f). Union of India Vs. State of Maharashtra & Ors. (2020) 4 SCC 761, this case was also in respect of grant of anticipatory bail regarding the offence committed under the Act of 1989. In this case it has been held that if information discloses a cognizable offence, registration of F.I.R is mandatory and no recourse to Section 438 Cr.P.C is permissible, so far as, exercise of power under Section 482 Cr.P.C is concerned, paras 52 and 60 of this judgment are relevant which are reproduced herein below:

52. It is an unfortunate state of affairs that the caste system still prevails in the country and people remain in slums, more particularly, under skyscrapers, and they serve the inhabitants of such buildings.

60. By the guidelines issued, the anomalous situation may crop up in several cases. In case the appointing authority forms a view that as there is no prima facie case the incumbent is not to be arrested, several complications may arise. For the arrest of an offender, maybe a public servant, it is not the provision of the general law of Cr.PC that permission of the appointing authority is necessary. No such statutory protection provided to a public servant in the matter of arrest under the IPC and the Cr.PC as such it would be discriminatory to impose such rider in the cases under the Act of 1989. Only in the case of discharge of official duties, some offence appears to have been committed, in that case, sanction to prosecute may be required and not otherwise. In case the act is outside the purview of the official discharge of duty, no such sanction is required. "

10. From the scrutiny of the aforesaid part of the judgment it is very much clear that there might be certain false cases in which interference by the High Court exercising its power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. might be necessary. As per para 60 of the judgment, if there is apprehension of arrest, harassment and false implication, the applicant may approach the High Court for quashment of the F.I.R under Section 482 Cr.P.C and in this case also the Hon'ble, the Apex Court has propounded similar preposition of law as held in the Case of Prithviraj Chauhan (supra).

11. Hear the complainant - opposite party no. 2 had moved an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C., which was converted into complaint and in which after deposition under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C., the applicants were summoned for their appearance as accused. Here the circumstances mentioned by the Apex Court are not present. Hence, this Court is of the view that in the facts and circumstances of this case, this precedent also does not support the contention of the applicants.

12. Learned counsel for the applicant have also relied on the judicial precedent Ram Awtar Vs. State of MP 2021 SCC OnLine SC 966 and Ram Gopal and another Vs. State of M.P. 2021 SCC OnLine SC 834. In both the cases the parties had entered into compromise and thereafter a question arose that when a criminal case under the S.C / S.T Act is not compoundable in view of Section 320 Cr.P.C whether the High Court or the Supreme Court can entertain the petition for quashment of the entire criminal proceedings under Article 142, 226 and 227 of the Constitution of India and Section 482 of the Cr.P.C.

13. Hon'ble the Apex Court held that no useful purpose would be served keeping the matter pending if the parties have compromised the case. Since the parties had entered into compromise and also considering the old pendency of the case, it was held that in the facts and circumstances of the case in hand, the proceedings of the criminal case under the S.C. S.T Act may also be quashed u/s 482 Cr.P.C.

14. Here no such circumstances with regard to compromise are present. The applicants are challenging the summoning order and opposite party no. 2, the complainant is prosecuting the impugned criminal case, Hence, this Court is of the view that these judicial precedents have no applicability in favour of the applicants due the change of facts and circumstances of the case.

15. Learned A.G.A has relied on the judgment passed in Gulam Rasool Khan Vs. State of U.P., Criminal Appeal No. 1000 of 2018 decided on July, 28, 2022 Full Bench decision of this Court, in which relying on the judgement in Re: provision of Section 14(a) of SC ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act, 2015 (2018) 6 ALJ 631 concluded that against the judgment and orders passed in S.C S.T Act remedy has been provided u/s 14-A of the Act of 1989 but it can not be challenged under Articles 226 or 227 of the Constitution of India, Revision under Section 397 Cr.P.C or by an Application U/s 482 Cr.P.C.

16. It has also been held that since in Re: provisions of Section 14-A of the SC ST Amendment Act 2015 (supra), the provisions of Section 14-A (3) has been held to be in violation of Article 14 and 21 of the Constitution of India and the same has been struck down. Therefore, even if an applicant has been failed in filing an appeal under Section 14-A of the SC ST Act, it can be preferred any time.

17. Learned counsel for the applicant argued that since the judgment of Prithviraj Chauhan, Ram Awtar, Ram Gopal and Union of India Vs. State of Maharashtra properly have not been discussed by the Full Bench of this Court, while passing the judgment in the case of Gulam Rasool Khan & Ors. (supra). The judgement of Full Bench of this Court would be barred by the principle of per incurium.

18. In this regard learned counsel for the applicant has relied on Dr. Sah Faisal vs. Union of India and another (2020) 4 SCC-1, N.I.C. Ltd Vs. Pranay Sethi and others (2017) 16 S.C.C 680 Sandeep Kumar Vs. State of Maharashtra (2014) 16 SCC 623, in which it has been laid down that if a judgment of Division Bench, Full Bench, or High Court has not been discussed on the very impugned point involved in the case, later judgments would be barred by the principle of per incurium.

19. Certainly, while pronouncing the judgment in Gulam Rasool Khan & Ors. (supra), the aforesaid judgments have not been discussed by the Full Bench of this Court, but it has also been discussed by this Court that in Prithviraj Chauhan, Ram Awtar, Ram Gopal (supra), and Union of India Vs. State of Maharashtra (Supra), facts and circumstances of the concerned cases were totally different from the facts and circumstances of the case in hand. Since the relevant discussion has also been mentioned earlier, there is no need to reiterate it again, but it is very much clear that the Hon'ble Supreme Court has made an obitor dicta opinion that in extraordinary and exceptional cases, a petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C may be entertained.

20. This court is of the considered view that the circumstances pointed out in the judgment cited by the learned counsel for the applicants are not here. Hence, the judgement of Gulam Rasool Khan & Ors (Supra) the Supreme Court is not barred by principle of per incurium.

21. This judgement has been passed directly in respect of S.C / S.T Act and Section 14-A of the aforesaid Act with regard to the provision of appeal.

22. On the basis of facts and circumstances, it is concluded that this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C is not maintainable and is liable to be rejected. However, remedy is open to the applicants for filing an appeal under Section 14-A of the S.C / S.T Act.

23. This Application under Section 482, is accordingly dismissed.

Application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. allowed. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shree Prakash Singh, J.)

1. At the very outset, Sri Kailash Nath Mishra, learned counsel appearing for the opposite party no. 2 has raised a preliminary objection that this application under section 482 Cr.P.C. is not maintainable against the order dated 06-04-2023 passed by the learned Additional District & Sessions Judge, Gonda.

2 . He added that the impugned order has been passed while invoking the jurisdiction under section 319 of Cr.P.C. and it's not an interlocutory order and the same is revisable and therefore invoking the inherent powers under section 482 of Cr.P.C., is barred as the inherent power can be invoked, when there is no overt or express provision in the Criminal Procedure Code or otherwise any alternative remedy is available.

3. In support of his contentions, he has placed reliance on the Judgment of the Apex Court rendered in the case of Mohit alias Sonu and Another Versus State of U.P. and Another(Criminal Appeal No. 814 of 2013) decided on 1st July, 2013 and has referred paragraph no. 23 of the aforesaid Judgment, which is quoted hereinunder :-

"23. So far as the inherent power of the High Court as contained in Section 482 of Cr.P.C. is concerned, the law in this regard is set at rest by this Court in a catena of decisions. However, we would like to reiterate that when an order, not interlocutory in nature, can be assailed in the High Court in revisional jurisdiction, then there should be a bar in invoking the inherent jurisdiction of the High Court. In other words, inherent power of the Court can be exercised when there is no remedy provided in the Code of Criminal Procedure for redressal of the grievance. It is well settled that inherent power of the court can ordinarily be exercised when there is no express provision in the Code under which order impugned can be challenged. "

4. Relying on the aforesaid, he submits that the Apex Court has reiterated that if an order is not interlocutory, the same can be assailed in the High Court, in revisional jurisdiction and therefore, the remedy of revision is available to the applicant and invoking inherent powers in such conditions is barred, thus the instant application may be dismissed on this ground alone.

5. Per contra, Sri Amrendra Nath Singh, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the applicant submits that the ratio of the Judgment in Mohit alias Sonu & Another(Supra) is not a good law and he has placed reliance on the Judgment rendered in Prabhu Chawla Vs. State of Rajasthan & and Anr., reported in ABC

2016(II)126 SC and has referred paragraph nos.6 & 7 of the said Judgment, which are quoted hereinunder :-

"6. In our considered view any attempt to explain the law further as regards the issue relating to inherent power of High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is unwarranted. We would simply reiterate that Section 482 begins with a non-obstante clause to state: 'Nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code, or to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice.' A fortiori, there can be no total ban on the exercise of such wholesome jurisdiction where, in the words of Krishna Iyer, J. 'abuse of the process of the Court or other extraordinary situation excites the court's jurisdiction. The limitation is self-restraint, nothing more.' We venture to add a further reason in support. Since Section 397 Cr.P.C. is attracted against all orders other than interlocutory, a contrary view would limit the availability of inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. only to petty interlocutory orders! A situation wholly unwarranted and undesirable.

"7. As a sequel, we are constrained to hold that the Division Bench, particularly in paragraph 28, in the case of Mohit alias Sonu and another(supra) in respect of inherent power of the High Court in Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. does not state the law correctly. We record our respectful disagreement."

6. Relying on the aforesaid, he submits that the Apex Court while considering the law propounded in the case of Mohit alias Sonu Vs. State of U.P(Supra), has overruled the ratio of the Judgment, which was rendered in paragraph no. 28 and held that the inherent power of the High Court under section 482 Cr.P.C., which was otherwise, interpreted by the earlier Bench, is not correct law. He added that in the subsequent Judgments, Hon?ble Apex Court has held that Section 482 of Cr.P.C. begins with non obstante clause and therefore, in case of abuse of process of law, inherent power can be invoked and there is no limitation except the self restraining, thus, the summoning order, which was passed under section 319 of Cr.P.C. can very well be challenged while invoking the jurisdiction under section 482 Cr.P.C.

7. Mr. Anirudh Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A.-I appearing for the State has submitted that for understanding the ambit and scope of Section 482 of Cr.P.C., it would be appropriate to go into the history of the enactment of the said provision. He added that on 01-01-1862, the first Code of Criminal Procedure came into force in India and that did not contain any provision recognizing the inherent powers of the High Court. Thereafter, in 1898, the provisions recognizing the inherent powers of the High Court also did not contain and in 1908, when the Code of Civil Procedure was enacted and inherent powers under section 151 of the C.P.C. was envisaged, then the judicial opinion across the country became divergent that on whether the High Courts on criminal side also should have inherent powers. Prior to 1923, there were several verdicts of the High Courts that provision like Section 151 of the C.P.C. is nowhere in the Cr.P.C. and observed that conscious omission of the law makers omit the inherent powers of the criminal courts. This divergence of opinion was done away with by the amendment of the Cr.P.C. in 1923, known as Criminal Procedure Code, 1898(Amendment Act, 1923). By virtue of the aforesaid amendment, Section 561-A was inserted, which is quoted hereinunder :-

"Saving of inherent power of High Court" Division"- 561-A. Nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent power of the High Court "Division" to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code, or to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice."

8. He added that thereafter, in Criminal Procedure Code, 1973, it was contained as Section 482, under Chapter XXXVII of the Code, which is titled as Miscellaneous Chapter.

9. Referring the aforesaid, he submits that the exercise of inherent powers under section 561-A of Cr.P.C. is to give effect to an order under the Code, or to prevent abuse of process of the Court and to otherwise secure the ends of justice. He added that no limitation can be put on the powers of the High Courts given in Section 482 Cr.P.C. known as inherent powers and had there been any intention of the legislature for any kind of limitation, that would have been given in the provisions itself.

10. Further submission is that the ratio of the Judgment in the case of Mohit alias Sonu and another(Supra) is now, not a good law, as much water has flown as considering the aforesaid ratio of the Judgment, the several Judgments have been passed by the Apex Court including the Judgment in the case of Prabhu Chawla Versus State of Rajasthan and Another(Supra), wherein the ratio of Judgment in the case of Mohit alias Sonu and Another(Supra) has been overruled. Thus, the submission is that there is no merit in the contentions of the learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 and the same may be rejected.

11. Considering the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and the historical background of inherent powers envisaged under section 482 of Cr.P.C., it transpires that prior to the enactment of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1973, in the old Cr.P.C. i.e. Cr.P.C. 1898(Amendment) Act, 1923, for the first time, the inherent powers of the High Courts were promulgated as under section 561-A. The aforesaid provision came into existence after thorough discussion, in the Forty First Report of the Law Commission Of India. The observations of the Law Commission in its report are as follows :-

"This statutory recognition, however, extends only to the inherent powers of the High Court. One may compare it with the recognition of the inherent powers of all civil courts by section 151, Civil Procedure Code.

In a number of decisions before and after the enactment of section 561-A, various High Courts have also recognised the existence of such power in subordinate Courts. We would, therefore, recommend a statutory recognition of such inherent power which has been recognised as vesting in all subordinate criminal courts.

However, the general principle of law is that the inherent power of a court can be exercised only to give effect to orders made by it or to prevent abuse of its own processes."

We agree with the recommendation. We do not, however, consider it necessary or desirable to go further and recognise an "inherent power" in Courts of Session and other Courts of Appeal to pass appropriate orders to prevent the abuse of the process of any subordinate Court."

12. The parliament accepting the recommendations of Forty First Report of Law Commission of India, envisaged the provisions of inherent powers u/s 561-A of Cr.P.C.(old).

13. After enactment of the aforesaid provisions; time and again, the Apex Court has interpreted the meaning of the inherent powers given under section 482 of Cr.P.C. and it has been settled that the High Court can exercise the inherent powers to prevent the abuse of process of the Court for giving effect to the orders under the Code and to secure the ends of justice and the same should be exercised sparingly, but, at the same time, it is also noticeable that no bar provided in any Judgment with respect of invoking inherent powers, exercising jurisdiction under 482 of Cr.P.C. by the High Courts and infact, this is also the intent of the legislature while enacting the aforesaid provisions as no bar has been put on the inherent powers of the High Courts and this provision has been put in the Miscellaneous Chapter in the Cr.P.C. 1973. The very starting words of the provision says 'Nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court; which clearly shows that no provision of Cr.P.C. can be read overriding the provisions of Section 482 of Cr.P.C.

14. It reveals that in case of Mohit alias Sonu and another Vs. State of U.P.(Supra), it was held by the Apex Court that High Court while exercising its revisional jurisdiction, considering the legality and propriety of the order under section 319 of Cr.P.C., is required to give notice and opportunity of hearing to a person and further held that the inherent power of the High Court can be exercised when there is no remedy provided under the Code of Criminal Procedure for redressal of the grievance, though this question has again been raised and came for consideration before the Apex Court in the case of Prabhu Chawa(Supra) wherein, the Apex Court has very categorically held in para nos. 6 & 7 that inherent powers of the High Court under section 482 of Cr.P.C. cannot be barred by the alternative remedy provided under the Cr.P.C.

15. When this court further examines this issue, it is apparent from the bare reading of the provisions of section 482 of Cr.P.C. that the same starts with obstante clause i.e. "Nothing in this code shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court". This shows the intents of the legislature in so many words that any provision of Cr.P.C. can not said to be an alternative remedy in reference with the provisions of Section 482 of Cr.P.C and even no provision of Cr.P.C. can limit the inherent powers of High Court.

16. In view of the aforesaid submissions and discussions, the preliminary objection raised by the learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 is hereby rejected.

17. Heard Sri Amrendra Nath Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Ravi

Kant Pandey, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri K.N.Mishra, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2, Sri Anirudh Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A.-I for the State.

18. By means of the instant application under section 482 Cr.P.C. prayer has been made to quash the summoning order dated 06-04-2023 passed by the learned Additional District and Sessions Judge, Court No. 3, Gonda under section 319 Cr.P.C. in Sessions Trial No. 1028 of 2020, (State Vs. Awadh Kishor Tiwari and Others), arising out of Case Crime No. 184 of 2020, under sections 302,201 I.P.C., Police Station-Umari Begumganj, District-Gonda.

19. Learned Senior Counsel appearing for the applicant submits that by means of the instant application, the applicant has assailed the impugned order dated 06-04-2023 passed under section 319 of Cr.P.C. He submits that the factual matrix of the case is that a first information report was lodged with the allegation that one Rajveer @ Ranu was murdered by his brother, wherein the accused persons namely, Awadh Kishor Tiwari, Ram Kishor, Ashok Kumar Singh(present applicant) and Lalit Singh were named and after thorough investigation of the matter was done by the Investigating Officer and the Chargesheet was filed against the accused persons namely, Awadh Kishor and Kamla and the final report was submitted. The name of the present applicant was expunged at the time of investigation itself. He further added that the trial proceeded and chargesheet was filed and summons were issued against the other co-accused persons and when the statements of P.W.-1, P.W.-2 and P.W.-3 were recorded before the trial court, an application under section 319 of Cr.P.C.

was filed and objection was also submitted by the present applicant. He added that learned Magistrate while passing the impugned order dated 06-04-2023 has put the statements of the prosecution witnesses in vibratum, in the order and no finding has been recorded to the degree of satisfaction that there was much stronger case available. In support of his contentions, he has placed reliance on the Judgment of Apex Court in the case of Hardeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab and Others, reported in (2014) 3 Supreme Court Cases, 92 and has referred the paragraph no. 117.5 of the said Judgment, wherein the question no.(iv) has been answered. Para no. 117.5 of the said judgment is quoted hereinunder :-

"Q.IV What is the nature of the satisfaction required to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to arraign an accused? Whether the power under Section 319 (1) Cr.P.C. can be exercised only if the court is satisfied that the accused summoned will in all likelihood be convicted?"

117.5. Though under Section 319(4)(b) Cr.P.C. the accused subsequently impleaded is to be treated as if he had been an accused when the Court initially took cognizance of the offence, the degree of satisfaction that will be required for summoning a person under Section 319 Cr.P.C. would be the same as for framing a charge. The difference in the degree of satisfaction for summoning the original accused and a subsequent accused is on account of the fact that the trial may have already commenced against the original accused and it is in the course of such trial that materials are disclosed against the newly summoned accused. Fresh summoning of an accused will result in delay of the trial ? therefore the degree of satisfaction for summoning the accused (original and subsequent) has to be different."

20. Referring the abovesaid, he submits that it has been held by the Apex Court that the degree of the satisfaction while deciding an application under section 319 Cr.P.C. is required to be recorded. He further added that in the course of deciding the application under section 319 Cr.P.C., the material must be disclosed against the newly summoned accused.

21. He has next referred the Judgment and order in the case of Brijendra Singh and Others Vs. State of Rajasthan, reported in (2017) 7 Supreme Court Cases, 706 and has referred paragraph no. 15 of the aforesaid Judgment, which is extracted hereinunder :-

"15. This record was before the trial court. Notwithstanding the same, the trial court went by the deposition of complainant and some other persons in their examination-in-chief, with no other material to support their so- called verbal/ocular version. Thus, the ?evidence? recorded during trial was nothing more than the statements which was already there under Section 161 Cr.P.C. recorded at the time of investigation of the case. No doubt, the trial court would be competent to exercise its power even on the basis of such statements recorded before it in examination-in-chief. However, in a case like the present where plethora of evidence was collected by the IO during investigation which suggested otherwise, the trial court was at least duty bound to look into the same while forming prima facie opinion and to see as to whether ?much stronger evidence than mere possibility of their (i.e. appellants) complicity has come on record. There is no satisfaction of this nature. Even if we presume that the trial court was not apprised of the same at the time when it passed the order (as the appellants were not on the scene at that time), what is more troubling is that even when this material on record was specifically brought to the notice of the High Court in the Revision Petition filed by the appellants, the High Court too blissfully ignored the said material. Except reproducing the discussion contained in the order of the trial court and expressing agreement therewith, nothing more has been done. Such orders cannot stand judicial scrutiny."

22. Placing reliance on the aforesaid Judgment, he added that it has been held by the Apex Court that while deciding the application under section 319 of Cr.P.C., trial court has to look into, as to whether there are much stronger evidence than mere possibility of the complicity is available on record ? and the satisfaction in this regard, is also to be recorded. He submits that so far as the present case is concerned, the trial court while passing the impugned summoning order did not apply it's judicial mind and the law propounded by the Apex court and thus, the order dated 06-04-2023 is not sustainable in the eyes of law and therefore, the same may be set aside.

23. Contradicting the abovesaid contentions, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2, has vehemently opposed the plea and arguments of the counsel for the applicant and submits that the learned trial court has recorded a detailed finding and has also mentioned the statements of the prosecution witnesses no. 1 to 3, which are apparent from the order itself. He submits that in the finding clause, it is also recorded that there is prima-facie case against the present applicant as per the statements and evidences adduced by the prosecution and also got examined by the prosecution before the trial court. He also added that there are detailed discussion and reasoning made by the trial court in the impugned order and as such, there is no erroneousness or perversity and thus, the instant application has no merit and is liable to be dismissed.

24. Learned A.G.A. appearing for the State has also opposed the contentions of learned counsel for the applicant and submits that the learned trial court has rightly passed the impugned order considering the statements of the prosecution witnesses, which establishes more than the prima-facie case against the applicant, and thus, no interference is warranted.

25. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and after perusal of the material placed on record, it transpires that the impugned summoning order dated 06-04-2023 passed by the trial court is on an application under section 319 Cr.P.C. From perusal of the impugned order, it emerges that the statements of the P.W.-1 to P.W.-3 have been mentioned in verbatim in the order and it is recorded that there is prima-facie case against the applicant and thus, the applicant has been summoned.

26. This court has also noticed the fact that initially the present applicant was also named in the first information report and an investigation was done, wherein his name was expunged as the Investigating Officer while collecting the evidences against the accused persons, did not find material evidences with respect to involvement of the present applicant and thereafter final report was submitted.

27. It also transpires from the impugned order that the trial court found that there is prima-facie case against the present applicant, whereas, as per the law laid down by the Apex Court, more than prima-facie, case or much stronger cases, is required while summoning such accused thereby invoking the jurisdiction under section 319 of Cr.P.C. The power given to the court under section 319 of Cr.P.C. is a discretionary and extraordinary and therefore, the same should be exercised sparingly and further it is not to be exercised in supine and cavalier manner. The strong and cogent evidence is warranted for test of degree of satisfaction.

28. This court is also not unmindful to the Judgment and ratio rendered in the case of Brijendra Singh and Others Vs. State of Rajasthan (Supra), which clearly holds that much stronger evidence than mere possibility of complicity is required in the cases, where the trial court is invoking the jurisdiction under section 319 of Cr.P.C. while summoning the accused.

29. When this court examines the impugned order passed by the learned Additional District and Sessions Judge, Gonda in the light of the ratio of the Judgments aforesaid, it emerges from the order itself that the learned Additional District & Sessions Judge, has found prima-facie, a case against the applicant and there is no such finding or the degree of satisfaction recorded that there are much stronger case available against the applicant and as such, this court finds that the learned trial court has ignored the law enunciated by the Apex Court.

30. Resultantly, the impugned order dated 06-04-2023 is hereby set aside.

31. The matter is remitted back to the trial court concerned, to take a fresh decision, after considering the application under section 319 of Cr.P.C., within a period of sixty days, from the date of this order.

32. With the aforesaid observations, the instant application is hereby allowed.

(A) Criminal Law - The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 482 - Inherent power , Section 216 - Court may alter charge , Section 319 - Power to proceed against other persons appearing to be guilty of offence , Section 212 - Particulars as to time, place and person , Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 302 - murder - if the alteration or addition to a charge is such that no prejudice is caused to either the parties, court may, in its discretion, proceed with the trial by amending the said technical defects.(Para - 17)

(B) Criminal Law - Prejudice is shown based on the facts of the case - In judging a question of prejudice, as of guilt - courts must act with a broad vision and look to the substance and not to the technicalities - their main concern should be to see whether the accused had a fair trial - whether he knew what he was being tried for - whether the main facts sought to be established against him were explained to him fairly and clearly - and whether he was given a full and fair chance to defend himself.(Para -15)

Applicant's application for amending charge to 'place of occurrence' - rejected under Section 216 Cr.P.C. - prosecution witnesses examined - regarding place of incident - adding place of incident in the said charge - same does not cause any prejudice to either of the parties.(Para - 2,17)

HELD:- Direction to court below to amend the charge by incorporating the 'place of incident' in the original charge as per provision of Section 216(3) Cr.P.C. without recourse to further evidence . Proceed with trial expeditiously; following Apex Court's time frame.(Para - 18)

Application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. disposed of. (E-7)

List of Cases cited:

1. Darbar Singh Vs St. of Punj., (2012) 10 SCC 476
2. Main Pal Vs St. of Har., AIR 2010 SC 3292

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar Kumar Yadav, J.)

1. Heard Sri Anoop Trivedi, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr Vivek Kumar Maheshwari, learned counsel for the applicant, Mr Nipun Singh, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2, Mr R. P. Mishra, learned AGA for the State and perused the material on record.

2. By means of this application, applicant/informant has prayed for setting aside the order dated 20.3.2023 passed by learned District and Sessions Judge, Muzaffar Nagar in S.T. No. 561 of 2004 (State Vs Naresh Tikait), pending in the Court of Addl. Sessions Judge, Court No. 5, Muzaffar Nagar, relating to Case Crime no. 97 of 2003, under Section 302 IPC, P.S. Bhaurakalan, District Muzaffarnagar whereby the application of the applicant under Section 216 Cr.P.C. (paper No. 337 Kha) for amending the charge to the extent of 'place of occurrence' has been rejected

3. Brief facts of the case are that the applicant lodged an FIR in relation to murder of his father, namely, Jagveer Singh, on 7.09.2003 vide Case Crime No. 97 of 2003, under Section 302 IPC, at P.S. Bhaurakalan, District Muzaffarnagar alleging therein that on 6.9.2003, when the informant along with his father and one Ramveer Singh, while going towards their village, are said to have reached in front of the house of one Parveen son of Ramphal at about 6 p.m. in Ambassdor Car, which was being driven by father of the informant, at that time, one Naresh Tikait son of Mahendra Tikait, Parveen son of Ramphal and Bittu @ Patwari son of Ramphal were standing in the way in a white coloured Maruti car in front of his house, and, as soon as father of the informant, decreases the speed of his vehicle, all the three accused persons, having country made pistols in their hands, came out of their car and accosted the vehicle of the informant from all sides, and, thereafter accused Praveen and Naresh are said to have shot dead his father by country made pistols. It is further alleged that at the time of incident, there were sufficient sun light and on raising alarm all the three accused persons fled away from the spot after leaving their Maruti Car. It is further alleged that informant immediately took his father to the Government Hospital but he died on the way to Hospital.

4. The matter was investigated by the police and thereafter the case was transferred to the CBCID, UP Police and after investigation charge sheet was filed before the concerned Court exonerating the accused Naresh Tikait, who lateron summoned by the trial court in exercise of power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. Charge is said to have been framed against the accused Naresh Tikait under Section 302 IPC on 11.6.2007 by Addl. Sessions Judge, Court No. 6, Muzaffarnagar, to the following effect as quoted below:-

"That on 6.9.2003 at 6 p.m. at village Alawalpur Majra, Police station Baura kalan, District Muzaffarnagar with common intention you and your companions Paveen Kumar and Rajeev Kmar caused grievous injuries by country made pistols to informant's father Jagveer Singh and due to said injuries, he succumbed, as such you committed murder which is punishable under Section 302 read with Section 34 of the IPC and is cognizable by this Court."

5. The grievance of the applicant is that in the FIR, itself, the informant/applicant has specifically mentioned the place of occurrence that the accused persons murdered his father in front of the house of accused Praveen Kumar at Village Alawalpur Majra and during the course of investigation, the Investigating Officer has also prepared the site plan in which he has also mentioned that the occurrence took place in front of the house of Praveen but the trial court committed illegality in framing of the charge against the accused by not mentioning the specific place of occurrence. Further, the applicant, who has been examined as P.W.-1 in his deposition, he had specifically stated that on 6.9.2003 at 6 p.m., the accused persons fired at his father in front of the house of accused Praveen at Village Alawalpur Majra. Another eye witness i.e. P.W.-2, namely, Yashpal has also stated in his deposition to the same effect. It is also alleged that during course of final argument, counsel for the applicant noticed that the charge framed against the accused Naresh Tikait is defective and needs alteration in the charge framed against the accused. Therefore, applicant/informant moved an application before the trial Court on 17.3.2023 with a prayer that in the charge framed against the applicant the place of occurrence has been typed as Village Alawalpur and no specific place has been mentioned, whereas in the FIR and in the site plan the place of occurrence is in front of the house of accused Praveen at Village Alawalpur Majra is mentioned, as such to fix the place of occurrence in front of the house of the accused Praveen Kumar, and also to avoid any technical error in future to get benefit of the same by either side, it becomes necessary to amend the charge to the extent that the place of occurrence be mentioned. The said application has been rejected by the court below vide impugned order, which is subject matter of challenge before this Court.

6. Record further discloses that the applicant also approached the Apex Court by filing Transfer Application on account of the threats extended by the accused with a prayer for transferring the Sessions Trial pending before the court of 5th Addl. District and Sessions Judge, Muzaffarnagar, UP to the court of District and Sessions Judge, Tishazari Courts, New Delhi, which was dismissed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court vide order dated 10.2.2023 considering the fact that the trial is pending since the last 19 years and the fact that the evidence is already over and the trial is at the stage of final arguments. However, it was directed that the trial is conducted in a peaceful and fair manner as it is apprehended on behalf of the applicant that the accused are given a special treatment. Trial court was also directed to conclude the trial at the earliest and preferably, within a period of six months from today.

7. Record further discloses that thereafter applicant also filed transfer application before the District and Sessions Judge, Muzaffar Nagar with a prayer to transfer the said sessions trial to other appropriate court of District, Muzaffarnagar, which too was dismissed by order dated 23.02.2023 passed by District and Sessions Judge, Muaffarnagar. Aggrieved by the said order, applicant preferred Transfer Application (Criminal) No. 156 of 2023 before this Court, which is stated to be pending.

8. Submission of learned counsel for the applicant is that the charge framed against the accused is not sustainable in law in view of the provision of Section 212 of Cr. P.C. as the specific place the incident is not mentioned in the charge framed against the accused.

9. Learned counsel for the accused/respondent no. 2 stated that there is no irregularity in the charge framed against the applicant as the prosecution witnesses have stated in their deposition regarding the place of incident and during cross examination questions regarding place of incident have been asked, therefore, no prejudice would be caused to either side. It is further argued that the defect in framing of the charges must be so serious that it cannot be covered under Section 464/465 Cr.P.C., which provide that, an order of sentence or conviction shall not be deemed to be invalid only on the ground that no charge was framed or that there was some irregularity or omission or misjoinder of charges, unless the court comes to the conclusion that there was also, as a consequence, a failure of justice. In determining whether any error, omission or irregularity in framing the relevant charges, has led to a failure of justice, the court must have regard to whether an objection could have been raised at an earlier stage during the proceedings or not. While judging the question of prejudice or guilt, the court must bear in mind that every accused has a right to a fair trial where he is aware of what he is being tried for and where the facts sought to be established against him, are explained to him fairly and clearly, and further, where he is given a full and fair chance to defend himself against the said charge(s). In support of his argument, he placed reliance on the case of (2012) 10 SCC 476 Darbar Singh Vs State of Punjab.

10. To the contrary, learned AGA appearing for the State contended that the charge against the accused was framed on 11.06.2007, under Section 302/34 I.P.C. It is evident from the Charge that except place of occurrence, date and time of occurrence has been mentioned therein. It is further submitted that the charge is an accusation made against a person in respect of an offence alleged to have been committed by him/her and the basic requirement is that it must be so framed as to give the accused person a fairly reasonable idea of the case which he/she has to face. The mere irregularity in framing the charge against the accused, does not vitiate the trial, unless some prejudice is caused to the accused. It is further submitted that the scope of powers of the court to alter or add any charge under Section 216 Cr.P.C. is very wide in nature and it confers exclusive jurisdiction on the court in regard to such matters which may be exercised at any time before the judgement is pronounced. The rights of the parties in regard to the same would be extremely limited and no addition or alteration or objection with regard thereto, can be raised as a matter of right.

11. To buttress his argument, learned AGA further pointed out that Section 215 Cr.P.C. clearly states that no error in stating either the offence or the particulars required to be stated in the charge, and no omission to state the offence or those particulars, shall be regarded at any stage of the case as material, unless the accused was in fact misled by such error or omission, and it has occasioned a failure of justice. Section 464 Cr.P.C. also provides that no finding sentence or order by a competent Court shall be deemed to be invalid merely on the ground that no charge has been framed or that there are some errors, omission or irregularity in the charge unless some failure of justice has occurred on that ground. In order to take the benefit of the same either of the parties must establish that failure of justice has been occasioned by an error or defect in stating the particulars in the charge. No such plea of any prejudice supported with evidence was adduced suggestive of the failure of justice due to any defect in framing of charge. There is also nothing on record to show that any prejudice has been caused to the applicant due to such omission. Under such circumstances omission to mention the place of occurrence in the charge does not vitiate the trial, when the trial is at the fog end. Learned AGA has also pointed out that there is sufficient material available against the accused, which can at best be appreciated in evidence during trial. Thus, the impugned order does not suffer from any illegality, infirmity or any error of law justifying interference by this Court in exercise of its power under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

12. Considered the submission of learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

13. Perusal of the impugned order discloses that while dismissing the application, learned Trial Court has returned a finding to the effect that during the cross examination of the prosecution witnesses, the question regarding place of incident have been asked by the accused. It is clear from the evidence that the accused had full knowledge about the place of occurrence of the crime committed by them and the accused during trial have enough opportunity to explain the situation of the crime committed by them. It has been clearly stated in the court by the learned counsel for the accused Naresh Kumar that the accused had no suspicion regarding the incident alleged against him and the prosecution witnesses have been clearly cross-examined about the place of incident. Thus there arises no question of prejudice to be caused to either of the parties.

14. Not doubt, it is trite law that in case of any omission in framing of the charge if it comes to the knowledge of the court trying the offence, the power to alter the charge under Section 216 Cr.P.C. is always vested in the Court to be exercised at any time before the judgment is pronounced. The section is in the nature of an enabling provision for the Court to exercise its power under certain contingencies when the relevant facts with regard thereto are brought to its notice. In case where a situation so demands if it comes to the knowledge of the Court that a necessity has arisen for the charge to be altered or added, the Court may do so on its own or upon an application of the parties.

15. How prejudice is to be shown ? Much depends on facts of the case. Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Main Pal Vs State of Haryana, AIR 2010 SC 3292 enunciated the following principle as under:

(i) The object of framing a charge is to enable an accused to have a clear idea of what he is being tried for and of the essential facts that he has to meet. The charge must also contain the particulars of date, time, place and person against whom the offence was committed, as are reasonably sufficient to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

(ii) The accused is entitled to know with certainty and accuracy, the exact nature of the charge against him, and unless he has such knowledge, his defence will be prejudiced. Where an accused is charged with having committed offence against one person but on the evidence led, he is convicted for committing offence against another person, without a charge being framed in respect of it, the accused will be prejudiced, resulting in a failure of justice. But there will be no prejudice or failure of justice where there was an error in the charge and the accused was aware of the error. Such knowledge can be inferred from the defence, that is, if the defence of the accused showed that he was defending himself against the real and actual charge and not the erroneous charge.

(iii) In judging a question of prejudice, as of guilt, the courts must act with a broad vision and look to the substance and not to the technicalities, and their main concern should be to see whether the accused had a fair trial, whether he knew what he was being tried for, whether the main facts sought to be established against him were explained to him fairly and clearly, and whether he was given a full and fair chance to defend himself."

16. However, this court is also mindful of the provisions of Section 216 (3) Cr.P.C., which reads as under:-

"(3) If the alteration or addition to a charge is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is not likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused in his defence or the prosecutor in the conduct of the case the Court may, in its discretion, after such alteration or addition has been made, proceed with the trial as if the altered or added charge had been the original charge."

17. Going through the aforesaid provision, it is very much clear that if the alteration or addition to a charge is such that no prejudice is caused to either the parties, court may, in its discretion, proceed with the trial by amending the said technical defects. It is admitted by the parties that the prosecution witnesses have been examined regarding the place of incident and by adding the place of incident in the said charge the same does not cause any prejudice to either of the parties.

18. In view of above, the court below is directed to amend the charge by incorporating the 'place of incident' in the original charge as per provision of Section 216(3) Cr.P.C. without recourse to further evidence and thereafter may proceed with the trial and conclude the same as expeditiously as possible keeping in view the time frame as directed by the Apex Court.

19. With aforesaid observation, the application is disposed of.

12. Dr. Monica Kumar & anr. Vs St. of U.P. & Ors., (2008) 8 SCC 781

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar Kumar Yadav, J.)

1. Heard Mr Satish Trivedi, learned senior counsel assisted by Mr Sheshadri Trivedi, learned counsel for the applicant, Mr Radhey Shyam Shukla, learned counsel for the private respondent no. 2, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. By means of this application, applicant has prayed for quashing of the entire proceedings of Criminal Case No. 13802 of 2022 (State Vs Kalika Pratap Singh) arising out of Case Crime No. 401 of 2019, Under Sections 420, 376, 306, 406, 120-B IPC and Section 67 of IT Act and Section 3/4 of D.P. Act, P.S. Jhansi, District Prayagraj including the charge sheet dated 12.05.2022 and the summoning order dated 18.06.2022.

3. Brief facts of the case are that on the basis of the application filed by opposite party no. 2 an FIR was registered on 2.5.2019 bearing case Crime No. 401 of 2019, under Section 420 IPC and Section 3/4 of D. P. Act at P.S. Jhansi, District Prayagraj alleging therein that applicant and daughter of opposite party no. 2 came in contact through facebook and they had visited Bhopal twice and were in talking terms with each other and, thereafter, father-in-law of informant and two of his uncles including the informant went to the house of the applicant at Allahabad and talk took place on 05/07/2017 and thereafter informant and his uncles went to the house of the applicant's brother at Mathura on 20/08/2017 and after that applicant's brother came to my house at Bhopal to see the girl and returned thereafter. It is further alleged that exactly after one year i.e. on 18/08/2018, informant is said to have gone to Mathura where applicant's uncle, namely, Jai Prakash Singh, brother, namely, Arvind Singh and another brother, namely, Vishwanath Pratap Singh were present and there the informant is said to have paid Rs. 24,80,000/- and again informant is said to have gone to the house of applicant at Allahabad on 16/11/2018, where the date of marriage was finalized and Tilak's date has been fixed on 07/05/2019 and Marriage's date have been fixed for 15/05/2019. It is further alleged that the D'zire Car, which was promised to be given on Tilak ceremony has been purchased by the informant on 30/04/2019 and when the date of marriage and Tilak came closer and the invitation cards have been distributed and the dates reached nearer, then the applicant, without any reason, is said to have denied for marriage because family members of the applicant are said to have refused for marriage. Thereafter, informant and other family members including the victim are said to have reached the applicant's house at Allahabad and there they were threatened to ran away from his house. On this, daughter of the informant is said to have consumed some poisonous substance as a result of which her condition worsened and at that time applicant is said to have taken the victim to Swarooprani Hospital and got admitted her there and when her condition could not be approved, she was later on transferred and admitted to Shakuntala Hospital.

4. During investigation a suicide note of victim was recovered by the Investigating Officer, thereafter, the Investigating Officer added the new section as Sections 376, 306, 406, 120-B IPC and Section 67 of I. T. Act and after investigation, Investigating Officer found no case against the applicant and therefore submitted final report against the applicant on 18.09.2021. Which was objected by the mother of the deceased by moving application before the police authority for further investigation into the matter upon which an enquiry was ordered and the enquiry officer recommended for further investigation into the matter under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. thereafter vide order dated 18.2.2022 SSP, Prayagraj ordered further investigation into the matter and pursuant to the order dated 18.02.2022 the Investigating Officer conducted investigation and thereafter submitted charge sheet against the applicant on 7.5.2022 in Case Crime No. 401 of 2019, under Sections 420, 376,306,406,120-B IPC and Section 67 of IT Act and Section 3/4 of D.P.Act upon which the court below took cognizance vide order dated 12.05.2022 and summoned the applicant to face the trial. Further, NBW has also been issued against the applicant vide order dated 26.08.2022.

5. It is submitted that the victim and applicant used to chat on facebook and with the passage of time, they developed love and intimacy and with the consent of the family members their marriage was settled but on coming to know that daughter of the informant is involved in several criminal cases including on registered as Case Crime No. 0005 of 2018, under Sections 384, 388, 120-B IPC at P.S. Crime Branch, Bhopal Madhya Pradesh, lodged by one Member of Legislative Assembly, Madhya Pradesh for allegedly blackmailing him, and after coming of the said fact into knowledge of the family members of the applicant, the applicant denied to perform said marriage.

6. It is contended by learned counsel for the applicant that the police has not taken permission of Magistrate for conducting further investigation into the matter and supplementary charge sheet has been submitted in gross violation of the judgement of Apex Court in the case of Vinay Tyagi Vs Irshad Ali @ Deepak and others, 2012 (2) Supreme (SC) 903.

7. It is further contended by learned counsel for the applicant that the order dated 12.05.2022 has been passed without applying his judicial mind as the same has been passed without considering the nature of allegations and the evidence both oral and documentary. In support of this argument, he relied upon the case of M/s Pepsi Food Ltd and another Vs Special Judicial Magistrate and others, 1998 UPCR.R. paged 118. It is further contended by learned counsel for the applicant that it is not rape if consensual physical relationship was based on a genuine promise of marriage, which could not be fulfilled. In support of this argument, he relied upon the case of Mandar Deepak Pawar Vs The State of Maharashtra and another, (Criminal Appeal No.442 of 2022). It is further contended that making refusal to marry by the applicant to the deceased cannot be said to be an instigation on the part of the applicant. It is further submitted that abetment involves a mental process of instigating a person or intentionally aiding a person in doing a thing. Without a positivist act on the part of the accused to instigate or aid in committing suicide, conviction cannot be sustained. It is further contended that in order to convict a person under Section 306

IPC there has to be a clear mens-rea to commit offence. It also requires an active act or direct act which leads deceased to commit suicide. In support of his argument, he relied upon the case of Gangula Mohan Reddy Vs State of Andhra Pradesh (2010)1 SCC 750.

8. The contention of the learned counsel for the applicant is that no offence against the applicant is disclosed and the present prosecution has been instituted with malafide intentions for the purposes of harassment.

9. Mr R. P. Mishra, learned AGA opposed the application and submitted that a suicide note in the handwriting of deceased is found and the same been sent before the handwriting expert and there is a report to the effect that same was written by the victim herself. The Investigating Officer, investigated the matter and submitted charge sheet against the applicant. It is not a case of grave injustice or abuse of process of law. It is further contended that further investigation under section 173(8) Cr.P.C. is statutory right of Police which does not requires permission from any Magistrate. In this connection, he has drawn attention of this Court to the provisions enshrined under section 173(8) Cr.P.C. which does not contemplate any prior permission of the Magistrate. Learned AGA as well as learned counsel for respondent no. 2 has further claimed that judgment of Apex Court in Vinay Tyagi's case (Supra) is not applicable in the instant case as the same is against the express provisions of Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. He has further argued that even if it is assumed that prior permission of Magistrate is necessary, then absence of prior permission is an irregularity which has been cured subsequently by the Magistrate by taking cognizance on the supplementary charge sheet.

10. Further learned AGA relied upon the decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Daxaben Vs. The State of Gujrat & Ors, SLP Criminal No. 1132-1155 of 2022 decided on 29.07.2022 to contend that in this case a opinion was exhibited that even indirect act of incitement to the commission of suicide would constitute the offence of abetment of suicide. In the said case, it has also been said that in exercise of power under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C., the Court does not examine the correctness of the allegation in the complaint except in exceptionally rare cases where it is patently clear that the allegations are frivolous or do not disclose any offence.

11. From the perusal of material on record and looking into the facts of the case at this stage it cannot be said that no offence is made out against the applicant. All the submissions made at the bar relates to the disputed question of fact, which cannot be adjudicated upon by this Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. At this stage only prima facie case is to be seen in the light of the law laid down by Supreme Court in cases of M/s Neeharika Infrastructure PVT Ltd. Vs State of Maharashtra, AIR 2021 SC 1918, R.P. Kapur Vs. State of Punjab, A.I.R. 1960 S.C. 866, State of Haryana Vs. Bhajan Lal, 1992 SCC (Cr.) 426, State of Bihar Vs. P.P.Sharma, 1992 SCC (Cr.) 192, lastly Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. Vs. Mohd. Saraful Haq and another (Para-10) 2005 SCC (Cr.) 283, State of M.P. Vs Awadh Kishore Gupta and others [(2004) 1 SCC 691, and Dr. Monica Kumar and Another Vs State of UP and Others, (2008) 8 SCC 781. The disputed defence of the accused cannot be considered at this stage. Moreover, the applicant has got a right of discharge under Section 239 or 227/228 Cr.P.C. or 245 Cr.P.C. as the case may be, before the court below and he is free to take all the submissions in the said discharge application before the trial court.

12. Whether accused instigated deceased to take poison or not cannot be considered at this stage. The other facts which are relevant that accused developed friendship with deceased and he had relation with her for quite some time and all of a sudden, he withdrew from relationship, which might cause serious depression to victim or breaking of relationship with her might have caused such embarrassment to her so that she may not have thought of any other recourse but to consume poison. It is not a case where accused has been charged of offence only under Section 306 on mere refusal to marry but here the applicant had developed relationship with victim from before. He continued with relationship for quite some time and later on he refused to continue with relationship and to marry the victim. Whether it is a case of entering into relationship with deceased with or without consent or whether he played any active direct or indirect role which leads deceased to commit suicide cannot be looked into at this stage. At the stage of charge sheet, Court concerned has to examine only upon the documents collected during investigation by Police, who submitted charge sheet and all other evidence as alleged by the applicant will be examined during trial when defence is adduced by both the parties. While considering prayer for quashing of charge sheet, this Court cannot examine any defence of accused which has yet to be placed before Court below. Stage of placing the defence version does not arise at the stage of charge sheet and, therefore, this Court will not examine alleged defence at this stage.

13. In the circumstances, the prayer for quashing the proceedings of case as well as charge sheet is refused. The application has no force and is accordingly dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar Kumar Yadav, J.)

1. Heard Ms Gunjan Jadwani, learned counsel for the applicants, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is filed by the applicants for quashing of the entire proceedings of Case No. 1053 of 2020, arising out of Case Crime No. 1053 of 2020, under Sections 2 and 3 of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984, P.S. Bilaspur, District Rampur including the charge sheet and the summoning order.

3. In short, allegation against the applicants are that they were ploughing the agricultural land, which was declared surplus in ceiling proceedings. Applicants are said to have cultivated the crops standing on Khasra No. 123. For which an FIR vide Case Crime No. 0497 of 2019, under Section 2 and 3 of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984 has been filed, in which after investigation charge sheet has been filed, whereupon the applicants have been summoned.

4. Record discloses that the the land in dispute was recorded in the name of the predecessors of the applicants since 1338 (F) and since then they are in the cultivator possession of the land. Thereafter when it is revealed that the said land has been recorded as ceiling land and on the pretext of the said land, respondents started interfering with the possession of the applicants, as such they preferred writ petition before this Court being Writ C No. 35056 of 2010 (Kulvinder Singh and others Vs State of UP and others), wherein the order declaring the land of the applicants as ceiling land has been challenged and this court vide order dated 9.9.2010 directed the parties to maintain status quo till the disposal of the interim relief application filed along with suit, if filed, under Section 229 of the UPZA & LR Act or till the disposal of the application under Section 11(2) of the UP Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act. Against the said order, respondents approached the Apex Court by filing SLP CC No. 10765 of 2012, which has also been dismissed vide judgement and order dated 23.09.2013 and while dismissing the SLP, the Apex Court directed that the possession of the applicants and other co-teunre holders could not be interfered with till the dispute with regard to their ownership is not decided by the competent authority. Thereafter, on 5.11.2019, the Prescribed Authority, without considering the objection of the applicants and others and without taking note of the orders passed by this court treated the land of the applicants as surplus land in ceiling and even without giving any opportunity to remove the crop, proceeded to auction the crops. Against the said order appeal under Section 13(2) of the UP Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960 is filed and the order of the prescribed authority has been stayed and the appellate court also directed that no interference in sowing and harvesting the crop by the appellants will be made by the respondents vide its order dated 23.12.2019. Hence, the cultivator possession of the applicants also stands protected vide order dated 23.12.2019 passed by the appellate court.

5. It is contended by learned counsel for the applicants that with regard to the land being surplus, proceedings before this Court and before the revenue court are already pending. It is further submitted that the present FIR has been lodged only to dispossess the applicants, who are in possession over the land in dispute.

6. The main thrust of the applicants is that the criminal proceedings in question is liable to be quashed on the ground that essentially there is a dispute between the parties which is of civil nature and which is sought to be given a criminal colour, only with a view to grab the land of the applicants. In support of his arguments, he relied upon the case of Mohd. Ibrahim and others Vs State of Bihar and another, 2009 (67) ACC 679; Indian Oil Corporation Limited Vs NEPC India Limited, 2006 Law Suit (SC) 488,

7. On the contrary, learned AGA does not dispute the fact that a civil proceedings are pending between the parties before the competent courts.

8. Before analyzing the facts emanating from the record of the case, it would be apt to notice the legal position as regards the scope of powers of the High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to interfere with the proceedings of the aforesaid criminal case.

9. The power under Section 482 of CrPC can be exercised by the High Court to prevent the abuse of process of the Court and otherwise to secure the ends of justice. The authority of the Court exists for advancement of justice and if any attempt is made to abuse the said authority, the Court has the power to prevent that abuse. These inherent powers of the High Court are wide in their scope. Wider the power, higher the degree of responsibility upon the authority vested with such power to exercise it with circumspection. These powers are generally exercised to secure the ends of justice.

10. The Supreme Court in the case of State of Haryana & Ors. vs. Ch. Bhajan Lal & Ors reported as 1992 Suppl (1) SCC 335, has dealt with the scope of power of High Court under Section 482 CrPC in an elaborate manner. Paragraphs 102 and 103, which enumerates seven categories of cases, where power can be exercised under Section 482 CrPC, are extracted as follows:-

"102. In the backdrop of the interpretation of the various relevant provisions of the Code under Chapter XIV and of the principles of law enunciated by this Court in a series of decisions relating to the exercise of the extraordinary power under Article 226 or the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code which we have extracted and reproduced above, we give the following categories of cases by way of illustration wherein such power could be exercised either to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelized and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised.

(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under 156 (1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155 (2) of the Code.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(4) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155 (2) of the Code.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge.

103. We also give a note of caution to the effect that the power of quashing a criminal proceeding should be exercised very sparingly and with circumspection and that too in the rarest of rare cases; that the court will not be justified in embarking upon an enquiry as to the reliability or genuineness or otherwise of the allegations made in the FIR or the complaint and that the extraordinary or inherent powers do not confer an arbitrary jurisdiction on the court to act according to its whim or caprice."

11. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has taken note of the fact that sometimes there is a tendency to convert civil dispute in a criminal proceeding by giving it a criminal colour. In the case of Indra Mohan Goswami & Anr. Vs. State of Uttaranchal & Ors. reported in 2007(12) SCC 1 the Hon'ble Supreme Court has recorded in paragraph 23 and 24 as under :-

"23. This court in a number of cases has laid down the scope and ambit of courts powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. Every High Court has inherent power to act ex debito justitiae to do real and substantial justice, for the administration of which alone it exists, or to prevent abuse of the process of the court. Inherent power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. can be exercised:

(i) to give effect to an order under the Code; (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of court, and (iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice.

24. Inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. though wide have to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with great caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in this section itself. Authority of the court exists for the advancement of justice. If any abuse of the process leading to injustice is brought to the notice of the court, then the Court would be justified in preventing injustice by invoking inherent powers in absence of specific provisions in the Statute."

12. In a recent judgement, decided on 30.01.2023 in the case namely Usha Chakraborty & Anr. Versus State of West Bengal & Anr. in SLP (Crl.) 5866 of 2022, Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that criminal proceedings can be quashed in exercise of powers under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (CrPC) when it is found that the attempt was to give a ?cloak of criminal offence? to a dispute which is essentially of civil nature.

13. Thus, it is clear that this Court can examine whether a matter which is essentially of a civil nature has been given a cloak of a criminal offence. In the instant case, perusal of record manifestly discloses that an attempt has been made to cloak a civil dispute with a criminal nature despite. Record discloses that the parties are already contesting the civil litigation with regard to property in dispute regarding their ownership. The dispute involves in the present case certainly determination of issues which are of civil nature, one can by no means stretch the dispute to an extent, so as to impart it a criminal colour.

14. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, it is a dispute essentially of civil in nature. Therefore, it can be said to be a case of abuse of legal process and is required to be quashed to secure the ends of justice.

15. For the aforesaid reasons, the instant petition is allowed and the proceeding of Criminal Case No. 1053 of 2020, arising out of Case Crime No. 1053 of 2020, under Sections 2 and 3 of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984, P.S. Bilaspur, District Rampur against the applicants is hereby quashed.

16. Application is thus, disposed of, accordingly.

23.09.2022 passed by the Special Judge (MP/MLA) Court/Additional Sessions Judge, Ghazipur by which charges have been framed against the accused-petitioner in Special Sessions Trial No.980 of 2012 under Section 3(1) of the Gangsters Act in the said case.

Further prayer has been made for quashing of the entire proceedings of the Special Sessions Trial No.980 of 2012.

2. Heard Mr. Dilip Kumar, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Mr. Upendra Upadhyay and Mr. Ajay Srivastava, Advocates, representing the accused-petitioner, as well as Mr. Mahesh Chandra Chaturvedi, Additional Advocate General assisted by Mr. Sanjay Kumar Singh, representing respondent-State, and gone through the entire file.

3. It is said that the applicant is a social worker and politician. He remained Member of Legislative Assembly (hereinafter referred to as the "MLA") from Mohammadabad Constituency, District Ghazipur since 1985 and got elected five times. At present the accused-petitioner is second time Member of Parliament from Ghazipur Constituency.

4. The accused-petitioner was an accused in offence of brutal and gruesome murder of the then sitting MLA, Late Krishna Nand Rai and six others for which an FIR was lodged at Case Crime No.0589 of 2005, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 302, 404 and 120-B IPC at Police Station Bhanvar Kol, District Ghazipur. The accused-petitioner, along with co-accused, were charge sheeted in the said offence. The trial of the said case got transferred by the Supreme Court to the CBI Court situated at Rouse Avenue Court Complex,

New Delhi. The CBI Court, presided over by Mr. Arun Bhardwaj, Special Judge (PC Act): CBI-09 (MPs/MLAs Cases) RACC, New Delhi had acquitted all the accused vide judgment and order dated 03.07.2019 as all the eye-witnesses and other material witnesses turned hostile. Paragraphs 936 to 943 of the said judgment and order dated 03.07.2019 would be relevant to extract here-under:-

"936. Hostile Witnesses:- This is a gruesome case involving murder of seven persons. The investigation of the case was transferred from U.P. Police to CBI. The trial of the case was also transferred from U.P. to Delhi. Unfortunately, the case of the prosecution has suffered as all the eye witnesses and other material witnesses turned hostile.

937. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Mahender Chawla & Ors vs. Union of India & Ors, 2018 (12) JT 21 has noted the importance of the witness particularly in a criminal trial as under:-

"In search of truth, he plays that sacred role of the sun, which eliminates the darkness of ignorance and illuminates the face of justice, encircled by devils of humanity and compassion.

The value of witnesses can't be denied, keeping in view the dependency of the criminal proceedings on the testimonies and cooperation of witnesses in all the stages of the proceedings, especially in those cases where the prosecution has to establish the guilt with absolute certainty via oral cross-examination of witnesses in hearings open to the world at large. In such cases, the testimony of a witness, even if not as an eye witness, may prove to be crucial in determining the circumstances in which the crime might have been committed..."

938. It is further held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that:-

"Notwithstanding the same, the conditions of witnesses in Indian Legal System can be termed as 'pathetic'. There are many threats faced by the witnesses at various stages of an investigation and then during the trial of a case. Apart from facing life threatening intimidation to himself and to his relatives, he may have to face the trauma of attending the court regularly. Because of the lack of Witness Protection Programme in India and the treatment that is meted out to them, there is a tendency of reluctance in coming forward and making statement during the investigation and/or testify in courts. These witnesses neither have any legal remedy nor do they get suitably treated. The present legal system takes witnesses completely for granted. They are summoned to court regardless of their financial and personal conditions. Many times they are made to appear long after the incident of the alleged crime, which significantly hampers their ability to recall necessary details at the time of actual crime. They are not even suitably remunerated for the loss of time and the expenditure towards conveyance etc."

939. Further, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed:-

"5) It hardly needs to be emphasised that one of the main reasons for witnesses to turn hostile is that they are not accorded appropriate protection by the State. It is a harsh reality, particularly, in those cases where the accused persons/criminals are tried for heinous offences, or where the accused persons are influential persons or in a dominating position that they make attempts to terrorize or intimidate the witnesses because of which these witnesses either avoid coming to courts or refrain from deposing truthfully. This unfortunate situation prevails because of the reason that the State has not undertaken any protective measure to ensure the safety of these witnesses, commonly known as 'witness protection'.

6) Over the last many years criminal justice system in this country has been witness to traumatic experience where witnesses turn hostile. This has been happening very frequently. There may be many causes for this sordid phenomena."

940. On the analysis of various cases, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has noted following reasons for witnesses retracting their statements before the court and turning hostile:-

"(i) Threat/Intimidation.

(ii) Inducement by various means.

(iii) Use of muscle and money power by the accused.

(iv) Use of stock witnesses.

(v) Protracted trials.

(vi) Hassles faced by the witnesses during investigation and trial

(vii) Non-existence of any clear-cut legislation to check hostility of witness."

941. In Para-10, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"8) All this has created problems of low convictions in India. This has serious repercussions on the criminal justice system itself. Criminal justice is closely associated with human rights. Whereas, on the one hand, it is to be ensured that no innocent person is convicted and thereby deprived of his liberty, it is of equal importance to ensure, on the other hand, that victims of crime get justice by punishing the offender. In this whole process, protection of witnesses assumes significance to enable them to depose fearlessly and truthfully. That would also ensure fair trial as well, which is another concomitant of the rule of law."

942. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has noted that the Central Government has now finalized Witness Protection Scheme, 2018. The essential features of the scheme include identifying categories of threat perceptions, preparation of a "Threat Analysis Report" by the Head of the Police, types of protection measures like ensuring that the witness and the accused do not come face to face during investigation etc., protection of identity, change of identity, relocation of witness, witnesses to be apprised of the scheme, confidentiality and preservation of records, recovery of expenses etc. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has given its imprimatur to the scheme and approved the same. The scheme is to be enforced in letter and spirit by the Union of India and States and Union Territories. The scheme is the law under Article 141/142 of the Constitution, till the enactment of suitable Parliament and/or State Legislation on the subject.

943. The case in hand is another example of prosecution failing due to hostile witnesses. If the witnesses in this case had the benefit of Witness Protection Scheme, 2018 during trial, the result may have been different."

5. Against the said judgment and order of acquittal passed by the learned CBI Court, Rouse Avenue Court Complex, New Delhi, appeal has been preferred before the Delhi High Court and the same has been admitted. Direction has been issued for preparation of paper-book and listing of the appeal for hearing.

6. After the FIR vide Case Crime No.0589 of 2005, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 302, 404 and 120-B IPC lodged at Police Station Bhanvar Kol, District Ghazipur against the present applicant and co-accused, a case under Section 3(1) of the Gangsters Act came to be registered against three accused persons, namely, Afjal Ansari (present applicant), his brother Mukhtar Ansari and Azaz alias Azaz-ul-Haq, was lodged vide Case Crime No.1052 of 2007 at Police Station Mohammadabad, District Ghazipur. In respect of two co-accused persons, separate FIRs vide Case Crime Nos. 1051 and 1053 of 2007 were registered under Section 3(1) of the Gangsters Act and separate charge-sheets were filed against them.

7. It is alleged that the accused-petitioner is the member of a dreaded gang of criminals and this gang is actively involved in committing heinous offences such as murder, abduction, extortion, loot, ransom and from committing these offences and striking fear and terror in the minds and hearts of the public in general in the State, they had acquired enormous illegal wealth and still accumulating illegal wealth by committing heinous offences. It is further alleged that the gang leader, Mukhtar Ansari had been directing the activities of the gang from jail itself. It is further alleged that the gang leader is the most dreaded criminal having a very long criminal history of heinous offences and because of his fear and terror and political power/influence, no one would dare to give evidence against the present accused-petitioner or any other member of the gang nor anyone would come forward to lodge a compliant/FIR. It is further alleged that this gang was involved in commission of murder of Late Krishna Nand Rai, sitting MLA from Mohammadabad Constituency from where the present accused-petitioner used to get elected and six other persons in a most gruesome, cruel and heinous manner for which FIR at Case Crime No.0589 of 2005, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 302, 404 and 120-B IPC at Police Station Bhanvar Kol, District Ghazipur came to be registered against Mukhtar Ansari, Afjal Ansari (present accused-petitioner) and others.

8. In the FIR lodged at Case Crime No.0589 of 2005, charge-sheet was submitted on 21.02.2006 and further additional charge-sheet was filed on 15.03.2006. It is further said that on 22.01.1997 at 17:45 hours one businessman, Nand Kishore Sangara alias Nanu Babu was abducted in a white Maruti Car in which charge-sheet was filed by the CBI against dreaded criminals, Mukhtar Ansari, Shahabuddin, Maragurrahman, Barbinder, Gurmeet Singh, Jasveer Singh, Laxmi Yadav, and Jitendra Tiwari and after investigating the offence, charge-sheet was filed in the CBI Court.

9. The gang-chart was approved by the District Magistrate, Ghazipur on 19.11.2007 against these three persons, Mukhtar Ansari, Afjal Ansari (present accused-applicant) and Azaz alias Azaz-ul-Haq.

10. In paragraph-42 of the present application, criminal cases registered against the accused-petitioner have been mentioned, which are as follows:-

1. Case Crime No.028 of 1998, U/S 171-F IPC read with Section 135(2) of Representation of People Act lodged at PS Nonhara Distt Ghazipur;

2. Case Crime No. 0260 of 2001, U/S 147, 148 and 353 IPC read with Section 3 of the Damages to Public Property Act and Section 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act, PS Mohammadabad, District Ghazipur;

3. Case Crime No. 0584 of 2005, U/S 147, 148, 149, 302, 404 and 120-B IPC read with Section 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act, PS Bhanvar Kol, District Ghazipur;

4. Case Crime No.0493 of 2005, U/S 302, 506 and 120-B IPC, PS Mohammadabad, District Ghazipur;

12. On behalf of the accused-petitioner, Mr. Dilip Kumar, learned Senior Advocate, has advanced two submissions in support of the petition; (a) since the accused-petitioner has been acquitted in offence regarding murder of sitting MLA, Late Krishna Nand Rai and six others i.e. in the substantive offence, continuation of the proceedings under the Gangsters Act is an abuse of process of the Court; (b) trial for offence by Special Judge should have got precedence over the trial of any other case against the accused-petitioner, and in the present case trial of the persons should have been conducted first before conducting the trial in substantive offence. As the procedure, as mandated under Section 12 of the Gangsters Act, has not been followed, the impugned proceedings are liable to be quashed.

13. In support of his contentions, the learned Senior Advocate, representing the accused-petitioner, has placed reliance upon the judgment reported in 2013 0 Supreme (SC) 699 (Dharmendra Kirthal Vs. State of U.P. and another).

14. On the other hand, on behalf of the respondent-State, Mr. Mahesh Chandra Chaturvedi, Additional Advocate General, has submitted that this has been a modus operandi of the accused-petitioner, his brother and his gang members to get acquittal in most of heinous offences as the witnesses would turn hostile because of their fear, terror and political power/influence. It has been further submitted that against the acquittal, the appeal has been admitted by the Delhi High Court and the appeal, being continuation of the trial, it cannot be said that the substantive offence does not exist against the accused-petitioner. It has been further submitted that even in the said case, the acquittal was because of witnesses did turn hostile. It has been further submitted that acquittal or conviction is not a criteria for invoking the provisions of Gangsters Act against a person, who is a member of a gang or any member of the gang commits serious and heinous offences as in the present case. It has been further submitted that as the mandate of Section 12 of the Gangsters Act was not complied because trial of substantive offence was transferred by the Supreme Court and trial of present case not transferred. Further, the accused-petitioner never raised such an objection before the learned Special Judge, CBI/MP/MLA, New-Delhi, Merely for this reason, it cannot be said that the proceedings under the Gangsters Act would get vitiated. The learned Additional Advocate General has placed reliance upon judgment of this Court dated 23.09.2022 passed in Government Appeal No.779 of 2021 in support of his submissions.

15. I have considered the submissions advanced by Mr. Dilip Kumar, learned Senior Advocate on behalf of the accused-petitioner as well as Mr. Mahesh Chandra Chaturvedi, Additional Advocate General on behalf of the respondent-State.

16. The purpose, aim and object of the Gangsters Act is to prevent and cope with the gangsters and anti-social activities committed by the gangs in the State of U.P. The Gangsters Act has been enacted to prevent organized crimes in the State by enacting the special provisions. It is a deterrent statute. It would be apt to take note of the definition of gang as provided under Section 2(b) of the Gangsters Act, which would read as under:-

"2 (b) "Gang" means a group of persons, who acting either singly or collectively, by violence, or threat or show of violence, or intimidation, or coercion or otherwise with the object of disturbing public order or of gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage for himself or any other person, indulge in anti-social activities, namely-

(i) offences punishable under Chapter XVI or Chapter XVII or Chapter XXII of the Indian Penal Code (Act No. 45 of 1860), or

(ii) distilling or manufacturing or storing or transporting or importing or exporting or selling or distributing any liquor, or intoxicating or dangerous drugs, or other intoxicants or narcotics or cultivating any plant, in contravention of any of the provisions of the U.P. Excise Act, 1910 (U.P. Act No. 4 of 1910), or the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (Act No. 61 of 1985), or any other law for the time being in force, or

(iii) occupying or taking possession of immovable property otherwise than in accordance with law, or setting-up false claims for title or possession of immovable property whether in himself or any other person, or

(iv) preventing or attempting to prevent any public servant or any witness from discharging his lawful duties, or

(v) offences punishable under the Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act, 1956 (Act No. 104 of 1956), or

(vi) offences punishable under Section 3 of the Public Gambling Act, 1867 (Act No. 3 of 1867), or

(vii) preventing any person from offering bids in auction lawfully conducted, or tender, lawfully invited, by or on behalf of any Government department, local body or public or private undertaking, for any lease or rights or supply of goods or work to be done, or

(viii) preventing or disturbing the smooth running by any person of his lawful business, profession, trade or employment or any other lawful activity connected therewith, or

(ix) offences punishable under Section 171-E of the Indian Penal Code (Act No. 45 of 1860), or in preventing or obstructing any public election being lawfully held, by physically preventing the voter from exercising his electoral rights, or

(x) inciting others to resort to violence to disturb communal harmony, or

(xi) creating panic, alarm or terror in public, or

(xii) terrorising or assaulting employees or owners or occupiers of public or private undertakings or factories and causing mischief in respect of their properties, or

(xiii) inducing or attempting to induce any person to go to foreign countries on false representation that any employment, trade or profession shall be provided to him in such foreign country, or

(xiv) kidnapping or abducting any person with intent to extort ransom, or

(xv) diverting or otherwise preventing any aircraft or public transport vehicle from following its scheduled course;

(xvii) illegally transporting and/or smuggling of cattle and indulging in acts in contravention of the provisions in the Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955 and the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960;

(xviii) human trafficking for purposes of commercial exploitation, bonded labour, child labour, sexual exploitation, organ removing and trafficking, beggary and the like activities.

(xix) offences punishable under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act, 1966:

(xx) printing, transporting and circulating of fake Indian currency notes;

(xxi) involving in production, sale and distribution of spurious drugs;

(xxii) involving in manufacture, sale and transportation of arms and ammunition in contravention of Sections 5, 7 and 12 of the Arms Act, 1959;

(xxiii) felling or killing for economic gains, smuggling of products in contravention of the Indian Forest Act, 1927 and Wildlife Protection Act, 1972;

(xv) indulging in crimes that impact security of State, public order and even tempo of life."

17. This Court in its judgment and order dated 23.09.2022 passed in Government Appeal No.779 of 2021 has considered the definition of the 'gang' and held that if it is proved that an accused belongs to a gang and commits offence(s) individually or with other gang members with object of disturbing public order or for gaining any undue temporal and pecuniary material or other advantage for himself or any other member of the gang, he can be prosecuted and punished under the provisions of the Gangsters Act. Paragraphs-12 to 17 of the judgment and order dated 23.09.2022 passed passed by this Court in Government Appeal No.779 of 2021 would be relevant to take note of which read as under:-

"12. Thus, if a person belongs to a group of persons, who, either acting singly or collectively, indulges in violence or threat or show of violence and coercion etc., with object to disturb public order or to gain any undue temporal and pecuniary material or other advantage to himself or any other person, indulges in anti-social activities and, commits offence, as defined under the said section, as the group of persons, would be a gang.

13. Gangster has been defined under Section 2(c) Gangsters Act, which reads as under:-

"2(c) "gangster" means a member or leader or organiser of a gang and includes any person who abets or assists in the activities of a gang enumerated in clause (b), whether before or after the commission of such activities or harbours any person who has indulged in such activities."

14. Gang-leader and member of the gang is called gangsters. Even a person, who abets or assists in the activities of gang, as defined under Section 2(b), whether before or after the commission of such activities, or harbours any person, who has indulged in such activities, would be also a gangster. Section 3(1) Gangsters Act provides for punishment of gangster, which would be two years and may extend to ten years with fine and fine should not be less than Rs.5,000/-. If a gangster commits an offence against public servant or any member of public servant, then the minimum punishment would be of three years and fine.

15. The offence under the Gangsters Act is an independent offence than the substantive offence. If it is proved that a person belongs to a group of persons and commits offence individually or with group of persons, which are defined under Section 2(b) of the Gangsters Act, such a person is a gangster and he would be punished for a term, which may be two or three years and extendable to ten years with minimum fine of rupees five thousand.

16. On behalf of the appellant-State, Mr. Umesh Verma, learned Additional Government Advocate, along with Mr. Rao Narendra Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate, has submitted that the basic ingredients to prosecute an individual under the Gangsters Act for commission of an offence as gangster is him being the member of the gang. Even if no FIR is registered against a person, still he can be prosecuted for the offence under the Gangsters Act. The purpose of the Gangsters Act is to curb organized crime and criminal activities of the gang and gangsters.

17. If it is proved that an accused belongs to a gang and commits offences individually or with other gang members with object of disturbing public order or of gaining any undue temporal and pecuniary material or other advantage for himself or any other member of the gang, he can be prosecuted and punished."

18. This Court in the judgment and order dated 23.09.2022 passed in Government Appeal No.779 of 2021 has dealt with the question that if accused has been acquitted for offence(s) which was/were in the gang-chart (substantive offence), can he be prosecuted and punished for offence under Section 2(3) of the Gangsters Act. This Court dealt with the said question in paragraphs-22 to 27 of the said judgment, which read as under:-

22. The moot question, which arises for consideration in this case, is that if the accused-respondent has been acquitted for offences, which were mentioned in the gang-chart, (substantive offences), can he still be convicted for offence under Section 2/3 Gangsters Act. As stated earlier, the offence under Section 2/3 Gangsters Act is a distinct and separate offence than the substantive offence. If the prosecution proves that the person belongs to a gang and indulges himself in committing offence with object of disturbing public order or of gaining any undue temporal and pecuniary material or other advantage for himself or any other person, he may be punished under the Gangsters Act.

23. A Coordinate Bench of this Court in 2007 (8) ADJ 716 (Vishnu Dayal and others Vs. State of U.P. and another) held that the object of the Act is to arrest the activities of organized criminals and members in their gangs. The Court also observed that gangsterism in the recent times has taken menacing dimensions and lives and liberty of citizens have been pushed against the walls of organized crimes. Paragraphs-11 and 12 of Vishnu Dayal and others Vs. State of U.P. and another case (supra), which are relevant for the purpose of this case, would read as under:-

"11. From the definition clause it is per se clear that a gang is a group of one or more persons who commit the crimes mentioned under the definition clause for the motive of earning undue advantage whether pecuniary, material or otherwise. Even a single crime committed by a gang is sufficient to implant Gangsters Act on such members of gang and repetition of crime is not desired for invoking offences under the said Act. The definition clause, as mentioned above does not engulf plurality of offence before the Gangsters Act is invoked. It is an Act to achieve an avowed object of arresting the activities of organised criminate and members of their gang. Gangsterism in the recent times has taken menacing dimensions and lives and liberty of citizens has been pushed against the walls of organised crimes. This type of offences have to be dealt with sternly and with tenacity. Further the offence under the Gangsters Act can be implanted on a group of persons who act individually or collectively.

12. In the present case the incident was motivated and executed because of grabbing of property of the deceased as the accused persons are very close relatives of deceased and are in fact, his real nephews and wife of his real own brother. These accused persons had an evil eye on the property of the deceased because of which they have committed the murder of their own blood relation. The offence was well chalked out and pre-planned. This certainly is gangsterism. This fact clearly brings out the activity of the applicants within the perview of the Gangsters Act. The contention of Sri Sengar, learned counsel for the applicants, is that this was an individual act and from the F.I.R. it cannot be said that the murder had taken place because of the lust of the property and, therefore, the Gangsters Act is not applicable, does not appeal at all as the said contention is against the facts of the case. I have gone through the judgment of this Court in the case of Ashok Kumar Dixit, (1987 All LJ 806) (supra). The said judgment does not countenance the submissions raised by Sri Sengar, learned counsel for the applicants. From the facts of the case it is perceptibly clear that embedded motive in the minds of the culprits was to grab the property and to gain pecuniary advantage for them. This certainly brings in their case within the purview of the Gangsters Act."

24. In 2008 (2) JIC 227 (All) (Udham Singh & Anr. Vs. State of U.P. & Ors), this Court, while dealing with the question whether on the basis of single incident the provisions of Gangsters Act can be invoked against such a person, this Court held that under Section 2/3 Gangsters Act, if the gang-chart affirms part of the FIR and in the gang-chart it is clearly mentioned that there is a gang, which indulges into commission of offence and on the basis of perusal of the gang-chart the authorities are satisfied for sanctioning registration of the FIR, such person can be prosecuted and punished for the offence. It was again reiterated that the purpose of the Gangsters Act is to control activities of organized gangs and gangsters. When specific offence has been created, it is open to punish a person even for a single act if it is covered by the requirement of law.

25. The Supreme Court also in Geeta Devi Vs. State of U.P. & Ors. (Criminal Appeal No.78 of 2022), while delineating the provisions of Gangsters Act, held that even a person, against whom for single offence, charge-sheet has been filed for any activity, mentioned under Section 2/3 Gangsters Act, he can be prosecuted under the Gangsters Act.

26. Paragraphs 8 and 10 of Udham Singh & Anr. Vs. State of U.P. & Ors case (supra), which are relevant for the purpose of decision of the present case, are extracted herein below:-

"8. Coming to the first contention of the learned counsel for the petitioners that on the basis of a single incident, the petitioners cannot be booked under the Act, we need to observe only this much that vide para 14 of the aforesaid judgment of Subhash (supra), the said contention has already been negated by the Division Bench of this Court on which decision, reliance has been placed by the petitioners themselves. It has been held in the aforesaid decision of Subhash (supra) as follows:--

"The words used in Section 2 are no doubt in plural indicating "indulges in anti social activities" but the sentence does not stop with the words "anti social activities". It goes on with the words "viz" followed by 15 clauses of anti social activities enumerated therein. The plural in "anti social activities" referred to the large number of activities to be brought under the umbrella of this single offence and it would never mean that there must be plurality of actions before a person could be prosecuted or convicted for an offence under the Act. When a specific offence has been created, it is open to be punished even for a single act, if it is covered by the requirements of law. We thus, answered point No. 1 framed by us."

10. There is another aspect of the matter which we would like to discuss. Under the definition clause of the Act u/S. 2(b) and (c), it is not required that the FIR must be registered against the gangster before he is booked under the Act. Sine qua non to prosecute an individual under the Act is commission of an offence as a "gangster". Gang means a group of persons, who acting either signally or collectively, by violence, or threat or show violence or intimidation, or coercion or otherwise with the object of disturbing public order or of gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage for himself or any other person, indulge in anti social activities. It is not the requirement of law that nobody can be prosecuted under the Act if no FIR is registered against him. It is the activity of an individual which is the determinative factor for bringing him under the mischief of the Act and nothing else. If he acts as a member or leader of a gang he can be booked under the Act irrespective of any previous FIR being registered against him or not. The plain reading of different definition clauses clearly indicates that if the person indulges into the commission of offence enumerated under Section 2(b)(I) to (XV) as a member or leader of a gang for gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage then he is purviewed within the ambit of the Act and it is not the requirement of law that the FIR for the input offence must be registered before he is booked under the Act. Since the purpose of the Act is to curb the activities of gangster, which are more often than not commit not in any public gaze therefore the provisions of Act have to interpret in a manner which fosters its purpose and the intention of legislature best."

27. It is not in dispute that several FIRs and charge-sheets for offences, which are provided under definition clause of Section 2(b) of the Gangsters Act, were registered against the accused-respondent and the charge-sheets were filed against him, including in the case of murder of Jail Superintendent of District Jail, Lucknow. Acquittal or conviction is immaterial for invoking the provisions of Gangsters Act against a person, who is otherwise a member of the gang and, allegedly commits offences, which are defined under Section 2(b) of the Gangsters Act. If the FIR is registered or the charge-sheet is filed and the person is member of gang, which is defined under Section 2(b) Gangsters Act, it fulfills the ingredients of Section 2 of the Gangsters Act and he can be punished under Section 3 of the Gangsters Act. The trial Court has acquitted the accused-respondent on the ground that the accused-respondent was acquitted in all the offences, which were mentioned in the gang-chart. The gang-chart was approved and the FIR came to be registered against accused-respondent along with others. This Court is of the view, on considering the law laid down by the Supreme Court and this Court, as discussed above, and carefully reading all the provisions of the Gangsters Act, that the accused-respondent was a member of the gang and for his criminal activities several FIRs and charge-sheets came to be registered and submitted against him for offences, which are defined under Section 2/3 Gangsters Act. The acquittal of the accused-respondent for turning the witness hostile or otherwise is not a material aspect."

19. In view of the aforesaid law laid down by this Court, I do not find any substance in the submissions advanced by the learned Senior Advocate on behalf of the accused-petitioner that since the accused-petitioner has been acquitted in substantive offence, the proceedings under the Gangsters Act should be dropped. Section 12 of the Gangsters Act, which has been relied upon on behalf of the accused-petitioner, by the learned Senior Advocate reads as under:-

of any offence by Special Court shall have precedence over the trial of any other case against the accused in any other Court (not being a Special Court) and shall be concluded in preference to the trial of such other case and accordingly the trial of such other case shall remain in abeyance."

20. The trial in the offence under the Gangsters Act has not been conducted prior to trial for substantive offence as trials of substantive offence and Gangsters Act could not be conducted in the same Court for the reason that the trial of substantive offence was transferred by the Supreme Court to New Delhi, but trial of the offence under the Gangsters Act was not transferred and, therefore, Section 12 of the Gangsters Act would have no applicability in the present case. Further, accused-petitioner never took this plea during the trial of substantive offence by Special Court at New Delhi. I, therefore find no force in the submission of the learned Senior Advocate for the accused-petitioner that the proceedings under the Gangsters Act would get vitiated on this ground. If an accused is found to be the member of the gang and he or any of the members of the gang is or has been committing offence under Chapter XVI or Chapter XVII or Chapter XXII of the IPC, he is likely to be punished under the Gangsters Act.

21. In view of the above discussions, I do not find any merit in the present petition and, therefore, the same is hereby dismissed.

A. Criminal Law - Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Section 439 - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 120-B, 409, 420, 467, 468, 471 - Section 7-A, 8 & 13 (2) r/w Section 13 (1) (d) of Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988- the applicant entered in a criminal conspiracy with other co-accused persons and in furtherance of the said criminal conspiracy, the surplus funds of UPPCL trust were got invested in fixed deposits of DHFL in contravention of investment guidelines dated 02.03.2015 issued by the Ministry of Finance, Government of India- the accused persons had dishonestly and fraudulently obtained higher ratings from rating agencies on the basis of false and bogus audited balance sheets and bogus financial statements- the applicant and co-accused in criminal conspiracy with other co-accused persons diverted funds from the bank accounts of DHFL to bank accounts of other companies by way of sanctioning bogus project loans and further diverted the said funds to their own companies and used the said funds- prima facie appears that the deposit of amounts in fixed deposits with DHFL would create a relationship of creditor and debtor between the Trust and DHFL and it would not amount to entrustment, so as to attract the offence of breach of trust- So far and the offences under 420, 467, 468 and 471 I.P.C. are concerned, it is not alleged that the aforesaid acts were committed by the applicant himself and it is alleged that he conspired and got it done through certain officials of DHFL, and those officials have already been granted bail- Charge-sheet and as many as 5 supplementary charge-sheets have already been filed in the matter and the trial Court has already taken cognizance of the case-The charge-sheet mentions the names of as many as 57 witnesses of the case and the trial is yet to commence and it would certainly take a very long time to conclude and keeping the applicant incarcerated without his guilt having been established would not be proper, unless his case falls within any exception disentitling him to be enlarged on bail-the applicant is entitled to be released on bail pending conclusion of the trial.(Para 1 to 62)

B. The law is well settled that when moneys are deposited in a bank, the relationship that is constituted between the banker and the customer is one of debtor and creditor and not trustee and beneficiary. The banker is entitled to use the monies without being called upon to account for such user, his only liability being to return the amount in accordance with the terms agreed between him and the customer. (West), Lucknow.

3. On 02.11.2019, a First Information Report bearing Case Crime No. 540 of 2019 for commission of offences under Sections 409, 420, 467, 468 and 471 IPC was lodged in Police Station Hazaratganj, Lucknow by Sri. I. M. Kaushal, Secretary of Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Contributory Provident Fund Trust against (1) Praveen Kumar Gupta, the then Secretary of the Trust and (ii) Sudhanshu Dwivedi, the then Director Finance, stating that on 09.05.2013, the Board of Trustees of the Trust had decided that the amount of General Provident Fund will be invested in Fixed Deposit Schemes of Nationalized Banks for 1 to 3 years. On 21.04.2014, a decision was taken by the Board of Trustees to consider other options, which are secured like investments made in the bank and which give higher assured interest and the Director Finance was authorized to take the services of a Financial Consultant, if necessary. Till October 2016, the amount of Provident fund was invested in fixed deposit schemes of Nationalized Banks. In December 2016, on a proposal made by Praveen Kumar Gupta, Secretary of the trust, which was approved by Sudhanshu Dwivedi, the then Director Finance and A. P. Mishra, the then Managing Director, amounts of General Provident Fund and Contributory Provident Fund were started being invested in Fixed Deposit Schemes of PNB Housing. In March 2017, the aforesaid named accused persons Praveen Kumar Gupta and Sudhanshu Dwivedi started investing the amounts of GPF and CPF in DHFL in violation of the procedure laid down by the Notification dated 02.03.2015 issued by the Ministry of Finance, Government of India, as per which a maximum of 50% of non-government Provident fund can be invested in Scheduled Commercial Banks.

4. The F.I.R. further states that in a meeting of the Board of Trustees held on 24.03.2017, it was agreed to consider the investment proposals as per Government Notification dated 02.03.2015 in securities other than deposits of Nationalized Banks, in AAA rated companies giving higher security and high interest rates. In contravention of the clear guidelines of the government of India contained in the notification dated 02.03.2015 prohibiting investment of amounts of the employees Provident Fund in institutions other than Scheduled Commercial Banks, Secretary of the Trust Praveen Kumar Gupta invested ₹2,631.90 Crores in DHFL, after obtaining approval from Director Finance Sudhanshu Dwivedi, knowing fully well that DHFL is not a scheduled commercial Bank and it is an unsecured private institution. Out of the aforesaid amount, ₹ 1185.50 Crores had been received back by the trust and ₹ 1445.70 Crores were yet to be received. Similarly, an amount of ₹ 1491.50 Crores was invested in DHFL from the Contributory Provident Fund amount, out of which ₹ 669.30 Crores had been repaid and ₹ 822.20 Crores were pending. Thus a total of ₹ 2267.90 Crores principal amount was to be received from DHFL. The FIR alleged that the named accused persons Praveen Kumar Gupta and Sudhanshu Dwivedi had committed the offence of criminal breach of trust.

5. After registration of the case, the investigation was transferred to the Economic Offences Wing (EOW) of Uttar Pradesh Police on the same day, i.e., 02.11.2019. The EOW filed a charge-sheet on 01.02.2020 against Praveen Kumar Gupta, Sudhanshu Dwivedi and Ayodhya Prasad Misra, the then Managing Director of UPPCL. Thereafter the EOW filed the First supplementary charge-sheet on 11.02.2020 against Abhinav Gupta, son of Naveen Kumar Gupta and his friend Ashish Chaudhary. The second supplementary charge-sheet was filed by EOW on 02.03.2020 against seven other persons. The third supplementary charge-sheet was filed by EOW on 05.03.2020 against four more persons.

6. The matter was subsequently transferred to CBI and on 05.03.2020 the CBI registered a fresh First Information Report No. RC 00620208A0005 for commission of offences under Sections 409, 420, 467, 468 and 471 IPC. Thereafter CBI conducted investigation in furtherance of the aforesaid FIR and it filed the fourth supplementary charge-sheet on 29.12.2020 against another accused person.

7. The applicant was not named in the FIR lodged by the informant and in the charge-sheet or the three supplementary charge-sheets filed by the EOW. He was also not named in the FIR lodged by the CBI and in the fourth supplementary charge-sheet submitted by the CBI.

8. The Trial Court took cognizance of the offences against all the charge-sheeted accused persons.

9. On 22.08.2022, the CBI submitted another charge-sheet against (i) Kapil Wadhawan (the applicant), (ii) Dheeraj Wadhawan and (iii) M/s Dewan Housing Finance Ltd. (DHFL) alleging commission of offences under Sections 120 B read with 420, 409, 467, 468, 471 IPC and Section 7-A, 8 & 13 (2) read with 13 (1) (d) of Prevention Of Corruption Act, 1988 and substantive offences thereof. The charge-sheet states the huge amounts of General Provident Fund and Contributory Provident Fund were transferred in the bank accounts of DHFL for the creation of fixed deposits illegally and the applicant Kapil Wadhawan was the Chairman and Managing Director of DHFL and the co-accused Dheeraj Wadhawan was a Director of the Company during the relevant period and both of them entered in a criminal conspiracy with co-accused persons Praveen Kumar Gupta, Amit Prakash, Mahesh Gupta, and Alok Garg in and around March 2017 and in furtherance of the said criminal conspiracy, the applicant and Dheeraj Wadhawan dishonestly and fraudulently obtained the investments of surplus funds of UPPCL trust in fixed deposits of DHFL in contravention of investment guidelines dated 02.03.2015 issued by the Ministry of Finance, Government of India 02.03.2015.

10. The charge-sheet further states that the accused persons dishonestly and fraudulently obtained higher ratings from rating agencies on the basis of false and bogus audited balance sheets and bogus financial statements and thereby dishonestly and fraudulently obtained investments to the tune of ₹ 4,122 Crores of UPPCL funds in fixed deposits of DHFL during March 2017 to December 2018, out of which surplus funds to the tune of ₹ 2267.9 Crores were misappropriated by the applicant and co-accused Dheeraj Wadhawan in criminal conspiracy with other co-accused persons and they diverted the said funds from the bank accounts of DHFL to bank accounts of other companies by way of sanctioning bogus project loans and further diverted the said funds to their own companies and used the said funds.

11. The applicant was arrested in another case by CBI as well as ED and he was remanded to judicial custody and was lodged in Taloja jail since May 2020. The Enforcement Directorate registered ECIR/MBZO-I/02/2020 dated 03.02.2020 (arising out of the present case) and filed a complaint. Bearing Special Case No. 1389 of 2021 in the Special Court PMLA, Mumbai, naming the applicant also as an accused, whereas till that time, the applicant was not made an accused in the present case. The applicant as released on furnishing a bond under Section 188 Cr.P.C. by order dated 14.02.2022 While the applicant was already in judicial custody in another case, on 24.05.2020, the applicant was taken from Taloja Jail and he was produced before the Special Judge, CBI, Lucknow on 26.05.2020, from where he was initially remanded to the custody of CBI for 14 days and thereafter he was sent to judicial custody and since then the applicant is languishing in jail in the present case.

12. Sri Gopal Swaroop Chaturvedi Senior Advocate has submitted that even as per the prosecution case, ₹ 4,122 Crores were invested in fixed deposit schemes of DHFL during the period March 2017 to December 2018 and the company repaid ₹ 1,854.8 Crores. Repayments were being made regularly in quarterly installments without any break and without any complaint. On 30.09.2019, the High Court of Bombay passed an interim order in Commercial Suit (L) number 134 of 2019 titled Reliance Nippon Life Asset Management Ltd versus Dewan Housing Finance Corporation Ltd and two others restraining DHFL from making further payments to any unsecured creditor and secured creditor, except in cases where payments were made on pro rata basis to all secured creditors including the plaintiff including out of its current and future receivables, in preference to the payments owed to the plaintiff, without the sanction of the court. It was after passing of the aforesaid order by the Bombay High Court, that DHFL became incapacitated from making due payments to the trust. The aforesaid interim order was made absolute by means of an order dated 10.10.2019. DHFL had informed about the aforesaid order by sending a letter dated 08.11.2019 to the trust.

13. On 18.11.2019, the Trust filed an intervention application in the aforesaid suit before the Bombay High Court stating that pursuant to the orders dated 30.09.2019 and 10.10.2019 passed by the High Court, DHFL has refused to release the amounts due to the trust and the order passed by the High Court had caused grave injustice to the employees of UPPCL and it would continue to do so if not varied. It was stated in the application that since March 2017, ₹2631,20,00,000/- in the form of 319 fixed deposits, out of which 158 fixed deposit worth ₹1185,50,00,000/- had been measured and paid and 41 fixed deposits worth ₹352,00,00,000/- had matured and were outstanding. Until 30.09.2019, as and when of fixed deposit matured all the interest payable under became due, the maturity amount/interest was paid by DHFL. After passing of the interim order, DHFL did not pay any amount to the trust and the trust and it is stated that the only thing to impeding the release of the amounts to the trust was the order passed by the High Court. The trust requested the High Court to pass an order directing DHFL to release the amounts due to it.

14. Based on the aforesaid factual situation, the first submission of Sri Gopal Swaroop Chaturvedi is that there is no dispute that DHFL continued to make payments to the trust till passing of the interim order by the Bombay High Court restraining it from making the payments and the repayment could not be made thereafter only because of the order passed by the Bombay High Court. The dispute started only when DHFL could not make payments to the trust in compliance of the order passed by the Bombay High Court. He has submitted that since the payments were stopped in compliance of the order passed by the Bombay High Court, the non-payment of amount would not be an offence, as provided by section 78 I.P.C., which reads as follows: -

"78. Act done pursuant to the judgment or order of Court.--Nothing which is done in pursuance of, or which is warranted by the judgment or order of, a Court of Justice, if done whilst such judgment or order remains in force, is an offence, notwithstanding the Court may have had no jurisdiction to pass such judgment or order, provided the person doing the act in good faith believes that the Court had such jurisdiction."

15. Sri. Chaturvedi has next submitted that the offence of criminal breach of trust is not made out by the allegations leveled by the prosecution itself, as it is an admitted case that the amounts had been invested by the trust in fixed deposits with DHFL and such a deposit does not amount to 'entrustment' of the amount. In support of the aforesaid submission Sri. Chaturvedi has relied upon decisions of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Shanti Prasad Jain v. Director of Enforcement, FERA, (1963) 2 SCR 297 and Anumati v.

Punjab National Bank, (2004) 8 SCC 498.

16. Sri. Chaturvedi has submitted that as the relationship between DHFL and the Trust is one of debtor and creditor and not trustee and beneficiary, there is no occasion for commission of the offence as defined in Section 405 IPC and punishable in Section 409 I.P.C.

17. Sri. Chaturvedi has further submitted that the offence of cheating is also not made out, as the Trust itself had made investments in fixed deposits with DHFL. He has further submitted that it was not for the first time that the Trust had made such investments. Prior to making investments with DHFL, the Trust had made similar deposits with LIC Housing Finance Ltd. and PNB Housing in the year 2016. The Trust had willingly made the investments in fixed deposits in DHFL for obtaining better returns and the investments were not obtained by deceiving any person by fraudulently or dishonestly inducing him to make the investments. He has submitted that there is no allegation that the applicant has made any false document or has forged the same and, therefore, no case is made out for punishment of the applicant under Sections 467 or 468.

18. Sri. Chaturvedi has submitted that Sections 405 and 415 IPC operate in two different fields and both cannot be applied together. For attracting an offence of Criminal Breach of trust, entrustment of the property is necessary, which means that the person complaining had himself entrusted the property willingly, whereas for attracting an offence of cheating, it is necessary that the offender had fraudulently or dishonestly induced the victim to deliver the property to him.

19. Sri. Chaturvedi has further submitted that there is no evidence to prima facie establish the allegation of Criminal Conspiracy. He has placed reliance on a decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Baliya v. State of M.P., (2012) 9 SCC 696, in which the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"17. The offence of criminal conspiracy has its foundation in an agreement to commit an offence or to achieve a lawful object through unlawful means. Such a conspiracy would rarely be hatched in the open and, therefore, direct evidence to establish the same may not be always forthcoming. Proof or otherwise of such conspiracy is a matter of inference and the court in drawing such an inference must consider whether the basic facts i.e. circumstances from which the inference is to be drawn have been proved beyond all reasonable doubt, and thereafter, whether from such proved and established circumstances no other conclusion except that the accused had agreed to commit an offence can be drawn. Naturally, in evaluating the proved circumstances for the purposes of drawing any inference adverse to the accused, the benefit of any doubt that may creep in must go to the accused."

20. Sri. Chaturvedi has submitted that there was no meeting of mind of the applicant with that of any other accused person as there is no material to even prima facie establish that the applicant played any role in the decision making process of UPPCL whereby it was decided to make investments in PNB HFL, LIC HFL and DHFL and in payment of brokerage to the brokers.

21. Sri. S. C. Misra, Senior Advocate has also advanced submissions on behalf of the applicant and he has submitted that the charge-sheet states that one of the co-accused persons Lalit Goel Chartered Accountant had entered into a criminal conspiracy with Alok Garg, Associate Vice President, Distribution, (Accounts and Operations), SMC Global Securities Ltd and also with Mahesh Kumar Gupta, Senior Vice President, Distribution, SMC Global Securities Ltd and in pursuance to the said criminal conspiracy, investments were made for the first time in PNB Housing Finance Ltd in December 2016 through broker SMC Global Securities Ltd. Lalit Goel had referred UPPCL to M/s SMC Global Securities Ltd. for investments in PNB HFL, DHFL and LIC HFL. The investments in PNB HFL were made in the year 2016, wherein the applicant had no role to play. In the initial FIR lodged by the Secretary of the trust, the only allegation was that the two named co-accused persons, who were officers of UPPCL, had made investments in violation of the Government guidelines and there was no allegation against the applicant. The allegation against the applicant was made for the first time in the 5th additional charge-sheet alleging that he had wrongfully obtained investments. The investments made in DHFL were not the first of its kind and similar investments were made in PNB HFL in the year 2016 and also in LIC HFL.

22. Sri. Misra has submitted that the applicant was not an accused till filing of the 4th additional charge-sheet in the case and nobody had any grievance against DHFL or against the applicant. During the year 2017-18, the total Treasury flow into DHFL was over ₹ 34,000 Crores and in the year 2018-19, it was over ₹ 38,000 Crores. The investments made by UPPCL constituted a very small fraction of the total investment received by DHFL. The applicant was the Chairman and Managing Director of DHFL, which had more than 15,000 employees and the Fixed Deposit Department was managed by one Pradeep Bhadouria, who used to report to the Joint Managing Director Sri. Harshil Mehta. UPPCL has made investments in DHFL through SMC Brokers and even on earlier occasions, similar investments were made by UPPCL in PNB Housing Finance and LIC Housing Finance, which are also non-banking financial institutions.

23. Sri. Misra has further submitted that when DHFL became incapacitated to make repayments because of the interim order passed by the Bombay High Court, the RBI superseded its Board of Directors on 20.11.2019 and appointed an Administrator of the company, after which the applicant did not have any say in the affairs of the company. RBI filed Company Petition No. 4 to 58 of 2019 before the National Company Law Tribunal, Mumbai to initiate corporate insolvency resolution process for DHFL under the Insolvency And Bankruptcy Code 2016 and in furtherance of the aforesaid process, Piramal Housing Finance Capital Ltd. has taken over the management and control of DHFL under an order dated 07.06.2021 passed by the National Company Law Tribunal Mumbai. Piramal Housing Finance Capital Ltd was a business rival of DHFL and it was only after that it took control of DHFL, that two employees of the Company, namely Pradeep Bhadauria and Govindan Srinivasan have made a reference to an alleged conversation between the applicant and co-accused Praveen Kumar Gupta, the then Secretary of the Trust. However, none of the officials of the Trust have stated anything regarding involvement of the applicant in commission of the offences.

24. Sri. Misra has further submitted that except for the applicant and his brother - Co-accused Dheeraj Wadhawan, all the other co-accused persons have been granted bail in the present case and, therefore, the applicant is also entitled to be released on bail on the ground of parity.

25. Sri. Misra has placed reliance of the judgments of the Hon'ble High Court in Sanjay Chandra v. CBI, (2012) 1 SCC 40, Satender Kumar Antil v. CBI, (2022) 10 SCC 51, Mahesh Kumar & Ors Versus Central Bureau of Investigation, SCC OnLine Del 3903 and Praveen Kumar Agarwal versus CBI, 2022 SCC OnLine Del 1768.

26. Sri. Nandit Kumar Srivastava Senior Advocate has also advanced submissions in support of the applications and he has submitted that the applicant was sent to Delhi, which shows that the custody of the applicant is not required in connection with the present case and, for this reason also, the applicant is entitled to be enlarged on bail in the present case.

27. Per contra, Sri Anurag Kumar Singh Advocate has submitted on behalf of the respondent - CBI that the conspiracy in the present case was hatched in two parts the first being at the office of UPPCL, where a decision was taken to invest the amount of Provident fund in companies other than Nationalised Banks and the second part being performed by the applicant and co-accused Dheeraj Wadhawan by obtaining AAA rating by CARE (Credit Analysis and Research Ratings) and BWR (Brick Works Ratings) on the strength of bogus documents showing loans to the tune of ₹ 15,000 crore given to 2.5 lakh fictitious persons, which amount actually was the non-performing asset of DHFL and the fictitious loans were shown in the books of account to hide the NPA for obtaining AAA rating.

28. Sri. Singh has further submitted that DHFL had made a proposal to UPPCL for paying 8.05% interest on the deposits. Forged minutes of meeting dated 24.03.2017 of the Trustees of UPPCL Contributory Provident Fund Trust were prepared wherein it was recorded that the Board of Trustees had agreed to consider the investment proposals as per government notification dated 02.03.2015 in the securities with higher security and higher interest rate other than term deposits of Nationalised Banks and AAA rated companies and it was further resolved that further investments in securities will be decided by Secretary (Trust) on case to case basis with the consent/approval of Director (Finance), UPPCL and the trustee. In furtherance of the aforesaid forged resolution the Secretary / Director engaged brokers. Abhinav Gupta, the then Secretary of the Trust, was in regular touch with Amit Prakash, Regional Manager of DHFL through emails. Brokerage was paid to several non-existent broker firms and the amount paid as brokerage was withdrawn from the banks in cash. The call detail records of Abhinav Gupta and Amit Prakash establish their connection.

29. Sri. Singh has further submitted that it has come to light in investigation that huge amounts were transferred from the accounts of DHFL as unsecured loans to various other companies, which are sister concerns of DHFL and are controlled by the applicant and co-accused Dheeraj Wadhawan. The loans were granted without carrying out any paper work.

30. Sri. Singh has taken the Court through the statements of some employees of DHFL recorded during investigation, who have stated that it was common practice of the group to make their employees as the authorized signatories in the bank accounts and Directors in other companies. He has also submitted that false entries used to be made in the accounts of the company for showing its false financial condition of the company and it obtained AAA credit rating on the basis of false documents and false accounts.

31. Sri. Singh has further submitted that the applicant is involved in and is in custody in connection with two other cases (i) FIR No. RC2102020E0004 dated 07.03.2020 lodged by CBI under Sections 120 B, 409, 420 and 477 A IPC and Section 13 (2) read with 13 (1) (d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act and substantive offences thereof and (ii) FIR No RC2242022A0001 dated 20.06.2022 lodged by CBI under Sections 120 B read with Section 420 IPC and Sections 7, 12 and 13 (2) read with 13 (1) (d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act. The applicant is involved in several other cases, which have not been disclosed in the affidavit filed in support of the bail application.

32. Sri. Anurag Kumar Singh has relied upon Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy v. CBI, (2013) 7 SCC 439, State of Bihar v. Amit Kumar, (2017) 13 SCC 751, Rohit Tandon v. Directorate of Enforcement, (2018) 11 SCC 46, Mahipal v. Rajesh Kumar, (2020) 2 SCC 118 and Shivnarayan Laxminarayan Joshi v. State of Maharashtra, (1980) 2 SCC 465.

33. The applicant's criminal history has been explained by filing the second supplementary affidavit, as per which he is involved in a total of nine cases apart from the present case and he has been granted bail in the following eight cases: -

(i) In ECIR / MBZO-I/08/2019 registered by the Enforcement Directorate under Sections 3 and 4 of PMLA, the applicant has been granted bail by means of an order dated 21.02.2020 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, City Sessions Court/Special Court, C.R.No. 16, Mumbai, and by means of the aforesaid order, the applicant has been directed to surrender his passport before the Investigating Officer.

(ii) In ECIR / MBZO-I/03/2020 registered by the Enforcement Directorate in connection with FIR No. RC2192020E0004 under Sections 3 and 4 of PMLA, the applicant has been granted default bail by means of an order dated 20.08.2020 passed by the Bombay High Court, and this order has been affirmed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court by means of the judgment and order dated 27.03.2023 passed in Criminal Appeal Nos. 701-702 of 2020.

(iii) FIR No. RC2242022A0001 dated 22.06.2022 registered by CBI Delhi under Sections 120 B, 409, 420, 477A IPC and Sections 13 (2) and 13 (1) (d) of Prevention of Corruption Act, in which the applicant has been granted default bail by means of an order dated 03.12.2022 passed by the Sessions Court.

(iv) FIR No. 66 of 2017 registered by the EOW Delhi, under Sections 420, 406, 409 and 120 B IPC, in which the applicant has been granted bail by means of an order dated 13.05.2022 passed by the Sessions Court.

(v) FIR No. 9 of 2020 registered by EOW Chennai, under Sections 120 B, 420, 409 IPC and Section 5 of the Tamil Nadu Protection of Interest Depositors Act, in which the applicant has been granted bail by means of an order dated 12.10.2020 passed by the Sessions Court.

(vi) In ECIR / MBZO-I/02/2020 registered by the Enforcement Directorate under Sections 3 and 4 of PMLA, in connection with FIR No. RC 0062020A0005/2020 (erstwhile CR No. 540 of 2019 registered by EOW Lucknow), in which the applicant was summoned and was released on bond under Section 88 Cr.P.C. by means of an order dated 14.02.2022 passed by the Special Court.

(vii) In ECIR / MBZO-I/05/2019 registered by the Enforcement Directorate in connection with FIR No. RC2192020E0004 under Sections 3 and 4 of PMLA, in connection with FIR No. RCBSM 2019E0002 dated 04.01.2019 registered by CBI Mumbai, in which the applicant was summoned and was released on bond under Section 88 Cr.P.C. by means of an order dated 15.02.2022 passed by the Special Court.

(viii) CR No. 84 of 2021 dated 25.03.2021 registered by EOW, Mumbai under Sections 465, 467, 468, 471, 406, 409, 420 and 120 B IPC, in which the applicant was summoned and was released on bond under Section 88 Cr.P.C. by means of an order dated 2.04.2022 passed by the Special Court.

34. Apart from the present case, the applicant is yet to be released on bail in FIR No. RC 209 2020 E 0004 dated 07.03.2020 registered by CBI Delhi under Sections 120 B, 409 ad 420 IPC.

35. I have considered the facts and circumstances of the case and the elaborate submissions advanced on behalf of the learned Counsel for the respective parties.

36. Since the allegation is of commission of economic offences, it would be appropriate to have a look at the law regarding grant of bail in such offences before proceeding to deal with the submissions. I will first mention the case-laws cited by the learned Counsel for the respondent in this regard.

37. In Sanjay Chandra v. CBI, (2012) 1 SCC 40, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"21. In bail applications, generally, it has been laid down from the earliest times that the object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. Deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment, unless it is required to ensure that an accused person will stand his trial when called upon. The courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction, and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and duly found guilty.

22. From the earliest times, it was appreciated that detention in custody pending completion of trial could be a cause of great hardship. From time to time, necessity demands that some unconvicted persons should be held in custody pending trial to secure their attendance at the trial but in such cases, "necessity" is the operative test. In this country, it would be quite contrary to the concept of personal liberty enshrined in the Constitution that any person should be punished in respect of any matter, upon which, he has not been convicted or that in any circumstances, he should be deprived of his liberty upon only the belief that he will tamper with the witnesses if left at liberty, save in the most extraordinary circumstances.

Apart from the question of prevention being the object of refusal of bail, one must not lose sight of the fact that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of former conduct whether the accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the purpose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson.

39. Coming back to the facts of the present case, both the courts have refused the request for grant of bail on two grounds: the primary ground is that the offence alleged against the accused persons is very serious involving deep-rooted planning in which, huge financial loss is caused to the State exchequer; the secondary ground is that of the possibility of the accused persons tampering with the witnesses. In the present case, the charge is that of cheating and dishonestly inducing delivery of property and forgery for the purpose of cheating using as genuine a forged document. The punishment for the offence is imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years. It is, no doubt, true that the nature of the charge may be relevant, but at the same time, the punishment to which the party may be liable, if convicted, also bears upon the issue. Therefore, in determining whether to grant bail, both the seriousness of the charge and the severity of the punishment should be taken into consideration.

40. The grant or refusal to grant bail lies within the discretion of the court. The grant or denial is regulated, to a large extent, by the facts and circumstances of each particular case. But at the same time, right to bail is not to be denied merely because of the sentiments of the community against the accused. The primary purposes of bail in a criminal case are to relieve the accused of imprisonment, to relieve the State of the burden of keeping him, pending the trial, and at the same time, to keep the accused constructively in the custody of the court, whether before or after conviction, to assure that he will submit to the jurisdiction of the court and be in attendance thereon whenever his presence is required.

42. When the undertrial prisoners are detained in jail custody to an indefinite period, Article 21 of the Constitution is violated. Every person, detained or arrested, is entitled to speedy trial, the question is: whether the same is possible in the present case.

46. We are conscious of the fact that the accused are charged with economic offences of huge magnitude. We are also conscious of the fact that the offences alleged, if proved, may jeopardise the economy of the country. At the same time, we cannot lose sight of the fact that the investigating agency has already completed investigation and the charge-sheet is already filed before the Special Judge, CBI, New Delhi. Therefore, their presence in the custody may not be necessary for further investigation. We are of the view that the appellants are entitled to the grant of bail pending trial on stringent conditions in order to allay the apprehension expressed by CBI."

38. In Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy v. CBI, (2013) 7 SCC 439 relied upon by the learned Counsel for the respondent - CBI, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"34. Economic offences constitute a class apart and need to be visited with a different approach in the matter of bail. The economic offences having deep-rooted conspiracies and involving huge loss of public funds need to be viewed seriously and considered as grave offences affecting the economy of the country as a whole and thereby posing serious threat to the financial health of the country.

35. While granting bail, the court has to keep in mind the nature of accusations, the nature of evidence in support thereof, the severity of the punishment which conviction will entail, the character of the accused, circumstances which are peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with, the larger interests of the public. State and other similar considerations.

39. In State of Bihar v. Amit Kumar, (2017) 13 SCC 751, the Hon'ble Supreme Court was pleased to hold that: - "It is well settled that socio-economic offences constitute a class apart and need to be visited with a different approach in the matter of bail. Usually socio-economic offence has deep-rooted conspiracies affecting the moral fibre of the society and causing irreparable harm, needs to be considered seriously."

40. Rohit Tandon v. Directorate of Enforcement, (2018) 11 SCC 46, which was a case arising out of Prevention of Money Laundering Act, Section 45 whereof lays down certain additional conditions regarding grant of bail, including the Court's satisfaction that there are reasonable grounds for believing that he is not guilty of the offence and that he is not likely to commit any offence while on bail, However, the present case does not involve allegation of any offence under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act and, therefore, the aforesaid judgment is not relevant for the case in hand.

41. In Mahipal v. Rajesh Kumar, (2020) 2 SCC 118, cited by Sri. Anurag Kumar Singh, the Hon'ble Supreme Court was examining the validity of an order passed by the High Court of Rajasthan granting Bail to an accused person by merely recording that "Considering the contentions put forth by the counsel for the petitioner and taking into account the facts and circumstances of the case and without expressing opinion on the merits of the case, this Court deems it just and proper to enlarge the petitioner on bail." The Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"25. Merely recording "having perused the record" and "on the facts and circumstances of the case" does not subserve the purpose of a reasoned judicial order. It is a fundamental premise of open justice, to which our judicial system is committed, that factors which have weighed in the mind of the Judge in the rejection or the grant of bail are recorded in the order passed. Open justice is premised on the notion that justice should not only be done, but should manifestly and undoubtedly be seen to be done. The duty of Judges to give reasoned decisions lies at the heart of this commitment. Questions of the grant of bail concern both liberty of individuals undergoing criminal prosecution as well as the interests of the criminal justice system in ensuring that those who commit crimes are not afforded the opportunity to obstruct justice. Judges are duty-bound to explain the basis on which they have arrived at a conclusion."

42. In the above mentioned backdrop, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that:

"12. The determination of whether a case is fit for the grant of bail involves the balancing of numerous factors, among which the nature of the offence, the severity of the punishment and a prima facie view of the involvement of the accused are important. No straitjacket formula exists for courts to assess an application for the grant or rejection of bail. At the stage of assessing whether a case is fit for the grant of bail, the court is not required to enter into a detailed analysis of the evidence on record to establish beyond reasonable doubt the commission of the crime by the accused. That is a matter for trial. However, the Court is required to examine whether there is a prima facie or reasonable ground to believe that the accused had committed the offence and on a balance of the considerations involved, the continued custody of the accused subserves the purpose of the criminal justice system. Where bail has been granted by a lower court, an appellate court must be slow to interfere and ought to be guided by the principles set out for the exercise of the power to set aside bail."

43. In the case of Dataram Singh v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2018) 3 SCC 22, the Hon'ble Supreme Court was pleased to reiterate the law of bail in the following words:--

"2. A fundamental postulate of criminal jurisprudence is the presumption of innocence, meaning thereby that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. However, there are instances in our criminal law where a reverse onus has been placed on an accused with regard to some specific offences but that is another matter and does not detract from the fundamental postulate in respect of other offences. Yet another important facet of our criminal jurisprudence is that the grant of bail is the general rule and putting a person in jail or in a prison or in a correction home (whichever expression one may wish to use) is an exception. Unfortunately, some of these basic principles appear to have been lost sight of with the result that more and more persons are being incarcerated and for longer periods. This does not do any good to our criminal jurisprudence or to our society.

5. The historical background of the provision for bail has been elaborately and lucidly explained in a recent decision delivered in Nikesh Tarachand Shah v. Union of India [(2018) 11 SCC 1] going back to the days of the Magna Carta. In that decision, reference was made to Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia v. State of Punjab [(1980) 2 SCC 565] in which it is observed that it was held way back in Nagendra v. King-Emperor [AIR 1924 Cal 476] that bail is not to be withheld as a punishment. Reference was also made to Emperor v. Hutchinson [AIR 1931 All 356] wherein it was observed that grant of bail is the rule and refusal is the exception. The provision for bail is therefore age-old and the liberal interpretation to the provision for bail is almost a century old, going back to colonial days."

44. After considering the earlier judgments dealing with the question of grant of bail to a person accused of commission of an economic offence, in P. Chidambaram v. Directorate of Enforcement (2020) 13 SCC 791, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"23. Thus, from cumulative perusal of the judgments cited on either side including the one rendered by the Constitution Bench of this Court, it could be deduced that the basic jurisprudence relating to bail remains the same inasmuch as the grant of bail is the rule and refusal is the exception so as to ensure that the accused has the opportunity of securing fair trial. However, while considering the same the gravity of the offence is an aspect which is required to be kept in view by the Court. The gravity for the said purpose will have to be gathered from the facts and circumstances arising in each case. Keeping in view the consequences that would befall on the society in cases of financial irregularities, it has been held that even economic offences would fall under the category of "grave offence" and in such circumstance while considering the application for bail in such matters, the Court will have to deal with the same, being sensitive to the nature of allegation made against the accused. One of the circumstances to consider the gravity of the offence is also the term of sentence that is prescribed for the offence the accused is alleged to have committed. Such consideration with regard to the gravity of offence is a factor which is in addition to the triple test or the tripod test that would be normally applied. In that regard what is also to be kept in perspective is that even if the allegation is one of grave economic offence, it is not a rule that bail should be denied in every case since there is no such bar created in the relevant enactment passed by the legislature nor does the bail jurisprudence provide so. Therefore, the underlining conclusion is that irrespective of the nature and gravity of charge, the precedent of another case alone will not be the basis for either grant or refusal of bail though it may have a bearing on principle. But ultimately the consideration will have to be on case-to-case basis on the facts involved therein and securing the presence of the accused to stand trial."

45. In its recent decision in Satender Kumar Antil v. Central Bureau of Investigation, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 825, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has summarized and reiterated the law regarding grant of bail in economic offences, as laid down in its earlier decisions, in the following words:--

"66. What is left for us now to discuss are the economic offences. The question for consideration is whether it should be treated as a class of its own or otherwise. This issue has already been dealt with by this Court in the case of P .Chidambaram v. Directorate of Enforcement (2020)13SCC791, after taking note of the earlier decisions governing the field. The gravity of the offence, the object of the Special Act, and the attending circumstances are a few of the factors to be taken note of, along with the period of sentence. After all, an economic offence cannot be classified as such, as it may involve various activities and may differ from one case to another. Therefore, it is not advisable on the part of the court to categorise all the offences into one group and deny bail on that basis."

46. Thus the legal position which emerges from the aforesaid cases, has been summarized by this Court in Peeyush Kumar Jain versus Union of India, (2022) 121 ACC 448 = (2023) 1 All LJ 10, in the following words: -

"31. The position of law regarding grant of bail which emerges from the judgments of the Supreme Court referred to above, is that the basic jurisprudence relating to bail in economic offences remains the same inasmuch as the grant of bail is the rule and refusal is the exception so as to ensure that the accused has the opportunity of securing fair trial. It is not advisable to categorize all the economic offences into one group and deny bail on that basis. One of the circumstances to consider the gravity of the offence is the term of sentence that is prescribed for the offence the accused is alleged to have committed. Even if the allegation is one of grave economic offence, it is not a rule that bail should be denied in every case since there is no such bar created in the relevant enactment passed by the legislature nor does the bail jurisprudence provide so. While considering the prayer for grant of bail in any offence, including an economic offence, the Court has to consider:--

(i) the nature of accusation and the severity of the punishment to which the party may be liable in the case of conviction and the nature of the materials relied upon by the prosecution;

(ii) reasonable apprehension of tampering with the witnesses or apprehension of threat to the complainant or the witnesses;

(iii) reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the time of trial or the likelihood of his abscondence;

(iv) character, behaviour and standing of the accused and the circumstances which are peculiar to the accused;

(v) larger interest of the public or the State and similar other considerations.

32. A prayer for bail is not to be denied merely because of the sentiments of the community are against the accused. The primary purposes of bail in a criminal case are to relieve the accused of imprisonment, to relieve the State of the burden of keeping him, pending the trial, and at the same time, to keep the accused constructively in the custody of the court, whether before or after conviction, to assure that he will submit to the jurisdiction of the court and be in attendance thereon whenever his presence is required."

47. When we examine the facts of the case as the same appear from the material placed before the Court at this stage, the accusation against the applicant is that (i) he entered in a criminal conspiracy with other co-accused persons and in furtherance of the said criminal conspiracy, the surplus funds of UPPCL trust were got invested in fixed deposits of DHFL in contravention of investment guidelines dated 02.03.2015 issued by the Ministry of Finance, Government of India, (ii) the accused persons had dishonestly and fraudulently obtained higher ratings from rating agencies on the basis of false and bogus audited balance sheets and bogus financial statements, (iii) the applicant and co-accused Dheeraj Wadhawan in criminal conspiracy with other co-accused persons diverted funds from the bank accounts of DHFL to bank accounts of other companies by way of sanctioning bogus project loans and further diverted the said funds to their own companies and used the said funds.

48. The Trust had made investments in fixed deposits of DHFL, which have not been repaid after DHFL was restrained by an order passed by the Bombay High Court.

49. The learned Counsel for the applicant have made elaborate submissions on various points, including the point that the offences are not made out against the applicant. However, at this stage, the Court is concerned with the question of grant or refusal of bail to the applicant and the Court cannot hold a mini-trial at this stage. These pleas are left open for being decided by the Trial Court at the appropriate stage. In Shanti Prasad Jain v. Director of Enforcement, FERA, (1963) 2 SCR 297, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that: -

"37. Now the law is well settled that when moneys are deposited in a bank, the relationship that is constituted between the banker and the customer is one of debtor and creditor and not trustee and beneficiary. The banker is entitled to use the monies without being called upon to account for such user, his only liability being to return the amount in accordance with the terms agreed between him and the customer."

50. In Anumati v. Punjab National Bank, (2004) 8 SCC 498, the Hon'ble Supreme Court reiterated that "The bank is thus a debtor to the account-holders in respect of the amount deposited -- a debt which is repayable by the bank to the account-holders with interest on the expiry of an agreed period."

51. Per Contra, Sri. Anurag Kumar Singh, the learned Counsel for the CBI has placed reliance on Shivnarayan Laxminarayan Joshi v. State of Maharashtra, (1980) 2 SCC 465. The facts of the case were that the Appellant 1 had resigned from the office of the managing director of Laxmi Bank and it was contended that he could not be held liable for misappropriation committed after he had relinquished his office. The High Court found that even though he acted as Chairman of the bank and had relinquished the office as managing director, he was for all practical purposes functioning as managing director of the Bank throughout the material period. The Hon'ble Supreme Court held that "This finding is based on a thorough analysis and consideration of the evidence adduced before the court. In view of this finding it is manifest that even though the first appellant may have relinquished his office as managing director still he had full control over the affairs of the bank and virtually acted as de facto managing director."

52. In the aforesaid factual Background, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that "a director was clearly in the position of a trustee and being a trustee of the assets which has come into his hand he had dominion and control over the same." Thus it was held that the Director of the Bank was a trustee of the assets of the Bank, which had come into his hands and he had dominion and control over the same. However, the relationship of an investor and a bank was not in question in the aforesaid case.

53. Thus it prima facie appears that the deposit of amounts in fixed deposits with DHFL would create a relationship of creditor and debtor between the Trust and DHFL and it would not amount to entrustment, so as to attract the offence of breach of trust. So far and the offences under 420, 467, 468 and 471 I.P.C. are concerned, it is not alleged that the aforesaid acts were committed by the applicant himself and it is alleged that he conspired and got it done through certain officials of DHFL, and those officials have already been granted bail. However, as the Court is concerned with the applicant's prayer for grant of bail only, it is not permissible to hold a mini trial and record any conclusive finding, and the same will be done by the trial Court at the appropriate stage.

54. Charge-sheet and as many as 5 supplementary charge-sheets have already been filed in the matter and the trial Court has already taken cognizance of the case.

55. The charge-sheet mentions the names of as many as 57 witnesses of the case and the trial is yet to commence and it would certainly take a very long time to conclude and keeping the applicant incarcerated without his guilt having been established would not be proper, unless his case falls within any exception disentitling him to be enlarged on bail.

56. When the applicant was already in judicial custody in another case, on 24.05.2020, the applicant was taken from Jail and was produced before the Special Judge, CBI, Lucknow on 26.05.2020, from where he was initially remanded to the custody of CBI for 14 days and his custodial interrogation has already been done. Thereafter he was sent to judicial custody and since then the applicant is languishing in jail in the present case.

57. Nothing has been placed on record to give rise to a reasonable ground of apprehension that in case the applicant is released on bail, he would influence the witnesses or tamper with the evidence.

58. The applicant has already been ordered to surrender his passport before the Investigating Officer by means of the order dated 21.02.2020 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, City Sessions Court/Special Court, C.R.No. 16, Mumbai, in Remand Application No. 107 of 2020 and, therefore, he does not appear to be at flight risk.

59. As all other accused persons, against whom there is allegation of commission of the offences, have been granted bail in the present case, the applicant, against whom there is an allegation of entering into conspiracy with the other co-accused persons, is also entitled to be granted bail on the ground of parity.

60. There is no other material which outweighs the considerations for grant of bail keeping in view the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the above referred cases.

61. In view the aforesaid discussion and without making any observations which may affect the merits of the case, I am of the view that the applicant is entitled to be released on bail pending conclusion of the trial. The bail application is accordingly allowed.

62. Let the applicant - Kapil Wadhwan, be released on bail in Criminal Case No. 370 of 2020, arising out of Case Crime No. RC0062020A0005, registered with Police Station CBI/ACB, Lucknow, under Section 120-B read with Sections 409, 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C. and Section 7-A, 8 and Section 13 (2) read with Section 13 (1) (d) of Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, pending in the Court of Additional District Judge/Special Judge, Anti Corruption, C.B.I. (West), Lucknow, on his furnishing a personal bond and two reliable sureties for Rupees Ten Lakhs (₹10,00,000/-) each to the satisfaction of the trial Court, subject to following conditions:--

(i) The applicant will not tamper with the evidence during the trial.

(ii) The applicant will not influence any witness.

(iii) The applicant will appear before the trial court on the dates fixed, unless his personal presence is exempted.

(iv) The applicant shall not directly or indirectly make inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the Court to any police officer or tamper with the evidence.

63. In case of breach of any of the above conditions, the prosecution shall be at liberty to move an application before this Court seeking cancellation of bail.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Krishan Pahal, J.)

1. List has been revised.
2. Supplementary affidavit filed today is taken on record.
3. Heard Sri Sunil Kumar Singh, learned counsel for applicant and Sri Vibhav Anand Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State.
4. The present bail application has been filed by the applicant in Case Crime No.101 of 2022, under Section 302 IPC, Police Station Dubhar, District Ballia with the prayer to enlarge him on bail.

PROSECUTION STORY:

5. As per prosecution story, the applicant, who happens to be the nephew of the deceased person, is stated to have assaulted his uncle by a knife thereby causing his death at the spot on 03.07.2022 at about 4:00 PM over a family dispute.

RIVAL CONTENTIONS:

6. Learned counsel for the applicant has stated that the applicant is absolutely innocent and has been falsely implicated in the present case. Learned counsel has further stated that all the witnesses of fact have been examined and they have not supported the prosecution story. There is no likelihood of conviction of the applicant in the present case. The other witnesses are simply formal witnesses only. Several other submissions have been made on behalf of the applicant to demonstrate the falsity of the allegations made against him. The circumstances which, as per counsel, led to the false implication of the applicant have also been touched upon at length. There is no criminal history of the applicant. The applicant is languishing in jail since 04.07.2022. In case, the applicant is released on bail, he will not misuse the liberty of bail.

7. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the bail application on the ground that the examination-in-chief of the informant, as PW-1, was taken up on 14.11.2021 and he has categorically deposed against the applicant and nominated him to be the assailant of having caused the death of his brother and some cross-examination was even taken up the same day. Subsequent to it, further cross-examination of PW-1 was taken up on 14.12.2021 i.e. about a month after the said examination-in-chief and the first informant has resiled from his earlier statement and has been declared hostile by the public prosecutor.

CONCLUSION:-

8. The evidence of a hostile witness cannot be discarded in toto, and relevant parts thereof which are admissible in law, can be used by the prosecution or the defence. The Apex Court in Rajesh Yadav and another Etc. v. State of U. P.,¹ has dealt with the evidentiary value of the Hostile witnesses. The relevant paragraphs are being reproduced as follows:

22. On the law laid down in dealing with the testimony of a witness over an issue, we would like to place reliance on the decision of this Court in C. Muniappan v. State of T.N., (2010) 9 SCC 567: (AIR 2010 SC 3718):

"81. It is settled legal proposition that:

"6. ... the evidence of a prosecution witness cannot be rejected in toto merely because the prosecution chose to treat him as hostile and cross-examined him. The evidence of such witnesses cannot be treated as effaced or washed off the record altogether but the same can be accepted to the extent their version is found to be dependable on a careful scrutiny thereof." (Vide Bhagwan Singh v. State of Haryana, (1976) 1 SCC 389 : (AIR 1976 SC 202) , Rabindra Kumar Dey v. State of Orissa, (1976) 4 SCC 233 : (AIR 1977 SC 170) , Syad Akbar v. State of Karnataka, (1980) 1 SCC 30 : (AIR 1979 SC 1848) and Khujji v. State of M.P., (1991) 3 SCC 627 : (AIR 1991 SC 1853) , SCC p. 635, para 6.)

82. In State of U.P. v. Ramesh Prasad Misra [(1996) 10 SCC 360 : (AIR 1996 SC 2766): 1996 SCC (Cri) 1278] this Court held that (at SCC p. 363, para 7) evidence of a hostile witness would not be totally rejected if spoken in favour of the prosecution or the accused but required to be subjected to close scrutiny and that portion of the evidence which is consistent with the case of the prosecution or defence can be relied upon. A similar view has been reiterated by this Court in Balu Sonba Shinde v. State of Maharashtra [(2002) 7 SCC 543: 2003 SCC (Cri) 112] : (AIR 2002 SC 3137) , Gagan Kanojia v. State of Punjab [(2006) 13 SCC 516: (2008) 1 SCC (Cri) 109] : (AIR Online 2006 SC 574) , Radha Mohan Singh v. State of U.P. [(2006) 2 SCC 450: (2006) 1 SCC (Cri) 661 : (AIR 2006 SC 951)], Sarvesh Narain Shukla v. Daroga Singh [(2007) 13 SCC 360: (2009) 1 SCC (Cri) 188] : (AIR 2008 SC 320) and Subbu Singh v. State [(2009) 6 SCC 462: (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 1106] : (2009 AIR SCW 3937).

83. Thus, the law can be summarised to the effect that the evidence of a hostile witness cannot be discarded as a whole, and relevant parts thereof which are admissible in law, can be used by the prosecution or the defence.

84. In the instant case, some of the material witnesses i.e. B. Kamal (PW 86) and R. Maruthu (PW 51) turned hostile. Their evidence has been taken into consideration by the courts below strictly in accordance with law. Some omissions, improvements in the evidence of the PWs have been pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellants, but we find them to be very trivial in nature.

85. It is settled proposition of law that even if there are some omissions, contradictions and discrepancies, the entire evidence cannot be disregarded. After exercising care and caution and sifting through the evidence to separate truth from untruth, exaggeration and improvements, the court comes to a conclusion as to whether the residuary evidence is sufficient to convict the accused. Thus, an undue importance should not be attached to omissions, contradictions and discrepancies which do not go to the heart of the matter and shake the basic version of the prosecution's witness. As the mental abilities of a human being cannot be expected to be attuned to absorb all the details of the incident, minor discrepancies are bound to occur in the statements of witnesses. "Vide Sohrab v. State of M.P., [(1972) 3 SCC 751 : (1972) SCC (Cri) 819 : AIR 1972 SC 2020], State of U.P. v. M.K. Anthony, [(1985) 1 SCC 505 : 1985 SCC (Cri) 105] : (AIR 1985 SC 48) , Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai v. State of Gujrat, [(1983) 3 SCC 217 : 1983 SCC (Cri) 728 : AIR 1983 SC 753], State of Rajasthan v. Om Prakash, [(2007) 12 SCC 381 : (2008) 1 SCC (Cri) 411] : (AIR 2007 SC 2257) , Prithu v. State of H.P., [(2009) 11 SCC 585 : (2009) 3 SCC (Cri) 1502] :

(AIR 2009 SC 2070) , State of U.P. v. Santosh Kumar, [(2009) 9 SCC 626 : (2010) 1 SCC (Cri) 88] : (2009 AIR SCW 6177) and State v. Saravanan, [(2008) 17 SCC 587 : (AIR 2009 SC 152) : (2010) 4 SCC (Cri) 580].

23. This Court in Vinod Kumar v. State of Punjab, (2015) 3 SCC 220 : (AIR 2015 SC 1206) had already dealt with a situation where a witness after rendering testimony in line with the prosecution's version, completely abandoned it, in view of the long adjournments given permitting an act of manoeuvring. While taking note of such situations occurring with regularity, it expressed its anguish and observed that:

"51. It is necessary, though painful, to note that PW 7 was examined-in-chief on 30-9-1999 and was cross-examined on 25-5-2001, almost after 1 year and 8 months. The delay in said cross-examination, as we have stated earlier had given enough time for prevarication due to many a reason. A fair trial is to be fair both to the defence and the prosecution as well as to the victim. An offence registered under the Prevention of Corruption Act is to be tried with all seriousness. We fail to appreciate how the learned trial Judge could exhibit such laxity in granting so much time for cross-examination in a case of this nature. It would have been absolutely appropriate on the part of the learned trial Judge to finish the cross-examination on the day the said witness was examined. As is evident, for no reason whatsoever it was deferred and the cross-examination took place after 20 months. The witness had all the time in the world to be gained over. We have already opined that he was declared hostile and re-examined.

52. It is settled in law that the testimony of a hostile witness can be relied upon by the prosecution as well as the defence. In re-examination by the Public Prosecutor, PW 7 has accepted about the correctness of his statement in the court on 13-9-1999. He has also accepted that he had not made any complaint to the Presiding Officer of the court in writing or verbally that the Inspector was threatening him to make a false statement in the court. It has also been accepted by him that he had given the statement in the court on account of fear of false implication by the Inspector. He has agreed to have signed his statement dated 13-9-1999 after going through and admitting it to be correct. It has come in the re-examination that PW 7 had not stated in his statement dated 13-9-1999 in the court that recovery of tainted money was not effected in his presence from the accused or that he had been told by the Inspector that amount has been recovered from the accused. He had also not stated in his said statement that the accused and witnesses were taken to the Tehsil and it was there that he had signed all the memos.

53. Reading the evidence in entirety, PW 7's evidence cannot be brushed aside. The delay in cross-examination has resulted in his prevarication from the examination-in-chief. But, a significant one, his examination-in-chief and the re-examination impels us to accept the testimony that he had gone into the octroi post and had witnessed about the demand and acceptance of money by the accused. In his cross-examination he has stated that he had not gone with Baj Singh to the Vigilance Department at any time and no recovery was made in his presence. The said part of the testimony, in our considered view, does not commend acceptance in the backdrop of entire evidence in examination-in-chief and the re-examination.

57. Before parting with the case we are constrained to reiterate what we have said in the beginning. We have expressed our agony and anguish for the manner in which trials in respect of serious offences relating to corruption are being conducted by the trial courts:

57.1. Adjournments are sought on the drop of a hat by the counsel, even though the witness is present in court, contrary to all principles of holding a trial. That apart, after the examination-in-chief of a witness is over, adjournment is sought for cross-examination and the disquieting feature is that the trial courts grant time. The law requires special reasons to be recorded for grant of time but the same is not taken note of.

57.2. As has been noticed earlier, in the instant case the cross-examination has taken place after a year and 8 months allowing ample time to pressurise the witness and to gain over him by adopting all kinds of tactics.

57.3. There is no cavil over the proposition that there has to be a fair and proper trial but the duty of the court while conducting the trial is to be guided by the mandate of the law, the conceptual fairness and above all bearing in mind its sacrosanct duty to arrive at the truth on the basis of the material brought on record. If an accused for his benefit takes the trial on the path of total mockery, it cannot be countenanced. The court has a sacred duty to see that the trial is conducted as per law. If adjournments are granted in this manner it would tantamount to violation of the rule of law and eventually turn such trials to a farce. It is legally impermissible and jurisprudentially abominable. The trial courts are expected in law to follow the command of the procedure relating to trial and not yield to the request of the counsel to grant adjournment for non-acceptable reasons.

57.4. In fact, it is not at all appreciable to call a witness for cross-examination after such a long span of time. It is imperative if the examination-in-chief is over, the cross-examination should be completed on the same day. If the examination of a witness continues till late hours the trial can be adjourned to the next day for cross-examination. It is inconceivable in law that the cross-examination should be deferred for such a long time. It is anathema to the concept of proper and fair trial.

57.5. The duty of the court is to see that not only the interest of the accused as per law is protected but also the societal and collective interest is safeguarded. It is distressing to note that despite series of judgments of this Court, the habit of granting adjournment, really an ailment, continues. How long shall we say, "Awake! Arise!". There is a constant discomfort. Therefore, we think it appropriate that the copies of the judgment be sent to the learned Chief Justices of all the High Courts for circulating the same among the learned trial Judges with a command to follow the principles relating to trial in a requisite manner and not to defer the cross-examination of a witness at their pleasure or at the leisure of the defence counsel, for it eventually makes the trial an apology for trial and compels the whole society to suffer chicanery. Let it be remembered that law cannot allowed to be lonely; a destitute." Section 33 of the Indian Evidence Act:

"33. Relevancy of certain evidence for proving, in subsequent proceeding, the truth of facts therein stated.-Evidence given by a witness in a judicial proceeding, or before any person authorized by law to take it, is relevant for the purpose of proving, in a subsequent judicial proceeding, or in a later stage of the same judicial proceeding, the truth of the facts which it states, when the witness is dead or cannot be found, or is incapable of giving evidence, or is kept out of the way by the adverse party, or if his presence cannot be obtained without an amount of delay or expense which, under the circumstances of the case, the Court considers unreasonable:

Provided- that the proceeding was between the same parties or their representatives in interest; that the adverse party in the first proceeding had the right and opportunity to cross-examine; that the questions in issue were substantially the same in the first as in the second proceeding.

Explanation-A criminal trial or inquiry shall be deemed to be a proceeding between the prosecutor and the accused within the meaning of this section."

24. Section 33 is an exception to the general rule which mandates adequate facility for cross examining a witness. However, in a case where a witness after the completion of the chief examination and while subjecting him to a substantial and rigorous cross examination, did not choose to get into the witness box on purpose, it is for the court to utilize the said evidence appropriately. The issues over which the evidence is completed could be treated as such by the court and then proceed. Resultantly, the issues for which the cross examination is not over would make the entire examination as inadmissible. Ultimately, it is for the court to decide the aforesaid aspect.

9. After hearing learned counsel for the parties and taking into consideration the fact that PW-1 has categorically nominated the applicant to be the assailant, I do not find it a fit case for grant of bail to the applicant.

10. The bail application is found devoid of merits and is, accordingly, rejected.

11. However, it is directed that the aforesaid case pending before the trial court be decided as early as possible in view of the principle as has been laid down in the recent judgments of the Apex Court in the cases of Vinod Kumar vs. State of Punjab², and Hussain and Another vs. Union of India³, if there is no legal impediment.

12. It is clarified that the observations made herein are limited to the facts brought in by the parties pertaining to the disposal of bail application and the said observations shall have no bearing on the merits of the case during trial.

The application is rejected. (E-6)

List of Cases cited:

1^ण वर्तमान दाण्डिक प्रकीर्ण जमानत प्रार्थना पत्र, आवेदक बृजेश यादव की ओर से मु०अ०सं० 322 सन 2020, अन्तर्गत धारा 147, 149, 323, 302 भा०दं०वि० एवं धारा 7 सी०एल०ए० ऐक्ट, थाना नन्दगंज, जिला गाजीपुर में जमानत पर मुक्त करने हेतु प्रस्तुत किया गया है।

2^ण वाद के तथ्य संक्षेप में इस प्रकार हैं कि वादी मुकदमा अभिषेक यादव उर्फ गोलू यादव द्वारा संबंधित थाने में तहरीर दी गयी कि उसका तथा उसके पड़ोसी शैभनाथ यादव से जमीन के हिस्से को लेकर काफी दिनों से विवाद चल रहा है। दि० 21-10-2020 को सुबह 9.00 बजे के करीब स्कार्पियो गाड़ी सं० यू०पी० 61 ए०पी० 4999 से विपक्षी हरे राम यादव का बहनोई बृजेश यादव अपने एक साथी किशन यादव के साथ उसके दरवाजे पर आये जहाँ पर हरeram यादव, हरकृष्ण यादव, हरिशंकर यादव तथा केशव यादव मिले तथा आपस में बात किये और वह वहीं पर खड़ा था, उसे पकड़कर मारने लगे। उसकी माता रेनू यादव उसे बचाने आयी तो उनको भी मारने-पीटने लगे। शोर सुनकर उसके पिता अवधेश यादव मौके पर आये तो सभी लोग उनसे उलझ गये और मारने पीटने लगे तथा बृजेश यादव ने पिस्टल निकालकर उसके पिता को गोली मार दी जिनको लेकर वह लोग अस्पताल भागे लेकिन रास्ते में उनकी मृत्यु हो गयी। गाँव के लोग घेरकर बृजेश यादव और किशन यादव को पकड़कर थाने लाये हैं। घटना के समय गाँव में अफरा-तफरी मच गयी, सभी लोग डर कर अपने-अपने घर का दरवाजा बन्द करने लगे। मौके पर काफी भय का माहौल हो गया। सभी लोग घबड़ाकर इधर-उधर भागने लगे। प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट लिखकर कार्यवाही करने की कृपा करें। उक्त तहरीर के आधार पर अभियुक्तगण बृजेश यादव, किशन यादव, हरeram यादव, हरकृष्ण

यादव, हरिशंकर यादव तथा केशव यादव के विरुद्ध भारतीय दंड संहिता की धारा 147, 149, 323, 302 तथा धारा 7 सी0एल0ए0 ऐक्ट के तहत मु0अ0सं0 322 सन 2020, थाना नन्दगंज, जिला गाजीपुर में प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट पंजीकृत कर विवेचना प्रारम्भ की गयी।

3^ण आवेदक के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री शेष नाथ सिंह यादव एवं उनके वरिष्ठ अधिवक्ता श्री वी0 पी0 श्रीवास्तव, परिवादी के विद्वान अधिवक्तागण सर्वश्री अथर्व दीक्षित, ए0 लूथरा तथा उनके वरिष्ठ अधिवक्ता श्री मनीष तिवारी एवं विद्वान अपर शासकीय अधिवक्ता श्री अनिल कुमार कुशवाहा को सुना तथा पत्रावली का परिशीलन किया।

4^ण आवेदक के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने तर्क प्रस्तुत किया कि :-

1- आवेदक को इस प्रकरण में गलत एवं फर्जी तरीके से झूठा फँसाया गया है, उसने कथित अपराध कारित नहीं किया है।

2- वर्तमान जमानत आवेदन पत्र से संबंधित अपराध दि0 21-10-2020 को 9 बजे प्रातः का कहा जाता है और उसी दिन 9.48 पर संबंधित थाने पर प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट लिखायी जाती है। कुल मिलाकर 6 अभियुक्तों का नाम प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट में लिखाया गया है, जिसमें केवल आवेदक को पिस्टल निकालकर सूचनाकर्ता के पिता को मारना कहा जाता है एवं दो घायल को अन्य द्वारा मारने हेतु नामित किया गया है।

3- मृतक अवधेश यादव को शव विच्छेदन आख्या के अनुसार मृतक को एक गोली की चोट है, अन्य घायलों के चिकित्सीय परीक्षण आख्या के अनुसार लाठी डण्डे से मारा गया है।

4- आवेदक अपने सास की सर्पदंश की सूचना पर अपने ससुराल जा रहा था कि रास्ते में पहले से घात लगाकर बैठे वादी मुकदमा व उसके दोस्त व उसके परिवार के सदस्य आवेदक व चचेरे भाई किशन यादव को मारने पीटने लगे। इसी दौरान मृतक बीच बचाव करने लगा कि वादी

मुकदमा के दोस्त ने फायर कर दिया जिससे मृतक को गोली लग गयी और उसकी मृत्यु हो गयी।

5- इस घटनाक्रम का एक कास केस भी है, जिसे धारा 156(3) दं0प्र0सं0 के अन्तर्गत सात आदमियों के विरुद्ध प्रस्तुत किया गया, जिसे अवर न्यायालय ने परिवाद के रूप में पंजीकृत किया तथा आदेश दि0 15-5-2022 द्वारा दूसरे पक्ष को धारा 323, 325, 379, 427, 504, 506 भा0दं0वि0 के अन्तर्गत तलब किया गया।

6- इस मामले में आवेदक बृजेश यादव को दि0 21-10-2020 को ही अपराहन 2.35 बजे बी0एच0यू0 के हास्पिटल में उपचार कराया गया, आवेदक को एक्स-रे के लिए भी भेजा गया और उसका दाहिना अलना फ्रैक्चर पाया गया, दाहिना Navicular Fracture पाया गया एवं बांया distal fibula fracture पाया गया।

7- उसी दिन आवेदक की ओर से दूसरे घायल किशन यादव का भी उपचार बी0एच0यू0 में कराया गया।

8- घटना घटित होने के समय आवेदक भी घायल अवस्था में था ऐसी स्थिति में उसके द्वारा किसी को चोट नहीं पहुँचायी जा सकती।

1- अभियोजन सही तथ्यों को छुपा रहा है।

2- घटना की शुरुआत क्या है इसे वादी पक्ष छुपा रहा है।

3- गवाह झूठ बोल रहे हैं।

11— आवेदक निर्दोष है तथा वह इस प्रकरण में दि० 21-10-2020 से कारागार में निरुद्ध है, इसलिए आवेदक को जमानत पर छोड़ दिया जाय।

5^ण परिवादी के विद्वान अधिवक्तागण एवं विद्वान अपर शासकीय अधिवक्ता ने आवेदक के विद्वान अधिवक्ता के तर्कों का प्रबल विरोध करते हुए तर्क प्रस्तुत किया कि:-

1— मृतक के शव परीक्षण आख्या के अवलोकन से पाया गया है कि मृतक अवधेश यादव की मृत्यु का कारण भ्रमजन्तुवर्तीहृत्पक्षीवर्ती तमेनसज व दिजमजवतजमउ पितमंतउ पदरनतल दर्शित किया गया है तथा मृतक के एण्टीमार्टम इंजरीज के रूप में निम्नलिखित चोटें पायी गयी हैं।

4. A fire arm lacerated, inverted wound of entry size 0.7cm X 0.5cm in diameter. Oval in Shape, 0.25cm black tattooing present around wound, 12cm above right wrist joint (inner lateral aspect) & 14cm from elbow joint and passes through radius and ulna bone fractured, inverted exit wound of size 1.25cm X 1 cm. 15cm, 15cm below elbow joint and 10 cm above right wrist joint (outer lateral aspect)

2— घटना के संबंध में वादी मुकदमा अभिषेक यादव उर्फ गोलू यादव ने अपने धारा 161 दं०प्र०सं० के बयान में कथन किया है कि उसका तथा उसके पट्टीदार शोभनाथ यादव से बेटवारे को लेकर काफी दिनों से विवाद चल रहा है, पूर्व में भी बातचीत हो चुकी है।

4— शोर सुनकर उसके पिता अवधेश यादव मौके पर आये तो सभी लोग उनसे उलझ गये और मारने पीटने लगे तथा आवेदक बृजेश यादव ने उसके पिता को गोली मार दिया तथा उन्हें अस्पताल ले जाते समय रास्ते में उनकी मृत्यु हो गयी।

6— बयान मजरूबा रेनू यादव ने भी अपने बयान अन्तर्गत धारा 161 दं०प्र०सं० में अभियोजन कथानक का समर्थन किया है तथा आवेदक बृजेश यादव द्वारा उसके पति को गोली मारने का कथन किया है।

7— साक्षीगण धर्मादेवी, अरविन्द यादव, तहसीलदार यादव, तालुक राज यादव आदि ने भी आवेदक बृजेश यादव द्वारा मृतक अवधेश यादव को गोली मारने का कथन किया है।

8— फर्द बरामदगी के अनुसार आवेदक की निशानदेही पर हत्या में प्रयुक्त आग्नेयास्त्र भी बरामद हुआ है।

9— परिवादी द्वारा आवेदक एवं अन्य अभियुक्तगण को झूठा आरोपित करने का कोई हेतुक नहीं है।

10— आवेदक द्वारा कारित अपराध संज्ञेय एवं गम्भीर प्रकृति का है, इसलिए आवेदक को जमानत पर न छोड़ा जाय।

6^ण मैंने पत्रावली पर उपलब्ध साक्ष्य का गहनतापूर्वक परिशीलन किया तथा उभय पक्ष के विद्वान अधिवक्ताओं के तर्कों पर सम्यक रूप से विचार किया। मेरा अभिमत है कि :-

1. Rajasthan Vs. Balchand alias Baliay (AIR 2447, 1978) के ऐतिहासिक फैसले में 1978 के मामले में सटीक रूप से कहा गया है कि रु षूल नियम को शायद जमानत के रूप में रखा जा सकता है जेल नहीं।^७ इसे आधार बनाने के लिए भारत के संविधान के तहत एक अभियुक्त को गारंटीकृत अधिकारों पर जोर दिया। इन अधिकारों में सबसे विशिष्ट अधिकार संविधान के अनुच्छेद 21 के तहत दिया गया अधिकार है। किसी व्यक्ति की हिरासत उसके जीवन और स्वतंत्रता के अधिकार को प्रभावित करती है और हिरासत का मुख्य उद्देश्य बिना किसी असुविधा के मुकदमे के लिए आरोपी की आसानी से उपलब्धता सुनिश्चित करना है।

2. इस प्रकार यदि यह सुनिश्चित किया जाता है कि अभियुक्त विचारण चरण के लिए आवश्यक होने पर उपलब्ध होए तो व्यक्ति को हिरासत में लेना अनिवार्य नहीं है। इसलिए यह माना गया कि अदालतों को ऐ किसी व्यक्ति की गिरफ्तारी से संबंधित दंड प्रक्रिया संहिता, सी०आर०पी०सी० के प्रावधानों की व्याख्या करते समय हिरासत से बचना चाहिए जब तक कि यह अपरिहार्य न लगे और आरोपी को जमानत दे देनी चाहिए।

3. मानवाधिकार सक्रियता पिछले कुछ वर्षों में अधिक विकसित हुई है और वर्तमान में जेल में डाले जा रहे किसी व्यक्ति की स्वतंत्रता और समाज के हित के बीच संतुलन की समझ की आवश्यकता है। इसलिए दोनों के बीच इस तरह के संतुलन को बनाए रखने के लिए यह विचार करना बहुत महत्वपूर्ण है कि जब तक कोई मजबूत आधार न हो जैसे कि एक अभियुक्त के न्याय से भागने की संभावना या उसके द्वारा सबूतों से छेड़छाड़ करने या मामले के गवाह या पीड़ित को धमकी देने की संभावना ऐ किसी अभियुक्त को हिरासत में लेने से संविधान के

अनुच्छेद 21 के तहत उसे दिए गए उसके मौलिक अधिकार यानी जीवन और व्यक्तिगत स्वतंत्रता के अधिकार का उल्लंघन होगा।

4. इसके अलावा सजा के सुधारवादी सिद्धांत का प्रयोग दंड के दो अन्य सिद्धांतों क्रमशः निवारक सिद्धांत और दंडात्मक सिद्धांत के बीच संतुलन बनाए रखने के लिए समान रूप से महत्वपूर्ण है। सुधारवादी सिद्धांत का मुख्य उद्देश्य एक अभियुक्त को सुधारना और उसे जेल में आदतन अपराधियों से दूर रखना है ऐ जिन्हें अपराधों की विविधता माना जाता है।

5. यह सिद्धांत इस धारणा पर आधारित है कि दंड एक निवारक के बजाय अधिक उपचारात्मक होना चाहिए। इस प्रकार के सिद्धांत के तहत किसी अपराध को एक बीमारी माना जाता है जिसे मारने से ठीक नहीं किया जा सकता है बल्कि इस तरह के रोग को सुधार की प्रक्रिया ; चतवर्ग वित्तमवित्तजंजणवदद्ध के नाम की दवा की सहायता से ठीक किया जा सकता है।

6. इसके अलावा सुप्रीम कोर्ट द्वारा अर्नेश कुमार बनाम बिहार राज्य ; 1977 2 2014 के मामले में पारित ऐतिहासिक फैसले में उच्चतम न्यायालय ने गिरफ्तारी से पहले और गिरफ्तारी के बाद पुलिस की शक्तियों पर कई नियंत्रण और संतुलन लगाए। माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने देश भर की सभी राज्य सरकारों को निर्देश दिया कि वे पुलिस अधिकारियों को निर्देश दें कि वे मामले के सभी तथ्यों और परिस्थितियों की जांच किए बिना किसी आरोपी को गिरफ्तार न करें और गिरफ्तारी से पहले प्रारंभिक जांच करें।

7. एक सार्वभौमिक सत्य यह भी है कि गिरफ्तारी अपने साथ बहुत अपमान भी लाती है ऐ किसी की स्वतंत्रता को कम करती है और एक अभियुक्त के चरित्र पर हमेशा के लिए एक निशान छोड़ जाती है। एक जेल में बंद अभियुक्त अपनी नौकरी छूटिष्टा खो देता है। इस तरह उसकी नजरबंदी का बोझ उसके परिवार के निर्दोष सदस्यों पर भी पड़ता है। स्थिति तब और भी खराब हो जाती है जब जेल में बंद व्यक्ति परिवार में एकमात्र कमाने वाला होता है और उसके कारावास से उसके निर्दोष आश्रितों को अनावश्यक पीड़ा होती है।

8. इस प्रकार न्यायालय को सबूतों की प्रकृति और किसी भी ठोस विरोधाभास सामग्री की अनुपस्थिति एवं उपलब्ध सामग्री से छेड़छाड़ की संभावना न होने के तथ्य को देखते हुए अभियुक्त को जमानत पर मुक्त कर दिया जाना चाहिए।

8^ण अतः वाद के गुण दोष पर बिना कोई टिप्पणी किए हुए आवेदक को उपरोक्त वर्णित अपराध में संबंधित न्यायालय की सन्तुष्टि पर व्यक्तिगत बंध-पत्र एवं अधिक धनराशि के दो स्थानीय प्रतिभू प्रस्तुत करने पर निम्नलिखित शर्तों के साथ जमानत पर छोड़ दिया जाय।

1— आवेदक विवेचना या परीक्षण के दौरान अभियोजन साक्ष्यों के साथ छेड़छाड़ नहीं करेगा।

2— आवेदक अभियोजन साक्षियों व पीड़ित/शिकायतकर्ता को डरायेगा/धमकायेगा नहीं।

3— आवेदक न्यायालय के आदेशों का पालन करेगा, वह परीक्षण के दौरान बिना कोई अनावश्यक स्थगन लिए नियत तिथि पर न्यायालय में उपस्थित होगा तथा परीक्षण में ईमानदारी से सहयोग करेगा।

4— आवेदक जमानत पर रिहा होने के बाद जमानत की स्वतंत्रता का दुरुपयोग नहीं करेगा और किसी भी अपराधिक गतिविधि में लिप्त नहीं होगा न कोई अपराधिक कृत्य करेगा।

5— आवेदक प्रत्यक्ष या अप्रत्यक्ष रूप से मामले के तथ्यों से परिचित किसी भी व्यक्ति या पुलिस अधिकारियों को कोई प्रलोभन या धमकी नहीं

देगा न ही उनसे कोई वायदा करेगा, जिसके कारण उन्हें न्यायालय में तथ्यों को उजागर करने से विरत रहना पड़े।

9^ण उपरोक्त शर्तों में से किसी के उल्लंघन के मामले में, परीक्षण न्यायालय आवेदक की जमानत नियमानुसार रद्द करने को स्वतंत्र है।

(A) Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 302, 396 & 412 - The Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 - Section 102 - Revision - Section 12 - Bail to a person who is apparently a child alleged to be in conflict with law - gravity or seriousness of the offence should not be taken as an obstacle or hindrance to refuse the bail to delinquent juvenile - Juvenile Justice Act is a beneficial legislation intended for reform of the juvenile/child in conflict with the law - justice should be done not only to the accused, but also to the accuser - Merely by declaration of being a juvenile does not entitle a juvenile in conflict with law to be released on bail as a matter of right.(Para - 6,7,12)

(B) Words and Phrases - 'ends of justice' - cannot stand in a vacuum - 'Principle of Best Interest' - ends of justice phrase is crucial in balancing the demands of both sides - Courts must consider factors such as the nature of the crime, methodology applied, mental state, involvement, and available evidence when evaluating bail entitlement - phrase may include seemingly irrelevant or unimportant factors for the purposes of Section 12(1) of the Juvenile Justice Act.(Para -13)

Juvenile found complicit in a frightful crime - involving a Branch Manager's life for looting public money - Juvenile above 16 years old - considered borderline adult - If released on bail - likely fall into the same hands and surroundings that contributed to their criminal behavior - Juvenile Justice Board and appellate Court dismissed bail applications – hence revision. (Para - 15,16)

HELD:- Juvenile requires professional supervision and guidance to develop healthy habits. Juvenile left studies and is not interested in academic pursuits, suggesting a need for a positive direction in their life. Appellate Court and Board found the revisionist not entitled to bail, stating effective protection and supervision is needed. Case is not fit for bail.(Para - 17,18)

Revision dismissed. (E-7)

1. Heard Sri Chanchal Kumar Rai, learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri O.P. Mishra, learned AGA for the State as well as Sri Manvendra Nath Singh, learned counsel for the respondent no. 2 and perused the record.

2. This criminal revision under Section 102 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015, has been filed on behalf of the minor 'X' through his natural guardian/father Vinod Pandey S/o Late Basant Pandey R/o Village-Khutahan Namjad Karmaita (Babhnauli), Police Station Shadiyabad, District Ghazipur with the prayer to admit the minor on bail alongwith the prayer to set aside the order dated 16.11.2021 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board, Varanasi and order dated 06.01.2022 passed by the Additional District and Sessions Judge/Special Judge, POCSO Act, Varanasi in Misc Case No. 331/2021 arising out of Case Crime No. 188 of 2021 under Section 302, 396, 412 IPC, Police Station-Phoolpur, District-Varanasi by which the criminal appeal was rejected.

3. As per the version of the FIR lodged by Smt. Bindu Devi wife of deceased Phoolchand Ram, who was holding the post of the Branch Manager of Punjab National Bank, Branch-Karkhiyaon, Phoolpur, Varanasi at the time of his death; after attending his Office, he was returning to his house on 09.06.2021 at about 6 pm; he had last conversation with his wife at about 6 pm, however, some unknown persons kidnapped and murdered him. On the basis of the FIR Case Crime No. 0188/2021 under Sections 364 and 302 IPC was registered and investigated upon. During the investigation, after collection of some evidence and recording of statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. of the witnesses, the present revisionist, minor son of Vinod was arrested and a total of Rs. 12,50,500/- out of the looted amount of Rs. 47 lakhs, bearing the seal of Punjab National Bank and some other incriminating articles like the I-Card of Phoolchand Ram, the deceased and firearms were recovered. Three of the other arrested co-accused persons namely, Alok Rai, Arun Mishra and Rahul Tiwari, in their confessional statements before the Police, also named the revisionist, a juvenile.

4. During the proceedings before the Juvenile Justice Board, the revisionist was found to be of the age of 17 years, 8 months and 14 days on the date of the incident and was declared juvenile vide order dated 17.09.2021. A bail application through guardian was moved before the Juvenile Justice Board, Varanasi, but the same was rejected. Thereafter, a criminal appeal no. 123/2021 was preferred by the real father and guardian of the juvenile and the same was also dismissed.

5. Aggrieved by the above orders, this criminal revision has been preferred to set aside the same and to admit the juvenile to bail.

6. First and foremost contention is that gravity of the offence is not relevant consideration for refusing bail to the juvenile as has been held by a coordinate Bench of that Court in Criminal Revision No. 2732 of 2010 (Amit Kumar vs. State of U.P.) decided on 14.09.2010, Criminal

Revision No. 1266 of 2020 (Kanchan Sonkar vs. State of U.P.) decided on 01.12.2020, Criminal Revision No. 1852 of 2015 (Amit vs. State of U.P.) decided on 16.03.2016 and held by the Apex Court in Prakash vs. State of Rajasthan, 2006 Cri.L.J. 1373.

7. In Criminal Revision No. 1852 of 2015 (Amit vs. State of U.P.) decided on 16.03.2016, the Court referred to the earlier judgement in Vijendra Kumar Mali vs. State of U.P., 2003 (1) J.I.C. 103, wherein it was observed that in a number of judgements, it has been categorically held that bail to the juvenile can only be refused if one of the grounds as provided in proviso to Section 12(1) of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 exist. So far as the ground of gravity is concerned, it is not covered under the relevant provisions. If the bail application of the juvenile was to be considered under the provisions of Cr.P.C., there would have been absolutely no necessity for the enactment of the aforesaid Act. The Section 12 of the Act contains a non-obstante clause, which indicates that the general provisions of Cr.P.C. shall not apply. Therefore, the gravity or seriousness of the offence should not be taken as an obstacle or hindrance to refuse the bail to delinquent juvenile.

8. It is contended that there existed no material to justify rejection of bail on the grounds envisaged in Section 12 of the Act. In view of the above provisions, the 'child in conflict with law', who has been in custody for quite some time deserves to be released on bail otherwise, the purpose of provisions of Section 12 of the Juvenile Justice Act shall stand defeated. It is also contended that care of the juvenile in a child care institution cannot be preferred over his care in his biological family.

9. Learned AGA and learned counsel for the respondent no. 2 have opposed the prayer for bail.

10. In Om Prakash vs. State of Rajasthan and another; (2012) 5 SCC 201, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that the Juvenile Justice Act was enacted with a laudable object of providing a separate forum or a special court for holding trial of juvenile as it was felt that child become delinquent by force of circumstance and not by choice and hence they need to be treated with care and sensitivity while dealing and trying cases involving criminal offence. It was further observed that in cases when an accused is involved in grave and serious offence which he committed in a well planned manner reflecting his maturity of mind the court ought to be more careful. Thus, the Hon'ble Apex Court has clearly brought in focus the nature of crime, conduct of an accused as reflected in the method employed in the commission of crime as a relevant consideration while considering the matters of juvenile.

11. It may be noted that the Hon'ble Apex Court gave this view in the background of the facts that age of the juvenile as determined by the courts below was not free from doubts. In the circumstances, the Court observed that where accused commits grave and heinous offence and thereafter attempts to take statutory shelter under the guise of being a minor, a casual or cavalier approach while recording his age, is not acceptable. It is also observed that the shelter of the principle of benevolent legislation of the Juvenile Justice Act is meant for minors, who are innocent law breakers. Nevertheless, in my view, the nature of crime the juvenile was found involved in, is again at the center stage.

12. In Mangesh Rajbhar vs. State of U.P. and Another; 2018 (2) ACR 1941, a coordinate Bench of this Court noted down very important observations which I choose to refer avidly:

"13. No doubt, the Juvenile Justice Act is a beneficial legislation intended for reform of the juvenile/child in conflict with the law, but the law also demands that justice should be done not only to the accused, but also to the accuser."

25. It is not that this aspect of the gravity of the offence has been considered irrelevant to the issue of grant or refusal of bail to a minor in the past and before the present Act of 2015 came into force. In a decision of this Court under the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000 where the interest of the society were placed seemingly not on a level of playing field with the juvenile, this Court in construing the provisions of Section 12 in that Act that were pari materia to Section 12 of the Act in the matter of grant of bail to a minor held in the case of Monu @ Moni @ Rahul @ Rohit v. State of U.P., 2011 (74) ACC 353 in paragraph Nos. 14 and 15 of the report as under:

"14. Aforesaid section no where ordains that bail to a juvenile is a must in all cases as it can be denied for the reasons".....if there appears reasonable grounds for believing that the release is likely to bring him into association with any known criminal or expose him to moral, physical or psychological danger or that his release would defeat the ends of justice."

15. In the light of above statutory provision bail prayer of the juvenile revisionist has to be considered on the surrounding facts and circumstances. Merely by declaration of being a juvenile does not entitle a juvenile in conflict with law to be released on bail as a matter of right. The Act has a solemn purpose to achieve betterment of juvenile offenders but it is not a shelter home for those juvenile offenders who have got criminal proclivities and a criminal psychology. It has a reformatory approach but does not completely shun retributive theory. Legislature has preserved larger interest of society even in cases of bail to a juvenile. The Act seeks to achieve moral physical and psychological betterment of juvenile offender and therefore if, it is found that the ends of justice will be defeated or that goal desired by the legislature can be achieved by detaining a juvenile offender in a juvenile home, bail can be denied to him. This is perceptible from phraseology of section 12 itself. Legislature in its wisdom has therefore carved out exceptions to the rule of bail to a juvenile."

13. I am in respectful agreement with the above observations. Ordinarily, the merits of the matter may not be important where the Courts are inclined to give benefit of bail as envisaged in Section 12 of the Juvenile Justice Act, I am of the firm view that nature of crime including other merits of the matter may assume ample significance when the Court has to form an opinion about the ends of justice. It may be noted that the phrase 'ends of justice', cannot stand in a vacuum. The manner of commission of the crime, the nature thereof cannot be ignored while striking a balance between the demands of justice of either of the sides. Hence, it cannot be said that the nature of the crime, the manner or methodology applied, the extent of involvement and evidence available are of no relevance when judging the entitlement of a juveniles to bail in cases where heinous crimes are committed. The ends of justice is undoubtedly a meaningful phrase with multidimensional implications. The Courts are under obligation to address the concerns of both the sides and strike a delicate balance between the competing and often conflicting the demands of justice. When viewing the matters of bail from this particular angle of deciphering the ends of justice not only the nature of crime, but the manner of commission thereof, methodology applied, the mental state, the extent of involvement, the evidence available shall be the factors to reckon with. The phrase 'ends of justice' may bring in within its interpretation such factors which may otherwise seem not so material or may be seemingly extraneous, irrelevant or unimportant at first glance for the purpose of applicability of last part of the proviso to Section 12(1) of the Juvenile Justice Act.

14. Following facts cannot go in oblivion that a Branch Manager of Punjab National Bank, Varanasi was fatally assaulted and murdered when he was carrying about Rs. 47 lakhs from one Branch to another as part of his official duties, the investigating officer recorded the statement of cashier of the Bank, the driver of the vehicle and some other witnesses and it was found that he was shot at and killed and one of the bag containing cash amount, was looted. During investigation, the present revisionist was arrested and cash of Rs. 12,50,500/- bearing seal of Punjab National Bank, Mariahu, I-card belonging to the deceased and a firearm was also recovered.

15. In nutshell, it can be inferred that the juvenile was found to have complicity in this frightful crime where the life of a Branch Manager was taken for looting of public money. The juvenile was found above 16 years i.e., 17 years 8 months and 14 days on the date of the occurrence. It was a borderline case where the accused was reaching the age of adulthood. The manner, in which, the crime was committed and the nature thereof impels me to draw a conclusion that in case the juvenile is released on bail, he shall fall of in the same hands and environs which most probably contributed towards his criminal bent of mind.

16. It clearly appears that the Juvenile Justice Board as well as the appellate Court, while dismissing the bail applications, definitely had in mind the fact that in case the juvenile is released to his family, any chance of him turning into a better and healthy person shall be stalled and that he shall certainly fall of in the same kind of things from where, perhaps he is needed to be rescued for his own welfare. It is worth notice that though the 'Principle of Best Interest', described in Section 3 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 has been specifically brought in the provisions of the Act but broadly it is covered in the phrase 'ends of justice' too.

17. In my view, the aim and object of the Juvenile Justice Act cannot be achieved if crimes committed by the juveniles are not viewed from the angle of their own welfare and concerns of the society at large are not addressed. The social investigation report, though, has been prepared on a printed format rather mechanically may not be very useful. Nevertheless, there are some indicators therein which imply that the juvenile needed effective supervision and indulgence of a professional counselor so that from here onwards he grows into an adult with healthy habits. The social investigation report indicates that he left his studies in in-between and is not interested in any academic pursuit. This is enough to give a clue to the Court that his mind needs to be diverted towards positive direction.

18. The learned appellate Court and the Board have given concurrent view and have found him not at all entitled to bail and have given observation that an effective protection and supervision is needed. Such an observation for declining the bail cannot be faulted in the totality of the circumstances of the matter. I am of the view that it is not a fit case to grant bail to the present revisionist.

19. The revision is, accordingly, dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Syed Aftab Husain Rizvi, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the revisionist learned AGA for the State and learned counsel for opposite party no.2.

2. This criminal revision has been filed against the order dated 23.12.2021 passed by Additional Sessions Judge Court no.3 Ballia in S.T. No.297 of 2017 (State vs. Gulab Gond) crime no.745 of 2017, U/s 307, 34 IPC, P.S. Ubhaon, District Ballia. By the impugned order, the learned court below on an application of prosecution in exercise of powers U/s 319 Cr.P.C. has summoned the revisionist accused to face trial.

3. With regard to incident dated 17.06.2017 at about 9:00 pm, an FIR was lodged by first informant Preetam on the same date at 20:30 O'clock alleging therein that the complainant is resident of village Jam Basnai P.S. Rasra, District Ballia. He had come at his nanihal village Babbhnauli in connection with marriage of his maternal uncle Sunil to be held on 18.06.2017. Today on 17.06.2017 at about 9:00 pm, he with his maternal uncle Sonu alias Rohit was going on a motorcycle. When they reached near the Pt. Deen Dayal Upadhyaya Inter-college, and was talking with a vendor then a motorcycle on which three persons were riding came from the side of Shahpur Afgah road. Two persons came down from the motorcycle and reached near them, one of them asked his maternal uncle whether his name is Sonu, he replied that his name is Rohit, on this he said that he tease his sister and opened fire on him. The other person also opened fire on his maternal uncle and both of them riding the motorcycle ran away from the spot. The maternal uncle of the complainant fell down, due to darkness the complainant could not identify the assailants. The injured was taken to Sier

Hospital from where he was referred to District Mau. It is further alleged that the complainant has dispute about the landed property with neighbour Gulab Gond and he suspect his hand in this incident. During investigation the names of Guddu Gond and Rajesh Gond came into light. After investigation, charge sheet was submitted against Gulab Gond and Guddu Gond. The revisionist Rajesh Gond was exonerated. The trial commenced before the sessions court and after examination of four prosecution witnesses, an application U/s 319 Cr.P.C. was moved to summon the revisionist Rajesh Gond for trial. The learned court below by the impugned order has allowed the application and summoned the revisionist accused for trial.

4. Learned counsel for the revisionist contended that the revisionist is not named in the FIR. The complainant in his statement has reiterated the version of the FIR and has not named the revisionist accused. He has also stated that due to darkness he could not identify the assailants. The name of the revisionist came at the first time in the statement of injured after 22 days of the incident and 15 days after discharge from the hospital. It is further contended that the complainant P.W.-1 in his statement has specifically stated that he identify the family members of Gulab Gond. It is further contended that there are major contradictions and discrepancies in the oral evidence produced before the trial court. Further the Investigating Officer during trial has collected the evidence about the fact that revisionist was not present at the place of occurrence. At the time of incident, he was at Bombay, the CCTV footage of the mall from where he was shopping was produced before the Investigating Officer, the photo of this CCTV footage was get identified by Investigating Officer from the injured and her mother and they have identified the revisionist accused in it. The CDR of the mobile of the revisionist also shows his presence at some other place and not at the place of occurrence at the time of incident. From the aforesaid evidence, the Investigating Officer has submitted final report against the revisionist but during trial on the basis of statement of injured Rohit Kumar alias Sonu, the learned trial court has passed the impugned summoning order, While his testimony is not worth reliable. The incident is of the night and it has come in the evidence that there was darkness at the time of incident due to which the complainant was not able to identify the assailants. The FIR was lodged only on the basis of suspicion. It is further contended that regarding motive of the incident there are different versions put by the prosecution. So the evidence produced by the prosecution is not cogent and sufficient. Lastly it is contended that the Apex Court in a catena of decisions has held that the power U/s 319 Cr.P.C. is an extra-ordinary power which should be exercised sparingly and not in a routine manner. There must be sufficient and cogent reasons. Learned counsel placed reliance on the case of Hardeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab AIR 2014 Supreme Court page 1400, Brijendra Singh and others Vs. State of Rajasthan (2017) 7 SCC page 706 and Smt. Neelam Devi and two others vs. State of U.P. and another decided on 28.01.2023 by this Court.

5. Learned counsel appearing for opposite party no.2 contended that FIR has been lodged by Preetam, the maternal nephew of the injured. He is resident of another village so he could not identify the assailants by their names. But the injured in his statement U/s 161 Cr.P.C. has clearly stated about the complicity of the revisionist accused, he has also assigned the role of firing to the revisionist accused. In his statement before the trial court he has reiterated his statement recorded U/s 161 Cr.P.C. and stated about the active participation of the revisionist in the incident. It is further contended that CCTV footage and CDR does not contain the certificate required under section 65 of IT Act. It is a matter of trial, it cannot be appreciated at this stage. Sonu alias Rohit has suffered gun shot injuries in the incident, he was hospitalized, after discharge his statement was recorded by the Investigating Officer in which he has clearly implicated the revisionist accused. So there is sufficient and cogent evidence on record on the basis of which the learned trial court has exercised his powers U/s 319 Cr.P.C. and has summoned the revisionist accused. There is no illegality in the impugned summoning order.

6. The Apex Court in the case of Hardeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab AIR 2014 Supreme Court page 1400 has prescribed the standard of evidence required for exercising powers under section 319 Cr.P.C. The relevant paras 98 and 99 are as follows:

"98. Power under Section 319, Cr.P.C. is a discretionary and an extraordinary power. It is to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. It is not to be exercised because the Magistrate or the Sessions Judge is of the opinion that some other person may also be guilty of committing that offence. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised and not in a casual and cavalier manner."

"99. Thus, we hold that though only a prima face case is to be established from the evidence led before the court not necessarily tested on the anvil of cross-examination, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity, The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes un rebutted, would lead to conviction. In the absence of such satisfaction, the court should refrain from exercising power under Section 319, Cr.P.C. In Section 319, Cr.P.C. the purpose of providing if 'it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence is clear from the words "for which such person could be tried together with the accused." The words used are not 'for which such person could be convicted'. There is, therefore, no scope for the Court acting under Section 319, Cr.P.C, to form any opinion as to the guilt of the accused."

7. The FIR of this case has been lodged against unknown persons U/s 307, 120B IPC. Gulab Gond is named in the FIR on the basis of suspicion with the allegations that he may be involved in the incident as there is enmity with him. The complainant Preetam in his statement U/s 161 Cr.P.C. has narrated the same facts as alleged in the FIR, he has not named the assailants who have opened fire. In the FIR no eye witness is named. The Investigation Officer has recorded the statement of injured Rohit, after 21 days of the incident and in this statement, the name of the assailants including revisionist has come into light. Regarding the alleged incident, the witness Mansha Ram Gupta in his statement U/s 161 Cr.P.C. has stated that at about 9:00 pm Rohit with Preetam came at his house and asked him to carry his thela but he refused and went inside of his house. Meanwhile he heard the sound of firing. When he came out, he saw the motorcycle lying on the spot. He could not identify anyone. Rohit alias Sonu has suffered gun shot injury and he was lying there. His brother Ashish Kumar on getting information came there and took him to the hospital. Ashish in his statement recorded U/s 161 Cr.P.C. claims himself to be an eye witness. During the trial, the complainant Preetam has reiterated the version as stated in his statement U/s 161 Cr.P.C. P.W. 2 Rohit alias Sonu the injured has implicated the revisionist Rajesh Gond and has stated that with intention to kill him, he opened fire. P.W.-3 Usha Devi is not an eye witness, she is mother of the injured. Ashish Kumar (P.W.-4) claims himself to be an eye witness and he has also implicated the revisionist. It also appears that during investigation the revisionist has moved an application to Superintendent of Police Ballia alleging therein that since last 10-15 years he is living at Bombay and engaged in construction work. He has come to know that in the investigation of this case, his name has also come in the light. While the real fact is that on 17.06.2017 the date of the incident, he was at Bombay and he was engaged in shopping at Korum Mall Metro Shoes, Thane. He has also used his credit card for shopping. He has collected the CCTV footage. He has also withdrawn the money from the ATM of SBI adjacent to Kesar Mill at Thane. The Investigating Officer may obtain the CCTV footage of ATM booth. His mobile bearing no.8652101111 and his location can be traced from this. The CCTV footage is attached with this application. The Investigating Officer made it part of the case diary. The CCTV footage was displayed on CD player of the laptop and Usha Devi the mother and Ashish the brother of injured- Rohit has identified Rajesh Kumar Gond in this CCTV footage. The Investigating Officer has mentioned these facts in the case diary. He has further mentioned that a letter was written to get the call details of mobile number of Rajesh Kumar Gond but the surveillance cell informed that as the incident is more two years old, it cannot be retrieved. Neither the CCTV footage of ATM Thane of SBI can be obtained. The Investigating Officer has also recorded the statement of some other witnesses and they have denied the presence of the revisionist at the place of occurrence at the time of incident.

8. The revisionist is neither named in the FIR nor the first informant who is also an eye witness has named anyone in his statement recorded U/s 161 Cr.P.C. It has also come in the evidence that at the time of incident it was darkness. The revisionist has been implicated by Rohit Kumar the injured in his statement recorded U/s 161 Cr.P.C., after 21 days of the incident. The revisionist has provided the evidence about the alibi to the Investigating Officer during the investigation in the form of CCTV footage of Korum Mall, Thane. The Investigating Officer has displayed this CCTV footage before the Usha Devi the mother and Ashish the brother of the injured Rohit and they have identified the revisionist Rajesh Kumar Gond in this CCTV footage.

9. The case of Brijendra Singh vs. State of Rajasthan (2017) 7 SCC 706 (Supra), the Apex Court while reiterating the principles laid down in Hardeep Singh case has made the following observations:

"13. In order to answer the question, some of the principles enunciated in Hardeep Singh's case may be recapitulated power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. can be exercised by the trial court at any stage during the trial, i.e., before the conclusion of trial, to summon any person as an accused and face the trial in the ongoing case, once the trial court finds that there is some 'evidence' against such a person on the basis of which evidence it can be gathered that he appears to be guilty of offence. The 'evidence' herein means the material that is brought before the Court during trial. Insofar as the material/evidence collected by the IO at the stage of inquiry is concerned, it can be utilised for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the Court to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. No doubt, such evidence that has surfaced in examination-in-chief, without cross-examination of witnesses, can also be taken into consideration. However, since it is a discretionary power given to the Court under Section 319 Cr.P.C. and is also an extraordinary one, same has to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrants. The degree of satisfaction is more than the degree which is warranted at the time of framing of the charges against others in respect of whom chargesheet was filed. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the Court that such power should be exercised. It is not to be exercised in a casual or a cavalier manner. The prima facie opinion which is to be formed requires stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity.

14. When we translate the aforesaid principles with their application to the facts of this case, we gather an impression that the trial court acted in a casual and cavalier manner in passing the summoning order against the appellants. The appellants were named in the FIR. Investigation was carried out by the police. On the basis of material collected during investigation, which has been referred to by us above, the IO found that these appellants were in Jaipur city when the incident took place in Kanaur, at a distance of 175 kms. The complainant and others who supported the version in the FIR regarding alleged presence of the appellants at the place of incident had also made statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to the same effect. Notwithstanding the same, the police investigation revealed that the statements of these persons regarding the presence of the appellants at the place of occurrence was doubtful and did not inspire confidence, in view of the documentary and other evidence collected during the investigation, which depicted another story and clinchingly showed that appellants plea of alibi was correct.

which suggested otherwise, the trial court was at least duty bound to look into the same while forming prima facie opinion and to see as to whether 'much stronger evidence than mere possibility of their (i.e. appellants) complicity has come on record. There is no satisfaction of this nature. Even if we presume that the trial court was not apprised of the same at the time when it passed the order (as the appellants were not on the scene at that time), what is more troubling is that even when this material on record was specifically brought to the notice of the High Court in the Revision Petition filed by the appellants, the High Court too blissfully ignored the said material. Except reproducing the discussion contained in the order of the trial court and expressing agreement therewith, nothing more has been done. Such orders cannot stand judicial scrutiny."

10. The facts of the case in hand are almost identical to Brijendra Singh case (Supra). The CCTV footage of Koram Mall, Thane establishes the presence of the revisionist at a different place faraway from the place of occurrence at the relevant point of time. The two prosecution witnesses the mother and brother of injured have duly identified the revisionist in the CCTV footage. So this piece of evidence which is part of investigation fully contradict the testimony of the witnesses regarding complicity of the revisionist in the incident. The learned trial court has failed to appreciate the matters collected during the course of investigation regarding the presence of the accused at a place faraway from the place of occurrence. So the impugned order has been passed in a cavalier manner and it does not fulfill the test as laid down by the Apex Court. The learned trial court has relied on the statement of Usha Devi (P.W.-3) and Ashish Kumar (P.W.-4) while these witnesses have verified the identity of the revisionist accused in the CCTV footage of Koram Mall, Thane. For exercising the powers U/s 319 Cr.P.C. there must be strong and cogent evidence showing the complicity of the accused which is more than that of prima-facie case.

11. Considering the entire facts, evidence and material on record, it appears that there is no strong and cogent reasons to summon the revisionists-accused to face trial in exercise of powers U/s 319 Cr.P.C. While deciding the application U/s 319 Cr.P.C. the learned trial court has failed to appreciate the entire facts, evidence and other material available on record. The court below has also failed to record the degree of satisfaction which is required to summon an accused U/s 319 Cr.P.C. The degree of satisfaction is not one of prima-facie case. Consequently, trial court has failed to exercise its power in accordance with parameters laid down by the Apex court in a catena of decisions. The impugned order is not sustainable in the eye of law and is liable to be set aside.

12. In view of the above discussion, the impugned order suffers from material illegality and is not sustainable in the eye of law.

13. The revision is allowed and the impugned order dated 23.12.2021 is hereby set aside.

Badan Singh @ Baddo Vs St. of U.P. & ors. 2002 CrL L.J. 1392

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suresh Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Vipin Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the applicant, Mr. Vinay Kumar Shahi, learned AGA for the State and perused the material available on record.

2. By means of this criminal appeal under Section 18 of the U.P. Gangster & Anti-social Activities (Prevention Act), 1986, (hereinafter referred as Gangster Act) the appellant has challenged order dated 05.04.2021 passed by learned District Magistrate, Lucknow under Section 14 (1) of the U.P. Gangster & Anti-social Activities (Prevention Act), 1986 whereby the District Magistrate issued show cause notice to the appellant. The appellant prayed for release of vehicle in question along with relevant paper and source for purchasing of alleged tractor but the District Magistrate Lucknow did not release the tractor and by means of order dated 11.09.2021 the District Magistrate, Lucknow referred the matter to the learned Special Judge Gangster Act/Additional Sessions Judge, Lucknow under Section 16 (1) of the U.P. Gangster & Anti-social Activities (Prevention Act), 1986, which was registered as Criminal Misc. Case No. 659 of 2021 under Section 16 (2) of the Gangster Act. Learned Sessions Judge after conducting the enquiry passed the order dated 17.02.2022 under Section 17 of the U.P. Gangster & Anti-social Activities (Prevention Act), 1986 and rejected the application of the appellant. The appellant has further challenged the judgment and order dated 17.02.2022 passed by learned Special Judge Gangster Act/Additional Sessions Judge, Lucknow whereby the application, for release of the tractor in favour of the appellant, has been rejected. Being aggrieved with the aforesaid impugned orders, the appellant has preferred this criminal appeal.

3. Brief facts of the case are that the applicant is owner of Tractor No. U.P.32 LR 0454, Chassis No. MEA11FA1KK2271719, Engine No. S33411404, which was purchased on 21.02.2020 from Santosh Service Station, Sitapur Road, Itaunja, Lucknow to the tune of Rs.5,15,000/-. Prior to obtaining Tractor, the applicant had given Rs.1,00,00/- from his account in cash to Santosh Service Station, Sitapur Road, Itaunja, Lucknow on 21.02.2020 and for the remaining amount, equal instalment to the tune of Rs.20,000/- per month was fixed and the same was repaid to the dealer. All the aforesaid amount was debited from Account No. 38937795036 of State Bank of India. It is further alleged that on 25.03.2021 the Station House Officer, Police Station Itaunja wrote a letter to S.P. Lucknow to attach the Tractor of appellant bearing No. U.P.32 LR 0454, Chassis No. MEA11FA1KK2271719, Engine No. S33411404 under Section 14 (1) of the U.P. Gangster Act. The S.P. Lucknow on 26.02.2021 forwarded the letter to the District Magistrate Lucknow for further direction to attach the said property of the appellant stating therein that four cases i.e. (i) Case Crime No. 10 of 2013, under Sections 402/211 IPC, (ii) Case Crime No. 133 of 2014, under Sections 457, 380 and 411 IPC, and (iii) Case Crime No. 176 of 2014, under Sections 457, 380, 411 IPC and (iv) Case Crime No. 95 of 2015, under Sections 2/3 of the U.P. Gangster Act are pending against the appellant. Consequently, on the basis of four cases, the District Magistrate, Lucknow took cognizance and issued a show cause notice to the appellant vide order dated 5.4.2021.

4. It is further submitted that earlier on 16.11.2019 the appellant sold the land bearing Gata No. 1727/1 measuring area 0.0400 hectare and land Gata No. 1727/2 measuring 0.9670 situated at Village Shivpuri, B.K.T. Lucknow to Alok Kumar Verma and he had received two cheques of Rs.12,00,000/-. The said amount was credited in the account of appellant on 21.11.2019 and 04.01.2020 by cheque No. 136176 and 136177. The aforesaid Tractor was purchased by the appellant by earning of the aforesaid amount.

5. Pursuant to show cause notice of District Magistrate, Lucknow, the appellant had submitted reply stating therein that the appellant had purchased the said Tractor UP32 LR 0454 from Santosh Service Station, Sitapur Road, Itaunja, Lucknow on 21.02.2020 and the same was registered on 04.09.2020. The tractor was purchased to the tune of Rs.5,15,000/- He had given Rs.1,00,000/- on 21.02.2020 in cash and for the remaining amount, equal installment to the tune of Rs.20,000/- per month was fixed and the same was repaid to the dealer. All the aforesaid amount was debited from Account No. 38937795036 of State Bank of India. Despite of it, learned District Magistrate, Lucknow passed the order of attachment of aforesaid Tractor vide order dated 11.09.2021 and seized the same in police station concerned. After seizing the vehicle in question, the appellant approached before the learned Special Judge, Gangster Act/Additional Sessions Judge, Lucknow by means of Criminal Misc. Case NO. 659 of 2021 under Section 14 (1) of the U.P. Gangster & Anti-social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 the learned trial court rejected the case of the appellant and affirmed the order of learned District Magistrate.

6. The contention of learned counsel for the appellant is that the appellant has been falsely implicated in the present case. The applicant regularly deposited the installment of the vehicle in question. Further contention is that the source from whom, the vehicle in question was purchased by the applicant, is explained by the appellant before the District Magistrate as well as before Special Judge, but without recording any finding, the impugned orders has been passed, which is illegal, improper and against the material available on record. Further contention is that the vehicle in question was purchased by the applicant with valid source, therefore, the provision of Section 14 (1) will not be applicable in the present case. Further contention is that from perusal of order passed by District Magistrate, Lucknow as well as the trial court, it is clear that the impugned orders have been passed without application of judicial minds as well as well as material available on record. Further contention is that during course of investigation, the investigating without collecting any cogent piece of evidence, directly link the applicant to the alleged crime, therefore, the impugned order is liable to be quashed. Further contention is that unless the seized vehicle is released in favour of the applicant, he will be seriously prejudiced and there is no useful purpose to keep the vehicle during pendency of trial, hence, the applicant is ready to give the sureties for releasing the vehicle.

7. Opposing the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the applicant, on the other hand, learned AGA vehemently opposed the prayer for release of the vehicle and has submitted that the District Magistrate as well as the trial court have rightly passed the impugned, which is just and proper and does not suffer from any illegality or infirmity.

8. I have considered the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record.

9. To deal with the issue involved in the present writ petition, the discussion of provisions of Act, 1986, Section 14 to 18 is essential and same is reproduced as under:-

14. Attachment of property. -

(1) If the District Magistrate has reason to believe that any property, whether moveable or immovable, in possession of any person has been acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act, he may order attachment of such property whether or not cognizance of such offence has been taken by any Court.

(2) The provisions of the Code shall, mutatis mutandis apply to every such attachment.

(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of the Code the District Magistrate may appoint an Administrator of any property attached under subsection (1) and the Administrator shall have all the powers to administer such property in the best interest thereof.

(4) The District Magistrate may provide police help to the Administrator for proper and effective administration of such property.

15. Release of property. - (1)

Where any property is attached under Section 14, the claimant thereof may within three months from the date of knowledge of such attachment make a representation to the District Magistrate showing the circumstances in and the sources by which such property was acquired by him.

(2) If the District Magistrate is satisfied about the genuineness of the claim made under sub-section (1) he shall forthwith release the property from attachment and thereupon such property shall be made over to the claimant.

16. Inquiry into the character of acquisition of property by Court.- (1)

Where no representation is made within the period specified in sub-section (1) of Section 15 or the District Magistrate does not release the property under sub-section (2) of Section 15 he shall refer the matter with his report to the Court having jurisdiction to try an offence under this Act.

(2) Where the District Magistrate has refused to attach any property under sub-section (1) of Section 14 or has ordered for release of any property under sub-section (2) of Section 15, the State Government or any person aggrieved by such refusal or release may make an application to the Court referred to in sub-section (1) for inquiry as to whether the property was acquired by or as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act. Such Court may, if it considers necessary or expedient in the interest of justice so to do, order attachment of such property.

(3)(a) On receipt of the reference under sub-section (1) or an application under sub-section (2), the Court shall fix a date for inquiry and give notices thereof to the person making the application under subsection (2) or, as the case may be, to the person making the representation under Section 15 and to the State Government, and also to any other person whose interest appears to be involved in the case.

(b) On the date so fixed or any subsequent date to which the inquiry may be adjourned, the Court shall hear the parties, receive evidence produced by them, take such further evidence as it considers necessary, decide whether the property was acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act and shall pass such order under Section 17 as may be just and necessary in the circumstances of the case.

(4) For the purpose of inquiry under sub-section (3) the Court, shall have the power of a Civil Court while trying a suit under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (Act No. 5 of 1908), in respect of the following matters, namely :-

(a) summoning and enforcing the attendance of any person and examining him on oath;

(b) requiring the discovery and production of documents;

(c) receiving evidence on affidavits;

(d) requisitioning any public record or copy thereof from any Court or office;

(e) issuing commission for examination of witness or documents;

(f) dismissing a reference for default or deciding it ex parte

(g) setting aside an order of dismissal for default or ex parte decision.

(5) In any proceedings under this section, the burden of proving that the property in question or any part thereof was not acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of any offence triable under this Act, shall be on the person claiming the property, anything to the contrary contained in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (Act No. 1 of 1872), notwithstanding.

17. Order after inquiry. - If upon such inquiry the Court finds that the property was not acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of any offence triable under this Act it shall order for release of the property of the person from whose possession it was attached. In any other case the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the disposal of the property by attachment, confiscation or delivery to any person entitled to the possession thereof, or otherwise.

18. Appeal. - The provisions of Chapter XXIX of the Code shall, mutatis mutandis, apply to an appeal against any judgment on order of a Court passed under the provisions of this Act.

10. In the present case, the ownership of the said vehicle was not in dispute at all. The only dispute is that the source, from which the applicant purchased the vehicle in question explained by the applicant, has not been considered by the District Magistrate as well as Special Judge. Consequently, once the prayer before the court below was made for release of the said vehicle and the applicant has shown the source of income from which he purchased the vehicle in question, the Court should have considered only the question of entitlement of possession.

11. In the case of Badan Singh alias Baddo Vs. State of U.P. & others 2002 CrL. L.J. 1392, a learned Single Judge observed as follows:

"..... There must be nexus between his criminal act and the property acquired by him. His mere involvement in any offence is not sufficient to attach his property. In other words, what is necessary to find is whether his acquisition of property was as a result of commission of any offence enumerated in the Act being a member, leader or organizer of a gang. One might have committed several offences, but if the property acquired by him was with the aid of his earning from legal source, no action under S. 14 of the Act can be taken against him."

12. The aforesaid view certainly support the contention of the learned counsel for the applicant that no useful purpose will be served in keeping the vehicle detained at the police station itself.

13. Prima facie, it comes out that the tractor purchased by the appellant has not been purchased from the sources acquired as a member of gangster and the appellant has fully established his source of money from where the aforesaid tractor has been purchased.

14. In view of the aforesaid discussion, the instant criminal appeal is hereby allowed. The trial court as well as District Magistrate Lucknow is hereby directed that the vehicle in question i.e., the tractor of appellant bearing No. U.P.32 LR 0454, Chassis No. MEA11FA1KK2271719, Engine No. S33411404 shall be released in favour of the appellant immediately subject to the following conditions:-

1. He shall produce the original registration certificate, insurance paper before the concerned Police Station which shall be verified properly and true attested copies thereof.

2. He shall execute a bond with two solvent sureties to the satisfaction of the Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned.

3. He shall keep the vehicle insured at all times till the conclusion of the trial and produce the Insurance Certificate before the Trial Court as and when required; he must satisfy the Court that he is the registered owner of the vehicle.

4. He shall not change the colour or any part of the engine and chassis number of the vehicle.

5. He shall produce the vehicle either before the Court or before such other authorities as the Court may direct.

6. He will not transfer the vehicle to anybody else nor possession of the same be parted with until disposal of the case.

7. He shall not allow the vehicle to be used in the commission of any offence.

7. Dayal Singh & anr. Vs St. of Uttaranchal, (2012) 8 SCC 263

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surendra Singh-I, J.)

1. This criminal appeal has been instituted against the judgment and order dated 02.09.1995 passed by the VI Additional Sessions Judge, Mathura in Sessions Trial No. 94 of 1992 (State vs. Ratan Singh & others) arising out of Case Crime No.138 of 1990, under Sections 307 & 506 IPC Police station Farah, District Mathura. By the impugned judgment and order the trial court convicted appellant Kamal Singh under Section 307 IPC and sentenced him to three years rigorous imprisonment. He was acquitted of the charge under section 506 IPC.

2. The prosecution story in brief is that informant Shiv Singh s/o Than Singh r/o Mahuan, Police Station Farah submitted a written report dated 21.07.1990 in Police Station Farah, Mathura to the effect that he is a witness in the case relating to murder of Sohan Singh. On account of which residents of his village accused Ratan Singh s/o Pyare, Kamal Singh and Bharat Singh both sons of Ratan Singh have enmity with him. They have threatened him that if he gives evidence against them, he will be killed. In the intervening night of 20/21.07.1990 at about 12:00 pm, on the terrace of Rohan Singh s/o Jyoti of his village, informant Shiv Singh was having conversation with Rohan Singh. The above-mentioned accused came on the terrace and threatened him that he should desist from giving evidence against them otherwise he will repent later on. Informant Shiv Singh told them that he will give evidence of the facts which he has seen. Hearing this, accused Ratan Singh exhorted his sons Kamal Singh and Bharat Singh to kill the informant by firing. On his exhortation, appellant Kamal Singh and Bharat Singh with the intention of causing death, fired two gun shots on the informant. The pellets from the bullet hit near the eyes of the informant Shiv Singh and on the chest of Rohan Singh. On alarm being raised by the informant and Rohan Singh, villagers Ram Hans s/o Netram, Soran s/o Nathiya, Man Singh s/o Ram Khiladi and Balram s/o Khachera reached at the place of occurrence. Accused ran away from the spot threatening the informant that today his life has been spared but on some-other day they will kill him.

3. Informant, Shiv Singh submitted his written report (Exhibit Ka-1) on 21.07.1990 at 06:15 am at Police Station Farah by which Case Crime No.138 of 1990 was registered under Section 307 and 506 IPC. The chick FIR is Exhibit Ka-4.

4. Injured Rohan Singh and Shiv Singh were medically examined on 21.07.1990 at 8:00 am and 08:30 am respectively by Dr. G.S. Awasthi in Primary Health Centre, Farah, Mathura. According to the injury report (Exhibit Ka-6), the following injuries were found on the person of Shiv Singh :

2. Firearm abrasion on right side of forehead 0.5 cm X 0.5 cm, red in colour, oval in shape. Blackening is present, 1.5 cm above from right eyebrow.”

In the opinion of the doctor, injury nos. 1 and 2 were caused by friction. Injury was simple in nature, duration about half day old. Injuries could be caused by firearm.

5. According to the injury report (Exhibit ka-7), the following injuries were found on the person of Rohan Singh :

“ 1. Gun shot lacerated wound on right side, upper part of chest, oval in shape, size 0.5 cm X 0.5 cm X muscle deep. Blackening is present. Clotted blood around the injury, 3 cm away from medial end of collar bone, red in colour, present.”

In the opinion of the medical officer, the injury has been caused by blunt object and is simple in nature, duration about half day old. Injuries could be caused by fire arm.

6. T he investigation of the case was done by S.I. Kishan Singh, who visited the place of occurrence and prepared site plan (Exhibit Ka-2), recorded statements of witnesses and after investigation submitted charge-sheet under Sections 307 and 506

IPC (Exhibit Ka-3) against accused Ratan Singh, Bharat Singh and Kamal Singh.

7. After committal of the case, on 03.07.1992 the Court framed charge under Sections 307/34 and 506 I.P.C. against accused Ratan Singh, Kamal Singh and Bharat Singh, who denied the charge and claimed trial.

8. During trial, accused Bharat Singh died and criminal case has been abated against him.

9. To prove the charge against the accused persons, the prosecution examined P.W.-1 Shiv Singh, P.W.-2 Rohan Singh, P.W.-3 Ram Hans and P.W.-4 Soran as witnesses of facts, who have deposed regarding the occurrence. The prosecution has also examined P.W.-5, Investigating Officer S.I. Kishan Singh and P.W.-6 Medical Officer, Dr. G.S. Awasthi as formal witnesses.

10. P.W.-1 Shiv Singh has proved his written report (Exhibit Ka-1), Investigating Officer S.I. Kishan Singh (PW-5) proved the Chick FIR (Exhibit Ka-4), site plan (Exhibit Ka-2) and the charge-sheet (Exhibit Ka-3).

11. On 22.06.1994 the Court recorded the statement of the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. They have denied the charge stating that the witnesses are giving false evidence against them. They have also stated that the injured have got forged medical report prepared and wrong charge-sheet has been submitted against them. The accused have further stated that due to village politics they were falsely implicated in a murder case which was earlier lodged against unknown accused. They did not produce any evidence in their defence.

12. It has been argued by learned counsel for the accused-appellant that according to the prosecution version the incident took place on 20/21.07.1990 at 12 o'clock at night but no source of light is stated in the written report and the Investigating Officer has not shown source of light in his site plan. Therefore, it is not possible for the witnesses to recognize the appellant-accused in the dark night. It has also been argued on behalf of the appellant-accused that according to the prosecution case, the accused-appellant Kamal Singh and co-accused Bharat Singh (since deceased) used firearm and caused injury to Shiv Singh and Rohan Singh but according to the injury report of Rohan Singh, the doctor has opined that the injury was caused by blunt object and is simple in nature. There is no supplementary medical report or x-ray report, therefore, firearm injury is not proved. It has also been submitted that the police has not recovered from the place of occurrence empty cartridge or any other article related to the incident. No weapon or other article was recovered from the possession or the pointing out of the appellant. The Investigating Officer has also not recovered blood stained soil or plain soil from the place of occurrence. Therefore, merely on the basis of oral evidence charge against the accused is not proved.

13. Per contra, it has been argued by learned A.G.A. for the state that the injury report of both injured PW-1 Shiv Singh and PW-2 Rohan Singh clearly mentions firearm injuries on their person. The opinion of the doctor regarding nature of injuries is not conducive and not binding on the Court. No benefit to the accused appellant can be granted merely due to default on the part of Investigating Officer in not seizing/recovering weapons of offence, Katta and used or unused cartridges from the custody of accused-appellant or from the place of occurrence.

14. I have heard Shri Mahesh Kumar Kuntal, learned counsel for the appellant, learned A.G.A. For the State and perused the record.

15. The definition of attempt to murder and punishment therefor has been provided under Section 307 I.P.C. In the case of Chimanbhai Jagabhai Patel vs. State of Gujarat, (2009) 11 SCC 273 considering the judgment in State of Maharashtra vs. Kashirao, (2003) 10 SCC 434, the Apex Court has held that the prosecution has to prove following elements to constitute an offence under Section 307 I.P.C.:

“20.....The essential ingredients required to be proved in the case of an offence under Section 307 are:

(i) that the death of a human being was attempted;

(ii) that such death was attempted to be caused by, or in consequence of the act of the accused; and

(iii) that such act was done with the intention of causing death; or that it was done with the intention of causing such bodily injury as : (a) the accused knew to be likely to cause death; or (b) was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, or that the accused attempted to cause death by doing an act known to him to be so imminently dangerous that it must in all probability cause (a) death, or (b) such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, the accused having no excuse for incurring the risk of causing such death or injury.”

16. To justify a conviction under this Section, it is not essential that bodily injury capable of causing death should have been inflicted. Although the nature of injury actually caused may often give considerable assistance in coming to a finding as to the intention of the accused, such intention may also be deduced from other circumstances, and may even, in some cases, be ascertained without any reference at all to actual wounds. It is not necessary that the injury actually caused to the victim of the assault should be sufficient under ordinary circumstances to cause the death of the person assaulted. What the Court has to see is whether the act, irrespective of its result, was done with the intention or knowledge and under circumstances mentioned in the section. An attempt in order to be criminal need not be the penultimate act. It is sufficient in law, if there is present an intent coupled with some over act in execution thereof. To bring a case within the ambit of section 307, the prosecution has to make out the facts and circumstances envisaged by section 300. If the ingredients of Section 300 are wholly lacking, there can be no conviction under Section 307. The ingredients of the Section are (1) intention or knowledge relating to commission of murder; and (2) the doing of an act towards it.

17. Attempt mentioned in Section 307 I.P.C. is an intentional preparatory action which fails in its object – which is so fails through circumstances independent of the person who seeks its accomplishments. In Prakash Chandra Yadav vs. State of Bihar, (2007) 13 SCC 134 the Apex Court held:

“Doing of an act with intention or knowledge to cause death is a necessary ingredient. Receipt of injury by the victim is not a pre-requisite for conviction under the first part of Section 307 I.P.C. The second part is attracted when the victim receives an injury.”

18. The mere use of lethal weapon is sufficient to invoke the provisions of Section 307. It is not necessary to constitute the offence that the attack should result in an injury. An attempt is itself sufficient if there is requisite intention. An intention to murder can be gathered from circumstances other than the existence or nature of the injury.

19. In State of M.P. vs. Kedar Yadav, 2011 (1) SCC (Cri) 108, the Apex Court has held that:

“The section makes a distinction between the act of the accused and its result, if any. The Court has to see whether the act, irrespective of its result, was done with the intention or knowledge and under circumstances mentioned in the Section. Therefore, an accused charged under Section 307 I.P.C., cannot be acquitted merely because the injuries inflicted on the victim were in nature of a simple hurt.”

In the light of the law propounded by the Apex Court, the evidence adduced by the prosecution is to be analysed.

20. Informant injured PW-1 Shiv Singh deposed in his evidence dated 27.11.1992 that the occurrence took place about two years four months earlier. It was 12 p.m. night. He was having conversation with Rohan Singh on his terrace. Accused Kamal Singh, Ratan Singh and Bharat Singh came on their terrace. Ratan Singh threatened him not to give evidence in the murder case of Sohan Singh, otherwise he will have to repent later on. Shiv Singh answered him that he will give correct evidence what he has seen. Hearing this, accused Ratan Singh asked his sons to kill the informant, Shiv Singh. Acting on this, accused Bharat Singh and Kamal Singh with the intention to kill the informant, fired two gun shots upon the informant, which hit near the eyes of the informant and on the chest of Rohan Singh. The injured hid themselves and raised alarm, on which Ram Hans, Soran, Maan Singh and Balram of his village reached there, thereupon accused threatened that today you have managed to save yourself but on the next occasion you will not be spared and went back to their home. PW-1 Shiv Singh proved one of the country made pistol which was used in firing on them. He also deposed regarding lodging of FIR and also that injured were accompanied by the police to PHC where their medical examination was done.

21. PW-1 Shiv Singh deposed in his cross-examination that house of Rohan Singh is towards South of that of accused Ratan Singh. There are three or four rooms towards the east of Ratan Singh's house. Towards South of the house of Ratan Singh a Kharanja road is situated. Between the house of Ratan Singh and kharanja road a platform (chabutara) of 3-4 ft. width is situated. Towards the South of kharanja 4-5 ft. width platform (chabutara) of Rohan is situated. After Rohan's platform (chabutara), his house is situated which is of 8 ft. width. At the time of firing, PW-1 Shiv Singh and Rohan were sitting on the terrace of his house. P.W.-1 denied that towards the South of Kotha his rooms are situated. PW-1 denied that at the time of firing they were sitting in the room. He stated that he had told the Investigating Officer about the place where they were sitting and that electric light was lit on in the Kotha of Rohan. PW-1 stated that he and Rohan were sitting in a bed on the terrace of Kotha. After firing, blood was spread on his clothes. The Investigating Officer did not ask or took possession of his blood stained clothes. PW-1 has also deposed in his cross-examination that the house of Ram Hans is adjacent to the place of occurrence. He has also deposed in his evidence that the motive of enmity between him and the accused was the murder of his son Sohan Singh. PW-1 has given the reason for not lodging the FIR soon after the occurrence. He said that due to fear of the accused he could not lodge the FIR instantly. He visited the police station in the morning. PW-1 denied that the distance between the house of Ratan Singh and the place of occurrence is 50-60 ft.

22. Thus, informant injured PW-1 has deposed in his evidence, the date, time, place of occurrence and the presence of injured Rohan Singh, Ram Hans and Soran Singh at the place of occurrence. He also proved the distance between the house of Ratan Singh and the place of occurrence which was about 15-20 ft. PW-1 has also deposed about the participation of accused and the manner of their causing injury to him and Rohan Singh.

23. Injured PW-2 Rohan Singh has deposed in his evidence dated 27.11.1992 that the occurrence took place about two years and four months back at 12:00 o'clock night, while he was having conversation with Shiv Singh on his terrace. Ratan Singh threatened Shiv Singh not to give evidence in Sohan Singh's murder case and in case he gave evidence, he will have to repent later on. Shiv Singh told that he will give evidence what he has seen, therefore, Ratan Singh exhorted his sons to fire and kill Shiv Singh. On his exhortation, Kamal Singh and Bharat Singh fired upon Shiv Singh. The pellet from their country made pistol hit near the eyes of Shiv Singh and on his chest. PW-2 has further deposed that on their raising alarm Soran Singh, Ram Hans and other witnesses reached there. He deposed that at about 6-6:30 am report was lodged in police station concerned.

24. PW-2 has stated in his cross-examination that the distance between his house and that of accused Ratan Singh is about 15 ft. It was dark night but light was on in his house and that in the house of Shiv Singh. He has also deposed that he informed the Investigating Officer about the two firing shots done by the accused. He has stated that blood from the wound fell on the body as well as on the ground. He stated in his cross-examination that the witnesses reached immediately on the place of occurrence. Rohan Singh has also deposed that due to fear of the accused, they did not immediately visit the police station for lodging the FIR. PW-2 has emphatically denied that distance between his house and that of Ratan Singh is about 50-60 ft.

25. Thus, PW-2 injured Rohan Singh has corroborated the evidence of PW-1 Shiv Singh regarding the time, place, manner of occurrence, the participation of accused in the incident and the firearm used by them, injuries received by him and PW-1 Shiv Singh, lodging of FIR after the incident and his as well as Shiv Singh's medical examination done in the PHC Farah, Mathura.

26. P.W.-3 Ram Hans and PW-4 Soran reside adjoining the place of occurrence. Their presence at the place of occurrence is proved by the evidence of PW-1 Shiv Singh and PW-2 Rohan Singh. PW-3 Ram Hans has stated in his evidence that hearing the hue and cry raised by the family members of injured Rohan Singh, he reached at the place of occurrence. He has stated in his evidence dated 05.12.1992 that the occurrence took place about two years four months ago at 12 o'clock at night. PW-4 Soran was present there. He saw bullet injuries below the eyes of Shiv Singh and on the chest of Rohan Singh. When he asked them about the injuries Rohan Singh told him that appellant-accused Kamal and co-accused Bharat (since deceased) had fired on him. PW-3 Ram Hans has stated in his evidence that electric light was lit on the terrace and in the room of Rohan. PW-3 Ram Hans admitted in his cross-examination that he had himself not seen the accused firing at the injured Shiv Singh and Rohan Singh. He reached there after hearing the hue and cry of the family members of Rohan. When he reached there, Rohan, his wife, brother and children were present on the terrace. Blood was spread outside on the terrace of the room.

27. PW-4 Soran has also given evidence regarding the date, time and place of occurrence. PW-4 Soran has stated that he awoke hearing the voice coming from the house of Rohan and Shiv Singh. He reached there after Ram Hans had reached there. Shiv Singh and Rohan had received injuries. Blood was oozing from the chest of Rohan and from the forehead of Shiv Singh. Both injured were telling persons present there that appellant-accused Kamal Singh and co-accused Bharat Singh had caused them injuries by firing on them. PW-4 stated that light was burning there. He has stated in his cross-examination that the Investigating Officer did not ask him about presence of light at the place of occurrence, therefore, he did not tell him about the light lit there. PW-4 Soran stated that when he reached on the place of occurrence, the injured were on the terrace and a khat (Cot) was lying there nearby on the terrace.

28. Thus, PW-3 Ram Hans and PW-4 Soran by their evidence have corroborated the evidence of PW-1 Shiv Singh and PW-2 Rohan Singh regarding the date, time and place of occurrence, participation of accused, the manner of their causing injury to PW-1 Shiv Singh and PW-2 Rohan Singh, the lodging of FIR and medical examination of injured Shiv Singh and Rohan Singh in PHC Farah, Mathura. The evidence of PW-1 Shiv Singh, PW-2 Rohan Singh, PW-3 Ram Hans and PW-4 Soran is cogent, truthful and reliable. Nothing comes out in their cross-examination that may raise doubt regarding the truthfulness and reliability of their evidence.

29. A country made pistol is a lethal weapon. Firearm injury caused by country-made pistol may be fatal in nature. Appellant-accused Kamal Singh and co-accused Bharat Singh on the exhortation of their father Ratan Singh to kill Shiv Singh and Rohan Singh fired on them with country-made pistol causing them injury one on their forehead and chest, respectively. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, weapon used in causing injury and the part of body on which injury was caused, it can be concluded that appellant-accused Kamal Singh with co-accused Bharat Singh fired on injured Shiv Singh and Rohan Singh with the intention to cause them to death.

30. Regarding the argument submitted on behalf of the appellant-accused regarding alleged default/irregularity by the Investigating Officer in doing the investigation, it has been established by a catena of judgments of Apex Court that such default cannot be the basis of acquittal and the accused will not get any benefit of it, if case is proved by other oral and documentary evidence.

31. The Apex Court in Ranjeet Kumar Ram vs. State of Bihar, 2015 SCC OnLine SC 500 has held as under:

“21. It is well settled that in criminal trials even if the investigation is defective, the rest of the evidence must be scrutinized independently of the impact of the defects in the investigation otherwise the criminal trial will plummet to the level of the investigation. Criminal trials should not be made casualties for any lapses committed by the investigating officer. In State of M.P. v. Mansingh, (2003) 10 SCC 414, it was held that even if there was deficiencies in the investigation that cannot be a ground for discrediting the prosecution version. The same view was reiterated in Sheo Shankar Singh v. State of Jharkhand, (2011) 3 SCC 654 and C. Muniappan v. State of Tamil Nadu, (2010) 9 SCC 567.”

32. In Ram Bali vs. State of U.P., AIR 2004 SC 2329 the Apex Court has held as under :

“12. The investigation was also stated to be defective since the gun was not sent for forensic test. In the case of a defective investigation the court has to be circumspect in evaluating the evidence. But it would not be right in acquitting an accused person solely on account of the defect; to do so would tantamount to playing into the hands of the investigating officer if the investigation is designedly defective.”

33. In Dayal Singh and another vs. State of Uttaranchal, (2012) 8 SCC 263 the Apex Court has propounded as under:

“34. Where our criminal justice system provides safeguards of fair trial and innocent till proven guilty to an accused, there it also contemplates that a criminal trial is meant for doing justice to all, the accused, the society and a fair chance to prove to the prosecution. Then alone can law and order be maintained. The courts do not merely discharge the function to ensure that no innocent man is punished, but also that a guilty man does not escape. Both are public duties of the Judge. During the course of the trial, the learned Presiding Judge is expected to work objectively and in a correct perspective. Where the prosecution attempts to misdirect the trial on the basis of a perfunctory or designedly defective investigation, there the Court is to be deeply cautious and ensure that despite such an attempt, the determinative process is not subverted. For truly attaining this object of a “fair trial”, the Court should leave no stone unturned to do justice and protect the interest of the society as well.”

34. PW-3 Ram Hans and PW-4 Soran, who reside adjoining to the place of occurrence and whose presence at the time of occurrence is proved by evidence of PW-1 Shiv Singh and PW-2 Rohan Singh have also corroborated the evidence of PW-1 and PW-2 regarding the date, time, place of occurrence, manner, participation of accused, manner of their causing injury to PW-1 and PW-2, lodging of the FIR and medical examination of the injured Shiv Singh and Rohan Singh in PHC, Farah, Mathura. The evidence of PW-1, PW-2, PW-3 and PW-4 is cogent, truthful and reliable. Nothing comes out in their cross-examination that may raise doubt regarding the truthfulness and reliability of their evidence.

35. The oral evidences of PW-1 Shiv Singh, PW-2 Rohan Singh, PW-3 Ram Hans and PW-4 Soran have been corroborated by documentary evidence, written report, chick FIR, injury report of Shiv Singh and Rohan Singh, site plan and charge sheet filed against the accused Kamal Singh and Bharat Singh (since deceased).

36. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case in the light of the law propounded by the Apex Court regarding the defective investigation, the argument advanced by learned counsel for the appellant cannot be accepted and it is accordingly rejected.

37. As regards the argument advanced by learned counsel for the appellant that in the injury report of the injured Rohan Singh the doctor has opined that injury was caused by hard and blunt object and is in simple in nature, from the perusal of the medical report it is seen that it further mentions that "injuries could be caused by firearm". Therefore, the argument of learned counsel for the appellant does not hold much ground. Apart from this, Medical Officer PW-6 Dr. G.S. Awasthi has stated in his evidence regarding Injury No. 2 found on the person of Shiv Singh and the injury found on the person of Rohan Singh it is possible that it may be caused on 20/21.07.1990 by firearm.

38. Considering the medical report along with oral evidence of Medical Officer P.W.-6, Dr. G.S. Awasthi the arguments of the learned counsel for the appellant on this point does not hold much ground and is not accepted.

39. From the analysis of the oral and documentary evidence on record it is concluded that the prosecution has proved beyond reasonable doubt that on the date, time and place of occurrence the accused-appellant Kamal Singh with co-accused with the intention to cause death, fired on Shiv Singh and Rohan Singh causing fatal injuries to them. The prosecution has proved beyond reasonable doubt charge under Section 307 I.P.C. against the accused-appellant and the Trial Court has rightly convicted the appellant-accused under that section.

40. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant has also submitted that in case the appeal is not allowed against conviction then considering that incident took place more than 32 years back in the year 1990 and that the appellant-accused has no criminal antecedent to his credit or he has not involved in any other criminal activity, he may be released on probation.

41. Learned A.G.A. For the State has opposed the prayer of the accused-appellant being enlarged on probation and submitted that the appellant has committed an offence under Section 307 I.P.C. which is punishable with life imprisonment, therefore, he is not entitled to the benefit of probation.

42. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case and the fact that the appellant-accused had asked injured P.W.-1 Shiv Singh not to give evidence in a case in which appellant-accused was undergoing trial for the murder of informant's (P.W.1) son Sohan and when informant Shiv Singh refused to do so, the accused-appellant Kamal Singh with co-accused fired on Shiv Singh and Rohan Singh by a country-made pistol causing injuries to them on their vital parts. There is no ground to release the appellant on probation.

43. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, especially that more than 32 years have passed since the offence was committed and prosecution has not produced any criminal history of the appellant-accused, the period of sentence awarded to appellant-accused is reduced from three years to two years rigorous imprisonment without modifying the fine imposed on him. The criminal appeal is partly allowed.

44. The appellant-accused will surrender before the Trial Court concerned within 30 days. The Trial Court shall take him into custody and sent him to appropriate jail for serving the sentence. The period which the appellant-accused has already undergone during investigation and trial shall be set off according to the provisions of Section 428 Cr.P.C. against the sentence awarded to him.

45. Let a copy of this judgment along with the trial court record be sent to the court concerned for compliance.

THE HON'BLE MOHD. ASLAM, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 2198 of 2018

Satta @ Satya Prakash ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Appellant:

Sri S.P.S. Chauhan, Smt. Meenakshi Chauhan

Counsel for the Opposite Party:

A. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 374(2) - Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 377 - Section 5/6 Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act-2012- Challenge to-Conviction- medical report and the supplementary medical report prepared by Dr. (PW-4), it is proved that the victim sustained injuries - the statements of PW-1 and PW-2 gets corroboration from the medical report-the accused-appellant was also medically examined wherein 'alcoholic smell was found present in his breath' and he also sustained the injuries but the injuries of the accused-appellant have not been proved-The statement of PW-2) is natural, without material contradiction and inspires confidence-Her statement gets corroboration from the statement of PW-1and PW-3 and medical reports- Thus, the learned lower court had rightly convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant.(Para 1 to 43)

B. It is for the accused to prove the contrary that he has not committed or abetted the commission of an offence under sections 3, 5, 7, and section 9 of the POCSO Act and, in case, he fails to do so, presumption would operate against him leading to his conviction under the provision of the Act. It cannot be disputed that no presumption is absolute and every presumption is rebuttable. It cannot be said that the presumption under Section 29 of the POCSO Act is absolute. It will come into operation only when prosecution is first able to establish the fact and that would form the foundation of the presumption under Section 29 of the POCSO Act to operate. Otherwise, entire burden would be on the accused to prove the contrary. Such position of law or interpretation of presumption under section 29 of the POCSO Act cannot be accepted as it would clearly violate the constitutional mandate and no person can be deprived of liberty, except in accordance with the procedure established by law. (Para 29)

The appeal is dismissed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mohd. Aslam, J.)

1. Heard Shri S.P.S. Chauhan learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Rajkamal, learned Government Advocate for the State of U.P. and perused the record.

2. The instant criminal appeal is preferred under Section 374 (2) Cr.P.C. by the accused-appellant against the judgement of conviction and order of sentence dated 30.03.2018 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.8, Aligarh in Criminal Case No.67 of 2014 (State v. Satta @ Satya Prakash) (arising out of Case Crime No.76/2014) under Section 377 I.P.C. and Section 5/6 Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act-2012 (hereinafter referred to as 'the POCSO Act') Police Station- Lodha, District-Aligarh. The accused-appellant Satta @ Satya Prakash was convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a term of 10 years and fine of Rs.10,000/-, in default of payment of fine to undergo one year of additional imprisonment for offence punishable under Section 5/6 POCSO Act.

3. The prosecution case, in brief, is that Rakesh Kumar (PW-1) S/o of Ramji Lal resident of village Lahausara, Police Station-Lodha, District Aligarh lodged the First Information Report on 21.03.2014 at 06:30 PM on the basis of the written complaint (Ex. Ka -1) alleging therein that on 21.03.2014, the informant and his wife (Satyavati) (PW-2) had gone to the market at 12 'o' clock in the day to purchase some household articles. They had left their son aged about three years at home. When they returned from the market at about 5 PM, their son was not present in the house. When they made search for their son, they found the victim in the house of their neighbour-Satta @ Satya Prakash, resident of Lahausana, Police Station-Lodha, District-Aligarh. The victim was found naked and the accused-appellant Satta @ Satya Prakash was committing the act of sodomy on him. When they raised alarmed, uncle of the informant-Sunil and his wife had forcefully taken the victim in their custody and they took the accused-appellant to the police station to lodge the First Information Report. Constable Manish

Kumar (PW-5) prepared chik report (Exhibit Ka-6) on the basis of written complaint of the informant on 21.03.2014 at 6:30 PM and had registered the case as Case Crime No.76 of 2014 under Section 377 IPC and Section 5/6 POSCO Act by making necessary entry in the G.D and the accused-appellant was taken in the custody. The majroobi chitthi of the victim was prepared by the Constable Manish Kumar and the victim and the accused-appellant Satta @ Satya Prakash were sent to the Primary Health Centre from where they were referred to the District Malkhan Singh Hospital-Aligarh on the same day. Dr. M.K. Mathur conducted the medical examination of victim on 21.3.2014 at 8:20 PM. At the time of medical examination, the age of the victim was found to be of three years.

4. Following injuries were found on the body of the victim at the time of medical examination:-

"No external injury seen over the body except Anal part.

Lucal examination of Anal part.

-Abraded mucosa of Anal Sphincter.

-Abrasion present Anterior of part of Anal orifice.

-Discharge mucus present in Anal Canal & two slides of discharge preserved for Histopathological examination.

Opinion-Sign of some hard long thing invasion in Anal canal present & Two slides of Discharge from anal part preserved for histopathological examination.

Duration: fresh."

5. Dr. M.K. Mathur (PW-4) prepared injury report (Ex. Ka -5) in his handwriting and under his signature at the time of medical examination. In the pathological examination, no spermatozoa was detected in the smear by the Senior Consultant Pathologist, Malkhan Singh District Hospital-Dr. Saeed Mohammad. On the basis of pathological report of the victim, a supplementary report (Ex. Ka-4) was prepared by Dr. M.K. Mathur. He opined that no confirmed opinion can be given about active sexual assault due to spermatozoa not seen in the anal smear.

6. Accused-appellant Satta @ Satya Prakash was also sent for medical examination and was medically examined by Doctor Charan Singh on 21.03.2014 at Malkhan Singh District Hospital.

7. Following injuries were found on the body of the accused Satta @ Satyaprakash at the time of medical examination:-

"General condition -conscious oriented

Alcoholic smell in breathing of patient found present

Pulse Rate-100 per minute,

B.P. 126/ 80hg

Injuries:- 1. Contusion 11 cm X 3 cm on left side mid of scapula on back- red in colour.

2. Contusion 15 cm X 3 cm on left side back 4 cm below left scapula-red in colour.

3. Contusion mid of back 25 cm X 3 cm from left side to right side scapula 5 cm below injury no. 1.

Examination of genital -pubic hair present.

-penis and scrotum are normally developed.

-Prepuce easily retractable.

-no external injury over penis, glans and external meatus

-Two slides prepared from Glans and external meatus for spermatozoal and microscopic examination.

Opinion -above said consumed alcohol, above injuries are simple in nature and caused by blunt and hard object, duration fresh. Two slides prepared, sealed, labelled and handed over for microscopic examination, underwear sealed, labelled and handed over for microscopic examination to the concerned constable."

8. After the pathological report, Doctor Charan Singh prepared supplementary report. He stated that no spermatozoa was found. In the supplementary report, Dr. Charan Singh reported that microscopic examination of underwear was awaited, hence, opinion could only be given after report of underwear. But injury report and supplementary injury report of the accused-appellant was not proved by the prosecution in the lower court.

9. The investigation of the case was undertaken by the Sub-Inspector Dori Lal Yadav on 21.3.2014. He copied the written complaint of informant in C.D and G.D. registering the case and also recorded the statements of Constable Manish Kumar, informant Rakesh Kumar, mother of victim-Satyavati. He also tried to record the statement of victim but due to tender age, he could not speak and narrate the incident. He also recorded the statement of the accused-appellant Satta @ Satya Prakash in police lock-up of Police Station Lodha. He copied the injury report of victim and the accused Satta @ Satya Prakash. On 22.3.2014, he visited the place of occurrence i.e. house of accused-appellant-Satta @ Satya Prakash alongwith the informant and prepared the site plan (Ex. Ka-3). He also copied supplementary medical reports of the victim and the accused-appellant. He also recorded the statements of Dr. M.K. Mathur and Dr. Charan Singh and after completing investigation submitted the charge-sheet (Ex. Ka-2). The cognizance of offence under Section 377 IPC and Section 5/6 POCSO Act was taken by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.8, Aligarh.

10. The court of learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.8, Aligarh had framed the charges for offence punishable under Section 377 IPC and Section 5/6 POCSO Act. The accused-appellant pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

11. In order to prove its case, the prosecution had examined the informant Rakesh Kumar, father of the victim as Rakesh Kumar (PW-1), Satyavati, mother of the victim as PW-2 as the witnesses of fact, S.I. Dorilal Yadav as PW-3 to prove steps taken in the investigation, chargesheet (Ex. Ka-2) and site plan (Ex. Ka-3), Dr. M.K. Mathur as PW-4 to prove the supplementary injury report (Ex. Ka-4) and injury report of the victim (Ex. Ka-5) and Constable Manish Kumar as PW-5 to prove chik report (Ex. Ka-6) and G.D. registering the case (Ex. Ka-7).

12. Learned lower court recorded the statement of accused-appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C. wherein he had denied the prosecution case and had stated that witnesses are falsely deposing against him and he was falsely implicated. It is stated by the accused-appellant that the informant-Rakesh Kumar had lodged false case because Bua (aunt) of the informant alleged to have gone with Kalu (bhanja) of the accused-appellant in which the accused was also falsely nominated and police had filed Final Report in it and due to this enmity the appellant has been falsely implicated in this case.

13. Learned court below after appraisal of the evidence found the testimonies of Rakesh Kumar-informant (PW-1) and Satyavati, mother of the victim (PW-2) trustworthy which gets corroboration from the medical report prepared by Dr. M.K. Mathur (PW-4) and materials available on record and held that the prosecution had established the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt for offence punishable under Section 377 IPC and Section 5/6 POCSO Act, convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant vide impugned judgement and order dated 30.03.2018 as mentioned above.

14. Feeling aggrieved, the accused-appellant has preferred this appeal under section 374 (2) Cr.P.C.

15. Learned counsel for the appellant pointed out at the very outset that the medical evidence in this case does not corroborate the prosecution case and accused was solely convicted on the concocted story and the evidences tendered by Rakesh Kumar (PW-1) and Satyavati (PW-2) do not get corroboration from the prosecution case. It is also contended by learned counsel for the appellant that there were inconsistencies in the testimonies of the witness PW-1 and PW-2. It is further contended that no spermatozoa was found in the anal smear taken for pathological examination. It is further submitted that on this account, supplementary report (Ex. Ka-4) was prepared by Dr M.K. Mathur where he opined that no confirmed opinion can be given about active sexual assault due to spermatozoa not seen in the anal smear. It is further contended that the injury sustained by the victim were not established by the evidence on record that the said injuries were caused due to sodomy committed by the accused-appellant. Learned counsel for the appellant also submitted that if the accused had committed the act of sodomy, victim would have sustained injuries in other parts of the body also but there was no visible injury found except the injury in the anal canal which belies the prosecution case. It is further submitted that PW-1 in his testimony had admitted that mother of the accused-appellant Durga Devi was present in the house when the act of sodomy was alleged to have been committed. It is further submitted that on 5.2.2016, PW-1 and PW-2 had submitted their affidavits to the trial judge wherein they have denied the prosecution case. It is further submitted that there is material contradiction in the statements of PW-1 and PW-2 as Rakesh Kumar (PW-1) had admitted in his examination-in-chief that he alongwith his wife found his son victim in the house of the accused-appellant and at that time accused was committing unnatural offence with the victim after disrobing him while Satyavati (PW-2) in her cross-examination stated that she had first gone in search of her son and when she found her son in the house of accused-appellant, thereafter, she called her husband. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that the above contradictions in the statement goes to the root of the case and establishes that above named two witnesses have not seen the occurrence and their testimonies are unreliable and learned lower court has wrongly believed on their testimonies and convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant on the basis of conjectures and surmises. The judgement of learned lower court is liable to be set aside. It is further submitted that Rakesh Kumar (PW-1) stated in examination-in-chief that when he saw the accused-appellant, he was actually assaulting his son but contrary to this, in his cross-examination, he admitted that when he saw the accused-appellant he was wearing jeans pant and t-shirt. He had further admitted that appellant is handicapped from his leg and he can only move with support of his knee and hand. In above circumstances, the prosecution has utterly failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. Sub-Inspector Dori Lal Yadav (PW-3) had admitted that at the time of alleged incident there was a party bandi in the village. It is further submitted that except father and mother of the victim, no independent witness was produced by prosecution to prove the case against the accused-appellant. It is further submitted that allegations in the First Information Report are false and baseless and there is no evidence on record which could substantiate the charge against the appellant. It is further submitted that trial court has misread the evidence and without considering the facts and evidence on record illegally passed the impugned judgement and order which is liable to be set aside and the appeal is liable to the allowed.

