal Law - The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 Section 438 - Direction for grant bail to person apprehending arrest - filing of first information report (F.I.R.) is not a condition precedent to exercise the power under Section 438(1) Cr.P.C. - Section 438 Cr.P.C. does not compel or oblige Courts to impose conditions limiting relief in terms of time, or upon filing of FIR, or recording of statement of any witness, by the police, during investigation or inquiry, etc. - "Reason to believe" which is something more serious than a mere apprehension of arrest - Mere "fear" is not "belief" - law does not permit to knock at the door of the Court for grant of anticipatory bail on merely vague assertions in the absence of any relevant material and certainly the Court will not grant anticipatory bail in such a case. (Para - 6,7,9,10,14)

Opposite Party No.2 gave some money to applicant - financial help for construction of his house - friends - asked for repayment of total outstanding money - abused and threatened him to repay the same - otherwise implicated in false and fabricated case - No F.I.R. lodged in the matter. (Para - 3,4)

HELD:- Applicant's apprehension of arrest not well founded, as he failed to explain how he has reasonable belief of being arrested. No justification to allow the present anticipatory bail application moved by the applicant for want of essential ingredients which are necessary for grant of anticipatory bail under Section 438 Cr.P.C. to any person.(Para -13,15)

4. Rajasekhara Reddy Vs The St. of A.P., (1998) (2) A.P.L.J. 462 (A.P. High Court)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Nalin Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Present Anticipatory Bail Application has been filed with the prayer to grant anticipatory bail to the applicant - Javed Ahmad in Case Crime No. Nil, under Sections Nil, Police Station - Mariyahun, District Jaunpur.

2. Heard learned counsel for the applicant, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the material available on record.

3. It is submitted by the learned counsel for the applicant that the opposite party no.2 had given Rs.17,50,000/- to the applicant as financial help for construction of his house, as they were friends and subsequently Rs.1 lakh on respective dates were paid by the applicant to him. However, on 5.1.2023, opposite party no.2 asked for repayment of the total outstanding money and abused and threatened him to repay the same till 20.1.2023 otherwise he could be implicated in false and fabricated case. The applicant informed the incident to the S.P., Jaunpur on 7.1.2023 through registered post and till date he has already paid an amount of Rs.3,20,000/- to opposite party no.2 in his bank account on respective dates, but the applicant has apprehension of his arrest by the police any time after lodging of the F.I.R. against him. There is every likelihood that the applicant may be implicated after foisting of false case against him. It is further submitted that the applicant has no criminal antecedents. If the applicant is enlarged on anticipatory bail, he will not misuse the liberty of the same.

4. Learned A.G.A. opposed the prayer.

5. It is admitted that no F.I.R. has been lodged so far in the matter.

6. It is true that filing of first information report (F.I.R.) is not a condition precedent to exercise the power under Section 438(1) Cr.P.C., as held in Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia Vs. State of Punjab, (1980) 2 SCC 565, but at the same time it is also to be kept in mind, as held in the aforesaid case by the Hon'ble Apex Court, that "when a person apprehends arrest and approaches a court for anticipatory bail, his apprehension (of arrest), has to be based on concrete facts (and not vague or general allegations) relatable to a specific offence or particular offences. Applications for anticipatory bail should contain clear and essential facts relating to the offence, and why the applicant reasonably apprehends his or her arrest, as well as his version of the facts. These are important for the court which is considering the application, the extent and reasonableness of the threat or apprehension, its gravity or seriousness and the appropriateness of any condition that may have to be imposed. It is not a necessary condition that an application should be moved only after an FIR is filed; it can be moved earlier, so long as the facts are clear and there is reasonable basis for apprehending arrest."

7. In the landmark case of Sushila Aggarwal and others vs. State (NCT of Delhi) and another, (2020) 5 SCC Page 1 (106), it has been emphasized that Section 438 Cr.P.C. does not compel or oblige Courts to impose conditions limiting relief in terms of time, or upon filing of FIR, or recording of statement of any witness, by the police, during investigation or inquiry, etc.

8. Prior to the touching of the merit of present application, a perusal of the relevant provisions of Section 438 Cr.P.C. is desirable.

"438. Direction for grant bail to person apprehending arrest. ? (1) Where any person has reason to believe that he may be arrested on accusation of having committed a non-bailable offence, he may apply to the High Court or the Court of Session for a direction under this section that in the event of such arrest he shall be released on bail; and that Court may, after taking into consideration, inter-alia, the following factors, namely?

(i) the nature and gravity of the accusation;

(ii) the antecedents of the applicant including the fact as to whether he has previously undergone imprisonment on conviction by a Court in respect of any cognizable offence;

(iii) the possibility of the applicant to flee from justice; and

(iv) where the accusation has been made with the object of injuring or humiliating the applicant by having him so arrested; either reject the application forthwith or issue an interim order for the grant of anticipatory bail:

Provided that where the High Court or, as the case may be, the Court of Session, has not passed any interim order under this sub-section or has rejected the application for grant of anticipatory bail, it shall be open to an officer in-charge of a police station to arrest, without warrant, the applicant on the basis of the accusation apprehended in such application."

9. The condition to be focused upon is "Reason to believe" which is something more serious than a mere apprehension of arrest.

10. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Adri Dharan Das Vs. State of West Bengal, (2005) 4 SCC 303 has emphasized over this requirement and held as under.

"Section 438 is a procedural provision which is concerned with the personal liberty of an individual who is entitled to plead innocence, since he is not on the date of application for exercise of power under Section 438 CrPC convicted for the offence in respect of which he seeks bail. The applicant must show that he has "reason to believe" that he may be arrested in a non-bailable offence. Use of the expression "reason to believe" shows that the belief that the applicant may be arrested must be founded on reasonable grounds. A belief can be said to be founded on reasonable grounds only if there is something tangible to go by on the basis of which it can be said that the applicant's apprehension that he may be arrested is genuine. Mere "fear" is not "belief" for which reason it is not enough for the applicant to show that has some sort of vague apprehension that some one is going to make an accusation against him in pursuance of which he may be arrested. Grounds on which the belief on the applicant is based that he may be arrested in non-bailable offence must be capable of being examined. If an application is made to the High Court or the Court of Session, it is for the court concerned to decide whether a case has been made out of for granting of the relief sought. (Para 16)"

11. The aforesaid theory makes the legal position explicit that Section 438 (1) of Cr.P.C. applies not only at post FIR stage, but it does not require that the offence must have been registered. It is contemplated by this section that if a person is going to apply for anticipatory bail, he must have a reasonable belief that he may be arrested on accusation of having committed a non-bailable offence.

12. This Court takes note of what their Lordship held in K. Rajasekhara Reddy Vs. The State of Andhra Pradesh, (1998) (2) A.P.L.J. 462 (Andhra Pradesh High Court) ?

"The filing of a first information report is not a condition precedent to the exercise of the power under Section 438. The imminence of a likely arrest founded on a reasonable belief can be shown to exist even if an FIR is not yet filed."

13. If the aforesaid legal theory is translated into the facts and circumstances of the case in hand, the Court finds that the apprehension of arrest on the part of the applicant is not well founded. The applicant has failed to explain as to how he has reasonable belief of being arrested by the police. He has mentioned in his application that from the total money due to Sahab Lal, an amount of Rs.3,20,000/- has been paid by him in his bank account on respective dates. A statement of account has also been filed by the applicant. It also appears from the perusal of the record that no complaint has been moved by the said Sahab Lal to any authority against the present applicant in connection with the recovery of his money given to the applicant. Further, no application before any court has been moved so far by opposite party no.2 to prosecute the applicant. Thus, no reasonable belief of being arrested exists there.

14. It is also noteworthy that no material in support of his plea of entertaining reasonable belief that he is likely to be arrested in connection with the commission of a non-bailable offence, has been produced on record by the applicant. The law does not permit to knock at the door of the Court for grant of anticipatory bail on merely vague assertions in the absence of any relevant material and certainly the Court will not grant anticipatory bail in such a case.

15. In view of that, I find no justification to allow the present anticipatory bail application moved by the applicant for want of essential ingredients which are necessary for grant of anticipatory bail under Section 438 Cr.P.C. to any person.

16. The anticipatory bail application is accordingly rejected.

(A) Criminal Law - The Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987 - Chapter IV - Entitlement to legal services - Section 12 - criteria for giving legal services , Section 12(e) - "undeserved want" - right to bail is derived from statute but cannot be isolated from constitutional oversight - Legal aid is an indispensable instrument to secure the preambled objective of justice to all citizens - distinction between a lis - where civil rights are adjudicated & a criminal case in which the prisoner's personal liberty is engaged - Absence of the counsel at a bail hearing deprives the prisoner-applicant of all ability to influence the outcome of a proceeding where his personal liberty is at stake - While deciding bails the courts have to be cognizant of the entitlement of prisoners to legal aid, and also alert to their right of hearing - In the event of non appearance of a prisoner's counsel the court may appoint an amicus curiae to represent the prisoner and proceed with the hearing of the bail.(Para - 5,8,9,14,15 ,20)

FIR lodged to rationalise a fake encounter - staged by police authorities - No one from the police has suffered life threatening injury - recovered items cannot be linked to the crime - Applicant always cooperated with investigations and is innocent - trial moving at a snail's pace - applicant cannot be faulted for delay - applicant not a flight risk - always cooperated with investigation - explained his criminal history - convenient scapegoat for the police authorities – Bail application – dismissed for non prosecution – on account of absence of counsel. (Para - 28)

HELD:-Dismissal of a bail application for non prosecution on account of absence of counsel is impermissible, as it is contrary to the rights of prisoners to legal aid under the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987 and violative of fundamental rights of the prisoners guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. 1. Matter is taken up in the revised call. None appears on behalf of the applicant to press the bail application. Name of counsel for the applicant is shown in the cause list.

2. The ordersheet discloses that the counsel for the applicant has not appeared before this Court on successive dates of hearing in the past. Earlier the Court had called for the status report from the trial court as well as a report from the District Legal Services Authority.

3. Question arises whether the bail application should be dismissed for non prosecution or an amicus curiae should be appointed to represent the applicant and the matter be heard on merits.

4. Shri Omar Zamin, learned counsel is appointed as amicus curiae to represent the applicant and assist the Court.

"Prison and the authorities conspire to rob each man of his dignity"1.

5. The right to bail is derived from statute but cannot be isolated from constitutional oversight.

6. Good authority has long entrenched the right of an accused to seek bail in the charter of fundamental rights assured by the Constitution of India. A more detailed discussion on constitutional law anchors of right of bail which flows from Article 21 of the Constitution of India can be seen in Ajeet Chaudhary Vs. State of UP2 , Junaid Vs. State of UP. and another3 and Anil Gaur @ Sonu @ Sonu Tomar Vs. State of UP4.

7. Constitutional moorings of the right of bail also bring the right of fair hearing within its ambit.

8. Legal aid is an indispensable instrument to secure the preambled objective of justice to all citizens. The national capacity to deliver equal justice is girded by the institutional ability to provide legal aid. Legal aid was exalted as a fundamental right by constitutional courts even before it was vested as a statutory right by the legislature under the Legal Services Authorities Act. [On the issue of legal aid and the scheme of the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987 see Anil Gaur (supra)].

9. Entitlement to legal services is provided for in Chapter IV of the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987. Section 12 of the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987 contains the criteria for giving legal services. Section 12(e) of the Act is germane to the controversy and is extracted below:-

"Section 12 (e) - a person under circumstances of underserved want such as being a victim of a mass disaster, ethnic violence, caste atrocity, flood, drought, earthquake or industrial disaster."

10. The scope of the provision to provide free legal aid arose for consideration before this Court in Anil Gaur (supra) and was analysed thus:

"40. The eligibility criteria for giving legal services under Section 12(e) is broad based.

The breadth of the provision manifests the legislative intent to reach out to the last person at the bottom of the social heap. The section contemplates to give legal aid to persons who suffer from deprivation and exclusion caused by circumstances of want which are not of their making.

Under the provision persons facing circumstances of "undeserved want" become entitled for legal services. The phrase "undeserved want" is generic in nature. The word "such as" precedes the examples of "undeserved want" described in the section. The instances of "undeserved want" depicted in the provision are illustrative and not exhaustive, and are in the nature of externalities i.e. adverse circumstances over which a person has no control and which prevent recourse to justice.

The phrase "undeserved want" in the statute is not a fixed concept but an evolutionary exercise. The State Legal Services Authority is mandated to enquire whether the circumstances of a person being considered for legal aid fall within the sweep of "undeserved want".

11. The Bar is the frontline sentinel of citizens' rights and liberties. The courts are the last bastion of constitutional law and justice. Judges have an oath enshrined in the Constitution. Lawyers have a pledge seared in their consciences to serve justice in the nobel traditions of the legal profession. Translated in terms of lawyers' duties to their clients it essentially means this. Lawyers have to diligently prepare the briefs and vigilantly prosecute causes of litigants before the courts.

12. In bail applications special care has to be taken by the counsels since the applicant is in jail and the counsel is his sole representative before the court. Time honoured conventions of the nobel profession cast an unconditional duty on the prisoner's counsel to be present at the bail hearing. It is immaterial whether the counsel's professional remuneration has been paid or not. Failure of a counsel at to turn up at a bail hearing may even constitute a misconduct.

13. Dismissal of a lis for non prosecution is a practice evolved by courts over long years for efficient administration of justice. The practice is sound and has proved its efficacy in removing unnecessary cases which clog the legal system. No litigant has a right to unlimited draught on the time of the court. Non appearance of counsel can also lead to an inference that the lis does not survive, or that a litigant does not wish to prosecute the same. Dismissal of such cases for default enables the judicial system to place surviving cases in which the litigants are interested on the courts' dockets.

14. With the dismissal of a case for non prosecution, the lis arrives at a terminus and is only subject to a restoration application being filed by the litigant and allowed by the court. It is important though to bear in mind the distinction between a lis where civil rights are adjudicated, and a criminal case in which the prisoner's personal liberty is engaged. A litigant can elect to waive civil claims by not prosecuting them. However, citizens cannot relinquish their personal liberty even by choice. Personal liberty is irrevocably vested in every citizen by the Constitution and the courts are its permanent guardians.

15. Absence of the counsel at a bail hearing deprives the prisoner-applicant of all ability to influence the outcome of a proceeding where his personal liberty is at stake. When a bail application is dismissed for non prosecution the prisoner's period of detention is enlarged by default even as he goes unrepresented and unheard before the court.

16. Prisoners who apply for bail often live in poor and destitute circumstances. On many occasions they do not have effective pairokars who can oversee the presence of counsels at bail hearings.

17. The abject conditions of a large number of forgotten prisoners were summed up by Saran J. in Gobardhan Singh and another v. State of U.P.5:

"This is not just an isolated case. We realize that there are a large number of such cases of forgotten "nameless" prisoners who have become "ticket numbers" and are languishing in jails for prolonged periods of time, as under trials (UTs) or as convicted prisoners whose appeals are pending almost interminably before Higher Courts, who may or may not have filed bail applications and who have become very old, or are ailing from an incurable disease, or who may even have become immobile or have lost any capacity to commit a further crime. The complainant (if any) has lost any interest in prosecuting them or in keeping them in jail any longer. Usually the families of such accused have been destroyed, or reduced to such abject poverty, as happens when a family member contracts a serious disease, that they cannot pay counsel's fee or incur the recurring unavoidable expenditures in Court offices to get applications and affidavits prepared or the matters listed, and the bail or case disposed of. The relatively luckier children and dependents may perhaps have been provided with a roof over their heads by a grudging relative, or they may have been placed in a State or private run children's home. Others may simply have been abandoned to the street. The daughters in the family may not have been married off, and may be getting exploited by some social deviant in the family or outside. Keeping such prisoners in jail any further, in the already overcrowded jails, serves no useful purpose and is an unnecessary burden on the State and the tax payer."

18. Prisoners have no remedy against absentee counsels and little control over the adverse situation that follows. In these circumstances the prisoner becomes a victim of "undeserved want" within the meaning of Section 12 (e) of the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987 who is entitled to legal aid. Refusal of legal aid to this class of prisoners would entail denial of justice.

19. In this wake, dismissal of a bail application for non prosecution on account of absence of counsel is impermissible, as it is contrary to the rights of prisoners to legal aid under the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987 and violative of fundamental rights of the prisoners guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

20. Personal liberty is the fount of all rights. Protection of liberty is the crown of the court process. While deciding bails the courts have to be cognizant of the entitlement of prisoners to legal aid, and also alert to their right of hearing. In the event of non appearance of a prisoner's counsel the court may appoint an amicus curiae to represent the prisoner and proceed with the hearing of the bail.

21. The narrative can profit by reference to authorities in point.

22. The cases discussed below arise out of criminal appeals. However, the principles of law enumerated therein can be safely applied by analogy to various criminal proceedings where the applicant is in jail and personal liberty of the prisoner hangs in balance.

23. The Allahabad High Court pioneered the cause of unrepresented prisoners in criminal proceedings in the fabled dissent of Syed Mahmood, J. in Queen Empress v. Pohpi and others6.

24. Duty of a counsel to appear in cases despite non receipt of fees and expenses and the obligation of the courts to protect the liberty of the prisoner by appointing an amicus curiae was emphasized in Khaili and others Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh7 by holding:

"1. ...But even though the fees and expenses were not paid, the Advocate should not, in our opinion, have refused to argue the case. It must be remembered by every advocate that he owes a duty to the court, particularly in a criminal case involving the liberty of the citizen, and even if he has not been paid his fees or expenses, he must argue the case and assist the court in reaching the correct decision. We can appreciate a situation where an advocate may be unable to argue the case in the absence of instructions from the client, but non-receipt of fees and expenses can never be a ground for refusing to argue the case. The learned Advocate in the present case, however, refused to argue the case and consequently the learned Judge went through the record of the case and decided the appeal. Now one thing is clear that howsoever diligent the learned Judge might have been and however careful and anxious to protect the interests of the appellants, his effort could not take the place of an argument by an advocate appearing on behalf of the appellants. We think that in a case such as this, what the learned Judge should have done was to appoint an advocate amicus curiae and then proceed to dispose of the appeal on merits."

25. Similarly the Supreme Court set its face against the practice of dismissing criminal appeals for default of appearance and advocated appointment of amicus curiae in Kabira Vs. State of U.P.8:

"2....We are, therefore, of the view that there has not been a proper disposal of the appeal preferred by the appellant. The appeal could not be dismissed by the learned Judge for default of appearance. If the appellant was not present, the learned Judge should have appointed some advocate as amicus curiae and then proceeded to dispose of the appeal on merits."

26. By means of the the bail application the applicant has prayed to be enlarged on bail in Case Crime No. 50 of 2019 at Police Station- Bardah, District-Azamgarh under Section 307 IPC. The applicant is in jail since 20.03.2019.

27. T he bail application of the applicant was rejected by the learned trial court on 04.06.2019.

28. The following arguments made by Shri Omar Zamin, learned counsel on behalf of the applicant, which could not be satisfactorily refuted by Shri Rishi Chaddha, learned AGA from the record, entitle the applicant for grant of bail:

(i). The FIR has been lodged to rationalise a fake encounter staged by the police authorities to burnish their credentials and defend illegal use of force upon applicant.

(ii). No one from the police has suffered life threatening injury.

(iii). The recovered items were planted on the applicant to implicate him in this case.

(iv). There is no independent witness to the recovery.

(v). Recovered articles cannot be linked with the crime.

(vi). Prosecution evidence does not connect the applicant with the offence.

(vii). It is contended that the applicant has always cooperated with the investigations and had joined the trial. The applicant is innocent.

(viii). The trial is moving at a snail's pace and and shows no sign of early conclusion. The applicant cannot be faulted for the delay in the trial.

(ix). Inordinate delay in concluding trial has lead to virtually an indefinite imprisonment of the applicant.

(x). Status report sent by the learned trial court records that the prosecution proposes to examine 12 witnesses as per the chargesheet. However, not a single witness has been examined till date. The trial court is making delay. The applicant is not responsible for the delay in the trial. Inordinate delay in concluding trial had lead to virtually an indefinite imprisonment of the applicant. The right of the applicant to speedy trial has been violated.

(xi). The applicant is not a flight risk. The applicant being a law abiding citizen has always cooperated with the investigation and undertakes to cooperate with the court proceedings. There is no possibility of his influencing witnesses, tampering with the evidence or reoffending.

(xii). The applicant has explained his criminal history. It is also contended that evidently the applicant is a soft target and a convenient scapegoat for the police authorities. The applicant has been nominated in the said cases only to show the proficiency of the police investigators. The said criminal cases do not have any bearing on the instant bail application.

29. In this wake without expressing any opinion on the merits of the case I am of the view that the applicant is entitled to be enlarged on bail.

30. Let the applicant- Maneesh Pathak be released on bail in the aforesaid case crime number, on furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court below. The following conditions be imposed in the interest of justice:-

(i) The applicant will not tamper with the evidence or influence any witness during the trial.

(ii) The applicant will appear before the trial court on the date fixed, unless personal presence is exempted.

31. The learned trial court shall ensure that the sureties demanded of the applicant are commensurate with his socioeconomic status. Heavy sureties which the applicant can not fulfill in view of his socioeconomic constraints will render the right of bail nugatory.

32. High Court Legal Services Authority shall kindly consider the payment of the approved remuneration to Shri Omar Zamin, Advocate (Adv. Roll A/O0083/2012) who represented the applicant as amicus curiae before this Court.

33. A copy of this order be communicated to the learned trial court as well as District Legal Services Authority, Azamgarh, by Registrar Compliance by FAX.

4. Zeba Rizwan Vs St. of U.P. , Crl. Misc. Bail Appl. No.4691 of 2022

(Delivered by Hon'ble Krishan Pahal, J.)

1. List has been revised.

2. Supplementary affidavit filed today is taken on record.

3. Heard Shri V.P. Srivastava, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Ms. Swati Agrawal Srivastava, counsel for the applicant and Shri Anil Tiwari, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Anurag Shukla, counsel for the informant as well as Shri Vibhav Anand Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State.

4. By means of the present bail application, the applicant seeks bail in Case Crime No.462 of 2020, under Section 3(1) of Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986, Police Station- Auraiya, District- Auraiya, during the pendency of trial.

PROSECUTION STORY:

5. As per prosecution story, Ram Sahai, Station House Officer, P.S. Auraiya, District Auraiya alongwith other colleagues, in an official duty, was checking the vehicles and was involved in maintaining peace and order in the area and also to maintain lock-down in lieu of Covid-19 conditions by the order dated 11.07.2020 of District Magistrate. He received an information that Kamlesh Pathak is running an organized and active gang in the area as its' leader. The members of the said gang are (i) Ramu Pathak (ii), Santosh Pathak, (iii) Kuldeep Awasthi @ Pappu, (iv) Vikalp @ Chenu Awasthi, (v) Rajesh Shukla (Bhagwatacharya), (vi) Avneesh Pratap Singh, (vii) Sonu @ Lovkush, (viii) Asheesh Dubey, (ix) Shivam Awasthi and (x) Ravindra @ Lalla Chaubey. The said leader of the gang Kamlesh Pathak alongwith all the aforesaid members is involved in garnering illegal ransom, illegally possessing government land, fighting, firing and other illegal criminal activities etc. The applicant and his gang is not afraid of firing in broad day light. The members of the gang had got the various cases instituted against them settled in the light of the said terror. Nobody dares to depose on oath in court against them whereby all those cases get culminated into acquittals.

6. On 15.03.2020, Kamlesh Pathak and his gang members had caused day light murder of advocate Manju Chaubey and his sister Sudha Chaubey to take illegal possession of land. The public at large are so much terrified of the members of the gang that nobody dares to come forward and speak or make a statement against them. Leaving them free, shall be against the interest of the public at large. The members of the gang keep on committing the offences referred in Sections 16, 17 and 22 of the U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act. Thus they usurped the properties of others and even get instituted false cases against them. It will be in the interest of public at large to book the members of the gang under the U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986. Thus, in view to put an end to the said anti-social activities of the gang, a gang chart has been prepared by him on 26.02.2020, which was sent for the sanction before the learned District Magistrate, Auraiya. After receiving the sanction from the office of the District Magistrate, Auraiya, the aforesaid eleven members of the gang were booked under Section 3(1) of U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986.

RIVAL CONTENTIONS:

For Applicant:

7. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicant has stated that he has been booked owing to the political rivalry and has nothing to do with the said offence. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that the applicant has been granted bail in the predicate offence in Case Crime Number 189 of 2020 under sections 147, 148, 149, 302, 307, 506 IPC and Section 7 of Criminal Law Amendment Act, Police Station Kotwali Auraiya, District Auraiya. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that the bail of the applicant has even been rejected under Section 25/27 of Arms Act by the court concerned in Case Crime No. 190 of 2022.

8. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that the said criminal history stands explained as the applicant is on bail in the case no.1 mentioned in the gang-chat and the bail application in the case No.2 mentioned in the gang-charge i.e. Case Crime No.190 of 2022 is being pressed alongwith this bail application only. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that all the certified copies with respect to the criminal antecedents have been filed. In all, 37 cases have been instituted against the applicant. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that, as mentioned in paragraph 3 of the supplementary affidavit filed today, the closure report has been filed in twelve cases from serial number 3 to 14 and the same have been accepted by the courts concerned.

9. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that the applicant has been acquitted in sixteen cases i.e. from serial number 15 to 30. Three cases, that have been explained at serial number 31 to 33, have been withdrawn by the State. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that the two cases, mentioned at serial number 34 and 35, are not proceeding any further as there is no detail on record about those cases and in two other cases, mentioned at serial number 36 and 37, the applicant has been enlarged on bail. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that thus in effect only four cases could be stated to be pending against the applicant. Learned Senior Counsel has also referred to the letter sent by the Senior Consultant at Centre jail, Agra to the Senior Superintendent of jail whereby it has been mentioned that the applicant was suffering from K/C/O T2 DM (Type-2 Diabetes mellitus) with systemic hypertension with anxiety neurosis. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that the applicant was sent to the S.N. medical College, Agra where several tests were undertaken and then he was referred to King George's Medical College, Lucknow whereby he was examined and his E.C.G., 2D Eco and T.M.T. tests were undertaken and C.T. coronary angiography was referred to be conducted with respect to the applicant. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that the applicant is a patient suffering from cardio vascular disease and being a senior citizen is entitled for bail.

10. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that he has been booked out of political vendetta as he is an ex-MLA and ex-minister belonging to the Samajwadi Party and is against the current political set up.

11. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated there is no actus reus, which implies the guilty act, assigned to the applicant. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that the rules have been framed in Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act in the year 2021 and the present FIR is of the year 2020, as such the said rules are not applicable to the applicant. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that the applicant is not a previous convict. The ingredients of Section 19 sub-clause 4 stands fulfilled and the applicant is entitled for bail. Several other submissions have been made on behalf of the applicant to demonstrate the falsity of the allegations made against him. The circumstances which, as per counsel, led to the false implication of the applicant have also been touched upon at length. The criminal history assigned to the applicant stands explained. The applicant is languishing in jail since 16.03.2020. In case, the applicant is released on bail, he will not misuse the liberty of bail.

12. Learned Senior Counsel has placed much reliance on the judgment of this Court passed in the case of Akbar vs. State of U.P.1, whereby it has been opined that at the time of trial if the delinquent has been acquitted, the same cannot be considered as a part of his criminal antecedents. To which, he has referred the Government Order of the Director General of Police, Uttar Pradesh dated 20.11.2003.

13. Learned Senior Counsel has further placed much reliance on the judgment of this Court passed in the case of Ashok Dixit vs. state of U.P. and Another2, stating that the provisions of the Act cannot be used as a weapon to wreck vengeance or harass or intimidate innocent citizens or to settle scores on political rivals. The relevant para 75 is being reproduced as under:-

"75. But nevertheless we must sound a note of caution. Provision of the Act cannot be used as a weapon to wreak vengeance or harass or intimidate innocent citizens or to settle scores on political or other fronts. The prosecution has to bear in mind that it has to bring home the guilt. Then, there is a further provision for appeal. Thus, the power of judicial review of this Court has been preserved. It is ultimately found that a person was proceeded with in sheer bad faith out of malice and by way of political vendetta the authorities do not enjoy any immunity under Section 22 of the Act. This immunity is confined only to acts done in good faith."

14. Learned Senior Counsel has also placed much reliance on the judgment of Apex Court passed in the case of Dharmendra Kirthal vs. State of U.P. and Another3, whereby it has been opined that personal liberty has its own glory and is to be put on a pedestal in trial to try offenders, it is controlled by the concept of "rational liberty". In essence, liberty of an individual should not be allowed to be eroded but every individual has an obligation to see that he does not violate the laws of the land or affect others' lawful liberty to lose his own.

15. Learned Senior Counsel has also placed reliance on the judgment of this Court passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.4691 of 2022 (Zeba Rizwan vs. State of U.P.) dated 23.05.2022, whereby the locus of the counsel for the victim in the predicate offence was questioned and it was opined that allowing him to argue the matter shall open a pandora's box.

For State:

16. Per contra, learned Senior Counsel for the informant in the predicate offence and learned A.G.A. have vehemently opposed the bail application on the ground that the applicant is the person who very much qualifies to the definition of gangster defined under the Act and it has been at the outset stated that the bail granted to the applicant in the predicate offence of Section 302 IPC is without jurisdiction and has been challenged in the Apex Court by filing Special Leave to Appeal (crl.) No(s). 6080 of 2022 dated 13.04.2022.

17. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that the applicant is the name of terror in the area and his muscle power is but evident from the fact that no witnesses did ever dare to depose against him in court and almost all of them have turned hostile leading to his acquittal.

18. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that the predicate offence is a broad day light murder of an advocate and his sister at 3:00 PM and two other persons were injured in it. The bail granted is challenged, as such the applicant is not entitled for bail. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that the influence of the applicant is but evident from the factum that the closure report has been filed in twelve cases by the police which include attempt to murder, forgery and attempt to dacoity etc.

19. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that the supplementary affidavit filed today on behalf of the applicant is based on false facts and a perjury has been committed in it as the cases referred as acquittal cases in it at serial nos.25, 26 and 29 have been withdrawn, as such may have been listed in the column of withdrawn State cases. Thus, in all six cases have been withdrawn by the State. The trial is going on in the predicate offence and there is every likelihood of applicant influencing the witnesses as he has the long criminal antecedents.

20. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that even the criminal history of two cases has not been explained whereby it has been stated that the cases are not proceedings any further. This cannot be considered as a proper explanation of the said criminal history. The bail of the applicant in Case Crime No.190 of 2020, under Section 25/27 of Arms Act is still pending and is being argued today in this Court.

21. Learned Senior Counsel has further placed much reliance on the judgment of this Court passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.23584 of 2014 (Rohit @ Rohit Yadav vs. State of U.P.) dated 06.08.2014, whereby the counsel for the informant in the predicate offence was permitted to oppose the bail application.

CONCLUSION:

22. The latin term ''actus reus' implies guilty act. Thus, it is the physical component of crime. It is true that there can be no offence without a criminal act. We have to consider mens rea alongwith actus reus. Actus reus is latin for guilty act and mens rea is latin for guilty mind. Both elements are required for the criminal act to be complete. The actus reus and the mens rea are to be inferred from the contents of the allegations made by the prosecution whereby the applicant is stated to be having criminal antecedents and in the said predicate offence, the applicant is stated to have exhorted the other co-accused persons to fire at the deceased and injured persons. Thus, the element of actus reus and mens rea are present in the said case and being a leader of the gang, the same find place in the present case also.

23. With respect to a gangster, an inference can be drawn from the circumstances. The delinquent herein is a legislature aka an Ex-minister, but the same cannot absolve him of the activities committed impersonal.

24. It is true that under normal circumstances, if otherwise the case of the delinquent for bail is made out, the criminal antecedents are not to be considered, but herein the gravity of offence and the criminal antecedents that too the cases of murder, attempt to murder, attempt to dacoity and forgery etc. weigh against the applicant.

25. It is true that there is a possibility of misuse of the legislations that too depends on the person executing it. The present case does not seem to be a misuse of the act and the applicant having such a large criminal antecedents and being the head of the gang is not entitled for bail.

26. From the perusal of the record, I do not find that there are reasonable grounds for believing that the applicant is not guilty of such offence and that he is not likely to commit any offence while on bail as is the requirement of Section 19(4) of the Act.

27. Considering the submissions advanced by the counsel for the parties, nature of allegations, gravity of offence and all attending facts and circumstances of case, the Court is of the opinion that it is not a fit case for bail. Hence, the bail application of applicant is hereby rejected.

28. However, it is directed that the aforesaid case pending before the trial court be decided expeditiously, if there is no legal impediment.

29. It is clarified that the observations made herein are limited to the facts brought in by the parties pertaining to the disposal of bail application and the said observations shall have no bearing on the merits of the case during trial.

1. List has been revised.

2. Heard Sri Mohd. Umar Iqbal Khan, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Vibhav Anand Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State as well as perused the material available on record.

3. The present bail application has been filed by the applicant in Case Crime No.2815 of 2018, under Sections 498-A, 323, 302 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Loni, District Ghaziabad, with the prayer to enlarge him on bail.

PROSECUTION STORY:

4. As per prosecution story, the informant lodged an FIR at Police Station Loni, District Ghaziabad on 12.12.2018 alleging that he is a resident of town Kandhala, District Shamli, UP and he had married his sister to the applicant Anees as per Muslim customs about seven years before her death. After the marriage, the applicant Anees and co-accused persons, namely, Naseem, Nafees and Smt. Asgari are stated to have subjected the deceased to cruelty for demand of dowry and used to beat her up every now and then. It was learnt that applicant had an affair with some another girl as the sister of the informant and other family members of Anees had seen him in a compromising condition with the said girl. The said fact was brought to the knowledge of family members of the informant about two months before the date of incident. The applicant is stated to have confessed and had promised that said act shall not be repeated as such the sister of the informant had gone with the applicant. The deceased person was taken by the applicant to Loni and both were residing in Aksha Masjid, Prem Nagar, Loni. On 10.12.2018 at about 10:40 p.m., a phone call was received by the informant stating that his sister has been set to fire by sprinkling kerosene oil on her by her in-laws. The informant and his family members reached at G.T.B. Hospital, Delhi on 11.12.2018 at about 03:00 a.m. from Punjab. The deceased person had stated to all the family members that the applicant and his family members had been beating her for several days and kerosene oil was sprinkled on her by all the accused persons and she was set afire. It is also stated in the FIR that there is a video recording of the statement of his sister at Police Chowki Loni.

RIVAL CONTENTIONS:

For Applicant:

5. Learned counsel for the applicant has stated that the applicant has been falsely implicated in the present case. The trial is going on and in all four witnesses of fact have been examined. Learned counsel has stated that PW-1 Nadeem is the informant and has not supported the prosecution story and he has been declared hostile by the public prosecutor and has been cross-examined by him as such. Learned counsel has stated that it has come up in the statement of PW-1 that when he reached the hospital he found his sister unconscious and she had not made any statement before them. Learned counsel has further stated that PW-2 Ishrar has also followed the suit and has not supported the prosecution story. Learned counsel has also stated that PW-3 Haqiqat is the brother-in-law of the informant and he has also not supported the prosecution story and has even denied of any videographic recording of statement of the deceased person. PW-4 Smt. Fahmida is the mother of the deceased person and she has also not supported the prosecution story. Learned counsel has stated that all these witnesses have resiled from their earlier statements recorded by the Investigating Officer. Learned counsel has stated that signature of the witnesses has also been taken by the person conducting inquest proceedings on their statements. The said statements are not admissible in the law as they are hit by Section 162 Cr.P.C. Learned counsel has stated that there is dying declaration of the deceased person which was recorded by ASI at G.T.B Hospital. Learned counsel has stated that the said statement indicates that the applicant had sprinkled some liquid on the deceased person and set her afire. Learned counsel has stated that the said dying declaration is not admissible under the Indian Evidence Act as it has not been recorded as per law. Learned counsel has further stated that there is overwriting in the date of recording of the said dying declaration and it cannot be said that it was recorded on 10.12.2018 itself.

6. Learned counsel has further stated that no presumption under Section 113-B of Indian Evidence Act can be drawn in the present case as the marriage of the applicant with the deceased person was solemnized in the year, 2010 as such a period of more than seven years has passed till the date of offence. Even the charge-sheet has been filed under Sections 498-A, 323, 302 I.P.C. and 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act. Learned counsel has stated that the trial is moving at a snail's pace and there is no likelihood of early conclusion of trial. The Assistant Sub-Inspector who has recorded the said dying declaration has not been examined by the Investigating Officer and has not even been produced in the court.

7. Learned counsel has stated that the Apex Court in the case of Uttam vs. The State of Maharashtra1 has opined as follows:-

7. It was canvassed by the learned counsel for the appellant that once the High Court had rejected the written dying declarations of the deceased on the ground that there were several conspicuous loopholes in recording of the said statements, there was no good reason for the High Court to have relied on the oral statements allegedly made by the deceased to PW-2 and PW-12, which were equally unreliable and therefore, ought to have met the same fate as the written dying declarations of the deceased. To buttress his submission that where there are multiple dying declarations and each one is inconsistent with the other, then all the said dying declarations ought to be discarded without any hesitation, learned counsel has cited Nallapati Sivaiah v. SDO [Nallapati Sivaiah v. SDO, (2007) 15 SCC 465 : (2010) 3 SCC (Cri) 560]. The unreliability of an oral dying declaration made to a family member in the absence of the doctor was sought to be questioned by citing Arvind Singh v. State of Bihar [Arvind Singh v. State of Bihar, (2001) 6 SCC 407 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 1148], Arun Bhanudas Pawar v. State of Maharashtra [Arun Bhanudas Pawar v. State of Maharashtra, (2008) 11 SCC 232 : (2009) 1 SCC (Cri) 112] and Poonam Bai v. State of Chhattisgarh [Poonam Bai v. State of Chhattisgarh, (2019) 6 SCC 145 : (2019) 2 SCC (Cri) 754].

8. On the other hand, Mr Sachin Patil, learned counsel appearing for the respondent State of Maharashtra has with his usual vehemence, disputed the arguments advanced by the other side and stated that both the written dying declarations, the first one recorded by the IO at 3.20 p.m. and the second one recorded by the SEM (PW-9) at 4.30 p.m., on the very same day, were consistent and the deceased had clearly stated that it was the appellant who had set her on fire. He also alluded to the two fitness certificates issued by the attending doctor (PW-10) in respect of the deceased before her statements were recorded and contended that the said certificates showed that she was in a sound state of mind and competent to depose. Similarly, the oral dying declarations subsequently made by the deceased in the presence of her father (PW-2) and the mediator (PW-12) were also stated to be consistent with the version of the victim and worthy of credence. The narration as to the manner in which the deceased was set on fire was stated to be consistent and it was contended that the cross-examination of the said prosecution witnesses did not elicit anything favourable to the appellant on the above aspect. The learned State Counsel referred to the Chemical Analyser Report in respect of the clothes of the deceased and the appellant that were seized from the spot to urge that it lent credence to the version of the prosecution that the appellant had poured kerosene on the deceased and had set her on fire.

9. In support of his submission that where there are conflicting dying declarations, the Court can accept one and discard the other as long as it is satisfied that the basic statement of the deceased had remained consistent, the learned State Counsel cited State of U.P. v. Veerpal [State of U.P. v. Veerpal, (2022) 4 SCC 741 : (2022) 2 SCC (Cri) 224], Rizan v. State of Chhattisgarh [Rizan v. State of Chhattisgarh, (2003) 2 SCC 661 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 664] and Bhagwan Tukaram Dange v. State of Maharashtra [Bhagwan Tukaram Dange v. State of Maharashtra, (2014) 4 SCC 270 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 302] . The decision in Trimukh Maroti Kirkan v. State of Maharashtra [Trimukh Maroti Kirkan v. State of Maharashtra, (2006) 10 SCC 681 : (2007) 1 SCC (Cri) 80] was cited to state that the onus remains on the accused to explain how the death had taken place within the privacy of the home, away from public gaze.

10. We have given our thoughtful consideration to the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and carefully perused the record. The entire issue in the present case hinges on the admissibility and evidentiary value of the dying declarations made by the deceased, two of which were in writing and recorded by PW-9 and PW-14 and the other two were oral and communicated by the deceased to PW-2 and PW-12.

11. Dying declaration is the last statement that is made by a person as to the cause of his imminent death or the circumstances that had resulted in that situation, at a stage when the declarant is conscious of the fact that there are virtually nil chances of his survival. On an assumption that at such a critical stage, a person would be expected to speak the truth, courts have attached great value to the veracity of such a statement. Section 32 of the Evidence Act, 1872 (for short "the Evidence Act") states that when a statement is made by a person as to the cause of death, or as to any of the circumstances which resulted in his death, in cases in which the cause of that person's death comes into question, such a statement, oral or in writing made by the deceased victim to the witness, is a relevant fact and is admissible in evidence. It is noteworthy that the said provision is an exception to the general rule contained in Section 60 of the Evidence Act that "hearsay evidence is inadmissible" and only when such an evidence is direct and is validated through cross-examination, is it considered to be trustworthy.

12. In Kundula Bala Subrahmanyam v. State of A.P. [Kundula Bala Subrahmanyam v. State of A.P., (1993) 2 SCC 684 : 1993 SCC (Cri) 655], this Court had highlighted the significance of a dying declaration in the following words : (SCC p. 697, para 18)

"18. Section 32(1) of the Evidence Act is an exception to the general rule that hearsay evidence is not admissible evidence and unless evidence is tested by cross-examination, it is not creditworthy. Under Section 32, when a statement is made by a person, as to the cause of death or as to any of the circumstances which result in his death, in cases in which the cause of that person's death comes into question, such a statement, oral or in writing, made by the deceased to the witness is a relevant fact and is admissible in evidence. The statement made by the deceased, called the dying declaration, falls in that category provided it has been made by the deceased while in a fit mental condition. A dying declaration made by person on the verge of his death has a special sanctity as at that solemn moment, a person is most unlikely to make any untrue statement. The shadow of impending death is by itself the guarantee of the truth of the statement made by the deceased regarding the causes or circumstances leading to his death. A dying declaration, therefore, enjoys almost a sacrosanct status, as a piece of evidence, coming as it does from the mouth of the deceased victim. Once the statement of the dying person and the evidence of the witnesses testifying to the same passes the test of careful scrutiny of the courts, it becomes a very important and a reliable piece of evidence and if the court is satisfied that the dying declaration is true and free from any embellishment such a dying declaration, by itself, can be sufficient for recording conviction even without looking for any corroboration....."

8. Learned counsel has further stated that the so called dying declaration which is annexed as Annexure No.4 to the affidavit filed with the bail application is not supported by any medical certificate of treating doctor. Learned counsel has stated that the deceased was almost burnt more than 90% as such was not in a position to talk. The said statement made by the deceased to any person is not admissible at all.

9. Learned counsel has stated that the period of incarceration of applicant is also to be considered as he is languishing in jail since 14.12.2018, i.e., more than four years. Thus learned counsel has placed much reliance on the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Union of India vs. K.A. Najeeb2 wherein the Apex Court has observed that "We are conscious of the fact that the charges levelled against the respondent are grave and a serious threat to societal harmony. Had it been a case at the threshold, we would have outrightly turned down the respondent's prayer. However, keeping in mind the length of the period spent by him in custody and the unlikelihood of the trial being completed anytime soon, the High Court appears to have been left with no other option except to grant bail."

10. Learned counsel has also placed reliance on the judgment of the Apex Court passed in the case of Kaka Singh vs. State of Madhya Pradesh3 whereby it has been held by the Apex Court that "Where the deceased was unconscious and could never make any dying declaration, the evidence with regard to it is to be rejected".

11 . Several other submissions have been made on behalf of the applicant to demonstrate the falsity of the allegations made against him. The circumstances which, as per counsel, led to the false implication of the applicant have also been touched upon at length. It is also argued that there is no criminal history of the applicant. In case, the applicant is released on bail, he will not misuse the liberty of bail.

For State:

12. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the bail application on the ground that there is a memo attached with the case diary and has been proved by the PW-2 whereby it has been stated that there was a videographic recording of the statement of the deceased person. The said memo is proved as Ext-Ka-5. Learned A.G.A. has stated that it has nowhere been stated by the prosecution that the statement record by the ASI is dying declaration but has stated that said statement before ASI and even before treating doctors, namely, Dr. Shahbaz Mansoori and Dr. Alfaraz Mohd tantamount to dying declaration as they have been duly recorded by them during the course of their official duty. Learned A.G.A. has further stated that both the dying declarations although are in different language contain more or less the similar allegations against the applicant. The truthfulness of the said statement that tantamount to dying declaration can be taken from the fact that only the applicant has been implicated and not his other family members, although the FIR is lodged against four accused persons. Learned A.G.A. has stated that the said statements recorded by ASI at Guru Teg Bahadur Hospital had been taken in Hindi and that by doctor had been recorded in English. Learned A.G.A. has stated that there are no material inconsistencies in the said dying declarations. It is settled law of the Apex Court that conviction can be recorded solely on the basis of dying declaration. Learned A.G.A. has relied on the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Smt. Paniben vs. State of Gujarat4 wherein all the relevant case law has been taken into account and it has been opined that there is neither rule of law nor of prudence that dying declaration cannot be acted upon without corroboration. Learned A.G.A. has stated that merely because the dying declaration is a brief statement, it is not to be discarded. On the contrary, the shortness of the statement itself guarantees truth.

CONCLUSION:

13. The only bone of contention is as to whether the statement of deceased to the ASI and the treating doctors pass the test of dying declaration or not.

14. The victim was a young lady who has succumbed to burn injuries sustained at the time alleged in the First Information Report. This factum stands proved by the statements of the hostile witnesses and the Autopsy report.

15. The statement of the deceased is stated to have been recorded by the ASI which has been filed by the counsel for the applicant and has been disputed on the ground that there is overwriting in the date transcribed by its author.

16. Learned AGA has placed reliance on another statement of the deceased which have been recorded by the two treating doctors and duly signed by the two family members of the deceased. Both the statements are to the point and brief.

17. The dying declaration is hearsay evidence. It is settled law that though a dying declaration is entitled to great weight, it is worthwhile to note that the accused has no power of cross-examination. Such a power is essential for eliciting the truth as an obligation of oath could be. This is the reason the Court also insists that the dying declaration should be of such nature as to inspire full confidence of the Court in its correctness. The Court has to be on guard that the statement of the deceased was not as a result of either tutoring or prompting or a product of imagination.

Case Law:

18. The Apex Court in the landmark judgement of VARIKUPPAL SRINIVAS v. STATE OF A.P.5 has categorically opined as follows:

"7. This is a case where the basis of conviction of the accused by the trial Court was the dying declarations. The situation in which a person is on his deathbed, being exceedingly solemn, serene and grave, is the reason in law to accept the veracity of his statement. It is for this reason that the requirements of oath and cross-examination are dispensed with. Besides should the dying declaration be excluded it will result in miscarriage of justice because the victim being generally the only eye-witness in a serious crime, the exclusion of the statement would leave the Court without a scrap of evidence.

8. Though a dying declaration is entitled to great weight, it is worthwhile to note that the accused has no power of cross-examination.

Such a power is essential for eliciting the truth as an obligation of oath could be. This is the reason the Court also insists that the dying declaration should be of such nature as to inspire full confidence of the Court in its correctness. The Court has to be on guard that the statement of the deceased was not as a result of either tutoring or prompting or a product of imagination. The Court must be further satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind after a clear opportunity to observe and identify the assailant. Once the Court is satisfied that the declaration was true and voluntary, undoubtedly, it can base its conviction without any further corroboration. It cannot be laid down as an absolute rule of law that the dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction unless it is corroborated. The rule requiring corroboration is merely a rule of prudence."

19. The Supreme Court in Munnu Raja & Anr. Vs. The State of Madhya Pradesh6 has opined "There is neither rule of law nor of prudence that dying declaration cannot be acted upon without corroboration."

20. In K. Ramachandra Reddy and Anr. v. The Public Prosecutor7 the Apex Court has held "The Court has to scrutinize the dying declaration carefully and must ensure that the declaration is not the result of tutoring, prompting or imagination. The deceased had an opportunity to observe and identify the assailants and was in a fit state to make the declaration."

21. The Supreme Court in Surajdeo Oza and Ors. v. State of Bihar8 has categorically opined as "Equally, merely because it is a brief statement, it is not to be discarded. On the contrary, the shortness of the statement itself guarantees truth."

22. Another important judgement of the Apex Court in State of Uttar Pradesh Vs. Madan Mohan and Ors.9 elucidates "Where the prosecution version differs from the version as given in the dying declaration, the said declaration cannot be acted upon."

23. In the case of BETAL SINGH V/S STATE OF MP10 the Apex Court has categorically held that in a case of Bride burning, the Dying declaration recorded by a police officer, can be acted upon if the same is found to be true, coherent, consistent, and free from any effort to prompt the deceased to make such a statement. The same view was expressed in PARAS YADAV AND OTHERS V/S STATE OF BIHAR11 and STATE OF UTTAR PRADESH V/S CHET RAM AND OTHERS12.

24. Another point raised by learned counsel for applicant is that the said dying declaration if considered so is not in the form of question and answers. The said contention do not find force as the Apex Court in its judgement STATE OF KARNATAKA V/S SHARIFF13 has held that a Dying declaration if not recorded in question-answer form cannot be discarded on that ground alone. The statement recorded in narrative form is more natural and gives version of incident as it has been perceived by victim.

25. From the perusal of both the statements aka "dying declarations" it transpires that the contents are almost the same although the ASI has recorded it in vernacular Hindi and the treating doctors have done so in English. There is nothing on record to suggest that the police or the treating doctors had any animosity with the applicant. The investigating officer has fairly exonerated the accused who were although named in FIR, but their names were not mentioned in the statements of the deceased person that tantamount to dying declaration. A presumption of fair action at the part of police and the treating doctors must arise here.

26. At the stage of adjudicating a bail application this court is not inclined to delve into the quality or quantity of evidence but to see whether the delinquent appears to have committed the crime and he is entitled for bail or not.

27. After hearing learned counsel for the parties, going through the evidence on record and also taking into consideration the aforesaid judgments and the fact that a young lady has been set to fire by the applicant within the precincts of the place they both used to live, I do not find it a fit case for grant of bail to the applicant.

28. The bail application is found devoid of merits and is, accordingly, rejected.

29. However, looking to the period of detention of the applicant, it is directed that the aforesaid case pending before the trial court be decided expeditiously, preferably within a period of one year from the date of production of a certified copy of this order or as early as possible in view of the principle as has been laid down in the recent judgements of the Apex Court in the cases of Vinod Kumar Vs. State of Punjab14 and Hussain and Another vs. Union of India15, if there is no legal impediment.

30. It is clarified that the observations made herein are limited to the facts brought in by the parties pertaining to the disposal of bail application and the said observations shall have no bearing on the merits of the case during trial.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. Matter is taken up in the revised call. None appears on behalf of the applicant to press the bail application. Name of counsel for the applicant is shown in the cause list.

2. The ordersheet discloses that the counsel for the applicant has not appeared before this Court on successive dates of hearing in the past. Earlier the Court had called for the status report from the trial court as well as a report from the District Legal Services Authority.

3. Question arises whether the bail application should be dismissed for non prosecution or an amicus curiae should be appointed to represent the applicant and the matter be heard on merits.

4. Shri Shams Uz Zaman, learned counsel is appointed as amicus curiae to represent the applicant and assist the Court.

"Prison and the authorities conspire to rob each man of his dignity"1.

5. The right to bail is derived from statute but cannot be isolated from constitutional oversight.

6. Good authority has long entrenched the right of an accused to seek bail in the charter of fundamental rights assured by the Constitution of India. A more detailed discussion on constitutional law anchors of right of bail which flows from Article 21 of the Constitution of India can be seen in Ajeet Chaudhary Vs. State of UP2 , Junaid Vs. State of UP. and another3 and Anil Gaur @ Sonu @ Sonu Tomar Vs. State of UP4.

7. Constitutional moorings of the right of bail also bring the right of fair hearing within its ambit.

8. Legal aid is an indispensable instrument to secure the preambled objective of justice to all citizens. The national capacity to deliver equal justice is girded by the institutional ability to provide legal aid. Legal aid was exalted as a fundamental right by constitutional courts even before it was vested as a statutory right by the legislature under the Legal Services Authorities Act. [On the issue of legal aid and the scheme of the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987 see Anil Gaur (supra)].

9. Entitlement to legal services is provided for in Chapter IV of the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987. Section 12 of the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987 contains the criteria for giving legal services. Section 12(e) of the Act is germane to the controversy and is extracted below:-

"Section 12 (e) - a person under circumstances of underserved want such as being a victim of a mass disaster, ethnic violence, caste atrocity, flood, drought, earthquake or industrial disaster."

10. The scope of the provision to provide free legal aid arose for consideration before this Court in Anil Gaur (supra) and was analysed thus:

"40. The eligibility criteria for giving legal services under Section 12(e) is broad based.

The breadth of the provision manifests the legislative intent to reach out to the last person at the bottom of the social heap. The section contemplates to give legal aid to persons who suffer from deprivation and exclusion caused by circumstances of want which are not of their making.

Under the provision persons facing circumstances of "undeserved want" become entitled for legal services. The phrase "undeserved want" is generic in nature. The word "such as" precedes the examples of "undeserved want" described in the section. The instances of "undeserved want" depicted in the provision are illustrative and not exhaustive, and are in the nature of externalities i.e. adverse circumstances over which a person has no control and which prevent recourse to justice.

The phrase "undeserved want" in the statute is not a fixed concept but an evolutionary exercise. The State Legal Services Authority is mandated to enquire whether the circumstances of a person being considered for legal aid fall within the sweep of "undeserved want".

11. The Bar is the frontline sentinel of citizens' rights and liberties. The courts are the last bastion of constitutional law and justice. Judges have an oath enshrined in the Constitution. Lawyers have a pledge seared in their consciences to serve justice in the nobel traditions of the legal profession. Translated in terms of lawyers' duties to their clients it essentially means this. Lawyers have to diligently prepare the briefs and vigilantly prosecute causes of litigants before the courts.

12. In bail applications special care has to be taken by the counsels since the applicant is in jail and the counsel is his sole representative before the court. Time honoured conventions of the nobel profession cast an unconditional duty on the prisoner's counsel to be present at the bail hearing. It is immaterial whether the counsel's professional remuneration has been paid or not. Failure of a counsel at to turn up at a bail hearing may even constitute a misconduct.

13. Dismissal of a lis for non prosecution is a practice evolved by courts over long years for efficient administration of justice. The practice is sound and has proved its efficacy in removing unnecessary cases which clog the legal system. No litigant has a right to unlimited draught on the time of the court. Non appearance of counsel can also lead to an inference that the lis does not survive, or that a litigant does not wish to prosecute the same. Dismissal of such cases for default enables the judicial system to place surviving cases in which the litigants are interested on the courts' dockets.

14. With the dismissal of a case for non prosecution, the lis arrives at a terminus and is only subject to a restoration application being filed by the litigant and allowed by the court. It is important though to bear in mind the distinction between a lis where civil rights are adjudicated, and a criminal case in which the prisoner's personal liberty is engaged. A litigant can elect to waive civil claims by not prosecuting them. However, citizens cannot relinquish their personal liberty even by choice. Personal liberty is irrevocably vested in every citizen by the Constitution and the courts are its permanent guardians.

15. Absence of the counsel at a bail hearing deprives the prisoner-applicant of all ability to influence the outcome of a proceeding where his personal liberty is at stake. When a bail application is dismissed for non prosecution the prisoner's period of detention is enlarged by default even as he goes unrepresented and unheard before the court.

16. Prisoners who apply for bail often live in poor and destitute circumstances. On many occasions they do not have effective pairokars who can oversee the presence of counsels at bail hearings.

17. The abject conditions of a large number of forgotten prisoners were summed up by Saran J. in Gobardhan Singh and another v. State of U.P.5:

"This is not just an isolated case. We realize that there are a large number of such cases of forgotten "nameless" prisoners who have become "ticket numbers" and are languishing in jails for prolonged periods of time, as under trials (UTs) or as convicted prisoners whose appeals are pending almost interminably before Higher Courts, who may or may not have filed bail applications and who have become very old, or are ailing from an incurable disease, or who may even have become immobile or have lost any capacity to commit a further crime. The complainant (if any) has lost any interest in prosecuting them or in keeping them in jail any longer. Usually the families of such accused have been destroyed, or reduced to such abject poverty, as happens when a family member contracts a serious disease, that they cannot pay counsel's fee or incur the recurring unavoidable expenditures in Court offices to get applications and affidavits prepared or the matters listed, and the bail or case disposed of. The relatively luckier children and dependents may perhaps have been provided with a roof over their heads by a grudging relative, or they may have been placed in a State or private run children's home. Others may simply have been abandoned to the street. The daughters in the family may not have been married off, and may be getting exploited by some social deviant in the family or outside. Keeping such prisoners in jail any further, in the already overcrowded jails, serves no useful purpose and is an unnecessary burden on the State and the tax payer."

18. Prisoners have no remedy against absentee counsels and little control over the adverse situation that follows. In these circumstances the prisoner becomes a victim of "undeserved want" within the meaning of Section 12 (e) of the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987 who is entitled to legal aid. Refusal of legal aid to this class of prisoners would entail denial of justice.

19. In this wake, dismissal of a bail application for non prosecution on account of absence of counsel is impermissible, as it is contrary to the rights of prisoners to legal aid under the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987 and violative of fundamental rights of the prisoners guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

20. Personal liberty is the fount of all rights. Protection of liberty is the crown of the court process. While deciding bails the courts have to be cognizant of the entitlement of prisoners to legal aid, and also alert to their right of hearing. In the event of non appearance of a prisoner's counsel the court may appoint an amicus curiae to represent the prisoner and proceed with the hearing of the bail.

21. The narrative can profit by reference to authorities in point.

22. The cases discussed below arise out of criminal appeals. However, the principles of law enumerated therein can be safely applied by analogy to various criminal proceedings where the applicant is in jail and personal liberty of the prisoner hangs in balance.

23. The Allahabad High Court pioneered the cause of unrepresented prisoners in criminal proceedings in the fabled dissent of Syed Mahmood, J. in Queen Empress v. Pohpi and others6.

24. Duty of a counsel to appear in cases despite non receipt of fees and expenses and the obligation of the courts to protect the liberty of the prisoner by appointing an amicus curiae was emphasized in Khaili and others Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh7 by holding:

"1. ...But even though the fees and expenses were not paid, the Advocate should not, in our opinion, have refused to argue the case. It must be remembered by every advocate that he owes a duty to the court, particularly in a criminal case involving the liberty of the citizen, and even if he has not been paid his fees or expenses, he must argue the case and assist the court in reaching the correct decision. We can appreciate a situation where an advocate may be unable to argue the case in the absence of instructions from the client, but non-receipt of fees and expenses can never be a ground for refusing to argue the case. The learned Advocate in the present case, however, refused to argue the case and consequently the learned Judge went through the record of the case and decided the appeal. Now one thing is clear that howsoever diligent the learned Judge might have been and however careful and anxious to protect the interests of the appellants, his effort could not take the place of an argument by an advocate appearing on behalf of the appellants. We think that in a case such as this, what the learned Judge should have done was to appoint an advocate amicus curiae and then proceed to dispose of the appeal on merits."

25. Similarly the Supreme Court set its face against the practice of dismissing criminal appeals for default of appearance and advocated appointment of amicus curiae in Kabira Vs. State of U.P.8:

"2....We are, therefore, of the view that there has not been a proper disposal of the appeal preferred by the appellant. The appeal could not be dismissed by the learned Judge for default of appearance. If the appellant was not present, the learned Judge should have appointed some advocate as amicus curiae and then proceeded to dispose of the appeal on merits."

26. By means of the the bail application the applicant has prayed to be enlarged on bail in Case Crime No.61 of 2021 at Police Station-Khudaganj, District-Shahjahanpur under Sections 8/20 of NDPS Act.

27. The applicant was in jail since 11.03.2021 and was granted interim bail by this Court on 01.02.2023.

28. The following arguments made by Shri Shams Uz Zaman, learned counsel on behalf of the applicant, which could not be satisfactorily refuted by Shri Sunil Kumar Srivastava, learned AGA from the record, entitle the applicant for grant of interim bail:

(i). 1 Kg. and 100 gram Charas was planted on the applicant to implicate him in this case to burnish the credentials of the police authorities.

(ii). There is no independent witness to the recovery.

(iii). The quantity of the prohibited substance is exaggerated as inaccurate instruments have been used for weighment. The recovered substance is in fact below the commercial quantity notified under the NDPS Act.

(iv). No reliable forensic science laboratory report drawn up in accordance with latest scientific protocol by experts which affirms that the seized substance is a prohibited drug has been produced.

(v). The search and seizure has been made in violation of the mandatory provisions of the NDPS Act.

(vi). The applicant has explained his criminal history. Learned AGA contends that the applicant has a criminal history of some more cases. Rejoining this issue, learned counsel for the applicant contends that the applicant is in jail. He is financially destitute and does not have an effective pairokar or counsel. Hence details of the cases could not be obtained and stated in the bail application. However, relying on the records available with the learned AGA, learned counsel for the applicant submits that the applicant belongs to the economically poor strata of the society and is a convenient scapegoat for the police authorities. The applicant was falsely framed in the said cases. The said cases do not have any bearing on the instant case.

(vii). The learned trial court in its status report has disclosed that the prosecution proposes to examine 7 witnesses to bring home the charges. Till date not a single witness has been examined. The applicant is in jail for the past one and a half months. The trial is moving at a snail's pace and is not likely to conclude anytime in the near future.

(viii). The applicant is a law abiding citizen who cooperated with the police investigations and had joined the trial. The applicant is not responsible for the delay in the trial.

(ix). Inordinate delay in concluding trial had has led to virtually an indefinite imprisonment of the applicant without there being any credible evidence to implicate him in the offence and violates the rights of the applicant to speedy trial.

(x). The applicant is not a flight risk. The applicant being a law abiding citizen has always cooperated with the investigation and undertakes to cooperate with the court proceedings. There is no possibility of his influencing witnesses, tampering with the evidence or reoffending.

29. In the light of the preceding discussion and without making any observations on the merits of the case, the bail application is allowed.

30. Let the applicant- Vipin be released on bail in the aforesaid case crime number, on furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court below. The following conditions be imposed in the interest of justice:-

(i) The applicant will not tamper with the evidence or influence any witness during the trial.

(ii) The applicant will appear before the trial court on the date fixed, unless personal presence is exempted.

31. The learned trial court shall ensure that the sureties demanded of the applicant are commensurate with his socioeconomic status. Heavy sureties which the applicant can not fulfill in view of his socioeconomic constraints will render the right of bail nugatory.

32. High Court Legal Services Authority shall kindly consider the payment of the approved remuneration to Shri Shams Uz Zaman, Advocate (Adv. Roll A/S0815/2012) who represented the applicant as amicus curiae before this Court.

33. A copy of this order be communicated to the learned trial court as well as District Legal Services Authority, Shahjahanpur, by Registrar Compliance by FAX.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. Heard Shri Ram Kishore Pandey, learned counsel assisted by Shri Sachin Ojha, learned counsel for the appellants and Shri W.H.Khan, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Gulrez Khan, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. The following issues which arise for consideration in this appeal is that :

i). Whether the document (order of Assistant Commissioner dated 04.10.1978) was admissible in evidence?

ii) Whether on account of the failure of the appellant to object to admissibility of the said document at the time of its presentation before the learned court below precludes the appellants from raising such objections at a later stage in the proceedings?

3. The photocopy of the order dated 04.10.1978 was presented before the court along with the delay condonation application. The document was registered as 35C/169C by the learned appellant court. The delay condonation application was allowed by the learned appellate court on the foot of the aforesaid document. The order passed by the learned appellate court dated 01.05.2013 allowing the delay condonation application has attained finality. The appellants assailed the aforesaid order dated 01.05.2013 by instituting the writ petition registered as Writ-C No.36104 of 2013 (Jagannath Ji/Jagdish Ji Virajman Mandir Katra and another v. Mahant Vijai Ram Das Chela Ganga Ram Das and another). The following order was passed by this Court in the said writ petition:

"Sri R.K.Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioners states that the writ petition has become infructuous.

The writ petition is dismissed as such."

4. It is evident that the appellants did not press the challenge to the order allowing delay condonation application. The appellant waived their rights to challenge all documents on which reliance was placed in the said order. The delay condonation application was part of the appeal court proceedings.

5. Once a challenge to a particular document has been waived, the party cannot resile from its conscious stand and assail the said document belatedly in appeal. The rational for insisting upon the parties to object to the document at the earliest stage is not far to seek. Such a challenge is consistent with rules of fair play, and enables the opposing side to rectify curable defects or lead evidence to support the document.

6. The narrative will now be fortified by the authorities in point. Considering the belated challenge to the admissibility of a document, the Supreme Court in R.V.E. Venkatachala Gounder v. Arulmigu Viswesarasami and V.P. Temple reported at (2003) 8 SCC 752 held thus:

"20. The learned counsel for the defendant-respondent has relied on The Roman Catholic Mission Vs. The State of Madras & Anr. AIR 1966 SC 1457 in support of his submission that a document not admissible in evidence, though brought on record, has to be excluded from consideration. We do not have any dispute with the proposition of law so laid down in the abovesaid case. However, the present one is a case which calls for the correct position of law being made precise. Ordinarily an objection to the admissibility of evidence should be taken when it is tendered and not subsequently. The objections as to admissibility of documents in evidence may be classified into two classes:- (i) an objection that the document which is sought to be proved is itself inadmissible in evidence; and (ii) where the objection does not dispute the admissibility of the document in evidence but is directed towards the mode of proof alleging the same to be irregular or insufficient. In the first case, merely because a document has been marked as 'an exhibit', an objection as to its admissibility is not excluded and is available to be raised even at a later stage or even in appeal or revision. In the latter case, the objection should be taken before the evidence is tendered and once the document has been admitted in evidence and marked as an exhibit, the objection that it should not have been admitted in evidence or that the mode adopted for proving the document is irregular cannot be allowed to be raised at any stage subsequent to the marking of the document as an exhibit."

7. This Court in E.S.I. Corp. v. Jagdish Prasad, reiterated the unexceptional requirement of law to take out an objection about the admissibility of a document in the first instant and at the first available opportunity. In Jagdish Prasad (supra) held thus:

"9. This Court is of opinion that an objection about admissibility of secondary evidence must be taken before the Court of first instance, where the secondary evidence is filed without foundation. If that objection is not taken before the Court, where the evidence is filed on behalf of a party, it cannot be later on urged in appeal.

15. In view of this position of the law, there is no doubt that unless an objection about the admissibility of evidence is taken in the Court of first instance, where the evidence is led, it cannot be raised in appeal for the first time."

8. The law set its face against a challenge to the admissibility of a document when the party failed to raise an objection at the earliest or permitted the court to proceed on the foot of such document in Iqbal Basith and others v.

N.Subbalakshmi and others, reported at (2021) 2 SCC 718, the Supreme Court in Iqbal Basith (supra) held thus:

"13. Both the courts then proceeded to consider the title of the appellants to decide lawful possession. The respondents had themselves produced a certified copy of Ex.1 dated 07.09.1946. The appellants produced photocopies of all other resolutions, government orders and sale deed in favour of their vendor O.A. Majid Khan by the Municipality. The failure to produce the originals or certified copies of other documents was properly explained as being untraceable after the death of the brother of P.W.1 who looked after property matters. The attempt to procure certified copies from the municipality was also unsuccessful as they were informed that the original files were not traceable. The photocopies were marked as exhibits without objection. The respondents never questioned the genuineness of the same. Despite the aforesaid, and the fact that these documents were more than 30 years old, were produced from the proper custody of the appellants along with an explanation for non production of the originals, they were rejected without any valid reason holding that there could be no presumption that documents executed by a public authority had been issued in proper exercise of statutory powers. This finding in our opinion is clearly perverse in view of Section 114(e) of the Indian Evidence Act 1872, which provides that there shall be a presumption that all official acts have been regularly performed. The onus lies on the person who disputes the same to prove otherwise."

9. Similarly, an old public document also attracts the presumption of correctness which is relatable to Section 90 of the Evidence Act. The Supreme court in Lakhi Baruah v. Padma Kanta Kalita, reported at (1996) 8 SCC 357 upon considering the challenge to an old public document held thus:

"14. It will be appropriate to refer to Section 90 of the Evidence Act, 1872 which is set out hereunder:

90. Presumption as to documents thirty years old.? Where any document, purporting or proved to be thirty years old, is produced from any custody which the Court in the particular case considers proper, the Court may presume that the signature and every other part of such document, which purports to be in the handwriting of any particular person, is in that person?s handwriting, and, in the case of a document executed or attested, that it was duly executed and attested by the persons by whom it purports to be executed and attested.

15. Section 90 of the Evidence Act, 1872 is founded on necessity and convenience because it is extremely difficult and sometimes not possible to lead evidence to prove handwriting, signature or execution of old documents after lapse of thirty years. In order to obviate such difficulties or improbabilities to prove execution of an old document, Section 90 has been incorporated in the Evidence Act, 1872 which does away with the strict rule of proof of private documents. Presumption of genuineness may be raised if the documents in question is produced from proper custody. It is, however, the discretion of the court to accept the presumption flowing from Section 90. There is, however, no manner of doubt that judicial discretion under Section 90 should not be exercised arbitrarily and not being informed by reasons."

10. In this case the offending document dated 04.10.1978 was in the nature of a public document having been issued by a statutory authority upon enquiry. The document being an old one and having been produced by credible person attracts the presumption of correctness as laid down in Lakhi Baruah (supra).

11. The learned appellate court dwelt at length on the objection to the admissibility of the said document and held as under:

"Point for determination number three:-

Learned counsel for the respondent has referred to order of the Assistant Commissioner Jhansi Division dated October 4, 1978, passed by him in inquiry under section 6 of the Hindu Public Religious Institution (Prevention from Dissipation of Properties (Temporary Powers) Act, 1962. Copy of whic his on file as 35C/169C. Perusal of this order shows that there was a dispute between the original plaintiff and original defendant regarding the management of the properties of the same deity and inquiry was done by the then Assistant Commissioner of Jhansi Division, the original plaintiff, had objected to the appointment of the original defendant as Shebait of the temple as he was not fit for this job on various grounds. An inquiry was conducted by the Assistant Commissioner and during this inquiry, it was found by him and was held by him that the original defendant, who appeared before the impugned inquiry, was not a person of sound mind and hence he was not able to manage the properties of the temple. He, thus rejected the claim of original defendant and the original plaintiff as well and appointed a receiver to look after the affairs of and management of the temple and its properties. This order became final between the parties.

Learned counsel for the respondent has raised preliminary objection regarding the maintainability, rather admissibility of copy of this order on the ground that since it was filed during the time of hearing of application under Section 5 Limitation Act, filed for condoning the delay in finding the present appeal and was not filed are admitted by the Court under Order 41 Rule 27 Civil Procedure Code, hence it cannot be looked into also that it was photocopy of a certified copy, I am unable to accept this argument because after the decision of application under Section 5 Limitation Act, the papers and file became a part and parcel of the present appeal and also that when this paper was considered by my learned predecessor at the time of decision of application under section 5 Limitation Act for condonation of delay in filing the present appeal, no such objection regarding photocopy was raised and the order condoning delay also shows that this point, and finding of the Assistant Commissioner in this order was the main ground for correlation of delay.

Hence it is established that since the ex parte judgment under attack in the present appeal was passed on August 20, 1979, whereas the order of the Assistant Commissioner was passed on October 4, 1978 in the above noted proceedings in which the original plaintiff was a party, hence this finding was known to the original plaintiff during the pendency of the original suit number 469 of 1975 that the original defendant was person of unsound mind doing the proceedings in that original suit. The record of the lower court file also shows that no steps were taken by the original plaintiff for appointment of guardian ad litem of the insane original defendant and the proceedings were done by the court below without appointing such a guardian. When the original defendant became insane during the proceedings, all the powers of attorney, if any, executed by him lost its legal significance.

On the basis of above discussion, I am of the considered view that the Court below committed illegality by completely ignoring of provisions of law contained in order 32 Rule 15 of the Civil Procedure Code in commencing the proceedings and passing the impugned judgment and decree without appointing the Guardian of the original defendant who was a person of sound mind at the time during the pendency of the proceedings in original suit before him. The point for determination number three is answered accordingly."

12. No exception can be taken to the reasoning or the analysis of the learned appellate court in the impugned order. The impugned order is liable to be affirmed and the appeal fails.

13. The instant appeal is dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellant.

2. By way of this appeal, The New India Assurance Company Limited has challenged the award dated 23.8.2004 passed by Workmen's Compensation Commissioner, Assistant Labour Commissioner, Kanpur Region, Kanpur in Case No.WCA 121 of 2003 awarding compensation of Rs.211790/-with interest at the rate of 6%.

3. The brief facts leading to the litigation as culled out from the judgment are that a claim was filed by the claimants claiming compensation for the loss of their breadwinner who admittedly was a cleaner on the vehicle owned by the the respondent - owner and on the fateful date i.e.22.5.2003 the vehicle met with an accident. A claim petition was filed before the Workmen's Compensation Commissioner, Kanpur claiming a sum of Rs.4,23,580/- with 12% rate of interest.

4. The respondent no.1 has admitted the fact that the deceased was employed with him and the vehicle was insured with the insurance company. After elaborate evidence being laid the learned Commissioner awarded the award in favour of the claimant. I have even perused the Annexure No.2 of the investigating officer but nowhere it has been mentioned that the vehicle was not insured. A private investigation was never examined. Hence, the same could have not been relied. The FIR is very elaborate the insured truck was involved in the accident. All these being questions of facts have been considered by the Court below.

5. On perusal of memo of appeal, this Court finds that following substantial questions of law have been framed by the appellant:

"i) Whether in view of the law that the deceased motorcyclist being a "Third Party" vis-a-vis the offending truck no. HR-38 C-4849, the claimant / respondent no. 1 had the remedy of filing a claim petition under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act before the concerned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal has the learned Commissioner erred in entertaining the present petition under the provisions of the Workmens' Compensation Act merely because the deceased was allegedly employed as a cleaner on the insured truck at the relevant time ?

ii) Whether in view of the admitted fact that neither the insured truck no. UP-70 D-9927 was involved in the accident nor the accident had occurred due to the use of the insured truck, has the learned Commissioner erred in fastening the liability to pay the assessed compensation on the appellant insurance company, merely because the deceased was allegedly employed on the insured truck at the relevant time ?

iii) Whether in view of the fact that the opposite party / respondent no. 2 i.e. the alleged employer had not appeared on the witness stand before the learned Commissioner nor the claimant / respondent no. 1 could lead any documentary evidence in support of her contentions regarding the employment and income of the deceased, has the learned Commissioner erred in ignoring the evidence of the appellant insurance company that the deceased was not an employee of the aforesaid opposite party / respondent no. 2 ?

6. The facts narrated above in nutshell will have to evaluated in view of the judgments of the Apex Court in C. Manjammu V. Divisional Manager, New India Assurance Company Limited reported in 2022 ACJ 2661.The finding of facts are said to be perverse where no evidence is adduced by the party in whose favour decision is penned. The commissioner has considered evidence led by the claimants as well as the evidence led by the insurance company. The findings are not such which can be said to be perverse. Just because another vehicle is involved in the accident will the claim petition before Workman Compensation Commissioner be not maintainable. The said question raised by the insurance is answered by the legislation itself and Section 167 of the Motor Vehicle Act, 1988 gives the option to the claimants to claim compensation under either of the Acts. In our case the Commissioner cannot be said to have gone beyond his jurisdiction. The question no.2 is answered in question itself first the deceased was held to be employed on the insured truck and then he is submitted that other owner of other vehicle is not party and the liability would be that of the insurance company. Issue no.3 is a finding of fact and in view of the decision of Apex Court in C. Manjammu (supra) this Court cannot delve into the same.