16. Per contra, learned Government Advocate appearing on behalf of the State has, vehemently, opposed the contentions raised by learned counsel for the appellant and contended that the occurrence had taken place on 21.3.2014 at about 05:00 PM and the First Information Report was lodged at Police Station Lodha, District Aligarh on the same day i.e. 21.3.2014 at 06:30 PM. It is further submitted that the First Information Report was lodged promptly which ruled out any sort of concoction and deliberation for false implication of the accused. It is further submitted that the victim was taken to the Primary Health Centre along with majroobi chitthi on 21.3.2014 and, thereafter, he was referred to Malkhan Singh District Hospital-Aligarh. The victim was medically examined promptly at 08:20 PM on 21.3.2014 at Malkhan Singh District Hospital by Dr. M.K. Mathur (PW-4) who found injuries on 'anal sphincter and another was on anterior part of anal orifice' and prepared the injury report (Ex. Ka-5). The doctor had opined that 'sign of some hard long thing invasion in anal canal was found present'. It is contended by learned Government Advocate that the said injuries were proved beyond reasonable doubt. It is further contended that the contradictions in the statements of Rakesh Kumar (PW-1) and Satyavati (PW-2) are of minor nature and do not go to the root of the case. It is further submitted that it is not necessary that in every case of penetrative sexual assault, the spermatozoa shall always be found in the anal smear of the victim. It is further contended by learned Government Advocate that Rakesh Kumar (PW-1) and Satyavati (PW-2) had given detailed description about the time of their proceeding to market and time of their return from market. They had also given detailed description that they had visited market to purchase household articles. They have also told the distance of Aligarh market from their village and by which vehicle they had gone to the market. It is further submitted that from the perusal of the record, it was proved beyond doubt that accused has committed sodomy or in other words have committed penetrative sexual assault on victim and learned lower court has rightly held him guilty and has awarded appropriate sentence which requires no interference in this appeal.

17. In this case, the occurrence as alleged to have taken place at about 5 PM on 21.3.2014 and the FIR was lodged at 06:30 PM on the same day. The FIR was lodged by Rakesh Kumar (PW-1) on the basis of written complaint (Ex. Ka-1). Rakesh Kumar (PW-1) deposed that he got ascribed the written report by dictating, thereafter, he signed on it. No question was asked regarding concoction of FIR. It was not challenged by the learned counsel for the appellant that written complaint was ascribed on the dictation of Rakesh Kumar (PW-1). No question was asked regarding enmity of the complainant with the accused. No question was asked about time of lodging of FIR. In the cross-examination, no question was asked regarding concoction or deliberation in the FIR.

18. Hon'ble Apex Court in Baby Alias Sebastain & Anr. v. Circle Inspector of Police, Adimaly (2016) SCC OnLine SC 742 held that prompt lodging of the FIR precludes the possibility of deliberation to falsely implicate any person. In this case, the prompt lodging of FIR has not been challenged. It was also not stated that FIR was an outcome of concoction and due deliberation.

19. In above circumstance, prompt lodging of FIR is of great significance which rule out any sort of possibility of deliberation, concoction and false implication of the accused. From the perusal of FIR, it is clear that the accused was apprehended on the spot while committing the act of sodomy on the victim. From the depositions of Rakesh Kumar (PW-1) and Satyavati (PW-2), it is proved that Sunil (chachia sasur) also accompanied them and apprehended the accused, beaten him, took him to the police station and lodged FIR which also gets corroboration from the medical report of the accused-appellant. From the perusal of his injury report, it is apparent that the accused-appellant sustained three contusions but it is unfortunate that the said medical report is not proved by the prosecution.

20. Section 53 of Cr.P.C. provides for examination of accused by medical practitioner at the request of police officer which is as follows:-

"53. Examination of accused by medical practitioner at the request of police officer. --(1) When a person is arrested on a charge of committing an offence of such a nature and alleged to have been committed under such circumstances that there are reasonable grounds for believing that an examination of his person will afford evidence as to the commission of an offence, it shall be lawful for a registered medical practitioner, acting at the request of the police officer not below the rank of Sub-Inspector, and for any person acting in good faith in his aid and under his direction, to make such an examination of the person arrested as is reasonably necessary in order to ascertain the facts which may afford such evidence, and to use such force as reasonably necessary for that purpose.

(2) Whenever the person of a female is to be examined under this section, the examination shall be made only by, or under the supervision of, a female registered medical practitioner.

Explanation-In this Section and in Sections 53-A and 54,-

(a)" examination" shall include the examination of blood, blood stains, semen, swabs in case of sexual offences, sputum and sweat, hair samples and fingernail clippings by the use of modern and scientific techniques including DNA profiling and such other tests which the registered medical practitioner thinks necessary in a particular case;

(b) "registered medical practitioner" means a medical practitioner who possesses any medical qualification as defined in clause (h) of Section 2 of the Indian Medical Council Act, 1956 (102 of 1956) and whose name has been entered in a State Medical Register."

21. From the perusal of the record it is proved that Investigating Officer got the accused medically examined but it is a sorry state of affair that in the court, the medical examination report of accused-appellant was not proved.

22. Hon'ble Apex Court in State of Andhra Pradesh v. Thummala Anjaneyulu (2010) 14 S.C.C. 621 held that where First Information Report was lodged promptly with independent eyewitness included in the First Information Report and the spontaneity of the FIR also supports eyewitness account, the prosecution case is liable to be relied on. Hon'ble Apex Court in Jai Prakash Singh v. State of Bihar (2012) 4 S.C.C. 379 in para '12' has observed as follows:-

"12.The FIR in a criminal case is a vital and valuable piece of evidence though may not be substantive piece of evidence. The object of insisting upon prompt lodging of the FIR in respect of the commission of an offence is to obtain early information regarding the circumstances in which the crime was committed, the names of the actual culprits and the part played by them as well as the names of the eyewitnesses present at the scene of occurrence. If there is a delay in launching the FIR, it loses the advantage of spontaneity, danger creeps in of the introduction of coloured version, exaggerated account or concocted story as a result of large number of consultations/deliberations. Undoubtedly, the promptness in lodging the FIR is an assurance regarding truth of the informant's version. A promptly lodged FIR reflects the first hand account of what has actually happened, and who was responsible for the offence in question. {(Vide Thulia Kali v. State of Tamil Nadu, (1972) 3 SCC 393, State of Punjab v. Surja Ram (1995) Supp (3) SCC 419, Girish Yadav v. State of M.P. (1996) 8 SCC 186, and Takdir Samsuddin Sheikh v. State of Gujarat (2011) 10 SCC 158.) }

23. On going through the depositions of Rakesh Kumar (PW-1) and Satyavati (PW-2), it appears that nothing came in their cross-examination which suggest that there was any enmity which prompts them to falsely implicate the accused-appellant. It is stated by the accused-appellant in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that Bua of Rakesh had gone with Kalu (Bhanja of the accused-appellant). The witness Rakesh Kumar (PW-1) had admitted that Reshamiya was sister of accused and Omkar @ Kalu was her son. He had denied the contention that Omkar had enticed away the daughter of Chirmauli Das. He denied the contention that accused-appellant was falsely implicated due to enmity.

24. At this juncture, I find it necessary to discuss the law regarding proof of the criminal case. Section 3 of the Indian Evidence Act-1872 defines 'Proved', 'Disproved' and 'Not Proved' as under:-

"Proved". -A fact is said to be proved when, after considering the matters before it, the Court either believes it to exist, or considers its existence so probable that a prudent man ought, under the circumstances of particular case, to act upon the supposition that it exists.

"Disproved". -A fact is said to be disproved when, after considering the matters before it, the Court either believes that it does not exist, or considers its non-existence so probable that a prudent man ought, under the circumstances of the particular case, to act upon the supposition that it does not exist.

"Not Proved". -A fact is said not to be proved when it is neither proved nor disproved.

25. The required standard of proof in criminal case is beyond reasonable doubt and in civil cases, it is preponderance of probabilities. This distinction is basically made through judicial pronouncement in Woolmington v. Director of Public Prosecutor (1935 UKHL1), Rex v. Abramovitch (1914) 11 Cr. App. R 45).

26. The case relates to the menace of sexual crime against children, therefore, motive plays no role in such crime. Oral testimony of a witness can be appreciated by considering his cross-examination, if he remains uncontroverted in the cross-examination, by weighing his testimony with the testimonies of the other witnesses, whether his testimony gets corroboration from the reliable testimonies of other witness and by analysing and evaluating whether his testimony is contradictory or corroborated by the documentary evidence, adduced in the case, then his testimony is reliable.

27. In light of aforesaid, it is necessary to examine the effect of presumption arising under Section 29 POCSO Act.

Section 29 of the POCSO Act reads as follows:

"Section 29-Presumption as to certain offences -Where a person is prosecuted for committing or abetting or attempting to commit any offence under sections 3, 5, 7 and section 9 of the this Act, the Special Court shall presume, that such person has committed or abetted or attempted to commit the offence, as the case may be, unless the contrary is proved."

28. Perusal of the above provision does indicate that it is for the accused to prove the contrary that he has not committed or abetted the commission of an offence under sections 3, 5, 7, and section 9 of the POCSO Act and, in case, he fails to do so, presumption would operate against him leading to his conviction under the provision of the Act. It cannot be disputed that no presumption is absolute and every presumption is rebuttable. It cannot be said that the presumption under Section 29 of the POCSO Act is absolute. It will come into operation only when prosecution is first able to establish the fact and that would form the foundation of the presumption under Section 29 of the POCSO Act to operate. Otherwise, entire burden would be on the accused to prove the contrary. Such position of law or interpretation of presumption under section 29 of the POCSO Act cannot be accepted as it would clearly violate the constitutional mandate and no person can be deprived of liberty, except in accordance with the procedure established by law.

29. The manner in which such presumption would operate against the accused has been analysed and deliberated upon by the courts, because such a presumption is also provided for in various statutes such as Prevention of Corruption Act- 1988. In the case of Babu versus State of Kerala, (2010) 9 SCC 189 held in para 27 and para 28 as follows:-

(IV) Burden of Proof and Doctrine of Innocence.

"27. Every accused is presumed to be innocent unless the guilt is proved. The presumption of innocence is a human right. However, subject to the statutory exceptions, the said principle forms the basis of the criminal jurisprudence. For this purpose, the nature of the offence, its seriousness and gravity thereof has to be taken into consideration. The courts must be on guard to see that merely an the application of the presumption, the same may not lead to any injustice or mistaken conviction. Statutes like the Negotiable Instrument Act, 1881; The Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, and the Terrorist and Disruptive Activities (Prevention) Act, 1987, provide for presumption of guilt if the circumstances provided in those statutes are found to be fulfilled and shift the burden of proof of innocence on the accused. However such a presumption can also be raised only when certain foundational facts are established by the prosecution. There may be difficulty in proving a negative fact.

28. However, in cases where the statute does not provide for the burden of proof on the accused, it always lies on the prosecution. It is only in exceptional circumstances, such as of those is statutes as referred to hereinabove, that the burden of proof is on the accused. The statutory provision even for a presumption of guilt of the accused under a particular statute must meet the tests of reasonableness and liberty enshrined in Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution. "

30. Keeping the aforesaid position of law in mind, evidence of the prosecution witnesses in the present case will have to be examined to find out whether the prosecution has established a presumption under Section 29 of the POCSO Act.

31. In this case, the informant and the father of the victim-Rakesh Kumar (PW-1) had stated in his examination-in-chief that on 21.3.2014 at about 12 'o' clock in the day, he alongwith his wife Smt. Satyavati (PW-2) went to the Aligarh market to purchase some household articles leaving the victim at home alongwith his two other sons and when they returned back from the market at about 05:30 PM, they did not found the victim at home. On search being made by them, they found the victim in the house of accused-appellant. They apprehended the accused-appellant and saw that the accused-appellant was committing the act of sodomy with the victim by disrobing him. They raised alarm and other villagers also got collected there. The accused-appellant was beaten by the public and was taken to the police station where FIR was lodged against him. The written complaint was ascribed as (Ex. Ka-1). In the cross-examination, he disclosed the names of his sons including the victim. He also disclosed the distance of the market from his village and stated that he lives with his wife and three children. He is mason by profession and he usually leaves home at 08:30 AM in the morning for work and returns back at 06:00 PM. He corroborates that on the day of occurrence he alongwith his wife went to the market and mother of the accused-appellant (Durgadevi) was present in the house of the accused at the time of occurrence. He further stated that when he alongwith his wife returned back, they enquired about the victim and they were told that the victim might be playing outside. They gave him call at the high-pitch but nobody responded. They heard the sound of weeping of his son from the house of accused-appellant. At that time the accused-appellant was wearing jeans pant, t-shirt and the accused-appellant is handicapped and he creeps on knee. He further stated that the victim was wearing t-shirt and underwear. When they reached there, they apprehended the accused-appellant. The accused was committing the act of sodomy with the victim and mother of the accused-appellant did not came out of her room. He had clearly stated that he did not had any enmity with the accused-appellant and had stated that the accused had fallen on the ground from the side of his buttock and, as a consequence thereof, he had sustained injuries. He further clarified that signatures on the affidavit (Ex.Kha/2) denying the incident were obtained fraudulently.

32. From the above evidence on record, it transpires that there is no contradiction in the deposition of Rakesh Kumar (PW-1) and on reading the whole statement it is clear that signature on the affidavit was obtained by fraud. They being illiterate people could hardly read the contents of affidavit.

33. Insofar as the argument of learned counsel for the appellant regarding his statement that he alongwith his wife went to the house of accused-appellant is concerned, the PW-1 in his cross-examination had clarified that first of all his wife (PW-2) went to the place of occurrence and when she raised alarm, he alongwith Sunil and other persons reached there and apprehended the accused-appellant. The statement of Rakesh Kumar (PW-1) is, thus, reliable.

34. So far as the statements of Satyavati (PW-2) is concerned, she had supported the prosecution version and stated that on 21.3.2014 at 12 'o' clock in the day, she alongwith her husband went to the Aligarh market for purchasing certain household articles. They left their children at home. When they returned from the market at about 05:00 pm, they saw the victim missing. They started search for the victim and found the victim at the house of the accused-appellant who was doing wrong act with the victim. She further deposed that police had got her son medically examined and in the cross-examination she had stated that the house of the accused-appellant is in front of their house. She had also stated that while she was going to the market she asked one Munni Devi to look after her children. She stated that her mother-in-law was living separately with them and when they proceeded for their house, her mother-in-law also came to the house. She further deposed that she found blood in the underwear of the victim and she handed over it to the police. She also corroborated that signature in the affidavit denying incident was obtained through deceitful means by playing fraud.

35. From the perusal of medical report (Ex.Ka-5) and the supplementary medical report (Ex. Ka-4) prepared by Dr. M.K. Mathur (PW-4), it is proved that the victim sustained injuries as 'abraded mucosa of anal sphincter and abrasion was present in the anterior part of anal orifice and two slides were taken for histopathological examination' where no spermatozoa was found in the anal smear.

36. The above evidence shows that the statements of PW-1 and PW-2 gets corroboration from the medical report.

37. It is pertinent to note here that the accused-appellant was also medically examined wherein 'alcoholic smell was found present in his breath' and he also sustained the injuries which are already mentioned above in the body of judgment. It is a matter of strange and sheer lapse on the part of the official concerned that the injuries of the accused-appellant have not been proved.

38. The statement of Satyavati (PW-2) is natural, without material contradiction and inspires confidence. Her statement gets corroboration from the statement of Rakesh Kumar (PW-1) and medical reports. S.I. Dori Lal Yadav (PW-3) proved the charge-sheet (Ex.Ka-2), site plan (Ex. Ka-3) and also the steps taken in the investigation whereas Constable Manish Kumar (PW-5) has proved the chik report (Ex. Ka-6) and G.D. (Ex. Ka-7) which are formal in nature.

39. It is also pertinent to note here that the accused-appellant had tried to manipulate and temper with the evidence as the signatures of PW-1 and PW-2 were fraudulently obtained in the affidavit denying the incident.

40. From the evidence available on record, it is proved beyond reasonable doubt that the accused-appellant Satta @ Satya Prakash had committed grave offence punishable under Section 377 IPC and Section 5/6 POCSO Act and the learned lower court had rightly convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant as mentioned above.

41. In above circumstance, I do not find any merit in the appeal.

42. The judgement and order dated 30.03.2018 passed by the court of Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.08, Aligarh is hereby affirmed.

43. The appeal is dismissed, accordingly.

44. Let the Lower Court Record be returned to the court concerned forthwith.

CRIMINAL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE MOHD. ASLAM, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 3169 of 2020

Amrita Nand @ Tribhuvan Arjariya @ Baba ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Appellant:

Sri Ram Krishna Chaurasia, Sri Brijesh Sahai (Sr. Adv.), Counsel for the Opposite Parties:

G.A.

A. Criminal Law - Criminal Procedure Code, 1973-Section 374(2)-Indian Penal Code, 1860-Sections 376 & 511-Protection of children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act, 2012-Sections 7, 9(m) & 10-challenged to – conviction- The appellant aged 60 lured a four year old girl-the trial court convicted the accused under section 10 of the POCSO Act-The delay in filing the FIR was satisfactorily explained as the father of the victim was away at the time of incident-the child testimony was held reliable, the absence of competency certificate did not render her testimony inadmissible if it demonstrates rationality and understanding-Thus, the conviction upheld.(Para 1 to 50)

B. A child witness if found competent to depose to the facts and reliable one such evidence could be the basis of conviction. In other words even in the absence of oath the evidence of a child witness can be considered under Section 118 of the Evidence Act provided that such witness is able to understand the questions and able to give rational answers thereof. The evidence of a child witness and credibility thereof would depend upon the circumstances of each case. The only precaution which the court should bear in mind while assessing the evidence of a child witness is that the witness must be a reliable one and his/her demeanour must be like any other competent witness and there is no likelihood of being tutored. (Para 30)

4. Dattu Ramrao Sakhare Vs St. of Mah. (1997) 5 SCC 341

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mohd. Aslam, J.)

1. Heard Sri Brijesh Sahai, Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Ram Krishna Chaurasia, learned counsel for the accused-appellant, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. The instant appeal has been moved by accused-appellant under Section 374(2) of Cr.P.C. against the impugned judgment of conviction and order of sentence dated 21.10.2020 passed by Additional Sessions Judge-IV/Special Judge (POCSO Act), Banda in Special Case No.68 of 2015 (State Vs. Amrita Nand @ Tribhuvan Arjariya), arising out of Crime No.617 of 2015, under Sections 376, 511 I.P.C. & Sections 8, 10 of POCSO Act, P.S. Kotwali Nagar, Banda, by which the accused-appellant has been convicted under Section 10 of POCSO Act and was sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for 7 years with a fine of Rs.10,000/- under Section 10 of POCSO Act, in default thereof, to further undergo simple imprisonment for two months.

3. The brief facts necessary for disposal of this appeal is that informant Avadhesh Kumar Soni son of Raja Ram Soni resident of Chhoti Bazar, Thatharahi, Police Station Kotwali Nagar, District Banda has lodged a first information report on 23.8.2015 at 20:50 p.m. at Police Station Kotwali Nagar on the basis of written complaint with the allegation that on 22.8.2015 at 05:00 p.m., his daughter victim X aged about 4 years was playing in front of the house. The accused Amrita Nand @ Tribhuvan Arjariya aged about 60 years, who is his neighbourer called Baba by the people of the locality, called his daughter victim X and gave her toffee and took her inside his house and tried to commit bad act with her. On being called by the mother of the victim X in high pitch, she was driven out by the accused from his house and the victim X after coming to her mother narrated the entire incident to her mother. After that Smt. Khusbu wife of the informant visited the accused and asked him that what you have done uncle with her daughter, thereafter, he locked his house and went somewhere else and did not return back to his house. The informant requested that his first information report be lodged and necessary action be taken against the accused.

4. Head Constable Moharrir Ram Prasad Pal has scribed the check of Crime No.617 of 2015 against the accused Amrita Nand @ Tribhuvan Arjariya for offence punishable under Section 376, 511 I.P.C. and Section 4 of POCSO Act. The investigation was given to S.I. Ram Babu Yadav. He went to Lucknow on account of Government work, therefore, the investigation was conducted by S.S.I. Pankaj Kumar Pandey on behalf of S.I. Ram Babu Yadav and the case was registered on 23.8.2015. He copied the check report and GD entry no.64 at 20:50 p.m. in CD on 23.8.2015 and has recorded the statement of check scribe and GD writer Head Constable Moharrir Ram Prasad Pal and also recorded the statement of Ct. Shashank/Computer Operator, who scribed the check at the direction of Head Constable Moharrir Ram Prasad Pal. The statement of victim X was recorded by S.O.

Reeta Singh under the videography. On the same day, he recorded the statement of informant Avadhesh Kumar Soni and has taken the Chaddhi (underwear) of cream colour in police custody and prepared memo of the same in presence of the witnesses Rajan Sen and Kalpana Singh. He also copied the memo of taking Chaddhi in police possession in CD on the same day.

5. The victim X was medically examined by Dr. Usha Singh (PW-5) at District Women Hospital, Banda on 23.8.2015, where she has stated to the doctor that on 22.8.2015 at 05:00 p.m. the accused by giving allurement of toffee took her inside his house and tried to commit bad deed with her. No mark of any injury was found on the body of the victim X and her clothes were sealed and sent to the police station. Dr. Usha Singh (PW-5) has prepared medical report at the time of medical examination. On 25.8.2015, the medical report of the victim X was copied and on return of S.I. Ram Babu Yadav from Lucknow the investigation was resumed on 27.8.2015. He recorded the statement of Smt. Khusbu mother of the victim X and inspected the place of occurrence and prepared site plan Ex.Ka-5 on 27.8.2015 and recorded the statement of witnesses Ajay Kumar Gupta and Atul Soni on 12.9.2015. He visited the house of accused where he found the lock on the door of his house and came to know that after the day of occurrence he is absconding. He received information from the informer that accused is standing at the shop of Bapu Misthan Bhandar station road having white beard wearing red colour clothes. On receiving the information of the informer, he along with S.I. Rakesh Kumar Saroj, Ct. Shiv Kumar Yadav and informant visited the place at Station Road Tiraha where Bapu written illegible in CD and on seeing the police party, accused tried to run here and there and was apprehended by the police at 07:30 p.m. and on inquiry he told his name as Amrita Nand @ Tribhuvan Arjariya son of Laxmi Narayan Arjariya resident of Mohalla Thathrahi, Chhoti Bazar, Police Station Kotwali Nagar, District Banda and after informing him the ground of arrest, the police party arrested him. The Investigating Officer has recorded the statement of the accused, wherein he has denied the occurrence and stated that he will produce the defence through counsel in the court. Later on victim X was produced before the court by L/Ct. Sandhya Sahu for recording her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. The statement of the victim X under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was recorded by Additional Civil Judge (Junior Division)/Judicial Magistrate, Banda on 7.10.2015, who has also attested the photographs of the victim X on the statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. In statements under Sections 161 & 164 Cr.P.C., the victim X has supported the prosecution case. After arrest of the accused, he was medically examined by EMO, District Hospital, Banda on 1.10.2015 where no visible injury was found on his body. After completing the investigation, S.I. Ram Babu has submitted charge-sheet under Sections 376, 511 I.P.C. and Section 4 of POCSO Act against the accused.

6. The cognizance was taken by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court, Banda on 21.12.2015 and the copy of the police papers were given to the accused. After hearing the learned counsel for the accused, charges under Sections 376, 511 I.P.C. and Section 8 of the POCSO Act were framed against the accused by learned Additional Sessions

Judge, Fast Track Court, Banda on 18.2.2016 to which accused has not pleaded guilty and claimed to be tried. Later on the charge was amended by learned Special Judge/Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.4, Banda on 1.9.2016 and the charge under Section 10 of the POCSO Act was framed against the accused to which he has also not pleaded guilty and claimed to be tried.

7. In order to prove its case, prosecution has examined informant Avadhesh Kumar Soni as PW-1 (father of the victim X), who has also proved the tahriri report Ex.Ka-1, Smt. Khusbu (mother of the victim X) as PW-2, victim X as PW-3, witness Ajay Kumar as PW-4, who has turned hostile in cross examination, as witnesses of the fact. Prosecution has also examined Dr. Usha Singh as PW-5 to prove medical report and Ct. Anup Kumar Sachan to prove the charge-sheet Ex.Ka-4 and site plan Ex.Ka-5 in secondary evidence and has closed its evidence.

8. The statement of the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded to which he has denied the prosecution case and has stated that the victim X was deposing falsely against him under the influence of her mother. He has also stated that the case was wrongly investigated and the wrong charge-sheet was submitted against him. He has further stated that no occurrence has taken place and due to enmity he has been falsely implicated.

9. Learned lower court after hearing the argument of learned counsel for the accused-appellant and learned Additional Public Prosecutor has held that delay in lodging the first information report has been explained by prosecution from the depositions of Avadhesh Kumar Soni (PW-1) and Smt. Khusbu (PW-2). It has further held that the victim X is a child witness and she was found to be competent witness and her statement has not been shaken in cross examination. Her statement was found to be truthful and inspires confidence and also held that in sexual offences the accused can be convicted on the basis of statement of the victim. It has also held that the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt and has presumed that accused has committed the offence and has convicted and sentenced him to undergo rigorous imprisonment for 7 years with a fine of Rs.10,000/-, in default thereof, to further undergo imprisonment for two months by impugned judgment.

10. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant has contended that the witnesses Avadhesh Kumar Soni and Smt. Khusbu are not eye witnesses and the witness Ajay Kumar (PW-4) also not eye witness, who in his cross examination has stated that he has not given any statement to the Investigating Officer and has further stated that he could not remember whether on the day of occurrence he was at his house or not and has admitted that he has not seen the occurrence. He has further stated that he has no knowledge whether Smt. Khusbu told her husband regarding the occurrence. He has further stated that he could not tell how his name has been mentioned in the charge-sheet as eye witness. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant has further contended that no injury was found on the body or on the private part of the victim X as per the statement of Dr. Usha Singh (PW-5). He has further contended that statement of the witness victim X was not recorded in compliance of legal provisions. He has further contended that the lower court has not given any certificate regarding competency of the witness victim

X, who is a child witness, therefore, her statement cannot be relied on and in support of his contention he placed reliance on the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in "P. Ramesh Vs. State represented by Inspector of Police (2019) 20 SCC 598" and has referred paras 13, 14 & 16 of the aforesaid ruling. He has further contended that the victim X has admitted in her cross examination that she was tutored by her parents and counsel to give statement whatever they told her, therefore, she is tutored witness and no reliance can be placed on her testimony. He has further contended that the first information report was lodged after delay of more than 26 hours of the occurrence. He has further contended that the occurrence has taken place on 22.8.2015 at 17:00 p.m. and the first information report was lodged on the next day i.e. on 23.8.2015 at about 20:50 p.m. i.e. after a gap of 26 hours and the delay in lodging the report has not been explained by prosecution. He has further contended that the ground put forward by the prosecution for delay that on the day of occurrence the informant went to Kanpur and returned on the next day is after thought. Alternatively he has further contended that as per statement of victim X recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. she has stated that accused called her and told her to put off her clothes and thereafter the accused has also put off his clothes and told her to show her private parts and then he went to take rope, meanwhile she fled away from there. Learned counsel for the accused has further contended that the entire statement shows that he has not touched the private part of the victim X and it cannot be said that he has committed sexual assault on child below 12 years of age and this act will not come within the purview of Section 9(m) of the POCSO Act, maximum this act goes up to the offence of sexual harassment, which is punishable under Section 12 of the Act with imprisonment of either description which may extend up to three years and fine also.

11. Learned A.G.A. has supported the prosecution case and has contended that from the evidence of informant Avadhesh Kumar Soni (PW-1), it is proved that he was doing the work of goldsmith and went to Kanpur for taking raw material of gold and silver to which he after preparing the ornaments returns the same to the jewellers. He has further contended that the informant Avadhesh Kumar Soni (PW-1) has stated that on 22.8.2015 he went to Kanpur for taking raw material of gold in the evening and returned on the same day at 09:30 p.m. and proceeded to the police station for lodging the first information report along with his wife Smt. Khusbu (PW-2) and daughter victim X. He has further contended that the informant has given a written complaint to the police and thereafter returned from there and his statement has been recorded by the police on 23.8.2015. He has further contended that there is no substance in the arguments of the learned counsel for the accused-appellant that the informant was unemployed while he was doing the job of goldsmith and preparing the ornaments, therefore, his going to Kanpur for taking raw material for preparing ornaments is natural and, therefore, the delay has been explained by prosecution satisfactorily. He has further contended that in this case the informant Avadhesh Kumar Soni (PW-1), Smt. Khusbu (PW-2) and witness Ajay Kumar (PW-4) are not eye witnesses, the only eye witness is victim X, who has given detailed description at the time of recording of her statement by S.O. Reeta Singh and the victim X was produced before the court of Magistrate for recording her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C., where she has narrated the entire story and has also given the details of the occurrence in her statement as PW-3. He has further contended that the accused has only touched her private part and got touched his private part from her and thereafter went to take rope, meanwhile, the victim X escaped herself from there, therefore, non finding of any injury at the time of medical examination is of no consequence. He has further contended that the age of the victim X was shown in the first information report as four years. He has further contended that the victim X has stated to Dr. Usha Singh at the time of medical examination that on 22.8.2015 at 05:00 p.m. accused called her by alluring to give her toffee and tried to commit bad deed with her and she has also supported the prosecution case in her statement given under Section 164 Cr.P.C. which is Ex.Ka-2. He has further contended that in above circumstances, it is proved beyond reasonable doubt that the sexual assault was committed by the accused-appellant to a child of about four years, which according to Section 9(m) of POCSO Act comes within the definition of aggravated sexual assault.

12. I have gone through the file. Before appreciating the evidence on record, I find it necessary to reproduce Section 7 of the POCSO Act, which defines sexual assault, Section 7 of POCSO Act reads as follows:-

"7. Sexual Assault.- Whoever, with sexual intent touches the vagina, penis, anus or breast of the child or makes the child touch the vagina, penis, anus or breast of such person or any other person, or does any other act with sexual intent which involves physical contact without penetration is said to commit sexual assault."

13. Aggravated sexual assault is defined in Section 9 of POCSO Act. The relevant portion of Section 9 of POCSO Act is reproduced below:-

"9. Aggravated Sexual Assault.- (a) Whoever, being a police officer commits sexual assault on a child-

.....(m) whoever commits sexual assault on a child below twelve years of age, meaning thereby if any sexual assault is defined in Section 6 of the POCSO Act, whoever commits sexual assault from the point of reading of the Section 7 of the POCSO Act and Section 9(m) of the POCSO Act, it is abundantly clear that whoever commits sexual assault on a child below twelve years is said to have committed sexual assault for which punishment is provided under Section 10 of the POCSO Act."

14. Section 10 of the POCSO Act reads as follows:-

"10. The punishment for the aggravated sexual assault.- Whoever, commits aggravated sexual assault shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which shall not be less than five years but which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine."

15. Here it is also pertinent to mention that special provision has been made for recording of statement of a child. Section 25 of the POCSO Act provides for recording of statement of a child by Magistrate which reads as follows:-

"25. Recording of statement of a child by Magistrate.- (1) If the statement of the child is being recorded under section

164 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), (hereinafter referred to as the Code), the Magistrate recording such statement shall, notwithstanding anything contained therein, record the statement as spoken by the child:

Provided that the provisions contained in the first proviso to sub-section (1) of section 164 of the Code shall, so far it permits the presence of the advocate of the accused shall not apply in this case.

(2) The Magistrate shall provide to the child and his parents or his representative, a copy of the document specified under section 207 of the Code, upon the final report being filed by the police under section 173 of that Code."

16. Section 26 of POCSO Act also provides additional provision regarding recording of the statement of a child witness, which are as follows:-

"(1) The Magistrate or the police officer, as the case may be, shall record the statement as spoken by the child in the presence of the parents of the child or any other person in whom the child has trust or confidence.

(2) Wherever necessary, the Magistrate or the police officer, as the case may be, may take the assistance of a translator or an interpreter, having such qualifications, experience and on payment of such fees as may be prescribed, while recording the

(3) The Magistrate or the police officer, as the case may be, may, in the case of a child having a mental or physical disability, seek the assistance of a special educator or any person familiar with the manner of communication of the child or an expert in that field, having such qualifications, experience and on payment of such fees as may be prescribed, to record the statement of the child.

(4) Wherever possible, he Magistrate or the police officer, as the case may be, shall ensure that the statement of the child is also recorded by audio-video electronic means."

17. Section 36 of the POCSO Act provides that child not to see accused at the time of testifying, which are as follow:-

"(1) The Special Court shall ensure that the child is not exposed in any way to the accused at the time of recording of the evidence, while at the same time ensuring that the accused is in a position to hear the statement of the child and communicate with his advocate.

(2) For the purposes of sub-section (1), the Special Court may record the statement of a child through video conferencing or by utilising single visibility mirrors or curtains or any other device."

From above provision, it is clear that some departure by law has been made regarding the child witness in POCSO Act and even her statement shall be recorded in presence of her parents or any other person in whom the child has trust or confidence. As per section 26 additional safeguard has been given.

18. Section 33(2) & (3) provides special protection to the child which speaks as follows:-

"(2). The Special Public Prosecutor, or as the case may be, the counsel appearing for the accused shall, while recording the examination-in-chief, cross examination or re-examination of the child, communicate the questions to be put to the child to the Special Court which shall in turn put those questions to the child.

(3) The Special Court may, if it considers necessary, permit frequent breaks for the child during the trial."

From the above provision, it is clear that some departure has been made in law regarding recording of the evidence of a child witness so he or she can give fair and formal evidence before the court.

19. The procedure for recording of the deposition under 164 Cr.P.C. is provided in the POCSO Act, therefore, that procedure will mutatis mutandis apply at the time of the recording of the evidence of the child witness at the time of trial also.

20. At this juncture, I find it necessary to discuss the law regarding proof of the criminal case. Section 3 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 defines "Proved", 'Disproved' and 'Not Proved' as under:-

"Proved". -A fact is said to be proved when, after considering the matters before it, the Court either believes it to exist, or considers its existence so probable that a prudent man ought, under the circumstances of particular case, to act upon the supposition that it exists."

"Disproved". -A fact is said to be disproved when, after considering the matters before it, the Court either believes that it does not exist, or considers its non-existence so probable that a prudent man ought, under the circumstances of the particular case, to act upon the supposition that it does not exist."

"Not Proved".-A fact is said not to be proved when it is neither proved nor disproved."

21. The required standard of proof in criminal case is beyond reasonable doubt and in civil cases, it is preponderance of probabilities. This distinction is basically made through judicial pronouncement in "Woolmington Vs. Director of Public Prosecutor (1935 UKHL1), Rex Vs. Abramovitch (1914 11 Cr. App. R 45)".

22. The case relates to the menace of sexual crime against children, therefore, motive plays no role in such crime. Oral testimony of a witness can be appreciated by considering his cross-examination, if he remains uncontroverted in the cross-examination, by weighing his testimony with the testimonies of the other witnesses, whether his testimony gets corroboration from the reliable testimonies of other witnesses and by analysing and evaluating whether his testimony is contradictory or corroborated by the documentary evidence, adduced in the case, then his testimony is reliable.

23. In light of aforesaid, it is necessary to examine the effect of presumption arising under Section 29 POCSO Act. Section 29 of the POCSO Act reads as follows:-

"Section 29-Presumption as to certain offences -Where a person is prosecuted for committing or abetting or attempting to commit any offence under sections 3, 5, 7 and section 9 of the this Act, the Special Court shall presume, that such person has committed or abetted or attempted to commit the offence, as the case may be, unless the contrary is proved."

24. Perusal of the above provision does indicate that it is for the accused to prove the contrary that he has not committed or abetted the commission of an offence under sections 3, 5, 7, and section 9 of the POCSO Act and, in case, he fails to do so, presumption would operate against him leading to his conviction under the provision of the Act. It cannot be disputed that no presumption is absolute and every presumption is rebuttable. It cannot be said that the presumption under Section 29 of the POCSO Act is absolute. It would come into operation only when prosecution is first able to establish the fact and that would form the foundation of the presumption under Section 29 of the POCSO Act to operate. Otherwise, entire burden would be on the accused to prove the contrary. Such position of law or interpretation of presumption under section 29 of the POCSO Act cannot be accepted as it would clearly violate the constitutional mandate and no person can be deprived of liberty, except in accordance with the procedure established by law.

25. The manner in which such presumption would operate against the accused has been analysed and deliberated upon by the courts, because such a presumption is also provided for in various statutes such as Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988. In the case of "Babu Vs. State of Kerala, (2010) 9 SCC 189" held in para 27 and para 28 as follows:-

(IV) Burden of Proof and Doctrine of Innocence.

"27. Every accused is presumed to be innocent unless the guilt is proved.

The presumption of innocence is a human right. However, subject to the statutory exceptions, the said principle forms the basis of the criminal jurisprudence. For this purpose, the nature of the offence, its seriousness and gravity thereof has to be taken into consideration. The courts must be on guard to see that merely an the application of the presumption, the same may not lead to any injustice or mistaken conviction. Statutes like the Negotiable Instrument Act, 1881; The Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, and the Terrorist and Disruptive Activities (Prevention) Act, 1987, provide for presumption of guilt if the circumstances provided in those statutes are found to be fulfilled and shift the burden of proof of innocence on the accused. However such a presumption can also be raised only when certain foundational facts are established by the prosecution. There may be difficulty in proving a negative fact.

28. However, in cases where the statute does not provide for the burden of proof on the accused, it always lies on the prosecution. It is only in exceptional circumstances, such as of those is statutes as referred to hereinabove, that the burden of proof is on the accused. The statutory provision even for a presumption of guilt of the accused under a particular statute must meet the tests of reasonableness and liberty enshrined in Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution."

26. Keeping in the aforesaid position of law in mind, evidence of the prosecution witnesses in the present case will have to be examined to find out whether the prosecution has established a presumption under Section 29 of the POCSO Act.

27. Section 118 of the Evidence Act provides as follows:-

"118. Who may testify.- All persons shall be competent to testify unless the Court considers that they are prevented from understanding the questions put to them, or from giving rational answers to those questions, by tender years, extreme old age, disease, whether of body or mind, or any other cause of the same kind.

Explanation.- A lunatic is not incompetent to testify, unless he is prevented by his lunacy from understanding the questions put to him and giving rational answers to them."

28. The principle and scope is enshrined in Section 118 of the Evidence Act regarding who may testify under this section, all persons are competent to testify unless there any information of the court.

(a) unable to question put to them or (b) to give rational answer to those questions owing- i) tender age, ii) extreme old age, iii) disease of mind or body or, iv) any other such cause even lunatic, if he is capable of understanding the question put to him and giving rational answer is the competent witness.

29. So far the submission of Sri Brijesh Sahai, learned Senior Counsel is concerned that no certificate was appended after ascertaining her competency regarding competence of the victim X as competent witness, therefore, her evidence cannot be read and he has placed reliance on the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in "P. Ramesh Vs. State represented by Inspector of Police." The fact in that case was that PW-3 & PW-4 were the child witnesses in that case and it was observed that they were unable to understand before whom they were standing and even they did not know the judge or lawyer and the statement was not recorded and it was held that they were not competent witnesses, which was challenged before the High Court. Learned lower court came to the conclusion that there was sufficient evidence on record to sustain the charge under Section 302 I.P.C. as well as Section 498 I.P.C. and that the prosecution has brought home guilty of the accused beyond reasonable doubt. Aggrieved by the said judgment of conviction, the accused preferred an appeal before the High Court. The High Court has set aside the judgment of the trial court and remanded the case to the trial court with direction to examine the child witnesses PW-3 and PW-4 after objectively ascertaining their capacity to depose. Thereafter, the same was challenged before the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the Hon'ble Supreme Court had rejected it.

30. So far observation of para 13 of the aforesaid judgment is concerned, it is mentioned in para 13 that if the court is satisfied that the child witness below the age of twelve years is a competent witness, such a witness can be examined without oath or affirmation and the rule was stated in "Dattu Ramrao Sakhare Vs. State of Maharashtra (1997) 5 SCC 341", wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in relation to child witnesses, held as under:- (SCC p. 343, para 5)

"5....A child witness if found competent to depose to the facts and reliable one such evidence could be the basis of conviction. In other words even in the absence of oath the evidence of a child witness can be considered under Section 118 of the Evidence Act provided that such witness is able to understand the questions and able to give rational answers thereof. The evidence of a child witness and credibility thereof would depend upon the circumstances of each case. The only precaution which the court should bear in mind while assessing the evidence of a child witness is that the witness must be a reliable one and his/her demeanour must be like any other competent witness and there is no likelihood of being tutored."

31. He has also contended that it is mandatory for the court to record the certificate regarding competency of the witness and has relied on para 14 & 16 of the aforesaid judgment, which are as follows:-

"14. A child has to be a competent witness first, only then is her/his statement admissible. The rule was laid down in a decision of the US Supreme Court in Wheeler v United States 7, wherein it was held thus:

"... While no one would think of calling as a witness an infant only two or three years old, there is no precise age which determines the question of competency. This depends on the capacity and intelligence of the child, his appreciation of the difference between truth and falsehood, as well as of his duty to tell the former. The decision of this question rests primarily with the trial judge, who sees the proposed witness, notices his manner, his apparent possession or lack of intelligence, and may resort to any examination which will tend to disclose his capacity and intelligence as well as his understanding of the obligations of an oath. As many of these matters cannot be photographed into the record the decision of the trial judge will not be disturbed on review unless from that which is preserved it is clear that it was erroneous..."

"16. In order to determine the competency of a child witness, the judge has to form her or his opinion. The judge is at the liberty to test the capacity of a child witness and no precise rule can be laid down regarding the degree of intelligence and knowledge which will render the child a competent witness. The competency of a child witness can be ascertained by questioning her/him to find out the capability to understand the occurrence witnessed and to speak the truth before the court. In criminal proceedings, a person of any age is competent to give evidence if she/he is able to (i) understand questions put as a witness; and (ii) give such answers to the questions that can be understood. A child of tender age can be allowed to testify if she/he has the intellectual capacity to understand questions and give rational answers thereto. 9 A child becomes incompetent only in case the court considers that the child was unable to understand the 8 (2004) 1 SCC 64. Subsequently, relied upon in Nivrutti Pandurang Kokate v State of Maharashtra (2008) 12 SCC 565 Dalsukhbhai Nayak v State of Gujarat (2004) 1 SCC 64 questions and answer them in a coherent and comprehensible manner. 10 If the child understands the questions put to her/him and gives rational answers to those questions, it can be taken that she/he is a competent witness to be examined."

32. From para 16 of the judgment it is clear that judge is at liberty to test the capacity of a child witness and no precise rule can be laid down regarding the degree of intelligence and knowledge which will render the child a competent witness and the competency of a child witness can be ascertained by questioning her or him to find out the capability to understand the occurrence witnessed and to speak the truth before the court. In criminal proceedings, a person of any age is competent to give evidence if she/he is able to (i) understand questions put as a witness; and (ii) give such answers to the questions that can be understood. A child of tender age can be allowed to testify if he or she had the intellectual capacity to understand questions and give rational answers thereto. A child becomes incompetent only in case the court considers that the child was unable to understand the questions and answer them in a coherent and comprehensible manner. If the child understands the questions put to her or him and gives rational answers to those questions, it can be taken that she or he is a competent witness to be examined.

33. Para 15 of the aforesaid judgment is as follows:-

"7. ... The decision on the question whether the child witness has sufficient intelligence primarily rests with the trial Judge who notices his manners, his apparent possession or lack of intelligence, and the said Judge may resort to any examination which will tend to disclose his capacity and intelligence as well as his understanding of the obligation of an oath. The decision of the trial court may, however, be disturbed by the higher court if from what is preserved in the records, it is clear that his conclusion was erroneous. This precaution is necessary because child witnesses are amenable to tutoring and often live in a world of make-believe. Though it is an established principle that child witnesses are dangerous witnesses as they are pliable and liable to be influenced easily, shaped and moulded, but it is also an accepted norm that if after careful scrutiny of their evidence the court comes to the conclusion that there is an impress of truth in it, there is no obstacle in the way of accepting the evidence of a child witness." (emphasis supplied)

34. From the above ruling, nowhere it is provided that certificate regarding the competency of the child witness is mandatory if it is recorded it is so far so good, but if the court has put the question to understand his intellect to understand the question and if he replied the rational answer and thereafter his examination was recorded without recording the certificate regarding the competency of the witness and he was thereafter cross examined by counsel for the accused and had replied satisfactorily and given rational answer, therefore, in above circumstances not appending the certificate by the trial judge regarding the competency of the witness is of no consequence and it will not make his statement inadmissible.

"29. Presumption as to certain offences.- Where a person is prosecuted for committing or abetting or attempting to commit any offence under sections 3, 5, 7 and section 9 of this Act, the Special Court shall presume, that such person has committed or abetted or attempted to commit the offence, as the case may be, unless the contrary is proved."

36. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of "Dattu Ramrao Sakhare Vs. State of Maharashtra 1997 5 SCC 341" has observed that if the court is satisfied that the child witness below the age of twelve years is competent witness, such a witness can be examined without oath or affirmation and the court has further held that as under:-

".....Even in the absence of oath, the evidence of a child witness can be considered under Section 118 of the Evidence Act provided that such witness is able to understand the questions, and able to give rational answers thereof. The evidence of a child witness and credibility thereof would depend upon the circumstances of each case. The only precaution which the court should bear in mind while assessing the evidence of a child witness is that the witness must be a reliable one and his/her demeanour must be like any other competent witness and there is no likelihood of being tutored."

37. In this case, the informant PW-1 is the father of the victim X, who has deposed before the court that incident took place on 22.8.2015 at 05:00 p.m. and he went to Kanpur for taking raw material for preparing the ornaments and his wife informed him on phone regarding the occurrence that victim X was playing in front of the house and his neighbour Amrita Nand @ Trihuvan Arjaria aged about 60 years tempting her for toffee and called her inside his house and closed the door, thereafter, when his wife called her daughter in high pitch, the accused has driven out the victim from his house. The accused has tried to molest the victim X inside his house. The victim X has told the entire story to her mother on which she went to the house of the accused and asked him about his bad act what he did with her daughter. Thereafter, accused locked his door and absconded somewhere and later on the accused was arrested after gap of months. He has also proved the written complaint Ex.Ka-2. PW-2 is the mother of the victim, who has also deposed that the incident has taken place on 22.8.2015 at 05:00 p.m. when her daughter was playing outside the house, the accused offered her laddoo as prasad and took her inside his house and threatened the victim X not to tell to anyone about the incident. The accused asked the victim to take off her clothes and he also took off his clothes and then asked the victim X to shake his private part and also asked her not to tell to anyone. Her daughter came her and told her the entire incident. PW-2 mother of the victim X thereafter went to the house of the accused and complained about the incident, the accused has denied the incident and thereafter he absconded by locking his house at the time. On the day of occurrence her husband had gone to Kanpur and on his arrival she along with her husband and victim X went to the police station and lodged the first information report.

38. It is proved that the victim X (PW-3) was about four years at the time of occurrence and has narrated the entire incident to her mother, which is admissible.

39. Section 8 of the Evidence Act states as follow:-

"8. Motive, preparation and previous or subsequent conduct.- Any fact is relevant which shows or constitutes a motive or preparation for any fact in issue or relevant fact.

The conduct of any party, or of any agent to any party, to any suit or proceeding, in reference to such suit or proceeding, or in reference to any fact in issue therein or relevant thereto, and the conduct of any person an offence against whom is the subject of any proceeding, is relevant, if such conduct influences or is influenced by any fact in issue or relevant fact, and whether it was previous or subsequent thereto."

40. Illustrations (i) & (j) of Section 8 of Evidence Act states as follows:-

(i). A is accused of a crime.

The facts that, after the commission of the alleged crime, he absconded, or was in possession of property or the proceeds of property acquired by the crime, or attempted to conceal things which were or might have been used in committing it, are relevant.

(j). The question is, whether A was ravished.

The facts that, shortly after the alleged rape, she made a complaint relating to the crime, the circumstances under which, and the terms in which, the complaint was made, are relevant.

The fact that, without making a complaint, she said that she had been ravished is not relevant as conduct under this section, though it may be relevant as a dying declaration under section 32, clause (1), or as corroborative evidence under section 157."

41. From the evidence of PW-1 informant Avadhesh Kumar Soni and PW-2 Smt. Khusbu and from the statement of Investigating Officer that during raid several times at the house of accused, he was found absent, proved that he was absconded after the occurrence.

42. The above conducts as mentioned also corroborates the fact that the accused has committed the crime and has got touched his private parts from her by asking her to take off her clothes and show her private parts.

43. The star witness of this case is victim X (PW-3), her statement was recorded by learned Presiding Officer by asking certain questions, she told her name and also told the name of her mother and told that she was studying in class LKG in Guru Ram Public School. On inquiry, she also disclosed that she prayed the God and she has also clarified that she prayed Ganesh Ji and Laxmi Ji. She knew that one should not tell a lie. She has further stated that she will tell the fact truly. She has further stated that after taking oath one should not tell a lie. Thereafter, without recording a certificate by the then Presiding Officer of the court below the witness was handed over to the Public Prosecutor for putting questions in examination-in-chief.

44. In view of above, it appears that victim X could understand the question put to her and was able to give rational answer and has sufficient intellect and understanding the question put to her and give rational answer, therefore, in such circumstances in absence of certificate, it cannot be said that she was not competent witness. Here it is also clarified that Section 118 of the Evidence Act is couched in negative words. Therefore, if the court declares anybody as not competent witness, he or she will be incompetent witness. Regarding competence of the witness no certificate is needed as per Section 118 of the Evidence Act. PW-3 victim X in examination-in-chief has deposed that accused Amrita Nand @ Tribhuvan Arjariya, who is present in the court is that Baba who called her in his house and on his calling she entered into his house and, thereafter, he laid her on the bed. She has further stated that at that time she was weeping and accused has given her toffee and taken off her chaddhi and also lured for giving laddoo. She has further stated that accused has touched her private parts and clarified that accused has touched her urinal place (susu) with his finger. She has further stated that accused has also put off her clothes. She has also corroborated the testimony given under Section 164 Cr.P.C. and deposition in cross examination that the police has inquired from her and her mother and father gave her pajama to the police. She has also corroborated in her cross examination that Baba has taken off her clothes and she has not urinated there. Further she has stated that she was told by his father and mother what statement she has given.

45. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case, it is quite apparent that the mother and father and the counsel may, to create confidence in the mind of a child witness, inquire her regarding what evidence she has to give. In such circumstances, it cannot be said that she is tutored witness. She has supported the entire incident and told the entire incident to her mother, which was testified by her mother, which is admissible under Section 8 of the Evidence Act. On the day of occurrence informant was not at his house and has gone to Kanpur to take raw material for preparing the ornaments and when he returned from there, thereafter, on the next day the first information report was lodged, therefore, sufficient explanation has been given by prosecution regarding delay in lodging the first information report.

46. In this case the accused was about 60 years and from the evidence it transpires that he laid victim X on the bed and taken off her clothes and also taken off his clothes and has touched her private parts and he got touched his private part from her and thereafter he has gone to bring the rope, which shows that in meanwhile if the victim did not escape from there, what could would happened to her it cannot be imagined.

47. In view of above, the statement of victim X (PW-3) is believable and corroborated by the evidence of her mother which is admissible under Section 8 of the Evidence Act and her mother has informed her husband on phone in the evening of the same day which is also relevant and thereupon first information report was lodged on the next day.

48. The POCSO Act was legislated to eradicate the menace of the children who becomes the victim of the sexual offence. So in view of above, the provision of the POCSO Act shall be interpreted in such a way so that this menace can be eradicated and in above circumstances the interpretation of the provision shall be taken with the help of mischief ruling.

49. In above circumstances, it is proved that the accused has committed sexual assault with a girl aged about 4 years, therefore, learned lower court has rightly relied on the testimony of the witness victim X and has rightly held the accused guilty and has convicted him under Section 10 of the POCSO Act and has also rightly sentenced him to undergo rigorous imprisonment for 7 years with a fine of Rs.10,000/- under Section 10 of the POCSO Act.

50. In such circumstances, no interference is required in the impugned judgment of the court below and the appeal is liable to be dismissed, accordingly, the appeal is dismissed.

51. Lower court record be returned back to the concerned court forthwith.

1. Instant criminal appeal under Section 374(2) has been preferred by accused Sanjay Kumar against judgment and order dated 02.06.2017, passed by Addl. District and Sessions Judge, Court No.7, Gorakhpur in S.T. No. 89 of 2016 arising out of Case Crime No. 313 of 2015 under Sections 366 and 363 I.P.C., P.S.- Pipiganj, District- Gorakhpur, whereby the accused appellant have been convicted for charge under Sections 363, 366 I.P.C. and sentenced as under:

i) under Section 363 I.P.C., to undergo 5 years rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 5,000/- fine;

ii) under Section 366 I.P.C., to undergo 7 years rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 10,000/- fine;

all the sentences were directed to run concurrently and out of total amount of fine, fifty percent thereof is directed to be paid to the victim as compensation.

2. The factual matrix of the case, which is relevant for present appeal is that informant Shiv Kumar lodged an F.I.R. with P.S. concerned on 03.12.2015 at 06:45 hours, wherein he stated that in the night of 26.11.2015, his minor daughter aged around 15 years was kidnapped by seducing and enticing her by accused Sanjay, who also resides in his ward. When he made a complaint regarding this to his family members, his family members abused and threatened him. The contents of F.I.R. were opened in Report No. 10 at 06:45 hours on 03.12.2015 P.S.- Pipiganj, (exhibit KA -1). The police investigated the case, the victim was recovered by police on 03.12.2015, in the company of accused Sanjay near Boriganj Railway Station Trisection, Pipiganj, accused was also arrested on 03.12.2015 and sent to jail.

3. The victim stated in her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. before Magistrate on 11.12.2015 that she is acquainted with accused for past four years and she loved him. On 27.11.2015, he visited her home where she, Sanjay and her younger sister were watching a video cassette of marriage of his sister together. In the meanwhile, her father and aunty appeared and they had seen accused Sanjay there and gave him beating, he also threatened her, therefore, she became scared. On that day, in the evening, she went to the place of a relative of Sanjay along with him. Police caught both of them after three days. The accused did not do any forceful act to her. The medico legal examination of the victim was conducted on 04.12.2015 at 06:20 P.M. which is placed on record as exhibit K-5. In description of the case, the doctor has stated "She has fled away from home alone, not with any boy". Her hymen was found torn, old and healed. For determination of age, the victim was subjected to radiological examination and C.M.O. in his report dated 07.12.2015, opined that according to X-Ray report and general appearance, he is of the opinion that she was about 16 years old. Exhibit K-13 is a X-Ray report of the victim. In radiological examination of vaginal smear of victim dated 05.12.15, doctor opined that after examination of both slides, no RBCs, spermatozoa or gonococci were seen. In High-School Marksheet, the date of birth of victim, exhibit K-17, is 17.08.2001. Accordingly, the Investigating Officer found that on the date of incident, victim was 14 years 3 months old, the accused was enlarged on bail by orders of this Court dated 06.04.2016. The I.O. after completing investigation filed charge-sheet against accused with prayer to prosecute him for charges under Sections 363, 366 I.P.C. Learned Magistrate committed the case and Sessions Court taken up the case, charges were framed against accused appellant under Sections 363, 366 I.P.C. on 27.08.2015 by Addl. Sessions Judge, Court No.-7, Gorakhpur. The accused denied the charges. During prosecution cross-examination, P.W.-1 Shiv Kumar, the informant who is father of the victim proved written report filed by him on Police Station as exhibit K(1), the recovery cum arrest memo of accused and victim as exhibit K(2), which is prepared by Investigating Officer, Omkarnath Srivastava. He acknowledged his signature thereon along with his wife bearing signature of victim and accused also. He acknowledged his signature on custody papers regarding victim as per exhibit K(3). P.W. 2- Khusbhu, is victim who stated her age as 18 years 1 months on the date of her examination dated 21.09.2016. She acknowledged her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. which is marked as exhibit K(4). However, she declared hostile and was cross-examined by ADC(Crime) Cri Raj Kumar. The brother of the informant was also declared hostile when cross-examined by prosecution with permission to the Court. P.W.-4 Ranjana Jaiswal is aunt of the victim, P.W.-5 Jagdish is uncle of the informant, P.W.-6 Firoz Ali is neighbour of the informant, he has also declared hostile. P.W.7- Sri Mohan was also declared hostile, P.W.-8 Dr. Sushma Sinha has proved medical examination papers of the victim as exhibit K(5) and supplementary medical report as exhibit K(6). P.W.-9 Manju Devi is a witness of recovery of the victim and arrest of the accused on 03.12.2015. P.W.-10 Constable Ram Vilas Bhaskar is author of F.I.R., exhibit K(7) and extracts of G.D. of registration of case as exhibit K(8). The I.O. was not produced during trial and the paper authored by him like site plan, chargesheet are accepted in evidence and exhibited on basis of their genuineness admitted by learned counsel for the accused during trial. Learned Trial Judge after hearing submissions of learned counsel for the parties and appreciating the evidence on record gave a finding that accused Sanjay kidnapped the victim and subsequently, married with her also. The prosecution has been successful to prove charges under Sections 363, 366 I.P.C. against the accused. The ingredients of Section 363, 366 I.P.C. are applicable in the case as the victim was minor at the time of the offence and she was seduced and enticed away by the accused, from lawful guardianship of her parents. Learned trial Judge also observed that although none of the witnesses of the fact including the victim have supported prosecution version, but as per date of birth mentioned in High-School Marksheet of the victim, she had not even completed age of 15 years, however, even after the witnesses of fact turning hostile, the facts and attending circumstances of the case and other evidence can be taken into account to find out as to whether cogent evidence is on record on the basis of which the accused can be convicted and in that situation, the accused cannot be acquitted on ground that witnesses of fact have turned hostile. He observed that P.W.-1, Shiv Kumar, father of the victim has stated in F.I.R. that his daughter was aged around 14 years and after appreciating the evidence on record, learned Trial Judge recorded verdict of guilt against accused and sentenced him as aforesaid.

4. Heard learned counsel for the appellant, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the material on record.

5. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the learned Court below has recorded the verdict of guilt and sentenced the appellant against strength of evidence on record and the impugned judgment is not sustainable under eye of law. The appellant was enlarged on bail during trial as well as during pendency of present criminal appeal by order of this Court. None of the witnesses of fact have supported prosecution version, including the victim in spite of that the Trial Court has convicted the accused appellant and sentenced him without cogent evidence appearing against him. The victim in her statement before the Trial Court has specifically stated that she had gone with the appellant out of her own free will, she also stated that she had come with her husband Sanjay for evidence and also engaged a counsel after affixing her photo on Vakalatnama. She had also stated that she had not made any statement in police against her husband. P.W.1, Shiv Kumar has stated in his cross-examination before the Trial Court that his marriage was performed in the year 1995 and after two years of marriage in the year 1997, the victim Kushbu was born and at the time of incident, she was studying in Class-XI. Her age was around 18 years. He also stated that date of birth of victim recorded in her High-School Marksheet is less than 4 years and her actual age was wrongly entered by her teacher. The ingredients of offence under Section 363, 366 I.P.C. are not made out against the appellant on basis of evidence on record. Therefore, he deserves to be acquitted of these charges.

6. Per contra, learned A.G.A. appearing for the State submitted that despite fact that witnesses of fact, including the victim have not supported prosecution version in their statement during trial, however, on basis of documentary evidence, this fact is established that victim was minor at the time of incident and she was less than 15 years of age at that time. She was seduced and enticed away by the accused to leave her parental place, out of guardianship of her parents and subsequently, the accused married her. This fact itself suggests that the victim was kidnapped by the accused from legal guardianship of her parents in order, she might be forced to seduce or sexual intercourse and, therefore, offence under Section 363, 366 I.P.C. is made out in the case. Learned Trial Court has rightly convicted and sentenced the appellant as aforesaid and no interference in impugned judgment is required in present criminal appeal.

7. From perusal of evidence on oath of P.W.2, it is found that she stated therein that she is eldest off spring of her parents, she was residing at her parental place in Ward No. 3, Pipiganj. Her date of birth is 17.08.2001 in her High-School Marksheet, on the date of incident on 26.11.2015, in the evening she was watching video cassette of marriage with her acquaintance Sanjay in her home, his sister came there and asked her to go to her home and she accompanied her, when this fact came to the knowledge of her father, he threatened to kill her and thereupon she called Sanjay in the evening and went to the place of his relative along with him. Subsequently, she came to know that her father had lodged a report at police station to the effect that she got missing, on 03.12.2015. She came to the place of her father and police reached there and performed some paperwork on which she appended her signature along with her parents. The victim acknowledged her signature on exhibit K-2, recovery memo, but stated that she had not made any statement at police station and she was given to custody of her father by orders of Court. She has also acknowledged the photo impression of her photograph on her High-School Marksheet in which her date of birth is mentioned as 17.08.2001. She denied the fact that her parents had abused or threatened the accused. She also stated that she came to depose in the case along with Sanjay, who is now her husband. She acknowledged in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C., recorded by Magistrate on which exhibit K-4 was marked. After this statement the victim was declared hostile in her cross-examination by ADC, Government Counsel (Crime) Cri, she stated that she was aged about 18 years, she disowned her statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. by I.O. She clarified that the accused had not done anything wrong with her forcefully, she also stated her age as 16 years on instructions of her father, in her statement 164 Cr.P.C. She also stated that she got married with Sanjay on 20.07.2016, she dispelled suggestion made by prosecution that accused had enticed her away by luring her on pretext of marriage from lawful guardianship of her parents and subsequently, married with her and for that reason she was describing her age in enhanced manner. In cross-examination by defence, she admitted that presently she and accused are residing together as husband and wife. P.W.-3 Jay Kumar, P.W.-4 Ranjana Jaiswal, P.W.-5-Jagdish, P.W.-6 Firoz Ali and P.W.-7 Sri Mohan, have not made any statement in favour of prosecution and they were declared hostile by prosecution and permitted to cross-examination by the learned A.D.C. (Crime) but nothing material could be elicited in their cross-examination, which would likely, benefit to the prosecution.

8. Learned counsel for the appellant placed reliance on judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in MAFAT LAL & ANR VERSUS THE STATE OF RAJASTHAN 2022 Live Law SC 362, which is Criminal Appeal No. 592 of 2022 filed against High Court Judgment which refused to quash criminal proceedings against the appellant accused for abducting or kidnapping a girl. The appeal was allowed. In that case, the father of the victim lodged an F.I.R. with police station that his minor daughter has been abducted by the accused and case under Section 363/366 I.P.C. was registered against the accused. The abductee and accused could not be traced for long time and police filed a chargesheet against the father of the accused under Sections 363, 366, 120-B I.P.C. in the year 2020, the accused along with abductee filed a petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. before the High Court praying for quashing of F.I.R. and all the proceedings arisen from there. The status therein is that they were well known to each other and were into deep love affairs, which relationship was not acceptable to the father of the abductee, under compelling circumstances, both of them parted from their family members in the year 2005 and later got married on 25.12.2006. They also stated that almost 15 years have passed, accused and abductee were living happily married life and they were also been blessed with a boy. They also stated that abductee was never victimized, abducted nor kidnapped but on her free volition left her parental home on account of unpleasant and disturbing circumstances created by her father. It is also stated that abductee was 17 years of age at the time when she left her home on her own volition and that the accused had no role to play in her parting with her family. Hon'ble Apex Court found that the accused and victim has stated before High Court that she had left her parental home on her own volition, they were married since December, 2006 and have been living happily. No fruitful purpose would be served by relegating the matter for conducting the trial as the same would not be conducive for either of the appellants. It would be a futile exercise. Kidnapping would necessarily involve enticing or taking away any minor under eighteen years of age, if a female for the offence under Section 363 IPC. Section 366 IPC would come into play only where there is a forceful compulsion of marriage, by kidnapping or by inducing a woman. This offence also would not be made out once the appellant no. 2 the abductee has clearly stated that she was in love with the appellant no.1 and that she left her home on account of the disturbing circumstances at her parental home.

9. Hon'ble Apex Court in S. Varadarajan vs State Of Madras 1964, 1965 SCR (1) 243, considered Section 363 and 366 I.P.C. elaborately. Hon'ble Court observed in following paras:-

(9) It must, however, be borne in mind that there is a distinction between "taking" and allowing a minor to accompany a person. The two expressions are not synonymous though we would like to guard ourselves from laying down that in no conceivable circumstance can the two be regarded as meaning the same thing for the purposes of s. 361 of the Indian Penal Code. We would limit ourselves to a case like the present where the minor alleged to have been taken by the accused person left her father's protection knowing and having capacity to know the full import of what she was doing voluntarily joins the accused person. In such a case we do not think that the accused can be said to have taken her away from the keeping of her lawful guardian. Something more has to be shown in a case of this kind and that is some kind of inducement held out by the accused person or an active participation by him in the formation of the intention of the minor to leave the house of the guardian.

(10) It would, however, be sufficient if the prosecution establishes that though immediately prior to the minor leaving the father's protection no active part was played by the accused, he had at some earlier stage solicited or persuaded the minor to do so. In our, opinion if evidence to establish one of those things is lacking it would not be legitimate to infer that the accused is guilty of taking the minor out of the keeping of the lawful guardian merely because after she has actually left her guardian's house or a house where her guardian had kept her, joined the accused and the accused helped her in her design not to return to her guardian's house by taking her along with him from place to place. No doubt, the part played by the accused could be regarded as facilitating the fulfillment of the intention of the girl. That part, in our opinion, falls short of an inducement to the minor to slip out of the keeping of her lawful guardian and is, therefore, not tantamount to "taking".

Hon'ble Court also quoted an English judgment of Reg. v. Christian Olifier(1) (1866) 10 Cox CC 402, in which it was observed

"I am of opinion that if a young woman leaves her father's house without any persuasion, inducement, or blandishment held out to her by a man, so that she has got fairly away from home, and then goes to him, although it may be his moral duty to return her to her parent's custody, yet his not doing so is no infringement of this Act of Parliament for the Act does not say he shall restore her, but only that he shall not take her away."

10. Section 363 of I.P.C. provides as under:-

363. Punishment of kidnapping.-

Whoever kidnaps any person from India or from lawful guardianship, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine.

363-A. Kidnapping or maiming a minor for purposes of begging.

1. Whoever kidnaps any minor or, not being the lawful guardian of a minor, obtains the custody of the minor, in order that such minor may be employed or used for the purposes of begging shall be punishable with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine.

2. Whoever maims any minor in order that such minor may be employed or used for the purposes of begging shall be punishable with imprisonment for life, and shall also be liable to fine.

3. Where any person, not being the lawful guardian of a minor, employs or uses such minor for the purposes of begging, it shall be presumed, unless the contrary is proved, that he kidnapped or otherwise obtained the custody of that minor in order that the minor might be employed or used for the purposes of begging.

4. In this section

1. "begging" means:

1.1. soliciting or receiving alms in a public place, whether under the pretence of singing, dancing, fortunetelling, performing tricks or selling articles or otherwise;

1.2. entering on any private premises for the purpose of soliciting or receiving alms;

1.3. exposing or exhibiting, with the object of obtaining or extorting alms, any sore, wound, injury, deformity or disease, whether of himself or of any other person or of an animal;

1.4. using a minor as an exhibit for the purpose of soliciting or receiving alms;

2. "minor" means:

2.1. in the case of a male, a person under sixteen years of age; and

2.2. in the case of a female, a person under eighteen years of age

Thus, the ingredients of Section 363 I.P.C. can be carved out as below:

, (i) taking or enticing away a minor or a person of unsound mind; (ii) such minor must be under sixteen years of age, if a male, or under eighteen years of age if a female; (iii) the taking or enticing must be out of the keeping of the lawful guardian of such minor or person of unsound mind; (iv) such taking or enticing must be without the consent of such guardian. The taking need not be by force, actual or constructive. There must be a taking of the child out of the possession of the guardian. The Explanation to Section 361 provides that the words 'lawful guardian' in the said section include any person lawfully entrusted with the care or custody of such minor or other person. The word 'take' means to cause to go, to escort or to get into possession. It implies want of wish and absence of desire of the person taken. There is, however, a distinction between taking and allowing a minor to accompany a person. The word 'entice' involves an idea of inducement or allurement by exciting hope or desire in the other.

11. Section 366 of I.P.C. provides as under:-

366. Kidnapping, abducting or inducing woman to compel her marriage, etc.- Whoever kidnaps or abducts any woman with intent that she may be compelled, or knowing it to be likely that she will be compelled, to marry any person against her will, or in order that she may be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, or knowing it to be likely that she will be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine;

And whoever, by means of criminal intimidation as defined in this Code or of abuse of authority or any other method of compulsion, induces any woman to go from any place with intent that she may be, or knowing that it is likely that she will be, forced or seduced to illicit intercourse with another person shall also be punishable as aforesaid.

On examining the provisions of Section 366 I.P.C., its essential ingredients can be summarized as below:

kidnapping or abducting any woman; (ii) such kidnapping or abducting must be (a) with intent that she may be compelled or knowing it to be likely that she will be compelled to marry any person against her will; or (b) in order that she may be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse or knowing it to be likely that she will be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse

The second part of the section 366 requires two things. (1) By criminal intimidation or abuse of authority or by compulsion inducing any woman to go from any place; and (2) such going must be with intent that she may be, or with knowledge that it is likely that she will be, forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, with some person. The word 'woman' has been defined in Section 10 of the code which denotes the word "woman" as female human being of any age. Thus, It includes a minor female. If the girl was eighteen or over, she could only be abducted and not kidnapped, but if she was under eighteen she could kidnapped as well as abducted if the taking was by force or the taking or enticing was by deceitful means. The intention of the accused is the basis and the grave men of offence under Section 366. The volition, the intention and the conduct of the woman do not determine the offence. Kidnapping and abduction are two distinct offences. Kidnapping is an offence against guardianship, it consists of enticing or removing a girl from the keeping of lawful guardians without her consent, abduction is an offence as defined under Section 362 I.P.C., when a person is by force compelled or by deceitful means induces to go from any place. In abduction, the person abducted may be minor or major. Kidnapping is punishable per se in terms of Section 363 without any specific intent, on the other hand, abduction is not punishable per se, and is punishable only when accompanied by a particular purpose as contemplated in sections 364 to 366. Sometimes abducting and kidnapping is committed for the same purpose, but it is not necessary in each case.

12. In present case, the age of victim appears on basis of her High-School Marksheet below between 14 to 15 years and according to medical examination report 16 years as opined by C.M.O. In any case, it cannot be doubted that the victim was minor at the time of incident. The statement of her father on this point before the Court that her age was recorded as 4 years less than her actual age in school record is not based on any concrete logic or proof. However, if we peruse the statement of victim recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. before the Magistrate as well as before the Court during Trial, it cannot be stated that accused had taken or enticed away the victim out of the keeping of the lawful guardianship of her parents, as the victim has stated at both stages that on being threatened by her father and out of fear, she called the accused and went to the place of his one relative along with him. Therefore, if we take the statement of the victim, the role played by the accused in her going from parental place is of a nature of passive action and it cannot be discerned that he played active role in the going of the victim from place of her parents, without their consent. The mental attitude of the minor is immaterial in the case of taking when an accused takes a minor with him, whether he or she is willing or not. But the word 'entice' involves an idea of inducement or allurement. One does not entice another unless the latter attempts to do a thing which she or he would not otherwise do. In the present case, there is no evidence whatsoever in support of the allegations that accused enticed the victim to leave her parental place and accompany to go somewhere else. If we go through the statement of victim recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., are not admissible in evidence, it is found that the victim herself enticed the accused and go with her to some other suitable place out of keeping of her parents. Therefore, the role of accused at best stated as a facilitator and cannot be held that he either took her or enticed her away from lawful guardianship of her parents. The element of initiative is lying at the end of the victim and not on the accused.

13. Now, on the basis of foregoing discussions this Court is of considered opinion that preponderance of probabilities indicate that the victim had voluntarily gone with the accused appellant and in the process accused did not play an active role, therefore, the charge under Section 363 I.P.C. cannot be set to have been proved against the appellant and once this conclusion is reached, the offence under Section 366 automatically fails as the victim has not levelled any allegations of mala fide or sexual intent against the accused. Consequently, it is held that prosecution failed to prove its case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt.

14. In view of the above discussion, the appeal is allowed. The conviction and sentence passed against the accused appellant under Sections 363 and 366 of the Indian Penal Code is set aside and the appellant is acquitted of both the charges as same are not found to be proved against him as beyond reasonable and doubt. The fine, if realised, be refunded to him forthwith. The case property shall be dealt with in a manner as directed by the trial court.

15. The appellant is directed to file a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned, in compliance of Section 437(A) Cr.P.C. which shall be in force for 6 months.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Manohar Narayan Mishra, J.)

1. Heard Sri Indrajeet Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for the convict-appellant, learned A.G.A. appearing for the State and perused the material placed on record.

2. This criminal appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 4.6.2018, passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1, Ghazipur, in Sessions Trial No. 31 of 2016, State Vs. Pradeep Bind, arising out of Case Crime No. 2058 of 2015, under Section 376-A IPC & Section 3/5 of POCSO Act, Police Station Kotwali, District Ghazipur, whereby the appellant was convicted and sentenced under Section 376-A I.P.C. for seven year rigorous imprisonment, with fine of Rs.10,000/-, in default thereof he has to undergo six months additional rigorous imprisonment. The appellant has been acquitted of charge under Section 3/5 of POCSO Act, as being extended the benefit of doubt.

3. The brief facts of the case for the purpose of present appeal is that the first informant Smt. Jagrani, wife of Sri Narayan Bindh, resident of Mohalla Kapoorpur, Police Station Kotwali, District Ghazipur, lodged an FIR with police station concerned on 20.11.2015 at about 16:00 hours, on the basis of written report stating therein that her daughter, the prosecutrix used to visit her relative Jairam at Mahmudpur, where accused who was also frequenting as he is relative of Jairam. Pradeep used to sell 'Toddy' in Tadishop stalled by Jairam where he met prosecutrix

6 years ago and they developed intimacy. He would say that he would solemnize marriage with prosecutrix and his assurance was relied upon by prosecutrix as well as by her parents. He would also visit the home of the informant and used to make relations with prosecutrix on assurance of marriage. After some time, he got a job in CISF and even then he would assure prosecutrix to marry her but after some time he refused to marry her on pretext that he would not solemnize marriage against wishes of her parents. The medico legal examination of the prosecutrix was conducted on 21.11.2015 at Government Hospital, Ghazipur, in which Doctor opined that there are no signs/suggestion of recent vaginal intercourse, yet there is evidence/suggestion of old genital assault. No physical injury is found. In pathological examination of vaginal smear of victim, no live or dead spermatozoa is detected. The radiological age of the victim was found by Doctor as 18 years as epiphysis around the elbow and wrist joint were found to be fused in her X-ray report. Old healed hymen tear at 6 O'clock position was found in her internal examination. The prosecutrix supported the version set out in FIR lodged at the instance of her mother in her statement recorded under Sections 161 as well as 164 Cr.P.C. She in her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. dated 2.12.2015 stated that she was aged around 18 years. She had gone to the place of her maternal uncle where the brother-in-law (saala) of her maternal uncle was also residing. He kept her in good humor and established physical relations with her for around six years on assurance of marriage and on his advice, she kept mum to this and went back to her home. He would visit her parental home and would make physical relations with her surreptitiously. She became pregnant two years before and he gave her some medicine, which resulted in miscarriage. When her mother caught both of them, he stated to marry her but when he got job, he refused to marry her. He also expressed his refusal before Panchayat and subsequently he began to demand Rs.5 lacs as dowry for marriage. Police submitted the charge-sheet against appellant after completing the investigation, with prayer to prosecute him for charge under Section 376-A IPC and Section 3/5 of POCSO Act. The accused was enlarged on bail by orders of this Court during trial. After filing of charge-sheet, the case was committed to court of Sessions, Ghazipur. The charge-sheet was filed in the court of Special Judge, POCSO Act. At the stage of prosecution evidence, PW-1 Smt. Jagrani Devi, the mother of the prosecutrix, PW-2 prosecutrix, PW-3 Praveen Kumar, PW-4 Constable Muharrir Rajkumar, PW-5 Doctor Chandra Sinha, PW-6 Sri Narayan Pandey- father of the prosecutrix, PW-7 Lallan Singh Yadav, were examined in support of the prosecution case.

4. After conclusion of the prosecution evidence, the statement of accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in which he has not taken any specific defence. His defence is of denial.

5. Learned trial court heard submissions of learned counsel for the accused appellant and learned A.D.C.(Criminal) for the State and after appreciation of evidence on record and considering the submissions of learned counsel for the parties, gave a finding that the accused established physical relations with the prosecutrix on giving her assurance of marriage and her consent for establishing physical relations cannot be deemed as a free consent. The prosecutrix, in her cross-examination on 24.6.2017, deviated from her stand in her examination-in-chief and tried to exculpate the accused and stated that her previous statements before the Court was outcome of pressure but she could not specify the person on whose pressure, she had previously given evidence against the accused. Learned court below also observed that although PW-7, Lallan Singh Yadav, the teacher in Phoolchand Yadav Inter College, Dandapur, Ghazipur had proved the date of birth of prosecutrix in scholar register, recorded as 10.8.1997 but he admitted in cross-examination that he has not brought the scholar register of year 2013, in which admission date of prosecutrix in his school has been recorded. He also admitted that the prosecutrix did not file the pass certificate of class 8 issued by her previous school and for that reason, her transfer certificate was not issued by his school. No document was filed by the parents of the prosecutrix in confirmation of her date of birth. He came to know that primary education of prosecutrix was carried out in Raiganj School, Second, Ghazipur and in the record of that school, her date of birth is mentioned. He subsequently, came to know that her date of birth in record of her previous school is recorded as 1.7.1993. Learned court below after considering the entire evidence of PW-7 and statement of prosecutrix in her cross-examination that her actual date of birth is 1.7.1993, she was found aged to be exceeding 18 years and the trial court has given categorical finding that the prosecutrix was major at the time of incident and she has stated that her first interaction with accused took place in the year 2012, however, learned court below concluded that on the basis of evidence, it is found that the consent given by the prosecutrix to accused to have physical relations with her was not a free consent and was given on assurance of the accused that he would marry her in course of time, thus learned court below placing reliance on initial statement of prosecutrix, which was consistent with her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C., found the accused guilty of charge under Section 376-A IPC but acquitted him of the charge under Section 3/5 of POCSO Act.

6. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the learned trial court has recorded a verdict of guilt against appellant for charge under Section 376-A IPC, which is against weight of evidence on record. Learned trial court has misappreciated the evidence on record while recording the finding of guilt and sentencing the appellant. He further submitted that from the perusal of allegations made in the FIR itself, it is clear that the same has been lodged after an unexplained delay of six years. Appellant was enlarged on bail during trial as well as by orders of this Court in present criminal appeal vide order dated 16.1.2019 by Co-ordinate Bench of this Court. The allegations against the appellant is that he had established physical relationship with the prosecutrix on false promise of marriage is unfounded. He further submitted that PW-5 Dr. Chandra Sinha, who had carried out medico legal examination of the victim on 21.1.2015 has stated before the Court that on the date of medical examination, the victim had stated that a boy namely Pradeep Kumar, who is her relative, has established physical relationship with her by enticing her. She met him at the place of her maternal uncle. He would make physical relations with her intermittently. However, when he secured a job, he refused to marry her and also refused to abide by decisions of Panchayat. The Doctor has further stated that no mark of injury was found on the person of victim. According to the X-ray report dated 31.11.2015, epifices of her elbow and writ joints were found to be fused and accordingly, she was found to be exceeding 18 years. In cross-examination, the Doctor has clarified that between the age of 18 to 24 years, the fusion of writ and elbow joints occurs in girls, therefore, her age may be of between 18 to 24 years. The Doctor also clarified that old healed hymen tear, recorded by her, need not be due to sexual assault. The Doctor has also clarified that the old healed hymen torn may be due to sexual intercourse and may not be due to that, no definite opinion can be given in this regard. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that in FIR no date or time of occurrence has been mentioned. There is no consistency between statement of first informant and the prosecutrix recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. during investigation. The victim stated that the appellant and she had fallen in love and when she caught red handed by her mother, only then the accused stated for marriage. The accused has been falsely implicated in the case. He has committed no offence. He deserves to be acquitted of the charge, for which he has been convicted and sentenced, as above.

7. Learned counsel for the appellant placed reliance on a judgement of Apex Court in the case of Shambhu Kharwar vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Another, 2022 LawSuit (SC) 973, whereby, vide order dated 5.10.2018, a Single Judge of the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad dismissed an application instituted by the appellant under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973, for quashing Criminal Case No 785 of 2018 in the Court of the Addl. Chief Judicial Magistrate (First), Ballia arising out of Case Crime No 11 of 2018 registered at Police Station Rasra, District Ballia for an offence punishable under Section 376 of the Indian. The appellant had also sought the quashing of a charge-sheet in that case. Hon'ble Apex Court observed that the facts of the case, as they stand, which are not in dispute, would indicate that the ingredients of the offence under Section 376 IPC were not established. The High Court has, therefore, proceeded to dismiss the application under Section 482 of CrPC on a completely misconceived basis. Hon'ble Apex Court has placed reliance on the case of Sonu @ Subhash Kumar v. State of Uttar Pradesh, wherein it is observed that :

"12. This Court has repeatedly held that consent with respect to Section 375 of the IPC involves an active understanding of the circumstances, actions and consequences of the proposed act. An individual who makes a reasoned choice to act after evaluating various alternative actions (or inaction) as well as the various possible consequences flowing from such action or inaction, consents to such action... [...]"

14. [...] Specifically in the context of a promise to marry, this Court has observed that there is a distinction between a false promise given on the understanding by the maker that it will be broken, and the breach of a promise which is made in good faith but subsequently not fulfilled... [...]"

16. Where the promise to marry is false and the intention of the maker at the time of making the promise itself was not to abide by it but to deceive the woman to convince her to engage in sexual relations, there is a "misconception of fact" that vitiates the woman's "consent". On the other hand, a breach of a promise cannot be said to be a false promise. To 7 2019 (9)

SCC 608 8 2021 SCC OnLine SC 181 establish a false promise, the maker of the promise should have had no intention of upholding his word at the time of giving it. The "consent" of a woman under Section 375 is vitiated on the ground of a "misconception of fact" where such misconception was the basis for her choosing to engage in the said act... [...]

18. To summarise the legal position that emerges from the above cases, the "consent" of a woman with respect to Section 375 must involve an active and reasoned deliberation towards the proposed act. To establish whether the "consent" was vitiated by a "misconception of fact" arising out of a promise to marry, two propositions must be established. The promise of marriage must have been a false promise, given in bad faith and with no intention of being adhered to at the time it was given. The false promise itself must be of immediate relevance, or bear a direct nexus to the woman's decision to engage in the sexual act."

8. Learned AGA has vehemently opposed the submissions made by the learned counsel for the appellant and submitted that there is no error or infirmity in the impugned judgment and order passed by learned trial court and the same is in consonance with law and the evidence adduced during trial, which needs no interference in present criminal appeal.

9. I have gone through the sworn testimony of the witnesses recorded before the trial court and considered the same in the light of other documentary evidence on record. The accused was charged for offence punishable under Section 376-A IPC and section 3/5 of POCSO Act on 22.6.2016.

10. Smt. Jagrani Devi- the mother of the victim and informant of the case, as PW-1 has supported the FIR version and proved her written report as Ex.Ka-1. She has stated that the accused Pradeep Kumar Bind has established physical relations with her minor daughter on assurance of marriage and he used to say that he would love her. She got written report scribed by a person sitting outside the police station and affixed her thumb impression thereon, before producing the same for lodging of FIR. She got custody of her daughter by orders of Court in presence of her husband. Her marriage took place in childhood and she has been blessed with six children. The victim is her fourth issue. Her brother Jairam started the business of sale of toddy. She is not aware whether he has obtained any license for that. He used to visit her parental home. Her brother used to call her daughter (victim) in harvesting season. Whenever, she visit the place of Jairam, some family member would also accompany her. Her daughter used to go there once in a year.

11. PW-2, the victim admitted her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. recorded by the Magistrate during her evidence before court as PW-2. She stated that accused is brother-in-law of her maternal uncle Jairam Bind and she got acquainted with him at the place of her maternal uncle. 5 to 6 years before, once he established physical relations with her finding her alone, forcefully and thereafter he told her that he would love her and on assurance of marriage, he had made physical relations with her subsequently also. She was in telephonic contact with the accused also, when she returned to her parental place. He would also visit her parental place and continued making physical relations with her on assurance of marriage. However, when he got a job in CISF, he refused to marry her in September, 2015 and also demanded Rs.5 lacs before Panchayat. In cross-examination, she stated that she received education from class Ist to VIth at Raiganj Second, Ghazipur. She is not passed out of Class VII. She stated that her medico legal examination was conducted at District Hospital, Ghazipur. She stated that in primary school record, her date of birth is recorded as 1.7.1993. She met accused Pradeep Bind in the year 2012 for the first time and they became friends. He is related to her. Her parents had spoken to his parents in connection with their marriage but the parents of Pradeep Bind refused their proposal. He is posted in CISF since year 2012. In cross-examination dated 24.6.2017, she stated that accused had never cheated her and he did not commit rape on her. The statements she has given prior too, were result of some pressure. After this statement, she was permitted to be cross-examined by learned ADC (Criminal), in which she has stated that she had given her previous statement in the court under pressure, however, she declined the suggestion that her subsequent statement was result of some sort of settlement with accused.

12. PW-3 Constable Praveen Kumar, proved chik FIR as Ex.Ka-4 and extract of G.D. of registration of case dated 20.11.2015 as Ex.Ka-5 and stated that these papers are in his writing and signature. PW-4 Moharrir Raj Kumar also proved these papers in his statements.

13. PW-5 Doctor Chandra Sinha, who conducted medico legal examination of the victim on 21.11.2015, stated that the victim told her that her relative Pradeep Bind enticed her and made physical relations with her on the pretext of marriage and subsequently refused to marry her before Panchayat. She stated that in internal examination of the victim, her hymen was found in 6 O'clock position, bearing old mark of injury and on the basis of her X-ray report, her radiological age was found exceeding 18 years. Her age was determined on the basis of fusion of her elbow and writ joints and due to the fact that epyfices of these bones had fused. She might have been aged between 18 to 24 years.

14. PW-6 Ram Narayan Bind, father of the victim, stated that accused was close to his daughter and his entire family. Negotiations about their marriage were under way and even the time of their marriage were fixed but 6 to 7 months before, the accused got job in CISF and refused to marry her. He established physical relationship with his daughter. In the meanwhile, a Panchayat was also called in the matter. His daughter was aged around 17 years at the time of incident. However, in cross-examination, the witness stated that the Investigating Officer had never recorded his statement. His family members told her that accused established physical relations with his daughter on the pretext of marriage. The date of birth of his daughter is 1.7.1993 in primary school records. He also stated that when the accused secured a job, his family members refused to marry him with his daughter. He also admitted that as marriage could not be settled, this wrong FIR was lodged in the case, with a view to exert pressure for marriage of accused.

15. PW-7 Lallan Singh Yadav, a teacher of Phoolchand Yadav Inter college, Dandapur, Ghazipur has proved the academic records of the victim, in which her date of birth recorded as 10.3.1997. However, in cross-examination, he has stated that the T.C. of previous school was not filed by the victim in spite of his directions and for that reason, T.C. was not issued to her by his school. Subsequently, he came to know that her actual date of birth is 1.7.1993.

16. In prosecution case based on FIR as well as statement of the informant as well as victim recorded during investigation, this fact emerged that FIR was lodged in the case on 20.11.2015 whereas in FIR, this fact surfaced that accused was having physical relations with the victim six years prior to lodging of the FIR but no prior report or complaint has been made in connection with said charge. The victim has stated in her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. as well as in her statement before the court that she continued to have physical relations with accused, even when she came back her home from the place of her maternal uncle. In statement of informant, who is mother of the victim, this fact emerged that the victim used to visit once in a year in harvesting season the place of her maternal uncle and that too she was accompanied by some family member. On the basis of her date of birth recorded in school record of Phoolchand Yadav Inter College, she has attained age of majority 8 months before the lodging of the FIR. In medico legal examination report also, the Doctor has categorically stated that on the basis of X-ray report, her age was more than 18 years. On the basis of radiological examination, it might be with 18 years to 24 years. The victim, in her cross-examination has exculpated the accused for reasons best known to her. The victim has changed her stand from stage to stage. Therefore, it is difficult to place reliance on her version.

However, from perusal of evidence on record and version of victim including her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C., it is discerned that the relations of the victim and accused was consensual and this fact is not proved that the promise of marriage given by the accused to prosecutrix was false from very inception and the false promise borne a direct nexus to the decision of the prosecutrix to engage in sexual act with the accused. No specification of date, time and months of sexual acts is given by the prosecutrix in her various statements recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. as well as during trial. The father of the prosecutrix has stated during his evidence before the court that the FIR was lodged in the case due to the fact that the accused side refused to marry his daughter, after he secured a job. On meticulous examination of evidence on record, it is not proved beyond reasonable doubt that the accused appellant had given a promise to the prosecutrix to marry with him, which at the inception was false and on the basis of this, she was induced into a sexual relationship. Therefore, it can be held that the relationship between the parties were purely consensual in nature. This finding emerged after taking into consideration the testimony of prosecutrix as well as her parents recorded before the court in the light of facts and circumstances of the case. Taking into consideration, the evidence regarding age of prosecutrix as recorded in school records, the evidence of Head Master as well as her radiological age determined by the medical experts and evidence of the Doctor who conducted medico legal examination of the victim, it would be held definitely that at the time of alleged sexual interaction with the accused, she was not minor. Learned court below has lost sight of these facts while recording the verdict of guilt against the accused appellant and sentencing him. In my considered opinion, the prosecution has failed to prove its case against accused appellant beyond reasonable doubt. Therefore, the judgement and order passed by learned court below is not sustainable and liable to be set aside.

17. Accordingly, this appeal succeeds and is allowed. Impugned judgment and order of conviction dated on 4.6.2018, passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1, Ghazipur, in Sessions Trial No. 31 of 2016, State Vs. Pradeep Bind, arising out of Case Crime No. 2058 of 2015, under Section 376-A IPC & Section 3/5 of POCSO Act, Police Station Kotwali, District Ghazipur is hereby, set aside and accused appellant Pradeep Bind is acquitted from charge under Section 376-A IPC.

18. It is directed that the accused appellant shall furnish a personal bond to the satisfaction of court concerned and two reliable sureties each in the like amount before the trial court, which shall be effective for a period of six months, along with an undertaking that in the event of filing of Special Leave Petition against the instant judgment or for grant of leave, the appellants on receipt of notice thereof shall appear before the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

19. 22. Let a copy of this judgment along with lower court's record be sent back to the court concerned for immediate compliance and necessary action.

Jayendra Thaker, J.
Hon'ble Umesh Chandra Sharma, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellant and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. Present criminal appeal challenges judgment and order dated 24.9.2015 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court, Kannauj in Sessions Trial No. 121 of 2013 (State vs. Ahmad Sher) whereby the learned Additional Sessions Judge has convicted the accused-appellant, Ahmad Sher for commission of offence under Section 304 of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (for short 'IPC') and sentenced him to undergo imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.20,000/- and in case of default in payment of fine, further to undergo four months' additional imprisonment.

3. Brief facts as culled out from the record are that the accused-appellant was married to the deceased 15-16 years prior to the incident but soon after the marriage deceased was being harassed and tortured by her in-laws for which a civil suit was filed which continued for about seven years and ended in a compromise between the parties. As per compromise, deceased was given teen beegha land by her in-laws, in between the years of civil suit accused-appellant married Hoorbano of his village Sataura. When deceased reached her matrimonial home after the compromise had taken place between the parties again her in-laws started harassing her for taking back the given piece of land and on 08.10.2012 at about 12:00 p.m deceased was done to death by her husband-accused appellant herein with the help of his brothers and second wife Hoorbano.

4. On the basis of F.I.R., the investigation started and charge-sheet was laid. The learned Magistrate summoned the accused and committed the case to the Sessions Court as the offences alleged to have been committed were triable by the Sessions Court. The learned Sessions Judge framed charges under Section 304 of I.P.C.

5. On being summoned, the accused pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried.

6. The Trial started and the prosecution examined 7 witnesses who are as follows:

1	Deposition of Dildar Beg	PW1
2	" " Ansar	PW2
3	" " Km. Sarjuman	PW3
4	" " Mohd. Jahar Ali	PW4

5	" " Geetam Singh	PW5
6	" " Brij Kishor	PW6
7	" " Vinod Kumar Yadav	PW7
8	" " Vijay Kumar	PW8

7. In support of ocular version following documents were filed and proved by prosecution:

1	F.I.R	Ex.Ka.11
2	Written Report	Ex.Ka.1
3	Postmortem Report	Ex.Ka.3
4	Panchayatnama	Ex.Ka.2
5	Charge-Sheet	Ex.Ka.7
6	Site Plan with Index	Ex.Ka.8
7	Recovery memo of Blood stained & plain earth	Ex.Ka.9
8	Recovery memo of 'Takora'	Ex.Ka.10

8. At the end of the trial, after recording the statements of the accused under section 313 of Cr.P.C., and hearing arguments on behalf of prosecution and the defence, the learned Sessions Judge convicted the accused as mentioned above.

9. Learned counsel for the appellant in the beginning contended that this is a case of acquittal, however, in alternative he has submitted that injuries were caused by using blunt side of the axe and not the sharp edge. The accused had pleaded that he was mentally ill and had to be kept in chains, the same part is not accepted by the court below. It is further submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that conviction is based on presumption and is bad as the appellant had no intention to do away with the deceased. Learned counsel for the appellant has relied on the following authoritative judgments of the Apex Court:-

(i) Criminal Appeal No. 4345 of 2014 (Nafa Singh Vs. State of U.P.) decided on 10.02.2023;

(ii) Criminal Appeal No. 5657 of 2011 (Santosh Vs. State of U.P.) decided on 22.02.2021;

(iii) Criminal Appeal No. 1838 to 840 of 2019 2022 0 Supreme (SC) 564 decided on 12.07.2022.

(iv) Criminal Appeal No. 923 of 2011 arising out of S.L.P. (Crl.) No. 8847 of 2009 decided on 13.04.2011 to contend that this is case of clear acquittal/if at all offence is made out it is under Section 304 (1) of I.P.C.

10. Learned A.G.A. has submitted that the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C is totally unreliable. It is further submitted that it was a premeditated murder as she was hurt by the accused-appellant and his brothers and second wife to take away the given land.

11. On hearing the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the parties, two moot questions are to be addressed by us namely whether the death was homicidal death and whether the offence would be punishable under Section 302 or 304 Part I or Part II or Section 304 B of Indian Penal Code. Before sifting the evidence, it is relevant here to discuss the law pertaining to culpable homicide amounting to murder, culpable homicide not amounting to murder and the dowry death. Section 299 of the Indian Penal Code, which reads as under:

Whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing death, or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death, commits the offence of culpable homicide."

12. The academic distinction between "murder" and "culpable homicide not amounting to murder" has always vexed the Courts. The confusion is caused, if Courts lose sight of the true scope and meaning of the terms used by the legislature in these sections, and allow themselves to be drawn into minute abstractions. The safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions seems to be to keep in focus the keywords used in the various clauses of Section 299 and 300 of I.P.Code. The following comparative table will be helpful in appreciating the points of distinction between the two offences.

A person commits culpable homicide if the act by which the death is caused is done-	Subject to certain exceptions culpable homicide is murder if the act by which the death is caused is done.

INTENTION

(a) with the intention of causing death; or	(1) with the intention of causing death; or
(b) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to	(2) with the intention of causing such cause death; or	bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused;

KNOWLEDGE	KNOWLEDGE
(c) with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death.	(4) with the knowledge that the act is so immediately dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as is mentioned above.

13. From the upshot of the aforesaid discussions, it appears that the death caused by the accused was not premeditated, accused though had knowledge and intention that their act would cause bodily harm to the deceased but did not want to do away with the deceased. Hence the instant case falls under the Exceptions 1 and 4 to Section 300 of IPC. While considering Section 299 as reproduced herein above offence committed will fall under Section 304 Part-I as per the observations of the Apex Court in Veeran and others Vs. State of M.P. Decided, (2011) 5 SCR 300 which have to be also kept in mind.

14. This takes us to the alternative submission of learned counsel for the appellants that the quantum of sentence is too harsh and requires to be modified. In this regard, we have to analyse the theory of punishment prevailing in India.

15. In Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, [AIR 1977 SC 1926], explaining rehabilitary & reformatory aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to antisocial behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturation. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the [11] rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'interrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

16. 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP [(2004) 7 SCC 257] by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

17. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532], Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734], Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323], State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, [(2015) 3 SCC 441], and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463] and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformatory and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformatory approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

18. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformatory and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

19. As discussed above, 'reformatory theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is very harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Apex Court, as discussed above, has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformatory approach underlying in criminal justice system.

20. The evidence on record will not permit us to accept the submission of learned counsel for the appellant that it is a case of acquittal rather it was a homicidal death proved by the evidence.

21. In view of the above, we hold that the accused has committed culpable homicide not amounting to murder. The accused is punished to undergo rigorous imprisonment for 10 years and fine of Rs.5000/- which should be paid within four weeks of his release, if not paid default sentence of three months. If 10 years' incarceration is over, the Jail authority would release the accused if not wanted in any other offence.

22. This appeal is partly allowed. The judgment and order by the learned Sessions Judge shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. Record and proceedings be sent back to the Court below forthwith.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 366 - Kidnapping, abducting or inducing woman to compel her marriage - Quashing of FIR - FIR was lodged by husband of petitioner no. 1 - Informant's wife was in love affair for a long duration with petitioner no. 2 - Earlier she was found in house of petitioner no. 2, brought back by her husband - St. argued that petitioner no. 2 cannot be granted relief as he was living with petitioner no. 1, who was a married woman with two children - Held, from affidavit filed by petitioner no. 1, it is clear that petitioner no. 2, did not force her to leave her matrimonial home, she left it due to harassment and torture inflicted on her by her husband and in-laws - Petitioner no. 1, was living at home of petitioner no. 2 on her free will on request of wife of petitioner no. 2, who was a close friend of petitioner no. 1 and petitioner no. 2, has not confined her to stay in his home - Ingredients of Section are not fulfilled, FIR quashed. (Para 9, 10, 12)

Writ Petitions Allowed. (E-13)

List of Cases cited:

1. Gabbu Vs St. of M.P., AIR 2006 SC 2461
2. Shahjahan Vs St., 2011 Cr.L.J. 573

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surendra Singh-I, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sanjay Kr. Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri Mithilesh Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for the informant and Sri G.P. Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The present writ petition has been preferred with the prayer to quash the impugned first information report dated 17.02.2023 registered as Case Crime No. 77 of 2023 under Sections 366 I.P.C., Police Station- Rasulpur, District- Firozabad and for a direction to the respondents not to arrest or harass the petitioner no. 2, Suraj in pursuance of the impugned first information report.

3. According to prosecution case, informant Shyam Sundar's wife, Neetu, is the resident of Tea-Huts No. 2296, Sonia Camp, G.T. Road, Jhilmil Industrial Area, near Dilshan Garden, Metro Station, Shahdara, Old Delhi. On 12.02.2023 at 1.30 p.m., informant's younger brother dropped Neetu along with her two sons, namely, Sangam, aged 8 years and Sushank, aged 6 years on bus at Asafabad Chauraha for Agra. Since then, the whereabouts of Neetu is not known. The informant's wife, Neetu was in love affair for a long duration with petitioner no. 2, Suraj, resident of Shahdara, old Delhi, who was posted as House Keeping Supervisor at Dilshad Garden, Metro Station. His wife often used to have conversation with Suraj on her mobile. The informant had earlier also found Neetu in the house of accused Suraj but he had brought Neetu back to his home. On the written statement of the informant, the first information report was lodged against petitioner no. 2, Suraj.

4. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the petitioners that the first information report has been lodged after a delay of about 5 days without any explanation which is clearly an afterthought and consultation with apparently false allegations. It has been next submitted that petitioner no. 2, Neetu has filed an affidavit supporting the petitioners case that her husband, Shyam Sundar and her in-laws used to harass and torture her. She came to her parental home but her parents could not give her any help. It is also submitted that under compelling circumstances, petitioner no. 1, Smt. Neetu has taken shelter with the petitioner no. 2, Suraj with her free consent. Petitioner no. 2, Suraj has not abducted petitioner no. 1, Smt. Neetu by forceful compulsion or inducement to leave her matrimonial home to marry her against her will or for illicit intercourse, thus, no offence u/s 366 I.P.C. is made out.

5. Petitioner no.1, Smt. Neetu has also deposed in her affidavit that on 10.12.2021, she was ousted from the house of her in-laws. Thereafter, she started living with her two children in a rented house at Partapur, District- Meerut. Later on, informant came there to the house of petitioner no. 1, Smt. Neetu and after seeking excuse, started living with her at Partapur in a rented house but due to dispute, informant came back to his native place, leaving petitioner no. 1, Smt. Neetu and her two children alone at Partapur, Meerut. Petitioner no. 1, Smt. Neetu has also deposed that Smt. Dolly, wife of petitioner no. 2 has close friendly relation with her since her school period and as such only with a view to provide her shelter, wife of petitioner no. 2 permitted petitioner no. 1, Smt. Neetu to live at the house of petitioner no. 2, Suraj since first week of January, 2023. The petitioner no. 2, Suraj has no concern with the alleged offence.

6. Per contra, learned A.G.A. representing the State has opposed the petition and submitted that petitioner no. 1, Smt. Neetu and petitioner no. 2, Suraj, both are married, having two children each. Petitioner no. 2, Suraj cannot be granted any indulgence as he is living with petitioner no. 1, Smt. Neetu who is a married woman with two children. However, learned A.G.A. could not deny the submissions advanced on behalf of the petitioners that petitioner no. 1, Smt. Neetu is major and she has left her matrimonial home on her own sweet will.

7. To ascertain whether prima facie, offence u/s 366 I.P.C. is made out, it is necessary to peruse Sections 362 and 366 I.P.C. which are quoted hereunder :-

362. Abduction.Whoever by force compels, or by any deceitful means induces, any person to go from any place, is said to abduct that person.

Ingredients :- This section requires two things :-

(1) forceful compulsion or inducement by deceitful means;

(2) the object of such compulsion or inducement must be the going of a person from any place.

The expression "deceitful means" includes a misleading statement. It is, really speaking, a matter of intention. The intention of the accused is the basis and gravamen of the charge. If the consent of the person is freely and voluntarily given, there will be no abduction. Unlike kidnapping, abduction as defined u/s 362 I.P.C. is not an substantive offence under the Code but abduction is an auxiliary act and is made criminal and punishable only when it is done with one or other intention specified in Section 366 I.P.C.

366. Kidnapping, abducting or inducing woman to compel her marriage, etc.Whoever kidnaps or abducts any woman with intent that she may be compelled, or knowing it to be likely that she will be compelled, to marry any person against her will, or in order that she may be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, or knowing it to be likely that she will be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine; and whoever, by means of criminal intimidation as defined in this Code or of abuse of authority or any other method of compulsion, induces any woman to go from any place with intent that she may be, or knowing that it is likely that she will be, forced or seduced to illicit intercourse with another person shall be punishable as aforesaid.

Ingredients :- This section requires :-

(1) kidnapping or abducting of a woman;

(2) such kidnapping or abduction must be -

(i) with intent that she may be compelled or knowing it to be likely that she will be compelled to marry any person against her will; or

(ii) in order that she may be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse or knowing it to be likely that she will be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse; or

(iii) by means or criminal intimidation or otherwise by inducing any woman to go from any place with intent that she may be, or knowing that she will be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse.

Section 366 I.P.C. only applies when the woman abducted has no intention of marriage or lawful intercourse when abducted. Mere abduction does not bring the accused under the ambit of this penal section.

In Gabbu Vs. State of M.P., AIR 2006 SC 2461, the Apex Court has held that so far as the charge u/s 366 I.P.C. is concerned, mere finding that a woman was abducted is not enough. It must further be proved that the abduction is for the purposes mentioned in Section 366 I.P.C.

In Shahjahan Vs. State, 2011 Cr.L.J. 573, the Apex Court has held :-

"In order to establish an offence u/s 366 I.P.C., it must first be established that the offence of kidnapping under Section 361 I.P.C. or abduction under Section 362 I.P.C. has been proved. It must then be shown that such kidnapping or abduction was with the contumacious intent referred to under Section 366 I.P.C."

8. The essential condition for the application of Section 366 I.P.C. is that there is kidnapping or abduction of a woman with the intention to compel her or knowing it to be likely that she will be compelled to marry any person against her will or will be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse.

9. From the affidavit filed by petitioner no. 1, Smt. Neetu, it is obvious that petitioner no. 2, Suraj did not force or induce her to leave her matrimonial home but she left it due to the harassment and torture inflicted on her by her husband, Shyam Sundar and her in-laws. From her affidavit, it is also clear that petitioner no. 1, Smt. Neetu is living at the home of petitioner no. 2, Suraj on her free will on the request of Smt. Dolly, wife of petitioner no. 2, who was a friend of petitioner no. 1, Smt. Neetu and petitioner no. 2, Suraj has not restrained or confined her to stay in his home.

10. In such view of the matter, we find that the essential ingredients of Section 362 I.P.C. or even Section 366 I.P.C. are not fulfilled against the petitioner no. 2, Suraj.

11. Under these facts and circumstances of the case, we are inclined to allow the writ petition.

12. Accordingly, the writ petition stands allowed. The First Information Report dated 17.02.2023 registered as Case Crime No. 77 of 2023 under Sections 366 I.P.C., Police Station-Rasulpur, District- Firozabad as well as all consequential proceedings are hereby quashed.

3. Shahjahan Vs St., 2011 Cr.L.J. 573

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surendra Singh-I, J.)

1. Heard Sri Neeraj Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri Shiv Sagar Singh, learned counsel for the informant and Smt. Manju Thakur, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. Learned A.G.A. pointed out that Section 368 I.P.C. has been added during the course of investigation.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that he may be permitted to correct the prayer clause.

4. Prayer is allowed.

5. He may do so during the course of the day.

6. The present writ petition has been preferred with the prayer to quash the impugned first information report dated 03.03.2023 registered as Case Crime No. 129 of 2023 under Sections 366, 368 I.P.C., Police Station- Tronica City, District- (Commissionerate) Ghaziabad, and for a direction to the respondents not to arrest the petitioner no. 2, Ashish Chauhan in pursuance of the impugned first information report.

7. According to prosecution case, on 01.03.2023 at 11.45 p.m., petitioner, Ashish Chauhan, enticed and abducted the daughter of informant, Prachi aged 21 years from her home with the intention of marrying her against her wishes. Knowing that Prachi has been abducted, he wrongfully conceals and confines her at some place.

8. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioners is that the petitioner no. 1, Prachi as per the age given in the first information report itself, the alleged victim, Prachi is 21 years old and she had filed her affidavit in support of the present petition. Therefore, no offence u/s 366 I.P.C. has been made out as there is no inducement. Since no offence under Section 366 I.P.C. is made out hence there shall not be any offence u/s 368 I.P.C. as well. Petitioner no. 1, Prachi Tyagi had given an application dated 13.03.2023 (Annexure No. 4) to the Investigating Officer, P.S.-Tronica City, District- Ghaziabad to the effect that her father had settled her marriage with another person against her wishes. Therefore, she was unhappy. She had gone to the house of the petitioner no. 2, Ashish Chauhan on her own sweet will on 001.03.2023 and petitioner no. 2, Ashish Chauhan had not induced or enticed her from her house for marriage. The story given in the F.I.R. is fully false and fabricated.

9. The deponent of the present petition and petitioner no. 1, Prachi, is present before this Court who has been identified by learned counsel for the petitioners.

10. Per contra, learned counsel for the informant opposing the petition submits that the petitioner no. 2, Ashish Chauhan is a minor and there is no good ground to quash the impugned first information report.

11. Learned A.G.A. has opposed the prayer. However, she could not dispute the facts and has fairly submitted that as per instructions, according to C.B.S.E. certificate, the date of birth of petitioner no.1, Prachi is 01.01.2002 and therefore, she is major.

12. Before proceeding, it would be appropriate to take note of Sections 359, 362, 366 and 368 I.P.C. which are quoted hereunder :-

359. Kidnapping.?Kidnapping is of two kinds: kidnapping from India, and kidnapping from lawful guardianship.

362. Abduction.?Whoever by force compels, or by any deceitful means induces, any person to go from any place, is said to abduct that person.

Ingredients :- This section requires two things :-

(1) forceful compulsion or inducement by deceitful means;

(2) the object of such compulsion or inducement must be the going of a person from any place.

The expression "deceitful means" includes a misleading statement. It is, really speaking, a matter of intention. The intention of the accused is the basis and gravamen of the charge. If the consent of the person is freely and voluntarily given, there will be no abduction. Unlike kidnapping, abduction as defined u/s 362 I.P.C. is not an substantive offence under the Code but abduction is an auxilliary act and is made criminal and punishable only when it is done with one or other intention specified in Section 368 I.P.C.

366. Kidnapping, abducting or inducing woman to compel her marriage, etc. ?Whoever kidnaps or abducts any woman with intent that she may be compelled, or knowing it to be likely that she will be compelled, to marry any person against her will, or in order that she may be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, or knowing it to be likely that she will be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine; and whoever, by means of criminal intimidation as defined in this Code or of abuse of authority or any other method of compulsion, induces any woman to go from any place with intent that she may be, or knowing that it is likely that she will be, forced or seduced to illicit intercourse with another person shall be punishable as aforesaid.

(1) kidnapping or abducting of a woman;

(2) such kidnapping or abduction must be -

(ii) in order that she may be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse or knowing it to be likely that she will be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse; or

(iii) by means or criminal intimidation or otherwise by inducing any woman to go from any place with intent that she may be, or knowing that she will be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse.

Section 366 I.P.C. only applies when the woman abducted has no intention of marriage or lawful intercourse when abducted. Mere abduction does not bring the accused under the ambit of this penal section.

In Gabbu Vs. State of M.P., AIR 2006 SC 2461, the Apex Court has held that so far as the charge u/s 366 I.P.C. is concerned, mere finding that a woman was abducted is not enough. It must further be proved that the abduction is for the purposes mentioned in Section 366 I.P.C.

In Shahjahan Vs. State, 2011 Cr.L.J. 573, the Apex Court has held :-

"In order to establish an offence u/s 366 I.P.C., it must first be established that the offence of kidnapping under Section 361 I.P.C. or abduction under Section 362 I.P.C. has been proved. It must then be shown that such kidnapping or abduction was with the contumacious intent referred to under Section 366 I.P.C."

368. Wrongfully concealing or keeping in confinement, kidnapped or abducted person. ?Whoever, knowing that any person has been kidnapped or has been abducted, wrongfully conceals or confines such person, shall be punished in the same manner as if he had kidnapped or abducted such person with the same intention or knowledge, or for the same purpose as that with or for which he conceals or detains such person in confinement.

Ingredients :- To constitute an offence u/s 368 I.P.C., it is necessary to establish the following ingredients :-

(1) the person in question has been kidnapped/abducted;

(2) the accused knew that the said person has been kidnapped/abducted;

(3) the accused having such knowledge wrongfully conceals or confines the person concerned;

This section does not apply to the principal offender but to those persons who assist him in concealing a kidnapped or abducted person. The kidnapper cannot be convicted under this section.

13. In Birbal Chaudhary Vs. State of Bihar, AIR 2017 SC 4866, the Apex Court has held :

"the other party who wrongfully conceals or confines a kidnapped person knowing that he has been kidnapped, suffers the same consequences at par with the person who had kidnapped or abducted the person with the same intention or knowledge or for the same purpose."

14. Petitioner no. 1, Prachi in her affidavit has stated that she is a major girl, seriously fell in love with petitioner no. 2, accused/Ashish Chauhan. The father of the petitioner no. 1 has arranged and fixed her marriage with another person on 01.03.2023. Therefore, the petitioner no. 1, Prachi, was not happy with the marriage with another person. She had gone to the house of petitioner no. 2, accused/Ashish Chauhan with her own sweet will on 01.03.2023. Petitioner no. 1, Prachi, had love affair with petitioner no. 2, accused/Ashish Chauhan for the last one year and she was living with him with her free will.

15. For an offence to be constituted u/s 366 I.P.C., a major woman should be enticed or taken away without her consent from her home but in the present case, the abductee had clearly stated that she was neither taken away nor enticed to leave her home by the petitioner no. 2, accused/Ashish Chauhan but she had left her home on her own free will as her father had arranged her marriage with another person whereas she had love affair with the petitioner no. 2 for the last one year and she wanted to marry him. Section 366 I.P.C. would come into play only where there is kidnapping or abduction of a woman for the purposes mentioned in Section 366 I.P.C. Likewise, Section 368 I.P.C. would come into play only where the kidnapped or abducted person is concealed or confined by the accused. Since petitioner no. 1, Prachi Tyagi was not abducted from her home, prima facie, offence u/s 368 I.P.C. has not been made out against the petitioner no. 2, accused/Ashish Chauhan.

16. In such view of the matter, we find that the essential ingredients of Section 366 I.P.C. or even Section 368 I.P.C. (added during the course of investigation) are not fulfilled as purely legal question is involved and there is no dispute about the fact that the victim is major and present before this Court.

17. Under these facts and circumstances of the case, we are inclined to allow the writ petition.

18. Accordingly, the writ petition stands allowed. The First Information Report dated 03.03.2023 registered as Case Crime No. 129 of 2023 under Sections 366, 368 I.P.C., Police Station- Tronica City, District- (Commissionerate) Ghaziabad as well as all consequential proceedings are hereby quashed.

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Sri Balram Mishra

Counsel for the Respondents:

G.A.

Criminal Law - U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 - Section 3(1) - Quashing of FIR - Age of petitioner was more than 16 years on the date of incident, but as the two base cases shown against the petitioner in gang chart do not come within the category of cases described under Rules 22 (2), 27 of U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021 - As the said cases in the impugned gang chart are under Sections 379, 380 and 411 IPC, therefore, no action can be taken against him under the U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 - Hence, direction to police authorities to delete the name of petitioner from gang chart. (Para 9, 10)

Writ Petitions Allowed. (E-13)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ms. Nand Prabha Shukla, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. By means of the instant writ petition, the petitioner has challenged the First Information Report dated 30.07.2022 giving rise to Case Crime No. 244 of 2022 under Section 3(1) of Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986, Police Station-Maholi, District-Sant Kabir Nagar.

3. The contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the petitioner was minor at the time of occurrence in regard to two base cases shown in the gang chart and has been falsely implicated under the Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986. The details of criminal activities/base cases shown in the gang chart dated 24.07.2022 are as follows:

II. Case Crime No. 188 of 2022, under Sections 380, 411 IPC, Police Station-Maholi, District-Sant Kabir Nagar.

4. It has further been submitted that the petitioner has already been released on bail in Case Crime No. 180 of 2022 on 23.06.2022 and has been declared juvenile vide order dated 07.12.2022. The petitioner has also been released on bail in Case Crime No. 188 of 2022 on 23.06.2022. The counsel for the petitioner further argued that the petitioner was minor when the impugned FIR was registered, therefore, he cannot be booked under the said Act.

5. As per the High School Marksheet (Annexure ?3? to the writ petition), the date of birth of the petitioner is recorded as 09.10.2005 and on the date of incident his age was about 17 years and 21 days as per impugned FIR and was minor, therefore, cannot be prosecuted under the provisions of the U.P. Gangsters Act. It was further asserted that a ?minor? does not come within the purview of the word ?Person?. The word ?Person? does not include a child below 18 years of age, hence cannot be prosecuted.

6. Per contra, learned AGA for the State referred to the provisions of Section 11 of the Indian Penal Code defining the word ?Person? which reads as follows- The word ?Person? includes any company or association or body of persons whether incorporated or not.

7. However, after hearing both the parties, it is relevant to refer to Rule 27 of the Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021 which reads as follows:-

?27. Act not applicable to minor generally:- If the accused are minors and their age is less than 18 years, then they should not be included in the gang chart:- Provided that if the act of a juvenile falls under the category of offences mentioned in Rule 22 and his age is more than 16 years, then action can be taken against him under the relevant provisions of the Act, subject to the decision of the District Level Supervision Committee mentioned in Rule 64.?

8. Rule 22 of the Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021 which is also relevant reads as follows:-

?22. Criminal history not mandatory and sections of the Act can be imposed in the course of investigation:- 1. A single act/omission will also constitute an offence under the Act, the First Information Report may be registered on the basis of a single case i.e., it is not mandatory that any criminal history must be recorded and alleged before registering an offence under the Act.

2. The Act may also come into force on a single prosecution in certain class of cases, such asif it appears that the gang has committed a single offence mentioned in Sections 302, 376D, 395, 396 or 397 of the Penal Code out of the offences mentioned in sub-clause (i) of clause (b) of Section 2 of the Act or sub-clauses (ii), (iii), (v), (vii), (x), (xii), (xiv), (xv), (xvii), (xviii), (xix), (xx) or (xxi) of clause (b) of Section 2 of the Act, which is presently under investigation, and the offence under this Act is being proved by collected evidence, then along with the criminal act under consideration, the gang-chart should also be approved by the concerned Commissioner of Police/District Magistrate involved in the investigation of the said offence and the provisions of the Act can be imposed while investigating both the offences together in accordance with the provisions of the Act. Further, the charge-sheet can be sent to the Special Court constituted under the Act.?

9. Thus, from the facts and circumstances as contended above and the proviso to Rule 27, it is obvious that the age of the petitioner was more than 16 years on the date of the incident, but as the base cases shown against the petitioner in the gang chart do not come within the category of cases described under Rule 22

Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. Heard Sri B.R.Singh, learned counsel for the appellant and Mr A.A. Khan, learned counsel for respondents.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the claimant, challenges the judgment and order dated 18.11.1995 passed by M.A.C.T/4th-Additional District Judge, Mainpuri (hereinafter referred to as "Tribunal") in M.A.C.P. No. 60 of 1993 awarding a sum of Rs. 57,000/- as compensation with interest at the rate of 12%.

3. The accident is not in dispute. The issue of negligence decided by the Tribunal is not in dispute. The respondent-Insurance Company has not challenged the liability imposed on them. The only issue to be decided is, the quantum of compensation awarded.

4. Brief facts as culled out from the record are that on 15.09.1992, petitioner Dinesh Babu alongwith his brother Surya Prakash was going on a cycle on his left side of the road from his school Devnagari Inter College Kuraoli to his village Nanamau, as soon as at about 12:20 p.m he reached near Gailanath bridge on G.T.Road, a new chasis No. B.R. X-9252 came from Bhagaon side rashly and negligently ad without any alarm collided with the petitioner and his brother were seriously injured and their cycle was damaged. The petitioner and his younger brother Surya Prakash were driving cycle on correct side of the road.

5. The injured was 15 year old student. The tribunal has considered his income to be Nil, granted Rs. 15,000/- towards loss of medical expenses, granted Rs. 2000/- towards attendant charges for past and future and Rs. 40,000/- towards pain, shock and sufferings and ultimately assessed the total compensation to be Rs. 57,000/-.

6. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that no amount under the head loss of income has been granted by the Tribunal which is unjust and should be at least Rs.2,000/- per month. It is submitted that no amount is granted under the head of monthly loss to injured which is also unjust and should be at least 50%. It is submitted that no amount under the head of future loss of income has been granted. It is also submitted that the amount under the non-pecuniary heads and the interest awarded are also on the lower side and requires to be enhanced in view of the following authoritative pronouncements:

(i) Sanjay Kumar Vs. Ashok Kumar and another, (2014) 5 SCC 330;

(ii) Syed. Sadiq and others Vs. Divisional Manager, United India Insurance Company Limited, (2014) 2 SCC 735;

(iii) V. Mekala Vs. M. Malathi and another, (2014) 11 SCC 178; and

(iv) Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicles (Eleventh Amendment) Rules, 2011.

(v) Hari Babu Vs. Amrit Lal and others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 718 (All.).

(vi) Kajal Vs. Jagdish Chand reported in 2020 (0) AIJEL-SC 65725

7. Can additional interest be granted, the answer is no. The claimant is claiming that his income was Rs. 25000/- p.a. There is 100% loss of injury. The tribunal has not considered what is the loss of earning capacity but 30 years have elapsed since 15 year old student become crippled.

8. As against this, it is submitted by Mr. A.A. Khan, learned counsel for the respondent that even in the year 1992 the notional income can be Rs. 18,000/-p.m. and not more, there is no 100% loss of income, the multiplier of 15 is just and proper and could be granted even if this Court feels that the claimant is entitled to the enhanced amount.

9. After hearing the counsel for the parties and perusing the judgment and order impugned, as he was a student, this Court feels that income with potential to earn can be considered to be Rs.1500/- per month. To which as the injured was 15 years at the time of accident, 50% of the income towards disability. Further, a lump sum of Rs. 50,000/- for medical expenses. As far as the amount under pain, shock and sufferings is concerned, Rs.50,000/- is granted.

10. Hence, the total compensation payable to the appellant is computed herein below:

- i. Income : Rs.1500/-
- ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 40% namely Rs.600/-
- iii. Total income : Rs. 1500 + 600 = Rs. 2100/-
- iv. Loss of earning capacity : 50% namely Rs. 1000/- (rounded up)

v. Annual loss : Rs. 1000 x 12 = Rs. 12000/-

vi. Multiplier applicable : 15

vii. Total loss : Rs. 12000 x 15 = Rs. 1,80,000/- viii. Medical expenses : Rs. 50,000/-

ix. Amount under pain, shock and suffering : Rs.50,000/- xiii. Total compensation : 2,80,000/-

11. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till date.

12. No other grounds are urged orally when the matter was heard.

13. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Award and decree passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The amount be deposited by the respondent-Insurance Company within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

14. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma V/s. Venugopal, Reported in 2012 (1) GLH (SC), 442, the order of investment is not passed because applicants /claimants are neither illiterate or rustic villagers.

15. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansaguri P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291, total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimant to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) while disbursing the amount.

16. Fresh Award be drawn accordingly in the above petition by the tribunal as per the modification made herein. The Tribunals in the State shall follow the direction of this Court as herein aforementioned as far as disbursement is concerned, it should look into the condition of the litigant and the pendency of the matter and judgment of A.V. Padma (supra). The same is to be applied looking to the facts of each case.

17. The Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Private Ltd. v. Union of India and others vide order dated 27.1.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. As long period has elapsed, the amount be deposited in the Saving Account of claimants in Nationalized Bank without F.D.R.

18. Record be sent back to tribunal forthwith.

19. This Court is thankful to both the learned Advocates for ably assisting this Court.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal
Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. Heard Sri A.K.Pandey, learned counsel for the appellants, Sri Sushil Kumar Mehrotra, learned counsel for respondent no. 2/New India Insurance Co. Ltd., and Sri Amresh Sinha, learned counsel for the respondentNo.4/United India Insurance Company.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the claimants, challenges the judgment and order dated 21.8.1995 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/5th-Additional District Judge, Ballia (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in M.A.C. No. 2 of 1991.

3. Brief facts as culled out from the record are that on 14.10.1990 at about 3:00 p.m deceased Thakurji Upadhaya was returning from Ballia to his house in a jeep bearing no. B.H.N. 793, when the jeep reached near Hanuman Chatti at Ballia Sikandarpur marg, a Tractor bearing No.U.R.I. 732 hit the jeep from front. Accident occurred due to joint negligence of jeep and tractor drivers and as a result of which Thakurji Upadhaya died on the spot.

4. The deceased was 60 years of age at the time of accident. He was an agriculturist and was earning Rs.2,000/- p.m. He was survived by his two sons. The Tribunal has considered his income to be Nil, granted Rs.50,000/- as the total compensation. The Tribunal held both the drivers namely driver of the jeep in which the deceased was travelling and the driver of the tractor 50:50% negligent.

5. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the deceased was an agriculturist and was earning Rs. 2000/- p.m, but the Tribunal has considered his income to be Nil and it should be considered to be Rs.15,000/- per annum. It is further submitted that the Tribunal neither granted any amount for future loss of income of the deceased nor any amount is awarded under non-pecuniary heads which should be as per the decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 105.

6. It is submitted by both the counsels for respondent nos.2 and 4 that the quantum of compensation and the interest awarded by the Tribunal is just and proper and does not call for any interference by this Court.

7. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties, let us consider the negligence from the perspective of the law laid down.

8. The term negligence means failure to exercise care towards others which a reasonable and prudent person would in a circumstance or taking action which such a reasonable person would not. Negligence can be both intentional or accidental which is normally accidental. More particularly, it connotes reckless driving and the injured must always prove that the either side is negligent. If the injury rather death is caused by something owned or controlled by the negligent party then he is directly liable otherwise the principle of "res ipsa loquitur" meaning thereby "the things speak for itself" would apply.

9. The principle of contributory negligence has been discussed time and again. A person who either contributes or author of the accident would be liable for his contribution to the accident having taken place.

10. The Division Bench of this Court in First Appeal From Order No. 1818 of 2012 (Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Co.Ltd. Vs. Smt. Renu Singh And Others) decided on 19.7.2016 has held as under :

"16. Negligence means failure to exercise required degree of care and caution expected of a prudent driver. Negligence is the omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided upon the considerations, which ordinarily regulate conduct of human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. Negligence is not always a question of direct evidence. It is an inference to be drawn from proved facts. Negligence is not an absolute term, but is a relative one. It is rather a comparative term. What may be negligence in one case may not be so in another. Where there is no duty to exercise care, negligence in the popular sense has no legal consequence. Where there is a duty to exercise care, reasonable care must be taken to avoid acts or omissions which would be reasonably foreseen likely to caused physical injury to person. The degree of care required, of course, depends upon facts in each case. On these broad principles, the negligence of drivers is required to be assessed.

17. It would be seen that burden of proof for contributory negligence on the part of deceased has to be discharged by the opponents. It is the duty of driver of the offending vehicle to explain the accident. It is well settled law that at intersection where two roads cross each other, it is the duty of a fast moving vehicle to slow down and if driver did not slow down at intersection, but continued to proceed at a high speed without caring to notice that another vehicle was crossing, then the conduct of driver necessarily leads to conclusion that vehicle was being driven by him rashly as well as negligently.

18. 10th Schedule appended to Motor Vehicle Act contain statutory regulations for driving of motor vehicles which also form part of every Driving License. Clause-6 of such Regulation clearly directs that the driver of every motor vehicle to slow down vehicle at every intersection or junction of roads or at a turning of the road. It is also provided that driver of the vehicle should not enter intersection or junction of roads unless he makes sure that he would not thereby endanger any other person. Merely, because driver of the Truck was driving vehicle on the left side of road would not absolve him from his responsibility to slow down vehicle as he approaches intersection of roads, particularly when he could have easily seen, that the car over which deceased was riding, was approaching intersection.

19. In view of the fast and constantly increasing volume of traffic, motor vehicles upon roads may be regarded to some extent as coming within the principle of liability defined in Rylands V/s. Fletcher, (1868) 3 HL (LR) 330. From the point of view of pedestrian, the roads of this country have been rendered by the use of motor vehicles, highly dangerous. 'Hit and run' cases where drivers of motor vehicles who have caused accidents, are unknown. In fact such cases are increasing in number. Where a pedestrian without negligence on his part is injured or killed by a motorist, whether negligently or not, he or his legal representatives, as the case may be, should be entitled to recover damages if principle of social justice should have any meaning at all.

20. These provisions (sec.110A and sec.110B of Motor Act, 1988) are not merely procedural provisions. They substantively affect the rights of the parties. The right of action created by Fatal Accidents Act, 1855 was 'new in its species, new in its quality, new in its principles. In every way it was new. The right given to legal representatives under Act, 1988 to file an application for compensation for death due to a motor vehicle accident is an enlarged one. This right cannot be hedged in by limitations of an action under Fatal Accidents Act, 1855. New situations and new dangers require new strategies and new remedies.

21. In the light of the above discussion, we are of the view that even if courts may not by interpretation displace the principles of law which are considered to be well settled and, therefore, court cannot dispense with proof of negligence altogether in all cases of motor vehicle accidents, it is possible to develop the law further on the following lines; when a motor vehicle is being driven with reasonable care, it would ordinarily not meet with an accident and, therefore, rule of res-ipsa loquitor as a rule of evidence may be invoked in motor accident cases with greater frequency than in ordinary civil suits (per three-Judge Bench in Jacob Mathew V/s. State of Punjab, 2005 0 ACJ(SC) 1840).

22. By the above process, the burden of proof may ordinarily be cast on the defendants in a motor accident claim petition to prove that motor vehicle was being driven with reasonable care or that there is equal negligence on the part the other side."

11. The Apex Court in Khenyei Vs. New India Assurance Company Limited & Others, 2015 LawSuit (SC) 469 has held as under:

"4. It is a case of composite negligence where injuries have been caused to the claimants by combined wrongful act of joint tort feorsors. In a case of accident caused by negligence of joint tort feorsors, all the persons who aid or counsel or direct or join in committal of a wrongful act, are liable. In such case, the liability is always joint and several. The extent of negligence of joint tort feors in such a case is immaterial for satisfaction of the claim of the plaintiff/claimant and need not be determined by the by the court. However, in case all the joint tort feors are before the court, it may determine the extent of their liability for the purpose of adjusting inter-se equities between them at appropriate stage. The liability of each and every joint tort feor vis a vis to plaintiff/claimant cannot be bifurcated as it is joint and several liability. In the case of composite negligence, apportionment of compensation between tort feors for making payment to the plaintiff is not permissible as the plaintiff/claimant has the right to recover the entire amount from the easiest targets/solvent defendant.

14. There is a difference between contributory and composite negligence. In the case of contributory negligence, a person who has himself contributed to the extent cannot claim compensation for the injuries sustained by him in the accident to the extent of his own negligence; whereas in the case of composite negligence, a person who has suffered has not contributed to the accident but the outcome of combination of negligence of two or more other persons. This Court in T.O. Anthony v. Karvarnan & Ors. [2008 (3) SCC 748] has held that in case of contributory negligence, injured need not establish the extent of responsibility of each wrong doer separately, nor is it necessary for the court to determine the extent of liability of each wrong doer separately. It is only in the case of contributory negligence that the injured himself has contributed by his negligence in the accident. Extent of his negligence is required to be determined as damages recoverable by him in respect of the injuries have to be reduced in proportion to

"6. 'Composite negligence' refers to the negligence on the part of two or more persons. Where a person is injured as a result of negligence on the part of two or more wrong doers, it is said that the person was injured on account of the composite negligence of those wrong-doers. In such a case, each wrong doer, is jointly and severally liable to the injured for payment of the entire damages and the injured person has the choice of proceeding against all or any of them. In such a case, the injured need not establish the extent of responsibility of each wrong-doer separately, nor is it necessary for the court to determine the extent of liability of each wrong-doer separately. On the other hand where a person suffers injury, partly due to the negligence on the part of another person or persons, and partly as a result of his own negligence, then the negligence of the part of the injured which contributed to the accident is referred to as his contributory negligence. Where the injured is guilty of some negligence, his claim for damages is not defeated merely by reason of the negligence on his part but the damages recoverable by him in respect of the injuries stands reduced in proportion to his contributory negligence.

7. Therefore, when two vehicles are involved in an accident, and one of the drivers claims compensation from the other driver alleging negligence, and the other driver denies negligence or claims that the injured claimant himself was negligent, then it becomes necessary to consider whether the injured claimant was negligent and if so, whether he was solely or partly responsible for the accident and the extent of his responsibility, that is his contributory negligence. Therefore where the injured is himself partly liable, the principle of 'composite negligence' will not apply nor can there be an automatic inference that the negligence was 50:50 as has been assumed in this case. The Tribunal ought to have examined the extent of contributory negligence of the appellant and thereby avoided confusion between composite negligence and contributory negligence. The High Court has failed to correct the said error."

18. This Court in Challa Bharathamma & Nanjappan (supra) has dealt with the breach of policy conditions by the owner when the insurer was asked to pay the compensation fixed by the tribunal and the right to recover the same was given to the insurer in the executing court concerned if the dispute between the insurer and the owner was the subject-matter of determination for the tribunal and the issue has been decided in favour of the insured. The same analogy can be applied to the instant cases as the liability of the joint tortfeasor is joint and several. In the instant case, there is determination of inter se liability of composite negligence to the extent of negligence of 2/3rd and 1/3rd of respective drivers. Thus, the vehicle - trailer-truck which was not insured with the insurer, was negligent to the extent of 2/3rd. It would be open to the insurer being insurer of the bus after making payment to claimant to recover from the owner of the trailer-truck the amount to the aforesaid extent in the execution proceedings. Had there been no determination of the inter se liability for want of evidence or other joint tortfeasor had not been impleaded, it was not open to settle such a dispute and to recover the amount in execution proceedings but the remedy would be to file another suit or appropriate proceedings in accordance with law.

What emerges from the aforesaid discussion is as follows :

(i) In the case of composite negligence, plaintiff/claimant is entitled to sue both or any one of the joint tortfeasors and to recover the entire compensation as liability of joint tortfeasors is joint and several.

(ii) In the case of composite negligence, apportionment of compensation between two tortfeasors vis a vis the plaintiff/claimant is not permissible. He can recover at his option whole damages from any of them.

(iii) In case all the joint tortfeasors have been impleaded and evidence is sufficient, it is open to the court/tribunal to determine inter se extent of composite negligence of the drivers. However, determination of the extent of negligence between the joint tortfeasors is only for the purpose of their inter se liability so that one may recover the sum from the other after making whole of payment to the plaintiff/claimant to the extent it has satisfied the liability of the other. In case both of them have been impleaded and the apportionment/ extent of their negligence has been determined by the court/tribunal, in main case one joint tortfeasor can recover the amount from the other in the execution proceedings.

(iv) It would not be appropriate for the court/tribunal to determine the extent of composite negligence of the drivers of two vehicles in the absence of impleadment of other joint tortfeasors. In such a case, impleaded joint tortfeasor should be left, in case he so desires, to sue the other joint tortfeasor in independent proceedings after passing of the decree or award."

12. The latest decision of the Apex Court in Khenyei (Supra) has laid down one further aspect about considering the negligence more particularly composite/contributory negligence. The deceased or the person concerned should be shown to have contributed either to the accident and the impact of accident upon the victim could have been minimised if he had taken care. In this case the deceased was not the author or the co-author of the accident.

13. There is a fallacious belief of the learned Tribunal in holding that if claim petition under Section 140 read with Section 166 M.V. Act is filed, the claimants are entitled to amount on only no fault liability basis and the Presiding Officer holds that the learned Advocate for the claimants opted for getting the amount only under Section 140 of the M.V. Act, this could not have been the mandate of the legislation. The finding to this effect is bad in the eye of law. The provisions of Section 140 of M.V. Act is read as follows:

"140. Liability to pay compensation in certain cases on the principle of no fault.--

(1) Where death or permanent disablement of any person has resulted from an accident arising out of the use of a motor vehicle or motor vehicles, the owner of the vehicle shall, or, as the case may be, the owners of the vehicles shall, jointly and severally, be liable to pay compensation in respect of such death or disablement in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(2) The amount of compensation which shall be payable under sub-section (1) in respect of the death of any person shall be a fixed sum of 1[fifty thousand rupees] and the amount of compensation payable under that sub-section in respect of the permanent disablement of any person shall be a fixed sum of 2[twenty-five thousand rupees].

(3) In any claim for compensation under sub-section (1), the claimant shall not be required to plead and establish that the death or permanent disablement in respect of which the claim has been made was due to any wrongful act, neglect or default of the owner or owners of the vehicle or vehicles concerned or of any other person.

(4) A claim for compensation under sub-section (1) shall not be defeated by reason of any wrongful act, neglect or default of the person in respect of whose death or permanent disablement the claim has been made nor shall the quantum of compensation recoverable in respect of such death or permanent disablement be reduced on the basis of the share of such person in the responsibility for such death or permanent disablement. 3[(5) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (2) regarding death or bodily injury to any person, for which the owner of the vehicle is liable to give compensation for relief, he is also liable to pay compensation under any other law for the time being in force: Provided that the amount of such compensation to be given under any other law shall be reduced from the amount of compensation payable under this section or under section 163A.]"

It is now a cardinal principle enunciated by the Apex Court that amount under Section 140 of M.V. Act is under no fault liability and is independent of Section 166 of M.V. Act. The difference if the claim petition is filed under Section 163A and 166 of M.V. Act, the claimants will have to choose as per the judgment of Deepal Girishbhai Soni And Ors vs United India Insurance Co. Ltd. (2004) 5 SCC 385, therefore this appeal will have to be allowed on this short ground. It was a case of composite negligence, the deceased was not tortfeasor and therefore deducting the amount is also again fallacious finding of facts.

14. The finding of fact that both the drivers were negligent is upheld by this Court, the amount would be apportioned between the two tortfeasors though normally this should not be done but in this case when there are two insurance companies who have been saddled with liability they both shall deposit compensation as per the negligence namely 50% each of total compensation.

15. This takes this Court to the issue of compensation. The income of the deceased in the year of accident and looking to his profession can be considered to be Rs.15,000/- per annum. As far as amount under the head of non-pecuniary damages are concerned, it should be Rs.70,000/-. As far as multiplier is concerned it should be of 5. The sons though may be major are legal representatives and hence entitled to compensation, there can be no addition in future prospects.

i. Income: Rs.15,000/- p.a

ii. Income after deduction of personal expenses : Rs. 7500/-

iii. Multiplier applicable : 5

iv. Loss of dependency: Rs.7500 x 5 = Rs.37,500/-

v. Amount under non-pecuniary head : 30,000/-

vi. Total compensation : 67,500/-

17. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

18. No other grounds are urged orally when the matter was heard.

19. 1 In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and award passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited. The Insurance Company who will deposit the entire amount can have their right to recover the amount from owner and the Insurance Company of the other vehicle. As far as deceased is concerned, it is a case of composite negligence, hence, the amount cannot be deducted from the compensation awarded to the claimants who are the heirs of a non tort-feasor.

20. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansagori P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291 and this High Court in , total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimant to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) and in First Appeal From Order No.2871 of 2016 (Tej Kumari Sharma v. Chola Mandlam M.S. General Insurance Co. Ltd.) decided on 19.3.2021 while disbursing the amount.

Government Appeal No. 845 of 2018

State of U.P. ...Appellant
Versus

Counsel for the Appellant:
 G.A., Sri Hari Pratap Singh

Counsel for the Opposite Party:

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 304 - The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 313 - Appeal against acquittal - Circumstantial Evidence - FIR was lodged on 05.01.2017, alleging that accused had killed his father, who was around 90 years of age - Accused pressurised his father to give money to him so that he could buy liquor - Charges framed, acquitted - St. argued that PW-2 had actually seen the crime being committed - Held, unless the view taken by Trial Court was a view which could not have been possibly taken on the basis of evidence available on record, it cannot be said that view taken by Trial Court was not a reasonably possible view - Perusal of St.ments of witnesses shows that findings of Trial Court were appropriate - Trial Court's view was definitely a possible view, not perverse - Hence, appeal dismissed. (Para 2, 7, 10)

Appeal Dismissed. (E-13)

List of Cases cited:

1. Sharad Birdhi Chand Vs St. of Mah., reported in 1984 (4) SCC 116

2. Murlidhar @ Gidda & Anr. Vs St. of Karn., reported in (2014) 5 SCC 730

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Kumar Nigam, J.)

1. Heard Shri Haripratap Gupta and learned A.G.A. for the State and also perused the record.

2. A First Information Report was lodged on 05.01.2017 alleging that in the previous night the accused had killed Ramnath the father of the accused and the informant. The father of the accused Panna Lal Kushwaha, it has been stated the informant Vijay, was around 90 years of age and was being all the time pressurised by the accused Panna Lal to give money to him so that he could buy liquor, etc. It has also been stated in the First Information report that the brother of the first informant was a little mentally disbalanced. Upon the First Information Report being lodged, Case Crime No. 14 of 2017 under Section 304 IPC was registered. Investigation followed and thereafter charge-sheet was submitted. Thereafter the Court framed charges and trial commenced. After the trial when the case resulted in acquittal, the State filed the instant Government Appeal.

3. In the trial Court from the side of the prosecution PW-1 Vijay Kushwaha, PW-2 Keshav Khan, PW-3 Constable Ajay Kumar, PW-4 Dr. Parutosh Shukla, PW-5 Sub-Inspector Vijay Singh Yadav, PW-6 Sub-Inspector Nitesh Kumar were examined. Documentary evidence were there in the form of FIR, Chick Report, Spot Inspection, Panchayat Nama, Naksha Photonash, Challan of the dead body and the Post Mortem Report.

4. The accused has given his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and had denied the committing of the crime.

5. In his statement before the trial Court PW-1 who was the first informant had stated that the accused was staying with the deceased (father) and because PW-1 was all the time afraid of the fact that the accused Panna Lal would also indulge in Marpeet with him he used to stay away from the family. He has also stated that Panna Lal, the accused used to indulge in various types of intoxication and for that purpose he used to always demand money from his father and when that money was not given to him he used to indulge in Marpeet.

6. In the night of 04/05.01.2017 it was stated by him that Panna Lal had beaten the deceased Ramnath black and blue and when the first informant reached the house of the deceased in the morning he had found that the father was still breathing and he had also uttered that the Panna Lal had beaten him. The first informant had therefore rushed with his father to the hospital where he died on the way and consequently thereafter he had gone to lodge the First Information Report. PW-2 is another witness of fact. He has stated that he was having his lock and key shop in the neighborhood and in the night of 4/5.1.2017 he had crossed the house of the deceased Ramnath and had heard some verbal altercation taking place between the father and the son. The other prosecution witnesses were formal police witnesses. However, the learned A.G.A. since had laid stress on the statement of PW-4, who had proved the Post Mortem Report and had brought to the notice of the trial Court, the 12 injuries which were found on the body of the deceased. The PW-5 again is the Sub-Inspector who has proved the First Information Report and he was also the Investigating Officer.

7. The court below after dealing with all the evidence which were led before it, concluded that the case was that of circumstantial evidence and after relying upon the case of Sharad Birdhi Chand vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in 1984 (4) SCC 116 had found that as all the links to prove that the crime which had been committed by the accused were not being found the case had to result in an acquittal. It has also stated that substantially evidence were not such which would lead to the only conclusion that the crime had taken place on account of the fact that the accused had pre-planned the crime and thereafter had committed the same.

8. Learned A.G.A. has argued that if the evidence which was there before the trial Court was looked into and specially the statement of PW-2 Keshav Khan then it would be clear that Keshav Khan had actually seen the crime being committed.

9. Having heard learned A.G.A. and after having gone through the record, the Court is of the view that the view taken by the trial Court was a possible view.

10. On a careful perusal of the judgment on record, we find that it cannot be said that the view taken by the Trial Court was perverse or unreasonable. Simply because another view might have been taken on the evidence available would not give us any ground for interfering with the order of acquittal. Unless the view taken by the Trial Court was a view which could not have been possibly taken on the basis of the evidence available on record, it cannot be said that the view taken by the Trial Court was not a reasonably possible view. In fact, the perusal of the statements of the witnesses definitely shows that the findings of the Trial Court were appropriate.

11. This Court which is sitting in appeal over a judgment of acquittal as per the judgment of the Supreme Court in Murlidhar alias Gidda & Anr. vs. State of Karnataka reported in 0 can only interfere in an appeal if the view taken by the Trial Court was not a view which was possible. Considering the inconsistencies, improvements and also the fact that essential ingredients to constitute the offence charged against the accused were not found to be proved beyond reasonable doubt, we are of the view that the Trial Court's view was definitely a possible view. Hence, the instant appeal is liable to be dismissed.

12. Under such circumstances, the Court is of the view that there is absolutely no error in the assessment of the Trial Court.

13. In view of the aforesaid, the appeal is dismissed at the admission stage itself and no leave to appeal is being granted.

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Tax Law – Assessment - U.P. Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 - Sections 67 & 74 - For taking recourse to Section 74, it is essential that along with search and seizure report, certain specific averment is made w.r.t. the supply of goods and the non-payment of tax coupled with the fact that the same should be by reasons of fraud, willful misstatement or suppression of facts and an intent to evade the tax. The adjudicating authority clearly erred in assessing and quantifying the demand and levying the penalty by taking recourse to some guidelines issued by the Income Tax Authorities (sole basis for issuance of the show cause notice was the SIB report, which finds mention in the notice as well as the additional notice) which is impermissible while determining the tax liability u/s 74. The order of the appellate authority is even further bad in law as it discloses no reason, whatsoever for assessing the tax and quantifying the liability. While on the one hand, the appellate authority disapproved the manner in which the adjudicating authority had assessed and quantified the demand of tax and penalty, in the same breath, he proceeds to quantify the tax and imposed penalty without disclosing any reasons whatsoever. (Para 15)

B. Distinction between assessment u/Ss 73 and 74 is that Section 73 prescribes for normal determination of tax and Section 74 prescribes for determination of tax not paid for the reasons of fraud, willful misstatement or suppression of facts coupled with intent to evade payment of tax. It is clear in the present case that department has taken recourse to Section 74 for assessing the demand of tax and penalty leviable. (Para 12)

The manner in which the demand has been raised and quantified is not in consonance with the mandate of Section 74 and thus on the ground alone, impugned appellate orders as well as the adjudicating authority's orders are liable to be quashed. (Para 16)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Present petition challenges order dated 03.06.2021, passed by the Deputy Commissioner, Commercial Tax – Sector-1, Fatehpur, as well as the order in appeal dated 13.07.2021 preferred against the order dated 03.06.2021.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Bhatia, J.)

1. Both the said writ petitions arise out of the similar proceedings against the

2. For the sake of brevity, the facts of Writ Tax No.4 of 2022 are being recorded.

3. By means of the said writ petition, the petitioner challenges the order dated 03.06.2021 passed by the respondent no.3 as well as the order in appeal dated 13.07.2021 preferred against the order dated 03.06.2021.

4. The facts in brief are that the petitioner is a partnership concern and is duly registered with the GST Department. The petitioner claims that all the inwards and outwards supply was duly reflected on the portal of the department and the petitioner uploaded the supply made by him in GSTR-1 and after claiming the Input Tax Credit as reflected in GSTR-2A, filed his return in the form of GSTR-3B claiming the benefit of Input Tax Credit. It is argued that the returns filed were accepted and were never questioned and no proceedings were initiated in the case of the petitioner.

5. It is argued that an inspection was carried out on the business premises of the petitioner on 31.10.2019 and a Panchanama was drawn wherein the stock present in the business premises was recorded and certain papers were seized in exercise of powers under Section 67 of the GST Act.

6. The contention of the Counsel for the petitioner is that the search and seizure memo was not in accordance with law, however, the said issue is not agitated before this Court and no relief to that extent has been sought. It is stated that search and seizure was carried out by the SIB Authorities. The petitioner objecting to the manner in which the search and seizure was carried out, moved an application along with an affidavit on 18.12.2019 and thereafter nothing transpired. On 08.01.2021, the respondent no.3 issued a notice under Section 74 of the UPGST Act for the period July, 2017 to March, 2018 (Annexure-7 to the writ petition). It is argued that in the said notice, the date for filing the reply was mentioned as 22.01.2021 and, the date and the time for personal hearing was also mentioned as 22.01.2021 but the venue of personal hearing was not disclosed as is clear from the perusal of the notice (Annexure-7). Alongwith the said show cause notice, the petitioner was also supplied with the summary of show cause notice dated 08.01.2021 in the form of GST DRC-01 (Annexure-8).

7. It is argued that in the show cause notice, in the column indicating the brief fact of the case "Adverse material found in SIB" was mentioned and in the column of grounds for issuance of the show cause notice, it was again mentioned that "Adverse material found in SIB". The petitioner further argues that yet another notice was issued calling upon the petitioner to submit reply by 24.12.2020. In the said notice also, the report of the SIB was mentioned. It is argued that in all the notices, there is a reference to the SIB report, which was the foundation for issuance of the notice under Section 74, however, the said report was never supplied to the petitioner. Despite that, the petitioner submitted his reply on 08.01.2021. It is specifically alleged that neither at the time of issuance of show cause notice nor on the date of hearing any evidence whatsoever was adduced against the petitioner, even the SIB reply was never produced, however, an order came to be passed on 03.06.2021 under Section 74 of the UPGST Act wherein the demand of tax and penalty was quantified against the petitioner at Rs.14,84,099.82/-. He draws my attention to the order passed under Section 74, wherein on the basis of the SIB report and the documents referred therein as well as some ex-parte submission by the department wherein it had claimed that 20% profit should be deemed to be appropriate, as against which, the Assessing Authority was of the view that even under the Income Tax Act, 1961, 8% profit would be an appropriate estimate and on the said basis quantified the demand and penalty against the petitioner. The petitioner preferred an appeal against the said order on various grounds. The appellate authority decided the appeal and partly allowed the same. While allowing the appeal held that on the basis of the provisions of the Income Tax Act, the manner of assessment done by the adjudicating authority cannot be justified, however, without disclosing any basis, whatsoever, quantified the tax and penalty at Rs.9,30,969.60/-. The said order is under challenge before this Court as the Appellate Tribunal has not yet been constituted.

8. The contention of the Counsel for the petitioner Sri Aloke Kumar is that for invoking the powers under Section 74, it is essential that all the documents proposed to be relied upon should be provided, which has not been done in the present case. He further argues that in terms of the mandate of Section 74, it is essential that the demand of tax be quantified after considering the supply of goods, the time and value of supply and after recording that the petitioner did not pay the tax, which he was required to pay. He further argues that from the perusal of the order of the adjudicating authority as well as the appellate authority, it is clear that while adjudicating the issues, the department has assessed the demand and penalty on the basis of the best judgment assessment which is possible only when recourse is taken to Section 62 and the said best judgment assessment procedure is neither prescribed nor contemplated under Section 74.

9. The Counsel for the petitioner further argues that the recourse to the guidelines issued to the Income Tax Authorities cannot be invoked for completing the assessment as has been done by the adjudicating authority. He further argues that the appellate authority has not recorded any reasons whatsoever for quantifying the tax and penalty, although the same was substantially reduced from what was assessed by the adjudicating authorities.

10. Learned Standing Counsel, on the other hand, tries to justify the demand on the ground that on the basis of search and seizure carried out, huge quantity of the stock, which was not quantified property, was found in the business premises and on the said basis, the department has rightly assessed the duty and penalty against the petitioner.

11. Considering the said submissions at the bar, it is essential to note the scheme of the UPGST Act.

12. In terms of the provisions of the GST Act, the tax is leviable on the supply of goods as specified under Section 7 and the said tax is to be paid at the time of supply of goods, which is clarified under Chapter IV of the UPGST Act. The value on which the tax is to be levied flows from Section 15 of the Act, which mandates the manner in which the value of the taxable supply is to be done. Chapter IX of the said Act prescribes for filing of the returns by the assessee and Chapter X mandates the payment of tax, interest, penalty and other amounts on the basis of the returns filed as prescribed under Chapter IX of the said Act. Chapter XIV of the Act confers the power on the authorized officers with regard to the inspection, search, seizure and arrest and Chapter XV prescribes for demands and recovery in respect of the tax not paid or short paid or erroneously refunded or input tax credit wrongly availed. The distinction between assessment under Sections 73 and 74 is that Section 73 prescribes for normal determination of tax and Section 74 prescribes for determination of tax not paid for the reasons of fraud, willful misstatement or suppression of facts coupled with intent to evade payment of tax. It is clear in the present case that department has taken recourse to Section 74 for assessing the demand of tax and penalty leviable.

13. The sole basis for issuance of the show cause notice under Section 74 was the SIB report, which finds mention in the notice as well as the additional notice served upon the petitioner. No material in the form of the SIB report was ever supplied to the petitioner as is contended by the petitioner specifically in the writ petition in paragraph 31. Although in the counter affidavit, it has been stated that the SIB report was never demanded by the petitioner, however, on the request of the assessee, the same was given at the time of assessment proceedings and he had submitted a return reply against the said report. In the impugned order, there is no mention of SIB report being supplied to the petitioner or his counsel or consideration of the alleged reply while passing the impugned order.

14. Be that as it may, the fact remains that while passing the assessment order, the adjudicating authority assessed the demand of tax and levied penalty on the basis of some guidelines issued by the Income Tax Authorities and taking the mean average of 8%, which is wholly impermissible while adjudicating Section 74, the said manner of adjudication adopted by the respondents department can at best be termed as best judgment assessment which can be resorted to only under Section 62 and that too only in respect of the persons who have not filed the returns. In respect of the persons who have filed returns, Section 61(3) is very clear under which the department is duly empowered to take action under Sections 73 or 74, in case the returns furnished contain discrepancies and the assessee fails to take corrective measures in respect of the said discrepancies.

15. For taking recourse to Section 74, it is essential that along with search and seizure report, certain specific averment is made with regard to the supply of goods and the non-payment of tax coupled with the fact that the same should be by reasons of fraud, willful misstatement or suppression of facts and an intent to evade the tax. The adjudicating authority clearly erred in assessing and quantifying the demand and levying the penalty by taking recourse to some guidelines issued by the Income Tax Authorities which is impermissible while determining the tax liability under Section 74. The order of the appellate authority is even further bad in law as it discloses no reason, whatsoever for assessing the tax and quantifying the liability. While on the one hand, the appellate authority disapproved the manner in which the adjudicating authority had assessed and quantified the demand of tax and penalty, in the same breath, he proceeds to quantify the tax and imposed penalty without disclosing any reasons whatsoever.

16. On the perusal of the adjudicating authority's order as well as the appellate order, the manner in which the demand has been raised and quantified is not in consonance with the mandate of Section 74 and thus on the ground alone, impugned appellate orders as well as the adjudicating authority's orders are liable to be quashed.

17. Accordingly, the appellate order dated 13.07.2021 and the order dated 03.06.2021 challenged in Writ Tax No.4 of 2022 and the appellate order dated 13.07.2022 and the order dated 09.06.2021 challenged in Writ Tax No.5 of 2022 are quashed.

18. Both the writ petition stand allowed.

19. Any amount deposited by the petitioner shall be refunded to the petitioner on his moving an appropriate application in accordance with law.

Counsel for the Respondents:

C.S.C.

A. Tax Law – Assessment of non-payment of tax - U.P. Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 – Sections 74 & 104(4) - It is mandatory for the department to give the opportunity of hearing as per the Section 75(4) of the Act. It is equally well settled that any document proposed to be relied upon should be provided to the assessee prior to conclusion of the proceedings. (Para 17)

In the present case, the order dated 24.01.2022, clearly falls short of the principle of natural of justice as admittedly the SIB report, which is the foundation was never supplied to the petitioner, no hearing was granted to the petitioner u/s 75(4) of the Act and there is prima facie no material other than the SIB report to corroborate the discrepancies as allegedly found by the SIB at the time of scrutiny of returns and inspection. (Para 14, 18)

B. Mere report of inspection and discrepancy in the scrutiny of returns is not enough to assess and levy the tax, the said discrepancies, even if noticed by the department should be corroborated with materials in the form of either the evidence or in any other form as the department may deem fit. (Para 16)

Irrespective of the outcome of the scrutiny of return u/s 61 of the Act or the inspection carried out u/ s 67 of the Act, the burden of assessing the short payment of tax or wrong availment of input tax credit still lies on the department which is to be discharged by the department. (Para 15)

Section 74 from its plain reading confers the power to assess the non-payment of tax on the supply or wrong availment of input tax credit by the reasons of fraud, wilful misstatement or suppression of facts coupled with an intent to evade tax. For that it is essential that the relevant evidence is carried out by the department in respect of the taxable supplies made by the assessee and non-payment of tax which is required to be done at the time of supply as specified u/s 13 of the Act. It is also incumbent on the department to compute the value of taxable supply on the goods on which it is alleged that the tax has either not been paid or short paid or short levied. In addition to the said, the burden is on the department to establish that the said non-payment was on account of fraud, wilful misstatement or suppression of facts. Without any corroborative material, merely on the basis of discrepancies found in the scrutiny of returns or discrepancies found during the inspection is not enough to assess the tax. (Para 16)

Writ petitions allowed. Matter remanded. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

M.P. Steel Corporation Vs Commissioner of Central Excise, 2015 (7) SCC 58 (Para 5)

Present petitions challenge the order dated 24.01.2022, passed u/s 74 of the U.P. G.S.T. Act as well as the order dated 30.09.2022, passed by the first appellate authority whereby the appeal was dismissed as beyond limitation.

1. Both the writ petitions are common in terms of the content and relate to the same assessee although for different years, as such, the same are being decided by means of this common order. For the sake of brevity, the facts of Writ Tax No.1570 of 2022 are being referred to.

2. Both the writ petitions have been filed challenging the order dated 24.01.2022 passed in exercise of the power under Section 74 of the U.P. G.S.T. Act against the petitioner as well as the order dated 30.09.2022 passed by the first appellate authority whereby the appeal was dismissed as beyond limitation.

3. The contention of the counsel for the petitioner is that the appellate authority has erred in dismissing the delay condonation application, however he argues that in the event, this Court finds that the appellate court had rightly dismissed the application for extension of period of limitation, this Court should hear the matter in respect of challenge to the order dated 24.01.2022 on the grounds which are available for challenge of a quasi judicial order in exercise of the power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, more so as the doctrine of merger would not apply as the appeal has been dismissed on the ground of limitation and not on merits.

4. On perusal of the appellate order (Annexure no.13), it is clear that the same has been dismissed as being beyond limitation prescribed under Section 104 (4) of the U.P. G.S.T.Act.

5. Considering the law which is clearly well settled by the Supreme Court in the case of M.P. Steel Corporation vs. Commissioner of Central Excise 2015(7) SCC 58, I do not find any error in the appellate order dated 30.09.2022, whereby the appeal was dismissed on the ground of limitation. However, this Court is to consider the validity of the order dated 24.01.2022 on the limited grounds which are available for judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution of India as the order dated 24.01.2022 has not merged in the order dated 30.09.2022.

6. The facts, in brief, are that the petitioner claims to be an assessee and holds a valid registration under the U.P.

G.S.T. Act. It is claimed that the petitioner had uploaded the relevant documents of sale and inward supply and had claimed input tax credit in accordance with law, however, for the financial year 2017-18, an inspection was carried out by the Deputy Commissioner (SIB), Commercial Tax, Gorakhpur on 20.04.2018 and a Panchanama was prepared in pursuance to the inspection so carried out. The inspection report is on record as Annexure no.2 and 3.

7. It is argued that in terms of the said search and seizure, summons were issued to the petitioner under section 70 of the Act on 28.04.2018, the petitioner appeared in pursuance to the said summons and also filed a reply. Subsequently, after about three years on 02.09.2021, the petitioner was served with a show cause notice under section 74 of the U.P.G.S.T. Act on the basis of the SIB survey report. The said show cause notice is on record as Annexure no.8. Along with the said show cause notice, no relied upon documents were mentioned and the petitioner was not even supplied with a copy of the SIB report. The petitioner asked for adjournment and was waiting for the supply of the SIB report, however, an ex-parte order came to be passed on 24.01.2022 solely based upon the said SIB report (Annexure no.9).

8. The contention of the counsel for the petitioner is that the entire proceedings initiated against the petitioner on 02.09.2022 were based upon the SIB report and without supplying a copy of the SIB report, the petitioner was not in a position to file a reply to the show cause notice. He further argues that the order dated 24.01.2022 is an ex-parte order solely based upon the SIB report and without there being any effort of the department to corroborate the same by means of any evidence whatsoever. He further argues that even if for the sake of argument, it is accepted that in the survey carried out by the SIB, there was some discrepancy in the recording of the materials, it is still incumbent upon the department to establish that the Tax was not paid on the supplies effected by corroborating the same by means of some evidence either in the form of evidences by the purchaser of the said goods or otherwise.

9. He draws my attention to argue that the G.S.T. is payable on supply of goods in terms of Section 7 of the U.P. G.S.T. Act and the time of payment of the tax is governed by Section 12 and 13 of the U.P. G.S.T. Act and the valuation of the supply of goods is to be done in terms of Section 15 of the U.P.G.S.T. Act, which admittedly has not been done as is clear from the perusal of the order dated 24.01.2022. He argues that it is well settled that any document based upon which the order intended is to be passed should be supplied to the assessee and any non-compliance thereof would render the order bad in law and also in violation of principle of natural justice. He lastly argues that improper returns only give the right to the department to initiate the proceedings under section 74 of the Act, in the light of section 61(3) of the U.P. G.S.T. Act. He also argues that in any event, no right of hearing was accorded to the petitioner which is a mandatory requirement under section 75(4) of the U.P.G.S.T. Act. Specific allegation with regard to non-supply of the SIB report has been made in paragraph 19, 36 and 38 of the Writ Petition.

10. Standing counsel, on the other hand, justifies the order dated 24.01.2022 by arguing that the SIB had found certain discrepancies in the search and seizure carried out at the premises of the petitioner and a copy of the search, seizure and panchnama are available with the petitioner. He further argues that in pursuance to the search and seizure carried out by the SIB, summons were also issued to the petitioner and the petitioner filed a reply to the said summons and thereafter the SIB had forwarded its report.

11. In reply to the contention of the counsel for the petitioner that the SIB report was not provided, it is stated in paragraph 28 of the counter affidavit that the petitioner never demanded the copy of the report and in any case, all important points mentioned in the report were mention in the show cause notice itself. It is further pleaded in paragraph 43 of the counter affidavit that the report was sent by the SIB on the basis of adverse facts found during the investigation by the SIB Unit and all important points in the SIB report were mentioned in the show cause notice.

12. With regard to the other contentions of the counsel for the petitioner, it has been especially stated in paragraph 42 of the counter affidavit that as the stocks found by the SIB at the time of survey were verified by the petitioner and due to variation of the stocks from the books of account by the trader, the stock has been treated as "condemn purchase'. It is further pleaded in paragraph 44 of the counter affidavit that the assessment of duty was done, on the basis of unverified records and stock by the SIB Unit, which has prepared the report on the basis of the verification and not on the basis of eye estimation and thus, on the said foundation, the demand has been created as per the Rules.

13. It is also pleaded that the petitioner was provided with several reasonable opportunities for hearing but no explanation was submitted, as such, an ex-parte order was passed.

14. In the light of the pleadings as referred above, what emerges is that an ex-parte order came to be passed against the petitioner on 24.01.2022, the foundation for passing the said order is the SIB report alone. No opportunity of hearing appears to have been granted to the petitioner nor is the same mentioned in the order dated 24.01.2022.

15. In terms of the scheme of the Act, the power of search and seizure is conferred by virtue of Section 67 of the Act and the power of scrutiny of returns filed is conferred upon the proper officer in terms of Section 61 of the Act. Both the said sections 61 and 67, are step towards the initiation of the proceedings either under Section 73 or Section 74 of the Act, as the case may be. They in itself do not form any basis for concluding the evasion of tax, which has to be established by following the procedure as prescribed under section 73 and under section 74 of the Act as the case may be. Section 74 from its plain reading confers the power to assess the non-payment of tax on the supply or wrong availment of input tax credit by the reasons of fraud, wilful misstatement or suppression of facts coupled with an intent to evade tax. Irrespective of the outcome of the scrutiny of return under section 61 of the Act or the inspection carried out under section 67 of the Act, the burden of assessing the short payment of tax or wrong availment of input tax credit still lies on the department which is to be discharged by the department.

16. To calculate and assess the non-payment of tax, it is essential that the relevant evidence is carried out by the department in respect of the taxable supplies made by the assessee and non-payment of tax which is required to be done at the time of supply as specified under section 13 of the Act. It is also incumbent on the department to compute the value of taxable supply on the goods on which it is alleged that the tax has either not been paid or short paid or short levied. In addition to the said, the burden is on the department to establish that the said non-payment was on account of fraud, wilful misstatement or suppression of facts. Mere report of inspection and discrepancy in the scrutiny of returns is not enough to assess and levy the tax, the said discrepancies, even if noticed by the department should be corroborated with materials in the form of either the evidence or in any other form as the department may deem fit. Without any corroborative material, merely on the basis of discrepancies found in the scrutiny of returns or discrepancies found during the inspection is not enough to assess the tax.

17. It is also incumbent upon the department to give the opportunity of hearing as per the Section 75(4) of the Act which is mandatory to be followed by the department. It is equally well settled that any document proposed to be relied upon should be provided to the assessee prior to conclusion of the proceedings.

18. In the present case, the order dated 24.01.2022, clearly falls short of the principle of natural of justice as admittedly the SIB report, which is the foundation was never supplied to the petitioner, no hearing was granted to the petitioner under section 75(4) of the Act and there is prima facie no material other than the SIB report to corroborate the discrepancies as allegedly found by the SIB at the time of scrutiny of returns and inspection.

Devi Kanya Laghu Madhyamik Vidhyalaya Karwal Majhgawan, Gorakhpur & Anr.

19. Thus, on all the three grounds, as noted above, the impugned order dated 24.01.2022 is unsustainable and is quashed. The matter is remanded to the adjudicating authority to pass a fresh order after supplying the copy of the SIB report and giving an opportunity of hearing to the petitioner and also an opportunity of filing a reply.

20. Both the writ petitions stand allowed in terms of the said order.

2015 (5) AWC 4719

(Delivered by Hon'ble J. J. Munir, J.)

1. This is an appeal by the State of U.P. and its officials in the Department of Basic Education, impugning the validity of the judgment and order dated 23.03.2022 passed by the learned Single Judge allowing Writ-A No.21411 of 2019.

2. The facts giving rise to this appeal are that there is a Junior High School, going by the name Karwal Devi Kanya Laghu Madhyamik Vidyalaya, Karwal, Majhawan, Gorakhpur, which is a recognized and aided Junior High School, administered by a private Management. The aforesaid Junior High School shall hereinafter be called 'the Institution'. The services of teachers of the Institution are governed by the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Recognised Basic Schools (Junior High Schools) (Recruitment and Conditions of Service of Teachers) Rules, 1978 (for short, 'the Rules of 1978'). Salaries to teachers and other employees of the Institution are borne on State grant and are paid in accordance with the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Junior High Schools (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and other Employees) Act, 1978 (for short, 'the Act of 1978'). The parties are ad idem that the post of Headmistress of the Institution fell vacant and the Management of the Institution sought permission of the District Basic Education Officer, Gorakhpur (for short, 'the BSA') on 22.12.2018 to make recruitment on the post. The BSA granted the requisite permission on 05.01.2019, authorizing the Institution to advertise the post of Headmistress and complete the process of selection. An advertisement dated 08.01.2019 was, accordingly, published in two daily newspapers, to wit, 'Aaj' and 'Swatantra Bharat', advertising the post of Headmistress of the Institution. In the said advertisement, there was no mention of the minimum qualifications for the post rendering it bad on that account. The Management of the Institution sought permission of the BSA to cancel the said advertisement and issue a fresh one in its place, rectifying the error.

3. The BSA vide order dated 08.03.2019 permitted a fresh advertisement to be issued. Accordingly, the Institution advertised the post of Headmistress afresh on 09.03.2019, getting it published in the dailies, 'Aaj' and 'Swatantra Bharat'. The advertisement invited applications from eligible and qualified candidates for the post of Headmistress of the Institution until 25.03.2019 indicating that the applications were to be submitted by registered post. The date of interview was scheduled on 29.03.2019. The Manager of the Institution addressed a letter dated 18.03.2019 to the BSA, requesting for the provision of a nominee to participate in the Selection Committee convened to select the Headmistress.

4. In response to the letter dated 18.03.2019, the BSA sent a memo dated 26.03.2019 to the Institution saying that it was not possible to provide a nominee as the Model Code of Conduct was in operation on account of the then forthcoming elections to the Legislative Assembly. The Institution, accordingly, postponed the date of interview from 29.03.2019 to 29.05.2019. All the candidates, who had applied, were informed of the changed date. Later on, on 16.05.2019, a memo was addressed to the BSA requesting for the provision of a nominee as the Model Code of Conduct was then soon scheduled to be over. A reminder was sent on 25.05.2019 with a further request to re-schedule the interview to 10.06.2019. The BSA on occasion provided a nominee to sit on the Selection Committee and issued an order dated 01.06.2019, directing Arun Pratap Singh, Block Education Officer, Gagaha, Gorakhpur to act as the BSA's nominee in the Selection Committee convened to select the Headmistress of the Institution. The Institution constituted a Three Members Selection Committee, comprising the Manager of the Institution, the Vice President of the Committee of Management of the Institution and Arun Pratap Singh, the BSA's nominee.

5. The interviews were held on the re-scheduled date i.e. 10.06.2019. The Selection Committee met and conducted the interviews of eligible and qualified candidates. The members individually awarded marks to each candidate in accordance with the assessed merit. An attendance register of candidates signed by all members of the Selection Committee was also drawn up. At the conclusion of selection, the relative merit of all candidates, who appeared, was drawn up. One Smt. Kajal Singh was found to be the most suitable amongst the candidates on account of the highest merit assessed for her. She was followed by Smt. Alka Singh and Smt. Indrakala Singh, who were placed at serial Nos. 2 and 3 in that order. The Manager of the Institution issued a letter dated 12.06.2019, forwarding the names of the candidates in accordance with their merit assessed by the members of the Selection Committee to the BSA. The Manager sought the BSA's approval to Smt. Kajal Singh's selection.

6. The BSA, however, passed an order dated 04.07.2019, declining to grant approval to the selection of Smt. Kajal Singh. The Management, who are the writ petitioner-respondents to this appeal, aggrieved by the order dated 11.07.2019 passed by the BSA, moved this Court by instituting Writ-A No.11919 of 2019. It appears that in the said petition, this Court required the BSA to file his personal affidavit vide order dated 13.08.2019. In compliance, the BSA filed his personal affidavit stating that there is no order dated 07.06.2019 in writing, but an oral instruction was issued through Video Conferencing by the Additional Chief Secretary (Basic Education) imposing a ban on grant of approval to the appointment of Assistant Teachers and Headmasters/Headmistresses in recognized and aided junior high schools. In view of the aforesaid stand, this Court vide order dated 26.08.2019 disposed of Writ-A No.11919 of 2019 with a direction to the BSA to decide the writ-petitioners' claim for grant of approval to the Headmistress's selection, relating to the Institution.

7. The writ-petitioner Management served a certified copy of the judgment and order dated 26.08.2019 passed by this Court in Writ-A No.11919 of 2019 upon the BSA along with representation dated 07.09.2019/ 09.09.2019, seeking approval to the selection of the Headmistress. Since no orders were passed with regard to the approval of the selected Headmistress, the writ-petitioners, considering it to be a case of deemed approval under Rule 10(5)(iii) of the Rules of 1978 [as it stood prior to the enforcement of the Uttar Pradesh Recognised Basic Schools (Junior High Schools) (Recruitment and Conditions of Service of Teachers) (Seventh Amendment) Rules, 2019] (for short, 'the 7th Amendment Rules'), proceeded to issue a letter of appointment to Smt. Kajal Singh dated 10.10.2019. Smt. Kajal Singh, in compliance with the letter of appointment issued by the writ-petitioners Management, joined the Institution as the Headmistress on 24.10.2019. An information with regard to the said action was forwarded by the Manager of the Institution to the BSA vide memo dated 30.10.2019. At this stage, the BSA proceeded to pass an order dated 06.11.2019 rejecting the Institution's claim for grant of approval to the appointment of the Headmistress.

8. The Institution, accordingly, preferred Writ-A No.21411 of 2019, challenging the order dated 06.11.2019 passed by the BSA, as also the Government Order dated 31.10.2019, on the strength of which the BSA passed the former order. A mandamus was also prayed directing the BSA to consider grant of approval to the Headmistress's appointment. The writ petition came up for hearing after exchange of affidavits before the learned Single Judge on 23.03.2022, who allowed the writ petition and quashed the order dated 06.11.2019 passed by the BSA. A mandamus was issued to the BSA to grant approval to the appointment of Smt. Kajal Singh as the Headmistress of the Institution within a period of two weeks. It was also ordered that Smt. Kajal Singh would be entitled to her salary and other service benefits from 10.10.2019 i.e. after one month of the date of submission of papers for approval by the Management of the Institution to the BSA.

9. Aggrieved by the judgment of the learned Single Judge, the State of U.P. and two of its Officers in the Department of Basic Education, who are respondents to the writ petition, have preferred this appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court.

10. Heard the learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the appellants and Mr. Indra Raj Singh, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents.

11. The learned Single Judge while allowing the writ petition was of opinion that the Government Order dated 31.10.2019 came into force with effect from that date, but the selection procedure was completed by the Committee of Management and papers forwarded to the BSA on 12.06.2019. The learned Judge relied upon a judgment of this Court in Writ-A No.10509 of 2019, Committee of Management, Adarsh Janta Madhyamik Vidyalaya and another v. State of U.P. and others, decided on 04.03.2020, holding that the process of selection being initiated much prior to the issue of the Government Order dated 31.10.2019 and the amendment to the Rules of 1978 by the 7th Amendment Rules w.e.f. 04.12.2019, the process of appointment in such a case would continue to be preserved under the then existing Rules. It was opined by this Court in Committee of Management, Adarsh Janta Madhyamik Vidyalaya (supra) that the process of selection that was commenced under the unamended Rules of 1978, after due permission of the competent Authority, would continue to be governed by that process and the subsequently issued Government Order or the 7th Amendment Rules, that came into existence later on, would not affect its validity.

12. In support of his Lordship's reasoning, the learned Single Judge in Committee of Management, Adarsh Janta Madhyamik Vidyalaya relied upon the decision of a Full Bench of this Court in Santosh Kumar Singh v. State of U.P.

Devi Kanya Laghu Madhyamik Vidhyalaya Karwal Majhgawan, Gorakhpur & Anr.

and others, 2015 (5) AWC 4719. It would be apposite to extract what the learned Single Judge took note of in Committee of Management, Adarsh Janta Madhyamik Vidyalaya regarding the Full Bench decision of this Court in Santosh Kumar Singh (supra):

"A Full Bench of this Court in Special Appeal (Defective) No. 215 of 2015 (Santosh Kumar Singh Vs. State of U.P. & others) decided on 22.7.2015 has considered the question of continuing selection process where the process of appointment was initiated by issuing advertiesement before rescision of the removal of Difficulties Order by Section 33-E of the U.P. Act No. 13 of 1999 and held, as under:-

"We consequently answer the reference in the following terms:

(a) Despite the rescission of the Removal of Difficulties Orders by Section 33-E of U P Act No 13 of 1999 with effect from 25 January 1999, the power of the Committee of Management to make appointments against short term vacancies, where the process of appointment had been initiated prior to 25 January 1999 by the publication of an advertisement, would continue to be preserved;

(b) On the enforcement of the provisions of Section 33-E, the power of a Committee of Management to make adhoc appointments against short term vacancies would not stand abrogated in a case where the process of selection had been initiated prior to 25 January 1999;

(c) Under Section 16-E of the Intermediate Education Act, 1921, the Committee of Management is empowered to make an appointment against a temporary vacancy caused by the grant of leave to an incumbent for a period not exceeding six months or in the case of death, termination or otherwise, of an incumbent occurring during an educational session. An appointment made under sub-section (11) of Section 16-E as provided in the proviso thereto shall, in any case, not continue beyond the end of educational session during which the appointment was made; and

(d) The judgment of the Division Bench in Subhash Chandra Tripathi (supra) is affirmed as laying down a correct interpretation of the judgment in A A Calton (supra).

The reference to the Full Bench is answered in the aforesaid terms. The special appeal shall now be placed before the appropriate Bench for disposal in the light of this judgment."

13. Before us, it has been argued on the basis of the averments made in Paragraph No.6 of the counter affidavit that on 07.06.2019, the Additional Chief Secretary (Basic Education), Government of U.P., Lucknow, through Video Conferencing, had directed all Authorities to stop selections for filling up posts of Headmasters and Assistant Teachers in non-government aided junior high schools. Apparently, this was an oral direction issued by the Additional Chief Secretary. It is pointed out that this direction was issued in anticipation of amendments then under contemplation to the Rules of 1978. Accordingly, the State Government vide orders dated 26.09.2019 and 31.10.2019 imposed a ban on selection and appointment of Headmasters and Assistant Teachers in non-government aided junior high schools. Copies of those orders have been annexed as Annexure No. CA-1 to the counter affidavit, to which our attention was drawn by the learned Counsel for the appellants.

14. We have perused both the Government Orders dated 26.09.2019 and 31.10.2019. The learned Single Judge has not looked into the validity of the Government Order dated 31.10.2019, because in his Lordship's opinion, and, we think rightly so, the said Government Order would not affect the right of the Institution in this case to make appointment to the post of Headmistress. Here, the selection process commenced much before the date of the oral fiat of the Additional Chief Secretary (Basic Education), directing stoppage of all selection processes relating to posts of Assistant Teachers and Headmasters of non-government aided junior high schools. The said direction was issued on 07.06.2019.

15. We would proceed to examine the matter on the basis that such a direction could be issued by the Additional Chief Secretary, and see if it affects the Institution's right to make appointments. In our opinion, it does not. The reason is that the process of selection, that was initiated with the approval of the BSA, granted on 05.01.2019, would have to be completed in accordance with the Rules of 1978, as in force at the time when the selection process was initiated. Advertisement pursuant to the order of the BSA, permitting the Institution to fill up the post of Headmistress, was first published on 08.01.2019. It was then cancelled on the request of the Management of the Institution by the BSA on 08.03.2019 with permission to issue a fresh advertisement to overcome a technical flaw in the advertisement. The revised advertisement was published on 09.03.2019. The interviews were initially scheduled for 29th March, 2019, but ultimately held on 10.06.2019 with the BSA sending his nominee to sit on the Selection Committee. The papers regarding proceedings of the Selection Committee were submitted to the BSA on 12.06.2019. Thus, out of the entire recruitment process, only two events happened after the Additional Chief Secretary's oral orders dated 07.06.2019 made through Video Conferencing to stop appointments, to wit, interviews that were held by the Selection Committee on 10.06.2019 and the submission of proceedings of the Selection Committee to the BSA on 12.06.2019. Apart from the aforesaid two events, the entire recruitment process was initiated much before the Additional Chief Secretary's oral 'halt' order.

16. The oral orders were followed by Government Orders dated 26.09.2019 and 31.10.2019, imposing a ban by the State Government on selection and appointment of Headmasters/ Assistant Teachers in non-government aided junior high schools. Later on, the State Government, in exercise of their powers under Section 19(1) of the Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Act, 1972 (for short, 'the Act of 1972'), issued a notification dated 04.12.2019, notifying the 7th Amendment Rules, amending the Rules of 1978. The 7th Amendment Rules, enforced w.e.f. 04.12.2019, withdrew the power of selection from the Managements of non-government aided junior high schools, vesting it in a Selection Board, constituted under the last mentioned Rules. Thus seen, the oral order of the Additional Devi Kanya Laghu Madhyamik Vidhyalaya Karwal Majhgawan, Gorakhpur & Anr.

Chief Secretary, asking the Authorities of the Basic Education Department to stop the ongoing selection and appointment of Assistant Teachers and Headmasters in private aided junior high schools as also the two Government Orders dated 26.09.2019 and 31.10.2019 were efforts made in anticipation of enforcement of the then proposed 7th Amendment Rules. The oral orders and the Government Orders sought to achieve this by halting all ongoing selection and appointment of Headmasters and Assistant Teachers in private aided junior high schools, till such time that the 7th Amendment Rules were notified. Accordingly, we also propose to examine whether apart from the oral order dated 07.06.2019, the two Government Orders dated 26.09.2019 and 31.10.2019 could lawfully stop an ongoing selection process initiated prior to any of those measures, oral or written.

17. As already observed with regard to the oral orders of the Additional Chief Secretary assuming that these had binding effect on the Institution's right to select and appoint, would not affect the selection and appointment in this case, because the process had already commenced before the oral orders were issued by the Additional Chief Secretary. Likewise, is the case with the two Government Orders dated 26.09.2019 and 31.10.2019, both of which were issued much after the selection process relating to the post of Headmistress of the Institution was initiated. Rather, the entire process had been completed much before the two Government Orders came to be issued.

18. The principle, that a change in the rules of selection could be applied prospectively, but not affect the selection process already commenced under the unamended or the old Rules, was extensively examined by the Full Bench in Santosh Kumar Singh (supra). In Santosh Kumar Singh, it was held by their Lordships of the Full Bench:

"9. The decision in A.A. Calton (supra) is, therefore, an authority for the proposition that once a process of selection has been initiated, a subsequent amendment of the law by which the power to make an appointment has specifically been taken away from a statutory authority - in that case from the Director - would have no application to a pending selection process which must be governed by the law as it stood when the selection process was initiated. Undoubtedly, the Legislature does have the power to make a law with retrospective effect but unless the law is made expressly retrospective or retrospective by necessary implication, the position of law as it stood when the selection process was initiated, would govern the selection.

10. In certain other contexts, the Supreme Court has held, for instance, that a selection process has to be governed by the Rules and Government Orders in existence on the date on which the process is initiated. In N.T. Bevin Katti v. Karnataka Public Service Commission, (1990) 3 SCC 157, the Supreme Court held as follows:

"...Where proceedings are initiated for selection by issuing advertisement, the selection should normally be regulated by the then existing rules and Government orders and any amendment of the rules or the Government order pending the selection should not affect the validity of the selection made by the selecting authority or the Public Service Commission unless the amended Rules or the amended Government orders, issued in exercise of its statutory power either by express provision or by necessary intendment indicate the amended Rules shall be applicable to the pending selections. See P. Mahendran v. State of Karnataka, (1990) 1 SCC 411 : JT (1989) 4 SC 459."

11. In State of Bihar v. Mithilesh Kumar, (2010) 13 SCC 467, the Supreme Court held that a change in the norms of recruitment could be applied prospectively and could not affect those who have been selected for being recommended for appointment after following the norms which were in place at the time when the selection process was commenced. The submission to the contrary was based on the decision in Shankarsan Dash v. Union of India, AIR 1991 SC 1612, to the effect that mere inclusion in a select panel did not confer indefeasible right to appointment. The Supreme Court explained the position in law as follows:

"The decisions which have been cited on behalf of the respondent have clearly explained the law with regard to the applicability of the rules which are amended and/or altered during the selection process. They all say in one voice that the norms or rules as existing on the date when the process of selection begins will control such selection and any alteration to such norms would not affect the continuing process, unless specifically the same were given retrospective effect...While a person may not acquire an indefeasible right to appointment merely on the basis of selection, in the instant case the fact situation is different since the claim of the respondent to be appointed had been negated by a change in policy after the selection process had begun."

12. In a subsequent decision in Government of Andhra Pradesh v. Sri Sevadas Vidyamandir High School, (2011) 9 SCC 613, the Supreme Court held that a ban on recruitment to grant-in-aid posts had been issued after the school in question had been permitted by the State to fill up vacant posts. The Supreme Court held that in these circumstances, the State could not contend that the process of rationalization which was introduced subsequently, would also apply to private aided schools, where the process of recruitment had already been commenced pursuant to the approval granted earlier.

13. The judgment in A.A. Cotton (supra) has been recently followed in a decision of the Supreme Court in Kulwant Singh v. Daya Ram, (2015) 3 SCC 177, in the context of the principle that vacancies which had occurred prior to an amendment of rules would be governed by the un-amended rules and not by the amended rules where the amended rules are not made retrospective either expressly or by implication.

14. The judgment of the Division Bench in Subhash Chandra Tripathi's case was based on the law laid down by the Supreme Court in A.A. Cotton (supra). In the referring judgment, the Division Bench has doubted the correctness of that view based on a judgment of the Supreme Court in Shankarsan Dash (supra). In the view of the Division Bench, the Supreme Court has held that even a selection does not confer a right of appointment. Hence, the view which has been taken by the Division Bench is that a mere initiation of the process of selection will not result in the retention of the power of appointment by the authority concerned even when the power of appointment had been withdrawn under a statutory provision, in this case Section 33-E. The decision in Shankarsan Dash (supra) of a Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court dealt with the issue as to whether a candidate whose name appears in the merit list on the basis of a competitive examination acquires an indefeasible right of appointment as a Government servant merely because a vacancy exists. In that context, the Supreme Court held as follows:

5 All. Distict Basic Education Office, Gorakhpur & Ors. Vs. Committee of Management Karwal 1415

"7. It is not correct to say that if a number of vacancies are notified for appointment and adequate number of candidates are found fit, the successful candidates acquire an indefeasible right to be appointed which cannot be legitimately denied. Ordinarily the notification merely amounts to an invitation to qualified candidates to apply for recruitment and on their selection they do not acquire any right to the post. Unless the relevant recruitment rules so indicate, the State is under no legal duty to fill up all or any of the vacancies. However, it does not mean that the State has the licence of acting in an arbitrary manner. The decision not to fill up the vacancies has to be taken bona fide for appropriate reasons. And if the vacancies or any of them are filled up, the State is bound to respect the comparative merit of the candidates, as reflected at the recruitment test, and no discrimination can be permitted. This correct position has been consistently followed by this Court, and we do not find any discordant note in the decisions in State of Haryana v. Subhash Chander Marwaha, (1974) 1 SCR 165 : (AIR 1973 SC 2216), Miss Neelim Shangla v. State of Haryana, (1986) 4 SCC 268 : AIR 1987 SC 169, or Jitendra Kumar v. State of Punjab, (1985) 1 SCR 899 : AIR 1984 SC 1850."

15. These observations of the Supreme Court would indicate that the issue in Shankarsan Dash (supra) was completely distinct. A candidate who is on a select list does not have an indefeasible right to appointment merely because a vacancy exists. That is not the issue in the present case. The issue in the present case is whether a process of selection which was initiated prior to the insertion of Section 33-E which rescinded the Removal of Difficulties Orders must be governed by the law as it then stood at the time when the process was initiated by the issuance of an advertisement. Plainly, the issue is not about the right of a particular candidate to appointment but whether the selection process should be governed by the law as it stood when the selection process was initiated. On this aspect, the consistent position of law has been laid down in the judgment of the Supreme Court in A.A. Cotton (supra)."

19. The answers by the Full Bench in Santosh Kumar Singh have been referred to much earlier in this judgment and the remarks of their Lordships, above referred, make it pellucid that the selection process commenced under the existing rules remains unaffected by any change or amendment to the Rules, unless the amended Rules, expressly or by necessary implication, have retrospective effect.

20. Interestingly, in this case, the oral orders of the Additional Chief Secretary under reference or the two Government Orders issued in this case are not any kind of an amendment to the existing Rules, that is to say, the Rules of 1978. These were just interim measures to hold back the selection processes pending the enforcement of the amended Rules. If the amended Rules, that is to say, the 7th Amendment Rules, that came to be enforced w.e.f. 04.12.2019, do not affect a selection process already commenced, measures to facilitate taken in the interregnum prior to introduction of the amended Rules would not apply likewise to a selection process already commenced. This is precisely the case with the selection of the Headmistress of the Institution.

21. A perusal of the 7th Amendment Rules shows that these Rules by virtue of sub-Rule (2) of Rule 1 are ordained to come into effect from the date of their publication in the Gazette. There is nothing to show in the amended Rules, either expressly or by necessary implication, that these have retrospective operation. The principle adumbrated by the Full Bench in Santosh Kumar Singh, therefore, would apply to save the process of selection for the post of Headmistress of the Institution, that was initiated much before the 7th Amendment Rules were enforced. In fact, the process of selection was completed before the 7th Amendment Rules were notified. The process of selection would, therefore, be governed by the Rules of 1978, unaffected by the 7th Amendment Rules.

22. As already remarked, if the 7th Amendment Rules do not affect the selection process for the post of Headmistress of the Institution commenced much earlier, the measures taken by the State Government in interregnum to facilitate the application of the new regime under the 7th Amendment Rules, would not affect the validity of the selection process either. After all, the ban on selection, assuming that it could be orally imposed by the Additional Chief Secretary, pending enforcement of the 7th Amendment Rules, would not affect the validity of the selection process, because the ban was only an interim measure in aid of the 7th Amendment Rules. If it be assumed further that the ban would nevertheless stall the ongoing selection process, already near completion, when it was orally issued by the Additional Chief Secretary, the recruitment process, upon the 7th Amendment Rules coming into force, would have to be carried to its logical conclusion as the 7th Amendment Rules would not affect it. The two Government Orders dated 26.09.2019 and 31.10.2019 are also in the nature of measures issued in aid of the then contemplated 7th Amendment Rules. The ban imposed under those orders would have like effect as the oral orders of the Additional Chief Secretary issued earlier imposing the ban. The selection process relating to the post of Headmistress would remain unaffected.

23. No other point was pressed.

24. In view of what has been said above, we do not find any good ground to interfere with the judgment and order impugned.

25. The appeal fails and is dismissed.

26. Costs easy.

A. Service Law – Minimum pay scale - Principle of 'equal pay for equal work', which has emerged by interpretation of different provision of the Constitution and expounded through a large number of judgments of Supreme Court, continues to be the law declared by Supreme Court. The same is binding upon all. The same is extended to temporary employees including work charge, daily wage, casual, adhoc, contractual etc. Thus, it held that they are entitled to draw wages on minimum of pay scale (at the lowest grade, in the regular pay scale), extended to regular employees holding the same post. (Para 13)

In the present case, petitioner, who is continuously working since 2013 except for artificial breaks, is also entitled for payment of minimum of pay scale that is being given to regular employees providing same work in respondent department. (Para 14)

B. Merely by engaging daily wage employees through a service provider agency, State Government cannot shy-away from its responsibility of providing minimum of pay scale which it is bound to pay in accordance with law. (Para 17)

Respondent-State submits that petitioner is engaged through a service provider agency, therefore, he is not entitled for minimum of pay scale also does not have any force as, Supreme Court has held that the said benefit is available to all temporary employees whatever their nomenclature may be. (Para 16)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

St. of Pun. & ors. Vs Jagjit Singh & ors., (2017)
1 SCC 148 (Para 12)

Present petition challenges order dated 15.07.2019, passed by Director, Horticulture and Food Processing, Lucknow, whereby his representation for minimum pay scale is rejected.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Chaudhary, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for State-respondents.

2. The petitioner has approached this Court challenging order dated 15.7.2019 passed by respondent no.2-Director, Horticulture and Food Processing, Lucknow whereby his representation for minimum of pay scale is rejected.

3. Facts of the case, as claimed by petitioner, are that petitioner was engaged as a daily wagger on Class-IV post (Mali) in the year 2013 in the office of Scientist, State Tissue Culture Lab, Sector-G, Aliganj, Lucknow, where he was being paid daily wages only. He claims that other similarly situated daily wage employees, who have completed more than five years of service, are being paid minimum of pay scale while the same is denied to him.

4. Learned counsel for petitioner submits that impugned order is passed on false and incorrect facts. Submissions made by petitioner are either not considered in the impugned order or are rejected by concocting incorrect facts.

5. On the other hand, learned Standing Counsel strongly opposing the petition, submits that since petitioner is working as a daily wagger through a service provider agency, hence, he is not entitled for minimum of pay scale. He further submits that impugned order is passed in accordance with law.

6. It is not in dispute that aforesaid Lab is run by department of Horticulture and Food Processing and is part of the same. It is the officers and employees of Horticulture and Food Processing department of State of U.P., who are working and running the said Lab. While rejecting the representation, it is noted that petitioner in the year 2013 had worked for 2 months, in 2014 again for 2 months, in 2016 for 5 months, in 2017 for 4 months, in 2018 for 2 months and since September, 2018, he has been working through a service provider agency.

7. In counter affidavit dated 5.12.2019 also said facts are reiterated. However, a detailed supplementary counter affidavit was filed on 8.2.2023 and along with the same working chart of petitioner from September, 2013 onwards is enclosed as Annexure-SCA-9. The said chart shows that since the year 2013 till date, working of petitioner only on muster-roll is considered while rejecting his representation. His entire working admittedly through a service provider is not considered. The same shows that petitioner started working since September, 2013 and worked for all four months of the year 2013 and thereafter in 2014, he worked for 8 months, in 2015 for 7 months, in 2016 for 11 months, in 2017 for 10 months, in 2018 for 7 months, in 2019 for 12 months and in 2020, he was continuously working till the time chart was prepared.

8. Thus, from the aforesaid chart, it is clear that impugned order is passed by referring to wrong and incorrect facts. The Director, Horticulture and Food Processing is a senior officer. It is not expected that he would refer to incorrect and incomplete facts while considering the case of a person under the orders of this Court. He is cautioned not to conduct proceedings in such manner in future.

9. The aforesaid facts clearly show that petitioner is now working for last around ten years with respondent department.

10. The petitioner claims that persons, who are working as daily wager for more than five years, are paid minimum of pay scale under the orders of this Court. For the said purpose, learned counsel for petitioner relies upon a communication dated 4.11.2004 made by Joint Director/Incharge Officer, Rajkiya Utak Sambardhan Proyogshala, Aliganj, Lucknow to Director, Horticulture and Food Processing, Lucknow. In the said communication, Joint Director/Incharge Officer has specifically stated that such daily wage employees in the department, who have completed five years or more service, are getting minimum of pay scale of Rs.3050-4590 under the orders of High Court. Sri Pankaj Srivastava, Daily Wager is getting minimum of aforesaid pay scale. Thus, he has recommended that other similarly situated Class-IV employees should also be granted minimum of said pay scale. The said document is filed as Annexure-4 to the writ petition. The said letter dated 4.11.2004 is admitted in Para-16 of the counter affidavit, but the same is explained by saying that on the aforesaid letter dated 4.11.2004, no decision has been taken at State level.

11. The same cannot be a ground for refusing benefit of minimum of pay scale to petitioner, which is already being extended by respondent department to other similarly situated persons. In fact, said submission of petitioner though is noted in impugned order, but is nowhere considered and decided.

12. The law with regard to payment of minimum of pay scale is settled by the Supreme Court in State of Punjab and others vs. Jagjit Singh and others (2017) 1 SCC 148. Paragraphs 56 to 61 of the said judgment read as follows:

"56. We shall now deal with the claim of temporary employees before this Court.

57. There is no room for any doubt that the principle of "equal pay for equal work" has emerged from an interpretation of different provisions of the Constitution. The principle has been expounded through a large number of judgments rendered by this Court, and constitutes law declared by this Court. The same is binding on all the courts in India under Article 141 of the Constitution of India. The parameters of the principle have been summarised by us in para 42 hereinabove. The principle of "equal pay for equal work" has also been extended to temporary employees (differently described as work-charge, daily wage, casual, ad hoc, contractual, and the like). The legal position, relating to temporary employees has been summarised by us, in para 44 hereinabove. The above legal position which has been repeatedly declared, is being reiterated by us yet again.

58. In our considered view, it is fallacious to determine artificial parameters to deny fruits of labour. An employee engaged for the same work cannot be paid less than another who performs the same duties and responsibilities. Certainly not, in a welfare State. Such an action besides being demeaning, strikes at the very foundation of human dignity. Anyone, who is compelled to work at a lesser wage does not do so voluntarily. He does so to provide food and shelter to his family, at the cost of his self-respect and dignity, at the cost of his self-worth, and at the cost of his integrity. For he knows that his dependants would suffer immensely, if he does not accept the lesser wage. Any act of paying less wages as compared to others similarly situate constitutes an act of exploitative enslavement, emerging out of a domineering position. Undoubtedly, the action is oppressive, suppressive and coercive, as it compels involuntary subjugation.

59. We would also like to extract herein Article 7 of the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, 1966. The same is reproduced below:

"7. The States Parties to the present Covenant recognise the right of everyone to the enjoyment of just and favourable conditions of work which ensure, in particular:

(a) Remuneration which provides all workers, as a minimum, with:

(i) Fair wages and equal remuneration for work of equal value without distinction of any kind, in particular women being guaranteed conditions of work not inferior to those enjoyed by men, with equal pay for equal work;

(ii) A decent living for themselves and their families in accordance with the provisions of the present Covenant;

(b) Safe and healthy working conditions;

(c) Equal opportunity for everyone to be promoted in his employment to an appropriate higher level, subject to no considerations other than those of seniority and competence;

(d) Rest, leisure and reasonable limitation of working hours and periodic holidays with pay, as well as remuneration for public holidays."

(emphasis supplied)

India is a signatory to the above Covenant having ratified the same on 10-4-1979. There is no escape from the above obligation in view of different provisions of the Constitution referred to above, and in view of the law declared by this Court under Article 141 of the Constitution of India, the principle of "equal pay for equal work" constitutes a clear and unambiguous right and is vested in every employee—whether engaged on regular or temporary basis.

60. Having traversed the legal parameters with reference to the application of the principle of "equal pay for equal work", in relation to temporary employees (daily-wage employees, ad hoc appointees, employees appointed on casual basis, contractual employees and the like), the sole factor that requires our determination is, whether the employees concerned (before this Court), were rendering similar duties and responsibilities as were being discharged by regular employees holding the same/corresponding posts. This exercise would require the application of the parameters of the principle of "equal pay for equal work" summarised by us in para

42 above. However, insofar as the instant aspect of the matter is concerned, it is not difficult for us to record the factual position. We say so, because it was fairly acknowledged by the learned counsel representing the State of Punjab, that all the temporary employees in the present bunch of appeals were appointed against posts which were also available in the regular cadre/establishment. It was also accepted that during the course of their employment, the temporary employees concerned were being randomly deputed to discharge duties and responsibilities which at some point in time were assigned to regular employees. Likewise, regular employees holding substantive posts were also posted to discharge the same work which was assigned to temporary employees from time to time. There is, therefore, no room for any doubt, that the duties and responsibilities discharged by the temporary employees in the present set of appeals were the same as were being discharged by regular employees. It is not the case of the appellants, that the respondent employees did not possess the qualifications prescribed for appointment on regular basis. Furthermore, it is not the case of the State that any of the temporary employees would not be entitled to pay parity on any of the principles summarised by us in para 42 hereinabove. There can be no doubt, that the principle of "equal pay for equal work" would be applicable to all the temporary employees concerned, so as to vest in them the right to claim wages on a par with the minimum of the pay scale of regularly engaged government employees holding the same post.

61. In view of the position expressed by us in the foregoing paragraph, we have no hesitation in holding that all the temporary employees concerned, in the present bunch of cases would be entitled to draw wages at the minimum of the pay scale (at the lowest grade, in the regular pay scale), extended to regular employees holding the same post."

13. The Supreme Court after considering all the earlier law settled on the issue has again reiterated that principle of 'equal pay for equal work', which has emerged by interpretation of different provision of the Constitution and expounded through a large number of judgments of Supreme Court, continues to be the law declared by Supreme Court. The same is binding upon all. The same is extended to temporary employees including work charge, daily wage, casual, adhoc, contractual etc. Thus, it held that they are entitled to draw wages on minimum of pay scale (at the lowest grade, in the regular pay scale), extended to regular employees holding the same post.

14. In the aforesaid circumstances, petitioner, who is continuously working since 2013 except for artificial breaks, is also entitled for payment of minimum of pay scale, that is being given to regular employees providing same work in respondent department.

15. The respondents again try to hide behind the argument that they have not engaged any Class-IV employee in the Laboratory. The Laboratory itself is part of Horticulture and Food Processing department. It is not in dispute that regular Class-IV employees are working in Horticulture department. It is also not in dispute that in absence of petitioner, other Class-IV employees of the department would be bound to perform duties that are being performed by petitioner. Therefore, petitioner is entitled to minimum of pay scale that any Class-IV regularly appointed employee would be entitled to, in case petitioner is not available for performing his duties.

16. Submission of respondent-State that petitioner is engaged through a service provider agency, therefore, he is not entitled for minimum of pay scale also does not have any force as in Para-60 of the aforesaid judgment, Supreme Court has held that the said benefit is available to all temporary employees whatever their nomenclature may be.

17. Merely by engaging daily wage employees through a service provider agency, State Government cannot shy-away from its responsibility of providing minimum of pay scale which it is bound to pay in accordance with law.

18. Hence, impugned order dated 15.7.2019 cannot stand and is set aside. Respondents are directed to pay minimum of pay scale to petitioner as is being paid to similarly situated employees performing the same work in respondent department forthwith without any delay.

19. Accordingly, writ petition stands allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Kshitij Shailendra, J.)

1. This writ petition has been filed by State of U.P. through Principal Secretary, Irrigation, Lucknow and officials of the said Department challenging the impugned award dated 08.01.2016 passed by the Labour Court, Gorakhpur, which was notified on the notice board on 07.06.2016, in Adjudication Case No.170 of 1992 whereby the Labour Court has held termination of services of the respondent no.2 with effect from 01.01.1991 as improper and illegal with a further direction for reinstatement of the said respondent maintaining continuity in his past services along with back-wages at the rate of 50%. A further direction has been issued that the respondent no.2 shall be entitled for full salary from the date of publication of the award.

2. The facts of the case are that the respondent no.2 (hereinafter referred to as the workman) came up with a case that he was regularly working in the department of Irrigation since October, 1988 as Camp Dhawak and was performing duties relating to distribution of post. It was further contended that all of a sudden, his services were orally terminated on 01.01.1991 and his salary with effect from March, 1990 to December, 1990 was also not paid regarding which the workman had earlier filed a case before the Controlling Authority, Deoria under the Payment of Wages Act which was pending. It was further contended that the nature of the work performed by the workman was permanent and the juniors like Indrasan, Keshav and Shrawan, etc were retained in service; that the provisions of Sections 6-N, 6-P and 6-Q of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 and Rule 42 of the Rules were not complied with; that the workman had worked for a period of more than 240 days; and that he was wholly unemployed after the termination of his services despite best efforts.

3. The workman pleaded that the matter was registered as an Adjudication Case No.170 of 1992 pursuant to reference made by the Deputy Labour Commissioner, Gorakhpur where the question referred was as to whether termination of service of the workman by the Department with effect from 01.01.1991 was proper and/or legal ? If not, as to what benefit/ relief/ compensation the workman was entitled to receive ?

4. The Department also made its defence stating that the services of the workman were not terminated and that there was no question for payment of salary to him with effect from March, 1990 to December, 1990 as he had not worked during the said period. The Court finds that Annexure No.2 to the writ petition is a copy of the written statement filed by the Department in which nothing special has been averred except the aforesaid, however, in the impugned award, the Labour Court has discussed the defence taken by the Department also to the effect that the workman was working as a daily-wager as per the requirements and he used to be paid wages as per the work performed by him. Therefore, it appears that there is some additional written statement filed by the Department which has not been brought on record in support of the pleadings, however the Court will consider this defence also as the same has been dealt with by the Labour Court in the award impugned.

5. Parties led evidence in support of their respective cases. Oral testimony of the workman has been filed as Annexure No.CA-1 to the counter affidavit in which the workman stated that he used to get monthly salary and that his services were orally terminated with effect from 01.01.1991; that for getting payment of salary with effect from March, 1990 to December, 1990, he had filed P.W. Case No.46 of 1991 which was decided in his favour on 17.02.1995 against which order, the employer filed a Misc. Case No.3 of 2000, which was also dismissed. It was further stated on oath that though the services of the workman had been illegally terminated, juniors to him, namely, Indrasan, Keshav and Shrawan were retained in service; that since the date of termination the workman was thoroughly unemployed and could not get job despite search; that despite order passed by the Labour Court on his application 17-D, the documents were not produced by the Department. The workman also proved documents filed by him which included muster roll. The workman was cross examined and specifically denied the suggestion made by the Department that it was wrong to say that he was working on daily-wage basis. The workman also stuck to his stand regarding retainment of persons junior to him in the services and also to the fact that the Department had not produced the muster roll, except the muster roll of 1990 which the workman had got and filed as paper no.6 on record.

6. The Labour Court, after considering the pleadings of the parties and having perused the record, came to the conclusion that the working of more than 240 days period stood proved in view of the order passed by the Competent Authority in P.W. Case No.46 of 1991. The Labour Court also drew adverse inference against the Department for not filing attendance register/ muster roll for the period with effect from October, 1988 till January, 1991, despite application 17-D filed by the workman in this regard which was allowed. The Labour Court also observed that the Department just completed its formality by producing muster roll of only July, 1990 stating that in July, 1990 the workman had worked only for a period of 26 days.

7. As regards the contention of the employer that the workman was working in the capacity of daily-wager, the Labour Court, after discussing various authorities, recorded a finding that even then the Department should have ensured compliance of provisions of the Act and the workman would be entitled for reinstatement in his service as it was established that he had worked for more than 240 days in a calendar year. Accordingly, the award for reinstatement of the workman by maintaining continuity in past services along with payment of 50% back-wages was passed.

8. I have heard Sri Dhananjay Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the State - petitioners and Sri Sudhanshu Narain, learned counsel for the respondents and perused the record.

9. The contention of the learned Standing Counsel is to the effect that the award of the Labour Court is not sustainable as the respondent no.2 was merely a daily-wager employee and, therefore, his reinstatement could not be ordered. It is further argued that the respondent no.2 himself voluntarily left the job and wrongly instituted the case. It is further argued that even if the case of the workman is accepted, he worked for a very short period of two years and therefore keeping in view of the said tenure of alleged service, direction for reinstatement in service by maintaining past continuity and payment of 50% back-wages is illegal. Reliance has also been placed on the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Assistant Engineer, Rajasthan Development Corporation and another Vs. Gitam Singh: (2013) 5 SCC 136.

10. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondent-workman argued that since the workman was working in the regular capacity and was getting monthly salary and had established his case not only before the Labour Court but also before the Competent Authority under Payment of Wages Act where he succeeded against the Department, oral termination of his services with effect from 01.01.1991 without following the provisions of the Act of 1947 is illegal and since the juniors to the workman were retained in service and there is sufficient evidence to demonstrate that the workman was not gainfully employed after termination of his services, the award of Labour Court is just and proper and does not call for any interference.

11. In support of his submission, learned counsel for the respondent-workman has relied upon following authorities:-

(i) Deepali Gundu Surwase Vs. Kranti Junior Adhyapak and others: 2013 (139) FLR 541 (SC);

(ii) Allahabad Bank and others Vs. Avtar Bhushan Bhartiya in Special Leave Petition (Civil) No.32554 of 2018, decided on 22.04.2022:

(iii) Krishan Singh Vs. Executive Engineer, Haryana State Agricultural Marketing Board, Rohtak (Haryana): (2010) 3 SCC 637;

(iv) Devinder Singh Vs. Municipal Council, Sanaur: (2011) 6 SCC 584;

(v) State of U.P. Vs. Charan Singh: 2015 LawSuit (SC) 302;

(vi) Jasmer Singh Vs. State of Haryana and another: (2015) 4 SCC 458;

(vii) R.M. Yellatti Vs. Assistant Executive Engineer: (2006) 1 SCC 106;

(viii) Harjinder Singh Vs. Punjab State Warehousing Corporation: (2010) 3 SCC 192;

(x) Director of Horticulture and another Vs. H.A. Kumar: 2013 (138) FLR 1089 (SC);

(xi) Gauri Shanker Vs. State of Rajasthan: 2015 Law Suit (SC) 357;

(xii) Deep Chandra Vs. State of U.P.: (2001) 10 SCC 606;

(xiv) State of Uttar Pradesh Vs. Labour Court, Haldwani: 1998 Law Suit (All) 788.

12. Relying upon the aforesaid authorities, the contention of the learned counsel for the respondent-workman is that although the workman was working in a regular capacity, even if he is treated as a daily-wager, the Industrial Law does not make any distinction between the workmen/employees and the source of employment, method of recruitment, the terms and conditions of employment/contract of service, the quantum of wages/paid and the mode of payment are not at all relevant for deciding as to whether a person is a workman or not. Further submission is that since oral termination has been found to be illegal coupled with the fact that the Labour Court has recorded pure finding of fact that the workman had worked for more than 240 days and that the Department had failed to lead any documentary or oral evidence against the contention of the workman, the award is perfectly in accordance with law.

13. I have considered the arguments advanced and perused the record.

14. In Deepali Gundu Surwase (supra), the Supreme Court after discussing the entire law relating to reinstatement and back-wages, in paragraph 33 of the judgment, has held as follows:-

33. The propositions which can be culled out from the aforementioned judgments are:

i) In cases of wrongful termination of service, reinstatement with continuity of service and back wages is the normal rule.

ii) The aforesaid rule is subject to the rider that while deciding the issue of back wages, the adjudicating authority or the Court may take into consideration the length of service of the employee/workman, the nature of misconduct, if any, found proved against the employee/workman, the financial condition of the employer and similar other factors.

iii) Ordinarily, an employee or workman whose services are terminated and who is desirous of getting back wages is required to either plead or at least make a statement before the adjudicating authority or the Court of first instance that he/she was not gainfully employed or was employed on lesser wages. If the employer wants to avoid payment of full back wages, then it has to plead and also lead cogent evidence to prove that the employee/workman was gainfully employed and was getting wages equal to the wages he/she was drawing prior to the termination of service. This is so because it is settled law that the burden of proof of the existence of a particular fact lies on the person who makes a positive averment about its existence. It is always easier to prove a positive fact than to prove a negative fact. Therefore, once the employee shows that he was not employed, the onus lies on the employer to specifically plead and prove that the employee was gainfully employed and was getting the same or substantially similar emoluments.

iv) The cases in which the Labour Court/Industrial Tribunal exercises power under Section 11-A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 and finds that even though the enquiry held against the employee/workman is consistent with the rules of natural justice and / or certified standing orders, if any, but holds that the punishment was disproportionate to the misconduct found proved, then it will have the discretion not to award full back wages. However, if the Labour Court/Industrial Tribunal finds that the employee or workman is not at all guilty of any misconduct or that the employer had foisted a false charge, then there will be ample justification for award of full back wages.

v) The cases in which the competent Court or Tribunal finds that the employer has acted in gross violation of the statutory provisions and/or the principles of natural justice or is guilty of victimizing the employee or workman, then the concerned Court or Tribunal will be fully justified in directing payment of full back wages. In such cases, the superior Courts should not exercise power under Article 226 or 136 of the Constitution and interfere with the award passed by the Labour Court, etc., merely because there is a possibility of forming a different opinion on the entitlement of the employee/workman to get full back wages or the employer's obligation to pay the same. The Courts must always be kept in view that in the cases of wrongful / illegal termination of service, the wrongdoer is the employer and sufferer is the employee/workman and there is no justification to give premium to the employer of his wrongdoings by relieving him of the burden to pay to the employee/workman his dues in the form of full back wages.

vi) In a number of cases, the superior Courts have interfered with the award of the primary adjudicatory authority on the premise that finalization of litigation has taken long time ignoring that in majority of cases the parties are not responsible for such delays. Lack of infrastructure and manpower is the principal cause for delay in the disposal of cases. For this the litigants cannot be blamed or penalised. It would amount to grave injustice to an employee or workman if he is denied back wages simply because there is long lapse of time between the termination of his service and finality given to the order of reinstatement. The Courts should bear in mind that in most of these cases, the employer is in an advantageous position vis-à-vis the employee or workman. He can avail the services of best legal brain for prolonging the agony of the sufferer, i.e., the employee or workman, who can ill afford the luxury of spending money on a lawyer with certain amount of fame. Therefore, in such cases it would be prudent to adopt the course suggested in Hindustan Tin Works Private Limited v. Employees of Hindustan Tin Works Private Limited (supra).

vii) The observation made in J.K. Synthetics Ltd. v. K.P. Agrawal (supra) that on reinstatement the employee/workman cannot claim continuity of service as of right is contrary to the ratio of the judgments of three Judge Benches referred to hereinabove and cannot be treated as good law. This part of the judgment is also against the very concept of reinstatement of an employee/workman."

15. In so far as the issue regarding entitlement of a daily-wager for reinstatement or back-wages, the Supreme Court in Krishan Singh (supra) passed an award in favour of a person who was said to be engaged as a daily-wager and directed his reinstatement as a daily-wager with 50% back-wages.

16. Similar view was taken by the Supreme Court in the case of Jasmer Singh (supra) where it was held that non compliance with the statutory provisions in case of termination of services even a daily-wager worker would justify award of reinstatement with back-wages.

17. In R.M. Yellatty (supra), regarding mischief of the Department in connection with termination of services of an alleged daily-wager, the Supreme Court directed reinstatement of a workman as a daily-wager in the nominal muster roll and it was held that daily waged earners are not regular employees. They are not given letters of appointments. They are not given letters of termination. They are not given any written document which they could produce as proof of receipt of wages. Their muster rolls are maintained in loose sheets. Even in cases, where registers are maintained by the Government departments, the officers/clerks making entries do not put their signatures. Even where signatures of clerks appear, the entries are not countersigned or certified by the appointing authorities.

18. The Supreme Court in Maharashtra SRTC Versus Casteribe Rajya Parivahan Karmchari Sanghatana (2009) 8 SCC 556 held that the case of State of Karanataka Vs. Umadevi does not denude the Industrial and Labour Courts of their statutory power under Section 30 read with Section 32 of the MRTU and PULP Act to order permanency of the workers who have been victims of unfair labour practice on the part of the employer under Item 6 of Schedule IV where the posts on which they have been working exist. Umadevi cannot be held to have overridden the powers of the Industrial and Labour Courts in passing appropriate order under Section 30 of the MRTU and PULP Act, once unfair labour practice on the part of the employer under Item 6 of Schedule IV is established.

19. The Supreme Court in Hari Nandan Prasad Versus Food Corporation of India (2014) 7 SCC 190, upon considering the aforementioned judgments as to whether the principles enshrined in Umadevi case are applicable observed as follows:-

"34. A close scrutiny of the two cases, thus, would reveal that the law laid down in those cases is not contradictory to each other. In U.P. Power Corporation, this Court has recognized the powers of the Labour Court and at the same time emphasized that the Labour Court is to keep in mind that there should not be any direction of regularization if this offends the provisions of Article 14 of the Constitution, on which judgment in Umadevi is primarily founded. On the other hand, in Bhonde case, the Court has recognized the principle that having regard to statutory powers conferred upon the Labour Court/Industrial Court to grant certain reliefs to the workmen, which includes the relief of giving the status of permanency to the contract employees, such statutory power does not get denuded by the judgment in Umadevi's case. It is clear from the reading of this judgment that such a power is to be exercised when the employer has indulged in unfair labour practice by not filling up the permanent post even when available and continuing to workers on temporary/daily wage basis and taking the same work from them and making them some purpose which were performed by the regular workers but paying them much less wages. It is only when a particular practice is found to be unfair labour practice as enumerated in Schedule IV of MRTP and PULP Act and it necessitates giving direction under Section 30 of the said Act, that the Court would give such a direction."

20. The Supreme Court in Hari Nandan Prasad case (supra) observed that keeping in mind that industrial disputes are settled by industrial adjudicator on principles of fair play and justice concluded that when there are posts available, in the absence of any unfair labour practice the Labour Court would not give direction for regularization only because a worker has continued as daily wage worker/adhoc/temporary worker for number of years. Further, if there are no posts available, such a direction for regularization would be impermissible. In the aforesaid circumstances giving of direction to regularize such a person, only on the basis of number of years put in by such a worker as daily wagger etc. may amount to backdoor entry into the service which is an anathema to Art. 14 of the Constitution. Further, such a direction would not be given when the concerned worker does not meet the eligibility requirement of the post in question as per the Recruitment Rules. However, wherever it is found that similarly situated workmen are regularized by the employer itself under some scheme or otherwise and the workmen in question who have approached Industrial/Labour Court are at par with them, direction of regularization in such cases may be legally justified, otherwise, non-regularization of the left over workers itself would amount to invidious discrimination qua them in such cases and would be violative of Art. 14 of the Constitution. Thus, the Industrial adjudicator would be achieving the equality by upholding Art. 14, rather than violating this constitutional provision.

21. A three-Judge Bench of the Supreme Court in Haryana Roadways Versus Rudhan Singh (2005) 5 SCC 591, considered the question whether back wages should be awarded to the workman in each and every case of illegal retrenchment and it was held that there is no rule of thumb that in every case where the Industrial Tribunal gives a finding that the termination of service was in violation of Section 25-F of the Act, entire back wages should be awarded. A host of factors like the manner and method of selection and appointment i.e. whether after proper advertisement of the vacancy or inviting applications from the employment exchange, nature of appointment, namely, whether ad hoc, short term, daily wage, temporary or permanent in character, any special qualification required for the job and the like should be weighed and balanced in taking a decision regarding award of back wages. One of the important factors, which has to be taken into consideration, is the length of service, which the workman had rendered with the employer. If the workman has rendered a considerable period of service and his services are wrongfully terminated, he may be awarded full or partial back wages keeping in view the fact that at his age and the qualification possessed by him he may not be in a position to get another employment. However, where the total length of service rendered by a workman is very small, the award of back wages for the complete period i.e. from the date of termination till the date of the award, which our experience shows is often quite large, would be wholly inappropriate. Another important factor, which requires to be taken into consideration is the nature of employment. A regular service of permanent character cannot be compared to short or intermittent daily-wage employment though it may be for 240 days in a calendar year.

22. The Supreme Court in Bhuvnesh Kumar Dwivedi Versus Hindalco Industries Ltd. (2014) 11 SCC 85, on the facts of that case, the Court held that the workman was subjected to victimization, therefore, the award passed by the Labour Court reinstating with backwages was justified. The judgment and order of the High Court granting compensation was reversed.

23. Learned counsel for the workman Sri Sudhanshu Narain, has placed reliance upon a decision of the Supreme Court in Devinder Singh Vs. Municipal Council, Sanaur (2011) 6 SCC 584, where the argument that had prevailed with the High Court to set aside the award of the Labour Court directing reinstatement of the workman, was that the employment of the workman with the respondent Municipal Council from 01.08.1994 to 19.09.1996 was engagement on contractual basis and that it was an appointment made contrary to the recruitment rules. The High Court had taken view that it would be violative of Articles 14 and 15 of the Constitution, and, that it would not be in public interest to sustain the award of reinstatement after a long lapse of time. It was also held that Section 2(s) contains an exhaustive definition of the term "workman". The definition takes within its ambit any person including an apprentice employed in any industry to do any manual, unskilled, skilled, technical, operational, clerical or supervisory work for hire or reward and it is immaterial that the terms of employment are not reduced into writing. The definition also includes a person, who has been dismissed, discharged or retrenched in connection with an industrial dispute or as a consequence of such dispute or whose dismissal, discharge or retrenchment has led to that dispute.

It was further held that the source of employment, the method of recruitment, the terms and conditions of employment/contract of service, the quantum of wages/pay and the mode of payment are not at all relevant for deciding whether or not a person is a workman within the meaning of Section 2(s) of the Act. It is apposite to observe that the definition of workman also does not make any distinction between full-time and part-time employee or a person appointed on contract basis. There is nothing in the plain language of Section 2(s) from which it can be inferred that only a person employed on a regular basis or a person employed for doing whole-time job is a workman and the one employed on temporary, part-time or contract basis on fixed wages or as a casual employee or for doing duty for fixed hours is not a workman.

24. The Apex Court in the case of M/s Hindustan Tin Works Pvt. Ltd. Vs. The Employees of M/s Hindustan Tin Works Pvt. Ltd and others: AIR 1979 SC 75, has held that it is no more open to debate that in the field of industrial jurisprudence a declaration can be given that the termination of service is bad and the workman continues to be in service. The spectre of common law doctrine that contract of personal service cannot be specifically enforced or the doctrine of mitigation of damages does not haunt in this branch of law. The relief of reinstatement with continuity of service can be granted where termination of service is found to be invalid. It would mean that the employer has taken away illegally the right to the work of the workman contrary to the relevant law or in breach of contract and simultaneously deprived workman of his earnings. Thus the employer is found to be in the wrong as a result of which the workman is directed to be reinstated, the employer could not shirk his responsibility of paying the wages which the workman has been deprived of by the illegal or invalid action of the employer. Speaking realistically, where termination of service is questioned as invalid or illegal and the workman has to go through the gamut of litigation, his capacity to sustain himself throughout the protracted litigation is itself such an awesome factor that he may not survive to see the day when relief is granted. More so in our system where the law's proverbial delay has become stupefying. If after such a protracted time and energy consuming litigation during which period the workman just sustains himself, ultimately he is to be told that though he will be reinstated, he will be denied the back wages which would be due to him, the workman would be subjected to a sort of penalty for no fault of his and it is wholly undeserved. Ordinarily, therefore, a workman whose service has been illegally terminated would be entitled to full back wages except to the extent he was gainfully employed during the enforced idleness. That is the normal rule. Any other view would be a premium on the unwarranted litigating activity of the employer.

25. Further, the Supreme Court, in the case of Deepali Gundu Surwase (supra), elaborately discussed the very idea of restoring an employee to the position which he held before dismissal or removal or termination of his services and, in paragraph 17, the Supreme Court held that the very idea of restoring an employee to the position which he held before dismissal or removal or termination of service implies that the employee will be put in the same position in which he would have been but for the illegal action taken by the employer. The injury suffered by a person, who is dismissed or removed or is otherwise terminated from service cannot easily be measured in terms of money. With the passing of an order which has the effect of severing the employer employee relationship, the latter's source of income gets dried up. Not only the concerned employee, but his entire family suffers grave adversities. They are deprived of the source of sustenance. The children are deprived of nutritious food and all opportunities of education and advancement in life. At times, the family has to borrow from the relatives and other acquaintance to avoid starvation. These sufferings continue till the competent adjudicatory forum decides on the legality of the action taken by the employer. The reinstatement of such an employee, which is preceded by a finding of the competent judicial/quasi judicial body or Court that the action taken by the employer is ultra vires the relevant statutory provisions or the principles of natural justice, entitles the employee to claim full back wages.

26. The Supreme Court further held that if the employer wants to deny back wages to the employee or contest his entitlement to get consequential benefits, then it is for him/her to specifically plead and prove that during the intervening period the employee was gainfully employed and was getting the same emoluments. Denial of back wages to an employee, who has suffered due to an illegal act of the employer would amount to indirectly punishing the concerned employee and rewarding the employer by relieving him of the obligation to pay back wages including the emoluments.

27. In the same report, with regard to award of back-wages, it was held that payment of back wages having a discretionary element involved in it has to be dealt with, in the facts and circumstances of each case and no straight-jacket formula can be evolved, though, however, there is statutory sanction to direct payment of back wages in its entirety.

28. Reference of another decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Bhuvanesh Kumar Dwivedi Vs. M/s Hindalco Industries Ltd: 2014 (142) FLR 20 is also worth mention in which, while referring to the judgment in the case of Deepali Gundu Surwase (supra) the Apex Court has held that it would amount to grave injustice to an employee or workman if he is denied back wages simply because there is long lapse of time between the termination of his service and finality given to the order of reinstatement. The Courts should bear in mind that in most of these cases, the employer is in an advantageous position vis-à-vis the employee or workman. He can avail the services of best legal brain for prolonging the agony of the sufferer, i.e., the employee or workman, who can ill afford the luxury of spending money on a lawyer with certain amount of fame. Therefore, in such cases it would be prudent to adopt the course suggested in Hindustan Tin Works Private Limited v. Employees of Hindustan Tin Works Private Limited (supra)....”

29. After discussing on the issue of reinstatement vis-a-vis back-wages, the Apex Court in the case of Mackinnon Mackenzie & Company Ltd. Vs. Mackinnon Employees’ Union: 2015 (145) FLR 184, has reiterated the ratio laid down in Deepali Gundu (supra).

30. The aforesaid views have been reiterated by the Supreme Court very recently in its judgment dated 23.09.2022 passed in Civil Appeal No.6890 of 2022 (Arising out of Special Leave Petition (Civil) No.8393 of 2022) Jeetubha Khansangji Jadeja Vs. Kutchh District Panchayat.

31. In the present case, I find that the workman successfully pleaded and fully proved his case by oral and documentary evidence that oral termination of his services with effect from 01.01.1991 was contrary to the provisions of the Act, 1947 and that the workmen junior to him were retained in service. I also find that the employer by not producing oral and documentary evidence to rebut the contention of the workman would be subjected to adverse inference which has rightly been drawn by the Labour Court, more particularly in view of Section 114, Illustration (g) of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872.

32. In the present case, the workman has not only pleaded but also stated on oath in his oral testimony and maintained the stand even in cross examination that he was not gainfully employed after termination of his services. To the contrary, the petitioner/employer completely failed either to plead or to prove in any manner that the workman was gainfully employed so as to deny him back-wages. Therefore, the ratio laid down in the aforesaid authorities on this score fully supports the case of workman for award of back-wages which the Labour Court has assessed to the extent of 50% although it could be a case where the workman was entitled for full back-wages. However, the Court is not inclined to enhance the back-wages as the writ petition has not been filed by the workman but by the employer.

33. There is no need to multiply the authorities on the aforesaid issues or to refer/quote more and more paragraphs of the said authorities as it would only make the judgment bulky and when the Court is satisfied that the Labour Court has not erred in making the award in the aforesaid terms, I find that no interference is required in the impugned award and the writ petition is devoid of merit.

34. Accordingly, the writ petition fails and is dismissed as such. The impugned award is upheld.

35. Before concluding this judgment, the Court finds that in the present case an interim order was passed on 23.01.2017 whereby the petitioner was directed to deposit a sum of Rs.2,00,000/- with the Labour Court, Gorakhpur and the operation of the impugned award was kept in abeyance. Though, it was also provided under the said interim order that out of the aforesaid amount, 25% of the same would be released in favour of the workman, I find that although the amount was deposited, the said 25% of the same could not be released despite a subsequent order dated 03.10.2017 and the reason for not release was that the Labour Court concerned was vacant, as noticed in the order dated 30.04.2019. Thereafter, a modification application was filed and it was contended on behalf of the workman that direction may be issued to the Presiding Officer, Industrial Tribunal, Gorakhpur to act as the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, however the said contention was found to be misconceived and, accordingly, the modification application was rejected by order dated 11.07.2019. Thereafter, there is no order by which it could be inferred that the condition of release of 25% amount was fulfilled or that the workman has received the sum.

36. Therefore, while dismissing the writ petition, it is observed that the award of the Labour Court shall be executed as it is and the execution proceedings shall be completed within a period of four months from the date a certified copy of this judgment is produced before the court concerned. The amount of 25% as directed under the interim order dated 23.01.2017, if not released in favour of the respondent-workman, shall be adjusted in the back-wages to be awarded to him.

37. With the aforesaid observations, the writ petition is dismissed.

Economics in the category of paid seats.

W.P. allowed. (E-9)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. The petitioner is aggrieved by denial of admission to the B.A. (Hons.) Economics Course in the category of paid seats by the respondent-University. The undisputed facts are these:

2. The petitioner applied for admission to B.A. (Hons.) Economics Course under the category of paid seats as well as regular seats at D.A.V. Post Graduate College, affiliated to Banaras Hindu University, Varanasi. The petitioner had secured 279.46/400 marks in CUET-2022 Examination. The last candidate who was admitted to B.A. (Hons.) Economics Course under the paid seats category had obtained lesser marks than the petitioner. The case of the petitioner for admission to the B.A. (Hons.) Economics Course in the category of paid seats was never considered by the University despite his application and eligibility for admission. This fact has been pleaded by the petitioner but not refuted by the University in its counter affidavit. Further, Shri Hem Pratap Singh, learned counsel for the respondent-University has fairly admitted that the University has not considered the petitioner for admission to B.A. (Hons.) Economics Course in the category of paid seats.

3. After these facts were established, Sri Hem Pratap Singh, learned counsel for the respondent-University placed the relevant Ordinances of the University which are extracted hereunder for ease of reference:

"(i) There is a provision of 'Paid Seats' (supernumerary) in some courses, up to a maximum of 15% of total seats. Admission on Paid Seats will be done only after the regular fee seats are full.

(ii)....

(iii) In case of UG Counseling, Paid Seats options will be exercised by the candidates during preference entry. Allotment of Paid Seats would be done amongst those candidates, in order of merits."

4. There is also a provision for Upgradation and Locking of Admission in the said ordinances which is reproduced below:

"UPGRADATION AND
LOCKING RULE:

Rearrangement in 2nd and/or subsequent Admission List(s): The candidates have to enter their preference of course (where choice is available) in the preference entry form. The module has been developed in a manner to ensure that if the seats fall vacant on expiry of deadline of fee payment (after declaration of any Round of results due to candidates holding higher merit do not take admission etc.), there are chances that the candidate who was initially allotted a course of his/her lower order of preference may get upgraded to a more preferred course as per his/her preference order. Accordingly, based on the preference given by the candidate at the time of counselling, there could be change in course allocation after its initial allotment. Rearrangement process will enable only upward mobility of a candidate in the order of preference filled up by him/her, vacancy being created and his/her merit order provided payment of admission fee has already been done for the initial allotment within the prescribed deadline.

"Locking of Course Allotment: At times, if the candidate does not want any change in the Course allotted initially to him/her (say after 1st or subsequent round of result) thereby meaning that he/she wants to be excluded from the aforesaid rearrangement process in the subsequent round. If he/she is satisfied with the course allocation after any round of declaration of admission list, in such cases candidate will immediately email only through the Registered email ID of candidate to the Convener of the concerned Admission Committee to lock his/her course allotment. For this purpose each Admission Committee will create a dedicated email ID. If a candidate asks for lock option in the manner aforesaid, he/she will be excluded from the aforesaid rearrangement exercise in the succeeding rounds.

I....

II....

III. It is advised to every candidate to be very clear and careful while filling up their preferences of the subject in Preference Entry Form as after locking the course allotment, the so allotted combination with Honours subject by the computerized Online Admission Module shall not be changed under any circumstances during the whole course period."

5. Petitioner was granted admission in the B.A. (Hons) Sociology course. He deposited the admission-fee and has been pursuing the aforesaid ever since. The fact that the petitioner got admitted to the B.A. (Hons) Sociology course does not mean that he had waived his right to be admitted to B.A. (Hons) Economics course, nor does it estop him from pressing his right to be considered as a candidate for B.A. (Hons) Economics course in the category of paid seats.

6. The contention on behalf of the University that once a student pays his fees and takes admission in another course, his preferred option cannot be exercised in view of "Locking Rule" is misconceived. Reference of the underlined part of the rule shows that the petitioner was entitled to an upward mobility in the order of preference filled by him. The rule contemplates rearrangement in admissions.

7. The petitioner satisfies the pre-requisites for being allotted course of higher preference. He had paid the fees after his initial allotment within the prescribed deadline. Further, the vacancy was created in the course and by virtue of the petitioner's merit the vacancy was liable to be filled up by him.

8. Locking of rule is a completely different concept and has no bearing in the instant case. The course allotment is locked only when a candidate makes a request to the University that he does not want any change in the course allotted to him initially and wants to be excluded from the rearrangement process. Admittedly, the candidate had not opted for locking of his admission in B.A. (Hons.) Sociology and hence could not have been excluded from the upward arrangement process.

9. The refusal of the University to admit the petitioner in the B.A. (Hons.) Economics Course in the category of paid seats was arbitrary and illegal.

10. In the wake of the preceding discussion this Court finds that the petitioner was entitled to the B.A. (Hons.) Economics Course in the category of paid seats.

11. A writ in the nature of mandamus is issued commanding the respondent University to forthwith process his candidature for admission to the B.A. (Hons) Economics course.

12. In view of the fact that the petitioner's admission to the said course was delayed by the fault of the University, the University shall take all measures including extra classes, holding of special exams and necessary support so that the petitioner does not lose an academic year.

13. The writ petition is allowed.

1. Heard.

2. The present writ petition has been preferred with the following main prayers:-

"i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus thereby commanding the opposite parties not to disturb the peaceful possession of the petitioner over Gata No. 72, Khata No. 178, area 1606.13 sq. mtrs. situated at village Chandan, Pargana, Tehsil and District Lucknow.

ii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the opposite parties to restore the entries in the name of the petitioner over Gata No. 72, Khata No. 178, area 1606.13 sq. mtrs. situated at Village Chandan, Pargana, Tehsil and District Lucknow, as it was prior to 4.2.2008."

3. Brief facts of the case are that Gata No. 72 (1606.13 sq. mtrs.) situated at village Chandan, Pargana, Tehsil and District Lucknow was recorded in the name of Sukkha, the original tenure holder who was its Bhumidhar with transferable rights. A notice under Section 8(3) of the Urban Land (Ceiling and Regulation) Act, 1976 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act, 1976') was issued in respect of aforesaid land and as per the opposite parties Sukkha did not respond, therefore, the said land measuring 1606.13 sq. mtrs. was declared surplus. On 09.09.1978, a notification under Section 10(1) of the Act, 1976 was issued. Thereafter on 12.05.1990, notification under Section 10(3) of the Act, 1976 was published. Sukkha was directed to handover possession of the said land on 24.01.1991, as claimed by the opposite parties, in view of Section 10(5) of the Act, 1976. Thereafter, the said land, as per opposite parties, was transferred to Lucknow Development Authority in view of Government Order dated 11.12.1996 and Section 10(6) of the Act, 1976, though the exact date of this transfer has not been mentioned. In fact in the counter affidavit of the State though it is mentioned that Sukkha was asked to handover possession of the land, but it is nowhere mentioned that he did handover or surrender his possession to the State authorities voluntarily or that it was forcibly taken. No proof of such handover or taking over of possession has been annexed by the opposite parties in the counter affidavit. Only a copy of notice under Section 10(5) of the Act, 1976 has been annexed which by itself does not prove handing over or taking over of actual possession. On 11.03.1999, the Urban Land (Ceiling and Regulation) Repeal Ordinance, 1999 was issued which was adopted by the State Legislature of U.P. under Article 252(2) of the Constitution of India on 18.03.1999. This Ordinance was replaced by the Urban Land (Ceiling and Regulation) Repeal Act, 1999 (Act No. 5 of 1999) (hereinafter referred to as the 'Repeal Act, 1999') by which the Act, 1976 was repealed. As per Section 5(2) of this Act, 1999, notwithstanding repeal of the Ordinance of 1999, anything done or action taken under the said Ordinance shall be deemed to have been done or taken under the corresponding provisions of the Act, therefore, the adoption dated 18.03.1999 by State of U.P. holds good for the Act, 1999 also.

4. Before referring to the provision of Repeal Act, 1999, it is relevant to mention that at some point of time Sukkha died and his daughter succeeded him with regard to his land and after coming into force of the Repeal Act, 1999, she executed a sale-deed in favour of the petitioner on 18.09.2000 as per the supplementary affidavit of the petitioner dated 11.02.2020, copy of which was served on the State, contents of which have not been denied by it. Copy of sale-deed is also annexed with it. Based on the said sale deed, petitioner was recorded in the revenue records as its Bhumidhar with transferable rights. Copy of khatauni pertaining to Gata No. 72 is annexed as Annexure no. 1 to the petition. By then, the State was not even recorded in respect of the said land and it was so recorded only on 04.02.2008. Sections 3 & 4 of the Repeal Act, 1999 read as under:-

"3. Saving.- (1) The repeal of the principal Act shall not affect -

(a) the vesting of any vacant land under sub-section (3) of Section 10, possession of which has been taken over the State Government or any person duly authorised by the State Government in this behalf or by the competent authority.

(b) the validity of any order granting exemption under sub-section (1) of Section 20 or any action taken thereunder, notwithstanding any judgment of any court to the contrary;

(c) any payment made to the State Government as a condition for granting exemption under sub-section (1) of Section 20.

(2) Where -

(a) any land is deemed to have vested in the State Government under sub-section (3) of Section 10 of the principal Act but possession of which has not been taken over by the State Government or any person duly authorised by the State Government in this behalf or by the competent authority; and

(b) any amount has been paid by the State Government with respect to such land then, such land shall not be restored unless the amount paid, if any, has been refunded to the State Government.

4. Abatement of legal proceedings -- All proceedings relating to any order made or purported to be made under the principal Act pending immediately before the commencement of this Act, before any court, tribunal or other authority shall abate:

Provided that this section shall not apply to the proceedings relating to sections 11, 12, 13 & 14 of the principal Act in so far as such proceedings are relatable to the land, possession of which has been taken over by the State Government or any person duly authorised by the State Government in this behalf or by the competent authority."

5. These provisions of the Repeal Act, 1999 were considered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of State of U.P. vs Hari Ram [(2013) 4 SCC 280] and it was inter alia held that vesting under Sub Section (3) of Section 10 meant vesting of title absolutely and not possession, though nothing stands in the way of a person voluntarily surrendering or delivering possession. It further held that it was mandatory for the State to issue a notice under Section 10 (5) of the Act, 1976 directing the petitioner/land holder to deliver possession to the State, failing which it was mandatory for the State to take forceful possession under Section 10(6) of the Act, 1976. It went on to hold as under:-

"42. The mere vesting of the land under sub-section (3) of Section 10 would not confer any right on the State Government to have de facto possession of the vacant land unless there has been a voluntary surrender of vacant land before 18.3.1999. State has to establish that there has been a voluntary surrender of vacant land or surrender and delivery of peaceful possession under sub-section (5) of Section 10 or forceful dispossession under sub-section (6) of Section 10. On failure to establish any of those situations, the land owner or holder can claim the benefit of Section 4 of the Repeal Act. The State Government in this appeal could not establish any of those situations and hence the High Court is right in holding that the respondent is entitled to get the benefit of Section 4 of the Repeal Act."

6. Thus, vesting of land under Section 10(3) of the Act, 1976 does not mean actual physical possession and such vesting also does not by itself render the possession of tenure holder illegal. Thus the crux of the issue is whether in the case at hand, actual/de facto possession was taken or voluntarily given prior to coming into force of Repeal Act, 1999 or not. If not, then the benefit of the Repeal Act will be available to the petitioner. If it has been taken, then it will not be available.

7. Now the mode/procedure for taking possession was discussed by this Court in the case of Yasin vs. State of U.P. and Ors. [(2014) 4 ADJ 305 (DB)]. Paragraphs 15 & 16 of the said judgment reads as under:-

"15. In the light of the aforesaid, the Court has to see as to whether actual physical possession had been taken by the State or not either under Sections 10(5) or 10(6) of the Act. The procedure for taking possession has been provided under the Directions of 1983, which has been issued by the State Government while exercising its power under Section 35 of the Act. Paragraph 3 of the Directions is extracted hereunder:

'3. Procedure for taking possession of vacant land in excess of Ceiling Limit .--(1) The Competent Authority will maintain a register in Form No. ULC -1 for each case regarding which notification under sub-section (3) of Section 10 of the Act is published in the gazette.

(2) An order in Form No. ULC-II will be sent to each landholder as prescribed under sub-section (5) of Section 10 of the Act and the date of issue and service of the order will be entered in Column 8 of Form No. ULC-1.

(3) On possession of the excess vacant land being taken in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (5) or sub-section (6) of Section 10 of the Act, entries will be made in a register in Form ULC-III and also in Column 9 of the Form No.

ULC-I. The Competent Authority shall, in token of verification of the entries, put his signature in Column II of Form No. ULC/1 and Column 10 of Form No. ULC-III.'

16. From the aforesaid, it is clear that Competent Authority is required to maintain a register under U.L.C.-I, which is required to indicate the date of notice issued under Section 10(5) of the Act and the date of service of notice as well as the date of taking the possession and the signature of the Competent Authority. Form no. U.L.C.-II is with regard to issuance of notice under Section 10(5). The format indicates that in addition to the notice that had to be sent to the tenure holder an intimation is also required to be sent to the Collector with a request to take possession under sub-section (6) of Section 10 of the Act. Form no. U.L.C.-III is a register for the land of which possession has been taken under Sections 10(5) or 10(6) of the Act. The Competent Authority is also required to place his signature endorsing the date of taking possession."

8. The directions of 1983 referred in the above quoted judgment have been issued under Section 35 of the Act, 1976.

9. The Division Bench in the case of Yasin (supra) after considering various decisions of Hon'ble Supreme Court on the mode of possession also observed that normal mode of taking possession is drafting a panchnama in the presence of panchas and taking possession and giving delivery of possession to the beneficiaries, if any.

10. There is no such pleading in the counter affidavit nor any documents annexed to demonstrate the taking over of possession in terms of the aforesaid procedure prescribed. As already stated, in fact, even bereft of the aforesaid procedure, there is no such averment in the counter affidavit of the State that de facto/actual possession was taken over by it of the land in question. It is also not the case that the actual possession was voluntarily delivered by the tenure holder.

11. From perusal of the प्रपत्र संख्या न० भू० अ० सी० -दो issued under Section 10 (5) of the Act, it shows the name of Sukkha the original tenure holder but nothing has been found from the record that at any point of time, either the original tenure holder or the petitioner has ever given physical possession voluntarily as per Section 10 (5) of the Act. The counter affidavit also does not say that actual physical possession was handed over to Lucknow Development Authority and it has made any construction on it. There is no documentary proof at all in the light of Division Bench judgments of this Court in the cases of Yasin (supra) and Babu and Ors. vs. State of U.P. thru. Secy., Urban Land Ceiling, Lucknow & Ors. (Misc. Bench No. 1960 of 2019) to show voluntary surrender of possession by original tenure holder or forcible de facto possession by the State.

12. The Competent Authority is required to maintain a register under U.L.C.-I, which is required to indicate the date of notice issued under Section 10(5) of the Act, 1976 and the date of service of notice as well as the date of taking the possession and the signature of the Competent Authority. Form No. U.L.C.-II is with regard to issuance of notice under Section 10 (5). The format indicates that in addition to the notice that had to be sent to the tenure holder, an intimation is also required to be sent to the Collector with a request to take possession under sub-Section (6) of Section 10 of the Act. Form No. U.L.C. -III is a register for the land of which possession has been taken under Section 10 (5) or 10 (6) of the Act, 1976. The Competent Authority is also required to place his signature endorsing the date of taking consideration. In this case, no such record is available which could help the opposite parties. No memo of possession is annexed to the counter affidavit. Even the date of taking the possession has not been mentioned in the counter affidavit.

13. The petitioner has specifically pleaded in para 6 of the writ petition that possession of the land was never taken. It reads as under:-

"6. That the notification under Section 10(1) of the Act No. 33 of 1976 was made vide notification No.8540/3228 dated 9.9.1978 but the possession was not taken."

14. The aforesaid para has been replied in para 24 of the counter affidavit, which is being quoted hereinbelow:-

"24. That the contents of para 6 of the writ petition need no comment."

15. Further in para 11 of the writ petition, he has mentioned that he continues to be in actual and physical possession of the land. It reads as under:-

"11. That the petitioner respectfully submits that after the execution of the sale deed executed by opposite party No. 4 in favour of the petitioner his name was mutated in the revenue records and he is continuing in actual and physical possession of the land in question."

16. This has been replied by the State in para 26, as under:-

" That the contents of para 11 of the writ petition as stated are denied in view of the submissions made hereinabove."

17. On a perusal of the other paragraphs of the counter affidavit, we do not find any pleading and proof referred in its support about actual physical possession having been delivered or taken to/by State authorities. In fact, para 24 of the counter affidavit accepts the case of the petitioner. The possession and transfer, which have been referred in the counter affidavit of the State, are only on paper. The original records in this regard which were produced before us also do not contain any proof of such actual possession having been taken or delivered voluntarily.

18. Possession of the tenure holder or petitioner cannot be termed as illegal merely because of vesting of the land in the State in view of the decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Hari Ram (supra), as has already been held in the case of Babu & Ors. (supra). In view of the above, the land owner or holder can claim benefit of Sections 3 & 4 of the Repeal Act, 1999.

19. As regards, the contention of Sri Khare that the petition has been filed belatedly, this is also irrelevant as the petitioner is still in possession of the land and its possession was never actually taken by the State. Moreover, the petition was filed after petitioner come to know about the entry made on 04.02.2008 in the records, illegally. This aspect has also been considered by a Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Babu and Ors. (supra). The relevant extract of the said judgment is quoted hereinbelow:

"16. As regards the contentions of Sri Sarin that the challenge was delayed, we are of the opinion that as the actual physical possession still continues with the petitioners and it was not taken by the State, there is no question of delay in seeking the relief as aforesaid. The decision relied by Sri Sarin, which are reported in 2015 (5) SCC 321 State of Assam Versus Bhaskar Jyoti Sharma and others, 2017 (7) ADJ 362 Dhani Ram Versus State of U.P. and others and 2015 (7) ADJ 630 Shiv Ram Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others do not apply to the facts of the case. In the case of Bhaskar Jyoti (supra) the fact was that the actual physical possession had been taken over from the erstwhile land owner on 07.12.1991, therefore in this context the plea raised about taking over the possession illegally was held to be highly belated. Here the facts are very different. The possession still continues with the petitioners and there is nothing to show that it was taken by the State. As regards the case of Shiv Ram Singh (supra) here also the allegation was of dispossession from land without due notice under Section 10(5) and as it was a belated plea, therefore, the same was not acceptable. In the case of Dhani Ram (supra) a notification under Section 4 of the Act, 1976 was challenged belatedly, which is not the case here. Therefore, none of these decisions supports the case of the opposite parties."

20. Against the judgment dated 30.07.2021 in the case of Babu & Others (supra), an S.L.P. bearing No. 4160/2022 was preferred by the State of U.P. & Ors. vs. Babu and Ors., which was dismissed by Hon'ble the Supreme Court vide its order dated 14.03.2022.

21. As there is nothing on record to establish voluntary surrender of land by Sukkha under Section 10(5) or forcible actual/de facto possession by the State of U.P. under Section 10(6) therefore, the Repeal Act, 1999 is clearly attracted and the petitioner is entitled to the benefit of Sections 3 and 4 of the Repeal Act, 1999.

22. Once we have arrived at the conclusion that actual physical possession was never taken by the State then in view of the Repeal Act, 1999, all proceedings under the repealed Act, 1976 and orders passed therein stood abated as on 18.03.1999/22.03.1999 when the Act, 1999 came into force. The Act, 1976 itself ceased to be operative from the said date, therefore, it cannot be said that the sale of the land by daughter of Sukkha in favour of petitioner on 18.09.2000 is hit by any provisions of the Act, 1976, such as, Section 10(4).

23. The contention of Sri Khare in this regard based on the decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of U.P. and another Vs. Adarsh Seva Sahkari Samiti Ltd.; (2016) 12 SCC 493 that petitioner being a subsequent purchaser is not entitled to any relief is misconceived. In the case of Adarsh Seva Sahkari Samiti Ltd. (supra), the sale-deed of the land which was the subject matter of ceiling proceedings was sold/purchased in the year 1991-92 when the Act, 1976 was in operation and the land had vested in the State and the sale was prohibited by Section 10(4) of the said Act, but, in this case, the Act, 1976 ceased to be operative on 18.03.1999/22.03.1999 when it stood repealed and sale of the land by the tenure holder took place on 18.09.2000 in favour of petitioner, therefore, it was not hit by Section 10(4) as it was no longer in existence. Nothing in law prohibited the recorded tenure holder from selling the said land to petitioner on the said date. The decision in Adarsh Seva Sahkari Samiti Ltd. (supra) is not applicable to the facts of this case.

24. In view of the above discussion, the petition is allowed. We direct the concerned revenue authorities to delete the endorsement contained in the remarks column of the Khatauni, regarding land being surplus under the Ceiling Act, copy of which is annexed as Annexure 1 and restore the name of the petitioner in respect of the land in question in the revenue record, so far as his share therein is concerned. This is without prejudice to the rights of any third person who may have a claim against the petitioner.

25. The original records which were produced and were retained by the Court, are returned herewith to the counsel for the State.

Civil Law – Constitution of India, 1950 - Article - 226 - Societies Registration Act, 1860 – Bye Laws of Society – 29 & 35 : -

Writ Petition – impugned order – two elections were counted by the rival parties to the society – writ petition – Special Appeal – remanded back the matter before the Prescribed Authority – who has upheld the election set up by the respondent no. 4 and invalidated the election claim of the petitioners - court finds that, prescribed authority in the impugned order considered the interplay of bye laws of the society - namely bye laws no. 29 and 35 to determine the legality of the meeting called for election - court finds that, Bye law no. 35 is especial provision made for a specific purpose, while Bye Law no. 29 is a general provision created for all others purposes – Good authorities in law settled the cannon of interpretation that the special law prevails over the general law – hence, an election meeting shall be governed and regulated only by Bye Laws no. 35 - and the next issue regarding venue of the meeting was in the teeth of the holding of the learned Division Bench – further, there is no issue about the electoral college – consequently, impugned order is liable to be set aside and matter is remitted to the Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits to conduct the election in a fair and transparent manner – writ petition is allowed – directions issued accordingly.

Writ Petition Allowed. (E-11)

List of Cases cited:

1. Writ – C No. 20203/2022 (Shree Arya Mahila Hitakarini Mahaparishad & anr. Vs St. of UP & ors.) decided on Dated 20.10.2022,

2. Special Appeal No. 692/20222 (Dr. Shashi Kant Dixit Vs St. of UP & ors.) decided on Dated 16.12.2022.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. Heard Sri Radhakant Ojha, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Dr. Pradeep Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Rakesh Pande, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Ms. Vishakha Pande, and Sri Ashok Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the respondent no. 4.

2. By the impugned order dated 27.02.2023 passed by the Prescribed Authority/Joint Magistrate/Upziladhari, Sadar, Varanasi, under the Societies Registration Act, 1860, the election set up by the respondent no. 4 has been upheld while the election claim of the petitioners has been invalidated.

3. Brief facts are these. Election to society was called on 18.02.2022 by the Chief Secretary/General Secretary of the Samrakshak Sabha by notice dated 23.01.2022. The said notice fixed Arya Mahila PG College, Varanasi as the election venue. On 04.02.2022 meeting called by the Joint Secretary of the All India Council resolved to change the venue of the election to Bharat Dharam Mahamandal Building, Jagatganj, Banaras.

4. Two elections were conducted by the rival parties at their respective venues. The competing election claims were presented before the Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Varanasi. The Assistant Registrar vide order dated 28.06.2022 recognized the election set up by the respondent no. 4 and invalidated the claim of the petitioner. Aggrieved the petitioners invoked the extra ordinary jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India and instituted a writ petition which was registered as Writ C No. 20203 of 2022 (Shree Arya Mahila Hitakarini Mahaparishad and Another vs. State of U.P. and Others). The learned single Judge by judgment rendered on 20.10.2022 ruled as follows:

"Therefore, under such facts and circumstances as well as law laid down by this Court, the writ petition is allowed and impugned order dated 28.6.2022 passed by the Assistant Registrar-respondent no.2 is hereby quashed. Respondent no.2 is directed to refer the matter to Prescribed Authority within two weeks alongwith election proposals of both the rival groups. Prescribed Authority is further directed to take final decision in the matter maximum within six weeks thereafter after affording opportunity of hearing to petitioner, respondent no.3 and all other concerned, if any."

5. The order passed by the learned single Judge was carried in appeal by respondent no. 4 which came to be registered as Special Appeal No. 692 of 2022 (Dr. Shashi Kant Dixit vs. State of U.P. and 3 Others). The learned Division Bench affirmed the judgment of the learned Single Judge and dismissed the appeal by judgment dated 16.12.2022. However, various observations were made by the learned Division Bench which influence the controversy till date. The learned Division Bench in Special Appeal No. 692 of 2022 (supra) dealing with the argument relating to invalidity of the notice and change of the election venue observed thus:

"Dealing with the first argument that there is an inherent defect in the notice for convening the meeting on 29.01.2022, it would be apt to bear in mind that the election programme was notified by the appellant fixing 18.02.2022. It is not in dispute that convening a meeting is a step towards holding the elections. Clause 30 of the Rules of the Association provides for a three weeks notice for convening the meeting. Parties are in agreement that the election date so fixed by the appellant for holding the election remained unaltered. However, it is the venue which got changed. Now a question would arise whether holding a meeting on 04.02.2022 to change the venue would amount to materially and substantially altering the election program. The answer to the same finds place in Rule 35 of the Rules of the Association wherein, it is provided that in case election is held at Varanasi, then it should be at the Headquarters at Varanasi. Headquarters is specified in Clause 2 of the MOA, which is, at Bharat Dharam Mahamandal Building, Jagatganj, Benaras. Admittedly, the venue of the elections so notified by the appellant was at Arya Kanya P.G. College, Chetganj, Varanasi which was not a place specified in MOA for conducting elections. It is also not in dispute that allegations were levelled regarding the possibility of manipulation. Thus, in the opinion of the Court, mere change in the election venue would not partake the character of materially altering the election programme as to require issuance and publication of fresh election programme by giving three weeks notice."

6. Other observations were also in the judgment. However, most relevant observation on which the fate of the case before this Court turns has been extracted above.

7. Sri Radhakant Ojha, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Dr. Pradeep Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the findings quoted above finally decided the issue of venue of the elections. The impugned order is in the teeth of the holding of the learned Division Bench.

8. Per contra, Sri Rakesh Pande, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Ms. Vishakha Pande, learned counsel for the respondent no. 4 contends as under:

9. The findings of the learned Division Bench in Special Appeal No. 692 of 2022 (supra) were made only in the context whether a triable case arose which merited reference to the prescribed authority. The said observations do not bind the authorities. Upon remand the prescribed authority was liable to exercise its independent judgment uninfluenced by observations made in the judgment of the learned Division Bench.

10. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

11. Two issues define the controversy. Firstly the legality of the meetings and resolutions dated 23.01.2022 and 04.02.2022 respectively called by the rival parties. Secondly the validity of the elections held by the parties respectively at separate venues.

12. The prescribed authority in the impugned order considered the interplay of relevant bye laws of the society namely Bye law No. 29 and Bye law no. 35 to determine the legality of the meeting called on 04.02.2022.

13. The provisions are extracted hereunder for ease of reference.

"Bye Law no. 29- The meeting of the Samrakshak Sabha shall be held at least once in every five years or whenever considered necessary by the Chief Secretary, joint Chief Secretary or on the request of at least seven members of the Samrakshak Sabha in writing to the Chief Secretary to call the meeting.

Bye Law no. 35- The member of the All India Council other than the disciple of Bhagwan Maharashi Swami Gyananandji Maharaj, the representative of Sri Bharat Dharm Mahamandal, and Shree mahamaya Trust shall be elected every five years by the All India Samrakshak Sabha at its meeting specially called for the purpose either at Varanasi, the head quarter or at any other place in India considered suitable by the General president, Chief Secretary or General Secretary."

14. The bye laws delineate two categories of meetings. The first class of meetings are of a general nature which can be called within the prescribed time period and on other occasions by the authorities depicted in the Bye law No. 29. The other set of meetings which were contemplated in Bye Law No. 35 exclusively pertain to elections. An election as per Bye law No. 35 can be called only by the General President, Chief Secretary or General Secretary. The venues for the meeting were also provided in the said bye law.

15. The Bye law No 35 clearly is a special provision made for a specific purpose, while Bye law No. 29 is a general provision created for all other purposes.

16. Good authorities in law settle the cannon of interpretation that the special law prevails over the general law. Hence, an election meeting shall be governed and regulated only by Bye law No. 35.

17. The meeting called by respondent no. 4 on 23.01.2022 related to holding of the election. The office bearer calling for the said election was competent to do so as per the scheme of the bye laws. To the contrary, the Joint Chief Secretary was not authorised by the bye laws to call an election meeting on 04.02.2022. No exception can be taken in the findings in the impugned order insofar as it invalidates the meeting dated 04.02.2022 and consequent election for like reasons.

18. The learned Division Bench by using the word "prima facie" did not decide the issue but clearly left it open for the parties to canvass the same before the prescribed authority;

"In our opinion, once the Joint Chief Secretary was authorised to issue notice/agenda and convene the meeting, then, prima facie, there appears to be no inherent defect in the notice/agenda."

19. The next critical issue relates to the venue of the election. The election called by the respondent no. 4 on 23.01.2022 was held at Arya Mahila P.G. College, Varanasi. The venue of the meeting was in the teeth of the holding of the learned Division Bench. The learned Division Bench conclusively adjudicated the issue of election venue as seen in the findings extracted earlier.

20. It is contended on behalf of the private respondent that the venue of the election as a matter of precedent has for the past many decades been Arya Mahila P.G. College, Varanasi. However, this submission is contested by Sri Radhakant Ojha, learned Senior Counsel. In any case it is not for this Court to decide the venue in view of the holding of the learned Division Bench.

21. While the arguments of Shri Rakesh Pande, learned Senior Counsel appear persuasive but not enough for a Single Judge to transgress the holdings of a learned Division Bench. The matter has to be settled on merits by a Division Bench of superior strength.

22. The impugned order insofar as it upholds the election dated 23.01.2022 held at Arya Mahila P.G. College, Varanasi is liable to be reversed and is reversed. The election claim set up by the respondent no. 4 on the footing of election held at Arya Mahila P.G. College, Varanasi is liable to set aside and is set aside.

23. The findings of the prescribed authority invalidating the meeting set up by the petitioner on 04.02.2022 and the elections held on 18.02.2022 at the Mahamandal Buildings, Lahurabir, Varanasi are not liable to interfered with.

24. There is no dispute about the electoral college.

25. The matter is remitted to the Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Varanasi to conduct the election in a fair and transparent manner as per law within a period of six weeks from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order.

26. The impugned order insofar as it upholds the election claim set up by the respondent no. 4 is liable to be set aside and is set aside.

27. The District Magistrate, Varanasi is directed to ensure that adequate security arrangements be made at the election venue.

28. The writ petition is allowed.

2. Mahak Singh Vs St. of U.P. & ors., 1999 (2) UPLBEC 1336,

3. The St. Bank of India Vs P. Soupramaniane, 2019 (18) SCC 135,

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. By the impugned order dated 12.12.2022 the Deputy Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits has declined to register the list of office bearers under Section 4(1) of the Societies Registration Act, 1860 on the footing that a reference is pending before the prescribed authority under Section 25(1) of the Societies Registration Act.

2. The petitioner claims that he is the Secretary of the society registered under the name and style of "Shiksha Prasar Bankatu Bujurg Etawah." which runs an educational institution. The petitioner states that he was lawfully elected on 24.07.2022.

3. Shri Sanjeev Kumar Yadav, learned counsel for the newly impleaded respondent submits that the petitioner cannot be elected as office bearer, inasmuch as, he has been convicted for murder in Sessions Trial No. 419 of 1993 (State Vs. Prema Devi and others).

4. Rejoining the issue, Shri Sankalp Narain, learned counsel for the petitioners does not dispute the aforesaid fact. He, however, contends that the newly impleaded respondent himself is a convict under Section 302 I.P.C. in Sessions Trial No. 120 of 1991 (State Vs. Ajeet Singh and others).

5. The undisputed facts of this case are that the petitioner claims to be the manager of the committee of management. The petitioner was convicted by a judgement rendered by the learned trial court on 11.05.2017 in Sessions Trial No. 419 of 1993 (State Vs. Prema Devi and others) for an offence under Section 302 I.P.C. The learned trial court has found that the petitioner was a principal offender who had done the deceased to death. The offence was actuated by an old rivalry between the adversaries. Further, the conviction of the petitioner for murder still stands, and has not been upset by any appellate court.

6. The newly impleaded respondent was convicted by the learned trial court on 30.10.2001 in Sessions Trial No. 120 of 1991 (State Vs. Ajeet Singh and others). The learned trial court found that the newly impleaded respondent was one of the principal offenders who committed the murder of the deceased. The deceased was murdered on account of an old enmity between the parties.

7. Both the petitioner and the respondent are linked to the offence of murder in the respective cases by credible evidence.

8. The right of the petitioner to be appointed as Secretary of the society has to be construed in light of Section 16A of the Societies Registration Act, 1860. The provision states as under:

"16A. Disqualification for holding office in society.-- A person who is undischarged insolvent or who has been convicted of any offence in connection with the formation, promotion, management or conduct of the affairs of a society, or of a body corporate, or of an offence involving moral turpitude shall be disqualified for chosen as and for being a member of the governing body or the President, Secretary or any other office-bearer of a society."

9. The question of disqualification of the petitioner contemplated under Section 16A of the Societies Registration Act will turn upon the fact whether the offence for which he has been convicted involves "moral turpitude". The phrase "moral turpitude" is of a wide ambit and has not been defined by the legislature. Recourse can be had to various dictionaries and authorities which define the aforesaid term:

(i). "Moral Turpitude" as defined in Black's Law Dictionary (6th Edn.) is as follows:

"Moral Turpitude.--The act of baseness, vileness, or the depravity in the private and social duties which man owes to his fellow man, or to society in general, contrary to accepted and customary rule of right and duty between man and man." [Black's Law Dictionary (6th Edn.) p. 1008.]

"implies something immoral in itself regardless of it being punishable by law"; "restricted to the gravest offences, consisting of felonies, infamous crimes, and those that are malum in se and disclose a depraved mind." [Id, p. 1517.]

(ii). According to Bouvier's Law Dictionary, "Moral Turpitude" is:

"An act of baseness, vileness or depravity in the private and social duties which a man owes to his fellow men or to society in general, contrary to the accepted and customary rule of right and duty between man and man."

(iii). Burton Legal Thesaurus defines "Moral Turpitude" as:

"Bad faith, bad repute, corruption, defilement, delinquency, discredit, dishonour, shame, guilt, knavery, misdoing, perversion, shame, vice, wrong."

10. This Court in Baleshwar Singh Vs. District Magistrate and Collector, Banaras and others¹ while exploring the scope of term "moral turpitude" held as under:

"26. The expression 'moral turpitude' is not defined anywhere. But it means anything done contrary to justice, honesty, modesty or good morals. It implies depravity and wickedness of character or disposition of the person charged with the particular conduct. Every false statement made by a person may not be moral turpitude, but it would be so if it discloses vileness or depravity in the doing of any private and social duty which a person owes to his fellowmen or to the society in general. If therefore the individual charged with a certain conduct owes a duty, either to another individual or to the society in general, to act in a specific manner or not to so act and he still acts contrary to it and does so knowingly, his conduct must be held to be due to vileness and depravity. It will be contrary to accepted customary rule and duty between man and man."

11. The question whether the conviction for the offence of murder would fall in the breadth of "moral turpitude" and cause disqualification of Pradhan of the Gram Panchayat was in issue before the this Court in Mahak Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others². This Court in Mahak Singh (supra) upon examining the facts of the case held:

"12..... The expression 'moral turpitude', as said above, is not a term of rigid connotation to be defined in any strait-jacket formulae, but regard being had to socio-ethical ethos, and morals of people, at a given time and their cultural heritage, It would not be difficult for the Courts to conclude that the offence committed by the petitioner in exterminating his own step mother in an horrendous manner involves moral wickedness. The petitioner cannot escape from the finding that the offence of murder' of Smt. Raj Kumari committed by him and for which he was ultimately convicted was an act of moral turpitude. His conviction under Section 302/34, I.P.C. involving moral turpitude was sufficient enough to earn disqualification within the meaning of provision of Section 5A (g) of the Act."

12. The scope of term "moral turpitude" and its applicability to the services of an employee arose for consideration before the Supreme Court in The State Bank of India Vs. P. Soupramaniane³, which stated the position of law thus:

"12. There is no doubt that there is an obligation on the management of the Bank to discontinue the services of an employee who has been convicted by a criminal court for an offence involving moral turpitude. [Sushil Kumar Singhal v. Punjab National Bank, (2010) 8 SCC 573 : (2010) 2 SCC (L&S) 674] Though every offence is a crime against the society, discontinuance from service according to the Banking Regulation Act can be only for committing an offence involving moral turpitude. Acts which disclose depravity and wickedness of character can be categorised as offences involving moral turpitude. Whether an offence involves moral turpitude or not depends upon the facts [Allahabad Bank v. Deepak Kumar Bhola, (1997) 4 SCC 1 : 1997 SCC (L&S) 897] and the circumstances [Pawan Kumar v. State of Haryana, (1996) 4 SCC 17, para 12 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 583] of the case."

13. From the preceding narrative, it is evident that every conviction in a criminal offence may not amount to "moral turpitude". The term moral turpitude cannot be defined by an iron cast rule or an inflexible formula to fit all cases. To determine whether an offence comes within the purview of the term "moral turpitude" a fact based enquiry has to be made. The line of enquiry would examine the gravity of the offence, the role of the offender, nature of culpability in the crime, and the scheme of the enactment before the criminal offence becomes an act of moral turpitude and attracts a disqualification.

14. In this case the learned trial court has found that commission of the heinous offence of murder by the petitioner has been established beyond reasonable doubt.

15. The petitioner claims managership of an educational institution. Education nurtures the future of India, and forms the backbone of our national strength and character. Persons with such criminal antecedents cannot be permitted to run the affairs of an educational institution and blight the education prospects of the country's youth. In this wake, the offence of murder for which the petitioner has been convicted is comprised in the ambit of "moral turpitude" under Section 16A of the Societies Registration Act, 1860. The provision has been created to curb mischiefs of like nature; it has to be applied to purge educational institutions of criminal elements, and lift the curse of criminal influence on formative minds.

16. For the like reasons, the newly impleaded respondent neither has the right to contest the elections of the society nor can he have any say in the running of the educational institution.

17. The matter cannot end here. Both the petitioner and the newly impleaded respondent are convicts. They failed to disclose their antecedents before the Court in the first instance. These facts came to light when the respective adversaries pointed out their convictions. Such practices can be discouraged only by deterrence. Costs of Rs. 1,00,000/- (Rupee One lakh) each are imposed upon the petitioner and the newly impleaded respondent respectively. Costs shall be recovered from them by the District Magistrate, Etawah, as arrears of land revenue within six weeks. The District Magistrate, Etawah, shall submit a compliance report before the Chief Judicial Magistrate. The Chief Judicial Magistrate shall submit a report disclosing the recovery before the Registrar General of this Court within a period of two months.

18. Law cannot countenance a situation wherein convicted criminals run educational institutions as a matter of right, and conceal facts with a sense of impunity. Prohibitive costs have been imposed by the Court to dissuade unscrupulous litigants from abusing the process of the Court.

19. The Additional Chief Secretary, Institutional Finance, Government of U.P., Lucknow, is directed to execute the following directions:

I. All Assistant/Deputy Registrars, Firms, Societies and Chits in all districts of the State of Uttar Pradesh, shall ensure that every proceeding under Section 4(1) and Section 25(1) of the Societies Registration Act, 1860, shall be preceded by a declaration from each member/applicant disclosing their criminal antecedents.

II. No order shall be passed in any proceeding under Section 4(1) of the Societies Registration Act, 1860, in respect of societies which are running educational institutions till such declarations of criminal antecedents are submitted by each member on affidavit and placed in the record.

III. Assistant/Deputy Registrars, Firms, Societies and Chits in all districts of the State of Uttar Pradesh, shall also call for similar declarations on affidavits from all office bearers of societies currently running educational institutions in the State of Uttar Pradesh and proceed as per law.

IV. Additional Chief Secretary, Institutional Finance, Government of U.P., Lucknow, shall circulate this judgement to all Assistant/Deputy Registrars, Firms, Societies and Chits in all districts of the State of Uttar Pradesh for ensuring compliance of these directions.

V. Considering the importance of the matter, Additional Chief Secretary, Institutional Finance, Government of U.P., Lucknow, shall draw up a compliance report and submit the same before the Chief Secretary, Government of U.P., Lucknow within six months so that the State is alerted to the menace of criminal elements usurping educational institutions and can take appropriate legal measures to check the same.

VI. Failure of any Assistant/Deputy Registrars, Firms, Societies and Chits to comply with this order will not only expose the official to proceedings for violation of orders of this Court but will also amount to a grave misconduct for which departmental proceedings will be initiated against the concerned official as per law.

20. Learned Chief Standing Counsel shall communicate this order to Additional Chief Secretary, Institutional Finance, Government of U.P., Lucknow for necessary compliance.

21. The writ petition is dismissed.

22. The Court would like to appreciate the assistance rendered by Shri Sankalp Narain, learned counsel and Shri Sanjeev Kumar Singh, learned counsel who in the true fashion of high ethical standards of the profession assisted the process of law as officers of the Court with exemplary integrity and scholarship.

Writ Petition Dismissed. (E-11)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sunil Kumar Misra, learned counsel for the petitioner as well as Sri Jamal Ahmad Khan, learned counsel appearing for respondent no. 1 - workman.

2. By means of present writ petition the petitioner - Uttar Pradesh State Road Transport Corporation (hereinafter referred to as "the UPSRTC"), has assailed the order of the Labour Court, Agra passed in Claim No. 79 of 2021, there by allowing the claim of respondent no. 1 - workman, against the order of removal from service dated 28.04.2015.

3. Brief conspectus of present case necessary for adjudication of the case are that respondent no. 1 on 05.07.2009, was posed as Driver at Regional Workshop, Agra and assigned duty at Store Truck No. UTF-7775. Sri V.K. Shukla, Traffic Superintendent fort Depot, submitted report by letter no. 995, dated 17.07.2009, disclosing that he alongwith his assistants Vishambhar Dayal, Assistant Traffic Inspector, Shivkaran, Office Assistant on Staff Car UP-32-6842 were coming from Saunkh to Mathura and at village Nagala Bhuria found that diesel was being siphoned off from the diesel tank of Store Truck No. UTF-7775 and filled in steel Tanks and other plastic cans which was total 16 liters by respondent no. 1.

4. Complaint was forwarded to Regional Manager, UPSRTC Agra and disciplinary proceedings were initiated against respondent no. 1 in pursuance to which he was suspended on 31.07.2009 and charge sheet was also issued to him on the same day. Assistant Regional Manager, Mahanagar Depot, was appointed as Inquiry Officer. An oral inquiry was initiated where complainant appeared before the Committee and stated that on the date of occurrence he had found respondent no. 1 stealing diesel from the said vehicle. Respondent no. 1 has cross examined the complainant and Inquiry Officer concluded the inquiry and submitted his report to the Disciplinary Authority who issued show cause notice dated 08.04.2015, to which respondent no. 1 submitted his response and final punishment order was passed on 28.04.2015 where respondent no. 1 was removed from service and his salary for the suspension period was forfeited.

5. Assailing the order of removal from service, respondent no. 1 raised an industrial dispute under the U.P. Industrial Dispute Act, where proceedings were initiated where validity of punishment order was considered by the Deputy Labour Commissioner, Agra under Section 4A of the Industrial Dispute Act. The petitioner filed written statement opposing the claim of respondent no. 1 on 14.03.2022. The Presiding Officer, Labour Court, Agra had set aside the punishment order dated 28.04.2015 and re-instated the petitioner with full back wages.

6. The Labour Court had examined the entire material on record as well as statements made by the witnesses during the said proceedings. The Tribunal was persuaded by the fact that according to complaint there were four employees at the time of incident who were standing around the vehicle in question and amongst four people one of them was mechanic, fitter and helper. Respondent no. 1 in his response has submitted that they detected some blockade in the pipe line and therefore in order to remove the defect the diesel tank was required to be emptied and then the defect/air block was to be removed and for which purpose the mechanic, fitter and helper were present at the spot, and denied that they were trying to steal diesel.

7. The Labour Court has allowed the claim of respondent no. 1 and returned a finding that they were not stealing diesel but were removing air block in the diesel pipe line for which mechanic and fitter were present at the spot and were involved in repair of the vehicle in question when they were noticed by the Traffic Superintendent. Admittedly no further investigation or material was produced by the petitioner which could challenge the stand taken by the workman. It has not been denied that the diesel tank was in good order and there was no need for removal of air block. In respect of workman, evidence was given by respondent no. 1 himself which is on record, stating that they were repairing the diesel tank which had developed an air block and there was no material adduced by the petitioner to repel the evidence given by the workman.

8. The Labour Court has duly considered the evidence and returned a finding that charge against respondent no. 1 - workman has not been proved and consequently, set aside the order of removal from service with full back wages.

9. Learned counsel for the petitioner has vehemently submitted that the Tribunal should have given another opportunity to the employer -petitioner to proceed against workman. Considering the fact that it has been recorded by the Tribunal that there were three other persons present on the spot but the petitioner chose not to examine any of the three other persons during disciplinary proceedings conducted by them.

10. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

11. This Court is of the considered view that before the Labour Court order of removal from service was under examination. While considering the order of removal, the inquiry conducted by the employer against the workman was duly considered and found that there was insufficient material adduced by the employer to inflict penalty of removal from service upon the workman. It could not be proved that respondent no. 1 tried to steal diesel from the tank of the vehicle in question. The defense taken by the respondent that he was attempting to remove the defect of the truck which developed air block and for which purpose mechanic and fitter were present on the spot, was duly accepted as being reasonable, and no challenge to the said plea was raised by the petitioner so as to disbelieve the workman. No reason or reply has been submitted by the petitioner to record a different finding than the one which has been recorded by the Labour Court.

12. This Court does not find any merit in the arguments raised by the petitioner. It is submitted that the Labour Court has returned finding that there was no material to implicate respondent no. 1 with the charge of stealing diesel and hence has held the order of removal from service to be illegal and arbitrary and has accordingly set aside the said order.

13. The counsel for the petitioner has submitted that in light of the finding recorded by the Labour court that there were other witnesses present on the spot who were never examined by the petitioner who was prosecuting the respondent workman, and in light of the said finding the matter may be remitted to re-enquiry, so that they can take a record fresh evidence which was available but not recorded during the proceedings against respondent no. 1.

14. I have considered the submissions of the petitioner. It is only at the behest of employer that inquiry proceedings were conducted against respondent no. 1/employee where there were serious allegations levelled against him. The employer is mandated to proceed against delinquent employee in accordance with law and to give him full opportunity to defend himself before recording any finding holding him guilty of charges levelled against him of misconduct. It is duty of employer who is prosecuting the employee to bring forthwith all the material in support of charges levelled against him and to inform the delinquent employee about the said material so that he has full opportunity of defend himself adequately.

15. In the present case, in the proceedings the employee was found guilty of misconduct and accordingly has been awarded punishment/penalty of removal from service. The Labour Court after examining entire material on record and findings adduced by the prosecution in support of charges came to a conclusion that charges against the employee are not proved.

16. This Court has also examined the findings recorded by the Labour Court and found the same to be reasonable and there is no infirmity in the findings returned by the Labour Court. Prayer of the employer that he may be permitted to re-conduct inquiry so that they can record further evidence which were not adduced in the previous inquiry. Such prayer is misconceived and is accordingly rejected for the following reasons:

Firstly a person cannot get the benefit of his own fault. The petitioner was duty bound to present all the available material in support of the charges levelled against delinquent employee and when inquiry has concluded and Labour Court has found that charges are not proved, then the employee is exonerated of the said charges. Permitting the employer to proceed afresh with the same inquiry would be hit by the principle of 'double jeopardy' as it is well settled principle that once a person has been acquitted or is exonerated of the charges, no fresh proceedings, trial or inquiry can be commenced in relation to the said charges. The said principle finds its roots under Article 20(2) of the Constitution of India and it is the principle of atrophoise acquit/atrophoise convict as a person has right not to be tried again for the same offence for which he has been either acquitted or convicted and same principle applies even to disciplinary proceedings.

17. It is only where inquiry proceedings are conducted in violation of principles of natural justice, the employer is permitted to proceed against employee from the stage where there has been infirmity in the proceedings noticed by superior authority only to ensure that due opportunity is given to the delinquent employee and that he is not punished unheard. The petitioner who is employer of respondent no. 1, was under mandate to conduct disciplinary proceedings against the employee in accordance with law and for that purpose a charge was required to be framed and all the evidence and material which were available to prove the charge are disclosed to the delinquent employee and are also considered by the Inquiry Officer. In case there is material available which has not been taken into consideration by the prosecuting authority, they cannot be permitted to re-inquire into the matter and be given a chance to take into account the available material which was not considered in the previous inquiry. In case same is permitted it will run counter to settled legal principle of atrophoise acquit/atrophoise convict, as has been discussed above.

18. If there was some material available with the employer and the same was not deliberately or otherwise adduced in the disciplinary proceedings/domestic inquiry then action can be taken against persons responsible for such act/omission but no fresh proceedings can be directed to be instituted to make good the deficient material/evidence, in support of charges.

19. The other ground raised by learned counsel for the petitioner is with regard to back wages. It has been submitted by counsel for the petitioner that Tribunal has wrongly granted full back wages to respondent no. 1 - workman. This Court has examined the judgment passed by the Tribunal and also submissions made in the writ petition. There is no reason for us to interfere in the findings recorded by the Tribunal as there is no material before this Court to show that respondent no. 1 was gainfully employed during period he was placed under suspension or there is any other circumstance which may compel this Court to interfere in the findings recorded by the Labour Court in this regard.

20. In the light of above discussion, this Court does not find any illegality or infirmity in the judgment of Labour Court. Accordingly, the writ petition being devoid of merits is dismissed.

by the District Magistrate, Bijnor/respondent No.2. A further prayer has also been made to direct the respondents to permit the petitioner to discharge the duties of Gram Pradhan of Gram Panchayat Baldiya Block Haldaur District Bijnor.

3. Facts in brief as contained in the writ petition are that the petitioner was elected as Pradhan of the Gram Panchayat Baldiya Block Haldaur District Bijnor in the election held on 19.04.2021. Certain complaints were made against the petitioner regarding work and conduct of the Panchayat and in this regard a notice dated 11.04.2022 was issued to the petitioner by the District Magistrate Bijnor/respondent No.2 making allegations that payment in number heads were made from One Active Code and the petitioner was granted fifteen (15) days time to submit his reply. Though as per notice dated 11.04.2022, fifteen days time was going to be expired on 26.04.2022 but in the meanwhile due to acute angle glaucoma severe health condition, the petitioner was going in serious medical treatment and supervision in a hospital in Bijnor from 15.04.2022 to 15.05.2022. After the aforesaid treatment, the petitioner came at his house and take a complete two weeks bed rest and medication. On 31.05.2022 after recovery from his ailment when the petitioner visited to Block Development Office Haldaur, for submission of his reply, he got information that the order impugned has already been passed by the respondent No.2.

4. It is argued by learned counsel for the petitioner that the order impugned has been passed without providing opportunity of hearing as well as submission of reply, therefore, the order impugned is liable to be set aside. It is argued that second proviso of Section 95(1)(g) provides that no action shall be taken against the Pradhan or Member of the Gram Panchayat under sub Section (1)(g) of Section 95 of U.P. Gram Panchayat Raj Act, 1947 except after providing reasonable opportunity of showing cause to the body or person concerned, in this view of the matter it is argued that since no opportunity has been given to show cause, the order is liable to be set aside. It is argued that the impugned order is passed without application of mind and in casual manner. The Paragraph Nos.8, 10, 11 are reproduced below:-

8. That as per the notice dated 11.04.2022, the petitioner was required to submit his reply within Fifteen days from the date of issuance of the letter which was expiring on 26.04.2022, but meanwhile it is relevant to mention here that due to acute angle glaucoma severe health condition, petitioner was going in serious medical treatment and supervision in a hospital in Bijnor from dated 15.04.2022 to 15.05.2022, however after hospital treatment petitioner came at his house and take a complete two weeks bed rest and medication, so that he can get speedy recovery from ailment; A true/photocopy of medical certificate issued by the Nayan Netra Hospital through concern Doctor dated 16.05.2022 is being filed herewith and marked as ANNEXURE NOS. 2 to this writ petition.

10. That on 31.05.2022, after recovery from his ailment when the petitioner was in position to visit Block Development office, he immediately visited Block Development Office, Haldaur for regarding his reply of the notice dated 11.04.2022, but at the same time he gathered an information that an order by the District Magistrate, Bijnor has already been passed under Section 95(1)(g) its Proviso ceasing his financial and administrative powers on 25/ 26.05.2022)\n this connection true copy of the impugned order dated 25/26.05.2022 passed by the District Magistrate, Bijnor is being filed herewith and marked as ANNEXURE NO.4 to this writ petition.

11. That the petitioner was served with the impugned order dated 25/26.05.2022 on 31.05.2022 at Block itself while he went to give his reply to the notice dated 11.04.2022, as well as the impugned order passed by the District Magistrate, Bijnor was served to the petitioner on 31.05.2022.

5. A counter affidavit has been filed by Sri Virendra Yadav, Block Development Officer Haldaur Bijnor on behalf of respondent Nos.2, 3 and 4. It is stated in paragraph 11 of the counter affidavit that the petitioner will not get any benefit from his Medical Certificate, copy of which is appended as Annexure No.2 to the writ petition. It is argued that doctor advice, bills of medicines etc. were not submitted by him, therefore, the petitioner is not entitled for any relief. It is argued that the petitioner has stated in the petition that he was on bed rest from 15.04.2022 to 15.05.2022 while the petitioner has submitted his reply to the notice dated 11.04.2022 in the office of District Panchayat Raj Officer Bijnor on 27.04.2022 and along with the aforesaid reply, he also submitted copy of the Bank Statement under his signature and stamp on which the date is mentioned as 19.04.2022, copy of the reply is appended as Annexure No.1 to the counter affidavit. It is argued that from perusal of the same, it is clear that the petitioner was healthy from 19.04.2022 to 27.04.2022. In this view of the matter, it is argued that the petitioner has not approached this Court with clean hands, therefore, the petition is liable to be rejected. In paragraph 11 of the counter affidavit a judgement passed in the case of Ramjas Foundation Vs. Union of India reported in (2010) 14 SCC 38 has been cited and relevant paragraph is also quoted and on the basis of the same, it is argued that if a litigant does not come to the Court with clean hands, he is not entitled to be heard and indeed, such a person is not entitled to any relief from any judicial forum.

6. For rebutting the counter affidavit, no rejoinder affidavit has been filed by the petitioner, hence the averments made in the counter affidavit is treated to be true.

7. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

8. From perusal of the record, it transpires that pursuant to the notice dated 11.04.2022, the petitioner was directed to submit his reply within fifteen days but according to the case set up by the petitioner in the writ petition due to ill health, he was not able to submit his reply and when he went to the office of District Panchayat Raj Officer, Haldaur on 31.05.2022, then he transpires that the order has already been passed against him. In the counter affidavit, copy of the reply dated 27.04.2022 was appended as Annexure CA1. Apart from the same, there is clear finding recorded in the order impugned that the District Magistrate Bijnor/respondent No.2 that reply has been duly submitted by the petitioner and after considering the same, the order impugned has been passed. The relevant part is quoted below:-

"कारण बताओं नोटिस निर्गत किया गया था तथा निर्गत कारण बताओं नोटिस के सम्बन्ध में ग्राह प्रधान एवं सम्बन्धित सचिव द्वारा अपना स्पष्टीकरण प्रस्तुत किया। "

9. From perusal of the same, it is clear that finding regarding filing of the reply in respect of the show cause notice has been deliberately and willfully concealed by the petitioner while filing the present writ petition.

10. The issue regarding approaching the Court by concealing the facts has been examined by Hon'ble the Supreme Court on number of occasions and it has been opined that the same is polluting the stream of justice.

11. In Abhyudya Sanstha Vs. Union of India, (2011) 6 SCC 145, Hon'ble the Supreme Court, while declining relief to the petitioners therein, who did not approach the court with clean hands, opined as under:-

"18. ... In our view, the appellants deserve to be non suited because they have not approached the Court with clean hands. The plea of inadvertent mistake put forward by the learned senior counsel for the appellants and their submission that the Court may take lenient view and order regularisation of the admissions already made sounds attractive but does not merit acceptance. Each of the appellants consciously made a statement that it had been granted recognition by the NCTE, which necessarily implies that recognition was granted in terms of Section 14 of the Act read with Regulations 7 and 8 of the 2007 Regulations. Those managing the affairs of the appellants do not belong to the category of innocent, illiterate/uneducated persons, who are not conversant with the relevant statutory provisions and the court process. The very fact that each of the appellants had submitted LPASW No. 82/2019 Page 7 application in terms of Regulation 7 and made itself available for inspection by the team constituted by WRC, Bhopal shows that they were fully aware of the fact that they can get recognition only after fulfilling the conditions specified in the Act and the Regulations and that WRC, Bhopal had not granted recognition to them. Notwithstanding this, they made bold statement that they had been granted recognition by the competent authority and thereby succeeded in persuading this Court to entertain the special leave petitions and pass interim orders. The minimum, which can be said about the appellants is that they have not approached the Court with clean hands and succeeded in polluting the stream of justice by making patently false statement. Therefore, they are not entitled to relief under Article 136 of the Constitution. This view finds support from plethora of precedents.

19. In Hari Narain v. Badri Das AIR 1963 SC 1558, G. Narayanaswamy Reddy v. Govt. of Karnataka (1991) 3 SCC 261 and large number of other cases, this Court denied relief to the petitioner/appellant on the ground that he had not approached the Court with clean hands. In Hari Narain v. Badri Das (supra), the Court revoked the leave granted to the appellant and observed:

"It is of utmost importance that in making material statements and setting forth grounds in applications for special leave made under Article 136 of the Constitution, care must be taken not to make any statements which are inaccurate, untrue or misleading. In dealing with applications for special leave, the Court naturally takes statements of fact and grounds of fact contained in the petitions at their face value and it LPASW No. 82/2019 Page 8 would be unfair to betray the confidence of the Court by making statements which are untrue and misleading. Thus, if at the hearing of the appeal the Supreme Court is satisfied that the material statements made by the appellant in his application for special leave are inaccurate and misleading, and the respondent is entitled to contend that the appellant may have obtained special leave from the Supreme Court on the strength of what he characterises as misrepresentations of facts contained in the petition for special leave, the Supreme Court may come to the conclusion that in such a case special leave granted to the appellant ought to be revoked."

20. In G. Narayanaswamy Reddy v. Govt. of Karnataka's case (supra), the Court while noticing the fact regarding the stay order passed by the High Court which prevented passing of the award by the Land Acquisition Officer within the prescribed time period was concealed and in the aforesaid context, it observed that:

"2. ... Curiously enough, there is no reference in the special leave petitions to any of the stay orders and we came to know about these orders only when the respondents appeared in response to the notice and filed their counter- affidavit. In our view, the said interim orders have a direct bearing on the question raised and the non-disclosure of the same certainly amounts to suppression of material facts. On this ground alone, the special leave petitions are liable to be rejected. It is well settled in law that the relief under Article 136 of the Constitution is discretionary and a petitioner who approaches this Court for such relief must come with frank and full disclosure of facts. If he fails to do so and suppresses material facts, his application is liable to be dismissed. We accordingly dismiss the special leave petitions."

21. In Dalip Singh v. State of U.P., (2010) 2 SCC 114, Hon'ble the Supreme Court noticed the progressive decline in the values of life and observed:

"1. For many centuries Indian society cherished two basic values of life i.e. "satya" (truth) and "ahinsa" (non-violence). Mahavir, Gautam Buddha and Mahatma Gandhi guided the people to ingrain these values in their daily life. Truth constituted an integral part of the justice-delivery system which was in vogue in the pre-Independence era and the people used to feel proud to tell truth in the courts irrespective of the consequences. However, post-Independence period has seen drastic changes in our value system. The materialism has overshadowed the old ethos and the quest for personal gain has become so intense that those involved in litigation do not hesitate to take shelter of falsehood, misrepresentation and suppression of facts in the court proceedings.

2. In the last 40 years, a new creed of litigants has cropped up. Those who belong to this creed do not have any respect for truth. They shamelessly resort to falsehood and unethical means for achieving their goals. In order to meet the challenge posed by this new creed of litigants, the courts have, from time to time, evolved new rules and it is now well established that a litigant, who attempts to pollute the stream of justice or who touches the pure fountain of justice with tainted hands, is not entitled to any relief, interim or final." (emphasis supplied)

12. In Moti Lal Songara Vs. Prem Prakash @ Pappu and another (2013) 9 SCC 199, Hon'ble the Supreme Court, considering the issue regarding concealment of facts before the Court, while observing that "court is not a laboratory where children come to play", opined as under:

"19. The second limb of the submission is whether in the obtaining factual matrix, the order passed by the High Court discharging the accused-respondent is justified in law. We have clearly stated that though the respondent was fully aware about the fact that charges had been framed against him by the learned trial Judge, yet he did not bring the same to the notice of the revisional court hearing the revision against the order taking cognizance. It is a clear case of suppression. It was within the special knowledge of the accused. Any one who takes recourse to method of suppression in a court of law, is, in actuality, playing fraud with the court, and the maxim suppressio veri, expressio falsi, i.e., suppression of the truth is equivalent to the expression of falsehood, gets attracted. We are compelled to say so as there has been a calculated concealment of the fact before the revisional court. It can be stated with certitude that the accused-respondent tried to gain advantage by such factual suppression. The fraudulent intention is writ large. In fact, he has shown his courage of ignorance and tried to play possum.

20. The High Court, as we have seen, applied the principle "when infrastructure collapses, the superstructure is bound to collapse". However, as the order has been obtained by practising fraud and suppressing material fact before a court of law to gain advantage, the said order cannot be allowed to stand." (emphasis supplied)

13. Similar view has been expressed in Amar Singh v. Union of India and others, (2011) 7 SCC 69 and Kishore Samrite v. State of Uttar Pradesh and others, (2013) 2 SCC 398.

14. In a recent judgment in ABCD Vs. Union of India and others (2020) 2 SCC 52, Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the matter where material facts had been concealed, while issuing notice to the petitioner therein, exercising its suo-motu contempt power, observed as under :

*"15. Making a false statement on oath is an offence punishable under Section 181 of the IPC while furnishing false information with intent to cause public servant to use his lawful power to the injury of another person is punishable under Section 182 of the IPC. These offences by virtue of Section 195(1)(a)(i) of the Code can be taken cognizance of by any court only upon a proper complaint in writing as stated in said Section. In respect of matters coming under Section 195(1)(b)(i) of the Code, in Pushpadevi M. Jatia v. M.L. Wadhawan etc., (1987) 3 SCC 367 prosecution was directed to be launched after prima facie satisfaction was recorded by this Court.*

16. It has also been laid down by this Court in Chandra Shashi v. Anil Kumar Verma (1995) 1 SCC 421 that a person who makes an attempt to deceive the court, interferes with the administration of justice and can be held guilty of contempt of court. In that case a husband who had filed a fabricated document to oppose the prayer of his wife seeking transfer of matrimonial proceedings was found guilty of contempt of court and sentenced to two weeks imprisonment. It was observed as under:

"1. The stream of administration of justice has to remain unpolluted so that purity of court's atmosphere may give vitality to all the organs of the State. Polluters of judicial firmament are, therefore, required to be well taken care of to maintain the sublimity of court's environment; so also to enable it to administer justice fairly and to the satisfaction of all concerned.

2. Anyone who takes recourse to fraud, deflects the course of judicial proceedings; or if anything is done with oblique motive, the same interferes with the administration of justice. Such persons are required to be properly dealt with, not only to punish them for the wrong done, but also to deter others from indulging in similar acts which shake the faith of people in the system of administration of justice.

14. The legal position thus is that if the publication be with intent to deceive the court or one made with an intention to defraud, the same would be contempt, as it would interfere with administration of justice. It would, in any case, tend to interfere with the same. This would definitely be so if a fabricated document is filed with the aforesaid mens rea. In the case at hand the fabricated document was apparently to deceive the court; the intention to defraud is writ large. Anil Kumar is, therefore, guilty of contempt."

15. In K.D. Sharma Vs. Steel Authority of India Limited and others (2008) 12 SCC 481 it was observed:

"39. If the primary object as highlighted in Kensington Income Tax Commrs., (1917) 1 KB 486 : 86 LJKB 257 : 116 LT 136 (CA) is kept in mind, an applicant who does not come with candid facts and "clean breast" cannot hold a writ of the court with "soiled hands". Suppression or concealment of material facts is not an advocacy. It is a jugglery, manipulation, manoeuvring or misrepresentation, which has no place in equitable and prerogative jurisdiction. If the applicant does not disclose all the material facts fairly and truly but states them in a distorted manner and misleads the court, the court has inherent power in order to protect itself and to prevent an abuse of its process to discharge the rule nisi and refuse to proceed further with the examination of the case on merits. If the court does not reject the petition on that ground, the court would be failing in its duty. In fact, such an applicant requires to be dealt with for contempt of court for abusing the process of the court."

18. In Dhananjay Sharma Vs. State of Haryana and others (1995) 3 SCC 757 filing of a false affidavit was the basis for initiation of action in contempt jurisdiction and the concerned persons were punished."

16. In the case of A. Shanmugam Vs. Ariya Kashatriya Rajakula Vamsathu Madalaya Nandhavana Paripalanai Sangam represented by its President and others reported in (2012) 6 SCC 430, it is held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that the when the Court finds falsehoods, concealment, distortion, obstruction and confusion in pleadings and documents, the Court should in addition to full restitution impose actual realistic cost. The relevant paragraph 42 and 43 of the aforesaid judgement is reproduced below:-

42. The appellant is also guilty of introducing untenable pleas. The plea of adverse possession which has no foundation or basis in the facts and circumstances of the case was introduced to gain undue benefit. The court must be cautious in granting relief to a party guilty of deliberately introducing irrelevant and untenable pleas responsible for creating unnecessary confusion by introducing such documents and pleas. These factors must be taken into consideration while granting relief and/or imposing the costs.

43. On the facts of the present case, the following principles emerge:

43.1. It is the bounden duty of the court to uphold the truth and do justice.

43.2. Every litigant is expected to state truth before the law court whether it is pleadings, affidavits or evidence. Dishonest and unscrupulous litigants have no place in law courts.

43.3. The ultimate object of the judicial proceedings is to discern the truth and do justice. It is imperative that pleadings and all other presentations before the court should be truthful.

43.4. Once the court discovers falsehood, concealment, distortion, obstruction or confusion in pleadings and documents, the court should in addition to full restitution impose appropriate costs. The court must ensure that there is no incentive for wrongdoer in the temple of justice. Truth is the foundation of justice and it has to be the common endeavour of all to uphold the truth and no one should be permitted to pollute the stream of justice."

17. It was held in the judgments referred to above that one of the two cherished basic values by Indian society for centuries is "satya" (truth) and the same has been put under the carpet by the petitioner. Truth constituted an integral part of the justice-delivery system in the pre-Independence era, however, post-Independence period has seen drastic changes in our value system. The materialism has overshadowed the old ethos and the quest for personal gain has become so intense that those involved in litigation do not hesitate to take shelter of falsehood, misrepresentation and suppression of facts in the court proceedings. In the last 40 years, the values have gone down and now a litigant can go to any extent to mislead the court. They have no respect for the truth. The principle has been evolved to meet the challenge posed by this new breed of litigants. Now it is well settled that a litigant, who attempts to pollute the stream of justice or who touches the pure fountain of justice with tainted hands, is not entitled to any relief, interim or final. Suppression of material facts from the court of law, is actually playing fraud with the court. The maxim suppressio veri, expressio falsi, i.e. suppression of the truth is equivalent to the expression of falsehood, gets attracted.

18. For the reasons mentioned above, in my opinion, the present petition deserves to be dismissed with cost of Rs.25,000/-.

19. Ordered accordingly.

20. The amount of cost shall be deposited by the petitioner with U.P. State Legal Services Authority, Lucknow within a period of four weeks from today.

CIVIL SIDE

Writ-C No. 18666 of 2017

The Joint Director Agriculture (Extension)
& Ors. ...Petitioners

Versus

Sri Chhote Lal ...Respondent

Counsel for the Petitioners:

Sri Vivek Shandilya, C.S.C., Sri Dhananjai Singh (S.C.)

Counsel for the Respondent:

Sri Rudra Pratap Singh, Sri Anil Kumar Yadav, Sri Sudhanshu Narain

A. Civil Law - U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 - Section 6(4) , 4K, 6N-Reinstatement-

the case of the petitioners is to the effect that the engagement of the respondent-workman as a labour was under a temporary arrangement for the purposes of working under the Rice Scheme which did not remain operative after 1987 and, therefore, consequential termination of the services of the respondent workman was not illegal- that reference was made at a very belated stage of 10-11 years after the termination and there being no finding by the Labour Court in the impugned award as to whether the respondent was or was not gainfully employed during the intervening period or thereafter, I find that the reinstatement with 25% back-wages along with continuity in past service was not justified-However, in the facts and circumstances of the case, a consolidated and lump sum amount of compensation could have served the purpose to console the respondent whose services were terminated, not only in the light of the documents but also considering his service book which describe the nature of his appointment with all other aspects associated with it-considering the nature of the interim order dated 25.05.2017 passed in the present petition, in pursuance whereof a sum of Rs.5,00,000/- was deposited by the petitioners out of which a sum of Rs.2,00,000/- has admittedly been released in favour of the respondent.(Para 1 to 48)

The writ petition is partly allowed. (E-6)

The Challenge

1. The Joint Director Agriculture (Extension), Gorakhpur Division, Gorakhpur, Project Officer (Agriculture) under the District Agriculture Officer, District Basti and the Block Development Officer, Farinda, District Maharajganj, as co-petitioners, have filed the present writ petition challenging the impugned award dated 30.11.2015, published on 28.03.2016, passed by the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, Gorakhpur in Adjudication Case No.75 of 1999.

2. As per the pleadings contained in the writ petition, the respondent Chhote Lal (hereinafter referred to as the "workman") was temporarily engaged in the year 1986-87 under the Rice Scheme as an internal arrangement as Kamdar/Chowkidar and when the Rice Scheme was abolished, the continuity of 96 Kaamdars/Chowkidars was cancelled by the Government Order dated 17.10.1987 and, thereafter, the services of the workman were terminated after giving him a notice dated 01.08.1988. Thereafter, under the order dated 11.05.1999 passed by the Deputy Labour Commissioner, Gorakhpur, an industrial dispute was referred to the Labour Court, U.P., Gorakhpur to examine the question as to whether the termination of the workman was proper or legal with effect from 01.09.1988 and, if not, what relief/compensation the workman was entitled to. It is further pleaded that before the Labour Court, the parties made their submissions and led evidence. The case of the petitioners was that the workman had obtained his appointment by committing fraud and when the said fraud had come to the knowledge of the petitioners, the services of the respondent-workman were terminated. It is further pleaded that after abolition of Rice Scheme, there was no vacancy and, therefore, the workman had no right of reinstatement. It is further pleaded that the dispute was raised after a long period of 10-11 years from the date of termination and that the respondent had been paid salary upto 31.08.1988 which includes the salary of one month from the date of notice dated 01.08.1988. Further case of the petitioners before the Labour Court was, as also pleaded in the writ petition, that the Agricultural Department is a Government Department and not an "Industry' and therefore the Labour Court had erred in treating the dispute as covered by the provisions of U.P. Industrial Disputes Act and, hence, the award is illegal.

3. In sum and substance, the case of the petitioners is to the effect that the engagement of the respondent-workman as a labour was under a temporary arrangement for the purposes of working under the Rice Scheme which did not remain operative after 1987 and, therefore, consequential termination of the services of the respondent workman was not illegal.

4. The Labour Court, by the impugned award dated 30.11.2015, has directed reinstatement of the respondent-workman on his post with continuity in past services along with 25% back-wages with effect from 01.09.1988.

Counter Affidavit

5. A counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of the respondent-workman stating that the Agricultural Department falls within the definition of "Industry' and the services of the respondent-workman were neither temporary nor dependent upon the Rice Scheme. Reliance has been placed upon various annexures which also form part of the writ petition to explain the nature of the services rendered by the respondent-workman.

Rejoinder Affidavit

6. A rejoinder affidavit has been filed by the petitioners substantially reiterating the version contained in the writ petition. It has also been mentioned that pursuant to the interim order dated 22.05.2017 passed by this Court in the present writ petition, an amount of Rs.5,00,000/- was deposited in the account of Labour Court, Gorakhpur through R.T.J.S. vide Treasury Token No. 331769925, dated 07.09.2017 and Voucher No.14, dated 08.09.2017.

Interim order passed in this case

7. This Court while entertaining the present writ petition passed following interim order dated 22.05.2017:-

"This writ petition has been filed against the award of the Labour Court, Gorakhpur dated 30.11.2015 by which the said Labour Court has answered the reference in favour of the respondent-workman and granted all relief of his reinstatement with 25% back wages.

Learned counsel for the petitioners submit that the respondent-workman had worked briefly for a period of two years on the post of Kamdar under Rice Scheme and that he had been terminated on 01.08.1988. The workman sought a reference belatedly in the year 1999 which has been answered in his favour by the impugned award that was published on 28.03.2016. He would therefore submit that the relief of reinstatement in such a case could not be granted to the respondent-workman as the reference has been made after a delay of eleven years and also because admittedly the respondent-workman has remained out of work for almost 29 years. Therefore, he would submit the only claim that could have been considered by the Labour Court was of compensation in lieu of reinstatement and back wages. However, the Labour Court has granted the relief of reinstatement with 25% back wages without even recording the finding that the respondent-workman had not been gainfully employed during the pendency of the dispute.

Sri Sudhanshu Narain, learned counsel for the respondent workman on the other hand would contend that the respondent is entitled to reinstatement with 25% back wages.

Matter requires consideration.

Sri Sudhanshu Narain, learned counsel for the respondent workman prays for and is granted four weeks' time to file counter affidavit. Petitioner will have two weeks' thereafter to file rejoinder affidavit.

List on 08.08.2017. In the meanwhile it is provided subject to deposit of Rs. 5,00,000/- before the Labour Court, Gorakhpur within a period of six weeks from today the implementation of the award shall be remain stayed. Of the amount so deposited, Rs. 2,00,000/- shall be paid out to the respondent workman without any security and the balance amount shall be invested in an interest bearing term deposit account of a Nationalized Bank and shall abide by the final order passed by this Court."

A later stage during course of proceedings

8. Later on, in the year 2019, arguments were advanced for modification of the interim order praying release of remaining amount of Rs.3,00,000/- as the amount of Rs.2,00,000/- directed under the interim order dated 22.05.2017, was admittedly paid to the respondent-workman but remaining amount was lying deposited. However, this Court, keeping in view that the matter is ripe for hearing on merits, made the interim order absolute by order dated 24.05.2019.

9. I have heard Sri Dhananjai Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the petitioner and Sri Anil Kumar Yadav, learned counsel for the sole respondent.

Contentions raised by petitioner side

10. Learned Standing Counsel for the petitioners has mainly raised following arguments:-

(i) Agricultural Department of the Government does not fall within the definition of "Industry" and, therefore, the impugned award under the provisions of U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 is unsustainable;

(ii) The respondent workman was temporarily engaged under the Rice Scheme of the Government which was abolished in the year 1987 and, thereafter, no requirement to keep the respondent in service remained and, consequently, the termination of his services is not illegal; and

(iii) The industrial dispute, even otherwise, was raised at a very belated stage of 10-11 years and, therefore, the direction for reinstatement with 25% back-wages along with continuity of past service is not according to law.

(i) Analysis of first contention

11. In so far as the first contention is concerned, the submission is that the Agricultural Department being a Government Department, the matter could not be adjudicated upon by the Labour Court.

12. Meeting this argument, the learned counsel for the respondent-workman has vehemently argued that the issue as to which establishment would fall within the definition and meaning of 'Industry' has been explained time and again by the Supreme Court and keeping in view the settled proposition of law, even the Agricultural Department of the U.P. Government shall fall within the definition of 'Industry' and, hence, there is no illegality in the impugned award on this scope.

13. In support of his submission, learned counsel for the respondent-workman has placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court in the case of State of U.P. through Secretary Irrigation Vs. Mohd Rais reported in 2021 (169) FLR 520, with special reference to paragraphs 5, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11.

"5. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no.1 refuting the submission advanced by learned counsel for petitioner has in turn placed reliance upon judgment rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Des Raj vs. State of Punjab & Ors. reported in AIR 1988 Supreme Court 1182 to submit that a Government Department such as the Irrigation Department has already been held to come within the purview of term 'Industry' but the subsequent judgment rendered in the case of K. Soma Setty (supra) has been passed without noticing the aforesaid two judgments, which should therefore prevail. Learned counsel has also relied upon judgment rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Workmen of American Express International Banking Corporation vs. Management of American Express International Banking Corporation reported in AIR 1986 Supreme Court 458 to submit that for the purposes of calculation of 240 days of service, weekends and other gazetted holidays are required to be taken into account. Learned counsel has also relied upon a Full Bench Decision of this Court rendered in Ganga Saran vs. Civil Judge, Hapur reported in AIR 1991 Allahabad 114 to submit that in case of a conflict between judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court consisting of equal authorities, the concerned High Court must follow judgment which appears to lay down the law elaborately and accurately irrespective of time line. Learned counsel also placed reliance on a Single Judge judgment rendered by High Court of Bombay in Executive Engineer, Yavantmal Medium Project Division & Anrs. vs. Anant S/o Yadao Murate & Another reported in 1997 ILLJ 91 wherein after considering the contradictory judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court regarding Irrigation Department being an 'Industry' has followed the judgment rendered in the case of Des Raj (supra).

7. As has been indicated hereinabove, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Des Raj (supra) has held that an Irrigation Department of particular Government to be an Industry in terms of the Act of 1947. The said judgment has taken into account various other judgments rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court particularly a Constitution Bench judgment rendered in Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board vs. A. Rajappa, reported in (1978) 2 SCC 213. On the contrary, the subsequent judgment rendered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in case of K. Soma Setty (supra) has not adverted to the aforesaid judgments of Des Raj (supra) and Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board (supra).

8. Upon perusal of Judgment rendered in the case of Desh Raj (supra) as compared to judgment rendered in the case of K. Soma Setty (supra), it is apparent that in the case of Desh Raj (supra) Irrigation Department has been held to come within the definition of Industry whereas judgment of K. Soma Setty holds otherwise. As such, there is clear conflict in the two judgments which are of Coordinate Bench.

9. The proposition of law required to be followed in conflicting judgments rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court by Benches of Coordinate strength has been discussed in the Full Bench of this Court in Ganga Saran (supra). The Full Bench after considering the relevant aspect has held as follows:

" 7. One line of decision is that if there is a conflict in two Supreme Court decisions, the decision which is later in point of time would be binding on the High Courts. The second line of decisions is that in case there is a conflict between the judgments of Supreme Court consisting of equal authorities, incidence of time is not a relevant factor and the High Court must follow the judgment which appears to lay down law elaborately and accurately.

8. Similar situation arose before a Full Bench of Punjab and Haryana High Court in the case of M/s Indo Swiss Time Limited, Dundahera, vs. Umrao, AIR 1981 Punj & Har 213. What the Full Bench in the said case held is extracted below (at pp. 219-220 of AIR) :

Now the contention that the latest judgment of a co-ordinate Bench is to be mechanically followed and must have pre-eminence irrespective of any other consideration does not commend itself to me. When judgments of the superior Court are of co-equal Benches and therefore, of matching authority then their weight inevitably must be considered by the rationale and the logic thereof and not by the mere fortuitous circumstances of the time and date on which they were rendered. It is manifest that when two directly conflicting judgments of the superior Court and of equal authority are extant then both of them cannot be binding on the courts below. Inevitably a choice, though a difficult one, has to be made in such a situation. On principle it appears to me that the High Court must follow the judgment which appears to it to lay down the law more elaborately and accurately. The mere incidence of time whether the judgments of coequal Benches of the Superior Court are earlier later is a consideration which appears to me as hardly relevant."

This decision was followed by the Bombay High Court in the case of Special Land Acquisition Officer vs. Municipal Corporation, AIR 1988 Bombay 9. The majority of Judges in the Full Bench held that if there was a conflict between the two decisions of equal benches which cannot possibly reconcile, the courts must follow the judgment which appear to them to state the law accurately and elaborately. We are in respectful agreement with the view expressed by the Full Bench of Punjab & Haryana High Court in the case of M/s Indo Swiss Time Limited v. Umrao, (AIR 1981 Punj & Har 213) (Supra) especially when the Supreme Court while deciding Qamaruddin's case (1990 All WC 308) (Supra) did not notice the U.P. amendment to S.115, C.P.C. and earlier decision of the Supreme Court."

10. The aforesaid aspect has also been dealt with by a learned Single Judge of the High Court of Bombay in which judgment rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Des Raj (supra) has been followed:

"13. On considering all the concepts of industry and after reviewing the various tests which need not be repeated, as the tests were laid down in Bangalore Water Supply case (supra). The concept of sovereign and regal function was explained in Chief Conservator of Forests (supra). The Apex Court in para 13 specifically rejected an argument that welfare activities partake sovereign functions on the ground that if such a view was taken it would be eroding the view taken by it in Bangalore Water Supply's case. While observing that welfare activities partake sovereign functions the Apex Court did not notice this in Sub-Divisional Inspector of Post, Vaikam and Other (supra). Therefore, considering the various precedents of the Apex Court itself it is clear that the law declared by the Apex Court is that welfare activities do not necessarily partake sovereign functions. In Executive Engineer, State of Karnataka the reliance was placed on the judgment in the case of Union of India v. Jai Narain Singh (supra). In Union of India v. Jai Narain Singh, the Apex Court has merely noted that the Central Ground Water Board is not an Industry. It is not possible to discern from that judgment as to what were the reasons for the Apex Court to so hold. The other judgment relied on is that of State of Himachal Pradesh v. Suresh Kumar Varma & Anr. (supra). On a perusal of the fact and the law laid down it does not seem that the issue as to whether a particular department was an industry or not was in issue. What was in issue was whether the work charged employees who perform duty of transitory nature were appointed to posts and their appointments were on daily wage basis in an appointment to a post. The Apex Court therein noted that such appointments were not appointments to the posts and, therefore, no directions could have been given to re-engage them in any work or appoint them against existing vacancies. Thus the two judgments relied upon by the Apex Court to arrive at the conclusion arrived at in Executive Engineer, State of Karnataka (supra), nowhere have laid down the tests to hold as to why Irrigation Department is to be excluded from the definition of industry. As pointed out earlier, even the case of Sub Divisional Inspector of Post, Vaikam and Others was considered by the Apex Court in Physical Research Laboratory and explained the same in paragraph 10 of the judgment. After that, it proceeded to apply the tests as laid down in Bangalore Water Supply. In the case of Des Raj v. State of Punjab (supra) the Apex Court had considered the tests laid down in various earlier judgments of the Apex Court itself, culminating in the judgment in Bangalore Water Supply (supra) and thereafter had arrived at a conclusion that the Irrigation Department falls within the definition of Industry within the meaning of Section 2(j) of the I.D. Act. I am, therefore, of the considered opinion that the view laid down in Des Raj's case is the better in point of law and hence it is the view in Des Raj's case which will have to be followed. Once it is so held and as I have already set out earlier the work of the Irrigation Department of the State of Punjab and the material placed before this Court including the written submissions filed on behalf of the petitioners show that the projects undertaken by the irrigation department of the State of Maharashtra is discharging the same or similar functions as the Irrigation Department of the State of Punjab. It, therefore, follows that the projects of the Irrigation Department or work connected with that of the State of Maharashtra, on the same tests as applied by the Apex Court in Des Raj's case would fall within the definition of an industry for the purpose of Section 2(j) of the I.D. Act."

11. Upon applicability of said factors to the present case, it is clear that the judgment rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Des Raj (supra) has elaborately dealt with the question as to whether Irrigation Department of the Government would come within the definition of Industry or not. After considering the Constitution Bench Judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court rendered in Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has reached a definite conclusion that Irrigation Department of the Government would come within the definition of Industry."

14. He has further placed reliance upon the judgment of Supreme Court dated 03.08.2021 in the case of The State of Uttar Pradesh and others Vs. Uttam Singh, reported in AIR 2021 Supreme Court 3909, with reference to paragraphs 10 and 11, which are quoted herein below:-

"10. We have also taken note of the fact that during his 13 long years of employment and before that having battled the appellants for the period of 6 years to get his dues, the father of the respondent was also transferred from one department to the other, normally an aspect which would be associated with a person who had a regular employment. The most significant aspect is that had the father of the respondent not been considered a regular appointee, there would be no occasion for the Department to volunteer his services to the State Election Commission to perform election duties, which could have been done only by a Government employee, as is specified under Section 159 of the Representation of the People Act, 1950 ("Staff of certain authorities to be made available for election work").

11. The present case is thus one which is peculiar in its given factual scenario which we have discussed above and thus for all practical purposes, it is a case of an appointment against a regular vacancy. The respondent's father was treated as a regular employee by the aforesaid conduct of the appellants even though he was labelled as a Part Time tubewell operator."

15. He has further placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court in the case of Chairman, Town Area & another Vs. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2013 (11) ADJ 197, with special reference to paragraph 14, which is quoted herein below:-

"14. The submission of learned counsel for the petitioner that in respect of true meaning and import of the expression 'Industry' defined under Industrial Disputes Act, the correctness of decision of Apex Court rendered in Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board Vs. A. Rajappa & others, AIR 1978 S.C. 548 has been doubted by Apex Court in Coir Board, Ernakulam, Cochin and Another Vs. Indira Devi P.S. and others, (1998) 3 S.C.C. 259 and further in case of State of U.P. Vs. Jai Bir Singh (2005) 5 S.C.C. Page 1 and decision of the Apex Court rendered in Bangalore Water Supply case has been referred to the larger Bench, also does not make any difference for the reason that the learned counsel for the petitioner could not point out the final decision rendered by larger Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in respect of the aforesaid references, therefore, I have no hesitation to hold that earlier view taken by the Apex Court is still good law and cannot be held to be detracted by Apex Court itself by now. Accordingly, no different opinion can be given by this court in this regard."

16. While explaining the ratio laid down in the aforesaid authorities, learned counsel for the respondent-workman has referred to an order dated 20.08.1987 forming part of annexure no.4 to the writ petition whereby the respondent-workman was transferred from Basti to Gorakhpur with a recital in the transfer order that the services would be governed by the same Rules which were applicable for Class-IV employees. Further reliance has been placed upon the documents of joining at the transferred place and also to the appointment order dated 20.05.1987 whereby the respondent was directed to be appointed though in the temporary capacity in the pay scale of 315-6-35/Da Ro-6-363-7-384-8-400 Da. Re10-9-440 with a clear recital that admissible allowances shall also be payable to the respondent-workman. He has also placed reliance upon the letter dated 14.07.1988 sent by the Project Officer (Agriculture), Basti to the Joint Director Agriculture (Extension), Gorakhpur Division, Gorakhpur whereby factum of absorption of the respondent-workman was admitted to the petitioners themselves. He has also referred to the relieving letter dated 10.09.1987 forming part of counter affidavit whereby the respondent-workman was relieved from Basti to Gorakhpur and also various other documents to establish that the respondent workman was always treated as a regular employee/ workman in the petitioner department.

17. The submission of the learned counsel for the respondent-workman, therefore, is that once the Supreme Court as well as this Court has already held in the aforesaid authorities that Irrigation Department and also the departments of the like nature depending upon the services rendered by the said departments, shall be covered by definition of "Industry" and, further, once the respondent was treated as an employee in the petitioners establishment, no error can be pointed out in adjudication of the dispute by the Labour Court and the provisions of U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 were fully applicable.

18. I find substance in the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the respondent-workman as in the case of Des Raj v. State of Punjab (supra) the Apex Court had considered the tests laid down in various earlier judgments of the Apex Court itself, culminating in the judgment in Bangalore Water Supply (supra) and thereafter had arrived at a conclusion that the Irrigation Department falls within the definition of Industry within the meaning of Section 2(j) of the I.D. Act. It was held that the view taken down in Des Raj's case was the better in point of law and hence it is the view in Des Raj's case which was directed to be followed. Once it was so held and also that the work of the Irrigation Department of the State of Punjab and the material placed before the Surpeme Court including the written submissions filed on behalf of the concerned petitioners that the irrigation department of the State of Maharashtra was discharging the same or similar functions as the Irrigation Department of the State of Punjab, it was held that the projects of the Irrigation Department or work connected with that of the State of Maharashtra, on the same tests as applied by the Apex Court in Des Raj's case would fall within the definition of an industry for the purpose of Section 2(j) of the I.D. Act.

19. In view of the above, the first contention of the petitioners that the Agricultural Department of the U.P. does not fall within the definition of 'Industry' does not have any merit and is accordingly rejected.

(ii) Analysis of second contention

20. In so far as the second contention to the effect that the respondent was temporarily engaged under the Rice Scheme which was abolished in the year 1987 under the Government Order dated 17.10.1987 and, therefore, the direction of the Labour Court to reinstate the respondent workman with continuity in service along with 25% back-wages is unsustainable, this Court finds from the above noted discussion of various documents relating to the services of the respondent that it cannot be treated that merely because the Rice Scheme was abolished, the respondent would lose his status as that of 'a workman'. The reason is that the Agricultural Department may deploy any labour to serve any purpose of the department and even if it is accepted that the respondent was working under the Rice Scheme of the Government, merely because the Scheme was over, it would not mean that keeping in view the nature of the services of the respondent, he would cease to be a workman, particularly when he was appointed under a pay scale and was transferred from one place to the other and was also held entitled to get various allowances under the orders of the petitioners-department itself.

21. In view of the above, the notice of termination dated 01.08.1988 whereby the respondent workman was informed that there was no necessity of his service any more, is found to be unsustainable. Hence, the second point raised by the petitioners that the respondent would not be treated as a retrenched workman, does not have any merit and is accordingly rejected.

(iii) Analysis of third contention

22. In so far as the third contention of the petitioners to the effect that the industrial dispute was raised after a belated stage of 10-11 years in the year 1999 whereas the services of the respondent workman were terminated in the year 1988 and therefore relief of reinstatement with continuity in past service along with 25% back-wages is not according to law, this Court proceeds to examine this aspect of the matter in the light of law laid down by this Court and Supreme Court governing the issue.

23. There is no dispute about the fact that the petitioner worked from 1987 to 1988 and his services for any reason whatsoever, were terminated in August-September, 1988 and the dispute was agitated after 11 years.

24. Learned Standing Counsel for the petitioners has argued that the Labour Court, in the impugned award, has not recorded any finding that the respondent workman was not gainfully employed during the aforesaid period of 11 years and, therefore, direction for reinstatement with other relief, is contrary to law.

25. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondent workman submits that once the termination was illegal, the award of the Labour Court is perfectly in accordance with law.

26. Before arriving at a conclusion in this regard, it is necessary to refer to certain authorities of the Supreme Court on the issue as to when reinstatement with other consequential reliefs can be ordered by a Labour Court in such circumstances.

27. In State of Karnataka and another Vs. Ravi Kumar reported in 2009 13 SCC 746, long delay in seeking reference of the dispute rendered the reference stale and Supreme Court held that it should have been rejected by the Labour Court. In that case reference was sought after fourteen years.

28. In Haryana State Cooperation Land Development Bank Vs. Neelam reported in 2005 (5) SCC 91, the Supreme Court held delay of seven years in approaching the Labour Court to be relevant factor to refuse relief of reinstatement.

29. In Bharat Sanchar Nigam Ltd. Vs. Bhurumal reported in 2014 (7) SCC 177, it has been held that relief of reinstatement with full back-wages, when termination is found to be illegal is not to be granted mechanically in all cases. In case of termination of a daily wage worker, made in violation of Section 25F of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 it was held reinstatement with back-wages was not automatic and instead workman should be given monetary compensation.

30. The Supreme Court in the case of Assistant Engineer, Rajasthan State

Agriculture Marketing Board, Sub Division, Kota Vs, Madan Lal reported in (2013) 14 SCC 543, after considering the law on the subject, held that though Limitation Act is not applicable to such cases, yet delay in raising the dispute is an important circumstance and Labour Court must consider before it exercises discretion irrespective of objection has or has not been raised by the other side.

31. Further in the case of Assistant Engineer, Rajasthan State Agriculture Marketing Board, Sub-Division, Kota Versus Mohan Lal reported in (2013) 14 SCC 543 in similar circumstances, a muster roll employee in a government establishment who had been found to have worked for 286 days in one twelve calendar month period prior to his dis-engagement, and in whose case the industrial dispute was raised after six years, was found not entitled to reinstatement but compensation in lieu thereof, Rs. One lac only.

32. In Nagar Mahapalika vs. State of U.P. and Ors. reported in 2006,(5) SCC 127, it was held by Supreme Court that non compliance with the provisions of Section 6-N of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (this provision is broadly pari materia with Section 25-F), although, leads to the grant of a relief of reinstatement with full back wages and continuity of service in favour of the workman, the same would not mean that such relief is to be granted automatically or as a matter of course. It was emphasised that the Labour Court must take into consideration the relevant facts for exercise of its discretion in granting the relief.

33. Supreme Court in Municipal Council, Sujanpur vs. Surinder Kumar reported in 2006 (5) SCC 173, reiterated the above legal position. That was a case where the Labour Court had granted reinstatement in service with full back wages to the workman as statutory provisions were not followed. The award was not interfered with by the High Court. However, the Court granted monetary compensation in lieu of reinstatement.

34. In Haryana State Electronics Development Corporation Ltd. v. Mamni reported in 2006 (9) SCC 434 following Nagar Mahapalika (supra), Supreme Court held that the reinstatement granted to the workman because there was violation of Section 25F, was not justified and modified the order of reinstatement by directing that the workman shall be compensated by payment of a sum of Rs.25,000/- instead of the order of the reinstatement.

35. In Uttaranchal Forest Development Corporation v. M.C. Joshi reported in 2007 (9) SCC 353, the services were terminated on 24.11.1991 in contravention of the provisions of Section 6-N of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act. He had completed 240 days of continuous work in a period of twelve months preceding the order of termination. The workman approached the Conciliation Officer on or about 02.09.1996, i.e., after a period of about five years. The Labour Court granted to the workman, M.C.Joshi, relief of reinstatement with 50% back wages. In the writ petition filed by the Corporation, the direction of reinstatement was maintained but back wages were reduced from 50% to 25%. The Supreme Court substituted the award of reinstatement by compensation for a sum of Rs.75,000/-.

36. In Ghaziabad Development Authority and Another v. Ashok Kumar and Another reported in 2008 (4) SCC 261], the Apex Court was concerned with the question as to whether the Labour Court was justified in awarding relief of reinstatement in favour of the workman who had worked as daily wager for two years. His termination was held to be violative of U.P. Industrial Disputes Act. The Supreme Court held that the Labour Court should not have directed reinstatement of the workman in service and substituted the order of reinstatement by awarding compensation of Rs.50,000/-

37. In Telecom District Manager v. Keshab Deb, reported in 2008 (8) SCC 402, the termination of the workman who was a daily wager, was held illegal on diverse grounds including violation of the provisions of Section 25-F. Supreme Court held that even in a case where order of termination was illegal, automatic direction for reinstatement with full back wages was not contemplated. The Court substituted the order of reinstatement by an award of compensation of Rs.1,50,000/-.

38. In Jagbir Singh v. Haryana State Agriculture Marketing Board reported in 2009 (15) SCC 327, the workman had worked from 01.09.1995 to 18.07.1996 as a daily wager and was granted compensation of Rs.50,000/- in lieu of reinstatement with back wages.

39. It is also necessary to refer to subsequent three decisions of Supreme Court, namely, Uttar Pradesh State Electricity Board vs. Laxmi Kant Gupta reported in 2009 (16) SCC 562, Bharat Sanchar Nigam Limited vs. Man Singh reported in 2012 (1) SCC 558 and Senior Superintendent Telegraph (Traffic), Bhopal vs. Santosh Kumar Seal and Others, reported in 2010 (6) SCC 773, where the view has been taken in line with the cases discussed above. As a matter of fact in Santosh Kumar Seal (supra), Apex Court awarded compensation of Rs.40,000/-to each of the workmen who were illegally retrenched as they were engaged as daily wagers about 25 years back and worked hardly for two or three years. It was held that the relief of reinstatement cannot be said to be justified and instead granted monetary compensation.

40. In the case of Assistant Engineer, Rajasthan Development Corporation and Anr. v. Gitam Singh reported in 2013 (5) SCC 136], Supreme Court on consideration of the most of the cases cited above reiterated the principle regarding exercise of judicial discretion by the Labour Court in a matter where the termination of the workman is held to be illegal being in violation of Section 25-F by holding that the Labour Court has to keep in view all relevant factors, including the mode and manner of appointment, nature of employment, length of service, the ground on which the termination has been set aside and the delay in raising the industrial dispute before grant of relief in an industrial.

41. The aforesaid authorities have been considered by this Court in its judgment in the case of State of U.P. Vs. Presiding Officer, Labour Court and another reported in 2017 (7) ADJ 393.

42. Further, The Supreme Court in several authorities some of which are mentioned below has held that if the only defect in the termination order is non payment of retrenchment compensation as required by Section 25 F of Industrial Dispute Act (or Section 6 N of U.P.I.D.

Act) then it is not always necessary to direct reinstatement with full back wages and that in such situation more often than not proper relief may be to award consolidated damages/compensation particularly when the employer is Government or Governmental agency and relevant rules have not been followed before appointment.

- Nagar Mahapalika v. State of U.P., AIR 2006 SC 2113

- Haryana State Electronics Devpt Corpn v. Mamni, AIR 2006 SC 2427

- Jagbir Singh Vs. Haryana State Agriculture Marketing Board and another, AIR 2009 SC 3004

43. In Senior Superintendent, Telegraph (Traffic) Bhopal Vs. Santosh Kumar Seal and others, reported in AIR 2010 SC 2140, it has been held that if daily wagers had worked for 2 or 3 years and their services were terminated without payment of retrenchment compensation then consolidated damages should be awarded to them (Rs.40,000/- to each of the workmen was awarded in the said case). It has also been held that daily wager does not hold a post and can not be equated with permanent employee. This view has been reiterated in Incharge Officer Vs. Shankar Shetty reported in JT 2010(9) SC 262.

44. The aforesaid authorities have been considered by this Court in its judgment reported in 2011 (4) ADJ, 199: Divisional Engineer, Telecom, Jhansi Vs. Presiding Officer and another.

Conclusion

45. Keeping in view the law laid down in the aforesaid authorities as well as the undisputed factual position that reference was made at a very belated stage of 10-11 years after the termination and there being no finding by the Labour Court in the impugned award as to whether the respondent was or was not gainfully employed during the intervening period or thereafter, I find that the reinstatement with 25% back-wages along with continuity in past service was not justified.

46. However, in the facts and circumstances of the case, a consolidated and lump sum amount of compensation could have served the purpose to console the respondent whose services were terminated, not only in the light of the documents but also considering his service book which describe the nature of his appointment with all other aspects associated with it.

47. In view of the above and also considering the nature of the interim order dated 25.05.2017 passed in the present petition, in pursuance whereof a sum of Rs.5,00,000/- was deposited by the petitioners out of which a sum of Rs.2,00,000/- has admittedly been released in favour of the respondent, the writ petition is partly allowed.

48. The impugned award dated 30.11.2015, published on 28.03.2016, passed by the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, Gorakhpur in Adjudication Case No.75 of 1999 is hereby quashed in part and is modified directing payment of compensation to the respondent workman which this Court assess to be Rs.5,00,000/-. Since under the interim order, a sum of Rs.

2,00,000/- (rupees two lac only) has already been released in favour of the workman and the remaining sum of Rs. 3,00,000/- was invested with a nationalized bank in an interest bearing deposit account, it is directed that the aforesaid sum of Rs.3,00,000/- along with accrued interest upto the date shall be released in favour of the respondent-workman within a period of two months from the date a certified copy of this order is produced before the Labour Court along with appropriate application. The Labour Court shall ensure that the bank concerned shall facilitate release of the said amount along with the interest accrued upto date in favour of the respondent-workman without any hindrance.

in stamp duty – objection - impugned order for recovery of stamp duty including penalty passed – appeal – dismissed – burden of prove - court finds that, stamp duty as per circle rate, no declaration u/s 143 of Act, 1950 of the said land and admittedly, no spot inspection has been carried out which was mandatory, as per Rules 7(3)(c) of the Rules, 1997 – The entire burden lay upon the St. to established beyond reasonable doubt, and nothing to this effect has been brought on the record, rather, not only the findings recorded in the orders impugned are contrary to the provisions of the Act, 1899 & Rules, 1997 – held, chargeability of the stamp duty has to be examined with reference to the date of execution of instrument and further, if inspection is carried out today that would be wholly irrelevant and therefore, in remanding the matter, to the authorities, would be a futile exercise – hence, writ petition succeeds and is allowed – impugned orders are hereby quashed – and a writ of Mandamus is also issued to refund the amount deposited by the petitioner prior to filing of writ petition along with 6% interest p.a. within a period of three months. (Delivered by Hon'ble Kshitij Shailendra, J.)

1. Heard Shri Nipun Singh along with Shri Sumit Suri, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. The petitioner purchased 1.1152 hectares of agricultural land by a registered sale deed dated 27.01.2011, which recites that the land covered by the instrument is purely agricultural in nature and has been purchased for cultivation activities.

3. The proceedings under section 47-A of Indian Stamp Act, 1899 (as applicable in the State of U.P.) were registered against the petitioner pointing out deficiency in the stamp duty on the ground that in respect of the same Khasra No. 69/1 minjumla, in the past, four other sale deeds were executed, on which stamp duty was paid at residential rates. Therefore, an opinion was formed that stamp duty in respect of the petitioner's sale deed was deficient.

4. The petitioner appeared in the proceedings and filed objections dated 08.08.2011 stating that stamp duty as per the prevalent circle rate applicable for the agricultural land had been paid. It was further stated that declaration under section 143 of U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act, 1950 had not been made in respect of the land covered by the instrument; that paddy crops were standing on the agricultural field; that no spot inspection was conducted by the authorities and that the Sub Registrar had submitted a report without examining the factual position of the spot.

5. By the first order impugned dated 06.05.2013, deficiency in payment of stamp duty to the tune of Rs. 2,78,600/- (Rupees two lac seventy eight thousand six hundred only) has been imposed along with four times penalty to the tune of Rs. 11,14,400/- (rupees eleven lac fourteen thousand four hundred only) with further stipulation that the petitioner shall be liable to pay an interest at the rate of 1.5 % per month from the date of execution of the instrument till recovery. The petitioner filed an appeal against the said order, which has been dismissed by the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority by second order impugned dated 07.09.2015.

6. The orders impugned are based upon stamp duty paid on one sale deed out of four, which was treated as an exemplar so as to determine the quantum of stamp duty in relation to the petitioner's sale deed. The document number of the said sale deed is 7353 of 2010, a copy whereof has been annexed as Annexure No. 8 to the writ petition. A perusal of the said deed shows that the area covered by it was 139.36 Square meters, for which purchaser had paid stamp duty at residential rates and the property was described as a residential plot. Insofar as objections taken by the petitioner in the proceedings are concerned, it has been observed by the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority that in case the petitioner was aggrieved by non-making of spot inspection, he should have moved successive applications, but he moved it only once. Regarding another application dated 06.05.2013, it was observed that in fact, it was a date fixed for passing final order by the first authority and it appears that the application was moved on the date of decision and, therefore, it may be an afterthought.

7. Shri Nipun Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the land described in the instrument was and still is purely agricultural in nature. He further submits that once no declaration under section 143 of U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act, 1950 was made in respect of property covered by the instrument, the nature of land will continue to be agricultural. He further submits that the area of the land purchased by the petitioner is around 11000 Square meters, whereas the exemplar sale deed No. 7353 of 2010, relied upon by the Authorities below, is only in relation to a very small portion of the same Gata i.e., 139.36 Square meters, which was described as a residential plot. He also submits that conducting the spot inspection in such matter was necessary as per Rule 7(3)(c) of the U.P. Stamp (Valuation of Property) Rules, 1997 and, therefore, once objection with regard to spot inspection was specifically raised by the petitioner, it was incumbent for the Authorities to conduct spot inspection and then form an opinion regarding alleged deficiency and, therefore, placing reliance on mere one sale deed of a very small portion of the land and treating the same as an exemplar for deciding the matter of payment of stamp duty, is not according to law.

8. He further submits that the Authorities have placed burden of proving the case upon the petitioner, rather, since these proceedings were initiated by the State, the burden to establish alleged deficiency in payment of stamp duty was upon the State and no contrary burden could be placed upon the petitioner.

9. He has placed reliance upon a decision of this Court in the case of Varun Gopal vs State of U.P. and others reported in 2015 (2) ADJ 311, with special reference to paragraph 24 of the same, which is reproduced herein-below:

"24. The sine qua non for invoking provisions of Section 47-A(3) of the Act is that the Collector had reason to believe, that the value had not been properly set forth in the instrument as per market value of the property. Once the instrument is registered and the stamp duty as prescribed by the Collector was paid, the burden to prove that the market value was more than the minimum prescribed by the Collector under the rules, was upon the Collector. The report of the Sub-Registrar or Tehsildar was not sufficient to discharge that burden. (Vijay Kumar v. Commissioner Meerut Division, 2008(7) ADJ 293)."

10. He has further placed reliance upon another judgment of this Court in the case of The Institute of the Franciscan Clarist Sisters vs State of U.P. and others, reported in AIR 2020 All 189, wherein the property purchased was agricultural in nature and there was no declaration under section 143 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act, 1950.

11. Shri Nipun Singh has further argued that, even otherwise, sale deed No. 7353 of 2010 could not have been treated as an exemplar, inasmuch as under the order dated 27.09.2014 passed by the Tehsildar, in mutation proceedings, the said sale deed has been treated as invalid for the reason that it was executed by a minor and, therefore, no rights were transferred or conferred by the same.

12. A counter affidavit has been filed by the State, in paragraph no. 10 whereof it is stated that the provisions of section 143 of U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act, 1950 are irrelevant for the purposes of deciding the chargeability of stamp duty. In paragraph 17 of the counter affidavit, it is stated the spot inspection was not required in the present case as the property was earlier transferred by applying non-agricultural rates. Learned Standing Counsel, therefore, submits that the orders impugned do not require any interference.

13. Rejoinder affidavit has been filed reiterating the version contained in the writ petition, and further evidence has been brought on record to establish that nature of land not only on the date of execution of sale deed, but also as on today is purely agricultural in nature and different crops are standing on the spot.

14. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties, I find that non-declaration of land as Abadi under section 143 of U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act, 1950 is an admitted fact. The contention of the State to the effect that the said non-declaration is not relevant in the proceedings under the Indian Stamp Act cannot be accepted for the reason that in exercise of statutory powers under the Indian Stamp Act, as applicable in the State of U.P., Uttar Pradesh Stamp (Valuation of Property) Rules, 1997 have been framed. Rule 3(1)(a) of the Rules, provide as follows:

"Facts to be set forth in an instrument.-In case of an instrument relating to immovable property chargeable with an ad valorem duty, the following particulars shall also be fully and truly stated in the instrument in addition to the market value of the property-

(1) In case of land-

(a) included in the holding of a tenure-holder, as defined in the law relating to land tenures-

(i) the Khasra number and area of each plot forming part of the subject-matter of the instrument;

(ii) whether irrigated or unirrigated and if irrigated, the source of irrigation;

(iii) if under cultivation whether do-fasali or otherwise;

(iv) land revenue or rent whether exempted or not and payable by such tenure-holder;

(v) classification of soil, supported in case of instruments exceeding twenty thousand rupees in value, by the certified copies, or extracts from the relevant revenue records issued in accordance with law;

(vi) location (whether lies in an urban area, semi-urban area, or countryside); and

(vii) minimum value fixed by the Collector of the district."

15. Admittedly, on the date of execution of the sale deed, the provisions of U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act, 1950 were applicable. The definition of "land" as contained under section 3(14) of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act, 1950, reads as follows:

(14) "Land"[except in Sections 109, 143 and 144 and Chapter VII] means land held or occupied for purposes connected with agriculture, horticulture or animal husbandry which includes pisciculture and poultry farming;

16. In view of the definition of land contained in the law relating to land tenures, i.e. U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act, 1950, the fact that the land was not declared as Abadi under section 143 of U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act, 1950 as explained under section 3(14) of the said Act, in itself becomes a relevant factor for determining the nature of land that was subject matter of instrument. This Court in various authorities has held that when the land is purchased for agricultural purposes and declaration under section 143 of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R.Act, 1950 has not been made and merely because the land is situated in close vicinity of the non-agricultural land, the same would not lose its character as the agricultural land for the purposes of levy of stamp duty. Reference can be made to few authorities of this Court in the case of Aniruddha Kumar and Ashwini Kumar vs Chief Controlling Revenue Authority, U.P. Allahabad and another, reported in 2000 (3) AWC 2587; Smt. Sushila Verma vs State of U.P. and others reported in 2006 (2) AWC 1492 and Sudama vs Chief Controlling Authority and others, reported in 2013 (4) AWC 3571.

17. Moreover, had the allegation of the State been to the effect that though the land was purchased for agricultural purposes, but its user was immediately changed and on the date of sale deed, it was being used for any other purpose like, industrial, commercial or even residential, the situation would have been different. Even in those situations, spot inspection at the relevant point of time was a necessity, but, admittedly, in the present case, no spot inspection has been carried out. Necessity of spot inspection and its mandatory nature, with reference to Rule 7 (3) (c) of the aforesaid Rules of 1997, has been reiterated, time and again by this Court in various authorities including Ajay Agarwal and others vs Commissioner Lucknow and others, reported in 2023 (2) ADJ 561 (LB), and Ram Khelawan alias Bachcha vs State of U.P. and another, reported in 2005 (2) AWC 1087.

18. Insofar as reliance placed upon the exemplar is concerned, comparing the area purchased by the petitioner, i.e. around 11000 square meters, a sale deed covering a very small area of about 139.36 square meters cannot be said to be a rational approach.

19. The observations/findings recorded in the orders impugned are also contrary to principles of burden of proof particularly, in a case where proceedings arise out of a fiscal statute. Once the State was proceeding to impose deficient stamp duty upon the petitioner, the entire burden lay upon the State to establish beyond reasonable doubt that the petitioner made some concealment at the time of getting the sale deed executed in his favour or that within a close proximity of dates, the user of the land in dispute was changed so as to levy additional stamp duty. Nothing to this effect has been brought on record, rather, not only the findings recorded in the orders impugned are contrary to the provisions of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899, as applicable in the State of U.P. as well as U.P. Stamp (Valuation of Property) Rules, 1997, but certainly contrary to the law consistently laid down by this Court.

20. Insofar as the imposing four times penalty is concerned, it is well settled that unless "mens rea" is established on the part of the purchaser, no penalty can be imposed, even if the provision of penalty is a creation of statute. Regarding imposition of penalty, reference can be made to a judgment of this Court in the case of Smt. Asha Kapoor vs Additional Collector (Finance & Revenue), Ghaziabad and others, reported in 2008 (72) ALR 125, where this Court has held that penalty can be imposed if there is an attempt to evade the stamp duty and penalty presupposes culpability and an intention to conceal or to play fraud with the authorities. I do not find any finding on record, whereunder any opinion has been formed by the respondent-Authorities that the petitioner defrauded the Government having mens rea at the time of getting the sale deed executed. Even the annexures to the writ petition disclosing the nature of land have not been disputed by the State in the counter affidavit. I also find that the sale deed in question conforms to the statutory requirements of disclosure of necessary particulars as per rule 3(1)(a) of the Rules of 1997. Therefore, imposition of penalty is also contrary to law of the land.

21. Insofar as the contention of Shri Nipun Singh to the effect that since the sale deed was declared as void or invalid, no deficient stamp duty could be levied upon the petitioner, the Court it is not impressed by the said submission in view of the definition of "Instrument" as contained under section 2 (14) of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899, which reads as follows:

14. Instrument.- "instrument" includes-

(a) every document, by which any right or liability is, or purports to be, created, transferred, limited, extended, extinguished or recorded;

22. As per the aforesaid definition, it is clear that even if, no rights are created by an Instrument, but they are purported to be created, the document shall fall within the definition of "instrument" so as to invoke the provisions of Indian Stamp Act, 1899. This Court in the case of Om Prakash Umar vs State of U.P. and others, reported in 2014 (1) AWC 120, has held that the validity of the transfer made in favour of the transferee is not a relevant criteria so as to grant exemption from payment of stamp duty. Therefore, merely because the sale deed has been declared as invalid in any subsequent proceedings, the same would be of no consequence insofar as the present case under the Indian Stamp Act is concerned. The argument advanced by the petitioner to this effect is hereby discarded.

23. Learned Standing Counsel submits that in case, non-conduct of the spot inspection is treated as an illegality behind passing of the orders impugned, the matter may be remanded to the authorities for conducting or getting conducted spot inspection and then pass a fresh order.

24. However I find that no fruitful purpose would be served in remanding the matter to the Authorities and infact remand in this case would be a futile exercise for the reason that the instrument in question was executed on 27.01.2011 and it is well settled that chargeability of the stamp duty has to be examined with reference to the date of execution of instrument. Proposition to this effect has been consistently laid down by this Court in various authorities including Shahid Ali vs Commissioner Bareilly Division Bareilly and others, reported in 2013 (6) ADJ 425 and Har Charan Lal Ice & Cold Storage Pvt. Ltd. Vs State of U.P. and others, reported in 2013 (2) AWC 1731. Therefore, the insistence of learned Standing Counsel regarding remand is liable to be rejected, also for the reason that if inspection is carried out today, i.e. in the year 2023 that would be wholly irrelevant for the purposes of determination of stamp duty on the date of execution of sale deed i.e. 2011. Therefore, such spot inspection would neither be of any significance nor relevant for the purposes of deciding the matter.

25. In view of above, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

26. The order dated 06.05.2013 passed by respondent No. 3, Collector/District Magistrate, Gautam Budh Nagar in Case No. 14/2011-12 (State vs Rajkumar) as well as order dated 07.09.2015 passed by respondent No. 2, Chief Controlling Authority/Board of Revenue, U.P. Circuit Road, Meerut in Appeal No. 107/M/2013-14 (Rajkumar Bhati vs State of U.P.) are hereby quashed by issuing a writ of Certiorari.

27. A writ of Mandamus is also issued to the effect that any amount deposited by the petitioner either prior to filing of this writ petition or in pursuance of any interim order passed in the present case, shall be refunded to the petitioner along with simple interest at the rate of 6% per annum from the date of its deposit till the date of actual payment, within a period of three months, on moving appropriate application by the petitioner along with certified copy of this order before the authority concerned.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh Deshwal, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Anuj Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondent no.2 and learned Standing Counsel for the respondent Nos.1 and 3.

2. By means of present petition, the petitioner has challenged the order dated 27/28.04.2007 passed by respondent no.1 by which application for petitioner under Section 18 of U.P. Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (hereinafter referred to as the "Act, 1894") for referring the matter for determination of court regarding amount of compensation was rejected on the ground that the same was time barred.

3. Factual matrix of the present case is that the State has issued notification dated 06.01.1992 under Section 4 of the "Act, 1894" and thereafter notification dated 22.09.1992 under Section 6 of the "Act, 1894" for acquiring the land for plan development by respondent no.2- Noida Development Authority. By way of above notification, 1/3rd part in Khasra No. 151 belongs to petitioner in village Hazipur, Pargana and Tehsil Dadari, District-

Gautam Budh Nagar was acquired. The award for the portion land of the petitioner in Khasra No.151 was also given on 13.01.2004 by respondent No.1. After delivering the award, registered notice dated 12.08.2004 under Section 12(2) of "Act, 1894" was also issued to the petitioner which was received by the petitioner admittedly on 24.08.2004. After receiving the aforesaid notice, petitioner filed an objection dated 25.08.2004 against the notice dated 12.08.2004 but no action was taken. Thereafter the petitioner submitted an application dated 20.09.2004 before the Collector, Gautambudh Nagar under Section 18 of the "Act, 1894" to refer the matter to the Court for determination of higher/correct compensation for the acquired land of the petitioner. When the above application dated 20.09.2004 remained undisposed then the petitioner preferred a Writ Petition No. 6180 of 2007 before this Court and the same was disposed of by order dated 08.02.2007 directing the Collector to decide the application dated 20.09.2004 submitted by the petitioner under Section 18 of the "Act, 1894".

4. In pursuance of the order dated 08.02.2007 of this Court, respondent no.1 has passed the impugned order dated 27.04.2007 after hearing the parties including the petitioner and rejected the same on the ground that the same is time barred because the application of the petitioner under Section 18 was submitted on 20.09.2004 but as per Section 18(2)(b) of the "Act, 1894". It should have been filed within six months from the date of award i.e. till 12.07.2004.

5. Contentions of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the impugned order dated 27/28.04.2007 passed by the respondent no.1 is absolutely erroneous because the petitioner first time came to know about the award dated 13.01.2004 only after receiving the notice dated 12.04.2004 under Section 12(2) of the "Act, 1894" on 24.08.2004. Thereafter he immediately filed his application dated 20.09.2004 under Section 18 of the "Act, 1894" therefore, the same was within six weeks from the date of receiving the notice under Section 12(2) of the "Act, 1894". Therefore, his application under Section 18 of the Act, 1894 was well within time and therefore prayed for quashing of the impugned order.

6. Counsel for the respondent no.2 as well as Standing Counsel for the State have submitted that the impugned order is absolutely correct because application of the petitioner under Section 18 of the "Act, 1894" was time barred because the same was filed beyond six months from the date of award and also relied upon the judgements Officer on Special Duty (Land Acquisition) and Ors. vs Shah Manilal Chandulal and Ors. reported in (1996) 9 SCC 414 and Bhagwan Das vs State of U.P. reported in (2010) 3 SCC 545 to show that Section 5 of Limitation Act is not applicable in the application under Section 18 of the "Act, 1894".

7. Considering the rival contention of parties and perusal of record, we find it is admitted position that the petitioner submitted his application under Section 18 of the "Act, 1894" on 20.09.2004 though he received notice dated 12.04.2004 under Section 12(2) of the "Act, 1894" on 24.08.2004.

8. Section 18(2) of the "Act, 1894" provides the limitation for filing the application for referring the matter to the court. For ready reference, Section 18 of the "Act, 1894" is quoted hereinbelow;

"18(2) The application shall state the grounds on which objection to the award is taken:

Provided that every such application shall be made, -

(a) if the person making it was present or represented before the Collector at the time when he made his award, within six weeks from the date of the Collector's award;

(b) in other cases, within six weeks of the receipt of the notice from the Collector under Section 12, sub-section(2), or within six months from the date of the Collector's award, whichever period shall first expire."

9. From perusal of Section 18(2)(a) of the "Act, 1894", it is clear that if the person/tenure holder was present or represented before the Collector at the time of making award then the limitation period is six weeks from the date of Collector's award. While Section 18(2)(b) provides in other cases, where the person was not present/ represented before the Collector at the time of making award then limitation period would be six weeks from the date of receipt of the notice from the Collector under Section 12(2) of the Act, 1894 or within six months from the date of Collector's award, whichever period shall first expire.

10. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Madan and another vs State of Maharashtra reported in (2014) 2 SCC 720 observed that expression the date of Collector's award used in proviso (b) to Section 18(2) of the Act must be understood to mean that date when the award is either communicated to the party or is known by him either actually or constructively. It was further held in the above judgement that it will be unreasonable to construe the words "from the date of Collector's award" used in proviso to Section 18 in a literal or mechanical way. Para 9 and 10 of the judgement Madan and another (supra) is quoted hereinbelow;

"9. From the order dated 29.10.1993 passed in L.A.R. No. 75/1992, it is, inter alia, clear that there was a dispute amongst the land owners (the appellants are one set of such land owners) in respect of their respective shares in the acquired land on account of which no apportionment of compensation was made by the Collector who made a Reference under Section 30 of the Act to the court. Further, in the order dated 29.10.1993 it is recorded that the appellants had no knowledge of the Award till the order dated 4.9.1991 came to be passed in the Reference under Section 30. In Harish Chandra Raj Singh (supra) this Court has held that the expression "the date of the award" used in proviso (b) to Section 18(2) of the Act must be understood to mean the date when the award is either communicated to the party or is known by him either actually or constructively. It was further held by this Court that it will be unreasonable to construe the words "from the date of the Collector's award" used in the proviso to Section 18 in a literal or mechanical way. In the present case, it has already been noticed that a finding has been recorded by the Reference Court in its order dated 29.10.1993 that "the petitioners had no knowledge about the passing of the award till the date of payment of compensation on 5.9.1991 because they were held entitled to receive the compensation after the decision of Reference under Section 30 dated 4.9.1991."

10. What transpires from the above is that it is for the first time on 4.9.1991 (date of the order under Section 30 of the Act) that the appellants came to know that they were entitled to compensation and the quantum thereof. It is not in dispute that the Reference under Section 18 was made within 6 weeks from the said date i.e. 4.9.1991. In the above facts, it is difficult to subscribe to the view taken by the High Court to hold that the Reference under Section 18 was barred by limitation."

11 Similarly in the judgement of Vijay Mahadeo Rao Kubade vs State of Maharashtra reported in (2018) 8 SCC 266. Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that if the land owner did not get copy of award along with notice under Section 12(2) of "Act, 1894" then notice will not be treated as valid notice, therefore, subsequent submission of application for reference under Section 18(2) will not be treated as time barred. Paras 10 and 11 of the aforesaid judgement are being quoted hereinbelow;

"10. Learned counsel for the petitioner, Ms. Bansuri Swaraj, relies on the judgment of Premji Nathu v. State of Gujarat and Anr., (2012) 5 SCC 250, wherein this court has observed as under;

"20. In the light of the above, it is to be seen whether the conclusion recorded by the Reference Court, which has been approved by the High Court that the application filed by the appellant was barred by time is legally sustainable.

21. A careful reading of the averments contained in Para 2 of the application filed by the appellant under Section 18(1) shows that the notice issued by the Collector under Section 12(2) was served upon him on 22.2.1985. Thereafter, his advocate obtained certified copy of the award and filed application dated 08.04.1985 for making a reference to the Court. This implies that the copy of the award had not been sent to the appellant along with the notice and without that he could not have effectively made an application for seeking reference.

On behalf of the State Government, no evidence was produced before the Reference Court to show that the copy of the award was sent to the appellant along with the notice. Unfortunately, while deciding Issue 3, this aspect has been totally ignored by the Reference Court which mechanically concluded that the application filed on 8.4.1985 was beyond the time specified in Section 18(2)(b). The learned Single Judge of the High Court also committed serious error by approving the view taken by the Reference Court, albeit without considering the fact that the notice issued by the Collector under Section 12(2) was notice was essential for effective exercise of right vested in the appellant to seek reference under Section 18(1). (emphasis supplied).

11. The learned counsel appearing on behalf of the Government, has not disputed the aforesaid proposition of law. Accordingly, we are of the opinion that the aforesaid observations are squarely applicable to the present case as the notice dated 04.12.1987, was not accompanied with the award. In this case, there could not have been a valid notice of the award, by letter dated 04.12.1987, under sub-section (2) of Section 12 of the Land Acquisition Act, until the appellant received a certified copy of the award, which he did on 03.02.1988. Therefore, the reference for enhancement was, accordingly, not barred by limitation."

12. From perusal of record, it is clear that notice dated 12.04.2004 under Section 12(2) of Land Acquisition Act served upon the petitioner on 24.08.2004 was not accompanied with the copy of the award dated 13.01.2004 and petitioner came to know about the award dated 13.01.2004 only after receiving the copy of the notice dated 12.08.2004 under Section 12(2) of the Act, 1894. From legal position discussed above, it is clear that the date of Collector's award mentioned in proviso (b) to Section 18(2) of the 'Act, 1894' must be treated the date on which the petitioner came to know about the aforesaid award. Admittedly, the petitioner came to know about the award dated 13.01.2004 only after notice under Section 12(2) dated 12.08.2004.

13. In view of above time period of six month from the date of Collector's award will commence from 24.08.2004 the date on which the petitioner came to know about the award dated 13.01.2004. It is undisputed that the petitioner has submitted application under Section 18(2) before the Collector on 20.09.2004 which was within six weeks from the date of receipt of notice dated 12.08.2004 under Section 12(2) of the 'Act, 1894'. Therefore on harmonious interpretation of proviso (b) of Section 18(2) of the 'Act, 1894' with the law laid down by the Apex Court as mentioned above six months period from the date of Collector's award will start from 24.08.2004 and that will expire on 24.02.2005 and six weeks from the date of receipt of notice dated 12.08.2004 received on 24.08.2004 will expire on 05.10.2004. Therefore the period six weeks from the date of receipt of notice under Section 12(2) had expired first on 5th October, 2004 and six months time from the date of Collector's award had expired subsequently i.e. on 24.02.2005.

Therefore, application of the petitioner dated 20.09.2004 was well within time within six weeks of notice under Section 12(2), therefore, the impugned order dated 27.04.2017 rejecting the application dated 20.09.2004 of the petitioner as time barred is absolutely erroneous hence liable to be quashed. Therefore, the same is quashed and the respondent no.1 is directed to pass appropriate order on the application dated 20.09.2004 of the petitioner under Section 18 of the 'Act, 1894' for referring his case to Court for determination of compensation treating the same within time.

14. Aforesaid exercise will be completed by respondent no.1 within a period of three months from the date of receiving the copy of this order.

15. In view of above, present writ petition is allowed. No order as to cost.

Writ Petition – for direction to the authority – to allot the Fair Price Shop in pursuance of a proposal of the Gaon Sabha which was in favour of the petitioner – complaint – said proposal was passed without confirmation and signature of the Pradhan - court finds that, there is a statutory provision for proceedings of the meetings, a proposal which has not been confirmed and signed by the Pradhan, it cannot be said to be a valid proposal and the proposal made therein would be valid – held, no direction can be issued for taking decision in pursuance of the said proposal which has not been confirmed and signed by the Pradhan, therefore it cannot be acted upon – consequently, writ petition dismissed.

(Para – 10, 12)

Writ Petition Dismissed. (E-11)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajnish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard, Shri Dinesh Kumar Ojha, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Shri Ajay Singh, learned Standing Counsel and Shri H.S.Tiwari, learned counsel for the respondent no.5.

2. This petition has been filed for a direction to opposite party no.3 to allot the Fair Price Shop of Village-Rampur Kasiha (Rampur), Vikas Khand-Sangipur, Tehsil-Lalganj, District-Pratapgarh to the petitioner in pursuance of the proposal dated 11.10.2017.

3. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that a proposal was made in favour of the petitioner for allotment of Fair Price Shop in question on 11.10.2017 but without any decision on the same by means of another proposal the respondent no.5 has been recommended for allotment of Fair Price Shop and the shop has been allotted in his favour, which could not have been done without taking any decision on the proposal dated 11.10.2017. He further submits that the Gram Pradhan was present through out the meeting but in the last he left the meeting and did not sign the proposal, which does not make the proposal invalid.

4. On the other hand learned counsel for the respondents submit that the proposal dated 11.10.2017 was not signed by the Gram Pradhan, therefore it is not a valid proposal and could not have been acted upon. It has further been submitted that the Gram Pradhan himself had made a complaint in regard to the bungling in voting in the meeting for the aforesaid proposal dated 11.10.2017, therefore it could not have been acted upon and on the basis of a fresh proposal in which the respondent no.5 was recommended, he has been granted the licence of Fair Price Shop in question. There is no illegality or error in it. Relying on U.P.Panchayat Raj Rules, 1947 learned counsel for the respondents submit that without confirmation and signature of the Pradhan a proposal is not a valid proposal. Therefore it could not have been acted upon.

5. I have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

6. This petition has been filed for a direction for allotment of Fair Price Shop in question in favour of the petitioner in pursuance of the proposal dated 11.10.2017, which has not been signed by the Gram Pradhan. Therefore the sole issue to be considered is as to whether the proposal which has not been signed by the Gram Pradhan can be a valid proposal or void and can be acted upon or not and a direction can be issued for taking a decision in favour of the petitioner in pursuance of the said proposal or not.

7. Rule 46 of the U.P. Panchayat Raj Rules 1947 (hereinafter referred as Rules 1947) provides that the Pradhan and in his absence the Up-Pradhan shall preside at the meeting of the Gaon Sabha and Gaon Panchayat and in case of absence of both from any such meeting, the member nominated under Rule 46-A shall preside at the meeting or in case the Pradhan has not made such a nomination, the Prescribed Authority may nominate any member. Rule 47 of the Rules 1947 provides the duties of Pradhan. One of the duties of the Pradhan is to convene and preside at all the meetings of the Gaon Sabha and the Gaon Panchayat and the other to control the transaction of business at the meetings and preserve order.

8. Rule 35-A of the Rules 1947 provides the procedure of the meetings of the Gaon Sabha, which is extracted here-in-below:-

"35-A. Procedure at the meeting of Gaon Sabha.- Subject to the provision of Section 11 of the Act, the following procedure shall be followed at the meeting of a Gaon Sabha:

(a) The proceedings of the meeting shall be read and confirmed and then signed by the Pradhan.

(b) The accounts of the period elapsed since the last meeting shall be presented for information and consideration.

(c) Other items, if any, shall then be taken up and considered."

9. In view of above, as per the procedure prescribed the meeting of the Gaon Sabha shall be convened by the Pradhan and he will also preside the meeting and control the transaction of business in the meeting. The Pradhan and in his absence the meeting shall be presided over by the Up-Pradhan and in his absence the member nominated by Pradhan or prescribed authority, as the case may be. After meeting the proceedings of the meeting shall be read and confirmed and then signed by the Pradhan. Therefore the proceedings of the meeting are not only to be presided and controlled by the Pradhan but confirmed and signed also by the Pradhan after the meeting.

10. When there is a statutory provision for proceedings of the meeting, a proposal which has not been confirmed and signed by the Pradhan, it cannot be said to be a valid proposal and the proposal made therein would be void. Admittedly the proceedings of the meeting dated 11.10.2017 have not been confirmed and signed by the Pradhan, therefore it cannot be said to be a valid proposal and is void.

11. It is also noticed that the Gram Pradhan of the Village himself had made a written complaint in this regard to the Tahsildar, Lalganj, Pratapgarh with request for permission for re-voting on 11.10.2017 itself and to the Sub-Divisional Officer, Lal Ganj. The Tehsildar had submitted a report on 18.10.2017 annexing the list of 304 persons who were of the view that election is valid and 340 persons who were of the view that election was invalid and were in favour of secret voting.

12. In view of above, the proposal dated 11.10.2017 cannot be said to be a valid proposal, therefore it cannot be acted upon. Hence no direction can be issued for taking decision in pursuance of the said proposal. Even otherwise subsequently another proposal was made, in which the name of respondent no.5 was recommended and he has been appointed. Therefore also no direction can be issued for taking any decision on the aforesaid proposal dated 11.10.2017 which has not been confirmed and signed by the Pradhan and is not in accordance with law. The petition has been filed on misconceived and baseless grounds and it is liable to be dismissed.

13. The writ petition is, accordingly, dismissed. No order as to costs.

List of Cases cited:

M/s G.S. Convent School Vs St. of U.P. & ors., 2019 (11) ADJ 274

1. By the impugned order dated 24.02.2022, the District Magistrate, Meerut has declined to issue no objection certificate as regards land requirements for setting up a degree college. The impugned order finds that the land belongs to the intermediate college being run by the petitioner-committee of management and was transferred to the degree college in the teeth of Section 5 of the U.P. Educational Institutions (Prevention of Dissipation of Assets) Act, 1974 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act', 1974).

2. Brief facts are these. The land belonging to the intermediate college run by the petitioner-committee of management was transferred to the degree college without prior approval for effecting the aforesaid transfer under Section 5 of the Act, 1974.

3. Shri Prabhakar Awasthi, learned counsel assisted by Shri Saurabh Tripathi, learned counsel for the petitioners in his usual fairness submits that the permission under Section 5 of the Act, 1974 has not been obtained. However, he contends that no permission was required since the institution is a degree college and only excess land was transferred by the intermediate college.

4. Per contra, Shri I.P.Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel submits that the provision is mandatory in nature and the land transfer being in the teeth of the said provision is liable to be rendered null and void.

5. The land holdings are most critical assets of educational institutions, and have a direct bearing on the quality of education imparted therein. Today land assets of educational institutions are under constant threat of alienation. The managements often cut corners to break profits and land holdings are the first casualties. Over long years dissipation of land assets of institutions has almost disappeared the playgrounds from various schools and colleges in the State of U.P. [See: M/s G.S. Convent School v. State of U.P. and 3 others reported at 2019 (11) ADJ 274]

6. Depletion of land assets of educational institutions causes decline in overall educational standards. The alienation of land assets belonging to the intermediate college are governed and regulated the U.P. Educational Institutions (Prevention of Dissipation of Assets) Act, 1974. The legislation seeks to check the menace of dissipation of land assets of an educational institution. The said provisions of the Act, 1974 are mandatory in nature and have to be strictly complied with. Transfers of land and property of educational institutions made in transgression of said provisions are void ab initio. Considering the gravity of the problem the legislature may well contemplate more stringent provisions and exemplary penalties to discourage acts of dissipation of assets of educational institutions.

7. Violation of Section 5 of the Act, 1974 is established. The transfer of land of the intermediate college in favour of the degree college is vitiated and void.

8. In this wake, there is no infirmity in the impugned order dated 24.02.2022 passed by the respondent No.3-District Magistrate, Meerut. The relief sought in the writ petition is accordingly declined.

9. At this stage, Shri Prabhakar Awasthi, learned counsel assisted by Shri Saurabh Tripathi, learned counsel for the petitioners contends that the institution has ample land assets to run both the intermediate college as well as degree college. He also submits that the institution shall apply for necessary approval for transfer of the aforesaid land holdings in favour of the proposed degree college. He recasts the relief and prays that the application of the petitioners may be decided within a stipulated period of time.

10. Shri I.P. Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents No.1, 3, 4 and 5 does not have any serious objection to the aforesaid prayer.

11. Shri Avneesh Tripathi, learned counsel for the respondent-No.2-University submits that the institution can be granted recognition only after the all relevant eligibility criteria including the availability of no objection certificate in respect of land assets are made available.

12. In this wake, the matter is remitted to Director of Education, Lucknow to execute the following directions:

1. The petitioner-committee of management shall make a fresh application for seeking approval of transfer of land assets by the intermediate college to the degree college along with all supporting documents which shall include the existing maps of structures in the land holdings and also proposed structures for the degree college.

2. The Director of Education, Lucknow shall cause a physical inspection of the institution to be conducted. The inspection shall also compare existing structures to those cited in the representation.

3. The Director of Education, Lucknow shall decide the representation for transfer the land assets in accordance with law within a period of three months from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order along with a fresh copy of representation.

4. It shall be ensured that separate playgrounds (of the prescribed dimensions) are available in both the institutions even after transfer of land.

With the aforesaid directions, the writ petition is finally disposed of.

List of Cases cited:

Belwal Spinning Mills Ltd. & ors. Vs U.P. St. Electricity Board & anr, 1997 (6) SCC 740.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Sri B.C. Rai along with Sri Deepak Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for petitioner as well as Sri Manoj Kumar Dwivedi, Advocate holding brief of Sri Narendra Kumar Tiwari, learned counsel for respondent Nos. 2 to 5.

2. The petitioner has approached this Court assailing the judgment and order dated 30.07.1999 passed by Special Judge, EC Act, Muzaffarnagar thereby allowing the application under Section 34 of the Arbitration Act filed by the respondents for relegating the dispute to the Arbitrator.

3. The brief conspectus of the facts is that the petitioner and respondent had entered into an agreement dated 15.02.1985 for supply of electricity for a sanctioned load of 470 KVA. The petitioner is a Papermill which has established its unit at Muzaffarnagar for manufacturing paper.

4. The dispute pertains to the bills raised by the respondent-Electricity Department dated 05.06.1985 and 07.06.1985 amounting to Rs. 41527.60/- and Rs 1,07,605.50/-. In the said bills, it was stated that the meter installed in the premises was defective and was not recording the correct supply of the electricity and hence the said bills were raised. The petitioner disputed the said bills and was of the view that in light of Section 26 (vi) of the Electricity Act, 1910 in case the electric meter was defective, the only remedy as per the Act of 1910 is that the matter has to be referred to an Electrical Inspector who is the only authority under the said Act to return a finding as to whether the meter is defective and only thereafter the bills can be raised by the Electrical Inspector. It was submitted that without following the procedure prescribed, the electricity bills could not have been raised.

5. As the grievance of the petitioner was not redressed and being aggrieved by the aforesaid bills, the petitioner filed a civil suit being Civil Suit No. 288 of 1985 before the Special Judge, EC Act, Muzaffarnagar. Notices were issued to the respondents who had put in appearance before the Civil Court and file their written statements opposing the claim made by the petitioner.

6. Apart from objecting the claim of the petitioner, an application under Section 34 of the Arbitration Act was also made for staying of the proceedings in light of the fact that agreement entered into between the petitioner and respondent, there was specific clause pertaining to deciding of the disputes arising out of the agreement by process of arbitration. Clause 20 of the agreement is as follows:-

"(20) If any question or dispute or difference arises between the parties to this agreement as to the interpretation or effect of any provision or clause herein contained or the construction thereof or as to any other matter in any way connected with or arising out of this agreement of the operation thereof or the rights, duties or liabilities of either party in connection therewith, such question dispute or difference shall be referred to the Arbitrator/Chairman, U.P. State Electricity Board or the person nominated by him and the award/decision of the said arbitrator shall be final and binding upon the parties.

Provided that if the question, disputes or difference relates to or concerned any dues chargeable to the consumer in terms of this agreement, no reference to arbitration shall at the instance of such consumer be made till the consumer has either deposited with the Supplier the amount of dues in dispute of difference or given a Bank Guarantee of such amount in favour of the Supplier valid upto the period on on year from the date in whcih the award becomes final or the amount or dues in cleared, whichever is earlier."

7. The petitioners had objected to the prayer made by the respondent for referring the matter to the arbitration and specific plea was taken, there exists a specific provision under Electricity Act, 1910 where the dispute which has arisen in the present case was referable to Section 26 (vi) of Act of 1910 and the same should have been referred to the Electrical Inspector rather than invoking the general power of arbitration under the said agreement.

8. Learned counsel for petitioner in support of his submissions, has placed reliance upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court passed in the case of Belwal Spinning Mills Ltd. and Others Vs. U.P. State Electricity Board and another, 1997 (6) SCC 740, where Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"The expression 'check meter' has no special significance or legal incidence for which there is a bar that check meter cannot be treated as an altered meter if the licensee intends to replace the defective meter by the check meter. It will be open to the Electrical Inspector to ascertain the correctness of the check meter along with the disputed meter when dispute is referred for adjudication by the Electrical Inspector and the licensee found its case with reference to check meter. Prior to the amendment of Section 26(6) of Electricity Act, the Electrical Inspector or the competent person specially appointed by the State Government in this behalf, had a statutory duty to first determine whether the meter in question was defective and thereafter to estimate the quantity of the electricity consumed during such time as the meter in the opinion of the Electrical Inspector or the competent person 'shall not have been correct'. After the amendment of sub-section (6) of Section 26, the Electrical Inspector is the only statutory authority to decide the dispute about the correctness of the meter, if such dispute is raised by either of the parties. If the Electrical Inspector on a reference comes to the finding that the meter has ceased to be correct, the said Inspector has a statutory duty to estimate the amount of energy supplied to the consumer or electrical energy contained in the supply during such time not exceeding six months as the meter shall not, in the opinion of such Inspector, have been correct.'"

9. The question which engages the attention in the present case is as to whether the petitioner should be relegated to the remedy for an arbitration under Clause 20 of the agreement or the matter should be referred to the Electrical Inspector in terms of Section 26 (vi) of the Electricity Act, 1910.

10. To answer the aforesaid question, it is necessary to look into the provisions of the Indian Electricity Act, 1910, Section 26 Sub-Section 6 provides as under:-

"Where any difference or dispute arises as to whether any meter referred to in sub-section (1) is or is not correct, the matter shall be decided, upon the application of either party, by an Electrical Inspector; and where the meter has, in the opinion of such Inspector ceased to be correct, such Inspector shall estimate the amount of the energy supplied to the consumer or the electrical quantity contained in the supply, during such time, not exceeding six months, as the meter shall not, in the opinion of such Inspector, have been correct; but save as aforesaid, register of the meter shall, in the absence of fraud, be conclusive proof of such amount or quantity.

Provided that before either a licensee or a consumer applies to the Electrical Inspector under this sub-section he shall give to the other party not less than seven days' notice of his intention so to do."

11. Apart from the aforesaid statutory provisions, it is also noticed that the agreement entered into between the petitioner and the respondent also provide for resolution of disputes in a situation when the electricity meter has been found to be defective. Clause 10 Sub-Clause (c) of the agreement provides that :-

(c) Should the consumer dispute the accuracy of the supplier's meter/meters, he may, upon giving notice paying the prescribed fee, have the same tested by the Supplier or in accordance with sub section (6) of Section 26 of the Act by the Electrical Inspector to the State Government. In the event of the meter begin tested by the Supplier and found to be incorrect beyond the limit of accuracy prescribed by the Indian Electricity Rules, 1956, the cost of testing and all reasonable expenses incidental thereto shall be met by the Supplier, and the amount of the bill shall be adjusted in accordance with the result of test taken with respect of the meter readings of the 3 months prior to the month in which the dispute has arisen due regard being paid to the conditions of working, accuracy etc., during the month under dispute, and during the month under dispute, and during the us three months, meter/meters is/are found to be correct within the limits laid down in the Indian Electricity Rules, 1956 or any other statutory modification thereof for the time being enforce, the fees paid by the consumer shall be forfeited to the supplier."

12. A perusal of the aforesaid clause would indicate that the agreement itself provide for a condition that in case there is a dispute with regard to electricity meter, then the same can be resolved in terms of Section 26 (vi) of Electricity Act, 1910.

13. Considering the fact that a specific provision would prevail over a general provision, there is no doubt that if a particular dispute which has arisen as in the present case, the matter can adequately be resolved after referring the matter to the Electrical Inspector. A bare perusal of Section 26 (vi) would also indicate that a reference has to be made to the Electrical Inspector who shall give his opinion about the electricity meter and also estimate about the amount of electricity supplied to the consumer.

14. Considering the fact that a specific provision for resolution of dispute is existing and it is not disputed by either of the parties that the matter can be referred and resolved by the Electrical Inspector and it also clearly finds mention in the agreement and hence binds both the parties, this Court is of the clear view that dispute can be resolved in terms of Section 26 (vi).

15. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of Electricity Department does not dispute this proposition.

16. In light of the above, the contention of the petitioner has force and accordingly with the consent of the parties, this writ petition is being disposed of in the following terms:

(i) Considering the fact that the matter should be resolved by the Electrical Inspector in terms of Sub-Section 6 of Section 26 of the Electricity Act, 1910, it is provided that the petitioner undertakes to withdraw the civil suit No. 288 of 1985 pending before the Special Judge, EC Act, Muzaffarnagar. Let an application in this regard be moved expeditiously, say, within a period of next one month.

(ii). Subsequent to moving of the application for withdrawal, the petitioner shall move an application before the concerned Electrical Inspector appointed by the State Government raising all his grievances with regard to defective meter No.1418020 as well as bills dated 05.06.1985 and 7.06.1985 within next one month. On receipt of the representation/claim of the petitioner, the Electrical Inspector shall proceed to determine the condition of the meter as well as amount of the electricity consumed during the said period relating to the aforesaid two bills and pass an order in accordance with law within next three months.

(iii). It is provided that till the order is passed by the Electrical Inspector, no recovery shall be made from the petitioner in pursuance of the bills dated 05.06.1985 and 07.06.1985.

(iv). This protection shall be available only till passing of an appropriate order by the Electrical Inspector as directed by this Court.

17. In light of the aforesaid direction, the writ petition is disposed of.

order – appeal rejected – writ petition – undoubtedly, as recorded in order of Commissioner himself such a request was made by the petitioner in appeal preferred by him - When such a request is made then, it is mandatory upon authorities concerned to exercise powers conferred under Section 7(3)(c) of Rules and inspect property after giving due notice to parties and only then proceed with matter - in case aforesaid exercise has not been conducted valuable right vested in person who is put under notice is lost and valuable right cannot be exercised by him and procedure as prescribed is required to be followed in letter and spirit - and not inspecting property even after application made by petitioner is clearly arbitrary and illegal – hence, matter is remitted back to the Additional District Magistrate who shall proceed in the matter afresh in accordance with law – direction issued - accordingly, writ petition is allowed. 6. Ratna Shankar Dwivedi Vs St. of U.P., AIR 2012 ALL 100,

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Sri R. K. Gupta, learned counsel for the petitioners as well as learned Standing counsel for respondent No.s 1 to 4.

2. The petitioner has challenged the order dated 5.3.2008 passed by Assistant Stamp Commissioner/ Collector, Stamp, Fatehpur as well as the order dated 30.11.2009 passed by Additional Commissioner (Administration), Allahabad Divisions, Allahabad thereby dismissing the appeal preferred by the petitioner under Section 56 (1-A) of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899. He has also challenged the consequential orders wherein recovery citation dated 26.7.2010 has been issued for realization of the deficient stamp duty.

3. It has been submitted on behalf of the petitioner that respondent No.5 had sold a land measuring 0.0405 square meters of gata No.863 through registered sale deed dated 21st February, 2007 and he has further paid the sufficient court fee on consideration which was agreed between the parties as mentioned in the sale deed. Assistant Stamp Commissioner / Collector Stamp Duty issued notice to the petitioner after registering a case on the ground that the petitioner had not paid adequate stamp duty for registration of the said plot and notices were issued as to why the deficit amount be not recovered from the petitioner. The petitioner had responded to the said notice and submitted his reply to the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, Fatehpur.

4. It is further submitted that the petitioner has purchased the agricultural land standing in the name of Phool Singh and proceedings have been initiated on the basis of a false complaint at the behest of one Ram Sajiwan. He further submits that adequate consideration of stamp duty has been paid and, hence, prayed that the notice issued to him may be discharged. Additional District Magistrate (Finance and Revenue) considered the response of the petitioner rejected his defence and upheld the fact that the petitioner had not paid adequate consideration of stamp duty. He took into account the fact that according to the sale deed the agricultural plot was purchased but on the spot two storied house was existing the valuation of which was not included in the sale deed and accordingly there was deficiency in the stamp duty paid by the petitioner.

5. The petitioner being aggrieved by the order dated 5.3.2008 passed by Additional District Magistrate (F & R), Fatehpur preferred an appeal before the Commissioner, Allahabad under Section 56(2) of the Stamp Act. The Commissioner also did not find any merit in the plea taken by the petitioner and affirmed the order of Additional District Magistrate (F & R), Fatehpur by dismissing the appeal by means of order dated 30.11.2009.

6. Assailing both the orders of the authorities learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that both the authorities concerned have not followed the procedure established under Section 47-A of U.P. Stamp Act as well as Uttar Pradesh Stamp (Valuation of Properties), Rules, 1997 (hereinafter referred to as the Rules of 1997). He submits that entire proceedings were initiated only on the basis of a complaint made by one Ram Sajiwan and without ascertaining any of the facts the respondents have proceeded on the ground that a two story house was existing on the plot purchased by the petitioner and consequently there was deficiency in the court fee. He has further submitted that the petitioner had requested the respondents to inspect the property after due notice to the parties in exercise of the powers under Section 7(2) (c) of the Rules of 1997 but no such inspection was conducted and the respondents proceeded to reject the contention of the petitioner and upheld the deficiency in stamp fee in the said instrument sought to be registered by the petitioner. In support of his submissions, learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that he had taken specific plea before the Commissioner in his appeal where this aspect of the matter has been duly recorded by him that the petitioner has sought an independent inquiry /inspection of the said plot and only then the appellate authority should proceed in the matter. Without considering the pleas raised by the petitioner the Commissioner proceeded to uphold the order of Additional District Magistrate (F & R), Fatehpur and misconducted himself and has proceeded contrary to the procedure prescribed under the Rules of 1997.

7. Learned Standing counsel, on the other hand, has opposed the writ petition. He submits that there is no infirmity in the orders passed by the authorities concerned. He has further submitted that there is no dispute with regard to the fact that a two story building was existing on the plot purchased by the petitioner which was not disclosed in the sale deed and consequently when the same was noticed by the authorities concerned the petitioner was put under notice and proceedings were initiated and concluded strictly in accordance with the provisions under Section 48 (A) of the Stamps Act and, hence, supported the order passed by the respondents.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner while assailing the assessment order as well as the appellate order passed under Section 47 A of the Stamp Act and has submitted that no inspection was ever made at the property and that in case the inspection would have been made in presence of the petitioner he would have been in a position to demonstrate that there was no building existing on the plot purchased by him and in this regard he submits that the respondents have proceeded in violation of the procedure prescribed under the Rules of 1997. Rule 7 (C) of the Rules of 1997 provides the procedure on receipt of a reference or when suo motu action is proposed under Section 47-A of the Stamp Act. The Rule 7(2) (c) provides that the Collector may inspect the property after due notice to parties to the instrument.

9. The object of the Act is to collect proper stamp duty on an instrument or conveyance. An obligation is cast on the authorities to properly ascertain its true value. The market value of a property may vary from village to village, from location to location and even may differ from the sizes of land area and other relevant factors viz. predominant land-use. Entry in revenue record though relevant is not the sole determining factor of the market value under the Act. This apart there has to be some material before the authority as to what is the likely value of such property in that area. Such 'reason to believe' must be based on tangible, relevant and legally admissible evidence. There must be an intelligible nexus between the 'reason' and the 'belief'. Such belief should not be substitute for roving enquiries or the authorities 'reason to suspect'.

10. In the light of the above objections raised by the petitioner it was necessary for the Collector to exercise the powers under Rule 7 (3) (c) of the Rules of 1997 and conducted spot inspection in presence of the petitioner and there upon proceeded under Section 47 A to assess the valuation of the land.

11. This Court in WRIT - C No. - 47533 of 2010 (Wasi Ur Rehman And Another Vs. Commissioner Moradabad Division And Others) decided on 26.2.2015 has held as under:-

"The Indian Stamp Act, 1899 is a law relating to revenue/stamps. Its applicability thus stands restricted to the scheme of the Act. The Stamp Act is a fiscal measure enacted with an object to secure revenue for the State on certain classes of instrument.

It is not enacted to arm a litigant with a weapon of technicality to defect the case of the Revenue. The stringent provisions of the Act are conceived in the interest of the Revenue.

It is a matter of common knowledge that in order to escape such duty by unfair practice, many a time under valuation of a property or lower consideration is mentioned in a sale deed. (Chiranji Lal (Dr.) v. Hari Das (2005) 10 SCC 746; Ramesh Chand Bansal versus District Magistrate/Collector, 4(1999) 5 SCC 62). A Stamp Act is a taxing statute and as regards a taxing statute, it is well settled that equity has no place in it. There is no presumption as to a tax, nothing is to be read in, nothing is to be implied, (Agra City Real State Development Organisation, Agra versus State of U.P & others) 2003 (2) SAC 361.

Market value has not been defined under the Act, in proceedings under section 47-A (3) refers "to instrument on which duty is chargeable on the market value of the property", Article 23 provides for stamp duty payable on conveyance which refers to market value of immovable property which is subject of such conveyance.

Market value as referred to in the expression conveyance is the price which a willing purchaser would pay to a willing seller for the property. The court in Vijay Kumar and another Versus Commissioner, 2008(3) AWC 299 All, explained the expression "market value":

"The 'market value' means what a willing purchaser would pay to a willing seller for the property having regard to the advantages available to the land and the development activities which may be going in the vicinity and potentiality of the land."

Again in Ratna Shankar Dwivedi versus State of U.P., AIR 2012 ALL 100 the Court held that:

"The term "market value" has not been defined under the Act. However there are some precedents laying down certain guidelines as to how and in what manner a market value would be determined. The consensus opinion is that the market value of any property is the price which the property would fetch or would have fetched if sold in the open market."

The sine qua non for invoking provisions of Section 47-A (3) of the Act is that the Collector had reason to believe, that the value had not been properly set forth in the instrument as per market value of the property. Once the instrument is registered and the stamp duty as prescribed by the Collector was paid, the burden to prove that the market value was more than the minimum prescribed by the Collector under the rules, was upon the Collector. The report of the sub-Registrar or Tehsildar was not sufficient to discharge that burden. (Vijay Kumar Vs. Commissioner, Meerut Division) AIR 2008 All 176.

The expression "reason to believe" is not synonymous with subjective satisfaction of the officer. The belief must be held in good faith, it cannot be merely a pretence. It is open to the court to examine the question whether the reasons for the belief have a rational connection or a relevant bearing to the formation of the belief and are not irrelevant or extraneous to the purpose of the section. "

12. In the instant case, the Collector has relied solely upon the spot inspection report while the petitioner, on the other hand, had questioned the said report and filed objection but the objections raised by the petitioner were not even dealt with by the Collector and he proceeded to ascertain the valuation of the land solely on the basis of the spot inspection report which was duly challenged by the petitioner. While assessing the stamp valuation of the land it was open in the present set of circumstances for the Collector to have exercised the powers so vested in him under Rule 7 sub clause 3 (c) of the Rules of 1997 and get the land inspected as requested by the petitioner in his application.

13. It is noticed that according to Rule 7 when reference is received by the Collector after issuance of notice to the parties be directing them to show cause as to why the stamp fee of the property cited in the instrument be not realized in exercise of the powers conferred in sub clause 3 of Rule 7 (3) and inspect the property after due notice to the parties to the instrument. Undoubtedly, as recorded in the order of the Commissioner himself such a request was made by the petitioner in the appeal preferred by him. When such a request is made then it is mandatory upon the authorities concerned to exercise the powers conferred under Section 7 (3) (c) of the Rules of 1997 and inspect the property after giving due notice to the parties and only then proceed with the matter. In case aforesaid exercise has not been conducted valuable right vested in the person who is put under notice is lost and valuable right cannot be exercised by him and the procedure as prescribed is required to be followed in letter and spirit and not inspecting the property even after the application made by the petitioner is clearly arbitrary and illegal and proceeding with the matter without exercising the power conferred under Section 7 (3) (C) the respondents have clearly proceeded in illegal and arbitrary manner while holding that the petitioner was liable to pay stamp duty even for the double story house which was standing on the said plot.

14. Without even entering into the merits of the other aspects as raised by the petitioner, this Court is of the considered opinion that the impugned orders are illegal and arbitrary having been passed without following the provisions prescribed under the Rules of 1997 and accordingly the orders dated 5.3.2008 passed by respondent No.2 in case No.12 of 2007-08, under Section 47-A/33 of Stamp Act and the order dated 30.11.2009 passed by respondent No.3 in Appeal No.7/21 of 2008 under Section 56 (1-A) of Indian Stamp Act as well as recovery citation dated 26.7.2010 are set aside.

15. The matter is remitted back to Additional District Magistrate (F & R), Fatehpur, who shall proceed afresh in the matter after inspecting the property as provided under Rule 7 of the Rules of 1997 in accordance with law. He is directed to conclude the proceedings expeditiously after giving due opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned. Let such an exercise be concluded within a period of two months from the date a certified copy of this order is placed before him.

16. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that in pursuance of earlier direction of this Court the 1/3rd deficient amount of the stamp duty has already been deposited by him before Tahsildar, Fatehpur. It is, therefore, provided that the the said deposited amount shall be adjusted in the order to be passed by Additional District Magistrate (F & R), Fatehpur in pursuance of the directions of this Court.

17. The writ petition is allowed.

Civil Laws – Constitution of India, 1950 - Article – 226, 227 – Public Premises Eviction of Unauthorized Occupants Act, 1971 - Sections 9 & 83(9) - Application to issue appropriate direction permitting the petitioner to get the premises vacated from the respondents who have attained age of superannuation and no longer associated with petitioner – by placing reliance upon a judgment of the Apex Court in case of '*LIC vs Nandini J. 1. Heard Sri Ashish Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Rahul Jain, learned counsel for the respondent nos.1 to 8 and learned Standing Counsel for the respondent no.9.

2. The instant application has been filed with a prayer to issue appropriate direction permitting the petitioner to get the premises vacated from such private-respondents and other contract persons, who have attained age of superannuation and are no longer associated with the petitioner in any manner whatsoever.

3. Sri Rahul Jain, learned counsel for the respondents, has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in Life Insurance Corporation of India v. Nandini J. Shah reported in (2018) 15 SCC 356 and submits that against the order passed by the appellate court exercising appellate jurisdiction under the Public Premises (Eviction of Unauthorised Occupants) Act, 1971, the writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is not maintainable and the party aggrieved may avail the remedy of filing petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India. He further contends that miscellaneous application filed in the writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is also not maintainable.

4. Sri Ashish Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that at this stage he is pressing only his application dated 24.12.2021 and insofar as the maintainability of the writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is concerned, the same is also maintainable as held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of "Kiran Devi Vs. Bihar State Suni Wakf Board and others (2021 SCC Online SC 280).

5. Sri Rahul Jain, placing reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Life Insurance Corporation of India (supra), referred to paragraph nos.48, 49 & 50 of the same which are reproduced hereinbelow:-

"48. Even though the respondents have invited our attention to other decisions of High Courts and also of Supreme Court which have analysed the provisions of other legislations, it is unnecessary to dilate on those decisions as we intend to apply the principles underlying the decisions of three-Judge Bench of this Court in Thakur Das (supra), Asnew Drums Pvt. Ltd. (supra), Maharashtra State Financial Corporation (supra), Ram Chander Aggarwal (supra) and Mukri Gopalan (supra), in particular, to conclude that the Appellate Officer referred to in Section 9 of the 1971 Act, is not a persona designata but acts as a civil court.

49. In other words, the Appellate Officer while exercising power under Section 9 of the 1971 Act, does not act as a persona designata but in his capacity as a pre existing judicial authority in the district (being a District Judge or judicial officer possessing essential qualification designated by the District Judge). Being part of the district judiciary, the judge acts as a Court and the order passed by him will be an order of the Subordinate Court against which remedy under Article 227 of the Constitution of India can be availed on the matters delineated for exercise of such jurisdiction.

50. Reverting to the facts of the present case, the respondents had resorted to remedy of writ petition under Article 226 and 227 of the Constitution of India. In view of our conclusion that the order passed by the District Judge (in this case, Judge, Bombay City Civil Court at Mumbai) as an Appellate Officer is an order of the Subordinate Court, the challenge thereto must ordinarily proceed only under Article 227 of the Constitution of India and not under Article 226.

Moreover, on a close scrutiny of the decision of the learned Single Judge of the Bombay High Court dated 14.08.2012 we have no hesitation in taking the view that the true nature and substance of the order of the learned Single Judge was to exercise power under Article 227 of the Constitution of India; and there is no indication of Court having exercised powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India as such. Indeed, the learned Single Judge has opened the judgment by fairly noting the fact that the writ petition filed by the respondents was under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution of India. However, keeping in mind the exposition of this Court in the case of Ram Kishan Fauji (supra) wherein it has been explicated that in determining whether an order of learned Single Judge is in exercise of powers under Article 226 or 227 the vital factor is the nature of jurisdiction invoked by a party and the true nature and character of the order passed and the directions issued by the learned Single Judge. In paragraph 40 of the reported decision, the Court adverted to its earlier decision observed thus:

40. xxx xxx xxx Whether the learned Single Judge has exercised the jurisdiction Under Article 226 or Under Article 227 or both, would depend upon various aspects.

There can be orders passed by the learned Single Judge which can be construed as an order under both the articles in a composite manner, for they can co-exist, coincide and imbricate. It was reiterated that it would depend upon the nature, contour and character of the order and it will be the obligation of the Division Bench hearing the letters patent appeal to discern and decide whether the order has been passed by the learned Single Judge in exercise of jurisdiction Under Article 226 or 227 of the Constitution or both. The two-Judge Bench further clarified that the Division Bench would also be required to scrutinise whether the facts of the case justify the assertions made in the petition to invoke the jurisdiction under both the articles and the relief prayed on that foundation. The delineation with regard to necessary party not being relevant in the present case, the said aspect need not be adverted to. Again in paragraphs 41 and 42, which may be useful for answering the matter in issue, the Court observed thus:

41. We have referred to these decisions only to highlight that it is beyond any shadow of doubt that the order of civil court can only be challenged Under Article 227 of the Constitution and from such challenge, no intra-court appeal would lie and in other cases, it will depend upon the other factors as have been enumerated therein.

42. At this stage, it is extremely necessary to cull out the conclusions which are deducible from the aforesaid pronouncements. They are:

42.1 An appeal shall lie from the judgment of a Single Judge to a Division Bench of the High Court if it is so permitted within the ambit and sweep of the Letters Patent.

42.2 The power conferred on the High Court by the Letters Patent can be abolished or curtailed by the competent legislature by bringing appropriate legislation. 42.3 A writ petition which assails the order of a civil court in the High Court has to be understood, in all circumstances, to be a challenge Under Article 227 of the Constitution and determination by the High Court under the said Article and, hence, no intra-court appeal is entertainable. 42.4 The tenability of intra-court appeal will depend upon the Bench adjudicating the lis as to how it understands and appreciates the order passed by the learned Single Judge. There cannot be a straitjacket formula for the same. (emphasis supplied)”

6. Sri Rahul Jain has further placed reliance upon the judgment of Jharkhand High Court in “M/s Hindustan Auto Agency Vs. Steel Authority of India Ltd. (2021) 4 JBCJ 653” in which the aforesaid decision of Life Insurance Corporation of India has been relied.

7. He, therefore, submits that the matter can only be heard under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, and therefore, the present writ petition is not maintainable as the same was filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

8. Per contra, Sri Ashish Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner, while placing reliance upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Kiran Devi (supra), has referred to paragraph nos.20, 21 & 22 thereof, which are reproduced as under:-

“20. Therefore, when a petition is filed against an order of the Wakf Tribunal before the High Court, the High Court exercises the jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution of India. Therefore, it is wholly immaterial that the petition was titled as a writ petition. It may be noticed that in certain High Courts, petition under Article 227 is titled as writ petition, in certain other High Courts as revision petition and in certain others as a miscellaneous petition. However, keeping in view the nature of the order passed, more particularly in the light of proviso to sub-section (9) of Section 83 of the Act, the High Court exercised jurisdiction only under the Act. The jurisdiction of the High Court is restricted to only examine the correctness, legality or propriety of the findings recorded by the Wakf Tribunal. The High Court in exercise of the jurisdiction conferred under proviso to sub-section (9) of Section 83 of the Act does not act as the appellate court.

21. We find merit in the argument raised by Mr. Sanyal that the nomenclature of the title of the petition filed before the High Court is immaterial. In Municipal Corporation of the City of Ahmedabad Vs. Ben Hiraben Manilal, this Court held that wrong reference to the power under which an action was taken by the Government would not per se vitiate the action, if the same could be justified under some other power whereby the Government could lawfully do that act. The Court held as under:

*“5. It is well settled that the exercise of a power, if there is indeed a power, will be referable to a jurisdiction, when the validity of the exercise of that power is in issue, which confers validity upon it and not to a jurisdiction under which it would be nugatory, though the section was not referred, and a different or a wrong section of different provisions was mentioned. See in this connection the observations in Pitamber Vajirshet Vs. Dhondu Navlapa [ILR (1888) 12 Bom 486, 489]. See in this connection also the observations of this Court in the case of L. Hazari Mal Kuthiala Vs. ITO, Special Circle, Ambala Cantt [AIR 1961 SC 200 : (1961) 1 SCR 892 : (1961) 41 ITR 12, 16 :*

(1961) 1 SCJ 617] This point has again been reiterated by this Court in the case of Hukumchand Mills Ltd. Vs. State of M.P. [AIR 1964 SC 1329 : (1964) 6 SCR 857 : (1964) 52 ITR 583 : (1964) 1 SCJ 561] where it was observed that it was well settled that a wrong reference to the power under which action was taken by the Government would not per se vitiate that action if it could be justified under some other power under which Government could lawfully do that act. See also the observations of the Supreme Court in the case of Nani Gopal Biswas Vs. Municipality of Howrah [AIR 1958 SC 141 : 1958 SCR 774, 779 : 1958 SCJ 297 : 1958 Cri LJ 271].”

22. Later, in Pepsi Foods Ltd., this Court held that nomenclature under which the petition is filed is not quite relevant and it does not debar the Court from exercising its jurisdiction which otherwise it possesses. If the Court finds that the appellants could not 16 (1983) 2 SCC 422 invoke its jurisdiction under Article 226, the Court can certainly treat the petition as one under Article 227 or Section 482 of the Code. This Court held as under:

“26. Nomenclature under which petition is filed is not quite relevant and that does not debar the court from exercising its jurisdiction which otherwise it possesses unless there is special procedure prescribed which procedure is mandatory. If in a case like the present one the court finds that the appellants could not invoke its jurisdiction under Article 226, the court can certainly treat the petition as one under Article 227 or Section 482 of the Code. It may not however, be lost sight of that provisions exist in the Code of revision and appeal but some time for immediate relief Section 482 of the Code or Article 227 may have to be resorted to for correcting some grave errors that might be committed by the subordinate courts. The present petition though filed in the High Court as one under Articles 226 and 227 could well be treated under Article 227 of the Constitution.”

9. Learned counsel for the petitioner, therefore, submits that nomenclature of a petition, which is either under Article 226 or under Article 227, is immaterial and it is the nature of order under challenge that would govern the proceedings and would not debar the Court exercising its jurisdiction, either under Article 226 or under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

10. Sri Ashish Mishra further submits that irrespective of nomenclature of the petition, the contents of the application dated 24.12.2021 and the prayer made therein can very well be examined by this Court leaving the question of maintainability of the writ petition to be considered at any subsequent stage.

11. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

12. The present writ petition has been filed with the prayer to call for the records pertaining to the impugned order dated 24.08.2017 passed by the First Additional District Judge, Gautam Budh Nagar in Misc. Civil Appeal No.54 of 2016. Further prayer is to quash the impugned order dated 24.08.2017. The court of First Additional District Judge, Gautam Budh Nagar, vide impugned order dated 24.08.2017, while allowing the appeal filed by the private respondents (herein) remanded the matter to the Estate Officer for holding fresh proceedings.

13. This Court, at this stage, is examining the application dated 24.12.2021 and finds that the grievance of the petitioner is to the effect that irrespective of the services/engagements of the private respondents, those occupants who have attained age of superannuation i.e. 60 years, should be directed to vacate the official accommodations. It has been pleaded in paragraph 9 of the application that respondent no.3 (Akbar) and respondent no.6 (Ranvir Singh) have attained age of superannuation, and therefore, they may be directed to vacate the premises for the reason that dwelling units in the petitioner establishment are limited in numbers and several regular employees of the petitioner establishment are seeking accommodation in the premises, however, due to the continuous occupation of the premises by the respondents, the same are not being vacated, causing great and irreparable prejudice to other employees of the petitioner establishment.

14. Though, by order dated 14.3.2023, this Court granted time to the learned counsel for the respondents to file counter affidavit to the application dated 24.12.2021, no counter affidavit has been filed, and therefore, the facts mentioned in the affidavit supporting application no.14 of 2021 remain unrebutted, at least insofar as superannuation of certain persons is concerned.

15. The submission of Sri Rahul Jain to the effect that since the writ petition is not maintainable, the present application can also not be considered has been examined by this Court and I find that whether the order impugned in the writ petition which has been passed in exercise of powers under Public Premises (Eviction of Unauthorized Occupants) Act, 1971 can be interfered with in exercise of powers under Article 226 or 227 of the Constitution of India, is a matter to be examined by the Court while finally hearing the present writ petition on merits or on the question of maintainability as well.

16. Insofar as Application No.14 of 2021 is concerned, its adjudication is not dependent upon the nomenclature of the petition, that is to say that whether the present writ petition which has been filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India needs to be converted into a petition under Article 227 or whether the Court hearing the present writ petition as it is, can exercise powers under Article 227, is not significant at this stage.

17. The Court is considering the fact as to whether the respondents, who claim to be employees of the petitioner establishment which fact has been seriously disputed by the petitioner in the light of the averments relating to nature of engagement of the respondents, have any right to remain in occupation of the official accommodations even after attaining age of superannuation.

18. Sri Rahul Jain does not dispute the fact that some of the respondents have attained age of superannuation. Further, he submits that reason for not vacating the official accommodations is that the petitioner establishment has not cleared off the financial dues admissible to the said respondents, which include their post retiral benefits.

19. Learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Ashish Mishra submits that question of payment of any remuneration/ sums/ arrears/post retiral dues, if any, would

21. The High Court, in whatever jurisdiction it sits, always functions on the basic principles of equity, fairness and reasonableness, and therefore, the stand of the petitioner- Bharat Heavy Electricals Limited to the effect that scarcity of official accommodations is causing grave problems for the establishment as well as their regular employees on account of non vacation of the premises by the retired respondents, needs consideration and cannot be ignored merely on the ground that the writ petition finally has to be heard either under Article 226 or under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

Motor accident claim - Accident occurred on 14.05.1985. Deceased was a 25-year-old labourer (rajmistri) earning Rs. 1050/- per month. He was survived by his father, widow, and two minor children — a son and a daughter. Held: The father, brother, and sister cannot be granted non-pecuniary damages when the wife, falling under Class-1 heirs, is the recipient of the benefits. Income of the deceased was considered to be Rs. 750/- per month. As the deceased was 35 years old, 40% was added towards future loss of income, 1/3rd was deducted for personal expenses, and a multiplier of 18 was applied considering the age of the deceased. Additionally, Rs. 50,000/- was granted for non-pecuniary damages. Insurance company was held liable to pay interest from the date of filing of the claim petition, irrespective of when it was joined as a party respondent. Interest was awarded at 7% per annum from the filing of the claim petition until the judgment of the tribunal, and thereafter at 6% per annum on the awarded amount. (Para 9, 10)

3. Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Comp. Pvt. Ltd. Vs U.O.I. & ors., vide order dated 27.1.2022

Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. Heard Sri Madhav Jain, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Subhash Chandra Srivastava, learned counsel for the Insurance Company.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the claimants, challenges the judgment and order dated 29.04.1997 passed by

M.A.C.T/XVth-Additional District Judge, Agra (hereinafter referred to as "Tribunal") in M.A.C.P. No. 185 of 1987 awarding a sum of Rs. 98,000/- as compensation with interest at the rate of 10%.

3. The deceased is survived by his father, wife, son and daughter. Deceased being 25 years of age is not in dispute. He was a labourer doing labour work is not in dispute. The accident is not in dispute. The issue of negligence decided by the Tribunal is not in dispute. The respondent-Insurance Company has not challenged the liability imposed on them. The only issue to be decided is, the quantum of compensation awarded.

4. Brief facts as culled out from the record are that on 14.05.1985 at about 6:30 hrs, deceased Mohar Singh was going Agra from his by-cycle and when he reached near village Digner a bus bearing no. U.S.Y-9555 driven by its driver rashly and negligently dashed into the by-cycle of the Mohar Singh and as a result of which Mohar Singh died on the spot.

5. The accident occurred on 14.05.1985. The deceased was 25 year old labour (rajmistri) and was earning Rs. 1050/- p.m. He was survived by his father, widow and two minor children a son and a daughter. The tribunal has considered his income to be Rs.750/-, granted multiplier of 16 and Rs. 2000/- to his widow under non pecuniary damages and ultimately assessed the total compensation to be Rs. 98,000/- with 10% interest from 22.02.1993 till payment was made.

6. It is contended by Sri Madhav Jain, learned counsel for the appellant that income should be considered at Rs. 1000/- plus 40% to be added under future loss of income even under the old act under the judgment of Gobald Motor Services Ltd. and another v. R.M.K. Velusamy, 1962 SCR (1) 929 the should be added for future loss of income and 1/3rd may to be deducted for personal expenses and the multiplier of 18 would be admissible, Rs. 70,000/- may be given under non pecuniary damages.

7. As against this, Sri Subhash Chandra Srivastava, learned counsel for the Insurance Company vehemently submits that in absence of any evidence on record the income considered by the tribunal is just and proper, however, he could not point that addition of future loss of income which has not been given is just and proper, multiplier granted is just and proper.

8. While considering the facts and circumstances of the case, this Court accepts the the submission of Sri Subhash Chandra Srivastava, learned counsel for the Insurance Company that father, brother and sister cannot be granted non pecuniary damages when the wife is falling under class-1 and is the recipient of the benefits. This Court feels that income of the deceased can be considered to be Rs. 750/- p.m to which as he was 35 years of age and as to the thumb rule and in view of the decisions in Gobald Motor Services (supra) and Susamma Thomas (supra) 40% should be added towards future loss of income, 1/3rd will have to be deducted and multiplier of 18 looking to the age of the deceased will have to be granted and Rs. 50,000/-for non pecuniary damages will have to be granted.

9. Hence, the total compensation payable to the appellants is computed herein below:

i. Income: Rs. 750/- per month

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 40% namely Rs.300/-

iii. Total income : Rs.750 + 300= Rs.1050/-

iv. Income after deduction of 1/3rd towards personal expenses : Rs.700/-

v. Annual loss: Rs. 700 x 12 = Rs. 8400

vi. Multiplier applicable : 18

vii. Loss of dependency: Rs.84,00 x 18 = Rs.1,51,200/- viii. Amount under non pecuniary heads : Rs. 50,000/-

ix. Total compensation : Rs.2,01,200/-

10. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, the tribunal has considered the grant of interest only after the insurance company was impleaded as a party respondent. The liability to pay compensation arises when the claim petition is filed. The question of interest even under the old act would be to pay compensation from the date claim petition is filed. The said decision of the tribunal requires reconsideration and the principles for grant of interest will have to be look into. The accident took place in the year 1987, the insurance company would be liable to pay interest not from 1993 but from the date of filing of the claim petition. Hence, the interest is to be from the date claim petition is filed irrespective of the joining of the insurance company as a party respondent. This takes this Court to the percentage of interest granted by the tribunal and objected by the insurance company. Thus rate of interest could not have been 10% in the year 1987, even the rates in the year of accident and when the matter was decided in the year 1997 were not more than 9% is the submission of the learned counsel for the insurance company who has orally objected for slashing the interest as the matter has remain pending before this Court also for no fault of the insurance company.. The oral objection under Order 43 Rule 1 C.P.C of Sri Subhash Chandra Srivastava is accepted. The interest is to be paid from the date of filing of claim petition which is the law and it cannot be from the date the insurance company was impleaded, however, due to passage of long time the said order is disturbed for awarded amount the interest at 7% from filing of the claim petition till the judgment of tribunal and thereafter it would be at 6% on the awarded amount.

11. No other grounds are urged orally when the matter was heard.

12. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Total compensation of Rs. 2,01,200/- is allowed with interest at 7% from the date of filing of the claim petition till judgment and award of the tribunal and 6% thereafter till amount is deposited. Award and decree passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The amount be deposited by the respondent-Insurance Company within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest as directed above. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

13. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma Vs. Venugopal, Reported in 2012 (1) GLH (SC), 442, the order of investment is not passed because applicants /claimants are neither illiterate or rustic villagers.

14. Fresh Award be drawn accordingly in the above petition by the tribunal as per the modification made herein. The Tribunals in the State shall follow the direction of this Court as herein aforementioned as far as disbursement is concerned, it should look into the condition of the litigant and the pendency of the matter and judgment of A.V. Padma (supra). The same is to be applied looking to the facts of each case.

15. The Tribunal shall follow the guidelines issued by the Apex Court in Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Private Ltd. v. Union of India and others vide order dated 27.1.2022, as the purpose of keeping compensation is to safeguard the interest of the claimants. As long period has elapsed, the amount be deposited in the Saving Account of claimants in Nationalized Bank without F.D.R.

16. Record be sent back to tribunal forthwith.

17. This Court is thankful to both the learned Advocates for ably assisting this Court.

CIVIL SIDE

THE HON'BLE AJAY BHANOT, J.

First Appeal From Order No. 944 of 2018

Smt. Meena & Ors.

...Appellants

Versus

U.O.I. & Anr.

...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellants:

Sri Sanjay Kr. Srivastava, Sri Ajay Kr. Srivastava

Counsel for the Respondents:

Sri Arvind Kumar Goswami

A. Motor Accident Claim - Deceased Age - Appellants asserted that the age of the deceased was 19 years at the time of the accident. Original copy of the school leaving certificate of the deceased was produced. PW-1 testified that the age of the deceased was 19 years, which could not be shaken during the cross-examination. School leaving certificate was not impeached by the respondents. Trial Court, however, relied on newspaper cuttings, the F.I.R., and the post-mortem report and recorded that the age of the deceased was 16 years. Held: Newspaper reports could not be considered admissible evidence in the facts of the case. The entry in the column of the post-mortem report is not conclusive proof of the age of the deceased. Finding of the Trial Court on the age of the deceased was perverse and liable to be set aside. Age of the deceased was held to be 19 years. (Para 9, 10, 11, 12)

B. Motor Accident Claim - Deceased Income - Deceased worked as an employee in an aluminum workshop. Reliable guides to determine income in such cases are the minimum wages notified by the appropriate government from time to time. A worker in an aluminum workshop possesses various skills, often acquired on the job. Workmen in this category may not have formal qualifications, but their technical skills cannot be doubted. It is due to these skills that they render useful work and are retained in establishments. The Court held that the deceased was a skilled workman whose job was of a perennial nature, and he was drawing regular monthly wages. The monthly wages of the deceased were fixed at Rs. 5,000/-. (Para 21, 22, 23)

Allowed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. Heard Shri Santosh Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the appellants-claimants, Shri Arvind Kumar Goswami, learned counsel representing Union of India.

2. This appeal arises out of the judgment and order dated 25.11.2017 passed by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, Court No.10, Meerut (hereinafter referred to as "Tribunal") in Motor Accident Claim Case No.293 of 2014 awarding a sum of Rs.1,42,000/- as compensation with interest @ 7% annual interest.

3. The learned Tribunal partly allow the claim of the appellants-claimants for the death of one Akib (deceased). The claimants are the legal heirs and dependent of the deceased - Akib, who died in an accident which occurred on 26.2.2014.

4. Shri Santosh Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the claimants-appellants contends that the amount awarded by the learned Tribunal is liable to be enhanced. Learned Tribunal recorded the perverse findings as regards the income of the deceased.

5. Shri Arvind Kumar Goswami, learned Central Government Counsel submits that income was correctly determined by the learned tribunal on notional basis since the appellants-claimants failed to prove the income of the deceased.

6. The respondents-Union of India have not challenged the fact of the accident or the liability of the driver. They are only resisting the enhancement in the compensation awarded to the claimants-appellants.

I. Compensation awarded by the learned tribunal:

7. The compensation awarded by the learned tribunal in the impugned judgment dated 25.11.2017 is depicted in a tabulated form hereunder:

Sr. No.	Heads	Amount (in rupees)
1	Monthly Income (A)	1,250/-
2	Annual Income (A x 12 = B)	1,250/- x 12 = 15,000/-
3	Future prospects (C)	50% of 15,000/- = 7,500/-
4	Annual Income + Future Prospects (B + C = D)	15,000+7,500/- =22,500/-
5	Deduction towards Personal Expenses (E)	1/3 of 22,500/- =7,500/-
	Annual Loss of Dependency (F)	7,500/-
6	Multiplier (G)	16
7	Total loss of dependency (F x G = H)	7,500 x 16 =1,20,000/-
8	Conventional Heads: (I) (a) Loss of Love and affection (b) Loss of Mental Pain (c) Funeral	(a) 10,000 + (b) 10,000 + (c) 2,000/- =22,000/-
9	Total compensation (H + I = J)	1,42,000/-
10	Interest	7.00%

8. The issue which arises for consideration in this appeal is that :-

(A) Whether the learned Tribunal had correctly determined the age of the deceased in the record?

(B) Whether the learned Tribunal had correctly determined the income of the deceased or not?

(C) Compensation to which the claimants are entitled.

8(A). Determination of age :-

9. The accident took place on 26.2.2014. The claimants-appellants have asserted in the claim petition that the age of the deceased was 19 years at the time of accident. The original copy of the school leaving certificate of the deceased was produced before the learned Tribunal and marked as paper no. 21C/12. PW-1 - Abid Ali in his testimony before the trial Court had testified that the age of the deceased was 19 years. His statement was consistent with the pleadings in the claim petition as well as in the evidence and in the record. His testimony could not be shaken during the cross-examination. The school leaving certificate was not impeached by the respondents before the learned tribunal. This Court has also examined the school leaving certificate and upon its perusal it appears to be a printed document.

10. The learned Trial Court while finding that the age of the victim of deceased was 16 years as relied on newspaper cuttings, F.I.R. and the post-mortem report. The aforesaid documents do not state the correct age of the deceased. The newspaper reports could not be considered as admissible evidence in the facts of the case. The entry in column of the post-mortem is not conclusive proof of the age of the deceased.

11. The evidence in regard to the age produced by the claimants-appellants is credible and the Court below erred by returning findings to it.

12. This Court finds that the finding of the Court below on the judgment of the age of the victim of deceased is perverse and liable to be set aside. The age of the deceased was 19 years.

8(B). Income of the deceased :-

13. The consistent claim of the claimants-appellants was that the deceased was working as an employee in an aluminum work shop. P.W.1-Abid Ali (father of the deceased) had testified before the Court below that the deceased was working under an aluminum contractor in his establishment. He was drawing a salary of about Rs.9000/- per month.

14. PW-3 - Mehboob, who was the employer of the deceased, also deposed before the learned tribunal that the deceased was an employee in his establishment who was drawing a salary of Rs.8,000/-to Rs.9,000/- per month. Under cross-examination, P.W.3-Mehboob admitted that he did not maintain the workers' register in his establishment.

15. The learned tribunal disbelieved the testimony of PW-1 and PW-3, as regards, the income and employment of the deceased on the footing that PW-3 had admitted that he was not maintaining the register of regular employees in his establishment. The certificate issued by the employee of the deceased contains a recital that the deceased earned Rs.8,000/- to R.9,000/- per month. The said certificate was discarded by the learned tribunal on the footing that the employee had admitted in his cross-examination that he did not maintain a regular register of workman in his establishment.

16. I am afraid the learned tribunal was misdirected in facts and law. The applicant was working in the informal sector of the economy. The aforesaid sector is largely undocumented. It is the common knowledge that in such small establishment employers often do not maintain regular registers of their employees.

17. The testimonies of P.W.1 and P.W.3, the pleadings and the evidences establish that the deceased was working as a casual workman in the aluminum workshop.

18. The P.W.1 and P.W.3 in their testimonies remained firmed as regards the employment of the deceased as a casual worker in the aluminum factory of the P.W.3. On this issue the witnesses could not be shaken under cross-examination.

19. In the wake of the aforesaid depositions of the P.W.1 and P.W.3, pleadings and evidences in the record, this Court finds that the deceased was working as a casual workman in the aluminum workshop of P.W.3.

20. The learned tribunal erred in law by a mechanically applying the notional income of Rs.15,000/- per annum to the facts of this case.

21. The determination of the income in such cases when the employers do not maintain a proper documentation of the employees often a vexed question. However, there are reliable guides to determine income in such cases including the minimum wages notified by the appropriate government from time to time. A worker in an aluminum workshop possesses various skills which are often acquired on the job. The workmen in this category may not have formal qualifications, but their technical skills cannot be doubted. It is on account of these skills that they render useful work and are retained in the establishments.

22. Considering the nature of the work and the testimonies of P.W.1 and P.W.3, this Court can safely conclude that the deceased was a skilled workman whose job was of a perennial nature and he was drawing a regular monthly wages.

23. In the wake of preceding discussion, the monthly wages of the deceased are fixed at Rs.5,000/-.

24. In view of the above, the judgment and order dated 25.11.2017 passed by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, Court No.10, Meerut is set aside and is accordingly modified.

8(C). Determination of Compensation to which claimants-respondents are entitled:

25. In the wake of preceding discussion, the amount of compensation awarded to the claimants is tabulated below:

- i. Date of Accident -26.02.2014
- ii. Date of death -26.02.2014
- iii. Name of the deceased -Akib
- iv. Age of the deceased -19 years
- v. Occupation of the deceased -

Worker in Aluminum Fabrication Establishment

- vi. Income of the deceased - Rs.7,000/-
- vii. Name, Age and Relationship of claimants with the deceased

Sr. No.	Name	Age	Relation
1	Smt. Meena	43	Mother
2	Abid Ali	45	Father
3	Asif	15	Brother

viii. Computation of Compensation

Sr. No.	Heads	Amount (in rupees)
1	Monthly Income (A)	5,000/-
2	Annual Income (A x 12 = B)	5,000/- x 12 = 60,000/-
3	Future prospects (C)	50% of 60,000/- = 30,000/-
4	Annual Income + Future Prospects (B + C = D)	60,000 + 30,000/- =90,000/-
5	Deduction towards Personal Expenses (E)	1/2 of 90,000/- =45,000/-
	Annual Loss of Dependency (D-E = F)	90,000-45,000/-= 45,000/-
6	Multiplier (G)	18
7	Total loss of dependency (F x G = H)	45,000 x 18 =8,10,000/-
8	Conventional Heads: (I) (a) Loss of Love and affection (b) Loss of Mental Pain (c) Funeral	70,000/-
9	Total compensation (H + I = J)	8,10,000 + 70,000/- =8,80,000/-
10	Interest	7.00%

II. Conclusion and Directions:

26. The amount of compensation to which the claimants-appellants have thus been found entitled shall be deposited by the corporation within three months before the learned tribunal. Thereafter the learned tribunal shall release the amount to the claimants without delay. The amount already disbursed to the claimants (if any) shall be duly adjusted.

27. The instant appeal is partly allowed to the extent indicated above.

Hon'ble Rajendra Kumar-IV, J.)

1. Heard learned Counsel for the plaintiff-appellant/wife.

2. The instant appeal is directed against the order dated 17.11.2022, passed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra, in Case No.3039 of 2022, (Smt. Monica Saravanan versus R. Saravanan), on an Application (8-Ga) filed by the appellant, wherein, the prayer of the appellant, appointing her father, to do pairvi in the case through special power of attorney, as appellant would not be available in the country, as she intends to proceed to Canada to pursue her carrier. Application came to be rejected by the impugned order, wherein, it is noted by the learned Trial Court that the application under Order 3 Rule 2 CPC has not been instituted through an agent or power of attorney holder. It is further noted that the appellant-plaintiff is present in the Court and submits that for further proceedings she has appointed her father through special power of attorney to do pairvi in the matter. The application came to be rejected, as in the opinion of the Court, the power of attorney has not been filed in the representative capacity.

3. Learned Counsel for the applicant submits that the Court below committed an error in rejecting the Application (8-Ga), the suit under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, was filed by the appellant, and in order to pursue her carrier she has to proceed abroad, therefore, the appellant was justified to appoint a confidant through special power of attorney to do parivi. Further, an undertaking was also given that she would be bound by the outcome of the judicial proceedings. Learned Counsel for the appellant further submits that her oral evidence, if required, or directed by the Court, the appellant is prepared to join the court proceedings through video conference which is permissible under the Code of Civil Procedure, as well as, the Evidence Act.

4. Attention of the Court has also be drawn to Section 10 of the Family Courts Act, 1984, which provides the procedure applicable to the Family Courts, which reads as under:-

"10. Procedure generally.--(1) Subject to the other provisions of this Act and the rules, the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908) and of any other law for the time being in force shall apply to the suits and proceedings [other than the proceedings under Chapter IX of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974)] before a Family Court and for the purposes of the said provisions of the Code, a Family Court shall be deemed to be a civil court and shall have all the powers of such court.

(2) Subject to the other provisions of this Act and the rules, the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) or the rules made thereunder, shall apply to the proceedings under Chapter IX of that Code before a Family Court.

(3) Nothing in sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) shall prevent a Family Court from laying down its own procedure with a view to arrive at a settlement in respect of the subject-matter of the suit or proceedings or at the truth of the facts alleged by the one party and denied by the other."

5. Further Section 11 of the Family Courts Act, 1984, mandates that proceedings to be held in camera, which reads as under:-

"11. Proceedings to be held in camera.--In every suit or proceedings to which this Act applies, the proceedings may be held in camera if the Family Court so desires and shall be so held if either party so desires."

6. Reliance have been placed upon the judgments passed by Supreme Court in S. Ramachandra Rao versus S. Nagabhushana Rao & Others (AIR 2022 SC 517) Paragraph 14 and Manju Devi versus State of Rajasthan and another, (2019) 0 Supreme (SC) 462.

7. Further, reliance have also been placed upon the judgments of this Court in the case of Haseen Siddiqui @ Jahangir versus State of U.P. and others, (2013) 0 Supreme (All) 2700. Full Bench judgment rendered in Syed Wasif Husain Rizvi versus Hasan Raza Khan & 6 others, (AIR 2016 All 52).

8. The term power of attorney refers to a legal authorization that gives a designated person the power to act for someone else. As such, a power of attorney gives the agent or attorney-in-fact the authority to act on behalf the principal. The agent may be given broad or limited authority to make decisions about the principal's property, finances, investments, or for any other purpose. A power of attorney is a legal document that involves the agent or attorney-in-fact, and the principal. It is used in the event of a principal's temporary or permanent illness or disability, or when they can't sign necessary documents.

9. A Bench of three learned Judges of the Supreme Court in A.C. Narayanan versus State of Maharashtra, AIR 2014 SC 630, observed thus :-

"The power of attorney holder is the agent of the grantor. When the grantor authorises the attorney holder to initiate legal proceedings and the attorney holder accordingly initiates such legal proceedings, he does so as the agent of the grantor and the initiation is by the grantor represented by his attorney holder and not by the attorney holder in his personal capacity."

10. A special power of attorney is a legal document outlining the scope of authority given to an agent, known as "an attorney in fact," by the principal. Under the special power of attorney, an agent is given the powers to act on behalf of the principal to make specific legal or financial decisions. It is also referred to as Limited Power of Attorney and is used as evidence of the principal's authority to the third person with whom the principal may be dealing with.

11. The Full Bench in Syed Wasif Husain Rizvi (supra) answering the reference that writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India can be filed through a power of attorney holder but cautioned that the institution of the petition may be filed observing adequate safeguards which include:-

(1) The power of attorney by which the donor authorises the donee, must be brought on the record and must be filed together with the petition/application;

(2) The affidavit which is executed by the holder of a power of attorney must contain a statement that the donor is alive and specify the reasons for the inability of the donor to remain present before the Court to swear the affidavit; and

(3) The donee must be confined to those acts which he is authorised by the power of attorney to discharge.

12. The safeguard noted herein above would generally apply to power of attorney filed in court proceedings on behalf of the principal/donor or on behalf of a party to a lis.

13. The trial Court committed an error in rejecting the application of the appellant bringing on record the power of attorney herself. The power of attorney holder (father of the appellant) has been duly authorized by the appellant to appear in the proceedings on her behalf. The appellant can appear through video conference in the event her appearance is required for cross examination, or for any other purposes as directed by the Court. The power of attorney holder has been conferred limited right to file affidavits and to do pairvi on behalf of the appellant, hence, in the absence of the appellant the power of attorney holder has been duly authorised to appear on her behalf.

14. Accordingly, the impugned order dated 17.11.2022 passed on Application

8-Ga is set aside. The proceedings of the suit shall be conducted on behalf of appellant through the special power of attorney holder. In the event, the trial Court requires oral evidence of the appellant, that can be ensured through video conference.

15. The appeal is, accordingly, allowed.

Counsel for the Respondents:
 C.S.C., Pankaj Gupta

Public Interest Litigation - Removal of illegal encroachment over public utility land - The Court directed the Principal Secretary, Department of Revenue, Civil Secretariat, U.P., Lucknow, to issue necessary directions/directives/circulars to ensure that the public utility land of Gaon Sabha is free from encroachment and that such public utility land is utilized only for the purpose for which it has been recorded in the revenue records.

Allowed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Vinay Kumar Tiwari, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Yogesh Kumar Awasthi, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents no.1, 2 & 3. Notice for opposite party no.4/Gaon Sabha has been accepted by Sri Pankaj Gupta.

2. Sri Ganesh Nath Mishra, learned Advocate, has filed Vakalatnama on behalf of opposite party no.5, the same is taken on record.

3. By means of this petition, the petitioner has prayed following main reliefs:-

"(i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus thereby commanding the opposite parties/ Authorities concern to ensure release of Gaon Sabha Land i.e. Gata No. 653/0.1980 hectare, recorded as Rasta in the revenue record situated in Village - Veshahapur, Motiganj, Seeha Gaon, Gonda, which are recorded as public utility land in the revenue record, from illegal encroachment of the land grabbers and restore it to its original shape.

(ii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite party no. 1 to initiate inquiry against inaction on the part of the authorities concern in not removing encroachment from Gaon Sabha Land i.e. Gata No. 653/0.1980 hectare, recorded as Rasta in the revenue record situated in Village -Veshahapur, Motiganj, Seeha Gaon, Gonda which are recorded as public utility land in the revenue record, from illegal encroachment of the land grabbers, in order to punish the guilty persons/authorities."

4. At the very outset, Sri Ganesh Nath Mishra, learned counsel for opposite party no.5 has raised objection to the effect that the present petitioner has not disclosed his complete credentials in terms of the High Court Rules, therefore, this PIL may be dismissed on this ground alone. Replying to the aforesaid contention, learned counsel for the petitioner has drawn attention of this Court towards paragraph nos.4, 5 & 6 of the writ petition wherein he has disclosed his credentials strictly in accordance with law in view of the High Court Rules.

5. Having considered the aforesaid paragraphs of the writ petition i.e. paragraph nos.4, 5 & 6, I find that the present PIL is maintainable so far as the prayer of the writ petition is concerned.

6. Sri Yogesh Kumar Awasthi, learned Standing Counsel has produced instructions letter dated 14.05.2023 preferred by the Sub Divisional Officer, Sadar, Gonda addressing to the Chief Standing Counsel of this Court enclosing therewith the comments, order dated 14.05.2023 passed by the Sub Divisional Officer, Sadar, Gonda, spot inspection report, statement of the villagers, Naksha Nazari, copy of Khetauni, other documents and copies of the recall applications dated 04.05.2023 preferred by opposite party no.5 and other persons, same are taken on record.

7. Before advertng to the issue in question, the Court puts its displeasure on record regarding casual and callous approach of the competent revenue authority who despite the specific order being passed on 25.11.2008 has not taken proper and positive efforts and endeavour to vacate/ remove the illegal encroachment from the public utility land, if any, against that encroachment. Therefore, it is expected that the District Magistrate, Gonda shall look into this aspect and shall pass appropriate orders on the administrative side since this Court time and again has directed in couple of petitions of Public Interest Litigation that if there is any illegal encroachment over any public utility land, the same should be removed forthwith and if any order to remove the illegal encroachment is passed, the same shall be executed forthwith, strictly in accordance with law. Notably, in the present case, the order dated 25.11.2008 has not been executed till date and applications for recall of the order dated 25.11.2008, which have been filed after about 15 years, have been entertained by the Tehsildar (Judicial), Gonda and said applications have been kept pending. Since the recall applications have been filed by some of the villagers including opposite party no.5 on 04.05.2023, meaning thereby the order dated 25.11.2008 has not been assailed before the appellate authority till date. Therefore, in absence of any order being passed by the competent authority against the order dated 25.11.2008, the illegal encroachment over the public utility land is still existing, so this is the glaring example of casual and callous approach of the competent revenue authority, which should be handled by the superior authority on the administrative side for the purposes of setting example that if any competent revenue authority does not act strictly in accordance with law to remove the illegal encroachment from the public utility land, he may be subjected to any proper action, which would be required in the facts and circumstances of the issue in question.

8. It is also pertinent to indicate here that any illegal encroachment over the public utility land is not only illegal and unauthorized but the same creates serious prejudice to the villagers at large of the area and very purpose of public utility land is frustrated since such land has been encroached illegally by some persons. Therefore, by means of this order, all the competent revenue authorities of the State of U.P. are directed to take up the matter of illegal encroachments seriously and if any complaint is received from any end regarding illegal encroachment over the public utility land of the Gaon Sabha, the spot inspection should be carried out immediately by a team of revenue officials/officers and if it is found that there is any illegal encroachment over the public utility land of the Gaon Sabha, prompt exercise removing the aforesaid illegal encroachment must be undertaken and after conclusion of the case so registered for removal of that illegal encroachment, the order passed by the competent revenue authority should be executed forthwith inasmuch as if the appropriate order for removal of illegal encroachment is not executed well in time, the purpose of passing appropriate order for removing/vacating the illegal encroachment would be meaningless and the illegal encroachment would be persisting for quite long time. The present case is a glaring example of non-execution of the order passed by the competent authority for removing the illegal encroachments.

9. In the present case, the Sub Divisional Officer, Sadar, Gonda has passed order dated 14.05.2023 wherein this fact has been indicated that seven persons have illegally encroached on some part of Gata No.653/0.198 hectare and the Tehsildar (Judicial), Sadar, Gonda has passed the order dated 25.11.2008 for removal and compensation against those persons but the exercise of removing such illegal encroachment is underway, therefore, the Sub Divisional Magistrate has constituted a team consisting of Naib Tehsildar, Revenue Inspector, four Lekhpals and one Area Lekhpal to remove the illegal encroachment. I am unable to comprehend that when the Sub Divisional Officer, Sadar, Gonda has noticed the fact that the order for removal of illegal encroachment has already been passed on 25.11.2008, as to what action has been taken against the competent revenue authority on the administrative side seeking explanation as to why the illegal encroachment has not been removed in the last more than 14 years.

10. If it is presumed for the argument sake that the order dated 25.11.2008 is an ex-parte order against the illegal encroachers against which the recall applications have been filed on 04.05.2023 wherein the next date for hearing is fixed for 27.05.2023, I fail to understand and comprehend as to why no proper exercise has been carried out to execute the order dated 25.11.2008 within the time so prescribed under the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 inasmuch as had the order dated 25.11.2008 been executed forthwith, the recall application, if it was so required, would have been filed immediately thereafter and disposal thereof would have been done strictly in accordance with law by the competence authority but on account of callous approach of the competent revenue authority, the order dated 25.11.2008 has not been executed till date and now, applications for recall of the order dated 25.11.2008 are pending consideration. All the aforesaid facts are self-explanatory wherein there is no need to ask any evidence, therefore, it is reiterated that if any appropriate action is not taken on the administrative side against the erring revenue officers/ officials by the District Magistrate concerned, it would encourage them to keep the execution of the orders passed to remove the illegal encroachment over the public utility land of the Gaon Sabha pending.

11. Khetauni, which has been enclosed with the instructions letter, also indicates that the gata in question is recorded as Rasta (public pathway) in the revenue record and the public pathway/ Rasta may not be encroached by any person as such encroachment would create serious prejudice and hindrance to the public at large. Since the next date for hearing of the restoration/ recall applications has been fixed for 27.05.2023, therefore, I do not find any good ground or reason to keep this PIL pending any longer, accordingly, this PIL is disposed of at the admission stage directing the competent revenue authority to dispose of recall applications, strictly in accordance with law, by affording an opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned, with expedition, if possible on the date fixed or within further fifteen days and shall ensure that the illegal encroachment over the public utility land be removed strictly in accordance with law.

12. The Senior Registrar of this Court shall provide certified copy of this order to the Principal Secretary, Department of Revenue, Civil Secretariat, U.P., Lucknow and the Collector, Gonda within three working days for perusal and necessary action against the erring officials/ officers.

13. Since the aforesaid direction has been issued for the entire State i.e. State of U.P., therefore, the Principal Secretary, Department of Revenue, Civil Secretariat, U.P., Lucknow shall issue necessary directions/ directives/ circular to ensure that the public utility land of Gaon Sabha is free from encroachment and such public utility land be utilized only for the purpose it has been recorded in the revenue record.

14. This PIL is accordingly disposed of.

Civil Law - U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 - Section 218 - Section 218 of the Land Revenue Act h repealed by the U.P. Act No. 20 of 1997 w.e.f. 18.08.1997 - Section 10 of the 1997 Amendment Act - By the impugned order, the Board of Revenue remanded the case for a fresh decision to the Commissioner in accordance with S. 218 of the Land Revenue Act. Held: Following the law laid down in Shri Ram Vs Board of Revenue U.P., Lucknow & ors., 1999 (1) JCLR 1010 and Ravi Shanker Tripathi Vs Board of Revenue, U.P., Lucknow through its Chairman & Ors., 2007 (1) ADJ 23, the Court held that the transitory provision contained in Section 10 of the 1997 Amendment Act saved only those proceedings which were pending before the Board of Revenue. Therefore, the proceedings which were pending before the Commissioner or the Additional Commissioner on 18.08.1997 were required to be decided under the provisions of Section 219 of the amended Act. The impugned order was set aside.

List of Cases cited:

1. Shri Ram Vs Board of Revenue U.P., Lucknow & ors., 1999 (1) JCLR 1010

2. Kali Shanker Dwivedi Vs Board of Revenue & ors., 2000 (18) LCD 1401

3. Ravi Shanker Tripathi Vs Board of Revenue, U.P., Lucknow through its Chairman & ors., 2007 (1) ADJ 23

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Shri Mehdi Abbas Rizvi, learned counsel for the petitioner, Shri A.S. Tiwari, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents and Ms. Seema Devi, learned counsel for the intervener assisted by Shri Amrendra Nath Tripathi, who has filed his vakalatnama on behalf of the opposite party no.5/intervener. Said vakalatnama is taken on record.

2. By means of this petition, the petitioner has assailed the order dated 29.06.1999 (Annexure No. 1) passed by opposite party no. 1 by which he has remanded the revision to the Commissioner for fresh decision under Section 218 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 (hereinafter referred to as "Land Revenue Act") as it was prevailing prior to 18.08.1997.

3. While assailing the aforesaid impugned order, learned counsel for the petitioner has stated that the opposite party no.1 has committed manifest error of law in remanding back the case for fresh decision to the Commissioner in accordance with Section 218 of the Land Revenue Act as it was applicable prior to 18.08.1997. Further, since Section 218 of the Land Revenue Act has been repealed by the U.P. Act No. 20 of 1997 with effect from 18.08.1997, any proceeding under such Section cannot be instituted now.

4. Shri Mehdi Abbas Rizvi, learned counsel for the petitioner has also submitted that the opposite party no. 1 has no legal authority to supersede the legal provisions of the Land Revenue Act by its quasi judicial order and to prescribe incorrect, confusing and wrong jurisdiction. Further, the opposite party no. 1 has wrongly held that the order dated 16.04.1999 passed by the learned Commissioner is without jurisdiction but in fact the said order is quite just, proper and legal. Therefore, the impugned order dated 29.06.1999 is completely illegal, void, contrary to the law and natural justice. On the first date of admission, this Court has passed the order dated 17.08.1999, which reads as under:-

"Admit.

Issue notice to opposite party no. 2.

Notice on behalf of the opposite party no.1 has been accepted by the learned Chief Standing Counsel and Shri R.N. Gupta, Advocate has accepted notice on behalf of the opposite party no.3."

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has stated that in view of decision of this Court in re; Shri Ram versus Board of Revenue U.P. Lucknow and Others, 1999 (1) JCLR 1010, the issue in question is no more res integra and has held as under:-

"In view of this transitory provision only references which were pending before the Board of Revenue were saved and revisions pending before the Commissioner or Additional Commissioner were not saved, and as such the Commissioner or the Additional Commissioner ought to have decided the revisions pending before them on 18.08.1997 under Section 219 of the Act. Under the circumstances the judgment passed by the Board of Revenue on 11.01.1999 cannot be sustained.

The writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The order dated 11.01.1999 passed by the Board of Revenue (Annexure No.2 to the writ petition) is set aside. The petitioner is directed to move an application before the Board of Revenue about maintainability of the revision which shall be decided expeditiously, in accordance with law."

6. Notably, on account of two conflicting views, one in re; Kali Shanker Dwivedi vs. Board of Revenue & Ors., 2000 (18) LCD 1401 and another in re; Shri Ram (supra), the issue was referred before the Division Bench in re; Ravi Shanker Tripathi versus Board of Revenue, U.P., Lucknow through its Chairman & Ors., 2007 (1) ADJ 23. So as to resolve the controversy in question, paras 5, 12 and 18 in re; Ravi Shanker Tripathi (supra) would be necessary to be reproduced herein below:-

"5. We must also reproduce Section 10 of the 1997 Amendment Act which is a transitory provision:

10. Transitory Provisions - Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act all cases referred to the Board under Section 218 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901, or under Section 333-A of Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 as they stood immediately before the commencement of this Act and pending before the Board on the date of such commencement shall continue to be heard and decided by the Board as if this Act has not been enacted.

12. In the present case the application under Section 218 of the unamended Act was filed prior to 18.08.1997 but it was decided after the amendment had come into force with effect from 18.08.1997. On the said date, the Additional Commissioner, Allahabad Division, Allahabad, had the jurisdiction to decide the Revision under Section 219 of the amended Act. The transitory provision contained in Section 10 of the Act provides that only those proceedings which were pending before the Board on the date of such commencement shall continue to be heard by the Board as if the amendment had not come into force. This clearly demonstrates that other proceedings that were pending were required to be decided under the provisions of the amended Act.

18. In the present case there is a transitory provision contained in Section 10 of the amendment Act which save only those proceedings which were pending before the Board of Revenue. Thus, the proceeding which was pending before the Additional Commissioner on 18.08.1997 was required to be decided under the provisions of Section 219 of the amended Act. We are, therefore, unable to subscribe to the view taken by the learned Judge in Kali Shanker Dwivedi (supra) and agree with the view taken in Sri Ram (supra)." (emphasis supplied)

7. In the aforesaid reference, the Division Bench has answered the reference in Para 34 in re; Ravi Shanker Tripathi (supra), which reads as under:-

"34. For all the reasons stated above, we answer the reference that the decision in the case Kali Shanker Dwivedi (supra) does not lay down the correct law. However, we respectfully agree with the view taken by the learned Judge in the case of Sri Ram (supra)."

8. Therefore, learned counsel for the petitioner has stated that the facts and circumstances of the present case are similar to that of Shri Ram (supra), thus, in view of the decision of this Court in re; Shri Ram (supra) and Ravi Shanker Tripathi (supra), this writ petition is liable to be allowed.

9. Shri Amrendra Nath Tripathi, learned counsel for the intervener has stated that in the judgment of this Court in re; Shri Ram (supra) and in re; Ravi Shanker Tripathi (supra), the legal position has not been made clear on the point that if any revision has been filed under Section 218 before the Commissioner/Additional Commissioner and after the deletion of Section 218 whether it would be automatically decided under the provisions of Section 219 of the amended Act.

10. Shri Amrendra Nath Tripathi has further submitted that since this legal position has clearly and explicitly not been explained, therefore, the submissions so raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner are not tenable in the eyes of law.

11. Shri A.S. Tiwari, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has, however, tried to defend the order dated 29.06.1999 but he could not defend the impugned order in the light of the decisions of this Court in re; Shri Ram (supra) and Ravi Shanker Tripathi (supra).

12. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the materials available on record as well as the decisions of this Court in re: Shri Ram (supra) and Ravi

Shanker Tripathi (supra), I am in agreement on the position of law that since in the present case, there is a transitory provision contained in Section 10 of the 1997 Amendment Act which saved only those proceedings which were pending before the Board of Revenue, therefore, the proceedings which were pending before the Commissioner or the Additional Commissioner on 18.08.1997 were required to be decided under the provisions of Section 219 of the amended Act.

13. Under these circumstances, the judgment passed by the Board of Revenue dated 29.06.1999 (Annexure No.1) cannot be sustained. Therefore, the order dated 29.06.1999 passed by the Board of Revenue, U.P., Lucknow are hereby set aside.

14. Liberty is given to the parties to file an appropriate application/petition before the Board of Revenue, strictly in terms of law and if such application is filed, the same shall be decided expeditiously, preferably within a period of six months from the date of its filing, by affording an opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned.

15. In view of the aforesaid terms, the writ petition is allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

Civil Law - Delay Condonation - Limitation Act,1963 - Section 5 - U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, Section 11 (1), 48 (1) - Private opposite parties filed an application before A.C.O. seeking mutation on the basis of a Will-Deed allegedly executed by one Sri Bhagauti, the original tenure holder of the property, without impleading the wife of late Bhagauti, stating that she had died whereas she was alive. Consolidation Officer directed that the name of the private opposite parties be entered in the Chak in question. Wife of late Bhagauti was living with the opposite parties and did not know about the aforesaid order, being an illiterate lady; therefore, she could not file any appeal challenging the order dated 26.03.1981. She became aware of the aforesaid order in May 2005 when the behaviour of the private opposite parties became rude towards her. Thereafter, she filed an appeal and revision. Both were dismissed on the ground that there was an inordinate delay of 24 years in assailing the impugned order dated 26.03.1981 passed by the Consolidation Officer. Held: At least one opportunity should have been given to the wife of late Bhagauti so that she could adduce evidence apprising the authority that there was no Will-Deed of her late husband in favour of the private opposite parties. This is not a case wherein the revision should have been decided only on the ground that there was an inordinate delay in assailing the impugned order dated 26.03.1981.

1. Rikhdev & anr. Vs Additional District Magistrate (Finance), Azamgarh & ors.[2012 (30) LCD 712]

1. Heard Sri Mohd. Ali, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri Upendra Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the State-opposite parties and Sri Umesh Chandra Pandey, learned counsel for the Caveators/ private opposite party Nos.4 to 7.

2. By means of this writ petition, the petitioners have prayed for the following reliefs:-

"(i) to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 27.03.2023, passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Gonda in Revision No.530 of 2017 (Savitri and another vs. Ram Dheeraj (Died) through his legal representatives and others) filed under Section 48 (1) of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, the order dated 04.07.2016, passed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, Gonda in Appeal No.769 of 2015-16 (Mst. Kalawati vs. Ram Dhani and others), filed under Section 11 (1) of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act and the order dated 26.03.1981, passed by the Consolidation Officer, Kshetra No.3, Utraula, District-Gonda in Suit No.140 of 1980 (Ram Dhani and others vs. Bhagauti and another), as contained in Annexure Nos.1, 2 & 3 respectively to the writ petition.

(ii) to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite parties not to give effect to the impugned order dated 27.03.2023, passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Gonda in Revision No.530 of 2017 (Savitri and another vs. Ram Dheeraj (Died) through his legal representatives and others) filed under Section 48 (1) of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, the order dated 04.07.2016, passed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, Gonda in Appeal No.769 of 2015-16 (Mst. Kalawati vs. Ram Dhani and others), filed under Section 11 (1) of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act and the order dated 26.03.1981, passed by the Consolidation Officer, Kshetra No.3, Utraula, District-Gonda in Suit No.140 of 1980 (Ram Dhani and others vs. Bhagauti and another), as contained in Annexure Nos.1, 2 & 3 respectively to the writ petition.

The opposite party Nos.1, 2 & 3 may further be commanded to make consequential entry in the name of petitioners in the concerned records of the land of Araj Chak No.268, Khata No.267/2 and 269 being legal heirs and daughters of late Bhagauti, who was recorded tenure holder of the aforesaid land."

3. The basic premise to assail the impugned orders is that the private opposite parties have filed an application dated 06.01.1981 before the court of Assistant Consolidation Officer seeking mutation on the basis of Will-Deed allegedly executed by one Sri Bhaughati on 28.11.1980, the original tenure holder of the property in question, without impleading the wife of late Bhagauti as a party of that case saying that she has died whereas she was alive and remained alive for quite long time thereafter.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioners has drawn attention of this Court towards an application dated 06.01.1981 (Annexure No.5) wherein it has been categorically indicated that the original tenure holder of the land in question, namely, Sri Bhagauti, has expired and in his life time he had executed a Will in favour of the private opposite parties. Sri Bhagauti was not having any son (male child) and his wife is also not alive. The applicants of that application/ the private opposite parties hereto have stated themselves as real cousin and since they were looking after Sri Bhagauti in his life time, therefore, Sri Bhaugauti has executed a Will-Deed in their favour. On the basis of the aforesaid application, the Consolidation Officer has directed for publication and the said publication was issued on 08.01.1981. As per the order dated 26.08.1981 passed by the Consolidation Officer, no objection has been filed on that publication. Therefore, after recording the evidence of marginal witness of the Will-Deed he directed that the name of private opposite parties be entered in the Chak in question i.e. Chak No.268, 267/2 and 269.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioners has stated that since the mother of the petitioners, namely, Smt. Kalawati, was alive on 26.03.1981 and the application dated 06.01.1981 was a fraudulent application which provided that the mother of the present petitioner, Smt. Kalawati, was not alive, therefore, the order dated 26.03.1981 passed by the Consolidation Officer is liable to be set aside as the aforesaid order is passed on the basis of fraudulent documents. However, the mother of the petitioners was living with the opposite parties and she could not know about the aforesaid order being illiterate lady, therefore, she could not file any appeal challenging the aforesaid order dated 26.03.1981. However, the mother of the petitioners could know about the order dated 26.03.1981 in the month of May, 2005 when the behaviour of the private opposite parties hereto became rude against her and they stated her not to live with them, therefore, she filed an appeal under Section 11 (1) of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act on 24.05.2005 before the Appellate Authority i.e. the Settlement Officer of Consolidation along with an application under Section 5 of Limitation Act.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioners has further stated that the mother of the petitioners was said to be dead by the private opposite parties in the year 1981 but she being alive person has herself filed an appeal on 24.05.2005. The Appellate Authority has heard the application of Section 5 of Limitation Act being filed by the mother of the petitioners and decided the same vide order dated 04.07.2016 rejecting that application on the ground of inordinate delay of 24 years. The Appellate Authority has indicated in his order that the appellant, Smt. Kalawati, was getting old age pension and she was a Ration Card holder, therefore, she may not say that she is an illiterate persona and she may not aware about the law. The Appellate Authority has further stated that inordinate delay of 24 years has not been explained properly in the application filed under Section 5 of Limitation Act.

7. I have perused that application filed under Section 5 of Limitation Act and find that the said application is not happily worded. However, the fact remains that the impugned order dated 26.03.1981 was passed on the application wherein the mother of the present petitioners was declared as a dead person. Feeling aggrieved from the orders dated 26.03.1981 and 04.07.1916 the petitioners filed a revision before the Revisional Authority i.e. the Deputy Director of Consolidation under Section 48 (1) of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act. The Revisional Authority has also rejected the revision of the petitioners vide order dated 27.03.2023 on the ground that there is no infirmity or illegality in the order dated 04.07.2016 passed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation i.e. the Appellate Authority inasmuch as the unexplained delay of 24 years would vitiate the claim of the revisionists/petitioners hereto.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioners has stated that since the very foundation set up by the private opposite parties before the Consolidation Officer is based on the wrong fact and one fraudulent document, therefore, the delay in challenging such order would be meaningless inasmuch as the factum of fraud would vitiate the entire proceedings and the order being passed by the Consolidation Officer.

9. Attention of this Court has been drawn by the learned counsel for the petitioners towards the judgment of this Court rendered in the case in re: Rikhdev and another vs. Additional District Magistrate (Finance), Azamgarh and others reported in [2012 (30) LCD 712] referring para-36, which reads as under:-

"36. In Indian Bank v. Satyam Fibres (India) Pvt. Ltd., (1996) 5 SCC 550 : JT 1996 (7) SC 135, referring to Lazarus Estates and Smith v. East Elloe Rural District Council, 1956 AC 336 : (1956) 1 All ER 855 : (1956) 2 WLR 888, the Apex Court stated:

"22. The judiciary in India also possesses inherent power, specially under Section 151 C.P.C., to recall its judgment or order if it is obtained by Fraud on Court. In the case of fraud on a party to the suit or proceedings, the Court may direct the affected party to file a separate suit for setting aside the Decree obtained by fraud. Inherent powers are powers which are resident in all courts, especially of superior jurisdiction. These powers spring not from legislation but from the nature and the Constitution of the Tribunals or Courts themselves so as to enable them to maintain their dignity, secure obedience to its process and rules, protect its officers from indignity and wrong and to punish unseemly behaviour. This power is necessary for the orderly administration of the Court's business."

10. On the basis of the aforesaid judgment of the Apex Court learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that the order passed by the Consolidation Officer dated 26.03.1981 is liable to be quashed.

11. He has further submitted that the aforesaid ground relating to the fraud should have been considered by the Appellate Authority and the Revisional Authority but both the authorities have dismissed the appeal and the revision only on the ground of inordinate delay of 24 years.

12. Per contra, Sri Umesh Chandra Pandey, learned counsel for the private opposite parties has stated that since the delay of 24 years has not been explained by the petitioners while filing the appeal, therefore, the impugned orders being passed by the Appellate Authority and the Revisional Authority are perfectly just and proper. He has also drawn attention of this Court towards para-39 of the judgment of this Court rendered in re: Roop Narain and others vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation and others reported in [2020 (38) LCD 2577]. Para-39 of the judgment reads as under:-

"39. In addition, it may be acknowledged that the jurisdiction of the Deputy Director of Consolidation to decide both questions of fact and law is very wide. It was hedged in with some limitations prior to the amendment made to Section 48 of the Act, introduced vide U.P. Act no.3 of 2002, in the form of Explanation (3). Under the unamended law also, their Lordships of the Supreme Court approved the principle that where the findings are perverse or not supported by evidence, it would be the duty of the Deputy Director to examine the entire case. This was held in Sheo Nand (supra), to which allusion has been made above. Now under the amended provisions of Section 48, very wide powers have been conferred on the Deputy Director to decide all questions of fact and law recorded by any subordinate Authority. He has also been conferred with the power to appreciate any oral or documentary evidence. Indeed, the enlarged powers under Section 48, conferred on the Deputy Director, vide U.P. Act no.3 of 2002, retrospectively w.e.f. November 10, 1980, make for a most non-conventional kind of revisional jurisdiction. But, the statute ordains it to be so. It is the duty of this Court to give full effect to the amended provisions of Section 48, read with Explanation (3). The amended provisions of Section 48 (as amended vide U.P. Act no.3 of 2002) read:

"In Section 48 of the principal Act, after explanation (2) the following explanation shall be inserted, namely:-- "Explanation (3).-The power under this section to examine the correctness, legality or propriety of any order includes the power to examine any finding, whether of fact or law, recorded by any subordinate authority, and also includes the power to re-appreciate any oral or documentary evidence."."

13. Sri Pandey has further submitted that even if the petitioners are aggrieved from the Will-Deed instead of filing this writ petition, they should have filed a suit challenging the Will-Deed and if the Will-Deed is declared void, the petitioners may seek their claim on the property in question on the basis of order being passed by the Civil Court, but at this stage the writ petition would not be maintainable.

14. In reply to the aforesaid contention, learned counsel for the petitioners has stated that undisputedly the mother of the petitioners was a widow of the recorded tenure holder and she was alive when the application was filed by the private opposite parties then she should have been impleaded as opposite party in a case filed by the private opposite parties but the private opposite parties deliberately have not impleaded the mother of the petitioner (Smt. Kalawati) as opposite party and she could not know about the publication for the reason that she was living with the private opposite parties after the death of her husband (Sri Bhagauti) and admittedly the private opposite parties were looking after her. In support of the aforesaid arguments, he has referred the judgment of Full Bench of this Court delivered in the case in re: Ram Padarath and others vs. IInd Additional District Judge, Sultanpur and others; Writ Petition No.1732 of 1982 connected with Writ Petition Nos.1126 & 1129 of 1983:

6351 of 1982 and others, decided on 26th September, 1988 referring para-40 thereof, which reads as under:-

"40. We are of the view that the case of Indra Dev v. Smt. Ram Piari, 1982 ALJ 1308, has been correctly decided and the said decision requires no consideration, while the Division Bench Case, Dr. Ayodhya Prasad v. Gangaotri, 1981 AWC 469 is regarding the jurisdiction of consolidation authorities, but so far as it holds that suit in respect of void documents will lie in the revenue court it does not lay down a good law. Suit or action for cancellation of void document will generally lie in the civil court and a party cannot be deprived of his right getting this relief permissible under law except when a declaration of right or status and a tenure-holder is necessarily needed in which even relief for cancellation will be surplusage and redundant. A recorded tenure-holder having prima facie title in his favour can hardly be directed to approach the revenue court in respect of seeking relief for cancellation of a void documents which made him to approach the court of law and such case he can also claim ancillary relief even though the same can be granted by the revenue court."

Reference answered.

15. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the material available on record, I find that while challenging the impugned order dated 26.03.1981 passed by the Consolidation Officer the mother of the petitioners (Smt. Kalawati) has not properly explained the reasons of delay in filing appeal. However, she has only stated that she being an illiterate lady could not know about the order dated 26.03.1981. However, she has stated in the appeal as well as in the revision that after the death of her husband (Sri Bhagauti), who was the original tenure-holder, she was living with the family members of her husband, who are private opposite parties hereto, and they were looking after her property, therefore, she could not know the things that the family members of her late husband, the private opposite parties hereto, were having any malafide intention in their mind to usurp the property of her late husband on the basis of one Will-Deed whereas to the best of her knowledge there was no such Will-Deed. She has also stated in the appeal as well as in the revision that despite the fact that she was alive when the impugned order dated 26.03.1981 was passed, even when the application dated 06.01.1981 was preferred by the private opposite parties but she has been declared dead. She has also stated in her appeal and the revision that she had not been afforded an opportunity of hearing before the Consolidation Officer. However, the finding on that point has been returned by the Consolidation Officer that the publication was issued before passing the order impugned dated 26.03.1981, but no one has filed objection thereon.