7. At the outset, it is relevant to discuss the scope of this Court to entertain appeal against the award of Workmen's Compensation Commissioner.

8. The Apex Court in Civil Appeal No.7470 of 2009 North East Karnataka Road Transport Corporation Vs. Smt. Sujatha decided on 2.11.2018 has held as under :

"9. At the outset, we may take note of the fact, being a settled principle, that the question as to whether the employee met with an accident, whether the accident occurred during the course of employment, whether it arose out of an employment, how and in what manner the accident occurred, who was negligent in causing the accident, whether there existed any relationship of employee and employer, what was the age and monthly salary of the employee, how many are the dependents of the deceased employee due to injuries suffered in an accident, whether there was any insurance coverage obtained by the employer to cover the incident etc. are some of the material issues which arise for the just decision of the Commissioner in a claim petition when an employee suffers any bodily injury or dies during the course of his employment and he/his LRS sue/s his employer to claim compensation under the Act.

10. The aforementioned questions are essentially the questions of fact and, therefore, they are required to be proved with the aid of evidence. Once, they are proved either way, the findings recorded thereon are regarded as findings of fact."

9. The Apex Court further went on to hold as under :

"15. Such appeal is then heard on the question of admission with a view to find out as to whether it involves any substantial question of law or not. Whether the appeal involves a substantial question of law or not depends upon the facts of each case and needs an examination by the High Court. If the substantial question of law arises, the High Court would admit the appeal for final hearing on merit else would dismiss in limini with reasons that it does not involve any substantial question/s of law.

16. Now coming to the facts of this case, we find that the appeal before the High Court did not involve any substantial question of law on the material questions set out above. In other words, in our view, the Commissioner decided all the material questions arising in the case properly on the basis of evidence adduced by the parties and rightly determined the compensation payable to the respondent. It was, therefore, rightly affirmed by the High Court on facts.

17. In this view of the matter, the findings being concurrent findings of fact of the two courts below are binding on this Court. Even otherwise, we find no good ground to call for any interference on any of the factual findings. None of the factual findings are found to be either perverse or arbitrary or based on no evidence or against any provision of law. We accordingly uphold these findings."

10. This Court, recently in F.A.F.O. 1070 of 1993 (E.S.I.C. Vs. S. Prasad) decided on 26.10.2017 has followed the decision in Golla Rajana (Supra) and has held as follows:

"The grounds urged before this Court are in the realm of finding of facts and not a question of law. As far as question of law is concerned, the aforesaid judgment in Golla Rajanna Etc. Etc. Versus Divisional Manager and another (supra) in paragraph 8 holds as follows "the Workman Compensation Commissioner is the last authority on facts. The Parliament has thought it fit to restrict the scope of the appeal only to substantial questions of law, being a welfare legislation. Unfortunately, the High Court has missed this crucial question of limited jurisdiction and has ventured to re-appreciate the evidence and recorded its own findings on percentage of disability for which also there is no basis."

11. As far as present appeal is concerned, the so called substantial questions of law framed are questions of facts and the findings of the Commissioner on the said issues are not perverse. In view of the decision of the Apex Court in North East Karnataka Road Transport Corporation Case (Supra) and Golla Rajanna Etc. Etc. Vs. Divisional Manager and Another, 2017 (1) TAC 259 (SC) where also it has been held that under Section 30 of the E.C. Act, 1923, the High Court cannot enter into the arena of facts unless they are proved to be perverse.

12. A recent decision of the Apex Court in the case of Mayan Vs. Mustafa and another, 2022 ACJ 524 also holds that the Court cannot interfere unless there is a question of law involved. In our case the injury was during the course of employment. The percentage of injury was decided by the Commissioner. The judgment of Apex Court in Salim Versus New India Assurance Co.Ltd. and another, 2022 ACJ 526 will also not permit this Court to interfere in the well reasoned judgment of the Commissioner.

13. This Court is even fortified in its view in Shahajahan and another Versus

M/s Shri Ram Gen. Insurance Company Ltd. and another, 2021(4) T.A.C. 687 (S.C.) as it is proved that the claimant was employee of the employer and was engaged as a cleaner, the said factual finding cannot be interfered by this Court.

14. In that view of the matter this appeal fails and is dismissed. The so called questions of law framed by the Insurance Company are answered against it. In fact the substantial questions of law raised are the questions of fact.

15. Interim relief shall stand vacated forthwith. The Registry will forward this order to the W.C. Commissioner who shall immediately summon the claimants and disburse the amount kept in fixed deposit with interest accrued on the said amount till date within 30 days from today.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860—Section 302—Murder—Criminal Procedure Code, 1973—Section 378(3)—Appeals against acquittal—Scope of interference by appellate court—Principles reiterated–If view taken by trial court in acquitting accused is one of possible reasonable views - appellate court should generally not interfere with order of acquittal—Prosecution failed to establish a complete chain of circumstances—Evidence scanty–No substantial and compelling reasons to interfere with acquittal order–.

1. This appeal under Section 378 (3) of Criminal Procedure Code (in short 'Cr.P.C.'), at the behest of the State, has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 7.1.1993, passed by learned IInd Additional Sessions Judge, Jalaun, at Orai, in Criminal Case No.145 of 1992 (State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Badri Lodhi), under Sections 302 of Indian Penal Code (hereinafter referred to as 'I.P.C.') and also under Section 3(2)(v) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, Police Station-Kotwali Orai, District Jalaun, whereby the learned trial-court acquitted the accused-respondent.

2. The brief facts of this case are that in the night intervening between May 7 & 8, 1992 at about mid-night in village Dhamni, Police Station Kotwali Orai, District Jalaun the accused Badri Lodhi shot dead by fire arm the son of the informant when the deceased was sleeping on cot in the front of his shop.

3. The case was registered at Police Station Kotwali Orai on 8.5.1992 at 3:30 a.m. The written report is said to have been scribed by Sukh Lal Chamar of village Dhamni. It is claimed by the prosecution that at that time the first informant Tundey reached the police station to make over the said written FIR to the police on the basis of which the chik was scribed being Ex.Ka. 3 and the case was registered in the G.D. Vide Ex.Ka. 4. It was alleged by Tundey in Ex.Ka. 2 that he was Chamar by caste and that in the village there were complaints of easy virtues of the wife of Maheshwari Lodhi and it was generally said by the persons in the village that the said wife of Maheshwari Lodhi was maintaining illicit illusion relation with the son of complainant and due to this the accused was having enmity with the deceased, the son of Tundey. It was averred in the FIR that on account of this reason accused Badri Lodhi was harbouring animosity against the deceased and therefore, in the relevant night of the incident at about dead of night when the deceased was sleeping on a cot infront of his shop where the electricity was burning, the accused holding a gun in his hand came from eastern direction and with a view eliminating the deceased discharged a fire on the deceased injuring him in the right side of abdomen. The version in the FIR onwards was that on the outcries of the deceased, Tundey, his wife and his younger brother Sant Ram as also witness Chhakki immediately reached the spot and saw that the accused was running away towards west having shot at the deceased, who could not be apprehended despite efforts being made by Tundey and others. After the incident, the injured was taken to hospital but he breathed his lost on the way at Orai. It was alleged that the dead body was kept in the hospital and villagers were present.

4. On the basis of this written report, a case was registered against the accused by by the informant-Tundey (PW-2) at Police Station Kotwali Orai on 8.5.1992 at 3:30 a.m.. After registration of the case, the investigation followed. The Investigating Officer recorded the statements of the complainant and other witnesses, visited the site and prepared the site-plan. After investigation, the Investigating Officer of the case submitted charge-sheet against the accused-Badri Lodhi.

5. Accused-Badri Lodhi was charged under Sections 302 of the Indian Penal Code and also under Section 3(2)(v) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act. The case being exclusively triable by court of session was committed for trial to the court of session by competent Magistrate. Accused person denied charges and claimed to be tried.

6. To bring home the charges, the prosecution produced following witnesses, namely:

1.	Dr. A.K. Saxena	PW 1
2.	Tunde	PW2
3.	Chakki	PW3
4.	Sant Ram	PW4
5.	Subhash Chandra Sakya	PW5

7. In support of the ocular version of the witnesses, following documents were produced and contents were proved by leading evidence:

1.	Postmortum Report	Ex.ka 1
2.	Written report	Ex.ka 2
3.	First Information Report	Ex.ka 3
4.	General Diary	Ex.ka 4
5.	G.D. Report	Ex.ka 5
6.	Panchayatnama and connected papers	Ex.ka 6 to Ka 10
7.	Site Plan with index	Ex.ka 11
8.	Recovery memo of Blood Stained & plain earth	Ex.ka 12

8. After prosecution evidence, the accused person was examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. in which he told that false evidence has been led against him.

9. We have heard Patanjali Mishra, learned AGA for the State-appellant, Sri Surendra Singh, learned counsel for accused- respondent and perused the record.

10. Before we embark on testimony and the judgment of the Court below, the contours for interfering in Criminal Appeals where accused has been held to be non guilty would require to be discussed.

11. The principles, which would govern and regulate the hearing of an appeal by this Court against an order of acquittal, passed by the trial Court, have been very succinctly explained by the Apex Court in catena of decisions. In the case of M.S. Narayana Menon @ Mani vs. State of Kerala and another, (2006) 6 S.C.C. 39, the Apex Court has narrated the powers of the High Court in appeal against the order of acquittal. In para 54 of the decision, the Apex Court has observed as under:

"54. In any event the High Court entertained an appeal treating to be an appeal against acquittal, it was in fact exercising the revisional jurisdiction. Even while exercising an appellate power against a judgment of acquittal, the High Court should have borne in mind the well settled principles of law that where two view are possible, the appellate Court should not interfere with the finding of acquittal recorded by the Court below."

12. Further, in the case of Chandrappa vs. State of Karnataka, reported in (2007) 4 S.C.C. 415, the Apex Court laid down the following principles;

"42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate Court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

[1] An appellate Court has full power to review, re-appreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

[2] The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate Court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

[3] Various expressions, such as,"substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtain extensive powers of an appellate Court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasis the reluctance of an appellate Court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the Court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

[4] An appellate Court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent Court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial Court.

[5] If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court."

13. Thus, it is a settled principle that while exercising appellate powers, even if two reasonable views/conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court.

14. Even in the case of State of Goa vs. Sanjay Thakran and another, reported in (2007) 3 S.C.C. 75, the Apex Court has reiterated the powers of the High Court in such cases. In para 16 of the said decision, the Court has observed as under:

"16. From the aforesaid decisions, it is apparent that while exercising the powers in appeal against the order of acquittal the Court of appeal would not ordinarily interfere with the order of acquittal unless the approach of the lower Court is vitiated by some manifest illegality and the conclusion arrived at would not be arrived at by any reasonable person and, therefore, the decision is to be characterized as perverse. Merely because two views are possible, the Court of appeal would not take the view which would upset the judgment delivered by the Court below. However, the appellate Court has a power to review the evidence if it is of the view that the conclusion arrived at by the Court below is perverse and the Court has committed a manifest error of law and ignored the material evidence on record. A duty is cast upon the appellate Court, in such circumstances, to re-appreciate the evidence to arrive to a just decision on the basis of material placed on record to find out whether any of the accused is connected with the commission of the crime he is charged with."

15. Similar principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in cases of State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Ram Veer Singh and others, 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5553 and in Girja Prasad (Dead) by L.R.s vs. State of MP, 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5589. Thus, the powers, which this Court may exercise against an order of acquittal, are well settled.

16. In the case of Luna Ram vs. Bhupat Singh and others, reported in (2009) SCC 749, the Apex Court in para 10 and 11 has held as under:

"10. The High Court has noted that the prosecution version was not clearly believable. Some of the so called eye witnesses stated that the deceased died because his ankle was twisted by an accused. Others said that he was strangulated. It was the case of the prosecution that the injured witnesses were thrown out of the bus. The doctor who conducted the postmortem and examined the witnesses had categorically stated that it was not possible that somebody would throw a person out of the bus when it was in running condition.

11. Considering the parameters of appeal against the judgment of acquittal, we are not inclined to interfere in this appeal. The view of the High Court cannot be termed to be perverse and is a possible view on the evidence."

17. Even in a recent decision of the Apex Court in the case of Mookkiah and another vs. State Representatives by the Inspector of Police, Tamil Nadu, reported in AIR 2013 SC 321, the Apex Court in para 4 has held as under:

"4. It is not in dispute that the trial Court, on appreciation of oral and documentary evidence led in by the prosecution and defence, acquitted the accused in respect of the charges leveled against them. On appeal by the State, the High Court, by impugned order, reversed the said decision and convicted the accused under Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC and awarded RI for life. Since counsel for the appellants very much emphasized that the High Court has exceeded its jurisdiction in upsetting the order of acquittal into conviction, let us analyze the scope and power of the High Court in an appeal filed against the order of acquittal. This Court in a series of decisions has repeatedly laid down that as the first appellate court the High Court, even while dealing with an appeal against acquittal, was also entitled, and obliged as well, to scan through and if need be reappreciate the entire evidence, though while hoosing to interfere only the court should find an absolute assurance of the guilt on the basis of the evidence on record and not merely because the High Court could take one more possible or a different view only. Except the above, where the matter of the extent and depth of consideration of the appeal is concerned, no distinctions or differences in approach are envisaged in dealing with an appeal as such merely because one was against conviction or the other against an acquittal. [Vide State of Rajasthan vs. Sohan Lal and Others, (2004) 5 SCC 573]"

18. It is also a settled legal position that in acquittal appeals, the appellate Court is not required to rewrite the judgment or to give fresh reasonings, when the reasons assigned by the Court below are found to be just and proper. Such principle is laid down by the Apex Court in the case of State of Karnataka vs. Hemareddy, AIR 1981, SC 1417, wherein it is held as under:

" ... This Court has observed in Girija Nandini Devi V. Bigendra Nandini Choudhary (1967) 1 SCR 93:(AIR 1967 SC 1124) that it is not the duty of the Appellate Court on the evidence to repeat the narration of the evidence or to reiterate the reasons given by the trial Court expression of general agreement with the reasons given by the Court the decision of which is under appeal, will ordinarily suffice."

19. In a recent decision, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Shivasharanappa and others vs. State of Karnataka, JT 2013 (7) SC 66 has held as under:

"That appellate Court is empowered to reappreciate the entire evidence, though, certain other principles are also to be adhered to and it has to be kept in mind that acquittal results into double presumption of innocence."

20. Further, in the case of State of Punjab vs. Madan Mohan Lal Verma, (2013) 14 SCC 153, the Apex Court has held as under:

"The law on the issue is well settled that demand of illegal gratification is sine qua non for constituting an offence under the 1988 Act. Mere recovery of tainted money is not sufficient to convict the accused when substantive evidence in the case is not reliable, unless there is evidence to prove payment of bribe or to show that the money was taken voluntarily as a bribe. Mere receipt of the amount by the accused is not sufficient to fasten guilt, in the absence of any evidence with regard to demand and acceptance of the amount as illegal gratification. Hence, the burden rests on the accused to displace the statutory presumption raised under Section 20 of the 1988 Act, by bringing on record evidence, either direct or circumstantial, to establish with reasonable probability, that the money was accepted by him, other than as a motive or reward as referred to in Section 7 of the 1988 Act. While invoking the provisions of Section 20 of the Act, the court is required to consider the explanation offered by the accused, if any, only on the touchstone of preponderance of probability and not on the touchstone of proof beyond all reasonable doubt. However, before the accused is called upon to explain how the amount in question was found in his possession, the foundational facts must be established by the prosecution. The complainant is an interested and partisan witness concerned with the success of the trap and his evidence must be tested in the same way as that of any other interested witness. In a proper case, the court may look for independent corroboration before convincing the accused person."

21. The Apex Court recently in Jayaswamy vs. State of Karnataka, (2018) 7 SCC 219, has laid down the principles for laying down the powers of appellate court in re-appreciating the evidence in a case where the State has preferred an appeal against acquittal, which read as follows:

"10. It is by now well settled that the Appellate Court hearing the appeal filed against the judgment and order of acquittal will not overrule or otherwise disturb the Trial Court's acquittal if the Appellate Court does not find substantial and compelling reasons for doing so. If the Trial Court's conclusion with regard to the facts is palpably wrong; if the Trial Court's decision was based on erroneous view of law; if the Trial Court's judgment is likely to result in grave miscarriage of justice; if the entire approach of the Trial Court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal; if the Trial Court judgment was manifestly unjust and unreasonable; and if the Trial Court has ignored the evidence or misread the material evidence or has ignored material documents like dying declaration/report of the ballistic expert etc. the same may be construed as substantial and compelling reasons and the first appellate court may interfere in the order of acquittl. However, if the view taken by the Trial Court while acquitting the accused is one of the possible views under the facts and circumstances of the case, the Appellate Court generally will not interfere with the order of acquittal particularly in the absence of the aforementioned factors.

.....It is relevant to note the observations of this Court in the case of Ramanand Yadav vs. Prabhu Nath Jha & Ors., (2003) 12 SCC 606, which reads thus:

"21.There is no embargo on the appellate court reviewing the evidence upon which an order of acquittal is based. Generally, the order of acquittal shall not be interfered with because the presumption of innocence of the accused is further strengthened by acquittal. The golden thread which runs through the web of administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. The paramount consideration of the court is to ensure that miscarriage of justice is prevented. A miscarriage of justice which may arise from acquittal of the guilty is no less than from the conviction of an innocent. In a case where admissible evidence is ignored, a duty is cast upon the appellate court to re-appreciate the evidence in a case where the accused has been acquitted, for the purpose of ascertaining as to whether any of the accused committed any offence or not."

22. The Apex Court recently in Shailendra Rajdev Pasvan v. State of Gujarat, (2020) 14 SC 750, has held that the appellate court is reversing the trial court's order of acquittal, it should give proper weight and consideration to the presumption of innocence in favour of accused, and to the principle that such a presumption sands reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court and in Samsul Haque v. State of Assam, (2019) 18 SCC 161 held that judgment of acquittal, where two views are possible, should not be set aside, even if view formed by appellate court may be a more probable one, interference with acquittal can only be justified when it is based on a perverse view.

23. We have perused the depositions of prosecution witnesses, documentary evidence supporting ocular versions, arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties. We have been taken through the record. We are unable to accept the submissions of the State counsel for the following reasons and the judgments of the Apex Court which lay down the criteria for consideration of appeals against acquittal. The chain has been found to be incomplete. While going through the judgment it is very clear that the court below has given a categorical finding that the evidence is so scanty that the accused cannot be punished /convicted for the offences for which he was charged. The factual scenario in the present case will not permit us to take a different view then that taken by the court below. In that view of the matter we are unable to satisfy ourselves. Thus we concur the findings of the court below.

24. After considering the facts and circumstances of the present case and appraisal of the evidence available on record and on the contours laid down by the judgment of the Apex Court, we have no other option but to concur with the reasoning of acquittal recorded by the learned Sessions Judge for the aforesaid reasons.

25. The appeal sans merits and is dismissed. The record and proceedings be sent back to the Court below. The bail and bail bonds are cancelled.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Vishnu Singh, Counsel for the petitioner. Nobody appeared for the contesting respondents.

2. Brief facts of the case are that petitioner filed a suit under Section 229B of the UP Z.A. & L.R. Act claiming co-tenancy right in respect to the plot in suit situated in village Bharlai, Paragna Sheopur, District Varanasi with the allegation that plot in dispute is ancestral and after death of common ancestor plaintiff and defendant no. 1 become owner in possession of the plot in dispute. It is also alleged in the plaint that plaintiff's father deposited the amount and obtained bhumidhari sanad on 10.01.1950 but after death of plaintiff's father the name of defendant no. 1 was only recorded in the revenue records hence the suit. Defendant-respondents filed written statement in the aforementioned suit denying the plaint allegations and in the additional statement it has been alleged that plaintiff has surrendered the land in question in 1912 and since then respondents have been in continuous possession of the plot in question. It is further alleged that on the basis of surrender of the land plaintiff's rights has been extinguished. Trial Court vide judgment and decree dated 16.02.1976 dismissed the plaintiff's suit. Against the decree of the Trial Court dated 16.02.1976 petitioner filed an appeal before the Commissioner which was allowed vide judgment dated 14.10.1977. Against the judgment of the First Appellate Court dated 14.10.1977 second appeal No. 15 of 1977-78 was filed before the Board of Revenue by the defendants, the second appeal No. 15 of 1977-78 was heard by Board of Revenue and vide order dated 31.07.1978 allowed the second appeal setting aside the judgment and decree of First Appellate Court and the judgment of the Trial Court was affirmed. Against the judgment of Second Appellate Court dated 31.07.1978 petitioner filed Writ Petition No. 9421 of 1978 which was allowed by this Court vide judgment dated 25.09.1985 and remanded the matter before the Board of Revenue to decide the second appeal afresh in accordance with law. After remand order dated 25.09.1985 passed by this Court second appeal was heard by Board of Revenue afresh and vide judgment dated 28.12.1988 the second appeal was allowed again setting aside the judgment and decree of First Appellate Court date 14.10.1977 hence this writ petition. This Court while entertaining the writ petition on 28.03.1989 passed the following interim order:

"Issue notice.

Till further orders of this Court, the operation of the order dated 28.12.1988 passed by respondent no.1 shall remain stayed."

3. In pursuance of the order dated 28.03.1989 contesting respondents put in appearance through Counsel and filed counter-affidavit. Petitioner has filed his rejoinder-affidavit also to the counter-affidavit filed by respondent no. 4.

4. Counsel for the petitioner submitted that plot in dispute is ancestral and placed the following pedigree in order to demonstrate that plaintiff Ram Naresh was co-sharer/co-tenant of the plot in dispute:-

5. Counsel for the petitioner further submitted that Board of Revenue has committed manifest error of law in accepting the case of surrender when all the courts had held that property is joint and comes down from a common ancestor and the case of surrender had been rejected by this Hon'ble Court. He further submitted that Second Appellate Court has no jurisdiction to reappraise the evidence and interfered with the finding of fact recorded by First Appellate Court. He further submitted that First Appellate Court after considering the evidence on record has recorded finding of fact that merely because the petitioner's father started living in his Sasural his valuable right will not be extinguished but the Board of Revenue has erred in holding otherwise. He further submitted that possession of one co-sharer is the possession of all over the joint land as such the finding with respect to possession could not be interfered with in second appeal. He further submitted that the admission of the petitioner was considered even by this Court while deciding the writ petition filed by the petitioner against the order of Board of Revenue and has held that it did not make out a case of ouster. He further submitted that impugned order passed by the Board of Revenue is wholly illegal, without jurisdiction and manifestly erroneous as such the same is liable to quashed. learned. Counsel for the petitioner placed reliance upon the judgment reported in 1966 ALJ 1063 Bechu Vs. Board of Revenue & Ors 1982 RD 217 Jaggu & Anr. Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation 2017 (6) ADJ 356 (DB) Ram Briksha & Anr. Vs. Deputy Director Consolidation and Ors.

6. I have considered the arguments advanced by learned Counsel for the petitioner and perused the record.

7. There is no dispute about the fact that petitioner and respondent no. 4 are Co-Bhumidhar of the plot in dispute. There is also no dispute about the fact that suit under Section 229B of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act filed by the petitioner was dismissed by the Trial Court but in the first appeal the decree of the Trial Court was reversed and plaintiff's suit was decreed. There is also no dispute about the fact that in second appeal the Board of Revenue has set aside the judgment and decree of First Appellate Court and restored the decree of the Trial Court. There is also no dispute about the fact that in writ petition filed by petitioner against the judgment of the Second Appellate Court, the judgment and decree of the Second Appellate Court was set aside and the matter was remanded back before the Second Appellate Court to decide the second appeal afresh but the Second Appellate Court again allowed the second appeal affirming the judgment of the Trial Court by which the plaintiff's suit was dismissed.

8. The plaint allegation as set up in the suit was that parties are co-sharer as such the plaintiff is entitled to the co-tenancy right in the disputed plot. So far as the plea of ouster is concerned, there was no plea regarding that in the written statement as such Board of Revenue had no jurisdiction to entertain the plea in the second appellate jurisdiction and dismissed the plaintiff's suit. This Court while allowing the writ petition against the first order of the Second Appellate Court has recorded finding that the word ouster has not been used in the written statement nor such a plea was specifically raised in the written statement.

9. So far as the plea of surrender of the land in dispute by the plaintiff is concerned, this plea has already discussed by the Trial Court while deciding the suit. Decision of trial court on issue No. 3 relating to plea of surrender as set up by defendant is relevant for perusal which is as under:-

प्रतिवादी की ओर से असल दस्तवरदारी दि० 10.1.1912 नविस्ता सुखू बहक युद्धदीन प्रस्तुत की गई है दस्तबरदारी के हासिये के गवाह रामदेव डी०डब्लू०3 को भी प्रतिवादी की ओर से प्रस्तुत किया गया है। वादी की ओर से केवल इस दस्तबरदारी का तहरीर करना अस्वीकार किया है।

इस सम्बन्ध में मैंने दोनों पक्षों के विद्वान वकीलों के तर्क ध्यान पूर्वक सुने हैं। वादी के विद्वान वकील का तर्क है कि कथित दस्तबरदारी पूर्णतयः फर्जी है तथा में पढ़ने व कत्तई मानने योग्य नहीं है विद्वान वकील का तर्क है कि रामदेव गवाह स्वयं अपनी जन्म तिथि 1901 ई० बताता है यदि कथित दस्तबरदारी 1912 में लिखी गई थी तो उस समय यह गवाह मात्र 11-12 साल का रहा होगा। ऐसी स्थिति में यह दस्तावेज स्वयं फर्जी सिद्ध हो जाता है। विद्वान वकील का दूसरा तर्क है कि दस्तबरदारी 200 रूपया में लिखी गयी थी। न तो उसे रजिस्टर्ड कराया गया था और न वह कभी कागजात माल में एक्ट बयान हुई विद्वान वकील के खतोनी 1356 फ० जो वादी ने प्रस्तुत की है की और ध्यान आकर्षित करते हुये कहा है कि यदि कथित दस्तबरदारी वास्तव में सही होती तो 1356 फ० मैं सुखूँ असल तनाह कास्तकार दर्ज न होगा।

प्रतिवादी के विद्वान वकील का तर्क है कि दस्तबरदारी 30 वर्ष पुराना document है इसलिये उसे evidence में पढ़ा जाना चाहिये। विद्वान वकील ने यह भी तर्क किया है कि भारतीय गवाह प्रायः अनपढ़ होते हैं अतः उन्हें सन् आदि का सही ज्ञान नहीं होता। डी०डब्लू 3 रामदेव ने जहां अपना 1901 ई० में होना बताया है वही अपनी आयु 84 वर्ष होना भी कहा है। उससे स्पष्ट है कि उसे अपनी जन्म की सन् सही नहीं मालूम। विद्वान वकील ने रजिस्ट्री न कराये जाने के सम्बन्ध में कोई संतोषप्रद तर्क नहीं किया है जहां तक इस दस्तबरदारी के एक्ट अपान होने का सम्बन्ध है प्रतिवादी के विद्वान वकील ने कहा है कि कागजात माल में लगातार प्रतिवादी का यह नाम चला आना व तनाह काविज रहना स्वयं दस्तबरदारी की existence व उस पर Act upon करने की बात सिद्ध करते हैं।

दोनों पक्षों के विद्वान वकीलों को सुनने तथा सम्बन्धित साक्ष्य को देखने से उपरान्त में यह निष्कर्ष निकालता हूँ कि कथित दस्तबरदारी technically proved नहीं है न apparently act upon की गई है न evidence में पढ़ने योग्य है। दस्तबरदारी पर आधारित प्रतिवादीगण का case technically proved नहीं होता। प्रश्नगत वाद विन्दु इसलिये नकारात्मक निर्णीत किया जाता है।

10. Since the First Appellate Court has recorded finding of fact while allowing the appeal of the plaintiff and decreeing the plaintiff's suit that plaintiff and defendant are member of the family and possession of one co-sharer is possession of all, as such merely by living/residing in the Sasural, the plaintiff will not be deprived of his right in the plot in dispute, the findings recorded by the First Appellate Court will be relevant for perusal, which is as follows:-

"वाद बिन्दु नं० 3 में अवर न्यायालय ने तनकीह बनाई है कि क्या सुक्खू ने आराजी निजाई में अपना कुल हक व हिस्सा बहक पुदीन पिता प्रतिवादी को दस्तवरदारी कर दी थी। इस वाद विन्दु का भी निर्णय अवर न्यायालय ने यह किया है कि कथित दस्तवरदारी प्रमाणित नहीं है। यह वाद विन्दु नकारात्मक में निर्णय किया गया है जब उपरोक्त दो तनकीहों पर फैसला वादी के पक्ष में हुआ है तब फिर वादी के दावा को मन्जूर करने में अवर न्यायालय को जो एतराज हुआ है उसको सावधानी से देखना पड़ेगा। दस्तवरदारी के दस्तावेज को अवर न्यायालय ने फर्जी होल्ड किया है दस्तवरदारी 200/- में लिखी गयी थी ऐसा कहा गया है परन्तु न तो उसे रिजस्टर्ड कराया गया और न तो उसका कभी कागजात में इन्द्राज हुआ। वादी के पिता सुक्खू 1356 फ० तक असल काश्तकार दर्ज हैं। दस्तवरदारी के आधार पर प्रतिवादीगण का केस प्रमाणित नहीं होता। परन्तु अवर न्यायालय पर इस बात का प्रभाव जरूर पड़ा है कि प्रतिवादी असर्दाराज से तनहा काविज चला जाता है और वादी के दावे से तमादी खारिज हो गया है क्योंकि वादी के पिता सुक्खू ससुराल चला गया था और इस कारण लम्बे अर्से से उसका आराजी निजाई से कोई संबंध नहीं रहा। इस कारण प्रतिवादी कब्जा मुखालिफाना से तनहा मालिक हो चुका है और दावा टाइमवार्ड है। जो महत्वपूर्ण तनकीह हैं। उन पर अवर न्यायालय का आदेश वादी के माफिक होने पर भी वादी के पिता का दूसरे गॉव में चला जाना, अपने ससुराल में जाकर रहने लगा इसे बड़ा अपराध माना गया कि उसके दावे में तमादी खारिज हो गयी। जबकि ससुराल किसी फारेन कन्ट्री में नहीं है और न वादी के पिता की नागरिकता में कोई अन्तर आया है यह भारत के आंचलिक प्रदेशों की पिछड़ी हुई जन भावना का फल है कि ससुराल को भी परदेश मान बैठे और ससुराल जाने से आदमी अपना हक खो बैठता है।

उपरोक्त विवेचना के अनुसार में इस अपील को मन्जूर करता हूं, अवर न्यायालय का आदेश रद्द किया जाता है और वादी प्रतिवादीगण के साथ सहसीरदार घोषित किया जाता है। हिस्से का प्रश्न धारा 229 बी जेड०ए०एण्ड एल०आर० एक्ट के मुकदमें में नहीं उठाया जा सकता। अतः इस पर निर्णय देना आवश्यक नहीं है।

11. The Second Appellate Court has exercised his second appellate jurisdiction and allowed the second appeal which has been mentioned by this Court while allowing the writ petition No. 9421 of 1978 filed by petitioner vide order dated 25.09.1985, the relevant portion of the judgment of this Court regarding exercise of the second appellate jurisdiction is as follows:-

"The question now arises as to which court should be directed to give a fresh decision. The first appellate Court has decreed the suit. I see no reason as to why the petitioner should be deprived of the finding given by the first appellate court in his favour. I, therefore, consider it appropriate Court in his favour. I, therefore, consider it appropriate that the Board of Revenue should be hear the appeal and give a fresh decision."

12. The case law cited by learned counsel for the petitioner in Bechu (supra), Jaggu (supra) and Ram Briksha (supra), are relevant for consideration.

13. In Ram Briksha (supra), it has been held by the Division Bench of this Court that right of co-sharer will not be defeated due to non-claiming of partition of joint share and separate cheque in joint property during consolidation proceeding and even the right of co-sharer will not come to an end under Section 49 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act. Paragraph No. 36 to 39 of the judgment Ram Briksha (supra) will be relevant which are as follows:-

"36. On these parameters, the issues that have been raised before us are being considered and in our considered opinion rights of the parties in a holding cannot be permitted to be defeated merely because they have not at all participated in consolidation proceedings and as to whether the bar of Section 49 of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 would be attracted or not would essentially be a question of fact that can be answered on the basis of evidence adduced and to the said bar in question exceptions have to be carved out wherein suit in question would be not barred and Section 49 of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 would not come into play where from the series of documents and circumstances it is reflected that planned fraud has been made to delete the plaintiffs name from the revenue records. From the record of the consolidations, it is clearly reflected that neither the incumbent, who has proceeded to get his name recorded nor consolidation authorities have proceeded to discharge their duties faithfully in consonance with the provisions of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act wherein the consolidation authorities are empowered to ascertain the share of each owner if there be more owners than one and in case such an exercise has not been undertaken, then it would be a case of legal malice and it cannot be ipso facto presumed that there has been ouster from the property in question and in such a situation an incumbent, who claims his right in the property in question has got every right to regain his property based on title for the reason that the right has been sought to be defeated based on fraud and manipulation.

The provisions of Section 49 of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 in such backdrop would not at all be attracted and the suit in question would not at all be prima facie barred where suit in question is filed for possession of the suit property based on property interest. The reference is answered as follows:

Issue No.I

37. Whether use of words "could or ought to have been taken" in latter part of Section 49 of the Act, compulsorily forces the co-sharers, who are living jointly, peacefully and have no grievance against their father/brother/co-sharer, whose name is recorded in representative capacity, or they were willing to live jointly, due to situation of their family, i.e. (father and minor son), (mother and minor son), (brother and minor brother) and (some co-sharer was student and had gone abroad for study and fully depends upon other co-sharers) etc., to file an objection under Section 9 of the Act for separation of his share?

A. Because of the words "could or ought to have been taken" in latter part of Section 49 of the Act, same does not compulsorily forces the co-sharers, who are living jointly, peacefully and have no grievance against their father/brother/co-sharer whose name is recorded in representative capacity or they were willing to live jointly due to situation of their family and who have not filed an objection under Section 49 of the Act for separation of their share inasmuch as under the provisions of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953, it is the statutory obligation cast upon the authorities and the incumbent, who has been holding the property in question in the representative capacity to get the records corrected and in case in designed manner the obligation in question has not been discharged by Consolidation Authorities as well as by the incumbent holding the property in the representative capacity, then in such a situation Section 49 of the Act would not at all be attracted and such situation would be covered under the contingency of planned fraud to drop the name of other co-sharers from the revenue records.

Issue No.II

38. Whether by operation of law, the parties can be thrown into litigation against their will/need and by not raising claim to land or partition and separation of the chak their right to property can be taken away in spite of protection available under Article 19 (1) (f) and now Article 300-A of the Constitution.

A. The answer is that a party cannot be thrown in litigation against their will/need and by not raising claim to land of partition and separation of chak, their rights to property cannot be taken away under the protection provided for under Article 19(1)(f)/Article 300-A of the Constitution of India.

Issue No.III

39. Whether, in spite of well settled legal principle in respect of joint property, right of a co-sharer will come to an end under Section 49 of the Act, on the notification under Section 52, due to not claiming partition of his share and separate chak in his name, although, there had been no ouster from joint property?

A. The rights of the co-sharers will not at all come to an end under Section 49 of the Act, on the notification under Section 52 due to not claiming partition of his share and separate chak in his name and till there is no ouster from the joint property his right in the property will continue to exist.

The reference is accordingly answered. The Writ Petition alongwith connected matters shall now be placed before the appropriate Bench according to roster for disposal in light of this judgement."

14. The Apex Court in the case of Karbalai Begum Vs. Mohd. Sayeed & Anr. reported in AIR 1981 SC 77 has also discussed the plea of Section 49 of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act as well as the right of co-sharer in respect to the joint property, the Paragraphs No. 12 to 15 of the judgment rendered in Karbalai Begum (supra) are as follows:-

"12. The last ground on which the High Court non-suited the appellant was that after the chakbandi was completed under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, the suit was barred by s. 49 of the said Act. It is well settled that unless there is an express provision barring a suit on the basis of title, the courts will not easily infer a bar of suit to establish the title of the parties. In Subha Singh v. Mahendra Singh & Ors. this Court made the following observations:-

"It was thus abundantly clear that an application for mutation on the basis of inheritance when the cause of action arose, after the finalisation and publication of the scheme under Section 23, is not a matter in regard to which an application could be filed "under the provisions of this Act" within the meaning of clause 2 of Section 49. Thus, the other limb of Section 49, also is not attracted. The result is that the plea of the bar of the civil courts' jurisdiction to investigate and adjudicate upon the title to the land or the sonship of the plaintiff has no substance."

13. In view of the clear decision of this Court, referred to above, the High Court erred in law in holding that the present suit was barred by s. 49 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act.

14. Thus, the grounds on which the High Court reversed the decision of the District Judge are not sustainable in law and the judgment of the High Court cannot be allowed to stand.

15. We, therefore, allow the appeal with costs throughout, set aside the judgment of the High Court, decree the plaintiff's suit for joint possession as far as plots Nos. 201 and 274 are concerned and restore the judgment of the District Judge. The cost allowed by this Court would be set- off against the sum of Rs. 15,000/- (fifteen thousand only) deposited by the respondents in the High Court and paid to the appellant and the balance may be refunded to the respondents."

15. On the point of exercise of Second Appellate Court jurisdiction, this Court in the case reported in 1985 RD 93 Sharda Devi Vs. Board of Revenue U.P. & Ors. has held that Second Appellate jurisdiction shall not be exercised to set aside the finding of fact recorded by courts below on the basis of evidence however grossly erroneous they may appear. Paragraph No. 17 & 24 of the judgment are relevant which are as follows:-

"17. There is a string of decisions i.e. Afsar Sheikh v. Sulemanbibi [(1976) 2 SCC 142 : A.I.R. 1976 S.C. 163.] , Ladhi Prasad v. Karnal Distillery Co. Ltd. [A.I.R. 1963 S.C. 1279.] , Mst. Rajraniv. Rajaram [A.I.R. 1980 All. 2020.] , and Kharbuja Kuer v. Jang Bahadur [A.I.R. 1963 S.C. 1203.] , and on the basis of ratio of these cases it is clear that finding that no fraud or collusion was proved by Respondent Nos. 2 to 6 are findings of fact and the Board of Revenue has exceeded its jurisdiction under Section 100 C.P.C. to set aside these findings of fact. In view of the provisions of Section 331(4) of the Act second appeal would lie only on the question of law and not on the question of fact, hence Board of Revenue has clearly committed an error apparent on the face of record in setting aside the findings of fact recorded by first appellate Court and the trial Court about fraudulent nature of transaction. Further just on suspicion it cannot be assumed nor findings of fact can be set aside but the Board of Revenue has held that "there appears to be some suspicion that after the decree in suit under Section 176 of the Act why should successful party enter into compromise, surrender the rights in suit under Section 229-B of the Act, but the trial could not judge the evidence of the parties. But if the convenience of parties lay in entering into compromise subsequently, Board of Revenue should not stand in the way." It is well known that bad compromise is better than a good law suit. In case the vendees have entered into compromise admitting claim of petitioner hence they had do rights in the plots to execute the sale deed in favour of respondent Nos. 2 to 6.

24. In view of the discussion hereinbefore, I am of the view that the Board of Revenue has clearly exceeded jurisdiction under Section 100 C.P.C. read with Section 331(4) of the Act. There was no scope of the second appellate Court to set aside the findings of fact recorded by the Additional Commissioner about the fraudulent or collusive nature of the decree. The findings of fact were also based on evidence and howsoever grossly erroneous they may appear to be, when in fact they were not erroneous, much less grossly erroneous, the second appellate Court had no jurisdiction to interfere with the same. The vendors, respondent Nos. 7 and 8 had no right, title or interest left in the plots in dispute after admitting the claim of the petitioner in the compromise decree, so as to be able to transfer any interest by the sale deed dated 11.7.1966 in favour of vendees. Hence the vendees did not derive any title out of the sale deed."

16. It is material that plot in dispute is ancestral one and acquired by common ancestor Sahai Kurmi. It is also material that plaintiff and defendant are co-sharer, the plea of surrender set up by the defendant has not been proved as such the plaintiff is entitled to the decree of ½ share in the plot as held by first Appellate Court vide judgment and decree dated 14.10.1977 as well as in view of ratio of law laid down by Apex Court in Karbalai Begum (supra) and this Court in Ram Briksha (supra). So for as scope of suit under Section 229B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act is concerned as well as limitation for filing suit under Section 229B of U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act is concerned this Court in the case reported in 2005 (99) RD 529 Pan Kumari Vs. Board of Revenue U.P. at Allahabad & Ors. has held that there is no limitation for filing suit under Section 229B of U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, the Paragraph No. 6 of the judgment is relevant which is as follows:-

"6. Sri. R.C. Singh submits that the suit under Section 229-B was barred by limitation. In support of this contention he relies upon Section 341 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, which provides that the Limitation Act would be applicable to proceedings under the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act and limitation in a suit for declaration would be governed by Article 137 of Schedule 1 of the Limitation Act as there is no period prescribed for such a suit under the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. Section 341 itself provides that the provisions of certain Acts including the Limitation Act shall apply to the proceedings under the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act unless otherwise provided in the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. Rule 338 of the U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Rules provides that the suits, applications and other proceedings specified in Appendix III shall be instituted within the time specified therein for them respectively. Recourse to the provisions of the Limitation Act would be available only If there is no provision under Rules in respect of the period of limitation for the different classes of suits or proceedings mentioned therein. In Appendix III the period of limitation provided for different classes of suits has been given. As regards suits under Section 229-B column 4, which prescribes the period of limitation for different classes of suit says "none". It would therefore be treated that there is no limitation for filing a suit under Section 229-B. Section 9 of the Civil Procedure Code provides that all suits of civil nature shall be instituted in the civil Court except those, which have been excepted. A suit under Section 229-B falls within the excepted category and such suits even though they involve declaration are suits of a special character. Article 137 of the Limitation Act relied upon by Sri Singh in any case is applicable only to applications and not to suits and therefore has no play. When the rule making authority has provided different periods of limitation for different classes of suits it would be treated that provisions prescribing period of limitation in the Limitation Act would not be applicable to suits under the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. Section 189 U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act sets out the circumstances in which the interest of a bhumidar is extinguished. Clauses (a), (aa) and (b) relate to cases where the bhumidar dies leaving no heir, or where he has let out his holding in contravention of the provisions of the Act or where the land is acquired. Sub-section (c) of Section 189 provides that where a bhumidar has lost-possession the bhumidari right would extinguish when the right to recover possession is lost. In Ram Naresh v. Board of Revenue 1985 Rev Dec. 444 relied upon by Sri R.C. Singh it was held that the provisions of Section 27 of the Limitation Act would be attracted to suits instituted under Section 229-B. Section 27 provides that on the determination of the period limited for instituting a suit for possession the right to such property shall be extinguished. The rule is an exception to the general rule that limitation bars the remedy but does not extinguish the right. If, however, a person is in possession his right can not be extinguished unless the case is covered by Clauses (a), (aa) and (b) of Section 189. He can therefore seek a declaration of his right at any point of time. If a person has been dispossessed he would have to institute a suit under Section 129 U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. Appendix III provides the period for limitation for filing a suit under Section 209. It would follow therefore that a suit under Section 229-B would be barred by limitation the bhumidar is out of possession and his right to file a suit under Section 209 is barred by limitation. The finding of fact recorded on the question of possession is that the plaintiffs have established their continuous possession over the disputed land. The finding is not shown to be vitiated by any error. As the rights of the plaintiff were never extinguished no question of limitation arises. For the reasons given above the writ petition lacks merit and is dismissed."

17. Considering the entire facts and circumstances, as well as ratio of law laid down by this Court as well as by Apex Court, the judgment passed by Board of Revenue dated 28.12.1988 allowing the second appeal of contesting respondent and dismissing the plaintiff's suit for co-tenancy right for ½ share, cannot be sustained in the eye of law, accordingly, impugned judgment dated 28.12.1988 passed by Board of Revenue, Allahabad (Annexure 5 to the writ petition) is liable to be set aside and the same is hereby set aside.

18. The writ petition stands allowed.

19. The judgment of the First Appellate Court dated 14.10.1977 passed by Additinal Commissioner, Varanasi Division, Varanasi is hereby affirmed.

20. No order as to costs.

A. Criminal Law - The Arms Act, 1959 - Section 17(3) - Cancellation of Arm Licence - licensing authority may suspend a licence or revoke a licence arm license, if necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety - while cancelling a licence, the District Magistrate acts as a quasi-judicial authority therefore the District Magistrate must record the finding as to how and under what circumstance, the possession of arms licence by the petitioner, is detrimental to the public peace or the public security and safety - mere involvement in a criminal case or mere pendency of criminal case or apprehension of abuse of Arms Act, are not sufficient ground for passing of the order of suspension or revocation of licence - there must be some positive incident in which the petitioner participated and used his gun which led to breach of public peace or public safety (Para 15, 16, 17)

B. Criminal Law - The Arms Act, 1959 - Cancellation of Arm Licence - Petitioner was granted Arms License - she never misused the arm nor was she involved in any offence of criminal nature - An incident of murder took place, in which some of the family members of the petitioner including her husband were implicated - her Arm License was cancelled due to apprehensions of potential misuse by her husband and brother-in-law - subsequently cause for cancellation, ended since the husband of the petitioner was acquitted in the criminal case whereas the brother-in-law was no more - Impugned orders set aside (Para 18, 20)

3. Ram Prasad Vs Commissioner & ors. dated 07.02.2020

(Delivered by Hon'ble Prakash Padia, J.)

1. Heard Shri Tanzeel Ahmad, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. The petitioner has preferred the present petition inter-alia with the prayer to quash the order dated 01.11.2019 passed by the Commissioner Bareilly Division Bareilly in Appeal No. 00614 of 2018 filed under Section 18 of the Indian Arms Act, 1959 as well as the order dated 22.03.2018 passed by the District Magistrate, Badaun in Case No. 08 of 2014 under Section 17-(3) of the Act of 1959.

3. Though time was granted to the learned Standing Counsel to file counter affidavit vide order dated 18.03.2021 but till date no counter affidavit has been filed.

4. Today when the matter is taken up, it is argued by the learned Standing Counsel that since pure questions of law is involved in the present case, writ petition could be decided on merits even in the absence of the counter affidavit.

5. Facts in brief as contained in the writ petition are that the petitioner was granted an Arms License in the year 2004 and she never misused the aforesaid arm at any point of time as well as she was never involved in any offence of criminal nature whatsoever. On 03.11.2013 an incident of murder had taken place at Mohalla

Khandsari, Police Station-Kotwali, District-Badaun and in this regard a report was lodged against the unknown persons by one Harish which was registered as Case Crime No. 980 of 2013 under section 452, 302 IPC of Police Station-Kotwali, District-Budaun.

6. During the investigation some of the family members of the petitioner including her husband has been falsely implicated in the said offence. Pursuant to the aforesaid, the petitioner was directed to deposit her fire arm in the police station, which was duly deposited by her on 21.11.2013 . It is further stated that in the Session Trial No. 86 of 2014 arising out of Crime No. 980 of 2013 under Section 452, 302/34 and 302/120-B IPC, the husband of the petitioner has been acquitted by the trial court.

7. In view of the aforesaid, a case was registered against the petitioner under Section 17 (3) of the Arms Act, 1959. Immediately thereafter vide order dated 27.12.2013 the Arms License of the petitioner was suspended and a show cause notice was issued to the petitioner in this regard that why her Arm License should not be cancelled. The petitioner duly submitted her reply / objections on 06.03.2014 to the aforesaid show cause notice. Thereafter upon the aforementioned reply of the petitioner, another documentary rebuttal on behalf of the S.S.P., Badaun through S.H.O., Kotwali, District-Badaun was filed in the Court of District Magistrate on 05.08.2014. Thereafter the fire arm license of the petitioner was cancelled by the District Magistrate, Badaun vide order dated 23.02.2018.

8. Aggrieved against the aforesaid, a statutory appeal was filed by the petitioner before the Commissioner, Bareilly Division, Bareilly as provided under Section 18 of the Act, 1959 being Appeal No. 00614 of 2018. It is argued that various grounds were taken in the appeal but without considering the same, the order dated 01.11.2019 was passed by the Commissioner rejecting the appeal filed by the petitioner. Aggrieved against the aforesaid, the petitioner has preferred the present petition.

9. It is argued by Shri Tanzeel Ahmad, learned counsel for the petitioner that the cause for cancellation of the arm license of the petitioner has now been ended since the husband of the petitioner has been acquitted in the said criminal case whereas the brother-in-law (devar) of the petitioner is also no more. It is further argued that both the orders namely the order passed by the District Magistrate cancelling the arm license of the petitioner as well as the order passed by the Commissioner of the Division rejecting the appeal filed by the petitioner are absolutely illegal and both are liable to be set aside. It is further argued that law is well settled that if some relative of the license holder is involved in any offence, the same cannot be a ground for cancellation of the arm license.

10. On the other hand, it is argued by the learned Standing Counsel that since the family members of the petitioner are involved in criminal cases, license of the petitioner was rightly cancelled. It is further argued that the cogent reasons were given by the authorities while cancelling the license of the petitioner, hence it is argued that the present petition filed by the petitioner is on baseless ground and the same is liable to be dismissed.

11. Heard counsel for the parties and perused the record.

12. It appears from perusal of the record that the arm license of the petitioner was cancelled by the District Magistrate vide its order dated 22.03.2018, appeal filed against the said order was also rejected vide order dated 01.11.2019 and both orders were passed by the authorities against the petitioner mainly on the ground that the family members of the petitioner are having criminal antecedents.

13. Law in this connection is well settled that arm license cannot be cancelled only on the ground of apprehension. It is also settled law that in case of pendency of the criminal cases arm license cannot be cancelled. A complete procedure in this regard has been provided under Section 17 of the Arms Act, 1959 which reads as follows:-

Section 17 of the Arms Act, 1959, deals with variation, suspension and revocation of the fire arm licence. Section 17 is reproduced as under:

"17, Variation, suspension and revocation of licences.

(1) The licensing authority may vary the conditions subject to which a licence has been granted except such of them as have been prescribed and may for that purpose require the licence holder by notice in writing to deliver-up the licence to it within such time as may be specified in the notice.

(2) The licensing authority may, on the application of the holder of a licence, also vary the conditions of the licence except such of them as have been prescribed.

(3) The licensing authority may by order in writing suspend a licence for such period as it thinks fit or revoke a licence -

(a) if the licensing authority is satisfied that the holder of the licence is prohibited by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force, from acquiring, having in his possession or carrying any arms or ammunition, or is of unsound mind, or is for any reason unfit for a licence under this Act; or

(b) if the licensing authority deems it necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety to suspend or revoke the licence; or

(c) if the licence was obtained by the suppression of material information or on the basis of wrong information provided by the holder of the licence or any other person on his behalf at the time of applying for it; or

(d) if any of the conditions of the licence has been contravened; or

(e) if the holder of the licence has failed to comply with a notice under sub-section (1) requiring him to deliver up the licence.

(4) The licensing authority may also revoke a licence on the application of the holder thereof.

(5) Where the licensing authority makes an order varying a licence under sub-section (1) or an order suspending or revoking a licence under sub-section (3), it shall record in writing the reasons therefore and furnish to the holder of the licence on demand a brief statement of the same unless in any case the licensing authority is of the opinion that it will not be in the public interest to furnish such statement.

(6) The authority to whom the licensing authority is subordinate may by order in writing suspend or revoke a licence on any ground on which it may be suspended or revoked by the licensing authority, and the foregoing provisions of this section shall, as far as may be, apply in relation to the suspension or revocation of a licence by such authority.

(7) A court convicting the holder of a licence of any offence under this Act or the rules made thereunder may also suspend or revoke the licence: Provided that if the conviction is set aside on appeal or otherwise, the suspension or revocation shall become void.

(8) An order of suspension or revocation under sub-section (7) may also be made by an appellate court or by the High Court when exercising its powers of revision.

(9) 'The Central Government may, by order in the Official Gazette, suspend or revoke or direct any licensing authority to suspend or revoke all or any licences granted under this Act throughout India or any part thereof.

(10) On the suspension or revocation of a licence under this section the holder thereof shall without delay surrender the licence to the authority by whom it has been suspended or revoked or to such other authority as may be specified in this behalf in the order of suspension or revocation."

14. A bare reading of Section 17 (3) of the Arms Act makes it evident that the licensing authority may by order in writing suspend a licence for such period as he things fit or revoke a license; (b) if the licencing authority deems it necessary for the security of public peace or for public safety to suspend or revoke the license. These two expressions "Security of public peace" and "for public safety" are of utmost importance. The licensing authority must be satisfied of the existence of these pre conditions."

15. Law in this connection is also well settled as has been held in the series of cases by this Court from time to time. In the case of Ram Murti Madhukar vs. District Magistrate, Sitapur [1998 (16) LCD-905], this Court has held in paragraph no. 8 as under :-

"(8) It is also well settled in law that mere pendency of criminal case or apprehension of abuse of Arms Act, are not sufficient ground for passing of the order of suspension or revocation of licence under Section 17 of the Act. A reference in this regard may be made to the decisions of this Court in Ganesh Chandra Bhatt v. D. M. Almora, AIR 1993 All 291"

16. In the case of Ram Karpal Singh vs. Commissioner, Devi Patan Mandal, Gonda and Ors. [2006 (24) LCD 114], this Court has held as following in paragraph nos. 6 and 7, which are being reproduced hereunder:-

"6, Learned counsel for the petitioner had relied upon the two judgments of this Court reported in 2002 ACC; Habib v. State of U.P.

7. Para 3 of the said judgment is reproduced as under:

"Para 3: The question as to whether mere involvement in a criminal case or pendency of a criminal case can be a ground for revocation of the license under Arrns Act, has been deal with by a Division Bench in this Court reported in Sheo Prasad Misra v. The District Magistrate, Basti and others, wherein the Division Bench relying upon the earlier decision reported in Mai Uddin v. Commissioner, Allahabad, found that mere involvement in criminal case cannot be in any way affect the public security or public interest and the order canceling or revoking the .licence of fire arm has been set aside. The present impugned order also suffers from the same infirmity as was pointed out by the Division Bench in the above mentioned cases. I am in full agreement with the view taken by the Division Bench that these orders cannot be sustained and deserve to be quashed and are hereby quashed."

17. This Court in the case of Ram Prasad vs. Commissioner and Ors. decided on 07.02.2020 has held as under. Relevant paragraphs of the said judgments i.e. 16, 19, 22, 23, 24, 25, 28, 32 and 36 are being quoted hereunder:-

"16. The matter which requires consideration is, whether on the ground of pendency of the criminal case the petitioner's fire arm licence could be cancelled and his appeal could be dismissed, notwithstanding his acquittal on 17.1.2003. It also requires consideration if the ground in the impugned orders that if the petitioner's fire arm licence remain with the petitioner, it would not be in the public interest and public security, are justified for cancellation and based on substantial material."

19. In Masiuddin Vs. Commissioner, Allahabad Division, Allahabad and another reported in 1972 A.L.J. 573 this Court held in paragraph Nos. 4 and 7 as under:

"4. After a license is granted, the right to hold the license and possess a gun is a valuable individual right in a free country. The security of public peace and public safety is a valuable social interest. Section 17 shows that Parliament had decided that neither of the two valuable interests should unduly impinge on the other Section 17 seeks to establish a fair equilibrium between the two contending interests. It says: Hear the licensee first; and then cancel the license "if necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety". True, there is no express provision for hearing. But the nature of the right affected, the language of Sec. 17, the grounds for cancellation, the requirement of a reasoned order and the right of appeal plainly implicate a fair hearing procedure. Jai Narain Rai v. District Magistrate, Azamgarh. While cancelling a licence, the District Magistrate acts as a quasi-judicial authority.

7. A license may be cancelled, inter alia on the ground that it is "necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety" to do so. The District Magistrate has not recorded a finding that it was necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety to revoke the license. The mere existence of enmity between a licensee and another person would not establish the "necessary' connection with security of public peace or public safety. There should be something more than mere enmity. There should be some evidence of the provocative utterances of the licensee or of his suspicious movements or of his criminal designs and conspiracy in reinforcement of the evidence of enmity. It is not possible to give an exhaustive list of facts and circumstances from which an inference of threat to public security or public peace may be deduced. The District Magistrate will have to take a decision on the facts of each case. But in the instant case there is nothing in his order to indicate that it was necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety to cancel the license of the petitioner. Mere enmity is not sufficient."

22. In Chhanga Prasad Sahu Vs. State of U.P. and others reported in 1984 AWC 145 (FB), after noticing the provisions of Section 17 (3) of the Arms Act the Full Bench in paragraph 5 held as follows:

"A perusal of abovementioned provisions indicates that the licensing authority has been given the power to suspend or revoe an arms licence only if any of the conditions mentioned in sub-clauses (a) to (e) of sub-section (3) of Section 17 of Act exists." sub section (5) of Section 17 makes it obligatory upon the licensing authority to, while passing the order revoking/suspending an arms licence, record in writing the reasons therefore and to, on demand, furnish a brief statement thereof to the holder of the license unless it considers that it will not be in the public interest to do so."

In paragraph-9 it has been emphasised as under:-

"it is true that in order to revoke/suspend an arms licence, the licensing authority has necessarily to come to the conclusion that the facts justifying revocation/suspension of licence mentioned in grounds (a) to (e) of section 17 exist"

23. In Ilam Singh v. Commissioner, Meerut Division and others [1987 ALL. L.J. 416] this Court held that under Section 17(3) (b) the licencing authority may suspend or revoke a licence if it becomes necessary for the security of public peace or public safety. In this case no report was lodged against the licensee indicating that he had used the gun in the incident which led to the breach of public peace or public safety. It was held that there must be some positive incident in which the petitioner participated and used his gun which led to breach of public peace or public safety and in the absence of the use of the gun by the licencee against the security of public peace or public safety the licence of the gun could not be suspended or revoked. The relevant paragraphs 4 and 5 of the judgment in Ilam Singh (supra) are being reproduced as under:

"4. Having heard the learned counsel for the petitioner I am of the view that the submissions raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner cannot be said to be without substance. Section 17(3) (b) of the Arms Act enacts that licensing authority may by order in writing suspend a licence or revoke the same if it becomes necessary for the security of public peace or the public safety. When once a person has been granted a licence and he acquires a gun, it becomes one of his properties. In the present case no incident of breach of security of the public peace or public sfety at the behest of the petitioner has been pointed out. Even no report was lodged against the petitioner indicating that he used his gun in the incident which led to the breach of public peace or public safety. Even though some reports might have been lodged but that could not be said to be a sufficient reason to cancel the licence."

5. There must be some positive incident in which the petitioner participated and used his gun which led to the breach of the public peace or public safety. In the absence of the use of the gun by the petitioner against the security of public peace or public safety the licence of the gun of the petitioner was not liable either to be suspended or revoked. The licensing authority as well as the Commissioner committed errors on the face of the record in cancelling the licence of the gun held by the petitioner in utter disregard of the provisions of Section 17 (3) (b) of the Arms Act. In view of these facts the impugned orders cannot be sustained and deserves to be quashed."

24. In Habib v. State of U.P. and others [2002 (44) ACC 783] this Court held that mere involvement in a criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest and the order cancelling or revoking licence of fire arm was not justified. Paragraph 3 of this judgment reads as under:

"3. The question as to whether mere involvement in a criminal case or pendency of a criminal case can be a ground for revocation of the licence under Arms Act, has been dealt with by a Division Bench of this court reported in Sheo Prasad Misra Vs. The District Magistrate, Basti and others, wherein the Division Bench relying upon the earlier decision reported in Masi Uddin v. Commissioner, Allahabad, found that mere involvement in criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest and the order cancelling or revoking the licence of fire arm has been set aside."

25. In Satish Singh v. District Magistrate, Sultanpur 2009 (4) ADJ 33 (LB), this Court elaborately explained what is detrimental to the security of the public peace or public safety and held that mere involvement in criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest. Paragraphs 6 and 7 of Satish Singh case (supra) are being reproduced as under:

"6. A plain reading of section 17 indicates that the arms licence can be cancelled or suspended on the ground that the licensing authority deems it necessary for security of the public peace or the public safety. In the present case, while passing the impugned order, neither the District Magistrate nor the appellate authority has recorded the finding as to how and under what circumstance, the possession of arms licence by the petitioner, is detrimental to the public peace or the public security and safety. Merely because criminal case is pending more so, does not seem to attract the provisions of section 17 of the Arms Act. To attract the provisions of section 17 of the Arms Act with regard to public peace, security and safety it shall always be incumbent on the authorities to record a finding that how, under what circumstances and what manner, the possession of arms licence shall be detrimental to public peace, safety and security. In absence of such finding merely on the ground that a criminal case is pending without any mitigating circumstances with regard to endanger of public peace, safety and security, the provisions contained under Section 17 of the Arms Act, shall not satisfy.

7. Needless to say that right to life and liberty are guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India and the arms licences are granted for personal safety and security after due inquiry by the authorities in accordance with the provisions contained in Arms Act, 1959.

The provisions of section 17 of the Arms Act with regard to suspension or cancellation of arms licence cannot be invoked lightly in an arbitrary manner. The provisions contained under Section 17 of the Arms Act should be construed strictly and not liberally. The conditions provided therein, should be satisfied by the authorities before proceeding ahead to cancel or suspend an arms licence. We may take notice of the fact that any reason whatsoever, the crime rate is raising day by day. The Government is not in a position to provide security to each and every person individually. Right to possess arms is statutory right but right to life and liberty is fundamental guaranteed by Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Corollary to it, it is citizen's right to possess firearms for their personal safety to save their family from miscreants. It is often said that ordinarily in a civilised society, only civilised persons require arms licence for their safety and security and not the criminals. Of course, in case the government feels that arms licence are abused for oblique motive or criminal activities, then appropriate measures may be adopted to check such mal-practice. But arms licence should not be suspended in a routine manner mechanically, without application of mind and keeping in view the letter and spirit of Section 17 of the Arms Act."

28. In Thakur Prasad Vs. State of U.P. and others reported 2013(31) LCD 1460 (LB) this Court after referring to the earlier pronouncements in the case of Ram Murli Madhukar Vs. District Magistrate, Sitapur [1998 (16) LCD 905] and Habib Vs. State of U.P., 2002 ACC 783, held in paragraphs 10 and 11 as follows:

"10. "Public peace" or "public safety" do not mean ordinary disturbance of law and order public safety means safety of the public at large and not safety of few persons only and before passing of the order of cancellation of arm license as per Section 17 (3) of the Act the Licensing Authority is under an obligation to apply his mind to the question as to whether there was eminent danger to public peace and safety involved in the case in view of the judgment given by this court in the case of Ram Murli Madhukar v. District Magistrate, Sitapur [1998 916) LCD 905], wherein it has been held that license can not be suspended or revoked on the ground of public interest (Jan-hit) merely on the registration of an F.I.R. and pendency of a criminal case."

11. Further, this Court in the case of Habib v. State of U.P. 2002 ACC 783 held as under:

"The question as to whether mere Involvement in a criminal case or pendency of a criminal case can be a ground for revocation of the licence under Arms Act, has been dealt with by a Division Bench of this Court in Sheo prasad Misra Vs. District Magistrate, Basti and Others, 1978 AWC 122, wherein the Division Bench relying upon the earlier decision in Masi Uddin Vs. Commissioner, Allahabad, 1972 ALJ 573, found that mere involvement in criminal case cannot, in any way, affect the public security or public interest and the order cancelling or revoking the licence of fire arm has been set aside. The present impugned orders also suffer from the same infirmity as was pointed out by the Division Bench in the above mentioned cases. I am in full agreement with the view taken by the Division Bench that these orders cannot be sustained and deserves to be quashed and are hereby quashed.

There is yet another reason that during the pendency of the present writ petition, the petitioner has been acquitted from the aforesaid criminal case and at present there is neither any case pending, nor any conviction has been attributed to the petitioner, as is evident from Annexure SA-I and II to the supplementary affidavit filed by the petitioner. In this view of the matter, the petitioner is entitled to have the fire-arm licence."

32. In Ghanshyam Gupta v. State of U.P. and others [2016 (34) LCD 3035] this Court has again held that the necessary ingredients to invoke jurisdiction of the licencing authority in terms of Section 17 were clearly lacking and no finding had been returned on the basis of materials produced in that regard by the licencing authority, which must justify passing of the order of cancellation. Paragraph 9 of the said judgment is being quoted as under:

"9. In a recent decision of Lucknow Bench of this court in Surya Narain Mishra v. Stae of U.P. and others, reported in 2015 (7) ADJ 510, similar view has been taken by this Court relying upon subsequent decisions. Para-14 of the judgment is reproduced:

"14. In the case of Raj Kumar Verma v. State of U.P., 2013 (80) ACC 231 this court in paragraph No.3 held as under:-

"The ground for issue of show-cause notice, suspension and ultimately cancellation of the licence is that one and precisely one criminal case was registered against the petitioner. The District Magistrate has also held that the petitioner has been enlarged on bail. He has gone further to observe that if the licence remained intact, the petitioner, may disturb public peace and tranquility. The same findings have been given by the Commissioner, Unmindful of the fact that this Court is repeating the law of the land, but the deaf ears of the administrative officers do not ready to succumb the law of the land. The settled law is that mere involvement in a criminal case without any finding that involvement in such criminal case shall be detrimental to public peace and tranqulity shall not create the ground for the cancellation of Armed Licence. In Ram Suchi v. Commissioner, Devipatan Division reported in 2004 (22) LCD 1643, it was held that this law was relied upon in Balram Singh Vs. Satate of U.P. 2006 (24) LCD 1359. Mere apprehension without substance is simply an opinion which has no legs to stand. Personal whims are not allowed to be reflected while acting as a public servant.

36. In the present case the petitioner's licence was cancelled by the District Magistrate on the ground of pendency of criminal case against him. The petitioner was later on acquitted of the criminal case by order dated 17.1.2003. A perusal of the order of acquittal does not show the use of fire arm. After acquittal the very basis of the order of cancellation vanished. The finding of the District Magistrate as affirmed by the Commissioner, that it was not in the interest of public peace and the public security that the licence remained with the petitioner/licencee, is not based on any evidence/material, except the police reports which in their turn were in view of the pendency of the criminal case against the petitioner. On mere apprehension expressed in the impugned orders that the petitioner would misuse the fire arm and would extend threat to the persons of the weaker section of the society, the arm licence could not be cancelled."

18. On the basis of the aforesaid judgments as reproduced herein-above, the Court is of the opinion that the case of the present petitioner is on a much better footing, since in the present case no criminal case whatsoever has been lodged against the petitioner/ arm license holder at any point of time and only on the basis of apprehension that the fire arm could be used by her family members, the Arm License of the petitioner was cancelled. It is further clear from record that the license of the petitioner was cancelled on the sole ground of apprehension that the aforesaid Arm License could be misused by the husband and brother-in-law of the petitioner as stated above and as per record, the husband has already been acquitted in the criminal case itself, insofar as the brother-in-law (devar) is concerned, he is no more and hence the sole ground of cancellation, i.e., apprehension cannot stand firm.

19. In this view of the matter, the Court is of the firm opinion that the petitioner has a prima facie case for the grant of reliefs as prayed by her in the present writ petition.

20. In view of the facts as stated above, the order dated 01.11.2019 passed by the Commissioner Bareilly Division Bareilly in Appeal No. 00614 of 2018 filed under Section 18 of the Indian Arms Act, 1959 as well as the order dated 22.03.2018 passed by the District Magistrate, Badaun in Case No. 08 of 2014 under Section 17-(3) of the Act of 1959 are liable to be set aside and are hereby set aside.

21. Writ petition stands allowed.

22. No order as to costs.

A. Civil Law - Interpretation of Statues - It is a cardinal principle of construction of a statute that when the language of the statute is plain and unambiguous, then the court must give effect to the words used in the statute - However, if on going through the plain meaning of the language of statutes, it leads to anomalies, injustices and absurdities, then the court may look into the purpose for which the statute has been brought and would try to give a meaning, which would adhere to the purpose of the statute. (Para 5)

B. Civil Law - Land Acquisition - The Land Acquisition Act, 1894 - Section 28A - Re-determination of the amount of compensation on the basis of the award of the Court - Where the court allows any amount of compensation in excess of the amount awarded by the collector u/s 11, the persons interested in all the other land covered by the same notification u/s 4(1), notwithstanding that they had not made an application to the Collector u/s 18, by application to the Collector, require that the amount of compensation payable to them may be re-determined on the basis of the amount of compensation awarded by the court - interpretation of expression 'had not made an application to the Collector u/s 18' - The expression "did not make an application", mean, did not make an effective application, which had been entertained by making the reference and the reference was answered - once the Collector entertains an application objecting to the award and makes a reference u/s 18, and after the reference is made and answered by the Court, that the right u/s 28A to seek re-determination based on an award passed by the Court at the instance of another landholder would be extinguished - it is not permissible for a landowner to make a reference and get it answered and then subsequently make another application when some other person gets the reference answered and obtains a higher amount - however, there is no reference made at the instance of a person whose case is withheld by the Collector on the ground of limitation or otherwise not adjudicated upon by the Court on merits (Para 6)

1. This writ petition is directed against an order passed by the Special Land Acquisition Officer (Joint Organization), Aligarh dated 30.04.2022, rejecting the petitioner's application under Section 28A of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (for short, "the Act') as not maintainable.

2. The short facts giving rise to the petition are that the petitioner, Prem Pal Singh moved an application under Section 28A of the Act on 04.08.1999 saying that his land comprising Khasra No. 404/1, measuring 1.533 hectares, situate in the Revenue Village Devsaini, Pargana and Tehsil Koil, District Aligarh had been acquired by the State for planned industrial development by the Uttar Pradesh State Industrial Development Corporation Limited, Kanpur. L.A.R. No. 42 of 1996, Mohd. Salim vs. State of U.P. and others, being a reference made by the Collector on the basis of objections to the award by the ousted landholder in that case, was allowed and compensation enhanced to ₹80/- per square yard vide award dated 22.05.1999. It was prayed that the petitioner's land was covered by the same notification and, therefore, he was entitled to a re-determination of the compensation awarded to him in accordance with the award made by the Court.

3. The Special Land Acquisition Officer found on facts that the petitioner had said in Paragraph No.6 of his application under Section 28A of the Act that against the award passed by the Special Land Acquisition Officer, he had preferred objections under Section 18 of the Act, submitting them for the purpose of a reference to be made to the Court but his objections were not referred to the District Judge, but were rejected as time barred. The Special Land Acquisition Officer construed the provisions of Section 28A of the Act to mean that a person, whose land was acquired under the provisions of the Act and who is aggrieved against the Collector's award, may make an application for re-determination of compensation if he has not made an application under Section 18 for a reference to the Court against the award. It has been opined that since the petitioner had admittedly made an application, seeking a reference against the Special Land Acquisition Officer's award to the Court, which was withheld on the ground of limitation, his application under Section 28A of the Act was not maintainable.

4. Apparently, the understanding of the Special Land Acquisition Officer about the scope of a person aggrieved by the award of compensation made by the Collector is not correct. The Special Land Acquisition Officer has thought that the moment a person "aggrieved' by the Collector/ Special Land Acquisition Officer's award, moves an application to the Collector under Section 18 of the Act seeking a reference, the right to re-determination of the compensation under Section 28A, based on the Court's award in another case arising out of the same acquisition, is extinguished.

5. To the understanding of the Special Land Acquisition Officer, there is no distinction whether the application under Section 18 of the Act preferred by a person aggrieved by the Collector's award is withheld by the Collector and never entertained, and a case where it is entertained with a reference made to the Court that is answered. In either case, the Special Land Acquisition Officer seems to think that an application under Section 28A of the Act, based on an award of the Court made in the case of another landholder covered by the same notification for re-determination under Section 28A of the Act, would not be maintainable.

6. As already remarked, the construction placed by the Special Land Acquisition Officer upon the scope of the right under Section 28A of the Act is manifestly illegal, inasmuch as unless the Collector entertains an application objecting to the Collector's award or the Special Land Acquisition Officer's award and makes a reference under Section 18, there is no reference under Section 18 of the Act at all. It is only after a reference is made and answered by the Court, that the right under Section 28A to seek re-determination based on an award passed by the Court at the instance of another landholder in a reference under Section 18 would be extinguished. The right under Section 28A of the Act can logically not be extinguished by the petitioner making an unsuccessful attempt to get a reference made to the Court. In the latter case, there is no reference made at the instance of a person whose case is withheld by the Collector on the ground of limitation or otherwise not adjudicated upon by the Court under Section 18 on merits. This question has been authoritatively considered and answered by the Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court in Union of India and another v. Hansoli Devi and others, (2002) 7 SCC 273, where it has been held:

9. Before we embark upon an inquiry as to what would be the correct interpretation of Section 28-A, we think it appropriate to bear in mind certain basic principles of interpretation of a statute. The rule stated by Tindal, C.J. in Sussex Peerage case [(1844) 11 Cl & Fin 85 : 8 ER 1034] still holds the field. The aforesaid rule is to the effect : (ER p. 1057)

"If the words of the statute are in themselves precise and unambiguous, then no more can be necessary than to expound those words in their natural and ordinary sense. The words themselves alone do, in such case, best declare the intention of the lawgiver."

It is a cardinal principle of construction of a statute that when the language of the statute is plain and unambiguous, then the court must give effect to the words used in the statute and it would not be open to the courts to adopt a hypothetical construction on the ground that such construction is more consistent with the alleged object and policy of the Act. In Kirkness v. John Hudson & Co. Ltd. [(1955) 2 All ER 345 : 1955 AC 696 : (1955) 2 WLR 1135] Lord Reid pointed out as to what is the meaning of "ambiguous" and held that : (All ER p. 366 C-D)

"A provision is not ambiguous merely because it contains a word which in different contexts is capable of different meanings. It would be hard to find anywhere a sentence of any length which does not contain such a word. A provision is, in my judgment, ambiguous only if it contains a word or phrase which in that particular context is capable of having more than one meaning."

It is no doubt true that if on going through the plain meaning of the language of statutes, it leads to anomalies, injustices and absurdities, then the court may look into the purpose for which the statute has been brought and would try to give a meaning, which would adhere to the purpose of the statute. Patanjali Sastri, C.J. in the case of Aswini Kumar Ghose v. Arabinda Bose [AIR 1952 SC 369 : 1953 SCR 1] had held that it is not a sound principle of construction to brush aside words in a statute as being inapposite surplusage, if they can have appropriate application in circumstances conceivably within the contemplation of the statute. In Quebec Railway, Light Heat & Power Co. Ltd. v. Vandry [AIR 1920 PC 181] it had been observed that the legislature is deemed not to waste its words or to say anything in vain and a construction which attributes redundancy to the legislature will not be accepted except for compelling reasons. Similarly, it is not permissible to add words to a statute which are not there unless on a literal construction being given a part of the statute becomes meaningless. But before any words are read to repair an omission in the Act, it should be possible to state with certainty that these words would have been inserted by the draftsman and approved by the legislature had their attention been drawn to the omission before the Bill had passed into a law. At times, the intention of the legislature is found to be clear but the unskilfulness of the draftsman in introducing certain words in the statute results in apparent ineffectiveness of the language and in such a situation, it may be permissible for the court to reject the surplus words, so as to make the statute effective. Bearing in mind the aforesaid principle, let us now examine the provisions of Section 28-A of the Act, to answer the questions referred to us by the Bench of two learned Judges. It is no doubt true that the object of Section 28-A of the Act was to confer a right of making a reference, (sic on one) who might have not made a reference earlier under Section 18 and, therefore, ordinarily when a person makes a reference under Section 18 but that was dismissed on the ground of delay, he would not get the right of Section 28-A of the Land Acquisition Act when some other person makes a reference and the reference is answered. But Parliament having enacted Section 28-A, as a beneficial provision, it would cause great injustice if a literal interpretation is given to the expression "had not made an application to the Collector under Section 18" in Section 28-A of the Act. The aforesaid expression would mean that if the landowner has made an application for reference under Section 18 and that reference is entertained and answered. In other words, it may not be permissible for a landowner to make a reference and get it answered and then subsequently make another application when some other person gets the reference answered and obtains a higher amount. In fact in Pradeep Kumari case [(1995) 2 SCC 736] the three learned Judges, while enumerating the conditions to be satisfied, whereafter an application under Section 28-A can be moved, had categorically stated (SCC p. 743, para 10) "the person moving the application did not make an application to the Collector under Section 18". The expression "did not make an application", as observed by this Court, would mean, did not make an effective application which had been entertained by making the reference and the reference was answered. When an application under Section 18 is not entertained on the ground of limitation, the same not fructifying into any reference, then that would not tantamount to an effective application and consequently the rights of such applicant emanating from some other reference being answered to move an application under Section 28-A cannot be denied. We, accordingly answer Question 1(a) by holding that the dismissal of an application seeking reference under Section 18 on the ground of delay would tantamount to not filing an application within the meaning of Section 28-A of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894.

(emphasis by Court)

7. In the present case, since on the petitioner's application under Section 18 of the Act, no reference was made by the Special Land Acquisition Officer, which was declined on the ground of limitation, it cannot be said that there was any reference made at the petitioner's instance that was decided by the Court so as to curtail the petitioner's right to take advantage of the remedy under Section 28A of the Act.

8. This Court is, therefore, of the opinion that the impugned order declining to re-determine the compensation payable to the petitioner on an application filed under Section 28A of the Act is manifestly illegal and based on a flawed understanding of the provisions of Section 28A. The petitioner's application under Section 28A is competent and maintainable.

9. In the result, this writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 30.04.2022 passed by the Special Land Acquisition Officer (Joint Organization), Aligarh (Annexure No.1 to the writ petition) is hereby quashed. In consequence, the petitioner's application under Section 28A of the Act is restored to file, which the Special Land Acquisition Officer shall consider and decide by a reasoned and speaking order after hearing the parties concerned expeditiously.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suneet Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri M.D. Singh Shekhar and Sri M.C. Chaturvedi, learned Senior Counsels assisted by Shri R.D. Tiwari and Shri Arun Kumar, learned counsels for the petitioners, and Sri Narendra Kumar Pandey and Ms. Sudha Pandey, learned counsel for respondent Bank.

2. The first petitioner i.e. M/s Shiva Enterprises, is a proprietorship firm, second petitioner is the proprietor of the firm. The firm is engaged in the business of construction. Initially, petitioner-firm was a partnership firm which was subsequently dissolved in 2008, thereafter, became a sole proprietorship firm. The firm has a current account, with overdraft facility, being Account No. 1886009300021932, with Panjab National Bank, Branch Kidwai Nagar, Kanpur Nagar.

3. On 9 July 2009, partnership firm in the name and style M/s Maa Gayatri Construction was constituted, wherein, one Ranveer Singh and second petitioner were partners. The firm was having facility of current account being Account No. 1886002100023313 in the same branch of the respondent-bank. On 11 July 2011, one of the partner of M/s Maa Gayatri Construction filed an application with the fourth respondent stating therein that the partnership firm has since been dissolved and second partner i.e. second petitioner, henceforth, has no concern with the affairs of the firm. In other words, Ranveer Singh informed the Bank that the firm (M/s Maa Gayatri Construction) has been reconstituted as proprietorship firm of the same name and Ranveer Singh is the sole proprietor. Thereafter, on 12 July 2011, second petitioner being the outgoing partner of the dissolved firm filed an application before the fourth respondent informing that he is no more the partner of M/s Maa Gayatri Construction, with a further request that the account of the firm i.e. A/c No. 1886002100023313, having "zero' balance, be closed upon dissolution of the firm. The statement of account dated 4 July 2011 has been filed (at Annexure-5) to the writ petition to substantiate that on the date when the application was moved by the second petitioner informing the fourth respondent that second petitioner is no longer partner, the outstanding balance in the aforenoted account of the dissolved firm was "zero'.

4. It appears that on 21 July 2011, Ranveer Singh, sole proprietor of the reconstituted firm, i.e., M/s Maa Gayatri Construction placed a cheque, bearing No. FAQ 237452 dated 20 July 2011, for an amount at Rs.55,11,000/- in the account of the dissolved firm (A/c No. 1886002100023313). The amount was credited in the bank account which was later transferred by Ranveer Singh to one Prashant Shukla having account in Indus Bank, Swaroop Nagar, Kanpur Nagar, the deposited money was subsequently withdrawn by Prashant Shukla. It subsequently surfaced that the aforenoted amount at Rs.55,11,000/- was debited from the account of Meerut Institute of Engineering and Technology (A/c No. 2159000100049043). On receiving telephonic information from Chief Manager, Punjab National Bank, Branch Sports Complex, Meerut, that the original Cheque No. FAQ 237452 is with the issuing party, the fourth respondent lodged an FIR being Case Crime No. 676 of 2011, under Sections 419, 420 IPC, Police Station Naubasta, District Kanpur Nagar, alleging the fraud. In other words, the cheque deposited by Ranveer Singh in the account of his firm (M/s Maa Gayatri Construction) was forged and manufactured document. The Bank suffered loss due to the fraud.

5. During investigation, name of Ranveer Singh, Arvind Verma and Adhyant Tiwari surfaced, subsequently, they came to be arrested. Prashant Shukla was absconding. The charge-sheet was submitted against the accused persons, including, Ranveer Singh, sole proprietor of M/s Maa Gayatri Construction on 11 September 2011. The accused including Ranveer Singh came to be convicted under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 read with 120-B IPC, Police Station Naubasta, District Kanpur Nagar, and sentenced to 5 years simple imprisonment and fine at Rs.10,000/- each, by the Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate-I, Kanpur Nagar, vide order dated 11 December 2017, in Criminal Case No. 6350 of 2011, State vs. Ranveer Singh and others.

6. It is admitted that second petitioner was neither named in the FIR, nor, was he charge-sheeted. Application under Section 319 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 19731, was filed by the prosecution during trial seeking to summon the second petitioner to face trial along with other co-accused. The application was rejected. The order was not challenged, consequently, attained finality.

7. In the intervening period, the fourth respondent seized the bank account of M/s Shiva Enterprises of the second petitioner to satisfy the loss caused to the Bank by the sole proprietor of M/s Maa Gayatri Construction. Probably for the reason that second petitioner earlier was a partner of the firm M/s Maa Gayatri Construction. The second petitioner, thereafter, made several representations to the bank to permit the petitioner to operate the bank account of his firm M/s Shiva Enterprises, but in vain. It is submitted that the respondent-bank did not respond to the applications, consequently, petitioner was not permitted to operate the bank account (A/c No. 1886009300021932), thereafter, on 21 December 2012, the fourth respondent seized the Fixed Deposit Receipts2 of the second petitioner, which had no concern with the account and the affairs of M/s Maa Gayatri Construction. It is submitted that seizure order was passed behind the back of the petitioner without affording an opportunity of hearing to the petitioner.

8. Petitioners have challenged the seizure order dated 21 December 2012, through an amendment application, and the order dated 31 October 2011, directing the second petitioner being jointly and severally liable to make good the loss caused to the bank, so as to enable the bank to permit the second petitioner to operate the bank account of M/s Shiva Enterprises.

9. In the afore-noted factual backdrop, the short question that arises for determination is as to whether the respondent bank was justified in seizing the bank account and F.D.Rs. of the petitioner firm (M/s Shiva Enterprises) to satisfy the loss caused to the bank by a third firm (M/s Maa Gayatri Construction) after the petitioner ceased to be a partner.

10. The facts, inter se, parties are not in dispute.

11. The Indian Partnership Act, 19323, defines dissolution of firm and liability for acts of partners done after dissolution. Section 39 & 40 is extracted:

"39. Dissolution of a firm.-- The dissolution of a partnership between all the partners of a firm is called the "dissolution of the firm'.

40. Dissolution by agreement.-- A firm may be dissolved with the consent of all the partners or in accordance with a contract between the partners."

12. As per the provisions of the Act, dissolution of the firm can be brought about on consent of the partners or by an agreement. Notwithstanding the dissolution of a firm the partners continue to be liable as such to third parties of any act done by any of them before the dissolution. A partner who retires from the firm is not liable to third parties for the acts done by any of the partners of a firm. After dissolution of a firm, partners are bound during the winding up of the firm to complete the transactions begun but unfinished.

13. If the firm has been dissolved but no notice to the creditors or public notice of such a dissolution is given, the act of a partner shall bind the other partners even after dissolution, as if, the act was done before the dissolution.

14. In case of dissolution, after the notice to the creditors or the public notice of the dissolution is given the acknowledgement given by one partner cannot bind the other partners. In other words, after the dissolution of the firm the outgoing partner would not be liable either to a third party or upon reconstitution of the firm for the act of the firm/partner until public notice is given to the creditor.

15. Section 45 of the Act provides for the liability of acts of partners after dissolution. Section 45 is extracted:

"45. Liability for acts of partners done after dissolution.--

(1) Notwithstanding the dissolution of a firm, the partners continue to be liable as such to third parties for any act done by any of them which would have been an act of the firm, if done before the dissolution, until public notice is given of the dissolution :

Provided that the estate of a partner who dies, or who is adjudicated an insolvent, or of a partner who, not having been known to the person dealing with the firm to be a partner, retires from the firm, is not liable under this section for acts done after the date on which he ceases to be a partner.

(2) Notices under sub-section (1) may be given by any partner."

16. As per Section 45, it therefore follows, that even after the dissolution of a firm, partners continue to be liable as such to third parties for any act done by them which would have been an act of the firm if done before the dissolution until public notice is given of the dissolution. Thus, till the time public notice of the dissolution is given, other partners will continue to remain liable for the act of one partner, as if, such an act was done in a continuing partnership. Thus the principle of presumed continuance of "mutual agency" underlines the rule which is subject to the exception provided in the proviso to Section 45. However, in case the creditor had notice of dissolution of the partnership that would not bind the other partner. (Refer: Malayandi v. Narayanan4, and Muthuswami v. Sankaralingam5)

17. Section 45, therefore, mandates that notwithstanding the dissolution of the firm, the partners continue to be liable to third party for any act done by any of the partners until notice is given of the dissolution. Public notice would include personal information or knowledge of such dissolution to the third party. The third party cannot take a plea of lack of information for want of public notice, where, the third party was informed or had knowledge of the dissolution.

18. In the given facts at hand, M/s Maa Gayatri Construction, a partnership firm came to be dissolved as agreed between the partners and a proprietorship firm with the same name was immediately thereafter reconstituted with Ranveer Singh as the sole partner. The second partner i.e. the second petitioner ceased to be the partner of of M/s Maa Gayatri Construction upon dissolution. Both the partners informed the respondent-Bank of the dissolution of the firm and its subsequent reconstitution in the same name. The relevant documents have been brought on record. In view of Section 45 of the Act the second petitioner would not be liable for any act of the proprietorship firm after the dissolution of the earlier partnership firm from the date of notice/ information to the bank.

19. The stand of the respondent-bank in the counter affidavit is that the bank was not informed of the dissolution of the firm, consequently, the second petitioner would "jointly and severally' be liable for the fraud and loss caused to the bank by the first partner i.e. Ranveer Singh. The bank, therefore, was justified in seizing and freezing the bank account/F.D.Rs. of M/s Shiva Enterprises for the loss caused by the erstwhile partner of M/s Maa Gayatri Construction.

20. The term or phrase, "jointly and severally', is a legal term used to describe a partnership whereby each party or member holds equal responsibility for liability. A common term for "jointly and severally' is "joint and several liability'. In a legally binding document, the term jointly and severally clarifies the responsibility that is shared by each party to an agreement. Essentially, it states that all of those named are obligated to perform all of the actions required under the agreement. For example, if a bank lends Rs.100,000 to two people jointly and severally, both of those people are equally responsible for making sure that the total amount of the loan is repaid to the bank. If the loan is in default, the bank may choose to pursue either for repayment of the entire outstanding balance. In such cases, the person who is forced to repay the loan will have same legal recourse against the other person named in the agreement, but only after the bank is repaid in full.

21. In this backdrop, the question that arises for determination is as to whether the second petitioner would be held "jointly and severally' liable for the fraud committed by Ranveer Singh, sole partner of the reconstituted proprietorship firm or in the alternative as to whether the bank had notice/information of the dissolution of the firm.

22. The partnership firm i.e. M/s Maa Gayatri Constructions came to be reconstituted on 10 July 2011. On 11 July 2011, an application was filed before the fourth respondent informing that the second partner i.e. second petitioner is no longer the partner and Ranveer Singh is the sole proprietor of the reconstituted firm by the same name. The fraud was committed by Ranveer Singh, thereafter, on 21 July 2011 i.e. eleven days after the dissolution of the partnership firm. On 22 July 2011, an FIR came to be lodged by the bank against one Prashant Shukla. The second petitioner was not named in the F.I.R.

23. The respondent-Bank in para 25 and 26 of the counter affidavit, has categorically pleaded that dissolution of the partnership firm M/s Maa Gayatri Constructions was neither served upon the respondent-bank, nor, the same is on the bank's record. It has been denied that the alleged communication dated 11 July 2011 and 12 July 2011, written by Ranveer Singh, and the second petitioner respectively was received with the bank.

24. The "act of a firm' is an act omission of the partner and binds the other partner(s) of the firm. In other words, a partner commits fraud and thereby causes loss to the bank, the partners would be liable to make good the loss caused to the bank under the principle "jointly and severally'. The bank in that event would be justified in seizing the bank account/FDRs of the other partners of the firm to satisfy its loss. But in the given facts of the case, it would be otherwise if the bank had notice/information of the dissolution of the firm. In that event the outgoing partner would not be liable for the fraud committed by the reconstituted proprietorship firm in view of Section 45 of the Act.

25. The petitioner has taken a categorical stand that the bank was informed of the dissolution of the partnership firm and the reconstitution of proprietorship firm with the same name and title. The second petitioner ceased to be the partner. The fraud was committed with the bank several days thereafter. It is not the case of the bank that after dissolution of the firm the second petitioner continued to act or present himself as a partner of the dissolved firm. Further, it is not denied by the bank that the then officers of the bank were not aware of the dissolution/reconstitution of the firm. A feeble stand taken by the bank is that they have no information of dissolution or reconstitution of the firm. The affidavit has been sworn by the present officer of the bank on personal knowledge. It is to be noted that it is not the affidavit of the then officer of the bank. Further, the stand of the bank cannot be taken on face value for the reason that fraud was committed immediately after dissolution of the firm. The balance in the bank account of the firm on the date of dissolution admittedly was "zero'. There was no occasion for the outgoing partner, not informing about his status that he ceased to be the partner. The involvement of the bank officials in commission of the fraud cannot be ruled out in view of the trial court judgment. All the accused came to be convicted in the criminal trial. It appears that the bank in order to protect and cover-up the acts of its officer seized the bank account and FDRs of the second petitioner in retaliation. It is not the case of the bank that the then officers (on date of dissolution of the firm) had no knowledge, and/or, were not aware of the dissolution of the firm and reconstitution of the proprietorship firm by the same name.

26. It is admitted by the learned counsel for the respondents that para-25, 26 of the counter affidavit has been sworn by the present Senior Manager, Punjab National Bank, Kanpur, on personal knowledge, and not on the basis of record.

27. In Ratanji Bhagwanji & Co. v. Prem Shanker6, Court, recognized that a retiring/outgoing partner could escape liability in respect of transactions entered into by the continuing partners after his retirement if the third party was aware that the former had ceased to be a partner of the firm. In the opinion of the court the proviso to Section 32(3) and the corresponding provision in Section 45, with its proviso indicate beyond doubt, that only persons who were not aware of the retirement of a particular partner could take advantage of Section 32(3) or Section 45.

28. Public notice as contemplated under Section 63 and Section 72, is intended only to serve a purpose, namely, to bring home to the persons concerned the fact of retirement. That purpose will undoubtedly be served in a better way by personal or actual notice. To contend that actual notice cannot take the place of the public notice is to miss the substance of the matter and argue counter to the very principle on which the retiring/outgoing partner's liability is based.

29. The transactions pertaining to the partnership firm came to an end with its dissolution. The forming of proprietorship firm was in the same name but was a different and distinct entity. There was neither the extension, nor, the renewal of the partnership. The proprietorship was a unilateral act on the part of its proprietor i.e. Ranveer Singh. The second petitioner had no role in the constitution of the proprietorship firm in the same name.

30. The public notice mandated under Section 45, as noted herein above, would include personal notice to the bank with regard to the dissolution of the partnership firm and reconstitution of proprietorship firm with the same name. The respondent-bank has not denied that their officers at the relevant time had no knowledge or information of the dissolution, rather, a vague stand has been taken that the documents with regard to constitution of the partnership firm and the notice served upon the bank is not available on record. This is not sufficient to bind the outgoing partner for the fraudulent act of the proprietorship firm. Petitioner cannot be bound for the loss for the reason that the fraudulent act was committed after dissolution of the firm and after due information to the respondent-bank. There is no reason to disbelieve that the second petitioner had not given information to the bank for the reason that he was the outgoing partner and would not entail any liability upon himself.

31. Further it cannot be ruled out that the officers of the bank were not involved in the fraud by clearing the fake cheque. Merely because they were not charge sheeted, would not mean that the then officials of the bank were not in complicity with Ranveer Singh in commission of the fraud. The trial court has made an observation that the officers of the bank were negligent in clearing the fake cheque. The second petitioner was neither named, nor, charge-sheeted. In any case, the trial court judgement would not have a bearing on the rights/liability of the parties for the loss, including, contract made with the bank. It is not in dispute that the fraud was committed after the dissolution of the partnership firm. The denial of the notice/information by the bank is not emphatic and not by the then officer. The present officers of the bank (and not the then officer) has sworn the paragraphs on personal knowledge. At the most, it can be inferred that the communications by the petitioner and Ranveer Singh is not available in record of the bank, but that would certainly not mean or imply that the then officers had no information/knowledge of the dissolution of the firm.

32. In writ jurisdiction, the wit petition is decided on pleadings, affidavits and material placed on record by the respective parties. Having regard to the admitted facts and the stand taken by the bank, the scale of justice considerably tilts in favour of the petitioners. In the circumstances the writ petition is allowed.

33. The impugned order/ communications are accordingly quashed.

34. The respondent-bank is directed to release the bank account, F.D.Rs. and any other security asset, seized of the petitioners forthwith from the date of service of this order.

35. The petitioners shall be entitled to interest as admissible on the deposits/F.D.Rs. due from time to time till the date of release of the bank account/F.D.Rs. etc.

36. It is clarified that no other point or ground was pressed by the learned counsel for the respective parties.

37. This order, however, shall not preclude the respondent bank from taking recourse before the appropriate forum/court for recovery of its loss as per law, if so advised.

निगरानी न्यायालय अपर जिलाधिकारी वित्त एवं राजस्व कानपुर नगर उत्तरदाता सं० 1 के द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 31 जुलाई 2000 के विरुद्ध प्रस्तुत की गयी है।

3. संक्षेप में प्रकरण के तथ्य यह है कि याचिकाकर्ता को नोटिस संलग्नक 1 फार्म 49 के दिनांक 6.4.1993 को यह आरोप लगाते हुए प्रेषित किया कि उसने गाटा सं0 461/1390 क्षेत्रफल 0.031 हेक्टेयर गांव सभा सोना की भूमि पर अतिक्रमण कर लिया है। याचिकाकर्ता ने उक्त नोटिस के विरुद्ध आपत्ति संलग्नक 2 प्रस्तुत किया कि अतिक्रमण उसने नहीं किया वरन् श्रीमती मुन्नी देवी पत्नी प्रताप सिंह ने किया है। तदुपरान्त याचिकाकर्ता द्वारा साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत किया गया कि विचारण न्यायालय ने एकपक्षीय सर्वे आख्या दिनांकित 3 जनवरी 1993 पर विश्वास किया जिसमें बिना निर्धारित बिन्दु लिए ही यह अवधारित किया गया कि विवादित भूमि गाटा सं0 461/1390 में पड़ती है। तहसीलदार ने याचिकाकर्ता के विरुद्ध बेदखली एवं 50 रुपये हर्जाने का आदेश पारित किया जो संलग्नक 3 है।

4. उक्त आदेश के विरुद्ध याचिकाकर्ता ने निगरानी सं० 31/1994 प्रस्तुत किया जिसमें उभय पक्षों की उपस्थिति में पुनः सर्वे करने का आदेश दिनांक 31 जनवरी 1995 को पारित किया गया। उक्त आदेश संलग्नक 4 है। याची के अनुसार उप-तहसीलदार ने 4 वर्ष के उपरान्त बिना सर्वे किये हुए दिनांक 9.12.1999 को आख्या प्रस्तुत किया। ऐसा प्रतीत होता है कि उक्त आख्या कमरे में बैठकर बिना नाप-जोख किये तथा निर्धारित बिन्दुओं को अवधारित किये बगैर तैयार किया गया है जो संलग्नक 5 है। निगरानी पत्र संलग्रक 8 में यह आधार लिये गये है कि संपूर्ण भूमि का क्षेत्रफल लगभग 3 बिस्वा है तथा तहसीलदार की आख्या झूठी है। उत्तरदाता सं० 1 ने अवैध एवं मनमाने तौर पर यह विचार में लिये बगैर कि आख्या दिनांकित 9.12.1999 प्रस्तुत द्वारा उप-तहसीलदार बिना पैमाइश किये तथा निर्धारित बिन्दुओं को अवधारित किये बगैर दिया है तथा यह अवैध है, निगरानी को निरस्त कर दिया। उत्तरदाता सं० 1 व 2 ने एक तरफ अतिक्रमित भूमि का क्षेत्रफल 0.031 हे० से घटाकर 0.019 हे० कर दिया, दूसरी तरफ क्षतिपूर्ति की धनराशि 10 गुना बढ़ाकर 500 रुपये वार्षिक कर दिया। अतः उनके द्वारा पारित आदेश अवैध मनमाना एवं गलत है। याची ने विवादित संपत्ति पर अपने कब्जे को इनकार किया है तथा याची के अनुसार सर्वे से यह स्थापित नहीं हुआ है कि याची ने विवादित भूमि पर अतिक्रमण किया है। प्रतिकर की धनराशि भी मनमाने तथा बाजार दर के विपरीत है जैसा कि नियम 115 द (II) के अंतर्गत आकलित किया जाना चाहिए। प्रश्नगत आदेश प्राकृतिक न्याय के सिद्धान्तों के विरुद्ध है। धारा 122-B में उपधारा 4 (ङ) के संयोजन के उपरान्त याची घोषणात्मक वाद प्रस्तुत करने से प्रतिबंधित है जो अधिकारातीत है। अतः प्रश्नगत आदेश निरस्त किया जाये।

5. याची ने याचिका में वर्णित अभिलेखों को संलग्रको के रूप में प्रस्तुत किया है।

6. विपक्षी की तरफ से प्रति शपथ पत्र दिनांकित 10 जुलाई 2001 प्रस्तुत किया गया तथा यह कथन किया गया कि संबंधित लेखपाल ने दिनांक 6.1.1993 को यह आख्या प्रस्तुत किया कि शिव गोपाल गुप्ता पुत्र रामलाल गुप्ता निवासी ग्राम सोना तहसील एवं जिला कानपुर नगर ने गांवसभा की चकरोड की भूमि गाटा सं0 461/1390 क्षेत्रफल 0.031 है० भूमि पर कब्जा कर लिया है तथा उसे अपने गाटा सं0-461 में सन् 1400 फसली में मिला लिया है, अतः 3000 रुपये की क्षति हुई है। लेखपाल ने अपनी आख्या के साथ मानचित्र खतौनी 1396 फसली ता 1401 फसली का खसरा 1400 फसली प्रस्तुत किया। उक्त रिपोर्ट पर धारा 122 बी० उत्तर प्रदेश जमींदारी उन्मूलन एवं भूमि सुधार अधिनियम के अंतर्गत कार्यवाही प्रारंभ करते हुए याचिकाकर्ता के विरुद्ध 49 क की सूचना जारी की गयी जिसमें उसने आपत्ति में यह कथन किया कि विवादित भूमि नाली एवं रास्ते की भूमि है तथा उसका उक्त भूमि से कोई संबंध सरोकार नहीं है न ही वह उसके कब्जे में है। विवादित भूमि के उत्तर में भूमि सं0 462 श्रीमती मुन्नी देवी हैं जिन्होंने नाली एवं रास्ते को क्षतिग्रस्त करते हुए अतिक्रमण किया है।

7. गांवसभा की तरफ से लेखपाल को परीक्षित किया गया जिसने अपने सशपथ साक्ष्य में अपनी आख्या को साबित किया तथा यह कथन किया कि याचिकाकर्ता ही विवादित भूमि पर अनधिकृत कब्जे में है जिससे गांवसभा को 3000 रुपये की क्षति कारित हुई है। याची ने भी स्वयं तथा 2 साक्षीगण शिवबरन सिंह एवं मोतीलाल को परीक्षित कराया।

8. एक कमीशन जारी किया गया तथा नायब तहसीलदार ने स्थल निरीक्षण किया तथा सर्वे कार्यवाही याची के विद्वान अधिवक्ता की उपस्थिति में करते हुए आख्या प्रस्तुत किया जिसके विरुद्ध याचिकाकर्ता ने आपत्ति प्रस्तुत किया तथा नायब तहसीलदार की आख्या निरस्त करने का निवेदन किया। खतौनी एवं खसरा में विवादित भूमि रास्ता दर्ज है तथा खसरा सं० 1400 फसली में एक टिप्पणी अंकित की गयी है कि शिव गोपाल गुप्ता ने विवादित भूमि पर अनधिकृत कब्जा कर लिया है जो नायब तहसीलदार की आख्या से भी स्पष्ट है।

9. अधीनस्थ न्यायालय ने समस्त मौखिक एवं अभिलेखीय साक्ष्यों का अवलोकन करने के उपरान्त यह अवधारित किया कि

याची ने गांवसभा की भूमि सं० 461/1390 क्षेत्रफल 0.0310 हे० पर अवैध अतिक्रमण किया है तथा गांवसभा को क्षति कारित किया है। अतः 100 रुपये हर्जा तथा 3 रुपये बेदखली व्यय का आदेश दिनांक 10.01.2000 को पारित किया गया। याचिकाकर्ता द्वारा प्रस्तुत निगरानी भी तदनुसार दिनांक 31 जुलाई 2000 को खारिज की गयी तथा विचारण न्यायालय के आदेश को पुष्ट किया गया।

10. नोटिस जारी होने के उपरान्त भी याचिकाकर्ता अनुपस्थित रहा जिस पर दिनांक 27.9.1997 को एकपक्षीय आदेश पारित किया गया, तदुपरान्त उसे उक्त आदेश को निरस्त करने के लिए निगरानीकर्ता ने प्रार्थना पत्र प्रस्तुत किया जो दिनांक 18.10.1997 को निरस्त किया गया। पुनः नायब तहसीलदार से आख्या मंगाई गयी, जो अंततः दिनांक 9.12.1999 को प्रस्तुत की गयी। उक्त कार्यवाही में याची भी उपस्थित था तथा जब पत्रावली 10 जनवरी 2000 को प्रस्तुत हुई तो भी याची उपस्थित नहीं था। अतः पत्रावली के अनुशीलन एवं परिशीलन करने के उपरान्त नायब तहसीलदार ने दिनांक 10 जनवरी 2000 को आदेश पारित किया। विवादित गाटे का संपूर्ण क्षेत्रफल 0.031 हे० है परन्तु संपूर्ण नाप-जोख करने के उपरान्त यह पाया गया कि याची ने गांवसभा के रास्ते की भूमि पर मात्र 0.019 हे० भूमि पर ही कब्जा किया है। अतः उसी के संबंध में बेदखली का आदेश पारित किया गया। दूसरा सर्वे आख्या भी संपूर्ण नाप-जोख को कार्यवाही याची की उपस्थिति में करने के उपरान्त प्रथम आख्या का सत्यापन करते हुए प्रस्तुत किया गया था। यह कहना गलत है कि नायब तहसीलदार ने स्थिर बिन्दुओं के आधार पर सर्वे की कार्यवाही नहीं किया है। क्षतिपूर्ति की धनराशि को अपर तहसीलदार ने सही पाया अतः उक्त क्षति पूर्ति को प्रदान करने का आदेश 7 वर्षों तक अवैध कब्जे में रहने के आधार पर पारित किया गया। क्षतिपूर्ति का निर्धारण बाजार दर के आधार पर किया गया है। अतः उसने संगणना में कोई अवैधता नहीं है। अतः याचिका खारिज किया जाये। ऐसी प्रति शपथ पत्र के साथ छाया प्रति कब्जा प्राप्ति अभिलेख दिनांकित 22.12.2000 भी संलग्न किया गया है जिसे अनुसार चकरोड भूमि सं0 461/1390 क्षेत्रफल 0.019 हे० ग्राम सोना का कब्जा मौके पर ग्राम प्रधान को शिव गोपाल गुप्ता (याची) को बेदखल करके प्रदान किया गया है।

11. उक्त प्रति शपथ पत्र के विरुद्ध याची द्वारा कोई रिज्वाइंडर शपथ पत्र प्रस्तुत नहीं किया गया है।

12. सुना तथा पत्रावली का अवलोकन किया।

13. याची ने मुख्य रूप से प्रथम आधार यह लिया है कि दुबारा जब उप- तहसीलदार ने दिनांक 09-12-1999 को आख्या प्रस्तुत किया तो ऐसा प्रतीत होता है कि कमरे में बैठकर बिना नाप जोख किये तथा स्थिर बिंदुओं को अवधारित किये बगैर तैयार किया।

14. याची ने द्वितीय आधार यह लिया है कि पूर्व में उत्तरदातागण के अनुसार याची द्वारा अतिक्रमित भूमि का क्षेत्रफल 0.031 हेक्टेयर था परन्तु दुबारा उसे घटाकर मात्र 0.016 हेक्टेयर पर अतिक्रमण करना बताया।

15. याची ने तृतीय आधार यह लिया है कि अतिक्रमित भूमि का क्षेत्रफल 0.031 हेक्टेयर से घटकर 0.019 हेक्टेयर हो गया तो क्योंकर क्षतिपूर्ति की धनराशि दस गुना बढ़ाकर पांच सौ रुपए वार्षिक कर दिया गया। प्रतिकर की धनराशि मनमाना तथा बाजार दर के विपरीत है। इसका आकलन नियम- 115, द(ii) के अंतर्गत किया जाना चाहिए था।

16. याची की तीनों आपत्तियों का निस्तारण करते हुए इस याचिका का निस्तारण किया जाता हैं।

17. प्रथम आपत्ति- याची की प्रथम आपत्ति यह है कि उप-तहसीलदार ने बिना सर्वे किये दिनांक 09-12-1999 को आख्या प्रस्तुत किया। पत्रावली के अवलोकन से ज्ञात होता है कि पूर्व में भी सर्वे दिनांकित 03-01-1993 को एक पक्षीय आख्या कहते हुए याची ने निगरानी संख्या 31/1994 प्रस्तुत किया था उसमें दिनांक 31-01-1995 को पुनः सर्वे करने का आदेश पारित किया गया, परन्तु पुनः उप-तहसीलदार द्वारा चार वर्ष के उपरान्त सर्वे की कार्यवाही की गई तथा याची के अनुसार बिना सर्वे किये हुए दिनांक 09-12-1999 को आख्या प्रस्तुत की गई। इस सर्वे आख्या को याची ने संलग्नक पाँच के रूप में याचिका के साथ संलग्न किया। संलग्नक संख्या-5 के अवलोकन से ज्ञात होता है कि पूर्व में नायब तहसीलदार श्री होरी लाल शाक्य ने विपक्षी के अधिवक्ता के समक्ष पैमाइश कर अपनी आख्या दिनांक 03-08-1993 को प्रस्तुत किया था। आदेश दिनांकित 31-01-1995 के अनुपालन में वर्तमान नायब-तहसीलदार द्वारा पुनः कानूनगो एवं लेखपाल के साथ मौके पर पहुंचकर याची विपक्षी की उपस्थिति में मौके की नाप की गई तथा स्थिर बिंदुओं की पुष्टि की गई। मौके पर स्थिर बिंदु सही मिले तथा पुनः नाप किया तो ज्ञात हुआ कि चक संख्या-661/1390, जो भूमि संख्या-461 के पूरब स्थित है, को विपक्षी ने अपने खेत संख्या-461 में मिला लिया है तथा चक संख्या 461 की मेड़ को ही 462 की मेड़ बना दिया है तथा चक संख्या -461 की पूर्वी मेड़ मौके पर विद्यमान नहीं है एवं 461 के पूरब की ओर के चकरोड को अपने खेत में मिला लिया है। माप करने पर 0.019 हेक्टेयर भूमि को सन् 1400 फसली से

अनधिकृत कब्जा करके विपक्षी याची द्वारा अपने खेत संख्या 461 में मिला लेने का तथ्य सर्वे से साबित पाया गया तथा यह पाया गया कि मौके पर चकरोड पूरी तरह समाप्त हो गया है। जिससे ग्रामसभा को क्षति हुई है।

18. उक्त आख्या के उपरान्त पुनः याची को सुना गया तथा दिनांक 10-01- 2000 को याची को भूमि संख्या-46/1390, क्षेत्रफल 0.019 हेक्टेयर से बेदखल करने का आदेश पारित किया गया।

19. इस न्यायालय के मतानुसार अपर तहसीलदार एवं निगरानी न्यायालय का निर्णय जो नायब तहसीलदार के सर्वे आख्या पर आधारित है, में तथ्यतः एवं विधितः कोई त्रुटि नहीं है। पैमाइश से यह निष्कर्ष नहीं निकला कि मुन्नी देवी ने भी गांवसभा की भूमि पर कोई अतिक्रमण किया है। मात्र इस आधार पर कि याची के पक्ष में निष्कर्ष नहीं निकला, यह नहीं कहा जा सकता कि सर्वे आख्या तथा इस संबंध में पारित प्रश्नगत दोनों आदेश त्रुटिपूर्ण हैं, अतः याची की प्रथम आपत्ति संधार्य नहीं है तथा निरस्त किया जाता है।

20. द्वितीय आपत्ति- याची ने द्वितीय आपत्ति यह की है कि पूर्व में अतिक्रमित भूमि का क्षेत्रफल 0.0131 हेक्टेयर बताया गया था परन्तु बाद में उसे घटाकर 0.019 हेक्टेयर मात्र बताया जा रहा है। इस न्यायालय के मतानुसार यदि सर्वे पैमाइश से यह निष्कर्ष निकलता है कि याची ने विवादित भूमि गाटा संख्या- 46/1390 के मात्र 0.019 हेक्टेयर पर अवैध कब्जा किया है तो उक्त क्षेत्रफल की भूमि के संबंध में ही आदेश पारित किया गया। यह संभव है कि धारा- 122 (बी.), की कार्यवाही को देखते हुए याची ने अपने अतिक्रमण का विस्तार कम कर दिया हो, अतः यह भिन्नता कोई आधार नहीं है कि प्रश्नगत आदेश त्रुटिपूर्ण मान लिया जाये। अतः यह आपत्ति भी याची के विरुद्ध निर्णीत की जाती है।

21. तृतीय आपत्ति- याची की तृतीय आपत्ति यह है कि यदि गाँवसभा की अतिक्रमित भूमि का क्षेत्रफल 0.031 हेक्टेयर के बजाय मात्र 0.019 हेक्टेयर ही पाया गया तथा पूर्व में मात्र पचास रुपए प्रति वर्ष की दर से वर्ष 1994 में जुर्माना आरोपित किया गया तो बाद में पाँच सौ रुपए प्रति माह क्षतिपूर्ति अदायगी का आदेश किस प्रकार कर दिया गया। इस संबंध में यह तर्क दिया जा सकता है कि वर्ष 1994 तथा वर्ष 2000 में छः वर्ष में मुद्रास्फीति की स्थिति को देखते हुए क्षतिपूर्ति की धनराशि को बढ़ाया जाना स्वाभाविक है तथा याची के लिए कोई कारण नहीं था कि अनायास गाँवसभा की चकरोड की भूमि पर कब्जा कर अपने खेत में मिलाकर आवागमन को अवरुद्ध कर दे तथा दोषपूर्ण अभिलाभ प्राप्त करे। यद्यपि यह अवश्य है कि प्रतिकर का आकलन तत्समय प्रचलित उत्तर प्रदेश जमींदारी उन्मूलन अधिनियम्/उत्तर प्रदेश जमींदारी एवम् भूमि सुधार उन्मूलन नियम, 1952 के अंतर्गत निर्मित नियमों के अनुसार किया जाना चाहिए। वस्तुतः निष्पादन व्यय तथा क्षतिपूर्ति की वसूली का विधान नियम 115 ङ एवं 115 च में किया गया है न कि नियम 115 द(1) में किया गया है।

22. नियम 115 ङ (2) में यह वर्णित है कि 49 च फार्म में निष्पादन व्यय के रूप में वसूल की जाने वाली धनराशि तथा नियुक्त कर्मियों का वेतन एवं भत्ता पैरा-405 रेवेन्यू कोर्ट मैनुअल में विहित दर से आकलित करके लिखा जाएगा।

23. धारा-115 च (1) के अनुसार समस्त क्षतिपूर्ति एवं निष्पादन व्यय की धनराशि को जिलाधिकारी द्वारा मालगुजारी की वसूली की भांति वसूल कर गाँव फण्ड अथवा स्थानीय प्राधिकारी के फण्ड में जमा किया जाएगा तथा कर्मियों के वेतन एवम् टी. ए. की धनराशि को तहसील, उप-खजाना में शीर्षक "029 भू-राजस्व इ अन्य रसीद (5), कलेक्शन ऑफ पेमेंट फॉर सर्विसेज रेन्डर्ड 99' में जमा किया जाएगा।

24. 115 च (2) के अनुसार यदि दुर्विनियोजन के कारण हुई क्षति या हानि इस प्रकृति की है कि उसको पूर्ववत् करना अथवा प्रतिपूर्ति करना संभव नहीं है तो जिलाधिकारी बाजार दर से धन के रूप में उसका आकलन करेंगे तथा यदि अवैध कब्जे से गाँवसभा अथवा स्थानीय प्राधिकारी को क्षति हुई है तो प्रत्येक वर्ष के लिए इस तरह के कब्जे या उसके किसी स्वीकृत वंशानुगत दरों के सौ गुना पर ह्रास का आकलन किया जाएगा। यदि ऐसा कब्जाधारी इस तरह के गलत कब्जे में बना रहता है तो वह आदेश की तारीख के बाद जारी कब्जे के संबंध में प्रत्येक माह के लिए इस तरह से निर्धारित नुकसान के 1/8 हिस्से का भुगतान करने के लिए और उत्तरदायी होगा। इस संबंध में उत्तर प्रदेश राज्य बनाम राजाराम 1983 आर.डी. 351 में भी सिद्धांत प्रतिपादित किये गये हैं।

25. याची ने सिवाय इस तथ्य के इनकार करने के कि उसने ग्राम पंचायत की भूमि गाटा संख्या-46/1390 में अतिक्रमण नहीं किया है, यह कथन नहीं किया है कि उसने स्वयं के द्वारा किये गये अतिक्रमण को हटा लिया है। इस संबंध में यह अवधारित किया जाता है कि क्षतिपूर्ति का आकलन उत्तर-प्रदेश जमींदारी उन्मूलन नियम- 115 द (ii) के अनुसार किया जाना चाहिए। अतः याची की यह आपत्ति उपरोक्तानुसार निस्तारित की जाती है।

26. धारा-122 ख., उत्तर-प्रदेश जमींदारी उन्मूलन अधिनियम निम्नवत् है-

27. धारा-122 ख., (1), के अनुसार यदि ग्राम पंचायत में निहित किसी भूमि को किसी व्यक्ति द्वारा क्षति पहुँचायी जाती है अथवा दुर्विनियोग किया जाता है। तो ग्राम पंचायत उसको ग्रहण करने एवं उसके कब्जे को वापस प्राप्त करने के लिए अधिकारी है। ग्राम पंचायत की भूमि नियमानुसार ही किसी व्यक्ति को आवंटित की जा सकती है तथा चकरोड़ की भूमि किसी भी दशा में किसी भी व्यक्ति को आवंटित नहीं की जा सकती है। यदि ऐसा अवैध अदिक्रमण पाया जाता है तो सहायक कलेक्टर धारा-122 ख. (2) के अंतर्गत ऐसे व्यक्ति को नोटिस जारी करेगा। धारा-122 ख, (3) के अनुसार यदि स्पष्टीकरण अपर्याप्त पाया जाता है तो उसकी बेदखली तथा क्षतिपूर्ति प्रदान करने का आदेश पारित करेगा जो मालगुजारी की तरह वसूल योग्य होगी तथा धारा-122 ख (4), के अनुसार यदि ऐसे व्यक्ति को दोषी नहीं पाया जाता है तो नोटिस समाप्त कर दिया जाएगा।

28. धारा-122 ख, (4) क के अनुसार सहायक कलेक्टर के आदेश से क्षुब्ध व्यक्ति तीन दिन के अंदर कलेक्टर के समक्ष निगरानी प्रस्तुत कर सकता है, तथा निगरानी सहायक कलेक्टर का आदेश उप-धारा-4(क), एवं (4) घ, के अंतर्गत अंतिम होगा, अर्थात् निगरानी अथवा उप-धारा-4(घ), के अंतर्गत प्रस्तुत वाद सक्षम न्यायालय के निर्णय के अध्यधीन होगा। उप-धारा-4(ङ). एक प्रतिबंध आरोपित करता है कि यदि उप-धारा-4(क), के अंतर्गत निगरानी प्रस्तुत की गई है तो उप-धारा-4(घ), के अंतर्गत वाद प्रस्तुत नहीं किया जा सकेगा।

29. उप-धारा-4(च), एक उपचार अनुसूचित जाति एवं अनुसूचित जनजाति के कृषि श्रमिकों को प्रदान करता है कि यदि वह धारा 132, जमींदारी उन्मूलन अधिनियम् के अंतर्गत ग्राम-पंचायत में निहित किसी भूमि पर 13-05-2007 के पूर्व से कब्जे में है तथा उसके पास 3.125 एकड़ से अधिक भूमि नहीं है, तो ऐसे व्यक्ति के विरुद्ध कोई कार्यवाही नहीं की जाएगी। निश्चित ही याची गुप्ता बिरादरी का होने के कारण इस लाभ को प्राप्त करने का अधिकारी नहीं है।

30. चोब सिंह विरुद्ध उत्तर प्रदेश राज्य 2000 आर.डी. 233., सूरज बली विरुद्ध गाँवसभा 1982 ए.डब्ल्यू. सी.(आर.) 149 एवं श्रीपति विरुद्ध गाँवसभा 1994 (23), ए.एल.आर (आर.) 18 में यह अवधारित किया गया कि गाँवसभा की भूमि पर अवैध निर्माण, वृक्षारोपण तथा चकरोड़ के किसी भाग को अपनी भूमि में मिला लेना गाँवसभा की सम्पत्ति की क्षति करने एवं उसका दुर्विनियोग करने के उदाहरण हैं। प्रस्तुत वाद में ग्राम-पंचायत के चकरोड को याची द्वारा अपने चक में मिलाकर ग्राम पंचायत को क्षति एवं दुर्विनियोग कारित किया गया।

31. डालसिंह विरुद्ध अतिरिक्त कलेक्टर मेरठ 2006 (101), आर.डी.(एच.) 7, हाईकोर्ट में अवधारित किया गया कि अवैध कब्जा संबंधी निर्णय तथ्य का निष्कर्ष है तथा यह उच्च न्यायालय द्वारा खण्डित किये जाने योग्य है। यह निर्णयज विधि भी याची के विरुद्ध प्रयुक्त होती है।

32. उपरोक्त आधारों पर यह निष्कर्ष निकलता है कि याची ने ग्राम पंचायत के चकरोड गाटा संख्या-461/1390 के 0.019 हेक्टेयर भूमि पर अवैध कब्जा कर ग्राम पंचायत को क्षति कारित किया है तथा ग्राम पंचायत की सम्पत्ति का दुर्विनियोग किया है, अतः उक्त 0.019 हेक्टेयर भूमि से याची बेदखल किये जाने योग्य है तथा इस संबंध में पारित प्रश्नगत आदेश तथ्यतः एवं विधितः सही एवं वैध है।

33. जहाँ तक क्षतिपूर्ति के आरोपण का प्रश्न है यह क्षतिपूर्ति का आरोपण नियम- 115 द (ii), के अनुसार आकलित कर आरोपित किया जाना चाहिए परन्तु इस संबंध में प्रभगत आदेशों में कोई विवरण प्रस्तुत नहीं किया गया है कि उक्त नियम का अनुपालन करते हुए पाँच सौ रुपए प्रति वर्ष की धनराशि की क्षतिपूर्ति की राशि का भुगतान का आरोपण किया गया है, अतएव यह याचिका अंशतः क्षतिपूर्ति की धनराशि के आरोपण के संबंध में स्वीकार किये जाने योग्य है।

आदेश

34. यह याचिका अंशतः अपर तहसीलदार, कानपुर नगर के आदेश दिनांकित 10-01-2000 तथा निगरानी न्यायालय के निर्णय दिनांकित 31-07-2000, बाबल बेदखली याची उपरोक्तानुसार खण्डित की जाती है तथा बाबत आरोपण क्षतिपूर्ति की धनराशि अंशतः इस प्रकार स्वीकार की जाती है कि विपक्षीगण उत्तर-प्रदेश जमींदारी उन्मूलन एवम् भूमि सुधार नियम, 1952 के नियम115 (ङ) एवम् (च), के अनुसार जितनी क्षतिपूर्ति की धनराशि बनती है, उतनी क्षतिपूर्ति की धनराशि का आरोपण एक माह में करे तथा उसे याची तदुपरान्त तीस दिवस के अंदर भुगतान करे। यह आदेश अनुपालनार्थ जिलाधिकारी कानपुर नगर को प्रेषित हो।

Criminal Appeal No. 1071 of 2010

Hasmuddin ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:

Sri Arvind Agrawal, Sri Dileep Kumar, Sri M.A. Siddiqui

Counsel for the Respondent:

A. Criminal Law – Appeal- - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 304B & 498A - Against conviction under IPC read with Sections 3 and 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961- Accused married the deceased as per Muslim rites and rituals- deceased burnt alive by pouring kerosene oil on her body- dying declaration- intact- conviction by trial court on account of homicidal death- upheld. (Para 10)

HELD: The first dying declaration dated 22.02.2006 implicates the accused and there is no doubt in our mind that the said dying declaration fulfil all the requirements as enunciated by the 3 Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Govindappa & ors. Vs St. of Karnataka, (2010) 6 SCC 533, and rightly acted upon by the learned Additional Sessions Judge. However, the second dying declaration even if it is brushed aside, the name of the husband is resurfaced also and post mortem report will permit us to concur with the learned Additional Sessions Judge that the death was homicidal death. (Para 10)

B. Harshness of sentence- reformative theory of punishment in India- proper sentence- sentence should not be either excessively harsh or- principle of proportionality to be followed- discretion of court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically- sentence of life imprisonment substituted with imprisonment already gone- Appeal partly allowed. (Para 13, 14, 15 and 18)

HELD: 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs St. of UP [(2004) 7 SCC 257] by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically. (Para 14)

Appeal partly allowed. (E-14)

5. On being summoned, the accused pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried.

6. The Trial started and the prosecution examined 14 witnesses who are as follows:

1	Mohammad Saddiq	PW1
2	Wasim	PW2
3	Nasruddin	PW3
4	Dr. Sanjay Kumar Gupta	PW4
5	Dr. R.K. Garg	PW5
6	Brijpal Singh	PW6
7	Sub- Inspector, Jaidev Singh	PW7
8	Constable Gajraj Singh	PW8
9	Dr. N.P. Pandey	PW9
10	Sishya Pal Singh	PW10
11	Kripa Shankar Dubey	PW11
12	R.V. Singh	PW12
13	Subhas Chand	PW13
14	Dr. Vinay Kumar	PW14

7. In support of ocular version following documents were filed:

1	F.I.R.	Ex.Ka.10
2	Written Report	Ex.Ka.1
3	Dying Declaration	Ex. Ka.5
4	Recovery memo of clothes of Body	Ex.Ka.13
5	Injury Report	Ex. Ka. 4
6	Postmortem Report	Ex.Ka.3
7	Charge-sheet	Ex. Ka. 11
8	Site Plan	Ex.Ka.12
9	Second declaration	Ex. Ka 15

8. At the end of the trial and after recording the statement of the accused under section 313 of Cr.P.C., and hearing arguments on behalf of prosecution and the defence, the learned Sessions Judge convicted the appellant as mentioned above.

9. It is an admitted position of fact that death occurred due to setting ablaze of the deceased. There are two dying declarations however while going through the record, it is clear that the appellant is the author of the incident and therefore after arguing the matter at length, learned counsel for the appellant requested this Court to consider the sentence of the accused as he has been convicted under Section 304B IPC for life and septicaemial death is occurred after two and half month of medical treatment of the deceased.

10. The first dying declaration dated 22.02.2006 implicates the accused and there is no doubt in our mind that the said dying declaration fulfil all the requirements as enunciated by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Govindappa and others vs. State of Karnataka, (2010) 6 SCC 533, and rightly acted upon by the learned Additional Sessions Judge. However, the second dying declaration even if it is brushed aside, the name of the husband is resurfaced also and post mortem report will permit us to concur with the learned Additional Sessions Judge that the death was homicidal death.

11. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State submits that looking to the gruesomeness of the offence and the evidence of prosecution witnesses, this Court should not show any leniency in the matter. It is further submitted by learned A.G.A. that ingredients of Section 304B of IPC are rightly held to be made out by the learned Sessions Judge who has applied the law to the facts in case.

12. We have considered the evidence of witnesses and the Post mortem report which states that the injuries on the body of the deceased would be the cause of death and that it was homicidal death, we concur with the finding of the Court below. However, it is to be seen whether the sentence awarded is too harsh. In this regard, we have to analyse the theory of punishment prevailing in India.

13. In Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, [AIR 1977 SC 1926], explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

14. 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP [(2004) 7 SCC 257] by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

15. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532], Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734], Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323], State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, [(2015) 3 SCC 441], and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463] and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

16. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

17. As discussed above, 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is very harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Apex Court, as discussed above, has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformative approach underlying in criminal justice system.

18. The punishment under Section 498A IPC and 3/4 D.P. Act are concerned the accused is in jail for more than 12 years and hence the said punishment and default punishment have also completed, therefore, we need not observe to them. As far as Section 304B IPC is concerned, the punishment would be substituted from life imprisonment to imprisonment already undergone.

19. Learned Additional Sessions Judge has not imposed any fine or any default sentence under Section 304 B IPC. We also do not propose the same. We concur with it and substitute the sentence that already undergone. The accused-appellant be set free forthwith, if not wanted in any other case.

20. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and order passed by the learned Sessions Judge shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. Record be sent back to the Trial Court forthwith.

Civil Law –Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 - Section 25 - Revision- Landlord filed SCC suit- eviction of tenants from the rented shop- Application under Order XV Rule 5 CPC by landlord- tenant's defence struck off by impugned order- plea of holding possession in part performance of an agreement to sell taken by tenant- suit for specific performance also pending between the parties- no monthly deposit due as mandated under Order XV Rule 5(1) made- payment made towards consideration in an agreement to sell not made in the capacity of a tenant- tenant's defence rightly struck off- Trial court's order upheld – Revision dismissed (Para – 10, 11, and 12)

HELD: A bare reading of the provisions of Rule 5 of Order XV make it clear that there are two parts of the tenant's obligation to deposit rent in Court in a case where the landlord sues the tenant for eviction, after determination of his lease, as also for recovery of rent and damages for use and occupation. The first part requires the tenant to deposit at or before the first hearing of the suit, the entire amount on account of rent, damage etc. admitted by him to be due together with interest thereon @ 9% per annum. The second part requires the tenant to deposit throughout the pendency of the suit, the monthly amount of rent within a week of its accrual, whether he admits it to be due or not. The Rule further provides that non-compliance of either of the two parts of sub-Rule (1) of Rule 5 of Order XV of the Code entitles the Court to strike off the tenant's defence. There is a distinction between the expression 'entire amount admitted by him to be due' in the first part of sub-Rule (1) of Rule 5 of Order XV of the Code and the expression 'monthly amount due', occurring in the second part of sub-Rule (1) of Rule 5 of Order XV. (Para 10)

So far as deposit to be made on the first date of hearing is concerned, there are three kinds of adjustments that could be made. The first is of any sum of money paid by the tenant in taxes to a local authority in respect of the building on the lessor's account. The second is any amount paid to the lessor and acknowledged by him in writing and signed by him. The third class of money that can be adjusted is that deposited by the tenant in Court under Section 30 of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 (for short, 'the Act of 1972'). By contrast, in case of monthly deposits to be made, the only allowance that the Rule permits is with regard to taxes payable to the local authority in respect of the building on the landlord's account. No other sum of money can be adjusted against the tenant's obligation to deposit the monthly rent or damage for use and occupation during the course of the suit. (Para 11)

Revision dismissed. (E-14)

2. Krishna Kumar Gupta Vs Manoj Kumar Sahu, (2017) 4 All LJ 127

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This revision under Section 25 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 is directed against an order of Mr. Devashish, Additional District Judge, Court No.10, Varanasi, sitting as the Judge, Small Cause Court dated 05.04.2022, striking off the tenants' defence under Order XV Rule 5 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908 (for short, "the Code').

2. The plaintiff-respondent, Ashok Kumar Mishra, who shall hereinafter be referred to as "the landlord', instituted S.C.C. Suit No. 5 of 2022 in the Court of the District Judge, Varanasi (sitting as the Judge, Small Cause Court) against the defendant-revisionists (for short, "the tenants'), seeking a decree for eviction of the tenants from the shop detailed at the foot of the plaint. In addition, a decree for recovery of arrears of rent to the tune of Rs.2,69,237/- for the period 02.04.2017 to 12.03.2020 was sought. A further sum of Rs. 32,013/- was claimed as mesne profits for the period 13.03.2020 to 08.07.2020. These claims apart mesne profits at the rate of Rs.8545/- per month were claimed pendente lite and future till delivery of actual physical possession to the landlord. The aforesaid suit was instituted by the landlord, seeking the tenants' eviction from a shop admeasuring 350 square feet, situate in premises No. B-30/2A-3, Prafull Nagar Colony, Lanka, District Varanasi.

3. The tenants have put in their written statement dated 23.03.2021, denying the plaint allegations. In substance, the defence taken by the tenants is that though they entered the premises as tenants on a rent of Rs.5000/- per month and paid a sum of Rs.3,00,000/- as security in terms of a rent agreement dated 23.12.2008, but during the currency of the tenancy, parties have entered into a registered agreement to sell dated 22.06.2011, where the landlord has covenanted to sell the demised shop to the tenants for a total sale consideration of Rs.17,50,000/-. It is also the tenants' defence that a sum of Rs.7,50,000/- has been accepted as earnest. It is also pleaded that the tenants have been delivered possession in part performance of the registered agreement to sell. The landlord has of his own given up his right to receive rent after the month of January, 2011, when he received it last.

4. Pending the suit for eviction, the landlord moved an application under Order XV Rule 5 of the Code with a prayer that the tenants' defence be struck off for non-compliance of the aforesaid mandatory provision of the law. The application was answered by the tenants through objections saying that there was an earlier unregistered agreement dated 22.02.2011, under which the landlord agreed to transfer the demised shop on the contracted price of Rs.17,50,000/-. It was also said by the tenants that a suit for specific performance being O.S. No. 1174 of 2014, Sarita Mehrishi vs. Ashok Kumar has been instituted, which is pending before the Court of competent jurisdiction. It was also raised as a defence to the plea for striking off the tenants' defence that the tenants were in possession of the demised shop in part performance of the agreement to sell and not as tenants qua the said premises.

5. The Trial Court did not accept any of the contentions put forth by the tenants and struck off their defence. The Trial Court was of opinion that even if some advance was paid towards part price of a contracted sale, no adjustment could be made with regard to any advance so far as rent required to be deposited month by month during the pendency of the suit was concerned.

6. Heard Mr. Rahul Mishra, learned Counsel for the tenants in support of the motion to admit this revision to hearing and Mr. Atul Dayal, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Ms. Vaishali Sahu, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the landlord.

7. It is not in dispute that the tenants entered the demised shop as such on an eleven month lease paying a security in the sum of Rs.3,00,000/-. No doubt, there appears to be first an unregistered agreement to sell dated 22.02.2011 and then a registered agreement dated 22.06.2011 executed by the landlord in favour of the tenants, relating to the demised shop. The registered agreement dated 22.06.2011 mentions the various sums of money received by the landlord through bank instruments and in cash for receipts executed.

8. The registered agreement to sell settles the transaction for sale of the demised shop for a sale consideration of Rs.17,50,000/-. The agreement records the fact that a sum of Rs.7,50,000/- out of the agreed sale consideration has been received by the landlord from the tenants from time to time as per details mentioned in the document. There is, however, nothing in the registered agreement to sell that may show delivery of possession to the tenants in part performance, so as to alter character of the tenants' possession from tenancy possession into one held in part performance of the registered agreement to sell. Rather, in Paragraph No. 5 of the registered agreement, there is a recital to the following effect:

"5. यह कि हम प्रथम पक्ष ने कुल मजमून सट्टा इकरार-नामा बिला कब्जा हाजा को खुब अच्छी तरह से पढ़ व पढ़वाकर सुन व समझ कर उसके असरातो से वखूबी वाकिफ होकर यह चन्द कलमा बतरीक सट्टा इकरारनामा बिला कब्जा मोआहिदा बय बहक द्वितीय पक्ष तहरीर कर दिया कि सनद रहे व वक्त जरूरत पर काम आवे।"

(emphasis by Court)

9. The aforesaid recital shows that the agreement to sell expressly made it one which did not deliver possession to the tenants in part performance. Now, in the present suit, it is not for this Court to go into the rights of parties to seek specific performance of the registered agreement. The purpose of looking into this agreement is to find out as to what was the nature of the tenants' possession in the demised shop.

The terms of the registered agreement unmistakably point to the fact that the tenants continue to occupy the demised shop in their character as tenants and do not hold possession in part performance of the registered agreement, delivered to them by the landlord, as they claim. The provisions of Order XV Rule 5 CPC as amended in their application to the State of Uttar Pradesh vide U.P. Act No. 57 of 1976 and Notification dated 10th February, 1981, read:

"5. Striking off defence on failure to deposit admitted rent, etc.--(1) In any suit by a lessor for the eviction of a lessee after the determination of his lease and for the recovery from him of rent or compensation for use and occupation, the defendant shall, at or before the first hearing of the suit, deposit the entire amount admitted by him to be due together with interest thereon at the rate of nine per centum per annum and whether or not he admits any amount to be due, he shall throughout the continuation of the suit regularly deposit the monthly amount due within a week from the date of its accrual, and in the event of any default in making, the deposit of the entire amount admitted by him to be due or the monthly amount due as aforesaid, the Court may, subject to the provisions of sub-rule (2), strike off his defence.

Explanation 1.--The expression "first hearing' means the date for filing written statement or for hearing mentioned in the summons or where more than one of such dates are mentioned, the last of the dates mentioned.

Explanation 2.--The expression "entire amount admitted by him to be due' means the entire gross amount, whether as rent or compensation for use and occupation, calculated at the admitted rate of rent for the admitted period of arrears after making no other deduction except the taxes, if any, paid to a local authority in respect of the building on lessor's account *[and the amount, if any, paid to the lessor acknowledged by the lessor in writing signed by him] and the amount, if any, deposited in any Court under Section 30 of the U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972.

Explanation 3.--(1) The expression "monthly amount due' means the amount due every month, whether as rent or compensation for use and occupation at the admitted rate of rent, after making no other deduction except the taxes, if any, paid to a local authority in respect of the building on lessor's account.

(2) Before making an order for striking off defence, the Court may consider any representation made by the defendant in that behalf pro*vide*d such representation is made within 10 days, of the first hearing or, of the expiry of the week referred to in sub-section (1), as the case may be.

(3) The amount deposited under this rule may at any time be withdrawn by the plaintiff:

Pro*vide*d that such withdrawal shall not have the effect of prejudicing any claim by the plaintiff disputing the correctness of the amount deposited:

Pro*vide*d further that if the amount deposited includes any sums claimed by the depositor to be deductible on any account, the Court may require the plaintiff to furnish the security for such sum before he is allowed to withdraw the same."

10. A bare reading of the provisions of Rule 5 of Order XV make it clear that there are two parts of the tenant's obligation to deposit rent in Court in a case where the landlord sues the tenant for eviction, after determination of his lease, as also for recovery of rent and damages for use and occupation. The first part requires the tenant to deposit at or before the first hearing of the suit, the entire amount on account of rent, damage etc. admitted by him to be due together with interest thereon @ 9% per annum. The second part requires the tenant to deposit throughout the pendency of the suit, the monthly amount of rent within a week of its accrual, whether he admits it to be due or not. The Rule further pro*vide*s that non-compliance of either of the two parts of sub-Rule (1) of Rule 5 of Order XV of the Code entitles the Court to strike off the tenant's defence. There is a distinction between the expression 'entire amount admitted by him to be due' in the first part of sub-Rule (1) of Rule 5 of Order XV of the Code and the expression 'monthly amount due', occurring in the second part of sub-Rule (1) of Rule 5 of Order XV.

11. So far as deposit to be made on the first date of hearing is concerned, there are three kinds of adjustments that could be made. The first is of any sum of money paid by the tenant in taxes to a local authority in respect of the building on the lessor's account. The second is any amount paid to the lessor and acknowledged by him in writing and signed by him. The third class of money that can be adjusted is that deposited by the tenant in Court under Section 30 of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 (for short, 'the Act of 1972'). By contrast, in case of monthly deposits to be made, the only allowance that the Rule permits is with regard to taxes payable to the local authority in respect of the building on the landlord's account. No other sum of money can be adjusted against the tenant's obligation to deposit the monthly rent or damage for use and occupation during the course of the suit.

12. A Division Bench of this Court in Haider Abbas v. Additional District Judge and others, 2006 (1) ARC 341 considered the obligation of the tenant under the two parts of sub-Rule (1) of Rule 5 of Order XV of the Code and the issue whether adjustment of rent deposited under Section 30 of the Act of 1972 could be sought by the tenant. It has been held in Haider Abbas (supra), thus:

"13. On a careful analysis of the provisions of Order XV, Rule 5, C.P.C. we find that it is di*vide*d in two parts. The first part deals with the deposit of the "entire amount admitted by him to be due" together with interest at or before the first hearing of the suit. The second part deals with the deposit of "monthly amount due" which has to be made throughout the continuation of the suit.

14. Explanation 2 to Order XV, Rule 5(1), C.P.C. stipulates that "entire amount admitted by him to be due" means the entire gross amount, whether as rent or compensation for use and occupation after making no other deduction except the taxes, if any, paid to the local authority in respect of the building on lessor's account and the amount, if any, deposited in any Court under section 30 of the Act. The expression "monthly amount due" has been defined in Explanation 3 to Rule 5(1) of Order XV, Rule 5, C.P.C. to mean the amount due every month, whether as rent or compensation for use and occupation at the admitted rate of rent, after making no other deduction except the taxes, if any, paid to a local authority, in respect of the building on lessor's account.

15. What has to be noticed in Order XV, Rule 5, C.P.C. is that the Legislature while defining "monthly amount due" which has to be deposited during the continuation of the suit has deliberately excluded the deduction of any amount deposited under section 30 of the Act. We are, therefore, faced with a situation where the same Rule defines "entire amount admitted by him to be due" and "monthly income due" occurring in the first part and second part respectively of the Rules and while the former phrase stipulates the deduction of the amount deposited under section 30 of the Act, the second part omits to mention such a deduction. It has, therefore, to be inferred that the Legislature has, in its wisdom, deliberately made a provision for deduction of the deposit of the amount under section 30 of the Act only in respect of the amount to be deposited at or before the first date of hearing and not in respect of the monthly amount to be deposited throughout the continuation of the suit. This, coupled with the fact that both Explanation 2 and Explanation 3, referred to above pro*vide* "after making no other deduction except....." clearly leads us to no other conclusion except that only such deductions are to be made which have been specifically pro*vide*d. The "monthly amount due" has to be construed in the manner pro*vide*d for in Explanation 3 to Rule 5(1) of Order XV, C.P.C. and in no other manner.

37. We, therefore, upon an analysis of the provisions of Rule 5(1) of Order XV, C.P.C., hold that while depositing the amount at or before the first hearing of the suit, the tenant can deduct the amount deposited under section 30 of the Act but the deposits of the monthly amount thereafter throughout the continuation of the suit must be made in the Court where the suit is filed for eviction and recovery of rent or compensation for use and occupation and the amount, if any, deposited under section 30 of the Act cannot be deducted."

13. The question was examined again by this Court more recently in Krishna Kumar Gupta v. Manoj Kumar Sahu, (2017) 4 All LJ 127, a decision to which the Revisional Court has also alluded to. In Krishna Kumar Gupta (supra), it has been held:

"11. The difference between the two categories discussed herein above, apart from the stage at which they apply, is two fold : (a) in the first category the defendant is required to make deposit of the admitted dues whereas in the second category, which relates to monthly deposits, whether he admits it to be due or not, the deposit has to be made on monthly basis, at the admitted rate of rent, throughout the continuance of the suit; and (b) in the first category the tenant can seek adjustment of the amount deposited under section 30 of UP Act No. 13 of 1972 as well as the amount, if any, paid to the lessor acknowledged by the lessor in writing signed by him, whereas in the second category, which relates to monthly deposits, no such adjustment is permissible as would be clear from the difference between Explanation and Explanation 3.

12. One of the common features in the two categories, which is reflected by the use of words "admitted rate of rent" in both Explanation and Explanation of Order XV, Rule 5, C.P.C., is that there has to be an admitted jural relationship of lessor and lessee (landlord and tenant) between the plaintiff and defendant fortiori, if the relationship of landlord and tenant or lessor and lessee is not admitted by the defendant between the plaintiff and him, the provisions of Order XV, Rule 5, C.P.C.

would not be applicable. In the case of Chandan Singh v. Shyam Sunder Agrawal, (2006) 64 ALR 673, this Court while dealing with the object of enacting the provisions of Order XV, Rule 5, C.P.C., observed as follows:

"The idea of enactment of Order XV, Rule 5, C.P.C. is to compel the tenant to pay the rent at least at the rate he was paying earlier to the landlord notwithstanding the pendency of the litigation. Order XV, Rule 5, C.P.C. was enacted with view that the landlord may not have to wait till the final decision of the case to recover his rent. He should at least get the rent at the rate he was getting before the start of litigation and tenant may not enjoy the tenanted property without paying rent. The purport and object of Order XV, Rule 5, C.P.C. is to see that tenant does not get undue advantage by withholding the payment of rent or pay it at lesser rate than the one at which he was paying earlier on some lame excuse. Looking to the object which Order XV, Rule 5, C.P.C. seeks to achieve, literal interpretation to the word "admitted" would not serve the purpose and this Court is of the view that purposive approach of interpretation should be resorted to."

14. Here, this Court finds that whatever sum of money was paid by the tenants to the landlord, was in respect of a completely different transaction relating to sale of the demised shop. It had nothing to do with the contract of tenancy. Even if it be assumed that the earnest of Rs. 7.50 lacs recorded in the agreement to sell was to be adjusted against the arrears of rent, it could be adjusted against the tenants' obligation to deposit the outstandings on the first date of hearing only, if the tenants produced an acknowledgment in writing from the landlord accepting appropriation of the money received in respect of a different transaction towards the entire amount admitted by the tenants to be due, which the tenants were obliged to deposit on the first date of hearing.

15. So far as monthly deposit of rent within seven days of accrual is concerned, there could be no adjustment of any advance. Quite apart, it has figured in the order impugned that the tenants are pursuing their suit for specific performance against the landlord being Suit No. 1174 of 2014, which would hardly make allowance for any kind of adjustment, even against the entire amount admitted by the tenants to be due on account of rent etc. that had to be deposited on or before the first date of hearing. The Trial Court has opined that since there is no deposit made during the pendency of the suit on a monthly basis, there could be no escape from the consequences or the rigour of the Rule carried in sub-Rule (1) of Rule 5 of Order XV.

16. So far as the Court's discretion in accepting the tenants' representation, if made within ten days of the first date of hearing or the expiry of the week, as regard the monthly deposit of rent, the period of time would long be gone under both heads of liability for the Court to condone. Therefore, the action of the Court in holding the tenants' defence liable to be struck off, if not under the first part, decidedly under the second part, cannot be faulted.

17. Here, this Court must add that the much emphasized transformation of the character of the tenants' possession from that of a tenant into one of a man holding it in part performance of the registered agreement, has been noticed and rejected hereinbefore, with reference to the recitals carried in the registered agreement to sell. Any explanation, therefore, based upon ceasure of the tenants' liability to pay rent or to comply with the terms of Order XV Rule 5 of the Code cannot be accepted.

18. In the considered opinion of this Court, there is no force in this revision. It fails and is, accordingly, dismissed.

Criminal Law – Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 147, 323/149, 324/149 & 325/149 - Appeal Against conviction under of IPC- appellants inflicted injuries by lathi, bulli, tabal and garasa- Section 324 IPC- Voluntary causing hurt by dangerous weapons or means- Fracture of bone- not necessary that bone should be cut through and through- cutting, splintering, rupture or fissure in bone is sufficient- injury inflicted by the appellants on the victims proved- conviction by trial court upheld. (Paras 19, 20, 21, 22, 32, 40)

HELD: In Hori Lal & anr. Vs St. of U.P., (1970) 1 SCC 8 the Apex Court has held that for the application of clause 7 of Section 325 it is not necessary that a bone should be cut through and through or that the crack must extend from the outer to the inner surface or that there should be displacement of any fragment of the bone. If there is a brake by a cutting or splintering of the bone or there is a rupture or fissure in it, it would amount to fracture within the meaning of Clause 7 of Section 320 I.P.C. (Para22)

B. Benefit of Probation of Offenders Act, 1958- Section 4- Code of Criminal Procedure- Section 360- 40 years since the date of incident- appellants and informant are living in peace together- no criminal history- reformatory and correctional object of sentencing- trial and appellate courts to give benefit of probation in fit cases- appellants released on probation under supervision of the trial court for one year- compensation of Rs. 5,000 awarded- Appeal partly allowed. (Paras 36 to 39, 40and 41)

HELD: These statutory provisions very emphatically lay down the reformatory and correctional object of sentencing and obligates the trial court as well as appellate courts to give benefit of probation in fit cases as provided under law. Unfortunately, this branch of law has not been much 14 utilized by the courts. It becomes more relevant and important in our system of administration of justice where trial is often concluded after a long time and by the time decision assumes finality, the very purpose of sentencing looses its efficacy as with the passage of time the penological and social priorities change and there remains no need to inflict punishment of imprisonment, particularly when the offence involved is not serious and there is no criminal antecedent of the accused persons. The facts and given circumstances in each case, the nature of the crime, the manner in which it was planned and committed, the motive for commission of the crime, the conduct of the accused, the nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into the area of consideration. It is, therefore, the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of the offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed. (Para 36)

Appeal partly allowed. (E-14)

In order to sustain a conviction under this Section prosecution has to prove that the accused voluntarily caused hurt and that such hurt was caused by means of an instrument referred to in the section. Nothing short of that will suffice.

20. In Mukati Prasad Rai @ Mikti Rai and others vs. State of Bihar, (2004) 13 SCC 144 the Apex Court has upheld the conviction under Section 324 I.P.C. for injuries caused by Lathi.

21 . The offence punishable under Section 325 I.P.C. has been defined under Section 320 I.P.C. Section 320 I.P.C. reads as follows:

320. Grievous hurt.--The following kinds of hurt only are designated as "grievous":--

First -- Emasculation.

Secondly --Permanent privation of the sight of either eye.

Seventhly --Fracture or dislocation of a bone or tooth.

A person cannot be said to have caused grievous hurt unless the hurt caused is one of the kinds of hurts specified under Section 320 I.P.C. It is the duty of the Court to give a finding of his own whether the hurt was simple or grievous. The Doctor has to describe the facts in respect of nature of injuries and the Court is to decide whether the nature of the injury described by the Doctor comes within any of the clauses of Section 320 I.P.C.

22. In Hori Lal and another vs. State of U.P., (1970) 1 SCC 8 the Apex Court has held that for the application of clause 7 of Section 325 it is not necessary that a bone should be cut through and through or that the crack must extend from the outer to the inner surface or that there should be displacement of any fragment of the bone. If there is a brake by a cutting or splintering of the bone or there is a rupture or fissure in it, it would amount to fracture within the meaning of Clause 7 of Section 320 I.P.C.

23. In the light of the aforesaid provisions relating to Sections 324 and 325 I.P.C., the evidence of witnesses of facts is to be examined.

24. P.W.-1, injured Janam Singh has stated in his evidence dated 22.04.1987 that the incident took place about five years three months ago. It was about 8 to 9 o'clock morning. Accused wanted to forcibly occupy their land. PW-2 Kartar Singh and his companions won the case relating to the land in Hapur Civil Court. The medical examination of the injured was done in the District Hospital Ghaziabad. In the occurrence, there was fracture in the upper forearm of Lallu and that of the nose of Janam Singh. There was a crack in the head of Sardar Singh. PW-2 Kartar Singh admitted in his cross examination that he reached the place of occurrence about half hour before the occurrence has taken place. There is a distance about three hundred yards between the place of occurrence and the house of Kartar Singh. Sardar Singh, Janam Singh and Kartar Singh have separate houses in the village. PW-2 has admitted that he and the persons belonging to his side have inflicted injuries to the accused in their self-defence. PW-2 Kartar Singh also admitted that accused have also registered a cross case against the informant and his companions regarding the incident. PW-2 Kartar Singh has denied that he has lodged the FIR as a counterblast of the cross case lodged by the accused.

26. PW-3 Shyam Singh has stated in his evidence dated 15.05.1987 that the occurrence took place about five years four months earlier. It was about 8 am. He was present at his house. The place of occurrence is near to his house. Accused Rishipal holding Tabbal, Sukhveer Singh holding Budi, Veer Singh, Ganasa and remaining accused holding lathi in their hands. On hue and cry being made PW-3 Shaym Singh, Netrapal, Rambilas reached on the spot and accused leaving their weapons fled from the spot. In the incident Sardar Singh, Janam Singh and Lallu received serious injuries and other injured received simple injuries. PW-3 Shyam Singh has denied the suggestion that there is no house or hut on the place of occurrence. He has also denied that the accused assaulted the informant and his companions in self-defence. PW-3 denied that Kartar Singh, Sardar Singh and Lakhpat has also started beating the accused.

27. Injured Janam Singh and the eye witness PW-3 Shyam Singh has proved the date, place and time of incident. They have also proved the role of appellants Veer Singh, Sukhveer and Shripal Singh in the assault on injured from the side of the informant, Kartar Singh. They have proved that appellants-accused Veer Singh with Burara, Sukhveer with Ganasa and Shripal with Lathi assaulted PW-1 Janam Singh, injured Sardar Singh and Lallu with dangerous weapon causing them grievous hurt. They have also proved that Kartar Singh submitted written report of the incident in the police station concerned on the basis of which first information report was registered against appellants Veer Singh, Sukhveer Singh and other accused, who have died. They have proved that after the incident the medical examination and x-ray of their injuries were done and fracture was found in the body of injured Sardar Singh, Janam Singh and Lallu.