16. Since the specific ground was taken by the mother of the petitioners that the application dated 06.01.1981 (Annexure No.5) was not proper wherein she was declared as dead person, therefore, atleast an opportunity should have been given to the widow of the original tenure-holder to put up her case. So far as the fact that the marginal witnesses of the Will-Deed appeared before the Consolidation Officer and have proved the factum of Will-Deed is concerned, at least one opportunity should have been given to her so that she could adduce the evidence apprising the authority that there was no Will-Deed of her late husband in favour of the private opposite parties.

17. Notably, this is a case where the mutation has been sought on the basis of one Will-Deed which is not registered one as no recital to this effect has been given from either side and the widow of the original tenure holder was deliberately not made necessary party so the lacuna may not be filled through the publication.

18. In view of the aforesaid discussions, I find that all those aforesaid facts should have been considered by the Revisional Authority and this is not a case wherein the revision should have been decided only on the ground that there was inordinate delay in assailing the impugned order dated 26.03.1981 passed by the Consolidation Officer. Therefore, the Revisional Authority should have passed a fresh order considering the aforesaid facts and grounds so taken by the petitioners before the Revisional Authority.

19. Accordingly, the impugned order dated 27.03.2023 passed by the Revisional Authority i.e. the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Gonda is hereby set aside. The matter is remanded back to the Revisional Authority to pass a fresh order, strictly in accordance with law by affording an opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned by considering the facts and grounds so taken by the petitioners in the revision. Such order shall be passed within a period of six months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order.

20. The instant writ petition is, therefore, partly allowed.

Civil Law - Service Matter - Recruitment - Assistant Teachers Recruitment Examination, 2019 - In the online form, petitioners mentioned BTC in place of BTC through distance education mode. Candidature was rejected on the ground that BTC by distance education mode had not been disclosed in the online application form. Issue: Whether the non-disclosure by the petitioners of their eligibility qualification BTC (by distance education) would dis-entitle them to the allotment of the district. Held: Candidates were required to possess BTC irrespective of where and by what mode they had obtained the training qualification. Court found no substance in the submission of the respondents that the petitioners did not disclose in their online application form that they were Shiksha Mitras having obtained the BTC qualification by distance education mode. On account of the said non-disclosure, the software did not identify them as Shiksha Mitras and, consequently, did not extend the weightage admissible to them. In the opinion of the Court, it was due to faulty programming, and since the petitioners had satisfied the eligibility criteria, they could not be denied the appointment. The respondents were directed to include the names of the petitioners in the list of successful candidates for allotment of the districts. (Paras 10, 12, 13)

3. Ashutosh Kumar Srivastava and 60 others Vs St. of U.P. & ors., Writ Petition No.4070 of 2020, dated 30.05.2020

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashutosh Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Praveen Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri P. D. Tripathi, learned counsel, who has appeared for the Respondent Nos.3 & 4 and learned Standing Counsel for the State Respondent Nos.1 & 2.

2. The writ petitioners, who are working as Shiksha Mitra have approached this Court seeking quashing of the orders dated 05.11.2020 and 10.11.2020 (Annexure No.7 & 8 to the writ petition) respectively. A further prayer in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents to permit the petitioners to correct the information in their applications forms and the respondents be directed to grant weightage of 25 marks of Shiksha Mitra and consider the candidature for the petitioners for the post of Assistant Teachers.

3. By the impugned orders dated 05.11.2020 and 10.11.2020 the Secretary, Examination Regulatory Authority, U.P. Prayagraj, has rejected the representation of the petitioners preferred pursuant to the directions of this Court by its order dated 27.08.2020 passed in Writ Petition No.4609 of 2020.

4. It is the case of the writ petitioners that they possess the educational qualification of BA along with BTC (Distance Education) and have been working as Shiksha Mitra since the year 2006. The petitioners stood eligible for applying for the post of Assistant Teacher. Accordingly, the petitioners applied under the Assistant Teachers Recruitment Examination, 2019 under OBC category. The petitioners were declared successful having obtained 92 marks and 96 marks respectively as against the minimum qualifying marks of 90 prescribed for OBC/SC/ST candidates. The petitioners contend that they have not been awarded 25 marks as weightage in the selection for 69000 posts of Assistant Teachers as they mentioned BTC in place of BTC through distance education mode. The petitioners contended that they satisfy the eligibility condition for appointment as Assistant Teacher and their candidature could not be rejected simply on the ground that in the online application form BTC by distance education mode had not been disclosed. They contend that no distinction can be drawn between BTC an BTC (by distance education mode). The petitioners nevertheless made representation on 03.06.2020 for correction in the online application form and for grant of the weightage admissible to Shiksha Mitra but no action has been taken. Consequently, the petitioners approached this Court by means of Writ (A) No.4609 of 2020 which was disposed by vide order dated 27.08.2020 with direction to decide the claim/representation of the petitioners.

5. The Secretary, Examination Regulatory Authority, U.P. Prayagraj, under the impugned orders has rejected the representations of the petitioners which are under challenge in the writ petition.

6. The main thrust of the argument of the learned counsel for the petitioners is that each of the petitioners fulfill the eligibility criteria for appointment of Assistant Teachers. They have obtained BTC qualification from distance education mode which is duly recognized by the respondents. Their candidature ought not to have been rejected on the ground that BTC had been mentioned in the online form instead of BTC (distance education). It is not the case that the petitioners are not eligible and in such view of the matter the writ petition is liable to be allowed and the petitioners candidature as Assistant Teacher pursuant to the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination, 2019 are liable to be considered. There is no difference between BTC and BTC (distance education mode) and in any case the mistake on the part of the petitioners cannot be said to be deliberate and intentional so as to derive any advantage. It is also argued that the respondents have adopted pick and choose policy in dealing with similarly circumstanced candidates, while the candidature of same of the equally circumstanced candidates have not been cancelled the candidates of the petitioners have been cancelled. Details of some candidates have been given in Para No.29 of the writ petition.

7. Per Contra, Sri P. D. Tripathi, learned counsel representing the Respondent Nos.3 & 4 as also the learned Standing Counsel has supported the decision of the Secretary, Examination Regulatory Authority/ Respondent No.2 by submitting that the orders rejecting the claim of the petitioners is entirely justified and does not suffer from any infirmity warranting the interference of the Court.

8. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record. From the perusal of the impugned orders dated 05.11.2020 and 10.11.2020 it is borne out that the representations of the petitioners have been rejected by verbatim reasoning. The Secretary, Examinations Regulatory Authority, U.P., Prayagraj, has heavily relied upon the Government Order dated 01.12.2018 laying down the modalities of filling up the online application form and the precautions that were required to be taken by the candidates particularly when it was clearly laid down that no amendment could be permitted. Much reliance is also placed upon the declaration submitted by the petitioners. Reliance has also been placed to clause 17 of the Government Order dated 01.12.2018 which gave the petitioners the opportunity to rectify any mistake made in their online application forms by submitting fresh online forms after depositing the requisite fee in respect thereof within the time provided. Reliance has also been placed upon decision dated 08.07.2020 of this Court rendered in Writ Petition No.4677 of 2020 (Rekshar Khan Vs. State of U.P. & others) and connected 17 writ petitions, decision dated 30.05.2013 passed in Special Appeal No.834 of 2013 (Ram Manohar Yadav Vs. State of U.P. & others) decision dated 30.05.2020 rendered in Writ Petition No.4070 of 2020 (Ashutosh Kumar Srivastava and 60 others Vs. State of U.P. & others) to reject the representation of the petitioners.

9. The Court has gone through the decisions relied upon by the Respondent No.2 while rejecting the representations of the petitioners by the impugned orders. The decisions are clearly distinguishable and the ratio laid down therein apply to the facts and circumstances akin to that case. In the opinion of the Court the ratio laid down are not applicable to the case of the writ petitioners herein inasmuch as the case of Rukshar Khan (supra) related to a case where the petitioner had omitted to mention in the online application form, a claim for a reservation category which the Court did not permit as it would introduce a new aspirant in the concerned reservation pool and in all probability may lead to displacement of a candidate already selected. The decision in the Special Appeal No.834 of 2013, Ram Manohar Yadav (Supra) related to filling up incorrectly the online application form which is not the case at hand. The third case of Ashutosh Kumar Srivastava (Supra) related to incorrectly filling up the online forms in respect of the marks obtained by the petitioners in the previous examinations which is also not be case at hand.

10. In the opinion of the Court the Respondent No.2, Secretary, Examination Regulatory Authority, has not dealt with the core issue as to whether the non-disclosure by the petitioners of their eligibility qualification BTC (by distance education) would dis-entitle them to the allotment of the district as per their choice as also to the weightage admissible to Shiksha Mitra. The candidates were required to disclose their training qualification acquired. The training qualifications acquired recognized were as follows:-

1. D. El. Ed. (BTC) from an institution recognized by NCTE and affiliated to the State Government.

2. Shikshamitra (Trained through distance education method and graduate Shikshamitra passed two years BTC.

3. D. Ed. (Two Years Diploma in Education from NCTE recognized Institute).

4. D. Ed. Special Education (Rehabilitation Council of India (RCI) recognized Institute)

5. Specialized BTC (Operated in Uttar Pradesh Recognized by NCTE).

6. Two Year BTC Urdu Special Training (Operated in Uttar Pradesh)

7. B. El. Ed. (4-year Bachelor of Elementary Education)

8. B. Ed. - Bachelor of Education (from U.G.C./NCTE recognized institution)

11. There are no instructions to the candidates that the candidates were required to fill the information corresponding to the serial numbers which were to be treated as the category code. The fact remains that the candidates were required to be BTC irrespective of wherefrom and by what mode they had obtained the training qualification.

12. The Court finds no substance in submission of the learned counsel for the respondents that the petitioner did not fill in the information that they were Shiksha Mitra having obtained the BTC qualification by distant education made in their online application form and on account of the said non disclosure the software did not identify them as Shiksha Mitra and consequently, did not extend the weightage admissible to them. In the opinion of the Court, it is the faulty programming and the petitioners have satisfied the eligibility criteria could not be denied the appointment. However, the Court upholds the stand of the respondents that no correction could be made in the online form of the petitioners.

13. In view of the above, the writ petition is allowed in part. The impugned orders dated 05.11.2020 and 10.11.2020 (Annexure Nos.7 & 8) to the writ petition respectively) are quashed to the extent it denies the relief of including the names of the petitioners in the list of selected candidates for allotment of the District for appointment as Assistant Teachers. The impugned orders so far as it holds that no correction can be made in the online application forms are upheld. The respondents shall now proceed to include the names of the petitioners in the list of successful candidates for allotment of the Districts and allot the Districts as per their preference and quality point marks and issue the appointment letters accordingly. The entire exercise shall be done within a period of two months from the date of service of certified copy of the order of this Court upon the concerned respondents.

A. Civil Law - Service Matter - Disciplinary Proceeding - Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999, Rule 7. Issue: If the procedure for a major penalty was initiated, is it mandatory to conduct a regular enquiry and further provide an opportunity of oral evidence to the concerned employee? Held: Once the procedure is started for a major penalty, the same has to be completed as provided in the Rules, and if the same is left midway, the enquiry proceeding shall be vitiated. Once the enquiry proceeding is vitiated, no penalty, either major or minor, can be imposed upon the employee. (Paras 24, 25)

Petitioner was suspended by the disciplinary authority under the contemplation of a disciplinary proceeding invoking provisions contained under Rule 7 of the Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999, for imposing a major penalty. Enquiry Officer served charge sheet. Petitioner submitted his reply/explanation denying all the charges made in the charge sheet. Without conducting a regular enquiry and without supplying documents and papers on the basis of which the petitioner was suspended, respondent No.3 ex-parte took the allegations as proved and petitioner was awarded a minor punishment. Held: Enquiry proceeding was initiated after the suspension of the petitioner for imposing a major penalty, but ultimately, without completing the same, a minor penalty was imposed, which was in violation of the Rules as well as the law laid down by the Apex Court. Such an order cannot be sustained in the eye of law. (Para 25)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Prakash Padia, J.)

1. The petitioner has preferred this Writ Petition for issuance of a writ of certiorari to quash the order dated 22.09.2000 passed by the respondent No.3/District Magistrate Ballia as well as order dated 30.04.2003 passed by respondent No.2/Commissioner, Azamgarh Region Azamgarh, which was communicated to the petitioner on 04.06.2003.

2. Brief facts of the case are that petitioner while posted at the office of District Supply Officer Ballia, was suspended by the respondent No.3/District Magistrate Ballia vide its order dated 13.01.2000 and District Supply Officer was appointed as Enquiry Officer. District Supply Officer/Enquiry Officer/respondent No.5 served charge-sheet upon the petitioner on 29.04.2000 on the basis of certain paper which were never provided to the petitioner with a direction to submit reply. The petitioner submitted his reply/explanation vide letter dated 04.05.2000 denying all the charges made in the charge-sheet.

3. After submission of the reply, the petitioner was anticipating that a regular enquiry be conducted in the matter and he shall also be afforded an opportunity to cross examine the witness of prosecution and test the credibility of evidence of prosecution and also be given an opportunity to adduce evidence in his defence. But without conducting regular enquiry and without supplying documents and papers on the basis of which the petitioner was suspended, the respondent No.3 ex-parte took the allegations proved without providing any notice or opportunity of hearing and passed the order of suspension stating that the petitioner has not given any evidence along with the reply. After receipt of notice dated 11.09.2000 issued by respondent No.3 for showing cause on proposed penalty, the petitioner showed the cause vide its letter/reply dated 13.09.2000 stating therein that whatever fault have alleged to have been levelled on the petitioner were circumstantial and were caused by collectively and alleged charges levelled against the petitioner has not been done by him and the mistake committed due to over burden of work but the respondent No.3 without considering the same and without providing any opportunity of hearing, without supplying the documents and papers and relying only upon the report of the Enquiry Officer, the respondent No.3 passed the order an ex-parte manner. Against the order dated 22.09.2000 passed by respondent No.3, the petitioner preferred the appeal before respondent No.2/Commissioner, Azamgarh Division Azamgarh on 02.11.2000 and the respondent No.2 rejected the appeal the appeal has no force.

4. The main ground of challenge the aforesaid orders is that the petitioner was suspended by the disciplinary authority under contemplation of disciplinary proceeding while invoking provisions contained under Rule 7 of Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 for imposing major penalty but while proceeding was under progress, the petitioner has been awarded minor punishment contrary to the law laid down by this Court in the case of Sohan Lal Vs. U.P. Co-operative Federation Ltd. and another; 2013 (6) ADJ 250 (DB) as well as the law laid down by Lucknow Bench of this Court in the case of State of U.P. and others Vs. Ashtebhuja Mishra and another; 2017(9) ADJ 373 (DB) and Kamla Charan Misra Vs. State of U.P. and others; 2008 Law Suit (All) 1016 (DB).

5. Refuting the submission of learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel rely upon a judgment of the Apex Court in the case of D.H.B.V.N.L. Vidyut Nagar, Hisar and others Vs. Yashvir Singh Gulia; 2013 (SC) 568 has submitted that if the procedure for imposing major penalty has been started and in the meantime, if the authority comes to the conclusion that it is the case of imposing minor penalty and the minor penalty is awarded, the order cannot be faulted.

6. In response to the argument, learned counsel for the petitioner contended that in case of D.H.B.V.N.L. (supra) there is a provision under the Rules to award minor penalty even in a case where the procedure for awarding major penalty is under progress, whereas there is no such provision under the Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 under which proceeding has been initiated against the petitioner.

7. We have considered the argument raised by learned counsel for the parties and have perused the record.

8. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has submitted that neither oral witnesses were examined nor date, time and place were fixed by the Enquiry Officer, therefore, in light thereof, no charges have been proved. It is stated that enquiry proceeding was initiated under the provision of U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules 1999 and Rule 7 of Rule 1999 which clearly provides procedure for imposing major penalty. For ready reference, the same may be quoted herein below;

"7. Procedure for imposing major penalties. - Before imposing any major penalty on a Government servant, an inquiry shall be held in the following manner :

(i) The disciplinary authority may himself inquire into the charges or appoint an authority subordinate to him as Inquiry Officer to inquire into the charges.

(ii) The facts constituting the misconduct on which it is proposed to take action shall be reduced in the form of definite charge or charges to be called charge-sheet. The charge-sheet shall be approved by the disciplinary authority :

Provided that where the appointing authority is Governor, the charge-sheet may be approved by the Principal Secretary or the Secretary; as the case may be, of the concerned department.

(iii) The charges framed shall be so precise and clear as to give sufficient indication to the charged Government servant of the facts and circumstances against him. The proposed documentary evidence and the name of the witnesses proposed to prove the same alongwith oral evidence, if any, shall be mentioned in the charge-sheet.

(iv) The charged Government servant shall be required to put in a written statement of his defence in person on a specified date which shall not be less than 15 days from the date of issue of charge-sheet and to state whether he desires to cross-examine any witness mentioned in the charge-sheet and whether desires to give or produce evidence in his defence. He shall also be informed that in case he does not appear or file the written statement on the specified date, it will be presumed that he has none to furnish and Inquiry Officer shall proceed to complete the inquiry ex parte.

(v) The charge-sheet, alongwith the copy of the documentary evidences mentioned therein and list of witnesses and their statements, if any shall be served on the charged Government servant personally or by registered post at the address mentioned in the official records. In case the charge-sheet could not be served in aforesaid manner, the charge-sheet shall be served by publication in a daily newspaper having wide circulation :

Provided that where the documentary evidence is voluminous, instead of furnishing its copy with charge-sheet, the charged Government servant shall be permitted to inspect the same before the Inquiry Officer.

(vi) Where the charged Government servant appears and admits the charges, the Inquiry Officer shall submit his report to the disciplinary authority on the basis of such admission.

(vii) Where the charged Government servant denies the charges, the Inquiry Officer shall proceed to call the witnesses proposed in the charge-sheet and record their oral evidence in presence of the charged Government servant who shall be given opportunity to cross-examine such witnesses. After recording the aforesaid evidence, the Inquiry Officer shall call and record the oral evidence which the charged Government servant desired in his written statement to be produced in his defence :

Provided that the Inquiry Officer may for reasons to be recorded in writing refuse to call a witness.

(viii) The Inquiry Officer may summon any witness to give evidence or require any person to produce documents before him in accordance with the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh

Departmental Inquiries (Enforcement of Attendance of Witnesses and Production of Documents) Act, 1976.

(ix) The Inquiry Officer may ask any question he pleases, at any time of any witness or from person charged with a view to discover the truth or to obtain proper proof of facts relevant to charges.

(x) Where the charged Government servant does not appear on the date fixed in the inquiry or at any stage of the proceeding inspite of the service of the notice on him or having knowledge of the date, the Inquiry Officer shall proceed with the inquiry ex parte. In such a case the Inquiry Officer shall record the statement of witnesses mentioned in the charge-sheet in absence of the charged Government servant.

(xi) The disciplinary authority, if it considers it necessary to do so, may, by an order appoint a Government servant or a legal practitioner, to be known as "Presenting Officer" to present on its behalf the case in support of the charge.

(xii) The Government servant may take the assistance of any other Government servant to present the case on his behalf but not engage a legal practitioner for the purpose unless the Presenting Officer appointed by the disciplinary authority is a legal practitioner of the disciplinary authority having regard to the circumstances of the case so permits :

Provided that this rule shall not apply in following cases :

(i) Where any major penalty is imposed on a person on the ground of conduct which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge; or

(ii) Where the disciplinary authority is satisfied that for reason to be recorded by it in writing, that it is not reasonably practicable to hold an inquiry in the manner provided in these rules; or

(iii) Where the Governor is satisfied that, in the interest of the security of the State, it is not expedient to hold an inquiry in the manner provided in these rules."

9. Basic issues before this Court is that if procedure for major penalty was initiated, is it mandatory to conduct the regular enquiry and further provided opportunity of oral evidence to the concerned employee? In this reference, it is necessary to refer certain judgments of Supreme Court as well as of this Court, in which this issue considered.

10. This Hon'ble Court in the matter of Kamla Charan Misra Vs. State of U.P. and others: 2009 (2) AWC 1259 has considered this issue. For ready reference, para 9 and 10 of this judgment are quoted herein below;

"9. There is one more reason which necessitates the enquiry officer to hold a regular enquiry. In the present case, a charge-sheet was served upon the petitioner and after receipt of the charge-sheet, the petitioner had submitted a reply denying the charges levelled against him. After receipt of the reply to the charge-sheet, the enquiry officer submitted a report on 4.8.1992. While submitting reply to the charge-sheet, the petitioner has specifically pleaded that the enquiry officer has not conducted the enquiry fairly. Since the respondents have proceeded ahead by adopting the procedure of major penalty and the enquiry officer has completed the enquiry and submitted a report, the defence taken by the learned standing counsel does not seem to be sustainable. Once, the disciplinary authority adopted the procedure of enquiry for major penalty and appointed an officer as enquiry officer, who held the enquiry and submitted a report, in such situation, it shall always be incumbent on the part of the enquiry officer to hold the enquiry adopting the procedure for regular enquiry. Regular enquiry means, after reply to the charge-sheet, the enquiry officer must record oral evidence with an opportunity to the delinquent employee to cross-examine the witnesses and thereafter, opportunity should be given to the delinquent employee to adduce evidence in defence. The opportunity of personal hearing should also be afforded to the delinquent employee. Even if the charged employee does not co-operate with the enquiry, it shall be incumbent upon the enquiry officer to proceed ex parte by recording oral evidence vide Jagdish Prasad Singh v. State of U.P. 1990 LCD 486; Avatar Singh v. State of U.P. 1998 LCD 199; Town Area Committee. Jalalabad v. Jagdish Prasad : AIR1978SC1407 ; Managing Director, U.P. Welfare Housing Corporation v. Vijay Narain Bajpai : (1980)ILLJ222SC ; State of U.P. v. Shatrughan Lal : [1998]3SCR939 ; Chandrama Tewari v. Union of India and Ors. AIR 1998 SC 117 and Anil Kumar v. Presiding Officer and Ors. AIR 1985 SC 1121.

10. In a case in State Bank of India v. T.J. Pal 1999 SCC (L&S;) 922 and Union of India v. S.C. Parasar 2006 SCC

(L&S;) 496 : 2006 (5) AWC 5129 (SC), Hon'ble Supreme Court ruled that in a departmental proceeding, where the procedure for major penalty is initiated then even if disciplinary authority awards minor penalty, the enquiry should be completed by adopting the procedure prescribed for major penalty.

In view of the above, the argument advanced by the learned standing counsel that the procedure prescribed for minor penalty was rightly followed does not seem to be sustainable."

11. This was also an issue before the Supreme Court in case of State of Uttar Pradesh v. Saroj Kumar Sinha reported (2010) 2 SCC 772 held that :-

"An inquiry officer acting in a quasi-judicial authority is in the position of an independent adjudicator. He is not supposed to be a representative of the department/disciplinary authority/Government. His function is to examine the evidence presented by the Department, even in the absence of the delinquent official to see as to whether the un rebutted evidence is sufficient to hold that the charges are proved. In the present case the aforesaid procedure has not been observed. Since no oral evidence has been examined the documents have not been proved, and could not have been taken into consideration to conclude that the charges have been proved against the respondents.

When a departmental enquiry is conducted against the government servant it cannot be treated as a casual exercise. The enquiry proceedings also cannot be conducted with a closed mind. The inquiry officer has to be wholly unbiased. The rules of natural justice are required to be observed to ensure not only that justice is done but is manifestly seen to be done. The object of rules of natural justice is to ensure that a government servant is treated fairly in proceedings which may culminate in imposition of punishment including dismissal/removal from service."

12. Similar view was taken by Supreme Court in Roop Singh Negi v. Punjab National Bank, (2009) 2 SCC 570:-

"Indisputably, a departmental proceeding is a quasi-judicial proceeding. The enquiry officer performs a quasi-judicial function. The charges levelled against the delinquent officer must be found to have been proved. The enquiry officer has a duty to arrive at a finding upon taking into consideration the materials brought on record by the parties. The purported evidence collected during investigation by the investigating officer against all the accused by itself could not be treated to be evidence in the disciplinary proceeding. No witness was examined to prove the said documents. The management witnesses merely tendered the documents and did not prove the contents thereof. Reliance, inter alia, was placed by the enquiry officer on the FIR which could not have been treated as evidence."

13. This Court has also taken same view in Subhas Chandra Sharma v. Managing Director and another reported 2000(1) UPLBEC 541:-

"In our opinion after the petitioner replied to the charge-sheet a date should have been fixed for the enquiry and the petitioner should have been intimated the date, time and place of the enquiry and on that date the oral and documentary evidence against the petitioner should have been led in his presence and he should have been given an opportunity to cross-examine the witnesses against him and also he should have been given an opportunity to produce his own witnesses and evidence. If the petitioner in response to this intimation had failed to appear for the enquiry then an ex parte enquiry should have been held but the petitioner's service should have not been terminated without holding an enquiry. In the present case it appears that no regular enquiry was held at all. All that was done that after receipt of the petitioner's reply to the charge-sheet he was given a show-cause notice and thereafter the dismissal order was passed. In our opinion this was not the correct legal procedure and there was violation of the rules of natural justice. Since no date for enquiry was fixed nor any enquiry held in which evidence was led in our opinion the impugned order is clearly violative of natural justice."

14. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Meenglas Tea Estate v. The workmen., AIR 1963 SC 1719, has held that;

"It is an elementary principle that a person who is required to answer a charge must know not only the accusation but also the testimony by which the accusation is supported. He must be given a fair chance to hear the evidence in support of the charge and to put such relevant questions by way to cross-examination as he desires. Then he must be given a chance to rebut the evidence led against him. This is the barest requirement of an enquiry of this character and this requirement must be substantially fulfilled before the result of the enquiry can be accepted".

15. In the case of S.C. Girotra v. United Commercial Bank 1995 Supp. (3) SCC 212, Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed that;

"The Supreme Court set aside a dismissal order which was passed without giving the employee an opportunity of cross-examination. In State of U.P. v. C. S. Sharma, AIR 1968 SC 158, the Supreme Court held that omission to give opportunity to the officer to produce his witnesses and lead evidence in his defence vitiates the proceedings. The Court also held that in the enquiry witnesses have to be examined in support of the allegations, and opportunity has to be given to the delinquent to cross-examine these witnesses and to lead evidence in his defence. In Punjab National Bank v. A.I.P.N.B.E. Federation, AIR 1960 SC 160, (vide para 66) the Supreme Court held that in such enquiries evidence must be recorded in the presence of the charge-sheeted employee and he must be given an opportunity to rebut the said evidence. The same view was taken in A.C.C. Ltd. v. Their Workmen, (1963) II LLJ. 396, and in Tata Oil Mills Co. Ltd. v. Their Workmen, (1963) II LLJ. 78 (SC).

Even if the employee refuses to participate in the enquiry the employer cannot straightaway dismiss him, but he must hold an ex-parte enquiry where evidence must be led vide Imperial Tobacco Co. Ltd. v. Its Workmen, AIR 1962 SC 1348, Uma Shankar v. Registrar, 1992 (65) FLR 674 (All)."

16. The above judgment was followed by a Division Bench in Subhas Chandra Sharma v. U.P.Co-operative Spinning Mills and others reported 2001 (2) UPLBEC 1475 the Court held thus:

"In cases where a major punishment proposed to be imposed an oral enquiry is a must, whether the employee request, for it or not. For this it is necessary to issue a notice to the employee concerned intimating him date, time and place of the enquiry as held by the Division Bench of this Court in Subhash Chandra Sharma v. Managing Director, (2000) 1 UPLBEC 541, against which SLP has been dismissed by the Supreme Court on 16-8-2000."

17. This Court has also taken the same view in the case of Rajesh Prasad Mishra v. Commissioner, Jhansi Division, Jhansi and others reported 2010 (1) UPLBEC 216 and has observed as under:

"Now coming to the question, what is the effect of non-holding of oral inquiry, I find that, in a case where the inquiry officer is appointed, oral inquiry is mandatory. The charges are not deemed to be proved suo motu merely on account of levelling them by means of the charge sheet unless the same are proved by the department before the inquiry officer and only thereafter it is the turn of delinquent employee to place his defence. Holding oral enquiry is mandatory before imposing a major penalty, as held by Apex Court in State of U.P. & another Vs. T.P.Lal Srivastava, 1997 (1) LLJ 831 as well as by a Division Bench of this Court in Subhash Chandra Sharma Vs. Managing Director & another, 2000 (1) U.P.L.B.E.C. 541.

The question as to whether non holding of oral inquiry can vitiate the entire proceeding or not has also been considered in detail by a Division Bench of this Court (in which I was also a member) in the case of Salahuddin Ansari Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2008(3) ESC 1667 and the Court has clearly held that non holding of oral inquiry is a serious flaw which vitiates the entire disciplinary proceeding including the order of punishment."

18. The Division Bench of this Court in the case of Mahesh Narain Gupta v. State of U.P. and others reported (2011) 2 ILR 570 had also deal with the same issue. It held:

"At this stage, we are to observe that in the disciplinary proceedings against a delinquent, the department is just like a plaintiff and initial burden lies on the department to prove the charges which can certainly be proved only by collecting some oral evidence or documentary evidence, in presence and notice charged employee. Even if the department is to rely its own record/document which are already available, then also the enquiry officer by looking into them and by assigning his own reason after analysis, will have to record a finding that those documents are sufficient enough to prove the charges.

In no case, approach of the Enquiry Officer that as no reply has been submitted, the charge will have to be automatically proved can be approved. This will be erroneous. It has been repeatedly said that disciplinary authority has a right to proceed against delinquent employee in ex parte manner but some evidence will have to be collected and justification to sustain the charges will have to be stated in detail. The approach of the enquiry officer of automatic prove of charges on account of non filing of reply is clearly misconceived and erroneous. This is against the principle of natural justice, fair play, fair hearing and, thus, enquiry officer has to be cautioned in this respect."

19. In another case in Subhash Chandra Gupta v. State of U.P. reported 2012 (1) UPLBEC 166 the Division Bench of this Court after going through the different judgements on this issue observed as under:

"It is well settled that when the statute provides to do a thing in a particular manner that thing has to be done in that very manner. We are of the considered opinion that any punishment awarded on the basis of an enquiry not conducted in accordance with the enquiry rules meant for that very purposes is unsustainable in the eye of law. We are further of the view that the procedure prescribed under the inquiry rules for imposing major penalty is mandatory in nature and unless those procedures are followed, any outcome inferred thereon will be of no avail unless the charges are so glaring and unrefutable which does not require any proof. The view taken by us find support from the judgement of the Apex Court in State of U.P. & another Vs. T.P.Lal Srivastava, 1997 (1) LLJ 831 as well as by a Division Bench of this Court in Subash Chandra Sharma Vs. Managing Director & another, 2000 (1) U.P.L.B.E.C. 541.

A Division Bench decision of this Court in the case of Salahuddin Ansari Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2008 (3) ESC 1667 held that non holding of oral inquiry is a serious flaw which can vitiate the order of disciplinary proceeding including the order of punishment has observed as under:-

" 10..... Non holding of oral inquiry in such a case, is a serious matter and goes to the root of the case.

11. A Division Bench of this Court in Subash Chandra Sharma Vs.

Managing Director & another, 2000 (1) U.P.L.B.E.C. 541, considering the question as to whether holding of an oral inquiry is necessary or not, held that if no oral inquiry is held, it amounts to denial of principles of natural justice to the delinquent employee. The aforesaid view was reiterated in Subash Chandra Sharma Vs. U.P.Cooperative Spinning Mills & others, 2001 (2) U.P.L.B.E.C. 1475 and Laturi Singh Vs U.P.Public Service Tribunal & others, Writ Petition No. 12939 of 2001, decided on 06.05.2005."

20. In case of Sohan Lal Vs. U.P. Co-operative Federation Ltd. and another; 2013 (6) ADJ 250 (DB), the same issue was very much before the Court and Court has considered the above issue. For ready reference, para 31, 32, 33, 34 and 35 of this judgment are quoted herein below;

"31. It was, however, pointed out on behalf of respondents that punishment actually awarded to petitioner is only recovery and censure/special adverse entry and both being minor punishment, the punishment order ought not be interfered on the ground that no oral inquiry is held since before imposing a minor punishment oral inquiry is not obligatory.

32. In our view the submission is thoroughly misconceived. From perusal of charge sheet it cannot be doubted that the charges, if have been proved, petitioner could have been liable to be awarded a major penalty. The competent authority also proceeded with an intention that charges, if proved, may result in major penalty and it is for this reason earlier he was suspended and then he appointed an Inquiry Officer. Appointment of Inquiry Officer for holding oral inquiry shows the intention of the disciplinary authority that the employee may suffer major penalty. In those cases where oral inquiry is necessary i.e. cases of major penalty, inquiry officer is ordinarily appointed otherwise simply by issuing a charge sheet and receiving reply, a minor penalty could have been awarded, which is not the case here.

33. The intention of disciplinary authority is further clear from the fact that petitioner was placed under suspension. Suspension is permissible only when charges are so serious so as to attract major penalty. Besides, even the show cause notice issued to petitioner proposed a major penalty.

34. We are clearly of the view that the ultimate result shall not govern the manner of preceding disciplinary proceedings inasmuch as the authorities, if found no proof of serious charges to justify major penalty, therefore, imposed minor penalty, it would not distract from the fact that proceedings were initiated for major penalty and despite denying adequate opportunity to delinquent employee, i.e., by not holding oral inquiry, he was able to show shallowness of charges which satisfy the disciplinary authority that major penalty is not warranted. If adequate opportunity would have been afforded to delinquent employee, he could have demonstrated that no penalty whatsoever is liable to be inflicted upon him, since, the charges in entirety, are baseless etc. It is the inception of proceedings which will govern the manner of disciplinary proceedings to be conducted and not the ultimate result. Therefore, mere fact that lastly only minor penalty could have been inflicted upon petitioner, would not dilute his legal right that disciplinary inquiry when initiated must have been held in conformity with procedure prescribed, attracting provisions, applicable at the inception of inquiry.

35. After careful consideration of the facts we are of the view that the disciplinary proceedings are vitiated for the aforesaid reasons. The impugned order dated 29.8.2000 passed by respondent no.2 herein is liable to be quashed. Accordingly it is quashed."

21. This Court in the matter of State of U.P. and others Vs. Ashtebhuja Mishra and another; 2017(9) ADJ 373 (DB) has also taken the same view.

22. Learned Standing Counsel has placed reliance upon another judgment of this Court in the case of D.H.B.V.N.L. Vidyut Nagar, Hisar and others Vs. Yashvir Singh Gulia; 213 Legal Eagle (SC) 568 and submitted that even if procedure is started for major penalty, disciplinary authority may impose minor penalty.

23. I have carefully perused the above referred judgment of Apex Court, which is distinguishable for the reason that there under the Rules it is provided that if procedure has been started for major penalty, disciplinary authority may impose minor penalty in place of major penalty. Here it is not so.

24. Therefore, in the light of law laid down by the Apex Court and followed by this Court time to time, this fact is very much clear that once the procedure is started for major penalty, the same has to be completed as provided in the Rules and if the same is left away in the mid way, enquiry proceeding shall be vitiated.

25. Once the enquiry proceeding is vitiated, no penalty either major or minor can be imposed upon the employee. This Court in the matter of Kamla Charan Misra and Sohan Lal (supra) has taken the view that once the enquiry proceeding initiated has not been completed as provided in the Rule and ultimately minor penalty may not be imposed. In present case too, this fact is very much clear that enquiry proceeding was initiated after suspension of petitioner for imposing major penalty but ultimately without completing the same, minor penalty has been imposed, which is in-violation of Rule as well as law laid down by Apex Court as well as of this Court, therefore, such order can not be sustained in the eye of law.

26. In view of above, the order dated 22.09.2000 passed by the respondent No.3/District Magistrate Ballia as well as order dated 30.04.2003 passed by respondent No.2/Commissioner, Azamgarh Region Azamgarh are hereby quashed. The writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

27. The respondents are at liberty to proceed in accordance with law.

A. Civil Law - Disciplinary proceedings - Uttar Pradesh Police Officers of Subordinate Rank (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 - Rule 14 - Issue: Whether the Tribunal was competent to usurp the role of an appellate authority by setting aside the punishment order when, admittedly, the factum of the charge of overstay of leave was not denied by the employee? Held: Courts/Tribunals are not to act as appellate authorities in disciplinary proceedings. Tribunal exceeded its jurisdiction in setting aside the impugned order passed by the Disciplinary Authority imposing punishment on the respondent. At most, Tribunal could have remitted the matter to the Disciplinary Authority to pass a fresh order. Tribunal was not within its jurisdiction and competence to set aside the punishment while sitting in appeal without returning a finding that the disciplinary enquiry stood vitiated for breach of statutory provisions of the Rules, 1991, or that the punishment was not commensurate with the guilt or perverse. (Para 35, 36)

B. Uttar Pradesh Police Officers of Subordinate Rank (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 - Appendix-1 of Rules, 1991 - Appendix-1 of the Rules, 1991, specifically provides that the Inquiry Officer may recommend the proposed punishment after concluding the departmental proceedings. The proviso to this Appendix provides that the Inquiry Officer may also, separately from these proceedings, make his own recommendation regarding the punishment to be imposed on the charged police officer. (Delivered by Hon'ble Suneet Kumar, J.

Hon'ble Rajendra Kumar -IV, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Monika Arya, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the petitioners and Sri Ram Narain, learned Counsel for the respondent.

2. The respondent-petitioners by the instant writ petition are assailing the order dated 23 March, 2021, passed in Claim Petition No.707 of 2016, by the State Public Services Tribunal, Lucknow (for short, "Tribunal"), allowing the petition of the applicant-respondent setting aside the order of punishment imposed upon the applicant-respondent in disciplinary proceedings.

3. The short question that arises for consideration is, as to whether the Tribunal was competent to usurp upon itself the role of an appellate authority by setting aside the punishment order, when admittedly, the factum of the charge of overstay of leave was not denied by the employee.

4. The facts giving rise to the instant writ petition is that the respondent was working as a Constable since 2003, he was charged for unauthorized absence from duty from 10 November, 2006 to 09 August, 2007, and for the subsequent development of having been arrested, and imprisoned in case crime no.252 of 2008, under Section 25 Arms Act; case crime no.252 of 2008, under Sections 8/20 NDPS Act and case crime no.184 of 2008, under Section 392 & 411 IPC. In all the cases charge sheet has been submitted against the respondent.

5. Disciplinary proceedings came to be initiated under Rule 14(1) of the Uttar Pradesh Police Officers of Subordinate Rank (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 (for short, "Rules, 1991"), for imposition of major penalty. It appears that respondent did not participate in the inquiry, consequently, he came to be dismissed from service by order dated 09 August, 2007, purportedly passed under Rule 8 (2) of the Rules, 1991. The order, however, came to be quashed by this Court in Writ-A No.16992 of 2008, vide order dated 18 April, 2008. The Court, however, left it open to the authorities to conduct an inquiry against the respondent as per rules.

6. On the date of passing of the order by the Court, respondent was languishing in jail on being arrested in the aforementioned criminal cases. The respondent came to be bailed out on 16 July, 2008, but did not report for duty, nor, did he appear before the authority for reinstating him in service. In other words, respondent did not inform the authorities about his imprisonment and registration of criminal cases against him. It is only in the year 2013, he gave an application on 05 April, 2013, to the concerned authority requesting for reinstatement in service. Thereafter, respondent came to be reinstated in service and a fresh disciplinary proceedings was sought to be initiated against him in compliance of the order of the State Government dated 17 January, 2014.

7. A fact finding inquiry was setup to report with regard to his unauthorized absence and subsequent custody of the respondent in the criminal cases. The Officer submitted a preliminary inquiry report on 30 June, 2014, and supplementary report on 23 September, 2014. Thereafter, respondent was issued charge sheet dated 07 October, 2014, initiating disciplinary proceedings under Section 14(1) of the Rules, 1991, on a charge of being absent unauthorizedly from 16 November, 2006, and for being arrested and imprisoned in the criminal cases lodged against the respondent. The respondent submitted his objections dated 24 October, 2014, to the charge admitting his absence, but furnished explanation for his absence. The witnesses noted in support of the charge were examined in the presence of the respondent and was allowed to cross examine the witnesses on the date and time fixed by the Inquiry Officer. Thereafter, respondent was permitted to file his defence by the Inquiry Officer vide communication dated 05 November, 2014. The respondent filed his reply / application dated 15 November, 2014, submitting that he did not desire to produce any other evidence or witness in defence and requested the Inquiry Officer to consider his explanation submitted earlier and pass appropriate orders. The statement of the respondent was also recorded on the same date i.e. 15 November, 2014. Thereafter, Inquiry Officer submitted Inquiry Report dated 07 January, 2015, wherein, the charge of unauthorized absence was proved against the respondent.

8. The charge against the respondent was that he was directed on 16 November, 2006, to proceed from Agra to the place of his destination at Lucknow University, along-with, Manik Chandra and report for duty at Lucknow, but in midway he vanished and did not join the team at the destination in Lucknow. Further, respondent had suppressed the registration of the FIR lodged against him and did not inform the authorities with regard to his arrest. Accordingly, Inquiry Officer was of the view that the conduct of the respondent falls under the category of grave indiscipline and carelessness towards his duty. The Inquiry Officer taking a lenient view however recommended punishment to revert the respondent on the lowest pay scale for three years and not to pay salary and other emoluments for the period of unauthorized absence from duty i.e. 16 November, 2006 to 09 August, 2007.

9. Disciplinary Authority issued show cause notice dated 15 February, 2015, calling upon the respondent to submit his objection to the proposed punishment. The respondent filed objections to the notice on 03 March, 2015. Third petitioner - Commandant, 15th Battalion, Agra / Disciplinary Authority, vide order dated 14 May, 2015, imposed punishment of reduction to the lowest pay scale for three years for unauthorized absence from 10 November, 2006 to 09 August, 2007.

10. Aggrieved, respondent filed an appeal before the second petitioner - Deputy Inspector General of Police, PAC Agra, which came to be dismissed by a speaking order dated 26 December, 2015. The respondent instead of filing revision before next higher officer, approached the Tribunal by instituting a claim petition challenging the impugned orders of punishment.

11. The learned Tribunal allowed the claim petition returning a finding that Inquiry Officer had ignored the medical certificates submitted by the respondent which was a justified explanation for his absence. A finding was returned that the absence was not willful but due to compelling circumstances. The Tribunal was of the opinion that no inquiry was made by the Inquiry Officer with regard to the validity of the medical certificates submitted by the respondents in defence of his unauthorized absence. Further, Tribunal was of the view that the Inquiry Officer committed an illegality proposing the punishment that ought to be awarded to the respondent, therefore, Disciplinary Authority without application of mind mechanically awarded the punishment proposed by the Inquiry Officer.

12. Learned Tribunal set aside the impugned punishment orders primarily on the ground that no inquiry or investigation was made by the Disciplinary Authority or Appellate Authority with regard to the validity of the medical certificates submitted by the respondent, consequently, the medical certificates could not have been disbelieved by the Inquiry Officer.

13. Learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State submits that the learned Tribunal committed an error in sitting in appeal over the findings returned by the Inquiry Officer. The Inquiry Officer did not recommend any punishment, rather, proposed the punishment that may be imposed upon the respondent. The Disciplinary Authority after show cause notice imposed the punishment by a reasoned and speaking order. It was always open to the Disciplinary Authority to have imposed a severe punishment having regard to the nature of charge against the respondent.

14. It is further submitted that the medical certificates clearly shows that the respondent was an outdoor patient for simple health issues and did not require in-house hospitalization. In the circumstances, the respondent ought to have informed the authorities about his absence and subsequent arrest.

15. It is further submitted that the Inquiry Officer had rightly not accepted the medical certificates as on the face of it, did not disclose any serious ailment which required indoor treatment or confinement to bed. It is finally submitted that Tribunal committed an error usurping upon itself the role of the Disciplinary Authority in setting aside the punishment, rather, the matter should have been remitted to the Disciplinary Authority to pass a fresh order of punishment. The Tribunal could not have set aside the order of punishment without returning a finding that the disciplinary proceeding was vitiated and nonest for non compliance of the provisions of Rules, 1991, or, otherwise.

16. Learned Counsel appearing for the respondent does not dispute the facts and admits that respondent employee had participated in the disciplinary proceedings, filed his objections and cross examined the witnesses. In other words he does not dispute that the procedure contemplated under Rules, 1991, was not duly complied.

17. On specific query, he categorically submits that the factum of the charge of unauthorized absence and that the respondent was arrested in criminal cases was not disputed, but reliance was placed on the medical certificates to explain and justify the unauthorized absence. It is, therefore, submitted that the Tribunal has not committed any illegality or infirmity in setting aside the punishment order, having regard to the medical certificates. The absence from duty was not wilful and deliberate.

18. Rival submissions fall for considerations.

19. The facts inter-se parties are not disputed.

20. It is settled principle of law that the Courts / Tribunal in exercise of its power of judicial review of disciplinary proceedings cannot sit in appeal and examine the sufficiency of the evidence led in the disciplinary proceedings. The judicial review of disciplinary proceedings is confined and limited to the procedure as to whether the disciplinary proceedings was conducted fairly as per the Rules and that the respondent employee was given full and fair opportunity to present his case before the Inquiry Officer.

21. The Tribunal / Court in exercise of jurisdiction of judicial review of disciplinary proceedings can interfere only when conclusions of the Inquiry Officer is perverse or based on no evidence. On appreciation of evidence, it is not open for the Tribunal / Court to substitute its own opinion based on the appreciation of material on record on the charges proved.

22. A finding of fact recorded by the Disciplinary Authority cannot be challenged on the ground that the relevant and material evidence adduced before the Disciplinary Authority is insufficient or inadequate to sustain a finding. The adequacy or sufficiency of evidence led on a point and the inference of fact drawn from the said fact are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Tribunal. [Refer: Syed Yakoob versus K.S. Radhakrishnan¹;

Union of India versus P. Gunasekaran²; Union of India versus Flight Cadet Ashish Rai³ and Hombe Gowda Educational Trust versus State of Karnataka⁴].

23. In the admitted facts of the present case, the factum of the charge of unauthorized absence and subsequent arrest and confinement in jail is not disputed. Further, it is admitted that while on duty the respondent vanished in between and did not report at the station of duty along-with his colleague. It is admitted that the respondent did not inform the authorities that he could not report for duty due his severe illness. It is also admitted that he came to be arrested subsequently in three criminal cases of serious nature and on being enlarged on bail on 16 July, 2008, he reported for reinstatement on 05 April, 2013 i.e. after a lapse of almost five years of absence.

24. In the circumstances, since the year 2006 till 2013, for almost seven years, the respondent being a member of a disciplined Force absented himself without information which is a gross misconduct. The Inquiry Officer on perusal of the medical certificates submitted by the respondent in his defence was justified in not accepting the certificates as it was procured by the respondent to justify his unauthorized absence. The medical certificates relied upon by the respondent has been placed on record.

25. The medical certificates were obtained from Medical Superintendent Officer, Community Health Center Sadabad, Mathura, dated 07 December, 2016, certifying that the respondent was suffering from "pain with tenderness". Accordingly, in the opinion of the Medical Officer, the absence of the respondent from 17 November, 2006 to 07 December, 2006, was absolutely necessary for 'restoration of his health'. The other medical certificate dated 26 October, 2007, issued by the Senior Medical Officer, District Hospital, Mathura, records that since the respondent was suffering from 'acute lumbar with sciatica', therefore, advised to take rest from 20 February, 2007 to 26 October, 2007. The other medical certificate issued by the District Hospital, Mathura, which is undated, records that respondent was issued OPD No.203920 and advised 15 days plus 8 weeks rest from 08 December, 2006 to 19 February, 2007. It is further noted that the certificates are not relied for M/C (medical certificate) purpose.

26. Supreme Court in Krushnakant B. Parmar versus Union of India and another⁵, has held that the absence of the employee must not be wilful but under compelling circumstances. Paragraph 16 and 17 of the report is extracted:-

"16. The question whether 'unauthorized absence from duty' amounts to failure of devotion to duty or behaviour unbecoming of a Government servant cannot be decided without deciding the question whether absence is willful or because of compelling circumstances.

17. If the absence is the result of compelling circumstances under which it was not possible to report or perform duty, such absence cannot be held to be willful."

27. The medical certificates submitted by the respondent, in the opinion of the Inquiry Officer, did not inspire confidence for the reason that the respondent was an outdoor patient and the medical illness of the respondent was not of serious nature so as to preclude him from reporting for duty. The Inquiry Officer opined that had the medical illness of the respondent been so serious, then in that event, from Sadabad station he would have proceeded to the nearby Agra station for treatment, where superior medical facilities are available. In the circumstances, the explanation of the respondent that he fell ill at Sadabad and from there he went home, based on the medical certificates was not accepted. It is not a case that the Inquiry Officer ignored the medical certificates or disbelieved it, rather, the explanation of the respondent based on the medical certificates submitted by him was not accepted by the Inquiry Officer. The medical certificates admittedly record illness of minor nature. Further, respondent was an outdoor patient and it is not his case that he was confined to bed and was not possible to report for duty. In other words, it is not a case of compelling nature to avoid duty. It is a case of deliberate and willful absence from duty.

28. It is admitted by learned counsel for the respondent that the medical prescription and treatment undertaken by the respondent in support of the medical certificates was not produced, nor, filed before the Inquiry Officer. Further, he admits that the respondent was an outdoor patient. It is also not the case of the respondent at any point of time, that respondent had informed the department of his absence due to his illness or due to his detention in jail pursuant to the FIRs.

29. On the question as to whether the enquiry officer can propose the punishment in his report. In the State of Uttaranchal and others versus Kharak Singh⁶, the Supreme Court relying upon an earlier decision rendered in A.N. D'Silva versus Union of India⁷, on considering the question whether an enquiry officer can indicate the proposed punishment in his report, the Court pointed that it is for punishing/disciplinary authority to impose an appropriate punishment and the enquiry officer has no role in awarding punishment. The question of imposing punishment can only arise after enquiry is made and the report of the enquiry officer is received. It is for the punishing authority/disciplinary authority to propose the punishment and not for the enquiry authority.

30 . In Kharak Singh (supra) the Court observed that though there is no specific bar in offering views by the enquiry officer, but, in the given facts, it was held that the enquiry officer exceeded his limit by saying that the delinquent officer has no right to continue in government service and he be dismissed from service with the immediate effect.

31. We have perused Appendix-1 of Rules 91, which provides as follows:

"PROCEDURE RELATING TO THE CONDUCT OF DEPARTMENTAL PROCEEDINGS AGAINST POLICE OFFICER [See RULE 14(1)]

Upon institution of a formal enquiry such police officer against whom the inquiry has been instituted shall be informed in writing of the grounds on which was proposed to take action and shall be afforded an adequate opportunity of defending himself

..... The proceedings shall contain a sufficient record of the evidence and statement of the finding and the ground thereof. The Inquiry Officer may also separately from these proceedings make his own recommendation regarding the punishment to be imposed on the charged Police Officer."

32. Appendix-1 of Rules, 1991, therefore, specifically provides that Inquiry Officer may recommend proposed punishment after concluding the departmental proceedings. Proviso to this Appendix provides that the Inquiry Officer may also separately from this proceedings make his own recommendation regarding the punishment to be imposed on the charged police officer.

33. Division Bench of this Court in Masood Asghar Versus Uttar Pradesh State Public Service Tribunal, Indira Bhawan, Lucknow and others⁸, relying upon an earlier decision observed that the Inquiry Officer making recommendation of the punishment is merely an irregularity and that would not vitiate the enquiry. The only requirement is that the delinquent employee must have notice of the proposed punishment. Paragraph no.9 reads as under :-

"9. A Division Bench of this Court at Allahabad in Yash Pal Singh's case supra has treated the recommendation of the Inquiry Officer, on the point of punishment, as an irregularity and has relegated the matter to the disciplinary authority to reconsider the award of punishment, applying his own mind to the facts of the case. The aforesaid facts are not disputed by the Standing Counsel."

34. In view thereof, we are of the opinion that the learned Tribunal exceeded its jurisdiction in setting aside the impugned order passed by the Disciplinary Authority imposing punishment on the respondent. At the most, Tribunal could have remitted the matter to the Disciplinary Authority to pass a fresh order. The Tribunal was not within its jurisdiction and competence to set aside the punishment sitting in appeal without returning a finding that the disciplinary enquiry stood vitiated for breach of statutory provisions of the Rules, 1991, or that the punishment was not commensurate to the guilt, or perverse.

35. In P. Gunasekaran (supra), Supreme Court reiterated and cautioned the Court / Tribunals not to act as an appellate authority in disciplinary proceedings.

"12. Despite the well-settled position, it is painfully disturbing to note that the High Court has acted as an appellate authority in the disciplinary proceedings, re-appreciating even the evidence before the enquiry officer....."

[Refer: B.C. Chaturvedi versus Union of India and others⁹ and S. Sreesanth versus The Board of Control for Cricket in India¹⁰]

36. In any case, in our opinion, the punishment imposed upon the respondent is of much lesser rigour and not commensurate to the guilt having regard to the fact that respondent was member of a disciplined Force, a more severe punishment was warranted in the given facts. The Disciplinary Authority took a liberal view while imposing punishment having regard to the fact that the respondent was absent from almost seven years and of having indulged in criminal activity.

37. For the reasons recorded herein above, impugned judgement and order dated 23 March, 2021, passed by the Tribunal is set aside and quashed.

38. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed.

39. No cost.

Civil Law - Jal Sansthan (Rural) U.P. Nagarpalika Non-Centralized Services Retirement Benefits Regulation, 1984 (Rules of 1984) - Uttar Pradesh Qualifying Service for Pension and Validation Act, 2021 - Issue: Whether services rendered before regularization by daily wage employees who worked on Class III posts in the Jal Sansthan and were later regularized in continuation of their services is to be counted for the purpose of pension and other retiral benefits ? Held: Daily rated employees perform the same duties as regular employees and are throughout treated as regular employees. They were also regularized in continuation of their work charge services. So far as the Act of 2021 is concerned, the same is applicable only to employees of the State Government. Even otherwise, the Act of 2021 has already been read down by this Court in its judgment dated 17.02.2023 passed in Writ-A No.8968 of 2022 (Dr. Shyam Kumar Vs. State of U.P. and others). Respondents were directed to ensure regular payment of pensionary and other retirement benefits to the petitioners, who have already retired, under the Pension Rules, treating their entire service, including services rendered by them as daily rated employees prior to their regularization, as qualifying services for pensionary benefits, within a period of three months.

3. Dr. Shyam Kumar Vs St. of U.P. & ors., Writ-A No.8968 of 2022 dated 17.02.2023

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Chaudhary, J.)

1. Heard Shri Rahul Mishra, learned counsel for petitioner, Shri Ram Pandey, Advocate appearing for respondent Jal Sansthan and learned Standing Counsel for the State.

2. Petitioners have approached this Court challenging the Order dated 20.02.2020 whereby the respondent authority has refused to enroll employees of the Jal-Sansthan under the old pension scheme on the ground that they were regularized after the old pension scheme was abolished and for a prayer commanding the respondents to pay regular pension to the petitioners by counting their past services rendered on daily wage posts in the respondent-Sansthan.

3. The facts of the case are that the petitioners were appointed as daily wage employees on class III posts in the Jal Sansthan between the years 1989-1991. They were throughout treated as regular employees and later regularized in the Jal Sansthan between 2005-2011. Counsel for the petitioners informs that some of the petitioners are already retired.

4. Learned counsel for petitioners submits that by letter dated 30.08.2018, respondent-Jal Sansthan (Rural) has adopted U.P. Nagarpalika Non-Centralized Services Retirement Benefits Regulation, 1984 (Rules of 1984) for regulating pension of its employees. Under the same rules, petitioners are entitled to pensionary and other retirement benefits. Further submission is that same rules with regard to employees of the Nagar Palika was interpreted by this Court by its judgment dated 17.03.2023 in WRIT - A No. - 10405 of 2022 (Jai Prakash vs State of U.P. and 4 others) wherein daily wage employees who were later regularised in continuation of their services were held entitled for benefits of the Old Pension Scheme. He has further relied on a judgment by a three Judge Bench of Supreme Court in case of Prem Singh vs. State of U.P. and others, (2019) 10 SCC 516 where it was held that services rendered before regularization must be counted for the purpose of pension and other retiral benefits. The relevant paragraphs of the judgment in the case of Prem Singh (supra) reads:

"8. We first consider the provisions contained in the Uttar Pradesh Retirement Benefits Rules, 1961 (for short 'the 1961 Rules'). Rule 3(8) of the 1961 Rules which contains the provisions in respect of qualifying service is extracted hereunder: "3. In these rules, unless is anything repugnant in the subject or context-

(1)-(7) * * *

(8) 'Qualifying service' means service which qualifies for pension in accordance with the provisions of Article 368 of the Civil Services Regulations:

Provided that continuous temporary or officiating service under the Government of Uttar Pradesh followed without interruption by confirmation in the same or any other post except-

(i) periods of temporary or officiating service in a non-pensionable establishment;

(ii) periods of service in a work-charged establishment; and

(iii) periods of service in a post paid from contingencies shall also count as qualifying service.

Note. If service rendered in a non-pensionable establishment work-charged establishment or in a post paid from contingencies falls between two periods of temporary service in a pensionable establishment or between a period of temporary service and permanent service in a pensionable establishment, it will not constitute an interruption of service.

9. Regulations 361, 368 and 370 of the Uttar Pradesh Civil Services Regulations are also relevant. They are extracted hereunder:

"361. The service of an officer does not qualify for pension unless it conforms to the following three conditions:

First - The service must be under Government.

Second - The employment must be substantive and permanent."

These three conditions are fully explained in the following Regulations.

"368. Service does not qualify unless the officer holds a substantive office on a permanent establishment.

370. Continuous temporary or officiating service under the Government of Uttar Pradesh followed without interruption by confirmation in the same or any other post shall qualify, except-

(i) periods of temporary or officiating service in non-pensionable establishment;

(ii) periods of service in work-charged establishment; and

(iii) periods of service in a post paid from contingencies."

10. The qualifying service is the one which is in accordance with the provisions of Regulation 368 i.e. holding a substantive post on a permanent establishment. The proviso to Rule 3(8) clarify that continuous, temporary or officiating service followed without interruption by confirmation in the same or any other post is also included in the qualifying service except in the case of periods of temporary and officiating service in a non-pensionable establishment. The service in workcharged establishment and period of service in a post paid from contingencies shall also not count as qualifying service.

11. The Note appended to Rule 3(8) contains a provision that if the service is rendered in a non-pensionable establishment, work-charged establishment or in a post paid from contingencies, falls between two periods of temporary service in a pensionable establishment or between a period of temporary service and permanent service in a pensionable establishment, it will not constitute an interruption of service. Thus, the Note contains a clear provision to count the qualifying service rendered in work-charged, contingency paid and nonpensionable establishment to be counted towards pensionable service, in the exigencies provided therein.

12. The provisions contained in Regulation 370 of the Civil Services Regulations excludes service in a non-pensionable establishment, work-charged establishment and in a post paid from contingencies from the purview of qualifying service. Under Regulation 361 of the Civil Services Regulations, the services must be under the Government and the employment must be substantive and permanent basis.

30. We are not impressed by the aforesaid submissions. The appointment of the work-charged employee in question had been made on monthly salary and they were required to cross the efficiency bar also. How their services are qualitatively different from regular employees? No material indicating qualitative difference has been pointed out except making bald statement. The appointment was not made for a particular project which is the basic concept of the work-charged employees. Rather, the very concept of work-charged employment has been misused by offering the employment on exploitative terms for the work which is regular and perennial in nature. The work-charged employees had been subjected to transfer from one place to another like regular employees as apparent from documents placed on record. In Narain Dutt Sharma v. State of U.P. [CA No. _____2019 arising out of SLP (C) No. 5775 of 2018] the appellants were allowed to cross efficiency bar, after '8' years of continuous service, even during the period of work-charged services. Narain Dutt Sharma, the appellant, was appointed as a work-charged employee as Gej Mapak with effect from 15-9-1978. Payment used to be made monthly but the appointment was made in the pay scale of Rs 200-320. Initially, he was appointed in the year 1978 on a fixed monthly salary of Rs 205 per month. They were allowed to cross efficiency bar also as the benefit of pay scale was granted to them during the period they served as work-charged employees they served for three to four decades and later on services have been regularised time to time by different orders. However, the services of some of the appellants in few petitions/appeals have not been regularised even though they had served for several decades and ultimately reached the age of superannuation.

31. In the aforesaid facts and circumstances, it was unfair on the part of the State Government and its officials to take work from the employees on the work-charged basis. They ought to have resorted to an appointment on regular basis. The taking of work on the work-charged basis for long amounts to adopting the exploitative device. Later on, though their services have been regularised. However, the period spent by them in the work-charged establishment has not been counted towards the qualifying service. Thus, they have not only been deprived of their due emoluments during the period they served on less salary in work-charged establishment but have also been deprived of counting of the period for pensionary benefits as if no services had been rendered by them. The State has been benefitted by the services rendered by them in the heydays of their life on less salary in work-charged establishment.

32. In view of the Note appended to Rule 3(8) of the 1961 Rules, there is a provision to count service spent on work-charged, contingencies or nonpensionable service, in case, a person has rendered such service in a given between period of two temporary appointments in the pensionable establishment or has rendered such service in the interregnum two periods of temporary and permanent employment. The work-charged service can be counted as qualifying service for pension in the aforesaid exigencies.

33. The question arises whether the imposition of rider that such service to be counted has to be rendered in-between two spells of temporary or temporary and permanent service is legal and proper. We find that once regularisation had been made on vacant posts, though the employee had not served prior to that on temporary basis, considering the nature of appointment, though it was not a regular appointment it was made on monthly salary and thereafter in the pay scale of work-charged establishment the efficiency bar was permitted to be crossed. It would be highly discriminatory and irrational because of the rider contained in the Note to Rule 3(8) of the 1961 Rules, not to count such service particularly, when it can be counted, in case such service is sandwiched between two temporary or inbetween temporary and permanent services. There is no rhyme or reason not to count the service of work-charged period in case it has been rendered before regularisation. In our opinion, an impermissible classification has been made under Rule 3(8). It would be highly unjust, impermissible and irrational to deprive such employees benefit of the qualifying service. Service of work-charged period remains the same for all the employees, once it is to be counted for one class, it has to be counted for all to prevent discrimination. The classification cannot be done on the irrational basis and when respondents are themselves counting period spent in such service, it would be highly discriminatory not to count the service on the basis of flimsy classification. The rider put on that work-charged service should have preceded by temporary capacity is discriminatory and irrational and creates an impermissible classification.

34. As it would be unjust, illegal and impermissible to make aforesaid classification to make Rule 3(8) valid and non-discriminatory, we have to read down the provisions of Rule 3(8) and hold that services rendered even prior to regularisation in the capacity of work-charged employees, contingency paid fund employees or non-pensionable establishment shall also be counted towards the qualifying service even if such service is not preceded by temporary or regular appointment in a pensionable establishment.

35. In view of the Note appended to Rule 3(8), which we have read down, the provision contained in Regulation 370 of the Civil Services Regulations has to be struck down as also the instructions contained in Para 669 of the Financial Handbook.

36. There are some of the employees who have not been regularised in spite of having rendered the services for 30-40 or more years whereas they have been superannuated. As they have worked in the work-charged establishment, not against any particular project, their services ought to have been regularised under the Government instructions and even as per the decision of this Court in State of Karnataka v. Umadevi (3) [State of Karnataka v. Umadevi (3), (2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753]. This Court in the said decision has laid down that in case services have been rendered for more than ten years without the cover of the Court's order, as one-time measure, the services be regularised of such employees. In the facts of the case, those employees who have worked for ten years or more should have been regularised. It would not be proper to regulate them for consideration of regularisation as others have been regularised, we direct that their services be treated as a regular one. However, it is made clear that they shall not be entitled to claiming any dues of difference in wages had they been continued in service regularly before attaining the age of superannuation. They shall be entitled to receive the pension as if they have retired from the regular establishment and the services rendered by them right from the day they entered the workcharged establishment shall be counted as qualifying service for purpose of pension.

37. In view of reading down Rule 3(8) of the U.P. Retirement Benefits Rules, 1961, we hold that services rendered in the work-charged establishment shall be treated as qualifying service under the aforesaid rule for grant of pension. The arrears of pension shall be confined to three years only before the date of the order. Let the admissible benefits be paid accordingly within three months. Resultantly, the appeals filed by the employees are allowed and filed by the State are dismissed."

5. He further submits that since the same rules for pensionary benefits exist in the respondent authority, therefore, the matter is squarely covered by the said judgment and petitioners herein should also be extended the benefit of the law settled in the case of Prem Singh (Supra).

6. Learned counsel for the Jal Sansthan opposes the applicability of the judgment in the case of Prem Singh (Supra) on the ground that the effect of the aforesaid judgment stands nullified because of the enactment of the Uttar Pradesh Qualifying Service for Pension and Validation Act, 2021.

7. So far as Act of 2021 is concerned, the same is applicable only upon the employees of State Government. Even otherwise Act of 2021 is already read down by this Court by judgment dated 17.02.2023 passed in Writ-A No.8968 of 2022 (Dr. Shyam Kumar Vs. State of U.P. and others). Relevant paragraphs of the same reads as:

"9. Therefore, the question now before this Court is whether by bringing Act of 2021, the State Government has done away with the vice pointed out by the Supreme Court in case of Prem Singh (supra). In the said judgment, the Supreme Court found that the State Government has adopted exploitative labour practice by taking work of regular employees from work charge employees on long term basis without any rationale classification while refusing them benefits available to regular employees. Supreme Court specifically held that the State Government can not get involved in corrupt labour practices. On the aforesaid grounds, the Supreme Court read down the provisions of Rule 3(8) of the Rules of 1961 and struck down Regulation 370 of Civil Services Regulations and Para 669 of the Financial Handbook.

10. It is the duty of State to create new temporary or permanent posts as per its needs and make appointments on the same. Law also permits State to appoint daily wagers or work charge employees, but only when the work is for short period or is in a work charge establishment for fixed duration. Law does not permit the State to take work for long period, extending even for the entire working life of a person, on temporary or work charge basis. In such cases, it is the duty of State to create new posts and make appointments, giving all benefits of regular employees. Otherwise, State would be found to be adopting exploitative labour practice. This is the vice pointed out by the Supreme Court in Prem Singh's case (supra), and instead of removing the same, the State by Section 2 of the Act of 2021 has extended the sphere of its illegality. By Section 2 of the Act of 2021, it desires to take benefit of its own failure of creating posts in time and making appointments on the same, by not counting the said period of such service for pensionary benefits. State still fails to explain the rationale on the basis of which it has created this new classification and the manner in which, by the amended provision, it has removed the irrationality.

In case Section 2 of the Act of 2021 is given a literal meaning it would mean that services rendered by a person on a temporary or permanent post alone can be counted for pension. The same would again be an exploitative device and labour malpractice, as by this, the State Government is again attempting to use persons to work for it on long term basis, just like regular employees, without giving them benefits they are entitled to as regular employees. The very vice pointed by the Supreme Court in the judgment of Prem Singh (supra) with regard to work charge employees is, in fact, now made applicable to even larger number of employees and extended to daily wagers and other persons not working on a temporary or a permanent post including, work charge employees.

In case of V. Sukumaran vs. State of Kerala (2020) 8 SCC 106, the Supreme Court held:

"22. We begin by, once again, emphasising that the pensionary provisions must be given a liberal construction as a social welfare measure. This does not imply that something can be given contrary to rules, but the very basis for grant of such pension must be kept in mind i.e. to facilitate a retired government employee to live with dignity in his winter of life and, thus, such benefit should not be unreasonably denied to an employee, more so on technicalities."

Thus, again to save Section 2 of the Act of 2021 from the vice/arbitrariness, in the spirit of the judgment of Prem Singh (supra), the word 'post' is required to be diluted to save it from arbitrariness and hence, the word 'post' used in Section 2 of the Act of 2021, be it temporary or permanent, has to be read down as 'services rendered by a government employee, be it of temporary or permanent nature'."

8. The pension rules adopted by the respondent Jal Sansthan (Rural) have already been read down by this Court in the case of Jai Prakash (Supra), being held in violation of Article 14 of the Constitution of India, as they create an artificial categorization of similarly situated employees. Relevant portion the said judgment reads:

"The present Rules of 1984 are parallel to the Rules of State Government which have been read down by the Supreme Court, being held in violation of Article 14 of the Constitution of India, as they create an artificial categorization of similarly situated employees. In the present case also an artificial classification is created as admittedly, as the daily wage employees perform the same duties as the regular employees and are throughout treated as the regular employee. They were also regularized in continuation of their services. Thus, the matter is squarely covered by the law settled in case of Prem Singh (Supra)."

9. In the present case also an artificial classification is created as admittedly, as the daily rated employees perform the same duties as the regular employees and are throughout treated as the regular employee. They were also regularized in continuation of their work charge services. Thus, the matter is squarely covered by the law settled in case of Prem Singh (Supra) and Dr. Shyam Kumar (supra) and Jai Prakash (supra).

10. Thus, the writ petition is allowed and impugned order dated 20.02.2020 is set aside.

11. Respondents are directed to ensure regular payment of pensionary and other retirement benefits to the petitioners who have already retired, under the Pension Rules, treating their entire service, including services rendered by them as daily rated employees prior to their regularization as qualifying services for pensionary benefits within a period of three months.

12. Respondents are further directed to enroll petitioners who have not yet retired under the Old Pension Scheme by adding the services of petitioners rendered by them as daily rated employees.

A. Interpretation - Liberal interpretation: Any beneficial provision must be given a liberal interpretation in a manner that extends and advances the benefits intended for the beneficiary, and not otherwise. In cases where two interpretations are possible for such a provision, the interpretation that furthers the benefit to the beneficiary must be preferred.

B. Civil Law - Service Matter - Pension - Dr. Ram Manohar Lohia Institute of Medical Sciences Act, 2015 - Old Pension Scheme - New Pension Scheme - G.O. dated 16.09.2010 - Government Order dated 16.09.2010 issued by the State Government in the Department of Finance - Clause 3 of the Government Order provides that those employees who were appointed in a State Government Service/Post that was pensionable prior to 01.04.2005, and are again appointed to any other post, cadre, or service of the State Government or under autonomous institutions, having been relieved from their earlier posting or having resigned from the earlier post in some pensionable service after 01.04.2005, shall also be governed by the Old Pension Scheme. In Clauses 2 and 3 of the said Government Order dated 16.09.2010, the words पेंशनयुक्त

पद / पेंशनयुक्त सेवा (Pensionable Post/Pensionable Service) occur. One possible interpretation of Clauses 2 and 3 of the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 is that the word 'Pensionable' qualifying the words 'Post' and 'Service' in both Clauses should not be confined to the Old Pension Scheme alone. It can be interpreted to include both Pension Schemes, namely, the Old Pension Scheme, which was available prior to 01.04.2005, and the New Pension Scheme, which has been in effect since 01.04.2005. Restricting the construction of the words 'Pensionable Service' or 'Pensionable Post' to mean only those posts and services covered by the Old Pension Scheme would curtail the pension benefits for retired employees or those employees who are to retire in the future. The words

'Pensionable Service' and 'Pensionable Post' in the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 should thus be interpreted to mean Post or Service covered either by the Old Pension Scheme or even by the New Pension Scheme. It is not in dispute that the posts and services at the RML Institute are covered by the New Pension Scheme. Therefore, giving a restricted meaning to the word 'Pensionable Post/Pensionable Service' as it occurs in the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 cannot be accepted. The Court directed that the appellant-petitioner shall be entitled to the benefits of the Old Pension Scheme while serving at the RML Institute as well (Para 21, 22, 29, 34).

(Delivered by Hon'ble Devendra Kumar Upadhyaya, J.

Hon'ble Om Prakash Shukla, J.)

1. Heard learned Counsel for the appellant-petitioner, Shri Anupras Singh, learned Counsel representing Dr. Ram Manohar Lohia Institute of Medical Sciences, Shri Vinayak Saxena, learned Counsel representing Sanjay Gandhi Post Graduate Institute of Medical Sciences (hereinafter referred to as "SGPGIMS") and learned State Counsel appearing for the State of U.P.

2. By instituting the proceedings of this Special Appeal, the appellant-petitioner questions the order dated 17.02.2022 passed by learned Single Judge whereby Writ-A No. 2001877 of 2015 has been dismissed and her claim for grant of the benefit of the Old Pension Scheme after being appointed in the Ram Manohar Lohia Institute of Medical Sciences (hereinafter referred to as 'RML') has not been acceded to.

3. Impeaching the order passed by learned Single Judge, it has been argued on behalf of the appellant-petitioner that the construction/interpretation sought to be given by learned Single Judge to the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 is not tenable for the reason that the said Government Order has been issued for conferring certain benefits to the retired employees and accordingly, it has to be read and construed in a manner which furthers the benefit flowing from it rather than curtailing the same. Further submission made on behalf of the appellant-petitioner is that it is the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 issued by the State Government in the Finance Department which holds the field for the reason that it embodies and expresses the general policy decision of the State Government applicable to all rather than the Government Order dated 29.08.2014, which has been issued by the Medical Education Department, that too without consultation with the Finance Department. It has also been urged by the learned Counsel representing the appellant-petitioner that in case of beneficial legislation which will include beneficial subordinate legislation, if two interpretations/constructions are possible, the interpretation which is in favour of the beneficiary, is to be adopted and not the other one.

4. Submission, thus, is that if the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 is interpreted in view of the aforesaid legal propositions, the only feasible conclusion which may be drawn is that the appellant-petitioner will be entitled to be given the benefit of Old Pension Scheme after her appointment in the RML Institute.

5. Opposing the prayers made in this Special Appeal, learned Counsel representing the RML Institute as also the learned State Counsel have, in one voice, submitted that the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 is clear which does not require any interpretation in a manner other than which is apparent from a plain reading of the contents thereof. It has been argued on their behalf that admittedly the posts in RML Institute are non-pensionable neither the services in RML Institute are pensionable, hence, the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 does not confer any right upon the appellant-petitioner to claim the benefit of Old Pension Scheme.

6. Further Submission is that the benefit of Old Pension Scheme will be available only to an employee, who on his new appointment after the New Pension Scheme was promulgated, is working against a pensionable post or in a pensionable service and such an employee is appointed, after promulgation of the New Pension Scheme, against a pensionable post or in a pensionable service. Drawing attention of the Court to the date on which the RML Institute came into existence i.e., in June, 2005, it has been argued that no service or post in RML Institute is pensionable, accordingly, the services rendered by the appellant-petitioner on her appointment in RML Institute after having resigned from service at SGPGIMS being non-pensionable, she shall not be entitled to the benefit of the Old Pension Scheme.

7. It has, thus, been urged by the learned Counsel for the State as also the learned Counsel representing RML Institute that the Special Appeal is liable to be dismissed.

8. We have considered the rival submissions made by learned Counsels in the respective parties and have also perused the records available before us on this Special Appeal.

9. Before we advert to the rival submissions advanced by the learned Counsel for the parties, we may note certain facts which are essential for appropriate resolution of the issues involved in this case.

10. The appellant-petitioner was appointed on the Post of Sister Grade-II in the year 1996 at SGPGIMS. She continued to work on the said post which is, admittedly, pensionable. In the meantime, an advertisement was issued for appointment to the post of Chief Nursing Officer, pursuant to which the appellant-petitioner made her application and on selection, she was appointed by means of an order dated 08.12.2010 on the post of Chief Nursing Officer at RML Institute. In pursuance of the appointment order dated 08.12.2010, she submitted her joining on 11.01.2011 on probation for a period of one year. After completion of her probation on the post of Chief Nursing Officer at RML Institute, she was confirmed on the said post by means of an order dated 31.05.2012 with effect from 11.01.2012. She is, thus, working at present on the post of Chief Nursing Officer as a confirmed employee at RML Institute.

11. It appears that the appellant filed a Writ Petition bearing no. 897 of 2015 before this Court with the prayer inter alia to issue directions to the authorities of RML Institute for giving her the benefit of Old Pension Scheme. The said writ petition was finally disposed of by this Court by means of an order dated 22.06.2015 whereby a direction was given to the Director of Institute to consider and decide the representation of the appellant-petitioner.

12. In compliance of the said order dated 22.06.2015 passed by this Court in Writ Petition No. 897 of 2015, the Director considered the representation made by the appellant-petitioner, however, the said representation did not find favour with the Director which was rejected by means of an order dated 17.08.2015. We may note at this juncture itself that the Director while passing the order dated 17.08.2015 recites that the matter relating to grant of benefit of Old Pension Scheme to the appellant-petitioner was referred to the State Government, which apprised the RML Institute by means of the Government Order/Letter dated 29.08.2014 that since the Institute was established after 01.04.2005, hence, no post available or created in the Institute is covered by the Old Pension Scheme and accordingly, in terms of the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 the appellant-petitioner shall not be entitled to be given the benefit of Old Pension Scheme. Challenging the said order dated 17.08.2015, the appellant-petitioner instituted the proceedings of Writ-A No. 2001877 of 2015 which has been dismissed by learned Single Judge by means of the order dated 17.02.2022 which has been assailed before us in this Special Appeal.

13. The sole question which falls for our consideration, in this case is as to in what manner the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 issued by the State Government in the Department of Finance is to be construed and interpreted and depending on the construction of the said Government Order as to whether the appellant-petitioner will be entitled to be given the benefit of Old Pension Scheme which was prevalent to the State Government employees as also the employees of various autonomous institutions/bodies functioning under the State Government prior to 01.04.2005.

14. The New Pension Scheme, was promulgated by the State Government by means of a notification dated 28.03.2005, according to which, the State Government had taken a decision to introduce New Pension Scheme which is based on the employee's contribution. The said Pension Scheme in terms of the notification dated 28.03.2005 has been made applicable with effect from 01.04.2005; meaning thereby that the State Government employees or the employees appointed in autonomous institutions of the State Government on or after 01.04.2005 shall be governed by the Pension Scheme which is contributory in nature and such employees shall not be governed by the Old Pension Scheme which was majorly based on the contribution made by the State alone.

15. It is not in dispute that the State Government took a decision to establish Ram Manohar Lohia Institute of Medical Sciences in June, 2005. Earlier, it was run and managed by a State owned society registered under the Societies Registration Act. However, in the year 2015 by means of enacting Dr. Ram Manohar Lohia Institute of Medical Sciences Act, 2015, the Institute functions under the prescriptions available in the said enactment passed by the State Legislature. However, as observed above, it is not in dispute that RML Institute was established after 01.04.2005, the date with effect from which the New Pension Scheme has been introduced.

16. To remove certain confusions the State Government in the Department of Finance issued a Government Order on 16.09.2010 which formulates the conclusions on the queries which had arisen on account of implementation of the New Pension Scheme. The queries formulated in the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 are embodied in clause 2 of the said Government Order which is extracted herein below:-

"2. वित्त विभाग में इस बिंदु पर स्पष्टीकरण प्रदान किये जाने सम्बंधी संदर्भ प्राप्त होते रहे हैं कि ऐसे कर्मचारी जो राज्य सरकार की किसी पेंशनयुक्त सेवा में दिनांक 01 अप्रैल, 2005 के पूर्व नियुक्त हो चुके थे तथा दिनांक 01 अप्रैल, 2005 को अथवा उसके उपरान्त राज्य सरकार के अधीन किसी अन्य सेवा/संवर्ग में पेंशनयुक्त पद पर नियुक्त होते हैं, तो उन्हें पुरानी पेंशन योजना, जो दिनांक 01 अप्रैल, 2005 के पूर्व लागू थी, से आच्छादित माना जायेगा अथवा नई पेंशन योजना से।"

17. The clarification to the said query can be found in Clause 3 of the said Government Order 16.09.2010 which is also being extracted herein below for reference:-

"3. इस संबंध में मुझे यह कहने का निर्देश हुआ है कि शासन द्वारा सम्यक विचारोपरान्त यह निर्णय लिया गया है कि ऐसे सभी कर्मचारी जिन्होंने राज्य सरकार की अथवा ऐसे समस्त शासन के नियन्त्रणधीन स्वायत्तशासी संस्थाओं और शासन से सहायता प्राप्त शिक्षण संस्थाओं जिनमें राज्य कर्मचारियों की पेंशन योजना की भौति पेंशन योजना लागू थी और उनका वित्त पोषण राज्य सरकार की समेकित निधि से किया जाता है, की पेंशनयुक्त सेवा में दिनांक 01 अप्रैल, 2005 के पूर्व योगदान किया था तथा दिनांक 01 अप्रैल, 2005 को अथवा उसके पश्चात् राज्य सरकार की अथवा शासन की नियन्त्रणाधीन उक्त उल्लिखित स्वायत्तशासी संस्थाओं और शासन से सहायता प्राप्त शिक्षण संस्थाओं की, पेंशनयुक्त सेवा में अपनी पूर्व सेवा से कार्यमुक्त होकर अथवा तकनीकी त्याग-पत्र देकर नियुक्त होते हैं, तो उसी पेंशन योजना से आच्छादित माने जायेंगे जिसे पेंशन योजना से वे दिनांक 01 अप्रैल, 2005 के पूर्व आच्छादित थे।"

18. What we can gather from Clause 2 of the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 is that the Government was clarifying as to whether such employees who are appointed in a pensionable service prior to 01.04.2005 and are thereafter again appointed after 01.04.2005 in any other service/cadre under the State Government against pensionable post, will they be entitled to be covered by the Old Pension Scheme or they shall be governed by the New Pension Scheme. Clarifying the same, Clause 3 of the Government Order clearly provides that those employees, who were appointed in a State Government Service/Post which was pensionable prior to 01.04.2005 and are again appointed against any other post or cadre or service of the State Government or under autonomous institutions, having been relieved from their earlier posting or having resigned from the earlier post in some pensionable service after 01.04.2005, shall also be governed by the Old Pension Scheme.

19. The reason given by the Director while rejecting the claim of the appellant-petitioner in the order dated 17.08.2015 is based on a Government Order dated 29.08.2014, which we will now examine. The Government Order dated 29.08.2014 has not been issued by the Finance Department of the State Government; neither does it anywhere mention that it was issued with the concurrence of or in consultation with the Finance Department. It is rather a Government Order issued by the Medical Education Department which is the Administrative Department of the RML Institute. The Medical Education Department, thus, while issuing the Government Order dated 29.08.2014 has attempted to interpret the Government Order issued by the Finance Department on 16.09.2010 and has concluded that since the post sanctioned in RML Institute are not pensionable as such any employee appointed in RML Institute after 01.04.2005 having been relieved from his earlier posting or having resigned from his earlier posting where he was working even against pensionable post, will not be covered by New Pension Scheme.

20. In the context of the aforesaid Government Order dated 29.08.2014 issued by the Medical Education Department, we may refer to the Government Order issued by the Finance Department, dated 16.09.2010 again. In Clauses 2 and 3 of the said Government Order dated 16.09.2010 the word पेंशनयुक्त पद/ पेंशनयुक्त सेवा (Pensionable Post/Pensionable Service) occur. The said provision contained in Clauses 2 and 3 of the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 can be interpreted possibly in two ways.

21. The first interpretation which may be given to the said phrase of the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 is that the words 'Pensionable Post' and 'Pensionable Service' are to qualify the service or post against which an employee was working prior to 01.04.2005 and also against a post or service where he/she is appointed after 01.04.2005. There is no ambiguity in such an interpretation, however, if we read the said Government Order further what we find is that the words 'Pensionable Post' and 'Pensionable Service' can be read to mean the post/service covered only by the Old Pension Scheme. Thus, as observed above, it may be one of the possible interpretations. However, the other possible interpretation of Clauses 2 and 3 of the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 may be that the word 'Pensionable' qualifying the words 'Post' and 'Service' in both the Clauses will not be confined to Old Pension Scheme alone. It can be read to include both the Pension Schemes, namely, the Old Pension Scheme which was available prior to 01.04.2005 and the New Pension Scheme which is now available with effect from 01.04.2005.

22. In our opinion, restricting the construction of the words 'Pensionable Service' or 'Pensionable Post' to mean only those posts and services which are covered by the Old Pension Scheme will have the impact of curtailing the benefit of pension to the retired employees or those employees who are to retire in future. It is not that the services and posts created and sanctioned in the RML Institute are not pensionable. The post and services are pensionable though are governed and covered by New Pension Scheme promulgated by means of the notification dated 28.03.2005.

23. Pension to a retired employee, in a sense, is, in fact, a beneficial provision which is provided by the employers not only to provide some financial support to the employees after retirement in lieu of the services which he renders in the best times of his life to the employer but also to take care of the needs of such employees in old age. Accordingly, we find that the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 is beneficial in nature and hence, for construing and interpreting such a Government Order we have to consider as to how such beneficial Government Order is to be interpreted.

24. In this regard, we may have reference to certain pronouncements of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, first of which is, Union of India and Another versus Pradeep Kumari and Others, (1995) 2 SCC 736 wherein it has been observed that, 'In relation to beneficent legislation, the law is well settled that while construing the provisions of such a legislation the Court should adopt a construction which advances the policy of legislation to extend the benefit rather than a construction which has the effect of curtailing the benefits conferred by it.'

25. Similarly, Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Bangalore Turf Club Limited versus Regional Director Employees State Insurance Corporation, (2014) 9 SCC 657 has observed that the primary rule of interpretation of statutes, though, is the literal rule, however, in case of beneficial legislations the Court has to adopt liberal rule of interpretation to ensure that the benefits are extended to the employees concerned. Para 16 of the said judgment is extracted herein below:-

"16. The primary rule of interpretation of statutes may be the literal rule, however, in case of beneficial legislations and legislations enacted for the welfare of employees, workmen, this Court has on numerous occasions adopted the liberal rule of interpretation to ensure that the benefits extend to those workers who need to be covered based on the intention of the legislature."

26. In relation to the issue concerning payment of gratuity, Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Allahabad Bank & Another versus All India Allahabad Bank Retired Employees Association, (2010) 2 SCC 44, has observed that welfare statutes always receive a liberal construction and further that they are required to be so construed as to secure the relief contemplated by the Statutes.

27. Making reference to another judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Som Prakash Rekhi versus Union of India, (1981) 1 SCC 449, Hon'ble Supreme Court has further observed that welfare benefits such as pension, payment of provident fund and gratuity etc. are in fulfillment of Directive Principles of the State Policy as enshrined in our Constitution, hence, even if two interpretations are permissible to such a provision, the interpretation which furthers the beneficial objects should be preferred.

28. Para 17 of the judgment in the case of Allahabad Bank (supra) is quoted hereunder:-

"17. Krishna Iyer, J. in Som Prakash Rekhi v. Union of India¹ stated the principle in his inimitable style that a benignant provision must receive a benignant construction and, even if two interpretations are permissible, that which furthers the beneficial object should be preferred. It has been further observed: (SCC pp. 483-84, para 66)

"66. ... We live in a welfare State, in a 'socialist' republic, under a Constitution with profound concern for the weaker classes including workers (Part IV). Welfare benefits such as pensions, payment of provident fund and gratuity are in fulfillment of the directive principles. The payment of gratuity or provident fund should not occasion any deduction from the pension as a 'set-off'. Otherwise, the solemn statutory provisions ensuring provident fund and gratuity become illusory. Pensions are paid out of regard for past meritorious services. The root of gratuity and the foundation of provident fund are different. Each one is a salutary benefaction statutorily guaranteed independently of the other. Even assuming that by private treaty parties had otherwise agreed to deductions before the coming into force of these beneficial enactments they cannot now be deprivatory. It is precisely to guard against such mischief that the non obstante and overriding provisions are engrafted on these statutes."

29. From the legal principles discussed above, we are not in doubt that any beneficial provision has to be given a liberal interpretation in a manner that extends and advances the benefits intended to be given to the beneficiary and not otherwise. We are also clear in our mind that in case two interpretations are possible to such a provision, the interpretation which furthers the benefit to the beneficiary has to be preferred and if we examine the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 in the light of these legal principles, we are of the opinion that the same has been interpreted by the Government in the Department of Medical Education by means of the Government Order dated 29.08.2014 in a manner which is not tenable. The words 'Pensionable Service' and 'Pensionable Post' occurring in the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 are thus to be interpreted to mean Post or Service either covered by the Old Pension Scheme or even by the New Pension Scheme. It is not in dispute that the post and services in the RML Institute are covered by the New Pension Scheme. Accordingly, giving restricted meaning to the word 'Pensionable Post/Pensionable Service' as occurring in the Government Order dated 16.09.2010, in our considered opinion, cannot be accepted.

30. In view of the discussions made and reasons given above, we find that the

Jaidev Singh ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Chaudhary, J.)

1. Petitioner has approached this Court praying for writ of Mandamus commanding the respondents to give all the retiral benefits including gratuity and regular pension under U.P. Palika (Centralized) Services Retirement Benefit Rules, 1981 (herein after referred to as Rules of 1981) by counting his past services rendered before his regularization. Petitioner was appointed as a daily wager on class III post as Clerk on 25.09.1990. He got regularized on 03.01.2006 and retired on 30.06.2022.

2. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner is entitled for post retiral benefits as per Rule 2(10) of the Rules of 1981 which provides retiral benefits as per Article 368 of Civil Services Regulation. Rule 2(10) of Rules of 1981 reads as:

"(10) "Qualifying service" means service which qualifies for pension in accordance with the provisions of Article 368 of the Civil Service Regulations, as amended from time to time, excepting the following-

(i) periods of temporary or officiating service in a non-pensionable establishment under any Municipal Corporation or Municipal Council;

(ii) periods of service in work-charted establishment; and

(iii) periods of service in a post paid from contingencies:

Provided that period of continued temporary or officiating service under any Municipal corporation or Municipal Council shall count as qualifying service if it is followed by confirmation of the same post or any other post without any interruption of service.

Note-If service rendered in a non-pensionable establishment, work-charged establishment or in a post paid from contingencies falls between two period of temporary service and permanent service in a pensionable establishment, it will not constitute an interruption of service."

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner places reliance upon the judgment of Division Bench of this Court in Special Appeal No.97 of 2021 (State of U.P. and Others Vs. Bhanu Pratap Sharma), judgment of a Single Judge bench in the case of Writ-A No.8968 of 2022 (Dr. Shyam Kumar Vs. State Of U.P.) and a judgment of three Judges Bench of Supreme Court in case of Prem Singh vs. State of U.P. and others, (2019) 10 SCC 516 which considered entitlement for pension and read down provisions of Uttar Pradesh Retirement Benefits Rules, 1961 and the Civil Services Regulation. The relevant paragraphs of the judgment in case of Prem Singh (Supra) reads:

"8. We first consider the provisions contained in the Uttar Pradesh Retirement Benefits Rules, 1961 (for short the 1961 Rules). Rule 3(8) of the 1961 Rules which contains the provisions in respect of qualifying service is extracted hereunder:

"3. In these rules, unless is anything repugnant in the subject or context:

*(1)-(7) * * **

(8) "Qualifying service" means service which qualifies for pension in accordance with the provisions of Article 368 of the Civil Services Regulations:

Provided that continuous temporary or officiating service under the Government of Uttar Pradesh followed without interruption by confirmation in the same or any other post except:

(i) periods of temporary or officiating service in a non-pensionable establishment;

(ii) periods of service in a work-charged establishment; and

(iii) periods of service in a post paid from contingencies shall also count as qualifying service.

Note. If service rendered in a non-pensionable establishment work-charged establishment or in a post paid from contingencies falls between two periods of temporary service in a pensionable establishment or between a period of temporary service and permanent service in a pensionable establishment, it will not constitute an interruption of service.

9. Regulations 361, 368 and 370 of the Uttar Pradesh Civil Services Regulations are also relevant. They are extracted hereunder:

"361. The service of an officer does not qualify for pension unless it conforms to the following three conditions:

First : The service must be under Government.

Second : The employment must be substantive and permanent."

These three conditions are fully explained in the following Regulations.

"368. Service does not qualify unless the officer holds a substantive office on a permanent establishment.

370. Continuous temporary or officiating service under the Government of Uttar Pradesh followed without interruption by confirmation in the same or any other post shall qualify, except:

(i) periods of temporary or officiating service in non-pensionable establishment;

(ii) periods of service in work-charged establishment; and

(iii) periods of service in a post paid from contingencies."

10. The qualifying service is the one which is in accordance with the provisions of Regulation 368 i.e. holding a substantive post on a permanent establishment. The proviso to Rule 3(8) clarify that continuous, temporary or officiating service followed without interruption by confirmation in the same or any other post is also included in the qualifying service except in the case of periods of temporary and officiating service in a non-pensionable establishment. The service in work-charged establishment and period of service in a post paid from contingencies shall also not count as qualifying service.

11. The Note appended to Rule 3(8) contains a provision that if the service is rendered in a non-pensionable establishment, work-charged establishment or in a post paid from contingencies, falls between two periods of temporary service in a pensionable establishment or between a period of temporary service and permanent service in a pensionable establishment, it will not constitute an interruption of service. Thus, the Note contains a clear provision to count the qualifying service rendered in work-charged, contingency paid and non-pensionable establishment to be counted towards pensionable service, in the exigencies provided therein.

12. The provisions contained in Regulation 370 of the Civil Services Regulations excludes service in a non-pensionable establishment, work-charged establishment and in a post paid from contingencies from the purview of qualifying service. Under Regulation 361 of the Civil Services Regulations, the services must be under the Government and the employment must be substantive and permanent basis.

30. We are not impressed by the aforesaid submissions. The appointment of the work-charged employee in question had been made on monthly salary and they were required to cross the efficiency bar also. How their services are qualitatively different from regular employees. No material indicating qualitative difference has been pointed out except making bald statement. The appointment was not made for a particular project which is the basic concept of the work-charged employees. Rather, the very concept of work-charged employment has been misused by offering the employment on exploitative terms for the work which is regular and perennial in nature. The work-charged employees had been subjected to transfer from one place to another like regular employees as apparent from documents placed on record. In Narain Dutt Sharma v. State of U.P. [CA No. _____2019 arising out of SLP (C) No. 5775 of 2018] the appellants were allowed to cross efficiency bar, after "8" years of continuous service, even during the period of work-charged services. Narain Dutt Sharma, the appellant, was appointed as a work-charged employee as Gej Mapak with effect from 15-9-1978. Payment used to be made monthly but the appointment was made in the pay scale of Rs 200-320. Initially, he was appointed in the year 1978 on a fixed monthly salary of Rs 205 per month. They were allowed to cross efficiency bar also as the benefit of pay scale was granted to them during the period they served as work-charged employees they served for three to four decades and later on services have been regularised time to time by different orders. However, the services of some of the appellants in few petitions/appeals have not been regularised even though they had served for several decades and ultimately reached the age of superannuation.

31. In the aforesaid facts and circumstances, it was unfair on the part of the State Government and its officials to take work from the employees on the work-charged basis. They ought to have resorted to an appointment on regular basis. The taking of work on the work-charged basis for long amounts to adopting the exploitative device. Later on, though their services have been regularized. However, the period spent by them in the work-charged establishment has not been counted towards the qualifying service. Thus, they have not only been deprived of their due emoluments during the period they served on less salary in work-charged establishment but have also been deprived of counting of the period for pensionary benefits as if no services had been rendered by them. The State has been benefitted by the services rendered by them in the heydays of their life on less salary in work-charged establishment.

32. In view of the Note appended to Rule 3(8) of the 1961 Rules, there is a provision to count service spent on work-charged, contingencies or non-pensionable service, in case, a person has rendered such service in a given between period of two temporary appointments in the pensionable establishment or has rendered such service in the interregnum two periods of temporary and permanent employment. The work-charged service can be counted as qualifying service for pension in the aforesaid exigencies.

33. The question arises whether the imposition of rider that such service to be counted has to be rendered in-between two spells of temporary or temporary and permanent service is legal and proper. We find that once regularisation had been made on vacant posts, though the employee had not served prior to that on temporary basis, considering the nature of appointment, though it was not a regular appointment it was made on monthly salary and thereafter in the pay scale of work-charged establishment the efficiency bar was permitted to be crossed. It would be highly discriminatory and irrational because of the rider contained in the Note to Rule 3(8) of the 1961 Rules, not to count such service particularly, when it can be counted, in case such service is sandwiched between two temporary or in-between temporary and permanent services. There is no rhyme or reason not to count the service of work-charged period in case it has been rendered before regularisation. In our opinion, an impermissible classification has been made under Rule 3(8). It would be highly unjust, impermissible and irrational to deprive such employees benefit of the qualifying service. Service of work-charged period remains the same for all the employees, once it is to be counted for one class, it has to be counted for all to prevent discrimination. The classification cannot be done on the irrational basis and when respondents are themselves counting period spent in such service, it would be highly discriminatory not to count the service on the basis of flimsy classification. The rider put on that work-charged service should have preceded by temporary capacity is discriminatory and irrational and creates an impermissible classification.

34. As it would be unjust, illegal and impermissible to make aforesaid classification to make Rule 3(8) valid and non-discriminatory, we have to read down the provisions of Rule 3(8) and hold that services rendered even prior to regularisation in the capacity of work-charged employees, contingency paid fund employees or non-pensionable establishment shall also be counted towards the qualifying service even if such service is not preceded by temporary or regular appointment in a pensionable establishment.

35. In view of the Note appended to Rule 3(8), which we have read down, the provision contained in Regulation 370 of the Civil Services Regulations has to be struck down as also the instructions contained in Para 669 of the Financial Handbook.

36. There are some of the employees who have not been regularised in spite of having rendered the services for 30-40 or more years whereas they have been superannuated. As they have worked in the work-charged establishment, not against any particular project, their services ought to have been regularised under the Government instructions and even as per the decision of this Court in State of Karnataka v. Umadevi (3) [State of Karnataka v. Umadevi (3), (2006) 4 SCC 1 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 753] . This Court in the said decision has laid down that in case services have been rendered for more than ten years without the cover of the Court's order, as one-time measure, the services be regularised of such employees. In the facts of the case, those employees who have worked for ten years or more should have been regularised. It would not be proper to regulate them for consideration of regularisation as others have been regularised, we direct that their services be treated as a regular one. However, it is made clear that they shall not be entitled to claiming any dues of difference in wages had they been continued in service regularly before attaining the age of superannuation. They shall be entitled to receive the pension as if they have retired from the regular establishment and the services rendered by them right from the day they entered the work-charged establishment shall be counted as qualifying service for purpose of pension.

37. In view of reading down Rule 3(8) of the U.P. Retirement Benefits Rules, 1961, we hold that services rendered in the work-charged establishment shall be treated as qualifying service under the aforesaid rule for grant of pension. The arrears of pension shall be confined to three years only before the date of the order. Let the admissible benefits be paid accordingly within three months.

Resultantly, the appeals filed by the employees are allowed and filed by the State are dismissed."

4. He further submits that since similar rules for pensionary benefits exist in the respondent authority, therefore, the matter is squarely covered by the said judgment and petitioner herein should also be extended the benefit of the law settled in the case of Prem Singh (Supra).

5. Shri Shyam Mani Shukla, learned counsel for respondent Nigam opposes the submissions made by counsel for petitioner. He submits that the pensionary benefits are now regulated as per the Uttar Pradesh Qualifying Services for Pension and Validation Ordinance, 2020 (later replaced by Uttar Pradesh Qualifying Services for Pension and Validation Act, 2021), which excludes services rendered before regularization from the definition of 'Qualifying Services' for pension. He has placed reliance on interim order dated 21.12.2022 of this Court in Special Appeal Defective No.482 of 2022 (The Nagar Ayukt Nagar Nigam Vs. Devdatt and 2 others) arising out of judgment and order dated 20.04.2022 passed in Writ A No.5082 of 2022. The relevant portion of the aforesaid judgment reads as:

"In Re:- Appeal

The contention of the learned counsel for the appellant is that the learned Single Judge by the impugned judgment and order dated 20.04.2022 has directed consideration of the claim of the petitioner-respondent in light of the decisions of the Apex Court in Prem Singh's case and Division Bench decision in the case of Chetram. It has been submitted that there are several subsequent developments which could non suit the claim of the petitioner-respondent and even the matter is engaging attention of the Apex Court in Special Leave to Appeal (C) No.5859 of 2022, arising out of judgment of this Court dated 24.08.2021 in Writ-A No.4224 of 2021, wherein an interim order has been passed thereby staying the contempt proceedings.

The matter requires consideration.

Learned counsel for the petitioner-respondent prays for and is allowed three weeks time to file counter affidavit.

List this matter on 18th January, 2023.

Till the next date of listing, the effect and operation of the impugned judgment and order dated 20.04.2022 in Writ-A No.5082 of 2022, shall remain stayed."

6. The aforesaid order passed by Division Bench does not in any manner disturbs any settled law or settles a new law. Suffice would be to refer to the judgment of the Supreme Court in case of Shree Chamundi Mopeds Ltd. Vs. Church of South India Trust Association CSI Cinod Secretariat, Madras 1992 (3) SCC 1 which clarifies that an interim order does not in any manner impact the law settled by a Court.

7. Judgment in the case of Bhanu Pratap (supra) relied upon by the counsel for the petitioner does not consider the interpretation of 'qualifying services' for the purpose of pension as per the U.P. Qualifying Services for Pension and Validation Ordinance, 2020 (now Act of 2021) are not interpreted.

8. In Writ-A No.8968 of 2022 (Dr. Shyam Kumar Vs. State Of U.P.) this Court has interpreted the word 'post' used in Section 2 of the Act of 2021, be it temporary or permanent, and read it down as 'services rendered by an employee, be it of temporary or permanent nature'. Relevant paragraph of the aforesaid judgment reads:

"14. It is settled since long that daily wager employees are entitled to pensionary benefits counting their services from the date of their initial appointment and not from the date of their regularization. Suffice would be to refer to the judgment in cases of Hari Shankar Asopa vs. State of U.P. and another, 1989(1) UPLBEC 501; Yashwant Hari Katakhar vs. Union of India and others, 1996 (7) SCC 113; and Prem Singh (supra). In fact earlier they were covered by Rule 2 of U.P. Retirement Benefit Rules, 1961 and other Civil Services Regulations.

15. Now learned Standing Counsel submits that in view of Section 2 of the Act of 2021, since petitioners were not appointed on a temporary or permanent post initially, therefore, benefit of said services cannot be granted to them.

16. The said aspect of the matter is already discussed above at length. Section 2 of the Act of 2021 is already read down and it is held that the word 'post' used in Section 2 of the Act of 2021, be it temporary or permanent, has to be read down as 'services rendered by a government employee, be it of temporary or permanent nature'.

17. In view thereof, the petitioners are also covered by the aforesaid interpretation of Section 2 of the Act of 2021 as given in the present judgment. Orders impugned in different writ petitions on the grounds stated above are covered by the earlier judgments as well as by findings given above in this judgment and, hence, petitioners are held to be entitled for counting of their services rendered as daily wagers for pensionary benefits. All impugned orders are set aside."

9. The present Rules of 1981 are parallel to the Rules of State Government which have been read down by the Supreme Court in the case of Prem Singh (supra), being held violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India, as they create an artificial categorization of similarly situated employees. In the present case also an artificial classification is created as admittedly, as the daily wager employees perform the same duties as the regular employees and are throughout treated as the regular employee. They were also regularized in continuation of their daily wage services. Thus, the matter is squarely covered by the law settled in case of Prem Singh (Supra) and Dr. Shyam Kumar (supra).

10. Hence, the writ petition is allowed.

11. Respondent no.2-Mukhya Nagar Adhikari, Nagar Nigam, Bareilly is directed to ensure regular payment of pensionary and other retiral benefits to the petitioner under the Rules of 1981, counting their entire service including the duty performed as daily wager employee of the Nagar Nigam within a period of three months.

Civil Law - Service Matter – Back wages - When dismissal order quashed on ground of quantum of punishment and not on merit – In the instant case the employee was out of service pursuant to order of dismissal dated 04.08.2006 until his reinstatement on 24.08.2013. Aggrieved by the dismissal order, the employee filed a writ petition, which came to be allowed only on the quantum of punishment. Writ Court was of the opinion that the punishment imposed was not commensurate with the guilt. Termination of the employee was not held to be wrongful by the writ Court. Rather, the writ Court was of the opinion that a lesser punishment would suffice, having regard to the guilt of the employee. The employee nowhere pleaded that he was not gainfully employed or employed on lower wages during the period of dismissal of service. Held: It cannot be said that the guilt of the employee stood wiped off; rather, reinstatement was directed as a consequence of the imposition of a lesser punishment. The employee would not be entitled to back wages for the period he has not performed his duties nor consequential benefits, as a consequence of such reinstatement. Having regard to the fact that the employee was out of employment for eight long years, 30% of back wages was directed to be paid to the employee for the period he was out of employment. (Para 12, 13, 14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suneet Kumar, J.
&
Hon'ble Rajendra Kumar-IV, J.)

1. Heard Sri Vishnu Pratap learned counsel appearing for the appellant/respondent and Sri Ajay Rajendra, learned counsel appearing for the respondent/petitioner.

2. Petitioners, herein, a bank, by the instant intra court appeal has raised challenge to the judgment and order dated 26 July 2021, passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ-A No. 43450 of 2014 (Vijay Agarwal vs. Chairman and Managing Director Central Bank of India and others) to the extent that the impugned order has directed appellant to pay arrears of salary and consequential benefits for the period of dismissal until reinstatement.

3. The respondent/petitioner was out of service pursuant to an order of dismissal dated 4 August 2006 until his reinstatement 24 August 2013. Aggrieved, by the dismissal order the respondent/petitioner filed a writ petition being Writ-A No. 17804 of 2007, which came to be allowed only on the quantum of punishment imposed on the respondent/petitioner. The writ Court was of the opinion that the punishment imposed is not commensurate to the guilt, accordingly, a lesser punishment would suffice. The operative portion of the order reads thus:

"Hence, the punishment awarded against the petitioner is disproportionate to the charges against him. Hence, the order dated 4.8.2006 passed by the disciplinary authority, respondent no. 3, the order dated 19.12.2006 passed by appellate authority, respondent no. 2 and the charge sheet dated 6.6.2005 (Annexures No. 1,2 and 3 respectively to the writ petition) are hereby quashed. The disciplinary authority will consider the matter afresh for awarding any lesser punishment apart from dismissal or removal from service and will pass an appropriate order as expeditiously as possible preferably within two months after furnishing of the certified copy of this order.

Accordingly, the present petition is hereby allowed. No order as to cost."

4. It appears that the appellant-respondent filed a review petition being Review Application No. 380227 of 2011, seeking review of the writ Court order dated 20 November 2012. The writ Court disposed of the review application clarifying that the writ Court order is required to be complied after reinstating the petitioner/employee, thereafter, consider the matter afresh for awarding lesser punishment. Relevant portion of the order reads thus:

"In view of fact the judgment and order which charge sheet dated 6.6.2005 annexure-3 to the writ petition was quashed. It is clarified that by judgment and order dated 20.11.2012 only orders passed by the disciplinary authority and appellate authority dated 4.8.2006 and 19.12.2006 are quashed.

The respondents will ensure the compliance of the judgment and order dated 20.11.2012 firstly by reinstating the petitioner employee and subsequently by considering the matter afresh for awarding lesser punishment.

Accordingly, the review petition is finally disposed off."

5. In other words, the writ Court clarified that the appellant/bank is required to award a lesser punishment other than dismissal/removal. The writ Court, however, did not return a finding that the disciplinary enquiry was vitiated or that the petitioner was not found guilty of the charge levelled against him. Thereafter, in compliance, respondent/petitioner came to be reinstated in service and from the stage of charge-sheet a fresh enquiry was conducted, finally the disciplinary authority imposed punishment vide order dated 11 June 2014, bringing down two lower stages of scale of pay permanently w.e.f. 31 July 2013 (order passed on the correction application filed by the appellant) to the order passed on the review petition. Aggrieved by the punishment order, respondent/petitioner again approached the writ Court, wherein, the impugned order has been passed.

6. The appellant/respondents are aggrieved that the writ Court while upholding the order of the disciplinary authority partly, allowed the writ petition, insofar, it deprived the respondent/petitioner arrears of salary for the period for which the order of dismissal was operative. The relevant portion of the impugned order reads thus:

It becomes relevant to note that upon the matter being remanded all that remained for the respondents to consider was what punishment in substitution was liable to be imposed other than dismissal or removal from service. Once the order of dismissal came to be set-aside by the Court, the only punishment which could have been imposed and was in fact imposed by the respondents themselves was of the petitioner being brought down to two lower stages in the pay scale. The Court has not been shown any power vesting in the respondents to deprive the petitioner of emoluments for the period during which the order of dismissal operated. In view of the aforesaid discussion and to that limited extent, the Court finds itself unable to sustain the decision of the respondents.

The additional submission of Sri Tiwari that on the principle of "no work no pay", the petitioner must be deprived of arrears during the period when the order of dismissal operated, is noticed only to be rejected for the following reasons. The principle of "no work no pay" would apply where a workman or employee on his own chooses not to work or discharge his duties. However, it can have no application to a case where the employer by his own action has prevented the employee from discharging duties. In the present case, the petitioner stood dismissed from service. It is therefore not a case where the petitioner of his volition chose not to discharge duties.

Accordingly, the writ petition is partly allowed. The impugned order insofar as it deprives the petitioner of arrears for the period from which the order of dismissal operated stands set aside. The petitioner shall be entitled for all consequential benefits.

7. In the aforementioned backdrop, it is submitted that the earlier punishment order of dismissal/removal from service was not set aside by the writ Court on merit. No finding was returned that the findings returned in the enquiry was per se perverse or is not based on the rules applicable to the respondent/petitioner. In other words the findings returned by the enquiry officer with regard to the guilt of the respondent/petitioner was upheld. The writ Court merely remanded the matter to the disciplinary authority to award a lesser punishment as in the opinion of the Court, having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case, the punishment of dismissal/removal from service awarded to the respondent/petitioner was not commensurate to the guilt.

8. This fact was duly clarified by the writ Court in the review petition filed by the appellant/respondent. Thereafter, since the order of dismissal was set aside and the court had directed the appellant/bank to reinstate the respondent, thereafter, pass an order of punishment, it would certainly not mean that the order of dismissal would relate back to the date on which it was passed. The opinion of the writ Court that while setting aside the dismissal order, it would be taken that it had never existed in the eye of law, therefore, the respondent/petitioner is entitled to back-wages is not tenable. The order of punishment was only set aside on technical grounds being not commensurate to the guilt but the enquiry against the respondent/petitioner holding him guilty was upheld and the disciplinary authority was directed to pass a fresh order of punishment lesser than that of dismissal/removal. In the circumstances it cannot be said that by setting aside the dismissal order the status quo ante would stand restored with all consequential effect. It was subject to outcome of imposition of the penalty to be imposed by the disciplinary authority. The disciplinary authority was within his competence to pass separate order with regard to back wages.

9. In Pradeep S/o Raj Kumar Jain vs. Manganese Ore (India) Limited and others (2022) 3 SCC 683, the question before the Supreme Court was as to whether the High Court directing reinstatement of the respondent/petitioner was justified in denying him the benefit of backwages. Reliance was placed on a three Judge Bench decision rendered in Deepali Gundu Surwase vs. Kranti Junior Adhyapak Mahavidyalaya (2013) 10 SCC 324, wherein, the principles for entitlement to backwages upon wrongful termination of service was restated. The Court held that in cases of wrongful termination of service, reinstatement with continuity of service and back wages is the normal rule. Para 38.1 reads thus:

"38.1. In cases of wrongful termination of service, reinstatement with continuity of service and back wages is the normal rule."

10. Further, the Court held that the aforesaid rule is subject to the rider that while deciding the back wages, other factors have to be taken into consideration that is the nature of misconduct, the financial condition of the employer and similar other factors. It is required for the employee or workman whose services are terminated and who is desirous of getting back wages is required to either plead or at least make a statement before the adjudicating authority or the court of first instance that he/she was not gainfully employed or was employed on lesser wages. Para 38.2 and 38.3 are extracted:

38.2. The aforesaid rule is subject to the rider that while deciding the issue of back wages, the adjudicating authority or the court may take into consideration the length of service of the employee/workman, the nature of misconduct, if any, found proved against the employee/workman, the financial condition of the employer and similar other factors.

38.3. Ordinarily, an employee or workman whose services are terminated and who is desirous of getting back wages is required to either plead or at least make a statement before the adjudicating authority or the court of first instance that he/she was not gainfully employed or was employed on lesser wages. ...

11. Applying the principles in the facts and circumstances of this case, termination of the respondent/petitioner was not held to be wrongful by the writ Court. Rather, the writ Court was of the opinion that a lesser punishment would suffice having regard to the guilt of the respondent/petitioner. Further, respondent nowhere pleaded that he was not gainfully employed or employed on lower wages during the period of dismissal of service. Accordingly, it cannot be said that the guilt of the respondent/petitioner stood wiped off while he was punished, rather, reinstatement was directed as a consequence of imposition of a lesser punishment, the respondent/petitioner would not be entitled to back wages, nor, consequential benefits as a consequence of such reinstatement.

12. On specific query, learned counsel for the respondent/petitioner fairly submits that the respondent has not assailed the impugned writ Court order, to the extent the learned Single Judge upheld the enquiry and the guilt of the petitioner.

13. In the circumstances, while imposing lesser punishment, in the opinion of the disciplinary authority the respondent is not entitled to wages for the period he has not performed his duties would be justified in view of Deepali Gundu (supra).

14. The impugned order is, accordingly, set aside to the extent it directs payment of back wages with all consequential benefits. Having regard to the fact that the respondent/petitioner was out of employment for eight long years, it would be equitable that 30% of back wages be paid to the respondent/petitioner for the period he was out of employment. The same shall be computed and released by the appellant-bank within three months from the date of filing of certified copy of this order.

15. No cost.

Civil Law - Service Matter - Compassionate Appointment - Married brother - Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 - Rule 2 clause (c) sub-clause (iv), 'Unmarried brothers, unmarried sisters and widowed mother dependent on the deceased Government servant, if the deceased Government servant was unmarried' - Writ petition filed seeking to declare the expression 'unmarried' in the said Rule ultra vires. Held: Rule-making authority included brothers/sisters of the deceased Government servant in the definition of family provided they were unmarried, and at the same time, the Government servant was also unmarried. If the Government servant is married, then he has a dependent wife/children who are primarily his responsibility. The Court cannot sit in appeal over the judgment and wisdom of the employer in not including unmarried brothers and sisters within the definition of family of a married Government servant. Neither would the Court under Article 226 of the Constitution have any role in determining as to which family member should be included/excluded from the definition of family for the purpose of compassionate appointment. Court cannot suggest the manner in which the rule-making authority should structure or restructure the definition of family. Nothing to show as to how the exclusion of unmarried brothers/sisters from the definition of family of a married Government servant is manifestly arbitrary. Impugned Rule would not fall within the embargo of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. (Para 18, 19)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suneet Kumar, J.

1. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

2. By the instant petition, petitioner seeks to declare the expression "unmarried" ultra vires, in sub-clause (iv) of clause (c) of Rule 2 of Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974. Further, petitioner seeks quashing of the order dated 7 September 2020, passed by the second respondent, Senior Superintendent of Police, Bulandshahar, rejecting the application submitted by the wife of the deceased-employee seeking appointment of the petitioner (brother-in-law) under the Rules, 1974.

3. The facts briefly giving rise to the instant writ petition is that the brother of the petitioner, namely, Javed Khan, working as constable in civil police, unfortunately died-in-harness on 27 August 2021, in an accident. The deceased-employee left behind his wife, aged about, 33 years and three minor sons, aged about, 10, 9 and 5 years, respectively. Apart from his family, the deceased-employee left behind his parents and three brothers, including, the petitioner. The third respondent/wife of the deceased-employee made an application on 12 August 2022, to the second respondent, requesting that petitioner be given compassionate appointment under Rules, 1974, in lieu of her, as he was looking after her minor children after the death of her husband. It is further stated that petitioner is unmarried and was dependent on her husband. The application came to be rejected by the impugned order dated 7 September 2022, passed by the second respondent, recording therein that petitioner does not fall within the definition of "family" under Rules, 1974, being unmarried brother of the deceased-employee who was married.

4. Reliance has been placed by the learned counsel for the petitioner on the decision rendered by the Single Judge in Mohd Ikram Versus State of U.P. and another².

5. The definition of "family" reads thus:

"2(c) "family" shall include the following relations of the deceased Government servant:

(i) Wife or husband;

(ii) Sons/adopted sons;

(iii).....

(iv) Unmarried brothers, unmarried sisters and widowed mother dependent on the deceased Government servant, if the deceased Government servant was unmarried."

6. Rules, 1974 came to be amended from time to time³. However, sub-clause (iv) continued as such. Accordingly, unmarried brothers/sisters of married government servant was not included in the definition of family.

7. In the given facts, the impugned Rule remains the same, insofar, it relates to the petitioner, prior to the amendment and thereafter. Sub-clause (iv) of Rule 2 (c), mandates that unmarried brothers dependent on the deceased Government servant, "if the deceased Government servant was unmarried" would fall within the definition of the expression "family". Petitioner is unmarried but as per his case, his brother/deceased employee was married having a wife and three sons. In other words, the deceased employee was not unmarried i.e. not having a family, but, otherwise.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the expression "unmarried" brothers/sisters of the deceased "unmarried" Government servant in sub-clause (iv) is manifestly arbitrary, accordingly, violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

9. It is submitted that unmarried brother can be dependent upon the married Government servant apart from his family i.e. wife and children. In this backdrop, it is submitted that sub-clause (iv) of Rule 2(c) is manifestly arbitrary while imposing the condition that "unmarried" brother cannot be dependent upon a married deceased employee.

10. The learned Standing Counsel for the State submits that a married Government servant has a separate and distinct family and the unmarried brothers/sisters cannot be said to be dependent upon of the married government servant. His first obligation is towards his own family. In the facts of the case petitioner has other brothers and parents. Petitioner is dependent upon them. The writ petition lacks merit.

11. Rival submissions fall for consideration.

12. The question that arises for consideration is as to whether the impugned Rule i.e. sub-clause (iv) of Rule 2(c) is manifestly arbitrary/unreasonable to render it violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

13. There is a presumption in favour of constitutionality or validity of a subordinate legislation and the burden is upon him who challenges it to show that it is ultra vires/invalid. It is also well recognized that subordinate legislation can be challenged under any of the following grounds:

"(a) Lack of legislative competence to make the sub-ordinate legislation.

(b) Violation of Fundamental Rights guaranteed under the Constitution of India.

(d) Failure to conform to the Statute under which it is made or exceeding the limits of authority conferred by the enabling Act.

(e) Repugnancy to the laws of the land, that is, any enactment.

(f) Manifest arbitrariness/unreasonableness (to an extent where the Court might well say that the legislature never intended to give authority to make such rules)."

(Refer: State of T.N. vs. P. Krishnamurthy⁴ & Cellular Operators Association of India and others vs Telecom Regulatory Authority Of India and others⁵)

14. One of the tests for challenging the constitutionality of subordinate legislation is that the subordinate legislation should not be manifestly arbitrary. Also, it is settled law that subordinate legislation can be challenged on any of the grounds available to challenge plenary legislation. (Refer: Indian Express Newspapers (Bombay) (P) Ltd. vs. Union of India⁶)

15. In Shayara Bano Versus Union of India and others⁷, Justice Rohinton Fali Nariman, upon examining the precedents, was of the opinion that there is no rational distinction between two types of legislation i.e. subordinate legislation and plenary legislation when it is challenged under Article 14. Para 101 reads thus:

"101. It will be noticed that a Constitution Bench of this Court in Indian Express Newspapers v. Union of India, (1985) 1 SCC 641, stated that it was settled law that subordinate legislation can be challenged on any of the grounds available for challenge against plenary legislation. This being the case, there is no rational distinction between the two types of legislation when it comes to this ground of challenge under Article 14. The test of manifest arbitrariness, therefore, as laid down in the aforesaid judgments would apply to invalidate legislation as well as subordinate legislation under Article 14. Manifest arbitrariness, therefore, must be something done by the legislature capriciously, irrationally and/or without adequate determining principle. Also, when something is done which is excessive and disproportionate, such legislation would be manifestly arbitrary. We are, therefore, of the view that arbitrariness in the sense of manifest arbitrariness as pointed out by us above would apply to negate legislation as well under Article 14."

16. That takes us to consider the test of 'manifest arbitrariness'. It is well explained in Khoday Distilleries Ltd. and others vs. State of Karnataka and others⁸, which reads thus:

"13. . . . The tests of arbitrary action which apply to executive actions do not necessarily apply to delegated legislation. In order that delegated legislation can be struck down, such legislation must be manifestly arbitrary; a law which could not be reasonably expected to emanate from an authority delegated with the law-making power. In the case of Indian Express Newspapers (Bombay) (P) Ltd. v. Union of India [(1985) 1 SCC 641 : 1985 SCC (Tax) 121 : (1985) 2 SCR 287], this Court said that a piece of subordinate legislation does not carry the same degree of immunity which is enjoyed by a statute passed by a competent legislature. A subordinate legislation may be questioned under Article 14 on the ground that it is unreasonable; "unreasonable not in the sense of not being reasonable, but in the sense that it is manifestly arbitrary" . . . In India, arbitrariness is not a separate ground since it will come within the embargo of Article 14 of the Constitution. But subordinate legislation must be so arbitrary that it could not be said to be in conformity with the statute or that it offends Article 14 of the Constitution."

17. Also in Sharma Transport vs. Government of A.P. and others⁹, the Supreme Court held as follows:

"25. . . . The tests of arbitrary action applicable to executive action do not necessarily apply to delegated legislation. In order to strike down a delegated legislation as arbitrary it has to be established that there is manifest arbitrariness. In order to be described as arbitrary, it must be shown that it was not reasonable and manifestly arbitrary. The expression "arbitrarily" means: in an unreasonable manner, as fixed or done capriciously or at pleasure, without adequate determining principle, not founded in the nature of things, non-rational, not done or acting according to reason or judgment, depending on the will alone. . . ."

(emphasis supplied)

18. In the backdrop of the aforementioned proposition of law, the rule making authority included brothers/sisters of the deceased Government servant in the definition of family provided they were unmarried and at the same time the Government servant was also unmarried. In other words, if the Government Servant is married then he has a dependent wife/children who are primarily his responsibility. The expression 'unmarried' in the impugned Rule appears to have been incorporated with a purpose that a married Government servant would have a family of his own, therefore, in the opinion of the rule making authority the unmarried brothers and sisters cannot be said to be dependent on the married Government servant in the sense that dependency of wife/children is primarily to the exclusion of brothers/sisters of the Government Servant. The married brothers/sisters certainly would have independent family from that of the Government servant.

19. The Court cannot sit in appeal over the judgment and wisdom of the employer in not including unmarried brothers and sisters within the definition of family of a married Government servant. Neither, the Court under Article 226 of the Constitution would have any role in determining as to which family member should be included/excluded from the definition of family for the purpose of compassionate appointment. The Court cannot suggest the manner in which the rule making authority should structure or restructure the definition of family. The learned counsel for the petitioner is unable to show as to how exclusion of unmarried brothers/sisters from the definition of family of married Government servant is manifestly arbitrary.

20. In the given facts, it is not in dispute that the petitioner is having brothers, as well as, his parents. Further, the deceased employee has left behind his wife and three minor children. In the circumstances, it cannot be said having regard to the definition of family that petitioner was dependent upon the deceased government servant. There is a distinction between someone being dependent and the other person receiving financial assistance. Petitioner was aged about 25 years at the death of the Government servant and presently aged about 29 years. Petitioner may have been receiving financial assistance intermittently but that would not make him dependent on his brother, having regard to the fact that the deceased Government servant has a family of his own.

21. The impugned Rule may appear to be arbitrary by excluding the unmarried brothers/sisters from the definition of family of a married Government servant but that is not sufficient to make the Rule manifestly arbitrary so as to declare the Rule arbitrary under Article 14. The Rule is neither irrational, and/or, without adequate determining the principle or capricious to exclude unmarried brothers/sisters. Neither the impugned Rule is unreasonable in the sense of not being reasonable or rational. Merely alleging that the Rule is arbitrary would not be a sufficient ground to bring it within the embargo of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. The subordinate legislation must be so arbitrary that it could not be said to be in conformity with the statute or that it offends Article 14 of the Constitution i.e. not founded in the nature of things, non-rational, not done or acting according to reason or judgment, depending on the will of the authority alone. The impugned Rule cannot be held to be manifestly arbitrary merely for the reason that it is not of universal application to the siblings of the Government servant but only confined to unmarried Government servant and unmarried brothers/sisters.

22. Mohd Ikram (supra) while observing "there is no embargo that the deceased Government servant should be an unmarried person is on misreading of sub-clause (iv) of Rule 2(c). In the facts arising therein, the deceased/Government servant was a married person, therefore, the unmarried brother of the deceased Government servant stands excluded from the definition of family. The decision, in Mohd Ikram (supra), is per incuriam, accordingly overruled.

23. Having regard to the discussions hereinabove, the writ petition being devoid of merit is, accordingly, dismissed. The impugned Rule would not fall within the embargo of Article 14 of Constitution of India.

24. The dismissal of the writ petition, however, would not preclude the respondent-wife of the deceased Government servant from making an application for compassionate appointment. In case such an application is made, the same shall be considered by the competent authority on merit.

25. No cost.

Civil Law - Service Matter - Uttar Pradesh Sub-Inspector and Inspector (Civil Police) Service (Second Amendment) Rules, 2016 - Rule 10

provides 'Age-10. A candidate for direct recruitment must have attained the age of 21 years and must not have attained the age of 28 years on the first day of July of a calendar year in which vacancies for direct recruitment are advertised'. Petitioner challenged the validity of Rule 10. Petitioner, was born on 01 July, consequently attained the age of 28 years and one day on the cutoff date; hence, he was hit by Rule 10. Held: Petitioner was unable to show how the amendment in the Rules of 2016 makes Rule 10 manifestly arbitrary, merely because the rule-making authority does not want a candidate for the post of Sub-Inspector who has attained the age of 28 years on the cutoff date to be considered eligible for the post. 11. Sanjay Kumar Manjul Vs Chairman, UPSC, (2006) 8 SCC 42

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suneet Kumar, J.
&
Hon'ble Rajendra Kumar-IV, J.)

1. Heard Sri Seemant Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondent.

2. Petitioner applied for the post of Sub-Inspector (Civil Police) and other equivalent post pursuant to Direct Recruitment 2020-21 initiated vide Notification dated 25 February 2021, by the second respondent, Uttar Pradesh Police Recruitment and Promotion Board, Lucknow (for short "Board").

3. By the instant petition, petitioner is challenging the validity of Rule 10 of Uttar Pradesh Sub-Inspector and Inspector (Civil Police) Service (Second Amendment) Rules, 2016 (for short "Rules 2016").

4. Rule 10 provides for eligibility in respect of age. The Rule as initially enacted reads thus:

*"Age-10. A candidate for direct recruitment must have attained the age of 21 years and must not have attained the age of more than 28 years on the first day of July of a calendar year in which vacancies for direct recruitment are advertised:

Provided....."

5. The Rule subsequently came to be amended in following terms. The amended Rule reads thus:

Provided....."

6. Petitioner is aggrieved that as per Rule 10 of Rules 2016, a candidate must not have attained the age of 28 years on the first day of July of a calendar year. In other words, the candidate must be aged less than 28 years i.e. the candidate attaining the age of 28 years on 30 June at 12.00 P.M. becomes ineligible as he would cross 28 years on first day of July of the calendar year. As per the earlier Rule it was mandated that the candidate must not have attained the age of more than 28 years on the first day of July of the calendar year, meaning thereby, the candidate who has attained 28 years of age on first day of July was eligible. In other words, the Rule under challenge mandates that the candidate must be below 28 years of age as on first July of the calendar year. The petitioner, herein, was born on 01 July, consequently, attained the age of 28 years and one day on the cut of date i.e. he had attained the age of 28 years, hence, hit by Rule 10.

7. The afore extracted Rule is under challenge.

8. In this backdrop, it is submitted that the Rule 10 is manifestly arbitrary and is liable to be declared ultra vires of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India.

9. Rival submissions fall for consideration.

10. The question that arises is as to whether the impugned Rule is manifestly arbitrary/unreasonable to render it violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

11. There is a presumption in favour of constitutionality or validity of a subordinate legislation and the burden is upon him who challenges it to show that it is ultra vires/invalid. It is also well recognized that subordinate legislation can be challenged under any of the following grounds:

"(a) Lack of legislative competence to make the sub-ordinate legislation.

(b) Violation of Fundamental Rights guaranteed under the Constitution of India.

(c) Violation of any provision of the Constitution of India.

(d) Failure to conform to the Statute under which it is made or exceeding the limits of authority conferred by the enabling Act.

(e) Repugnancy to the laws of the land, that is, any enactment.

*(f) Manifest arbitrariness/unreasonableness (to an extent where the Court might well say that the legislature never intended to give authority to make such rules)."

(Refer: State of T.N. vs. P. Krishnamurthy¹ & Cellular Operators Association of India and others vs Telecom Regulatory Authority Of India and others²)

12. One of the tests for challenging the constitutionality of subordinate legislation is that the subordinate legislation should not be manifestly arbitrary. Also, it is settled law that subordinate legislation can be challenged on any of the grounds available to challenge plenary legislation. (Refer: Indian Express Newspapers (Bombay) (P) Ltd. vs. Union of India³)

13. That takes us to consider the test of 'manifest arbitrariness'. It is well explained in Khoday Distilleries Ltd. and others vs. State of Karnataka and others⁴, which reads thus:

"13. . . . The tests of arbitrary action which apply to executive actions do not necessarily apply to delegated legislation. In order that delegated legislation can be struck down, such legislation must be manifestly arbitrary; a law which could not be reasonably expected to emanate from an authority delegated with the law-making power. In the case of Indian Express Newspapers (Bombay) (P) Ltd. v. Union of India [(1985) 1 SCC 641 : 1985 SCC (Tax) 121 : (1985) 2 SCR 287], this Court said that a piece of subordinate legislation does not carry the same degree of immunity which is enjoyed by a statute passed by a competent legislature. A subordinate legislation may be questioned under Article 14 on the ground that it is unreasonable; "unreasonable not in the sense of not being reasonable, but in the sense that it is manifestly arbitrary" . . . In India, arbitrariness is not a separate ground since it will come within the embargo of Article 14 of the Constitution. But subordinate legislation must be so arbitrary that it could not be said to be in conformity with the statute or that it offends Article 14 of the Constitution."

14. Also in Sharma Transport vs. Government of A.P. and others⁵, the Supreme Court held as follows:

"25. . . . The tests of arbitrary action applicable to executive action do not necessarily apply to delegated legislation. In order to strike down a delegated legislation as arbitrary it has to be established that there is manifest arbitrariness. In order to be described as arbitrary, it must be shown that it was not reasonable and manifestly arbitrary. The expression "arbitrarily" means: in an unreasonable manner, as fixed or done capriciously or at pleasure, without adequate determining principle, not founded in the nature of things, non-rational, not done or acting according to reason or judgment, depending on the will alone. . . ."

(emphasis supplied)

15. It is well settled that the power of judicial review can be exercised in such matters only if it is shown that the action of the employer is contrary to any Constitution or statutory provision or is patently arbitrary or is vitiated due to mala fides. It is settled legal position that matters relating to creation and abolition of posts formation or structuring and restructuring of cadres, prescribing mode of recruitment and qualifications, criteria of selection, evaluation of candidates/employees falls within the exclusive domain of the employer.

16. In Union of India vs. Pushpa Rani and others⁶, it was held that Court and Tribunals can neither prescribe the qualifications nor sit in appeal over the judgment of the employer laying down the criteria and methodology of recruitment and selection. Paragraph 37 reads thus:

"3.....What steps should be taken for improving efficiency of the administration is also the preserve of the employer. The power of judicial review can be exercised in such matters only if it is shown that the action of the employer is contrary to any constitutional or statutory provision or is patently arbitrary or is vitiated due to mala fides. The Court cannot sit in appeal over the judgment of the employer and ordain that a particular post be filled by direct recruitment or promotion or by transfer. The Court has no role in determining the methodology of recruitment or laying down the criteria of selection. It is also not open to the Court to make comparative evaluation of the merit of the candidates. The Court cannot suggest the manner in which the employer should structure or restructure the cadres for the purpose of improving efficiency of administration."

(emphasis supplied)

17. Similarly, in Chandigarh Administration vs. Usha Kheterpal Waie and others⁷, Supreme Court, in paragraph 22, observed thus:

"22. It is now well settled that it is for the rule-making authority or the appointing authority to prescribe the mode of selection and minimum qualification for any recruitment. The courts and tribunals can neither prescribe the qualifications nor entrench upon the power of the authority concerned so long as the qualifications prescribed by the employer is reasonably relevant and has a rational nexus with the functions and duties attached to the post and are not violative of any provision of the Constitution, statute and rules. [See J. Rangaswamy vs. Govt. of A.P. (1990) 1 SCC 288 and P.U. Joshi vs. Accountant General (2003) 2 SCC 632]. In the absence of any rules, under Article 309 or statute, the appellant had the power to appoint under its general power of administration and prescribe such eligibility criteria as it is considered to be necessary and reasonable. Therefore, it cannot be said that the prescription of Ph.D. is unreasonable."

18. It is settled principle of law that the employer is at liberty to legislate and provide the conditions of recruitment and selection, including, age. The Court would not substitute the discretion of the employer until it is shown that the Rule itself is inherently arbitrary to be violative of Article 14. No such ground has been raised while challenging the constitutional validity of Rule 10 of Rules 2016.

19. Accordingly, the employer has the sole discretion to prescribe qualification, age and decide the mode of recruitment. The Court under the garb of judicial review would not substitute the Rule making authority to decide what is best suited for the employer in the recruitment process. Having regard to the nature of duty, the selected candidates have to perform, it is always open to the employer to provide the upper age limit. Mere reduction of the age by one day would not render the Rule 10 manifestly arbitrary to make it contrary to the Constitution.

20. In Maharashtra Public Service Commission vs. Sandeep Shriram Warade⁸, the Court observed as under:

"9. The essential qualifications for appointment to a post are for the employer to decide. The employer may prescribe additional or desirable qualifications, including any grant of preference. It is the employer who is best suited to decide the requirements a candidate must possess according to the needs of the employer and the nature of work. In no case can the Court, in the garb of judicial review, sit in the chair of the appointing authority to decide what is best for the employer and interpret the conditions of the advertisement contrary to the plain language of the same."

21. In Punjab National Bank vs. Anit Kumar Das⁹, the Court observed as under:

"21. it is for the employer to determine and decide the relevancy and suitability of the qualifications for any post and it is not for the Courts to consider and assess. A greater latitude is permitted by the Courts for the employer to prescribe qualifications for any post. There is a rationale behind it. Qualifications are prescribed keeping in view the need and interest of an Institution or an Industry or an establishment as the case may be. The Courts are not fit instruments to assess expediency or advisability or utility of such prescription of qualifications....."

22. Similarly, in Zahoor Ahmad Rather vs. Seikh Imtiyaz Ahmad¹⁰, Supreme Court made the following observation:

"27. The state is entrusted with the authority to assess the needs of its public services. Exigencies of administration, it is trite law, fall within the domain of administrative decision making. The state as a public employer may well take into account social perspectives that require the creation of job opportunities across the societal structure. All these are essentially matters of policy. Judicial review must tread warily"

23. Supreme Court similarly in Sanjay Kumar Manjul vs. Chairman, UPSC¹¹, observed as under:

"25. The statutory authority is entitled to frame statutory rules laying down terms and conditions of service as also the qualifications essential for holding a particular post. It is only the authority concerned who can take ultimate decision therefore.

27. It is well settled that the superior courts while exercising their jurisdiction under articles 226 or 32 of the Constitution of India ordinarily do not direct an employer to prescribe a qualification for holding a particular post."

(emphasis supplied)

24. On specific query, learned counsel for the petitioner is unable to show as to how the amendment in the Rules 2016 makes Rule 10 manifestly arbitrary merely for the reason that the Rule making authority does not want a candidate for the post of Sub-Inspector who has attained the age of 28 years on the cut of date to be considered eligible for the post.

25. Having regard to the discussions hereinabove, the writ petition being devoid of merit is, accordingly, dismissed.

Civil Law - Service Matter - Railway Servants (Discipline & Appeal) Rules, 1968 - Rule 14(1) - Where any penalty is imposed on a Railway servant on the ground of conduct which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge, the disciplinary authority may consider the circumstances of the case and make such orders thereon as it deems fit. Issue: Whether the disciplinary authority is required to pass a reasoned and speaking order under Rule 14(1) of the Rules, 1968? Held: The requirement of the Rule mandates the disciplinary authority to 'consider the circumstances' of the case, i.e., the trial court judgment leading to the conviction of the officer. The conduct/role which led to the conviction of the officer on a criminal charge has to be considered. The disciplinary authority is not required to enter into the merits/evidence of the trial proceedings. The Rule does not mandate the authority to pass a reasoned and speaking order. The disciplinary authority is not required to sit in appeal on the findings returned by the trial court convicting the government servant. In the instant case, the order of punishment imposed by the disciplinary authority categorically records that the explanation of the petitioner was considered and that the charge against the petitioner in the trial was duly proved. The Court held that it was sufficient compliance with Rule 14(1) of the Rules, 1968. (Para 16, 17)

Dismissed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suneet Kumar, J.
&
Hon'ble Rajendra Kumar-IV, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner - applicant and learned counsel for the Union of India / Railway Department.

2. The present writ petition is directed against the judgment and order dated 28.03.2022, passed by the Central Administrative Tribunal, Allahabad Bench, Allahabad (for short, "Tribunal"), in Original Application No.330 /1393 of 2011, (Satya Narayan Dubey versus Union of India and others).

3. The services of the petitioner came to be terminated pursuant to Rule 14(1) of the Railway Servants (Discipline & Appeal) Rules, 1968, (for short "Rules, 1968"), on being convicted by the learned trial Court under Sections 409 & 477-A IPC and 13(2) & 13(1) of the Prevention of Corruption Act to undergo 7 years, 2 years and 5 years of rigorous imprisonment besides imposition of fine.

4. Petitioner has since been bailed out by the Appellate Court. The learned Tribunal was of the view that none of the orders passed either by the disciplinary authority, appellate authority or the revisional authority qualify as reasoned and speaking order, but having regard to the fact that the petitioner being convicted by the trial Court and the penalty imposed thereof upon him is sustainable.

5. Relevant portion of paragraph nos.5 and 6 of the impugned order is extracted:-

"5. No doubt we are of the firm view that none of the three orders i.e. the order of the disciplinary authority, the appellate authority and the revisionary authority would qualify as reasoned and speaking orders, we have also to take cognizance of the fact that the applicant has been convicted by the competent Criminal Court, and even through the orders suffer from legal infirmity, the root cause of the penalty of removal from service sustains. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the applicant has preferred an appeal against his conviction, which is still pending.

6. In the light of the peculiar facts and circumstance of the case it would not be appropriate to award any relief to the applicant even though he may have been removed from service by way of cryptic and non speaking order. Therefore, since no relief is possible at this juncture, this OA stands disposed. The applicant would be at liberty to revive the same in case he manages an adequate and appropriate relief in his criminal appeal."

6. Petitioner after being released on bail, appeared before the authority and submitted a copy of the order of the trial Court, pursuant thereof, a show cause notice dated 01.11.2007, came to be issued calling upon the petitioner to file objection / representation to the proposed penalty of removal from service. Pursuant thereof, petitioner appeared and filed his objection dated 08.11.2007, wherein, a cryptic reply was given that he is not satisfied with the judgment and order passed by the CBI Court. Further, it is stated that he has filed an appeal which has been admitted, consequently, prayed that his case for reinstatement be considered sympathetically.

7. The disciplinary authority vide order dated 18.12.2007, rejected the representation / explanation furnished by the petitioner after carefully considering the explanation and was of the opinion that the charge in the criminal trial against the delinquent employee was duly proved. Accordingly, punishment of removal came to be imposed. The petitioner filed an appeal followed by revision, the same came to be dismissed.

8. In this backdrop, it is submitted that the learned Tribunal returned a finding that the impugned orders imposing punishment upon the petitioner do not qualify as reasoned and speaking order, therefore, the matter should have been remitted to the disciplinary authority to pass a fresh order in terms of the Rule 14 (i) of the Rules, 1968, which mandates that disciplinary authority may consider the circumstance of the case and make such order thereon.

9. The short question that arises for consideration is as to whether disciplinary authority is required to pass a reasoned and speaking order under Rule 14(i) of Rules, 1968.

10. The services of the petitioner came to terminated under Rule 14 (i) of CCS (CCA) Rules, 1968 (for short "Rules, 1968")

Rule 14 of the Rules, 1968, is extracted:-

"14. Special procedure in certain cases

Notwithstanding anything contained in Rules 9 to 13:

(i) where any penalty is imposed on a Railway servant on the ground of conduct which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge; or

(ii)

(iii)

The disciplinary authority may consider the circumstances of the case and make such orders thereon as it deems fit :

[Provided that the Railway servant may be given an opportunity of making representation on the penalty proposed to be imposed before any order is made in a case falling under Clause (i).]

Provided further that the Commission shall be consulted, where such consultation is necessary, before any orders are made in any case under this rule.] "

11. When the disciplinary authority provides the reason behind his decision, the decision is treated as an reasoned decision. Speaking order or reasoned order is considered the third pillar of natural justice. Speaking orders are essential for judicial review. Circumstances of the case is a piece of evidence that indicates the probability or improbability of an event (such as crime).

12. Admittedly, petitioner came to be convicted in a corruption case, on a complaint made by the Railways, while petitioner was the Section Engineer. In matters pertaining to corruption there is not much for the disciplinary authority to consider the circumstances of the case as a detailed finding of fact along-with the evidence in support thereof was considered by the trial Court in its judgment and order passed against the petitioner in criminal case under Indian Penal Code and Prevention of Corruption Act.

13. It is not the case of the petitioner that he came to be convicted for offences under the Indian Penal Code alone. In that event the disciplinary authority was bound to consider the circumstances, role and the conduct of the officer in commission of the offence. For instance, as to whether the role of the delinquent employee in commission of the offence, was only of exhortation and no more, the disciplinary authority in that event would consider the circumstance of the case while proposing to impose penalty upon the officer. In a case of direct role in commission of the crime the departmental punishment would be severe.

14. Cases of corruption stand on different footing there is not much for the disciplinary authority to consider the circumstances of the case involving the delinquent employee. The involvement of the petitioner in the commission of the offence of corruption is direct being the main kingpin.

15. We do not find merit in the submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner that a reasoned and speaking order should have been passed by the disciplinary authority.

16. Rule 14 in the case of conviction of the government servant is required to consider the "circumstances of case' and make such orders thereon. The Rule does not mandate the authority to pass a reasoned and speaking order. The disciplinary authority is not required to sit in appeal on the findings returned by the trial court convicting the government servant.

17. The impugned order of punishment imposed by the disciplinary authority categorically records that the explanation of the petitioner was considered and the charge against the petitioner in the trial was duly proved. That is sufficient compliance of Rule 14 (i) of Rules 1968. The learned Tribunal misread the Rule 14 (i), requiring a reasoned and speaking order, which is not mandated under Rule 14 (i). The requirement of the Rule mandates that the disciplinary authority to "consider the circumstances" of the case i.e. trial Court judgement leading to the conviction of the officer. The conduct / role which has led to the conviction of the officer on a criminal charge has to be considered. The disciplinary authority is not required to enter into the merit / evidence of the trial proceedings. It is not the case of the petitioner that his role in the act of corruption, during the discharge of his duty and responsibility, was secondary and not primary.

18. We do not find any merit in the petition. The writ petition being devoid of merit, is accordingly, dismissed.

19. No cost.

Civil Law - Service Matter - Appointment - Rejection of Appointment - On the basis of expert opinion, the candidature of the petitioners was rejected with the remarks 'handwriting/thumb impression mismatch.' The decision of the Railways was based on the expert opinion alone, without affording an opportunity to the petitioners or confronting them with the material/opinion, i.e., the opinion of the Government Examiner for Questionable Documents (GEQD). Held - Had the petitioners been afforded an opportunity, they could, in their defense, have obtained an opinion of another expert to confront the Railways. The impugned order of cancellation of the candidature of the petitioners could not have been sustained solely on the opinion of the handwriting expert, which was obtained behind the back of the petitioners, without confronting them with the incriminating material and without being supported by any other evidence. The respondents' action was not in conformity with the principles of natural justice. The respondents were directed to appoint the petitioners to Group-D posts forthwith. (Para 25, 33, 34, 36)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suneet Kumar, J.

1. Heard Shri Shyamal Narain, assisted by Shri Ravi Prakash Bhatt, learned counsel for the petitioners and Shri Manish Pandey, learned counsel appearing for the respondent.

2. Petitioner/original applicants, herein, are challenging the judgment and order dated 1 May 2018, passed by the Central Administrative Tribunal Allahabad Bench, Allahabad (for short 'Tribunal'), whereby, their candidature for appointment on Group-D post has been rejected.

3. Railway Recruitment Cell, North Central Railway, Allahabad (for short 'RRC'), invited applications from eligible candidates for recruitment to Group-D posts, i.e., Khalasi, Helper, Trackman, Peon, Parcel Porter, Safaiwala, etc. under North Central Railway, vide advertisement No. 01/2013, dated 27 July, 2013.

4. Petitioners appeared for the written test and were declared successful. The select list was published on the official website of R.R.C. on 15 December 2015. Thereafter, petitioners appeared for the Physical Examination Test (for short 'P.E.T'), held between 10 March 2015 to 14 March 2015, finally, 2609 candidates, including the petitioners came to be declared successful in the P.E.T. Thereafter, all the candidates, including, petitioners were called for verification of the documents and medical examination. The select list published on the website on 15 December 2015, was accompanied by a note running in fourteen paragraphs. The paragraph relevant for the purposes of this case is extracted:

"During various stages of scrutiny and Document Verification 339 candidates found indulged in impersonation. It is roved following extant procedure that these candidates did not appeared inn the written examination but some one else appeared in place of these candidates or handwriting/thumb impression of these candidates did not match in various documents. Hence apart from cancellation of candidature of the 339 candidates they are being debarred from all Railways examination through out Indian Railways as well as criminal case may also be registered against them on case to case basis."

5. The candidature of the petitioners was rejected with the remarks 'handwriting/thumb impression mismatch'.

6. Aggrieved, petitioners approached the Tribunal by filing original application, being O.A. No. 1789 of 2015, Vijay Pal and others versus Union of India and others, which came to be dismissed by the impugned order dated 1 May 2018.

7. During pendency of the original application, an interim order dated 31 December 2015, was granted by the Tribunal directing the respondents to keep 23 Group-D posts vacant. The operative portion of the order is extracted:

"Having heard learned counsel for both sides, it appears that the grounds for rejection are stigmatic and therefore some opportunity ought to have been given to the applicants before rejecting their candidature by the respondents. Therefore, prima facie, a case for interim protection is made out. Accordingly, the respondents are directed to keep 23 posts vacant till the next date.

If the facts are otherwise, the respondents are at liberty to file stay vacation application."

8. During pendency of the original application, petitioners came to be issued memorandum dated 23 January 2016, stating therein, that though the candidature of the petitioners was already cancelled, however, petitioners were called upon by the respondents to show cause as to why they may not be debarred from all future R.R.C./R.R.B. examinations, further, why criminal case may not be instituted against them for indulging in malpractice to procure Government job by fraud and misrepresentation.

9. The notice alleged that the petitioners had resorted to impersonation, further, it was alleged that there was mismatch in the handwriting, and/or, thumb impression of the candidates. In other words, allegation against the petitioners was that they have resorted, by securing the services of someone else, in the written test on their behalf. The allegation levelled in the two memorandums of the same date is extracted:

"I. As confirmed by the Government Examiner of Questioned Documents, Hand writing on the Application Form and that on answer sheet (OMR)/verification sheets are of different person (s). It has been established that the candidate did not appear himself in the written examination or PET examination and rather somebody else appeared in the same on his behalf, which is a case of impersonation, a malpractice and an offence.

II. As you are aware bio-metrics attendance were obtained during each phase of examination. It is to bring into your notice that your thumb impression during document verification did not match with written and PET examination. It means someone else had appeared in written and PET examination impersonating your candidature.”

10. Petitioners filed their objections to the show cause notice/memorandum denying the allegations of impersonation or mismatch in handwriting, and/or, thumb impression. The respondent-authority vide order dated 31 March 2016, rejected the objection stating that the reply submitted by the petitioners were not found satisfactory. Consequently, petitioners were debarred from taking future R.R.B./R.R.C. examinations for life.

11. Aggrieved, petitioners through an amendment application challenged the memorandum dated 22 January 2016 and the debarment order dated 31 March 2016.

12. The learned Tribunal, after exchange of pleadings and hearing the counsels for the respective parties, by the impugned order, partly allowed the original application of the petitioners. The impugned orders to the extent debarring the petitioners from future R.R.B./R.R.C. examinations for life was set aside. The decision of the respondents, however, cancelling the candidature of the petitioners was not interfered with.

13. The operative portion of the impugned order reads thus:

“24. In the circumstances, following the decision taken in the case of Santosh Kumar Tiwari (supra) to this case, we also come to the conclusion that from the facts and circumstances of the case based on the materials on record and as discussed in para 22, the respondents have not been able to establish the allegation of impersonation against the applicants, since the allegation comprised of only mismatch of thumb impression or handwriting, without any mismatch of the signature of the applicants. In case of impersonation the mismatch in signature would have been detected also. The mismatch of signature is not reported or detected for any of the applicants in this case. However, there is violation of the instructions of the examination as per the advertisement No. 1/2023, for which there is mismatch of handwriting or mismatch of thumb impression for the applicants and these mismatches have not been explained satisfactorily as the explanation in one applicant's explanation/reply at Annexure A-10 of the OA reveals. In fact, there are such violations as mentioned in the Suppl. Affidavit filed by the applicants. Further, no specific reason has been indicated in the show cause notice or impugned order in support of the allegation of impersonation against any of the applicants. Hence, taking into accounts the facts of the case, we consider the cancellation of the candidature of the applicants for the advertisement No. 1/2013 to be just and proper. But the decision of the respondents to debar some of the applicants for all examinations of RRCs/RRBs is not at all justified based on the materials on record. Accordingly, the impugned orders dated 31.03.2016, debarring the applicants from all examinations of RRCs/RRBs is set aside and quashed. However, we uphold the decision/orders of the respondent No. 2 to cancel the candidature of the applicants for the examination pertaining to the advertisement No. 1/2013. Respondent No. 2 is directed to modify the penal action against the applicants accordingly. The interim orders in the case to keep 23 posts vacant in OA No. 1789/2015 and one post vacant in OA No. 73/2016 are vacated and if some of the applicants have appeared in subsequent examinations provisionally by virtue of the interim orders, their candidature shall be considered by the respondent No. 2 as per the rules applicable for the said examination in view of the quashing of the punishment of debarment from all examinations of RRCs/RRBs as per this order.

25. For the OA No. 73/2016, the allegation against the applicant is for mismatch of handwriting as verified by the GEQD like the case of the applicant No. 1 in the OA No. 1789/2015. The reply furnished to the show cause notice and enclosed at Annexure SA-2 of the Supplementary Affidavit filed by the applicant, does not give any convincing explanation for mismatch of handwriting. Hence, the finding as at para 24 will also be applicable for the OA No. 73/2016.

26. Before we part with the case, we notice that there appears to be no Rule or Regulation laying down the procedure to be followed by the RRC/RRB, in situations where there are discrepancies for a candidate like mismatch of handwriting or thumb impression or signature etc. or allegation of impersonation in the examination, as no such Rule/Regulation has been produced before us in this case. The respondents may consider to put in place an appropriate Rule/Regulation to deal with such situations in a just and fair manner as per the provision of law.”

14. The coordinate Bench of this Court, on filing of the writ petition by the petitioners, passed an interim order dated 1 October 2018, staying the impugned order of the Tribunal until further orders and directed the respondents to keep 23 posts vacant and that would abide by the outcome of the writ petition. The operative portion of the interim order is extracted:

“Having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case, until further orders, the impugned order dated 01.05.2018 passed by the Central Administrative Tribunal, Allahabad Bench, Allahabad in O.A. No. 1789/2015 shall remain stayed and the respondents are directed to keep 23 posts vacant.”

15. Learned counsel for the respondents, on specific query, admits that the respondent-Railways have not filed writ petition challenging the order of the learned Tribunal, insofar as, the impugned order recorded a categorical finding with regard to impersonation that ‘... the respondents have not been able to establish the allegation of impersonation against the applicants, since the allegation comprised of only mismatch of thumb impression or handwriting without any mismatch of the signature of the applicants. In case of impersonation, the mismatch in signature would have been detected also. The mismatch of signature is not reported or detected for any of the applicants in this case...’

16. In the aforementioned backdrop, the learned counsel appearing for the petitioner submits that insofar as the allegation of impersonation levelled against the petitioners was held unworthy of belief by the learned Tribunal, rather, the allegation of impersonation was specifically rejected. The finding to that effect has attained finality as the same has not been challenged by the respondents.

17. It is, therefore, urged that after returning a categorical finding with regard to impersonation being unbelievable, Tribunal committed an error in upholding the decision of the respondents to cancel the candidature of the petitioners at the examination. In other words, it is submitted that the petitioners had appeared for the examination and are entitled to appointment. In the circumstances, the question of mismatch of handwriting/thumb impression would not arise.

18. It is further submitted that the categorical finding recorded by the Tribunal that ‘... the respondents have not been able to establish the allegation of impersonation against the applicants...’ is contradictory for the reason that mismatch of handwriting, or, thumb impression, is possible in the event of impersonation.

19. It is further urged that it can safely be said that all the petitioners stand totally exonerated of the main charge of impersonation which was the substance and basis of the show cause notice/memorandum issued to them. It is further submitted that the candidature of the petitioners came to be cancelled prior to the issue of show cause notice/memorandum, accordingly, there is an element of pre-determination of mind of the respondent-Railways against the petitioners. The memorandum was confined to debarment from all future examinations for resorting to impersonation.

20. In the counter affidavit filed by the respondent, it is not being disputed that the petitioners herein were not confronted with the expert opinion or of the opinion of the Government Examiner for Questionable Documents (GEQD). It is admitted that on the allegations based on the opinion of the expert, memorandum was served upon the petitioners to show cause with regard to their debarment and with not regarding the cancellation of their candidature in the examination. In other words, insofar as, cancellation of the candidature of the petitioners, was final as the memorandum was confined with their future debarment in RRB/RRC examinations. It is further stated that after considering the reply of the petitioners, the candidates came to be debarred. The candidature of the petitioners was cancelled due to the acts of irregularities/omissions noted in the impugned order. It is, however, not denied that material relied upon in non-suiting the petitioners, i.e., the expert opinion was not supplied to the petitioners, nor, filed before this Court or the Tribunal. In other words, the orders of cancellation of candidature came to be passed behind the back of the petitioners while cancelling their candidature, thereafter, upon notice, petitioners were debarred for all future RRB examinations.

21. It is not the case of the respondent-Railways that the show cause notice/memorandum was supported by any material, including, the opinion of the handwriting expert. Opinion of handwriting expert was not supplied in support of the memorandum to justify the allegation of mismatch of handwriting/thumb impression on the application form or on the subsequent papers pertaining to Written Examination/P.E.T. undertaken by the petitioners. The entire exercise was undertaken by the Railways behind the back of the petitioners.

22. The question that requires consideration is as to whether the respondents were justified on the available materials on record to hold petitioners guilty of impersonation, and/or, mismatch of handwriting/thumb impression on various documents.

23. In Rajesh Kumar vs. Union of India and others¹, this Court observed that handwriting expert opinion is at best an opinion, which is not conclusive proof of mismatch of handwriting or impersonation. Expert opinion has been considered to be of very weak nature, which requires corroboration from other material facts pertaining to the allegation.

24. This Court held as follows:

“Evidence of an expert is only an opinion. Expert evidence is only a piece of evidence and external evidence. It has to be considered along with other pieces of evidence. Which would be the main evidence and with is the corroborative one depends upon the facts of each case. An expert’s opinion is admissible to furnish the Court a scientific opinion which is likely to be outside the experience and knowledge of a Judge. This kind of testimony, however, has been considered to be of very weak nature and expert is usually required to speak, not to facts, but to opinions. It is quite often surprising to see with what facility, and to what extent, their views would be made to correspond with the wishes and interests of the parties who call them.”

25. The decision of the respondent is based on the expert opinion alone to establish guilt of impersonation, and/or, mismatch of handwriting/thumb impression without affording opportunity or confronting the petitioners with the material/opinion. Had it been so, the petitioners in their defence could also have obtained an opinion of the expert to confront the Railways. The impugned order of cancellation of the candidature of the petitioners could not have been sustained on the opinion of handwriting expert.

26. In Ran Vijay Singh and others vs. Union of India and others², this Court in similar facts set aside the cancellation of the candidature and their debarment for three years from appearing in any examination of the Commission on the strength of an expert opinion.

“23. In the facts of the present case, despite allegation made in the notice dated 5.8.2015 about thumb impression, signatures and handwriting having not tallied, the respondents have confined their conclusion to the opinion of the handwriting expert. Such opinion cannot be construed as being conclusive.

24. In the present case not only the petitioners have been denied appointment but they are also debarred from appearing in any examination conducted by the Commission for three years. Such order of Commission is clearly stigmatic in nature. The order under challenge carries civil consequences also. Such order cannot be sustained merely on the strength of handwriting report, nature of which remains that of an opinion, and cannot be construed as conclusive.

25. The report of CFSL based upon handwriting expert’s opinion, moreover, has not been furnished to the petitioners. Petitioners consequently had no opportunity to controvert it.”

27. The decision rendered in Ran Vijay Singh (supra), was carried intra court appeal in Union of India and others vs. Ran Vijay Singh and others³, Division Bench observed as follows:

“At this juncture, we would also like to state that it is not the case of the appellant-respondents that the process of selection suffers from mass-irregularity, but of unfair practices adopted by certain individuals.

Looking to this background also, we are of the considered opinion that while cancelling examination of the respondent-petitioners and further debarring him for three consecutive examinations the appellant should have supplied a copy of the opinion given by the handwriting expert. Non-supply of that is in violation of principles of natural justice.”

28. The aforementioned authorities came to be followed by the Division Bench in Bhupendra Singh vs. Union of India and another⁴, the relevant part of the order is extracted:

*“In both Ran Vijay Singh and Tulasi Ram Prajapati, the learned Judge found that the candidature of the petitioners could not have been unilaterally annulled without granting them an opportunity to rebut the findings recorded by the expert. These principles are clearly attracted to the facts of the present case. The submission of the learned Standing Counsel that the order is not stigmatic and there is no violation of Article 311 of the Constitution do not merit consideration since principles of natural justice would clearly apply in all situations where a person is visited with serious civil consequences. Once the name of the petitioner stood included in the select list, his removal from the same on the allegation of impersonation must necessarily have been preceded by the issuance of a notice or at least an opportunity of hearing to the petitioner to establish that the adverse material which was relied upon by the respondents was not liable to be accepted. It is well settled that the opinion of an expert is not conclusive and remains just that, namely, an opinion.”

29. The respondents in the given facts of the case at hand were expected to confront the petitioners with the material relied upon against them, particularly, when the petitioners were being debarred from appearing in any further examination conducted by the RRB/RRC and their candidature was cancelled for the examination on mismatch of handwriting/thumb impression.

30. The opinion of the expert was required to have been viewed and considered with other materials available on record. The learned Tribunal has discarded the theory of impersonation setup by the respondent-Railways, then in that event, mismatch of handwriting/thumb impression of the petitioners becomes unsustainable, unless supported by any other material or evidence that petitioners have not appeared in the examination or have not filled the application form in their handwriting.

31. The respondent-Railways, in their counter affidavit, have not denied that at all stages of the examination, i.e., Written Test and P.E.T., thumb impression and signatures of the candidates was taken and the entire process was video-graphed. In this backdrop, it cannot be said that though the petitioners had appeared for the examination, yet at the same time, there was mismatch in handwriting/thumb impression.

32. It is not the case of the respondents that the petitioners, herein, had not carried the relevant documents, including, identity card to the examination centre or had not participated in the P.E.T./Medical Examination.

33. In the circumstances, it cannot be said in absence of any other material available with the Railways, that it is a case of mismatch in handwriting/thumb impression. The inference of the Railways is based on an opinion without being supported by any other material, i.e., the petitioners had not appeared at different stages of the selection process.

34. In service jurisprudence, though Evidence Act is not applicable, the charge is not required to be proved beyond reasonable doubt, but on the principle of preponderance of probability, based on some material evidence against the petitioners. It is not a case of disciplinary proceedings, neither, it is a case set up by the Railways, that there was large scale irregularities in the examination process, only few candidates have been picked-up and their selections cancelled merely on an opinion obtained behind the back of the petitioners without confronting the petitioners with the incriminating material.

35. The respondent's action otherwise is not in conformity with the principles of natural justice, accordingly, the impugned order dated 1 May 2018, being stigmatic cannot be sustained.

36. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed. Respondents are directed to appoint the petitioners on Group-D post forthwith.

37. It is clarified that no other ground or point was pressed by the counsels for the respective parties.

38. No cost.

as per the advertisement notification, the minimum qualification prescribed for seeking appointment to the post of

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Srivastava, J.)

1. With the consent of learned counsels for both the parties, these two petitions shall be heard together and disposed of with a common order.

2. Heard Sri Alok Kumar Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Satyendra Kumar Tripathi, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondent nos.1 to 3.

3. Writ A No.29840 of 2010 has been filed seeking the following relief:-

"A. Issue a writ, order or direction, in the nature of certiorari, quashing the impugned dismissal order dated 31.03.2010 passed by the Respondent no.3 (Annexure No.21).

B. Issue a writ, order or direction, in the nature of mandamus directing the Respondents No.2 and 3 to allow the petitioner to work as Nalkoop Mistry, Nalkoop Anurakshan Khand, Bhadohi under Nalkoop Mandal of respondent No.2 and Division of respondent No.3.

E. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus declaring Paragraph-Ga of office memorandum dated 09.09.2008 issued by Chief Engineer as ultra-vires to Rule 9-Kha of the Service Rules."

4. Writ A No.18844 of 2010 has been filed seeking the following relief:-

a) Issue a writ, order or direction, in the nature of certiorari, quashing the impugned dismissal order dated 25.03.2010 passed by the Respondent no.2 (Annexure No.20).

B. Issue a writ, order or direction, in the nature of mandamus directing the Respondents No.2 and 3 not to interfere in the functioning of the petitioner as Nalkoop Mistry, Nalkoop Anurakshan Khand, Bhadohi under Nalkoop Mandal of respondent No.2 and Division of respondent No.3.

5. It is the case of the petitioner that he being ITI certificate holder applied for the post of Tubewell Mechanic in pursuance of the advertisement notification wherein minimum prescribed qualification for seeking appointment over the post of Tubewell Mechanic was mentioned as ITI and having 5 years of experience from the specified institutions as mentioned in the notification itself. The petitioner submitted the experience certificate of 7 years and 4 months for seeking appointment under the eligible candidate in pursuance of the eligibility criteria as prescribed under the advertisement notification. The petitioner was selected and joined on the said post on 29.05.2009.

6. On the complaint as well as writ petition preferred by the respondent no.4, the discrepancy and irregularity while conducting appointment is specifically in favour of the petitioner has been highlighted wherein it has been mentioned that the petitioner has submitted the experience certificate on 16.09.2008 is not as per prescribed in the advertisement notification.

7. After re-scrutiny of the experience certificate as submitted by the petitioner, it has been revealed that the experience after ITI as obtained by the petitioner was only for 3 years and 4 months and before completion of ITI, it was 4 years.

8. The competent authority being the head of selection procedure decided vide order dated 25.03.2010 that experience as obtained by the petitioner before the ITI cannot be given any credence and as such the experience obtained by the petitioner after ITI is less than the prescribed experience in the advertisement notification dated 16.9.2008 and as such, the selection of the petitioner has been cancelled even after putting him in the final select list which culminated into joining in the services and rendered for few months. The precise ground for challenging the determination as drawn while passing the order dated 25.03.2010 as well as order dated 31.03.2010 that the experience as mentioned in the rules pertaining to the Tubewell Mechanic as mentioned in the Tubewell Mechanic Service Rules, 1951 wherein the minimum experience required for ITI holder is only minimum 2 years as prescribed under Rule 9(B) and as such, the rules framed under the powers extracted from the Article 309 of the Constitution of India cannot be substituted or supplemented by the office memorandum/Government Order and as such in pursuance of the Rule 9(B) of the 1951 Rules, the petitioner was having requisite qualification along with the experience as required for the post of Tubewell Mechanic and as such, the order dated 31.03.2010 passed by the respondent no.3 is contrary to the rules and the same is liable to be set aside.

9. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel vehemently opposed the prayer as made in the petition on the ground that the petitioner never challenged the terms and conditions as defined in the advertisement notification dated 16.09.2008 wherein the minimum experience required for ITI holder was 5 years for seeking appointment over the post of Tubewell Mechanic, rather the petitioner participated in the same by way of producing experience certificate of 7 years and 4 months which was legally ignored by the competent authority since the experience of four years as mentioned by the petitioner, was before obtaining the certificate of ITI and as such, the same cannot be counted for the purposes of seeking appointment for the post of Tubewell Mechanic wherein the minimum qualification is ITI, the experience as obtained by the petitioner after holding the certificate of ITI can only be counted for seeking appointment over the said post.

10. It is the admitted case of the petitioner that the experience after having the minimum qualification as required under the advertisement notification was only three years and four months and as such, the same was not meeting the minimum experience as required through notification dated 16.09.2008 and as such, the selection of the petitioner was rightly cancelled by the competent authority.

11. After hearing the rival submissions as extended by the learned counsels, the only point is available for determining by this Court that whether the minimum experience as required for the post of Tubewell Mechanic notified vide advertisement notification dated 16.09.2008 was to be held justified mentioned in the notification in pursuance of the circular issued on 09.09.2008 through which the prescribed length of experience has been extended or the minimum experience mentioned mentioned in the 1951 Rules may be taken into consideration by the competent authorities?

12. While substantiating the arguments as raised by learned counsel for the petitioner, it has been argued that the specific rules framed in shape of the 1951 Rules, any of the rules and provisions cannot be interfered with, altered, modified or determined contrary to the same by mere issuing a Government Order/circular by any authority of the State-respondents. The entire experience has to be carried out by the competent body who framed the rules itself.

13. In reply to the contentions and legal arguments as raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner, again the learned Standing Counsel vehemently argued that if the petitioner was aggrieved with the amending rules, he should have challenged the same at the time when he was intended to seek appointment over the post of Tubewell Mechanic wherein the prescribed minimum eligibility was ITI with 5 years of experience, it is the petitioner who applied for the same and after accepting all the minimum qualifications as required through advertisement notification and as such after cancelling the selection of the petitioner, the cause of action does not survive in his favour for challenging the circular through which the Rules have been modified or explained or clarified through the circular dated 09.09.2008. There is a much force in the arguments as raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the rules cannot be modified by mere issuing a circular or Government Order but at the same time, it is admitted case of the petitioner that he has never challenged any of the required eligibility criteria as mentioned in the advertisement notification dated 16.09.2008 whereas being the eligible candidate under the prescribed eligibility criteria mentioned in the notification, he submitted his claim through an application along with requisite minimum experience certificate by way of submitting experience certificate of 7 years and 4 months, it is also admitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the experience after ITI was only for 3 years and 4 months.

14. Once, the petitioner submitted his application along with experience certificate, it clearly demonstrates that the entire terms and conditions mentioned in the advertisement notification was duly accepted by the petitioner, it is not the case of the petitioner that without accepting the minimum experience length as mentioned in the notification, he submitted his claim for seeking appointment over the post of Tubewell Mechanic and as such, after being declared not suitable for the post of Tubewell Mechanic on the ground of minimum experience as required through the advertisement notification, the legal ground available with the petitioner that the minimum experience as mentioned in the rules cannot be altered by way of issuing office memorandum/circular/order which held the orders impugned the petition as illegal.

15. The petitioner once accepted the terms and conditions as mentioned in the advertisement notification, he will not be permitted to take any ground whatsoever is available once he has been declared unsuccessful on the ground of re-scrutiny of the mandatory documents which were required to be submitted at the time of seeking appointment over the post of Tubewell Mechanic wherein it has been found that the experience certificate as submitted by the petitioner was considerably less in nature as mentioned in the notification which was 5 years and experience certificate submitted by the petitioner was only 3 years and 4 months.

16. In support of the stand taken up by the petitioner he has placed reliance on the judgement passed by Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of The Director of Teacher's Training Research Education and another Vs. O.M. Jessymol².

17. In the aforementioned Civil Appeal, the epigenes of the case starts from the challenge initiated by the teacher who obtained the Teacher's Training Certificate from the State of Nagaland and obtained less than 50% marks and as such, the appellant was treated ineligible for appointment as Secondary Grade Teacher at the time issuing the notification of advertisement for the post of teacher, the requisite 50% marks obtained in the Teachers' Training Certificate was mentioned but the same was silent in the rules whereupon the determination has been made by Hon'ble the Apex Court that once the position of requirement of minimum marks is silent in the rules, the same cannot be mentioned in the advertisement notification issued for appointment over the post of teachers.

18. In the present case, for requirement of minimum experience as mentioned in the rules is only 2 years but while issuing the advertisement notification for the same post mentioned in the advertisement notification was minimum experience of 5 years. The analogy and the ratio of the said judgement is clearly applicable in the instant matter but the case is slightly different with the matter which has already been decided by Hon'ble the Apex Court.

19. In the instant matter, the petitioner by way of accepting all the terms and conditions and requirements mentioned in the advertisement notification submitted his application for seeking appointment for the post of Tubewell Mechanic along with experience certificate of 7 years and 4 months which was letter on found that the experience actually obtained by the petitioner after holding the certificates of ITI was only 3 years and 4 months which is admitted to the petitioner.

20. In the matter as referred by learned counsel for the petitioner which has been decided by Hon'ble the Apex Court, the aspirants/candidates applied for the post of teachers were not holding the 50% marks in the Teachers' Training Certificate as mentioned in the advertisement notification but the same was not available in the rules and once she applied by way of disclosing the fact that she is not having 50% marks in the Teacher's Training Certificate and her candidature was rejected at the initial level itself then only the entire controversy has been raised and the same has been duly decided by Hon'ble the Apex Court.

21. In the instant matter, the petitioner knowingly each and everything submitted by way of adducing the experience certificate of 7 years and 4 months which clearly shows that the petitioner accepted the terms and conditions for acquiring the minimum experience of 5 years as mentioned in the advertisement notification.

22. In view of the abovementioned facts and circumstances and lengthy discussions upon the factual position, legal provisions as well as the dictum of the judgement of Hon'ble the Apex Court in the aforesaid case, both the petitions stand dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This application has been filed seeking to quash the proceedings of Special Sessions Trial No. 71 of 2018 (arising out of Case Crime No. 1888 of 2017 (State v. Neelam and others) under Sections 363, 366 and 120-B I.P.C. and Section 16/17 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012, Police Station - Bakhira, District - Sant Kabir Nagar, pending before the Court of the Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (POCSO Act), Sant Kabir Nagar.

2. The submission of the learned Counsel for the applicant is that a compromise application dated 13.12.2023 has been filed, signed by the applicant, the prosecutrix, as also the first informant and her husband, that is to say, the mother and father of the prosecutrix. The case against the applicant is that she along with one Aman, conspired to cause the prosecutrix to elope with one Amiullah. The prosecutrix at the time when she eloped, was aged fifteen years and a student of Class X, reading in the local inter-college. It is true that a compromise application has been filed, which is signed by the informant, the prosecutrix, the prosecutrix's father and also by the applicant, where it is said that the prosecutrix, the informant and her husband do not want to pursue the prosecution any further. The prosecutrix's testimony during trial was recorded, where she testified as P.W. 2 on 10.05.2019. The relevant part of her testimony reads:

"अमिउल्लाह मुझे लेकर मुंबई गया वहाँ अमिउल्लाह मुझको लेकर एक जगह गया था और रात में मेरे साथ मेरी इच्छा के विरुद्ध बलात्कार किया और धमकी दिया किसी से कहोगी तो तुम्हारे भाई की हत्या कर देंगे। बलात्कार वाली बात मैंने डर के कारण महिला सिपाही को नहीं बताया था। अमन मुंबई में मिला था बस स्टेशन से "अमिउल्लाह के साथ कमरे पर ले गया। मुझे भागने में नीलम और अमन की साजिस थी।"

3. Now, much after that testimony, the prosecutrix and her parents have moved an application seeking to compromise on 13.12.2022.

4. Heard Mr. Jai Prakash Singh, Advocate holding brief of Mr. Shashi Prakash Misra, learned Counsel for the applicant, Mr. Pramod Kumar Pandey, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no. 2 and Mr. Shashi Shekhar Tiwari, learned A.G.A. on behalf of the State.

5. The case under the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012

(for short, 'the Act of 2012') is not a private dispute or an offence of a kind that may be so limited to the interest of the informant and the accused, that the State may not have much to say about. To the contrary, the Act of 2012 is a special statute, which has been enacted with objects and reasons that read:

"STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Article 15 of the Constitution, inter alia, confers upon the State powers to make special provision for children. Further, article 39, inter alia, provides that the State shall in particular direct its policy towards securing that the tender age of children are not abused and their childhood and youth are protected against exploitation and they are given facilities to develop in a healthy manner and in conditions of freedom and dignity.

2. The United Nations Convention on the Rights of Children, ratified by India on 11th December, 1992, requires the State Parties to undertake all appropriate national, bilateral and multilateral measures to prevent (a) the inducement or coercion of a child to engage in any unlawful sexual activity; (b) the exploitative use of children in prostitution or other unlawful sexual practices; and (c) the exploitative use of children in pornographic performances and materials.

3. The data collected by the National Crime Records Bureau shows that there has been increase in cases of sexual offences against children. This is corroborated by the Study on Child Abuse: India 2007' conducted by the Ministry of Women and Child Development. Moreover, sexual offences against children are not adequately addressed by the existing laws. A large number of such offences are neither specifically provided for nor are they adequately penalised. The interests of the child, both as a victim as well as a witness, need to be protected. It is felt that offences against children need to be defined explicitly and countered through commensurate penalties as an effective deterrence.

4. It is, therefore, proposed to enact a self contained comprehensive legislation inter alia to provide for protection of children from the offences of sexual assault, sexual harassment and pornography with due regard for safeguarding the interest and well being of the child at every stage of the judicial process, incorporating child-friendly procedures for reporting, recording of evidence, investigation and trial of offences. and provision for establishment of Special Courts for speedy trial of such offences.

5. The Bill would contribute to enforcement of the right of all children to safety, security and protection from sexual abuse and exploitation.

6. The notes on clauses explain in detail the various provisions contained in the Bill.

7. The Bill seeks to achieve the above objectives."

6. The enacting clause of the Act reads as follows:

"An Act to protect children from offences of sexual assault, sexual harassment and pornography and provide for establishment of Special Courts for trial of such offences and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto.

WHEREAS clause (3) of article 15 of the Constitution, inter alia, empowers the State to make special provisions for children;

AND WHEREAS, the Government of India has acceded on the 11th December, 1992 to the Convention on the Rights of the Child, adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations, which has prescribed a set of standards to be followed by all State parties in securing the best interests of the child;

AND WHEREAS it is necessary for the proper development of the child that his or her right to privacy and confidentiality be protected and respected by every person by all means and through all stages of a judicial process involving the child;

AND WHEREAS it is imperative that the law operates in a manner that the best interest and well being of the child are regarded as being of paramount importance at every stage, to ensure the healthy physical, emotional, intellectual and social development of the child;

AND WHEREAS the State Parties to the Convention on the Rights of the Child are required to undertake all appropriate national, bilateral and multilateral measures to prevent-

(a) the inducement or coercion of a child to engage in any unlawful sexual activity;

(b) the exploitative use of children in prostitution or other unlawful sexual practices;

(c) the exploitative use of children in pornographic performances and materials;

AND WHEREAS sexual exploitation and sexual abuse of children are heinous crimes and need to be effectively addressed.

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Sixty-third Year of the Republic of India as follows:-"

7. It is evident that the Act of 2012, is a special statute designed to suppress a particularly pernicious mischief in society, and that is, the engagement of children in sexual activities and their exploitation. A child is defined under Section 2(d) of the Act of 2012, as any person below the age of eighteen years. The collective conscience of the society and the legislative mandate whereby it has been translated into a law, are firm in their resolve to suppress sexual exploitation of children or their involvement in such activities. This being the purpose of the Act of 2012 and the object of its enactment, it ill lies in the mouth of the informant, or even the victim, to come up with a plea that they intend to compromise the prosecution. The prosecution is at the behest of the State and the informant or the prosecutrix have no say in it at all. Otherwise too, the prosecutrix was a minor at the time when the incident happened and it is not open to her to make small of an offence against society, merely because she was the victim of it.

8. This question has engaged the attention of the Supreme Court in Aparna Bhat and others v. State of Madhya Pradesh and another, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 230, where the following directions have been issued by their Lordships of the Supreme Court:

"44. Having regard to the foregoing discussion, it is hereby directed that henceforth:

(a) Bail conditions should not mandate, require or permit contact between the accused and the victim. Such conditions should seek to protect the complainant from any further harassment by the accused;

(b) Where circumstances exist for the court to believe that there might be a potential threat of harassment of the victim, or upon apprehension expressed, after calling for reports from the police, the nature of protection shall be separately considered and appropriate order made, in addition to a direction to the accused not to make any contact with the victim;

(c) In all cases where bail is granted, the complainant should immediately be informed that the accused has been granted bail and copy of the bail order made over to him/her within two days;

(d) Bail conditions and orders should avoid reflecting stereotypical or patriarchal notions about women and their place in society, and must strictly be in accordance with the requirements of the Cr. PC. In other words, discussion about the dress, behavior, or past ?conduct? or ?morals? of the prosecutrix, should not enter the verdict granting bail;

(e) The courts while adjudicating cases involving gender related crimes, should not suggest or entertain any notions (or encourage any steps) towards compromises between the prosecutrix and the accused to get married, suggest or mandate mediation between the accused and the survivor, or any form of compromise as it is beyond their powers and jurisdiction;

(f) Sensitivity should be displayed at all times by judges, who should ensure that there is no traumatization of the prosecutrix, during the proceedings, or anything said during the arguments, and

(g) Judges especially should not use any words, spoken or written, that would undermine or shake the confidence of the survivor in the fairness or impartiality of the court."

(Emphasis by Court)

9. This Court had occasions to consider in Pravin Kumar Singh and others v. State of U.P. Thru. Prin. Secy. Home Deptt. and another, 2023 SCC OnLine All 131, the issue whether prosecutions under the Act of 2012 can be quashed on an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C founded on a compromise. In Pravin Kumar Singh (supra) it was held by Hon'ble Ajai Kumar Srivastava-I, J. thus:

"14. So far as the question of quashing of criminal proceeding of S. T. No.20 of 2014 "State vs. Pravin Kumar Singh and others" arising out of Case Crime No.345 of 2013, under Sections 376, 363, 366, 504, 506 I.P.C. and 3/4 POCSO Act, is concerned, Hon'ble Supreme Court in Narinder Singh and others vs. State of Punjab and another reported in (2014) 6 SCC 466, has specifically held that the matter under Section 376 I.P.C. is also such an offence, which, though committed in respect of a particular victim, cannot be termed to be a private dispute between the parties. It has serious adverse societal effect. Therefore, any proceeding on the basis of alleged compromise of the accused vis-a-vis the victim cannot be quashed. Hon'ble Apex Court in State of Madhya Pradesh vs. Madanlal reported in (2015) 7 SCC 681 while repelling the acquittal on the basis of compromise in the matter pertaining to Sections 376 read with 511 I.P.C., has placed reliance upon principles laid down by three-Judge Bench in Shimbhu vs. State of Haryana reported in (2014) 13 SCC 318."

10. It has been held by the Punjab and Haryana High Court in similar terms in Nardeep Singh Cheema @ Navdeep Singh Cheema v. State of Punjab and others, CRM-M-2270-2020, decided on 07.09.2022. I also had occasion to consider this issue in Om Prakash v. State of U.P. and another, 2023 SCC OnLine All 93, where it was held that the proceedings under Section 376 I.P.C. and POCSO Act, cannot be quashed on the basis of a compromise between the accused and the victim.

11. On the conspectus of above facts, I do not find any good ground to quash proceedings of the ongoing trial.

12. This application is, accordingly, rejected.

2. Ahmedabad Private Primary Teachers' Assc. Vs Administrative Officer (2004 vol. 1 SCC 755),
3. Independent Schools' Federation of India Vs U.O.I. & ors. (2022 SCC Online SC 1113),

(Delivered by Hon'ble Kshitij Shailendra, J.)

1. Heard Shri Siddharth Khare, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. The petitioner was appointed on the post of lecturer in 1982 in an aided educational institution. Thereafter, pursuant to the process issued for appointment on the post of Principal, the petitioner applied and was appointed on the post of Principal on 23.10.2002.

3. The date of birth of the petitioner being 5.11.1959, when he reached age of 50 years in 2009, he opted for voluntary retirement after completing the length of service of 27 years, 9 months and 28 days. The voluntary retirement of the petitioner was accepted by the authorities.

4. While the retirement dues of the petitioner were not being paid, petitioner filed Writ-A No.58376 of 2010, which was disposed of by this Court vide order dated 22.9.2010, whereby the Joint Director of Education, Saharanpur Region Saharanpur was directed to consider the grievance of the petitioner with regard to non-payment of his dues. Pursuant to the order dated 22.9.2010, passed by this Court, the Joint Director of Education, Saharanpur, passed an order dated 9.12.2010, whereby the payment of pension to the petitioner was granted, however the gratuity was refused. Thereafter, the petitioner filed P.G. Case No.2 of 2012 before the Controlling Authority under the Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972 (herein after referred to as 'the Act, 1972'). The said authority vide order dated 6.9.2013 directed the respondents to pay a sum of Rs.6,46,041, as the amount of gratuity to the petitioner.

5. Challenging the order dated 6.9.2013, the State filed Writ-C No.5108 of 2014, which was dismissed by this Court vide order dated 27.1.2014 on the ground of availability of alternative remedy by filing statutory appeal.

6. Thereafter, the respondents filed P.G.A. Appeal No.2 of 2014 before the appellate authority under the Act, 1972, which has been allowed by the impugned order dated 3.12.2015.

7. This petition was filed in the year 2016 and during the pendency of the writ petition, an affidavit was filed on behalf of respondents annexing therewith another order dated 11.9.2020, whereby the Deputy Director of Education (Intermediate), Saharanpur Division Saharanpur again denied gratuity to the petitioner by placing reliance upon Government Order dated 29.8.1981. The petitioner by means of an amendment application challenged the order dated 11.9.2020. The amendment application was allowed and, therefore, the said order is also under challenge.

8. Shri Siddharth Khare, learned counsel for the petitioner, submits that the order impugned is based upon wrongful interpretation of Section 2 (e) of the 1972 Act and authority has taken a wrong view that the petitioner falls within the exclusion clause of the definition 'employee', as he is an employee of the State Government. Shri Khare further submits that another ground taken for denying the gratuity to the petitioner is applicability of Government Order dated 29.8.1981, which, in fact, does not apply in the case of the petitioner. He further submits that even the subsequent order dated 11.9.2020 is based upon same proposition of the applicability of the Government Order dated 29.8.1981.

9. Shri Khare has referred to the definition of 'employee' as contained under Section 2 (e) of the Act, 1972, which reads as follows:

"(e) "employee" means any person (other than an apprentice) employed on wages, in any establishment, factory, mine, oilfield, plantation, port, railway company or shop to do any skilled, semi-skilled, or unskilled, manual, supervisory, technical or clerical work, whether the terms of such employment are express or implied, and whether or not such person is employed in a managerial or administrative capacity, but does not include any such person who holds a post under the Central Government or a State Government and is governed by any other Act or by any rules providing for payment of gratuity."

10. He further submits that as per Section 1 (3)(c) of the Act, the provisions of the Act shall be applicable to such other establishments as the Central Government may by notification specify in this behalf. Shri Khare has placed reliance upon the notification F.No. S-42013/1/95-SS dated 3.4.1997, which reads as follows:

"F.No. S-42013/1/95-SS dated April 3, 1997.--In exercise of the powers conferred by clause (c) of sub-section (3) of Section 1 of the Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972 (39 of 1972), the Central Government hereby specifies the educational institution in which ten or more persons are employed or were employed on any day preceding 12 months as a class of establishments to which the said Act shall apply with effect from the date of publication of this notification:

Provided that nothing contained in this notification shall affect the operation of the notification of the Ministry of Labour, S.O. No.239, dated 8th January, 1982 (See above)."

11. He, therefore, submits that since educational institutions employing 10 or more persons are covered by the notification issued in exercise of powers under Section 1 (3)(c) of the Act, 1972, the ground taken for rejecting the claim of the petitioner by placing reliance upon Section 2 (e) becomes unsustainable. Shri Khare further points out that, later on, in the year 2009, the definition of 'employee', as contained in Section 2 (e) of the Act, 1972 was amended by Act No.47 of 2009 with retrospective effect from 3.4.1997, in the light of the aforesaid notification dated 3.4.1997.

12. In this regard, he has placed reliance upon the decision of Supreme Court in Birla Institute of Technology vs. State of Jharkhand and others, (2019) 4 SCC 513, wherein the Supreme Court dealt with a contrary decision taken in the case of Ahmedabad Private Primary Teachers' Assn. vs. Administrative Officer, (2004) 1 SCC 755. However, taking into consideration the retrospective effect of amendment made by amending Act No.47 of 2009, the Supreme Court held that reliance could not be placed upon the decision of Ahmedabad Private Primary Teachers' Assn. (supra). The Supreme Court also observed that though the constitutional validity of amending Act No.47 of 2009 was challenged before the Supreme Court in a writ petition, mere pendency of writ petition would not affect the constitutionality of the amending Act nor would it affect the rights of the parties concerned, unless the statute is declared ultra vires.

13. Shri Khare further argues that insofar as the constitutional validity of amending Act No.47 of 2009 is concerned, the same has been upheld by the Supreme Court in its subsequent decision dated 29.8.2022 passed in the case of Independent Schools' Federation of India (Regd.) vs. Union of India and another, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1113.

14. Shri Khare has further placed reliance upon a decision of this Court in the Case of Sarnam Singh vs. Smt.Pushpa Devi and others [1986 UPLBEC 348], in which this Court has held that Committee of Management of an educational institution is not an agency or instrumentality of the State Government nor does a teacher hold a post under the Government.

15. In view of the above, the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the first ground taken in the order impugned that the petitioner would fall in the exceptional clause of Section 2 (e) of the Act, 1972 and, therefore, not entitled to get payment of gratuity, becomes unsustainable.

16. Insofar as the second ground contained in the order impugned that is applicability of the Government Order dated 29.8.1991 is concerned, Shri Khare Submits that the said Government Order deals with a situation where the teacher concerned gives an option for retirement at the age of 58 years. He, therefore, submits that the Government Order has no application in the case of the petitioner nor does it affect those matters where a Principal or a Teacher opts for voluntary retirement at any age.

17. Respondents have filed counter affidavit in which a stand has been taken that the retirement age of the teachers has been extended from 60 years to 62 years and since the petitioner opted for 60 years as age of retirement in place of 58 years, he would not be entitled for gratuity.

18. Learned Standing Counsel has vehemently argued that petitioner is estopped from claiming payment of gratuity as despite giving an option of retirement at the age of 60 years, he took voluntary retirement at the age of 50 years. Learned Standing Counsel, with reference to paragraph-17 of the counter affidavit, has argued that the petitioner could not abandon the services prior to 60 years.

19. After hearing learned counsel for the parties, I find that in view of amending Act No.47 of 2009, which came into force retrospectively on 3.4.1997 and in view of the judgment of Supreme Court in Birla Institute of Technology (supra) and Independent Schools' Federation of India (supra), it cannot be said that the petitioner would fall under the exceptional or exclusion clause of the definition 'employee'. I find that petitioner is fully covered by the definition of employee so as to entitle him to get gratuity. Insofar as the applicability of Government Order dated 29.8.1981 is concerned, I do not find that it is a restriction in claiming voluntary retirement by a teacher concerned. The said Government Order only provides for submitting option for retirement either at the age of 58 years or 60 years and has nothing to do with the aspect of voluntary retirement. I further find from perusal of the said Government Order that it is accompanied by Regulations, Clause-4 whereof reads as follows:

"४. इस नियमावली की विज्ञप्ति की तिथि के उपरांत नियुक्ति अध्यापकों द्वारा स्थायीकरण की तिथि के दो वर्षों के अंदर ५८ वर्ष के आयु पर सेवानिवृत्त होने के पक्ष में अपना विकल्प न देने पर यह नियमावली उस पर लागू नहीं होगी . विकल्प का एक बार प्रयोग कर लेने पर वह अंतिम समझा जायेगा."

20. A perusal of aforesaid Clause-4 shows that the regulations will not apply for those teachers, who did not give option for retirement at the age of 58 years. Regulation-11 deals with voluntary retirement aspect and I do not find anything, which would restrain a teacher from seeking voluntary retirement at the age of 58 years or prior thereto.

21. From overall interpretation of the Government Order and regulations forming part thereof, I find that the reasons assigned for denying gratuity in both the orders impugned on this score are unsustainable.

22. Consequently, the writ petition is allowed. The impugned orders dated 3.12.2015 and 11.9.2020 are hereby quashed by issuing a Writ of Certiorari.

23. A Writ of Mandamus is issued to the respondents 3, 4 and 6 to compute the amount of gratuity payable to the petitioner after hearing the petitioner and release the same in his favour within a period of two months from the date of production of certified copy of this order. The petitioner shall also be entitled for interest @ 9% per annum on the amount of gratuity from the date of his retirement till the date of actual payment. This amount shall be in addition to the amount of pension, which the petitioner is already getting.

Civil Law-The Uttar Pradesh Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Rules, 1972-Rule 18(2) - Provisions of Rule 18 are directory and not mandatory. (Para 23-26)

The Uttar Pradesh Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972 -Sec 21(1) (a)-No perversity about the findings on the question of bona fide need-The various shops that have been referred to by the tenant as ones available to the landlord, either do not belong to the landlord or are not available-In a case where the tenant does not search for alternative accommodation after landlord initiates proceedings for release, the answer to the issue of comparative hardship invariably ought to be against the tenant-A tenant holding for rented premises a long period of time on an absurdly low rent, ought certainly to be held disentitled, vis-à-vis the landlord, when determining the issue of comparative hardship. (Para 41, 43 & 44)

Petition dismissed. (E-15)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This is a tenant's writ petition arising out of a judgment and order passed by Mr. Vigyanram Mishra, the then Additional District Judge/ Special Judge, SC/ST Act, Jhansi in Rent Control Appeal No.6 of 2009, allowing the appeal, setting aside the judgment and order dated 07.05.2009 made by the Prescribed Authority and granting the landlord's application for release under Section 21(1)(a) of U.P. Act No.13 of 1972.

2. An application for release was made on behalf of Kailash Babu Agrawal seeking release of Shop No.13, situate at Mohalla Nanjhai Bazar, Jhansi against the tenant, Mohd. Ishaq on the ground of his bona fide need. The application was made under Section 21(1)(a) of U.P. Act No.13 of 1972 (for short, 'the Act') with a case that Shop No.13, Nanjhai Bazar, Jhansi (for short, 'the demised shop') was purchased by Kailash Babu Agrawal (hereinafter referred to as 'the landlord') on 11.01.1993 for the purpose of his own need. It is the landlord's case that he neither has a house to live or a shop to carry on business of his own. The demised shop, that is in the tenancy occupation of Mohd. Ishaq (hereinafter referred to as 'the tenant') is bona fide required by the landlord for the purpose of his residence as well as setting up his shop to earn his livelihood. Once the demised shop became available to the landlord, he would get it redone according to his requirement, where on the ground floor, he would carry on a shop for earning his livelihood, and, on the first floor, set up his living quarters. For the time being, the landlord lives in House No.207, Daru Bhaundela, Jhansi, which is a small house. It has 5-6 rooms, whereas the landlord's family has 20 members. The landlord has in his possession a room of 10x10 feet, wherein he lives with his wife, a daughter 14 years old and a son aged 10 years, all with much difficulty.

3. The landlord's mother is sharp tempered and on account of shortage of space, there are frequent quarrels between his wife and mother. Then there is the landlord's brother, Ramesh Chandra, whose sons have grown up and the elder son has got married in the year 2000. The landlord's mother is under the influence of his elder brother and insisting that the landlord may move away to another house. He has no shop of his own to earn his livelihood. For sometime past, he would work at Ramesh Chandra's shop. Ramesh Chandra has now asked him not to sit on his shop, rendering the landlord jobless. The relationship between the two brothers has become embittered on this account. The demised shop is dimensioned 12x60 feet, which is sufficient space for residential purpose. The tenant fabricates steel almirahs at home and utilizes the demised shop for the purpose of selling them. He is retaining possession of the demised shop in order to extort premium from the landlord to vacate.

4. Pending the proceeding for release, through an amendment application, an amendment was sought to the effect that the landlord's children have grown up. His daughter is reading in B.Com. whereas his elder son reads in Intermediate College. Both the children need a separate room for their studies, a fact that has accentuated the landlord's bona fide need for the demised shop. It is on these grounds that release of the demised shop was prayed.

5. The tenant, Mohd. Ishaq put in a written statement denying the landlord's case generally. It was averred that the release application has been made without basis in order to trouble the tenant on incorrect facts and to exert unlawful pressure upon him. It is the tenant's case that ever since the landlord had purchased the demised shop, he has been litigating with the tenant. It is pleaded that P.A. Case No. 26 of 1993 was instituted on 11.03.1993 on false premises under Section 21(1)(b) of the Act with a case that the demised shop was in a dilapidated condition, which was required by the landlord after reconstruction.

6. The said application was dismissed by the Prescribed Authority vide judgment and order dated 07.09.1996. An appeal from the said order being Rent Control Appeal No.27 of 1996 was dismissed by the District Judge of Jhansi by his judgment and order dated 07.07.2000. Subsequently, the landlord instituted P.A. Case No.95 of 1994 on 19.08.1994 under Section 21(1)(a) of the Act, on the same grounds as those urged in the present application. The Prescribed Authority rejected that application by a judgment and order dated 29.01.1998. Against the said order of the Prescribed Authority, the landlord carried an appeal to the District Judge, which was dismissed on 11.05.2001.

7. It is the tenant's case that on whatever grounds the earlier release application giving rise P.A. Case No.95 of 1994 was instituted and decided against the landlord inter partes, the present application has been brought on the same grounds. Therefore, findings in the earlier judgment bar the present proceedings as res judicata. It is denied that the landlord ever purchased the demised shop for his need. To the contrary, the landlord is a member of a Joint Hindu Family and all of them are engaged in the trade of gold and silver, besides being into the business of money lending. The landlord is a powerful man and a property dealer, who buys properties to augment his income. The proceedings for release are brought against the tenant to exert undue pressure upon him. The landlord and his brothers are members of a joint family.

8. It is pleaded that the landlord has purchased a shop in the name of his wife, Meena Agrawal, bearing No. 98, Jawahar Chowk, Jhansi on 22.11.2001. In addition, he has purchased another shop in the name of Manju Agrawal, wife of Sanjay Agrawal bearing Shop No.190, Bada Bazar, Chaudharyana on 2nd of May, 2004 from its previous owner, Smt. Vimla Devi. It is said further on that the landlord has also purchased another shop in the name of Sanjay Agrawal, bearing No. 22, Jawahar Chowk, Jhansi, wherein Ram Bihari and others were tenants. A case was filed against the tenants in occupation of the said shop, seeking their eviction. Once the said tenants vacated under pressure, that shop was sold off.

9. It is the further case of the tenant that apart from the demised shop vis-a-vis Shop No.14, Nanjhai Bazar, that was purchased by the landlord's elder brother, Sanjay Agrawal on 11.01.1994, a suit was instituted against the tenant, Irshad Khan being S.C.C. Suit No.123 of 1994 for eviction and decreed on 23.09.1995. Irshad Khan's revision was dismissed by this Court and possession of the shop under reference delivered to Sanjay Agrawal. The shop thus vacated is lying vacant and locked for the past three years. Apart from these properties, the landlord along with his family lives in a palatial three storeyed house, bearing No.207, Daru Bhaundela, Jhansi, which is equipped with all modern amenities. This house has a number of portions and has about 20-25 large size rooms. In addition, there are two verandahs, a store, kitchen and a number of lavatories and bathrooms.

10. The landlord and his brothers own a two storeyed market in the Jhansi main market area called Mitra Market, constructed in the year 1990. The shops in the said market owned by the landlord and his brothers are let out on rent. The landlord carries on business under the name and style of K.B. Jewellers, apart from of money lending. Apart from the said business in the family, there are other business under the name and style of Ram Sewak Ramesh Chandra Kamaraya Jewellers and M.K. Jewellers. The landlord's family own other firms too, all engaged in the trade of gold and silver. One of his family members carries on business under the name and style of Bulian Refinery, where silver and gold is purified and silver coins minted in the factory.

11. The landlord and his brothers own a building by the name of Naveen Unit School in Mohalla Nai Basti, Jhansi. All members of the landlord's family, men and women are educated and competent, who stay together cordially. There is no dearth of space with them. There is also a plea to the effect on behalf of the tenant that the landlord and his wife have never fought the landlord's mother who is a simple and straightforward woman. The landlord's case that his house at Daru Bhaundela, Jhansi is a small house with 5-6 rooms and his family comprise a total of 20 souls, where the landlord has a solitary room of 10x10 feet for himself rests on incorrect facts. The landlord and his brother, Ramesh Chandra and others have got vacated a big shop of theirs bearing Shop No.164 from one Idrish and combining with it an adjoining shop, they have built a shopping complex, wherein all the brothers own separate shops.

12. The landlord has purchased through a registered sale deed in the Sharda Hills Colony, a newly built house, which has a number of big rooms, a verandah, a kitchen and a bathroom. Earlier as well the landlord and his brothers, Sanjay Agrawal and Ramesh Chandra had purchased in the names of their wives, Meena Agrawal, Manju Agrawal and Mamta Agrawal a valuable plot of land, located on the Jhansi-Gwalior Road on 21.05.2008, all of which they are in possession. The landlord also owns, in addition to the houses and shops earlier mentioned, House Nos.212, 213, Daru Bhaundela, Jhansi, that are big residential premises. The tenant occupies the upper floor of Shop No.13, premises Nos.13 and 14 at the rate of Rs.32.50 per month. In the said shop, the tenant manufactures steel almirahs, boxes, trunks, book shalves, packing cases etc. and also repairs the same. He stores raw materials. The demised shop is the only one that the tenant has, where he and his five sons work together. This place provides them their sole source of livelihood.

13. The tenant's house, bearing No. 233, Mukuriana, Jhansi is a house located in a constructed bylane, where there are no shops or market. That house of the tenants has six rooms, wherein he lives along with 39 members of family. In those premises, he does not fabricate steel almirah nor can he do that. The demised shop is essential to support the tenant and his family's source of livelihood. In the event, it is released, the tenant would face great hardship. The tenant's business has garnered goodwill. The landlord has no need for the demised shop. In the event, the release application were refused, the landlord would not suffer any hardship. The release application deserves to be rejected.

14. The landlord supported his case by his own affidavit, bearing paper No.25A, besides an affidavit of Ramesh Chandra Agrawal, paper No. 26A and another affidavit of Sanjay Agrawal, paper No.27A. The tenant for his evidence put in his own affidavit, paper No.30A, an affidavit of Manmohan Srivastava, paper No.31A and an affidavit of Anis, paper No. 32A. The landlord filed his rejoinder affidavit, bearing paper No.53A. An additional affidavit on behalf of the landlord was filed, being his own, paper No.69A. The tenant filed an affidavit, paper No.75A. Two other affidavits were filed on behalf of the landlord, bearing paper No.81A and 99A. The tenant filed along with a list, bearing paper No.33C, fourteen documents. Through another list, 76C, four documents were filed. A single document was filed through list 94C, followed by two others through list 102C, another seven through list 108C and a single document through list 116C.

15. The Prescribed Authority, who heard the landlord's application for release, held against him both on the issues of bona fide need and comparative hardship. The landlord's application was rejected by the Prescribed Authority vide his judgment and order dated 07.05.2009. The landlord questioned the Prescribed Authority's judgment through an appeal under Section 22 of the Act, carried to the District Judge of Jhansi. The appeal was numbered on the file of the learned District Judge sitting as the Appellate Authority under the Act, as Rent Control Appeal No.6 of 2009. The landlord's appeal came up for determination before the Additional District Judge/Special Judge, SC/ST Act, Jhansi on 22.09.2011. The learned Additional District Judge reversed the judgment of the Prescribed Authority, allowed the landlord's appeal, granting the application for release and ordering the tenant's eviction.

16. Aggrieved, the tenant has preferred this writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution.

17. Heard Mr. Arvind Srivastava, learned Counsel for the tenant and Mr. Arvind Srivastava, learned Counsel appearing for the landlord.

18. During the pendency of the writ petition, the tenant passed away and his heirs LRs, who are five in number have been brought on record as petitioner Nos.1/1 to 1/5. Therefore, all further mention of the tenant bears reference to each of the five heirs of the original tenant, who have inherited the joint tenancy.

19. The foremost submission on behalf of the tenant is that the present release application is not maintainable because it has been moved within two months and ten days of rejection of the earlier release application made on the same grounds by the landlord. The submission of the learned Counsel for the tenant is that the present application is barred by Rule 18(2) of the Uttar Pradesh Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Rules, 1972 (for short, 'the Rules'). It is also submitted that, even otherwise, the circumstances have not changed since the rejection of the last application under Section 21(1)(a) of the Act, so as to entitle the landlord to maintain the present application.

20. The short summary of events on this point canvassed on behalf of the tenant is that the first release application was made by the landlord on 15.03.1993, bearing Case No. 26 of 1993. It was moved under Section 21(1)(b) of the Act. This application was rejected vide order dated 09.07.1996. The appeal filed from the said order was dismissed on 07.07.2000, and a writ petition preferred challenging the appellate order was dismissed by this Court on 14.03.2012. The second application seeking release on the ground of bona fide under Section 21(1)(a) of the Act was made on 19.08.1994, which was numbered on the file of the Prescribed Authority as Case No.95 of 1994. This application came to be dismissed by the Prescribed Authority vide order dated 29.01.1998. An appeal from this order was carried to the Appellate Authority, being Rent Control Appeal No.9 of 1998, which was dismissed vide judgment and order dated 11.05.2001. A writ petition was preferred challenging the appellate order, being Writ Petition No.30896 of 2001, which was dismissed vide order dated 27.04.2010.

21. The learned Counsel for the tenant reckons the period of presentation of the present application under Section 21(1)(a) of the Act from the date of the appellate order, that is to say, 11.05.2001 passed in the proceedings arising from the release application, moved in the second instance. It is on that basis that the learned Counsel for the tenant submits that the present application was made within two months and ten days of rejection of the second application for release. He, therefore, urges that the application is clearly barred by the provisions of sub-Rule (2) of Rule 18 of the Rules, apart from submitting that there is no material change in the circumstances inter se the landlord and the tenant about their bona fide need and comparative hardship.

22. The learned Counsel for the landlord on the other hand says that the present application is not at all barred because the period of one year envisaged under Rule 18(2) of the Rules has to be reckoned from the date of rejection of the application by the Prescribed Authority, and not dismissal of the appeal carried from the original order. He submits that even otherwise Rule 18 is directory; not mandatory. There is, thus, no bar, according to the learned Counsel for the landlord, preventing the Authorities in exercising their jurisdiction under the Act and entertaining a subsequent release application. It is also argued that the circumstances have materially changed, on account of which the judgment rendered in the earlier application would not bind parties about the issues of bona fide need and comparative hardship.

23. The Appellate Authority has repelled the tenant's contention on this score disagreeing with the Prescribed Authority and held that a second application would be maintainable, unhindered by Rule 18 of the Rules within one year of the rejection of the earlier release application, and not dismissal of the appeal from the order passed in the earlier application. The Appellate Authority has also held in tune with the submissions advanced on behalf of the landlord that the provisions of Rule 18 are directory and not mandatory.

24. Upon hearing learned Counsel for the parties, this Court finds that the bar envisaged under Rule 18(2) of the Rules, even if it were to be strictly enforced, is not to be reckoned from the date of the judgment in appeal, but the date of rejection of the earlier application by the Prescribed Authority. This principle was laid down by this Court in Heera Lal v. IXth Additional District Judge, Kanpur and others, (2005) 61 ALR 488 (All), also indicating the reason why the period of one year has to be reckoned from the date of rejection of the earlier application by the Prescribed Authority; not the Appellate Authority. In Heera Lal (supra), it has been held:

"5. Secondly, period of one year will be counted from the decision of the Prescribed Authority. If appeal filed against the said decision is dismissed, the period of one year provided under the aforesaid Rule will not be counted from the date of dismissal of appeal. The reason behind the above Rule is that within a year position of the need does not substantially change. However, after one year it may change. Before the prescribed authority the position of need as prevailing until final decision of the release may be brought on record as of right. However, during pendency of appeal subsequent developments cannot be brought on record as of right. The Appellate Court simply said that as earlier release application had been rejected against the respondent No. 3 Babu Singh hence it would be deemed that landlord had no bona fide need. The view of the Appellate Court was utterly erroneous in law."

25. The issue, whether the bar under Rule 18(2) of the Rules is directory or mandatory, fell for consideration in Ammal Chandra Dutt (supra) Ammal Chandra Dutt v. Second Additional District Judge and others, (1989) 1 SCC 1. In Ammal Chandra Dutt (supra), it was held by their Lordships of the Supreme Court:

"9. We may now set out the reasons as to why the prescription in Rule 18(1) should be construed as only directory and not mandatory. In the first place, the rule envisages two kinds of situations, one of them where the second application is made within an interval of six months from the date on which final orders were passed in the previous application and the other where the second application is made beyond an interval of six months, which may even go up to several years, as in this case where the interval was over five years, but within six months of the Act coming into force. Surely, the legislature would not have intended that the interval factor in the two sets of situations should be visited with the same consequences by adopting a rigid and inflexible application of the prescriptive guideline given in Rule 18(1). The second factor is that even if the interval factor is the sole criterion for the application of the formula contained in Rule 18(1), the legislature could not have intended that even where drastic changes had taken place subsequent to the disposal of the earlier application, the Prescribed Authority should shut his eyes to the realities of the situation and blindly and mechanically apply the formula in Rule 18(1) and reject the second application. To cite a few examples it may be that after the disposal of the first application, the landlord had been rendered houseless due to the house occupied by him falling down due to decay or heavy rains or being destroyed by fire. Could anyone say that irrespective of the changes that have taken place, the findings rendered in the previous application would have the force of relevancy till the period of six months fixed under the rule has expired? It is, therefore, manifest that the rule of presumption enunciated in Rule 18(1) is only to serve as a guideline to be followed by the Prescribed Authority if he finds the circumstances to remain unchanged and the finding rendered in the earlier application to have relevance even with reference to the facts set out in the second application. The rule is intended to avoid multiplicity of proceedings as the very heading given to the rule would make it clear. It will therefore be inequitable and unrealistic to construe Rule 18(1) as containing an inexorable legal prescription for rejecting a second application filed within the prescribed time limit solely on the basis of the findings rendered in the earlier application."

26. It is these decision, which have been relied upon by the Appellate Authority to repel the tenant's contentions, and in our opinion rightly so. The bar under Rule 18(2) of the Rules would not apply in this case, because the earlier application, that is to say, the second application preceding the instant application for release was rejected by the Prescribed Authority on 29.01.1998, whereas the present application was moved on 23.07.2001. Therefore, the instant application was well beyond the period of one year from the rejection of the second application for release by the Prescribed Authority. The contention raised on behalf of the landlord that the period of one year under Rule 18(2) has to be reckoned from the date of the appellate order passed in the second application for release, that is to say, on 11.05.2001, cannot be countenanced. Even otherwise, the Rule has been held to be directory and would not work as a bar in the sense understood in law to affect maintainability.

27. What is of substance is whether the circumstances of the parties have changed since the rejection of the earlier release application. In the opinion of this Court, like the Appellate Court, they have. The landlord's daughter has entered the B.Com. Course, whereas the son reached his intermediate grade. The landlord on evidence has also been found to be without a shop of his own, though he has residential accommodation to take care of that part of his need. These circumstances are change enough to entitle the landlord to renew his prayer for release of the demised shop, post rejection of his previous application. The finding of the Appellate Authority cannot be faulted on this score at all.

28. It is argued on behalf of the tenant that there is no bona fide need established by the landlord, entitling him release of the demised shop. It is pointed out that in Paragraph Nos.8 and 9 of the objections/ written statement filed in response to the release application, it has been pleaded that the landlord, his brothers and mother are living jointly. The landlord has recently purchased a shop, bearing No.98, situate in Mohalla Jawahar Chowk, Jhansi on 22.11.2001. He has also purchased a Shop No.190 on 25.05.2004 in the name of Smt. Manju Agrawal wife of his brother Sanjay Agrawal. The said facts are asserted in Paragraph No.10 of the written statement.

29. It is pointed out on behalf of the tenant that it was brought to the notice of the Authorities below that the landlord has a number of accommodations, to wit, Shop No.14, Premises No.207, where he is living, a shopping complex in the name of Mitra Market, firms, namely, M/s. Ram Sewak Ramesh Chandra, K.B. Jewellers, Kamaria Jewellers and M.K. Jewellers. He also has a residential house purchased through a sale deed dated 01.08.2008 at the Sharda Hills, Nai Basti and other properties. It is urged that it was taking into account the availability of all these accommodations that the Prescribed Authority rightly rejected the landlord's application for release.

30. It is contended on behalf of the tenant by the learned Counsel that in the appeal preferred, the landlord did not challenge these findings recorded by the Prescribed Authority. It is further argued that Shop No.190, purchased in the name of the landlord's brother's wife, Smt. Manju Agrawal was sold off by the landlord on 24.02.2011. This shop was available to the landlord for doing business, but he has chosen not to do so, and instead, sold it off. This, according to the learned Counsel for the tenant, is for the reason that he never needed the aforesaid shop as he is well settled in business. Likewise, he has no bona fide need for the demised shop.

31. In addition, it is submitted that the landlord has purchased a residential house on 01.08.2008 in the Sharda Hills Colony out of his own resources garnered from the business that he does in premises No.164, Sarrafa Bazar, Jhansi. In this connection, he has drawn the Court's attention to the sale deed at Page No.226 of the paper-book. Again, according to the learned Counsel for the tenant, the landlord has purchased another house in Om Shanti Nagar. To substantiate the said fact, apart from referring to the findings of the Authorities below, the learned Counsel has drawn the Court's attention to a photostat copy of the sale deed annexed as Annexure No.19 to the paper-book. It is urged that on the question of bona fide need, the affidavits of Ishaq, Manmohan Srivastava and Anis Khan, annexed as Annexure Nos.21, 22 and 23 to the writ petition, had not been considered by the Appellate Authority. It is, thus, submitted that the Appellate Authority in recording its finding on the question of bona fide need had ignored from consideration material evidence on record.

32. It is next submitted that the Appellate Authority in answering the issue of bona fide need has also committed an error apparent on the face of record. It is submitted in substantiation that the Prescribed Authority has recorded findings to the effect that the landlord's family was living happily together as a joint family, and also that the landlord has a number of accommodations together with his family available to him, both for residential purpose and the purpose of doing business. He does not need the demised shop. According to the learned Counsel for the tenant, since this finding recorded by the Prescribed Authority for the reasons given by the said Authority has not at all been considered by the Appellate Authority, the impugned judgment is vitiated by error apparent.

33. The learned Counsel for the landlord, on the other hand, has supported the findings recorded by the Appellate Authority and submitted that all the various accommodations, pointed out by the tenants to be available to the landlord, have been considered before holding in favour of the landlord on the issue of bona fide need. The landlord's bona fide need has been accepted for the purpose of business alone. It is urged that the Appellate Authority has not ignored from consideration any evidence or committed an error apparent, so as to merit interference by this Court with a pure finding of fact in the exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution.

34. This Court has carefully considered the submissions advanced by the learned Counsel for parties and perused the impugned judgment and the record. The judgment of the Prescribed Authority has also been looked into.

35. This Court finds that the landlord's submissions that the Appellate Authority has ignored from consideration material evidence or committed an error apparent in record findings on the issue of bona fide need are far from sustainable. The Appellate Authority has considered the residential accommodation available to the landlord in House No.207, Daru Bhaundela and the case of parties about the space therein, where the landlord resides with his three other brothers and their families. The Appellate Authority has not accepted the landlord's case that the said house has 5-6 rooms nor that of the tenant that it has 20-25 big rooms, besides bathrooms and other facilities. The Appellate Authority has considered the Amin's report, paper No.85-C and returned a finding that this house has a ground floor, first floor and second floor, comprising of a total of 10 rooms. The Appellate Authority has then considered the number of family members in the landlord's nuclear family and that of his three brothers, all of whom are said to live in House No. 207, Daru Bhaundela as a joint family.

36. It has been held that according to the ration cards on record, the landlord's brother, Ramesh Chandra has a family of seven, the landlord a family of four, Mahesh Chandra a family of five, Ajay Kumar a family of four and Sanjay Agrawal again a family of four. The Appellate Authority has taken note of the fact that the landlord's mother has passed away pending proceedings. The landlord and his brothers together comprise 25 members. The other residential accommodations considered are the four houses, bearing Nos.33, 210, 212 and 213, Daru Bhaundela, another house bearing No.22, Nanjhai Bazar and the two houses purchased at Sharda Hills Colony and Om Shanti Nagar. The Appellate Authority has recorded a finding that apart from House No.207, the landlord has houses located at Premises Nos.212, 213, Daru Bhaundela and has also purchased two houses pending appeal, one at Om Shanti Nagar and the other at Sharda Hills Colony, Nai Basti. The former has been noted to have an area of 162 square meters and the latter an area 54.03 square meters. The Appellate Authority has also recorded a finding based on the ration cards of the landlord's family that his brother Mahesh Chandra lives at Premises No.213, Daru Bhaundela, whereas Ajay Kumar resides in Premises No.33 and Sanjay Kumar in 210. It has been held that the landlord's brothers live in House Nos.33, 210, 212, 213, Daru Bhaundela. The Appellate Authority has returned a finding that the landlord has no bona fide need so far as his residential requirement goes. Here, the Appellate Authority for its own and very detailed reasons is in agreement with the Prescribed Authority.

37. So far as accommodation for housing the landlord's business is concerned, the Appellate Authority has very meticulously scrutinized all properties said to be available to the landlord for the purpose about their title, utility and suitability. There is mention of a certain land purchased in the names of Meena Agrawal, Manju Agrawal and Mamta Agrawal, wives of the landlord and two of his brothers, jointly on 21.05.2008. This land is located on the Gwalior Road. The Appellate Authority has opined that the land is agricultural as evident from the document bearing paper No.95-C. It has no built up area and is suitable for agriculture. The Appellate Authority has held that ownership of this kind of land is irrelevant to judge the landlord's need for the demised shop. The said finding is beyond exception in our opinion. There is then reference to a certain Shop No.14, Nanjhai Bazar, Jhansi abutting the demised shop, which has been purchased by the landlord's brother Sanjay Agrawal on 11.01.1994. A suit against the sitting tenant in the shop, one Irshad, is noted to have been instituted, being S.C.C. Suit No.123 of 1994. This suit was decreed on 23.09.1995 and a revision from the decree dismissed. About the aforesaid shop, it is commented that it belongs to Sanjay Agrawal; not the landlord.

38. There is then a reference to a Shop No.190, Bada Bazar, Chaudhariyana, standing in the name of Manju Agrawal wife of Sanjay Agrawal, that was purchased on 25.05.2005 through a sale deed of that date. This shop too had a tenant by the name Wasiurrahman, against whom P.A. Case No.13 of 2005 was instituted, seeking release. The release application was allowed on 16.04.2010. Similarly, Sanjay Agrawal purchased premises bearing No.72, Jawahar Chowk, Jhansi and against the sitting tenant in the said premises instituted S.C.C. Suit No.39 of 1992. The said suit was compromised with the tenant in revision.

39. It has been remarked that if any of these shops bearing No.14, Nanjhai Bazar, Jhansi, Shop No.190, Bada Bazar, Chaudhariyana, or Shop No.72, Jawahar Chowk, Jhansi, have been purchased and got vacated by Sanjay Agrawal or his wife, it is of no relevance to the landlord's need for the demised shop. This is so because none of these shops belong to the joint family or the landlord. These belong to the landlord's brother, Sanjay Agrawal or his wife. Doing a meticulous analysis of all properties said to be available, it has been held that the landlord has no premises available to him for the purpose of his business.

40. The Appellate Authority has recorded findings in meticulous detail, after analyzing evidence on record about the availability of business accommodation to the landlord. In Paragraph Nos.8 and 10 of the judgment, the Appellate Authority has recorded the following findings:

"8- विपक्षी ने सायल के स्वामित्व के मकान सं0-22 नझाई बाजार झॉसी भी बताया जो तिर्माजिला है और जिसके प्रथमतः पर 15 दूकानें हैं कहा, प्रलेख 80 सी के आधार पर 22 नझाई बाजार के स्वामी महेशचन्द्र अग्रवाल एवं अजय अग्रवाल सायल के भाई हैं, स्वीकार किया जावेगा। न तो यह संयुक्त परिवार की सम्पत्ति है और न ही यह सायल की है तथा 210 डरू भोंडेली एवं 213 डरू भोंडेली सायल के पिता रामसेवक के स्वामित्व के मकानात हैं यह प्रलेख 78 व 79 सी पंचसाला की नकल से स्पष्ट होता है। इन दोनों ही मकानों में किरायेदार क्रमशः रमेशचन्द्र तिवारी एवं रामदास गुप्ता हैं जो सायल के कब्जे में नहीं हैं तथा भवन सं0-33 डरू भोंडेली कैलाशबाबू, महेश, काशीप्रसाद एवं अजय के स्वामित्व के हैं प्रलेख 77 सी से स्पष्ट होता है इनमें से कोई जगह सायल के कारोबार के लिए उपलब्ध नहीं है।"

"10..... उपरोक्त विवेचना से मैं इस निष्कर्ष पर पहुँचता हूँ कि सायल/ किरायेदार के पास एक पैत्रिक मकान सं0-207 डरू भोंडेली में है उसका स्वयं का मकान ओमशांतिनगर एवं शारदाहिल्स कालौनी नईबस्ती झॉसी में है जिसे दौरान मुकदमा सायल ने खरीदा है। सायल की संयुक्त हिन्दू परिवार की सम्पत्ति की दूकान नं0- 190 बड़ाबाजार, 72 जवाहर चौक झॉसी, एवं दूकान नं0-14 नझाई बाजार न होकर तनहा संजय अग्रवाल की है सायल एवं उसके भाइयों का मित्र मार्केट या नवीन यूनिट स्कूल नईबस्ती में स्वामित्व की कोई जगह नहीं है तथा 164 सराफा बाजार झॉसी तथा 238, 239, 240 सराफा बाजार सायल के बड़े भाई रमेश अग्रवाल की है जिससे कोई सरोकार व वास्ता सायल का नहीं है इन दूकानों में सायल का कोई हक व हिस्सा नहीं है सायल के पिता के नाम मकान नं० 210, 213 डरू भोंडेली है जिसमें कारोबार के लिए कोई जगह नहीं है तथा इनमें किरायेदारान रमेशचन्द्र तिवारी एवं रामदास गुप्ता रहते हैं जो खाली स्थिति में नहीं हैं। निर्मुक्ति प्रार्थनापत्र के कथन कि विवादित दूकान रिलीज होने पर वह इसका निर्माण कराकर रिहायश एवं कारोबार के लिए बनवा लेगा। इसमें से रिहायश की आवश्यकता सायल की पूर्ण हो चुकी है। कारोबार के लिए कोई जगह न होने से विवादित दूकान सायल के कारोबार के लिए निर्मुक्त की जाने योग्य है।"

41. There is no such perversity about the findings of the Appellate Authority on the question of bona fide need of the landlord to establish his business as may impel this Court to interfere with those findings. The various shops that have been referred to by the tenant as ones available to the landlord, either do not belong to the landlord or are not available. These are not in the ownership of the joint Hindu family or the landlord's ownership.

42. So far as the shopping complex in the Mitra Market or the Naveen Unit School, Nai Basti is concerned, the finding of the Appellate Authority is that there is no such accommodation available either with the landlord or his brothers. It is a non-existent accommodation.

43. Now, turning to the finding about comparative hardship, one factor that the Appellate Authority has taken into account is the fact that there is no evidence to show that the tenant has made efforts during the period of 40 years that he has been in occupation of the demised shop to search for alternative accommodation. Indeed, there is no evidence about it. The proposition is well settled that in a case where the tenant does not search for alternative accommodation, particularly, after the landlord initiates proceedings for release against him, the answer to the issue of comparative hardship invariably ought to be against the tenant. In this regard, reference may be made to the decisions in Sarju Prasad v. VIIIth Additional District Judge, Faizabad and others, 2007 (2) AWC 1068 (L.B.) and Arvind Kumar Mishra v. Jitendra Kumar Gupta and others, 2016 (1) A.R.C. 634.

44. There is again another factor that has weighed with the Appellate Authority in deciding the question of comparative hardship against the tenant. It is the fact that the tenant has been in occupation of the demised shop for 40 years on a paltry rent of Rs.32.50. The Appellate Authority has placed reliance in this regard in Sheo Shanker Das v. Special Judge & Ors, 2006 (3) ALJ (NOC) 467 (All). This Court thinks that a tenant holding for a long period of time on an absurdly low rent, ought certainly to be held disentitled, vis-a-vis the landlord, when determining the issue of comparative hardship. After all comparative hardship, though a statutory requirement under Section 21(1)(a) of the Act, is nevertheless a principle built on equity. The equity is if the tenant would suffer greater hardship by the grant of the release application than that which the landlord would suffer by its refusal. A tenant who holds on to a rented premises for a very long period of time, on a ridiculously low rent, virtually does something ex-proprietary. To him, no benefit of any equity or a statutory rule founded on equity ought to be extended.

45. Apart from the aforesaid issues, it is a consistent principle that in the exercise of our writ jurisdiction, this Court ought not to readily interfere with findings of fact recorded by the Authorities of fact functioning under the statute. Here, the findings about bona fide need involved require determination based on sifting of evidence and conclusions drawn that conform to the law. The Appellate Authority has done both satisfactorily. There is no perversity about the Appellate Authority's judgment. Even if the Appellate Authority has taken a different view of the evidence than the one by the Prescribed Authority, it is entitled to do that as a Court of first appeal. No exception can be taken to it. There is no finding of consequence recorded by the Prescribed Authority, which may not have been reversed by the Appellate Authority. The principle that this Court ought not to interfere with a pure finding of fact recorded by the statutory Authorities under the Act is eloquently expressed in Ashok Kumar and others v. Sita Ram, (2001) 4 SCC 478, where it has been held:

"17. The question that remains to be considered is whether the High Court in exercise of writ jurisdiction was justified in setting aside the order of the Appellate Authority. The order passed by the Appellate Authority did not suffer from any serious illegality, nor can it be said to have taken a view of the matter which no reasonable person was likely to take. In that view of the matter there was no justification for the High Court to interfere with the order in exercise of its writ jurisdiction. In a matter like the present case where order passed by the statutory authority vested with power to act quasi-judicially is challenged before the High Court, the role of the Court is supervisory and corrective. In exercise of such jurisdiction the High Court is not expected to interfere with the final order passed by the Statutory Authority unless the order suffers from manifest error and if it is allowed to stand it would amount to perpetuation of grave injustice. The Court should bear in mind that it is not acting as yet another appellate court in the matter. We are constrained to observe that in the present case the High Court has failed to keep the salutary principles in mind while deciding the case."

46. In this view of the matter, in our considered opinion, no case for interference with the impugned judgment passed by the Appellate Authority is made out.

47. In the result, this writ petition fails and is dismissed.

48. The interim order, already granted, is hereby vacated.

49. There shall be no order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J.)

1. All of the above seven Writ Petitions have been filed by retired members U.P. Development Authorities Centralized Services or their dependent family members. They were holding various posts for example Chief Architect and Town Planner, Chief Town Planners, Chief Engineers, Executive Engineers and Assistant Engineers in different Development Authorities and had retired before 01.01.2016. Some of the writ petitions which were filed in 2019 and 2020 were filed mainly with a prayer to revise the pension of the petitioners in accordance with the recommendation of the Seventh Pay Commission and strictly in accordance with the Government Order dated 23.12.2016 read with Government Orders dated 18.07.2017 and 04.09.2017 which were issued for State Government employees. Some petitioners were also praying for grant of 20% additional pension to them as they had attained the age of eighty years. Pleadings were complete between the parties and matters were ripe for final hearing but in the meantime the State Government issued Office Memo dated 24.02.2021, which made admissible revised pension to the petitioners in accordance with the Seventh Pay Commission's recommendations but with effect from the date of issuance of such order i.e. prospectively. Such Office Memo has been challenged in later Writ Petitions of 2021 as it provides that the formula given in Government Order dated 23.12.2016 will be followed while calculating revised pension/family pension only notionally, and actual benefits of revised pension shall be given with effect from 24.02.2021 meaning thereby that the arrears of more than five years have been denied. The impugned Office Memo also denies the benefit of modified formula and method for calculation of pension and family pension as provided in Government Orders dated 18.07.2017 read with Government Order dated 04.09.2017, saying that they were meant only for retired Government Servants and their dependents.

2. The facts that are common to all of the writ petitions are that after recommendations of the Seventh Central Pay Commission, the State Government constituted the Pay Committee 2016, to implement the Recommendations of the Seventh Central Pay Commission in the State of Uttar Pradesh. The Pay Committee 2016 presented its recommendations/report before the State Government with regard to the implementation of the Seventh Pay Commission upon different classes and categories of employees/retirees of various departments including the Housing and Urban Planning Department and Local Bodies, statutory institutions, public sector enterprises and autonomous bodies like Development Authorities. The State Cabinet accepted the recommendations of the Pay Committee 2016 with regard to revised pay, Dearness Allowance/Relief as well as pension/family pension and other post retirement benefits for Urban Local Bodies, Zila Panchayats, Jal Sansthan and Development Authorities. Consequently, a Government Resolution (Sankalp) dated 16.12.2016 was issued which was published in the Gazette. Clause 1 of such Resolution provided that the recommendations of the Pay Committee with regard to the revision of salaries of employees of Development Authorities in revised Pay Matrix (provided by the Seventh Pay Commission) were accepted. Clause 5 of the said Resolution provided that pension of retirees of Development Authorities who had earlier been getting same pension as Government servants shall be revised in an identical manner to State Government pensioners. It further provided that the financial implications/burden in adopting the recommendations of the Seventh Pay Commission for Local Bodies, Zila Panchayats, Development Authorities etc., would be borne by such institutions. No transfer of funds other than funds which are already being given by the State Government to such authorities, would be made available for additional financial burden cast by such adoption. With regard to Development Authorities the recommendations would be admissible only on the condition that financial burden caused by such acceptance would not be borne by the State Government. The responsibility to deposit in time the installments regarding loans extended by the financial institutions giving credit to such Development Authorities would be discharged regularly and the increase in establishment cost due to grant of benefits admissible under the Seventh Central Pay Commission's recommendations shall be borne by such Development Authorities.

3. The State Government issued Government Order No.39 dated 23.12.2016 for Government employees who retired before 01.01.2016, providing therein that pension and family pension of such persons who retired or died prior to 01.01.2016 shall be as per the Report of the Pay Committee 2008 i.e. the Committee constituted for implementation of the recommendations of the Sixth Central Pay Commission, and will be revised by multiplying factor of 2.57 with pension/family pension which they were getting prior to 2016. The said Government Order also provided that pensioners who attained the age of 80 years shall be paid 20% additional pension. Arrears on revision of pension shall also be paid with effect from 01.01.2016.

4. A similar Government Order No.38 dated 23.12.2016 was issued for Government Employees who retired after 01.01.2016. It also provided that 50% of the last drawn basic salary would be given as pension. The ceiling limit of maximum amount of Gratuity was raised to 20 lakhs from 10 lakhs as provided under the recommendations of the Sixth Central Pay Commission.

5. Thereafter, the State Government in order to maintain homogeneity between Pre-2016 and post-2016 retired Government employees, issued another Government Order dated 18.07.2017 modifying the formula/ method for revision of pension/family pension for such Government employees providing therein that apart from the method of multiplying the existing pension by 2.57 points as provided in the Government Order No. 39 dated 23.12.2016, the calculation for revision of pension/family pension would also be done by notional pay fixation, under each intervening Pay Commission's recommendations, based on the formula for revision of pay, and the amount which is higher shall be the revised pension/family pension. Clause 11 of the said Government Order provided for payment of arrears as a result of such upward revision with effect from 01.01.2016. The State Government thereafter issued an order on 04.09.2017 providing calculation method and Concordance Tables for revised pension/family pension for its employees in accordance with the method/principle provided in the Government Order dated 18.07.2017.

6. However, the formula given in such Government Orders were not applied for calculating Pension/revised pension of members of the Centralized Services of Development Authorities. The Government made it clear that separate orders shall be issued by the Department of Housing and Urban Planning. After five years of such implementation of the Seventh Central Pay Commission's recommendations with respect to salary and pension of Government employees, the impugned Office Memo has been issued on 24.02.2021. The said Office Memo provided that the formula set out in Government Order dated 23.12.2016 would be followed while calculating revised pension/revised family pension, but actual benefits of such revision would be given only from the date of issuance of the Office Memo that is with effect from 24.02.2021, denying the arrears of more than five years. The said Office Memo also denied the benefits of modified formula and method for calculating pension as provided in the Government Orders dated 18.07.2017 read with Government Order dated 04.09.2017 as applicable to State Government employees.

7. On the other hand, the recommendations of the Seventh Pay Commission with regard to revision of salaries and other allowances except Dearness Allowance was duly implemented with effect from 01.01.2016 in Development Authorities by a Government Order dated 04.01.2017, and the employees of Development Authorities who retired after the revision of salary with effect from 01.01.2016 by the Government Order dated 04.01.2017 are getting pension at the rates prescribed by the Government Order dated 04.09.2017 (that is 50% of the basic salary at the time of retirement). One exemplar of Pension Payment Order with regard to one of such employees, Ratan Kumar Nigam, who retired on 31.08.2017 from the post of Assistant Engineer from Prayagraj Development Authority with last drawn basic salary of Rs.1,02,500/- (revised in the Seventh Pay Commission as per Government Order dated 04.01.2017) being granted Rs.51,250/- i.e. 50% of his last drawn basic salary, has been filed as an Annexure 12 to the Writ Petition No. 11593 of 2025.

8. It has been argued by Sri Satyendra Singh, learned counsel for the petitioners that the Development Authorities in the State of U.P. have been created under the provisions of the UP Urban Planning and Development Act 1973 (hereinafter referred to as the "Act of 1973"). After creation of Development Authorities, the State Government had issued Government Orders dated 17.03.1983 and 29.09.1983 providing therein that until model retirement benefit Rules are framed by the State Government under Section 56(2) of the Act of 1973, the employees of Development Authorities would be entitled for pension/family pension in accordance with Uttar Pradesh Palika Centralized Services Retirement Benefit Rules 1981 (hereinafter referred to as "the Palika Rules of 1981"). The Palika Rules of 1981 provided pension and family pension at par with State Government employees.

9. Subsequently, the State Government notified the U.P. Development Authority Centralized Services Rules 1985 (hereinafter referred to as the Service Rules of 1985) and instead of framing retirement benefit Rules or Regulations for such Centralized Services, the State Government issued an order on 05.04.1999 providing therein that since no decision had yet been taken for payment of pension to employees of Centralized Services, they are not entitled for payment of pension/family pension and such pension was consequently stopped.

10. The Government Order dated 05.04.1999 was challenged in several writ petitions before this Court both at Lucknow and Allahabad and this Court in Writ petition No. 556 (S/B) 2009 Praveen Kumar Agarwal Vs. State of U.P. and others, decided on 20.11.2010 reported in (2011) ILR 1 Allahabad 21; allowed such writ petitions and quashed the Government Order dated 05.04.1999 and consequential Government Order dated 09.11.2004 by which pension/ Family pension was stopped with consequential benefits. This Court recorded a finding that the two Government Orders dated 05.04.1999 and 09.11.2004 had been issued in contravention of statutory provisions as contained in Section 24 of the Act of 1973 which provided that a Development Authority shall constitute for the benefit of its officers and other employees a Pension or Provident Fund. Rule 34(2) provides that all employees of Development Authorities retired in accordance with the said Rules would be entitled to retiring pension and/other retirement benefits. Rule 37(2) provided that in regard to matters not covered by the Rules or by special orders, the members of service shall be governed by the Rules, regulations and orders applicable generally to U.P. Government Servants serving in connection with the affairs of the State. The Court observed that the action of the State Government in denying pension only because pension regulations had not been framed by it, was a completely arbitrary decision and liable to be quashed. The Court issued a mandamus directing the respondents to ensure payment of regular pension including arrears to the writ petitioners and other similarly situated employees, in accordance with the Rules applicable to the State Government employees.

11. In pursuance to the directions issued by this Court, the State Government after nearly four decades of creation of Development Authorities, ultimately notified the U.P. Development Authorities Centralized Services Retirement Benefit Rules 2011 (hereinafter referred to as the "Retirement Benefit Rules of 2011"). The said Rules provided for pension and other retirement benefits to members of Centralized Services of Development Authorities, who were appointed before 01.04.2005. Later, the cut-off date was modified by an order dated 22.12.2011 providing that such pension and retirement benefits would also be available to employees who retired prior to the commencement of the Rules on 11.11.2011.

12. Part VI of the Retirement Benefit Rules 2011 provides for establishment of U.P. Development Authorities Centralized Services Pension Fund, a consolidated and common pension fund under the control of the Finance Controller, Lucknow Development Authority, and also provides the procedure for disbursement of pension/family pension by the Vice-Chairman of Development Authority concerned subject to approval of the Finance Controller, LDA.

13. The pension of all such petitioners who had retired prior to 01.01.2006 was revised as per the Sixth Pay Commission's recommendations with effect from 01.01.2006 on the basis of Government Order No.1515 dated 08.12.2008 meant for State Government employees, in pursuance of observations made by the Division Bench in the case of Praveen Kumar Agarwal and others (supra) and the State Government did not issue any separate Government Orders from the Department of Housing and Urban Planning for revision of pension of retirees of Centralized Services as per the Sixth Pay Commission's recommendations, other than the Government Order dated 08.12.2008 issued for State Government employees. Even while issuing the Government Resolution (Sankalp) dated 16.12.2016, it was provided that Pension/family pension of employees of Development Authorities who were getting same benefits as State Government pensioners shall be revised identically with that of State Government employees. Thereafter, Government Orders Nos. 38 and 39 dated 23.12.2016 were issued for State Government employees providing therein arrears of revised pension/family pension to be paid with effect from 01.01.2016. Such Government Orders were followed by two others dated 18.07.2017 and 04.09.2017, providing for revised pension/family pension after taking into account notional pay fixation for each pay revision, based on the formula as provided "Concordance Tables" enclosed along with the said Office Memorandum. Such upward revision in pension and family pension was to be determined by the Head of the Department/Head of Office, without requirement of any application by the pensioners/family pensioners. Clause 5 of the Government Order dated 04.09.2017 provides payment of arrears of revised pension/family pension with effect from 01.01.2016 to State Government employees. Another Government Order has also been issued on 01.05.2018 clarifying that pension of pre-2016 retirees shall in no case be less than 50% of their notional pay in the Pay Matrix as determined by the Seventh Pay Commission, even if the retiree had rendered less than qualifying service required for full pension.

14. It has been argued by the learned counsel for the petitioners that Rule 4 of the Retirement Benefit Rules 2011 provides for calculation of pension of retirees of Development Authorities on the same formula and in accordance with the same procedure as is applicable to State Government employees. Similar provision has been made with regard to Gratuity under Rule 5. Rule 7 of the said Rules of 2011 provide that family pension to family members of deceased employees shall be regulated by relevant Rules applicable to Government servants serving in connection with the affairs of the State. As such members of Centralized Services of Development Authorities are entitled to pension, family pension and Gratuity at par with State Government employees and for the purpose of calculation/revision of such benefits the same procedure and formula shall be used, i.e. the same Concordance Tables shall be used as are applicable to State Government employees from time to time.

15. It has also been argued on the basis of judgement rendered by this Court in Writ A No.54211 of 2016 (Shakuntala Singh versus State of UP and others) reported in 2019 (11) ADJ 495; that the Retirement Benefit Rules of 2011, by reference, adopted the same formula and procedure pertaining to pension/family pension as applicable to employees of the State Government and, therefore, subsequent Government Orders pertaining to post retirement benefits in respect of Government servants become automatically applicable and are enforceable upon the employees of Development Authorities by operation of law, from the date of their issuance. The Court had also observed that Finance Controller, LDA, who was in-charge of the Consolidated Pension Fund, had admitted that the requisite amount was available in such Pension Fund constituted under Rule 16 of the Retirement Pension Benefit Rules 2011, therefore, Development Authorities could immediately, without any approval from the State Government, implement the Government Orders revising pension/family pension of their employees pursuant to implementation of the Seventh Pay Commission Recommendations. The Court, therefore, observed that the Government Order dated 08.12.2008 and subsequent clarification the Government Orders and Concordance Tables enclosed therewith, dealing with computation and revision of pension/family pension and other benefits on adoption of the recommendations of the Sixth Pay Commission recommendations would apply in totality and without modification upon employees of the Centralized Services of such Development Authorities.

16. It has been argued that after the observations made by this Court in Shakuntala Singh (supra), the Government Orders dated 23.12.2016, 18.07.2017 and 04.09.2017 and 01.05.2018, become applicable upon the petitioners in their totality from the date of their issuance including for payment of arrears with effect from 01.01.2016 consequent to such Revision, and therefore the date of applicability as mentioned in the impugned Office Memo dated 24.02.2021 is liable to be set aside.

17. It has been argued for the petitioners that apart from non-payment of arrears of revised pension/family pension with effect from 01.01.2016 i.e. arrears for more than five years, the impugned Office Memorandum dated 24.02.2021 is causing huge monetary loss to the petitioners every month by not implementing the formula provided in the Government Orders dated 18.07.2017 and 04.09.2017 and 01.05.2018. The learned counsel for the petitioners has drawn attention of this Court to paragraph-54 of Writ Petition No.11593 of 2021, wherein an illustration of monthly loss being caused to petitioner no.1- Ved Prakash Mittal has been given in a Tabular form. Ved Prakash Mittal retired on 31.10.2003 and last drawn salary was Rs.20,000/-. Basic pension as per the Fifth Pay Commission's recommendations was calculated at Rs.7273/-. Basic pension as per the Sixth Pay Commission's recommendations was calculated at Rs.17,855/-. When the Government Order dated 26.12.2016 alone is applied and the existing basic pension is multiplied by 2.57, it comes to Rs.45,887/-. However, if basic pension is revised as per Government Order dated 18.07.2017 read with Government Order dated 04.09.2017, as per the Concordance Tables, the pension payable comes to around Rs.69,550/-. The difference per month is of Rs.23,663/-. In paragraph-55 of the writ petition, it has further been submitted that the State Government revises Dearness Relief every six months. Since the Dearness Relief at the time of filing of the writ petition was 28% on the amount of basic pension, the loss of the petitioner will keep increasing as and when the rate of dearness relief is enhanced by the State Government.

18. It has been argued that the recommendations of the Seventh Pay Commission with regard to salaries has been duly implemented for employees of Centralized Services of Development Authorities with effect from 01.01.2016 by Government Order dated 04.01.2017. Therefore, employees who retired after revision of salary with effect from 01.01.2016, are getting pension at the rates prescribed by Government Order dated 04.09.2017, that is, 50% of the Basic Salary at the time of retirement. One employee Ratan Kumar Nigam retired on 31.08.2017 and he is getting pension at 50% of the last drawn basic salary.

19. It has been argued that two separate classes have been created within one homogeneous class of employees belonging to Centralized Services of Development Authorities by giving benefits of the Seventh Pay Commission to those who retired after 01.01.2016 and refusing it to those who retired prior to it. Not only this, the giving of benefit of revised pension, without arrears and only with effect from the date of issuance of Office Memorandum dated 24.02.2021 amounts to hostile discrimination because other employees of Local Bodies such as Zila Panchayats have been given the benefit of the Resolution (Sankalp) dated 16.12.2016 and the Department of Panchayati Raj has issued a Government Order dated 16.02.2018 implementing the aforesaid Government Orders dated 23.12.2016, 18.07.2017 and 04.09.2017, in their totality without any modification. On the other hand, the Department of Housing and Urban Planning has issued the impugned Office Memorandum dated 24.02.2021 which not only denies the benefit of enhanced pension as provided by the aforesaid three Government Orders, but also disallows the payment of arrears of revised pension with effect from 01.01.2016.

20. It has been argued for the petitioners that since the respondents have kept the revision of pension/family pension of the petitioners pending for more than five years from the commencement of the Seventh Pay Commission's recommendations ignoring the mandatory provisions of the Statutory Rules 2011 and the observations made by this Court in the case of Praveen Kumar Agarwal and Shakuntala Singh (supra), the petitioners are entitled for interest at the rate of 12% per annum on the delayed settlement of the revised pension/family pension with effect from the date it became payable i.e., with effect from 01.01.2016.

21. Sri M.C. Chaturvedi, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri Pradeep Kumar Tripathi, Standing Counsel, appearing on behalf of the State respondents has argued that the retirement benefits of the petitioners are governed by the Retirement Benefit Rules 2011. The provisions of Rule 4, related to pension and Rule 5 related to death-cum-retirement Gratuity, and Rule 7 related to family pension provide the same to be calculated according to the procedure and formula applicable to employees of the State Government. However, Rule 15 of the said

Rules also provides that the decision of the State Government in case of dispute or difficulty arising regarding interpretation of any provisions of the Rules would be final and conclusive and that matters not covered by the Rules shall be governed by such orders as the State Government may deem proper to issue.

22. It has further been argued for the Respondents that no doubt the pension of employees of Development Authorities is being paid from the Fund of the Development Authority itself and the State Government is not bearing the burden of payment to such employees, it is within the jurisdiction of the State Government to decide the date of implementation of the recommendations of the Seventh Pay Commission and that of the Pay Committee, 2016.

23. It has been argued for the Respondents that the employees of Development Authorities are not Government servants. A Development Authority is a body Corporate and an autonomous institution. Hence, the Government Orders issued with respect to Government servants are not automatically applicable upon employees of Development Authorities, and they are made applicable taking into account the financial conditions of the Development Authority concerned. The Government Order dated 23.12.2016 was issued by the Finance Department of Government of U.P. specifically providing that it will not be applicable upon employees of Local Bodies and Public Sector Undertakings and Development Authorities and other autonomous institutions. Government Orders dated 18.07.2017 and 04.09.2017 also clearly provided that they will not be applicable on employees of various institutions including the High Court, Statutory Corporations, Basic Schools, aided Educational Institutions, Autonomous Bodies including Development Authorities which depend upon their own financial resources. For Development Authorities, separate Government Orders were issued by the Administrative Department applying the recommendations of the Pay Committee and, therefore, the monetary benefits given in such orders cannot be the same as applicable to State Government servants. The Administrative Department makes applicable the Government Orders taking into account the financial condition of the Authorities to bear the financial burden. Though some of the Development Authorities indicated their consent for extending the benefit of Seventh Pay Commission recommendations to their employees with effect of the date they became applicable to State Government servants, the State Government after considering the financial conditions of all Development Authorities and other ancillary factors which affect the financial resources of such Development Authorities, issued the Office Memorandum dated 24.02.2021 in exercise of its powers under the Retirement Benefit Rules of 2011.

24. Sri M.C. Chaturvedi has also referred to the Counter Affidavit filed by the State Respondents which also reiterated that the Government employees are different from employees of Development Authorities and, therefore, Government Orders issued with respect to State Government Servants are not applicable automatically upon employees of autonomous institutions like Development Authorities. The monetary benefits available to State Government employees cannot be automatically made available to employees of Development Authorities as their financial conditions are different. Though the State Government in principle adopted the recommendations of the Pay Committee 2016 with regard to employees of urban Local Bodies, Zila Panchayats, Jal Sansthan and Development Authorities by its Resolution dated 16.12.2016 it was on the condition that the benefit of such recommendations would be made available to such employees only if the financial burden does not fall upon the State Government. The State Government would not transfer any funds. Moreover, the Development Authorities would have to discharge their responsibilities towards loans/advances made to them by different financial credit institutions. The additional establishment costs would have to be borne by such Development Authorities out of their own funds. The Government Order Nos. 38 and 39 dated 23.12.2016 issued by the Finance Department are with regard to pension, Gratuity and other payments admissible to Government employees and specifically provide that they will not be applicable upon employees of Local Bodies and Public Sector Undertakings and autonomous institutions. The Government Orders dated 18.07.2017 and 04.09.2017 provide for calculation of the amount of pension, Gratuity and family pension of employees of Development Authorities in accordance with the Formula and procedure prescribed for State Government employees but they do not provide for payment of the same amount as per to State Government employees.

25. The learned counsel for the respondent argued that the petitioners want benefit of Government Orders issued for government employees. All such Government Orders on which reliance has been placed by the petitioners and the benefit of which the petitioners want this Court to extend to them, clearly say that they shall not be applicable to employees of autonomous institutions, local bodies, statutory corporations et cetera. The relevant exclusionary clauses have not been challenged by the petitioners.

26. It has also been argued for the Respondents that the date of applicability of Pay Commissions recommendations with respect to pension and other retirement benefits has not been given in Rule 4 or Rule 5 of the Retirement Benefit Rules. Only the formula and procedure to be adopted for determination of such pension and retirement benefits was to be the same as that of State Government employees. The Administrative department therefore was required to issue separate orders deciding the date of applicability of Pay Committee's recommendations. In this case, the respondent no.1 has decided that the Pay Committee's recommendations will be applicable to pensioners of Development Authorities notionally with effect from 01.01.2016 and actual benefits would accrue with effect from the date of issuance of the Government Order in this regard, that is, with effect from 24.02.2021. The Government has taken a conscious decision to deny arrears looking into the financial condition of the Development Authorities. The record produced before this Court would show that not all of the Development Authorities are in profit. Most of them are running in losses. The financial capacity to give pensionary benefits with retrospective effect was doubtful and therefore the Government decided on giving benefits of the Seventh Pay Commission's recommendations only prospectively. There is no doubt regarding complete administrative control of the State Government over the administration of Development Authorities. Rule 37 of the Rules of 2011 refers to the final authority to decide a dispute or settle a doubt being with the State Government.

27. The learned counsel for the State Respondents has placed reliance upon reports/charts with regard to financial conditions and resources of Development Authorities filed as Annexure CA-6 to the Counter Affidavit filed in Writ Petition No.11593 of 2021. Sri M.C. Chaturvedi has read out CA-6 which is a letter dated 17.06.2021 sent by the Director Awas Bandhu, Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow, to the Under Secretary of Housing and Urban Planning Department with reference to the Government's letter dated 01.03.2021. It refers to information given in Form Nos. 7 to 10 and Form Nos. 11 to 13, being examined and comments being sent through letter dated 03.03.2021 written by him. It refers to a meeting held by the Principal Secretary Housing and Urban Planning on 11.06.2021 where a direction was issued for examination of information given in prescribed Form nos. 1 to 6 by the Awas Bandhu, and for a report to be submitted thereafter to the Government. Consequently, the report desired by the Principal Secretary in his meeting dated 11.06.2021 was being enclosed for consideration of the Government. The enclosure to the letter is in the form of a tabular chart containing information regarding income and expenditure of 33 Development Authorities and U.P. Awas Vikas Parishad for the year 2018-19, 2019-20 and 2020-21. It sums up such information by saying that for Raebareli, Aligarh, Bareilly, Muzaffarnagar, Gorakhpur, Rampur, Agra, Chitrakoot, Ghaziabad, Saharanpur and Prayagraj Development Authorities, the expenditure has been more than the income for the past three years. It has been argued that out of 33 Development Authorities, at least 11 Development Authorities were spending more than they earned. However, on a consideration of the income of all the Development Authorities for the past two years, it has been found that such income has increased by more than 8% for the financial year 2020-21. The Director, Awas Bandhu, further says that despite the COVID-19 pandemic prevailing in the nation, the Development Authorities have made commendable efforts and their income has increased by more than 8% from the past financial year.

Sri M.C. Chaturvedi has tried to distinguish the judgement rendered in the case of Shakuntala Singh (supra) by saying that the prayer of the writ petition was for quashing of Clause 6 of the Government Order dated 05.07.2016 in so far as it denied payment of arrears of revised pension with effect from 01.01.2006 to employees of Centralize Services. The petitioner had further prayed for providing the benefit of the said Government Order dated 05.07.2016 and also the Government Order dated 21.01.2016 which were with regard to the grant of benefit of the Sixth Pay Commission's recommendations. The Court had specifically considered the argument that the matter relating to providing the benefits of the Seventh Pay Commission was pending consideration of the State Government. The calculation of the pension of the husband of Smt. Shakuntala Singh had been made by the Development Authority not in accordance with the formula applicable to State Government employees and, therefore, the Court had directed calculation of pension and consequently family pension in accordance with the formula for computation applicable to Government employees by observing that the Administrative Department had not issued any orders independently providing for a different method of calculation of pension/family pension. The Government Order dated 18.07.2017 by which the earlier Government Order dated 23.12.2016 was modified and clarified that it would not be applicable to autonomous institutions was not considered by the Court in the case of Shakuntala Singh. Therefore, it has been argued that the reliance placed upon the judgement rendered in Shakuntala Singh by the petitioners is misconceived and liable to be rejected.

28. Sri Satyendra Singh and counsel for the petitioners in Rejoinder has submitted that the Office Memorandum dated 24.02.2021 was issued without application of mind to the financial conditions of Development Authorities whose pensioners were proposed to be given revised rates of pension as per the recommendations of the Pay Committee 2016. The counsel for the petitioners has referred to the paragraph No. 28 of the Counter Affidavit filed in Writ Petition No. 11593 of 2021 and Counter Affidavits filed in earlier writ petition of Narain Ji Gopal in December, 2021. It has been argued that no material as referred to in paragraph 28 and Annexure CA-6 of the counter affidavit filed in Ved Prakash Mittal, has been referred to at all in the Counter Affidavits filed in earlier writ petition. The learned counsel for the petitioner has taken this Court through CA-6 filed in Writ Petition No. 11593 of 2021 to show that it was only in pursuance of a letter issued on 01.03.2021 and correspondence undertaken after the meeting held on 11.06.2021 that the letter dated 17.06.2021 was written by the Director U.P. Awas Bandhu. The learned counsel for the petitioner has pointed out from point nos. 2 and 3 of the enclosure to the said letter that the last three years average of Balance Sheet of various Development Authorities was taken into account and only 11 such Development Authorities had shown a deficit in the Balance Sheets and even with the difficulties faced during the COVID-19 pandemic the sum total of the Balance Sheets of all the Developments Authorities for the past two years showed profit of more than 8% over and above their earlier income. The learned counsel for the petitioner has tried to impress upon this Court that without there being any relevant material on record, the decision dated 24.02.2021 was taken. Later on, documents were filed along with the Counter Affidavit with regard to income and Balance Sheets of various Development Authorities as an afterthought. Such an explanation given ex-post facto cannot be taken into account.

29. It has also been argued that the Supreme Court has in several judgments held that mere financial constraints cannot be a ground for discrimination between members of the same pension scheme. No two classes of Pensioners can be created on the basis of the date of retirement.

30. It has also been argued that the Joint Secretary Government of U.P. sent letter dated 28.08.2017 to the Vice-Chairman of Development Authorities calling for the recommendations/opinion regarding implementation of the Pay Committee 2016 recommendations regard to revision of pension. In response to the aforesaid letter, all the Development Authorities have duly informed the State Government that they have no objection in extending the benefit of revised pension to the retirees and that they are financially capable to extend the benefit of revised pension in accordance with the Seventh Pay Commission's recommendations. Copies of such a recommendation letters of 19 Development Authorities have been filed as Annexure to the Rejoinder Affidavit filed in the case of Ved Prakash Mittal. Even the Finance Controller, Lucknow Development Authority who is the custodian of the Common Pension Fund constituted under Rule 16 of the Retirement Benefit Rules, 2011 sent several letters requesting permission/direction with regard to implementation of the Seventh Pay Commission recommendations on pre-2016 retirees of Development Authorities but the respondent no.1 kept the matter pending for more than five years and ultimately issued the impugned Office Memorandum on 24.02.2021 denying benefit of arrears.

31. It had been argued that the State Government does not even provide monetary support to Development Authorities to meet their establishment costs or to give pension to the retirees. The Development Authorities are willing and financially capable of paying pension uniformly to the pensioners irrespective of the date of retirement, but the State Government has arbitrarily decided otherwise.

32. This Court, therefore, by its order dated 19.09.2022 directed the counsel for the State respondents to place before this Court the record relating to the decision taken by the Government for making applicable the Seventh Pay Commission's recommendations relating to pension and other retirement benefits of the Development Authorities. The record relating to the decision of the Government for giving such benefits prospectively was produced before this Court and several pages from the notings on the file for example page nos.164 to 167 and Page nos.172 to 176 respectively of file no. 06E/2016 Awas-5 had been read out in their entirety by the counsel for the respondents. This Court directed the respondents to place photocopies of relevant pages of the record along with their written submissions.

33. The Learned counsel appearing for the State Respondents while referring to the records produced before the Court of File No.06E/2016 has pointed out the Hon'ble Chief Minister's query with regard to financial liability on payment of pension as per the Seventh Pay Commission's recommendation. The administrative department had pointed out that Rs.33.30 crores would be required if upward revision in pension and other retirement dues is given with retrospective effect. There were a total of 405 pensioners in Centralized Services. The Hon'ble Chief Minister had asked a specific query with regard to the trend of income and expenditure for the past three years. Such query was answered at page 164 by saying that for the past three years the trend has been positive, i.e., the income generated by the Development Authorities was more than their expenditure. However, this was only for a few of the Development Authorities but not all of them. The administrative department had expressed an apprehension that applying Government Order dated 23.12.2016 with retrospective effect on employees of Development Authorities would also lead to grant of full pension on completion of 20 years of service, and also additional pension on reaching the age of 80 years and above. It also pointed out the liability of paying Gratuity to the extent of Rs.20 lakhs in case of fulfilment of such 20 years of service. The administrative department had suggested creation of a Corpus Fund of Rs.500 crores but had not suggested as to how contributions from various Development Authorities were to be ensured in such Corpus Fund. It also suggested that by means of a Government Order dated 29.12.2020, a provision has been made for deposit of Rs.35.5 crores annually as contributions to the Pension fund by various Development Authorities but such contributions have not been paid in their entirety by such Authorities. Sri M.C. Chaturvedi has pointed out from the record that reminders have been sent repeatedly to various Development Authorities to deposit their share of contributions, the last such reminder being sent in August 2022. It was also pointed out that such contributions of Rs.35.50 crores were only to bear the additional expenditure for the financial year 2020-21 upto 2023-24. The approval granted by the Chief Minister on 04.02.2021 was with respect to financial liability to be created on grant of pensionary benefits prospectively as per the Seventh Pay Commission's recommendations. No approval was granted for retrospective operation of upward revision in the absence of calculation of arrears.

34. It has been argued by Sri M.C. Chaturvedi that the noting put up on the file by the administrative department was misleading and even all of the twenty Development Authorities which had shown their income as being more than their expenditure were not actually running in profit and had therefore not deposited contributions to the pension fund.

35. Sri Satyendra Singh has placed reliance upon judgement rendered by the Supreme Court in Subrata Sen versus Union of India and others* 2021 (8) SCC 71; (paragraph 6 to 10, 13 to 17 thereof).

36. Before this Court enters into the merits of the rival contentions, it would be appropriate to consider the statutory provisions relevant for decision in the controversy. The Development Authorities are created under Section 4 of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act 1973. Section 5 of the Act of 1973 provides that the Secretary and Chief Accounts Officer of the Authority may be appointed by the State Government who shall exercise such powers and perform such duties as may be prescribed by the regulations or delegated to them by the Authority or its Vice-Chairman. Subject to such control and restriction as may be determined by general or special orders of the State Government, the Authority may then appoint such number of other officers and employees as may be necessary for the efficient performance of its functions and may determine their designations and grades. The Secretary and Chief Accounts Officers and their employees of the Authority would be entitled to receive from the funds of the Authority such salaries and allowances and shall be governed by other conditions of service as may be determined by regulations made in that behalf.

37. It is evident from a perusal of such provisions that a Development Authority may appoint Officers and employees but such employees would be entitled to receive salary and allowances only from the fund of the Authority. The conditions of service may be governed by regulations made in this behalf. Section 5-A confers power upon the State Government by notification to create one or more Centralized Services for such posts, other than posts mentioned in sub-section (4) of Section 59 common to all Development Authorities. The incumbents on such posts are transferable from one Development Authority to another Development Authority. The State Government may prescribe the manner and conditions of recruitment to, and the terms and conditions of service of persons appointed to such service. A provision was made for absorption of a person already serving on a post included in such service immediately before such creation or on deputation in the Centralized Service unless he opts otherwise. The State Government was authorized also to transfer any person holding any post in a Development Authority Centralized Service from the one Development Authority to another.

38. Under Chapter VII of the Act of 1973, Section 24 provided for Pension and Provident Funds, which would be created by the Authority for the benefit of its whole time members and officers and other employees but subject to such conditions as the State Government may specify. If a Provident Fund is constituted by a Development Authority, the State Government may make applicable the Provident Fund Act 1925 upon such Provident Fund also.

39. Section 56 confers power upon the Development Authorities to make Regulations with the previous approval of the State Government for the administration of the affairs of the Authority including salaries allowances conditions of service of its employees.

40. The State Government in exercise of its powers under Section 5-A notified the U.P. Development Authorities Centralized Service Rules 1985. Rule 31 provides for leave, leave allowances, officiating pay, fee and honorarium as admissible to Government servants of like status under the Financial Handbook Volume II, Part 2 to 4. It provides for the cadre and strength of service and also the age of superannuation and retiring pension under Rule 34. Rule 37 mandates that in any matter not covered by these Rules or by special orders, the members of service shall be governed by the Regulations and orders applicable generally to the Government servants of Uttar Pradesh.

41. After the decision of this Court in Praveen Kumar Agarwal (supra), the State Government framed the Retirement Benefit Rules of 2011. Part I of said Rules deals with pension and Gratuity. Rules 4 & 5 provide calculation of pension and Gratuity has to be done according to the procedure and formula applicable to employees of the State Government. Under Part III, family pension is provided for, and it is to be regulated by the relevant Rules applicable to U.P. Government servants. The State Government by an order dated 08.12.2008 had accepted the recommendations of the Sixth Central Pay commission and made it applicable to all its employees, who retired prior to 01.01.2006. The State Government Order also provided therein a Tabular chart, which dealt with computation of pension/revised pension. The Finance Department published a Resolution (Sankalp) dated 07.02.2009, accepting the recommendations of the Sixth Pay Commission and made it applicable on all Local Bodies including Development Authorities. It further clarified that the State Government shall not be responsible to provide funds to meet the expenses which had to be borne by the respective Local Bodies/Development Authorities. The Tabular Chart / Concordance Table appended to the Government Order dated 08.12.2008 was, however, not followed for determination of pension of employees of the Development Authorities who had retired prior to 01.01.2006. The State Government, thereafter, issued two other Government Orders dated 19.07.2010 and 07.11.2014, along with a Concordance Table showing the revised pay structure and corresponding minimum pensions and family pensions. Another Government Order was issued on 21.01.2016 clarifying that family pension shall not be less than the 30% of the basic pension. These Government Orders were also not followed in computing the pension and family pension of retirees of Development Authorities.

42. One retired Chief Engineer's widow approached this Court in Writ Petition No.54211 of 2016: Shakuntala Singh versus State of U.P. and others. This Court observed after considering the Act of 1973 and the Retirement Benefit Rules of 2011, that under Section 24 of the Act and Rules 4 and 7 of the Rules of 2011, all Rules/orders made applicable to the employees of the State Government and formula for computation of pension and family pension thereunder, would apply by reference to the employees of Development Authorities. Such Rules are in the nature of a legislative exercise, which cannot be superseded by any Government Orders/Resolution. The Court considered in paragraphs 43 and 44, the concept of Legislation by incorporation and Legislation by reference, and observed that there is a distinction between the two in as much as "in the latter case the amendments made in the earlier legislation would be applicable to the referring legislation. Applying the principle in the instant case the Retirement Benefit Rules 2011, make applicable all Government Orders, in so far as it relates to pension/family pension by reference. The subsequent amendments thereto would therefore also apply."

43. The Court observed in paragraph 44 thus: -

"44. The Supreme Court in Bajaya v Gopikabai 1978 (2) SCC 542; explained the distinction between legislation by reference and incorporation.

"- Legislation by referential incorporation falls in two categories, (a) where a statute by specific reference incorporates the provisions of another statute as at the time of adoption; and (b) where a statute incorporates by general reference the law concerning a particular subject, as a genus. In case of (a) the subsequent amendments made in the referred statute cannot automatically be read into the adopting statute. But in the category (b) it shall be presumed that the legislative intent was to include all the subsequent amendments also made from time to time. The generic law on the subject adopted by general reference. - -" (Refer: Western Coalfields Ltd Vs. Special Area Development Authority, Korba 1982 SCC 125)"

44. This Court in the judgement rendered in Shakuntala Singh had categorically held that Retirement Benefit Rules of 2011 are legislative in nature and, therefore, binding upon the Development Authorities uniformly and even upon the State Government. The Retirement Benefit Rules 2011 do not prohibit the Development Authorities from implementing Government Orders without approval of the State Government. Rather, the said Rules mandate that the Government Orders pertaining to pension/family pension, issued in respect of Government servants become applicable and enforceable upon employees of Development Authorities by operation of law. No further act of approval is required at the end of the State Government. Office Memorandum dated 24.02.2021 has been issued by the respondent no.1 in complete violation of the provisions of the Retirement Benefit Rules 2011 and circumventing the judgment rendered by this Court in Shakuntala Singh (supra).

45. The Coordinate Bench also made reference to judgement rendered in the case of State of U.P. Vs. Shivashray Singh and State of U.P. versus Preetam Singh and others 2014 (15) SCC 774; and other judgements relating to U.P. Awas Vikas Parishad, where the relevant Government Orders as well as statutory scheme i.e., U.P. Civil Service Regulations, Pension Rules, U.P. Retirement Benefit Rules 1961. New Family Pension Scheme 1965, and all orders of the Finance Department in relation to pension/family pension/ Gratuity as are applicable to employees of the State Government were held as automatically incorporated by reference. It was held that except for the Government Order dated 08.12.2008 there was no other Government Order regulating the grant of financial benefits under the Sixth Pay Commission Report or payment of pension and gratuity to the employees of the State Government. This Government Order was, therefore, held to apply in its entirety to the employees of the Awas Vikas Parishad by virtue of the statutory Regulations of 2009 which provided that employees of the Parishad are entitled to payment of pension/family pension and gratuity as is admissible to officers and employees of the State Government.

46. In Shakuntala Singh (supra), the Coordinate Bench of this Court rejected the argument made by the State Respondents that the petitioner was not entitled to claim benefit of pension as per the Government Order dated 08.12.2008, which was applicable to State pensioners and was not binding upon the Development Authorities. The Government Order dated 08.12.2008 had been further modified by Government Orders dated 19.07.2010, 14.07.2014 and 27.01.2016, which had not yet been made applicable to employees of Development Authorities for the purpose of payment of pension and other benefits.

47. It observed that the respondents had admitted that there was no alternate formula for computation of pension/family pension, other than that provided by the State Government Orders. In terms of the Retirement Benefit Rules of 2011, it was not open for the respondents to adopt a formula other than that applicable to State Government servants. Moreover, the Development Authorities had conveyed to the State Government that they had the financial capacity to bear the expenses of enhanced pension/revise family pension recommended by the Seventh Pay Commission for the employees for employees who had retired before 01.01.2016.

48. The Coordinate Bench went a step further and framed an ancillary question as to whether the Development Authorities were bound to take approval of the State Government before implementing the recommendations of the respective Pay Commissions made applicable to the Government servants through various Government Orders. The Court observed that Development Authorities are autonomous bodies having separate fund. The salaries, pension and other emoluments of their employees are funded by the Development Authorities from their own resources. The State Government does not fund the Development Authorities. The Retirement Benefit Rules of 2011 does not provide for prior approval of the State Government to be taken by the Development Authorities for implementing Government Orders.

49. The Coordinate Bench placed reliance upon observation made by the Supreme Court in the case of Preetam Singh (supra) which provided that previous approval of the State Government to frame Regulations governing the conditions of service of its employees, including pension etc, was not required to be obtained by the Parishad.

It is relevant to note here that the judgement rendered in Preetam Singh was referred to a Larger Bench in State of U.P. versus Virendra Kumar Civil Appeal No.6622 of 2022 and judgement was rendered by the Supreme Court Larger Bench on 25.11.2022 reported in 2022 SCC Online Supreme Court 1628; were subject to a minor modification, the observations of the Division Bench in Preetam Singh were affirmed.

50. The Coordinate Bench in Shakuntala Singh observed that the Retirement Benefit Rules 2011 which govern the computation and payment of pension/family pension to employees and their dependents of Development Authorities nowhere prescribes prior approval to be obtained for Government Orders issued from time to time governing pension and family pension to be implemented. Since the Finance Controller of Lucknow Development Authority, who is the Custodian of Development Authorities Pension Fund constituted under Rule 16 of the Retirement Benefit Rules 2011 had expressed a willingness to implement the Government Orders revising pension/family pension of Employees of Development Authorities, the Development Authorities can immediately and without any approval implement the Government Orders revising pension/family pension in favour of their retirees.

51. In Shakuntala Singh the Coordinate Bench also considered the question as to whether classification of pensioners made by the State Government on the basis of their date of retirement, was reasonable and whether it had any nexus with the object sought to be achieved. It referred to several Division Bench judgements of this Court and also judgement rendered by the Supreme Court including in All Manipur Pensioners Association through its Secretary vs. State of Manipur 2020 (14) SCC 625; where the Supreme Court had answered the question whether the State Government would be justified in creating two classes of pensioners, viz., pre-1996 retirees and post-1996 retirees, for the purpose of payment of revised pension, salary, on the ground of financial constraint. The Supreme Court rejected the cut-off date, as according to it such a classification had no nexus with the object and purpose of grant of benefit of revised pension. It observed: -

"- - - - in our view, such a classification has no nexus with the object and purpose of grant of benefit of revised pension. All the petty pensioners form one class, who are entitled to pension as per the pension Rules. Article 14 of the Constitution of India ensures to all equality before law and equal protection of laws. At this juncture, it is also necessary to examine the concept of valid classification. A valid classification is truly a valid discrimination. It is true that Article 16 of the Constitution of India permits a valid classification. However, a valid classification must be based on a just objective. The result to be achieved by the just objective presupposes the choice of some for differential consideration/treatment over the others. A classification to be valid must necessarily satisfy two tests. Firstly, the distinguishing rationale has to be based on a just objective and secondly, the choice of factors differentiating one set of persons from another, must have a reasonable nexus to the objective sought to be achieved. The test for valid classification may be summarized as a distinction based on the classification founded on an intelligible differential, which has a rational relationship with the object sought to be achieved - -."

52. Finally, the Coordinate Bench observed that it is not disputed by the respondents that the recommendations of the Sixth Pay Commission and the Seventh Pay Commission in respect of current employees of Development Authorities has been accepted by the State Government and implemented by the Development Authorities with effect from 01.01.2006 and 01.01.2016 respectively. However, retired employees were not being paid revised pension pursuant to the Government Orders issued from time to time. Revised pension is available for those employees who had retired after 01.01.2006 and 01.01.2016 respectively. However the pensioners who had retired earlier were being denied the benefit of revised pension/family pension on an artificial classification with regard to the date of implementation of such upward revision for the purposes of pension and family pension. "...Such an artificial classification was not founded on any intelligible differentia so as to distinguish persons that are grouped together from others that were left out."

53. This Court has perused the relevant extract of the original record of File nos.06E/2016 of Awas Section 5. The file noting starts with page no.158 where the Administrative Department is considering the adoption of the Seventh Pay Commission's recommendations for retirement benefits as per the Finance Departments Government Order Nos.38 and 39 dated 23.12.2016. The proposal to adopt such Government Order would entail; (a) grant of pension and dearness allowance as per the Seventh Pay Commission; (b) minimum qualifying years of service for admission to pension being reduced from 20 years to 10 years; (c) admissibility of full pension being available on rendering 20 years of services instead of 33 years of service; (d) the ceiling limit for gratuity being raised from Rs.10 lakhs to Rs.20 lakhs on rendering such 20 years of service; (e) additional pension being given to old pensioners and family pension also being upwardly revised.

54. The Director, Awas Bandhu U.P., by his letter dated 08.10.2020 had indicated that there were 2578 pensioners currently in 29 Development Authorities who were being paid pension and other retirement benefits amounting to Rs.3,802.98 lakhs annually. In Case of adoption of the Seventh Pay Commission Recommendations such financial burden would be increased to Rs.4,898.89 lakhs. The additional burden annually would come to Rs.1,095.89 lakhs. The Finance Controller LDA by his letter dated 07.10.2020 had indicated that if pension and other retirement benefits are made admissible as per Seventh Pay

Commission's recommendations including Dearness Relief for pensioners of Centralized services, an amount of Rs.190.18 lakhs per month would be needed. The Finance Controller also in his earlier letter dated 15.09.2020 had informed of the amount of arrears of pension to be disbursed up to 31.03.2022. He informed that currently Rs.160.71 lakhs was being paid on a monthly basis for pension/Family pension. If the Pay Commission's recommendations are to be adopted with effect from 01.01.2016, then the arrears of pension/family pension upto 31.03.2022 would amount to Rs.5500/- lakhs. On the other hand, only Rs.750 lakhs was left in the Pension Fund Account maintained in IDBI bank. Only Rs.1000 lakhs per month as contribution to Pension Fund is expected to be made available by the various Development Authorities. Consequently, Rs.3550/- lakhs had to be arranged by increasing the monthly contribution of all Development Authorities to the Pension Fund. As a result of this correspondence from the Director, Awas Bandhu, and the Finance Controller, Lucknow Development Authority, a Government Order had been issued on 29.12.2020 directing payment of Rs.35.50/- crores additionally as pension contribution in the Fund by the various Development Authorities. But this was not sufficient and, therefore, a meeting would have to be arranged of all Development Authorities to determine the amount of contribution to the Pension Fund of each of them, and also for ensuring that the same is paid into the pension fund in time. In response to an earlier query made with regard to the consequences of grant of arrears as per the Seventh Pay Commission's recommendations, the Administrative Department had calculated an amount of Rs.190.18/- lakhs but this amount did not take into account money needed for payment of arrears.

55. This Court has noticed that the Administrative Department in its noting had only dealt with financial liability/burden on payment of revised pension and other retirement dues prospectively as the Chart that has been prepared relates to the year 2020-21 upto 2023-24. For the said purpose alone a corpus fund of Rs.500 crores had been suggested to be created which would then be invested in such a manner as to realize Rs.30/- crores annually as interest thereon. However, no method has been suggested of how such Corpus Fund is to be created and what would be the specific contribution of each of the Development Authorities therein.

56. The Hon'ble Chief Minister had directed the Finance Department to also be consulted in the matter.

57. The Finance Department in its advice only stated that as per the Sankalp dated 16.12.2016 adopting the Pay Committees 2016 Report and the Government Orders nos. 38 and 39 dated 23.12.2016 issued in this regard, the additional requirement of fund by the Development Authorities would have to be arranged by them from their own resources and the State Government would not transfer any fund for the purpose of additional establishment costs incurred by them in this regard. It also advised that if the Government Orders dated 23.12.2016 are adopted as it is, it would lead to qualifying service for pension being reduced from 20 years to 10 years, and qualifying service for full pension being reduced from 33 years to 20 years. Moreover pension would be admissible at the rate of 50% of the last basic salary drawn and would in no case be less than Rs.9000/- per month. Moreover, additional pension at the rate of 20% of the basic pension would become admissible to pensioners who are 80 years old, at the rate of 30% would be admissible to pensioners over 85 years old, and so on and so forth, and there would be hundred percent increase in basic pension for a pensioner who was hundred years or more. Such provisions were not applicable to pensioners of Development Authorities in the past or even in the present. Death-cum-retirement Gratuity would also be increased and the ceiling limit would now be Rs.20 lakhs instead of 10 lakhs on rendering full service of twenty years.

58. The Administrative Department also pointed out that the currently in service employees of Authorities have been granted the benefit of the Seventh Pay Commission's recommendations and there are several writ petitions pending in the High Court by pensioners and family pensioners seeking benefit of the Seventh Pay Commission's recommendations.

59. On said file noting, the Hon'ble Chief Minister had made a query on 27.10.2020 asking for details regarding the trend of income and expenditure of various Development Authorities for the past several years.

60. A format was prepared seeking information from various Development Authorities thereafter which was circulated. The information was collected from 29 Development Authorities, reference of which was made in the file noting at page 166 onwards. The Development Authorities had informed the Administrative Department that they were ready and willing to bear the financial burden in revising pension and other retirement benefits as per the Seventh Pay Commission's recommendations.

Then onwards Hon'ble Chief Minister again put up a query on 05.01.2021 with regard to the trend of income and expenditure in the past years and additional fund that would be required to meet the liability.

61. All previous developments were summarized in the Administrative file noting starting from page 169 onwards in File No. 06E/2016. Information was given by only seven Development Authorities, out of which four had informed that their income was less than their expenditure in the past three years. Most of the Development Authorities had expressed their willingness to bear the additional financial burden as a result of upward revision of pension and other retirement benefits on adoption of the Seventh Pay Commission's recommendations in this regard.

62. The Administrative Department in its noting on the file in paragraph-16 onwards, however, refers only to the expected financial burden to be caused by adoption of the Seventh Pay Commission's recommendations regarding retirement benefits in the future with effect from to the Financial Year 2020-21 up to Financial Year 2023-24. There is no reference to financial burden to be cast on payment of arrears of revised pension with effect from 01.01.2016. Thereafter, all of a sudden in paragraph-18 of the said noting on the file at page-175, there is a suggestion that the Pay Commission's recommendations be accepted with effect from 01.01.2016 notionally with actual payment being made with immediate effect. The relevant draft of the Office Memorandum was thereafter prepared which was got approved and issued as Government Order dated 24.02.2021.

63. In D.S. Nakara versus Union of India, 1983 (1) SCC 305; the Constitution Bench had to consider the question of a cut-off date found in the pension scheme which was uniformly applicable to all the Central government employees who had formed one class at the time of retirement and who were entitled to pension. The question was whether the amount of pension which was computed for them in the light of the available formula could have been further enhanced on the basis of a subsequent more beneficial formula and whether it could be denied only on the ground that they had retired prior to the date on which such enhanced computation of pension was made available to the pensioners. In the light of the aforesaid fact situation, it was observed that all employees were governed by the pension scheme and who had become eligible to earn pension at the time of the retirement formed one class. It was held that such a cut-off date for granting additional benefits to some of the pensioners in the same class of employees would not be countenanced on the touchstone of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. In D.S. Nakara's case admittedly all the Central Government servants were governed by the pension scheme and were eligible to draw pension on retirement. They therefore, formed one class.

64. The ratio of Nakara's case was distinguished by two later Constitution Bench decisions. In the case of Indian ex-Services League versus Union of India, 1991 (2) SCC 104; the Supreme Court made the following observations in paragraph 12 of the report: -

"12. The liberalised pension scheme in the context of which the decision was rendered in Nakara provided for computation of pension according to a more liberal formula under which "average emoluments" were determined with reference to the last 10 months salary instead of 36 months salary provided earlier, wielding a higher average, coupled with a slab system and raising the ceiling limit for pension. This Court held that where the mode of computation of pension is liberalised from a specified date, its benefit must be given not merely to retirees subsequent to that date but also to other retirees irrespective of the date of retirement even though the earlier retirees would not be entitled to any arrears prior to the specified date on the basis of the revised computation made according to the liberalised formula. For the purpose of such a scheme all existing retirees irrespective of the date of their retirement, were held to constitute one class, any further division within that class being impermissible. According to that decision, the pension of all earlier retirees was to be re-computed as on the specified date in accordance with the liberalised formula of computation on the basis of the average emoluments of each retiree payable on his date of retirement. For this purpose there was no revision of the emoluments of the earlier retirees under the scheme. It was clearly stated that "if the pensioners form one class, their computation cannot be by different formula affording unequal treatment solely on the ground that some retired earlier and some retired later". This according to us is the decision in Nakara and no more. .."

65. In yet another Constitution Bench judgement of Supreme Court in the case of Krishena Kumar versus Union of India, 1990 (4) SCC 207; Nakara's case was distinguished by holding that:

"in Nakara's case the Court treated the pensioners only as a homogeneous class. It was never held that both the pension retirees and A provident fund retirees formed a homogeneous class, and that any further classification among them would be violative of Article 14. On the other hand, the Court clearly observed that it was not dealing with the problem of a fund.

It has to be kept in view that in the present case we are concerned with the pension fund and so far as the pension fund is concerned, Nakara's judgement by itself would not apply as is clearly mentioned in the very same judgement in paragraph 45....."

66. This Court has gone through the judgement rendered by the Supreme Court in the case of Subrata Sen another versus Union of India and others 2001(8) SCC 71; relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner. The Supreme Court placed reliance upon judgement rendered by it in V. Kasturi versus Managing Director, State Bank of India, Bombay and another 1998 (8) SCC 30; where referring to two categories of pensioners, the Supreme Court had observed that "if the person retiring is eligible for pension at the time of his retirement and if he survives till the time of subsequent amendment of the relevant pension scheme, he would become eligible to get enhanced pension or would become eligible to get more pension as per the new formula of computation of pension subsequently brought into force. He would be entitled to get benefit of the amended pension provision from the date of such order as he would be a member of the very same class of pensioners when the additional benefit is being conferred on all of them. In such a situation the additional benefit available to the same class of pensioners cannot be denied to him on the ground that he had retired prior to that date on which the aforesaid additional benefit was conferred on all the members of the same class of pensioners who had survived by the time the scheme granting additional benefit to these pensioners came into force. However, if an employee at the time of his retirement is not eligible for retiring pension and stands outside the class of pensioners, and subsequently by amendment of the relevant pension Rules any beneficial umbrella of pension scheme is extended to cover a new class of pensioners and by then the erstwhile non-pensioner might have survived, then only if such extension of pension scheme to erstwhile pensioners is expressly made retrospective by the authorities promulgating such scheme; the erstwhile non-pensioner who has retired prior to the advent of such extended pension scheme can claim benefit of such a new extended pension scheme. If such a new scheme is prospective only, the old retirees non-pensioners cannot get the benefit of such a scheme even if they survive such new scheme. They will remain outside its sweep- - -."

67. Reliance was also placed upon paragraph 45 of the judgement rendered in D.S. Nakara's case, which reads thus: -

"45. Let us clear one misconception. The pension scheme including the liberalized scheme available to the Government employees is non-contributory in character. It was not pointed out that there is something like a pension fund - - - the payment of pension is a statutory liability undertaken by the Government and whatever becomes due and payable is budgeted for. One could have appreciated this line of reasoning where there is a contributory scheme and a pension fund from which alone pension is disbursed. That being not the case, there is no question of pensioners dividing the pension fund which, if more persons are admitted to the scheme, would pro rata affect the share."

68. Further, in All India Reserve Bank Retired Officers Association versus Union of India, AIR 1992 Supreme Court 767, the Supreme Court had highlighted the observations made in D.S. Nakara's case found in paragraph 46 to the following effect: -

"46. - - - the pension will have to be re-computed in the light of the formula enacted in the liberalised pension scheme and effective from the date the revised scheme comes into force. And beware, it is not a new scheme, it is only a revision of existing scheme. It is not a new retirement benefit. It is an upward revision of an existing benefit. If it was a wholly new concept, a new retirement benefit, one could have appreciated an argument that those who had already retired could not expect it."

69. The Court further observed: -

"- - - it must be realised that in the case of an employee governed by the contributory Provident fund scheme his relations with the employer come to an end on his retirement and receipt of CPF amount, but in the case of an employee governed under the pension scheme his relations with the employer really undergo a change but do not snap altogether. That is the reason why this Court in Nakara's case drew a distinction between liberalisation of an existing benefit and introduction of a totally new scheme. In the case of Pensioners it is necessary to revise the pension periodically as a continuous fall in the rupee value and the rise in prices of essential commodities necessitates an adjustment of the pension amount but that is not the case of employees governed under the CPF scheme, since they had received the lump sum payment which they were at liberty to invest in a manner that would yield optimum returns which would take care of the inflationary trends. This distinction between those belonging to the pension scheme and those belonging to the CPF scheme has been rightly emphasised by this Court in Krishena's case".

70. This Court finds that the judgement rendered in Subrata Sen turned on different facts. In the said case the Union of India had taken over the Assam Oil Company of which the petitioners were employees. The payment of pension was liability of the employer as per the Rules and the liability was required to be discharged by the Union of India, in view of its taking over the Company. The rights of the employees were protected under Burma Oil Company (acquisition of shares of Oil India Ltd and of the undertakings in India of Assam Oil Co Ltd and the Burma Oil Company Ltd) Act 1981. The increase in pension could be met from the general revenues of the Central Government. Such is not the case with the petitioners. No such reserve of funds is available for pensioners of Development Authorities. Most of the petitioners were absorbed from Nagar Palika services into the Centralized Services of the Development Authorities. The Act of 1973 and the Rules of 1985 governing their conditions of service provided for creation of a Provident Fund and a Pension Fund. Under the Retirement Benefit Rules of 2011 the Finance Controller of the Lucknow Development Authority was made responsible for the upkeep and maintenance of the pension fund. The petitioners were to get retirement benefits from the pension fund alone. The pension fund is created out of contributions made by the Development Authorities in respect of its employees who are in service in the manner provided under the Rules. The contribution is in the form of a fixed percentage of salary of each of the employees. There is therefore no provision for an employer making an additional Contribution in respect of its past employees who are the existing pensioners.

71. However , in the case of the petitioners the Development Authorities themselves have expressed their willingness and readiness to give the retirees enhanced pensionary and other retirement benefits in terms of the recommendations of the Seventh Pay Commission. As a corollary of the Government having nothing at all to do with the said Pension Fund, it is for the Development Authorities to bear the additional financial burden and consequently to determine also the date of application of the enhanced pensionary benefits to their retired employees.

72. Moreover, the impugned Office Memorandum disallows payment of arrears of revised pension with effect from 01.01.2016, and also the benefit of enhanced pension made admissible to retirees of State Government, by modifying the formula and method for calculation of revised pension as given in Government Orders dated 18.07.2017 and 04.09.2017. The Government Order dated 23.12.2016 and also the Shasikiya Sankalp dated 16.12.2016 provides that pension and other retirement benefits shall be available to employees of other autonomous institutions and statutory bodies at par with State Government employees, if they were getting such parity in the past. Under Rule 4, 5, 7 and 34 of the Retirement Benefit Rules 2011, the pensioners of Development Authorities become entitled to payment of pension, family pension and Gratuity as is admissible to employees of the State Government as soon as the relevant Government Orders are issued in this regard as they were incorporated by reference in the Retirement Benefit Rules of 2011. Therefore, the recommendations of the Seventh Pay Commission with regard to salaries have been duly implemented with effect from 01.01.2016 for employees of Development Authorities by Government Order dated 04.01.2017.

73. It has not been submitted by learned Counsel for the Respondents that the Coordinate Bench decision in Shakuntala Singh was questioned in Appeal and set aside by any appellate Court. The Coordinate Bench decision has taken care of arguments of the State Respondents that employees of Centralized Services of Development Authorities cannot claim parity with State Government employees by referring to the Retirement Benefit Rules 2011 and the Centralized Service Rules of 1985, where it has been clearly provided that for all matters which have not been specifically provided for, in the Rules, the employees shall be governed by Rules and Regulations and orders as applicable to Government Servants engaged in the affairs of the State. The Supreme Court in the case of Indian Ex-Servicemen's Movement Vs. Union of India and others, 2022 (7) SCC 323; has observed in paragraph 34:-

".....A hierarchy in law exists between Statutes and Rule. A statutory provision will have precedence over delegated legislation if the latter conflicts with the former. Similarly, executive instructions cannot overrule a Statute or Rules made in pursuance of a Statute."

74. The Supreme Court in paragraph 55 and 56 of the judgement rendered in All India Ex-Servicemen Movement (supra), observed as follows: -

"In the decision of this Court in Nakara, the Constitution Bench was deciding on the issue of whether the date of retirement would be a relevant consideration for determining the application of a revised formula for computation of pension. The liberalised pension scheme was made applicable prospectively to those employees who retired on or after 31 March 1979 in the case of Government Servants covered by the 1972 Rules and in respect of defence personnel, those who became non-effective on or after 1 April 1979. Consequently, those who retired prior to the date were not entitled to the benefit of liberalised pension scheme. It was held that payment of pension constitutes a compensation for the service rendered in the past and as a measure of social welfare for providing social economic justice to those who have rendered service to the state. The court noted that earlier, the measure of pension was related to the average emoluments during a period of 36 months prior to retirement. By the liberalised scheme, the period was reduced to an average of 10 months preceding the date of retirement, coupled with the above aspects, a slab system for computation was introduced and the ceiling was raised. This Court held that there was no justification for arbitrarily selecting the criteria for eligibility for grant of benefits under the scheme based on the date of retirement. Hence, this court held that all pensioners formed a homogeneous class and where an existing scheme of pension was liberalised, a distinction could not be made on the basis of a specified cut-off date."

"56. At the same time, it must also be noted that the decision in Nakara noted that "the financial implication in such matters has some relevance". This Court struck down the portion of the memoranda by which the benefit of the liberalised pension scheme was only confined to persons retiring on or after the specified date which resulted in the benefit being extended to all retirees, irrespective of the date of retirement.

75. The Supreme Court in One Rank One Pension case however emphasized the observations made by it in Indian Ex Services League (supra) by making the following observations in paragraph 61 of the Report:-

"61. In Indian Ex Services League (supra), it was contended that in view of the decision in Nakara, all retirees who held the same rank irrespective of the date of retirement must receive the same amount of pension. This Court observed that there was nothing in Nakara that backed the claim of the appellants that the same Pension must be given to all retirees of the same rank. The Court observed that it was held in Nakara that only the same formula for the calculation of pension was to be used and over which the emoluments of the retirees revised.

76. It was observed that the effect of the judgement in the Nakara was that the same computation according to liberalised formula must be applicable to pre and post 1st April 1979 retirees, and that the decision cannot be construed to mean that the same amount of pension must be receivable. The Supreme Court in the case of One Rank One Pension also went on to quote the judgement rendered by it in K.L. Rathee versus Union of India, 1997 (6) SCC 7, where the decision in Nakara was explained in paragraph 6 and 7. In paragraph 7 in K L Rathee, the Supreme Court observed as follows: -

"7. It is to be seen that the judgement did not strike down the definition of emoluments. It merely held that if pension was to be calculated on the basis of last 10 months emoluments of a government servant, after 1 April 1979, there is no reason why those who retired before 1 April 1979 should get pension calculated on the basis of average of last 36 months emoluments. In other words, the rule of computation must be the same. The Court did not hold that those who have retired before 1 April 1979 must be treated as having the same emoluments as those who retired on or after 1 April 1979 for the purpose of calculation of pension. Therefore, on the strength of Nakara case, the petitioner is not entitled to ask for computation of pension with reference to the emoluments which he never got - -."

(emphasis supplied)

77. In K.L. Rathee and also in the One Rank One Pension case, the Supreme Court clarified that while rule of computation of pension must be the same i.e. average of last ten months emoluments irrespective of date of retirement, but the amount of pension of the retirees of the same rank cannot be the same irrespective of the date of retirement i.e. those who were actually drawing larger emoluments in the last ten months of their service, or at the time of their retirement their last basic pay was more, will get larger amount of pension.

78. In B.J. Akkara Versus Union of India (2006) 11 SCC 709, the Supreme Court summarized the principles relating to pension. It was observed in paragraph 20 as follows:-

"20. The principles relating to pension relevant to the issue are well-settled. They are:-

(A) in regard to pensioners forming a class, computation of pension cannot be by a different formula thereby applying an unequal treatment solely on the ground that some retired earlier and some retired later. If the retiree is eligible for pension at the time of his retirement and the relevant pension scheme is subsequently amended, he would become eligible to get enhanced pension as per the new formula of computation of pension from the date when the amendment takes effect. In such a situation, the additional benefit under the Government Order, made available to the same class of pensioners cannot be denied to him on the ground that he had retired prior to the date on which day aforesaid additional benefit was conferred.

(B) But all retirees retiring with a particular rank do not form a single class for all purposes. Where the reckonable emoluments as on the date of retirement (for the purpose of computation of pension), are different in respect of two groups of Pensioners, who retired with the same rank, the group getting lesser pension cannot contend that the pension should be identical with or equal to the pension received by the group whose reckonable emolument was higher. In other words, pensioners who retire with the same rank need not be given identical pension, where the average reckonable emoluments at the time of their retirement were different, in view of the difference in pay, or in view of different pay scales being in force.

One set cannot claim the benefit extended to the other set on the ground that they are similarly situated. Though they retired with the same rank, they are not of the same class or homogeneous group. The employer can validly fix a cut-off date for introducing any new pension/retirement scheme for discontinuance of any existing scheme. What is discriminatory is introduction of a benefit retrospectively (or prospectively) fixing a cut-off date arbitrarily thereby dividing a single homogenous class of pensioners into two groups and subjecting them to different treatment"

79. Having considered the record produced before the Court relating to the decision making and also relevant and binding precedents as above; this Court is of the considered opinion that the formula and procedure for computation of pension as given in the Government Orders dated 18.07.2017 modifying the earlier decision for Government employees who retired before 01.01.2006 shall be applicable to the petitioners as well as the Concordance Tables issued from time to time for determination of their pension/ family pension including the ones appended to the Government Order dated 04.09.2017. The Government Order dated 01.05.2018 also shall apply to the petitioners in view of the judgment of this Court in Shakuntala Singh.

With regard to retrospective operation of revised pension with effect from 01.01.2016 and arrears to be paid, this Court has found nothing on record to show that question of payment of arrears with effect from 01.01.2016 to 24.02.2021 was deliberated upon seriously. It is evident from the fact that information in prepared formats continued to be collected by the Administrative Department even after issuance of the impugned office memo. It is therefore directed that the Respondent No.1 shall collect all necessary information and also determine the availability of finances and issue appropriate orders within a period of three months from the date a copy of this order is produced before it, taking into account also the observations made by this Court hereinabove.

Consequently, the writ petitions stand party allowed with respect to the relief claimed regarding method of computation of pension/ family pension. With regard to denial of arrears, the matter is remitted to the Respondent no.1 to take an appropriate decision as aforesaid.

The relief claimed in Writ-A No.11020 of 2021: Ratan Kumar Nigam Vs. State of U.P. & Another, cannot be granted at this stage as the State Government has not yet decided the issue of applicability of entire recommendations of the Seventh Pay Commission to employees of Development Authorities.

1. This is an application seeking condonation of delay in filing the appeal which was filed in the year 2004.

2. There is huge delay of 2 years and 93 days. The matter has remained pending before this Court for 19 years without steps being taken. Today also, none is present for the appellants.

3. Reasons for the delay as explained in the affidavit attached to this application reads as under :

"2. That the impugned judgment was passed on 8.11.2001 and decree was passed on 24.11.2001, but the Certified Copy of the Order was applied on 17.3.2004 and received on the same date, and Certified Copy of the Decree was also applied on 17.3.2004 and received on the same day.

3. That the appellants were not a party in the case. Pooran Singh Bundela was a party and proceedings was in the in the knowledge of the appellants.

4. That when the Collection Officials were directed to recover the amount from the appellants, then the appellants came to know about the proceedings.

5. That after obtaining the Certified Copy of the Judgment and Decree, the appellants fell ill and they could not direct the deponent to contact the counsel for filing of the aforesaid case before this Hon'ble Court. The date of knowledge of the proceedings of the appellants is 17.3.2004, when they obtained the copy of the judgment and decree of the Courts below"

3. The above reasons will have to be looked into the with the principle enunciated by the Courts from time to time for condonation of delay. The expression "sufficient cause" in Section 5 of Act, 1963 has been held to receive a liberal construction so as to advance substantial justice and generally a delay in preferring appeal may be condoned in interest of justice where no gross negligence or deliberate inaction or lack of bona fide is imputable to parties, seeking condonation of delay. In Collector, Land Acquisition Vs. Katiji, 1987(2) SCC 107, the Court said, that, when substantial justice and technical considerations are taken against each other, cause of substantial justice deserves to be preferred, for, the other side cannot claim to have vested right in injustice being done because of a non deliberate delay. The Court further said that judiciary is respected not on account of its power to legalise injustice on technical grounds but because it is capable of removing injustice and is expected to do so.

4. In P.K. Ramachandran Vs. State of Kerala, AIR 1998 SC 2276 the Court said:

"Law of limitation may harshly affect a particular party but it has to be applied with all its rigour when the statute so prescribe and the Courts have no power to extend the period of limitation on equitable grounds."

5. The Rules of limitation are not meant to destroy rights of parties. They virtually take away the remedy. They are meant with the objective that parties should not resort to dilatory tactics and sleep over their rights. They must seek remedy promptly. The object of providing a legal remedy is to repair the damage caused by reason of legal injury. The statute relating to limitation determines a life span for such legal remedy for redress of the legal injury, one has suffered. Time is precious and the wasted time would never revisit. During efflux of time, newer causes would come up, necessitating newer persons to seek legal remedy by approaching the courts. So a life span must be fixed for each remedy. Unending period for launching the remedy may lead to unending uncertainty and consequential anarchy. The statute providing limitation is founded on public policy. It is enshrined in the maxim Interpublicae up sit finis litium (it is for the general welfare that a period be put to litigation). It is for this reason that when an action becomes barred by time, the Court should be slow to ignore delay for the reason that once limitation expires, other party matures his rights on the subject with attainment of finality. Though it cannot be doubted that refusal to condone delay would result in foreclosing the person who initiate suit from putting forth his cause but simultaneously the party on the other hand is also entitled to sit and feel carefree after a particular length of time, getting relieved from persistent and continued litigation.

6. There is no presumption that delay in approaching the court is always deliberate. No person gains from deliberate delaying a matter by not resorting to take appropriate legal remedy within time but then the words "sufficient cause" show that delay, if any, occurred, should not be deliberate, negligent and due to casual approach of concerned litigant, but, it should be bona fide, and, for the reasons beyond his control, and, in any case should not lack bona fide. If the explanation does not smack of lack of bona fide, the Court should show due consideration to the suiter, but, when there is apparent casual approach on the part of suiter, the approach of Court is also bound to change. Lapse on the part of litigant in approaching Court within time is understandable but a total inaction for long period of delay without any explanation whatsoever and that too in absence of showing any sincere attempt on the part of suiter, would add to his negligence, and would be relevant factor going against him.

7. We need not to burden this judgment with a catena of decisions explaining and laying down as to what should be the approach of Court on construing "sufficient cause" under Section 5 of Act, 1963 and it would be suffice to refer a very few of them besides those already referred.

8. In Shakuntala Devi Jain Vs. Kuntal Kumari, AIR 1969 SC 575 a three Judge Bench of the Court said, that, unless want of bona fide of such inaction or negligence as would deprive a party of the protection of Section 5 is proved, the application must not be thrown out or any delay cannot be refused to be condoned.

9. The Privy Council in Brij Indar Singh Vs. Kanshi Ram ILR (1918) 45 Cal 94 observed that true guide for a court to exercise the discretion under Section 5 is whether the appellant acted with reasonable diligence in prosecuting the appeal. This principle still holds good inasmuch as the aforesaid decision of Privy Council as repeatedly been referred to, and, recently in State of Nagaland Vs. Lipok AO and others, AIR 2005 SC 2191.

10. In Vedabai @ Vaijayanatabai Baburao Vs. Shantaram Baburao Patil and others, JT 2001(5) SC 608 the Court said that under Section 5 of Act, 1963 it should adopt a pragmatic approach. A distinction must be made between a case where the delay is inordinate and a case where the delay is of a few days. In the former case consideration of prejudice to the other side will be a relevant factor so the case calls for a more cautious approach but in the latter case no such consideration may arise and such a case deserves a liberal approach. No hard and fast rule can be laid down in this regard and the basic guiding factor is advancement of substantial justice.

11. In Pundlik Jalam Patil (dead) by LRS. Vs. Executive Engineer, Jalgaon Medium Project and Anr. (2008) 17 SCC 448, in para 17 of the judgment, the Court said :

"...The evidence on record suggests neglect of its own right for long time in preferring appeals. The court cannot enquire into belated and state claims on the ground of equity. Delay defeats equity. The court helps those who are vigilant and "do not slumber over their rights."

12. In Maniben Devraj Shah Vs. Municipal Corporation of Brihan Mumbai, 2012 (5) SCC 157, in para 18 of the judgment, the Court said as under:

"What needs to be emphasised is that even though a liberal and justice oriented approach is required to be adopted in the exercise of power under Section 5 of the Limitation Act and other similar statutes, the Courts can neither become oblivious of the fact that the successful litigant has acquired certain rights on the basis of the judgment under challenge and a lot of time is consumed at various stages of litigation apart from the cost. What colour the expression 'sufficient cause' would get in the factual matrix of a given case would largely depend on bona fide nature of the explanation. If the Court finds that there has been no negligence on the part of the applicant and the cause shown for the delay does not lack bona fides, then it may condone the delay. If, on the other hand, the explanation given by the applicant is found to be concocted or he is thoroughly negligent in prosecuting his cause, then it would be a legitimate exercise of discretion not to condone the delay. In cases involving the State and its agencies/instrumentalities, the Court can take note of the fact that sufficient time is taken in the decision making process but no premium can be given for total lethargy or utter negligence on the part of the officers of the State and / or its agencies/instrumentalities and the applications filed by them for condonation of delay cannot be allowed as a matter of course by accepting the plea that dismissal of the matter on the ground of bar of limitation will cause injury to the public interest."

13. In our view, the kind of explanation rendered herein does not satisfy the observations of Apex Court that if delay has occurred for reasons which does not smack of mala fide, the Court should be reluctant to refuse condonation. On the contrary, we find that here is a case which shows a complete careless and reckless long delay on the part of applicant which has remain virtually unexplained at all. Therefore, we do not find any reason to exercise our judicial discretion exercising judiciously so as to justify condonation of delay in the present case.

14. In view of the above, this application requires to be rejected hence, the same is rejected.

Order on Appeal

Since application seeking condonation of delay in filing this appeal has been dismissed vide order of date, the appeal being barred by limitation, is accordingly dismissed.

Civil Law-The Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act-1950-Sections 122-C (3) & (6)- No proposal of the Gram Sabha / Land Management Committee to allot the land to the petitioner as no such document is available on record. As per the material available on record no list has been filed to convince the Court that a preferential list in terms of section 122C-(3) of U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act has been prepared- The power to pass any order u/s 122-C(6) vests with the Collector- The impugned order has been passed by the Additional District Magistrate / Additional Collector having power u/s 122-C(6) after hearing all the parties including petitioner. (E-15)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri M.M. Haq, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri A.S. Tiwari, learned Addl. C.S.C. for the State respondents and Sri Mohd. Kumail Haider and Iqbal Ahmad, learned counsel for the respondent no. 5.

2. By means of this petition the petitioner has assailed the order dated 29.12.2000 passed by the Additional District Magistrate / Additional District Collector, Balrampur in Case No. 7/11/19/49/31 filed u/s 122C(6) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 thereby in a suit filed by the private opposite party the authority has cancelled the patta being granted in favour of the petitioner u/s 122C. The petitioner has also assailed the order dated 23.1.2001 passed by the Additional Commissioner, Administration, Devi Patan Mandal, Gonda in a revision whereby the revisional authority has rejected the revision holding that any order being passed u/s 122C(6) of U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act is a final order, therefore, no revision would be maintainable.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner has stated that initially one suit u/s 122 C(6) of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act bearing Suit No. 195 : State vs. Naim, has been filed before the Chief Revenue Officer, Gonda and Chief Revenue Officer, Gonda vide order dated 5.2.1996 cancelled the lease given to the petitioner for the reason that the lease given to the petitioner on Gata no. 396 is a land recorded in the revenue record as a 'Sadak Khas'. He has further stated in his order that the lease granted by the Sub-Divisional Officer concerned is per se illegal as no lease can be granted on the public utility land and the preferential list has not been prepared.

4. The aforesaid order has been assailed by the petitioner by filing revision before the Commissioner and that revision of the petitioner was allowed vide order dated 13.1.1998 by the Additional Commissioner, Administration, Faizabad Mandal, Faizabad setting aside the order dated 5.2.1996 passed by the Chief Revenue Officer. In the aforesaid order the revisional authority has categorically indicated that any order u/s 122C(6) can be passed by the Collector after following the due procedure of law, therefore, the order passed by the Chief Revenue Officer is without jurisdiction order.

5. Thereafter the private opposite party being aggrieved for the fact that on account of lease given to the petitioner on Gata no. 396 which is a public utility land his right to utilize such land being a tenure holder of the adjacent gata number has filed a case before the Additional District Magistrate / Additional Collector, Balrampur. In the aforesaid case the notices were issued to the petitioner and petitioner participated in the proceedings. The Addl. District Magistrate / Assistant Collector, Balrampur has allowed the case of the private opposite party vide order dated 29.12.2000 cancelling the order dated 8.2.1991 passed by the Sub-Divisional Officer, Uttraula granting lease to the petitioner and directed that the documents be corrected accordingly. The petitioner assailed the aforesaid order dated 29.12.2000 filing the revision before the Additional Commissioner and the said revision was dismissed vide order date 23.1.2001 being not maintainable but the learned counsel for the petitioner has stated that when the issue in question has already been adjudicated, the same issue should have not been adjudicated under some provision of law. He has further submitted that when a lease was given to the petitioner by the S.D.O. concerned, the said lease may not be cancelled by the Additional District Magistrate / Assistant Collector invoking powers of section 122C(6) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.A. Act.

6. Therefore, the impugned order dated 29.12.2000 is liable to be set aside and the revisional order is liable to be set aside inasmuch as if any order u/s 122C(6) has been passed without jurisdiction, the same may be decided under the revisional authority.

7. Learned Addl. C.S.C. as well as learned counsel for the private opposite party have opposed the aforesaid submission of learned counsel for the petitioner. They have submitted that while setting aside the order dated 5.2.1996 passed by the Chief Revenue Officer the revisional court vide order dated 13.1.1998 has itself observed that the power u/s 122C(6) can be invoked only by the Collector and in the present case the impugned order dated 29.10.2000 has been passed by the Addl. District Magistrate / Additional Collector, Balrampur, therefore, the order dated 29.12.2000 has been passed strictly in accordance with law. Further attention has been drawn towards section 122C(7) which provides that every order passed by the Assistant Collector under sub-section 4 shall subject to the provisions of section 122-C(6) and every order passed by the Collector under sub-section 6 shall be final and provision of section 333A shall not apply in relation thereto. Therefore, the order passed by the revisional authority dated 23.1.2000 is patently legal and justifiable.

8. Learned counsel for the opposite party have also stated that in the present case the petitioner was given lease on 8.2.1991 without having any proposal of the Land Management Committee and no preferential list was prepared in terms of section 122-C(3) of U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. They have also stated that the relevant fact has not been considered that the petitioner was himself having his own house in the village in question, therefore, he should have not been given lease for housing purposes. Further, when the impugned order dated 29.12.2000 was passed, there was no house or constructed area on the gata in question, however, the petitioner has constructed one house on the area after 29.12.2000 which is also illegal and unwarranted .

9. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the material available on record, I would like to refer the order dated 24.4.2023 passed by this Court wherein the learned Standing Counsel was directed to seek instructions about the current status of the area in question. In compliance of the aforesaid order Sri A.S. Tiwari, learned Addl. C.S.C. has produced the copy of instruction letter dated 2.5.2023, same is taken on record.

10. As per aforesaid letter dated 24.4.2023 the Tehsildar, Uttraula conducted the fresh spot inspection in respect of the Gata no. 396/0.053 Hect. The aforesaid gata number is still recorded as 'Sadak Khas' in the revenue records. Presently, the petitioner has constructed one pakka room encroaching 0.008 Hect. land of the aforesaid gata number, however, that pakka room is vacant as none is residing in such pakka room for the reason that the petitioner is having his own pakka house in the village in question where he lives with his entire family. Further, remaining part of Gata no. 396 there is a vacant pathway as the same is being utilized by the villagers. Naxa najri to this effect has been enclosed with the instructions which also indicates the same fact. So as to show the nature of the land the copy of khatauni and khasra has been filed with the instructions.

11. Therefore, from the aforesaid instructions it is clear that the petitioner has constructed one pakka room over the gata in question after 29.12.2000 when the impugned order has been passed wherein it has been categorically indicated that there was no construction over the gata in question and that fact has not been disputed by the petitioner before the revenue authorities. Notably, there was no proposal of the Gram Sabha / Land Management Committee to allot the land to the petitioner as no such document is available on record. As per the material available on record no list has been filed to convince the Court that a preferential list in terms of section 122C(3) of U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act has been prepared. The impugned order dated 29.12.2000 provides that the petitioner is having his own residential house in the village and that fact has again been indicated by the S.D.O., Uttraula, Balrampur in its comments to show that the petitioner is living in his own house along with his family and no one is living in pakka room constructed over Gata no. 396 on 0.008 Hect. The earlier order dated 5.2.1996 was passed by Chief Revenue Officer and that order may not be treated as order being passed u/s 122-C(6) inasmuch as the power to pass any order u/s 122-C(6) vests with the Collector, therefore, earlier revisional authority has rightly indicated this fact while setting aside the order dated 5.2.1996 passed by the Chief Revenue Officer. However, the impugned order dated 29.12.2000 has been passed by the Additional District Magistrate / Additional Collector having power u/s 122-C(6) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. The impugned order dated 29.12.2000 is not an ex-parte order rather it has been passed after hearing all the parties including the petitioner and perused the material available on record. The revisional authority has rightly rejected the revision of the petitioner vide order dated 23.1.2001 inasmuch as in view of 122-C(7) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act the order have been passed by the Collector u/s 122-C(6) shall be final.

12. Therefore, in view of the above, I do not find any infirmity or illegality in the impugned orders dated 29.12.2000 passed by the Additional District Magistrate / Additional District Collector, Balrampur in Case No. 7/11/19/49/31 filed u/s 122C(6) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 and order dated 23.1.2001 passed by the Additional Commissioner, Administration, Devi Patan Mandal, Gonda

13. Accordingly, the writ petition is dismissed.

14. Consequences to follow.

Writ petition allowed. (E-15)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Bindal, C.J.

Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition is directed against an order of the Special Land Acquisition Officer (Sanyukt Sangathan), Aligarh dated 30.04.2022 rejecting the petitioner's application under Section 28A of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (for short, 'the Act') as time barred.

2. Heard Mr. K.S. Shukla, learned counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Rajeev Singh, learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of Respondent Nos. 1 and 2 and Ms. Archi Agarwal, learned counsel appearing on behalf of Respondent No. 3.

3. The petitioner, Kunwar Pal made an application to the Collector-cum-Land Acquisition Officer, Aligarh dated 29.01.2001 saying that his land comprising Khasra No. 7/0-2-0, Khasra No. 10/0-4-0, Khasra No. 27(m)/0-10-0 and Khasra No. 414 (m)/1-14-0 admeasuring a total of 2 Bigha 2 Biswa situate at village Talaspur Kalan, Post Quarsi, Pargana & Tehsil Koil, District Aligarh was acquired by the State for the purpose of Planned Industrial Development by the Uttar Pradesh State Industrial Department Corporation, Kanpur. It was the petitioner's case that in LAR No. 70 of 1993, Mahendra Singh and others vs. State of U.P. and others, the XIth Additional District Judge, Aligarh while deciding the reference under Section 18 of the Act relating to the same notification 4(1) through which the petitioner's lands were acquired vide his judgment and award dated 25.10.2000 enhanced the compensation to Rs. 50 per square yard together with a proportionate increase in the other statutory entitlements. The petitioner claims that he was entitled to redetermination of the compensation payable to him as originally awarded, in accordance with the award made by the Court as aforesaid.

4. The Special Land Acquisition Officer noticed that the petitioner had made his application under Section 28A of the Act on the basis of the judgment and award of the Court dated 25.10.2000, on 29.01.2001. The Land Acquisition Officer held that upon an examination of the certified copy of the Court's award, on the foot of which the application under Section 28A(1) of the Act was moved, it is evident that the application has been made beyond the period of three months from the date of the award, contrary to what is envisaged under Section 28A of the Act. In the opinion of the Special Land Acquisition Officer, the application under Section 28A of the Act, was time barred. It is on the aforesaid reasoning that the impugned order has been passed rejecting the application under Section 28A as barred by time.

5. Mr. Shukla, learned counsel for the appellant has taken us through the application under Section 28A, in particular, the averments in paragraph no. 6 thereof and also through a photostat of the certified copy of the judgment and award passed by the XIth Additional District Judge, Aligarh in LAR No. 70 of 1993 that was filed before the Special Land Acquisition Officer in support of the application under Section 28A of the Act. From a perusal of the folio, that is part of photostat of the certified copy at page no. 21 of the paper book, we find that an application for the certified copy of the Reference Court's order was made on 20.12.2000, and, it was ready on 25.01.2001. Delivery of the copy was taken on 25.01.2001. In the circumstances, the time spent in preparation of the certified copy of the Reference Court's award, that is the basis of the invocation of jurisdiction under Section 28A of the Act, has to be excluded from the period of limitation. This is precisely what is stated in paragraph no. 6 of the application under Section 28A of the Act. The proviso to Section 28A(1) aforesaid mandates exclusion from the period of three months limitation, for the purpose of making an application to the Collector, the day on which the Reference Court makes the award and the time spent in obtaining a certified copy thereof. The time spent in obtaining the certified copy of the Reference Court's award between 20.12.2000 and 25.01.2001 is 36 days which have to be added to the available period of limitation of three months, reckoned from the date of award passed by the Court. If those 36 days are added, the application dated 27.01.2001, based on the award dated 25.10.2000, would be well within the period of three months prescribed under Section 28A(1) of the Act. Clearly, the petitioner is entitled to the exclusion of 36 days spent in obtaining a certified copy of the award on the basis of which he had moved the Special Land Acquisition Officer under Section 28A of the Act. Thus, the order of the Special Land Acquisition Officer, holding the proceedings under Section 28A of the Act to be barred by time, is manifestly illegal.

6. There is an added remark in the impugned order that Gata No. 414 has not at all been acquired. That is a matter of evidence. The impugned order has thrown out the application under Section 28A of the Act at the threshold, without affording the petitioner any opportunity to produce evidence. Once the proceedings under Section 28A of the Act are restored to file of the Special Land Acquisition Officer under our orders made hereby, the Special Land Acquisition Officer will afford opportunity to the petitioner to produce evidence in support of his case. The Special Land Acquisition Officer may thereupon decide the issue.

7 In the circumstances, this petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 30.04.2022 passed by the Special Land Acquisition Officer (Sanyukt Sangathan), Aligarh, Annexure 4 to the writ petition, is hereby quashed. The application under Section 28A of the Act is restored to file of the Special Land Acquisition Officer (Sanyukt Sangathan), Aligarh to be heard and determined in accordance with law after affording the parties due opportunity.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

This is a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India preferred by Smt. Jeera Devi and Ghanshyam Patel, third parties to Original Suit No. 154 of 1999, Munnar Devi v. Smt. Amrawati Devi, who have been denied leave to continue the suit on the basis of assignment pendente lite and further, are faced with an order permitting withdrawal of the suit by the plaintiff. This order turning tables for the petitioners has been passed in an appeal by the Additional District Judge, Court No. 12, Varanasi, reversing the Trial Court, which had granted leave to the petitioners to continue the suit and declined permission to the plaintiff to withdraw it.

2. The facts giving rise to this petition, in necessary detail, are these :

Plot No. 40 admeasuring 0.243 hectare and Plot No. 156 admeasuring 0.72 decimal, situate in Village Mauza Saraimugal, Pargana Athagaon, Tehsil Pindra, District Varanasi was recorded in the name of one Smt. Munnar Devi. She was a co-sharer in the two plots to the extent of a half share along with her co-tenure holder, Smt. Ramdei Devi, wife of Ramdas. One Smt. Amrawati Devi, wife of Late Panna Lal, claimed that Smt. Munnar Devi had executed a sale deed of her half share in the plots of land above mentioned on 09.10.1998. Smt. Amrawati Devi got her name recorded as a co-tenure holder along with Smt. Ramdei Devi, after mutating out the name of Smt. Munnar Devi in the revenue records on 11.08.1999. This was done on the basis of the sale deed dated 09.10.1998. On 08.02.1999, Smt. Munnar Devi brought a prompt action against Smt. Amrawati Devi, seeking a declaration that the sale deed dated 09.10.1998 was null and void, with a prayer that the declaration granted be communicated to the Sub-Registrar, where the deed had been registered for recording the declaration. A permanent injunction was also claimed against Smt. Amrawati Devi to the effect that the defendant be restrained from interfering with the plaintiff's title and possession in the suit property or otherwise creating an obstruction in any manner, and further not to destroy the standing crops in the suit property. The aforesaid suit brought by Smt. Munnar Devi against Smt. Amrawati Devi was numbered on the file of the Civil Judge (Junior Division) Haveli, Varanasi as Original Suit No. 154 of 1999. The short case of Smt. Munnar Devi in the suit was that the impugned conveyance dated 09.10.1998 was not her deed. It had been got executed by Smt. Amrawati Devi through the agency of an imposter, a woman, different from Smt. Munnar Devi. The sale deed was, therefore, impugned as a void document.

3. On 03.07.2000, a written statement was filed by Smt. Amrawati Devi, contesting the plaintiff's case. It would not be material, for the purpose of this petition, to enumerate what her defence was. Smt. Munnar Devi put in a replication on 29.08.2000. On 30.08.2000, the Trial Court struck issues, a total of seven. What the issues were is also not relevant for the purpose of this petition. The sole plaintiff, Smt. Munnar Devi, was examined as P.W.1. She testified in the dock on 11.02.2003 and 17.07.2003. Pending suit, Smt. Munнан Devi executed two sale deeds - one in favour of Smt. Jeera Devi, conveying her half share in Plot No. 156, that is to say, the area of 0.298 hectare out of the total of 0.596 hectare; and the other in favour of Ghanshyam Patel, conveying her half share in Plot No. 40 admeasuring 0.121 hectare out of the total of 0.243 hectare. Both these sale deeds were executed on 21.05.2011 and admitted to registration by the Sub-Registrar, Pindra, Varanasi on 23.05.2011. On the 9th of February, 2013, Smt. Munнан Devi passed away, while the suit was still pending.

4. On 15.04.2013, Smt. Phulpatti Devi, daughter of Smt. Munнан Devi, applied to be substituted in place of the sole plaintiff. The substitution application was granted by the Trial Court on 05.07.2013. Smt. Phulpatti Devi, the substituted plaintiff, seems to have prosecuted the suit for a period of approximately five years until 05.04.2018, when she made an application under Order XXIII Rule 1 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 seeking to unconditionally withdraw the suit. The aforesaid application is numbered on the record of the Trial Court as Paper No. 45π.

5. Close on heels of the sudden termination of action by Smt. Phulpatti Devi, Smt. Jeera Devi filed an application bearing Paper No. 48κ under Order XXII Rule 10 of the Code, seeking leave of the Court to continue the suit.

6. On 22.08.2018, Smt. Jeera Devi filed objections to the application dated 05.04.2018 made by Smt. Phulpatti Devi, seeking to withdraw the suit. On the 4th of July, 2018, Ghanshyam Patel made an application 54κ under Order XXII Rule 10 of the Code, seeking leave of the Court to continue the suit. On 13.07.2018, Smt. Jeera Devi and Ghanshyam Patel made an application, seeking recall of the order granting substitution in favour of Smt. Phulpatti Devi, but no orders were passed on the said application by the Trial Court. The Trial Court, by its order dated 04.09.2018, allowed the applications 48κ and 54κ made by Smt. Jeera Devi and Ghanshyam Patel, respectively, seeking leave to continue the suit and rejected the application 45π made by Smt. Phulpatti, praying for withdrawal of the suit.

7. Smt. Phulpatti Devi preferred Misc. Civil Appeal No. 143 of 2018 to the District Judge of Varanasi under Order XLIII Rule 1(l) of the Code, seeking reversal of the order dated 04.09.2018 passed by the Additional Civil Judge (Junior Division) Court No. 7, Varanasi. The appeal, upon assignment, came up for determination before the Additional District Judge, Court No. 12, Varanasi on 04.05.2019, who proceeded to allow the appeal, set aside the order dated 04.09.2018, rejected the two applications seeking leave to continue the suit and accepted Smt. Phulpatti Devi's application to withdraw.

8. Aggrieved by the order dated 04.05.2019, Smt. Jeera Devi and Ghanshyam Patel have instituted this petition under Article 227 of the Constitution.

9. Heard Mr. Atul Dayal, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Brij Raj, learned Counsel for the petitioners, Mr. Shambhu Nath, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent no. 3 and Mr. Triveni Shanker along with Mr. Awadhesh Kumar, learned Counsel appearing for respondent no. 4.

10. The question that falls for consideration in this case is : Whether the fact notwithstanding that a colluding plaintiff and a defendant may have contrived to defeat a third party's rights and the plaintiff, to effectuate that purpose, makes an application to unconditionally withdraw the suit under Order XXIII Rule 1 of the Code, can the third party in jeopardy be permitted to be substituted for the withdrawing plaintiff and granted leave to prosecute the suit; or in any event, impleaded as a plaintiff under Order I Rule 10 of the Code and permitted to pursue the suit?

11. Mr. Atul Dayal, learned Senior Advocate has argued that the right to withdraw is not absolute under Order XXIII Rule 1 of the Code and the withdrawal becomes effective once the Court passes an order. This is for the reason that the withdrawal is not without its entailed consequences, the most obvious being an order on the item of costs. He submits that till the Court makes that order, the Court cannot be said to have become functus officio and the suit struck off the file, merely because an unconditional withdrawal has been prayed by the plaintiff, lodging an application for that purpose.

12. The second limb of the submission is that if the Court can see that the application for unconditional withdrawal, assuming that it otherwise operates ipso facto as a withdrawal of the suit, is a device to defeat the interest of a third party, who has come forward either through an application seeking impleadment under Order I Rule 10 of the Code or an application under Order XXII Rule 10, seeking leave to pursue the suit, the Court ought not to permit the plaintiff to withdraw the suit. He submits that if in the face of a position like this, the plaintiff is permitted to withdraw the suit, bringing it to a terminus, two consequences would inevitably follow : the first is that the third party whose rights are at stake would fall into the peril of being defeated about those rights without a trial; and, the second, that the third party would be, per compulsion, driven to bring his own action, which would inevitably lead to multiplicity of proceedings.

13. Mr. Dayal, in support of his submissions, has placed reliance upon a decision of this Court in Meera Rai v. Additional Sessions Judge and others². Briefly put, in Meera Rai (supra), the facts were that the plaintiff brought a suit for a declaration that the suit property, a land measuring approximately 1800 square feet, was a common passage that was illegally sold by one Basant Kumar in favour of the defendants first set. The plaintiff asked for a permanent injunction against the first defendant, restraining her from raising any construction over the suit property. Defendant no. 1 to the suit contested it. Pending suit, the plaintiff made an application to withdraw the suit, saying therein that he had sold his house situate in Plot No. C9 to a third party, and that he did not require the suit property as two roads were there to access the house that he had sold. Above all, he was left with no right, title or interest in the suit property, because he had already sold it. Before an order could be passed on the withdrawal application, an application under Order XXII Rule 10 of the Code appears to have been filed by the purchasers to permit them to prosecute the suit, as rights to the suit property had been assigned to them. The said application was contested by defendant no. 1, who said that no right in the suit property came to the purchasers, who now claim through original plaintiff. The Trial Court allowed the application under Order XXII Rule 10 of the Code and dismissed the withdrawal application. A miscellaneous appeal from the said order was dismissed by the District Judge. Three of the many contentions that were urged before this Court in Meera Rai need to be noticed and that could be best done by quoting from the report, the way the contentions were urged :

4. Challenging the said order, the Misc. Appeal No. 37 of 2014 was filed which was dismissed on 9.12.2016 and hence this petition.

5. To challenge the order of substitution, learned Counsel for the petitioner vehemently urged :

(i) The application moved by the respondents 2 to 5 claiming interest in the suit property was in fact an amendment application filed under Order 6 Rule 17 C.P.C. as they had prayed to delete the name of the plaintiff and amend the array of parties. The said application was wrongly treated by the Courts below as substitution application under Order 22 Rule 10 C.P.C.

(ii) The filing of substitution application under Order 22 Rule 10 C.P.C. would require leave of the Court and for granting such leave, the Court has to apply its mind as to whether any right or interest had devolved upon the person seeking substitution. There is no prayer seeking leave in the application 27 Ga/1 moved by the transferees of the original plaintiff namely the applicants and as such the order of substitution cannot be sustained.

(iii) The trial Court had mechanically allowed the said application without giving any reasoning for the grant of leave. In absence of reasons, the order impugned cannot be sustained.

(iv) The withdrawal application moved by the plaintiff was prior to filing of the substitution application by the respondents 2 to 5. The effect of moving of the withdrawal application would be that the suit automatically stood withdrawn and in absence of any suit being pending as on the date of filing of the application, the application of respondent No. 2 to 5 could not be entertained. In other words, it is submitted that with the moving of the withdrawal application, withdrawal was automatic, no order was required to be passed on the said application. Reliance is placed upon the judgment of this Court in Ram Palat Chaturvedi (Deceased) By lrs v. Chandra Bali Shastri and another, (2008) 1 ARC 143.

(v) Further, in any case, in the event of assignment of any right or interest in the suit property, the assignees may be substituted but the name of the assignor would not be deleted from the array of parties. With reference to the amended plaint (appended with supplementary-affidavit) it is vehemently contended by learned Counsel for the petitioner that with the amendment of plaint i.e. deletion of the plaintiff, it would be a new suit. Any transfer by the plaintiff during the pendency of the suit though gives right to the assignor to pursue the suit under Order 22 Rule 10, with the leave of the Court, but the said suit cannot be pursued as a new suit. As no cause of action survives with the applicants/respondents they may be permitted to bring the fresh suit but they could not have been impleaded/substituted in the earlier suit more so when it already stood withdrawn.

(vi) The contention is that the plaintiff is dominus litus, it is his wish to continue his suit and the Court cannot compel him to pursue the suit that too when he moved a withdrawal

(vii) The Act of deletion of name of the original plaintiff itself establishes that it was an amendment application seeking amendment of plaint by the persons who claimed to have got right and interest in the suit property. Reliance is placed upon the judgment of Apex Court in Hafiz Mushtaq and others v. Mohammad Idris and others, 1965 All LJ 828.

(viii) The suit filed by the predecessor of defendant No. 2 (late Kedarnath Singh) filed against the Cooperative society namely Original Suit No. 978 of 1993 is pending consideration. No relief of cancellation of sale-deed dated 5.6.2012/6.6.2012 executed in favour of defendant No. 1 had been sought by the original plaintiff namely Hemant Kumar Agarwal. In view of the registered sale-deed being in existence, the applicants/subsequent purchasers cannot seek a relief of declaration and injunction.

(ix) Lastly, it is submitted that the right to sue cannot be transferred under Section 6(e) of The Transfer of Property Act. In the application for substitution/impleadment based on the sale-deed of the plaintiff the plea regarding transfer of alleged Rasta could not have been entertained as it would only be a transfer of right to sue for the said Rasta. Reliance is placed upon the judgment in the case of Ch. Sajjan Mal v. Bodh Raj Ramkishan Mal and others, AIR 1934 Pesawar 89. Moreover, no such right has been transferred in favour of the applicants by the Original Plaintiff. The alleged Rasta (subject-matter of instant suit) is not even shown in the sketch map which gives description of property and is part of the sale-deed of the applicants.

6. Learned Counsel for the respondents, on the other hand, submits that by the sale-deed dated 19.10.2013, all rights and interest in the suit property were devolved upon the applicants. Under Order 22 Rule 10 of the Code of Civil Procedure, they have a right to pursue the suit on the doctrine of lis pendens. Any denial thereof would render them non-suited. Moreover, by the instant suit, the plaintiff sought declaration of easementary rights i.e. the right to way to approach his house by a common road which has been obstructed by the defendant No. 1. Reliance is placed upon the judgment of Apex Court in Amit Kumar Shaw and another v. Farida Khaton and another, AIR 2005 SC 2209 and in Sharadamma v. Mohammed Pyrejan (Dead) through L.Rs. and another, 2015 (6) AWC 5721, to submit that the transferee pendente lite can be added as a proper party if his interest in the subject-matter of the suit is substantial and not just peripheral.

14. Repelling the contentions aforesaid urged on behalf of the defendant-petitioner, it was held :

14. The first argument of the learned Counsel for the petitioner that with the withdrawal of the present suit by application under Order 23 Rule 1 C.P.C. moved by the plaintiff, the assignees lost their right for substitution is found devoid of force in as much as no order was required to be passed on the withdrawal application. The decision of this Court in Ram Palat Chaudhary (supra) relied by the learned Counsel for the petitioner itself observes that though with the moving of withdrawal application on the part of the plaintiff, the withdrawal becomes effective but the order passed by the Court on the said application is to give effect to the consequences arising out of the withdrawal (reference has also been made to Sheikh Khalikuzzama (D) through L.R.s and others v. Sheikh Akhtaruzzaman (D) and others, 2004 (2) AWC 1636 and Smt. Raisa Sultana Begam and others v. Abdul Qadir and others, 1966 AIR (All) 318).

15. In case, the said argument of the learned Counsel for the petitioner is accepted it would result in multiplicity of litigation in as much as the applicants would be required to bring a fresh suit for declaration on the same cause of action put forth by the original plaintiff. This cannot be the intention of the provisions as contained in Order 23 Rule 1 C.P.C. Thus it is held that in order to give effect to the consequences of withdrawal, a specific order is to be passed by the Court concerned on the withdrawal application. Even otherwise, on the principle of doctrine of lis pendens and the provisions as contained in Order 22 Rule 10 C.P.C. the transferees could not be denied substitution. On this principle also it cannot be said that the trial Court had erred in dismissing the withdrawal application filed by the original plaintiff in view of pending substitution application of the subsequent transferees.

16. The said view taken by this Court is fortified from the decision of the Apex Court in Amit Kumar Shah (supra) wherein it has been held that the transferee though is not entitled, as of right, to be impleaded in the suit, however, the Court has a discretion to make him a party. The transferee pendente lite can be added as a proper party, if, his interest in the subject-matter of the suit is substantial and not just peripheral. Under Order 22 Rule 10 C.P.C. an assignee pendente lite may be joined as party with the transfer of interest in the immovable property. He is a representative of the transferor from whom he has acquired that interest.

17. Even otherwise there may be a situation where the plaintiff or the defendant, as the case may be, may collude with the other parties after transfer of his interest in the property, subject-matter of the pending suit. The object of Order 22 Rule 10 C.P.C. is to curb any such situation and further to avoid multiplicity of litigation.

18. It is, however, the discretion of the Court to allow substitution of an assignee of a party during the pendency of the suit. The words "by leave of the Court" used in Order 22 Rule 10 C.P.C. cannot be construed to mean that any specific order is required to be passed by the Court on a separate application seeking such leave. The order allowing substitution under Order 22 Rule 10 C.P.C. would itself mean that the Court thought it fit to grant leave to the assignees to pursue the suit. The argument of learned Counsel for the

15. To the understanding of this Court, it is one thing to hold that in order to curb multiplicity of litigation or mischief by parties to a subsisting litigation through fraud or collusion between them, affecting rights of third parties, the Court may, in its discretion, grant leave to permit an assignee from one of the parties pendente lite to pursue or defend the suit, or otherwise to implead such assignee of a plaintiff to the action or may be a defendant, depending on the orientation of his rights, but quite another to say that a suit is not withdrawn by the mere making of the application under Order XIII Rule 1 of the Code, if the case be of collusion affecting rights of third parties etc., and still the Court would retain jurisdiction to substitute under Order XXII Rule 10 or implead under Order I Rule 10 of the Code an affected third party. There appears to be little quarrel about the proposition that to a pending suit, substitution in favour of an assignee pendente lite ought to be granted with leave to pursue the suit under Order XXII Rule 10 of the Code in order to substantially protect the rights of the party in favour of whom the interest from the original plaintiffs stands assigned, or may be, devolved. However, the difficulty arises when the original plaintiff has made an application, first in point of time, to withdraw the suit before the assignee comes and makes his application seeking substitution and/or impleadment under Order XXII Rule 10 or under Order I Rule 10 of the Code. The answer to the said issue rests, in turn, upon answer to the question whether the mere making of an application under Order XXIII Rule 1 of the Code results in withdrawal of the suit ipso facto or the making of an affirmative order by the Court granting that application is necessary.

16. This question has engaged the attention of Courts for a long time in this country and in the past, there has been considerable divergence of opinion amongst the High Courts. The controversy appears to have rested for a while with the decision of a Division Bench of this Court rendered in Smt. Raisa Sultana Begam and others v. Abdul Qadir and others³. In Raisa Sultana Begam (supra) Desai, C.J., speaking for their Lordships of the Division Bench, after noticing the various divergent authorities, held :

8. Since withdrawing a suit is a unilateral act to be done by the plaintiff, requires no per mission or order of the Court and is not subject to any condition, it becomes effective as soon as it is done just as a compromise does. Any information of it given to the Court is no part of it, so also any order passed by the Court on receiving the information. The act is like a point and not continuous like a line having a beginning and an end. Either it is done or not done; there is nothing like its being done incompletely or ineffectively. The consequence of an act of withdrawal is that the plaintiff ceases to be a plaintiff before the Court. If he is the only plaintiff and withdraws the whole of the suit, the suit comes to an end and nothing remains pending before the Court; if he is only one of several plaintiffs, he ceases to be a party and the suit of only the other plaintiffs continues. If he withdraws only a part of the suit that part goes out of jurisdiction of the Court and it is left with only the other part. This is the natural consequence of the act; a further consequence imposed by sub-r. (3) is that he cannot institute any fresh suit in respect of the subject-matter. He becomes subject to this bar as soon as he withdraws the suit. It follows as a corollary that he cannot revoke or withdraw the act of withdrawal, If he is absolutely barred from instituting a fresh suit, it means that he is absolutely barred from reviving his status as a plaintiff before the Court. The bar on his instituting a fresh suit would be meaningless if he were permitted to revoke the withdrawal and get himself restored to the status of a plaintiff in respect of the withdrawn suit. There is no provision allowing revocation of the withdrawal. We respectfully agree with Horwill, J. in Rajagopala Rao v. Bhanoji Rao, AIR 1940 Mad 765, where he observed at p. 766 :-

"O. 23. . . .does not make any provision for withdrawing a withdrawal; and so it would seem that there is no provision in the Code whereby the withdrawal of a suit . . .can be cancelled. The only thing that can now be done for the plaintiff is to grant her permission to file a fresh suit."

It stands to reason that when on withdrawal the plaintiff ceased to be a party and the Court ceased to have jurisdiction over his suit and thus became functus officio nothing but a fresh suit can again invest the Court with jurisdiction over it. As far as the withdrawn suit is concerned the suit is at an end and no further proceeding can be taken in it; the suit and the plaintiff do not exist and no application such as one for revoking the withdrawal can be made in the suit or by the plaintiff or entertained. So long as the suit was pending the plaintiff had a status and could exercise the right of withdrawing the suit which vests in a plaintiff; after he ceased to be the plaintiff on withdrawal he is left with no status and cannot make any application or cannot do any act as a plaintiff. We are supported in this view by the decision of Ross and Pearson, JJ., in Rajah Shamsheer Bahadoor v. Mahomed Ali Beg, (1867) 2 Agra HCR 158.

9. In Ram Bharos Lall v. Gopee Beebee (1874) 6 NWP 66, it was held by another Bench of this Court, of which Pearson, it was a member, that a plaintiff who has withdrawn his suit is at liberty to rescind the act of withdrawal at any time before the final judgment because :-

"It is difficult to understand why a plaintiff should have liberty to withdraw from a suit and not have equal liberty to rescind the act of withdrawal at any time before final judgment".

We may with respect point out the reason and it is that the right of a plaintiff to withdraw his suit is not a divine right but a right expressly conferred upon him by O. 23, R. 1 and no right

All322 is similarly conferred upon him to revoke or rescind the withdrawal. So long as he remains the plaintiff he may do any act which he may do in that capacity; he cannot, after withdrawal of the suit resulting in the loss of the capacity, do an act which can be done only in that capacity. The learned Judges distinguished Rajah Shumsheer Bahadoor, (1867) 2 Agra HCR 158 (supra) on the ground that in that case there was a long interval of time between the withdrawal and the revocation of withdrawal whereas in this case there was an interval of only one day. With great respect, we find it difficult to understand that whether withdrawal can be revoked or not depends upon the delay with which it is revoked. The question is of a right and not of delay with which it is sought to be exercised. In Raj Kumari Devi v. Nirtya Kali Debi, (1910) 7 Ind Cas 892 (Cal), it was held at p. 893 that "it was competent to the plaintiff to recall her petition of withdrawal at any time before the final order had been passed."

The learned Judges relied upon the case of (1874) 6 NWP 66, and distinguished the case of Shumsheer Bahadoor (1867) 2 Agra HCR 158. It has not been pointed out by them why an order of the Court is required in order to complete or effectuate the withdrawal and have not dated any authority for imposing this condition. We have pointed out that on withdrawal certain orders may be passed by the Court but they are not for giving effect to the withdrawal, but to give effect to consequences arising out of the withdrawal. O. 23, R. 1 does not require any order; there can be no question of an order if no application is to be made by the plaintiff. We, therefore, respectfully disagree with the view of the Calcutta High Court. In Mukkammal v. Kalimuthu Pillay, 15 Ind Cas 852 (Mad), Sundara Aiyar, J. was of the view that the plaintiff has a right to revoke the act of withdrawal, while Sadasiva Aiyar, J. was inclined to the view that neither can he revoke his withdrawal application except on good grounds nor can he be allowed to play fast and loose with the litigation launched by him at his sweet will and pleasure. Sundara Aiyar, J. referred to the absence of any provision in the Code giving a light to a defendant to insist that a petition of withdrawal not acted upon by the Court must be enforced as against the plaintiff and thought that a mere petition of withdrawal does not debar the plaintiff from proceeding with the suit unless, in the meanwhile, the suit has been dismissed by the Court. We respectfully disagree as no order of the Court is required when a plaintiff withdraws a suit and there is no justification for saying that the act of withdrawal is not complete so long as the Court does not dismiss the suit. The bar imposed by sub-r. (3) operates on withdrawal and not on any order by the Court dismissing the suit and must be deemed to include the prevention of revival of the suit.

In Lakshmana Pillai v. Appalwar Alwar Ayyangar, AIR 1923 Mad 246, it was assumed by Oldfield, J. that an application for withdrawing a suit is conditional on the passing of an order regarding costs. But it seems to us, with respect to the learned Judge, that there is a distinction between withdrawal by a plaintiff of the suit and his liability to be awarded the costs of the suit. The liability arises out of the withdrawal but it would be wrong to argue that so long as the liability is not imposed the withdrawal is not complete. There may be an interval of time between the withdrawal and imposition of the liability through an order without its in any way derogating from the effect of the withdrawal. The facts in Midnapur Zamindari Co. Ltd. v. Raja Bijoy Singh

Dudhuria, AIR 1941 Cal 1, were distinguishable because the plaintiff sought to withdraw from the suit with permission to file a fresh one and that required an order from the Court granting permission. There is a distinction between withdrawal without liberty to file a fresh suit which is at the absolute discretion of the plaintiff and withdrawal with liberty which can be done only when the Court grants permission. In this case the Court postponed passing orders on the application for permission to withdraw with liberty and before the orders were passed the plaintiff withdrew the application. A plaintiff may have a right to withdraw an application for withdrawal with liberty but it does not follow that a plaintiff who withdraws the suit under sub-r. (1) has a right to revoke the withdrawal before the Court passes some order. Then we come to Yeshwant Govardhan v. Totaram Avasu, AIR 1958 Bom 28, in which Dixit and Vyas, JJ. held that an application by a plaintiff withdrawing the suit requires an order, that so long as no order is passed it can be withdrawn and that no reasons are required for his withdrawing the application. With great respect we find it difficult to agree. It is true that a Court has control over the proceedings initiated by a plaintiff through a suit but the plaintiff has been given an absolute right to withdraw from it at any stage and the Court has no control over this act of withdrawal. The learned judges said at p. 29

"If. . . the plaintiff has a right to withdraw his suit, he has, equally, a right to withdraw his withdrawal, and so long as the Court has not made an order showing that the withdrawal has become complete or effective there is always a locus paenitentiae for the plaintiff to withdraw his withdrawal."

The right to withdraw has been expressly conferred by rule 1(1); there is no provision conferring the right to revoke the withdrawal and there is no justification for saying that the right to withdraw includes in itself a right to revoke' the withdrawal. As we said earlier, certain consequences arise from the withdrawal which prevent his revoking the withdrawal, the withdrawal is complete or effective as soon as it takes place, and, in any case, as soon as information of it is conveyed to the Court, and no order of the Court is required to effectuate it or even to recognise it. Then the learned Judges referred to the order regarding costs and inferred that the Court has to make an order after the withdrawal. Whatever order the Court may, or may have to make is not regarding the withdrawal but regarding the effect or consequences of the withdrawal, which is quite a different All323 matter. The proposition that a plaintiff has an absolute right to withdraw his application for withdrawal is not accepted universally and we have already referred to the observations to the contrary. Lastly, we come to Masulipatam Municipality v. Venkatappayya, AIR 1960 Andh Pra 572. Umamaheshwaram and S. Oamar Hassan, JJ. observed at p. 575 :-

"Without the stroke of the judicial pen under O. 23, R. 1, sub-r. (3), C.P.C. the suit is not terminated and that in appropriate cases the provisions of O. 1, R. 10 or O. 22, R. 10 C.P.C. may be applied."

The order referred to in R. 1, sub-r. (3) is only one imposing costs upon the plaintiff on account of his withdrawal from the suit; this provision does not contemplate any order.

10. In AIR 1958 Bom 28 (supra) and AIR 1923 Mad 246, the doctrine of locus paenitentiae was advanced and it was held that a plaintiff can revoke his withdrawal of a suit at any time before an order is made by the Court regarding withdrawal. With great respect, we may point out that if locus paenitentiae has to be allowed it must be allowed by the legislature and not by the Courts. We see no reason why we should be so solicitous about a plaintiff on the threshold of withdrawal of his suit that we should allow him locus paenitentiae. There is no reason why a plaintiff should claim to have locus paenitentiae and in any case whatever locus paenitentiae he needs is already there between his mental decision to withdraw and his informing the Court of the withdrawal. He has no locus paenitentiae in the matter of institution or of compromise of a suit and there is no justification for saying that he has locus paenitentiae after withdrawal of the suit. The doctrine of locus paenitentiae falls to the ground when it is realised that he has not to apply for withdrawing and that he needs neither the permission of the Court for withdrawing nor its order allowing, recognizing or confirming the withdrawal.

11. Our answer, therefore, to the question referred to us is in the negative.

17. The decision of the Division Bench in Raisa Sultana Begam making unconditional withdrawal under Order XXIII Rule 1 of the Code effective on the mere making of the application by the plaintiff was overruled by the Full Bench of this Court in The Sunni Central Board v. Sri Gopal Singh Visharad⁴, where it was held :

1035. Once a suit is duly instituted, the Court would pass order issuing summons to the defendants to appear and answer the plaint. Such summons, vide Order V Rule 3, are required to be signed by the Judge or such officer as he appointed, and also the seal of the Court. A suit once duly instituted and registered in the Court would not struck off from the record of the Court on the mere communication by the plaintiff orally or in writing that he intends to withdraw unless an order is passed by the Court to the said effect, which would have the legal consequence of bringing the proceedings set in motion by instituting the suit, to a halt. Mere absence of any provision permitting withdrawal of the application filed by a plaintiff for withdrawing the suit does not mean that no such power is vested in the plaintiff. So long as an order is not passed by the Court, if the plaintiff informs the Court by moving an application that he intends to withdraw the application for withdrawal of suit, he can always request or inform the Court that he does not want to press the application and the same may be dismissed as not pressed or withdrawn. It is only where the plaintiff press his application before the Court requiring it to pass the order for withdrawal of the Suit, the Court would pass the said order in accordance with law since it cannot compel a plaintiff to pursue a suit though he want to withdraw the same. It would thus be wholly unjust to hold that once an application to withdraw the suit is filed by a plaintiff, he cannot withdraw the same and the suit would stand dismissed as withdrawn. This would have serious and drastic consequences in as much as he cannot file a fresh suit on the same cause of action.

1036. Moreover, the existence of a provision i.e. Rule 1(3), empowering the Court to consider as to whether the plaintiff should be saddled with the liability of payment of cost or not also contemplates that an application for withdrawal of suit by itself would not result in any consequences whatsoever unless the Court has applied its mind regarding the cost. If what has been held in Smt. Raisa Sultana Begam (supra) is taken to be correct, it would mean that there would be no occasion for the Court to apply its mind on the question of cost under Rule 1(3) since the suit would stand dismissed as withdrawn as soon as the plaintiff informs the Court about his decision for withdrawal of the suit either orally or in writing. This is nothing but making Rule 3 (1) redundant. The earlier judgement of this Court in Raja Shumsher Bahadoor Vs. Mirja Mahomed Ali (1867) Agra H.C.R. 158 wherein this view was taken that the withdrawal must be regarded as terminating automatically the proceedings in the suit involving the suit's immediate dismissal was not found to be correct subsequently by the Division Bench in Ram Bharos Lall. We, therefore, find it appropriate in the entire facts and circumstances to take a different view and have no hesitation in holding though with great respect to the Bench, that the law laid down in Smt. Raisa Sultana Begam (supra) is not correct. In our view, the law laid down in Ram Bharos Lall (supra), Mukkammal Vs. Kalimuthu Pillay (supra), Raj Kumari Devi Vs. Nirtya Kali Debi (supra) and Yeshwant Govardhan Vs. Totaram (supra) lay down the correct law. We also find that a Division Bench of Orissa High Court in Prema Chanda Barik Vs. Prafulla Kumar Mohanty AIR 1988 Orissa 33 has also taken the same view and did not find itself agreeable with the Division Bench decision in Smt. Raisa Sultana Begam (supra). In fact, a Division Bench of Calcutta High Court in Rameswar Sarkar Vs. State of West Bengal and others AIR 1986 Cal. 19 has gone slightly further by observing that where there is no provision under the Code providing for withdrawal of application for withdrawal of suit, Section 151 C.P.C. would apply.

18. Raisa Sultana Begam was, therefore, held no longer good law by a learned Single Judge of this Court in M/s. Auto Oil Company and another v. Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. and others⁵ and by another learned Judge in Bhajan Lal and others v. Smt. Rajmala Daughter of Kamta Prasad⁶, who also took note of the decision in M/s. Auto Oil Company (supra). It is worthy of notice that in both the decisions of this Court, to wit, Bhajan Lal (supra) and M/s. Auto Oil Company, the decision of the Supreme Court in Rajendra Prasad Gupta v. Prakash Chandra Mishra and others⁷ was referred to, where it has been held :

1. Heard the learned counsel for the appellant and Respondents 1 to 3. No one appeared for Respondent 4.

2. This appeal, by special leave, has been filed against the impugned judgment of the High Court of Allahabad dated 6-2-2004 passed in FAFO No. 2103 of 2003. It appears that the appellant was the plaintiff in Suit No. 1301 of 1997 before the Court of the Civil Judge (Junior Division), Varanasi. He filed an application to withdraw the said suit. Subsequently, it appears that he changed his mind and before an order could be passed in the withdrawal application he filed an application praying for withdrawal of the earlier withdrawal application. The second application had been dismissed and that order was upheld by the High Court. Hence, this appeal by special leave.

3. The High Court was of the view that once the application for withdrawal of the suit is filed the suit stands dismissed as withdrawn even without any order on the withdrawal application. Hence, the second application was not maintainable.

4. We do not agree. Rules of procedure are handmaids of justice. Section 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure gives inherent powers to the court to do justice. That provision has to be interpreted to mean that every procedure is permitted to the court for doing justice unless expressly prohibited, and not that every procedure is prohibited unless expressly permitted. There is no express bar in filing an application for withdrawal of the withdrawal application.

5. In Narsingh Das v. Mangal Dubey [ILR (1883) 5 All 163], Mahmood, J. the celebrated Judge of the Allahabad High Court, observed:

“Courts are not to act upon the principle that every procedure is to be taken as prohibited unless it is expressly provided for by the Code, but on the converse principle that every procedure is to be understood as permissible till it is shown to be prohibited by the law. As a matter of general principle prohibition cannot be presumed.”

6. The above view was followed by a Full Bench of the Allahabad High Court in Raj Narain Saxena v. Bhim Sen [AIR 1966 All 84] and we agree with this view. Accordingly, we are of the opinion that the application praying for withdrawal of the withdrawal application was maintainable. We order accordingly.

7. In the result, the impugned judgment of the High Court is set aside and the appeal is allowed. No costs. The suit shall proceed and to be decided on merits, expeditiously.

19. The learned Judge deciding Bhajan Lal noticed some difference of opinion in the decisions of the Supreme Court and held in favour of the view relying on the Full Bench in The Sunni Central Board (supra) and the authority of the Supreme Court in Rajendra Prasad Gupta that withdrawal does not come about until an order is passed by the Court permitting it. In Bhajan Lal, after considering the difficulties posed by conflict of judicial opinion and considering it in the backdrop of rights of parties that may arise in varying circumstances, it was held :

31. The contention raised that Order 21 Rule 89 (II) has similar wordings and the order of the Court is not necessary, is not attracted, as the ingredients of Order XXIII are entirely different as discussed herein above. A litigant can surrender his right to contest a matter which is the essence of Order XXIII. The right to withdraw such an intention of surrender or revoke the same which can arise in the circumstances as discussed herein above is a different issue. These ingredients, therefore, in relation to the entire disclaimer of the claim is not comparable with the provisions of Order 21 Rule 89 (2) in a matter arising out of execution.

20. In Smt. Kanteshwari Tiwari (Dead) through L.Rs. v. Badri Prasad and others⁸ a learned Single Judge of this Court followed the Full Bench in The Sunni Central Board and endorsed the view of the learned Single Judge in M/s. Auto Oil Company. In Kanteshwari Tiwari (supra), it was observed :

26. I find that this part of judgment is no longer a good law inasmuch as the Division Bench judgment in Raisa Sultan Begam (supra) has already been over-ruled by this Court in the majority decision in Sunni Central Board of Waqf v. Sri Gopal Singh Visharad [2010 ADJ Page 1 (SFB) (LB) : 2010 (83) ALR 26 (Sum.).] and this has been referred to and followed by another Single Judge of this Court in Auto Oil Company Majhola Devi v. Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. [2011 (5) ADJ 800.] .

The Hon'ble Single Judge has found that recently even the Apex Court has taken a similar view in Rajendra Prasad Gupta v. Prakash Chandra Mishra [2011 (85) ALR 715 (SC).] , reversing a decision of this Court. The view taken by this Court that once an application to withdraw the suit is filed there is no occasion to file a further withdrawal application to withdraw the earlier application, has been negated by Apex Court observing that an application praying for withdrawal of withdrawal application was maintainable.

21. So far as the proposition that the Bench decision in Raisa Sultana Begam is no longer good law, as it stands overruled about the effect of making of an application under Order XXIII Rule 1 of the Code by the plaintiff, in view of the holding of the Full Bench in The Sunni Central Board is not tenable, as the Full Bench decision of this Court in The Sunni Central Board stands set aside by the Supreme Court in M. Siddiq (dead) through legal representatives (Ram Janmabhumi Temple case) v. Mahant Suresh Das and others⁹. Nothing has been brought to the notice of this Court that the principle of law in the Full Bench regarding the effect of the making of an application under Order XXIII Rule 1 of the Code, where no orders are passed by the Court, has been approved by their Lordships of the Supreme Court. The effect of setting aside of the judgment of this Court by the Supreme Court in M. Siddiq (supra), in the opinion of this Court, would lead to effacement of the principle on the point that was laid down by the Full Bench in The Sunni Central Board and followed by the learned Judges in M/s. Auto Oil Company and Bhajan Lal.

22. To the contrary, there is a later decision of the Supreme Court in Anurag

Mittal v. Shaily Mishra Mittal¹⁰ where, on the issue that falls for consideration here, it has been held :

17. The High Court of Bombay in Anil Dinmani Shankar Joshi v. Panvel Municipal Council [Anil Dinmani Shankar Joshi v. Panvel Municipal Council, 2003 SCC OnLine Bom 24, paras 3-4 : AIR 2003 Bom 238, p. 239] followed the judgment of this Court in Shiv Prasad [Shiv Prasad v. Durga Prasad, (1975) 1 SCC 405] and held that the said judgment is applicable to suits also. The High Court recognised the unconditional right of the plaintiff to withdraw his suit and held that the withdrawal would be complete as soon as the plaintiff files his purshis of withdrawal.

23. To the understanding of this Court, the holding of the Supreme Court in Anurag Mittal (supra) , which is a much later decision than Rajendra Prasad Gupta would bind this Court. In the event of conflict between two decisions of the Supreme Court, a question may arise before the High Court, in the context of a conflict between a larger Bench of the Supreme Court and a Bench of lesser strength, or it may arise in the context of two conflicting decisions rendered by Benches of the same strength. The principle to be followed by the High Court, about which precedent of the Supreme Court will bind, fell for consideration of a Full Bench of this Court in Gopal Krishna Indley v. 5th Additional District Judge, Kanpur and others¹¹. In Gopal Krishna Indley (supra), K.C. Agrawal, J., speaking for the Bench, held :

19. The Supreme Court has dealt with the binding nature of its pronouncements in a number of decisions. It is, not necessary to refer to those cases.

In a case where a High Court finds any conflict between views expressed by larger and smaller Benches of the Supreme Court the Supreme Court said that proper course for such a High Court is to follow the opinion expressed by larger Benches of the Supreme Court in preference to those expressed by smaller Benches of the Court (See State of U.P. v. Ram Chandra, (1976) 4 SCC 52 : AIR 1976 SC 2547).

20. The difficulty, however, before us is slightly different, and is not covered by the authority cited above. We are faced with a situation where there are conflicts between the two decisions of the Supreme Court given by Judges of equal strength. We are not concerned here with reasons which led to these conflicts.

21. Rupert Cross in his book on "Precedent in English Law" third edition page 133, has dealt with this matter in the following words:—

"If there is, an increasing tendency to recognise the possibility that previous decisions of the same Court may conflict, it is a tendency which is to be applauded. The Court's attention is frequently not drawn to all the relevant authorities, some cases are not particularly well argued and unreserved judgments are often delivered. It is useless to deplore these occurrences because they will continue as long as barristers, Judges, and litigants, remain human.....".

22. To meet a situation like the present reference may be made to a Full Bench decision of our Court in U.P.S.R.T.C. v. State Road Transport Tribunal, U.P. Lucknow (AIR 1977 All 1) : (1976 All LJ 683) where the Full Bench held:—

"Even if there is some conflict in the two Supreme Court's decisions, we have to follow the law as declared in the latter case of Mysore State Transport Corporation".

23. To the same effect is the view taken by a Full Bench of Karnataka High Court in Govindanaik G. Kalghatagi v. West Patent Press Co. Ltd. (AIR 1980 Kant 92) and by Calcutta High Court in Sovachand Mulchand v. Collector of Central Excise and Land Customs (AIR 1968 Cal 174). Thus, what follows is that in the event of there being clear conflict, the decision of such latter Bench would be binding on us.

24. xxxxx

25. We, therefore, cannot ignore the subsequent decision of the Supreme Court on the basis of the same being per incuriam.

(emphasis by Court)

24. In a later Full Bench decision of this Court in Ganga Saran v. Civil Judge, Hapur, Ghaziabad and others¹², it was observed by their Lordships :

6. With respect to the first question the decision of Supreme Court in the case of Qamaruddin which is later decision on one hand and decisions in Vishesh Kumar v. Shanti Prasad (Supra) and Vishnu Awatar v. Shiv Awatar (Supra) which affirm the decision of this Court in Jupiter Chit Fund (Pvt) Limited v. Dwarka Diesh (Supra) would show that there is a direct conflict on the question of maintainability of revision in High Court u/S. 115, C.P.C. Both the judgments of the Supreme Court are by a bench consisting of two Hon'ble Judges. In such a situation the questions which arise for consideration are namely: When there is a direct conflict between the two decisions of Supreme Court rendered by Judges of equal strength, which of them should be followed by the High Court and whether later decision of the Supreme Court has effect of overruling the earlier decision of the Supreme Court?

7. One line of decision is that if there is a conflict in two Supreme Court decisions, the decision which is later in point of time would be binding on the High Courts. The second line of decisions is that in case there is a conflict between the judgments of Supreme Court consisting of equal authorities, incidence of time is not a relevant factor and the High Court must follow the judgment which appears to lay down law elaborately and accurately.

8. Similar situation arose before a Full Bench of Punjab and Haryana High Court in the case of Indo Swiss Time Limited, Dundahera v. Umrao, AIR 1981 Punj & Har 213. What the Full Bench in the said case held is extracted below (at pp. 219-220 of AIR):

“Now the contention that the latest judgment of a co-ordinate Bench is to be mechanically followed and must have pre-eminence irrespective of any other consideration does not commend itself to me. When judgments of the superior Court are of co-equal Benches and therefore, of matching authority then their weight inevitably must be considered by the rationale and the logic thereof and not by the mere fortuitous circumstances of the time and date on which they were rendered. It is manifest that when two directly conflicting judgments of the superior Court and of equal authority are extant then both of them cannot be binding on the courts below. Inevitably a choice, though a difficult one, has to be made in such a situation. On principle it appears to me that the High Court must follow the judgment which appears to it to lay down the law more elaborately and accurately. The mere incidence of time whether the judgments of coequal Benches of the Superior Court are earlier later is a consideration which appears to me as hardly relevant.”

9. xxx

10. For the above reasons it must be held that the decision of Supreme Court in Qamaruddin's case (1990 All WC 308) (Supra) to the extent it holds that revision against an appellate or revisional order passed by the district court is maintainable u/S. 115, C.P.C. (as amended by U.P. Act 31/78) to the High Court does not state the law accurately or overrule the decision of the Full Bench of this Court in Jupiter Chit Fund (Pvt) Ltd. v. Dwarka Diesh (AIR 1979 All 218) (Supra) particularly when it has specifically been approved by the two earlier decisions of the Supreme Court.

25. The question also came up before a Full Bench of the Kerala High Court in more recent time in Raman Gopi and another v. Kunju Ram Uthaman¹³. In Raman Gopi (supra) on the issue, it is opined :

77. The legal position, which therefore emerges on a discussion and analysis of the principles stated in various decisions of the Apex Court and other High Courts including this Court, so as to act as guidance to the High Courts and Subordinate Courts, when faced with a conflicting decisions, are summarised below:—

(i) In case of conflicting views taken in the decisions of two Benches of equal strength of the Apex Court, the decision later in point of time, will prevail over the earlier one;

(ii) What is binding is the ratio decidendi. A decision is only an authority for what it actually decides.

(iii) A decision which is not expressed and is not found on reasons nor proceeds on consideration of issue cannot be deemed to be a law declared to have a binding effect as is contemplated by Art.

141 of the Constitution. Similarly, any declaration made or conclusion arrived at without application of mind or preceded without a reason, cannot be a declaration of law, or authority as a binding precedent;

(iv) It is well settled that what is the essence of a decision is the ratio and not every observation, nor what logically follows from various observations made in it.

(v) The enunciation of the reason or principle on which a question before a court has been decided is alone binding as a precedent. The concrete decision alone is binding between the parties to it, but it is the abstract ratio decidendi, ascertained on a consideration of the judgment in relation to the subject-matter of the decision, which alone has the force of law and which, when it is clear what it was, is binding. It is only the principle laid down in the judgment that is binding law under Article 141 of the Constitution.

(vi) A decision passes sub-silentio, in the technical sense that has come to be attached to that phrase, when the particular point of law involved in the decision is not perceived by the court or present to its mind. (Salmond on Jurisprudence 12th Edn. p. 153).

(vii) A Division Bench, in case of conflict between the decision of a Division Bench of two Judges and the decision of a larger Bench and in particular, a Constitution Bench, would be bound by the latter decision.

(viii) Per incuriam means a decision rendered by ignorance of a previous binding decision such as a decision of its own or of a court of coordinate or higher jurisdiction or in ignorance of the terms of a statute or of a rule having the force of law. A ruling making a specific reference to an earlier binding precedent may or may not be correct, but cannot be said to be per incuriam.

(emphasis by Court)

26. The same issue was echoed in a Karnataka High Court decision in D.V. Lakshmana Rao v. State of Karnataka and others¹⁴, where it was observed :

14. It is now well settled that if there are two conflicting judgments of the Supreme Court, of benches with equal number of Judges, then the latter will prevail over the earlier. But where the earlier judgment is of a larger bench and the latter judgment is of a smaller bench, then the decision of the larger bench will be binding. In State of U.P. v. Ramchandra [AIR 1976 SC 2574.] the Supreme Court held that where the High Court finds a conflict between the views expressed by a larger bench and a smaller bench, the proper course for the High Court is to find out the ratio decidendi of the decision of the Larger Bench and follow the same in preference to the opinion expressed by the Smaller Bench. Hence I am bound to follow the decisions in Satendra Prasad Jain and Pratap which are of Larger Benches, instead of following the decision in Mariyappa which is of a smaller Bench.

(emphasis by Court)

27. Here, what the Court finds is that the decision of the Supreme Court in Rajendra Prasad Gupta is earlier in point than Anurag Mittal. Both the decisions are by a Bench of two Judges. Going by the thumb rule, about which, there is consensus, the later decision would bind this Court. Therefore, this Court would be bound by the principle in Anurag Mittal. Even if the other principle that the later Full Bench of our Court has propounded as an alternate to the later decision rule, that is to say, the Full Bench in Ganga Saran were followed, this Court would have to see which decision appears to have laid down the law elaborately and accurately. Judged from that point of view also, the decision in Anurag Mittal appears to be more elaborate, where the issue has received a fuller consideration. On either premise, though this Court goes by the thumb rule about the later decision, the principle in Anurag Mittal seems to bind this Court.

28. The principles laid down by this Court in Raisa Sultana Begam, therefore, appear to be good law, in view of the subsequent decision of the Supreme Court in M. Siddiq, and, in particular, the decision in Anurag Mittal. So far as the decision of this Court in Meera Rai is concerned, certainly, that is a different view of the matter. Paragraph No. 15 of the report holds an affirmative order on an application by the plaintiff under Order XIII Rule 1 of the Code, imperative. Therefore, the withdrawal of the suit can become effective after the Court has passed an affirmative order, allowing the application and granting a withdrawal of the suit. This does not seem to be in accord with the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Anurag Mittal.

29. In view of what this Court has said above, we are in respectful disagreement with the view expressed as aforesaid in Meera Rai. However, sitting singly, it would not be appropriate for this Court to proceed to judgment.

30. Therefore the following questions of law are referred for consideration by a larger Bench :

(i) Whether the decision of this Court in Raisa Sultana Begam, AIR 1996

Allahabad 318 holding that an application under Order XXIII Rule 1 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 once moved, leads to a withdrawal of the suit ipso facto without the Court passing an affirmative order, is still good law, in view of the subsequent decision of the Full Bench in The Sunni Central Board v. Sri Gopal Singh Visharad, 2010 ADJ 1 (SFB)(LB) and the Supreme Court in M. Siddiq (dead) through legal representatives (Ram Janmabhoomi Temple case) v. Mahant Suresh Das and others, (2020) 1 SCC 1 and Anurag Mittal v. Shaily Mishra Mittal, (2018) 9 SCC 691 ?

(ii) Whether the decision in Meera Rai v. Additional Sessions Judge and others, 2017 (12) ADJ 817 does not lay down the law correctly, in view of the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Anurag Mittal v. Shaily Mishra Mittal, (2018) 9 SCC 691 on the issue if the mere lodging of an application to unconditionally withdraw a suit under Order XXII Rule 1 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 operates as a withdrawal of the suit ipso facto and without an affirmative order ?

31. In view of the orders of the Supreme Court in Misc. Application No. 315 of 2022 in Special Leave Petition (C) No. 6526 of 2020 dated 28.02.2022, the Registry is directed to place the matter urgently before His Lordship the Hon'ble The Chief Justice for constitution of a larger Bench.

Criminal Law-The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973-Section 389(1) & 439- There is a difference between the grant of bail under Section 439 of the CrPC in case of pre-trial arrest and the suspension of sentence under Sec 389(1) of the CrPC and the grant of bail, post-conviction. In the earlier case, there may be a presumption of innocence, which is a fundamental postulate of criminal jurisprudence. The courts may take a liberal view depending on the facts and circumstances of the case, whereas in the case of post-conviction bail, there is a finding of guilt against the accused persons. The question of presumption of conviction does not arise. The Court considering an application for suspension of sentence and grant of bail is to consider the prima facie merits of the appeal, coupled with other factors. There should be strong, compelling reasons for the grant of bail, which must be recorded in the order granting bail. (Para 11) (E-15)

In Re: Criminal Misc Suspension of Sentence Applications

1. I have heard learned counsel for the accused - appellants and learned A.G.A for the State.

2. Aggrieved by the judgment and order dated 30.09.2022 passed by Additional Sessions Judge/F.T.C.-II/Special Judge, N.D.P.S. Act, Kaushambi, in Case No. 14 of 2012 titled as State Vs. Bhola Patel (lead case), the accused-applicant Hemraj Patwa, and Vinita Devi have preferred separate appeals bearing Criminal Appeal No. 8454 of 2022 and Criminal Appeal No. 7997 of 2022, respectively. The accused, Bhola Patel, Raju Maurya @ Anil Kumar and Manoj Kumar Maurya, have been acquitted under Section 8/20 NDPS Act by giving the benefit of the doubt, whereas accused-appellants Hemraj Patwa and Vinita Devi have been convicted and sentenced to ten years rigorous imprisonment along with fine of Rs. 1,00,000/- each.

3. As per the prosecution case, on 17.04.2012 at about 12.30 p.m. SHO Dinesh Prakash Pandey, along with other police officials, were patrolling and checking the anti-social elements. At the same time, SI Onkar Nath Pandey, Hawaldar Singh and lady constable Rukmani Devi have also joined the police party. On receipt of secret information that accused Bhola of village Pachasa P.S. Saini has hidden huge quantity of Ganja in his thatch and he could be arrested along with other suspects. Upon conducting the raid, one man and one woman were apprehended by the police, but one man ran away from the place of the incident taking advantage of darkness. On enquiry from the apprehended suspects, one disclosed his name as Hemraj Patwa and the woman disclosed her name as Vinita Devi W/o Bhola Patel. On enquiry from the suspects, it's revealed that Bhola Patel had escaped by taking advantage of darkness. Upon compliance with the statutory provisions, a huge quantity of recovery seizure was made, and a total of 152 Kg Ganja was recovered from the possession of accused persons. The 152 Kg Ganja have been kept in four bags, each containing 47 kg, 45 kg, 35 Kg and 25 Kg. From the possession of Hemraj Patwa, two bags of Ganja were recovered containing 47 Kg and 45 Kg each, whereas 60 Kg of Ganja was recovered from accused Vinita Devi, kept in two bags containing 35 Kg and 25 Kg each.

4. Upon completion of the trial, both the accused-appellants were awarded the maximum sentence of 10 years and a fine of Rs.1,00,000/- and in default payment of the fine, the accused-appellants were further directed to undergo simple imprisonment for a period of two years.

5. Learned counsel for the accused appellants submits that the accused-appellants were falsely implicated in the case at the behest of police. He further urged that when the matter was highlighted in the media on the national level and in local newspapers, that the huge quantity of contraband has been recovered from the truck container within the jurisdiction of P.S. Saini, District Kaushambi, the driver and Khalasi of the truck were let to go by the police by taking huge bribe. The actual culprits paid the bribe, and they were freed by the police and planted the recovery on the accused-appellants. He further urged that no independent witnesses to the recovery have been produced by the prosecution nor the compliance of Section 50 of the NDPS Act been effected. The investigating officer has also not complied with the requirement of Section 57 of the NDPS Act. He further urged that the information of the alleged recovery was not provided to the senior officers immediately, violating the spirit of Section 42 of the NDPS Act. The non-compliance of Sections 42, 50 and 57 has seriously damaged the prosecution's case, and the prosecution has failed to prove the recovery from the possession of accused persons and lastly urged that both the accused persons were on bail during the trial.

6. Per contra, learned A.G.A. submits that the provisions of Sections 42, 50 and 57 of NDPS Act have been duly complied with by the investigating agency, the same has been duly proved from the perusal of the testimony of S.I. Dinesh Prakash Pandey, Inspector Raj Kumar Pandey, S.I. Onkar Nath Pandey and Inspector Ravindra Tiwari. Learned A.G.A further urged, upon perusal of the trial court record, it transpires that a huge quantity of Ganja measuring 152 Kg was recovered from the possession of the accused persons. Learned A.G.A further submits that the testimony of the prosecution witness cannot be discarded only because the prosecution case is proved by the official witnesses in the present case. S.I. Dinesh Prakash Pandey, Inspector Raj Kumar Pandey, SI Onkar Nath Pandey and Inspector Ravindra Tiwari have fully supported the prosecution case, and their testimony is consistent and reliable. He further submits that the recovery of contraband substances has been effected from the possession of accused-appellants Hemraj Patwa and Vinita Devi.

7. Admittedly, the huge commercial quantity of Ganja of 152 Kg has been recovered from the possession of accused-appellants Hemraj Patwa and Vinita Devi, and they are presumed to have the criminal mental State to possess the above contraband substance, and hence burden lies upon them to prove the absence of criminal intent.

8. Even though the police witnesses are interested witnesses, but there is no reason on record to disbelieve the testimony of above said witnesses.

9. Therefore, the combined effect of Sections 35 and 54 of the NDPS Act is that if the accused is found to be in possession of contraband substance, the Court shall presume that he has committed an offence under the provisions of the Act unless or until the contrary is proved further, if the criminal mental State of the accused is required to be established for the offence. In that case, the Court shall also presume that the accused shall have a mental state, and it is only the defence of the accused to prove that he has no such mental state to possess contraband.

10. The short question that arises for consideration in this application is, whether accused-appellants are entitled to be released on bail when they were on bail during the trial.

11. As observed by this Court in Preet Pal Singh vs. State of U.P.1, There is a difference between the grant of bail under Section 439 of the CrPC in case of pre-trial arrest and the suspension of sentence under Section 389(1) of the CrPC and the grant of bail, post-conviction. In the earlier case, there may be a presumption of innocence, which is a fundamental postulate of criminal jurisprudence. The courts may take a liberal view depending on the facts and circumstances of the case, whereas in the case of post-conviction bail, there is a finding of guilt against the accused persons. The question of presumption of conviction does not arise. The Court considering an application for suspension of sentence and grant of bail is to consider the prima facie merits of the appeal, coupled with other factors. There should be strong, compelling reasons for the grant of bail, which must be recorded in the order granting bail.

12. The discretion under Section 389(1) is to be exercised judicially, and the High Court is obliged to consider whether the accused has a strong likelihood to succeed in appeal, and there is no unreasonable delay in disposal of the appeal, as held by Apex Court in Kashmira Singh v. State of Punjab² and Babu Singh and Ors. v. State of U.P.³

13. In Kalyan Chadra Sarkar v. Rajesh Ranjan and Anr⁴, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held:-

"11. The law in regard to grant or refusal of bail is very well settled. The Court granting bail should exercise its discretion in a judicious manner and not as a matter of course. Though at the stage of granting bail a detailed examination of evidence and elaborate documentation of the merits of the case need not be undertaken, there is a need to indicate in such orders reasons for prima facie concluding why bail was being granted, particularly where the accused is charged of having committed a serious offence. Any order devoid of such reasons would suffer from non-application of mind."

14. Even though a detailed examination of the merits of the case may not be required by the courts while considering an application for bail, at the same time, the exercise of jurisdiction has to be based on well-settled principles and in a judicious manner and not as a matter of course as held by this Court in Chaman Lal v. State of U.P. and Anr⁵.

15. Be that as it may, the detailed examination of evidence and detailed documentation on the merits of the case need not be undertaken while deciding the application of suspension on bail. The power of this Court to grant bail under Section 389(1) Cr.P.C, are subject to the limitations contained in amended Section 37 of the NDPS Act, and the restrictions placed on the power of the Court under the said section are applicable to this Court in the matter of granting bail.

16. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Preet Pal Singh (supra) has held as under:-

"35. There is a difference between the grant of bail under Section 439 of the CrPC in case of pre-trial arrest and suspension of sentence under Section 389 of the CrPC and the grant of bail, post-conviction. In the earlier case, there may be a presumption of innocence, which is a fundamental postulate of criminal jurisprudence. The courts may be liberal, depending on the facts and circumstances of the case, on the principle that bail is the rule and jail is an exception, as held by this Court in Dataram Singh v. State of U.P. and Anr. (supra). However, in case of post-conviction bail, by suspension of operation of the sentence, there is a finding of guilt, and the question of presumption of innocence does not arise. Nor is the principle of bail being the rule and jail an exception attracted once there is a conviction upon trial. Rather, the Court considering an application for suspension of sentence and grant of bail, is to consider the prima facie merits of the appeal, coupled with other factors. There should be strong, compelling reasons for the grant of bail, notwithstanding an order of conviction, by suspension of sentence. This strong and compelling reason must be recorded in the bail order, as mandated in Section 389(1) of the Cr.P.C.

38. In considering an application for suspension of sentence, the Appellate Court is only to examine if there is such patent infirmity in the order of conviction that renders the order of conviction prima facie erroneous. Where there is evidence that the Trial Court has considered, it is not open to this Court to consider the application under Section 389 (1) Cr.P.C to re-assess and/or re-analyze the same evidence and take a different view, to suspend the execution of the sentence and release the convict on bail."

17. The huge quantity of 152 kg of Ganja has been recovered from the possession of the accused-appellants, and they are presumed to have the criminal mental State to possess the above contraband substance; hence burden lies upon them to prove the absence of criminal intent.

18. The accused-appellant, Hemraj Patwa is involved in four cases registered at Police Station Dhoomanganj, District Prayagraj. The details are as under:-

(i) Case Crime No. 186 of 2012, under Section 8/20 N.D.P.S. Act, P.S. Saini, District Kaushambi.

(ii) Case Crime No. 233 of 2016, under Section 3/25 Arms Act, P.S. Pipari, District Kaushambi.

(iii) Case Crime No. 199 of 2016, under Section 3025/120B IPC, P.S. Pipari, District Kaushambi.

(iv) Case Crime No. 348 of 2016, under Section 2/3(1) U.P. Gangster Act, P.S. Pipari, District Kaushambi.

19. The total custody period of accused-appellant Hemraj Patwa as on date is 10 months and 15 days with remission whereas total custody period of accused-appellant Vinita Devi as on date is 11 months and 2 days with remission.

20. (i) The counsel for the accused-appellants could not point out patent infirmity in the order of conviction that renders the order of conviction prima facie erroneous. At this stage, it is not open to this Court to reassess and / reanalyze the same evidence to take a different view, to suspend the execution of the sentence and release the convict on bail.

20. (ii) Considering the actual custody of the accused-appellants, the huge commercial quantity of Ganja recovered from the possession of the accused-appellants.

20. (iii) And the condition contained in Section 37 of the NDPS Act are not satisfied.

21. The application for suspension of sentence filed in Criminal Appeal No.8454 of 2022 and Criminal Appeal No.7997 of 2022 are rejected.

22. Through this common order, the applications for suspension of the sentence of accused-appellants Hemraj Patwa and Vinita Devi are disposed of accordingly.

23. The observation made by this Hon'ble Court while disposing of the application for suspension of sentence in Criminal Appeal No.8454 of 2022 and Criminal Appeal No.7997 of 2022 shall have no bearing on the outcome of the final appeal.

24. List this appeal for hearing after six months. If the appeal is not heard within two years despite the cooperation and endeavours of the accused-appellants, they shall be at liberty to revive the prayer for grant of bail.

1. Heard Shri M.D.Singh Shekhar, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri R.D.Tiwari, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri S.K.Verma and Shri S.K.Singh, learned counsel for the contesting respondents on admission of the instant appeal and perused the record placed on the Board.

2. Suit for mandatory injunction for issuing a direction against the defendants-appellants to execute the registered sale deed in favour of the plaintiff-respondent with respect to plot no. C-107 area 300 sq. yards situated in Ganga Vihar Colony (Pink City), Gram Sadullabad Pargana Loni, Tehsil and District Ghaziabad after receiving the balance amount of Rs. 252.70 and to declare the cancellation letter dated 7.10.2011 null and void filed on behalf of the plaintiff-respondent has concurrently been decreed by both the courts below. Having been aggrieved against the decretal of suit, defendants-appellants have preferred the instant second appeal assailing the judgment and decree dated 17.1.2023 passed by the learned District Judge, Ghaziabad in Civil Appeal No. 117/19 affirming the judgment and decree dated 3.9.2019 passed by the Civil Judge (Senior Division)/Fast Track Court, Ghaziabad in Original Suit No. 601 of 2011.

3. Plaintiff-respondent came with the plea that the defendants-appellants have developed a colony in the name of Hal Ganga Vihar Colony (Pink City) in Village Sadullabad, Pargana Loni, Tehsil and District Ghaziabad in the year 1986 and advertised for allotment of several size of plots in the said colony. In pursuance of the advertisement, the plaintiff-respondent had applied for allotment of plot. Consequently, she has been allotted plot no. C-107 area 300 sq. yard @ Rs. 252.70 per sq. yard on 23.12.1987 after getting discount from the original proposed rate i.e. Rs. 266/- per sq. yard. Plaintiff-respondent has deposited money amounting Rs. 80,500/- on 5.1.1988. The defendants-appellants, by the letter dated 30.12.2008, has admitted the deposition of money amounting Rs. 83,000/- and further demanded Rs. 22,592/- . In pursuance thereto, the plaintiff-respondent has deposited more money amounting Rs. 51,350/-, than the demanded amount i.e. Rs.25,592/-, on 28.1.2009. When the plaintiff-respondent has requested to execute the sale deed in light of the letter dated 30.12.2008, the defendants-appellants have deferred the execution of sale deed on the pretext of pendency of the Writ Petition No. 22445 of 2007 wherein use of land, which has been changed by the Ghaziabad Development Authority, was under challenge. Through letter dated 15.11.2009, the defendants-appellants have informed the final disposal of the aforesaid writ petition and also assured that the sale deed will be executed soon. Later on, dishonesty prevailed in the mind of the defendants-appellants who have started demanding more money whereas major part of the agreed amount has already been deposited by the plaintiff-respondent. A registered letter dated 12/13.1.2010 has been sent by plaintiff to defendants with a request to executed a registered sale deed in her favour. However, defendants-appellants are throughout avoiding to executed registered sale deed, therefore, suit for mandatory injunction has been filed against the defendants-appellants to execute the sale deed.

4. During pendency of the suit, defendants-appellants have issued a cancellation letter dated 7.10.2011 informing the plaintiff-respondent qua cancellation of allotment of plot made in her favour. Plaintiff-respondent has tried to persuade defendants-appellants to withdraw the said cancellation letter and execute sale deed, however the defendants-appellants turned a deaf ear, therefore, the plaintiff-respondent has moved an amendment application seeking ancillary relief to declare the cancellation letter dated 7.10.2011 null and void.

5. The defendants-appellants, though admitted the allotment of plot no. C-107 area 300 sq. yards in favour of plaintiff-respondent and deposition of money amounting Rs.80,500/- as well, however, raised dispute with respect to rate of plot and bonafide at the part of the plaintiff-respondent. It is averred in the written statement that plaintiff-respondent has deposited money amounting Rs.80,500/- on 5.1.1988 accepting the rate of plot @ Rs. 550/- per sq. yard. The defendants-appellants have disputed the genuineness of letter dated 30.12.2008 for which they have filed Original Suit No. 572 of 2010 to declare it as null and void. In the written statement defendants-appellants have mentioned the issuance of letter dated 7.10.2011 as well which has been sought to be declared as null and void by moving an amendment application. The defendants-appellants have questioned the locus of the plaintiff-respondent to file a suit and maintainability of the plaint as well under Order 7 Rule 11 C.P.C. and under Section 41 of the Specific Relief Act.

6. Learned Trial court has framed as many as 9 issues and after careful discussion of the evidence on record came to the conclusion that the defendants-appellants are under obligation to perform their part to complete the agreement. In deciding issue Nos. 1 and 8, the trial court has observed that oral agreement between the parties, with respect to execution of the sale deed, is evident from the allotment letter dated 23.12.1987 and the admission made at the part of the defendants-appellants to receive money amounting Rs. 80,500/- paid on 05.01.1988. In deciding issue No. 2, learned trial court has observed against defendant that cause of action arose to file suit. Issue No. 4 with regard to non-maintainability of suit under Section 41 of the Specific Relief Act and issue no. 5 with regard to bars of the suit under Order 7 Rule 11 C.P.C. have been decided in negative. The trial court, in deciding issue No. 9, has given a definite finding that the plaintiff-respondent is entitled for declaratory injunction against the alleged cancellation letter dated 7.10.2011. First appellate court, on appeal being filed on behalf of defendants, has formulated as many as four points for determination and affirmed the judgment and decree passed by trial court.

7. Assailing the judgment and decree passed by the courts below, learned Senior Counsel for the defendants-appellants has confined his argument with respect to the maintainability of the suit on three folds submission; (a) that, there was no written agreement between the parties, therefore, suit for mandatory injunction to get the sale deed executed in favour of the plaintiff-respondent is not maintainable in the eyes of law inasmuch as no cause of action arose and the plaintiff-respondent has got no locus to file a suit; (b) that, the suit for mandatory injunction to get the sale deed executed amounts a suit for specific performance of contract, therefore, decree to execute the sale deed cannot be passed without returning definite finding with respect to readiness and willingness at the part of the plaintiff-respondent and (c) that, time is the essence for specific performance of contract, therefore, the suit filed on behalf of the plaintiff-respondent to execute a sale deed, in light of the allotment order dated 10.12.1987, is barred by prescribed period of limitation, therefore, it should be dismissed on the ground of laches. In support of his submissions, learned counsel for the defendants-appellants has relied upon the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Atma Ram vs. Charanjeet Singh reported in (2020) 3 SCC 311.

8. Per contra, learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondent has vehemently opposed the submissions as advanced by the learned counsel for the defendants-appellants and contended that in absence of written agreement inked between the parties, suit for specific performance of contract is not maintainable, therefore, there is no question of considering the readiness and willingness at the part of the plaintiff-respondent under the provisions as enunciated under Section 16 of the Specific Relief Act. It is further contended that issuance of allotment letter dated 23.12.1987 from the defendants-appellants and acceptance of fund amounting Rs.80,500/- dated 5.1.1988 at their part explicitly establishes the valid oral agreement took place between the parties, therefore, the defendants-appellants cannot withdraw themselves from the obligation at their part of the agreement. It is next contended that under Section 39 of the Specific Relief Act, the Court is competent in its discretion to grant an injunction for performance of certain acts to prevent the breach of an obligation. It is also contended that in absence of any written agreement, time factor cannot be taken as an essence of the oral agreement took place between the parties, therefore, in the given circumstances, there is no question to consider the point of limitation in filing the suit. Learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondent has made emphasis on the judgement dated 11.1.2021 passed by coordinate Bench of this Court in Second Appeal No. 439 of 2020; M/s Chowdhary Properties and two others vs. Vipin Bahadur and Another wherein identical matter has been decided by this Court against the M/s Chowdhary Properties and others, who are also the defendants-appellants in the instant Second Appeal in hand. In aforesaid Second Appeal No. 439 of 2020, suit was filed on similar set of facts wherein plaintiff (in the said suit) was allotted plot no. A-74 in the colony known as Pink City.

9. Having considered the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and perusal of record, it reveals that the defendants are the colonizers, who have advertised widely to sell their plots carved out in the colony known as 'Pink City'. Attracting to the advertisement, plaintiff has proceeded to allot the plot C-107, area 3 square yards and, accordingly, deposited the money. Facts with respect to the allotment of the plot in favour of the plaintiff, vide allotment letter dated 23.12.1987, and receiving money amounting Rs. 80,500/- on 5.1.1988, have been admitted by the defendants. However, the defendants have raised dispute qua rate of plot to be Rs. 550/- per square yard in place of Rs. 252.70 paise per square yard as claimed by plaintiff, which was agreed upon between the parties after concession from the original rate i.e. at the rate of Rs. 266/- per square yard. There is also dispute with regard to default in the payment of consideration amount. As per the plaintiff case, she has deposited entire money even more than required as demanded by the defendants, vide letter dated 3.12.2008, whereas, on the other hand defendants has disputed the payment of entire money and blamed to the plaintiff for default in payment.

10. In the given circumstances of the present case, it is evident that the proposal made on behalf of the defendant with respect to the allotment of plot in the colony known as 'Pink City' has been accepted by the plaintiff and in furtherance thereof, the plaintiff has deposited the money on 23.12.1987 amounting to Rs. 2,500/- (paper No. 8C) and after accepting said amount, the defendant/coloniser (promissor) has issued allotment letter on the same day i.e. 23.12.1987 to allot the plot No. C-107 admeasuring area 300 square yards in favour of the plaintiff, who, in turn, has deposited money on 5.1.1988 amounting Rs. 80,500/- (paper No. 9-C). At later stage, the defendants have issued a letter dated 30.12.2008 (paper No. 10-C) demanding additional amount of Rs. 22,592/-. In pursuance thereof, the plaintiff has deposited Rs. 51,350/- on 28.1.2009. In this view of the matter, the existence of concluded oral agreement taken place between the parties cannot be denied. The aforesaid proposition of law has carefully been considered by the learned trial court while deciding the issue No. 1 and 8. There is no case of any party that formation of concluded oral agreement was result of misrepresentation or undue influence or without free will, therefore, formation of contract under Section 10 read with Section 2 (e) and (h) of Contract Act cannot be denied. Learned trial court has held the valid relationship of transferor and transferee between the parties. In support of its finding, he has relied upon the following cases:

(i) Badri Prasad Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh and another, AIR 1970 Supreme Court 706, (ii) Brij Mohan and others Vs. Smt. Sugra Begum and others (1990) 4 SCC 147 and

(iii) Aloka Bose and others Vs. Parmatma Devi and others (2009) 2 SCC 582.

11. I am convinced with the findings returned by the trial court who has decided the case after considering the evidence on record in right perspective, which has appropriately been affirmed by the first appellate court, that there was an existence of concluded oral agreement between the parties, which is enforceable in the eye of law.

12. So far as non-existence of written agreement between the parties is concerned, as submitted by the learned counsel for the appellants in his first submission, I am of the considered view, as discussed in preceding paragraph, that there is no legal requirement under the law for written document to enforce the agreement which took place between the parties. Agreement can be oral and same is enforceable provided formation of the contract is with free will. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Brij Mohan and others (supra) has clearly observed in paragraph 20 of its judgment as follows:-

“There is no requirement of law that an agreement or contract of sale of immovable property should only be in writing. However, in a case where the plaintiffs come forward to seek a decree for specific performance of contract of sale of immovable property on the basis of an oral agreement alone, heavy burden lies on the plaintiffs to prove that there was consensus ad idem between the parties for a concluded oral agreement for sale of immovable property. Whether there was such a concluded oral contract or not would be a question of fact to be determined in the facts and circumstances of each individual case. It has to be established by the plaintiffs that vital and fundamental terms for sale of immovable property were concluded between the parties orally and a written agreement if any to be executed subsequently would only be a formal agreement incorporating such terms which had already been settled and concluded in the oral agreement.” (Para 20)

12. Same view was pronounced by Hon’ble Supreme Court in the matter of Aloka Bose (supra). In paragraph Nos. 16, 17 and 18 of the judgment, it has been held as follows:-

“An agreement of sale comes into existence when the vendor agrees to sell and the purchaser agrees to purchase, for an agreed consideration on agreed terms. It can be oral. It can be by exchange of communications which may or may not be signed. It may be by a single document signed by both parties. It can also be by a document in two parts, each party signing one copy and then exchanging the signed copy as a consequence of which the purchaser has the copy signed by the vendor and a vendor has a copy signed by the purchaser. Or it can be by the vendor executing the document and delivering it to the purchaser who accepts it. (Para 16)

Considering Section 10 of the Contract Act, 1872 and the proviso thereto, no attention has been drawn to any law applicable in the State concerned at the relevant time, which requires an agreement of sale to be made in writing or in the presence of witnesses or to be registered. Therefore, even an oral agreement to sell is valid. If so, a written agreement signed by one of the parties, if it evidences such an oral agreement will also be valid. In India, an agreement of sale signed by the vendor alone and delivered to the purchaser, and accepted by the purchaser, has always been considered to be a valid contract. In the event of breach by the vendor, it can be specifically enforced by the purchaser. There is, however, no practice of the purchaser alone signing an agreement of sale.”.

(Paras 17 and 18)

13. Having considered the pleading of the parties and dictum of Hon’ble Apex Court, as cited above, it cannot be said that oral agreement instituted is not enforceable and suit for mandatory injunction to get the sale deed executed on behalf of plaintiff is not maintainable. Plaintiff, being a bonafide purchaser, has paid Rs. 2,500/- + 80,500/- to dependants, who in turn have accepted said amount and issued allotment letter dated 23.12.1987, however, later on they have refused to execute sale deed. Therefore, cause action arisen compelling the plaintiff to institute a civil suit to protect her legal rights. As such, I found no force in the first submission advanced by learned counsel for the defendants/appellants.

14. So far as the second submission advanced by the learned counsel for the appellant treating the suit as suit for specific performance of contract and requirement of finding on readiness and willingness, is concerned, written statement evince that defendants have not taken such plea in their written statement. They have simply disputed the rate of land and pleaded default in payment of demanded money at the part of the plaintiff. However, in the given circumstances, conduct of the parties explicitly indicates their intention to enter into an agreement for the purposes of sale and purchase of the plot in question. Proposal made by the defendants (promisor), through advertisement was accepted by the plaintiff/purchaser (promisee) creates the formation of contract between them. Even in absence of a written document, the plaintiff cannot be deprived of to protect her rights which occurred after accepting the proposal made by the promisor and she has acted upon in pursuance of that proposal. Though, in my opinion, in the absence of any written agreement between the parties explaining the specific terms and conditions the ingredients as required under Section 16 (c) of Specific Relief Act qua readiness and willingness at the part of the plaintiff to perform her part of contract cannot be ascertained, intention of the plaintiff to purchase the allotted land is explicit by her conduct when she had hurriedly deposited the money and obtained the allotment order in her favour and, according to the plaintiff, she has made full payment. As per the pleadings made by the parties, execution of the sale deed was hampered due to pendency of the writ petition being Writ Petition No. 22445 of 2007. Vide letter dated 15.11.2009, the defendants have informed the plaintiff qua decision dated 26.10.2009 in the said writ petition. Even assuming for the sake of arguments that the courts below have not given any finding with respect to the readiness and willingness, I am of the considered view that, prima facie, bonafides of the plaintiff in performing her part of oral contract cannot be denied considering the last payment made by her in pursuance of demand letter dated 30.12.2008 and registered notice dated 12/13.9.2010 sent to defendants to execute registered sale deed qua allotted plot. It is explicitly evident that the last price fixed by the defendants was 1,11,150/- whereas against the said amount, the plaintiff has already deposited money amounting Rs. 1,34,350/-. As per the case of the plaintiff, she is ready to pay the remaining amount, if any, for the purposes of execution of the sale deed, therefore, due diligence and bonafides at the part of the plaintiff cannot be denied in this matter.

15. The third submissions, as advanced by the learned counsel for the appellant qua limitation in filing the suit, is unfounded as well. In the given circumstances of the present case, as discussed above, there is no-existence of a written document reciting the condition of time limit/period qua execution of sale deed, which is admitted to both the parties, therefore, particular period/time limit, prima facie, cannot be said to be an essence for the agreement and same cannot be ascertained in the absence of written terms and conditions. In this peculiar circumstances, the law of limitation to file suit for mandatory injunction cannot be said to be applicable in the instant matter. Relying upon the case of Atma Ram (supra) learned counsel for appellant has tried to submit that even if the suit was filed for the mandatory injunction and the same has been treated as a suit for specific performance of contract, therefore, in that eventuality, amendment of plaint was required under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC, and the limitation would be considered from the date of amendment carried out in the plaint for the purpose of competence of the suit. There is no doubt qua proposition of law that specific time, in case, prescribed under the terms and conditions of the contract took place between the parties, same shall be the relevant date for enforcement of the contract and law of limitation will apply accordingly. It is also settled that where the amendment relates to the limitation of filing the suit, the limitation will be reckoned considering the date of amendment in the pleading which shall be relevant date for the purposes of deciding the competence of the suit which was required to be filed within the prescribed period of limitation. Such amendment bears on law of limitation and is exception to the doctrine of relation back. In the cited case, as relied upon by the learned Senior Advocate, suit was filed for mandatory injunction to direct the respondent to execute the documents of transfer of property in question after receiving balance sale consideration and, accordingly, Court's fee was paid by the plaintiff. It appears that the said suit was filed on the basis of an agreement dated 12.10.1994 which had taken place between the parties. Respondents have filed written statement denying the pleading made by the plaintiff including the execution of the agreement. He has also questioned the maintainability of the suit in the form in which it was filed. During the pendency of the said suit, the defendant has moved an application with respect to the maintainability of the suit on the ground that the suit is not maintainable for the enforcement of specific performance of contract of sale. Learned trial court has disposed of said application holding that suit was in fact one for specific performance of agreement to sale and the technical objection regarding the maintainability could be overcome by directing the plaintiff to pay the requisite court's fee and, accordingly, the trial court has directed the plaintiff to cure the defect by depositing the court fee. In pursuance of the said order, the plaintiff has deposited the court fee. In this backdrop of the case, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that in the event of suit for specific performance, the plaintiff ought to have submitted the requisite court fee of the value on the basis of the sale consideration mentioned in the agreement. It is further observed that, in case, the suit is only for the mandatory injunction then the recourse is open for the plaintiff to seek an amendment under Order 6 Rule 17 of the CPC. It is further observed that law of limitation will, accordingly, be applicable. The relevant paragraph No. 7, 8 and 9 of judgment Atma Ram (supra) relied upon by the learned Senior Advocate for the appellant is quoted hereinbelow:

7. As a matter of fact, if the suit was actually one for specific performance, the petitioner ought to have at least valued the suit on the basis of the sale consideration mentioned in the agreement. But he did not. If the suit was only for mandatory injunction (which it actually was), the only recourse open to the petitioner was to seek an amendment under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC. If such an application had been filed, it would have either been dismissed on the ground of limitation (K. Raheja Constructions Ltd. v. Alliance Ministries) or even if allowed, the prayer for specific performance, inserted by way of amendment, would not have been, as a matter of course, taken as relating back to the date of the plaint (Tarlok Singh v. Vijay Kumar Sabharwal, Van Vibhag Karamchari Griha Nirman Sahkari Sanstha Maryadit v. Ramesh Chander). Therefore, a short-cut was found by the petitioner-plaintiff to retain the plaint as such, but to seek permission to pay deficit court fee, as though what was filed in the first instance was actually a suit for specific performance. Such a dubious approach should not be allowed especially in a suit for specific performance, as the relief of specific performance is discretionary under Section 20 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963.

8. It may be true that the approach of the High Court in non-suiting the petitioner-plaintiff on the ground of limitation, despite the original defect having been cured and the same having attained finality, may be faulty. But we would not allow the petitioner to take advantage of the same by taking shelter under Section 149 CPC, especially when he filed the suit (after more than three years of the date fixed under the agreement of sale) only as one for mandatory injunction, valued the same as such and paid court fee accordingly, but chose to pay proper court fee after being confronted with an application for the dismissal of the suit. Clever ploys cannot always pay dividends.

9. Coming to the second aspect revolving around Section 16(c), a look at the judgment of the trial court would show that no issue was framed on the question of readiness and willingness on the part of the petitioner-plaintiff in terms of Section 16(c) of the Specific Relief Act, 1963. The fact that the petitioner chose to issue a legal notice dated 12-11-1996 and the fact that the petitioner created an alibi in the form of an affidavit executed before the Sub-Registrar on 7-10-1996 (marked as Ext. P-2) to show that he was present before the Sub-Registrar for the purpose of completion of the transaction, within the time stipulated for its performance, was not sufficient to conclude that the petitioner continued to be ready and willing even after three years, on 13-10-1999 when the plaint was presented. No explanation was forthcoming from the petitioner for the long delay of three years, in filing the suit (on 13-10-1999) after issuing a legal notice on 12-11-1996. The conduct of a plaintiff is very crucial in a suit for specific performance. A person who issues a legal notice on 12-11-1996 claiming readiness and willingness, but who institutes a suit only on 13-10-1999 and that too only with a prayer for a mandatory injunction carrying a fixed court fee relatable only to the said relief, will not be entitled to the discretionary relief of specific performance.”

16. The facts and circumstances of the cited cases are distinguishable from that of the given circumstances in the case in hand. In the present matter, terms and conditions of the agreement are not taken down in the nature of document, however, the oral agreement between the parties is concluded by their conduct. Issuance of allotment letter and acceptance of sale consideration at the part of defendant/colonizer (promissor) is sufficient to prove the formation of contract between the parties. There is nothing on the record to prove that the time was essence of the agreement as the same has not been specified anywhere. In case in hand, there is no judicial order to treat/convert the suit for mandatory injunction in the suit for specific performance of contract nor the plaint has been modified/corrected by moving any amendment application or by submitting the court fee treating it to be a suit for specific performance of contract, therefore, in my opinion, there is no case of incompetence of suit being barred by prescribed period of limitation. More so, Writ Petition No. 22445 of 2007 was decided on 26.10.2019, thereafter, plaintiff has sent registered notice dated 12/13.9.2010 to the defendants requesting them to execute sale deed qua allotted plot and file suit within three years i.e. on 12.3.2011. Therefore, suit cannot be treated to be filed beyond prescribed period of limitation from the date when cause of action arose.

17. While filing the instant appeal, the appellant has formulated as many as 12 substantial questions of law as averred at the bottom of the memo of appeal. For ready reference, they are quoted hereinbelow:

“A. Whether the courts below illegally granted the relief of specific performance of contract in suit in which the relief was sought for the mandatory injunction without amendment of any relief in the suit which was simple suit of mandatory injunction?

B. Whether, courts below have committed manifest illegality treating the suit of mandatory injunction as a suit for relief of specific performance of contract and granted the relief?

C. Whether, the suit of the plaintiff-respondent was not maintainable and the plaint is liable to be rejected under Order-VII Rule 11 of C.P.C.?

D. Whether, suit of the plaintiff respondent for the relief which was granted by courts below was barred by limitation the court below had failed to consider that allotment of the plot was alleged to have done on 23.12.1987 and suit being O.S. 601 of 2011 was filed on 17.3.2011 after 24 years?

E. Whether the relief of specific performance of the contract suit was barred by limitation even though the court below decreed the suit granting relief of specific performance of the contract in the suit for mandatory injunction?

F. Whether, there was no agreement to sell registered or unregistered in between the parties nor any concluded enforcement contract even though the courts below decreed the suit for specific performance of the contract which is liable to be set-aside?

G. Whether on 1.1.1977 amendment had taken place in Section 54 of the transfer of the property Act and 17(2) of the Registration Act by which agreement to sell regarding the agricultural property are require to be registered document in the present no registered or unregistered agreement even though the court below decreed the suit of mandatory injunction treating the same as suit for specific performance of the contract hence judgment and decree passed by courts below is liable to be set-aside?

H. Whether, in the suit of plaintiff-respondent no relief could be granted as per provision of Section 41-E and 41H of the Specific Relief Act but the court below had not consider the said aspect of the matter as such the judgment and decree passed by courts below is liable to be set-aside?

I. Whether, courts below had committed gross illegality the valuation of the disputed plot as Rs. 266 per sq. gaj while valuation settled Rs. 550/- per sq. gaj at the time of booking of plot in the year 1987 and no evidence was produced by the plaintiff-respondent about the valuation even though the courts below in arbitrary manner held the valuation Rs. 266/- per sq. gaj?.

J. Whether, as per the booking development charge is liable to be paid by the booking holder of the plot but the courts below have not considered this aspect of the matter as such judgment and order of the courts below is liable o be set-aside?

K. Whether, suit for specific performance can be decree without framing any issue and without deciding readiness and willingness as contemplated U/s 16 (C) of specific Relief Act?

L. Whether, booking of the plot was done on 23.12.1987 and suit was filed after 24 years on 17.3.2011 hence the suit was time barred and liable to be barred under Order VII Rule-11 C.P.C.?”

18. I have carefully considered all the substantial questions of law as formulated by the appellants which appears to be misconceived and non-substantial as emerges from the facts and circumstances of the present case. Considering the short submissions advanced by the learned Senior Advocate for the appellants in the light of the given circumstances of the present case, I am of the view that the courts below have rightly decreed the suit for mandatory injunction directing the defendants-appellants to execute the sale deed in favour of the plaintiff after receiving the money amounting Rs. 2,500/- and declared the cancellation letter dated 7.10.2011 to be null and void. Issuance of cancellation letter dated 7.10.2011 at subsequent stage during the pendency of the suit explicitly indicates the malafide intention of the defendants, who have deliberately taken such a step after institution of the suit just to avoid their obligation which they promised to be fulfilled at the time of allotment of the plot in question i.e. plot No. C-107 measuring area 300 square yards through allotment letter dated 23.12.1987. It would not be out of context to cite the provisions of Section 39 of Specific Relief Act, which is quoted hereinbelow:

“39. Mandatory injunctions.- When, to prevent the breach of an obligation, it is necessary to compel the performance of certain acts which the court is capable of enforcing, the court may in its discretion grant an injunction to prevent the breach complained of, and also to compel performance of the requisite acts.”

19. A simple reading of the provisions as enunciated under Section 39 of the Specific Relief Act connotes that the court may in its discretion grant mandatory injunction, when it is necessary to compel the performance of certain contracts which the court is capable of enforcing, to prevent the breach of an obligation and also to compel the performance of requisite act. Applying the aforesaid provision, in the given circumstances, it is explicit that the defendants are at the fault who are trying to avert their obligation to perform part of their contract, which was concluded between the parties. Appellants have received the consideration money, however, averted their part to execute the registered sale deed in favour of the plaintiff/respondent. In this backdrop of the case, the suit for mandatory injunction has rightly been filed by the plaintiff-respondent against the defendants-appellants and the courts below have rightly decreed the suit upholding the entitlement of the plaintiff for mandatory injunction and for the declaratory injunction as well declaring the cancellation letter dated 7.10.2011 null and void. Overall conduct of the plaintiff, from the date of depositing the money up to the date of sending the registered letter in the nature of notice, indicates the bonafide intention of the plaintiff to get the sale deed executed in her favour.

20. Moreover, the Court cannot oblivious as well to the judgment dated 11.1.2021 passed by the co-ordinate Bench of this Court in second appeal No. 439 of 2020 rendered in the similar facts and circumstances of the case wherein another plot No. A-74 situated in the ‘Pink City’ has been promised to be transferred by the present defendants/appellants. Suit filed on behalf of plaintiff (allottee) has concurrently been decreed by the trial court as well as first appellate court, and ultimately culminated in favour of the plaintiff by dismissing the second appeal filed on behalf of the defendant (colonizer) vide judgment dated 11.1.2021.

21. In this conspectus as above, I am of the considered view that the bonafide claim of the plaintiff cannot be denied on hyper technical grounds as tried to be submitted by the learned counsel for the appellants, whereas, they have failed to make out any substantial questions of law to entertain the instant second appeal against the judgment and decree, under challenge, passed by the courts below.

22. After careful consideration of the matter in hand, I failed to find out any substantial questions of law so as to interfere in the concurrent finding of fact returned by the courts below in exercise of second appellate jurisdiction under Section 100 CPC. It is settled that with respect to the questions of fact, the first appellate court is the last court of facts. At the second appellate stage, no second appeal under Section 100 CPC can be entertained without making out a substantial question of law. Submission as raised by the learned Senior Advocate for the appellant cannot be treated to be a substantial questions of law in the given circumstances of the present case.

23. Resultantly, the present writ petition, being devoid of merits and misconceived, is dismissed with no order as to the costs.

Special Appeal No. 228 of 2023

Dr. R.M.L. Ins. of Medical Science Lko. & Ors. ...Appellants

Versus

Dr. Charu Mahajan & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellants:

Anupras Singh, Sr. Advocate

Counsel for the Respondents:

Gaurav Mehrotra, C.S.C.

Service Law-Dr. Ram Manohar Lohia Institute of Medical Sciences Act, 2015-Section 42 - The Constitution of India-1950-Article 226- Mere availability of an alternative remedy not exhausted by the party approaching this Court invoking writ jurisdiction, does not oust the jurisdiction of the Court that will render a writ petition not maintainable-the petitioner has not taken recourse to Section 42 of the Act 2015, rather has challenged the order of the President as communicated to her by the Director of the Institute by means of the order dated 22.02.2023. Thus, it cannot be said that the order of dismissal from service could not be challenged by filing writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India unless it is given finality by the Visitor of the Institute. (Para 23, 26 & 37)

Special Appeal dismissed. (E-15)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Devendra Kumar Upadhyaya, J.)

1. Dr. Ram Manohar Lohia Institute of Medical Sciences, Lucknow (here-in-after referred to as 'Institute') is before us in this intra-court appeal filed under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court challenging an order dated 13.04.2023 passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ-A No.2822 of 2023 whereby the preliminary objection raised on behalf of the appellant-Institute regarding maintainability/entertainability of the writ petition has been overruled and the appellant-Institute has been required to file its counter affidavit to the prayer for grant of interim relief made by the respondent no.1-petitioner in the writ petition.

2. Heard Shri Asit Kumar Chaturvedi, Senior Advocate, assisted by Shri Anupras Singh, learned counsel representing the appellant-Institute and Shri Gaurav Mehrotra, Advocate representing the respondent no.1-petitioner. Learned State Counsel representing the State-respondents has also been heard. We have also perused the records available before us on this special appeal.

3. At the outset, learned counsel for the respondent no.1-petitioner has argued that this special appeal is not maintainable for the reason that the order under appeal does not decide any issue; rather by the said order learned Single Judge has only entertained the writ petition overruling the objection of the appellant-Institute that against the order under challenge in the writ petition, the respondent no.1-petitioner has got an alternative remedy under section 42 of Dr. Ram Manohar Lohia Institute of Medical Sciences Act, 2015 (here-in-after referred to as 'the Act, 2015') before the Visitor, as such writ petition ought not to have been entertained by the learned Single Judge. Thus, the submission against the maintainability of this special appeal is that once the learned Single Judge has decided to entertain the writ petition overruling the objection of there being an alternative remedy, such discretion need not be interfered with by this Court in this special appeal.

4. Replying to the aforesaid submission made by the learned counsel representing the respondent no.1-petitioner regarding maintainability of this intra-court appeal, Shri Chaturvedi, learned Senior Advocate has strenuously argued that in the wake of availability of statutory alternative remedy under section 42 of the Act, 2015, which is efficacious too, learned Single Judge has erred in law in maintaining the writ petition. In his submission, he has urged that the writ petition is not maintainable in view of the aforesaid and it ought to have been dismissed relegating the respondent no.1-petitioner to the remedy under section 42 of the Act, 2015. In support of his submission, Shri Chaturvedi has placed reliance on the judgments in the case of (i) Dr. G. Sarana vs. University of Lucknow and others, reported in (1976) 3 SCC 585, (ii) State of Goa and others vs. Leukoplast (India) Ltd, reported in (1997) 4 SCC 82, (iii) A. P. Foods vs. S. Samuel and others, reported in (2006) 5 SCC 469, (iv) Transport and Dock Workers Union and others vs. Mumbai Port Trust and another, reported in (2011) 2 SCC 575, (v) Ansal Housing and Construction Ltd. vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and others, reported in (2016) 13 SCC 305 and (vi) Krishna Kumar vs. Director, Sanjay Gandhi Post Graduate Institute of Medical Sciences, reported in (2008) LawSuit (All) 1060.

5. We have carefully considered the rival submissions made by the learned counsel representing the respective parties.

6. Before dealing with the competing submissions made by the parties, we find it appropriate to notice certain facts, which can be gathered from the pleadings available on record, as also from the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties.

7. The Institute was initially started as a Centre of Sanjay Gandhi Post Graduate Institute of Medical Sciences to make available super-speciality medical care. It was initially registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 and was functioning as autonomous Institution since the year 2006. The State Government, however, decided to provide for conferring on the said Institute status of a University so as to ensure that Institute functions more efficiently as a Teaching and Research Centre to meet the requirement of Higher Education and Research in Medical, Para-Medical and Allied Health Service. Accordingly the State Legislature enacted the Act, 2015 (U.P. Act No.41 of 2018) which inter alia provided for establishing of the institute on the pattern of All India Institute of Medical Sciences, New Delhi.

8. As per section 5 of the Act, 2015 the Institute consists of various members which include the Governor of Uttar Pradesh who is its Visitor (ex-officio) and the Chief Secretary of the Government of Uttar Pradesh, who is its President (ex-officio). Section 10 of the Act, 2015 provides that the Visitor, the President, the Vice-President, the Director, the Dean of the Institute, the Finance Officer and such other officers as may be required by the Regulation, are the officers of the Institute. Section 11 of the said Act provides that the Governor of Uttar Pradesh shall be the Visitor of the Institute. Sub-section 6 of section 11 provides that subject to the provisions of section 42, the Visitor may, by an order in writing, annul any proceeding of the Institute if the same is not found in conformity with the Act or the Rules or the Regulations made under the Act. As per Section 12 of the Act, 2015 the Chief Secretary of Uttar Pradesh is the President of the Institute and he is also the Chairman of the Governing Body. Section 18 defines the authorities of the Institute which includes Board of Governors. Section 19 states that the Board of Governors shall be the principal governing body of the Institute which shall consist of the Chief Secretary, Government of Uttar Pradesh being its Chairperson (ex-officio). Section 26 provides that Professors, Associate Professors, Assistant Professors and Group 'A' Officers of the Institute shall be appointed by the Chairperson of the Governing Body i.e. the Chief Secretary of the Government of Uttar Pradesh. Section 34 empowers the Institute to make regulations with the previous approval of the State Government to provide for the matters enumerated therein. Section 40 empowers the State Government to issue such directions on policy matters from time to time which shall not be inconsistent with the provisions of the Act. It further provides that such a direction shall be complied with by the Institute. Apart from power of issuing directions, the State Government has also been vested with the power to cause inspection of the Institute.

9. Section 42 of the Act, 2015, with which we are concerned in this case, provides that if an issue arises whether any person has been elected or appointed or is entitled to be a member of the Institute, Governing Body, any authority or any body of the Institute or whether any decision of the Institute, Governing Body or any authority or body of the Institute is in conformity with the Act or the rules or regulations, the matter shall be referred to the Visitor and the decision of the Visitor in that regard shall be final. The first proviso appended to section 42 provides that no reference under the said provision shall be made more than three months after the due date when the question could have been raised for the first time. Further, the second proviso empowers the Visitor to act suo motu or entertain a reference after expiry of the period of three months in exceptional circumstances. Section 42 of the Act, 2015 is quoted herein below:

"42. If any question arises whether any person has been duly elected or appointed as or is entitled to be, a member of the Institute, Governing Body, any authority or other body of the Institute or not, or whether any decision of the Institutes, Governing Body or any authority or other body of the Institute is in conformity with this Act or the rules or regulations made thereunder or not, the matter shall be referred to the Visitor and the decision of the Visitor shall be final."

10. Having noticed the broad scheme of the Act, we now proceed to narrate the facts which engage our attention in this case. An advertisement was issued by the Institute on 08.09.2016 inviting applications for filling up various vacant teaching posts in several departments including two posts of Assistant Professor in the Department of Obstetrics & Gynaecology. The essential qualification mentioned in the advertisement was as per MCI (Medical Council of India) requirement. The advertisement further provided that medical qualification as essential qualification shall be as provided in the "Minimum Qualification for Teachers in Medical Institutions Regulations, 1998" with amendments. For the post of Assistant Professor, the requisite experience as advertised in the advertisement was three years teaching experience after prescribed Post-Graduate (MD/MS/PhD etc.) at a recognized teaching institution as on 30.06.2016. The post of Assistant Professor, Obstetrics & Gynecology is mentioned at serial no. 29 in the said advertisement. Against the said post the "Minimum Qualification" prescribed is MD/MS (Obstetrics & Gynaecology). Along with educational qualification, the advertisement mentioned requirement of three years post MD/MS teaching experience in the subject in a recognized medical college/teaching institution as Senior Resident/Registrar/Demonstrator/Tutor/Lecturer.

11. The petitioner considering herself to be eligible made her application for appointment to the post of Assistant Professor (Obstetrics & Gynaecology) against the advertisement dated 08.09.2016 and was subjected to selection. On the basis of selection held, she was appointed on the post of Maternity and Child Welfare-cum-Lecturer/Assistant Professor in the Obstetrics and Gynaecology in the regular scale of pay of Rs.15600-39100 with Academic Grade Pay of Rs.8,700/-.

12. The said appointment was made under the appointment order issued by the Director of the Institute on 16.12.2016. On her appointment, the respondent no.1-petitioner assumed her charge on the said post and had since then been discharging the functions and duties of her post.

13. A Public Interest Litigation (Civil) No.24194 of 2018 was filed before this Court with the prayer to issue direction to the State Government as also the authorities of the Institute to act upon a report dated 25.04.2018 based on an enquiry conducted by the Director General of Medical Education, Uttar Pradesh against the then Director of the Institute regarding alleged malpractices in selection of teaching faculties at the Institute. The said P.I.L was disposed of, noticing that the Director General, Medical Education had conducted an enquiry and submitted a report dated 28.06.2019 and in the said enquiry certain discrepancies were noticed and the matter was pending before the State Government, with the direction to take appropriate action pursuant to the enquiry report dated 28.06.2016. The matter thereafter appears to have been considered by the Board of Governors in its meeting held on 30.07.2020 wherein it was observed by the Board of Directors that the respondent no.1-petitioner was appointed on the post of Assistant Professor in the concerned department irregularly and accordingly the Board of Directors decided that the Director should take appropriate action for termination of service of the respondent no.1-petitioner treating her appointment to be void ab initio.

14. A show cause notice was thereafter issued by the Director on 11.02.2021 intimating the respondent no.1-petitioner that the Board of Directors in its meeting held on 30.07.2020 had taken a decision to terminate her services treating her appointment to be void ab initio and accordingly she should explain within a fortnight as to why her services as Assistant Professor, Obstetrics & Gynecology should not be terminated in the light of the findings recorded and decision taken by the Board of Directors in its meeting dated 30.07.2020. The respondent no.1-petitioner submitted her reply to the said show cause notice on 23.02.2021 denying the allegation that the respondent no.1-petitioner did not fulfill the requisite teaching experience and that there was no illegality in her appointment hence the show cause notice given to her for termination of her services being bad in law, was liable to be recalled.

15. Instead of acting upon the show cause notice dated 11.02.2021 and the reply submitted by the respondent no.1-petitioner to the said show cause notice on 23.02.2021, a charge-sheet dated 18.01.2022 was issued to the respondent no.1-petitioner with the sole allegation that she had applied for appointment in question vide her application dated 26.09.2016 allegedly mentioning wrong facts about her experience and she got her appointment accordingly. The documents relied upon in the said charge-sheet were -- (i) photo copy of application form of the respondent no.1-petitioner, (ii) photo copy of her experience certificates and (iii) photo copy of Enquiry Report submitted by the Director General, Medical Education & Training, U.P. The respondent no.1-petitioner submitted her reply to the said show cause notice on 31.01.2022 stating therein that she had not furnished any wrong facts relating to her teaching experience while making her application against the advertisement. Nothing was done in pursuance of the said charge-sheet dated 18.01.2022, instead another charge-sheet was issued to the respondent no.1-petitioner, dated 04.02.2022 which contained the same allegation as mentioned in the charge-sheet, dated 18.01.2022, except that in support of the charge apart from relying on the three documents as mentioned in the charge-sheet dated 18.01.2022, two more documents were relied upon, one of which was the photo copy of the advertisement and the other was the MCI Regulations, 1998 as amended till 13th July, 2016.

16. The respondent no.1-petitioner submitted her reply to the said charge-sheet on 22.02.2022 denying the allegations levelled against her and stating therein that the charge had wrongly been framed against her for the reason that the respondent no.1-petitioner did not conceal any fact. She also stated that in case reply/explanation furnished by her is not accepted, she shall cross-examine the members of the Scrutiny Committee, Dr. Reena Srivastava, Professor, Obstetrics & Gynaecology, B. R. D. Medical College, Gorakhpur, Dr. Alka Kriplani, Professor, Obstetrics & Gynaecology, All India Institute of Medical Sciences, New Delhi, Dr. Deepak Malviya, Member of the Selection Committee and the Director General Medical Education, U.P., another member of the Selection Committee.

17. The respondent no.1-petitioner also furnished a supplementary reply to the charge-sheet on 12.04.2022. The Enquiry Officer submitted the enquiry report which was served upon the respondent no.1-petitioner by means of a letter dated 04.07.2022 by the Executive Registrar of the Institute requiring her to submit her response to the enquiry report. The respondent no.1-petitioner accordingly submitted her comments on the enquiry report vide letter dated 20.07.2022 stating inter alia that she had requested for an oral enquiry to cross-examine five persons as mentioned by her in the reply submitted to the charge-sheet and hence it was obligatory on the part of the enquiry officer to have fixed a date for such oral enquiry after calling the witnesses. She also stated that the enquiry officer had relied upon the opinion of the Director General, Medical Education, U.P., who despite request, was not produced during the course of enquiry permitting her to cross-examine him. The appellant-petitioner also challenged the findings recorded by the enquiry officer in the enquiry report and lastly submitted that the enquiry conducted against her was inter alia against the principles of natural justice.

18. Thereafter an office order dated 22.02.2023 has been passed by the Director with the approval and in compliance of the order of the President of the Institute whereby the respondent no.1-petitioner has been dismissed from service of the Institute without any bar for applying for future recruitment under the Government.

19. It is the aforesaid order dated 22.02.2023 issued by the Director with the approval of the President whereby she has been dismissed from service which has been challenged by the respondent no.1-petitioner by instituting Writ-A No.2822 of 2023. Apart from challenging the office order dated 22.02.2023, the respondent no.1-petitioner has also challenged the resolution of the Board of Directors dated 30.07.2020 whereby it was decided that treating the appointment of the respondent no.1-petitioner to be void ab initio, the Director must take appropriate decision for terminating her services.

20. The objection regarding the very maintainability of the writ petition as argued by the appellant-Institute, has been overruled by the learned Single Judge by means of the order which is under appeal before us. The learned Single Judge has decided to exercise his discretion to entertain the writ petition.

22. In the aforesaid facts and circumstances, the question which falls for our consideration is as to whether the order dated 13.04.2023 passed by the learned Single Judge which is under appeal herein, whereby the writ petition filed by the respondent no.1-petitioner has been entertained and the learned Single Judge has decided to exercise his discretion in the matter, is liable to be interfered with in this special appeal or not?

22. Quoting the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Whirlpool Corporation vs. Registrar of Trade Marks, Mumbai and others, reported in (1998) 8 SCC 1, learned Single Judge has observed that the facts of the case presented before him, persuaded him to exercise his discretion for entertaining the writ petition.

23. There cannot be any quarrel on the legal proposition that exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India by the High Courts is discretionary. There is also no dispute to the legal principle that availability of alternative remedy provided by the relevant statute is not an absolute bar to entertain a writ petition; rather the High Court has discretion whether to entertain the writ petition or not bearing in mind the facts of the case being brought before the Court. One of the self-imposed restrictions on entertaining a writ petition is that this Court should not normally entertain the writ petition where effective and efficacious alternative remedy is available, however, simultaneously it should also be borne in mind that mere availability of an alternative remedy not exhausted by the party approaching this Court invoking writ jurisdiction, does not oust the jurisdiction of the Court that will render a writ petition not maintainable.

24. Underlying the distinction between "entertainability" and maintainability" of writ petition in the wake of availability of alternative remedy, the

Hon'ble Supreme Court in a latest pronouncement in the case of Godrej Sara Lee Ltd. vs. Excise and Taxation Officer-cum-Assessing Authority and others, reported in 2023 SCC OnLine SC 95, has held that the exceptions carved out in the case of Whirlpool Corporation (supra) to entertain a writ petition even in the wake of availability of alternative remedy have to be kept in mind. Paragraphs 4 to 8 of the judgment in the case of Godrej Sara Lee Ltd.(supra) are relevant which are extracted hereunder:

"4. Before answering the questions, we feel the urge to say a few words on the exercise of writ powers conferred by Article 226 of the Constitution having come across certain orders passed by the high courts holding writ petitions as "not maintainable" merely because the alternative remedy provided by the relevant statutes has not been pursued by the parties desirous of invocation of the writ jurisdiction. The power to issue prerogative writs under Article 226 is plenary in nature. Any limitation on the exercise of such power must be traceable in the Constitution itself. Profitable reference in this regard may be made to Article 329 and ordainments of other similarly worded articles in the Constitution. Article 226 does not, in terms, impose any limitation or restraint on the exercise of power to issue writs. While it is true that exercise of writ powers despite availability of a remedy under the very statute which has been invoked and has given rise to the action impugned in the writ petition ought not to be made in a routine manner, yet, the mere fact that the petitioner before the high court, in a given case, has not pursued the alternative remedy available to him/it cannot mechanically be construed as a ground for its dismissal. It is axiomatic that the high courts (bearing in mind the facts of each particular case) have a discretion whether to entertain a writ petition or not. One of the self-imposed restrictions on the exercise of power under Article 226 that has evolved through judicial precedents is that the high courts should normally not entertain a writ petition, where an effective and efficacious alternative remedy is available. At the same time, it must be remembered that mere availability of an alternative remedy of appeal or revision, which the party invoking the jurisdiction of the high court under Article 226 has not pursued, would not oust the jurisdiction of the high court and render a writ petition "not maintainable". In a long line of decisions, this Court has made it clear that availability of an alternative remedy does not operate as an absolute bar to the "maintainability" of a writ petition and that the rule, which requires a party to pursue the alternative remedy provided by a statute, is a rule of policy, convenience and discretion rather than a rule of law. Though elementary, it needs to be restated that "entertainability" and "maintainability" of a writ petition are distinct concepts. The fine but real distinction between the two ought not to be lost sight of. The objection as to "maintainability" goes to the root of the matter and if such objection were found to be of substance, the courts would be rendered incapable of even receiving the lis for adjudication. On the other hand, the question of "entertainability" is entirely within the realm of discretion of the high courts, writ remedy being discretionary. A writ petition despite being maintainable may not be entertained by a high court for very many reasons or relief could even be refused to the petitioner, despite setting up a sound legal point, if grant of the claimed relief would not further public interest. Hence, dismissal of a writ petition by a high court on the ground that the petitioner has not availed the alternative remedy without, however, examining whether an exceptional case has been made out for such entertainment would not be proper.

5. A little after the dawn of the Constitution, a Constitution Bench of this Court in its decision reported in 1958 SCR 595 (State of Uttar Pradesh v. Mohd. Nooh) had the occasion to observe as follows:

*"10. In the next place it must be borne in mind that there is no rule, with regard to certiorari as there is with mandamus, that it will lie only where there is no other equally effective remedy. It is well established that, provided the requisite grounds exist, Certiorari will lie although a right of appeal has been conferred by statute, (Halsbury's Laws of England, 3rd Edn., Vol. 11, p. 130 and the cases cited there). The fact that the aggrieved party has another and adequate remedy may be taken into consideration by the superior court in arriving at a conclusion as to whether it should, in exercise of its discretion, issue a writ of Certiorari to quash the proceedings and decisions of inferior courts subordinate to it and ordinarily the superior court will decline to interfere until the aggrieved party has exhausted his other statutory remedies, if any. But this rule requiring the exhaustion of statutory remedies before the writ will be granted is a rule of policy, convenience and discretion rather than a rule of law and instances are numerous where a writ of Certiorari has been issued in spite of the fact that the aggrieved party had other adequate legal remedies. ***"*

6. At the end of the last century, this Court in paragraph 15 of its decision reported in (1998) 8 SCC 1 (Whirlpool Corporation v. Registrar of Trade Marks, Mumbai) carved out the exceptions on the existence whereof a Writ Court would be justified in entertaining a writ petition despite the party approaching it not having availed the alternative remedy provided by the statute. The same read as under:

(i) where the writ petition seeks enforcement of any of the fundamental rights;

(ii) where there is violation of principles of natural justice;

(iii) where the order or the proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction; or

(iv) where the vires of an Act is challenged.

7. Not too long ago, this Court in its decision reported in 2021 SCC OnLine SC 884 (Assistant Commissioner of State Tax v. Commercial Steel Limited) has reiterated the same principles in paragraph 11.

8. That apart, we may also usefully refer to the decisions of this Court reported in (1977) 2 SCC 724 (State of Uttar Pradesh v. Indian Hume Pipe Co. Ltd.) and (2000) 10 SCC 482 (Union of India v. State of Haryana). What appears on a plain reading of the former decision is that whether a certain item falls within an entry in a sales tax statute, raises a pure question of law and if investigation into facts is unnecessary, the high court could entertain a writ petition in its discretion even though the alternative remedy was not availed of; and, unless exercise of discretion is shown to be unreasonable or perverse, this Court would not interfere. In the latter decision, this Court found the issue raised by the appellant to be pristinely legal requiring determination by the high court without putting the appellant through the mill of statutory appeals in the hierarchy. What follows from the said decisions is that where the controversy is a purely legal one and it does not involve disputed questions of fact but only questions of law, then it should be decided by the high court instead of dismissing the writ petition on the ground of an alternative remedy being available."

25. The exceptions carved out in the case of Whirlpool Corporation (supra) are as under:

(i) where the party approaching the Court seeks enforcement of any of the fundamental rights,

(ii) there is violation of principles of natural justice,

(iii) where the order or the proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction or

(iv) where the vires of an Act is under challenge.

26. Before the judgment by the Apex Court in the case of Godrej Sara Lee Ltd. (supra) similar observations were made and legal principle was enunciated by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of M/s Radha Krishan Industries vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and others, decided on 20.04.2021, reported in (2021) 6 SCC 771. After discussing various judgments, Hon'ble Supreme Court has also considered the legal principle evolved by the Apex Court in the case of Whirlpool Corporation (supra) and enunciated the principle of law in para 24 of the said judgment. One of the legal principles evolved by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of M/s Radha Krishan Industries (supra) is that there are certain exceptions to the rule of alternative remedy and such exceptions are that where a writ petition has been filed for enforcement of fundamental right protected by Part-III of the Constitution of India, where there has been a violation of principles of natural justice, where the order or the proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction and where the vires of legislation is challenged. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the said case of M/s Radha Krishan Industries (supra) has also held that an alternative remedy by itself does not divest the High Court of its power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India in an appropriate case though ordinarily, a writ petition should not be entertained when an efficacious and alternative remedy is provided by law. It has also been held in the said case by the Apex Court that Rule of exhaustion of statutory remedies is a rule of policy, convenience and discretion. Paragraphs 24 to 27 of the Judgment in the case of M/s Radha Krishan Industries (supra) read as under:-

"24. The High Court has dealt with the maintainability of the petition under Article 226 of the Constitution. Relying on the decision of this Court in CCT v. Glaxo Smith Kline Consumer Health Care Ltd. [CCT v. Glaxo Smith Kline Consumer Health Care Ltd., (2020) 19 SCC 681 : 2020 SCC OnLine SC 440] , the High Court noted that although it can entertain a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution, it must not do so when the aggrieved person has an effective alternate remedy available in law. However, certain exceptions to this "rule of alternate remedy" include where, the statutory authority has not acted in accordance with the provisions of the law or acted in defiance of the fundamental principles of judicial procedure; or has resorted to invoke provisions, which are repealed; or where an order has been passed in violation of the principles of natural justice. Applying this formulation, the High Court noted that the appellant has an alternate remedy available under the GST Act and thus, the petition was not maintainable.

25. In this background, it becomes necessary for this Court, to dwell on the "rule of alternate remedy" and its judicial exposition. In Whirlpool Corpn. v. Registrar of Trade Marks [Whirlpool Corpn. v. Registrar of Trade Marks, (1998) 8 SCC 1] , a two-Judge Bench of this Court after reviewing the case law on this point, noted : (SCC pp. 9-10, paras 14-15)

"14. The power to issue prerogative writs under Article 226 of the Constitution is plenary in nature and is not limited by any other provision of the Constitution. This power can be exercised by the High Court not only for issuing writs in the nature of habeas corpus, mandamus, prohibition, quo warranto and certiorari for the enforcement of any of the Fundamental Rights contained in Part III of the Constitution but also for "any other purpose".

15. Under Article 226 of the Constitution, the High Court, having regard to the facts of the case, has a discretion to entertain or not to entertain a writ petition. But the High Court has imposed upon itself certain restrictions one of which is that if an effective and efficacious remedy is available, the High Court would not normally exercise its jurisdiction. But the alternative remedy has been consistently held by this Court not to operate as a bar in at least three contingencies, namely, where the writ petition has been filed for the enforcement of any of the Fundamental Rights or where there has been a violation of the principle of natural justice or where the order or proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction or the vires of an Act is challenged. There is a plethora of case-law on this point but to cut down this circle of forensic whirlpool, we would rely on some old decisions of the evolutionary era of the constitutional law as they still hold the field."

26. Following the dictum of this Court in Whirlpool (supra), in Harbanslal Sahnia v. Indian Oil Corpn. Ltd., this Court noted that :

*"7. So far as the view taken by the High Court that the remedy by way of recourse to arbitration clause was available to the appellants and therefore the writ petition filed by the appellants was liable to be dismissed is concerned, suffice it to observe that the rule of exclusion of writ jurisdiction by availability of an alternative remedy is a rule of discretion and not one of compulsion. In an appropriate case, in spite of availability of the alternative remedy, the High Court may still exercise its writ jurisdiction in at least three contingencies : (i) where the writ petition seeks enforcement of any of the fundamental rights; (ii) where there is failure of principles of natural justice; or (iii) where the orders or proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction or the vires of an Act is challenged. (See Whirlpool Corpn.v. Registrar of Trade Marks [Whirlpool Corpn. v. Registrar of Trade Marks, (1998) 8 SCC 1] .) The present case attracts applicability of the first two contingencies. Moreover, as noted, the appellants' dealership, which is their bread and butter, came to be terminated for an irrelevant and non-existent cause. In such circumstances, we feel that the appellants should have been allowed relief by the High Court itself instead of driving* them to the need of initiating arbitration proceedings."

(emphasis supplied)

27. The principles of law which emerge are that:

1. The power under Article 226 of the Constitution to issue writs can be exercised not only for the enforcement of fundamental rights, but for any other purpose as well.

2. The High Court has the discretion not to entertain a writ petition. One of the restrictions placed on the power of the High Court is where an effective alternate remedy is available to the aggrieved person.

3. Exceptions to the rule of alternate remedy arise where : (a) the writ petition has been filed for the enforcement of a fundamental right protected by Part III of the Constitution; (b) there has been a violation of the principles of natural justice; (c) the order or proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction; or (d) the vires of a legislation is challenged.

4. An alternate remedy by itself does not divest the High Court of its powers under Article 226 of the Constitution in an appropriate case though ordinarily, a writ petition should not be entertained when an efficacious alternate remedy is provided by law.

5. When a right is created by a statute, which itself prescribes the remedy or procedure for enforcing the right or liability, resort must be had to that particular statutory remedy before invoking the discretionary remedy under Article 226 of the Constitution. This rule of exhaustion of statutory remedies is a rule of policy, convenience and discretion.

6. In cases where there are disputed questions of fact, the High Court may decide to decline jurisdiction in a writ petition. However, if the High Court is objectively of the view that the nature of the controversy requires the exercise of its writ jurisdiction, such a view would not readily be interfered with."

27. Yet in another case reported in (2009) 2 SCC 630, Committee of Management and another vs. Vice-Chancellor and others, which had emanated from a judgment of this Court in relation to the provisions contained in Section 68 of U.P. State Universities Act, 1973 which is similarly worded as section 42 of the Act 2015, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that alternative remedy is not an absolute bar and relegation to alternative remedy will not be warranted where an order passed by an authority is without jurisdiction or the same is in violation of principles of natural justice. Section 68 of the U.P. State Universities Act, 1973, in respect of which Hon'ble Supreme Court has made the aforesaid observations in the case of Committee of Management and another (supra) is extracted herein below:

"68. Reference to the Chancellor.—If any question arises whether any person has been duly elected or appointed as, or is entitled to be, member of any authority or other body of the University, or whether any decision of any authority or officer of the University (including any question as to the validity of a Statute, Ordinance or Regulation, not being a Statute or Ordinance made or approved by the State Government or by the Chancellor) is in conformity with this Act or the Statutes or the Ordinance made thereunder, the matter shall be referred to the Chancellor and the decision of the Chancellor thereon shall be final:

Provided that no reference under this section shall be made—

(a) more than three months after the date when the question could have been raised for the first time;

(b) by any person other than an authority or officer of the University or a person aggrieved:

Provided further that the Chancellor may in exceptional circumstances—

(a) act suo motu or entertain a reference after the expiry of the period mentioned in the preceding proviso;

(b) where the matter referred relates to a dispute about the election, and the eligibility of the person so elected is in doubt, pass such orders of stay as he thinks just and expedient;

(c) * * * *

28. Thus, from the legal principles as propounded by Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforementioned judgments, it is abundantly clear that exercise of discretionary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India depends on the facts of each case. It is also equally settled that availability of alternative statutory remedy is not an absolute bar, it is rather a rule of self-imposed discipline/restriction and public policy, and in certain cases falling within the exception as carved out by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Whirlpool Corporation (supra), even in the wake of availability of alternative statutory remedy, this Court can decide to exercise its discretion under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

29. Now, if we apply the aforesaid legal principles in the present case, the question which arises for our consideration is as to whether the facts of the case presented before the learned Single Judge by the respondent no.1-petitioner in her writ petition make out a case for exercise of discretion under Article 226 of the Constitution of India in the wake of availability of alternative statutory remedy under Section 42 of the Act 2015 or not.

30. We have already noticed the facts of the case which have led the respondent no.1-petitioner to institute the proceedings of Writ-A No.2822 of 2023. One of the grounds taken to challenge the order of dismissal dated 22.02.2023 is that during the course of enquiry, though the respondent no.1-petitioner had categorically requested that certain witnesses be produced for cross-examination, however, the said prayer was denied to her. In this regard we may state that while submitting her reply to the charge-sheet dated 04.02.2022 vide her letter dated 22.02.2022 the respondent no.1-petitioner had clearly indicated therein that in case the enquiry officer did not agree with the explanation/reply submitted by her to the charge-sheet she intended to cross-examine five persons which included the members of the Scrutiny Committee which had initially scrutinized the application form submitted by the respondent no.1-petitioner and also two Professors in the department of Obstetrics & Gynaecology, one in the State Medical College at Gorakhpur and the other at All India Institute of Medical Sciences and also two members of the Selection Committee. We may also note that while submitting her comments to the enquiry report the respondent no.1-petitioner had again mentioned that she had desired an oral enquiry and to cross-examine five persons while submitting her reply to the charge-sheet and hence it was obligatory on the the part of enquiry officer to have fixed a date for recording such oral evidence after calling the witnesses.

31. We also notice that despite the aforesaid request in categorical terms for cross-examining the witnesses, there is nothing on record before us which can establish that the respondent no.1-petitioner was permitted to cross-examine the said persons. We may also note that the witnesses whom the respondent no.1-petitioner intended to cross-examine during the course of enquiry cannot be said to be irrelevant in the context of the subject matter of enquiry for the reason that the members of the Scrutiny Committee who had initially examined the application form submitted by the respondent no.1-petitioner and further that the members of the Selection Committee which comprised of experts of the field also did not find anything wrong with the application form submitted by the respondent no.1-petitioner. Thus, prima facie we are of the opinion that there existed a rationale for the prayer made by the respondent no.1-petitioner to cross-examine certain witnesses during the course of enquiry. Denial of cross-examination of witnesses or denial of summoning the witnesses as per the prayer made by the respondent no.1-petitioner during the course of enquiry without any justifiable reason, would certainly amount to violation of principles of natural justice. Neither the enquiry report nor the order dated 22.02.2023 dismissing the respondent no.1-petitioner from service contains any recital that her prayer for cross-examining was denied by giving reasons.

32. In this view, the pleading as available on the writ petition, inter alia, assert that the enquiry on the basis of which the order impugned in the writ petition has been passed, suffers from the vice of violation of principles of natural justice.

33. Accordingly, the case as set up by the respondent no.1-petitioner falls within one of the exceptions as carved out by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the aforementioned judgments in the case of Whirlpool Corporation (supra), M/s Radha Krishan Industries (supra) and Godrej Sara Lee Ltd. (supra).

34. So far as the judgments relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellant-Institute, Shri Chaturvedi, learned Senior Advocate, are concerned, we may note that judgment in the case of Dr. G. Sarana (supra) which is based on Section 68 of U.P. State Universities Act, 1973 does not have any application to this case for the reason that in the said matter the recommendations made by the Selection Committee were yet to be approved/disapproved by the Executive Council and hence challenge to the recommendations made by the Selection Committee without its consideration by the Executive Council of the University concerned was held to be untenable by instituting the writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. We also note that in the case of Dr. G. Sarana (supra) Hon'ble Supreme Court did not interfere with the decision of the High Court whereby writ petition was not entertained giving the reason that the petitioner in the said writ petition had pleaded personal bias against the members of the Selection Committee, however, despite knowing all the relevant facts he had not raised the said issues before appearing or at the time of interview against the constitution of the Selection Committee. In this view, the judgment in the case of Dr. G. Sarana (supra), in our opinion, does not have any application to the facts of this case.

35. So far as other judgments cited by the learned Counsel for the appellant-institute are concerned, they have been rendered in the facts and circumstances of the case. However, the said judgments can be said to run contrary to the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of Whirlpool Corporation (supra), Radha Krishna Industries (supra) and Godrej Sara Leel Ltd. (supra).

36. One of the arguments made by the learned Senior Advocate representing the appellant-institute is that having regard to the language occurring in Section 42 of the Act, it is the decision of the Visitor which is final in case any question arises as to whether any decision of the institute or governing body or any authority is in conformity with the Act or Rules or Regulations made therein. His submission thus is that finality to the decision of the President dismissing the services of the respondent No.1-petitioner as communicated by the Director vide Office Order dated 22.02.2023 can be attached only once an order in that regard is passed by the Visitor. The aforesaid submission of the learned Counsel for the appellant is absolutely misconceived and fallacious. If we minutely read the language of Section 42 of the Act, 2015, what we find is that the decision of the Visitor is final only if any Reference is made to the Visitor under Section 42 of the Act, 2015. The finality clause as available in Section 42 of the Act, 2015 has to be read qua the order which may be passed by the Visitor and not qua the order which may be passed by the governing body or any authority or any body of the Institute. To say that the order passed by the President which has been communicated in this case by the Director vide Office Order dated 22.02.2023 is not final and the same will become final only once the Visitor will exercise his jurisdiction under Section 42 of the Act

2015, is absolutely misconceived. The occasion before the Visitor to examine an order passed by the governing body or an authority or any other body of the institute will arise only if the Visitor receives any reference in respect of such an order or he decides to entertain the reference suo motu.

37. In the instant case, the respondent No.1-petitioner has not taken recourse to Section 42 of the Act 2015, rather has challenged the order of the President as communicated to her by the Director of the Institute by means of the order dated 22.02.2023. Thus, it cannot be said that the order of dismissal from service could not be challenged by filing writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India unless it is given finality by the Visitor of the Institute. The said submission of the learned counsel for the appellant-Institute in our opinion, merits rejection which is hereby rejected.

38. Even otherwise it is not a case where the writ petition filed by the respondent No.1-petitioner can be said to be not maintainable. As already pointed out above, there lies a difference between entertainability and maintainability of a writ petition under Article 226 of Constitution of India. If a writ petition for any lawful reason is not maintainable, such a situation has to be viewed differently. However, in case of objection regarding entertainability of a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, if this Court for valid reasons decides to exercise its discretion, in our opinion, such an order cannot be faulted with.

39. For the reasons aforesaid, we do not find any good ground to interfere with the order passed by the learned Single Judge dated 13.04.2023 in Writ-A No.2822 of 2023, which is under appeal herein.

40. Resultantly, the Special Appeal is hereby dismissed.

41. However, there will be no order as to costs.

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE AJIT KUMAR, J.

Writ A No. 23693 of 2018

Shailesh Khandelwal Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
 Sri Krishna Mohan Asthana

Counsel for the Respondents:
 C.S.C., Sri Sanjay Kumar Dwivedi

Service Law- U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921-Government Order dated 21st August, 2014 clarified it that the ban as put up on the appointments of vacant positions in recognized Intermediate Colleges under the Government Order dated 15th March, 2012 would not apply to the minority institution- Chapter-II does not deal with the clerical cadre, the stand taken by the District Inspector of Schools that the position of clerk having fallen vacant in 2011 and for three months and no recruitment drive having undertaken within three months, the post would stand lapsed, is absolutely a case of misreading of the provision and resultant misapplication of law.

The District Inspector of Schools once takes an objection and the objection has been duly replied, he has to evaluate and appreciate the reply- He cannot make out third and fourth ground to reject the claim of financial approval- From the order impugned, it clearly transpires that he has not dealt with reply of the Committee of Management in its correct perspective and has not cared to appreciate the legal position. This act and conduct of the District Inspector of Schools does not suit to the position he holds because his order would be causing serious prejudice career of a person-Result petition allowed with direction to DIOS to accord financial approval to the appointment of the petitioner as Assistant Clerk in the institution. (Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Shri Krishna Mohan Asthana, learned counsel for the petitioner, Shri Sanjay Kumar Dwivedi, learned counsel for respondent No.4-Committee of Management and learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. The respondent-Committee of Management that runs a minority institution in the name of Jain Inter College, Chaurasi, Mathura (herein after referred to as "4th Respondent") proceeded to fill up the vacant situations in the faculty of the institution as well as in the clerical cadre by issuing separate advertisements in two newspapers, namely, Kalpataru Express and Indian Express having wide circulation in the area and the region. While advertisement in respect of Assistant Teachers in the subject of Hindi, English, Sanskrit, Arts, Mathematics, Science and Sociology, was published in Kalpataru Express News Daily on 24th August, 2015 and in the Indian Express News Daily on 24th August, 2015, the advertisement in respect of vacant positions of Clerk/Assistant Clerk was issued in News Daily Kalpataru on 23rd July, 2015 and Indian Express on 5th August, 2018. Two separate selection committees were constituted to hold selection on the post of Assistant Teachers in the faculty of the institution and clerk in the clerical cadre of the institution.

3. The petitioner having post-graduate degree in Commerce being M.Com and CCC certificate from National Institute of Electronics and Information Technology applied against the post of Assistant Clerk. The selection committee adjudged the petitioner to be the best candidate and, accordingly, recommended him for appointment.

4. The Committee of Management approved the recommendation of the selection committee and sent papers to the District Inspector of Schools vide covering letter dated 21st July, 2016 of the Manager of the institution for financial approval. Likewise, the selection committee constituted for holding selection to various positions of Assistant Teachers in subjects advertised, selected Smt.Shweta Tiwari, Smt.Babita, Shri Jitendra Singh, Shri Rajiv Kumar, Dr.Hemant Chaudhari and one other in the respective subjects against the positions of Assistant Teachers advertised and the papers were also forwarded to the District Inspector of Schools for financial approval.

5. In respect of all these recommendations, the District Inspector of Schools took up various objections and rejected the claim for financial approval in respect of Smt.Shweta Tiwari, Smt.Babita, Shri Jitendra Singh and Shri Rajiv Kumar in respect of these selections and to did not proceed to pass any order.

6. Ultimately, out of all these selectees four teachers, namely, Smt.Shweta Tiwari, Smt.Babita, Shri Jitendra Singh and Shri Rajiv Kumar filed Writ-A No.26403 of 2018 before this Court in which direction was issued for the District Inspector of Schools to dispose of their representation for approval and payment of salary. Mr.Krishna Pal Singh, District Inspector of Schools rejected their claim on various grounds as under:

(i) The post had lapsed so there could not have been any appointment without revival of these posts;

(ii) There was no valid Committee of Management in the institution to hold selection and appointment;

(iii) The written test ought to have been held and then on the basis of marks obtained by the candidates the selection should have been held.

7. This order came to be again challenged before this Court by those very writ petitioners being Writ-A No.7856 of 2019. The writ petition was allowed setting aside the order of the District Inspector of Schools vide judgment and order dated 17th May, 2019 remitting the matter for decision afresh. Mr.Krishna Pal Singh, District Inspector of Schools, again rejected the claim vide order dated 11.11.2019 holding that the selection was done by an invalid Committee of Management.

Smt.Babita and Shri Jitendra Singh challenged the said order again before this Court vide Writ-A No.18983 of 2019 in which this Court took exception to the order passed by the District Inspector of Schools and issued him a show-cause notice as to why he should not be referred to the contempt of court for appropriate contempt proceedings to be drawn against him. This order was passed on 3rd January, 2020. The operative portion of the order dated 3rd January, 2020 is reproduced here as under:

Be that as it may, this Court while rendering judgement in the case of petitioners in Writ Petition No.7856 of 2019 has already rejected the objection taken by the respondent no.3 regarding non-compliance of the procedure provided in the Government Order dated 12.03.2018 in making selection and the selection of the petitioners on the non-existent post, therefore, the said objection taken by the respondent no.3 is misconceived as judgement of this Court in Writ Petition No.7856 of 2019 has become final between the parties. Further, this Court while deciding the issue in Writ Petition No.7856 of 2019 has granted liberty to the respondent no.3 to examine the documents in respect of election of committee of management and this Court finds that respondent no.3 while passing the impugned order has not adverted to any of the documents filed by the petitioners to verify the validity of the Committee of Management, who initiated the selection procedure. The respondent no.3 has placed reliance upon the letter dated 08.12.2017 of the then District Inspector of School in paragraph 9 of the order which nowhere mentions about the validity of committee of management, and thus, facts of the case clearly establishes that respondent no.3 has completely ignored the orders of this Court while passing the impugned order, and thus, has wilfully flouted the orders of this Court. In this view of the fact, this Court finds substance in the argument of learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners.

Thus, in view of above, let notice be issued to respondent no.3, District Inspector of Schools, District Mathura, to show cause as to why the matter should not be referred to the contempt Court for initiating contempt proceedings against him and why his personal responsibility in the matter be not fixed. He shall remain present personally on the next date along with his reply.

Put up on 20.01.2020 in the additional cause list.

(Emphasis added)

8. In order to avoid contempt, as the District Inspector of Schools, Mr. Krishna Pal Singh, had fallen in serious error of law, passed an order on 23rd January, 2020 granting approval to the selection and appointment of the petitioner, namely, Smt. Babita and Shri Jitendra Singh. Shri Rajiv Kumar citing the order of the District Inspector of Schools dated 23rd January, 2020 also challenged the order dated 11.11.2019 vide Writ-A No.2039 of 2020. This writ petition came to be allowed vide detailed judgment and order dated 10th February, 2020 in which this Court not only noticed the order dated 23rd January, 2020 passed by the District Inspector of Schools but also recorded a finding that the petitioners' case deserves to be reconsidered in the light of the decision given in the case of Smt. Babita. Paragraphs 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 relevant in the judgment and order dated 10th February, 2020 passed in Writ-A No.2039 of 2020 are reproduced here as under:

"8. Pursuant to the same, the respondent No.3 passed order dated 23.1.2020 granted selection/appointment of the petitioners of writ petition filed by Smt. Babita (supra) in L.T. Grade.

9. It is argued by learned senior counsel that the case of the petitioner is identical as the case of the petitioners of the writ petition of Smt. Babita (supra). It is argued that petitioner being identically selected along with the petitioners of writ petition of Smt. Babita (supra), he is also entitled for the same relief of approval of his selection/appointment in L.T. Grade.

After order dated 23.01.2020 passed by the respondent no.3 in favour of the petitioners of writ petition of Smt. Babita (supra), the petitioner has preferred the present writ petition with the prayer to quash the order dated 11.11.2019 passed by the respondent No.3.

10. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the respondents. With the consent of learned counsel for the parties, this writ petition is disposed of finally.

11. It appears from perusal of record that in terms of the orders passed by this Court in Writ A No.7856 of 2019 (Rajiv Kumar and others Vs. State of U.P. and others) on 17.05.2019, an order dated 23.11.2019 was passed by the respondent No.3 rejecting the claim of the petitioner and others. By the aforesaid order, claim of Rajiv Kumar, as Assistant Teacher in Hindi, Smt. Babita as Assistant Teacher in Hindi and Jitendra Singh as Assistant in Social Science were rejected. The aforesaid order was challenged before this Court by only two persons namely Smt. Babita and Jitendra by filing Writ A No. 18986 of 2019. In the said writ petition a detailed order was passed by this Court on 03.01.2020 which has already been quoted above. Pursuant to the same, a decision was taken by the respondent No.3 on 23.01.2020 by which the petitioners in Writ Petition No.18986 of 2019 (Smt. Babita) (supra) were granted approval in respect of their selection/appointment as Assistant Teachers. Insofar as the present petitioner is concerned, no order was passed by the respondent No.3.

12. In the facts and circumstances of the case and without entering into the merits of the case, this writ petition is disposed of finally directing the respondent no.3 to pass appropriate orders in the matter of petitioner in accordance with law as has been passed in the case of Smt. Babita most expeditiously and preferably within a period of two weeks from the date of production of certified copy of this order before him."

9. Dr. Hemant Chaudhari and one another teacher were also selected in the same selection to the faculty of the institution and they also challenged the order dated 11.11.2019 rejecting their claim for grant of approval. This Court noticed the order dated 13th February, 2019 initially passed in the case of Dr.Hemant Chaudhari and also Smt.Shweta Tiwari in Writ-A Nos.8069 of 2019 and 4791 of 2019 respectively, set aside the order dated 13th February, 2019 and issued a direction for according fresh consideration to the claim of the petitioners for grant of approval. Writ petition was thus allowed vide order dated 3rd March, 2020, holding that the order passed by the District Inspector of Schools was in utter disregard to the judgment and order passed by this Court in earlier proceedings that where relating to the same selection in issue. The operative portion of the judgment and order dated 3rd March, 2020 as contained in Paragraphs 44, 45 and 46 is reproduced here as under:

"44) In view of the above, I am of the view that the DIOS while passing the impugned order has travelled beyond his scope of consideration. The order impugned is in utter disregard of the judgment and order passed in earlier proceeding by this court and teachers of the same selection have been accorded approval by the DIOS, therefore, refusal vide impugned order is illegal and cannot be sustained. Accordingly, the impugned order dated 11.11.2019 is hereby set aside.

45) The writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

46) However, the DIOS is directed to pass appropriate reasoned and speaking order of approval to the selection of the petitioners on the post of assistant teachers within a period of four weeks from the date of production of a certified copy of this order."

10. This above order was challenged in special appeal being Special Appeal No.179 of 2021, which came to be dismissed on 3rd September, 2021 by following order:

"By this appeal, a challenge is made to the judgment dated 03.03.2020 whereby writ petition preferred by the petitioners was allowed. The writ petition was filed to assail the order dated 11.11.2019 passed by District Inspector of Schools, Mathura by which the approval of the appointment of the petitioners on the post of Assistant Teachers was denied.

Learned Single Judge discussed the issue elaborately and referring to the earlier judgment in the writ petition preferred by the non-appellant/petitioners, it was held that the issue was not available for reconsideration by District Inspector of Schools when it was settled by the Court. Once learned Single Judge dealt with the issue in reference to denial of approval to the appointment of the non-appellant/petitioners in the earlier writ petition and appeal thereupon by the State was dismissed, the District Inspector of Schools could not have opened the same issue.