28. PW-4 Dr. Gyanendra Kumar, Radiologist has proved the x-ray report dated 25.01.1982 of Sardar Singh, Janam Singh and Lallu, Exhibit Ka-2, ka-3 and ka-4, respectively. He has stated that in the acromion process of the scapula bone of injured Kartar Singh, fracture was found. He has also proved the fracture in the nasal bone of injured Janam Singh. The oral evidence of witnesses of facts, PW-1 Janam Singh, PW-2 Kartar Singh and PW-3 Shyam Singh is cogent, trustworthy, reliable and truthful. Nothing emerges from their cross examination which may prove them unreliable or false.

30. Oral evidence of aforesaid witnesses of facts, namely, PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 is also corroborated by the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), Chick FIR (Exhibit Ka-11), the entry of GD institution of case in G.D. (Exhibit Ka-12) which is as report No. 12, dated 19.01.1982 time 10:50 o'clock.

31. PW-5 Dr. K.P. Sarabhai has proved that on the day of incident i.e. 19.01.1982 he had also examined the injuries of accused Phoolwati, Khandar Singh, Sukhveer Singh and Veer Singh. He had found injuries on the person of these accused. About the injuries received by the accused, the prosecution witnesses have stated that it was accused persons who first assaulted the informant and his companions and caused injuries to them and, thereafter, informant and his companions snatched the weapons from the accused persons and caused injuries in the exercise of right of self defence. It is clear that informant and his companions were in possession of the disputed land where they were sitting and smoking Hukka in the hut situated in their land. Thus, it is proved that informant and his companions inflicted injuries to accused persons and persons of his side in the right of private defence.

32. From the analysis of the oral and documentary evidence on record it is proved that on the date, time and place of occurrence appellants Veer Singh, Sukhveer, Shripal Singh and other three co-accused persons who have died, made an unlawful assembly and with dangerous weapon assaulted the injured Sardar Singh, Janam Singh and Lallu and other companions with Lathi, Tabbal and Farsa causing simple and grievous injuries to them. Thus, the prosecution has proved charge under Section 147, 323/149, 324/149, 325/149 against appellants-accused Veer Singh, Sukhveer Singh and Shripal Singh.

33. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that the incident had taken place on 19.01.1982 and 40 years have passed since then. Appellants and informant both are living in peace together. No criminal history has been produced against the accused-appellants by the State. Appellants be given the benefit of Probation of Offenders Act 1958 and release on probation.

34. Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 reads as follows :

"4. Power of court to release certain offenders on probation of good conduct.-(1) When any person is found guilty of having committed an offence not punishable with death or imprisonment for life and the court by which the person is found guilty is of opinion that, having regard to the circumstances of the case including the nature of the offence and the character of the offender, it is expedient to release him on probation of good conduct, then, notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, the court may, instead of sentencing him at once to any punishment direct that he be released on his entering into a bond, with or without sureties, to appear and receive sentence when called upon during such period, not exceeding three years, as the court may direct, and in the meantime to keep the peace and be of good behaviour:

Provided that the court shall not direct such release of an offender unless it is satisfied that the offender or his surety, if any, has a fixed place of abode or regular occupation in the place over which the court exercises jurisdiction or in which the offender is likely to live during the period for which he enters into the bond.

(2) Before making any order under sub-section (1), the court shall take into consideration the report, if any, of the probation officer concerned in relation to the case.

(3) When an order under sub-section (1) is made, the court may, if it is of opinion that in the interests of the offender and of the public it is expedient so to do, in addition pass a supervision order directing that the offender shall remain under the supervision of a probation officer named in the order during such period, not being less than one year, as may be specified therein, and may in such supervision order, impose such conditions as it deems necessary for the due supervision of the offender.

(4) The court making a supervision order under sub-section (3) shall require the offender, before he is released, to enter into a bond, with or without sureties, to observe the conditions specified in such order and such additional conditions with respect to residence, abstention from intoxicants or any other matter as the court may, having regard to the particular circumstances, consider fit to impose for preventing a repetition of the same offence or a commission of other offences by the offender.

(5) The court making a supervision order under sub-section (3) shall explain to the offender the terms and conditions of the order and shall forthwith furnish one copy of the supervision order to each of the offenders, the sureties, if any, and the probation officer concerned.

35. A similar provision finds place in the Code of Criminal Procedure. Section 360 Cr.P.C. provides:

360. Order to release on probation of good conduct or after admonition.

(1) When any person not under twenty- one years of age is convicted of an offence punishable with fine only or with imprisonment for a term of seven years or less, or when any person under twenty- one years of age or any woman is- convicted of an offence not punishable with death or imprisonment for life, and no previous conviction is proved against the offender, if it appears to the Court before which he is convicted, regard being had to the age, character or antecedents of the offender, and to the circumstances in which the offence was committed, that it is expedient that the offender should be released on probation of good conduct, the Court may, instead of sentencing him at once to any punishment, direct that he be released on his entering into a bond with or without sureties, to appear and receive sentence when called upon during such period (not exceeding three years) as the Court may direct and in the meantime to keep the peace and be of good behaviour:

Provided that where any first offender is convicted by a Magistrate of the second class not specially empowered by the High Court, and the Magistrate is of opinion that the powers conferred by this section should be exercised, he shall record his opinion to that effect, and submit the proceedings to a Magistrate of the first class, forwarding the accused to, or taking bail for his appearance before, such Magistrate, who shall dispose of the case in the manner provided by sub- section (2).

(2) Where proceedings are submitted to a Magistrate of the first class as provided by sub- section (1), such Magistrate may thereupon pass such sentence or make such order as he might have passed or made if the case had originally been heard by him, and, if he thinks further inquiry or additional evidence on any point to be necessary, he may make such inquiry or take such evidence himself or direct such inquiry or evidence to be made or taken.

(3) In any case in which a person is convicted of theft, theft in a building, dishonest misappropriation cheating or any offence under the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), punishable with not more than two years' imprisonment or any offence punishable with fine only and no previous conviction is proved against him, the Court before which he is so convicted may, if it thinks fit, having regard to the age, character, antecedents or physical or mental condition of the offender and to the trivial nature of the offence or any extenuating circumstances under which the offence was committed, instead of sentencing him to any punishment, release him after due admonition.

(4) An order under this section may be made by any Appellate Court or by the High Court or Court of Session when exercising its powers of revision.

(5) When an order has been made under this section in respect of any offender, the High Court or Court of Session may, on appeal when there is a right of appeal to such Court, or when exercising its powers of revision, set aside such order, and in lieu thereof pass sentence on such offender according to law: Provided that the High Court or Court of Session shall not under this sub- section inflict a greater punishment than might have been inflicted by the Court by which the offender was convicted.

(6) The provisions of sections 121, 124 and 373 shall, so far as may be, apply in the case of sureties offered in pursuance of the provisions of this section.

(7) The Court, before directing the release of an offender under sub- section (1), shall be satisfied that an offender or his surety (if any) has a fixed place of abode or regular occupation in the place for which the Court acts or in which the offender is likely to live during the period named for the observance of the conditions.

(8) If the Court which convicted the offender, or a Court which could have dealt with the offender in respect of his original offence, is satisfied that the offender has failed to observe any of the conditions of his recognizance, it may issue a warrant for his apprehension.

(9) An offender, when apprehended on any such warrant, shall be brought forthwith before the Court issuing the warrant, and such Court may either remand him in custody until the case is heard or admit him to bail with sufficient surety conditioned on his appearing for sentence and such Court may, after hearing the case, pass sentence.

(10) Nothing in this section shall affect the provisions of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 (20 of 1958), or the Children Act, 1960 (60 of 1960), or any other law for the time being in force for the treatment, training or rehabilitation of youthful offenders.

36. These statutory provisions very emphatically lay down the reformatory and correctional object of sentencing and obligates the trial court as well as appellate courts to give benefit of probation in fit cases as provided under law. Unfortunately, this branch of law has not been much utilized by the courts. It becomes more relevant and important in our system of administration of justice where trial is often concluded after a long time and by the time decision assumes finality, the very purpose of sentencing looses its efficacy as with the passage of time the penological and social priorities change and there remains no need to inflict punishment of imprisonment, particularly when the offence involved is not serious and there is no criminal antecedent of the accused persons. The facts and given circumstances in each case, the nature of the crime, the manner in which it was planned and committed, the motive for commission of the crime, the conduct of the accused, the nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into the area of consideration. It is, therefore, the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of the offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed.

37. In the case of Subhash Chand and others vs. State of U.P., 2015 Lawsuit (Alld) 1343, this court has emphatically laid down the need to apply the law of probation and give benefit of the beneficial legislation to accused persons in appropriate cases. This court issued following directions to all trial courts and appellate courts:

"It appears that the aforesaid beneficial legislation has been lost sight of and even the Judges have practically forgotten this provision of law. Thus, before parting with the case, this Court feels that I will be failing in discharge of my duties, if a word of caution is not written for the trial courts and the appellate courts. The Registrar General of this Court is directed to circulate copy of this Judgment to all the District Judges of U.P., who shall in turn ensure circulation of the copy of this order amongst all the judicial officers working under him and shall ensure strict compliance of this Judgment. The District Judges in the State are also directed to call for reports every months from all the courts, i.e. trial courts and appellate courts dealing with such matters and to state as to in how many cases the benefit of the aforesaid provisions have been granted to the accused. The District Judges are also directed to monitor such cases personally in each monthly meeting. The District Judges concerned shall send monthly statement to the Registrar General as to in how many cases the trial court/appellate court has granted the benefit of the aforesaid beneficial legislation to the accused. A copy of this order be placed before the Registrar General for immediate compliance."

38. In addition to the above judgment of this Court, this Court finds that the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Maharashtra Vs. Jagmohan Singh Kuldip Singh Anand & others (2004) 7 SCC 659, giving the benefit of Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 to the accused has observed as below:

"The learned counsel appearing for the accused submitted that the incident is of the year 1990. The parties are educated and neighbors. The learned counsel, therefore, prayed that benefit of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 may be granted to the accused. The prayer made on behalf of the accused seems to be reasonable. The accident is more than ten years old. The dispute was between the neighbors over a trivial issue of claiming of drainage. The accident took place in a fit of anger. All the parties educated and also distantly related. The incident is not such as to direct the accused to undergo sentence of imprisonment. In our opinion, it is a fit case in which the accused should be released on probation by directing them to execute a bond of one year for good behaviour."

39. Similarly, in Jagat Pal Singh & others Vs. State of Haryana, AIR 2000 SC 3622, the Hon'ble Apex Court has given the benefit of probation while upholding the conviction of accused persons under Sections 323, 452, 506 IPC and has released the accused persons on executing a bond before the Magistrate for maintaining good behaviour and peace for the period of six months.

40. In the light of above discussion, I find no illegality, irregularity or impropriety nor any jurisdictional error in the impugned judgment and order of the court below. The conviction recorded by the court below under Sections 147, 325/149, 324/149, 323/149 I.P.C. is upheld and is not required to be disturbed.

41. However, instead of sending the appellants to jail, they shall get the benefit of Section 4(1) of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 and shall be released on probation under the supervision of the Trial Court for one year on filing two sureties to the tune of Rs. 25,000/- coupled with personal bonds and undertaking to the effect that they shall not commit any offence and shall observe good behaviour and shall maintain peace during this period. If there is breach of any of the conditions, they will subject themselves to undergo sentence before the court below. It is also desirable that accused-appellants may be directed to deposit Rs.5,000/- each as compensation in this case within two months. The amount of Rs. 5000/- deposited by the each accused-appellants, Rs.5,000/- shall be paid to injured having received grievous injuries, namely, Janam Singh, Sardar Singh and Lallu, or in case of their death to their legal representatives. The appellants-accused shall file the aforesaid bonds and sureties and shall deposit the compensation amount within two months from the date of the judgment in the court concerned as per law. In case surety bonds and compensation is not deposited, appellants shall have to undergo the sentence awarded by the Trial Court.

43. Accordingly, this appeal is partly allowed regarding sentences of the appellants.

44. Let a certified copy of this order along with record be sent to the court concerned for compliance.

Counsel for the Opposite Party:
G.A., Sri Mithilesh Kumar Shukla, Sri R.P. Dwivedi, Sri Sheshadri Trivedi, Sri Avanish Kumar Shukla

A. Criminal Law – Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 147, 148 & 302/149 IPC - Arms Act, 1959 - Section 25 – appellants sentenced to life imprisonment- informant is son of the deceased-father shot by appellant- motive- avenging the defeat in Gram Pradhan election-St.ments of witnesses of fact- Sections 161 and 162 of CrPC- quality of evidence during trial- establishment of motive- St.ment under Section 164 CrPC- corroborative evidence- important improvement in FIR version and St.ment under Section 161 CrPC- such evidence has no significance. (Paras 18, 19, 20, 21,23 and 24)

HELD: However, the motive acts as a double-edged sword which cuts both ways. The motive instigates a person to commit the offence as well as it also drives a person to falsely implicate the other person in a crime and it depends on the fact and circumstances as well as quality of the evidence adduced during trial as to what inference is to be discerned on account of establishment of motive in a criminal case. (Para 18)

This case is based on direct witness of witnesses. Therefore, it is to be seen as to what is the degree of reliability of their sworn testimony before the Court in the light of their previous St.ment recorded by the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. (Para 19)

Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Dhanabal And Anr vs St. Of Tamil Nadu, AIR 1980 SC 628, has held that the St.ment under Section 164 Cr.P.C. can be used as corroborative evidence. (Para 21)

Hon'ble Apex Court in Ram Briksh @ Jalim Vs St. of Chhatisgarh, AIR 2016 SC 2381, Tomso Bruno

& anr. Vs St. of U.P., (2015) 7 SCC 178 (SC), held that where the improvement was made by the witness in his St.ment before the Court than that what was made to the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. same could not be relied on. In Vimal Suresh Kamble Vs Chaluvera Pinake (2003) 3 SCC 175, Hon'ble Apex Court held that the prosecution cannot seek to prove a fact during trial through a witness, which such witness has not St.d to police during investigation. The evidence of that witness regarding the said improved fact is of no significance. (Para 24)

B. Section 25 of Arms Act- recovery of country made pistol- pointing out of each appellant- disclosure St.ment under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act- no recovery from immediate possession after arrest- FSL reports did not match- no public witness of recovery- charges not proved- appellants acquitted of all charges- Appeal allowed. (Paras 30 to 33)

HELD: Similar is the position for charges under Section 25 of Arms Act, with regard to the present appellants which has also been tried by learned trial court along with charge under Section 147, 148, 302/149 IPC as the one country-made pistol is said to have been recovered from the pointing out of each of the present appellants, which are said to have been used in the commission of offence as per the prosecution version on the basis of their disclosure St.ment after their arrest under Section 27 of Evidence Act in police custody. (Para 30)

These firearms are not recovered from their immediate possession after their arrest. One firearm has been allegedly recovered from the pointing out of the Pramod Kumar @ Pappu after getting his police custody by the orders of learned CJM. Out of three firearms, one empty cartridge shell recovered near the place of incident, is found to have been fired by the firearm allegedly recovered from the pointing out of accused Tejvir as per FSL report. The other empty cartridge shell was not found to be fired by any of the firearms recovered on the pointing out of accused persons. No public witness has been enjoined in the recovery of these firearms alleged recovered on the pointing out of the accused persons in respect of their presence. Therefore, the recovery of firearms allegedly used in the offence is also not proved in the present case beyond reasonable doubt, keeping in view the consideration, tenure and nature of the evidence adduced during trial. (Para 31)

In view of the discussions made above, we have found that there is no cogent and reliable evidence on record to prove the charges against accused appellants, for which they have tried, convicted and sentenced by learned trial Court. The case of the prosecution with regard to charges, for which the accused appellants are tried and convicted by trial court are not found to have been proved beyond reasonable doubt. Therefore, we have no hesitation in allowing these appeals. (Para 32)

Appeal allowed. (E-14)

The case is based on direct evidence of alleged eye-witness PW-1 Vinod Kumar Dixit, who is informant and son of deceased and has supported FIR version in his statement being author of the written report Ex.Ka-1 on the basis of which FIR has been lodged in the murder case. It is stated that on 11.11.2005 at around 9:00 A.M. his father was going towards Pachokhara Paith from his native village Chhikau by his Hero Honda motorcycle whereas he and his cousin Neeraj (PW-2) were also going towards Pachokhara Paith by another motorcycle. As soon as his father reached near Orchard of Prem Singh, which situated on the way, a Maruti car was found to be parked on the road, the accused Pramod @ Pappu, Tejvir, Hariom, Vikas and one unknown person, who was residing at the residence of accused persons at that time, got down from the car and Pramod @ Pappu abused his father and stated that he had defeated him in Gram Pradhan election and today he will not be spared and killed. All the accused persons were armed with tamancha and first of all accused Pramod @ Pappu shot at his father by his tamancha which hit him and he fell down in the field lying in the corner of the road. Thereafter, four accused persons fired shots at him by their respective firearms indiscriminately. The witness cried for help but in the meanwhile the fifth person, whose name is not known, shot at him and his cousin with intention to kill, in which they got narrow escape. The incident was seen by Omprakash and Rajpal, witnesses who are residents of Gadhi Takhuran, who were working in their field. Many persons also appeared on the spot apart from these witnesses. The accused persons ran towards Pachokhara by their car. His co-villager Satyapal reached on the spot taking his auto-rickshaw, in which his father was laid in the injured position and driven towards Srinagar Paith (market) and from there, he was shifted to a vehicle of the people of Paith and transported to Kamayani Hospital Agra, where he was declared dead. Thereafter, they came back with dead body of his father and laid the dead body in front of petrol pump at Pachokhara and dictated the written report to his cousin Ram Naresh Dixit and filed it at police station Pachokhara, on the basis of which, FIR was lodged. The witness verified his signature on written report, which was exhibited as Ex.Ka-1 during his statement. In cross-examination, the witness stated that the accused are his co-villagers and for that reason, the witness and accused persons are known to localites. His father started for Pachokhara Paith at around 9:20 A.M. from home. He was wearing slippers (chappals) in his feet. The place of incident lies one kilometer away from his home. It takes 2 to 3 minutes to reach the place of incident from his home. There are many turns in between his home and the place of incident. When he reached at the place of occurrence he saw his father sitting on his motorcycle, which was in start position. After receiving a shot, he fell down from the motorcycle and ran few steps after getting up and fell down in the adjoining field. He had pointed out the place of incident to the Investigating Officer. He has been produced from jail for recording of his statement in this case as he was held in jail custody in a criminal case under Section 307 IPC and out of two cases, one case was lodged at the instance of Devaki Nandan and the other by Godan Singh. In case lodged by Godan Singh, his cousin Neeraj is also accused along with co-accused. The accused persons were not masked at the time of incident. His father had not told him the purpose for which he was going to Paith (local market), when he started from home. The Paith was held on every Friday. His father moved 2 to 3 minutes before him from the home. When Pramod shot at him his father was sitting on motorcycle and Pramod was standing. No blood stain was found by the Investigating Officer on road but it was found in the field because his father fell down he is not aware as to who took the motorcycle of his father and his and brought it back to home after the incident. At the time of spot inspection by Investigating Officer, motorcycles were not there. He also had not found the slippers (chappals) of his father worn by him in his feet. The witnesses were not present at the time of preparation of site plan. No field of Rajpal lies near the place of incident. Rajpal works at the place of Omprakash. He could not disclose the name of brother-in-law of Yogesh, who was residing at his place two months prior to the incident. He is not in a position to disclose the number of Maruti car used in the offence. It was seen for two months at the place of accused persons prior to the incident. It was white colored Maruti 800 and no number plate was displayed thereon. The field in which his father fell down was cultivated. The Investigating Officer collected blood stained soil from the field. No bullet or pellets were found by him in his presence. The accused persons shot at his father, when his father fell down in the field. The barrels of their pistols were 2:5 feet away from him. His father received no treatment at Kamayani Hosptial and he was declared 'dead' by the doctor as soon as he got inside. The Investigating Officer has recorded his statement at the place of incident on the same day.

9. PW-2 Rajpal Singh also supported the FIR version and statement of PW-1, in his sworn testimony and stated that at the time of incident, he and Pandit Omprakash had gone to work in the field of potato in Gadhi Thakuran. They had seen the white colored Maruti car which came towards Chhikau at around 9:00 A.M. and was parked by the side of Orchard of Prem Singh. The deceased Brahm Dutt Dixit came towards Chhikau at the same time by motorcycle and his son and nephew Neearj were also going by their motorcycle behind him. The accused persons disembarked from the car as soon as they noticed the deceased and Pappu fired first shot by his pistol (tamancha) at deceased who fell down and again ran but fell down in the field of Thakur Bachhu Singh, thereafter, the accused persons fired at him by their respective weapons with intention to kill. The deceased had received three shots of bullets and unknown person fired a shot on witness Vinod, in which he got narrow escape. The mother of accused Pramod @ Pappu stood as a candidate in Gram Pradhan Election in which deceased Brahm Dutt Dixit was elected and to take revenge of the defeat, the accused persons had done away the deceased, who was Gram Pradhan at that time. In cross-examination, the witness has stated that he is resident of Village- Chaturpurawhich is 1-1/4 kms. far from the place of incident. This is not true to say that the place of incident is not visible from the field of Omprakash. In fact the field of Omprakash lies southwards to the road whereas the Orchard of Prem Singh and temple are towards the west of the road. First shot was fired by Pramod @ Pappu and the deceased fell down and again arose and ran but fell down in the field. The accused persons fired at him when he fell down in the field of Bachchu Singh. He is not taken the slippers (chappals) worn by the deceased.

10. PW-3 Neeraj is nephew of the deceased who has stated that at the time of incident he was pillion rider of motorcycle driven by his cousin Vinod who is son of the deceased and he had witnessed the incident. He has also supported the FIR/prosecution version in his sworn testimony and has stated that election of Gram Pradhan was conducted in the year 2005, in which Vaijanti Devi, the mother of accused Pramod @ Pappu had also stood as a candidate. Pramod @ Pappu has also filled his candidature as a dummy candidate but deceased won that election, which was the reason of his murder. The first shot was fired by Pramod @ Pappu and when he fell down in the field, Hariom, Vikas and Tejvir had fired at him. After receiving first shot he ran 4 to 5 steps and fell down in the field. He is not apprised of the number of Maruti car by which accused persons had reached on the spot. The witnesses had brought the deceased in the injured condition from the place of incident laying him in a auto-rickshaw of his co-villager Satya Prakash to Pachokhara Paith and thereafter took him to Kamayani Hospital, Agra by car of some person of Paith.

11. The incriminating circumstances appearing from the prosecution evidence were put to the accused appellants while recording their statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C., who claimed that they are innocent and not guilty. They also stated that the false evidence has been adduced against them by prosecution witnesses. False FIR was lodged against them. Investigating was not fair and impartial. The evidence regarding their complicity and murder of deceased is false. The defence, however, tendered no evidence in defence. Their defence is that of denial.

12. The postmortem report of the deceased Brahm Dutt Dixit has been authored by Dr. R.K. Garg, who was examined as PW-4 during trial and he stated that he has conducted the postmortem on the body of the deceased on 11.11.2005 at 10:10 P.M. with permission of Incharge- District Magistrate and CMO- Firozabad. Deceased was aged about 68 years old. He compared the specimen seal with the seal affixed on clothes by which the dead body was wrapped and found it intact. At the time of postmortem examination following ante mortem injuries were found on his person:

(1) firearm wound of entry of size 2.5cm X 1.5cm cranial cavity deep on right side, back of head, 3cm behind left ear, margins are inverted and lacerated, blackening and tattooing present;

(2) firearm wound of entry of size 2cm X1.5cm X chest cavity deep on left side of chest, 14cm below and lateral to left nipple at 5'O clock position, margins are inverted and lacerated, blackening and tattooing present;

(3) firearm wound of exit of size 3.5cm X 2.5cm on back of chest, which was communicating to injury No.2. This injury was lying on back of chest downwards and on spinal cord, margins were averted and lacerated;

(4) firearm wound of entry of size 1.5cm X 1.5 cm on left side of chest and abdominal cavity deep at outer space over the costa border, margins were inverted and lacerated, blackening and tattooing present;

(5) firearm wound of exit 2.5cm X 2.0cm into abdominal cavity deep and chest cavity deep on right side of outer aspect of lower part of chest and above left costa border, margins are averted and lacerated; This injury was communicating to injury No.4.

(6) abrasion of 6cm X 3.5cm on lower part of right knee.

13. In the opinion of Doctor, the death of deceased was due to coma, shock and hemorrhage as a result of above antemortem injuries, as described. It is also stated in the postmortem report (Ex.Ka-2) that the time of death was of half day back and one metallic piece of bullet was recovered from the cranial cavity. Riger-mortis was present in both lower and upper extremities. In internal examination, the temporal and occipital bones of skull were found fractured. T8 to T10 vertebra of neck were fractured. Spinal cord was fractured. Small intestine was lacerated and semi digested food was present. Large intestine was lacerated and faecal matter was present. The Doctor proved the clothes and belongings removed from the dead body at the time of postmortem as material Ex.1 to 12 during his examination as PW-4.

14. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that prosecution examined three witnesses of fact, out of whom PW-1 Vinod Kumar Dixit is son of the deceased, PW-2 Rajpal Singh has been examined as independent and eye-witness and PW-3 Neeraj has also been examined as eye-witness, who is nephew of the deceased. The public witnesses of recovery of empty cartridge shells and blood stained soil were not examined by prosecution during trial, which casts doubt on the factum of recovery of empty cartridge shells and blood stained soil. The state of firearm injuries found on the person of the deceased in postmortem report is not in consonance with the eye-witness account, which casts doubt on trajectory of firearm shots stated in eye-witness account of the incident given by PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3. The nature of injuries are to be considered minutely along with the way in which they are alleged to be caused to the deceased as per the deposition of the witnesses but same is not found in the present case. To appreciate the nature of injuries, it is necessary to appreciate minutely the statement of PW-4 Dr. R.K. Garg, who conducted the postmortem examination on the dead body of the deceased. Further, the postmortem examination report proved by PW-4 has to be minutely appreciated along with the description of the injuries made in the deposition. It is also necessary to estimate as to how the gunshots would have been caused to the deceased and the actual seriatim, in which the injuries would have been caused to the deceased. He further submitted that the dead body of the deceased was not brought to the police station concerned by the informant and witnesses from Agra but was kept on the road near the petrol pump situated opposite a school. This conduct of the witnesses also creates a good deal of doubt about their presence on the spot when the incident occurred. He next submitted that on appreciation of witnesses of fact, there is a great deal of contradictions therein, which clearly establish the fact that they had in fact not seen the incident and they appeared on the spot after the occurrence. The eye-witnesses propounded by the prosecution are infact not eye-witness. Deceased might have been killed by some other unknown miscreants and due to rivalry and animosity prevailed during Gram Pradhan election, the accused persons were falsely named. The Maruti car, in which accused persons are said to have appeared at the time of incident and seen on the place of incident by the witnesses could not be traced during investigation. Even the slippers (chappals) worn by the deceased were not found or recovered by the Investigating Officer or witnesses from the place of incident. He further submitted that the Investigating Officer said to have conducted the local inspection of place of occurrence in the evening of the date of incident on pointing out of the informant (PW-1) but the motorcycles of the deceased and witness could not be found there and the witness could not explain as to who and when brought them to his house after the incident. Lastly, he submitted that it was not physically possible for the deceased to run or walk few paces after receiving gunshot injury on his head, keeping in view the enormity of his head injury allegedly caused by gunshot. Thus, the statement of witnesses on this point is also not possible or believable. PW-2 Rajpal is said to have working in nearby field alongwith Om Prakash and is made eye-witness on that count but from his evidence itself no such field could be located nearby the place of incident. In site plan also, the field where witnesses Om Prakash and Rajpal are said to have been working has not been indicated by the Investigating Officer in site plan. Thus, his presence on the spot is also highly doubtful. The appellants are languishing in jail for more than 17 years.

15. Per contra, learned AGA submitted that this is a case based on direct evidence and eye-witness account of the witnesses. The occurrence took place in the day light and minor discrepancies and contradictions pointed out in the cross-examination of witnesses cannot be taken as a ground to disbelieve their testimony. There is no factual or legal error in impugned judgment passed by the learned trial Court in appreciation of evidence and same is liable to be affirmed in present appeal.

16. A perusal of impugned judgment of learned trial court, which is under challenge in present appeal, reveals that the learned Additional Sessions Judge has observed therein that it is true that investigation was defective in some respect such as motorcycles, which was being ridden by the deceased and the other ridden by PW-3 and informant and slippers (chappals) worn by the deceased at the time of incident were not recovered. These things were not searched out by the Investigating Officer during investigation. The tempo, on which the deceased was laid firstly from the place of incident, was not inspected by the Investigating Officer. He also did not inspect the car through which the deceased was sent to Kamayani Hospital, Agra. He did not indicate the place the in site plan from where the witnesses had seen the occurrence. He did not show the agricultural field of the named witness Omprakash and he did not collect blood stained clothes of witnesses. He also failed to locate the Maruti car used by the accused persons in the offence but in view of all these factors which are components of defective investigation, the prosecution case cannot be treated as doubtful, if the same has been otherwise proved by the prosecution. He cited Hemraj vs. Rajaram, 2004 (1) CRIMES 317 (SC), Gayasuddin vs. State of Bihar, 2004 (1) CRIMES 90 (SC), Dhananjay @ Shera vs. State of Punjab, 2004 (2) CRIMES 2 (SC), A.K. Mansoori vs. State of Gujarat, 2002 (2) SCJ 38, State of Orisha vs. D. Naik, 2002 (2) CRIMES 286 (SC) in support of his finding.

17. Learned trial judge also observed that the prosecution case cannot be doubted due to the fact that informant Vinod Kumar Dixit has stated in his written report as well as in his sworn testimony before the Court as PW-1 that 5th accused, who is not named in the FIR who was known as brother-in-law (sala) of the co-villager Yogesh, could not be traced during investigation and the allegation of opening of FIR by said 5th accused at PW-1 Vinod Kumar Dixit with intention to kill could not be proved and the accused persons were acquitted of the charge under Section 307/149 IPC, accordingly. As prosecution case has been proved by eye-witness account given by the witnesses of fact and same has been corroborated by the evidence of Dr. R.K. Garg, who conducted post mortem examination on dead body of the deceased. Therefore, if there is any difference in ballistic experts report and eye-witnesses account that will also not result in affecting the reliability of prosecution case. The motive entrusted by prosecution has been duly proved in evidence although the same is treated as double edged sword which cuts both way and accused persons can be falsely implicated on account of motive as well as motive also acts as a motivational factor on the part of the accused persons to commit the offence. Therefore, on the basis of eye-witness account of prosecution witnesses and medical evidence, this fact is proved without any doubt that the accused are the persons who are author of the crime and defence case that the accused persons were falsely implicated in the case on the account of enmity of Gram Pradhan election has got no force. The prosecution case can also not be disbelieved on account of the fact that in present case FIR was not sent to jurisdictional Magistrate promptly as provided under Section 157 Cr.P.C. and he cited a judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Girish Chandra Mahato, 2006 (1) CAR 125 (SC) in support of this finding. He also dispelled the contention of defense that some delay was caused in recording the statement of witness Neeraj. Therefore, his statement cannot be relied upon. He cited a judgmenet of Apex court in Mohd. Khalid vs. State of West Bengal, 2002 (7) SCC 334 and Prithvi Singh vs. Mamraj, 2004 (2) CRIMES 170 (SC), wherein it is held that the delayed examination of a witness by Investigating Officer cannot be a ground to disbelieve the prosecution version, as there may be several reasons of such delay. However, in such cases, the Court should examine the statement of such witness carefully and minutely. The FIR in present case has been lodged promptly on the same day within three hours of the incident. Therefore, if any delay is there, the same is self explained, keeping in view the sequence of events unfolded in prosecution evidence, after the incident. The learned trial court has also dispelled the defence contention that keeping the body of the deceased near the petrol pump in front of a school after taking it back from Agra, does not sound natural and prosecution failed to prove the place where the dead body was recovered. Learned trial court has stated that the inquest has been conducted on the place where dead body was kept after taking it back from Agra as per evidence of prosecution. The plain and blood stained earth was taken into possession by police and the same was also chemically examined in FSL. Learned trial court has also turned down the contention of the defense as PW-1 and PW-3 are interested witnesses being family member of the deceased, their evidence cannot be believed in absence of witnesses of locality inasmuch as PW-2 Rajpal is an independent witness and witness of locality. Trial court has concluded that the eye-witness account given by the witnesses of fact is corroborated by medical evidence and report of ballistic experts and this fact is proved beyond all reasonable doubts that the accused persons armed with deadly weapons created an unlawful assembly and committed riot and murder of the deceased Brahm Dutt Dixit on the date, time and place of incident as mentioned in FIR and proved in prosecution evidence. The prosecution has successfully proved its case beyond all reasonable doubt for charge under Section 147, 148, 149, 302 IPC as well as separate charges under Section 25 Arms Act against accused Tejvir, Hariom and Pramod Kumar @ Pappu as well as they were convicted and sentenced for said offences.

18. The question that requires determination in present appeal is whether the prosecution has been able to establish the guilt of accused appellants beyond reasonable doubt on the basis of evidence adduced in support of its case that accused appellants have committed the offence. In present case, the factum of murder of deceased Brahm Dutt Dixit is not disputed by defence. PW-4 Dr. R.K. Garg, who has conducted postmortem examination on the person of deceased, has stated in his evidence that the postmortem examination of the deceased was conducted on 11.11.2005 at about 10:00 A.M. and approximate time of death was half day noon. The cause of death was hemorrhage and shock due to antemortem injuries shown in postmortem report. He also stated in his evidence that the firearm injuries found on the person of the deceased were sufficient to cause death and this fact is also not disputed by the defence. The defence side has disputed the allegation that the present appellants are the author of the crime and defense version is that the death of the deceased was caused by some other persons at some other place and time on the date of incident and accused appellants were roped in, by the witnesses due to enmity developed due to Gram Pradhan Election. In present case, motive attributed by the prosecution in FIR version against appellants has been proved in evidence on the basis of statements of witnesses of fact PW-1 Vinod Kumar Dixit, PW-2 Rajpal Singh and PW-3 Neeraj Kumar. However, the motive acts as a double edged sword which cuts both way. The motive instigates a person to commit the offence as well as it also drives a person to falsely implicate the other person in a crime and it depends on the fact and circumstances as well as quality of the evidence adduced during trial as to what inference is to be discerned on account of establishment of motive in a criminal case.

19. This case is based on direct witness of witnesses. Therefore, it is to be seen as to what is the degree of reliability of their sworn testimony before the Court in the light of their previous statement recorded by the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

20. Section 162 Cr.P.C. is reproduced as under:-

"162. Statements to police not to be signed: Use of statements in evidence- (1) No statement made by any person to a police officer in the course of an investigation under this Chapter, shall, if reduced to writing, be signed by the person making it; nor shall any such statement or any record thereof, whether in a police diary or otherwise, or any part of such statement or record, be used for any purpose, save as hereinafter, provided, at any inquiry or trial in respect of any offence under investigation at the time when such statement was made: Provided that when any witness is called for the prosecution in such inquiry or trial whose statement has been reduced into writing as aforesaid, any part of his statement, if duly proved, may be used by the accused, and with the permission of the Court, by the prosecution, to contradict such witness in the manner provided by section 145 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872); and when any part of such statement is so used, any part thereof may also be used in the re- examination of such witness, but for the purpose only of explaining any matter referred to in his cross- examination. (2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to apply to any statement falling within the provisions of clause (1) of section 32 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872), or to affect the provisions of section 27 of that Act.

21. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Dhanabal And Anr vs State Of Tamil Nadu, AIR 1980 SC 628, has held that the statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. can be used as corroborative evidence.

22. In the present case, the incident is said to have taken place on 11.11.2005 at 9:30 A.M. at the turn of groove of Prem Singh near village Ghadhi Thakuran and near the paved road leading to Ram Nagar and Chchikau. Chchikau is the native place of the deceased, witnesses and accused persons. The case of the prosecution is that the deceased was firstly shot at by accused Pramod Kumar @ Pappu by his firearm while he was sitting on motorcycle and he was stopped by accused persons when he was on they way of local market (paith) and witnesses Vinod and Neeraj were behind him on their separate motorcycles. After receiving first gunshot injury while sitting on motorcycle, he fell down and thereafter he was again shot by other accused persons by their respective firearms, when he fell down in the nearby cultivated field of Bachchu Singh. The site plan is proved as Ex.Ka-10 by the Investigating Officer (PW-6). The blood stained soil was found in the said field by the Rajendra Pal Singh(PW-6), who is first Investigating Officer of the case. Two empty cartridge shells are also shown to be on dirt road adjacent to paved road in site plan. PW-6 Investigating Officer has admitted that the empty cartridge shells were not found in the field or paved road where deceased was said to have received firearms injuries. However, the FSL report of blood stained earth collected from the field of Bachchu Singh on the date of incident human blood was found therein and on that basis it appears that the dead body was lying in the field of Bachchu Sing, which lies nearby the paved road.

23. If we meticulously examine the statement of said eye-witnesses, which is sheet anchor of prosecution case, we find therein that there is inherent infirmities and improvements are made therein as stated in statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. The PW-1, Vinod Kumar Dixit is star witness of the case and he is also informant of the case and in his written report, he has stated that at the time of incident, he was coming behind his father along with his cousin, riding his motorcycle. However, his father was going to paith and he was also going to paith on that date in Pachokhara. He was not aware of the purpose for which his father was going to paith but he was moving to paith with a view to purchase vegetables. The time of incident is shown as around 9:30 A.M. on 11.11.2005. He stated in his written report that firstly accused persons stopped his father and Pramod threatened to kill him. All the accused persons were armed with firearms (countrymade pistols). As soon as his father came to understand the situation, Pramod fired a shot on his father which hit him and he fell down in the nearby field and thereafter Tejvir, Vikas and Hariom also fired shots on him, whereas informant and witnesses had made improvement in their sworn testimony and stated that after having suffered first gunshot injury, his father fell down on the ground from motorcycle and thereafter he ran some paces and fell down in the nearby cultivated field of Bachchu Singh where accused persons fired shots at him by their respective countrymade pistols. In FIR, PW-1 has stated that after the first shot fired by Pramod on his father, all the three accused persons Tejvir, Vikas and Hariom fired shots at him when he fell down in the field but as PW-1 he stated in his examination-in-chief, when his father fell down in the field after being hit by firearm shot of Pramod, all the four accused persons opened indiscriminate fire on him. When he cried for help, the fifth person whose name was not known to him fired a shot towards him in which he got a narrow escape. PW-2 Rajpal Singh, PW-3 Neeraj also stated that four accused persons fired shot on the deceased when he fell down in the agricultural field after being hit by first shot. This is an important improvement in the prosecution evidence from FIR version and statement of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

24. Hon'ble Apex Court in Ram Briksh @ Jalim Vs. State of Chhatisgarh, AIR 2016 SC 2381, Tomso Bruno and Another vs. State of U.P., (2015) 7 SCC 178 (SC), held that where the improvement was made by the witness in his statement before the Court than that what was made to the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. same could not be relied on. In Vimal Suresh Kamble vs. Chaluvera Pinake (2003) 3 SCC 175, Hon'ble Apex Court held that the prosecution cannot seek to prove a fact during trial through a witness, which such witness has not stated to police during investigation. The evidence of that witness regarding the said improved fact is of no significance.

25. PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 could not state during cross-examination as to, in which position the deceased was lying in the agricultural field whether he was in "supine" position or in "prone" position. PW-1 could not state whether the deceased was squirming after being shot or not. This fact has emerged in the statement of these witnesses of fact that the accused Pramod fired a shot at the deceased when he was sitting on his motorcycle and was confronted by the accused persons on the road near Gadhi Thakuran but no blood stain was found by the Investigating Officer when he visited the spot even in the evening of the incident at the instance of PW-1. Even PW-1 stated that in his statement that there was no blood stain on the road. According to the Investigating Officer, two empty cartridge shells were recovered from the spot when he visited the spot at the date of incident on the pointing out of PW-1. The cartridge shells are neither recovered from the road on which the deceased received first shot nor from the field where he received other two firearm shots as apparent from the postmortem report and statement of witnesses. The investigating Officer has stated that two cartridge shells were recovered from the paved road and dirt road near the spot. PW-1 has also admitted in his evidence that no empty cartridge shell was recovered from the field where deceased was lying in injured condition. The public witnesses of recovery Naval Kishore Pachori and Virendra Kumar Pachori were not produced in evidence during trial. The witnesses of fact have also not stated in their statement regarding statement that which part of the dead body was firstly hit by firearm shot allegedly caused by accused Pramod. PW-1 stated that the accused had shot at his father by leaning towards him when he was lying in the field. In site plan (Ex.Ka-10), the paved road on which the deceased was fired first shot allegedly by accused Pramod Kumar @ Pappu is not straight road but it is curved and the place of incident is marked as 'B'. Therefore, the statement of PW-1 and PW-3 that they were coming behind the deceased on their motorcycle and heard the threatening words used by the accused Pramod Kumar @ Pappu to the deceased and had seen the accused Pramod Kumar @ Pappu to open first fire on deceased while he was sitting on his motorcycle does not inspire confidence, as the road is shown to be curved, where the incident is said to have commenced, a person coming from behind will not be in a position to see and hear whatever occurred on the said curved road. This site plan is admittedly prepared by the Investigating Officer at the pointing of PW-1.

26. On perusal of the injuries of the deceased scribed in the postmortem report and the statement of the witnesses, it appears that the first shot was caused in the head of the deceased and that too from point blank range as this firearm injury was surrounded by blackening and tattooing. A piece of bullet was found to be stucked in the cranial cavity and in internal examination, the temporal and occipital bones were found broken. T8 to T10 vertebra of neck were found to be fractured. Keeping in view the grave nature of these skull injuries, it is very difficult to comprehend that after having fallen from motorcycle after receiving these injuries, the deceased would have got up and tried to run few paces and ultimately fall down in the nearby field where he was again hit by accused persons and received two firearm injuries on his chest.

27. The witnesses have stated that one accused whose name was not known subsequently it was found that he was brother-in-law of Yogesh had opened his firearm with intention to kill oon PW-1, to which he got narrow escape but that person could not be traced during investigation and no role has been assigned to him in evidence. This fact has established in evidence of fact as well as on the basis of medical evidence that the deceased had suffered three gunshot injuries in the incident and he was in a very critical position but the conduct of the witnesses PW-1 and PW-2 who are his son and nephew moving him from the place of incident to all along Agra, to get him examined in Kamayani Hospital does not sound natural. They neither got examined him in Firozabad nor in Tundla and straightway rushed to Agra as per their own version. However, no documentary evidence has emerged regarding their movement to Kamayani Hosptial Agra alongwith the body of the deceased and back to the place where inquest has been conducted. The conduct of the witnesses, as per their own version that after being declared the injured as "dead' by the doctors of Kamayani Hospital, Agra they came back to Pachokhara and place the dead body in front of a school near petrol pump instead of producing the same at police station, which was lying in the vicinity of said place. This conduct shows that the sequence of the events had not taken place in the manner as narrated in the FIR as well as in the statement of witnesses of fact. PW-2 Rajpal is produced as an eye-witness and he alongwith Omprakash are named as witnesses in the FIR itself. This fact has emerged in the FIR that at the time of incident Rajpal and Omprakash were working nearby fields and they rushed to the spot and had seen the incident. PW-2 has tried to give graphic account of the incident in his evidence but has admitted that no field belonging to him was lying nearby. He is a resident of village Chaturpura. He was working in the field of Omprakash and he alongwith Omprakash was engaged in chchapai (covering of potato plants by soil) and rushed to the spot. In site plan of the place of incident of murder, no field of Omprakash has been indicated by the Investigating Officer.

28. In site plan of the place of murder i.e. the incident is shown to have caused on the paved road near village Gadhi Thakuran. The place where the deceased was said to have fallen after receiving first shot and thereafter received two other shots is shown in the field of Bachchu Singh. This road communicates to Taragarh and Chchikau, the village of deceased and two witnesses, which is southwards to the groove of Prem Singh, resident of Gadhi Thakuran and its eastwards a khadanja road is shown which communicates with paved road in west side of this khadanja road, a temple is indicated. PW-2 has stated in his evidence that he was near the temple when the incident took place and from their he rushed to the spot. He had seen that in the field of Bachchu Singh, all the accused persons had fired shots on deceased, he could not tell as to how many bullets hit him. The accused persons had reached the spot by a white colored Maruti car. His own village Chaturpura situates 1 to 1-1/2 kms away from the place of incident. The field in which he and Omprakash were working at the time of incident belongs to nephew of Omprakash. This field is around 200 paces far from the place of incident and from that field the place of incident is visible clearly. The field of Omprakash lies to southwards of the road on which the incident occurred. This field was not situated in westwards of the road. The groove of Prem Singh and temple are situated in west of the main road. The maruti car was parked near groove of Prem Singh. He had not removed the slippers (chappals) worn by the deceased. He had not helped in lying the deceased in tempo on the place of incident. PW-1 has also stated in his cross-examination that when his father fell down in the field, witness Rajpal and Omprakash appeared at the place of occurrence. He had got the written report scribed by his cousin Ram Naresh Dixit. The field in which Omprakash and Rajpal were working lies 50 to 60 meters far from the place of incident and he had indicated that place to the Investigating Officer. PW-1 has admitted that Rajpal is co-accused in a case under Section 307 IPC alongwith him. He also stated that the inquest on dead body of the deceased was carried out in front of petrol pump where dead body was placed from taking it back from Agra. However, the Investigating Officer has stated that in inquest report that it was carried out near police station. From the statement of Investigating Officer, PW-1 and 2, this fact is apparent that no field of Omprakash lies in the vicinity of the place of incident where PW-2 and Omprakash were said to be working. The field of Omprakash is located in the statement of witnesses on some distance from the road where incident occurred and groove and temple lie southwards of paved road and not westwards of the main road as told by PW-2. Therefore, the presence of PW-2 is highly doubtful at the time of incident. The other witness Ompraksh has not been produced during trial.

29. The improvement in sworn testimony before the Court from FIR version in the statement of PW-1 and the improvement made by the PW-3 Neeraj from his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. appear to have been made with a view to fill in the lacunae in their previous version as recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. The non tractability of the Maruti car, by which the accused persons emerged on the spot, the failure of PW-1 and PW-3 to explain as to when and by whom the motorcycles of the witnesses and deceased was brought to home, the improvement in sequence of events on the spot, non explanation of the position in which the deceased was lying after being hit by three bullets, non explanation of the reason by PW-1 and PW-3 as to why the deceased was carried to Agra straightway instead of producing him in nearby hospitals situated in Firozabad and Tundla, laying of dead body of the deceased in front of the petrol pump nearby the police station instead of producing the same at police station, speaks volume and make the sworn testimony of these witnesses of fact not only suspicious but their very presence on the spot at the time of incident appears to be doubtful, irrespective of the fact that they have tried to give an eye-witness account of the incident and their presence on the spot at the time of incident and their eye-witness account also becomes highly suspicious and not found worthy of credence. Therefore, the prosecution case in present case for charge under Section 302, 147, 148 IPC is not proved beyond reasonable doubt in respect of accused appellants and they deserve to be acquitted from all these charges by extending them benefit of doubt.

30. Similar is the position for charges under Section 25 of Arms Act, with regard to the present appellants which has also been tried by learned trial court alongwith charge under Section 147, 148, 302/149 IPC as the one countrymade pistol is said to have been recovered from the pointing out of each of the present appellants, which are said to have been used in the commission of offence as per the prosecution version on the basis of their disclosure statement after their arrest under Section 27 of Evidence Act in police custody.

31. These firearms are not recovered from their immediate possession after their arrest. One firearm has been allegedly recovered from the pointing out of the Pramod Kumar @ Pappu after getting his police custody by the orders of learned CJM. Out of three firearms, one empty cartridge shell recovered near the place of incident, is found to have been fired by the firearm allegedly recovered from the pointing out of accused Tejvir as per FSL report. The other empty cartridge shell was not found to be fired by any of the firearms recovered on the pointing out of accused persons. No public witness has been enjoined in the recovery of these firearms alleged recovered on the pointing out of the accused persons in respect of their presence. Therefore, the recovery of firearms allegedly used in the offence is also not proved in the present case beyond reasonable doubt, keeping in view the consideration, tenure and nature of the evidence adduced during trial.

32. In view of the discussions made above, we have found that there is no cogent and reliable evidence on record to prove the charges against accused appellants, for which they have tried, convicted and sentenced by learned trial Court. The case of the prosecution with regard to charges, for which the accused appellants are tried and convicted by trial court are not found to have been proved beyond reasonable doubt. Therefore, we have no hesitation in allowing these appeals.

33. Accordingly, the present appeals are allowed.

34. The impugned judgment and order of the trial court, as aforesaid, is set aside.

35. The appellants namely, Tejvir, Hari Om and Pramod Kumar @ Pappu are acquitted of all the charges, for which they have been tried. Criminal Law — Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 325 - Appeal Against conviction under Section IPC- sentenced to the period already undergone imprisonment- Fine of Rs. 2,000/- Allegations- post altercation appellant fired from country-made pistol- pellets injured Mamta and father of informant- Section 320 IPC- grievous hurt- fracture or dislocation of bone or tooth- endangering life, severe bodily pain also included-culpable homicide not amounting to murder and grievous hurt- a thin line- testimony of single eye witness- quality not quantity determines adequacy of evidence- held to be sufficient for conviction under Section 325 IPC- fine imposed enhanced- Appeal disposed of with this modification. (Paras 18, 19 and 33)

HELD: In Clause 7 of Section 320 I.P.C., a fracture or dislocation of bone or tooth is included in the definition of grievous hurt. In Hori Lal & anr. Vs St. of U.P., AIR 1970 SC 1969, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that for the application of Clause 7 of Section 320 I.P.C., it is not necessary that a bone should be cut through and through or that the crack must extend from the outer to the inner surface or that there should be displacement of any fragment of the bone. If there is a brake by a cutting or splintering of the bone or there is a rupture or fissure in it, it would amount to fracture within the meaning of Clause 7 of Section 320 I.P.C. (Para 18)

In Clause 8 of Section 320 I.P.C., endangering life, severe bodily pain is included in the definition of grievous hurt. In St. of Karnataka Vs Parashram Kallappa Ghevade, 2007 CrLJ 479 (Kar), it has been held that the aforesaid clause speaks of two things : (1) any hurt which endangers life and (2) any hurt which causes the sufferer to be during the space of 20 days (a) in severe bodily pain, or (b) unable to follow his ordinary pursuits. Some hurts which are not like those hurts which are mentioned in the first seven clauses, are obviously distinguished from a slight hurt, may nevertheless be more serious. Thus, a wound may cause intense pain, prolonged disease or lasting injury to the victim, although it does not fall within any of the first seven clauses. Before a conviction for the sentence of grievous hurt can be passed, one of the injuries defined in Section 320 must be strictly proved, and the eighth clause is no exception to the general rule of law that a penal statute must be construed strictly. The line between culpable homicide not amounting to murder and grievous hurt is a very thin line. In the one case the injuries must be such as are likely to cause death; in the other, the injuries must be such as to endanger life. (Para 19)

The Hon'ble Apex Court enunciated the law relating to conviction on the basis of the testimony of single eye witness in the case of Laxmibai (Dead) through LRs Vs Bhagwantbura (Dead) through LRs, AIR 2013 SC 1204 that in the matter of appreciation of evidence of witnesses, it is not number of witnesses, but quality of their evidence which is important, as there is no requirement in law of evidence that any particular number of witnesses is to be examined to prove/disprove a fact. It is a time-honoured principle, that evidence must be weighed and not counted. The test is whether the evidence has a ring of trust, is cogent, credible and trustworthy or otherwise. The legal system has laid emphasis on value provided by each witness, rather than the multiplicity or plurality of witnesses. It is quality and not quantity, which determines the adequacy of evidence as has been provided by Section 134 of the Act. (Para 33)

3. Laxmibai (Dead) through LRs Vs Bhagwantbura (Dead) through LRs, AIR 2013 SC 1204

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surendra Singh-I, J.)

Heard Sri Sarvesh Kumar Dubey, Advocate holding brief of Sri Madan Mohan Chaurasia, learned counsel for the appellant as well as learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. This criminal appeal has been instituted against the judgement and order dated 24.08.1994 passed by IXth Additional District and Sessions Judge, Meerut, in Sessions Trial No. 698 of 1992, Bablu Vs. State of U.P., arising out of Case Crime No. 46 of 1992 u/s 307 I.P.C. & Section 27 (3) of Arms Act, P.S.- Mavana, District- Meerut. There is no criminal appeal filed by the State or informant/injured against acquittal of appellant-accused u/s 307 I.P.C. Thus, the trial court's order acquitting the accused u/s 307 I.P.C. has become final.

3. By the impugned order, the trial court has convicted the appellant, Bablu u/s 325 I.P.C. and sentenced him for 7 months 20 days imprisonment, the period which he had undergone in judicial custody during investigation and trial and a fine of Rs.2,000/- with default stipulation.

4. According to prosecution case as mentioned in the written report (Ext.Ka.1) presented by the informant, Bablu Giri at P.S.- Mavana, District- Meerut on 30.01.1992, he was going to the shop of Saket to purchase the bundle of bidis. In the way, Raghuvir Singh was beating Amar Singh. The informant stopped there to see the assault made by Raghuvir Singh. Thereupon, Raghuvir landed left fist blow on Bablu Giri. At 4 p.m. while Bablu Giri was returning after purchasing bundle of bidis from the shop, when he reached near the house of Shakir, Raghuvir scolding him, said that you have come here again. Meanwhile, informant's father, Jaipal Giri reached there. Bablu complained to his father about beating given by Raghuvir. When informant's father, Jaipal Giri asked Raghuvir the reason for beating his son, Raghuvir started abusing his father. Meanwhile, Raghuvir's sons, Bablu and Shiv Kumar reached there with country-made pistol (katta) in their hands. With the intention of causing death, they fired on them. The pellets from the country-made pistol hit on the chest of the informant's father causing injury to him. The pellets also hit Mamta, daughter of Satyapal, who was standing on the roof of her house, causing her injury. Meanwhile, Rajpal, Santa and other persons of the village reached there. They saw appellant firing on the informant and his father. Informant, Bablu Giri, presented written report (Ext.Ka.1) in the police station concerned on the basis of which first information report u/s 307 I.P.C. and Section 27 (3) Arms Act was registered against Raghuvir, Shiv Kumar and Bablu. Its chik report is (Ext.Ka.3). The investigation was done by S.I. Fakire Lal Verma. He prepared the recovery memo (Ext.Ka.2) relating to taking the blood-stained cloth in his possession.

5. The injured Km. Mamta was carried to P.H.C., Mavana where during medical examination, it was found that she had received firearm injury on the right side of her chest. Since her condition was deteriorating fast, no detailed medical examination was done and she was referred to Medical College, Meerut for examination and expert treatment. She was admitted to Medical College, Meerut on 30.01.1992 where her operation was done. Her Bed Head Ticket is (Ext.Ka.5). Injured Jaipal Singh, was medically examined on 30.01.1992 at 8.00 hours at P.H.C. Mavana (Ext.Ka.10). One gunshot wound 1 cm round was found on the left side of outer aspect of chest, 8 cm away from nipple. Charring seen, bleeding present. X-ray was advised.

6. The Investigating Officer, S.I. Fakire Lal Verma, collected plain and blood-stained clothes from the place of occurrence of the injured Km. Mamta and Jaipal, wrapped these clothes in white cloth stitched and sealed it and prepared the memo regarding taking the same in possession (Ext.Ka.2). He then prepared the site plan of the place of occurrence (Ext.Ka.8) and recorded the statements of witnesses and on the basis of evidence collected during investigation, submitted charge-sheet u/s 307 I.P.C. against Raghuvir Singh, appellant Bablu and Shiv Kumar.

7. On 04.01.1993, the court framed charge u/s 307 r/w 34 I.P.C. against accused, Raghuvir Singh, Bablu and Shiv Kumar. Accused denied the charge and claimed trial.

8. To prove the charge, the prosecution examined injured P.W.1 Km. Mamta, P.W.2 informant Bablu Giri, injured P.W.3 Jaipal Giri, P.W.4 Rajpal, P.W.5 Santa Giri as witnesses of fact while P.W.6 Head Constable Abdul Salam, P.W.7 Constable Vinod Kumar, P.W.8 Record Keeper, Dwarkeshpuri, Record Section, Medical College, Meerut, P.W.9 Dr. S.A.S. Mathur, P.W.10 Investigating Officer, S.I. Fakire Lal Verma, P.W.11 Dr. M.D. Tripathi and P.W.12 Dr. N.K. Verma, C.M.O., Medical College, Meerut were examined as formal witnesses.

9. On 28.01.1994, the court recorded the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. of accused. They denied the prosecution case. They said that witnesses are giving false evidence and the police prepared a false case against them. They also stated that false case was registered against them. The accused did not adduce any evidence in their defence.

10. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that the trial court has convicted the appellant against the weight of evidence on record. It has also been submitted that all witnesses of fact except Km. Mamta have turned hostile. There is contradiction in her evidence. Therefore, conviction merely on the evidence of P.W.1 Km. Mamta is bad in the eye of law.

11. Learned A.G.A. for the State has supported the impugned judgement and order. He has submitted that the trial court has convicted the accused-appellant on the basis of duly proved legal evidence and there is no illegality or infirmity in the impugned judgement and order and the appeal may be rejected.

12. Heard learned counsel for the appellant and learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

13. The witnesses of fact produced by the prosecution namely, P.W.1 Km. Mamta, P.W.2 informant Bablu Giri, P.W.3 Jaipal Giri, P.W.4 Rajpal and P.W.5 Santa Giri have given evidence regarding the occurrence. P.W.6 Head Constable Abdul Salam has proved the chik F.I.R. (Ext.Ka.3) and copy of G.D. regarding institution of case (Ext.Ka.4). P.W.7 Constable Vinod Kumar has deposed in his evidence regarding taking injured Km. Mamta and Jaipal to the hospital and getting them medically examined there. P.W.8 Record Keeper Dwarkeshpuri, has deposed that injured Km. Mamta was admitted in the hospital on 30.01.1992 and discharged therefrom on 16.02.1992. He has also stated that her Bed Head ticket was prepared by Dr. M.D. Tripathi. He has given formal evidence about her medical examination report (Ext.Ka.6). P.W.10 Investigating Officer/S.I. Fakire Lal Verma has proved site plan (Ext.Ka.8) and charge-sheet (Ext.Ka.9) submitted by him in the court. P.W.10 also proved the recovery memo relating to the taking possession of the blood-stained clothes of the injured Mamta and Jaipal (material Exts.9 to 13) and has stated that these material exhibits were sealed in a white cloth (Ext.Ka.11). P.W.11 Dr. M.D. Tripathi, who was posted as Surgeon on duty in Medical College, Meerut has deposed that after being referred, injured Km. Mamta was admitted on 30.01.1992 at 10.30 p.m. in emergency ward of Medical College, Meerut. Her medical examination was earlier done in P.H.C., Mavana. On 31.01.1992 in the morning, her operation was done. On the left side of the stomach (abdomen) and chest and on the left side of thigh and left leg and in the glutal region, injuries caused by firearm pellets were found. P.W.11 also stated that he had done the operation on the injured part of her stomach.

14. On the opening of the stomach, 500 ml blood was found in the peritoneum. There was through and through puncture in the left lobe of liver. There was puncture in the interior wall of the stomach. There was one small rent (tear) of 2 cm size found on the anterior border. There was 1 penetrating wound of 1 cm size on the left side of diaphragm. 250 ml blood was taken out from the chest by inserting a tube.

15. In the opinion of the Medical Officer, the injuries may have been caused by gunshot wound. He has also given the opinion if the injured was not given medical aid in time and timely operation was not done, she could have died due to the injuries received by her. The injuries could have been caused on 30.01.1992. P.W.11 Dr. M.D. Tripathi has also proved the Bed Head ticket (Ext.C1) which was prepared by Dr. Sandeep Malik. P.W.11 has also stated that on the injury nos. 3 and 5, blackening was found and charring was caused by gunshots.

16. P.W.12 Dr. Amlesh Kumar Verma, who was posted as Medical Officer at P.H.C., Mavana, and who has done the medical examination of Km. Mamta proved that he had done the medical examination of injuries of Km. Mamta on 30.01.1992 at 8.25 p.m. At the time of examination, following injury was found on her person :

(i) Gunshot wound of 1 cm entry of one round probing not done, on the front of right side chest 15.5 cm above and at 11.30 o'clock position for umbilicus. Charring seen, bleeding present.

Since condition of the patient was deteriorating, detailed examination could not be noted. The patient was referred to P.L. Sharma, Hospital for detailed examination of other injuries. Adv. Admission, further treatment and x-ray. Injury no. (i) was caused by firearm. Kept under observation.

17. Under Section 320 I.P.C., grievous hurt is defined which is as follows :-

Section 320 I.P.C. - The following kinds of hurt only are designated as "grievous":

First- Emasculation.

Secondly- Permanent privation of the sight of either eye.

Thirdly- Permanent privation of the hearing of either ear.

Fourthly- Privation of any member of joint.

Fifthly- Destruction or permanent impairing of the powers of any member or joint.

Sixthly- Permanent disfiguration of the head or face.

Seventhly- Fracture or dislocation of a bone or tooth.

Eighthly- Any hurt which endangers life or which causes the sufferer to be during the space of twenty days in severe bodily pain, or unable to follow his ordinary pursuits.

A person cannot be said to have caused grievous hurt unless the hurt caused is one of the kinds of hurt specified under Section 320 I.P.C., 1860. Therefore, it is the duty of the Court to give a finding on its own whether the hurt was simple or grievous. The Court is not concerned with the classification made by a doctor as to whether the hurt was simple or grievous. A doctor is to describe the facts in respect of the nature of injury and the Court is to decide whether the nature of the injury described by the doctor comes within any of the clauses of Section 320 I.P.C., 1860.

18. In Clause 7 of Section 320 I.P.C., a fracture or dislocation of bone or tooth is included in the definition of grievous hurt. In Hori Lal and another Vs. State of U.P., AIR 1970 SC 1969, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that for the application of Clause 7 of Section 320 I.P.C., it is not necessary that a bone should be cut through and through or that the crack must extend from the outer to the inner surface or that there should be displacement of any fragment of the bone. If there is a brake by a cutting or splintering of the bone or there is a rupture or fissure in it, it would amount to fracture within the meaning of Clause 7 of Section 320 I.P.C.

19. In Clause 8 of Section 320 I.P.C., endangering life, severe bodily pain is included in the definition of grievous hurt.

In State of Karnataka Vs. Parashram Kallappa Ghevade, 2007 CrLJ 479 (Kar), it has been held that the aforesaid clause speaks of two things : (1) any hurt which endangers life and (2) any hurt which causes the sufferer to be during the space of 20 days (a) in severe bodily pain, or (b) unable to follow his ordinary pursuits. Some hurts which are not like those hurts which are mentioned in the first seven clauses, are obviously distinguished from a slight hurt, may nevertheless be more serious. Thus, a wound may cause intense pain, prolonged disease or lasting injury to the victim, although it does not fall within any of the first seven clauses. Before a conviction for the sentence of grievous hurt can be passed, one of the injuries defined in Section 320 must be strictly proved, and the eighth clause is no exception to the general rule of law that a penal statute must be construed strictly.

The line between culpable homicide not amounting to murder and grievous hurt is a very thin line. In the one case the injuries must be such as are likely to cause death; in the other, the injuries must be such as to endanger life.

20. Injured P.W.1 Km. Mamta has deposed in her evidence on 26.03.1993 that the incident took place about two months earlier. There was quarrelling between Jaipal and Raghuvir. Hearing the noise of their quarrelling, she went on the terrace of her house from where she saw that accused, Shiv Kumar (since deceased) and appellant, Bablu were holding country-made pistol (katta) in their hands. Accused-appellant, Bablu and accused, Shiv Kumar fired with the country-made pistol in their hands. The bullet from the country-made pistol (katta) of the accused-appellant, Bablu hit her and that of accused, Shiv Kumar hit Jaipal. The witness stated that accused-appellant raised his hand and fired with the country-made pistol (katta) which hit her while she was standing on the terrace. Accused had intentionally fired by country-made pistol (katta) on her and Jaipal. Her medical examination was done. She remained admitted in the hospital for 18 days.

21. P.W.1 stated in her cross-examination that at the time of incident, informant, Bablu and his father, Jaipal, were standing in front of Shakir's shop. The distance between Jaipal and his son, Bablu was 2 ft. The accused were standing about 3 ft. away from her. The accused, Bablu, fired while holding the country-made pistol (katta) in his raised hand. P.W.1 Mamta has further stated in her cross-examination that blood was coming out from her body which spread on her clothes. The Investigating Officer/Daroga had taken her blood-stained clothes in his possession. P.W.1 has further stated in her cross-examination that accused, Bablu is the resident of her village and she knew him from before. She has denied naming the accused on the direction of others. She stated that she has seen the accused from the terrace of her house. In this way, injured P.W.1 by her deposition has proved the date, time and place of occurrence. She has also deposed that with the intention to kill, accused Bablu was firing, holding country-made pistol (katta) in his raised hand. The bullet fired from the country-made pistol (katta) hit her causing injury from which blood oozed spreading on her clothes. P.W.1 has also proved that after the incident, her uncle and brother took her to the police station from where she was taken to Meerut Medical College where she was admitted and underwent treatment for 18 days.

22. P.W.2 Bablu Giri, who is the son of injured Jaipal Giri has deposed in his evidence dated 09.07.1993 that about 1½ years ago, the occurrence took place at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. He had gone to purchase bundle of bidi from the shop of Shakir. In the way, noise was being raised and quarrel was going on. The persons quarrelling asked him to leave that place. They hit him on his stomach with their fists. Meanwhile his father also came at the place where quarrel was going on. He asked persons quarrelling that why they assaulted his son. In the ongoing jostling, his father received gunshot wound. He lodged the report regarding the incident in the police station concerned. P.W.2 denied that he had not seen the occurrence himself. P.W.1 proved the written report (Ext.Ka.1). He further stated that he could not see who fired by country-made pistol (katta), causing injury to his father. P.W.2 has further deposed that the Investigating Officer/Sub-Inspector had taken his father's blood-stained clothes and prepared recovery memo thereof which was signed by P.W.2 which he proved as (Ext.Ka.2). Thus, P.W.2 Bablu Giri by his deposition proved the date, time and place of occurrence in which his father received firearm injury but he has not proved the involvement of appellant in the firing incident.

23. Similarly, P.W.3 injured Jaipal Giri has deposed in his evidence about the date, time and place of occurrence in which he received injury caused by country-made pistol (katta) and his medical examination by the doctor but he denied the involvement of appellant, Bablu in the firing incident. Similarly, P.W.4 eye witness Rajpal and P.W.5 Santa Giri have also proved by their deposition the date, time and place of occurrence but they have deposed that due to darkness, they could not see who fired and on whom.

24. P.W.6 Head Constable Abdul Salam, who was posted as Head Moharrir on 30.01.1992 at P.S.- Mavana proved the chik F.I.R. relating to Case Crime No. 46 of 1992 which was lodged at 19.00 o'clock against accused Bablu and others. He proved the chik report (Ext.Ka.3) and G.D. entry relating to the case crime number as (Ext.Ka.4).

25. P.W.7 Constable Vinod Kumar, who was posted on 30.01.1992 as Constable in P.S.- Mavana has proved by his evidence that he carried the injured Jaipal Giri to Mavana Hospital from where he was referred to Pyare Lal Hospital, Meerut where his x-ray was done. P.W.7 also proved by his evidence that on 30.01.1992 at night, he took injured Km. Mamta, daughter of Satyapal to Mavana Hospital from where the doctor referred her to Medical College, Meerut.

26. P.W.8 Dwarkeshpuri, Record Officer, Record Section, Medical College, Meerut has identified the signature of Dr. M.D. Tripathi on the Bed Head Ticket prepared by Dr. M.D. Tripathi.

27. P.W.9 Dr. S.A.S. Mathur, who was posted as professor in the Department of Radiology, has proved the x-ray report of Km. Mamta as (Ext.Ka.7). He has stated in his evidence that there was no injury in the chest or abdomen of injured Mamta. He has deposed that two gunshots (pellets) were found in the behind of her right leg. There was fracture in right febula bone. Callus formation had not taken place. He has stated that the injury was caused within 10 days.

28. P.W.10 Investigating Officer, Fakire Lal Verma, proved the site plan of the place of occurrence (Ext.Ka.8). He has also proved the charge-sheet in the present criminal case filed against the accused as (Ext.Ka.9). P.W.10 proved the memo prepared by him relating to taking in possession blood-stained clothes of injured Jaipal and Mamta (material Ext.2). He has proved the blood-stained clothes of the injured as (material Exts.9 to 13) and the plain clothes in which they were stitched and sealed as (material Exts.14).

29. P.W.11 Dr. M.D. Tripathi, who was posted on 30.01.1992 in Emergency Ward of Medical College, Meerut and had examined injured Km. Mamta, has stated in his evidence that Mamta had received firearm injury in the left side of stomach, chest, left thigh, left leg and left side of gluttal region.

30. P.W.12 Dr. Amlesh Kumar Verma, who was posted on 30.01.1992 in P.H.C., Mavana and has done medical examination of injured Km. Mamta at 8.25 p.m. and has proved the medical examination report as (Ext.Ka.9). P.W.12 has also deposed that he had on the same day medically examined, injured Jaipal Giri. He proved the medical examination report of injured Jaipal Giri. He has stated that the injuries received by Km. Mamta and Jaipal Giri could have been caused at 4 p.m.

31. The evidence of injured P.W.1 Mamta is cogent and reliable. Nothing emerges in her cross-examination which could shake the credibility of her evidence and prove that her evidence is false and unreliable. P.W.2 informant Bablu Giri, P.W.3 Jaipal Giri, P.W.4 Rajpal and P.W.5 Santa Giri have also by their deposition proved the date, time and place of occurrence and that in the occurrence, firearm injury was received by P.W.1 Mamta and P.W.3 Jaipal and to that extent they have corroborated the testimony of P.W.1 Mamta but have not proved the involvement of accused, Bablu in the crime. The facts mentioned in the oral testimony of P.W.1 Mamta, P.W.2 Bablu, P.W.3 Jaipal, P.W.4 Rajpal and P.W.5 Santa Giri is corroborated by the documentary evidence, written report (Ext.Ka.1), recovery memo relating to taking the blood-stained clothes in possession by the Investigating Officer, Fakire Lal Verma. The evidence of P.W.1 Mamta is also corroborated by the statement/evidence of P.W.6 Head Constable, Abdul Salam, P.W.7 Constable Vinod Kumar, P.W.8 Record Keeper, Dwarkeshpuri, Record Section, Meerut Medical College, P.W.9 Dr. S.A.S. Mathur, P.W.10 Investigating Officer, Fakire Lal Verma and P.W.11 Dr. M.D. Tripathi.

32. It has been argued by the learned counsel for the appellant that only one injured eye witness P.W.1 Km. Mamta has deposed regarding the involvement of appellant in the occurrence. The remaining eye witnesses, namely, P.W.2 Bablu, P.W.3 Jaipal, P.W.4 Rajpal and P.W.5 Santa Giri have denied accused's involvement in the crime. Therefore, P.W.2 to P.W.5 have been declared hostile by the prosecution and they were cross-examined by the prosecution. Thus, accused-appellants cannot be held guilty merely on the basis of testimony of single eye-witness i.e. P.W.1 Km. Mamta. There is no force on the submission advanced on behalf of the appellant in this regard as under the Indian Evidence Act, no particular number of witnesses is required for proving a fact. The statutory provisions relating to single eye witness is provided in Section 134 of Indian Evidence Act.

Section 134 of Indian Evidence Act : No particular number of witnesses shall in any case be required for the proof of any fact.

33. The Hon'ble Apex Court enunciated the law relating to conviction on the basis of the testimony of single eye witness in the case of Laxmibai (Dead) through LRs Vs. Bhagwantbura (Dead) through LRs, AIR 2013 SC 1204 that in the matter of appreciation of evidence of witnesses, it is not number of witnesses, but quality of their evidence which is important, as there is no requirement in law of evidence that any particular number of witnesses is to be examined to prove/disprove a fact. It is a time-honoured principle, that evidence must be weighed and not counted. The test is whether the evidence has a ring of trust, is cogent, credible and trustworthy or otherwise. The legal system has laid emphasis on value provided by each witness, rather than the multiplicity or plurality of witnesses. It is quality and not quantity, which determines the adequacy of evidence as has been provided by Section 134 of the Act.

34. From the aforesaid discussion of the oral and documentary evidence produced by the prosecution against the appellant, charge u/s 325 I.P.C. against the appellant, Bablu, is proved beyond reasonable doubt. The trial court has convicted the appellant, Bablu, only u/s 325 I.P.C. and sentenced him to the period of 7 months and 20 days imprisonment which he has undergone during investigation and trial and a fine of Rs.2,000/-. The injured P.W.1 Km. Mamta has received firearm or gunshot wound on the front of right side chest 15.5 cm above and at 11.30 o'clock position for umbilicus, she remained admitted in Medical College, Meerut for 18 days. Since no State appeal has been filed against acquitting the appellant u/s 307 I.P.C. and that 31 years have lapsed since the date of incident and learned A.G.A. for the State has not produced any subsequent criminal antecedents of the appellant, it is not justified to intervene with his conviction u/s 325 I.P.C. and convict him u/s 307 I.P.C.

35. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case and nature and gravity of injury received by injured Km. Mamta, the ends of justice will be met out if the fine imposed is enhanced to Rs.20,000/- (Twenty thousand rupees) to be paid as compensation to the injured Km. Mamta within three months from the date of this judgement. In default of payment of fine, the appellant shall undergo simple imprisonment of 4 months. The appeal is disposed of with above mentioned modification.

36. Let a copy of the judgement along with the record of the case be sent to the court concerned for execution of punishment as modified by the order passed in this criminal appeal.

Criminal Law – Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Section 376 - POCSO Act, 2012 – Section 5(m)/6 - sentenced to 10 years rigorous imprisonment- allegation- accused appellant raped 11-year-old daughter victim of the informant- contradiction in the evidence of the witnesses of fact- held no material contradiction- victim's St.ment under Section 164 Cr.P.C. corroborated the case of prosecution- evidence of prosecutrix does not require corroboration if it inspires confidence- conviction upheld in light of the robust solitary evidence of the victim- Appeal dismissed. (Paragraphs 26, 38 to 42)

HELD: In view of the above observations made by the Hon'ble Apex Court, in the case in hand it is relevant to note that the victim in her St.ment under Section 164 Cr.P.C., which she proved as Ex. KA3, corroborated the case of the prosecution. Further, in her deposition before the court, the victim was consistent in her evidence about the prosecution story. There are no material contradictions in the St.ments of the victim and other witnesses of fact which can adversely affect the case of the prosecution. The evidence of the witnesses of fact is found to be trustworthy. (Para 26)

On the basis of the observation made by the Hon'ble Apex Court, it is to be noted that the victim has remained consistent in her St.ment throughout before the trial Court and also when her St.ment under 164 Cr.P.C. was recorded. (Para 38)

Learned counsel for the appellant argued that the ocular evidence and the medical evidence is not consistent with each other. PW-4 Dr. Shubhra Singh observed during the medical examination of the prosecutrix that no spermatozoa was found and no definite opinion about sexual assault was also given. (Para 39)

Considering the argument of the learned counsel for the appellant it is to be noted here that the victim by her reliable and trustworthy evidence has proved the incident happened with her. She specifically St.d that the appellant forcibly raped her. PW-4 Dr. Shubhra Singh found abrasion on the private part of the victim and also opined that in view of the aforesaid abrasions there was a possibility of rape of the victim. Moreover, the FSL report exhibit Ka-13 also corroborates the incident as human semen was found on the underwear of the appellant. Therefore, it cannot be observed that there is inconsistency between the ocular and the medical evidence. (Para 40)

On the basis of the above discussions, the observation made by the Hon'ble Apex Court as referred and on the appreciation of the documentary and oral evidence available on record, it is concluded that on 07.12.2013 at around 8.00 pm the appellant forcibly raped the victim. The evidence of PW-1 informant, PW-2 the sister of the victim and above all PW-3 the victim are found to be trustworthy and their evidence inspire confidence. A conclusion is drawn that the witnesses of fact have fully corroborated the case of prosecution. Therefore, the prosecution has succeeded to bring home the charge framed against the appellant. (Para 41)

Appeal dismissed. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mayank Kumar Jain, J.)