The order dated 11.11.2019 was passed in reference to an order dated 16.03.2018 by which the post in question was revived and thereby, selections were conducted. The approval to the appointment was not given for the reason that initiation of selection was not with prior approval. The learned Single Judge considered the said also.

Learned Single Judge found that in regard to the same selection process, the approval was denied to other employee but the order was recalled on 11.11.2019 and approval was accorded. The petitioners were also selected in the same selection, thus could not have been given discriminatory treatment. Their case was required to be dealt with by maintaining parity between the similarly placed. Accordingly, the writ petition was allowed to direct District Inspector of Schools to pass appropriate speaking order for approval to the selection of petitioners on the post of Assistant Teacher.

The appeal has been pressed mainly on the ground that after revival of the post, selection could not have been initiated without prior approval of the competent Authority.

We have considered the submissions aforesaid and find that after revival of the post and selection, if prior approval to initiate selection was required then there was no reason for District Inspector of Schools to accord approval to the appointment of other Assistant Teachers selected out of the same selection. The appointment on the post of

Assistant Teacher out of the same selection was approved while denying it in the case of the non-appellant/petitioners causing discrimination.

We failed to understand why the appeal has been preferred by the State. If the appeal is allowed then we would be endorsing discriminatory action of the respondents.

At this stage, learned counsel for the appellants submits that approval of the appointment order in favour of the similarly placed was given pursuant to the order of this Court in their own writ petition. If that is so, then no reason exists to file the appeal rather judgment should have been complied in the same manner as was done in the case of similarly placed Assistant Teachers.

For the reasons given above, the appeal is dismissed finding no merit in reference to only question urged before us while not pressing any other ground.

At this stage, learned counsel for the non-appellant/petitioners submits that approval to the appointment has been given pursuant to the judgment under challenge. The fact aforesaid makes the appeal to be infructuous and otherwise we have decided it on merit."

11. The writ petition of Smt. Shweta Tiwari and one another selected candidate being Writ-A No.2386 of 2020 challenging the same order dated 11.11.2019 came to be allowed vide judgment and order dated 7th January, 2020 relying upon the judgment passed in Writ-A Nos.1821 of 2020 and 18983 of 2019. The Court also referred to the order of special appellate Bench. The operative portion of the order passed in the case of Smt. Babita and another is reproduced here as under:

"This order was challenged in a Special Appeal being Special Appeal No.179 of 2021 (State of U.P. & Ors. vs. Hemant Chaudhary & Ors.) which came to be dismissed on 3.9.2021. From the order of the Special Appellate Court dated 3.9.2021, it is clear that the petitioners of Writ-A No.1821 of 2020 had been given approval.

In view of the fact that the order of the District Inspector of Schools was based absolutely on erroneous facts namely that the advertisement was not valid after the revival of the posts and that the Committee of Management was not a duly elected Committee of Management which findings had already been set-aside in the judgment of this Court dated 13.12.2018, I am of the view of that the approval ought to have been granted by the District Inspector of Schools. More so, when approvals have been granted to the petitioners in Writ-A No.1821 of 2020 and the petitioners in Writ-A No.18983 of 2019.

Under such circumstances, the order dated 11.11.2019 viz.-a-viz. the petitioners is quashed. The matter is remitted back to the District Inspector of Schools to pass approval orders after looking into the qualifications of the petitioners within a period of two weeks from the date of presentation of a certified copy of this order. Further, as and when the approval is granted, salary shall be paid to the petitioners from the date they had joined their institutions.

For the reasons stated above, the writ petition stands allowed."

12. Against this above order, Special Appeal (Defective) No.34 of 2023 was filed by the State of UP and others and the Court while referring to various orders passed in writ petitions and in an earlier appeal (supra) dismissed the special appeal on 13th March, 2023 discussing the law on the point as well as the objection and the grounds taken in appeal in following terms:

"Heard Sri Gyanendra Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State-appellants and Sri Krishna Mohan Asthana, learned Advocate appearing for the respondents/petitioners.

The present appeal is directed against the judgment and order dated 07.01.2022 passed by the learned Single Judge whereby while setting aside the order dated 11.11.2019 passed by the District Inspector of Schools, Mathura, the matter has been remitted back with the direction to pass approval order after looking into the qualifications of the petitioners herein within a period of two weeks from the date of presentation of the certified copy of the said order. The further direction was to pay salary to the petitioners after approval is granted to their selection, from the date they had joined their institutions. The respondents/petitioners herein (two in number) were selected by the Committee of Management of the institution concerned in accordance with the provisions of Section 16-FF of U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 read with Chapter-II of Regulation 17 of the Regulations framed thereunder. The record indicates that a dispute arose with regard to the disapproval of selection of the petitioners herein along with the nine other persons who were selected on the post of L.T. Grade Teacher by order dated 13.02.2019. On a challenge made by one of the respondents/petitioners herein in Writ-A No. 4791 of 2019 to the order dated 13.02.2019 passed by the District Inspector of Schools, declining to accord approval, the writ petition was allowed on 11.04.2019 by quashing the order dated 13.02.2019, with the direction to the District Inspector of Schools to accord fresh consideration to the claim of the petitioner for grant of approval to their selection having regard to the observation made therein.

A perusal of the judgment and order dated 11.04.2019 passed by this Court in the aforesaid writ petition indicates that three grounds to decline approval had been taken by the District Inspector of Schools therein. The first ground was that 11 posts of Assistant Teachers in L.T. Grade in the institution were revived by orders dated 10.11.2016 and 20.03.2017 and both these orders were revoked by order dated 14.12.2017 and only 7 posts of Assistant Teachers stood revived. The Committee of Management of the Institution concerned did not make selection pursuant to the directions containing in the letter dated 14.12.2017. The second ground was that the Committee of Management of the institution concerned was not validly elected and therefore, was not competent to make selection. The appointment made by the then Committee was invalid. The third ground was that by the Government Order Dated 12.03.2018, amendments have been brought in Section 16-FF and Chapter 2 Regulation 17 of the Regulations framed thereunder and the procedure brought in place by way of amendment had not been followed. These three grounds, as is evident from the perusal of the judgment and order dated 11.04.2019 were set aside by this Court while holding that there was no infirmity in the procedure followed by the Committee of Management for the selection in question, in as much as, the scope of inquiry to the selection made under Section 16-FF of 1921 Act by the District Inspector of Schools was confined to the eligibility of the selected candidates. The question of revival of the post in question stood settled by the earlier order passed by this Court in Writ-A N. 26403 of 2018 and Writ-A No. 25087 of 2018.

Having noted the above, we have gone through the order dated 11.11.2019 passed by the District Magistrate, Mathura which was the subject matter of challenge before the learned Single Judge in the writ petition, out of which the present special appeal has arisen. A perusal of the order of the District Inspector of Schools further indicates that same points which have been taken earlier to decline the approval by the order dated 13.02.2019, quashed by the judgment and order dated 11.04.2019, have been reiterated in the order dated 11.11.2019. This aspect of the matter has been duly considered by the learned Single Judge in the judgment and order dated 07.01.2022, subject matter of challenge herein.

Having noted the above, we further find that the present special appeal is delayed by 338 days and no plausible explanation has been given in the affidavit accompanying the delay condonation application. In similar facts and circumstances with regard to the selection subject matter of challenge herein, the Special Appeal Defective No. 996 of 2020 and Special Appeal Defective No. 995 of 2020 filed by the State have been dismissed vide judgment and order dated 24.11.2020 on account of the inordinate, unexplained delay. Another Special Appeal No. 179 of 2021 challenging the judgment and order dated 03.03.2020 passed by the learned Single Judge, allowing the writ petition filed by the persons similarly situated, has been dismissed vide judgment and order dated 03.09.2021 a copy of which is appended along with the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the respondents 1 and 2. A perusal of the judgment and order dated 03.09.2021 indicates that the finding returned by the learned Single Judge in setting aside the order dated 11.11.2019 passed by the District Inspector of Schools for disapproval of the appointment of the petitioners therein on the post of Assistant Teacher in L.T. Grade, had been set aside. The ground of challenge taken in the said special appeal that after revival of the post, selection could not have been initiated without prior approval of the competent authority, has been turned down.

We, thus, find that the respondents are similarly situated Assistant Teacher selected in the same selection upheld by other Special Appellate benches of this Court.

Having noted that the order dated 11.11.2019 passed by the District Inspector of Schools is only reiteration of the previous order dated 13.02.2019 passed by the District Inspector of Schools, which has been set aside by this Court in the judgment and order dated 11.04.2019, and for the additional facts noted above, we do not find it a fit case for interference. The present special appeal is being dismissed both on the ground of inordinate, unexplained delay on the part of the appellants and on the merit, accordingly."

(Emphasis added)

13. Now reverting to the facts of the present case, I find that the District Inspector of Schools after examining the papers sent by the management took five objections as short-comings in his letter dated 19th August, 2016. These objections were: (i) there was a ban operating under the Government order dated 15th March, 2012 upon appointments in recognized Intermediate Colleges; (ii) the petitioner did not possess the requisite academic qualification; (iii) the reservation quota had not been certified; (iv) the post of clerk having fallen vacant on 31st March, 2011 got lapsed and so there could not have been any appointment and (v) no details of working Class-3 and Class-4 employee was furnished along with documents. It is necessary to reproduce the letter of objection written by the then District Inspector of Schools, namely, Mr. Indra Prakash Solanki dated 19.8.2016 and the same is reproduced here as under:

14. The Committee of Management duly replied to the District Inspector of Schools vide letter of the Manager of the institution dated 19.8.2016 clarifying its stand point-wise thus:

(i) The Government Order dated 15th March, 2012 itself clarifies that the ban on appointments would not operate in respect of minority institutions;

(ii) The selected candidate meets the criteria of academic qualification as prescribed by the State like CCC certificate and those documents are appended;

(iii) There being only three posts in the clerical cadre, reservation would not apply, so there was no question of furnishing any certificate regarding quota;

(iv) The documents appended and the Government Order dated 29.10.2014 would clarify that no post in such circumstances would laps and regarding reservation to Class-3 and Class-4 posts;

(v) It was stated that this would not apply to the recognized minority institution.

15. This reply as was submitted is also reproduced here as under for its appreciation:

"महोदय,

उपरोक्त पत्रांक के संबंध में निम्न आधारों पर जबाब दिया जा रहा है-

1- आपके उपरोक्त पत्रांक में नं० 1 कमी शासनादेश संख्या: 20/1/91-का-2-2012 कार्मिक अनुभाग-2 लखनऊ दिनांक 15/03/2012 के द्वारा/नियुक्ति पर रोक/ प्रतिबन्ध है।

इस संबंध में शासनादेश पत्रांक - सा०(1)/शि०/5794-5868/2014-15 दिनांक 29.10.2014 जो संलग्नक दो है। अशासकीय अल्पसंख्यक शिक्षण संस्थाओं में की जाने वाली नियुक्ति के अनुमोदन के विषय में शासन द्वारा आदेश संख्या रिट -249/15-12-2012-1601(404)/2012, दिनांक 17 अक्टूबर 2012, 1964/15-12-1601(404)/2012 टी०सी०, दिनांक 17 अक्टूबर 2012 तथा 2032/15-12-2012-1601(404)/2012 टी०सी०, दिनांक 25 अक्टूबर 2012 से यह स्पष्ट है कि कार्मिक विभाग का शासनादेश संख्या- 20/1/91-का-2-2012, दिनांक 15 मार्च 2012 अशासकीय सहायता प्राप्त अल्पसंख्यक संस्थाओं में प्रभावी नहीं है।

2- आपके उपरोक्त पत्रांक में नं० 2 कमी भर्ती नवीनतम शासनादेश अनुसार सहायक लिपिक पद हेतु शासनादेश द्वारा निर्धारित शैक्षिक योग्यता पूर्ण नहीं है।

इस संबंध में आपको अवगत कराया जा रहा है कि शासन द्वारा निर्धारित शैक्षिक योग्यता पूर्ण है संलग्नक तीन शैक्षिक योग्यता से संबंधित प्रमाण पत्रों की छायाप्रतियाँ हैं।

3- आपके उपरोक्त पत्रांक नं० तीन कमी आरक्षण कोटा के संबंध में प्रमाण पत्र नहीं है।

इस संबंध में आपको अवगत कराया जा रहा है कि उक्त भर्ती में आरक्षण कोटा न होने के कारण प्रमाण पत्र होना आवश्यक नहीं है।

4- आपके उपरोक्त पत्रांक में नं० चार पर जो कमी दर्शायी गयी है।

इस सम्बन्ध में संलग्नक दो द्वारा स्पष्ट है।

5- आपके उपरोक्त पत्रांक में नं० पांच पर कमी दर्शायी गयी है।

इस सम्बन्ध में आपको अवगत कराना है कि अल्पसंख्यक अशासकीय शिक्षण संस्थाओं में इसकी आवश्यकता नहीं है।

अतः उपरोक्त पत्रांक सं० द्वारा उक्त श्री शैलेश खण्डेलवाल की सहायक लिपिक पद पर नवीन नियुक्ति नियमानुसार की गई है।

अतः निवेदन है कि उक्त नियुक्ति को अनुमोदित किया जावे।

16. Even thereafter, when no order was passed at the end of District Inspector of Schools, the Committee of Management again wrote to the District Inspector of Schools for granting approval to the petitioners' appointment dated 21st July, 2016 on the post of Assistant Clerk. However, when nothing happened, petitioners approached this Court vide Writ-A No.9127 of 2018 and the Court directed the District Inspector of Schools to take decision within a period of 3 months from the date of presentation of copy of the order. The operative portion of the order dated 3rd April, 2018 passed in Writ-A No.9127 of 2018 is reproduced here as under:

"Considering the facts and circumstances, this writ petition stands disposed of with a direction upon the respondent no.2 to accord consideration to petitioner's claim for appointment to the post of Assistant Clerk, in accordance with law, by means of a reasoned order to be passed, within a period of three months from the date of presentation of certified copy of this order."

17. The petitioners sent the certified copy of the order of this Court vide registered letter dated 7.8.2018 wrote to the District Inspector of Schools and the Manager of the institution and thereafter the District Inspector of Schools vide letter dated 25.8.2018 fixed 6th September, 2018 for hearing. On 6th September, 2018 both the petitioners as well as Committee of Management presented themselves and reminded him of the previous removal of defects and short-comings made by the Committee of Management. Mr.Krishna

Pal Singh, District Inspector of Schools, this time passed an order on 25.9.2018 in the same line denying the financial approval to the petitioners' appointment in which as he had denied approval in respect of Assistant Teachers, who were selected and whose case he was also dealing with.

18. It is quite surprising to notice that the objection taken this time were that prior approval was not taken for advertising the vacancy, two newspapers in which advertisement was made had no circulation in the region, the post in question had lapsed for there being no appointment till 2011, triple 'C' certificate was not obtained from DOEACC, there was no valid Committee of Management and that there was ban on appointments.

19. This order passed by the District Inspector of Schools dated 25.9.2018 has been challenged in this petition.

20. Learned counsel for the petitioner has argued following points to assail the order:

(i) Whatever the objections once had been taken by the District Inspector of Schools initially and those objections having been duly replied by the Committee of Management, it was not open for the District Inspector of Schools to take out a new objection to reject the claim of financial approval. Further, when the Government Order itself stated that there was no ban on appointments of vacant positions in respect of the minority institution, the District Inspector of Schools was not justified in taking a ground that there was a ban under that very Government Order;

(ii) The documents regarding academic qualifications were duly supplied by the petitioner, but they were not at all looked into inasmuch as the DOEACC organisation having changed its name as National Institute of Electronics and Information Technology, the triple 'C' certificate, issued by it, would not be rendered to be not akin to the certificate earlier issued by the same organisation;

(iii) The District Inspector of Schools having not taken any objection in respect of the advertisements issued for filling up faculty positions in the institution qua two news dailies, namely, Kalpataru Express and Indian Express, he could not have taken it as an objection to deny the approval now, more especially when in his initial objection raised in his letter dated 19.8.2016, he did not object to the newspapers in which advertisements were made.

(iv) It has come in the judgments of this Court in various writ petitions filed by the faculty members that it is the same Committee of Management that has been disbursing salary to the employees of the institution and, therefore, selection and appointment made by it would not be bad. Such Committee of Management would not become incompetent in the matter of selection and appointment of the petitioner.

21. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel sought defend the order for the reasons assigned therein.

22. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties and having perused the pleadings and records and the order impugned as well as various judgments cited in the matters of faculty members selected and appointed by the same Committee of Management and the arguments advanced across the Bar, I find three main points in the present case to be arising:

A. Whether the post in question would be taken to have lapsed;

B. Whether petitioner possesses requisite qualification; and

C. Whether the District Inspector of Schools could have taken ground other than those he had taken in his objection after he received and examined the papers sent by the management for financial approval to the selection and appointment of the petitioner.

23. Before I deal with the above three points, it is worth mentioning here that insofar as the ban is concerned, the Government Order dated 21st August, 2014 clarified it that the ban as put up on the appointments of vacant positions in recognized Intermediate Colleges under the Government Order dated 15th March, 2012 would not apply to the minority institution. Relevant portion of the Government Order dated 21st August, 2014 is reproduced here as under:

"शासन के आदेश संख्या-रिट-116/15-12-7-1600(574)/2007 दिनांक 12 फरवरी 2014 में यह स्पष्ट किया गया है कि अल्पसंख्यक शिक्षण, संस्थाओं में नियुक्ति प्रधानाचार्य/अध्यापकों के संबंध में माध्यमिक शिक्षा अधिनियम - 1921 की धारा-18 चर्च प्रभावी है। जिसके अनुसार अशासकीय सहायता प्राप्त अल्पसंख्यक विद्यालयों में नियुक्ति किये जाने के लिए पूर्वानुमति दिये जाने का कोई प्राविधान नहीं है। अल्पसंख्यक शिक्षण संस्थाओं में नियुक्ति पर रोक नहीं है। अशासकीय अल्पसंख्यक शिक्षण संस्थाओं में की जाने वाली नियुक्ति के अनुमोदन के विषय में शासन द्वारा आदेश संख्या रिट-240/15-12-2012-160(404)/2012 नियुक्ति 17 अक्टूबर 2012, 1964/15-12-2012-1601(404)/2012 टी०सी०, दिनांक 17 अक्टूबर 2012 तथा 2032/15-12-2012-1601(404)/2012 टी०सी०, दिनांक 25 अक्टूबर 2012 से यह स्पष्ट है कि कर्मिक विभाग का शासनादेश संख्या-20/1/91-का-2-2012 दिनांक 15 मार्च 2012 अशासकीय सहायता प्राप्त अल्पसंख्यक संस्थाओं में प्रभावी नहीं है।"

(Emphasis added)

24. This Government Order was very much within the knowledge of the District Inspector of Schools and, therefore, the finding to the contrary in the order impugned is per se bad in law.

25. Similarly again, this Court has already held in the case of Mohd.Faizan and another vs. State of UP and others, 2013 (5) ADJ 471 that no prior permission is required from the District Inspector of Schools in respect of appointments in minority institutions. Vide paragraph 4 of the said judgment, the Court has noticed the arguments and then expressed the view as under:

"4. Both these grounds have been challenged on the basis of the provisions contained in the UP Intermediate Education Act, 1921 to contend that no prior permission is required insofar as appointments in Minority Institutions are concerned. The second ground is that the relationship with the Members of the General Body of the Society is not the prohibition as contained in Chapter 3 Regulation 4 of the Regulations framed under the 1921 Act. The complaint, made through a representation alleges that the advertisement was not in accordance with law which fact has also been disputed even though no finding has been recorded by the District Inspector of Schools on that ground. It is alleged that the entire procedure was adopted in accordance with the Rules that are applicable, and in absence of any illegality in the selection procedure, the impugned order dated 6.8.2012 deserves to be quashed.

6. Having heard Sri J.J.Munir learned counsel in two of the Writ Petitions and Sri Yatindra in Writ Petition No.60172 of 2002, and the learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents in all the writ petitions, the order of the District Inspector of Schools cannot be sustained, inasmuch as, firstly there is no specific provision for applying Regulation 101 to Minority Institutions but assuming that it is regulatory, permission does not mean prior approval as envisaged under the Rules, which has already been explained in the Division Bench Judgment of Jagdish Singh vs. State, 2006 (2) UPLBEC 1851."

26. Thus the view taken by the District Inspector of Schools that prior approval was not taken for advertising the vacancy and holding the selection by the Committee of Management is not at all tenable. Furthermore, on the aspect of valid Committee of Management, in respect of selection to faculty positions in the institution, this Court has already brushed aside this objection raised in their respect and those judgments have been referred herein above in the earlier part of this judgment. Thus the finding on this aspect is also untenable.

27. Now coming to the first issue, it is worth referring here the title of Chapter-II of the Intermediate Education Act, which is quoted as such herein under:

"Appointment of Heads of Institutions and Teachers"

28. Regulation 1 deals with the qualifications for appointments of head of the institution and teachers as per Appendix-A then Regulation 2 talks of appointment of head of the institution by direct recruitment after reference to the selection committee. Regulation 3 and 3A deal with seniority. Regulation 4 deals with the status of teachers working in Junior High School upgraded as High School. Regulation 5 and 6, both deal with promotion. Regulation 7 has been repealed/deleted. Regulation 8 refers to right of representation in the event a teacher is aggrieved by decision of the Committee of Management taken under Regulations 5, 6 and 7. Regulation 9A deals with confirmation on promotion. Regulation 10 deals with the recruitment on the post of head of the institution and teachers by direct recruitment. Section 11 deals with scrutiny of documents submitted by the candidates for direct recruitment. Regulations 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18 deal with the selection and appointment through direct recruitment on the post of head of the institution and teachers. Regulation 19 empowers the District Inspector of Schools to deny payment of salary if the appointment of teachers and head of the institution is de hors the procedure prescribed under the Chapter and then Section 20 provides that if the management has failed to advertise any sanctioned post, which has fallen vacant in accordance with regulations contained in this very chapter then such vacancy would be deemed to have been surrendered and before any fresh drive of recruitment its creation is to be sanctioned by the Director. Regulation 20 is reproduced here as under:

"20. Where the Committee of Management has failed to advertise any sanctioned post which has fallen vacant in accordance with the regulations contained in this Chapter within a period of three months from the date of occurrence of the vacancy, such post shall be deemed to have been surrendered and shall not be filled up unless its creation is sanctioned afresh by the Director"

(Emphasis added)

29. Thus upon perusal of the aforesaid provision and what I have discussed above, qua various regulations contained in Chapter-II, it is clear that Regulation 20 of Chapter-II of the Intermediate Education Act, 1921 is meant for vacant positions of teachers and head of the institutions. Since, Chapter-II does not deal with the clerical cadre, the stand taken by the District Inspector of Schools that the position of clerk having fallen vacant in 2011 and for three months and no recruitment drive having undertaken within three months, the post would stand lapsed, is absolutely a case of misreading of the provision and resultant misapplication of law. Thus the post against which petitioner has been selected, namely post of assistant clerk cannot be said to have been lapsed.

30. Now coming to the second issue of requisite qualification, the petitioner possesses post-graduate degree in M.Com., Bachelor of Law and also the Computer Course Concept Certificate to be called as CCC certificate from the National Institute of Electronics and Information Technology. It is to be always seen what the rule was and what the qualification was prescribed for at that point of time. The Government Order dated 3rd November, 2015 prescribed a qualification for Assistant Clerk that a candidate should be Intermediate with CCC certificate and typing with speed of 25-30 words per minute.

31. Petitioner in this case having obtained post-graduate degree is certainly Intermediate pass-out besides the fact that he had annexed the mark-sheet of the requisite minimum academic qualifications. So far as the CCC certificate is concerned, he had annexed the certificate of National Institute of Electronics and Information Technology (NIELIT). In the official website of NIELIT, its status has been given as under:

"NIELIT Imphal Centre is cerntre of NIELIT New Delhi, which is an autonomous body of Department of Electronics and Information Technology, Ministry of Communication and Information Technology, Government of India. The centre is located in the capital city of Imphal and is having two extension centres at Churachandpur and Senapati District.

The centre was established as Centre for Electronics Design & Technology (CEDT) in the year 1987 and was renamed as DOEACC in December 2002. The Centre adopted its current name NIELIT since 2011. The campus of NIELIT Centre Imphal is located at Akampat about 5 kms in the south-east direction from the heart of the city. Spread over an area of more than 20 acres, it houses the main Institute Building consisting of Administrative wing, Lecture Halls, Faculty Rooms, Computer Labs, Mechanical Workshop. Electromedical Laboratory, PCB Lab, Servicing cell and other laboratories. Besides the main institute building, the campus houses the staff quarters, students' hostels, electrical substation and other host of essential facilities.

NIELIT Imphal specializes in development of skill in the fields of Electronics and Communication Engineering and Information Technology through various long term and short term courses."

(Emphasis added)

32. In view of the above, therefore, once the institute DOEACC has come to be renamed as NIELIT since the year 2011, the CCC certificate issued by it, would be a valid CCC certificate. It is not the case that this institute that has issued the certificate is not recognized institute, the District Inspector of Schools appears to have pre-decided to reject the financial approval and that is why he did not get verification done of the certificate so produced. Furthermore, there is no objection as such taken in the letter of the District Inspector of Schools dated 19.8.2016 (supra) that petitioner did not know typing at all or did not posses the requisite speed of typing.

33. Insofar as the third issue is concerned, in my considered view, the District Inspector of Schools once takes an objection and the objection has been duly replied, he has to evaluate and appreciate the reply. He cannot make out third and fourth ground to reject the claim of financial approval. From the order impugned, it clearly transpires that he has not dealt with reply of the Committee of Management in its correct perspective and has not cared to appreciate the legal position. This act and conduct of the District Inspector of Schools does not suit to the position he holds because his order would be causing serious prejudice career of a person.

34. Still further I find that in matters of selection and appointments of faculty members of the same college, more or less similar grounds were taken by the District Inspector of Schools, who happened to be the same person, namely, Mr.Krishna Pal Singh, to reject the claim of financial approval, which has been set aside by various orders passed by this Court and all those teachers have been consequently accorded financial approval.

35. In paragraphs 15-16 of the writ petition in which appointment order and consequential joining of the petitioner has been referred to and his continuous functioning, which has not been denied in paragraph 18 of the counter affidavit sworn by Mr. Krishna Pal Singh, the then District Inspector of Schools as in paragraph 18, he has simply stated that "contents of paragraphs 15 and 16 of the writ petition need no comment as these paragraphs under reply being no concerned with the answering respondent" and the Committee of Management in the counter affidavit has admitted appointment order and joining of the petitioner as Assistant Clerk in the institution.

36. The administrative exercise of power is never vested with any unchecked exercise of discretion. The authorities exercising power are required to be reasonable and at the same time, responsible also. They cannot be permitted to be whimsical. A public office entails behind it a very high sense of moral and responsibility in officers occupying such office in discharge of their official duties attached to the office. The act and that too deliberate one to put in leaves to make one fall, is very unfortunate and cannot be approved. The manner in which the District Inspector of Schools approved two newspapers for their being advertisements for selection and appointments of teachers in the same institution, could not have questioned those very newspapers in the matter of advertisement in case of petitioner's post of clerk. Similarly issue of ban should not have been raised once the Government Order itself made it inapplicable to the minority institutions. Rejection of claim of the petitioner in this case only appears to be for rejection sake. We are a rule of law society with a wholly book of governance called "Constitution of India". The State/Executive being an important organ under the Constitution must school its officers to conform to the rule of law in their actions. Forcing a party to an unnecessary litigation causes both wastage of public money and public time. Thus, every wrong apparent on the face of record is a serious dent to the rule of law and not only to be remedied by striking down such act or action, but a poor litigant is equally required to be adequately compensated with cost for such unnecessary litigation forced upon him.

37. Under Chapter XXI, Rule 11 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952, there is an ample provision for award of cost. The provision runs as under:

"11. Costs. - In disposing of an application under this Chapter the Court may make such order as to costs as it may consider just."

38. In order to do justice, therefore, rules (supra) provide for the imposition of the cost while disposing of the matter, as may be considered just and proper by the Court. While in the case of Nagar Panchayat Kithore, District Meerut vs. Presiding Authority, Labout Court, UP, Meerut and another, (2007) 1 SAC 567, the Court held that imposition of exemplary costs taking into account of the circumstances of the case as justified. Supreme Court in the case of Salem Advocate Bar Association, Tamil Nadu vs. Union of India, AIR 2005 SC 3353 has held that "so far as awarding of costs at the time of judgment is concerned, awarding of costs must be treated generally as mandatory inasmuch as the liberal attitude of the Courts in directing the parties to bear their own costs had led the parties to file a number of frivolous cases in the Courts or to raise frivolous and unnecessary issues. Costs should invariably follow the even. Costs must be appropriately apportioned. Special reasons must be assigned if costs are not being awarded. Costs should be assessed according to the rule in force".

39. Apart from above, in a catena of the decisions, Supreme Court has held that the Court can award exemplary costs to the litigants who have approached the Court for commission and omission of State authorities. While no litigants can derive any benefit on account of pendency while protection of interim order has been there, the litigants can also not be prejudiced for non-consideration of their case for a service benefit, which is otherwise guaranteed to them as condition of service under the rules, just for wrongful action or inaction on the part of respondent authorities.

40. In the case of RamRameshwari Devi and others vs. Nirmala Devi and others, (2011) 8 SCC 249, the Court observed that "in order to curb uncalled for and frivolous litigation, the courts have to ensure that there is no incentive or motive for uncalled for litigation. It is a matter of common experience that court's otherwise scarce and valuable time is consumed or more appropriately, wasted in a large number of uncalled for cases".

41. However, taking lenient view in the matter with the hope that State would do the needful to ensure that its officers are reasonable and logical while dealing with matters in discharge of their administrative duties, I quantify the cost as Rs.25,000/- only to be paid to the petitioner within two months from today. It will be open for the State to recover the cost from the erring officials.

42. In view of the above, writ petition succeeds and is allowed with cost as quantified and directed above. The order passed by the District Inspector of Schools dated 25.9.2018 (Annexure-15 to the writ petition) is hereby quashed. The District Inspector of Schools is directed to accord financial approval to the appointment of the petitioner as Assistant Clerk in the institution, who has already been appointed by the Committee of Management under its order dated 27.7.2016 pursuant to which petitioner submitted his joining on 1.8.2016 and has continuously been working in the institution as such.

43. The financial approval to the appointment of the petitioner will relate back to the date 27.7.2016 and petitioner would be entitled to salary with effect from 1.8.2016.

44. The Committee of Management shall calculate the entire arrears of salary after the approval is accorded. The District Inspector of Schools will ensure that current salary is paid to the petitioner forthwith and the arrears of salary shall also cleared within three months of such approval order.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. The challenge has been made in this bunch of writ petitions to the order of cancellation of selection resulting in termination of their services vide dated 06/07/2022 passed by the respondent University after conducting an enquiry. The common ground for cancellation of their selection was the lack of essential qualifications at the time of their selection with regard to their educational qualifications in the year 2014.

2. In the present bunch of writ petitions all the petitioners are teachers having been selected in the Dr. Shakuntala Mishra National Rehabilitation University pursuant to the advertisement dated 17/02/2014. They submitted relevant documents with regard to the qualifications and appeared before a screening committee, and subsequently appeared in the interview before the selection committee which recommended their candidature for appointment. The recommendations were duly placed before the Executive Council of the University pursuant to which they were appointed and were continuing till their services were terminated by means of the impugned orders in the respective writ petitions.

3. The bunch of the cases have been heard together and are being decided together by a common judgement as the issues involved are common except the aspect pertaining to the respective educational qualifications.

4. The impugned orders of cancellation of selection have been passed by the Vice Chancellor of Dr. Shakuntala Mishra National Rehabilitation University, Lucknow which very candidly recites that in the 5th meeting of the General Body an enquiry was instituted against the previous Vice Chancellor Dr Nishith Rai and all the charges against him were proved and he was found guilty of administrative and financial irregularities. After seeking legal opinion, it was decided that all the appointments made during his tenure would be enquired on a case-to-case basis. It further states that the executive committee had appointed a three-member committee which has submitted its report where it has been found that the appointments were made without following the rules of reservation, and no approval was sought from the visitor for appointment of the panel of experts and that persons were appointed despite the fact that they did not have the requisite API score which was contrary to the rules.

5. The Executive Council in its 35th meeting held on 07/10/2021 decided to constitute a 2-member committee consisting of 2 retired Judges of the High Court to enquire into all the appointments made by the erstwhile Vice Chancellor. The enquiry was conducted by the said committee who submitted their report which was placed before the Executive Council and was duly approved in its 38th meeting.

6. Show cause notice was given to the petitioners seeking their response. The response was placed before another committee consisting of a retired High Court Judge and subject specialist namely Professor Dhananjai Yadav, in Charge of the Recruitment Cell, Allahabad Central University, Prayagraj. The committee made its recommendations on 9.6.2022 to the University, which was accepted by the executive committee. The committee concluded that the petitioners did not fulfil the prescribed qualifications on the date of the advertisement and hence their services were terminated. It was further provided that considering that all the petitioners have worked for a period of 6–7 years, they would be eligible to apply in the fresh advertisement which would be issued and in case they are selected, their pay and allowances would be protected.

7. Sri Sudeep Seth, Senior advocate appearing for the respondent University raised preliminary objections regarding the maintainability of the writ petitions. He submitted that the Uttar Pradesh Government Servants (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 were applicable on the respondent University, which provide for an alternative remedy of appeal against the order of termination, while the petitioners have straight-away approached this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India and submitted that the petitions are liable to be dismissed on the ground of alternative remedy. It was further contended that the petitioners have another alternate remedy under Section 7 of the Dr Shakuntala Mishra National Rehabilitation University (For Differently Abled) Uttar Pradesh Act, 2009 (hereinafter referred to as the Act of 2009) before the visitor.

8. Counsel for the petitioners responding to the plea of alternate remedy, submitted that The Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 (hereinafter referred to as the Rules of 1999) are applicable, but the respondent University itself did not proceed in terms of the said rules as neither any charge sheet was given to them, nor was the enquiry conducted in consonance with provisions contained in Rule 7 of the said rules, nor was the complete enquiry report submitted by them along with a show cause notice. It has further been submitted that once the respondents themselves had failed to adhere to the Rules of 1999 it is not open for them to contend that the petitioners should be directed to follow the said rules. It has been submitted that the petitioners could have been relegated to the remedy of an appeal under the Rules of 1999 only when the proceedings would have been conducted under the said rules and not otherwise.

9. It was further submitted that alternate remedy is not an absolute bar, and the High Court in exercise of its powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India would entertain petitions where, on the face of it, it can be demonstrated that the decision-making process suffers from manifest illegality or has been conducted in violation of principles of natural justice in the most arbitrary manner.

10. To consider the preliminary objection raised by the respondent with regard to the maintainability of the writ petition on the ground of availability of an efficacious alternative remedy of an appeal under the Rules of 1999, it is undisputed that the respondent University itself did not adhere/follow to the Rules of 1999 while proceeding against the petitioners. Once the proceedings have not been initiated or conducted in terms of Rule of 1999, by the University itself then it does not lie upon them to raise an objection, that the petitioners should be required to follow the said rule. An appeal would lie under the Rules of 1999 when the proceedings are conducted under the said rules. When the proceedings are conducted under some other provision then the petitioners cannot be asked to follow the Rules of 1999 and resort to the remedy of an appeal under Rule 11 of the said rules. Learned Counsel for the respondent University fairly submitted that the proceedings against the petitioners were not conducted under the Rules of 1999, then the natural corollary would follow, and remedy of Appeal under the Rules of 1999 would not be available to the petitioners and hence the preliminary objection of the respondent with regard to availability of alternative remedy in this regard fails.

11. Secondly, the law with regard to maintainability of writ petition despite existence of alternate remedy has been well settled. The High Courts can entertain a writ petition despite the existence of an adequate alternative remedy where there are allegations of breach of fundamental rights, or violations of principles of natural justice or that the order under challenge is wholly without jurisdiction. In the present case, the ground of challenge to the order of termination is that no proper opportunity of hearing was granted to the petitioners, the enquiry was done in various stages by different set of persons for which there is no provision either in the rules or the regulations of the University and apart from that the entire proceedings were vitiated by mala-fide as merely because the petitioners have been appointed under the regime of the erstwhile Vice Chancellor who is alleged to have conducted certain misconducts, as a retaliatory measure, all the appointments made under him was sought to be scrutinised. It is stated that such exercise of police power is not vested under the provisions of the act or rules of the University, and accordingly in regard to such facts writ petition under Article 226 would be maintainable.

12. The power of the High Court to issue prerogative writs was dealt in by the Supreme Court the case of Whirlpool Corpn. v. Registrar of Trade Marks, (1998) 8 SCC 1 at page 9 and held as under:-

“14. The power to issue prerogative writs under Article 226 of the Constitution is plenary in nature and is not limited by any other provision of the Constitution. This power can be exercised by the High Court not only for issuing writs in the nature of habeas corpus, mandamus, prohibition, quo warranto and certiorari for the enforcement of any of the Fundamental Rights contained in Part III of the Constitution but also for “any other purpose”.

15. Under Article 226 of the Constitution, the High Court, having regard to the facts of the case, has a discretion to entertain or not to entertain a writ petition. But the High Court has imposed upon itself certain restrictions one of which is that if an effective and efficacious remedy is available, the High Court would not normally exercise its jurisdiction. But the alternative remedy has been consistently held by this Court not to operate as a bar in at least three contingencies, namely, where the writ petition has been filed for the enforcement of any of the Fundamental Rights or where there has been a violation of the principle of natural justice or where the order or proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction or the vires of an Act is challenged. There is a plethora of case-law on this point but to cut down this circle of forensic whirlpool, we would rely on some old decisions of the evolutionary era of the constitutional law as they still hold the field.

16. Rashid Ahmed v. Municipal Board, Kairana [1950 SCC 221 : AIR 1950 SC 163 : 1950 SCR 566] laid down that existence of an adequate legal remedy was a factor to be taken into consideration in the matter of granting writs. This was followed by another Rashid case, namely, K.S. Rashid & Son v. Income Tax Investigation Commission [AIR 1954 SC 207 : (1954) 25 ITR 167] which reiterated the above proposition and held that where alternative remedy existed, it would be a sound exercise of discretion to refuse to interfere in a petition under Article 226. This proposition was, however, qualified by the significant words, “unless there are good grounds therefor”, which indicated that alternative remedy would not operate as an absolute bar and that writ petition under Article 226 could still be entertained in exceptional circumstances.

17. A specific and clear rule was laid down in State of U.P. v. Mohd. Nooh

[AIR 1958 SC 86 : 1958 SCR 595] as under:

“But this rule requiring the exhaustion of statutory remedies before the writ will be granted is a rule of policy, convenience and discretion rather than a rule of law and instances are numerous where a writ of certiorari has been issued in spite of the fact that the aggrieved party had other adequate legal remedies.”

18. This proposition was considered by a Constitution Bench of this Court in A.V. Venkateswaran, Collector of Customs v. Ramchand Sobhraj Wadhwani [AIR 1961 SC 1506 : (1962) 1 SCR 753] and was affirmed and followed in the following words:

“The passages in the judgments of this Court we have extracted would indicate (1) that the two exceptions which the learned Solicitor General formulated to the normal rule as to the effect of the existence of an adequate alternative remedy were by no means exhaustive, and (2) that even beyond them a discretion vested in the High Court to have entertained the petition and granted the petitioner relief notwithstanding the existence of an alternative remedy. We need only add that the broad lines of the general principles on which the Court should act having been clearly laid down, their application to the facts of each particular case must necessarily be dependent on a variety of individual facts which must govern the proper exercise of the discretion of the Court, and that in a matter which is thus pre-eminently one of discretion, it is not possible or even if it were, it would not be desirable to lay down inflexible rules which should be applied with rigidity in every case which comes up before the Court.”

19. Another Constitution Bench decision in Calcutta Discount Co. Ltd. v. ITO, Companies Distt. I [AIR 1961 SC 372 : (1961) 41 ITR 191] laid down:

“Though the writ of prohibition or certiorari will not issue against an executive authority, the High Courts have power to issue in a fit case an order prohibiting an executive authority from acting without jurisdiction. Where such action of an executive authority acting without jurisdiction subjects or is likely to subject a person to lengthy proceedings and unnecessary harassment, the High Courts will issue appropriate orders or directions to prevent such consequences. Writ of certiorari and prohibition can issue against the Income Tax Officer acting without jurisdiction under Section 34, Income Tax Act.”

20. Much water has since flown under the bridge, but there has been no corrosive effect on these decisions which, though old, continue to hold the field with the result that law as to the jurisdiction of the High Court in entertaining a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution, in spite of the alternative statutory remedies, is not affected, specially in a case where the authority against whom the writ is filed is shown to have had no jurisdiction or had purported to usurp jurisdiction without any legal foundation.

21. That being so, the High Court was not justified in dismissing the writ petition at the initial stage without examining the contention that the show-cause notice issued to the appellant was wholly without jurisdiction and that the Registrar, in the circumstances of the case, was not justified in acting as the “Tribunal”.

In the case of Centurary Spinning and Manufacturing Co. Ltd. v. Ulhasnagar Municipal Council, (1970) 1 SCC 582, the Apex Court found that the parties claiming to be aggrieved by the action of a public body or authority on the plea that the action is unlawful, high handed, arbitrary or unjust is entitled to a hearing of writ petition.

In the case of Nathi Mal Ram Sahai Mal v. V.C., Meerut, 1998 UPLBEC 161, the Apex Court held that the existence of alternative remedy has been held to be no bar where it is alleged that the provision is ultra vires or action is in violation of the Principle of natural justice.

The learned counsel for the petitioner further placed reliance upon the case of Dr. Shyam Narain Pandey v. V.C. Gorakhpur University, 1985 UPLBEC 99, in which the impugned order was found to be wholly void and ineffectual under law, the Apex Court observed that the writ petition cannot be dismissed on the ground of alternative remedy after hearing has been done on merits.

31. In the case of Hirdai Narain v. Income Tax Officer, Bareilly, AIR 1971 SC 33, the petitioner was having an alternative remedy of filing a revision before the Commissioner of Income Tax but the High Court entertained the writ petition. The Apex Court observed that Hirdai Narain could have moved the Commissioner in revision because at the date on which the petition was moved the period prescribed by Section 33A of the Act had not expired. Their Lordship further held that the revision for an order correcting the order of the Income-tax Officer under Section 35 was not moved, the High Court would not be justified in dismissing the petition as not maintainable, which was entertained and heard on merits.

32. In the case of Ashok Kumar v. Managing Director, U.P. Leather Development and Marketing Corporation, 1986 (16) LCD 6, relying upon the cases Jai Kishan v. U.P. Cooperative Bank Ltd., 1989 (2) UPLBEC 144 (DB) and Hirday Narain v. I.T.O., Bareilly, AIR 1971 SC 33, the Division Bench of this Court observed that if an order is void and the petition does not involve controversial question of facts, the Court may not refuse to exercise its jurisdiction. The pendency of the writ petition for several years in the High Court was also taken to be a justifiable ground for not relegating the petitioners to get their grievances redressed under the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act. Holding that in such circumstances it will not in any manner advance the cause of justice if after the lapse of several years this Court is to tell the workmen to go to the Labour Court for seeking redressal of their grievances more so in a case where there was no controversy over the relevant facts.

33. In the case Ashok Kumar v. Managing Director, U.P. Leather Development and Marketing Corporation, 1986 (16) LCD 6, the High Court after observing that the rule of exhaustion of statutory remedy, before a writ will be granted, is a rule of policy, convenience and discretion rather than a rule of law and it further observed that this is a matter of discretion of the Court which is to be exercised according to the facts and circumstances of each case.

34. In the case of Akhilesh Kumar Saxena v. Director of Education (Secondary) U.P., Lucknow, 1999 (17) LCD 904, the Division Bench of this Court observed that where the Court has entertained the petition staying operation of the impugned order after exchange of affidavits the Court should not have disposed of the matter finally only by dismissing the petition on the ground of alternative remedy. In view of this, the appeal was allowed setting aside the order and directing that the writ petition be disposed of finally after hearing on merits.

35. In the case of Sudhakar Malviya v. Benaras Hindu University, 1997 (2) ESC 1213, it has been held that the High Court was wrong in dismissing a writ petition on the ground of availability of an alternative remedy when the writ petition had been entertained and had remained pending for 11 years. This was a case where statutory remedy under Section 68 of the State Universities Act was available to the petitioner but he has directly approached the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution against the impugned order and the High Court dismissed the writ petition on the ground of availability of alternative remedy under Section 68 of the State Universities Act.

36. From the catena of decisions of the Supreme Court following propositions broadly flow:

(i) Statutory alternative remedy is not an absolute bar for the High Court to entertain a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution.

(ii) Refusal to entertain a writ petition on existence of statutory alternative remedy is a self imposed restriction for which following considerations weigh, namely;

(a) alternative remedy is adequate, efficacious and speedy.

(iii) The High Court can try issues of fact but may not entertain petition where disputed question of facts have to be determined and in such cases the petitioner may be relegated to the statutory alternative forum.

(iv) If a writ petition has been entertained despite there being a statutory remedy, which may be adequate, and the said petition has remained pending for considerable period then there would be little justification for relegating the petitioner to the alternative remedy, unless there are valid and cogent reasons for doing so.

(v) Even if there exists an adequate alternative, efficacious, speedy remedy in the alternative forum, the High Court may entertain the writ petition in the following circumstances.

(a) for enforcement of any of the fundamental rights,

(b) where there has been a violation of principle of natural justice,

(c) where the order or proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction, or

(d) the vires of the Act is challenged.

Lastly, it depends upon the facts and circumstances of each case as to whether the discretion of entertaining the writ petition in the teeth of the statutory remedy has to be exercised or not."

13. Considering the rival contentions with regard to dismissal of writ petitions on ground of alternative remedy, it is seen in the present case, the allegations are that the entire proceedings against the petitioners have been conducted in gross violations of principles of natural justice, as hearing was afforded by one committee while the decision was taken by the Executive Council, this is contrary to all canons of the decision-making process. It has further been contended that the petitioners have been working pursuant to the selection by a duly constituted selection committee for last 6 to 7 years and termination of the services, on the face of it, are illegal and arbitrary and accordingly this Court is of the considered view in light of said facts, the bar of alternate remedy does not operate against the petitioners and hence the argument of the respondents in this regard is accordingly rejected.

14. The other objection regarding the petitioners having an alternative remedy before the Visitor, is also bereft of merits in as much as the proceedings which are being assailed before this Court have already been subjected to the scrutiny by the Vice Chancellor at the behest of one Dr Abhay Krishna. The Visitor by means of order dated 11/03/2016 has already held that the procedure adopted by the respondent University and the constitution of the selection committee resulting in the appointment of the petitioners is valid. The order of the visitor has been challenged before this Court, and the writ petition is pending consideration. Once the order of the Visitor is already on record, no useful purpose would be served by relegating the petitioners before the Visitor on the same issue. It is also urged that the respondent University is itself opposed the decision of the Visitor, which itself cannot be appreciated. In the present case no useful purpose would be served by relegating the petitioners to the remedy before the Visitor. The objection raised by the petitioners have force and the plea of dismissal on ground of availability of alternative remedy before Visitor is accordingly rejected.

15. The 1st ground raised by the petitioners assailing the proceedings initiated against them culminating with the impugned order of termination is with regard to the procedure followed by the respondents in conducting the enquiry. It is submitted that the respondents have adopted the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules 1999 in its meeting dated 07/10/2021, where provision for termination is provided. It is stated that once the Rules of 1999 have been adopted by the respondents, it was bound to follow the said rules while it adopted a procedure which is not prescribed either in the Act of 2009, or any regulations framed under it and therefore the entire procedure followed by the respondents is illegal and arbitrary and, hence, liable to be set aside.

16. The respondents while defending their actions submitted that the disciplinary Rules of 1999 would be attracted only when there are allegations of misconduct by the employee, while in the present case the entire selection was dehors the rules, as the petitioners did not fulfil the minimum prescribed educational qualifications and hence their services were dispensed with and their selection cancelled, and in any view of the matter, the petitioners were afforded full opportunity of hearing before cancelling their selection and consequently supported the enquiry proceedings as well as the order of termination.

17. The provisions regarding power to proceed against an employee of the respondent University can be found in the statutes of 2009. Statute 9.04 provides that a teacher at the University may be dismissed or removed and his services terminated on one or more of the following grounds, which include wilful neglect of duty, misconduct, breach of any of the terms of the contract of service, incompetence or abolition of post. Further statute 9.07 provides as under:-

“9.07. No order dismissing, removing or terminating the services of a teacher of the University on any grounds mentioned in clause (1) of statute 9.04 (except in case of a conviction for an offence involving moral turpitude or of abolition of post) shall be passed unless a charge of been framed against the teacher and communicated to him with the statement of the grounds on which it is proposed to take action and has been given adequate opportunity:-

Of submitting a written statement of his defence of being heard in person, if he so chooses and of calling and examining such witnesses in his defence as he may wish provided that the executive Council or an officer authorised by it to conduct the enquiry, may for sufficient reason to be recorded in writing refused to call any witness

(2) the Executive Council may, at any time ordinarily within 2 months from the date of the enquiry officer report pass a resolution dismissing or removing the teacher concerned from service or terminating the services mentioned in the grounds of such dismissal, removal or termination.”

18. The Executive Council of the University in its 35th meeting held on 07/10/2021 had resolved to adopt the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 and the memorandum was issued on 25/10/2021 indicating the said rules having been adopted for conduct of enquiry against the officer and employees of the University.

19. The University has very categorically stated that it had not followed the Rules of 1999 only because there was no misconduct and hence the said rules do not apply to the present case. A perusal of the Rules of 1999 indicates that according to Rule 6 the appointing authority of a Government servant may impose any of the penalties specified in the said rules. Section 7 provides for a detailed procedure to be followed for imposing major penalty. Major penalties include withholding of increment with little effect, reduction to a low post or grade, removal from service, dismissal from service as provided in Rule 3 while minor penalties include censure, withholding of increment etc.

20. In order to appreciate the arguments raised by the respondents the Rules of 1999 were not required to be followed because there was no allegation of misconduct, and secondly the selection of the petitioners was set aside, for which there is no provision in the Rules of 1999.

21. This Court after considering the rival submissions is of the view that the Rules of 1999 were applicable in the present case and were required to be followed by the respondents. A perusal of the impugned order would clearly reveal that the executive committee had recommended the termination of services of the petitioners, while the Vice Chancellor while complying with the order of the executive committee had set aside the selection of the petitioners. We proceed to decide the controversy in the present case treating the impugned order to be an order terminating the services of the petitioners. The services of an employee can be terminated only as a measure of penalty as provided in the Rules of 1999, or the statutes of the University. The common ground in all the cases is that the petitioners lacked the educational qualifications at the time of the selection.

22. This allegation is directly attributable to the petitioners, and such conduct would be liable to be included in the category of misconduct, which would be the act of obtaining employment without being duly qualified for the same. It is the conduct of the petitioners in submitting their educational qualifications, which according to the respondents they did not fulfil the criteria as laid down in the advertisement or the guidelines published by the University Grants Commission, for which their services have been terminated. On both these counts, this Court is of the view that it was imperative that the procedure established and accepted by the respondents, which is the Rules of 1999 were to be followed, and in not doing so the respondents have acted in the most arbitrary and illegal manner, and the impugned termination is not in accordance with law.

23. In order to impose the punishment of dismissal or removal, the Rules of 1999 will have to be followed. In order to impose major penalty facts constituting the misconduct on which it is proposed to take action shall be reduced in the form of definite charge contained in the chargesheet, where the proposed evidence and the name of witnesses are required be mentioned. The employee is required to file his response to the charges mentioned in the chargesheet and in case he denies the charges, the enquiry officer shall call the witnesses to the proposed the charge sheet to record oral evidence, and after recording of evidence submit his enquiry report to the disciplinary authority, who may either accept the same, or differ with the report or order re-enquiry as the case may be. In case he does not order re-enquiry, he has to give a show cause notice to the employee giving him a copy of the enquiry report, and finally conclude the proceedings either exonerating the employee or awarding punishment.

24. The aforesaid procedure is also envisaged in Statute 9.07 of the respondent University. In the present case no charge sheet was given to the petitioner nor was any oral evidence of the prosecution recorded in presence of the petitioners and they were not handed over the relevant documents sought by them on the ground of confidentiality and even the copies of the enquiry report of the committees were never given to the petitioners and only a extract was given along with the show cause notice and, therefore, the procedure as provided in Statute 9.07 was not followed, and consequently the entire proceedings were held in violation of statutes of the University as well as in principle of natural justice.

25. To examine the validity of the proceedings conducted by the respondent

University culminating in the impugned orders of cancellation of selection, it is noticed that the 'authorities' of the University have been prescribed under Sections 8 and 13 of the Act of 2009. It is laid down that the Executive Council shall be the Chief Executive body of the University. Section 16 lays the power and functions of the Executive Council, according to which it has power to appoint Professor, Reader, Lecturer and other members of the teaching staff as may be necessary on recommendation of the selection committee constituted by statutes for the purpose. In exercise of powers under Section 32 (1) of the Act of 2009, the State Government on 08/07/2009 framed Dr Shakuntala Mishra rehabilitation University (For differently abled) First Statutes, 2009, (hereinafter referred to as the Statutes) wherein in Statute 8.01 provides the qualification required for appointment and career advancement of teachers in the University other than the faculty of special education which shall be as per the qualifications prescribed by the University Grants Commission. Further in Statute 8.04, it has been provided that notwithstanding anything contained in Statutes 8.01, 8.02, 8.03 the Executive Council may invite a person of high academic distinction and professional attainments to accept the post of Professor or Reader or any other academic post in the University, as the case may be, on such terms and conditions as it may deem fit.

26. Chapter IX of the Statutes of the University, specifically Statute 9.07 provides that no order dismissing, removing or terminating the services of a teacher of the University shall be passed unless a charge has been framed against the teacher and communicated to him the statements of grounds, its proposed action and has been given adequate opportunity. In Statute 9.09, it has been provided that executive Council shall constitute, for such term as it thinks fit, a disciplinary committee in the University which shall consist of Vice Chancellor and other persons nominated by it.

27. It seems that there were several allegations against former Vice Chancellor, against whom action was taken after enquiry was instituted. The proceedings against the former Vice Chancellor Dr Nishith Rai were also looked into in Special Leave Petition No.9830/2018 by the Supreme Court, and vide order dated 06/04/2018 the University was given liberty to proceed against him on all matters except which were subject matter of writ petition No. 7695 (SB) of 2016.

28. The Executive Council decided to initiate an enquiry against the former Vice Chancellor in its 35th meeting held on 07/10/2021 and constituted a committee consisting of 2 retired High Court Judges.

29. In the present case, the entire controversy has its roots in the resolution passed by the General body of the University on 25/01/2019. In the said meeting the enquiry report submitted by Justice (Retd.) Shailendra Saxena was considered. The enquiry instituted against the former Vice Chancellor Dr Nishith Rai was conducted by Justice (Retd.) Shailendra Saxena. In the said enquiry report submitted to the General body of university the allegations against the former Vice Chancellor were proved. While accepting the said enquiry report, the General body also resolved that action would be taken with regard to all the irregularities including technical, administrative or financial committed by the former Vice Chancellor after seeking legal opinion.

30. The General body of the University in its meeting held on 16/09/2021 decided to enquire into the appointments made by the former Vice Chancellor, in pursuance to which the Executive Council in its 35th meeting dated 17/10/2021 had resolved to have the matter relating to the appointments inquired by a committee consisting of 2 former judges of the High Court and accordingly a committee consisting of Justice (Retd) S.V.S Rathore and Justice (Retd) Pratyush Kumar was constituted for the purpose. The General body in its resolution dated 16/09/2021 had limited the scope of enquiry only to the procedure followed in making the appointments to the academic and non-academic posts.

31. The said committee consisting of former Judges of the High Court conducted the enquiry by going to the records of the selection committee. In the report dated 28/01/2022 submitted by the committee, the procedure for appointment of the selection committee was considered. They took notice of the fact that as per the provisions of section 25(2)(a)(iv) of the act of 2009 which deals with constitution of the selection committee provides as follows:-

25. (1) The Executive Council shall constitute a Selection Committee for making recommendations to the Executive Council for appointment to the posts of teachers and other employees in the University.

(2)(a) The selection committee shall consist of the following members, namely:-

(i) the Vice Chancellor who shall be the Chairperson of the Committee for all teaching posts and the nonteaching posts of Group 'A' and Group 'B';

(ii) the Registrar shall be the Chairperson of the committee for all nonteaching posts of Group 'C' and Group 'D';

(iii) the Head of the Department concerned, if any who is not lower in rank than that of the post for which selection is to be made;

(iv)(a) Where an appointment is to be made for any teaching post, three experts nominated by the Visitor from amongst a panel of names recommended by the Academic Council and approved by the Executive Council:

Provided that till the constitution of Academic Council and Executive Council the above referred experts shall be nominated by the Vice-Chancellor.

(b) Where an appointment is to be made to any post other than concerned with teaching, the Registrar shall constitute the selection committee as per the Provisions of Uttar Pradesh Direct Recruitment Rules, 2002 (Outside the Perview of Public Service Commission) for Group "c" post as amended from time to time.

32. The committee was of the opinion that according to clause (iv) (a) of section 25 three experts have to be nominated by the visitor on the recommendation by the academic Council approved by the Executive Council, and this condition can be dispensed with only where the academic Council and Executive Council have not been constituted. According to the Enquiry Committee, at the time of appointment of the Expert Panel, the Executive Committee and the Executive Council had been constituted and consequently the Vice Chancellor could not have exercised his power as provided in the proviso to Section 25(iv)(a) of the Act, 2009. They further noticed that according to Section 44 of the Act, 2009, the proceedings of any authority, committee or body of the University shall not be invalidated merely for the reason that the General Council, Executive Council, Academic Council or any other authority or body of the University is not duly constituted or there is defect in its constitution or re-constitution.

33. It is on the basis of the aforesaid facts that the Committee came to the conclusion that appointments to the teaching post in pursuance to the advertisement nos. 17 of 2014 and 19 of 2015 were not in consonance with the statutory provisions, as the selection committee was constituted without taking approval of the Academic Council and held that constitution of the Selection Committee was illegal.

34. At this stage, it is relevant to notice that this aspect of the matter as to whether the Selection Committee was duly constituted or not had already been scrutinised by the Visitor vide order dated 11/03/2016 while deciding complaint made by one unsuccessful candidate namely Dr.

Abhay Krishna. In his complaint the complainant has also stated that the Selection Committee was constituted by the Vice Chancellor without referring the same to the Executive Council. He had further categorically stated that the Selection Committee was not constituted in terms of Section 25(2)(A)(iv)(a) of the Act, 2009.

35. The Visitor considered all these contentions and also statutory provisions and was of the considered view that:-

“In view of the aforesaid facts of the matter, there is no force in the three experts by the Visitor to the Selection Committee the composition of the Selection Committee had vitiated, Section 16(ii) of the Act provides that the teachers and the Librarian of the Rehabilitation University shall be appointed by the Executive Council on the recommendations of a Selection Committee, Section 25(2)(a) of the Act provides for the composition of the Selection Committee. Section 44(1) validates the decisions of the authorities of the Rehabilitation University even if there has been any defects etc. in the constitution of such authorities. ... There is, therefore, no force in the contrary contentions of the representationist Dr. Abhay Krishna.”

36. Undoubtedly, the Visitor is the highest authority of the University and once a decision has been rendered by the Visitor, that decision was binding on the University and in any view of the matter, the decision of the Visitor cannot be reviewed by any other authority subordinate to Visitor either by the General Body or the Vice Chancellor.

37. It is settled proposition of law that what cannot be done directly cannot be done indirectly. The order of the visitor was undoubtedly binding upon the respondent University, and only with a view to unsettle order of the visitor, the University resorted constituting a committee consisting of 2 former judges of the High Court, who in turn recorded a finding that the selection committee was not duly constituted, and the same was accepted by the University. The procedure adopted by the university is clearly illegal, arbitrary and malafide, done only with the intention to override the decision of the visitor. The order of the visitor was final and binding on the University, and it was not within the competence of the University to hold the order of the visitor to be illegal, arbitrary, or record any finding contrary to the said order. The findings recorded by the committee consisting of Retd. Judges were merely recommendatory, but the Executive Council of the University was bound to act in accordance with law, and it could not have approved the said findings contrary to the order of the visitor, and consequently the acceptance of the recommendations are clearly illegal and arbitrary. The manner in which the University has proceeded in the matter clearly indicates that to achieve their objectives, and to annul all the actions of the former Vice Chancellor, they chose not to follow the rules and basic principles which guide their actions.

38. Recommendations of the Inquiry Committee were again placed before the Executive Council which was duly considered and accepted the said recommendations in its 38th Meeting dated 19.04.2022. It was further stated that appointments made during the tenure of former Vice Chancellor Sri Nishith Rai suffer from following illegalities :-

(a) Rules pertaining to reservation were not followed;

(b) Selection Committee was not constituted according to the rules;

(c) More persons were appointed than what was published in the advertisement.

(d) Ineligible candidates were selected only on the basis of interview.

39. It was further decided that persons who were not holding requisite qualifications at the relevant time be asked to submit their response and the said response be placed before the two members Committed consisting of a retired High Court Judge and subject Specialist and only then final decision would be taken regarding their selection.

40. Show cause notices were given to the petitioners on 22.04.2022, by the Vice Chancellor of the Dr. Shakuntala Misra National Rehabilitation University, Lucknow to show cause stating that appointments made during the tenure of former Vice Chancellor Sri Nishith Rai which were inquired into by the Committee consisting two retired High Court Judges, who submitted their report on 29.10.2021 indicating that the petitioners were not qualified for appointment. The infirmities noticed by the Enquiry Committee were informed to the various petitioners who were in turn asked to respond to the same within 15 days. Some of the petitioners responded to the notice while the others had sought copies of relevant documents and also the entire report of the Enquiry Committee.

41. The response submitted to the show cause notice dated 22.04.2022 were considered by a committee consisting of Justice Harsh Kumar, retired High Court Judge as well as Subject Expert. After consideration of the response to the show cause notice submitted by the petitioners, the said Committee submitted its report on 09.06.2022, which has been placed before and considered by the Executive Council in its 39th Meeting held on 13.06.2022 and decided to accept the recommendations made by the said Enquiry Committee and a decision was taken to terminate the services of the petitioners. It was further resolved that order would be communicated by the Vice Chancellor of the University and accordingly selection of the petitioners has been cancelled by means of impugned order dated 06.07.2022.

42. The aforesaid order 06/07/2022 has been challenged by the petitioners on the following grounds :-

(a) Selection of the petitioners has been illegally cancelled after more than 7 years when admittedly there was no fault or mis-representation on the part of the petitioners seeking appointment.

(b) Copy of the enquiry report of the Committee was never provided to the petitioners, resulting in the orders having been passed in gross violation of principles of Natural Justice.

(c) No opportunity of personal hearing was given before passing the order dated 06.07.2022, and the proposed order was never communicated to the petitioners, resulting in violation of principles of natural Justice.

(d) Once the Visitor has considered the entire matter and held the selections to be legally valid and proper it was not open for the respondent-University to set aside the selection of the petitioners on the same grounds.

(e) Re-visiting the entire selection process, in fact is reviewing the entire selections made on various posts which amounts to reviewing their previous order, the power of which is not clearly vested in the respondents.

(f) Forming a committee to consider the reply to the show cause notice is illegal and arbitrary. The essential decision making functions cannot be delegated.

(g) All the petitioners, in fact, are fully qualified and eligible to be appointed and by not looking into it objectively and in the right perspective, will lead to miscarriage of justice in termination of their services.

(h) The entire process is malafidely from the very start, as it was already predetermined to take action against the persons appointed by the former Vice Chancellor. Even the resolutions of the general body and exhibited council have stated this explicitly.

(i) The procedure adopted was illegal and arbitrary, neither were the Rules of 1999 followed nor the statutes of the University were followed rendering the entire process void ab initio and the impugned orders are liable to be set aside .

Violation of principles of natural justice:-

43. The submission made on behalf of petitioners that termination of services of petitioners could have been made only after following the procedure established by law, which in the present case was U.P. Government Servant (Discipline & Appeal) Rules, 1999, which has been duly adopted by the respondent-University. It is further submitted that apart from application of aforesaid Rules, the statute of the University itself provides procedure wherein in Statute 9.07, dismissal, removal or termination of services of teachers can be made in terms of Statute 9.04, after framing charges against the said teacher and giving him adequate opportunity of submitting response in his defence and being heard in person and calling for examining such witnesses as he may wish.

44. Even if Rules of 1999 were not followed, the respondents could have followed the provisions contained in the Statute 9.07. Testing the order of termination on the anvil of above provisions it is noticed that no charge sheet was ever given to the petitioners and only show cause notices were issued to them on two occasions i.e. on 21.1.2021 and 22.4.2022 where they had submitted reply, but again the copy of the inquiry report was never given to them. From the aforesaid, it is clear that in absence of charges being framed against the petitioners, they were unable to adequately defend themselves which is in gross violation of provisions of Statute 9.07 of the respondent-University.

45. It has also been urged that at no point of time were they informed of the consequences including cancellation of their selection or termination of their services.

46. Stand of the respondent-University that full opportunity was given before passing of the impugned order is unconvincing and it has not been denied that charge sheet was never given to the petitioners in the said process. Accordingly, this Court is of the considered view that by not following the mandate provided in Statute 9.07, the respondents have acted in most arbitrary and illegal manner and termination of services of petitioners is therefore not sustainable in law and deserves to be set aside.

47. During course of hearing, considering the arguments of the petitioner that copy of the enquiry reports were never submitted to the petitioners and only extracts of the said reports were quoted in the show cause notices given to the petitioners this Court has called upon the respondents to file the Enquiry Reports. In pursuance to the directions issued by this Court the respondents have placed the same on record by filing supplementary affidavit, after providing copies of the same to the petitioners. The law in this regard has been settled by Supreme Court in various cases some of which are as under:-

48. In the case of Mahipal Singh Tomar v. State of U.P., (2013) 16 SCC 771 : (2014) 3 SCC (L&S) 610 : 2013 SCC OnLine SC 1135 at page 796 it has been held as under:-

“44. We shall now advert to the impugned orders. As analysis thereof shows that the High Court had mainly relied upon the fact-finding report prepared by the District Magistrate, referred to the provisions of the 1980 Act and held that the appellants' placement in the particular colleges was contrary to law and they were responsible for such placement. The High Court noted that some of the appellants had been placed in the colleges which were not even advertised by the Commission and others were placed against the vacancies notified in earlier years. In the opinion of the High Court, the placement of the appellants was per se illegal and void. However, the record produced before this Court does not show the appellants' direct involvement in their placement in the particular colleges. That apart, the questions whether the appellants' placement in the particular colleges was contrary to the statute and whether their placement was subsequently changed for extraneous considerations could not have been decided without supplying each one of them copy of the inquiry report and without giving him/her an effective opportunity to controvert the findings recorded by the District Magistrate, who had prepared the report by looking at one side of the coin. He did not give opportunity to any of the appellants to represent his/her cause or explain his/her position. Not only this, he did not confront any of the appellants with the adverse material produced before him. Therefore, the report of the District Magistrate could not have been relied upon by the State Government for directing cancellation of the placement of the appellants in the particular colleges and the Director committed grave illegality by mandating the termination of their services.

45. The three judgments relied upon by the High Court for rejecting the appellants' contention on the issue of violation of the rule of audi alteram partem are clearly distinguishable. In all the cases, this Court had found that the appointments of the appellants were contrary to law and the constitutional code of equality. It was also found that the appellants did not fulfil the conditions of eligibility. In the background of the factual matrix of those cases, this Court upheld the action taken by the employer to terminate the services of the appellants. On a factual plane, there is no similarity between the cases of the appellants and those relied upon by the High Court. Therefore, the principle that the court will not restore an illegal order could not have been invoked by the High Court for defeating the rights acquired by the appellants on the basis of their selection by the Commission.

46. In the result, the appeals are allowed. The impugned orders are set aside. The termination of the appellants' services is declared illegal and quashed. They shall be deemed to be continuing on the posts of Principals, subject to the following riders:

(i) If the management of the particular college has initiated any disciplinary action against any of the appellants for the misconduct committed during the course of service then this order shall not operate as a bar to the taking of final decision in the matter.

(ii) The Director shall be free to relocate or change the placement of the appellants in accordance with the relevant statutory provisions and the order passed by this Court shall not operate as an impediment in taking of appropriate action by the Director."

Undoubtedly, in the present case, only copy of extract of the inquiry report was supplied to the petitioners and they were never given entire report where the aspect with regard to constitution, terms of reference and the issues detailed by them have been discussed. All these matters were relevant to the petitioners for defending themselves and also raising objections with regard to the procedure adopted by the said Committee.

49. Non supply of entire enquiry reports to the petitioners has clearly prejudiced their defence and consequently, this Court is of the considered view that proceedings were conducted in gross violation of principles of natural justice and hence on this count also the proceedings were arbitrary, illegal and liable to be quashed.

Whether the procedure followed for conducting enquiry can be sustained?

50. As already discussed above the Enquiry Committee of two former Judges of this Court was constituted who opined that the selection committee was not properly constituted and therefore it recommended cancellation of all the appointments made by the said selection committee. The said committee relied mainly upon the provisions of Section 25(2)(A)(iv)(a) of Act, 1999. The said recommendations were duly approved by the General Body of the respondent-University and a decision was taken to proceed against the teachers who lack educational qualification at the time of their selection.

51. In order to consider this aspect of the matter, show cause notice was given to the petitioners and response was sought from them with regard to their educational qualifications. The response of the teachers instead of being considered by the Executive Council which was their appointing authority, was placed before another committee consisting of retired High Court Judge and a Subject Specialist and recommendations of said committee were again judged by the Executive Council, which proposed termination of services of petitioners and it was left to the Vice Chancellor to communicate the said order to the petitioners. The Vice Chancellor passed the impugned order cancelling their selection.

52. The procedure which has been followed is not prescribed in the Act of 1999 or in the Statute framed by the respondent-University which in fact provide for the procedure to be followed wherever the services of a teacher are to be removed/dismissed. Once a procedure has been duly adopted which provides for termination of services of teachers, then, the respondent-University was under mandate to follow the said procedure. Firstly, entire proceedings are de-horse the prescribed procedure and therefore same could not be validated or sustained. Secondly, it is noticed that to proceed against an employee is right of the employer whenever there are allegations of misconduct or breach of contract of employment. To make an enquiry into the matter and enquiry officer can be appointed, but after receiving the enquiry report the essential aspect of decision making cannot be delegated to any other authority. In the present case, response received to the show cause notice were directed to be placed before a Committee which consisted a former Judge of this Court and a Subject Specialist. They looked into the response as to whether the petitioners fulfilled all the qualifications prescribed and its recommendations were placed before the Executive Council which had duly accepted the same. This delegation of power of looking into the response to the show cause notice, and affording personal hearing is essential feature of the enquiry conducted against a delinquent employee and such a procedure which has been followed in the present case is neither been provided in any Rule, Statute or Act, could not have been delegated to an outside agency. Needless to say, hearing is to be afforded before an authority who has to take a decision on the matter. In case hearing is done by one authority and the order is passed by another, the hearing in such a case becomes illusory and merely camouflage with regard to following the principles of natural justice. The hearing was afforded by the committee, while the decision was to be taken by the Executive Council before whom no hearing took place, and consequently the proceedings were held in violation of principles of natural justice. Even the procedure followed was arbitrary and not prescribed and accordingly entire proceedings are illegal and arbitrary and violative of natural justice and liable to be quashed on this ground alone.

53. The other ground which has been urged by the petitioners is that their recruitment was made in the year 2015 and they have been continuing on the said post for the last 7-8 years till a decision was taken by the respondent-University cancelling their selection. The first issue as to whether selections which have been made by a duly constituted Committee consisting of subject specialist from various fields and after examining the qualifications of the petitioners and recommendations have been duly accepted by the University and without there being any additional material on record could the selections be cancelled? It was submitted that the entire matter could not have been reviewed by the University after such long lapse of time which resulted in the impugned order of cancellation of selection.

54. Further additional fact is that after their selection the petitioners completed more than one year in service their services were confirmed. It is in the case of the respondent-University that there were no complaints against the petitioners with regard to their work or any deficiency in their work was noticed as teacher in the respondent-University.

55. Once selections have been made by a duly constituted Committee as prescribed under the Rules made by the University Grants Commission and such recommendations were accepted by the University then in absence of any power, the University does not have power to review the appointments/selection, unless there are complaints with regard to defect or otherwise in their educational qualifications.

56. A perusal of the Act of 2009 also indicates that once selection has been made by a duly constituted selection committee then even if there is any lacunae, the same deserves to be ignored and the selections made are to be preserved and protected to that effect. Even Section 44 of the Act, 2009 provides that a Committee constituted by the University shall not be invalidated merely for the reason that General Body, Executive Council or any other body of the University is not constituted or there is defect in its constitution or re-constitution. In all the matter which have been examined by this Court in the present bunch of writ petitions there is no allegation that any of the petitioners has suppressed material fact regarding their qualification or had given any forged document or degree at the time of their selection.

57. On the other hand the Selection Committee was duly constituted and its constitution in any case is saved by provision of section 44 of the Act of 2009. The allegations of the University with regard to selection of expert members also cannot be substantiated after this aspect was duly examined by the Visitor, who had rejected the allegations to the contrary. Merely because the said selections were made during the tenure of former Vice Chancellor, whose appointment itself was challenged and the appointments made during his regime were scrutinised, which indicates pre-determination on behalf of the respondent-University. Merely because the present administration of the University was adamant to inquiry into the appointments made during the regime of former Vice Chancellor against whom there were several allegations, cannot be main consideration for proceeding against the teachers appointed during the tenure of former Vice Chancellor.

58. Apart from the fact that non supply of Enquiry Reports, constitutes material illegality in conducting the proceedings against the petitioners. It was also noticed that the University had disclosed that the aspect pertaining to the selection of three experts to be nominated by the Visitor had already been examined by the Visitor on the basis of a complaint made by one Dr. Abhay Krishna and the Visitor passed order dated 11.03.2016, where it was recorded that the Selection Committee has been properly constituted, and still the committee of judges to say to examine the said issue and recorded a finding contrary to the order passed by the visitor. The said Committee could not have made recommendations contrary to the order passed by the Visitor because at best it was exercising delegated function of authority of the University and was bound and as such was bound by the decision made by the Visitor.

59. This Court after examining various resolutions of the General Body and the Executive Council where it has been considered that all the appointments made under tenure of former Vice Chancellor required to scrutinised, which indicates mind set of the present administration who is running the affairs of the respondent-University. Conducting such an exercise after lapse of 6 to 7 years is clearly illegal and arbitrary despite the fact that there were no complaints against the appointment of the petitioners, and only reason disclosed in the resolutions of the general body and the executive Council is with regard to the procedure followed in appointing the selection committee, constituted for selection of teachers in 2014. In this regard it is relevant to consider the judgement of the Supreme Court.

60. In the case of Md. Zamil Ahmed v. State of Bihar, (2016) 12 SCC 342 : (2017) 1 SCC (L&S) 396 : 2016 SCC OnLine SC 416 at page 345 it has been held as under:-

“15. In these circumstances, we are of the view that there was no justification on the part of the State to wake up after the lapse of 15 years and terminate the services of the appellant on such ground. In any case, we are of the view that whether it was a conscious decision of the State to give appointment to the appellant as we have held above or a case of mistake on the part of the State in giving appointment to the appellant which now as per the State was contrary to the policy as held by the learned Single Judge, the State by their own conduct having condoned their lapse due to passage of time of 15 years, it was too late on the part of the State to have raised such ground for cancelling the appellant's appointment and terminating his services. It was more so because the appellant was not responsible for making any false declaration nor he suppressed any material fact for securing the appointment. The State was, therefore, not entitled to take advantage of their own mistake if they felt it to be so. The position would have been different if the appellant had committed some kind of fraud or manipulation or suppression of material fact for securing the appointment. As mentioned above such was not the case of the State.

61. In the case of Vikas Pratap Singh v. State of Chhattisgarh, (2013) 14 SCC 494 : (2013) 3 SCC (L&S) 100 : 2013 SCC OnLine SC 599 at page 502 following has been held:-

*“22. The pristine maxim of fraus et jus nunquam cohabitant (fraud and justice never dwell together) has never lost its temper over the centuries and it continues to dwell in spirit and body of* service law jurisprudence. It is settled law that no legal right in respect of appointment to a said post vests in a candidate who has obtained the employment by fraud, mischief, misrepresentation or mala fide. (See Vizianagaram Social Welfare Residential School Society v. M. Tripura Sundari Devi [(1990) 3 SCC 655 : 1990 SCC (L&S) 520 : (1990) 14 ATC 766] , S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu v. Jagannath [(1994) 1 SCC 1] and Union of India v. M. Bhaskaran [1995 Supp (4) SCC 100 : 1996 SCC (L&S) 162 : (1996) 32 ATC 94] .) It is also settled law that a person appointed erroneously on a post must not reap the benefits of wrongful appointment jeopardising the interests of the meritorious and worthy candidates. However, in cases where a wrongful or irregular appointment is made without any mistake on the part of the appointee and upon discovery of such error or irregularity the appointee is terminated, this Court has taken a sympathetic view in the light of various factors including bona fide of the candidate in such appointment and length of service of the candidate after such appointment (see Vinodan T. v. University of Calicut [(2002) 4 SCC 726 : 2002 SCC (L&S) 606] ; State of U.P. v. Neeraj Awasthi [(2006) 1 SCC 667 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 190]).”

62. While examining the said selections the respondent-University should have been careful and circumspect in their approach and should have followed the procedure and norms. The proceedings conducted by the respondent-University shows its overzealousness to annul the decisions of the former Vice Chancellor which is writ large in the manner they have acted against the petitioners which is not appreciated specially in an educational institution meant for higher learning which also deals with special students who require much more care, attention and sensitivity. Subsequent to the appointment, the petitioners services were confirmed and after such a long time of 6-7 years the respondent university has initiated the proceedings is clearly illegal and arbitrary, and without there being any fresh material amounts to review of the selections made, which power is not vested either in the Act of 2009 of the statutes of the University and on this ground also the proceedings conducted by the respondent University and the impugned orders are illegal and arbitrary.

63. With regard to the application of principles of natural justice, the respondents have submitted that the very fact that the respondents did not fulfil the minimum eligibility qualifications for recruitment to various posts to which they were appointed, it would have been empty formality to give them due opportunity of hearing, and consequently submitted that even if there is some infraction of the principle of natural justice the same would not vitiate the impugned order of termination.

64. In order to appreciate the argument of the petitioner is imperative to look into the educational qualifications of the petitioners:-

(A) Writ A No. 4293/2022 (Dr Rajendra Kumar Srivastava Vs. State of U.P. and others)

(i) An advertisement was issued by the respondent University on 16/02/2015 inviting applications for number of disciplines including for Professor of Computer Science and qualifications required by the candidate were mentioned at serial no.07 which were as follows:-

(a) qualifications as above i.e for the post of Associate Professor is applicable.

(b) Post PhD students and guiding PhD students

(c) minimum of 10 year teaching/research/industrial experience with at least 5 years shall be at the level of Associate Professor or minimum of 13 year experience in teaching/research/industry

(d) in case of research experience good academic record and books/research paper publication/PR/patents records shall be required as a deemed fit by the expert member of the selection committee.

(e) If the experience in industries considered, the same shall be at managerial level equivalent to associate professor with the active participation record in devising/designing, executing, analysing, quality control, innovating, training, technical books/research paper publication/IPR/patents etc as real fit by the expert member of the selection committee.

(ii) The required qualifications for the post of Associate Professor were provided at serial No. 18 of the said advertisement which are as follows:-

B-E/B-Tech and ME/M tech in relevant branch with 1st class or equivalent either in B-E/B-Tech or ME/M tech

Or

B-E/B-Tech and MCA with 1st class or equivalent in either B-E/B-Tech or MCA

Or

MCA with 1st class or equivalent with 2 years relevant experience

(iii). The qualifications of the petitioner are M.Sc in computer science, M.Sc Physics, MA Maths and PhD computer science. The allegation against the petitioner was that he was not qualified for being appointed on the post of Professor in computer science in as much as he was not holding a degree of MCA. The petitioner on the other, submitted that he was fully qualified in as much as he obtained a Masters degree in maths in 1999 and MSc in computer science in 2001 and as per the decision of the executive committee of AICTE dated 01/06/2016 MSc in computer science is a degree which is held to be equivalent to the degree of MCA. Sri Sudeep Seth Senior Advocate fairly submits that after 2016, when the AICTE has clarified that M.Sc Computer Science would be equivalent to MCA the petitioner would be eligible for appointment but not prior to the said date.

(iv). In the impugned order, the contention of the petitioner has been duly recorded but has been rejected by means of an cryptic order without assigning any reasons. The impugned order does not consider the contention raised by the petitioner, and it indicates that his contention was not even considered and in absence of any reasons it cannot be said that there was any application of mind by any authority while rejecting his contention.

(v). To consider whether the petitioner possessed relevant qualifications for his appointment to the post of Professor in Computer Science and as to whether MSc in computer science is equivalent to MCA, it is noticed at the very outset that according to the professional body constituted for dealing in the special field has prescribed the norms which are to be followed by all the institutions. In its notification published on 01/06/2016 certain clarifications have been issued including the fact that MSc computer science is equivalent to MCA. The respondents do not dispute this fact stated that the said notification was issued in 2016 while the petitioner was appointed prior to the said date.

(vi). A perusal of the clarifications issued by the AICTE does not leave room for doubt about the equivalence of MCA with a M.Sc computer science. As it is only a clarification, it would relate back to date of initial prescription of the qualifications. Not only has the AICTE issued the clarification, but even prior the same The Indian Institute of Technology Madras recognised the said equivalence when they had published an advertisement for recruitment in the year 2013-2014. This aspect of the matter was also considered by the Supreme Court in the case of Saurabh Pal Vs The Chancellor, Veer Bahadur and others Appeal (Civil) 596 of 2008 decided on 22/01/2008

5) The University which was a respondent in the writ petition filed by the 5th respondent, however, contended that both the appellants possessed the qualification prescribed by it in the recruitment advertisement and the qualification prescribed by it was in accordance with the AICTE Norms. The qualification prescribed in the advertisement was as follows: Lecturer: (For Engineering Branches) Essential:

First Class Bachelors' Degree in appropriate branch of Engineering Technology.

Desirable: Master's degree in relevant branch.

The University submitted that "M.Sc. (Computer Science)" was treated as equivalent to 'MCA' and, therefore, the appellants were qualified for being appointed as a lecturer-MCA, .

6) The High Court relying on Table-E-2 of AICTE Norms held that the two appellants did not possess the requisite qualification and therefore, set aside their selection. Aggrieved by the same, the present appeal is filed.

7) We heard learned counsel for the appellants and learned counsel for the 5th respondent.

8) Table-E-2 issued by the AICTE when read with Note (2) under Table-E-2 clearly shows that the degree possessed by the appellants was also a requisite qualification for appointment as Lecturers in MCA. The Division Bench of High Court clearly mis-read Table E-2 of AICTE Norms as it failed to notice Note (2) to Table E-2. We are informed that the copy of Table E-2 produced by the 5th respondent in the writ petition was not complete and did not contain the Note. Be that as it may. We are satisfied that the appellants possessed the requisite qualification. As the decision of the High Court setting aside their appointments is erroneous, it is set aside and the challenge to the appointment of the appellants as Lecturers is rejected. Their appointment is upheld. The appeal is disposed of accordingly.

65. The above judgements clearly resolve the dispute that M.Sc. has been held to be equivalent to M.Sc. Computer Science much prior to issuing of the clarification by the AICTE in 2016 as noticed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court. It indicates that the petitioner was fully eligible and qualified for being appointed on the post of Professor in Computer Science and fulfilled all the eligibility conditions in this regard. The respondents have acted in most illegal and arbitrary manner and did not even consider the contention of the petitioner when he responded to the show cause notice issued by the University.

66. The procedure adopted by the respondents, as well as the decision making process adopted by them where the personal hearing was given by the committee and the decision taken by the executive Council indicates that proper or opportunity of hearing was not given to the petitioners before passing of the impugned order of termination. This aspect of the matter would have been duly considered by the selection committee at the time of selection of the petitioner, and that is why an expert members of the panel is included as per the norms prescribed by the UGC, but the enquiry committee did not have any expert member and therefore could not appreciate the stand taken by the petitioner. It is in this regard the Supreme Court has also held in the case of Basavaiah (Dr.) v. Dr. H.L. Ramesh, (2010) 8 SCC 372

20. It is abundantly clear from the affidavit filed by the University that the Expert Committee had carefully examined and scrutinised the qualification, experience and published work of the appellants before selecting them for the posts of Readers in Sericulture. In our considered opinion, the Division Bench was not justified in sitting in appeal over the unanimous recommendations of the Expert Committee consisting of five experts. The Expert Committee had in fact scrutinised the merits and demerits of each candidate including qualification and the equivalent published work and its recommendations were sent to the University for appointment which were accepted by the University.

21. It is the settled legal position that the courts have to show deference and consideration to the recommendation of an Expert Committee consisting of distinguished experts in the field. In the instant case, the experts had evaluated the qualification, experience and published work of the appellants and thereafter recommendations for their appointments were made. The Division Bench of the High Court ought not to have sat as an appellate court on the recommendations made by the country's leading experts in the field of Sericulture.

67. In light of the above, this Court comes to a conclusion that the petitioner was fully qualified for being appointed and did not lack any qualification as alleged, as such, the impugned order is rendered illegal and arbitrary and liable to be set aside.

68. Writ petition No. 4316 of 2022(Writ A) Vipin Kumar Pandey vs State of U.P. and others)

(i).The petitioner had applied for the post of Assistant Professor (English) and the only ground on which the services of the petitioner was terminated is that while offering his candidature details given in regard to API score indicated that he did not have score of 300 as prescribed under the UGC Regulations. The allegation was that the petitioner claimed API score of 304.5 points under category III by awarding 50 points in category III sec IIIE (i) whereas a maximum of 30 points can be claimed under this section, and hence the petitioner came down to 284.5 which is less than the minimum required API score. Before the selection committee the petitioner submitted 4 more research papers all of which related to period prior to the issuance of advertisement. The selection committee being satisfied with the documents presented by the petitioner exceeded requirement of the API score, and consequently the petitioner was declared to be selected. The selection committee consisted of experts who after due consideration that the petitioner fulfils eligibility conditions selected him for the said post. Only contention raised by the respondents is that while filling up the application form, the petitioner had granted himself marks much more than permissible in the particular category. It could also not be disputed that the petitioner had produced some other papers authored prior to the date of advertisement for which he was entitled to marks, and after taking the same into consideration he had obtained more marks than were required, and hence there was no infirmity in his selection.

(ii). Sri Sudeep Seth Senior advocate has relied upon judgement of the Supreme Court in the case of show Ashok Kumar Sonkar vs Union of India and others (2007) 4SCC 54 to canvases his submission that the candidate should possess all the qualifications on the date of the application. In case he does not possesses the qualifications on the last date fixed for submission of applications he would not be entitled for due consideration for the said selection. In the present case, it is not the case of the respondents that the petitioner did not fulfil the eligibility conditions on the last date of the application inasmuch he had submitted 4 other papers authored by him which were prior to the cut off date. The facts in the case of Ashok Kumar Sonkar are clearly distinguishable from the facts of the present case. Merely cancelling his appointment on the ground that on the date of submission of the form by the petitioner his API score was less than what was required, it is not made out. The petitioner had produced articles authored by an prior to the date of advertisement which were duly accepted by the selection committee. The panel of experts constituting the selection committee are the best to judge the qualifications of a candidate, who after due examination found the petitioner was fully qualified to be selected. There are no allegations of malafidely or bias against the panel of experts, hence their decision could not have been substituted by another body lacking the minimum/basic expertise in the matter. This Court is of the considered view that the petitioner fulfilled all the qualifications and the decision of the respondents authorities to the contrary is arbitrary, illegal and is liable to be set-aside.

69. Writ A No. 4307 of 2022 (Dr Adya Shakti Rai vs State of U.P and others):

(i).The respondent University had published an advertisement on 17/02/2014 inviting applications for various posts including the post of Associate Professor in Department of Visual Impairment, Faculty of Special Education. The petitioner was already working on the post of Lecture/Assistant Professor in the Department of Visual Impairment since 2009 in the respondent University and was desirous of being appointed on the post of Associate Professor and applied in pursuance of the aforesaid advertisement. Pursuant to her application, her candidature was duly examined by the selection committee appointed by the respondent University and also was interviewed, and other documents were duly examined. She was found qualified and hence duly selected. Recommendations of the selection committee were also approved by the Executive Council, and she was appointed on the post of Associate Professor in Department of Visual Impairment, Faculty of Special Education. The allegation against her is that she only had experience of 4 years and 7 months rather than 5 years which was required for appointment on the said post.

(ii). It has been submitted by the counsel for the petitioner that the said post was also advertised in 2010, and no one had applied for the said post, as they are very few people opting for the said course. Similarly, a fresh advertisement was published on 03/12/2012 where again no candidate applied for the said post. It is when again the advertisement was issued in 2014, that the petitioner who was already working on the post of lecturer/Assistant Professor applied. It also stated that as the respondent University did not have any faculty in the Department of visual impairment, and The Rehabilitation Council of India while giving approval for the said course noticed the shortcomings of the respondent University which to be removed immediately including appointment of adequate faculty. In order to remove the shortcomings as pointed out by the Rehabilitation Council of India, the post was advertised, and the petitioner was duly appointed. It is stated that the respondent University when it was at the verge of its approval being withdrawn, had appointed the petitioner on the post of lecturer/Assistant Professor. It is stated that even otherwise, while working on the post of Assistant Professor, the petitioner would have been promoted to the post of Associate Professor in due course of time, had she not applied for appointment in 2014, and it is further submitted that now after 7 years working on the post of Associate Professor services cannot be terminated merely on account of the fact that at the time of appointment or experience for short by 5 months.

(iii). Sri Sudeep Seth, Senior Advocate fairly submitted that though the petitioner did not have the requisite experience at the time of the appointment, but in case fresh advertisement is issued then she would be eligible for applying and being appointed on the said post.

(iv). Considering the rival contentions, it is noticed that the petitioner was appointed on the post of Assistant Professor in Department of visual impairment in the faculty of special education in their 2009, and at completed 4 years and 7 months of the said post, when she applied for the post of Associate Professor in the year 2014. Even though at the time of her appointment there was shortfall of certain period of experience, but admittedly she has been working of the said post for last 7 years and there are no complaints against, and she even fulfils all the requisite qualifications as on date. This court has also considered the fact that on 2 previous occasions the respondent

University had advertised the post for appointment to the post of Associate Professor, but no applications were received, which clearly indicates that firstly, there were very few people taking up the said course and due to the paucity of individuals of the required academic qualifications, and secondly, that the approval given by the Rehabilitation Council of India was subject to appointment of adequate faculty. The respondent University more because of their immediate requirement appointed the petitioner on the post of Associate Professor appointed her to the said post after duly considering her experience. It is not a case that the petitioner has misrepresented, as even an application forms clearly indicates that she has experience of four years and seven months on the post of Assistant Professor .They cannot now be permitted to turn back and cancel the selection of the petitioner on the ground of lack of requisite experience. In the case of Mohd. Abul Lash Vs. State of U.P. and others, the Hon'ble Apex Court while considering a case where a person was not qualified at the time of appointment, but he acquired the requisite qualification later on, refused to interfere with the appointment and set aside the judgment and order dated 19.12.2014 passed by a Division Bench of this Court in Special Appeal (Defective) No.701 of 2014. In another case of Nahar Singh and others Vs. State of U.P. and others and Savitri Devi and others Vs. State of U.P. and others, Hon'ble Supreme Court in Civil Appeal No.3904 of 2013 held that once a person has continued in service for a long period, his continuance should not be disturbed. Following the aforesaid ratio of law laid down by Supreme Court a Division Bench of this Court in Special Appeal No.313 of 2015 had held that after long continuance in service, the appointment of a person to his service should not be disturbed.

(v). Even otherwise, when the aspect of cancellation of appointment was being considered the relevant facts should have been taken into account that on the date of such consideration the petitioner fulfilled all the educational qualifications including teaching experience. The deficiency if any, stood fulfilled and not taking this into account the respondents have acted in the most arbitrary manner. It is in the aforesaid circumstances this Court is of the considered view that the impugned order cancelling her selection and terminating the services clearly illegal and arbitrary.

70. Writ A No.4310 of 2022 (Dr. Mrityunjay Mishra Vs. State of U.P. and others)

(i).The petitioner had applied in pursuance to the advertisement No.17/2013-14 for the post of Associate Professor, Department of Hearing Impairment, Faculty of Special Education. It has been submitted that even prior to appointment as Associate Professor in the Department of Hearing Impairment, Faculty of Special Education the petitioner was already working on the post of Lecturer in the respondent -University since 25.8.2009 and prior to his joining the respondent University in 2009, he was working as Course Coordinator, a post which is equivalent to the post of Lecturer, in Research Education and Audiology Development Society, which is a society registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 and recognized by Rehabilitation Council of India from 15.9.2003 to 24.8.2009. According to the advertisement No.17 /2013-14 the essential qualification required for the post of is as under:-

i. Master's Degree in any discipline with not less than 50 % of marks

ii. M.Ed. Degree in specific disability area with not less than 55 % of marks or an equivalent grade of B in 7-point scale

or

An Equivalent degree from a foreign university recognized by R.C.I.

iii. Ph.D. in Education with research emphasis on Special Education.

iv. Should have completed at least 5 years of experience as Lecturer in specific disability area

v. Should have completed at least one general orientation course and two refresher courses in education/special education of UGC.

(ii). Desirable Additional Qualification:

a. Publication pertaining to special education in indexed journals and research experience.

(iii). It has been submitted by learned counsel for the petitioner that in her application form she had provided complete details of education/experience and also that she has five years' experience as Lecturer in Specific Disability area. He has further submitted that the respondent-university while issuing show cause notice to the petitioner was of the opinion that the experience of the petitioner with the respondent-university on the post of Lecturer was only 4 years and 7 months and on the said basis had formed an opinion that the petitioner does not fulfil the requisite qualifications of having experience of 5 years as Lecturer in Specific Disability area. Petitioner's case is that she is fully eligible and qualified to be appointed on the post of Associate Professor in the Department of Hearing Impairment in as much as apart from working as Lecturer with the respondent - university for 4 years and 7 months she had worked as Post Coordinator in D.S.E. (Hearing Impairment) and B.Ed. (SEC) in the Research Education Audiology Development Society, Jaipur which is duly registered under the Societies Registration Act and recognized by the Rehabilitation Council of India. Her experience from 15.10.2003 to 24.8.2009 was supposed to be considered as according to clause 8.01 to 8.03 of the First Statute of 2009 it is provided that in the Faculty of Special Education the educational qualification would be what is prescribed by Rehabilitation Council of India. It has further been submitted that the petitioner had acquired Master Degree in 2008 and has two years' experience on the post of Associate Professor and even if the experience is counted from 2008, the petitioner would have had acquired five years' requisite qualification when she applied in pursuance of the Advertisement No.17/2013-14.

(iv). The candidature of the petitioner was duly considered by five member selection committee comprising of Vice Chancellor and its Chairman and three expert members from outside the university and one expert member from the university and in their collective wisdom the case of the petitioner was duly recommended for appointment on the post of Associate Professor in the Departmental of Hearing Impairment. The recommendations and qualifications were further duly considered by the Executive Council of the respondent university and after recommendations the petitioner was found to be fully qualified and eligible, offer of appointment was made.

(v). Sri Sudeep Seth has fairly submitted that though the inquiry committee was constituted for scrutinising the qualification of the persons appointed in pursuance of the Advertisement No.17/2013-14, it was of the opinion that the petitioner did not have requisite qualification at the time when the selection was made but subsequently at the time when the selection was sought to be cancelled the petitioner did have the experience in as much as she has continuously worked on the post of Associate Professor in the university since the date of his appointment in 2015 till the date of passing of the impugned order in 2022. It is noticed that even if the case of the respondent-university is accepted the petitioner was duly selected and duly appointed by the selection committee and even if for a moment the arguments of the university are accepted then also the services of the petitioner should not have been terminated on the ground that he fell short of experience of 5 months considering the fact that he has already working on the post of Lecturer in the university since 2009.

71. The petitioners have completed more than 8 years of service after having been appointed as Associate Professor in the University. In the case of Mohd. Abul Lash Vs. State of U.P. and others, the Hon'ble Apex Court while considering a case where a person was not qualified at the time of appointment, but he acquired the requisite qualification later on, refused to interfere with the appointment and set aside the judgment and order dated 19.12.2014 passed by a Division Bench of this Court in Special Appeal (Defective) No.701 of 2014. In another case of Nahar Singh and others Vs. State of U.P. and others and Savitri Devi and others Vs. State of U.P. and others, Hon'ble Supreme Court in Civil Appeal No.3904 of 2013 held that once a person has continued in service for a long period, his continuance should not be disturbed. Following the aforesaid ratio of law laid down by Supreme Court a Division Bench of this Court in Special Appeal No.313 of 2015 had held that after long continuance in service, the appointment of a person to his service should not be disturbed.

72. Considering the aforesaid facts this Court is of the considered opinion that the period the petitioner worked i.e. from 2003 to 2009 as Post Coordinator in READS is required to be counted as his experience as Lecture. The panel of experts having examined the said issue found the petitioner to be possessing the requisite experience. It is not subsequently open for a body not having requisite qualification or expertise in the subject to test the validity of the decision taken by expert body/selection committee and also considering the fact that on the date of passing of the impugned order the petitioner has the requisite qualifications there was no occasion for the respondent-university to have terminated his services after 7 years of his working in the respondent university as Associate Professor.

73. Writ A No.4312 of 2022 (Avanish Chandra Mishra Vs. State of U.P. and others):

The petitioner had applied post of Professor in the Department of history pursuant to the advertisement dated 17/02/2014. The essential qualification criteria of having completed minimum 10 years of teaching experience in university/college, and/or experience in research at the university/national level institutions/industries, including experience of guiding candidates for research at doctoral level. The petitioner submitted that he has worked on the post of Associate Professor from 01/01/2004 till 15/01/2014 which is for a period of more than 10 years at Jagatguru Rambadrachara Handicapped University, Chitrakoot on permanent basis. In this regard he fulfilled all the minimum qualifications. The controversy in the present case is with regard to the fact that while working as Associate Professor in the Jagatguru Rambadrachara Handicapped University, Chitrakoot the petitioner was also given additional charge for the post of Registrar. The respondent university has cancelled the appointment of the petitioner on the ground that when the petitioner worked on the post of Registrar, he could not have been involved in teaching and the period has worked as registrar has been deducted from his teaching experience. The petitioner submitted that only additional charge of the Registrar was given to him along with his teaching assignment which continued without any break. There is no material with the respondent university to indicate as to whether during this period the petitioner functioned as it wholetime registrar or was not involved in any teaching assignment. It is noticed that mainly on the basis of assumption, that while discharging his duties as registrar the petitioner would not have been involved in teaching, the experience so obtained on the said post has been reduced. In absence of any material and considering the fact that the petitioner was only discharging the functions of Registrar in addition to his teaching assignment as Assistant Professor, it cannot be said that during the period he was only discharging the duties of the registrar, so that his teaching experience cannot be counted. In this regard the contention of the petitioner has force and the arguments to the contrary accordingly rejected.

74. The 2nd ground for cancellation of the appointment is with regard to the publication of the research papers. In the advertisement of 2014 issued by the respondent university the qualifications required for the post of Professor in history was that a candidate should be “an eminent scholar with Ph.D qualifications in the concerned/Allied/relevant disciplines and published work of high-quality, actively engaged in research with evidence of published work with minimum of 10 publications as books and/or research/policy papers”. The petitioner in his application form had claim to have published 8 research papers and authored 3 books. It is stated out of the 8 research papers 5 were already published and the remaining 3 were accepted for publication. The petitioner had mentioned that 2 books were already published and 1 book had been accepted for publication. At the time when the petitioner appeared for verification of documents the research papers and the book which had been accepted for publication had in fact been published and the proof of the same was produced before the selection committee. The petitioner had also submitted the proof with regard to the acceptance for publication along with the application form. He submitted that even if the papers are accepted for publication, the same is adequate proof of publication as per the norms of the University Grants commission. According to the guidelines for part-time research associate issued by the University Grants commission it is provided

“(a) if yes, please indicate the number of papers published/accepted in standard referred journals (i) Indian (ii) foreign (a list of research papers published – accepted for publication should be attached. If, for e-publication, the title, names of all authors, name of journal, volume, number, year and pages. Enclose copies of papers and accepted papers. Photo copy of letter of acceptance from and it should be enclosed for paper accepted for publication.”

75. It is seen that even according to the University Grants Commission if the research papers have been accepted for publication the same would be counted towards the research papers and due weightage has to be given to the same. In the present case 3 research papers had been accepted for publication, and consequently the same were to be counted towards the published works of the candidate. The respondents, not considering this aspect of the matter have acted arbitrarily and contrary to the guidelines issued by the University Grants commission and even otherwise the perusal of the impugned order does not contain any reason and it is not known whether this aspect was even taken account of either by the committee or by the Executive Council. The research papers authored by the petitioner which have been accepted for publication were required to be considered, which were duly taken into account by the selection committee but arbitrarily not considered by the inquiry committee and consequently there was no infirmity/deficiency in the qualification of the petitioner in this regard.

76. It has further been contended that even the API score has been wrongly calculated by the respondent university leading to cancellation of his appointment. The petitioner has stated that he has an API score of 469.5 which is more than the required API score. The details of publications have been enclosed by the petitioner which clearly indicate his API score. The selection committee has duly looked into the API score of the petitioner and was satisfied that the same was more than the minimum required to score as per the University Grants commission norms and consequently he was held to be selected. The respondents have not indicated in what manner the API score of the petitioner is below the minimum required. Considering the fact that API score of the petitioner is more than the minimum required, the finding to the contrary recorded by the respondents is clearly illegal and arbitrary.

77. From the aforesaid discussions it is clear that the petitioner was fully qualified, his qualifications were duly looked into by the selection committee recommended his candidature for appointment to the post of Professor in History. There is no reason for a review of his qualifications after a period of 7 years, in absence of any allegations of fraud and misconduct have been having been committed by the petitioner, the cancellation of his selection is clearly illegal and arbitrary and liable to be set aside.

78. The petitioners have assailed the order of termination on the ground that there was violation of principles of natural justice, while the respondent university on the other hand have submitted that as the petitioners do not possess the minimum eligibility qualifications and hence no purpose would have been served by giving an opportunity for hearing. Having duly considered the rival contentions this Court is of the considered view that it is only after giving an opportunity of hearing that the decision can be arrived at as to whether the petitioners fulfilled all the qualifications or not. By declaring that they do not fulfil the qualifications, would amount to prejudging the issue which is not permissible. In the case of Nisha Devi v. State of H.P., (2014) 16 SCC 392 the Supreme Court held:-

5. Trite though it is, we may yet again reiterate that the principle of audi alteram partem admits of no exception, and demands to be adhered to in all circumstances. In other words, before arriving at any decision which has serious implications and consequences to any person, such person must be heard in his defence. We find that the High Court did not notice the violation and infraction of this salutary principle of law. Accordingly, on this short ground, the impugned judgments and orders require to be set aside, and are so done. The matter is remanded back to the Divisional Commissioner for taking a fresh decision after giving due notice to the appellant and affording her an opportunity of being heard. The Divisional Magistrate, Kullu, shall complete the proceedings expeditiously, and not later than six months from the date on which a copy of this order is served on him."

79. As we have already discussed the individual cases and this Court is of the considered view that all the petitioners are duly qualified and their services could not be terminated. It was mandatory for the respondents to have followed the proper procedure and the rules and to have given them proper opportunity of hearing before terminating their services. As stated by the Supreme Court in the cases referred to above the principle of natural justice do not have any exceptions, and hence, in the present case also proper opportunity of hearing should have been given, and the procedure prescribed should have been followed. It is only where without any inquiry and from bare perusal of the record, it is abundantly apparent that a person does not hold qualifications then in those rare cases the applicability of the principles of natural justice may be dispensed with but where inquiry has to be conducted to determine the issue and it is not apparent from bare perusal of the records as to whether the candidate fulfils the qualifications and the matter is debatable then no order should be passed without giving due opportunity of hearing to the concerned person. In the present case, after examining the individual cases, and also considering the fact that the petitioners have been permitted to continue for 7 years, it cannot be said that principles of natural justice could have been given a go-bye and the arguments of the respondents in this regard are bereft of any reasons and are accordingly rejected. As we have already discussed neither was the procedure followed in as much as neither the Rules of 1999 were followed nor the procedure prescribed in the statutes 9.07 was followed, but a new procedure was devised which is not prescribed anywhere nor was followed. Copy of the enquiry report was not given to the petitioners, and the authority which finally decided the question regarding the eligibility qualifications never given them an opportunity of hearing, and consequently we have no hesitation in holding that the entire procedure was illegal and arbitrary and in clear violation of principles of natural justice.

80. This Court having looked into the educational qualifications and the eligibility criteria required for appointment of the petitioners for various posts, is of the considered view that there is no deficiency in their educational qualifications or experience coupled with the fact that all these facts were duly inquired into by the expert panel of the selection committee who after being satisfied recommended the case of the petitioners for appointment. There is no allegations against the selection committee of malafide, or of not following the procedures etc. The recommendations of selection committee were duly considered and approved by the Executive Council of the respondent university and subsequently appointment letters were issued. After one year of the working they were confirmed on their respective posts. At this point also the respondents would have looked into all these matters. In the meanwhile, mainly because there were certain allegations against the former Vice Chancellor, all the appointments made under his regime were sought to be scrutinised after a period of 7 years. Mainly because the petitioners were appointed during the period of particular Vice Chancellor, and there were certain allegations against him, cannot itself lead to any conclusion that the appointment made under his regime were illegal and arbitrary. Such a sword of Damocles, that an appointment can be cancelled anytime, cannot be left hanging at the head of the selected candidates in any institution during their entire tenure. Once an appointment is duly made, then in case there is any shortcomings in the said selection which is of such a nature that the same cannot be condoned, action has to be taken expeditiously soon after the said selections is made in accordance with law. In the present case, there is no allegation that the petitioners had misrepresented about their educational qualifications or were somehow responsible for getting themselves appointed. In absence of any mistake or misrepresentation having been committed by the petitioners, whether the services can be terminated after long period of seven years after the due selection, is a prime issue before this Court in the present writ petitions.

81. To answer this question it would be relevant to go through the judgement of the Supreme Court in the case Vikas Pratap Singh v. State of Chhattisgarh, (2013) 14 SCC 494 which has held as under:-

“22. The pristine maxim of fraud et jus nunquam cohabitant (fraud and justice never dwell together) has never lost its temper over the centuries and it continues to dwell in spirit and body of service law jurisprudence. It is settled law that no legal right in respect of appointment to a said post vests in a candidate who has obtained the employment by fraud, mischief, misrepresentation or mala fide. (See Vizianagaram Social Welfare Residential School Society v. M. Tripura Sundari Devi [(1990) 3 SCC 655 : 1990 SCC (L&S) 520 : (1990) 14 ATC 766] , S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu v. Jagannath [(1994) 1 SCC 1] and Union of India v. M. Bhaskaran [1995 Supp (4) SCC 100 : 1996 SCC (L&S) 162 : (1996) 32 ATC 94] .) It is also settled law that a person appointed erroneously on a post must not reap the benefits of wrongful appointment jeopardising the interests of the meritorious and worthy candidates. However, in cases where a wrongful or irregular appointment is made without any mistake on the part of the appointee and upon discovery of such error or irregularity the appointee is terminated, this Court has taken a sympathetic view in the light of various factors including bona fide of the candidate in such appointment and length of service of the candidate after such appointment (see Vinodan T. v. University of Calicut [(2002) 4 SCC 726 : 2002 SCC (L&S) 606] ; State of U.P. v. Neeraj Awasthi [(2006) 1 SCC 667 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 190]).

23. In Girjesh Shrivastava v. State of M.P [(2010) 10 SCC 707 : (2011) 1 SCC (L&S) 192] , the High Court had invalidated the rule prescribing selection procedure which awarded grace marks of 25 per cent and age relaxation to the candidates with three years' long non-formal teaching experiences as a consequence of which several candidates appointed as teachers at the formal education institutions under the said rule stood ousted. This Court while concurring with the observations made by the High Court kept in view that upon rectification of irregularities in appointment after a considerable length of time an order for cancellation of appointment would severely affect economic security of a number of candidates and observed as follows: (SCC p. 714, para 31)

“31. ... Most of them were earlier teaching in non-formal education centres, from where they had resigned to apply in response to the advertisement. They had left their previous employment in view of the fact that for their three-year long teaching experiences, the interview process in the present selection was awarding them grace marks of 25%. It had also given them a relaxation of 8 years with respect to their age. Now, if they lose their jobs as a result of the High Court's order, they would be effectively unemployed as they cannot even revert to their earlier jobs in the non-formal education centres, which have been abolished since then. This would severely affect the economic security of many families. Most of them are between the age group of 35-45 years, and the prospects for them of finding another job are rather dim. Some of them were in fact awaiting their salary rise at the time of quashing of their appointment by the High Court."

Therefore, mindful of the aforesaid circumstances this Court directed non-ouster of the candidates appointed under the invalidated rule.

24. In Union of India v. Narendra Singh [(2008) 2 SCC 750 : (2008) 1 SCC (L&S) 547] this Court considered the age of the employee who was erroneously promoted and the duration of his service on the promoted post and the factor of retiring from service on attaining the age of superannuation and observed as follows: (SCC p. 758, paras 35-36)

"35. The last prayer on behalf of the respondent, however, needs to be sympathetically considered. The respondent is holding the post of Senior Accountant (Functional) since last seventeen years. He is on the verge of retirement, so much so that only few days have remained. He will be reaching the age of superannuation by the end of this month

i.e. 31-12-2007. In our view, therefore, it would not be appropriate now to revert the respondent to the post of Accountant for very short period. We, therefore, direct the appellants to continue the respondent as Senior Accountant (Functional) till he reaches the age of superannuation i.e. up to 31-12-2007. At the same time, we hold that since the action of the authorities was in accordance with statutory rules, an order passed by the Deputy Accountant General cancelling promotion of the respondent and reverting him to his substantive post of Accountant was legal and valid and the respondent could not have been promoted as Senior Accountant, he would be deemed to have retired as Accountant and not as Senior Accountant (Functional) and his pensionary and retiral benefits would be fixed accordingly by treating him as Accountant all throughout.

36. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal is partly allowed. Though the respondent is allowed to continue on the post of Senior Accountant (Functional) till he reaches the age of retirement i.e. 31-12-2007 and salary paid to him in that capacity will not be recovered, his retiral benefits will be fixed not as Senior Accountant (Functional) but as Accountant. In the facts and circumstances of case, there shall be no order as to costs."

25. This Court in Gujarat State Dy. Executive Engineers' Assn. v. State of Gujarat [1994 Supp (2) SCC 591 : 1994 SCC (L&S) 1159 : (1994) 28 ATC 78] although recorded a finding that appointments given under the "wait list" were not in accordance with law but refused to set aside such appointments in view of length of service (five years and more).

26. In Buddhi Nath Chaudhary v. Abahi Kumar [(2001) 3 SCC 328 : 2001

SCC (L&S) 589 : (2001) 2 SCR 18] even though the appointments were held to be improper, this Court did not disturb the appointments on the ground that the incumbents had worked for several years and had gained experience and observed: (SCC p. 331, para 6)

“6. ... We have extended equitable considerations to such selected candidates who have worked in the post for a long period....”

(See M.S. Mudhol v. S.D. Halegkar [(1993) 3 SCC 591 : 1993 SCC (L&S) 986 : (1993) 25 ATC 91 : (1993) 2 LLJ 1159] and Tridip Kumar Dingal v. State of W.B. [(2009) 1 SCC 768 : (2009) 2 SCC (L&S) 119])

27. Admittedly, in the instant case the error committed by the respondent Board in the matter of evaluation of the answer scripts could not be attributed to the appellants as they have neither been found to have committed any fraud or misrepresentation in being appointed qua the first merit list nor has the preparation of the erroneous model answer key or the specious result contributed to them. Had the contrary been the case, it would have justified their ouster upon re-evaluation and deprived them of any sympathy from this Court irrespective of their length of service.

28. In our considered view, the appellants have successfully undergone training and are efficiently serving the respondent State for more than three years and undoubtedly their termination would not only impinge upon the economic security of the appellants and their dependants but also adversely affect their careers. This would be highly unjust and grossly unfair to the appellants who are innocent appointees of an erroneous evaluation of the answer scripts. However, their continuation in service should neither give any unfair advantage to the appellants nor cause undue prejudice to the candidates selected qua the revised merit list.

29. Accordingly, we direct the respondent State to appoint the appellants in the revised merit list placing them at the bottom of the said list. The candidates who have crossed the minimum statutory age for appointment shall be accommodated with suitable age relaxation.

30. We clarify that their appointment shall for all intents and purpose be fresh appointment which would not entitle the appellants to any back wages, seniority or any other benefit based on their earlier appointment.

31. The order passed by the High Court shall stand modified to the above extent. Appeals disposed of. There shall be no order as to costs.”

82. Applying the principles laid down by the Supreme Court in the case of Vikas Pratap Singh (supra) to the facts of the present case this Court of the considered opinion that after permitting a person to continue in service for a long time, the selection cannot be cancelled, or services cannot be terminated due to some infirmities in the selection, and accordingly the case of the petitioners are fully covered by the judgement of the Supreme Court as discussed above.

83. In view of the above, the writ petitions stand allowed. The impugned orders dated 06.07.2022 with respect to all the petitioners challenged in all the writ petitions, forming part of the bunch, are set aside. The respondent University is directed to reinstate the petitioners forthwith. Considering the fact that they have been working for the last 6 to 7 years and the orders of termination have been held to be illegal and arbitrary, they are entitled to all consequential benefits including the back wages from the date of termination of their services.

Civil Law- The Limitation Act,1963-Article 59& 113- Article 59 of the Limitation Act is not applicable in cases of testamentary disposition and it is Article 113 which is applicable in such cases.
(Para 26)

Original Suit was filed within three years of the death of the testator. The Will of testator excluded the plaintiff and the cause of action to institute a suit for cancellation of Will did not accrue in favour of plaintiff till the death of the testator-The rights of the plaintiff in the suit property were for the first time invaded by the defendants when they got their name mutated in the revenue records on the basis of the Will of the testator- If the plaintiff appellant had instituted a suit for cancellation of Will during the lifetime of the testator himself, a document which could have been revoked by Brij Lal, the said suit would have been a ridiculous- It is unfortunate that the trial court and the lower appellate court have non-suited the plaintiff for not having filed a ridiculous suit. (Delivered by Hon'ble Salil Kumar Rai, J.)

1. This is a plaintiff's second appeal challenging the judgment and decree dated 20.11.1979 passed by the II- Additional Munsif, Hathras, i.e., the Trial Court dismissing Original Suit No. 13 of 1978 as well as against the judgment and decree dated 6.9.2011 passed by the District Judge, Hathras, i.e., the lower appellate court dismissing Civil Appeal No. 23 of 1980 filed against the decree of the trial court.

2. The facts relevant for the present Second Appeal are that Brij Lal, who was the common ancestor of the plaintiff and the defendants, was recorded as Bhumidhar of Plot No. 174-Aa (area 24-6-10) which shall hereinafter in short be referred as 'the suit property'. Brij Lal had four sons, namely, Nandan Lal, Babu Lal, Shanti Swaroop (plaintiff) and Onkar (defendant / respondent no.1). It is the common case of the parties that Nandan Lal renounced the world and his whereabouts were not known and Babu Lal died issueless before Brij Lal. Omkar, i.e., defendant no. 1 had five sons, namely, Kamlesh, Hridesh, Janki Prasad, Bhagwati Prasad and Lalta Prasad who are respondent nos. 2 to 6 in the present appeal and were defendant nos. 2 to 6 in the trial court. The defendants claim that Brij Lal executed a registered Will dated 05.08.1972 bequeathing all his movable and immovable properties, including the suit property, to defendants/respondent nos. 2 to 6. Hoti Lal Shrama and Shobha Ram were the attesting witnesses of the aforesaid Will. Brij Lal died on 05.11.1976. After the death of Brij Lal, the defendant nos. 2 to 6 got their names mutated in the revenue records on the basis of the Will dated 05.11.1976. The plaintiff instituted Original Suit No. 13 of 1978 praying for cancellation of Will dated 05.08.1972 pleading that the Will was a forged document and thus void. Alternatively, the plaintiff also pleaded that the suit property was ancestral property and had devolved on Brij Lal from his father and, therefore, under the U.P. Tenancy Act, 1939 the plaintiff and defendant no. 1 were co-tenants of the suit property along with Brij Lal and remained co-tenants under the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 and, therefore, the plaintiff had 1/3 share in the suit property and the Will regarding his 1/3 share in the suit property was void. The case of the plaintiff is that he came to know about the Will from the Gram Pradhan of the village only six months before the institution of the suit and the suit was within limitation as the cause of action for filing the suit arose when the plaintiff came to know about the Will i.e., six months before the date of filing the suit. The suit was registered in the trial court on 04.01.1978.

3. The defendants filed their written statement denying the averments made in the plaintiff and stated that the Will was executed by Brij Lal out of his free will and volition and that Brij Lal was the sole tenant of the suit property. In their written statement, the defendants admitted that Brij Lal had died on 05.11.1976 but denied the averments made regarding the date on which the cause of action for filing the suit arose and stated that the plaintiff knew about the execution of the Will even before the death of Brij Lal. On the aforesaid pleadings, the defendants pleaded that the suit was liable to be dismissed on merits as well as on the ground that it was barred by limitation.

4. The issues framed by the trial court and relevant for the present second appeal are as to whether the Will was a forged document and was not executed by Brij Lal, whether Brij Lal was the sole tenant of the suit property and had the right to execute the Will dated 05.08.1972 and the relief to which the plaintiffs were entitled? It is relevant to note that no issue regarding limitation was framed by the trial court in Original Suit No. 13 of 1978.

5. The trial court vide its judgment and decree dated 20.11.1979 dismissed Original Suit No. 13 of 1978. The trial court after holding that Brij Lal was the sole tenant of the suit property and after considering the testimony of Shobha Ram, the attesting witness of the Will and the fact that the Will was a registered document, held that the plaintiff had failed to prove that the Will was a forged document. The trial court held that the plaintiff knew about the execution of the Will from before the date stated by the plaintiff in his plaint and as the suit was not filed within three years from the date the plaintiff came to know about the Will, the suit was barred by Article 59 of the Limitation Act, 1963.

Consequently, the trial court held that the plaintiff was not entitled to any relief.

6. Aggrieved, the plaintiff filed Civil Appeal No. 23 of 1980 which was allowed by the lower appellate court vide its judgment and decree dated 21.09.1983. The lower appellate court held that the plaintiff had 1/3 share in the suit property as he was a co-tenant of the same along with Brij Lal and defendant no. 1. In its judgment dated 21.09.1983, the lower appellate court after noticing the fact that the original Will had not been filed in the trial court till the date Shobha Ram, the attesting witness, testified to the execution of the Will, held that the testimony of Shobha Ram cannot be considered to decide the issue regarding the due execution of the Will and, therefore, the due execution of the Will dated 05.08.1972 was not proved. Consequently, the lower appellate court allowed Civil Appeal No. 23 of 1980, set-aside the judgment and decree of the trial court, decreed Original Suit No. 13 of 1978 and cancelled the Will dated 05.08.1972.

7. Aggrieved by the judgment and decree passed by the lower appellate court, the defendants filed Second Appeal No. 2281 of 1983 under Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure which was dismissed by this Court vide its judgment and order dated 06.02.2006.

8. At this stage, it would be relevant to note that the findings of the trial court that the suit was barred by Article 59 of the Limitation Act was not specifically reversed either by the lower appellate court or by this Court in Second Appeal No. 2281 of 1983.

9. Aggrieved by the judgment and order dated 06.02.2006 passed by this Court dismissing Second Appeal No. 2281 of 1983, the defendants filed Special Leave Petition (Civil) No. 10058 of 2006 before the Supreme Court which was subsequently registered as Civil Appeal No. 2815 of 2008. The aforesaid civil appeal was allowed by the Supreme Court vide its judgment and order dated 16.04.2008 and the case was remanded back to the first appellate court to pass orders on the issue as to whether Original Suit No. 13 of 1978 was barred by time. In its order dated 16.04.2008, the Supreme Court held that because the trial court had dismissed the suit also on grounds of limitation and the said findings had not been reversed by the first and the second appellate court, therefore, the suit continued to remain time-barred. In its order dated 16.4.2008, the Supreme Court further directed that if the question of limitation was decided in favour of plaintiff, the other findings recorded by the lower appellate court in its judgment dated 21.09.1983 shall stand and shall not be disturbed. The relevant portion of the order dated 16.4.2008 passed by the Supreme Court is reproduced below : -

"22. The reasoning behind the said proposition is that certain questions relating to the jurisdiction of a Court, including limitation, goes to the very root of the Court's jurisdiction to entertain and decide a matter, as otherwise, the decision rendered without jurisdiction will be a nullity. However, we are not required to elaborate on the said proposition, inasmuch as, in the instant case such a plea had been raised and decided by the Trial Court but was not reversed by the First Appellate Court or the High Court while reversing the decision of the Trial Court on the issues framed in the suit. We, therefore, have no hesitation in setting aside the judgment and decree of the High Court and to remand the suit to the First Appellate Court to decide the limited question as to whether the suit was barred by limitation as found by the Trial Court. Needless to say, if the suit is found to be so barred, the appeal is to be dismissed. If the suit is not found to be time-barred, the decision of the First Appellate Court on the other issues shall not be disturbed."

(Emphasis added)

10. After remand by the Supreme Court, Civil Appeal No. 23 of 1980 was restored to its original number before the lower appellate court and the lower appellate court vide its judgment and order dated 06.09.2011 dismissed Civil Appeal No. 23 of 1980 holding that Original Suit No. 13 of 1978 was barred by time. The lower appellate court, relying on the testimony of defendant no. 1, rejected the plea of the plaintiff that he came to know about the Will six months before the institution of the suit and held that the plaintiff came to know about the Will 3 to 4 days after its execution when the testator, i.e., Brij Lal told him about the Will and as the suit was filed three years after the plaintiff came to know about the Will, the suit was barred by limitation.

11. Hence, the present second appeal.

12. The appeal was heard as fresh case on 26.09.2011 on which date this Court observed that the only question involved in the present appeal was as to from which date the limitation for filing the suit would run, i.e., whether from the date of the execution of the Will or the date of the knowledge of the Will or the date of the death of the executant. However, the appeal was not admitted for hearing on the aforesaid date. On 21.11.2022, this Court observed that ends of justice would be served if the appeal was decided finally at the admission stage itself by framing substantial question of law on the next date fixed. On 21.02.2023, when the appeal was called out for hearing, this Court observed that the substantial question involved in the present appeal was evident from the observations of the Court in its order dated 26.09.2011 and with the consent of the counsel for the parties, proceeded to frame the substantial question on 21.02.2023 and heard the appeal on the substantial question of law on the same date. The appeal was admitted on 21.2.2023 itself and the following substantial question of law was framed :-

"Whether Original Suit No. 13 of 1978 for cancellation of Will dated 05.08.1972 was barred by limitation in light of Article 59 of the Limitation Act, 1963?"

13. The parties had notice of the substantial question of law on which the appeal was to be argued and the case was heard on the aforesaid substantial question of law on the same date.

14. It was argued by the counsel for the appellant that by virtue of Article 113 of the Limitation Act, 1963, the limitation to file a suit for cancellation of Will starts to run from the date on which the right to sue accrues and the right to sue for cancellation of Will will accrue only on the death of the testator. It was argued that Article 59 of the Limitation Act does not apply on suits for cancellation of Will and the courts below have wrongly held the suit to be barred by limitation because of Article 59 of the Limitation Act, 1963. It was argued that admittedly Brij Lal died on 5.11.1976 and the suit was filed within three years from the date of death of the testator, therefore, the suit was within limitation. In support of his contention, the counsel for the appellant has relied on the judgment of the Supreme Court reported in Vundavalli Ratna Manikyam and Anr. vs. V.P.R.N. Prasada Rao 2020 (3) SCC 289.

15. Rebutting the argument of the counsel for the appellant, the counsel for the respondents / defendants has argued that the Will was a registered document and, therefore, by virtue of Section 47 of the Registration Act, 1908 it would operate from the date of its execution, i.e., 05.08.1972. It was argued that from the evidence on record, it was apparent that the plaintiff came to know of the Will immediately after its execution. It was argued that by virtue of Article 59 of the Limitation Act, 1963, the suit for cancellation of Will had to be filed within three years from the date when the facts entitling the plaintiff to have the Will cancelled first became known to him and as the suit was filed after three years from the date the plaintiff came to know about the Will, the suit was beyond time and was rightly dismissed as barred by limitation. It was further argued that in his plaint instituting Original Suit No. 13 of 1978, the plaintiff had pleaded that the cause of action for filing the suit arose six months before the filing of the suit, i.e., on the date when he came to know about the execution of the Will from the Gram Pradhan of the village and, therefore, in the present case, the plaintiff - appellant cannot plead any other ground to argue that the suit was not barred by limitation and the cause of action for filing the suit accrued on the death of the testator. It was argued that for the aforesaid reasons, the substantial question of law has to be answered in favour of the defendants and against the plaintiff. In support of his contention, the counsel for the defendants - respondents has relied on the judgments of the Supreme Court in Janki Vashdeo Bhojwani & Anr. vs. Indusind Bank Ltd. & Ors. (AIR 2005 SC 439); Bondar Singh & Ors. vs. Nihal Singh & Ors. 2003 (4) SCC 161; Shri D.M. Deshpande & Ors. vs. Shri Janardhan Kashinath Kadam 1998 (8) SC 39; Rajasthan State TPT Corpn. and Anr. vs. Bajrang Lal (2014) AIR SCW 2058 and Thakur Kishan Singh (dead) vs. Arvind Kumar AIR (1995) Supreme Court 73.

16. I have considered the submission of the counsel for the parties and also perused the lower court records.

17. The Will was executed by Brij Lal on 05.08.1972 and the records indicate that the will was registered on 08.08.1972. Brij Lal died on 05.11.1976. Original Suit No. 13 of 1978 filed for cancellation of the aforesaid Will was registered on 04.01.1978. The aforesaid facts are admitted between the parties. The plaintiff in his plaint claimed that he came to know about the Will six months before the institution of suit. The said averment of the plaintiff is denied by the defendants. The courts below have also not accepted the plea of the plaintiff regarding the date when he came to know about the Will and the first appellate court has held that the plaintiff came to know about the Will four to five days after its execution when Brij Lal himself informed the plaintiff about the Will. The said findings have been recorded by the court below relying on the testimony of defendant no. 1 and are findings of fact based on evidence on record and there is no perversity in the aforesaid findings. In view of the aforesaid, I proceed to decide the case on the findings of the lower appellate court that plaintiff got knowledge of the

Will before the death of Brij Lal and immediately after its execution when Brij Lal told him about the Will.

18. Section 2 (h) of the Indian Succession Act, 1925 defines "Will" as the legal declaration of the intention of a testator with respect to his property which he desires to be carried into effect after his death. It is apparent from the definition of a Will that Will is merely a declaration of the intention of the testator. The desire of the testator in respect of his property comes into effect after his death. Will by its very nature is revocable and can be revoked by the testator any time before his death. The Will does not affect the properties included in the Will during the life time of the testator and no title in the properties passes to the beneficiaries of the Will during the life time of the testator. In other words, the distribution of property as specified in the Will does not operate in praesenti but comes in operation in future, on the death of the testator.

19. In Mathai Samuel & Ors. vs. Eapen Eapen (dead) by Lrs. & Ors. AIR (2013) SC 532, the Supreme Court observed that, "the essential quality of a testamentary disposition is ambulatoriness of revocability during the executants' lifetime and such a document is dependent upon executants' death for its vigour and effect. The aforesaid characteristics of a testamentary disposition distinguishes it from gift / settlement of property which is transfer of existing property made voluntarily and without consideration by one person called the donor to another called the donee and accepted by or on behalf of the donee. It was observed by the Supreme Court that in case of a Will, the crucial circumstance is the existence of a provision disposing of or distributing the property of the testator to take effect on his death, while on the other hand, in case of gift, the provision becomes operative immediately and a transfer in praesenti is intended and comes into effect. It was further observed that in case of Will, no interest is intended to pass during the lifetime of the owner of the property and mere registration of Will will not render the document a settlement. In other words, a mere registration of Will will not make the disposition of property as stipulated in the Will to come into effect in praesenti, i.e., immediately on the execution of the Will and during the lifetime of the testator.

20. Previously, in Hubert P. James vs. Gulam Hussain Pakseem AIR (1949) Privy Council 151, the Privy Council observed that Will had no legal effect whatsoever during the lifetime of the testator and no legal right can be supported on the Will of a living person. The observations of the Privy Council in paragraph nos. 15 and 16 of the judgment in Hubert P. James (supra) are reproduced below : -

"15. It is strange that none of the three Judges who dealt with this case in India, and none of the counsel engaged on behalf of the appellant, nor the counsel who signed the appellant's case before the Board seem to have considered that the Court was doing anything unusual in acting upon the will of a living person, a will, too, which had been revoked before the commencement of the suit. The document was throughout referred to as a will and apparently regarded as entitled to the same degree of solemnity and importance as would have attached to it had it been in truth a will, that is the will of a deceased person. A will takes effect on the death of the executant and during his lifetime is an ambulatory document, revocable at any moment, having no legal effect whatsoever. It is a secret and confidential document which the executant is never ordered to produce. In India, where a will may be deposited with the Registrar under the Indian Registration Act, the terms of the Act ensure that the contents remain secret until the death of the executant.

16. Apart from this case their Lordships know of no case, and the industry of counsel has produced none, in which any Court has founded or supported a legal right on the will of a living person. However the appellant, who might have destroyed his will after revoking it and have resisted, successfully their Lordships think, any attempt to make him disclose its contents, adopted neither of these courses. He allowed the document to be put in evidence without objection. In these circumstances, their Lordships, without expressing any opinion upon the wider question whether the will of a living person can ever be relevant to support a legal claim, will deal with the argument of the respondent on the assumption that the admission contained in the document was proved. The respondent argues that here is a piece of paper containing, over the signature of the appellant, an admission of a fact, and such admission can be proved and acted upon although the document in which it is contained may not have the legal effect which it was intended to have. Assuming the admission to be proved, its scope must be determined not only, as with all written admissions, with reference to the whole document in which it appears, but also in the light of the fact that document was not intended to take effect until the death of the person making the admission. The admission relied on in this case is not specific as to the date or terms of the partnership, or the circumstances in which it was entered into; it merely admits that the relation of partnership had been formed during the lifetime of the testator. Their Lordships think that the admission goes no further than to admit that on the death of the appellant the respondent was to be treated as his partner, and the estate was to be distributed on that basis unless the will was revoked. In their Lordships' view there is no justification for treating clause 4 of the will as admitting the existence of a partnership effective before the death of the testator with all the consequences which would flow from such a relationship. In their Lordships' view therefore the will of the appellant has no bearing upon his relationship with the respondent."

21. The Will of a living person does not invade the rights of any person and does not create any interest in favour of any person in respect of the properties included in the Will. Because the Will of a living person has no legal effect, there is no requirement to get the same cancelled during the lifetime of the testator. The right to impeach any instrument accrues only when it becomes operative in law. In Badri vs. Niadar and Umrao Kunwar & Anr. (1915) XXXVII ILR 422 (Allahabad Series) the issue was whether a reversioner had the right to file a suit for a declaration that the Will in question was void and ineffectual as against his interest on the mere execution of the Will. The Division Bench of this Court held that mere execution of the Will does not afford a cause of action for a declaratory suit on the part of nearest reversioner that the Will was void and ineffectual as against his interest. The observations of the Division Bench of this Court in Umrao Kunwar (supra) are reproduced herein below:-

"1. This was a suit by a plaintiff claiming to be the next reversioner under the Hindu Law to the estate of one Dewa. The said Dewa died leaving a widow, Umrao Kuar. This lady has executed a will bequeathing the property in her hands as widow of Dewa to one Tika Ram, son of Niadar, brother of the said Dewa. In the will there is a recital to the effect that the bequest is made in accordance with oral directions given by Dewa. The plaintiff sought a declaration that the will in question is void and ineffectual as against his interest, and that Tika Ram, who was impleaded as defendant No. 2, will acquire no rights under the said will. The court of first instance dismissed the suit upon a preliminary point, holding that there had been no alienation by Umrao Kuar of the property in her hands, and that under the circumstances the mere execution of a will would not afford a sufficient reason for granting a declaratory decree. It supported itself by a quotation from Mulla's Principles of Hindu Law. The learned District Judge on appeal has reversed the finding on the preliminary point and remanded the case for trial on the merits. He bases his decision upon the reported case of Jaipal Kunwar v. Indar Bahadur Singh (1904) I.L.R. 26 All. 238. It is obvious that in that case their Lordships of the Privy Council maintained the decision of the courts in India with considerable reluctance, and carefully guarded themselves against being understood to hold that the execution of a will under such circumstances as the present would afford a cause of action for a declaratory suit on the part of the nearest reversioner. It is certainly not the practice of this Court to encourage such suits, vide Ram Bhajan and Ors. v. Gurcharan (1904) 1 A.L.J.R. 468. The learned District Judge moreover, while purporting to follow the Privy Council ruling quoted by him, has really departed from the spirit of that ruling by interfering with the decision of the court of first instance. We think that the learned Additional Subordinate Judge was right in refusing to grant the declaration sought by the plaintiff and gave good reason for his decision. We set aside the order of the court below and restore the decree of the court of first instance dismissing the suit. The defendants-appellants will get their costs in this Court and in the lower appellate court."

22. It was observed by the Privy Council in Mst. Bolo vs. Mst. Koklan AIR (1930) Privy Council 270 that there can be no right to sue until there is an accrual of the right asserted in the suit and its infringement or at least clear or unequivocal threat to infringe that right by the defendant against whom the suit is instituted. The said principle was followed by the Privy Council in Annamalai Chettiar vs. A.M.K.C.T. Muthukaruppan Chettiar AIR (1931) Privy Council 9 and subsequently by the Supreme Court in Mst. Rukhmabai vs. Lala Laxminarayan AIR (1960) Supreme Court 335. In Mst. Rukhmabai (supra), the Supreme Court after referring to the observations of the Privy Council in Mst. Bolo (supra) and while considering Article 120 of the Limitation Act, which corresponds to Article 113 of Limitation Act, 1963, observed that the right to sue under Article 120 of the Limitation Act accrues when the defendant has clearly and unequivocally threatened to infringe the right asserted by the plaintiff in the suit. It was further observed that every threat by a party to such a right, however, ineffective and innocuous it may be, cannot be considered to be clear and unequivocal threat so as to compel him to file a suit. The Supreme Court observed as to whether a particular threat gives rise to a compulsory cause of action depends upon the question whether that threat effectively invades or jeopardizes the said right.

23. The observations of the Supreme Court in paragraph nos. 31, 32 and 33 in Mst. Rukhmabai (supra) are reproduced here in below:-

"31. The argument on the question of limitation is put thus: The plaintiff, respondent herein, had knowledge of the fraudulent character of the trust deed as early as 1917 or, at any rate, during the pendency of the partition suit between Rukhmabai and Chandanlal instituted in the year 1929, and the suit filed in 1940, admittedly after six years of the said knowledge, would be barred under Art. 120 of the Limitation Act. Article 120 of the Limitation Act reads :

Description of suit	Period of limitation	Time from which period begins to run.
120. Suit for which no period of Limitation is provided elsewhere in this Schedule.	Six years	When the right to sue accrues.

This Article was subject to judicial scrutiny both by the Judicial Committee as well as by the High Courts of various States. The leading decision on the subject is that of the Judicial Committee in Mt. Bolo v. Mt. Koklan, 57 Ind App 325 at p. 331: (AIR 1930 PC 270 at p. 272). Therein, Sir Benod Mitter observed:

"There can be no 'right to sue' until there is an accrual of the right asserted in the suit and its infringement, or at least a clear and unequivocal threat to infringe that right, by the defendant against whom the suit is instituted."

32. The said principle was restated and followed by the Judicial Committee in Annamalai Chettiar v. Muthukaruppan Chettiar, ILR 8 Rang 645: (AIR 1931 PC 9), and in Gobinda Narayan Singh v. Sham Lal Singh, 58 Ind App 125: (AIR 1931 PC 89). The further question is, if there are successive invasions or denials of a right, when it can be held that a person's right has been clearly and unequivocally threatened so as to compel him to institute a suit to establish that right. In Pothukutchi Appa Rao v. Secy. of State, AIR 1938 Mad 193 at p. 198, a Division Bench of the Madras High Court had to consider the said question. In that case, Venkatasubba Rao, J., after considering the relevant decisions, expressed his view thus:

"There is nothing in law which says that the moment a person's right is denied, he is bound at his peril to bring a suit for declaration. The Government beyond passing the order did nothing to disturb the plaintiff's possession. It would be most unreasonable to hold that a bare repudiation of a person's title, without even an overt act, would make it incumbent on him to bring a declaratory suit."

He adds at p. 199:

"It is a more difficult question, what is the extent of the injury or infringement that gives rise to, what may be termed, a compulsory cause of action?"

33. The legal position may be briefly stated thus: The right to sue under Art. 120 of the Limitation Act accrues when the defendant has clearly and unequivocally threatened to infringe the right asserted by the plaintiff in the suit. Every threat by a party to such a right, however ineffective and innocuous it may be, cannot be considered to be a clear and unequivocal threat so as to compel him to file a suit. Whether a particular threat gives rise to a compulsory cause of action depends upon the question whether that threat effectively invades or jeopardizes the said, right."

24. In Meda Bibi vs. Imaman Bibi & Ors. 1884 (6) ILR 207 (Allahabad Series) (Full Bench), the issue before the Full Bench of this Court was as to whether the limitation for filing a suit for cancellation of gift would start running from the date the gift had been executed though possession had not been delivered by the donor to the donee or the right to impinge the gift would accrue after it became operative in law, i.e., after possession of the same was delivered to the donor. In Meda Bibi (supra), the donor remained in possession till his death and, therefore, possession of the property was delivered to the donee after the death of the donor. The Full Bench held that before holding the suit to be barred by limitation, it had to be seen as to whether the alleged gift ever took effect in law during the lifetime of the donor so as to afford the plaintiff a complete cause of action on which to come into court. It was held by the Full Bench of this Court that the right to challenge the gift accrued in favour of the plaintiff only when after receipt of possession by the donee, the gift became operative in law. The observations of the Full Bench of this Court are reproduced below:-

"It appears to us that the Judge has allowed the plea of limitation without first sufficiently ascertaining the facts material to its determination.

It was essential for him, before holding the suit barred, to find in terms whether the alleged gift by Ghulam Ghaus ever took effect in law during his lifetime, so as to afford the plaintiff a complete cause of action on which to come into Court. Her case is that Ghulam Ghaus remained in possession of the whole of the property covered by that instrument until his death, and that no possession of it, as required by the Muhammadan Law to render the transaction legal and binding, was ever obtained by the donee as long as he remained living. It does not necessarily follow that because the alleged deed-of- gift was on a particular date, that time at once began to run against the plaintiff under art. 91 of the Limitation Act. Her title to impeach it could only accrue from the moment when, by receipt of possession, it had become operative in law. As in this view of the matter the Judge has not only disposed of the suit on a preliminary point, but determined that point upon inadequate materials, we have no alternative but to allow this appeal, and remanding the case to him under s. 562 of the Code, we direct him to restore it to his file of pending appeals and dispose of it according to law. The costs of the appeal to this Court will be costs in the cause."

(Emphasis added)

25. As noted earlier, the Will of a living person does not infringe the rights of any person and does not create any legal interest in favour of any person. Thus, no right to sue for cancellation of the Will accrues in any person during the lifetime of the testator. Will can be challenged by a person against whom the Will operates after the death of the testator and in the said case, the Will would be defended by the beneficiaries of the Will who obviously would be defendants in the suit. A reading of the judgments of the Privy Council and the Supreme Court shows that the cause of action for instituting a suit for cancellation of Will would not arise before the death of the testator. The cause of action for cancelling an instrument would be complete only when the instrument affects the rights of the parties to possession or title. A beneficiary of a Will can assert his right in respect of the properties included in the Will and on the basis of the Will only after the death of the testator and it is only then that the beneficiary would either invade or threaten to invade the right of the plaintiff in respect of the properties included in the Will.

26. Article 59 of the Limitation Act is not applicable in cases of testamentary disposition and it is Article 113 which is applicable in such cases. Article 59 and 113 of Act of Limitation Act are reproduced herein below:-

Description of suit	Period of limitation	Time from which period begins to run.
59. To cancel or set aside an instrument or decree of for the rescission of a contract.	Three years	When the facts entitling the plaintiff to have the instrument or decree cancelled or set aside or the contract rescinded first become known to him.
Description of suit	Period of limitation	Time from which period begins to run.
113. Any suit for which no period of limitation is provided elsewhere in this Schedule.	Three years	When the right to sue accrues.

27. The right to sue, as held earlier, accrues in favour of plaintiff only after the death of the testator and, therefore, Article 113 applies in cases of Will. The knowledge of the execution of the Will before the death of the testator is not relevant to decide as to whether the suit for cancellation of Will was instituted within the limitation prescribed by the statute. At this stage, it would be relevant to refer to the observations of the Privy Council in Ibad Ali vs. Sajid Ali & Ors. 1895 ILR 23 P.C. 1 in which it was observed that Article 91 of the Schedule 2 of the Limitation Act, 1877 which corresponds to Article 59 of the present Limitation Act, 1963 did not have any application in case of a Will. The observations of the Privy Council in paragraph 9 of the aforesaid judgment are reproduced herein below:-

"9. Upon the hearing of this appeal the appellants' counsel were, in the opinion of their Lordships, well advised in not pressing the plea in bar of action which was suggested for the first time by the District Judge. Article 91 of Schedule II of the Limitation Act 1877 does not appear to their Lordships to have any application to the case of a Will. On the other hand, the respondent did not open or insist on his cross - appeal, which was brought for the purpose of raising the question whether the deceased was precluded from from disposing of his estate by will, in prejudice of his heir-at-law, either by Mahomedan law or by Act I of 1869."

(Emphasis added)

28. The aforesaid observations of the Privy Council were referred by the High Court of Lahore in Firoz & Ors. vs. Sultan Surkhru AIR (1926) Lahore 635 wherein the High Court held that in case of cancellation of Will, Article 120 of the Limitation Act, 1887 was applicable which corresponds to the present Article 113 of the Limitation Act. The observations of the Lahore High Court made in paragraph 7 of the aforesaid judgment are reproduced hereinbelow:-

"7. The question of limitation remains. It is clearly laid down in Sajid v. Ibdad (1986) 23 Cal 1 by their Lordships of the Privy Council that Article 91 does not govern a Will. It is true, as pointed by counsel, that this was an obiter dictum in the sense that the question was not contested, but their Lordships say that the plaintiff advisedly refrained from relying on this article as it had no application to the case of a Will. Apart from this expression of opinion and wording of the Article itself makes the point very clear. Article 91 not being applicable and the suit being one primarily for cancellation of a Will Article 120 applied. The plaintiff here states that he had knowledge of the Will within six years of the institution of the suit but unfortunately for him this contention is rendered impossible by the averments contained in the plaint itself where it is stated that on the death of Mehra the applications of the defendants to obtain mutation of one-half of his estate was defeated by the objection of the plaintiff's own father, the previous paragraphs in the plaint having recited the factum of the execution of the registered Will, it is clear therefore, on the plaintiff's own showing, that he had knowledge about nine years before the institution of his suit and his suit is therefore barred by time."

29. Original Suit No. 13 of 1978 was filed within three years of the death of the testator. The Will of Brij Lal excluded the plaintiff and the cause of action to institute a suit for cancellation of Will did not accrue in favour of plaintiff till the death of Brij Lal, the testator. The rights of the plaintiff in the suit property were, for the first time, invaded by the defendant nos. 2 to 6 when they got their name mutated in the revenue records on the basis of the Will of Brij Lal. In any case, the cause of action for instituting a suit for cancellation of Will could not have accrued in favour of the plaintiff before 05.11.1976 and the suit for cancellation of Will would have been within the time, under Article 113 of the Limitation Act, till 04.11.1979. The suit was registered on 04.01.1978. Apparently, Original Suit No. 13 of 1978 was filed within time.

30. It was argued by the counsel for the defendant-respondent that in his plaint instituting Original Suit No.13 of 1978, the plaintiff had pleaded that the cause of action arose for filing the suit six months before the filing of the suit, i.e., the date on which he came to know about the execution of the Will from the Gram Pradhan of the Village and, therefore, whether the suit was within limitation had to be considered on the aforesaid pleadings and not on the argument of the plaintiff that the suit was within limitation because the cause of action for filing the suit accrued after the death of the testator.

31. I am unable to agree with the aforesaid contention of the counsel for the defendant-respondent. It was held by the Division Bench of this Court in Raj Kumar Jain & Ors. vs. Smt. Jagwati Devi & Ors. AIR (1980) Allahabad 225 that while computing the period of limitation, the plaint has to be read as a whole with a view to find out the date on which the cause of action accrued and that the plaintiffs cannot be tied down to the date of cause of action mentioned in the plaint. In the aforesaid case, the Supreme Court while discussing the limitation for filing a suit for declaration of rights which were infringed by the Will, held that the limitation for filing such a suit would be counted from the date when the defendants obtained probate of the Will. The observations of the Division Bench of this Court in Paragraph nos. 18 and 19 are reproduced herein below:-

"18. It may be that the defendants had, to the knowledge of the plaintiffs, asserted on the death of Ram Katori that they were entitled to the property in dispute on the basis of the will executed by Ram Katori and that according to them the plaintiffs were not its owners, this denial by itself did not amount to an unequivocal threat by them to infringe with the rights of the plaintiffs who admittedly were in possession of the property after Ram Katori's death. As observed by the Supreme Court in Rukhma Bai's case (supra) the threat which results in accrual of a right to file a suit must be an unequivocal threat to infringe the right asserted by the plaintiff in the suit. The real threat to infringe the rights of the plaintiffs, in the circumstances of the case, arose when the defendants successfully obtained probate of the will on 26th Oct., 1961 and there was a likelihood that in pursuance of that probate they would take steps to interfere with the rights of the plaintiffs. In the circumstances the suit for declaration filed by the plaintiffs within 6 years of 26th Oct. 1961 was well within the period of limitation.

19. Learned counsel for the appellant then contended that as the plaintiffs themselves had mentioned in the plaint that the cause of action for filing the suit had accrued on 30th Oct., 1955 they should not be permitted to go behind that statement and to claim limitation from the date on which the defendant had obtained the probate from the Court of District Judge, Meerut. We are unable to accept this submission. As held by the Lahore High Court in the case of Fateh Ali Shah v. Mohammad Baksh AIR 1928 Lah 516 that in computing the period of limitation the plaint has to be, with a view to find out the date on which the cause of action accrued read as a whole and that the plaintiffs cannot be tied down to the date of cause of action mentioned in the plaint. In the instant case, we find that the plaint read as a whole and specially paras 12 and 13 thereof, indicates that according to the plaintiffs threat of infringement of their rights arose when on 28-10-1961 the defendants successfully obtained the probate of the will dated 26th Oct., 1955, executed by Ram Katori, from the Court of the District Judge, Meerut. The suit filed within 6 years of that date was, therefore, clearly within limitation."

(Emphasis added)

32. In light of the observations by the Division Bench of this Court the contention of the counsel for the defendant-respondent regarding the cause of action for instituting the suit is not acceptable.

33. It was further argued by the counsel for the defendant-respondent that the Will was a registered document and, therefore, in view of Section 47 of the Registration Act, 1908, the Will commenced to operate from the date of its execution and not from the date of the death of the testator. The argument deserves to be summarily rejected without any discussion. The operation of a Will is governed by the Indian Succession Act, 1925 and not by Registration Act, 1908. Registration of Will is not compulsory under Section 17 of Registration Act, 1908. It is sufficient to state that Section 47 of the Registration Act is not applicable on testamentary dispositions. The counsel for the defendant-respondent wants the Court to believe in the existence of a ludicrous situation where the disposition of property by testamentary instruments which state that the property included in the Will shall devolve on the beneficiaries after the death of the testator will be operative from the date of the execution of the Will, i.e., before the death of the testator and thus the devolution of property would take place before the death of the testator. If the argument of the counsel for the respondents is accepted, then a registered Will will be effective from the date of its execution and an unregistered Will will be effective from the date of the death of the testator. The absurdity of such a situation is self evident and does not require any more elaboration.

34. In 1902, a suit was instituted in a Civil Court within the jurisdiction of Allahabad High Court for cancellation of a

Will during the life time of the testator. A Division Bench of this Court in Rambhajan Kunwar & Ors. Vs. Gurcharan Kunwar reported in 1905 ILR 27 (Allahabad Series) 14 referred the suit as a ridiculous one. The observations of the Division Bench of this Court are reproduced herein below:-

"The suit of from which this appeal has arisen is a ridiculous one. It is brought by the plaintiff to have a will of the defendant no. 1, a living person, cancelled. In the written statement the defendants pointed attention to the fact that a suit claiming such relief could not be maintained. The will of a living man does not come into operation when it has been executed, but only upon his death. So long as a testator is living he may at any moment cancel his will and make a totally different disposition of his property. This power he possesses up to the hour of his death, provided he be competent then to execute a valid will. It is idle to contend that a party can come into Court and successfully claim to have the will of a living person set aside. Unfortunately the learned Subordinate Judge was of a different opinion. In his judgment he finds that a suit for cancellation of a will may be maintained. In this we are wholly unable to agree with him. It is said by the learned vakil for the plaintiff respondent, who has obtained a decree in the court below, that this question was not raised in the memorandum of appeal. It is a matter, however, which the Court is bound to take notice of, and which is apparent, or ought to be apparent, to any lawyer. We allow the appeal, set aside the decree of the Court below, and dismiss the suit with costs in all Courts."

(Emphasis added)

35. If the plaintiff appellant had instituted a suit for cancellation of Will during the lifetime of Brij Lal himself, a document which could have been revoked by Brij Lal, the said suit would have been a ridiculous one as observed by the Division Bench of this Court in Rambhajan Kunwar (supra). The plaintiff - appellant cannot be non-suited for not having instituted a ridiculous suit. The judgment was delivered by the Division Bench of this Court in 1904, i.e., almost 120 years back. It is unfortunate that the trial court and the lower appellate court have non-suited the plaintiff for not having filed a ridiculous suit. The judgments and decrees of the courts below are contrary to law and liable to be set-aside.

36. In light of the reasons given above the judicial precedents referred by the counsel for the defendants / respondents are not relevant in the present case and require no discussion.

37. The appeal is allowed. The substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

38. The judgment and decree dated 20.11.1976 of the trial court dismissing Original Suit No. 13 of 1978 as well as the judgment and order dated 06.09.2011 of the lower appellate court dismissing Civil Appeal No. 23 of 1980 are, hereby, set aside.

39. In view of the observations of the Supreme Court in its judgment dated 16.04.2008 passed in Civil Appeal No. 2815 of 2008, the judgment and decree dated 21.09.1983 passed by the lower appellate court in Appeal No. 23 of 1980 is of St. of Rampur which could be converted as bhumidhari or other right under U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act. (Para 14, 19 & 20)

Appeal dismissed. (E-15)

2. The facts of the case, as per the plaintiff averments are that 20 Bighas, 10 Biswas (Pukhta) of Bagh Huzoor Pasand situated in village-Thotar, Tehsil Sadar. District Rampur was given as a grant to Farooqi Begum, defendant-appellant, one of the begums of H.H. Nawab Hamid Ali Khan, Nawab of Rampur State, by a deed dated 17.04.1924. Similar grants were made in favour of other begums of Nawab. The said grants were resumable at pleasure and after death of Nawab Hamid Ali Khan in 1930, his successor Nawab Raza Ali Khan resumed all grants in favour of all widows of his father, including that in favour of Farooqi Begum. The possession was taken over by the State authorities and the same was duly recorded in the relevant papers and thus, the grove concerned stood recorded in the name of State (Shamil Khalasa). Farooqi Begum and her servants, through collusion with revenue officers, got her name entered in the Patwari's record, though, she was out of possession and an

Counsel for the Respondents:
S.C.

Civil Law-The Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act,1950-Suit for declaration that it is the owner of the disputed grove and for a permanent injunction restraining the defendant-appellant from interfering in its possession-the grant was made only for the user and benefit of Farooqi Begum and only for the life time of Farooqi Begum and was not heritable-Defendant-appellants have not filed any record of rights duly maintained in their favour under the revenue laws or rules of erstwhile St.of Rampur noting their names as intermediary-Farooqi Begum had user and enjoyment right only for her life and nothing more- She is not found to be having any rights under old revenue laws entry thereof was already effected in the register muafiat, specially maintained by erstwhile Rampur State for this purpose. The land ultimately got vested in State of U.P. at the time of merger and horticulture department of the State of U.P. has been selling its bahar. The defendant-appellant, on the basis of her name illegally entered in the revenue record, started interfering in the possession of the State and was claiming its ownership. The State of U.P. took steps for correction of the revenue records but it was declined on the ground that it is not possible in summary proceedings as it is a long standing entry. Thus, the State of U.P. filed the present suit for declaration that it is the owner of the disputed grove and for a permanent injunction restraining the defendant-appellant from interfering in its possession. It also claimed damages/mesne profit and in the alternate it prayed for possession, if it is found out of possession. Farooqi Begam, the sole defendant, filed written statement denying the plaint allegations, except that proceedings before the Revenue Court culminated in her favour and claimed that she is continuously in possession since 1924. She also claimed ownership prior to extension of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act) on the basis of deed of 1924. Further, after its extension to Rampur State she claimed to have acquired rights of a bhumidhar. She also claimed that proceedings for ejectment against Laddan Khan were initiated by her, and since State was a party, thus is barred by estoppel from filing the said suit. She also raised other formal pleas. The suit was decreed by the Trial Court. The appeal filed against the same was remanded for fresh trial by the appellate court, by order dated 08.09.1971, after allowing application to amend the written statement. The Trial Court again heard the suit and decreed the same on 01.05.1973. Civil Appeal filed against the same was dismissed by judgment dated 06.03.1975. Second Appeal No.813 of 1975 filed by the defendant-appellant before this Court was also dismissed by judgment dated 21.07.2006. Against the same an SLP was filed in Supreme Court which was granted and converted in Civil Appeal No.1534 of 2009, and finally the second appeal was remanded back to the High Court by the Supreme Court by its judgment dated 12.07.2022. Thus, the present second appeal is before this Court. Farooqi Begum expired during pendency of second appeal and her only daughter, who was substituted, also expired and now daughter's sons are appellants before this Court.

3. Ms. Nitya Ramkrishnan, learned Senior Advocate for the appellant has raised three legal submissions before this Court for challenging the judgments of Trial Court and Appellate Court. The same are:-

(i) The deed dated 17.04.1924 is a gift-deed under Mohamman Law (Hibanama) executed by a husband in favour of his wife, and is irrevocable.

(ii) Even presuming the deed is a grant by the State of Rampur, since the same was never resumed, the suit is liable to fail.

(iii) After U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act was extended to State of Rampur, Farooqi Begum became Bhumidhar with transferable rights of the grove in dispute and thus appellants, having inherited bhumidhari rights, cannot be acquitted thereafter.

4. Since, first and second submissions of defendant-appellant relate to the nature of deed dated 17.04.1924, hence, they are being considered together. Learned counsel for the defendant-appellant emphatically argued that the deed dated 17.04.1924 is in fact a gift-deed under Mohammadan Law (Hibanama) executed by a husband in favour of his wife and is an irrevocable document. In the alternative, she submits that presuming that the first submission is not accepted and the deed is treated to be a grant, even then, the same was never revoked by any of the Nawabs or the State Government and, hence, continues to be in force till date.

5. The defendant-appellant initially had filed the written statement on 13.02.1964. At that time, no case of the deed being a Hibanama was setup. Later the written statement was amended vide order dated 08.09.1971 and following paragraphs were added in the written statement:-

“5-A That the property in dispute was mafi La Khira ‘revenue free grant’ of the defendant. The allegations in the plaint that the defendant was the rent free grantee of the grove was not correct.

5-B. That the grove in suit was gifted to the defendant absolutely by the then Ruler of the erstwhile Rampur State on 17.4.1924 through the Sanad Mafi without imposing any restriction or condition for its resumption or otherwise. Therefore, it was not resumable and could not be resumed, and it was not resumed at any time.

5-C. That in case the court is of opinion that the grove in suit was rent free grant (which the defendant does not admit), even in such case the grant was not resumable under the law by the successors of the grantor and as such could not be resumed, the right to resume if any being lost long before 1930. The suit of the plaintiff is not maintainable.”

6. A perusal of the written statement, as it stood initially or even after amendment, shows that no case of the said deed being a Hibanama is pleaded by the defendant-appellant. The best case pleaded in the amended paragraph-5B by the defendant-appellant is that it was a gift to the defendant-appellant by the then ruler of erstwhile Rampur State through Sanad Mafi without imposing any restriction or condition and was thus not resumable, and it was not resumed at any time. There is no pleading that the deed was a Hibanama under personal law or a gift by a husband to his wife under personal law. In absence of such a pleading it is not open for the defendant-appellant to argue at this stage that the deed is a Hibanama. Even otherwise following issues were framed between the parties:-

“1. Whether the grant in favour of the defendant was resumed in 1930 as alleged in para no.3 of the plaint?

2. Whether the plaintiff’s predecessor, the Rampur State entered into possession of the grove in suit after resuming the grant?

3. Whether the suit is within time?

4. Whether the suit has been over-valued?

5. Whether this court has jurisdiction to try this suit?

6. Whether the suit is barred by order 21 rule 103 CPC?

7. Whether the suit is barred by Section 42 of Specific Relief Act?

8. What is the correct amount of damages, if any, recoverable from the defendant?

9. Whether the defendant acquired Bhumidari rights in the grove in suit on enforcement of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act in this area, and is not liable to ejectment?

10. To what relief, if any, is the plaintiff entitled?

11. Whether the property in suit was revenue free grant (Muafi Lakheraj) of the defendant?

12. Whether the grove in suit was gifted to the defendant absolutely on 17.4.24 by the then ruler of Rampur State through Sanad Muafi without imposing any restriction or condition for its resumption?

13. Whether the grant in any case was not resumable under the law by the successor of the grantor and the right to resume if any, has been lost before 1930.

14. Is the suit barred by estoppel?" (emphasis added)

7. There is no issue framed with regard to any gift deed under Personal Law. Nearest issue on gift framed is issue no.12. The same is not claiming a gift under Personal Law but a gift by the ruler through Sanad Muafi. Further, only evidence given by defendant-appellant with regard to hibanama is in her second oral statement made on 29.03.1973, after amendment of written statement, wherein she states -

"ब्यान किया कि मुकदमें वाले बाग की मैं मालिक हूँ। मेरे शौहर हामिद अली खां ने हिबा किया। मैंने अपने बहनोई करनल मुहम्मद अली खां से कहा कि आप इसका इन्तेजाम करें। नवाब साहब ने नूर जहाँ बेगम को अब्बास वाला बाग दिया था। हमने कहा आपने हमें कुछ नहीं दिया तो कहा कि हम हुजूर पसंद बाग आपको हिबा करते हैं। मैंने हिबा कबूल किया और अपने बहनोई के इन्तेजाम में दे दिया। नवाब साहब ने कुछ तहरीर लिख कर दी जो फाइल में दाखिल कर दी। नूर जहाँ बेगम हमारी सौत थी जिनका इन्तकाल हो गया। जब से बाग पर मेरा कब्जा रहा मैं खेती कराती रही और कराती हूँ। जब तक कर्नल मुहम्मद अली खां हयात रहे मेरी तरफ से इन्तेजाम करते रहे। उनके इन्तकाल के बाद से मैं इन्तेजाम कर रही हूँ। बाग में मेरा डेरा बना हुआ है।

जिस वक्त नवाब साहब ने कहा कि हमने बाग हुजूर पसंद तुम्हारे नाम हिबा किया उस वक्त ना कुछ कहा, फरमान जारी किया गया। नवाब साहब के फरमान गजट में होते थे। यह फरमान गजट में नहीं छपा इसकी वजह मैं कुछ नहीं बता सकती।"

8. In the oral statement it is claimed by defendant-appellant that an oral gift was made by a husband to his wife, followed by deed executed by the husband, which was filed. As already found above, neither any case of oral gift is setup in the pleadings nor any such issue is framed. Law does not permit any evidence beyond the pleadings and issues. The oral statement is also incorrect and unreliable, as the deed dated 17.04.1924 is executed by the chief secretary of Rampur State and not by Nawab Sahab, as claimed in the oral statement. No other hibanama executed by Nawab Sahab is filed. Relevant portion of the deed dated 17.04.1924 in vernacular along with its english translation as produced by the appellant and not disputed by the State reads:-

"Bagh Huzur Pasand Farooqui Begum Sahiba ko ata kiya jata hai. Qubza bagh par karnel commandant Mohammad Ali Khan Bahadur Brigade commander ko dila diye jaye kyonke ye bagh unke zere intezaam rahega. Is bagh me 130 bigha aarazi khaam hai magar Farooqui Begum Sahiba ko 82 bigha aarazi khaam us men se di jata hai. Ye is liye ke baagh Abbas khan wala ke masaawi rahe jo haal men Nur Jahan Begum Saahiba ko ata hua hai. Baqiya aaraazi Baaghe-e mazkur ki ba intezaam sarishta-e-baaghaat ba dastur rahe gi. Sanad Daarul Insha se di jaye. Ahkaam-e-zaabita jaari hon.

By Order Sd/- Chief Secretary"

Its English Translation reads:

“Bagh Huzur Pasand is bestowed upon (ata) Farooqui Begum Sahiba. Col Commandant Mohammad All Khan is handed over this orchard so that this orchard will be under his management. The orchard consists of 130 bigha Kham land. However, Farooqui Begum Sahiba is given 82 bigha Kham land from the same in order to keep it at par with Bagh Abbas Khan which has been granted to Noor Jahan Begum Sahiba recently. The remaining land of the said orchard will remain under the management of Horticulture department as usual. Certificate may be issued as per rule from the record office.

By Order Sd/- Chief Secretary”

9. A perusal of the same demonstrates that it is an order passed and signed by the Chief Secretary of the state in file number 3/28, in a Ijlas (Court or Sitting of respectable persons). The deed states that the Bagh Huzoor Pasand is given (ata) to Farooqi Begum Sahiba and possession is to be given to Colonel Commandant Mohd. Ali. Out of 130 Beegha (kham) of Bagh, 82 Beegha (kham) is given and the remaining land was kept under the management of Horticulture Department. The deed further states that the certificate may be issued as per rule from the record office. The same cannot by any stretch of imagination be called a gift deed by a husband to his wife under personal law. It is an official document executed by the Chief Secretary of the state in official proceedings, making a grant on part of State of Rampur in favour of Farooqi Begum Sahiba. Claim in the oral statement that possession of the Bagh was given after making an oral hiba and the management of the same was given by the appellant-defendant to her brother in law is contrary to the deed, which is admitted and relied upon by both the parties, and cannot be believed. Thus, submission of defendant-appellant with regard to any oral or written gift under any personal law is not found sustainable.

10. The next question is the nature of the deed dated 17.04.1924. It is already held above the same cannot be termed as a Hibanama under the Mohammadan Law. As already noted above, the deed grants (ata) 82 Bheegas (kham) out of 130 Bighas (kham) of grove Huzoor Pasand to Farooqi Begam Sahiba. The same is signed by the Chief Secretary of the State in ijas. The reason for the grant provided is to maintain parity, as another grove, namely, Abbas Khan Wala, was granted (ata) to Noor Jahan Begum Sahiba. From perusal of the deed, it appears that for the status of begum sahibas of Nawab Sahab, (the then ruler of Rampur State), the Chief Secretary of the then Rampur State granted different Baghs to his Begums. The nature of a grant made by an erstwhile Indian State or its ruler is considered by a three Judges' Bench of the Supreme Court in case of ‘Mohsin Ali Vs. State of M.P. and Others’, reported in (1975) 2 SCC 122. Even the language of the document executed in the said case is quite parallel to the present case. In the said case, Firman dated 24.10.1934 was issued by the Nawab of Bhopal State, in appreciation of life and distinguished service of Sir Liyakat Ali, by which he gave to the later, in addition to grant of pensions, the residential use of house in question as ‘Inayat Ata’. The dispute was of interpretation of the said document. Hence, it is necessary to have a closer look to the facts and findings of the said judgment. Relevant paragraphs of the said judgment reads:-

“9. The original firman is in Urdu. As rendered into English by the courts below, it reads:

“Hon'ble Motamid-u-Sultan Nasir-ul-Mulk Syed Sir Liaqat Ali.

Looking into considerations with gratitude your valuable services and faithful sacrifices which you have rendered for more than 30 years and considering the economic condition of the State you have served without remuneration for the last 2 years, your application (for pension) is granted. You are granted permission to retire in lieu of your valuable services from 1st October, 1934. You should hand over charge of Mushir-ul-Muhami Rubkari Khas to Honourable Shoeb Qureshi.

Besides that pension you are entitled to receive under the Pension Rules of the State Treasury, you are also entitled to receive a sum of Rs 400 as monthly pension from Treasury of Deorhi in lieu of valuable services of Deodhi Khas and you are (further) granted your residential house situated at Bara Mahal Shahjahanabad, as gift.”

10. The original of the crucial sentence, which has been underlined (in bold type) reads:

“Aur aapka sakoonti makan waqya Bara Mahal Shahjahanabad apko inayat ataa kiya jata hai.”

11. The firman was by order published in the Bhopal Government Gazette, dated October 31, 1934, under the heading: “Pension to Aali Mortabat Sir Syed Liaqat Ali Saheb”. Rendered into English, its material part runs thus:

“Now the said Hon'ble again requests for grant of his previous application on account of rendering service for more than thirty years. Hence His Highness the Ruler of Bhopal Khuld-Allah-Mulkahum considering his valuable services and his faithful sacrifices that he had served without remuneration for the last two years, taking into consideration the economic condition of the State.

Considering (all his valuable services) with gratitude (His Highness the Ruler of State) grants him permission to retire from 1st November, 1934 and also grants him his residential house situated at Bara Mahal Shahjahanabad as gift.”

His Highness the Ruler of Bhopal State further orders that Hon'ble Syed Sir Liaqat Ali Saheb be paid Rs 400 monthly pension from the Treasury of Deorhi Khas in respect of services of Deorhi Khas besides his regular pension under the Rules of the State Treasury for which he is entitled to receive from the Treasury of State.”

12. The original of the underlined sentence (in bold type), in the Gazette Notification reads:

13. It is to be noted that the disposition evidenced by the firman, Ext. P-1, is a tripartite grant made by an autocratic ruler to his subject in recognition of long, meritorious services rendered by the latter. This grant belongs to the category of dispositions, which under the English Common Law are known as “Crown grants”

14. The tenor and language of the Firman, particularly the words “aapko inayat ataa kiya jata hai” unmistakably mark it out as a sovereign grant. According to Steingass' Persian-English Dictionary “inayat” (Noun) signifies “a favour, a gift, a present, a bounty”; and “ataa” (Verb) means “to give, to confer a benefit or present with”. “Ataa” (Noun) implies “giving, a present, gift, donation, favour, a grant, endowment, concession; consideration”.

15. In the widest sense, “grant” may comprehend everything that is granted or passed from one to another by deed. But commonly, the term is applied to rights created or transferred by the Crown, e.g., grants of pensions, patents, charters, franchise (See Earl Jowtt's Dictionary of English Law).

16. In England, contrary to the ordinary rule applicable to grants by a subject, grants by the Crown are usually construed most favourably for the Crown. The Rule in case of Royal Grants is that general words will not pass prerogative rights by implication.

17. This general rule is, however, capable of important relaxations in favour of the subject. If the intention of the Sovereign is obvious from the document which in precise, unequivocal terms defines the extent and nature of the benefit conferred, it must take effect. No question of seeking extrinsic aid to its construction arises. If the grant is for valuable consideration it must be construed strictly in favour of the grantee, for the honour of the Sovereign and where two constructions are possible, one valid and the other void, that which is valid ought to be preferred, for the honour of the Sovereign ought to be more regarded than the Sovereign's profit. Where, however, two interpretations may be given to the grant, both of which are good, that which is most favourable to the Crown is in many cases preferred. (See Halsbury's Laws of England, 3rd Edn., Vol. 7, paras 669 and 670, pp. 314-316).

18. These rules of interpretation have been applied to sovereign grants in India, also. (See Raja Rajinder Chand v. Sukhi [AIR 1957 SC 286 : 1956 SCR 889 as per S.K. Das, J. at p. 902] ; Gulabdas Jugjivandas v. Collector of Surat [6 IA 54 : ILR 3 Bom 186 (PC)] ; Shekh Sultan Sani v. Shekh Ajmodin [20 IA 50 : ILR 17 Bom 431 (PC)] ; Aziz-un-nissa v. Tassadduk Husain Khan [28 IA 65 : ILR 23 All 324 (PC)] ; Ram Narayan Singh v. Ram Saran Lal [AIR

1918 PC 203 : ILR 46 Cal 683 (PC) : 46 IA 88])

19. It is in the light of the above principles that we have to determine whether by the firman, Ext. P-1, the Ruler intended to grant a life-estate or an absolute estate in the suit house."

11. The appellant in the said case were heirs of Sir Liaqat Ali who claimed the said document to be gift under Muslim Law and, thus, an absolute transfer. The same was strongly disputed by the other side and it was claimed, amongst other, that the last sentence of the Firman read along with the preamble shows that the same created a right of residence for life and not an absolute and heritable ownership. Considering the submissions, the Court held:-

"23. We are not persuaded to accept the appellant's contention that the firman conveys, in precise and unequivocal terms, full and absolute ownership of the suit house to the grantee. In our opinion, the language of the last sentence of the firman, which is the sheet-anchor of this contention, even by itself, does not indubitably and unequivocally indicate that the intention of the Ruler was to grant an absolute estate. The firman is conspicuous by the non-employment of any words declaring that thenceforth the grantee would have a heritable estate in the house or that the grantor had transferred all his rights in the property, absolutely in favour of the grantee. There is no use of such words that the grant would take effect as "nasalan-dar-nasalan", "from generation to generation" "to warsan, kaiaam u qaman" "to grantee and his heirs" etc. pointing towards the creation of a heritable estate. Even the use of such terms by itself, has been held to be an inconclusive indication of the grantor's intention to confer absolute, heritable rights. Thus in Gulabdas Jugjivandas case [6 IA 54 : ILR 3 Bom 186 (PC)] , despite a reference in the sanad to the children or descendants' of the grantee, the Judicial Committee held that the grant had not been made "on terms which would make them hereditary".

24. Again, in Shekh Sultan v. Shekh Ajmodin, delivering the judgment of the Board, Lord Hannen quoted with approval, a minute dated March 15, 1922, recorded by Sir Thomas Munro

"in which he states that the terms in such document (sunnuds) 'for ever' from generation to generation or in Hindu grants, 'while the sun and moon endure', 'are mere forms of expression', and were never supposed either by the donor or receiver to convey the durability which they imply or any beyond the will of the Sovereign".

On the authority of another minute recorded by Sir Thomas Munro, it was further observed "that while the seizure of private property by the native princes would have been considered unjust by the country, Jagir grants were not regarded by the people in the light of private property".

25. It is not necessary to multiply authorities with regard to the construction of such customary terms which could possibly be indicative of the grantor's intention to make a heritable grant, because the firman Ext. P-1, is bereft of all such terms. It will be sufficient to say that the language of the firman does not in clear and unambiguous terms express an intention to create an absolute estate in favour of the grantee and his heirs. The firman has therefore to be construed in accordance with the well established rule of construction applicable to sovereign grants.

26. Another cardinal canon of interpretation to be borne in mind is, that in order to ascertain the real intention of the grantor, the firman has to be read as a whole. It will not be correct — as the appellants want us to do — to dissect the firman into three water-tight compartments or to read the last sentence of the firman out of the context. It is also permissible to consider the surrounding circumstances and the occasion on which this grant was made, as legitimate aids to construction of the firman [see Gulabdas Jugjivandas v. Collector of Surat [6 IA 54 : ILR 3 Bom 186 (PC)]].

27. The occasion for the grant as apparent from the preamble of the firman, Ext. P-1, (reproduced in the Notification Ext. P-2) was that the grantee Sir Liaquat Ali, having attained the age of superannuation, was retiring with the permission of the grantor, after putting in "valuable" and "faithful" service for more than thirty years including two years for which he served without remuneration, in view of the poor economic condition of the State. An analysis of the firman will show that it confers three-fold benefits on the grantee. Firstly, it grants him such pension as would be admissible under the Service Rules. This he would draw from the State Treasury. Secondly, in addition to the first, it grants him pension at the rate of Rs 400 per month which the pensioner would be entitled to draw from the Deodhi Treasury i.e. the Privy Purse of the Ruler. Thirdly, it grants him a beneficial interest in the residential house, in these terms: "Aur aapka sakoonti makan waqya Bara Mahal Shahjahanabad apko inayat ataa kiya jata hai".

28. As is indicated in the firman (Ex. P-1), Notification (P-2) in making this tripartite grant the Ruler was actuated by considerations of gratitude for the valuable services rendered by the grantee. The object of conferring these three-fold benefits was the same, namely, to secure to the retiring servant a handsome maintenance and comfortable residence for the rest of his life. In other words, all the three benefits granted under this firman were cognate benefits, arising out of the same occasion, and made with the same object in view viz. to enable the grantee to live comfortably in retirement. These related benefits could be compendiously described as “retirement benefits”. The first two benefits were indisputably pensionary benefits enuring only for the lifetime of the grantee. All the three kindred benefits, including the one in question, were expressly meant for the person of the grantee. This is clear from the word “aapko” which means “to you” in the phrase “aapko inayat ataa kiya jata hai”. The conjunction “aur” (and) at the commencement of the last sentence of the firman inextricably links the grant of interest in the residential house, with the pensionary benefits conferred in the foregoing parts of the firman. In short, all the three-fold benefits granted under this firman are off-spring of the same genus. The language of the firman relating directly to the grant in question, therefore, takes its colour from the preceding parts of the firman relating to the pensionary benefits conferred on the grantee for life. Thus, if the crucial words quoted above, are construed in the context of the akin grants, and according to the general tenor of the firman as a whole, it becomes clear that the intention of the Ruler was to grant only a right of residence limited to the lifetime of the grantee, and not an absolute estate in the house.

29. The surrounding circumstances also confirm the interpretation adopted by us. The first such circumstance was that at the time of the grant, the grantee had no issue, nor any near relation. Indeed, he died widowless and issueless. In this context, coupled with the omission of any words such as to “grantee and his heirs” or “nasalan-dar-nasalan” indicating the grant to be heritable, it would be reasonable to hold that the grant was intended to be for life only.

30. There is yet another circumstance which points towards the same conclusion. It is that at the time of the grant the grantee was already residing in the suit house. In this context, the word “sakoonti” (residential) in the last part of the firman used in association with “makan” (house) assumes significance. It suggests that the intention of the grantor was to convey to the grantee no more than a right of residence in the house which the latter was already enjoying.

33. The argument advanced on behalf of the appellants: that the grant in question was a “hiba” made in accordance with Mohammedan law by one Muslim to another, has been stated only to be rejected. To all intents and purposes, it was a grant made by an absolute Ruler to his subject who had rendered long, meritorious services, on the eve of his retirement. Reference to Muslim law is therefore misconceived. We may, however, say in passing that even according to the observations of the Privy Council relied upon by the counsel, creation of an interest limited in point of time, in the usufruct of the property is not necessarily repugnant to Muslim law.”

12. As in the aforesaid case of Mohsin Ali (supra), the Bagh in the present case was also granted by the State of Rampur to Farooqi Begum. There is no term used in the entire grant which may show that the State had withdrawn all its rights over the Bagh or any such word which can be construed as grant with heritable interest. The grant notes that it is made to Farooqi Begum as similar grant is also made to another begum. The grant at best is for the user and benefits of Begum Sahiba and nothing more. There is nothing in the document which can be read as withdrawal by the Rampur State of all its right from the said Bagh and/or surrender of all its rights in favour of Farooqi Begum or creation of any heritable interest in favour of Farooqi Begum and her children. Therefore, as already settled by Supreme Court in case of Mohsin Ali (supra)¹ that such a grant can always be resumed by the State, as all rights and powers of State, including the power to resume the same, continued. Farooqi Begum had right to enjoy the Bagh for her life only, or till the will of the sovereign.

13. Next submission of learned Senior Counsel for the appellant is that the grant was never resumed by the State of Rampur or State of U.P. and there is no such document on record. Learned counsel for the appellant claims that the secondary evidence, register and list submitted before the Court to prove resumption, were not properly proved and were not reliable evidences. The said fact is strongly disputed by the counsel for the State of U.P. Learned counsel for the State of U.P. claims that both the courts have given a finding that the fact of resumption is proved from the secondary evidence filed and the same, being a concurrent finding of fact, can not be disputed at the stage of second appeal.

14. Before considering the said submission of parties, suffice is to say that, as already held above, the grant was made only for the user and benefit of Farooqi Begum. The same was only for the life time of Farooqi Begum and was not heritable. Admittedly, Farooqi Begum expired during pendency of the present second appeal and thereafter, her daughter was substituted as her legal heir who also expired and, now, appellants before this Court are sons of the said daughter. Neither the daughter nor the present substituted heirs of late Farooqi Begum have any right in the Bagh in dispute. Therefore, no relief in their favour can be granted. This fact was put during course of argument to the senior counsel for the appellant and disputing the same she raised her third submission and claimed that after extension of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act on Rampur State, late Farooqi Begum became a bhumidhar and her rights became absolute. Thus, now heirs of late Farooqi Begum are having absolute rights as bhumidhars and they cannot be evicted from the Bagh in dispute. This submission will be considered later and first this Court considers the submissions of appellant with regard to secondary evidence filed by the State of U.P. to prove resumption of bagh by the next Nawab of Rampur.

15. For disputing the findings of the original and appellate Courts with regard to the secondary evidence submitted to prove resumption of grant in 1930, Senior Counsel for the defendant-appellants submits that the Muafiat register filed by the State of U.P. was having loose papers with entries made in different inks. For the said purposes she has relied upon the oral statement of Roop Kishore, arranger, revenue records, who has stated that normally on the first and last pages of such register, a stamp is put and signature of officer is made which is not found in the register deposited before this Court. He further states that register does not contain page numbers. Thus, the same cannot be taken into account as it is not a reliable document.

16. Admittedly, a fire had taken place in which revenue records of former Rampur State were destroyed. Therefore, original orders of resumption of grant are lost. A perusal of the register shows that all the Muafiat grants of Rampur State and their resumptions are noted in the said register. It is not that the entry of resumption with regard to disputed Bagh Huzoor Pasand alone is made at the end of the register. There are number of resumption entries, before and after the entry of Bagh Huzoor Pasand, of same period (1930), with regard to other Baghs given to different begums also noted in the said register. A mere fact that the entries are made with different inks or some of its pages are loose itself cannot be a reason to disbelieve the register. The statement of witness Roop Kishore that normally a stamp is placed at the beginning and end of the register or absence of page numbers in itself is not a sufficient ground to disbelieve the register as no other register containing such stamps and signatures was filed before the Court to prove any such prevalent procedure. No rule was referred to under which any such stamp or signatures was required to be put. Even otherwise, witness Roop Kishore only brought the register as he was a clerk in the revenue department. He also proved list of Munshi Gopinath. He claimed that he was engaged in 1926 in Muhafizkhana Mal of Rampur State. He was removed in July, 1930 and re-engaged in October, 1931 and is thus unaware of developments of said period (July, 1930-October, 1931). Till 1930 he was working as extra weeder and did not perform any other work. His re-engagement was with garden department. Therefore, he was never in charge of maintaining the disputed register, rather of any revenue record. His engagement in revenue department was only as a weeder and he performed work of making bundles of weeding files. Therefore, his statement with regard to manner of preparation and maintenance of Muafi register being outside his domain of work is not reliable. He was not even aware as to which office maintained the said register as he states that Muafi register might be kept in early times in darulnisha or Muhafizkhana. Therefore, he is only a witness who brought record/register from revenue department of State of U.P. and his evidence can only be read to that extent. He never maintained records of State of Rampur and can not give evidence on manner in which they were maintained. Therefore, this Court does not find any reason to disbelieve the finding of facts given by both the original as well as appellate Courts. An old register containing details of all Muafiats of the State of Rampur, including that of defendant, cannot be disputed only on such flimsy grounds, when contents of resumption of other grants in favour of all such persons, including other begums, is duly and correctly noted.

17. Now for considering merit of the submission of appellant-defendant with regard to her bhumidhari rights, it is necessary to go into the applicability of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act to the Rampur State. U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act itself came into force w.e.f. 24.01.1951. At that time, it was not applied on State of Rampur. The same was made applicable to the territories of the former Rampur State by notification no. 3168/IA-599-1951, dated 30.06.1954 and estates were vested in State by notification no. 3169/IA-599-1951, dated 01.07.1954 respectively. Relevant portions of the said notifications read as follow:-

“Gazette Notification No.3168/I-A-559-1951

Dated Lucknow, June 30, 1954

IN exercise of the powers conferred by sub-clause (ii) of clause (e) of sub-section (1) of section 2 of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (U.P. Act No.1 of 1951), hereinafter referred to as the said Act, the Governor, Uttar Pradesh is pleased to direct that the said Act shall apply, subject to the modifications and amendments specified in the Schedule hereto annexed, to the territories of the former Rampur State as defined in the Rampur (Administration) Order, 1949.

The Governor is further pleased to order under sub-section (3) of section I of the said Act, that this Act shall come into force in the aforesaid territories with effect from the date of this notification.”

“Gazette Notification No.3169/I-A-559-1951,

Dated Lucknow, July 1, 1954.

IN exercise of powers conferred by sub-section (1) of section 4 of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (U.P. Act No.1 of 1951), as applied to the territories of the former Rampur State, as defined in the Rampur (Administration) Order, 1949, by notification no.3168/IA-559-1951, dated June 30, 1954, all estates situate in the aforesaid territory excluding estates owned by the State Government, and the land allotted to His Highness the Nawab of Rampur under Article 4 of the Agreement between the Governor-General and His Highness the Nawab of Rampur dated May 15, 1949, read with item (xviii) of the Collateral letter dated May 15, 1949, from the Ministry of States, Government of India, to His Highness the Nawab of Rampur, and mentioned in the list of his private properties, shall vest in the State of Uttar Pradesh, and as from the beginning of that date, all such estates shall stand transferred to and vest, except as provided in the said Act, in the State free from all encumbrances.” (emphasis added)

18. The term ‘Estate’ was modified from time to time in the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act itself as well as one provided in the notifications by which U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act was made applicable to Rampur and other States. The definition of word ‘Estate’ was finally provided and settled by U.P. Act No.XIV of 1958 by which U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act was amended. The aforesaid U.P. Act No.XIV of 1958, being a short Act, is quoted below:-

“U. P. Act No. XIV of 1958.

An Act to amend the U. P Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950, (U. P. Act 1 of 1951).

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the U. P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950, for the purpose hereinafter appearing:

It is hereby enacted in the Ninth Year of the Republic of India as follows:

1. Short title and commencement.-(1) This Act may be called the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms (Amendment) Act, 1958.

(2) It shall be deemed to have come into force from the first day of July, 1952.

2. In section 3 of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950, for clause (8), the following shall be and be deemed to have always been substituted:

“(8) Estate, means and shall be deemed to have always meant the area included under one entry in any of the registers described in clause (a), (b), (c) or (d) and, in so far as it relates to a permanent tenureholder, in any register described in clause (e) of section 32 of the U. P. Land Revenue Act, 1901, as it stood immediately prior to the coming into force of this Act, or subject to the restriction mentioned with respect to the register described in clause (e), in any of the registers maintained under section 33 of the said Act or in a similar register described in or prepared or maintained under any other Act, Rule, Regulation or Order relating to the preparation or maintenances of record-of-rights in force at any time and includes share in, or of an 'estate'. Explanation.-The Act, Rule, Regulation or Order referred to in this clause shall include, Act, Rule, Regulation, or Order made or promulgated by the erstwhile Indian States whose territories were merged or absorbed in the State of Uttar Pradesh prior to the date of vesting notified under section 4 of this Act."

19. A bare perusal of the provisions of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act and the aforesaid notifications shows that estates owned by Rampur State never vested under the said Act as the same vested in State of U.P. on merger. It is only the estates belonging to land holders and intermediaries, duly noted in the register prepared and maintained under the revenue laws as applicable in the erstwhile Indian States which vested under the provisions of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act and the said land holders or intermediaries were given different rights under the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act. There is nothing on record to show that the grants given by the erstwhile State of Rampur were treated as estates belonging to land holders or intermediaries. It is already held above that grants given by State of Rampur always remained property of Rampur State, resumable at will. Land and properties owned by Rampur State vested in State of U.P. on merger and no contrary submission with regard to the same is made before this Court. The said land falls within exception carved out by 'excluding estates owned by the State Government' in vesting notification no.3169/I-A-559-1951 dated 01.07.1954. Defendant-appellants have not filed any record of rights duly maintained in their favour under the revenue laws or rules of erstwhile State of Rampur noting their names as intermediary. In absence of the same, claim of defendant-appellant that they ought to be treated as land holders/intermediaries under the revenue laws of erstwhile State of Rampur and, thus, having earned bhumidhari or other revenue rights under U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act can not be accepted. They have also not filed order of any competent revenue authority under U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act declaring Farooqi Begum as having bhumidhari rights also goes to show that name of Farooqi Begum was wrongly/illegally recorded as bhumidhar. It goes without saying that there cannot be any bhumidhari or other rights under the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act on lands belonging to the State Government. It is already held that the bagh in dispute was a State land in which Farooqi Begum had user and enjoyment right only for her life and nothing more. Therefore, she is not found to be having any rights under old revenue laws of State of Rampur which could be converted as bhumidhari or other right under U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act. Hence, the said submission of defendant-appellant also does not have any force and the same is rejected.

20. Thus, this Court does not find any force in the present second appeal and the same is dismissed.

Service Law- Uttar Pradesh Absorption of Retrenched Employees of Government or Public Corporations in Government Service Rules, 1991-To be covered by the Government Order dated 10.07.1998, the employee should have come into Government service by way of transfer or direct recruitment or deputation and thereafter should have been absorbed. Unless this condition is fulfilled, the Government Order dated 10.07.1998 would not apply in his case- there is nothing in the said Rules which may permit counting of past services rendered by the petitioner in ATL for the purposes of calculating his qualifying service for pensionary benefits payable by the Government consequent to his retirement from Government service after absorption therein- Government Order dated 11.11.1993 also does not permit counting of services rendered by the petitioner in ATL for the purposes of determining his seniority viz-a-viz direct recruits in the absorbed department. 1. A Single Judge of this Court noticed conflicting opinions rendered by different Division Benches on the question of counting of past services rendered by the concerned in the erstwhile Auto Tractors Limited (hereinafter referred as 'ATL') for the purposes of pensionary benefits payable by the State Government consequent to their absorption therein and referred the matter for consideration by a Larger Bench. Accordingly, by order of Hon'ble the Chief Justice this Full Bench was constituted.

2. We considered the questions referred by the learned Single Judge to us and rephrased/reframed the same as under:

"(i) Whether the Division Bench judgments in the case of Shankatha Prasad Mishra (surpa); Hridayesh Dayal Srivastava (surpa); Mirtujanjay Prasad Singh (surpa); Keshav Ram Pandey (supra) and State of U.P. and others versus Amar Pal Singh, [Special Appeal (Defective) No.646 of 2016 decided on 25.10.2016] have correctly held that the benefit of past services rendered by retrenched employees of Auto Tractors Limited, who have been subsequently absorbed in government service, such as the petitioner, would count towards their qualifying service for purposes of calculation of retiral dues payable by the State Government?

(ii) Whether a retrenched employee of Auto Tractors Limited such as the petitioner, who got absorbed in State Government Service subsequently as per the relevant rules known as the Uttar Pradesh Absorption of Retrenched Employees of Government or Public Corporations in Government Service Rules 1991 are entitled to count their previous services rendered by them under the erstwhile employer i.e. the Auto Tractors Limited, for calculation of qualifying service for purposes of retirement benefits under the U.P. Retirement Benefit Rules 1961 and other ancillary rules and Government Orders in this regard as also Government Orders dated 11.11.1993 and 10.07.1998 as modified vide Government Order dated 28.12.2001? "

3. In addition to the above, we framed the following question:

"(iii) Whether Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of State of U.P. versus Ram Shanker Gupta passed in Special Appeal (Defective) No. 553 of 2015 decided on 27.11.2015 is in conflict with the earlier decisions by Coordinate Benches rendered in the case of Shankatha Prasad Mishra (surpa); Hridayesh Dayal Srivastava (surpa); Mirtujanjay Prasad Singh (surpa); Keshav Ram Pandey (supra) and State of U.P. and others versus Amar Pal Singh, [Special Appeal (Defective) No.646 of 2016 decided on 25.10.2016] or not? If so, which of the two sets of Division Bench judgment lays down the law correctly with regard to question No.2 as rephrased by us herein above."

4. We have heard Mr. Amrendra Nath Tripathi along with Mr. Ashutosh Shahi, learned counsel for the petitioner, Mr. I.M. Pandey and Mr. Arun Kumar Pandey, learned Advocates Members of the Bar, as also, Mr. Kuldeep Pati Tripathi, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Mr. Alok Kumar Pandey, Mr. Vivek Shukla and Mr. Prafull Yadav, learned counsel for the State, at length.

5. Briefly stated the facts relevant to the questions before us are that the petitioner was appointed in erstwhile ATL on the post of Executive (Personnel & Administration) on 17.10.1984 and worked in the said Company till 20.11.1990 i.e. till its closure. The petitioner was appointed in a Government Cell of ATL as Executive (Personnel & Administration) on 21.11.1990 and continued to work in the said Cell till 06.03.1998. He was paid salary regularly from the State Exchequer. This Cell, it appears, was created for the retrenched employees such as the petitioner till their matters are considered for absorption which was proposed at the relevant time. Ultimately, the State Government in exercise of its powers under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution of India made Rules known as Uttar Pradesh Absorption of Retrenched Employees of Government or Public Corporations in Government Service Rules, 1991 (hereinafter referred as '1991 Rules'. The said 1991 Rules applied to posts under rule making power of the Governor of Uttar Pradesh under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution.

6. It is not out of place to mention that at the relevant time as many as 11 Public Corporations were closed or wound up and their employees retrenched.

7. As would be evident from the nomenclature of the 1991 Rules they were applicable to all such retrenched employees whether they be of the Government or Public Corporations who had been absorbed in Government service. After notification of the 1991 Rules, the State Government issued a Government Order dated 11.11.1993 on the subject of eligibility and permissibility of retrenched employees of ATL for the purposes of Government service. Ultimately, the petitioner herein was absorbed in the Government service on 07.03.1998 under the aforesaid 1991 Rules and Government Order dated 11.11.1993. He was absorbed in the Directorate of Pichhra Varg Kalyan, U.P. Under the 1991 Rules and the Government Order referred hereinabove. The last pay drawn by him in ATL was protected on the date of his entry in the Government service. Ultimately, the petitioner retired from Government service on 31.10.2014 while working on the post of Officer-on-Special Duty in the aforesaid Directorate i.e. a Class II Post. After his retirement, he filed a writ petition bearing No.182 (SB) of 2015 (Anukul Prakash Vs. State of U.P.) claiming benefit of past services rendered by him in ATL for pensionary benefits by the Government. In pursuance to an order dated 18.05.2015 passed in the said petition for consideration of his representation, the same was considered and rejected by the Director on 19.08.2015. This order was put to challenge before this Court by means of the instant petition i.e. Writ Petition No. 1647 (SB) of 2015 (now Writ A No. 1001647 of 2015) which was filed on 15.10.2015 and it is during course of hearing in this petition that the learned Single Judge noticed conflict of opinion amongst different Division Benches and referred the matter to the Larger Bench. It is against the aforesaid background that the reference came up before us and has been heard.

8. 1991 Rules referred hereinabove are as under:

"THE UTTAR PRADESH ABSORPTION OF RETRENCHED EMPLOYEES OF GOVERNMENT OR PUBLIC CORPORATIONS IN GOVERNMENT SERVICE RULES, 1991

1. (1) Those rules may be called the Uttar Pradesh Absorption of Retrenched Employees of Government or Public Corporations in Government Service Rules, 1991.

(2) They shall come into force atonce.

(3) They shall apply to the posts under the rule making power of the Governor of Uttar Pradesh under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution.

2. Unless there is anything repugnant In the subject or context, tho expression-

(a) "appointing authority" in relation to any post for which an employee was retrenched means the authority empowered to make appointment to such post;

(b) "Public corporation" means a body corporate established or constituted by or under any Uttar Pradesh Act except a University or local authority constituted the purpose of Local Self Government and includes a Government Company within the meaning of section 617 of the Companies Act, 1956 In which the State Government has prepondering Interest:

(c) "retrenched employee" means a person who was appointed on a post under the Government or a public corporation on or before October 1, 1986 in accordance with the procedure laid down for recruitment to the post and was continuously working in any post under the Government of such corporation upto the date of his retrenchment due to reduction in, or winding up of, any establishment of the Government or the public corporation, as the case may be and in respect of whom a certificate of being a retrenched employee has been issued by his appointing authority.

(d) "service rules" means the rules made under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution, and where there are no such rules, the executive instructions issued by the Government, regulating the recruitment and conditions of service of persons appointed to the relevant service.

3. (1) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any other service rules for the time being in force, the State Government may by notified order require the absorption of the retrenched employees in any post or service under the Government and may prescribe the procedure for such absorption including relaxation in various terms and conditions of recruitment in respect of such retrenched employee.

(2) The provisions contained in relevant service rules shall be deemed to have been modified to the extent of their inconsistency with the provisions made in the notified order referred to in sub-rule (1)"

9. The terms 'Public Corporations' and 'Retrenched Employees' are defined in the said Rules. As per sub-Rule (1) of Rule 3 of 1991 Rules, notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any other service rules for the time being in force, the State Government may by notified order require absorption of retrenched employees in any post or service under the Government and may prescribe the procedure for such absorption including relaxation in various terms and conditions of recruitment in respect of such retrenched employees. As per sub-Rule (2) of Rule 3 of 1991 Rules, the provisions contained in relevant service rules shall be deemed to have been modified to the extent of their inconsistency with the provisions made in the notified order referred to in sub-rule (1).

10. The term 'Notified' is defined in Section 4 (29A) of the U.P. General Clauses Act, 1904 as under:

"(29-A) "notification" or "public notification" shall mean a notification published in the Gazette of the State and the word "notified" shall be construed accordingly."

11. Neither of the parties have placed before us any notified order referable to Rule 3 of 1991 Rules. They have, however, brought on record a Government Order dated 11.11.1993 which, according to them, is referable to 1991 Rules and it is this Government Order which governs the conditions of service of the retrenched employees of ATL who were absorbed in the Government. Even though the said order is not a notified order, nevertheless, it appears that it is this Government Order which has held the field so far as conditions of absorption of retrenched employees of ATL are concerned, therefore, we proceed on the said premise.

12. The Government Order dated 11.11.1993 reads as under:

विषय: आटो ट्रेक्टर्स लिमिटेड (ए0टी0एल0) के छटनीशुदा कर्मचारियों/अधिकारियों को सरकारी सेवा हेतु अर्हता एवं अनुमन्यता।

महोदय,

उपरोक्त विषय पर मुझे यह कहने का निर्देश हुआ है कि मानवीय दृष्टिकोण अपनाते हुये शासन ने आटो ट्रेक्टर्स लिमिटेड (ए0टी0एल0) के छटनी शुदा कर्मचारियों/अधिकारियों को निम्नांकित शर्तों के अधीन सरकारी सेवा हेतु अर्हता एवं अनुमन्यता प्रदान करने का निर्णय लिया है:-

1. सरकारी सेवा हेतु केवल वे ही कर्मचारी पात्र होंगे, जो दिनांक 1 अक्टूबर 1986 या उसके पूर्व ए0टी0एल0 की सेवा में नियुक्त हुये हों तथा ए0टी0एल0 के बन्द होने की तिथि तक निरन्तर कार्यरत हो।

2. लोक सेवा आयोग की परिधि के बाहर, अधीनस्थ सेवा चयन आयोग की परिधि के भीतर या बाहर के पदों पर "उपयुक्तता" के आधार पर नियुक्ति हेतु अर्हता मानी जायेगी। ऐसी सेवाओं/पदों हेतु जिनके लिये भर्ती/चयन के निमित्त किसी सेवा नियमावली/कार्यकारी आदेश में कोई प्रक्रिया विद्यमान हो, छटनीशुदा कार्मिकों के विषय में उक्त प्रक्रिया से शिथिलता बरतते हुये "उपयुक्तता" आंकने के लिए अलग से उत्तर प्रदेश सरकार या सार्वजनिक निगमों के छटनीशुदा कर्मचारियों का सरकारी सेवा में आमेलन नियमावली, 1991 प्रख्यापित की गयी है।

3. सरकारी सेवा में भर्ती हेतु निर्धारित न्यूनतम शैक्षिक अर्हता, अनुभव तथा आयु विषयक शर्तें पूरा करने वाले ए0टी0एल0 के कर्मचारी/अधिकारी ही उक्त

सेवायोजन हेतु पात्र होंगे। यदि ऐसे कर्मचारी ए0टी0एल0 में ऐसे पद पर नियुक्त हुये थे जिनका कर्तव्य तथा उत्तर दायित्व उस पद के सम्बन्धित है जिस पद के लिये ये अब अभ्यर्थी हैं और अपनी नियुक्ति के समय उपरोक्त पद के लिये निर्धारित शैक्षिक योग्यता रखते थे, तो यह समझा जायेगा कि वे वर्तमान पद के लिये निर्धारित शैक्षिक अर्हता पूर्ण करते हैं।

4. ए0टी0एल0 के अधिकारी/कर्मचारी के लिये सरकारी सेवा में पद विशेष पर लागू अधिकतम आयु सीमा का प्रतिबन्ध लागू नहीं होगा।

5. सेवा में लिये जाने के दिनांक से राज्य कर्मचारियों पर लागू समस्त नियम जैसे भविष्य निर्वाह निधि, अवकाश, पेंशन आदि उन पर स्वतः लागे होंगे।

6. ए0टी0एल0 की सेवा में कार्मिकों को आहरित अन्तिम वेतन को संरक्षण प्रदान किया जायेगा जिसके विषय में वित्त विभाग की सहमति से प्रशासनिक विभाग द्वारा पृथक से आदेश जारी किये जायेंगे।

7. उक्त सेवायोजन सीधी भर्ती के उपलब्ध पदों के विरुद्ध ही किया जायेगा तथा सम्बन्धित पद पर सीधी भर्ती से नियुक्त कार्मिकों की ज्येष्ठता निर्धारित रहने विषयक लागू नीति के अनुसार उक्त सेवायोजन की तिथि से ज्येष्ठता प्रदान की जायेगी।

8. ए0टी0एल0 में तैनात समूह "ग" तथा "घ" के जिन कर्मचारियों की सेवायें समाप्त की जायेगी उन सभी के नाम सम्बन्धित सेवायोजन कार्यालयों में एक अलग पूल में ए0टी0एल0 में उनकी वरिष्ठता क्रम में, व्यवस्थित किये जायेंगे और सेवायोजकों से मांग प्राप्त होने पर तदनुसार नाम प्रेषित किये जायेंगे।

9. यह नियुक्तियाँ करते समय आरक्षण सम्बन्धी नियमों का अनुपालन किया जायेगा।

10. मितव्ययिता के दृष्टिकोण से 5 प्रतिशत पद रिक्त रखे जाने

सम्बन्धी प्राविधान इन पर लागू न होंगे।

13. The Government Order refers to eligibility and permissibility of absorption of retrenched employees of ATL. Para 1 of the Government Order mentions that only such employees would be eligible for absorption who had been appointed in the service of ATL on or prior to 01.10.1986. This date corresponds to the date mentioned in the definition of retrenched employees contained in 1991 Rules. As per para 2 of the Government Order entitlement of such retrenched employees for appointment in Government service would be determined on the basis of their fitness/utility and the service rules of the concerned department where they are to be appointed would be treated as relaxed for the purposes of such appointment. It refers to 1991 Rules regarding their entitlement for such appointment. Now, the 1991 Rules speak of absorption, therefore, the Government Order dated 11.11.1993 is also to be understood as prescribing the procedure for such absorption which is referable to 1991 Rules. The term 'absorption' is mentioned in Para 3 of the aforesaid Government Order dated 11.11.1993 also. Such absorption was proposed to be made against the post of direct recruitment, obviously so. Para 5 of the said Government Order mentions that from the date of being taken into Government service all the Rules applicable to the Government employees such as GPF, Leave, Pension, etc. would automatically be applicable to such retrenched employees. As per Para 6 of the Government Order, the last pay drawn by such employees in ATL would stand protected and a separate Government Order would be issued in this regard. As per para 7 of the said Government Order, the said retrenched employees on absorption against the post of direct recruitment would be given seniority viz-a-viz the direct recruits from the date of their absorption, meaning thereby, the benefit of past services rendered by them in ATL would not be counted for the purposes of determining their seniority in the Government department. Rules of reservation were also to be applicable while absorbing. There is no dispute between the parties that it is this Government Order which has governed their conditions of absorption.

14. The claim of the petitioner for counting the past services rendered by him in ATL for calculating the qualifying service for purposes of pension on his retirement while working in the Government is a Government Order dated 10.07.1998 and certain judgments of this Court wherein the said benefit has been given.

15. This Government Order dated 10.07.1998 is the only document relied upon by the petitioner in support of his claim and there is no such specific provision in the 1991 Rules, unless, of course, we find that the Government Order dated 10.07.1998 is referable to Rule 3 or even if it is not a notified order in terms thereof we find it to be applicable to the facts of the case just as the Government Order dated 11.11.1993 is applicable. The judgments relied by the petitioner would, of course, be considered by us thereafter, but, first of all we have to consider applicability of Government Order dated 10.07.1998. Government Order dated 10.07.1998 reads as under:

विषय:- राज्य सरकारों के अधीन स्वायत्तशासी निकायों में संविलियन मांगने वाले केन्द्रीय सरकारी तथा केन्द्रीय स्वायत्त निकायों के कर्मचारियों तथा केन्द्रीय

सरकार के तथा केन्द्रीय स्वायत्त निकायों में संविलियन मांगने वाले राज्य सरकार के कर्मचारियों की पेंशन के प्रयोजन से सेवा का गिना जाना।

महोदय,

उपर्युक्त विषय पर मुझे यह कहने का निर्देश हुआ है कि इस राज्य सरकार में यह व्यवस्था विद्यमान है कि केन्द्र सरकार का कर्मचारी राज्य सरकार में सेवा स्थानान्तरण के आधार पर आता है या उन्हीं परिस्थितियों में राज्य सरकार का कर्मचारी भारत सरकार के कार्यालय में जाता है, तो जहाँ से वह सेवानिवृत्त होगा वही सरकार उसके नैवृत्तिक लाभों का भुगतान करेगी। काफी समय से यह मांग की जा रही है कि केन्द्र सरकार के स्वायत्तशासी निकाय का कर्मचारी राज्य सरकार के स्वायत्तशासी निकाय में राज्य सरकार में प्रतिनियुक्ति पर आए या सीधे सेवा ग्रहण करें या उन्हीं परिस्थितियों में केन्द्र सरकार के स्वायत्तशासी निकाय का कर्मचारी भारत सरकार के स्वायत्तशासी निकाय में प्रतिनियुक्ति पर या सीधी भर्ती से जाये तो उसकी सम्पूर्ण सेवा अवधि के आधार पर नैवृत्तिक लाभ दिये जायें। इसके अतिरिक्त राज्य सरकार के अन्तर्गत ही राज्य सरकार का कर्मचारी राज्य सरकार के ऐसे उपक्रम/निगम में स्थानान्तरण/सीधी भर्ती/प्रतिनियुक्ति के आधार पर जाता है या उन्हीं परिस्थितियों में राज्य सरकार के उपक्रम/निगम का कर्मचारी राज्य सरकार में आता है तो प्रश्नगत सुविधा उन्हें भी उपलब्ध करायी जाये।

2- शासन द्वारा सम्यक विचारोपरान्त निम्नलिखित शर्तों के अधीन यह निर्णय लिया गया है कि राज्य सरकार का कर्मचारी भारत सरकार के उपक्रम/निगम में स्थानान्तरण/प्रतिनियुक्ति के आधार पर जाता है और संविलीन हो जाता है या उसी परिस्थिति में भारत सरकार का कर्मचारी राज्य सरकार के उपक्रम/निगम में आता है और संविलीन हो जाता है तो यदि दोनों पद पेंशनेबुल हैं तो उसके द्वारा दोनों पदों पर की गई अर्ह सेवा के योग पर नैवृत्तिक लाभ अनुमन्य होंगे। इसके अतिरिक्त राज्य सरकार के अन्तर्गत ही राज्य सरकार का कर्मचारी राज्य सरकार के उपक्रम/निगम में स्थानान्तरण/सीधी भर्ती/प्रतिनियुक्ति के आधार पर जाता है या राज्य सरकार में आता है, जहाँ राज्य सरकार के संबंधित उपक्रम/निगम में पेंशन की सुविधा उपलब्ध हो एवं संबंधित कर्मचारी का संविलियन सेवानिवृत्त होने वाले उपक्रम/निगम/सरकार में हो गया हो, तो यदि दोनों ही पद पेंशनेबुल हों, तो उसके द्वारा दोनों पदों पर की गई अर्ह सेवा पर नैवृत्तिक लाभ अनुमन्य होंगे और दोनों अवधियों को जोड़कर सेवा नैवृत्तिक लाभों का भुगतान उसी संस्थान/सरकार द्वारा किया जायेगा जहाँ से वह अन्तिम रूप से सेवानिवृत्त हो रहा है। इस प्रकार के मामलों में कर्मचारी पर वही पेंशन

नियम लागू होंगे जैसी कि उस सरकार/उपक्रम/निगम में लागे हों।

(1). जब किसी पेंशनयुक्त संगठन में कार्य कर रहे राज्य सरकार के किसी कर्मचारी को किसी स्वायत्त निकाय में संविलियन की अनुमति दी जाती है तो उसके द्वारा सरकार के अधीन की गयी सेवा को स्वायत्त निकाय के अधीन पेंशन के लिए आगणित कराने की अनुमति होगी चाहे उक्त कर्मचारी सरकार में अस्थायी रहा हो अथवा स्थायी। किन्तु पेंशन संबंधी सुविधायें केवल तभी मिलेंगी जबकि अस्थायी सेवा के बाद उनका स्थायीकरण हो गया हो। यदि वह स्वायत्तशासी निकाय में अस्थायी कर्मचारी के रूप में सेवानिवृत्त हो जाता है तो उसे सेवान्त प्रसुविधायें उसी प्रकार मिलेंगी जो सामान्यतः सरकार के अधीन अस्थायी कर्मचारियों को उपलब्ध हैं। स्वायत्त निकायों के जो कर्मचारी राज्य सरकार के अधीन स्थायी तौर पर संविलीन हो जाते हैं उनके मामलों में भी वही क्रियाविधि लागू होगी।

स्वायत्त निकाय/सरकार में जैसा भी मामला जो संविलियन की तारीख तक की सेवा के लिए अनुपातिक दरों पर पेंशन/सेवा उपादान/सेवान्त उपादान तथा मृत्यु और सेवानिवृत्ति प्रसुविधाओं का भुगतान करके सरकार/स्वायत्त निकाय अपने पेंशन दायित्व को पूरा करेगी। अनुपातिक दरों पर पेंशन की राशि समय-समय पर यथा संशोधित शासनादेशों को ध्यान में रखकर निश्चित की जायेगी।

2. अंशदायी भविष्य निधि प्रसुविधाओं का हकदार कर्मचारी यह विकल्प देगा कि यह या तो स्वायत्तशासी निकाय से मिलने वाली अंशदायी भविष्य निधि प्रसुविधायें प्राप्त करेगा अथवा उसे राज्य सरकार के राजकोष में जमा करेगा और राज्य सरकार में पेंशन के लिए अर्ह सेवा के रूप में गिने जाने का विकल्प देगा। इसी प्रकार से सरकारी सेवक स्वायत्त निकाय की सेवा में योगदान करने पर शासन के अधीन सामान्य भविष्य निधि खाते में जमा धनराशि संबंधित स्वायत्त निकाय को भुगतान कर दी जायेगी। ऐसा विकल्प संविलियन की तारीख से एक वर्ष के भीतर दिया जा सकेगा। यदि निर्धारित अवधि के भीतर विकल्प नहीं दिया जाता है तो यह मान लिया जायेगा कि कर्मचारी ने अंशदायी भविष्य निधि/सामान्य भविष्य निधि प्रसुविधायें प्राप्त करने के लिए विकल्प दे दिया है। एक बार दिया गया विकल्प अन्तिम होगा।

3. जब किसी स्वायत्तशासी निकाय के किसी कर्मचारी को केन्द्रीय सरकार/राज्य सरकार के अधीन स्थायी तौर पर संविलीन कर दिया जाता है तो उसके सामने दो विकल्प रहेंगे अर्थात् या तो यह स्वायत्तशासी निकाय द्वारा देय अंशदायी भविष्य निधि प्रसुविधायें प्राप्त कर लें और सरकार में नये सिरे से नौकरी शुरू करे या अंशदायी भविष्य निधि में नियोक्ता के अंशदान और उस देय ब्याज सहित, सम्पूर्ण राशि राज्य सरकार के खाते में जमा कर दें और सरकार के अधीन पेंशन प्रयोजनों हेतु

अर्ह सेवा के रूप में जुड़वाने का विकल्प दे दे। यह विकल्प संविलियन की तारीख से एक वर्ष के भीतर दिया जायेगा। यदि निर्धारित अवधि के भीतर कोई विकल्प नहीं दिया जाता है तो यह समझ लिया जायेगा कर्मचारी ने अंशदायी भविष्य निधि/ सामान्य भविष्य निधि प्रसुविधायें प्राप्त करने का विकल्प दिया है। एक बाद दिया गया विकल्प अन्तिम होगा।

3. राज्य सरकार के अधीन भारत सरकार द्वारा निर्गत आदेश दिनांक 7-2-1986 से प्रभावी माने जायेंगे।

16. The aforesaid Government Order dated 10.07.1998 was modified/amended vide subsequent Government Order dated 28.12.2001 and it was clarified that Government Order dated 10.07.1998 was applicable to autonomous bodies and term 'undertakings/corporations' was incorrectly mentioned in the Government Order dated 10.07.1998. Accordingly, Government Order dated 10.07.1998 was clarified/modified, meaning thereby, reference to 'undertakings/corporations' therein had to be understood as reference to autonomous bodies. Further, the term 'autonomous bodies' was to mean such bodies which were financially funded entirely or 50% of their expenses was met by the Government and services under such bodies was pensionable. Petitioner claims that ATL was wholly owned by State Government, but, has not proved that his services in ATL were pensionable.

17 On a bare perusal of the subject of the above quoted Government Order, it would be evident that it was supposed to address the demand of Central Government employees and the employees of autonomous bodies under the control of Central Government as also demand of State Government employees seeking absorption in Central Government or autonomous bodies under the control of Central Government for counting their services, however, when we peruse the body of the Government Order, we find, it also deals with such claims of employees of autonomous bodies who may have been absorbed in the State Government.

18. In the said Government Order dated 10.07.1998 there is a caveat for counting of past services rendered in the erstwhile department/autonomous bodies i.e. services in both the establishment should be pensionable only then past services under the autonomous body would be countable for pensionary benefits. In the case at hand though in para 7 of the writ petition a bald assertion has been made that services in ATL were pensionable, but, no documentary proof has been filed in support thereof. In fact, by means of supplementary affidavit dated 22.02.2026, petitioner realizing his incorrect averment in third line of paragraph 7 of the writ petition and 3rd line of Ground (D) of the writ petition has stated as under:

"It is further stated that in the 3rd line of paragraph 7 of the writ petition and 3rd line of ground (D) of the writ petition it has wrongly been stated that the post on which petitioner was working in the erstwhile Auto Tractors Limited was pensionable. The said mistake was not intentional but due to some inadvertence. It is clarified that petitioner's post in the erstwhile Auto Tractors Limited was not pensionable."

19. The order impugned in the writ petition by petitioner's representation claiming counting of past services rendered in ATL for pensionary benefits also says that services in ATL were not pensionable, therefore, Government Order dated 10.07.1998 was not applicable. Same avermment has been made in para 3(a) of counter affidavit of State which has been baldly denied by petitioner in his rejoinder affidavit without any proof in support thereof. Thus, the services of petitioner in ATL were not pensionable.

20. Most important, we find that the Government Order applies to only such employees of autonomous bodies who had come into the service of Government by way of transfer/direct recruitment/deputation and thereafter had been absorbed prior to their retirement. Thus, in order to be covered by the said Government Order dated 10.07.1998, the employee should have come into Government service by way of transfer or direct recruitment or deputation and thereafter should have been absorbed. Unless this condition is fulfilled, the Government Order dated 10.07.1998 would not apply in his case.

21. In the case at hand, the petitioner did not join the service of the Government either by transfer of service or direct recruitment nor did he come on deputation to it. He was a retrenched employee of erstwhile ATL and on this basis he was absorbed.

22. ATL was closed on 20.11.1990 and as absorption of retrenched employee was to be considered, but, there was no provision at that time, therefore, a Cell was created in the Government wherein such employees were allowed to join. Thus, even this engagement from 21.11.1990 to 06.03.1998 was in a Cell separately created for retrenched employees of ATL and it was not as if the petitioner had been appointed in Government service by way of transfer of service or direct recruitment or deputation. While working in the said Cell, before his regularization in Pichhra Varg Kalyan, petitioner was not a member of service in any Department of the Government. It was only an interim arrangement, therefore, the said period was not a substantive service rendered under the Government. The arrangement was made only to facilitate the ultimate absorption of petitioner and other retrenched employees like him.

23. The subsequent absorption of the petitioner in the Directorate of Pichhra Varg Kalyan on 07.03.1998 was in terms of 1991 Rules and the Government Order dated 11.11.1993 referred hereinabove. Both, the 1991 Rules and Government Order 11.11.1993 were in respect of absorption of retrenched employees. They were not in respect of absorption of employees who have joined Government service either on the basis of transfer of service or direct recruitment or deputation. The services of petitioner in ATL were not pensionable whereas Government Order dated 10.07.1998 in cases where services/post in both the establishments were pensionable. The fact that petitioner was absorbed against a post of direct recruitment is not relevant for the purpose of applicability of Government Order dated 10.07.1998. Thus, the petitioner and other retrenched employees of ATL who were absorbed formed a different class viz-a-viz those governed by the Government Orders dated 10.07.1998 and 28.12.2001. The Government Order dated 11.11.1993 itself mentions that absorption was being done on humanitarian consideration. The petitioner was absorbed as a retrenched employee. Thus, on the face of it, the Government Order dated 10.07.1998 does not apply in his case.

24. We have perused the 1991 Rules and there is nothing in the said Rules which may permit counting of past services rendered by the petitioner in ATL for the purposes of calculating his qualifying service for pensionary benefits payable by the Government consequent to his retirement from Government service after absorption therein. We have also perused the Government Order dated 11.11.1993 and we do not find any provision therein permitting the said benefit.

25. Paragraph 7 of the Government Order dated 11.11.1993 also does not permit counting of services rendered by the petitioner in ATL for the purposes of determining his seniority viz-a-viz direct recruits in the absorbed department.

26. Paragraph 5 of the Government Order dated 11.11.1993 merely says that all the Rules applicable to the Government servants would apply to such retrenched employees from the date of their entry into Government service.

27. Now, in this context, we find that the pensionary entitlements of Government servants are regulated by rules known as U.P. Retirement Benefits Rules, 1961 (hereinafter referred as '1961 Rules') and Civil Service Regulations (hereinafter referred as 'CSR') so far as they are not inconsistent with the aforesaid 1961 Rules. These Rules are applicable to all Offices under the rule making power of the Governor other than those who retired before the date of coming into force of the said Rules. Sub-Rule (2) of Rule 2 says that pension provisions contained in CSR shall continue to apply to the Officers governed by these Rules, except so far as they are inconsistent with any of the provisions of these Rules. Rules 3 (8) of 1961 Rules defines the term 'qualifying service', which is to be calculated for the purposes of determination of pensionary benefits and it reads as under:

"3 (8) Qualifying service means service which qualifies for pension in accordance with the provisions of Article 368 of the Civil Services Regulations:

Provided that continuous temporary or officiating service under the Government of Uttar Pradesh followed without interruption by confirmation in the same or any other post except

(i) periods of temporary or officiating service in a non-pensionable establishment;

(ii) periods of service in a work-charged establishment; and

(iii) periods of service in a post paid from contingencies shall also count as qualifying service.

Note. If service rendered in a non-pensionable establishment work-charged establishment or in a post paid from contingencies falls between two periods of temporary service in a pensionable establishment or between a period of temporary service and permanent service in a pensionable establishment, it will not constitute an interruption of service."

Regulation 368 of the CSR reads as under:

"368. Service does not qualify unless the officer holds a substantive office on a permanent establishment."

28. The proviso to Rule 3(8) clearly mentions inter alia that service under the Government shall count as qualifying service. We may in this context refer to Regulation 361 which reads as under:

"361. The service of an officer does not qualify for pension unless it conforms to the following three conditions-

First-The service must be under Government.

Second-The employment must be substantive and permanent.

Third-The service must be paid by Government.

These three conditions are fully explained in the following section."

29. All the above quoted three conditions are required to be satisfied. Thus, as per the aforesaid provision of the CSR also, service of an Officer would qualify for pension only if the service is under the Government and it is paid by the Government, apart from the fact that employment must be substantive and permanent. The services rendered by the petitioner in ATL was not a service under the Government nor was it paid by the Government and there is nothing on record to establish otherwise. The ATL was a Government company having separate entity as a Government company incorporated under the Companies Act, 1956. Thus, as per pensionary Rules applicable in the Government as the service had to be under the Government and also paid by the Government, to qualify for pensionary benefits, which was not so in the case of petitioner, therefore, in view of these Rules also, it cannot be counted for the aforesaid purpose.

30. The amendment in the 'qualifying service' defined in Rule 3(8) of the Rules 1961 by the U.P. Qualifying Service for Pension and Validation Act, 2021 does not change the legal position so far as the questions before us are concerned. Thus, Rules of the Government applicable in this regard also do not support the claim of the petitioner for counting of services rendered in the ATL for purposes of grant of pensionary benefits by the Government.

31. We, thus, do not find any provision in the Rules or any Government Order referable to the 1991 Rules which could entitle a retrenched employee of ATL for counting of his services rendered in the said concern for grant of pensionary benefits by the Government.

32. We may at this very stage refer to a Division Bench judgment of this Court dated 06.10.2016 rendered in Writ A 49126 of 2016 (Pooran Singh Manral and another vs. State of U.P. and others) wherein a similar view has been taken and which we find as laying down the law correctly on the subject, although it was in the context of a claim by an employee of another Corporation absorbed in another department, but, in the said case also a Government Order on the same lines as the Government Order dated 11.11.1993 and the same Rules 1991 were considered.

33. The 1991 Rules were subsequently rescinded by the Retrenched Employees of Government or Public Corporations in Government Service (Rescission of Rules), 2003. By the said Rules, the 1991 Rules were rescinded w.e.f. 08.04.2003. Only two things were protected; one is the benefit of absorption already granted and secondly; the last pay protection in this very context. All Government Orders referable to Rule 3 were also annulled w.e.f 08.04.2003 subject, of course, to the benefit already granted. In addition to it, those retrenched employees whose services had not been absorbed till promulgation of the said Rules i.e. till 08.04.2003, they were given relaxation in age for the purposes of recruitment on Group 'C' and 'D' posts outside the purview of U.P. Public Service Commission. Subsequently, a legislative enactment known as Retrenched Employees of Government or Public Corporations in Government Service (Rescission of Rules) Act, 2009 was promulgated by which the 1991 Rules were rescinded w.e.f. 09.05.1991 i.e. from the very date they were promulgated. This enactment, thus, gave retrospective effect to the rescission of Rules 1991 from 09.05.1991. While rescinding the said Rules with retrospective effect from 09.05.1991 again two things were protected, one the benefit of absorption already granted prior to 08.04.2003 and secondly; the last pay drawn by such retrenched employee who had been absorbed. In addition, it was provided that those retrenched employees who had not been absorbed till 08.04.2003, they would be given relaxation in upper age limit for direct recruitment to such Group 'C' and 'D' posts which are outside the purview of U.P. Public Service Commission to the extent he has rendered his continuous service in substantive capacity in the concern Government department or Public Corporations/Companies. Thus, these Rules of 2003 and 2009 also do not provide for counting of past services rendered by the retrenched employees of ATL, after their absorption in a Government service for pensionary benefits.

34. Now, coming to the decisions on the subject and conflicting opinions expressed by different Division Benches of this Court.

35. So far as judgment dated 04.04.2012 passed in the case of Hridayesh Dayal Srivastava vs. State of U.P. and others (Writ Petition No. 410 (SB) of 2010) is concerned, the question no. 2 which we have framed was not at all involved therein nor was it argued nor considered. The only question involved therein was counting of past services for the purposes of pay protection and, as, the Government Order dated 11.11.1993 itself protected the last pay drawn, therefore, there could be no qualm about the claim raised in Hridayesh Dayal Srivastava (supra), but, the said judgment cannot be understood as laying down any precedent so far as the question before us is concerned. Even otherwise in view of the enunciation of law by us hereinabove, any opinion expressed therein contrary to it is not good law.

36. There is one aspect which we need to consider in this context and that is reliance placed by the Division Bench in Hridayesh Dayal Srivastava (supra) upon the stand of the State Government in an SLP filed by the latter against the judgment rendered in the earlier petition filed by Hridayesh Dayal Srivastava. The stand of the State Government before the Supreme Court was only with regard to prior services of retrenched employees being liable to be counted for purposes of fixation of their pay scale in another employment and there was no such averment before the Supreme Court that it was liable to be counted for pensionary benefits, therefore, the Division Bench in Hridayesh Dayal Srivastava (supra) erred by misreading the said stand basing its judgment upon it for the purposes of counting of said services for other benefits also, even if, cryptically. The said judgment, therefore, does not entitle the employees retrenched under the 1991 Rules to benefit of past services for purposes of pensionary benefits.

37. An SLP bearing No. CC NO. 22538-22539 of 2015 against the judgment in Hridayesh Dayal Srivastava (supra) was preferred by the State Government and the same was dismissed in limine on 22.01.2016 leaving the question of law open, therefore, this dismissal of SLP also does not persuade us to answer the reference in any other manner as the question of law was left open which has now been considered by us.

38. As regards Division Bench judgment dated 26.04.2013 passed in Keshav Ram Pandey vs. State of U.P. and others (Writ Petition No. 65 (SB) of 2011), it merely relied upon the decision rendered in Hridayesh Dayal Srivastava (supra) and did not itself consider the relevant Rules and the Government Orders, therefore, it does not lay down any principle of law and is of no precedentiary value. Even otherwise being contrary to law enunciated by us it cannot be termed as a good law or a binding precedent. The fact that the SLP against the said judgment in Keshav Ram Pandey (supra) was dismissed in limine also does not change the legal situation.

39. As regards Division Bench judgment dated 25.10.2016 passed in State of U.P. and 2 Others vs. Shankatha Prasad Misrha (Special Appeal Defective No. 645 of 2016) the fact that the SLP against the said judgment of Shankatha Prasad Mishra (supra) was dismissed in limine also does not change the legal position as discussed by us hereinabove as it does not amount to affirmation of the judgment rendered in Shankatha Prasad Mishra (supra). In view of the legal enunciation by us hereinabove, the said judgment does not lay down the law correctly and is based on misreading of Government Order dated 11.11.1993. It is, therefore, not a good law. On the same date i.e., 25.10.2016, the same Division Bench decided another case of State of U.P. and others vs Amar Pal Singh (Special Appeal Defective No. 646 of 2016) giving the same reasons, therefore, it is also not good law.

40. As regards another judgment dated 13.02.2018 rendered by a Division Bench in Narendra Narain Mishra vs. State of U.P. and others, we find that even in the said judgment it has been held that Government Order dated 10.07.1998 is not applicable, however, for other reasons, the petition was allowed, but, in view of the clarification of law on the subject by us the said judgment does not lay down the law correctly on other issues except the non-applicability of Government Order dated 10.07.1998 and to this extent it is not good law.

41. As regards judgment dated 06.11.2017 passed in State of U.P. and others vs. Mirtunjay Pratap Singh (Special Appeal No. 121 of 2015) by a Division Bench also does not consider relevant aspects of the matter as discussed by us hereinabove, but, merely refers to earlier judgments passed by the Coordinate Benches and accordingly the benefit of past services for pensionary benefits was granted. In view of what has already been discussed hereinabove, apart from the fact that it does not contain any discussion on relevant aspects, it cannot be treated as laying down correct law.

42. In the case of State of U.P. and others vs. Ram Shanker Gupta (Special Appeal Defective No. 553 of 2015) a Division Bench of this Court vide judgment and order dated 27.11.2015 considered the provisions of the 1991 Rules and clearly opined that the said Rules do not contain any such provision as to calculate the period of service of the retrenched employee rendered in the erstwhile department for the purposes of pensionary benefits, therefore, in the absence of any specific provision in the Rules, it was of the view that no such benefit can be provided by the Court. It accordingly declined the relief sought by the respondent before it to calculate his previous services rendered in Auto Tractors Limited, Pratapgarh from 01.10.1980 to 20.11.1990 for pensionary benefits and it accordingly modified the judgment of learned Single Judge to this extent.

43. The fact that in the said judgment another judgment of Coordinate Bench rendered in the case of State of U.P. and others vs. Sunil Kumar Verma and others; 2010 (10) ADJ 125 (DB) was referred which was set aside by the Supreme Court vide decision reported in (2016) 1 SCC 397 Sunil Kumar Verma and others vs. State of U.P. and others, as claimed by the petitioner's counsel, does not have much relevance in view of the fact that the issue involved therein was with regard to right of absorption after coming into force of Rules 2003 and 2009 whereas the questions before us are different. No doubt, in the said judgment in Ram Shanker Gupta (supra) the Government Orders dated 11.11.1993 and 10.07.1998 were not considered, but, this non-consideration does not affect the opinion expressed therein as it is in consonance with what we have held hereinabove.

44. It was also the contention of petitioner's counsel that other retrenched employees of ATL have been given the benefit of past services in other department i.e. departments other than those where the petitioner had been absorbed, therefore, it would be highly unjust and unreasonable to deny the petitioner the said benefit. We are not persuaded by this argument as we have explained the law on the subject. It is well settled that merely because somebody-else has been incorrectly granted the benefit, it cannot be made a ground for claiming similar benefit. There is no question of parity in illegality. We may in this regard refer to the decision of Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of R. Muthukumar and others vs. The Chairman and Managing Director Tangedco and others; 2022 SCC OnLine SC 151. It is for the State Government to find out as to how such benefits were extended to others, if at all they were extended.

45. In view of the above discussion, we answer the questions rephrased/ reframed by us as under:

(i) The Division Bench judgments in the cases of Shankatha Prasad Mishra (surpa); Hridayesh Dayal Srivastava (surpa); Mirtuyanjay Prasad Singh (surpa); Keshav Ram Pandey (supra) and State of U.P. and others versus Amar Pal Singh do not lay down the law correctly on the question of counting of past services rendered by retrenched employees of ATL who have been subsequently absorbed in Government service, for the purposes of qualifying service for calculation of retiral dues payable by the State Government. They are not good law.

(ii) Retrenched employees of ATL such as the petitioner who got absorbed in the Government service subsequently as per the Rules known as Uttar Pradesh Absorption of Retrenched Employees of Government or Public Corporations in Government Service Rules, 1991 are not entitled to count their previous services rendered by them under the erstwhile employer i.e., Auto Tractors Limited for computation of qualifying service for purposes of retirement benefits under the U.P. Retirement Benefits Rules 1961 and other ancillary rules and Government Orders in this regard as also the Government Order dated 11.1.1993 and in fact the Government Order dated 10.07.1998 as modified on 28.12.2001 is not applicable to such employees.

(iii) The Division Bench judgment in the case of Ram Shanker Gupta (supra) is in conflict with the earlier decisions by Coordinate Benches in the cases of Shankatha Prasad Mishra (surpa); Hridayesh Dayal Srivastava (surpa); Mirtuyanjan Prasad Singh (surpa); Keshav Ram Pandey (supra) and State of U.P. and others versus Amar Pal Singh. It is the decision in Ram Shanker Gupta (supra) which lays down the law correctly and for the reasons already discussed, the other decisions do not lay down the law correctly

46. Reference is answered accordingly.

47. Ordinarily after answering the questions before us, we remit the matter back to the writ Court, but, it would be a futile exercise in the facts of this case, as nothing survives for further adjudication by the writ Court. The very basis of the claim of petitioner having been found to be non-existent on facts as also in law, we do not see as to why we should send the matter back to the writ Court for passing final orders. In our view, as all the issues have already been decided by us, we dismiss the writ petition.

(Paras 20, 21, 23, 26 and 27)

HELD:

Now insofar as the above observation of the District Judge, Varanasi in regard to direction being issued for carrying out scientific investigation is concerned, it is admitted fact that before passing the order (14.10.2022), due diligence was not exercised by the District Judge, Varanasi for the specific reason that the finding reached by the District Judge, Varanasi regarding damage being caused to the structure in issue is assumptive and presumptive and the same is not based upon any relevant material on record as such not supported by record. If the trial Judge had any apprehension of damage being caused to the site in case scientific investigation of the site is directed in that event it was obligatory on his part to have sought expert opinion of the persons well versed in carrying out such type of enterprises like the present one. The learned trial Judge, without collecting specific data / material from the able agency jumped upon the conclusion that scientific investigation of the site / Shivlingam if directed to be done will in all probability result in destruction of the site / Shivlingam itself. (Para 20)

This Court has no hesitation in observing that the report forwarded by the Superintending Archaeologist, ASI Sarnath Circle, Sarnath, Varanasi, would make it feasible and convenient that scientific investigation can be made to the extent and purport without causing harm to the site / Shivlingam in issue. That way, the natural premise that would follow, would proceed on theme that the actual site of the Shivlingam would remain preserved and protected. It being a factual reality, the technical and scientific report of the Archaeological Survey of India has opened ways for carrying out scientific investigation of the site / Shivlingam without causing any damage to the structure in question. (Para 21)

For the reasons aforesaid, the order impugned dated 14.10.2022 passed by the District Judge, Varanasi is found to be without merit, for the reason that the finding to the import that any scientific investigation would have impact of causing harm to the structure is a finding not supported by the relevant material on record. (Para 23)

It is trite law that any finding recorded by a court of law must be supported by relevant material on record, whereas, any finding recorded by a court of law on the strength of reasoning alone minus relevant material on record would be on the face arbitrary and erroneous (finding). Therefore, the aforesaid finding of the District Judge, Varanasi, recorded vide order dated 14.10.2022 being erroneous cannot be sustained. (Para 24)

It is directed that the trial Judge / District Judge, Varanasi will proceed further with the case and scientific investigation of the site / Shivlingam shall be directed to be done under aegis and guidance of the Archaeological Survey of India to the extent and import as observed hereinabove in this order and the entire exercise shall be done under direction and supervision of the trial court and all consequential necessary directions shall be passed / issued in that regard by it. (Para 27)

Revision allowed. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arvind Kumar Mishra-I, J.)

1. Pursuant to the order of this Court dated 04.11.2022, Director General, Archaeological Survey of India, New Delhi was directed for expressing opinion on the point whether scientific investigation of the 'structure' found at the site - subject matter of original suit no.18 of 2022, can be done through the method of carbon dating, ground penetrating radar (GPR), excavation and other scientific methods to be adopted to determine its age, nature and other relevant information without causing damage to it?

2. In that regard, the report has been submitted by the learned Additional Solicitor General of India – Sri Shashi Prakash Singh assisted by learned counsel Sri Manoj Kumar Singh.

3. Noticeable that the aforesaid report was produced in a sealed envelope by the Additional Solicitor General of India for perusal of the Court on 11.05.2023 whereupon the sealed envelope was opened in Court and copy of the report was sought to be made available to the counsel for the revisionists as well as the contesting respondents whereupon the copy was supplied to them so that the parties may come to know about the substance and contents of the report submitted by the Archaeological Survey of India, Sarnath Circle, Sarnath, Varanasi. At this juncture this was considered appropriate to give at least one day time to both the sides to peruse the copy of the report and to state their respective stand so that the matter may be finally considered for disposal and the proceeding of this case was adjourned for the next following day i.e. 12.05.2023.

4. This Court carefully perused the original report which has been submitted to this Court by the covering letter of the Superintending Archaeologist, ASI, Sarnath Circle, Sarnath, Varanasi, dated 17.04.2023, thus communicating to this Court about the report which runs in as many as 52 pages and the learned Additional Solicitor General of India explained the various contents and aspects of this report - as submitted.

5. The learned Additional Solicitor General described the report by summing up that the opinion of the Archaeological Survey of India is based upon views/opinions of various renowned IITs (Indian Institutes of Technology) located in various regions of India, also about the scientific analysis of various methods and approach likely to be adopted for carrying out survey of the structure in question on the site.

6. Heard Sri Hari Shanker Jain, learned Senior Advocate, through virtual-mode, assisted by Sri Vishnu Shanker Jain, Sri Prabhash Pandey, Sri Pradeep Kumar Sharma, learned Counsel for the revisionists through hybrid mode, Sri Shashi Prakash Singh, Additional Solicitor General of India, assisted by Sri Manoj Kumar Singh, Advocate appearing for Archaeological Survey of India, Sri Mahesh Chandra Chaturvedi, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri Bipin Bihari Pandey, learned Chief Standing Counsel, Sri Ramanjay Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, Sri Ankit Gaur, Sri Shravan Kumar Dubey, Sri Gyanendra Singh, Sri Hare Ram Tripathi, learned Standing Counsel for the respondent nos. 1,2 and 3. Sri Syed Farman Ahmad Naqvi, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Syed Ahmed Faizan, learned counsel for the respondent no.4, Sri. Vineet Sankalp, learned counsel for the respondent No.5. No one appears on behalf of the respondent no.6 in spite of repeated calls, also perused the record as available.

7. By way of the instant revision, challenge has been made to the impugned order dated 14.10.2022 passed by the trial Judge / District Judge, Varanasi, in Original Suit No.18 of 2022 Rakhi Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others, whereby the application numbered 250 C moved by the plaintiff-revisionist and objection 255 C and 262 C were considered and the application aforesaid was dismissed by observation that the prayer made for scientific investigation of the structure (in the shape of Shivlingam) cannot be ordered as that would be in violation of the order dated 17.05.2022 passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court directing the site / Shivlingum to be preserved and protected. The trial court also observed that in view of above, there is no need for calling any report from the Archaeological Survey of India.

8. Learned counsel for the revisionists has vociferously claimed that the entire report on the point in issue for scientific investigation of the site by the Archaeological Survey of India when taken into consideration would reflect connotation, expressed and implied, that scientific survey of the site / Shivlingam can be managed and done without causing harm to the site in question. In support of his claim, learned counsel has engaged attention of this Court to the various pages of the aforesaid report to be specific page nos.1, 6, 8, 17, 18, 19, 21 and claimed that opinion / report submitted by the Archaeological Survey of India comes out with all the options available for conducting scientific survey of the site with possible outcome of the scientific investigation and it elaborates those methods by adopting which some data regarding age of the site / carbon dating of the site can be done without causing damage to the site and he proceeded to conclude that opinion submitted by the scientists from the various IITs is based upon scientific analysis of the 'modus operandi' to be applied in this case. Learned counsel also suggested that those methods by adopting which site might be damaged may be discarded and the one which helps in carrying out scientific investigation / survey of the site without damaging it should be adhered to and given green signal by this Court so that actual age of the Shivlingam / site may be ascertained.

9. At the very outset, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the respondent no.4

has raised preliminary objection regarding the proceeding of this Court in view of the order dated 17.05.2022 passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court. Learned Senior Counsel has read out the directions of the Hon'ble Apex Court that the structure in issue is required to be protected/preserved, therefore, it cannot be disturbed and any order passed for carrying out survey or scientific investigation of the site would be violative of the aforesaid order.

10. Learned counsel for the revisionists intervened and in reply to the aforesaid contention, submitted that insofar as the order dated 17.05.2022 passed by Hon'ble Apex Court is concerned that would not deter this Court from considering the aspect of the scientific investigation to be done in the manner that it is done without causing damage to the site in question and the site remains protected and preserved.

11. In support of his submission, Sri Vishnu Shanker Jain, learned counsel for the revisionists engaged attention of this Court to the very order dated 20.05.2022 passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court and read out the same in its entirety and claimed that in the order itself, the Hon'ble Apex Court has directed the trial Judge / District Judge, Varanasi to proceed with the trial touching upon ancillary matter. It is noticeable that during course of proceeding of this suit in question, application 250 C was moved (by the plaintiff-revisionist) calling for carrying out scientific investigation of the site which was considered more on technical grounds than on merits and perfunctorily rejected the application under garb of the aforesaid order dated 17.05.2022 that the site / Shivlingam has been directed to be protected and preserved, therefore, the trial Judge was of the opinion that there is no need for calling any report on the point under consideration from the the Archaeological Survey of India for determining the age, nature and structure of the Shivlingam. He repeated his claim that conduction of the scientific investigation for determination of the age of the site in question would not in all probability damage and destroy the site / Shivlingam and would not change its nature as existing on date.

12. At this stage, Mr. Syed Farman Ahmad Naqvi, learned Senior Counsel for the respondent no.4 was posed specific query as to whether the report of the Archaeological Survey of India as submitted by the learned Additional Solicitor General of India, inescapably connotes to the import that order for any scientific investigation of the site / Shivlingam if made, would have the effect of destroying the site itself then learned Senior Counsel tried to hammer on certain points by reading out contents of page no.4 of the aforesaid report. However, he was intercepted by the learned counsel for the revisionists by clarifying the factual situation by reading out the contents of page nos.6 and 8 of the aforesaid report, which gesture was ostensibly not opposed by the learned Senior Counsel for the respondent no.4. It may be observed that the learned Senior Counsel for the respondent no.4 drew blank on the point of specific query by this Court that any sort of scientific investigation will in all probability cause damage to the structure.

13. As the Court proceeded further and asked the learned Additional Solicitor

General of India, Sri Shashi Prakash Singh assisted by Sri Manoj Kumar Singh to express his views about the express and implied connotations emerging from the aforesaid report by the Archaeological Survey of India whereupon he elaborated various details of the report and brought to the notice of this Court that the ground penetrating radar technique / method will be helpful towards identifying the remains of the ancient structures buried if any at the site and he proceeded to explain that as per advice and various opinions subsurface stratigraphic section would be ideal to study the different culture level at the site. He claimed that IIT Kanpur has specific suggestion on the point in that regard. After lot of discussion on the various methods suggested in the report of the Archaeological Survey of India, the learned Additional Solicitor General suggested that scientific investigation of the site can be ably done without causing harm to the Shivlingam / site. He was innocuous on point while claiming that a cumulative reading of the report submitted by the Archaeological Survey of India does not make it a point that any scientific investigation of the Shivlingam / site, if carried out, would damage it.

14. Learned Additional Advocate General, Sri Mahesh Chandra Chaturvedi, appearing for the State also dittoed the line of argument and suggestion advanced by the Additional Solicitor General of India and claimed that there is nothing in the entire report which may cause damage to the Shivlingam / site if scientific investigation of the site is directed to be done. Therefore, to claim that the nature of the property of the site / Shivlingam would not be protected / preserved in case of scientific investigation is baseless argument without any rationale.

15. In the wake of the above discussed rival contentions and the fact position in the light of the report of the Archaeological Survey of India as submitted by the Additional Solicitor General of India, the solitary issue that crops up for consideration of this Court pertains to fact whether scientific investigation of the site / Shivlingam, without harming and damaging the site / Shivlingam, can be directed or not?

16. While proceeding in the matter and viewing the things from that angle, the overall impression that trickles out from the careful perusal of the report of the Archaeological Survey of India indicates, to all intents and purposes, that scientific investigation of the site can be suitably carried out without causing harm to the site / Shivlingam in issue as such it can be concluded that the Shivlingam / site would remain preserved and protected even after the scientific investigation for determining the age, nature and status of the site / Shivlingam is done. The various reports of the scientific institutions do indicate to the same purport that scientific investigation can be carried out without causing harm to the site / Shivlingam. Since the entire report submitted by the Archaeological Survey of India has been made part of the record of this case, there is no need of describing the various extracts of these reports / opinion contained in the report itself.

17. In view of above discussion, natural conclusion emerges that scientific investigation of the Shivlingam / site, under able guidance of the Archaeological Survey of India assisted by the experts, scientists, archaeologist, can be done conveniently subject to the rider that the site / Shivlingam in question shall not be damaged and it shall be preserved and protected in its present shape.

18. At this juncture, proper scrutiny of the impugned order dated 14.10.2022 passed by the District Judge, Varanasi need be done both on legal as well as factual aspects.

19. Bare perusal of the order impugned dated 14.10.2022 passed by the District Judge, Varanasi reveals that an application numbered 250 C was moved by the plaintiff-revisionists under Order 26 Rule 10 A read with 151 Civil Procedure Code, 1908 was moved with the prayer that the nature, age and status of the Shivlingam discovered on the site on 16.05.2022 in the survey done by Advocate Commissioner (of the site) be directed to be scientifically investigated by the Archaeological Survey of India by resorting to scientific techniques and technique for carbon dating. The contents of the order impugned proceeds further with the elaboration of the background of the original suit no.18 of 2022 and takes note of fact that some structure in the shape of Shivlingam was found by the Advocate Commissioner while survey of the site was made and a detailed discussion regarding nature and age of the substance of the Shivlingam was exhaustively taken into consideration by the trial Judge. Apart from that, objection 255 C filed by the defendant side was also taken into consideration and contents thereof discussed. After discussing factual aspect of the case, the trial Judge was of the view that the Hon'ble Apex Court vide its order dated 17.05.2022 has directed that the Shivlingam that was found on the spot in the survey commission should be protected and preserved and in case any direction for using carbon dating technique or ground penetrating radar is made there is possibility of causing harm to the Shivlingam itself and that would be in derogation of the order dated 17.05.2022 passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court. Apart from that, it would adversely affect religious feeling of the masses at large. Therefore, the prayer made in the aforesaid application by the plaintiff- revisionist was disallowed. Consequently the application numbered 250 C was rejected.

20. Now insofar as the above observation of the District Judge, Varanasi in regard to direction being issued for carrying out scientific investigation is concerned, it is admitted fact that before passing the order (14.10.2022), due diligence was not exercised by the District Judge, Varanasi for the specific reason that the finding reached by the District Judge, Varanasi regarding damage being caused to the structure in issue is assumptive and presumptive and the same is not based upon any relevant material on record as such not supported by record. If the trial Judge had any apprehension of damage being caused to the site in case scientific investigation of the site is directed in that event it was obligatory on his part to have sought expert opinion of the persons well versed in carrying out such type of enterprises like the present one. The learned trial Judge, without collecting specific data / material from the able agency jumped upon the conclusion that scientific investigation of the site / Shivlingam if directed to be done will in all probability result in destruction of the site / Shivlingam itself.

21. This Court has no hesitation in observing that the report forwarded by the Superintending Archaeologist, ASI Sarnath Circle, Sarnath, Varanasi, would make it feasible and convenient that scientific investigation can be made to the extent and purport without causing harm to the site / Shivlingam in issue. That way, the natural premise that would follow, would proceed on theme that the actual site of the Shivlingam would remain preserved and protected. It being a factual reality, the technical and scientific report of the Archaeological Survey of India has opened ways for carrying out scientific investigation of the site / Shivlingam without causing any damage to the structure in question.

22. It being civil revision against the order impugned dated 14.10.2022 passed by the District Judge, Varanasi, merits of the original suit is not to be touched by this Court.

23. For the reasons aforesaid, the order impugned dated 14.10.2022 passed by the District Judge, Varanasi is found to be without merit, for the reason that the finding to the import that any scientific investigation would have impact of causing harm to the structure is a finding not supported by the relevant material on record.

24. It is trite law that any finding recorded by a court of law must be supported by relevant material on record, whereas, any finding recorded by a court of law on the strength of reasoning alone minus relevant material on record would be on the face arbitrary and erroneous (finding). Therefore, the aforesaid finding of the District Judge, Varanasi, recorded vide order dated 14.10.2022 being erroneous cannot be sustained.

25. Consequently the order impugned dated 14.10.2022 passed by the District Judge, Varanasi, in Original Suit No.18 of 2022 Rakhi Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others is hereby set aside.

26. Therefore, the application numbered 250 C moved by the plaintiff-revisionist before the trial Judge is allowed to the effect and import that scientific investigation of the site / Shivlingam shall be carried out without causing damage to the site / Shivlingam and it shall be preserved in its present form. All objections moved against the aforesaid application 250 C is hereby disallowed.

27. It is directed that the trial Judge / District Judge, Varanasi will proceed further with the case and scientific investigation of the site / Shivlingam shall be directed to be done under aegis and guidance of the Archaeological Survey of India to the extent and import as observed hereinabove in this order and the entire exercise shall be done under direction and supervision of the trial court and all consequential necessary directions shall be passed / issued in that regard by it.

28. In order to facilitate further course of action by the trial court of Varanasi pertaining to original suit no.18 of 2022 Rakhi Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others, learned Additional Solicitor General of India is directed to issue suitable directions to the concerned authority of the Archaeological Survey of India to appear before the trial Judge / District Judge, Varanasi on 22.05.2023, and the authority so present would after seeking suitable direction from the court of the District Judge, Varanasi, will render assistance to the trial Judge and will do the needful for carrying out the scientific investigation of the structure in the light of the observations made in this order. Both the parties present before this Court have also been apprised of this specific date and all have agreed to abide by it. Therefore, the parties are required to appear before the trial court on 22.05.2023.

29. In order to ensure proper scientific investigation as directed, let a copy of the entire report of the Archaeological Survey of India be transmitted forthwith to the trial Judge / District Judge, Varanasi. It is made clear that this report of the Archaeological Survey of India which runs in as many as 52 pages forwarded by Superintending Archaeologist, ASI Sarnath Circle Sarnath, Varanasi, would form part/record of the suit.

30. This revision is allowed in terms aforesaid.

31. Before parting with the judgment, this Court records high appreciation for the valuable assistance extended by the Additional Solicitor General of India, Sri Shashi Prakash Singh, assisted by Sri Manoj Kumar Singh appearing for ASI who took pains in elaborating the various contents of the report of the Archaeological Survey of India, thus assisting the Court to a great extent in disposal of this case. Likewise, this Court accords appreciation for the services rendered by the learned Additional Advocate General, Sri Mahesh Chandra Chaturvedi – State of U.P.- and learned Chief Standing Counsel – Sri Bipin Bihari Pandey – in disposal of this case. Learned Senior Counsel for the respondent no.4 Mr. Syed Farman Ahmad Naqvi and his assisting counsel also deserve appreciation for rendering useful help to this Court in disposal of this case.

32. Let a copy of this order be transmitted to the trial Judge/District Judge, Varanasi, forthwith for ensuring compliance as above.

33. Costs easy.

Civil Law – Order rejecting defendant-revisionist's application for leave to defend in a summary suit- under challenge- Civil Revision- Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Summary suit under

Order XXXVII of the Code- Rules 2 and 3 of Order XXXVII of Code-Course of summary suit after service of summons-Rule 3(5) provides the manner in which the leave to defend is to be granted-Leave to defend cannot be sought by the defendant at the stage when he enters appearance in response to summons-next step must be taken by plaintiff-obtain summons for judgement-hence, defendant's application for leave to defend was premature-order of learned trial judge rejecting the application for leave to defend on merits-ought to be substituted by an order rejecting that application as premature-application for leave to defend to be considered again-revision allowed. (Paras 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13)

HELD:

A reading of Rule 3 of Order XXXVII of the Code shows that once the defendant enters appearance in response to the summons issued in Form 4 of Appendix B to the Code, notice of appearance is to be given by the defendant to the plaintiff's Counsel, or if the plaintiff appears in person, to the plaintiff himself, either by notice delivered at or sent by a prepaid letter, directed to the address of the plaintiff's pleader or the plaintiff, as the case may be. Sub-rule (4) of Rule 3 of Order XXXVII of the Code postulates that after the defendant enters appearance, the plaintiff is obliged to serve on the defendant, summons for judgment in Form 4A set out in Appendix B to the Code. The summons for judgement are to be made returnable, not less than ten days from the date of service. The summons for judgment are required to be supported by affidavit, verifying the cause of action and the amount claimed to be due from the defendant. The statute also requires the plaintiff to St.that in his belief, there is no defence to the suit. It is upon service of the said summons for judgment that within the time period of ten days, the defendant can apply for leave to defend the suit. Sub-rule(5) of Rule 3 postulates that the leave prayed by the defendant to be granted by the Court is unconditional or upon such terms as the Court may consider just. The two provisos appended to sub-rule (5) are further guidance in the matter to the Court how leave is to be granted and subject to what conditions. Those provisos are not the subject matter of consideration in this revision. (Para 8)

The crux of the issue here appears to be that the learned Trial Judge refused the application for leave to defend, made by the defendant at a time when the stage for that kind of an application had not yet arrived. This is so because the plaintiff had not taken out any summons for judgment. A reading of sub-rule (4) and sub-rule (5) of Rule 3 of Order XXXVII of the Code makes it evident that an application for leave to defend can be made by a defendant only when the plaintiff takes out summons for judgement, complying with the conditions of sub-rule (4) of Rule 3 of Order XXXVII of the Code. It brooks little doubt that leave to defend cannot be sought by the defendant at the stage when he enters appearance in response to the summon for appearance. The next step is to be taken by the plaintiff by obtaining summons for judgment. It is, thereafter, that the defendant may, within the time permissible and in the manner prescribed, apply for leave to defend. Therefore, in this case the defendant's application for leave to defend was premature. (Para 9)

The learned Trial Judge in refusing leave to defend, acted without jurisdiction. If at all an application for leave to defend had been made at that stage by the defendant, it ought to have been dismissed as premature, rather than on merits, as done in the present case. (Para 10)

In the opinion of this Court, therefore, the impugned order of the learned Trial Judge, to the extent that she has proceeded to reject the application for leave to defend the suit on merits, is not sustainable. In the opinion of this Court, the order of the learned Trial Judge rejecting the application for leave to defend on merits, ought to be substituted by an order rejecting that application as premature. (Para 13)

Revision allowed. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

This civil revision is directed against an order of Ms. Diksha Shree, learned Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division)-03, Allahabad dated 21.11.2022 rejecting the defendant-revisionist's application for leave to defend in a summary suit.

2. Heard Mr. Ashok Kumar Upadhyay, learned Counsel appearing for the revisionist and Mr. Tej Bhan Singh, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the plaintiff-respondent.

3. The summary suit here instituted under Order XXXVII of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (for short, 'the Code') is one to recover money due on several cheques, said to have been issued by the defendant in the plaintiff's favour, that were dishonoured on presentation. The summary suit was instituted on 13.09.2022. On 14.09.2022, summons in Form 4 of Appendix B to the Code were issued to the defendant for appearance. The summons were made returnable on 29.09.2022.

4. A perusal of the order sheet shows that on 29.09.2022, the Presiding Officer was not available because she was away on training. On the next date, i.e. 10.10.2022, the Presiding Officer was on leave. On 17.10.2022, the plaintiff filed a copy of the postal track along with an affidavit, showing that the defendant had been served on 23.09.2022 with the summons. The suit was directed to come up on 29.10.2022 vide order dated 17.10.2022. Vide order dated 29.10.2022, service upon the defendant was held sufficient and the suit was adjourned to 07.11.2022. Later on, on 29.10.2022, the defendant put in appearance through Counsel and moved an application bearing paper no. 11C, saying that the learned Counsel had got information from his client over telephone, instructing him in the present suit. The learned Counsel urged that he needs a copy of the plaint, so that he can file a reply. The suit was then adjourned to 01.11.2022 by the subsequent order that was passed on 29.10.2022. On 01.11.2022, the defendant moved an application marked as paper no. 12C along with an affidavit 13C, to which was attached a vakalatnama from the defendant, authorizing the learned Counsel to appear and defend. The application 12C sought leave to defend the suit. The grounds on which leave was sought were mentioned in the accompanying affidavit paper no. 13C. The affidavit largely disclosed for grounds the fact that the defendant was undergoing treatment at the District Hospital, Mau and advised bed rest. Some papers relating to the treatment were enclosed with the affidavit. The defendant denied the service of summons at his address and said that after coming to know about the institution of this suit, he had informed his learned Counsel, on the basis of which the learned Counsel had moved the application bearing paper no. 11C, the day he appeared.

5. It was further said in the affidavit that the defendant came over to Allahabad from Mau and moved the application bearing paper no. 12C seeking leave to defend. The plaintiff objected to both the applications bearing paper no. 11C and 12C. It was made out that the defendant was served with the summons on 23.09.2022. The plaintiff urged that on 29.10.2022, the defendant had appeared much beyond ten days of the service of summons for appearance, and, therefore, the suit ought to be decreed. It was also said that the application paper no. 11C was filed without a vakalatnama and beyond the statutory period of ten days, rendering it liable to be rejected. The suit was adjourned on 01.11.2022 to 07.11.2022 and it is on that date that the defendant applied for leave to defend. The plaintiff also said that the affidavit does not disclose any ground for leave to defend at all. The defendant has not denied the issue of the cheques in question that are the basis of the suit. The prayer, therefore, was that the application for leave to defend in any case ought to be rejected.

6. The learned Trial Judge, while dealing with the defendant's applications 11C and 12C, held that the defendant had not disclosed grounds for leave to defend in his application 12C, nor anything about the merits of the plaintiff's claim was said there. It was not disclosed as to what was the substantial defence to the plaintiff's claim, on the foot of which leave to defend may be granted. The affidavit filed in support of the application 12C made out a case for the defendant's absence. Therefore, the learned Trial Judge, considering the prayer in the application 11C, seeking permission to appear in the suit in response to the summons for appearance, decided to exercise discretion conferred under sub-rule (7) of Rule 3 of Order XXXVII to condone the delay in the matter of appearance and permitted the defendant to appear. However, the learned Trial Judge, finding that there was no dependable cause indicated in the affidavit 13C filed in support of the application 12C, rejected the same, denying the defendant leave to defend. It is against the order refusing leave to defend that the defendant-revisionist has come up.

7. Rule 3 of Order XXXVII of the Code discloses the precise course that a summary suit takes, after summons for appearance have been instituted under Rule 2 of Order XXXVII of the Code. Rule 3 of Order XXXVII of the Code reads:

"3. Procedure for the appearance of defendant--(1) In a suit to which this Order applies, the plaintiff shall, together with the summons under rule 2, serve on the defendant a copy of the plaint and annexures thereto and the defendant may, at any time within ten days of such service, enter an appearance either in person or by pleader and, in either case, he shall file in Court an address for service of notices on him.

(2) Unless otherwise ordered, all summonses, notices and other judicial processes, required to be served on the defendant, shall be deemed to have been duly served on him if they are left at the address given by him for such service.

(3) On the day of entering the appearance, notice of such appearance shall be given by the defendant to the plaintiff's pleader, or, if the plaintiff sues in person, to the plaintiff himself, either by notice delivered at or sent by a pre-paid letter directed to the address of the plaintiff's pleader or of the plaintiff, as the case may be.

(4) If the defendant enters an appearance, the plaintiff shall thereafter serve on the defendant a summons for judgment in Form No. 4A in Appendix B or such other Form as may be prescribed from time to time, returnable not less than ten days from the date of service supported by an affidavit verifying the cause of action and the amount claimed and stating that in his belief there is no defence to the suit.

(5) The defendant may, at any time within ten days from the service of such summons for judgment, by affidavit or otherwise disclosing such facts as may be deemed sufficient to entitle him to defend, apply on such summons for leave to defend such suit, and leave to defend may be granted to him unconditionally or upon such terms as may appear to the Court or Judge to be just:

Provided that leave to defend shall not be refused unless the Court is satisfied that the facts disclosed by the defendant do not indicate that he has a substantial defence to raise or that the defence intended to be put up by the defendant is frivolous or vexatious:

Provided further that, where a part of the amount claimed by the plaintiff is admitted by the defendant to be due from him, leave to defend the suit shall not be granted unless the amount so admitted to be due is deposited by the defendant in Court.

(6) At the hearing of such summons for judgment,--

(a) if the defendant has not applied for leave to defend, or if such application has been made and is refused, the plaintiff shall be entitled to judgment forthwith; or

(b) if the defendant is permitted to defend as to the whole or any part of the claim, the Court or Judge may direct him to give such security and within such time as may be fixed by the Court or Judge and that, on failure to give such security within the time specified by the Court or Judge or to carry out such other directions as may have been given by the Court or Judge, the plaintiff shall be entitled to judgment forthwith.

(7) The Court or Judge may, for sufficient cause shown by the defendant, excuse the delay of the defendant in entering an appearance or in applying for leave to defend the suit."

8. A reading of Rule 3 of Order XXXVII of the Code shows that once the defendant enters appearance in response to the summons issued in Form 4 of Appendix B to the Code, notice of appearance is to be given by the defendant to the plaintiff's Counsel, or if the plaintiff appears in person, to the plaintiff himself, either by notice delivered at or sent by a prepaid letter, directed to the address of the plaintiff's pleader or the plaintiff, as the case may be. Sub-rule (4) of Rule 3 of Order XXXVII of the Code postulates that after the defendant enters appearance, the plaintiff is obliged to serve on the defendant, summons for judgment in Form 4A set out in Appendix B to the Code. The summons for judgement are to be made returnable, not less than ten days from the date of service. The summons for judgment are required to be supported by affidavit, verifying the cause of action and the amount claimed to be due from the defendant. The statute also requires the plaintiff to state that in his belief, there is no defence to the suit. It is upon service of the said summons for judgment that within the time period of ten days, the defendant can apply for leave to defend the suit. Sub-rule(5) of Rule 3 postulates that the leave prayed by the defendant to be granted by the Court is unconditional or upon such terms as the Court may consider just. The two provisos appended to sub-rule (5) are further guidance in the matter to the Court how leave is to be granted and subject to what conditions. Those provisos are not the subject matter of consideration in this revision.

9. The crux of the issue here appears to be that the learned Trial Judge refused the application for leave to defend, made by the defendant at a time when the stage for that kind of an application had not yet arrived. This is so because the plaintiff had not taken out any summons for judgment. A reading of sub-rule (4) and sub-rule (5) of Rule 3 of Order XXXVII of the Code makes it evident that an application for leave to defend can be made by a defendant only when the plaintiff takes out summons for judgement, complying with the conditions of sub-rule (4) of Rule 3 of Order XXXVII of the Code. It brooks little doubt that leave to defend cannot be sought by the defendant at the stage when he enters appearance in response to the summon for appearance. The next step is to be taken by the plaintiff by obtaining summons for judgment. It is, thereafter, that the defendant may, within the time permissible and in the manner prescribed, apply for leave to defend. Therefore, in this case the defendant's application for leave to defend was premature.

10. The learned Trial Judge in refusing leave to defend, acted without jurisdiction. If at all an application for leave to defend had been made at that stage by the defendant, it ought to have been dismissed as premature, rather than on merits, as done in the present case.

11. This issue came up for consideration before the Rajasthan High Court in Sewa Ram v. Firm Modaram

Tulsiram, 2001 SCC OnLine Raj 424, where it has been observed:

"11. Thus, on a bare reading of this language it is clear that one part of the procedure envisaged is the one under Rule 2 wherein after receipt of summons for appearance the defendant shall not defend the suit unless he enters appearance and in the event of his not entering appearance the allegations in the plaint are to be deemed to be admitted and the plaintiff is entitled to a decree. In this view of the matter if the defendant enters appearance as per Order 37 Rule 2, then this one stage of the plaintiff to be entitled to decree is lost. Obviously, therefore, thereafter the plaintiff has to proceed further and after the defendant so enters appearance, the plaintiff is to serve on the defendant a summon for judgment which has to be returnable after a particular length of time, it is to be supported by affidavit, verifying the cause of action, and the amount claimed, and also stating that in his belief there is no defence to the suit. It is only and only after the plaintiff does all this, that the defendant attracts any obligation to apply for leave to defend. Otherwise in absence of any such service of summons for judgment, in the scheme of things, the defendant is very much entitled to forget about the suit and just lie low. Not only this in my opinion until and unless the defendant is served with summons for judgment in accordance with Order 37 Rule 3(4), the defendant even does not get any right to even apply for leave to defend, much less can such application at all be considered on merits, by the learned trial court. Until and unless the defendant is served with the necessary papers including affidavit of the plaintiff verifying the cause of action and the amount claimed and also deposing that in his belief there is no defence to the suit, the defendant is not required, rather even not entitled, to apply for leave to defend, as until all this is done, in the set up of things it cannot be said that the defendant is at all even supposed to defend any action."

(emphasis by Court)

12. It must be remarked at this stage that Order XXXVII is a salutary procedure that could curtail much avoidable criminal litigation and bring quick justice, where necessary. However, for some reason in the State of Uttar Pradesh, this procedure has historically been under-utilized, and, if this Court may dare say, hardly ever utilized. It is for this reason that the Presiding Officers of the Subordinate Courts and the members of the Bar are not very well acquainted with the few basic technicalities of procedure, that govern suits under order XXXVII. This case is a classical example of lack of that acquaintance on both sides.

13. In the opinion of this Court, therefore, the impugned order of the learned Trial Judge, to the extent that she has proceeded to reject the application for leave to defend the suit on merits, is not sustainable. In the opinion of this Court, the order of the learned Trial Judge rejecting the application for leave to defend on merits, ought to be substituted by an order rejecting that application as premature.

14. This Court is informed that the plaintiff has already applied for summons for judgment, which have been served upon on 02.12.2022, regarding which he has taken steps for service through registered post on 03.12.2022. Additionally, learned Counsel appearing for the defendant has also been served with the summons for judgement in Form 4A before the Trial Court.

15. Learned Counsel for the defendant appearing before this Court has made a statement at the Bar that the defendant has been served with summons for judgment. Accordingly, the defendant will have ten days time from the date of production of a certified copy of this order before the Trial Court to apply for leave to defend.

16. The application for leave to defend, when made, as directed above, shall be heard and disposed of by the learned Trial Judge, in accordance with provisions of sub-rule (5) of Rule 3 of Order XXXVII of the Code. Needless to say that the application for leave, if made, shall be decided with all promptitude and the suit shall not be adjourned on any pretext. The impugned order dated 21.11.2022 is set aside to the extent it refuses leave to defend and it is ordered in the terms indicated hereinabove.

17. This revision is allowed. Costs easy.

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973- Section 439 - Indian Penal Code, 1860 -Sections 328, 341, 363, 376 & 506 – -The Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 - Section 3/4 - The Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 - Section 3(2)(5)– victim and her mother declared hostile during trial- victim did not support the prosecution case under Section 137 of the Indian Evidence Act- conclusion or inference from evidence shall be drawn- after considering the evidence and attending circumstances-in entirety- hostility of the victim in her cross-examination in heinous offences like rape, murder, etc.- no ground for bail- Bail Application rejected.

HELD: It is well settled that the conclusion or inference from the evidence of the witness shall be drawn considering his/her examination-in-chief, cross-examination as well as re-examination in its entirety in the light of attending facts and circumstances of the case and not by picking out one or two sentence from here and there. This Court in exercise of power under Section 439 Cr.P.C. at this mid-stage of the trial which is going on does not deem it appropriate to discuss and evaluate the evidence of the victim and other prosecution witnesses in detail as the allegation and defence of the accused-applicant is still open to be urged before the trial Court. However, this Court is of the view that hostility of the victim in her cross-examination in heinous offences like rape, murder, etc. is no ground for bail.

Bail application rejected. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjay Kumar Singh, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Indra Pal Singh Tomar, learned counsel for the applicant and Mr. Virendra Kumar Maurya, learned Additional Government Advocate representing the State. As per office report dated 21.02.2023, notice issued vide order of this Court dated 24.01.2023 to the victim as well as Child Welfare Committee has been served, but none appears on their behalf.

2. By means of this application under Section 439 of Cr.P.C., applicant Shahil, who is involved in Case Crime No. 341 of 2021, under Sections 328, 341, 363, 376, 506 IPC, Section 3/4 POCSO Act and Section 3(2)(5) SC/ST Act, police station Bhojpur, district Ghaziabad, seeks enlargement on bail during the pendency of trial.

3. As per prosecution case, in brief, victim lodged a first information report on 07.06.2021 under Sections 341, 506 IPC against present applicant Shahil and his parents Ismail and Noori with the allegation inter alia that they used to extend threat for her abduction. During investigation, on 14.09.2021, after four months of the F.I.R., statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. of the victim was recorded in which, she has stated inter alia that on 05.05.2021 at 06:45 P.M., when she was returning from her farm, two persons out of whom, one was the present applicant Shahil came there and they took her to forest after getting her to smell some intoxicated substance where they committed rape on her. At that time, she was feeling pain, but she was in a state of intoxication. Thereafter, applicant took her to a school situated in Kalchina by foot. Other boy was driving the motorcycle slowly. On the way seeing them, some boys of the village created rucks and also made videos. The applicant was also assaulted by the villagers then he informed his parents on which his family members reached there and they took the applicant as well as the victim to the police station where Shahil was arrested and the victim was allowed to go to her house. It is next submitted that statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. of the victim was recorded on 27.05.2021 after 04 months 22 days, in which also, she has narrated the same story. After culmination of investigation, charge-sheet under Section 328, 341, 363, 376 and 506 IPC, Section 3/4 POCSO Act and Section 3(2)(5) SC/ST Act has been submitted against the applicant only.

4. Main substratum of argument of learned counsel for the applicant is that before the trial Court, statement of the victim and her mother have been recorded as PW-1 and PW-2 on 22.05.2022 and 15.03.2023, respectively, but they have been declared hostile. With regard to statement of victim, much emphasis has been given by contending that the victim has not supported the prosecution case under Section 137 of Indian Evidence Act, then prosecution has re-examined the victim under Section 138 of Indian Evidence Act, in which, same story has been narrated by the victim, hence, the victim shall deemed to be declared hostile. The applicant does not have any criminal history to his credit and is languishing in jail since 21.10.2021, therefore, applicant may be released on bail.

5. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State vehemently opposed the prayer for bail of the applicant by contending that date of birth of the victim is 27.02.2005 and on the day of the incident, she was minor child. The victim in her statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and 164 Cr.P.C. has made allegation of rape against the applicant. Bail application of the applicant has been rejected twice on 15.11.2021 and 18.01.2022 by the trial Court. Thereafter applicant has filed Criminal Appeal No. 2519 of 2022 before this Court but learned counsel for the applicant after some argument did not press the appeal and at his request, the same was dismissed as withdrawn vide order dated 11.11.2022. It is also submitted that the victim has not been declared hostile by the trial Court and in this regard, it is pointed out that the examination-in-chief of the victim in part was recorded on 26.05.2022, in which she has made allegation of rape against the applicant, thereafter she was again examined on 21.07.2022, in which she has proved her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. which was exhibited as Exhibit Ka-1, thereafter her cross-examination has been done after five months on 01.03.2023, in which she has given contradictory statement. Under the circumstances, due to long gap of five months between the examination-in-chief and cross-examination of the victim, possibility of winning over the victim from the accused side cannot be ruled out. It is also submitted that in the cases where rape victim does not support the prosecution case in her cross examination after long gap after her examination-in-chief, many secrets are hidden behind it. Lastly, it is submitted that under the facts of the case, bail application of the applicant in such a heinous crime is liable to be rejected.

6. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and examined the matter in its entirety, I find substance in the submission of learned A.G.A. that the victim in her examination-in-chief has clearly made allegation of rape against the applicant and also proved her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. supporting the prosecution case and she has not been declared hostile by the Court. Right from beginning of the case till the completion of victim's examination-in-chief, her stand was intact but later on when she was cross-examined and re-examined after about five months of her examination-in-chief, she did not support the prosecution case. Thereafter mother of the victim who has been examined as PW-2 on 15.03.2023 before the trial Court has been declared hostile. These circumstances prima-facie indicate the external influences over the victim.

7. It is well settled that the conclusion or inference from the evidence of the witness shall be drawn considering his/her examination-in-chief, cross-examination as well as re-examination in its entirety in the light of attending facts and circumstances of the case and not by picking out one or two sentence from here and there. This Court in exercise of power under Section 439 Cr.P.C. at this mid-stage of the trial which is going on does not deem it appropriate to discuss and evaluate the evidence of the victim and other prosecution witnesses in detail as the allegation and defence of the accused-applicant is still open to be urged before the trial Court. However, this Court is of the view that hostility of the victim in her cross-examination in heinous offences like rape, murder, etc. is no ground for bail.

8. In the light of above discussion, considering the overall facts and circumstances of the case as well as keeping in view the submissions advanced on behalf of parties as noted above, gravity of offence, role assigned to applicant and severity of punishment, I do not find any good ground to release the applicant on bail.

9. Accordingly, the bail application is rejected.

10. It is made clear that the observation contained in the instant order is confined to the issue of bail and shall not affect the merit of the trial. Trial Court is expected to conclude the trial of the applicant expeditiously without granting any unnecessary adjournment to either of the parties.

11. Let a copy of this order be sent to the victim through Child Welfare Committee, Ghaziabad as well as to the Trial Court for information within two weeks.

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Section 439 - second bail application- Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 366, 376, 354-A, 328, 323, 504 & 506 - second bail application of accused is not barred and is maintainable- second bail application is always considered-on fresh grounds available to the accused after rejection of bail application- fresh argument in second bail application not allowed-if available at the time of moving and rejection of first bail application- no fresh and new ground available in the present second bail application- substantial change in the circumstance so far as merit of the case is concerned- Bail application rejected. (Paras 13, 16, 17, 19 and 24)

HELD: Although a second bail application on behalf of the accused is not barred and is maintainable but considerations of the grounds of bail are the factors to be taken into account in it. A second bail application is always considered on fresh and new grounds available to the accused after rejection of the first bail application. It cannot be said that a second bail application would not be maintainable. The maintainability of such bail application is there but consideration of the prayer for bail is subject to the availability of fresh and new grounds which if not available would render reviewing the earlier order rejecting the bail application. In the case of Babu Singh (supra), the Court was considering a bail application of an accused who was acquitted by the Sessions Court against which the St.had filed an appeal against acquittal in the High Court which was successful and the findings of the Sessions Judge were reversed holding the accused persons guilty and sentencing them for the offences. Against the said judgment and order of the High Court, a statutory appeal was carried to the Apex Court. Before the Apex Court, a second bail application was filed which was the consideration in which the said judgment and order has been passed. The Apex Court with regards to the maintainability of a second bail application held that an order refusing an application for bail does not necessarily preclude another, on a later occasion, giving more materials, further developments and different considerations. (Para 13)

In so far as the part of the maintainability of a second bail application is concerned, it is no more res-integra that the same is maintainable. The question which arises is whether without any fresh new and changed circumstances, a Court should consider a subsequent bail application ignoring its previous order rejecting the previous bail application or not. (Para 16)

In the opinion of the Court, the same would not be possible. A subsequent bail application is maintainable but consideration of the prayer of bail would depend on the facts as to whether fresh and new grounds have been pleaded and are available or not. (Para 17)

Considering the arguments of learned counsels for the parties, perusing the records and the law on the issue, there is no fresh and new ground available in the present second bail application. This Court does not find any substantial change in the circumstance so far as merit of the case is concerned. This Court does not find it a fit case for bail. (Para 19)

Bail Application rejected. (E-14)

1. List revised.
2. Heard Sri Ram Autar Verma, Sri Vivek Mishra and Sri Amarjeet Singh, learned counsels for the applicant, Sri Vinod Kumar Sahu, learned panel counsel for the High Legal Service Committee and Sri U.P. Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State of U.P. and perused the records.
3. This second bail application under Section 439 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 has been filed by the applicant Rajkaran Patel, seeking enlargement on bail during trial in connection with Sessions Trial No. 31 of 2022 (State Vs. Rajkaran Patel and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 198 of 2021, under Sections 366, 376, 354-A, 328, 323, 504, 506 IPC, registered at P.S. Civil Lines, District Prayagraj, pending in the court of learned Additional Sessions Judge-II/FTC, Allahabad.

4. The first bail application of the applicant was rejected by this Court vide order dated 26.05.2022 passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 48511 of 2021 (Rajkaran Patel Vs. State of U.P.).

5. Learned counsels for the applicant argued that the present second bail application has although been filed on behalf of the applicant without any change in circumstances but there are fresh and new grounds which have been pleaded and are to be argued. It is submitted that a second bail application is maintainable in view of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Babu Singh and others Vs. State of U.P. : AIR 1978 SC 527 and also in view of the judgment of a Division Bench of this Court in the case of Dal Chand and others Vs. State of U.P. : 2000 Cri LJ 4579. It is submitted that the Apex Court has held that a second bail application on a later occasion would be maintainable giving more material, further developments and different considerations. It is submitted that the Division Bench of this Court has while following the said judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Babu Singh (supra) held the same while answering a question referred to it.

6. It is next argued while placing para 20(q) of the affidavit in support of the bail application that the applicant has been falsely implicated in the present case. The reason for false implication is a matrimonial dispute which has turned into the present dispute out of proportion. Karuna Pati Patel the father of the victim used to bring cases of his area to the applicant for being filed in the High Court. The victim as per her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. has stated that she has come to the chamber of the applicant for the first time on 03.01.2020 at Chhota Baghara, Prayagraj so that she may start her legal practice after getting her degree of LL.B. After her admission in the 1st year on 28.12.2020, the victim started to mount pressure on the applicant to marry Shivraj Patel the son of the applicant with herself and keep her with him as his junior after which she would attend the High Court as an Advocate even though she was not holding a degree and was not registered in the Bar Council to which the applicant did not agree and in so far as the proposal for marriage is concerned, the same was discussed by the applicant with his wife and his son after which it was rejected which caused bitterness in the relationship between him and the victim and her father, after which her father asked for return of all the professional files for engaging another counsel which would be managed through the victim to which the applicant refused by stating that he would return them only after the consent of the clients. Her father threatened the applicant of dire consequences including false implication in criminal cases and as such the applicant has been implicated in the present case.

7. It is further argued that in so far as the co-accused Sipahilal Shukla, Advocate is concerned, he has also been falsely implicated in the present case due to the fact that he had tried to persuade the victim and her father not to take such extreme steps in such a petty matter but the persuasion fell on deaf ears. The matter could not be settled after which the present FIR was lodged against the applicant and Sipahilal Shukla on 07.04.2021 with false allegations.

8. Further, learned counsels for the applicant while placing paragraph nos. 21 to 24 of the affidavit in support of the bail application have argued that the story as narrated by the victim in her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. is a false and cooked up story inasmuch as it is stated that she was administered poison but the poisoning was actually in the month of July, 2020. It is further submitted that even in so far as the allegations of the victim getting pregnant due to the illegal acts of the applicant and her being administered medicine for abortion is concerned, the same is false and concocted story. It is further submitted that one Km. Rakhi is stated to be a person who had helped the victim when she met her on 29.06.2021. It is submitted that the victim and Km. Rakhi are persons who have formed a gang of Advocates and are entangling people in fake cases for extorting money from them. It is argued that a co-ordinate Bench of this Court has vide order dated 18.08.2022 which is annexed as annexure 20 to the affidavit passed in a 482 application being Crl. Misc. Application u/s 482 No. 20438 of 2022 (Nikki Devi Vs. State of U.P. and another) has directed the CBI to conduct preliminary enquiry in 47 cases as per directions contained in para 12 of the said order.

9. Learned counsels have further while placing the copy of the order sheet of the trial court from 12.01.2022 to 02.01.2023 which is annexure S.A. 1 to the supplementary affidavit dated 16.01.2023 submitted that the case was committed to the Court of Sessions on 12.01.2022 but till date charges in the matter have not been framed. It is submitted that the applicant is in jail since 25.09.2021. The applicant be enlarged on bail.

10. Per contra, learned panel counsel appearing for the High Court Legal Service Committee on behalf of the victim submitted that the first bail application of the applicant has been rejected by this Court on merits vide order dated 26.05.2022. It is submitted while placing para 29 of the affidavit in support of the bail application that totally false and baseless allegations have been levelled in the said paragraph that the victim has told the applicant that she would give her testimony in the trial court in his favour for which she demanded Rs. 10 lakhs on which the applicant showed his inability to fulfill the same. It is submitted that to the contrary the victim is being threatened by various persons on behalf of the applicant despite the fact that the applicant is in jail. It is submitted that the present bail application which is the second bail application has been filed without any fresh and new ground. It is argued that all the grounds as taken were available at the time of hearing of the first bail application. It is submitted that there is no subsequent development after rejection of the first bail application which would entitle the applicant to file a second bail application. It is submitted that the statement of the victim recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. fully corroborates the prosecution version. Merely by stating that the allegations therein are false and incorrect, does not at this stage entitle the applicant for grant of bail. It is submitted that the said statement of the victim was considered in extenso by this Court while deciding the first bail application. It is further submitted that in so far as the version of the victim is concerned, the same also finds corroboration from the narration given by her to the Medical Officer who conducted her medical examination on 02.07.2021. It is submitted that the applicant is a professional and is practising a noble profession of being an Advocate. He has indulged in an act that too with a girl who is also aspiring to join the noble profession. It is submitted that the present bail application is devoid of any merit and deserves to be dismissed.

11. Learned counsel for the State also opposed the prayer for bail vehemently by adopting the arguments of learned panel counsel for the High Court Legal Service Committee on behalf of the victim. It is further argued that the charge sheet in the matter has been submitted against the applicant on 19.11.2021. The first bail application of the applicant was decided after submission of charge sheet by considering all the material collected during investigation. It is submitted that there is no fresh and new ground in the present second bail application. The first bail application of the applicant has been rejected on merits by a detailed order by this Court. It is submitted that the present second bail application be dismissed.

12. After having heard learned counsels for the parties and perusing the records, it is evident that this is a second bail application. The first bail application of the applicant was rejected by this Court vide order dated 26.05.2022. The same is extracted herein-below:-

"1. Heard Sri Rajiv Lochan Shukla, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Sukhvir Singh, learned panel counsel for the High Court Legal Service Committee and Sri B.B. Upadhyay, learned counsel for the State and perused the material on record.

2. This bail application under Section 439 of Code of Criminal Procedure has been filed by the applicant- Rajkaran Patel, seeking enlargement on bail during trial in connection with Case Crime No. 198 of 2021, under Sections 366, 376, 354-A, 328, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C., registered at Police Station Civil Lines, District Prayagraj.

3. The first information report of the present case was lodged on 07.04.2021 at 00:32 hours, under Section 366 I.P.C. by Karunapati Patel against the applicant and Sipahi Lal Shukla in connection with an incident alleged to have taken place on 06.04.2021 at 13:30 hours alleging therein that the first informant is a resident of village Kaudru, Police Station Sarai Inayat, District Prayagraj. His daughter aged about 20 years is a LL.B. student and was practising in the High Court with Rajkaran Patel (the present applicant) who is a resident of Village Sohasha, Police Station Mungra Badshahpur, District Jaunpur who is an Advocate in the High Court. On the day of occurrence at about 1:30 pm from near Alia Law Agency, both the accused persons have enticed away his daughter. The date of birth of his daughter is 15.11.2000. The first information report is thus lodged.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant argued that the applicant has been falsely implicated in the present case. It is further argued that the prosecutrix was interrogated under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and also her statement was recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. The copy of the statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. is annexed as Annexure-5 to the affidavit in support of bail application whereas the certified copy of her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. is annexed as Annexure-SA-1 to the second supplementary affidavit dated 28.04.2022. Learned counsel has placed before the Court both the statements and has argued that there has been an improvement by the prosecutrix in her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. as that of her statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. It is further argued that the prosecutrix in her statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. has not stated of the incident as had been stated to be continuing since long but has not mentioned the actual date and time since when she had been subjected to sexual assault by the applicant. It is argued that when the prosecutrix was brought before the doctor for her medical examination she has although narrated about the entire incident in detail but even therein there is a variation of her version as stated by her in her statements recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and under Section 164 Cr.P.C. It is further argued that the medical examination of the prosecutrix was conducted on 02.07.2021 whereas as per her version as stated in her statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., she was assaulted on 29.06.2021 in front of Gate No.5 of the High Court but the doctor although has found one healed injury on her breast and an abrasion on her left arm but had opined that there is no fresh injury. It is argued that connecting the said injury with the present incident would not at all be in favour of the version of the prosecutrix as stated by her.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant further argued that the prosecutrix has stated that she had aborted her pregnancy four times but there is no evidence whatsoever regarding the said allegation and the same can very-well as such be said to be an exaggerated version given by her and as such Section 313 I.P.C. was left out. The applicant was not taken on remand under the said Section vide order dated 17.12.2021, the copy of which is annexed as Annexure-SA1 to the supplementary affidavit dated 08.04.2022. It is argued that the prosecutrix has stated in her statements that she had met one Ms. Rakhi on 29.06.2021 but the said person has not been made as a witness in the present case who is said to have helped the prosecutrix as per her own version. Paragraph 23 of the affidavit in support of bail application has been placed to buttress the said argument. It is further argued that the prosecutrix in her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. has stated that on 05.04.2021 when she had gone to the High Court, the accused persons met her at a crossing near the High Court, co-accused Sipahi Lal assaulted her and at that time her mobile was connected with her father who was also listening to the same. It is argued that even the said fact is false and incorrect as there is no reference about it in the present first information report which has been lodged after 02 days of the alleged incident of her being beaten up. It is argued that the prosecutrix is a major girl. She as per her own version used to come to the High Court with an Advocate and was working with him and as such was in the knowledge of legal proceedings. She kept on changing and improving her version. The applicant is having criminal history of one case which has been disclosed and explained in paragraph 15 of the affidavit but in the said case till date although it is of the year 2019, he has not received any summons or any notice from the police or any court. The applicant is in jail since 25.09.2021.

6. Per contra, learned panel counsel for the High Court Legal Service Committee and learned counsel for the State have vehemently opposed the prayer for bail and argued that the applicant is named in the first information report. The prosecutrix has in her statements recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and under Section 164 Cr.P.C. named the applicant and has assigned specific role to him. It is argued that the allegation that the prosecutrix was working with the applicant in the High court in his office is not denied. Even the fact that she was known to him is not denied. It is argued that the present case is such in which an Advocate has exploited a girl who was a law student on the pretext of imparting legal training to her through his office and courts. It is argued that there are serious allegations against the applicant. The prosecutrix has stated of the applicant exploiting her at the initial stage and then committing sexual assault on her. She has explained the circumstances under which she was being threatened and was continued to be exploited. In so far as the physical assault is concerned, the doctor has found injuries on her body which corroborate with her version. It is further argued that during investigation, the police added Shivraj Patel, Dheerendra Kumar Saroj and Saroj Devi as accused but as of now charge-sheet being Charge Sheet No. 01 dated 18.11.2021 has been filed only against Shivraj Patel and the present applicant but in so far as the investigation with regards to the other accused persons is concerned, the same is pending. It is further argued that since the applicant is an Advocate, if released on bail, there are chances of his tampering with evidence and may influence the investigation as the investigation for other accused persons is pending. The prayer for bail be thus rejected.

7. Learned counsel appearing for the High Court Legal Service Committee has further informed the Court that the applicant is involved in another case being Case Crime No. 193 of 2021, Police Station Civil Lines, District Allahabad which has not been disclosed and explained in the bail application. In so far as the disclosure in paragraph 15 of the affidavit regarding one criminal history of the applicant is concerned, it is argued by producing the photocopy of the said first information report that the applicant is named in the first information report along with four other unknown persons.

8. After having heard the learned counsel for the parties and perusing the record, it is evident that the applicant is named in the first information report, in the statements of the prosecutrix recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and under Section 164 Cr.P.C. The name of the applicant and the role assigned to him is consistent throughout. The allegations are of sexual assault and physical assault upon the prosecutrix which had continued for a substantial long period. The prosecutrix was junior in the office of the applicant. The allegations are against a person practising law and is a person in uniform involved in a noble profession. The office of a lawyer is not less respected than Courts of law. The act as complained of by her against the applicant is told by her in detail in her statements recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and under Section 164 Cr.P.C. There has been no reason spelt out as to why the applicant is being falsely implicated. The investigation for other accused persons is pending and the apprehension of learned counsels for the State and of the panel lawyer of High Court Legal Service Committee of the applicant being in a position to influence the investigation and tamper with the evidence cannot be ruled out at this stage.

9. Looking to the facts and circumstances of the case, I do not find it a fit case for bail, hence, the bail application is rejected.

10. This Court has vide order dated 08.04.2022 directed the District and Sessions Judge, Prayagraj to send the statement of the prosecutrix recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. from the concerned Court. As per the office report dated 25.4.2022, the compliance of the order has been done and a sealed envelope has been received. The said envelope was opened on the directions of the Court by the Bench Secretary during arguments.

11. After conclusion of the arguments, this Court directed the Bench Secretary of this Court to seal the same which has been sealed. The Registrar General is directed to remit back the said sealed envelope to the District and Sessions Judge, Prayagraj, within three days from today, who shall place the same at its appropriate place."

13. Although a second bail application on behalf of the accused is not barred and is maintainable but considerations of the grounds of bail are the factors to be taken into account in it. A second bail application is always considered on fresh and new grounds available to the accused after rejection of the first bail application. It cannot be said that a second bail application would not be maintainable. The maintainability of such bail application is there but consideration of the prayer for bail is subject to the availability of fresh and new grounds which if not available would render reviewing the earlier order rejecting the bail application. In the case of Babu Singh (supra), the Court was considering a bail application of an accused who was acquitted by the Sessions Court against which the State had filed an appeal against acquittal in the High Court which was successful and the findings of the Sessions Judge were reversed holding the accused persons guilty and sentencing them for the offences. Against the said judgment and order of the High Court, a statutory appeal was carried to the Apex Court. Before the Apex Court, a second bail application was filed which was the consideration in which the said judgment and order has been passed. The Apex Court with regards to the maintainability of a second bail application held that an order refusing an application for bail does not necessarily preclude another, on a later occasion, giving more materials, further developments and different considerations.

14. The Division Bench of this Court in the case of Dal Chand (supra) was deciding a reference made by a single Judge Bench as to whether a second bail application at the instance of a convicted accused in a pending appeal, is maintainable or not.

15. The Division Bench vide the said judgment and order while answering the reference and relying upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Babu Singh (supra) held that a second application for bail at the instance of a convicted accused, is maintainable in a criminal appeal.

16. In so far as the part of the maintainability of a second bail application is concerned, it is no more res-integra that the same is maintainable. The question which arises is whether without any fresh new and changed circumstances, a Court should consider a subsequent bail application ignoring its previous order rejecting the previous bail application or not.

17. In the opinion of the Court, the same would not be possible. A subsequent bail application is maintainable but consideration of the prayer of bail would depend on the facts as to whether fresh and new grounds have been pleaded and are available or not.

18. In the case of State of Maharashtra Vs. Buddhikota Subha Rao : 1989 Supp (2) SCC 605 it has been held by the Apex Court that once a bail application was rejected there was no question of granting a similar prayer. Granting it would be virtually overruling the earlier decision without there being a change in the fact-situation. A substantial change is one which has a direct impact on the earlier decision and not merely cosmetic changes which are of little or no consequence. It has been held as under :-

“7. Liberty occupies a place of pride in our socio-political order. And who knew the value of liberty more than the founding fathers of our Constitution whose liberty was curtailed time and again under Draconian laws by the colonial rulers. That is why they provided in Article 21 of the Constitution that no person shall be deprived of his personal liberty except according to procedure established by law. It follows therefore that the personal liberty of an individual can be curbed by procedure established by law. The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, is one such procedural law. That law permits curtailment of liberty of anti-social and anti-national elements. Article 22 casts certain obligations on the authorities in the event of arrest of an individual accused of the commission of a crime against society or the Nation. In cases of undertrials charged with the commission of an offence or offences the court is generally called upon to decide whether to release him on bail or to commit him to jail. This decision has to be made, mainly in non-bailable cases, having regard to the nature of the crime, the circumstances in which it was committed, the background of the accused, the possibility of his jumping bail, the impact that his release may make on the prosecution witnesses, its impact on society and the possibility of retribution, etc. In the present case the successive bail applications preferred by the respondent were rejected on merits having regard to the gravity of the offence alleged to have been committed. One such Application No. 36 of 1989 was rejected by Suresh, J. himself. Undeterred the respondent went on preferring successive applications for bail. All such pending bail applications were rejected by Puranik, J. by a common order on 6-6-1989. Unfortunately, Puranik, J. was not aware of the pendency of yet another bail application No. 995 of 1989 otherwise he would have disposed it of by the very same common order. Before the ink was dry on Puranik, J.'s order, it was upturned by the impugned order. It is not as if the court passing the impugned order was not aware of the decision of Puranik, J.; in fact there is a reference to the same in the impugned order. Could this be done in the absence of new facts and changed circumstances? What is important to realise is that in Criminal Application No. 375 of 1989, the respondent had made an identical request as is obvious from one of the prayers (extracted earlier) made therein. Once that application was rejected there was no question of granting a similar prayer. That is virtually overruling the earlier decision without there being a change in the fact-situation. And, when we speak of change, we mean a substantial one which has a direct impact on the earlier decision and not merely cosmetic changes which are of little or no consequence. Between the two orders there was a gap of only two days and it is nobody's case that during these two days drastic changes had taken place necessitating the release of the respondent on bail. Judicial discipline, propriety and comity demanded that the impugned order should not have been passed reversing all earlier orders including the one rendered by Puranik, J., only a couple of days before, in the absence of any substantial change in the fact-situation. In such cases it is necessary to act with restraint and circumspection so that the process of the court is not abused by a litigant and an impression does not gain ground that the litigant has either successfully avoided one judge or selected another to secure an order which had hitherto eluded him. In such a situation the proper course, we think, is to direct that the matter be placed before the same learned Judge who disposed of the earlier applications. Such a practice or convention would prevent abuse of the process of court inasmuch as it will prevent an impression being created that a litigant is avoiding or selecting a court to secure an order to his liking. Such a practice would also discourage the filing of successive bail applications without change of circumstances. Such a practice if adopted would be conducive to judicial discipline and would also save the court's time as a judge familiar with the facts would be able to dispose of the subsequent application with despatch. It will also result in consistency. In their view that we take we are fortified by the observations of this Court in para 5 of the judgment in Shahzad Hasan Khan v. Ishtiaq Hasan Khan [(1987) 2 SCC 684]. For the above reasons we are of the view that there was no justification for passing the impugned order in the absence of a substantial change in the fact-situation. That is what prompted Shetty, J. to describe the impugned order as 'a bit out of the ordinary'. Judicial restraint demands that we say no more.

(emphasis supplied)

19. A Division Bench of this Court in the case of Satya Pal Vs. State of U.P. : 1998 SCC OnLine All 1224 : (1998) 37 ACC 287 was deciding a question referred to by a single Judge Bench whether a fresh argument which was available earlier should be allowed to be advanced in a second bail application. The question as before the Division Bench was as follows :-

“1. The following question has been referred by learned single Judge to be decided by this Court:—

“Whether a fresh argument in a second bail application for an accused should be allowed to be advanced on those very facts that were available to the accused while the first bail application was moved and rejected”.”

The Division Bench held that a fresh argument in a second bail application cannot be allowed to be advanced on those very facts which were available to the accused at the time of the moving and rejection of the first bail application. The answer as given to the referred question is as follows :-

“9.
Accordingly our answer to the question referred is that fresh arguments in a second bail application for an accused cannot be allowed to be advanced on those very facts that were available to the accused while the first bail application was moved and rejected.”

20. The Apex Court in the case of State of M.P. Vs. Kajad : (2001) 7 SCC 673 has held that although successive bail applications are permissible but under changed circumstances. It has been held as under :-

“8. It has further to be noted that the factum of the rejection of his earlier bail application bearing Miscellaneous Case No. 2052 of 2000 on 5-6-2000 has not been denied by the respondent. It is true that successive bail applications are permissible under the changed circumstances. But without the change in the circumstances the second application would be deemed to be seeking review of the earlier judgment which is not permissible under criminal law as has been held by this Court in Hari Singh Mann v. Harbhajan Singh Bajwa [(2001) 1 SCC 169 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 113] and various other judgments.”

21. Further, the Apex Court in the case of Kalyan Chandra Sarkar Vs. Rajesh Ranjan : (2005) 2 SCC 42 has held that subsequent bail application can be filed if there is a change in the fact situation or law which would render the previous view obsolete. The Court rejected the argument that successive bail application can be filed on a ground already rejected by courts earlier and it would not be violative of Article 21 of the Constitution of India. It has been held as under :-

“8. On 23-9-2002 the accused-respondent moved the eighth bail application which came to be allowed by the High Court by its order dated 23-5-2003 solely on the ground that the accused-respondent had undergone incarceration for a period of 3 years and that there was no likelihood of the trial being concluded in the near future and an appeal filed against the said grant of bail came to be allowed [Ed.: In Kalyan Chandra Sarkar v. Rajesh Ranjan, op. cit. fn. 2, above] on the ground that the High Court could not have allowed the bail application on the sole ground of delay in the conclusion of the trial without taking into consideration the allegation made by the prosecution in regard to the existence of prima facie case, gravity of offence, and the allegation of tampering with the witness by threat and inducement when on bail. This Court held [Ed.: In Kalyan Chandra Sarkar v. Rajesh Ranjan, op. cit. fn. 2, above] that since the above factors go to the root of the right of the accused to seek bail, non-consideration of the same and grant of bail solely on the ground of long incarceration vitiated the order of the High Court granting bail. This Court also observed that though an accused had a right to make successive applications for grant of bail the court entertaining such subsequent bail applications has duty to consider the reasons and grounds on which the earlier bail applications were rejected and in such cases the court also has a duty to record what are the fresh grounds which persuaded it to take a view different from the one taken in the earlier applications. This Court in that order also found fault with the High Court for not recording any fresh grounds while granting bail and for not taking into consideration the basis on which earlier bail applications were rejected. The Court also emphasised in the said order that ignoring the earlier orders of this Court is violative of the principle of binding nature of the judgments of the superior court rendered in a lis between the same parties, and noted that such approach of the High Court in effect amounts to ignoring or overruling and thus rendering ineffective the principles enunciated in the earlier orders especially of the superior courts. On that basis, the appeal of the complainant challenging the grant of bail came to be allowed cancelling the bail granted to the respondent. This order of this Court is reported as Kalyan Chandra Sarkar v. Rajesh Ranjan [(2004) 7 SCC 528 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 1977].”

“20. The decisions given by a superior forum, undoubtedly, are binding on the subordinate fora on the same issue even in bail matters unless of course, there is a material change in the fact situation calling for a different view being taken. Therefore, even though there is room for filing a subsequent bail application in cases where earlier applications have been rejected, the same can be done if there is a change in the fact situation or in law which requires the earlier view being interfered with or where the earlier finding has become obsolete. This is the limited area in which an accused who has been denied bail earlier, can move a subsequent application. Therefore, we are not in agreement with the argument of learned counsel for the accused that in view of the guarantee conferred on a person under Article 21 of the Constitution, it is open to the aggrieved person to make successive bail applications even on a ground already rejected by the courts earlier, including the Apex Court of the country.”

(emphasis supplied)”

22. Now reverting back to the present case, an effort has been made to spell out the reason for false implication while placing para 20(q) of the affidavit. The same is merely a version of the accused applicant. In so far as, the other arguments relating to the falsity of the statement of the victim recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. by clubbing it with the event of administering poison is concerned, the said statement has been considered by this Court while deciding the first bail application and as such there is no occasion to reconsider it. If there is any contradiction in it with regards to the version as in the First Information Report and also any argument is being raised to discredit the same it has to be judged in trial only after evidence.

23. With regards to the argument of Km. Rakhi and the order of a co-ordinate Bench of this Court dated 18.08.2022 directing certain matters to be preliminarily enquired into by the CBI is concerned, although the victim referred to Km. Rakhi in her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. but even as has been observed in the order rejecting the first bail application of the applicant, Km. Rakhi has not been arrayed as a witness in any of the capacities in the list of witnesses of charge sheet on which the prosecution relies for its case. If she, her conduct, her status or her acts, if any, have to be considered, the same may be subject matter of trial. At the stage of consideration of bail, the Court can only go into the question of the case being prima facie established for granting bail. It cannot go into the question of credibility and reliability of the witness/es put up by the prosecution. The question of credibility and reliability of witness/es can only be tested during trial. The order sheet of the trial court which is in the supplementary affidavit although shows that the case has been committed to the Court of Session on 12.01.2022 but the same is pending till date but charge in the present matter has not been framed despite the same being fixed for framing of charge since 07.05.2022 as is evident from the order sheet of the said date.

24. Considering the arguments of learned counsels for the parties, perusing the records and the law on the issue, there is no fresh and new ground available in the present second bail application. This Court does not find any substantial change in the circumstance so far as merit of the case is concerned. This Court does not find it a fit case for bail.

25. The bail application is, accordingly, rejected.

26. However, the trial court may take up the trial and proceed with it in accordance with Section 309 Cr.P.C., subject to any legal impediment.

The applicant may file this order before the trial court within two weeks from today.

Criminal Law – anticipatory bail application under section 438 Cr.P.C.-order cancelling the anticipatory bail challenged-further relief of grant of anticipatory bail sought-FIR registered under Sections 406, 420, 467, 468, 471 IPC-anticipatory bail cancelled on account of flouting of bail conditions by the applicant-chargesheet already submitted-trial in progress-nothing in record to show that the applicant committed any offence after the grant of anticipatory bail-NCLT proceedings independent of criminal proceedings-criminal court cannot act as an executing court for any other forum-impugned order cancelling anticipatory bail set aside-furthermore, anticipatory bail till the end of trial granted to the applicant.

HELD:

It is not in dispute that charge sheet into the matter has been filed. In one part of the impugned order, various observations have been made by the Sessions Judge, Meerut in respect of the alleged violation of Condition No.6 by the accused / applicant and while doing so the Court concerned entered into the history of dispute between the parties and a chain of events has been sketched but it lacks a cogent reasoning. This Court does not find any justification in the aforesaid observations made by the Sessions Judge, Meerut capable of making the accused / applicant liable for violative of aforementioned Condition No.6. Whether any criminal matter against the present accused / applicant subsequent to the order dated 10.3.2022, resulted into charge sheet, is not clear from the impugned order. Charge sheet has already been submitted in the present case and now the trial is going on before the Magistrate concerned. Thus, to hold that the Condition No.6 imposed vide order dated 10.3.2022 was violated by the accused / applicant, is not correct.

This fact is also to be taken into account that what orders to be passed by the NCLT in future is not a subject concerning to the Sessions Court sitting in the forum of anticipatory bail. The NCLT in itself is empowered to enforce its own orders under the provisions of the Companies Act. The NCLT for the execution of its orders or to meet out the conditions, where its orders are flouted, is not dependent upon any other forum / Court and is competent enough to meet out this contingency. Also, it was not a genuine condition to ask the applicant to comply with all previous orders, which were already passed by the NCLT and which might be subjudiced too in any higher forum.

The aforesaid situation takes this Court to the direction of considering as to whether a Criminal Court may act like an Executing Court for any other forum.

The impugned order is not clear on the point as to how the Court concerned came to the conclusion that a fair trial is not possible if the accused is allowed to retain his freedom of anticipatory bail during trial. It also reveals that the Court concerned travelled beyond its jurisdiction and placed reliance upon the materials outside the record which were not relevant at that stage. How the Court concerned was sure that the applicant was trying to win over the witnesses of the case and in this way the fair trial of the case was not possible is an issue which remains illusive in the impugned order.

In view of the aforesaid discussions and the law governing the subject, the Court is of the opinion that the impugned order dated 10.3.2023 passed by the Sessions Judge, Meerut is not sustainable in law and the same is liable to be set-aside. The impugned order dated 10.3.2023 is accordingly set-aside.

Application allowed. (E-14)

2. Heard Shri Manish Tiwary, learned Senior Advocate assisted by S/Shri Pranav Tiwari and Yagyavalk Pandey, learned counsel for the applicant, Shri Sushil Shukla, learned counsel for the informant as well as the learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

3. It has been submitted by the learned Senior Counsel appearing for the applicant that the order dated 10.3.2023, by which the anticipatory bail granted to the applicant vide order dated 16.3.2022 has been cancelled, is bad in the eyes of law and as a matter of fact the applicant did not flout any of the conditions imposed by the Court concerned while granting anticipatory bail to the applicant. It is further submitted that while granting anticipatory bail vide aforesaid order dated 16.3.2022 a total of eight conditions were imposed upon the applicant and he complied with all the conditions. It is vehemently submitted that the impugned order dated 10.3.2023, whereby anticipatory bail granted to the applicant has been cancelled, reflects that the Sessions Judge, Meerut has emphasized mainly upon non-compliance of condition no.8 imposed by the said order wherein it was mentioned that the applicant has to file an undertaking to the effect that he will ensure compliance of the order passed by the National Company Law Tribunal (in short 'the NCLT'). In this case, it is submitted that after passing the order dated 16.3.2022, no further order was passed by the NCLT and hence, there was no occasion for the applicant for non-compliance of any further order passed by the NCLT. It is next submitted that the Sessions Judge, Meerut has impressed upon the orders passed by the NCLT prior to passing of the order dated 16.3.2022 and non-compliance of the said earlier orders has been made a substantial ground for cancelling the anticipatory bail. It is, thus, vehemently submitted that said approach of the Sessions Judge, Meerut was not tenable in law, as no order can be made effective retrospectively. It is also submitted that if some orders were passed by the NCLT in the matter pending before it between the parties to the litigation, it was for the NCLT to take proper action in respect of non-compliance of the same. A criminal court cannot be said to be an executing court for execution of the orders passed by any other forum / authority. It is further submitted that the applicant has not repeated any alike offences, as were levelled against him in the F.I.R. of the present case and, as such, he has not flouted condition no.6 as well imposed upon him vide order dated 16.3.2022, which has also been made a ground for cancellation of anticipatory bail granted to the applicant by the Court concerned by aforesaid order. It is also submitted that since anticipatory bail was granted to the applicant by the Sessions Court Meerut till the conclusion of trial, it is explicitly clear that the Sessions Court concerned expressed its view in favour of the applicant and found sufficient and reasonable grounds for grant of anticipatory bail to him till the end of trial. Lastly, it is submitted that the impugned order dated 10.3.2023 deserves to be set-aside and cancelled and further the applicant be granted anticipatory bail till the end of trial.

4. Per contra, learned counsel for the informant as well as the learned AGA have submitted that the order dated 16.3.2022, whereby anticipatory bail was granted to the applicant imposing certain conditions upon him, reflects that a total of eight conditions were imposed upon him out of which Condition No.1 directed the applicant to furnish a bank guarantee of the value of Rs. Five Crores. Since Rupees Five Crores was a huge amount, an application was moved by the applicant to exempt him to comply with the said condition no. 1 or the amount of bank guarantee be lessened. It is further submitted that vide order dated 28.6.2022, the Court concerned cancelled Condition No.1 to furnish the bank guarantee to the tune of Rupees Five Crores and further the applicant was directed to furnish a properly stamped and notarised indemnity bond in sum of Rupees Five Crores mentioning therein that he will not create any third party right, charge, mortgage or any other lien in any manner of properties held by him and mentioned in the indemnity bond, either in his own name or jointly with others till the matter is finally decided. It is further submitted that for the other conditions imposed vide order dated 16.3.2022, no objection or inability to fulfill the same was shown by the applicant rather he furnished an undertaking before the Court concerned for compliance of all the conditions imposed by the aforesaid order. It is further submitted that in the impugned order dated 10.3.2023, the Sessions Judge, Meerut has narrated several facts in respect of fraudulent and criminal acts committed by the applicant whereas he was directed not to repeat the similar offence again. The impugned order dated 10.3.2023 consists of many illustrations which go to show that the applicant has repeatedly committed the same offence, commission of which was made prohibited by condition no.6 imposed by the Court concerned by order dated 16.3.2022. It is also submitted that from the impugned order it also reflects that all the orders of NCLT, whether passed prior to 16.3.2022 or subsequent thereto, have to be complied with by the applicant. It is further submitted that since the applicant never made any submission before the Court concerned regarding the unsustainability or ambiguity of the said condition, it was an estoppel against him and he was bound to obey the aforesaid condition as well as the other conditions imposed by the Court concerned. On the basis of aforesaid submissions, prayer has been made to reject the present anticipatory bail application.

5. I have considered the rival submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties.

6. In this matter, from a perusal of the record, it reveals that in the matter of Anticipatory Bail Application No. 591 of 2022 in case crime no. 574 of 2019, under Sections 406, 420, 467, 468, 471 IPC, P.S. Medical College, District Meerut applicant was granted anticipatory bail vide order dated 16.3.2022 passed by the Sessions Judge, Meerut till end of trial, however, certain conditions were imposed upon the applicant while granting the anticipatory bail to him. Subsequently, on an application moved by the informant, the said anticipatory bail was cancelled by the impugned order dated 10.3.2023 passed by the Sessions Judge, Meerut on the ground of flouting of some of the conditions, which were imposed upon the applicant while granting anticipatory bail to him.

7. At the very outset, it is to be determined whether the order dated 10.3.2023 whereby the anticipatory bail granted to the applicant vide order dated 16.3.2022 was cancelled, is sustainable in the eyes of law or not.

8. From the perusal of the impugned order, it is found that the learned Sessions Judge, Meerut has emphasized on this condition that the accused applicant is not only flouting the orders of Sessions Court but also of NCLT and for this observation, the concerned Court has impressed upon many factual aspects of the matter. The Court has observed that the applicant is not deliberately providing any record and account and still misusing the bank accounts of the Company to the detriment of the complainant. It is also mentioned in the said order that as the applicant is having actual control on the Company of the parties, he is passing the books of the Company as the books of his private firm and usurping the money received from sale of such books. It has also been narrated in the said order that after the grant of anticipatory bail to the applicant the Company which provided accounting software allegedly cancelled licence resulting into the accounts becoming inaccessible and the physical records were misplaced from the scooter of the accused, the staff became non-cooperative and the bank account of the Company was being used by the accused applicant as per his own convenience. It is also mentioned in the impugned order that it is clearly the act of accused to refuse providing accounts and the record for proper adjudication and in these circumstances the Court cannot shut its eyes regarding continuous violation and misuse of liberty of the anticipatory bail by the accused.

In the impugned order dated 10.3.2023, condition Nos. 6 and 8 have been emphasized as non-complied with by the accused applicant. The said conditions are as under :

"6-जो अभियोग आवेदक पर लगाया गया है, वैसा ही अन्य कोई अपराध आवेदक कारित नहीं करेगा ।

8-यह कि आवेदक इस आशय की अन्डरेकिंग प्रस्तुत करे कि एन .सी .एल. टी द्वारा पारित आदेश का पालन सुनिश्चित करता रहेगा "

9. So far as Condition No.6 is concerned, it relates to any other offence of the similar nature committed by the applicant.

10. It is not in dispute that charge sheet into the matter has been filed. In one part of the impugned order, various observations have been made by the Sessions Judge, Meerut in respect of the alleged violation of Condition No.6 by the accused / applicant and while doing so the Court concerned entered into the history of dispute between the parties and a chain of events has been sketched but it lacks a cogent reasoning. This Court does not find any justification in the aforesaid observations made by the Sessions Judge, Meerut capable of making the accused / applicant liable for violative of aforementioned Condition No.6. Whether any criminal matter against the present accused / applicant subsequent to the order dated 10.3.2022, resulted into charge sheet, is not clear from the impugned order. Charge sheet has already been submitted in the present case and now the trial is going on before the Magistrate concerned. Thus, to hold that the Condition No.6 imposed vide order dated 10.3.2022 was violated by the accused / applicant, is not correct.

11. As regards to Condition No.8 imposed vide order dated 16.3.2022, from the perusal of the record, it transpires that both the parties are business persons having commercial company as a partnership firm and litigations are going on before the NCLT between them. Several orders have been or are to be passed by the NCLT in the aforesaid matters. In the impugned order, the Sessions Judge, Meerut has observed that the accused applicant is working in such a manner on account of which the Company is going into loss and all the working conditions have become hampered due to lack of vigilance and inactivity on the part of the applicant and he is continuously violating the orders of NCLT, already passed in the matter pending before it between the parties.

12. This fact is also to be taken into account that what orders to be passed by the NCLT in future is not a subject concerning to the Sessions Court sitting in the forum of anticipatory bail. The NCLT in itself is empowered to enforce its own orders under the provisions of the Companies Act. The NCLT for the execution of its orders or to meet out the conditions, where its orders are flouted, is not dependent upon any other forum / Court and is competent enough to meet out this contingency. Also, it was not a genuine condition to ask the applicant to comply with all previous orders, which were already passed by the NCLT and which might be subjudged too in any higher forum.

13. The aforesaid situation takes this Court to the direction of considering as to whether a Criminal Court may act like an Executing Court for any other forum.

14. In Dilip Singh vs. State of Madhya Pradesh and another, (2021) 2 SCC 779, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that :

"A criminal court, exercising jurisdiction to grant bail / anticipatory bail, is not expected to act as a recovery agent to realise the dues of the complainant, and that too, without any trial."

15. This dictum was reiterated in Udho Thakur and another vs. State of Jharkhand and another, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1712, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that :

"4. Even if we take the submissions of the learned counsel for the contesting respondent on its face value, we are clearly of the view that in essence, the petitions seeking relief of pre-arrest bail are not money recovery proceedings and, ordinarily, there is no justification for adopting such a course that for the purpose of being given the concession of pre-arrest bail, the person concerned apprehending arrest has to make payment."

16. It has been further held that :

"Having regard to the circumstances, in our view, the said condition of depositing a sum of Rs. 7,50,000/- for the purpose of granting the relief of pre-arrest bail cannot be approved and else, the order granting bail deserves to be maintained."

17. In the light of the aforesaid proposition of law, this Court is not hesitant to hold that Condition No.8 imposed vide order dated 16.3.2022 is a vague and ingenuine condition and not sustainable as such.

18. In umpteen of cases, the Hon'ble Apex Court as well as the High Courts have laid down certain parameters to deal with the matters pertaining to cancellation of bail / anticipatory bail.

19. In Savitri Agarwal and others vs. State of Maharashtra and another, (2009) 8 SCC 325, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that very cogent and overwhelming circumstances are necessary for an order directing cancellation of bail already granted. It has been further held that rejection of bail in non-bailable case at the initial stage and cancellation of bail are required to be considered and dealt with on different basis.

20. In Dolat Ram and others vs. State of Haryana, (1995)1 SCC 349, the Hon'ble Apex Court held that :

"4. Rejection of bail in a non-bailable case at the initial stage and the cancellation of bail so granted, have to be considered and dealt with on different basis. Very cogent and overwhelming circumstances are necessary for an order directing the cancellation of the bail, already granted. Generally speaking, the grounds for cancellation of bail, broadly (illustrative and not exhaustive) are: interference or attempt to interfere with the due course of administration of justice or evasion or attempt to evade the due course of justice or abuse of the concession granted to the accused in any manner. The satisfaction of the court, on the basis of material placed on the record of the possibility of the accused absconding is yet another reason justifying the cancellation of bail. However, bail once granted should not be cancelled in a mechanical manner without considering whether any supervening circumstances have rendered it no longer conducive to a fair trial to allow the accused to retain his freedom by enjoying the concession of bail during the trial....."

21. On the subject, the Delhi High in Charu Soneja vs. State (NCT of Delhi) and others (Criminal M.C. 2050 of 2021), decided on 3.1.2022 has held like this :

"17. There is a significant difference between an order rejecting an application for bail and an order for cancellation of bail. An order rejecting a plea for bail in non-bailable offences is in the discretionary domain of the court and such a case can be decided without delving into details, it can be rejected simpliciter on the gravity of the offence and the perception that liberty, if granted, will be abused by the accused. Whereas in the case of cancellation, the court is called upon to extinguish the liberty that has been formerly granted. A Court must tread with utmost circumspection, and only after an in-depth examination of the situation and new emergent facts and on finding supervening circumstances and overwhelming evidence that the accused has been abusing the liberty granted to him by the court, should the court then exercise its jurisdiction in seizing the liberty of an accused undertrial. Another reason for the court to be more circumspect in setting aside an order granting bail is that, it involves review of a well considered, reasoned judicial order granting bail. Personal liberty is one of the cherished constitutional freedoms. Once granted to an accused pending completion of the trial, it must only be retracted in the face of grave and exacerbating circumstances. The party challenging bail already given needs to demonstrate, by showing evidence and instances, that the person enlarged on bail has been threatening the victim and may consequently cause personal harm to the victim or her family, is tampering with evidence or influencing prosecution witnesses to the extent that it would vitiate the trial and lead to a miscarriage of justice."

22. The Court finds some illustrative grounds in Raghubir Singh and others vs. State of Bihar, (1986) 4 SCC 481 over this issue wherein it was observed that "it is pertinent to mention here that bail can be cancelled where (i) the accused misuses his liberty by indulging in similar criminal activity, (ii) interferes with the course of investigation, (iii) attempts to tamper with evidence or witnesses, (iv) threatens witnesses or indulges in similar activities which would hamper smooth investigation, (v) there is likelihood of his fleeing to another country, (vi) attempts to make himself scarce by going underground or becoming unavailable to the investigating agency, (vii) attempts to place himself beyond the reach of his surety, etc. The above grounds are illustrative and not exhaustive. It must also be remembered that rejection of bail stands on one footing but cancellation of bail is a harsh order because it interferes with the liberty of the individual and hence it must not be lightly resorted to."

23. The impugned order is not clear on the point as to how the Court concerned came to the conclusion that a fair trial is not possible if the accused is allowed to retain his freedom of anticipatory bail during trial. It also reveals that the Court concerned travelled beyond its jurisdiction and placed reliance upon the materials outside the record which were not relevant at that stage. How the Court concerned was sure that the applicant was trying to win over the witnesses of the case and in this way the fair trial of the case was not possible is an issue which remains illusive in the impugned order.

24. In view of the aforesaid discussions and the law governing the subject, the Court is of the opinion that the impugned order dated 10.3.2023 passed by the Sessions Judge, Meerut is not sustainable in law and the same is liable to be set-aside. The impugned order dated 10.3.2023 is accordingly set-aside.

25. So far as the question of grant of anticipatory bail to the applicant is concerned, it is evident from the perusal of the record that during the course of investigation, anticipatory bail was granted to the applicant by the Additional Sessions Judge / Special Judge (SC/ST Act), Meerut vide order dated 30.7.2021. The order dated 16.3.2022 passed by the Sessions Judge, Meerut also verifies this fact that the said liberty was not misused by the applicant till filing of the police report under Section 173(2) CrPC before the Competent Court. After filing of the charge sheet in the matter, no custodial interrogation from the applicant appears to be required in the facts and circumstances of the present case. The dispute between the parties relates to financial transactions, which took place between them regarding the Company of the informant and the applicant in the name of 'G.R. Bathla Publications Private Limited' and in this respect F.I.R. was lodged regarding embezzlement of Rs. 6.5 Crores against the applicant. It was alleged in the F.I.R. that the money of the Company was illegally deposited by the applicant in the bank accounts of his sons Sugam Bathla and Madhur Bathla, wife Rachna Bathla and in his own bank account on different dates. It also reveals from the perusal of the record that the dispute between the parties is still pending before the NCLT and several directions have been issued by the NCLT to the parties in the matter.

26. In Sushila Aggarwal and others vs. State (NCT of Delhi) and another, (2020) 5 SCC 1, the Hon'ble Apex Court has settled the controversy finally by holding the anticipatory bail need not be of limited duration invariably. In appropriate case, it can continue upto conclusion of trial.

27. It has been further held therein that anticipatory bail granted can, depending on the conduct and behavior of the accused, continue after filing of the charge sheet till end of trial.

28. It has been further held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that while considering an application for grant of anticipatory bail, the court has to consider the nature of the offence, the role of the person, the likelihood of his influencing the course of investigation, or tampering with evidence including intimidating witnesses, likelihood of fleeing justice, such as leaving the country, etc. It has further been held that Courts ought to be generally guided by considerations such as the nature and gravity of the offences, the role attributed to the applicant, and the facts of the case, while considering whether to grant anticipatory bail, or refuse it. Whether to grant or not is a matter of discretion.

29. Considering the settled principles of law regarding anticipatory bail, nature of accusation, role of applicant and all attending facts and circumstances of the case, without expressing any opinion of the merits of the case, in my view, it is a fit case for anticipatory bail to the applicant till the end of trial.

30. In the event of arrest of the applicant in Criminal Case No. 23164 of 2021 under Sections 406, 420, 467, 468, 471 IPC, Police Station Medical College, District Sambhal, he shall be released on anticipatory bail on his furnishing a personal bond of Rs.50,000/- with two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the Court concerned with the following conditions:-

(i) The applicant shall make himself available before the Court concerned on the date fixed in the matter and will cooperate in the trial.

(ii) The applicant shall not directly or indirectly, make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or to any police office.

(iii) The applicant shall not leave India without the previous permission of the Court and if he has passport, the same shall be deposited by him before the S.S.P./S.P. concerned.

(iv) In case of default of any of the conditions, the same may be a ground for cancellation of protection granted to the applicant.

31. With the above observations, the anticipatory bail application stands disposed of accordingly.

Criminal Misc. Correction Application No.4 of 2023.

1. This is an application for correction in the order dated 24.4.2023.

2. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that due to inadvertence district "Meerut" has wrongly been transcribed as "Sambhal" in the 8th line of paragraph 1 and just above the conditions of anticipatory bail in the order dated 24.4.2023.

3. In view of the aforesaid, the application is allowed. The order dated 24.4.2023 is corrected and district

"Sambhal" is deleted and replaced by "Meerut" in the 8th line of paragraph 1 and just above the conditions of anticipatory bail.

4. This order in the correction application shall form part of the order dated 24.4.2023.

5. The application is, accordingly, disposed of.

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973- Section 438 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 498-A - 304-B - 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act- demand of car and money in dowry- abortion of foetus- deceased succumbed to injuries- discord in the family was an admitted fact- deceased was living at her parental home for substantial time-abortion also took place at her parental home- prosecution cannot be converted into an arena to settle scores-death cannot be termed as "not under normal circumstances"-ingredients of Section

304-B IPC-misuse of dowry laws- Sections 82 and 438 CrPC do not impose any restriction on filing of anticipatory bail application by proclaimed offender-Bail application allowed. (Paras 13 to 19)

HELD: Although a second bail application on behalf of the accused is not barred and is maintainable but considerations of the grounds of bail are the factors to be taken into account in it. A second bail application is always considered on fresh and new grounds available to the accused after rejection of the first bail application. It cannot be said that a second bail application would not be maintainable. The maintainability of such bail application is there but consideration of the prayer for bail is subject to the availability of fresh and new grounds which if not available would render reviewing the earlier order rejecting the bail application. In the case of Babu Singh (supra), the Court was considering a bail application of an accused who was acquitted by the Sessions Court against which the St.had filed an appeal against acquittal in the High Court which was successful and the findings of the Sessions Judge were reversed holding the accused persons guilty and sentencing them for the offences. Against the said judgment and order of the High Court, a statutory appeal was carried to the Apex Court. Before the Apex Court, a second bail application was filed which was the consideration in which the said judgment and order has been passed. The Apex Court with regards to the maintainability of a second bail application held that an order refusing an application for bail does not necessarily preclude another, on a later occasion, giving more materials, further developments and different considerations. (Para 13)

In so far as the part of the maintainability of a second bail application is concerned, it is no more res-integra that the same is maintainable. The question which arises is whether without any fresh new and changed circumstances, a Court should consider a subsequent bail application ignoring its previous order rejecting the previous bail application or not. (Para 16)

In the opinion of the Court, the same would not be possible. A subsequent bail application is maintainable but consideration of the prayer of bail would depend on the facts as to whether fresh and new grounds have been pleaded and are available or not. (Para 17)

Considering the arguments of learned counsels for the parties, perusing the records and the law on the issue, there is no fresh and new ground available in the present second bail application. This Court does not find any substantial change in the circumstance so far as merit of the case is concerned. This Court does not find it a fit case for bail. (Para 19)

Bail Application rejected. (E-14)

2. Heard Sri C.L. Pandey, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Jitendra Prasad, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Anil Mullick, learned counsel for the informant and Sri V.K.S. Parmar, learned A.G.A. for the State as well as perused the record.

3. The present anticipatory bail application has been filed on behalf of the applicant in Case Crime No.310 of 2022, registered under Sections 498-A, 304-B I.P.C. and 34 Dowry Prohibition Act, at Police Station Ganga Nagar, District Meerut with a prayer to enlarge him on anticipatory bail.

PROSECUTION STORY:

4. The marriage of the applicant was solemnized with the daughter of the informant as per Hindu rites on 13.12.2021. The applicant and other members of the family are stated to have subjected her to cruelty for demand of Rs.60 lakhs and a car as dowry. In the intervening period in the month of September, 2022, the deceased is stated to have undergone the abortion of the fetus she was carrying in her womb. On Deepawali i.e. 18.10.2022, the applicant is stated to have taken the daughter of the informant to his house. The applicant and other family members are stated to have beaten the daughter of the informant as such the informant had taken her to his house on 21.10.2022. The condition of the daughter of the informant deteriorated as a result of the injuries sustained on 21.10.2022. She is stated to have succumbed to the injuries on way to hospital on 22.10.2022.

RIVAL CONTENTIONS

(Arguments on behalf of applicant)

5. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicant has vehemently argued at the outset that this is clear misuse of dowry laws as no case is made out against the applicant. There is not a whisper of complaint against the applicant or other family members before institution of the present FIR. Learned Senior Counsel has stated that the deceased person was ill and was suffering from dengue and even the applicant transfused blood to her on 20.10.2022, the said transfusion certificate is filed as Annexure No.12 to the affidavit filed with the bail application.

6. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that the platelets count of the deceased person had extremely come down to a level where blood transfusion was essential as the applicant had himself volunteered to do so.

7. Learned Senior Counsel has also placed much reliance on the inquest report of the deceased person which indicates that there was no visible injury on the body of the deceased person. Learned Senior Counsel has also vehemently argued that as per the postmortem report, the cause of death was "septicaemia due to chronic illness of multiple organs involvement". Learned Senior Counsel has stated that the cause of death is her illness and not the injuries inflicted by the applicant or any other family members. The prosecution story stands falsified on this ground only. Learned Senior Counsel has further stated that if such FIR is entertained by the Court, then there is no question for civil liberty left as such applicant is entitled for anticipatory bail. The applicant has no criminal history to his credit.

8. Learned Senior Counsel has also placed reliance on the statement of Dr. Geetanjali Vohra, who happens to be family doctor of the informant, whereby she has categorically stated that the deceased person had acquired complications as a result of pregnancy she was having and her fetus in the womb had died after a period of six months of pregnancy. Learned Senior Counsel has also placed reliance on the said statement in detail. To avoid verbiage, the said details of statement of doctor are not being mentioned here. Learned Senior Counsel has also placed reliance on the various Whatsapp chats between the applicant and the deceased person, which indicate that they were living happily.

9. Learned Senior Counsel has also placed much reliance on the judgment of this Court passed in Criminal Misc. Anticipatory Bail Application U/s 438 Cr.P.C. No.3532 of 2022, whereby the concerned delinquent was enlarged on anticipatory bail on the ground that proceedings under Section 82 Cr.P.C. were initiated subsequent to the filing of the anticipatory bail application as such applicant is also entitled for bail on this ground as the proceedings under Section 82 Cr.P.C. had taken place on the date of filing of anticipatory bail application, i.e., 29.3.2023 at the trial court. Several other submissions have been made on behalf of the applicant to demonstrate the falsity of the allegations made against him. The circumstances which, as per counsel, led to the false implication of the applicant have also been touched upon at length. The applicant has apprehension of his arrest. Learned counsel for the applicant undertakes that he has co-operated in the investigation and is ready to do so in trial also failing which the State can move appropriate application for cancellation of anticipatory bail. The final report (charge-sheet) has not yet been filed.

(Arguments on behalf of informant/State)

10. Per contra, learned counsel for the informant has vehemently opposed the anticipatory bail application on the ground that the statement of the informant recorded by the Investigating Officer categorically indicates that the fetus had expired in her womb and she was not subjected to treatment by the applicant and his family members as the said fetus remained dead for a period of ten days in her womb. The said negligent act speaks volume of the applicant having subjected the deceased person to cruelty.

11. Learned counsel has further stated that the said case law does not apply to the present case as the proceedings under Section 82 Cr.P.C. were already initiated on 24.3.2023 and the bail application was filed on 29.3.2023. Learned counsel has stated that as such applicant is also not entitled for anticipatory bail in the light of the judgment of the Apex Court passed in Prem Shankar Prasad vs. State of Bihar and Another, reported in AIR 2021 SC 5125, whereby it was held that if the delinquent is declared a proclaimed offender and proceedings under Section 82 & 83 Cr.P.C. have been completed, then he is not entitled for anticipatory bail, as such the present anticipatory bail application is liable to be rejected.

12. Learned A.G.A. has also opposed the anticipatory bail application and reiterated the submissions raised by the learned counsel for the informant.

CONCLUSION:

13. It is to be noted that the applicant has no criminal antecedents to his credit. It is an admitted fact that there were discord in the family as the deceased person was living at her parental home for a substantial period of time as the said abortion is even stated to have taken place at her parental home. After bare perusal of the case laws filed by the rival parties, I would like to take note of the judgment passed in Prem Shankar Prasad (supra), whereby much reliance has been made on the judgment passed in Lavesh vs. State (NCT of Delhi) [(2012) 8 SCC 730: AIROnline 2012 SC 323] in paragraph 16 as under:-

which both of us were parties) considered the scope of granting relief under Section 438 vis-a-vis a person who was declared as an absconder or proclaimed offender in terms of Section 82 of the Code. In para 12, this Court held as under : (SCC p. 733)

"12. From these materials and information, it is clear that the present appellant was not available for interrogation and investigation and was declared as 'absconder'. Normally, when the accused is 'absconding' and declared as a 'proclaimed offender', there is no question of granting anticipatory bail. We reiterate that when a person against whom a warrant had been issued and is absconding or concealing himself in order to avoid execution of warrant and declared as a proclaimed offender in terms of Section 82 of the Code he is not entitled to the relief of anticipatory bail."

14. It is true that in the judgment passed in Lavesh (supra), the said applicant was not enlarged on anticipatory bail as the proceedings under Section 82 Cr.P.C. were complete. In the case of Lavesh (supra) there was no question of granting anticipatory bail. "Normally", when the accused was absconding and declared proclaimed absconder, the core of judgment in Lavesh (supra) was in the expression "normally" and when the accused absconded or concealed himself to avoid the execution of warrant.

15. Neither the proceedings under Section 82 Cr.P.C. nor Section 438 Cr.P.C. impose any restriction in the filing of anticipatory bail application by the proclaimed offender. Even in the Lavesh (supra) while laying down the law, the Supreme Court has used word "normally".

16. Section 438 Cr.P.C. was inserted to the Code as it was seen that the influential persons try to implicate their rivals in false cases for the purpose of disgracing them by detaining them in jail for some time. It is true, such powers are to be exercised in exceptional cases. The prosecution cannot be permitted to be converted into an arena to settle scores.

17. The deceased has expired as a result of "septicaemia due to chronic illness of multiple organs involvement". Thus, the death cannot be termed as "not under normal circumstances" as envisaged under Section 304-B I.P.C. The ingredients of Section 304-B I.P.C. do not stand fulfilled. This case seems to be a misuse of the dowry laws.

18. After hearing the rival contentions, going through the record, considering the nature of accusations and antecedents of the applicant and taking into note the very fact that the cause of death has been opined to be septicaemia due to chronic illness of multiple organs involvement and also that there was no complaint against the applicant or his family members before the death of the deceased person and also that no visible injury has been observed on the body of the deceased person internally or externally, the applicant is liable to be enlarged on anticipatory bail in view of the judgment of Supreme Court in the case of "Sushila Aggarwal Vs. State (NCT of Delhi), (2020) 5 SCC 1". The future contingencies regarding the anticipatory bail being granted to applicant shall also be taken care of as per the aforesaid judgment of the Apex Court.

19. In view of the above, the anticipatory bail application of the applicant is allowed. Let the accused-applicant- Udit Arya be released forthwith in the aforesaid case crime (supra) on anticipatory bail till the conclusion of trial on furnishing a personal and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned with the following conditions:-

(i). that the applicant shall make himself available for interrogation by a police officer as and when required;

(ii). that the applicant shall not, directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the court or to any police officer or tamper with the evidence;

(iii). that the applicant shall not leave India without the previous permission of the court;

(iv). that in case charge-sheet is submitted the applicant shall not tamper with the evidence during the trial;

(v). that the applicant shall not pressurize/ intimidate the prosecution witness;

(vi). that the applicant shall appear before the trial court on each date fixed unless personal presence is exempted;

(vii). that in case of breach of any of the above conditions the court below shall have the liberty to cancel the bail.

20. It is made clear that observations made hereinabove are exclusively for deciding the instant anticipatory bail application and shall not affect the trial.

Princess Mahi @ Saher Naqvi ...Applicant
Versus

State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Applicant:

Sri Sujan Singh, Sri Anjani Kumar Raghuvanshi,
Ms. Princess Mahi @ Saher Naqvi (In Person)

learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the records.

Counsel for the Respondent:

G.A., Sri Anil Kumar Pal, Sri Pankaj Kumar Gupta

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973- Section 438 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 & 506 - money taken by applicant to get informant's wife admitted to job-money also transferred in lieu of sale of plot-transfer of money into the account of applicant- Bail application rejected. (Paras 11 and 12)

HELD:

It is an admitted fact that the said amount of Rs.50 lakhs has been transferred to the account of the applicant by the informant, who is the Director in company Kchipra Business Solution Pvt. Ltd. The applicant is an Advocate and has argued the matter in person and has also admitted the fact of the said transfer of money to her account, but has stated that she is unable to do so as she is facing a case under Section 138 NI Act at Telangana, as such she is not sure as to whom she has to repay the said amount. (Para 11)

After hearing the parties, going through the evidence on record and taking into consideration the fact that a huge amount of Rs.50 lakhs has been transferred to the account of applicant I do not find it a fit case for grant of anticipatory bail to the applicant. (Para 12)

Bail Application rejected. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Krishan Pahal, J.)

1. List has been revised.
2. Supplementary affidavit filed by the applicant in person is taken on record.
3. Heard Ms. Princess Mahi @ Saher Naqvi, applicant in person, Sri Pankaj Kumar Gupta, learned counsel for the informant as well as Sri V.K.S. Parmar,

4. The present anticipatory bail application has been filed on behalf of the applicant in Case Crime No.930 of 2019, under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 and 506 I.P.C. at Police Station Colonelganj, District Prayagraj with a prayer to enlarge her on anticipatory bail.

PROSECUTION STORY:

5. The FIR was lodged by Rakesh Kumar, an ex-army-man, with the allegations that the applicant Princes Mahi @ Saher Naqvi had taken Rs.20 lakhs from him in the year 2018 to get his wife admitted to a job in junior high school. She had even introduced the informant to one Rajeev Tripathi at the office of BSA. The applicant is stated to have neither returned the amount nor got the said job to his wife and she kept on dilly dallying with him. On 1.1.2019, the applicant is stated to have taken Rs.50 lakhs from the informant in lieu of a sale of a 200 square meters plot in Arazi No.86 of NK Mukherji Marg, Civil Lines, Allahabad. The said amount of Rs.50 lakhs was transferred from the account no.37438827327 of Kchipra Business Solution Pvt. Ltd. of State Bank, Branch Sub-Area Cantt., Prayagraj to the bank account no.6177000100027382 of the applicant through NEFT. It transpired later on that the documents of the said plot are fake and the said forgery has been committed by the applicant in conspiracy with other members of the family. The applicant is stated to have fleeced and fooled the informant on one pretext or other and even threatened him.

6. The FIR was instituted at police station Colonelganj, Prayagraj on 25.10.2019 at about 01:12 a.m.

RIVAL CONTENTIONS:

(Arguments of applicant-in-person)

7. The applicant in-person has pressed the anticipatory bail application on the following grounds:-

(i) that she has been falsely implicated in this case and has nothing to do with the said offence. The allegations with respect to the supply of Rs.20 lakhs are per se false as there is nothing on record to suggest that any amount has been withdrawn from any account or transferred to the applicant. The said transaction is in cash, which is false.

(ii) that already final report (charge-sheet) has been submitted and the cognizance by the trial court has been taken. The FIR has been lodged against all the family members just to harass them.

(iii) that after registration of FIR, the applicant and co-accused person Rizwan Ali (father of the applicant) had approached this Court in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.25063 of 2019, in which ad-interim protection was granted to them vide order dated 29.1.2020. The said order has been filed as Annexure No.2 to the affidavit filed with the bail application.

(iv) that after the submission of final report (charge-sheet), the applicant had challenged it by filing a Criminal Misc. Application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. No.18674 of 2022 and prayed for quashing the entire charge-sheet including the summoning order dated 12.1.2022.

(v) that she is a bona fide person as is evident from the fact that she had filed a Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.11906 of 2022 praying for a direction to issue mandamus to District Magistrate, Prayagraj regarding illegal encroachment on plot no.86/1, measuring area 2.05 hectare and plot no.86/2, measuring area 0.864 hectare. The said writ petition is pending before this Court.

(vi) that transfer of Rs.50 lakhs to her account is admitted, but the said amount has been transferred from the account of the company Kchipra Business Solutions Pvt. Ltd. and the matter is between applicant and the said company, that too is civil in nature and the informant, who is a stranger to the said transaction, has converted it into a criminal case which is not sustainable in the eyes of law.

(vii) that the agreement between the applicant and the informant is a notarized document and is not maintainable in the eyes of law.

(viii) that the applicant is an Advocate registered at Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh since 2019. She has also argued at length that when the applicant had cheated the informant to the tune of Rs.20 lakhs, then there was no occasion for the informant to transfer such a hefty amount to her account, as such the allegations leveled in the FIR are false.

(ix) that the informant is neither the agent nor office bearer nor in the management team of company, as such he has no locus standi to lodge FIR.

(x) that she is facing a case under Section 138 of NI Act at Telangana against the dishonor of cheque with respect to the said transfer of money through RTGS mentioned in the FIR.

(xi) that the present FIR is a counterblast to FIR No.1115 of 2019 lodged at police station Colonelganj by the applicant against Shyam Reddy and others.

(xii) that although the FIR lodged by her has been lodged later on to the present FIR, but the occurrence is of much before the lodging of the present FIR.

(xiii) that the informant has not narrated correct facts in the FIR as the said company had granted a loan of Rs.65 lakhs to the applicant and informant regarding the said plot and the cheque of Rs.50 lakhs has dishonored twice.

(xix) that the reply to the notice given by the company to her and the informant falsifies the prosecution story. She had even reported the matter to NHRC with respect to the said supply of Rs.65 Lakhs as she was being coerced to act as a conduit in their illegal activities of human trafficking.

(xv) that the Investigating Officer has not taken up the investigation properly and has filed the present final report (charge-sheet) only on the ground of transfer of the said amount of Rs.50 lakhs to the account of the applicant.

(xvi) that she does not have any criminal antecedents to her credit, except the two cases which have been lodged against her regarding the same incident. She has pressed hard that she being an Advocate and lady is being harassed and she may be enlarged on anticipatory bail.

(Arguments for the informant)

8. Learned counsel for the informant has argued that the applicant has admitted the fact that an amount of Rs.50 lakhs has been transferred to her and the very fact has also been mentioned in the order of the Court passed in Criminal Misc. Application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. No.18674 of 2022. Learned counsel has further stated that the applicant had misused the process of the court by taking it's refuge at the drop of the hat as in addition to filing petition U/s 482 Cr.P.C. challenging the final report (charge-sheet), she has even filed a criminal revision before this Court.

9. Learned counsel has further stated that the applicant had even filed a Writ Petition (Criminal) No.486 of 2022 before the Apex Court under Article 32 of the Constitution of India seeking anticipatory bail, which was dismissed on the ground of alternate remedy being available to the applicant, although her anticipatory bail application was already rejected by the Sessions Court, Allahabad. Learned counsel has further stated that the final report (charge-sheet) has already been filed in the court against the applicant on 30.9.2022. Learned counsel has placed on record the information issued by Subhash Chandra Diwakar, Lekhpal, Sadar, Prayagraj stating that the the title of the said land Arazi no.86/1, 86/2 is held by municipal board at gata khewat no.1 and the said property is not registered in the name of Princes Mahi @ Saher Naqvi vide report dated 7.9.2022, which has been annexed as Annexure no.8 to the short-counter affidavit dated 6.2.2023.

10. Learned counsel has stated that this is an open and shut case with respect to the applicant and she is not entitled for anticipatory bail. She has even misled the Apex Court in getting an order dated 3.3.2023 in SLP (Crl.) No.5412 of 2023. The factum of final report (charge-sheet) having been submitted against her was concealed by her in the Apex Court. Learned counsel has further stated that the informant is the Director in the company Kchipra Business Solution Pvt. Ltd. which was formed after his superannuation from Indian Army. The hard earned money of the informant has been usurped by the guile of the applicant misusing her licence to practice as an Advocate.

CONCLUSION:

11. It is an admitted fact that the said amount of Rs.50 lakhs has been transferred to the account of the applicant by the informant, who is the Director in company Kchipra Business Solution Pvt. Ltd. The applicant is an Advocate and has argued the matter in person and has also admitted the fact of the said transfer of money to her account, but has stated that she is unable to do so as she is facing a case under Section 138 NI Act at Telangana, as such she is not sure as to whom she has to repay the said amount.

12. After hearing the parties, going through the evidence on record and taking into consideration the fact that a huge amount of Rs.50 lakhs has been transferred to the account of applicant, I do not find it a fit case for grant of anticipatory bail to the applicant.

13. The anticipatory bail application is found devoid of merits and is, accordingly, rejected.

(Paras 26, 33, 38, 39,40, 41, 42, 44, 48, 50,51 and 57)

HELD:

The aforesaid entries in the case diary coupled with the statements of Radhika and Kiran go to suggest that the applicant had removed the jewelries from the house on 12.11.2021 as the deceased was putting the locker on fire and was living in her sister's house and on the day and time when the deceased committed suicide, he was not at his home. (Para 26)

So far as taking the written statements of some of the witness of the complainant's side and treating the same as statement under section 161 of Cr.P.C. is concerned, it is well settled that it is a normal rule of construction that when a statute vests certain power in an authority to be exercised in a particular manner then the said authority has to exercise it only in the manner provided in the statute itself. The principle behind the rule is that if this were not so, the statutory provision might as well not have been enacted. (Para 33)

It is well settled that the mere fact that if a married woman commits suicide within a period of seven years of her marriage, the presumption under section 113-A of the Evidence Act, 1872 would not automatically apply. The term "the Court may presume, having regard to all the other circumstances of the case, that such suicide had been abetted by her husband or by such relative of her husband." would indicate that the presumption under section 113-A of the Evidence Act, is discretionary and the Court can consider the nature of cruelty to which the woman was subjected to, having regard to the meaning of the word "cruelty" in section 498-A of the Indian Penal Code. "Abetment of suicide" is also confined to the case of persons who aid or abet the commission of the suicide. In the matter of an offence under section 306 of the Indian Penal Code, abetment must attract the definition thereof in section 107 IPC. Abetment is constituted by instigating a person to commit an offence or engaging in a conspiracy to commit, aid or intentional aiding a person to commit it. (Para 38)

The words "soon before her death" occurring in Section 304-B of Indian Penal Code are to be understood in a relative and flexible sense. Those words cannot be construed as laying down a rigid period of time to be mechanically applied in each case. (Para 40)

In the case in hand, accused is husband and is seeking bail pending trial. The issue which arises before this Court is whether if wife committed suicide within a period of seven years from the date of her marriage, the bail prayer of accused-husband is liable to be rejected straight away merely by drawing adverse presumption of abetment of suicide under Section 113-A of the Evidence Act, or presumption of dowry death under Section 113-B of the Evidence Act? (Para 42)

There is no dispute that the parameters for considering the bail of accused pending trial and conviction or acquittal of accused after adducing evidences by both the parties before the trial Court are different. This Court is of the view that each case turns on its own facts and circumstances. Even a little difference between the facts of two cases, may alter the entire aspect. In view of the provisions under Section 113A and 113B of the Evidence Act, it is not that the Courts will shut eyes and act as a silent

spectator in all the cases while considering bail applications, the Courts are duty bound to consider broader aspect of the matter and in the light of nature of allegations, the relevant materials of the case diary either produced by the complainant's side or by the accused's side to prove his/her innocence cannot be ignored because bail matters are also related to the valuable liberty of the accused. (Para 44)

The investigating officer has not assigned any cogent reason as to why he has not investigated the case in respect of the complaint made by Nisha Kharbanda on 13.11.2021 to the Commissioner, U.P. Police, Mahanagar, Kanpur as well as in respect of above-mentioned materials provided from the side of accused. Investigating Officer neither taken pain to open and see the materials (video of beating the applicant by the deceased and vulgar telephonic conversation between deceased and her father available in pen-drive, which has been filed at page no 178 to 202 of the paper book) provided from the accused's side nor recorded the transcript of the same in the case diary. Investigating Officer even did not ask Naveen Bhatia about the source and certificate under Section 65B of the Evidence Act regarding said video and telephonic conversation available in the pen-drive whereas he, vide letter dated 01.12.2021 had asked the complainant Pawan Grover about the source of origin regarding the material provided by him in the pen-drive. (Para 48)

In the present case the allegation of harassment and cruelty has been levelled by both sides against each other. Learned Government Advocate for the St. after arguing the matter at length, has lastly conceded that no sincere effort has been made by the investigating officer to investigate the material evidences provided from the accused side, while it is accepted on record and mentioned in CD Nos. 14 and 47. (Para 51)

Not investigating the materials provided from the side of the accused and only making the same as part of C.D Nos. 14 and 47 is a serious issue and it is not excepted from the investigating officer, who is in the rank of Deputy Superintendent of Police. This Court may observe that the investigating officer did not meet the obligations, he was under. (Para 57)

Application allowed. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjay Kumar Singh, J.)

1. Heard Shri Gopal Swaroop Chaturvedi, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Alok Ranjan, learned counsel for the applicant, Shri Shiv Kumar Pal, learned Government Advocate assisted by Shri Om Prakash Dwivedi, learned Additional Government Advocate representing the State and Shri Raghuvansh Mishra, learned counsel along with Shri Vidit Agarwal and Shri Ashwani Tripathi, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the first informant.

2. By means of this application under Sections 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, applicant Suryansh Kharbanda, who is involved in Case Crime No. 162 of 2021, under Sections 498-A, 323, 504, 506, 304-B, 120-B IPC and Section 34 of Dowry Prohibition Act, police station Nazirabad, district Kanpur Nagar, seeks enlargement on bail during the pendency of trial.

3. In short compass the facts of the case are that the informant Pawan Grover, who is the father of Anchal Kharbanda (hereinafter referred as 'the deceased') lodged a first information report on 20.11.2021 in respect of the incident which took place on 19.11.2021 against Suryansh (husband) Nisha (mother-in-law) Bharat Grover alias Kaku (phupha), Minakshi, Annu Khullar (paternal aunt) Puneet Kotwani, (brother-in-law)(Bahnoi) Nikita Kotwani (sister-in-law)(nand) and Tanya Grover with the allegations that the aforesaid accused persons used to demand Rs. 70,00,000/- (rupees seventy lac) and indulged in fight (Marpeet) with his daughter and instigate her to commit suicide. Suryansh and his mother Nisha are of bad character and they also wanted to drag the victim in that misdeed. On 12.11.2021, all the accused persons with common intention tortured the victim physically and mentally and in the evening Suryansh, husband of the victim after beating her, took her cash and jewelries. The said incident was reported to the police by dialing 112 and 181. The FIR further alleges that her daughter used to telephone him several times a day and tell him about the harassment and torture meted out to her by her family members. On 19.11.2021 when the victim did not make any call, he informed the police by dialing 181 and when he went to the matrimonial house of the victim, he found her daughter dead hanging from the fan. All the aforementioned accused persons with common intention after killing his daughter hanged her from the fan.

4. After getting the information, the police rushed to the spot and conducted inquest proceeding as well as post mortem examination on the body of the deceased.

5. Inquest on the body of the deceased was conducted on 20.11.2021 between 8.30 AM to 11.15 AM, in which Shri Jitendra Bhalla (maternal uncle of the deceased), Shri Rajeev Madan, (Mausa of the deceased) Shri Arun Grover (uncle of the deceased), Shri Akshay (brother of the deceased) and Smt. Reeta Grover (aunt of the deceased) were the witnesses of inquest proceedings.

6. Post mortem on the cadaver was conducted by Doctor Sunil Kumar on 20.11.2021 at 12.55 PM. Doctor found the following ante-mortem injuries:

“Ligature Mark 29 cm x 3.5 cm around the neck with a gap of 7 cm right side back of neck.

Distance 5.5 cm below chin, 6 cm below left ear and 1.5 cm below right ear.

On dissection white hard and glistening subcutaneous tissue present under the ligature mark.”

7. Shri Gopal Swaroop Chaturvedi, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant submits as under:

7.1 Keeping in view the injuries sustained by the deceased, it is a case of hanging and not strangulation.

7.2 There was no mention of any dowry demand in the suicide note, which was given by the father of the deceased to the police on 24.11.2021.

7.3 There is nothing on record to show that the applicant ever instigated or abetted the deceased to commit suicide.

7.4 At the time of incident, both the applicant (husband) and his mother (mother-in-law) of the deceased were in Lucknow.

7.5 Incident has not taken place in the manner as alleged by the prosecution.

7.6 Investigating officers have conducted one sided investigation in collusion with the complainant.

7.7 Describing the nature and behaviour of the deceased, it is submitted that the deceased was completely free and very domineering woman. She lived her independent and luxurious life. She did not even like anybody stopping her from coming and going anywhere at any time. Referring her family photographs filed at pages 443 to 450, it is submitted that she was enjoying her family trip with the husband and in-laws. On 18.11.2020 and 02.4.2021 all the family members including deceased as well as her both maids namely Ms. Radhika Kumari and Ms Kiran Kumari had gone to Goa and Bangalore tour by flight, which itself demonstrate that exaggerated allegations of harassment etc. against the applicant and his family members are false.

7.8 It is vehemently urged that in fact, deceased had tortured the applicant and his mother, therefore, Nisha Kharbanda, mother of the applicant gave a written complaint dated 13.11.2021 to the Commissioner of Police, Kanpur about her harassment by the deceased-Anchal Kharbanda, on which SI Prem Kumari made an enquiry and the allegations against the deceased were found true in the enquiry report dated 13.11.2021, which has been made part of CD No. 14. Sub-Inspector Prem Kumari, along with her report dated 13.11.2021 had submitted a pen-drive containing video of harassment of Smt. Nisha Kharbanda, mother of the applicant by the deceased, but said pen-drive has been removed by the investigating officer from the record.

7.9 On 08.02.2022 also Navin Bhatia, a relative of the applicant sent a representation by speed post to A.D.C.P (crime) along with some photographs and pen drive, in which there is a recording of very vulgar and abusive conversation between the deceased-Anchal Kharbanda and her father Pawan Grover for investigating several aspects of the matter indicated in the representation. Transcript of the conversation has been filed at page Nos. 178 to 202 of the paper book. It is pointed out that reference of the above documents/evidences has been mentioned in CD No. 47, but the investigating officer in collusion with the complainant did not take pain to investigate the same in correct perspective.

8. Opposing the prayer for bail of the applicant, Shri Shiv Kumar Pal, learned Government Advocate assisted by Shri Om Prakash Dwivedi, learned Additional Government Advocate representing the State and Shri Raghuvansh Mishra, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the first informant submit as under:

8.1 The applicant is the husband of the deceased. The marriage of the applicant with the deceased took place on 09.2.2019 and she committed suicide on 20.11.2021, i.e. within seven years of marriage and, therefore, the presumption of abetment and dowry death under Section 113-A and 113-B of the Indian Evidence Act respectively shall be drawn against the applicant and bail application of the applicant is liable to be rejected on this ground alone.

8.2 Deceased was a woman of 25 years and she left behind her toddler. The first information report speaks two essential details, (a) demand of dowry by the husband (for the purpose of business of Suryansh) (Suryansh ke Vyapar hetu). (b) cruelty by the accused towards the deceased.

8.3 A week before the incident, police helpline 112 and 181 were contacted to make complaints of harassment and jewelries having been taken forcibly by the applicant.

8.4 Mobile phones of the deceased, her mother and father were collected and made part of case diary. Computer operator of the police station made transcript of the whatsapp chat and conversation and also gave certificate under Section 65 of the Indian Evidence Act regarding its genuineness.

8.5 There was proximate link between the demand of dowry, cruelty and suicide committed by the deceased.

8.6 Referring the transcript of telephonic conversation dated 23.10.2021 between the deceased and her father filed at Page 279 to 291 of the paper book and whatsapp chat dated 16.10.2021 between the deceased and her mother, filed at page 271 to 272 of the paper book, it is submitted that the demand of dowry has been well established by digital record and the husband was the source of harassment of the deceased.

9. In the light of the rival contentions and the charges levelled against the appellants and to place the matter in its correct perspective, it is considered necessary to take note of the relevant materials on record.

10. The first informant Shri Pawan Grover, during investigation, has also handed over suicide note to the police on 24.11.2021 purportedly written by the deceased, which was found in the pocket of jeans of deceased's son kept in a bag. The suicide note reads as under:

(Anchal Kharbanda) Mera Beta (Yansh Kharbanda) agar hame zara si bhi kharoch ya nuksaan pachuchta hai toh uske zimedaar Bharat Grover, Meenakshi Grover, Suryansh Kharbanda, Nisha Kharbanda aur Nikita Kotwani aur Puneet Kotwani Mujhe bahot torture kar rahe hai pichhle kuch dino se:

- (1) Denying money, Bills etc.
- (2) Restricted me to go outside (of house).
- (3) If I dared to go out, he won't let me in.
- (4) His mother abuses me all time.
- (5) Every night he is out of the house.

11. In order to ascertain the veracity of the suicide note, it was sent to the Forensic Science Laboratory, Jhansi, which confirmed that it was in the handwriting of the deceased, but so far as signature on the suicide note is concerned, it does not correspond with the signature of the deceased.

12. Statement of the first informant was recorded on 20.11.2021 in which he reiterated the versions given in the first information report.

13. The investigating officer has recorded the statement of Akshay Grover, brother of the deceased on 24.11.2021, in which he has stated that the marriage of his sister was solemnized with the applicant on 09.2.2019. After the marriage the behaviour of the applicant towards the deceased was very cruel. After the deceased became pregnant, the applicant started mentally and physically torturing her as the deceased did not want to deliver the child. On 08.4.2020, deceased has informed him that her husband has brutally beaten her. When his parents went to the matrimonial house of the deceased to propitiate her in-laws, they threatened that unless Rs. 70,00,000/- (rupees seventy lac) will not be given by them for the business of the applicant, they will beat the deceased. On 12.11.2021 at about 8.00 in the night the applicant took away all the cash and jewelries of the deceased in two bags, information whereof had been given by the deceased to the police by dialing 112 and 181. On 19.11.2021 at about 6.00 P.M., he had a conversation with the deceased. When he along with his parents reached the house of the deceased at about 1.45 AM, they found the deceased hanging.

14. Instead of recording the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., of Smt. Reena Grover, mother of the deceased, the investigating officer has taken her written statement on 25.11.2021 in which she has made allegations of demand of dowry of Rs. 70,00,000/- (rupees seventy lac) and torture meted out to the deceased by her in-laws.

15. Shri Jitendra Bhalla (maternal uncle of the deceased), Shri Rajeev Madan, (Mausa of the deceased) Shri Arun Grover (uncle of the deceased), Shri Akshay and Smt. Reeta Grover (aunt of the deceased), who were the witnesses of inquest proceedings have given their written statements.

16. Statement of Radhika, daughter of Gopal, who has been working in the house of the applicant and the deceased was recorded by the investigating officer. She stated that she has been working in their house for the last about two years. For about one and a half year she has been looking after the son of Anchal (deceased). Whenever the quarrel take place, Anchal, her husband and mother-in-law bolt the room from inside. Applicant-Suryansh used to slap the deceased. The quarrel started after the birth of their son. The applicant used to smoke hookah. His friend also come to smoke hookah. Whenever, the applicant works out on the upper portion of the house, Nisha (mother-in-law) asked not to go there. She told to the deceased about this. She further stated that in the night intervening 19/20 between 12.00 and 1.00 in the night deceased after giving the child to Kiran, left for her room. On knocking the door, when the door was not opened, they saw from the glass that deceased was hanging from the fan. The information to this effect was given to the applicant from the phone of guard.

17. In her second statement, which was recorded on 08.12.2021, Radhika, daughter of Gopal stated that Anchal (deceased) always used to quarrel with Suryansh (applicant). One day, Anchal (deceased) beaten the applicant with broom. Anchal's family members also came to the house one or two times. Once, in the presence of her father, Anchal (deceased) assaulted her husband by tumbler. She used to say that she will leave her husband. She does not take care of her son. She further stated that she along with Kiran used to take care of deceased's son. From the conduct of the deceased, it appeared that she was a little insane. Her treatment was going on in Madhuraj Hospital and that she used to take medicines. On 12.11.2021, quarrel took place and the deceased was indulged in chaos and abusing all the members. Thereafter, the applicant went to her sisters house along with his mother Nisha. He came back in the evening and took the jewelries with him as the deceased was putting the locker on fire. Thereafter, the deceased called the police. On 13.11.2021 again police came to the house. Applicant and Nisha also came. Deceased was also called by the police. Two-three days before her death, deceased, while she was talking to his father, said that she will hang herself. On 19.11.2021 Kiran saw the scarf (Chunni) hanging from the fan, thereafter she removed it. In the night at about 12.00, when this witness Radhika and Kiran went to her room to take diaper and knocked the door, she neither opened the door nor received the phone. When they went to balcony, they noticed that she was standing on the bathroom and her neck was crooked. On seeing her in that posture, they scared and informed the applicant from the phone of guard.

18. Statement of Kiran, daughter of Suresh, who is also working in the house of the applicant, was recorded on 20.11.2021. She stated that she has been working in the house for about three months. She was with Ayansh (son of the deceased). At about 12.00 in the night she along with Radhika knocked the door, but she did not open the door. Thereafter, she informed the applicant from the phone of Guard.

19. Second statement of Kiran was recorded on 08.12.2021, in which she stated that deceased does not look after her child. From the conduct of the deceased, it appeared that she was a little insane. Her treatment was going on in Madhuraj Hospital and that she used to take medicines. On 12.11.2021, quarrel took place and the deceased was indulged in chaos and abusing all the members. Thereafter, the applicant went to her sister's house along with his mother Nisha. He came back in the evening and took the jewelries with him as the deceased was putting the locker on fire. Thereafter, the deceased called the police. On 13.11.2021 again police came to the house. Applicant and Nisha also came. Deceased was also called by the police. She always used to quarrel with the applicant and Nisha (mother of the applicant) and breaks the household articles of the house.

20. Statement of Ram Pratap Singh, who was working in the house of the deceased and applicant as guard was recorded on 20.11.2021. He stated that whenever quarrel took place between the applicant and the deceased, their relatives come to propitiate them. In the night intervening 19/20.11.2021 both the girls (maid) came to him and from his mobile spoken to the applicant. The child was also with them. After some time, Suryansh (applicant) and his in-laws along with police reached there and broken the glass of room, they found the deceased hanging.

21. In his statement Satish Chandra Vishwakarma, who was working in the house of the applicant as guard, has also stated that on 19/20.11.2021 both the girls (maid) came to him and asked that they have to talk to the applicant. Thereafter, they spoken to the applicant from the mobile of Ram Pratap. The child was also with them.

22. Statement of Ram Naresh alias Ram, who was also working in the house of the applicant as guard, was record on 24.11.2021 in which he has stated that quarrel between the applicant and the deceased was usual and in a month at least three-four times they used to quarrel.

23. Statement of Raja Ram, who was also a security guard in the house of the applicant, was recorded on 24.11.2021 in which he has stated that quarrel between the applicant and the deceased was usual.

24. Statements of Amit Singh and Vivek Yadav, who were working as bouncer (personal security guard) of the applicant were also recorded, who have stated that on the fateful day and time, the applicant were not at home, but he along with his mother were living in his sister's house and did not come to his house at Ashok Nagar since 13.11.2021. Prem Chandra, who was working as driver of Nisha Kharbanda, mother of the applicant, also stated that they were not at home and were living in Arya Nagar.

25. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and examined the matter in its entirety as well as case diary containing more than 1600 pages produced by the Government Advocate representing the State, I find that the marriage of the deceased with the applicant was solemnized on 09.2.2019. Applicant's house and parental house (Maika) of the deceased are in district Kanpur. The deceased was aged about 25 years and was an able bodied lady. As per description of Case Diary No. 41 prepared on 03.01.2022, on 12.11.2021 at 22:15:05 from the mobile of Smt. Reena Grover, mother of the deceased a call was made at 181 informing the police that Suryansh (applicant) took all the money and jewelries from the lockers and at present he is in the house of his sister. Again on 13.11.2021 at 19:20:59 a call was made from the mobile of Reena Grover at 181 to the effect that deceased is being ousted from her house and that her husband (applicant) took away all the jewelries. On 15.11.2021 at 08.49.08 again on the call of Reena Grover, mother of the deceased, when the police contacted the applicant, he told the police that there is danger to his life from the deceased. On 20.11.2021 at about 01:27:46, Smt. Reena Grover, mother of the deceased called at 181 informing the police that her daughter is not picking up the phone and when the police rushed to the house of the deceased, they came to know that deceased has died. At the house the persons from maternal side of the deceased were present, whereas no person from her in-laws was there. Radhika and Kiran (maid servants) in their statements stated that on 12.11.2021, the deceased was indulged in chaos and abusing all the members. Thereafter, the applicant went to her sister's house along with his mother Nisha. He came back in the evening and took the jewelries with him as the deceased was putting the locker on fire. Thereafter, the deceased called the police. On 13.11.2021 again police came to the house and that on 20.11.2021 when Radhika and Kiran went to her room to take diaper and knocked the door, she neither opened the door nor received the phone. When they went to balcony, they noticed that she was standing on the bathroom and her neck was crooked. On seeing her in that posture, they scared and informed the applicant from the phone of guard. After some time maternal family members of the deceased along with police came there and broken the glass and entered the room.

26. The aforesaid entries in the case diary coupled with the statements of Radhika and Kiran go to suggest that the applicant had removed the jewelries from the house on 12.11.2021 as the deceased was putting the locker on fire and was living in her sister's house and on the day and time when the deceased committed suicide, he was not at his home.

27. So far as suicide note which was found in the pocket of jeans of the toddler of the applicant and the deceased and was given to the police by the informant, is concerned, I find that no allegation of demand of dowry was levelled by the deceased against her husband and her in-laws.

28. I also find that in the post-mortem examination report, except ligature mark, no other injury was found on the body of the deceased and viscera was preserved and as per report of the Forensic Science Laboratory, Jhansi dated 12.5.2022, in viscera no poison was found.

29. Further in the conversation between the deceased and her mother and father, no specific demand of dowry has been mentioned by them. I also find that prior to the incident, neither in the call recording nor in the whats app chat, there was any demand of Rs. 70,00,000/- and for the first time, it has been mentioned in the FIR.

30. Since Radhika and Kiran, who are key witnesses in this case because they always stayed with the deceased-Anchal Kharbanda and took care of her toddler, in their statements have exposed the act and conduct of the deceased that deceased used to beat the applicant with broom (Jhadu), breaks the household article, take medicines for her illness, always indulge in marpeet, putting the locker on fire and does not care of her toddler etc., therefore, the investigating officer did not make the said statements as part of the charge sheet. Further the investigating officer has not given any cogent reason in the case diary for not considering the statements of Radhika and Kiran and also not including them in the list of witnesses while submitting the charge sheet dated 14.2.2022.

31. Along with the bail application certain photographs were annexed at pages 451 to 454. I find that in some photographs deceased was seen beating the applicant, which find corroboration from the statement of Radhika and Kiran, whereas it is argued from the complainant's side that the said photographs are not genuine.

32. So far as the prosecution case that the deceased was killed and then hanged does not find corroboration from the post-mortem report, which shows that exaggerated allegations have been levelled. It appears that after the marriage, the deceased did not want to deliver a child. She even did not take care of her toddler, therefore, wear and tear of matrimonial issues had arisen. I also find that balance as on 07.10.2021 in the account of the deceased was Rs. 1,07,365/-.

33. So far as taking the written statements of some of the witness of the complainant's side and treating the same as statement under section 161 of Cr.P.C. is concerned, it is well settled that it is a normal rule of construction that when a statute vests certain power in an authority to be exercised in a particular manner then the said authority has to exercise it only in the manner provided in the statute itself. The principle behind the rule is that if this were not so, the statutory provision might as well not have been enacted.

34. The F.I.R. was lodged against eight accused persons, out of whom, five persons, namely, Minakshi, Annu Khullar, Puneet Kotwani, Nikita Kotwani and Tanya Grover have been exonerated after investigation and final report has been submitted in their favour.

35. Smt. Nisha Kharbanda, mother-in-law of the deceased with similar accusation and Bharat Grover (Kaku), have been granted bail by the Coordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 27.5.2022 and 10.10.2022 in Criminal Misc. Bail Application Nos. 3398 of 2022 and 31590 of 2022, which have not been challenged before the Apex Court as informed by the counsel for the applicant.

36. Mr. Raghuvansh Mishra, learned counsel for the complainant heavily relied upon the section 113-A of the Indian Evidence Act. On the other hand Mr. Shiv Kumar Pal, learned Government Advocate made emphasis upon Section 113-B of the Evidence Act. Considering the rival submissions of the learned counsel for the parties on this issue, here it would be apposite to discuss about the statutory presumption under Section 113A and 113B of the Evidence Act, 1872.

37. Section 113A reads as follows:

113A. Presumption as to abetment of suicide by a married woman.—When the question is whether the commission of suicide by a woman had been abetted by her husband or any relative of her husband and it is shown that she had committed suicide within a period of seven years from the date of her marriage and that her husband or such relative of her husband had subjected her to cruelty, the Court may presume, having regard to all the other circumstances of the case, that such suicide had been abetted by her husband or by such relative of her husband.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section, "cruelty" shall have the same meaning as in section 498A of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860).]

38. It is well settled that the mere fact that if a married woman commits suicide within a period of seven years of her marriage, the presumption under section 113-A of the Evidence Act, 1872 would not automatically apply. The term "the Court may presume, having regard to all the other circumstances of the case, that such suicide had been abetted by her husband or by such relative of her husband." would indicate that the presumption under section 113-A of the Evidence Act, is discretionary and the Court can consider the nature of cruelty to which the woman was subjected to, having regard to the meaning of the word "cruelty" in section 498-A of the Indian Penal Code. "Abetment of suicide" is also confined to the case of persons who aid or abet the commission of the suicide. In the matter of an offence under section 306 of the Indian Penal Code, abetment must attract the definition thereof in section 107 IPC. Abetment is constituted by instigating a person to commit an offence or engaging in a conspiracy to commit, aid or intentional aiding a person to commit it.

39. Section 113B reads as follows:

113B. Presumption as to dowry death.-- When the question is whether a person has committed the dowry death of a woman and it is shown that soon before her death such woman had been subjected by such person to cruelty or harassment for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, the court shall presume that such person had caused the dowry death.

Explanation. For the purposes of this section, dowry death shall have the same meaning as in section 304B of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860).

40. The words "soon before her death" occurring in Section 304-B of Indian Penal Code are to be understood in a relative and flexible sense. Those words cannot be construed as laying down a rigid period of time to be mechanically applied in each case.

41. In the light of Section 113B of the Indian Penal Code, for the conviction under Section 304-B of the Indian Penal Code, the following essential ingredients are to be established/proved before the Trial Court :

"(a) the death of a woman should be caused by burns or bodily injury or otherwise than under a 'normal circumstances';

(b) such a death should have occurred within seven years of her marriage;

(c) she must have been subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative or her husband;

(d) such cruelty or harassment should be for or in connection with demand of dowry; and

(e) such cruelty or harassment is shown to have been meted out to the woman soon before her death."

42. In the case in hand, accused is husband and is seeking bail pending trial. The issue which arises before this Court is whether if wife committed suicide within a period of seven years from the date of her marriage, the bail prayer of accused-husband is liable to be rejected straight away merely by drawing adverse presumption of abetment of suicide under Section 113-A of the Evidence Act, or presumption of dowry death under Section 113-B of the Evidence Act ?

43. In the light of above issue, it is relevant to mention the brief background of the case. Initially in the F.I.R. it was the case of the complainant that the deceased was killed and then hanged, but in the investigation the same does not find corroboration from the post-mortem report, as cause of the death of the deceased has been found due to hanging. She committed suicide in her room which was locked from inside. Admittedly on the day of the incident, the accused-applicant (husband) and his mother (mother-in-law) were not in the house at Kanpur but they were in Lucknow. In the suicide note produced by father of deceased, there is no allegation of demand of dowry. It is a case where allegation of cruelty has been levelled by both the sides against each other, but investigating officer has conducted one sided investigation and submitted charge-sheet in haste manner on 14.02.2022 through Case Diary No. 46 dated 14.02.2021 against the applicant only relying upon the statements of the family members of the deceased ignoring other materials in favour of the accused-applicant on record, on which, concerned court below took cognizance on 17.02.2022. Even the transcript of telephonic conversations between the deceased and her father on which learned Government Advocate and learned counsel for the complainant heavily relied upon has been brought on record by the investigating officer through Case Diary No. 57 dated 28.03.2022 much after submitting charge-sheet against the applicant and taking cognizance of the case. Material evidences provided from the side of the accused though have been taken on record through case diary Nos.14 and 47, but no investigation has been done on the same, for the reason best known to the investigating officer.

44. There is no dispute that the parameters for considering the bail of accused pending trial and conviction or acquittal of accused after adducing evidences by both the parties before the trial Court are different. This Court is of the view that each case turns on its own facts and circumstances. Even a little difference between the facts of two cases, may alter the entire aspect. In view of the provisions under Section 113A and 113B of the Evidence Act, it is not that the Courts will shut eyes and act as a silent spectator in all the cases while considering bail applications, the Courts are duty bound to consider broader aspect of the matter and in the light of nature of allegations, the relevant materials of the case diary either produced by the complainant's side or by the accused's side to prove his/her innocence cannot be ignored because bail matters are also related to the valuable liberty of the accused.

45. A complaint has also been filed by Mrs Nisha Kharbanda, mother-in-law of the deceased to the Commissioner, Mahanagar, Kanpur on 13.11.2021 about the behaviour of the deceased towards her stating inter alia therein that the marriage of her son Suryansh Kharbanda was solemnized with the deceased on 09.2.2021 as per Punjabi rites and ritual. After the marriage, she came to know that Anchal (deceased) is mentally retarded. Every day she used to indulge in anarchy, fracas, beating and also extend threats of sending jail in false cases. The complaint further alleges that she also used to beat her husband. In this regard, the applicant has also given a written complaint to the Senior Superintendent of Police, Kanpur Mahanagar on 27.7.2020. The complaint made by Mrs. Nisha Kharbanda has been received by the Reception Officer, Police station Nazirabad, district Kanpur Nagar on 13.11.2021 vide token No. 166/102. Copy of the said complaint is extracted herein below:

47. After going through the case diary, I find that above mentioned complaint dated 13.11.2021 of Smt. Nisha Kharbanda and enquiry report thereon submitted by SI Prem Kumari has been kept on record as enclosure of CD No. 14. Similarly, representation of Naveen Bhatiya (filed at pages 456-467 of the paper book), photographs and pen drive containing CCTV footage and vulgar telephonic conversation between the deceased-Anchal Kharbanda and her father Pawan grover (filed at Page No. 178 to 202) have been made part of the case diary No. 47, but investigating officer did not make any effort to investigate that aspect of the matter.

The relevant extract of CD No. 47 is extracted below:

"श्री नवीन भाटिया के द्वारा अभियोग मे नामित अभियुक्तो की तरफ से मुकदमा उपरोक्त से सम्बन्धित एक प्रार्थना पत्र डीसीपी क्राइम महोदय को दिया गया है जो आज डाक पैड से प्राप्त हुआ। प्रार्थना पत्र मे प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट मिथ्या होने के आधार के सम्बन्ध मे 13 बिन्दु अंकित किये गये है तथा अभियुक्तो के बचाव मे 07 बिन्दु एवं अन्य अभियोजन साक्ष्य के संदेहास्पद होने के A से J तक आधार दिये है। प्रार्थना पत्र मे कुल 26 बिन्दु का समावेश किया गया है प्रार्थना पत्र के साथ सूर्यांश खरबंदा, आँचल खरबंदा व निशा खरबंदा के फोटो व एक पेन ड्राइव भी संलग्न की गयी है। प्रार्थना पत्र मय संलग्नक सीडी किया जा रहा है।"

48. The investigating officer has not assigned any cogent reason as to why he has not investigated the case in respect of the complaint made by Nisha Kharbanda on 13.11.2021 to the Commissioner, U.P. Police, Mahanagar, Kanpur as well as in respect of above mentioned materials provided from the side of accused. Investigating Officer neither taken pain to open and see the materials (video of beating the applicant by the deceased and vulgar telephonic conversation between deceased and her father available in pen-drive, which has been filed at page no 178 to 202 of the paper book) provided from the accused's side nor recorded the transcript of the same in the case diary. Investigating Officer even did not ask Naveen Bhatia about the source and certificate under Section 65B of the Evidence Act regarding said video and telephonic conversation available in the pen-drive whereas he, vide letter dated 01.12.2021 had asked the complainant Pawan Grover about the source of origin regarding the material provided by him in the pen-drive.

49. However, in the absence of the certificate under Section 65 of the Evidence Act, this Court does not deem it fit to consider the aforesaid evidences provided by the accused' side in pen-drive.

50. In the present case the allegation of harassment and cruelty has been levelled by both sides against each other. Learned Government Advocate for the State after arguing the matter at length, has lastly conceded that no sincere effort has been made by the investigating officer to investigate the material evidences provided from the accused side, while it is accepted on record and mentioned in CD Nos. 14 and 47.

51. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case as well as keeping in view the nature of the offence, evidence, complicity of the accused and submissions of the learned counsel for the parties as discussed and noted above, this Court is of the opinion that the applicant has made out a case for bail. Hence, the bail application is hereby allowed.

52 Let the applicant Suryansh Kharbanda, be released on bail in the aforesaid case crime number on furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned with the following conditions:

(i) That the applicant shall cooperate in the expeditious disposal of the trial and shall regularly attend the court unless inevitable.

(ii) That the applicant shall not directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the court or to any police officer or tamper with the evidence.

(iii) That after his release, the applicant shall not involve in any criminal activity.

(iv) The identity, status and residential proof of sureties will be verified by court concerned before the release of the applicant.

53. In case of breach of any of the conditions mentioned above, court concerned will be at liberty to cancel the bail of the applicant.

54. It is clarified that observations made herein above are only limited to the extent of determination of this bail application and will in no way be construed as an expression on the merits of the case. The trial court shall be absolutely free to arrive at its independent conclusions on the basis of evidence to be adduced uninfluenced by anything mentioned in the order.

55. Before parting with the case, I would like to mention that fair and unbiased investigation are the fundamental canons of our criminal jurisprudence and are quite in conformity with the constitutional mandate enshrined in Articles 20 and 21 of the Constitution of India. Every investigation has to be conducted in a fair manner and in accordance with law. Fair and proper investigation is the primary duty of the investigating officer. In every civilized society, the police is invested with powers of investigation of a crime to secure punishment for the criminals and it is in the interest of the society that the investigating agency must act honestly and fairly and the investigating officer should not ignore the materials on record because such acts shake the confidence of the common people not only in the investigating agency, but in the ultimate analysis in the system of dispensation of criminal justice. Where there is stringent provisions under the law, high responsibility lies on the investigating agency. The duty of the investigating officer is not only to bolster up the prosecution case, but to bring out the unvarnished truth. The ethical conduct is also essential and investigation should be free from objectionable features or legal infirmities.

56. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Common Cause Vs. Union of India (2015)6 SCC 332, held as under:

“ There is a very high degree of responsibility placed on an investigating agency to ensure that an innocent person is not subjected to a criminal trial. This responsibility is coupled with an equally high degree of ethical rectitude required of an investigating officer or an investigating agency to ensure that the investigations are carried out without any bias and are conducted in all fairness not only to the accused person but also to the victim of any crime, whether the victim is an individual or the State.”

The aforesaid decision has been followed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Maghavendra Pratap Singh alias Pankaj Singh Vs. State of Chhattisgarh, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 486.

57. Not investigating the materials provided from the side of the accused and only making the same as part of C.D Nos. 14 and 47 is a serious issue and it is not excepted from the investigating officer, who is in the rank of Deputy Superintendent of Police. This Court may observe that the investigating officer did not meet the obligations, he was under.

58. In view of the above, the matter is referred to the Director General of Police, U.P. Lucknow to look into the matter in the light of the observations of this Court as mentioned in preceding paragraph Nos. 30, 45 to 50 and 55 to 57 relating to faulty investigation and issue suitable guideline in respect of fair investigation in all cases within four weeks in order to maintain the public faith in investigating agencies as well as upon the courts.

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE KSHITIJ SHAILENDRA, J.

Writ-C No. 25182 of 2016

State of U.P.	...Petitioner
Versus
Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P. Bareilly & Anr.	...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Sri S.M. Iqbal Hasan, Sti Dhananjay Singh (S.C.)

Counsel for the Respondents:

Sri Bhupendra Nath Singh, Devendra Nath Singh, Sri Dharmendra Kumar Srivastava, Sri Hari Prakash Mishra

A. Civil Law – Labour Law- Award passed in favour of respondent-workman under challenge- respondent workman challenged sudden termination of his services- Section 6-N of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 and Rule 42-violation.

B. Applicability of 1947 Act on irrigation department-Irrigation Department falls under the definition of Industry- Section 2(j) of the Act 1947-plea of the petitioner rejected. (Paras 19, 20 and 21)

HELD:

I find substance in the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the respondent-workman as in the case of Des Raj Vs St.of Punjab (supra) the Apex Court had considered the tests laid down in various earlier judgments of the Apex Court itself, culminating in the judgment in Bangalore Water Supply (supra) and thereafter had arrived at a conclusion that the Irrigation Department falls within the definition of Industry within the meaning of Section 2(j) of the I.D. Act. It was held that the view taken down in Des Raj's case was the better in point of law and hence it is the view in Des Raj's case which was directed to be followed. Once it was so held and also that the work of the Irrigation Department of the St.of Punjab and the material placed before the Supreme Court including the written submissions filed on behalf of the concerned petitioners that the irrigation department of the St.of Maharashtra was discharging the same or similar functions as the Irrigation Department of the St.of Punjab, it was held that the projects of the Irrigation Department or work connected with that of the St.of Maharashtra, on the same tests as applied by the Apex Court in Des Raj's case would fall within the definition of an industry for the purpose of Section 2(j) of the I.D. Act. (Para 20)

In view of above discussions, the first contention of the St.to the effect that Irrigation Department does not fall within the definition of "Industry" or that provisions of Act of 1947 are not applicable, does not have any force and is hereby rejected. Even, the Labour Court, in the impugned award has also given the same interpretation after relying upon the judgments in the case of Des Raj and etc. (supra) and other authorities. I do not find any error in the view taken by the Labour Court in this regard. (Para 21)

C. Plea of State-petitioner- respondent-workman was appointed on part time basis-automatic cessation of his services-Section 114 of Indian Evidence Act-Court may draw favourable and unfavourable inference-No evidence led by the State-petitioner before Labour Court-hence, the contention rejected. (Paras 22 to 24)

HELD:

In this regard, I find it appropriate to refer to the provisions of section of 114 of Indian Evidence Act, 1872. It is a provision wherein the Court may draw inferences in any proceedings which include inferences favourable or unfavourable (adverse) to any party. (Para 23)

In the present case, reliance has been placed upon Annexure R.A.-1 to the rejoinder affidavit, so as to explain the nature of services of the respondent-workman, however the said document did not form part of the record of the proceedings before the Labour Court. In view of provisions of section 114 of Indian Evidence Act, 1872, as quoted herein-above, the said document cannot confer any advantage upon the State-petitioner in a writ of certiorari, by which a challenge has been made to the award of the Labour Court, which is based upon the oral and documentary evidence produced by the respective sides before it. Admittedly, annexure R.A.-1 to the rejoinder affidavit, did not form part of the record of the proceedings. Therefore, second contention of the St.regarding nature of service of the respondent is hereby rejected. (Para 24)

D. Reference made after a huge delay of 16 years-respondent workman was not gainfully employed-after termination of his services-no reinstatement has been awarded-hence, the contention regarding delay in reference also rejected-the impugned order does not suffer from any illegality, perversity-award upheld-writ petition dismissed. (Paras 43, 46, 47 and 49)

HELD:

Further, The Supreme Court in several authorities some of which are mentioned below has held that if the only defect in the termination order is non-payment of retrenchment compensation as required by Section 25 F of Industrial Dispute Act (or Section 6 N of U.P.I.D. Act) then it is not always necessary to direct reinstatement with full back wages and that in such situation more often than not proper relief may be to award consolidated damages/compensation particularly when the employer is Government or Governmental agency and relevant rules have not been followed before appointment. (Para 43)

The Court cannot ignore one aspect of the matter. The Labour Court, in the present case, has not directed reinstatement of the workman in his services. In case, the workman was aggrieved by denying such relief, he could have challenged the award but, admittedly, he has not challenged the same nor has he claimed relief of reinstatement. Even during the course of arguments, learned counsel for the respondent-workman submitted that at this stage he is just supporting the award whereby only backwages from the date of reference till the enforcement of the award have been awarded. Therefore, this Court is conscious of the fact that Labour Court did not award even backwages from the year, 1990, when the services of the respondent-workman were terminated, but the same have been awarded from the date of reference. Therefore, the delay of 15-16 years in the present case, is not fatal to the claim of the respondent-workman, who, though claimed reinstatement, but has been denied the same. I do not think that award of the backwages from the year 2005 onwards, would be defeated by the delay, which may be a factor in those cases, where the reinstatement with backwages has been ordered, as there is no question of reinstatement in the present case either under the award or in the absence of challenge by the workman to the award. (Para 46)

impugned award that the workman had stated that he had not worked over a period of 15 years and that he had made an oral request from the employer to take him on duty, but did not submit any application in this regard. Therefore, the labour Court has taken a view that the workman was not entitled to get backwages upto the date of making reference. Since the said denial has not been challenged by the workman by filing writ petition or otherwise, I cannot examine the validity or illegality of the said findings in totality of the facts of the case. (Para 47)

Therefore, the third contention of the State-petitioner based upon the delay in making reference also does not have any force and is liable to be discarded. (Para 48)

Insofar as other findings recorded in the award impugned are concerned, I find that the view taken by the Labour Court that termination of services of respondent-workman was contrary to the provisions of section 6-N of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 does not suffer from any illegality or perversity in view of the evidence on record produced before the Labour Court. (Para 49)

Application allowed. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Kshitij Shailendra, J.)

1. This writ petition has been filed challenging the award dated 01.04.2015 passed in Adjudication Case No. 77 of 2006 (Executive Engineer vs Krishna Murari Sharma) published on 04.11.2015 by the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, Bareilly (herein-after referred to as the "Labour Court").

Facts of the Case

2. The facts of the case are that the respondent-workman was appointed on the post of Tubewell Operator on 27.02.1985 and was assigned duties at Tubewell No. 106 Adhkata, Bareilly. He was given the charge of the said Tubewell under the order dated 30.07.1985 issued by the Assistant Engineer.

3. It is contended that the workman performed duties till October, 1990, but all of a sudden, his services were terminated in November, 1990 without disclosing any reason and without paying him retrenchment compensation. The workman agitated the issue and, ultimately, the matter was referred by the State Government to the Labour Court, Bareilly, where it was registered as Adjudication Case No. 77 of 2006 (Executive Engineer vs Krishna Murari Sharma) for adjudication of the dispute as to whether termination of services of the workman Krishna Murari Sharma w.e.f. 23.11.1990 is legal and, if not, as to what relief/benefit/compensation, the workman is entitled to get?

4. Pursuant to the notices issued by the Labour Court to the contesting parties, the workman filed his reply stating that he was appointed under the Office order No. 12/84/85 numbered as Letter No. 944/1/u0l0o0/dated 27.02.1985 and, initially he was sent for training and was appointed on the Tubewell No. 106 Adhkata Bareilly. It was further stated that the workman had been given complete charge of the aforesaid Tubewell under the Order No. 523, dated 30.07.1985 and further letter No. 200, dated 30.07.1985 issued by the Assistant Engineer; his services were full time in nature and that he had worked with full satisfaction of the authorities. It was further contended that violating the provisions of section 6-N of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 and Rule 42, the services of the workman were suddenly terminated in the year 1990. Accordingly, the workman made a prayer that he be reinstated on his post with full backwages and continuity in services. The workman also filed written arguments.

5. On the other hand, the employer (Executive Engineer) submitted his reply before the Labour Court stating that the workman was appointed on a monthly honorarium of Rs.299/- on purely temporary basis, which was mentioned in the conditions of the service agreement itself. The termination of services in April, 1990 was not disputed in the reply, and it was contended that since the Government had declared cadre of part-time Tubewell Operator as a dead cadre, the workman was not entitled for any relief. It was further contended that the Department did not fall within the definition of "Industry" and, therefore, the matter was not covered by the provisions of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947.

Evidence before Labour Court

6. The parties led evidence in support of their respective cases. A cash book has been annexed along with the writ petition, which shows that the workman was engaged by the Department and was paid salary/honorarium. The workman appeared as D.W.-1 and reiterated his stand in his oral evidence also explaining the nature of works and activities performed by him. He also stated that since after termination of his services, he was unemployed and dependent upon other persons. He also proved the documents on record, which included the Salary Register etc.

7. One Sushil Sharma, the Assistant Engineer was examined by the Department, who stated that the services of the workman according to the agreement were purely part-time, which were extended upto 30.09.1989 and the said agreement was not further extended. The said witness expressed his ignorance about sending/service of notice to the workman before termination of his services. Written arguments were also filed on behalf of the Department, stating that the reference was made after a long delay of 15 years in the year 2005 after the termination of his services; that the opposite party cannot be treated as a workman and that the Irrigation Department did not fall within the definition of "Industry" and, therefore, the provisions of U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 were not applicable and, consequently, the reference was liable to be dismissed.

The Award

8. The Labour Court, after considering the material on record and after hearing the respective parties, passed the impugned award dated 01.04.2015 holding that termination of the services of the workman w.e.f. 23.11.1990 was improper and illegal and the workman was held entitled to get the entire salary for the period with effect from the date of reference till the enforcement of the award.

The Basic Structure of the writ petition

9. The writ petition is founded basically on the pleas that Irrigation Department is not an "Industry" as per the law laid down by the Supreme Court in the case of Executive Engineer (State of Karnataka vs K Somasetty and others, reported in 1997 (5) Supreme Court Cases 434; the reference was made after a delay of 16 years; and, therefore, the workman is not entitled for any relief; the Labour Court has not properly considered the evidence; as per the decisions of the Supreme Court, payment of compensation is not a necessary consequence in case of reinstatement of the workman, and therefore, the order of reinstatement is bad in the eyes of law. (The plea qua reinstatement is contrary to award as reinstatement was not ordered under the award).

Counter Affidavit

10. Counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of the respondent-workman stating that termination of his services was contrary to the provisions of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, specially section 6-N thereof; that the workman had worked for more than 240 days and, therefore, is entitled for the reliefs claimed; findings of fact have been recorded by the Labour Court while passing the award impugned, which do not call for interference. Insofar as the law relied upon in the writ petition with regard to definition of "Industry" in connection with Irrigation Department is concerned, reliance has been placed upon the judgments of Supreme Court in the cases of Des Raj etc. Vs State of Punjab and others, reported in AIR 1988 Supreme Court 1182 and Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board vs A. Rajappa and others, reported in 1978 (2) Supreme Court Cases 213.

Rejoinder Affidavit

11. A rejoinder affidavit has been filed by the petitioner reiterating the stand taken in the writ petition also annexing a copy of the order dated 29.07.1985 as Annexure No. R.A.-1 to the rejoinder affidavit, wherein the conditions of services of the respondent-workman are enlisted, particularly disclosing that after 30.09.1989, the services of the workman shall automatically come to an end and that extension was granted to the services w.e.f. 01.10.1988 to 30.09.1989 after he was reappointed as part-time Tubewell Operator since after the expiry of his services on 30.09.1988.

12. I have heard Shri Dhananjay Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the petitioner State of U.P. and Shri Dharmendra Kumar Srivastava, learned Counsel for the respondent-workman.

Contention of the Petitioner

13. The contention of learned Standing Counsel on behalf of the petitioner is that since, the Irrigation Department does not fall within the definition of "Industry" as laid down by the Supreme Court in the case of Executive Engineer (State of Karnataka) (supra), not only the reference, but also the impugned award is illegal as the matter was not covered by the provisions of U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. Further submission is that the services of the respondent-workman were purely part time in nature, which ceased to operate after 1989 and, therefore, the termination was an automatic consequence as per conditions of the services and, hence, there is no illegality in terminating the services of the respondent-workman. Further submission is that reference was made at a very belated stage, i.e. after a period of 15-16 years and, therefore, the workman is not entitled for any relief.

Contention of Respondent-Workman

14. Per contra, Shri Dharmendra Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for respondent-workman has elaborately explained the ratio of the judgments of the Supreme Court in the cases of Des Raj etc. (supra) and Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board (supra) and by placing reliance upon the decision of this Court in the case of State of U.P. through Secretary Irrigation vs Mohd. Rais, reported in 2021 (169) FLR 520, he has contended that the issue as to whether the Department of Irrigation is or is not an Industry so as to attract the provisions of U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, has already been settled in the aforesaid authorities and, therefore, the contention of the State to the contrary is unacceptable.

Analysis of Rival Contentions

15. Before proceeding further, it is necessary to refer the law laid in various authorities as to the applicability of the provisions of the Act of 1947 on the Irrigation Department.

16. This Court in the case of State of U.P. through Secretary Irrigation Vs. Mohd Rais reported in 2021 (169) FLR 520, in paragraphs 5, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11, has held as under:

"5. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no.1 refuting the submission advanced by learned counsel for petitioner has in turn placed reliance upon judgment rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Des Raj vs. State of Punjab & Ors. reported in AIR 1988 Supreme Court 1182 to submit that a Government Department such as the Irrigation Department has already been held to come within the purview of term 'Industry' but the subsequent judgment rendered in the case of K. Soma Setty (supra) has been passed without noticing the aforesaid two judgments, which should therefore prevail. Learned counsel has also relied upon judgment rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Workmen of American Express International Banking Corporation vs. Management of American Express International Banking Corporation reported in AIR 1986 Supreme Court 458 to submit that for the purposes of calculation of 240 days of service, weekends and other gazetted holidays are required to be taken into account. Learned counsel has also relied upon a Full Bench Decision of this Court rendered in Ganga Saran vs. Civil Judge, Hapur reported in AIR 1991 Allahabad 114 to submit that in case of a conflict between judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court consisting of equal authorities, the concerned High Court must follow judgment which appears to lay down the law elaborately and accurately irrespective of time line. Learned counsel also placed reliance on a Single Judge judgment rendered by High Court of Bombay in Executive Engineer, Yavantmal Medium Project Division & Anrs. vs. Anant S/o Yadao Murate & Another reported in 1997 ILLJ 91 wherein after considering the contradictory judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court regarding Irrigation Department being an 'Industry' has followed the judgment rendered in the case of Des Raj (supra).

7. As has been indicated hereinabove, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Des Raj (supra) has held that an Irrigation Department of particular Government to be an Industry in terms of the Act of 1947. The said judgment has taken into account various other judgments rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court particularly a Constitution Bench judgment rendered in Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board vs. A. Rajappa, reported in (1978)2 SCC 213. On the contrary, the subsequent judgment rendered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in case of K. Soma Setty (supra) has not adverted to the aforesaid judgments of Des Raj (supra) and Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board (supra).

8. Upon perusal of Judgment rendered in the case of Desh Raj (supra) as compared to judgment rendered in the case of K. Soma Setty (supra), it is apparent that in the case of Desh Raj (supra) Irrigation Department has been held to come within the definition of Industry whereas judgment of K. Soma Setty holds otherwise. As such, there is clear conflict in the two judgments which are of Coordinate Bench.

9. The proposition of law required to be followed in conflicting judgments rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court by Benches of Coordinate strength has been discussed in the Full Bench of this Court in Ganga Saran (supra). The Full Bench after considering the relevant aspect has held as follows:

" 7. One line of decision is that if there is a conflict in two Supreme Court decisions, the decision which is later in point of time would be binding on the High Courts. The second line of decisions is that in case there is a conflict between the judgments of Supreme Court consisting of equal authorities, incidence of time is not a relevant factor and the High Court must follow the judgment which appears to lay down law elaborately and accurately.

8. Similar situation arose before a Full Bench of Punjab and Haryana High Court in the case of M/s Indo Swiss Time Limited, Dundahera, vs. Umrao, AIR 1981 Punj & Har 213. What the Full Bench in the said case held is extracted below (at pp. 219-220 of AIR) :

Now the contention that the latest judgment of a co-ordinate Bench is to be mechanically followed and must have pre-eminence irrespective of any other consideration does not commend itself to me. When judgments of the superior Court are of co-equal Benches and therefore, of matching authority then their weight inevitably must be considered by the rationale and the logic thereof and not by the mere fortuitous circumstances of the time and date on which they were rendered.

It is manifest that when two directly conflicting judgments of the superior Court and of equal authority are extant then both of them cannot be binding on the courts below. Inevitably a choice, though a difficult one, has to be made in such a situation. On principle it appears to me that the High Court must follow the judgment which appears to it to lay down the law more elaborately and accurately. The mere incidence of time whether the judgments of coequal Benches of the Superior Court are earlier later is a consideration which appears to me as hardly relevant."

This decision was followed by the Bombay High Court in the case of Special Land Acquisition Officer vs. Municipal Corporation, AIR 1988 Bombay 9. The majority of Judges in the Full Bench held that if there was a conflict between the two decisions of equal benches which cannot possibly reconcile, the courts must follow the judgment which appear to them to state the law accurately and elaborately. We are in respectful agreement with the view expressed by the Full Bench of Punjab & Haryana High Court in the case of M/s Indo Swiss Time Limited v. Umrao, (AIR 1981 Punj & Har 213) (Supra) especially when the Supreme Court while deciding Qamaruddin's case (1990 All WC 308) (Supra) did not notice the U.P. amendment to S.115, C.P.C. and earlier decision of the Supreme Court."

10. The aforesaid aspect has also been dealt with by a learned Single Judge of the High Court of Bombay in which judgment rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Des Raj (supra) has been followed:

"13. On considering all the concepts of industry and after reviewing the various tests which need not be repeated, as the tests were laid down in Bangalore Water Supply case (supra). The concept of sovereign and regal function was explained in Chief Conservator of Forests (supra). The Apex Court in para 13 specifically rejected an argument that welfare activities partake sovereign functions on the ground that if such a view was taken it would be eroding the view taken by it in Bangalore Water Supply's case. While observing that welfare activities partake sovereign functions the Apex Court did not notice this in Sub-Divisional Inspector of Post, Vaikam and Other (supra). Therefore, considering the various precedents of the Apex Court itself it is clear that the law declared by the Apex Court is that welfare activities do not necessarily partake sovereign functions. In Executive Engineer, State of Karnataka the reliance was placed on the judgment in the case of Union of India v. Jai Narain Singh (supra). In Union of India v. Jai Narain Singh, the Apex Court has merely noted that the Central Ground Water Board is not an Industry. It is not possible to discern from that judgment as to what were the reasons for the Apex Court to so hold. The other judgment relied on is that of State of Himachal Pradesh v. Suresh Kumar Varma & Anr. (supra). On a perusal of the fact and the law laid down it does not seem that the issue as to whether a particular department was an industry or not was in issue. What was in issue was whether the work charged employees who perform duty of transitory nature were appointed to posts and their appointments were on daily wage basis in an appointment to a post. The Apex Court therein noted that such appointments were not appointments to the posts and, therefore, no directions could have been given to re-engage them in any work or appoint them against existing vacancies. Thus the two judgments relied upon by the Apex Court to arrive at the conclusion arrived at in Executive Engineer, State of Karnataka (supra), nowhere have laid down the tests to hold as to why Irrigation Department is to be excluded from the definition of industry. As pointed out earlier, even the case of Sub Divisional Inspector of Post, Vaikam and Others was considered by the Apex Court in Physical Research Laboratory and explained the same in paragraph 10 of the judgment. After that, it proceeded to apply the tests as laid down in Bangalore Water Supply. In the case of Des Raj v. State of Punjab (supra) the Apex Court had considered the tests laid down in various earlier judgments of the Apex Court itself, culminating in the judgment in Bangalore Water Supply (supra) and thereafter had arrived at a conclusion that the Irrigation Department falls within the definition of Industry within the meaning of Section 2(j) of the I.D. Act. I am, therefore, of the considered opinion that the view laid down in Des Raj's case is the better in point of law and hence it is the view in Des Raj's case which will have to be followed. Once it is so held and as I have already set out earlier the work of the Irrigation Department of the State of Punjab and the material placed before this Court including the written submissions filed on behalf of the petitioners show that the projects undertaken by the irrigation department of the State of Maharashtra is discharging the same or similar functions as the Irrigation Department of the State of Punjab. It, therefore, follows that the projects of the Irrigation Department or work connected with that of the State of Maharashtra, on the same tests as applied by the Apex Court in Des Raj's case would fall within the definition of an industry for the purpose of Section 2(j) of the I.D. Act."

11. Upon applicability of said factors to the present case, it is clear that the judgment rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Des Raj (supra) has elaborately dealt with the question as to whether Irrigation Department of the Government would come within the definition of Industry or not. After considering the Constitution Bench Judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court rendered in Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has reached a definite conclusion that Irrigation Department of the Government would come within the definition of Industry."

17. The Supreme Court in the case of The State of Uttar Pradesh and others Vs. Uttam Singh, reported in AIR 2021 Supreme Court 3909, in paragraphs 10 and 11, has held as under:

"10. We have also taken note of the fact that during his 13 long years of employment and before that having battled the appellants for the period of 6 years to get his dues, the father of the respondent was also transferred from one department to the other, normally an aspect which would be associated with a person who had a regular employment. The most significant aspect is that had the father of the respondent not been considered a regular appointee, there would be no occasion for the Department to volunteer his services to the State Election Commission to perform election duties, which could have been done only by a Government employee, as is specified under Section 159 of the Representation of the People Act, 1950 ("Staff of certain authorities to be made available for election work").

11. The present case is thus one which is peculiar in its given factual scenario which we have discussed above and thus for all practical purposes, it is a case of an appointment against a regular vacancy. The respondent's father was treated as a regular employee by the aforesaid conduct of the appellants even though he was labelled as a Part Time tubewell operator."

18. This Court in the case of Chairman, Town Area & another Vs. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2013 (11) ADJ 197, in paragraph 14 held as under:

"14. The submission of learned counsel for the petitioner that in respect of true meaning and import of the expression 'Industry' defined under Industrial Disputes Act, the correctness of decision of Apex Court rendered in Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board Vs. A. Rajappa & others, AIR 1978 S.C. 548 has been doubted by Apex Court in Coir Board, Ernakulam, Cochin and Another Vs. Indira Devi P.S. and others, (1998) 3 S.C.C. 259 and further in case of State of U.P. Vs. Jai Bir Singh (2005) 5 S.C.C. Page 1 and decision of the Apex Court rendered in Bangalore Water Supply case has been referred to the larger Bench, also does not make any difference for the reason that the learned counsel for the petitioner could not point out the final decision rendered by larger Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in respect of the aforesaid references, therefore, I have no hesitation to hold that earlier view taken by the Apex Court is still good law and cannot be held to be detracted by Apex Court itself by now. Accordingly, no different opinion can be given by this court in this regard."

19. The submission of the learned counsel for the respondent-workman, therefore, is that once the Supreme Court as well as this Court have already held in the aforesaid authorities that Irrigation Department and also the departments of the like nature depending upon the services rendered by the said departments, shall be covered by definition of "Industry" and, further, once the respondent was treated as an employee in the petitioner establishment, no error can be pointed out in adjudication of the dispute by the Labour Court and the provisions of U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 were fully applicable.

20. I find substance in the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the respondent-workman as in the case of Des Raj v. State of Punjab (supra) the Apex Court had considered the tests laid down in various earlier judgments of the Apex Court itself, culminating in the judgment in Bangalore Water Supply (supra) and thereafter had arrived at a conclusion that the Irrigation Department falls within the definition of Industry within the meaning of Section 2(j) of the I.D. Act. It was held that the view taken down in Des Raj's case was the better in point of law and hence it is the view in Des Raj's case which was directed to be followed. Once it was so held and also that the work of the Irrigation Department of the State of Punjab and the material placed before the Supreme Court including the written submissions filed on behalf of the concerned petitioners that the irrigation department of the State of Maharashtra was discharging the same or similar functions as the Irrigation Department of the State of Punjab, it was held that the projects of the Irrigation Department or work connected with that of the State of Maharashtra, on the same tests as applied by the Apex Court in Des Raj's case would fall within the definition of an industry for the purpose of Section 2(j) of the I.D. Act.

21. In view of above discussions, the first contention of the State to the effect that Irrigation Department does not fall within the definition of "Industry" or that provisions of Act of 1947 are not applicable, does not have any force and is hereby rejected. Even, the Labour Court, in the impugned award has also given the same interpretation after relying upon the judgments in the case of Des Raj and etc. (supra) and other authorities. I do not find any error in the view taken by the Labour Court in this regard.

22. Insofar as the second contention of the State-petitioner that respondent-workman was appointed on part time basis and there was automatic cessation of his services, I have perused the award impugned in the writ petition, and I find that no document demonstrating the conditions of services of the respondent-workman was filed by the petitioner-Department during the course of proceedings before the Labour Court. The Labour Court has also observed that despite the fact that the workman had summoned the concerned documents from the Department, the latter did not produce the same. Therefore, relying upon the oral testimony of the D.W-1, in which reference of appointment letters/orders numbered as 523 dated 30.07.1985 and 200 dated 30.07.1985 was also made, the contention of the petitioner-Department regarding nature of services of the respondent-workman was not accepted.

23. In this regard, I find it appropriate to refer to the provisions of section of 114 of Indian Evidence Act, 1872. It is a provision wherein the Court may draw inferences in any proceedings which include inferences favourable or unfavourable (adverse) to any party. Section 114 alongwith relevant illustration (g) is quoted hereinbelow:-

"114. Court may presume existence of certain facts. --The Court may presume the existence of any fact which it thinks likely to have happened, regard being had to the common course of natural events, human conduct and public and private business, in their relation to the facts of the particular case.

Illustrations

The Court may presume-

(a) to (f)

(g). That evidence which could be and is not produced would, if produced, be unfavourable to the person who withholds it;"

24. In the present case, reliance has been placed upon Annexure R.A.-1 to the rejoinder affidavit, so as to explain the nature of services of the respondent-workman, however the said document did not form part of the record of the proceedings before the Labour Court. In view of provisions of section 114 of Indian Evidence Act, 1872, as quoted hereinabove, the said document cannot confer any advantage upon the State-petitioner in a writ of certiorari, by which a challenge has been made to the award of the Labour Court, which is based upon the oral and documentary evidence produced by the respective sides before it. Admittedly, annexure R.A.-1 to the rejoinder affidavit, did not form part of the record of the proceedings. Therefore, second contention of the State regarding nature of service of the respondent is hereby rejected.

25. The third contention of the petitioner is to the effect that since reference was made after a huge delay of 16 years and, therefore, reinstatement with back wages was not proper, particularly, when there is nothing on record to indicate that the workman was not gainfully employed anywhere.

26. In this regard, I have perused the oral testimony of D.W.-1, who clearly stated that after termination of his services, he could not get job anywhere and was wholly unemployed and dependent upon others. Futher, I find that reinstatement has not been ordered under the impugned award and what has been awarded is the past wages/salary to the workman only. Therefore, the contention that reinstatement is bad, is contrary to the award passed in the present case.

27. Insofar as gainful employment is concerned, there is no reason to disbelieve the statement of the workman as referred to hereinabove that he was not gainfully employed.

28. In State of Karnataka and another Vs. Ravi Kumar reported in 2009 (13) SCC 746, long delay in seeking reference of the dispute rendered the reference stale and Supreme Court held that it should have been rejected by the Labour Court. In that case reference was sought after fourteen years.

29. In Haryana State Cooperation Land Development Bank Vs. Neelam reported in 2005 (5) SCC 91, the Supreme Court held delay of seven years in approaching the Labour Court to be relevant factor to refuse relief of reinstatement.

30. In Bharat Sanchar Nigam Ltd. Vs. Bhurumal reported in 2014 (7) SCC 177, it has been held that relief of reinstatement with full back-wages, when termination is found to be illegal is not to be granted mechanically in all cases. In case of termination of a daily wage worker, made in violation of Section 25F of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 it was held reinstatement with back-wages was not automatic and instead workman should be given monetary compensation.

31. The Supreme Court in the case of Assistant Engineer, Rajasthan State Agriculture Marketing Board, Sub Division, Kota Vs. Madan Lal reported in (2013) 14 SCC 543, after considering the law on the subject, held that though Limitation Act is not applicable to such cases, yet delay in raising the dispute is an important circumstance and Labour Court must consider before it exercises discretion irrespective of objection has or has not been raised by the other side.

32. Further in the case of Assistant Engineer, Rajasthan State Agriculture Marketing Board, Sub-Division, Kota Versus Mohan Lal reported in (2013) 14 SCC 543 in similar circumstances, a muster roll employee in a government establishment who had been found to have worked for 286 days in one twelve calendar month period prior to his disengagement, and in whose case the industrial dispute was raised after six years, was found not entitled to reinstatement but compensation in lieu thereof, Rs. One lac only.

33. In Nagar Mahapalika vs. State of U.P. and Ors. reported in 2006,(5) SCC

127, it was held by Supreme Court that non compliance with the provisions of Section 6-N of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (this provision is broadly pari materia with Section 25-F), although, leads to the grant of a relief of reinstatement with full back wages and continuity of service in favour of the workman, the same would not mean that such relief is to be granted automatically or as a matter of course. It was emphasised that the Labour Court must take into consideration the relevant facts for exercise of its discretion in granting the relief.

34. Supreme Court in Municipal Council, Sujampur vs. Surinder Kumar reported in 2006 (5) SCC 173, reiterated the above legal position. That was a case where the Labour Court had granted reinstatement in service with full back wages to the workman as statutory provisions were not followed. The award was not interfered with by the High Court. However, the Court granted monetary compensation in lieu of reinstatement.

35. In Haryana State Electronics Development Corporation Ltd. v. Mamni reported in 2006 (9) SCC 434 following Nagar Mahapalika (supra), Supreme Court held that the reinstatement granted to the workman because there was violation of Section 25F, was not justified and modified the order of reinstatement by directing that the workman shall be compensated by payment of a sum of Rs.25,000/- instead of the order of the reinstatement.

36. In Uttaranchal Forest Development Corporation v. M.C. Joshi reported in 2007 (9) SCC 353, the services were terminated on 24.11.1991 in contravention of the provisions of Section 6-N of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act. He had completed 240 days of continuous work in a period of twelve months preceding the order of termination. The workman approached the Conciliation Officer on or about 02.09.1996, i.e., after a period of about five years. The Labour Court granted to the workman, M.C.Joshi, relief of reinstatement with 50% back wages. In the writ petition filed by the Corporation, the direction of reinstatement was maintained but back wages were reduced from 50% to 25%. The Supreme Court substituted the award of reinstatement by compensation for a sum of Rs.75,000/-.

37. In Ghaziabad Development Authority and Another v. Ashok Kumar and Another reported in 2008 (4) SCC 261], the Apex Court was concerned with the question as to whether the Labour Court was justified in awarding relief of reinstatement in favour of the workman who had worked as daily wager for two years. His termination was held to be violative of U.P. Industrial Disputes Act. The Supreme Court held that the Labour Court should not have directed reinstatement of the workman in service and substituted the order of reinstatement by awarding compensation of Rs.50,000/-

38. In Telecom District Manager v. Keshab Deb, reported in 2008 (8) SCC 402, the termination of the workman who was a daily wager, was held illegal on diverse grounds including violation of the provisions of Section 25-F. Supreme Court held that even in a case where order of termination was illegal, automatic direction for reinstatement with full back wages was not contemplated. The Court substituted the order of reinstatement by an award of compensation of Rs.1,50,000/-.

39. In Jagbir Singh v. Haryana State Agriculture Marketing Board reported in 2009 (15) SCC 327, the workman had worked from 01.09.1995 to 18.07.1996 as a daily wager and was granted compensation of Rs.50,000/- in lieu of reinstatement with back wages.

40. It is also necessary to refer to subsequent three decisions of Supreme Court, namely, Uttar Pradesh State Electricity Board vs. Laxmi Kant Gupta reported in 2009 (16) SCC 562, Bharat Sanchar Nigam Limited vs. Man Singh reported in 2012 (1) SCC 558 and Senior Superintendent Telegraph (Traffic), Bhopal vs. Santosh Kumar Seal and Others, reported in 2010 (6) SCC 773, where the view has been taken in line with the cases discussed above. As a matter of fact in Santosh Kumar Seal (supra), Apex Court awarded compensation of Rs.40,000/- to each of the workmen who were illegally retrenched as they were engaged as daily wagers about 25 years back and worked hardly for two or three years. It was held that the relief of reinstatement cannot be said to be justified and instead granted monetary compensation.

41. In the case of Assistant Engineer, Rajasthan Development Corporation and Anr. v. Gitam Singh reported in 2013 (5) SCC 136], Supreme Court on consideration of the most of the cases cited above reiterated the principle regarding exercise of judicial discretion by the Labour Court in a matter where the termination of the workman is held to be illegal being in violation of Section 25-F by holding that the Labour Court has to keep in view all relevant factors, including the mode and manner of appointment, nature of employment, length of service, the ground on which the termination has been set aside and the delay in raising the industrial dispute before grant of relief in an industrial.

42. The aforesaid authorities have been considered by this Court in its judgment in the case of State of U.P. Vs. Presiding Officer, Labour Court and another reported in 2017 (7) ADJ 393.

43. Further, The Supreme Court in several authorities some of which are mentioned below has held that if the only defect in the termination order is non payment of retrenchment compensation as required by Section 25 F of Industrial Dispute Act (or Section 6 N of U.P.I.D. Act) then it is not always necessary to direct reinstatement with full back wages and that in such situation more often than not proper relief may be to award consolidated damages/compensation particularly when the employer is Government or Governmental agency and relevant rules have not been followed before appointment.

- Nagar Mahapalika v. State of U.P., AIR 2006 SC 2113

- Haryana State Electronics Devpt Corpn v. Mamni, AIR 2006 SC 2427

- Sita Ram v. Moti Lal Nehru Farmers Training Institute, AIR 2008 SC 1955

- Jagbir Singh Vs. Haryana State Agriculture Marketing Board and another, AIR 2009 SC 3004

44. In Senior Superintendent, Telegraph (Traffic) Bhopal Vs. Santosh Kumar Seal and others, reported in AIR 2010 SC 2140, it has been held that if daily wagers had worked for 2 or 3 years and their services were terminated without payment of retrenchment compensation then consolidated damages should be awarded to them (Rs.40,000/- to each of the workmen was awarded in the said case). It has also been held that daily wager does not hold a post and can not be equated with permanent employee. This view has been reiterated in Incharge Officer Vs. Shankar Shetty reported in JT 2010(9) SC 262.

45. The aforesaid authorities have been considered by this Court in its judgment reported in 2011 (4) ADJ, 199: Divisional Engineer, Telecom, Jhansi Vs. Presiding Officer and another.

46. The Court cannot ignore one aspect of the matter. The Labour Court, in the present case, has not directed reinstatement of the workman in his services. In case, the workman was aggrieved by denying such relief, he could have challenged the award but, admittedly, he has not challenged the same nor has he claimed relief of reinstatement. Even during the course of arguments, learned counsel for the respondent-workman submitted that at this stage he is just supporting the award whereby only backwages from the date of reference till the enforcement of the award have been awarded. Therefore, this Court is conscious of the fact that Labour Court did not award even backwages from the year, 1990, when the services of the respondent-workman were terminated, but the same have been awarded from the date of reference. Therefore, the delay of 15-16 years in the present case, is not fatal to the claim of the respondent-workman, who, though claimed reinstatement, but has been denied the same. I do not think that award of the backwages from the year 2005 onwards, would be defeated by the delay, which may be a factor in those cases, where the reinstatement with backwages has been ordered, as there is no question of reinstatement in the present case either under the award or in the absence of challenge by the workman to the award.

47. Even the Labour Court has recorded clear finding just above the operative portion of the impugned award that the workman had stated that he had not worked over a period of 15 years and that he had made an oral request from the employer to take him on duty, but did not submit any application in this regard. Therefore, the labour Court has taken a view that the workman was not entitled to get backwages upto the date of making reference. Since the said denial has not been challenged by the workman by filing writ petition or otherwise, I cannot examine the validity or illegality of the said findings in totality of the facts of the case.

48. Therefore, the third contention of the State-petitioner based upon the delay in making reference also does not have any force and is liable to be discarded.

49. Insofar as other findings recorded in the award impugned are concerned, I find that the view taken by the Labour Court that termination of services of respondent-workman was contrary to the provisions of section 6-N of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 does not suffer from any illegality or perversity in view of the evidence on record produced before the Labour Court.

50. In view of above discussions, I do not find any illegality or perversity in the impugned award. The writ petition fails and is accordingly, dismissed.

51. The respondent-workman shall submit appropriate application before the Comptent Court/Authority by giving a calculation of the backwages/salary awarded under the impugned award with effect from the date of reference till the date of moving such application. The Court/Authority shall call upon the employer to submit calculations/computations of the backwages/salary payable to the respondent-workman under the award impugned. While computing/calculating the same, all increments in the backwages/salary, which the workman would have been entitled to, with effect from the date of reference shall also be added in award of the "entire backwages/salary".

52. On submission of such application by the respondent-workman, the Court/Authority shall pass an order directing release of the benefits, so computed and respondent-workman shall be paid the same within a period of four months from the date of moving of such application.

A. Criminal law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 -Section 482.- Entire proceedings under section 406 IPC under challenge- Allegation- Applicant did not execute sale deed- nor did he return money- Final report submitted after investigation-protest petition filed by the opposite party no.2- allowed- further investigation-again a final report was submitted- second protest petition-treated as complaint applicant summoned to face trial under Section 406 IPC.

B. Applicant moved application under Section 468 Cr.P.C.- complaint regarding the incident of 23.05.2011 registered on 23.06.2014- cognizance taken on 11.03.2016- maximum punishment under Section 406 IPC-3 years-cognizance cannot be taken after three years of lodging of complaint-both registration of complaint and order of cognizance-time barred.

C. Section 473 Cr.PC. – extension of period of limitation in certain cases mentioned therein- court has been empowered to take cognizance of the offence after the expiry of the period of limitation-if it is satisfied on the facts and the circumstances of the case-delay has been properly explained or that it is necessary to do so in the interest of justice-in the instant case FIR was lodged within time-opposite party no. 2 was continuously busy in the proceedings of the said case-no laxity on his part- opp. party no. 2 is entitled for benefit of extension of period of limitation on the basis of section 473 Cr.P.C.- application dismissed.

HELD:

If we go through the provision under section 468 Cr.P.C., this section relates to the bar taking cognizance after lapse of period of limitation. Admittedly, the applicant has been summoned to face trial for the offence under section 406 I.P.C. wherein the maximum sentence is 3 years imprisonment or imprisonment with fine or both. As per this section the offence is punishable with imprisonment for a term up to 3 years and the limitation period of taking cognizance in the case is also 3 years. On the basis of this provision only, the applicant makes a prayer that the offence is of year 2011 complaint has been registered on 23.6.2014 and cognizance has been taken in the year 2016, so the complaint and cognizance both are time barred.

If we go through the section 473 of Cr.P.C. it is related to the extension of period of limitation in certain cases mentioned therein. Vide this section 473 Cr.P.C., the court has been empowered to take cognizance of the offence after the expiry of the period of limitation, if it is satisfied on the facts and the circumstances of the case that delay has been properly explained or that it is necessary to do so in the interest of justice. Referring the Judgment of Bharat Damodar Kale Anr. Vs St.of Andhra Pradesh (2003) 8 SCC 559, learned counsel for the opp. party no.2 submitted that in the present case cognizance was taken on 11.3.2016 and the revisional court confirmed the said order vide order dated 15.7.2017. Section 473 Cr.P.C. provides for the extension of period of limitation, if the court is satisfied going through the facts and circumstances of the case. In the judgment of Bharat Damodar Kale (supra), the Apex Court held that this limitation is only for filing of a complaint and not for taking cognizance. Regarding cause of action dated 23.5.2011, on the basis of an application under section 156(3) Cr.P.C., the FIR was lodged on 17.9.2011. Thus, it would be considered that the process has been initiated within time, hence, the proceedings cannot be said to be time barred.

From the perusal of the record, it is found that after lodging the FIR within time, the opp. party no. 2 had to face two final reports and then to file two protest petitions. His second protest petition was registered as complaint on 23.6.2014. He had also to adduce the evidence under sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. in the complaint and finally the court took cognizance vide order dated 11.3.2016. This shows that the opp. party no. 2 was continuously busy in the proceedings of the said case. There was no laxity on his part. In the opinion of the court, the opp. party no. 2 is entitled for benefit of extension of period of limitation on the basis of section 473 Cr.P.C.

Application dismissed. (E-14)

List of Cases cited:

Bharat Damodar Kale & anr. Vs St.of Andhra Pradesh (2003) 8 SCC 559

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sadhna Rani
(Thakur), J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant, learned counsel for the opp. party no. 2 and perused the record.

2. By moving this application, the prayer is made to quash the order dated 24.12.2018 and 11.3.2016 passed by learned A.C.J.M., Court No. 4, Mathura, in case crime no. 2171 of 2014, Nand Kishor Vs. Lalit Kumar, and the order dated 30.9.2019 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 5, Mathura in Cr. Revision No. 25 of 2019, Lalit Kumar Vs. State of U.P. and another. Prayer is also made to quash the entire proceedings of case no. 2171 of 2014 under section 406 I.P.C., police station Highway District Mathura.

3. As per the facts of the case on 17.9.2011 an FIR under section 406 and 420 I.P.C. was lodged by the opp. Party no. 2 against the applicant Lalit Kumar alleging therein that the opp. party no. 2 and the applicant had agreed orally for sale of two plots belonging to the applicant to the opp. party no. 2. Date 23.5.2011 was fixed for the execution of the sale deed. The whole consideration of Rs. 2 lacs had been paid to the applicant in advance on the date fixed for sale deed. All the stamp papers were purchased in the name of the applicant. The documentation was also done on the same day and the same was submitted in the registry office. But at the time of registry, the applicant eloped. Thus, the allegation is that after taking due consideration and getting all the documents prepared, the applicant neither executed the sale deed nor returned the money to the opp. party no. 2 and thus, cheated the opp. party no. 2.

4. It has further been submitted that on the basis of the application u/s 156 (3) Cr.P.C., this FIR could hardly be lodged on 17.9.2011. After investigation Final Report was submitted on 15.10.2021. On the protest petition of the opp. party no. 2 the F.R. was rejected and further investigation was done but again the final report was filed. On the protest of the opp. party no. 2 for the second time, it was treated as a complaint and vide order dated 11.3.2016 the applicant was summoned to face trial under section 406 I.P.C.

5. On 17.8.2017, The applicant moved an application u/s 468 Cr.P.C. that after the incident dated 23.5.2011 the complaint has been registered on 23.6.2014, the cognizance has been taken on 11.3.2016 and the applicant has been summoned to face trial under section 406 I.P.C. only. Under section 406 I.P.C. maximum punishment is three years simple imprisonment. So the cognizance could not be taken in his case after 3 years of lodging the first information report. The complaint has also been registered after 3 years of the incident, thus, both the registration of complaint and the order of cognizance are time barred.

6. Vide order dated 11.3.2016 passed by learned A.C.J.M. Court No. 4 Mathura, the applicant was summoned to face trial under section 406 I.P.C. The application 13-B of the applicant was rejected. Vide order dated 24.12.2018 passed by A.C.J.M. Court No. 4 Mathura against that order the revision was also dismissed on 30.9.2019. Both the courts have wrongly rejected his application/ revision and did not consider his plea of section 468 Cr.P.C. hence, the prayer is made to quash all the three above mentioned orders.

7. Learned counsel for the opp. party no. 2 however, opposed the prayer and submitted that on 23.5.2011, the sale deed was to be executed. Regarding the incident dated 23.5.2011, the opp. party no. 2 had moved an application to S.S.P. concerned on 26.7.2011. Later on, on the basis of this application under section 156(3) Cr.P.C., the FIR was registered on 17.9.2011.

8. After investigation by police final reports were filed by the police twice and the opp. party no. 2 had to move protest petitions against both the final reports. His second protest petition was registered as complaint and after recording the statements under section 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. only, the cognizance was taken on 11.3.2016 against the applicant. Thus the opp. party no.2 was continuously contesting the matter. If the procedure takes long time, the applicant cannot be penalized for this delay, hence, prayer is made accordingly.

9. If we go through the provision under section 468 Cr.P.C., this section relates to the bar taking cognizance after lapse of period of limitation. Admittedly, the applicant has been summoned to face trial for the offence under section 406 I.P.C. wherein the maximum sentence is 3 years imprisonment or imprisonment with fine or both. As per this section the offence is punishable with imprisonment for a term up to 3 years and the limitation period of taking cognizance in the case is also 3 years. On the basis of this provision only, the applicant makes a prayer that the offence is of year 2011 complaint has been registered on 23.6.2014 and cognizance has been taken in the year 2016, so the complaint and cognizance both are time barred.

10. If we go through the section 473 of Cr.P.C. it is related to the extension of period of limitation in certain cases mentioned therein. Vide this section 473 Cr.P.C., the court has been empowered to take cognizance of the offence after the expiry of the period of limitation, if it is satisfied on the facts and the circumstances of the case that delay has been properly explained or that it is necessary to do so in the interest of justice. Referring the Judgment of Bharat Damodar Kale Anr. Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh (2003) 8 SCC 559, learned counsel for the opp. party no.2 submitted that in the present case cognizance was taken on 11.3.2016 and the revisional court confirmed the said order vide order dated 15.7.2017. Section 473 Cr.P.C. provides for the extension of period of limitation, if the court is satisfied going through the facts and circumstances of the case. In the judgment of Bharat Damodar Kale (supra), the Apex Court held that this limitation is only for filing of a complaint and not for taking cognizance. Regarding cause of action dated 23.5.2011, on the basis of an application under section 156(3) Cr.P.C., the FIR was lodged on 17.9.2011. Thus, it would be considered that the process has been initiated within time, hence, the proceedings cannot be said to be time barred.

11. From the perusal of the record, it is found that after lodging the FIR within time, the opp. party no. 2 had to face two final reports and then to file two protest petitions. His second protest petition was registered as complaint on 23.6.2014. He had also to adduce the evidence under sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. in the complaint and finally the court took cognizance vide order dated 11.3.2016. This shows that the opp. party no. 2 was continuously busy in the proceedings of the said case. There was no laxity on his part. In the opinion of the court, the opp. party no. 2 is entitled for benefit of extension of period of limitation on the basis of section 473 Cr.P.C.

12. Learned counsel for the applicant drawing the attention of the court toward the judgment in Prem Lata and another VS. State of Rajasthan and another claimed the benefit of his argument on the basis of section 468 of Cr.P.C. that the complaint was registered and the cognizance was taken on complaint after more than 5 years of the alleged committal of the crime but if we go through this judgment, it is found that as per the facts of this case there was a delay of 12 years between filing the complaint and taking cognizance and this delay was attributed to the complainant who did not produce any witness in support of his protest petition but in the case in hand, the position is different. Here delay is caused for the reason not attributing to the opp. party no. 2 / the complainant himself, but it was due to this long procedure which was followed due to the peculiar circumstances of the case, hence, learned counsel for the applicant cannot get benefit of this judgment filed by him.

13. No ground exists for quashing of the orders dated 11.3.2016, 24.12.2018 and 30.9.2019 as prayed by the learned counsel for the applicant above.

14. The application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. being devoid of merits is liable to be dismissed and is accordingly dismissed.

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Section 482 - objection regarding maintainability of application under section 482 Cr.P.C-against order rejecting the discharge application made- applicant asserted that entire proceedings of the aforesaid case challenged-hence application under section 482 Cr.P.C. is maintainable-generally, order rejecting discharge application shall be challenged by filing a criminal revision-exceptional cases-such orders may also be challenged under Section 482 Cr.P.C.-entire proceedings challenged-hence, application maintainable under Section 482 Cr.P.C. (Para 10)

HELD:

From the perusal of the aforesaid judicial precedents it is very much clear that an order regarding rejection of the discharge application would be generally challenged by filing a criminal revision, but in some exceptional cases such orders may also be challenged under Section 482 Cr.P.C. So far as the quashment of entire proceedings is concerned, it can be challenged under Section 482 Cr.P.C in this case the entire proceedings has been challenged which cannot be looked into in a criminal revision. As per F.I.R, the case is based on circumstantial evidence and the applicant has been made accused and the charge-sheet had been submitted against him. The discharge application has been rejected and the charge has to be framed. The applicant has taken several grounds that his name has come into picture during the course of investigation only on the basis of confessional statement of the accused Mohd. Farooq. The dead body / Skelton was recovered after three month of the incident. It is also mismatched to the deceased Gopal. It could not be ascertained as to whether the Skelton belonged to a male of female. Neither any direct evidence nor last seen evidence nor PM report is available. Mobile number, basis of the case is not in the name of the applicant which can only be decided during the trial and its validity might be seen under Section 482 Cr.P.C to some extent.

Since the applicant has also challenged the legality of entire proceeding, of the concerned Criminal Case, hence this application is maintainable under Section 482 Cr.P.C. (Para 10)

Application held to be maintainable. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Umesh Chandra Sharma, J.)

1. Heard Dr. C.P. Upadhyay, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Pankaj Kumar Tripathi, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the material available on record.

2. At the time of hearing of argument an objection regarding maintainability of this petition, has been raised by the learned A.G.A that since the order dated 25.11.2022, by which 19-B Discharge application has been rejected, has been challenged which is a final order, hence a revision can be preferred against such order and a petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is not maintainable. Contrary to that learned counsel for the appellant argued that since the entire proceeding of the aforesaid case has also been challenged, hence this petition under 482 Cr.P.C is maintainable. In support of the argument learned counsel for the applicant has relied on following citations.

3. In Amit Kapoor Vs. Ramesh Chander and others Manu/SC/0746/2012, para 19 and 20, following principles have been laid down:-

"19. Having discussed the scope of jurisdiction under these two provisions, i.e., Section 397 and Section 482 of the Code and the fine line of jurisdictional distinction, now it will be appropriate for us to enlist the principles with reference to which the courts should exercise such jurisdiction. However, it is not only difficult but is inherently impossible to state with precision such principles. At best and upon objective analysis of various judgments of this Court, we are able to cull out some of the principles to be considered for proper exercise of jurisdiction, particularly, with regard to quashing of charge either in exercise of jurisdiction under Section 397 or Section 482 of the Code or together, as the case may be :

1) Though there are no limits of the powers of the Court under Section 482 of the Code but the more the power, the more due care and caution is to be exercised in invoking these powers. The power of quashing criminal proceedings, particularly, the charge framed in terms of Section 228 of the Code should be exercised very sparingly and with circumspection and that too in the rarest of rare cases.

2) The Court should apply the test as to whether the uncontroverted allegations as made from the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith prima facie establish the offence or not. If the allegations are so patently absurd and inherently improbable that no prudent person can ever reach such a conclusion and where the basic ingredients of a criminal offence are not satisfied then the Court may interfere.

3) The High Court should not unduly interfere. No meticulous examination of the evidence is needed for considering whether the case would end in conviction or not at the stage of framing of charge or quashing of charge.

4) Where the exercise of such power is absolutely essential to prevent patent miscarriage of justice and for correcting some grave error that might be committed by the subordinate courts even in such cases, the High Court should be loathe to interfere, at the threshold, to throttle the prosecution in exercise of its inherent powers.

5) Where there is an express legal bar enacted in any of the provisions of the Code or any specific law in force to the very initiation or institution and continuance of such criminal proceedings, such a bar is intended to provide specific protection to an accused.

6) The Court has a duty to balance the freedom of a person and the right of the complainant or prosecution to investigate and prosecute the offender.

7) The process of the Court cannot be permitted to be used for an oblique or ultimate/ulterior purpose.

8) Where the allegations made and as they appeared from the record and documents annexed therewith to predominantly give rise and constitute a 'civil wrong' with no 'element of criminality' and does not satisfy the basic ingredients of a criminal offence, the Court may be justified in quashing the charge. Even in such cases, the Court would not embark upon the critical analysis of the evidence.

9) Another very significant caution that the courts have to observe is that it cannot examine the facts, evidence and materials on record to determine whether there is sufficient material on the basis of which the case would end in a conviction, the Court is concerned primarily with the allegations taken as a whole whether they will constitute an offence and, if so, is it an abuse of the process of court leading to injustice.

10) It is neither necessary nor is the court called upon to hold a full-fledged enquiry or to appreciate evidence collected by the investigating agencies to find out whether it is a case of acquittal or conviction.

11) Where allegations give rise to a civil claim and also amount to an offence, merely because a civil claim is maintainable, does not mean that a criminal complaint cannot be maintained.

12) In exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 228 and/or under Section 482, the Court cannot take into consideration external materials given by an accused for reaching the conclusion that no offence was disclosed or that there was possibility of his acquittal. The Court has to consider the record and documents annexed with by the prosecution.

13) Quashing of a charge is an exception to the rule of continuous prosecution. Where the offence is even broadly satisfied, the Court should be more inclined to permit continuation of prosecution rather than its quashing at that initial stage. The Court is not expected to marshal the records with a view to decide admissibility and reliability of the documents or records but is an opinion formed prima facie.

14) Where the charge-sheet, report under Section 173(2) of the Code, suffers from fundamental legal defects, the Court may be well within its jurisdiction to frame a charge.

15) Coupled with any or all of the above, where the Court finds that it would amount to abuse of process of the Code or that interest of justice favours, otherwise it may quash the charge. The power is to be exercised ex debito justitiae, i.e. to do real and substantial justice for administration of which alone, the courts exist.

20. These are the principles which individually and preferably cumulatively (one or more) be taken into consideration as precepts to exercise of extraordinary and wide plenitude and jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code by the High Court. Where the factual foundation for an offence has been laid down, the courts should be reluctant and should not hasten to quash the proceedings even on the premise that one or two ingredients have not been stated or do not appear to be satisfied if there is substantial compliance to the requirements of the offence. At this stage, we may also notice that the principle stated by this Court in the case of Madhavrao Jiwaji Rao Scindia (supra) was reconsidered and explained in two subsequent judgments of this Court in the cases of State of Bihar & Anr. v. Shri P.P. Sharma & Anr. [AIR 1991 SC 1260] and M.N. Damani v. S.K. Sinha & Ors. [AIR 2001 SC 2037]. In the subsequent judgment, the Court held that, that judgment did not declare a law of universal application and what was the principle relating to disputes involving cases of a predominantly civil nature with or without criminal intent. "

4. In Girish Kumar Suneja Vs. C.B.I. 2017 Law Suit (SC) 685, paras 28 & 29 to 34, 38,

28. However, this does not mean that the appellants have no remedy available to them - paragraph 10 of the order does not prohibit the appellants from approaching this Court under Article 136 of the Constitution. Therefore all that has happened is that the forum for ventilating the grievance of the appellants has shifted from the High Court to this Court. It was submitted by one of the learned counsel that this is not good enough for the appellants since this Court is not obliged to give reasons while dismissing such a petition unlike the High Court which would necessarily have to give reasons if it rejected a revision petition. In our opinion, the mere fact that this Court could dismiss the petition filed by the appellants under Article 136 of the Constitution without giving reasons does not necessarily lead to the conclusion that reasons will not be given or that some equitable order will not be passed. The submission of learned counsel has no basis and is only a presumption of what this Court might do. We cannot accept a submission that has its foundation on a hypothesis.

29. This leads us to another facet of the submission made by learned counsel that even the avenue of proceeding under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. is barred as far as the appellants are concerned. As held in Amar Nath and with which conclusion we agree, if an interlocutory order is not revisable due to the prohibition contained in Section 397(2) of the Cr.P.C. that cannot CrI. Appeal Nos._____/2017 etc. (@ SLP (CrI.) Nos. 9503/2016 etc.) be circumvented by resort to Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. There can hardly be any serious dispute on this proposition "

34. How ridiculous a challenge can become was illustrated in Centre for Public Interest Litigation v. Union of India 14 wherein this Court cautioned against challenging the appointment of the Special Public Prosecutor or his assistant advocates! Quite obviously, these are tactics employed by the accused to delay the trial while the endeavour of Parliament is to expedite all trials to prevent harassment to the accused. This has led to odd situations in 14 (2012) 3 SCC 117 CrI. Appeal Nos._____/2017 etc. (@ SLP (CrI.) Nos. 9503/2016 etc.)

38. The Cr.P.C. is undoubtedly a complete code in itself. As has already been discussed by us, the discretionary jurisdiction under Section 397(2) of the Cr.P.C. is to be exercised only in respect of final orders and intermediate orders. The power under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. is to be exercised only in respect of interlocutory orders to give effect to an order passed under the Cr.P.C. or to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to serve the ends of justice. As indicated above, this power has to be exercised only in the rarest of rare cases and not otherwise. If that is the position, and we are of the view that it is so, resort to Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution Crl. Appeal Nos._____/2017 etc. (@ SLP (Crl.) Nos. 9503/2016 etc.) would be permissible perhaps only in the most extraordinary case. To invoke the constitutional jurisdiction of the High Court when the Cr.P.C. restricts it in the interest of a fair and expeditious trial for the benefit of the accused person, we find it difficult to accept the proposition that since Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution are available to an accused person, these provisions should be resorted to in cases that are not the rarest of rare but for trifling issues.

5. In Vijay & others Vs. State of Maharashtra and others, Manu/SC/1633/2016, it was a case under Sections 420, 468, 506, 367 and 392 I.P.C of which para 7 and 8 are relevant, which are as under : -

7. After hearing the counsel and also after perusing the impugned order, we are of the considered opinion that the order of the High Court has no legs to stand in view of the law laid down by this Court in Prabhu Chawla [Prabhu Chawla v. State of Rajasthan, (2016) 16 SCC 30] . In the above referred case, in view of the divergent opinions of this Court in Dhariwal Tobacco Products Ltd. [Dhariwal Tobacco Products Ltd. v. State of Maharashtra, (2009) 2 SCC 370 : (2009) 1 SCC (Cri) 806] and Mohit v. State of U.P. [Mohit v. State of U.P., (2013) 7 SCC 789 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 727] , the matter was placed before the three-Judge Bench of this Court. The three-Judge Bench took the view that Section 482 CrPC begins with a non obstante clause to state:

"482. Saving of inherent powers of High Court.--Nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code, or to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice."

As Section 397 CrPC is attracted against all orders other than interlocutory, a contrary view would limit the availability of inherent powers under Section 482 CrPC only to petty interlocutory orders! A situation which is wholly unwarranted and undesirable. The three-Judge Bench has confirmed the law laid down by this Court in Dhariwal Tobacco Products Ltd. [Dhariwal Tobacco Products Ltd. v. State of Maharashtra, (2009) 2 SCC 370 : (2009) 1 SCC (Cri) 806]

8. In view of the above settled law, mere availability of alternative remedy cannot be a ground to disentitle the relief under Section 482 CrPC and, apart from this, we feel that the learned Judge without appreciating any of the factual and legal position, in a mechanical way, passed the impugned order, which warrants interference by this Court. Accordingly, the order of the High Court is set aside and the matter is remanded to the High Court for reconsideration in the light of the settled legal position.

6. Shila Devi Vs. State of U.P. and others Manu/UP/0649/2022, in para 11 of the judgment, the co-ordinate bench of this court has held that a petition under section 482 Cr.P.C is maintainable against the revisional order of the Sessions Court.

7. Contrary to the above citations the learned counsel for the respondent has relied on Haryana Land Reclamation and Development Corporation limited vs. State of Haryana and another 1990 SCC (Cri.) 515, in which it has been held that Magistrate's order of discharge of accused on the basis of Police Report is not an interlocutory order. Hence it can be challenged by revision before the High Court.

Learned A.G.A. has relied on following citations.

8. In Sanjay Kumar Rai Vs. State of U.P. and another 2021 0 Supreme (SC) 242, in this case the criminal revision had been dismissed by the high court on the ground of lack of jurisdiction under Section 397 Cr.P.C, the Hon'ble the Apex Court held that orders framing charges or refusing discharge are neither interlocutory nor final in nature and are not affected by bar of Section 397 (2) Cr.P.C. High Court is imbued with inherent jurisdiction to prevent abuse of process or to secure ends of justice having regard to the facts and circumstances of individual cases. It was also opined that trial court while considering the discharge application is not to act as a mere post office. Court has to sift through evidence in order to find out whether there are sufficient grounds to try the suspect or not. The court has to consider broad probabilities, total effect of evidence and documents produced and basic infirmities appearing in case and so on. The Apex Court held that the High Court has committed jurisdictional error by not entertaining revision on merit and overlooking the fact that "Discharge" is a valuable right provided to the accused. In para 12 and 13 of the judgment, the Apex Court has referred the judgments Asian Resurfacing of Road Agency Pvt. Ltd. Vs.

C.B.I, (2018) 16 SCC 299 and Madhu Limaye Vs. State of Maharashtra, (1977) 4 SCC 551, in which Hon'ble the Apex Court has held that order regarding framing charges can be challenged under Section 397 (2), Section 482 Cr.P.C or Article 227 of the Constitution of India in exceptional situation.

9. In Honnaiah T. H. Vs. State of Karnatka & Ors. 2022 Law Suite (SC) 950, in this case the Revisional power of the High Court has been discussed. In this case the question had arisen during the trial regarding the mark of exhibit, hence this ruling is not applicable on account of deference of situation.

10. From the perusal of the aforesaid judicial precedents it is very much clear that an order regarding rejection of the discharge application would be generally challenged by filing a criminal revision, but in some exceptional cases such orders may also be challenged under Section 482 Cr.P.C. So far as the quashment of entire proceedings is concerned, it can be challenged under Section 482 Cr.P.C in this case the entire proceedings has been challenged which cannot be looked into in a criminal revision. As per F.I.R, the case is based on circumstantial evidence and the applicant has been made accused and the charge-sheet had been submitted against him. The discharge application has been rejected and the charge has to be framed. The applicant has taken several grounds that his name has come into picture during the course of investigation only on the basis of confessional statement of the accused Mohd. Farooq. The dead body / Skelton was recovered after three month of the incident. It is also mismatched to the deceased Gopal. It could not be ascertained as to whether the Skelton belonged to a male of female. Neither any direct evidence nor last seen evidence nor PM report is available. Mobile number, basis of the case is not in the name of the applicant which can only be decided during the trial and its validity might be seen under Section 482 Cr.P.C to some extent.

Since the applicant has also challenged the legality of entire proceeding, of the concerned Criminal Case, hence this application is maintainable under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

ORDER

a) This application under 482 Cr.P.C is held to be maintainable. It is made clear that this Court has not touched the merit of this case.

b) List on 08th May, 2023, for hearing on merit, before the appropriate Bench.

c) The interim stay order passed on 17.02.2023, shall continue till the next date of listing.

Criminal Law - Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Section 482 - Entire proceedings under section 138 Negotiable Instruments Act under challenge- Allegation- Opposite parties issued cheque in favour of complainant- cheque dishonoured- applicants had resigned from the directorship on the date the cheque was issued- for promotion of justice or to prevent injustice or abuse of process- Court may look into the materials which have significant bearing on the matter at prima facie stage- applicant no.1 had resigned from the Company much prior to the issuance of the cheque in question- cheque did not bear the signatures of any of the applicants- On the date of issuance of the cheque the applicants were mere the shareholders of the Company- no active participation of the applicants in the day to day business and transactions of the Company-complaint also silent about the role of the applicants- travesty of justice to drag the persons to face the prosecution- no way connected with the issuance of the cheque or its being dishonour thereof-summoning order quashed-Application allowed.

HELD:

Thus on the basis of the discussion and the judgments placed above, it is found that applicant no.1 had resigned from the Company much prior to the issuance of the cheque in question. Admittedly, the cheque did not bear the signatures of any of the applicants. On the date of issuance of the cheque the applicants were mere the shareholders of the Company. There was no active participation of the applicants in the day to day business and transactions of the Company and in the complaint itself, it is not mentioned that as to how and in what manner the applicants were in-charge or were responsible to the accused Company for the conduct of its business. Thus, in the opinion of the Court, as on the face of the record, participation of the applicants is not found in the day to day functioning of the Company, hence, on the basis of the version that the defence would be seen at the time of evidence, it would be travesty of justice to drag the persons to face the prosecution who are no way connected with the issuance of the cheque or its being dishonour thereof.

On the basis of above discussion, the summoning of the applicants to face trial under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act is found to be against the mandate of law laid down by the Apex Court in above mentioned judgments.

Application allowed. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sadhna Rani
(Thakur), J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicants, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 and perused the record.

2. By moving this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the prayer is made to quash summoning order dated 25.11.2016 passed by the Upper Nyayalaya Pratham, Ghaziabad in C.C. No.67/2016 under Section 138 Negotiable Instruments Act and also to set aside order dated 22.02.2018 passed by the Additional Session Judge, Court No.15, Ghaziabad in Criminal Revision No.15 of 2017.

3. As per facts of the case, a complaint was filed by opposite party no.2 on 13.10.2016 against the applicants and six other persons with the version that opposite party no.2 was a limited Company registered under Companies Act and Vijay Kumar son of late Sri Satpal was authorized to filed complaint on behalf of the Company. The opposite party no.2 was indulged in the business of purchasing, selling and the construction of properties. Opposite party no.1 (in the complaint) M/S C.S.K. Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. was a registered Company. Opposite parties no.2 to 6 were its Directors and officers and opposite parties no.7 to 9 were the Company's authorized representatives. Opposite party nos.2 to 9 were responsible for all the day to day business and transactions of opposite party no.1, M/S C.S.K. Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd.

4. The opposite parties (in the complaint) had assured the complainant/opposite party no.2 herein that they would make available a land to the complainant/opposite party no.2 at a reasonable price. Having faith in the opposite parties the complainant/ opposite party no.2 on 16.08.2014 paid Rs. 5,00,00,000/- to the opposite parties, which were received by the opposite parties. When as per their assurance the opposite parties could not arrange the land for the complainant/opposite party no.2 and the complainant gave them a threat of lodging FIR, then opposite parties promised to pay Rs. 7,00,00,000/- in pursuance of the principal amount of Rs. 5,00,00,000/- with interest. Opposite parties issued a cheque of Rs.1,00,00,000/- in favour of the complainant/ opposite party no.2. This Cheque No.000283 valued Rs.1,00,00,000/- dated 30.06.2016 got dishonoured despite of the assurance of opposite parties that it would get encashed. The information of which was received by the complainant/opposite party no.2 on 08.09.2016 and after due procedure, a complaint under Section 420 I.P.C. was filed by the complainant/opposite party no.2 against the nine accused persons including the Company itself.

5. After the statements under Sections 200 Cr.P.C. and 202 Cr.P.C., the trial court vide order dated 25.11.2016 summoned all the nine accused persons to face trial under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act 1881. Against this order dated 25.11.2016, three of the opposite parties/ present applicants named Prashant Tyagi, Smt. Neeta Tyagi and Smt. Shweta Tyagi, filed a revision before the Sessions Court, which was rejected vide order dated 22.02.2018.

6. Feeling aggrieved by the summoning order dated 25.11.2016 and revisional court's order dated 22.02.2018, the present application has been moved by the applicants Prashant Tyagi, Smt. Neeta Tyagi and Smt. Shweta Tyagi only with the version that the applicant no.1, who was earlier the Director of M/S C.S.K. Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. had resigned from his post on 26.09.2014, much prior to the issuance of the cheque no.000283 dated 30.06.2016 to the opposite party no.2. He has filed a certified copy of the form DIR-12 (earlier known as Form 32) to this effect. He had neither signed the cheque nor the amount was received in his bank account, thus, applicant no.1 is the ex-director in the accused Company. Applicant nos.2 and 3 are the mother and sister of the applicant no.1. They had no relation with the functioning of the accused company in any manner. They could not be the in-charge and responsible for the conduct and the business of the Company. Without any specific averment that what role they have played in the functioning and the business of the accused Company they can not be implicated for the offence under Section 138 N.I. Act. The summoning order has been passed without considering section 141 of N.I. Act, hence, the prayer is made accordingly.

7. Counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of the opposite party no.2, wherein it has been mentioned that all the applicants alongwith co-accused persons are the shareholders of the Company and belong to the one and the same family. The present applicant Prashant Tyagi is the son of Ram Sevak Tyagi, applicant no.2 Smt. Neeta Tyagi is the wife of Ram Sevak Tyagi and applicant no.3 Smt. Shweta Tyagi, is the wife of Gaurav/ daughter of Ram Sevak Tyagi and Ram Sevak, is the person who is the authorized representative of the accused company and had issued the cheque in favour of the complainant/ opposite party no.2 on 30.06.2016. When an annual general meeting was called on 30.08.2013 the shares of all the shareholders in the disputed Company were as under:-

8. Ram Sewak Tyagi was having 20000 shares, Prashant Tyagi applicant no.1 was having 25000, Smt. Neeta Tyagi was having 20000 and Smt. Shweta Tyagi was having 10000 and Ram Kishan is said to have 5000 shares, thus, all the applicants here are the shareholders of the accused Company.

9. All the applicants are the blood relatives of Ram Sevak Tyagi and Ram Kishan, is the brother-in-law of Ram Sevak, who is the master mind of the aforesaid fraud. Ram Sevak was handling the financial as well as accounts affairs of the Company alongwith other Directors and the shareholders of the Company and was acting as authorized signatory of the Company on behalf of the Directors, authorized representatives as well as other shareholders of the Company. All the applicants are the over all incharge of the day to day business of the Company. A revision of the applicants was also rejected by the trial court. Applicant no.1 is a Joint Director of the Company and still a Director of the Company and for a very short time he was not there on the Board of Directors. All the applicants looking after the day to day business/ functions of the Company and being the authorized representatives of the Company are liable for the offence, hence, cognizance has been rightly taken by the court.

10. The applicants filed a rejoinder affidavit wherein the version of the counter affidavit was denied and the version of the complaint was reiterated.

11. Learned counsel for the applicants has argued that the trial court has not gone through the Section 141 of N.I. Act, which deals with the offences by the companies. Without going through this section the impugned order cannot be said to be a complete and affective order.

12. It is further submitted that the applicant no.1 had resigned on 26.09.2014, while impugned cheque is said to have been issued on 30.06.2016. Regarding his resignation Form DIR-12 has been filed, which is a public document. Applicant nos.2 and 3 are the mere shareholders in the Company and are the ladies. Their participation cannot be said to be active in the Company and in the complaint there is bald averment that the accused nos.2 to 6 being the Directors and shareholders of the Company are responsible for the day to day business of the accused Company. Accused No.7 to 9 including applicant no.2 and 3 are the authorized representatives of the Company and thus all the accused persons including all the three applicants are responsible for all the transactions and overall business of the Company. But no particulars or the specific role of the persons, which must be explained in the complaint, has been explained. Admittedly the cheque was not issued by any of the applicants. The applicant no.2, the mother of the applicant no.1 is a senior citizen. Hence, the prayer is made accordingly.

13. While, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 opposed the version of the learned counsel for the applicants and submitted that the applicants are the shareholders in the Company and family members of Ram Sevak, who is said to have issued the impugned cheque and being the wife, son and daughter of the person issuing cheque all the applicants must have knowledge of the works done by Ram Sevak Tyagi, accused no.7 in the complaint. As the whole fraud/ cheating has been done with the consent and connivance of the applicants, so with the help of section 141 of the N.I. Act all the applicants would be liable for the acts done by the Company. The defence of the applicants cannot be adjudicated at this stage of summoning. Liability of the applicants can only be decided after the evidence, because as per sub-section 2 of Section 141 of the Act if the offence is found to be proved committed with the consent or connivance of the applicants they shall also be liable for the same and punished accordingly. Thus for proving the offence of the applicants evidence of the parties is to be adduced and at this nascent stage the liability of the applicants cannot be fixed.

14. Placing reliance over the judgment of this Court in Smt. B Devi (Basanti Devi) Versus State of U.P., 2016 (94) ACC 90, it is argued by the learned counsel for opposite party no.2 that at the stage of summoning, defence of the accused which they may adduce subsequently cannot be seen since there was no occasion to look into such probable defence, which may come when the accused would appear and place their case before the magistrate. At the stage of issuing summons Court has to see whether a prima facie commission of offence has been shown and appropriate material has come justifying summoning of the accused persons against whom complaint has been made. The role assigned to the applicants in clear and specific words is referred in paragraph 4 of the complaint, that all the accused persons are responsible for the day to day business and functioning of the Company.

15. On the basis of this judgment, it is further argued that all the officers of the Company are responsible for the acts done in the name of Company and are sought to be made personally liable for the acts which resulted in criminal action being taken against the Company. Thus, it is claimed that all the applicants are liable to face trial under the aforesaid sections.

16. Learned counsel for the applicants drew the attention of the Court towards the judgment in Sunita Palita & Others Versus M/S Panchami Stone Qaurry, Criminal Appeal No. of 2022 [Arising out of SLP (Crl.) No.10396 of 2019], decided on 01.08.2022 and the judgment in S.M.S. Pharmaceuticals Ltd. v. Neeta Bhalla, (2005) 8 SCC 89, mentioned therein wherein para-10 the Apex Court held that-

"every person connected with the company shall not fall within the ambit of the provision. It is only those persons who were in charge of and responsible for conduct of business of the company at the time of commission of an offence, who will be liable for criminal action. It follows from this that if a director of a Company who was not in charge of and was not responsible for the conduct of the business of the company at the relevant time, will not be liable under the provision. The liability arises from being in charge of and responsible for the conduct of business of the company at the relevant time when the offence was committed and not on the basis of merely holding a designation or office in a company. Conversely, a person not holding any office or designation in a Company may be liable if he satisfies the main requirement of being in charge of and responsible for conduct of business of a Company at the relevant time. Liability depends on the role one plays in the affairs of a Company and not on designation or status."

17. The attention of the Court is further drawn towards judgment in Harshendra Kumar D. Versus Rebatilata Koley & Others, (2011) 3 Supreme Court Cases 351 wherein it was held by the Apex Court that as dishonour of the cheques through the complainant banker was subsequent to his resignation so the applicant no.1 could not be said to have any concern with the Company at that time.

18. It is further argued by the learned counsel for the applicants that mere bald averment in the complaint that the "applicants are looking after the day to day business of the Company, hence, they are liable for the offence committed" is not enough to prove the offence. This averment is devoid of any particulars.

19. In judgment Pooja Ravinder Devidasani Versus State of Maharashtra & Anr., (2014) 16 SCC 1, the Apex Court held that to fasten vicarious liability under Section 141 of the Act on a person, at the material time that person shall have been at the helm of affairs of the Company, one who actively looks after the day-to-day activities of the Company and particularly responsible for the conduct of its business. Simply because a person is a Director of a Company.....Every person connected with the Company will not fall into the ambit of the provision.

20. Thus, it is argued that the applicant no.1 was not a Director of the Company on the date when the cheque was issued and regarding his resignation Form DIR-12 has been placed on record. Applicant nos.2 and 3 are admittedly mere shareholders in the Company. They cannot be said to actively participate in the working of the Company.