1. Feeling aggrieved with the impugned judgement dated 05.11.2019 passed by the Additional Session Judge/Special Judge (POCSO Act), Court No. 01, Gorakhpur in Special Session Trial No. 19/2014 (State of U. P. Vs Azam) arising out of Case Crime No. 652 / 2013, under Section 376 IPC and Section 5 (m)/6 of POCSO Act, Police Station-Khorabar, District-Gorakhpur whereby the accused-appellant was convicted under Section 376 I.P.C. and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for 10 years along with fine of Rs. 25,000 and in case of default in depositing the amount of fine additional rigorous imprisonment for six months was also awarded, the present appeal has been preferred.

2. As per the case of the prosecution, Savitri Maurya, wife of Raj Kumar, submitted a report to the police station concerned that on 07.12.2013, she was in the market. Her daughter victim X, aged 11 years was at home. At around 8:00 pm, her neighbor Azam came to her house, shut the mouth of her daughter and took her to the adjacent under-construction house. He forcibly raped her. Upon hearing the alarm raised by the victim, villagers and her family members reached there, having torches in their hands and saw Azam fleeing away while wearing his pant. Her daughter narrated the whole incident when she returned from the market.

3. On the basis of the aforesaid written report, case crime No. 652 of 2013, under Sections 376 (2) (1) I.P.C. and Section 5 (m)/6 of POSCO Act, 2012 was registered against the accused-appellant.

4. The investigation was set into motion. After completing preliminary formalities, the investigating officer took the blood-stained underwear of the victim worn by her at the time of the incident into their possession and sent the same for forensic examination. The applicant Azam was apprehended and his underwear, which he was wearing at the time of the incident, was also taken into possession and sent for forensic examination. The recovery memo was prepared accordingly.

5. The victim was medically examined. Her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was recorded. The site plan of the place of occurrence was prepared. The statements of the victim and other witnesses were recorded and after the conclusion of the investigation a charge sheet under Section 376 (2) (i) I.P.C. and 5 (m)/6 of POSCO Act against the appellant.

6. Charge under Section 376 I.P.C. and Section 5 (m)/6 POCSO Act was framed against the accused-appellant. He pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

7. In order to prove its case, the prosecution produced three witnesses of fact as PW1 Savitri Maurya (informant), PW2 Km. Priya (sister of the victim), PW3 the victim and formal witnesses as PW4 Dr. Subhra Singh, PW5 Sri Prakash Yadav (Investigating Officer) and PW6 Head Constable Deena Nath Pal.

8. After the close of prosecution evidence, the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. of the accused-appellant was recorded. He denied the commission of the offence as alleged by the prosecution. He stated that the witnesses of fact have given false statements against him. The victim was tutored thus she deposed against him. On the basis of the medical evidence, the commission of rape was not confirmed. The charge sheet was filed on the basis of an unfair investigation. The witnesses are inimical to him. In his additional statement, he stated that the victim was in love with his younger brother, letters were exchanged between them and a demand for a gift was also made by the victim. His younger brother was not giving money to his family members. On the day of the incident, he saw both of them together. He scolded them and asked them not to meet again and due to that reason, he has been falsely implicated in the present case.

9. After weighing the evidence available on record and considering the rival contentions, the learned trial court convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant as referred to above.

10. I have heard Sri Mohd. Shoeb Khan, the learned counsel for the accused-appellant and Sri Om Prakash, learned A.G.A. for the State. I have carefully perused the record.

11. In the present appeal, on the basis of the facts and circumstances of the case, it is to be noted as to whether on 07.12.2013 at around 8 pm, the accused-appellant raped the daughter, aged about 11 years, of the informant.

12. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that the informant is not the eyewitness of the incident. In her first information report, she admitted that when she returned from the market, she was informed about the incident by the victim. PW2 Priya who happens to be the sister of the victim is also not the eyewitness of the incident. There are material contradictions in the testimonies of the informant, PW2 Priya and the victim, create serious doubt about the prosecution story. The sister of the victim, in her statement, made a contradictory version that when she reached the place of occurrence, the accused fled away from the spot while PW1, the informant, stated in her evidence that the accused was apprehended on the spot and he abused them. The medical evidence also does not corroborate the prosecution version. The torch, which the people who rushed towards the place of occurrence after hearing the alarm were allegedly carrying, was not taken into the possession by the investigating officer. He further submitted that the doctor opined that on the basis of swelling, she could not say definitely that the victim was sexually assaulted. No sperm was found on the private part or around it on the victim. Moreover, in the F.S.L. report, no sperm was found on the underwear of the victim. Therefore, the medical evidence does not corroborate the prosecution version. The prosecution failed to prove charge against the appellant and therefore the appellant is liable to be aquitted. The appeal should be allowed.

13. Per contra learned A.G.A. argued that the oral evidence and medical evidence available on record proved the charges against the accused-appellant. The age of victim was 13 years at the time of the incident and she was forcibly raped by the accused-appellant. On the basis of the medical examination, the radiologist determined the age of the victim at the time of the incident to be 14 years, therefore, the victim was minor at the time of the incident. He also submitted that during a forensic examination, the sperm was found on the underwear of the accused-appellant which was worn by him at the time of the incident. He further submitted that there are no material contradictions in the statements of PW1 the informant, PW2 the sister of the victim and the victim herself. He further submitted that minor contradictions are bound to occur since the witnesses belong to a rural background and such types of contradictions do not adversely affect the case of the prosecution. He further submitted that the victim has supported the manner of crime committed by the accused-appellant in her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. She also corroborated this statement during deposition before the trial Court. The victim by her evidence has corroborated the prosecution version that on the date and time of occurrence, the accused-appellant forcefully committed rape on her and the entire incident was narrated by her to her mother.

14. PW1 Savitri Maurya who is the informant of this case has stated in her evidence that the age of her daughter was around 11 year and 1/2 month. On 07.12.2013, at around 8:00 pm, when her daughter was alone in the house, the accused-appellant entered her house and after shutting her mouth, took her to the nearby under-construction house and raped her. On hearing the alarm, several people reached there and lightening the torch, they chased the appellant-accused and caught him. She was told about the incident when she returned from the market. She submitted a report to the police. The underwear which was worn by her daughter at the time of the incident was taken into possession before her.

15. PW2 Priya is the sister of the victim who has narrated the same version as stated by the informant. She submitted that when her sister did not return, she went to trace her and saw that accused-appellant was coming out from an under-construction house while wearing his pant. She reached the spot and found that her daughter was lying on the floor. The whole incident was narrated by her sister stating that the appellant-accused committed rape on her and threatened if she would inform anyone, he will repeat the same act with her sister also. The underwear of her sister was soaked with blood.

16. PW3 victim has stated that the incident occurred on 07.12.2013 at around 08:00 pm when her mother had gone to the market, the accused-appellant called her but she refused. The accused-appellant told her that her mother was calling so she came out but did not find her mother there. The accused-appellant shut her mouth and took her to an under-construction house. He made her lay on the floor and forcefully committed rape on her. He penetrated his penis into her private parts. She was crying and felt severe pain. Upon hearing her cries, her sister came there. The accused-appellant ran from the spot. Her sister saw the accused-appellant in the torch light. Her underwear was blood stained. The entire incident was narrated by her to her mother. She was medically examined. She knows the accused appellant very well, him being her neighbour. She proved the statement given by her before the Magistrate under section 164 Cr.P.C.

17. PW4 Dr. Subhra Singh stated in her statement that on 08.12.2013 in the capacity of Senior Consultant District Women Hospital, Gorakhpur, at 2.30 pm, she examined the victim which was brought by C.P. No. 1223, Bhagwati Verma, PS. Khorabar, District Gorakhpur. The height of the victim was 137 cm.,

Weight 30 kg, teeth 13/13, thin built, mentally alert, breast not developed, axillary/pubic hair not present. No sign of injury on external body parts, vagina does not admit tip of finger. Slides made by vaginal swab and sent for pathological examination. No tear seen. Slide abrasion in forchette seen.

In supplementary report few R.B.C. seen. No spermatozoa was found. On the basis of the injury on the private part of the victim, it is possible that she was raped.

18. PW5 Inspector Sri Prakash Yadav stated that he received the investigation and after preliminary formalities, took the statement of the informant, the victim and the witnesses. He prepared the site plan. The undergarments worn by the victim and the accused at the time of the incident were taken into possession and were sent for chemical examination. The victim was sent for medical examination. Her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was recorded and after the conclusion of the investigation, he submitted charge sheet against the accused-appellant.

19. PW6 is the Head Constable Deena Nath Pal who has stated that on the basis of written report submitted by the informant Savitri Maurya, he prepared the F.I.R. No. 379 of 2013 on 07.12.2013 at 22.45 hour which was registered as Case Crime No. 652 of 2013, under Sections 376 (2) (1) I.P.C. and 5 (m)/6 POCSO Act at PS Khorabar, District Gorakhpur against the applicant. This witness has proved the first information report as Ex. Ka 11. The endorsement of the F.I.R. was made in the general diary of the concerned police station at Rapat No. 46 at 22.45 hour which is exhibited as Ex. Ka 12.

20. Learned counsel for the appellant vehemently argued that there are material contradictions in the evidence of PW1 and PW2. The informant PW1 in her statement stated that at the time of occurrence the victim was all alone at her house and the appellant was apprehended by the villagers on the spot while in her cross-examination she stated that the accused-appellant was apprehended at her house on the date of occurrence and she herself apprehended the accused-appellant. Learned counsel for the appellant referred the statement of PW2 Km. Priya, the sister of the victim that when she rushed towards the place of occurrence, her sister was lying alone there and the accused-appellant was not present there. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that PW1 Savitri Maurya and PW2 are not the eyewitnesses of the incident, therefore, their testimonies cannot be relied upon.

21. So far as the argument of learned counsel for the appellant is concerned about the contradictions in the evidence of witnesses of fact, it is worth to be noted that the perusal of record goes to show that examination-in-chief of PW1 Savitri Maurya was recorded on 04.08.2014 and her cross-examination was recorded on 15.10.2014. The examination-in-chief of PW2 Km. Priya was recorded on 06.11.2014 while her cross-examination was recorded on 24.11.2014. Likewise the examination-in-chief of the victim was recorded on 03.01.2015 and since the cross-examination was not concluded, therefore, her further cross-examination was recorded on 01.06.2015.

22. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sachin Kumar Singhraha v. State of M.P.*, (2019) 3 SCC (Cri) 575 : has held as under:-

"12.The Court will have to evaluate the evidence before it keeping in mind the rustic nature of the depositions of the villagers, who may not depose about exact geographical locations with mathematical precision. Discrepancies of this nature which do not go to the root of the matter do not obliterate otherwise acceptable evidence. It need not be stated that it is by now well settled that minor variations should not be taken into consideration while assessing the reliability of witness testimony and the consistency of the prosecution version as a whole. In this view of the matter, in our considered opinion, the evidence of PW 5 fully supports the evidence of PW 4 and the case of the prosecution."

23. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Rohtas v. State of Haryana*, (2020) 1 SCC (Cri) 47 has held as under:-

"26.In a recent decision in Dilawar Singh v.State of Haryana [Dilawar Singh v.State of Haryana, (2015) 1 SCC 737 : (2015) 1 SCC (Cri) 759] , the Court restated that while analysing the evidence of eye witnesses, it must be borne in mind that there is bound to be variations and difference in the behaviour of the witnesses or their reactions from situation to situation and individual to individual. There cannot be uniformity in the reaction of witnesses. The Court must not decipher the evidence on unrealistic basis. There can be no hard-and-fast rule about the uniformity in human reaction. "

24. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Khurshid Ahmed v. State of J&K*, (2018) 3 SCC (Cri) 61 has held as under-

"35.When analysing the evidence available on record, the court should not adopt hyper technical approach but should look at the broader probabilities of the case. Basing on the minor contradictions, the court should not reject the evidence in its entirety. Sometimes, even in the evidence of truthful witness, there may appear certain contradictions basing on their capacity to remember and reproduce the minute details. Particularly in the criminal cases, from the date of incident till the day they give evidence in the court, there may be gap of years. Hence, the courts have to take all these aspects into consideration and weigh the evidence. The discrepancies and contradictions which do not go to the root of the matter, credence shall not be given to them. In any event, the paramount consideration of the court must be to do substantial justice."

25. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Rakesh v. State of U.P.*, (2021) 3 SCC (Cri) 149 has held as under:-

"14. One is required to consider the entire evidence as a whole with the other evidence on record. Mere one sentence here or there and that too to the question asked by the defence in the cross-examination cannot be considered stand alone."

26. In view of the above observations made by the Hon'ble Apex Court, in the case in hand it is relevant to note that the victim in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C., which she proved as Ex. KA3, corroborated the case of the prosecution. Further, in her deposition before the court, the victim was consistent in her evidence about the prosecution story. There are no material contradictions in the statements of the victim and other witnesses of fact which can adversely affect the case of the prosecution. The evidence of the witnesses of fact is found to be trustworthy.

27. So far as the argument of learned counsel for the appellant that the victim stated in her statement that at the time of occurrence, the appellant made her lay down on the floor but no injury was found on her body at the time of her medical examination is concerned, it is pertinent to note that the victim in her testimony has corroborated the facts of the prosecution version in entirety. Therefore, mere fact that she stated that the accused-appellant compelled her to lay down but she did not suffer any injury, does not create any doubt about her testimony.

28. The statements of PW1 Savitri Maurya, PW2 Km. Priya and PW3 victim made before the court are reliable and inspire confidence All the three witnesses of fact have stated that the underwear of the victim was soaked as a result incident, which was handed over to the investigating officer. The informant in her testimony also proved the site plan prepared by the investigating officer and all the three witnesses of fact categorically denied that the victim had a love affair with the brother of the appellant Azad and the victim was caught by the accused-appellant and for that reason the appellant had been falsely implicated.

29. So far as the letters which were filed before the trial court on behalf of the appellant in his defence, claiming that victim was in love with his younger brother are concerned, suffice to mention here that these letters were not proved by the defence by any cogent evidence. It appears that during trial no effort was made by the appellant to examine the handwriting of the victim by an expert which could support the defence taken by the appellant. Therefore, mere filing of the letters does not corroborate the defence taken by the appellant.

30. Learned counsel for the appellant vehemently argued that deposition of the victim did not find any corroboration with the deposition of PW1 and PW2. Since these two witnesses are not the eyewitnesses, therefore the sole testimony of the victim cannot be relied upon.

31. Considering this argument, it is relevant to mention here that the victim had stated that the accused took her to the under-construction house and after shutting her mouth disrobed her and committed rape upon her. The accused-appellant penetrated his private parts into the vagina of the victim. The victim deposed in categorical terms regarding rape committed upon her by the accused-appellant. There is no contradiction in the examination-in-chief and the cross examination of the victim. Her evidence inspire confidence and has a ring of truth. Moreover, the statement of the informant and the sister of the victim also corroborate the presence of the accused-appellant at the place of occurrence, since they have stated that they saw the accused-appellant fleeing from the place of occurrence while wearing his pant. PW-2 Priya specifically stated that she found her sister in a disrobed condition, therefore, the evidence of the victim and her sister is consistent with the facts of the prosecution and their evidence is trustworthy.

32. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant submitted that since there are contradictions in the statements of the victim and the other witnesses of fact, therefore, the conviction cannot be recorded against the accused-appellant on solitary evidence of the victim.

33. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Rai Sandeep Vs. State, (NCT of Delhi) (2012) 8 SCC 21 has eleborated the meaning of "Sterling Witness' as:-

"15. In our considered opinion, the "sterling witness' should be of a very high quality and caliber whose version should, therefore, be unassailable. The Court considering the version of such witness should be in a position to accept it for its face value without any hesitation. To test the quality of such a witness, the status of the witness would be immaterial and what would be relevant is the truthfulness of the statement made by such a witness. What would be more relevant would be the consistency of the statement right from the starting point till the end, namely, at the time when the witness makes the initial statement and ultimately before the Court. It should be natural and consistent with the case of the prosecution qua the accused. There should not be any prevarication in the version of such a witness. The witness should be in a position to withstand the cross- examination of any length and howsoever strenuous it may be and under no circumstance should give room for any doubt as to the factum of the occurrence, the persons involved, as well as, the sequence of it. Such a version should have co-relation with each and everyone of other supporting material such as the recoveries made, the weapons used, the manner of offence committed, the scientific evidence and the expert opinion. The said version should consistently match with the version of every other witness. It can even be stated that it should be akin to the test applied in the case of circumstantial evidence where there should not be any missing link in the chain of circumstances to hold the accused guilty of the offence alleged against him. Only if the version of such a witness qualifies the above test as well as all other similar such tests to be applied, it can be held that such a witness can be called as a "sterling witness' whose version can be accepted by the Court without any corroboration and based on which the guilty can be punished. To be more precise, the version of the said witness on the core spectrum of the crime should remain intact while all other attendant materials, namely, oral, documentary and material objects should match the said version in material particulars in order to enable the Court trying the offence to rely on the core version to sieve the other supporting materials for holding the offender guilty of the charge alleged."

34. On importance given to the testimony of the prosecutrix in rape cases, Hon'ble Supreme Court in Hemraj Vs. State of Haryana, 2014 (2) SCC 395 reminded the Court of their duties in carefully scrutinizing the same in following words:-

"6. In a case involving charge of rape the evidence of the prosecutrix is most vital. If it is found credible; if it inspires total confidence, it can be relied upon even sans corroboration. The court may, however, if it is hesitant to place implicit reliance on it, look into other evidence to lend assurance to it short of corroboration required in the case of an accomplice. Such weight is given to the prosecutrix's evidence because her evidence is on par with the evidence of an injured witness which seldom fails to inspire confidence. Having placed the prosecutrix's evidence on such a high pedestal, it is the duty of the court to scrutinize it carefully, because in a given case on that lone evidence a man can be sentenced to life imprisonment. The court must, therefore, with its rich experience evaluate such evidence with care and circumspection and only after its conscience is satisfied about its creditworthiness rely upon it."

35. In Sadashiv Ramrao Hadbe Vs. State of Maharashtra, (2006) 10 SCC 92 the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that:-

"8. It is true that in a rape case the accused could be convicted on the sole testimony of the prosecutrix, if it is capable of inspiring of confidence in the mind of the court. If the version given by the prosecutrix is unsupported by any medical evidence or the whole surrounding circumstances are highly improbable and belie the case set up by the prosecutrix, the court shall not act on the solitary evidence of the prosecutrix. The courts shall be extremely careful in accepting the sole testimony of the prosecutrix when the entire case is improbable and unlikely to happen."

36. The Hon'ble Apex Court in State of Punjab VS. Gurmeet Singh, (1996) 2 SCC 384 has held that minor contradictions or insignificant discrepancies in the statement of the prosecutrix should not be taken into consideration if the statement of the prosecutrix is otherwise reliable. The Hon'ble Apex Court observed as:-

"The courts must, while evaluating evidence, remain alive to the fact that in a case of rape, no self-respecting woman would come forward in a court just to make a humiliating statement against her honour such as is involved in the commission of rape on her. In cases involving sexual molestation, supposed considerations which have no material effect on the veracity of the prosecution case or even discrepancies in the statement of the prosecutrix should not, unless the discrepancies are such which are of fatal nature, be allowed to throw out an otherwise reliable prosecution case. The inherent bashfulness of the females and the tendency to conceal outrage of sexual aggression are factors which the Courts should not over-look. The testimony of the victim in such cases is vital and unless there are compelling reasons which necessitate looking for corroboration of her statement, the courts should find no difficulty to act on the testimony of a victim of sexual assault alone to convict an accused where her testimony inspires confidence and is found to be reliable. Seeking corroboration of her statement before relying upon the same, as a rule, in such cases amounts to adding insult to injury. Why should the evidence of a girl of a woman who complains of rape or sexual molestation, be viewed with doubt, disbelief or suspicion? The Court while appreciating the evidence of a prosecutrix may look for some assurance of her statement to satisfy its judicial conscience, since she is a witness who is interested in the outcome of the charge levelled by her, but there is no requirement of law to insist upon corroboration of her statement to base conviction of an accused. The evidence of a victim of sexual assault stands almost at par with the evidence of an injured witness and to an extent is even more reliable. Just as a witness who has sustained some injury in the occurrence, which is not found to be self inflicted, is considered to be a good witness in the sense that he is least likely to shield the real culprit, the evidence of a victim of a sexual offence is entitled to great weight, absence of corroboration notwithstanding. Corroborative evidence is not an imperative component of judicial credence in every case of rape. Corroboration as a condition for judicial reliance on the testimony of the prosecutrix is not a requirement of law but a guidance of prudence under given circumstances."

37. The Hon'ble Apex Court in State of H.P. v. Raghubir Singh (1993) 2 SCC 622, has held that the evidence of prosecutrix does not require corroboration if it inspires confidence. The Hon'ble Apex Court observed as:-

"this Court held that there is no legal compulsion to look for any other evidence to corroborate the evidence of the prosecutrix before recording an order of conviction. Evidence has to be weighed and not counted. Conviction can be recorded on the sole testimony of the prosecutrix, if her evidence inspires confidence and there is absence of circumstances which militate against her veracity."

38. On the basis of the observation made by the Hon'ble Apex Court, it is to be noted that the victim has remained consistent in her statement throughout before the trial Court and also when her statement under 164 Cr.P.C. was recorded.

39. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that the ocular evidence and the medical evidence is not consistent with each other. PW-4 Dr. Shubhra Singh observed during the medical examination of the prosecutrix that no spermatozoa was found and no definite opinion about sexual assault was also given.

40. Considering the argument of the learned counsel for the appellant it is to be noted here that the victim by her reliable and trustworthy evidence has proved the incident happened with her. She specifically stated that the appellant forcibly raped her. PW-4 Dr. Shubhra Singh found abrasion on the private part of the victim and also opined that in view of the aforesaid abrasions there was a possibility of rape of the victim. Moreover, the FSL report exhibit Ka-13 also corroborates the incident as human semen was found on the underwear of the appellant. Therefore, it cannot be observed that there is inconsistency between the ocular and the medical evidence.

41. On the basis of the above discussions, the observation made by the Hon'ble Apex Court as referred and on the appreciation of the documentary and oral evidence available on record, it is concluded that on 07.12.2013 at around 8.00 pm the appellant forcibly raped the victim. The evidence of PW-1 informant, PW-2 the sister of the victim and above all PW-3 the victim are found to be trustworthy and their evidence inspire confidence. A conclusion is drawn that the witnesses of fact have fully corroborated the case of prosecution. Therefore, the prosecution has succeeded to bring home the charge framed against the appellant.

42. The learned trial Court appreciated the documentary and oral evidence available on record in a rightful manner and arrived at a conclusion that appellant-accused committed the offence and recorded the conviction of the appellant-accused.

43. In view of the above, the judgment and the order of sentence passed by the learned trial Court is liable to be affirmed and criminal appeal is liable to be dismissed.

Order

44. The Criminal Appeal is accordingly dismissed. The judgment and order dated 05.11.2019 passed by the learned trial Court in Special Session Trial No. 19/2014 (State of U. P. Vs Azam) arising out of Case Crime No. 652 / 2013, under Section 376 IPC and Section 5 (m)/6 of POCSO Act, Police Station-Khorabar, District-Gorakhpur is hereby affirmed.

45. Let a certified copy of the judgment/order along with lower court record be sent to the court concerned for necessary compliance forthwith.

A. Criminal Law – Code of Criminal Procedure,1973 – Section 374(2) -Appeal under Section 374(2) Cr.P.C. read with Section 27 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988- Conviction of income tax official under Sections 7, 13(2) read with Section 13(1)(d) of P.C. Act- bribe demanded to nil the income tax assessment of the informant- trap laid- accused appellant caught red handed by CBI- court refuted submission that recovery of bribe amount not made from accused. (Para 37)

HELD: In view thereof, this Court does not find any credence in the submission of the learned counsel for the accused-appellant that recovery was not made from the accused-appellant. Once the accused-appellant accepted the bribe amount and he kept it in the drawer of the office table, which was of the accused-appellant, the recovery from the drawer of the office table of the accused-appellant, is recovery from the accused-appellant himself. (Para 37)

B. Conviction under Sections 7 and 13 of the P.C. Act- essentials- demand and acceptance of illegal gratification by accused public servant- no offence without proof of demand- term "demand"- not defined in P.C. Act- inserted by interpretative process- Section 20 of P.C. Act- Statutory presumption of guilt- shift in burden of proof- accused to prove that what has been received- valuable consideration and not an illegal gratification- foundational facts proved- presumption of receipt of obtainment of illegal gratification- if in absence of evidence of the complainant- inferential deduction of culpability/guilt of public servant- based on evidence adduced by prosecution permissible- conviction upheld- Appeal dismissed. (Paras 39 to 46)

HELD: It is well settled law that to record the conviction under Sections 7 and 13 of the P.C. Act, the demand and acceptance of illegal gratification by the accused public servant should be proved by cogent and credible evidence. It is also settled law that mere possession and recovery of money without proof of demand by the accused does not constitute an offence under Sections 7 and 13(2) read with 13(1)(d) of the PC Act, 1988 (P. Satyanarayana Murthy Vs District Inspector of Police, St. of Andhra Pradesh & anr., (2015) 10 SCC 152). (Para 39) of the P.C. Act derives certain statutory presumption of guilt.. (Para 40)

Term "demand" does not find place under P.C. Act, 1988, but it has virtually been inserted in the statute by interpretative process. Section 20

Plain reading with the words of Section 20 of the P.C. Act, would mean that if it can be proved that a public servant has received gratification, Section 20 of the P.C. Act brings in statutory presumption that he has received the same with an illegal motive as laid down in Section 7 of the Act. This shifts the burden of proof to the accused, who is required to prove that what has been received, is a valuable consideration and not an illegal gratification. (Para 41)

Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court in a recent judgment in the case of Neeraj Dutta vs St., (2022) SCC OnLine SC 1724, has held that to constitute an offence under Sections 7 and 13(2)/13(1)(d) (i) and (ii) of the P.C. Act, 1988, if a bribe giver makes an offer to pay without there being any prior demand of the same by a public servant and public servant accepts and receives the bribe, it would be a case of acceptance under Section 7 of the P.C. Act, 1988. If a public servant himself makes a demand and demand is accepted by bribe giver and bribe is paid by the bribe giver, it is a case of obtainment under Section 13(1)(d)(i) and 13(1)(d)(ii) of the P.C. Act. (Para 42)

It has been held that if the foundational facts are proved, presumption of receipt of obtainment of illegal gratification would be made. If such a presumption of fact would be raised, it is subject to rebuttal by the accused as the presumption under Section 20 of the PC. Act is not an inviolable presumption. However, if the presumption is not rebutted, the offence gets proved as provided under Section 20 of the P.C. Act. (Para 44)

The Supreme Court has answered the reference that if in absence of evidence of the complainant (direct/primary/oral/documentary evidence), it would be permissible to draw an inferential deduction of culpability/guilt of a public servant under Sections 7, 13(2)/13(1)(d) of the P.C. Act based on other evidence adduced by the prosecution. (Para 46)

Appeal dismissed. (E-14)

Act for four years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.60,000/- and in default of payment of fine, further to undergo one year additional rigorous impoverishment with direction that both the sentences shall run concurrently except for fine.

Facts:-

2. Brief facts of the case are that a written complaint dated 26.12.2006 was received in the office of the Superintendent of Police, CBI. Lucknow by Sri Shailendra Kumar, Proprietorship of firm of M/s Kashyap Trading Company alleging that the said concern of the complainant was in the wholesale trading of food-grains and was audited regularly by the Chartered Accountant every year. From the year 2002-03 as his firm was running into losses, the income tax was not payable and, therefore, was not paid. The complainant received a notice from the Income Tax Office in April, June and November, 2006 in respect of the returns of the proprietorship firm of the complainant for Financial Years 2003-04 and 2004-05. In respect of these notices, he met the accused-appellant several times and clarified his position through letter dated 7.12.2006. On 21.12.2006, the accused-appellant demanded Rs.60,000/- as bribe amount to nil his income tax assessment. The accused-appellant threatened the complainant that in case he would not pay the bribe amount, heavy tax and penalty would be imposed on the complainant. Thereafter, on the request of the complainant, the accused-appellant told him to reduce the bribe amount to Rs.50,000/- and directed the complainant to bring the bribe amount by 27.12.2006 at his residence in making the tax liability of the complainant nil.

3. The Superintendent of Police, CBI, Lucknow after verifying the complaint, directed for registration of the FIR and nominated Sri V. Dixit as Trap Laying Officer (TLO). A trap team was constituted, which included Shailendra Kumar, the complainant; Ram Shabd Verma, independent witness; Sri Junail Ibad Khan, independent witness; N.N. Pandey, CBI Inspector; G.K. Dubey; A.K. Pandey; Diwakar Pandey; R.K. Tewari, Sub-Inspector; S.K. Pandey, Ashok Kumar; R.N. Shukla, Constable and G.S. Bisht with T.L.O. In presence of these persons, pre-trap proceedings were completed. The complainant brought Rs.50,000/- in denomination of Rs.500/- each. The numbers of these currency notes were noted down and they were treated with Phenolphthalein powder, and the said bribe amount was kept in the right pocket of pant of the complainant.

4. Ram Shabd Verma, independent witness, was deputed as shadow witness to be present at the time of giving the bribe amount by the complainant to the accused-appellant. The other independent witness, Junail Ibad Khan was directed to remain present with the CBI team. The CBI team after competing the pre-trap proceedings, proceeded to the residence of the accused-appellant at 3 PM on 27.12.2006 itself.

5. The complainant and the shadow witness were on motorcycle. The accused-appellant was seen going to his office on foot from his residence. The complainant stopped the motorcycle and requested the accused-appellant to go to his residence. However, the accused-appellant asked the complainant to reach to his office. This conversation between the accused-appellant and the complainant was clearly heard by the shadow witness,Ram Shabd Verma. This conversation was told to T.L.O. Sri V. Dixit, who decided to catch the accused-appellant red handed accepting the bribe amount in his office.

6. As per the plan, the complainant and the shadow witness went to the retiring room of the accused-appellant at 16.15 hours. On indication by the shadow witness, the CBI team with independent witness, Junail Ibad Khan reached to the office of the accused-appellant and caught him red handed accepting the bribe amount. The bribe amount was recovered from the drawer of the office table of the accused-appellant. The colour of wash of the hands and fingers of the accused-appellant turned pink. The bribe amount was recovered by the independent witness, Junail Ibad Khan from the drawer of the office table of the accused-appellant. The numbers of the currency notes matched with the numbers mentioned in the pre-trap proceedings. After completing the investigation, charge sheet was submitted by the CBI/ACB, Lucknow under Sections 7 and 13(2) read with Section 13(1)(d) of the P.C. Act.

7. The CBI concluded in its investigation that the accused-appellant was caught red handed while demanding and accepting the bribe amount of Rs.50,000/- on 27.12.2006 in presence of the two independent witnesses in his office and the accused-appellant was arrested on the spot. Sanction order for prosecuting the accused-appellant was issued by the Commissioner of Income Tax, Faizabad on 23.3.2007. After taking cognizance, the accused-appellant was summoned to face the trial. After completing the proceedings under Section 207 Cr.P.C. on 24.10.2007, charges were framed against the accused-appellant by the learned trial court under Sections 7 and 13(2) read with Section 13(1)(D) of P.C. Act. The accused-appellant denied charges and claimed trial.

8. In investigation, it was noticed that the accused-appellant was posted as Income Tax Officer from 30.6.2005 to 27.12.2006. The accused-appellant was on a position to make assessment of the income tax of the proprietorship firm of the complainant. The case file for assessment of the proprietorship firm of the complainant was pending from the date when the accused-appellant took charge on 30.6.2005 from his predecessor, Sri Nimish Mishra. The accused-appellant did not finalise the assessment of the proprietorship firm of the complainant and kept it pending and did not finalise the assessment order till 27.12.2006. He kept the proceedings of assessment pending in order to receive illegal gratification from the complainant.

9. During investigation, it was also noticed that no order was passed in the order-sheet of the assessment proceedings of the proprietorship firm of the complainant since June, 2006. Initially, the accused-appellant demanded Rs.60,000/- from the complainant as illegal gratification on 21.12.2006. However, finally he agreed to receive Rs.50,000/- as illegal gratification on 27.12.2006 to finalise the assessment at nil tax on the proprietorship firm of the complainant.

The complainant could not have been discharged of his liability to pay the income tax, The appellant did not demand or accept any bribe amount from the complainant and neither any bribe amount was recovered from him. As soon as he reached the office from his residence after having lunch at his residence, the CBI personnel apprehended him. The complainant wanted to escape from the income tax liability, for which he conspired and falsely implicated the accused-appellant. The accused-appellant, however, said that Rs.50,000/- was kept in the drawer of his office table by the complainant in his absence. The accused-appellant said that he was innocent and he neither demanded any bribe amount from the complainant nor any bribe amount was recovered from him. The complainant met the accused-appellant while he was coming back to his office from his residence after having lunch. The accused-appellant was on foot and the complainant was on motorcycle. However, w.e.f. 2003-04 when he took loan of Rs.18,00,000/- from the bank, his business increased and he submitted the requisite papers before the Income Tax Department in Varanasi and Basti. No income tax was paid as his business was not running in profit. A raid was conducted on 30.1.2004 at the complainant's place, and this affected the business of the complainant and he suffered losses.

16. The accused-appellant started proceedings in respect of the Assessment Years 2003-04 and 2004-05 of the proprietorship firm of the complainant. The entire requisite papers were submitted before the accused-appellant. However, the accused-appellant demanded Rs.60,000/- for finalising the assessment and making the tax liability nil. He demanded the bribe money of Rs.60,000/- on 21.12.2006. When the complainant expressed his inability to pay Rs.60,000/-, the accused-appellant agreed to accept Rs.50,000/- to be paid on 27.12.2006 at his residence and said that he would pass the order on 31.12.2006 making the tax liability nil in respect of the proprietorship firm of the complainant. The accused-appellant asked whether he brought the bribe amount of Rs.50,000/- or not. He introduced the shadow witness as his brother-in-law and requested the accused-appellant to reduce the bribe amount, on which he said that "neither brother-in-law nor father-in-law would be of any help, whatever was agreed, the complainant should pay". On this, he took out Rs.50,000/- Phenolphthalein treated currency notes from his right hand pocket of the pant and gave it to the accused-appellant, which he took from his right hand and kept in the drawer of his office table. 20. P.W.-6, Sri Shobh Nath Saroj, Income Tax Officer, Gonda in his deposition said that on 28.12.2006 he took charge of the Income Tax Officer, Basti in place of the accused-appellant as the accused-appellant was arrested by the CBI. Section 271-B of the Income Tax Act. He also deposed and proved the document imposing penalty of Rs.80,000/- on the complainant for the Assessment Year 2003-04 vide order dated 20.6.2005 by Sri Nimish Mishra. The order-sheet from 14.2.2005 to 20.6.2005 was written by Sri Nimish Mishra, the then Income Tax Officer for the Assessment Year 2003-04 in respect of the income tax return of the complainant. 21. In respect of the Assessment Year 2004-05, the witness said that after 14.6.2006, no order was written on the order-sheet in respect of the proceedings for the Assessment Year 2004-05 by the Income Tax Officer, whereas the accused-appellant had given notices dated 15.6.2006, 24.11.2006 and 30.11.2006 to the complainant, proprietor of the firm. 22. For the Assessment Year 2003-04 in respect of the proceedings of income tax assessment of the complainant's firm, there was no proceeding/order in the order-sheet after 7.6.2006. However, it was the duty of the Income Tax Officer, Basti to write the order-sheet. The question that why the order-sheet was not written by the accused-appellant, who was posted as Income Tax Officer at the relevant time, the witness said that it could very well be explained by the accused-appellant himself.

23. P.W.-7, Devendra Singh, Additional Superintendent of Police, CBI, New Delhi said that after the prosecution sanction was received, charge sheet was filed on 26.2.2007 against the accused-appellant in the competent court.

He said that till 27.12.2006, no assessment order was passed in respect of the complainant, proprietor of M/s Kashyap Trading Company for the Assessment Years 2003-04 and 2004-05 and it was the accused-appellant, who was the competent authority to pass the assessment order. Submissions:-

29. Sri Nandit Srivastava, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by S/Sri Pranjal Krishna, J.P. Awasthi, Mohd. Ibrahim Khan and Anshuman Srivastava for the accused-appellant has submitted that as per the prosecution case, seven persons were present on the spot when the trap proceedings were conducted, who might have heard the conversation between the accused-appellant and the complainant, but they were not examined during trial by the CBI. The complainant had clear motive to falsely implicate the accused-appellant in order to escape from payment of heavy income tax and penalty. Learned trial court had ignored the evidence brought on record to show that the accused-appellant had no motive to demand and accept the bribe amount from the complainant. The complainant was a defaulter of the Income Tax Department as he evaded the tax. The predecessor Income Tax Officer had imposed penalty and intimated the recovery proceedings against the complainant. Therefore, the accused-appellant was not in a position to recall or review the said order passed by the predecessor in office. The accused-appellant was not in a position to pass the assessment order for nil payment of income tax. He has further submitted that the learned trial court had failed to appreciate the evidence of P.Ws.6, 9 and 10, who were the Income Tax Officers and deposed in respect of the orders imposing penalties on the complainant.

30. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant has further submitted that the definite case of the accused-appellant that while he was coming to office on foot from his residence after having lunch, the complainant, who was on motorcycle, entered the office of the accused-appellant and kept the bribe amount in the drawer of the office table of the accused-appellant, should not have been brushed aside by the learned trial court. It is also submitted that even as per the evidence of P.W.-2, when the complainant met the accused-appellant on the way to his office from his residence, the complainant requested him to reach the residence. However, the accused-appellant asked the complainant to meet him in the office. He, therefore, has submitted that the prosecution story that the accused-appellant asked the complainant to give the bribe amount at his residence, falls to ground.

31. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant has further submitted that the alleged bribe amount was recovered from the drawer of the office table of the accused-appellant. The retiring room of the accused-appellant was vacant during lunch as he went to his residence for having lunch and the possibility of putting the bribe amount by the complainant in the drawer of the office table of the accused-appellant during this period, was not a mere suspicion, but was a reality.

32. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant has further submitted that the principle Falsus in Uno Falsus in Omnibus was ignored by the learned trial court in spite of the fact that most of the prosecution witnesses did not depose truthfully. The prosecution had failed to prove the case against the accused-appellant beyond reasonable doubt and the principle "It is better that ten guilty persons escape than that one innocent suffer" was ignored by the learned trial court while convicting and sentencing the accused-appellant. When there was no motive for demand of bribe amount by the accused-appellant, the conviction and sentence of the accused-appellant in absence of any evidence of demand is unjustified. He, has, therefore, prayed for allowing the appeal and acquitting the accused-appellant.

33. On the other hand, Sri Shiv P. Shukla, learned counsel for the CBI has submitted that the accused-appellant kept the file of the complainant for the Assessment Years 2003-04 and 2004-5 pending since June, 2006 without any order on the order-sheet with mala fide intention to demand illegal gratification from the complainant to make the assessment for nil tax. The income tax returns for the Assessment Years 2003-04 and 2004-05 were filed on 26.9.2005 and after notice was issued, relevant papers were submitted on 7.12.2006, but the assessment was not finalised. It is not in dispute that the accused-appellant was in the capacity to finalise the assessment of M/s Kashyap Trading Company, a proprietorship firm of the complainant for the Assessment Years 2003-04 and 2004-05.

34. The evidence of P.W.-2, Shailendra Kumar, the complainant; P.W.-3, Ram Shabd Verma, shadow witness; P.W.-4, V. Dixit, T.LO. and P.W.-5, Junail Ibad Khan, independent witness, would go to prove beyond reasonable doubt that the accused-appellant demanded and accepted the bribe amount of Rs.50,000/- from the complainant, which was recovered from the drawer of the office table of the accused-appellant. He has, therefore, submitted that the learned trial court after detail examination of the evidence, found the case fully proved against the accused-appellant for offences under Sections 7 and 13(2) read with Section 13(1)(d) of P.C. Act for which the accused-appellant was convicted and sentenced by the learned trial court as mentioned above. It is submitted that once the demand and acceptance had been proved and the bribe money was recovered, charge against the accused-appellant got fully proved beyond reasonable doubt and, therefore, the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

35. I have considered the submissions advanced on behalf of the learned counsel for the parties and perused the judgment and order passed by the learned trial court.

Conclusion:-

36. The question which falls for consideration in the present appeal, is whether the prosecution had been able to establish demand and acceptance of illegal gratification of Rs.50,000/- by the accused-appellant from the complainant by leading cogent and credible evidence. The complainant in his evidence had deposed regarding demand and acceptance of the bribe amount and he had also deposed in respect of the pre-trap and post-trap proceedings and, the testimony of the complainant, P.W.-2 was fully corroborated by Ram Shabd Verma, P.W.-3, shadow witness. P.W.-5, Junail Ibad Khan, independent witness, also corroborated the testimony of P.Ws.2 and 3 regarding demand and acceptance of the bribe amount. The hundred currency notes of Rs.500/- each, total Rs.50,000/-, were recovered from the drawer of the office table of the accused-appellant and the numbers of the notes would match the number of notes written down in the pre-trap proceedings.

37. In view thereof, this Court does not find any credence in the submission of the learned counsel for the accused-appellant that recovery was not made from the accused-appellant. Once the accused-appellant accepted the bribe amount and he kept it in the drawer of the office table, which was of the accused-appellant, the recovery from the drawer of the office table of the accused-appellant, is recovery from the accused-appellant himself.

38. Considering the evidence on record, I am of the view that the prosecution was able to prove the demand and acceptance of the bribe amount of Rs.50,000/- from the complainant, P.W.-2 by the accused-appellant, which was recovered from the drawer of the office table of the accused-appellant.

39. It is well settled law that to record the conviction under Sections 7 and 13 of the P.C. Act, the demand and acceptance of illegal gratification by the accused public servant should be proved by cogent and credible evidence. It is also settled law that mere possession and recovery of money without proof of demand by the accused does not constitute an offence under Sections 7 and 13(2) read with 13(1)(d) of the PC Act, 1988 (P. Satyanarayana Murthy Vs District Inspector of Police, State of Andhra Pradesh and another, (2015) 10 SCC 152).

40. Term "demand" does not find place under P.C. Act, 1988, but it has virtually been inserted in the statute by interpretative process. Section 20 of the P.C. Act derives certain statutory presumption of guilt. Section 7 of the P.C. Act has to be read in conjunction with Section 20 P.C. Act, which reads as under:-

"20. Presumption where public servant accepts gratification other than legal remuneration.--

(1) Where, in any trial of an offence punishable under section 7 or section 11 or clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 13 it is proved that an accused person has accepted or obtained or has agreed to accept or attempted to obtain for himself, or for any other person, any gratification (other than legal remuneration) or any valuable thing from any person, it shall be presumed, unless the contrary is proved, that he accepted or obtained or agreed to accept or attempted to obtain that gratification or that valuable thing, as the case may be, as a motive or reward such as is mentioned in section 7 or, as the case may be, without consideration or for a consideration which he knows to be inadequate.

(2) Where in any trial of an offence punishable under section 12 or under clause (b) of section 14, it is proved that any gratification (other than legal remuneration) or any valuable thing has been given or offered to be given or attempted to be given by an accused person, it shall be presumed, unless the contrary is proved, that he gave or offered to give or attempted to give that gratification or that valuable thing, as the case may be, as a motive or reward such as is mentioned in section 7, or as the case may be, without consideration or for a consideration which he knows to be inadequate.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-sections (1) and (2), the court may decline to draw the presumption referred to in either of the said sub-sections, if the gratification or thing aforesaid is, in its opinion, so trivial that no interference of corruption may fairly be drawn."

41. Plain reading with the words of Section 20 of the P.C. Act, would mean that if it can be proved that a public servant has received gratification, Section 20 of the P.C. Act brings in statutory presumption that he has received the same with an illegal motive as laid down in Section 7 of the Act. This shifts the burden of proof to the accused, who is required to prove that what has been received, is a valuable consideration and not an illegal gratification.

42. Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court in a recent judgment in the case of Neeraj Dutta vs State, (2022) SCC OnLine SC 1724, has held that to constitute an offence under Sections 7 and 13(2)/13(1)(d) (i) and (ii) of the P.C. Act, 1988, if a bribe giver makes an offer to pay without there being any prior demand of the same by a public servant and public servant accepts and receives the bribe, it would be a case of acceptance under Section 7 of the P.C. Act, 1988. If a public servant himself makes a demand and demand is accepted by bribe giver and bribe is paid by the bribe giver, it is a case of obtainment under Section 13(1)(d)(i) and 13(1)(d)(ii) of the P.C. Act.

43. It has been held that if the foundational facts are proved, presumption of receipt of obtainment of illegal gratification would be made. If such a presumption of fact would be raised, it is subject to rebuttal by the accused as the presumption under Section 20 of the PC. Act is not an inviolable presumption. However, if the presumption is not rebutted, the offence gets proved as provided under Section 20 of the P.C. Act.

44. In paragraphs 4 and 5 of the aforesaid judgment, ingredients to constitute an offence under Sections 7 and 13(1)(d) of the P.C. Act, 1988 have been mentioned. Paragraphs 4 and 5 of the aforesaid judgment, which are relevant, wound extracted hereunder:-

"4. The following are the ingredients of Section 7 of the Act:

i) the accused must be a public servant or expecting to be a public servant;

ii) he should accept or obtain or agrees to accept or attempts to obtain from any person;

iii) for himself or for any other person;

iv) any gratification other than legal remuneration;

v) as a motive or reward for doing or forbearing to do any official act or to show any favour or disfavour.

5. Section 13(1)(d) of the Act has the following ingredients which have to be proved before bringing home the guilt of a public servant, namely, -

(i) the accused must be a public servant;

(ii) by corrupt or illegal means, obtains for himself or for any other person any valuable thing or pecuniary advantage; or by abusing his position as public servant, obtains for himself or for any other person any valuable thing or pecuniary advantage; or while holding office as public servant, obtains for any person any valuable thing or pecuniary advantage without any public interest.

(iii) to make out an offence under Section 13(1)(d), there is no requirement that the valuable thing or pecuniary advantage should have been received as a motive or reward.

(iv) an agreement to accept or an attempt to obtain does not fall within Section 13(1)(d).

(vi) mere acceptance of any valuable thing or pecuniary advantage is not an offence under this provision.

(vii) therefore, to make out an offence under this provision, there has to be actual obtainment.

(viii) since the legislature has used two different expressions namely "obtains" or "accepts", the difference between these two must be noted."

45. In paragraph 74 of the aforesaid judgment, the law for establishing guilt of the accused/public servant under Sections 7 and 13(1)(d) has been summarized, which would read as under:-

"74. What emerges from the aforesaid discussion is summarised as under:

(a) Proof of demand and acceptance of illegal gratification by a public servant as a fact in issue by the prosecution is a sine qua non in order to establish the guilt of the accused public servant under Sections 7 and 13(1)(d)(i) and(ii) of the Act.

(b) In order to bring home the guilt of the accused, the prosecution has to first prove the demand of illegal gratification and the subsequent acceptance as a matter of fact. This fact in issue can be proved either by direct evidence which can be in the nature of oral evidence or documentary evidence.

(c) Further, the fact in issue, namely, the proof of demand and acceptance of illegal gratification can also be proved by circumstantial evidence in the absence of direct oral and documentary evidence.

(d) In order to prove the fact in issue, namely, the demand and acceptance of illegal gratification by the public servant, the following aspects have to be borne in mind:

(i) if there is an offer to pay by the bribe giver without there being any demand from the public servant and the latter simply accepts the offer and receives the illegal gratification, it is a case of acceptance as per Section 7 of the Act. In such a case, there need not be a prior demand by the public servant.

(ii) On the other hand, if the public servant makes a demand and the bribe giver accepts the demand and tenders the demanded gratification which in turn is received by the public servant, it is a case of obtainment. In the case of obtainment, the prior demand for illegal gratification emanates from the public servant. This is an offence under Section 13(1)(d)(i) and (ii) of the Act.

(iii) In both cases of (i) and (ii) above, the offer by the bribe giver and the demand by the public servant respectively have to be proved by the prosecution as a fact in issue. In other words, mere acceptance or receipt of an illegal gratification without anything more would not make it an offence under Section 7 or Section 13(1)(d), (i) and (ii) respectively of the Act. Therefore, under Section 7 of the Act, in order to bring home the offence, there must be an offer which emanates from the bribe giver which is accepted by the public servant which would make it an offence. Similarly, a prior demand by the public servant when accepted by the bribe giver and inturn there is a payment made which is received by the public servant, would be an offence of obtainment under Section 13(1)(d) and (i) and (ii) of the Act.

(e) The presumption of fact with regard to the demand and acceptance or obtainment of an illegal gratification may be made by a court of law by way of an inference only when the foundational facts have been proved by relevant oral and documentary evidence and not in the absence thereof. On the basis of the material on record, the Court has the discretion to raise a presumption of fact while considering whether the fact of demand has been proved by the prosecution or not. Of course, a presumption of fact is subject to rebuttal by the accused and in the absence of rebuttal presumption stands.

(f) In the event the complainant turns "hostile', or has died or is unavailable to let in his evidence during trial, demand of illegal gratification can be proved by letting in the evidence of any other witness who can again let in evidence, either orally or by documentary evidence or the prosecution can prove the case by circumstantial evidence. The trial does not abate nor does it result in an order of acquittal of the accused public servant.

(g) In so far as Section 7 of the Act is concerned, on the proof of the facts in issue, Section 20 mandates the court to raise a presumption that the illegal gratification was for the purpose of a motive or reward as mentioned in the said Section. The said presumption has to be raised by the court as a legal presumption or a presumption in law. Of course, the said presumption is also subject to rebuttal. Section 20 does not apply to Section 13(1)(d)(i) and (ii) of the Act.

(h) We clarify that the presumption in law under Section 20 of the Act is distinct from presumption of fact referred to above in point (e) as the former is a mandatory presumption while the latter is discretionary in nature."

46. The Supreme Court has answered the reference that if in absence of evidence of the complainant (direct/primary/oral/documentary evidence), it would be permissible to draw an inferential deduction of culpability/guilt of a public servant under Sections 7, 13(2)/13(1)(d) of the P.C. Act based on other evidence adduced by the prosecution.

47. Considering the evidence on the anvil of the law propounded by the Supreme Court in the case of Neeraj Dutta (supra), I am of the view that the prosecution has been able to prove the case of demand and acceptance of the bribe by the accused-appellant from the complainant and, the learned trial court has rightly convicted and sentenced the accused-appellants for the aforesaid offences.

48. In view thereof, I find no substance in this appeal, which is hereby dismissed. The accused-appellant is on bail. His bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged. He shall be taken into custody forthwith to serve out the sentence as awarded by the learned trial court. The trial court record be returned back forthwith.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 17.03.2023

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE DR. KAUSHAL JAYENDRA THAKER, J.
THE HON'BLE ARUN KUMAR SINGH DESHWAL, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 5517 of 2015

Dharmendra Kumar ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Ramesh Kumar Pandey, Sri Ashish Kumar Singh

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

A. Criminal Law – Indian Penal Code,1860 - Section 302 – sentenced to life imprisonment- allegation- son of accused appellant came to her house to call the deceased- accused appelant was seen taking out the body of the deceased from his house- several injuries inflicted by knife- presumption of Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872- appellant under duty to explain about death of deceased- dead body recovered from his house- presumption rightly invoked. (Paragraph 12)

HELD: Therefore, applying the presumption of Section 106 of The Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Evidence Act'), it is a duty of the appellant to explain about the death of deceased Awadhesh as the dead body of the deceased was recovered from the house of the appellant. It also appears from the record that though initially appellant confessed under Section 161 Cr.P.C. that he had killed deceased Awadhesh in a fit of moment when he saw him in a compromising position with his daughter Sapna. Sessions Judge also convicted the appellant on the ground that body of the deceased Awadhesh was found from his house and it appears from circumstantial evidence as well as subsequent conduct of appellant that he killed Awadhesh by causing him knife injury when he had seen him in a compromising position with his daughter at his house. Even the appellant did not give sufficient explanation in his St.ment recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. for finding the dead body of deceased Awadhesh from his house. Therefore, presumption under Section 106 Indian Evidence Act, 1872 was rightly invoked by the Sessions Judge against the appellant. (Para 12)

B. Exception 1 of Section 300 IPC- No direct evidence- Appellant killed the deceased Awadhesh in a fit of moment- saw him in compromising situation with his daughter- impugned trial court judgement modified- conviction under Section 304 IPC- sentence modified to 10 years imprisonment- Appeal partly allowed. (Paragraphs 14, 15, 16 and 17)

HELD: In view of the above fact and circumstances, we are of the opinion that firstly, there is no direct evidence that the appellant has caused the death of deceased Awadhesh but from the circumstantial evidence as well as presumption under Section 106 of the Evidence Act, he was held guilty for causing death of Awadhesh. Secondly, this fact is also not in dispute that death of the deceased caused by the appellant was not premeditated but because of the fact he lost self-control by grave and sudden provocation because he has seen deceased Awadhesh in a compromising position with his daughter Sapna and in such circumstances, this fact cannot be disputed that a father after seeing his daughter in a compromising position with a person will definitely loose self-control and if he caused death in that spur of moment, then same will fall under culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Even, the Apex Court in the case of St. of U.P. Vs Lakhmi in Criminal Appeal no.234 of 1993 decided on 12.02.1998 reported in AIR 1998 SC 1007 and in case of Hansa Singh Vs St. of Punjab in Criminal Appeal No.248 of 1973 decided on 20.08.1976 reported in AIR 1977 SC 1801 observed that in such situation, cases will fall under Section-304 IPC and not under Section 302 IPC. Thereafter, after considering the evidence on record as well as the contention of learned counsel for the appellant and learned AGA, it is clearly established that the present case falls under Section 304 IPC and not under Section 302 IPC, in view of the Exception 1 of Section 300 IPC. Therefore, appellant deserves to be convicted under Section 304 IPC. (Para 16)

Appeal partly allowed. (E-14)

4. Hansa Singh Vs St. of Pun.AIR 1977 SC 1801

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh Deshwal, J.)

1. By way of present criminal appeal, the appellant has challenged the judgement and order dated 30.10.2015 passed by the Special Judge (Essential Commodity Act)/Additional Sessions Judge, Ghaziabad in Sessions Trial No.483 of 2012 (State Vs. Dharmendra Kumar) arising out of Case Crime No.1591 of 2011, under Section-302 IPC, Police Station-Indrapuram, District-Ghaziabad. By the impugned judgement, the Sessions Judge convicted the appellant under Section-302 IPC and imposed punishment of life imprisonment along with fine of Rs.40,000/- on the appellant and in case of non-payment of penalty, it was directed that he would be further liable to undergo one year imprisonment.

Prosecution Case

2. First informant Phoola Devi (PW-1) submitted a tehrir dated 13.09.2011 in Police Station-Indrapuram. In that tehrir, it was mentioned that first informant Phoola Devi had been residing along with her family at RC/51 N Hayatnagar Khoda. Accused Dharmendra came to her house to call her son Awadhesh Chandra Yadav. Thereafter, between 3 to 4 brother of Dharmendra, Harendra Kumar came to her house and told her to take his son as he has suffered several knife injuries. Thereafter, she along with her younger son Mahesh went to the house of appellant, then he saw that accused persons were taking out her son from house and told her loudly to take the dead body of her son. Thereafter, she and her son brought Awadhesh along with police at metro hospital where the doctors declared him dead.

3. On the basis of above tehrir dated 13.09.2011, a case in case crime no.1591 of 2011, under Section-302 IPC was registered against the accused Dharmendra and Harendra at 18:15 hours. S.I. Munshi Lal was handed over the investigation of the aforesaid case who after recording the statement of first informant went on the spot and prepared site plan at the place of incident and after recording the statement of witnesses, collected blood-stained floor and normal soil along with pillow and blood-stained bed sheet as well as blood stained knife. Panchayatnama of the body of Awadhesh aged about 21 years was also prepared on 13.09.2011 at 16:30 at Metro Hospital, Noida in presence of witnesses. Thereafter, postmortem of the body of Awadhesh was also conducted at District Hospital by Dr. K.N. Tiwari on 14.09.2011 at 2:15 pm. As per the postmortem report, following antemortem injuries were found on the person of deceased Awadhesh Chandra Yadav :

(i) 11 incised (punctured) wound in the abdomen over the area of 20 x 20 cm of size 4 x 2 cm to 1.50 x 1 cm;

(ii) three wounds were found at the left side and;

(iii) 8 wound were found at the right side.

All wound were deep in abdomen.

In internal examination of dead body, blood was also found in the abdomen. Small intestine, liver were having cut, 100 ml semi digested food was also found large intestine.

4. As per the opinion of the doctor, cause of death is hemorrhage and shock due to above injuries. Panchayatnama of dead body of Sapna Kumari aged about 17 years was also conducted on 13.09.2011 at Metro Hospital, Gautam Buddh Nagar at 16:30 in presence of witnesses. Thereafter, her body was also sent for postmortem which was conducted by Dr. K.N. Tiwari on 14.09.2011 at 2:45 pm. As per the postmortem report, several incised wound were also found on different parts of her body including abdomen. In internal examination, blood was also found in her abdomen and chest. As per the opinion of the doctor, Kumari Sapna also died due to haemorrhage, shock, due to ante-mortem injuries. But as a trial is with regard to Awadhesh Kumar, therefore, detailed discussion of the injury of Kumari Sapna is not relevant, at present, as no case was registered for her death.

5. After preparation of panchayatnama and postmortem, investigation was handed over to new Investigating Officer, Ram Pawan Singh on 27.11.2011 and on receiving the investigation, he recorded the statement of several witnesses and found that the co-accused Harendra was not involved in the aforesaid incident as he was not present at the place of incident, therefore, his name was removed during investigation and present appellant, Dharmendra was arrested by police on 18.03.2012 and thereafter, on the basis of available evidence, charge-sheet dated 21.03.2012 was submitted against the appellant under Section 302 IPC. Additional Sessions Judge framed charges against appellant on 08.06.2012 under Section-302 IPC and appellant denied the charges and requested for trial.

Prosecution Evidence

6. In support of prosecution, 12 witnesses were examined in which Phoola Devi as PW-1, Ramu Singh as PW-2, Mahendra Singh as PW-3, Awadhesh Bhagat as PW-4, Harendra Kumar as PW-5, Sub-Inspector Chaman Prakash Sharma as PW-6, Dr. K.M. Tiwari as PW-7, Constable Mool Chandra Sharma as PW-8, Usha wife of Prabhu Dayal as PW-9, also, Ram Sen Singh as PW-9, Manju as PW-10, Inspector Munshi Lal as PW-11.

7. After conclusion of prosecution witnesses, appellant was examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. In his examination, appellant clearly denied his involvement in the murder of Awadhesh and pleaded his false implication by the first informant. In additional examination under Section 313 Cr.P.C., the appellant refused to give any evidence and pleaded that he has been falsely implicated merely because the alleged incident occurred in his house.

Contention of Appellant

8. The sole contention of the appellant is that present case does not fall under Section 302 IPC but falls under Section 304 IPC, in view of Exception 1 of Section 300

IPC because death of Awadhesh if caused by the appellant is due to losing his self control after seeing the deceased Awadhesh in a compromising position with his daughter, Sapna.

Contention of Prosecution

9. Learned AGA contended that from the evidence it is clear that the appellant has killed his daughter Sapna and son of first informant namely Sheru alias Awadhesh with knife and the appellant has also confessed his involvement in the aforesaid crime before the Investigating Officer and police has recovered a blood-stained knife from the place of incident. Forensic Science Laboratory report also established this fact and further contended that from the facts and circumstances, allegations against the appellant under Section 302 IPC is clearly established, therefore, judgement and order of Sessions Judge is absolutely correct.

Discussion on Prosecution Evidence

10. In the statement, first informant PW-1 had stated that she is last seen witness of deceased Awadhesh going to the house of Dharmendra and she stated in her statement that on the date of incident i.e. 13.9.2011, she was suffering from fever and her son Awadhesh was also lying with her and then son of appellant, Dharmendra, Roshan came to her house to call deceased Awadhesh. When she asked Awadhesh where he is going to, then Awadhesh told her that Roshan son of Dharmendra had come to call him. Thereafter, he left the house and she further stated in the statement that Harendra had come to her house between 3 to 4 and told her that her son has received knife injuries. When she went at the place of incident, then she found one policeman and one boy bringing out his son from the house of appellant. At the place of incident, she had seen that there were several injuries on the back of her son, Awadhesh and blood was oozing out but because of crowd, she could not see other injuries. Her son, Awadhesh died on the way when he was taken to hospital. Thereafter, she reached police station at 6:00 pm. She also proved tehrir before the court which was marked as Ext No.Ka-1. PW-2 Ramu Singh did not support the prosecution story, therefore, he was declared hostile. Similarly, PW-3 Mahendra Singh also did not support the prosecution story and he was also declared hostile. Prosecution witness Awadhesh Bhagat, PW-4 was a witness of panchayatnama and he admitted in his statement that he had signed the panchayatnama and proved the same as Ext Ka-2. PW-4 also proved memo of recovery regarding collected blood-stained soil and normal soil with cement floor and also proved blood-stained pillow, bed sheet and knife recovered from the place of incident. PW-5 Harendra Kumar did not support the prosecution story and was declared hostile. PW-6 Sub-Inspector Chaman Prakash Sharma was the formal witness regarding preparation of panchayatnama as well as preparation of memo regarding collection of blood-stained soil and simple soil, blood-stained bed sheet, pillow, blood-stained knife recovered from the place of incident near the dead body. PW-7 Dr. K.N. Tiwari, who conducted the postmortem of dead body of the deceased Awadhesh Chandra as well as Kumari Sapna and he proved postmortem report and stated that death of Awadhesh and Kumari Sapna was caused due to antemortem injuries. Another, formal witness PW-8 Mool Chandra Sharma proved chik and GD carbon copy. PW-9 Usha, wife of Prabhu Dayal was the tenant of appellant-Dharmendra Kumar and she stated that the deceased used to come to the house of appellant for the last one year and she had seen the deceased with Kumari Sapna at 2:30 pm and she also proved recovery of dead body of Kumari Sapna and deceased Awadhesh from the house of Dharmendra.

11. Ram Sen Singh, who received investigation on 20.12.2011 was also examined as PW-9, and submitted that after recording statement of remaining witnesses and on completing his investigation, he found sufficient evidence against the appellant, therefore, he submitted charge-sheet against him and proved the same before the Court. Prosecution witness PW-10 Manju Rani was also the tenant of appellant-Dharmendra and she also stated that deceased Awadhesh was having friendship with the son of appellant and he used to come to the house of appellant and on the date of incident at about 2 to 2 during day time, deceased Awadhesh came to the house of appellant and at that time Sapna was alone in her house. When she came out of her room then she had seen that both Awadhesh and Sapna were lying injured at the gate and she also proves that one knife was also found near the body of Sapna and body of deceased Awadhesh was lying upon the body of Sapna. Earlier, Investigating Officer Munshi Lal, was also examined as PW-11, who proved the fact that he initiated investigation of this case and also prepared site plan at the place of incident and also recorded statement of witnesses. He also proved the challan of dead body of deceased Awadhesh as well as challan of dead body of Sapna, prepared in the writing of Sub-Inspector Chaman Prakash Sharma. The Forensic Science Laboratory report dated 19.09.2013 which is also on record as Paper No.26Ka/2 shows that recovered knife, pillow, bed sheet and plaster were blood-stained.

Analysis of Evidence

12. From the perusal of record, it is clear that deceased Awadhesh came to the house of appellant where he was seriously injured because of knife injuries along with the daughter of the appellant Sapna. Though, PW-2 and PW-3, PW-5 did not support the prosecution story and were declared hostile but from the evidence of PW-9 Smt. Usha as well as PW-10 Smt. Manju, who were the tenants in the house of appellant, it is clearly established that the dead body of deceased Awadhesh was found at the house of appellant. Similarly, from the statement of PW-1, it is also established that she had lastly seen the deceased Awadhesh while he left for the house of appellant on the fateful day. Therefore, applying the presumption of Section 106 of The Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Evidence Act'), it is a duty of the appellant to explain about the death of deceased Awadhesh as the dead body of the deceased was recovered from the house of the appellant. It also appears from the record that though initially appellant confessed under Section 161 Cr.P.C. that he had killed deceased Awadhesh in a fit of moment when he saw him in a compromising position with his daughter Sapna. Sessions Judge also convicted the appellant on the ground that body of the deceased Awadhesh was found from his house and it appears from circumstantial evidence as well as subsequent conduct of appellant that he killed Awadhesh by causing him knife injury when he had seen him in a compromising position with his daughter at his house. Even the appellant did not give sufficient explanation in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. for finding the dead body of deceased Awadhesh from his house. Therefore, presumption under Section 106 Cr.P.C. was rightly invoked by the Sessions Judge against the appellant.

13. Learned counsel for the appellant also contended that the appellant has committed the murder of Awadhesh in a fit of moment due to sudden provocation when he had seen the deceased Awadhesh with his daughter Sapna in a compromising position, therefore, the present case falls under Section 304 IPC instead of Section 302 IPC. After considering the evidence as well as the contention of appellant, sole issue for consideration here is whether the death of Awadhesh is culpable homicide not amounting to murder or culpable homicide amounting to murder.

14. From perusal of evidence, it is clearly established that appellant has caused death of Awadhesh by causing him knife injury when he had seen him in a compromising position with his daughter. On perusal of Exception 1 of Section 300 IPC, it is clear that culpable homicide is not murder if the offender is deprived of the power of self control by grave and sudden provocation which causes the death of person who gave the provocation. Exception 1 of Section 300 IPC is being quoted as below:

"300. Murder.?Except in the cases hereinafter excepted, culpable homicide is murder, if the act by which the death is caused is done with the intention of causing death, or?

Secondly.?If it is done with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused, or?

Thirdly.?If it is done with the intention of causing bodily injury to any person and the bodily injury intended to be inflicted is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, or?

Fourthly.?If the person committing the act knows that it is so imminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause death, or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and commits such act without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as aforesaid.

Exception 1.?When culpable homicide is not murder.?Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, whilst deprived of the power of self-control by grave and sudden provocation, causes the death of the person who gave the provocation or causes the death of any other person by mistake or accident.

The above exception is subject to the following provisos:?

First.?That the provocation is not sought or voluntarily provoked by the offender as an excuse for killing or doing harm to any person.

Secondly.?That the provocation is not given by anything done in obedience to the law, or by a public servant in the lawful exercise of the powers of such public servant.

Thirdly.?That the provocation is not given by anything done in the lawful exercise of the right of private defence.

Explanation.?Whether the provocation was grave and sudden enough to prevent the offence from amounting to murder is a question of fact."

15. Therefore, contention of learned counsel for the appellant that the present case does not fall under Section 302 IPC but falls under Section 304 IPC because this case is covered under Exception 1 of Section 300 IPC appears to be correct because on seeing Awadhesh in a compromising position with his daughter appellant lost his self control by grave and sudden provocation by this incident in which the deceased Awadhesh was found in a compromising position with the daughter of appellant. In support of his case, learned counsel for the appellant has also relied upon judgements of Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No.734 of 2014 decided on 03.04.2014 in the case of Saroj @ Suraj Panchal and Anr. Vs. State of West Bengal as well as judgement of Andhra Pradesh High Court in Criminal Appeal No.219 of 2013 decided on 21.05.2020 in the case of Thiruchanur Amaranath Vs State of A.P. rep. by Public Prosecutor Hyderabad. In the above cases, the Hon'ble Court observed that death caused due to sudden provocation does not fall for the punishment under Section 302 IPC but falls under Section-304 IPC as the same is not culpable homicide amounting to murder.

16. In view of the above fact and circumstances, we are of the opinion that firstly, there is no direct evidence that the appellant has caused the death of deceased Awadhesh but from the circumstantial evidence as well as presumption under Section 106 of the Evidence Act, he was held guilty for causing death of Awadhesh. Secondly, this fact is also not in dispute that death of the deceased caused by the appellant was not premeditated but because of the fact he lost self control by grave and sudden provocation because he has seen deceased Awadhesh in a compromising position with his daughter Sapna and in such circumstances, this fact cannot be disputed that a father after seeing his daughter in a compromising position with a person will definitely loose self control and if he caused death in that spur of moment, then same will fall under culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Even, the Apex Court in the case of State of U.P. Vs Lakhmi in Criminal Appeal no.234 of 1993 decided on 12.02.1998 reported in AIR 1998 SC 1007 and in case of Hansa Singh Vs. State of Punjab in Criminal Appeal No.248 of 1973 decided on 20.08.1976 reported in AIR 1977 SC 1801 observed that in such situation, cases will fall under Section-304 IPC and not under Section 302 IPC. Thereafter, after considering the evidence on record as well as the contention of learned counsel for the appellant and learned AGA, it is clearly established that the present case falls under Section 304 IPC and not under Section 302 IPC, in view of the Exception 1 of Section 300 IPC. Therefore, appellant deserves to be convicted under Section 304 IPC.

17. Therefore, present appeal is partly allowed and impugned judgement of Session is modified to the extent of substituting the punishment of appellant under Section 302 IPC with the punishment under Section 304 IPC with the imprisonment of ten years along with fine of Rs.40,000/-. In case of non-payment of fine, the appellant will further undergo one year imprisonment. Period spent by the appellant in jail during pendency of trial as well as pendency of present appeal will be adjusted in imprisonment imposed by this order and if appellant has already completed ten years in jail, then he should immediately be released on depositing the fine, if he is not wanted in any other case.

Civil Law –Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order XXVI Rule 9 - Application for issuance of commission- suit of cancellation of sale deed and permanent injunction dismissed by trial court- order under challenge- purpose of issuance of commission- ascertain alleged possession of the plaintiff- Plaintiff liable to succeed on his own footing- Order XXVI Rule 9 not applicable for purpose of collection of evidence for plaintiff- order of trial court upheld- Petition dismissed.

HELD: A perusal of the aforesaid provision makes it evident that commission to make local investigations can be permitted by the court where it deems local investigation to be requisite or proper for the purpose of elucidating any matter in dispute or ascertaining market value of any property, or amount of any mesne profit or damages or annual net profits. The purpose of issuance of commission as such is evident from the conditions indicated thereunder itself which is only for the purposes of elucidating primarily any matter in dispute. The provisions of Order XXVI Rule 9 of the Code do not make it applicable for the purposes of collection of evidence on behalf of the plaintiff.

Upon applicability of aforesaid judgments in the present facts and circumstances of the case, it is evident that application for issuance of commission to conduct an investigation and examination regarding possession of parties to a dispute would not be maintainable in terms of Order XXVI Rule 9 of the Code as observed herein above particularly when there is no explanation furnished by the plaintiff that he could not have access to any documents required for proving his possession over suit property. Even otherwise, it is impossible for a commission to decide possession of a particular party to dispute over the suit property only on the basis of a cursory examination

It has already been observed herein above that applications under Order XXVI Rule 9 cannot be allowed merely for purposes of facilitating the case of one or the other party and it is not the business of the courts to discharge burden of evidence of either party

Petition dismissed. (E-14)

2. Radhey Shyam & anr. Vs A.D.J. 2011 (2) CRC 469

3. New Meena Sahkari Awas Samiti Ltd. through its President Vs A.D.J., Lucknow passed in Misc. Single No. 2267 of 2012

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Mathur, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for petitioner and learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party No.2.

2. Petition under Article 227 of Constitution of India has been filed assailing order dated 10th January, 2018 passed by trial court rejecting petitioner's application for issue of commission under Order 26 Rule 9 of the Code of Civil Procedure as well as order dated 31st January, 2020 passed by revisional court dismissing the revision.

3. The limited question of law requiring adjudication in the present petition is whether the court below was justified in rejecting the application filed by petitioner-plaintiff for issuance of commission in a suit for cancellation of sale deed and permanent injunction.

4. Learned counsel for petitioner submits that the aforesaid suit had been filed for cancellation of sale deed and permanent injunction with regard to immovable property in which both the plaintiff as well as defendant claimed possession over property in dispute. Under an apprehension that status quo would be changed by the defendants, the petitioner-plaintiff was constrained to file application for issuance of commission under Order 26 Rule 9 read with Section 151 CPC on 2nd August, 2016. The same was rejected by means of detailed order dated 25th September, 2017, which became final since no revision there against was effected. It is submitted that subsequently in view of a fresh apprehension on the part of plaintiff a subsequent application under Order 26 Rule 9 read with Section 151C.P.C. was filed on 14th November, 2017 which has been rejected by means of impugned orders.

5. Learned counsel for petitioner submits that the courts below have erred in rejecting the application for issuance of commission in view of the fact that the suit was not only for cancellation of sale deed but for permanent injunction as well and therefore it was incumbent upon the court concerned to have indicated the status of parties as on the date on which the application was being made so as to prevent any future change at the spot. It is submitted that the trial court as well as revisional court have misdirected themselves in rejecting the application primarily on the ground that earlier as well application for issuance of commission at the behest of plaintiff had been rejected on 25th September, 2017. It is thus submitted that the impugned order dated 10th January, 2018 is ineffective and non speaking order. Learned counsel has placed reliance on the judgment rendered by co-ordinate Bench of this court in the case of New Meena Sahkari Awas Samiti Limited through its president versus Additional District Judge, Lucknow passed in Misc. Single No. 2267 of 2012 to buttress his submissions to the effect that the court can not prevent a party from adducing best evidence, if such evidence can be gathered with the help of commission.

6. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party No.2 has refuted submissions advanced by learned counsel for petitioner with submission that orders impugned are in consonance with settled law and do not warrant any inference particularly in view of the fact that the suit was primarily for cancellation of sale deed in which there is no occasion for determination of actual spot condition by issuance of commission. It is submitted that there is no error in the order dated 10th January, 2018 which has been rejected primarily on account of the fact that second application for issuance of commission under Order 26 Rule 9 C.P.C. has been filed although the first one had already been rejected on 25th September, 2017, which became final since the same was not contested. Learned counsel has in turn placed reliance on a judgment rendered by another coordinate bench of this Court in the case of Radhey Ahyam and another versus Additional District Judge and others reported in 2011 (2) CRC 469 to buttress his submission that purpose of appointing commission is not to fill a lacuna in pleadings or to find out some evidence in favour of one or the other party.

7. Considering submissions advanced by learned counsel for parties and perusal of material on record, it transpires that suit had been filed for cancellation of sale deed and for permanent injunction. During course of suit proceedings, an application under Order 26 Rule 9 read with Section 151 CPC had been filed for issuance of commission which was rejected by means of order dated 25th September, 2017 primarily on the ground that question regarding possession of parties over the property in dispute can not be ascertained by issuance of commission. It was further held that issuance of commission can not be a substitute for adducing evidence. It is noticeable that the aforesaid order dated 25th September, 2017 attained finality and no revision there against was filed by the petitioner-plaintiff but subsequently another application for issuance of commission under Order 26 Rule 9 read with Section 151 CPC dated 14th November 2017 was again filed by the plaintiff. It is relevant to indicate that in both the applications the applicant is Smt. Sarla who has been brought on record as a substitute party in place of original plaintiff Km. Chandana Mukherji, who passed away during pendency of suit proceedings.

8. A reading of both applications brings to the fore the fact that essential pleadings for issuance of commission in both the application remain the same which pertained to apprehension on behalf of plaintiff that actual ground situation may be changed by the defendant in case forcible possession of the same is taken from the plaintiff. The second application has been rejected by means of impugned order dated 10th January, 2018 primarily on the ground that earlier as well application at the behest of plaintiff has been rejected by the court by detailed order dated 25th September, 2017 on the same pleading raised by plaintiff and therefore there was no merit found in the second application for issuance of commission. The revisional court has also taken essentially the same grounds for rejecting revision preferred by plaintiff.

9. From a perusal of record, it transpires that the purpose of issuance of commission at the behest of plaintiff in both applications was to ascertain alleged possession of plaintiff over the property in dispute.

10. For proper appreciation of the present dispute, it would be necessary to advert to the provisions of Order XXVI Rule 9 of the Code pertaining to issuance of commission which is in the following terms:-

" Commission to make local investigations.- In any suit in which the Court deems a local investigation to be requisite or proper for the purpose of elucidating any matter in dispute, or of ascertaining the market-value of any property, or the amount of any mesne profits or damages or annual net profits, the Court may issue a commission to such person as it thinks fit directing him to make such investigation and to report thereon to the Court:

Provided that, where the State Government has made rules as to the persons to whom such commission shall be issued, the Court shall be bound by such rules."

11. A perusal of the aforesaid provision makes it evident that commission to make local investigations can be permitted by the court where it deems local investigation to be requisite or proper for the purpose of elucidating any matter in dispute or ascertaining market value of any property, or amount of any mesne profit or damages or annual net profits. The purpose of issuance of commission as such is evident from the conditions indicated thereunder itself which is only for the purposes of elucidating primarily any matter in dispute. The provisions of Order XXVI Rule 9 of the Code do not make it applicable for the purposes of collection of evidence on behalf of the plaintiff.

12. Hon'ble supreme Court in the case of *Remco Industrial Workers House Building Coop. Society v. Lakshmeesha M. and others reported in (2003)11 SCC 66*6; A.I.R. 2003 Supreme Court 3167 has already held that a plaintiff is liable to succeed on his own footing and not on the weakness of the defendant. As such the pleadings made in the plaint are required to be corroborated or substantiated by evidence which is also required to be placed on record by the plaintiff himself. The only exception in such a case could be where such evidence is beyond reach of the plaintiff or is in such a secured place that he would normally not have access thereto but for the issuance of commission for nature indicated in such a case, it would be necessary and incumbent upon the plaintiff to plead particularly as to why the plaintiff could not have access to such evidence which would therefore require issuance of commission for the purposes of collection of such evidence. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Padam Sen (supra) has clearly held that it is not the business of court to collect evidence for party or even to protect the rival party from evil consequences of making forged entry in the books of accounts. It was held that defendants request which amounted to courts collecting documentary evidence which the defendants considered to be in their favour at that point of time could not be permitted. Relevant paragraph 15 of the judgment are as follows:-

"15. It cannot, however, be lost sight of that the burden to prove title and claim for possession of specific land in Survey No. 132/2 was initially on the plaintiff. Defendant 1 in the written statement contested the claim of the plaintiff and claimed title in itself. The grant of occupancy rights in favour of tenant Muniyappa contained in the order dated 28-5-1965 (Ext. D-3) was produced in the trial court without objection from the plaintiff and allowed to be exhibited and marked as Ext. D-3. When such a document of grant of suit land to the extent of 1 acre 3 guntas in favour of Defendant 1 was before the trial court, it was necessary for it to consider its effect on the subsequent grant dated 9-12-1969 (Ext. P-1) in favour of the erstwhile inamdar. The legal position not in dispute is that if the suit land in Survey No. 132/2 -- area 1 acre 3 guntas had already been granted by the order dated 28-5-1965 (Ext. D-3) to the tenant Muniyappa, the same land could not have formed part of the grant to the extent of 1/7th share to the erstwhile inamdar in the order dated 9-12-1969 (Ext. P-1). A clear legal issue, based on an earlier grant dated 28-5-1965 (Ext. D-3) and the subsequent grant dated 9-12-1969 (Ext. P-1) with the identity of the land under the two grants did arise before the trial court as well as the appellate court.

The said issue has not been answered by any of the two courts below. The plaintiff has to succeed on the strength of its own case and not on the weakness of the case of the defendant. In opposing the prayer for remand, the learned counsel appearing for the plaintiff-respondent has placed strong reliance on the decision of the Privy Council in Kanda v. Waghu [AIR 1950 PC 68 : 77 IA 15] . The contention advanced is that since pleadings based on Ext. D-3 were not raised in the written statement of Defendant 1 and no issue on the basis of Ext. D-3 having been raised in the trial court, this Court should not remit the matter for retrial on the said issue."

13. The same analogy has also been drawn by co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Parvez Akhtar (supra) in the following manner:-

"11. In other words, the object of local investigation is not so much to collect evidence, which maybe taken in the court, but just to facilitate the appreciation of the evidence led or nature of the controversy between the parties or to facilitate appreciation of any point, which is left doubtful in the evidence of the parties before the court. The object of issuance of commission is that some assistance may be derived from those facts found actually after the investigation by the Commissioner on the spot, but that investigation must be in respect of the matter in dispute and not otherwise. The legislature required that the discretion of the court can be exercised following all conditions with a view to obtain certain facts investigated by the Commissioner which promises peculiar facts and which can be had from the spot inspection itself, but that must be directly in respect of any matter in dispute. This is with a view to enable the court to properly and correctly appreciate evidence on record. The report of the Commissioner clarifies and explains any point which might appear to be doubtful after the evidence has been led by the parties. The provision of Order XXVI Rule 9, presuppose evidence on the record and independent evidence, led by the parties, which requires elucidation."

14. Various high courts in the country have also elucidated the provisions of Order XXVI Rule 9 in the same manner as indicated in the judgments rendered by High Court of Himanchal Pradesh in the case of Naseeb Deen (Supra) and H.V. Nangendrappa (supra) by the High Court of Karnataka.

15. Upon applicability of aforesaid judgments in the present facts and circumstances of the case, it is evident that application for issuance of commission to conduct an investigation and examination regarding possession of parties to a dispute would not be maintainable in terms of Order XXVI Rule 9 of the Code as observed herein above particularly when there is no explanation furnished by the plaintiff that he could not have access to any documents required for proving his possession over suit property. Even otherwise, it is impossible for a commission to decide possession of a particular party to dispute over the suit property only on the basis of a cursory examination.

16. It has already been observed herein above that applications under Order XXVI Rule 9 can not be allowed merely for purposes of facilitating the case of one or the other party and it is not the business of the courts to discharge burden of evidence of either party.

17. So far as judgment cited by learned counsel for petitioner in the case of New Meena Sahkari Awas Samiti (supra) is concerned, the pronouncement of law in the said judgment is that court can not prevent a party from adducing best evidence if such evidence can be gathered with the help of commission. The judgment cited by learned counsel for petitioner is clearly correct in terms of provisions of Order 26 Rule 9 CPC and does not take a contrary view to the earlier judgment of this Court that possession of parties over property in dispute can not be determined by issuance of commission. As such the petitioner does not derive any benefit from the aforesaid judgment.

18. Considering the judgment on the point and law as discussed herein above, no exception can be taken to the impugned orders and as such the petition being devoid of merits is dismissed.

S.C.C. Revision Defective No. 234 of 2014

...Defendant- Petitioner
Versus
Raj Kumar Yadav ...Plaintiff- Respondent

Counsel for the Petitioner:

C.S.C., Sri Prakhar Tandon

A. Civil Law – Landlord-tenant dispute- Small Causes Suit for arrears of rent and ejectment- decreed against the tenant-respondent (petitioner herein)- Small Causes Revision against decree also dismissed- Order under challenge- Landlord respondent title- sale deed by erstwhile owners- Petitioner occupant as a tenant- recital to the said effect in sale deed- landlord issued notice to defendant petitioner- demanding rent and arrears- tenant failed to pay rent- hence, the suit.

B. Petitioner tenant claimed right by means of an unregistered agreement for sale- impact of an unregistered instrument- otherwise required to be registered- whether it could have been relied otherwise for collateral purposes in court of law proceedings- yes, but collateral purpose is to be seen in the nature of possession of plaintiff over the suit land- no title flows from an unregistered instrument, which in law requires to be registered- petitioner tenant not entitled to any benefit on the strength of agreement for sale.

HELD: Upon bare reading of the aforesaid paragraphs of the judgment, the conclusion drawn would be that an unregistered document can be looked into for collateral purposes but the collateral purpose is to be seen in the nature of possession of plaintiff over the suit land. Applying the above principles to the present case, petitioner's predecessor in interest was admittedly tenant of the tenanted premises in question and came to change the nature of possessory rights from the tenant to proposed vendee under an agreement of sale which was never registered.

The judgment cited clearly holds that no title flows from an unregistered instrument, which in law is required to be registered. If that be so then status which the predecessor in interest of the petitioner had enjoyed and from whom petitioner succeeded that possessory rights, at the most would be of a tenant and to retain possession it is necessary to make payment of rent otherwise a tenant in default of payment of rent would deserve ejectment under the law. The person under an unregistered agreement for sale cannot even maintain a suit for its performance so as to acquire any possessory rights in law. So the nature of possession would only stand always to be a tenant qua the premises.

C. Evidence- evidentiary value- for appreciation in a judicial proceeding- no document filed in original- trial court rightly did not consider the notarised photocopy of unregistered instrument.

HELD: In the present case only a notarized photo copy of alleged agreement was filed. The document led was not proved in the absence of original. It could not have been a case for raising any valid presumption in law either. A notarized photocopy was also not proved by getting public notary examined so as to claim that it was a photo copy of the original. In such view of the matter, therefore, neither benefit under Section 53-A of the Transfer of the Property Act, 1882 should have been given to the petitioner to protect possession in suit for recovery of arrears of rent and ejectment nor, the suit could be held to be not maintainable and required return of plaint under Section 23 of Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887.

One must remember that the evidence, which is required to be appreciated by a court of law in a judicial proceeding, must be having evidenciary value. The pleadings if raised are not supported by lawfully admissible evidence then any St.ment of fact in a pleading would stood unworthy of consideration unless admitted to the rival side. So the argument that the Court did not appreciate the document of agreement for sale filed, in my cconsidered view is totally misplaced as no such document was filed in original. The document being unregistered one was required to be filed in original and was to be proved in accordance with law as well

D. Tenant's defence stood struck off in the suit- finding not assailed in revision- tenant claimed possessory rights under an agreement for sale- courts below- held petitioner's status as tenant- respondent landlord entitled to recover rent-petitioner deserved ejectment- admittedly, petitioner did not pay rent- defence rightly struck off under Order XV Rule 5 of CPC.

HELD: So in my considered view, since admittedly petitioner has not paid rent even in compliance of second part of Order XV of Rule 5 of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, the defence has rightly been struck off. Having discussed the aforesaid fact and the law on the point, I find no error much less a substantial one in the findings either returned by the trial court or in revision and, therefore, I decline to interfere in the matter any exercise of my supervisory power under Article 227 of the Constitution.

E. Jurisdiction of Judge, Small Causes Court- hearing a summary suit questioning title of landlord- Small Causes Courts can incidentally go into the question of title in a suit between a landlord and a tenant- subject to decision of regular civil court in the civil suit, if filed.

HELD: On the point of jurisdiction of Judge, Small Causes to hear a summary suit where title of land lord has been questioned, this Court in the case of Suresh & anr. v. Ram Bharosey Lal Gupta & ors. 2014 0 Supreme (All) 1579 (2014 11 ADJ 327) considered the matter of return of plaint on the basis of unregistered instrument of sale of an immovable property. The Court examined first Section 54 of the Transfer of Property Act alongside Section 17 of the Indian Registration Act, 1968 vide paragraph 17 and then also examined Section 23 of the Provincial of Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 vide paragraph 18 and then referred to the judgment of Supreme Court in the case of Budhu Mal v Mahabir Prasad and Others, AIR 1988 SC 1772 vide paragraph 21 by reproducing the relevant paragraph of the Supreme Court's judgment. Learned Single Judge thereafter proceeded to refer the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Shamim Akhtar v. Iqbal Ahmed, AIR 2001 SC 1, wherein Supreme Court had held that Small Causes Court can incidently go into question of title in a suit between land lord and the tenant but of course, subject to the decision of a regular civil court in the civil suit, if filed. The Court also referred to the judgment in the case of Sheel Chand v. IInd A.D.J.,Jhansi, 2006 (1) ARC 359 and then finally held that question of rejection of plaint would arise when the court cannot decide the right of plaintiff and relief claimed by him for want of proof or disproof of title. In that case, land lord had set up a title on the basis of registered instrument whereas defendants were contesting the matter on the basis of unregistered instrument which the Court held to be ex facie illegal.

Petition dismissed. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri K.K.Arora, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Prakhar Tandon, learned counsel for the contesting respondents.

2. Both the matters arise out of same suit, therefore, are being heard and decided together by this common judgment.

3. The petitioner before this Court is tenant respondent in Small Causes Suit No. 193 of 2012, which came to be decreed dated 24.7.2019 for arrears of rent and ejectment.

4. The petitioner challenged the order of the Judge Small Causes before the Additional District Judge, Court No. 2 by instituting Small Causes Revision being No. 60 of 2019 which also came to be dismissed vide order dated 31st January, 2020 confirming the judgment of the Judge, Small Causes and hence this miscellaneous petition under Article 227 of the Constitution.

5. Present petitioner has also filed revision against the order passed by the Judge, Small Causes rejecting the application of the petitioner under Section 23 of Small Causes Courts Act, 1887.

6. The main arguments that were advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner can be summarized as under:

i. The petitioner having questioned the title of the land lord plaintiff qua property in question which is a residential house, the Judge Small Causes could not have decided the suit for arrears of rent and ejectment;

ii. While deciding point no. 1 the Judge, Small Causes, absolutely failed to take into account the pleadings raised in the written statement with regard to an agreement for sale between vendors of the plaintiff land-lord and the husband of the petitioner so as to appreciate her claim for acquiring possession by way of transfer and, therefore, her status as a tenant had changed entitling her to claim possessory rights in terms of Section 53-A of the Transfer of the Property Act, 1882; and

iii. The petitioner having already instituted a suit to declare the sale deed executed in favour of the land lord plaintiff dated 13.06.2011 to be null and void, the benefit under Section 23 of the Small Causes Act, should have been given to him and his application was wrongly rejected.

7. In support of his arguments, learned counsel for the petitioner relied upon the judgment of Bombay High Court in the case of Dharmaji @ Baban Bajirao Shinde v. Jagannath Shankar Jadhav, 1994 LawSuit (Bom) 3 and that of this Court in the case of A R C Overseas Private Limited v. Bougainvillea Multiplex and Entertainment Centre Pvt. Ltd. And Another, 2007 LawSuit (All) 1562.

8. Per contra, the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the respondent land lord are:

(i). Petitioner having not deposited rent even as per second part of Rule 5 (Allahabad Amendment) of Order XV of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (CPC) his defence was rightly struck off and this finding having not been assailed either in the Small Causes Revision or before this Court, the suit deserved to be decreed and revision petition was also rightly dismissed and so now these petitions also deserve to be dismissed; and

(ii) land lord had acquired valid title by virtue of sale deed dated 13.6.2011, executed by admitted owners, namely, Deepak Kumar, Gopal Das, through his power of attorney and Indra Kumar, successor in interest of Tikam Chand and the instrument of sale very much contained recitals to the effect that contesting petitioner was a tenant only and was in arrears of rent, therefore, vendee would be entitled to maintain a suit for ejectment by determining tenancy with issuance of notice under Section 106 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1888, for recovery of arrears of rent and ejectment;

(iii). Petitioner failed to lead any evidence by producing original agreement for sale which was claimed so as to set up any prima facie right to hold possession and photocopy of the agreement for sale being secondary evidence was not admissible in absence of any admission at the end of plaintiff in that regard;

(iv). Neither registered power of attorney dated 14.7.1998 was admitted to the land lord respondents nor, sale deed admittedly executed by two owners of the property and the power of attorney holder of third owner dated 13.6.2011 admitted tenant respondent to be owner, nor did it contain any recital in respect of any notarized agreement for sale executed on 14.7.1998.

(v). There was no reason to execute an unregistered agreement for sale and only notarized it whereas power of attorney executed in the same date dated 14.07.1998 was registered.

(vi). This Court in exercise of its supervisory jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution would not enter into findings of fact unless findings of fact are so perverse that if they are not arrested, it woud lead to miscarriage of justice .

9. Learned counsel for the respondent accordingly submitted that in the present case none of the findings could be held to be perverse nor, there was any such ground taken in this miscellaneous petition except the ground that the tenant petitioner having questioned the title, Court could not have tried the suit as Small Causes Suit treating the petitioner to be tenant and respondent as land lord.

10. Before coming to the legal arguments advanced before this Court, it is necessary to briefly state facts of the case so as to have better appreciation of the arguments advanced by learned counsel appearing for the respective parties.

11. The land lord respondent claimed to have acquired title of the premises in question which is a residential house, by registered sale deed executed in his favour on 13.06.2011 by Deepak Kumar, Indra Kumar, S/o Tikam Chand and Anup Mishra, the power of attorney holder of Gopal Das and the sale deed transferred the possession of entire premises in favour of Raj Kumar Yadav and carried recital very much to the effect that in the entire building, Smt. Malti Sharma was in occupation as a tenant with liability to pay rent @ Rs. 100/- per month to the vendors coupled with the house tax, water tax and sewer tax totalling to Rs. 944/- per month, however since 1995 despite demand she did not pay rent and so she ran into arrears of rent since 1st April, 1995 which she was liable to pay and, therefore, through the sale deed right to demand rent stood transferred to the vendee and also to get her evicted from the premises in the event rent was not paid, by bringing in a suit for recovery of arrears of rent and ejectment.

12. The land lord respondent did issue notice to the defendant petitioner demanding rent and arrears thereof and when the petitioner failed to pay rent in response to the notice, he instituted a suit for recovery of rent and ejectment .

13. It appears that while petitioner tenant filed her written statement questioning the right of the land lord respondent to demand rent, she also instituted a suit for declaring sale deed dated 13.6.2011 as null and void and also sought relief in the nature of permanent prohibitory injunction and it is in this background that an application under Section 23 of the Provincial Small Causes Act, 1887 came to be filed before the Judge, Small Causes which was dismissed against which revision was also dismissed and against that miscellaneous petition has been filed.

14. In the written statement plea was taken that owner of the property Tikamchand, Gopal Das, Deepak Kumar executed notarized agreement for sale on 14.09.1998 in favour of the petitioner and her husband and petitioner got them paid in advance certain amount as a consideration and then power of attorney was executed on 14.9.1998 in favour of Anuj Mishra by all three owners of the property to manage property in question and if decided to execute the sale, in that event sale was to be executed in favour of proposed purchaser. The sale deed was never executed as such whereas Tikam Chand's son, Indra Kumar, Deepak Kumar and one Anuj Mishra in the capacity of power of attorney holder of Gopal Das executed sale deed on 13.6.2011 in favour of Raj Kumar, the land lord respondent.

15. Points for determination that were formulated by Judge Small Causes included also a point for determination, as to whether defence of the tenant petitioner was liable to be struck off under Order XV Rule 5 for non payment of rent even after institution of suit.

16. All the issues were answered in favour of the land lord respondent and the suit was decreed.

17. In the case of A R C Overseas Private Limited (supra) cited by learned counsel for the petitioner, this Court had the occasion to examine the impact of an unregistered instrument, which otherwise was required to be registered under the Indian Registration Act, and whether it could have been relied upon otherwise for collateral purposes in Court of law proceedings. In the said case, the plaintiff appellant claimed to be in lawful occupation of a shop by virtue of a lease executed between the parties, however boards of the shop got removed by the lessor and the lessee was threatened from entering into the shop again. The suit for injunction brought by lessee was dismissed, against which appeal was preferred. The plaintiff was non suited on the ground that there was an arbitration clause under the lease agreement entered into between the parties.

The whole issue, therefore, in the said case was that the document being unregistered whether could not be used for any collateral purpose. It was in these circumstances, the Court proceeded to examine Section 107 of the Transfer of Property Act 1882 alongside Section 49 of the Registration Act, 1908 and vide paragraphs 12 and 13, the Court held thus:

"12. If we go through the later part of second paragraph of Section 107 of the Transfer of Property Act, as above, we shall be able to find that lease by oral agreement accompanied by delivery of possession need not be registered. Therefore, if the registration of the document is not available to the appellant but it was in the possession, the same is good enough for the purpose of creation of jural relationship between the parties. It is significant to note that the appellant has relied upon his initial possession. In paragraph 14 of the Judgment in Anthony v. K.C. Ittoop and Sons and Ors. , it was held that when it is admitted by both rides that the appellant was inducted into the possession of the building by the owner thereof and that the appellant was paying monthly rent or had agreed to pay rent in respect of the building, the legal character of the appellant's possession has to be attributed to a jural relationship between the parties. Such a jural relationship, on the fact-situation of the case, cannot be placed anything different from that of lessor and lessee falling within the purview of second paragraph of Section 107 of the Transfer of Property Act.

13. Secondly, last part of Section 49 of the Registration Act, as above, specifically speaks that "as evidence of any collateral transaction not required to be effected by registered instrument". Therefore, law is crystal clear to that extent. In Mattapalli Chelamayya (dead) by his Legal Representatives and Anr. v. Mattapalli Venkataratnam (dead) by his Legal Representatives and Anr. . the Supreme Court held that it should be noted that Section 49 does not say that the document cannot be received in evidence at all. All that it says the document cannot be received as evidence of any transaction affecting such property. If under the Evidence Act the document is receivable in evidence for a collateral purpose, Section 49 is no bar. This construction of the provision, which was accepted for a long time by the High Courts, has been duly recognized by the amending Act 21 of 1929, which added a proviso to the section. The proviso clearly empowers the Courts to admit any unregistered document as evidence of a collateral transaction not required to be registered. In Satish Chand Makhan and Ors. v. Govardhan Das Byas and Ors. , it was held that unregistered lease deed can be admitted in evidence for collateral purpose, invoking proviso to Section 49 of the Registration Act, as terms of lease are not a collateral purpose within its meaning. In Rai Chand Jain v. Miss Chandra Kanta Khosla , speaks that it is well settled that unregistered lease executed by both the parties can be looked into for collateral purposes. In Bondar Singh and Ors. v. Nihal Singh and Ors. , it was held that legal position is clear that Petition allowed document like the sale deed, even though not admissible in evidence, can be looked into for collateral purposes. The Court held that the collateral purpose is to be seen on the nature of the possession of the plaintiffs over the suit land. The sale deed in question at least shows that initial possession of the plaintiffs over the suit land was not illegal or unauthorized. Therefore, the undisputed initial possession herein is the guiding factor about validity of the document."

18. Upon bare reading of the aforesaid paragraphs of the judgment, the conclusion drawn would be that an unregistered document can be looked into for collateral purposes but the collateral purpose is to be seen in the nature of possession of plaintiff over the suit land.

19. Applying the above principles to the present case, petitioners predecessor in interest was admittedly tenant of the tenanted premises in question and came to change the nature of possessory rights from the tenant to proposed vendee under and agreement of sale which was never registered.

20. The judgment cited clearly holds that no title flows from an unregistered instrument, which in law is required to be registered. If that be so then status which the predecessor in interest of the petitioner had enjoyed and from whom petitioner succeeded that possessory rights, at the most would be of a tenant and to retain possession it is necessary to make payment of rent otherwise a tenant in default of payment of rent would deserve ejectment under the law. The person under an unregistered agreement for sale cannot even maintain a suit for its performance so as to acquire any possessory rights in law. So the nature of possession would only stand always to be a tenant qua the premises.

21. Looking to this nature of possession of a tenant, an unregistered agreement would only hold him to be not an unauthorized occupant and to that extent instrument will have an evidenciary value so as not to invoke provision for deemed vacancy under the Act No. 13 of 1972.

22. The Judgment of Bombay High Court in the case of Dharmaji @ Baban Bajirao Shinde (supra) cited by learned counsel for the petitioner also holds protection of possession to such an extent only. Hon' V.A.Mohta, J vide paragraphs 4 and 5 of the judgment held thus:

"4. Scrutiny of Sec. 53A would indicate that the necessary conditions for application of the provisions are : (1) There is a written contract signed by or on behalf of the transferor to transfer the immoveable property for consideration. (2) The terms of the contract pertaining to transfer are clearly discernible. (3) Transferee in part performance of the contract is either put in possession or is continued in possession and has done some act in furtherance of the contract. (4) Transferee has performed or is willing to perform his part of the contract. Wherever the above conditions are fulfilled the transferor or any person claiming under him is debarred from enforcing against the transferee or any person claiming under him any right in respect of the property in question even though the contract though required to be registered is not registered or where there is instrument of transfer, the transfer is not legally complete.

5. The section recognizes in a modified form English doctrine of equity of part performance, which is designed to relieve the rigour of law and provides a remedy when a transfer or an agreement to transfer falls short of legal requirements. It is meant to protect transferees who for appropriate consideration take possession, spend money and/or put in labour in improvements relying on the terms of the contract which for want of registration or any other legal requirement cannot be proved or cannot confer title on them. Thus the crux of the provision seems to be that mutual covenants are operative though title is not transferred as a result, the transferee though cannot seek to enforce his title can resist the attack on his rights under the contract, which would include right to retain possession. Often it is said that the right cannot be used as a sword and can be used only as a shield. If this right as a shield is available to him as a defendant, I do not see any justification for a view that it would be denied to him even if by force of circumstances he as a law abiding citizen is compelled to approach the Court as a plaintiff to use that shield. The transferee is entitled to resist any attempt on the part of the transferor to disturb transferee's lawful possession under the contract of sale and his position --either as a plaintiff or as a defendant --should make no difference. Contrary interpretation viz., the transferee can use the shield only as a defendant and not as a plaintiff, would defeat the very spirit of Section 53-A for it will be possible for an over powering transferor to forcibly dispossess the transferee even against the covenants in the contract and compel him to go to the Court as a plaintiff. As far as letter of law is concerned, there is nothing which militates against the above object oriented interpretation. "

23. But even this limited protection, I would further hold would otherwise be available to the petitioner if she proves it by leading a document in evidence either as primary evidence or secondary to be proved. In the present case only a notarized photo copy of alleged agreement was filed. The document led was not proved in the absence of original. It could not have been a case for raising any valid presumption in law either. A notarized photocopy was also not proved by getting public notary examined so as to claim that it was a photo copy of the original. In such view of the matter, therefore, neither benefit under Section 53-A of the Transfer of the Property Act, 1882 should have been given to the petitioner to protect possession in suit for recovery of arrears of rent and ejectment nor, the suit could be held to be not maintainable and required return of plaint under Section 23 of Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887.

24. One must remember that the evidence, which is required to be appreciated by a court of law in a judicial proceeding, must be having evidenciary value. The pleadings if raised are not supported by lawfully admissible evidence then any statement of fact in a pleading would stood unworthy of consideration unless admitted to the rival side. So the argument that the Court did not appreciate the document of agreement for sale filed, in my cconsidered view is totally misplaced as no such document was filed in original. The document being unregistered one was required to be filed in original and was to be proved in accordance with law as well.

25. Yet another point which is to be considered in the matter is that petitioner defence stood struck off in the suit and yet petitioner did not take any plea in the entire memo of revision filed before the court below assailing the findings on the relevant issue no. 4. Since it is admission on the part of the petitioner that he was not paying rent for acquired possessory rights under an agreement for sale and her status changed from the tenant of the proposed purchaser and as such she was questioning the title of the respondent land lord, possibly for this very reason she did not contest the issue. Courts below have held that petitioner did continue in the capacity of tenant of the original land lord, who passed on title to the contesting respondent, and the sale deed contained recitals that petitioner was tenant and was in arrears of rent so land lord /respondent (subsequent purchasers) would be entitled to recover the rent and in the event of default, to claim ejectment. The suit was thus rightly filed and the payment having not been made towards rent by the petitioner, she deserved ejectment.

26. This Court in the case of Maya Devi and Another v. Vipin Kumar Kushwaha and Another, 2016 0 Supreme (All) 3530, has very clearly held that whether defendant admits in a suit for recovery of arrears of rent and ejectment himself to be tenant or owner even if the defendants questioning the title of land lord and his right to maintain suit, he is required to pay rent in compliance of the second part of Order XV of Rule 5 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 dealing with relevant provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. Vide paragraphs 5,6, 7,8 and 9 the Court has held thus:

"5. Order XV Rule 5 CPC applicable in the State of U.P. is in two parts. The first part deals with the deposit of amount admitted by the tenant to be due and the second part deals with the monthly amount due whether it is admitted or not by the tenant. In default in payment of either of the two amounts mentioned in the aforesaid two parts of Rule 5 of Order XV CPC, the court would be empowered to struck off the defence.

6. In Pradyuman Jee vs. Special/Additional District Judge, Ballia and others 2008 (71) ALR 892, it has been held that in case where the defendant denies the existence of landlord and tenant relationship, he may not be required to deposit the amount referred to in the first part of Rule 5 Order XV CPC, but he would still be required to deposit "monthly amount due" within a week from the date of its accrual throughout the continuation of the suit whether he admit the said amount to be due or not.

7. The aforesaid decision was followed by this Court in the case of Mukesh Singh and another vs. Ramesh Chand Solanki 2011 (89) ALR 655. His Lordship therein held that as the tenant therein had not complied with the second part of Rule 5 of Order XV CPC the defence was rightly struck off irrespective of the fact that he denied the relationship of landlord and tenant.

8. A similar view has also been expressed by another Judge of this Court in the case of Yusuful Haq @ Yusuf and others vs. Smt. Ghayyur Fatma and others 2012 (92) ALR 526.

9. In the aforesaid case it was held that where the defendant denies the existence of landlord and tenant relationship, he may not be required to deposit the amount admitted to be due at or before the first hearing of the suit but he would still be required to deposit the monthly amount due within a week from the date of its accrual throughout the continuation of the suit because such deposit has to be made in spite of the fact he admits any amount to be due or not.

27. So in my considered view, since admittedly petitioner has not paid rent even in compliance of second part of Order XV of Rule 5 of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, the defence has rightly been struck off.

28. Having discussed the aforesaid fact and the law on the point, I find no error much less a substantial one in the findings either returned by the trial court or in revision and, therefore, I decline to interfere in the matter any exercise of my supervisory power under Article 227 of the Constitution.

29. On the point of jurisdiction of Judge, Small Causes to hear a summary suit where title of land lord has been questioned, this Court in the case of Suresh and Another v. Ram Bharosey Lal Gupta and Others 2014 0 Supreme (All) 1579 (2014 11 ADJ 327) considered the matter of return of plaint on the basis of unregistered instrument of sale of an immovable property. The Court examined first Section 54 of the Transfer of Property Act alongside Section 17 of the Indian Registration Act, 1968 vide paragraph 17 and then also examined Section 23 of the Provincial of Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 vide paragraph 18 and then referred to the judgment of Supreme Court in the case of Budhu Mal v Mahabir Prasad and Others, AIR 1988 SC 1772 vide paragraph 21 by reproducing the relevant paragraph of the Supreme Court's judgment. Learned Single Judge thereafter proceeded to refer the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Shamim Akhtar v. Iqbal Ahmed, AIR 2001 SC 1, wherein Supreme Court had held that Small Causes Court can incidently go into question of title in a suit between land lord and the tenant but of course, subject to the decision of a regular civil court in the civil suit, if filed. The Court also referred to the judgment in the case of Sheel Chand v. Iind A.D.J.,Jhansi, 2006 (1) ARC 359 and then finally held that question of rejection of plaint would arise when the court cannot decide the right of plaintiff and relief claimed by him for want of proof or disproof of title. In that case, land lord had set up a title on the basis of registered instrument whereas defendants were contesting the matter on the basis of unregistered instrument which the Court held to be ex facie illegal. Vide paragraph 17, 25, 26, the Court held thus:

"17. The transfer of immoveable property is governed by Act, 1882 and provides the way in which an immoveable property can be transferred. Section 54 says that transfer of immoveable can be made either by registered instrument or by delivery of property of a value less than Rs.100/-. No other mode is prescribed in the section. It is not stated therein that if a document is written so as to transfer immoveable property worth below Rs.100/- , it shall not require registration. On the contrary, if it is worth less than Rs.100/- and transfer is not proposed by an instrument reduced in writing, by mere delivery of property such transfer is permissible but where it is reduced in writing, it must be a registered instrument. Moreover, there is no exclusion with regard to requirement of registration of aforesaid document under Section 17 of Act, 1908. The documents, which are excluded from the requirement of registration, does not include transfer of immoveable property by sale irrespective of amount of consideration. Even otherwise, Section 17 of Act, 1908 nowhere provides, if a registration of a document is provided under any statute, that would not be necessary by virtue of Section 17 of Act, 1908. Section 17 of Registration Act nowhere has overriding effect as such over Section 54 therefore, both these provisions have to be read together. That being so, I am clearly fortified from the view taken by this Court in Budhi Ram (supra) that sale of property, if made through an instrument in writing then it shall not result in transfer of property, even if worth of property is less than Rs.100/-, since registration of document is necessary by virtue of Section 54 of Act, 1882. In such a case, I do not find any provision which may come to help a party who is staking his claim on the basis of an unregistered instrument. I am, therefore, clearly in agreement with the view taken by Court below that sale deed dated 22.12.1976, being an unregistered document, was a nullity and did not result in conferring any rights upon defendant-tenants i.e. petitioners with regard to suit property.

25. The above authorities clearly show that a mere dispute of title raised, would not oust the jurisdiction of Small Cause Court in proceeding to decide a suit, filed before it, and it is not bound to return the plaint on mere raising of such a dispute. Section 23 clearly says; only when the Court comes to the conclusion that it cannot decide the right of plaintiff and relief claimed by him since that would depend upon the proof or disproof of a title to immovable property, it may return the plaint and not otherwise.

26. In the present case plaintiff-landlord claim their rights founded on a registered instrument while the petitioner-defendants contested the matter relying on an unregistered document which was ex facie illegal. Hence there was no substantial dispute of title. It cannot be said that plaint ought to have been returned by Trial Court and the suit was incompetent. This question is also answered against petitioners. "

30. In the present case I also find that respondent land lord has acquired title by virtue of a registered sale deed dated 13.6.2011 whereas petitioner tenant was contesting the title of the land lord on the basis of an unregistered agreement for sale of which even original copy was not filed before the Court as an evidence to the pleadings raised .

31. In view of above, therefore, I do not find any error apparent on the face of record in the judgments and order passed by the trial court and, therefore, refuse to interfere in this revision petition. Both the petitions filed under Article 227 of the Constitution and revision filed under Section 25 of the Provincial of Small Cause Courts Act, 1887, being no. 234 of 2014 accordingly dismissed for want of merit and consigned to records.

Matters Under Article 227 No. 546 of 2023

Smt. Shahnaz Begum ...Petitioner

District Judge, Sultanpur & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Mohammad Aslam Khan

A. Civil Law – Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order XXXIX Rule 4 - Objections allowed- Temporary injunction set aside- temporary injunction against co-sharers of the property without partition- Full bench decision of Chedi Lal- right of co-sharer distinct from relief to be granted- his share invade by other co-sharers- exclusively appropriating or cultivating land or raising constructions- injunction suit maintainable- only when exclusive appropriation by other co-sharers- or when plaintiff cannot be adequately compensated at the time of partition- lastly, greater injury to the plaintiff by refusal of relief than by granting it- question answered negatively against the plaintiff- no partition- no averment regarding trampling of exclusive share of the plaintiff.

HELD: Upon consideration of Full Bench Decision, it is apparent that the Full Bench has answered the question that right of cosharers in respect of joint land is required to be kept separate and distinct from the question as to what relief should be granted to a co-sharer particularly when his share has been invaded by other co-sharers either by exclusively appropriating and cultivating land or by raising constructions thereon. The Full Bench has clearly held that it would only be in case where the rights of co-sharer have been exclusively appropriated by other co-sharers that a suit for injunction would be maintainable against co-sharers. The aspect has further been elaborated with the aspect that in case evidence establishes that plaintiff cannot be adequately compensated at the time of partition and that greater injury will result to him by refusal of relief than by granting it, that injunction could be granted.

As such, the aspect which can be culled out from the Full Bench decision is to the extent that relief of injunction to plaintiff against co-sharers would be maintainable only in the event the share of plaintiff has been entirely and exclusively encroached upon by the other co-sharers and secondly that the plaintiff cannot be adequately compensated at the time of partition and thirdly that greater injury will result to him by refusal of the relief than by granting him.

In view of aforesaid discussion, this Court comes to the considered conclusion that there is no error in the orders impugned pertaining to the fact that injunction could not have been granted in favour of plaintiff against other co-sharer without partition being effected between them and without any averment that the exclusive share of the plaintiff was being trampled upon by the other co-sharers.

B. Civil Law Civil Procedure Code, 1908 - Order XXXIX Rule 4 - injunction obtained by concealing the true facts- untrue case- that plaintiff is the sole owner of the property- trial court's order upheld- Petition dismissed.

HELD: Upon applicability of aforesaid judgment in the present facts and circumstances of the case, it is evident that the plaintiff had set up an untrue case by giving an impression that she was the sole owner of the entire plot no.1297 minjumala. It is a finding of fact recorded concurrently by both the courts below and has also been admitted by learned counsel for petitioner that in fact plaintiff has only a share in the property in dispute and is not owner in possession over the entire plot although there is no such averment in the plaint.

In view of aforesaid, this Court does not find any error with regard to finding recorded that there was material concealment of fact in the plaint

2. In view of order being proposed to be passed, notices to opposite parties no.1 and 2 and opposite parties no.4 to 10 stand dispensed with.

3. Although there is reporting of caveat on behalf of opposite party no.3 but despite the matter being taken up in the revised list, no one has put in appearance on behalf of caveator.

4. Petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India has been filed against order dated 17.08.2022 passed by the trial court whereby objections under order 39

Rule 4 of the Code of Civil Procedure have been allowed vacating the temporary injunction earlier granted. Appellate order dated 18.01.2023 has also been challenged.

5. Learned counsel for petitioner submits that the petitioner had purchased an area measuring 0.01109 hectare of Gata No.1297 having a total area of 0.1110 hectare by means of registered instrument of transfer dated 28.11.2008. It is submitted that when the defendants 1 and 2 started interfering in the possession of petitioner and raising construction on the plot in question, the petitioner was compelled to file the Regular Suit No.81 of 2022 for permanent injunction in which initially an ex parte interim injunction was granted but thereafter the same was vacated by means of the impugned order upon application being filed by defendants.

6. It is submitted that in the impugned order dated 17.08.2022, the trial court has clearly erred in recording a finding that there was material concealment of fact in the plaint which resulted in issuance of ex parte temporary injunction. It is submitted that a copy of the sale-deed dated 28.11.2008 had been filed alongwith copy of plaint clearly indicating the area purchased by the plaintiff in the plot in question and it was only after examining the same that ex-parte temporary injunction was granted. As such, it is submitted that there was no concealment of fact by the plaintiff and finding recorded to the contrary by means of impugned order is clearly erroneous.

7. Learned counsel has also drawn attention to the other ground for vacation of interim injunction that the trial court has erred in holding that temporary injunction cannot be granted against a co-sharer when proceedings for partition of the property in question are pending adjudication. It is submitted that it is settled law that suit for permanent injunction would be maintainable against co-sharers also in case the possession of plaintiff is being interfered with to an extent that it would hamper peaceful enjoyment of the property which has been purchased by the said co-sharer.

8. Reliance has been placed on judgment rendered by full bench decision of this Court in the case of Chhedi Lal and another versus Chhotey Lal reported in AIR 1951 Allahabad 199 as well as in the case of Devendra Kumar Trikha versus The District Judge, Lucknow and others reported in 1983(1)Lucknow Civil Decision page1.

9. It is thus submitted that the trial court clearly fell in error in vacating the temporary injunction granted earlier on the aforesaid two counts.

10. Learned counsel has also adverted to the appellate Court judgment to submit that the findings recorded by the trial court in the impugned order dated 17.08.2022 has been merely copied without any independent application of mind to the grounds raised in the memorandum of appeal particularly with regard to the fact that there was no concealment of fact in the plaint and suit for injunction would be maintainable against the co-sharer in the light of full bench decision of this Court as followed subsequently.

11. Upon consideration of submissions advanced by learned counsel for petitioner, it appears from the material on record that suit for permanent injunction has been filed by the petitioner indicating that she is the owner in possession of Gata No.1297 Minjumla having an area of 0.1110 hectare situate in the village in question. The prayer clause also indicates that injunction has been sought over Gata No.1297 Minjumla having an area of 0.1110 hectare. Although the plaint does not indicate any reference to the registered sale-deed dated 28.11.2008 but as per submission of learned counsel for petitioner, the aforesaid sale-deed was on record having been filed along with plaint and it was after consideration of the sale-deed indicating petitioner's share in the property to be restricted to 0.2019 hectare that trial court granted ex parte interim injunction.

12. A perusal of the trial court order indicates primarily two grounds for vacation of the ex parte interim injunction with first being that the property in dispute being Gata No.1297 Minjumla is a part and parcel of one plot which has not been partitioned by any competent court or authority and as such prior to grant of any permanent injunction, it would be necessary that plaintiff's share over the property disputed should be identified. It has also been indicated that plaintiff has not made any averment in the plaint with regard to the sale-deed or the portion of disputed property which has been purchased by her and over which she has possession.

13. Secondly, the trial court has reached a prima facie conclusion that the plaint was filed concealing material facts particularly the fact that plaintiff had only a share in the property disputed although relief is being claimed over the entire Gata No.1297 Minjumala. It is indicated in the order that neither any area of the property purchased by the plaintiff has been indicated in the plaint nor has any boundary been indicated and on the contrary, plaint has been filed seeking a relief of permanent injunction over the entire plot of 1297 Minjumla. As such, the trial court has reached a conclusion that averments in plaint were only to mislead the court concerned.

14. A perusal of impugned appellate court's order also indicates the same reasoning having been followed.

15. With regard to submissions advanced by learned counsel for petitioner, the following two questions which are required to be adjudicated in the present writ petition would be as follows:

A. Whether temporary injunction could have been granted to the petitioner-plaintiff against co-sharers of the property without any partition thereupon ?

B. Whether there was any concealment of fact in the plaint leading to grant of ex parte interim injunction?

16. Question No.A:- With regard to the first proposition, learned counsel for petitioner has placed reliance on Full Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Chhedi Lal (supra). The facts of the case was that one Tika Ram was owner of the plot in dispute and was survived by four sons one of whom died issue less. The portion of their shares in property in question exchanged hands and their successors started raising construction over the disputed plot whereafter the co-sharers filed suit for possession of the plot by demolition of construction raised by defendants on the ground that they were sole owners of entire property owned by late Tika Ram. The question with regard to injunction being granted against co-sharers was the issue on hand before the Full Bench and after noticing a number of judgments, the Full Bench held as follows:-

"25. As a result of the foregoing discussion, it appears to us that the question of the right of co-sharers in respect of joint land should be kept separate and distinct from the question as to what relief should be granted to a co-sharer, whose right in respect of joint land has been invaded by the other co-sharers either by exclusively appropriating and cultivating land or by raising constructions thereon. The conflict in some of the decisions has apparently risen from the confusion of the two distinct matters. While therefore a co-sharer is entitled to object to another co-sharer exclusively appropriating land to himself to the detriment of other co-sharers, the question as to what relief should be granted to the plaintiff in the event of the invasion of his rights will depend upon the circumstances of each case. The right to the relief for demolition and injunction will be granted or withheld by the court according as the circumstances established in the case justify. The court may feel persuaded to grant both the reliefs if the evidence establishes that the plaintiff cannot be adequately compensated at the time of the partition and that greater injury will result to him by the refusal of the relief than by granting it. On the contrary if material and substantial injury will be caused to the defendant by the granting of the relief, the court will no doubt be exercising proper discretion in withholding such relief. As has been pointed out in some of the cases, each case will be decided upon its own peculiar facts and it will be left to the court to exercise its discretion upon proof of circumstances showing which side the balance of convenience lies. That the court in the exercise of its discretion will be guided by considerations of justice, equity and good conscience cannot be overlooked and it is not possible for the court to lay down an inflexible rule as to the circumstances in which the relief for demolition and injunction should be granted or refused."

17. The aforesaid Full Bench Judgment has thereafter been followed with approval by Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Devendra Kumar Trikha (supra).

18. Upon consideration of Full Bench Decision, it is apparent that the Full Bench has answered the question that right of co-sharers in respect of joint land is required to be kept separate and distinct from the question as to what relief should be granted to a co-sharer particularly when his share has been invaded by other co-sharers either by exclusively appropriating and cultivating land or by raising constructions thereon. The Full Bench has clearly held that it would only be in case where the rights of co-sharer have been exclusively appropriated by other co-sharers that a suit for injunction would be maintainable against co-sharers. The aspect has further been elaborated with the aspect that in case evidence establishes that plaintiff cannot be adequately compensated at the time of partition and that greater injury will result to him by refusal of relief than by granting it, that injunction could be granted.

19. As such, the aspect which can be culled out from the Full Bench decision is to the extent that relief of injunction to plaintiff against co-sharers would be maintainable only in the event the share of plaintiff has been entirely and exclusively encroached upon by the other co-sharers and secondly that the plaintiff cannot be adequately compensated at the time of partition and thirdly that greater injury will result to him by refusal of the relief than by granting him.

20. Upon applicability of aforesaid Full Bench decision in the present facts and circumstances of the case, it is evident not only from the sale-deed but also from submissions advanced by learned counsel for petitioner-plaintiff that the plaintiff had purchased only a portion of the property in question ad measuring 0.01293 hectare out of the total area of 0.1110 hectare in Gata No.1297 Minjumla. A reading of the plaint does not indicate any averment that any encroachment was being made by the defendants over the entire and exclusive property purchased by the plaintiff. It is also evident that a suit for partition between the parties is pending consideration of the competent court in terms of Section 116 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006. There has not been any finding recorded by the courts below or even in the present petition that plaintiff cannot be adequately compensated at the time of partition with regard to construction being raised over the property in question. It is also not the case of plaintiff that any construction is being raised over the property purchased by him by means of the instrument of transfer dated 28.11.2008.

21. In the case of Devendra Kumar Trikha (supra), the facts of the case were that a suit for permanent injunction had been filed against the co-owner with the prayer that the plaintiff was exclusively realizing rent arising from the property in question although the plaintiff being co-sharer had a right to a portion of rents being so realized. In paragraph 3 of the aforesaid judgment, Coordinate Bench has clearly held that since the share in rent of the co-sharers was being exclusively and completely taken over by the defendant, the suit as such for permanent injunction would be maintainable.

22. Here it would be noticeable that in both the judgments, great emphasis has been laid on the fact that relief of injunction against the co-sharer could be granted only in case the share of another co-sharer has been exclusively trampled upon. The facts and circumstances of the present case are otherwise.

23. In a recent judgment of Hon'ble the Supreme Court the aforesaid aspect has already been taken care of and adjudicated in the case of T. Ramalingeswara Rao (Dead) through Legal Representatives and Another versus N. Madhava Rao and others reported in (2019)4 Supreme Court Cases 608 wherein the aspect of whether injunction can be granted against co-sharers has been dealt with in the following manner:-

"16. In our view, even assuming that the plaintiffs claimed to be in possession of the suit property (which the two courts below did not find in their favour) for claiming injunction, yet they were not entitled to claim injunction against the other co-sharers over the suit property. It is a settled principle of law that the possession of one co-sharer is possession of all co-sharers, it cannot be adverse to them, unless there is a denial of their right to their knowledge by the person in possession, and exclusion and ouster following thereon for the statutory period. (See Mohd. Baqar v. Naim-un-Nisa Bibi [Mohd. Baqar v. Naim-un-Nisa Bibi, AIR 1956 SC 548].)

17. So far as the claim of the plaintiffs as being in exclusive possession to the exclusion of others was concerned, the same was held not proved by the two courts below."

24. The aforesaid judgment rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court is based on another previous judgment of Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Mohd. Baqar v. Naim-un-Nisha Bibi reported in AIR 1956 SC 548 and clearly states the settled proposition that possession of one co-sharer is possession of all co-sharers and cannot be adverse to them unless there is a denial of their right to their knowledge by the person in possession, and exclusion and ouster following thereon.

25. In the considered opinion of this Court, the aforesaid judgment is clearly applicable in the present facts and circumstances where a co-sharer is seeking grant of temporary injunction against a co-sharer with proceedings for partition pending between them.

26. In view of aforesaid discussion, this Court comes to the considered conclusion that there is no error in the orders impugned pertaining to the fact that injunction could not have been granted in favour of plaintiff against other co-sharer without partition being effected between them and without any averment that the exclusive share of the plaintiff was being trampled upon by the other co-sharers.

27. Question No.A is answered accordingly negatively against petitioner.

28. Question No.B: So far as question pertaining to concealment of fact as recorded in the judgments under challenge is concerned, it is evident from the sale-deed brought on record as Annexure No.11 that petitioner-plaintiff had purchased an area measuring 0.01293 hectare by means of instrument of transfer dated 28.11.2008. It is also the submission of learned counsel for petitioner that aforesaid is the only area purchased by petitioner-plaintiff by means of the aforesaid sale-deed although the entire area of property in dispute being Gata no.1297 minjumala is 0.1110 hectare.

29. It is also evident from a reading of plaint that there is no averment therein as to the portion of disputed property which has been purchased by plaintiff and the only indication comes in paragraph 2 of the plaint whereunder it has been stated that the area of property in question being Gata No.1297 minjumala is 0.1110 hector. It is also evident that in prayer clause, permanent injunction has been sought over the entire Gata No.1297 minjumala indicating an area of 0.1110 hectare. There is no averment in the plaint with regard to defendants being co-sharers in the property in question although it is admitted that the defendants are in fact co-sharers of plaintiff in the disputed property.

30. Upon consideration of aforesaid factors, it is evident that the plaintiff has failed to indicate his right over the property in question as also his share thereupon with such omission extending to the fact that defendants were co-sharers of the plaintiff in the disputed property.

31. The aspect of concealment of fact has been adverted to in the Full Bench decision in the case of Chhedi Lal (supra) in the following term:

"26. It now remains to deal with each of the appeals separately upon its own facts. So far as Second Civil Appeal No.282 of 1943 is concerned, the plaintiffs set up an untrue case that they were the sole owners and both the courts below have found that the defendants had a subsisting interest in the land in suit and had a right to build. It has also found against the plaintiffs that they made no oral protest, as alleged by them. Both the courts below have exercised their discretion upon the circumstances of the case in favour of the defendants and have refused the reliefs asked for by the plaintiffs. In this appeal the question resolves itself merely into the fact whether the discretion was exercised improperly. We are of opinion that the plaintiffs have failed to establish circumstances which would justify this Court in second appeal to interfere with the exercise of the discretion concurrently by the two courts below. We accordingly dismiss this appeal with costs."

32. Upon applicability of aforesaid judgment in the present facts and circumstances of the case, it is evident that the plaintiff had set up an untrue case by giving an impression that she was the sole owner of the entire plot no.1297 minjumala. It is a finding of fact recorded concurrently by both the courts below and has also been admitted by learned counsel for petitioner that in fact plaintiff has only a share in the property in dispute and is not owner in possession over the entire plot although there is no such averment in the plaint.

33. In view of aforesaid, this Court does not find any error with regard to finding recorded that there was material concealment of fact in the plaint.

34. Question No.B is answered accordingly against the petitioner.

35. In view of aforesaid that both the questions formulated by this Court have been answered against petitioner-plaintiff, the petition being devoid of merit is dismissed at the admission stage itself.

36. It is however made clear that the aforesaid answering of two questions is limited to the application for temporary injunction only and would not have any bearing on the final adjudication of the suit which would be on its own merits and would not prejudice the suit proceedings between co-sharers of the property in question, which would be subject to evidence.

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE MRS. SUNITA AGARWAL, J.
THE HON'BLE SUBHASH CHANDRA SHARMA, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 532 of 1997

Lalji & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri A.C. Nigam, Sri Dhirendra Kumar Srivastava, Sri Janmed Kumar, Sri Kameshwar Singh, Sri Om Prakash Chaurasia, Sri Satya Prakash Shukla, Sri Surendra Singh

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

A. Criminal Law – Appeal- Indian Penal Code-1860 - Sections 302 & 34 -Against conviction under IPC read with Section 34 IPC- Accused killed the deceased by beating him with lathies- Deceased was raising wall on land- accused claimed to be theirs- Appellants' plea- conviction based on testimony of interested witnesses- no specific roles assigned.

B. No delay in filing of FIR- Ocular evidence- trustworthy and reliable- corroborated from medical evidence- establishment of motive for commission of crime- not necessary- relationship of eye-witnesses inter se- not a ground to discard their testimony- Non-examination of Investigating Officer- no prejudice caused to the defence. (Paragraphs 28 to 42)

HELD: It is true that there is no mention of motive in F.I.R. about the commission of crime. Even PW-1, PW-2 and P.W. 3 have also not disclosed anything that became the root cause of committing murder by the appellants except conversation started on the part of the appellants and Lalman in relation to construction of the wall belonging to cow shed but it is settled law that merely because the prosecution fails to prove motive for commission of the crime, it must not necessarily result in acquittal of the accused. It is well settled that where ocular evidence is found to be trustworthy and reliable and finds corroboration from the medical evidence, a finding of guilt can safely be recorded even if the motive for the commission of crime has not been proved. (Para 28)

It is common knowledge that village (mohalla) life is faction ridden and involvement of one or the other in the incidents is not unusual. One has also to be cautious about the fact that wholly independent witnesses are seldom available or are otherwise not inclined to comeforth, lest they may invite trouble for themselves for future. Therefore, relationship of eye-witnesses inter se, cannot 16 be a ground to discard their testimony. There is no reason to suppose the false implication of the appellants at the instance of the eye-witnesses. It would also be illogical to think that witnesses would screen the real culprits and substitute the appellants for them. (Para 36)

It is also relevant to note that the prosecution witnesses i.e. P.W.1 & P.W.2. have not been confronted with their previous St.ment as recorded by the Investigating Officer under section 161 Cr.P.C. except P.W.3 Chibilli on some minor issues which are not material to the case. Even regarding the place of occurrence there is no dispute. In this way, it cannot be said that any prejudice had been caused to the defence on account of non-examination of Investigating Officer. (Para 42)

C. No specific role assigned- role of Lalji in inflicting fatal injury established- no premeditation of all accused persons to commit murder- benefit of doubt available to the other accused. (Paragraphs 43 and 44)

HELD: There is no specific role assigned to other appellants for assault except general allegation that all of the appellants assaulted the deceased but post mortem report Ext. Ka-2 does not support the allegation of assault by 19 more than one person. Thus from the evidence on record it is clearly established beyond reasonable doubt that appellant Lalji caused injury to the deceased as a result of which, he died. So for as other appellants are concerned, their participation in causing injuries to the deceased cannot be said to be proved beyond reasonable doubt only on the basis of their presence on the spot with Lalji unless there is an act of premeditation of all the accused persons to commit murder of the deceased which is lacking from the very outset and it was only to the extent of preventing the deceased from further construction on the land in dispute. (Para 43)

In our opinion, the evidence on record clearly establishes the case of the prosecution against the appellant Lalji beyond any shadow of doubt but not against other accused appellants Shyamji and Pyare. They are entitled for benefit of doubt. (Para 44)

D. Nature of injuries- all but one are simple- no intention of the appellants to commit murder of the deceased- intention only to prevent deceased from further construction of wall of cow shed- knowledge to cause injury likely to cause death- Offence under Section 304 Part-II- No liability under Section 302 IPC- Sentence reduced- Appeal partly allowed.

HELD: In this case, as noticed above, the appellant Lalji was equipped with lathi, a blunt weapon. There was no previous enmity between the parties. There was dispute relating to goshala land which was being claimed by both 23 of them. The deceased was heightening the walls which was prevented by the accused appellant and there was oral altercation on this issue. In the course of oral altercation, the appellant assaulted the deceased with lathi on his head. The deceased tried to esacpe, the appellant again assaulted him but lathi blows were made on hands, not on head or chest. The circumstances show that there was no premeditation in the mind of appellant to cause death of the deceased or to cause such bodily injury which was likely to cause his death. On account of oral altercation, in the spur of moment, he assaulted the deceased with lathi on his head and again other lathi blows on his hands. Striking lathi on the head can be attributed to have knowledge that the injury was likely to cause death but it was not with the intention to cause such bodly injury which was likely to cause death. The intention of the appellant seemed to be only to prevent the deceased from making further construction on the wall of cow shed (goshala) land. Thus, there appears absence of intention on the part of the appellant but it was only with the knowledge to cause injury likely to cause death which would fall within the ambit of Section 304 Part-II IPC. (Para 49)

Appeal partly allowed. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Chandra Sharma, J.)

1. The present criminal appeal emanates from the judgment and order dated 26.02.1997 passed by the learned Sessions Judge, Mirzapur in Sessions Trial No. 77 of 1993 (State Vs. Lalji and others) arising out of Crime No. 196 of 1991 under Section 302/34 IPC, Police Station Chunar, District Mirzapur whereby accused Lalji, Shyamji, Pyare and Chhotai have been convicted and sentenced under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC with life imprisonment.

2. The prosecution case in brief is that on 26.10.1991 at about 4 p.m. Lalman, father of the informant was heightening the walls of the cow shed (Gaushala) on the land granted on lease with the informant, sister Savita, mason Chibilli and labour Sita. In the meantime, Lalji, Shyamji, Pyare and Chhotai equipped with lathies came there. While abusing they claimed the land belonging to them as their lease land. Lalman responded by saying that it was his lease land over which the old cow shed was constructed. At that Shyamji exhorted and all the accused persons started beating him with lathies. He ran for about 30-40 steps but the accused persons surrounded him and killed by beating with lathies. On hue and cry, Satyawan and Dhananjay came there and then the accused persons went away. The F.I.R. was lodged by the informant Shyam Bahadur on the same day at about 8.30 p.m. at the police Station Chunar as crime No. 370 of 1991, under Section 302 IPC. The detail of which was entered into G.D. Report no.42

3. The investigation of the case was handed over to S.I. V.P. Singh who proceeded to the place of occurrence and collected blood stained and plain soil from the spot and prepared the fard.

4. The inquest of deceased Lalman was conducted by S.I. V.P. Singh, inquest report was prepared in presence of witnesses, dead body was sealed, other essential papers were prepared and the dead body was handed over to constables Murtaza Ali and Chhangur Dubey for post-mortem.

5. Dr. S.C. Srivastava conducted the autopsy on the dead body of Lalman on 27.10.1991 at 3 p.m. at District Hospital Mirzapur & prepared the postmortem report Exhibit Ka-2. Details of which are as under:

The dead body was brought in sealed cloth. Seal compared and found intact. The age of the deceased was about 60 years and time since death was about one day.

External Examination: Average built body. Rigor mortis passed off in upper extremities and was present in lower extremities. Blood clot was present in nostrils. Eyes were closed.

Ante-mortem injuries:(1) Lacerated wound 3 cm x ½ cm x bone deep on right side of scalp, 8 cm above right external ear.

(2) Lacerated wound 8 cm x 2 cm x cranial cavity deep over right side of scalp posteriorly 5 cm above and posterior to right external ear. The underlying bone was fractured and brain matter was visible.

(3) Lacerated wound 2 cm x 1 cm x cranial cavity deep over posterior side of scalp on right side 2 cm below injury no. 2.

(4) Abrasion 4 cm x 1 cm over upper surface of right shoulder.

(5) Abrasion 2.5 cm x 1 cm over posterior surface of left elbow.

(6) Abrasion 2 cm x 2 cm over posterior medial surface of left arm 7 cm above left wrist.

(7) Abrasion 1 cm x 1 cm over posterior surface of left wrist.

Cause of death was mentioned as coma due to head injury.

6. After inspection of the place of occurrence, Investigating Officer prepared the site plan and recorded the statements of witnesses conversant to the facts of the case, thereafter concluded the investigation and found a case, prima facie made out under Section 302/34 IPC. After preparing the charge sheet, he submitted it to the court concerned.

7. The cognizance of the offence was taken by the court concerned and copies of prosecution papers were provided to accused persons in compliance of Section 207 Cr.P.C. and the case was committed to the court of session for trial.

8. Learned trial court framed the charges under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC on the basis of material on record and after giving opportunity of hearing to appellants. Charge was read-over and explained to them. They did not plead guilty but denied it and claimed for trial. Consequently, case was fixed for prosecution evidence.

9. The prosecution examined P.W.1 Shyam Bahadur, the informant, P.W.2 Dhananjai, P.W.3 Chibilli (mason) as eye witnesses. P.W. 4 Dr. S.C. Srivastava who conducted the postmortem was also examined.

10. After conclusion of prosecution evidence the statement of appellants were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. wherein they stated that they had not committed the murder and statements made by the prosecution witnesses were false. Accused Lalji stated that Arazi no. 330 measuring 1 bigha 10 biswa belonged to him on the basis of the patta granted in his favour on 25.07.1979. Since then he was in possession of that land, there was a case before the Tehshildar, Chunar which was decided in his favour on 30.11.1988. On that land, the deceased was making construction by force and in the night somehow he sustained injuries and he along with his real brothers were implicated falsely with a view to grab his land. Likewise, accused Shyamji, Pyare and Chhotai also stated about the incident and the statements made by the prosecution witnesses being false.

11. Appellants were given an opportunity for defence but they did not adduce any evidence in their support.

12. Learned trial Court heard the argument for prosecution as well as appellants, passed the judgment and order dated 26.2.1997 wherein he found all of the appellants guilty under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and sentenced them for rigorous imprisonment for life. Against this judgment and order, these two appeals have been preferred by the accused persons. One Criminal Appeal No. 477 of 1997 was filed by accused Chhotai but during the pendency of the appeal, he had died, as a result his appeal stood abated.

13. We have heard Sri Janmed Kumar, learned counsel on behalf of appellant no. 1, Sri Satya Prakash Shukla learned counsel on behalf of appellant nos. 2 and 3, Sri Arun Kumar Singh learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

14. Learned counsels for the appellants would submit that the judgment and order passed by the learned trial court is against evidence available on record which is bad in the eyes of law being based on the testimony of interested witnesses who are relatives of the deceased. The F.I.R. was lodged with inordinate delay having no explanation. There was no motive to commit the murder of the deceased. P.W. 1 Shyam Bahadur being son of the deceased was an interested witness. P.W. 2 Dhananjay Singh was not present on the place of the occurrence but he was a managed witness. P.W. 3 Chibilli (mason) was also related to the deceased, therefore, the testimony of three prosecution witnesses cannot be said to be reliable. There are inter se contradictions in their testimony which do not inspire confidence. Further it was submitted that no specific role has been assigned to any of the accused except general role. In such a situation, liability cannot be fixed on either of the appellants to cause injuries on the person of the deceased. No liability can be fixed by invoking the provision of Section 34 IPC. The injuries found on the person of the deceased were simple in nature and cannot be said to have been caused with the intention or knowledge to cause death of the deceased. It is also submitted that the nature of the injuries found on the person of the deceased cannot be said to have been caused with lathi by three accused persons but they occur due to fall on some stone during night hours. The Investigating Officer who investigated the case was not examined during trial which caused prejudice to the accused appellants. In this way, the whole prosecution case becomes unreliable and the conviction of the appellants by the learned trial court is a result of misappreciation of evidence on record, unsustainable in the eye of law and the appellants, as such are liable to be acquitted. Lastly, it was argued in alternative that the offence said to have been committed does not fall within the ambit of Section 302 IPC but at the most it could be said to be covered to the extent of Section 304 Part II of IPC.

15. Learned A.G.A. opposed the submissions made by the learned counsel for the appellants and urged that in this case, the appellants went on the spot where the deceased was heightening the wall on his pre-constructed cow shed on the land allotted to him on lease and made assault with lathi in furtherance of the common intention of all to cause his death, as a result the deceased sustained injuries and died. The F.I.R. of the incident was lodged by the informant promptly without any delay. P.Ws. 1, 2 and 3 are eye-witnesses of the incident, who were working on the spot at the time of the incident. Further it was urged that P.W. 3 Chibilli was a mason and was not resident of the same village so he cannot be said to be related to the deceased he was an independent witness who gave vivid details of the incident during his examination before the court. There are no major contradictions in the testimony of the prosecution witnesses. The injuries found on the person of the deceased also corroborate with the description by the ye witnesses about the manner of injuries caused by the accused appellants. In this way, it is established with the evidence on record that the injuries were caused by the appellants to the deceased as a result of which he had died. So far as non-examination of the Investigating Officer is concerned, it was argued that it does not cause any prejudice to the appellants and on mere non-examination of the Investigating Officer the prosecution case will not fail, as there was sufficient evidence on record to support the prosecution case. The evidence on record is sufficient on the basis of which the learned trial judge has recorded the conviction of the appellants, perfectly justified in the eye of law. There is no illegality or impropriety. The appeal is liable to be dismissed as such.

16. From the submissions of the learned counsels for the parties, the following questions emerge for consideration of this Court as (i) to whether there was delay in lodging the F.I.R., (ii) motive was absent, (iii) absence of common intention to cause death of the deceased, (iv) the unreliability of witnesses being relatives and interested, (v) the nature of injuries found on the person of the deceased, (vi) the effect of non-examination of Investigating Officer and (vii) as to whether the case comes within the purview of Section 302 IPC or under Section 304 Part II IPC.

17. Before we deal with the contentions of the learned counsel for the appellants, it would be convenient to take note of the evidence as adduced by the prosecution.

18. P.W.1 Shyam Bahadur is the informant who deposed that he knew accused Lalji, Shyamji, Pyare and Chhotai, who were residents of his village. Amongst them Lalji, Shyamji and Pyare were real brothers and Chhotai was their friend. Deceased Lalman was the father of the informant who was murdered four years ago at about 4 o'clock when he was at his cow shed (gausala) and for heightening the wall, work was being done by the mason Chibilli with labour Sita. The land of cow shed was given in favour of his father on lease. The accused came there and prevented his father from constructing the wall, on which he retaliated that it was his old cow shed and the lease deed was in his favour. At that Shyamji exhorted and all the four accused persons started beating his father with lathies who tried to escape but while he could run for about 30 paces, all the four accused persons surrounded him and caused his death by beating. At the time of the incident, he, his sister Sangita, labour Sita and mason Chibilli were present and Dhananjay & Satyawan had reached on the spot hearing their hue and cry. They all saw the incident and accused persons went away after beating. He got tahreer (written report) scribed by Mastram and after hearing the contents thereof, he affixed his thumb impression and lodged the F.I.R. He admitted the tahreer (written report) having been given by him at the police station and also identified his thumb impression on it, which was proved as Ext. Ka-1.

This witness was subjected to gruelling cross-examination by the learned counsels for the appellants before the trial court but the witness had not disclosed any such fact which weakens his testimony. He had affirmed the fact of beating by the appellants.

19. P.W.2-Dhananjay Singh deposed that he knew accused Lalji, Shyamji, Pyare and Chhotai, who were residents of his village. Deceased Lalman was also a resident of his village who was murdered about four years ago. At the time of the incident Lalman was heightening the wall of his old cow shed where mason Chibilli was carrying construction work of the wall and labourer Sita was also present on the spot. The son of Lalman namely Shyam Bahadur and his daughter Savita were also present. The land of cow shed belonged to deceased Lalman and was in his possession. At the time of the incident at a distance of about 25-30 paces away, the witness was giving food to his charwaha. In the meantime, Lalji, Shyamji, Pyare and Chhotai equipped with lathi-danda came on the spot and started beating Lalman who fell down on the ground and succumbed to his injuries. P.W.2. stated that he went on the spot and saw the incident. The accused persons went away towards the east direction. Daroga Ji reached on the spot in the night and collected blood stained and plain soil from the site and prepared the fard, on which he also made his signature.

This witness also faced gruelling cross-examination made by the learned counsel for the appellants, but nothing contrary to the case of the prosecution could be pointed out from his deposition.

20. P.W.3 Chibilli deposed that he knew Lalji, Shyamji, Pyare and Chhotai, who were residents of village adjacent to his own village located at about 1 km. He also knew deceased Lalman who was murdered four years ago at about 4 p.m. This witness was working on the cow shed of Lalman at the time of alleged incident. At that time Lalman, his son Shyam Bahadur, daughter Savita and labourer Sita were also present. All the four accused persons equipped with lathies came at the cow shed (gausala) and started beating Lalman who fell on the ground after sustaining injuries. All the accused persons went towards east direction after committing the incident.

This witness also faced gruelling cross-examination made by the learned counsel for appellants but nothing contrary to the case of the prosecution could be brought before us from his deposition.

21. All the prosecution witnesses remained intact during their cross-examination. No such contradictions are visible in their statements which would make their testimony unreliable and unnatural. Minor contradictions pointed out in their deposition are of cosmetic nature and cannot affect the credibility of their testimony.

22. P.W.4 Dr. S.C. Srivastava stated that on 27.10.1991, he was posted as Child Specialist in the District Hospital, Mirzapur. At about 4 o'clock he conducted postmortem of the dead body of deceased Lalman which was brought by Constables Murtaza Ali and Chhangur Dubey from the Police Station Chunar. He had prepared postmortem report and in his opinion the cause of death was coma as a result of injury on the head of the deceased. He prepared the postmortem report in his handwriting and signature which he proved as Ext. Ka-2. He also stated that injury nos. 1, 2 and 3 were on vital parts and due to injury no. 2, the injured would have gone into coma, thereafter, his death was possible. He also opined that injury no. 1 to 7 could have occured with lathi.

This witness was also subjected to cross-examination on behalf of the appellants but nothing adverse was found.

22. There is not even an iota of evidence on record which may even remotely suggest that Pws. 1, 2 & 3 had grudges against the appellants for any cause to implicate them falsely.

23. Injuries on the person of deceased Lalman were caused by lathi as stated by P.Ws. 1, 2 & 3. Ext. Ka-2 is the post-mortem report wherein multiple lacerated and abrasion wounds were found on the body of the deceased Lalman and P.W.4 Dr. S.C. Srivastava has proved the injuries and told that all the injuries were likely to be caused with lathi. He opined that cause of death was coma due to head injury.

24. In this way injuries found on the body of deceased Lalman are proved to have been caused with lathi at about 4 p.m on 26.10.1991 and it corroborates the manner of causing injuries resulting into death as stated by P.Ws. 1, 2 & 3. Thus, the eye witnesses account regarding cause of death finds corroboration from the medical evidence on record.

25. There is no delay in lodging the F.I.R. Occurrence took place at 4 p.m. on 26.10.1991 and F.I.R. was lodged at 8. 30 p.m. on the same day, after four hour and thirty minutes. It cannot be said to be inordinate delay.

27. Learned counsel has also drawn attention of this Court towards the absence of motive to commit murder. He urged that the prosecution has failed to prove any motive on the part of the appellants to commit the crime.

28. It is true that there is no mention of motive in F.I.R. about the commission of crime. Even PW-1, PW-2 and P.W. 3 have also not disclosed anything that became the root cause of committing murder by the appellants except conversation started on the part of the appellants and Lalman in relation to construction of the wall belonging to cow shed but it is settled law that merely because the prosecution fails to prove motive for commission of the crime, it must not necessarily result in acquittal of the accused. It is well settled that where ocular evidence is found to be trustworthy and reliable and finds corroboration from the medical evidence, a finding of guilt can safely be recorded even if the motive for the commission of crime has not been proved.

29. In State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Jeet Singh 1999 (38) ACC 550 SC, it was held that no doubt it is a sound principle to remember that every criminal act was done with a motive but it's corollary is not that no offence was committed if the prosecution failed to prove the precise motive of the accused to commit it as it is almost an impossibility for the prosecution to unravel full dimension of the mental deposition of an offender towards the person whom he offended.

30. In Nathuni Yadav and others vs. State of Bihar and others 1997 (34) ACC 576, it was held that motive for committing a criminal act, is generally a difficult area for prosecution as one cannot normally see into the mind of another. Motive is the emotion which impels a man to do a particular act and such impelling cause unnecessarily need not be proportionately grave to grave crimes. It was further held that many murders have been committed without any known or prominent motive and it is quite possible that the aforesaid impelling factor would remain undiscoverable.

31. In our opinion, in the facts and circumstances of the case, the absence of an evidence on the point of motive cannot have any such impact so as to discard the other reliable evidence available on record which certainly establishes the guilt of the accused. In the case of Thaman Kumar vs. State of Union Territory of Chandigarh 2003 (47) ACC 7 the Hon'ble Apex Court has reiterated the same view after taking into consideration the aforementioned cases.

32. The next limb of argument of the learned counsel for the appellants is that the prosecution had examined highly interested and related witnesses and they have not produced any independent witness in support of its case.

33. In the case of Brahm Swaroop and another vs. State of U.P. (2011) 6 SCC 288 the Hon'ble Apex Court in Para No.21 has observed as under "merely because the witnesses were related to the deceased persons, their testimonies cannot be discarded. Their relationship to one of the parties is not a factor that affects the credibility of a witness, more so, a relation would not conceal the real culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. A party has to lay down a factual foundation and prove by leading impeccable evidence in respect of its false implication. However, in such cases the Court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse the evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible evidence."

34. The Court also referred cases of Dalip and others vs. State of Punjab A.I.R. (1953) SC 364; Masalti vs. State of U.P. (A.I.R.) 1965 SC 202.

35. In Masalti vs. State of U.P. (A.I.R.) 1965 SC 202, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed in Para No.14

"but it would, we think, be unreasonably to contend that evidence given by witnesses should be discarded only on the ground that it is evidence of partisan or interested witnesses. The mechanical rejection of such evidence on sole ground that it's partisan would inveriably lead to failure of justice. No hard and fast rule can be laid down as to how much evidence should be appreciated. Judicial approach has to be cautious in dealing with such evidence; but the plea that such evidence should be rejected because it's partisan cannot be accepted as correct.

36. It is common knowledge that village (mohalla) life is faction ridden and involvement of one or the other in the incidents is not unusual. One has also to be cautious about the fact that wholly independent witnesses are seldom available or are otherwise not inclined to comeforth, lest they may invite trouble for themselves for future. Therefore, relationship of eye-witnesses inter se, cannot be a ground to discard their testimony. There is no reason to suppose the false implication of the appellants at the instance of the eye-witnesses. It would also be illogical to think that witnesses would screen the real culprits and substitute the appellants for them.

37. This Court has also made such observations in Para No.14 of Rameshwar and others vs. State 2003 (46) ACC 581.

38. No doubt P.W. 1, the witness of fact examined in instant case, is real son of the deceased but the relationship itself is not a ground to reject the testimony of this witness, rather he would be last person to leave the real culprit and falsely implicate any other person. P.W. 2 is a resident of the same village of the deceased as well as appellants and he is not related to the family of the deceased. Likewise, P.W. 3 is a mason who is resident of another village and was working at the instance of the deceased. He had no interest in either of the party, therefore, he can not be termed as an interested witness. All of the witnesses are natural witnesses. P.Ws. 1 & 3 were present at the time of the incident at the site where they were constructing the wall and P.W. 2 also arrived at the place where the incident took place. They all have identified the accused persons. P.Ws. 1 & 2 being residents of the same village were known to each another. P.W.3 was also resident of the adjacent village located on 1 km. distance. So there is no question of confusion in identification. P.W.1 being relative, it can not be said that he would falsely implicate the appellants in the case, while leaving the real culprits free. There is no suggestion of enmity between the appellants and witnesses and therefore, no reason to implicate them falsely. In this way, these witnesses are wholly reliable & credible. Their testimony cannot be discarded only on the ground that they are relatives of the deceased. The arguments placed by learned counsel for the appellants, in this regard, cannot be accepted.