21. So far as the argument of the learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 that a defence of the applicants shall be seen at the time of arguments is concerned in this regard, the Apex Court opined in judgment Harshendra Kumar D. Versus Rebatilata Koley & Others (supra) that if on the face of the documents which are beyond suspicion or doubt - placed by the accused, the accusations against him cannot stand, it would be travesty of justice if accused is relegated to trial and he is asked to prove his defence before the trial court. In such a matter, for promotion of justice or to prevent injustice or abuse of process, the Court may look into the materials which have significant bearing on the matter at prima facie stage.

22. If we go through the judgment in Smt. B Devi (Basanti Devi) Versus State of U.P. (supra) placed by the learned counsel for opposite party no.2, the facts of that case are different from the facts of the present case, wherein as per facts of that case the cheques were issued in the presence of the petitioner and other Directors, while in the present case cheques were never issued in the presence of the complainant rather till then applicant no.1 had resigned from the Company. While as per facts of the case of Smt. B Devi (Basanti Devi) Versus State of U.P. (supra) the resignation and the documents with regard to the resignation were alleged to be the forged documents, but in the case in hand resignation of applicant no.1 has not been challenged, hence, the counsel for the opposite party no.2 cannot take benefit of the judgment of this Court, in the presence of various Apex Court judgments placed above by the counsel for the applicants.

23. Thus on the basis of the discussion and the judgments placed above, it is found that applicant no.1 had resigned from the Company much prior to the issuance of the cheque in question. Admittedly, the cheque did not bear the signatures of any of the applicants. On the date of issuance of the cheque the applicants were mere the shareholders of the Company. There was no active participation of the applicants in the day to day business and transactions of the Company and in the complaint itself, it is not mentioned that as to how and in what manner the applicants were in-charge or were responsible to the accused Company for the conduct of its business. Thus, in the opinion of the Court, as on the face of the record, participation of the applicants is not found in the day to day functioning of the Company, hence, on the basis of the version that the defence would be seen at the time of evidence, it would be travesty of justice to drag the persons to face the prosecution who are no way connected with the issuance of the cheque or its being dishonour thereof.

24. On the basis of above discussion, the summoning of the applicants to face trial under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act is found to be against the mandate of law laid down by the Apex Court in above mentioned judgments.

25. The summoning order dated 25.11.2016 passed by the Upper Nyayalaya Pratham, Ghaziabad and the judgment dated 22.02.2018 passed by the Additional Session Judge, Court No.15, Ghaziabad in criminal revision are quashed.

26. The application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is, hereby, allowed.

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Section 482 - - Indian Penal Code, 1860 -Sections 406, 420, 467, 468, 471 & 120-B - entire proceeding challenged- applicant was mere director of the company- appointed under Sections 149/150 of the Companies Act, 2013-he had no role in the alleged transactions- mandate of Section 305(2) Cr.P.C. not followed- under Section 482 Cr.P.C. High Court may examine and take note of the facts and allegations- to ascertain the genuineness of the impugned proceedings-vicarious liability may be fixed-if the applicant was involved in alleged transaction at any point of time- an Officer, Director, Managing Director or Chairman of the Company can be made an accused along with the Company- only if there is sufficient material to prove his active role coupled with criminal intent- all the contentions raised by the applicant's counsel relate to disputed questions of fact-the court below is not expected to examine and assess in detail the material placed on record-at stage of issuing process- quashing of charge sheet, summoning order and entire proceedings can also be done only if it does not disclose any offence or if there is any legal bar which prohibits the proceedings on its basis-prayer for quashing refused- applicant directed to move discharge application -application disposed of. (Paras 42,46, 49, 52, 53, 54 and 55)

HELD:

The powers of the High Court to quash criminal proceedings in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is well known. The High Court may not enter into determination of the disputed questions of fact at the stage of its exercise of powers under section 482 Cr.P.C., however, the Court may examine and take note of the facts and allegations in order to find out whether the impugned proceedings are in abuse of the process of the court and law and their continuance would result in miscarriage of justice or not. (Para 42)

Thus, an Officer, Director, Managing Director or Chairman of the Company can be made an accused along with the Company only if there is sufficient material to prove his active role coupled with criminal intent. Indian Penal Code does not contain any provision for vicarious liability. For Managing Director or Director to be accused and their implications in the offence allegedly committed on behalf of the company, when the accused is a Company, the complaint/ FIR or Charge-sheet must contain requisite allegations of commission of the offence by such individual(s). (Para 49)

Thus, this Court is of the view that all the contentions raised by the applicant's counsel relate to disputed questions of fact. The court has also been called upon to adjudge the testimonial worth of prosecution evidence and evaluate the same on the basis of various intricacies of factual details which have been touched upon by learned counsel. The veracity and credibility of material furnished on behalf of the prosecution has been questioned and false implication has been pleaded. In the process of invoking its inherent jurisdiction, this court cannot be persuaded to have a pre trial before the actual trial begins. The submissions made by the learned counsel call for adjudication on pure questions of fact which may be adequately adjudicated upon only by the trial court and while doing so even the submissions made on points of law can also be more appropriately gone into by the trial court in this case. (Para 52)

The power of High Court is very wide but should be exercised very cautiously to do real and substantial justice for which the court alone exists. Hence the chances of ultimate conviction is bleak and no useful purpose is likely to be served by allowing criminal proceedings to be continue. In S.W. Palankattkar & ors. Vs St.of Bihar, 2002 (44) ACC 168, it has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that quashing of the criminal proceedings is an exception than a rule. The inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C itself envisages three circumstances under which the inherent jurisdiction may be exercised:-(i) to give effect an order under the Code; (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of the court; (iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice. (Para 54)

In absence of any of the grounds recognized by the Apex Court which might justify the quashing of summoning order dated 17.10.2022 or consequential proceedings, the prayer for quashing the same is refused, as I do not see any abuse of the courts process either. The court below has been vested with sufficient powers to discharge the accused even before the stage to frame the charges comes, if for reasons to be recorded it considers the charge to be groundless. (Para 55)

Application disposed of. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Heard Shri Satish Chandra Mishra, the learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Purnendu Chakravarty and Ms. Soumya Chaturvedi, the learned counsel for the applicant, Shri Anurag Verma, the learned A.G.A. for the State-opposite party No. 1, Shri Prashant Chandra, the learned Senior Advocate assisted by Ms. Radhika Singh and Shri Nilish Anand, the learned counsel for the opposite party No. 2.

2. The present application under section 428 Cr. P.C. has been filed by the applicant-Shekhar Ramamurthy, seeking following prayer:-

"Wherefore it is most respectfully prayed that in the aforesaid facts and circumstances the application preferred under section 482 Cr.P.C. may kindly be allowed and the quashment of Order dated 17.10.2022 alongwith all consequential proceedings and effects arising out of FIR no. 260/2018 U/s 406, 420, 467, 468, 471 and 120-B of IPC P.S. - Hussain Ganj, District Lucknow, pending before the court of ACJM - III may kindly be quashed along with all consequential proceedings in respect of the applicant in the interest of justice."

3. Learned Counsel for the applicant submits that the facts of the case, in brief, are that the United Breweries Limited (hereinafter referred to as "UBL") is a company registered under the provisions of Companies Act, 1956, having its registered office at U.B. Tower V.B. City 24, Vittal Mallya Road, Bangalore, Karnataka. The Company is engaged in manufacturing and sale of beer and other alcoholic beverages in India and worldwide.

4. That the applicant was working with UBL as Managing Director and a First Information Report was lodged on 16.09.2018 by the informant Shri Sanjeev Jaiswal wherein certain allegations regarding some business disputes were made against three persons, namely, Akhil Sarda, Himanshu Tewari and Arvind Padhi. During the course of time applicant ceased to be a Director of the aforesaid company w.e.f. 31.07.2020 upon his superannuation and the information about his leaving the company was filed with the Ministry of Corporate Affairs in Form DIR-12 as required under the Companies Act, 2013.

5. As per the contents of the FIR lodged on a complaint moved by opposite party No. 2 at Police Station Husainganj, Lucknow, on 15.9.2018 and as per the case setup the complainant placed an order for three trucks of Beer on 07.09.2018 and on 11.09.2018 through e-mail to Akhil Sharda, Branch Manager (Sales) Uttar Pradesh and Uttarakhand and made payment of Rs. 65,66,152/- on 7.9.2018 and Rs. 27,32,750/- on 11.9.2018, total amount of Rs. 92,98,902/- by his banker, Federal Bank Limited, Cantt. Road Lucknow. Despite making of payment for three trucks of Beer, Akhil Sarda did not ensure the supply of the ordered Beer, nor any proper reply was given by him. The complainant was apprehensive that three employees named in the FIR had no intention to supply the ordered Beer and they wanted to misappropriate the amount paid by the complainant and as per Excise Rules, the supply was to be made within 72 hours of the order.

6. The opposite party No. 2 placed a demand order for two trucks load of Beer through e-mail, total 2360 cases to the company on 07.09.2018. This e-mail was also sent to the Assistant Excise Commissioner Web Distillery, Aligarh. As the next two days, i.e., Saturday and Sunday were holidays, the process for supply of goods for which order was placed by the opposite party No. 2 was initiated on 10.9.2018. In pursuance of the indent/ demand order dated 07.09.2018 placed by opposite party No. 2, the Company directed its transporter Sical Logistics Limited to arrange vehicles for delivery of goods from its godown located at Noida to the Licensee at Lucknow. The transport permit (Form FL-36) was issued by the concerned Excise Officer on 11.9.2018 for supply of Beer by 13.09.2018. The consignment of Beer was dispatched on 11.9.2018 for delivery to the Licensee at Lucknow after payment of excise duty in advance through transporter of the company by Truck Nos. UP32 HN 3209 and UP32 FN 8048.

7. The aforesaid two trucks had to reach the destination on 13.9.2018. And on 13.9.2018, location of both the trucks was tracked through GPS upto the outer limit of the Lucknow city, which was near about one and a half kilometre from the hotel Ramada Palace of opposite party No. 2 and, thereafter, the GPS device of both trucks lost contact with GPS Tracker Agency, namely, QTS Solutions Private Limited after 11.41 hours on 13.09.2018. QTS Solutions Private Limited sent a message through e-mail on 14.9.2018 at 4.15 PM of one Mr. Dharam Chand, Depot In-charge of the company.

8. It is further submitted that Ashok Kumar Jaiswal, who manages the business of opposite party No. 2, also runs Hotel Ramada, Near Bani Junabganj, Banthara, Lucknow, which is located at a distance of 1.5 kilometres from the place from where the trucks loaded with Beer went missing and which is specifically the same place from where the GPS fitted in the trucks stopped giving the track of the two trucks on 13.09.2018.

9. The Depot In-charge also informed to the officers of the company as well as the transporter, Sical Logistics Limited about the loss of trucks. The officers of the company also inquired about the trucks' location from opposite party No. 2 through telephone, but opposite party No. 2 informed the company that the trucks had not yet reached the designated place i.e. 18, Station Road, Lucknow.

10. It was further submitted that the trucks loaded with Beer from the Depot of the company going missing, was brought to the notice of the District Excise Officer, who directed the company on 14.9.2018 to lodge the FIR at Police Station Badalpur, Gautam Budh Nagar. When the whereabouts of the trucks were not known, on 21.9.2018 the company requested consent of the licensee, opposite party No. 2, through e-mail for re-supply of Beer against the order dated 07.09.2018 as the consent was required for issuance of transport permit (FL-36) afresh. The consent for re-supply was given by opposite party No. 2 through e-mail on 22.9.2018. The licensee also informed the company that criminal proceedings have already been initiated at Police Station Husainganj, Lucknow with regard to non supply of Beer and civil proceedings would be initiated for the losses suffered. After consent was given by the licensee on 22.09.2018, fresh Form FL-36 was issued by the concerned Excise Officer on 22.09.2018 itself and Beer was supplied on 22.09.2018 against the order dated 07.09.2018 after payment of excise duty in advance through transporter of the company. The supply of goods/ Beer were delivered at the address of the licensee at Lucknow on 24.09.2018, which were accepted by the licensee, however, acknowledgement was not given by the licensee even after receipt of the goods. As the licensee did not acknowledge the delivery of goods, the drivers of the trucks contacted Excise Department and the Excise Inspector was deputed to verify the delivery of beer. The concerned Excise Officer inspected the location of the licensee and submitted his report dated 27.9.2018 that Beer ordered was duly received by the licensee at his premises.

11. It was further submitted that the licensee had also placed another order dated 11.09.2018 at 8:30 PM through e-mail for delivery of 1180 cases of Beer at Varanasi. Since the vehicles of transportation of Beer to Varanasi could not be arranged and the transport Form FL-36 could not be issued, the licensee on 15.09.2018 modified its original order dated 11.09.2018 through e-mail instructing that the ordered beer be delivered at Lucknow instead of Varanasi. After receipt of revised order on 15.09.2018 with changed location, the vehicle was arranged and Form FL-36 was issued by the concerned Excise Officer on 17.09.2018 and on the same day, consignment of beer was dispatched after payment of excise duty in advance through transporter of the company, namely, Buland Logistic Limited by Truck No.UP81 BT 5285 from Aligarh to Lucknow and the consignment of beer was delivered and received by the licensee on 19.09.2018. It is stated that the goods were duly delivered as per the orders dated 07.09.2018 and 11.09.2018.

ARGUMENTS OF LEARNED COUNSEL FOR THE APPLICANT

12. Shri Satish Chandra Mishra, learned Senior Advocate representing the applicant has submitted that there is no evidence available on record to show any involvement of the applicant in the alleged offence. The criminal liability cannot be fixed only on the allegation that the accused was the Director of the company at the time of alleged incident without disclosing any role played by such a person in the entire transaction, which form part of the offence and subject matter of the FIR and the chargesheet. He has further submitted that the impugned proceedings against the applicant are nothing but a sheer abuse of process of law and are manifestly unjust and illegal. The investigation has also been closed, and no further investigation is pending in the offence and the continuation of proceedings against the applicant would result only in his further harassment for alleged offences, which are not made out against him inasmuch as there is no evidence indicating his involvement in any manner for commission of alleged offences.

13. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicant further submits that pursuant to the FIR (case crime no. 260/2018, P.S. Husaain Ganj, Lucknow) the Investigating Officer had filed a charge sheet dated 10.02.2019 against four accused persons namely (i) Akhil Sarda, (ii) Himanshu Tewari, (iii) Arvind Padhai and (iv) United Breweries Limited. Thereafter cognizance on the said chargesheet was taken by the court below vide order dated 13.02.2019 to issue process against the then Managing Director Shekhar Ramamurthy vide order dated 13.02.2019 and there is no any whisper about his name in the aforesaid chargesheet and the order.

14. It was further submitted that Subsequently the investigation proceeded further and one more charge sheet No. 03 was filed by the Investigating Officer against nine Directors and Company Secretary of the Company. The court below vide order dated 03.04.2019 had taken cognizance on the said supplementary chargesheet, thereafter the investigation remained continued and a final chargesheet No. 04 dated 27.06.2019 was filed before the court below, whereupon cognizance was taken on 04.07.2019 by the court below. In the final chargesheet in the cloumn of the name of the accused at Serial No. 4 only the name of the company, i.e., United Breweries Limited, has been mentioned and the name of the applicant Shekhar Ramamurthy, Managing Director, has not been mentioned in any of the chargesheet. Thus entire proceedings initiated against the applicant is sheer abuse of process of law.

15. It was further argued that in the impugned summoning order dated 17-10-2022 it has been mentioned by the court below that earlier vide order dated 25.03.2019 non bailable warrants were issued against all the accused persons. The order sheet of this case reveals that the chargesheet was filed on 10.02.2019 and cognizance was taken on 13.02.2019 only against the company UBL and other three individual persons, namely (i) Akhil Sarda, (ii) Himanshu Tewari, (iii) Arvind Padhai. It is argued that the name of the applicant was not mentioned in the summoning order and summons were issued to other persons fixing the next date for appearance for 05.03.2019. Subsequently, on 15.03.2019 case was called out and service report on the summons was submitted to the court, thereafter, bailable warrants for Rs. 10,000/- were issued against three individuals and UBL as a Company by the court below. Neither the summons nor the bailable warrants were issued against present applicant Shekhar Ramamurthy and the processes were only issued against the Company. Subsequently, the date was fixed for 25.03.2019 as indicated in the order sheet as it has been mentioned that Vakalatnama for the accused was filed. Thereafter, non bailable warrants were issued against three individuals and UBL as a Company vide order dated 25.03.2019.

16. It is further submitted by Senior Advocate Shri Satish Chandra Mishra that from perusal of the aforementioned order sheet it is apparent that non bailable warrants were issued only in respect of aforesaid three persons who were named in the FIR and charge sheeted. The non bailable warrant cannot be issued against a juristic person which in this case is the company UBL. No otherwise meaning could be deciphered from these order sheets that at any point of time the court below had issued any kind of process including non bailable warrant against the applicant-Shekhar Ramamurthy at any point of time.

17. It is further submitted that the learned court below in the impugned summoning order has mechanically followed the earlier order dated 25.03.2019 without going into the details of the material available on record that in previous order sheets which clearly indicate that no process have ever been initiated against the present applicant and neither he is an accused in the individual capacity.

18. It is further submitted that after filing of the chargesheet and after taking cognizance vide order dated 13.02.2019, the informant Sanjeev Jaiswal, opposite party no. 2 had filed an application dated 07.03.2019 for issuance of bailable warrant against the then Managing Director namely, Shekhar Ramamurthy, whereupon the learned court below passed the order on the application itself to the effect that Investigating Officer shall be present on the date fixed and also directed him to file his reply, and the application was fixed for 25.03.2019 and on the same date 07.03.2019 the Investigating Officer also moved an application before the learned court below submitting therein that vide order dated i.e., 07.03.2019 the learned court below has included UBL as an accused through Managing Director, Shekhar Ramamurthy in place of the name of Director and for rest of its shareholders/Directors a supplementary chargesheet shall be filed as investigation was continued.

19. It was further submitted that thereafter the name of applicant has been inserted in handwriting in the chargesheet No. 2 but the same is not available in the certified copy of the said chargesheet issued on 20.02.2019. The certified copy was applied vide Folio No. 77(urgent) dated 20.02.2019 and the same was issued on the same day. This certified copy was filed before this Court by the other named accused persons including the company as a party as Annexure No. 01 to the Crl. Misc. Application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. No. 2005 of 2019, Akhil Sharda and others Vs. State of U.P. and others and the aforesaid application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. No. 2005 of 2019 was allowed by a coordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 06.03.2020. Subsequently, the State of U.P. and the complainant had challenged separately the aforesaid order dated 06.03.2020 before the Hon'ble Supreme Court by filing their respective SLP(Crl) No. 5577 of 2020 and SLP (Crl) 5899 of 220 and the Hon'ble Supreme Court vide order dated 11.7.2022 restored the proceedings initiated against three accused persons and the Company, while setting aside the order dated 06.03.2020 passed by this Court with certain directions. The opposite parties namely, State of U.P. and the informant, never argued or intimated the Hon'ble High Court that the name of applicant has been inserted in handwriting at any subsequent date or if the name has been inserted/ included then when the said order was passed by the learned court below regarding inclusion of the name of applicant as an accused along with the company. Even though the name of the applicant was not arrayed as party by the state or the informant before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the aforesaid SLP's.

20. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicant further submits that upto 25.03.2019 neither cognizance was taken against the applicant nor any non bailable warrant was issued against the applicant and the non bailable warrant dated 25.03.2019 was issued only against three individuals and the Company and not against the present applicant.

21. It was further argued by the learned counsel for the applicant that the name of applicant was neither in the FIR nor in the chargesheet but his name came into light only after an application moved on behalf of Investigating Officer before the court concerned after which the learned court below without due process of law inserted the name of applicant and issued process vide impugned order dated 17.10.2022.

22. It was further stated that on the application moved on behalf of Company under Section 305 Cr.P.C., the learned court below issued non bailable warrant and thus has caused a manifest illegality on the ground that it is the prerogative of the company to appoint its representative/ authorized person under section 305 Cr. P.C. for participation in the criminal prosecution for and on behalf of the company and the said person would be representative of the said company.

23. It was further argued by the learned counsel for the applicant that the learned trial court has no power for naming any particular person with name and designation for prosecution on behalf of company. It is settled principle of law that whenever a company is named in any prosecution then as per the provisions of Section 305(2) Cr. P.C. the company may appoint a representative for the purpose of inquiry or trial and such appointment need not be under the seal of corporation and the counsel has placed the provision of Section 305 Cr.P.C. which is reproduced here in below:-

305. Procedure when corporation or registered society is an accused.-(1) In this section, "corporation" means an incorporated company or other body corporate, and includes a society registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 (21 of 1860).

(2) Where a corporation is the accused person or one of the accused persons in an inquiry or trial, it may appoint a representative for the purpose of the inquiry or trial and such appointment need not be under the seal of the corporation.

(3) Where a representative of a corporation appears, any requirement of this Code that anything shall be done in the presence of the accused or shall be read or stated or explained to the accused, shall be construed as a requirement that that thing shall be done in the presence of the representative or read or stated or explained to the representative, and any requirement that the accused shall be examined shall be construed as a requirement that the representative shall be examined.

(4) Where a representative of a corporation does not appear, any such requirement as is referred to in sub- section (3) shall not apply.

(5) Where a statement in writing purporting to be signed by the managing director of the corporation or by any person (by whatever name called) having, or being one of the persons having the management of the affairs of the corporation to the effect that the person named in the statement has been appointed as the representative of the corporation for the purposes of this section, is filed, the Court shall, unless the contrary is proved, presume that such person has been so appointed.

(6) If a question arises as to whether any person, appearing as the representative of a corporation in an inquiry or trial before a Court is or is not such representative, the question shall be determined by the Court.

24. Learned counsel for the applicant further stated that a Director of a company who was not in charge or responsible for the conduct of business of the company at the relevant time, will not be liable under those provisions. As held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in S.M.S. Pharmaceuticals Ltd Vs Neeta Bhalla (2005) 8 SCC 89, relevant portion is quoted below:

"Section 141 of the Act does not say that a Director of a Company shall automatically be vicariously liable for commission of an offence on behalf of the Company. What is necessary is that sufficient averments should be made to show that the person who is sought to be proceeded against on the premise of his being vicariously liable for commission of an offence by the Company must be incharge and shall also be responsible to the Company for the conduct of its business".

25. That learned counsel for the applicant further submits that liability depends on the role one plays in the affairs of a company and not on designation or status alone and was pleased to refer the judgment passed by the Apex Court in the case of a S.M.S. Pharmaceuticals Ltd Vs Neeta Bhalla(Supra).

26. Learned counsel for the applicant has vehemently submitted that in the facts and circumstances of the case and after having satisfied that the ingredients of Sections 406, 420 IPC are not made out against the applicant and the case falls within the parameters laid down by this Hon'ble Court in the case of Ch. Bhajan Lal v. State of Haryana 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 which are required to be considered while quashing the criminal proceedings. He further argued that from the material available on record it is apparent that the applicant is not involved in the day-to-day affairs of the company or in running of the company, thus, he prays that it is a fit case for quashing of the impugned order dated 17.10.2022 and all the consequential proceedings of the case so far as the present applicant is concerned.

27. Per contra, Shri Anurag Verma, the learned Additional Government Advocate for the State-opposite party No. 1 has submitted that learned court below has not committed any error or illegality in issuing non bailable warrant order dated 17.10.2022 against the applicant including other accused persons and the present application is liable to be dismissed as all the Factual aspects has been argued.

ARGUMENTS OF LEARNED COUNSEL FOR RESPONDENT No. 2

28. Sri Prashant Chandra, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Ms. Radhika Singh, learned counsel for the complainant/ opposite no. 2 raised preliminary objection by stating that the present application under Section 482 Cr. P.C. is not maintainable as once the Hon'ble Supreme Court has already quashed the order of Hon'ble High Court and restored the charge sheet filed by the Investigating Officer and directed the court below to proceed in the case.

29. Learned Counsel for the complainant/ opposite party No. 2 further stated that there are material concealment of facts on behalf of the applicant and the applicant has not come with clean hands before this Hon'ble Court and first non bailable warrant issued against the applicant on 25.03.2019 is not challenged in this instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

30. Learned counsel for the complainant/ opposite party No. 2 further stated that the present application under section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed by the applicant but the affidavit in support thereof is made by his attorney which is not maintainable. Learned Counsel for the opp. party No. 2 also repudiated the remaining submissions made by the counsel for the applicant and prays that the present application filed by the applicant be dismissed.

31. Learned Counsel for the complainant / opposite party No. 2 has relied on the judgment of this Hon'ble Court in Syed Wasif Hussain Rizvi Vs Hasan Raza Khan and 6 Others: 2016 SCC OnLine All 175, and placed reliance on para-25 of the judgment wherein this Court has observed as under:

25. Having held so, we must, at the same time, emphasize the necessity of observing adequate safeguards where a writ petition is filed through the holder of a power of attorney. These safeguards should necessarily include the following:

(1) The power of attorney by which the donor authorises the donee, must be brought on the record and must be filed together with the petition/application;

(2) The affidavit which is executed by the holder of a power of attorney must contain a statement that the donor is alive and specify the reasons for the inability of the donor to remain present before the Court to swear the affidavit; and

(3) The donee must be confined to those acts which he is authorised by the power of attorney to discharge.

32. The learned counsel for the complainant / opposite party No. 2 further argued that under the Rules of the Court, under Chapter IV, the person swearing the affidavit in support of any application or affidavit has to state with precision and sufficient particularity details about himself and he must also be aware of the facts deposed to in the affidavit filed by him. Inconsistent affidavits filed in a casual manner and not bringing true and correct facts on the record can be treated to be false affidavits. The person swearing the affidavit is consequently rendered liable for criminal contempt. As this Hon'ble Court decides cases on the basis of evidence brought on record by way of affidavit, and filing false affidavits is a serious matter and calls for stringent punishment. It would be a greater disaster that if the fountain of Justice is allowed to be poisoned by anyone resorting to filing of false affidavit or giving a false statement and fabricating false evidence in court of law. Further it was submitted that in the case of Mathu Karuppan Vs Parithi Ilamvazhuthi (2011) 6 SCC 496, the Hon'ble Apex Court held that filing a false affidavit should be effectively curbed with a strong hands.

33. It was further argued by learned counsel for the complainant/ opposite party No. 2 that no person, howsoever, high in hierarchy, has a right to impede the course of justice and to ridicule the dignity and majesty of this Hon'ble Court and repeated filing of false affidavits call for stringent punishment in order to ensure that such nefarious activities are nipped in the bud and dignity and majesty of this Hon'ble Court is not subjected to ridicule and jeopardy.

34. It was further argued by learned counsel for the complainant/ opposite party No. 2 that the applicant has indulged in clever drafting by twisting material facts. Beside concealing relevant facts germane to the matters in issue, even vital material facts and documents have not been brought on record with due deliberation and the criminal cases initiated against the other accused including the applicant are interconnected and part of main conspiracy.

35. Learned counsel for the complainant / opposite party No. 2 has further placed reliance upon the judgment in the case of Amit Ahuja Vs. Gian Prakash Bhambri : 2010 SCC Online P & H 4856, and relied on paras-6 to 9, wherein it has been observed as under:

"6. On the other hand, the counsel for the respondent submitted that petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. filed by the petitioner, through his attorney, is not maintainable. She also repudiated the remaining submissions, made by the counsel for the petitioner.

7. After giving my thoughtful consideration to the rival contentions raised by the Counsel for the parties, in my considered opinion, the petition is liable to be dismissed, being not maintainable, for the reasons, to be recorded, hereinafter. Admittedly, the aforesaid complaint, was filed against the petitioner and his co-petitioners, in the Courts, at India. There is no dispute about the factum, that Amit Ahuja, petitioner, is residing in Dubai. In Janata Dal v. H.S. Chaudhary, JT 1991 (3) SC 497 it was held, as under:—

"Even if there are million questions of law to be deeply gone into and examined in a criminal case registered against specific accused persons, it is for them and they alone to raise all such questions and challenge the proceedings initiated against them at the appropriate time before the proper forum and not for third parties under the garb of public interest litigants. It was further held that the petitioner in that case (H.S. Chaudhary) had no locus standi to invoke the extraordinary jurisdiction of the High Court, under Section 482 Cr.P.C. for quashing the FIR and all other proceedings arising therefrom on the plea of preventing the abuse of process of the Court. In the above mentioned case the accused persons were alive and were capable of defending themselves and protecting their interests and it was also not shown that the petitioner Mr. H.S. Chaudhary had any particular or special interest in the accused persons."

(8) In Simranjit Singh Mann v. Union of India: 2 AIR 1993 SC 280, the Apex Court, held as under:—

"Ordinarily, the aggrieved party which is affected by any order has the right to seek redress by questioning the legal validity or correctness of the order, unless such party is a minor, an insane person or is suffering from any other disability which in law recognized as sufficient to permit any other person e.g. next friend, to move the Court on his behalf. It was also held that if a guardian or a next friend initiates proceedings for and on behalf of such a disabled aggrieved party, it is, in effect, proceedings initiated by the party aggrieved and not by a total stranger, who has no direct personal stake, in the outcome thereof. In the above mentioned case, a leader of a political party approached the Supreme Court under Article 32 of the Constitution of India, challenging the conviction and sentence of the assassins of Gen. Vaidya. The two convicts were alive but did not file any appeal against the conviction and sentence. The Apex Court held that the petitioner, in that case, had locus standi to invoke the jurisdiction under Article 32 of the Constitution."

(9) The plain reading of ratio of law as laid down in the aforesaid cases, clearly goes to reveal that it is only the accused person, against whom a criminal case has been registered or a criminal complaint, has been filed, can file a petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. in the High Court, for quashing the complaint, the summoning order and/ or the subsequent proceedings, if any, and no third person can fight a proxy war on his behalf under the garb of public interest litigant. The aggrieved party, which is affected by an order, is required to seek redress of its grievance, by questioning the legal validity or correctness of the same. It is another thing, if the aggrieved party, is suffering from some disability, i.e., unless such party is a minor, or an insane person, or is suffering from any other disability, which, in law, is recognized as sufficient to permit any other person, e.g., next friend, to move the Court, on his behalf. On behalf of minor, or insane person, a guardian or a next friend, initiates proceedings, so as to challenge the legality and validity of the order, passed against him, to seek redressal of the grievance, as under law, such a person having disability, cannot be said to be competent, to file a petition, except through next friend or guardian. In the instant case, there is nothing on the record, that Amit Ahuja, petitioner, is suffering from any disability, recognized by the provisions, of law. He is an accused, in the aforesaid complaint. It is he, who is aggrieved against the complaint and the summoning order. It is he, who can challenge the same, on any ground which may be available to him, under the provisions of law. If, in criminal cases, until and unless a person, is allowed to fight the proxy war, then the very purpose of criminal justice system, shall be defeated. In the event, the Courts, would be mushroomed, by public interest litigants. In this view of the matter, the present petition, under Section 482 Cr.P.C. filed by the petitioner, through his attorney, is not maintainable. On this ground alone, the same is liable to be dismissed."

36. The learned counsel for the complainant/ opposite party No. 2 further submitted that in spite of issuance of bailable and non bailable warrants applicant is deliberately and consciously evading the summons and is circumventing the process of law. In a catena of decisions the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that criminal proceedings cannot be nipped in the bud by exercising jurisdiction under section 482 Cr.P.C. in the recent decision rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ramveer Upadhyay vs State of U.P. 2022 SCC OnLine SC 484 and placed reliance on para 39 which read as under:

"39 In our considered opinion criminal proceedings cannot be nipped in the bud by exercise of jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. only because the complaint has been lodged by a political rival. It is possible that a false complaint may have been lodged at the behest of a political opponent. However, such possibility would not justify interference under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. to quash the criminal proceedings. As observed above, the possibility of retaliation on the part of the petitioners by the acts alleged, after closure of the earlier criminal case cannot be ruled out. The allegations in the complaint constitute offence under the Atrocities Act. Whether the allegations are true or untrue, would have to be decided in the trial. In exercise of power under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C., the Court does not examine the correctness of the allegations in a complaint except in exceptionally rare cases where it is patently clear that the allegations are frivolous or do not disclose any offence. The Complaint Case No. 19/2018 is not such a case which should be quashed at the inception itself without further Trial. The High Court rightly dismissed the application under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C.”

37. The learned counsel for the complainant/ opposite party No. 2 has further submitted that the present applicant before this Hon’ble Court was the Managing Director of M/s United Breweries Limited and he continued to be the Managing Director of the said Company at the time of alleged incident and the said applicant resigned in the year 2020 thus he is liable to face the proceedings of the case.

38. Learned counsel for the complainant/ opposite party No. 2 further submitted that it is not necessary to make an averment in the complaint that the applicant is in charge of, and is responsible to the company for the conduct of business of company. This is because the prefix “Managing“ to the word “Director” makes it clear that the Director was in charge of and responsible to the company, for the conduct of the business of the Company as held by Hon’ble Supreme Court in Sunita Palita Vs Panchami Stone Quarry in (2022) 10 SCC 152.

39. Learned counsel for the respondent No. 2 has further stated that recently in Ramjas Foundations Vs. Union Of India : (2010) 14 SCC 38 the case law on the subject was discussed, wherein it was held that if a litigant does not come to the court with clean hands, he is not entitled to be heard and indeed such a person is not entitled to any relief from any judicial forum and placed reliance on paragraph No. 21 of the aforesaid judgment which is being reproduced as under:-

“21. The Principle that a person who does not come to the court with clean hands is not entitled to be heard on merits of his grievance and in any case such person is not entitled to any relief is applicable not only to the petitions filed under Articles 32, 226 and 136 of the Constitution but also to the cases instituted in other courts and judicial forums.”

40. Learned Counsel for the complainant/ opposite party No. 2 while relying upon the judgment of Hon’ble Supreme Court rendered in Ranjit Singh v. State of Punjab : (1998) 7 SCC 149, where a Three Judges Bench was dealing with the issue that whether the Sessions Court can add a new person to the array of the accused in a case pending before it at a stage prior to collecting any evidence, the three-Judges Bench was dealing with the said issue as reservations were expressed by a Division Bench in Raj Kishore Prasad v. State of Bihar : (1996) 4 SCC 495 with regard to the ratio laid down in Kishun Singh v. State of Bihar : (1993) 2 SCC 16. The conclusion recorded in Ranjit Singh (supra) reads as follows: -

“19. So from the stage of committal till the Sessions Court reaches the stage indicated in Section 230 of the Code, that court can deal with only the accused referred to in Section 209 of the Code. There is no intermediary stage till then for the Sessions Court to add any other person to the array of the accused.

20. Thus, once the Sessions Court takes cognizance of the offence pursuant to the committal order, the only other stage when the court is empowered to add any other person to the array of the accused is after reaching evidence collection when powers under Section 319 of the Code can be invoked. We are unable to find any other power for the Sessions Court to permit addition of new person or persons to the array of the accused. Of course it is not necessary for the court to wait until the entire evidence is collected for exercising the said powers."

OBSERVATIONS OF THE COURT

41. I have considered the rival submissions of the learned counsel for the parties and the judgments referred herein above and perused the material available on record and also the prayer made in the present application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. by the applicant.

42. The powers of the High Court to quash criminal proceedings in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is well known. The High Court may not enter into determination of the disputed questions of fact at the stage of its exercise of powers under section 482 Cr.P.C, however, the Court may examine and take note of the facts and allegations in order to find out whether the impugned proceedings are in abuse of the process of the court and law and their continuance would result in miscarriage of justice or not.

43. In the present case the facts, as noted above, are not in dispute. The FIR and the charge-sheet discloses as to how and in what manner the applicant was responsible for day-to-day conduct of business of the Company or otherwise responsible in its day-to-day functioning.

44. The question which arises for consideration in the present case is that whether the applicant was liable for any offence even if the allegations in the FIR and charge-sheet are taken on their face value to be correct in entirety. The Company is a body incorporated under the Companies Act. Vicarious criminal liability of its Directors and Shareholders would arise provided any provision exists in that behalf in the statute. The Statute must contain provision fixing such a vicarious liability. Even for the said purpose, it would be obligatory on the part of the complainant and the investigating agency to make requisite allegations and collect evidence in support thereof which would attract provisions constituting vicarious liability.

45. In the facts of the present case, it is not in dispute that order for supply of beer by complainant/ opposite party No. 2 was placed through Akhil Sarda, Depot Manager. The applicant was the Managing Director who has been appointed under the provisions of Section 149/ 150 of the Companies Act, 2013, having regard to his qualification, expertise etc. If the applicant was involved in the alleged transaction at any point of time, vicarious criminal liability can be fixed upon the applicant.

46. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Pepsi Foods Ltd. v. Special Judicial Magistrate, (1998) 5 SCC 749 has held that summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Criminal law cannot be set in motion as the matter of course for alleged offences and was pleased to observe in para-28 of the aforesaid judgment which reads as under:-

"28. Summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. It is not that the complainant has to bring only two witnesses to support his allegations in the complaint to have the criminal law set into motion. The order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. He has to examine the nature of allegations made in the complaint and the evidence both oral and documentary in support thereof and would that be sufficient for the complainant to succeed in bringing charge home to the accused. It is not that the Magistrate is a silent spectator at the time of recording of preliminary evidence before summoning of the accused. The Magistrate has to carefully scrutinise the evidence brought on record and may even himself put questions to the complainant and his witnesses to elicit answers to find out the truthfulness of the allegations or otherwise and then examine if any offence is prima facie committed by all or any of the accused."

47. The Hon'ble Supreme Court also in the case of Sunil Bharti Mittal v. CBI, (2015) 4 SCC 609 while dealing with the issue of vicarious liability of the Officers, Directors, Managing Directors, Chairman of the Company was pleased to observe in paras- 42 to 44 and 48 to 50 of the aforesaid judgment, which read as under:-

"42. No doubt, a corporate entity is an artificial person which acts through its officers, Directors, Managing Director, Chairman, etc. If such a company commits an offence involving mens rea, it would normally be the intent and action of that individual who would act on behalf of the company. It would be more so, when the criminal act is that of conspiracy. However, at the same time, it is the cardinal principle of criminal jurisprudence that there is no vicarious liability unless the statute specifically provides so.

43. Thus, an individual who has perpetrated the commission of an offence on behalf of a company can be made an accused, along with the company, if there is sufficient evidence of his active role coupled with criminal intent. Second situation in which he can be implicated is in those cases where the statutory regime itself attracts the doctrine of vicarious liability, by specifically incorporating such a provision.

44. When the company is the offender, vicarious liability of the Directors cannot be imputed automatically, in the absence of any statutory provision to this effect. One such example is Section 141 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881. In Aneeta Hada [Aneeta Hada v. Godfather Travels & Tours (P) Ltd., (2012) 5 SCC 661 : (2012) 3 SCC (Civ) 350 : (2012) 3 SCC (Cri) 241], the Court noted that if a group of persons that guide the business of the company have the criminal intent, that would be imputed to the body corporate and it is in this backdrop, Section 141 of the Negotiable Instruments Act has to be understood. Such a position is, therefore, because of statutory intendment making it a deeming fiction. Here also, the principle of "alter ego", was applied only in one direction, namely, where a group of persons that guide the business had criminal intent, that is to be imputed to the body corporate and not the vice versa. Otherwise, there has to be a specific act attributed to the Director or any other person allegedly in control and management of the company, to the effect that such a person was responsible for the acts committed by or on behalf of the company."

48. Sine qua non for taking cognizance of the offence is the application of mind by the Magistrate and his satisfaction that the allegations, if proved, would constitute an offence. It is, therefore, imperative that on a complaint or on a police report, the Magistrate is bound to consider the question as to whether the same discloses commission of an offence and is required to form such an opinion in this respect. When he does so and decides to issue process, he shall be said to have taken cognizance. At the stage of taking cognizance, the only consideration before the court remains to consider judiciously whether the material on which the prosecution proposes to prosecute the accused brings out a prima facie case or not.

49. Cognizance of an offence and prosecution of an offender are two different things. Section 190 of the Code empowered taking cognizance of an offence and not to deal with offenders. Therefore, cognizance can be taken even if offender is not known or named when the complaint is filed or FIR registered. Their names may transpire during investigation or afterwards.

50. Person who has not joined as accused in the charge-sheet can be summoned at the stage of taking cognizance under Section 190 of the Code. There is no question of applicability of Section 319 of the Code at this stage (see SWIL Ltd. v. State of Delhi [(2001) 6 SCC 670 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 1205]). It is also trite that even if a person is not named as an accused by the police in the final report submitted, the court would be justified in taking cognizance of the offence and to summon the accused if it feels that the evidence and material collected during investigation justifies prosecution of the accused (see Union of India v. Prakash P. Hinduja [(2003) 6 SCC 195 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 1314]). Thus, the Magistrate is empowered to issue process against some other person, who has not been charge-sheeted, but there has to be sufficient material in the police report showing his involvement. In that case, the Magistrate is empowered to ignore the conclusion arrived at by the investigating officer and apply his mind independently on the facts emerging from the investigation and take cognizance of the case. At the same time, it is not permissible at this stage to consider any material other than that collected by the investigating officer."

48. The Hon'ble Supreme Court also in the case of Shiv Kumar Jatia Vs. State of NCT of Delhi : (2019) 17 SCC 193 while dealing with vicarious liability of Managing Director of the Company was pleased to observe in paras-21 and 22 as under:-

"21. By applying the ratio laid down by this Court in Sunil Bharti Mittal [Sunil Bharti Mittal v. CBI, (2015) 4 SCC 609 : (2015) 2 SCC (Cri) 687] it is clear that an individual either as a Director or a Managing Director or Chairman of the company can be made an accused, along with the company, only if there is sufficient material to prove his active role coupled with the criminal intent. Further the criminal intent alleged must have direct nexus with the accused. Further in Maksud Saiyed v. State of Gujarat [Maksud Saiyed v. State of Gujarat, (2008) 5 SCC 668 : (2008) 2 SCC (Cri) 692] this Court has examined the vicarious liability of Directors for the charges levelled against the Company. In the aforesaid judgment this Court has held that, the Penal Code does not contain any provision for attaching vicarious liability on the part of the Managing Director or the Directors of the Company, when the accused is a company. It is held that vicarious liability of the Managing Director and Director would arise provided any provision exists in that behalf in the statute. It is further held that statutes indisputably must provide fixing such vicarious liability. It is also held that, even for the said purpose, it is obligatory on the part of the complainant to make requisite allegations which would attract the provisions constituting vicarious liability.

22. In the judgment of this Court in Sharad Kumar Sanghi v. Sangita Rane [Sharad Kumar Sanghi v. Sangita Rane, (2015) 12 SCC 781 : (2016) 1 SCC (Cri) 159] while examining the allegations made against the Managing Director of a Company, in which, company was not made a party, this Court has held that when the allegations made against the Managing Director are vague in nature, same can be the ground for quashing the proceedings under Section 482 CrPC. In the case on hand principally the allegations are made against the first accused company which runs Hotel Hyatt Regency. At the same time, the Managing Director of such company who is Accused 2 is a party by making vague allegations that he was attending all the meetings of the company and various decisions were being taken under his signatures. Applying the ratio laid down in the aforesaid cases, it is clear that principally the allegations are made only against the company and other staff members who are incharge of day-to-day affairs of the company. In the absence of specific allegations against the Managing Director of the company and having regard to nature of allegations made which are vague in nature, we are of the view that it is a fit case for quashing the proceedings, so far as the Managing Director is concerned."

49. Thus, an Officer, Director, Managing Director or Chairman of the Company can be made an accused along with the Company only if there is sufficient material to prove his active role coupled with criminal intent. Indian Penal Code does not contain any provision for vicarious liability. For Managing Director or Director to be accused and their implications in the offence allegedly committed on behalf of the company, when the accused is a Company, the complaint/ FIR or Charge-sheet must contain requisite allegations of commission of the offence by such individual(s).

50. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Kishori Singh and others v. State of Bihar and another : (2004) 13 SCC 11, while dealing with the issue whether when some evidence or material are brought on record in course of trial the person can be arrayed as "accused persons" and was pleased to observe in para-10 as under: -

"10. So far as those persons against whom charge-sheet has not been filed, they can be arrayed as "accused persons" in exercise of powers under Section 319 CrPC when some evidence or materials are brought on record in course of trial or they could also be arrayed as "accused persons" only when a reference is made either by the Magistrate while passing an order of commitment or by the learned Sessions Judge to the High Court and the High Court, on examining the materials, comes to the conclusion that sufficient materials exist against them even though the police might not have filed chargesheet, as has been explained in the latter three-Judge Bench decision. Neither of the contingencies has arisen in the case in hand."

51. In M/s. India Carat Pvt. Ltd. v. State of Karnataka and another : (1989) 2 SCC 132, the Hon'ble Court, after analyzing the provisions of the Code, referred to the decisions in Abhinandan Jha v. Dinesh Mishra: AIR 1968 SC 117 and H.S. Bains v. State (UT of Chandigarh) : (1980) 4 SCC 631 and, eventually was pleased to observe as under:

16. "The position is, therefore, now well settled that upon receipt of a police report under Section 173(2)a Magistrate is entitled to take cognizance of an offence under Section 190(1)(b) of the Code even if the police report is to the effect that no case is made out against the accused. The Magistrate can take into account the statements of the witnesses examined by the police during the investigation and take cognizance of the offence complained of and order the issue of process to the accused. Section 190(1)(b) does not lay down that a Magistrate can take cognizance of an offence only if the investigating officer gives an opinion that the investigation has made out a case against the accused. The Magistrate can ignore the conclusion arrived at by the investigating officer and independently apply his mind to the facts emerging from the investigation and take cognizance of the case, if he thinks fit, in exercise of his powers under Section 190(1)(b) and direct the issue of process to the accused."

52. Thus, this Court is of the view that all the contentions raised by the applicant's counsel relate to disputed questions of fact. The court has also been called upon to adjudge the testimonial worth of prosecution evidence and evaluate the same on the basis of various intricacies of factual details which have been touched upon by learned counsel. The veracity and credibility of material furnished on behalf of the prosecution has been questioned and false implication has been pleaded. In the process of invoking its inherent jurisdiction, this court cannot be persuaded to have a pre trial before the actual trial begins. The submissions made by the learned counsel call for adjudication on pure questions of fact which may be adequately adjudicated upon only by the trial court and while doing so even the submissions made on points of law can also be more appropriately gone into by the trial court in this case.

53. At this stage of issuing process the court below is not expected to examine and assess in detail the material placed on record, only this has to be seen whether prima facie cognizable offence is disclosed or not. The quashing of charge sheet, summoning order and entire proceedings can also be done only if it does not disclose any offence or if there is any legal bar which prohibits the proceedings on its basis. The Apex Court has also laid down the guidelines where the criminal proceedings could be interfered and quashed in exercise of its power by the High Court in the following cases and make the position of law in this regard clear:-
(i) R.P. Kapoor Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1960 S.C. 866, (ii) State of Haryana Vs. Bhajanlal, 1992 SCC (CrL)426, (iii) State of Bihar Vs. P.P. Sharma, 1992 SCC (CrL)192 and (iv) Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. Vs. Mohd. Saraful Haq and another, (Para-10) 2005 SCC (Cri.)283.

54. The power of High Court is very wide but should be exercised very cautiously to do real and substantial justice for which the court alone exists. Hence the chances of ultimate conviction is bleak and no useful purpose is likely to be served by allowing criminal proceedings to be continue. In S.W. Palankatkar & others Vs. State of Bihar, 2002 (44) ACC 168, it has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that quashing of the criminal proceedings is an exception than a rule. The inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C itself envisages three circumstances under which the inherent jurisdiction may be exercised:-(i) to give effect an order under the Code; (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of the court; (iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice.

55. In absence of any of the grounds recognized by the Apex Court which might justify the quashing of summoning order dated 17.10.2022 or consequential proceedings, the prayer for quashing the same is refused, as I do not see any abuse of the courts process either. The court below has been vested with sufficient powers to discharge the accused even before the stage to frame the charges comes, if for reasons to be recorded it considers the charge to be groundless.

56. However, in view of the above discussions and observations, it is directed that the applicant shall appear before the concerned court below, within a period of three weeks from today and move an application claiming discharge, the concerned court below shall after hearing the counsel for the parties decide the aforesaid discharge application on merits in accordance with law within a period which shall not exceed a period of three months from today without granting any unnecessary adjournment to either of the parties, unless there is some legal impediment or unless there is any order passed by the higher court staying the proceedings of the case.

57. It is further directed that till the disposal of the aforesaid discharge application no coercive action shall be taken against the applicant.

58. With the above observations and directions, this application filed by the applicant under Section 482 Cr.P.C. for the relief claimed stands disposed of.

Criminal Law - Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Section 482 - Entire proceedings under section 138 Negotiable Instruments Act under challenge- Allegation- Opposite parties issued cheque in favour of complainant- cheque dishonoured- applicants had resigned from the directorship on the date the cheque was issued- for promotion of justice or to prevent injustice or abuse of process- Court may look into the materials which have significant bearing on the matter at prima facie stage- applicant no.1 had resigned from the Company much prior to the issuance of the cheque in question- cheque did not bear the signatures of any of the applicants- On the date of issuance of the cheque the applicants were mere the shareholders of the Company- no active participation of the applicants in the day to day business and transactions of the Company-complaint also silent about the role of the applicants- travesty of justice to drag the persons to face the prosecution- no way connected with the issuance of the cheque or its being dishonour thereof-summoning order quashed-Application allowed.

HELD:

Thus on the basis of the discussion and the judgments placed above, it is found that applicant no.1 had resigned from the Company much prior to the issuance of the cheque in question. Admittedly, the cheque did not bear the signatures of any of the applicants. On the date of issuance of the cheque the applicants were mere the shareholders of the Company. There was no active participation of the applicants in the day to day business and transactions of the Company and in the complaint itself, it is not mentioned that as to how and in what manner the applicants were in-charge or were responsible to the accused Company for the conduct of its business. Thus, in the opinion of the Court, as on the face of the record, participation of the applicants is not found in the day to day functioning of the Company, hence, on the basis of the version that the defence would be seen at the time of evidence, it would be travesty of justice to drag the persons to face the prosecution who are no way connected with the issuance of the cheque or its being dishonour thereof.

On the basis of above discussion, the summoning of the applicants to face trial under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act is found to be against the mandate of law laid down by the Apex Court in above mentioned judgments.

Application allowed. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sadhna Rani
(Thakur), J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicants, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 and perused the record.

2. By moving this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the prayer is made to quash summoning order dated 25.11.2016 passed by the Upper Nyayalaya Pratham, Ghaziabad in C.C. No.66/2016 under Section 138 Negotiable Instruments Act and also to set aside order dated 22.02.2018 passed by the Additional Session Judge, Court No.15, Ghaziabad in Criminal Revision No.18 of 2017.

3. As per facts of the case, a complaint was filed by opposite party no.2 on 13.10.2016 against the applicants and six other persons with the version that opposite party no.2 was a limited Company registered under Companies Act and Vijay Kumar son of late Sri Satpal was authorized to filed complaint on behalf of the Company. The opposite party no.2 was indulged in the business of purchasing, selling and the construction of properties. Opposite party no.1 (in the complaint) M/S

C.S.K. Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. was a registered Company. Opposite parties no.2 to 6 were its Directors and officers and opposite parties no.7 to 9 were the Company's authorized representatives. Opposite party nos.2 to 9 were responsible for all the day to day business and transactions of opposite party no.1, M/S C.S.K. Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd.

4. The opposite parties (in the complaint) had assured the complainant/opposite party no.2 herein that they would make available a land to the complainant/opposite party no.2 at a reasonable price. Having faith in the opposite parties the complainant/ opposite party no.2 on 16.08.2014 paid Rs. 5,00,00,000/- to the opposite parties, which were received by the opposite parties. When as per their assurance the opposite parties could not arrange the land for the complainant/opposite party no.2 and the complainant gave them a threat of lodging FIR, then opposite parties promised to pay Rs. 7,00,00,000/- in pursuance of the principal amount of Rs. 5,00,00,000/- with interest. Opposite parties issued a cheque of Rs.2,00,00,000/- in favour of the complainant/ opposite party no.2. This Cheque No.243328 valued Rs.2,00,00,000/- dated 12.07.2016 got dishonoured despite of the assurance of opposite parties that it would get encashed. The information of which was received by the complainant/opposite party no.2 on 29.08.2016 and after due procedure, a complaint under Section 420 I.P.C. was filed by the complainant/opposite party no.2 against the nine accused persons including the Company itself.

5. After the statements under Sections 200 Cr.P.C. and 202 Cr.P.C., the trial court vide order dated 25.11.2016 summoned all the nine accused persons to face trial under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act 1881. Against this order dated 25.11.2016, three of the opposite parties/ present applicants named Prashant Tyagi, Smt. Neeta Tyagi and Smt. Shweta Tyagi, filed a revision before the Sessions Court, which was rejected vide order dated 22.02.2018.

6. Feeling aggrieved by the summoning order dated 25.11.2016 and revisional court's order dated 22.02.2018, the present application has been moved by the applicants Prashant Tyagi, Smt. Neeta Tyagi and Smt. Shweta Tyagi only with the version that the applicant no.1, who was earlier the Director of M/S C.S.K. Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. had resigned from his post on 26.09.2014, much prior to the issuance of the cheque no.243328 dated 12.07.2016 to the opposite party no.2. He has filed a certified copy of the form DIR-12 (earlier known as Form 32) to this effect. He had neither signed the cheque nor the amount was received in his bank account, thus, applicant no.1 is the ex-director in the accused Company. Applicant nos.2 and 3 are the mother and sister of the applicant no.1. They had no relation with the functioning of the accused company in any manner. They could not be the in-charge and responsible for the conduct and the business of the Company. Without any specific averment that what role they have played in the functioning and the business of the accused Company they can not be implicated for the offence under Section 138 N.I. Act. The summoning order has been passed without considering section 141 of N.I. Act, hence, the prayer is made accordingly.

7. Counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of the opposite party no.2, wherein it has been mentioned that all the applicants alongwith co-accused persons are the shareholders of the Company and belong to the one and the same family. The present applicant Prashant Tyagi is the son of Ram Sevak Tyagi, applicant no.2 Smt. Neeta Tyagi is the wife of Ram Sevak Tyagi and applicant no.3 Smt. Shweta Tyagi, is the wife of Gaurav/ daughter of Ram Sevak Tyagi and Ram Sevak, is the person who is the authorized representative of the accused company and had issued the cheque in favour of the complainant/ opposite party no.2 on 12.07.2016. When an annual general meeting was called on 30.08.2013 the shares of all the shareholders in the disputed Company were as under:-

8. Ram Sewak Tyagi was having 20000 shares, Prashant Tyagi applicant no.1 was having 25000, Smt. Neeta Tyagi was having 20000 and Smt. Shweta Tyagi was having 10000 and Ram Kishan is said to have 5000 shares, thus, all the applicants here are the shareholders of the accused Company.

9. All the applicants are the blood relatives of Ram Sevak Tyagi and Ram Kishan, is the brother-in-law of Ram Sevak, who is the master mind of the aforesaid fraud. Ram Sevak was handling the financial as well as accounts affairs of the Company alongwith other Directors and the shareholders of the Company and was acting as authorized signatory of the Company on behalf of the Directors, authorized representatives as well as other shareholders of the Company. All the applicants are the over all incharge of the day to day business of the Company. A revision of the applicants was also rejected by the trial court. Applicant no.1 is a Joint Director of the Company and still a Director of the Company and for a very short time he was not there on the Board of Directors. All the applicants looking after the day to day business/ functions of the Company and being the authorized representatives of the Company are liable for the offence, hence, cognizance has been rightly taken by the court.

10. The applicants filed a rejoinder affidavit wherein the version of the counter affidavit was denied and the version of the complaint was reiterated.

11. Learned counsel for the applicants has argued that the trial court has not gone through the Section 141 of N.I. Act, which deals with the offences by the companies. Without going through this section the impugned order cannot be said to be a complete and affective order.

12. It is further submitted that the applicant no.1 had resigned on 26.09.2014, while impugned cheque is said to have been issued on 12.07.2016. Regarding his resignation Form DIR-12 has been filed, which is a public document. Applicant nos.2 and 3 are the mere shareholders in the Company and are the ladies. Their participation cannot be said to be active in the Company and in the complaint there is bald averment that the accused nos.2 to 6 being the Directors and shareholders of the Company are responsible for the day to day business of the accused Company. Accused No.7 to 9 including applicant no.2 and 3 are the authorized representatives of the Company and thus all the accused persons including all the three applicants are responsible for all the transactions and overall business of the Company. But no particulars or the specific role of the persons, which must be explained in the complaint, has been explained. Admittedly the cheque was not issued by any of the applicants. The applicant no.2, the mother of the applicant no.1 is a senior citizen. Hence, the prayer is made accordingly.

13. While, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 opposed the version of the learned counsel for the applicants and submitted that the applicants are the shareholders in the Company and family members of Ram Sevak, who is said to have issued the impugned cheque and being the wife, son and daughter of the person issuing cheque all the applicants must have knowledge of the works done by Ram Sevak Tyagi, accused no.7 in the complaint. As the whole fraud/ cheating has been done with the consent and connivance of the applicants, so with the help of section 141 of the N.I. Act all the applicants would be liable for the acts done by the Company. The defence of the applicants cannot be adjudicated at this stage of summoning. Liability of the applicants can only be decided after the evidence, because as per sub-section 2 of Section 141 of the Act if the offence is found to be proved committed with the consent or connivance of the applicants they shall also be liable for the same and punished accordingly. Thus for proving the offence of the applicants evidence of the parties is to be adduced and at this nascent stage the liability of the applicants cannot be fixed.

14. Placing reliance over the judgment of this Court in Smt. B Devi (Basanti Devi) Versus State of U.P., 2016 (94) ACC 90, it is argued by the learned counsel for opposite party no.2 that at the stage of summoning, defence of the accused which they may adduce subsequently cannot be seen since there was no occasion to look into such probable defence, which may come when the accused would appear and place their case before the magistrate. At the stage of issuing summons Court has to see whether a prima facie commission of offence has been shown and appropriate material has come justifying summoning of the accused persons against whom complaint has been made. The role assigned to the applicants in clear and specific words is referred in paragraph 4 of the complaint, that all the accused persons are responsible for the day to day business and functioning of the Company.

15. On the basis of this judgment, it is further argued that all the officers of the Company are responsible for the acts done in the name of Company and are sought to be made personally liable for the acts which resulted in criminal action being taken against the Company. Thus, it is claimed that all the applicants are liable to face trial under the aforesaid sections.

16. Learned counsel for the applicants drew the attention of the Court towards the judgment in Sunita Palita & Others Versus M/S Panchami Stone Quarry, Criminal Appeal No. of 2022 [Arising out of SLP (Crl.) No.10396 of 2019], decided on 01.08.2022 and the judgment in S.M.S. Pharmaceuticals Ltd. v. Neeta Bhalla, (2005) 8 SCC 89, mentioned therein wherein para-10 the Apex Court held that-

"every person connected with the company shall not fall within the ambit of the provision. It is only those persons who were in charge of and responsible for conduct of business of the company at the time of commission of an offence, who will be liable for criminal action. It follows from this that if a director of a Company who was not in charge of and was not responsible for the conduct of the business of the company at the relevant time, will not be liable under the provision. The liability arises from being in charge of and responsible for the conduct of business of the company at the relevant time when the offence was committed and not on the basis of merely holding a designation or office in a company. Conversely, a person not holding any office or designation in a Company may be liable if he satisfies the main requirement of being in charge of and responsible for conduct of business of a Company at the relevant time. Liability depends on the role one plays in the affairs of a Company and not on designation or status."

17. The attention of the Court is further drawn towards judgment in Harshendra Kumar D. Versus Rebatilata Koley & Others, (2011) 3 Supreme Court Cases 351 wherein it was held by the Apex Court that as dishonour of the cheques through the complainant banker was subsequent to his resignation so the applicant no.1 could not be said to have any concern with the Company at that time.

18. It is further argued by the learned counsel for the applicants that mere bald averment in the complaint that the "applicants are looking after the day to day business of the Company, hence, they are liable for the offence committed" is not enough to prove the offence. This averment is devoid of any particulars.

19. In judgment Pooja Ravinder Devidasani Versus State of Maharashtra & Anr., (2014) 16 SCC 1, the Apex Court held that to fasten vicarious liability under Section 141 of the Act on a person, at the material time that person shall have been at the helm of affairs of the Company, one who actively looks after the day-to-day activities of the Company and particularly responsible for the conduct of its business.

Simply because a person is a Director of a Company.....Every person connected with the Company will not fall into the ambit of the provision.

20. Thus, it is argued that the applicant no.1 was not a Director of the Company on the date when the cheque was issued and regarding his resignation Form DIR-12 has been placed on record. Applicant nos.2 and 3 are admittedly mere shareholders in the Company. They cannot be said to actively participate in the working of the Company.

21. So far as the argument of the learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 that a defence of the applicants shall be seen at the time of arguments is concerned in this regard, the Apex Court opined in judgment Harshendra Kumar D. Versus Rebatilata Koley & Others (supra) that if on the face of the documents which are beyond suspicion or doubt - placed by the accused, the accusations against him cannot stand, it would be travesty of justice if accused is relegated to trial and he is asked to prove his defence before the trial court. In such a matter, for promotion of justice or to prevent injustice or abuse of process, the Court may look into the materials which have significant bearing on the matter at prima facie stage.

22. If we go through the judgment in Smt. B Devi (Basanti Devi) Versus State of U.P. (supra) placed by the learned counsel for opposite party no.2, the facts of that case are different from the facts of the present case, wherein as per facts of that case the cheques were issued in the presence of the petitioner and other Directors, while in the present case cheques were never issued in the presence of the complainant rather till then applicant no.1

had resigned from the Company. While as per facts of the case of Smt. B Devi (Basanti Devi) Versus State of U.P. (supra) the resignation and the documents with regard to the resignation were alleged to be the forged documents, but in the case in hand resignation of applicant no.1 has not been challenged, hence, the counsel for the opposite party no.2 cannot take benefit of the judgment of this Court, in the presence of various Apex Court judgments placed above by the counsel for the applicants.

23. Thus on the basis of the discussion and the judgments placed above, it is found that applicant no.1 had resigned from the Company much prior to the issuance of the cheque in question. Admittedly, the cheque did not bear the signatures of any of the applicants. On the date of issuance of the cheque the applicants were mere the shareholders of the Company. There was no active participation of the applicants in the day to day business and transactions of the Company and in the complaint itself, it is not mentioned that as to how and in what manner the applicants were in-charge or were responsible to the accused Company for the conduct of its business. Thus, in the opinion of the Court, as on the face of the record, participation of the applicants is not found in the day to day functioning of the Company, hence, on the basis of the version that the defence would be seen at the time of evidence, it would be travesty of justice to drag the persons to face the prosecution who are no way connected with the issuance of the cheque or its being dishonour thereof.

24. On the basis of above discussion, the summoning of the applicants to face trial under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act is found to be against the mandate of law laid down by the Apex Court in above mentioned judgments.

25. The summoning order dated 25.11.2016 passed by the Upper Nyayalaya Pratham, Ghaziabad and the judgment dated 22.02.2018 passed by the Additional Session Judge, Court No.15, Ghaziabad in criminal revision are quashed.

26. The application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is, hereby, allowed.

A. Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Section 439 CrPC- Indian Penal Code,1860 - Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 & 120-B - applicant has virtual possession of vehicles used in the offence in question – forged gate pass of Secretariat- St.ments in case diary reveal- applicant helped gangster Vikas Dubey- St.ment of dead man-legal effect under Section 32(3) of the Indian Evidence Act,1872-incident took place in the area notified under Dacoity Act- Section 10 of U.P. dacoity Affected Area Act-conspiracy is integral part of organised crime-offence is heinous in nature-trial expedited- Bail application rejected. (Paras 24, 25, 26, 33,34, 42, 43 and 45)HELD:

Perusal of the above shows that the accused applicant certainly helped Vikas Dubey and always closed his eyes towards the criminal activities of the gang of Vikas Dubey. He, during the incident, maintained distance. In case of such an organized crime where even members of police force were assisting the gangster and his group, it is not possible to have a direct evidence. Moreover, in a case of conspiracy, there is no possibility of direct evidence. The evidence which can be available is only circumstantial in nature and may be in the form of inaction on the part of the accused applicant who, in his endeavour to assist the accused persons, kept himself out from the picture. Therefore, the conclusion of conspiracy is to be drawn from the circumstances of the case and the situation that the applicant being a criminal minded person was indulged in assisting gangster Vikas Dubey and his gang, and all the paper work was done with the assistance of the applicant. (Para 24)

It is clear from the reading of section 32(3) that St.ment of a dead man has been legally recognized and used in evidence even though the same does not relate to the cause of his death. Although, a final view is not required to be expressed at this stage as the same will be considered by the trial court, yet, this much is clear that the St.ment is of a dead man and the same has legal relevance in view of the provision of the Evidence Act. (Para 34)

Crime, corruption and population are three major problems the society is facing at present. While against crime and corruption, particularly when it is organized crime and corruption, strict St. action and intervention is necessary to restrict and minimize the same to maximum extent, control over population growth requires legal steps and strategy inclusive of motivation, spread of education and awareness and some positive incentive to those who opt for family planning. Against crime and corruption, the St. must continue with the policy of zero tolerance. The political parties should rise above board against crime and corruption without being influenced by consideration of "his man" and "our man" as this approach will not only undermine rule of law but will also damage the democratic set up of the nation. (Para 42)

The pursuit of life, liberty and peace includes freedom from crime. The St.'s foremost duty is to provide these basic rights to each citizen. The success of a Criminal Justice System can only be measured by how successful it is in ensuring these rights in word and spirit. The extent to which these rights are successfully protected, will be reflected in the confidence of the public in the system. The organized crime should be treated differently from traditional individual criminality. Conspiracy is an integral aspect of organized crime. There cannot be a direct evidence of conspiracy in such cases and the law has to deal with organized crime on a footing different from that of individual or conventional crime, as regards admissibility and appreciation of the evidence. (Para 43)

The discussion aforesaid certainly goes to show that the nature of offence and amount of culpability is serious, heinous, shocking and unprecedented. (Para 44)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Singh, J.)

Written Arguments filed by learned counsel for the respective parties pursuant to order dated 28.3.2023 are taken on record.

1. Heard Sri N.I. Jafri, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Shiv Kant Dixit, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Abhijeet Mukherjee, Sri D.P.S. Chauhan and Sri Mithilesh Kumar, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. The present bail application has been filed by the accused-applicant Jay Bajpai @ Jay Kant Bajpai to release him on bail in Case Crime No.238 of 2020, under sections 420, 467, 468, 471, 120-B IPC, Police Station - Kakadev, District - Kanpur Nagar.

3. The first information report of the incident was lodged by the Sub Inspector Ravi Shankar Pandey on 22.7.2020 as Case Crime No.238 of 2020, under Section 420, 467, 468, 471, 120-B I.P.C., Police Station Kakadev, District Kanpur Nagar. The version of the first informant is that the applicant have virtual possession of vehicles used in the offence in question dated 4/5.7.2020 at Village Tikuri, Police Station Chaubepur, District Kanpur Nagar.

4. The statement of the first informant under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was recorded on 24.7.2020 in which he stated that the accused/applicant is the virtual owner of the vehicle used in the offence in question but could not produce any evidence except, oral. The Investigation Officer also noted down the alleged statements of owners of vehicles who have stated that they are the owner of the vehicle in question which were used by the applicant, he further investigated that the entry pass of the Secretariat at Lucknow is forged. The vehicles were allegedly recovered on 5.7.2020 but the first information report was lodged on 22.7.2020 having extraordinary delay of 17 days. Admittedly as per prosecution case the applicant is not the owner of Audi Car, Fortuner Car and Hyundai Car. The Audi Car and Hyundai Verma car belongs to Pramod Kumar Verma and Kapil Singh Chauhan who are not accused in the present case whereas the Fortuner car belongs to Rahul Singh (who has already been enlarged on bail by the Co-ordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 1.12.2021 passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.40006 of 2021, a copy of said order has been produced by learned counsel for the applicant, which is taken on record) on which fake entry pass of Secretariat at Lucknow was pasted who is co-accused. However, as per the prosecution version all the above owners voluntarily deposed that the above cars were used by the applicant. It is worth to mention here that neither the applicant is owner of the above vehicles nor he had used the same at any point of time nor the above cars were recovered from the possession of the applicant. All the above vehicles were recovered from the same place and the applicant was not present in the vehicles in question, but police with malicious intention has shown recovery of some forged number plates from the custody of the applicant, despite the facts that applicant was in jail since 20.7.2020 and FIR in the present offence was lodged on 22.7.2020.

5. Submission of the learned counsel for the applicant is that being businessman and having only political rivalry with some local high level politicians, applicant has been roped with the said offence by fabricating false and frivolous documents and witness, nothing is available on the record to show that the alleged entry pass pasted over wind shield of vehicle no. U.P. 78 EW 7070 was prepared by the applicant nor there is any evidence or witness who claimed to be well known that applicant prepared the fake gate pass of secretariat further the vehicle no. U.P. 78 FC 7070 and U.P. 78 FI 9595 do not belong to the applicant at any point of time and statement made by owner of vehicle that applicant is owner of vehicle is totally false and have no evidentiary value. Further the person who is registered owner of vehicle no. U.P. 78 EW 7070 have liability of alleged sticker which was prepared by police under conspiracy for false and fabricated prosecution of the applicant. The vehicle owner Mr. Kapil Singh and Rahul Vishwakarma has been left on sacrifices of applicant whereas it is crystal clear that despite to right down on writing that though the vehicle were registered in names but same was not used by them has no logical explanation which clearly shows that applicant has falsely been roped in the aforesaid offence.

6. It is stated that investigation is not free, fair and impartial and applicant has been victimized by the illegal act and conduct of the police as the police is acting in rival manner and political pressure of politicians who want to ruin the whole life of applicant only to take revenge of business rivalry. It is self admitted case of prosecution that applicant have no direct role or participation in case crime no.192 of 2020. As stated on proceeding paragraph that as per the prosecution case the applicant is not the owner of Audi car, Fortuner Car and Hundai Verna Car. The Audi car and Hundai Verna Car belong to Pramod Kumar Verma and Kapil Singh Chauhan who are not accused in the present case whereas, the Fortuner car belongs to Rahul Singh on which fake entry pass of Secretariat was pasted who is co-accused in the present case and as per the prosecution version all above owners voluntarily deposed that the above cars were used by the applicant. The aforesaid statement of vehicle owner is not admissible further it is not investigated by the Investigating Officer that who is the beneficiary of fake gate pass issued by the secretariat. Law is settled that the liability of any offence goes over the owner not user and it is established from the record that the fake gate pass having serial no.828 was affixed on wind shield of U.P. 78 EW 7070 so vehicle of this owner should establish that he was not beneficiary of fake gate pass having serial no.828 which shows that investigation is faulty and has been conducted only for the purpose of accusation of applicant.

7. It is further stated that neither applicant is owner of said vehicles nor any such recovery was made from his pointing out, the entire story setup by the police is absolutely false and concocted on the face of record.

8. It is further stated that neither applicant confessed his guilt nor his complicity has been proved by the police but as applicant is a common man and police having power of the State falsely roped the applicant at behest of politicians.

9. It is further stated that the entire prosecution story is based upon the ownership of the applicant hence release application moved by the owner of vehicle would effectively effect the decision.

10. It is further stated that no evidence is available on record except forced vehicle owner Rahul Singh who alleged that applicant was using Toyota Fortuner further it is very surprising that Investigating Officer without touching Rahul Singh had directly connect the applicant in the present case without any evidence.

11. It is further stated that applicant has specifically explained his criminal antecedent on affidavit in support of bail application, it is totally wrong to allege that the applicant has any role in case crime no.192 of 2020 neither there is any evidence available on record which may prove the complicity of applicant in the said case. Nothing is available on record to show that the applicant is connected with Vikas Dubey nor there is any evidence to show the complicity of the applicant that he actively directly and physically committed the offence further the investigation is not reliable and not supported with credible evidences, the applicant has no concern with any history sheet.

12. It is further stated that neither applicant was close associate of history sheet Vikas Dubey nor had interacted with him at any point of time nor there is any evidence regarding the averment made in answering paragraph, the evidence collected by the Investigation Officer are created evidence and not sufficient or credible for conviction of applicant.

13. On the contrary, learned A.G.A. has argued that it is not a case of simple crime, the applicant has used forged entry passed of the Secretariat, State of Uttar Pradesh by affixing the same on the vehicle having No.UP78 -EW 7070; this vehicle was used by the applicant to provide the safe passage to the slain dacoit Vikas Dubey who was the author of Bikru Massacre wherein several Police personnel were assaulted by Vikas Dubey and his gang, after which the said Police personnel were mercilessly done to death on the intervening night of 2/3/7.2020. It is pertinent to note that for the said Bikru Massacre the provisions of National Security Act has already been imposed against the applicant on the grounds inter alia prejudicing public order and the NSA was imposed on the applicant from 4.9.2021 to 1.9.2022 and applicant has criminal history of 14 cases.

14. During the course of investigation, in case crime No.192 of 2020, Police Station Chaubeypur, District Kanpur Nagar, it was revealed that Jay Kant Bajpayee was present in the meeting, in which it was planned how to safely escape Vikas Dubey after the Bikru Massacre after killing the police personnel and for the same Jay Kant Bajpayee had provided money and ammunitions alongwith cars to slain gangster Vikas Dubey, this information was provided by Vikas Dubey when he was arrested at Ujjain and during transit his statement was recorded which was subsequently made part of Case Diary, Parcha No.10 dated 17.10.2020 which is statement of Vikas Dubey stating his closeness with Jay Kant Bajpayee and planning for his escape relevant part whereof is reproduced below :-

".....

मैंने अपने नजदीकी घर की औरतों रेखा अम्मीहोत्री, क्षमा पत्नी संजय दुबे उर्फ संजू, खुशी पत्नी अमर दुबे शांति देवी पत्नी रमेश को पुलिस को चोर डकैत कहकर चिल्लाने व गांव वालों को इकट्ठा करने के लिये लगा रखा था। मेरे मामा की बहु मनु पाण्डेय पत्नी सोनू पाण्डेय को भी प्लानिंग की पूरी जानकारी थी तथा फोन से सबको सजग कराने व सूचना देने के लिये मैंने बता रखा था। इसके बाद मैं भागकर शिवली चला गया था। इस दौरान मेरे अति नजदीकी जयकान्त उर्फ जय बाजपेई पुत्र लक्ष्मीकान्त बाजपेई नि० ब्रह्मानगर और प्रशान्त शुक्ला उर्फ डब्बू नि० आर्य नगर कोहना ने गाड़ी व पैसा देकर मेरी मदद की उन्हें भी मेरी प्लानिंग की कुछ कुछ जानकारी थी। जय बाजपेई से मैंने कारतूस भी लिया था। वहां से फिर बचते बचते उज्जैन महाकाल मन्दिर आ गया था। सड़क पर जे०सी०बी० लगाकर जाम करने के लिये मैंने सुल्तान अहमद नि० कस्बा चौबेपुर की जे०सी०बी० जो मेरे यहां करीब डेढ़ माह से काम कर रही थी को रात में करीब 12 बजे अपने

मामा राजाराम उर्फ रामकुमार पाण्डेय को भेजकर ड्राइवर राहुल पाल से मंगवाया था और सड़क पर खड़ी करके सड़क अवरुद्ध करा दिया था ताकि पुलिस एका एक हमारे घर तक ना आ सके।"

15. Further he has drawn the attention of this Court towards C.D. Parcha No.19 of Case Crime No.192 of 2020 which reads as under :-

"ब्यान अभियुक्त जयकान्त बाजपेयी पुत्र स्व० लक्ष्मीकान्त बाजपेयी निवासी 111/478 ब्रह्मा नगर थाना नजीराबाद जनपद कानपुर नगर उम्र करीब 37 वर्ष ने पूछने पर बताया कि हम 05 भाई है मेरे माता पिता का स्वर्गवास हो गया है मेरा मो० नं० 9336249793 है मेरे पास रिवाल्वर का लाइसेन्स है जो मैंने 2008 में लिया था। मेरे पिता जी के हिस्से में 06 बीघा जमीन आती है। पहले मैं टायर पेन्चर की दुकान करता था वर्ष 2013 में मेरी मूलाकात प्रशान्त शुक्ला उर्फ डब्बू के माध्यम विकास दुबे से हो गई थी विकास दुबे ने मुझे कुछ पैसा देकर ब्याज पर पैसे देने काम शुरू करा दिया थाए विकास दुबे को मैं 3 प्रतिशत पर ब्याज देते था तथा लोगों से 10 प्रतिशत का ब्याज लेते था इसके बाद मैंने कमेटी डालनी शुरू कर दी थी जिससे मेरा काम ठीक ठाक चल निकला जिससे मैंने 04 मकान अशोक नगर में खरीदे तथा जिसके अलावा मेरे करीब 56 प्लॉट है जो करीब डेढ़ करोड़ की कीमत से ज्यादा के है उसके बाद मेरा विकास दुबे से लगातार मिलना जुलना रहा हम लोग फोन से भी आपस में बात करते थे परन्तु वाट्सकाल या चैट से ज्यादा बाते करते थे दिनांक 01.07.2020 को विकास दुबे का मेरे पास फोन आया कि कुछ पैसे व कारतूस लेकर मेरे पास आ जाओ मैं दिनांक 02.07.2020 को प्रशान्त शुक्ला उर्फ डब्बू के साथ ग्राम विकरू गया था जहां पर विकास दुबे हमें मिला विकास दुबे ने हमें बताया कि पुलिस मुझे बहुत परेशान कर रही है मुझे पुलिस का काम तमाम करना है तो हमने कहा कि ठीक रहेगा। एक बार पुलिस से भिड़ गये तो फिर हमारी दबंगई पूरे जिले में चलेगी। तो मैंने विकास दुबे को 2 लाख रुपये नगद व 25 कारतूस रिवाल्वर के दिये थे उसी दौरान विकास दुबे ने मुझे व डब्बू को बताया था कि आप दोनों को घटना के बाद जब भी मैं सूचना भेजूंगा अपनी गाड़ी भेजनी होगी ताकि हम सुरक्षित निकल सके मेरे पास एक गाड़ी ऑडी जिसका नम्बर UP 78 FY 9555 जो मैंने प्रमोद कुमार पुत्र कन्हैया लाल विश्वकर्मा निवासी 16/18 न्यू ईदगाह कालोनी थाना नवाबगंज के नाम से निकाली थी तथा दूसरी

गाड़ी फार्चुनर नं UP 78 EW 7070 है जो मैंने राहुल पुत्र इन्द्रपाल नि० 193/243 सकरपुर चक (किसान नगर) थाना सचेण्डी कानपुर नगर के नाम से निकाली थी तथा तीसरी गाड़ी वरना जिसका नम्बर UP 78 FC 7070 है जो मैंने कपिल सिंह चौहान पुत्र चन्द्रभान सिंह नि० 111ए/24 अशोक नगर थाना नजीराबाद के नाम से निकाली थी तीनों गाड़ियों की किशत मैं स्वयं भरता हूँ तथा तीनों मेरे पास ही रहती है। इन गाड़ियों से विकास दुबे अक्सर घटना में जाया करता था घटना के बाद दिनांक 04.07.2020 को डब्बू के माध्यम से मेरे पास सूचना आई थी कि विकास दुबे व उसके साथियों को शिवली से दिल्ली तक छोड़ना है जिसका कारण मैं इन गाड़ियों को अपने ड्राइवर से चलवाकर विकास दुबे के पास ले जा रहा था कि पुलिस की सक्रियता देखकर मैं घबरा गया तथा जल्दबाजी में मैंने तीनों गाड़ियों काकादेव क्षेत्र में विजय नगर चौराहा के पास नम्बर प्लेट पलट करके लगा दी थी ताकी कोई गाड़ियों को पहचान न पाये साहब मुझे इस घटना की पूरी जानकारी थी मैंने इस कार्य में विकास दुबे की मदद की है मुझसे गलती हो गई है।

पुलिस वालों के मौत के घाट उतार दिया है उसके बाद दिनांक 04.07.2020 को मुझे सूचना मिली थी विकास दुबे ने जयकान्त वाजपेयी की गाड़ियां शिवली में मंगाई है तो मैंने जयकान्त बाजपेयी को पूरी बात बताई जयकान्त बाजपेयी गाड़ियां लेकर विकास दुबे व उसके गैंग को लेने जा रहा था कि पुलिस की सक्रियता के चलते वह गाड़ी कानपुर नगर से बाहर नहीं ले जा पाया तथा गाड़ियों को डर के मोरे काकादेव क्षेत्र में छोड़कर चला आया था साहब मुझसे गलती हो गयी जो मैंने विकास दुबे का षड्यन्त्र में साथ दिया।"

16. He has further drawn the attention of this Court toward C.D. Parcha No.107 of Case Crime No.192 of 2020 which is reproduced as under :-

"अभियुक्त विपुल दुबे पुत्र स्व० अतुल दुबे नि० ग्राम बिकरू थाना चौबेपुर जनपद कानपुर नगर उम्र 23 वर्ष पूछने पर बता रहा है विकास दुबे हमारे खानदान के थे

"श्रीमानजी मुकदमा उपरोक्त में पर्चा नं 7 दिनांक 29.07.2020 को किता कर सेवा में प्रेषित किया जा चुका है आज मैं विवेचक पुनः कार्य सरकार से फुर्सत पाकर मसरूफ विवेचना होकर सन्नी मोटर्स प्राईवेट लिमिटेड के सोरूम फुलबाग आया जहां पर सोरूम के मेनेजर पियूष शुक्ला मिले उनके द्वारा वाहन क्रय किये जाने हेतु दिये गये वाहन स्वामी राहुल सिंह का पेन कार्ड नं० CIVPS2090B, आधार कार्ड नं० 428795632093, यूनियन बैंक द्वारा सन्नी मोटर्स प्राईवेट लिमिटेड के नाम जारी बैंक ड्राफ्ट संख्या 47660 तथा बीसी नं. 32447660 जो दिनांक 17.07.17 का 2400000 (चौबीस लाख) का है तथा बैंक ड्राफ्ट संख्या 44766 तथा बीसी नं० 32447661 जो रूपया 547022 रूपये जो सन्नी मोटर्स प्राईवेट लिमिटेड के एकाउण्ट पेयी है तथा सन्नी मोटर्स प्राईवेट लिमिटेड एनएच2 रूमा ई० एरिया के सर्विस सेन्टर द्वारा दि० 09.03.2020 का वाहन सं० यूपी 78 ईडब्लू 7070 फार्चूनर की सर्विस की डिटेल जो कि नामित अभियुक्त जयकान्त बाजपेयी के सगे भाई शोभित बाजपेयी जिसका मो०नं० 8953655574 है। के द्वारा सर्विस कराया जाना प्राप्त कराया गया है। तथा अन्य तारीख को कराये गये सर्विस का कुल 4 वर्क दिये गये तथा उनके द्वारा बताया गया कि उपरोक्त वाहन की सर्विस शोभित बाजपेयी द्वारा ही कराये जाते थे सर्विस सेन्टर पर उसी के मो० नं० सर्विस लेने वाले दिन अंकित है। बाद अवलोकन उपरोक्त प्रपत्र संलग्न सीडी किया जा रहा है। तब पश्चात थाना हाजा आया वहां पर थाना कार्यालय से प्राप्त यूनियन बैंक ऑफ इन्डिया सिविल लाइन ब्रान्च के खाता संख्या 686804010000009 जो कि राहुल सिंह के नाम है जिसके उपरोक्त एकाउण्ट से भी उपरोक्त वाहन फार्चूनर के लिये गये लोन के एकाउण्ट में पैसे ट्रांसफर किये गये है का डिटेल प्राप्त हुआ जिसमें दि. 15.07.2017 को रूपया 200000 नरायन सिंह तथा इसी दिन 200000 रूपये अवधेश सिंह के एकाउण्ट से ट्रांसफर आया है तथा दि० 30.01.2018 को 1000000 अवधेश सिंह तथा दि० 29.01.2018 को कैश 1000000 रूपया जमा किया गया है तथा दि० 31.01.2018 को अनुशका एन्टर प्राईजेज से 55000 रूपये आया है। तथा दि. 29.05.2018 को 7500000 एकाउण्ट नं० 686803030000203 से एफडी का ट्रांसफर आया है। तथा दि० 29.09.2018 श्रेष्ठ बिल्डर प्रा० लि० से 4415500 रूपया उपरोक्त एकाउण्ट में आया है। तथा उसी दिन अनुशका एन्टर प्राईजेस से उपरोक्त 4415500 रूपया ट्रांसफर किया गया है।"

24. Perusal of the above shows that the accused applicant certainly helped Vikas Dubey and always closed his eyes towards the criminal activities of the gang of Vikas Dubey. He, during the incident, maintained distance. In case of such an organized crime where even members of police force were assisting the gangster and his group, it is not possible to have a direct evidence. Moreover, in a case of conspiracy, there is no possibility of direct evidence. The evidence which can be available is only circumstantial in nature and may be in the form of inaction on the part of the accused applicant who, in his endeavour to assist the accused persons, kept himself out from the picture. Therefore, the conclusion of conspiracy is to be drawn from the circumstances of the case and the situation that the applicant being a criminal minded person was indulged in assisting gangster Vikas Dubey and his gang, and all the paper work was done with the assistance of the applicant.

25. Moreover, it has been also pointed out on behalf of the State that, on being arrested, gangster Vikas Dubey gave statement to the Investigating Officer revealing that the accused applicant use to assist gangster Vikas Dubey by providing him money and ammunition. The gangster is dead and his statement given to police is legally admissible as the same is statement of a dead man. Therefore, it has been submitted that taking into consideration over all circumstances, the culpability is writ large and the accused applicants do not deserve to be released on bail.

26. This case raises certain serious questions which relate to administration of criminal justice system in the country with reference to organized crime and criminals and the role and efficiency of police force in combating the problem. The police force is one of the most important force with great potential, easily approachable to the people facing criminal wrong and law and order problem and the most visible component of the criminal justice system. Like other departments, there has been a general fall and deterioration in the standard of functioning of the police force also. With time, it has been seen that the police force, not as a whole, but in small groups, has gone through a phase of moral and professional deterioration. There are black sheep also in the police force and they reflect upon the whole department which has led to growing concern, and a number of attempts have been made to mend this situation. In this direction, the past few years have been particularly eventful, with a number of positive developments having taken place towards a solution of the problem and the State appears to have observed zero tolerance policy towards organized crime and criminals. Strict and rigorous steps have been taken to break and demolish financial network of gangsters. In future, this shall certainly bring about more and more positive results towards restricting criminal activities and organized crime.

27. Organized crime is not confined to a single state, or any one country and has become an international problem in view of their wide spread network and sometimes they have been also found to be a natural ally of terrorist groups. Organized crime is an act of threat involving murder, kidnapping, gambling, arson, robbery, burglary, extortion or dealing in narcotics or dangerous drugs and other crime. The basic features of organized crime involves a group of individuals that is structured, sophisticated and widely spread across nations; it is a section of society that seeks to operate outside control of the people and government and it is a self-perpetuating, continuing criminal conspiracy for profit and power, using fear and corruption and seeking protection from law. The focus areas of organized crime are smuggling, drug trafficking, women and child trafficking, arms trade, hawala, circulation of fake currency, extortion and contract killing. With financial solidarity, these criminals have entered into business of film financing, hotel business, house building, government contracts and the like. The gangsters are divided into three categories, namely, sharp shooters, money collectors and liaison agents. The liaison agents deal with lawyers and law enforcement officials to resolve legal problems and to ensure easy bail to gangsters.

28. The police force faces some real difficulty in combating with organized crime and criminal activities. The police personnels are mostly not provided with that kind of sophisticated arms which are available in plenty to the gangsters and their gang members. The police stations are mostly under-manned and the strength of police force is remarkably less in comparison to the population. The police has to act in accordance with legal norms and while acting so, they are required to avoid any excesses and human rights violation. They have to behave like a disciplined force actuated to uphold rule of law and motivated by sense of public security and service. The force also face the problem of some police personnels who may be close and in collusion with the local mafia. They can leak the confidential informations and strategy of police for taking action and conducting raid to arrest the gangsters. On the contrary, the organized criminals keep with them all kinds of sophisticated weapons, they use the same indiscriminately and they can cause any amount of damage to the human life and property. Where they are having support from some members of police force, their potential to execute criminal act is adequately enhanced.

29. The problems of police force has been time and again highlighted by several Law Commissions appointed for making recommendations for police reforms and needless to point out that several recommendations have been suggested from time to time. The police in the country faces tremendous challenges and works under extreme pressure due to a number of reasons such as growing unemployment, deterioration in educational environments, conflicting claims of socio-economic components, fluctuations in political order, rampant corruption etc. Frequent transfers to unfavorable positions or locations have demoralizing effects on the police force and it becomes a survival technique for police to have close relationship with one or other political person.

30. The purpose of the above discussion is to show the prevalent conditions in which the police has to perform the complicated and difficult job of ensuring law and order, maintaining security and peace, preventing crime and taking action against and causing arrest of offenders. These all require home work and team work and if any member of police force starts giving clues about and leak the police strategy, the strategies are bound to fail and shall certainly result sometimes, particularly when police is confronting against organized crime and criminals, in disastrous situation as has resulted in this case. In such situation, policing such police personnels is a big task and it requires early identification of such black sheep, monitoring of their conduct, isolating them and taking immediate strict disciplinary action against them.

31. Now coming to the facts of this case. The accusation against the accused-applicant is that he had close friendly relationship with the gangster Vikas Dubey who used forged entry passed of the Secretariat, State of Uttar Pradesh by affixing the same on the vehicle having No.UP78-EW7070; this vehicle was used by the applicant to provide the safe passage to the slain dacoit Vikas Dubey who was the author of Bikru Massacre.

32. Submission, in this respect, from the side of accused-applicant is that the statement of Vikas Dubey is not relevant against accused-applicant.

33. From the side of State, it has been contended that the statement of Vikas Dubey is statement of a dead man and it has legal effect under section 32(3) of the Indian Evidence Act and therefore, the statement can be well considered against the applicant. Section 32(3) provides as follows:

"32 Cases in which statement of relevant fact by person who is dead or cannot be found, etc, is relevant. -- Statements, written or verbal, of relevant facts made by a person who is dead, or who cannot be found, or who has become incapable of giving evidence, or whose attendance cannot be procured without an amount of delay or expense which, under the circumstances of the case, appears to the Court unreasonable, are themselves relevant facts in the following cases:--(3) or against interest of maker. --When the statement is against the pecuniary or proprietary interest of the person making it, or when, if true, it would expose him or would have exposed him to a criminal prosecution or to a suit for damages."

34. It is clear from the reading of section 32(3) that statement of a dead man has been legally recognized and used in evidence even though the same does not relate to the cause of his death. Although, a final view is not required to be expressed at this stage as the same will be considered by the trial court, yet, this much is clear that the statement is of a dead man and the same has legal relevance in view of the provision of the Evidence Act.

35. C.D. Parchas has been drawn to the attention of the Court to show the relationship of accused-applicants with the gangster.

36. From the side of the State it has been also pointed out that the incident took place in the notified area under the UP Dacoity Affected Area Act and due attention is required to be given to the law provided under section 10 of the Act. The relevant part of Section 10 is as below:

"10. Special provisions regarding bail. - Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, no person accused or convicted of a scheduled offence shall, if in custody, be released on bail or on his own bond, unless-

(a) the prosecution has been given an opportunity to oppose the application for bail, and

(b) where the prosecution opposes the application for bail, the Court is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for believing that he is not guilty of such offence:....."

37. Submission is that after investigation, finding sufficient evidence, charge-sheet has been already submitted by police and at this stage there is no reason to believe that the accused - applicant is innocent.

38. From the side of accused-applicant, it has been pointed out that the allegations have been made by the witnesses mostly in the last part of their statements and a reading thereof shows that the words and expressions used are same and similar which is not possible if statements have been given by the witnesses individually and separately. This contention appears to have no weight as it has been rightly pointed out on behalf of the State that all the statements are part of CD and a view at this stage has to be taken after due consideration to all the material on record.

39. It has been also argued from the side of accused-applicant that investigation has been completed and charge-sheet has been already filed in this matter. The applicants are in jail from the last more than two years. Their pretrial detention for such a long period is resulting in deprivation of their right to liberty and freedom. The learned Senior counsel for applicant and larger mandate of the Article 21 of the Constitution of India, the dictum of Apex Court in the case of Dataram Singh v. State of U.P. and another, reported in (2018) 2 SCC 22 . Therefore, it has been requested that, taking into consideration overall circumstances and the long period to which applicant is in jail, the court should take sympathetic view and the applicant should be released on bail.

40. This court is not oblivious about the fact that the release on bail is crucial to the accused as the consequences of pretrial detention are grave. If release on bail is denied to the accused, it would mean that though he is presumed to be innocent till the guilt is proved beyond reasonable doubt, he would be subjected to the psychological and physical deprivations of jail life. The jailed accused loses his job and is prevented from contributing effectively to the preparation of his defence. Equally important, the burden of his detention frequently falls heavily on the innocent members of his family. But, if the accused is involved in a conspiracy for commission of a heinous offence by a hardened criminal, his release on bail will give him an opportunity to abscond or temper with witnesses. Against such crime, social reaction is also sharp. Therefore, a balance between the need for protection of individual liberty which is so important and the requirements of the society for being shielded from the hazards of being exposed to the misadventures of organized crime has to be maintained.

41. The criminal justice system is often criticized for its pro-active approach towards the accused. The rights of the accused are protected not only during trial but also during investigation and even after the delivery of judgment, more particularly when the case has resulted in conviction. The accused cannot be kept in police custody unless with the order of Magistrate and that too is possible only within first fifteen days of his arrest. The bail provisions are liberal and for arresting the accused there must be prima facie evidence collected by the Investigation Officer. He can also be released on anticipatory bail. The accused cannot be put to cruel or inhuman treatment at any stage. There is a strong presumption of innocence in favor of accused and consequently, it creates a heavy burden on prosecution to establish the guilt beyond any shadow of reasonable doubt. The accused has been given constitutional protection against self incrimination and he has right to keep silence throughout and his silence will not be taken adversely against him. Moreover, he enjoys all the rights associated with his fair trial claim including free legal aid and impartial justice delivery. Thus, protection of rights of accused is natural feature of democracy which is accorded for the simple reason that the criminal law machinery is controlled by the State.

42. Crime, corruption and population are three major problems the society is facing at present. While against crime and corruption, particularly when it is organized crime and corruption, strict state action and intervention is necessary to restrict and minimize the same to maximum extent, control over population growth requires legal steps and strategy inclusive of motivation, spread of education and awareness and some positive incentive to those who opt for family planning. Against crime and corruption, the State must continue with the policy of zero tolerance. The political parties should rise above board against crime and corruption without being influenced by consideration of "his man" and "our man" as this approach will not only undermine rule of law but will also damage the democratic set up of the nation.

43. The pursuit of life, liberty and peace includes freedom from crime. The State's foremost duty is to provide these basic rights to each citizen. The success of a Criminal Justice System can only be measured by how successful it is in ensuring these rights in word and spirit. The extent to which these rights are successfully protected, will be reflected in the confidence of the public in the system. The organized crime should be treated differently from traditional individual criminality. Conspiracy is an integral aspect of organized crime. There cannot be a direct evidence of conspiracy in such cases and the law has to deal with organized crime on a footing different from that of individual or conventional crime, as regards admissibility and appreciation of the evidence.

44. The discussion aforesaid certainly goes to show that the nature of offence and amount of culpability is serious, heinous, shocking and unprecedented.

45. In view of the above discussion, the serious and heinous nature of the offence, complicity of the accused-applicant in the conspiracy and taking into consideration overall circumstances of the case, I do not find any reason sufficient to allow the bail application. Hence, the bail application of accused-applicant Jay Bajpai @ Jay Kant Bajpai is hereby, rejected.

46. However, it is directed that the trial of the aforesaid case pending before the concerned court below be concluded expeditiously, preferably within one year in accordance with Section 309 Cr.P.C. and in view of principle as has been laid down in the recent judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Vinod Kumar v. State of Punjab reported in 2015 (3) SCC 220 and Hussain and Another v. Union of India;

2017 (5) SCC 702, if there is no legal impediment.

47. It is also made clear that no observation of this Court in this order will have any binding effect on the trial court and the case shall be decided on the basis of evidence adduced during trial.

Civil Law – Deficiency of stamp duty as well as penalty and also interest @ 1.5% per annum- Indian Stamp Act, 1899 - Section 47-A - as applicable in the St. of U.P.-grievance of the petitioners-denial of benefit of GOS granting exemption from payment of stamp duty- special statute-effective alternative remedy under Section 56 (1) A of the Indian Stamp Act-both the principles of natural justice and questions of law can be considered-petitioners relegated to alternative remedy of appeal—Petition disposed of. (Paras 10, 18, 19, 26, 29, 31, 33, 34 and 35)

HELD:

Thus, the remedy of appeal in the stamp cases under the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 not only takes full care of the appellate authority deciding the matter in consonance with the principles of natural justice but also empowers the authority to stay the amount of recovery subject to deposit of 1/3rd amount directed to be recovered. The provision as is worded under the Section and gives power to the appellate authority clearly spells out the intendment of the legislature that remedy of appeal is a substantive remedy provided under the Act against the order passed by the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority and any factual and legal error is liable to be cured / remedied in appeal by the appellate authority. (Para 18)

Thus, the argument if any, with regard to non-availability of efficacious remedy is certainly misplaced and further the argument that since a question of law is involved such a remedy can be bypassed, in my considered opinion, that is neither the intendment of the legislature nor, the propriety demands for this Court to entertain a writ petition in a routine manner only because a question of law is involved. The forum of appeal is not only in respect of the factual dispute but is also an appropriate and competent forum to deal with legal issues involved in a case. The law as has emerged through authorities of Apex Court and this Court till now, is that there is no absolute rule for the High Court to either refused to entertain a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India or necessarily entertain a petition and decide the same in spite of there being a statutory remedy of appeal. It is all a self imposed limitation with which the High Court has clothed itself and except for exceptional cases a litigant should as a rule be asked to first pursue the alternative remedy, especially the statutory appeal. So the general rule is that one should first exhaust available alternative statutory remedy before approaching the high court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. The Apex Court has drawn exception to this general rule in certain cases from time to time. (Para 19)

Thus, from the above decisions, I do not find that the principles laid down in the judgment of the Constitution Bench of Apex Court and in subsequent judgments, referred to above, have not been in any manner diluted and, therefore, the said judgment still holds the field. It is worth mentioning that neither in the case of Dr. Bal Krishna Agrawal nor, in the case of Dhani Ram, cited by learned counsel for the petitioner, the said judgment was even referred to. (Para 26)

The issue in the present case relates to the definition of allottee to avail the benefit of exemption from Stamp duty in the cases of industrial leases and once the authority acting under Section 47-A had decided the matter against the petitioner, he could have preferred the appeal easily to raise his grievance and could have equally obtained stay order by merely depositing 1/3rd of the disputed amount. In the legislation governing the field of taxes, the Court should honour the spirit behind the fiscal measures taken and a decision is arrived at after due adjudication, unless there are cases of infringement of fundamental rights which are guaranteed under the Constitution and the Constitutional Courts are guardian to protect such rights. The disputed questions involving adjudication on the issue arising out of such measures adopted and availing benefits thereunder, should always be left open for the forum created under such statute to adjudicate upon. (Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Mayank Agrawal, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the respondents.

2. In this bunch of writ petitions, the petitioners of the respective writ petitions are aggrieved against the order passed by the Assistant Commissioner (Stamp), Ghaziabad in purported exercise of power under Section 47-A of the Indian Stamp Act as applicable in the State of Uttar Pradesh, whereby, deficiency has been imposed along with penalty and also interest @ 1.5% per annum and that has been directed to be recovered. The deficiency and the penalty vary in these writ petitions but in every case it is more than Rs. 10 lacs as deficiency in stamp Rs. 50,000/- as penalty.

3. The grievance raised by the petitioners is that they have been illegally denied the benefit of Government Orders/ Notifications dated 12.06.2009, 26.10.2009 and 30.09.2010, whereunder, exemption has been prayed for from payment of stamp duty on the amount of duty chargeable on the consideration as set forth in each such instrument of lease. The petitioners are lease holders and second transferee from the original allottees and by the U.P. State Industrial Development Corporation Limited as well.

4. While the writ petition was entertained by the order of the high court dated 24.11.2014 in spite of the fact that the petitioner had not availed of statutory remedy of appeal under Section 56-A of the Indian Stamp Act as applicable in the State of U.P., the Court did not admit the petition but entertained it subject to the directions that petitioner shall deposit the entire amount of deficient stamp duty within four weeks from the date the order was passed by the Court i.e. 24.11.2014 and 26.11.2014 in respectively petitions. Orders passed on two different dates are identical. The order dated 24.11.2014 is reproduced hereunder:

"Three weeks' time is granted to the respondents to file counter affidavit. Rejoinder affidavit, if any, may be filed within two weeks thereafter.

List thereafter.

The petitioner has approached this Court challenging the order dated 27.09.2014 passed by the respondent no. 2, Assistant Commissioner (Stamp), District Ghaziabad in Stamp Case No. 40 of 2013-14.

The petitioner has not approached the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority under Section 56 of the Indian Stamp Act and the notifications relied upon have been wrongly interpreted and the case is covered under the notification. There is no disputed question of fact.

In support of his submission, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon Government of Andhra Pradesh and another Versus P. Laxmi Devi, 2008(4) SCC 720 and judgment dated 21.02.2014 passed in Writ Petition No. 17213 of 2013, Krishna Pal Verma Versus State of U.P. and others.

Submission requires consideration.

Subject to the petitioner depositing entire amount of the deficient stamp duty within four weeks from today, the effect and operation of the impugned order dated 27.09.2014 passed by the respondent no. 2, Assistant Commissioner (Stamp), District Ghaziabad in Stamp Case No. 40 of 2013-14, shall remain stayed till the next date of listing. Any amount already deposited by the petitioner towards deficient stamp duty shall be adjusted.

It is made clear that in case of default, the interim order shall automatically stand vacated."

(Emphasis supplied)

5. Nothing transpires from the record that the aforesaid order of this Court dated 24.11.2014 was ever complied with and instead, a Misc. Application was moved on 10.12.2014 bearing no. 408394 of 2014 wherein the following prayer was made:

"It is, therefore, most humbly prayed that this Hon'ble Court may very kindly be pleased direct the registry to list the matter/ aforesaid/ instant writ petition on a particular date so that applying the doctrine of non-traverse, the writ may be heard on merits and the petitioner may not be tormented by the condition of pre-deposit as per the interim order dated 24.12.14 and / or pass such other and further orders as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit in the facts and circumstances of the case."

6. This above application dated 10.12.2014 was directed to be listed with previous papers at an early date by this Court vide order dated 12.12.2014. Thereafter, the matter was listed on 12.01.2015 directing the State to file counter affidavit to the writ petition and the interim order was extended and then on 09.02.2016 petitioner was granted three weeks' time to file rejoinder affidavit and the matter was directed to be listed on 02.03.2016 and further interim order was extended till then.

7. On 24.05.2019 this Bunch of writ petitions was listed along with leading case bearing Writ Petition No. 62910 of 2014. In leading case on preliminary objection being raised by the learned Standing Counsel regarding availability of efficacious alternative remedy of appeal, the learned counsel for the petitioner who had instruction in the said case, did not dispute the same and conceded to the argument and accordingly this Court proceeded to pass the following order and this bunch of writ petitions was segregated on the request of learned counsel for the petitioner and directed to be listed on 27.05.2019 passing separate order in the present writ petition no. 62905 of 2014. The order passed in Writ - C no. 62910 of 2014 is reproduced hereunder:

"Sri Mayank Agrawal, learned counsel for the petitioner states that he has no instruction in the matter.

Heard Sri Sumit Daga, learned counsel for the petitioner.

This writ petition is directed against the order dated 27.09.2014 under Section 47-A of the Indian Stamp Act.

Learned Standing Counsel has raised preliminary objection that there is an efficacious remedy of appeal provided under Section 56 of the Indian Stamp Act and the petitioner having approached this Court directly in spite of availability of statutory remedy of appeal, he should be relegated to the remedy of appeal only.

To the above preliminary objection in the present case, learned counsel for the petitioner does not dispute.

In view of the above, the writ petition at this stage is not entertained on the ground of efficacious alternative remedy available under the Indian Stamp Act against the order impugned dated 27.09.2014.

It is made clear that since the writ petition is pending since long over here, in case if the appeal is preferred within a period of four weeks from today, the same shall be considered and decided on merits of the case as expeditiously as possible preferably within a period of three months from the date of presentation of appeal along with the certified copy of this order before it.

The writ petition thus stands disposed of."

8. The order sheet in all the connected matters, herein this bunch, contains similar directions of counter and rejoinder affidavits and at no point of time the misc.

application filed by the petitioner for granting exemption from deposit of the deficient stamp duty, was allowed.

9. Thus, the petitioner having not complied with the directions dated 24.11.2014, the interim order dated 24.11.2014 has stood vacated in terms of the operative portion of the order dated 24.11.2014 quoted herein above.

10. The remedy under Article 226 of the Constitution is equitable remedy. One who knocks the door for this extraordinary relief bypassing statutory remedy, must show his bonafides in the first instance, and then must demonstrate that the remedy of statutory appeal provided under the Act is not the efficacious one. Learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that in view of the legal point involved in the present case and there being no disputed question of fact, this Court may not relegate the petitioner to alternative remedy of appeal in the light of judgment of Division Bench in the case of Dhani Ram v. Chief Engineer and Ors (2013) 6 AWC 5705 and of the Apex Court in the case of Dr. Bal Krishna Agrawal v. State of U.P. and others (1995) 1 SCC 614.

11. According to the petitioner, once the writ petition has been entertained and counter and rejoinder affidavits have been exchanged, the petition should be decided on merits and any direction for relegating to the alternative remedy of appeal would seriously prejudice the petitioner's right to approach this Court where any point of law is involved.

12. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel relied upon the judgment of Apex Court in Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai & Ors (2003) 6 SCC 675;

Government of Andhra Pradesh & Ors v. P. Laxmi Devi (Smt) (2008) 4 SCC 720; Cicily Kallarackal v. Vehicle Factory (2012) 8 SCC 524; and also Union of India & Ors v. M/s. Cottage Arts Emporium & Ors 1991 Supp (2) SCC 723. Learned Standing Counsel has argued that statutory remedy of appeal by way of U.P. Amendment 56(1)A is not an empty formality and the issues claimed / raised by the petitioner could have been agitated before the authority. The learned Standing counsel has further argued that the petitioner had directly approached this Court only because he was required to make statutory deposit for seeking remedy of stay in appeal under the first proviso to Section 56(1)A but since this Court also directed for the deposit of the amount of deficient stamp duty under the order impugned, the petitioner instead of complying with this order, after getting stay, moved an application seeking exemption from deposit and then merely on the basis of such misc. application he lingered on the matter and avoided to file rejoinder affidavit and ultimately when a cost was imposed in one such connected matter in Writ - C No. 62909 of 2014 that rejoinder affidavit was filed. He therefore, argues that the petitioner's intention is not to get the issues resolved but the intention was always to avoid payment of proper stamp duty and therefore, he did not approach this Court with clean hands and bypassed the remedy of appeal only to get stay order to avoid making statutory deposit.

13. Having heard learned counsels for the parties and their arguments advanced across the bar and having carefully gone through the pleadings raised by respective parties as well as the order impugned, I find it necessary to refer to the relevant provisions of Indian Stamp Act, 1899 with reference to the State Amendment of the Uttar Pradesh (For short 'U.P. '), in order to deal with the arguments on the point of availability of alternative remedy and the discretion to be exercised by this Court when a petitioner approaches this Court bypassing such a remedy.

14. In the present case after inviting objection from the lessees the Assistant Commissioner (Stamp), Ghaziabad passed the order holding that there is deficiency in stamp duty paid and accordingly directed for payment of the deficient amount and the penalty has also been imposed along with simple rate of interest @ 1.5% per annum. This power has been exercised by the officer concerned under Section 47-A inserted under the U.P. Amendment vide U.P. Act No. 22 of 1998 (w.e.f. 01.09.1998) and runs as under:

"47-A. Under-Valuation of the instrument.--[(1) (a) If the market value of any property which is subject of any instrument, on which duty is chargeable on the market value of the property as set forth in such instrument is less than even the minimum value determined in accordance with the rules made under this Act, the registering officer appointed under the Registration Act, 1908, shall, notwithstanding anything contained in the said Act, immediately after presentation of such instrument, and before accepting it for registration and taking any action under Section 52, of the said Act, require the person liable to pay stamp duty under Section 29, to pay the deficit stamp duty as computed on the basis of the minimum value determined in accordance with the said rules and return the instrument for presenting again in its accordance with Section 23 of the Registration Act, 1908.

(b) When the deficit stamp duty required to be paid under clause (a), is paid in respect of any instrument and the instrument is presented again for registration, the registering officer shall certify by endorsement thereon, that the deficit stamp duty has been paid in respect thereof and the name and the residence of the person paying them and register the same.

(c) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other provisions of this Act, the deficit stamp duty may be paid under clause (a) in the form of impressed stamps containing such declaration as may be prescribed.

(d) If any person does not make the payment of deficit stamp duty after receiving the order referred to in clause (a) and presents the instrument again for registration, the registering officer shall, before registering the instrument refer the same to the Collector for determination of market value of the property and the proper duty payable thereon.

(2) On receipt of reference under sub-section (1), the Collector shall, after giving the parties a reasonable opportunity of being heard, and after holding an inquiry in such manner as may be prescribed by rules made under this Act, determine the market value of the property which is the subject of such instrument, and the proper duty payable thereon.

(3) The Collector may, suo motu, or on a reference from any Court or from the Commissioner of Stamps or an Additional Commissioner of Stamps or a Deputy Commissioner of Stamps or an Assistant Commissioner of Stamps or any officer authorised by the State Government on that behalf, within four years from the date of registration of that instrument on which duty is chargeable on the market value of the property not already referred to him under Sub-Section (1), call and examine the instrument for the purpose of satisfying himself as to the correctness of the market value of the property, which is the subject of such instrument and the duty payable thereon, and if after such examination he has reason to believe that the market value of such property has not been truly set forth in such instrument, he may determine the market value of such property and the duty payable thereon:

Provided that with the prior permission of the State Government an action under this sub-section may be taken after a period of four years but before a period of eight years from the date of registration of the instrument on which duty is chargeable on the market value of the property.

Explanation - The payment of the deficit stamp duty by any person under any order of the registering officer under sub-section(1) shall not prevent the Collector from initiating proceedings on any instrument under sub-section(3).

(4) If on enquiry under sub-section(2) and examination under sub-section(3), the Collector finds the market value of the property -

(i) truly set forth and instrument duly stamped, he shall certify the endorsement that it is duly stamped and return it to the person who made the reference:

(ii) not truly set forth and instrument not duly stamped, he shall require the payment of proper duty or the amount required to make up the deficiency in the same, together with a penalty of the amount not exceeding four times the amount of the proper duty or the deficient portion thereof.

(4-A) The Collector shall also require along with the deficit stamp duty or penalty required to be paid under clause(ii) of Sub-Section(4), the payment of a simple interest at the rate of one and half percent per mensem on the amount of deficit stamp duty calculated from the date of execution of the instrument till the date of actual payment.

Provided that the amount of interest under this sub-section shall be recalculated if the amount of deficit stamp duty is varied on appeal or revision or any order of a competent court or authority.

(4-B) The amount of interest payable under sub-section (4-A) shall be added to the amount due and be also deemed for all purposed to be part of the amount required to be paid.

(4-C) Where realisation of the deficit stamp duty remained stayed by any order of any court of authority and such order of stay is subsequently vacated, the interest referred to in sub-section (4-A) shall be payable also for any period during which such order of stay remained in operation.

(4-D) Any amount paid or deposited by or recovered from, or refundable to, a person under the provision of this Act, shall first be adjusted towards the deficit stamp duty or penalty outstanding against him and the excess if any, shall then be adjusted towards the interest, if any due from him.

(5) The instrument produced before the collector under sub-Section(2) or under sub-Section(3) shall be deemed to have come before him in the performance of his functions.

(6) In case the instrument is not produced within the period specified by the Collector, he may require payment of deficit stamp duty, if any, together with penalty on the copy of the instrument in accordance with the procedure laid down in sub-section(2) and (4)]."

15. Section 48 of the Act provides for recovery of duties and penalties which runs as under:

"48.--Recovery of duties and penalties.--All duties, penalties and other sums required to be paid under this Chapter may be recovered by the Collector by distress and sale of the movable property of the person from whom the same are due, or by any other process for the time being in force for the recovery of arrears of land-revenue."

16. Section 56 of the Central Act prior to the U.P. Act No. 38 of 2001 only provided for reference in revision but with the insertion of Sub-Section 1(A) to section 56 of the Central Act under the U.P. Amendment there seems to be provision of statutory remedy of appeal against an order passed by the Collector under Chapter IV and V of the Stamp Act. Section 47-A false under Chapter IV which deals with the instrument not duly stamped, whereas, Chapter V deals with allowances of stamp in certain cases. Section 56 of the Stamp Act after the U.P. Amendment vide U.P. Act No. 38 runs as under:

56. Control of, and statement of case to Chief Controlling Revenue Authority - (1) The powers exercisable by a Collector under Chapter IV and Chapter V and under clause (a) of the first proviso to Section 26 shall in all cases be subject to the control of the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority.

(1-A) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other provisions of this Act, any person including the Government aggrieved by an order of the collector under Chapter IV, Chapter V or under clause (a) of the first proviso to section 26 may, within sixty days from the date of receipt of such order, prefer an appeal against such order to the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority, who shall, after giving the parties a reasonable opportunity of being heard consider the case and pass such order thereon as he thinks just and proper and the order so passed shall be final.

Provided that no application for stay of recovery of any disputed amount of stamp duty including interest thereon or penalty shall be entertained unless the applicant has furnished satisfactory proof of the payment of not less than one third of such disputed amount.

Provided further that where the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority passes an order for the stay of recovery of any stamp duty, interest thereon or penalty, or for the stay of the operation of any order appealed against, and such order results in the stay of recovery of any stamp duty, interest thereon, or penalty, such stay order shall not remain in force for more than thirty days unless the appellant furnishes adequate security to the satisfaction of the Collector concerned for the payment of the outstanding amount.

(2) If any Collector, acting under Section 31, Section 40 or Section 41, feels doubt as to the amount of duty with which any instrument is chargeable, he may draw up a Statement of the case, and refer it, with his own opinion thereon, for the decision of the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority.

(3) Such authority shall consider the case and a copy of its decision to the Collector who shall proceed to assess and charge the duty (if any) in conformity with such decision."

(Emphasis added)

17. A bare reading of the provisions quoted herein above, makes it quite explicit that the appellate authority shall consider the case in appeal and shall pass such order as it thinks just and proper and that too after giving for that purpose a reasonable opportunity of being heard. The only rider by the proviso is where a party insists for stay of the order passed by the controlling revenue authority as in the present case the Assistant Commissioner (Stamp), and wants stay of the recovery of the disputed amount, such person is required to make a deposit 1/3rd of the disputed amount.

18. Thus, the remedy of appeal in the stamp cases under the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 not only takes full care of the appellate authority deciding the matter in consonance with the principles of natural justice but also empowers the authority to stay the amount of recovery subject to deposit of 1/3rd amount directed to be recovered. The provision as is worded under the Section and gives power to the appellate authority clearly spells out the intendment of the legislature that remedy of appeal is a substantive remedy provided under the Act against the order passed by the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority and any factual and legal error is liable to be cured / remedied in appeal by the appellate authority

19. Thus, the argument if any, with regard to non availability of efficacious remedy is certainly misplaced and further the argument that since a question of law is involved such a remedy can be bypassed, in my considered opinion, that is neither the intendment of the legislature nor, the propriety demands for this Court to entertain a writ petition in a routine manner only because a question of law is involved. The forum of appeal is not only in respect of the factual dispute but is also an appropriate and competent forum to deal with legal issues involved in a case. The law as has emerged through authorities of Apex Court and this Court till now, is that there is no absolute rule for the High Court to either refused to entertain a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India or necessarily entertain a petition and decide the same in spite of there being a statutory remedy of appeal. It is all a self imposed limitation with which the High Court has clothed itself and except for exceptional cases a litigant should as a rule be asked to first pursue the alternative remedy, especially the statutory appeal. So the general rule is that one should first exhaust available alternative statutory remedy before approaching the high court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. The Apex Court has drawn exception to this general rule in certain cases from time to time.

20. Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in the case of Thansingh Nathmal & Others v. Superintendent of Taxes, Dhubri & others AIR 1964 SC 1419 has held that High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution does not sit in appeal and that being so, ordinarily if there is an alternative remedy under the statute created by the legislature, the litigant should be asked to first exhaust the same. Vide para 7 of the judgment, the Court held thus:

"7. Against the order of the Commissioner an order for reference could have been claimed if the appellants satisfied the Commissioner or the High Court that a question of law arose out of the order. But the procedure provided by the Act to invoke the jurisdiction of the High Court was bypassed, the appellants moved the High Court challenging the competence of the Provincial Legislature to extend the concept of sale, and invoked the extraordinary jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226 and sought to reopen the decision of the taxing authorities on questions of fact. The jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution is couched in wide terms and the exercise thereof is not subject to any restrictions except the territorial restrictions which are expressly provided in the Article. But the exercise of the jurisdiction is discretionary; it is not exercised merely because it is lawful to do so. The very amplitude of the jurisdiction demands that it will ordinarily be exercised subject to certain self-imposed limitations. Resort to that jurisdiction is not intended as an alternative remedy for relief which may be obtained in a suit or other mode prescribed by statute. Ordinarily the Court will not entertain a petition for a writ under Article 226, where the petitioner has an alternative remedy which, without being unduly onerous, provides an equally efficacious remedy. Again the High Court does not generally enter upon a determination of questions which demand an elaborate examination of evidence to establish the right to enforce which the writ is claimed. The High Court does not therefore act as a court of appeal against the decision of a court or tribunal, to correct errors of fact, and does not by assuming jurisdiction under Article 226 trench upon an alternative remedy provided by statute for obtaining relief. Where it is open to the aggrieved petitioner to move another tribunal, or even itself in another jurisdiction for obtaining redress in the manner provided by a statute, the High Court normally will not permit, by entertaining a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution, the machinery created under the statute to be by-passed, and will leave the party applying to it to seek resort to the machinery so set up."

21. The Constitution Bench of the Apex court in the case of M. Naina Mohammed v. K.A. Natarajan & Ors (1975) 2 SCC 352 vide para 2 of the said judgment clearly and quite unequivocally held as under:

"2. The boundaries of the High Court's jurisdiction under Article 226 are clearly and strongly built and cannot be breached without risking jurisprudential confusion [Sir Rama Vilas Service (P) Ltd. v. C. Chandrasekaran, (1964) 5 SCR 869 : AIR 1965 SC 107. The power is supervisory in nature, although the Judges at both the tiers, in the instant case, have unwittingly slipped into the subtle, but fatal error of exercising a kind of appellate review."

22 . Further in the case of Ghan Shyam Das Gupta and another v. Anant

Kumar Sinha and others (1991) 4 SCC 379, two judges Bench of the Apex Court vide para 8 held thus:

"8. The principle as to when the High Court should exercise its special jurisdiction under Article 226 and when to refuse to do so on the ground of availability of an alternative remedy has been settled by a long line of cases. The remedy provided under Article 226 is not intended to supersede the modes of obtaining relief before a civil court or to deny defences legitimately open in such actions. As was observed in State of Andhra Pradesh v. Chitra Venkata Rao [1976] 1 SCR 521 the jurisdiction to issue a writ of certiorari is supervisory in nature and is not meant for correcting errors like an appellate court."

23. Again in the case of State of U.P. & another v. Labh Chand (1993) 2 SCC 495, the Apex Court held that when a statutory forum or Tribunal is specially created by statute for the redressal of specified grievances of persons on certain matters, the High Court should not normally permit such persons to ventilate their specified grievances before it by entertaining petitions under Article 226 of the Constitution is a legal position which is too well settled. The Apex Court in the said judgment had also relied the earlier judgment of the larger Bench in the case of Thansingh Nathmal (supra) and vide para 16 of the judgment held thus:

"16. The respondent had since filed, in the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad, his first Writ Petition, W.P. No. 1980 of 1990, challenging the validity of the Order of the State Government by which he had been compulsorily retired from Government service and claimed several relief thereto against the State Government, we have to find whether the U.P. Public Service Tribunal if had been approached by the respondent here, could not have, if warranted, invalidated the Order challenged in the Writ Petition and given the reliefs sought for therein. If we have regard to the high status of the members constituting the Tribunal, expertise possessed by such members to consider the claims of employees in matters of their employment, vast powers invested in them to hold exhaustive enquiries and to grant full reliefs in matters relating to their employment, we cannot but hold that that Tribunal is the highest forum created by the Act to give full and complete relief to public servants in matters of their employment, that too, with expedition. The claims in the Writ Petition since related purely to matters relating to employment of the respondent under the State Government, the Division Bench of the High Court refused to entertain the Writ Petition on its view that it had been filed by the respondent here bye-passing the U.P. Public Services Tribunal. When the Division Bench had refused to entertain the Writ Petition of the respondent, in exercise of its discretionary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution on its view that the respondent could not have invoked its extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution for the redressal of his grievances, bye- passing the special forum created specifically by a statute for redressal of such grievances, efficaciously and adequately, it is not possible for us to think that such exercise of discretion was unwarranted, particularly when we have due regard to the settled legal position governing such matters, to which we have already adverted."

24. Again in the case of Union of India & Ors v. M/s. Cottage Arts

Emporium & Ors, 1991 Supp (2) SCC 723, a three judges Bench of the Apex Court has held that where an order arises out of adjudication proceedings and their lies statutory appeal, then the writ remedy would be inappropriate one and the party aggrieved must avail the remedy of appeal. Vide para 4 of the order, the Apex Court has held thus:

"4. In the meanwhile, pursuant to certain interlocutory directions made by this Court during the pendency of the special leave petition, the Statutory Authority has concluded the adjudication proceedings and has passed an order of confiscation, penalty etc., on 5-10-1990. Appellants submit that after this adjudication the main writ-petition before the High Court does not survive as respondents have their statutory remedies by way of appeal against the adjudication. Respondents say that it is doubtful whether, in the facts found in the adjudication proceedings, respondents have such a right and that at all events it may not be an equally efficacious remedy in the facts of the present case. Appellants do not dispute that if respondents consider themselves aggrieved by the result of the adjudication they are entitled to prefer an appeal against that adjudication. In view of these developments, we think that the remedy by way of writ petition must be held to have now become inappropriate."

25. In a yet another judgment of two judges Bench of Apex Court in the case of Cicily Kallarackal v. Vehicle Factory (2012) 8 SCC 524 has been observed that where the legislature has provided for statutory appeal, the High court cannot bypass such statutory appeal. In the said judgment the Court considered the earlier judgment of the Apex Court in the case of

Mohd. Swalleh v. Addl. District Judge, Meerut (1988) 1 SCC 40 : AIR 1980 SC 94, wherein the Court held that the High court is justified in setting aside an invalid and improper order, where there was no appeal against the decision of the Prescribed Authority to the District Judge and therefore, the Court observed that it was not always necessary to set aside an order if it is found to have been passed that an authority or Court having no jurisdiction. Vide paras 3 & 4 the Apex Court has held thus:

"3. So far as the issue of jurisdiction is concerned, the learned counsel for the petitioner is right that the High Court had no jurisdiction to deal with the matter against the order of the Commission. However, while dealing with a similar issue this Court in Mohammad Swalleh & Ors. v. IIIrd All. District Judge, Meerut & Anr., AIR 1988 SC 94, observed:

"7. It was contended before the High Court that no appeal lay from the decision of the Prescribed Authority to the District Judge. The High Court accepted this contention. (sic no appeal lay)... On that ground the High Court declined to interfere with the order of the learned District Judge. It is true that there has been some technical breach because if there is no appeal maintainable before the learned District Judge, in the appeal before the learned District Judge, the same could not be set aside. But the High Court was exercising its jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution. The High Court had come to the conclusion that the order of the Prescribed Authority was invalid and improper. The High Court itself could have set it aside. Therefore in the facts and circumstances of the case justice has been done though, as mentioned hereinbefore, technically the appellant had a point that the order of the District Judge was illegal and improper. If we reiterate the order of the High Court as it is setting aside the order of the Prescribed Authority in exercise of the jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution then no exception can be taken. As mentioned hereinbefore, justice has been done and as the improper order of the Prescribed Authority has been set aside, no objection can be taken."

(Emphasis added)

In view of the above, it is not always necessary to set aside an order if found to have been passed by an authority/court having no jurisdiction.

4. Despite this, we cannot help but to state in absolute terms that it is not appropriate for the High Courts to entertain writ petitions under Article 226 of the Constitution of India against the orders passed by the Commission, as a statutory appeal is provided and lies to this Court under the provisions of the Consumer Protection Act, 1986. Once the legislature has provided for a statutory appeal to a higher court, it cannot be proper exercise of jurisdiction to permit the parties to bypass the statutory appeal to such higher court and entertain petitions in exercise of its powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. Even in the present case, the High Court has not exercised its jurisdiction in accordance with law. The case is one of improper exercise of jurisdiction. It is not expected of us to deal with this issue at any greater length as we are dismissing this petition on other grounds."

26. Thus, from the above decisions, I do not find that the principles laid down in the judgment of the Constitution Bench of Apex Court and in subsequent judgments, referred to above, have not been in any manner diluted and, therefore, the said judgment still holds the field. It is worth mentioning that neither in the case of Dr. Bal Krishna Agrawal nor, in the case of Dhani Ram, cited by learned counsel for the petitioner, the said judgment was even referred to.

27. In the case of Dr. Bal Krishna Agrawal, a pure legal issue was to the effect that as to whether a Professor directly recruited would be treated as appointed directly, or under promotion rules, though the promotion rules had not come into force at the time he faced Selection Committee for direct recruitment and recommendation of the Selection Committee was approved by the Executive Council. The issue was raised that the name of that petitioner in the said case was also under consideration under promotion rules. The Court observed that the promotion rules since had not come into force at the time when the petitioner faced selection and was appointed, he would be deemed to have been appointed under direct recruitment of selection facing the selection committee. So virtually at the end of University there was no adjudication as such.

28. In the case of Dhani Ram (supra), the question again was whether one should be relegated to the remedy of labour laws or the Court exercising power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India could consider the grievance of the employee. It was a case where adjudication had yet not taken place.

29. One must bear in mind that in the matters where adjudication takes place by virtue of a proceeding instituted under a special statute and a forum of appeal is provided for, the first course should be that the party aggrieved against the adjudication should prefer appeal. It is only when the case is such that a serious miscarriage of justice would occur because of the want of authority in adjudication that a recourse to the remedy of Article 226 of the Constitution should be permitted.

30. In a case where a person has to initiate a fresh proceeding under the labour laws and if he has already applied for a writ, such a case is quite distinguishable from the cases where proceedings are instituted at a first forum whose order is appealable like here under the Stamp Act, 1899.

31. However, while holding that the petitioner has an efficacious alternative remedy of appeal vide U.P. Amendment in the Stamp Act, 1899, I would be failing in my duty if I do not refer to the judgment of the another Constitution Bench in Himmatlal Harilal Mehta v. State of Madhya Pradesh & Ors AIR 1954 SC 403 which is a case quite close to the one in hand, however, the only distinguishable feature on facts is, that in the said case the Court held the alternative remedy to be onerous and burdensome on the ground it required deposit of entire amount of tax sought for availing the alternative remedy and then the Court observed that such a provision would hardly be described as adequate alternative remedy. Hear in the present case, the party who has been held to have paid deficient stamp duty, is not required to pay the entire amount for availing the remedy of appeal and only in the event if such party seeks stay over the order by which he has been asked to make good the stamp duty, a disputed amount, it is required to deposit only 1/3rd of the amount as condition.

32. In the case of Himmatlal Harilal Mehta (supra), the Court had observed that the only exception to the general rule of availing alternative statutory remedy, is where the allegation has been made of violation of fundamental rights. The court quite unequivocally held that the principle that a Court will not issue a prerogative writ when an adequate alternative remedy was available could not apply where a party came to the court with an allegation that his fundamental right had been infringed and sought relief under Article 226 of the Constitution.

33. The issue in the present case relates to the definition of allottee to avail the benefit of exemption from Stamp duty in the cases of industrial leases and once the authority acting under Section 47-A had decided the matter against the petitioner, he could have preferred the appeal easily to raise his grievance and could have equally obtained stay order by merely depositing 1/3rd of the disputed amount. In the legislation governing the field of taxes, the Court should honour the spirit behind the physical measures taken and a decision is arrived at after due adjudication, unless there are cases of infringement of fundamental rights which are guaranteed under the Constitution and the Constitutional Courts are guardian to protect such rights. The disputed questions involving adjudication on the issue arising out of such measures adopted and availing benefits thereunder, should always be left open for the forum created under such statute to adjudicate upon.

34. In the present case, while I hold that the petitioners in the respective writ petitions have efficacious alternative remedy of appeal, I have one more reason to relegate them for this remedy because the petitioners would have in ordinary course deposited 1/3rd of the amount while availing the remedy of appeal. In the present case, while entertaining the writ petition on 24.11.2014, the Court had directed them to deposit the entire amount paid towards the deficiency of stamp under the orders impugned in the respective petitions, but there is nothing on record to show that the said order has been complied with nor, any affidavit has been filed. There is yet another reason to relegate the petitioners to alternative remedy and that is that the leading writ petition being Writ - C No. 62910 of 2014, with which all these writ petitions were tagged, has already been disposed off with a direction to the petitioner therein to prefer the appeal under the Stamp Act vide order dated 24.05.2019 and further direction has been issued to dispose off the same within a period of three months. The legal issues and the issues of fact involved in all these petitions including the one which has already been disposed off, are common and therefore, the appellate authority can pass orders in these cases also if the direction is issued.

35. In view of the above, therefore, I decline to interfere in the matter on merits of the case on the ground of availability of efficacious alternative remedy of appeal to the petitioners under Section 56(1-A) of the Stamp Act, 1899 vide U.P. Amendment. It is further provided that in case the appeal is preferred within three weeks from the date of this order, the same shall be considered and disposed off by the appellate authority on merits, of course, strictly in accordance with law within a further period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

36. It is further provided that since the impugned orders were stayed initially by this Court on 24.11.2014 and 26.11.2014 in respective writ petitions and stay orders were subject to the condition that the petitioners shall deposit the entire amount ordered to be paid thereunder, but there is nothing on record to demonstrate whether the said deposits have been made or not, it is hereby provided that in the event petitioners have not deposited under the order of this Court initially passed and the petitioners want interim stay on the order passed by the Stamp Authority during pendency of appeal, they may deposit 1/3rd of the disputed amount as provided for under the provisions and in the event they deposit the said amount within a period of four weeks from the date of this order, appropriate order on their stay application shall be passed by the appellate authority within a further period of two weeks.

37. With the aforesaid observations and directions all the writ petitions are disposed of.

Criminal law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Section 482- Entire proceedings under Section 3(1) of the Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986-challenged-FIR lodged under Sections 3, 5 and 8 of the Uttar Pradesh Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955- e accused-applicant has been apprehended while he was standing and holding 2 kg meat in his right hand- no allegation in the entire prosecution case that the alleged offence has been committed to make undue economic gain, to perpetrate some terror or to continue any such criminal activities which by and large are detrimental to the safety and security of the society-Section 2(b) of the Gangster Act-definition of gang-word "otherwise" used in Section 2(b) of the Act-used ejusdem generis- absence of allegation of violence, threat or show of violence or intimidation or coercion or otherwise-conditions for imposing Gangster Act not fulfilled-entire proceedings and chargesheet quashed-Application allowed. (Paras 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14)

HELD:

It is admitted case of the prosecution that the accused-applicant has been apprehended while he was standing and holding 2 kg meat in his right hand. The main accused Shahnawaj @ Shanu is admittedly a licensed butcher and was having a shop in the area. There is no allegation in the entire prosecution case that the alleged offence has been committed to make undue economic gain, to perpetrate some terror or to continue any such criminal activities which by and large are detrimental to the safety and security of the society. (Para 10)

A perusal of the definition of the gang shows that it is, a group of persons, who acting either singly or collectively by causing violence or threat or show of violence, or intimidation, or coercion, or otherwise with the object of disturbing public order or of gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage for himself or any other person. (Para 11)

A perusal of the entire prosecution case depicts that it is not the case of the prosecution that the accused has committed any violence, or extended any threat or has intimidated or has done coercion with the object of disturbing public order or the offence has been done for gaining any undue temporal pecuniary material or other advantage either for himself or any other person indulged in antisocial activities which are defined in Section 2(b)(1) of the Gangsters Act. The word or otherwise used in Section 2(b) of the Act has to be interpreted in context of the preceding words such as violence, threat, show of violence, intimidation or coercion, it cannot be assigned general meaning in order to invoke the Gangsters Act. In order to invoke the gangster in the case in hand, it has to be seen what was the object of the offence or the motive behind it. If the motive was of gaining undue temporal pecuniary or material advantage then the case is different. From the material gathered by the prosecution, it cannot be said that the accused had the aforesaid motive to interpret the general word used in section 2(d) of the Act i.e. 'other advantage'. The rule of 'Ejusdem Generis' has to be invoked. (Para 12)

It is settled that for a solitary case, the gangster can be imposed against the accused persons, if the offence is found to have been committed for any of the antisocial activity mentioned in Section 2(b) of the Act. It is not the case here. In the present case, there is nothing on the record to suggest that the charge sheet has been filed for any of the antisocial activities mentioned in Section 2(b) of the Act as discussed above. The accused may commit such kind of offence just once or he may commit several offences and could face more than one F.I.R.s in that connection, the numbers of the F.I.R.s are irrelevant. The motive behind the offence and the object has to be seen in order to arrive at a conclusion whether the provision of the gangsters act can be invoked in a given case or not. The motive and the object are clearly missing, thus, the case could not have been brought under the provision of the Act. (Para 14)

Application allowed. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Karunesh Singh Pawar, J.)

1. By this petition, the petitioner has prayed for quashing the entire proceedings of CNR No. UPJB010048152019 (State Vs Shahnawaj alias Shanu & others) pending before the Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court-11, Amroha including Charge Sheet No. 01/2019 dated 11.09.2019 submitted by the Investigating Officer before the Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court-11, Amroha in Case Crime No.0193/2019 under Section 3(1) of the Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 Police Station Amroha City, District Jyotiba Phule Nagar, order of cognizance dated 27.09.2019 passed by the Additional District & Sessions Judge, Court No. 4, Amroha in CNR No. UPJB010048152019 (State Vs Shahnawaj alias Shanu & others) as well as Non- Bailable Warrants dated 28.08.2020, 21.10.2020 and 10.12.2020 issued by the Additional District & Sessions Judge, Court No. 4, Amroha against the applicant. Further prayer has also been made for quashing the approval order dated 19.03.2019 passed by the District Magistrate, Amroha upon the gang chart which has been recommended by the Superintendent of Police, Amroha on 19.03.2019 so far as it relates to the applicant.

2. Brief facts of the case are that an F.I.R. dated 13.08.2018 was lodged under Sections 3, 5 and 8 of the Uttar Pradesh Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955 at Police Station Amroha City, District

Jyotiba Phule Nagar which was registered as Case Crime No. 0492/2018. The prosecution version as contained in the First Information Report dated 13.08.2018 is being translated into English and quoted as under:-

"The police party in its regular check and patrolling reached Kakar Saral Mod where a tip was received that in Mohalla Moti Shah one Shahnawa) alias Shanu son of Shafeek and others are selling cow meat after slaughtering it, if they immediately reach, the accused can be nabbed. No one agreed to be a prosecution witness and therefore, the police party reached the house of Shahnawaj alias Shanu. It was a two-storied house. The tip informed that Shahnawaj alias Shanu was slaughtering the cow and selling its meat, thereafter the tip went away. Three persons were arrested; one of them disclosed his Identity as Shahnawaj alias Shanu from whom a knife was recovered. Another person named Naeem was also arrested from whom another knife recovered. Third person named Kafeel (applicant) was arrested from whom two Kilogram of cow meat was recovered from his right hand in a polythene bag. 60 kilogram cow meat was lying on floor. Shahnawaj and Naeem told that they have procured the cow meat with the help of another accused person Rafi Ahmad. Veterinary Doctor was contacted on phone, who arrived at the crime scene. The Veterinary Doctor prima facie expressed his opinion of cow meat on Inspection of the meat lying on floor. Two knives, two gandasa, and iron hook, one large needle and a wooden plank were recovered".

3. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the co-accused Shahnawaj @ Shanu has a slaughter license under Food Safety and Standard Authority of India which is on record as Annexure No. 7 to the petition.

4. It is further submitted on behalf of the applicant that from perusal of the license, it is apparent that Shahnawaj @ Shanu is a valid license holder and is a licensed butcher having a shop in the name and style of Shahnawaj Buffalo Meat Shop. As per the prosecution case, knives were recovered from the possession of Shahnawaj @ Shanu. It is also submitted that since he is licensee butcher, therefore, the recovery of knife shown from him is nothing but a police heroic. The investigating officer has investigated the case and the statements of the witnesses were recorded which are on record as annexure No. 8. He further submits that from perusal of the statements, it is evident that there is no independent witnesses to the incident. Charge sheet in the aforesaid crime No. 0492/2018 came to be filed on 11.10.2018 before the CJM, Amroha against the four named accused persons including the applicant, upon which the cognizance was taken on 12.10.2018 and the accused persons were summoned before the trial court.

5. It is further submitted on behalf of the applicant that from the prosecution case in the police report, it is evident that the only allegation against the applicant is that he was caught with 2 kg of meat in his right hand in the polythene. It is also submitted that there is no independent witness to testify the alleged crime as the F.I.R. explicitly states that none was ready to be witness of the said raid. All the prosecution witnesses are members of the police party who raided the house of Shahnawaj @ Shanu who is a licensed butcher. It is next submitted that the alleged recovery of 2 kg meat from the applicant is planted.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant further submits that there is no material collected by the Investigating Officer to invoke the Gangsters Act. The gang chart has been prepared in cyclostyle manner which shows total non-application of mind. In the gang chart, only one case of cow slaughter has been shown. The applicant has no criminal history except the sole case i.e. case crime No. 492/2018, under Sections 3/5/8 of the U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955. There is no input in the police report and no material at all to bring this offence under the definition of gang. No subjective satisfaction has been recorded by the District Magistrate, Amroha. Gang chart has been prepared and recommended by the various authorities in a very short time in a mechanical manner without there being any subjective satisfaction.

7. It is further submitted on behalf of the applicant that there is no report of any veterinary doctor and no sampling of the alleged recovered meat has been sent for the forensic science laboratory. The ingredients to invoke of Section 2(d) of the Act are absent. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the applicant has relied on the judgments of this High Court passed in the case of Tej Singh and others Vs. State of U.P., in Application U/S 482 No. 3239/2005, Arjun Vs. State of U.P. in Writ Petition No. 642 of 2021 and Pankaj Singh Vs. State of U.P. in criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 5707/2021.

8. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has opposed the petition submitting that on the basis of a solitary case, gangster can be invoked. In support of his contention, he has relied on the judgment of the Apex Court passed in the case of "Shraddha Gupta v. State of U.P., 2022 SCC OnLine SC 514".

9. Heard learned counsel for the applicant and learned A.G.A. for the State.

10. It is admitted case of the prosecution that the accused-applicant has been apprehended while he was standing and holding 2 kg meat in his right hand. The main accused Shahnawaj @ Shanu is admittedly a licensed butcher and was having a shop in the area. There is no allegation in the entire prosecution case that the alleged offence has been committed to make undue economic gain, to perpetrate some terror or to continue any such criminal activities which by and large are detrimental to the safety and security of the society. The definition of the gang has been provided under Section 2(b) of the Gangsters Act which is reproduced as under:-

.....2. Definitions. - In this Act,-

(a) "Code" means the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (Act No. 2 of 1974);

(xviii) human trafficking for purposes of commercial exploitation, bonded labour, child labour, sexual exploitation, organ removing and trafficking, beggary and the like activities.

(xix) offences punishable under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act, 1966:

(xx) printing, transporting and circulating of fake Indian currency notes;

(xxi) involving in production, sale and distribution of spurious drugs;

(xxii) involving in manufacture, sale and transportation of arms and ammunition in contravention of Sections 5, 7 and 12 of the Arms Act, 1959;

(xxiii) felling or killing for economic gains, smuggling of products in contravention of the Indian Forest Act, 1927 and Wildlife Protection Act, 1972;

(xxiv) offences punishable under the Entertainment and Betting Tax Act, 1979;

(xvv) indulging in crimes that impact security of State, public order and even tempo of life.]

(c) "gangster" means a member or leader or organiser of a gang and includes any person who abets or assists in the activities of a gang enumerated in clause (b), whether before or after the commission of such activities or harbours any person who has indulged in such activities;

(d) "public servant" means a public servant as defined in Section 21 of the Indian Penal Code (Act No. 45 of 1860), or any other law for the time being in force, and includes any person who lawfully assists the police or other authorities of the State, in investigation or prosecution or punishment of an offence punishable under this Act, whether by giving information or evidence relating to such offence or offender or in any other manner;

(e) "member of the family of a public servant" means his parents or spouse and brother, sister, son, daughter, grandson, granddaughter or the spouses of any of them, and includes a person dependent on or residing with the public servant and a pen on in whose welfare the public servant is interested;

(f) words and phrases used but not defined in this Act and defined in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, or the Indian Penal Code shall have the meanings respectively assigned to them in such Codes.

11. A perusal of the definition of the gang shows that it is, a group of persons, who acting either singly or collectively by causing violence or threat or show of violence, or intimidation, or coercion, or otherwise with the object of disturbing public order or of gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage for himself or any other person.

12. A perusal of the entire prosecution case depicts that it is not the case of the prosecution that the accused has committed any violence, or extended any threat or has intimidated or has done coercion with the object of disturbing public order or the offence has been done for gaining any undue temporal pecuniary material or other advantage either for himself or any other person indulged in antisocial activities which are defined in Section 2(b)(1) of the Gangsters Act. The word or otherwise used in Section 2(b) of the Act has to be interpreted in context of the preceding words such as violence, threat, show of violence, intimidation or coercion, it cannot be assigned general meaning in order to invoke the Gangsters Act. In order to invoke the gangster in the case in hand, it has to be seen what was the object of the offence or the motive behind it. If the motive was of gaining undue temporal pecuniary or material advantage then the case is different. From the material gathered by the prosecution, it cannot be said that the accused had the aforesaid motive to interpret the general word used in section 2(d) of the Act i.e. 'other advantage'. The rule of 'Ejusdem Generis' has to be invoked. The Coordinate Bench of this Court while relying on the judgment of the Apex Court passed in the case of "Asstt. Collector of Central Excise v. Ramdev Tobacco Co., (1991) 2 SCC 119" and while invoking the rule of Ejusdem Generis has interpreted the word 'other advantage' which finds place in Section 2 of the Act and has held that the phrase 'other advantage' must take its hue from the accompanying words which immediately precede the same and which have a qualifying effect. The relevant part of the judgment of Tej Singh (supra), is extracted below:-

After having perused the record, this Court finds itself in agreement with the submissions made by the learned counsel for the applicants that though the accused are facing the allegations of having committed murder but they cannot be said to have committed the crime because they were gangsters. There was no motive of making any wrongful economic gains. This Court also does not see any material on the basis of which it may be held that the prime object behind committing the crime in question was so as to disturb the public order. Whenever some grave crime is committed it always leads to a consequential result of some kind of disturbance in society. Such normal disturbance in society and disturbing the public order or creating panic or terror are different species. Ordinary law and order problems can not be clubbed with phenomenon of break of public order. The crime in question does not appear to have been committed with the object of gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other similar kind of advantage for itself or for any other person indulged in anti-social activities.

Here in this context it may also be seen that in the definition of 'gang' as provided under Section -2(b) of the U.P. Gangsters and Anti Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 (hereinafter referred to as Act) reference to the words 'gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage' for himself or any other person has been given. One might argue that the words 'other advantage' is an all inclusive term and all kinds and categories of advantages will come under its title, and therefore, there is hardly any need to see the facts of the case with a fine class in order to find whether the object of the gang is or was of gaining undue temporal, pecuniary and material advantage or not. If the violence or offence committed was inspired to get any kind of advantage for himself or for any other person, the letter of definition as provided by the Act shall stand satisfied. But in the considered opinion of this Court such kind of approach will lead to complete misinterpretation of the Statute. If the Legislature in its wisdom has used a number of qualifying words with regard to Anti Social Activity as has been referred to and contemplated in the Act, then its whole purpose shall stand defeated by providing such an all sweeping meaning to the words 'other advantage' as has been used in the definition. If the term 'other advantage' was meant to include all advantages or was meant to include any kind of advantage whatsoever where was the need to use different other defining words like 'temporal, pecuniary and material' which immediately precede the words 'or other advantage' ! It is self evident that the use of the preceding words have a qualifying effect and must be seen lending its complexion to the subsequently used words 'other advantage'. The words 'other advantage' has got to be seen in the context and perspective and with reference to the preceding aforesaid words and must be understood in the same light. Just as a man is often known by the company he keeps, the import of words in Statute also are often to be seen and understood by the company of the words in which they appear. In this regard this Court deems it appropriate to keep in perspective the rule of 'Ejusdem Generis' in order to correctly appreciate the scope and the actual ambit of the general words which follow the aforesaid specific words used in the Statute. The Court is of the view that the aforesaid preceding words 'temporal, pecuniary and material' are constituting a genus and the words 'other advantage' has to be read as an species of the same. Though ordinarily the general words must be provided to bear their natural and larger meaning but they have to be confined Ejusdem generis to the class of things previously enumerated by certain specific words because it is not difficult to see clearly the intention of the Statute which it spells out by using a specific class and category of qualifying words. This Court sees reasons and therefore feels persuaded to limit the scope of the meaning of the general words 'other advantage' because if we provide to it a larger all embracing meaning it is likely to lead to absurd and unforeseen results. The general expression has to be read contemplating to imply the things of the same kind which have been referred to by the preceding specific class of things constituting a genus. If we do not adhere to this rule and do not impute specific complexion to the general words in the light of the preceding words the blatant misuse and plain absurdity to which it shall lead is that the administrative executives and the police would feel free to impose the provisions of this Act upon anybody and everybody who is facing the charge of committing any sort of offence or any breach of law howsoever trivial it be because hardly any violence or threat or show of violence or intimidation or coercion is done without having the object of gaining some kind of advantage himself or for any other person. The word 'advantage' has an all sweeping natural meaning and may include material and psychological both kinds of advantages. In that view of the matter the use of the words 'other advantage' will bring in its mischief everything under the sun. It is therefore very expediently needed to read these words in right perspective and read them Ejusdem generis with the things or words previously enumerated by the Statute. In order to substantiate its view this Court finds strength from the pronouncement given by the Apex Court in the case of Assistant Collector of Central Excise, Guntur vs. Ramdev Tobacco Company, 1991 AIR (SC) 506. In this case the principle of Ejusdem generis was expatiated upon at some length and was also brought into application while giving interpretation to the issues involved in the case with which it was dealing. It would be profitable to extract the relevant portion of the pronouncement which reads as under:-

"5. But the question is whether the issuance of a show cause notice and the initiation of the consequential adjudication proceedings can be described as 'other legal proceedings' within the meaning of sub-section (2) of section 40 of the Act? If the said departmental action falls within the expression 'other legal proceeding' there can be no doubt that the action would be barred as the same indisputably was initiated six months after the accrual of the cause action. So the crucial question is whether the issuance of the show cause notice dated August 30, 1972 and the passing of the impugned order in adjudication proceedings emanating therefrom constitutes 'other legal proceeding' within the meaning of section 40 (2) of the Act to fall within the mischief of that sub-section which bars such proceedings if commenced after a period of six months from the accrual of the cause of action. The learned Additional Solicitor General submitted that the expression

'other legal proceeding' must be read ejusdem generis with the preceding expressions 'suit' and 'prosecution' and if so read it becomes crystal clear that the department's action cannot come within the purview of 'other legal proceeding'. How valid is this contention is the question which we are called upon to answer in the present appeal.

6. The rule of ejusdem generis is generally invoked where the scope and ambit of the general words which follow certain specific words (which have some common characteristic and constitute a genus) is required to be determined. By the application of this rule the scope and ambit of the general words which follow certain specific words constituting a genus is restricted to things ejusdem generis with those preceding them, unless the context otherwise requires. General words must ordinarily bear their natural and larger meaning and need not be confined ejusdem generis to things previously enumerated unless the language of the statute spells out an intention to that effect. Courts have also limited the scope of the general words in cases where a larger meaning is likely to lead to absurd and unforeseen results. To put it differently, the general expression has to be read to comprehend things of the same kind as those referred to by the preceding specific things constituting a genus, unless of course from the language of the statute it can be inferred that the general words were not intended to be so limited and no absurdity or unintended and unforeseen complication is likely to result if they are allowed to take their natural meaning. The cardinal rule of interpretation is to allow the general words to take their natural wide meaning unless the language of the statute gives a different indication or such meaning is likely to lead to absurd results in which case their meaning can be restricted by the application of this rule and they may be required to fall in line with the specific things designated by the preceding words. But unless there is genus which can be comprehended from the preceding words, there can be no question of invoking this rule. Nor can this rule have any application where the general words precede specific words.

7. There can be little doubt that the words 'other legal proceeding' are wide enough to include adjudication and penalty proceedings under the Act. Even the learned Additional Solicitor General did not contend to the contrary but what he said was that since this wide expression is preceded by particular words of a certain genus, namely, words indicating reference to proceedings taken in courts only, the wide words must be limited to things ejusdem generis and must take colour from the preceding words and should, therefore, receive a limited meaning to exclude proceedings of the type in question. There can be no doubt that 'suit' or 'prosecution' are those judicial or legal proceedings which are lodged in a court of law and not before any executive authority, even if a statutory one. The use of the expression 'instituted' in section 40 (2) strengthens this belief. Since this sub-section has been construed by this Court in Raju's case (supra) not to be confined in its application to only Government servants but to extend to others including the assesseees and since the words 'for anything done or ordered to be done under this Act' are found to be comprehensive enough to include acts of non-compliance or omissions to do what the Act and the Rule enjoin, the limitation prescribed by section 40(2) would undoubtedly hit the adjudication and penalty proceedings unless the expression 'other legal proceeding' is read ejusdem generis to limit its ambit to legal proceedings initiated in a court of law.

8. The scope of section 40(2) as it stood before its amendment pursuant to Raju's case came up for consideration before a Division Bench of the Madhya Pradesh High Court in Universal Cables Ltd. v. Union of India, [1977 Tax LR 1825]: 1977 ELT (J92) wherein the question raised for determination was whether penalty proceedings taken under Rule 173Q for the infraction of Rule 173C with a view to evading payment of duty fell within the expression 'other legal proceeding' used in the said sub-section. The High Court conceded that the expression when read in isolation is wide enough to include any proceeding taken in accordance with law, whether so taken in a court of law or before any authority or tribunal but when read with the preceding words 'suit' or 'prosecution' it must be given a restricted meaning. This is how the High Court expressed itself at page J 106 (at page 1838 of Tax. L.R.):

"Now the language of section 40(2) is: 'no suit, prosecution or other legal proceeding shall be instituted'. 'Suit' and 'prosecution' which precede the expression 'other legal proceeding' can be taken only in a Court of Law".

After stating the expanse of the ejusdem generis rule, as explained in Amar Chandra v. Excise Collector, Tripura, AIR. 1972 SC 1863 at 1868 (Sutherland, Volume 2 pages 399-400) the High Court observed that there was no indication in the said sub-section or elsewhere in the Act that the said general words were intended to receive their wide meaning and were not to be construed in a limited sense with the aid of the ejusdem generis rule. A departmental proceeding like penalty proceedings were, therefore, placed outside the scope of the said sub-section. This view was quoted with approval by a learned Single Judge of the Bombay High Court in C.C. Industries & Others v. H.N. Ray, 1980 ELT 442 at 453. These two cases, therefore, clearly support the view canvassed before us by the learned Additional Solicitor General.

9. We have given our careful consideration to the submission made on behalf of the appellant, reinforced by the view expressed in the aforesaid two decisions. In considering the scope of the expression 'other legal proceeding' we have confined ourselves to the language of sub-section (2) of section 40 of the Act before its amendment by Act 22 of 1973 and should not be understood to express any view on the amended provision. On careful consideration we are in respectful agreement with the view expressed in the aforesaid decisions that the wide expression 'other legal proceeding' must be read ejusdem generis with the preceding words 'suit' and 'prosecution' as they constitute a genus. In this view of the matter we must uphold the contention of the learned Additional Solicitor General that the penalty and adjudication proceedings in question did not fall within the expression 'other legal proceeding' employed in section 40(2) of the Act as it stood prior to its amendment by Act 22 of 1973 and therefore, the said proceedings were not subject to the limitation prescribed by the said sub-section."

Illumined by the aforesaid view adopted by the Hon'ble Supreme Court this Court sees good reason to hold that the use of phrase 'other advantage' as it finds place in the Act must take its hue from the accompanying words which immediately precede the same and which have a qualifying effect.

13. Thus, in absence of allegation of violence, threat or show of violence or intimidation or coercion or otherwise, I am of the view that first information report registered against the applicant under Section 3(1) of the Act cannot be sustained. Further the words "or otherwise" used in the first part of section 2(b) of the Act, shall derive its meaning from the preceding words and it shall not include all general acts/offences which are trivial in nature, for the purpose of the Section 2(b) of the Act. So far as the contention of learned A.G.A. that on a solitary case, the gangsters can be invoked is concerned, there is no quarrel on this point. The law is settled. The Apex Court has already settled the controversy in the case of Shraddha Gupta (supra) wherein in para 10 it has been held that there can be prosecution against a person even in a case of a single offence/F.I.R./charge sheet for any of the antisocial activities mentioned in Section 2(b) of the Act provided such antisocial activity is by violence or threat or by show of violence or intimidation or coercion or otherwise with the object of disturbing public order or of gaining any undue temporal pecuniary material or advantage for himself or any other person. In the present case, it is alleged that the petitioner herein was apprehended with 2 kg meat in his right hand. There is no allegation of any of the antisocial activities mentioned in Section 2 of the Act such as violence, threat, show of violence, intimidation, coercion etc., therefore, it cannot be said that the said offence was committed by the applicant for object of disturbing public order or of gaining undue temporal pecuniary material or other advantage for himself or any other person.

14. It is settled that for a solitary case, the gangster can be imposed against the accused persons, if the offence is found to have been committed for any of the antisocial activity mentioned in Section 2(b) of the Act. It is not the case here. In the present case, there is nothing on the record to suggest that the charge sheet has been filed for any of the antisocial activities mentioned in Section 2(b) of the Act as discussed above. The accused may commit such kind of offence just once or he may commit several offences and could face more than one F.I.R.s in that connection, the numbers of the F.I.R.s are irrelevant. The motive behind the offence and the object has to be seen in order to arrive at a conclusion whether the provision of the gangsters act can be invoked in a given case or not. The motive and the object are clearly missing, thus, the case could not have been brought under the provision of the Act.

15. In view of the aforesaid reasons, the entire criminal proceedings as well as charge sheet under the Act as well as consequential proceedings are quashed. The application is allowed.

(Paras 20,21,23, 43, 59,61, 62, 66, 70, 72, 74 and 75)

HELD:

This Court while dealing with the case is conscious of the fact that the commission of an offence and complicity of the offenders are two different realities. The complicity of an offender must provenly be established connected to the commission of charged offence, then only it is permissible for a court of law to derive the product of conviction failing which the acquittal is the rule. (Para 20)

The law stands settled that any acquittal order cannot be lightly interfered with by the Appellate Court, though this Court has wide powers to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion. However, the power to grant leave must be exercised with care and caution because the presumption of innocence is further strengthened by the acquittal of an accused. (Para 21)

Further, it is a cardinal principle of criminal jurisprudence that the guilt of the accused must be proved beyond all reasonable doubt. The burden of proving its case beyond all reasonable doubt lies on the prosecution and it never shifts. Another golden thread which runs through the web of the administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. (Para 23)

On a careful analysis of the evidence available on records, we do not find that the St.ment of star witnesses PW-3 about the meeting of PW-2 at his house can be believed to be true, therefore the testimony of PW-3 to have met at home and accompanied with PW-2 by following the deceased, after having meal, remains doubtful. The facts of dharna was introduced to make the presence of PW-2 at the house of the informant as natural but the truth of the matter is that no such dharna was called on 08.07.2000 as is corroborated by the St.ment of PW-8. (Para 59)

Moreover, it has come in evidence that one bullet was found inside the body of deceased. If bullet could not pass through the body, this shows that velocity of bullet was not very high. This further shows that it was not possible to cause such injury from a distance of 1 step or for that matter from 3-4 steps. Apparently, if fire is made from a close range of one step, the entrance wound would be big whereas a fire made from distant range the wound would be smaller in size. In the present case, as per St.ment of P.W.9, the entry wound is of two categories, one being of 0.5 x 0.5 cm & anr. of 1 cm x 1 cm in size which demonstrates that story of firing from a distance of merely one step is highly unlikely and impossible. The test regarding close range gunshot wound was considered in catena of judgments. (Para 66)

In the instant case, the entry wound of deceased does not show of any blackening, the doctor had opined that gunshot must have been caused from a distance. If we examine this finding on the basis of analysis made by the Apex Court, we will not be able to hold that the story of prosecution that gunshot injury was caused from a distance of merely one step to be trustworthy. Thus keeping in view the aforesaid observations of the apex court vis-a-vis the opinion of the doctor, the gunshots must have been made from a distance of more than six feet. (Para 70)

This court finds that all the aforesaid aspects have been considered threadbare by the Trial Court. The evidence recorded in the present case has been appreciated in its correct perspective and the Trial court has at no point of time missed the woods of the tree. Thus, we do not find any perversity in the order of acquittal passed by the Trial Court and in any case, the law presumes double presumption in favour of the accused after a due adjudication by the trial Court. Further, on recording of the findings as aforesaid, we find that the prosecution has utterly failed to establish the chain of events which can be said to exclusively lead to the one and only conclusion, i.e., the guilt of the accused persons. In that view of the matter, we find that the judgment and order of the learned Sessions Judge to be a plausible and sustainable view, especially when the Trial Court had the advantage of seeing and assessing the demeanour of witnesses. (Para 74)

This court has also recorded its independent finding and holds that the theory put forth by prosecution that the four accused persons were liable for causing death of the deceased is unconvincing and shorn of evidence proved beyond reasonable doubt. (Para 75)

Appeal dismissed. (E-14)

A. Introduction

1. Both the State and the de-facto Complainant are before this court challenging the order of acquittal of all the four accused/ respondents by the Trial Court in Sessions Trial No. 518/2001, under section 302, 302/34 IPC, wherein the Trial Court, while acquitting these accused persons of all the charges concluded vide an order dated 29.03.2004, as inter-alia:

“123. On the basis of above attempted discussion, prosecution has utterly failed to prove its case and it does not inspire any confidence. Presence of the eye witnesses on the spot is not proved and prosecution story had been developed from stage to stage to give colour to the prosecutions story. Prosecution story is inconsistent to medical evidence and prosecution story which has come later, is not in support of the FIR and for these reasons, I am of the opinion that prosecution story and evidence led in this support at all not credible and all the accused persons in this case must be acquitted of all the charges levelled against them in this case.”

While the state has filed Criminal Appeal No. 1624 of 2004 under section 378 of the Criminal procedure Code, the de-facto complainant has preferred Criminal revision No. 221 of 2004 under section 397 r/w 401 of the Criminal procedure Code.

Since, both the proceedings engaging the attention of this court, arise out of the same impugned order and lead to the same facts & circumstances, they are being dealt and disposed of vide this common judgment.

B. Facts of the case

2. The appeal at hand filed by the State under Section 378 CrPC relates to the murder of one Prabhat Gupta alias Raju of which FIR was lodged by one Santosh Gupta (father) at Tikonia Police Station, District Lakhimpur Kheri on 8.7.2000 at 3.30 pm. The hearsay information giving rise to the FIR shows presence of four culprits at the time of incident mentioned in the FIR who were identified by two eye witnesses named therein. The information states that the deceased had left from the house of the informant at 3 pm on 8.7.2000 for going to the shop. On reaching the main road, the deceased was done to death by the two named culprits and the death occurred on the spot.

3. The eye witnesses in the FIR were stated to have seen the occurrence in broad day light which according to the informant was probable in the background of some political rivalry and enmity. The registration of the FIR by the scribe Shri Krishna (HM-53) on 8.7.2000 at 3.30 pm had set the machinery of law in motion.

4. The action that followed immediately after lodging of the FIR was visiting the scene of occurrence by Investigating Officer and drawing up the site plan with reference to the dead body, noticing recovery of some articles inclusive of two empty cartridges, a pair of footwear and thereafter inquest report was prepared from 3.40 pm to 5 pm in presence of panchas. The inquest report significantly notices the injuries on the dead body and takes note of the site plan from where two empty cartridges etc were recovered. The oozing blood and the direction of fire arm injuries from right to left was also mentioned. The inquest report mentions handing over of the sealed dead body at 5 pm on 8.7.2000 to two police personnel for obtaining the postmortem report to definite the cause of death which according to the panchas had occurred due to fire arm injuries.

5. The postmortem was conducted on 9.7.2000 at 11 am and the report was accordingly drawn. The deceased had sustained two gunshot wounds of entry and only one exit wound. Besides the deceased, who lost his life, no one was injured.

6. According to the doctor, death occurred due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante mortem injuries and one bullet was recovered from the dead body.

7. The investigation was conducted in piecemeal by different officers. SI T.B. Singh conducted the investigation of the case from 8.7.2000 to 15.7.2000 and from 16.7.2000 to 18.7.2000 investigation was done by the team constituted under the order of the IG Zone and investigation was headed by Balvir Singh SIS (Security and Investigation Services). On assumption of investigation by the SIS team, on one day i.e. 19.7.2000 investigation was done by Hemant Singh, member of SIS team, however, from 20.7.2000 to 28.9.2000 investigation was conducted by R.P Tiwari of CBCID. The proceedings of investigation, if any, conducted between 28.9.2000 to 6.11.2000 are not clear from the record available before this Court. It is though apparent from the record that from 6.11.2000 to 13.12.2000 another R.P. Tiwari of SIS who after collection of evidence concluded the investigation with the submission of charge sheet against the accused persons.

8. Until the stage of investigation many aspects shock to normal prudence like if the timing of FIR was so prompt then why the postmortem report was prepared a day later and why the recording of statements under Section 161 CrPC was delayed.

9. The delay in the arrest of culprits and shifting of investigation from one agency to another speak large. The investigation officer in order to bring accuracy in the matter of place of occurrence prepared a second site plan on 26.11.2000 but the recovery made was not taken aid of to explore the truth for the two cartridges and one bullet recovered were not subjected to any ballistic report. The measured distance in footsteps from the house of informant upto the point of occurrence in the two site plans stands at variance and the directional route also varies.

10. After cognizance, when it came to the stage of framing the charge before the court of session, charge simplicitor under Section 302 IPC was framed only against the two accused persons attributed the role of fire arm injuries whereas, the other two were tried for the same offence with the aid of Section-34 IPC. The place of occurrence in the frame of charge is mentioned within the limits of Tikonina town and is not circumscribed within either of the two site plans.

11. The accused persons abjured their guilt and claimed trial. The case was thereafter transferred to the court of Addl Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court No. 4 and by order of this Court passed on 23.2.2004, the trial was transferred to the court of Sessions Judge where day to day hearing was done and the same concluded on 24.3.2004.

12. The prosecution in order to prove the guilt, has examined as many as 12 witnesses. The informant, Santosh Gupta (PW-1), father of the deceased; the eye witnesses mentioned in the FIR Vinod Gupta, (PW-2) and Sanjeev Gupta (brother of the deceased i.e. PW-3). The other eye witnesses discovered during investigation viz. Shiv Kumar (PW-4) and Jagdish Prasad Yadav (PW-10); Gopal Verma (PW-5) and Atul Gupta (PW-6) were examined as witnesses of Panchayatnama. Dr S.K. Maneer (PW-7) who conducted postmortem, HC 53 Sri Krishna (PW-8) who prepared chik, T.B. Singh (PW-9) IO, R.P. Tiwari-I (PW-11) IO and another R.P. Tiwari (PW-12) who also investigated the case were examined as official witnesses.

13. In their statements recorded under Section 313 CrPC the accused respondents denying the charges of murder, stated that they have been implicated due to political rivalry and enmity erupted due to panchayat elections. They denied the prosecution story and submitted that the witnesses have given false statements in order to implicate them in the case.

14. The case set out by defence in extenuation of the charges, as already stated, is that the accused-respondents have been falsely roped in the case. They, however, adduced no evidence in support of their defence.

C. Appeal / Revision

15. The Sessions Judge after scrutinizing and appraisal of evidence, recorded the verdict of acquittal of the accused-respondents of the charge under Section 302 IPC read with Section 34 IPC, giving rise to this State appeal under Section 378 CrPC which on leave being granted was admitted by order dated 3.2.2005.

16. Sri Umesh Chandra Verma, learned AGA has argued this appeal for the State whereas the complainant who had instituted the criminal revision no. 221 of 2004 against the same very judgment having passed away during the pendency of criminal revision, was heard through his legal representatives as victims. This opportunity was granted by passing an order on the connected criminal revision on 13.2.2023 and the relevant part of the same is reproduced as under:

“.....In the present case, however, the connected appeal i.e. Criminal Appeal No.1624 of 2004 instituted by the State is pending against the same very judgment, therefore, the consequence of abatement of the present revision is inconsequential and does not leave the legal heirs of the revisionist as remediless. The legal heirs of the revisionist have an opportunity of participating in the pending criminal appeal instituted by the State as victim, for which, a similar application has been made by the applicants in the connected criminal appeal.

Having regard to the scope of Section 397 read with Section 401 CrPC juxtaposed to Section 394 CrPC, we dispose of this application permitting the legal heirs or any one of them to participate in the connected criminal appeal as victims to which there is no objection by the accused respondents.”

17. Learned AGA for the State argued the matter very ably and taking us through the material on record, has reprehended the trial court for not having proceeded with the case in the correct perspective. The appreciation of evidence according to the prosecution being seriously faulty, renders the acquittal of the accused respondents as illegal and perverse.

18. According to the learned counsel for the State, it was a case of broad daylight murder, duly witnessed by eye witnesses and the prosecution having successfully proved the evidence as wholly reliable, therefore, the acquittal recorded by the trial court is against the weight of evidence.

Learned counsel for the prosecution, however, conceded to the proposition that an acquittal through the process of law safeguards the presumption of innocence doubly and the prosecution in order to make out a case for conviction, is duty bound to prove its stand beyond a reasonable doubt and show that the acquittal recorded by the trial court was not a possible view.

19. The frame of the prosecution case having been set on the testimony of star-witness Sanjeev Gupta (PW-3) brother of the deceased, it is argued that the corroborative evidence when read correctly does not leave any doubt in the pyramid of prosecution case and the resultant opinion in any view of the matter is none other than the conviction of culprits spotted at the place of occurrence, therefore, the judgement of the trial court deserves reversal.

20. Elaborating on the foundational testimony of Sanjeev Gupta (PW-3) who was the real brother of the deceased, it was argued that his oral testimony being natural was wholly reliable and the corroborative evidence fully supports the case of prosecution.

This Court while dealing with the case is conscious of the fact that the commission of an offence and complicity of the offenders are two different realities. The complicity of an offender must provenly be established connected to the commission of charged offence, then only it is permissible for a court of law to derive the product of conviction failing which the acquittal is the rule.

D. Analysis of evidence

21. The law stands settled that any acquittal order cannot be lightly interfered with by the Appellate Court, though this Court has wide powers to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion. However, the power to grant leave must be exercised with care and caution because the presumption of innocence is further strengthened by the acquittal of an accused. The Apex Court in Chandrappa & Others v. State of Karnataka (2007) 4 SCC 415, this Court held:

“(1) An appellate court has full power to review, reappreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

(2) The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

(3) Various expressions, such as, "substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtail extensive powers of an appellate court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasise the reluctance of an appellate court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

(4) An appellate court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal, there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court.

(5) If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court."

22. The Hon'ble Apex Court recently in the case of Ravi Sharma V. State (Government of NCT of Delhi & Anr. (2022 SCC Online 859) and Jafarudheen and Others V. State of Kerala (2022 SCC Online SC 495), which was passed after following earlier precedents like (i) Mohan alias Srinivas aliwas Seena Alias Taialor Seena V. State of Karnataka (2021 SCC Online SC 1233), (ii) N. Vijayakumar V. State of Tamil Nadu (2021) 3 SCC 687), reiterated the scope of section 378 of the Code of Criminal Procedure while dealing an appeal against acquittal by the High Court in the following words;

"25. While dealing with an appeal against acquittal by invoking Section 378 of the Cr.PC, the Appellate Court has to consider whether the Trial Court's view can be termed as a possible one, particularly when evidence on record has been analyzed. The reason is that an order of acquittal adds up to the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused. Thus, the Appellate Court has to be relatively slow in reversing the order of the Trial Court rendering acquittal. Therefore, the presumption in favour of the accused does not get weakened but only strengthened. Such a double presumption that enures in favour of the accused has to be disturbed only by thorough scrutiny on the accepted legal parameters."

23. Further, it is a cardinal principle of criminal jurisprudence that the guilt of the accused must be proved beyond all reasonable doubt. The burden of proving its case beyond all reasonable doubt lies on the prosecution and it never shifts. Another golden thread which runs through the web of the administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. [Vide Kali Ram Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, (1973) 2 SCC 808; State of Rajasthan Vs. Raja Ram, (2003) 8 SCC 180; Chandrappa & Ors. vs. State of Karnataka, (2007) 4 SCC 415; Upendra Pradhan Vs. State of Orissa, (2015) 11 SCC 124 and Golbar Hussain & Ors. Vs. State of Assam and Anr., (2015) 11 SCC 242].

24. Keeping in mind the aforesaid position of law, we shall examine the arguments advanced by the parties as also the evidence and the materials on record and see whether in view of the nature of offence alleged to have been committed by the Respondents, the findings of fact by the Trial Court call for interference in the facts and circumstances of the case.

25. Now coming to the case at hand it is to be noted that the very presence of the eye witnesses for the purposes of proving complicity of the accused at the place of incident begins from the residential place of the informant. The star witness (PW-3) according to the story of prosecution shows his presence started from his father's residence alongwith Vinod Gupta (PW-2) and were following the deceased Prabhat Gupta alias Raju who had left the same house, after having meal, for shop nearly about the same time in the afternoon. It was from a close distance from the place of occurrence that they spotted all the four accused possessed with small fire arms and saw two of them firing on the body of the deceased in the day light at 3 pm on 8.7.2000. For proving the presence of these two eye witnesses, the prosecution owes a burden of proof not only to establish that the two witnesses were present at the place of occurrence but they were also present at the residential place of the informant where they joined together. The definite allegation of togetherness of two witnesses in the FIR read with the examination in chief of PW-3 shows that both of them started together from the house of informant and had followed the deceased up to the place of occurrence when they saw the deceased shot at by the two named accused and thereafter brandishing their weapons alongwith two more known accused, all ran away from the place of incident towards old kotwali in the west. It is significant to note that when the two eye witnesses reached the deceased, they found him dead.

26. It was nowhere stated by the witness PW-3 in his examination in chief that any other person had witnessed the occurrence and no such person was named.

27. The whole story of complicity of the accused persons revolves around the oral evidence of PW-1, PW-2, PW-3, PW-4 and PW-10 who are the witnesses of facts to establish the complicity of the four accused. The rest of evidence is the corroborative evidence.

28. The togetherness of the informant (PW-1), the eye witness (PW-3) and the deceased at their home on the date of occurrence is natural as they all were residing in the same house but once it is stated that PW-3 accompanied Vinod Gupta (PW-2) from the same very house upto the place of incident, the burden of proof multiplies and accords equal respect to the testimony of PW-2.

29. The informant in the first place altered his version in his examination-in-chief regarding the purpose of going out of the deceased. The statement of going to shop was altered and to attend the 'dharma' instead of shop was introduced but such a diversion deserves scrutiny and the purpose thereof needs to be understood. This diversion was introduced to establish the presence of Pw-2 whose presence otherwise at the house of the informant was unnatural. The informant in order to explain the presence of PW-2 at his house on 8.7.2000 introduced this fact of which there is no explanation by PW-3 in his testimony. It is in order to justify the contradiction that a new version was introduced by the informant contrary to what was stated in the FIR. The improvement of 'dharna' was liable to be proved to free the testimony from being untruthful. This contradiction has a bearing on the movement and presence of witnesses PW-2 & PW-3 together which clouds the truthfulness of testimony of PW-1 and PW-3 both. The presence of PW-2 and PW-3 when analysed from the oral testimony of PW-3 in depth does not give any clue as to how PW-2 reached the place of informant and as to when the two witnesses joined each other so as to follow the deceased on that fateful day.

30. As per the case of the prosecution, the statement of PW-4 and PW-10 was significant to prove the guilt but there is no justification as to what prevented the eye witnesses named in the FIR to disclose the identity of above witnesses before lodging the FIR and to introduce them at the time when, prima facie it appeared to the prosecution that the evidence on record was not strong enough to bring home the guilt. It is though trite that an eye witness is not necessarily to be named in the FIR but the circumstances in which these two witnesses have been introduced put a question mark on the manner of investigation and it may clearly be inferred that these witnesses have been brought in to strengthen the prosecution case which otherwise may have weakened the story set up by them and the same could not be of any assistance to get the accused implicated and convicted. Such an act cannot be said to have been taken in natural course in a bona fide manner as the same goes to the root of the matter with an intention to fill the loopholes in the investigation.

31. Having focused on the aforesaid fact, it is extremely doubtful that the alleged eye witnesses have either seen the occurrence or were present at the spot.

32. PW-3 Sanjeev Gupta, brother of the deceased, who is the star witness and whose evidence alongwith PW-1 and PW-10 has been heavily relied upon by the prosecution, deposed in his statement that on the date of occurrence i.e. 8.7.2000, there was 'dharna' organised by a political party (Samajwadi Party) alongwith the Vyapar Mandal and he alongwith the deceased brother (Prabhat Gupta) left the home at about 3 pm after having meals. The deceased was ahead proceeding towards his shop whereas he alongwith Vinod Gupta were walking behind while having a chat. When the deceased reached the main road from the lane (Gali), he suddenly saw all the four accused there. All of them were holding in their hands small size weapons which either were revolver or pistol. At the spur of moment Ajay Misra Teni fired gunshot on the temple of the deceased. Immediately Subhash alias Mama fired on Kokh (between stomach and chest). Deceased collapsed after sustaining two gunshots and succumbed to death on the spot. Rakesh alias Dalu, Shashibhushan alias Pinki displaying their weapons uttered, let Prabhat be not spared and if anyone comes in between, fire gunshot on him too. The assailants ran towards old Kotwali. When he and Vinod Gupta reached upto the deceased, he had already died. Thereafter he alongwith

Vinod Gupta came back to his house and informed his father that Prabhat has been killed by Teni and went to the place of incident alongwith his father and narrated him the entire incident on the way.

33. He also deposed that on the date of incident his shop was closed due to dharna. He, however admitted that there was no call for closing the market by the Traders' Association. He also stated that he had informed this fact to IO T.B. Singh but had no idea as to why this fact was not mentioned in his statement. Though holding of dharna on the date of incident was a crucial fact, he submitted that he does not remember as to whether he stated this fact before the CBCID officers when the investigation was taken over by them, or not. He also expressed his inability to recollect as to whether he informed the CBCID officer that his shop was closed that day and that he was going towards the place of demonstration from his house. With regard to the presence of Vinod Gupta at his place on the date of incident, he deposed that Vinod Gupta had come to his house at 1-2 pm and after having meals he, Vinod Gupta and deceased Prabhat left together. Vinod Gupta was residing at Lakhimpur city and that he had not met Vinod Gupta before the date of incident.

34. Replying to the query made by the Court PW-3 stated that the site of dharna was at a distance of 40-50 steps from the place where gunshot was fired and the place of dharna was partially visible from the place of gunshot. He further stated that at the protest site 100-150 persons were present. Regarding audibility of the gunshot, he prudently deposed that the sound of fire shot was neither very loud nor low. According to the learned counsel for the appellant, to strengthen his stand that the sound of gunshot could not have reached the place of protest. he has also deposed during his statement that all the assailants immediately after firing left the scene and ran towards one and the same direction and that no one chased or went after them. It is no where mentioned that any person tried to raise alarm so as to reach to the place of dharna where according to the own statement of PW-3, 100-150 people were present and was at a distance of 40-50 steps, moreso when most of the persons belonged to the same political party of which the deceased was a designatory. Even a man of ordinary prudence would have raised an alarm in order to gather some people and defend himself particularly when, as is the case of the prosecution, a dharna at a very short distance was being staged by a large number of persons. In the above background the very holding of dharna on the date of occurrence becomes doubtful. The fact regarding dharna being held on the date of occurrence also stands specifically belied by the statement of PW-8 HC 53 Shri Krishna discussed onwards.

35. It is thus clear that PW-3 while replying the query of the court has stated that he was at a distance of 40-50 steps from the place of occurrence whereas in the cross examination he has stated that he was at a distance of 20-25 steps from the place of occurrence which though may be said to be a minor discrepancy but since both the versions were recorded on the same day and during a continued statement hence such an anomaly cannot be a natural variation of guess but may be due to pressure and zeal of making the statement in order to prove his case.

36. Likewise, the statement of PW-8 HC 53 Shri Krishna who prepared chik may also be relevant for unraveling the intricate evidence and bring home the true facts. PW-8 in his statement has clearly stated that on 8.7.2000 i.e. the date of occurrence he was posted as Head Moharrir at PS Tikonia and that on the same day he registered the chik FIR as Case Crime No. 41-200 under Section 302 against the accused persons on the basis of written complaint of Santosh Gupta but has not stated anything about protest or dharna being organised on the date of occurrence. He, however, during cross examination has stated in unambiguous terms that the Rail Roko Dharna (protest) was called at Tikonia Railway station on a day before i.e. 7.7.2000 and in order to ensure law and order, SI R.N. Singh, SI C.P. Bahuguna, Manoj Pandey etc were deputed for duty at the place of protest. To buttress his statement, he stated that this fact is stated by him by duly verifying and going through Report No. 12 registered at 10.05 on 7.7.2000 which is a part of the original GD. He further clarifies the scenario by stating that after the protest at Tikonia railway station was concluded, he had registered his return on the same day i.e. 7.7.2000 in Report no. 19, at 18.30. He denied the suggestion that FIR was registered after long gap of time and was shown after making improvement therein.

37. The above statement of witness of prosecution itself which is proved by documentary evidence, encompasses the entire story set up by the prosecution in the zone of strong suspicion regarding holding of dharna on the date of occurrence.

38. Now coming to the testimony of PW-1, if it is believed that the inquest report was drawn on 8.7.2000 at 5 pm whereafter the dead body was handed over to two police constables who alongwith the said witness left by tractor to reach the District Hospital at a distance of 80 km, the witness has revealed surprises in response to the queries in the cross examination than truth.

39. The untruthfulness multiplies when we look at the statements of hostile witnesses viz. PW-2, PW-4 and the statements of the inquest witnesses.

40. PW-2 Vinod Gupta the hostile witness in his deposition has stated that he was acquainted with the accused Ajay Misra alias Teni, Subhash alias Mama, Dalu and Pinky before the occurrence in question took place. He stated that Ajay Misra was a worker of Bhartiya Janta Party and other three persons were engaged in business at Tikonia. The house of Ajay Misra was situated in Tikonia and his Mill (factory) was situated in vilage Banbirpur. Before the incident he was State Secretary of Samajwadi Yuvjan Sabha and the deceased Prabhat Gupta was State Secretry of his own party.

41. Narrating the incident he stated that at 3 pm he went to Tikonia in connection with his business but he changed his mind and decided to meet deceased Prabhat Gupta whom he found on the road itself while going to shop from his house and he was also proceeding towards deceased's house to meet the deceased. He further deposed that before he met the deceased, he had seen the accused walking near the State Bank. As soon as when Prabhat came on the road, the accused persons started abusing him and they all exhorted to kill the deceased. According to him all the accused were carrying fire arms. Now the deposition which, at the first instance, seems to have led the prosecution to declare him hostile is that he in unambiguous terms stated that two gunshot were fired on the deceased by Subhash alias Mama while others were abusing and exhorting to do away the deceased. According to him the accused-assailant had also abused him and threatened to life. After sustaining the gunshot, he stated that Prabhat collapsed on the spot only then out of the four assailants two ran away in one direction and two towards other direction.

42. A bare reading of the aforesaid deposition, it is apparent that PW-2 who is claimed to be a eye-witness of the prosecution has stated that it was Subhash Mama who had fired both the gunshots on the deceased which caused fatal injuries to him and he was done to death on the spot. In the entire prosecution case, there is no mention of any third gunshot fired by anyone, though it is said that all the assailants were armed with guns. On the other hand, the informant who was admittedly not an eye witness deposed in his statement that first gunshot was fired on the temple of the deceased by Ajay Misra alias Teni while the second was fired by Subhas alias Mama. This statement was based on the information received from Sanjeev (PW-3) and Vinod (PW-2). Now as aforesaid Vinod Gupta (PW-2) the eye witness who is alleged to have given the information of the incident to PW-1 himself has stated that both the gunshots were fired by Subhash Mama and this fact has very conveniently been discarded by the prosecution by declaring the PW-2 as hostile. Thus, there appears to be material discrepancy in the testimony of the both the named eye-witnesses, be it in terms of the no. of accused, who gave the gunshots or the manner and direction in which they ran away in the presence of these witnesses.

43. In a recent judgement rendered in the case of Rajesh Yadav and another v.

State of U.P., reported in 2022 SCC OnLine SC 150, the apex court has dealt with the term 'hostile witness' and has specifically observed that a court is well within its powers to make an assessment of the matter, which includes the statement of a hostile witness for reaching to a correct conclusion. Relevant paragraphs 21 and 22 of the judgement are reproduced as under:

“21. The expression “hostile witness” does not find a place in the Indian Evidence Act. It is coined to mean testimony of a witness turning to depose in favour of the opposite party. We must bear it in mind that a witness may depose in favour of a party in whose favour it is meant to be giving through his chief examination, while later on change his view in favour of the opposite side. Similarly, there would be cases where a witness does not support the case of the party starting from chief examination itself. This classification has to be borne in mind by the Court. With respect to the first category, the Court is not denuded of its power to make an appropriate assessment of the evidence rendered by such a witness. Even a chief examination could be termed as evidence. Such evidence would become complete after the cross examination. Once evidence is completed, the said testimony as a whole is meant for the court to assess and appreciate qua a fact. Therefore, not only the specific part in which a witness has turned hostile but the circumstances under which it happened can also be considered, particularly in a situation where the chief examination was completed and there are circumstances indicating the reasons behind the subsequent statement, which could be deciphered by the court. It is well within the powers of the court to make an assessment, being a matter before it and come to the correct conclusion.

22. On the law laid down in dealing with the testimony of a witness over an issue, we would like to place reliance on the decision of this Court in C. Muniappan v. State of T.N., (2010) 9 SCC 567:

“81. It is settled legal proposition that:

“6. ... the evidence of a prosecution witness cannot be rejected in toto merely because the prosecution chose to treat him as hostile and cross-examined him. The evidence of such witnesses cannot be treated as effaced or washed off the record altogether but the same can be accepted to the extent their version is found to be dependable on a careful scrutiny thereof.” (Vide Bhagwan Singh v. State of Haryana, (1976) 1 SCC 389, Rabindra Kumar Dey v. State of Orissa, (1976) 4 SCC 233, Syad Akbar v. State of Karnataka, (1980) 1 SCC 30 and Khujji v. State of M.P., (1991) 3 SCC 627, SCC p. 635, para 6.)

82. In State of U.P. v. Ramesh Prasad Misra [(1996) 10 SCC 360: 1996 SCC (Cri) 1278] this Court held that (at SCC p. 363, para 7) evidence of a hostile witness would not be totally rejected if spoken in favour of the prosecution or the accused but required to be subjected to close scrutiny and that portion of the evidence which is consistent with the case of the prosecution or defence can be relied upon. A similar view has been reiterated by this Court in Balu Sonba Shinde v. State of Maharashtra [(2002) 7 SCC 543: 2003 SCC (Cri) 112], Gagan Kanojia v. State of Punjab [(2006) 13 SCC 516: (2008) 1 SCC (Cri) 109], Radha Mohan Singh v. State of U.P. [(2006) 2 SCC 450: (2006) 1 SCC (Cri) 661], Sarvesh Narain Shukla v. Daroga Singh [(2007) 13 SCC 360: (2009) 1 SCC (Cri) 188] and Subbu Singh v. State [(2009) 6 SCC 462: (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 1106].

83. Thus, the law can be summarised to the effect that the evidence of a hostile witness cannot be discarded as a whole, and relevant parts thereof which are admissible in law, can be used by the prosecution or the defence.”

44. Similarly in the case of Arjun and another v. State of Chhattisgarh reported in (2017) 3 SCC 247, following observations have been made in paragraphs 15 and 16 of the judgement:

“15. Though the eye witnesses PWs 1, 2, 7 and 8 were treated as hostile by the prosecution, their testimony insofar as the place of occurrence and presence of accused in the place of the incident and their questioning as to the cutting of the trees and two accused surrounding the deceased with weapons is not disputed. The trial court as well as the High Court rightly relied upon the evidence of PWs 1, 2, 7 and 8 to the above said extent of corroborating the evidence of PW-6 Shivprasad. Merely because the witnesses have turned hostile in part their evidence cannot be rejected in toto. The evidence of such witnesses cannot be treated as effaced altogether but the same can be accepted to the extent that their version is found to be dependable and the court shall examine more cautiously to find out as to what extent he has supported the case of the prosecution.

16. In Paramjeet Singh alias Pamma vs. State of Uttarakhand (2010) 10 SCC 439, it was held as under:-

“16. The fact that the witness was declared hostile at the instance of the Public Prosecutor and he was allowed to cross-examine the witness furnishes no justification for rejecting en bloc the evidence of the witness. However, the court has to be very careful, as prima facie, a witness who makes different statements at different times, has no regard for the truth. His evidence has to be read and considered as a whole with a view to find out whether any weight should be attached to it. The court should be slow to act on the testimony of such a witness; normally, it should look for corroboration to his testimony. (Vide State of Rajasthan v. Bhawani (2003) 7 SCC 291.)

17. This Court while deciding the issue in Radha Mohan Singh v. State of U.P. (2006) 2 SCC 450 observed as under: (SCC p. 457, para 7) “7. ... It is well settled that the evidence of a prosecution witness cannot be rejected in toto merely because the prosecution chose to treat him as hostile and cross-examined him. The evidence of such witness cannot be treated as effaced or washed off the record altogether but the same can be accepted to the extent his version is found to be dependable on a careful scrutiny thereof.”

18. In Mahesh v. State of Maharashtra (2008) 13 SCC 271, this Court considered the value of the deposition of a hostile witness and held as under: (SCC p. 289, para 49) “49. ... If PW 1 the maker of the complaint has chosen not to corroborate his earlier statement made in the complaint and recorded during investigation, the conduct of such a witness for no plausible and tenable reasons pointed out on record, will give rise to doubt the testimony of the investigating officer who had sincerely and honestly conducted the entire investigation of the case. In these circumstances, we are of the view that PW 1 has tried to conceal the material truth from the Court with the sole purpose of shielding and protecting the appellant for reasons best known to the witness and therefore, no benefit could be given to the appellant for unfavourable conduct of this witness to the prosecution.”

19. In Rajendra v. State of U.P. (2009) 13 SCC 480, this Court observed that merely because a witness deviates from his statement made in the FIR, his evidence cannot be held to be totally unreliable. This Court reiterated a similar view in Govindappa v. State of Karnataka (2010) 6 SCC 533 observing that the deposition of a hostile witness can be relied upon at least up to the extent he supported the case of the prosecution.

20. In view of the above, it is evident that the evidence of a person does not become effaced from the record merely because he has turned hostile and his deposition must be examined more cautiously to find out as to what extent he has supported the case of the prosecution.” The same view is reiterated in Mrinal Das and Ors. vs. State of Tripura (2011) 9 SCC 479 in para (67) and also in Khachar Dipu alias Dilipbhai Nakubhai vs. State of Gujarat (2013) 4 SCC 322 in para (17).”

45. The use of term ‘small weapons’ is also a vague and calculated, just in order to create corroboration between the statement of PW-1 and PW-4 and also to show ignorance about the name and description of the firearm. Though PW-4 has stated that the firearm could be a revolver or pistol but in the statement of PW-2 regarding the identity of weapon, he only used the term ‘pistol’. The declaration of PW-2 as hostile insofar as the identity of the persons who had fired gun shot is concerned, also creates suspicion in the wake of the fact the empty cartridges recovered from the site of occurrence were not sent for forensic examination which could have revealed the firearm from which they were shot. Now the use of term small weapon by PW-1 and PW-3 becomes more interesting as in the case of identification of the firearm, the term small weapon or expression of uncertainty regarding the type of the firearm could have helped in controverting the report but the Mention of “pistol” by PW-2 by a certain degree of certainty has further complicated the issue. Although, PW-2 stated that Subhas Mama has fired two pistol shots, but apparently there is no recovery of any fire-arms from the said Subhas Mama or for that matter from any accused person. We need not comment on the aspect that non-recovery of weapon is sine-quo-non for proving the guilt of any accused, but the fact remains that there is huge contradiction in the version of oral witness as to whether the gun-shots could be attributable to one accused or two accused. Further, admittedly, two empty cartridges were found on the spot and there is no investigation on the point as to whether they were fired by same weapon or by different weapon. Obviously, a ballistic report would have played wonders in that regard and would have cliched the issue as far as the prosecution story is concerned, however the same was not obtained and the only explanation comes from PW-9, that the investigation was transferred from him to some other Investigator.

46. With respect to the dharna/demonstration having been held on the date of occurrence, PW-2 has very specifically stated that there was no such demonstration on 8.7.2000 i.e. the date of occurrence and the protest which was continuing last several days had ended on 7.7.2000 itself and on that very day he and various designatories from the districts reached there and returned to Lakhimpur in the night. There is one more fact narrated by PW-2 which controverts the deposition of PW-3 is that the PW-3 in his statement had stated that all the accused assailants after committing the murder of the deceased ran towards one and the same direction whereas according to the statement of PW-2 out of the four assailants two ran away in one direction and two towards other direction.

47. PW-1 in his statement has also stated that he had informed the CID inspector that Anurag Patel and Vinod Gupta had come to participate in the dharna on 8.7.2000 and if T.B. Singh and the IO deputed after T.B. Singh had not mentioned the fact regarding Rail Roko Dharna on 8.7.2000 in his statement, he cannot tell the reason. It thus appears that the dharna was not called on 8.7.2000 but on 7.7.2000 and this truth rolled off his tongue in a minute after he said that Anurag Patel and Vinod Gupta had come to participate in dharna on 8.7.2000.

48. This fact is also fortified by the statement of IO T.B. Singh discussed in the earlier part of the judgement as well as the statement of PW-2 as aforesaid.

49. PW-4 Shivkumar who on his statement under Section 161 CrPC being read over to him, has flatly refused to have given any such statement and expressed an ignorance about the reason for such a statement being recorded and placed on record. However, the statement of PW-4 recorded under Section 161 CrPC said to have been discarded by him, is not on record before us nor there is any explanation regarding this omission. This also creates a suspicion as in the absence of the 161 CrPC statement, it cannot be brought to light as to what PW-4 initially deposed and what facts he denied in his cross-examination.

50. In his statement before the court he has stated that he knew the accused Ajay Misra alias Teni, Subash alias Mama, Rakesh alias Dalu and Shahibhushan alias Pinky but he has denied to have witnessed any of the accused murdering the deceased. He stated that at the time of incident he was present in his hotel. He deposed that he had heard about the murder but had not seen the deceased sustaining any gunshot.

51. In order to cover up the story regarding the distance of 90 kms to Lakhimpur having been covered in a long 12 hours journey on tractor trolley for the purpose of autopsy of the dead body of the deceased, PW-1 has deposed that after getting the dead body loaded on the tractor trolley after 5 pm he came with the dead body and reached Lakhimpur at 5 am and the reason as specified by PW-1 was that the since the driver of the tractor had worked in the fields throughout the day, he started taking rest. The deposition regarding the delay having been caused as the driver had taken rest on the way with the dead body loaded on the tractor does not inspire confidence, more interestingly, when PW-1 stated that he did not know as to who was the driver driving the tractor trolley. He also showed ignorance about the fact that the driver was resident of Tikonia or any other village. He also had no knowledge whether it was brought on rent or not. He stated that the tractor was brought by his son, however, neither his son nor the Constable who accompanied the dead body were produced or examined. He also admitted that he has not told this fact to anyone nor anyone asked about it. The statement of the PW-1 to the above extent also stands controverted by the statement of PW-2 who had stated that dead body of Gupta (the deceased) was sent to Lakhimpur for postmortem on a DCM or Mazda Mini truck, as also supported by the testimony of both panchayatnama witnesses (PW-5 & PW-6).

52. From the above it is clear that ample time was consumed on the way while travelling to Lakhimpur and during this period the witnesses sketch out the narration to be deposed by them so as to avoid any contradiction and to make out a foolproof case to entrap the accused Ajay Misra @ Teni in the commission offence but to their dismay PW-2 spilled the beans and their annoyance with the PW-2 resulted in declaration of PW-2 as a hostile witness.

53. From consideration and appraisal of the statements of the hostile witnesses PW-2 and PW-4, it appears that the facts deposed by the hostile witnesses which were not in keeping with the statement of other witness and were not in keeping with the case set up by the prosecution could have, in all probabilities, weakened the implication of convict respondent Ajay Mishra alias Teni and in order to allay this apprehension the two key witnesses were declared to be hostile.

54. The hostile witness PW-4 who is stated to be running a hotel near the place of occurrence had taken a somersault and went even to the extent of denying the fact that his statement under Section 161 was ever taken. He might have done so under some threat or in order to save his skin and distance himself from a case of murder involving major political parties.

55. In the above scenario, it would be apt to refer to a judgement rendered by the apex court in the case of Masalti v. State of Uttar Pradesh, AIR 1965 SC 202, wherein the Court observed as under:

"... under the Indian Evidence Act, trustworthy evidence given by a single witness would be enough to convict an accused person, whereas evidence given by half a dozen witnesses which is not trustworthy would not be enough to sustain the conviction. That, no doubt is true; but where a criminal court has to deal with evidence pertaining to the commission of an offence involving a large number of offenders and a large number of victims, it is usual to adopt the test that the conviction could be sustained only if it is supported by two or three or more witnesses who give a consistent account of the incident. In a sense, the test may be described as mechanical; but it is difficult to see how it can be treated as irrational or unreasonable."

56. Likewise in the case of Balaka Singh v. State of Punjab, AIR 1975 SC 1962, the apex court observed as under:-

"It is true that, as laid down by this Court in Zwinglee Ariel v. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1954 SC 15, and other cases which have followed that case, the Court must make an attempt to separate grain from the chaff, the truth from the falsehood, yet this could only be possible when the truth is separable from the falsehood. Where the grain cannot be separated from the chaff because the grain and the chaff are so inextricably mixed up that in the process of separation the Court would have to reconstruct an absolutely new case for the prosecution by divorcing the essential details presented by the prosecution completely from the context and the background against which they are made, then this principle will not apply."

57. In another case, namely, Ugar Ahir & Ors. v. State of Bihar, AIR 1965

SC 277, Hon'ble the Supreme Court while dealing with the maxim 'falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus', has made the following observations :

"The maxim falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus (false in one thing, false in every thing) is neither a sound rule of law nor a rule of practice. Hardly one comes across a witness whose evidence does not contain a grain of untruth or at any rate exaggerations, embroideries or embellishments. It is, therefore, the duty of the court to scrutinise the evidence carefully and, in terms of the felicitous metaphor, separate the grain from the chaff. But, it cannot obviously disbelieve the substratum of the prosecution case or the material parts of the evidence and reconstruct a story of its own out of the rest."

58. To the same effect is a recent judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Arvind Kumar @ Nemichand & Ors. vs. State of Rajasthan (2021 SCC Online SC 1099) , wherein Justice M.M. Sundresh J. speaking for the bench crystallized this principle as follows:

"49. The principle that when a witness deposes falsehood, the evidence in its entirety has to be eschewed may not have strict application to the criminal jurisprudence in our country. The principle governing sifting the chaff from the grain has to be applied. However, when the evidence is inseparable and such an attempt would either be impossible or would make the evidence unacceptable, the natural consequence would be one of avoidance. The said principle has not assumed the status of law but continues only as a rule of caution. One has to see the nature of discrepancy in a given case.

When the discrepancies are very material shaking the very credibility of the witness leading to a conclusion in the mind of the court that is neither possible to separate it nor to rely upon, it is for the said court to either accept or reject.”

E. Findings

59. On a careful analysis of the evidence available on records, we do not find that the statement of star witnesses PW-3 about the meeting of PW-2 at his house can be believed to be true, therefore the testimony of PW-3 to have met at home and accompanied with PW-2 by following the deceased, after having meal, remains doubtful. The facts of dharna was introduced to make the presence of PW-2 at the house of the informant as natural but the truth of the matter is that no such dharna was called on 08.07.2000 as is corroborated by the statement of PW-8.

60. Further, PW-3 was present along with the informant/PW-1 at the time of lodging of FIR and this fact has been noted in G.D, however his statement was not recorded at that time, but only on 10.07.2000. Although delay in recording of statement of eye-witness may not be fatal to the prosecution story, however the delay in recording of his statement would have to be viewed cautiously in the wake of other overwhelming factors like the statement of PW-2, another eye-witness named in the FIR, which is at stark difference to the testimony of PW-3. The statement of both these eye-witness are at variance to each other, relating to the gun-shots, as PW-3 names both Ajay Misra @ Teni and Subhas Mama as assailant, whereas PW-2 names only Subhas Mama as assailant. Further, there is material discrepancy in the version of how these accused persons flee away from the place of occurrence. PW-3 says that four accused persons ran away toward the Old kotwali, whereas PW-2 says that two accused flee away on one direction and the other two flee in the opposite direction. It has also come in evidence of PW-2 that it was he who had told about the incident to PW-3 and that PW-3 reached the spot after the deceased was done away. Further, PW-3 claimed that he along with the deceased and PW-2 had meals at the house of the deceased, whereas PW-2 says that he met the deceased at the place of occurrence and never went to the deceased house for meals. This court cannot be oblivious of the fact that the story of having meals as put forth by PW-3 and PW-1 is also at variance to the testimony of PW-8 and the post mortem report, which says that nothing was found in the stomach of the deceased and stated that the deceased would had meals at least 5-6 hours before he sustained the fatal injury. Thus, the story of having meal together by PW-2 & PW-3 with the deceased at the house of PW-1 is also highly unlikely.

61. Besides, PW3 & PW-2, the other eye witness of the incident as per the prosecution story is stated to be PW-10. Admittedly, PW-10 is not named as an eye witness in the FIR, although his name was known to the informant prior to lodging of the FIR. It has come in the testimony of PW-1 that on the spot of occurrence of incident, some persons including Shiv Kumar (PW-4) & Jagdish prasad (PW-10) told him about the said incident. Apparently, the statement of PW-1, makes both PW-4 & PW-10 as an eye witness to the incident but both of them were not named as an eye witness in the FIR nor their statement was recorded immediately. PW-4 has stated in his evidence that he reached the place of occurrence after 20 minutes and did not support the case of the prosecution and as such was declared hostile, whereas PW-10 as being found to be working for the last 20 years on the shop of the real brother-in-law of the informant supported the case of the prosecution. However, the statement of both PW-4 & PW-10 came to be recorded only after two months on 03.09.2000. The said delay is unexplainable and it is also not explained as to why PW-10 was not named in the FIR as an eye witness. Further, PW-10 in his statement says that he saw PW-3 along with one other person coming at the place of occurrence and on seeing the gun shot ran away to their house, whereas PW-3 has deposed that after the gun shot, he came to the spot and saw that his brother is dead and thereafter he rushed to his house to tell the informant (PW1). Thus, there are marked variance in the testimony of the witness. All these facts does not inspire any confidence in the statement of PW-10, which also shows that he was not present at the time of incident. Inordinate delay in recording his statement vitiates the investigation and creates serious doubt about correctness of his statement. Reliance is placed on (1971) 3 SCC 192 (Balakrushna Swain vs. State of Orrisa), (1976) 4 SCC 288 (State of Orrisa vs. Mr. Brahmananda Nanda), (1978) 4 SCC 371 (Ganesh Bhavan Patel & another vs. State of Maharashtra), (2016) 16 SCC 418 (Harbeer Singh & another vs. Sheeshpal and others).

62. Apparently, the Trial court has returned a finding that the FIR is ante-timed for cogent reasons. Anurag Patel, the scribe of the FIR & PW-2 are resident of Lakhimpur, which is at distance of 80 Km from the place of incident. The theory of Dharna pradashan on 08.07.2000 could not be proved by the prosecution. The presence of Anurag Patel and PW-2 is attributable to dharna pradashan, otherwise their presence at the place of occurrence would be highly unlikely. Thus, when the theory of dharna pradashan failed, obviously both PW-2 and Anurag Patel would had been called from Lakhimpuri after 3 PM i.e after the incident. Hence, FIR could not had been lodged at 3:30 PM, whose scribe is Anurag Patel.

63. Further, both panchayatnama witnesses i.e PW-5 & PW-6 have stated in their testimony that the panchayatnama was prepared in gas light at 11 PM in the night as the informant was somewhere outside. PW-6 has also repeated the same story and additionally told that at the time of panchayatnama the MLA of Lakhimpur Kaushal Kishore and several other leaders including PW-2 arrived from Lakhimpur. He also told that after the panchayatnama the body of the deceased was taken for post mortem on a vehicle, which belonged to the deceased. Evidently, it has come on record that the time of reaching of the body at Lakhimpur for post mortem was 5 AM on 09.07.2000. However, when the PW1 was asked as to the aspect of taking of the body for post mortem, although he says that the body was taken after the panchayatnama at about 5 PM on a tractor, however he was neither able to recall the name nor the manner in which the said vehicle was brought to take the said body. Even this fact seems to be a made up story of PW1 as firstly, both PW5 & PW6 have stated that PW1 was somewhere outside and the panchayatnama was delayed because of delay in coming of PW1 and certain politician who had to come from Lakhimpur. Secondly, the distance of the place of occurrence and Lakhimpuri is 80 KM and PW1 could not explain as to how and in what manner the tractor could have taken 12 hours to travel a short distance of 80 km and that too with a dead body. There is no cogent reasons to not believe the testimony of PW-5 & PW-6.

64. Further, from the testimony of PW-5 & PW-6, the presence of PW-2 at the place of occurrence also become highly improbable as it has come in evidence that PW2 is a politician based in Lakhimpur and he did not have any business to be done at the place of occurrence on the fateful day, especially when there was no dharna pradashan on that particular day. The entire facts apparently seemed to be a cooked up story. PW-2 apparently seems to be planted as a witness and that is why the story of dharna pradashan was brought into the picture, which miserably failed. Unfortunately, PW2 although declared hostile, but he has already spilled the beans and he stated in his evidence that PW-3 was not on the spot of occurrence, but it is he who has told PW-3 about the incident when he reached the place of occurrence. When the very presence of PW-2 becomes doubtful the entire story of the prosecution based on the testimony of hearsay evidence of PW-3 and PW-1 also crumbles down.

65. Further, according to the site-plan, the gun-shot fires were made from the range of within one step by the accused persons. If the same is considered to be correct, then certainly blacklining and charring must had been on the deceased, but the post mortem report does not reveal any such blackening or charring. According to statement of PW-7, fires were not made from close range because around the wounds there was no blacklining and charring. According to him, gunshot ought to have been fired from a distance. Thus, the testimony of PW-2, PW-3 and PW-10 relating to firing of gunshot falls flat as they are at variance to the scientific report.

66. Moreover, it has come in evidence that one bullet was found inside the body of deceased. If bullet could not pass through the body, this shows that velocity of bullet was not very high. This further shows that it was not possible to cause such injury from a distance of 1 step or for that matter from 3-4 steps. Apparently, if fire is made from a close range of one step, the entrance wound would be big whereas a fire made from distant range the wound would be smaller in size. In the present case, as per statement of P.W.9, the entry wound is of two categories, one being of 0.5 x 0.5 cm and another of 1 cm x 1 cm in size which demonstrates that story of firing from a distance of merely one step is highly unlikely and impossible. The test regarding close range gunshot wound was considered in catena of judgments. In Noor Khan Vs. State of Rajasthan (1964) 4 SCR 521 it was held as under:-

"10. There is discrepancy between the estimates given by the witnesses about the distance from which the fatal shot was fired by Noor Khan. Witnesses have estimated this distance as varying between 8 and 15 poundas - each pounda being equal to a step, or two feet. It appears however from the appearance of the injury and especially the charring and blackening of the wound of entry that the barrel of the gun could not have been at a distance exceeding 3 or 4 ft."

67. Similarly, in Janak Singh Vs. State of U.P. (1973) 3 SCC 50 it was opined as under:-

"13. The third contention was the one which Mr Dixit elaborated. His proposition was that the medical testimony contradicted the eyewitnesses' version and that contradiction rendered their account unacceptable. According to Dr. Ghosh's evidence, none of the three entry wounds showed any blackening or tattooing. Obviously, therefore, the firing did not take place from a very close range but from some distance at least. No doubt, the three eyewitnesses gave different distances ranging from two to six paces. But they could hardly be expected to have marked at the time the precise distance at which the person shooting the firearm was. They, therefore, gave an estimate of the distance at which he was from the victim. It is no wonder that the distances they deposed varied. Nothing can therefore, turn on such variation."

68. In A.N. Chandra Vs. State of U.P. (1990, Supp SCC 717) the Supreme Court held that :-

"8.... If the gun was fired from such a close range, there should have been blackening and tattooing but the doctor has not noted any such sign around the injuries. Further the direction of the injuries was from upside to downward and there was a dispersal of the wounds. If the gun was fired from a close range there could not have been such dispersal of the wounds. Further, we are unable to understand as to why the gun was kept loaded already."

69. The Apex court in the case of Swaran Singh vs. State of Punjab (2000) 5 SCC 668 in para 25 held that:-

"The evidence of PW 1 and the post-mortem reports was to the effect that the single wound on the right side of the chest of Shamsher Singh and several wounds on Amar Singh were blackened. "Blackening is caused by smoke deposit. Smoke particles are light. They do not travel far. Therefore, smoke deposit, i.e., blackening is limited to a small range." [See Forensic Science in Criminal Investigation & Trials (3rd Edn.), p. 280; Fisher, Svensson, and Wendel's Techniques of Crime Scene Investigation (4th Edn., p. 296).]"

70. In the instant case, the entry wound of deceased does not show of any blackening, the doctor had opined that gunshot must have been caused from a distance. If we examine this finding on the basis of analysis made by the Apex Court, we will not be able to hold that the story of prosecution that gunshot injury was caused from a distance of merely one step to be trustworthy. Thus keeping in view the aforesaid observations of the apex court vis-a-vis the opinion of the doctor, the gunshots must have been made from a distance of more than six feet.

71. Apparently, it has also come on record that Dharna pradarshan had been introduced at a later stage, just to show presence of Anurag Patel and Vinod Gupta (PW-2). PW-3 Sanjeev Gupta stated that shop was not opened due to Dharna Pradarshan. Hence, case of FIR that deceased was going to shop, becomes untrue and since the happening of Dharna Pradarshan has also not been proved, the presence of both the ocular witness PW-3 Sanjeev Gupta and PW-2 Vinod Gupta with the deceased on the spot is not proved as the manner in which this presence has been told, is not proved.

72. Hence, the presence on the spot of both the witness PW-3 Sanjeev Gupta and PW-3 Vinod Gupta is doubtful and not proved. So, hardly their statement can be taken into account. Deceased was done to death on the spot. Thus, the theory which has come that some unknown assailants came and fled after committing murder of the deceased on motor cycle as has come in evidence of PW-9 and also stated by PW-4 & PW-10 to PW1 at the time of Panchayatnama as has come in the testimony of PW-1, appears to be a probable story and implication of the accused persons may be on account of Ranjish (rivalry) and also on the basis of suspicion that these accused person may have hand in the murder. However, suspicion cannot take place of proof. Recently, vide a Judgment dated 11.08.2022, a bench of Justice B R Gavai and P S Narasimha, held that "It is settled law that the suspicion, however strong it may be, cannot take the place of proof beyond reasonable doubt. An accused cannot be convicted on the ground of suspicion, no matter how strong it is. An accused is presumed to be innocent unless proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt." in the case of Criminal Appeal No. 25 of 2012 (Ram Niwas Vs State of Haryana).

73. Thus, the Trial court rightly disbelieving the prosecution story has acquitted all the accused persons. It would be profitable to quote a judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Krishnegowda & ors Vs state of Karnataka, (2017) 13 SCC 98, wherein the apex court held as herein under:

"32. It is to be noted that all the eyewitnesses were relatives and the prosecution failed to adduce reliable evidence of independent witnesses for the incident which took place on a public road in the broad day light. Although there is no absolute rule that the evidence of related witnesses has to be corroborated by the evidence of independent witnesses, it would be trite in law to have independent witnesses when the evidence of related eyewitnesses is found to be incredible and not trustworthy. The minor variations and contradictions in the evidence of eyewitnesses will not tilt the benefit of doubt in favor of the accused but when the contradictions in the evidence of prosecution witnesses proves to be fatal to the prosecution case then those contradictions go to the root of the matter and in such cases accused gets the benefit of doubt.

33. It is the duty of the Court to consider the trustworthiness of evidence on record. As said by Bentham, "witnesses are the eyes and ears of justice". In the facts on hand, we feel that the evidence of these witnesses is filled with discrepancies, contradictions and improbable versions which draws us to the irresistible conclusion that the evidence of these witnesses cannot be a basis to convict the accused."

Conclusion:

74. This court finds that all the aforesaid aspects have been considered threadbare by the Trial Court. The evidence recorded in the present case has been appreciated in its correct perspective and the Trial court has at no point of time missed the woods of the tree. Thus, we do not find any perversity in the order of acquittal passed by the Trial Court and in any case, the law presumes double presumption in favour of the accused after a due adjudication by the trial Court. Further, on recording of the findings as aforesaid, we find that the prosecution has utterly failed to establish the chain of events which can be said to exclusively lead to the one and only conclusion, i.e., the guilt of the accused persons. In that view of the matter, we find that the judgment and order of the learned Sessions Judge to be a plausible and sustainable view, especially when the Trial Court had the advantage of seeing and assessing the demeanour of witnesses.

75. This court has also recorded its independent finding and holds that the theory put forth by prosecution that the four accused persons were liable for causing death of the deceased is unconvincing and shorn of evidence proved beyond reasonable doubt.

76. As a sequel to above, the appeal as well as the revision are therefore dismissed. The judgment and order of acquittal dated 29.03.2004 rendered by Sessions Judge, Lakhimpur Kheri in Sessions Trial No. 518/2001, under Section 302, 302/34 IPC, Police Station Tikunia, District Lakhimpur Kheri, acquitting accused/respondent no. 1 Ajay Misra alias Teni and accused/respondent no. 2 Subhash alias Mama under Section 302 IPC and accused-respondent no. 3 Rakesh alias Dalu and accused-respondent no. 4 Shashi Bhushan, under Section 302 IPC read with Section 34 IPC is upheld in the light of the discussions and findings recorded hereinabove. The bail bonds, if any, shall stand discharged.

(Paras 7, 9, 10, 13, 15, 16 and 17)

HELD:

It has been further held therein that anticipatory bail granted can, depending on the conduct and behavior of the accused, continue after filing of the charge sheet till end of trial.

It has been further held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that while considering an application for grant of anticipatory bail, the court has to consider the nature of the offence, the role of the person, the likelihood of his influencing the course of investigation, or tampering with evidence including intimidating witnesses, likelihood of fleeing justice, such as leaving the country, etc. It has further been held that Courts ought to be generally guided by considerations such as the nature and gravity of the offences, the role attributed to the applicant, and the facts of the case, while considering whether to grant anticipatory bail, or refuse it. Whether to grant or not is a matter of discretion. (Para 7)

The conduct of the applicants falls within the ambit of the law promulgated by Hon'ble Apex Court in Prem Shankar Prasad Vs St. of Bihar & anr., 2021 SCC OnLine SC 955. In the facts of the aforesaid case, charge-sheet was filed under Sections 406, 420 IPC against the accused and thus it was explicit that a prima facie case against the accused was found. From the record, it revealed that the arrest warrant was issued by the Magistrate against the accused and thereafter proceedings under Sections 82, 83 Cr.P.C. had been initiated pursuant to the order passed by the Magistrate. Only thereafter the accused moved an application before the trial court for anticipatory bail, which was rejected by the Sessions Court. (Para 9)

In fact this is the reason to believe that one may be arrested on accusation of having committed a non-bailable offence, that brings a person to seek a specific protection of anticipatory bail but if such a person himself creates a situation which places him under such condition where his arrest becomes inevitable, he makes an exit from the protection area of Section 438 Cr.P.C. The issuance of process under Section 82/83 Cr.P.C. reflects that the accused was not complying with the earlier process issued by the trial Court and he let it go in vain by showing his disrespect to it. In normal circumstances, a Court does not start with the process under Section 82 and 83 Cr.P.C. firstly summons are issued to the accused and then in an ascending order bailable warrant, nonbailable warrant are issued and if even then the accused remains absconding he becomes a proclaimed offender and process under Section 82 and subsequently under Section 83 Cr.P.C. are issued against him. (Para 10)

In the Sibbia case (supra) where the Hon'ble Apex Court had an occasion to comprehensively deal with the scope and ambit of the concept of anticipatory bail, it was observed that Section 438 CrPC is an extraordinary provision where the accused who apprehends his/her arrest on accusation of having committed a non-bailable offence can be granted bail in anticipation of arrest which, indubitably depends upon the discretion of the Court but such discretion should be exercised with due care, caution and prudence on the facts and circumstances of the case. It can no doubt be continued after filing of charge sheet till end of trial. (Para 15)

The idea of anticipatory bail strengthen the theory of personal liberty of a person but if it is explicit before the Court that such person is likely to otherwise misuse or has misused his liberty, the negation to grant of anticipatory bail to such a person is never violation of the provisions of personal liberty. Absconding in violation of the order of the Court is a grave misuse of personal liberty and that is why, " if any one is declared as an absconder/ proclaimed offender in terms of Section 82 Cr.P.C.", as held in St. of M.P. Vs Pradeep Sharma (2014) 2 SCC 171, " he is not entitled to grant of anticipatory bail. (Para 16)

Bail application rejected. (E-14)

1. This application has been moved on behalf of the applicants Sovaran Singh Adhti, Shivanand Shakya, Brijesh Kumar, Santosh, T.R. Shakya @ Tulsidas and Shyam Sundar seeking anticipatory bail in Case Crime No.231 of 2006 (Case No.6183 of 2011) under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 435, 436, 332, 353, 427, 341, 186

IPC, Section 3/4 Public Property Act and Section 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act, Police Station - Bhogaon, District-Mainpuri.

2. Heard learned counsel for the applicant, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

3. From perusal of the FIR it appears that in the case in hand a huge crowd of several persons was raising slogan and the roads were jammed demanding the arrest of some accused wanted in case crime no.226 of 2006 under Section 376 IPC and when the police force came at the spot, several persons including the present accused-applicants, being excited, started stone pelting upon the police force and some persons also opened fire upon the police with intention to kill. Roadways buses, bearing registration nos. UP75-B-9429, UP14-W-9707 and UP84-C-9487 and UP84-C-9171, were damaged and set to fire and public order was completely disturbed. The police with the view to disburse the crowd used force and in defence fire was also reciprocated by the police and some miscreants were arrested on spot. F.I.R. was lodged and investigation started. After investigation, charge-sheet was filed against 64 named accused-persons. Processes were issued by the Court to the accused-persons for appearance including the present accused-applicants, but they did not appear before the Court and the trial Court, in order to procure the appearance of the accused-applicants, issued processes under Sections 82 & 83 Cr.P.C. and they were declared proclaimed offender.

4. The preliminary objection has been raised by the learned State counsel that if the accused-applicants have been declared proclaimed offender, they are not entitled for the benefit to anticipatory bail.

5. It has been argued by the learned counsel for the applicant that applicants are innocent and they have apprehension of their arrest in the above-mentioned case, whereas there is no credible evidence against them. Allegations levelled against the applicants are false. After completion of the investigation, charge-sheet has been filed and cognizance has been taken by the Court concerned. It has been submitted that in case the applicants are granted anticipatory bail, they shall not misuse the liberty of bail and would obey all conditions of bail.

6. Learned A.G.A. opposed the prayer for anticipatory bail.

7. In this matter, it reveals that after completion of investigation, charge sheet has been submitted and cognizance has also been taken by the Court concerned. Summons were issued to the accused-applicants. Since the accused-applicants did not appear before the Court concerned, despite service, coercive processes were issued against them as they were absconding. In Sushila Aggarwal and others vs. State (NCT of Delhi) and another, (2020) 5 SCC 1, the Hon'ble Apex Court has settled the controversy finally by holding the anticipatory bail need not be of limited duration invariably. In appropriate case, it can continue upto conclusion of trial.

It has been further held therein that anticipatory bail granted can, depending on the conduct and behavior of the accused, continue after filing of the charge sheet till end of trial.

It has been further held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that while considering an application for grant of anticipatory bail, the court has to consider the nature of the offence, the role of the person, the likelihood of his influencing the course of investigation, or tampering with evidence including intimidating witnesses, likelihood of fleeing justice, such as leaving the country, etc. It has further been held that Courts ought to be generally guided by considerations such as the nature and gravity of the offences, the role attributed to the applicant, and the facts of the case, while considering whether to grant anticipatory bail, or refuse it. Whether to grant or not is a matter of discretion.

8. However, in the case in hand, process under Section 82 and 83 Cr.P.C. have been issued against the accused-applicants. The rejection order of the Sessions Judge, Mainpuri dated 19.12.2022 also corroborates this fact.

9. The conduct of the applicants falls within the ambit of the law promulgated by Hon'ble Apex Court in Prem Shankar Prasad Versus State of Bihar and Another, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 955. In the facts of the aforesaid case, charge-sheet was filed under Sections 406, 420 IPC against the accused and thus it was explicit that a prima facie case against the accused was found. From the record, it revealed that the arrest warrant was issued by the Magistrate against the accused and thereafter proceedings under Sections 82, 83 Cr.P.C. had been initiated pursuant to the order passed by the Magistrate. Only thereafter the accused moved an application before the trial court for anticipatory bail, which was rejected by the Sessions Court. However, subsequently anticipatory bail was granted to the aforesaid accused by the High Court and when the matter came before the Hon'ble Apex Court, it was observed like this.

"19. Despite the above observations on merits and despite the fact that it was brought to the notice of the High Court that respondent No. 2 - accused is absconding and even the proceedings under sections 82-83 of Cr. P.C. have been initiated as far as back on 10.01.2019, the High Court has just ignored the aforesaid relevant aspects and has granted anticipatory bail to respondent No. 2 - accused by observing that the nature of accusation is arising out of a business transaction. The specific allegations of cheating, etc., which came to be considered by learned Additional Sessions Judge has not at all been considered by the High Court. Even the High Court has just ignored the factum of initiation of proceedings under sections 82-83 of Cr. P.C. by simply observing that "be that as it may". The aforesaid relevant aspect on grant of anticipatory bail ought not to have been ignored by the High Court and ought to have been considered by the High Court very seriously and not casually.

20. In the case of State of Madhya Pradesh v. Pradeep Sharma (Supra), it is observed and held by this court that if anyone is declared as an absconder/proclaimed offender in terms of section 82 of Cr. P.C., he is not entitled to relief of anticipatory bail."

10. In fact this is the reason to believe that one may be arrested on accusation of having committed a non-bailable offence, that brings a person to seek a specific protection of anticipatory bail but if such a person himself creates a situation which places him under such condition where his arrest becomes inevitable, he makes an exit from the protection area of Section 438 Cr.P.C. The issuance of process under Section 82/83 Cr.P.C. reflects that the accused was not complying with the earlier process issued by the trial Court and he let it go in vain by showing his disrespect to it. In normal circumstances, a Court does not start with the process under Section 82 and 83 Cr.P.C. firstly summons are issued to the accused and then in an ascending order bailable warrant, non-bailable warrant are issued and if even then the accused remains absconding he becomes a proclaimed offender and process under Section 82 and subsequently under Section 83 Cr.P.C. are issued against him.

11. The Constitution no doubt guarantees protection of life and personal liberty of a person and this guarantee is enshrined in Article 21 of the Constitution of India, which pronounces that :

"21. Protection of life and personal liberty.- No person shall be deprived of his life or personal liberty except according to procedure established by the law".

12. The prevention of any encroachment upon life and personal liberty of a person is the goal of Article 21 and the rule embodied therein is meant to ensure the recognition, respect and enforceability of the rights of the people and should be treated as continuing mandamus with ultimate object of social justice in true sense and the provisions of bail are connotative to avow this philosophy but the question of bail arises only when the person is in custody. The custody of a person starts when on account of being an accused of an offence he is arrested and brought or surrenders before the Court and thus is deprived of his personal liberty; but this deprivation comes within the ambit of the words used in Article 21 i.e. "except according to procedure established by law".

13. At the same time, when we enter into the sphere of 'anticipatory bail' we find that the said term is not used under Section 438 Cr.P.C. which embodies the enabling provision. It can be taken as an anticipation of being arrested. In the landmark judgement of the Constitution Bench of Hon'ble Apex Court in Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia Vs. State of Punjab (1980) 2 SCC 565, it was that "a person seeking anticipatory bail is still a free man entitled to the presumption of innocence. He is willing to submit to restraints and conditions on his freedom, by the acceptance of conditions which the court may deem fit to impose, in consideration of the assurance that if arrested, he shall be enlarged on bail".

14. In the Case of Siddharam Satlingappa Mhetre Vs. State of Maharashtra (2011) 1 SCC 694 It was held as under:

"14. It is clear from the Statement of Objects and Reasons that the purpose of incorporating Section 438 Cr.P.C. in Cr.P.C. was to recognize the importance of personal liberty and freedom in a free and democratic country. When we carefully analyze this section, the wisdom of the legislature becomes quite evident and clear that the legislature was keen to ensure respect for the personal liberty and also pressed in service the age-old principle that an individual is presumed to be innocent till he is found guilty by the court".

15. In the Sibbia case (supra) where the Hon'ble Apex Court had an occasion to comprehensively deal with the scope and ambit of the concept of anticipatory bail, it was observed that Section 438 CrPC is an extraordinary provision where the accused who apprehends his/her arrest on accusation of having committed a non-bailable offence can be granted bail in anticipation of arrest which, indubitably depends upon the discretion of the Court but such discretion should be exercised with due care, caution and prudence on the facts and circumstances of the case. It can no doubt be continued after filing of charge sheet till end of trial.

16. The idea of anticipatory bail strengthen the theory of personal liberty of a person but if it is explicit before the Court that such person is likely to otherwise misuse or has misused his liberty, the negation to grant of anticipatory bail to such a person is never violation of the provisions of personal liberty. Absconding in violation of the order of the Court is a grave misuse of personal liberty and that is why, " if any one is declared as an absconder/ proclaimed offender in terms of Section 82 Cr.P.C.", as held in State of M.P. Vs. Pradeep Sharma (2014) 2 SCC 171, " he is not entitled to grant of anticipatory bail.

17. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Lavesh Vs. State (NCT of Delhi)(2012) 8 SCC 730 has clarified the legal position by holding that "12.....Normally, when the accused is "absconding" and declared as a "proclaimed offender", there is no question of granting anticipatory bail. We reiterate that when a person against whom a warrant had been issued and is absconding or concealing himself in order to avoid execution of warrant and declared as a proclaimed offender in terms of Section 82 of the Code he is not entitled to the relief of anticipatory bail."

18. Hence, no anticipatory bail may be granted to the present accused-applicants.

19. The anticipatory bail application is hereby rejected.