39. It has also been argued that non-examination of the Investigating Officer has caused prejudice to the defence as it did not get opportunity to cross-examine him. This defect vitiates the whole trial.

40. In the case of Behari Prasad vs. State of Bihar 1996 SCC (2) 317 it was held by the Supreme Court that-

"For non-examination of Investigating Officer, the prosecution case should not fail. We may also indicate here that it will not be correct to contend that if an Investigating Office is not examined in a case, such a case should fail on the ground that the accused were deprived of the opportunity to effectively cross-examine the witnesses for the prosecution and to bring out contradictions in their statements before the police. A case of prejudice likely to be suffered by an accused must depend on the facts of the case and no universal straight jacket formula should be laid down that non-examination of Investigating Officer per se vitiates a criminal trial."

41. In the facts of the present case, it transpires that the involvement of the accused in the incident has been clearly established with the evidence of the eye witnesses P.Ws. 1 to 3. Such evidences are in conformity with the case as made out in F.I.R. and also with the post mortem report.

42. It is also relevant to note that the prosecution witnesses i.e. P.W.1 & P.W.2. have not been confronted with their previous statement as recorded by the Investigating Officer under section 161 Cr.P.C. except P.W.3 Chibilli on some minor issues which are not material to the case. Even regarding the place of occurrence there is no dispute. In this way, it cannot be said that any prejudice had been caused to the defence on account of non-examination of Investigating Officer.

43. From the statements as deposed by the P.Ws. 1, 2 and particularly by P.W. 3, it came out that there was specific role of assault with lathi by appellant Lalji. First he stroke lathi on the deceased when he was making gara (mud mortar) and again when the deceased ran to save his life , Lalji chased him and blowed four strokes with lathi on him which hit on his hand and shoulder. Post mortem report Ext. Ka-2 also supports the aforesaid contention of P.W. 3 Chivilli. In this way, it is established that it was appellant Lalji at whose instance the dispute started and he himself made assault on the deceased with lathi as a result of which the deceased Lalman died.

There is no specific role assigned to other appellants for assault except general allegation that all of the appellants assaulted the deceased but post mortem report Ext. Ka-2 does not support the allegation of assault by more than one person. Thus from the evidence on record it is clearly established beyond reasonable doubt that appellant Lalji caused injury to the deceased as a result of which, he died.

So for as other appellants are concerned, their participation in causing injuries to the deceased cannot be said to be proved beyond reasonable doubt only on the basis of their presence on the spot with Lalji unless there is an act of premeditation of all the accused persons to commit murder of the deceased which is lacking from the very outset and it was only to the extent of preventing the deceased from further construction on the land in dispute.

44. In our opinion, the evidence on record clearly establishes the case of the prosecution against the appellant Lalji beyond any shadow of doubt but not against other accused appellants Shyamji and Pyare. They are entitled for benefit of doubt.

45. The next argument of the learned counsel for the appellants is that the injuries caused to the deceased were not intentional but the incident took place at the spur of the moment during the course of oral altercation in relation to the disputed land when the deceased was heightening the wall and both the parties were claiming the land to be their own on the basis of the lease granted in their favour. The appellants went on the spot to prevent the deceased from making construction but he did not stop the work, upon which both the parties started quarreling and appellants assaulted the deceased with lathi causing injuries on his person, which has resulted in his death. The nature of injuries was simple and except one, all other injuries were not fatal to the life of the deceased. This shows that there was no intention of the appellants to committ murder of the deceased but only to cause simple injuries. Even knowledge can also not be inferred that they knew about the effect of injuries likely to cause death. Thus, there being no premeditation, the offence cannot fall under Section 302 IPC but utmost it may travel to the extent of Section 304 part II IPC.

46. In the case of Pulicherla Nagaraju @ Nagaraja Vs. State of A.P. (2006) 11 SCC 444, the Supreme Court while deciding whether a case falls under Section 302 or 304 part I or 304 part II IPC, held thus:

"Para 29: Therefore, the court should proceed to decide the pivotal question of intention, with care and caution, as that will decide whether the case falls under Section 302 or 304 Part I or 304 Part II. Many petty or insignificant matters plucking of a fruit, straying of a cattle, quarrel of children, utterance of a rude word or even an objectionable glance, may lead to altercations and group clashes culminating in deaths. Usual motives like revenge, greed, jealousy or suspicion may be totally absent in such cases. There may be no intention. There may be no pre-meditation. In fact, there may not even be criminality. At the other end of the spectrum, there may be cases of murder where the accused attempts to avoid the penalty for murder by attempting to put forth a case that there was no intention to cause death. It is for the courts to ensure that the cases of murder punishable under Section 302, are not converted into offences punishable under section 304 Part I/II, or cases of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, are treated as murder punishable under Section 302. The intention to cause death can be gathered generally from a combination of a few or several of the following, among other, circumstances : (i) nature of the weapon used; (ii) whether the weapon was carried by the accused or was picked up from the spot;

(iii) whether the blow is aimed at a vital part of the body; (iv) the amount of force employed in causing injury; (v) whether the act was in the course of sudden quarrel or sudden fight or free for all fight; (vi) whether the incident occurs by chance or whether there was any pre- meditation; (vii) whether there was any prior enmity or whether the deceased was a stranger; (viii) whether there was any grave and sudden provocation, and if so, the cause for such provocation; (ix) whether it was in the heat of passion; (x) whether the person inflicting the injury has taken undue advantage or has acted in a cruel and unusual manner; (xi) whether the accused dealt a single blow or several blows. The above list of circumstances is, of course, not exhaustive and there may be several other special circumstances with reference to individual cases which may throw light on the question of intention. Be that as it may."

47. The Court while determining the question that whether it is culpable homicide or murder has to keep in focus key words used in Section 299 and 300 of IPC. It is the degree of probability of death which determines that whether a case would fall within the ambit of "murder' or "culpable homicide not amounting to murder'. But when there is question as to whether a particular offence would come within the scope of Part-1 or Part-II of the "culpable homicide not amounting to murder', the Court would look into two important elements mentioned in the Section 304 IPC. First element is the intention and other one is the knowledge. When there is a case which involves intention to cause death with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death then the accused would be convicted under the first part of Section 304 IPC. But if the element of intention for causing death is missing and the act is done with the knowledge that it is likely to cause death of the person, then in such a case the accused would be punished under part II of Section 304 IPC

48. Applying the law as laid down by the Supreme Court in the aforesaid decision, it is required to be considered whether the case would fall under Section 302 IPC or any other lesser offence. P.W.1 and P.W. 2 who are the eye witnesses to the incident right from the beginning deposed that when the deceased was heightening the wall of gausala on the land in dispute between the parties, appellants came there with lathies and asked the deceased to stop the work claiming the land being their own lease land which the deceased objected, on this there was hot talk. The appellants assaulted the deceased with lathi who tried to escape then again the appellants surrounded him and beaten him, as a result the decased fell on the ground and died. P.W. 3 Chibilli, the mason gave vivid details in this regard in his cross-examination and stated that appellant Lalji made assault on the deceased and when the deceased tried to escape, Lalji chased and assaulted him with lathi four times. There were injuries on the person of the deceased, lacerated wounds on the head and abrasions on the hand. In the opinion of doctor, injury no. 1, 2 and 3 were on vital parts and as a result of injury no. 2, the patient would have gone into Coma and died.

49. In this case, as noticed above, the appellant Lalji was equipped with lathi, a blunt weapon. There was no previous enmity between the parties. There was dispute relating to goshala land which was being claimed by both of them. The deceased was heightening the walls which was prevented by the accused appellant and there was oral altercation on this issue. In the course of oral altercation, the appellant assaulted the deceased with lathi on his head. The deceased tried to esacpe, the appellant again assaulted him but lathi blows were made on hands, not on head or chest. The circumstances show that there was no premeditation in the mind of appellant to cause death of the deceased or to cause such bodily injury which was likely to cause his death. On account of oral altercation, in the spur of moment, he assaulted the deceased with lathi on his head and again other lathi blows on his hands. Striking lathi on the head can be attributed to have knowledge that the injury was likely to cause death but it was not with the intention to cause such bodly injury which was likely to cause death. The intention of the appellant seemed to be only to prevent the deceased from making further construction on the wall of cow shed (goshala) land. Thus, there appears absence of intention on the part of the appellant but it was only with the knowledge to cause injury likely to cause death which would fall within the ambit of Section 304 Part-II IPC.

50. Thus, we hold that the appellant Lalji guilty under Section 304 Part-II IPC in the place of Section 302 IPC. The appellant is aged about 75 years, the occurrence took place in the year 1991 and he is in jail since 04.03.2021, therefore, to meet the ends of justice, we would like to the reduce sentence of the appellant, to three years rigorous imprisonment in the place of life imprisonment.

51. The appellants Shyamji and Pyare are acquitted of the charges levelled against them while extending them the benefit of doubt. Their conviction and sentence is hereby set aside. They are in jail, so they be released from jail forthwith, if not wanted in any other case.

52. To the extent as aforesaid the judgment and order dated 26.02.1997 as passed by the learned Sessions Judge is hereby modified.

53. Accordingly, this appeal is partly allowed.

54. Copy of this judgment alongwith the original record of Court below be transmitted to the Court concerned for necessary compliance. A compliance report be sent to this Court within one month. Office is directed to keep the compliance report on record.

Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Service/Education Law – Recruitment – Reservation - The U.P. Basic Education Act, 1972: Section 19(1), 19(2)(a) and (c); U.P. Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules, 1981: Rule 9*;* U.P. Basic Education (Teachers) Service (20th Amendment) Rules, 2017: Rule 2(w), 14, 14(3), 14(3)(b); Appendix-I of Twentieth Amendment of Uttar Pradesh Basic Shiksha (Teachers) Rules, 1981; Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009: Section 23(1); National Council for Teachers Education Act, 1993; The Uttar Pradesh Public Services (Reservation for Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Classes) Act, 1994: Section 3(6) - If a candidate is entitled to be admitted on the basis of his own merit then such admission should not be counted against the quota reserved for Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe or any other reserved category since that will be against the Constitutional mandate enshrined in Article 16(4). (Para 111)

The mere fact that some relaxation was given in the pass marks in the TET did not give any advantage to the reserve category candidate as it only enabled them to compete with others by allowing them to participate in the selection process. (Para 126)

Concession granted at the level of TET, so as to make a candidate eligible to participate in the open competition, like the ATRE-2019 would not debar a reserved category candidate to be excluded from the consideration zone in the open competition, in case he is able to match and score more marks than the last general category candidate in the open category as the competition has not yet started at that point of time. However, in case a candidate seeks relaxation of marks in passing in the ATRE-2019, obviously he would not be considered to belonging to a meritorious reserved category as not only the competition has started but this relaxation would mean reservation. (Para 151)

Any reserved category candidate, who has obtained 65% marks or more can be considered to be a meritorious reserved category candidate and accordingly allowed to compete with the general category candidate and progress to the open category, whereas a reserved category candidate, who has scored less than 65% and more than 60% in the ATRE-2019 would be considered in their own respective category and would not be allowed to progress into consideration zone with general category candidates on the basis of scoring more in the quality point as per Appendix-1 of the rules. The above proposition simply put may be understood as under:

(i) Any candidate belonging to a reserved category, who has availed relaxation of marks in ATRE-2019, which has been held to be an open competition, shall not be entitled to migrate from their respective category to the unreserved category while preparing the select list as per the quality points in terms of Appendix -1 of the rules.
(ii) Further, those candidate's, whether reserved or unreserved, scoring more than 65% marks in ATRE-2019 shall be encompassed within the consideration zone of the open category and a select list shall be accordingly prepared of these candidates separately on the quality points and accordingly 50% of the total seats shall be filled by these candidates, irrespective of whether they belong to reserved or unreserved category.
(iii) The balance 50% shall be filled by candidates from their respective reserved category as envisaged under section 3(1) of the Reservation Act.
(iv) Thereafter, the horizontal reservation as provided in the Government order should be applied accordingly, if any. (Para 152)

B. Allocating the districts of preference to MRC candidates - MRC candidates have to be only treated "notionally" as reserve category candidates for the said purpose for allotment of districts and they can opt for a seat earmarked for the reserved category, so as to not disadvantage him against less meritorious reserved category candidates. Such MRC shall be treated as part of the general category only. Further, due to the MRC's choice, one reserved category seat being occupied, and one seat among the choices available to general category candidates remains unoccupied. Consequently, one lesser-ranked reserved category candidate who had choices among the reserved category is affected as he does not get any choice anymore and as such to remedy the situation i.e. to provide the affected candidate a remedy, the seat which would have been allotted to MRC, had he not opted for a seat meant for the reserved category to which he belongs, shall now be filled up by that candidate in the reserved category list who stands to lose out by the choice of the MRC, which would leave the percentage of reservation at 50% undisturbed. (Para 153)

C. Words and Phrases – 'competition' – 'open competition' - The term 'competition' muchless 'open competition' has not been defined under the Reservation Act. The Cambridge Dictionary, defines "competition" to mean "an organized event in which people try to win a prize by being the best, fastest, etc. Similarly, Encyclopaedia Britannica has defined "Competition" to be an act or process of trying to get or win something (such as a prize or a higher level of success) that someone else is also trying to get or win. Thus, in common parlance, the meaning of competition would be an event or a process, wherein each person is trying to win by being the best. Therefore, an open competition as could be understood, relevant to the context, would be a competition which is open to one and all, wherein the participants are trying to win by being the best and in that process the participants have not availed any concession or privilege. Thus, in the said open competition, the best is chosen from the rest. The parameters applicable to all of them are one and equal and they are adjudged on the same scale of merit and most importantly, "level playing field" is afforded in the said open competition. (Para 102)

In the peculiar facts of the present case and purely to balance to equity, this court in exercise of its Jurisdiction u/Article 226 of the Constitution of India directs that till the time the respondents prepare the revised list, the candidates already appointed and presently working as Assistant Teachers in various district shall continue to work in their post till such period and shall be not disturbed, keeping in mind the examination period and the end of education session. The appointment of those teachers, who do not find any place in the revised list as has been directed herein above and who had been appointed as per the select list of 01.06.2020 was purely fortuitous and does not entail any right in them. The said direction is in conformity to the interim order dated 7th of December, 2020, wherein this court while issuing notice to the affected persons directed that, in the meantime, appointments made on the post of Assistant Teacher shall be subject to the final decision of these petitions. (Para 155)

Since, it has been directed that the select list dated 01.06.2020 to be revised in view of the observation made in this Judgment, the select list of 6800 dated 05.01.2022 stands quashed. Reservation should not be in any circumstances more than 50% of the total seats. (Para 158, 159)

Writ petitions disposed of. (E-4)

A. Introduction

1. Reservation is a form of affirmative action that provides predetermined representation in education, employment, government schemes, scholarships and political representation to a disadvantaged group. The system of reservation existed in India even before independence. Post-independence the system of reservation came to be imbibed in our Constitution. Initially, it was introduced for a time span of 10 years as per Article 334 of the constitution of India. Post 10-year period, the parliament found the necessity to continue the system of reservation to overcome many years of societal and cultural discrimination of certain sections of society and as such it continues to hold the ground even after 75 years of Independence.

2. Under our Constitution, reservations do not refer to the sharing of state power by all social groups, but rather it refers to inclusion of subordinated and marginalised groups, who were socially and culturally backwards due to various reasons to be included in the main-stream. Thus, the reservation in that sense, in our constitution, means an inclusive remedy for upliftment of these downtrodden and essentially is participatory in nature, so that the backward classes are not only brought at par to the main-stream, but they also play an active role in the development, administration, progressive equality and achievement of our country.

3. While Article 15 of our constitution relates to reservation in Education Institutions, Article 16 relates to reservation in public employment. Interestingly, the word "backward" used in both the Articles are of utmost significance and that is the word, which has found itself in the epicentre of controversy, ever since the Article existed. Although, it was the Drafting Committee under the Chairmanship of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar that inserted the word "backward" in between the words "in favour of any" and "class of citizens" as mentioned in Article 16(4) of our constitution and eventually it was left to the respective states to determine as to who could be called backward. However, the meaning of the word "Backward" as should be understood in today's progressive India could be found from the explanation of Shri K.M. Munshi, who was a member of the drafting committee of our constitution. In a debate in the constituent assembly relating to Article 16 of our constitution (which was originally introduced as Article 10), after the discussion proceeded for some time relating to the insertion of the word "backward" and it was contended by the members of the constituent assembly that the said word was vague, Sri K.M. Munshi, rose to the occasion to explain the content of the word 'backward' in the following words:

"What we want to secure by this clause are two things. In the fundamental right in the first clause we want to achieve the highest efficiency in the services of the State-highest efficiency which would enable the services to function effectively and promptly. At the same time, in view of the conditions in our country prevailing in several provinces, we want to see that backward class, classes who are really backward, should be given scope in the State services; for it is realised that State services give a status and an opportunity to serve the country, and this opportunity should be extended to every community, even among the backward people. That being so, we have to find out some generic term and the word "backward class" was the best possible term."

Sri Munshi proceeded to state:

I may point out that in the province of Bombay for several years now, there has been a definition of backward classes, which includes not only Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes but also other backward classes who are economically, educationally, and socially backward. We need not, therefore, define or restrict the scope of the word "backward" to a particular community. Whoever is backward will be covered by it and I think the apprehensions of the Honourable Members are not justified.

4. The reservation extended on the basis of "economic criterion' is one such step, wherein poverty is visualized as a form of subordination that reflects "social backwardness'. Be that as it may, the larger debate would always remain as to whether this reservation should be the end of the story or the government is required to take other remedial action beyond welfare policies. However, to the mind of this court, reservation should not be envisaged as an end to the problem but merely a means to secure the social, economic and political justice as enshrined in our Preamble.

5. As has been recently held by the Hon'ble Apex Court, while upholding the constitutionality of providing 10% EWS Quota to economically weaker section, which is as under:

"Reservation is not an end but a means -- a means to secure social and economic justice. Reservation should not be allowed to become a vested interest. Real solution, however, lies in eliminating the causes that have led to the social, educational and economic backwardness of the weaker sections of the community".

Hon'ble Justice P.B. Pardiwala, who formed the majority view which upheld the 10% EWS quota recently in "Janhit Abhiyan V/s Union of India" decided on 7th December, 2022 by Hon'ble Supreme Court of India.

6. The observation in the constitutional Bench judgment of Indra Shawney case, AIR 1993 SC 477, makes it amply clear that the objective behind reservation was the sharing of State power. The said Judgment observes that the State power which was almost exclusively monopolised by the upper castes i.e., a few communities, was now sought to be made broad-based, wherein the backward communities who were till then kept out of apparatus of power, were sought to be inducted there into and since that was not practicable in the normal course, a special provision was made to effectuate the said objective. In short, the objective behind Article 16(4) was empowerment of the deprived backward communities- to give them a share in the administrative apparatus and in the governance of the community.

7. The present bunch of matters stems out of a dispute relating to the nuances of implementation of reservation policy to the recruitment of Assistant Teachers in the primary school run by the state Government, wherein the primary issue is relating to migration of Meritorious reserved category (MRC) candidates to the open category and its consequences both the reserved category as well as the unreserved category. Before this court delves into the facts & issue in the present cases, it would be profitable to trace the law holding the ground relating to the recruitment process of the Assistant Teachers in the primary school with emphasis on the reservation policy of the state of Uttar Pradesh.

B. Recruitment Law, Rules & Amendment

8. The U.P. Basic Education Act, 1972 (hereinafter referred as the "Act") is the primary law dealing with the basic education in the State of Uttar Pradesh. Section 19(1) of the Act empowers the state to make rules for carrying out the purposes of the Act and Section 19(2)(a) & (c) of the Act empowers the state to make rules relating to the recruitment and condition of service of the persons appointed to the post of Teachers. Thus, the state framed the rules for selection to the recruitment of Assistant Teachers in the primary school run by the state Government vide the U.P. Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules, 1981 (hereinafter referred as the "Rules"), wherein Rule 8 of the said rules prescribed the minimum requisite qualification for appointment of Assistant Teachers of the parishad.

9. Shorn of the various details of the Act and rules framed therein, this court keeping in mind the issue raised by the writ petitioners in this bunch of matter, finds that the State Government notified UP Basic (Teachers) Service (20th Amendment) Rules, 2017 amending 1981 Rules on 09.11.2017 and the following expressions were defined in Rule 2 as under:

"(s) "Teacher Eligibility Test" means the Teacher Eligibility Test conducted by the Government or by the Government of India;

(t) "Qualifying marks in Teacher Eligibility Test" Qualifying marks in Teacher Eligibility Test will be such as may be prescribed from time to time by the National Council for Teacher Education, New Delhi;

(u) "Trainee teacher" means a candidate who has passed B.Ed./B.Ed. (Special Education)/D.Ed. (Special Education) and has also passed the teacher eligibility test and has been selected for eventual appointment as assistant teacher in Junior Basic School after successful completion of six months special training programme in elementary education recognised by National Council for Teacher Education (NCTE);

(v) "Shiksha Mitra" means a person working as such in junior basic schools run by Basic Shiksha Parishad under the Government Orders prior to the commencement of Uttar

Or a person who has been a Shiksha Mitra and appointed as an Assistant Teacher in Junior Basic Schools run by Basic Shiksha Parishad and reverted to work as Shiksha Mitra in pursuance of the judgment of the Apex Court in SLP No. 32599/2015 State of U.P. and others v. Anand Kumar Yadav and others.

(w) "Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination" means a written examination conducted by the Government for recruitment of a person in junior basic schools run by Basic Shiksha Parishad;

(x) "Qualifying Marks of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination" means such minimum marks as may be determined from time to time by the Government.

(y) "Guidelines of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination" means such guidelines as may be determined from time to time by the Government."

10. Thus, the concept of ATRE (Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination) came into existence by the promulgation of 20th Amendment and the sources of recruitment of Assistant teachers as set out in Rule 5(a)(ii), inter-alia stated that the same shall be by direct recruitment as provided in Rule 14. Further, rule 8(1) dealing with the requirement of Academic qualifications of Assistant Teachers, stated as herein under:

"8. Academic Qualifications-(1) The essential qualifications of candidates for appointment to a post referred to in clause (a) of Rule 5 shall be as shown below against each:

Post	Academic Qualifications
(i) Mistresses of Nursery School	Bachelors degree from a University established by law in India or a degree recognised by the Government equivalent thereto together with Certificate of teaching (Nursery) from recognised training institution of Uttar Pradesh and any other training course recognised by the Government as equivalent thereto and teacher eligibility test passed conducted by the Government or by the Government of India
(ii) Assistant Master and Assistant Mistresses of Junior Basic Schools	ii.(a) Bachelors degree from a University established by law in India or a degree recognised by the Government equivalent thereto together with any other training course recognised by the Government as equivalent thereto together with the training qualification consisting of a Basic Teacher's Certificate (BTC), two years BTC (Urdu) Vishisht BTC, two-year Diploma in Education (Special Education) approved by Rehabilitation council of India or four year Degree in Elementary Education (B.El.Ed.), two years Diploma in Elementary Education (by whatever name known) in accordance with the National Council of Teacher of Education (Recognition, Norms and Procedure), Regulation or any training qualifications to be added by National Council for Teacher Education for the recruitment of teachers in primary education and Teacher eligibility test passed conducted by the Government of India and passed Assistant Teacher recruitment Examination conducted by the Government. (b) A trainee Teacher who has completed successfully six months special training programme in elementary education recognized by National Council for Teacher Education. However, in case of B.Ed. (Special Education)/D.Ed.(Special Education) a course recognised by Rehabilitation Council of India (RCI) only shall be considered

11. Similarly, UP Basic (Teachers) Service (20th Amendment) Rules, 2017 as far as Rule 14 is concerned, dealt with determination of vacancies and preparation of list. The said rule inter-alia stated:

"14. Determination of vacancies and preparation of list-

(1) (a) In respect of appointment, by direct recruitment to the post of Mistress of Nursery Schools and Assistant Master or Assistant Mistress of Junior Basic Schools under clause (a) of Rule 5, the appointing authority shall determine the number of vacancies as also the number of vacancies to be reserved for candidates belonging to Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes, Backward Classes, and other categories under Rule 9 and published in at least two leading daily newspapers having adequate circulation in the State as well as in concerned district inviting applications from candidates possessing prescribed training qualification and teacher eligibility test passed, conducted by the Government or by the Government of India and passed Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination conducted by the Government.

Provided that if two or more candidates obtain equal marks, the candidate senior in age shall be placed higher.

(b) The names of candidates in the list prepared under sub-rule (2) in accordance with clause (b) of sub-rule (1) of Rule 14 shall then be arranged in such manner that the candidate shall be arranged in accordance with the quality points specified in the Appendix-II:

(c) The names of candidates in the list prepared in accordance with clause (c) sub-rule (1) of Rule 14 for appointment as assistant teacher shall be same as the list prepared under clause (b) subrule (3) of Rule 14 unless the candidate under the said list is unable to successfully complete the six months special training course in elementary education in his first attempt. If the candidate successfully completes the six months special training in his second and final attempt, the candidate's name shall be placed under the names of all those candidates who have completed the said six months special training in their first attempt.

(4) No person shall be eligible for appointment unless his or her name is included in the list prepared under sub-rule (2).

(5) The list prepared under sub-rule (2) and arranged in accordance with clause (a) and (b) of sub-rule (3) of Rule 14 shall be forwarded by the appointing authority to the selection committee."

12. Appendix I referable to Rule 14(3)(a) and Appendix II referable to Rule 14(3)(b) as amended by the 20th Amendment were as under: -

"APPENDIX-I
[See Rule 14 (3)(a)]
Quality points and weightage for selection of candidates

	Name of Examination/ Degree	Quality points
1.	High School	Percentage of Marks in the examination x 10 / 100
2.	Intermediate	Percentage of Marks in the examination x 10 / 100
3.	Graduation Degree	Percentage of Marks in the examination x 10 / 100
4.	B.T.C Training	B.T.C Training
5.	Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination	Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination
6.	Weightage Teaching experiences as shikshamitra or/as teacher working as such in junior basic schools run by Basic Shiksha Parishad.	2.5 marks per completed teaching year, up to maximum 25 marks, whichever is less

Notes 1 - If two or more candidates have equal quality points, the name of the candidate who is senior in age shall be placed higher in the list.

2. If two or more candidates have equal quality points and age, the name of the candidate shall be placed in the list in English alphabetical order."

"APPENDIX-II
[See Rule 14 (3)(b)]
Quality points for selection of candidates

	Name of Examination/ Degree	Quality points
1.	High School	Percentage of Marks / 10
2.	Intermediate	Percentage of Marks x 2 / 10
3.	Graduation Degree	Percentage of Marks x 4 / 10
4.	Bachelor of Education (B.Ed.)/B.Ed. (Special Education)/B. Ed. (Special Education)	Percentage of Marks x 3 / 10

Note - If two or more candidates have equal quality points the name of the candidate who is senior in age shall be placed higher in the list. If two or more candidates have equal quality point; and age, the name of the candidate shall be placed in the list in English alphabetical order."

13. Thus, as per Rule 2(w), introduced by the 20th amendment in the rules, the ATRE was introduced, which this court finds was the basis of conducting the ATRE-2018. Further, as per the amended rules, it was envisaged to be qualifying in nature and also its marks was to be included in the final merit list prepared for the purposes of selection. Thus, a two-tier system for selection was introduced, wherein firstly the candidates were to undergo and pass ATRE and only those who passed the said ATRE exam, were made eligible to participate in the selection process and the number scored in the said ATRE was given due weightage for preparing the final merit list (60% of ATRE score) from which eventually the final selection was made by the state.

14. It is significant to note that although the Rules mandated that it was an essential qualification for appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher in basic schools, (i) to have passed Teachers Eligibility Test (hereinafter referred as the "TET") and (ii) also to pass ATRE examination held for the selection in question by the Basic Education Board, U.P., Allahabad, however, the passing of Teachers Eligibility Test was merely qualifying in nature as the marks obtained in the said Test was not included at the time of preparation of the final list, whereas ATRE was not only qualifying but the marks obtained in the said examination was also included in the preparation of the final merit list.

15. On 15.03.2018, by 22nd Amendment, 1981 Rules were amended removing the requirement of passing of ATRE from the essential qualifications contained in Rule 8. However, the requirement was retained in Rule 14 dealing with the procedure for selection of Assistant Teachers. The relevant part of Rule 8(1) dealing with Academic Qualifications for "Assistant Master and Assistant Mistresses of Junior Basic Schools", after the 22nd amendment read as follows: -

"ii. (a) Bachelor's degree from a university established by law in India or a degree recognised by the Government equivalent thereto together with any other training course recognized by the Government as equivalent thereto together with the training qualification consisting of a Basic Teacher's Certificate (BTC), two year BTC (Urdu) Vishisht BTC. Two-year Diploma in Education (Special Education) approved by the Rehabilitation Council of India or four year degree in Elementary Education (B.El.Ed.), two year Diploma in Elementary Education (by whatever name known) in accordance with the National Council of Teacher Education (Recognition, Norms and Procedure) Regulations, 2002 or any training qualifications to be added by National Council for Teacher Education for the recruitment of teachers in primary education.

And

Teacher eligibility test passed conducted by the Government or by the Government of India."

Thus, as far as ATRE is concerned, the same being an essential qualification was done away with the 22nd Amendment, although it continued to be a part of rule 14 dealing with the selection process.

16. On 24.01.2019, 23rd Amendment to 1981 Rules was published. By this Amendment, the essential qualifications in Rule 8(ii) were substituted as under: -

"(ii)(a) Bachelors degree from a University established by law in India or a degree recognized by the Government equivalent thereto together with any other training course recognised by the Government as equivalent thereto together with the training qualification consisting of a Basic Teacher's Certificate (BTC), two year BTC (Urdu) Vishisht BTC. Two year Diploma in Education (Special Education) approved by Rehabilitation council of India or four year Degree in Elementary Education (B.El.Ed.), two year Diploma in Elementary Education (by whatever name known) in accordance with the National Council of Teacher Education (Recognition, Norms and Procedure), Regulations 2002, Graduation with at least fifty percent marks and Bachelor of Education (B.Ed.), provided that the person so appointed as a teacher shall mandatorily undergo a six month Bridge Course in Elementary Education recognised by the NCTE, within two years of such appointment as primary teacher or any training qualifications to be added by National Council of Teacher Education for the recruitment of teachers in primary education.

And

Teacher eligibility test passed conducted by the Government or by the Government of India."

Thus, consequently, Graduates having 50 per cent or more marks and holding a degree of Bachelor of Education (B.Ed.) became eligible for posts of Assistant Master and Assistant Mistresses in Junior Basic Schools in the manner laid down in the Amendment. The concerned provisions in 1981 Rules dealing with eligibility of such candidates were given retrospective effect from 01.01.2018.

17. On 07.03.2019, 24th Amendment to 1981 Rules was published further amending Rule 8(ii) by adding sub-clause (aa) after sub-clause (a) to the following effect:-

"(aa) Graduation with at least fifty percent marks and Bachelor of Education (B.Ed.), provided that the person so appointed as a teacher shall mandatorily undergo a six month Bridge Course in Elementary Education recognised by the NCTE, within two years of such appointment as primary teacher or any training qualifications to be added by National Council of Teacher Education for the recruitment of teacher in primary education, and teacher eligibility test passed conducted by the Government or by the Government of India."

This Amendment gave retrospective effect to sub clause (aa) of Rule 8(ii) from 28.06.2018.

18. On 14.06.2019, 25th Amendment to 1981 Rules was published. By this Amendment, Appendix I which was referable to Rule 14(3)(a) was amended as under:

"APPENDIX-I
Quality points and weightage for selection of candidates

1.	Name of Examination/ Degree	Quality points
2.	High School	Percentage of Marks in the examination x 10 100
3.	Intermediate	Percentage of Marks in the examination x 10 100
4.	Graduation Degree	Percentage of Marks in the examination x 10 100
5.	Training Qualification of Rule	Percentage of Marks in the examination x 10 100
6.	Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination	Percentage of Marks in the examination x 60 100
7.	Weightage Teaching experiences as shikshamitra or/as teacher working as such in junior basic schools run by Basic Shiksha Parishad.	2.5 marks per completed teaching year, up to maximum 25 marks, whichever is less

Notes 1 - If two or more candidates have equal quality points, the name of the candidate who is senior in age shall be placed higher in the list.

2. If two or more candidates have equal quality points and age, the name of the candidate shall be placed in the list in English alphabetical order."

19. Appendix II, referable to Rule 14(3)(b) was omitted by the same Amendment. Resultantly, Appendix I as it now stands after said Amendment, is the only and common Appendix for both the sources referred to in Rule 14.

C. Reservation Law, Rules & Amendment

20. The Uttar Pradesh Public Services (Reservation for Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Classes) Act, 1994 is the primary act as far as reservation to scheduled castes, tribes and Other Backward classes is concerned in the state of Uttar Pradesh. There had been amendment in the said Act in 2002 and 2007 and section 3(1) & 3(6) of the Act as on date is as follows:

(a)	in the case of Scheduled Castes	Twenty-one per cent;
(b)	in the case of Scheduled Tribes	Two per cent;
(c)	in case of Other Backward Classes of citizens	Twenty-seven per cent:

Provided that the reservation under clause (c) shall not apply to the category of Other Backward Classes of citizens specified in Schedule II:

(6) If a person belonging to any of the categories mentioned in subsection (1) gets selected on the basis of merit in an open competition with general candidates, he shall not be adjusted against the vacancies reserved for such category under sub-section (1).

(7) XXXX

21. There have bene various instructions & circulars issued by the Government from time to time. However, the instructions dated 25.3.1994 issued by State of Uttar Pradesh, relevant to the context on the subject of reservation for scheduled casts/scheduled tribes/other back groups in Uttar Pradesh Public Services, the portion of which is being quoted as herein below:-

"4. If any person belonging to reserved categories is selected on the basis of merits in open competition along with general category candidates, then he will not be adjusted towards reserved category, that is, he shall be deemed to have been adjusted against the unreserved vacancies. It shall be immaterial that he has availed any facility or relaxation (like relaxation in age limit) available to reserved category."

22. As far as the reservation to Assistant teachers is concerned, Rule 9 of the said U.P. Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules is of specific significance in the context as it provides provision for Reservation in accordance with the Uttar Pradesh Act and the orders of the State Government in force at the time of recruitment, i.e. the U.P. Public Services (Reservation for Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Classes) Act, 1994 as well as the various instruction & orders issued by the State.

D. The Asst. Teacher Recruitment Examination-2019 (ATRE- 2019)

23. The state vide Government Order dated 01.12.2018 notified the 2nd ATRE ("ATRE-2019", for short) for filling up 69,000 vacancies of Assistant Teachers. Paragraphs 1, 4.1 and 4.2 of the Annexure to the G.O. were:-

"In the schools managed by the Basic Education Department the teachers imparting education have major role in the development of girls and boys studying in the schools. It has been therefore decided that in order to fill the vacant seats of the teachers in the primary schools a state level Assistant Teachers Recruitment Examination will be conducted.

Only those candidates who are graduate, trained and those who have passed the Teachers Eligibility Test will be eligible to appear in the said examination.

4. The minimum qualification, age and residence for the application:-

(1) In Rule 8 of the Uttar Pradesh Basic Education (Teachers) Service (22nd Amendment) Rules, 2018 the described educational, training passed, Government of India or by the State Government the organized Teachers Eligibility Examination (Primary Level) passed candidates will be eligible for filing the application in the Assistant Teachers Recruitment Examination, 2019.

(2) By the National Teachers Education Council, New Delhi the Minimum Qualification with regard to the Class1 to Class-5 the issued Notification dated 23.08.2010, 29.07.2011, 12.11.2014 and 28.11.2014 (has been described in Appendix-2 in preamble 1.2) and on 28.06.2018 fixed eligible candidates are entitled to file application in the Assistant Teachers Recruitment Examination, 2019."

24. Further, an advertisement came to be issued by the state on 29.12.2018 notifying that ATRE-2019 would be conducted on 06.01.2019.

25. ATRE-2019 was conducted on 06.01.2019 without there being any specification of minimum qualifying marks. However, this court finds that on the very next day i.e on 07.01.2019, the Government fixed the minimum qualifying marks for ATRE-2019 to the following effect:

(a) For the candidates of General Category, candidates getting 97 marks of the total 150 meaning 65% and more will be considered passed for "Assistant Teacher Recruitment Exam 2019'

(b) For the candidates of all other Reserved Categories, candidates getting 90 marks of the total 150 meaning 60 percent and more will be considered passed for "Assistant Teacher Recruitment Exam 2019'

26. That state Government vide the said letter dated 07.01.2019, while fixing the minimum qualifying marks also mentioned that candidates qualified on the basis of aforesaid qualifying marks will be eligible to apply against the 69000 vacancies advertised and on qualifying merely on the basis of aforesaid minimum marks will not have any claim for recruitment because this exam is only one of the eligible standards for recruitment. Further, in case of more candidates qualifying than the prescribed number of posts (69000), of the total qualified candidates, eligible candidates will be selected on the basis of final merit list against the advertised posts in accordance with Appendix-I of twentieth Amendment of Uttar Pradesh Basic Shiksha (teachers) Rules, 1981. Thus, remaining candidates will automatically be out of the selection process and they will not have any claim based on the "Assistant Teacher Recruitment Exam 2019'.

27. However, it appears that the said fixing of the minimum qualifying marks was challenged by some Shiksha Mitra challenging the above said G.O dated 07.01.2019 before this High Court, wherein although a Single bench of this court passed an order staying operation of the said G.O, however the said order was set-aside by a Division Bench of this court. The said controversy was carried to the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the controversy was set at rest in a bunch of SLPs & writ petitions, the lead case being "Ram Sharan Maurya & Ors V/s State of U.P & Ors." (2020) SCC Online 939. The Hon'ble

Supreme Court taking note of the rights of Shiksha Mitra and benefits conferred upon them by an earlier decision of the Apex court in State of U.P and another V/s Anand Kumar Yadav and Others (2018) 13 SCC 560, affirmed the view taken by the Division Bench of this court and concluded that the fixation of cut off at 65-60%, even after the examination was over by the state government, cannot be held to be impressible. The Supreme Court held that the Government was well within its rights to fix such a cut off and as such dismissed the bunch of appeals filed by the Shiksha Mitra and others.

28. In the meantime, the result for ATRE-2019, was declared by the Examining Body on 12.05.2020, wherein about 4,31,466 number of candidates got registered themselves, out of which 4,09,530 candidates appeared in the Examination and about 1,46,060 candidates were declared successful.

29. After declaration of the said result, vide order dated 13.05.2020, the State Government further accorded the permission for completing the selection process for appointment on the 69000 posts of Assistant Teacher in terms of the relevant rules and government orders.

30. That, in light of the Government order dated 13.05.2020, the Basic Education Board, U.P., Allahabad published advertisement seeking preference of district for selection of 69,000 assistant teachers on the basis of the result of ATRE 2019, vide advertisement dated 16.05.2020.

31. That, it is relevant to mention here that the Basic Education Board, U.P., Allahabad had issued guidelines on 18.05.2020, which stipulated in para l(iii) that the laws relating to reservation as applicable in state of UP as well as the various Government orders having been issued by the Government in this regard would apply to the said selection list.

32. The Basic Education Board, U.P., Allahabad published the final select list on 01.06.2020 and the same was uploaded on the official website of the Respondents, on the basis of the quality points of the qualified candidates as per Appendix - I of the Rules, in which final districts were also allotted to the selected candidates as per the preference exercised by them.

33. The said final select list dated 01.06.2020 was mired with controversy and various writ petitions came to be filed interdicting the said list both by the open category candidates as well as the reserved category candidates, with a common ground of defective application of the reservation policy, including non-compliance of section 3(6) of the U.P. Public Services (Reservation for Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Classes) Act, 1994 dealing with the migration of MRC candidates to the General Category.

34. During the pendency of the aforesaid Writ Petitions, two sub select-list of selected candidates, first for 31,277 candidates on dated 11.10.2020 and a second list for 36,590 candidates on dated 30.11.2020 was issued out of the total post of 69000, wherein 1133 post of Scheduled Tribe was left vacant due to non-availability of ST candidates. Further, out of the total selected candidates, some candidates could not join and as such, a third list of sub select-list dated 26.06.2021 was issued for absorbing 6696 candidates.

35. Notably, the Secretary, U.P Basic Education Board, Pryagraj in a Writ Petition No. 1389 (S/S) of 2021 (titled Jawahar Lal & Ors V/s State of Uttar Pradesh) field an Affidavit dated 11.07.2021 stating that the entire process of selection for recruitment of 69000 Assistant Teachers has been completed and there was no vacancy available on that time.

36. Further, two writ petitions being No. 52/2021(Vinod Kr. Singh Vs State of U.P) and No. 760/2021(Shivam Pandey& Ors. V/s State of U.P) came to be filed under Article 32 of the Constitution of India by candidates who had appeared & participated in the ATRE-2019, requesting the Hon'ble Apex Court to consider the vacancies arising out of the earlier section process i.e ATRE-2018 to be added to the present selection. However, the Hon'ble Apex Court refusing to accede to the request of the said petitioners dismissed their writ petitions vide an order dated 01.02.2021 and 29.06.2021 respectively.

37. Although, there were no vacant seats left as far as ATRE-2019 was concerned and moreover the Hon'ble Apex Court has refused to consider the vacancy arising out of the earlier recruitment process (i.e seats left vacant in ATRE-2018) to be included in the present ATRE-2019, the State held a press meeting and announced that affected candidates of reserved category would be recruited for healing of discrepancies made in the recruitment process of ATRE-2019, by the remaining vacancies of ATRE-2018. Thus, the State, without rectifying the mistake in the list of 69000, issued a fourth select list of 6800 candidates of reserved category. Thus, a second leg of controversy was stirred, wherein the said fourth select list dated 05.01.2022 came to be issued making provisions for appointment of about 6800 reserved category candidates. Obviously, this select list also came to be challenged before this court by both the open category candidates as well as the reserved category candidates, wherein the open category candidates contended that the select list could not have been issued for reserved category candidates only and in any case the same could not had been over and above the number of seats advertised for ATRE-2019 as it also effected their future prospect, whereas the reserved category candidates contended that the select list was not correct as there were approximately 18988 reserved category candidates, who deserved to be appointed upon the ouster of same number of unreserved candidates and the very issuance of select list of 6800 of reserved category candidates without ouster of same number of candidates from the open category was in violation of the Reservation Act, 1994 and the same amounts to acceptance of error by the government in implementing the reservation policy. Thus, they contended that, even after adjusting 6800 reserved category candidates, at least 13000 reserved category candidates still deserved to be considered for appointment as according to them the total number of vacant/ left-over seats were 27,737 from the earlier section process i.e ATRE-2018 and as such there are still vacant seats available for the post of Assistant Teachers.

38. Yet, some petitions came to be filed by reserved category candidates, who found place in the select list of 6800 dated 05.01.2022, seeking implementation of the said list by the Government.

E. Categories of the Writ Petitions

39. Broadly, the bunch of matters, as has been agreed upon by the Ld. Counsels during the hearing, can be classified into five categories:

(A) First is the category where the select list of selection of 69000 teachers has been challenged by candidates belonging to the "reserved category" on the ground that those reserved category candidates who belong to "Meritorious Reserved Category" (MRC), thereby entitling them to be placed in unreserved category have not been so placed but have been treated as belonging to reserved category in violation of Section 3(1) & Section 3(6) of the Reservation Act, 1994. Thus, a prayer has been made to quash the select list dated 01.06.2020, in so far as the same relates to selection of MRC in the reserved category and not in the open category. Further, prayer has been made to quash the order dated 05.01.2022, by virtue of which permission has been granted by the state for appointment of 6800 "reserved category candidates" only over and above the 69000 vacancies of assistant teachers advertised on 05.12.2018 & 16.05.2020. (C) Third category of Writ petitions comprises of petitions where the select list of 6800 reserved category candidates, has been sought to be challenged on various grounds, including that there future prospect of participating in the ATRE examination was being curtailed by filling 6800 post over & above the advertised seats of 69000. These petitioners either were unsuccessful in the ATRE-2019 or had become eligible after the conduct of ATRE-2019 Examination. The following writ petitions would be placed under this category:

1.	WRIT-A-323/ 2022	Bharti Patel & 5 Others
2.	WRIT-A-1713/2022	Anil Kushwaha & 8 Others

(D) Fourth category of Writ petition comprises those petitions where the horizontal reservation relating to providing the earmarked 4% prescribed quota for physically handicapped category of candidates have not been considered, while preparing the merit list. Most of the writ petitions under this category have been withdrawn on the ground of becoming infrcutous. The issue raised in this writ petitions were neither argued during the time of hearing nor these writ petitions were pressed during hearing. However, these writ petitions are mentioned herein to complete the chain and are being disposed of by this common order. The following writ petitions are placed under this category:

1.	WRIT-A-13792	Ram Kishor & Ors.

They have prayed that although there named have been mentioned in the select list, but they had not been appointed in view of the pending litigation, which is adversely affecting their service prospect and benefits. The following writ petitions would be placed under this category:

1.	WRIT-A-7576/ 2022	Krisha Chandra & Ors.

F. Interim orders

40. Various interim orders came to passed during the pendency of these Writ Petitions, including a stay to the select list of 6800 dated 05.01.2022. This court vide an order dated 25.08.2020 passed in Writ-A-13156 of 2020 (Mahendra Pal & Ors V/s State of Uttar Pradesh & Ors.), also the lead matter of the first category has passed the following order:

".....In these circumstances, it is directed that a master counter affidavit in this case shall be filed and while filing the counter affidavit in this case, a copy of the same shall be furnished to the learned counsel representing the other similar writ petitions. There will be no requirement of separate counter affidavit to be filed on behalf of the respondents in other matters and counter affidavit which may be filed in this case shall be treated to be counter affidavit in other similar matters as well. ....."

41. Thus, it was directed that one counter-affidavit be filed in the aforesaid lead matter, which was to be construed as a counter of the respondent in all the bunch of matters.

42. Further, this court in the same Writ Petition as mentioned supra vide an order dated 17.03.2021 has observed as follows:

".....The contention Shri Upendra Nath Mishra, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioners is that 28,000/- reserved category candidates, who had secured more than 67.11 marks which was the cut off for the general category, were not adjusted in the general category select list but were maintained in the reserved list contrary to Section 3(6) of the Reservation Act, 1994 and the law laid down by the Supreme Court by which a reserved category candidate, if otherwise meritorious and entitled to be included in the general select list, should not be treated as a reserved category candidate. Shri Mishra relies upon a chart prepared by him a copy of which is annexed as Annexure No. SA-7 at Page 63 of the supplementary affidavit dated 27.01.2021 in this regard.

On 03.02.2021 this Court had sought a response from the State Authorities in this regard which has not been filed as yet.

Let the concerned official opposite parties file their response positively within a period of one week....."

43. Apparently, the state shied away from filing specific responses to the queries recorded by this court in its order from time to time and even during the arguments these issues remained unexplained. As a matter of fact, besides the statement that the reservation policy has been applied on the opposite direction and giving a data as to how many MRC candidates have been absorbed in the unreserved category and reserved category, there had been no data as to who and in what manner these reserved category candidates were construed to be MRC, so as to allow them to migrate into the open category.

44. Further, an Interim order, which has been passed in one of the bunch matters, being Writ -A- No. 323 of 2022, lead matter in third category of matters, requires special mentions. This court, vide an order dated 27.01.2022, observed as follows:

".....Today, Sri Raghavendra Singh, learned Advocate General has put in appearance on behalf of the official opposite parties and informed the Court that certain reserved category candidates had filed petitions before this Court, some of which are Writ -A. No.13156 of 2020 and Writ -A No.8142 of 2020 wherein certain orders were passed by this Court based on which, the State has revisited the implementation of reservation policy as also the provisions of the Reservation Act, 1994 and the law on the subject, according to which, such reserved category candidates who are otherwise meritorious, meaning thereby, they have secured marks higher than the cut-off for the general category are entitled to be considered and selected for unreserved posts. Accordingly, the State Government after revisiting the matter has taken a decision to issue a fresh select list containing names of 6800 candidates who are those reserved category persons who have secured higher marks than the cut-off for the unreserved category and as this exercise is the result of orders passed by this very Court, therefore, the Court should not interfere in the matter at this stage.

Learned Advocate General also informs the Court that, in fact, entire process of selection is informed by the State officials to the N.I.C. and it is the latter which prepares the select list.

Learned Advocate General also submitted that as regards the order of Hon'ble the Supreme Court quoted in the order of this Court dated 25.01.2022, the same is not applicable in the facts of this case, as already clarified hereinabove.

However, on being asked as to how if 69000 posts have already been filled up as noticed in the earlier order, these 6800 selectees would be appointed, against which post they would be appointed, and whether against one post two persons can work and get salary, the learned Advocate General could not satisfy the Court on this count but stated that State has not taken any decision to oust the already appointed candidates who may have secured lesser marks than these 6800 candidates.

It is nobody's case certainly not that of the State that before issuing the list of 6800 additional selected candidates, as referred hereinabove, an equivalent number of candidates who have been appointed earlier have been disengaged in accordance with law.

Sri Upendra Nath Mishra, learned Senior Counsel for opposite party no.7 has invited attention of the Court to the orders passed by this Court which are annexed at page no.144-145 of the writ petition which have been referred by the learned Advocate General. He says that those writ petitions should be heard on priority basis and he also says that additional 6800 selectees are, in fact, entitled to be appointed and those who are not entitled but have been appointed are liable to be ousted. He agrees to the extent that persons cannot be appointed in excess of the 69000 vacancies which were advertised.

Sri Rakesh Kumar Chaudhary, learned counsel who has put in appearance on behalf of opposite party no.10 adopts the arguments of Sri Upendra Nath Mishra. In addition to it, he says that physically handicapped candidates who have also filed writ petitions before this Court, leading writ petition is Writ-A. No.13792 of 2020 wherein certain orders have been passed by this Court for giving the benefit of the quota prescribed for such persons and therefore, inclusion of these physically handicapped persons in the impugned select list of 6800 persons is in accordance with the orders of this Court and need not to be interfered with, certainly not at the interim stage. However, on being asked as to whether the opposite party no.10 on whose behalf he appears is a physically handicapped, he submitted that no, he was not physically handicapped but he is the counsel in Writ-A. No.13792 of 2020 and connected matters, therefore, he has made the aforesaid statement.

At this stage, Sri Seth, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioners further submitted that if 69000 vacancies of Assistant Teachers were advertised and all of them have been filled up as admitted by the Principal Secretary to the Department in the affidavit filed before this Court as already noticed in the earlier order dated 25.01.2022, then, assuming for a moment that the State was entitled to revisit the selection process and based on such exercise it found that there were 6800 candidates who had a better right of being selected and appointed based on the marks obtained by them, then, at best the select list already published ought to have been modified and an equivalent number of candidates who have secured lesser marks than those 6800 candidates should have been ousted from it in accordance with law and if they have already been appointed, this should have been done after due and proper notice to them, and these 6800 candidates should have been substituted in their place but without undertaking such exercise the impugned action of the State to induct 6800 additional selectees leads to a situation where the 69000 vacancies would be exceeded which is apparently illegal and prejudices the rights of the petitioners to be considered against equivalent number of vacancies (6800) which would otherwise be re-advertised and the petitioner nos.1 to 5 would have a right of being considered for selection against such vacancies irrespective of the fact that they have not succeeded in the earlier selection. The petitioner no.6 in fact has not appeared in the selection ARTE 2019 and is entitled to be considered against such vacancies as and when they are advertised.

As regards Sri Chaudhary's contention that the petitioners do not have locus to challenge the impugned action, the petitioner nos.1 to 5 who belong to reserved category had appeared in the selection and the contention of Sri Sudeep Seth, learned Senior Advocate as already recorded in the earlier order is that any vacancy other than 69000 will have to be re-advertised and fresh selection will have to be held in this regard in which the petitioner nos.1 to 5, even if, they have not succeeded in the earlier selection, are entitled to appear, therefore, filling up of any post in excess of 69000, without advertising these excess 6800 posts apart from being violative of law declared by Hon'ble the Supreme Court and the constitutional provisions, encroaches on the rights of the petitioner nos.1 to 6 to appear in such selection. The petitioner no.6 did not appear in the selection in question and therefore, he in any case, will have a right to appear in future selection against these excess vacancies. Prima facie, at this stage, Sri Seth, learned Senior Advocate appears to be correct.

Considering the facts of the case as already noticed in the earlier order dated 25.01.2022 which need not be reiterated and which, at least at this stage, have not been rebutted satisfactorily, especially the order of Hon'ble the Supreme Court dismissing a writ petition wherein it was the case that vacancies in excess of 69000 which were not advertised on 01.12.2018 (A.T.R.E.-2019) should be allowed to be filled up on the basis of the said selection advertised on 01.12.2018, as it has been dismissed with specific observation that posts in excess of those advertised cannot be allowed to be filled up based on the said selection, a piquant situation has been created by the State by the impugned action, prima facie....."

45. This court after recording the other interim orders as referred by the Advocate General, observed & directed vide the said order dated 27.01.2022 in the following terms:

".....But the Court had only asked the State to file counter affidavit in the matter and the State was required to explain as to how the reservation policy has been implemented. The appropriate course for the State officials in these circumstances was to comply the said orders, revisit the matter, find out the facts and errors, if any, and on noticing them, to place the same before the Court either seeking its guidance or seeking permission to rectify the select list which had already been implemented or to modify the select list and disengage the persons already appointed, if they were erroneously appointed, as per law, but, instead of doing it, the State officials, for reasons best known to them, have hurried to issue a select list of 6800 persons in addition to the 69000 appointments already made by them without disengaging or cancelling the appointment of 6800 candidates already appointed if they had secured lesser marks. Considering the fact that only 69000 posts were advertised, candidates in excess of 69000 cannot be appointed and they already having been appointed, one fails to understand as to what purpose the issuance of select list of 6800 persons, who may otherwise have been entitled to selection and appointment, seeks to achieve in the factual scenario created by the State, as, in no circumstances, persons can be appointed in excess of 69000 which were advertised.

Now, it is for the State to decide what it has to do in the matter as it is the State which has created this situation but one thing is very clear that persons beyond 69000 vacancies cannot be appointed against such posts.

Considering the discussion made hereinabove, it is provided that in no circumstances, persons in excess of the 69000 vacancies which were advertised on 01.12.2018 (A.T.R.E 2019), shall be appointed and unadvertised vacancies shall not be filled-up without being advertised and selection being held in respect thereof. It is ordered accordingly.

Let Dasti notice be issued for service upon opposite party nos.6 and 8. In addition to it, considering the large number of selectees which are 6800 and the complications which may be involved in getting them impleaded individually and having notices served upon them, especially as at this stage, they are only selectees and have not been appointed, the ends of justice would suffice if a publication is made in two daily newspaper, one of English and other of Hindi, having vide circulation in the state, namely, 'the Times of India' and 'Dainik Jagaran' notifying the selectees about the pendency of this petition so that they may, if they so choose, join in these proceedings, otherwise, persons have been impleaded in representative capacity. The Senior Registrar shall facilitate adequate steps being taken for publication in the newspaper as aforesaid.

Pleadings be exchanged between the parties.

List this case along with other matters i.e. Writ - A. No.13156 of 2020, Writ -A No.8142 of 2020 and connected matters referred hereinabove including Writ-A. No.13792 of 2020 and connected matters wherein pleadings are said to be complete....."

46. Further, this court finds that the aforesaid interim order dated 27.01.2022 was a subject matter of challenge in Special Appeal No. 86 of 2022 (Rahul Kumar & Ors. V/s State of U.P), wherein a Division bench of this court vide an order dated 15.03.2022 while directing for early disposal of the present matters has refused to entertain the said interim order passed by this court.

47. This court observes that pursuant to the aforesaid publication in Newspaper by the respondent Impleadment Application for 1158 candidates came to be filed in the third category of petition.

G. Contention of the Parties

48. Since, common issue has been raised in the present bunch of matters. This court with the consent of the Ld. Counsels appearing for the parties is taking up all the writ petitions and the same is being decided by this common order. However, the facts of the lead matter being Mahendra Pal & 13 others is being mentioned herein for the sake of clarity. The facts of the said writ petition as has been argued by the Ld. Counsel for the petitioners lie in a narrow compass, in as much as it has been claimed that except of petitioner No. 7 and 9, all the other petitioners are graduate degree holders having requisite educational qualification of B.Ed, whereas petitioner No. 7 & 9 are teacher with Basic Teachers Training (BTC). All the petitioners claim to have passed the U.P Teachers Eligibility Test (TET) conducted by the Government. All the petitioners belong to the reserved category of "Other Backward Classes", except petitioner No.11, who belongs to the reserved category of "Schedule caste". The petitioners also claim to have successfully qualified the Assistant Teachers Recruitment examination-2019 and as such according to them they possess the minimum requisite academic qualification for appointment on the post of Assistant Teachers prescribed under the U.P Basic education (Teachers) service Rules, 1981.

49. According to the petitioner, the state Government took a decision on 01.12.2018 to fill up 69000 vacancies of Assistant Teacher in the Junior Basic Schools of Uttar Pradesh, which was followed by an advertisement dated 05.12.2018 for conducting the ATRE-2019 on 06.01.2019, which was participated by them. Subsequently, on 07.01.2019, the respondent authorities issued a G.O for fixing the qualifying marks of the ATRE-2019 as 65% for open category and 60% for reserved category. The said G.O fixing the qualifying marks was interdicted before a Single Bench of this court, which quashed the said G.O and directed to conduct the ATRE-2019 in terms of the qualifying marks of ATRE-2018, however in an intra-court Appeal, a division Bench of this Court set-aside the order of the Single Judge and upheld the G.O dated 07.01.2019. It has been further contended by the petitioners that several SLPs came to be filed challenging the order of the Division bench before the Hon'ble Supreme Court, wherein in one of the SLP's being "Ram Sharan Maurya Vs State of U.P & Ors." (SLP (Civil) Diary No. 11198 of 2020), the Supreme Court passed an interim order dated 21.05.2020, directing that the "Shiksha Mitra" who were presently holding on their posts as Assistant teachers would not be disturbed. Further, in another connected matter being "Subedar Singh & Ors Vs the State of Uttar Pradesh" (SLP (Civil) No. 6687 of 2020), the Hon'ble Apex Court vide an order dated 09.06.2020, directed the State Government to keep 37,339 post vacant, which was equivalent to the number of TET qualified Shiksha Mitra's and continue to fill the remaining vacancies.

50. It is argued that ATRE-2019 results were declared on 12.05.2020, wherein a total of 1,46,060 candidates were declared qualified. The petitioners claim to have obtained the minimum qualifying marks in the ATRE-2019 and as such pursuant to the notice dated 16.05.2020 issued by the secretary Basic education notifying the district-wise vacancies and guidelines dated 18.05.2020 issued by the Secretary Basic education Board relating to inviting the application form, the petitioners filled/applied online application form in the prescribed format for appointment to the post of Assistant teachers and legitimately expected to be selected in the said recruitment process. A reference has been made by the petitioners to a dispute relating to incorrect evaluation in the ATRE-2019, wherein certain challenges were made to the answer key published by the respondent- Authority on 08.05.2020. It has been submitted that in the lead writ petition No. 8056 of 2020(Rishabh Mishra and Ors V/s State of U.P & Ors.) an interim order dated 03.06.2020 was passed by a Single Judge, wherein the answer key dated 08.05.2020 was stayed, however a Division bench of this court vide an order dated 12.06.2020 passed in Special Appeal No. 154 OF 2020 (Examination Regulatory Authority, Allahabad and Others V/s Rishab Mishra and Ors.) stayed the interim order passed by the Single Judge and the respondents were granted liberty to continue with the process of selection to the post of Assistant Teachers.

51. The case of the petitioners as put in the nut shell is that the respondent-authority without declaring the category wise cut-off marks, issued a tentative select list of 67,867 candidates for appointment on 01.06.2020. According to the petitioners, the select list merely contains the names, roll numbers, other personal details of the candidates and the district in which such candidates have been selected and does not mentions the details of the merit of the selected candidates i.e the marks obtained by such candidates who were selected, vis-à-vis the final category wise cut-off marks, on the basis of which such selection were made.

52. It is the contention of the petitioners that being bereft of adequate information in the select list, they ventured into conducting of some kind of self-inquiries and research, wherein they found more than 50% of the vacancies have been allotted to candidates falling in the unreserved category (including the MRC candidates) and as such the same falls foul of the scheme/quota of reservation as provided under section 3(1) and section 3(6) of the Reservation Act of 1994.

53. The Ld. Counsel for the petitioners have succinctly explained the said proposition by quoting section 3(6) of the Reservation Act, 1994, which says that if a person belonging to any of the reserved categories gets selected based on merit in an open competition with general candidates, the said reserved category candidate shall not be adjusted against the vacancies reserved for such category but they will be adjusted in the general category. Thus, it has been argued by the petitioners that by inclusion of some Meritorious Reserved Category (MRC) candidates in general category on the basis of their merit, the total number of reserved category candidates finally selected in a selection can be more than 50% of the total seats, but in no event the number of general category candidates can exceed 50% of the total seats and in case the number of general category candidates selected exceeds 50% of the total seats, it simply means that the selection of reserved candidates have been made on far less than the quota prescribed under section 3(1) of the Reservation Act and the said process is in the teeth of section 3(1) and section 3(6) of the Reservation Act, 1994.

54. The Ld. Counsel for the petitioners have also referred to government order dated 25.03.1994 and Government order dated 30.01.2015, which were issued by the State clarifying the provisions of applicability of section 3(6) of the Reservation Act, 1994 to buttress and drive his point home that when section 3(6) of the Reservation Act, 1994, is not applied with full rigour in any selection then the quota of reservation as provided under section 3(1) of the Act also automatically is violated and the entire reservation policy goes hay-wire as the beneficial provisions meant for those reserved category candidates who are unable to compete in the open competition, is rendered otiose. Thus, according to him, the reserved category candidates who need the support of reservation have been denied the same on account of faulty and illogical implementation of the reservation policy by the respondent authorities in as much as they have selected MRC candidates selected on the basis of their merit equal to or more than the minimum numbers scored by the general category candidates, have been arbitrarily adjusted against the reserved quota. Thus, as a result of the said action of the authorities an equal number of reserved vacancies have been illegally exhausted by the MRC candidates who ought to have been adjusted against the unreserved vacancies, which consequently had the effect of keeping the eligible reserved category candidates placed at the bottom like the petitioners out of the consideration zone for selection to the post of Asst. Teachers.

55. It is the further case of the petitioners that the respondents while presuming that these MRC candidates after being adjusted on the reserved quota, have in fact vacated their respective places in the general category, which was filled by excess candidates from the general category. Thus, it has been submitted by them that less deserving candidates of the unreserved/ general category have been got selected on way beyond the 50% unreserved seats and more deserving reserved candidates like the petitioners were deprived of their fair consideration for appointment against the reserved seats. The petitioners, proceeding further, have given an instance of selection made in the district of Shahjahanpur, wherein as per the petitioners, out of total 1450 seats, a maximum of 725 seats ought to had been filled up by the unreserved/general candidates and the remaining 725 seats out to be filled by candidates belonging from the reserved category, however it has been pointed by them that in reality about 880 seats have bene filled from the unreserved/general candidates, including the MRC candidates and as such substantial number of seats belonging to the reserved category have been eaten up by the unreserved/ general category candidates.

56. The next point raised by the petitioners is relating to the reservation policy implemented by the authorities in allocating the districts of preference to the MRC Candidates. According to the petitioners, while allocating the districts of preference to these MRC candidates, the authorities have "substantively" treated them as "reserved category candidate", whereas according to the various judgments of this court as well as the Hon'ble Apex Court, MRC candidates have to be only treated "notionally" as reserve category candidates for the said purpose for allotment of districts. Thus, it has been argued that the respondent authorities have arbitrarily presumed that the unreserved seats left over by the MRC candidates were available for even more selection of general candidates, which consequently led to excess selection of general category candidates in the left-over seats of the MRC, who in turn were illegally adjusted against reserved quota vacancies, instead of unreserved vacancies. Thus, it has been submitted by the petitioners that on account of this excess selection of general candidates, the reserved candidates like the petitioners were denied selection against the reserved seats, though it was their legal right of fair consideration to be selected against the reserved seats u/s 3(1) and section 3(6) of the Reservation Act, 1994.

57. Thus, the select list of 01.06.2020 is sought to be challenged to the extent it violates the provisions contained in section 3 (6) of the Reservation Act of 1994, because according to the petitioners, although as per section 3 (6) of Reservation Act of 1994, an MRC candidate is required to be adjusted on the unreserved vacancies, but in reality and in fact the respondent authorities have adjusted the MRC candidate on the reserved vacancies on the pretext of allotting him the district of his choice and similarly by not counting the MRC candidates in the unreserved category, the respondents have reduced the actual reservation quota of OBC, SC and ST, which is violative of the section 3(1) of the Reservation Act of 1994, which is in contravention of article 14 and 16(4) of the Constitution of India.

58. Similar Writ petitions came to be filed as mentioned herein above and this court vide an order dated 25.08.2020 passed in the lead matter directed that a master counter affidavit be filed in the said lead matter and a copy of the same be furnished to the learned counsel representing the other similar writ petitions and there would be no requirement of separate counter affidavit to be filed on behalf of the respondents in other matters and counter affidavit filed in the lead case would be treated to be counter affidavit in other similar matters as well. Further, this court vide an order dated 7th of December,2020, while issuing notice to the affected persons directed that, in the meantime, appointments made on the post of Assistant Teacher shall be subject to the final decision of these petitions.

59. The counter Affidavit came to be filed by the respondent authorities on 19.01.2021, wherein inter-alia they sought dismissal of the writ petition on various grounds including that the writ petitions have been field merely on apprehension and there has been no document filed along with the writ petition substantiating their apprehension. According to them the procedure for reservation has been properly followed and the select list dated 01.06.2020 has been prepared strictly as per the quality point marks obtained by the candidates and the reservation was made based on entry made by the candidates in the application form by a software process developed by NIC and it was a mechanical process, wherein no interference of any authority was possible. The respondent also raised a technical point of the writ petition being not maintainable as far as quashing the select list of 01.06.2020 was concerned as it failed to implead each & every selected candidate. According to the respondents, 67,867 candidates have been selected against various quotas against the total advertised post of 69000 and about 1133 post of schedule tribe was still vacant due to non-availability of requisite candidates.

60. The respondents also gave a break-up of district wise appointment of Asst. Teachers and stated that against the 34,598 posts for unreserved category, 19805 candidates of General Category, 13007 candidates of the OBC(MRC), 1753 candidates of the SC (MRC) and 24 candidates of Scheduled Tribes have been selected. It has been contended by the respondent-Authority that as per section 3(1) of the Reservation Act, 27% seats were reserved for OBC and as per the select list, 18598 candidates belong to OBC have been selected in the said OBC quota, besides 13007 candidates of OBC(MRC) have been selected in the unreserved category. According to the respondent, in this manner about 31605 candidates have been selected belonging to the OBC category and as such there was no anomaly in the select list.

61. The respondents, also in order to drive home their point also mentioned the cut-off marks of various category as follows:

Unserved Category	67.11
Other Backward Class (OBC)	66.73
Schedules Caste (SC)	61.01

and contended that in the selection process of 69000 Assistant Teachers Recruitment, the procedure prescribed under U.P Public Service (Reservation for Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and other Backward Classes) Act, 1994 has been strictly followed and the select list had been prepared strictly as per the quality point marks obtained by the candidates and there was no violation of merit list for any candidates. Thus, it was contended that the writ petitions was devoid of any merit and liable to be dismissed.

62. The petitioners in their rejoinder, while reiterating their contention as made by them in their writ petitions, also contended by giving the following chart, which was prepared on the basis of information provided by the respondent authorities in their counter-affidavit:

Category	Total Seats	Cut-off	Bifurcation of selected total candidates (Total-67,867)
Unreserved (UR)	34,589	67.11	Unreserved (UR) 19805 (GEN) 13007(OBC-MRC)) 1753(SC- MRC) 24(ST- MRC)
OBC	18598	66.73	18598
SC	14459	61.01	14459
ST		56.09	221 (1133 seats left vacant due to non-availability of candidates)

The petitioners referring to the aforesaid chart submitted that as per the own information of the respondent authority, they have considered only 14784 candidates as MRC candidates. According to the petitioner, after the receipt of the counter-affidavit, they got prepared yet another chart by providing category of the candidates as well as the marks obtained by them as provided in the website of Shiksha Parishad and were astonished to find that at least 7149 additional/extra general category candidates have been named/selected in the select list, as their name appears after serial number 34589 i.e the total number of seats in the general quota, which they say could not had happened, had the respondent applied the reservation policy in its true light and spirit.

63. The petitioner, further submits that from the data available from the website, they have been also able to collate a data of all the reserved category candidates who were able to obtain more marks than 67.11 i.e cut-off mark of the un-reserved category and thus, the chart would further depict as follows:

Category	Reserved Candidates having more than or equal to 67.11 marks i.e MRC (A)	MRC candidates actually selected as MRC in UR category(B)	MRC candidates who have been illegally treated as reserved category candidates (A minus B)
OBC	28,978	13,007	15,971
SC	4,742	1,753	2,989
ST	52	24	28
Total	33,772	14,784	18,988

Referring to the chart, it has been contended by the petitioners that a total of 18,988 reserved category candidates having obtained more than the cut off marks of general category ought to have been shifted to the unreserved category, whereas the same had been adjusted in the reserved category in gross violation of section 3(6) of the Reservation Act, 1994. According to them, since a total number of 28,978 OBC candidates had obtained marks more than general category, whereas only 13007 candidates have been treated as MRC. Thus, the very fact of adjusting 15971 of such MRC candidates in the OBC quota seats is not only in the teeth of section 3(6) of the Reservation Act, 1994, but has also reduced the total availability of OBC quota seats from 18598 to mere 2627 due to illegal adjustment of 15971 OBC-MRC candidates in OBC quota seats. Thus, it has been claimed that against 27% of OBC quota seats, only 3.80% quota seats has been actually made available for OBC candidates. Similarly, for SC quota seats, against the statutory availability of 21% seats, only 16.62% quota seats has been actually made available for SC candidates. On similar lines, it had been contended that as far as ST quota seats were concerned, the total vacant seats would had been 1161 instead of 1133, had the 28 ST-MRC candidates been given their rightful due and adjusted in the General category seats.

64. Thus, it has been submitted by the petitioners in the rejoinder that in the teeth of section 3(1) of the Reservation Act, 1994, the quota of reservation has been drastically reduced i.e from 27% to 3.80% in case of OBC category and from 21% to about 16.62% in the case of SC category and as such the select list is in violation of the provisions of section 3(1) of the Reservation Act, 1994, Rule 9 of the U.P Basic education (teachers) service Rules, 1981 and Article 14 and 16(4) of the constitution of India. It is the case of the petitioners that had the respondent-Authority treated all the aforesaid 33,772 MRC candidates in the General Category and not had shifted 18,988 candidates to the reserved category, then additional reserved category candidates like the petitioners would had been selected for the post of Assistant teachers.

65. The Ld. Counsel for the petitioners while trying to vindicate his point that reservation policy has not been implemented in its right perspective also argued that probably the entire mistake has been committed by the Respondent's due to misinterpretation of legal provisions of section 3(1) and 3(6) of the Reservation Act of 1994, wherein while allocating the district of preference to some of the MRC candidates, the respondent authorities have "substantively' treated them as "reserved category candidate' only (instead of treating them as such notionally) whereas, according to the various pronouncements of the Hon'ble Apex Court and also of this Hon'ble Court in the Shikha Singh Case (Supra), MRC candidates have to be only treated "notionally' as reserve category candidates for the purpose of allotment of districts and thereafter would substantively be treated as General Category. It is the contention of the petitioner that the Single Judge in the said Judgment had directed the respondents "to carry on the process of allotment of district to MRC candidates only, treating them to be reserved category candidates only for the purposes of allotment of district of their preference.'

66. It is the contention of the petitioners that after committing a wrong in the allotment of districts to MRC candidates, the respondent authorities have arbitrarily presumed that the unreserved seats left over by the MRC candidates are available for even more selection of general candidates and consequently excess unreserved selection were made precisely to the extent of MRC candidates who were illegally adjusted against reserved quota vacancies, instead of unreserved vacancies. On account of this excess selection of general category candidates, the reserved candidates like the petitioners were denied selection against the reserved seats, though it is their legal right of fair consideration of selection against reserved seats u/s 3(1) and 3(6) of the reservation Act, which has been blatantly violated by the respondent authorities.

67. During the hearing of the present bunch of matters, the petitioners filed a supplementary Affidavit dated 27.01.2021 contending therein that the state government expedited the process of filling up of vacancies from the select list dated 01.06.2020 by issuing order dated 24.09.2020, wherein a direction was issued to fill up 31,661 vacancies in the 1st stage by issuing appointment letters to the selected candidates drawn from the select list dated 01.06.2020. Thus, a sub-select list dated 11.10.2020 was issued by the state, which consisted a list of 31,277 candidates and yet again the vigilant petitioners made inquiries to check as to whether any general category candidate having less than 69.25 quality point marks has been selected on the basis of vertical reservation or not. The score 69.25 quality point marks being the marks obtained by the 34589th candidate, which technically was the last seat meant for the unreserved category. Admittedly, the petitioners found out that in the 31,277 list, the last general candidate who has been given appointment on the basis of vertical reservation had obtained 71.2 quality point marks.

68. It is the contention of the petitioners that although the Apex Court vide its judgment dated 18.11.2020 (Ram Sharan Maurya case) had given liberty to the state government to continue with the selection process in pursuance of the 69000 advertised vacancies, however the said liberty does not in any way give liberty to the state government to make selection in violation of section 3(1) and section3 (6) of the Reservation Act of 1994 and therefore the state government cannot in any away be permitted to take shelter of the judgment dated 18.11.2020 in order to encroach upon the reserved category seats by treating some 18988 MRC category candidate in the reserved category on the pretext of giving them their district of choice.

69. Vide an order dated 23.07.2021, the U.P Basic education Board and its secretary were directed to issue a circular and publish in the daily newspaper intimating those candidates who have been selected against the vacancies reserved in the OBC, SC and other categories, who may have concern to defect themselves as per the provisions of the Rules of the Court.

70. That a counter-affidavit/reply dated 23.07.2021 was filed by the respondents in response to the supplementary affidavit filed by the petitioners. According to the respondent, the selection was being carried in compliance of the judgment and order dated 09.06.2020 passed by the Apex Court in the case of Subedar Singh & Ors Vs State of U.P, SLP No. 6687/2020, pursuant to which GO dated 24.09.2020 and GO dated 06.10.2020 was issued for conducting the counselling for selection of the Asst. Teachers. In the first phase a total of 31277 posts were filled up, thereafter vide GO order dated 24.11.2020 filling up for remaining vacancies of 36590 was initiated. Thus, according to them counselling has been carried out for 67867 successful candidates in compliance of the Hon'ble Apex Court Judgment and vide GO dated 17.5.2021 the third round of counselling has been conducted for remaining vacant posts in the 69000 recruitments as per the information furnished by the respective districts, after following the relevant rules and GO related to reservation through the software developed by NIC.

71. In the said reply, the respondent mentioned that the reservation prescribed in the UP Public service (Scheduled Reservation for Scheduled castes, Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Classes) Act 1994 and in the Government Order dated 28th August, 2015, 21% for Scheduled Castes, 2% for Scheduled Tribes and 27% for other backward classes has been given in the present selection. It was also mentioned that 4% horizontal reservation for handicapped as per the GO dated 25.09.2018, 2% horizontal reservation for dependent of freedom fighter, 5% horizontal reservation for ex-servicemen and 20% horizontal reservation for women has been provided in the respective categories as per the relevant Act and GO dated 25.09.2018 and 21.06.2021. The respondent narrated their own version relating to the distribution of seats as per the district allotment list of 67,867 candidate published on 01.06.2020, which can be depicted in the form of chart as follows:

Category	Total Seats	Bifurcation of selected total candidates (Total-67,867) Unreserved (UR)
Unreserved (UR)	34,589	19805 (GEN) | 7159 (Horizontal Reservation under special reserved category) 12,646 (General Category) 13007(OBC- MRC)) 1753(SC- MRC) 24(ST- MRC)
OBC	18598	18598 | 8418 (Horizontal Reservation under special reserved category) 10,180 (OBC candidates for Vertical Reservation)
SC	14459	14459 | 960 (Horizontal Reservation under special reserved category) 13499 (SC candidates for Vertical Reservation)
ST	1354	245 | 10 (Horizontal Reservation under special reserved category) 211 (ST candidates for Vertical Reservation)

72. Thus, it was claimed by the respondent authorities that the entire process has been carried out after following the provisions with regard to reservation policy and in compliance of the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court and according to them a total of 48,062 candidates belonging to the reserved category have been selected either through MRC, special reservation quota, vertical reservation quota against the total seat of 67,867. Thus, they say that entire selection process was transparent and commensurate to the provisions of UP Public service (Scheduled Reservation for Scheduled castes, Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Classes) Act 1994 and the U.P Basic Teachers Rules, 1981.

73. In yet another rejoinder, the petitioners have refuted the stand of the respondent and according to them the counter-affidavit filed by the authority was misleading as several General category candidates, not having any special reservation in the form of horizontal reservation, have been selected beyond serial no. 34589. The petitioners have named atleast three general category candidates, who have been without any horizontal reservation selected at serial number 34591, 34594 and 41905. According to them, at least 7149 general category candidates have been selected beyond the available unreserved vacancies. It has been contended by them that the explanation of the respondent that these general category candidates have been selected under the horizontal category was misleading and was an attempt to create a false impression before this court. The petitioners have also contended that the respondent-authority, although being a repository of records did not give any specific reply to para 17(a), 17(b) and 18 of their supplementary Affidavit, notwithstanding specific direction for providing the same by various orders of this court, including order dated 03.02.2021 and 17.03.2021. It has been contended by the petitioners that the respondent has always shied away in not only failing to give specific reply, but have also failed to disclose the actual number of the candidates from the reserved category who have obtained equal to more than 67.11% marks and thus the select list is neither legal, nor proper nor tenable in the eyes of law.

74. During the hearing of the matter, the petitioner sought to file an application seeking amendment of the writ petition and praying for inserting certain paragraphs and making additional prayers in view of the subsequent development in the matter. The petitioners have contended that the select list of 01.06.2020 was sought to be implemented for appointment vide through two separate tranches i.e one through sub-select list dated 11.10.2020 and another through sub-select list dated 30.11.2020 and thereafter the government issued another select list dated 26.06.2021 for making appointments on the 6696 vacant seats on which no candidates have joined. It is the case of the petitioner that while the respondent did not file a suitable reply to the queries raised by this court relating to the actual number of reserved category candidates obtaining the 67.11% marks and as to why instead of allotting 27% seats to OBC category and 21% seats to SC category only 3.80% and 16.62% seats respectively have been actually allocated to them, the state issued a press-note dated 24.12.2021 admitting the folly in applying the reservation policy in the 69000 assistant teacher selection process and assuring that the same would be made good by making appointment of the reserved category. It has been argued by the petitioners that on the heels of the said press-note, the secretary/spl. Secretary, Department of Basic education issued a G.O dated 05.01.2022 for appointment of 6800 reserved category candidates in the said compelling circumstances.

75. According to the petitioner, the select list dated 05.01.2022, which has been issued in pursuance of the said G.O. of the same date, wherein only about 6800 reserved category candidates have been included, goes on to show that the State government has only partially rectified its mistake in application of the provision of section 3(1) and 3(6) of the reservation Act on the selection in question. It is noteworthy here that the petitioners had already showed it in the Supplementary affidavit dated 28.01.2021, filed in this petition itself, that about 18988 reserved category candidates needs to be adjusted and selected, however the state government has chosen to give appointment to only about 6800 reserved category candidates, which is in blatant violation of the provision of section 3(1) and 3(6) of the reservation act 1994. It is evident that the benefit of reservation has not yet been provided to about 13000 candidates.

76. This court has narrated the contention and contra contention of the parties in extenso in the aforesaid 1st category of the writ petitions as the facts and arguments in all other connected categories are overlapping, except that these other categories have been filed by a different set of aggrieved petitioners with a modulated set of prayers. Thus, this court does not wish to burden this judgment any further with the facts of each category of case.

78. Having heard the parties and the ld. Senior Counsels of the parties at length, this court is of the view that the core issue to be decided in these bunch of writ petition is as to whether section 3(6) of the Reservation Act of 1994 would apply where a candidate of reserved category though has availed relaxation meant for reserved category candidates in the TET (Teachers Eligibility Test) or ATRE (Assistant Teachers Recruitment Examination), can still be allowed to compete with general category candidates in an open selection by securing more marks than the last selected general category candidates. The said question gains prominence in the sense that the result of the said question would have rippling effect as it would answer the other consequential questions of (i) whether the select list dated 01.06.2020 is vitiated because of non-consideration of these Meritorious reserved category (MRC) candidates in the open category, which consequently led to their selection in the quota meant for reserved category, (ii) whether selection in question is vitiated because of non-compliance of section 3(1) of the Reservation Act, 1994 as due to non-migration of MRC candidates and they being consequently absorbed in the reserved category, the actual percentage of candidates availing the reserved category diminished/reduced, (iii) Whether a redrawing of the selection list dated 01.06.2020 is merited in the facts of the present case. The other ancillary question, which falls for determination is as to whether the state could publish any additional select list beyond the 69000 originally advertised seats allegedly admitting its folly in implementing the reservation policy for the ATRE-2019 and that too for the reserved category candidates only. Some writ petition have also been filed seeking implementation of the additional select list of 6800 dated 05.01.2022, which also is a question before this court to be decided along with the bunch of matters.

79. The submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties are all over-lapping. Reference to case laws are also almost common. In the opinion of this court, it is not necessary to consider in detail the numbers/figures of the reserved/unreserved categories candidates, who eventually could make to the select list of 01.06.2020 with regard to the nature and extent of reservation.

80. This court after hearing the rival submission and examining the pleadings and various documents field by them on record is of the view that the core issue needs to be decided first and the rest of the issue would automatically fall in line as all other issues are inter-connected to each other.

81. It has been argued that reservation availed by the reserved category candidates at the level of TET and ATRE disentitle them to migrate to the unreserved category and since the respondents have allowed them to migrate to the open category, seats meant for general category candidates in the open category have been taken/occupied by this migrated reserved category, whereas on the other hand reserved category candidates have argued that MRC candidates were not allowed to migrate to the open category quota by the respondent, consequently which led this MRC candidates to take/occupy the seats meant for reserved category and thus large number of legitimate reserved category candidates, who were entitled to be considered in the reserved category could not avail reservation and have been left out by the respondent.

82. Article 16 (1) & (2) of our constitution essentially refers to equality of opportunity in matters of public employment and assures to all citizen of this country equality of opportunity in matters relating to employment or appointment to any office under the State and ensures that a citizen of this country is not discriminated on grounds of religion, race, caste, sex, descent, place of birth, residence, or any of them for any public employment. The said Article being a fundamental right is in the nature of command and directive. However, although Article 16(4) of our Constitutionopens with a non-obstante clause -"Nothing in this Article shall prevent the State from making any provision for reservation.....", which technically has been added to uphold its enforceability over Article 16(1) or 16(2), but on the face of it is in the nature of an enabling provisions as it confers discretion and protects the state, in case of making any provisions for reservation in favor of any backward class of citizens which, in the opinion of the State, is not adequately represented in the services under the State.

83. Further, as held in the constitutional bench judgment of Indra

Sawhney, AIR 1993 SC 477, reservations can take various forms. They may consist of preferences, concessions, exemptions, extra facilities etc or of an exclusive quota in appointments. When measures, other than an exclusive quota for appointments, are adopted, they form part of the reservation measures or are ancillary to or necessary for availing of the reservations. Reservation is the highest form of special provision, while preference, concession and exemption are lesser forms. The Constitutional scheme, and the context of Article 16(4), makes it clear that the larger concept of reservations takes within its sweep all supplemental and ancillary provisions as also lesser types of special provisions like exemptions, concessions and relaxations, consistent with the requirement of maintenance of efficiency of administration - the admonition of Article 335.

84. It is no longer res integra that the state is empowered to lay down the criteria for grant of exemption, concession and reservation, and prescribe the method and manner in which such reservation should be effected. Reservation, being an enablingprovision, the manner and extent to which reservation is to be provided may be spelt out in the orders issued by the Government. Migration of reserved category candidates, into the general category, is also part of the larger concept of reservation. While providing reservation, the Government can, in its discretion, place restrictions on the migration, of those who are extended the benefit of reservation, to the general category. It can also, while extending concessions and providing relaxation in favour of the backward classes, bar those, who receive the benefit of such relaxations and concessions, from migrating to the general category.

85. The state of Uttar Pradesh has enacted the U.P. Public Services (Reservation for Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Classes) Act, 1994 and by virtue of Rule 9 of the U.P. Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules relating to reservation in Teachers Recruitment the same is applicable to the present recruitment process.

86. The primary issue encircles around implementation of section 3(6) of the Reservation Act, which inert-alia states as herein under:

(6) If a person belonging to any of the categories mentioned in subsection (1) gets selected on the basis of merit in an open competition with general candidates, he shall not be adjusted against the vacancies reserved for such category under sub-section (1).

87. As far as the factual matrix of the present case is concerned, this court is of the view that the concession of reservation as argued by the Ld. Counsel of the parties was made available to the reserved category candidates at three stages. First at the level, when these reserved category candidates armed with the concessional pass marks in TET, were allowed to fill forms and participate in the ATRE-2019. The second stage kicks in at the stage when a reserved category candidate appears and qualifies in the said ATRE-2019 with the concessional minimum marks prescribed for their category in the ATRE-2019 itself and thereby comes within the consideration stage of the select list. The final stage is the preparation of the selection list on the basis of quality points as provided in Appendix-1 of the rules. It has been argued that since relaxation of marks was applied at the stage of TET as well as the ATRE level to these reserved category candidates, they found their place in the select list and since there was no equal level playing ground for the reserved category with the unreserved category, any migration/transition of reserved category candidates into the open category was against the provisions of section 3(6) of the Reservation Act, 1994

88. Before this court comes to the determination of the application of section 3(6) of the Act, to the present controversy of selection of Assistant Teachers, it would be expedient to first understand as to whether TET or ATRE, were part of the eligibility criteria or a part of selection process for the ATRE-2019. Further, a significant question arises as to when a reserved category candidate could be termed to participate in the open competition, so as to enable him or her to migrate to the open category and not be adjusted against vacancies in the reserved category as provided under section 3(6) of the Act.

89. This court finds that both "TET" and "ATRE" were introduced by the UP Basic (Teachers) Service (20th Amendment) Rules, 2017 amending 1981 rules on 09.11.2017.

90. As far as the "Teachers Eligibility Test" popularly known as "TET" is concerned, shorn of the history of the TET, it would be appropriate to mention that the National Council for Teachers' Education Act, 1993 (NCTE Act) was enacted for planned and coordinated development for teacher education system in India and the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 (the RTE Act, 2009) was enacted by Parliament for free and compulsory education to all children of the age of 6 to 14 years. Section 23 of the RTE Act provided for qualification for appointment of teachers and NCTE was designated as authority under Section 23(1) to lay down the qualifications for appointment of teachers. In view thereof, NCTE issued Notification dated 23-8-2010 laying down such qualifications, wherein, one of the requirements for being appointed as a Techer under the said notification was passing the Teachers Eligibility Test (TET).

91. This court would not go into the details of the history relating to relaxation of the said requirement of passing TET under Section 23(2) of the RTE Act by the Central government and the related controversy and rights of the Shiksha Mitra engaged by the state of Uttar Pradesh. Suffice to say that the same stands decided by a very celebrated judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in "State of Uttar Pradesh & Another V/s Anand Kumar Yadav & Others" (2018) 13 SCC 560, pursuant to which, the state of Uttar Pradesh issued a press note on 21.08.2017, notifying various modalities, amongst others, which included:

- Shiksha Mitra's who had been absorbed/adjusted in the post of teachers would be deemed reverted on the post of Shiksha Mitra w.e.f 01.08.2017.

- The State Government would be organizing exam of TET in the month of October 2017 and all such Shiksha Mitras shall be provided an opportunity to acquire the required qualification.

- After TET examination is held, for the purposes of selection of Assistant Teachers in the Primary Schools under the Board, advertisement of vacancy in appropriatenumber shall be got published in the month of December 2017 and all the eligible applicants shall be provided with opportunity to make application.

92. As far as the conducting of TET examination is concerned, the NCTE, had vide its notification dated 11.02.2011 issued guidelines under Section 23(1) of the Right to Education Act, 2009, for conducting Teacher's Eligibility Test (TET) by various state government which specifically prescribed qualifying marks as 60% (i.e. 90 out of 150 marks). It also further gives power to state Governments to give concessions to SC/ST/OBC and differently abled persons in accordance with the reservation policy of the state Government. It was in this regard that the state of Uttar Pradesh granted concessions of 5% to the candidates belonging to the reserved category i.e. SC/ST/OBC and differently abled persons, Ex-Service men for passing the TET, wherein the candidates belonging to reserved category were allowed to be declared pass by securing 55% marks.

93. Vide notification dated 17.10.2019, the state of Uttar Pradesh notified the UP TET 2019 and as per Clause 9 of the said notification provided for qualifying marks, which also prescribed the passing marks of 82.5 out of 150 for reserved category candidates (i.e. 55%) while for unreserved category candidates the same was provided as 90 out of 150 (i.e. 60%).

94. Thus, as contended by candidates from the unreserved category that since, these reserved category candidates after availing the benefit of reservation in passing TET (i.e pass marks of 55%) cannot come to compete with the open category candidate to avail the benefit of section 3(6) of the Act.

95. As already stated herein above, this court finds that both "TET" and "ATRE" were introduced by the UP Basic (Teachers) Service (20th Amendment) Rules, 2017 amending 1981 rules on 09.11.2017 and the essential qualification of candidates for appointment as Assistant Teachers could be found in Rule 8(ii), which inter-alia stated as follows:

(a) Bachelor's degree from a University established by law in India or a degree recognised by the Government equivalent thereto together with any other training course recognised by the Government as equivalent thereto together with the training qualification consisting of a Basic Teacher's Certificate (BTC), two years BTC (Urdu) Vishisht BTC, two-year Diploma in Education (Special Education) approved by Rehabilitation council of India or four year Degree in Elementary Education (B.El.Ed.), two years Diploma in Elementary Education (by whatever name known) in accordance with the National Council of Teacher of Education (Recognition, Norms and Procedure), Regulation or any training qualifications to be added by National Council for Teacher Education for the recruitment of teachers in primary education

Teacher eligibility test passed conducted by the Government of India

and

Passed Assistant Teacher recruitment Examination conducted by the Government.

(b) A trainee Teacher who has completed successfully six months special training programme in elementary education recognized by National Council for Teacher Education.

(c) a shikshamitra who possessed bachelor's degree from a University established by law in India or a degree recognised by the Government equivalent thereto and has completed successfully two year distant learning B.T.C. course or basic Techer's Certificate (B.T.C.), Basic Teacher's Certificate (B.T.C.) (Urdu) or Vishisht B.T.C. conducted by the State Council of Educational Research and Training and passed the Teacher Eligibility Test conducted by the Government of India and passed Assistant Teacher recruitment Examination conducted by the Government.

96. Thus, a pass in both the TET and the ATRE was envisaged by the 20th Amendment, which was a part of essential qualification. However, merely passing of the TET or the ATRE did not ensure any right to the candidate to seek for his appointment as his name ought to appear in the select list for being appointed as an Assistant Teacher. This court finds that the preparation of the selection list was guided by rule 14, which inter-alia prescribed three points for inviting application:

(i) Candidates should possess prescribed training qualification;

and

(ii) Pass in Teachers eligibility test (TET) conducted by the Government;

(iii) Pass in Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination conducted by the Government.

Further, rule 14(2) says that the appointing authority shall scrutinize the applications received as aforesaid and prepare a list of such all persons as would appear to him to possess the prescribed academic qualifications and be eligible for appointment. Rule 14(3)(a) states that the names of candidates in the list prepared shall then be arranged in such manner that the candidate shall be arranged in accordance with the quality points and weightage as specified in the Appendix-I. Interestingly, appendix -1 gives 10% weightage to the marks obtained by the candidate in High School, Intermediate, Graduation Degree and BTC training. The weightage for passing TET is conspicuously missing and a large chunk of weightage being 60% is given to the examination conducted under the name of ATRE.

97. It is significant to note that although the Rules mandated that it was an essential qualification for appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher in basic schools, (i) to have passed Teacher's Eligibility Test (hereinafter referred as the "TET") and (ii) also to pass ATRE examination held for the selection in question by the Basic Education Board, U.P., Allahabad, however, the passing of Teacher's Eligibility Test was merely eligibility in nature as the marks obtained in the said Test was not to be included at the time of preparation of the final list, whereas ATRE served dual purposes as it was not only eligibility criteria but also the marks obtained in the said examination was included in the preparation of the final select/merit list.

98. Thus, ATRE was envisaged to be both qualifying in nature and also an integral part of the selection process as the marks obtained in ATRE was to be included in the final merit list prepared for the purposes of selection, whereas TET was merely qualifying only and merely enabled a candidate to apply for ATRE. Further, this court finds that as far as ATRE is concerned the same being an essential qualification was done away with the 22nd Amendment, although it continued to be a part of rule 14 dealing with the selection process.

99. Apparently, a pass in TET was merely an eligibility criteria, so as to enable a particular candidate to become eligible to fill the form for the ATRE-2019 as is also clear from point 7(2) of the government order dated 01.12.2018, which specifically prescribed that examination would be conducted of short-listed candidates, who could take part in the ATRE and the result of which would be valid for the said current recruitment only. Evidently, there is no challenge to the said G.O dated 01.12.2018, which prescribed the procedure for recruitment of Assistant Teachers through the ATRE-2019.

100. As a matter of fact & records, approximately 4 Lakhs candidates fulfilled the eligibility criteria (i.e pass in TET along with other qualification) and filled the requisite forms of ATRE-2019, which was conducted on 06.01.2019. The Government of U.P subsequently on 07.01.2019, brought a circular stating the minimum passing marks criteria for general category and reserved category as 65% and 60% respectively. The said circular in clear terms mentioned that passing in the ATRE-2019 is one of the eligibility criteria for the selection process and candidates merely by obtaining the minimum marks would not be entitled for appointment. ATRE-2019 was mentioned as an eligibility criteria as securing of the minimum marks by a candidate would bring him or her within the consideration zone of selection as ultimately the selection would be as per the merit list prepared on the basis of quality points secured by a candidate as per Appendex-1 of the Rules and candidates who could not make to the merit list shall have no right to be appointment on the basis of ATRE-2019.

101. No doubt the selection to the post of Assistant Teachers was to be made on the quality points prepared as per the Appendix-I, however whether the preparation of the Appendix-1, resulting in the select list was an open competition, or passing the ATRE was an open competition, or filling the form for ATRE with the concessional TET marks was an open competition is the moot point, because in case it is held at any stage of examination that it was an open competition, the reserved category candidates would naturally be entitled to be considered & migrated in the open category due to the operation of section 3(6) of the reservation Act.

102. "The term 'competition' muchless 'open competition' has not been defined under the Reservation Act. The Cambridge Dictionary, defines "competition" to mean "anorganizedeventin whichpeopletrytowinaprizeby being thebest,fastest, etc". Similarly, Encyclopaedia Britannica has defined "Competition" to be an act or process of trying to get or win something (such as a prize or a higher level of success) that someone else is also trying to get or win. Thus, in common parlance, the meaning of competition would be an event or a process, wherein each person is trying to win by being the best. Therefore, an open competition as could be understood, relevant to the context, would be a competition which is open to one and all, wherein the participants are trying to win by being the best and in that process the participants have not availed any concession or privilege. Thus, in the said open competition, the best is chosen from the rest. The parameters applicable to all of them are one and equal and they are adjudged on the same scale of merit and most importantly, "level playing field" is afforded in the said open competition.

103. On a plain reading of section 3(6) of the Reservation Act, 1994 it is evident that the said clause has been enacted to serve dual purposes. The said clause on the one hand, allows the reserved category candidates who is competent enough of meeting the challenges of competence with that of the general category candidates is encouraged & required to be placed amongst the general category candidates and on the other hand, it preserves the reserved category candidate quota for all those reserved category candidates, who inspite of their best ability is otherwise not able to compete with the general category candidates. According to this court, the said clause fulfils the aims and object of reservation and fulfilment of quota of reserved candidates without making any compromise with respect to the merit and talent of a candidate, who otherwise belongs to reserved category but is more meritorious and successfully makes his place along with the general category candidates. Thus, section 3(6) of the Act echoes the cardinal principle for providing reservation to backward classes as it ought to be a means for their upliftment and not the end as has been dreamed by the framer of our Constitution.

104. Thus, the question falls for determination is as to at what stage of competition for selection of candidates in ATRE-2019, it could be termed as an open competition or there is no stage at all for open competition in the said Examination.

105. The phrase open competition with general candidates' bears significance, as unless there is competition amongst the general candidates and reserved category candidates at the same level, the benefit of the said phrase may not be available to the reserved category candidate. In a selection, to be termed as an open competition, the candidature of the reserved category candidates as well as the general category candidates is to be tested on the same merit and if in that case a reserved category candidate succeeds or score more than minimum marks scored by the general category candidate in the open competition, he would be placed amongst the general category candidates in the open category. In the instant case, at the level of applying for the Assistant Teachers Recruitment Examination-2019, wherein any candidate has passed the TET with the concessional marks or higher marks does not make any difference or gives any added advantage to any candidate in the ATRE, as all these candidates in order to be eligible for coming within the consideration zone for appointment as Assistant Teachers had to not only mandatorily appear, but has also to obtain certain qualifying marks in the said ATRE in order to further progress in the stages of selection process. Thus, candidates competing with concessional marks in TET do not have any advantage as such, over the general category candidates in the ATRE. In fact, this court is of the view that the said stage has been set-up for a broad base of talented candidates to compete openly, so that the best talent is chosen over the rest. Therefore, reserved category students passing TET on concessional marks cannot be shackled in their own category at that stage and in any case it is not any manner works to the disadvantage to the general category candidates. It has to be understood that at the time when the concession of TET were availed, open competition had not commenced; it commenced only when all candidates, who fulfilled the eligibility conditions, were permitted to sit in the ATRE-2019; and, with concessional TET or the age relaxation or the fee concession, reserved candidates were merely brought within the zone of consideration, so that they could participate in the open competition on merit.

106. This court finds that both the reserved as well as the unreserved category candidates have appeared in the same examination and have been tested on the anvil of the same set of questions & difficulty. In the opinion of this court, the relaxation in the passing marks of TET does not in anymanner upset the "level playing field". However, once these broad base of candidate, appear in the ATRE-2019, wherein the State Government has prescribed the criteria of minimum marks for qualifying marks of the reserved category candidates as 60% and for the general category candidates as 65% respectively and in case a reserved category candidate at this stage progresses further to the selection list stage taking benefit of the minimum marks prescribed i.e 60%, he ought to be compartmentalised into his category only. Thus, qualifying in the ATRE-2019 with concessional marks would amount to reservation. However, in case the said reserved category candidate obtains 65% or more in the said ATRE-2019 examination, he cannot be restricted into his category and ought to migrate into the open category in view of section 3(6) of the reservation Act. To the mind of this court, the whole difficulty has arisen due to the use of the word "unreserved category" and "open category" interchangeably. There is no quota for unreserved category, which actually is an open category, wherein merit only counts, irrespective of his/her category.

107. Further, this court finds that, once these candidates qualify with or without the prescribed minimum marks, which depends as to whether they belong to reserved category or unreserved category, to make to the selection process, wherein a merit list would be prepared on the basis of quality points as per Appendix-1 of the rules, the concept of open competition is lost in the said preparation of the select list as the candidates (who were declared successful in the ATR Examination) were then merely asked to fill an online form and submit their academic results and mark sheets, which were used to prepare a merit list based on the weightage prescribed by the Rules and the explanatory Government Order. The enumeration of a candidate in the list, in accordance with the quality marks to prepare a merit select list does not form an open competition.

108. The said analogy could be well understood from the numbers as provided in the present case. Admittedly, about 4,31,466 number of candidates registered themselves for the ATRE-2019, all of whom have passed the TET with or without concessional marks. Thus, merely applying for ATRE-2019 armed with a concessional TET does not disarm any reserved category candidate the potential to compete with an unreserved category. As per the figure provided by the parties, amongst the aforesaid 4,31,466 candidates, about 1,46,060 candidates were declared successful. It is this step which was an open competition and accordingly in case the reserved category candidate is able to match with the minimum marks prescribed for the unreserved category, this court finds no reasons as to why the reserved category candidates would not be allowed to migrate into the open category as per the letter & spirit of section 3(6) of the reservation Act.

The preparation of the select list on the basis of quality point as per Appendix-1 of the rules is not an open competition as it is merely a natural progression for all those candidates, who have been declared successful, with or without the concessional marks applicable to the reserved category, for preparation of a select list of the number of vacancies, which in this case is 69000. Thus, reserved category candidates, who have obtained and matched with the minimum marks i.e 65% as prescribed for unreserved category would naturally progress into the open category and shall be accordingly selected in the said category, however, in case a reserved category obtains any number between 60% or less than 65% as has been prescribed as qualifying marks for reserved category and unreserved category respectively, he or she would be only considered in the reserved category only.

109. Further, when a reserved category candidate is able to obtain 65% marks in ATRE-2019 he or she obviously is at par with any general category candidate and as such ought to be adjusted in the open category, because he finds his entry into the open category like any other candidate who has participated in the ATRE-2019As held in various judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, a meritorious candidate cannot be put to disadvantage and constrained to compete in his own category, although he is at par or more meritorious than the last general category candidate selected in the open category. Time and again this court as well as the Hon'ble Supreme Court has emphasised that the unreserved category is not a reserved category for general candidates but an open category, which is open for both the reserved category as well as the general category, wherein merit is the only criteria for selection, provided the selection is an open competition as envisaged under section 3(6) of the Act. Further, Government order dated 25.03.1994 issued under The Uttar Pradesh Public Services (Reservation for Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and other Backward Classes) Act, 1994 [Act 4 of 1994] clearly states that even though the reserved category candidates have previously benefitted from certain relaxations, they will not be barred from application of section 3 of the Act, i.e., if they become eligible to be placed in open competition, they'll be so placed irrespective of any previous relaxation.

110. Moreover, as the manner and extent of reservation should be spelt out in the Government Order, it is only if there is an express bar in the Government Order, for migration of those who belong to the backward classes to the general category, would they then be disabled from competing for general category posts, for otherwise reservation underArticle 16(4)does not operate as a communal reservation. If members belonging to the socially and educationally backward classes get selected in the open competition field, on the basis of their own merit, they will not be counted against the quota reserved for the backward classes. They will be treated as open competition candidates. Ld. Counsel for the parties were not able to point out any such government order, which expressly barred such migration of reserved category candidates in the present Selection.

111. In this context, this court may refer to the Judgment in the case of Ritesh R. Sah v. Dr. Y.L. Yamul & Ors., (1996) 3 SCC 253. In the said case, thequestion that emerged for consideration before the Apex

Court was whether a candidate who belonged to the Scheduled Caste or any other reserved category could be counted against the quota meant for the reserved category even if he was entitled for selection for admission in open competition on the basis of his own merit or would he be treated as an open competition candidate. Their Lordships in paragraph 13 of the said decision expressed the view as under:

"13. There cannot be any dispute with the proposition that if a candidate is entitled to be admitted on the basis of his own merit then such admission should not be counted against the quota reserved for Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe or any other reserved category since that will be against the Constitutional mandate enshrined inArticle 16(4)."

In arriving at the aforesaid decision, their Lordships referred toIndra Sawhney v. Union of India, 1992 Supp (3) SCC 217 wherein it has been held thus:

"In this connection it is well to remember that the reservations underArticle 16(4)do not operate like a communal reservation. It may well happen that some members belonging to, say, Scheduled Castes get selected in the open competition field on the basis of their own merit; they will not be counted against the quota reserved for Scheduled Castes; they will be treated as open competition candidates."

112. Further, this court refers to the judgment in the case of R.K. Sabharwal v. State of Punjab, (1995) 2 SCC 745 wherein the Constitution Bench was considering the question of appointment and promotion and roster points vis-à-vis reservation and had opined thus:

"When a percentage of reservation is fixed in respect of a particular cadre and the roster indicates the reserve points, it has to be taken that the posts shown at thereserve points are to be filled from amongst the members of reserve categories and the candidates belonging to the general category are not entitled to be considered for the reserved posts. On the other hand the reserve category candidates can compete for the non-reserve posts and in the event of their appointment to the said posts their number cannot be added and taken into consideration for working out the percentage of reservation. Article 16(4) of the Constitution of India permits the State Government to make any provision for the reservation of appointments or posts in favour of any Backward Class of citizens which, in the opinion of the State if not adequately represented in the Services under the State. It is, therefore, incumbent on the State Government to reach a conclusion that the Backward Class/Classes for which the reservation is made is not adequately represented in the State Services. While doing so the State Government may take the total population of a particular Backward Class and its representation in the State Services. When the State Government after doing the necessary exercise makes the reservation and provides the extent of percentage of posts to be reserved for the said Backward Class then the percentage has to be followed strictly. The prescribed percentage cannot be varied or changed simply because some of the members of the Backward Class have already been appointed/promoted against the general seats."

113. At this stage, it is immensely instructive to refer to paragraph 811 of

Indra Sawhney (supra) which reads as follows:

"811. In this connection it is well to remember that the reservation underArticle 16(4)do not operate like a communal reservation. It may well happen that some members belonging to, say, Scheduled Castes get selected in the open competition filed on the basis of their own merit; they will not be counted against the quota reserved for Scheduled Castes; they will be treated as open competition candidates."

114. In the said case, Sawant, J., while dealing with the philosophy and objectives of reservation has opined thus:

"411. The aim of any civilized society should be to secure dignity to every individual. There cannot be dignity without equality of status and opportunity. The absence of equal opportunities in any walk of social life is a denial of equal status and equal participation in the affairs of the society and, therefore, of its equal membership. The dignity of the individual is denied in direct proportion to his deprivation of the equal access to social means. The democratic foundations are missing when equal opportunity to grow, govern, and give one"s best to the society is denied to a sizeable section of the society. The deprivation of the opportunities may be direct or indirect as when the wherewithals to avail of them are denied. Nevertheless, the consequences are as potent.

412. Inequality ill-favours fraternity, and unity remains a dream without fraternity. The goal enumerated in the Preamble of the Constitution, of fraternity assuring the dignity of the individual and the unity and integrity of the nation must, therefore, remain unattainable so long as the equality of opportunity is not ensured to all.

xxxx xxxx xxxx xxxx

416. The trinity of the goals of the Constitution, viz., socialism, secularism and democracy cannot be realised unless all sections of the society participate in the Statepower equally, irrespective of their caste, community, race, religion and sex and all discriminations in the sharing of the State power made on those grounds are eliminated by positive measures."

115. Apparently, from the various judgments delivered by the Apex Court, it is apparent that the whole purpose of reservation is a generic concept and has different connotations under various circumstances. The Constitution of India, the fountainhead of all law, requires one to understand and appreciate the schematic interpretation of the organic law of the country to understand the said concept.

116. A Division Bench of the Delhi High Court in the case of Tej Pal Yadav Vs Union of India (174 (2010) DLT 510(DB) in identical situation held that, a student may appear in the preliminary examination declaring that he belongs to the OBC category and may qualify or may not qualify; if he does not qualify, that is the end of the road; if he qualifies, he then appears in the main examination; if he does not qualify in the said examination, his right to get admission becomes totally extinct; if he qualifies within the OBC category, he may put forth his claim in that category, but if he gets more marks than the general candidates, he would be justified to say that he can be considered in the general category; if the whole concept of reservation is understood in a holistic manner, it becomes clear that appearance of a candidate from the OBC category, in the preliminary examination, is basically at the entry level; though both the preliminary and the main examinations may seem interconnected, on a deeper scrutiny it is clear that there is a subtle distinctive separation; if an OBC candidate appears in the preliminary examination as an OBC category candidate, and performs extremely well in the main examination, his claim should not be scuttled or smothered solely on the ground that he had taken the initial examination as an OBC category candidate; and in case this is allowed to be done, a general category candidate, who really could not compete with the OBC candidate in the main examination, would steal a march over him; and that would not be in public interest.

117. It may be true that in view of the advertisement the selection process ought to have been adopted in a manner also that it could have been an open competition with general candidates, i.e., by comparing the merit of the reserved category candidates along with the merit of the general category candidates obtained in the ATRE-2019 and thereafter final select list could have been prepared by placing the reserved category candidates in the list of finally selected candidates as per their merit but this procedure was not adopted. As a matter of fact, the Respondents had filed its Supplementary Counter Affidavit in connected writ petition in bunch of writ petitions vide Writ Petition No. 13156 of 2020 (Writ-A), dated 24.05.2022 sworn by Dr. Sarvendra Vikram Bahadur Singh, posted as Director of Education (Basic), Lucknow U.P. wherein at paragraph 7 and 8 it was categorically admitted that the select lists have been prepared without taking into account as to whether these reserved category candidates have taken the benefit of reservation in TET examination or Assistant Teacher recruitment examination.

118. Further, this court cannot be oblivious of the short counter affidavit dated 24.05.2022 filed in the lead matter (Writ- A- No. 13156 of 2020) by the Respondents, wherein they have admitted at paragraph 5 and 6 of the said counter-affidavit that the reservation policy for Scheduled caste category and Scheduled Tribe Category and Other Backward Class category applied to the present recruitment was revisited by the authorities, wherein it was revealed that the application of horizontal and vertical reservation was applied in opposite sequence due to which, some of the candidate who have secured equal or higher cut-off marks to General Candidate have been appointed against reserved category seats. Thus, the Respondents admitting there folly, whimsically decided to rectify the same and as such had issued the fourth select list of 6800 candidates, which was published on 05.01.2022. Similar admissions were also made by the Respondents in a short counter affidavit dated 04.05.2022 filed in Writ petition- A-No. 8142-2021.

119. This court finds that even the aforesaid reasons for an admitted flaw in the select list is not tenable factually as if for the sake of argument, it was presumed to be true that vertical and horizontal reservation have been applied in opposite sequence then unreserved category candidates ought to had been selected in lesser numbers and in place of list of reserved category candidates, list of unreserved category candidates would had been issued because the correct sequence as observed in para 18 of Hon'ble supreme Court judgment in case of Anil Kumar

Gupta [(1995) 5 SCC 173], is that vertical reservation ought to be applied first and horizontal reservation thereafter. If, the respondents would had applied the vertical & horizontal reservation in opposite sequence, which meant horizontal reservation was applied first and vertical reservation thereafter, then post reserved for horizontal reservation would had been taken from total number of vacancies and in this process all candidates (unreserved and reserved) should have been affected, therefore a select list of unreserved category would had been issued and not only list of reserved category candidates as has been sought to be done by the respondent.

120. During the course of hearing, this court on several occasions had directed the state to provide details of the candidates, along with their category and marks obtained by them in the ATRE-2019, however the state has merely provided figures and numbers of candidates selected in the reserved category as well as the open category and as such on the basis of the said numbers in the chart has been insisting that reserved category candidates have been allowed to migrate to the open category and thus there had been no violation of implementation of Section 3(6) of the Act. However, the marks scored by each candidate along with their category, who have been qualified in ATRE-2019 was never provided by the state nor the same was made available to the court and as such this court is of the view that correct appreciation of migration of MRC candidates to the open category cannot be determined with the available facts of the present case.

121. Before this Court arrives at a finding & records its conclusion, it would be omnipotent that the various judgments cited by the parties and their relevance to the issue may be discussed forthwith.

122. Various decision have been relied upon by the parties during the course of hearing. The first judgment relied upon by them has been passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case titled "Jitendra Kumar Singh v. State of Uttar Pradesh & Others (2010) 3 SCC 119". In the said case, a competitive examination was held for filling up the post of Sub-Inspectors of Civil Police and Platoon Commanders in PAC by direct recruitment. For SC, ST & OBC candidates there was waiver of examination fee and relaxation in the upper age limit which was in terms of Section 8(1) of the Uttar Pradesh Public Services (Reservation for Scheduled Caste, Scheduled Tribes and otherBackward Classes) Act, 1994. Section 3(6)of the above Act provided that if a reserved candidate got selected on the basis of a merit in an open competition with general candidates, he would not be adjusted against vacancies reserved for the reserved category.

123. The Government instructions dated 25th March, 1994 provided that if a reserved category candidate was selected on the basis of merit in the open competition along with general category candidates, he would not be adjusted towards reserved category i.e. he would be deemed to have beenadjusted against the unreserved vacancies. This was irrespective of whether he had availed of any facility or relaxation (like relaxation age limit). The Appellants, in the said case, who were general candidates contended that reserved category candidates should not be adjusted against the unreserved (UR) vacancies but only against the reserved vacancies. This was not accepted by the High Court. The decision of the High Court was affirmed by the Supreme Court. It was clarified as under:

"71. We are of the considered opinion that the concessions falling withinSection 8of the Act of 1994 cannot be said to be relaxations in the standard prescribed for qualifying in the written examination.Section 8clearly provides that the State Government may provide for concessions in respect of fees in the competitive examination or interview and relaxation in upper age limit.

72. Soon after the enforcement of the 1994 Act the Government issued Instructions dated 25-3-1994 on the subject of reservation for Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and other backward groups in the Uttar Pradesh Public Services. These instructions, inter alia, provide as under:

"4. If any person belonging to reserved categories is selected on the basis of merits in open competition along with general category candidates, then he will not be adjusted towards reserved category, that is, he shall be deemed to have been adjusted against the unreserved vacancies. It shall be immaterial that he has availed any facility or relaxation (like relaxation in age-limit) available to reserved category."

From the above it becomes quite apparent that the relaxation in age-limit is merely to enable the reserved category candidate to compete with the general category candidate, all other things being equal. The State has not treated the relaxation in age and fee as relaxation in the standard for selection, based on the merit of the candidate in the selection test i.e. Main Written Test followed by Interview. Therefore, such relaxations cannot deprive a reserved category candidate of the right to be considered as a general category candidate on the basis of merit in the competitive examination. Sub-section (2) ofSection 8further provides that Government Orders in force on the commencement of the Act in respect of the concessions and relaxations including relaxation in upper age limit which are not inconsistent with the Act continue to be applicable till they are modified or revoked.

73. Learned counsel for the appellants had submitted that in the present appeals, the issue is only with regard to age relaxation and not to any other concessions. The vires ofSection 3(6) orSection 8have not been challenged before us. It was only submitted by the learned Sr. Counsel for the petitioners/appellants that age relaxation gives an undue advantage to the candidate belonging to the reservedcategory. They are more experienced and, therefore, steal a march over General Category candidates whose ages range from 21 to 25 years.

74. It is not disputed before us that relaxation in age is not only given to members of the Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and OBCs, but also the dependents of Freedom Fighters. Such age relaxation is also given to Ex-servicemen to the extent of service rendered in the Army, plus three years. In fact, the educational qualifications in the case of Ex-servicemen is only intermediate or equivalent whereas for the General category candidates it is graduation. It is also accepted before us that Ex-servicemen compete not only in their own category, but also with the General category candidates. No grievance has been made by any of the appellants/petitioners with regard to the age relaxation granted to the Ex-servicemen. Similarly, the dependents of Freedom Fighters are also free to compete in the General category if they secure more marks than the last candidate in the General category. Therefore, we do not find much substance in the submission of the learned counsel for the appellants that relaxation in age "queers the pitch" in favour of the reserved category at the expense of the General category.

75. In our opinion, the relaxation in age does not in anymanner upset the "level playing field". It is not possible to accept the submission of the learned counsel for the appellants that relaxation in age or the concession in fee would in any manner be infringement ofArticle 16 (1)of the Constitution of India. These concessions are provisions pertaining to the eligibility of a candidate to appear in the competitive examination. At the time when the concessions are availed, the open competition has not commenced. It commences when all the candidates who fulfill the eligibility conditions, namely, qualifications, age, preliminary written test and physical test are permitted to sit in the main written examination. With age relaxation and the fee concession, the reserved candidates are merely brought within the zone of consideration, so that they can participate in the open competition on merit. Once the candidate participates in the written examination, it is immaterial as to which category, the candidate belongs. All the candidates to be declared eligible had participated in the Preliminary Test as also in the Physical Test. It is only thereafter that successful candidates have been permitted to participate in the open competition."

124. In the present case, also the concession given in passing marks in TET does not in anymanner upset the "level playing field". The passing of TET is a provision pertaining to the eligibility of a candidate to appear in the competitive examination. At the time when the TET is passed, albeit under the concessional marks, the open competition has not commenced as it commences when all the candidates who fulfill the eligibility conditions, namely, qualifications, TET, age etc. are permitted to participate in the ATRE. As observed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the aforesaid judgment, by giving relaxation in the passing marks of TET, the reserved candidates are merely brought within the zone of consideration, so that they can participate in the open competition on merit i.e the ATRE-2019. Once the candidate has participated in the ATRE-2019, it is immaterial as to which category, the candidate belongs and in terms of section 3(6), in case a reserved category candidate is able to match the score of the general category, he ought to migrate and be considered in the open category.

125. The next judgment relied upon by the parties is by the Apex Court in Vikas Sankhala v. Vikas Kumar Agarwal, (2017) 1 SCC 350, wherein the issue arose in the context of appointment of teaching staff through the Teachers Eligibility Test(TET) conducted by the State of Rajasthan. There was relaxation in the minimum pass marks in the TET to the extent of 10% to persons belonging to SC, ST and OBC category. One of the issues considered by the Supreme Court was framed as inter-alia:

"38.3 (iii) Whether reserved category candidates, who secured better than general category candidates in recruitment examination, can be denied migration to general seats on the basis that they had availed relaxation in TET.?"

126. In answering the said question in negative the Supreme Court referred to the circulars issued by the State Government from time to time. It was noted that the mere fact that some relaxation was given in the pass marks in the TET did not give any advantage to the reserve category candidate as it only enabled them to compete with others by allowing them to participate in the selection process. Therefore, in terms of the circular dated 11th May, 2011 issued by the Government in that case "the reserve category candidates, who secured more marks than the marks obtained by the last candidate selected in general category would be entitled to be considered against unreserved category vacancies." The observation of the Hon'ble Supreme court was captured at paragraph 80 of the Judgment which inter-alia stated:

"80. Having regard to the respective submissions noted above, first aspect that needs consideration is as to whether relaxation in TET pass marks would amount to concession in the recruitment process. The High Court has held to be so on the premise that para 9(a) dealing with such relaxation in TET marks forms part of the document which relates to the recruitment procedure. It is difficult to accept this rationale or analogy. Passing of TET examination is a condition of eligibility for appointment as a teacher. It is a necessary qualification without which a candidate is not eligible to be considered for appointment. This was clearly mentioned in guidelines/notification dated February 11, 2011. These guidelines pertain to conducting of TET. Basic features whereof have already been pointed out above. Even para 9 which provides for concessions that can be given to certain reserved categories deals with 'qualifying marks' that is to be obtained in TET examination. Thus, a person who passes TET examination becomes eligible to participate in the selection process as and when such selection process for filling up of the posts of primary teachers is to be undertaken by the State. On the other hand, when it comes to recruitment of teachers, the method for appointment of teachers is altogether different. Here, merit list of successful candidates is to be prepared on the basis of marks obtained under different heads. One of the heads is marks in TET. So far as this head is concerned, 20% of the marks obtained in TET are to be assigned to each candidate. Therefore, those reserved category candidates who secured lesser marks in TET would naturally get less marks under this head. We like to demonstrate it with an example. Suppose a reserved category candidate obtains 53 marks in TET, he is treated as having qualified TET. However, when he is considered for selection to the post of primary teacher, in respect of allocation of marks he will get 20% marks for TET. As against him, a general candidate who secures 70 marks in TET shall be awarded 14 marks in recruitment process. Thus, on the basis of TET marks reserved category candidate has not got any advantage while considering his candidature for the post. On the contrary, "level playing field" is maintained whereby a person securing higher marks in TET, whether belonging to general category or reserved category, is allocated higher marks in respect of 20% of TET marks. Thus, in recruitment process no weightage or concession is given and allocation of 20% of TET marks is applied across the board. Therefore, the High Court is not correct in observing that concession was given in the recruitment process on the basis of relaxation in TET.

127. This court finds that in Vikas Sankhla case the Hon'ble Supreme Court permitted the Migration of reserved category candidates from reserved category to general category to be admissible to those reserved category candidates who secured more marks than the last unreserved category candidates, irrespective of availing concession of passing marks in TET. Further, in the said case, the selection of Teachers was to be made on the basis of marks obtained under different heads including that of marks obtained in TET. Thus, obtaining of marks in TET was also a criteria which effected the overall selection of a candidate as a Teacher and even in that circumstances, the Apex Court refused to consider the concessional marks obtained in passing the TET to be an embargo for Migration of reserved category from reserved category to open category, whereas in the case in hand, admittedly TET is merely an eligibility criteria and does not have any influence on the selection list as obtaining of marks in TET is not a part of the quality points as mentioned in Appendix-1 of the rules.

128. The third judgment relied upon by the parties is the case of Gaurav Pradhan v. State of Rajasthan, (2018) 11 SCC 352, wherein the issue was relating to recruitment in the post of Constables under the Rajasthan Police Subordinate Service Rules, 1989. Various circulars had been issued by the State Government from time to time. A Division Bench of the Rajasthan High Court allowed the plea of the reserved category candidates to the extent that after despite getting relaxation of age if they were higher in the merit than the general open category vacancies they could migrate to the general open category vacancies. However, if they had availed relaxation/concessions while participating in the competitive test/ process of selection they would not be eligible for said migration.

129. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in that case, referred to circulars issued by the Rajasthan Government from time to time and noticed that in 6.2 of a circular dated 24thJune, 2008 there is an express bar as under:

"6.2 In the state, members of the SC/ST/OBC can compete against non-reserved vacancies and be counted against them, in case they have not taken any concession (like that of age, etc.) payment of examination fee in case of direct recruitment."

130. Thus, in view of the aforesaid express bar and following the earlier decision in Deepa E.V. V/s Union of India (2017) 12 SCC 680, the Supreme Court held that there could be no migration in the above circumstances permitted for those SC candidates to the unreserved vacancies in the following terms as could be found at paragraph 49 of the Judgment:

"49. In view of the foregoing discussion, we are of the considered opinion that the candidates belonging to SC/ST/BC who had taken relaxation of age were not entitled to be migrated to the unreserved vacancies, the State of Rajasthan has migrated such candidates who have taken concession of age against the unreserved vacancies which resulted displacement of a large number of candidates who were entitled to be selected against the unreserved category vacancies. The candidates belonging to unreserved category who could not be appointed due to migration of candidates belonging to SC/ST/BC were clearly entitled for appointment which was denied to them on the basis of the above illegal interpretation put by the State. We, however, also take notice of the fact that the reserved category candidates who had taken benefit of age relaxation and were migrated on the unreserved category candidates and are working for more than last five years. The reserved category candidates who were appointed on migration against unreserved vacancies are not at fault in any manner. Hence, we are of the opinion that SC/ST/BC candidates who have been so migrated in reserved vacancies and appointed should not be displaced and allowed to continue in respective posts. On the other hand, the unreserved candidates who could not be appointed due to the above illegal migration are also entitled for appointment as per their merit. The equities have to be adjusted by this Court."

The Hon'ble Apex Court, in order to balance the equity concluded by issuing the following directions:

"50. On the question of existence of vacancies, although learned counsel for the appellant submitted that vacancies are still lying there, which submission however has been refuted by the learned counsel for the State of Rajasthan. However, neither appellants had produced any details of number of vacancies nor the State has been able to inform the Court about the correct position of the vacancies.

51. We thus for adjusting the equity between the parties issue following directions:

51.1 The writ petitioners/appellants who as per their merit were entitled to be appointed against unreserved vacancies which vacancies were filled up by migration of SC/ST/BC candidates who had taken relaxation of age should be given appointment on the posts. The State is directed to work out and issue appropriate orders for appointment of such candidates who were as per their merit belonging to general category candidates entitled for appointment which exercise shall be completed within three months from the date copy of this order is produced.

51.2 The State shall make appointments against the existing vacancies, if available, and in the event there are no vacancies available for the above candidates, the supernumerary posts may be created for adjustment of the appellants which supernumerary posts may be terminated as and when vacancies come into existence.

131. The Court next proposes to discuss the case law relied & reported as Deepa E.V. V/s Union of India (2017) 12 SCC 680. The facts in Deepa E.V. (supra) were that the Appellant applied for the post of Laboratory Assistant, Grade-II in the Export Inspection Council of India functioning in the Ministry of Commerce and Industry, Government of India. The Appellant was in the OBC category and was among the 11 candidates from that category called for the interview. She secured 82 marks. One other OBC candidate who had secured 93 marks was selected. In the general category none of the candidates secured the minimum cut off of 70 marks.

132. The Appellant accordingly contended that she should be accommodated in the general category. Her writ petition was dismissed by the Single Judge and her appeal against that judgment was also dismissed by the Division Bench. However, the Supreme Court referred to condition three in the proceedings dated 1st July, 1998 issued by the Department of Personnel and Training, Government of India on the subject "Reserved vacancies to be filled up by candidates lower in merit or even by released standards-candidates selected on their own merits not to be adjusted against reserved quota." Condition three read as under:

"3. In this connection, it is clarified that only such SC/ST/OBC candidates who are selected on the same standards as applied to general candidates shall not be adjusted against reserved vacancies. In other words, when a relaxed standard is applied in selecting an SC/ST/OBCcandidates, for example in the age-limit, experience, qualification, permitted number of chances in written examination, extended zone of consideration larger than what is provided for general category candidates, etc. the SC/ST/OBC candidates are to be counted against reserved vacancies. Such candidates would be deemed as unavailable for consideration against unreserved vacancies."

133. It was on the account of the fact that specific bar as above had not been challenged by the Appellant in that case that the Supreme Court was unable to grant her the relief prayed for.

134. The Ld. Counsel for the parties have placed much reliance on Apex Court decision, which requires special mention. The case reported as "State (NCT of Delhi V/s Pradeep Kumar"(2019) 10 SCC 120". In the said case, Special Education Teachers under the Government of Delhi were sought to be recruited. The respondents had obtained CTET under the relaxed pass norms of OBC category, in the states other than Delhi and as such his candidature was found to be not eligible, which did not find favour with the Central Administrative Tribunal, which directed the candidates to be appointed. The said decision was upheld by the Division bench of the High Court of Delhi. However, the Apex Court reversing both the decision observed in the said peculiar facts that in the said recruitment process, the respondents did not possess OBC (Delhi) certificate and thus they could not be considered for the OBC category vacancies. The issue in that case was not migration of reserved category to open category rather the issue was regarding availing of employment in reserved category posts earmarked for OBCs who are certified by the Delhi Government. The Apex court, in the said Judgment observed the distinguishing & peculiar facts at paragraph 19.5, which inter-alia states:

"19.5 The other distinguishing aspect in Vikas Sankhala (supra) is that the candidates who had applied under the reserved category belonged to Rajasthan. For the selection and aspirants from the same State i.e., Rajasthan, the Court allowed such candidates to migrate to the unreserved category. In the present case, however, the candidates (i.e. the respondents) belong to States other than Delhi. Being OBC (outsiders), they could have been considered only under the unreserved category if they secure at least 60% marks in the CTET. The respondents admittedly did not secure 60% and thus were ineligible. Moreover, an OBC candidate not certified in the State/Territory outside of Delhi cannot be eligible to avail of employment in reserved category posts earmarked for OBCs who are certified by the Delhi Government."

135. The next judgment relied by the parties during the hearing of the matter was Saurav Yadav V/s State of Uttar Pradesh, (2021) 4 SCC 542. The facts in that case relating to recruitment of Police constables both under U.P Civil Police and Provisional Armed Constabulary in the state of Uttar Pradesh. The controversy in that case was relating to the correct method of filing the horizontal quota reserved for women candidates, wherein it was complained by largely women candidates belonging to OBC's, that the state had not correctly applied the rule of reservation and as such have denied the benefit of "migration" i.e adjustment in the General Category Vacancies. Although the issue was relating to the inter-play between the vertical (social) reservation and horizontal (special) reservation, however the said issue is not engaging the attention of this court in the present bunch of matters. However, the conclusion by Justice S. Ravindra Bhat, who gave a separate affirmative & supplementing judgment is of special significance as it clinches the issue. Justice Bhat inter-alia held;

"66. I would conclude by saying that reservations, both vertical and horizontal, are method of ensuring representation in public services. These are not to be seen as rigid "slots", where a candidate's merit, which otherwise entitles her to be shown in the open general category, is foreclosed, as the consequence would be, if the state's argument is accepted. Doing so, would result in a communal reservation, where each social category is confined within the extent of their reservation, thus negating merit. The open category is open to all, and the only condition for a candidate to be shown in it is merit, regardless of whether reservation benefit of either type is available to her or him."

136. In any case, the Respondents would be guided by the aforesaid judgment as far as implementation of "Horizontal Reservation" is concerned, as the aforesaid judgment is an authority on the said aspect.

137. The next case relied by the parties is Niravkumar Dilipbhai Makwana vs Gujrat Public Service Commission, (2019) 7 SCC 383, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court was considering recruitment to the posts of Assistant conservator of Forest and Range Forest officer in the state of Gujrat. It was argued that the relaxation/concession in age granted to the candidates at the initial stage was only to enable a candidate belonging to the reserved category without granting him/her any preferential advantage in the matter of selection cannot be treated as an incident of reservation underArticle 16(4)of the Constitution of India. Further, the Circulars dated 29.01.2000 and 23.07.2004 issued by the Government of Gujarat was sought to be interpreted to show that a concession in age in the matter of selection to a post cannot be treated as an incident of reservation. The Hon'ble Apex court dismissing the contention of the petitioners in that matter, was pleased to hold;

"25. In the instant case, State Government has framed policy for the grant of reservation in favour of SC/ST and OBC by the Circulars dated 21.01.2000 and 23.07.2004. The State Government has clarified that when a relaxed standard is applied in selecting a candidate for SC/ST, SEBC category in the age limit, experience, qualification, permitting number of chances in the written examination etc., then candidate of such category selected in the said manner, shall have to be considered only against his/her reserved post. Such acandidate would be deemed as unavailable for consideration against unreserved post.

138. Thus, it is seen from the aforesaid judgment that each case turned on the peculiar facts and the conditions as specified in the recruitment notices, the prevailing statute and the circulars issued from time to time. It is seen that in Nirav Kuamr Dilipbhai case, Deepa E.V. case and Gaurav Pradhan Case, there were specific instructions which barred the consideration of the reserved category candidates against Unreserved category vacancies, whereas in Jitendra Kumar Singh Case and Vikas Sankhala Case they permitted accommodating the reserved category candidates against Unreserved Category vacancies if they bettered the Unreserved Category cut off marks. During the course of hearing, the Ld. Counsels were not able to point out any specific instruction applicable to the present facts of the case, which barred the migration of reserved category to the open category. In fact, section 3(6) of the Reservation Act coupled with the Government order dated 25.03.1994 specifically entails such migration. As far as the Pradeeep Kumar case is concerned, the same is distinguishable on facts as there was an altogether different issue, which engaged the attention of the Apex Court, wherein it was held that an OBC candidate not certified in the State/Territory outside of Delhi cannot be eligible to avail of employment in reserved category posts earmarked for OBCs who are certified by the Delhi Government.

I. Allocation of preferential Districts

139. Having discussed the judgment relating to migration of MRC (Meritorious Reserved Category) to open category seats, this court comes next to another point in issue in this present bunch of matters. It has been contended that the reservation policy implemented by the authorities in allocating the districts of preference to the MRC Candidates have been flouted. According to candidates belonging to General Category, once a MRC is not allocated the preferred district as far as the merit of the open category is concerned and this MRC candidate for his own good reason is reverted to the reserved category for preferred district allocation, the seats vacated by such MRC candidates from the open category should be filled by candidates from General category only. These candidates have referred to the Hon'ble Apex Court Judgment passed in the case of Union of India Vs Ramesh Ram& Ors (2010) 7 SCC 234. These candidates have relied on the conclusion of the said Judgment, which appears at paragraph 50 as herein below:

"50. We sum up our answers-:

i) MRC candidates who avail the benefit of Rule 16 (2) and adjusted in the reserved category should be counted as part of the reserved pool for the purpose of computing the aggregate reservation quotas. The seats vacated by MRC candidates in the General Pool will be offered to General category candidates.

ii) By operation of Rule 16 (2), the reserved status of an MRC candidate is protected so that his/ her better performance does not deny him of the chance to be allotted to a more preferred service.

iii) The amended Rule 16 (2) only seeks to recognize the inter se merit between two classes of candidates i.e. a) meritorious reserved category candidates b) relatively lower ranked reserved category candidates, for the purpose of allocation to the various Civil Services with due regard for the preferences indicated by them.

iv) The reserved category candidates "belonging to OBC, SC/ ST categories" who are selected on merit and placed in the list of General/Unreserved category candidates can choose to migrate to the respective reserved category at the time of allocation of services. Such migration as envisaged by Rule 16 (2) is not inconsistent with Rule 16 (1) or Articles 14, 16 (4) and 335 of the Constitution."

140. However, candidates of the reserved category have contended that the authorities have wrongly while allocating the districts of preference to MRC candidates have "substantively" treated them as "reserved category candidate", whereas according to the various judgments of this court as well as the Hon'ble Apex Court, MRC candidates have to be only treated "notionally" as reserve category candidates for the said purpose for allotment of districts. Thus, it has been argued that the respondent authorities have arbitrarily presumed that the unreserved seats left over by the MRC candidates were available for even more selection of general candidates, which consequently led to excess selection of general category candidates in the left-over seats of the MRC, who in turn were adjusted against reserved quota vacancies, instead of unreserved vacancies.

141. This court finds that the argument of the candidates of general category is a long shot. First and foremost, the argument of the general category candidate apparently seems to be the adversely effected by assuming that open category is a quo for general category candidate. It is clarified that open category as the name signifies is not a quota as any quota is fixed to the limit of 50% as available to the OBC, SC & ST. The argument is premises on the believe that there is 100% quota, wherein 50% belongs to OBC, SC & ST, whereas the other 50% belongs to general category. Once, this confusion is removed, the argument also vanishes in thin air.

142. Further, the judgment in Ramesh ram has not been relied in the correct perspective by the open category candidates as the Hon'ble Supreme court in the case of Union of India Vs Ramesh Ram& Ors (2010) 7 SCC 234 was concerned with the Constitutional validity of Sub-Rules (2) to (5) of Rule 16 of the Civil Services Examination Rules, for the civil services examinations from 2005 to 2007 and was relating to choice exercised by a candidate for the coveted service of IAS/IPS/IRS, wherein in the present case, a choice is related to a preferential district only and the candidate continues to be an Assistant Teacher, juxtaposed to the Ramesh Ram case, wherein a candidate by choosing his preference can be selected either in IAS/IPS/IRS or some other allied services. Recently, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Tripurari Sharan Vs Ranjit Kuamr Yadav, (2018) 7 SCC 656, which was related to admission in PG Medical college, wherein again a student by exercise of choice gets a different college, the Hon'ble Apex court after referring to the judgment passed in the Ramesh Ram case concluded as follows:

"14. In light of the cases discussed hereinabove, both questions are answered as follows:

i) A MRC can opt for a seat earmarked for the reserved category, so as to not disadvantage him against less meritorious reserved category candidates. Such MRC shall be treated as part of the general category only.

ii) Due to the MRC's choice, one reserved category seat is occupied, and one seat among the choices available to general category candidates remains unoccupied. Consequently, onelesser-ranked reserved category candidate who had choices among the reserved category is affected as he does not get any choice anymore.

To remedy the situation i.e. to provide the affected candidate a remedy, the 50th seat which would have been allotted to X - MRC, had he not opted for a seat meant for the reserved category to which he belongs, shall now be filled up by that candidate in the reserved category list who stands to lose out by the choice of the MRC. This leaves the percentage of reservation at 50% undisturbed."

J. Select list of 6800 dated 05.01.20222

143. The next question which falls for consideration is as to whether, the state admitting its folly can issue an additional list of 6800 dated 05.01.2022 meant for only reserved category candidates over and above the advertised seats of 69000. Well, there had been a preliminary objection raised relating to the maintainability of this kind of writ petitions as the petitioners, who had challenged this select list have either failed to qualify the ATRE-2019 or are candidates, who were not eligible to participate in ATRE-2019, but who became eligible subsequently. Thus, these petitioners in view of their future claim to participate in the ATRE have approached this court as any additional seat being permitted by the respondents at this stage would actually truncate the number of seats in future vacancy. Although, the relief being sought by these bunch of petitioners seems to be far-fetched as this court has been flooded with petitions relating to ATRE-2019 and there is no sight for future ATRE as of now, however keeping in view the gamut of issues raised and the hearing conducted by this court, the relief as sought by these petitioners are being dealt in a different manner.

144. It has been contended by Sri Sudeep Seth, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioners in a bunch of writ petition that as against 69000 posts advertised on 1.12.2018 all the posts were filled up after selection as per the affidavit filed by the Secretary, U.P. Basic Education Board filed in Writ Petition No. 1389 (SS) of 1991, Jawahar Lal v. State of U.P. on 12.7.2021. He also points out that a writ petition was filed before the Hon'ble Supreme Court seeking relief that certain vacancies which had occurred subsequently could also be filed up on the basis of the selection held in pursuance to the advertisement dated 1.12.2018 which was in respect of the 69000 posts referred hereinabove, however, this relief was declined by Hon'ble Supreme Court vide its judgment dated 11.2.2021 passed in Writ Petition (Civil) No. 760 of 2020, Shivam Pandey & ors. vState of U.P. & ors. The said order reads as under:

"This petition filed under Article 32 of the Constitution of India prays inter alia that 26944 unfilled posts from the Assistant Teachers Recruitment Examination 2018 be directed to be filled through instant selection.

Heard learned counsel for the parties.

It is a matter of record that 69000 posts were advertised to be filled through

Assistant Teachers Recruitment Examination 2019.

In the circumstances, no direction can be issued to the concerned authorities to fill up posts in excess of 69000.

We, therefore, see no merit in the petition.

The writ petition is, accordingly, dismissed.

Pending applications, if any, also stand disposed of."

145. Mr. Seth, also submitted that the respondents have contended in one of the writ proceedings before this court, that the 6800 posts which are to be filled from the 'Reserved Category' candidates are not part of the 68500 vacancies on the posts of Assistant Teacher which were advertised on 9.1.2018 (A.T.R.E. 2018), nor as aforesaid they are a part of the present ATRE-2019 as admittedly all the seats stands filled-up. Thus, it is being contended by him that these vacancies were neither advertised on 01.12.2018 (ATRE-2019) nor on 09.1.2018(ATRE-2018) and, as such these 6800 vacancies allegedly meant for 'Reserved Category' candidates were never advertised and were not part of selection referred hereinabove relating to A.T.R.E. 2018 and A.T.R.E. 2019, therefore, they cannot be filled up on the basis of the said selection, as is apparent from what has been noticed hereinabove. He says that, therefore, unless these vacancies are advertised and a fresh recruitment exercise for recruitment is conducted, there is no way that these 6800 vacancies can be filled up, but it seems that based on the selection for the 69000 posts referred hereinabove these vacancies are being filled up, which is clearly in the teeth of the decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court dated 11.2.2021 as also the law on the subject. He says that petitioners who are not successful in A.T.R.E. 2019 could nevertheless be entitled to be considered for fresh appointment in the subsequent vacancies which would include the 6800 vacancies which are the subject matter of this writ petition, as petitioners belong to the Reserved Category from which these posts are to be filled up. Moreover, he says that the determination of these reserved vacancies itself is erroneous and, therefore, the other petitioners of the General Category have also a locus standi in the matter. He further says that out of the 6800 selectees, some of them have been arrayed in representative capacity. He says that on 5.1.2022 a select-list of 6800 reserved category candidates has been issued which is not tenable in law and is liable to be quashed.

146. This court finds force in the argument of Mr. Seth, Sr. Advocate as far as his contention relating to the order by the Hon'ble Supreme Court is concerned, wherein the Apex court has refused to find any merit in the request of the petitioner in that matter to direct the concerned authorities to fill the 26,944 unfilled posts from the ATRE-2018 through the ATRE-2019 and as such in the said peculiar circumstances has refused to issue any direction to the concerned authorities to fill up posts in excess of 69000. However, the contention of Mr. Seth as far as the maintainability of the writ petition is concerned, the same is farfetched. Although, a Full Bench of this Court in Sanjay Kumar Pathak Vs. State of U.P. and others, writ petition no. 65189 of 2006, decided on 25th May, 2007, has reiterated inter-alia that "Nobody can claim as a matter of right that recruitment on any post should be made every year." and moreover, these petitioners, have no locus standii as their cause is pre-mature and further petitioners have a strong onus of proving there grievance as to come within the definition of "persons aggrieved" as devised by the Hon'ble Apex Court on many instances which has nowhere been discharged by these petitioners and especially when these petitions is not filed as a Public Interest Litigation, however, dehors the issue of maintainability of this writ petition, which this court is refraining to comment on this stage, this court is of the view that the law stands settled on the aspect that it was not permissible for the Government to hand out more appointments than the vacancies that are advertised. The law had been settled by a number of decisions of the Apex Court itself that it was against the law and also the rights of others to appoint more people than the vacancies advertised. A reference can be made to the following cases (i) Union of India Vs Ishwar Singh Khatri (1992) Supp 3 SCC 84, (ii) Gujrat State Deputy executive Enginers Association Vs State of Gujrat (1994) Suppl 2 SCC 591, (iii) State of Bihar V/s The Secretariat Assisstant S.E Union AIR 1994, SC 736, (iv) Prem Singh Vs Haryana State Electricity Board, (1996) 4 SCC 319 (v) Ashok Kumar V/s Chairman, Banking Service Recruitment Board, AIR 1996 SC 976. In each of these cases, it has been held that vacancies cannot be filled up over and above the number of vacancies advertised as "the recruitment of the candidates in excess of the notified vacancies is a denial and deprivation of the constitutional right under Article 14 read with Article 16(1) of the Constitution" of those persons who acquired eligibility for the post in question in accordance with the statutory rules subsequent to the date of notification of vacancies.

147. Further, it is apparent from the aforementioned chronology of events leading to the issuance of the select list of 6800 for reserved category candidates on 05.01.2022 that the stand and reason of the Respondent is both contradictory and vague. As per the own admission of the respondents, the said select list of 6800 has been issued to remove the anomaly in reservation in ATRE-2019 and they did not relate to 22,933 vacancies of ATRE-2018, as stated by the State Government in order dated 12.01.2022 passed in Special Appeal No. 79 of 2020 (Alok Kumar and Ors. Vs State of U.P). The natural corollary of the aforesaid admission is (i) there is an anomaly in implementing the reservation policy of ATRE-2019, which in the opinion of this court is more than enough to quash the select list of 01.06.2020 and secondly, (ii) in case, select list of 6800 is an outcome to remove the anamoly, how and in what manner the said anomaly has been sought to be removed, the respondent is completely silent on the said aspect, thirdly (iii) if the respondent have chosen to remove the anomaly, how can the respondent breach the number 69000, without disengaging equal number of candidates from the said list, fourthly, (iv) the Hon'ble Supreme Court vide its judgment dated 11.2.2021 passed in Writ Petition (Civil) No. 760 of 2020, Shivam Pandey & ors. v. State of U.P. & ors has refused to grant any relief for appointment in excess of 69000. Moreover, in view of the own admission of the respondent, 6800 reserved category select list cannot be related to or fill any vacancies in ATRE-2019 recruitment process as the respondent have stated in affidavit dated 12.07.2021 filed in this court that no vacancies were available in 69000 Assistant teachers post recruitment process.

148. It is settled law that an authority cannot make selection/ appointment beyond the number of posts advertised, since it deprives the candidates ineligible for appointment on last date for submission of application and who became eligible for appointment thereafter, to participate in fresh selection exercise through fresh advertisement. Thus, filling up the vacancies over the notified vacancies is neither permissible nor desirable, for the reason that it amounts to improper exercise of power. Filling up of vacancies over the notified vacancies amounts to filling up of future vacancies and thus, not permissible in law. The judgment passed by the Apex court in the case of Suridner Singh & Ors. Vs State of Punjab & Ors. AIR 1998 SC 18 and Hoshiyar Singh Vs State of U.P (1993) Supp (4) SCC 377 is of special reference, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court held at paragraph 10 as inter-alia:

"10. The appointment on the additional posts on the basis of such selection and recommendation would deprive candidates who were not eligible for appointment to the posts on the last date for submission of applications mentioned on the advertisement and who became eligible for appointment thereafter, of the opportunity of being considered for appointment on the additional posts because if the said additional posts are advertised subsequently those who become eligible for appointment would be entitled to apply for the same. The High Court was, therefore, right in holding that the selection of 19 persons by the Board even though the requisition was for 8 posts only, was not legally sustainable."

149. Further, the said observation was reiterated in the case of Arup Das and Others Vs State of Assam (2012) 5 SCC 559, wherein the Apex Court in Arup Das Case at Paragraph 17 held as follows:

"17. It is well-established that an authority cannot make any selection/appointment beyond the number of posts advertised, even if there were a larger number of posts available than those advertised. The principle behind the said decision is that if that was allowed to be done, such action would be entirely arbitrary and violative of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution, since other candidates who had chosen not to apply for the vacant posts which were being sought to be filled, could have also applied if they had known that the other vacancies would also be under consideration for being filled up."

150. For all the aforesaid reasons, the select list of 6800 dated 05.01.2022 issued for selection of reserved category candidates cannot be sustained in the eyes of law.

K. Conclusion

151. Thus, this court is of the view that concession granted at the level of TET, so as to make a candidate eligible to participate in the open competition, like the ATRE-2019 would not debar a reserved category candidate to be excluded from the consideration zone in the open competition, in case he is able to match and score more marks than the last general category candidate in the open category as the competition has not yet started at that point of time. However, in case a candidate seeks relaxation of marks in passing in the ATRE-2019, obviously he would not be considered to belonging to a meritorious reserved category as not only the competition has started but this relaxation would mean reservation.

152. To make it abundantly clear any reserved category candidate, who has obtained 65% marks or more can be considered to be a meritorious reserved category candidate and accordingly allowed to compete with the general category candidate and progress to the open category, whereas a reserved category candidate, who has scored less than 65% and more than 60% in the ATRE-2019 would be considered in their own respective category and would not be allowed to progress into consideration zone with general category candidates on the basis of scoring more in the quality point as per Appendix-1 of the rules. The above proposition simply put may be understood as under :

(i) Any candidate belonging to a reserved category, who has availed relaxation of marks in ATRE-2019, which has been held to be an open competition, shall not be entitled to migrate from their respective category to the unreserved category while preparing the select list as per the quality points in terms of Appendix -1 of the rules.

(ii) Further, those candidate's, whether reserved or unreserved, scoring more than 65% marks in ATRE-2019 shall be encompassed within the consideration zone of the open category and a select list shall be accordingly prepared of these candidates separately on the quality points and accordingly 50% of the total seats shall be filled by these candidates, irrespective of whether they belong to reserved or unreserved category.

(iii) The balance 50% shall be filled by candidates from their respective reserved category as envisaged under section 3(1) of the Reservation Act.

(iv) Thereafter, the horizontal reservation as provided in the Government order should be applied accordingly, if any.

153. As regards, allocating the districts of preference to MRC candidates, MRC candidates have to be only treated "notionally" as reserve category candidates for the said purpose for allotment of districts and they can opt for a seat earmarked for the reserved category, so as to not disadvantage him against less meritorious reserved category candidates. Such MRC shall be treated as part of the general category only. Further, due to the MRC's choice, one reserved category seat being occupied, and one seat among the choices available to general category candidates remains unoccupied. Consequently, one lesser-ranked reserved category candidate who had choices among the reserved category is affected as he does not get any choice anymore and as such to remedy the situation i.e. to provide the affected candidate a remedy, the seat which would have been allotted to MRC, had he not opted for a seat meant for the reserved category to which he belongs, shall now be filled up by that candidate in the reserved category list who stands to lose out by the choice of the MRC, which would leave the percentage of reservation at 50% undisturbed.

154. Apparently, during the hearing of the present matter, there was no clarity of the score and details of the reserved category candidates, who have appeared in the ATRE-2019. There had been no endeavour from the respondents, who are custodian of the records of the ATRE-2019 and would had assisted this court in providing the said records. Thus, it is directed that the state shall review the select list of 01.06.2020 and prepare the quality point of candidates as per Appendix-1 of the rules and prepare the merit of the candidates as per the observation of this court. The said exercise shall be conducted within a period of three months from today.

155. In the peculiar facts of the present case and purely to balance to equity, this court in exercise of its Jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India directs that till the time the respondents prepare the revised list, the candidates already appointed and presently working as Assistant Teachers in various district shall continue to work in their post till such period and shall be not disturbed, keeping in mind the examination period and the end of education session. This court holds that the appointment of those teachers, who do not find any place in the revised list as has been directed herein above and who had been appointed as per the select list of 01.06.2020 was purely fortuitous and does not entail any right in them. The said direction is in conformity to the interim order dated 7th of December, 2020, wherein this court while issuing notice to the affected persons directed that, in the meantime, appointments made on the post of Assistant Teacher shall be subject to the final decision of these petitions.

156. In the overwhelming facts as narrated herein above, wherein apparently the teachers, who have been appointed and are working since the last more than 2 years, whether belonging to the reserved or unreserved category cannot be faulted with, as essentially, it is the respondents, who were under a constitutional duty to implement the provisions of section 3(1) & 3(6) of the Reservation Act in its letter and spirit, however the same having been not done, this court in order to balance the equity and keeping in mind that these young men & women, who as teachers are going to shape the future of this country, hereby grants liberty to the State Government to intervene in this matter in the peculiar facts of the present case and frame a policy for adjustment of these Teachers, who may be ousted by a revision in the select list dated 01.06.20020 in light of the explication provided in the case of ousted candidates in the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Gaurav Pradhan v. State of Rajasthan, (2018) 11 SCC 352¸ as already discussed herein above.

157. All impleadment Application stands allowed.

158. Since, it has been directed that the select list dated 01.06.2020 to be revised in view of the observation made in this Judgment, the select list of 6800 dated 05.01.2022 stands quashed.

159. Reservation should not be in any circumstances more than 50% of the total seats.

160. All the Writ petitions are disposed of in the aforesaid terms and all interim orders stands vacated.

161. In the facts of the present case, there shall be no orders as to cost.
